WHAT THE OTHER FELLOWS SAY

The Fernie Free Press issued a remarkably fine special Christmas illustrated number.—Lethbridge News.

The Fernie, B. C. Free Press has issued a very handsome souvenir edition for Christmas. It is in magazine form, well printed, and is profusely illustrated with mining and other scenes, showing the rapid development of the town and district.—Toronto World.

The Fernie Free Press has issued a souvenir number of the most creditable character. It is handsomely bound in book form, well printed, and embellished with some really excellent photo-engravings. Pictures are shown of the immense coke oxens of the Crow's Nest Company and the coal mines and prominent buildings. From the facts which the Free Press presents to its readers in so attractive a manner it is certain Fernie has a splendid future.—Rossland Miner.

The Fernie Free Press has issued a Christmas number that is a peach. It is in book form, handsomely bound, and full of interesting reading matter and views of Fernie and that section. The publication is a credit to Editor Hacking and Manager Wallace, and should bring them a lot of shekels. What is more the people of Fernie should be proud of a bunch of fellows that can get out such an annual. The Tribune congratulates you, gentlemen.—Marysville Tribune.

The souvenir edition of the Fernie FREE PRESS has been received. The proprietors of the FREE PRESS are to be congratulated upon the very attractive edition they have issued. The work is profusely illustrated, not with views of far away places in which one has no interest, but with scenes and people well known to the Fernie people. This makes the work doubly valuable and interesting. The good people of Fernie no doubt fully appreciate the efforts put forth by the FREE PRESS in their behalf, if they don't, then they must be mighty hard to please, that's all.—McLeod Advance.

The Fernie, B. C., Free Press celebrates the completion of its third year of publication by issuing a special Christmas number that would be credit to any of the large Canadian dailies. It is beautifully illustrated, and printed on heavy book paper and tells in an entertaining way the story of the wonderful growth of the Crow's Nest town from 1897 when there was not a house where the thriving town of Fernie with a population of 3,000 now stands. During the past year over 50 stores and dwellings have been erected and every lot upon the townsite has been sold.—Winnipeg Free Press.

The Fernie Free Press has issued an exceptionally fine souvenir number. It contains a history of the new coal town from 1898, when there were but a few log huts in the place, up to 1902. Fernie is now a bustling, prosperous town of upwards of three thousand people and an excellent example of what may develop in at present unexpected places in British Columbia if the right sort of policy be pursued. The illustrations in this Christmas number are particularly interesting from the miles of coke ovens to the hundred or more of school children lined up in front of a modern school building. Fernie is not destined for a mere ephemeral existence. There is said to be enough coal around it to keep as many miners as can be employed busy for we do not know how many years—in any case for long after the present generation we hope, will be at all interested in heat-producing substances.—Victoria Times.

The FERNIE FREE PRESS has just issued a Christmas number. It contains a history of the town and states among other things that the population of Fernie to-day is 3,000, which entitles it to be regarded as the third largest town in the interior of British Columbia, Rossland coming first and Nelson next. Taking the present output of the Fernie mines as 2,000 tons per day and the demand of the Great Northern, as repeatedly stated by its representatives, at 10,000 tons a day, and adding to this the daily demands of the province which is 2,000 tons it will be seen how rapidly the town is destined to grow. If however the present requirements of trade are 12,000 tons a day it is not likely long to remain at that figure as the natural development of the west, on both sides of the line, will continue to raise it higher and higher every year, it looks therefore, as if the possibilities for business in this valley are practically unlimited, and that for some years to come, however rapid our development we shall overtake it, and in saying this we have no desire to create a boom or to suggest a speculative investment. Fernieites claim that they have a genuine foundation for industrial prosperity and that nothing short of chaos can prevent the growth of this district. The growth of Fernie during the present year has been considerable although there has been no undue rush. More than fifty stores and dwellings have been erected and every lot on the townsite has been bought and there is a clamor for more, so that there is no doubt that in the near future the authorities will be forced to extend the townsite in order to make room for the large influx of settlers which may reasonably be expected. This being the present state of affairs we cannot forbear looking backward and contrasting the past with the present; in 1897 there was not a house, not even an inhabited hut, between the Crow's Nest and the Kootenay river; the only means of getting through the country was upon the old Indian trail which had been traversed for so many years by the pioneer namesake of our town; with the advent of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company and its staff all this was altered."

There are a number of illustrations which are of much interest, including the coke ovens, Fernie in 1898, group of Fernie school children, scene on Elk river, etc. It is a most interesting and neat publication.—Nelson Miner.

One of the gems among the holiday productions is the Christmas Souvenir Edition of the Fernie Free Press. Besides containing a great deal of interesting descriptive matter it is handsomely illustrated. The printing, both as regards letter press and cuts, is done in the best style of the art. The publication gives one a splendid idea of the town of Fernie, the mines that are its backbone, and the surrounding district.—Vancouver World.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS MEETING

The Board of License Commissioners for South East Kootenay, held a special meeting in the Court House, Fernie, Dec. 31st. There were ten applicants before the Board all of which were granted. Frank McCabe, Wardner, for renewal, granted, subject to inspection.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA ILL.

An associaied press despatch says that the condition of Queen Alexandra is more serious than has been given out, and that it causes some anxiety. Doctors are in constant attendance upon her Majesty. A bulletin issued at noon today says the Queen is progressing favorably, but that the extensive arrangements made for Christmas festivities at Sandringham, including large shooting parties, have all been upset and that their majesties will spend Christmas at Marlborough House. The court circular of London last night announced that the journey of the King and Queen Alexandra to Sandringham, where they were to spend Christmas, has been postponed in consequence of a slight indisposition of her majesty. It was then understood that the state of the Queen's health was not serious.

It was announced later in the day that the Queen was suffering from a chill, but that her chill is not considered to be dangerous. It is expected her majesty will be able to leave her room in a few days.

CROW'S NEST HOCKEY ASS'N.

A meeting of delegates to form a Crow's Nest Hockey Association was held in Fernie, on Saturday, Dec. 28th. Representatives were present from Pincher Creek, Moyie, Fernie and Cranbrook. The delegates met in Levasseur's Hotel, at 8 p.m. Mr. A. C. Liphardt, of Fernie, took the chair, while W. A Ross was elected secretary pro tem.

A constitution was then framed, as also rules for games and rules for meetings. As these will all be published in book form in a very short time it is needless to detail them here.

The following officers of the Association were elected:

Patrons—Mr. Bury, C.P.R. superintendent; Dr. Green, Moyie; W. D. Hill, Cranbrook; C. Kettles, Pincher Creek; G. Levasseur, Fernie.

10. Moyie vs. Fernie, at Fernie, Feb. 6th.
11. Moyie vs. Pincher Creek, at Pincher Creek, Feb. 8th.
12. Fernie vs. Pincher Creek, at Pincher Creek, Feb. 10th.

MICHEL NEWS.

A goodly number took advantage of the invitations to the social given by the Ladies' of the Presbyterian congregation, on the evening of January 1st.

During the existence of Michel there has been about nine socials each surpassing its predecessors on accout of the increasing population. Some of the newcomers think we are having the first of everything.

Next Sabbath Mrs. Dale will be assisted by Rev. T. H. Wright and Rev. T. R. Peacock in special union services which will be held in the hall at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. We hope these services will be productive of much good.

The two boarding houses will soon be ready for occupation. Mr. McDevitt and Mr. Willy have rented them. Commercial travelers and other visitors will now have better accommodation, and the miners will feel that a long felt want is now supplied.

The Christmas special number of "The Fernie Free Press" was very much appreciated by those who were fortunate enough to procure a copy. It was certainly a work of art and literary skill. Regret is expressed by those who failed to purchase copies when in Fernie.

Our second Xmas Tree was a success financially. After paying all expenses a balance of $14 was left in the treasury. This amount will be expended in purchasing an oak table and a pulpit chair which when purchased will be the joint property of all the ministers and their congregations who worship in Michel.

R. L. Henderson has taken charge of the Government headquarters here. He is highly esteemed by the chief residents for his work as Constable. We hope that there will be little need for his services, which will be a good sign, indicating a sturdy growth in good morals amongst the residents.

A very pleasant social time was spent in the new hall on New Year's night when the ladies of the Presbyterian mission entertained a gathering of about one hundred people. The hall was well supplied with tables, and the various games were indulged in heartily. About 9:45 a short programme was rendered, after which refreshments were served. There was no charge and the large audience bespoke the appreciation. The ladies are to be congratulated on the success of the event. It is hoped that the different congregations will occasionally relieve the monotony of our hum drum existence, and by repeating these social evenings help us forget life's drudgery. The church in the west has a social function to perform, and where circumstances permit it should avail itself of the opportunity. Anything like rivalry or selfishness in these things is to be deplored, but to provide an evening of pure, wholesome, Christian amusement conducted in an humble way will do much to raise the church in the estimation of the men of the west, remove their prejudices, and lead them into touch with its worship and gospels. It will show them that the church is not the frozen up, hide-bound, or money-grabbing institution they consider it to be, but a force social and spiritual, which has the highest well-being of man as its object.

GOODERHAM IS BOYCOTTED.

ROSSLAND, December 31.—A strong feeling of indignation is being expressed all over Canada regarding the action of the Gooderham syndicate towards the employees of their mines in Rossland. Vigorous action is being taken to assist the miners in their struggle. The following article taken from the Vancouver World of December 24th, expresses the feeling of the workingmen of the west:

"The labor men of the province are asked to drink no more of Gooderham & Worts' whiskies; at least not until such times as the Rossland labor troubles in connection with the mines in which the Gooderham syndicate is interested are finally settled. The Vancouver Trades and Labor Council held its regular meeting last night and after a discussion of of the subject resolved to boycott the firm. This, perhaps, is the most aggressive action taken by the labor people against any of the firms who control the mine. Usually they are so situated that they are not getatable, but in this instance the men feel that they can hit one of the owners by another means. Gooderham, the manufacturer of whiskey, is connected with the syndicate of Gooderham & Blackstock, which owns the War Eagle and Centre Star mines at Rossland where the strike is at present in progress. Considerable of the productions of the distillery firm come to this province, and as the labor element forms a large portion of the population, the boycott will mean something. The action taken last night by the Trades and Labor Council was decisive and after the matter had been fully discussed. The other unions in the province will be asked to join in and make the boycott general. Besides inviting all subordinate unions throughout the province to join with them in eschewing any of the products of the Gooderham & Worts' distillery, in consequence of Mr. Gooderham's prominent identification with the Rossland mines, in which owners and employers have been at outs for some time past, it has been decided to extend the proscription to other large concerns in which Gooderham capital is invested, notably the Manufacturers' Life Assurance Company, and the Bank of Toronto.

Among the letters received by the Trades and Labor Council of Rossland, promising aid and support, are many rom the extreme east. The universal feeling of indignation is shown by these letters. One from one of the largest unions in Montreal, Quebec, is published in part;

MONTREAL, December 26—J. McLaren secretary Rossland Trades and Labor Council—Dear Sir: I wish to let you know that by a regular meeting we took action to boycott the products of the Gooderham & Worts distilleries; also we will not patronize the Manufacturers' Life Assurance Company nor the Bank of Toronto; and we have written to Mr. Gooderham to compel an investigation of the claims of the War Eagle and Centre Star mines. I remain yours fraternally,

ED BERTAURMEE,
Secretary Local Union No. 137, Brotherhood Carpenters and Joiners of America.

EATEN BY WOLVES

HORRIBLE FATE OF AN UNKNOWN MAN AT BASSWOOD, MAN.

Basswood, Man., Dec. 28.—A report has been brought to this section by Indians from the northwestern reserve lying between Newdale and Strathclair of the finding of the body of a man in that district. According to the story, the body was torn and eaten by wolves, which roam at will in large numbers in this part of the country. The remains could not be recognized, but it is presumed to be the body of a Galicianwho became lost and subsequently frozen during the recent severe weather. Another theory is, that the man while travelling alone may have been attacked by the large timber wolves, which are numerous and very ferocious in the north. It is understood the authorities will investigate the truth of the report.

While at work in the bush at the Riding Mountains a few days ago, George Murray, of Basswood, met met with a serious accident. He was cutting down a large tree when a heavy branch fell, striking him on the head and rendering him unconscious. He was picked up and serious results were apprehended, but with good care the injured man will recover.

An unfortunate runaway mishap occurred here on Christmas night. Rev. H. Feir, Presbyterian minister, was driving from Fairmont to Basswood, when his team of horses became uncontrollable and ran away. The ground was very rough and the reverend gentleman was thrown violently from the buggy, the animals continuing on their way and smashing the rig before being captured. Mr. Feir was not seriously injured. This is the second mishap of this kind that has occurred to him within the past few days.

EXPLOSION IN A POWDER MILL.

One Man Killed and Several Fatally Injured.

Scranton, Pa., Dec. 28.—An explosion in the Farrell mill of the Moosic Powder company at its Jeremyn works yesterday blew the mill and some adjoining buildings to pieces and broke windows for miles around. The shock was plainly felt in this city, a distance of fourteen miles. Jacob Hiller, who was in the engine room, was burned beyond recognition It is feared others were fatally injured. Scarcely a store or residence in Jeremyn escaped with a whole pane of glass. A Delaware and Hudson passenger train, which passed about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the explosion at the time of the accident, was swayed by the force of the explosion and the passengers screamed with terror as the train ggve a sudden lurch. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Sharpsville, Pa., Dec. 28.—An exposion at the old Sharpsville furnace yesterday morning wrecked the furnace plant and killed three men. Another workman was probably fatally injured.

A SAD MISTAKE.

A Man Bathes His Head in Muriatic Acid Thinking It Was Hair Restorer.

The East Grand Forks Courier says: "Andrew Floberg, in charge of the N. P. freight department at Moorhead, is suffering with a bald head, occasioned by bathing it in muriatic acid. Some time since, it appears that McNab, the popular druggist of the city across the Red, famous for his hair tonic, received a carboy of muriatic acid. For some reason it proved unsatisfactory and he ordered it returned. It was taken to the N. P. freight depot and left upon a barrel for a time. The name Macnab appeared on the bottle, and this proved a hoo-doo for Floberg. The carboy leaked and considerable of the fluid was upon the barrel. Floberg is said to have concluded that there was an excellent opportunity to try the famous hair tonic, and dipping his hands into the acid, saturated his hair with the first scoop He quickly discovered the character of the fluid, and ran hurriedly to some water, into which he placed his head and hands to ease the pain. When he removed his head from the water it somewhat resembled a billiard ball, save for the blisters occasioned by the acid. Both scalp and hands were badly burned. The unfortunate man was placed in the hands of a physician, and is rapidly recovering.

It was suggested by some heartless person that there was an opportunity for Macnab to show what his tonic could do.

ROBBERY AT CRANDALL.

Residents of Crandall, Man., were surprised to learn that George Elliott's store was burglarized last Thursday night and about $1,000 in Union Bank bills taken.

The robber or robbers were apparently scared away before a larger amount was secured as one of the citizens tried the street door and found it locked about ten minutes before J. Jordan, one of the clerks, arrived home, to find the door wide open and one of the cash tills partly robbed. Nothing new in the matter developed until the afternoon, when Mr. Todd, proprietor of a general store, came home to find that his store, which he had locked secure,y had been entered in his absence. The floor was covered with private papers and receipts, which tne burglars had thrown about in their search for money. Fortunately no cash had been left in the till, and up to the present time Mr. Todd cannot find anything missing except the locks and bolts from the back doors, which were broken in order to force an entrance to the store.

No clue to the robbery has been obtained, and it is considered fortunate that only $1,000 has been taken from Elliott's store, as there were several thousands on hand, all of which would probably have been taken had the miscreants not been scared away

WESTERNERS WOUNDED.

Albert Edmonds, of Balgonie, and N. G. Glass of Willoughby, Severely Wounded.

Ottawa, Dec. 27.—Hon. Joseph Chamberlain cables Lord Minto as follows: I regret to inform you that Albert Edmonds was dangerously wounded, and N. W. Glass was severely wounded, both at Zont Pan on the 12th December. Their fathers, respectively, are Harry Edmonds, of Ba gonie, Assa., and Wm. Glass, of Willoughby, Saskatchewan. Also that Sergt. W. H. Rea died of dysentery on the 19th of December at Bloemfontein. His wife is Mrs. Rea, Ottawa.

BRITISH CAMP RUSHED.

London, Dec. 27.—General Rundle reports that on the night of Dec. 24 Col. Firman's camp at Zefontain, consisting of three companies of yeomanry and two guns, was successfully rushed by a strong commando under De Wet. It is feared the casualties were heavy. Two regiments of Light Horse are pursuing the Boers."

DE WET AND TOMMY.

A good story of De Wet, just fresh from South Africa, has been immediately "commandeered" by the London Express.

Part of the East Kent Regiment, soon after the abortive conference between Botha and Lord Kitchener, was engaged in pursuing the wily Wet. Suddenly the guerilla chief turned on his pursuers and captured some of them after a hard fight. The Britishers, some of whom were badly wounded, were hurried along to the Boer hospital, where the wounded were put to bed, while their comrades who were sound in wind and limb, were made hospital attendants.

On the second day De Wet and Botha visited the hospital. Botha was smoking a cigarette, but DeWet had a huge pipe between his teeth.

One of the East Kents jumped up in his bed, shook his fist at De Wet, and said: "You bloomin' Dutchman you're the cause of this!"

De Wet took the pipe from between his teeth, and said: "You ought to think yourself lucky that you are allowed to lie there in peace, when there are better men than you, and me out there fighting. Wait till you get well, and won't I lead you a dance!"

Then turning to another East Kent he said: "Can I do anything for you!"

Tommy looked at De Wet in surprise; then he promptly replied, "Yes sir; give me a pipe full of 'bacca and match."

The Boer chief handed the soldier his pouch and a box of matches. Then he said: "You'll be released in a day or two."

A fortnight after the very same soldier was engaged in the eternal chase of De Wet and had the hard luck to be captured a second time, after receiving a nasty wound in the forehead, which made him unconscious.

Suddenly De Wet cried: "I've seen you before, haven't I? Yes, you were the chap I caught the week before last. Well, don't you get caught again, because next time we might have no tobacco and no handkerchiefs."

INDIANS ARE RESTLESS.

Buffalo Feast in Oklahoma Territory by Pawnees.

A dispatch from Guthrie, Okla., says the Pawnee Indians are on the warpath. An immense buffalo bull was so injured in being transferred from the Santa Fe stock yards to Pawnee Bill's ranche, south of the town, that he had to be killed. The meat was given to the Indians by Major Lillie for a buffalo dance. The Indians have been dancing and powwowing ever since. They say the vast herds of buffalo are coming back to this country, and many of them have notified the white lessees to vacate their ranches at once, because they wish to lay the fences low so that the buffalo will have the full swing of the country. The whites in the remote parts of the reservation are coming into Pawnee, and they report that the Indians are acting threateningly towards them. Pawnee Bill has placed mounted guards around his buffalo ranch for the Indians are camping in the timber west of there and in sight of the herd, and from their suspicious actions he thinks they intend to liberate the herd and perhaps kill them. The United States Indian agent at that point has been notified and has made a report to the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington.

ONTARIO HAPPENINGS

SHOOTING AFFRAY IN TORONTO STREETS ON CHRISTMAS DAY.

Toronto, Dec. 26.—A long standing difficulty between Herbert Turan and Frank Rich, reached a climax yesterday afternoon, and in the affray which ensued Rich was hit in the leg by a revolver bullet. Two shots were fired and Fsank McNamara, who was with Rich, had his leg grazed by one of them. Turan was afterwards arrested and charged with having shot with intent to k ll. The men had been enemies and about five months ago Rich was bound over to keep the peace. He and McNamara went to Turan's house and the latter shot at them. Rich is in the emergency hospital, but is not seriously wounded.

A STRANGE ARREST.

Sarnia, Ont., Dec. 26.—Inspector William Greer, of the provincial detective department in company with Detective R. G. Chamberlain, of the Dominion polise effected a sensational arrest in connection with the Eddy's Mills robbery.

About 3 o'clock on the morning of the 17th the general store of Kersey Bros., which also contains the post office at Eddy's Mills, a hamlet sixteen miles from Petrolea, was burglarized. The safe was blown open and a registered letter containing $1,150 addressed to Mr. J. McTaggart, of Alvinson, who was buying cattle in ehe neighborhood, was stolen. Messrs. Isaac and Walter Kersey, who kept the store and post office, slept in the building. They had attended a social near-by the previous evening, returning about 1 o'clock. Immediately after the explosion they gave an alarm at the hotel across the street. The statement was then being made that one of the windows had been forced; the other windows and doors having been locked and barred. As a result of an investigation conducted by the crown officer the Kersey Bros. were arrested on a charge of themselves having committed the robbery. The crown officers say that the story that the window had been forced from the outside was inconsistent with the situation as they found it. The Kerseys were brought before the police magistrate at Sarnia and remanded for a week, no evidence having been taken.

TUCKETT'S GENEROSITY.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—Following the pleasant custom of the late George Tuckett, the founder of the big Tuckett tobacco manufactory, President George T. Tuckett, his son, has presented each of the employees of the firm who have been in their continuous employ for 25 years, with a deed to a building lot, and also $225 to aid in the building of houses thereon. The fortunate ones are: Miss Cassie Taylor, Mrs. Elizabeth Joyce, Mrs. Mary Lavelle, George N. Harris and William Smith.

FATAL SHOOTING ACCIDENT.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—Mr. John Allan, a young farmer of Onondaga township, who has relatives in this city, died yesterday from a gunshot wound accidentally inflicted by himself while out shooting a week ago. He was 21 years of age.

FIRE AT HAMILTON.

Hamilton, Dec. 26.—A spark from one of the machines in the picking room of the Imperial Cotton company's factory fell on some loose cotton and caused a blaze yesterday morning that did damage to the extent of $1,500.

TORONTO POISONING.

Toronto, Der. 26.—James Moody, whose child died about a week ago, leaving him quite despondent, was found about 2 o'clock last night, lying in a downstairs room, suffering from laudanum poisoning. Beside him lay an empty bottle. Moody died at the emergency hospital early this morning without recovering consciousness.

A THRILLING RIDE.

Brandon, Dec. 26.—A young lad named Wilay had an experience on Tuesday afternoon which he will likely remember for some time to come. He was coasting down 18th street on his sleigh, when a freight train passed slowly over the C. P. R. crossing at this point. Being unable to stop his sleigh owing to the terrific speed at which he was traveling, he passed under one of the cars and came out the other side, contining his fast ride until the bottom of the hill was reached. His only injury was a black eye.

Example may be stronger than precept, but precept does a great deal of example's work.

MARKETS

WHEAT.

The market for Manitoba wheat has continued quiet during the past week, but with the advancing markets outside, buyers have been more willing to take on some wheat, and on Thursday several parcels changed hands at 3c per bushel over what could have been obtained the previous Saturday. On Monday there were sales for January delivery at 69c for 1 northern, and 66c for 2 northern in store Fort William or Duluth, and on Tuesday at same price. On Thursday forenoon, with strong American markets, 70c and 67c, but these markets having closed weak, 69½c and 66½c were the best prices in the afternoon. Friday, with still further weakness, 69¼c and 66¼c were best prices paid, and most buyers had by that time withdrawn from the market altogether. No. 1 hard is worth 72½c to 73c, in store Fort William, spot, or January delivery, and 3 northern 62½c.

In the United States there are some complaints as to the new winter wheat crop in the southwest not being in very robust shape to go into winter. Sufficient moisture has recently fallen, but after the long drouth the roots are puny, and the ground is bare of snow and ill-fitted to withstand hard frost. In other parts of the States the crop is in good condition. In Europe the reports of the winter wheat crops leave very little to be desired. The Argentine harvest is now well ahead, amid favorable weather, but the yield is certain to be small, and the quality of much of it inferior.

Liverpool Markets.—On Saturday the wheat market closed as follows: No. 2 red western winter, 6s 2d; No. 1 northern spring, 6s 2½d; No. 1 California, 6s 5d. Futures quiet; March, 6s 3¾d; May, 6s 4d.

Country Wheat—Farmers are not delivering wheat very freely owing to congested state of elevators, and at many country points there is no storage accommodation available at all. Prices range around 55c per bushel for best wheat at points where business is being done.

FLOUR—Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.10 per sack of 98 pounds; Glenora Patent, $1.95; Alberta, $1.75; Manitoba, $1,55; Imperial XXXX, $1.35; Lake of the Woods Five Roses brand, $2 per 98 pound sack; Red Patent, $1.85; Medora, $1.45; XXXX, $1.25.

MILLFEED—Stocks are very light, and prices hold as follows: Bran, in bulk, $18.50 per ton; shorts, in bulk, $19.50 per ton. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 per ton higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is worth $30 per ton delivered to the trade in Winnipeg. Oil cake is worth $27.

OATS—There is not very much carlot business moving here owing to the fact that local feed merchants are well supplied with street oats. Prices hold at last week's range. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bus.; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—Receipts are moderate; market unchanged. Malting grades worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY—Receipts of hay are ample for all requirements of the market and there is an easier feeling noticeable, coupled with a decline of $1. Dealers are now paying $5 to $6 per ton lor fresh baled hay in carlots on track in Winnipeg. Loose hay on the street is also worth $5 to $6 per ton.

DRESSED MEATS—The market is quieter now since the Christmas rush is over. There was a large trade done. Hogs hold steady at last week's advance, and there is no change to note in prices. Beef, city dressed, 6 to 7c per pound; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7 to 7½c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 10½ to 11½c per lb, dressed.

GAME—Rabbits are bringing 5c each.

BUTTER—Creamery—Very little is offering. Receipts are mostly in brick form and bring 21c per pound delivered in Winnipeg, for good stock Dairy—The market is pretty bare of good stock, and as high as 22c for pound is being paid for finest table qualities by commission houses. Ordinary stock is worth 17c per pound delivered in Winnipeg, and the range of prices is from 12 to 17c per lb.

EGGS—Manitoba stock is almost out of the market and weekly receipts amount to a few cases: Choice candled stock, 24 to 27c; strictly fresh laid, 35c per dozen.

HIDES—No. 1 inspected hides, 6½c per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5½c; No. 3, 4½c; kips and calf, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horse hides 50c to $1; frozen hides are worth ½c less.

The word "habit" is one of the most peculiar in our language. If you take off the first letter, you still have "a bit." If you remove the second, the word "bit" is still on hand. Decapitate that by removing the "b" and it is still a word. Take off the "i," and you find the old "habit" not "t" totally destroyed.

The Camphor Eater.

It is surprising what a number of camphor eaters there are among the well to do classes. The idea seems to prevail that this gum, taken in small and regular doses, gives a peculiarly clear creaminess of complexion, and scores of young women buy it for this purpose. The habit is, moreover, very difficult to cast off, for camphor produces a mild form of exhilaration and stupefaction, and in many instances where very large doses have been swallowed the habit has become a sort of slavery.

These camphor eaters all have a dreamy, dazed and very listless air, and in most of them there is an ever present longing to sleep or at least to rest. Extreme weakness generally follows the taking of regular doses, and I have seen cases where it has been almost difficult to tell the effects from those of alcohol. As to the complexion, if a ghastly pallor be an improvement camphor certainly produces it.

MRS. BARNETT, OF PLATTSVILLE, ONT.

CURED THREE AND A HALF YEARS AGO BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Further Proof of the Permanancy of the Cures Effected By This Great Remedy—A most Convincing Confirmation of an Interesting Statement Published in the Plattsville Echo in May, 1898.

Plattsville, Ont., Dec. 16.—(Special)—Some three and a half years ago, the Plattsville Echo, the local newspaper, published quite an extended account of a most miraculous cure of a well known and highly respected lady, Mrs. J. Barnett, who had been extremely ill for years, and who claimed to be permanently cured by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. This good lady, according to her own statement, had been a physical wreck, with nervousness, rheumatism in the left arm, pains in the small of the back, up the spinal column and back of the head, through the eyes, left side of the body and occasionally the right side. She had no appetite and could not sleep at night. The physicians had given her up, and in this pitiful and hopeless condition, Dodd's Kidney Pills found her and completely restored her to good health without an ache or pain. Her appetite returned as her general good health improved. She used in all but twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This was in the spring of 1898, and today Mrs. Barnett states positively and in the strongest and most grateful terms that the cure Dodd's Kidney Pills brought her three and a half years ago was absolute and permanent; that she is today stronger and better than she had been for years before taking the pills. Nothing could be more convincing than this good woman's plain and truthful statement, and it proves beyond doubt the lasting character of the cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

It is somewhat difficult for a man to support a wife if she is insupportable.

GROWING BABES.

Need Watchful Care to Prevent Overfeeding and the Evils That Follow

All children at some period of their infancy are subject to indigestion, diarrhoea, or constipation. While the symptoms of these troubles greatly differ, the origin of each is due to the same cause—improper food or overfeeding. This results sometimes in diarrhoea, sometimes in constipation. In either the treatment is to remove the cause, and this can only be speedily, safely and effectually done by the use of Baby's Own Tablets, a purely vegetable medicine guaranteed to contain no opiate nor any of the poisonous stuffs found in the so-called soothing medicines. Mothers who once use Baby's Own Tablets for their little ones never after experiment with other medicines, and always speak of them in the highest terms. Mrs. Geo. R. Johnston, Wall street, Brockville, says: "I have been using Baby's Own Tablets for over a year, always keep them in the house and always find them satisfactory. If my little boy—two years of age—is troubled with constipation, indigestion or diarrhoea, I give him the tablets and he is soon relieved. The tablets regulate the bowels and do not cause after constipation as many medicines do. I have also found them beneficial in teething."

Baby's Own Tablets are a certain cure for all the minor ailments of little ones such as colic, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, diarrhoea, etc. Children take them readily, and crushed or dissolved in water they can be given with good results to the youngest infant. Sold by druggists or sent post paid at 25 cents a box by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SMALLPOX IN FERNIE.

About a week ago a case of smallpox developed in a boarding house at the mines and at present there are six or seven cases. Prompt measures were taken by the authorities to isolate the patients and quarantine the houses in which any suspicion exists of the disease.

A single case in the town is all that is reported and the same effective measures taken to prevent any spread of the disease. Notices have been posted calling on the citizens to avoid assembling in any numbers and to give every aid to the authorities to stamp out the disease. The disease is of a very mild type and no great trouble is expected in effectually combatting it. There has been no spread of the contagion beyond those who were orginally exposed to infection.

A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

The year of 1901 has been in many respects one of the most remarkable in the history of Canada. Enterprises that had lain dormant or not been exploited have been brought to a successful issue; the business interests of the country increased enormously, new territory developed to a wonderful extent, and the nations across the sea brought face to face with the fact that Canada has all the attributes of a great nation. Foreign trade has increased by leaps and bounds and the inhabitants of the motherland have been forced to understand that Canada is no part of the United States. No longer in the great marts of England is good Canadian cheese, bacon and butter labelled "Made in America," but given its rightful Canadian designation. The profound ignorance so long displayed by the English people has been a source of wonder to Canadians, but the fact remained that Englishmen knew very little of Canada or its whereabouts until she forced the knowledge upon their minds during the sojourn of the Canadian contingent in South Africa. The gallant deeds of Canada's sons could not be hidden and Canada was recognized at last and its wares eagerly sought for. In this respect the war has done a great deal of good. The bright pages of recent history were greviously marred by the death of Queen Victoria and Wm. McKinley, president of the United States, but there has been much happiness and contentment to offset what were great national calamities. The year just past has been of remarkable activity in the west and in the good town of Fernie we have much to boast of in the progress made. Perhaps in no town west of Winnipeg has there been so much activity in building and general business enterprise and yet the town is but in its swaddling clothes.

The great coal industry is, we are authoratively informed, preparing in the immediate future to increase its output one half and the advent of the Great Northern Railway will bring a very large influx of population. It is believed that the new railway will be in operation before May Day and with it a new era of prosperity will begin. This year of grace has much in store for Fernie, and we take this opportunity to extend to all its citizens the cordial wish for a happy and prosperous New Year.

THE Fort Steele Prospector issued a very handsome Christmas number of sixteen pages, newspaper size. It contains some excellent illustrations and the matter is well written and appropriate. The Prospector is to be congratulated on the general appearance of the holiday number.

THE delegation appointed to confer with the board of directors of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., in Toronto, in reference to the mines store will have, no doubt, fulfilled its errand before this reaches the readers of the FREE PRESS. We understand that it would be the earnest endeavor of ihe gentlemen entrusted with the mission to effect a satisfactory settlement of the matter, and to use moderate and conciliatory means in so far as business and personal dignity would permit. We believe we voice the sentiment of the community generally in expressing the hope that wise counsels will prevail on both sides, and that an arrangement may be completed that will give satisfaction to all concerned.

EAST KOOTENAY NOTES.

By "Old Dad."

The policy of erecting suitable boarding houses at several terminal points on the Crow's Nest division of the C.P.R., suggested by Superintendent Bury, for the accommodation of the railway employees, is being inaugurated at Sirdar, by the erection of a $3000 first-class two storey boarding-house with stone basement and all the most modern steam heating appliances, reading and recreation rooms and permanent library. The plan of this establishment gives the ground area of 38x42 two storey high. First floor consists of dining room, reading room, library, parlor, kitchen, spacious halls, and stairs leading to the second storey, alloted into 10 bed rooms, bath room, lavatory, closets, etc. The stone basement was completed some two weeks ago. The lumber, shingles and and all other material for the building is on the ground and before this appears in in print Mr. W. A. McKinnon the well known bridge and building foreman, with his gang will be on the job. It is expected to be ready for occupation by the first week in February. This will supply a long felt want and judging from casual comment the foresight and friendly consideration of the Superintendent and of course the executive management of the road will be highly appreciated by the railway men. The accomodation afforded and the board supplied by the genial landlord of the one hotel in Sidar is equal to the best and superior to many in the district but there is not enough of it, especially when the attractions of Duck Lake to the sporting community is considered. Here within a stone's throw from the hotel and new boarding house, may be seen thousands of wild duck, geese and many other varieties of wild fowl. When the railway men move to their new quarters Mr. Benny will be able to comfortably put up all who desire to enjoy a season's shooting not excelled in any part of the Dominion. The Sirdar climate is simply beautiful, at the present moment the therometer registers 45 above zero and the weather is cool, balmy and exhiliarating.

A very important piece of work, also devised by Supt. Bury, is in progress at the dock here. Just outside the slip where the barges connect with the track for transfer of frieght cars and on the outside of the passenger dock where the steamers land passengers, it was found that the action of the river currents and the westerly winds caused a large deposit of mud to accumulate round the landing, making it difficult at this time of year when the water is low for the steamers and barges to get alongside the wharf. Mr. McCarthy's steam shovel has been improvised into a dredge and the mud dipped out just the same as the ballast is taken out of a ballast pit. The work for some days has proceeded satisfactorily at the rate of 100 feet per day and in about two weeks time there will be a channel for the passenger steamers and barges, this will simply be of inestimable advantage to the Company and all concerned. I don't know, but I should fancy the Provincial Government or the Dominion Government should contribute towards this expense. Trains and steamers run on time and with the greatest regularity. Now after four years ballasting and rebuilding, that the permanent way for the whole 400 miles from Dunmore junction has reached a stage of perfection that permits of passenger trains, with extreme safety, running 50 miles per hour. The passengers traffic over this section to the coast via lakes and Revelstoke should be considerably augmented during the coming summer and in fact at all seasons of the year.

The immense deposits of mineral, gold, silver, copper, iron, etc. in the mountain range surrounding Sirdar and along the west side of the Kootenay Lake has remained dormant for ages owing to many causes. The silver lining is now however in sight, for the results of one mans development in this vicinity when made known will assuredly cause a boom that will surpass anything experienced in the boundary or Slocan country in their palmiest days.

Some one has predicted that Fernie will be a town of 15,000 in five years, and the claim does not appear to be an extravagant one in view of the wonderful progress made by that place during the last two years.—Nelson Economist.

The directors of the Coal Co. were mailed copies of the Christmas FREE PRESS, and Mr. Thompson has received letters from nearly all, expressing their appreciation of the number in very flattering terms.

E. Kerfoot, has been playing in hard luck. He was notified at Greenwood that he had been accepted for the third contingent but being up at the mine did not receive the telegram in time. He followed on to Cranbrook but was too late, the vacancy having been filled. Mr. Kerfoot is now in town and has secured a position at the Coal Creek mines

Fatal Accident at Elko.

An Italian working in the Great Northern cut 12 miles west of Elko, was caught in a cave-in Dec. 31st, and fatally injured. He was working on the Twohey grade. Notice was sent to Magistrate Trites who proceeded to Elko to investigate. He could gain very little information as to the cause of the accident and could not even learn the name of the dead man, who had been sent to Elko by a pack team. The driver had handed him over to a young lad driving another team, who brought him into Elko, but knew nothing about him any more than he was dead. The coroner issued a burial permit after viewing the remains, but was far from satisfied as to the manner in which the dead man had been treated. A Dago more or less seemed to be of little account, and he empanelled a jury to hold an inquest January 8th.

Mr. P. Burns, of Calgary, is registered at the Royal, and will remain in town a day or so inspecting his business interests here.

F. J. Watson has been appointed agent of the Karn Organ and Piano Co., Woodstock, Ont., and will have a consignment in a few days.

A YEAR'S PROGRESS IN THE BOUNDARY

Just as the year 1901 is ending it is interesting to note the progress that has been made in the Boundary for the last twelve months. The figures that tell the tale are those of the tonnage—the amount of ore that has been shipped from our mines. These figures relate a truly wonderful story, and as it is a true story it is all the more interesting to the mining man and layman alike. Of the various shipping mines in the Boundary, there are three that are head and shoulders above all others. These are the Granby mines, the Mother Lode and the B. C. mine, each in a different camp. During the year 1900 these three properties shipped respectively 64,533 tons, 5,340 tons and 19,494 tons. While the final figures for 1901 are of course not yet available, the tonnage for all but a few days show that the increase of each is very large, as compared with 1900. For instance, the Granby mines, now the leaders in the province, have shipped this year about 230,000 tons, or more than four times the tonnage of 1900. The Mother Lode will have shipped about 87,000 tons, or 16 times the tonnage of 1900. The B. C. mine will have shipped about 45,000 tons, or more than twice that sent out in 1900. And this ore was nearly all smelted right at home. Of course, in making comparisons, it must be remembered that shipments only began in most of the mines late in the year 1900, after the railway into the Boundary with its branches, was finally completed. Nevertheless, the showing is a most encouraging.—Pheonix Pioneer.

A GODDESS OF AFRICA.

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

It would not be strange, for these tribes have coalesced on several occasions when a war was being waged upon their common bete noir, the white settler.

About the middle of the afternoon came a shock. A large force of the impis was discovered advancing straight towards the rocky mound which sheltered them.

At first Jim was of the opinion they were following the trail, but he presently changed his mind. It was more likely some lone scout had discovered their camp, spied upon them in spite of their precautions, and then carried his startling news to the nearest aggregation of warriors.

At any rate the result was the same.

They had discounted such a desperate climax—that is, having it before their eyes every hour and minute of the day and night, when finally the worst did break upon them, no one showed fear.

Perhaps there was a compression of lips, a flashing of determined eyes, and itching hands reached out for guns and pistols.

They were ready to give battle to the whole Matabele nation if need be, for such men do not count numbers when the fever rages in their veins.

Bludsoe was in his element.

He issued his orders as the recognized leader of the little company, with a clearness that told of perfect confidence.

Those under him were posted so as to command the vulnerable points of attack.

Even Rex, with his small experience in affairs of this kind, could see that so long as the ammunition held out, with ready arms to wield the Remingtons, were there ten times an hundred desperate fighters below, they could not carry the wilderness fort.

This so long as daylight lasted.

When night fell, the danger would increase; or should the supply of cartridges run short, so they would be compelled to fight hand to hand, there was a chance that the gallant defenders of the hill would be overwhelmed by superior numbers.

There was no longer a doubt with respect to the fact of their presence being known to the advancing blacks, who ran forward, jostling each other in their eagerness, brandishing weapons and uttering war-cries thrilling enough to chill the blood.

They reached the base of the rocky pile.

Not a shot had been fired—indeed, the defenders had not even disclosed their presence by any incautious act.

Jim was biding his time, just as Putnam did at historic Bunker Hill—each shot must count, and until the whites of the Matabele's eyes could be discerned, not a bullet should go forth upon its mission.

Pushing after each other the blacks were half way up the narrow defile when above the cries of the rabble sounded Jim's:

"Now!"

A flash—a tremendous crash that seemed to cause the very foundations of their rocky fortress to quiver, and the game was on.

For a score of seconds nothing was to be heard but the detonation of Winchesters, forming one fearful confused rattle, together with the shrieks of the wretches whom this whirlwind of lead mowed down in the cut.

Then the firing ceased.

There was no longer an enemy in sight upon whom further shots might be spent. The smell of burnt powder filled the air, and as the breeze lifted the canopy of white smoke a fearful scene was disclosed.

It was a murderous fire the Matabele had faced, crowded into that narrow defile as they were.

Flesh and blood could not stand it longer, and it was no wonder those who were able had backed out of the death hole to hide behind outlying rocky spurs, and recover their breath.

The defile was not so deep by a foot or two, as it had been before the mad assault, since it was carpeted with human bodies.

Bludsoe set the example to his men by replenishing his partially exhausted magazine, and then coolly awaited the next move of the enemy.

Their situation had advanced from bad to worse, for the noise of battle must have been heard for miles around, and by nightfall every black warrior within leagues of the rocky ramparts would be hurrying toward the scene of disturbance.

What then?

That night might be their last—upon those heights they would grapple with the grim monster Death, and fighting to the finishing gasp lay down their lives as became brave men.

Those who had escaped the slaughter did not appear to hanker after a second experience in a hurry.

They dodged about among the spurs of rocks, or else met incoming bands to place them in possession of the facts.

Thus the day drew near an end, with fully two hundred furious blacks in the immediate neighborhood of the rock fort, and others still hastening to the hub of the disturbance.

Just as the sun was sinking behind the range of ragged hills to the west, the suppressed enthusiasm of the impis again burst all restraint, and the warriors came pouring up the defile, at the same time trying to effect a lodgment in various other quarters.

Again the fiery blaze, again the crash of guns rolling like thunder over the neighboring kopjes, again men falling like ripe grain under the scythe of the reaper—and the name of that husbandman was Death.

Every man stood up to the task and did his duty nobly. When Jim swept his eyes around and noted the regularity with which they pumped the lead out of their magazine guns, he felt proud of them, proud of being associated with them.

Like the first made assault, this one also proved a failure, though the Matabele would not give up until they had lost frightfully.

This time they endeavored to counterbalance the effect of the torrent of lead which the besieged let loose, by a flight of assegais and various weapons.

Many of these failed to cover the distance and struck the face of the rock, only to fall back again; but there were some that had been hurled with muscular force that sent them among the defenders.

Red Eric had one in his thigh, luckily with little damage, the dauntless French professor was seen tugging at a shaft that had penetrated his coat and pinned him to the ground, while Bludsoe came within an ace of yielding up his life then and there, a keep pointed assegai grazing his head as he jerked back out of the way.

When the baffled assailants drew sullenly off, those on the heights breathed more freely. A few more such mad assaults and their limited stock of ammunition would be gone, when annihilation must ensue.

So the night swathed them about with her mantle of darkness. Never was night more ungraciously received, for in her train she brought new perils to the beleaguered little band of hardy adventurers—concealed by her dark robes the cunning enemy would seek to develop other schemes for overwhelming those whom they had twice assailed without result, save the decimating of their number.

Bludsoe foresaw great trouble ahead, and he endeavored to arrange for a saving in the line of ammunition.

Rocks were plentiful, and there was nothing to hinder them from accumulating these jagged fragments in certain places where they could be of the most positive value. When these were rained down upon the defenseless heads of the impis, the result must be disastrous. No doubt they would then screen themselves under their rhinoceros hide shields, but in so doing it would necessarily expose them to the full force of the pitiless streams of lead. Besides, when a rock weighing perhaps one or two hundred pounds drops some distance it is sure to acquire such frightful momentum that the unlucky savage below is apt to find himself flattened out like a pancake under his shield.

Burnham and his companion had conducted themselves as brave men should, and were of inestimable assistance to those whom they had so strangely met.

After the second repulse of the blacks, a council of war was held, and a definite plan of campaign adopted.

To remain just as they were was to give up all hope, since there were not enough provisions in the larder for another meal.

It was likewise folly to think of sallying out, since even if fortune were kind enough to allow of a passage through the ranks below they would be speedily pursued and overtaken.

Mr. Burnham proposed the only plan that contained any element of hope, and Jim Bludsoe fell in with it immediately.

The two horses had quite recovered from their fatigue, and were in good fettle for work.

What was to hinder the two scouts from making a bold dash through the lines. If they managed to escape there was a chance that help could be brought in time.

It was the only hope, and almost a forlorn one at that.

Few men would take the risk covered by such a ride, with the scales against them; but braver hearts never beat than those of the twain who plunged into a hostile country to rid South Africa of a monster.

Preparations followed, though but little could be done.

Every scrap of food and all spare cartridges they left with those who were to remain. Belts were tightened, saddle girths and bridles examined, and Burnham even partially muffled the hoofs of the horses the better to insure silence. His experience was apt to prove valuable under such conditions.

Hardly had the night settled in than they discovered something calculated to give them an uneasy feeling.

A fire sprang into existence, then another and still another, until a semicircle of flame stretched around the side of the rocky mound.

CROUP AND WHOOPING COUGH

Claim Scores of Thousands of Young Lives Every Year—Lives That Could as Well Be Saved.

It is a serious question with every mother as to how she can best combat croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and similar ailments, which are sure co suddenly attack the little ones at times least expected. The hollow, croupy cough comes with frightlul foreboding as it arouses the mother from sleep. She realizes the hopelessness of battling with a disease which often defies the most skilful physicians.

In croup above all other diseases prompt action is of the greatest importance imaginable. With Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine at hand any mother can effect almost instant relief when the children are struggling frantically for breath. By sheer force of merit it has won its way to popularity, and is known throughout this continent as the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that science has ever devised.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Is the most necessary preparation that can be kept in any house. For children and grown people alike, it affords the most thorough and prompt relief for all affections of the throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs. 25 cents a bottle, family size, containing three times as much, 60 cents, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

MAGISTRATE DAUPHINE'S DEPLORABLE CONDITION.

Despite Medical Treatment, He Became Weaker and Weaker, Until He Could Scarcely Sign His Name

Mr. James Dauphine, of East Bridgewater, or as he is better known as ex-Councillor Dauphine, has been a sick man for the past three years. His health gradually forsook him, until by degrees he was forced to give up doing all kinds of work. He consulted a physician and took a large quantity of medicine, but it did him no good and he gradually grew weaker and weaker. His duties as a magistrate necessitated his doing much writing, and being an excellent panman in his days of good health, it came very hard to him when his hand shook so much he could scarcely keep it steady enough to sign his name. His daughter, seeing his deplorable condition, advised him to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after a bit of coaxing he was induced to try them. There was no noticeable change in his condition until he had started taking the third box. From that on the improvement was rapid. He grew stronger every day, his appetite increased, the weariness and lassitude departed from his limbs, some of the lustre of his youth returned to his eye, and by the time five boxes were used, Mr. Dauphine felt a new man. The weight of years and the burden of sickness have rolled from his shoulders, his hands are now steady and his pen can run as rapidly as ever. He attributes his cure to the ministration of a good wife and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Dauphine is 73 years of age, but feels as young and vigorous as he did years ago, and is ever ready to praise in the warmest terms the health-giving qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the friend of the weak and ailing. They surpass all other medicines in their tonic, strengthening qualities, and make weak and despondent people bright, active and healthy. These pills are sold by all dealers in medicine, or can be had by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Karl's Clover Root Tea Cures Headache

-If a man loves a woman he offers to give up smoking, but if the woman loves him she refuses to let him do it.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

The national debt of Ireland, 150 millions, was consolidated with that of England in the year 1817.

Parmelee's Pills possess the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Carswell, Carswell P.O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills, and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

We always keep a bottle in the house ready for any emergency."

FROM SOUTH AFRICA

HEAVY LOSSES REPORTED TO BOTH BRITONS AND BOERS.

The engagements occurred Dec. 18, Dec. 19 and Dec. 21, at points widely apart. The casualties, so far as known, aggregate about 150, equally divided; but heavy British losses, the totals of which have not been reported, have occurred in the Transvaal.

Lord Kitchener also reports that during Gen. DeWet's attack on the British force commanded by Generals Dartnell and Campbell, at Langberg, Dec. 18, the Boers charged bravely and fought desperately for several hours. DeWet was driven off with the loss of twenty men. There were twelve casualties on the side of the British.

On Dec. 2, Botha, with 800 Boers, surprised Col. Damant's advance guard at Tafel Kop, Orange River Colony. The Boers rushed a kopje commanding the main body and the guns, but Col. Damant rallied his men and drove the Boers from the kopje. The British casualties were heavy. Damant was dangerously wounded; two officers and twenty men were killed and three officers and seventeen men were wounded. The Boers left six dead on the field and dispersed. The British pursued the enemy and captured a number of prisoners, including Commandant Keyter. Later the Boers, under a flag of truce, asked permission to remove their dead. They admitted having buried 27 men.

In the fight at Tafel Kop the Boers, dressed as British Yeomanry, engaged in a splendid race with the British in the attempt to be first in gaining the crest of the kopje. The Boers gained the summit first and fired on the single troop of Damant's Horse, which took part in the race for the kopje. These troopers took advantage of all the small amount of coves available, immediately below the Boers and fought until all but four of them were killed or wounded. By that time reinforcements of Damant's Horse came up and charged and captured the kopje.

A force of Boers, during the night of Dec. 19, attacked the British post at Elandspruit, but the burghers were driven off leaving eight men killed, including Commandant Kriese. Field Cornet Mahon, who was wounded, and three other wounded men, were also left on the field. The British casualties were seven men killed and six officers and eighteen men wounded.

In the eastern part of the Transvaal colony, Col Mackenzie attacked Commandant Smit's force of Boers at Lake Banagaher, Dec. 20, and killed six and captured sixteen of the enemy. Commandant Smit escaped.

RECENT CAPTURES.

Pretoria, Dec. 15.—General Delarey is reported to have been ill of enteric fever, but is now convalescent.

During his recent operations Lord Methuen has captured thirty-six prisoners.

Col. Minchin, in command of one of Thornycroft's mobile columns, has captured seven of Commandant Reider's men, including a field cornet.

FANATICAL RAVINGS.

British Soldiers Vilely Slandered By a Montreal Sunday Paper.

Montreal, Dec. 24.—A rabid and vicious anti-British article, signed "Wilfrid G.," presumably Wilfrid Gascogn, formerly Ottawa correspondent of La Patrie, appeared in Les Desbats on Sunday. The article treats with the reported murder of natives and captured soldiers by the Boers.

The writer states that for the most part the reports of Boer murders sent to the war office are nothing but lies, and asserts that the English always resort to lies when cornered or to cover their crimes. Even if such crimes are occasionally committed by Boer heroes, the writer claims they are justified in view of the killing of Boer families by degrees in the concentration camps.

He instanced several cases of imaginary massacres by British troops, then goes back to the Northwest rebellion and quotes Gabriel Dumont's "History of Batoche," attacking the 90th battalion of Winnipeg and other militia engaged, for the alleged tying of a wounded man to a horse's tail and dragging him over the country. Commenting on this, the writer says the history of English soldiers is always the same, and includes the 90th battalion in his general assertion that they are all "Catins."

The article, though a scurillous attack on Englishmen is laughed at as the ravings of a lightweight fanatic.

FIGHT WITH A MADMAN.

A resident of Selkirk, Man., named Wilson, who was employed as cook on the government dredge at the mouth of the Red river last summer, recently had an exciting experience with a madman on the northern shores of Lake Winnipeg. Wilson started out last fall with a partner for the lake to embark in the fishing industry. After selecting a suitable site they built a shack and started in to rob the lake of its piscatorial riches. The loneliness of the place and the monotony of the long fall days began to tell on Wilson's partner, and he acted strangely, being seized occasionally with fits of meloncholia.

Wilson paid no attention to the "blues" of his partner until they were forced upon him in a rather unpleasant manner. One morning he stepped outside the shack for a few minutes, clad in trousers, waistcoat and shirt sleeves. On going back to the door he found it had been locked against him. He asked to be allowed in, but admittance was refused him and for three days and three nights the unfortunate Wilson, clothed in his meagre garments, and with an equally scanty diet, was forced to live outside in the raw, cold atmosphere and get along as best he could.

On the morning of the third day of his exclusion from the delights of his own fireside, Wilson went to the door of the shack and begged to be let in; he was greeted with maniacal revilings and threatened with death through the instrumentality of a large butcher's knife. Finding his request for admission unavailing, Wilson tried to work on his partner's sympathies by saying that he was hungry and cold; the madman still remained obdurate. Then Wilson asked to be given his pipe and tobacco which he had left inside. The manaic seemed to consider this request as fairly reasonable, and cautiously opening the door to the extent of about an inch he thrust the articles forth. In the meantime Wilson was becoming desperate from famine and cold, and in order to obtain sleep was compelled to resort to an adjacent haystack and bury himself in the hay.

The madman, meanwhile, was laboring under the impression that he was being attacked by some person or persons, and at times could be seen through the window of the shack, with his knife in both hands, lunging at imaginative assaulters inside. Occasionally he would bury the point of the weapon into the board walls of the shack. On these outbursts, Wilson, despite his chilly surroundings, would feel warm all over with a sensation of gladness that his heart was not in the line of contact with the knife blade. When the morning of the fourth day dawned, Wilson renewed his request for admission, and the maniac, much to his surprise, told him to come in. But Wilson's troubles were not yet over, in fact they assumed a more menacing aspect. The madman continued his ravings and attacks on the persons who merely existed in his own disordered imagination. There was no real objection to this, but when he turned his attention to Wilson the case was different and a hand to hand struggle ensued. After a short but thrilling period of rough house, the madman was downed, disarmed and fastened in a manner calculated to prevent him from carrying out his murdrous designs.

With peace restored the hungry cook set about getting himself a good square meal. Then he had a smoke and cogitated as to what should be done with his unfortunate mate. The result of the rumination was that he secured help and took the man to Selkirk, where he was committed to the insane asylum.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Antiseptic For Intestinal Diseases as Cholera, Typhoid and Dysentery.

Ann Harbor, Mich., Dec. 24.—General interest has been aroused in the medical profession by reports of a discovery of unusual importance of the bacteriological laboratory of the University of Michigan. It is stated that experiments by Dr. Frederick Novy and Professor Paul C. Greer, a chemist, have produced what is believed to be an antiseptic for such intentinal diseases as cholera, typhoid fever and dysentery.

The preparation has been tried with success in experiments on small animals previously inoculated with intestinal diseases, and during the past week five medical students have been undergoing a course of experiments with the preparation. It is stated that they were restricted to a diet of sterilized milk, and that repeated chemical analyses during the period showed the utter destruction of the intestinal poisons.

FIRE NEAR HAMIOTA.

Hamiota, Man., Dec. 24.—The house of James Clarridge, a well known farmer living about three miles west of town, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday afternoon.

All the contents of the house were also destroyed, only an organ being saved. The loss will be about $1600 which is partly covered by insurance.

WESTERN NOTES

Navigation is still open at Port Arthur. Thunder Bay is clear of ice up to the elevator and breakwater, and there is nothing to have prevented steamers from carrying out Manitoba wheat all the month of December. The question of prolonging the season will soon be a live issue if the Northwest continues to produce as much wheat as it did during the past year.

He also raised a large crop of grain.

A meeting was held recently at Indian Head to consider the advisability of establishing a grain growers' association. A very interesting discussion took place, during which it was insisted that every other calling was organized, and that farmers would not be listened to if they set forth their grievances individually, but that if there were an authoritative body to speak for them and represent their grievances to parliament, the C. P. R. and other bodies, then effect would be given to their wishes. It was also suggested that the proposed organization should extend throughout the Territories. A grain buyer who was present said that although the grain trade was dealing fairly by the farmers, yet he thought organization would be a good thing. A great many excellent speeches were made, and ultimately a resolution was unanimously agreed to that an association be formed, and a committee was appointed to draft constitution and bylaws. The meeting was a very good one, and there was complete unanimity of feeling.

A notable family gathering took place at St. Andrew's, Man., on Christmas day, when Mrs. Truthwaite entertained fifty-seven members of her family, including sons, daughters, grandchildren and great grandchildren. Had an absent grand son been present with his family the number would have been increased to sixty-seven persons. The old lady—who is a daughter of the late Andrew McDermot, one of the founders of the city, was born in Winnipeg in 1826 (the year of the great flood) and is still hale and hearty, and may expect, in the natural course of events, to preside on many such festive occasions.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

Winnipeg, Dec. 26.—The heaviest sentence in the history of the police court here was given on Tuesday morning by Magistrate Baker in the case of Thomas R. Machaffie, a soldier of Fort Osborne barracks, convicted of breaking into Mr. F. W. Stobart's residence on Osborne St. His worship, in pronouncing sentence, pointed out that the very great penalty imposed by the law for cases of this kind. He referred to the chance the prisoner had of lessening his term of imprisonment, two or even three years, by good conduct, under the parole system. Machaffie's sentence was five years in the penitentiary.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES.

Officials of the Canadian Pacific railway say that their greatest car shortage this fall has been in Ontario, where there is a large quantity of grain and other freight to be moved.

The Halifax board of trade has passed a resolution favoring the transfer of the Intercolonial railway from the Domin on government to the Canadian Pacific Railway company. The object is to secure for maritime province ports the ocean-going traffic of the great Canadian highway.

Under the pure food law of Minnesota several creameries in the southern part of the state are being prosecuted for under-reading the testing apparatus when taking in cream from farmers. It is claimed that farmers have no knowledge of the Babcock test and that they can easily be cheated in this way.

So far Col. Dent, the British war office representative, has purchased 7,567 horses in Canada this year and is authorized to buy 340 more for the new contingent. The total of 7,907 horses will represent a money value of nearly $1,000,000.

For the ten months ending October 31 the United States exported to Great Britain 345,300 head of cattle and 246,000 head of sheep, an increase of 47,000 cattle and 131,600 sheep over the same time last year. From various sources Great Britain received $167,000,000 worth of dressed meats. England's exportations of breeding stock to this and other countries fell off practically 50 per cent from last year.

The retail merchants of a Minnesota town secently tried a new method of attracting trade which is said to have met with considerable success. The plan was to hold a free-for-all public auction, in which all the farmers of the surrounding country had the privilege of bringing in anything of a saleable nature which they might possess and offering it for sale free of all expense. The merchants provided an auctioneer and provided all expenses of the day's sale, and, incidentally, extracted a good deal of business and fun out of it. Many of the articles put up for sale realized more for the owners than they could have been bought for new, while others that were of real value had hard work to find purchasers. A band was employed throughout the day to play popular music, which added greatly to the interest in the affair. The merchants who arranged the sale announce now that they will hold the auctions regularly.

Nine years ago the United States government began importing reindeer to Alaska. In all about 1,006 were brought in, and now there are over 5,000. The land is well adapted to the deer, there being an abundance of the same reindeer moss they live upon in Lapland and Siberia. One driver can manage nine deer, each hitched to a sled and all strung out in tandem fashion. Each deer can pull 400 pounds and make 75 miles a day without difficulty

THOROUGHFARE GAP

BY M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.

Lee was moving to invade Maryland and Pennsylvania. The mountains hid his marching columns from sight of the Federals, and at every gap in the Blue Ridge he left a force with instructions to hold out to the last and give him all the time possible to reach and cross the Potomac. It was the aim of the Federals to break through at some point and penetrate his movement, and there was fighting on every mountain trail and at the mouth of every mountain gap. The major general had said to the brigadier ordered to proceed to Thoroughfare gap:

"I do not know how many Confederates are holding that gap, but be the number 500 or 10,000 you must break through. That is the order—break through. If only one man of your command is left alive, he will bring us the news we want."

And the major general on the Confederate side had said to the brigadier:

"You will detach one regiment of your command to hold Thoroughfare gap. It must be held against the Federals for three days. We can spare only a single regiment. If there is but one man left alive at the end of that time, he will follow on and overtake us."

A narrow wagon road, twisting and turning between walls from 20 to 100 feet high, with alternate spots of sunshine and gloom—that was Thoroughfare gap. As the skeleton regiment of 600 Confederates entered it and pressed forward to its western mouth, its ruggedness and gloomy solemnity brought a feeling of awe. It reminded them of a tomb, and they shuddered to think of dying in the semidarkness. Two fieldpieces rolled along with the regiment of infantry, and the jar of the heavy wheels loosened a stone now and then to come clattering down from far above. When a blue brigade came clattering up, it was to find the 600 in possession and the position one which the dullest private must see was well nigh impregnable. Every hour was worth a thousand lives to the Federal army, and the Federal brigadier lost no time in beginning the attack. In the open he would have gobbled up that skeleton regiment at a dash. Behind a rocky wall hastily thrown up, with no way to get at the enemy except in front, his surplus of men did not count. At the sound of the bugles they dashed forward with cheers, but not a man got within five rods of the wall. Grape and canister and bullets tore the lines to pieces. It was tried again and again. The orders were to break through the gap. A thousand dead and wounded would be a cheap price for the information to be had at the other end. Artillery was brought forward to batter down the wall, but it could not be placed to advantage. The pieces had only been fired once when their crews lay dead or wounded and the carriages were shattered. The Federal brigadier rode back and forth and stormed and swore and almost wept.

"Whether 500 or 10,000, you must break through!" were the orders, and if he failed to carry them out his career as a soldier was at an end. An army of 200,000 men was waiting to checkmate Lee. A whole nation was waiting to hear the splash of Confederate feet in the waters of the Potomac. The men in blue could hardly form company in the mouth of that defile. A charge against the wall meant death to every other man, but they formed up and charged and cheered and—died. After half a day of bloody fighting the Federal brigadier rested. He was still bleeding from a wound when he opened a dispatch and read:

"You have one of the best brigades in the corps, and it is certain you are opposed by only a handful of Confederates. By 9 o'clock in the morning you must have authentic news of Lee."

The brigadier had sacrificed 600 men that day, and he could not believe the Confederate loss to be over 50. There was but one way to reach them on the morrow—over that stone wall. He would drive them or die with the last man. There was no jollity in the Federal camp that night. Men will sing or joke as they swing into battle line in the open, but these men peered into the darkness of the gap and thought of the dead in front of the stone wall and spoke to each other in whispers. It was a brave sight to see them swing into line as the sun gilded the tree tops. Every face had its pallor, and every eye looked into the midst of death, but there was no lagging or faltering. You saw them tightening their belts and setting their jaws as they waited, and you held your breath for the signal which was to send them to death.

On the other side of the stone wall there was no exultation. The dead and the wounded were comparatively few, but every hour would add to the number, and only one day of the three had passed. The colonel knew what was coming and prepared for it. When the blue lines, ten deep, came dashing forward, they met with such a hail of iron and lead that the first three or four were blotted off the face of the earth. Then, under the smoke cloud, some of them wounded and all desperate, the other lines crept forward, and the wall was reached. It was a hand to hand fight now, and every man was a devil, and after a quarter of an hour of bloody fighting the Federals held the position. The dead lay three deep below the wall, but the living stood upon its crest and cheered and cheered again. But the cheering soon died away in growls and oaths. A quarter of a mile above, at a bend of the ravine, there was another stone wall, and the Confederates had simply withdrawn to the new position. They had lost 150 men, but the Federal brigade was no longer a brigade. It lacked a full regiment. That night the brigadier had another wound, and again there were orders from the major general:

"We must have news of Lee at every hazard. Unless you break through at once your resignation will be accepted."

A dark and narrow ravine, up which only eight men abreast could make their way at once; at the turn a stone wall, defended by two guns; behind the guns the muskets of the infantry. "You must break through," repeated the brigadier over and over again. He knew that he could not do it. He knew that the best he could do was to pile up more dead in the dark ravine. When morning came, he stood on a knoll and looked down upon the sun bronzed and waiting veterans, and it was like a knife in his heart to give the order to attack. A single bugle call, and the column dashed forward. There was never a cheer nor a shout. Men who feel that they are going to certain death do not cheer. They draw a long breath, choke back the gasp in the throat and rush forward with heads down. In ten minutes it was all over. The wall had been reached and fought over, but it could not be held. As the last few living Federals came limping back the brigadier sat down and wept. Orders, orders, orders! And yet he felt himself a murderer. More Confederates had fallen, but the force was yet strong enough to hold the gap. If he could not carry it, he would be disgraced. Like the brave man he was, he took the one way out of it. At high noon the column was formed again, and the brigadier put himself at the head of it. Officers groaned and privates murmured to see him there, but he was firm. He led in the dark—he was the first to reach the wall—he mounted it and cheered his men in the fight which won it. But when it was won he lay among the dead, and the Confederates retired less than half a mile to a third wall. Two days had passed, and yet the Federals had not broken through. Then another brigade came marching up, and there was another brigadier to take command. He saw the situation as the dead general had seen it, but he had less feeling. Column after column was formed up and dashed against that third wall and driven back, but in the end he won. It was 20 lives for one every time, but under his orders he could have doubled the sacrifice.

At dusk on the evening of the third day the last Confederate infantryman had passed the gap on his way to the Potomac, and the head of the column was in Pennsylvania. Lee had played his card and won. Not a gap had been carried, and the news of his whereabouts had come from other sources. There was a last stone wall in Thoroughfare gap. Behind it 100 Confederates crouched and waited. Their two fieldpieces were useless for the want of ammunition, and their muskets were alone to be depended on. As the sinking sun filled the ravine with deeper gloom 500 Federals made a last charge. They had to tread the dead under foot to do it. That was the fourth charge of the day, and it was checked as the others had been. It simply meant more dead and wounded to choke that narrow way. Hundreds had been dragged out, but hundreds still remained. When night came down, 50 men with powder stained faces, who had scarcely broken their fast or closed their eyes for 70 hours, silently marched out of the gap and headed for the north in the wake of the invading army. There was no colonel, no captains, no lieutenants. A sergeant commanded the remnant, and his command was:

"Out of h—ll and into Pennsylvania—forward—march!"

And when the long night had passed and daylight come again the Federals found the stone wall undefended and clambered over it and ran to the mouth of the gap to shout to each other:

"Lee has passed, and we are too late!"

LOST HIS BUSINESS!

Ill-health "puts the shutters up" in many an honest man's business, and there are thousands of cases on record where the only seeming power on earth to take them down again is South American Nervine.

"I was completely prostrated with Nervous Debility. I had to give up business—doctors only helped me temporarily. I was the most discouraged man alive when I started taking South American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had read gave me hope, and I had not taken half a bottle before I found relief. I took twelve bottles, but am cured."—E. Errett, Merrickville. a

COAL FROM CANADA

Will be Shipped to Montana in a Few Months

Butte, Mont., Dec. 26—"Within a few months the Crow's Nest Southern Railway will be completed and Montana will be receiving coal from Canada," said D. D. Twohy, of the firm of Twohy Bros., railroad contractors, to a reporter for the Butte Inter Mountain this morning. "J J. Hill, in defending himself concerning the proposed Northern securities, speaks of his development of the industries of the Northwest and of his new road as a good example."

Mr. Twohy has just returned from the Kootenay country, where his outfit is engaged in the construction of the new road, which leaves the Great Northern at Jennings, Mont., and taps the coal fields of the upper Kootenay district in British Columbia.

"Although this road is but 100 miles long," added Mr. Twohy, "it is in many respects the most remarkable and complete piece of railroading I have ever seen.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the Crow's Nest coal mines are situated on the very summit of the Rocky Mountains, there is absolutely no adverse grade from the mines to the main line of the Great Northern, 100 miles distant, and the grade to the mines is only about sixtenths of 1 per cent.

"Leaving the main line at Jennings on the west side of the Little Bitter Root range, the road follows the bed of the Kootenay River for a distance of 60 miles to the Canadian line. At Elko it crosses the Canadian Pacific, and runs parallel with it for 20 miles through Elk River canyon to Fernie, the seat of the coal mines. Every five miles a sidetrack 3,000 feet long has been built, regardless of what had to be encountered in the expense of construction, thus giving it almost the facilities of a double track railroad.

"The work on the Montana side will soon be completed and track-laying has already begun, but on the Canadian side the work is much heavier, and was delayed, presumably owing to the difficulty in securing the right of way.

"The company, however, expects, on good authority, that there is coal enough at Fernie to keep a big mine in operation for a century to come. It is soft coal and of a very excellent variety."

"STIFFLED" HEART

Ever feel that every breath would be your last that the thumping, stifling sensations about your Heart were crushing your life out?

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the only absolutely unfailing remedy known and prescribed by eminent physicians. Its claims of potency are not heresay or false hope to the sufferer. It is not a spirit lifter to gather you up to the high pinnacle of expectancy only to drop you into a deeper mire of disease. It gives relief in thirty minutes. A few bottles cure the worst forms of heart malady. 3

J. J. HILL'S RAILROAD

Line Projected to Tap Coal Fields.

It has been definitely decided to build a connecting link between the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific west of the Rocky mountains. The line will extend from Kalispell, Montana, on the main line of the Great Northern, to a point on the Northern Pacific, west of Missoula.

It is reported that the party of Great Northern surveyors who have been in the district for the past three months making a complete survey will be ready to report plans and specifications by March 1st and the work of construction will begin thereafter as sson as bids can be received and contracts let.

It developes that President James J. Hill had the building of this line in view when he began negotiations for the control of the output of the Crow's Nest Coal Company's mines here, and the merging of the Great Northern with the Northern and Burlington. The road will be primarily a coal road and will be constructed for the purpose of furnishing the Northern Pacific and the Burlington with coal.

"While I do not want to be known in the matter, you can say that the proposed line south from Kalispell to connect with the Northern Pacific will be built next summer," said a St. Paul railway contractor "I am not at liberty to give the source of my information, but I am positive of the facts. It will not be definitely known what the route will be until the surveyors now engaged on the work make their report, but enough is known to say that the road will follow the western shore of Flathead lake, thence down the valley of the Flathead River to a junction with the Northern Pacific probably in the vicinity of Jocko, 44 miles west of Missoula.

"The disiance between Kalispell and Jocko is about 65 miles, air line, and the distance by rail will not exceed 90 miles. The Crow's Nest coal fields will thus be reached by building a line north from Columbia Falls to the international boundary or rather connect with the Montana and Great Northern from Jennings at a point near the international boundary. The Crow's Nest coal fields will thus be reached by about 75 miles of road, making the total distance from the coal mines to Jocko about 170 miles. The distance from Jocko to Butte via the Northern Pacific is 172 miles.

"The Great Northern to deliver Crow's Nest coal via its own line to the smelters at Butte would have to haul it about 625 miles over the steepest grades on its system, hence the cost of hauling would more than equal the difference in revenue if hauled by the shorter route, which will not exceed 350 miles. It is a purely business proposition, and, with two roads working in harmony under the consolidation, is bound to be a good one, and is but another instance of the business acumen of President Hill."

Corroborative evidence of the building of the proposed cut-off was given yesterday by a railway contractor who arrived from Jennings yesterday morning, after having completed a contract on the Jennings branch. He said: "I have seen with regret the efforts of the people of Kalispell to hypnotize themselves into the belief that the so-called Kalispell-Libby cut off will be built by the Great Northern, and that the route will run south of the present mainline. This cut-off will never be built. The Jennings branch to the Crow's Nest coal fields is to be made a part of a new line which will cut out Kalispell altogether.

"A road is to be built north from Columbia Falls along the north fork of the Flathead river, thence west to connect with the Jennings branch at Tobacco Plains. There are two feasible routes. One is north along the north fork to Yak-in-i-kak creek, thence west to its headwaters and across the divide to Grave creek, down which an easy grade is found to a connection with the Jennings branch, near the international boundary. The second route is to extend the line along the north fork of the Flathead river into British Columbia, thence west to connect with the Crow's Nest Southern."

MORE BOQUETS.

The publication of the Christmas number of the FERNIE FREE PRESS is an illustrated magazine of 49 pages, well got up and containing much information about the town of Fernie and the coal mines.—Fort Steele Prospector.

The FERNIE FREE PRESS issued a Christmas supplement that was a credit to the publishers and the town. It was in book form, handsomely bound, and filled with clear cut illustrations and interesting reading matter. Wallace, the business manager, and Hacking, the editor, make a good team, and the business men of Fernie should show material appreciation of their efforts. An edition like the one they issued is worth a good deal to a town. Boys, you got out a fine piece of work, and you deserve both credit and com for it.—Cranbrook Herald.

The Christmas souvenir edition of the FERNIE FREE PRESS has reached this office. The edition is gotten up in magazine form and printed on heavy book paper. It is profusely illustrated with clear halftone cuts, has some well written articles, and shows a good healthy advertising patronage. The Leader has only one fault to find. In Mr. Blakemore's article on Southeast Kootenay not a line is devoted to either the town of Moyie or the St. Eugene mine. While this is very unfair, still the blame can not be laid at the door of the publishers. It is the writer of the article who deserves censure. It is a creditable edition and one that reflects great credit on Messrs. Hacking & Wallace, its publishers.—Moyie Leader.

NEW COKE INVENTION

It may Revolutionize the Coke and Gas Industry.

Professor T. S. C. Lowe, of California, the inventer of water gas, has just perfected another invention, which, it is expected by some authorities, will revolutionize the coke and gas industry.

The business of putting the process into general use has been taken up by the National Coke and Gas Company of No. 11, Broadway, which concern has been organized under the Jersey laws, with a capital of $5,000,000. General B. F. Tracey, ex-secretary of the navy, is president of the company.

In speaking of the new Lowe coke and gas system a gas expert said:

"Our enormous production of iron and steel has created a demand that cannot be supplied for hard steel or metallurgical coke, and the making of hard steel coke by the beehive oven process is not only very costly in the labor required, but one-half of the value of the coal used is wasted, the gas all going off into the air.

"In the Connellsville region of Pennsylvania about 30,000 tons of coal are used in the beehive ovens each day, producing about 20,000 tons of coke, but the gas absolutely wasted every day would supply four cities of the size of Greater New York. This gas if saved and sold at even 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet would be worth $90,000 daily.

"A method has long been looked for that would recover the coke from coal and at the same time save the gas instead of turning it into the air. Professor Lowe's system permits of this, the coke and gas being made from the same coal, in the same ovens, at the same time with the same heats.

"Long continued tests with a plant in operation, under the supervision of the ablest experts in this country, have shown that with the Lowe system more than 80 per cent. of hard steel coke is recovered and at the same time there is saved 15,000 cubic feet of mixed coal and water gas. The coke can be produced in twenty-four hours, which is half the time required by the beehive oven process. It can also be said of the new system, while saving both of the valuable products of bituminous coal it takes less than half the labor required by the beehive ovens."

CANADIAN BANK OF COMMERCE.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce issued its general statement last week, covering six months to Nov. 30th, the shareholders at the last annual meeting having consented to change the date of the annual meeting, which necessitates the closing of the books, Nov. 30 each year. The earnings were the largest in the history for a similar period, and were $477,595, dividends take $280,000, and after transferring $63,000 to bank premises and pension fund, $134,000 is added to the balance of profit and loss. The circulation has reached $7,269,266, or within a million dollars of the circulation of the Bank of Montreal. The public deposits have grown to $51,679,365.

THE KITCHENER IRON MINES.

A despatch from Montreal states that the Canadian Pacific syndicate, which last summer purchased a group of iron claims near Kitchener, from C. P. Hill and associates, had recently acquired four more for $25,000, and had bonded the remainder of the properties owned by Mr. Hill and associates. This means that the Syndicate is satisfied with the result of the extensive development work which it caused to be done on the properties, to demonstrate the extent of the iron ledges and the fittness of the ore for iron and steel making. It also means that the syndicate has determined to go on with the plan made public several months since of extensively developing the properties, and erecting iron and steel plants close to the location of the iron deposits. It is certain, too, when work is resumed in the spring, that it will be on a large scale. In this work a constantly increasing force will be employed, and when the iron and steel plants are finished they will furnish work for an indefinite period for hundreds of men, skilled and unskilled. This determination of the syndicate to go on with its plans means a great deal to the Province, and will be of considerable help to Nelson. It will give Kootenay another resource to stand on besides gold, silver, copper, and lead mining.—Nelson "Miner."

STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT.

Perhaps the most startling announcement of modern times is that the special rights of "The Man from Glengarry" have been sold to the publishers of the Family Herald and Weekly Star, Montreal, and that it will be immediately commenced in serial form in that wonderful paper. As may be imagined, the price is large, for the story, "The Man from Glengarry," is undoubtedly the best story of the year. Everyone should read it. It is cleverly constructed and beautifully written. No man or woman in this country will now want to admit that he or she has has failed to read Ralph Connor's great book, for the Family Herald is regularly taken in upwards of one hundred thousand homes, and it has secured the prize, for "The Man from Glengaery" is a prize indeed and a rich one.

A despatch from London says, the King's health is all that can be desired. He is anxious that the impression should go abroad that he is in excellent health and devotes a great deal of his time to the despatch of business.

Paul Jarvis, lately resident of Winnipeg, was appointed secretary of the Toronto Board of Trade, to succeed E. A. Wills, resigned. There were sixty applications.

Services at Christ Church on Sunday next will be as follows: Morning prayer and Litany at 11 a.m. Sunday School at 2.30 p.m. Evening prayer and sermon at 7.30 p.m. An earnest invitation is extended to all.

A number of pessengers for Victoria, B.C., were on board. Captain Hall, the master of the Walla Walla is a brother of the late Winslow Hall and Osner Hall, the original owners of the Silver King Mine. As far as is known there were 45 passengers and crew lost.

The production of $13,021,000 during the year 1901, as it was won under the most disadvantageous circumstances, is a result which the people of the Kootenays and Yale may point to with pride. The conditions were adverse enough to discourage the most optimistic, but the mine owners by adjusting their affairs to changed conditions were enabled to keep on and worked their properties at a profit.

The total [illegible] sent out by the mines in Pa[illegible] vicinity in 1901 was as [illegible] Grandby Mines, Phoenix camp, [illegible]; Winnipeg mine, Wellington camp, [illegible] tons; Athelstan mine, Wellington camp, 500; Snowshoe mine, Phoenix camp, 1,731 tons; B.C. mine, Summit camp, 47,405 tons; R. Bell, Summit camp, 500 tons. Total shipments for the whole boundary country as furnished by the Phoenix Pioneer are 380,000 tons, which at an average value of $6 per ton makes the value $2,280,000, which is three times the value of ore production for the previous year.

A HUNTER'S HEROISM

TRAGIC TERMINATION OF A FOX HUNTING EXPEDITION.

Winnipeg, Jan. 6.—A fox hunt that ended disastrously for the participants occurred last Tuesday at La Broquerie, on the Canadian Northern railway. Two of the local trappers and hunters in that vicinity by the names of Jean St. Germain and Francis Gautier, having heard of a family of silver foxes somewhere in the neighborhood, laid careful plans for capturing the prizes, and having made all preparations, started in pursuit of the animals on Tuesday morning.

Both were armed with rifles, and equipped for a day's travel in case of necessity. Early in the day they came upon the tracks of what they supposed to be their high-priced game, and followed the trail with enthusiasm for some miles into one of the most sparsely settled and most rugged portions of the country.

After several hours' pursuit they paused for their mid-day meal, which they had scarcely finished when they heard the peculiar bark of a fox in the woods beyond, apparently not far away. Snatching up their weapons they made a dash in the direction of the sound, hoping to get a shot at the quarry, and thus bring the hunt to a successful termination. St. Germain was in the lead, closely followed by Gautier, and the men scrambled in feverish haste over the rough and broken ground.

Suddenly Bautier stumbled and fell. His rifle was accidentally discharged, and at the same moment St. Germain threw up his hands with a cry of pain, and fell to the ground pierced through the leg by the bullet from Gautier's gun, which shattered the bone. He attempted to rise, but was unable to walk and finally fainted from loss of blood.

Gautier at once realized the terrible nature of his situation. By means of the sashes which bound their waists he managed to bandage St, Germain's wound and stopped the flow of blood which was fast draining his life. The wounded man regained consciousness, but was utterly unable to walk or even to place his foot to the ground. He had frequent fainting spells from the combined agony of the wound and the weakness incurred by loss of blood. To add to the horror of the situation, he became tormented with thirst and cried piteously to Gautier for water, which the latter was unable to furnish.

The wounded man finally lapsed into semi-consciousness, and nothing remained for Gautier but to desert his comrade and seek assistance or carry him on his back over the weary miles that separated him from friends and civilization.

After considering the situation he chose the latter and heroically determined to save his comrade or die in the attempt. By this time the short winter day was drawing to a close and as near as he could judge they were fifteen miles from La Broquerie, and on the route they had come not a human habitation had been passed. The only possible chance was to retrace his steps and carry his unconscious comrade with him.

Leaving their guns and other equippage on the spot, Gautier bound his friend to his shoulders by means of ropes, so as to leave his hands free to assist him in pushing his way through the scrub and underbrush and started out on his terrible tramp.

It was near midnight when Gautier staggered with his unconscious friend into La Broquerie and roused his friends. When assistance came he fainted from sheer exhaustion, and it was not till the next day that the story was related to the amazed people who took care of the men and nursed them back to life.

"I was pretty badly exhausted," was the remark of Gautier, in relating the story. Half of the time I staggered along in a kind of a dream, scarcely knowing where I was going or what was on my back.

"I finally lost all sense of pain and all I could tell was that I must keep going. I was afraid of losing consciousness and had sense enough left to know that I would freeze to death if I fell asleep. Funny dreams came into my head and my mind wandered. Sometimes I felt that I had been caught under a mountain and was trying to crawl from under the awful weight on my back. Part of the time I crawled on my hands and knees and often I fell flat on my face.

"I lost the trail," concluded Gautier, "and it was by sheer good luck that I found my way to La Broquerie. I caught sight of a light in a window and staggered blindly towards it. I do not suppose it was over a mile away, but it seemed hours and hours before I came near the house."

St. Germain was brought into the city by the first train and every effort was made by the physicians to save the injured leg. It was decided, however, that amputation would be necessary.

EXPLOSION IN A CHAPEL.

Sacred Heart Institute, Duluth Badly Damaged.

Duluth, Minn., Jan. 2.—The explosion of a boiler in the basement of the Sacred Heart institute here last night, resulted in a loss of several thousand dollars to the building, while the seventy persons who were within at the time, narrowly escaped being killed.

Devotions were in progress at the time in the chapel and Bishop James McGoldrick was just pronouncing the benediction when the explosion occurred. Fragments of the boiler came up through the floor and every window in the entire structure was completely shattered. To add to the peril of the situation, the woodwork took fire above the boiler room, but the prompt arrival of the fire department soon had it under control. No one was seriously injured.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

Marquette, Man., Jan. 1.—This morning a trainman reported at the telegraph office here that an Indian was found lying dead near the side track at the west end of the yard. The sectionmen were notified, and they brought the body to the station on a hand car and left it in the freight shed for identification. The chief of police and coroner arrived on the evening train. Chief Elliott found papers on the body showing deceased to be John McNabb, who lives south of Reaburn, near the river, and is a married man with a family. This was confirmed later by a telegram from Reaburn saying Mr. McNabb had been at the Reaburn station last night and had started in this direction to follow his horses, which were running away. It is supposed he lost his way and wandered along the track to Marquette until he was overcome with the cold and frozen to death.

DISASTROUS FIRES.

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE AND RAT PORTAGE SUFFER HEAVY LOSSES.

BUSINESS BLOCKS AND STOCKS OF MERCHANTS DESTROYED.

Portage la Prairie, Jan 3.— Nine buildings converted into smouldering ruins, and a property loss of fully $50,000 is the result of Thursday morning's early fire. The insurance will only be about half that amount. The situation of the burned district is on the main street of the town, Saskatchewan avenue, and several of the buildings were old enough to be historic, although Newman's block is one of the most recent structures of the place. The night was very cold, and this hampered the work of the fire-fighters. The water supply was also inadequate, and although citizens who tumbled out of warm cots assisted in every way possible, the wind, blowing strongly, helped the flames, and very little of the contents or stocks were saved. Exploding liquor added to the intense heat, and fed the flames.

RAT PORTAGE FIRE.

Rat Portage, Ont., Jan. 3.—The worst fire that has occurred here in some time broke out this morning in the basement of E. G. Hall & Co.'s dry goods store, and before the fire brigade could get to work the whole interior was a seething mass of flames.

For some time it looked as though several other blocks would be consumed, but by the well directed efforts of the firemen the flames were confined almost entirely to A. Carmichael's two blocks. White & Manahan's block was damaged about the roof and some damage done to the stock in their store. E. G. Hall & Co.'s stock, valued at $28,000, is a total loss; Dr. Marshall's dental parlor over Hall's store, was totally destroyed.

NEW BATTLE SHIPS.

Glasgow, Jan. 3.—The British admiralty has invited Clyde shipyards to tender bids for the construction of two battleships, each of 16,500 tons; five armoured first class cruisers and two protected cruisers. The officials ask for promptitude. The work on the twenty warships in course of construction may be expedited.

The new battleships will have greater gun power than any vessels now in the navy.

GOOD PRICES FOR POULTRY.

Ottawa, Jan. 1.—According to reports received by the poultry expert of the agricultural department, F. C. Hare, the shipemts of poultry to the mother country for the Christmas market have brought excellent prices. As an instance, it is pointed out that fifty-four cases from Prince Edward Island, twelve chickens to the case, averaged 14 cents per pound in Manchester, equal to 18 cents per pound drawn.

Montreal, Jan. 2.—The British war office has, through Hon. Sydney Fisher, placed an order with the Lake of the Woods Milling company for one thousand tons of Keewatin flour for South Africa. The order is equal to 12,500 barrels.

A Joke on Roosevelt.

When Theodore Roosevelt was governor of New York, one of his customs was to assemble the heads of state departments in the executive chamber once a week in a sort of a cabinet meeting for the purpose of discussing state department matters. At several of these meetings the civil service law came up for discussion, and on all such occasions the jokers would have not a little fun with the governor because of his views growing out of his previous connection with the national civil service commission.

One of the governor's last cabinet meetings was like "Hamlet" without Hamlet, Mr. Roosevelt being in the west. All the other state officers were present. Secretary of State McDonough in a dignified manner rose and offered the following, which was adopted without a dissenting voice:

"Whereas, Governor Theodore Roosevelt has gone to Chicago, and

"Whereas, Oyster Bay has gone Democratic; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the civil service law be suspended for one year."

CRYING BABIES.

Babies never cry unless there is some very good reason for it. The cry of the baby is nature's warning signal that there is something wrong. Every mother ought to get to work immediately to find out what that something wrong may be. If the fretfulness and irritation are not caused by exterior sources, it is conclusive evidence that the crying baby is ill. The only safe and judicious thing to do is to administer Baby's Own Tablets without the slightest delay.

For indigestion, sleeplessness, the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, diarrhoea, constipation, colic, and simple fevers, these marvellous little tablets have given relief in thousands of cases and saved many precious baby lives. Do not give a child so-called "soothing" medicines; such only stupefy and produce unnatural sleep. Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or other harmless drugs; they promote sound, healthy sleep because they go directly to the root of baby troubles. Dissolved in water these tablets can be given to the youngest infant. Mrs. Walter Brown, Milby, Que., says:—"I have never used any medicine for baby that did as much good as Baby's Own Tablets. I would not be without them."

Baby's Own Tablets are for sale at all drug stores, or will be sent direct on receipts of price (25 cents a box) by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CROSS QUESTIONED.

M. B. CONNICK RELATES HIS EXPERIENCE WITH BRIGHT'S DISEASE AND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Suffered With That Dread Malady for Fifteen Years—Treated by Five Different Doctors—Literally Rescued From Death by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Middleton, P. E. I., Dec. 30.—Mr. M. B. Connick, the well known blacksmith of this place, known all over the Island as the man whom Dodd's Kidney Pills saved from death as by a miracle has often been interviewed regarding his case and is ever ready to supply the facts.

"I had been a victim of kidney trouble for fifteen years before I took Dodd's Kidney Pills," said Mr. Connick in a recent conversation.

"Did you know it was Bright's Disease, Mr. Connick?"

"Not at first I didn't; but when I found it out I was startled, I can tell you. In those days, you know, Bright's Disease was incurable. I went to five different doctors. They could do no good. Finally my wife and I went together to one who told us right out there was no use taking our money. I could not be cured. I felt that it was all over."

"How did you come to take Dodd's Kidney Pills?"

"Well, one day a customer and I bor, and my customer said he was quite sure if he had taken Dodd's Dodd's Kidney Pills he would have been cured. That set me thinking. For the last six years I had been forced to hire a man to do my work. Well, I began to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and before I had finished the third box I was again at work. I can shoe a horse as well today as ever I could in my life."

"Do you mean to say that three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills cured you of Bright's Disease of fifteen years' standing?"

"Yes, sir, that's exactly what I mean. I was so stiff and sore I could not stoop to pick up anything—couldn't put on my shoes. If my wife was here she would tell more about Dodd's Kidney Pills than I can."

Mr. Connick is now 57 years old and the picture of health and strength.

NATIONALIZATION OF PUBLIC UTILITIES

Telephone competition in the Boundary Country is over, the two companies in the field having amalgamated. Rates have been raised, and in consequence there is a general wail of indignation from subscribers. It cannot be helped so long as these utilities remain in the hands of private companies. Telephone competition has failed wherever tried. A duplicate service is much worse for the subscriber than a monopolistic one, as whenever a business man has any use for a telephone at all, he is compelled by force of circumstances to take in both services, thus making the cost greater than that charged by one system.

The remedy for this evil is, however, easy, and not far to seek. The Federal Government must be made to see the necessity and expediency of nationalizing the telephone and telegraph and operating them in connection with the Post Office. All European countries have long ago realized the fact that the people are the rightful owners of all methods of communication, and the administration of these franchises by the Governments has been such a marked success that it can only be a question of time when Canadians will come into their own. The Postmaster General has inaugurated many reforms in the administration of the Post Office and it is now up to him to take the bull by the horns and expropriate the entire telephone and telegraph systems, and place them under control of the Government. If he has the courage to incur the displeasure of a small body of stockholders to please the rest of the population of the Dominion, he will soon be able to wipe out the annual deficit of the Post Office. The rates could be put on a basis sufficient only to make the entire system self sustaining, the people receiving the benefit of much lower telegraph and telephone rates.

COLLECTOR OF CUSTOMS AND REVENUE OFFICES

The transfer of Mr. Keay, Collector of Customs and Inland Revenue, from Cranbrook to this town will be a source of great convenience to the community who have business transactions with the departments which Mr. Keay so worthily represents. A most serious objection, however, is raised to the quarters which have been provided. The office in the C. P. R. freight depot is absurdly inadequate to the demands of this town. It is merely a dark cubby hole, in a most inconvenient location.

The volume of business in Fernie is sufficient to warrant the Department in securing proper accommodations for the carrying on of its business. In 1901 the Customs collections at this port were approximately $17,000, and the Revenue returns are very much larger. Surely the expenditure of a paltry $15 per month in securing a suitable office that would be convenient to the public, would be more in keeping with the dignity of the Department.

The Smallpox

We are pleased to be able to announce that the smallpox is now under absolute control, there having been no new cases reported this week either at the mines or in town. As a matter of fact there has been no spread of the disease in town, and only one case has been discovered, and that of a very mild type. Much credit is due the authorities and medical men for the prompt measures taken to prevent the disease spreading and effectually stamping out what infection there was. All the cases at the mines are rapidly recovering, and the quarantine will soon be raised. The quarantine on the only house under embargo in town was raised on Wednesday and public gatherings are again permitted.

Vaccination has been thoroughly effected, and there is no probability of any further trouble. Fortunately, the business interests of the town were not seriously affected, occuring, as it did, immediately after the holidays, and in a dull time.

Is he your husband, your brother or your son? We have noticed the poor fellow gazing longingly at the gold watches in Liphardt's window as he thought of the worn-out timepiece in his pocket. Doesn't he deserve a better one? Does he deserve any Christmas present? Then, in a possible list of five hundred givable things, there is not one that will so perfectly meet his appreciation as a watch. $5 to $100.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mott's mill has been shut down this week for repairs.

P. D. Dods, of Vancouver, registered at the Royal Wednesday.

S. J. Hungerford, locomotive foreman, Cranbrook, was in town on Thursday.

Miss McDonald, Public School teacher, has returned to town from Lindsay, Ont.

Rev. D. Holford, B.D., has been laid up with appendicitis, but is doing well.

E. Sproule, storekeeper C.P.R. Cranbrook, was registered at the Royal Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barnes entertained a few friends to a musicale on Wednesday evening.

L. M. Proctor returned Thursday morning from a three weeks' trip to Montreal, New York and other eastern points.

W. W. Doble, Cranbrook, auditor for P. Burns & Co., was in town on business connected with the Company this week.

Bob Schram and a staff of workmen are at Morrissey building his new hotel. It will be ready for business in about two weeks.

G. Coward & Son are installing a planing outfit and other machinery with which they intend carrying on all manner of building and contracting.

The C.P.R. freight clerks entertained a number of friends at their home one evening last week. Those who were present report an enjoyable evening.

J. C. Drewry, Manager of the Canadian Gold Fields Syndicate and other mining properties, passed through on Monday night, on a business trip to Toronto and Montreal.

Martin O'Rielly, of Nelson, is closing out his business there and preparing to move to Fernie. He will occupy the store lately vacated by the Mountain Trading Co.

Jas. Burrows and Truman Weatherby were fined $50 and costs for breaking the mines's quarantine. This ought to serve as a warning that the quarantine regulations will be rigidly enforced.

Recent advices from Lethbridge indicate that business was entirely suspended during the holiday week. Whether it was on account of J. S. T. Alexander's presence there deponent knoweth not.

Geo. Levasseur, of the Alberta, received a parcel from Goulet Bros., Manufacturers of Lafortuna Cigars. It contained two dozen umbrellas, which he distributed among his friends. The one the editor is wearing matches his complexion first rate.

W. S. Keay and wife, late of Cranbrook, are domiciled at the Royal. Mr. Keay will have his office in the C.P.R. freight offices for the present. His removal here will prove of very great convenience to the business men of Fernie, who have business with the customs and revenue departments.

The hockey team selected to play against Pincher Creek Monday night are: goal, Miller; point, Kastner; cover point, Martin; rover, Lafortune; forwards, Goulter, McMurphy and Beaubier. Arrangements have been made to entertain the visiting team at a banquet at the Royal Hotel.

Rev. C. W. Houghton has completed arrangements to issue a monthly magazine entitled "Christ Church Monthly," and the January Number will appear next week. It will contain about 40 pages and as its name indicates will be devoted to the interests of Christ Church. Price 10 cents per copy or $1.00 per year.

Invitations are out for a grand masquerade ball to be held in Princess Hall, Jan. 14th, under the auspices of the Tannhauser Dancing Academy. The lady patronesses are: Mrs. W. W. Tuttle, Mrs. R. A. Fraser, Mrs. R. B. Hammond and Mrs. H. W. Barnes. This should be the event of the season and it is time to begin devising costumes. Tickets are $1.

The Farquharsonians take this means of thanking those who kindly thought of us during our late separation from the common outer world. Especially would we commend those who made personal calls upon us. One lady of our city, who is well known for her many admirable qualities, deserves by far the greatest praise. She it was who made regular and frequent calls upon us, standing at times in the storm, dispensing her accustomed and much appreciated sunshine to her audience under cover. She also represented other good people; you must surely all know her—she presides at the Royal. Mr. W.— and others remembering us with mail, reading matter, eatables, etc., we shall also keep in kind remembrance. Those of us not of the immediate family cannot speak to kindly of our host, hostess and their able assistants.—Com.

G. J. Bury, Superintendent C. P. R., was in town on Wednesday.

Services will be held in the churches as usual on Sunday, Jan. 12th.

Mrs. J D. Gordon, of Phillips, Tobacco Plains, has opened a private school.

Miss Ethel Church, of Almonte, Ont., is the guest of her sister, Mrs. A. Joyce.

The public school was reopened on Thursday with about the usual attendance.

On Monday, January 6th, the output at Coal Creek mines was the largest in its history.

Irving H. Wilson, who has been relieving operator Cline, is assigned to duty at Crow's Nest.

The Quadrille Club resumed its weekly dances Thursday night, when a most enjoyable party was given.

The quarantine on Mr. Farquharson's residence was raised on Wednesday and the inmates allowed to escape.

P. Burns & Co. are remodelling the second floor of their building, and making some handsome office suites.

Ed. Cline, day operator at the depot, has returned from his holiday trip to Winnipeg and resumed his duties.

A meeting of the subscribers to the Fernie Club is called at the Royal hotel Monday evening, Jan 13, for the purpose of organizing and electing officers. A full attendance is desired of all who have signified their intention to become members.

The festive dynamiters on New Year's Eve succeeded in shattering one of the large lights of Christ Church with their great explosives on the recreation ground. That is one way of letting the New Year in at any rate. Now if they will call and settle the account at Quail's all will be well.

The Fernie - Pincher Creek hockey match on the 10th, at Fernie, has been postponed on account of the smallpox in Fernie.—Pincher Creek Echo.

The smallpox had nothing to do with the postponement. The Pincher Creek club was advised on Thursday that there was no ice, and later were wired to come on, as the ice would be all right. They did not put in an appearance Friday morning, and we are informed that the game is postponed till Monday, Jan. 13. If they fail then the game will be claimed by Fernie.

A GODDESS OF AFRICA.

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

The object of this was plain enough—their enemies did not intend that those whom they besieged should creep off under cover of darkness and elude them.

Of course this crescent of flame made the task of the two bold riders the more difficult, and increased the chances of disaster overtaking them; but having embarked in the enterprise they could not be headed by even such possible disaster.

The time came at last, when the two men squeezed a hand of every one they were leaving. Lord Bruno came to the top of the defile to see the thing through. A whispered word, another hand-shake and they were gone, swallowed up in the gloom below, while the others crouched there on the rocks, counting the seconds and listening with their hearts, so to speak, in their mouths.

CHAPTER XXX.

TO DO OR DIE.

There are times in the life experience of all men when seconds seem hours, so fraught with grave responsibilities is each little fragment that goes to make up a minute.

Such was the anxiety of the band of fugitives stranded upon that rocky mount that it seemed ages since Burnham and Armstrong had left them before a sign of their presence became evident below; and yet they understood full well that this very silence was the most favorable thing that could happen, since it declared most positively the success of the bold scouts in descending the narrow defile.

There came a sudden shout.

This was instantly followed by a shot, and immediately from scores of savage throats went up such a chorus of yells that the very air seemed to quake.

"Yonder they go!" exclaimed Lord Bruno.

Every eye was glued upon the spot where a tremendous commotion became visible. Black figures could be seen bounding toward that focal point from every direction, figures that moved their arms frantically, and made all manner of warlike gestures, figures that were fierce enough to cause a qualm of alarm in the bravest breasts.

Ah! other forms were in it—swift as a gleam of light two horses dashed into view bearing down upon the fires, those in the saddle bending low in order to take the smallest possible chance of being struck by flying assegai or spear.

Over the fire with grand leaps the horses were urged. Burnham had wisely blinded the eyes of the animals, knowing how next to impossible it would be to induce them to attempt such a thing unless some similar precaution were taken.

For half a dozen seconds there was the greatest excitement imaginable—the quick detonation of firearms and the shouts of the impis combined to make a fearful clamor.

Then it died away and all was still.

"I believe they made it," said Lord Bruno, who was laboring under intense excitement himself.

Bludsoe echoed his words.

"If they'n gone down you'd hear shouts of victory from the black boys below. That sullen silence means defeat," he said.

All bent their heads to listen, while straining eyes surveyed the dark expanse beyond the fires.

A minute passed—several of them, and their suspense became painful.

Then a tongue of fire clove the gloom a couple of miles away, immediately succeeded by a second, and the two reports presently reached their ears. X

"The signal—they have made it, by Jove!" burst out Lord Bruno.

"Thank God!" said Hastings, over whom a sensation of positive relief swept.

At least this little hope remained, and if they could only keep their savage foes at bay through the night the chances of succor arriving during the next day were good.

Armstrong and his companion knew full well where to go, and mounted on good steeds, with the lives of the little party at stake, they would exhaust every endeavor to succeed.

Englishmen never refuse to answer an appeal for aid, no matter what the danger involved.

Ere now they have penetrated the Sahara and made forced marches over a thousand miles of hostile territory to rescue a solitary fellow-countryman held a prisoner by the King of Dahomey or some rajah of Farther India.

Then began a night never to be forgotten.

Not an hour of it but what they were engaged in some way.

The cunning Matabele seemed determined to exhaust every artifice which could be conceived before combining for a grand assault. Their severe losses on the two former occasions appeared to make them a trifle shy about venturing up that miniature canyon. Perhaps they had some knowledge of the avalanche of ragged projectiles waiting to be turned loose upon the first provocation, and shrank from the encounter. At least such a grand movement was kept as a sort of dernier ressort, to be attempted when all other tactics failed.

Bludsoe and his heroes could not expect a moment's sleep. They must be on the qui vive every second of the night, for no one could tell when or where the crafty Matabele would strike, and surely eternal vigilance was the price of safety under such circumstances as these.

An hour had scarcely elapsed since the flight of the two scouts, when Red Eric detected a movement in a quarter where they had not believed an attack could be made.

The face of the rocky wall was so steep that it did not seem as though human beings could climb it; but these dwellers of the South African wilderness were next to monkeys in agility, and nothing seemed impossible to them.

He gave no alarm, but the word was quietly passed around, and when a collection of stones both large and small had been laid in, the bombardment began.

It was quite a fierce little affair while it lasted, for some of the enemy had managed to effect a lodgment in places higher up than was suspected, and taking advantage of the excitement these dare-devils attempted to carry the fortress.

One thing was against them—Rex had been placed on guard and crouched down near the centre of the enclosure he could see the outline of the rocky ramparts marked against the heavens.

Meanwhile Jim Bludsoe and Lord Bruno kept guard over the defile, casting an occacional rock into the depths in order to ascertain whether moving forms had entered; but the time had not come for this. By degrees the allies might work their courage up to the point of desperation, and then would come the tug of war.

This first little brush was soon over, and a careful survey from all sides assured Bludsoe that the field was clear.

He was too old a campaigner to believe this success would be permanent. His study of these strange people led him to think such continuous disasters must only increase the fury of the blacks, and cause them to determine upon more desperate plans than ever to bring about the destruction of those at bay upon the rocks.

From the camps below they heard such sounds as marked a warlike movement of the impis — the hoarse notes of the tom-tom throbbed upon the night air, and there was a continuous series of weird shouts, such as Rex had heard the Zambodi warriors give vent to when dancing around the council-fire.

Marian told them what it meant—the witch-doctor with others of his ilk, had instituted this programme with the design of arousing the latent passion in the breasts of those whose bitter experience in the earlier engagements might be inclined to make them loath to again face the deadly guns of the besieged.

By degrees their savage natures would be inflamed until the point was reached where nothing could hold them back.

That was the hour Bludsoe looked forward to with apprehension, for he knew their fate hung in the balance.

Again some trick was unearthed by means of which they hoped to catch the defenders of the heights napping.

Again a rally, a fusillade of stones, and a shot or two.

This time as before, they were successful in dislodging the foe, whose evident design it was to annoy them rather than carry the fort; but the end was not achieved without some little waste of energy, and several less cartridges to account for.

No doubt the wily Hassaje knew what he was doing, and had set about a systematic method of utilizing his immensely superior numbers. When a detachment of his men had grown weary they could be withdrawn and a fresh batch pushed forward in their stead, while with the whites there was no relief.

The strain must tell in the end. This may not appear to be a generous mode of conducting warfare, but it is good soldiering, for the end and not the means count when foes meet in battle array.

At midnight they had repelled just five such assaults, very much on the same order.

There would come the discovery, a bombardment of stones and the flight of a few assegais from those points where strong arms could send them over the ramparts, the whole melee being accompanied by a series of screeches that a legion of fiends in Tophet might have envied, every warrior in sight of the fort lending his voice to swell the racket.

Then the whole affair would die away, and an interval elapse before the next outbreak.

Such a night will remain stamped indelibly upon the memory until time shall be no more with those who take part in its tragic occurrences.

Bludsoe and his employer held many conferences, while Rex talked in a low voice with the young girl, whom he found bearing up under the strain in a remarkable manner, thanks to the self-reliance which necessity had taught her during her life among the brabarians.

IS YOUR CHILD IN DANGER ?

Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough and Severe Chest Colds are Threatening.

It is the old story of wet feet, exposure to cold and dampness and chilled bodies. Towards night the hoarseness comes and the hollow, croupy or tight chest cough. Then mother's anxiety, for she knows the danger and the suddenness with which the little ones are sometimes snatched away. When you think of the thousands of times that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved the lives of the little ones it is scarcely to be wondered at that mothers look upon it with confidence and satisfaction.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

It is an ideal medicine for children because it is remarkably pleasant to take and is perfectly free from Morphia. It is one of the few remedies for diseases of the throat and lungs which thoroughly cures the cold as well as the cough. There are other preparations of linseed. Be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, with portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the bottle. Price, 25 cents; family size, three times as much, 60 cents. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

REGAIN YOUR HEALTH

How many men are suffering miseries for the want of a simple remedy? They do not live; they simply exist. In the faces of thousands can be read the story of a wasted life and blighted hopes. Joys and pleasures are unknown to them because there vitality is being sapped. Varicocele, wasting drains have exhausted nature's electrical forces and left them wrecks upon the shores of life.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt

Is the grandest remedy of the age for building up wrecked humanity. It fills the exhausted nerves and organs with the fire of life. If you will use it while you sleep for two months it will restore youthful vigor to every organ of the body. It is the only electrical body appliance in the world to-day that will infuse the life force into the weakened parts.

It is curing thousands. I can furnish you with testimonials from those whom I have cured. Perhaps some of them your neighbours.

Read these Encouraging Cures

I am still wearing it, and will tell you about the result. I have gained about fifteen pounds, and my back does not bother me now.—D. CRIBBIS, Guelph, Ont.

Your belt has helped my nerves, and I have gained in flesh, and my joints are looser.—CLAUDE COOPER, Box 182, Chatham, Ont.

Before using your Belt I was given up by eight doctors, and was reduced to 98 pounds, and confined to my bed as weak as an infant. It is now five months since I started the use of the Belt, and am completely cured, and have gained 62 pounds.—T. N. BROWN, Collingwood, Ont.

I have been wearing your Belt nightly for nearly a month. I am using it for constipation, and I am also applying the suspensory with good results.—W. F. GRAHAM, Pettipiece, Man.

The pains and weakness have left my back, and to tell the truth I have no pains or aches at all since using your Belt.—T. J. PATRICK, Rockton, Ont.

CAUTION—If you value your health, do not accept an imitation of my Belt. There are many on the market. Old style, blistering scorchers, whose only merit is their ability to burn and scar the flesh, are being offered with a cheap imitation of my Cushion Electrode. But it is a sham. Don't accept it. The best is none too good when you want your health, your vigor; so avoid imitations. The cushion electrode is my special invention. Without it all electric belts blister and burn holes in the flesh and can do no good. I take the other belts in trade.

FREE BOOK—Every man who admires the perfection of physical strength should read my beautifully illustrated book. It tells how strength is lost and how I restore it with my Electric Belt. I will send this book, closely sealed, free upon request if you will send this ad. If you are not the man you should be, write to-day.

UNHEALTHY NERVES.

Reasons Why They Are Benefited by Drinking Water.

A well known nerve specialist has said that "all neurasthenics—that is, people with unhealthy nerves—have desiccated nerves and suffer from an insufficiency of fluid in the tissues of the body." It is probable that we all in more or less degree, even when not conscious of any definite symptoms, are suffering in some part of our system for the lack of enough fluid and especially of enough pure cool water.

We know that so nicely is the human body adjusted and adapted to its uses that one part cannot suffer without all suffering. If the nerves are desiccated or dried through lack of fluid, then it is certain that other tissues are also suffering from the same lack and that the wheels of the wonderful machinery are being clogged by reason of waste matter which is not washed away.

We see by this that water does for us a threefold service. It feeds, it washes, and it carries away the cinders of the body furnace, and through the want of it we are exposed to many and great dangers. The tissues become too dry, the blood is thick and its flow sluggish, and the retained waste of the body sets up a condition which the doctors call "autointoxication," or self poisoning. This condition may give rise to almost any known symptoms from a pimple to heart failure and is really responsible for most of the semi-invalids with whom the world is largely peopled.

To obtain the best results from water drinking certain rules should be observed. People do not all need the same amount, and it may take a little experimenting to find out just how much should be taken in individual cases. It has been stated by some physicians that five or six pints should be taken during the twenty-four hours. Of this only a moderate quantity should be taken with the meals. It is a mistake to take no water with a meal, but it is perhaps a greater mistake to wash food down with water, especially with ice water.

The best time for water drinking is at night and early in the morning. It is well to form the habit of slowly sipping during the bath and while dressing two or three glasses of cool, not ice cold, water. Two of three more may be sipped at bedtime and again two or three glasses an hour or two before luncheon and before dinner.

In a very short time the value of this habit will become apparent in the resultant general improvement in digestion, temper and appearance.—Youth's Companion.

WAVES OF WATER.

The Amazon is 3,944 miles in length, rising within seventy miles of the Pacific ocean and flowing clear across the continent.

The Amur, the great stream of China and Siberia, is 1,500 miles in length, but for nearly nine months in the year is icebound.

The Pacific ocean covers 40½ per cent of the water surface of the globe, the Atlantic 21 per cent and the Antarctic 19 per cent.

The water of the larger Norwegian fiords, or rock bays, though in direct communication with the sea, are so saltless as to be drinkable.

The Detroit river is the outlet of the greatest bodies of water in the world, aggregating 82,000 square miles of lake surface, which in turn drain 125,000 square miles of land.

The river Platte during the summer is dry along the greater portion of its course. The water runs underground, only an occasional pool appearing on the surface. By digging almost anywhere in its course a supply of fresh, cool water may be obtained.

BLOCKADE COMPLETE

ELEVATORS AT LAKE PORTS AGE ALL FULL OF GRAIN.

SUPERINTENDENT LEONARD INTEEVIEWED BY THE PRESS.

The Free Press of the 30th December contained the following in its news pages :—

"The wheat blockade in Manitoba and the Territories is now complete.

" 'Every available space in interior and lake port elevators is now gone,' said Superintendent Leonard, of the C. P. R., to a reporter.

" 'Our capacity there does not exceed 5,000,000 bushels, but we cannot count on storing more than four and a quarter millions owing to the fact of the different grades received. If we had all one grade it would be different.'

" Speaking to the elevator men the reporter asked :

" 'What will be the outcome of the peesent congestion ?'

"The answer was : 'All that any one can do now is to have patience and wait.'

" 'Would more cars relieve the situation ?'

" 'It would, of course, if there was an eastern market and anything in an export business; but as things are now, it is nothing but a standstill.'

"The total capacity at Fort William, Port Arthur and country points in Manitoba is estimated at 16,000,000 bushels. 'The trouble is,' said one grain man, 'that the farmers having already shipped a good crop, are kicking because there is another crop on their hands they can't ship.'

TWO HUNDRED DROWNED.

Tangier, Dec. 31.—A waterspout has burst over the town of Saffee, Morocco, inundating the lower part of the town for the space of twelve miles, sweeping everything into the sea. Two hundred persons are reported to be drowned. There are no Europeans among the dead. The damage was enormous.

Saffee is a fortified seaport city. It has a population of about 12,000, including about 8,000 Jews. It is enclosed by massive walls and has a palace and small fort.

A GOOD YEAR FOR CATTLE.

Winnipeg, Dec. 31.—Dr. McEachran, chief Dominion veterinarian inspector, passed through the city yesterday from an inspection trip in the west. He visited Pincher Creek and the Waldrond ranch north of Pincher. He stated that range cattle have seldom had a better year than the present. There has not up to the present been any feeding among the stock, as they have been ranging all year. Last year it was necessary to feed them in November. This shows the excellency of the climate and means a larger saving to the stock raisers. Anthrax has been completely stamped out owing to the measures taken to prevent its spread, and no disease is reported anywhere. Conditions are, therefore, as good as the stock raiser could wish.

WHEAT.

The holiday season has interrupted markets a little during the past week but not to the same extent as the previous week. The tone of the markets has kept firm, and sometimes even strong, but there has just been the amount of uncertainty and nervousness about them to prevent any marked change, and the week's business has been done within a narrow range of fluctuation, and the prices closed on Saturday at practically the same figures as a week before. At no time during the past seven days could the situation be characterized as weak. There is not much to say about the crops. The Price Current considers the condition of the winter wheat crop in the States as fairly favorable. There has been ample moisture where drought conditions prevailed previously, but some slight apprehension is felt at the prospect of cold weather without snow covering, and the chances are, there will be more or less crop scares during the next four months. Harvest in Argentina and Australia is about over and there is nothing new to report from these countries. European winter wheat crop is doing well in general.

Manitoba wheat has been very dull and at the close of the week ½c under the prices of a week ago. Buyers are very scarce, owing to exporters being unable to work freely. No. 1 hard wheat is not much in evidence lately and buyers of it are difficult to obtain than for 1 and 2 northern. Prices are nominal. No. 1 hard, 72½c; 1 northern, 69c; 2 northern, 66c, in store Fort William or Duluth, delivery first half of January. For delivery last half of January ½c more can be obtained. There appears to be no business for delivery further ahead than January.

Country Wheat—As country elevators are practically all full there is very little wheat being bought and at many points the market is in a normal condition.

Liverpool Prices—On January 4 No 2 red western winter was quoted at 6s 2½d; No. 1 northern spring steady at 6s 1½d.

FLOUR—Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.10 per sack of 98 pounds ; Glenora Patent, $1.95 ; Alberta, $1.75; Manitoba, $1,55; Imperial XXXX, $1.35; Lake of the Woods Five Roses brand, $2 per 98 pound sack ; Red Patent, $1.85; Medora, $1.45; XXXX, $1.25.

MILLFEED—Stocks are very light, and prices hold as follows: Bran, in bulk, $18.50 per ton; shorts, in bulk, $19.50 per ton. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 per ton higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is worth $30 per ton delivered to the trade in Winnipeg. Oil cake is worth $27.

OATS—There is not much demand for western oats for eastern shipment and the market in Winnipeg is mostly down to a local feed basis. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bus.; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel ; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight. No. 1 Alberta oats (the new grade) are worth 39½, Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta 38½c.

BARLEY —Receipts of farmers' loads are quite large and the market holds steady. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY—Dealers are paying $5 to $6 a ton for fresh baled hay in carlots on track in Winnipeg. Loose hay on the street is also worth $5 to $6 per ton.

DRESSED MEATS — Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef, city dressed, 6 to 7c per pound; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7 to 7½c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows : Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed ; ducks and geese, 9c per lb ; turkeys, 10½ to 11½c per lb, dressed.

GAME—Rabbits are bringing 5c each.

BUTTER—Creamery—Very little is offering. Receipts are mostly in brick form and bring 21c per pound delivered in Winnipeg, for good stock Dairy—Some country shippers have been sending in quite large consignments of dairy butter, which probably represents the accumulation of the past five or six months with some of them. Some of it has been sold for less than 5c per pound. Fine table qualities of dairy butter are scarcely to be had here at any price, and as high as 22c is being paid for some of this kind. Ordinary receipts realize from 11 to 16c per pound net, delivered in Winnipeg.

HIDES—No. 1 inspected hides, 6½c per lb delivered in Winnipeg ; No. 2, 5½c; No. 3, 4½c; kips and calf, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horse hides 50c to $1; frozen hides are worth ½c less.

COLLISION AT SEA

TWENTY LIVES ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN LOST ON THE PACIFIC.

BOWS OF THE STEAMER WALLA WALLA STOVE IN BY A SAILING VESSEL.

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 4.—A collision at sea early Thursday morning between the steamship Walla Walla and an unknown sailing vessel resulted in the sinking of the steamer and the probable loss of at least 20 lives. The Walla Walla is owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship company and sailed from San Francisco January 1 for Puget Sound ports. She carried 36 first class passengers, 28 second class and a crew of 80 men. When off Cape Mendocino on the California coast, at 4.10 o'clock Thursday morning, an iron bark, believed to be French, loomed up in the haze and crashed into the Walla Walla's bow. Then the sailing vessel slid off into the darkness and was seen no more.

All the passengers and crew of the Walla Walla, except the few on watch, were asleep, but were aroused by the crash. The steerage quarters were in the bow, and it is believed some of the steerage passengers were crushed to death. A big hole was made in the steamers' bow and she sank in 35 minutes. The officers and crew maintained strict discipline and boats and life rafts were lowered. All who were not killed in the collision got off except Captain Hall, who went down with his ship. He was picked up later by one of the boats uninjured with the exception of a few bruises.

A choppy sea was running and the small boats could not make a landing on the shore a few miles distant. They drifted about all day and finally 65 people were picked up by the steamer Dispatch, which took them to Eureka. Another boat under command of Engineer Brown and containing thirteen persons, attempted to land at Trinidad and was swamped. John Wilkinson, quartermaster; William Martel, fireman; L. Drube, passenger, and three unknown men were drowned.

When the Dispatch reached Eureka with the passengers, tugs were immediately sent out for the missing boats. The tug Ranger picked up one containing eleven passengers and three of the crew.

The Walla Walla was valued at about $250,000. She was insured for about $200,000.

AT LOGGERHEADS.

Newfoundland and Home Government Cannot Agree Over Modus Vivendi.

A special cablegram to the Free Press of Jan. 3, says : The Newfoundland government and the colonial office are seemingly at loggerheads. The Anglo-French modus vivendi expired on Tuesday. The Newfoundland ministry refrained from reconsidering its renewal, the British ministry, having apparently failed to redeem Newfoundland's expectations when the arrangement was last renewed, that negotiations for the extinction of treaty rights would be entered upon with France. Newfoundland is also sore because Chamberlain made no reply to Premier Bond's report of; his discussions with Sir Wilfrid Laurier regarding reciprocity with Newfoundland, the fear being that the colonial office intends that Newfoundland shall await the possible outcome.

Talking of Canadian reciprocity with the States the Express today has a flaming article entitled "The Colony's Grave Peril," a grave impeachment of the home government.

DROPPED DEAD.

Guelph, Ont., Jan. 4.—Mrs. Walker, wife of H. L. Walker, dropped dead on the street last night while on her way home from visiting a friend. Heart failure was the cause.

TWO BROTHERS DROWNED.

Halifax, Jan. 4.—Clarence and Arnold Goodwin, sons of Captain W. P. Goodwin, of Argyle Sound, Yarmouth, were drowned there yesterday while hauling lobster traps. They were aged 21 and 28 respectively.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Bishop Potter, of New York, in an address stated he had no faith in prohibition.

John H. Rees, who was reported lost in the Klondike, returned to his friends at Lockport, N. Y., a rich man.

The Dominion Alliance will convene in Winnipeg on January 15 and 16.

A MYSTERIOUS DEATH.

Creemore, Ont., Dec. 31.—W. L. Coulter, a prominent merchant of this place, was found dead last Saturday night in his stable at Avening, with a bullet wound in his head, and his gun lying under him. He was last seen by his family at 11 o'clock in the morning, when he left the house, presumably to go to Creemore, as was his usual custom. His son came up to the store here in the afternoon, and, finding that his father had not arrived, he at once returned to Avening, and search was at once instituted, resulting in the body being found in the stable. As far as is known, there is nothing to indicate that he contemplated committing suicide, and it will probably never be known whether the shooting was other than accidental. He leaves a widow and three children.

OVERDOSE OF CARBOLIC.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 31.—Last Saturday night a young woman, Miss Hemmerly, while staying at her sister's, Mrs. Pellusch's, complained to a young lady friend who had called on her, that she was suffering from a severe sore throat, and was told that a carbolic acid solution was good for it. The young lady friend volunteered to send her some, which she did, and Miss Hemmerley, who was alone, prepared the solution and took it. Her sister, on returning home later, found her in bed, suffering terrible agony from an overdose which she must have taken. Medical aid was summoned, but the unfortunate girl died early next morning.

LITTLE GIRL DROWNED.

A dispatch from St. Catharines, says : About 6 o'clock on Saturday night seven small children, ranging in ages from 8 to 15, while skating on the pond near the Grand Trunk freight sheds in Merritton, broke through the ice. Six were rescued, bu one little girl named Flossie McDonald is still under the ice. Wm. Darling heard the screams and very heroically grabbed a pole and jumped into the icy water. Six of the little ones clung to each other and one succeeded in getting hold of the pole and had strength enough to hold on and bring his comrades with him out of the water. The other, a little girl, by this time had sunk from view and drowned.

MOTORMAN IN TROUBLE.

Montreal, Dec. 31.—Motorman Hector Aldins of the street railway, has been arrested on a coroner's warrant charged with being criminally responsible for the death of Catherine Murphy, an old woman. Mrs. Murphy was struck by an electric car at the corner of St. Denis and Dubond streets Tuesday, and death ensued. The coroner's jury recommended the arrest.

SUDDEN DEATH AT TORONTO.

Toronto, Dec. 30.—Alex. Murdock, who for several years has conducted what he termed a colonial agency on Scott street, in the wholesale section of the city, was found dead in his office yesterday morning. He was unmarried, and aged about 55. Deceased had been of somewhat unsettled habits, and it is surmised he died from heart failure.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Toronto, Dec. 31—Richard Eels, waiter at the Queen's hotel, attempted to take his life yesterday afternoon by twice stabbing himself in the side with a jack-knife. The results are serious, but will not prove fatal. The wife and family of the injured man live in Winnipeg, in which city he was head waiter for some years at the Hotel Manitoba.

A MINISTER EXPELLED.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 31.— Rev. James A. Heath, who is alleged to have illegally secured a divorce from his wife in New York in order to marry a Kansas City woman, was deposed from the ministry and expelled from the Calvery Baptist church at a meeting of the congregation yesterday.

DRUG CLERK SUICIDES.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Dec. 31—Neil Matheson, aged 18, a drug clerk at Summerside, committed suicide here yesterday morning by swallowing carbolic acid. He came to the city ostensibly to make application for a position in the medical corps for South Africa.

SECTION MAN KILLED.

Lyn, Ont., Dec. 31.—Guy Dine, a sectionman, while cleaning out a switch at the Grand Trunk station here yesterday morning was struck on the head by a passing freight train and instantly killed. He leaves a wife and a large family of small children.

DIED IN A CUTTER.

Berlin, Ont., Dec. 31.—Horace J. Hall, for many years engaged in the lumber business here, was found dead in a cutter while driving from Elmira. He was a prominent Mason and a leading Christian Scientist.

PROF. WIGGINS AND MARCONI.

The Professor Says the Inventor Has Used His Published Ideas.

Ottawa, Jan. 4.—Professor E. Stone Wiggins has again been heard from. He says he will take legal action to upset Mr. Marconi's patents on wireless telegraphy. The professor alleges that Mr. Marconi has stolen his ideas. Prof. Wiggins says he announced in a Brooklyn paper in 1884 that the world is enveloped in electricity, and he planned to use a current of electricity, which he says runs east to west, to telegraph around the world, using the summit of the Rockies as a sending station.

The Professor says : "I would have a current around the earth several thousand feet high, and this, with the earth itself, would complete the electric circle or circuit. You cannot telegraph without having a circle. Marconi took advantage of this and other discoveries of mine for his wireless system of telegraphy. He puts up steel wires by means of balloons, and with this upper current and earth gets his electrical circuit. Mr. Marconi does not even know this, for he admits that he does not understand how his messages are sent. In effect, I built the railway, and Mr. Marconi simply put on his engine without my leave. He must not be surprised if I ask him to pay at least the right of way. His assertion, and that of Mr. Tesla, that they can throw electric currents into empty space shows that they are only experimentalists. Mr. Marconi, in 1894, took the cue which I gave, that the earth's electricity collects on hills and mountains. He immediately began to erect towers and send messages to their summits over an electric railway I had discovered. The patent law was devised to protect the thinker and philosopher rather than an unreasoning experimentalist, and to reward him for his years of study. In this case I intend to assert my rights."

$500 BURNT UP.

A Farmer Put Money in an Unused Stove.

A Manitou farmer drew $500 from the bank to loan to a friend. His wife put the money in an unused stove over night. A neighbor's daughter came in to do some sewing and lighted a fire; the farmer asked his wife for the money, and she went to get it. Imagine the horror ! The charred fragments were snatched out and put under the stove, while the man drove to the bank to see what could be done about it. The banker told him to bring the fragments. He drove home only to find that his wife, thinking the pieces were no good, had tossed them into the fire. With all chance of recovery gone, one can imagine the feelings of that farmer.

VALUE OF MANITOBA'S CROP.

Taking the government crop report as a basis on which to figure, it is estimated that the cash value of Manitoba's products to the farmer is in the neighborhood of $40,000,000.

These figures are obtained by taking the total yields of the different varieties of grain and potatoes, together with the quantities of poultry and dairy products and figuring out the value at the prices estimated to have been paid to the farmer.

The revenue derived from the sale of stock, hay or roots is not included in this estimate, as there are no quantities given, but these, of course, materially increase the assets of the Manitoba farmer, and give him a large additional revenue. The following table has been prepared in der to show the approximate value of the different products for the year in round numbers.

Oats—27,796,588 bushels, at 32c, equals $8,895,000.

Total value of dairy products, $926,300.

Grand total—$38,834,200.

The crown lands department of Ontario has been advised that 1007 locations of land were taken up in the Temiskaming region during the first eleven months of the year. This is equivalent to more than 160,000 acres, or equal to seven townships.

While philosophy will not prevent a man from falling in love, it is a well known fact that love interferes with a lot of philosophy.

Some people are like lamp-posts in that they stand in their own light. The beauty seen is partly in nim who sees it.

"THEY SAY."

Have you heard of the terrible family, "They,"
And the dreadful venomous things they say?
Why, half the gossip under the sun,
If you trace it back, you will find begun
In that wretched house of "They."

A numerous family, so I am told,
And its genealogical tree is old;
For ever since Adam and Eve began
To build up the curious race of man
Has existed the house of "They."

Gossip mongers and spreaders of lies,
Horrid people whom all despise!
And yet the best of us now and then
Repeat queer tales about women and men
And quote the house of "They."

They live like lords and never labor,
A "They's" one task is to watch his neighbor
And tell his business and private affairs.
To the world at large they are sowers of tares—
Those folks in the house of "They."

It is wholly useless to follow a "They"
With a whip or a gun, for he slips away
And into his house, where you cannot go,
It is locked and bolted and guarded so—
This horrible house of "They."

Though you cannot get in, yet they get out
And spread their villainous tales about.
Of all the rascals under the sun
Who have come to punishment never one
Belongs to the house of "They."

My Wedding Day.

A Romance of Concord and Lexington.

By L. G. Woodberry.

Well, as I was saying, this is the way it came about: I was a young thing then, just turned 18. Your grandfather had been my playmate, hero and protector from the time that I was old enough to go to school. I had never thought of marrying any one but him, and so when he asked me to be his wife, why, of course, I said "Yes."

Well, it was in the spring of 1775 that we were to be married. Mother and I spent the winter getting my things made up, and I had as fine an outfit as a girl could possibly have in those days. The day set for the wedding was the 19th of April—yes, the very day on which the battle of Lexington occurred, as I have good reason to remember.

Those were anxious days for us. I remember how serious my father and brothers used to look as they discussed the events which were then taking place. Their only conversation was about rights, stamps and taxes.

When the towns began to raise "minutemen," why, of course, we raised a company in our town, and your grandfather and my brothers were members of it. We girls could not stand guard, of course, so in order to show our patriotism we all signed a paper in which we agreed not to have anything to do with the men of the town who refused to join the company.

The 19th of April was a beautiful day, though a warm one for the season. We were all up early that morning, for there was a great deal to be done. It was about 9 o'clock in the forenoon when my mother, who had been looking over some linen, suddenly raised her head, exclaiming as she did so, "Why, Mary, was that the meeting house bell?"

"What can it mean?" I cried, and, running to the window, I caught sight of our neighbor's sons, Joe and John Eaton, running down the road with their guns. Across the way Harry Wright was plowing the field. The boys called out to him as they passed, and, without stopping to unhitch the horse, he seized his gun and was off across the fields.

"It is an alarm, mother!" I cried.

"The boys are down by the brook," she said. "The sound will not reach them. Run and tell them!"

Without delay I hurried to the kitchen, and, seizing the horn, I ran out of the house and started for the brook, which was some distance from the house. I blew a blast on the horn as I ran, and as the boys caught sight of me I pointed toward the road, where several men could be seen running with their guns. The boys understood, and, waving their hands to me, they were off across the field to the road.

"What do you suppose the matter is?" asked mother when I returned to the house.

"I do not know," was my reply, "but I am going to find out." And I ran out of the house and took a short cut across the fields to the meeting house, which was to be the gathering place if the alarm should ever be sounded. I, for one, had never expected to hear any alarm, for at home we hoped for a peaceful settlement of the difficulties. But when I reached the church and saw the whole town gathered on the green the men's stern air and the women's pale faces frightened me, and I began to fear that something serious was the matter.

"What is it? Where are they going?" I asked. And as I spoke the men came hurrying out of the meeting house, where they had heard a few words from Parson Smith, and mounting their horses, rode off as fast as they could go. I looked for your grandfather, but he was not there. Catching sight of my father, I ran to him. "Have you seen Henry?" (that's your grandfather) I asked.

"Henry was at the tavern when the messenger rode through here," replied my father, "and, as he had his horse with him, he rode away without waiting for the company to assemble."

You may imagine my feelings as I turned to go home. This was my wedding day, and the man who was to marry me had ridden off without a word, knowing, too, that he might never return, if all they were saying about fights and resistance was true.

My father had reached home before me, and as I opened the door I heard mother ask, "Do you think it is anything serious, father?"

"I am afraid it may be, wife," he said. "The messenger said that Governor Gage has sent some of the king's troops to destroy the supplies which have been stored at Concord. If the report is true, there will be resistance, and if it comes to that it will be very serious business for us."

My mother kept her fears to herself and did her best to make me feel that it would come out all right, but those hours were the most anxious I ever spent. So through the day we watched and waited for news.

The first news that came to us from the fight at Lexington and the other doings of that day arrived about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, when some minutemen from another town stopped at the tavern on their way home. They told the story of the day to the little crowd of anxious women who eagerly questioned them for news of some dear one.

My father would not let me go down to the tavern, but went down himself and brought us the news. I can see him now hurrying along the road.

"Something unusual has happened, Mary!" exclaimed my mother. "I never saw your father look so excited."

I hastened down the path to meet him.

"Bad news, my child; bad news!" he exclaimed. "There has been an encounter with the king's troops." And then, reading the question in my eyes, he continued, "But they brought no news of our men."

The hour set for the wedding was 8 o'clock, but it began to look as if there would be no wedding, for it was now after 7 o'clock, and none of our men had returned home.

Mother and I sat in silence in the kitchen while father walked back and forth in the room above.

At last we heard steps outside, and then my brother Arthur, who was among the first to reach home, staggered into the room. I sprang up and ran to him. He sank into the nearest chair, and his gun fell to the floor with a thud. Arthur was only a boy of 15, you must remember, and the day had been a terrible one.

When he had recovered a little, my father spoke. "What news do you bring, my son?" he asked.

Now, I had felt from the first that he had brought bad news, and by the way he hesitated and glanced from father to me and still did not speak I felt sure of it. So I put my worst fears into words.

"Arthur," I said, "is it Henry?"

"Listen," he said, speaking rapidly. "The king's troops were in full retreat when we reached the road. We did not keep with our companies, but each one found shelter as he was able behind trees, walls or fences. I met Henry as I was crossing a field, and we took shelter together and awaited the coming of the troops. We had just got settled when Henry caught sight of a flanking party coming right down on us. He called to the men near us to run for their lives, and at the same time we both jumped the wall and ran for a house which stood in in the field just opposite. I reached the opposite wall in safety and turned round to look for Henry, but he was not with me. At that moment the troops came round a sudden turn in the road and sent some shots in our direction. At the risk of being shot at I stood up and looked across the road. He must have been hit by the flanking party; for he lay just by the wall."

"Are you sure it was he?" asked father.

"Yes; I knew him by the green on his powderhorn," replied my brother.

"You staid by and looked after him?" asked father.

"I tried to, sir, but the troops came down on us, and we were obliged to move on. I went back to the place as soon as I could, but I must have mistaken the spot, for I could not find him."

Meanwhile I sat in my chair, feeling as if I had just awakened from a bad dream. I did not fully realize what had happened, for it seemed impossible.

"Here are some people, Mary," said mother. "You would better go up to your room and lie down."

I did as I was told. There on the bed lay my wedding gown. I could not bear to look at it, and, picking it up, I placed it in the large chest in which my linen was packed and pulled down the lid; then I threw myself on the bed, and tears came to my relief. So I lay there thinking over the events of the day, my wedding day that was to have been. How different from what I had anticipated!

Suddenly I heard the sound of a horse's feet coming up the road at a furious pace. I sat up and listened. "Somebody is riding on an important errand," I said to myself. Nearer and nearer came the sound, and the rider, whoever he was, drew rein at our door. Then there were a murmur of voices and an opening and shutting of doors and then my mother's voice calling to me: "Mary, Mary; child, come down! Henry is here. He's come."

Scarcely believing that I heard aright, I got up and ran down stairs and into the kitchen, and there before me, his face pale as death, with a blood stained bandage bound about his forehead, stood your grandfather.

"Mary," he cried, holding out his hands to me, "I am in time! The clock has not struck yet!"

Then Parson Elder, who had come over to hear the news from Arthur, came forward and said, "Shall I perform the ceremony now?"

So right then and there your grandfather, in his working clothes, all stained with dust and blood, and I in my morning calico, were married.—Forward.

LOST HIS BUSINESS!

Ill-health "puts the shutters up" in many an honest man's business, and there are thousands of cases on record where the only seeming power on earth to take them down again is South American Nervine.

"I was completely prostrated with Nervous Debility. I had to give up business—doctors only helped me temporarily. I was the most discouraged man alive when I started taking South American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had read gave me hope, and I had not taken half a bottle before I found relief. I took twelve bottles, but am cured."—E. Errett, Merrickville.

"STIFFLED" HEART

Ever feel that every breath would be your last that the thumping, stiffling sensations about your Heart were crushing your life out?

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the only absolutely unfailing remedy known and prescribed by eminent physicians. Its claims of potency are not heresay or false hope to the sufferer. It is not a spirit lifter to gather you up to the high pinnacle of expectancy only to drop you into a deeper mire of disease. It gives relief in thirty minutes. A few bottles cure the worst forms of heart malady. 3

"OLD DAD'S" THINK TANK A-WORKING.

It is really refreshing to find one truly genuine consistent minister of the Gospel in this country who has the courage of his convictions regardless of the tastes of his congregation and the salary they pay him. On Sunday the 5th inst. Rev. A. H. Going, pastor of Waterloo street, Stratford, Ont. Methodist church protested in his sermon against Andrew Carnegie's profferred donation of $20,000 for a public library building for Stratford being accepted. Mr. Going said he was opposed to receiving a dollar from Mr. Carnegie for three reasons: first he was opposed to the principle of begging for such a purpose, second, Mr. Carnegie was a foreigner who aimed at the subverting of our relations to the Mother country, third, it is blood money accumulated at the sacrifice of the working man. If Mr. Carnegie, added W. Going wants to show his philanthrophy, let him do so by providing for the widows and orphans whose husbands and fathers were shot down by his minions in the 'Homestead Riots.' Charity, genuine and well meant covers a multitude of sin, but the almost universal charity or philanthrophy, or whatever the recipients of Carnegies millions chose to call it will never atone in this world or the next for the irretrievable misery inflicted upon the widows and fatherless innocent little ones by this autocratic copper-headed monopolist.

The quality of coal at present supplied by the Fernie mines for the use of the C.P.R. locomotives is universally condemned by the engineers and firemen. There is, it appears, one good seam at the mines, absolutely free from iron or the impurities that form clinkers in the fire box. All the coal for the locomotive department on the Crow,s Nest division and adjacent points was at one time supplied from this seam and, as a matter of course, the engineers and firemen pronounced it 'A 1', thus establishing its reputation far and wide. The principal part of the coal now supplied the C.P.R. engines is slack and the tailings from the good lumpy coal that goes out of the country via Creston Junction. Once in a while a carload from the good seam reaches Cranbrook, Sirdar or Crow's Nest and the fireman that is fortunate enough in getting a tender full of it has a picnic for that trip, makes better time than his comrades, and the train despatchers wonder how it is that others cannot do as well. It is presumed the C. P. R. pay just as much per ton for their coal, slack tailings, etc., as the Great Northern pay for their round coal obtained mostly from the good seam referred to. If it is imperative to continue using this inferior rubbish instead of opening up their own mines at Morrissey or dealing exclusivey with the Blairmore mines, then there is no reason why a competent inspector should not be appointed to overhaul every car loaded for the C. P. R, fire department, and practically obviate a grievious discrimination against a worthy loyal, and truly hard working class of employees and avoid unduly charging the desert air between Macleod and Kootenay Landing with a superabundance of profanity.

Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox deserves to have her name printed in two inch gold letters surmounted with a crown and laurel wreath set with precious stones and hung up in the home of every family throughout the land for her eminently appropriate article on "Parenthood," published in a recent number of the Cosmopolitan. The incorporation of this article, or at least the salient parts of it, in the S. form schoolbooks, on the hymn and prayer books of all denominations in the Dominion would do more towards bringing up the future generation in a way that would dispense with 75 per cent. of the jails, lunatic asylums, reformatories and prohibition laws now so eagerly wanted by certain fanatics and religious hypocrites. I don't think there is space to reproduce the article in its entirety unless it might be extended over two or three issues. One part will give a good idea of Mr. Ella Wheeler Wilcox's knowledge of parenthood. "The Art of True Parentage should best exhibit itself in the ability to discriminate between an earnest purpose, coupled with talent and ability and a foolish mamma, resulting from an excited imagination. One restless and idle lad was transformed into a sensible and orderly man by being allowed to gratify a genuine passion for a seafaring life in a three years cruise as a common sailor. He was physically fitted for the hardships of such a life in the first place, and his longing for the experience was not whimsical or the result of reading dime novels, where a craze for adventure is only fictitious, the wise parent directs the energies into other channels, after making a careful analysis of the child's tastes and abilities, an analysis which I must again aver to be a necessary part of the parental duties. It ought not to be a difficult undertaking to understand a child if a close sympathy and friendship have existed between parent and offspring from the hour of birth. The 'good parent' is one who establishes such a tie. No matter what advantages and indulgences are allowed children, where no such tie exists the parent cannot be entitled to the adjective praise. Adoring parents, prodigal parent, indulgent and lavish parents one sees in plenty, but they are far from my ideal of a 'good parent.' The ambitious mother who is ready to rend another woman's sons or daughters, lest they become rivals of her own, the generous father who wants his son at college to outshine other in luxurious living, may be good hearted people at the core, but they are not good parents. Neither is the mother who watts upon her children like a domestic and allows them to form habits of selfish exaction, indolence and disorder, which shall render the life of the future companion miserable. The right kind of mother thinks of her children not only as the pride and pleasure of her own home, but as futnre heads of other households and pillars of social structure, and she prepares them to fill these important positions to the best of her ability." And lastly Mr. Wilcox says. "Hundreds of young American girls and boys are allowed to form their own circles of acquaintances unmolested by their parents who take it for granted that their children will only associate with desirable companions. It is not at all unusual to find an American father so tired at night with his efforts to make his children millionaires that all he asks is a quiet house, and where his sons and daughters may be finding their amusement does not concern him." The world has too long accepted the theory that mere parentage is ennobling and that children should love, honor and respect a father and mother, however ignoble they may be. It is time that a higher ideal be set for parents, and that they realize their responsibility.

LIBERALS GAIN.

Win Five of Eight Seats including West York.

Voting to fill vacancies in nine constituencies for the House of Commons in eastern Canada took place on Jan. 15 and resulted as follows:

Lavelle, Que.—Leonard, Conservative, defeated Wilson, government Liberal, by 22. Goyer, Independent-Liberal, also ran.

West Hastings—Porter, Conservative, defeated McLeod, Liberal, by 500.

West York—Campbell, Liberal, defeated Wallace, Conservative, by 159 majority. Two divisions to hear from.

Botha had another narrow escape on Monday.

The Grand Secretary of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen in his report for the past year, shows that the organization is the strongest of any railway organization in proportion to the number of men employed. The total membership is 40,720 against less than 50,000 engineers in the United States and Canada. The gain for the last year was 3,119 and the insurance in force is $55,688,500.

The Vernon and Nelson Telephone company has raised all local rates for instruments and also long distance rates by about 20 per cent. The rise has caused much dissapproving comment.

According to a statement of Professor Coleman, of the Geological survey of the Dominion, Canada ranks third in the gold producing countries of the world, $27,000,000 worth of the yellow stuff was produced in 1901 of which the Yukon contributed $20,000,000.

S. Hockaday, a miner living in Nelson lost his life on Thursday by being caught in a blizzard while on the way from Slocan City to the Bondholder mine six miles from that place. It took them three days to reach the mine, and on the last morning Hockaday became delirious. The others left him while they went on to get food. On returning they found he had perished.

The Morrison mine at Greenwood today was bonded with Chicago and New York parties for $185,000, $5000 down, $80,000 in sixty days, balance on July 1. The new company is not to take possession of the mine until after the second payment. The report for purchasers was made by a New York mining engineer, and John M. Long, late superintendent of Le Roi mine. The sale will net the shareholders about 15½ cents.

W. Downie, C. P. R. superintendent of Kootenay lines, who has just returned from Vancouver, states that by March 1 the smelter capacity of British Columbia west of the Columbia river will exceed 3,500 tons per day. To meet the increased transportation of ore that then will become necessary, large additions to the rolling stock of the C. P. R. will be made He also announces that the passenger accomodation on all Kootenay lines will this summer be improved till it will equal the best on the whole system. A buffet is being placed on the run from the Columbia river to the Boundary country, and as soon as the Columbia river bridge is finished it will be run through to Nelson.

EDITORIAL NOTES

JOE MARTIN has declared himself again. He has assured Premier Dunsmuir of his most distinguished consideration and incidentally informs the Premier that if he does not accept his (Martin's) railway policy he will pass him up at the coming session of the Legislature.

THE bye-elections in eastern Canada held on the 15th resulted in a decisive victory for the Government. Six of the nine seats were carried by the Liberals, including West York, where Arch. Campbell defeated T. F. Wallace, a brother of the late N. Clarke Wallace, by 159. J. H. Metcalfe, Ex-M. P. for Kingston was snowed under, Harty beating him by 700.

THE caucus of the opposition members at New Westminster, of which great things were predicted, resulted in a frost. There were but eleven members of the legislature present which did not speak very well for the boasted strength of the bolters. No resolutions were passed. McBride, the former minister of mines, is credited with having made the statement that the government will not be able to muster more than a dozen supporters when the house meets.—Nelson Tribune.

MARCONI'S wireless telegraph fake is still getting plenty of free advertising. It is claimed that the rate of transmission will not exceed sixteen words a minute, though as yet only one little letter "s" is all that has been transmitted and there is no certainty that even that has been done The cables handle forty words a minute mostly in cipher and are all taxed to their utmost capacity to handle the immense business. A sixteen word system would indeed be a gaudy competitor. However we have yet to see even that much accomplished and our tip is to hold on to your commercial cable stock.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

Tracy Holland was elected Mayor of Grand Forks by acclamation.

A. W. Goodenaugh defeated W. V, Papworth for Mayor of Kaslo, by twenty majority.

M. P. Gordon was elected Mayor of Kamloops by 88 majority.

M. J. O'Brien was elected Mayor of Revelstoke.

J. Bradshaw was elected Mayor of Slocan by one majority.

Git yo' little sagehens ready;
Trot 'em out upon the floor—
Line up there you cusses! Steady!
Lively now, one couple more.
Colonel, shed that ol' sombero!
Nunneley, douse that cigarette!
Stop your cussin' Sandy Cummings!
'For the ladies! Now, all set.

Salute yer ladies: all together!
Ladies opposite the same;
Hit the lumber with your leather!
Balance all and swing your dame!
Buuch the heifers in the middle,
Circle stags, and do-se-do—
Pay attention to the fiddle!
Swing her 'round an' off you go.

First four forward. Back to places!
Second foller! Shuffle back!
Now you've got it down to cases!
Swing 'em till their trotters crack!
Gents all right and heel an' toe!
Swing 'em; kiss 'em if you kin!
On to next, an' keep a-going'
Till yo' hit yer pards agin!

Gents to centre, ladies 'round 'em;
Form a basket; balance all!
Whirl yer gals to where yo' found 'em,
Promenade around the hall!
Balance to yer pards, and trot 'em
'Round the circle double quick!
Hold 'em to it if they kick!

Balance all an' swing yer honeys—
Pick 'em up an feel their heft!
Promenade like skeery kattle!
Balance all, 'an swing yer sweets!
Shake yer spurs an' make 'em rattle!
Keno! Promenade to seats.

A GODDESS OF AFRICA.

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

She never tired of asking questions about the world, which she knew only from reading, and the descriptions given by the man she had called her father.

Rex found himself more than ever charmed by her naive simplicity, and the noble character of her mind—indeed, he could not remember ever having known so grand a nature in woman. Part of this was doubtless due to her own disposition, but the man who had kidnapped her in order to be revenged, must have experienced qualms of conscience that compelled him to do everything in his power to educate the mind of this wilderness flower.

He went from love to war with the readiness such a soldier of fortune always shows. Besides, he could not forget that his blows were struck to defend Marian as well as in any other cause, and this thought alone was enough to nerve his arm to wonderful deeds of valor.

Thank God! the night was wearing on.

A few more hours and in the east would appear the first gray lines of coming dawn.

Would they all be there to welcome it?

Who could say?

Each man was grimly resolved to do his duty. No doubt, facing such a dread outcome, their thoughts roamed over vast distances to scenes that were dear to them. To Lord Bruno appeared his beloved England. How many myriads of her sons yearn after that green isle of the sea when separated by desert and oceans from home? There is no country on earth, however remote, where an Englishman may not be found, driven there perhaps by the feverish pulse of business, or it may be, the love of adventure, that has ever been and always will be a predominant trait in the Anglo-Saxon constitution.

Thus far the allies had not gained any appreciable advantage, while many of their men were placed hors de combat by encounters with the missiles so energetically driven down upon their heads by those entrenched above.

Bludsoe was inclined to believe the impis were gathering for a grand assault all along the line, when the heights would be stormed in every available quarter by eager fanatics to whom death had little terror since the incantations of the witch-doctor had promised a quick passage to Paradise on the part of those who fell.

In this particular the Matabele and their cousins are not unlike the Mohammedans, a part of whose belief it is that to fall in battle is the most glorious fate allotted to man below, since those who die thus are favorites of the Prophet, being immediately transported to rest in his bosom in the beautiful gardens where perpetual fountains play and all is peace

Strange that the instinct of savages the world over teaches them to select this time for an attack—doubtless because as a usual thing men sleep the soundest at the latter end of the night, and are most likely to be surprised.

Every precaution had been taken that lay within their power. The rest must be left to heaven.

Many times Lord Bruno and Rex would crouch behind the ramparts and looking yearningly toward the region from whence help must come if it ever did come, listen with all their might, hoping to detect some far away sound that would give them new courage—the distant trampling of hoofs, the faint melody of a bugle, or perhaps such cheers as only hearty Anglo-Saxon lungs are capable of sending forth.

No signal of hope came out of the south. It looked as though they were stranded there, and must win their own fight or die in the last ditch.

The cowboys showed never a sign of alarm. Before now they had known what it was to lead a forlorn hope, and while perhaps none of them had ever experienced just such a predicament as this, it was all the same in the end—plenty of work, with a possibility of a glorious end.

Time crept on.

In half an hour the first thread of gray would appear. They might have taken heart of grace at this but for the positive belief that the storm was about to burst — the feeling was in the air — it affected them in divers ways — they knew it, and often words are unequal to the task of explaining what appeals to our convictions.

Nor did they err.

A brooding silence hung over all, which, in itself was enough to engender suspicion, after the clamor that had made night hideous ever since the sun went down.

Then came a single cry, which Rex was almost positive must have proceeded from the old tyrant of a witch-doctor himself.

It came as a signal.

If the cover were thrown from the infernal regions, and all the fiends of Tophet united in one grand outburst of diabolical sounds, the result could hardly have exceeded that frenzied combination of shouts following closely Hassaje's signal.

CHAPTER XXXI.

THE PASSING OF JIM BLUDSOE.

Now for it.

Each one of those seven men nerved himself for the terrible ordeal, and when the fact is positive that life and death are involved in the issue, many a weakling astonishes himself by the desperate energy he throws into his actions.

The allies had carefully planned the assault, and those various little attacks which were repelled without and tremendous display of force had been mere "feelers" as it were, to show what disposition the defenders would be apt to make of their strength.

When the attack was on in earnest it seemed as though the black whelps sprang up in almost every quarter—they must have by degrees sought hiding-places along the walls in each previous assault, acting upon orders, and remaining for hours awaiting the grand signal that meant business.

Through the defile they came in a dense mass, those behind pushing the wretches in the van, to be presently treated to a dose of their own medicine.

Down came the avalanche of rocks, and the little canyon became a slaughter pen, for men went under like ripe grain. Still those behind pushed on trampling upon the bodies of their comrades.

Men, weapons and great ox-hide shields all mingled in the greatest confusion, but those who had not yet tasted death advanced like so many machines.

It was a cruel business, but those who were above had nerved themselves for anything, and so long as the sharp-pointed missiles held out they showed no signs of halting.

By mere numbers alone, pushed on by their fanatical belief in the favor of the gods whom Hassaje represented, the horde of black, sinewy forms might crush its way to the top.

Having run the gauntlet of rocks they must face the blasting, withering fire of the Winchesters and revolvers, and if in spite of all this they forged to the top of the pass, making a gory mat out of their luckless fellows, it would be to meet three men who could fight like gladiators hand-to-dand, swinging their guns like cricket bats and hurling the impis back as fast as they crossed the line, so long as human nature could stand it.

And while this scene was taking place on one side of the fort, others hardly less desperate were occurring near by.

Every man had his hands full. Rex who had not suspected the enemy could steal such a march upon them was amazed to see the number of black forms that started to crawl over the barrier. He hardly knew which one to fire at first, but realizing the folly of delay made a start.

Such was the infernal din that he would hardly have known his piece had been discharged only from the flash of fire that shot from the muzzle, and the fact that his target fell off the wall.

Monsieur Jules had also found an object at which to blaze away, and the tremendous bellow of the great yager gun make its impression upon the general din. As for the savant, the recoil tumbled him over in a heap, though he was speedily on his feet again, as spry as a feline.

There was an abundance of work on hand for every member of that little band. Had they been individually favored with four hands instead of two, they might have kept busy.

The sable hued barbarians seemed to be in inexhaustible supply — for every one whom Rex and his fellow laborers in the good cause knocked back, two seemed to spring into existence.

With each passing minute of time it became more and more certain that the allies had decided to make a supreme effort to finish the business one way or another — either they would exhaust the strength of the fort's defenders or else complete their own extermination.

No longer were the whites without wounds, for in several places hand-to-hand conflicts with the fierce impis were taking place, and these fanatical followers of the voodoo doctor proved to be fighters when under the battle influence.

The stock of rocks which had been used to bombard the crushing throng in the defile had become exhausted, and there was no chance to secure a fresh supply.

Although the narrow passage way was a horrible mixture of dead and wounded braves, the jostling throng continued to push on as irresistibly as fate itself.

(To be Continued.)

The wealth of a man is the number of things which he loves and blesses, which he is loved and blessed by.—Carlyle.

OUR GRANDMOTHERS

WHEN WOMEN WORE "STAYS" AND TOOK NO EXERCISE.

Thousands Who Went Out Only to Attend Religious Services—A Radical Who Recommended the Skipping Rope.

In looking over a file of old Connecticut newspapers I came across the following excerpt from an English treatise on "Diet and Regimen" that warmed the cockles of my heart:

"The skipping rope, a toy which is discarded by the young girl when entering a premature womanhood, but which ought to be looked upon as a necessary article in every boudoir or a private room occupied by a woman of civilized life and civilized habits, is one of the best if not the very best kind of gymnastic exercise that I know. It exercises almost every muscle in the body. There are few women who do not neglect exercise. Thousands upon thousands of English women never cross the thresholds of their houses oftener than once a week, and then it is to attend to the public worship of their Maker. And it is seldom that in town the distance to the church or chapel is such as to occupy more than ten minutes in going thither."

It may be presumed that this extract is intended to draw the attention of American women not only to their neglect of physical exercise, but also to the superiority of the skipping rope as an implement to assist in stirring their sluggish circulation.

From the lips of an old lady who was in her early girlhood at the time this treatise was written (1835) I obtained the following graphic description of one article of dress worn by women in every station of life at that period:

"I was a vigorous, romping girl of thirteen, who hated restraint of any kind, above all that of dress, and was commonly in disgrace because of my careless habits in regard to clothes. However, my older sister, Martha, was determined to bind me into a proper shape with 'stays.'

"One Sunday, in spite of protestations, I was laced into that cruel instrument of torture and started on a two mile walk to 'meeting.' Did you ever see a pair of stays?"

From a drawer in a mahogany chest the old lady drew out a pair of old fashioned corsets beautifully made out of a kind of buckram, covered with fine white linen. Small gussets were set in the front, and it was stitched between the materials. The opening was in the back, where ivory or horn eyelets were provided for the lacings. The front was re-enforced with a sort of pocket two inches wide, open at the top for the insertion of the "busk" or "board," which was literally a piece of thin board, a "straight front" such as we never dreamed of. The stays measured sixteen inches around the waist.

"Such agony as I endured before that long morning service was over!" continued my old friend as she carefully replaced the stays. "Noon came at last, however, and when I went out to eat my cookies I rushed behind the meeting house, jerked out that board and, after breaking it in two, threw it away. I was soundly whipped for doing it, but children in those days expected whippings.

"When I was fifteen or sixteen years old, my sister and I used to help each other lace our stays on Sunday, and we did not take them off until the next Saturday night."

An examination of the fashion books of that period confirms this story of tight lacing. The imagination conjures a comical spectacle when it pictures those tortured matrons, with their wasp waists, tiny caps with flowers "drooping in the neck" and voluminous skirts "gauged with one or two rows half an inch apart with care that they hang evenly and well," solemnly skipping the rope in the privacy of their boudoirs.

The prevalence of recipes for lotions and pastes for the complexion and the universal use of paints and powders leads to the conclusion that there were defects to be covered that might have been removed by the use of the skipping rope or other exercise assisted by the lavish use of soap and water.

The girl or woman of this generation, moving about with the glorious freedom made possible by the short skirts, loose waist and stout shoes, is as different physically from the woman of preceding generations as the bird that enjoys the full freedom of the heavens is different from the one that is caged and whose wings are clipped.

The ten minute walk taken once a week in "prunella shoes" has lengthened to a ten mile walk taken in shoes her brother might wear. The skipping rope wielded in the privacy of her boudoir has been replaced by the golf stick wielded in the open air. The sixteen inch waist has expanded to twenty-five inches. It is within the power of this fine creature to overcome her inheritance of weak nerves and the tendency to hysteria, the natural revolt of nature against tight lacing, thin shoes and lack of physical culture. It is also within her power if she will cultivate repose as assiduously as she cultivates out of door exercise to eliminate "nerves" and "hysteria" from her vocabulary, and the children of future generations might search with curiosity for the meaning of those obsolete words in old dictionaries that have found a place by the side of the "stys" and the "Treatise on Diet and Regimen" in the ancient chest of drawers.—Agnes E. Blanchard in New York Times.

THE HAIR AND THE SCALP.

Some Valuable Suggestions as to the Use of the Brush.

In washing and brushing the hair it is well to remember that the epidermis and corium of the scalp are not supported by a thick layer of subtissue, as is the rest of the skin of the body. So in washing and drying the hair one's eagerness to be clean should not cause one to scrub the head as if strength were the one essential in obtaining good results.

Ofttimes one reads that brushing the hair every night will develop the muscles of the neck and arms, and at once the woman who wishes to be beautiful seizes a hairbrush and even takes one in each hand for symmetry's sake and goes through a regular Indian club exercise on her head. After some months' faithful devotion to the cause of muscles she proudly shows a finely rounded arm; but, alas, the hair is but a wisp! It is friction of the scalp, gentle and regular, that acts as a tonic. Brushing the hair will not affect the scalp, and the old saying that "you cannot brush the scalp too much or the hair too little" is to be heeded. Hair needs air as well as brushing. The custom of braiding it at night is conducive to bad results. It may be a little uncomfortable to have one's tresses flying around the face, but if one throw them over the pillow they will not interfere with one's comfort after the first few nights. It will be surprising to find what good results will come from this habit of allowing the hair freedom from twists and braids and hairpins.

Whims and Moods.

If we want to be liked, we must not allow moods, emotions or whims to come always to the surface. The friend who meets us with, "Oh, I'm so annoyed, I must tell you how I've been worried!" and such like exclamations is not half so welcome as the one who comes to us telling only of the bright happenings, who seems to give rather than to draw from us. And from this face we can learn one obvious lesson.

And another great secret of charm is charitableness and scrupulousness in not saying behind a person's back what one would not say to their face. It is so easy to make unkind fun, and sneering and witty remarks about others sometimes evoke much laughter, and people are deceived into fancying that such laughter means popularity. It may amuse us for the moment, but these are not the people one is anxious to meet again, for one feels that the chances are that we may serve at some time or other as material for other witty stories. And, deny the fact though we may, there is no doubt most of us do object to be held up to ridicule.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Mrs. Alderman's Big Apple Orchards.

Out in a country of large things even such an apple orchard as that owned and managed by Mrs. Laura A. Alderman of Harley, S. D., stands out in the first rank. It contains 130 acres in full bearing of the finest fruit that the latitude affords. The land was taken up in 1876 and was gradually converted to the business of fruit raising. A scourge of grasshoppers which nearly destroyed all other crops in South Dakota left the country nearly poverty stricken for a time, and fruit dealers suffered with the rest. But pluck and energy saved the day for Mrs. Alderman, and for the past fifteen or twenty years her work has been a continuous success. The apples from the Alderman farm are gathered with special care and never fail of a good market. From 8,000 to 10,000 bushels are gathered each year, and in the harvest season forty or more persons are employed in the business. Mrs. Alderman's father was closely related to Colonel Ethan Allen of Vermont. She is now a resident of Detroit, Mich.—Leslie's Weekly.

Facts About Old Lace.

In fixing the approximate date of any given piece of lace it is well to remember that machine made thread was not used until after the beginning of the eighteenth century. Before that time the threads ran in lengths of about twenty inches, for the worker could stretch no farther than her distaff and had to break off and join again; if after unraveling some twenty-five inches of thread no joint is found, the lace is surely after the introduction of machine made thread. The "bride's ornee" alone are enough to go by; in the fifteenth century the bar had only a knot or dot as ornament; in the sixteenth, a double or single loop; in the seventeenth, a star. The edging also helps; a sharp angle in the scallop fixes the date in the middle ages; the rounded scallop came in with the nineteenth century; with the seventeenth century a dotted scallop; the eighteenth one is more elaborate, a large alternating with a small scallop and dots along the center of each.—St. Louis Republic.

Beauty Hints.

Cultivate expression of the eyes. In a short time they will speak more eloquently than your tongue. Do not draw your eyelids together or pucker your face when exposed to a strong light. This makes wrinkles. Shade your eyes with your hand. Dark eyebrows and lashes are marks of beauty. When lighter than the hair, they may be made darker by applying green walnut juice with a small camel's hair brush. Do not pencil them. A slight arch and a fine line may be given to the eyebrows by pinching them between the fingers several times each day.

Never bite the lips to make them red. It not only makes them dark and sore, but it makes your face look drawn and distorted while you are biting them. If you bathe your lips occasionally with a little alum dissolved in water and apply glycerin, with a few drops of water of benzoin, the lips will be kept fresh and red and without injury.—Exchange.

Women and the Rifle.

The picturesque old Surrey town of Farnham, England, has taken a step toward encouraging marksmanship among women. It has the Ivy House Rifle club, to which women are admitted, and the first lady member was the Lady Mary Arkwright, a daughter of the house of Strafford.

There are hours on two days of the week during which the use of the range is specially reserved for women, and at all other times it is open to them in competition with the men. — Philadelphia North American.

Expensive Wedding Presents.

One of the most striking features of an up to date wedding is present giving and receiving. Wedding presents of late have become a positive tax on society.

They are not given because the donor is fond of the bride or the bridegroom, but simply because it is the fashion, and each year as luxury increases wedding presents become more costly.

The panorama was invented by a Scotchman named Robert Barker, who obtained a license in London in 1787 and erected a rotunda on Leicester square. He was associated with Robert Fulton, the practical inventor of the steamboat, who introduced panoramas into Paris in 1796, but resigned in favor of Thayer perhaps in order to give his attention to the application of steam to boats. Thayer raised a rotunda on the Boulevard Montmartre, whence comes the name of the Passage des Panoramas. Bonaparte caused plans to be drawn up for eight panoramas in which his conquests were to be shown to the Parisians, whom he always tried to impress with the magnitude of the achievements in order to keep them faithful to his star. But these projects were never realized.

His Clever Scheme.

The best piece of toast was about half way down the pile, and he started to take it.

"Willie," said his mother, "you shouldn't do that. Take the top piece always."

He made a hasty mental calculation.

The Parrot.

With the ancients the parrot was not a bird to be revered, so far as can be learned. It is not depicted on any of the sacred scenes in stone that tell the strange stories of the religions of the nations of old, nor has it ever been found mummified in the tombs of Egypt. Most likely the ancients thought it an uncanny bird and also a dangerous one, with its capabilities of repeating what it heard.

CHILDREN LOVE TO TAKE IT

And it Cures Them of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Sore Throat and Whooping Cough.

Because it contains turpentine some people imagine that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is disagreeable to the taste. On the contrary, it is sweet and palatable, and children love to take it. They soon learn that, besides being pleasant to take, it brings immediate relief to soreness, irritation and inflammation of the throat and lungs. At this season of the year all mothers desire to have in the house some reliable medicine to give when the children catch colds, or awake in the night with the hollow, croupy cough which strikes a chill to every mother's heart. You can rely absolutely on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has stood the test.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

There are other preparations of linseed and turpentine put up in imitation of Dr. Chase's. Be sure the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase are on the bottle you buy. 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents. All dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

It was five hours before he was released from his predicament and five days before he reached St. Boniface hospital, when it was found his hips were badly crushed. Broken bones were removed and a new joint set in, and the doctors think that in time he will be able to walk without a cane. The Revelstoke Herald tells about a curious ice formation which has been observed in the ice on the river near the Greenslide. They have named it the "turntable." The formation is apparently due to the existence of a whirlpool in the river.

The valley of the Souris river, in the southeastern corner of Assiniboia territory, just west of the boundary of Manitoba, would prove an interesting section for research by geologists. There are some peculiar rock formations in this district which are objects of curiosity and interest to the observer. It is from this district that the Souris coal comes, which is used largely throughout Southern Manitoba as far north as the Canadian Pacific railway line and east to Winnipeg. The upper portion of the Souris river runs through a deep valley of varying width, and along this valley there are many beautiful scenes of mixed prairie and woodland.—Commercial.

OBJECT TO UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Kentucky Women Do Not Want the Old Time Popular Play in Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 10.—Lexington chapter of United Daughters of Confederacy has sent a written petition to Charles D. Scott, manager of the Lexington Opera house, asking that the play "Uncle Tom's Cabin" never be played again at the opera house there. They give as reasons that the best citizens and old families living in and about Lexington were once slave owners, that the incidents of Uncle Tom's Cabin are not typical of slave life in the South, but of isolated cases; that the production and its advertisement of bloodhounds and pictures of an old negro in chains, and a slave owner with whip in hand, present a false idea of the history of the times to the children of the city and are in disrespect to the southern gentlemen and good citizens and their families in this part of the country.

The petition is signed by four of the most prominent women of the chapter, and is endorsed unanimously by the members.

KING'S HEAD ON NOTES.

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The King's head appears on the new postal notes for the first time. The design of the notes has been slightly changed, but in the main retain the general appearance of the old ones. HIGH PRICED LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—The Hereford bull "Perfection 92891" was sold for $9,000 yesterday at the Union stock yards, Chicago. This is the highest price ever paid in America for a bull or cow of any breed. "Perfection" was the champion Hereford bull of the International live stock exposition in December. He headed the list of 56 animals sold yesterday by Thomas Clark, of Beacher, Ill., and was purchased by Gilbert H. Hoxie, vice-president of the Mallory Live stock commission company of Chicago.

In yesterday's sale 56 animals of all ages were sold for $28,395, an average of $507 a head.

AUSTRALIAN TRADE.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 7.—The Victoria board of trade this morning passed a resolution urging the Dominion government to have Mr. Larke, the Canadian commissioner, return to Canada and confer with the boards of trade on Australian trade and to particularly inform the business men on the new conditions arising out of the confederation of the Australian colonies. A committee was also appointed to draft a memorial on trade to strengthen the hands of the Canadian premier at the conference of colonial premiers to be held in London.

C. P. R. LANDS.

The C. P. R. lands department is advertising several changes in their regulations regarding the terms of payment for their lands. In regard to these changes Assistant Land Commissioner Doupe says that they will only affect the lands which will be sold to those purchasers who do not fulfil the requirements as to residence. The terms to actual settlers will remain the same as heretofore. Purchasers who do not intend to reside upon and cultivate their lands will be required hereafter to make an initial payment of one-sixth of the whole price, in cash, the balance to be paid in five equal annual instalments at 6 per cent. It has been customary previously to make the first payment of one-tenth of the purchase price in cash and nine equal annual instalments thereafter, with interest as above mentioned. The change in the requirements is made in order to give the actual settlers the preference in easy payments and to encourage the buying of land for cultivation instead of speculation.

A FRIENDLY WOLF.

A most remarkable display of humor was exhibited by a timber wolf in a manner so interesting that it is worth describing. A young man was engaged in burning a lime kiln on the banks of the Assiniboine river, not far from Birtle. A constant fire was required for a few days and the fireman had taken a fine pair of collies along with him, partly for company and partly for protection, as the place was lonely and isolated. During the night a large timber wolf approached to investigate and if possible discover the cause of the commotion in his favorite haunts. Of course the dogs were let loose, and were off in a moment in wild pursuit, the wolf just a few paces ahead in his graceful retreat. For a time the course of the animals through the bushes of the wooded ravines could be known from the barking of the dogs. In a few hours, however, the collies returned completely tired out, while the wolf followed behind at a tantalizing distance. Every few yards the dogs would stop and turn about as if to renew the pursuit which the wild creature seemed anxious to have continued. The collies finally lay down on the grass beside their master and the wolf also came up quite close and was permitted to take a sociable seat in the curious group.—Hartney Star.

A WESTERN VIEW OF A PHASE OF THE RAILWAY SITUATION.

An article in the Vancouver Province, criticizing the position of a Victoria newspaper on the railway question in British Columbia calls forth the following sensible endorsation from the Rossland Miner:—

"The Vancouver Province very properly takes the position that it is in the interests of British Columbia that no opportunity be given American railway corporations to drain the resources of this province to the building up of American enterprises. What the Province says in respect to the desire of Mr. Hill to secure entry into this field for the purpose of benefiting the institutions which he has on the other side of the line, few will be inclined to dispute. It is very hard to understand why any person who has the best interests of this country at heart and who has made any investigation into the situation is willing to aid the schemes of those who are undoubtedly desirous of working against Canadian interests We are stating but the truth when we say that the Canadian Pacific railway is essentially and beyond peradventure a British enterprise. Its whole future depends upon the continued progress and prosperity of Canada, and as a consequence every person connected with the administration of its affairs is working with his whole heart and soul for Canada. Yet the most severe criticisms of the Canadian Pacific railway and the most strenuous efforts to do it injury and cripple it come from the very persons whose interests are so inseperable from those of the company that its ruin would mean their ruin also. It does not matter that in Manitoba, the Northwest Territories and British Columbia the company can point to the fact that its local rates are 20 per cent. lower than those offered by the railway companies south of the international boundary; that its rates for the carriage of the produce of the country are very much below those prevailing in any corresponding territory in any section of the world; that the company is endeavoring as rapidly as prudence will permit to provide transportation facilities for the new territory tributary to its lines; that it is expending millions every year for the improvement of its lines and the increase of its transportation facilities with a view to still further reduction in its transportation rates; that it takes up as its own quarrel every promoter's and speculator's effort to hand over the control of the country's natural resources to the advantage of some foreign country and the serious detriment of our own—the agitation goes on; and the Dominion government and every provincial government is pressed and badgered into the expenditure of large sums of Canadian money to weaken the Canadian Pacific railway and strengthen its foreign competitors. It is quite natural to assume that Canadian Pacific railway protests are not entirely disinterested—indeed, it could be easily expected that the Canadian Pacific railway officials would admit that the future of the Canadian Pacific railway is not lost sight of; but even so, it is not easy to see why any person in British Columbia, or, in fact, any other section of Canada, should be willing to strike a blow at the Canadian Pacific railway in the interests of some foreign line when he is at the same time giving a set-back to his province and his country. There are a few men who pursue this course because nature provided them with pre-eminent bumps of destruction; but the great majority who urge an unwise policy do so because they do not comprehend the real situation. The danger is that in the meantime so much harm will be done that years will be required to repair it. Signs are not wanting that the times are not far distant when British Columbians will be called upon to guard the interests of their magnificent province against the aggression of envious foreigners. When that time arrives British Columbians should do their duty and stand up for Canadian interests first, last and all the time."—From Montreal Gazette, 27th Dec., 1901.

STOLEN MONEY FOUND.

A dispatch from Crandall, Man., says: The thousand dollar package stolen from Elliott's store here on Christmas night, was found here on Saturday morning, buried in a snow bank not fifteen feet from the store from which the money was taken. John Reddin was the person who found it, and he at once called H. Brawn, from whom the money was stolen, and between them, took the bills from the snow, and upon counting, found the full thousand dollars in the package. How the bills came to be in the snow bank is a mystery, as the bank was formed by the wind on New Year's night. The most likely solution is that the burglar was an amateur, and either his conscience troubled him or fear of detection led him to leave the money where it was found, as only one end of the bills were in the snow, the other end being exposed. The work of finding the criminal will not likely be dropped.

MARKETS

WHEAT.

The holiday season has interrupted markets a little during the past week but not to the same extent as the previous week. The tone of the markets has kept firm, and sometimes even strong, but there has just been the amount of uncertainty and nervousness about them to prevent any marked change, and the week's business has been done within a narrow range of fluctuation, and the prices closed on Saturday at practically the same figures as a week before. At no time during the past seven days could the situation be characterized as weak. There is not much to say about the crops. The Price Current considers the condition of the winter wheat crop in the States as fairly favorable. There has been ample moisture where drought conditions prevailed previously, but some slight apprehension is felt at the prospect of cold weather without snow covering, and the chances are, there will be more or less crop scares during the next four months. Harvest in Argentina and Australia is about over and there is nothing new to report from these countries. European winter wheat crop is doing well in general.

Manitoba wheat has been very dull and at the close of the week ½c under the prices of a week ago. Buyers are very scarce, owing to exporters being unable to work freely. No. 1 hard wheat is not much in evidence lately and buyers of it are difficult to obtain than for 1 and 2 northern. Prices are nominal. No. 1 hard, 72½c; 1 northern, 69c; 2 northern, 66c, in store Fort William or Duluth, delivery first half of January. For delivery last half of January ½c more can be obtained. There appears to be no business for delivery further ahead than January.

Country Wheat—As country elevators are practically all full there is very little wheat being bought and at many points the market is in a normal condition.

Liverpool Prices—On January 4 No. 2 red western winter was quoted at 6s 2½d, No. 1 northern spring steady at 6s 1½d.

FLOUR—Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.10 per sack of 98 pounds; Glenora Patent, $1.95; Alberta, $1.75; Manitoba, $1,55; Imperial XXXX, $1.35; Lake of the Woods Five Roses brand, $2 per 98 pound sack; Red Patent, $1.85; Medora, $1.45; XXXX, $1.25.

MILLFEED—Stocks are very light, and prices hold as follows: Bran, in bulk, $18.50 per ton; shorts, in bulk, $19.50 per ton. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 per ton higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is worth $30 per ton delivered to the trade in Winnipeg. Oil cake is worth $27.

OATS—There is not much demand for western oats for eastern shipment and the market in Winnipeg is mostly down to a local feed basis. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bus; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight. No. 1 Alberta oats (the new grade) are worth 38½, Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta 38½c.

BARLEY—Receipts of farmers' loads are quite large and the market holds steady. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY—Dealers are paying $5 to $6 a ton for fresh baled hay in carlots on track in Winnipeg. Loose hay on the street is also worth $5 to $6 per ton.

DRESSED MEATS—Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef, city dressed, 6 to 7c per pound; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7 to 7½c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 10½ to 11½c per lb, dressed.

GAME—Rabbits are bringing 5c each.

BUTTER—Creamery—Very little is offering. Receipts are mostly in brick form and bring 21c per pound delivered in Winnipeg, for good stock Dairy—Some country shippers have been sending in quite large consignments of dairy butter, which probably represents the accumulation of the past five or six months with some of them. Some of it has been sold for less than 5c per pound. Fine table qualities of dairy butter are scarcely to be had here at any price, and as high as 22c is being paid for some of this kind. Ordinary receipts realize from 11 to 16c per pound net, delivered in Winnipeg.

HIDES—No. 1 inspected hides, 6½c per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5½c; No. 3, 4½c; kips and calf, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horse hides 50c to $1; frozen hides are worth ½c less.

FERNIE, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

SATURDAY, JAN. 18, 1902.

PARTY LINES.

The British Columbia press is almost a unit in regard to the establishment of strictly party lines in provincial affairs. The system at present in vogue is so utterly and irreclaimably rotten that certainly no worse state of affairs could exist under the most hidebound partyism. The British Columbia legislators have long been regarded in the east with that contempt they have so well earned, but the advent of Mr. Dunsmuir to the Premiership was generally regarded with favor. He was thought to be a man, while of no particular political ability, at least of good and honest intentions. But Oh, what a falling off was there immediately on his accession to power. Surrounding himself with a cabinet composed of grafters, heelers, and various nondescripts he quickly slid into the old beaten track and his government is merely regarded as a joke—a serious one of course.

The spectacle of cabinet ministers and private members of the house hopscotching from one side of the house to the other is almost of daily occurrence and for what? Because some petty scheme of grafting has not been put through to the benefit of the indivldual, and a sulky fit is the reason for voting against the Government. The idea that these men are sent to the Legislature to represent the people of British Columbia, never pencolates through their massive brains. Could any worse state of things exist than has been witnessed in this Province for many years under all sorts of coalition makeshifts? Partyism has never ran so utterly rampant over the rights of the people, and the sooner the lines are drawn hard and fast the better. There must surely be sufficient intelligence and executive capacity in both the Liberal and Conservative parties to produce men of at least common honesty of purpose to administer the affairs of this Province so that no longer the finger of scorn will be pointed at its rulers. Let the next Government at Victoria be what it may, Liberal or Conservative, but enough of the system that has so long been the greatest factor for evil that British Columbia has so long experienced.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We have the annual report of the St. Catherines, Ont., Board of Trade. It is a nicely bound book of 120 pages, giving a history of the Board of Trade and the city. It is copiously illustrated and is a very creditable work.

Hon. R. W. Scott speaking of what Ottawa would be fifty years hence, hoped it would still be the seat of the Federal government. It required no prophetic eye, however, to see that the star of the Empire was leading westward and Canada fifty years from now would, in his opinion, have twenty millions of a population, ten millions of which would undoubtedly be west of Lake Superior. The honorable gentleman's prophecy may seem extravagant with respect to the west. Certain it is, that the great West has room and to spare for a population largely in excess of the prediction.

The Minister of Militia is considering the question of granting compensation to the widows of officers, non-commissioned officers and men who lost their lives in South Africa. Such an expenditure would be heartily approved of by all.

Nominations for ten bye-elections were held in the east January 8, for the Federal parliament. Little interest appears to be taken, it being a foregone conclusion that the government will not suffer any losses and more than probable will gain two or three seats.

* * *

The Federal Parliament has been summoned to meet Feb. 13. It is expected that the session will be short as there is no legislation of importance to be introduced. The Premier will be given all assistance by both sides of the House in facilitating the work of the session to enable him to attend the coronation ceremonies in June.

We are in receipt of the sixth report of the Department of Agriculture for British Columbia. It deals very comprehensively with the agricultural and forestry interests of British Columbia and contains a vast amount of reliable information. It is profusely illustrated with excellent photogravures and is creditable alike to the department and the printer.

Few more satisfactooy evidences of the wonderful growth and ample prosperity of the new mining town of Fernie, B. C. could be found than the Christmas souvenir edition of the Fernie Free Press, a copy of which is just to hand. It is a large quarto pamphlet of 48 pages printed on glazed paper, enclosed in a red cover printed in gold, and copiously illustrated by photogravures. The souvenir is printed in Fernie in The Free Press office and is a proof that the art of printing has at least kept pace with progress in other lines. The typographical appearance of the edition is such as would do credit to the older and larger towns of Ontario. The features of the issue are a sketch of the history of Fernie; a description of East Kootenay, by W. Blakemore, M. E., Montreal, a chapter on the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company, to which, of course, the town owes its existence; a breezy western story by Wm. Blakemore—"The Photograph that Lied"; and some interesting notes on the churches, athletic and other institutions of Fernie. That so handsome a souvenir could be issued in a town which is between three and four years old only is the best indication of the wonderful progress which is being made in this section of the west. Mr. C. Hacking and Mr. J. R. Wallace, editor and manager respectively of The Free Press, are to be warmly congratulated on the success of their first souvenir number.—Toronto Globe.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

C. E. Mansfield night operator at the depot has resigned.

P. Burns & Co. received a carload of beef on Wednesday.

J. F. Armstrong, Gold Commissioner, was in town Thursday.

W. J. Davis and wife who have been ill for some time are about again.

G. F. Bury, Superintendent, of the C. P. R. was in town on Monday.

John Newman, Fernie, was registered at the Grand Central, Nelson, Thursday.

Rev. D. Holford has recovered from his recent illness and is able to be around again.

Hugh R. Gilmour, M. P. P., Vancouver, was in town on business Sunday and Monday.

One of the happy events of the season took place at the Methodist personage on Thursday evening.

James McMaster of the P. Burns & Co. has been transferred to Moyie to take charge of the business there.

R. Logan is opening a new tailor shop in the P. Burns' building and will be prepared to do business in a few days.

R. A. Shore is opening a boarding house at the mines and will have accommodations for 75 boarders and lodgers.

The hockey match between Fernie and Pincher Creek, which was to have taken place on the 13th, was postponed until quarantine is raised.

Joshua Collins employed in the frieght shed at Cranbrook, was run over by an engine and killed on Monday. His home was in Walkerton, Ont.

Messrs. Richards and Thompson, of the London & Liverpool, have purchased the business in the old town owned by Mrs. Balayti and will take possession in a few days.

Mrs J. Graham was taken with the smallpox ot the Victoria on Wednesday. There have been no new cases reported from the Fernie. The inmates are having a good time.

During the enforced absence of H. M. Trites in quarantine, Mr. Tom. Biggar is manager of the sauerkraut works in the rear of the London & Liverpool, and is turning out a fine quality of the succulent edible.

I may say here to the public that in spite of the great woolen combine of Fernie, B. C. I am going to start business in the merchant tailoring over P. Burns & Co.'s meat market and its my intention to turn out the best of work only and would solicit your patronage. R. Logan. x

Little Harold Bailey is suffering from several very severe wounds which were caused by the attack of a savage bull dog. Several youngsters were teasing the dog when he suddenly sprang upon young Bailey biting him horribly about the face and arms before assistance arrived. The lad will probably carry the marks through the remainder of his life. Constable Henderson shot the dog.

Considerable apprehension existed in financial circles in reference to the introduction of pennies into Fernie. The quarantine at the Victoria was the immediate cause of the untoward incident though Manager Gates disclaims any responsibility. He says they were issued in a poker game by an Ontario man, but as soon as they were identified were destroyed, and the issuer placed in irons in the cellar. Harry Swift laid down kings up when the pennies showed. He never saw any before and thought they were golden guineas, and he couldn't make good.

It was the opinion of the Health officers that the small-pox had been effectually stamped out last week and it was so recorded in these columns. The quarantine at the mines had been raised and the feeling of uneasiness that prevailed to some considerable extent had entirely subsided. On Sunday morning however, the report that two cases had been located in two of hotels was confirmed and the houses were promptly tied up with all the inmates and a general proclamation issued, forbidding all public gatherings and permitting no one to leave the town under any circumstances until further notice. Such conditions are no doubt irksome and cause a good deal of inconvenience but the situation calls for the most strenous measures to effect a complete stamping out of the disease. It is the duty of all citizens to afford every assistance to the authorities in carrying out the terms of the proclamation. We repeat that the disease has been in nearly every instance of an exceedingly mild type, there being no deaths and all of the victims are progressing as favorably as can be expected.

J. S. Carter, district passenger agent C. P. R., Nelson, was registered at the Royal Sunday. He escaped before the proclamation was issued.

A Charity ball will be given at Fort Steele' Friday, Jan. 24, in aid of the Victoria Diamond Jubilee Hospital. Tickets $2 a couple, $1 single.

The new pest house will be completed in a few days. The buildings will be 18x30 with kitchen and will be divided into wards and made as comfortable as possible.

Ed. Simpson, formerly proprietor of the Bellevue hotel, in Phoenix, started Monday for East Kootenay, where he will open a railway hotel about fifteen miles from Fernie.

The inmates of the Fernie Hotel are publishing special editions daily. Judge Trites is the managing editor and what he don't know about running a newspaper isn't worth knowing.

O. N. Janes has sold the balance of his property across the Elk River to Mott, Son & Co. for $6000. Mr. Janes intends leaving town as soon as he settles up his affairs and has purchased a 200 acre near Jackson, Mich., where he will make his future home.

The Crow's Nest Coal Company are extending their trade to the States, and are at the present time shipping their coke in forty-car lots to the Northport smelter, where the coke is being largely used by that corporation. Forty cars were shipped via Nelson Monday for that point.

The British Columbia Legislature has been called to meet on February 20.

William M. Scribner, the author of Scribner's copy books, died in Chicago, Jan. 15th.

Hon. R. R. Dobell, minister without portfolio in the Laurier Government, was thrown from his horse in Folkestone, England and instantly killed.

Smallpox appears to be general throughout America and Europe. It is feared that London will be under quarantine at the time of the coronation ceremonies of King Edward.

The valise, containing all the papers and telegrams in the suit for damages brought by J. B. Carlisle, against Mrs. Dunsmuir was stolen last night from a lawyers office. The police searched all night and this morning for the valise, which was found buried under an up town building.

LEGISLATURE OPENED

THIRD SESSION OF TENTH PARLIAMENT FORMALLY INAUGURATED.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE OUTLINES LITTLE NEW LEGISLATION.

Winnipeg, Jan. 10.—The third session of the tenth legislature of Manitoba was opened yesterday afternoon by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor McMillan, with the usual formalities. There was a large crowd present in the legislative chamber when his honor arrived, and the ladies were out in force, as is their custom on these occasions. His honor was accompanied by a staff composed of local militia officers, and was received by a guard of honor from the Mounted Rifles at the main entrance to the buildings.

Upon reaching the buildings his honor was received by Speaker Hespeler and conducted into the council chamber, where he took the speaker's chair and read the following speech from the throne:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:—

I have much pleasure in welcoming you to the third session of the tenth legislature.

Since the last meeting of the legislature our province has been honored by a visit of Their Royal Highnesses the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York. The people of Manitaba were much gratified by their presence as was evidenced by the enthusiasm everywhere displayed. I feel sure that their visit will confirm and strengthen the ties uniting the Motherland and the colonies, and that great good will result therefrom.

The abundant harvest vouchsafed by Providence has been a source of great prosperity to the province.

The Canadian Northern Railway company have completed their line to Port Arthur, and I anticipate that the farmers and traders of Manitobawill soon experience the benificent results arising from the construction of this important work.

The much-needed consolidation of the statutes is being proceeded with by the commissioners, and will, it is expected, be completed within the year. It is therefore desirable that any amendments thought requisite should be submitted at this meeting of the legislative assembly for consideration.

I regret to state that the federal have, notwithstanding the strenuous exertions of my government, as yet failed to pay over to the province the accumulated interest upon the school monies, and the interest derived from the sale of school lands. You will be asked to take measures to convince the federal authorities that the just demands of Manitoba in this respect should not be any longer disregharded.

In consequence of the existing situation it may be necessary to introduce legislation dealing with the monies now paid to schools and to amend the School Act.

The federal government has, to the surprise and regret of many of my advisors, disallowed "The Real Property Act," passed by this assembly This act was so obviously beneficial that it has been decided to re-introduce it in the expectation that a measure purely provincial in its character, and urgently called for, will not again be disallowed.

Your judgment will be asked upon some other measures of public importance.

The public accounts and the reports of the several departments will be submitted to you. The estimates for the current year will be laid before you at an early date, and you will find that the estimates of expenditure have been prepared with a due regard to economy and the requirements of the public service.

I feel confident that you will give your earnest attention to the measures brought before you, and that your deliberations will be conducted solely in the interests of the public weal.

I trust that the blessing of God will rest upon your labors and that the measures adopted will contribute to the welfare of the province.

A FARMER KILLED.

Minnedosa, Man., Jan. 10.—William Ritchie, a farmer of South Odanah, was fatally injured in a runaway accident while driving from town last evening. His team was caught some distance from town, and when search was made the missing man was found by the roadside, dead.

He leaves a widow and several children.

CLEVER CAPTURE.

HARGRAVE BURGLAR ARRESTED BY DETECTIVE FOSTER OF BRANDON.

Virden, Man., Jan. 10.—One of the most clever captures of a thief was made by Detective Foster, of Brandon, yesterday. On November 23 Truman Lake, station agent at Hargrave, was robbed of $425.75, and it seemed that the guilty party would go scot free; but Detective Foster was working on the case and has been successful in getting the culprit. A few days ago a book agent came to Hargrave and sold a book to Tom Campbell, a young man of that place, Campbel, giving him a $10 bill and getting $6 in change back. He took the $10 bill to Lake to pay for some books he had there, and Lake recognized the bill, it having some red ink on, and asked him who he got the bill from. The agent tolh him Campbell, and Lake wrote Detective Foster, who came to Hargrave last night and drove to Virden this morning early. Campbell came down on the local freight, when Foster had him arrested, and then Detective Foster and Chief Ross, of this place, drove to Hargrave to make a search. They searched the house of John Wilson, where Campbell boarded, and finding no clue to it, searched the hay loft of Wilson's barn, and Ross found a tobacco pouch wich $145 in it. They took $30 from Campbell's person and a gold watch and chain that he had bought to make a young lady a present of.

On returning to Virden they visited the prisoner, and he at first flatly declined to talk, but finally confessed the whole deal. He said he got in through the window and stole the money, but on seeing Foster the first time in Hargrave got scared and burned up $100 in money and three express orders, one for $5 and one for 75 cents. Detective Foster compared the money found in the tobacco pouch with that found on the prisoner and the tobacco pouch had colored the bills to a certain extent. Campbell admitted having recently hidden the money in the hay loft. The prisoner was committed for trial by Magistrate McDougall.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

A Toronto Man Opposed to "Frills" in the Church of England.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—At a conference held last night at Trinity between leading Anglican laymen and members of the Alumni association of Trinity, Allen M. Dymond expressed some very radical views in the following sentences: "Though this may seem a small matter, let us have less frills, fewer knee breeches, aprons queer old hats, the 'my lord,' 'your grace,' etc. These may be very well in England, but they are utterly out of place in this democratic country, and they only tend to encourage the idea that the church is exclusive and stuck up. They lend no real dignity to the offices they adorn, and they make a gulf between the episcopal and the people which has no business to exist. There is too much stuckupishness and a whole lot of ecclesiastical tomfoolery. If we wish to increase the numerical strength.. of tge Church of England we cannot do so by arousing jealousy and resentment by the assertion of superiority in matters such as precedence at vice-regal banquets, etc., with which the church ought to have absolutely nothing to do." Referring to titles, he said: "My lord is an awful mouthful for a Canadian. It is nonsense and entirely out of place in Canada."

TORONTO ACCIDENT.

Toronto, Jan. 10.—William McKenzie, conductor on a Yonge street car, met with a terrible and perhaps fatal accident near the corner of King and Yonge streets, last night. The trolley pole slipped from the wire, and the conductor in leaning out past the edge at the rear end of the car to replace the pole, was struck on the head with great force by a Dundas car. The right ear was completely torn from his head, and almost the whole of the right side of his face was frightfully lacerated. He sustained as well a fracture of the skull and was instantly rendered unconscious.

WESTERN MEN ARE THE BEST.

More of Them Wanted For the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Halifax, Jan. 10.—General O'Grady Haly inspected the Canadian Mounted Rifles this morning. The men are being fitted with their new uniforms, which are warm and serviceable, while the dark drab color is more pleasing than the khaki. The crest of the regiment is a maple leaf.

Since concentration 26 recruits hape been discharged, some for intoxication, some for misconduct, and still others for inability to ride. It is stated that Colonel Evans yesterday telegraphed for thirty additional men from the west.

FIGHT WITH A BEAR

TRAPPER BRUNO HAS AN EXCITING EXPERIENCE NEAR NETLEY.

STORY OF A DESPERATE STRUGGLE BETWEEN BRUIN AND THE HUNTER.

Winnipeg, Jan. 9.—A beautiful brown bear hide, with a knife thrust through the side and a badly lacerated skin, are the tangible results of an encounter which Jacques Bruno had with a tough Bruin near Lake Netley on Monday.

To a reporter Bruno related the following story: "Every winter I make it a practice to go up to Lake Netley, which is about thirteen miles northeast of Teulon, for trapping small game. The present winter is so mild that the hibernating animals such as bears, are all out of their dens. I saw numerous tracks of bears on the snow, but thought of no danger in my lonely tramps.

"On Monday morning while going about as usual to visit my traps, I clambered through some underbrush on a short-cut, and the first thing I knew I took a drop and rolled into the mouth of what turned out to be a small cave used by a she bear for winter quarters.

"There were two young cubs in the lair and they set up an infernal racket. I made a quick attempt to strangle them, one in each hand, but they bit and clawed me terribly. I knew the old bear could not be far away and wanted to save the shots in my revolver for her, as I had no rifle. I pulled my knife from my belt and was about slitting the throats of the cubs when I heard a crackling of the bush overhead and an angry growl.

"I sprang out of the cave and had scarcely reached the top when I came face to face with the mother. I knew from the glare of her eyes that it was all up to me. She at once rose on her hind legs and came on. I waited till she was six feet from me and then fired at her eye from my revolver.

"The next thing I realized was that an avalanche of fur and claws and angry growls was right on top of me. I sprang aside, but my foot caught and I fell sideways. I fired blindly again as I did so, and then my revolver was dashed from my hand by a blow which paralyzed my arm.

"With my left hand I drew my long hunting knife and as the bear pounced upon me I drove it deep into her side, where it stuck fast.

"I was now covered with blood, and my senses began to reel. A faintness came over me and the last thing I remember was of clutching the beast by the throat.

"When I came to myself I found that I had been rescued in the nick of time by a habitant named Pierre Lalonde, who was attracted by the shots I fired. He found the bear expiring across my body, my knife having buried itself in her heart.

"We captured the cubs, which I presented to Lalonde as his share. I was so badly used up that after helping Lalonde to kill the bear I had to be carried to my shack. I determined to come to the city for medical help in case of blood poisoning, and I reached here last night."

Bruno was scratched and lacerated in a score of places, but no bones were broken. His first bullet took effect in the bear's eye, and the second in her breast. Bruno is exceedingly proud of his fine trophy.

FREIGHT RATES REDUCED.

C. P. R. Make a Cut in Rates Equal to Almost Twenty Per Cent.

Toronto, Jan. 9.—Shippers to Manitoba were yesterday presented with a New Year's gift by the Canadian Pacific railway in the shape of a reduction in rates from the east to Manitoba and Northwest points as outlined in a circular received at the district freight offices at the Union station. The nature of these reductions can be seen by a comparison of the old with the new rates from Toronto to Fort William and Winnipeg as follows:

Toronto to Fort William, old rate, first class, $1.35; second, $1.15; third, 90c; fourth, 65c; fifth, 57c; sixth, 48c. New rate—First class, $1; second, 82c; third, 66c; fourth, 47c; fifth, 40c; sixth, 34c.

Toronto to Winnipeg, old rate, first class, $1.81; second, $1.55; third $1.24; fourth, 97; fifth, 82c; sixth, 74c. New rate, first class, $1.78; second, $1.52; third, $1.21; fourth, 95c; fifth, 80c; sixth, 73c.

There have been corresponding reductions to Northwest points and reductions in commodity rates under Crow's Nest Pass agreement tariffs.

He scoffs at scars who never was vacinnated.

COLLISION IN A TUNNEL.

New York, Jan. 9.—The police report that a collision between trains has occurred in the New York Central tunnel at Fifty-sixth street and Park avenue in which a number of persons were killed and injured.

The trains in collision were an accommodation of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road from Norwalk, Conn., and a local known as the White Plains on the New York and Harlem branch of the New York Central.

The latter train completely wrecked two cars of the Norwalk train. Many persons were killed or injured. The Norwalk local consisted of five cars. When the train was at Fifty-sixth street, this city, it was stopped by a signal. The train had been standing but a few minutes when the collision occurred. The big engine of the White Plains local crashed into the passenger coaches, splitting the last car and driving portions of it into the next car. At 10 o'clock yesterday ten bodies had been removed from the wreck and sixteen bodies were in the hospitals and two were to be seen in the wreck.

The steam from the engines scalded the persons in the wrecked cars. The crash was heard by hundreds of the residents in the neighborhood and enormous crowds collected at the scene. Clouds of steam arose from the airholes of the tunnel, making difficult the work of rescue. The injured were lifted out by ropes or were carried through the tunnel to its mouth just below Fifty-sixth street. All of the bodies were badly disfigured and nearly unrecognizable.

It is said that the number of persons killed in the tunnel collision will reach twelve.

THE KING A HARD WORKER.

Britain's Monarch Following in the Foorsteps of His Mother.

London, Jan. 9.—The King's health is all that can be desired, if court officials speak without reserve. He refers constantly to the subject himself, and seems bent upon preventing a revival of the sinister rumors, which cost tradesmen so heavily when they were insuring their coronation stocks. What was once known as the Prince of Wales' set has been restored to favor, if it were ever in danger of being excluded from court, and the Queen welcomes to Sandringham all kinds of old time friends. The King is described by officials as following closely in his mother's manner in dealing with public business. He makes it a matter of conscience to read every document carefully and to ask for information if he does not fully understand it, He takes every detail of the business of reigning as seriously and methodically as she was in the habit of doing, and uses many of her characteristic expressions.

DISASTER IN NORTHERN SEAS.

The Collier Bristol Founders Near Skagway.—Seven Drowned.

Vancouver, Jan. 9.—The screw steamer Bristol, one of Premier Dunsmuir's colliery fleet, was wrecked on January 2 on Green Island, Dixon's entrance, near Skagway. The vessel ran on a rock which is nearly covered at high tide, and smashed her bows badly. She then slid off and went down almost immediately. Her captain, mate and five of the crew lost their lives. Twenty-one survivors were picked up by the City of Seattle and brought down here.

FOUND HIS FIANCEE DYING.

Story of a Regina Man Who Went to Hamilton to Wed.

A touching romance has come to light, says the Hamilton Times by the death of Miss Maggie McMullen, a former Mount Forest girl, who passed away at the residence of Miss Murphy, corner of Wellington and Birge streets. The girl was to have been married on Christmas day to Wellington Thomas, of Regina, late of Mount Forest. He arrived here a few days before the day set for the ceremony to find his fiancee dying of consumption, and in the hands of Christian Scientists. Although she she was fast sinking she had got her trousseau ready, and wrote encouraging letters to him; she did not believe she.. was seriously ill. Mr. Thompson at once called in medical doctors, but they could do little for her, as she was in the last stages of the disease.

Relatives of the deceased allege that the girl had received medical attendance at the proper time she would have recovered, and they are incensed at the Christian Scientists. They intend laying the case before the crown attorney. The poor girl had been at Miss Murphy's house only ten days. She was taken there from a Scientist's house by a relative.

INDIAN OUTBREAK IMMINENT.

Miles City, Mont., Jan. 11.—Fort Keogh yesterday received a telegram from Forsyth asking that soldiers be immediately despatched to the Lame Deer Agency.

Word has arrived from the agency that trouble was brewing and that an outbreak of the Cheyennes was imminent if it had not already occurred. Lieut. Chapman, of the post, stated that a request for troops had been communicated to the department headquarters, and that soldiers were making preparations for immediate departure on the receipt of orders.

F. Beatty, a prominent citizen of Ashland, near the Lame Deer agency, said that the disturbance originated by an Indian named White being sent for by the agent in charge. The Indian refused to obey the summons and an Indian posse was dispatched to bring him in. White opened fire upon the appearance of the posse, killing one of the Indian policemen. The warring Indian then turned upon his own wife and daughter, killing them both, and finally shot himself, dying instantly.

DEATH SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Ottawa, Jan. 11.—A meeting of the cabinet was held yesterday forenoon to dispose of a capital case from British Columbia. Ah Koung, a Chinamgn, killed three of his countrymen and wounded three others with a gun near New Westminster, B. C. There was no motive for the crime. The prisoner did not even know any of them. He simply ran up against them.

The doctors have decided that the prisoner is a lunatic, and was insane when he killed the strangers. This being the case, there was nothing left for the governor-in-council to do but to remit the death sentence, and to hand the prisoner over to the provincial authorities to be cared for as a lunatic. Ah Koung was to have been hanged on Jan. 14.

BOERS WANT PEACE.

Amsterdam, Jan, 11.—The Boer delegates in Holland evidently anticipate that some kind of peace overtures will shortly be forthcoming, although they are reticent as to their reasons for this belief.

They maintain, however, that the demand for an unconditional surrender must be abandoned. It is privately admitted that none of the delegates will reject what they call "any fair offer of terms."

BABY IN THE HOME.

A Joy and Treasure When Good Natured and Healthy.

All children in every home in the country need at some time or other a medicine such as Baby's Own Tablets, and this famous remedy has cured many a serious illness and saved many a little life. Mothers insist upon having it because it contains no opiate or harmful drugs. It is purely vegetable, sweet and pleasant to take and prompt in its effect.

For simple fevers, colic, constipation, disordered stomach, diarrhoea, irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth and indigestion, Baby's Own Tablets are a certain cure. In fact in almost any disorder common to children these tablets should be given at once and relief may be promptly looked for.

Never give the babies so-called soothing medicines which simply put them into an unnatural sleep. These tablets are small, sweet, pleasant to take and prompt in acting. Dissolved in water, they will be taken readily by the smallest infant.

Mrs. John McEwan, Bathurst Village, N. B., writes: "My baby was almost constantly troubled with colic before I gave him Baby's Own Tablets, but since giving them to him he has not since suffered. Every mother should keep these tablets always at hand."

They cost 25 cents abox. You can find them at your druggist's, or, if you do not, forward the money direct to us and we will send the tablets prepaid. The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Dept. T., Brockville, Ont.

ELDERLY MEN

THERE IS NO BETTER YOUTH RESTORER THAN DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

Hr. H. S. Barnes, Seventy-Five Years of Age Feels Young and Smart as a Boy—Used Dodd's Kidney Pills and Delighted With the Results.

Rat Portage, Dec. 30.—Mr. H. S. Barnes is an elderly gentleman, being five years past the three score years and ten. He is the father of ex-Mayor Barnes, and no old gentleman in Rat Portage is more esteemed and respected. Mr. Barnes is one of the many conscientious and liberal-minded citizens of this Dominion who have no hesitation in allowing their names to be used for the benefit of others in connection with cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills in their behalf.

Gentlemen,—I would like to make the following statement for the benefit of whoever would like to hear the truth told. I am 75 years old, and have lived in Rat Portage for the past 18 years. Some months ago my wife asked me to get her some Dodd's Kidney Pills. She was suffering from some kidney trouble, and desired to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I finally got her a box, but she never lived to take them. Having little faith in patent medicines, I however, was soon forced to change my opinion. I had long been neglecting similar symptoms to those of my wife, these now became very severe. Having the box of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house, I thought I might as well try them. I suffered terribly with pain across my back with a scalding sensation when urinating. Well, the first box stopped these symptoms, and continuing their use I became completely cured. All the citizens of Rat Portage were greatly surprised at the change in my appearance, I can tell you. They often used to greet me with, "Hello, Mr. Barnes! Why how smart you are looking!" They were not far astray; I felt smart, too, and younger and in better health than for years. You may publish this statement with my full endorsation of your remedy which possesses real genuine merit.

Owing to the variations of the Canadian climate, considerable allowance must be made in all fences for contraction and expansion, which makes an ordinary wire fence unserviceable, as when it expands it becomes so loose as to prove of little value. Note the continuous coil, this makes it elastic and self-regulating. The Page Wire Fence is made of "Page" wire, which is twice as strong as ordinary wire. Prices are particularly low this season. 50,000 miles of Page fences now in use. We also make Gates, Ornamental Fences and Poultry Netting. The Page Wire Fence Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont. 2

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

An article in the Vancouver Province criticizing the position of a Victoria newspaper on the railway question in British Columbia calls forth the following endorsation from the Rossland Miner:

"The Vancouver Province very properly takes the position that it is in the interests of British Columbia that no opportunity be given American railway corporations to drain the resources of this Province to the building up of American enterprises What the Province says in respect to the desire of Mr. Hill to secure entry into this field for the purpose of benefitting the institutions which he has on the other side of the line, few will be inclined to dispute. It is very hard to understand why any person who has the best interests of this country at heart, and who has made any investigation into the situation, is willing to aid the schemes of those who are undoubtedly desirous of working against Canadian interests. We are stating but the truth when we say that the Canadian Pacific Railway is essentially and beyond peradventure a British enterprise. Its whole future depends upon the continued progress and prosperity of Canada, and as a consequence every person connected with the administration of its affairs is working with his whole heart and soul for Canada. Yet the most severe criticisms of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and the most strenous efforts to do it injury and cripple it, come from the very persons whose interests are so inseparable from those of the company that its ruin would mean their ruin also. It does not matter that in Manitoba, the North-west Territories, and British Columbia the company can point to the fact that its local rates are 20 per cent. lower than those offered by the railway companies south of the international boundary; that its rates for the carriage of the produce of the country are very much below those prevailing in any corresponding territory in any section of the world, that the company is endeavorng as rapidly as prudence will permit to provide transportation facilities for the new territory tributary to its line; that it is expending millions every year for the improvement of its lines and the increase of its transportation facilities with a view to still further reduction in its transportation rates; that it takes up as its own quarrel every promoter's and speculator's effort to hand over the control of the country's natural resources to the advantage of some foreign country, and the serious detriment of our own—the agitation goes on; and the Dominion Government and every Provincial Government is pressed and badgered into the expenditure of large sums of Canadian money to weaken the Canadian Pacific Railway and strengthen its foreign competitors. It is quite natural to assume that Canadian Pacific Railway protest are not entirely disinterested—indeed, it could easily be expected that the Canadian Pacific Railway officials would admit that the future of the Canadian Pacific Railway is not lost sight of; but even so, it is not easy to see why any person in British Columbia, or in fact, any other section of Canada, should be willing to strike a blow at the Canadian Pacific Railway in the interests of some foreign line when he is at the same time giving a set-back to his Province and his country. There are few men who pursue this course because nature provided them with pre-eminent bumps of destruction; but the great majority who urge an unwise policy do so because they do not comprehend the real situation. The danger is that in the meantime so much harm will be done that years will be required to repair it. Signs are not wanting that the time is not far distant when British Columbians will be called upon to guard the interests of their magnificent province against the aggression of envious foreigners. When that time arrives British Columbians should do their duty and stand up for Canadian interests first, last and all the time.

The sale of New Books is limited to those who can afford to pay fancy prices for them, and when it is announced that the Family Herald and Weekly Star, of Montreal, has purchased the exclusive right to publish that clever Canadian story "The Man From Glengarry," one can envy the readers of that great paper. "The Man From Glengarry is the talk of the book world. The common question of the day will now be, 'Have you read 'The Man From Glengarry?'" The publication of this remarkable story begins with the Family Herald issue of January 29th. If there are any of our readers who are not now subscribers to to that great family paper, they should take advantage of this opportunity.

To the People of Fernie and Outside Districts

No one is pleased to hear of smallpox or any other disease settling in any town or District. It therefore our duty to get rid of these tormentors of the flesh in the cheapest cleanest possible way we know. One way is to buy at once a $7.00 Niagara Vapor Bath from the agent, Henry Kershaw, opposite the Victoria Hotel, Fernie, B.C., for smallpox, skin diseases, rheumatism and many other diseases, cannot exist at all where the people use weekly and every week one of these most marvellous disease killing and health producing baths. They thoroughly cleanse you from the inside, thus destroying any germs of disease that may have deposited themselves in your system. However, please call and see the baths and be your own judges.

BOARD OF TRADE

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held Friday evening, Jan. 24, Vice-President A. Joyce in the chair. The minutes of last regular meeting were read and adopted. Mr. Joyce stated the object of the meeting was to consider the requirements of the town with regard to Government appropriations and the proposed new depot to be built by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The Company have plans prepared for the erection of a stone depot to cost $25,000.

A letter was read from H. Bentley, Lethbridge, tendering his resignation as President, and also one from the Finance Minister in reference to the appointment of a Deputy Clerk of County Court.

It was moved by J. S. T. Alexander, seconded by H. T. Johnston, that the resignation of Mr. Bentley be accepted, and that the special thanks of the Board be conveyed to the late President for the untiring efforts displayed by him in connection with the Fernie Board of Trade.

Moved by D. V. Mott, seconded by W. W. Tuttle, that a Committee of three be appointed to wait on the Division Superintendent of the C. P. R., to confer with him as to the location of the proposed depot, and as to the amount of land required.

Mr. Joyce appointed Messrs. John Kay, Mott and Alexander a committee to carry out the motion.

Moved by D. V. Mott, seconded by S. Herchmer, that the President, Messrs. Johnson, Tuttle, Cree, Herchmer (H.W.) Stork and Kanouse be a committee to confer with E. C. Smith, M.P. in regard to appropriations, and report at a meeting of the Board Jan. 31.

Moved by W. W. Tuttle, seconded by C. H. Lever, that the Secretary be instructed to communicate with Commissioner Armstrong in reference to obtaining permission from the Government to drain into Elk River.

Moved by D. V. Mott, seconded by A. H. Cree, that the meeting adjourn for one week.

LIBERAL ASSOCIATION MEETING

The Fernie Liberal Association held a well attended meeting in Princess Hall Monday night, and judging by the interest manifested in political matters, Fernie is certainly alive to the present situation. A number of communications were read, among which was a call for delegates to attend the convention in Vancouver, Jan. 30th. The feature of the evening was the number of names presented for membership. Fred Stork was chosen as the Fernie representative to the Vancouver Convention. The annual election of officers took place with the following result:

President—Fred Stork.
Vice-President—Geo, Levasseur.
Secretary-Treasurer—J. H. Bricker.
Executive Committee—T. C. Thompson, T. J. Watson, W. W. Tuttle, H H. Trites, Dr. Higgins and John McLean.

Arrangements were completed to hold an open meeting some time after the delegate returns from Vancouver for the purpose of hearing the report of the Convention proceedings, which will, no doubt, be much more instructive than any newspaper report could be, and all Liberals and citizens should avail themselves of an opportunity of hearing the latest from the turbulent centre of Provincial politics.

Eight new members were proposed and elected.

LABOR MARKET AT ELKO.

The following is contributed to the Winnipeg Free Press by one who signs himself "a Victim of Misrepresentation."

Elko, B.C., Jan. 17.—The construction work on the Jennings-Fernie branch of the G.N.R. is making satisfactory progress. The grading is finished to within 25 miles of Elko on the Jennings end and the steel is laid for about sixty miles from Jennings. When finished the road will be one of the finest in the west. It will have a grade of 8-10 per cent., and being all down grade from Fernie, the large engines to be put on will be able to carry out immense loads of coal. Both Elko and Jennings are swarming with men who cannot find work, having been brought here in response to advertisements in the city papers. They are continually passing up and down the line in a vain endeavor to find work, and much hardship is experienced by many who are completely out of funds. It is to be hoped that the employment agents in Seattle, Spokane and Winnipeg will stop shipping men until the local labor market is less glutted. There are at present 200 idle men in Elko and 100 in Jennings whose numbers are swelled by every train.

One case of smallpox has appeared near Elko the victim being a railroad laborer near Morrissey, but his condition is not serious. He was at once removed to the quarantine and measures taken to prevent the disease spreading.

GREAT COAL CENTRE

On February 1, according to official information received in the city Saturday, the first train over the new branch of the Great Northern from Jennings north of the Canadian boundary line and thence to the Crow's Nest coal fields will arrive at Gateway a new station on the boundary line, and will return with the first train of coal from the Canadian fields for distribution over the main line of the Great Northern system.

On the same date Collector of Customs Charles M. Webster will open a sub-customs port at Gateway, and a post office will be established there. Shortly after the opening of the road there will be a vastly increased amount of the Canadian coal coming to this side of the line, and it is expected that the new customs port will be one of goodly revenue-earning power in the service.

For some time at least, it is thought there will not be any great amount of the Crow's Nest Pass coal which will find its way into central and southern Montana. However, it is well known that plans are on foot which, when consummated, will mean that the importance of Great Falls will be vastly increased as the greatest coal distributing centre of the northwestern States.

At the present time the Great Northern has use for a much larger amount of Crow's Nest Pass Coal than it has been able to get. On all the mountain divisions of the road it is the intention to use it for passengers service. However, after all the lines and sidings into the Canadian fields, to be controlled by the Great Northern, have been completed, there will be an output more than sufficient for the main-line use on the mountain divisions.

Just as soon as the widening of the Great Falls and Canada has been completed, it is semi-officially announced, it is the intention of the road to send its surplus Canadian coal to Great Falls for general distribution over the State.

It will first be brought to Jennings, thence east to Shelby and over the widened gauge to Great Falls for distribution. In order to handle the product here, it will mean, it is stated, that coal bunkers of very large capacity will have to be erected and maintained. In the cities where the Great Northern road is maintaining bunkers they are looked upon as especially advantageous, and on the coast there has been every inducement offered, to not only the Great Northern, but other roads, to build at certain points.

It is stated that once the coal is here Great Falls will be the point from which the New Burlington will be supplied, as it is the intention to furnish the Canadian coal to all the roads, at present included in the "community of interest" combine, which have mountain divisions to traverse.

At the present development of the Crow's Nest Pass mines not nearly all the coal needed by the Great Northern can be furnished. However, just as fast as they can be worked to a greater capacity they will be, and in the opinion of those who are in a position to talk, it will not be more than a year before there will be many more train loads of Canadian coal coming into Great Falls. — Great Falls Tribune.

INTERPROVINCIAL TRADE IN LIVE-STOCK.

Trade in live stock between Eastern and Western Canada has been growing rapidly within the last few years. This increase of trade has been promoted, and in fact made possible, by the wise and generous treatment of the C.P.R. During the month of December and the first eight days in January, forty-six cars of grade and pure-bred cattle were shipped from Eastern Canada to British Columbia. These cars contained 2,233 head, and cost in the east something $30,000. Besides these, a considerable number have recently been sent to the North West Territories, and orders are now in hand for additional shipments to be made to the last mentioned territory. In order to promote this trade, which has proved very profitable in many districts in Eastern Canada, farmers should use first-class Shorthorn bulls By careful selection and wise treatment females sired by such bulls will prove excellent dairy cows.

It is a noticeable fact that seven-tenths of the stock used for dairy purposes in Great Britain are Shorthorns and Shorthorn grades. Probably the most suitable dairy cow for the average farmer is a Shorthorn-Ayrshire cross. Steers whose dams are strong grade Ayrshire cows if got by a Shorthorn bull prove excellent feeders and very desirable shipping cattle. As dairy animals there are none in the hands of the general farmer that will excel the Shorthorn-Ayrshire cross.

EDITORIAL COLUMN

This is the first number of our publication, and I think it will meet with the requirements of the movement. The price is within every man's reach, and we will endeavor to please our patrons.

We regret the illness of our friend W. G., who has been removed from us. Although we are debarred from visiting him we hope for his speedy recovery. Mr. Wallace feels the loss of a valued assistant.

There are a few who grumble at their enforced confinment. I wish they would take a bright view of things. Three squares a day and no work — a proper snap for the lobor.

The Judge's Return, after Twelve Hours Absence.—The Judge was corralled and brought back to the fold during the early part of Monday morning. Great excitement prevailed owing to his absence Many an embryo orator made a maiden speech upon the subject, waywardness. It was an agreeable surprise to find him once more among us. We extended him a hearty welcome, doing all in our power to take the sting out of his being quarantined, but all we could do towards that end seemed in vain. He did not seem pleased. However, before dinner was over great fellowship was the order. The Judge spent half an hour shaking hands with his many friends. He is now reconciled. This being the fourth time in the Judge's life to be a prisoner, he is now one of the happiest men on the inside.

Exciting Capture of a Desperado.—During the early part of the morning an exciting chase ensued between Ed. Mullin, a noted C. P. R. tough, and a special policeman. Owing to a break in the wires, details have not arrived up to the time of going to press Anyway Ed. Mullin is residing with us.

Another Still at Large.—A person by the name of Old Sam is still at large, and the latest advice from our correspondent is that a large number of the community desise his company on account of him receiving his cheques. He would be a dead easy mark for Mr. Bartender. Other papers please copy.

Latest From Our Correspondent in the Hall.—T. Wilson, blacksmith, has been roped in.

From Our Bar Room Correspondent.—An Invitation.—Mr. Wallace desires to express through the medium of this paper that he cordially invites everyone to drink at his expense at 7 a m., sharp, in the washroom, while under quarantine.

Anti-Vaccinationists.—We are happy in the possession of a few rabid anti-vaccinationists in our midst, but were very pleased to see Dr. Bonnell's arrival. They had to take some pointers from him. One of them squealed like a stuck pig.

Rubbering—We are pretty good rubbers, but George Montie, late of the Strathcona Horse, has still a better rubber on account of being accustomed to dodging Boers and spotting Transvallers.

J. Stone, head breaksman on the branch, and the head swamper of the Fernie Hotel, are the champion players of Fernie, B.C., but they only play for dry drinks. The head swamper has played so incessantly that Mr. Wallace has to send for new table covers.

Billiards—The assistant swamper is able to take on any player in a billiard game 500 or no count. It is a good thing for the mugs around the house. He also challenges any one under nine or over ninety to a bout with the gloves for 25c. a side. He is a terror when drunk. A resolution has been carried to the effect that he is too light for his job, and ought to be canned and placed under the medical treatment of J. A. Brown, Coroner, the main stem to the coal diggings, who lost his job for quite a while through unloading a smoked Irishman and checking his baggage.

We have a star boarder here, late from Ontario who just managed to ring in for cheap board. Just what we expected from an Ontario man. He has changed his gold mine(d) for a grub mine(d).

The main milker of the Fernie regrets that he cannot attend the hockey match and says that it is a good thing for Pincher Creek that he is unable to attend.

A Bold Dash for Liberty.—Mr. William Russell made a gallant dash for liberty, but our Chief of Police Brazil soon laid him by the heels. We sympathize with him in his enforced confinement. Good old Bill.

Engineering Notes.—Mr. Wallace has a chain gang at work sinking a twelve ft. shaft, prospecting for boulders. At the rate they are going the year 1904 will see it completed at the cost of $3,000 per foot, not counting the tan boots spoiled.

Respecting the Estate of Mr. Earnest Archibald.—He has 22 ducks back in Ontario, and if the quarantine holds out much longer he will instruct his bailiff to sell them. We are promised a good time upon the proceeds.

The Judge says quarantine will be raised at the Fernie Hotel on his birthday, which is on the third of May, 1902.

MARRIAGES

Mr. Beck has an extra order for wedding cake. The happy event will take place when the quarantine is raised.

HOCKEY.

An interesting game of hockey was played on Tuesday night between teams chosen from the club. The game was for practice, and developed some good hockey. There was a good attendance, and the game was exciting from start to finish. The sides lined up as follows:—

WHITES		REDS
Miller	Goal	Perkins
Purdy	Point	Wrigglesworth
Kastner	Cover	Martin
Labelle	Forward	Coulter
Hill	"	Lafortune
Laidley	"	Murphy
Fraser	"	Beaubier

The first half of the game was fast and furious, and the Whites had all the best of it, scoring five goals the first half. Only one goal was scored the second half by the light complexioned side, and the game ended with a total of 6 to 3 in favor of the Whites. Bert Donahue refereed the game to the satisfaction of all. W. A. Bleasdell and Ed. Cline were goal umpires.

The first game in the Stanley cup series and the Canadian Hockey Championship was played at Winnipeg, Jan 21, between the Wellingtons, of Toronto, and the Victorias, of Winnipeg. The play was fast and furious the first half, Wellingtons scoring two to one. In the second half the Victorias scored four goals, the Wellington's adding one to their tally, the game resulting 5-3 in favor of the Victorias.

The second final game of the Stanley cup series was played Thursday night at Winnipeg, resulting in the Victorias winning by 5 to 3.

GENERAL NEWS.

Chief Justice McColl died at Victoria, B.C., Jan. 15. He was a native of Chatham, Ont.

A. E. Ames was elected President of the Toronto Board of Trade by acclamation.

"Can a man marry on twinty foive dollars? asked Mr. Dooly. "He can, if he can get th' money," said Mr. Hennessy.

KING OPENS PARLIAMENT.

London, Jan. 17.—King Edward opened parliament yesterday afternoon with a ceremonial in all essential respects similar to that of February last. The procession to the House of Lords was of the same character as that witnessed on the occasion of the opening of the first parliament of King Edward's reign, while, within the upper house was seen the same state pageantry, the same historic dresses and the same revival of ancient forms.

After robing, King Edward and Queen Alexandra entered the House of Peers and occupied their thrones beneath a canopy, with the Prince and Princess of Wales on either side of them. The other members of the royal family were seated on chairs at the foot of the steps leading to the thrones. The gentleman usher of the black rod, Gen. Sir Michael Biddulph, having summoned the speaker and the members of the House of Commons, His Majesty read the speech from the throne.

The speech was not an important utterance. His Majesty referred in gratified terms to the world tour of the Prince and Princess of Wales, expressed regret at the fact that the war in South Africa was not concluded, but he trusted that the decision of the sugar conference would lead to the abandonment of bounties, and noted the conclusion of the isthmian canal treaty.

IN THE COMMONS.

After the speech from the throne had been formally read, in the house of commons, and the addresses in reply had been moved and seconded, the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, spoke in general terms against the course of the government in South Africa, urging conciliation in place of brute force. He said the same, in a large measure, was true of Ireland, where the government at present was floundering between concession and coercion, and urged the adoption of the most liberal programme toward that place.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Liberal, by attacking the institution of martial law in Cape Colony and by accusing the government of grossly unconstitutional conduct in advising the ministers of Cape Colony not to summon the Cape parliament brought up Mr. Chamberlain who was in a most militant mood.

Mr. Chamberlain declared that Sir William Vernon Harcourt ought to have placed a question of such vast importance in the form of an amendment, and then proceeded to justify absolutely the action of the Cape Colony government. Mr. Chamberlain said he did not care a scrap for legal opinions on one side or the other; that the government had to deal with an emergency and that it had followed the universal practice of all countries. He also said the government of Cape Colony would ask parliament to indemnify their acts.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt asked —"When will that be done?"

Mr. Chamberlain retorted—"When is the war going to end?" (Laughter and cheers.

In the course of his speech, Mr. Chamberlain was protesting against the suggestion that he should overrule the privy council when Mr. Redmond interjected: "Hear hear; you ought to be king." Amid laughter, Mr. Chamberlain replied: "That is very good of the honorable gentleman, but it is not my ambition."

GALWAY ELECTION.

There was only a meagre attendance of members when the house of commons met to commence the work of the session. Irish affairs cropped up almost immediately, Earl Percy, Conservative, (eldest son of the Duke of Northumberland, and member for the south division of Kensington) moving a resolution to the effect that the election from Galway of Col. Arthur Lynch, "who was commonly and notoriously reported to have aided the King's enemies," was an insult to the House of Commons, and a committee should be appointed to consider the course to pursue.

The speaker, William Court Gully, declined to accept the motion, until notice of it was given in the usual way.

FIRE IN MONTREAL.

Montreal, Jan. 17.—The power station of the Royal Electric Light company, near the corner of Queen and Wellington streets, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday morning. In this station the direct current power, allowing the current and arc power was generated. The interior of the building was pretty well gutted, but the solid brick walls were left intact. It is estimated that ten thousand men are thrown temporarily out of work by the fire.

Quebec, Jan. 17.—Madame Jean Blais, wife of the Seigneur of St. Charles, Belle Chasse, who has been quite blind for eighteen years, has recovered her sight, as the result of an operation in this city. She is 86 years of age.

ACCIDENT AT MORDEN.

Mr. J. G. Clark Seriously Injured By the Upsetting of a Load of Hay.

Morden, Man., Jan. 18.—A very sad accident occurred here last Friday as a result of which one man is lying at the point of death at the Freemason's hospital. Mr. J.G.Clark and a Mr. Hunt were coming into town on a load of hay, and turning at the corner of Ninth street the load upset and the two men fell to the ground. Mr. Hunt was badly shaken up and in addition fractured one of the bones of the foot. Mr. Clark did not escape so fortunately. He fell on his head and sustained a fracture of the skull. Practically no hope is entertained for his recovery. Mr. Clark is a man who is well up in years, and this naturally adds great weight to the unfavorable prognosis.

HON. R. R. DOBELL KILLED.

A Minister Without Portfolio Thrown From His Horse in England.

Folkestone, Eng., Jan. 13.—The Hon. Richard Dobell, a Canadian minister without portfolio, was thrown from his horse near here on Saturday, and is dead.

Mr. Dobell was staying at the Burlington hotel, Folkestone, with his wife and daughter. He was riding along the sea front on Saturday afternoon, returning from Hythe with his son-in-law, Major Hull, when near Seatrook Mr. Dobell's horse was startled and threw him heavily on the roadway. His skull was fractured and death was practically instantaneous. He is much regretted, for he was always a genial, though never influential, member of the Anglo-Canadian community.

A HUMAN SACRIFICE.

An Arizona Indian Tortured to Death to Expiate the Sins of His Tribe.

A dispatch from Phoenix, Arizona, says: "Padre," a big medicine man of the Yuma Indians, who lives on a reservation near Yuma, Arizona, has been offered as a sacrifice to the spirit in accordance with their customs and has expiated the sins of the tribe, which are held responsible for an epidemic of smallpox.

The medicine man devined the Indians' intention several days ago and fled to the mountains, but in a half-starved condition wandered back to the Indian village and pleaded for mercy. He was promptly bound hand and foot and conveyed by a delegation of Indians to Mexico, where he was bound to a tree and cruelly tortured to death.

"Padre" had a warm place in the hearts of his tribesmen, but their customs required them to make a heavy sacrifice.

GHOULS AT WORK.

Kingston, Ont., Jan. 11.—Wednesday night thieves tore down the ventilator of the vault in St. Mary's cemetery, Division street, and stole three bodies therefrom. The remains taken away were those of Mrs. Hughes, of Kingston; Miss Haley and Mary Crofley. The ghouls pulled the bodies out of the coffins and forced them through a small opening. The police say four men were employed in the job.

FROZEN IN MINNESOTA.

Little Falls, Jan. 14.—The body of John Ryan, 25 years old, an unmarried farm hand, was found this afternoon in a snow bank in the town of Norway. Ryan left his home in Middleville, Sunday, to walk to his work in Norway. A snow storm was raging, and it is believed he lost his way and became exhausted.

Germany has appointed a commission to enquire into agricultural distress

Seven hundred missionaries will be sent from the United States to the Philippines.

Elaborate preparations for the pope's silver jubilee are being made universally.

Winnipeg ministerial association demand an early enforcement of the Liquor act.

Dr. Anthony of San Francisco is being tried for high treason in South Africa.

It is reported that Prof. Steen will withdraw his suit against Archbishop Bond, of Montreal.

The Ontario government will introduce a measure copied after the Manitoba act, with a referendum clause, a two-thirds majority being required to carry.

PEACE PROPOSALS.

It is Said That Negotiations Have Been Commenced.

London, Jan. 18.—Reuter's Telegram company has received the following dispatch from Amsterdam: "According to trustworthy information Dr. Kuyper, the Dutch premier, recently intimated to the Boer delegates the desirability, in view of Lord Rosebery's speech at Chesterfield, of their giving some intimation to the British government of the basis upon which they would entertain peace negotiations. Dr. Kuyper pointed out the improbability of any of the great powers intervening in South Africa, in the near future and suggested that he be allowed informally to sound his friends in London, in the hope of a semi-official response. The Dutch premier accordingly met Abraham Ficsher, the leader of the Boer delegates, and others, at Brussels, where a long conference was held, after which Dr. Kuyper proceeded to London. The result of his visit, if any has been obtained, is not yet known.

"It is understood that Dr. Kuyper distinctly assured the Boers that Holland, under no circumstances, would act as an intermediary."

DIED IN ONTARIO.

Mrs. C. P. Holden, of Melita, Found Dead in Her Brother's House.

Sunderland, Ont., Jan. 18.—Mrs. C. P. Holden, wife of a furniture dealer of Melita, Man., was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the home of her brother, Thomas Morrison, about three miles from here.

Mrs. Holden retired in her usual health, and early in the morning her six-year-old son, who slept with his mother, was heard crying, and on being asked by his uncle what was the matter, said: "Come and see mamma," and going into the room Morrison was greatly shocked to find his sister dead. Heart failure is supposed to have been the cause of death.

PLEADED "NOT GUILTY."

Dr. Krause, the Johannesburgher, So Pleads at the Old Bailey.

London, Jan. 18.—The trial of Dr. Krause, the former governor of Johannesburg, on the charge of inciting Cornelius Broecksman, the public prosecutor of Johannesburg (who was executed by the British authorities in South Africa) to murder John Douglas Foster, an English lawyer, who was on the staff of Lord Roberts, opened at the Old Bailey yesterday.

If the prisoner and his friends had been suspected of a design to explode dynamite in the court the precautions against the admission of unauthorized persons could not have been more stringent. Every one was closely scrutinized and compelled to produce a card of admission. The prisoner pleaded not guilty.

ONLY A WAR CORRESPONDENT.

Col. Lynch Will Go to Westminster—Claims he Was Non-Combatant.

London, Jan. 18.—Irish members of the house of commons say that Col. Arthur Lynch, formerly of the Transvaal Irish Brigade, who was recently elected to represent Galway in the house, has determined to present himself in parliament.

His main desire is to avoid arrest before reaching Westminster, as his arrival there will be the occasion of an Irish demonstration.

It is stated that he is prepared to prove that he was not a combatant, but only a newspaper correspondent. If Lynch now says that he was only a newspaper correspondent in South Africa he has made a sudden change in his claims for distinction. Prior and subsequent to his election he posed in Paris as the leader of the Transvaal Irish brigade.

600 PERSONS KILLED.

Chilpancingo, a Mexican City, Visited By An Earthquake Shock.

Laredo, Texas, Jan. 18.—A telegram from the City of Mexico says that word has reached that city announcing that the city of Chilpancingo, in the Chate of Guerrero, suffered severely from an earthquake shock and that 600 persons were killed.

STRYCHNINE IN THE PILLS.

Neepawa, Jan. 18.—Mr, and Mrs. Benson Peters mourn the loss of their four-year-old child, under peculiarly distressing circumstances. On Thursday, while playing around the house the little one found a box of nerve tonic pills, and must have swallowed several of them. Each pill contains strychnine. The effect of the medicine on the child proved fatal before a doctor could reach the house.

Men going to work in the shops at Cranbrook, B. C., on Monday of last week were horrified to see the body of a man lying on the track by the coal bunkers. The head and shoulders were on the outside of the rail, while the heavy crease across the back told plainer than words the cause of the unfortunate man's death. The dead man was Joshua Collins, an employee of the company, who had been working in the freight shed for the past few days. The jury decided that the man had met with his death by falling in front of an engine backing out of the round house. He had left the freight shed a few moments before, and had evidently started across the track with his coal bucket for coal and slipped just as the engine backed up.

* * *

Quite a sensation was caused in Manitou recently. Mr. and Mrs. C. Cook were spending the evening with a neighbor, and about dark Mrs. Cook arrived home alone. On entering she found a tramp, a huge, ugly looking man, had entered her home, which was left unlocked, and was helping himself contentedly to the good things which were placed on the table for supper. Mrs. Cook, it can be imagined, was frightened at first, and her fear only increased when on addressing him he paid no attention to her, but went calmly on surveying the spread which was in front of him. At this Mrs. Cook became alarmed and ran into the next house, occupied by Mr. Bourque, for assistance. Miss Bourque readily consented, and with Mrs. Cook and accompanied by their good dog Brandy returned to the house, only to find the intruder still there. Greater heroism was never displayed by two persons, both being firm believers of the supremacy of woman in her own house, they resolved to eject this unwelcome visitor at all hazards. Advancing bravely to the centre of the room, at the same time lowering their voices to a deep baritone, bordering on the masculine, in order to give it more weight, they were about to commence operations when to their great surprise and chagrin they discovered that it was a rag man someone had fixed up for a trick.—Western Canadian.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.

A Young Farmer Meets Death Under Tragic Circumstances.

Woodstock, Jan. 20.—A shooting accident took place near Innerkip, on Friday, which has resulted in the death of a young farmer, Joseph Bray. He had come to the cheese factory, near the village, with milk, and while there he and an employee named Leslie Wilson, noticed an owl up a tree. They started after it with a gun. Wilson discharged one of the barrels and then, forgetting the other was loaded, lowered and accidentally touched the trigger. The charge entered Bray's knee. He was standing about sixteen feet away. The knee bone was broken, the thigh bone shattered and the flesh terribly torn. The doctors were summoned from the city and the amputation was made, but the young man died from the shock of the operation and from loss of blood, two hours after the operation. He leaves a wife.

TWE DUDES WERE FOOLED.

London, Jan. 20.—Considerable flutter was created here by the announcement that King Edward had appeared in a frock coat, with deep turn-up velvet cuffs. Hundreds of fashionable men immediately rushed to their tailors and ordered similar garments in spite of their extraordinary novelty. Consternation now prevails as it is learned that what the wing wore was a frock overroat, on which velvet cuffs are often seen.

DEVASTATING EXPLOSION.

Barcelona, Jan. 20.—The explosion last Saturday of the boiler of a spinning mill near Manresa, destroyed half the village of the Peunte De Vilumara. The hospital at Manresa is filled with the injured. Sixteen mutilated bodies of working people who were buried in the debris have been recovered. They include the manager of the spinning mill and his two sisters. It is estimated that sixty persons were killed and one hundred injured, and many of the latter are not expected to recover. The dead include many children. The queen segent has wired her condolences.

CARELESS CARRIE.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 20.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, while flourishing a large hatchet which she received from an eastern manufacturing firm, dropped it and the keen edge of the instrument severed the large toe of her right foot.

Hall's Family Pills are the best.

The average young man's hopes are raised more often than his salary.

Chronic derangements of the stomach, liver, and blood are speedily removed by the active principle of the ingredients entering into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. These pills act specifically on the deranged organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease and renewing life and vitality to the afflicted. In this lies the great secret of the popularity of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION.

Indigestion is a trouble that is very common in infancy and early childhood, and unless prompt measures are taken to control it the result is very often serious. It prevents the proper growth of the child and weakens the constitution, so that he is unable to resist other disease that are more dangerous. Fortunately, however, the trouble is one that is easily controlled. Proper food—not too much, but absolutely pure—plenty of fresh air and Baby's Own Tablets, freely administered according to the directions, will soon put the sufferer right, and make both mother and child happy. Mrs. W. E. Bassam, of Kingston, Ont., is one of the many mothers who has proved the truth of this statement. She says: "When my little girl was about three months old she had indigestion very badly. She was vomiting and had diarrhoea almost constantly. She was very thin, weighed only four pounds, and although she had a ravenous appetite her food did her no good whatever. I had tried several medicines, but they did not help her. Then I heard of Baby's Own Tablets, and procured a box. After giving her the tablets for a few days, the vomiting and diarrhoea ceased, she began to improve at once and grew plump and fat. I always give her the tablets now when she is ailing and the result is always good. Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I have ever used for a child."

These tablets will promptly cure all the minor ailments of little ones, such as sour stomach, indigestion, colic, constipation, allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, etc. They are good for children of all ages, and crushed to a powder or dissolved in water can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. If you cannot obtain Baby's Own Tablets at your druggists, they will be sent postpaid at 25 cents a box by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A GUARANTEE—"I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets, which I personally purchases in a drug store in Montreal. My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic; that they can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant; that they are a safe and efficient medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure."

N. TEMISCAMINGUE SENDS A STORY

A STURDY FARMER STRICKEN WITH RHEUMATISM IS CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

This Man Was So Bad That He Was Almost Paralyzed—A Wonderful Case and a Very Happy Cure By This Excellent Remedy.

North Temiscamingue, Que., Jan. 6.—(Special)—At the Douglas Farm near here lives Mr. W. H. Johnston, who today considers himself a very happy man indeed.

The cause of Mr. Johnston's happiness is his somewhat sudden and very remarkable recovery from the most severe case of rheumatism ever seen in this county.

For a long time he suffered with the rheumatism which gradually grew worse till it threatened his life. His principal trouble was in his left side, and it was so bad that his neck stiffened so that he could scarcely move it, and was beginning to feel Paralysis. The pain would go away for a time, but return with greater force, and a strange feature of his case was that after the pain would leave any part, it left behind it that prickly "pins and needles" sensation.

He thought that perhaps his smoking tobacco had something to do with it, and he gave this up, but received no benefit at all until he used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

This remedy he found to be a complete and absolute cure for his malady, and very soon after commencing its use, the pain began to leave him and now he is strong and well.

That such an extreme case should yield so easily and quickly proves that Dodd's Kidney Pills Will Cure any case of Rheumatism.

It is funny that the people whom society has thrown overboard are not in the swim.

THE HASLAM LAND & INVESTMENT CO.

We have For Sale in this District TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND ACRES

of what we think is the finest grain-growing land in the Northwest. The lands under cultivation in this District have unquestionably given during the last seven years, a higher average yield of grain than any other district either in Canada or the United States. We think that grain growing can be conducted more safely in this district, and with a certainty of surer returns than in any other district where wheat is grown.

When it is considered that the average wheat crop of the United States is LESS THAN FOURTEEN BUSHELS TO THE ACRE this year, and that wheat has averaged TWENTY-NINE BUSHELS TO THE ACRE in this district, the value of it as a wheat-growing district is at once manifest. Several farmers in this district have over FIFTY THOUSAND BUSHELS OF WHEAT for sale this season.

We have sold about ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND ACRES since the 1st of October, 1901, mostly to American farmers. This is a great opportunity for anyone wishing to get prime wheat land in a district which is free from early frost; where GOOD WATER abounds; and which is well supplied with RAILWAY FACILITIES.

Write us for particulars, maps, etc. SECURE LAND AT ONCE, BEFORE THE RISE. Our prices are from $4.00 to $6.00 an acre, with EASY TERMS of payment.

WE are in receipt of the report of the Provincial Mineralogist for the year 1901. The increase in 1901 over the preceeding year in mineral production is 25 per cent. on the gross value of output. The report shows an increase in the output of all metals except lead, the low price of that metal discouraging production. The tonnage of ore mined from the lode mines is about 871,832, an increase of about 57 per cent.

In paying our insurance bills we always have a big kick coming, believing in our inmost hearts that the soulless corporations are giving us much the worst of it. In looking over a report of the fire insurance business in Canada we find that in 32 years the net premiums received were $8,303,213; while the losses were $7,780,001. The estimated expenses are figured at 30 per cent., which brings the total to $10,270,965, so that losses and expenses combined exceeded the premiums by nearly two million dollars The only conclusion that can be arrived at is that the insurance business is not all cakes and ale, and the insured, after all, gets about an even break.

In reply to Mr. R. Logan's remark in last week's issue, calling us the Woollen Combine of Fernie, we would say that to our knowledge there is no more combine now than there ever was, and Rory knows it very well. What his motive was for making such a remark we do not know, unless it was to lead the people of Fernie to believe that such a combine was organized for the purpose of holding up prices, and that it might help himself out, as we believe he made the remark that he would sell suits at any old price to get the trade of the town. If such is the case you may look out for any old kind of work. We cannot think very highly of a brother tailor who would do business on those lines, knowing that heretofore he was the worst kicker in the bunch against cheap labor. He had informed us some time ago that his intentions were to open up a repair shop, but recently his ambition rose higher, and he concluded to stick out a shingle as a merchant tailor. Having no tools or woollens to work with he would certainly be laboring under difficulties, but in order not to disappoint his many customers he made a special call on each of us asking us to supply him with woollens which we could not see our way clear to do. So Rory got his back up, and now we are the woollen combine.

A GODDESS OF AFRICA.

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

In vain did those above fire volley after volley into the mass — the great ox-hide shields were able to stay even the progress of bullets, such was their exceeding toughness and thickness, and with the steady creeping motion of the rising tide the impis pushed on, gradually drawing closer to the top where the Winchesters and revolvers were spitting out tongues of flame.

Could nothing be done to stop this steady advance — in a brief interval it must reach the crest — must flow over the top and engulf the few whites who endeavored to manfully hold their own against the advance of the foe, which was not unlike the resistless march of a mighty glacier, save that its progress is downward while they climbed upward.

Now the foremost war shields overtopped the crest, and were suddenly cast aside to expose the fierce figures of the braves who had made this ascent.

With cries that would have done credit to demons they sprang at the whites.

Only a few cartridges remained, and these were put to good service; but the impis scrambled over the crest faster than they could be cared for, and presently what promised to be the last tragic scene of the drama commenced, when the defenders of the little fort among the rocks were compelled to wield their guns as clubs, and meet the rush of numberless foes, savage for their lives.

They fought like brave men, long and well, and not one of them but who performed prodigies of valor upon that field.

Hope they had none — desperation alone urged then to resist to the last gasp.

The end seemed close at hand. Their number began to decrease. Bludsoe, the bravest of the brave was down. He had been carrying consternation into the midst of the enemy, and wherever his clubbed rifle swept there mourning followed.

One of the cunning blacks seeing how impossible it was to force a way within the circle which Jim's whirling weapon covered, dropped to the rocks, and rolled to the feet of the cowboy — then, clasping his arms about Jim's legs he threw him down, just as an assegai, hurled by no other than the hand of Hassaje himself, pierced Bludsoe's breast.

Thus fell an heroic spirit, in the performance of duty. All his life had Jim Bludsoe seen action — it was his business to take part in such dramas as seldom fall to the lot of most men — he had played his little part in pushing forward the torch of civilization and crowding the blackness of ignorance and savage superstition to the wall. In his own way he had carried out the role for which nature had best fitted him. No longer would the roar of battle disturb this hero's slumber — for him the reveille had sounded in another land.

Bludsoe's fall weakened the little garrison very much, but it did not paralyze them. Such was the condition of affairs that even though but one should be left that last survivor must believe it his duty to continue the battle.

They had managed to get together after a degree, which was all that saved them from immediate destruction. Back to back they fought, delivering and receiving blows. When all were heroes, why mention the valorous deeds of a single member of that gallant little band?

Lord Bruno, because of his magnificent physique, was a prominent mark for the attack of the savage blacks, and it was only by the most herculean efforts that he managed to avoid the numerous missiles that were hurled at him.

The numbers of their foes instead of diminishing constantly increased, for though casualties occurred among them, those who drew out of the melee wounded were more than replaced by fresh arrivals.

This could not last long — the end must speedily arrive — indeed, it seemed but a question of a few minutes at the most before one and all of the whites must have met the fate of Jim.

The gray light of dawn had crept over the scene even while this deadly hand-to-hand conflict was taking place, and when the furiously fighting Briton shot a glance at his friend's face, he found it almost unrecognizable on account of the powder grime, and splotches of blood, either from his own vein or that which came from enemies struck at close quarters.

But Lord Bruno saw something else — he discovered Hastings' countenance illuminated with an eager expression, and the English artist on the instant surmised that poor Rex must have had his reason shattered in the horrid din of battle, for any man who could laugh or even show the faintest hope under such conditions as these must certainly be out of his mind.

If Rex was mad there must be a method to his condition. What was this he shouted in the ear of his companion:

"Did you hear it?"

"Hear what?" bellowed the big athlete, as he launched his rifle against the foe and sent several blacks flying in a confused heap.

"The blessed notes of a bugle!" cried Rex.

"Bugle — you are away off, my boy. It was some call of these accursed devils."

"No, no, I heard it. There—listen — now tell me I am crazy!"

An Lord Bruno's ears caught a never-to-be-forgotten sound. Thank God! it was the clear, thrilling note of a bugle that arose above the awful clamor of battle.

Others heard it too — the battle cries grew less in volume, so that from the region beyond came the heavy thud of many horses' hoofs — aye, and the glorious cheers from the throats of British soldiers.

Burnham had kept his word, and just in the nick of time the British South Africa mounted troops had reached the scene — had they been five minutes later the tragedy would have been complete.

CHAPTER XXXII.

LOVE'S SACRIFICE.

When the black allies realized what a trap they were caught in, consternation came upon the majority of them, and they began to leave the apex of the rocky mount with even more celerity than they had shown in reaching it.

Through the gray of morning the oncoming resources could be seen, advancing as fast as their horses would carry them, and sending forth encouraging shouts.

As their enemies melted away from in front of them the tired defenders of the fort let their arms drop, and answered the shouts of their coming friends.

Not ten feet away stood Lord Bruno, all unconscious of his peril—he had detected the presence of the valiant Armstrong at the head of the on-sweeping column, and waving his hat while sending cheer after cheer from his stentorian lungs.

Without a warning he heard a sudden shrill cry behind him, and whirling about was just in time to see Little Phil sink at his feet pierced through with an assegai that had undoubtedly been intended for the Briton, while a black figure he knew full well was bounding for the parapet.

Waterford heard a gun sound beside him, and realized that Rex had kept a last bullet in his Winchester for some desperate purpose. He saw the witch-doctor leap high into the air and then fall like an inert mass upon the rocks, his devilish incantations forever stilled by the young American's lead.

The Lord Bruno threw himself down beside the boy who had saved him at what a fearful cost.

A moment later and he called Rex, who found him, the strong man, actually weeping.

"Don't think I have gone out of my senses, Rex; but a strange thing has happened, the most marvellous thing in the course of my whole existence. Fool—blind dolt that I was never to have suspected the truth."

"Tell me," said Rex, in a maze.

"You remember—Little Phil — I promised a girl in Natal to take her brother with me. I was to blame—I made love to her, and then said good-bye without speaking of my intentions. Little Phil—that brother—is Madge herself!"

"I might have suspected it," said Rex, as a score of things flashed through his mind.

"But you didn't, any more than myself. We were all blind. And now, God bless her. I am afraid she has given her life for me. Come, bring the doctor if he is able to move, and see if there is any hope. Why did she do it—I am not worthy of such a sacrifice."

Little Phil smiled when they bent over her—the consciousness that she had saved his life made her happy.

"It is just as well—this was my mission. He is an English lord, and could never have married a poor girl like me," she kept repeating, begging Lord Bruno not to weep.

The doctor reported the case almost hopeless, but everything was done that lay in their power, and Marian upon learning the truth, proved an exceedingly clever nurse.

First of all they left the rocky fortress with its ghastly mementoes of battle, and sought a new camp to secure a short rest ere taking up the march for Buluwayo.

The hills were alive with the Matabele, and it would not be safe for even such a company of well armed border fighters to remain in the enemy's country, since the impis could muster thousands of braves if given time.

By slow stages they made the journey, and Buluwayo was reached at last.

The girl still lived, buoyed up with new hope, for Waterford had breathed words of love into her ears, and besought her to stay for his sake—that he would be proud to make her his wife, since she reigned in his heart as his queen.

FOR THROAT IRRITATION.

Hoarseness, Dry Throat, Sore Throat, Bronchial Troubles, Coughs, Colds and Asthma, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a Cure of Proven Merit.

There are more ministers, singers and public speakers using Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine than any other similar preparation, because it is exactly suited to their needs. By taking a dose of this preparation before going on the platform they feel certain of freedom from dry throat, hoarseness and throat irritation, than which there can be nothing more embarrassing to a singer or speaker.

Besides the annoyance of throat irritation public speakers seem to be especially susceptible to bronchial trouble, pneumonia and lung diseases, and for this reason it seems wise to have in your grip when leaving home a bottle of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which is beyond all doubt the most thoroughly effective treatment for bronchial and lung troubles that is to be obtained.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine aids expectoration, clears the throat and air passages, soothes and quiets the nerves which cause coughing, and thoroughly cures all throat and bronchial troubles. There are other preparations of Linseed and Turpentine put up in imitation of Dr Chase's. Be sure that the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase are on the bottle you buy. 25 cents a bottle; family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

EPILEPSY CURABLE.

A DISEASE THAT HAS LONG BAFFLED MEDICAL SKILL.

Mr. M. A. Gauthier, of Buckingham, Gives His Experience For the Benefit of Other Sufferers From This Terrible Malady.

From The Post, Buckingham, Que.

We venture to say that in our town of 3,000 inhabitants few business men are better known that Mr. M. A. Gauthier, the young and hustling butcher, of Main street. He wasn't however, as energetic or as hustling a couple of years ago as he is today, and for a good reason—he wasn't well. Having gone into business ere reaching his majority his desire to succeed was such that no heed was paid to keeping the body in the state of health necessary to stand a strain, and in consequence of the extra demands upon the system it became run down to such an extent that epilepsy or falling sickness resulted, and these lapses into unconsciousness becoming alarmingly frequent he consulted physicians and took some remedies, but without beneficial results. Finally seeing Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised as a cure for falling sickness he decided to give them a trial. As to the result the Post cannot do better than give Mr. Gauthier's story in his own words: "Yes," said Mr. Gauthier, "for nearly four years I suffered from epilepsy or falling fits, which took me without warning and usually in most inconvenient places. I am just twenty-four years of age, and I think I started business too young and the fear of failing spurred me to greater efforts perhaps than was good for my constitution, and the consequence was that I became subject to those attacks which came without any warning whatsoever, leaving me terribly sick and weak after they had passed. I got to dread their recurrence very much. I consulted doctors and took their remedies to no purpose, the fits still troubled me. I saw Dr. Williams' Pink Pills advertised and determined to try them. I did so, and the medicine helped me so much that I got more and kept on taking them until today I am as well, yes better, than I ever was, and am not troubled at all by epilepsy or the fear of the fits seizing me again. Thinking there may be others similarly afflicted, I give my story to the Post; it may perhaps lead them to give this great medicine a trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a positive cure for all diseases arising from impoverished blood, or a weak or shattered condition of the nervous system. Every dose makes new, rich, red blood and gives tone to the nerves, thus curing such diseases as epilepsy, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, heart troubles, anaemia, etc. These pills are also a cure for the ailments that make the lives of so many women a constant misery. They are sold in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full name—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Can be procured from druggists, or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Spoiled Her Disposition.

"I don't know what's the matter with Susan," said Mr. Snaggs. "She's so quarrelsome now, whereas she used to be so sweet tempered."

"Well, it's your own fault," retorted Mrs. Snaggs. "I didn't want her to join the church choir, but you insisted that she should."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

As Parmelee's Vegetable Pills contain mandrake and dandelion, they cure liver and kidney complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain roots and herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shakespeare, writes:—"I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for biliousness and derangement of the liver, having used them myself for some time."

That woman was created from a rib is perhaps the reason that she is even unto this day a bone of contention.

Poetry and Hogs.

This particular practical wife looks like a dream, but she is right up to the mark in business. One day just as the frost was on the pumpkin he came in. "Darling," he began. "I have just been thinking this is a most memorable day in our lives, both yours and mine. Do you know what it recalls?"

"No," she declared.

"What! Not remember this particular date?" he asked in horror and reproach. "Oh, surely you must."

She said again that she didn't, though to oblige him she would if she could, and he bowed his head and looked sorrowfully out of the window at the swaying trees loaded with red leaves.

"Don't say it!" he exclaimed. "Don't tell me you have no recollection of the serious import of this day. Think! See how I am impressed by the recollection. Surely you recall it."

A dawning light spread over her face. "I believe I do," she cried joyously. "Yes, it was just this time we killed hogs last fall."

He gave a hollow groan and left the room of his too, too practical wife. It was their wedding anniversary.

The Good Bargain.

Sheridan, the celebrated playwright, who was no sportsman, having gone one day on a shooting excursion, everything flew before him and his gun despite his effort to secure something for his bag. On his return home with an empty bag he saw a man, apparently a farmer, looking at a flock of ducks in a pool.

"What will you take," said Sheridan, "for a shot at those ducks?"

The man looked at him with astonishment.

"Will half a crown do?"

The man nodded and Sheridan gave him the half crown, taking his shot at the ducks. About half a dozen fell dead. As he was preparing to bag them he said to the man: "I think on the whole I made a good bargain with you."

"Why," said the man, "they're none o' mine."

MARKETS

WHEAT.

With the beginning of last week a decidedly easier feeling came over the wheat markets, and by Tuesday the steady and firm tone which obtained at the end of the previous week gave place to actual weakness. The American markets, which always quickly reflect changes in speculative sentiment, declined 1c to 1¼c on Monday, and on Tuesday lost another ½c. It turned out that the weakness was caused by financial stringency among the trade in Chicago, the visible outcome of which was the failure of Geo. H. Phillips, a noted professional trader who has been a frequent menace to the market owing to his venturesome way of trading. This was followed by heavy calls for margins all round, and resulted in a great deal of wheat and other products being thrown on the markets causing further decline. On Friday it was reported that all margin calls had been responded to and affairs assumed a healthier aspect and prices steadied.

Crop news is not important if we except the continuance of dry weather over the western winter wheat country. There been neither rain or snow there for some time, and conditions are not favorable at the present stage, but an early supply of moisture may easily put the crop right yet. Argentine harvest is over, and it is not expected that there will be over 16,000,000 bushels for export, against 32,000,000 bushels last year. European crops are all healthy, but France complains of the weather being too mild for the winter wheat.

Manitoba wheat has held fairly steady in the face of the decline in outside markets.

Prices on Saturday were: No. 1 northern, 69c; 2 northern, 66c; in store Fort William or Duluth. No. 1 hard is worth 72 to 72½c.

Country Wheat—A number of the country markets are closed owing to want of storage accommodation, and buyers have been withdrawn. Prices to the farmer, where buying is possible, range from about 54 to 58c per bushel, according to quality and rate of freight.

OATS—Offerings are more liberal, and the tone of the market is weaker, but prices remain unchanged from last week. Most of the offerings of Manitoba oats are poor in quality. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bus.; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight. No. 1 Alberta oats (the new grade) are worth 39½, Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta 38½c.

BARLEY—The market holds steady under light receipts and a good demand. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY.—The market has declined 50 per ton for baled hay, owing to liberal supply. Dealers are now paying $4.50 to $5.50 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 10½ to 11½c per lb, dressed.

BUTTER—Choice dairy butter is a very scarce article and fancy prices would be paid today for this quality. Most of the offerings are of second grade. The general run of prices is from 12 to 18c per pound, commission basis, for round lots of dairy, according to quality. Choice quality is worth as high as 22c.

POTATOES—Farmers' loads, delivered in Winnipeg, are worth 30c per bushel

HIDES—No. 1 inspected hides, 6½c per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5½c; No. 3, 4½c; kips and calf, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horse hides 50c to $1.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—A little more activity is noticeable in the market for beef cattle and there is a good demand for all offerings from butchers and abattoirs. Really choice cattle are scarce and will readily bring 4c per pound and over delivered here. Other grades range down to 3c. It is not thought that there is any great quantity of beef available for this market. Buyers are now out in the country after stockers and are paying the usual prices for these, namely, $14 to $16 each for yearlings, and $18 to $20 far two-year-olds.

SHEEP.—There is no movement at present as butchers are plentifully supplied with frozen mutton.

HOGS—The market is firm, owing to light deliveries. Packers are paying for best weights averaging from 150 to 250 pounds, 6½c, weighed off cars, and for lights and heavies, 6c.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

MONDAY, JANUARY 13.

The consideration of the speech from the throne was the item on the order paper at the legislature when it reassembled on Monday. J. T. Gordon moved the address in reply to the speech, seconded by Mr. Argue. Mr. Greenway criticized the speech, and he was in turn criticized by the premier. The report of the King's Printer and of the provincial secretary were laid on the table.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14.

The debate in reply to the speech from the throne was continued. Hon. Colin Campbell and Mr. Steel (Cypress) spoke for the government, and Messrs. Norris (Lansdowne) and Fowler (South Brandon) for the opposition. The special committee appointed to strike standing committees reported.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 15.

The legislature resumed its sittings at 3.20 o'clock. T. E. Greenwood (North Brandon) continued the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne, devoting his attention largely to the prohibition question and the grain situation. McKenzie (Lakeside) and Lawrence (Killarney) also spoke.

Hon. Colin Campbell introduced several new bills, the most important of which was the Real Property act, which was disallowed by the federal authorities two years ago. It is the same in its present form in every detail as when it passed the house before. Among the others is one to establish a county court judges' criminal court of Southern Manitoba. The idea is that better provision should be made for the speedy trial of prisoners accused of criminal offences, and will permit the county judge of the Morden district to dispose of such charges without a jury should the accused consent thereto. The only other bill of general public interest is one which gives employees priority of claim against a master's estate over landlords or mortgagees' warrants and bills of sale, etc., encered into after the labor for which the claim arises was performed. Relatives and connections of the master are, however, specifically excluded from the benefits of the act.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 16.

The debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne was concluded in the legislature Thursday, the speakers being Burrows (Dauphin), Bernier (St. Boniface), Jerome and Thompson (Souris). A live scene was created by Mr. Burrows and Mr. Greenwood (North Brandon), the former accusing the latter of inconsistencies on the prohibition question.

Mr. Baldwinson (Gimli) asked if the government had made arrangements for the construction of a railway from Lake Winnipeg to Oak Point, on the east side of Lake Manitoba. The premier replied that the government is making arrangements for the railway referred to and that he contemplated it would be completed by Nov. 1 next. The proposed road is practically the old Hudson Bay line.

IMPORT DUTY ON GRAIN.

Britain May Impose a Tax of a Shilling a Quarter.

London, January 16.—The proposed duty of a shilling a quarter on imported grain, which has been widely discussed during the past week hgs been the subject of inquiries by correspondents. The feeling among importers on the Baltic exchange is that the duty is likely to be imposed in the budget.

Sech Taylor, chairman of the exchange and the largest miller says the importers regard the idea of the imposition of the duty complacently. They will not oppose such a proposition if the duty is not large because it will not affect grain importers. The benefits will accrue to the British farmers, as the burden of the tax will fall upon importers and consumers.

The man on the sidewalk sees more of the procession than the drum major does.

COUNCIL DISQUALIFIED.

Lindsay, Ont., Jan. 18.—The town solicitor here gives it as his opinion that all of last year's council are disqualified for illegally investing the sinking funds. The mayor and four others of the present council are affected.

Legislation will be introduced at next parliament to remove decrepid judges.

A military escort, composed of 500 mounted men, will accompany the premier to England to attend the coronation ceremonies; also two of the ministers.

BLOWN UP BY BOERS

REPORT THAT A MULE TRANSPORT HAS MET WITH DISASTER.

FORTY MILES OF DEAD ANIMALS FLOATING IN THE GULF MEXICO.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 16.—It is believed in shipping circles here that a British transport laden with American mules, bound for South Africa, has been intercepted and blown up by a Boer spy in the Gulf of Mexico or has foundered.

A schooner arriving on the lower coast reports hundreds of dead mules floating for a distance of thirty miles. This news has greatly stirred shippers here, who fear that further desperate attempts will be made to stop the export of mules to Cape Town.

The more conservative element attribute the floating carcasses to a disaster to one of the British vessels during the storms that have been raging near the coast this week. Dispatches from Quinana, Texas, which is only a short distance south of Port Eads say that the schooner Olga has put into Matagorda bay to shelter from the fierce gale blowing on the Gulf, and that Captain Geo. Peterson reports having seen long rows of dead cattle and mules floating in the water. He describes the range of the dead stock as covering at least forty miles.

Matthew Warriner, of the Elder Dempster Steamship company, which furnishes many of the British transports, states that all their transports have been accounted for except one sailing from here three days ago. They have heard nothing from her.

The recent attempt to blow up the British transport Mechanician in this port is recalled by those persons who incline to the opinion that a British transport has been blown up. The attempt to destroy the Mechanician was charged to Boer agents.

DISCARDED THE VEIL.

Montreal, Jan. 16.—An interesting love romance culminated yesterday when Miss Hilda Cudlip, daughter of J. W. Cudlip, of St. John, N. B., became the wife of R. Montague Davey. Miss Cudlip was for years a prominent member of the Sisterhood of St. Margaret, and was widely known as Sister Hilda in charitable work in Montreal. Mr. Davey is a prominent local singer, and met Sister Hilda at musical entertainments given at St. Margaret's home. A strong attachment ensued, and finally Sister Hilda agreed to renounce the sisterhood and yesterday became Mr. Davey's wife.

PECULIAR CASE OF VACCINATION

A Winnipeg Jew Gets Cowpox by Telephonic Inoculation.

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—A sick man is Solomon Solensky, a Russian Jew, who lives on Austin street, and he claims in the best English he can command that his illness is due indirectly to the enforced vaccination of school children.

The doctors say that Solomon has been vaccinated in the ear, and Solomon says that the vaccination came from the ear trumpet of a telephone that some children had been handling after picking at the scabs on their arms, where they had been vaccinated. Solomon has no particular use for the telephones at present and still less for vaccinated children who rub the sore spots on their arms and then handle the 'phones.

The story he tells is that he had a slight scratch on the ear and was accustomed to using a neighbor's telephone. Several days ago his ear began to swell, and gradually the inflammation and swelling spread over his face and head.

He is now in a very serious condition and blood poisoning is feared by the doctors who have examined him. His face presents a terrible appearance and his eyes are closed by huge bulges of swollen flesh. The whole ear has broken out in sores and the patient is in great pain. It is one of the most extraordinary cases of vaccination that has ever come under the notice of the medical men of this city.

A poor man who is a genius is dubbed a jack of all trades, while a rich one is noted for his versatility.

As you grow ready for it somewhere or other you will find what is needful for you in a book or a friend, or, best of all, in your own thoughts—the Eternal Thought speaking to your thought.—George Macdonald.

The gossip never makes a long story short enough to leave out the scandal.

POPULATION OF CANADA.

OFFICIAL FIGURES PLACE IT AT 5,369,666—MANITOBA GAINS TWO MORE MEMBERS.

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—The census department gave out today the official figures of the census of 1901 for the whole Dominion. The total population is 5,369,666. By provinces it is as follows:

Prince Edward Island	103,259
Nova Scotia	459,574
New Brunswick	331,120
Quebec	1,648,898
Ontario	2,182,942
Manitoba	254,947
British Columbia	177,272
Northwest Territories	158,941
Yukon	27,167
Unorganized Districts	25,546
Total	5,369,666

The unit of representation is therefore 25,367. It is found that by dividing by 65, the number of representatives in Quebec, into the population of that province, the representation by population will therefore stand as follows:

	Members.
British Columbia	7
Northwest Territories	6
Manitoba	10
Ontario	86
Quebec	65
New Brunswick	13
Nova Scotia	18
Prince Edward Island	4
Yukon	1
Total	210

This shows that British Columbia will gain one member, the Northwest Territories two, Manitoba three, while one goes to the Yukon.

The losses are six members in Ontario, one in New Brunswick, two in Nova Scotia and one in Prince Edward Island. The representation in 213. In other words, while seven will be added after the redistribution ten will have to be deducted, making a difference of three less than at present.

WINNIPEG TO DULUTH.

Direct Connection Between These Cities Will Be An Accomplished Fact Before Next Fall.

St. Paul, Jan. 16.—Duluth is to have direct connection with Winnipeg before next September via the new Duluth, Virginia and Rainy Lake railway. Ten miles of the line have already been built and is in operation, the traffic for the present consisting mostly of shipments of logs and construction material.

The original intention of its promoters to build through to Winnipeg, a plan much talked of some years ago, has been modified because of the activity of the Canadian Northern in territory north and along the international boundary. The Duluth, Virginia and Rainy Lake will now build through the north and west to the Canadian Northern only, the two lines forming the through route between Winnipeg and Duluth. The engineering department of the new line indicates that twenty miles will be built during May and June, for which steel has already been ordered. During July and August an additional sixty miles mill be constructed. Steel for this section has also been ordered.

Within ten days the road has been notified that steel sufficient to cover five miles of line has been shipped. This will be laid before the end of the month. Several stations have already been opened, one at Sand Lake one at Rice River, ten miles from Duluth, and another at Little Fork, farther north.

PATHETIC SUICIDE.

A Sensitive Girl Urged to a Desperate Deed by Gossip.

Peterboro, Jan. 16.—Word has been received relating to the death by suicide of Lottie Taylor, a 15-year-old daughter of Thomas Taylor, a well to do farmer near Havelock. The young woman took a dose of strychnine Saturday night and left a note beside the spoon and bottle containing the poison which indicated she mas wounded by talk. Having recently attended a social gathering and having been escorted home by a young man who was said to have been the worse for liquor, she was assured that she would be excluded from future events.

DECLARED CONSTITUTIONAL.

Charlottetown, P. E. I., Jan. 15.—The supreme court yesterday morning delivered judgment unanimously sustaining the validity of the Prohibition act.

The decision arose out of the application of Angus McDonald to remove by certiorari the record of conviction made against him on the ground that the Prohibition act is ultra vires. The application was dismissed.

WILL BE A REFERENDUM.

PREMIER ROBLIN SO STATES IN A LETTER TO THE DOMINION ALLIANCE.

AN IMMENSE DEPUTATION.

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE AND MINISTERS WAIT UPON THE GOVERNMENT.

Winnipeg, Jan. 17.—An immense deputation waited upon the Manitoba government yesterday morning and urged that the Liquor act be at once enforced. It was a joint deputation of the Dominion Alliance and Ministerial association, and was so large as to entirely fill the legislative chamber. The several speakers all deprecated the idea of taking a referendum vote on the Liquor act, and pressed the government to put the act as already passed into effect on June 1, next.

At a mass meeting in Grace church the same evening the secretary of the Dominion Alliance read the following letter from Premier Roblin:

Winnipeg, Jan. 15, 1902.

Rev. E. Chegwin, Secretary Dominion Alliance, City.

Rev. and Dear Sir.—I have the honor to acknowledge receipt of yours of even date, asking an answer to the requests that were made to the government and legislature today, jointly by the representatives of your body and those of the Ministerial association of the city. In reply beg to say that after carefully considering the statements made to-day by members of the Ministerial association and the Dominion alliance, the government, after consulting with their supporters in caucus, still believe it is desirable that a referendum should be held, such referendum deciding the fate of the act, the government pledging to the strict enforcement of the act, if so brought into force by the referendum. I have the honor to be

Your Obedient Servant,
R. P. ROBLIN.

The premier's reply caused great indignation to the assemblage, and a vote was taken as to whether two representatives of the government should be heard, which resulted in a vote of 600 against hearing the speakers and only 7 for.

LATEST FROM DAWSON.

A Stampede Has Taken Place to Henderson Creek.

Port Townsend, Wash., Jan. 17.—The latest advices from Dawson were brought on the Cottage City by Chas. Berryman, who left the Klondike capital the latter part of December. He says there is a stampede from Dawson for Henderson creek, near Stewart river. He reports that several thousand men are on the creek, and all claims are staked.

During the winter the gambling element in Dawson has resorted to all kinds of schemes to induce the authorities to permit the opening of gambling houses, without success.

Preliminary work has been commenced on one of the largest and longest mining tunnel in the world, near Juneau, Alaska. The tunnel will be started on the beach south of Juneau and run into the mountains to tap a large number of claims in the Silver Bow basin. A large mill will be built on the beach, where it can be operated the year round. It is said the tunnel will cost in the neighborhood of two million dollars.

ELECTRIC SIGNALS.

Ingenious Invention to Prevent Accidents on Railroads.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 17.—The Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad is preparing to instal a system of electric signals to prevent accidents.

The new device displays a signal in the cab of the locomotive. The track is wired in blocks, the rail being used as the conductor. When there is but one train in a block the signal in the cab will burn white. Should another train touch the same block the light is instantly changed to red, which means danger. The signal is not affected by snow or sleet, or by weather of any kind, and it will do its work among a maze of switches and crossings, as well as on a straight track.

If a man occupies a position of trust he can always find plenty of other men who are willing to be trusted.

Be fit for more than the one thing you are now doing.—General Garfield.

A POETIC GEM

It is the lot of the printer to run up against some rare poetical gems, but for poetic (?) grandeur and sublime (?) thought, we have yet to meet anything to compare with the following, which was handed to us by the writers with a request for its publication.

WHEN THE QUARANTINE IS OVER DARLING DEAR

By their fireside so cheerful sit the Wilson boys so tearful.
They are longing for their liberty once more,
And in fancy they are roaming
Up to Williams' in the gloaming,
Where they often get their oyster stews you know.
See the cook down in the kitchen, oyster supper quickly gettin'
Never dreamed of smallpox or of quarantine;
When the moon rose in its splendor
Dr. ———, short and slender,
Put a ticket on the door, as all have seen.

CHO. 1st and 2nd verses:

When the quarantine is over, darling, dear,
And the Wilson boys from quarantine are clear,
After all that you have said
We are sure you'll be well fed
When the quarantine is over darling dear.

Now the fire, once bright, is dying, and they're still there, softly sighing,
For they're thinking of the days that are to come
All around the house they're strolling:
Sometimes in the snow they're rolling,
For it seems that they have nothing else to do.
For the oyster stew we're waiting, and our hearts are nearly breaking
Till we see the old red ticket taken down,
But smallpox went there to greet them,
And the Government have to feed them
Till the Wilson boys once more are seen down town

Sunday night just after supper (oh! what we that day did suffer
As we thought of our dear boys in quarantine!
Just a week ago today
The Wilson boys to us did say
We won't get quarantined, you bet your life,
Never mind boys, keep on hoping. Don't get sad and don't be moping,
For another case may break out yet some day,
Courting o'er the fence is shocking,
And the policemen they are balking,
So from the Wilson boys we'll have to keep away.

CHO. 3rd verse

Wait till the quarantine is over, dear boys do,
And you'll have to start again your girls to woo.
We will be so jolly glad
That we'll pretty near go mad
When the quarantine is over, oh! won't you.

—Composers S. and E. Williams and N. Graham.

MICHEL NEWS

Mrs, Dale, who has conducted a series of special union services for the past two weeks, left Monday morning for the coast. She expects to spend two months visiting among the people of her own faith, with Vancouver and Victoria as her headquarters. Her labors here were productive of good. Her preaching combines a happy mingling of heartsearching talks to professing Christians, and a clear presentation of salvation to the unsaved. Her message was delivered with boldness yet with tenderness and love. Her visit will be remembered with pleasure because of her genial personality and the benefits received through her preaching.

BOARD OF TRADE

A meeting of the Board of Trade was held in Joyce's Hall, Friday evening, Jan. 31, Vice-President Joyce in the chair.

There was a large attendance of members, and after the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, a considerable amount of important business was transacted. The following new members were proposed by H. A. Kanouse:— L. Carosella, W. S. Keay, Andrew P. Walker, Geo. Reynolds, W F. Cuthbert, Wm. Ingram, J. L. McIntyre, W. A. Wilmot and Harry Hill.

It was moved by F. Stork, seconded by F. A. Kanouse that the rules be suspended with regard to balloting, and that the names submitted be accepted on payment of the fee. The Secretary read a communication from Mr. Bury, suggesting a date of meeting with Committee after the removal of quarantine.

Several other communications were read from the Kaslo, Brantford and Halifax Boards of Trade.

Mr. Mott reported that he had a conference with the local officials of the C.P.R., and exhibited a blue print plan of the proposed improvements in the yard and building of new depot.

It was decided to invite Mr. Bury to attend a meeting of the Board as soon as convenient. The Committee on appropriations presented its report.

It was moved by D. V. Mott, seconded by F. Stork, that section one be adopted, viz.: that $5,000 be appropriated for the erection of a court house. Sections two and three for the construction of wagon roads to Morrissey and Alberta were also adopted. Section four for fire protection was amended, and the amount recommended $1,500.

Moved by H. A. Kanouse, seconded by D. V. Mott, that an appropriation of $2,000 be asked from the Government for the improvement of streets and roads in Fernie.

It was moved by H. J. Johnston, seconded by H. A Kanouse, that all convict labor be devoted entirely to the public use, and that their use for private purposes be put a stop to.

The question of draining into the river was left in abeyance, the Government Agent not at present being in a position to take up the question.

A committee on resolutions was appointed to draw up a memorandum to Mr. Smith, M.P.P., embodying the various resolutions discussed and to strongly urge the member to bring the matter to the attention of the Government.

Moved by G. Levasseur, seconded by F. Stork, that D. V. Mott and H. W. Herchmer be appointed delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade meeting at Kaslo, Feb. 26th.

Moved by D. V. Mott, seconded by G. Levasseur, that this Board recommend that in the event of a redistribution of seats in East Kootenay for provincial purposes that the line be drawn at Bull River in the west, and comprise the towns of Fernie, Michel, Morrissey, Elko and Tobacco Plains.

A resolution was adopted with respect to the land titles, urging that the Government take action in order to have a settlement effected and titles granted.

PURDY-BLANCHARD

Married, on Thursday, January 23, 1902, Mr. G. A. Purdy, of Fernie, and Miss Irene Blanchard, of Cranbrook, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. R. Vincent, Cranbrook.

Mr. Purdy is one of the well known business men of Fernie, and Miss Blanchard, although having lived in Cranbrook only a short time, had become exceedingly popular in her circle of friends. The wedding was a quiet one, only the relatives being present. After partaking of a wedding breakfast the happy couple left on the morning train for Nelson for a brief stay, after which they returned to Fernie, where they will make their home. The Herald extends heartiest congratulations.—Cranbrook Herald.

The Free Press also congratulates. May they live long and prosper.

THE CARNIVAL.

The carnival at the rink on Tuesday night was most successful, the attendance being the largest ever seen on the rink. The ice was in good condition and the crowds of maskers and spectators enjoyed themselves to the fullest extent. The costumes were in most cases very handsome and the characters represented were exceedingly well conceived. The management of the rink is entitled to much credit for the excellent manner in which the carnival was conducted. Following is a list of the maskers and the prize-winners:

C. Henderson, Clown.
F. Thompson, Clown.
J. Falconer, Lumber Jack.
Miss F. Tannhauser, Huntress.
Mrs. C. Henderson, Night.
Mrs. J. Brown, Housemaid.

H. Giffen, Clown.
Jim Farquharson, Darkey.
Milt. Kastner, Rubber Neck.
J. Miller, Weary Willie.
P. McMurphy, Hayseed.

The prize for the best dressed lady was awarded to Miss B Farquharson, who represented the duchess of Gainsborough. Mr. L. Mills, who represented a Coon dude was awarded the prize for best dressed gent. J. Marshall, who represented an Indian Doctor, carried off the prize for the best represented character, and M. Harwood the prize for best comic. The prize for the best dressed school girl was awarded to Miss Goddard.

Messrs. F. Stork, J. R. Pollock and H. W. Barnes acted as judges and gave general satisfaction.

There were a number of others on the ice in costume, but they did not give their names in at the door.

Another carnival will be given in the near future, when special attractions will be provided.

SMIFF ENDORSES THE KING.

Bravo for Edward, by the grace of God, King, Emperor, high cockolorum and all the rest of it. He certainly always has had a streak of his mother's good common sense. Finding that his frock coat was a bit worn at the wrists, he got Alexandra to put on velvet cuffs, and so made his old coat as good as new for the opening of parliament. Well done, Edward, that will be money in the pockets of thousands who are struggling along in genteel poverty. If Edward would now introduce velvet ends to trousers, and velvet patches on the—ahem—the other end, doncherno, he would be doing more for his country than he has ever yet accomplished.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

TUITION FOR MINERS

The proposal that the Miners' Union should petition the Provincial Government for a grant in aid of the establishment of a system of mining tuition in connection with coal mines, is a most practical move. In Ontario, where mining is only a subsidiary employment, the Government has appropriated large sums for the purposes of training miners and prospectors, a grant of $47,000 having been made to Queen's College for mining tuition, and a sum of $1,000 set aside annually to provide instruction in different localities for any who may wish to take advantage of it.

In Nova Scotia, where the conditions are more similar to our own, generous grants have been made for instructions in the practical part of coal mining and further arrangements are contemplated whereby the curricula of subjects will take in surveying and all the necessary instructions to qualify men as mine managers. The system now in operation there provides for classes at nine different points three months every year, and in addition to this the department defrays the expense of fuel, light, rent, etc., for classes which may continue meeting throughout the year.

In this Province there are four centres of coal mining— Nanaimo, Cumberland, Extension and Fernie, and it would not require a large amount to open classes in each for two or three months every year and provide a competent instructor who could take up all the subjects and carry the pupils through.

Associated with these classes there could be a permanent organization for the purpose of promoting an interest in the science of coal mining with regular meetings at which papers could be read and discussion carried on.

A proposal of this kind is one that should be taken up energetically by the miners at all four points and the Government urged to adopt the principle and make an appropriation for the purpose without delay. It is undoubted that such instruction and classes would be appreciated and taken advantage of by the more ambitious amongst the young men in the mines whose only resource now is to purchase instructions by mail from correspondence schools in the east, which, however welcome in the absence of a better system, is at best a poor substitute for the personal supervision of a teacher, and is further open to the objection that it costs heavily, and in many cases is so unsatisfactory that the pupil drops the course before finishing it.

Altogether it is a matter of great public importance that correct knowledge of coal mining be disseminated as widely as possible amongst those who work in our mines, and it is something that deserves the most liberal treatment by a Province whose chief industry and source of revenue is its collieries.—Nanaimo Herald.

PROMINENT CITIZEN OF NELSON KILLED.

New York, January 27.—An explosion has occurred in the excavation for the new rapid transit tunnel at Park Avenue, near 42nd street. One of those killed was J. Roderick Robertson, of Nelson, B.C. He was a guest of the Murray Hill Hotel, and was killed in his room. The number injured is now estimated at 75, many pedestrians being hurt by flying debris. The accident was caused by the explosion of a large amount of dynamite.

WESTERN MEN ALLEGED TO HAVE PLANNED MUTINY

A despatch from Halifax says: "A plot among the Canadian Mounted Rifles to mutiny on board the transport Victorian, scheduled to sail for South Africa next Tuesday, has leaked out. The men angered at the treatment they had received for trivial breaches of discipline, decided to seize the officers and non-commissioned officers responsible for it after the vessel had left port.

But for the timely betrayal of the scheme by some who had refused to join in it, it is thought there would have been a terrible fight, with wholesale bloodshed between the hundred and more mutineers, who are largely men from the West, and those who would have remained loyal to the colonel and other officers.

During the last week, about sixty men have been discharged from the regiment, principally those from the Northwest.

This will add much interest to the service of praise at the regular services, an important branch of Christian worship so frequently neglected.

Mr. Wilson, the Government School Inspector, visited our school a couple of weeks ago. He found that no meeting of the trustees had been held since last August, when they were elected. No successor had been elected to fill the vacancy caused by the removal of Dr. Brodie. In school matters we have had "one man rule" with a vengeance. However we are glad to say that instructions have been given for this state of affairs to cease and that Michel school will be governed by the rules and regulations of the British Columbia Educational Act.

The carol singers had a supper at the residence of Mr. T. W. Steele, organist, on Saturday evening. It was a pleasant and enjoyable social gathering. Upwards of 25 persons took supper. After justice had been done to the generous supply of turkey, and other good things provided, an informal program consisting of instrumental music, sacred, patriotic and comic songs was rendered. Mr. James Berry occupied the position of chairman. At the conclusion of the program a choir was formed with the following officers: Organist, J. W. Steele; Assistant Organist; Leader, Mr. E. Briscoe.

A GODDESS OF AFRICA.

A Story of the Golden Fleece.

By ST. GEORGE RATHBONE

Heaven was very good—although her wound had appeared to be fatal, she survived the crisis and began to mend. Lord Bruno was all devotion, and Marian could not but love the gentle girl who had been ready to give her life to save the man who had won her heart.

Rex had recovered from his slight wounds, and amused himself in making little excursions with the professor in search of oddities, and in the company of Marian, now his promised wife.

It was a happy time.

Meanwhile there had been skirmishes between the hostile forces, but that wizard of South Africa, Cecil Rhodes, had come to the front and his magical influence brought about peace. His name was one to conjure with among the natives—they believed in him above all men, because he treated them fairly.

The negotiations for peace have become a matter of history, and gave Mr. Rhodes an opportunity for displaying his character as a man without fear.

It was about noon on a Friday that John Grootboom arrived in Mr. Rhodes' camp and asked to see those in command, stating that six principal chiefs, two Princes, Lobengula's brothers, and thirty-four indunas and captains of the Matabele impis were gathered in solemn council in the hills four miles away. The meeting was being held in secret, as the chiefs were afraid to come into the open, owing to their distrust of the white troops. They wished, however, to see Mr. Colenbrander, whom they trusted as a friend, and Mr. Rhodes would be welcome if he was willing to attend the council.

Thereupon, without hesitation, Mr. Rhodes decided to go. The military staff wished to accompany him, but Grootboom strongly advised that no such step should be taken, as it would defeat its object and involve Mr. Rhodes in great danger. Accordingly, Mr. Rhodes, Dr. Sauer, Mr. Colenbrander and the press representative started for the spot indicated, every man taking a revolver in each pocket, except Mr. Rhodes, who went unarmed. John Grootboom and John Makings made up the party to the number of six, and together they moved quietly into the rugged portion of the Matoppos, the route lying overland covered with kopjes and honeycombed with caves. Four miles from camp the six reached the foot of a huge kopje and one hundred yards further on was the trysting place. Mr. Rhodes and his companions dismounted and took up their position by a large ant heap and waited, while Grootboom advanced to the kopje to say the party were awaiting the appearance of the chiefs.

Suddenly there was a gleam of white from the kopje, and all the chiefs filed out in a row, headed by one carrying a white flag. They drew near to the party in silence and squatted round them in a semicircle. The Indaba lasted for five hours, all the points at issue being fully discussed and full explanations proffered by the white men to allay the uneasiness which the chiefs evidently felt as certain possible consequences of the surrender.

Then the chiefs arose, and each threw a small stick at the feet of Mr. Rhodes, indicating their willingness to surrender their guns, while another similar stick meant that they were ready to hand over their assegais. In return Mr. Rhodes promised that the desired abolition of the native police force should be taken into serious consideration. The chiefs solemnly replied that hostilities should cease at once, and guaranteed the safety of the roads and of the coaches. Mr. Rhodes and his party were so impressed with the honest motives of the chiefs that they even expressed their willingness to return to their stronghold with them.

The chiefs, whose names were Somabulana, Mluzalu, Secombo, Dhlism, Gunn, Manyta, Maleve, Sikhota, Nyanda and Bidi, together with Lobengula's brothers, Manya and Kavula, held absolute sway in the Matoppos. Consequently the news of their surrender, which Mr. Rhodes insisted must be unconditional, a stipulation to which, moreover, the chiefs agreed caused great rejoicing in Buluwayo and over the whole border.

Meanwhile Rex and Lord Bruno had organized a secret expedition to the land of the Zambodi, to recover the contents of the cache. They found the golden treasure and the precious gems safe and sound, and as the utmost care was taken to avoid any collision with the natives, no occasion arose to necessitate the use of firearms.

On the way back they visited the lone grave in the bush and dropped a tear in memory of the gallant fellow who had fallen as he had ever lived, with his face to the foe; nor will Jim Bludsoe ever be forgotten while life remains to them.

Long ere this Rex had told Lord Bruno the strange story of how he learned about the contents of the buried temple from a sea captain whom he was enabled to assist when in dire distress and dying of the plague in Bombay.

Although there were some reason to believe the man might have been suffering under an hallucination, he seemed so positive, and the adventure promised such amazing results if it resulted the right way, that in the end Rex decided to kill two birds with one stone, having long intended to make a journey through the heart of Darkest Africa.

The result was his expedition which had turned out so disastrously from the point of an exploration, but eminently successful as an argosy.

At the time we write, a little party of four has left Cape Town on a staunch English steamer bound for London. Lord Bruno is no longer a bachelor, and a more devoted husband it would be hard to find than the big Englishman who bends over his wee wife, anticipating her every wish. They have been comrades in camp and in battle—they will be comrades through life.

And Rex looks eagerly forward to their arrival in old England, since he has the promise of the fair god to enter into a contract, whereby it will be his privilege to worship at her shrine "until death do them part."

THE END.

JUST WANTED TO TALK.

He Disturbs a Man Who Was Devoid of All Friendly Feelings.

In the waiting room of the depot at Long Island City the other afternoon there was a man with a satchel between his feet who was nodding and napping and now and then almost jerking his hat off as his head bobbed forward or back. By and by an old man with a long goatee and a benign expression of countenance went over to him and slapped him on the knee and said:

"Stranger, I feel jest like talkin' with some one. Have you ever bin in Africa?"

"Did you hit me on the leg?" demanded the sleeper as he roused up.

"Yes."

"Well, I'll thank you to keep your paws off'n me. How dare you come over and hit me?"

"I jest teched you lightly to wake you up. Have you ever bin in Africa?"

"Africa, Africa! None of your business, sir! What right had you to come over here and paw me around?"

"I didn't paw. If you are so mighty pertickler that a man can't tech you on the knee, you'd better git in a corner. How would anybody go to Africa from here?"

"In a balloon if he wanted to!" growled the man with the satchel as he rose up and took another seat.

"How fur is it?" asked the old man as he followed him and stood before him.

"You go away from me or there'll be a row."

"Gittin' mad, eh? That's the way with some folks. They can't even answer a civil question. I'm glad I haven't got to ask you for a match or a chaw of terbacker. Why can't you answer a feller about Africa?"

"What in Texas do I know about Africa?" shouted the other.

"Hain't you ever bin there?"

"No; of course not."

"Well, you needn't snap my head off. I've had a hundred different men ask me if I'd bin in Africa, and I never got mad about it. It hain't ag'in a man that he was never in Africa. That country is a long ways off, and we can't git away from home every day in the week. I was jest a-wonderin' about Columbus. Must have bin a joyful hour fur him when he diskivered America, eh?"

"What has Columbus got to do with me?" howled the touchy man.

"There you go ag'in. If I had your fat on me, I'd be afraid of apoplexy. You'll git so mad you'll bu'st some day. What did Columbus have to do with you? That's a purty answer fur a grown man to make."

"I want you to go away."

"Yes, I know, but I want to talk a little first. What was the date of the discovery of America?"

"I don't care what it was. You go away from me or I'll do you damage."

"Waal, I don't want no row, and I'll go away. I don't want to talk to a man who don't want to talk to me. I could tell you more about Columbus in ten minits than you have learned in forty years, but you don't want to hear it. You want to go around wonderin' whether you belong to Kamchatka or the United States."

He went off and sat down, but presently returned to add:

"And, say, if I ever catch you in my town I'll hop right on to you and lick you blind in two minits."

Then he sat down, pulled an 1894 almanac from his coattail pocket and was soon deeply immersed in the moon's phases.—Brooklyn Citizen.

IS YOUR CHILD IN DANGER?

Croup, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough and Severe Chest Colds are Threatening.

It is the old story of wet feet, exposure to cold and dampness and chilled bodies. Towards night the hoarseness comes and the hollow, croupy or tight chest cough. Then mother's anxiety, for she knows the danger and the suddenness with which the little ones are sometimes snatched away. When you think of the thousands of times that Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved the lives of the little ones it is scarcely to be wondered at that mothers look upon it with confidence and satisfaction.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

It is an ideal medicine for children because it is remarkably pleasant to take and is perfectly free from Morphia. It is one of the few remedies for diseases of the throat and lungs which thoroughly cures the cold as well as the cough. There are other preparations of linseed. Be sure you get Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, with portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the bottle. Price, 25 cents; family size, three times as much, 60 cents. ALMOST A MIRACLE.

WROUGHT IN THE CASE OF A CHARLOTTETOWN LADY.

Her Doctor Said She Was in Consumption and Held Out No Hope of Recovery—Today She is Well, Strong and Active.

From The Islander, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Statistics published from time to time show the number of deaths occurring throughout the country from consumption to be as great as the number caused by all other preventible diseases combined. It is no wonder, therefore, that the medical fraternity has at last awakened to the fact that the most urgent means must be taken to prevent its further spread and to teach the public that while the disease is readily communicated from one person to another, it is not necessarily inherited, though the tendency to it may be. It is therefore of the utmost importance that people with weak lungs should take the greatest care of themselves to prevent consumption taking a hold upon them. Pure, out-of-door air, lots of sunshine, wholesome food and a good tonic medicine to keep the blood rich, red and pure, will enable anyone to resist the inroads of the disease. As a blood forming tonic, there is no medicine the equal of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills where freely and fairly used, will strengthen the weakest constitution, and have cured many cases of consumption when taken in its early stages. Proof of this is given in the case of Mrs. Abram Henry, of Charlottetown, P. E. I. To a reporter of the Islander who called upon her, Mrs. Henry said: "A few years ago I found myself growing weak and pale and emaciated. I took various medicines on the advice of friends, but none of them appeared to do me any good, and two years ago my condition became so much worse that I was obliged to take to my bed and call in a doctor, who said that my lungs were affected, and that I was going into consumption, and he told my mother, who was mostly in attendance upon me, that my recovery was very doubtful. I grew gradually weaker and weaker. I could not sit up for five minutes; my lungs pained me; I coughed severely, lost almost all desire for food, and when I did eat I found it difficult to retain food on my stomach. I fell away in weight from 148 pounds to 100 pounds, and I do not think any of my friends expected to see me get better. But some of them urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to do so. I began by taking one pill a day, for my stomach was very weak, but I was soon able to increase this to three pills a day, and finally as my strength was increasing under their use, I took nine pills a day. The change which came with the use of the pills was little short of miraculous, and so marked and rapid that inside of two months after I began their use, I was able to leave my bed and move about the house, and soon after I was able to walk about in the open air and make short visits to my friends. On one of these occasions I met the doctor who had attended me, and he asked me what I had been taking that had made such an improvement. I replied that I had been taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he said 'all right, continue them; they won't hurt you anyway.' Well, I continued taking them until I had used seventeen boxes, with the result that I never felt better than I do now—not even in my girlhood days. It is more than a year since I stopped taking the pills, and you can see for yourself what they did for me. I may say, too, that my weight has increased to 137 pounds. I am not anxious for publicity, but when I think of what the pills did for me, I believe I ought to sacrifice my own feelings for the benefit of some other poor sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have produced such remarkable cures as the above because they are wholly unlike ordinary medicines, which only act upon the symptoms. These pills go direct to the root of the trouble, making new, rich blood, and giving increased strength with every dose. In this way they cure consumption in its early stages, also such diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, St. Vitus' dance, heart trouble, neuralgia, dyspepsia, chronic erysipelas, and all the functional troubles that makes the lives of so many women miserable. The genuine pills are sold only in boxes bearing the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." If you do not find them at your dealers, they will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The fact that a fool is funny does not indicate that he is possessed of wit.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

The Example of Paganini.

A story is told of how Paganini once came into the concert room, took the violin and touched the strings. First one string broke, and a smile went round the room; then another string broke, and there was more audible expression of mockery. When a third string broke, many people laughed outright at his discomfiture. But Paganini stood forth with his violin as though nothing had happened and played on the one string, and the people ceased to smile, but listened spellbound. Some of those who had derided him began to weep, and some even prayed.

Many a man had fallen helpless by the wayside when some great catastrophe turned the current of his life aside. The brave man pushes forward with one remaining talent and plucks victory from defeat.

Machinery for establishing a flour mill in the far northern Peace River country is now lying at Edmonton, Alberta, awaiting the opening of navigation to be sent north. The mill will be set up at or near Vermilion, a trading post on the Peace river, about 300 miles north of Edmonton. The fact that a flour mill is being established so far north will indicate the agricultural possibilities of the country, and the vast extent of the area adapted to growing cereal crops in Western Canada.

The Rapid City Reporter says—"Old settlers hold the opinion that the climate of Manitoba is gradually but surely changing for the better, and every winter as it comes around (we may say it never misses) proves that they are correct. The present winter is one of a series of three which may be called mild as compared with the winters of twenty years ago. We have had but two cold snaps, and those by no means severe, lasting about a week each, one in November and one in December, the intervening weeks having been bright and bracing when every healthy person found it a pleasure to be out. Two men at present in this neighborhood, one from the Old Country and the other from Eastern Canada, say they never passed such a pleasant winter before. At this rate the climate will soon cease to be a sort of bugaboo, and people in the older countries will gradually but surely obtain a correct estimate of the Manitoba climate."

SAMPLES OF CHOICE GRAINS.

Free Distribution by the Department of Agriculture.

"By instructions of the hon. minister of agriculture another distribution will be made this season of samples of the most productive sorts of grain to the Canadian farmers for the improvement of seed. The stock for distribution is of the very best and has been secured by the director of the experimental farms from the record-breaking crops recently had in the Canadian Northwest. It will be worth while for farmers generally to renew their seed of oats when varieties which have produced more than 100 bushels per acre can be had. The distribution this spring will consist of samples of oats, spring wheat, barley, field peas, Indian corn and potatoes. Every farmer may apply, but only one sample can be sent to each applicant, hence if an individual receives a sample of oats he cannot also receive one of wheat, barley, or potatoes, and applications for more than one sample for one household cannot be entertained. These samples will be sent free of charge through the mail.

Applications should be addressed to the Director of Experimental Farms, Ottawa, and may be sent in any time before the 15th of March, after which the lists will be closed, so that all the samples asked for may be sent out in good time for sowing. Parties writing should mention the sort or variety they would prefer, and should the available stock of the kind asked for be exhausted, some other good sort will be sent in its place.

HOCKEY CHAMPIONSHIP.

WINNIPEG VICTORIAS DEFEAT WELLINGTONS OF TORONTO 5 TO 3 IN FIRST GAME.

Winnipeg, Jan. 22.—The Wellingtons failed to win their first game for the Stanley cup against the Victorias at the Auditorium rink last night. The score at half-time stood: Wellingtons, 2; Victorias, 1. At the end of the game the figures were changed to: Victorias 5, Wellingtons 3. The game was witnessed by upwards of 3,000 people, and the excitement was at fever heat throughout the whole game. The Toronto team showed up in splendid shape during the first half, proving themselves expert stick-handlers. The Winnipeggers got down to championship form in the second half, and skated the easterners off their feet. Only the marvellous goal-keeping of Morrison saved the Wellingtons from an overwhelming defeat.

BRITISH COMMONS.

Appreciation of Canada's Share In the War.

London, Jan. 22.—Balfour's spirited rebuke last night to the Nationalists in the Commons for their imputation on the loyalty of Canada and Australia is warmly applauded in ministerial circles.

Mr. O'Kelly asked whether steps had been taken to induce the colonies to pay a share of the cost of the war.

Mr. Balfour evoked loud ministerial and Liberal imperialist cheers by his grateful acknowledgement of the contributions the colonies had already voluntarily made in men and money and said the imputation of the question was uncalled for and expressed quite in unnecessarily offensive language.

W. Redmond asked what the colonies had paid.

The speaker ruled him out of order.

Redmond, whose wife is an Australian, shouted "Why not ask Australia to pay as well as Ireland?" (Cries of "order!")

The incident illustrated the solidarity of ministerialists and Liberals in their appreciation of the part played by Canada and Australia. He criticized the Liberal press for insisting that the colonies should have some say in the South African settlement

London, Jan. 22.—Winston Spencer Churchill (Con.) in resuming the debate in the house of commons last night on the amendment, moved by Frederick Cawley (Liberal) to the address in reply to the speech from the throne at the opening of parliament, gained the distinct approval of the opposition benches by his criticisms of the government's shortcomings in regard to the conduct of the war in South Africa, the insufficiency of the troops supplied to Lord Kitchener, and other matters. He said he preferred a settlement by compromise, rather than by force, as the latter would entail the tremendous expense of long military occupation.

SPRING IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA.

Farmers Plowing and Seeding and Trees Are Budding.

Plowing and seeding is now going on (Jan. 21) in Southern Alberta, and some of the trees are budded and almost in leaf.

A letter was received in Winnipeg from a gentleman in Southern Alberta, who enclosed a small branch of a Balm of Gilead tree, the buds of which were well developed and almost in leaf. He also stated that so mild had been the winter that farmers in that section were already plowing and seeding. This is the earliest record of spring plowing for a good many years.

SHOT A PEDDLER.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—David Kingsbury is charged with shooting Elias Joseph, an Assyrian peddler, with a single barrelled gun at East Alfield, about 18 miles back of Wakefield. It is alleged the deed was committed in an attempt to secure the victim's money. Though the wound is a serious one it is not expected to prove fatal A warrant has been issued for Kingsbury's arrest.

MARCONI JILTED.

New York, Jan. 22.—Mrs. H. B. Holman, of this city, announced yesterday that her daughter, Josephine, had asked Gdeglielmo Marconi, the developer of wireless telegraphy, to release her from an engagement to marry him, and that Mr. Marconi had complied with her request.

EMBEZZLED CALGARY FUNDS.

Calgary, Jan. 22.—Charles Tarbet, poll-tax collector of this city, was yesterday charged before Magistrates Sanders and Vanwort with embezzling $162 of the city funds. He pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence.

GORDON IS ARRESTED

WHITEWATER MURDERER BELIEVED TO BE IN THE HANDS OF POLICE.

A TROOPER IN THE C. M. R. TAKEN INTO CUSTODY AT HALIFAX.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 22.—Detective Power last night arrested a trooper of the Canadian Mounted Rifles who is believed to be Walter Gordon, the Whitewater, Manitoba, murderer, who had been followed over the American continent for the last two years, but always evaded the police. He was known in the Mounted Rifles as "Trooper John Gray." He enlisted in British Columbia, coming to Halfax with the western section some weeks ago. The man under arrest the police are confident is Walter Gordon. He is thick set in build, weighs about 170 pounds, and is about 24 years old. His upper front teeth are capped with gold, and his eyes twitch considerably when engaged in conversation. He answers in almost every way the description sent out by Chief of Police Elliott, of Winnipeg.

Detective Power received instructions a few days ago to look out for the escaped murderer. He visited the military camp at the exhibition grounds, and having spotted his man wired to Chief Elliott for a full description and a photo of Gordon. These were received, and accompanied by Adjutant Church, of the C. M. R., the detective interviewed "Trooper Gray," who answered so completely the description given that he was immediately arrested. He was taken to the police station. The prisoner keeps close guard on his lips. He appears quite sullen, and refused to talk to the police officers, and will neither affirm his innocence nor discuss the crime with which he is charged. He takes the matter quite coolly. The prisoner enlisted under the name of John Gray, giving the name of J. Gordon, Ontario, as his next of kin. In his attestation papers he alleges that he was born at Brooklyn, Ontario, and that his occupation is a miner. A telegram was sent to Chief Elliott stating that Trooper Gray was under arrest and asking instructions.

When the handcuffs were placed on the trooper he made no protest and did not even ask on what charge he was arrested. Two officers were placed on guard over him at the police station, and for an hour the prisoner sat without uttering a word. All that he did say was that he regretted that he could not go to South Africa. The arrest caused a great sensation at the military camp and nothing else was talked about by the troopers last night.

THE PRISONER'S RECORD.

Walter Gordon committed a double murder. He was in the employ of two elderly farmers, John Daw and Jacob Smith, who were murdered in their sleep on a Sunday night two years ago. Gordon disappeared immediately. He crossed the border and after some time made his way to South Dakota. There he enlisted in the U. S. army as a private in an infantry corps. He was stationed at Fort Meade. He enlisted under the name of John Gray and alleged that he was born at Buffalo and that his next of kin was J. Gordon of Ontario. He told a fellow private that he would like to go to South Africa, and when the news of the organization of the C. M. R. was received he announced his determination to go on December 12. He deserted from Fort Meade, and made his way to British Columbia, where he enlisted as a trooper, as already stated.

A SHABBY TRICK.

Montreal, Jan. 22.—A peculiar incident happened at yesterday's nomination. A man presented the receipt of Mr. J. W. Foisy, candidate in seat No. 2, St. Antoine South, and said Mr. Foisy wanted to withdraw the deposit.

The receipt was properly endorsed and being signed by the city clerk, the deposit was returned. Mr. Foisy denies all knowledge of the withdrawal. The money was returned to his house last night. The withdrawal will invalidate his candidature.

REGINA AND THE C. P. R.

Regina, N. W. T., Jan. 22.—At a joint meeting of the Regina town council and the board of trade held on Monday night a resolution was passed calling upon the C. P. R. to fulfil its promise made in 1884 to construct a line from Regina to Arcola.

A resolution was also passed appointing Councillor Darke, Councillor Macdonald, James Balfour, and William Trant a committee to consider the best means of promoting the building of farmers' elevators.

The Canadian route to the far east is seven days shorter than the Suez canal way.

MARKETS

WHEAT.

The market for Manitoba wheat has been characterized by much steadiness although trade has been dull all the week. Prices did not advance to the same extent as in United States markets and on the decline during the week they did not follow them down either. On Saturday last the prices in store Fort William stood at 70c for 1 northern, and 67c for 2 northern. All the week since then they have hung around 69c to 70c for 1 northern, mostly 64½c 1 northern, and 66½ 2 northern, January delivery. For February delivery 70c and 67c; and for May delivery 74½ and 71½c, all in store Fort William or Duluth. No. 1 hard sold at 72½c, but there is very little of this grade to work with.

Country Wheat—The poor state of the country roads, which are neither fit for sleighing or wheeling, coupled with the want of storage room, has reduced the country wheat deliveries to a very small point. At many of the elevators buyers have been withdrawn in view of this condition of affairs prices are not of much interest.

FLOUR—Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.00 per sack of 98 pounds; Glenora Patent, $1.95; Alberta, $1.75; Manitoba, $1.55; Imperial XXXX, $1.25; Lake of the Woods Five Roses brand, $2 per 98 pound sack; Red Patent, $1.85; Medora, $1.45; XXXX, $1.25.

OATS.—Receipts of oats are ample for all current requirements and the market is weaker in tone, although not quotably changed in price. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bush; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight. No. 1 Alberta oats (the new grade) are worth 39½, Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta 38½c.

BARLEY—The market holds steady under light receipts and a good demand. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

MILLFEED—Prices show still further declines. Bran, in bulk, per ton $15.50; shorts, $17.50. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is $2.50 per ton lower, at $27.50 delivered to the trade. Barley chop is $1 lower, at $22 per ton. Oil cake is still quoted at $27.

FLAXSEED—Buying is about over for the season as most of the flax is now out of the farmers' hands.

HAY.—Dealers are now paying $4.50 to $5.50 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS—Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef, city dressed, 6 to 7c per pound; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7½ to 8c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 12½c per lb dressed.

GAME—Rabbits are bringing 5c each.

BUTTER—Dairy—Prices ranke all the way from 12 to 22c per pound, according to quality, style of package, etc. Really choice table butter is still scarce and readily brings 22c per pound here less freight and commission.

POTATOES—Farmers' loads, delivered in Winnipeg, are worth 30c per bushel

HIDES—No. 1 inspected hides, 6½c per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5½c; No. 3, 4½c; kips and calf, same price: deakins, 25 to 40c; horse hides 50c to $1.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—The market for cattle is firm owing to small offerings, especially of the better grades. Butchers complain a good deal of the quality of cattle now coming in. There should be no trouble in fattening cattle now with the quantity of feed available. The best beef cattle are worth as high as 4c a pound, delivered in Winnipeg.

SHEEP.—There is no movement at present as butchers are plentifully supplied with frozen mutton.

HOGS—The market is firm, owing to light deliveries. Packers are paying for best weights averaging from 150 to 250 pounds, 6½c, weighed off cars, and for lights and heavies, 6c.

MILCH COWS—Milch cows are scarce and in good demand at from $30 to $45 each.

HORSES—There is but a light demand for horses, and the market is without feature. Prices are very firm.

A number of Rossland's citizens hav subscribed liberally towards erecting a monument to the memory of the late Rev. W. H. Irwin, so widely known in the Kootenays as "Father Pat." There are no dovbt many of the older residents of Fernie who know of him and his good deeds, and a subscription list here, would be quite in order, to assist the undertaking.

THE Toronto Globe of Saturnay, Jan. 25th, devotes five pages to the Crow's Nest Pass coal mines and the town of Fernie. The article is profusely illustrated, most of the photographs being by Prest, the local artist. The letter press is the work of Mr. F. A. Acland, news editor of the Globe, who visited the mines in November. and that he thoroughly familiarized himself with the subject matter is amply evidenced by the excellence of the work. The publication of such an article in a paper of the standing of the Globe cannot fail to be of great benefit to the town, in attracting the attention of investors.

EXAMINATION OF MINERS

Under the Coal Mines Regulation Act and Amendment Act, 1901, it is provided that an election of coal miners to constitute the Board of Examiners for the Coal Creek mine shall take place on February 15th. The province of the Board of Examiners is to issue certificates of competency to coal miners, fire bosses, overmen and shot lighters, who shall have passed the necessary examination. The Board of Examiners shall consist of the following persons:— One appointed by the Lieutenant-Governor in Council; two appointed by the owner or manager of the mine; two coal miners actually working in the mine, who shall have at least three years experience as working miners and after the coming into force of this act, possessed of a certificate of competency as such. Such coal miners shall be elected by the coal miners actually working in the mines.

Provided that the said two coal miners who act on the said Board of Examiners for the first year after coming into force of this Act, shall not be required to hold a certificate of competency. Such Board shall hold office one year, or until their successors are appointed.

These are the important clauses in the Act affecting the Coal Creek mine, and it is desirable that the miners at Coal Creek should call a meeting as early as possible to select candidates for election to the Board. The names of the candidates must be in the hands of Mr. Wm. Barton, Secretary to the Board, not later than February 8th, to enable him to forward the particulars of the ballot to the printers on Feb. 9th. This being the first election under the Act, no doubt there will be some misunderstanding as to its provisions, and it is the wish of the Government that no hitch may occur in the preliminary arrangements, it would perhaps be well for those interested to convene a meeting as early as possible to thoroughly discuss the subject in all its bearings. A copy of the Act may be found at this office, and any information will be gladly afforded.

REV. H. IRWIN, M.A., OXON.

The passing of a good man is always to be deplored in the community in which he was best known. The news that "Father Pat," than whom no man was better beloved in the Kootenays, was dead in Montreal, where his decease would call for only a passing notice, was a shock to the hearts of many British Columbians which will be slow of healing. Greater men have paid the last great debt to nature, and their memories soon forgotten, but in "Father Pat" there was a personality that perhaps has not been equalled in this Province. A man of fine talents and scholarly attainments, an athlete distinguished at the wickets and goals—a nobler heart could not beat in the human breast. He preferred devoting his time to smoothing the thorny paths so numerously besetting the rough life of the miner and prospector, and endeavoring to instil the precepts of the meek and lowly Savior into the hearts of men, who by their environments, had little opportunity to think of the future, than to the more ornamental but perhaps less useful work within the church walls. He performed his self chosen mission with never-faltering energy, and many a time and oft denied himself comforts of life that his less fortunate comrades might profit by his ever ready generosity.

By the camp fire and in the cabin, far from the busy haunts of men, stories that would fill volumes have been told of his self-denying labors that would put to shame the best efforts of philanthropists in the higher walks of life.

"Father Pat" has built for himself a monument more enduring than the tablets of stone that will be erected over his grave. "He was a man; take him for all in all we shall not look upon his like again." Green be the turf above him.

THE LIBERAL CONVENTION

Date of Meeting Postponed to February the Sixth.

A meeting of the Executive of the British Columbia Liberal Association was held on Saturday last to consider the protest of the Vancouver and several other Liberal Associations against the admission to the Convention of members of the Executive and Liberal editors, and also the protest of the Greenwood Liberal Association against the inequality of representation on the basis proposed, and other communications received since the call was issued for the convention, when resolutions as follows were adopted:

1. The right to sit in Convention asked for by Liberal editors shall be passed upon both by the Executive and the Credentials Committee.

2 Recognizing the justice of the demand of Up-Country constituencies for increased voting power at convention, recommended that the voting powers of each constituency be based on the numbe of votes cast at the last Provincial election; the final decision of the question to rest with the Convention.

3. On account of the Dominion by-election in Victoria, it is decided to postpone the convention for one week, thus making the date of meeting February 6, 1902.

The regular weekly meeting of the Quadrille Club was cancelled on Thursday evening in order to give all a chance to attend the rink while the ice is good.

Owing to illness the Rev. Mr. Stillman was unable to occupy his pulpit on Sunday last. Mr. Davis conducted the morning service and Mr. J. Robinson the evening.

Encouraged by the success of the last carnival at the skating rink, the managers are contemplating having another in the near future, so be ready with your costumes in time.

The quarantine on the Victoria Hotel was raised at 1 o'clock Monday morning. The two week's confinement was rather hard on the thirty-two inmates, but they made the best of the situation.

A meeting of the local camp of the Woodmen of the World will be held in the small room of Princess Hall next Tuesday evening, February 4th, at 8 o'clock sharp. Business of importance.

No new cases of smallpox have been reported this week and the assumption is that the disease has run its course. If there are no cases reported before Monday, February 3, it is quite certain the quarantine on the town will be raised.

Attention is called to the advertisement of Martin O'Reilly & Co. who have opened out a new store in Fernie. The business is entirely confined to dry goods and an inspection of the stock by the ladies of the town can hardly fail to be profitable to those looking for bargains. The store is handsomely fitted up and thoroughly lighted and the management will be pleased to show the stock. x

The guests of the Hotel Fernie quarantined there from Jan. 12th to the 27th, desire to express their thanks for favors received from the following: Scott & Mutz, for a barrel of the beverage which cheers, Dan Hayes for a liberal treat of apples and nuts, the London & Liverpool Co. for the same, the Rev. D. L. Gordon for a plentiful supply of reading matter; also to their friends in general for kind words of sympathy for us while imprisoned, and especially to Mr. and Mrs. Wallace and the hotel staff for the pleasant and kindly way in which they catered to all our wants.—Com.

Mr. W. W. Tuttle and Mr. Geo. Levasseur are said to be training for a skating race.

Fred Stork leaves Sunday night for Victoria, as a delegate to the Liberal convention.

Owing to the prolonged illness of Rev. D. Holford, B.D., there will be no Baptist church service on Sunday.

An important meeting of the Carpenters' Union will be held in Joyce's Hall on the second Tuesday in the month. By order of the secretary.

A man named Sullivan died in the hospital on Monday last. He was suffering from a violent attack of pneumonia. The funeral took place on Tuesday, the Rev. Father Milleux conducting the service.

Preparations are in progress for holding a high class vocal and instrumental concert in Princess Hall, on Shrove Tuesday, February 11th. All music lovers will do well to make a note of the date and endeavor to be present.

The Hotel Fernie, which has been tied up for two weeks, was released from quarantine Monday morning. There were sixty-one good men and true under Proprietor Wallace's charge, but he provided them all with three squares and a good time.

The skating races on the rink next Tuesday evening promise to be very interesting. It is said that Dave Hill will challenge any one in town for a mile race for a purse of not less than $100. Milt. Kastner will no doubt accept the challenge.

C. H. Lever received the Crown patents for his section of land adjacent to the Janes survey, across the river, and has now a force of men building a house on the property. Harry is to be congratulated on getting the title to such a valuable piece of property.

The Public Schools both here and at the mines will re-open February 3rd. All school children must present certificates of vaccination. The school work has been thrown considerably behind as a result of the quarantine and parents should see to it that they all turn out on Monday.

Arthur Shaw, who claimed to hail from Medicine Hat, strayed into town Tuesday and was corraled by the police. He was in a demented condition and in response to Chief Barnes' inquiry the authorities at Medicine Hat requested him to be sent back there. Chief Barnes took him back to the prairie town Thursday night.

SMALLPOX RAMPANT

Carberry, Man., Jan. 24.—Dr. J. M. Eaton, provincial medical health inspector, returned yesterday from Winnipegosis, where he had been investigating the smallpox epidemic in that district. He found an alarming state of affairs. The whole district is honeycombed with the disease. It is impossible to speak definitely as to the exact number of cases, but the total will reach in the neighborhood of 200.

At Winnipegosis, Pine Creek, Pine Creek Indian Reserve and Duck Bay the contagion is rampant among the halfbreeds and fishermen. Winnipegosis appears to be the centre of the infection, and has been placed in strict quarantine. There are over 60 cases among the halfbreeds, and five white families in the town have had the disease. The schools and churches have been closed, public meetings have been forbidden, and arrangements made with the Canadian Northern for the temporary withdrawal of the passenger service between the town and Dauphin. At the latter point there are about ten cases, at Pine Creek on the Indian reserve three cases, and 25 among the halfbreeds.

Hardly a halfbreed family in the district has escaped infection. In one house alone eight cases were found. The large majority of cases are not of a severe type, though ten per cent may be described as serious. Dr. Eaton has issued most strict quarantine regulations, and is receiving the energetic co-operation of the Indian department, the Canadain Northern and the Hudson's Bay company in his efforts to stamp out the disease,

VICTORIAS RETAIN THE CUP

SECOND GAME FOR STANLEY CUP WON BY WINNIPEG VICTORIAS.

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—An immense audience gathered at the Auditorium rink last night to witness the second match in the series for the Stanley cup between the Wellingtons of Toronto and the Winnipeg Victorias. They had the pleasure of seeing the fastest and most exciting game ever played in the city. The Winnipeggers proved too strong for the Toronto aggregation, and won the game by the score of 5 to 3, the same figures as in the former match. The play was largely of an individual character; seldom did the Victorias show their combination, which may be accounted for by the close checking of their opponents. So fast was the game that the captain of the Wellingtons collapsed toward the end of the game, and was carried from the ice. The cup will stay in the west another year.

LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

The Locomotive and Car Building Works of the C. P. R. Will Cover 350 Acres.

Montreal, Jan, 24.—What it is claimed will be the largest locomotive and car building works in America are about to be erected in Montreal by the Canadian Pacific railway company. The site, covering 350 acres, has already been purchased in the east end of the city, with the exception of one small lot, negotiations for which have not yet been completed, but it is expected they will be closed in a few days.

This site, it is estimated, will cost the C. P. R. in the vicinity of $750,000. The American Locomotive trust had an option on the Hogan farm, not far from this site, which expired on January 18, and it cannot be learned that this option has been renewed. At present the Canadian Pacific has constructed shops at various points along its lines, but it is now proposed to concentrate these all at Montreal, with one exception, those at Carleton Junction, Ont., which, it is said, will remain.

The company now have fairly large locomotive works near where the new shops are to be built, but they are inadequate to the demands of the great road, and it has recently been necessary to order from the United States. It is, therefore, proposed to make the new works extensive enough to construct every car and locomotive required by the system. Plans for the new works are so extensive that a number of outside engineers and architects will be called in to consult with the company's engineers.

TROUBLE IN THE CAMP.

ALLEGED PLOT AMONG CANADIAN MOUNTED RIFLES AT HALIFAX.

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 25.—An alleged plot for mutiny was discovered on Thursday among the men of the Canadian Mounted Rifles. It was reported that about 75 per cent. of the men had agreed between themselves to revolt after the steamer Victorian would have left port, and were enlisting the sympathy of the others.

The adjutant of the regiment was approached on the matter and asked what idea was conveyed to him as to the form the alleged plot would take after the ship left Halifax. The adjutant did not place much faith in the story.

The matter was freely talked of at the hotels last evening and the names of some of the men alleged to be concerned in the plot were mentioned. Nine were discharged from the regiment during the last two days, making a total of over thirty discharged since the concentration of the corps here. Rumors of reprisals for treatment meted out for alleged breaches of discipline were heard on all sides, and mutiny was hinted frequently by some of the more turbulent men, while no secret was being made of the intention of some of the troopers to get even with certain officers and non-commissioned officers after the Victorian would sail. It was thought possible that the departure of the ship might be delayed through the sudden outburst of insubordination as a climax to the tension reported to be existing between some of the men and their officers, and a wholesale clearing out of a large number of troopers would have to take place, they to be replaced by others. As stated, the adjutant of the regiment was last evening placed in possession of all the facts about the matter.

One of the officers, who was interviewed, expressed it as his opinion that the men referred to would not have courage enough to carry out the threats attributed to them. The unpleasantness in the corps, he said, was due to the dismissal of a large number of western men for what he considered good cause. This feeling of resentment has culminated in a conspiracy to get even with an officer or two after the Victorian had sailed. It was one of those who had been dismissed who had incited the men still connected with the regiment to revolt.

The news of the alleged plot to mutiny causes considerable excitement in the camp. Ten men have been placed under arrest.

The following is clipped from the Strathcona Plaindealer: "A rather remarkable incident occurred at the railway station a few days ago. A carpenter engaged about the station hung his coat over one side of a platform lamp hanging on the side of the building. The sun was shining through the glass casing of the reflector and the rays were focused upon the coat. The heat became so strong that the glass was broken and the coat set on fire. At first it was suspected that a pipe in the coat pocket was responsible for the fire, but examination proved that such was not the case, and the tropical sun of Northern Alberta shining upon a reflector was alone accountable."

Smallpox has broken out in Mackie's lumber camp, about fifty miles from town. It was first discovered by a man coming into Keewatin infected with the disease. He was immediately quarantined and precautions taken to prevent any more of the men leaving the camp. When a doctor arrived at the camp he found a man working with the disease broken out on him. No alarm is felt as the camp is securely quarantined.

A very curious freak of nature occurred in Winnipeg a few days ago, seeming to show that the unusually mild winter has had a beneficial effect on the animal kingdom. Mr. J. Welding of St. Boniface, a well known bird fancier, recently purchased a number of live pigeons. The birds have their house adjacent to the Arctic Ice company's big storehouse, near Norwood bridge. On securing the birds Mr. Welding found that in one of the nests there was a young bird half-fledged. The bird is still alive and stood its removal to its new home in St. Boniface well.

WENT CRAZY ON THE TRAIN.

Brandon, Man., Jan. 23.—A sad case of insanity was heard at the police court session yesterday morning. Chief Kirkcaldy, acting upon a telegram received from Regina, detained Mrs. Cooper, of Victoria, B. C. A contract has been let for sinking a shaft, work on which will begin as soon as practicable.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

MONDAY, JANUARY 20.

The legislature resumed its sittings at 8 o'clock, and as it was not expected that there would be anything outside of the formal routine there were little over a baker's dozen present. Hon. R. P. Roblin, however, made the important announcement that the Canadian Northern railway would be ready to handle through traffic to the lake on the first of February and that the rates on grain would be reduced two cents a hundred. This announcement was the cause of considerable discussion on both sides of the house, the premier, Hon. Mr. Greenway, Hon. Robert Rogers, C. A. Young and Hon. C. H. Campbell, all speaking on the subject.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 21.

The attorney-general introduced The Real Property act for its second reading. This bill was mentioned in the speech from the throne; it is the same one that was disallowed by the Dominion authorities on the ground that it interfered with Dominion plans. Other business was of a routine character and consisted of enquiries and petitions.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 22.

The legislature sat for about ten minutes. Immediately after the house opened the sergeant-at-arms brought in a basketful of purple violets, which had been sent over by Mrs. McMillan from government house, and with bowed head he advanced to the chair and handed them to the speaker.

Hon. Mr. Speaker then addressed the house as follows:

"These violets are presented to the house in loving memory of Her Late Majesty Queen Victoria, who was called from her earthly to her heavenly throne a year ago this day, and I order that these flowers be placed on the table of the house."

When the orders of the day were reached the first minister rose in his place and said that in view of what had been said by Mr. Speaker he thought it fitting and proper that the house should adjourn out of respect to her late majesty. Mr. Myers supported the motion, and on the question being put the members voted standing and with bowed heads.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 23.

The greater part of the sitting was occupied by the discussion of a resolution affecting the Grain act, introduced by F. O. Fowler, South Brandon, which read as follows:

That a memorial be presented to the Dominion government asking for certain amendments to the Manitoba Grain act, in the following particulars: That section 41 of said act be amended by striking out all words in clause 1, page 17, in the fifth line after the words apply to the construction of such warehouses;" that section 42 of said act be amended in such a manner that the warehouse commissioner shall have powers conferred upon him to compel railway companies to erect every loading platform approved of by said commissioner within a certain time specified, and, in default, shall have power to impose penalties and recover same through the courts; that all track buyers and carlot dealers, also dealers operating space in country elevators shall be required to take out a license and give bonds; that railway companies shall be compelled to furnish cars to farmers to load direct from vehicles into cars at all statians, irrespective of there being a loading platform at the point or not; that the resolution be referred to the committee on agriculture.

Mr. Campbell moved an amendment giving the agricultural committee larger powers to deal with the resolution, and this amendment was the cause of considerable discussion. Some members thought that the resolution was unnecessary, and they spent over an hour giving their views on the subject. A few rather uncomplimentary things were said about the grain dealers.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 24.

The sitting of the legislature was most formal. Several bills were put through committee of the whole and passed their third reading. Seven were given a second reading and referred to committee. The reports of the departments of agriculture and immigration, railways and health were tabled.

The bills given their third reading and passed were:

Bill No. 11, to amend Chapter 135, R. S. M., being the Registry act.

Bill No. 14, to amend the Master and Servants act.

Bill No. 21, to amend the Garnishment act.

SENSATIONAL WEDDING.

JOHN MORRISON, AGED 72, WEDS MISS ETHEL ISABEL FROST, WHO IS ONLY 21.

Montreal, Jan. 23.—The sensation of the hour is the announcement that John Morrison, a very wealthy old man of this city, was married yesterday to Miss Ethel Isabel Frost.

Morrison is over seventy-two years old, while his bride is only twenty-one. She is the daughter of a well known gentleman living only a few doors from the Morrison residence on Cadieux street. Rev. Robert Campbell, of St. Gabriel's Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of only a few of the bride's intimate friends.

Morrison, it is said, is possessed of many of the characteristics of Russell Sage, and is chiefly noted for the assiduity with which he holds his money. He is always present at the annual meetings of banks and most of the large financial industrial institutions in which he holds shares, and invariably makes severe criticisms on the management and demands for strict economy. He is noted on the street for his miserly, shabby appearance, seldom wearing an overcoat and using the sleeves of his coat as a muff to keep his hands warm

At the annual meeting of the C. P. R. company Morrison usually makes a motion that the salary of the president be reduced.

THE FRENCH BALL.

An Annual Orgie Which Takes Place In New York City.

New York, Jan. 22.—For the thirty-sixth time in as many years the Cercle Francais de l'Harmonie held its annual masquerade ball in Madison Square Garden early this morning. Dully 8,000 gay maskers pirouetted and cavorted in the dizzy whirl of this morning's mazy dance. Wine, women and the dance are the three factors essential to the success of a real French ball. All three were much in evidence at this thirty-sixth re-union of the Cercle.

Lanky Uncle Sam, chunky Johnny Bull and the doughty Kaiser Wilhelm frolicked about arm in arm like triplets from the same cradle. The inevitable Trilby, with her indispensable grey military coat and arms akimbo, spent most of her time knocking off the helmets of the two-six-foot policemen with her historic slippered feet. A shapely Queen of the May, in a scanty gown of gauze and a wreath of real pink roses, kicked holes in the atmosphere and in the brand new silk tiles of many broad cloth Johnnies who flocked about her, each one anxious that his hat should be tne next to be ruined by her pointed pink sandals.

Zouaves, male and female, Princess Charming in silken hose and satin doublets of blue and red and white, and princesses more charming in anything they chose to wear, formed a picturesque set of lancers, which was gracefully dignified at midnight and uproariously undignified four hours later.

The ball opened with a grand march and ballet of unusual brilliancy. After that came dances of all sorts. A score or more filled the programme, and as the morning grew old they became fast and furious, and somersaults and games of leap frog were introduced to lend spice of variety to the staid figures of the lancers and the quadrille.

BRUTAL ROBBERS.

A Helpless Old Man Tortured For Money.

Hamilton, Jan. 23.—An old man named Gibb, who lives alone in a hut near Aldershot, was brutally assaulted by four ruffians on Sunday night last. They were under the impression that he had large amount of money in the house. They beat the old man and tortured him in their efforts to make him tell the hiding place of his supposed wealth, and although he told them he had little money in the house, they disbelieved him. The old man was left gagged and bound, and before leaving, the robbers tore floors and walls and ceiling to pieces trying to find the supposed hidden wealth, but only managed to find $6.50.

Mr. Gibb was able to extricate himself by burning the cords around his wrists on Monday and crawled to a neighbor's farm house, where he is now being cared for. The police were notified of the crime, by the robbers, who sent a letter composed of words cut from newspapers.

COST OF THE WAR.

London, Jan. 23.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach stated in the house of commons that the cost of the Boer war from April 1, 1901, the commencement of the current fiscal year, to December 31, was £46,300,000.

Commandant Scheepers has paid the death penalty.

FERNIE FREE PRESS.

FERNIE, B.C.

Did He Understand?

A well known Edinburgh professor often became so interested in his subject that when the noon bell rang he seemed quite oblivious of the fact and kept the class for several minutes. Certain restless spirits among the students decided to give him a gentle hint, so they bought an alarm clock. London Tit-Bits tells the result.

The clock, set to alarm at precisely 12 o'clock, was placed on the professor's desk. As was anticipated, he began his lecture without observing the clock. But when the noon hour struck the alarm went off with a startling crash.

Even those not in the secret appreciated the joke. There was a round of applause. The professor smilingly waited until the alarm and the applause ceased and then said:

"Young gentlemen, I thank you for this gift. I had forgotten it was my birthday. An alarm clock is something my wife has needed for our servant for a long time. It is a very kind remembrance on your part." Then he went on with the demonstration which had been interrupted by the alarm, and the students were never quite able to satisfy themselves whether the professor understood the joke or not.

TO WEAK WOMEN EVERYWHERE,

MRS. MAXWELL TELLS HOW MUCH PAIN AND SUFFERING MAY BE REMEDIED.

A Very Interesting Statement by an Elora Lady—She Has Found a Panacea for all Female Weakness and Wants Every Woman in Canada to Know of it.

Elora, Ont., Jan. 13.—(Special)—Mrs. Maxwell of this place has written for publication a very strong letter in which she claims that Dodd's Kidney Pills have cured her of Female Weakness after she had tried almost everything else.

This good lady, according to her statement, suffered for a long time with kidney trouble, enduring the greatest pain, with a dizziness and headaches that made her very ill. She was passing through what is always a critical period in every woman's life, and her troubles were considerably increased by this. Indeed, her life was for a time in great danger.

She says she used Dodd's Kidney Pills with the most remarkable results, being almost instantly relieved and in a very short time completely restored to good health.

She is very grateful, and in her letter she says: "I cannot find words to express my gratitude to God for my marvellous cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest medicine in the world, especially for those of my age.

"I could scarcely move hand or foot I was so dizzy, and voilent pains would shoot through my whole system, but now, thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills I feel well and smart."

This case and its cure has created quite a sensation and Mrs. Maxwell's full and frank statement of the matter has been the subject of a great deal of comment.

Dodd's Kidney Pills seem to be an infallible cure for Diseases of Women as well as for Rheumatism, Diabetes Bright's Disease and all Kidney disorders.

WASTE OF POSTAGE.

There Was No Necessity For Putting on So Many Stamps.

The lawyers were discussing the merits and demerits of a well known member of the New Orleans bar who had been gathered to his fathers, and one of the party recalled the time when he studied in the old man's office.

We had a copying clerk whose inefficiency continually worked the judge up to the point of explosion. One day a wire basket fell off the top of his desk and scratched his cheek. Not having any courtplaster, he slapped on three postage stamps and went on with his work.

A little later he had some papers to take to the United States court, and, forgetting all about the stamps, he put on his hat and went out.

As he entered the office the judge raised his head and fixed him with an astonished stare. The clerk stopped and looked frightened and finally asked:

"Anything—er—wrong, sir?"

"Yes, sir!" thundered the old gentleman. "You are carrying too much postage for second class matter."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Mrs. Suburb—Well, here is some.

Tramp—Thankee, mum, but it's a different color from my travelin' suit. Perhaps, mum, you could spare me some of your husband's old clothes that this patch will match.

Mrs. Suburb—Well, I declare! I'll give you an old suit, however. Here it is.

Tennyson Didn't Go.

A poetical traveler, stopping at a Georgia inn, dismounted from his horse and called to the landlord, who was lounging on the veranda:

"Wrinkled 'ostler, grim and thin,
Here is custom come your way.
Take my brute and lead him in;
Stuff his ribs with moldy hay!"

"Ef you say that ag'in," said the landlord, "I'll lamm you 'side the head with this hickory. Thar's a negro here to look after the horses."

"My good man," explained the traveler, "I meant no offense. I was only quoting Tennyson to you."

"Hang Tennyson!" exclaimed the landlord. "An' tell him I said so. Neither him nor you kin make a stable boy of me!"—Atlanta Constitution.

A Golf Story.

A well known Scotch "meenister" took up golf and despite great practice could not succeed in passing the tyro stage. His simple exclamations of "Tut, tut!" "Oh, dear, now!" "Well, well!" and the like were plain evidences of a perturbed spirit.

One day, when the perspiration flowed freely from his lofty brow and his honest countenance shone with a luster and radiance which, alas, were not due to calmness of soul, but rather the heat of the sun and his laborious efforts to move the obstinate gutta percha from its station on the tee, he was tempted to indulge in strong language. "Dear, dear, but I'll have to gie it up! I'll have to gie it up!" he said at last, with a despairing look at the ball.

"Na, na—the meenistry!" answered the other, with a sigh.

TEETHING BABIES.

A Trying Time For Mothers When Great Care and Watchfulness is Necessary.

There is scarcely any period in baby's early life requiring greater watchfulness on the part of the mother than when baby is teething. Almost invariably the little one suffers much pain, is cross, restless day and night, requiring so much care that the mother is worn out looking after it. But there are other real dangers frequently accompanying this period that threatens baby's life itself. Among these are diarrhoea, indigestion, colic, constipation and convulsions. The prudent mother will anticipate and prevent these troubles by keeping baby's stomach and bowels in a natural and healthy condition by the use of Baby's Own Tablets, a medicine readily taken by all children and which, dissolved in water, may be given with perfect safety to even a new-born infant. In every home where these tablets are used baby is bright and healthy and the mother has real comfort with it, and does not hesitate to tell her neighbors. Mrs. C. J. Delaney, Brockville, says: "I have been giving my fifteen-months' old baby Baby's Own Tablets whenever necessary, for some months past. She was teething and was cross and restless. Her gums were hard and inflamed. After using the tablets she grew quiet, the inflammation of the gums was reduced and her teeth did not seem to bother her any more. An improvement in baby's condition was noticeable almost at once, and I think there is no better medicine for teething babies." Baby's Own Tablets can be procured from druggists or will be sent post paid at 25 cents a box by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A GUARANTEE—"I hereby certify that I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets, which I personally purchases in a drug store in Montreal. My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic; that they can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant; that they are a safe and efficient medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure."

THE STORE AT THE MINES

Messrs. J. A. Rennie and A. B. Trites, the delegates who went to Toronto to confer with the Directors of the Crow's Nest Coal Co., have returned, and report that the effort to effect some satisfactory settlement in reference to the proposed Company store at the mines has not been successful, so far as the merchants of Fernie are concerned. They have secured from the Company the ultimatum that a store will be opened at the mines and operated by the Company. The situation can be more readily grasped by perusal of the following correspondence, upon which comment is unnecessary.

Copies of telegrams are also produced in reference to the titles question.

Queen's Hotel,
Toronto, Jan. 21, 1902

The President and Directors
of The Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., Ltd.

Gentlemen,—

In accordance with a resolution passed by the merchants of Fernie, B.C., a short time ago, by which we were appointed delegates to wait upon your Board to discuss the proposed Company's store at the Fernie mines, we have now come to Toronto for that purpose.

1. The installation of a Company's store is a direct repudiation of the promises made by the officials of the Company when the town was first started, and also of the policy of the Company since these promises were given by Messrs. Jaffray, Fernie, Gemmill and Blakemore, also by the closing out of a reputed Company's store by Mr. Jaffray, the same being bought by Mr. Trites on the promise that no further interference would be given the merchants by the Company in their mercantile pursuits.

The town of Fernie made very little progress during 1899 and 1900, and not until 1901 was half gone did anything like prosperous times appear. In the meantime the people, having confidence in the future of the town, invested in property, improved their possessions, and the moment conditions warranted, increased their stocks to meet the demands of a growing and prosperous community.

The good name of the town of Fernie has steadily attracted many residents of neighboring towns, and in the opening days of 1902 Fernie stands as the most populous town of East Kootenay.

The growth of the town has been owing to public confidence in the place.

The advent of a store at the mines will kill all public confidence, and property will consequently shrink in value, and the future of the town will receive a set back from which it may never recover.

If the management of the Coal Company had intimated any such intention, the $75,000 spent this year in the improvement of property, building of houses and enlargement of premises, to say nothing of increased stocks of merchandise, would certainly not have been expended.

2. We do not consider a store at the Fernie Mines necessary.

The different merchants of the town send representatives to the mines at least twice a week to canvass for orders and deliver all goods to the people there free of cost, so that the want of a store is not felt by the residents, and in consequence of the competition the goods are sold and delivered free at a cheaper price than in the town.

3. We have good authority for stating that the miners themselves are not in favor of this proposed Company's store.

4. The town has always stood by the Company in all issues which have so far arisen, as shown by money having been raised to send a delegation to Ottawa re The Crow's Nest Southern Railway Charter, also by the unanimous vote given Mr. Fernie at the last local election which shows the disposition and good will of the citizens towards the Coal Company in the past and we have been assured that with the same fair treatment in the future as we have had, the people will always continue to support the Coal Company to the utmost of their power.

In conclusion we hope that this matter may be fully discussed with us at the meeting to be held this afternoon, so that an amicable arrangement may be arrived at.

Yours faithfully,
A. B. TRITES,
J. A. RENNIE.

Queen's Hotel,
Toronto, Jan. 22, 1902.

The President and Directors
of The Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., Ltd.
(re Company's store.)

Gentlemen,—As requested by you at our interview of yesterday, we now make the following proposal as a solution of the difficulty, namely:—

That the merchants of Fernie be allowed the privilege of running the store at the mines, forming a Company for that purpose, with a full stock of groceries, overalls, needles, thread, buttons, and such small wares as would be adequate to meet the wants of the population at present living there, and that the goods would be of as good quality, and would be sold at as low price as similar goods are sold at the Coal Company's stores at Michel and Morrissey.

Further that the stock would be kept up to the requirements of the trade.

Further that the Coal Company erect a suitable building and lease it to the merchants at a reasonable rent.

Failing the above, we would respectfully ask that the Coal Company, in order to allow us to reduce our stocks, or to get the benefit of the increased population which you predict, refrain from starting any store for twelve months from now, and then be at liberty to start a grocery store, as outlined above, and at the end of a further twelve months the Coal Company would be at liberty to carry any class of goods whatsoever.

The above proposals seem to us to be fair and reasonable, and are not offered as dictating to the Company in any way the wanner in which they should run their business.

Hoping that you will give this matter your favorable consideration.

Yours faithfully,
A. B. TRITES,
J. A. RENNIE.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 23, '02

J. A. Rennie, Esq.,
A. B. Trites, Esq.,
Queen's Hotel, Toronto.
(re Coal Creek store)

Gentlemen,—

In reply to yours of the 22nd addressed to the President and Directors of this Company, also to your previous communications upon the same subject.

I am instructed to advise you that while it was not originally deemed necessary or practicable to have dwellings or store accommodation in the vicinity of the Coal Creek mines, and there may have been expressions of such sentiments the Company did not enter into any agreement in regard to the matter. Since then the conditions having entirely changed in many respects, and the Company's operations having assumed much larger proportions than were at that time anticipated, in the opinion of the Board of Directors it has now become necessary in the interests of the Company that a number of workmen employed at its Coal Creek mines should reside in the immediate neighborhood of the mines, and that they should be able to procure their general household goods and other supplies at some convenient place in such neighborhood. The Company is unwilling to assume any responsibility for impressions which may have prevailed in consequence of its original policy, and must assert its right to carry on its business as it may seem best.

The Board are of the opinion that the building of houses and establishing a store at its Coal Creek mines will not injuriously affect the town of Fernie, and in order to show its good faith in this belief, if any of the parties who purchased property from the Coal Company in 1898, (at the time it is alleged that statements were made as to the Company's policy in this connection) think their interests jeapordized in consequence of the proposed action on the part of the Company, and wish to dispose of their properties so purchased as above referred to, the Board would be inclined to take back such properties at cost and the value of improvements on an equitable basis.

I may add that I am also authorized to arrange for the purchase of stocks of merchandise (at fair valuation) which may be held by merchants wishing to dispose of their property.

I am prepared to deal with this matter promptly, and will be glad to know your wishes at as early a date as possible, not later than one month from now.

Yours very truly,
ELIAS ROGERS,
Managing Director.

HOCKEY

The first game of hockey played here this season took place Friday night between Pincher Creek and Fernie, resulting in a tie of three goals each.

The Cow Punchers came down on the morning train, and spent the day in admiring the beauties of Fernie and figuring out the chances of getting walloped.

They proved themselves, however, equal to the occasion, and made an even break of it. The visitors are a big husky lot of fellows, averaging, it is said, 172 pounds, without counting the kid, and what he lacked in size he fully made up in cuteness. The ice was in first class condition, and the rink was crowded to the doors with admirers of the coal diggers, eager to see them win out on the opening game. Referee Danby, who gave good satisfaction to both sides, rang the bell at 8:20 the sides lining up as follows:—

Goal Umpires—J. H. Schofield, Pincher Creek, Ed. Wrigglesworth, Fernie.

Time Keepers—A. C. Liphardt, F. W. Forester.

The play was fast and furious on both sides, but no particularly rough play was noticeable. For the visitors, Moore, an old Orillia player, showed his old time form, and the Parson from Queen's College distinguished himself by his muscular Christianity.

The Cow Punchers scored the first goal in eleven minutes, being the only point in the first half. The second half the visitors scored in two minutes, the Coal Diggers coming right back with a goal in one minute. There was nothing doing for fifteen minutes, when the enemy poke the rubber through and it looked bad for the home boys. After twelve minutes of hard and fast play the home team tallied again. The kid was hurt by a hard check and the game was delayed ten minutes, giving both sides an opportunity to catch their wind. Resuming, the Coal Diggers got the puck through in two minutes, and the game finished all even, which gives each team one point in the league series.

After the game the visitors were entertained at the Royal Hotel, where a magnificent spread was provided, to which ample justice was done by about fifty persons. A couple of hours were most enjoyably spent, and the game of hockey was voted to be the king of all winter sports.

A NEW INDUSTRY IN FERNIE.

"WANTED—Cashier, Stenographer and Salesman required for British Columbia. Salaries from $100 per month to start. Fare paid. Hotel arranged at $30 per month. Apply stating age, experience and when disengaged, to G. R. Payne, Box 297, Fernie, B.C."

This advertisement appeared in the Winnipeg Free Press, Toronto Globe and Montreal Star, and probably other eastern papers, running two or three weeks in each. The replies to it have been coming to Fernie for the last ten days and at a moderate estimate not less than two thousand letters have been delivered to Payne and his confederates. These letters were replied to on letter heads bearing the inscription:

THE KOOTENAY ASSOCIATION

FERNIE, B C.

London,	G. Raymond Payne,	New York
Liverpool	S. Gabriel,	Montreal
Cardiff	Edwin L. Bride,	N. Westminster

The applicants were informed that the position had been filled, but another and more lucrative one was vacant, at a salary ranging from $110 to $150 per month and to obtain which an agreement for 12 months must be signed. The Association made a charge of $1 and 10 per cent. of the first month's salary. The $1 to be sent at once. The dollar bait was in many cases effective and Wednesday about 40 registered letters besides a number of postal notes, express and money orders were received. The dupes included people from Connecticut to Vancouver, their applications in most cases indicating education and business capacity. Many of the applicants were in positions and preparing to throw them up to get aboard and ride up with the good things to be had in Fernie. Manitoba furnished largest proportion of would-be emigrants but from all parts of the Dominion and United States there came the same wild desire to seize the fine positions so freely offered by the Kootenay Association, whose ramifications extended throughout the business centres of Europe and America.

The modus operandi of the concern was simple in the extreme, but it certainly had a considerable amount of success in separating quite a number of suckers from their hard earned coin. The amounts were small it is true, but the success of the scheme, as far it was allowed to go, only emphasizes the adage that "there is a sucker born every minute."

Attention was drawn to the operations of the concern by the enormous amount of mail being received, and Chief Barnes' eagle eye was directed upon the exploiters. He kept posted daily as to the proceedings, and on Wednesday he was given a tip that one of the members of the Kootenay Association was contemplating an exodus to fresh fields and pastures new, to wit, Nelson, B.C., by the freight train route. The wily Chief decided it was time to act, and immediately swore out warrants for the outfit, and placed them in the hands of Constable Henderson Wednesday night. He had the bunch all roped and in the bull pen in a few hours. Proceeding on a search warrant, the premises occupied by the trio were searched, and a pile of correspondence that could truly be described as voluminous brought in, besides some money, postal notes and express orders which had been recently received. The correspondence bore evidence of considerable skill and business training on the part of the Association, and an inspection of a pile of it discovered that one concern in town had been loaded up with fifteen cashiers, all at munificient salaries, of course without the knowledge and consent of the concern most interested.

The young men were arraigned before S.M. Armstrong Thursday night on a nominal charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, to which they plead not guilty. W. R. Ross appeared on their behalf and asked to have them released on their own recognizances, which the magistrate denied and enlarged the case for 8 days.

CHAPTER I.

IN WHICH SPIDER AND THE BALLET GIRL ARE INTRODUCED.

"There ain' only one thing he won't do, an that's lie," said the Ballet Girl to me. "Work? Sure he'll work, but he works all wrong. I darsn' let 'im skin the spuds (potatoes) even. He's orkerd, that's what he is, but it ain't no more'n natcherl, bein like he is, all laigs an arms, with jes' ernough body for ter hol' 'em together an no head at all. That's why they calls him Spider, I s'pose, his bein all laigs an arms. He hasn't got no other name, not as I knows."

While speaking the Ballet Girl looked doubtfully in the direction of the cook wagon, near which Spider was busily engaged in scouring an iron soup kettle so large that it nearly concealed him. Perhaps I would better explain that the Ballet Girl was a gray bearded man, cook for the field outfit of the Circle M ranch. The cowboys had given him this name because, as one of them explained, the cook had a wooden leg and was therefore unable to dance.

The Ballet Girl's statement that Spider had no head was a libel. He had a head, and, though it was small and not at all beautiful, it was a very good one and was covered with a heavy thatch of extraordinarily red hair.

As Spider worked among the pots and pans he certainly was awkward. I had been watching him all the morning. I had nothing else to do.

It was but a very short time since I had acquired an interest in the Circle M brand. Just before this a large number of cattle had been sold and driven away overland toward the railway, where they could be shipped to the east, and I had at once been sent forward to overtake the herd in order to assume its management. Now, a herd of cattle that has to pick up its food as it goes along does not travel rapidly, and I had overtaken it without difficulty, but the horse I was riding immediately celebrated that event by stepping into a badger hole, breaking his leg and at the same time spraining one of my ankles and a wrist. In a bed made up in one of the springless wagons I had been painfully jolted for a couple of stages over the half desert plain. Then we reached the Rio Gila and stopped, for the river was full from bank to bank with rushing, brown water, far too deep and too swift for us to attempt crossing it with the cattle. We could only wait until the river fell.

"What's the matter with the boy?" I asked. "Can't he cook?"

"You don' go for ter s'pose I'd trus' 'im ter try, do you?" replied the Ballet Girl disgustedly. "No, he can't cook, an if he could he'd be alwus tryin some er them monkey shines er his, so's you wouldn't dare eat nothin he'd touched. Why, it was only a week back that he took some salt an saleratus an stained it with coffee, so's it looked like brown sugar, an give it ter the boys ter sweeten ther slumgullion (tea) with. They said I was a-tryin ter pizen 'em, the boys did, an they said if I did it some more they'd hang me on the tongue er my own cook wagon."

"But you know they wouldn't have done anything of the sort," I interposed.

"Dunno," replied the cook dubiously. "Them boys, they gets mighty playful sometimes. Course they oughter 'a' knowed I wouldn't do no such fool thing as that. I foun' out who 'twas that done it an tol' 'em."

"How did you find out?" I inquired curiously.

"Asked 'im. I said he wouldn' lie. The boys, they licked him good fer that. So'd I, you bet you."

"What did he do then?" I asked.

"Filled my boot up with m'lasses. When I got it off—an it was er mighty long time firs'—my foot looked as though I'd varnished it an the varnish hadn't dried. I kicked him with it 'fore I took it off, an then I hung it on the wagon ter dreen. It's dreenin yet. See?"

He pointed as he spoke to a cowhide of generous proportions that hung over the side of the mess wagon. From the straps that were intended to pull it on by there slowly dripped a stringy, brown stream of molasses.

"An that ain't all he done," the cook went on. "He took some spuds what he knowed I was a-gonter bake in the ashes, an he loaded 'em up with powder. When I put 'em in the coals, they busted in a little while an filled a mess er biscuit I was a-mixin plum full er burnt powder an raw pertater. Some of it went down my neck inside my shirt."

"Did you whip him again?"

"Nope. I couldn', not that time. He cut away an didn come back till I was ersleep, an then he got my timber laig an a saw an said he'd saw the laig in two if I didn' say I wouldn' do nothin to him fer them there explosive spuds I couldn' chase 'im, so I had ter promise. But say! I clean fergot you was one er the bosses—I wouldn't 'a' tol' yer else. The boy, he ain't none so bad. He don' mean nothin wrong, an he wouldn' do a low down thing, not ter save his neck. I ain' got no kick comin, so you won' have 'im fired ner nothin, will you?"

The cook stood boring his wooden leg into the ground, looking at me with anxious concern. I speedily reassured him. If he wished to retain so eccentric a cook as he, not I, who would have to suffer. Personally I was much interested in the small "cookee," as the cook's assistant is called, and would not have had him leave if I could have helped it.

It was tedious work, or rather idleness, lying on my cot under the shade of my tent fly, watching the hungry looking cattle, if they happened to be in sight, as they wandered about looking for something to eat. I could never see how they managed in the course of a day to gather a meal, even though they should sprint from one bunch of the hard, wiry grass to another. They did manage it somehow, though, and their ordinary gait when feeding was very far indeed from being a sprint.

The cattle, however, were seldom in sight, and at the best they were not very interesting, so I took to watching the cook outfit instead, more especially that part of the cook outfit where Spider happened to be. It was not at all difficult to see that Spider's work was extremely distasteful to him, and really it was hardly to be wondered at. Washing greasy tin dishes and scouring pots and kettles are not tasks that would commend themselves to the average boy. It was through this dislike, probably, that most of his awkwardness arose.

After hurrying through with his work he would extract from the cook wagon a bundle of leather and go to the temporary corral, shaded by a big cottonwood tree, where the 12 big wagon horses were kept. He would sit there for hours, patiently stitching at the leather with awl and waxed end and all the while carrying on an animated conversation with the horses.

My first efforts to get acquainted with Spider were unsuccessful. He could not forget that I was one of the people vaguely referred to as "the bosses," to whom the cook had so often threatened to report him. Once or twice I called him over to me and tried to get him to talk, but his evident uneasiness during this ordeal induced me to give it up.

After awhile, however, Spider so far forgot his reserve as to grin as he passed me, and then, finding that I took no official notice of his many misdeeds, he gradually unbent and finally became quite friendly in a condescending sort of way. Little by little he got into the habit of coming to my tent instead of going to the corral, and at length, after considerable hesitation, he brought his sewing with him.

"What is it that you're trying to make, Spider?" I asked him as he seated himself, tailor fashion, in the shade of the tent fly and unrolled his leather bundle. "Chaps," he replied, holding them up for inspection. Then

"What is it that you're trying to make, Spider?"

I saw that it was a pair of chapparejos—shortened in the vernacular to "chaps"—that he had. They are leather leggings such as cowboys wear. Originally this pair was made and had evidently been worn by a rather large man, but Spider had cut them down to fit his own diminutive legs, and with infinite patience he was stitching up the side seams. I could see no reason why a cook's assistant should have so urgent a need of a pair of cowboy leggings that he should go to all that trouble to get them. In fact, I said as much to Spider.

MAKE A TEST OF THE KIDNEYS

Decide For Yourself By a Simple Experiment if You Have Kidney Disease.

Scores and hundreds of people who are complaining almost daily of backache, pains in the limbs, not unlike rheumatism, and stinging, scalding sensations when urinating, do not know that they are in reality suffering from kidney derangements. Gradually they become thinner and weaker, experience more or less puffiness under the eyes and swelling of the limbs, and feel chronic disease fixing itself upon the system.

It is not necessary for you to undergo an expensive examination to find out if the kidneys are diseased. You can make the examination for yourself. Take a clean glass vessel and allow some urine to stand in it for twenty-four hours. If at the end of that time there are deposits in the bottom of the vessel you can be certain that the kidneys are not in healthy working order. This test, accompanied by the symptoms referred to above, are indisputable evidence of kidney disease.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

There is no longer any question about the efficiency of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a prompt, through and lasting cure for every form of kidney disease. Their combined action on the kidneys and liver enables them to cure chronic and complicated diseases which cannot be touched by ordinary kidney medicines. You can depend on Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills every time. One pill a dose. 25 cents a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

LIVER TROUBLES.

LIFE FULL OF MISERY TO SUFFERERS FROM THIS TROUBLE.

Its Symptoms Made Manifest By a Coated Tongue, Bad Breath, Bad Taste in the Mouth and Pains Extending to the Shoulders.

From the Brockville Recorder.

Sufferers from liver troubles find life one of almost constant misery, growing worse and worse unless prompt steps and the proper remedy be taken to restore the organ to its natural condition. Mrs. Joseph Leclaire, of Brockville, was such a sufferer, but has been happily released from the trouble by the only medicine known to thoroughly restore this important organ to its normal condition, once disease has fastened upon it. To a reporter, Mrs. Leclaire willingly gave her story for publication. She said:—"For a long time I suffered severely from complications of the liver and dyspepsia. I would awake in the morning with pains under my shoulders and in my stomach. My tongue was heavily coated, and I had a horrible taste in my mouth, especially on arising in the morning. I was constipated, and at times my head would ache so badly that I could scarcely let it rest on the pillow. There was such a burning sensation in my stomach at times that it felt as though there was a coal of fire in it. The pain was especially severe after eating, and for months my life was one of misery. A friend advised me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I did so. After using the first box, there was a material improvement, and in the course of a few weeks longer I felt that I was completely cured. My tongue was cleared, the bad taste left my mouth, the pains disappeared, and I am as well as ever I was. Before taking the pills I suffered from bronchitis at times, but it has never since troubled me. I can recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone who suffers as I did."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills restore health and strength by making new, rich, red blood, thus strengthening every organ in the body. They do not act merely upon the symptoms, as ordinary medicines do, but go directly to the root of the trouble. In this way they cure such diseases as liver and kidney troubles, rheumatism, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, heart troubles, sick headaches, anaemia, and the irregularities that make the lives of so many women one of constant misery. Do not be persuaded to take any substitute; see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around every box. If in doubt, the pills will be sent postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

If money talks, a dollar ought to say many wise things. It has cents enough.

Try It.—It would be a gross injustice to confound that standard healing agent—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, with the ordinary unguents, lotions and salves. They are oftentimes inflammatory and astringent. This Oil is, on the contrary, eminently cooling and soothing when applied externally to relieve pain, and powerfully remedial when swallowed.

No man is truly great unless he is able to retain his self-respect.

The Most Beautiful Eyes.

A Naples correspondent writes to the Paris Messenger: Have you ever heard the name of Lina Cavalieri? No. Eh bien, she was only a short time ago a music-hall singer, but such a lovely creature, that she attracted every eye, wherever she went; men threw themselves at her feet, and a Russian Prince would have married her, but she refused! Instead, she took to studying singing in earnest, with one of the most celebrated teachers of the day, and now she is creating a furore at San Carlo in "La Boheme." People have come from Rome to see and hear her, and all are surprised, for she really sings well and has great dramatic talent. It is not for her wondrous beauty alone, therefore, that she is applauded, encored, and called before the curtain.

She has the most beautiful eyes I ever saw in my life. There should be a great future in store for her!

Timber Raft to Cross the Ocean.

A raft to contain 14,000 piles is now being constructed at Seattle, Wash., by a San Francisco firm, to be towed to Japan. When completed the raft will be 635 feet long, 53 feet in diameter and will contain 14,000,000 feet of lumber. Although rafts of this kind are frequently towed from the Puget Sound to San Francisco, it is feared in marine circles that the task of towing such a craft across the Pacific is somewhat risky.

PEEVISH CHILDREN.

Make the Mother's Life One of Care and Worry—How to Keep Baby Healthy and Happy.

Indigestion is one of the most common diseases of infancy, and it is also one of the most serious, for unless it is controlled the constitution will be weakened, other diseases will find easy lodgement, and the child's whole future will be imperilled. At the first sign of indigestion, or any trouble of the stomach or bowels, Baby's Own Tablets should be administered. They act with promptness and perfect safety in strengthening the stomach and removing the offending material. Mrs. W. C. Tefft, Markham, says: "Up to the time my baby was a month old, he was a perfectly healthy child. Then his stomach began to trouble him. He looked pinched and starved; his tongue was coated and his breath offensive. He vomited curdled milk, and was also constipated. After taking his food he would scream with pain, and although he seemed always hungry his food did him no good. He was so restless and sleepless that I was almost worn out. Medicine was to do him no good until we gave him Baby's Own Tablets. I gave him the tablets and they helped him almost immediately, and in a very short time he began to gain in weight and is now rosy and healthy. Baby's Own Tablets cured my baby when nothing else helped him, and I would not be without them in the house."

This is the only medicine for little ones that gives an absolute guarantee of purity. Milton L. Hersey, M.A., Sc., (McGill) one of the best known analysts in America, says:—"I have made a careful chemical analysis of Baby's Own Tablets. My analysis has proved that the Tablets contain absolutely no opiate or narcotic; that they can be given with perfect safety to the youngest infant, and that they are a safe and effective medicine for the troubles they are indicated to relieve and cure."

Such an endorsement from so high an authority, stamps Baby's Own Tablets as the safest, the surest and the most reliable medicine for the ills of children.

Baby's Own Tablets are good for children of all ages. They reduce fever, cure colic, prevent and cure indigestion and constipation, check diarrhoea, sweeten the stomach, allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth, and promote sound, healthy sleep. Guaranteed to contain no opiate. Crushed to a powder or dissolved in water, they can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Sold by all dealers at 25 cents a box, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARKETS

WHEAT.

It has been for the most part another week of dullness and weakness in the wheat markets. A temporary spurt of strength came into the American markets on Tuesday which advanced them 1c a bushel, but the advance has been all lost in the succeeding days. Comparing the close of these markets on Saturday with the close of a week ago there is a decline of ¾c to 1¼c per bushel in the quotations. This decline is quite moderate when the change in conditions is recognized. During the past week the American winter wheat has become covered by a blanket of snow which will supply ample moisture where a state of drouth had prevailed for many weeks, and which in the meantime gives complete protection from severe cold weather. Over the Eastern States the condition of the winter wheat is good, but on the average for the whole country the condition is lower than last year at this time. Crops in Europe are fair to good, but taking them all over the condition is scarcely up to last year at this time. Australia is now exporting freely of the new crop, the yield of which is computed to be rather larger than last year, when it was one of the largest on record. India will have a less crop than last year. Argentine has begun to ship new wheat, but there is no change to report in the expectation of the yield which is small and will not afford over 20,000,000 for export, against 32,000,000 exported last year.

Manitoba wheat has been quiet but steady; buyers have held back for the most part and holders are not pressing wheat on the market, and there has been little change in prices during the week. At the close prices were: No. 1 northern, 69½c; 2 northern 66½c, in store Fort William, delivery first half of February; and for second half, 70c and 67c. No. 1 hard spot or February delivery is 72½c.

Country Markets—The country market is very quiet owing to lack of elevator accommodation. Where wheat is being bought prices rule from 54 to 60c a bushel.

Liverpool Prices.—No. 1 northern spring wheat sold at Liverpool on Saturday at 6s 2d.

OATS—The market shows very little animation as buying is mostly confined to local feed requirements. Prices are unchanged as follows: Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are worth 42 cents per bus.; No. 2 white, 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 32c, Brandon rate of freight. No. 1 Alberta oats (the new grade) are worth 39½, Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta 38½c.

BARLEY—The market holds steady under light receipts and a good demand. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY.—Dealers are now paying $4.50 to $5.50 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS — Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef, city dressed, 6 to 7c per pound; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7½ to 8c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 8c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 12½c per lb dressed.

BUTTER—Creamery—A few factories are shipping winter butter into the city, for which jobbers are paying 21½c net, laid down in Winnipeg.

BUTTER—Dairy—Stocks of held butter are becoming reduced and as really choice grades are not to be had either from storage or country shippers there is a pretty firm market for this grade. Prices range all the way from 12 to 22c per pound.

HIDES.—No. 1 inspected hides, 6c; per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5c; No 3, 4c; kips and calves, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horsehides 50c to $1.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—There is a good demand for butchers' cattle, and the market is steady at 3½ to 4c per pound delivered here. Common grades range from 3 to 3½c. Stockers gre worth $14 to $16 for yearlings at country points, and $18 to $22 for two-year-olds.

HOGS—The market is steady at 6¾c per pound for best weights off cars at Winnipeg. Receipts are moderate and there is a large demand.

SHEEP.—There is no movement at present as butchers are plentifully supplied with frozen mutton.

HORSES—There is but a light demand for horses, and the market is without feature. Prices are very firm.

NEWS FROM DAWSON.

Suicide, Assault Case, Accidents and Sudden Death.

Dawson, Y. T., Jan. 28.—Thomas Middleton, cashier in the gold commissioner's office, committed suicide by cutting his throat with a razor last Saturday. He belonged to Leeds, England, and was in a bank at Halifax, N. S., before coming here in 1899 Middleton had not been in his office for several days. His accounts are short over $3,000. His defalcation and suicide have created a great sensation, everyone believing him to be above suspicion. He was so worried that it is thought he was temporarily insane when he committed the act.

A dispatch dated Seattle, Wash., Jan. 25, says: Two assaults by robbers, three accidental deaths, the passing away of a prominent Dawson resident, three people fatally injured by other means, is the list of fatalities reported from Alaska by the steamer Al Ki.

James Murphy of Wrangle, fell over a cliff on Trader's island, and plunged to his death 100 feet below in a rocky chasm.

Andrew Fosberg was killed in the Mexican mine on Douglas island on Jan. 11, and Harry Gilbert was fatally injured at the same mine on Jan. 12

Joseph Leiberman fell from the railroad tracks near Douglas on the night of Jan. 12, and was fatally injured.

Eva Williams was assaulted in a Dawson saloon on the night of Jan. 11, and probably fatally injured. P. N. Sattey and James Pianetti were assaulted and robbed on Douglas island on Jan. 11 and received serious injuries.

W. A. Speake, a leading citizen of Dawson, died at St. Mary's hospital at that place.

A serious accident happened at the home of Mr. Trenhails at Vegreville, Alberta, when their little two-year-olh daugnter fell backwards into a dish-pan of scalding water which her mother had just taken from the stove and set on the floor. The little sufferer is in a critical condition.

* * *

The store belonging to J. G. Hayes a general merchant, at Pilot Mound, was burned early Saturday morning. It was a total loss, nothing being saved. The fire is supposed to have started from a stove, and as far as can be learned the stock and building were well insured. The wind was in the right direction and by hard work the other buildings adjoining it were saved.

* * *

A variation from the orthodox institute meetings was very successfully inaugurated at Bradwardine las tweek, says the Neepawa Press, and the programme might be followed with advantage here. A stock judging contest took the place of lectures. A farmer brings in three or four head of cattle, horses, hogs, or sheep, and after a committee of judges appointed by the institute awards prizes, an expert points out the good and bad points—thus educating the farmers on how to develop and improve their stock. Interest is increased in these judging contests by the diversity of opinion shown between the institute judges and the experts' object lessons. If the contestant coming nearest to the experts' ideas should be awarded a prize the contest would become still more attractive.

* * *

At the last meeting of the council of the Winnipeg board of trade a motion was adopted asking the Dominion minister of trade and commerce to investigate the complaints regarding the special grades made for Alberta oats. This action was taken on account of a resolution received from the Edmonton board, which claimed that a great injustice had been done that district through the action of the standards board in fixing these special grades, and this is a matter in which the board has no jurisdiction, the standards board being officially appointed by the department, the board could not undertake any direct investigation. It was unanimously agreed, however, that the department should be asked to take up the matter. It was stated at the meeting that three Manitoba oatmeal milling concerns had bought some of these oats, but found them unfit for milling, and they had to be sold for feed. Samples of the meal from these mills were shown. This, however, did not influence the council, and it was decided to ask for the investigation.

SOME POSTAL STATISTICS.

The amount deposited in the post office savings bank at the close of the year was $39,950,812, an increase of $2,445,356, being the largest balance at the close of any other year.

The total revenue of the department increased during the year by $238,924. Notwithstanding the reduced postage to two cents at the close of two years from the time this reduction took place, the monthly revenue has grown to exceed what it had been under the higher previously existing rates. The deficit for the year is $416,183. In 1896 the deficit was $781,152.

There were 287 new post offices opened during the fiscal year of 1901 and 506 new postal note offices established.

The number of postal notes issued and paid increased from 769,250 to 877,399, the aggregate value being $1,459,015 an increase of $108,349.

There were 13,375,000 more letters carried than in the previous year.

SELECTION OF COAL LANDS

We understand that the reports from the coal experts engaged to advise the Government in the selection of coal lands have been received, and that in consequence of pressure for an early settlement of this important question the selection has been decided upon, and will shortly be made. It will be in accordance with the views expressed by the Fernie Free Press last fall, and will secure the most favorable location in the public interest, which was the only end aimed at. We hope to give full particulars in our next issue. Meanwhile the Canadian Mining Review has a strong and incisive article on the subject in this week's number.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The C.P.R. is developing plans to run a transcontinental train this summer from the Atlantic to the Pacific in three days. The equipment will be entirely new and cost $1,000,000.

The Lowery, editor and financier of the New Denver Ledge, has gone on a trip to the Sunny South. He left the bulldog and other jewellery behind as a guarantee of good faith.

* * *

JAMES McMULLEN, the tall pine from Amaranth and guardian of the silver spoons at Rideau Hall, and Wullie Gibson the rejected of Lincoln, are slated for the two vacancies in the Senate.

* * *

Hon. David Mills, Minister of Justice, will accept the position on the Supreme Court Bench made vacant by the death of Chief Justice Gwyn. His retirement from the ministry will necessitate a cabinet shuffle, which will likely land Fitzpatrick from the Solicitor Generalship to the Minister's chair.

* * *

MANY Cabinet shuffles are in sight at Ottawa and there is an off chance that British Columbia will be taken into consideration.

* * *

Four new Senators were recently appointed by the Laurier Government and two more vacancies to be filled, which proves that all things come to those who wait. There will be no need of Senate reform by and by.

POLICE COURT

Constable Barnes charged John Gryff, a miner at Coal Creek with stealing, on or about Sept. 27th, money orders issued by the Dominion Express Co. at Clearwater, Man., on Sept. 21st, for the amounts of $22 and $50, both payable to the order of John Graves at Fernie, B.C., and also with forging the signature of John Graves to the orders and thereby securing the money for them from A. W. Bleasdell, branch agent of the Dominion Express Co. It appears that John Graves had been expecting remittances from Manitoba and made enquiries at the Post Office in September but found no mail for him. He was soon after taken sick with typhoid fever and went to the hospital at Lethbridge remaining there for about two months.

On his return enquiries were again made and it was found that the letter containing the money orders had been delivered to John Gryff, a Slav, the pronunciation of whose name in English is similiar to Graves. Chief Barnes investigated the matter and much to his credit unravelled the whole scheme of fraud that had been practised by Gryff in order to secure the payment of the money. Gryff had taken another man, Harry Lahola, into his confidence after obtaining the orders, and it is assumed that Lahola undertook the job of forging the signature of Graves. The chief had followed up clues and located the men who had gotten wind that they were wanted and had made preparations to fly. They succeeded in eluding the quarantine and got to Elko, where on information from Chief Barnes they were arrested.

The prisoners were brought back to Fernie on Thursday and brought before Stipendiary Magistrate Armstrong Friday. The evidence went to show that the prisoners had impersonated Graves and by misrepresentation and forgery got the orders cashed. Lahola was brought upon a similar charge as Gryff and both were committed for trial to Nelson.

BOOST FOR FERNIE.

The Nelson Miner rounded up Fred Stork on his way to Victoria and interviewed him as follows:

Mr. Stork reports business brisk at Fernie though the smallpox trouble had interfered with it to some extent. It had been decided to raise the quarantine on Monday, but on Saturday another case broke out and there would be further delay. The Crow's Nest Coal Company at Morrissey had a force of about 200 men engaged opening new coal mines there; the grading was done for a spur from the mainline to the mines and it was expected that within two weeks that the laying of steel on the five mile spur would begin. At Fernie shipments of 2,000 tons a day were being made and when the Morrissey mines are opened the quantity would be much larger. Nothing was being done on the Bull River iron mines just now, but if they be developed, as they are likely to be, the operation of them in connection with the proximity of the coal mines will make Fernie and the surrounding towns beehives of industry. Work is going ahead with all possible speed on the Crow's Nest Southern and it is expected that the line will be running about the first of June.

The Ontario Provincial elections will take place on Tuesday, June 3rd.

Mrs. Gibson, wife of Wm. Gibson, Ex-M.P. for Lincoln and Niagara, died at Hamilton, Ont., after a long illness.

Isaac VanAllen, a C.P.R. brakeman, at Carleton Place, Ont., was killed in a collision near Renfrew.

E. J. B. Pense, editor of the Kingston Whig, was elected member for Kingston to the Legislative Assembly by acclamation.

THE JURY DISAGREED.

Joiner Murder Trial at Lethbridge Terminates Abruptly.

Lethbridge, N. W. T., Feb. 1.—A trial which has occupied the court here for the past four days, known as the "Joiner case," an alleged attempted murder, which has excited much local interest, came to an unexpected and rather unsatisfactory conclusion yesterday by the disagreement of the jury. John Joiner Long, who went by the name of Joiner, a Montana sheepman, charged his nephew, Herbert Long, with attempting to take his life after forcing him at the point of the rifle to make out a bill of sale in defendant's favor for a large band of sheep: also a note for the payment of the purchase money, amounting to about $4,000, upon delivery of the sheep to James Reirie, of Magrath. The incident took place in a small cabin on the Milk river ridge, near the international boundary. The crown tried to show the prisoner's motive was robbery, as he was hard pressed for funds by various creditors, whereas the uncle was a person of means. The old man claims to have had a desperate struggle for life and succeeded in diverting the bullet when discharged, although it passed through his clothing, grazing his breast. For family reasons, the uncle did not wish to prefer the charge, but upon consideration, after being laid up in the hospital, did so in the interests of justice. The prisoner admitted the shooting, but claimed it was done accidentally while unloading cartridges from the magazine of the rifle. The evidence hinged upon the credibility of the two principal witnesses appearing for both sides.

The jury, finding it impossible to arrive at a unanimous verdict, were discharged. The case will be again reopened at the March sitting.

ROYALTY AT THE THEATRE.

London, Feb. 1.—The King and Queen witnessed the performance of "Mice and Men" at the Lyric theatre on Thursday night. This was the first visit of the King to a theatre since his accession, and was, moreover, the first visit to a playhouse made by a British sovereign since the death of the Prince Consort in 1861.

NO MORE FREE RIDES.

Cattlemen who have for years enjoyed the privilege of riding on the C. P. R. free when on cattle business will this year be obliged to pay the regular fare. This is the result of an order from Montreal which goes into effect for this year. Cattlemen heretofore have been allowed to travel to different parts of the country to inspect cattle for the purpose of buying. They feel that it is a great injustice that the privilege has been cut off.

Premier Roblin will probably accept the invitation extended colonial premiers to attend the coronation proceedings in London in June next.

HOT TIME IN BELGIUM.

A Free Fight Takes Place in the Chamber of Deputies.

Brussels, Feb. 1.—The chamber of deputies here was the scene of a free fight between the Socialist and Catholic factions. The trouble grew out of a proposal to prosecute M. Smeets, a Socialist, for a recent revolutionary speech. The disorder began in the galleries, which were eventually cleared by force. Thereafter the uproar was continued on the floor. The against the benches of the Catholics. shouting taunts and epithets. The deputies finally engaged in the fight, and the sitting was suspended, but when the session was resumed the disturbance recommenced and prevented the transaction of business.

BRITISH COMMONS.

London, Jan. 31.—In the commons last evening, Right Hon. A. J. Balfour unfolded the new procedure rules. The government's object is to economize time and defeat obstruction. A great majority of the members believe the new rules will help to simplify business, but the Nationalists disclaim the idea they will tend in any way to relieve the pressure of the Irish opposition. Redmond's followers make no secret of their intention to fight the government's proposals with utmost tenacity.

Habit may be a second nature, but it very seldom improves on the original.

REIGN OF TERROR IN IRELAND.

Midnight Meetings in Roscommon County.

London, Jan. 31.—Dispatches received here from Dublin contain alarming reports of the reign of terror prevailing in Roscommon county. Tenants who are suspected of paying rent are visited at night by armed men, notices are posted threatening death to traitors, and midnight meetings are of nightly occurrence, the people being assembled by beacon fires.

John O'Donoell, member of parliament for South Mayo, is reported to have addressed a midnight meeting at Fairmount at which he challenged the chief secretary for Ireland, Mr. Wyndham, to come into the open, at the head of 5,000 or 10,000 men, either soldiers or police. If he (Mr. Wyndham) would give the men of Connaught a month to prepare, Mr. O'Donnell said he did not hesitate to declare that they would meet them, even at great numerical odds, and settle the land question for good.

SUIT AGAINST A DEAD MAN.

Damages Amounting to $7,000 Obtained for Breach of Promise.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—Mary Christiansen secured a verdict for $6,000 in her breach of promise suit against a dead man.

She sued the estate of Frank Crum, who died last summer, for $7,000, claiming he had proposed the date of their marriage and finally died before the date fell without marrying her. It was proved conclusively that he intended to marry her, and the suit was begun as the best legal way to recover a portion of the property left by him.

KING CHARLES I.

His Statue in Charing Cross Decorated—Wreath From Edinburgh.

London, Jan. 31.—The statue of King Charles I. at Charing Cross was decorated with wreaths in the customary manner yesterday, it being the anniversary of the beheading of that monarch.

The most noticeable wreath, which was sent from Edinburgh, was inscribed: "Sacred to the Memory of King Charles the First, beheaded by His Rebellious subjects at Whitehall, January 30, 1649."

A GREAT WHEAT DISTRICT.

Immense Shipments From Three Small Stations on the Oakland Branch.

The Portage la Prairie Graphic publishes the following very interesting statement of the grain shipments from the Oakland branch of the Canadian Northern railway:

In connection with the probable grain shipping of the proposed Longburn branch of the Canadian Northern, Mr. Wm. Fulton has procured a statement of the amount of grain shipped at the various stations of the Oakland branch from the beginning of harvest up to the first of plied by the railway agents and are therefore as nearly as possible correct:

Alpha	65,000
Townline	93,000
Oaklands	214,000
Huddlestone's Siding	7,000
Total	379,000

Alpha, Townline and Oaklands are about two miles apart, and are in the centre of the greatest wheat growing district in the world, the Portage Plains. It will be seen that three stations shipped 372,000 bushels of wheat, and this is not the whole crop. Just what proportion remains in the farmers' hands can only be conjectured. But this amount in itself from six miles of railway indicates that the reputation of of the Portage plains as the premier grain growing region is in no way endangered.

SELKIRK MAN FROZEN.

James Sinclair Badly Nipped While Returning Home.

Selkirk, Man., Jan. 31.—A man by the name of James Sinclair, of Clandeboye, was badly frozen on Tuesday night. He started home at night from here, and lost his way, also his mitts, and when found his hands and feet were badly frozen. He was taken to Dynevor hospital.

SETTLING THE NORTHWEST.

Winnipeg, Jan. 31.—The rapidity with which settlement is going on in the west is well indicated in the records of the Dominion lands agencies. From these reports it would appear that for the year ending Dec. 31, 1901, 9,100 homestead entries, representing a gain of 28,034 in population, were made, as against 7,850 entries, representing an addition of 24,568 in population, for the previous calendar year.

COASTING ACCIDENT.

One Killed, Two Fatally Injured, and Several Slightly Hurt.

Plattsburg, Jan. 31.—A frightful coasting accident occurred at Keeseville yesterday morning in which one young man was killed and two young women fatally injured.

A large party was coasting on Academy Hill, using a large bobsled, holding from ten to 20. The bob became unmanageable and ran into a telegraph pole while going at a great speed. Wilfrid Graves, aged 23 years was almost instantly killed, and his sister, Miss Rachael Graves, aged Miss Edith Bulley were crushed so that it is feared they cannot recover. Among the others hurt were Harry Miles, leg broken; John King, arm broken; George Ladue, arm dislocated. The young people are of the best families in Keeseville.

A NEW LAKE LINE.

It Will Connect Directly With Ocean Steamships.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—A steamship line from the great lakes to Quebec, to connect with ocean steamers there from Europe, is assured for the coming season. Negotiations have just been closed for the construction of a sufficient fleet to carry the traffic. The American Shipbuilding company will complete the first ship and have it ready for service by midsummer. Pending the building of its own fleet a sufficient number of steamers have been chartered and will be placed in service on the opening of navigation in the spring. The new line will be operated by the St. Lawrence and Great Lakes Transportation company, incorporated in West Virginia, of which A. B. Wolvine, of Duluth, is president. Its capital stock is $500,000.

IMPRISONED IN THE ICE.

Chicago Steamers With 200 Passengers Held Fast Near That City.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—Held prisoners by acres of crushed ice piled high above the water, the big passenger steamers Iowa and Atlanta, of the Gooderich Transportation company, with nearly 200 persons on board, have been helpless off the Lakeview crib, within view of Chicago, since Wedneshay night, with no immediate prospects for an early release. The tug Dickenson was sent out to get news from the crews, but it also was imprisoned in the ice floe. There is nothing to do but wait for a westerly wind.

NEW RATES ON C. N. R.

The Canadian Northern has issued its new special tariff, No. 39, effective Feb. 1, on grain, flour, oatmeal, millstuffs, flax seed, oil cake, potatoes and hay, in carloads, to Port Arthur, from grain shipping stations on its line in the province. The rates per 100 pounds on grain, flour, oatmeal and millstuffs are reduced two cents all around, and on flaxseed, oil cake, potatoes and hay, one cent.

The Port Arthur elevator rates, effective Feb. 1 are as follows: Elevating (including fifteen days' storage) per bushel, ½c; storage for each succeeding thirty days, per bushel, ½c. There will be no charge for cleaning and blowing.

IN THREE DAYS.

St. Paul, Jan. 31.—From ocean to ocean in three days is a dream the Canadian Pacific will endeavor to make a reality early in the spring. The equipment will cost the system nearly a million dollars, and will be supplied by builders in the United States. The new train will be triweekly, and will make an average time of 40.3 miles an hour.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Dauphin, Jan. 30.—A sad death occurred at the Riding Mountain settlement on Friday last. John Skakun, a highly respected Galician, retired to bed in his usual health, and on Saturday morning was discovered dead. Deceased leaves a wife, four daughters and a son to mourn his death.

KILLED IN A MINE SHAFT.

Rossland, Jan. 31.—Peter B. Holcomb was killed yesterday afternoon in the main shaft of the War Eagle mine, where he was employed as rope man.— Deceased was 35 years of age, unmarried, a native of Lambertville, N. J., and a member of Lone Pine, Nebraska, Masonic lodge.

PREFERENTIAL TREATMENT.

Wellington, N. Z., Jan. 30.— The premier, R. S. Seddon, announced today that the government of New Zealand was prepared to give preferential treatment, in the shape of a rebate duty to British goods carried on British ships.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWS.

Gen. Hamilton is Keeping the Boers Hustling—Some Recent Engagements.

Pretoria, Jan. 30.—Gen. Bruce Hamilton's march has resulted in 112 of the enemy being accounted for, including five who were killed. About ten of the number surrendered. Twelve were driven into the Constabulary line at Valberg Spruit. When first surprised between Bethel and Ermelo the Boers fled. Later they split into two bodies. General Hamilton chased both. One went to the main laager, which was captured.

In the northern part of Orange River Colony, Col. Werret has had several fights, killing a few Boers. The burghers always cleared out in front of him.

Gen De Wet is being kept in unwilling activity. At present he is arranging combinations against particular spots in the blockhouses, which now nearly surround his theatre of operations.

A dispatch from Johannesburg, dated Jan. 25, says: While the Boer Commandant Boyers was passing Pietersburg this morning he attacked the encircling blockhouses from the east. The firing lasted for twenty minutes.

The Boers then cleared out, leaving three dead and three wounded on the field. There were no casualties on the British side. Boyers retreated to the wood bush mountains in the lower country.

Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Johannesburg, dated January 26, announces that Col. Plumer captured 36 Boers last Saturday in the neighborhood of Spitzkop, Transvaal Colony.

AFTER BIG DAMAGES.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 30.—J. J. Palmer, mine owner, of Toronto, Ont., has sued a local steamship company for $5,000 damages as a result of his being held on the ship in quarantine for 21 days.

SUICIDE AT RAT PORTAGE.

Rat Portage, Jan. 30.— George Gould, C. P. R. ticket agent here, and one of the most popular young men of the town, committed suicide by shooting himself in the temple with a revolver at the Shaw house shortly before noon yesterday.

Deceased, who was about 27 years of age, was born at Wooler, Northumberland county, Ont., and came of one of the most highly respected families of the county. we came to Rat Portage a little over two years ago in the capacity of C. P. R. operator, previous to which he was employed at several stations along the line. He was sober, industrious and a social favorite here. He was perhaps a little too sensitive, and some trivial trouble may have been magnified by his supersensitive mind, and caused him to lose his mental balance.

EARTHQUAKE AT KINGSTON.

Kingston, Jan. 29.—Earthquake shocks were felt in Kingston during the early hours of yesterday morning, somewhere around 2 o'clock. The windows of houses clattered and beds underwent a vibrating motion.

FARMER BURNED OUT.

Neepawa, Jan. 30.—The residence of John Smith, Orange Ridge, was burned on Tuesday morning. He arose at 5 o'clock, lighted the fire, and went to bed again. He awakened later to find the house afire, and had barely time to escape with a little clothing on. Mrs. Smith and child were severely scorched in making their escape. The loss is $1,500. It was a frame house, erected two years ago, and valued at $600, and the furniture worth $600, and $300 cash, the balance of the proceeds of the past harvest, all went up in smoke.

THREE WERE KILLED.

Halifax, Jan. 30.—A dispatch from New Glasgow says three men, John W. Sutherland, Wm. Sutherland and John Wilkes were killed yesterday afternoon while thawing dynamite at the Marsh mines.

Mr. Walter Little, of MacGregor, has purchased Mr. Frank Thompson's farm just southwest of that town. The price paid was in the neighborhood of twenty-five hundred dollars.

Raymond, the new Mormon town in Alberta, is fast forging ahead in the building line. About twenty new buildings were erected during the month of December.

The wood buffalo and bison have been for some years protected by statute owing to their scarcity. The government is arranging to extend the limit of their exemption until Jan. 1, 1907, and an act providing for this will be introduced at the coming session of parliament.—Edmonton Bulletin.

YUKON'S TREASURES

DISCOVERIES ON INDIAN RIVER SURPASS ANYTHING IN THE WORLD'S HISTORY.

IMMENSE MASSES OF CONGLOMERATE IN ONE CLAIM WILL YIELD $64,000,000.

Victoria, B. C., Jan. 30.—Recent discoveries on Indian River, a tributary of the Yukon, have led mining men of experience to the conviction that the Klondike gold fields, far from becoming exhausted, are about to enter upon an era of probable development surpassing in importance anything which the world has ever seen.

This may seem too sweeping a statement to advance, but when the most conservative observers are seized of all the facts in connection with these discoveries they cannot fail to be struck with amazement at the stupendous future which is made possible for the Yukon territory. Careful investigation and experiments have revealed conditions which place the quartz mining industry of northern Canada beyond all question in advance of anything which has hitherto been experienced in the history of gold mining. Since the rush of 1897 Indian river has been prospected, but not until now has the riches been unearthed. South African miners were struck with its similarity to the rich "blanket" deposits of the Rand. They carried their investigations further to the neighboring benches and discovered that the escarpments of the Indian river valley were composed of immense masses of conglomerate, identical in position many millions of treasure in South with those which have yielded so Africa. A superficial prospect of the deposits satisfied the miners that they were gold-bearing and a subsequent examination at various points revealed the fact that the stuff carried from $1 to $200 in gold to the ton.

John Hepburn, of Victoria, has secured options on 132 claims and left yesterday for London to form a company to develop them. In an interview here he said "that one of his claims, which has been carefully examined by a competent mining engineer, will yield $64,000,000 in gold. There is," said he, "enough of the conglomerate in sight to keep 20,000 stamps at work for 100 years."

Abutting on the conglomerate deposit to the south and southeast lies a deposit of coal of good quality and in quantity amply sufficient to furnish fuel for the mining operations. One vein, which is being worked, is 4¼ feet thick and indications are most favorable to the opinion that other veins will be found underlying the strata when sinking is extended. A railway will be built to the properties from Dawson.

BIG FIRE IN RAT PORTAGE.

The Hilliard House, the Largest Hotel in the Town, Burned to the Ground.

Rat Portage, Jan. 28.—The fifth fire since Jan. 1, and the most disastrous in many years, broke out in the Hilliard House kitchen early yesterday morning, and before it was checked caused a damage of $50,000. The hotel is entirely ruined. The blaze could have been controlled had not the first hydrant the fire brigade hitched to been frozen up, but before they could connect with another the flames had gained such headway that nothing could have saved the Hilliard house.

CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.

A dispatch from London says: Dr. Symms Thompson, consulting physician at the hospital for consumption, Brompton, in a lecture delivered here argued hopefully for the experiments which are being carried on at the hospital in the treatment of phitisis by means of Tesla's high frequency currents, and the injection into the veins of a chemical substance that is fatal to the bacilli.

He quotes statistics showing that the deaths from tubercular maladies in London had decreased 55 per cent in 40 years, and predicted that such cases would be extinct within a century.

The Widow Had Good Reason For Ringing Off Sharply.

Telephone mistakes have their serious side. A man who wished to communicate with another named Williams looked in the directory and then called up a number "south." Presently there came through the receiver a soft feminine "Hello!" and he said, "Who is that?"

"This is Mrs. Williams."

"Have you any idea where your husband is?"

A WOMAN WHO WAITED

And Her Patience Netted Her Over $3,000,000.

This story concerns a woman in Canada. Her husband had died, leaving her a little money and a lot of iron bearing land upon which was a mine and furnace of which the man had been able to make nothing and which he had shut down years before he died. The woman had been a widow for years when, like lightning out of a blue sky, there came to her house some shrewd looking men who, after a great deal of beating about the bush, offered to pay her $137,000 for her abandoned mine and furnace. To these men she replied that she had no idea what the property ought to fetch, but that simply because they had made the first offer she thought it best not to accept it. She argued to herself that if people were beginning to take an interest in iron properties the interest might easily grow in strength, and time might bring other and better offers. She had a roof, bread and butter and means enough to educate her children, therefore she could wait. She did not have to jump at the first offer that came.

Four or five years passed, and if she had not been called upon annually to pay a very slight colonial tax upon the property she might almost have forgotten that she owned it. At the end of five years came a second offer. It was broached to her by a lawyer from the United States, who came in a private car to the village where she lived and who hired a wagon to ride to her door, though it was not five minutes' distant on foot from the railroad station.

This was a man of few words.

"Madam," said he, "I represent clients who have commissioned me to purchase the land and furnace which you own out in ——." He mentioned the locality.

"I have no need to sell," said she. "I have all the money I require. I have received a handsome offer for that property already and have refused it."

"My clients offer three and a half millions of dollars for your property," said the lawyer.

Said the woman to herself, "Oh, that is different!" Said she to the lawyer: "Well, really, I had not expected so much. At that figure I will part with it."—New York Mail and Express.

Short of Experience.

Herbert Gladstone while yet a single man was addressing a woman's suffrage meeting in Leeds one afternoon, and he paid a graceful compliment to the eloquence of the ladies who had addressed the meeting. He gallantly remarked on the great pleasure which it gives the other sex to listen to women talking.

Pausing for a moment after this observation, Mr. Gladstone, like his audience, was thrown into an unexpected state of merriment by a male voice which proceeded from the back of the hall and proclaimed in the broadest Yorkshire dialect, "Eh, lad, thou'rt noan wed yet, I see'st!"—London Truth.

QEEBEC FARMER HAS HARD TIME

STRICKEN AND HELPLESS WITH WORK TO BE DONE—DEPRIVED OF THE POWER TO WORK.

Pierre Lussier of Lac Weedon Was Indeed in an Unfortunate Plight —He Expresses His Thanks For a Complete Restoration to Health and Strength.

Lac Weedon, Quebec, Jan. 20.—(Special).—Pierre Lussier is a farmer who like every other husbandman has much work which must be done in its season. Many of a farmer's duties will not admit of a postponement; they have to be attended to promptly, and poor Mons. Lussier had not the strength to do these toilsome tasks. He had no children to help him on the farm, and as vigorous and trained arms are necessary, he was feeling very downcast on account of his inability and weakness.

He had one of the worst forms of Kidney Disease, and this reduced his strength to that of a mere child. The pain he had to bear was very great, and always seemed to come on him worse just at the time that he had some important work to do.

He had suffered in this way for over twenty years, sometimes better sometimes worse, but always sick and suffering, and constantly growing worse, till for the last two years he was unable to do anything.

He decided to try a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the very first dose he began to improve. After he had used eight boxes he was well enough to work again, but he kept on using the pills till now he is well and strong.

For years he could not walk a quarter of a mile without assistance, but recently he walked eight miles without resting. He says:

"I owe it all to Dodd's Kidney Pills, which have done wonderful things for me."

This cure of such a severe case of over twenty years standing is regarded by our people here who know the facts as little short of a miracle.

Baseball pitchers, letter carriers, and preachers are all judged by their delivery.

Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial is a speedy cure for dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera, summer complaint, sea sickness and complaints incidental to children teething. It gives immediate relief to those suffering from the effects of indiscretion in eating unripe fruit, cucumbers, etc. It acts with wonderful rapidity, and never fails to conquer the disease. No one need fear cholera if they have a bottle of this medicine convenient.

HERE IS STRENGTH.

Are you suffering from Nervous Weakness, Kidney, Liver or Stomach Complaints, Rheumatism, Pains or Aches in any part of your body? Do you feel yourself growing old too soon? If you are a man with the weakness that results from youthful folly or abusing the laws of Nature, I can cure you if you will use my

DR. McLAUGHLIN'S ELECTRIC BELT.

The product of years of study, the realization of the fondest dreams of the weak and worn invalid. It is not a toy belt, but a powerful, life-giving Electric appliance, which is now recognized by the highest and best in the medical profession as the only certain means of restoring power to weak and vital organs. The strength is quickly restored and losses corrected. Rheumatic pains are quickly dispelled and all functions of the body developed and made strong. It sends the blood with a gladsome bound through the veins, carrying health to the body and happiness to the heart of the despondent sufferer.

Pay When Cured.

I know there is no better way to prove my confidence in the wonderful curative power of my Belt than to cure you before I ask you to pay for it, and as I DO KNOW that it will restore strength in every instance I am willing to cure first and ask my pay afterward. So if you are weak, breaking down, or sick in any manner come to me, tell me your trouble, and let me cure you. When you are cured you can pay me. This offer is open to any man who will secure me. All I ask is that the man asking me to take his case under these terms gives me evidence of his honesty and good faith.

CAUTION. Beware of old style, burning electrode Belts, which are using an imitation of my cushion electrodes. My office contains hundreds of these old belts, discarded as useless and dangerous by persons whose bodies have been seared and scarred by the bare metal electrodes. I will make special terms to anyone having one of these old back-burners.

FREE BOOK My New Illustrated Book tells about my Belt and how it cures the weakness of men and women. It is worth reading. I will send it closely sealed, free, upon request. Call, if possible, and I will explain my Belt and what it will do. I will give a free test to every seeker of proof of what my Belt does. Call or write to-day. FREE TEST

TO PREVENT FIRE LOSSES.

Don't allow the oil in lamps to get low.

Don't allow stoves near unprotected wood.

Don't allow gasoline stored on the premises.

Don't allow steam pipes in contact with wood.

Don't use gasoline for lighting or heating.

Don't permit a lighted lamp to stand on a table easily upset.

Remember that greasy rags sometimes burn spontaneously.

Steam boilers and pipes should not be allowed to gather dust.

Don't allow rubbish to accumulate in basements, back yards, closets, etc.

Don't allow water-buckets to remain empty, nor hose nor hydrants to go untested.

Don't allow electric bulbs or lamps or globes in contact with lace or other curtains.

Have your electrical installations made according to approved rules by the best workmen.

Don't allow smoking in factories, printeries, planing mills, saw mills, tipples, etc.

Don't burn snapping coal or wood in an open grate unless there is a wire screen in front.

See that hooks and nails supporting pendant lamps are securely affixed to wall or ceiling.

Don't carry a light with you when hunting a gas leak or examining an acetylene gas generator.

Sawdust absorbents, in boxes or sifted about floors, easily ignite. Sand should be used instead.

Open flue holes and broken windows and skylights permit the entrance of sparks which may set a house on fire.

Electric wiring should be of the best character, approved by experts. Remember that the wires are carrying streams of fire.

Don't allow electric bulbs in contact with inflammable goods. There is enough heat in the incandescent lamp to char and ignite light fabrics.

Don't "blow down the chimney" when extinguishing a kerosene light. Turn low and blow across the chimney-top; or lift, and blow across the burner.

Don't allow any but properly authorized workmen of Electric Light Company to repair or alter electric light fixtures. Many a fire has been caused by the breaking of his rule.

Remember that sand or flour is the best extinguisher of coal oil flames. Water only spreads the fire. Blankets, quilts, robes, if they can be applied, will smother an oil fire.

Don't allow lamps to burn low all night. The imperfect combustion poisons the air, as well as burns up the oxygen; and the gas generated may result in an explosion before morning.

Don't allow kerosene oil lamps to be filled after dark, nor the use of kerosene in lighting fires. (Kerosene may with nominal risk be poured over brown paper at a safe distance, and the saturated paper be placed among the kindling, or beneath the grate.)

Only flash-test coal oil should be used. All other kinds are dangerous to life and property alike. Pour a little of the oil into a saucer. Pass a lighted match near the surface. If there is an ignition or flash the oil is of dangerous quality, giving out an explosive vapor.

BANQUET TO H. BENTLEY.

When Harry Bentley removed from Fernie "he folded his tent like the Arab and silently stole away" so that his friends were not given an opportunity to bear witness to his many sins of omission and commission, but they were on his trail like an avenging Nemesis and when he struck the town fresh from the trackless prairie, it was all framed up for him. Of course Bentley of that ilk is not in town long before something seems to tell us that he has arrived. Plans had been carefully laid by J. Pollock and A Joyce to bring him into camp and at ten o'clock Friday night he was roped and landed in the dining room of the Alberta where about fifty good men and true, members of the Board of Trade had assembled to do their best to fill his system so full of good chuck and a various assortment of cheerful lush that would be a lasting lesson to the prodigal to wander not again from his father's house. Mine host Levasseur unfortunately was too ill to receive the wanderer in person, but his staff, aided and abetted by the indefatiigable Biggar was equal to the occasion, and when the menu was discussed from soup to nuts the real trouble began.

Mr. A. Joyce, Vice-President of the Board of Trade occupied the chair, with the guest of the evening at his right hand. The toast to King Edward was duly honored and D. V. Mott was called upon to testify He addressed his remarks more particularly to Harry Bentley and pointed out to him the error of his ways in the past, but to square things all around, he presented Mr. Bentley, on behalf of the Board of Trade, a very beautiful locket, set with diamond, and an opal and diamond scarf pin, which would serve to remind him of the Fernie people and his sojourn among them. Mr. Bentley replied in his usual happy style and the proceedings proceeded to proceed. W. A. Wilmot sang the "Rale Old Mountaih Dew" and Mr. Robinson, of Cranbrook responded to the toast of the sister cities and sang a good Scotch song. J. R. Wilson sang a nice song and the toast of the Great West was ably handled by Fred Stork. Mr. A. Dick, Mine Inspector, told a Scotch story which provoked roars of applause. The learned professions were replied to by W. R. Ross, Dr. Higgins and Judge Trites. D. V. Mott proposed the Board of Trade and Geo. Clode told a good story. The neighboring Republic was responded to by J. R. Pollock, U.S. Consul. Sincere regret was expressed at the illness of Mr. and Mrs. Levasseur, and the ladies of the house who got up the magnificent spread were complimented highly. The arrangements were perfect in every respect and a glorious time was enjoyed by all present.

HOCKEY

Pincher Creek defeated Lethbridge by a score of 9 to 1 Monday night, Feb. 10.

The second game of the Crow's Nest Pass Hockey Association League was played at Cranbrook, Saturday, Feb. 8, between the Fernie and Cranbrook teams resulting in a win for the visitors by a score of 9 to 3. Bert Donahue came up from Wardner fo referee the game and gave good satisfaction to both teams. The game in the first half was fast, Kastner and Purdy for the visitors being most in evidence, their excellent defence and good shooting saved many goals going to Cranbrook, while Beaubier and Coulter on the forward line exhibited some very good combination play. Miller was on the spot when the rubber got dangerously near the goal and presented an armor-plate front, stalling off many good shots from the Cranbrook side.

Dowsley, Prest and Royal were the most in evidence for the home team though Graham scored two of the three goals. The game was called at 9:21 by Referee Donahue and the score was as follows:

1st score, Fernie, 9:23, by Coulter,
2nd score, Fernie, 931, Laidley,
3rd score, Fernie, 9:47, Coulter,
4th score, Fernie. 10:25, Hill,
5th score, Fernie, 10:26, Coulter,
6th score, Cranbrook, 10:26½, Dowslup,
7th score, Fernie, 10:27, Beaubier,
8th score, Fernie, 10:28, Kastner,
9th score, Fernie, 10:36, Laidley,
10th score, Cranbrook, 10:43, Graham,
11th score, Fernie, 10:47½, Coulter,
12th score, Cranbrook, 10:53, Graham.

The denizens of that peaceful retreat, yclept the Green Cottage, have been getting pretty chesty of late about their prowess on the ice and after due and grave consideration decided, they were "the best that is," save and except the real Fernie Hockey Club, and so issued a defi to the world, to contest in a game to be played Thursday night. Divers and sundry of the merchants, nothing loath, accepted the challenge and girded up their loins to meet the enemy.

The cohorts from the shack arrived at the battle ground brandishing their war clubs and exhibiting every evidence of satisfaction at the opportunity of gloating over their victims But Oh! What a falling off was there. The peacably disposed tradesmen smote them hip and thigh from the first crack out of the box and after hostilities had ceased and the gore washed up it was found that the score stood 13 to 4 in their favor. The change was then counted and after the casualties had all been provided for there was about fifteen plunks and four bits over, both sides agreeing to devote the surplus to charitable purposes.

The teams lined up as follows:

GREEN COTTAGE.		MERCHANTS.
Dr. Doherty	Goal	Perkins
Wriglesworth	Point	Harwood
Coulthard	Rover	Bleasdell
H, W. Herchmer	Forwards	Labelle

POLICE COURT

The members of the Kootenay Association, to wit, George Raymond Payne, Solomon Gabriel and Edwin Leslie Bride were arraigned in the Police Court Friday morning before Stipendiary Magistrate Armstrong for preliminary examination.

They were each charged with twenty-three offences, all of the same nature, namely, obtaining money under false pretenses, and stealing the sum of one dollar from twenty-three of the applicants for the positions advertised in the Eastern papers. H. W. Herchmer appeared for the prosecution, and W. R. Ross for the defence.

The principal evidence gone into this morning was the vast amount of correspondence received by the accused, to which, in many cases replies had been sent, the purport being that the positions advertised had been filled, but the Association was in a position to offer other and better positions on complying with certain conditions imposed by the Association, the most prominent being the sending of $1, and entering into an agreement to stay one year, and to pay over an additional percentage of the first month's salary. Constable Fraser was the principal witness concerning the correspondence, he having had charge of it since the seizure.

Wm. Kirton was an important witness brought by the prosecution from Calgary. In his evidence he stated that he had answered an advertisement in the Winnipeg Free Press for one of the positions advertised therein by G. R. Payne. He received a reply on the letter head of the Kootenay Association, a copy of which is here given:—

Fernie, B. C., 30th Jan., 1902

Mr. W. White,
Calgary, Alta.,

Dear Sir,—Your letter of the 25th inst. duly to hand, addressed to our Mr. Payne.

The vacancy for a cashier occurs in the staff of one of the Slocan District Mining Companies, and it is worth to start $110 per month, being permanent and progressive. The duties would be to act as paymaster and assist the accountant with the statistics every month. Please let us know by return of mail if you would furnish security, guarantee or bond, the position being one of very considerable responsibility, and also if you could sign an agreement for twelve months at least.

The Kootenay Association make a preliminary charge of one dollar for interesting itself in your behalf, and expect you to enclose that amount in your reply. They also make a charge of ten per cent. of the first month's salary, which, however, is not payable until you have taken up the position one month.

Yours truly,
The Kootenay Association
Dict. E.L.B. E. L. Bride.
G.

The witness believed the transaction to be bona fide, and enclosed $1, but had received no reply. Would not have sent the money had he not believed it to be a bona fide position.

William G. White, another witness from Calgary for the prosecution, gave similar evidence as to the correspondence with the Kootenay Association in which he was given to understand that a position as cashier in the Slocan Mining district was available. He sent $1 to the concern.

The counsel for defense at this stage applied for an adjournment till Tuesday 18th.

JOYCE—In Fernie, on Saturday, Feb. 15, the wife of A. Joyce, of a daughter.

BRAVE LAD'S DYING WORDS

"GOOD-BYE, BOYS; I WANT YOU TO MEET ME IN HEAVEN."

A dispatch from Sydney, C.B., says: One of the saddest and most distressing accidents that have occurred for some time at Sydney happened at half-past nine o'clock tonight, at the blast furnace of the steel works, by which John Morrison had his left arm and left leg torn from his body, the leg at the knee and the arm quite close to the body. What remained of the leg above the knee was crushed to a jelly. Morrison was oiler on one of the ore carriers, and while oiling the wheels got caught, with the result that his arm and leg were drawn into the cogs and severed from the body. He was immediately released from his terrible position and removed as speedily as possible to the hospital.

Morrison is only seventeen years of age and has been in the employ of the company for nearly a year. The brave fellow never lost consciousness, and talked freely of his accident. The last words he said to his fellow workmen were: "Good-bye, boys, meet me in heaven. I am going there, and I want you to come too."

There was not a dry eye in the crowd as he was being borne away to the hospital. Morrison was doing night shift for a mate of his in order to allow the latter to attend the performance of the Harkins company.

OUR PRODUCTS EXCEED TRANSPORTATION.

Events, published in Ottawa, has the following to say about the present vexing question of transportation of our products:

"Ever since the early days of Manitoba the question of transportation has been one of the most vital and important to which the governments and people of Manitoba have given their attention. The question is not yet solved. The enormous wheat crop of Manitoba and the Territories this year has proved beyond a shadow of doubt that the wheat production of the west has outgrown the present facilities for handling it. Mass meetings of merchants and farmers are being held at many points, and are passing resolutions condemning the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern railways for not supplying cars to carry odt the grain. The elevators are full and can take no more, bags are stacked up at many places, wherever a shed or barn can be brought into use, and as a consequence of all the drawbacks the farmers cannot convert their produce into cash, and any sales that are made do not realize as high a price as would be the case were it possible to export the grain. The producer naturally blames the railways for not having enough cars or sufficient locomotive power, but he does not look further than that. If he did he would see that if the railways had more cars and greater locomotive power it would simply mean the piling up of the grain at Fort William and Port Arthur, for the lake tonnage would then be found altogether nadequate. The Canadian Northern line has just been completed to Port Arthur, and this gives additional railway facilities to the lake front, but unless a larger tonnage is available next year the situation will not be much improved. As before stated, the wheat crop production of the west has outgrown the facilities for handling it."

FATALITY AT RATHWELL.

Benjamin Mighton Fell Off a Load of Barley and Broke His Neck.

Rathwell, Man., Feb. 5.—Benjamin Mighton of this place, lost his life yesterday afternoon while driving on a load of barley. There was no witness to the accident, but he evidently fell off the wagon, a wheel of which passed over his neck, breaking it. The body was found shortly after by Frederick Gifford, who reported the death in town. A number of residents went up and brought the body to Robertson's undertaking establishment. He leaves a young widow to mourn his untimely end.

AN INDIAN OUTRAGE.

Tucson, Arizona, Feb. 6.—The charred body of A. T. Vail, a pioneer rancher, was found in the ruins of his house at Aravapol Canyon, 85 miles from Tucson. The supposition is that the house was burned by Apache Indians who roam around around that section.

It is believed that the Indians killed Vail, looted the house and burned it. The Indians are much dissatisfied on account of the government cutting off their rations.

WINNIPEG FATALITY

SURROUNDING THE FATALITY THERE IS A GREAT DEAL OF MYSTERY.

Winnipeg, Feb. 6.—Early yesterday morning when Gustave Miller, an employee of the C. P. R., returned from his all night work, he learned from the police that the mangled body of his wife had been found in the C. P. R. yards.

Surrounding the fatality there is a great deal of mystery, and the distracted husband is at a complete loss to account for the movements of his wife which took her to the C. P. R yards.

Mrs Miller left her home about 6 o'clock on Tuesday evening. She was not feeling well, and said she was going down to see Dr. Clark, and left her two children with her sister-in-law. The young woman—she is 28 years of age—never went to Dr. Clark's.

Mr. Miller is required by his duties to be at work all night. He left home at 7 o'clock. His wife had not returned, but he says he did not think anything of that. He returned to his home early yesterday morning and was alarmed at the absence of his wife, who had not been home all night.

He went at once to the police station, where he was informed that the body of a woman had been found on the C. P. R. tracks, and was lying at Kerr's undertaking rooms. Here Mr. Miller identified the body as that of his wife.

The body was found about 3.15 a. m. on the main line track, not far from Princess street. The wheels of the cars had been over her neck and one hand was completely severed. Around the place where the body lay, blood had flowed freely from the wound, which proves that the woman was not dead when struck by the train.

It would have been almost impossible for the woman to have been killed early in the evening or anytime before midnight without the body having been seen by some of the yardmen, and the mystery is: Where did Mrs. Miller spend the time from 7 o'clock until after midnight? Dr. Clark did not see her.

Between Mr. and Mrs. Miller, so far as could be learned, there has always existed perfect harmony. Deceased was suffering from illness, however, and it is thought that from pain and worry she was so distracted as not to be responsible for her actions, and becoming exhausted and numb with cold fell across the rails, where she was afterwards discovered by some of the yard crew.

LISTED AT DULUTH.

Manitoba Wheat Quoted at the Zenith City Grain Exchange.

Manitoba wheat for the first time in the history of the grain trade has been listed on the Duluth grain exchange. This is interesting as showing the progress that the Canadian west wheat country is making in the eyes of the wheat world. The contract grades of wheat from here are now being handled in Duluth in exactly the same way that Duluth prices are looked after here. That is Manitoba bonded wheat is sold direct from Duluth for export and it is expected that in a year or so Manitoba wheat will be quoted the same way on the Chicago, Minneapolis, St. Louis and New York markets.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 5.

The budget debate was continued by Mr. Myers, Hon. Mr. Campbell followed Mr. Myers. Both speakers were frequently interrupted by questions during the course of their oratory, and the usually long and tedious speeches were somewhat enlivened by these proceedings.. Mr. Greenway moved the adjournment of the debate.

Committee reports and some questions by members completed the business for the day.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6.

The chief feature of the sitting of the legislature was the continuation of the debate on the budget. Hon. Thomas Greenway started the debate and made a number of general criticisms of the government, which were replied to by Hon. Robert Rogers.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 7.

The first division of the present session took place on the budget and was carried by the government by a vote of 20 to 9. T. C. Norris and Dr. Grain were the last speakers in the debate.

A number of bills were introduced and seperal received a second reading.

The first minister moved the adjournment of the house until Monday evening, February 17.

SCENE AT WESTMINSTER.

London, Feb. 5.—The large and fashionable congregation which attended a memorial service officially described as a "requiem" for the repose of the soul of Our Sovereign Lady Queen Victoria at St. Mathew's church, Westminster, this morning was greatly scandalized by the conduct of a number of anti-ritualists, who immediately after the service was concluded, stood up in the church and declared "the service was a blasphemous insult to Queen Victoria's memory." "This is not God's house," said one objector, "This is a joss house."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

HAD LAME BACK FOR EIGHT YEARS

THE TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE OF A NOVA SCOTIA GENTLEMAN AND HOW HE WAS CURED.

After Such a Long Period of Suffering He Is Entirely Restored to Good Health by Dodd's Kidney Pills—He is Very Grateful.

Bridgewater, N. S., Jan. 27.—(Special)—Mr. Jahn S. Morgan, a prominent man, of this place, has had a terrible time with his back for eight years, but now he is receiving the congratulations of his friends on his complete and satisfactory recovery.

To look at Mr. Morgan today one would never suspect that he had been the victim of so much torture, and for such a long time, and yet from his own statement, the pain he has endured must have been something awful. He says:

"For eight years I have suffered the most severe pain in my back. I had gradually grown worse till at last I was completely crippled up.

"I heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills as remedy for Lame Back, but as I had tried so many things without any benefit I was beginning to lose faith in anything. However, I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say I am heartily glad I did so, for they cured me.

"I had run down in weight to about 140 pounds, but during the time I was using the Pills (I used in all about twenty boxes) I regained about 23 pounds.

"Of course I realized my danger, and when I found that Dodd's Kidney Pills were helping me, I stuck right close to them after commencing till I was perfectly well again."

Everyone who knows Mr. Morgan knows that he means every word he says, and much interest has been aroused by the publication of his statement.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are well known to be a sure cure for all cases of Lame Back and Kidney trouble.

Some husbands are domestic and some are imported.

The proprietors of Parmelee's Pills are constantly receiving letters similar to the following, which explains itself: Mr. John A. Beam, Waterloo, Ont., writes: "I never used any medicine that can equal Parmelee's Pills for dyspepsia or liver and kidney complaints. The relief experienced after using them was wonderful." As a safe family medicine Parmelee's Vegetable Pills can be given in all cases requiring a cathartic.

To Have Better Lighting.

In dread of the ancient reproach that London is the worst lighted metropolis in the world, the city corporation has decided to carry out a scheme of illumination likely to put old stagers into a panic.

The narrow side streets of the business quarter, hitherto enveloped in the darkness of night on foggy days, will be fitted with many-jetted lines of incandescent gas, within a triangle roughly indicated by St. Paul's, Finsbury Circus and the Tower. Lights will run along the river, dispelling the gloom of that region sacred to the "hooligan" and the "wharf rat."

Ludgate Circus, the western entrance to the city, will be made a place of dazzling brilliance by circular rows of 1,000 candle power high pressure gas lamps. These will compete with the electric lights already there. In order that comparisons may be obtained the two kinds of lights will be kept burning in all weathers.

Each of the gas lamps cost £23 ($111) a year. The makers say that they will change Ludgate Circus from its present condition of semi-darkness to one of the best lighted spots in Europe. They also assert that the lamps will go a long way to dispel the gloom of London's worst fogs, fat surpassing electricity in this respect.

Light of the Home.

The most beautiful structure on earth was erected in honor of a woman. Twenty thousand men for twenty years wrought constantly. No marble was too white, no carving too delicate, no jewels too precious, for this exquisite shrine for the woman so greatly beloved by the Emperor Shah Jahah. Yet what do we know of Nur Mahal, the wife of this devoted Oriental? Little, save that she was beloved. All down the ages this halo envelopes her like the veil of divinity. Was she physically beautiful? Probably. Was she wise? Not greatly above the women of her time. Was she felt in the political interests of her country? To a certain extent that must have been true, for the currency was issued in her name. But the one thing we can with safety say is that she was lovable. It is nearly three hundred years since the body of this little Indian woman fell to dust and ashes, and was laid away in the shadow of that glorious tomb. Yet, because love is immortal, she still lives; and across the lapse of time and from beyond continents and seas we feel the gracious influence of the loving queen whose body sleeps beneath the beautiful canopy of lace turned into stone.

THE CARE OF LITTLE ONES.

Some Sound Advice As to the Best Method of Treating Infant Indigestion.

Nothing is more common to childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution, or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Among the symptoms by which indigestion in infants and young children may be readily recognized are loss of appetite, nausea, eructations, coated tongue, bad breath, hiccough and disturbed sleep. Indigestion may be easily cured, and Mrs. F. M. Begbie, Lindsay, Ont., points out how this may best be done. She says: "When my baby was three months old she had indigestion very badly. She would vomit her food just as soon as she took it, no matter what I gave her. After feeding she seemed to suffer terribly, and would scream with pain. She seemed always hungry, but her food did her no good and she kept thin and delicate. He was very sleepless and suffered also from constipation. We tried several medicines recommended for these troubles but they did her no good. Finally I saw Baby's Own Tablets advertised and got a box. After giving them to her she began to improve in about two days, and in a week's time I considered her well. She could sleep well, the vomiting ceased, her bowels became regular and she began to gain in weight. She is now a fat, healthy baby, and I think the credit is due to Baby's Own Tablets and I would not now be without them in the house."

Baby's Own Tablets is the only medicine sold under an absolute guarantee that it contains neither opiates nor other harmful drugs. These tablets are a certain cure for all the minor ailments of childhood, such as sour stomach, indigestion, constipation, simple fever, diarrhoea. They break up colds, prevent croup, and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. Price 25 cents a box at all druggists, or sent by mail post paid by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CORPORATION NEWSPAPERS.

Our esteemed contemporary the Nelson Miner, in a recent issue, scorned a well known corporation for attempting to control and utilize the press of B.C. for its own private ends and then went on to expose the wickedness of corporations seeking in any way to influence the press which should be free and unfettered. We so thoroughly agree with the sentiments that they will furnish the opportunity to "point a moral and adorn a tale." The latter should in the natural order of things come first, so now for the tale. About six months ago another industrial corporation bought out the Nelson Miner "lock, stock and barrel." Of course this was done purely from "patriotic motives" and not in any sense to control or direct the policy of the paper in things personal or political, least of all to limit or muzzle the absolute freedom of our contemporary in discussing provincial matters in which the said corporation might be interested such as railway charters, coal lands and parliamentary candidates. Meanwhile the press of B.C., has unanimously condemned the action of this corporation in one of the interests mentioned that is unanimously except for our contemporary which might have raised its voice in protest also, but that he who pays the piper chooses the tune, and so instead it deplores the decadence of the press in allowing itself to be made the mouthpiece of a criticism and inveighs against the iniquity of a corporation controlling a newspaper. That is the tale. The moral is obvious. Freedom may be strangled even with a golden chain. We are sorry for our contemporary, but we fear it cannot be helped, it has bartered its birthright for "a mess of pottage" and all the crying in the world, and all the peevish complainings against papers that have withstood the "song of the siren" be it never so sweet will not deliver it from the bondage under which it groans.

We think the whole incident worthy of epilogue and thank our contemporary for furnishing the opportunity to say that in spite of rumors to the contrary, the FERNIE FREE PRESS is, as it always has been and intends to be a free Press owned neither in whole nor in part by any corporation or representative of a corporation, owing allegiance to none but the public who have accorded it such generous support and whose interest alone it desires to serve, and this in spite of the same temtation to which our contemporary has succumbed. "In vain does the fowler spread the net in sight of the bird."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Prominent Liberal Dead

Judge Jas. F. Lister, of the Ontario Court of Appeals, died suddenly in Toronto, Feb. 9th. of heart failure. He was one of the old war horses of the Liberal party and popularly known as "Fighting Jim Lister." He took a prominent part in the investigations in the House of Commons which led to the downfall of Sir Hector Langevin. He was in his 59th year.

* * *

Charles Fitzpatrick, late Solicitor General, has been appointed Minister of Justice in place of Hon. David Mills who has been raised to the Supreme Court Bench.

* * *

THE Federal Government has concluded that a combine existed among the paper makers of Canada and has reduced the duty from 25 to 15 per cent. ad valorem. This is the result of a strong fight put up by the newspapers.

* * *

THE appointment of Senator Templeman to a cabinet position has been received with general satisfaction by both press and public on both sides of politics. Mr. Templeman's record in British Columbia is clean and while always a strong party man he has had the best interest of the Province in view in his public acts. The appointment does not carry a portfolio but there is every indication that further changes in the Ministry will place him at the head of a department.

* * *

Dr. Jameson, the retiring Surgeon General of the British Army, speaking at a complimentary banquet given him recently in London, said: "Experience in this war, on the other hand, tends to prove that a man without much military training may be a good fighting soldier —Lord Strathcona's Horse, for example. In it many men were killed, but no man ever surrendered, and there was no one the Boers had more cause to fear than the rough, untrained, but plucky soldier from Canada, who always fought to a finish." Should we not be proud of the boys from Fernie who fought under the Strathcona banner?

A Matter of Grace

In the last issue of the Prospector friend Grace waxes philosophical and ruminative and like many a philosopher before his day, arrives at the conclusion that corporations are no good; but the same may be said of many other things which by common consent are not unmixed blessings, measles, smallpox, newspapers, twins and funerals, but what are you going to do about it? They are with us, and presumably to stay, they may have done a little good if only in finding the capital to develop our resources, and if they have not given the attention to Fort Steele which it deserves perhaps they may yet appease the Prospector by turning from the error of their ways, but if they do it will be a work of Grace.

The Cat Among the Pigeons

The little coterie who thought they were destined to run the politics of the Kootenays and fitted themselves out accordingly "regardless of expense," must already be asking themselves several questions now that Joe Martin has been elected leader of the Liberal party. They are assuredly on the horns of a dilemma. They howled for "party lines," and they have got them with a vengeance. They must either repudiate Martin and so desert the party or eat dirt and follow him in which case all their pet schemes have to be abandoned, for nothing is clearer than that Martin and Dansmuir understand each other. Foiled on every hand they had better give up the game and stick to their legitimate business. It will not be long before dividend day comes round again.

R. C. Paterson, better known as "California Bob" was brought down from Hosmer on a freight train Wednesday night, suffering very badly from pneumonia. There was no room in the hospital and he was taken to the Court House and provided with a cot. He grew rapidly worse and died Thursday morning. Bob was a well known character about town and was a genial fellow, well liked by all. He was a clever fisherman, and devoted most of his time to his favorite pastime.

Nelson Miner: W. H. Blakemore, manager for the syndicate, which is operating iron properties near Kitchener, arrived in town from the east where he has been for the last two months. Mr. Blakemore reports that he has all arrangements completed for the resumption of work on the iron mines, and says a good sized force will be put to work just as soon as the weather will permit. He says that the report of Director Frecheville on the condition of the Le Roi had a good effect in Montreol. It gave the plain unvarnished facts, and still showed that the Le Roi is a valuable property.

SPIDER'S CHAPS

BY WOLCOTT LE CLEAR BEARD

A TALE OF THE CATTLE THIEVES OF AGUA CALIENTE.

Copyright, 1900, by W. Le Clear Beard.

"S'pose I'm gonter be a cookee all my life?" he replied, looking up at me with an expression of intense disgust "Well, I ain' I'm only cookeein now so's I can save enough money fer ter buy me an outfit—the part er the outfit I can't make, that is."

"What sort of an outfit?" I inquired respectfully, cautioned by the displeasure in Spider's tone. "What is it that you're going to be?"

"Cow puncher. Yer see ther ain nothin else fer me," he explained. "I ain never had no chance ter learn Cowboys c'n get er brand er cattle er their own bimeby if they don't steer theirselves too hard 'gains' the green cloth (gamble), er don' blow their money in no other way Then after that I c'n see what I wanter do. I c'n learn things See?"

"But nobody would take you on as a cowboy, Spider," I objected. "You're not as big as an ordinary stock saddle You couldn' hold a steer even if you got your rope on him."

"Maybe I couldn' hol' no steer," he cried. Highly offended. "Maybe I couldn get my rope on one, neither jus you look a-yer once."

Running to the cook wagon, Spider produced a small bundle carefully done up in a bit of old canvas. It contained a rawhide lariat Returning Spider deftly coiled it in his hand and opened the loop Then he cast it and secured my water can in a manner that would have been highly satisfactory if the water can had been a steer or even if it had not upset and spilled the water over me.

"I didn' think erbout the can comin over on yer that a way," said Spider contritely, as with the hollow of his hand he tried to scoop the water out of my canvas cot "Yer see ther wasn nothin else stickin up that I could rope, only yer game foot, an I thought maybe you wouldn't like that. I'll pull away this yer fly an let the sun in: Then 'twon be no time 'fore all's dry." After pulling aside the canvas that shaded me Spider sat down once more to his sewing, while I steamed in the scorching sun

"Well, I c'n throw er rope all right," he went on, looking at me from time to time with a professional eye apparently, to see how I was cooking "I c'n ride anything that goes on four legs, an I c'n pack er mule as well as any man er my weight in this yer ter'tory But I got ter get an outfit. I ain' ben savin long, an my wages ain' none too big, so I ain' got much put by, an there's a lot er things ter git. Saddle an bridle an gun an spurs an holster an belt an a horse I got the rope, like yer saw, an I'm makin these yer chaps. I c'n make er holster an belt that'd do fer awhile, an the bridle all but the bit. The gun an spurs I can't make, ner the horse." For awhile Spider stitched on in silence, then he looked up and said "Meybe it's like yer say, an nobody wouldn' take on a kid like me, outfit or no But if I ain' got the tools I sure won' get the job. So there ain' no way outer gettin the outfit that I c'n see." He paused for a reply, but his logic was so unanswerable that I had none to make, and Spider went on.

"Cappy Lee, he give me these here ol' chaps what I'm cuttin down. He give me my rope too. Him an Pug Hollis was scrappin ter see which belonged to it, an Cappy, he settled it like that Pug was dead sore, but it didn do him no good, so now he tries ter take it outer my hide every show he gets. Las' night he says how I cut the lacin er his stirrup leathers, an when I say I didn he says I lie an he licks me. I ain' got no use fer Pug Hollis."

To tell the truth, I didn't have "no use for Pug Hollis" either. He was a sullen, unpleasant sort of person, and he abused his horses I would have discharged him long before but for the fact that we were short handed Help was scarce and getting scarcer; so, though I disliked this man, I had to let him stay

When Spider's chaps were nearly finished, he devoted every moment of his leisure time to them. The whole camp was made aware of this fact by the unwonted quiet of the evenings.

Ordinarily, as soon as supper was over and Spider had finished the dishes, one might hear the rush of a galloping horse, then shouts and oaths coming from the owner of that horse, followed by what was known as "language"—that is, very bad language indeed—from all hands, especially the cook. This language would always take the form of threats and of comment on Spider's manners, morals or personal appearance, and would always be of a most uncomplimentary nature. By these signs I would know that Spider was practicing

"I got ter keep my ridin up," Spider exclaimed when I remonstrated with him. "I wouldn' stan no sort er a show fer a job—a kid like me—if I couldn ride. Then I ain' got no horses er my own."

Still, as I said, for two or three evenings there was quiet, and then the chaps were finished Spider wore them continually, to "limber 'em up some," he said Truly they needed limbering, for the leather, when made into tubes of so small a diameter, was so stiff that Spider's knees could not bend it in the smallest degree, and he was obliged to walk in much the same manner that one steps off distances on a map with a pair of compasses. The report circulated through the camp to the effect that Spider slept in those chaps of his was without foundation, but it is certain that they were never far from him

The Ballet Girl, with a grin, confided to me that when Spider rolled himself up in his blanket for the night he stood the chaps up against a post at his feet, so that he could see them as he first opened his eyes Of course the men chaffed him about them continually They compared the chaps to a couple of small stovepipes, but said that of the two the stovepipes were the more flexible Spider stood their chaffing good naturedly enough in the main, but at first he resented this allusion to the stiffness of his chaps, so for a long time the men called him Stovepipes instead of Spider

But, like most pleasant things of this world, Spider's chaps were too good to last One morning he appeared without them and went about his work very soberly Never before had I seen him in such dejection I inquired as to its cause Without a word he brought me the blackened and shriveled remains of what were once his proudest possession and laid them before me

"It was that ther Pug Hollis what done it," he said at last in reply to my repeated questionings. "He took the chaps when I was sleepin las' night, an he propped 'em up with rocks like as though they was stovepipes, what the boys had called 'em, an then he built a fire under 'em They didn't smell none too good when they was a-cookin, an the smell woke me up. It was too late then—they was like you see here. That's what he thinks is a joke."

Hollis' notion of a joke did not at all appeal to me So thoroughly disgusted was I that I expressed my intention of discharging him at once, much as we needed help I did not care to have such a man around Spider, however, would hear of no such thing

"You wanter bounce him jus' 'cause he burnt up them chaps er mine, an that's the only reason you wanter bounce him now, when you want every man you c'n get, an more, too," said he. "Them chaps ain' nobody's lookout but mine, an if I like such jokes as them, why, them jokes goes, that's all. I don't ask nobody ter look after my quar'ls fer me. You ain' gonter bounce Pug Hollis."

I mildly differed from this last statement.

"No, you ain'—you can't do nothin erbout it at all," persisted Spider "I tol' you 'bout them chaps myself, so you can't You said you wouldn' do nothin 'bout nothin what I tol' you."

I had never said anything of the kind. But, nevertheless, in inviting Spider's confidence I had certainly implied a promise to make no use of it His position, therefore, was unassailable, and I had to retreat from mine with what grace I could Hollis was allowed to stay

Besides, just at this time we needed men more than ever The river fell somewhat, and it was decided that we should attempt to cross it with the cattle and pursue our journey toward the railway The water was still so high that there was considerable danger that some of the cattle would be swept away and drowned as they crossed, but on the other hand the pasturage where we then were was nearly exhausted, and it was impossible to say how long we might have to remain if we neglected to avail ourselves of the opportunity this fall offered me. At that season of the year the water might rise at any moment and keep us from crossing for an indefinite time Therefore it seemed far better in every way to expose some of the cattle to this chance of drowning rather than to run so large a risk of starving them all where we were.

IS NOT THIS STEALING?

In Spite of at Least Half a Dozen Imitators, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine Has More Than Three Times the Sale of Any Remedy Recommended For Throat and Lung Troubles.

Have you been imposed upon when asking for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by being offered an imitation? Many have been, and we know of some who have changed their druggists as a result. It is not safe to deal with a druggist who offers imitations and substitutes. An honest druggist will not offend his customers by such questionable methods.

The use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has become so universal that on all sides are springing up preparations of turpentine and linseed, put up in packages similar to Dr. Chase's with the object of making sales on the reputation of this famous remedy. Is not this dishonest? Is it not stealing, or even worse? For besides the injury done to the proprietors of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, the people are being deceived. In some cases, no doubt, even life is lost as a result.

Are you being deceived? Have you asked for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and been given an imitation or substitute? There is no doubt about the virtues of this great throat and lung remedy. It is too well known as a thorough cure for bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, asthma, coughs and colds to need further words of commendation. What we want to do is to warn you against these imitations. To be certain that you are getting the genuine, be sure that Dr. Chase's portrait and signature are on the wrapper.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has reached phenomenal sales, because it cures when other remedies fail. It is far-reaching in effect, curing the cold as well as the cough, and uprooting the most serious forms of bronchitis, asthma, and similar throat and lung diseases. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A MOTHER'S WARNING

SPEAKS OF A TROUBLE THAT AFFLICTS MANY YOUNG GIRLS.

Headaches, Dizziness, Heart Palpitation, Fickle Appetite and Pallor the Early Symptoms of Decay.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Hard study at school, coupled with the lack of attention which every young girl merging into womanhood should have, is responsible not only for the many pale faces and attenuated forms met with such lamentable frequency, but is responsible also for the loss of many valuable young lives. First there is an occasional headache, and a sallowness of complexion, from which stages if these early symptoms are neglected, the condition gradually grows worse and worse until decline or consumption sets in and death claims another victim of parental neglect. Upon Mothers especially devolves a great responsibility as their daughters approach womanhood. The following truthfully story told a reporter of the Sun by Mrs. O. Herman, of Third Avenue, Orangeville, carries a lesson to other mothers. Mrs. Herman said: "About fifteen months ago my daughter, Kate, while attending the public school studied hard. We noticed that she began to complain of headaches, This was followed by a listlessness and an utter indifference to things that usually interest young girls. We consulted a doctor, and she took bottle after bottle of medicine, but with no benefit. Often she would arise in the morning after an almost sleepless night, her limbs all a quiver and her head reeling. She would be attacked with spells of dizziness, and on the least exertion her heart would palpitate violently and we were really afraid she would not recover. At this stage my husband suggested that we should try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and he brought home several boxes. Kate had only taken the pills a few weeks when there was a great change for the better. She grew stronger, began to eat better and to have better color, and from this stage it was not long until she was again enjoying the best of health and able to resume her studies at school. I might also tell you that these pills cured my daughter Emma of an attack of rheumatism, so that you see we have much reason to praise them, and I earnestly recommend them to all mothers whose daughters may be suffering as mine did."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all diseases that have their origin either blood or shattered nerves. It is because they make rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves with every dose that they cure such troubles as anaemia, consumption in its early stages, nervous headache, St. Vitus' dance, rheumatism, partial paralysis, kidney trouble, indigestion, etc. Ordinary medicines merely act upon the symptoms of the trouble, and when such medicines are discontinued the trouble returns often in an aggravated form. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on the contrary go direct to the root of the trouble and cure to stay cured. See that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is found on the wrapper of every box. If your dealer does not have them send direct and they will be mailed, post paid, at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Pigeon as Valet to a Crow.

"Tom" was the name given to a lordly young crow about whom Florence Morse Kingsley writes in The Ladies' Home Journal. Beauty was a snow-white pigeon of about the crow's age, with whom he was reared. Just how it came about we never knew, but we soon discovered that Beauty regularly acted as maid-of-all-work to Tom. She fetched and carried morsels of food at his imperious command, and one of her unvarying duties was the preening of her master's feathers. Tom was very much of a dandy; his coal-black plumage always appeared perfectly dressed and shining, but the arduous labor of his toilet was performed for him twice a day by the humble and affectionate pigeon. Our fine gentleman would come in from a roll in the dust or a dip in the fountain, and, seating himself upon a certain railing, utter a short, sharp call. Instantly Beauty would descend to his side and begin her task, fluttering anxiously from side to side as she worked, drawing each shining black feather carefully out to its full length in her pink bill. Tom meanwhile, dozing luxuriously with closed eyes, after the manner of the complacent patron of a skillful barber. If Beauty unfortunately pulled a feather too hard a squawk and a sudden peck informed her of her mistake."

Progress at St. Bernard.

The famous pass of St. Bernard is now provided with shelters at short intervals, and the good old dog that used to search for lost wayfarers has been superseded by a telephone line connected to the "hospice" in such a way that when a traveler calls up the "pious monks," they know the shelter he is at. However, the dog, which the world would not willingly let die, may still be useful if the monks can train him to proceed to any shelter to which he is directed. Even now the pass is crossed by many persons. Every year the "hospital" receives from 4,000 to 5,000 tourists, 5,000 to 6,000 pilgrims, and about 15,000 Piedmontese work people going to Switzerland to seek work. Even in the worst weather six to eight travelers visit the hospital.—London Globe.

An elderly woman who had brought up her children on the "Go-and-see-what-Joe-is-doing-and - tell-him - to-stop, - and-if-he-won't-stop,-whip-him!" lines was talking with a young mother about her one hopeful, and it came out that he had been spared the rod.

"Do you mean to say that you never whip him?" exclaimed the elder woman.

"Never. That is—never—except in self-defence," was the faltering reply.

Two-inch ice would sustain a man or properly spaced infantry; four-inch ice will carry a man on horseback, or cavalry, or light guns; six-inch ice, heavy field guns, such as 80-pounders; eight-inch ice a battery of artillery, with carriages and horses, but not over 1,000 pounds per square foot on sledges, and ten-inch ice sustains an army or an innumerable multitude. On 15-inch ice a railway could be built, and two-foot thick ice will withstand the impact of a loaded railway carriage after a 60-foot fall (or perhaps 1,500 foot tons.)

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. MARKETS

WHEAT.

Last week in wheat was exceedingly dull. In the American markets speculation seems at a low ebb, and as nothing of any importance has happened either in trade or crop conditions the situation has become heavy and inert. The American markets have acted in a see-saw manner from day to day. One day the prices have closed about about ½c up, the next day as much down again, and at the close of the week quotations are practically the same as they were when last quoted.

At the present time the crop situation in Americ and Europe is rather favorable than otherwise in general. In the States the winter wheat has a good snow covering, although much of the western crop was tender and poor owing to long drougth, and its condition not very assuring as to its ability to withstand the effect of adverse weather later on. The crop prospect on the Pacific coast is also said to be not of the best. In Europe crop prospects are generally quite satisfactory, but if any material damage should develop during the spring months quite a spurt would take place in the demand over there for foreign wheat, which would give prices an advance. The rainfall in India has been insufficient in some important districts and official reports regarding the crop are not favorable, and India cannot have much to ship to Europe the coming year. Australia is now shipping freely of the new crop, and Argentine is shipping moderately. The quantity put afloat from South America this week being about 600,000 bushels, against about 1,300,000 bushels same week last year.

The market for Manitoba wheat been stagnant. Owing to the congestion caused by the transportation situation there is a great restriction to trade. Prices of wheat have remained practically stationary over the week. In store Fort William has sold up to 70c for 1 northern in elevator D, but in the other elevators 69½ 1 northern, and 66½ 2 northern have been values, February delivery. The difference is caused principally by the question of fire insurance. No. 1 hgrd in store Fort William is not worth over 72½.

Country Markets—The country market is very quiet owing to lack of elevator accommodation. Where wheat is being bought prices rule from 54 to 60c a bushel.

$14.50; shorts, $16.50. Delivered

OATS—Receipts of car lots are fairly liberal, most of the oats being from Northern Alberta. The quality of these oats is better than most of the Manitoba offerings and accordingly they get the preference. Recent offerings of Manitoba oats have been of very poor quality and feed merchants are indifferent about buying them. Farmers will soon begin to enquire for seed oats. In fact some are already doing so. Carlots of No. 1 white on track or en route are quoted at 42c per bushel; No. 2 white, 38 to 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. No. 1 Alberta oats are worth 39c Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 30 to 31c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—The market holds steady under light receipts and a good demand. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY.—Dealers are now paying $5.00 to $5.50 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS — Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef, city dressed, 6½ to 7½c per lb; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7¾ to 8½c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows: Chickens, 7 to 9c per lb, dressed; ducks and geese, 9c per lb; turkeys, 11½ to 12c per pound, dressed.

BUTTER—Creamery—A few factories are shipping winter butter into the city, for which jobbers are paying 21½c net, laid down in Winnipeg.

BUTTER—Dairy—Stocks of held butter are becoming reduced and as really choice grades are not to be had either from storage or country shippers there is a pretty firm market for this grade. Prices range all the way from 12 to 22c per pound.

EGGS—Eggs have been selling this week to the retail trade at 25c to 27c per dozen in case lots. Pickled eggs are worth 20c per dozen. Strictly fresh gathered stock is worth 35c to 40c per dozen in a retail way.

HIDES.—No. 1 inspected hides, 6c; per lb delivered in Winnipeg; No. 2, 5c; No. 3, 4c; kips and calves, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horsehides 50c to $1.

CATTLE—There is a good demand for butchers' cattle, and the market is steady at 3½ to 4c per pound delivered here. Common grades range from 3 to 3½c. Stockers gre worth $14 to $16 for yearlings at country points, and $18 to $22 for two-year-olds.

WAR OFFICE SCANDAL

BRITISH COMMONS DISCUSS THE SUBJECT OF ARMY REMOUNTS.

NEWSPAPERS ARE CLAMOURING FOR A RIGID INVESTIGATION.

London, Feb. 5.—In the House of Commons yesterday evening Major Arthur Lee (Conservative) said that Great Britain had been offered the services of the chief horse expert of the United States army as adviser in the purchase of American horses for the British army. The revelation was made during a heated debate on the remount question when Major Lee said that, being military attache at Washington he was not informed that there was any intention of buying horses in the United States. He added: "I learned from the American newspapers that British officers had been sent out to buy horses, but I was not informed who they were, nor was I asked to give them such assistance as my position implied I was competent to give. At the time I had the opportunity, through the good will of a high official, of getting the services of the chief horse expert of the United States army as adviser. I cabled the suggestion to the war office, but I received no reply."

The whole debate on this question in the House of Commons causes widespread indignation. The ministerial press vigorously charges the war office with absolute incompetency, if nothing worse, and demands a searching inquiry.

The Globe suggests that the war secretary, Mr. Broderick, ascertain the identity of the officials responsible for pigeon-holing and not acknowledging the communications for the purpose of summarily and ignominiously dismissing them. The supporters of the government are shocked, not only by the revelations regarding the inefficiency of the war office, but more so by the official tone of Mr. Brodrick's and Mr. Balfour's defences. The former claimed merit because he did not suppress the investigating committee's report altogether.

The Times points out that "it is right and honorable that a minister should defend by all legitimate means the department he represents, but he is carrying chivalry too far when he implies the right to defend it by the suppression of information which dearly concerns parliament and the people to know."

The St. James Gazette, referring to the further investigations proposed, urges the need of fixing the responsibility of individuals, saying: "The nation has been swindled and it is right that the swindlers, whoever they are, should be brought to book promptly."

CANADA SHOULD PREPARE.

Col. Bdchan Lectures in Toronto on Canadian Experience in South Africa.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—Colonel Buchan, Royal Canadian regiment, lectured before the Canadian Military Institute last night on the experience of Canadians in South Africa, and urged that Canada should prepare herself to be ready to take part in future wars on behalf of the Empire. Great Britain may have to fight some day against some great naval and military power or powers, and three or four thousand men would not be a sufficient share for Canada to send to her assistance.

TOTAL LOSSES IN BOER WAR

OFFICIAL STATEMENT OF CASUALTIES IN SOUTH AFRICA GIVEN OUT.

London, Feb. 7.—The war office this evening published a summary of the British losses in South Africa. Up to Jan. 31, the total reduction of the forces from death or permanent disability, was 25,305 men. The total of the casualties, including surviving wounded, was 5,240 officers and 100,701 men.

In the house of commons Mr. Balfour, the government leader, announced that copies of the correspondence exchanged between the government of the Netherlands and the government of great Britain on the subject of peace in South Africa had been mailed to Lord Milner, who would be instructed to ask Lord Kitchener to communicate the contents to the Boer leaders in the field.

Mr. Chamberlain, the colonial secretary added the information that if the leaders of the Boer forces proposed to Lord Kitchener negotiations for a settlement, the proposal would be forwarded for the consideration of the government.

EXPLOSION AT WETASKIWIN.

Can of Carbide Blows Up in the Driard Hotel—A mine Owner Shot Near St. Albert, N. W. T.

Edmonton, N. W. T., Feb. 7.—There was an explosion in the Driard hotel, Wetaskiwin, yesterday. It was caused by a can of carbide placed in the stove at the corner of the hotel property blowing out. Miss Anderson, daughter of the proprietor, was hurt. The report of the explosion was heard over the town and vicinity.

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

A young farmer named Haliday met with a painful and peculiar accident near his residence about four miles from Poplar Point, Man. He was engaged in taking a plow from a sleigh, when a pair of loose whiffletrees in the sleigh box fell from their position and struck a loaded shot gun. The gun discharged and the shot entered Mr. Haliday's left thigh, inflicting a bad wound. Mr. Haliday was immediately taken to the railway station and sent to the Winnipeg hospital for treatment.

RANCH SOLD FOR $200,000.

Calgary, N. W. T., Feb. 6.—It is now definitely learned that Bar "V" ranch, formerly owned by the Northwest Cattle company, has been purchased by George Lane, of Calgary, and Messrs. THIS IS NOT A MARRYING AGE.

Toronto, Feb. 7.—This is not a marrying age, according to figures which Dr. Bryce, provincial health officer, is preparing. For the purpose of comparison, Dr. Bryce has taken one hundred names from an old established insurance company, of young men insured in the years 1862 and 1901. By going over the list he finds that there are fifty per cent. less marriages by young men today than thirty-nine years ago.

THE GRAIN BLOCKADE.

Canadian Pacific Officials Attend a Meeting of the Grain Exchange.

Winnipeg, Feb. 8.—The council of the Grain Exchange met yesterday morning at the exchange building to meet the C. P. R. officials, who had been invited to discuss with the grain men the car shortage situation as it exists. The meeting resolved itself into an informal meeting of the exchange and a general discussion of the situation took place.

The grain men stated that as the road had refused to accept shipments to Fort William or Port Arthur or in fact any all-rail shipments that the company should endeavor to make some arrangement with connecting lines in this country whereby Manitoba grain could be carried to and stored in terminal elevators at the lake, which practically means Duluth or Port Arthur, and the C. P. R. would have to deliver grain either to the Canadian Northern or the Northern Pacific at Winnipeg.

The grain men stated the situation was a desperate one for both producer and dealer so far as handling any more of the crop until next spring was concerned. The meeting asked the officials to take up the matter with connecting lines to give some relief. Mr. McInnes informed the meeting that he would lay their request before the C. P. R. authorities, and the meeting adjourned for a week inorder to give an opportunity to the officials to go into the matter. There is a decidedly strong feeling on this question and it is likely that it will assume very large proportions if not immediately settled.

FROZEN AT BOISSEVAIN.

E. B. Tatchell Wanders From His Home in His Night Clothes.

Boissevain, Man., Feb. 8.—Mr. E. B. Tatchell, one of the town's most prominent citizens and business men, who has been suffering from insomnia for the past week, got up out of his bed at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and while his wife was attending to the wants of the little daughter, who was suffering from toothache, slipped out of the door in his night clothes and wandered over the prairie for over three hours.

Mrs. Tatchell had been looking after him, and noticed that he was not in his usual frame of mind, but did not dare leave him to call their son to go for help. The little girl got so bad at last that Tatchell told her to go and do something for her. Mrs. Tatchell had only left him for a moment when she heard the door shut, and going to the door saw him going towards the gate.

She at once gave an alarm and a number of citizens gave chase. He was found three hours later in a straw stack five miles from town. He was standing up, and when his searchers came up said - "Oh, boys, this is awful. I am frozen." He was put into a rig and driven to Joseph Kilmurray's, and a doctor sent for. Afterwards Mr. Tatchell was brought to his home and seems quite rational. The doctors say he will not lose his hands or feet. His ears and nose are badly frozen.

DISCONTENTED IRELAND.

It is Said That the Trouble Has Spread to the Loyalists of Ulster.

London, Feb. 8.—Lord Salisbury's recent significant reference to Ireland has been emphasized by the election in East Down, where the land purchase candidate, supported by T. W. Russell, is elected in the place of a Unionist. Irish discontent, instead of being allayed by the policy of smothering it with kindness and optimism, has increased, and the Loyalists of Ulster are now divided among themselves, while the Nationalists, as the prime minister has confessed, do not like England any better than they did before, and have never been more embittered against her during any period of military operations.

The Nationalists in the Commons, who opposed Russell when it was for their interest to do so, were exultant over the election and disposed to regard the victory of the land purchase independent as their own work, and Mr. George Wyndham was sharper and less amiable than usual in his replies, apparently forecasting trouble in the near future. The essential facts are the conversion of O'Brien's Irish league into a most powerful political organization, unity and direction imparted to the Nationalist party under Redmond's leadership, and the divisions created among loyalists by land purchase projects.

DEATH OF ADAM WORTH IN LONDON REVEALS THE SECRET OF ITS THEFT.

London, Feb. 8.—The police here have just been informed of the death here a few days ago of Adam Worth, alias "Harry Raymond," well known in America in connection with the Manhattan bank and other big robberies. Worth's name was frequently mentioned in connection with the stolen Gainsborough picture, but the London police say the rumor of Worth's connection with the theft was never confirmed.

WORTH'S SECRET REVEALED.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—With the announcement of the death of Adam Worth, alias Henry J. Raymond, in London, the details of the recovery of the celebrated Gainsborough painting were made public in Chicago.

When the famous picture was restored to its owner in Chicago last April, there were many surmises as to the medium of its return. Wm. A. Pinkerton, who made the formal announcement of the recovery of the painting, refused to confirm or deny any of the stories. Now that Worth is dead, Mr. Pinkerton can speak, as Worth gave him written permission to reveal the Gainsborough secret after he had died.

Wrapped in oilcloth the canvas was handed over to C. Moreland Agnew one morning last April in Chicago by Worth, who twenty-five years before had cut the painting from its frame in the Agnew galleries in London. The return of the painting took place in Mr. Pinkerton's private office. The owner of the picture hurried back to London for fear the United States authorities would demand a custom duty on the work, which had been secreted in this country for fifteen years.

THE THEFT.

It was while in London that Worth conceived the idea of carrying off the Gainsborough picture. His first plan was to rob the Royal Academy of its art treasures. Then he changed his mind and directed his attention to the Gainsborough painting. Assisted by his partner, he climbed into the Agnew galleries one night, cut the painting from its canvas and carried it away.

Worth owned a steam yacht and the canvas was taken aboard and concealed there until he sold the vessel to Lord Lonsdale. Then he took the picture to Paris, and finally brought it to America, where it was concealed for fifteen years. In the meantime Worth was arrested in Brussels and forced to serve seven years. Mr. Pinkerton had known Worth for thirty years. Two years ago Mr. Pinkerton received a telegram telling him that an important letter was at his home. The letter was from Worth, who asked an interview. This was granted, and Worth said he was going to die and wanted to "turn up" the Gainsborough picture in order that his two children, who had been educated in a convent, might enjoy the proceeds.

Through a hitch the picture was not received at that time. Worth returned to London and early last spring he fulfilled his bargain.

DAWSON'S NEW COUNCIL.

Dawson, Y. T., Feb. 7.—The election yesterday was the hottest thing on record. The city went wild with excitement. The result is that Henry Macauley is the first mayor. The council consists of P. Vauchon, Dr. Norquay, T. G. Wilson, J. F. Macdonald, George Murphy, and Thomas Adair. Macauley's majority was only 16, the election being therefore very close. The people's ticket won, electing a mayor and four aldermen. Intense excitement has prevailed here for some days over the outcome. The new council has its first sitting on March 3. It is considered to be a business man's victory. Mayor-elect Wacauley was carried shoulder high through the streets after his election was announced.

NEW TRAINS FOR THE "LIMITED"

Montreal, Feb. 8.—Next summer the C. P. R. proposes to have the Imperial Limited to cross the continent in 97 hours, with three trains per week leaving each terminus. This will be in addition to the usual Atlantic and Pacific daily expresses.

The new trains will be magnificently equipped on the lines adopted for the royal train.

BOER COMMANDER CAPTURED.

MICHEL

A gratifying increase in the output of coal is reported. On Tuesday 500 tons were mined.

Coke of an excellent quality is being made. For the first burnings it could scarcely be excelled. Aram Tashigan seems to be well adapted for his position as foreman of the coke ovens.

In the new tunnel, No. 4, a seven foot seam is being opened of the best coal that has yet been struck.

J. S. T. Alexander, barrister, Fernie, and F. C. P. Conybeare, Lethbridge, were in the camp Thursday.

Mr. Bert Tullidge has secured a position as hair-dresser in Frank. He left Michel on Wednesday evening. His many friends regret his departure, Bert being a general favorite.

Mr. Lot Willey has his boarding house in full swing. Good accommodation is now given to the travelling public.

Mr. T. C. Thompson, accountant for the Coal Co., paid our town a visit this week. He would notice a marked improvement in the Company's works since his last visit.

Mr. Louis Rothel, the genial delivery man of the Company's store, shewed his master hand as a butcher on Thursday last.

(Too late for last week).

The coke ovens are being filled to-day and the merry whistle of the little locomotive is heard from time to time. Joe Taylor is in charge of the locomotive.

Mr. Heberstreit has taken charge of Mine No. 8.

We are always pleased to welcome to our town enterprising and active young men.

Alex. Murray is improving from his recent illness under the able treatment of D. McSorley.

Rev. R. Whittington, M.A., D D., of Vancouver, Superintendent of Methodist Missions in B.C., gave a very interesting address on Wednesday evening in the school house. There was a good audience present who entered heartily into the service and were all pleased with the spirited address of Dr. Whittington. He spoke about the foundation of the early church and showed that its members were noted (1) for their obedience, (2) for their steadfastness, (3) unity whiah resulted in the outporing of the spirit. He also stated that if the same principles prevailed amongst Christians to-day, there is no question regarding the fact Christianiiy would witness greater and grander triumphs throughout the world. The Doctor left on Friday morning for the west.

Mrs. D. Ricker of the Loop is the guest of Mrs. Fraser.

The Ejectment Cases

The actions of ejectment which were recently brought by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. against Messrs. Kanouse, Milloy and Carosella, to assert the Company's title to land occupied by squatters, have been amicably settled. The plaintiff Company sued for possession of the land and the above defendants put in a defence but subsequently proposed to the Company to settle to which the Company answered that costs of the action must be paid by defendants in each case. In the matter of Carosella & Milloy possession of the lands must be given and the buildings must be removed immediately. Mr. Kanouse was given three options and decided to rent and a lease was given to him for six months and before the expiration of that time the buildings must be removed unless the Company decides to renew the lease. It appears that the defendants had been all served with notices to quit and requested to call at the Coal Co's office to arrange terms of lease as the form of lease to which some of the alleged squatters objected to was voluntarily changed by the Co. to suit the views of the defendants. None of the gentlemen called on the Company to negotiate for a lease before action was brought.

The Company, we are authoratively informed intend taking immediate steps to compel all other squatters on lands claimed by the Company, who have not already taken leases, to vacate the lands occupied or accept leases on the Company's terms.

Lord Sholto Douglas, brother of the Marquis of Queensbury, purchased a saloon in Spokane, and will run it till he goes broke. He created a sensation some years ago by marrying a music hall singer in Spokane, who was a native of Moorefield, a hamlet in Wellington County, Ontario.

A LARGE COAL OUTPUT.

Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company is Mining 2,500 Tons a Day.

Nelson Miner.

Among the guests at the Phair is T. C. Thompson, accountant and land commissioner for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., who is in the city on a business visit. In speaking about the affairs of his company Mr. Thompson says that the output of coal is very satisfactory and there is a steady increase from the collieries of both Coal Creek and Michel, under the very able management of T. R. Stockett.

In relation to the output of coal Mr. Thompson said: "We are now mining close on to 2,500 tons of coal per day of 16 hours. The coke capacity of our 636 ovens, all of which are not in operation, is about 850 tons a day, and should soon reach the 1000-ton per day mark. Only about 200 tons of coke a day is being taken by the British Columbia smelters, but we are expecting to market largely increased shipments to the Granby, Trail and Nelson smelters, owing to recent enlargements in these plants. The Granby plant alone is likely to require 200 tons per day. In addition to this we have in prospect the Midway, Ferguson and Marysville plants, from each of which we hope to receive big orders for fuel before a great while. In fact the outlook for an increase in the consumption of our products is very bright.

"Fernie," continued Mr. Thompson, "is very prosperous. There is an immediate prospect of an understanding being reached with the government in reference to the townsite interests: when this is done it will be of great benefit to the town, and will tend to allay the apprehension that has existed for some time past.

"The development work on the Morrissey creek colliery is being pushed with vigor and the company hopes to be able to commence shipments from there some time this fall.

"From Michel coal of an excellent quality is being shipped in large quantities. The coal is so good that some of our customers prefer it to any other," concluded Mr. Thompson.

FERNIE LIBERAL ASSOCIATION

A meeting of the Fernie Liberal Association was held in Princess Hall, Tuesday evening, Feb. 18. There was a very good attendance of representative Liberals and ten new members were proposed and accepted. President Stork addressed the meeting and gave a very interesting account of the doings of the Liberal convention recently held at Vancouver, and in concluding moved the following resolution, which was seconded by H. Purdy:

"Be it resolved that we the Liberals of Fernie do strongly protest against the trickery and the unjust manner in which the Liberals of East Kootenay were defrauded of their fair representation in the Vancouver convention and be it further resolved that ample evidence has been secured to show that the convention was packed and did not represent the Liberal party of British Columbia, therefore the Fernie Liberal Association does not consider that the action of the so-called convention is in any way binding on the Liberal party of the province."

On motion of Dr. Higgins, seconded by Mr. Coulthard, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered President Stork for the very able manner in which he had represented the Fernie Liberal Association at the Vancouver convention and that the Association fully endorse his action thereat.

Dr. Higgins suggested a scheme to hold a mock parliament at an early date to which the public be invited and a committee be appointed, consisting of Dr. Higgins, H. H. Trites and F. J. Watson to make the necessary arrangements and to report at the next regular meeting. On motion of H. H. Trites, seconded by Robert A. Kerr, the meeting adjourned till Tuesday night, Feb. 25.

POLICE COURT

The examination of Payne, Gabriel and Bride was continued on Tuesday morning before S. M. Armstrong. A number of witnesses for the prosecution gave evidence principally in reference to the signatures of a pile of correspondence.

A. E. Warren, accountant at the London & Liverpool, was an important witness. He identified a number of letters and signatures and said there was no vacancy of any kind in the London and Liverpool store. There was no position vacant in the dry goods department. They had authorized no person to engage clerks for them. There was no vacancy as manager of the dry goods department in Mr. Trites' store.

Sherwood Herchmer also identified a large number of signatures, which were admitted by the defence.

H. W. Barnes' evidence dealt principally with the arrest of the accused. They were under suspicion and surviellance on account of the enormous amount of mail they were receiving in reply to the advertisements in the eastern papers which it was suspected were fraudulent. He had wired the P.O. Inspector for instructions but had not received any when he was informed on the night of the arrest that one of the accused was preparing to leave town on an early freight train. He swore out information and had the three men arrested and searched their boarding place and found the correspondence which had been produced. He also intercepted a letter from the accused by virtue of his authority, which was given to one of the constables to mail.

H. J. Johnson was called to prove the validity of a certain postal note in which the payee's name had not been filled. This note was the one mailed by Whyte, of Calgary, one of the principal witnesses for the prosecution, the defence claiming that it was not evidence. The postmaster's evidence was that the note would have been paid to the defendants on his being satisfied that they were the proper persons to receive payment.

The case for the prosecution was here closed. W. R. Ross, counsel for the defense, made a strong argument for the dismissal, on the ground that the Court had not jurisdiction, and also no prima facie evidence had been brought to prove the criminal intent.

H. W. Herchmer, for the Crown, submitted that the Court had jurisdiction, and that a very strong case had been made out. He quoted extracts from the letter intercepted by Constable Barnes, in which they stated that they had no authority from any firm or persons to act for them in filling vacancies, and that the advertisements were misrepresentations of facts and they could not produce any firms that required these men advertised for.

Stipendiary Magistrate Armstrong reserved his decision till Thursday night.

The Court sat on Thursday night and adjourned till Friday afternoon. Mr. Ross, counsel for the defense, decided to put in evidence, and called G. R. Payne, who made a voluntary statement, detailing the objects of the Kootenay Association, and the methods pursued in carrying out the scheme. Nothing new was elicited, however, as the text of his statement had been previously brought out in evidence.

Edwin L. Bride was sworn, and corroborated Payne's statement, and gave a lot of testimony in reference to the affairs of the Association.

C Hacking gave evidence as to Gabriel's actions at the depot on the night of Feb. 5th, which led up to their arrest.

Counsel for defense also put Gabriel in the box and Robert Hamilton operator at the station, who gave similar testimony to Hacking except that he described a little by play that took place in the office. Hacking being an operator, attracted his attention on the wire, telling him by the Morse Code that his visitor was one of the parties the police had under surviellance. The case for the defense closed by Counsellor Ross giving a statement under oath as to his knowledge of Bride. Mr. Ross made a very able defense in the case throughout and his closing address to the magistrate was a very fine effort.

Mr. Herchmer for the prosecution submitted that the defense had not bettered their position and asked for a committal. Magistrate Armstrong found that there had been a prima facie case made out in all the essentials of false pretense and therefore committed the accused for trial at the Nelson assizes. Mr. Ross asked for a modification of the amount of bail, which was granted, the accused being bound in $300 sureties with an additional $300 outside sureties.

HOCKEY

"A. J. Purdy has received seven solid gold lockets which are to be given to the individual players of the Crow's Nest Pass League. They are very handsome trinkets of which the fortunate wearers can be proud. Now boys, brace up and don't let them go away from Fernie.—Fernie Free Press."

Our hockey boys have something to say about that down here.—Pincher Creek Echo.

Go to 'em ye Fernie boys. Make "Mulligan" of the prairie giants.

This spring weather looks bad for the wind-up in the hockey league. Will you divide the pot with us and deal 'em over again next year?

The seeond game of Hockey in the league series on Fernie ice was played Monday night between the Cranbrook and Fernie teams. It was sure "sloppy weather," the ice being very soft and good hockey was out of the question. The Cranbrooks brought down only six men and by mutual consent six lined up on each side. The players were:

CRANBROOK		FERNIE
McDermott	Goal	Miller
Dowsley	Point	McLean
Prest	Cover	Kastner
Ross	Forwards	Beaubier
Swinarton		Coulter
Cameron		McMurphy

The first half the home team had the best of the play, the combination play and shooting being much better than the visitors and at the call of time the score was 3-2 in favor of Fernie. The last half was tame with no particularly good playing on either side, which can be accounted for by the soft condition of the ice. It was a pushing game all the way, neither side being able to get the rubber off the ice and the game ended 4 to 3 in favor of the coal diggers. Bert Donahue refereed the game faultlessly. G. A. Leitch was goal umpire for Cranbrook and Ed. Wriglesworth for Fernie.

Herman Tewsic, of Milwaukee, broke the world's record for half mile backward skating at Milwaukee, Feb 18. He skated the distance in 1.12, the previous record being 1.30 1-5.

Director of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company Refutes a Slander upon it

Mr. Robert Jaffray, of Toronto, was in the city yesterday. Asked regarding the recent attacks of the Mail and Empire on the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. he stated that that paper had been compelled within the past few days to retract its malicious statements. Instead of Mr. J. J. Hill controlling the stock of the company with an interest of 54 per cent., he held only 30 per cent. of the stock, and was not represented on the board of directors by a single man. Mr. Hill had no doubt interested himself in the Company in order that he might be more certain to find a supply of coal for his railway, even as the company had been glad to find a market, through Mr. Hill, for the surplus coal and coke it could not dispose of north of the boundary line.—Montreal Herald.

The estimates of the Federal Government which were brought down on Monday show a total of $53,361,638, as against $59,524,745 for the past year. The appropriations for various improvements in British Columbia amount to $60.000.

The bye-election held in Lisgar, Man., on the 20th, resulted in D. A. Stewart, Liberal, being elected by an overwhelming majority over Richardson, Independent and Toombs, Conservative.

GEO. LEVASSEUR IS DEAD.

A good citizen of Fernie and a good man has passed away. The death of Geo. Levasseur has cast a gloom over this town that will not quickly fade away. When it became generally known that Mr. Levasseur was seriously ill and that hopes of his recovery were very slight, the expressions of feeling and regret that were heard on every hand could not be mistaken for anything but genuine sympathy and sorrow. The deceased had not been feeling well for three or four days before retiring to his bed on Thursday night, 13th inst. The symptoms of the dread disease pneumonia were unmistakable and all that skilful medical treatment and unremitting care could do were not equal to cope with the disease. From the first the disease gained, and the strong man who apparently had many years of usefulness before him, was gradually sinking till the end which came at 4:15 Friday morning. A kind husband and father, a loveable, big-hearted man, one of Fernie's best citizens has passed into the shadows of the Great Beyond, and his memory will long be revered by the friends that are left to mourn him.

We believe we are speaking the sentiments of every citizen of Fernie in saying that he was a man without an enemy, while his friends were as like sands on the seashore. In extending to his bereaved wife and relatives our sincerest sympathy in this their hour of trial we include the entire community in this expression of feeling for the living! for the dead, green be the turf above him. The remains were conveyed to Pincher Creek on Friday night for interment, accompanied by twenty-five prominent citizens.

Geo. Levasseur was born in Madawaska New Brunswick, Dec. 25th, 1854, and removed with his father to Montana when he was 14 years of age. Educated at Missoula, Mont., and when still a lad started to work driving stage on the old Missoula and Pioneer route, continuing at this for about a year. He then worked for Jack Demars, an old frontier pioneer, for three years, in the meantime getting together a bull team of his own. He went to Fort Benton in 1874, and in partnership with Jim Jones, went into freighting to Helena, and later to old Fort Macleod. In the winter of 1876 he joined Capt. Jack Kilaly's outfit, who was a subcontractor for I. G. Baker & Co. He sold out his freighting outfit in the spring, and located at Macleod, and was employed by H. A. Kanouse, at present proprietor of the Waldorf hotel in this town, for two years breaking horses. He subsequently entered into partnership with his brother-in-law, Harry Stedman, in Old Macleod, in the livery business. He went east in 1884 to his home and married Miss Pellitier, the result of the union being seven children, four of whom are dead. The eldest boy, a lad of 17, is at college in Maine, the two little boys at home.

Returning to the West he built, in partnership with his brother-in-law, what was known as the "big barn" in New Macleod. He afterwards bought a ranch at Pincher Creek, which is still part of his estate. During construction he had a big logging contract at Hosmer, after filling he moved camp nearer Fernie, and in 1898 located where Fernie now stands, and carried on a successful hay and feed business. In 1899 the Alberta hotel was his next business venture, taking out a license the same time as his old friend H. A. Kanouse.

The Alberta was found to be too small, and was enlarged to over double its previous capacity, and now stands as a monument to the industry and business enterprise of the man who started life on the frontier, and has witnessed the wonderful growth and prosperity of the land of his adoption in all its varying phases. He had always a warm spot in his big heart for the old land he left when a youth, and was planning a visit there in the near future. In politics Mr. Levasseur was a staunch Liberal, and one of Sir Wilfred Laurier's warmest admirers. A prominent and active member of the Board of Trade, he was always found in the front when any matter of public interest affecting the welfare of Fernie was projected. He died in the Catholic faith and leaves three brothers and one sister besides his wife and children, to mourn his loss. Joseph is a priest at Madawaska, Henry is in Montana, and Frank, who was at his bedside, resides on the ranche at Pincher Creek. His sister is a nun in the Madawaska Convent.

SPIDER'S CHAPS

BY WOLCOTT LE CLEAR BEARD

A TALE OF THE CATTLE THIEVES OF AGUA CALIENTE.

Copyright, 1900, by W. Le Clear Beard.

Before reaching the conclusion there was an earnest debate, which Spider followed most anxiously. When the decision was reached, Spider, knowing that every hand would be required in the herding, begged to be allowed to form one of the force, and, after consultation with the foreman and the Ballet Girl, I consented, and as a temporary measure Spider was taken on as a cowboy

This was a season of joy to Spider As the glad tidings reached him he became so exultant that he was unendurable At our earnest request he subsided somewhat after awhile and after he had gone about from man to man trying to borrow the necessary equipment —horse and saddle—for the crossing on the following morning We thought we had heard the last of him and were just about to turn in when a sputtering howl from Hollis was followed by a volley of bad language that was unmistakably directed at Spider. The gist of this language seemed to be that he (Hollis) was poisoned. The investigation that immediately followed proved that this was not true. It was only that Spider had discovered in some way the hiding place of a carefully hoarded bottle of whisky belonging to Hollis. Emptying the whisky on the ground, Spider had filled the bottle with a mixture of his own invention, the nature of which did not transpire, except that kerosene was one of its more prominent features. Consoling himself in advance for the hard work that the next day would bring, Hollis had taken some swallows of this mixture before he discovered what it was that he was drinking. Then followed the remarks to which I have referred

To these remarks Spider made answer, averring that they were entirely uncalled for, as the quality of the liquor had been rather improved than otherwise, but that he supposed that Hollis must be incapable of judging.

Hollis became annoyed at this and indulged in further language, which was only hushed when at last Spider was captured and expiated his crime by a frantic dance, inspired by a well plied lariat end. Then the camp was at peace for the night.

CHAPTER II.

IN WHICH SPIDER SAVES HIS ENEMY'S LIFE

Back of the narrow flat that bordered the river rose cliff of shining, black basalt, form' , the edge of the tableland, or mesa, as it is called, which stretches away for hundreds of miles, a treeless, arid plain that reaches out of the United States nearly half way through Mexico On the edge of this mesa our camp had been made, and here on the morning set for the crossing the great herd was gathered.

Since long before daylight the cowboys had been riding hard, galloping

He waved his hand as he passed me.

and shouting madly as they brought hurrying in the stragglers that had wandered up or down the river Every man was trying to do the work of three men Mounted on a gentle pony, and leaning hard on one stirrup to ease the other foot, I tried to help, but with an arm in a sling and an ankle incapacitated one does not succeed well in herding cattle

A couple of cattle had broken away from the herd, and I was trying to chase them back I failed signally. I could not follow their twists and turns, on account of my ankle, which was hurt by the pressure against the stirrup every time my horse suddenly changed the direction in which he was going. I had nearly given up when Spider, his pony on the keen jump, flashed by and took up the pursuit. He waved his hand as he passed me and tried to shout, but his throat was filled with dust, and the nearest he could come to his usual shrill cheer was a sort of spluttering gasp

In a very few minutes the cattle were safely reunited with the herd. I had never seen Spider work with cattle, and his ready skill surprised me. Certainly he showed none of the awkwardness of which the Ballet Girl had complained. I was returning to the herd, when Spider emerged from the cloud of dust that surrounded it and cantered forward to meet me

"Look a-yer!" he cried in a tone of authority as soon as he was close enough to be heard "You ain' got no business here You ain't no good, nohow, in the shape like you are, an you'll only do yourself up worse Go up on that there little rise, where you can see everything an won't hurt yerself Me'n the boys, we'll tend ter the cattle all right."

Spider's command that I should retire was so plainly prompted by a solicitude for my welfare that I could not have resented his tone even had it not amused me as it did. Besides, he was perfectly right I was of no use whatever in the herding. Evidently intending to see that his orders were fully carried out, Spider rode by my side as I slowly cantered toward the rise that he had pointed out to me. Though the stirrup leathers of the borrowed saddle were far too long for him, though they were pulled up as far as they would go, and though the saddle itself was so large that it would have had room in it for several boys of Spider's size, still Spider rode superbly I saw that when he was after those cattle The pony he was riding on was one of my own, and though Spider had had the choice of several he had chosen the most unmanageable animal of them all. Cappy Lee was the last man who had attempted to ride the brute He had been promptly bucked off He told me afterward that he had turned a somersault so quickly that he had seen the canvas patch that decorated the back of his trousers.

"How does the pony carry you, Spider?" I asked as we rode along together.

"Like a bird. Concho an me's ol' frien's. He like some. He won' try no funny business when I'm ridin 'm," replied Spider, with a happy grin, as he leaned forward and patted the pony's neck Concho generally carried his ears pointing directly toward his tail. He rolled the whites of his eyes in acknowledgment of the caress and cocked his ears for an instant; then he laid them back again. To me his conduct was not reassuring.

"If I were in your place, I wouldn't try any of those tricks of yours," said I. I was speaking only of tricks of horsemanship, but Spider misunderstood me.

"You ain't seen me doin no tricks terday, I reckon," he said in a tone that showed that he was rather hurt at what I said. "You ain't a-goin ter see none, neither. I'm herdin now. It's business, an I'm in it fer all I'm worth. You watch'n see'f I ain't. I mus' go back now." Wheeling around on his hind legs, Concho bucked himself toward the herd as I mounted the rise to which I had been bound.

The lean, hungry looking cattle gathered on the plain were blended into an indistinguishable mass by the thin cloud of dust that hung over them, thrown up by their hoofs as they pawed the loose sand. Here and there flashed a glint of dull light, where the sunlight that filtered through the dust was reflected from a tossing horn. With intervals between them, cowboys galloped around the herd, half of them going in one direction, half in the other. They passed in front of the herd and then vanished around its back, when they could only be distinguished by the pillar of dust, thicker than that overhanging the herd, that followed each man as he rode

A little to one side the foreman sat on his horse, with Spider close by him Then, evidently directed by his chief, Spider galloped over the plain and passed into the gorge that made a passage between the cliff and the river flat The foreman cantered up to me.

"I reckon we better get this here job done about as quick as we know if we're goin ter do it," he said as he came within speaking distance. "We'll have ter drive 'em all ter once too. The river's risin, an ther won' be no time ter split 'em up into bunches, an then get 'em over one bunch at a time like we oughter Can't say how far the water'll rise er how long it'll stay riz, now it's started. I jus' sent the kid ter look at a watermark I set an hour ago. Here he comes, now " As he spoke Spider rode up

"Here's yer stake," said he, holding the notched stick up for inspection. "Water was a han an a half over it when I got there. Stake was clean outer sight, an I had ter hunt for it."

"Ye see," said the foreman, turning to me. "We'll sure have ter go er get stuck here. Reckon we'd better get things a-movin. Whatjer think?"

Difficulty is a severe instructor set over us by the supreme ordinance of a parental guardian and legislator, who knows us better than we know ourselves, as he loves us better, too. He that wrestles with us strengthens our nerves and sharpens our skill; our antagonist is our keeper.

Under a law passed two years ago the Hungarian government may subsidize almost any kind of manufactury.

Of the soldiers in the American Civil war 48 per cent. were farmers.

Men of virtue, though of different interests, ought to consider themselves as more nearly united with one another, than with the vicious part of mankind, who embark with them in the same evil concerns. In short, we should esteem virtue though in a foe, and abhor vice though in a friend.

It takes a woman's dearest friend to tell her the things she doesn't want to hear.

If some men went as far as they pay they wouldn't get far.

Reading is one of the greatest consolations of life. It is the nurse of virtue; the upholder of adversity; the prop of independence; the support of a just pride; the strengthener of elevated opinions; it is a shield against the tyranny of all the petty passions; it is the repeller of the fool's scoff and the knave's poison.

Words that burn should be insured. This suggestion is gratuitously handed to spring poets.

It is an easy matter for a police justice to get a fine reputation.

COLDS THAT WILL NEVER BE CURED

Are Being Contracted Every Day—The Treatment Prescribed By An Eminent Medical Author and Physician—Timely Action the All Important Point in Treating Colds.

"Colds that will never be cured." A startling sentence, but you know it to be true. Scarcely a day passes but some death from consumption, pneumonia or similar ailment emphasizes the truth of this statement. It is well to remember that a newly-contracted cold can, in almost every case, be cured. It is the neglected cold that leads to death—the cold that runs on an on—the cold that is added to by fresh colds from time to time.

But what treatment is to be chosen from the great number of remedies that are recommended? You can use common sense in buying medicine, just as you can in the purchase of a piano, a bicycle or a sewing machine. Find out what treatment has the best record in the past, apply the test of time and get the opinion of people who know from experience.

If you apply this test to medicines for coughs, colds and similar ailments, you will select Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, because of the extraordinary merits which it possesses, and which have become known to the public generally through years of trial. The sales of this remedy are far in excess of any similar preparation, and have never been so large as during the present season. These two facts are, we believe the strongest evidence that can be produced in verifying the merits of any remedy that has been thoroughly tested for years.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is prized especially because of its far-reaching effects, even in the most serious cases of bronchitis, whooping cough, croup and asthma. It is not a mere relief for coughs, but acts on the whole system thoroughly curing the cold and removing chest pains, soreness of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and all inflammation of the respiratory organs.

Just a word of warning. There are other preparations of turpentine and linseed put up in imitation of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. To be sure you are getting the genuine, see portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the wrapper Twenty-five cents a bottle, family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

It is not till after a man has married a woman that he hears her express any fears of "losing her individuality."

RHEUMATIC PAINS

CAUSED BY AN IMPURE CONDITION OF THE BLOOD.

Liniments and Other Old Fashioned Remedies Will Not Cure—The Rheumatic Taint Must Be Removed From the Blood.

The lingering tortures of rheumatism are too well known to need description, but it is not so well known that medical science now recognizes that the primary cause of rheumatism is impure or impoverished blood. The result is that hundreds of sufferers apply external remedies which cannot possibly cure the trouble. The only thing that will really cure rheumatism is an internal medicine that will enrich the blood and free it from rheumatic taint. The surest, quickest and most effective way to do this is to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which are proved to have cured thousands of cases of rheumatism, many of them after all other medicines had failed. The case of Mr. Philip Ferris, one of the pioneers of South Essex, Ont., is proof of this. Although Mr. Ferris is 76 years of age he is as smart as many men of 50. But he has not always enjoyed such good health. Mr. Ferris has the following to say about his illness and cure: "For fifteen years I suffered greatly from rheumatism. At times I would have severe pains in the knees, while at others the pain would spread to my hips and shoulders. I tried several remedies which were of no avail until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took eight or ten boxes and they completely cured the trouble and I am now as smart as many men much younger. I have a great deal of faith in the pills for I know of other cases where they have been equally as successful as in mine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make new, rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves with every dose. It is in this way that they cure such troubles as rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, kidney and liver troubles, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance and erysipelas. Through their action on the blood they restore the color to pale and sallow cheeks and cure the ailments that make the lives of so many women miserable. The genuine always have the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on every box. Sold by all dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

For a Lame Back!

A lame back means that dull, aching pain over the small of the back, or the "catch" which takes you as you arise from stooping. That and all the symptoms of general debility and lost vitality which usually go with it I cure with my new appliance. Lumbago, Sciatica, Rheumatism—I conquer them all in a few days.

Dr. McLaughlin—Sir: In regard to your Belt for lame back, I can say this:—I have found it just as you represented it to be, and a little better. Its weight in gold would not buy it if I could not get another like it. I have been troubled with my back since I was 17 years of age, and am now 33. Yours very truly,
D. H. MARACLE, Shannonville, Ont.

Any man or woman who will secure me can have my appliance and pay when cured I ask no pay in advance.

Dr. McLaughlin's Electric Belt

You have heard of my Belt; your neighbors are being cured by it. It has taken me twenty years to learn how to employ electricity right, and I give you the results of my experience in my modern appliance. It gives a glowing heat—no burning, no shock. Cures while you sleep.

DEATH OF THE EARL OF DUFFERIN

HE PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY AT HIS HOME IN IRELAND.

GRIEF AT THE DEATH OF HIS SON IN SOUTH AFRICA HASTENED THE END.

London, Feb. 13.—The Marquis of Dufferin, former governor-general of Canada, and who filled many high diplomatic posts in the British service, died early yesterday morning at his residence at Clandeboye, County Down, Ireland.

Lord Dufferin had been long in ill-health. He passed away peacefully after a night of total unconsciousness.

enced as the result of the death of his son, Lord Ava, in South Africa; and the failure of the London and Globe Finance corporation, limited, and kindred companies of which he was a director, completed his breakdown.

Frederick Temple Hamilton Blackwood, P.C., K.P., G.C.B., G.C.S., G. C.M.G., G.C.I.E., D.C.L., LL.D., F.R. S., lord lieutenant of County Down, rector of Edinburgh university, and hon. colonel 3rd Batt. Royal Irish Rifles, was born on June 21, 1826, being therefore 76 years of age. He was educated at Eton and Christ Church, Oxford. He had the honorary degree of D.C.L. at Oxford, LL.D at Cambridge, Harvard, Trinity College, (Dublin), Glasgow, McGill and Laval.

He began his diplomatic career in 1855, when he was attached to a special mission to Vienna; he went on a similar errand to Syria in 1859-60. He entered the government as under secretary of state for India in 1864, and held various portfolios until 1872, when he was appointed governor-general of Canada. After completing his term here he served at various courts as ambassador, and then went to India in 1884 as viceroy, and since then his time has been largely occupied in France in the diplomatic service, where he was a remarkable favorite.

The Marquis of Dufferin and Ava was a very extraordinaty man, and to attempt to encompass the events of such a career as his within the limits of an ordinary newspaper article would be to attempt the impossible. He was a scholar and a diplomat, an orator and a doctor of civil law, a classic and an Oriental scholar, a fellow of the Royal and several other learned English societies, a sailor and an athlete, a traveller, a delightful story teller, a poet, an artist, and in many other ways his varied accomplishments and multiform talents manifested themselves. He swayed the destinies of English dominions in each of four continents in turn, and Australia alone knew him not in a gubernatorial sense. It would require the pen of Macaulay to do justice to such a career and character as these facts indicate.

Thirty years have passed since he was appointed governor general of Canada, and twenty-five since the termination of his tenure of office; but the people of this country still refer in affectionate terms to the "golden age of Dufferin." No other governor placed himself so in contact with the condition of the people and country generally as he; ior he traversed it from end to end, studying the necessities of the time. His efforts alone were responsible for modernizing the fortifications of Quebec, the Queen paying for the same out of her privy purse as a result of his representations. His beautiful contributions to our literature have placed Canadians under a debt of gratitude which must broaden and deepen as the years roll on.

It is a matter of sincere regret that a life of such unusual brilliancy and untarnished honor should have been clouded in its closing days by financial reverses not of his own doing. The bursting of the London Globe speculations that brought ruin to many investors through the knavery of Whittaker Wright, reflected severely on Lord Dufferin as a director, though he was doubtless as free of complicity in the frauds enacted and as far above dishonorable tactics as he professed to be.

The remains will be buried in the graveyard at Clandeboye.

GORDON HAS CONFESSED.

Evidence Taken at the Preliminary Trial at Boissevain.

Boissevain, Feb. 12.—Walter Gordon has passed through the preliminary steps in the trial, on the result of which depends his life. He has been committed for trial on the two charges of murder against him, and his next public appearance will be before a jury. The startling feature of the case was the evidence taken of two confessions made by Gordon since his arrest.

Crowds surrounded the hall where the trial took place long before the hour appointed, and several women were slightly injured in the crush.

PLAN TO RELIEVE BLOCKADE.

Northwest Territories Commissioner of Agriculture Suggests Using Soo Line to Duluth.

Regina, N. W. T., Feb. 12.— Hon. G. H. V. Bulyea, Territorial commissioner of agriculture, is urging the C. P. R. to relieve the wheat blockade by utilizing the American cars now returning empty to carry grain by the Soo line to Duluth. All the wheat carried by the Canadian Northern up to Christmas was carried to Duluth, and Mr. Bulyea argues that there is no reason why a similar arrangement should not be made here. There is ample storage capacity at Duluth and inspection could be made at North Portal.

A MINER KILLED.

The first fatal accident to occur in the Frank coal district happened on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 5, the victim being Francis Can, a German-Jew, employed as a miner by the Canadian-American Coal and Coke company. Can was engaged in mining in his room 150 feet above the main entry and 1,800 feet in. Four men were working with him in hoisting and distributing shute planks. Can distributed them. While carrying one of these across the cribbing he was caught in a cave, about twenty tons of coal falling from the roof and crushing him to the floor. The men working with him came at once to the rescue, and drew him from under the coal, while Dr. Malcolmson, who was soon at hand, did what was possible for the unfortunate man. In spite of aid, however, Can never regained consciousness, dying soon after being brought out of the mine. The company and the Miners' union, of which deceased was a member, have been wiring for information of any relatives he may have. He is registered as from Butte, Mont.

A BAD ACCIDENT.

A young man named Alfred Gurney met with a serious accident last week at Cardston, while engaged in assisting to drive piles for a new bridge. In order to keep the piles perpendicular, Gurney and two other men were engaged with heavy planks resting upon the driving scaffold. When the immense hammer, weighing eighteen hundred pounds descended, the pile shivered and gave way, allowing the blow to fall upon the plank held by the unfortunate young man. The plank was snapped like matchwood, and the force of the blow sent one end of the broken plank with terrific force into Gurney's face. The blow fell directly over the eye and the bridge of the nose, and his face was crushed to a pulp. His terrible injuries rendered him unconscious for several days, but at last account he had regained consciousness and strong hopes are held out for his recovery.—Macleod Gazette.

REDUCED DUTY ON PAPER.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—The government has decided to reduce the customs duty on news printing paper from 25 per cent. to 15 per cent. ad valorem. This is the result of Justice Taschereau's inquiry into the charge of the Canadian Press association that there was a combination among the paper manufacturers.

KILLED HER BABY.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Charged with wilfully murdering her infant child, Bertha Moon, an extremely fine looking girl, was locked up at the police station last night. The girl is half-crazed from what she has endured and twice last evening at the station she was discovered black in the face, with her fingers tightly clutching her throat in an attempt to end her life. The babe was found in a vacant lot, and the girl confessed she had killed it by striking it over the head with a feeding bottle.

An explosion at Pembroke, Ont., injured two men.

GREAT BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

Agreement Between the Two Countries to Preserve Chinese Independence.

London, Feb. 12.—An important parliamentary paper was issued last night giving the terms of a practical alliance between Great Britain and Japan for the preservation of China anh Corea.

The new Anglo-Japanese alliance has created a big sensation. Newspapers published this morning vie with one another in expressing astonishment and satisfaction at the action of the government. The treaty is undoubtedly a momentous one. It puts an end to Great Britain's magnificent isolation, and a fine answer to those who fancied that British interests in China were to be neglected

The Daily Mail says: "It is no use disguising the fact that the document is aimed primarily at Russia. We are able to assert on authority which cannot be questioned that the relations of this country and the government of the czar have become regretably impaired in consequence of Muscovite duplicity with regard to the future of Manchuria. This will shortly be proved."

FOUND DEAD IN A STABLE.

R. Muscrop Dies Mysteriously on His Uncle's Premises.

Russell, Man., Feb. 13.—R. Moscrop, assistant to Veterinary Clark, here, was found dead in his stable on Tuesday evening about 6 o'clock. He had been seen within fifteen minutes previous and was apparently in his usual health. He had spent the afternoon attending a sick horse in town. Coroner A. Lanigan, of Binscarth, empanelled a jury to examine into the cause of death. The verdict was: "Death from natural causes." There was not the least suspicion of foul play or suicide. The deceased comes from Stratford.

KILLED IN A SNOWSLIDE.

Three Miners Buried Under Tons of Ice and Snow in Alaska.

Port Townsend, Wash., Feb. 13.—A disastrous snowslide occurred last Tuesday at Scowlarm, near Ketchikan, Alaska, in which three lives were lost.

Chris. Jenson, Thomas McDermott, James Lodge and Frank Arivelle, miners, were on their way to Kedichan, and when in the vicinity of Scowlarm an immense mass of snow and ice broke loose from the mountain and came crashing down. Arivelle escaped, but the other three were buried many feet under the snow.

MARRYING BY THE DOZEN.

A couple of Polish priests have been visiting the Galician settlements in this district the past two weeks, says the Prince Albert Advocate. A considerable number of the younger people have taken advantage of the visit of the reverend fathers to get married. As many as a dozen weddings have been solemnized in a day at some of the centres.

A NOVEL INDUSTRY.

Wolf raising in Nebraska is said to be a more profitable business than hog raising, says the Lethbridge News. There is a bounty of $4 on coyote or wolf scalps, and several cases have recently been brought to light in which men have raised from fifteen to one hundred animals from animals penned up, killing them in the fall and presenting their scalps for redemption.

A ROUTE TO THE YUKON.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The annual report of the railway department gives a lengthy report from D. S. O'Dwyer dealing with a feasible route to the Yukon. He says that a line can be built and equipped from Edmonton, via Teslin lake, to White Horse, for $43,520,000, and from Port Simpson to the same point, via Teslin, for $34,110,000.

WORKMEN INJURED.

St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 13.—Archie Irwin and George McBride, two men employed in the wheel works, were severely injured yesterday by the breaking of the cable of an elevator they were using. They fell about twenty-five feet. McBride's leg was broken and Irwin received a terrible gash in his head.

A YOUNG GIRL KILLED.

Toronto, Deb. 13.—Annie Cameron, the 13-year-old daughter of Alexander Cameron, a teamster, residing on Esplanade street, while trying to cross the Esplanade yesterday morning was struck by a shunting engine and instantly killed.

FIREMAN CUT HIS THROAT.

St. John, N. B., Feb. 13.—Andrew Ramsey, a fireman, cut his throat from ear to ear yesterday morning. Sickness is thought to have caused the act. He leaves eight children.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

C. P. R. EASTBOUND PASSENGER TRAIN WRECKED NEAR GOOSE LAKE.

TEN PERSONS SLIGHTLY INJURED, INCLUDING FOUR CHINAMEN.

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—A C. P. R. passenger train wreck occurred on Saturday, but without any serious results to the passengers.

It appears that while the eastbound trans-Atlantic express was coming down a grade about two miles east of Goose Lake, which is twenty miles west of Swift Current a rail broke beneath the baggage car and in a twinkling the greater part of the train was in the ditch, and the wildest confusion reigned. The cars which left the track were the sleeping, dining, first-class, tourist, colonist and baggage cars. The engine, tender, two cars of fish and the express van remained on the rails proving that the defective rail did not give way until these cars had passed over it. Most of the cars turned completely over on their side but one remained in the trucks, with a decided cant ditchward. The cars were not badly smashed, and save a complete demoralization of the windows and all breakables there was no serious damage. Out of the whole trainload of passengers only eleven persons were injured, four of whom were Chinese. There were no limbs broken, however, and all of the passengers were able to continue their eastward journey.

The names of the injured are: H. Lipscomb, of Toronto; Mrs. Reed, of Roxborough, Mass.; Albert Young, of Keewani, Wis.; a brakeman, a baggageman and newsboy, all living at Medicine Hat, and four Chinamen with unpronounceable names. The latter were bound to Montreal.

Aside from being somewhat shaken up and very badly frightened, the rest of the occupants of the train escaped without a scratch.

ACCIDENT ON THE I. C. R.

A serious accident occurred on the Intercolonial railway near Grand Lake on Friday last. One of the trains carrying passengers, who arrived on the mail steamer Ionian, was wrecked.

At the scene of the accident the sleepers show that the Pullman left the rails, running about 150 yards, turned at right angles and plunged down the embankment into the Lake through the ice. It was necessary to cut a hole through the top of the car in order to release the occupants. One woman was found lying on the floor. The injured are: Mrs. A. E. Wright, her daughter, Maggie, her son, A. E., and her sister, M. Viner, bound from Liverpool to Montreal. They were the only passengers in the Pullman, and the train proceeded.

1,000 HOMES IN ASHES.

A Ten Million Dollar Fire at Paterson, New Jersey.

Paterson, N. J., Feb. 11.—A fire swept through Paterson on Sunday, and in its desolate wake are the embers and ashes of property valued at ten million dollars.

The fire burned through the business section of the city and claimed as its own a majority of the finer structures devoted to commercial, civic, educational and religious use, as well as scores of other houses There was but a small tribute of life and injury to the conflagration, but hundreds were left homeless and thousands without employment. A relief movement for the care of those unsheltered and unprovided for has already been organized. The great manufacturing plants of the place are safe and the community, temporarily dazed by the calamity, has already commenced the work of re-organization and restoration.

ELEVEN PEOPLE PERISHED.

A St. Louis Hotel Destroyed by Fire and Several Boarders Burned to Death.

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 11.—An early morning fire, which destroyed the Empire hotel a large three-story lodging house at 2700 Olive street, occupied by men exclusively, caused the death of eleven persons and dangerously injured eight others. Ten or more who had narrow escapes from death in the fire, were more or less injured by being frost bitten. It is estimated that there were between thirty-five and forty persons in the building, and it is believed all have been acrounted for.

SHORTAGE OF CARS

The statement has beee made in several eastern papers that shipping facilities at Fernie were much hampered by lack of cars, and that in consequence the smelting and refining industries in British Columbia were impaired to a very considerable extent.

The statement, too, if allowed to go uncontradicted, would necessarily contribute to the injury of local shipping interests. In justice to the Canadian Pacific Railway, inquiry has been made at the local offices, and the information elicited from the officials that the statement has no foundation in fact. There can be and is no doubt that the present year has taxed the capacity of every trunk line in America to keep up with the enormously increased demands for rolling stock. In every great shipping centre it is well known that many industries have been seriously crippled by the utter inability of the railways to move their outputs promptly, simply because cars could not be obtained. At Pittsburg the centre of the great coal mining industry, we are credibly informed that coal shipments were absolutely impracticable for as much as ten days at a time.

Railway companirs can only exercise human foresight, and there is no company that is not eager for traffic, but the unprecedented crop of 1901 has put it beyond their power to handle the traffic as expeditiously as could be desired. The traffic originating at this point is almost entirely coal and lumber, and we have been permitted access to car reports for past several months, and cannot find in any instance where cars have not been supplied promptly, and no delay that could possibly work any injury to shippers has been in evidence.

Railway companies are always considered fair game to call down the wrath of man, but we are decidedly of the opinion that so far as Fernie is interested in the transportation problem, there is no just cause for any serious complaint.

The Court House and Jail

The attention of the Provincial Government is again directed to the accommodations afforded in this town for the administration of justice and the confinement of prisoners. For the past two weeks there have been from fifteen to twenty-five inmates of the jail herded together like animals in quarters so limited as to become unfit for human habitation. These people are not so hardened in crime that they forfeit all rights of civilized people. Most of them are in durance for comparatively trivial offences and their treatment is a disgrace to the authorities which permit it. The little cubby hole alloted to the Justice department has been crowded to suffocation nearly every day for the past two weeks and when the Board of Health condemns the shack and orders it to be destroyed it will certainly not be exceeding its powers in so dealing with a public nuisance.

The Dunsmuir Government was sustained on the first division on Thursday by a majority of two.

PREMIER Dunsmuir has signified his tention of accepting an invitation to take part in the coronation ceremonies of King Edward in June. Of course he would be present in his official capacity, but how would it be if the Premier's name is not Dunsmuir in the balmy month of roses?

COAL CREEK

As this place has never been represented in your paper I thought I would send you a few items.

A. D. McRae is making considerable preparations around his mill heae to hold the logs in the spring. He has a gang of men building a new pier under the supervision of N. K. Green, who makes an efficient foreman.

W. Wilson and family, of Edmonton, Alta., have taken up their residence here.

Geo. Moore has returned home after spending a few days with James Savage.

The C. P. R. men are busily engaged taking down the old sawmill. It is reported that the frame will be shipped to Fort William.

We understand W. A. McLeod has secured a contract from A. D. McRae. He intends putting in a camp at Hosmer at once and will cut enough logs to keep the mill running all summer. Mr. McLeod is an old lumberman, and he has secured John Woods as foreman and scaler.

The recent thaw has brought grief to Archie Waller. He had a large quantity of ice cut on the pond, and was preparing to deliver it when the water came down and carried it to the river.

Messrs. Dan McRae and Harry Morten report the coal pockets at Fernie completed, and they claim they are the best on Crow's Nest Road. These men are to be complimented on the excellent manner in which they have finished their work.

Williams Bros. say they are getting tired of "batching," and intend moving to Fernie at an early date.

Campbell and Grant are busily engaged cutting and hauling posts. They have about 25,000 ready for shipment now. Mr. Grant contemplates a trip east this spring. We can all guess what for.

The returns of the Canadian census have cast a gloom over the genial face of Patrick Kennedy. Paddy had several guesses in the contest, but his figures were too high, and he therefore failed in getting the coveted prize.

R. Cole has resigned his position as foreman of the C. P. R. planing mill. The men are sorry to lose "Bob" as he was well liked by all.

Walter Brewster and Will Smith left last week for Michel.

Wm. Loukes renewed old acquaintances here on Sunday last. He left Monday for Cranbrook.

Suicide at Elko

On Saturday evening, Feb. 15, Coroner Trites was notified that a man had suicided at Elko, and deeming an inquest necessary, proceeded to the camp Sunday morning. He investigated the matter fully and elicited the following facts: A Swede named Peter Peterson was employed as bookeeper by W. M. Martin, a subcontractor of the Grant-Smith out-fit, on the Great Northern Railway, was left in full charge of the office and works, during Mr. Martin's absence at the boundary. Immediately after Martin's departure Peterson cut loose and having some money of his own blew it in on booze. When his own bank roll was all in he tore off a chunk of the bosses, besides forging his signature to some express orders and cashing them. He then had a regular pink tea drunk. When Martin returned he was still on the rampage and was told to square away and get to work. Martin went back to Gateway and Peterson got possession of his gun and with an imaginary grievance against his employer, went gunning for him. He also expressed his intention of "smoking-up" the blacksmith, against whom he could have no possible enmity. Failing to find either of the men he was after he returned to the office and started "shooting up" the place, and finished off the day's work by lying down on his bunk and shooting himself through the head. He had been in Martin's employ for two years and was a good bookkeeper and had always faithfully performed his duties till he got fighting the booze, which coupled with remorse, was the cause of his death. He is no known to have any friends in this country. The coroner did not think it necessary to hold an inquest.

Across the Track

Some time ago a young unmarried man struck this peaceful valley and bought himself a shack across the track. The town looked good to him and he sent for his brother and family to join him, which they did in due course. Both men got work at the mines and their lives passed like "one long sweet song" until the demon jealousy crept into the once happy home. Contentment could no longer abide in the cottage so wee, so the married brother got a shack of his own and moved his household gods, but alas, the woman, uncertain, coy and hard to please would not stand for the new deal, and announced her firm determination to stay in shack No. 1, and that is the cause of this tale of woe. The husband packed the offspring over to the new domain, but wifey was obdurate and had moreover shifted her affections to the brother. Things looked bad for hubby and in his desperation appealed to Judge Trites to solve the difficulty. The Judge turned up the latest edition of the code, but couldn't fix his lamps on any clause that would just fit the case, but in an unofficial capacity suggested that the only punishment that would fit the crime, would be an appeal to the citizens and neighbors, divers and sundry, to assist him in organizing a committee to wait upon the false brother and introduce him to the all rail route from Fernie to Coal Creek, and to prevent his catching cold apply a coating of pine tree cordial to his outer works. Unless the erring female immediately takes up her lawful bed and board, this means of compelling her to forsake her paramour will very likely be adopted.

GEN. DEWET'S ESCAPE

DETAILS ON ONE OF THE MOST EXCITING EVENTS IN THE WHOLE CAMPAIGN.

DARING ATTEMPT OF THE BOERS TO BREAK THROUGH THE BRITISH CIRCLE.

London, Feb. 15.—The detailed accounts, which have just reached here of Lord Kitchener's combined movement to drive out the Boers from the enclosure of the blockhouse lines, show that the conflict was very picturesque, and that it was the most exciting incident of the whole campaign. Although apparently surrounded by an impenetrable ring of fire and steel, the Boers' dauntless bravery and dashing charges ultimately resulted in the majority's escape from the meshes of Lord Kitchener's close drawn net.

The British commander's scheme was the most extensive ever carried out during the present war. It consisted of a continuous line, more than five miles in length. Lord Kitchener, who personally directed the operations, was in close touch, day and night, with every detail of the movement.

The Boers, though hard pressed, shrank from attempting to cross the railroad, where armored trains, equipped with powerful searchlights, patrolled the line throughout the night. The train lights were supplemented by stationary searchlights. The battle of Heilbron, Orange River Colony, raged from 9 o'clock Friday night until 2 o'clock Saturday morning. Throughout the five hours a fearful ring of fire from rifles, cannon and pom-poms swept along the Britisn lines from Louwspruit to Heilbron southwest, away to Lindley and Kroonstad in holding DeWet's Boers, who made repeated attempts to Break out of the circle of troops. From behind rocks and dongas the Boers kept up a vigorous fusilade. Simultaneously others charged; but again and again were the Boers repulsed, leaving dead,wounded and prisoners in the hands of the British.

At the outset of the preparations the Boers realized that the operations were not merely an ordinary "drive," but the movement threatened them with total annihilation, and General DeWet assembled his whole force and discussed the situation with the commanders, with the result that the Boers were split up into three forces. On Thursday night 500 Boers, headed by VanCollers, rushed a force of the Imperial Light Horse. About one hundred Boers got through. The remainder, who encountered a tremendous fire, were turned back.

Friday night's conflict ebbed and swelled over an area of forty to fifty miles, in which the long hunted,harrassed and desperate men endeavored to find an outlet. The Boers at one spot got within thirty yards of the British firing line, but the barbed wire balked the burghers and forced them to retreat.

Aided by the electric searchlights, the British harrowed the surrounding territory with shrapnel shells and Maxim bullets. In the northern section the Boers made a desperate effort to break through. Collecting a number of cattle, the Boers drove them down on the British lines. Bending low in their saddles, the Boers rode amoog the cattle, making it impossible to distinguish them in the darkness. The British pickets opened a terrible fire, and the Boers were everywhere met with a relentless hail of bullets. A long line of flames, crackling like burning wood, ran up and down the firing line, nearly thirty miles in length, as the armored trains flashed their searchlights over miles of country. The report of the quick-firing guns along the entrenched line, and the booming of the field guns and pom-poms sounded very deep amid the sharp crackling of the musketry, while Heilbron fort contributed to the universal din with the deep roar of its naval gun. This lasted for some 20 minutes, when gradually the rattle died until only the crack of only a single shot was heard. Then all was again quiet. The Boers' attempt to break the British circle had failed. A few of them sucreeded in crossing the line, and among them was General DeWet.

ONTARIO PROHIBITION ACT.

It is a Copy of the Manitoba Measure—Referendum Will Be Taken on October 14.

Premier Ross, of Ontario, in submitting a prohibition measure to the legislature oo Wednesday, outlined the policy of the government in connection therewith. The bill is a copy of the Manitoba act, and the speech was delivered on a formal motion for a first reading. The policy of the government may be summarized thus :

On the second Tuesday of October, namely October 14, the electors of Ontario will be called on to say whether the measure introduced shall become law. The question will be decided by a majority of the electorate, but to validate the act the majority must be equal to a majority of the total number of the votes polled at the general provincial elections which will take place earlier in the year. Thus, of 400,000 votes polled in the general election over 200,000 must be cast at the referendum in favor of prohibition. In arriving at the total vote, constituencies in which elections take place by acclamation will be estimated as contributing to the total vote the same percentage of votess on their lists as that of the constituencies in which contests take p,ace. The decision will be left to voters qualified to vote for the provincial legislature. The question of compensation will be left over for future settlement. Should the referendum result in the enactment of the law the question of compensation must be faced by the legislature then in existence, but the ptemier intimated he considered it a suitable subject for the deliberations of a commission.

Mr. Ross at some length defended the constitutionality of the referendum, and quoted from Bourinot to show it was not out of accord with the spirit of the Canadian constitution. As to the precise method decided on of requiring a majority he had given the point much thought. There had been a disposition in many quarters to favor a three-fifths majority of those voting, but against this it might be argued that the vote might be very small, and though he had viewed this proposal with some degree of favor, he had abandoned it in favor of a bare majority, requiring however that the votes favoring a prohibition act should be at least more than half of those poting at the election. He held this to be a reasonfeeling that no earnest advocate of temperance would object to going out to rast his vote in such a cause. Mr. Ross pointed out the votes at provincial elections vary from 480,000 to about 450,000.

The men were drinking and quarrelled about a trivial matter.

PARLIAMENT OPENS

A BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

Ottawa, Feb. 14.—The ninth parliament of the Dominion of Canada was opened at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The weather was excellent and the attendance large. There were the usual ceremonies at the opening. Lord Minto, on arriving at the parliament buildings, proceeded to the senate chamber, where he took his seat upon the throne, and, surrounded by his cabinet ministers in their Windsor uniforms, military officers in their gay trappings, judges of the supreme court in their scarlet robes, clergymen in their black, and in the presence of one of the largest and most fashionable gatherings ever seen in the red chamber, his excellency delivered the SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

The speech from the throne refers, among other things, to the bountiful harvest in the Northwest, the visit of Their Royal Highnesses to Canada, and the death of President McKinley, of the United States. Of the census the speech says : "The returns of the late census will be laid before you, and while the absolute increase in the number of the population is not so great as might have been expected, the evidences of growth in wealth and in the general tokens of prosperous development are highly satisfactory. There is good reason also to believe that the increase of population during the latter half of the decade has been very greatly in excess of the average of former years, and that in the near future we may look for a more rapid growth than occurred during the period covered by the last two censuses.

The speech goes on to refer to the experiments in wireless telegraphy by Signor Marconi, saying that should the tests prove satisfactory, that the government and people of Canada will enjoy the benefits of the invention by lower cable rates.

Regarding the application of the Canadian Pacific railway to increase its capital stock, the speech says . "My ministers availed themselves of the opportunity to stipulate that the long pending question of the power of the governor-in-council to regulate the tolls of the company should be submitted to the courts for a judicial decision."

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

Quebec, Feb. 14.—The speech from the throne at the opening of the Quebec legislature refers first to the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York and the honor felt that Quebec was the first to bid them welcome, and expresses satisfaction at the way people united in giving proof of their respect and esteem for our most gracious sovereign and the royal family.

The speech then refers to the great importance of colonization, and the criticism of the different methods employed, and states that a bill will be submitted for the appointment of a special commission, with a view of finding the best method of promoting colonization and removing everything that might retard its progress without interfering with the lumber industry and other interests. Reference is made to the satisfactory results of the reforms as effected in educationalism, and the advantage taken by many schools of the free distribution of school books and maps.

Reference is also made to the fact that notwithstanding several unforeseen expenses, the balance in the treasurer's hands on July 1 was still larger than the previous year.

NOVA SCOTIA LEGISLATURE.

Halifax, Feb. 14.—The legislature was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor Jones. Thomas Robertson, member for Shelbourne, was elected speaker. Attorney-General Longley is acting premier. The speech from the throne spoke of the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, the completion of the Midland railway from Windsor to Truro, the proposed South Shore line, and matters of minor importance were also mentioned.

A BRAKEMAN INJURED.

Fort Wil,iam, Feb. 14.—John McLean, a brakeman on the C. P. R., had his foot crushed so badly at Mackenzie, a small station ten miles east of here, yesterday, that it was necessary to amputate the foot. Mr. Lean was on the ground throwing the switch, and as the train passed he attempted to swing on to one of the cars. In some way his foot caught, and he was drawn directly under the wheels.

The Canadian Northern Railway has constructed a first class wagon road from Erwood, the present end of its track, to Prince Albert,through Melfort and the Carrot river settlement. The length of this road is ninety miles.

SHOT HIS HIRED MAN.

A Farmer and His Man Fight Over a Five-Dollar Bill.

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 14.—Fred.Hardis, a laborer in the employ of John Francis, a farmer on the Tecumseh road in Sandwich East township, was shot by his employer on the farm yesterday. mardis is said to be fatally injured. The ball entered the shoulder and passed downward into his lungs.

Immediately after the shooting Francis came to Windsor and laid information against Hardis, charging him with attempt to do bodily harm. Francis claims that Hardis and he quarrelled over a $5 bill ; Hardis attacked him with an axe ; he took the axe from Hardis, and the latter came at him again with a club. Francis says he then went into the house and got his rifle; that the quarrel continued and that the weapon was discharged in the scuffle. Hardis fell, and was unconscious from loss of blood when Dr. Fournier, of Tecumseh village came to his assistance.

ANTI-VACCINATIONISTS.

They Accept a Challenge to Prove Their Objections.

Minneapolis, Feb. 14.—Health Commissioner Hall, who has become wearied of the efforts of the anti-vaccinationists to escape and prevent vaccination, issued a challenge to those who believe vaccination is objectionable to produce two of their number for duty at the quarantine hospital, where there are a score or more afflicted with the disease.

None of the present staff of nurses have had smallpox but all have been successfully vaccinated and none have contracted the disease during the three months of their service among victims. Dr. Hall claims that the efficiency of vaccination can now be proven by having two unvaccinated nurses put on duty. The anti-vaccination people have decided to accept Dr. Hall's challenge and have promised to produce two women for duty who have never been vaccinated. The anti-vaccinationists believe their nurses will prove as immune to the disease as have the others. The opponents of vaccination have appealed to the courts and been beaten. Many in the Twin cities are keeping their children from schools rathern than submit to compulsory vaccination. They accordingly were willing to jump at the chance Dr. Hall has given to prove what they believe the experiment will show.

SHOT A LARGE BEAR.

L. M. Ward, of Minneapolis, who has been on a trip through Manitoba and the Northwest looking for land, is taking home with him a most valuable and interesting trophy of his visit in the shape of an immense black bear, which he killed last week north of Dauphin. The animal is a beautiful specimen, and attracted a large crowd of spectators as it lay stretched out on the Canadian Northern depot, Winnipeg.

YOUNG MEN, BEWARE !

A young gentleman went to visit a young lady recently not far from Minnedosa, and staying a little late, she got tired, and could not prevent a yawn. MARKETS

WHEAT.

It has been another dull week in the wheat trade, slightly relieved on Thursday by an advance of about ¾c per bushel in the American speculative markets, but on Friday these markets were quite dull again and through lack of support the previous day s advance was more than half lost. On the week, however, there is an advance of ⅛c to ⅝c, as compared with the closing quotations of last week.

Crop news for the week shows no change from last week, except that some complaints of damage come from Texas and Oklahoma. Most of the winter wheat crop of the States is covered with snow and the general prospects are favorable. Reports of European crops show no change from last week conditions being generally satisfactory. Australia is shiiping liberally of her new crop, but Argentine shipments are small.

Manitoba wheat has been dull all week, but steady as to price. The stoppage of shipping on the C. P. R. is a great restriction to business. In a general way prices may be said to be ½c higher than last week, and may be quoted at 70c for No. northern, and 67c for 2 northern, in store Fort William, February delivery,and for March delivery ½c higher. For May delivery sales have been made during the week at 74c to 74½c for 1 northern, and 70½c to 71c for 2 northern, in store Fort William. Prices in store, C, N. R. elevator, Port Arthur, same as Fort William. In store Duluth is worth ½c over Fort William prices. There is no business in No. 1 hard at present, but it may be quoted at 3c over 1 northern.

Country Markets—The country market is very quiet owing to lack of elevator accommodation. Where wheat is being bought prices rule from 54 to 60c a bushel.

OATS—Manitoba oats are offering more plentifully at unchanged prices. There is some demand for oats for shipment east. Car lots of No. 1 white on track or en route are quoted at 42c per bushel; No. 2 white, 38 to 40c per bushel; feed oats, 38c. No. 1 Alberta oats are worth 39c Fort William, and No. 2 Alberta, 38c. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 30 to 31c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—The market holds steady under light receipts and a good demand. Malting barley is worth 38 to 40c per bushel, and feed grades 34 to 36c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg.

HAY.—Dealers are now paying $5.00 to $5.50 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS — Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef,city dressed, 6½ to 7½c per lb ; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7¾ to 8½c.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and the market unchanged, as follows : Chickens, 7 to 9c per lb, dressed ; ducks and geese, 9c per lb ; turkeys, 11½ to 12c per pound, dressed.

BUTTER—Creamery—A few factories are shipping winter butter into the city, for which jobbers are paying 21½c net, laid down in Winnipeg.

BUTTER—Dairy—The market is pretty bare of choice butter, and there is ready sale for all offerings. The ruling price is from 20 to 22c per pound for best table butter in tubs or prints, comission basis,while seconds are not wanted at any price. There is still a quantity of old butter is stock here, which finds but slow sale.

EGGS—Receipts of eggs have been quite large during the past week, and we have to note that there is now almost a glut in the market, consequently prices are weaker, and country shippers would not net more than 18c per dozen from consignments of eggs today. The mild weathee and lack of snow keeps the hens laying, with above results. A good many bad eggs are being packed in the cases with fresh eggs by some shippers, which is neither honest nor businesslike.

HIDES.—No. 1 inspected hides, 6c; per lb delivered in Winnipeg ; No. 2, 5c; No 3, 4c; kips and calves, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horsehides 50c to $1.

CATTLE—Prime beef cattle are very scarce and in good demand. Prices hold steady at from 3¾ to 4½c per pound for best qualities, delivered in Winnipeg, and 3 to 3½c for second grades. Stockers are worth $14 to $16 for yearlings at country points, and $18 to $20 for two-year-olds.

HOGS—Receipts of hogs are mare liberal and the market has declined ½c this week, making the regular price now for packers 6¼c per lb, weighed off cars. Keen competition has had something to do with the high price of hogs this winter, and as packers find that high prices do not materially increase receipts they are getting down to a legitimate basis now.

WHEN PAW SWORE OFF.

Maw acted ofle glad the other day
That paw swore off;
She'd lots of pleasant things to say
When paw swore off.
She sed that smokin' cost a pile,
And every time I looked her smile
Seemed gettin' broader all the while—
When paw swore off.

She praised paw up, I tell you what,
When paw swore off,
And sed that now we'd save a lot,
Since pa'd swore off.
She told the Browns and Greens and Grays
About our paw's strong minded ways,
And things went nice for several days
When paw swore off.

But after 'while paw he got glum
'Cause he'd swore off;
He'd jaw us all to kingdom come;
Paw he'd swore off!
He'd set around the house at night
And look as though he'd like to fight;
They wasn't ennything went right
'Cause paw'd swore off!

One day he got to scolding maw;
Paw he'd swore off!
Um-m-m! How he did lay down the law!
And he'd swore off!
So maw she up and at him when
He'd got all through and told him then
She wished that he'd swear on agen;
Paw he's swore off
On swearing off!

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

An Opportune Gift.

A good natured, easy going German living in Chicago asked his American wife to pick out some little present for his sister in the old country. He had squandered his fortune, says The Record-Herald, but his sister still had hers and with careful Teutonic management had swelled it to a comfortable sum.

The American wife knew nothing of her sister-in-law, and she appreciated the limitations of her own finances as well as the difficulty of choosing a gift for a stranger. But she went to a repository for woman's work and discovered there a dainty bag of chamois leather embroidered with wreaths of forgetmenots and emblazoned with the one word "Money," to indicate its use as a secret purse to be worn about the neck in traveling.

It seemed an innocent little gift, but Fritz danced with delight when he saw it. "Ach, the very thing!" he cried. "I would not write and ask her—no! But 'Money' and 'forgetmenot,' ach, it is the most beautiful reminder!"

His wife, who had not thought of the matter in that light, protested and would fain have withheld the present, but Fritz was firm. It was sent to Germany at Christmas.

A few weeks later a substantial check came in acknowledgment. The sister had indeed appreciated the situation.

She Thinks He Was Ambiguous.

"You wouldn't think that I could have a daughter who is old enough to be married, would you?" she asked, simpering girlishly.

"Well," he said, "that would depend on whether I heard you talk without seeing you or saw you without hearing you speak."

She is still wondering whether he meant it as a compliment or otherwise.—Chicago Record-Herald.

RESTLESS LITTLE ONES.

Peevishness and Sleeplessness a Sure Sign That Baby is Unwell.

When babies are restless, cross, or peevish it is the surest possible sign of illness. Well babies sleep soundly and are cheerful and playful when awake. When baby is cross too many mothers give so-called "soothing" medicines, which contain opiates that deaden but do not remove the trouble. What is wanted is a medicine that will go right to the root of the trouble and make baby sleep well, eat well and be cheerful in a natural way. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets, which are sold under an absolute guarantee that they contain neither opiates nor other harmful drugs. All mothers who have used them for their little ones speak of them in terms of warmest praise. Mrs. Albert Young, Stratford, says: "My baby, who is now five months old, has always been very cross and peevish. She was very constipated and sleepless. She was a thin, delicate looking child, and cried nearly all the time. I did not know what to do with her. I tried several medicines, but they did her no good. A friend who had used Baby's Own Tablets advised me to try them. I did so, and since using them baby has been quite well, her bowels are regular, and she has grown plump and good natured. I am delighted with the Tablets and keep them on hand all the time, and whenever baby gets cross and feverish I give her a tablet and she is all right."

These Tablets are the best medicine in the world for simple fevers, colic, diarrhoea, all stomach troubles, constipation and other minor ailments of little ones. They are for children of all ages, and dissolved in water, or crushed to a powder may be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Mothers who once try them will never afterwards use any other medicine for their little ones. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid at 25 cents a box by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE GAY LOTHARIO.

Appropriate Inscription on a Lady's Present to Him.

A gay Lothario was boasting in the presence of several gentlemen about the conquests he had gained over the female heart. "Look," said he; "here's a handsome present I had from my last inamorata," at the same time handing round a beautiful cigar case.

All admired the article, which had an indorsement of its quality stamped upon it. "Very nice gift," remarked one of the company. "I perceive your ladylove even had your name put on the case."

"Well, that's queer," answered the boaster. "I never noticed it."

"Look again," rejoined the candid one. "The case is distinctly marked 'Real calf.'"—Rochester Post-Express.

COULDN'T WALK FOR YEARS.

AN ARNPRIOR MAN IS THANKFUL THAT NOW HE IS ABLE TO WORK.

Often Found Himself Unable to Lie Down Without the Greatest Pain—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Arnprior, Ont., Feb. 3.—(Special)—A very remarkable cure of Backache and Kidney Trouble has just been brought to notice at Basin Depot, near here.

Wr. J. H. Martin suffered for over eighteen years with Lame Back so that he actually couldn't walk or lie down without enduring the most dreadful pain. He tried many medicines without getting relief, and was very much discouraged.

Dodd's Kidney Pills were recommended to him and he commenced a treatment, and improved very fast from the first. As the treatment continued the improvement increased until he was able to go about his work as well as ever.

The theory so often advanced that the kidneys are the most important organs of the body and that a large percentage of the sickness and pain which humanity suffers, is due to imperfect kidney action seems to be amply proven in this particular case, for as soon as Dodd's Kidney Pills regulated and restored the natural action of the kidneys all Mr. Martin's troubles left him at once.

Many remarkable cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published, but certainly none as wonderful as that of Mr. Martin.

He has written a long letter giving the facts of his case, and his announcement that he was able to work comfortably once more after such a prolonged period of suffering, has started people wondering if there is any case of Lame Back, Rheumatism or other Kidney Trouble that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure.

The Maid Blushed.

When Mr. David Dear, winner of the queen's prize at Bisley, was a law student, he once attended an "at home." On the servant asking his name, he replied, "David Dear."

The girl blushed and said, "Yes, yes; but what is your other name, sir?"

He assured her he had no other name, but it was of no use. The servant knew better and announced him as "Mr. David."

Witty Actress.

A leading actress, who is notably well "billed" all over town and country, observed to the interviewer: "Of course I can't get on without 'billing,' and," she added slyly, "a little 'cooing.' Do I use powder? Why, of course. What do you think? And, my dear sir, I shall now depend on you—for the powder—oh, dear, no—for the puff!"

The Best of Reasons.

"Why do you bring this to me?" thundered the weary editor, thrusting the manuscript back into the hands of the poet.

"Because," replied the bard timidly, "I have no stamp."

MINING IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Mr. J. C. Drewry, Managing Director of the Canadian Gold Fields Syndicate, Rossland, was interviewed by the Montreal Herald. In response to queries as to how mining affairs were in British Columbia, he said :—

"Mining in British Columbia 1901 was carried on under most trying conditions, among which might be mentioned serious labor troubles, excessive freight and treatment charges, especially on silver-lead ores, and the remarkable fall in price of both lead and copper.

"That the industry was able to survive under these conditions is but an additional proof of the wonderful extent and richness of the mineral deposits of that Province.

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company realized the importance of keeping the mines running, so as to provide tonnage for their railway, and, to help out, have started the erection of a lead refinery in connection with their smelting works at Trail, B.C. The refinery will be ready for operation about May 15th, and although but a small plant, will be increased from time to time to meet the needs of the country. It is undoubtedly a step in the right direction, and, in the near future, the silver-lead ores of British Columbia will be smelted and refined in our own Province, building up great home industries, and resulting in substantial profits to mine owners.

"Canada is at present a large importer of white and red lead. As soon as the refinery is completed at Trail, B.C., Canada will produce her own pig lead, and naturally it will be corroded at home and turned into white and red lead, not only for home consumption, but also for export. British Columbia produces the raw material in rapidly increasing quantities, and within a few years Canada should be an important factor in supplying the white lead markets of the world. Thus it is that the development of one industry leads to the establishing of others, each doing its part towards the upbuilding of Canada, and adding to the wealth of the nation.

PROSPECTS BRIGHTER

The settlement of the labor troubles, the lowering of freight and treatment charges on silver lead ores, the recovery in price of both lead and copper, and the building of the lead refinery at Trail have all tended to materially brighten the prospects for profitable mining in British Columbia, and 1902 bids fair to be a banner year.

"There are other reasons, too, why this should be so. The mining boom came on us with a rush. Canadians knew practically nothing of mining, and were forced to depend largely on the wily American. The past five years have been years of education. Experience has been gained, but it had to be paid for. Canadians have taken up mining in earnest, and McGill and the Toronto School of Science are turning out a large number of good, honest, capable mining engineers and metallurgists, who can be deperded upon to safeguard the interests of Canadian investors and lend their valuable aid to the carrying on of mining operations on a legitimate and businesslike basis.

"The Canadian Pacific Railway Company realize the importance of the mineral industry, and have spent millions of dollars in opening up Southern British Columbia. The cost of coke is an important item in the smelting of British Columbia ores. The coke used is made by the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company at Fernie, B. C. Within the past few weeks this company have cut the price of coke down to $4, a reduction of 75c. per ton; and the C.P.R. have granted a reduction of 20 per cent. in freight on coke from Fernie to all smelters in the Province.

"These facts are mentioned to show that conditions for profitable mining are becoming more and more favorable, and lead to the belief that British Columbia is entering upon a new era of prosperity.

"Many mining stocks are now quoted at below their real value, while others are quoted at figures altogether inflated and unjustifiable. The weeding out process is steadily going on, and investors are rapidly learning to distinguish between the companies who are mining the public and those engaged in mining ores."

"PUT OUT THE FIRE"

Dr. Agnew's Ointment will relieve and cure any skin disease just as surely as it cured this soldier's Erysipelas—the first application kills the "sting."

Lieut. Bucknam, National Soldiers' Home, in Grant County, Indiana, had a very acute attack of Erysipelas. His face and head were in torment with burning and itching sensations. A druggist recommended Dr. Agnew's Ointment as the quickest relief and cure. He bought a box and found it as good as it promised, and a few applications, to use his own words, "put out the fire and less than a box entirely cured me." Price 35 cts. 7

"STIFFLED" HEART

Ever feel that every breath would be your last—that the thumping, stiffling sensations about your Heart were crushing your life out?

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the only absolutely unfailing remedy known and prescribed by eminent physicians. Its claims of potency are not heresay or false hope to the sufferer. It is not a spirit lifter to gather you up to the high pinnacle of expectancy only to drop you into a deeper mire of disease. It gives relief in thirty minutes. A few bottles cure the worst forms of heart malady. 3

LOST HIS BUSINESS!

Ill-health "puts the shutters up" in many an honest man's business, and there are thousands of cases on record where the only seeming power on earth to take them down again is South American Nervine.

"I was completely prostrated with Nervous Debility. I had to give up business—doctors only helped me temporarily. I was the most discouraged man alive when I started taking South American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had read gave me hope, and I had not taken half a bottle before I found relief. I took twelve bottles, but am cured."—E. Errett, Merrickville. 2

MALLCOTT RICHARDSON,
Secretary Department of Mines.

BOARD OF TRADE

The Board of Trade met in the Victoria Hotel, Monday evening, Feb. 24th. The meeting was called primarily to meet Mr. Joshua Davies, title adjuster. Mr. Davies made a statement that he had been sent up by W. C. Wells, Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works, to look over the situation and to report to him, with a view to arriving at a satisfactory adjustment of the titles in the townsite of Fernie. A proposition was made to the Coal Co. to settle the question, which had been wired to Toronto, and on receipt of a reply the report of the adjuster would be forwarded to Victoria and the probabilities were the Government would adopt the views of the adjuster. He went so far as to assure the Board that as far as the Government was concerned there was no doubt that the question could be easily adjusted. Mr. Davies made some remarks as to the unsanitary condition of the town and advised the adoption of the seepage system of sewerage disposal.

Mr. S. F. Wallace gave notice of motion to allow the business places to keep open on Sunday.

A committee of five was appointed to report at the next meeting as to the steps to be taken with respect to incorporation.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Davies for his efforts to promote the welfare of the town and was given authority to assure the Government that the Board of Trade of Fernie would co-operate in every possible way to adjust the titles' question.

Messrs. D. V. Mott, H. W. Herchmer, and T. C. Thompson were appointed delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade to be held at Kaslo, Feb. 26.

PLENTY OF COAL.

From a gentleman who returned yesterday from a trip through East Kootenay and Western Alberta, it was learned that there is considerable development going on to the east of Fernie, in Alberta, in the coal measures. The Canadian-American Coal and Coke Co., at Frank, is now taking out 300 tons of coal per day and within six weeks will be extracating 500 additional tons, which will make the total output of 800 tons a day. The Canadian Pacific Railway is taking most of the out-put from Frank, and the remainder is disposed of in Alberta. The company has let a contract for the construction of 250 coke ovens, and work on them is to be commenced as soon as the contractors can make the necessary arrangements.

The Fleutot syndicate is developing some coal deposits seven miles from Frank. Mr. Fleutot is at present in Paris in company with W.S. Gebo, and expects to return in a short time financially equipped to build seven miles of railway needed to connect the mines with the Crow's Nest Railway and to further open the measure.

At Blairmore considerable work has been done by the Fishbourne syndicate on their mines, and some of the coal has already been marketed. A spur three miles in length is needed to connect the mines at Blairmore with the Crow's Nest Railway.

There are a number of prospectors in that section who have coal lands of known merit to sell, but it is sometimes hard to find purchasers. In Kootenay Pass there are many thousands acres of coal land which has not yet been taken up.

The Crow's Nest Southern railway is about one third completed and it is thought it will be three and perhaps four months before it is finished. Now that the snow is melting work is making better progress than it did during the middle of winter.—Nelson Miner.

ODDFELLOWS' INSTALLATION

A lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows was instituted here on Monday night and was designated Mt. Fernie Lodge I.O.O.F., No. 47. D.D.G.M. F. E. Simpson, of Cranbrook, assisted by a large number of brethren from Cranbrook, Elko and Moyie performed the institution ceremonies, after which 21 candidates were initiated into the order and six members admitted by card.

The officers of the new lodge are Dr. C. P. Higgins, N.G.; John Campbell, V. G.; John Williams, Secretary. The charter members were Bert. Manning, H. Dunlap, John D. McLean, Jno. Williams Alex. Campbell and C. P. Higgins. After the ceremonies the brethren were invited to a complimentary banquet provided free by Bro. W. W. Tuttle and a most enjoyable time was spent around the festive board. After the cloth was removed the following toast list was the next part of the programme: The King, responded to by A. L. McDermott, Cranbrook; The Visitors, responded to by Fred Stork; Sister Lodges, responded to by R. E. Beattie, Cranbrook, and R. A. Smith, Moyie; The Press, by F. Smythe, Moyie, and M. L. Rockendorf, of Cranbrook; O. N. Ross and S. J. Morrow, Cranbrook; Southeast Kootenay, W. F. McGirr and F. E. Smith; Elks and Elko, by F. M. Wood; "I'll get all that's coming to me," F. J. Watson; The Goat, W. F. Tate and J. P. Fink; "What we have in store for our victims," H. Dunlop and J. D. McLean; the Host and Hostess.

The following visitors took part in the work of installation and initation: W. F. Tate, R. E. Beattie, J. Fink, S. J. Morrow, W. N. Clarke, R. Sliaw, S. Richards M. L. Rockendorf, A. L. McDermott and F. E. Simpson, Cranbrook; F. Smyth, Geo. T. McGregor, J. J. Murphy, R. A. Smith and W. T. Jamieson, Moyie; F. J. Moore and D. J. Johnson, Elko.

The lodge will meet every second Thursday in Joyce's Hall.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor.

Dear Sir.—Will you kindly give me space in your widely circulated and valuable paper to thank the people of Fernie for their liberal contributions in the Home Mission boxes, especially in the last quarterly collection it has beaten all past records here and also has the distinction of raising the largest amount of any town or city in British Columbia.

A very beautiful parlor lamp was given as prize for the best box holder and Mrs. J. McDonald at the mines is the winner.

No doubt it will be of interest to you to know that the Salvation Army shelters beneath the roofs of its social institutions an average of 20,000 men, women and children of the world's hopeless, helpless and otherwise uncared for every night and this money is used in supporting this branch of our work, and those who have contributed have the joy of knowing that they are helping in the glorious work of lifting this class of people out of the depths of poverty and distress that they are crushed into. I trust that He who said that a cup of of cold water given in the name of a disciple would not lose its reward, will abundantly reward all who have helped the work in this town.

Yours in the Master's service.

J. W. ANDREWS,
Financial Special.

MICHEL

A letter has arrived at this town after a very long voyage addressed to W. B. Tulldige, British Columbia, Canada. It goes well to show the efficiency of the postal staff when the letter with such a vague address is delivered to the proper person at Michel. The letter was posted the latter part of last year and has been visiting about at different towns in the hope of finding its rightful owner. It is naturally gathered from such an address that B.C. is a very small place in the eyes of Englishmen.

COAL AREA VERY LARGE

Immense Tract on the Elk River where Coal Abounds

The valley of the Elk river along which with its tributaries from the east is situated most of the coal fields of the Crow's Nest Pass, is undoubtedly destined to be one of the busiest portions of British Columbia within the present decade. The river is about 200 miles in length from its rise in the heart of the Rockies to where it empties into the Kootenay river near the town of Elko. The main coal deposits opened up so far are on Coal creek, Michel Creek and Morrisey Creek. Besides these deposits there are in the coal reserve, which stretches for fifty miles north of the Michel creek collieries, a number of places where the coal comes to the surface, and from the indications it is believed that the whole is one vast coal bed. This reserve is bounded on the west by Elk river, and on the east by the main range of the Rockies. Coal croppings are found in the foot hills running north and south. The formation is almost entirely black slate, the foothills being cut in a number of places by narrow gorges cut by streams, and along which the coal croppings are seen. Besides these a quantity of drift coal is to be found in the river and streams flowing into it.

From Michel creek to Elko the valley of the Elk is narrow and heavily timbered, the coal being found on the branch streams some distance from the main river. North of Michel creek, however, the valley widens out in some places being from five to seven miles wide, with beautiful prairie stretches on which wild hay grows luxuriently.

The amount of coal contained in this vast expanse, is, of course, beyond computation. The river itself is a swift mountain torrent, abounding in rapids as it tears along over a gravelly bed. These is but one waterfall in its course of any consequence, except at the head waters. This waterfall is close to Elko, and will provide good water power. The coal varies in its quality, and it is believed that the farther up the valley of the river it is found, the harder the coal is. The land on the western side is not open for pre-emption or sale, the Government reserve covering these rights, but on the western side most of it has already been taken up by settlers. The timber on this part of the valley is not of much value, except in patches along the mountoins, being too scattered for commercial value. Thirty miles above Michel creek, however, the timber is solid, and when the valley is opened up that far it will probably prove commercially valuable.

At Michel, where the Crow's Nest Coal company is opening up a mine and has built a large number of coke ovens, quite a lively town has sprung into existence. The mine is three miles from the junction of the Michel and Elk. There are two quarries situated at Michel from which limestone is taken to build the ovens.

From these coal lands are to be selected the 50,000 acres by the Dominion Government. In the present workings of the Crow's Nest Coal Company on Michel, Morrissey and Coal creeks alone, however, there is enough coal to supply all the demands that can be put in for some time to come from all possible sources. The region is conceded by experts to contain probably the largest deposits of coal in the world, and further exploration will likely show that all varieties of coal are to be met with in the various localities, as the fields extend from near the International boundary on the south for nearly 200 miles to the north.—Nelson Miner.

BORN

MCCUISH—In Fernie, on Sunday, Feb. 23rd, the wife of Neil McCuish, of a son.

DUDRA—At the Mines, on Sunday, February 23, the wife of J Dudra, of a daughter.

It is said that C. H. Lugrin, who recently resigned the editorship of the Victoria Colonist on account of differing with the policy of the Government, has aceepted the editorial management of the Vancouver World,

Senators Tillman and McLaurin of South Carolina indulged in a free fight in the Senate Chamber at Washington, which resulted in their suspension from all Senatorial functions, and the withdrawal of President Roosevelt's invitation to meet Prince Henry.

GENERAL NEWS.

Wm. Prest, of Galt, Ont., dropped dead, Feb 24th.

The capacity of the new C.P.R. shops at Montreal will be 120 locomotives and 2,500 cars per annum.

According to the insurance reports the fire losses in Canada in 1901 exceeded the receipts considerably.

The C. P. R. will build 200 miles of new line in Manitoba and the Territories the coming summer.

Dr. R. M. Bucke, for many years superintendent of the Insane Asylum, London, was accidentally killed on Saturday.

He was the father of M A. Bucke, late Manager of the Arlington mine, near Nelson, and who was accidentally killed in Montana two years ago.

Dr. Coventry, Medical Health Officer at Windsor, Ont., and one of the most prominent citizens of the city, died of pneumonia Feb. 23.

Walter Wilson, a well known cricketer, formerly of the C.P.R. offices in Winnipeg, and brother of C. P. Wilson, barrister, died the other day in New York.

The Chinese Commission has reported in favor of raising the poll tax to $300 for two years and after that to $500. No action has been taken in regard to the Japanese.

Roy Mundie, of the Merchants' Bank staff, captain of the Winnipeg intermediate hockey team and a prominent oarsman died in the hospital at Winnipeg this week.

Young Corbett (Wm. Rothwell) and "Terrible" Terry McGovern are matched to fight another battle on or before Oct. 25, to take place before the club offering the best inducements.

The Park Avenue Hotel, one of the big New York Caravanseries, was burned on Sunday, February 22, and twenty inmates lost their lives. Among those were W. G. Barnhardt, who formerly lived in Owen Sound and his wife, a daughter of Peter Patterson, Ex-M.P.P., of Woodstock, Ont.

Senator W. A. Clarke, of Butte, Mont., recently sold a group of mines to the Anaconda Company for a fabulous sum. Senator Clark is now said to be the richest man in the world, overshadowing the Rothschildes, Vanderbilts and Carnegie. He started mining in Montana about 35 years ago with no capital but good health and a good education. His wife is a sister of Wm. Russell of this town.

The J. G. Stuttz New York Theatre Co. have arranged to appear in Fernie in the near future. The company has visited this town before and gave a very high class show, and will no doubt receive a warm welcome. The Company is very highly spoken of by the Eastern press, as the following clipping from the Soo, Mich., News Record will show.

"J. G. Stuttz is an actor of more than a quarter of a century experience. His versatility is displayed in his rendition of the varying characters called for by the leading parts in his repertorie, comic, romantic and emotional. Miss Agnes Anderson, the leading lady, has been schooled under Mr. Stuttz's eye and her fresh natural acting, combined with personal beauty, make her an actress of more than passing worth. George Olmi is cast in the heavy roles of the company's repertorie and his commanding figure and splendid voice makes him an ideal selection for this line of parts. James Howard, the juvenile man of the company, has an assortment of qualities that fit him well for the young lovers he has to portray. He has a sympathic voice, a splendid presence and an attractive face. Miss Beatrice Gordon has won a large following here by her acting in secondary woman roles and if space would permit every momber of the company might be accorded individual praise. Mr. Stuttz pays special attention to the mounting of his plays and his productions are all fitted with special and appropriate scenery, for which he carries a special scenic artist. The dates will be announced in due course.

A GRUESOME ERROR.

A recent Chicago dispatch says: Firemen who groped their way through fire and smoke and dragged six dead bodies into the street from Bennet hospital at Ada and Fulton streets, carried on their heroic labor in the belief that they were rescuing persons who had been asphyxiated, and not until the flames had been subdued did they learn that they had been in the dissecting room of Bennett Medical college, and that the rescued bodies were from the dissecting table of the school in that condition.

Several of the cadavers were clothed having been brought to the school in that condition. One cadaver was incinerated. The dissecting room and laboratory of the college were destroyed, entailing a loss of $5,000. A score of patients in the hospital were badly frightened, but none were injured. The firemen had supposed that the building was used exclusively for hospital purposes.

THE FAMOUS R. I. C.'s.

The Dublin Metropolitan police, like the Royal Irish Constabulary, are directly under the control of the government, but they are a civilian, and not a military body. The R. I. C. are essentially a military police. They are drilled as soldiers, and though they ordinarily carry only the baton, they are armed on occasion with revolvers, rifles of a somewhat antiquated pattern, and bayonets. The bayonet is a peculiarly unpleasant weapon, the end of it next the barrel of the rifle being so notched that if anyone is foolsh enough to grasp it, the constable has only to draw back the rifle smartly to tear away the flesh and sinews of his hand.

KITCHENER'S REPORT.

London, Feb. 19.—A dispatch from General Kitchener to the war office states that during the past week 17 Boers were killed, 5 wounded, 107 captured and 238 surrendered. A number of rifles and a quantity of ammunition and stock were also captured.

WESTERN NOTES

The Northern Pacific is trying to obtain a fresh foothold in the province.

St. Stephens' Presbyterian congregation, Winnipeg, will erect an edifice, with a seating capacity of 1200 this summer.

The Lake of the Woods mill at Keewatin will close down owing to the lack of cars to haul grain from interior elevators.

One of the elevators here was so full of the golden last week that its contents leaked out under the eaves of the Main roof.—Moosomin World.

Miss Alice Knowles, on her way from England to Macleod, was taken off the train at Regina, where she died in the hospital.

The Davin monument fund, inaugurated by Mr. H. J. Morgan, Ottawa, has reached an amount of nearly a thousand dollars, and is daily enlarging.

Mr. William Mackenzie, the railway capitalist, announces that application will be made during the session of parliament for a line to traverse Manitoba, from north to south, a of 225 miles.

Dr. Macklin has been appointed by the Dominion government to superintend the vaccination of the Manitoba Indians.

The Melita Progress says: A 12-foot seam of coal has been struck on section 25, 2-24, about two miles from Goodlands station. The coal is of excellent quality, and the supply abundant.

Registration of births, marriages and deaths for the year 1901, in the municipality af Keewatin, were as follows: Births, 20; marriages, 6; deaths, 7.

The library committee of the Manitoba legislature has recommended an addition to the provincial library and has approved of travelling libraries for provincial towns

The amount deposited in the Pincher Creek post office savings baok at the close of the year was $39,960.12, an increase of $2,445.56, being the largest balance at the close of any other year.

A provincial grand lodge of the Loyal Order of Orangemen will be established in Calgary immediately. The territory covered will include Alberta and the electoral district of Medicine Hat.

Regina Horticultural society is causing a canvass of the town to be made with a view to boulevarding the main thoroughfares of the town.

EARLY SEEDING.

Portage la Prairie, Man., Feb. 22.—A record in early seeding has been established this year by Mr. Thomas Leader, a farmer who resides west of Portage, on the Plains.

Yesterday Mr. Leader completed completed sowing 25 acres of wheat The land, which was plowed in the fall is in fair condition. It has become dried out on top and was easily harrowed. Unless a very severe period of weather sets in and with a favorable spring, Mr. Leader's wheat will be ready for harvesting in June.

ROSEBERY HAS QUIT.

In a Letter to the Times He Announces His Separation From Bannerman's Leadership.

London, Feb. 22.—Lord Rosebery definitely announces his separation from Sir Henry Campbell-Bannermgn and the latter's followers in the Liberal party. In a letter to the Times he refers to the speech made by Sir Henry on Wednesday, in which he charged Lord Rosebery with refraining, somewhat unfairly, from making clear whether he was acting with Sir Henry or from a point of vantage outside. He also repudiated Lord Rosebery's Chesterfield slate-cleaning policy.

ALGOMA EXPLOSION.

Port Arthur, Feb. 22.—Word has been received here of the death of Jos. Roleau, formerly of St. Gregoire, Que., by an explosion of dynamite at the Fisher's Falls camp of the Pigeon River Boom company. J. Bradley, a companion, escaped with severe injuries. At the time of the accident the men were engaged thawing out sticks of dynamite.

Those Loving Girls.

"She looks sweet enough to eat!" he exclaimed, with rapturous exaggeration.

"Yes," admitted her envious friend, "and if it were not for one thing she would be."

"What is that?"

"Her temper would give you indigestion."—Chicago Post.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed for ever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Messrs C. C. Richards & Co.

Gentlemen,—Last winter I received great benefit from the use of MINARD'S LINIMENT in a severe attack of LaGrippe, and I have frequently proved it to be very effective in cases of Inflammation.

Yours,
W. A. HUTCHINSON.

The narrow soul knows not the godlike glory of forgiveness.—Rowe.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

To know the worst is one way whereby to better it.—Alfred Austin.

THE BEST PILLS.—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sydney Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For delicate and debilitated constitutions these pills act like a charm. Taken in small doses the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

A life spent worthily should be measured by deeds not years.—Sheridan.

When Wives Were Sold.

A century or so ago wife selling was not an uncommon event in England, as the following item, which appeared in the London News of Nov. 21, 1801, would show:

"On Friday a coal porter exhibited his wife in Smithfield, with a halter round her neck, for sale. He demanded a guinea for her, but she hung on hand for some time, until a man of good appearance made the purchase, and packing her, halter and all, into a hackney coach drove for Blackfriars bridge, amid the huzzas of the mob."

A woman went into a big department store and checked her baby while she shopped. When she went to get her baby, she found she had lost her check. The manager said she would have to wait and when all the other babies were taken out she could have the one that was left, but the baby left over was a colored baby. This was all right, however, as the woman was colored.

Deep Sea Life.

In the abysses of the oceans, below 500 fathoms many animals have either imperfect eyes or none. Their condition in this regard affords a suggestive parallel to that of cave life, and the causes are probably the same. Science is of the opinion that all deep sea life originally emigrated from the shallows.

"Thank the Lord an earthquake didn't swallow the land!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Willing to Compromise.

"I think," said the amateur palmist, slanting the maiden's hand toward the light in order to see the lines more plainly—"I think you are going to be married twice."

"Oh, dear," she said, "can't you just cut off the 'think' and make it a dead sure once?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE CARE OF BABIES.

Babies that are well, sleep well, eat well, act well, and play well. A child that is not lively, rosy-cheeked and playful needs immediate attention or the results may be serious. Prudent mothers should always keep ready at hand a safe yet effective medicine to administer to their little ones as emergency arises. Such a medicine is Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets do not act as the so-called "soothing medicines" do. They do not have a deadening or stupefying effect, but on the contrary go right to the seat of the trouble and by removing it cure the child and prevent a recurrence of the difficulty. All mothers who have used this medicine praise it and always keep it in the house. Mrs. G. Baines, Six Mile Lake, Ont., says:—"The Baby's Own Tablets which I ordered came just in time. My baby was very ill with indigestion and bowel trouble, but I am happy to say the tablets relieved him after a few doses and he is now doing splendidly, with just a Tablet now and then when a little restless. I am the mother of eight children, and I must say I have never had a medicine I thought as much of as Baby's Own Tablets, and I have tried all the old remedies. I think mothers ought always to keep them in the house in case of emergency."

These tablets cure all the minor ailments of children, such as constition, sour stomach, colic, diarrhoea, indigestion and simple fever. They break up colds, prevent croup, and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are for children of all ages, and dissolved in water can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Sold by all druggists at 25 cents a box, or sent post paid on receipt of price by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Statesman's Reason.

"If you didn't say any of the things that are printed in that alleged interview," asked his intimate friend, "why don't you deny them and set yourself right with the public?"

"Because," answered Senator Lotsmun, "it was so much more scholarly and correct than anything I could possibly have said I hate to disturb the illusion."—Chicago Tribune.

Easily Remedied.

One Kind of Philosopher.

"He claims to be a philosopher."

"Well, he is—of one kind."

"What kind?"

"Why, he is able to take a philosophical view of all troubles except his own."—Chicago Post.

HINTS FOR GIRLS

HOW TO PRESERVE HEALTH AND GOOD COLOR.

Pale, Sallow, or Anaemic Girls Restored to the Bright Freshness of Youth by Natural Means—Good Health Within the Reach of All.

From the Sun, Orangeville, Ont.

Miss Maggie Brownlee, of Orangeville, is a young lady well known to the residents of the town and greatly esteemed by all her acquaintances. Like thousands of other young girls throughout Canada, Miss Brownlee fell a victim to anaemia or watery blood, and for a time, as she says herself, she feared she would never enjoy robust health. Experiences like Miss Brownlee's cannot fail to be of benefit to other pale and anaemic girls, and for this reason she kindly consented to give a statement to the sun for publication. "My illness," said Miss Brownlee, "came on very gradually, and at first it merely seemed as though it was a feeling of depression and tiredness. I kept getting worse, however and finally had to give up a good position. I was at times troubled with a throbbing, racking headache; my appetite gave out; the least exertion tired me, and my heart would beat painfully. My limbs seemed to feel like weights, and at other times there was a sinking sensation which I can scarcely describe. I was treated by a good doctor, and took a number of remedies, but without any improvement in my condition, and I began to fear that I was doomed to be an invalid. One day a friend who called to see me spoke very highly of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and what she said interested my mother so much that she bought a few boxes. I began taking them, and in the course of a few weeks there was no room to doubt that they were helping me. I continued taking the pills for a couple of months or more, when I felt as well and strong as ever I had been. It is about a year since I gave up taking the pills, and I have not since felt the need of any medicine. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a grand medicine, and should be taken by all pale and feeble girls."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make rich, red blood with every dose taken, thus restoring the bloom of health, and the brightness and freshness of youth to pale and sallow cheeks. Through their action on the blood they cure such diseases as anaemia, nervousness, headache, rheumatism, dyspepsia, St. Vitus' dance, heart troubles, diseases of the kidneys, etc. These pills also cure the ailments that make the lives of so many women a constant misery. Sold in boxes, the wrapper around which bears the full name—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Can be procured from druggists or will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

In the Studio.

"Your work bears the closest kind of inspection," remarked the girl with the dimple. "What infinite pains you must take with it!"

"Perhaps," replied the artist; "but, do you know, I enjoy the pains."

"Then," she rejoined, with a bright smile, "you, too, pursue art for art's ache."

THE Manufacturers Life INSURANCE Co.

(With which has been amalgamated the Temperance and General Life Assurance Company.)

15TH ANNUAL REPORT.

The 15th Annual Meeting of the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company was held at the Head Office, Toronto, February 6th, 1902. The report presented by the Managing Director was of the most satisfactory nature, calling forth congratulations from all sides. Among other things, he said:

"The application for New Assurances were 3,835 for $5,663,378.00, being $531,009.00 in excess of the business of the combined companies for 1900. Of this amount $606,117 was declined as not being up to the required standard. Applications for $53,860 were incomplete at the end of the year, and 3,395 policies were issued for $5,023,401.00. The total assurances now in force aggregate $27,139,424.00, of which $8,045,449.00 is in the Temperance section, $16,640,020.00 in the General, and $2,553,955.00 in the Foreign.

"The net premium and interest income for the year was $1,064,821.98, being an increase of $103,595.67 over that of both Companies for 1900. The payments to Policy-holders, including Death Claims, were $236,073.74, and working expenses and taxes amounted to $262,932.08 excluding the sum of $9,230.98, which was expense out of the ordinary connected with amalgamation. Had the rate of expenses to premium income continued the same as in 1900 the ordinary working expenses would have been $283,170.94, so that the saving for the six months since amalgamation has amounted to $20,238.86, or at the rate of over $40,000 a year, a result which fulfils our estimate and fully justifies the action taken by the Boards of the amalgamating companies."

FIRE PROTECTION

The question of adequate fire protection has become very serious, and one that must be dealt with in no uncertain manner. The interests affected by the possibility of an outbreak of fire have grown enormously since the introduclion of the present system of fire protection. That there is sufficient water pressure there may be no reason to doubt, but what earthly use can that be without any means of directing it.

There is a quantity of hose, which be sufficient if it were taken care of, but in its present condition, is practically useless.

An inspection of the fire apparatus reveals the fact that the hose is partly on the reel which is kept in an open shed, where no facilities whatever are provided for its being properly dried, and is now as a matter of fact, partly frozen, so that it is doubtful if water could be forced through in time to render the slightest service in case of fire, which would gain headway enough before any successful efforts could be put forth to control it. The business men through the Board of Trade, should arouse themselves to the conditions existing, and have in view the appaling results which would certainly be in evidence if fire should break out in the business district. Representations cannot be made too strong to the Government to secure a grant to build a suitable fire hall and hose tower that will remove the town from the constant state of jeopardy in which it is now placed. As we have previously pointed out, the revenue derived from this town by the Government is close upon $60,000 per annum, of which the only expenditure in return is for police protection. It is needless to say that in its present state the town has no purchasing power, and relief from the danger of a conflagration that may at any time occur lies with the Government at Victoria.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Sir Charles Tupper has been invited to the coronation ceremonies of King Edward.

THE Senate has reformed itself, there now being a Liberal majority in the Chamber of fossils.

THE Nelson Daily Tribune is in financial difficulties and will probably have to suspend publication. Two dailies in a little town like Nelson would look to be pretty tough proposition.

* * *

A report was current in town this week that Breckenridge & Lund were building camp across the river, preparatory to beginning work on the Great Northern between Morrissey and here. Careful inquiry has elicited the fact that there is nothing in the report, and there is no likelihood of anything being done until the snow and frost disappear.

THE report is current that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, during his visit to England to take part in the coronation ceremonies, will be elevated to the peerage with the the title of Lord Arthabasca in honor of his native town.

THE Provincial Legislature is making a good start in the way of legislation for British Columbia. On Monday the irrepressible Joe Martin and Smith Curtis had a one round mill as to who should occupy the leader of the Opposition's chair. They were separated, but indulged in a war of words.

* * *

THE prohibition fight in Ontario goes merrily on. There is no indication of unanimity among the prohibition advocates and the prediction may be safely made that on election day they will all vote according to their party predilictions, thereby ensuring another renewal of power to Mr. Ross.

* * *

Mr. B. G. Hamilton, who has been connected with the land department of the Canadian Pacific Railway for some years, has been appointed agent of the land department at Moosejaw. The company expect a very large emigration the coming season srom Eastern Ontario and the Western States and in conjunction with the Government is making necessary preparations to locate the influx.

* * *

WE are pleased to know that Mr. G. J. Bury, who has been superintendent of the Crow's Nest Branch for the past year, has received a very substantial promotion in the Company's service. He is now General Superintendent of the Superior division, with headquarters at North Bay. His successor has not been appointed, in the meantime Mr. J. T. Aoundel is acting superintendent for the Crow's Nest division.

W. H. Beatty, Vice-president of the Canada and Western Permanent Loan Company, says that Company is investing in British Columbia with a great deal of caution on account of the general conditions prevailing due to strikes. There have never been any labor troubles in Fernie, but where we are handicapped in borrowing capacity, is in the titles question. There are indications, however, of that being settled in a short time.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. D. J Whitney, of Lethbridge, is in town this week on business.

A. E. Smith, better known as "Cool gardie," is spending a few days in town, renewing old acquaintances.

E. Harvey, Vancouver, representing the Pure Gold Mf'g Co., was in town Monday on a business trip.

Jas. Kirkpatrick, clerk at J. F. Jarvis' is confined to the house with a bad cold but is getting along very well.

John Purcell, who was charged by Chief Barnes with forgery, was tried by Judge Forin, Nelson, and got a 30 day sentence. Johnnie was pretty lucky.

Frank Levasseur, Pincher Creek, and Harry Stedman, Macleod, were in town on Monday on business in connection with the late Mr. Levasseur's estate.

Chief Constable Barnes went to Nelson on Monday with the prisoners Gabriel and Bride, who were committed for trial on a charge of obtaining money under false pretense.

H. W. Herchmer has the "Father Pat" memorial subscription list in his office and will be pleased to receive subscriptions to this most laudable cause. The subscriptions are limited to $1.

A meeting is called for Monday night, March 3rd, in Princess Hall ante room to organize a mock parliament association. The public without respect to any party politics is invited.

F. A. Rees, of Winnipeg, representing Porter & Co., wholesale crockery, opened up his wares in the Royal sample room Monday. He reports business in the Kootenays exceptionally good.

The Alberta Hotel will in future be conducted by Mrs. Geo. Levasseur, widow of the late Mr. Levasseur. Mr. T. Q. Biggar has been appointed manager of the house and it will be conducted as a strictly first-class hotel.

There has been a good deal of stealing going on in the C.P.R. yards by parties breaking into cars. The Company convicted one man last week and a special constable has been detailed at the depot and yards and determined efforts will be made to put a stop to petty theiving.

A man named Tom Harvey who has been floating round town for some time, attempted to commit suicide on Monday, Feb. 24, by jumping off a trestle bridge at Jaffray. He was badly injured and it is supposed that he had become crazed by too frequent potations of the Absinthe bottle. His brother went down Wednesday morning to look after him.

Al. Hallett, from the wilds of Wisconsin, which is somewhere in the United States of America, is in town and hands out a defi to all and sundry wrestlers in or about Fernie, to wrestle Graeco, Roman, Catch as Catch Can, or any other old style for any reasonable consideration. He thinks he can throw anyone in the Kootenays four times in an hour for money or marbles.

The redoubtable Geo. White went down to Gateway, Mont., last Saturday, to pull off a match with four ounce mitts with Ed. Cuff. Whitey says, he, like the apostles of old, fought the beasts of Ephesus, and could have won in a common walk, but the gate money did not go to the winner, so he had to lay down to Cuff. His bit out of the receipts was $35, and expenses were $45. The differerence is charged to the profit and loss account. Verily the lot of a fighter is a hard one.

A man named Charles Davidson committed suicide by drowning in Summit Lake, near Crow's Nest station, on Thursday, Feb. 20. Coroner Trites was advised of the circumstances and went down Sunday morning. The body was recovered and an inquest was ordered. The jury brought in a verdict that Charles Davidson came to his death on Thursday night Feb. 20th, by drowning, the result of his own act while mentally unbalanced. From information learned by the coroner the man has a brother at Indian Head, N.W.T., who has been communicated with by Provincial Constable Henderson of Michel.

Edward Vaughan, a scenic artist, of Winnipeg, was found dead in his room in the Alexandria block last week. He had been laid up for about a month with a sprained ankle and was last seen alive on Tuesday night, the 18th inst. One of his friends remarking the fact of his non-appearance for a day or two, effected an entrance to his room where he was found dead. His death was apparently due to heart failure and he had evidently been dead for 24 hours when discovered. He had been a resident of Winnipeg for about five years. He came there from Seattle where he had been with a theatrical company. He followed his trade as a scenic painter and for some time was foreman for Bell & Co. His sister, Mrs. W. R. Wilcox, is a resident of Fernie.

Rev. T. H. Wright, of Michel, called at this office on Thursday.

Wanted.—Girl to do general housework. Apply at this office.

A. McMaster went to Nelson Wednesday and was a guest at the Phair.

D. J. Elmer, real estate agent, Moyie, is visiting in town for a few days.

R. A. Shore, of this town, was a guest at the Grand Central, Nelson, on Tuesday.

J. R. Young and wife, Fernie, were registered at the Grand Central, Nelson, Tuesday.

Constable R. A. Fraser has been transferred to Elko, where he will take charge of the police work.

W. F. Tranter has been appointed to the Provincial police force and assigned to duty at Morrissey.

Mrs. Dr. Bonnell has returned from a prolonged visit to New Brunswick. She was met at Winnipeg by her husband.

Miss Dobson, who has been visiting her brother here for some time, left for her home in Colorado Springs on Thursday of this week.

H. W. Herchmer, D. V. Mott and T. C. Thompson delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade at Kaslo left for there Wednesday morning.

The Board of Health is going to rigorously enforce the vaccination law, and a special officer has been detailed to see that every person in town is vaccinated.

There is an epidemic of diphtheria at Elko and two deaths have been already reported. Postmaster Holbrook and Mr. Chas. Geddis, merchant, have each lost a child.

John Birmingham, a railroad man from Morrissey, died in the hospital Thursday of pneumonia. He was a single man about 35 years of age and is susposed to have belonged to the State of Maine.

Jas. A. McDonald, of Foss & McDonald, Great Northern contractors, brought up two men Wedneaday night to the hospital who had been injured by a blast. One man's arm was broken and the other received some severe bruises.

The masquerade ball, for which invitations were issued, to take place Jan. 14, but was unavoidably postponed on account of the quarantine, will be held in Princess Hall, March 4th, under the management of the Tannhauser dancing academy. Tickets $1 including supper.

A man named F. Holloran came to town Friday from Morrissey and put up at the Hotel Northern. He had a time check from Foss & McDonald, which Mr. Eschwig cashed. He told the landlord that he was sick and went to bed Saturday. On Sunday morning the doctor was sent for, but the man died before anything could be done.

A South African war medal with the owner's name, Charles Peterson, on the rim, was lost a few days ago. The finder or any person who knows of its whereabouts, will please leave with Frank Dunn, Royal Hotel. It is of no value to any one, but is prized highly by Mr. Peterson on account of its being presented to him by King Edward.

Mrs. Levasseur desires to tender her most sincere thanks to the friends of her late husband and herself for the kind and sincere tokens of sympathy vouchsafed in her hour of trouble and bereavement, and more especially to those who accompanied the remains to Pincher Creek and performed the last sad offices of respect and sympathy to the deceased who was beloved and respected by all.

SPIDER'S CHAPS

BY WOLCOTT LE CLEAR BEARD

A TALE OF THE CATTLE THIEVES OF AGUA CALIENTE.

Copyright, 1900, by W. Le Clear Beard.

There was but one thing to do. I nodded assent, and, followed by Spider, the foreman galloped back to his charge.

Then there were shouts from the men; the cattle moved slowly forward, and, like a great serpent, the herd strung itself across the plain and through the gorge that led to the river, halting for a moment on the flat below.

"Now string 'em out an get 'em to runnin, so's they can't stop theirselves," commanded the foreman. "When you're gettin 'em inter the drink, ride on the down stream side all you can, so's they can't head that way. Try'n have a little sense, if yer can. Now, then, ready? Let 'er go!"

The waiting cowboys put spurs to their horses and started. After a moment's hesitation the great mass of cattle moved slowly toward the river. The men behind them urged them on with shots and blows and cries. Darting to the head of the herd, Hollis wormed his way in, and with the heavy honda or loop ring of his lariat flogged the leading cattle, patriarchal old bulls that were accustomed to move with deliberation. Determined not be outdone by his enemy, Spider dashed forward and arrived an instant later. The nimble little cow pony slid in among the cattle and was here, there and everywhere in an instant, while his rider whipped, spurred and yelled like a madman.

A sort of clumsy ripple that reminded me of the movement of logs jammed in a river passed along the length of the herd; then the cattle broke into a lumbering gallop. The gallop was much faster than it seemed. First Hollis and then Spider broke through the head of the herd, and, riding diagonally forward, tried to get to one side of the rush. I could see that their horses were going at a rate that they could hardly have bettered if their lives had been depending on their speed.

Hollis was ahead, with Spider immediately behind and trying to pass him, and, aided by his light weight, Spider succeeded in passing. He reached the outside of the path pursued by the herd, and, wheeling his horse, swooped down on the flank of the body of cattle, still yelling and flogging as he urged it on.

Hollis also had nearly passed out of the danger line when his horse lurched forward and fell, throwing his rider some distance from him, directly in line of the rushing herd that was bearing down upon them. He had stepped into a badger hole. The horse scrambled to his feet and galloped on, but for a moment Hollis, apparently stunned, lay where he had fallen.

No one could do anything to help—there was no time. In another instant Hollis rose unsteadily to his feet. There was a bowlder a few feet distant, and he made for it in a limping run. He drew a pistol as he knelt behind the rock, and hurriedly covering the foremost bull of the herd, now terribly close to him, he fired. The bull plunged headlong against the bowlder and lay with his body jammed across it.

The cattle were not quite stampeded. If they had been they would have piled themselves one on top of another over the bowlder and the dead bull that rested against it until, with their combined weight, they would have almost crushed the rock itself. As it was they turned to one side and the other as they reached the impediment, and left a little open space around it, as though the rock were a candle and the space the light it shed.

Another moment and the herd had passed, followed by a cloud of flying dust. This cloud was peopled by cowboys who waved their hands to Hollis as they went by him and shouted words of ironical consolation or counsel. One of the men advised him to engage Spider as a riding teacher. Hollis was not pleased. He made this plain in his replies to the rough jokes that were showered upon him. He was not at all the sort of person that could enjoy a joke when at his own expense.

The herd reached the river and "yellow spray was flung high in the air. Then they slowed and stopped, heaving to and fro. They were prevented from breaking down stream again by the cowboys, who stood ready to foil every such attempt, and try as they might they could not return—but not an inch forward would they stir. The river was rising fast, and more short handed than ever, now that Hollis was unhorsed, it was all that we could do to hold them where they were.

Far in the van of the herd stood Hollis' pony, girth deep in the water. Hollis caught sight of him. Retarded by his cowboy boot heels, three inches high, Hollis walked laboriously through the deep, soft sand toward the herd that stood bunched together, half in, half out of the stream. Going up to the nearest cow, Hollis put his hands on her shoulders and vaulted neatly astride of her lean back, and before the astonished animal had time to remonstrate in any way he had swung from her back to that of another which was standing next to her. From this one he swung to a third, until at last he reached a part of the herd near the middle where the animals were so packed together that they were almost incapable of movement. Then he rose to his feet and started to walk, stepping from one backbone to the next.

It was a crazy thing to do. Once before I had seen a man attempt to swing from back to back, and it was a dangerous feat enough. Such a feat as Hollis was now attempting was ten times as dangerous. Should he fall between the cattle they would close over his head and almost certainly drown him.

For some distance Hollis succeeded well enough. Each back winced as his foot pressed it, and the head belonging to the back would toss angrily. The heads were all pointing in one direction, and in order to avoid them Hollis passed diagonally across the herd in much the same manner that a boat beats to windward. He completed his first tack. With one foot on the back of a cow, the other pressing the spinal column of a vicious cream colored bull, Hollis tried to turn. The bull threw up his head and attempted to plunge. He was too closely confined to succeed in this, but he unbalanced Hollis, who, withdrawing his foot from the back of the bull, placed it on the creature that stood directly behind him, tottered for an instant, then regained his balance and brought his foot forward once more, replacing it on the bull's back. Just at this time Spider came galloping down the bank. Pulling his horse almost on to its haunches, he stared in blank amazement. He would not have been more astonished, he told me afterward, if Hollis had appeared in the guise of an angel flying over the herd and he "couldn' think er nothin more unlikely'n that."

Hollis saw Spider at the same moment. Once more he tried to turn, and this time he succeeded. As he did so his foot slipped. He made a couple of quick steps to recover his balance. He more than recovered it. He threw it the other way and fell backward at full length between the cattle.

Hollis' struggles to rise probably frightened the cattle even more than his fall had done. They heaved and surged frantically to clear themselves of their burden, and in an instant had opened a space between them through which Hollis dropped with a scream that I heard, distant as I was, far above the noise of the cattle and the shouting. Then the space closed over his head.

Not for a moment did I suppose that I should again see Hollis alive—not once in a thousand such occurrences would I have had an opportunity. As it was, by a miracle of good fortune, he came up near the heads of the cattle between which he had fallen. I saw his hand clutching at a horn. The head to which the horn belonged bellowed and tossed in its efforts to free itself. Twice it broke his hold, and twice Hollis reappeared, grasping for his life at the nearest support.

BRONCHITIS--- A Serious Disease.

Becomes Chronic and Returns Year by Year or Develops into Bronchial Pneumonia, Croupous Bronchitis, Asthma or Consumption.

The real dangers of bronchitis are sometimes overlooked. It is too serious a disease to trifle with, and for that reason everybody should be familiar with the symptoms.

Children are most liable to contract bronchitis, and, if neglected, it becomes chronic, and returns year after year, until it wears the patient out or develops into some deadly lung disease.

The approach of bronchitis is marked by chills and fever, nasal or throat catarrh, quick pulse, loss of appetite and feeling of fatigue and languor.

Bronchitis is also known by pain in the upper part of the chest, which is aggravated by deep breathing or coughing, until it seems to burn and tear the delicate linings of the bronchial tubes.

The cough is dry and harsh, and is accompanied by expectoration of a frothy nature, which gradually increases; is very stringy and tenacious and is frequently streaked with blood.

There is pain, not unlike rheumatism, in limbs, joints and body, constipation and extreme depression and weakness. In some people the exhaustion amounts almost to nervous collapse, delirium follows, and in young children convulsions may follow.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, is, we believe, the most effective treatment for bronchitis that money will buy. This fact has been proven time and time again in many thousands of cases.

It is the most effective remedy for bronchitis, because it is far-reaching in its effects on the whole system, not merely relieving the cough, but actually and thoroughly curing the disease. It loosens the cough, frees the chest of tightness and pain, aids expectoration and permanently cures.

There are other preparations of turpentine and linseed put up in imitation of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. To be sure you are getting the genuine see the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase on the box you buy. 25 cents a bottle, family size, three times as much, 60 cents. THE TURPENTINE WOULDN'T WORK

THE PITIFUL EXPERIMENTS OF A YOUNG MAN TO CURE HIMSELF OF RHEUMATISM.

Liniments, Oils, and Everything Failed to Relieve His Sufferings—He Used Dodd's Kidney Pills, and They Cured Him.

Boissevain, Man., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Five years ago, Mr. C. S. Holden, of this place, then quite a youn young man and a farmer's son, became almost a cripple with Rheumatism. His own account of his experience is very interesting. He says:

"For about a year and a half I had a dull pain in my right shoulder. It grew much worse in cold weather, and in winter was so bad that I could scarcely use my arm at all. When I went to bed I would have to take my left hand and hold my right shoulder to turn over. The pain was nearly unbearable. Words cannot express it. I often said if I had to endure such pain all my life I would rather have no arm.

I was almost a cripple and could not help complaining very bitterly. Everybody had something to tell me to do. One said, 'Rub on Spirits of Turpentine.' I did so, but 'only grew worse. Besides this I tried every other liniment and oil I could hear of or get, but all to no purpose. Nothing seemed to give me the slightest relief. I was growing very downhearted, as it looked as if I was never going to find anything to cure my dreadful pain.

"Now it happened that we had some of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house—we always have them—and, having tried everything else, my father suggested that I take some. I commenced, and when I had taken three doses I felt some better, and I kept on till in a few days the pain was all gone.

"This is five years ago, and I have not had the slightest pain or ache since."

BULLOCK WILL HANG

VERDICT OF GUILTY RETURNED IN THE EDMONTON MURDER TRIAL.

THE EXECUTION WILL TAKE PLACE AT FT. SASKATCHEWAN ON MARCH 27.

Edmonton, Feb. 21.—After closing up the odds and ends of the evidence in the Bullock murder trial the crown yesterday morning rested and the case against Charles Bullock, charged with having murdered Leon Stainton in the Battle River country in April last, practically closed.

Mr. McDonald the crown prosecutor, then addressed the jury.

Mr. Brown, for the defence, made a brief but strong speech, in which he contended that the identity of the body had not been fully established and that there were many facts which raised a doubt as to whether the body found was really that of Stainton, then the charge against the prisoner fell.

Justice Scott, in his address to the jury, sketched the movement of the case, the facts of which are these: The dead youth, Leon Stainton, had left his home in Kalamazoo, to take a position with the Union Pacific railway at Aspen, Wyo. There he met Charles Bullock and a young man from his state of Michigan. They became chums. Bullock's parents lived on a farm in Battle River district in Alberta, N. W. T., and they had written to their son to come here and get land. Bullock asked Leon Stainton to accompany him. When they left Aspen Bullock had $42, Stainton $220. They were traced from Aspen, Wyo., to Great Falls, Mont.; from there to Lethbridge and Calgary, where two tickets were purchased to Ponoka, whither the two were to proceed to Bullock's farm on Battle river, about twenty miles from Ponoka. Bullock was seen on the train with a companion, but Bullock arrived at his home alone. He had plenty of money when he arrived home and gave his family $55, more than he had when he left Aspen. He stayed only three days, going away, as he said, to British Columbia. Instead he went to Montana and changed his name. This was in April. In June a body was found half buried in a bluff near the Bullock farm. The police were notified, and this case was given into the hands of Corp. Hethrington, who, after nearly eight months' search, landed Bullock a prisoner in Edmonton. On the preliminary trial the prisoner was committed, and the trial opened here on the 11th, and has been in progress since. Hetherington found marks on the clothing showing that it had come from Kalamazoo. There he found that Leon Stainton was mining, and that he had been in Aspen. Further investigation revealed the whole story. As evidence that Stainton had been at or near Ponoka an autoharp which had been in Stainton's possession and which he was shown to have had at Ponoka, was given by Bullock to his father and was found at the elder Bullock's farm on Bath river.

The judge delivered a very fair charge, pointing out that there was strong presumption that the body was that of Stainton and that the evidence was equally strong that he had come to Canada with Bullock. That he had been traced from Aspen to Ponoka, been seen on the road from Ponoka to the Bullock farm in Bullock's company; that he disappeared on that road on that night, and that it was for the jury to say, after taking all the facts inta consideration, whether or not the prisoner had murdered him.

The jury returned a verdict of "Guilty," and Charles Bullock was sentenced to be hanged on March 26 at Fort Saskatchewan.

THE REFERENDUM VOTE.

IT WILL BE TAKEN ON MARCH 27—A SYNOPSIS OF THE BILL.

Winnipeg, Feb. 21.—Wednesday's sitting of the legislature was made memorable on the occasion of the introduction of the "Referendum Bill" by Hon. Colin. H. Campbell. In anticipation of the event the galleries were filled with interested listeners, a large number of ladies being present. Quite a number of the prominent citizens of Winnipeg, including several clergymen, were on hand to hear the declaration of the government's policy and its reasons for taking the proposed step. After the orders of the day were completed His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor came down to the house and assented to a number of bills. Immediately after he had withdrawn Mr. Campbell took the floor. He said that the reason he was taking the unusual course of giving an explanation of the bill in detail on the first reading was that the importance of the measure necessitated at the outset a clear and fair statement of the position of the government. He would endeavor to prove that the course of the government was the right course, the wise course and the prudent course to pursue, under all circumstances. The government intended to follow out the course it had marked and whether praise or blame came as a consequence they would have to accept it.

At the close of a speech of two hours and thirty-five minutes Mr. Campbell gave a short synopsis of the bill. The question to be submitted to the electors, he said, is: Shall the act come into force on the 1st of June, 1902? It provides that the voting shall take place on the 27th March next. The voters' lists to be used shall be the municipal voters' lists of all those residents upon that list who possess the qualifications required by the Manitoba Election act; and in addition all those who can make the affidavit of qualification set forth in the act. That is, if a man has been twelve months in the country and possesses the qualifications, notwithstanding that his name is not on the municipal voters' list, he is entitled to swear in his vote on the day of the election. As to the percentages that shall be required the government has adopted a plan that should commend itself as a most fair proposal. In Ontario they have adopted proposals which mean virtually that about 45 per cent of the people of the province must vote affirmatively. Under the bill the government were starting at 45 per cent.; if 45 per cent of those at present on the list vote yea, the act will go into force. Then they work down upon that, so if only 60 per cent of the people voted and 60 per cent of those voted yea, we will have 36 per cent of the people voting in favor. Where the vote falls below 60 per cent. of those entitled to vote, the percentage shall be between 60 per cent and 66 2-3. Thus the act will come into force the way the temperance people wish.

A BOY BURIED ALIVE

HORRIBLE TORTURE INFLICTED IN ALASKA ON A YOUNG INDIAN.

HE HAD DENOUNCED THE MUMMERIES OF THE TRIBAL MEDICINE MAN.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 20.—The steamer Dirigo, which arrived from Alaska yesterday, brings news that Chilkoot Indians, near Hinsmussion, Alaska, on Feb. 5, buried alive one of their tribe, a boy 15 years of age. The boy had been converted to Christianity to Milo A. Sellon, a Methodist missionary, and in a burst of religious zeal denounced the mummeries of the tribal medicine man. This art aroused the anger of the superstitious old men of the tribe. Recently fourteen native residents of the village of Kluckwan died of consumption, and the medicine man spread the belief that the boy, who is in league with the Evil.. One, through his knowledge of the white man's religion, caused the deaths.

The disappearance of the boy from school aroused the suspicions of Mr. Sellon, and he started in search of him. At the outskirts of the village he found tracks leading to a fresh grave.

Digging down he found the boy still alive, his bloodshot eyes rolling in insane agony, his hair torn in handfuls from his head. His finger nails were torn off in his efforts to escape from his horrible prison.

The boy was lifted from the grave and carried to the village, where he lived several hours, howling and crying out like a maniac, finally dying from the effects of suffering and fright.

Icht, the medicine man, who is responsible for the crime, is an old offender, who spent a term in San Quentin penitentiary for causing an old woman to be starved to death in 1894.

NORTHWEST BUTTER.

Ottawa, Feb. 20.—J. A. Government creameries in the Territories secured from 19 to 20.83 cents per pound for their year's output, while the private creameries secured only from 14 to 19 cents.

The reason given for the difference in the price is explained first on account of the superior quality of the butter furnished, and, secondly, because of the market secured. The annual meeting of Knox congregation was held on Wednesday evening, Feb. 26th. There was a much larger attendance than usual, and the interest manifested gave evidence of a strong and healthy congregational life. The various reports submitted were very gratifying and afford much reason for Thanksgiving. The report of the session, presented by Mr. J. A. Rennie, showed that while 7 members had left Fernie during the year, nineteen new members had been enrolled. Over $90 had been raised for missions and other schemes for the church; three Elders, Messrs. McLeod, Hill and Ross had been added to the Session, and Mr. A. K. Farquharson had been reappointed Representative Elder. The Managers' reports were presented by A. Joyce, Chairman, and F. J. Watson, Treasurer. While they had to report a small deficit in the current expense account, still the work done during the year was shown to be most encouraging. Over $1,850 passed through their hands during the year. Of this about $600 went to Manse building and other improvements on the church propeety; $140 and interest towards reducing the debt on the church, and the balance to meet the ordinary expenses.

The report of the Ladies' Aid Society showed over $350 on hand, with which they propose to seat the church. The pews are already ordered and it is hoped they will be placed in position early in March. The report of the Sunday School was also most encouraging. There are 62 names on the roll, with an average attendance of 44. During the year the school not only provided its own literature and added to its library, but also raised $15 for Home Missions and $17 for the Century Fund. It has pledged itself to raise $50 for the support of a missionary during the coming year.

On the whole, the past year has been the most prosperous in the history of the congregation, and the outlook for the ensuing year is certainly very bright.

The congregation showed their appreciation of the work of the Board of Managers by re-electing them for the coming year. At the close of the business part of the programme, a very enjoyable social hour was spent. Refreshments were served by the ladies, to whose efforts much of the success of the evening is due. As "Elders hours" drew near the assembly broke up by singing "God Save the King."

"OIL OF GLADNESS"

South American Nervine has proved itself the "oil of gladness" to many a nerve-sick sufferer. It starts to work at the fountain-head of the trouble—the digestion. It tones the stomach, helps to assimilate the food, promotes healthy circulation, stimulates the flow of rich, red blood, accelerates the action of the organs.

South American Nervine cures nervousness, sleeplessness, neuralgia, nervous prostration, nervous choking, nervous twitchings, hot flushes, sick head-ache, dyspepsia, indigestion, and all kindred ailments. It is the very nectar of health. 34

"PUT OUT THE FIRE"

Dr. Agnew's Ointment will relieve and cure any skin disease just as surely as it cured this soldier's Erysipelas—the first application kills the "sting."

Lieut. Bucknam, National Soldiers' Home, in Grant County, Indiana, had a very acute attack of Erysipelas. His face and head were in torment with burning and itching sensations. A druggist recommended Dr. Agnew's Ointment as the quickest relief and cure. He bought a box and found it as good as it promised, and a few applications, to use his own words, "put out the fire and less than a box entirely cured me." Price 35 cts. 7

"STIFFLED" HEART

Ever feel that every breath would be your last—that the thumping, stiffling sensations about your Heart were crushing your life out?

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart is the only absolutely unfailing remedy known and prescribed by eminent physicians. Its claims of potency are not heresay or false hope to the sufferer. It is not a spirit lifter to gather you up to the high pinnacle of expectancy only to drop you into a deeper mire of disease. It gives relief in thirty minutes. A few bottles cure the worst forms of heart malady. 3

LOST HIS BUSINESS!

Ill-health "puts the shutters up" in many an honest man's business, and there are thousands of cases on record where the only seeming power on earth to take them down again is South American Nervine.

"I was completely prostrated with Nervous Debility. I had to give up business—doctors only helped me temporarily. I was the most discouraged man alive when I started taking South American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had read gave me hope, and I had not taken half a bottle before I found relief. I took twelve bottles, but am cured."—E. Errett, Merrickville. 8

ASSOCIATED BOARDS OF TRADE.

The fourth annual meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade, held at Kaslo, closed yesterday, after a most successful session. The arrangements and hospitality of the citizens of Kaslo, have never been excelled, and the banquet tendered the visiting delegates was one of the most delightful that has marked the meetings of the associated boards. C. Scott Galloway of Greenway was succeeded, as president, by G. O. Buchanan, of Kaslo. The delegates evidenced their appreciation of the efficiency of the secretary, H. W. C. Jackson, of Rossland, whose reelection was unanimous.

The matter of adjusting the tariff on lead products, in order to encourage the marketing of Canadian lead in Canada, was dealt with in detail, and a committee consisting of G. O. Buchanan, W. H. Albridge and James Cronin were delegated to place the matter before the authorities at Ottawa.

Another matter which was productive of extended discussion was the Greenwood resolution urging a selection of the government reserve of 50,000 acres on the south side of Morrissey Creek, for the purpose of encouraging competition in the production of fuel in Southeast Kootenay. Against this resolution, the Fernie delegation took a most active stand and T. C. Thompson, on behalf of the Crow's Ness Coal Company, presented facts and figures by which it was hoped to refute the contention that competition in these fields would have a tendency to cheapen the fuel supply. In fact. it may be said that Mr. Thompson was the central figure of the gathering. His arguments were able, keen, shrewd and witty and his earnest efforts and personal bearing won the admiration and good will of every delegate to the convention. But the concensus of opinion in favor of the resolution was so general, that it passed unanimously, after being amended so as to provide for the government leasing the land with such safeguards as will absolutely preclude now and in the future, the possibility of their amalgamation with, or control by the Crow's Nest Coal Company or any allied corporation, and that the maximum price to be charged for coke be $3.50 per ton f.o.b. and the maximum price for 3-4 inch screened coal be $1.75 per ton f.o.b.

Other resolutions passed were: That a resident postoffice inspector be appointed with a view to having the mail service under the control of an official who would have some personal knowledge of the conditions of Kootenay and Yale.

The Rossland riding be at once cut in two, giving the Boundary a representative of its own in the present Provincial House.

That the Kootenay-Yale-Cariboo federal electoral district be divided at once on the line of the Columbia river, and that an election for a member of the Dominion Parliament be immediately held in the new district thereby created west of the Columbia river.

As to the mineral tax, a resolution passed, setting forth the fact that, whereas, it is believed that a considerable portion of the revenue, while it may be deemed equitable to levy upon the mining industry, could be derived first, upon the tax already legally collectible upon crown-granted claims, upon which less than work to the value of $200 annually is done, if such tax were systematically and promptly collected, or in default thereof, if the said crown-granted mineral claims were to be sold by the government to the highest bidder and, second, by changing the conditions in regard to such crown-granted claims, so that work to the value of $400 annually should be required, or failing that a tax of 50 cents per acre be imposed, and third, by requiring that instead of work to the value of $100 being the annual assessment conditions on non-crown granted claims, work to the value of $80 be accepted with an increase of the fee for recording assessment work to $12.50, with no increase in the number of assessments, before the issuance of crown grants, and by these means the development of the resources of the country would be stimulated; be it resolved that the government be asked to look to the means herein suggested for a portion of the revenue from the mining industry and to reduce by so much the amount to be derived from the tax on minerals produced, and to charge the incidence of the tax by deducting from the value of the ore the cost of mining, exclusive of capital expenditure and headoffice expenses, such reduction to be subject to the jurisdiction of such official as the government may designate.

The question of amending the shop regulations' act, in the matter of closing stores on legal holidays, was laid over until next meeting.

A suitable memorial to the Association's ex-president, J. Roderick Robertson, was ordered engrossed and transmitted to Mrs. Robertson.

The selection of Fernie for next meeting place, was unanimous.

FERNIE HONORS ITS HOCKEY TEAM.

The citizens of Fernie turned out in large numbers to the banquet given in honor of the hockey team on Thursday evening. The large dining hall of the Royal Hotel was crowded, not a vacant place being left at the tables. On different occasions Fernie has been prompt in honoring the heroes of the South African War, but this is the first time that a banquet has been tendered to the heroes of sport, and the boys appreciated the honor very much.

Mr. W. Ross, occupied the chair and after a few appropriate remarks proposed a toast to the King, which was responded to by singing "The National Anthem."

Mr. F. Stork and Mr. H. J. Johnson responded to the toast "Our Country," in an able manner, expressing the pleasure it gave them to be present. Mr. Stork is an orator of considerable ability and seemed to be right at home with his subject, and his appropriate remarks and witty stories provoked intense applause.

Mr. J. H. Hunter then rendered a Scotch song wjch was well received.

"The Crow's Nest Pass Hockey Association" was the next toast and was responded to by J. H. Bricker and Mr. Amos Purdy. Mr, Bricker is a hockey enthusiast and was warm in his praise of the team which had brought honor to the town. He said that prospects were bright for a season of good sport during the coming summer and he hoped that the town would not be slow to support the boys who upheld the honor of the town in outdoor sports.

Mr Purdy said he was glad that the medals would remain at home and proposed to put up more trophies for hockey next year.

The most popular toast of the evening "The Fernie Hockey Club," was responded to by A. C. Liphardt, President of the Crow's Nest Hockey Association, James Miller, Captain of the Fernie team, and P. McMurphy, Secretary of the Hockey Club. The speeches were brief but all united in thanking the citizens for the generous manner in which they had supported the local team during the past season.

Mr. R. W. Coulthard at this juncture rendered a humorous selection which was much appreciated.

Several other toasts followed:—"Our Sister Clubs" responded to by A. H. Cree and H. Wilson.

"The town of Fernie" by J. A. Rennie and J. F. Jarvis.

"The Ladies" by Alex. Smith, W. A Bleasdell and H. S. Monkman.

"The Press" by J. R. Wallace.

Several other vocal and instrumental selections were rendered by Messrs. A. Steele, C. Williams, R. W. Coulthard and little colored lad called the Alabama Blossom. The Alabama Blossom is a young lad who deserted the McKanlass Concert Company at Morrissey and wandered back to Fernie. He is only twelve or thirteen and is an excellent clog dancer and gives promise of good vocal talent. The lad claims that he was not treated well with the McKanlass outfit, so Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle have taken him under their protection.

The last toast of the evening "Our Host" was responded to by Mr. and Mrs. Tuttle, who expressed their pleasure at having so many guests present. Mr. Tuttle said that the boys deserved to be supported and the citizens were only doing their duty when they helped them. He had always tried to support the boys and would continue to do so whenever the occasion presented itself.

The banquet broke up about one o'clock all feeling that they had spent a delightful evening.

Through some oversight the meeting neglected to give a vote of thanks to the chairman, Mr. W. R. Ross, to whom the success of the evening was largely due. Messrs. Garvey and Wriglesworth also deserve a good deal of credit for the undefatigable manner in which they laboured to make the banquet a success.

FERNIE DEFEATS PINCHER CREEK IN HOCKEY.

The Liphardt Cup and Purdy Medals Will Remain in Fernie for at Least One Year.

The last match in the League series for the season was pulled off in Pincher Creek on Wednesday morning. Ever since the Pincher Creek team tied our boys here on the 7th ult., the keenest interest has been manifested on all sides as to the result of the final game, but owing to the soft weather this has been postponed several times. However, on Tuesday morning the boys received word that they had ice at Pincher, and picking up as many rooters as possible they left on the evening train. The match was billed to take place at 9 a.m., and our boys were in very poor shape to play, hardly any of them having been able to get any sleep during the night. About 9:30 the teams lined up and the large crowd of spectators witnessed a fine exhibition of the great Canadian game. From the time the puck was faced off the play was certainly fast and furious, but with the exception of one or two little altercations was good-natured throughout. The milk maids were not handicapped with a boy this time as they had complained of being on the occasion of the match in Fernie, but were out in full strength, and it was apparent to the Fernie lads that they were confident of victory, having the advantage of their own ice and the assistance of Knowles, one of their best, if not their best, player, who had been unable to go to Fernie for the former match. There was lots of Pincher money in sight and our boys were not slow to take it up. The teams were composed as follows:

Pincher		Fernie
Ross	Goal	Miller
A. H. Gunn	Point	Purdy
H. A. Gunn	Cover Point	Kastner
Moore	Rover	Barber
Garlstone	Forwards	Beaubier
Knowles	"	Lafortune
Grant	"	Coulter

In the first half the game was very even, the Milk Maids got in all the "fine points" they were capable of and kept Milt on the jump, but he was right in the jumping humor and never played a better game in his life. Beaubier was also very much in evidence and as swift as lightning. Barber, the new man on the team, was watched with deep interest, as this was his first game with our lads, but he proved to be a hustler and scored the first goal for Fernie. At the end of half time the Milk Maids were in the lead, the score standing two one in their favor and they were giving odds of 15 to 10, but our lads were not in doubt as to the result. Pincher had played their best while the Fernie boys just gave evidence of waking up, and they did wake up with a vengeance. D. Lafortune got a nice, easy one right at the start-off and sent it to the Pincher goal without the slightest trouble. Norman Coulter next gave evidence that he had by no means forgotten how to play the game, putting a shot through in one of his magnificent side rushes. Beaubier and Barber then gave them an exhibition of combination work up the centre which completely dazzled their eyes, Beaubier touching the puck through the goal. At this juncture Pincher scored their only goal in the last half, making the score 4 to 3 in our favor, but the Milk Maids now gave evidence of being completely played out, and Barber made the play of the game taking the puck right through the Pincher team unaided. It was certainly a grand rush and the Pincher crowd opened their mouths in silent wonderment, while the Fernie rooters simply went wild. One of the Gunn boys, who was playing defence for Pincher now took it in his head that he would stop somebody or something and the big Maiden made a wild rush for Norman Coulter throwing his whole body at the little fellow, but strange to say Norman was not there and the big giant went through the fence like a shot from a canon sending ladies and children flying in all directions, and Coulter in the temporary absence of Mr. Gunn dropped in another goal, making the score six to three.

The Pincher Creek people could not understand it. The team that had defeated everything they had played against for the last four or five years and they had been worsted by a lot of "little bbys" as they termed our lads, and the crowd dispersed with sad faces.

J. McDonald of Ottawa, refereed the game and although there were several disputes with the Pincher boys, his decisions seemed to give general satisfaction.

Mr. Schofield, the greatest champion of sport in Pincher Creek, was the heaviest looser by the defeat, he having bet heavily on the game, but he took defeat in good part even though he did go home sick towards evening. The following telegram was received from Mr. J. H. Bricker and given to Mr. Schofield by way of sympathy.

"Will send photo of cup to Grant Schofield and standbys of Pincher, tear down shelf and sell chains."

In the afternoon the visitors engaged a bus and drove to the cemetery to visit the grave of their late friend and champion, Mr. Geo. Levasseur, who was recently laid to rest in that village. As the boys gathered around the grave and thought of the friend that had lately been taken from them every head was bowed and many an eye was dimmed with tears. Someone started to sing and there in that quiet graveyard every one joined in that beautiful hymn "Nearer My God to Thee."

In the evening the Pincher Creek citizens devoted their hospitality upon our boys at a banquet in the Hotel Arlington in a manner which will not soon be forgotten. Several toasts were proposed and responded to by those present and Mr. McKenzie, a singer of considerable ability, rendered several appropriate selections.

Among those who went down with the boys were Messrs. A. H. Cree, A. C. Liphardt, W. S. Keay, W. Bleasdell, A. Thompson, C. Smith, W. Harwood and J. R. Wallace. They all speak in the highest manner of the hospitality displayed by the citizens of Pincher Creek.

GEORGE J. BURY.

WE present a sketch of Mr. Bury's railroad history which will be of interest to his many friends on the Crow's Nest division:

George J. Bury entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway as Junior Clerk in the Purchasing Agent's office at Montreal, April 1882. His ability soon won the recognition of his superiors and he was transferred first to the General Manager's office and finally to the office of the President. Here the capacity and enthusiasm of the young clerk attracted the notice of Mr. (now Sir William) Van Horne and when his Private Secretary, Mr. Thos. Tait, was sent to take the position of Superintendent at Moose Jaw, Bury succeeded him. This position he held until 1890 when he was appointed Acting Superintendent of Sleeping, Dining and Parlor Cars and Hotels, during the illness of the regular officer. In March of the same year he was appointed Assistant Superintendent of the North Bay division. For five years Mr. Bury remained at North Bay laying solid the foundation of his present reputation as one of the most thoroughly posted men in the railway business. In August, 1899, he was offered the position of Superintendent at Fort William which involved the management of the great Fort William docks and terminals, and the handling of the Northwest wheat crop from Winnipeg to the Lake. Here Mr. Bury's abilities as an organizer and leader of men had full swing and the improvements he worked in the service on that division will be lasting memorials to his capability. In January, 1901, when Superintendent Cameron resigned and it became apparent that if the Canadian Pacific was to retain its control of the East Kootenay, a strong man must be secured as his successor, the Management turned to the subject of this sketch. Of his success as administrator of the Crow's Nest division nothing need be said.

The account of the institution of Mt. Fernie Lodge No. 47, I. O. O. F. in our last issue did not contain notice of a vote of thanks tendered Mr. W. W. Tuttle, for the generous manner in which he had donated the very enjoyable supper to the Lodge and its visitors, and also Mrs. Tuttle for her tireless efforts in preparing the elegant and sumptuous repast, thereby contributing materially towards the pleasure of the evening and the success of the inauguration.

PIANO TUNING

H. J. Clarry, Piano Tuner of Toronto, will pay his annual visit to Fernie about the first week in April. Orders for tuning may be left at this office. 10-2

SPIDER'S CHAPS

BY WOLCOTT LE CLEAR BEARD

A TALE OF THE CATTLE THIEVES OF AGUA CALIENTE.

Copyright, 1900, by W. Le Clear Beard.

Spider instantly turned his horse and spurred straight into the press of cattle, striking and shouting and trying to scatter it. Only on the edge of the herd did he succeed. The rest of the cattle were packed too closely, and there was not time for them to move. Still spurring, Spider snatched his lariat from where it hung on his saddle, closing the loop in order to increase its length. He swung it and cast. The rope fell fair and true across the neck of the steer to which Hollis was clinging. Hollis grasped it instantly.

The cattle heaved and pushed as they felt the strain of the tightened line over their backs. Spider tried desperately to bring the end of his lariat to the saddle horn, where he could secure it, but he was forced away by the cattle until the rope would not reach. Then the cattle gave back a little. Hollis took in the slack afforded by this movement, and opening the loop with one hand, tried to get it over his head and shoulders.

"Le' me have it!" shrieked Spider. "Le' me have the slack—I can't get the rope t' the horn 'less you do. I can't pull y'out with jus' my han'. Le' me have it—quick!"

Hollis strained the rope harder than ever. Though he could not get the loop over his shoulders, he did get one arm through, and then, clutching the lariat in his hand, he jerked the line dangerously as he struggled to rise between the cattle.

"Slack off till I c'n fast the rope!" called Spider despairingly. "I can't hol' ter my saddle else."

The rope was strained until it sung like a harp string. With a quick turn of his wrist Spider wrapped the end of the lariat around his hand and held on with all the strength of his tough little body. Clinging to the horn with his left hand, he was dragged farther and farther out of his saddle. Finally his hold on the horn was broken, his pony dashed riderless up the bank, while Spider hung by the rope, counterbalanced by Hollis at the other end.

"Let go!" I roared to him as I pushed my horses down the bank in order to attempt the assistance that I knew I could not give. "Let go the line and get out while you can! Don't you see they're closing around you? Let go!"

Spider heard and shook his head. He had no intention whatever of letting go. Dragged upward by Hollis' superior weight, he was hanging with his feet just touching the water. In spite of his desperate hold the lariat was slipping through Spider's hands. His face was getting white under its tan, but his teeth were set and still he held fast.

"Let go! Let go, now!" I called again. Spider did not let go, and then it was too late. A bunch of cattle, confused by the stir, that were lumbering aimlessly about, crowded against him and hemmed him in. As I rode I drew my pistol and fired three shots in rapid succession. It is a distress signal that is universally known, and if it was heard it could not fail to bring the men back to Spider's aid.

For a moment no one answered. There was no time for an answer. But I did not realize that then. I rode at the cattle and fired three more shots, this time straight into them, and three of them rolled over into the muddy water. I was so close that I could not miss, and I would cheerfully have sacrificed the whole herd just then if it would have helped Spider out. But my pistol was empty, and all I could do was to try, with the able assistance of the little bay mare I rode, to scatter the cattle that held him into the herd. Indeed the mare did far more than I in the minute that followed. Seeming to realize the situation, she plunged, kicked and even bit as she tried to force her way.

The press got thicker and thicker. The little mare could only struggle faintly against it. I was quite close to Spider now, but I might as well have been a mile away, for I could not reach him. I caught sight of his red head only once. The rest of the time I could see nothing but the strained line that hummed between the boy and the heavy man that was trying to climb by it. I could still yell, and I did. Three shots came back in answer, and in another moment help had arrived.

The cattle that held us into the herd were scattered. One of the cowboys caught my mare by the bridle and led her, protesting against the indignity, up the bank. As we went I turned my head in time to see that Cappy Lee had picked Spider up bodily by his belt and that he looked more spiderlike than ever with his legs and arms flourishing in the air as he was lifted to a seat in front of his rescuer. At the same time another man cut Spider's rope. Then, carrying the loose end to his saddle horn, he took a quick turn and galloped away. Of course the strain on Hollis' arm must have been terrible. No man could have held on, even though his life depended upon it, but Hollis had secured the loop around his wrist and had no choice but to come. Bumping over the back of one cow after another and yelling frightfullly as he came, Hollis at last dropped with a splash into the shallow water near the shore. The cowboy cast loose the rope from his saddle horn and cantered after Lee.

Released from control, the cattle scattered and soon, except for the three dead ones, there was not a cow in sight. Another attempt to cross the river then was impossible. We had done our best and had failed.

CHAPTER III.

IN WHICH SPIDER MYSTERIOUSLY LEAVES CAMP.

It was in a most dismal frame of mind that we returned to our camp, rather to the place where our camp had been. Our reception was correspondingly dismal. In fact, it would be nearer the truth to say that we had no reception, for while we were trying to get the cattle over the river the Ballet Girl had packed up everything there was to pack and had departed in search of a ford or a boat or some means of getting across without having to ferry himself over on his timber leg, as he told us afterward. Therefore there was no dinner awaiting us when we arrived and no means of getting any.

When, after considerable search, we finally discovered our missing kitchen, it had succeeded in crossing, and then, in the face of the rising water, it had to return. It was quite nightfall when it reached us. The Ballet Girl was in a particularly bad humor. For this reason our supper, when we got it, was a wretched one.

Still, bad as it was, it was welcome. As the men gathered about the fire their spirits rose amazingly, even though their wet clothes steamed more than the scalding coffee that the cook poured into the big tin cups. It was all in the day's work—of a cowboy.

We had nearly finished supper when I noticed that Spider was not there. It was so unusual for him to absent himself from a meal that I went in search of him, fearing that something might be wrong. It was some time before I could find him in the darkness; but, hearing an odd sound from behind my tent, I followed it. With his arms thrown around the neck of the horse that he had ridden that day, Spider was sobbing as though his heart would break. I stood still for a moment, surprised. He had not heard me, and I knew that he would be terribly mortified should he find that I had been a witness of his weakness, so I coughed in a discreet manner to warn him of my approach. The effect was instantaneous. Spider straightened up immediately and began to hum a little tune to himself, while the horse looked around at him with an expression of mild surprise at his sudden change of mood.

Exasperating.

Grimes—Confound it, that's just my plaguey luck.

Boyd—What's the matter, Grimes?

Grimes—Matter enough! There's going to be a reduction of fares on my railroad, and I've just got an annual pass on it.

Sweet Potatoes.

The southern way of cooking sweet potatoes is to boil them first, then slice the long way in slices a quarter of an inch thick, lay in a dripping pan with bits of butter, sprinkle with sugar, dust with cinnamon and brown in the oven.

NERVOUS HEADACHE

Irritability, Sleeplessness, Feelings of Lassitude and Depression, Weakness and Irregularity of the Bodily Organs.

These are the symptoms which point to a depleted nervous system. They tell of thin, weak, watery blood, of wasting vitality and lack of energy and ambition. They warn you that nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia, paralysis and even insanity are possibilities of the future.

Mrs. Henry Clarke, Port Hope, Ontario, states:—"I have used seven boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for nervousness and a completely run down system, and can heartily recommend it as a wonderfully effective treatment. Before using this remedy I had been in very poor health for some months. I seemed to have no energy or ambition, felt tired and listless most of the time, and could scarcely drag myself about the house. I was weak, irritable and nervous, could not sleep well, and felt discouraged about my health. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has taken away these symptoms and given back my usual health and vigor, consequently I endorse it fully."

DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD

Fills the shrivelled arteries with new, rich blood, strengthens and revitalizes the nerves by forming new nerve force and gradually and thoroughly overcomes disease and weakness. It forms new healthy tissues and gives a well rounded form and clear, healthy complexion to all who use it. 50 cts. a box 6 boxes for $1.50. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

All Sorts of Fools.

"You are the biggest fool I know!" exclaimed one schoolboy to another.

To both of whom the master, then appearing, said, "Boys, you forget I am here."

"Oh," added the first boy, who felt that his statement demanded support, "you are not such a big fool as you look."

Then there was more trouble.—Philadelphia North American.

FEVER'S VICTIMS.

THE AFTER EFFECTS OFTEN WORSE THAN THE DISEASE ITSELF.

A Sufferer from the After Effects of Typhoid Tells of His Deplorable Condition--Appeared to be in a Rapid Decline.

The after effects of some troubles, such as fevers, la grippe, etc., are frequently more serious in their results than the original illness, and the patient is left an almost physical wreck. In such cases as these what is needed is a tonic medicine, to enrich the blood, strengthen the nerves, and put the system right. Mr. L. Barnhardt, a prosperous young farmer living near Welland, Ont., offers proof of the truth of these statements. Mr. Barnhardt says: "Some years ago, while living in the United States, I was attacked by typhoid fever, the after effects of which proved more disastrous to my constitution than the fever itself, and for months I was an almost total wreck. I had no appetite, was haggard and emaciated, and apparently bloodless. I had violent and distressing headaches, and my whole appearance was suggestive of a rapid decline. I tried no less than three doctors, but they failed to benefit me. At this juncture a friend of mine mentioned my case to another physician, and he suggested that I should take a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took this advice and found it most satisfactory. Almost from the outset the pills helped me, and I continued their use until I had taken about a dozen boxes, when I felt myself fully restored to my former health, and my weight increased to 165 pounds. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since, and I will always give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the praise they so richly deserve."

These pills are a certain cure for the after effects of fever, la grippe and pneumonia. They make new, rich, red blood and strengthen the nerves from first dose to last; and in this way they cure such troubles as anaemia, neuralgia, rheumatism, heart weakness, kidney and liver ailments, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, etc. They also cure the functional ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery, and bring the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Other alleged tonic pills are mere imitations of this great medicine, and the buyer shoud see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on every box. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent postpaid at 50c a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Britain's Granite.

Leicestershire is the greatest granite producing county in the United Kingdom.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

I Cure Pain.

The Dr. McLaughlin Electric Belt is the only never-failing cure for Rheumatism, Lame Back, Nervousness, General Debility, Loss of Power in Young, Middle-aged and Old Men, Varicocele, Weak Back and Kidneys, Drains of Vitality, Wasted Energy, Sleeplessness, Pains in Head, Back, Chest, Shoulders and Limbs, Female Weakness, Bearing Down Pains and all those ailments from which women suffer. It cures after all other remedies have failed.

I don't ask anyone to take chances on my invention.

It doesn't cost you anything if I fail.

I don't ask any man to buy my appliance on a speculation. I know that it will cure these troubles and I want my pay only when the cure is complete. I don't ask you to try it one month, nor two months, but long enough to cure you, and when I have cured you you can pay me. If I fail in my task it's my loss, not yours. All you lose is your time, and if my Belt fails to cure you you will have the satisfaction of knowing that the best, strongest and finest electric body appliance in the world—one with 50,000 cures to its credit—has failed, and that there is no cure for you in electricity. Remember, my terms are PAY WHEN CURED.

CAUTION-- Beware of concerns offering a thin piece of felt as a substitute for my cushion electrodes. These cheap coverings are used only to disguise their bare metal blistering electrodes. They have to be soaked in water, which quickly dries and leaves them without current. My cushion electrodes are my exclusive invention and cannot be imitated.

If you have one of these old-style, blistering belts I will take it in trade for one of mine. I do this not that the old belt is of any use, for it is not, but to establish the value of my goods with people who have been misled by the false claims of concerns selling a cheap, worthless article. "Invisible air, teacher."

"What proof have you, Johnny?"

"By looking at your head we can see the hair is invisible."

Great consternation.

STORMS AND FLOODS

SEVERAL LIVES LOST IN NORTH CAROLINA AND NEW JERSEY.

DAMAGE TO PROPERTY WILL TOTAL SEVERAL MILLION DOLLARS.

Asheville, N. C., March 4.— Five lives are reported to have been lost in Marshall during the storm Sonday.

Reports from that section of western North Carolina say that two other persons are known to have perished in the flood. Damage to property is estimated at from fifty to seventy-five thousand dollars.

In the flooded district of Paterson, N. J.. are dozens of silk mills that have been running steadily on full time for months past. All these must remain idle for the present,and some of them for a considerable time to come. The suffering must necessarily be great among the hundreds of persons employed in these establishments.

The East Jersey Water company is by far the worst sufferer from the flood. The entire filtration plant of the company, the construction of which was almost complete is wiped oue. The contract price for the work was $800,000, all of which is lost to the company. In addition to this much of the intake of the company is destroyed, and the probability is that in all the loss to the company will amount to a million and a half of dollars.

Utica, N. Y., March 4.—The flood situation on the Mohawk division of the Central Hudson is the most serious in the history of that road. Near Sprackers 2,000 feet of track have been washed away. Between Little Falls and St. Johnsville there is another serious washout and for several miles great quantities of ice are piled several feet deep. Four hundred men are engaged in removing the ice.

Montpelier, Va., March 4.—A tremendous freshet in the Winooski river has caused thousands of dollars of damage to property in this city and vicinity. Choked by an ice jam, the river has risen steadily for several days, and during last night it reached flood height, overflowed its banks, gouged out highways and railroads and swept away two bridges, one of them being a steel structure, which, it is estimated, it will cost the city of Montpelier $28,000 to replace.

FLOODS IN QUEBEC.

Montreal, March 4.—The incessant rains of the last two days have caused floods throughout the province.

The Yamaska river at St. Hyacinthe, and the St. Francis river, at Sherbrooke, have both overflowed their banks, causing damage to property.

PRINTING OFFICE EXPLOSION.

New York, March 4.—An explosion yesterday, wrecked the five-storey building at Nos. 210-212 Canal St., occupied by the Aste Press Printing company. Half the Canal street front of the structure was blown into the street, and the interior was almost instantly a roaring mass of flames.

Mrs. Kurranto died of her injuries. Henry W. Shilliard and E. Quimby jumped from a fifth story window and were probab,y fatally hurt.

The fire department estimate the loss at $75,000.

FOUGHT A DUEL.

Buda Pest, March 3.—Count Stefan Tisza and M. Radovski, both members of the house of representatives, fought a duel with swords today. M. Radovski was somewhat severely wounded in the arm, after an unusu. ally fierce encounter.

The duel was the outcome of an exchange of vituperation in the diet. The combatants refused to become reconciled after the fight.

KANSAS LOGIC.

I was driving across the country to a little town in western Kansas the other day when I met a farmer hauling a wagon load of water.

"Where do you get water ?" said I.

"Up the road about seven miles," he replied.

"And you haul water seven miles for your family and stock ?"

"Yep."

"Why in the name of sense don't you dig a well ?"

"Because it's just as far one way as the other, stranger."

MISHAP AT VONDONOP.

Lieut.-Col- Anderson, in Command of the Convoy, Tells How It Happened.

London, March 3.—In a dispatch from Pretoria, Lord Kitchener sends details of the disaster to the escort of the convoy of empty wagons at Vondonop, southwest of Klerksdorp, Transvaal Colony.

The British casualties in killed, wounded, and men made prisoners, reach the total of 632. In addition the Boers captured three guns.

Lt.-Col. Anderson, who commanded the British force, and who has returned to Kraalpan, Cape Colony, with nine officers and 245 men, reports that when his advance guard was within ten miles of Klerksdorp, during the morning of Feb. 25, the Boers opened a heavy rifle fire on the troops from the scrub. The burghers were driven off, and the convoy resumed its march, when a more determined attack was made on the convoy's left flank, the Boers getting within a hundred yards and stampeded the mules harnessed to a number of wagons. The attackers were again driven off. At about 6.30 in the morning the rear guard was attacked by a strong force of Boers, and simultaneously another body of Boers boldly charged the centre of the convoy and stampeded the mules in all directions, throwing the escort into confusion, during which the Boers charged and recharged, riding down the separated British units.

The fighting lasted for two hours, during which the two British guns and a pom-pom almost exhausted their ammunition. A detachment of 200 mounted infantry from Klerksdorp attempted to reinforce the British, but were held in check by the Boers.

Lieut.-Col. Anderson adds that the strength of the Boers was estimated at from 1,200 to 2,700. Commandants Delarey, Kemps, Celliers, Lemmer, Wolmarans and Potgieter were all present. Commandant Lemmer is said to have been killed.

LOST IN SNOW SLIDES.

A dispatch from Telluride, Co., says : Fourteen dead, as many injured and a score or more missing are the result, as far as known of the series of snow slides which occurred in the vicinity of the Liberty Bell Mine on Smuggler Mountain, three and a half miles north of Telluride. The roads between here and Liberty bell are impassable, and details of the accident are hard to obtain.

The first slide carried away the boarding and bunk houses, and the tram house of the mine. About 250 men are regularly employed in the mines and mills of the Liberty Bell mine, but a large number of men from the night shift were in Telluride and were prevented from returning to the mine by the terrible storm which was raging. The day shift had just gone to work, leaving but comparatively few underground workmen at the bunk house. The slide came without warning. The three large buildings were carried down the steep mountain side, a distance of about 2,000 feet, and literally ground to pieces, not a board being left intact. The snow and debris piled in the bottom of the canon, twenty-five feet deep. Those who escaped the slide at once began the work of rescuing their less fortunate companions. A dozen or more were taken out alive, some of them badly injured, however.

AN UNUSUAL INCIDENT.

It seems almost incredible but is nevertheless true (says the Free Press) that wild animals sometimes roam through the streets of Winnipeg at night. An instance occurred early on Saturday morning last, when a wild fox was seen complacently trotting down Main street in front of the McIntyre block. At the corner of McDermot it turned back and ran down Lombard street toward the river. The story is vouched for by Patrolman Colbourn who was on duty on Main street at the time. The latter gave chase to the fox but did not succeed in catching it. It is probable that the severe storm which raged last Friday night drove the animal in from the prairie for protection.

The incident is not without precedent, as on several occasions coyotes have been seen within the city limits.

KILLED A SHERIFF.

Baltimore, Md., March 4.—Six prisoners broke jail at Easton, Md., late on Saturday night, and in attempting to arrest them Deputy Sheriff Thomas S. Thompson was shot and instantly killed.

Lewis Green, colored, awaiting trial on the charge of having murdered his mistress, is thought to have fired the shot. The prisoners are still at liberty.

Toronto, March 3.—Martin Rose slipped fsom a ladder while cleaning snow from the roof of a west end factory and pulled the ladder after him as he fell, sustaining injuries resulting in death in a few hours.

About 8 o'clock Saturday night, while engaged in lifting a ponderous piece of machinery on to a freight car at the C. P. R. freight sheds at the foot of York street, one of the employees was probably fatally injured and another badly hurt. The machinery, which was being lifted by half a dozen men, fell and pinned to the ground John McKenna and Robert Ingle. The men were extricated with difficulty and removed to the hospital. Ingle received several internal injuries, having his pelvis badly crushed and his body severely bruised. McKenna had his left leg badly crushed.

MR ARTHUR LYNCH, M.P.

The Man Who Defeated Mr. Horace Plunkett in Galway—Why He Hates the British Empire.

Ireland, which invented the absentee landlord, says The London Express, seems likely to invent the absentee M.P. Galway has elected Mr. Arthur Lynch, the chosen candidate of the Nationalists, to the British Parliament, but it is almost a certainty that he will not sit in the House. If he returns to England as a British subject he is liable to be arrested for high treason and shot as a traitor. On his own confession Mr. Lynch has borne arms in the Transvaal against the British Government.

The reason why Mr. Lynch hates the British Empire and all its works is said to be because London killed his literary ambition He is a writer of more than ordinary power, a poet of considerable talent, a man with some pretensions to rank as a thinker. A Master of Arts of Melbourne University, civil engineer, athlete, journalist, war correspondent, military officer commanding the 2nd Irish Brigade with the Boers, Arthur Lynch is unusually versatile. But all his gifts have been nullified by a narrow fanaticism of view and a fierce contempt for all prejudices except his own. When the Rhymers' Club met at the Cheshire Cheese Arthur Lynch came as the guest of a well known Irish mystic. With a mind that could not tolerate the medical-student pleasantries of the Rhymers, Lynch showed that he resented such trifling while he was one of the company. The result was that when he first issued his book, "Modern Authors," those of the Rhymers who were critics remembered, and mercilessly reviewed his work. Three books which followed received the same treatment, and then the aggrieved author, instead of kissing the rod, issued a satire called "Our Poets," which is one of the most savage satires since "English Bards and Scotch Reviewers." He selected such representative poets as Austin Dobson, Swinburne and Kipling, and satirized them in their own metre. But when he came to the minor poets he was venomously merciless. Of one long-haired gentleman who was the fashion some years ago he said, "the sugar-coated prig," and added in a foot-note that his claims to beauty might be summed thusly: "He has a fine forehead, but the prim, mean mouth of a parlor-maid." "Our Poets" was soon out of print — bought up, it is hinted, by the satirized Rhymers. There was no further edition, and although Mr. Lynch has published two books since then, it is easy to understand that they were not a success.

In Paris, where he represented a London daily paper, Mr. Lynch came under the spell of that curious character, Miss Maud Gonne, who rejoices in the mock sobriquet of "the Irish Joan of Arc." The lady lost no opportunity of adding fuel to Mr. Lynch's hatred of things English, and she was instrumental in organizing the departure of a number of "mercenaries," with whom were the late Colonel de Villebois-Mareuil and Arthur Lynch, to the Transvaal. The latter's military ability has won the enconiums of Louis Botha, but if Mr. Lynch enters the sphere of British influence the results to himself are likely to be unpleasant.

MARKETS

Compiled from The Commercial.

WHEAT.

Manitoba wheat is dull and dragging, the demand being small. The want of ordinary transportation facilities is a great hindrance to business. During the week there has been almost no change in values. At the beginning of the week, owing to the decline in United States markets the situation became very lifeless and quotations were ½c less, but this was regained by the middle of the week and at the end the feeling was firmer. Prices at the end of the week were : No. 1 northern, 70¾c; 2 northern, 67¾c, in Fort William or Port Arthur.

Country Markets—The country market is very quiet owing to lack of elevator accommodation. Where wheat is being bought prices rule from 54 to 60c a bushel.

Liverpool Prices.—No. 1 northern spring wheat sold at Liverpool on Saturday at 6s 1½d.

FLOUR—Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $2.00 per sack of 98 pounds; Glenora Patent, $1.95 ; Alberta, $1.75 ; Manitoba, $1.55 ; Imperial XXXX, $1.25 ; Lake of the Woods Five Roses brand, $2 per 98 pound sack ; Red Patent, $1.85; Medora, $1.45; XXXX, $1.25.

MILLFEED—Prices show still further declines. Bran, in bulk, per ton $14.50; shorts, $16.50. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is quoted at $27 per ton delivered to the trade. Barley chop $20 per ton. Oil cake, $27.

OATS.–Offerings of oats are quite liberal and this market is well supplied from Manitoba country points. The market is easy, but prices remain unchanged at 35 to 36c per bushel for feed grades in car lots on track in Winnipeg. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 28 to 31c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—Receipts are light and the demand for both malting and feed qualities is good. Buyers have been paying an advance of 2c per bushel for some lots of feed barley this week, as compared with a week ago. Malting grades are worth 38 to 40c per bushel in car lots on track in Winnipeg, and feed grades 36 to 38c.

HAY.—Dealers are now paying $4.50 to $5.00 per ton for choice baled hay in cars on track. Loose hay on the street is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS — Business is quiet and prices unchanged. Beef,city dressed, 6½ to 7½c per lb ; country 5c; veal, 6 to 8c; mutton, 8c; lamb, 9c; hogs, 7¾ to 8½c.

BUTTER—Creamery—A few factories are shipping winter butter into the city, for which jobbers are paying 21½c net, laid down in Winnipeg.

BUTTER—Dairy—Choice table butter is in demand, but very little is offering. Seconds are plentiful, and slow sale. Dealers are paying 20 to 22c for best in tubs or prints on a commission basis.

CHEESE—Jobbing houses are selling cheese at 11c per pound delivered to the trade.

POULTRY—Receipts are light and demand good. Fresh killed chickens are worth 11 to 12½c per pound delivered here; ducks and geese, 10 to 11c, and turkeys, 12½ to 14c.

EGGS—Stocks are increasing, and shipments are now being made to British Columbia. One lot of 100 cases has been sent to Montreal. Dealers are allowing 16½c per doz. delivered here for case eggs, subject to candling.

GAME—Rabbits are bringing 5c each.

POTATOES—Farmers' loads, delivered in Winnipeg, are worth 25 to 30c per bushel.

HIDES —No. 1 inspected hides, 6c; per lb delivered in Winnipeg ; No. 2, 5c; No. 3, 4c; kips and calves, same price; deakins, 25 to 40c; horsehides 50c to $1.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—Prime beef cattle are scarce at 4¾c per pound. Stockers worth $14 to $16 for yearlings at country points, and $18 to $20 for two-year-olds.

HOGS—The market is weak and ¼c lower, making the price now 6c per pound for choice packing hogs, delivered at Winnipeg.

SHEEP.—There is no movement at present as butchers are plentifully supplied with frozen mutton.

MILCH COWS—There is a good demand for new milkers at from $35 to $45 each.

HORSES—The market for horses is in an unsatisfactory state owing to difficulty in securing supplies. Both Ontario and the States have been pretty well scoured for horses without much success, and the result is that high prices and poor animals will be the rule this year.

A Joke.

Willie—Say, did you propose to my sister last night?

Featherstone—Eh—ah! Why, Willie?

Willie—'Cause everybody in the house has been guying the life out of her.—Detroit Free Press.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE death of the Hon. J. H. Booth, Speaker of the Legislature, removes from the province one of its most respected residents, and from the Legislative Assembly a member in whom his own constituency and the country at large had the utmost confidence. Mr. Booth's acquaintance with the province and its needs, and his devotion to its best interests, made him an especially valuable man in the House. He had an essentially practical mind, and was a man of exceptionally good business capacity. In these respects he was a decided acquisition to the Legislature, and his loss will be keenly felt.—Province.

The phenomenal success of the hockey team fully demonstrates the fact that Fernie has abundance of the material necessary to establish here the banner Athletic Association of the East Kootenay District. One thing is necessary, however, if we are to place our baseball, football and lacrosse teams on the same pedestal of fame attained by the hockey club, and that is a liberal financial support. It may be very encouraging to the boys to know that they have the moral support of the community, but that is not enough. It takes money to furnish a team with all the necessary outfit. If stinted in this respect they may be compelled to buy an inferior class of goods, and surely all will agree that the best is none too good for Fernie.

* * *

At last a timeworn grievance has been settled. The people of Fernie are to have the deeds of their land. The Secretary of the Board of Trade today received from Victoria the following message:—J. S. T. Alexander : Government approves land settlement. Coal Company will give deeds. Congratulations.

JOSHUA DAVIES.

Certainly credit is due our Board of Trade for their untiring efforts to secure this much-needed settlement. It is impossible to estimate the harm done to the town in the past two years by the unsettled question of Land Titles. No other town in B. C. has ever made such rapid progress under such unfavorable circumstances. It is a very conservative estimate to say that Fernie would ere this have rivalled Nelson or Rossland had it not been for this serious drawback. Now that the difficulty has been removed we may expect to see Fernie forge ahead in a way that will make some of the older towns look to their laurels, if they are to maintain the lead which they have so long held; and our business men may expect to reap the reward of their unfaltering faith in the town even where the skies were dark.

The Liberals of East Kootenay are a good illustration of the old saw : "Many men, many minds." The Liberals of Cranbrook are unanimous in supporting Martin. At a meeting of The Cranbrook Liberal Association on Feb. 26th., Mr. Beatties action at the Liberal convention in Vancouver, in supporting Martin was approved of and endorsed, and a vote of thanks tendered him for the way in which he acquitted himself as delegate. On the other hand we have on file the report of a meeting of the Fernie Liberal Association held here on Feb., 18th at which a resolution was passed protesting against the "trickery," of the Vancouver condition !

Well ! well ! It looks as though a man may be a good Liberal and yet vote any old way.

WILLSON—LEE.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. J. R. Pollock, United States Consul, on Wednesday evening March 5th. The contracting parties were Dr. W. H Willson, Surgeon of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., at Morrissey, and son of Captain Harper Willson of Winnipeg, and Miss Ida Lee, daughter of the late John Lee, Carberry Man.

The officiating clergyman, Rev. A. Dunn, of Elko, made the happy pair one to the strains of Lohngrens wedding march which was beautifully rendered by Mr. H. Leslie Staebler.

The invited guests were :—Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Proctor, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Trites, Mr. John Kay, Mr. J. S. T. Alexander, Mr. Thos. R. Stockett, Jr., Miss Andrews of Fernie, B.C. Mr. and Mrs. Robison Pearson, Mr. R. W. Wood of Morrissey, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Small, Cranbrook.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests sat down to a very recherche supper provided by the hostess, Mrs. J. R. Pollock. The tables were beautifully decorated with roses, and the health and happiness of the young couple were pledged by all present.

Dr. Willson is a former resident of Fernie and always took an active part in athletics and politics and his many friends extend their congratulations.

The happy pair left on the western train Thursday morning for their honeymoon trip to the Coast cities and on their return will reside at Morrissey when they will be at home to their friends about March 20th.

Mr. H. Leslie Stabler will take pupils on piano or organ. Those desiring to be called on may leave names with Mr. J. Bricker, of the Crow's Nest Trading Co.

The services at Christ Church on Sunday next will be as follows: Litany 11 a.m. Sunday School and Bible Class, 2:30 p.m. Evensong 7:30. Services Wednesday and Friday at 7:30 p.m. Choir practice Friday after evening service.

Sam Gibson, who has been in the smallpox pest house for fifty days has come to life again and will resume business in Victoria Hotel Saturday night, when he will be prepared to supply his customers with all the delicacies of the season.

The masquerade ball given by the Tannhauser Dancing Academy on Tuesday evening of this week was well attended ond seemed to be quite a success. There were about thirty couples present and many of the costumes were very beautiful.

Mr. A. Beck's winow during the former part of this week contained two of the finest wedding cakes that one would care to see. They were simply beautiful, and if wedding cakes are any incentive to marriage we may look for an epidemic in that line immediately. The cakes were the work of Mr. J. R. McEwing.

The Liphardt Cup and the Purdy Medals (seven in number) were presented to the Fernie Hockey Team on Thursday evening at the banquet given in their honor. Mr. W. B. Ganong, the popular manager of the Royal Hotel, also presented five other medals to the other members of the team who had played in the matches previous to the final one at Pincher.

The many friends of Mr. Geo. Malone, the popular young barber who was employed by Messrs. Ingram & McIntyre for some months, and who left for his home in the east some time ago, will be pleased to learn that he has again taken up his residence in Fernie, and will resume his duties at the Royal barber shop Mr. Malone brought his wife out with him and will make Fernie his home in future.

Walter Hennessey, while drawing ice from the river on Sunday, had his team stalled on the hill and one horse went over the bank. The chances of getting him out safely looked very bad but the sleigh slipped down the hill, its weight pulling the horse out without any injury. The sleigh broke loose and went over the bank upside down, discharging its cargo very quickly but no damage was done to the outfit.

The Alabama warbler and the celebrated McKanlass gave a performance before a full house in Princess Hall, Wednesday evening. This company have been receiving hot shot from a number of papers along the line for putting on rough performances, but the show given here was clear throughout, and although the concert was nothing remarkable, McKanlass, the leading man, possesses really good talent.

Mr. Logan will move his tailor shop into the rear of Joyce Bros' store next week.

Mrs. L. Patmore, of Fort Steele, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. H. Kerslaw, this week.

The Lethbridge lacrosse team have organized for the coming seasen. Mr. H. Bentley was elected Patron of the club.

A very desirable house lot for sale at a bargain if sold at once. Inquire of Geo. F Dodge, over Hutchison's tailor shop.

Mr. Jones, one of the partners in the Hoffman Hotel, at Elko, has sold out his interest in the business to Mr. Stevenson, of Winnipeg.

Mr. E. W. Cox, assistant General Manager of the Canada Life has been promoted to the position of General Manager of the same company.

L. Carosella is moving his general store from the Old Town to the building recently erected by Mr. Turner in the rear of the Alberta Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Beck returned this week from an extended trip through the east. They visited friends in Winnipeg, Sudbury, Gore Bay and Almonte.

A first class musical programme is guaranteed to all who attend the Epworth League on Monday night. Some of our best local artists are on the programme. Everybody welcome.

J. L. Gates, manager of the Victoria Hotel, was up before the magistrate this week on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday but the charge was not sustained and the magistrate dismissed the case.

Pincher Creek is to have a band. The instruments have been ordered and are on the way. Surely if the little town of Pincher Creek can support a band, Fernie ought also to do something in that line.

The last carnival of the season was held in the skating rink on Thursday evening of this week, and although the ice was in splendid condition it was not very well attended, there being only about a dozen costumers and about fifty spectators.

News reached here this week of the death of Mrs. A. McDougall at Renfrew, Ont., the sad event taking place on March 1st. She had been ill for some time and it was known some weeks ago, when Mr. McDougall left for the east, that she would not recover. Mr. McDougall has the sympathy of his many friends here in his sad affliction. Two children are left to mourn the loss of a loving mother.

A man named Bert Borson was bronght up from Morrisey on Wednesday of this week, and placed in the Fernie hospital. He was suffering from a terrible fracture of the skull, caused by a rock falling from a bank and lighting on his head. His skull was completely caved in and the brains were still oozing out when he reached here. An operation was at once performed and several pieces of bone were removed from the brain, and although the man is doing much better than was expected it is not likely that he will recover.

UMAN BLOODHOUND

AUSTRALIAN BLACK TRIBE ENDOWED WITH TRACKING INSTINCT.

Positively No Escape From the "Tracker" —The Excitement of a Man Hunt—How Charlie Traced a Cattle Thief for Days and Then Discovered Him Treed Like a Possum.

When a man commits a crime in Australia he knows that his chances for escape are hopeless, if a "tracker" is put upon his trail within twenty-four hours thereafter. A tracker is a native black man, one of a tribe endowed with a marvelous instinct which enables them to run down to his hiding place any criminal fleeing from justice. These men are literally known as bloodhounds, and their strange power is possessed by no other race of people in the world.

Once given the scent, a tracker will pursue and discover his game with never-failing success, unless the criminal has had sufficient start to enable him to put to sea, in which case the black man can only follow him to the water's edge.

The peculiar power of the black detectives was first discovered by the white surveyors in the Antipodes through their extraordinary success in locating lost people in the bush. An unerring instinct, coupled with inexplicably keen judgment, made it possible for them to take up a trail and follow it until the lost man was found, dead or alive, even though the journey led through the forests where the black pursuer never had been. Their usefulness as trackers of criminals was thus suggested, and they have since proved themselves invaluable to the police. So implicit is the confidence felt in them that when a black starts out on a man hunt the officer who accompanies him merely follows in his wake, leading his own horse, and does not question him or in any way interfere with him, no matter in what direction the guide may go, or how apparently reasonless or futile his method. The officer knows that the simple-minded aborigine possesses a cunning and sense of divination superior to his own trained intelligence and so keeps a respectful silence.

The most expert trackers are found in the State of Queensland, near the borders of New South Wales. They are animated by no feeling of vengeance toward their quarry, and will travel faithfully for any number of miles, intent upon their task and unmindful of any obstacles or danger, seeming to take delight in the accomplishment of their object and asking a reward ridiculously out of proportion to their labor— a few shillings, some tobacco or gewgaws sufficing them. Of the value of money they have no conception. Rum is their weakness. I have known of a tracker employed to locate certain valuable trees for a timberman traveling forty miles through a forest so dense that he had to cut his way with a tomahawk (a necessary weapon down there for exploring), and being content with a reward of a bottle of rum, while the timberman realized $450 from the sale of the tree. They are submissive, courageous and alert. Their knowledge of English is very imperfect, a few broken words, signs and gestures conveying their meaning.

My first man hunt was with "Charlie," a splendid specimen of aboriginal symmetry and muscular development. His eyes were large, black and dreamy, but brilliant when aroused to the business of tracking. His general appearance was somewhat like that of a negro, his complexion and skin totally black, showing a tinge of copper in the sun. His fine, strong white teeth seemed capable of assisting him to devour any sort of wild game. The usual loin garment of kangaroo skin he had discarded for a covering of light cotton cloth, provided by the police. He led a horse, for use in getting over the ground quickly in the open country, where the footprints of the fugitive are usually distinct enough to follow on horseback.

I had business that took me to the Queensland border, en route through the Nightcap Mountains, and was looking forward with little pleasure to the loneliness of the trip, when I was overtaken by an officer and Charlie, like myself on horseback, the officer having some wrist jewelry and a warrant for the apprehension of a cattle stealer. Now, cattle stealing in Australia is a serious offence, the cattle laws there being most strict. The offender had two days' start of his pursuers, and was known to be a well-seasoned bushman, who could resort to considerable cunning to elude capture, being thoroughly familiar with the methods of the trackers. This made the chase the more exciting.

Charlie struck the trail easily enough and ran along, never once raising his eyes off the ground, until after four hours scrambling through underbrush. On the first heat of the third day of the trail, we reached a river, Charlie crouching attentively along the ground until he came to the bank. There, in the damp earth, two foot prints were plainly visible.

"What are you going to do now?" asked the officer of Charlie.

For answer Charlie leaped into the river and struck out for the opposite bank. The tide was rather strong and carried him down stream a bit, but he swam valiantly, while we sat, tired, travel-stained and hungry, on the trunk of a fallen tree and watched his ebony wool bobbing along on the water. Emerging on the other side he ran dripping for twenty feet or so, following footsteps that again stopped at the water's edge.

Here the tracker paused. He was plainly puzzled. What had become of the cattle thief? Had he recrossed the river, or swam down as far as he could and landed on either bank, then struck into the woods again? Again sharply examining the ground and satisfying himself that the man had not remained on that side, Charlie swam back, landing a few yards below us. By his actions we saw that he had found the tracks again. The man had indeed recrossed the river, but where had he gone after that?

Trust a tracker to guess riddles of that sort!

Suddenly Charlie commenced to brush aside the leaves and twigs along the edge of the bank, uncovering the space between him and us until he caught up with us.

"White fellow no can fool black fellow," he said, smiling, wet and breathless. Then we saw that the fugitive had carefully covered up his tracks while walking backward, and, strange to say, they terminated under the very tree where we were.

Apparently the man hunt was at an end. Our game had vanished into space.

Charlie dashed into the thicket, and hastily secured a strong, pliable vine used by the natives in scaling tree trunks too smooth to climb. This he threw about the tree, enclosing his own body, and fastened it by wreathing it together, holding the ends with his hands. Working this hoop as a sort of lever, he began to scale the tree.

We looked on in astonishment. Not a human being was in sight above ground. What clue could Charlie be following now? Did he expect to find his man in the sky?

Up went the black until 30 feet in the air. Here we noted that the main trunk of the tree had been broken off years before, forming a crotch for the new branches that had sprung up on either side.

Then a most astonishing thing happened.

Reaching down into the hollow of the half-dead tree trunk the tracker seized something, at the same time shouting to the officer below:

"Boss! Boss! I catch white fellow! He play possum!"

Out of the opening appeared a man's head, and a more miserable object I have never seen. He was tousled, dirty, gaunt, half-starved. I have said that a tracker always runs down his game. This time he certainly ran it up. Charlie's skill at ringtailed possum hunting helped him out, for very often when a native has killed his game with a boomerang the animal is caught in a tree, and the hunter has to climb for it in the manner I have described.

Charlie got us safely back to the cabin, and later on I bade him and the officer good-bye. The cattle thief, of course, paid the penalty of his crime. He said that, knowing a tracker would be put upon his trail, he had hoped to give him the impression that he had drowned while swimming the river.— San Francisco Examiner.

OLD STAMPS DESTROYED.

Thrown Away as Rubbish—Enough to Make an Ardent Collector Go Crazy.

Philatelists will be down-hearted when they read of the wholesale destruction of thousands of valuable old stamps which has taken place in Barbados.

The story is told in Stanley Gibbons' Monthly Journal, which says that stamp collectors in Barbados were wild when they heard that these stamps had been thrown away on the reef as rubbish.

Ten years ago a heap of bankrupts' ledgers, day books, account books, etc., the accumulation of 50 years, was removed to a room in the Court House. Eventually this room became so full that a short time back the official assignee decided to have the old ledgers carted away to the reef and buried.

In addition to the books there was a vast mass of correspondence from England and various West Indian Islands, and numbers of old and valuable stamps remained on the envelopes. The order to remove the books was taken to mean clearing away everything in the room, and accordingly the stamps went with the remainder of the "rubbish" into deep trenches for the purpose.

The street arab unearthed the treasure. Dozens of boys got to work on the trenches and brought to light thousands of stamps. Many were spoilt, but a few well-known purchasers secured hundreds of stamps at prices which should leave them a very handsome margin of profit.

The Government, hearing of the matter, had the ledgers, correspondence, etc., dug up and burnt.

Color of Scot's Hair.

A curious investigation reported to the British Association traces the origin of complexion by the surnames. It was based, according to a contemporary, on an examination of 14,561 school children of East Aberdeenshire, and a calculation of the pigmentation of the hair and eyes for 59 most frequent surnames. The darkest hair and eyes belong to surnames common in fishing communities, verifying the tradition that the fishing population of East Scotland is of Belgian origin. The pigmentation of Highland surnames corresponds closely with that of their districts of origin. The surnames of Wallace, Pirie, Grant, Peck and Birnie have strong blood tendencies; those of Cordiner, Cruickshank, Stephen, Strachan, Buchan, Paterson and Whyte are darkest; and Rennie, Scott, Grant and Thompson show most red hair.—London Graphic.

Cremation in Fifteen Years

In spite of the efforts of well-known people—Miss Kate Greenaway was the last—to popularize cremation by leaving directions for the disposal of their bodies by this means, cremation in London does not advance very quickly. When the society started work in 1885 there were three cremations, in 1890 the number at Woking was fifty-four, and last year it had advanced to 301. The total of 1,824 as a record of fifteen years is not financially encouraging, but the society does not relax its efforts to popularize what it believes to be the most sensible and sanitary means of disposing of the dead.

ONTARIO TO OTHER EYES.

The Province Looks Like Home to an Englishman—People Happy, Contented and Prosperous—Good Climate.

It is a familiar remark that all cities are alike, writes the special correspondent of The London Standard who accompanied the royal party during their tour. In Canada, however, they are entirely different. Quebec, for example, is a beautiful and ancient dame, with the manners of a past age. Winnipeg is a hoyden, Victoria a dainty maiden, Ottawa a lady of fashion, Montreal a solid business man, and Toronto a well-to-do citizen with a place in the country. It was with a feeling of repose that we approached the capital of Ontario. Night and day we had sped across bare heaths and through great stretches of forest, beautiful in their scarlet and purple vastness. Never have seen such masses of color — the deep purple of the blue beech, the trembling orange and gold of birch and aspen, wreathed with the dark green of pines, a carpet of flaming schumach—all fading into a dream of pink and purple and green and gold against the cold blue of an autumn sky. As we drew near to Toronto a new and quiet sense of home came over us. From the windows of the train we looked out across English meadows and gardens and hedgerows, right away to a blue line of hills and a dull grey sky. Smiling homesteads, pleasant hamlets, busy towns, glided past us, leaving an impression of industry, content and settled prosperity. The people, too, reminded us strongly of home, for we were in the heart of a British and Protestant community. Everywhere the Duke and Duchess had been welcomed warmly and heartily, even in French and Catholic Quebec, but in my ears the cheers of Toronto sounded more stirring — more British in force and value.

I am not sure that this feeling of home was not due in part to another cause. It was raining The climate of Canada has been woefully misrepresented. Most people remember the words, "Our Lady of the Snows," and forget the license of the poet. There is a popular belief that in the Dominion they leap from "winter to summer without a spring." Now, in this journey of nearly six thousand miles, we have had almost perfect weather. Though on the edge of winter, only on one fleeting day have we had snow. Three or four showers of rain, and all the rest bright, warm and sunny. Even the winter, as everyone will tell you, is less trying than that of England, for the air is clear and dry, and still, though the thermometer may be many degrees below zero. Only when the wind blows—and that is rarely—do you need to wrap yourself in furs and avoid exposure. Well, it was rain in Toronto, and the sky was leaden, and no one seemed to give it a thought. The children — there were six thousand healthy youngsters at the railway station — sang their national songs, waved their Union Jacks and maple leaves, and cheered as lustily as if the sun had been shining on them and they were not soaked to the skin. The streets were densely crowded, and the enthusiasm was a thing to be remembered. Their Royal Highnesses drove through miles of suburbs, in which are many beautiful residences, gardens radiant with blossoms and leafy avenues. In the city are many handsome churches and public buildings, with well-ordered streets traversed in ever direction by electric tramcars. Canada is a land of public buildings and tramways. Every Provincial capital has a pile of Government buildings that would not discredit a European capital; and the wealthy merchants and citizens display admirable taste in the construction of their business houses and dwellings. The effect is pleasing and surprising, especially in towns not a quarter of a century old.

Their Royal Highnesses spent two busy days in Toronto. I have given by cable a brief description of the chief incidents. The review was the principal event. In numbers it surpassed any that we had seen in Canada. Nearly twelve thousand men were drawn up on the shore of the lake, in front of fifty thousand people, who watched with manifest interest every evolution on the plain. I have said before that the Canadians appear to take less interest in the war than do the Australians. Martial spirit is not so manifest, and the cadet system, strong and widespread in Australia, is here in its infancy.

From Toronto the Duke and Duchess made a short and rapid tour among the eastern towns of Ontario, stopping for a few hours at London, on the Thames, in the County of Middiesex. London is the centre of a rich agricultural district, and the visit must have enabled them to form some some opinion of the wonderful natural resources of the country. On every side were evidences of industry and thrift, and of a soil that yields abundant harvests. London is but one of a group of townships that give to Ontario its preeminence as the wealthiest and most populous province in the Dominion. In 1826 it was the administrative centre, and to-day it is the boast of London that more trains arrive and depart daily there than at any other point in Canada. The most fertile area of Ontario is its tributary, and sends to its busy markets every kind of agricultural produce. A great brewing industry has been established, and London ales are famous throughout the continent. At Hamilton, which the Duke and Duchess visited later, they saw another flourishing city. A canopy of smoke rising from the foot of the mountain at the head of Lake Ontario recalled Sheffield or Birmingham. And on near approach we found a small capital of the Midlands, for Hamilton claims that distinction. The outskirts are mean and dingy, and it is only when you come to the heart of the city that you are reconciled to such meanness and dinginess in a land of air and light and space. Hamilton can plead in extenuation an industrious and thriving population.

THE BADGE OF WALES.

The Red Badge of Cadwallader Finds Its Due Place in the Heraldic Achievement of the Prince.

There will be rejoicing in Wales and among royal Welshmen the world over, said The London Graphic recently, now that the Red Dragon of Cadwallader is to find his due place in the Heraldic Achievement of the Prince of Wales. We published the other day the order of the King in Council "that there be added to the achievement of the Prince of Wales the badge of the Red Dragon." This ancient badge is to be borne as a badge, of course, and not quartered in the shield of the Prince—on the sinister side (the spectator's right, that is) of the royal crest of the heir-apparent, while the ancient badge of the ostrich feathers is an the other side, the crest and the two badges appearing thus in line over the shield. The badge of Wales, as defined by the King's order, is: "On a mount-vert a dragon passant gules differenced as in the royal crest, with a label of three points argent." The Duke of Norfolk, the Earl Marshal of England, is charged to see that the necessary directions be given. We reproduce in our columns to-day a careful drawing of the Red Dragon of Cadwallader of Wales, made from a painting in one of the heraldic manuscripts in the British Museum, a manuscript which contains colored drawings of the royal badges from Edward III. down to King Edward VI., and it was presumably written in the days of Edward VI.

A reproduction is also given of the banner of King Henry VII., taken from the Vincent MS., No. 152 in the College of Arms, from which it will be seen that the King quartered the red dragon in a banner with his other badges. Henry also used the dragon as a supporter, and it can be seen with the white greyhound in the chapel at Windsor supporting a portcullis ensigned with a rose. From this time the Tudor monarchs used the dragon as one of the supporters of the royal arms. Henry VII. descended from Owen Tudor, thus proclaimed his Welsh ancestry, but the dragon dropped out when the Stuart dynasty succeeded, and has not reappeared until now, at last, the King with his usual gracious sympathy with national aspirations, has restored it to the Achievement of Arms of the heir-apparent, who takes his title from the principality."

GIGANTIC MONUMENT.

It Stands on the Summit of Banhida Mountain, Hungary.

The most colossal monument on the continent of Europe is that of the fabulous Turull bird recently erected on the summit of the Banhida mountain in County Komorn, Hungary, in commemoration of the Hungarian millennium, which was celebrated with immense patriotic enthusiasm a few years ago in all portions of the kingdom. This bird, so fable says, has played an extraordinary part in the destinies of the nation. The monument was actually erected by the people, even the poorest, moved to enthusiasm by the eloquence of the popular poet, contributed the copper he could ill afford to the general fund. The conception of the monument is that of the Magyar sculptor, Donath Gyula, the metals used being copper and iron. The height from the claw to the tip of the wing is 68 feet; the outspread wings are 46 feet long, the sword of Arpad, which the monster bird holds in its claw, measures 40 feet.

A Reminder System.

The Philadelphia Record thus quotes a business man: "Unless a man has specially schooled himself memory is bound to be treacherous sometimes. I don't trust mine at all any more. It has gone back on me too often. Besides, a postal card only costs a cent, and I always carry a lot of them around with me. My end of the business calls me away from the store a great deal, and no matter where I may be—riding on a street car, walking or in one of the numerous places of business which I frequent—when an idea occurs to me that requires my attention I jot a memorandum of it down on a postal card, address it to myself and drop it in the nearest letter box. Some days I will send a dozen postal cards to myself, and the next morning they are on my desk awaiting me. I have been doing this for two or three years, and I think it's a pretty good system."

A Hard Question.

When I was quite a lad, long before I became a preacher, I had some very difficult questions put to me, one especially so, as I considered it. The Sunday school was rather a new thing in the section where I lived, and it put a great many to asking and answering questions. A little girl came to me one day as on a mission of great importance and began to ply me with questions, I answering them, of course, the best I could. She asked me who made me, why God made me and a number of other questions, and then, pausing for awhile as if in a deep study, she said, "Why did God make you so ugly?"

That was a very hard question for me. I was obliged to ask for time and have never answered it yet.

A Use For His Book.

It is said that when in India Winston Spencer Churchill, Lord Randolph Churchill's son, presented a copy of his first book to General Tucker, who previous to his South African command was all powerful at Secunderbad.

"Do you like it?" young Churchill inquired of the general.

"Haven't read it. Is it meant to read?"

"Why, yes."

"Wish you'd told me so before. I keep it hanging up in my dressing room and tear off a page every morning to wipe my razor on."

Too Dense.

"But," hissed the heavy villain, "suppose our plot should leak out."

His miserable accomplice shivered at the thought.

"But it can't," cried the low comedian, emerging at that moment from behind a stage tree, "because from now on the plot thickens, you know."

MISLEADING MAXIMS.

Some That Are True Actually, Often False Metaphorically.

Perhaps no maxims are so misleading to the judgment of those who implicitly believe them as those which assert what is absolutely true actually and very often false metaphorically. For instance, "Where there's smoke there's fire" and "Straws show which way the wind blows." If by smoke we understand scandal and gossip, then there is often a good deal of very nasty smoke and no fire at all. Neither, metaphorically speaking, do straws show which way the wind blows, for such are the cross currents of character that you can seldom judge of its general trend by a trivial action. A man may save a penny and yet not be mean or throw away a pound without being generous or even habitually extravagant.

Take, for instance, the common Yorkshire saying, "When in doubt, do nought." How very seldom the principle herein contained can be applied with advantage! How many weak wills, we should like to know, has this pestilential little proverb contributed to paralyze? "All things happen to those that wait." And so they do wait, till the only thing which is sure to happen to every one does happen, and they die.

Could they but have realized that "he who hesitates is lost" contains far more truth than its opposite they might have done something in life. Not that this energetic assertion of an occasional fact is by any means a sure guide. Who is not familiar with the man who never hesitates before any decision and nearly always laments his precipitation, usually aloud? Who has not got tired of imploring such a one to make the best of a bad job or of suppressing the obvious comment of "We told you so?"

All the same, believers in a motto which spurs them into foolish action seem to do better in the race of life than those who rely upon one which preaches nothing but caution. And hasty people generally seem to arrive at their goal, in however bad condition.—London Spectator.

Wu Ting Fang's English.

Some Washington officials were recently conversing with Wu Ting Fang, when one of them said to the Chinese minister:

"Pardon me, but may I ask if you learned English in America or at home?"

"I learned the language in China," replied the minister.

"It is wonderful," said the questioner. "You use it as well as I do."

"I use it better than you do," replied Wu Ting Fang, "because you who live in this country do not use pure English."

The native born American hesitated a moment at the frankness of the minister and then said, "I know we do not, but I mean that you speak it as correctly as if you had learned it at Harvard college."

"I speak purer English than I should if I had been taught anywhere in this country," the minister said. "In China when we learn English we learn pure English. At Harvard every one has some Yankee dialect."

OSHAWA MIRACLE INVESTIGATED.

A Sworn Statement of Facts Almost Beyond Belief.

The Toronto Mail and Empire sends a Reporter to Oshawa—His Inquiries Result in Complete Verification of Original Story.

Very many startling stories of wonderful cures by Dodd's Kidney Pills have been published in these columns, and in other newspapers all over the country from time to time.

Every case has been so well authenticated as to leave little room for doubt, and yet the statements made and the cures reported, have, in many cases, been so nearly miraculous as to be almost beyond belief.

Recently The Mail and Empire of Toronto and other papers published a dispatch from Oshawa, in which it was said that a mechanic in the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works had been cured of paralysis by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and that after he had been absolutely helpless for four months, and had been given up by the physicians at the hospital in Toronto.

This was too much for many people to believe, and numerous demands were made on the paper in question for a verification or correction.

One correspondent signing himself "Medicus" in a letter to the Mail and Empire openly disputed the possibility of such a cure.

To get at the real facts a reporter was sent to Oshawa, and the result was a complete confirmation of the original dispatch. To put the matter absolutely beyond question the following sworn statement was secured:

The Statement of Mr. Brown.

In the fall of 1897 I was taken ill with what most of the doctors called paralysis, and others nervous prostration. It commenced with a stiffness and soreness in the calves of my legs and gradually increased till I could not move either of my arms or legs, having lost all power in them. I could not have raised my arms to my head to save my life. For over four months I could not stand or walk a single step. I doctored with all the local doctors, and then with a Bowmanville doctor. Each one gave me some different medicine, but the more I took the worse I got.

At last the Bowmanville doctor told me that nothing could be done for me unless I went to the hospital in Toronto, where they might perhaps have some later treatment for paralysis which would fit my case. I went there toward the end of January, 1898, and remained under treatment in that institution for a little over four weeks. All was in vain; I got worse. Twelve doctors told me I could not recover, and that nothing could be done for me, so, as I was getting worse every day, and there was no hope of their being able to help me in the least, I was removed to my home here. I was like a baby, unable to move.

At this extremity someone advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and my wife bought a box. We had not the slightest idea that they would help me, but, like a drowning man, I grasped at every straw. After I had used the first box the numbness began to leave my finger tips, and I felt a little better, and kept on using the pills. By two months' time I could walk a little, and shortly afterward was able to go short distances without assistance.

The first time I went down town one of the doctors who had given me up saw me across the street, and, not being able to believe his eyes, went to my brother Robert, and asked, "Is that your brother Joe?" Robert told him that it was I, and he said in astonishment, "Well, I never expected to see him around again."

I used altogether twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and by the first of May I was able to start to work again in the shop here, and I have never been sick or off work a day since then, that is over three and a half years ago.

I am glad of the opportunity to make this statement, for I am sure I owe my life, health and strength to work to that great remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

(Signed), JOSEPH BROWN.

J. F. GRIERSON, a Notary Public.

This, therefore, is the true story in detail of this most remarkable case. No room is left for doubt or dispute, and the original Oshawa dispatch is confirmed in all its particulars.

If this is possible—and no one can now doubt it—then one can easily understand how any of the many wonderful cures reported have been accomplished by the same means, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Hard Case.

"I'm surprised at you," said the lazy man's friend. "Why don't you stir yourself? You're clever enough, and, you know, there's always room at the top."

JUST ARRIVED!

RHEO! CELEBRATED -- PALMIST -- RHEO!

RHEO, whose success as a clever Palmist is well known in many of the large cities of the United States and Canada, is now in town at the Alberta Hotel. She has just arrived from Calgary, where she has met with wonderful success. Rheo will remain in Fernie one week.

RHEO The most wonderful Palmist of the day. Palmistry is a science as old as the world itself. It is recognized as an interesting and instructive study by the greatest scholars. It has nothing whatever in common with fortune telling.

The greatest exponent of the facinating art that ever visited the Pacific Coast is interesting all classes with her wonderful power She possesses great ability, and has made the science a study since childhood Today she is recognized everywhere as the great genius in her work As an author and lecturer on the subject her fame is widespread To her your hand is an open book

Reads your character, telling your faults and virtues, tells you what business or profession you will be most successful in, the length of your life and the condition of your health, whether you will have changes or not, or if you will travel

Have your hand read and test the matter for yourself RHEO may be consulted at the Alberta Hotel, Room 12, every day except Sunday

TO EXCLUDE CHINESE

The senate committee on immigration agreed to report the Chinese exclusion bill, known as the Mitchell-Kahn measure. It is substantially the same as the modifield bill submitted by the Pacific Coast committee, only a few verbal corrections having been made. The point about which the committee debated at length was the exclusion of Chinese seamen from ships of American register. This proposition also was retained in the bill, but with a proviso to the effect that in case of accident, stress of weather or serious illness the captain of a vessel may ship a crew for the voyage on which he may have entered. The provisions regarding the privilage of transit of Chinese across the United States are charged in phraseclogy, but remain practically the same in effect. There also are verbal changes in the provision corcerning the detention of Chinese who seek entry at American ports, and the following penalty is provided for failure to observe this provision: "Every person bound under this section to detain a Chinese person who shall refuse or wilfully neglect promptly to perform such duty shall be deemed guilty of a felony, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $1,000 and not more than $5,000 or by imprisonment for a term not less than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment." Aiding the escape of Chinese held in detention is made a felony, punishable both by fine and imprisonment. A new provision applies the exclusion provision to the Chinese who come over as merchants, students, and the like, and become laborers.

BISHOPRIC OF KOOTENAY ENDOWMENT FUND

Matters are progressing toward raising the required sum for the above fund. The first Synod of the diocese of Kootenay was successfully organized on May 30th, 1900, in Nelson, B. C. Fifteen out of the total number of seventeen clergy were present and a very representative and influental body of delegates. A strong executive committee was formed and the synod was characterized by the greatest unanimity and enthusiasm as to its future prospects. At the request of the delegates Nelson was named by Bishop Dart as the See City of the diocese and the residence of the future. In response to this announcement, one of the Nelson delegates offered, with some other interested, to provide a site 100 by 120 feet in a suitable locality in the city for the Bishop's house. No doubt the citizens of Nelson will provide the house as their contributions to the endowment. Certainly a resident Bishop is needed in this growing and progressive country as soon as possible. It is a condition of securing a bishop for a new diocese, wisely insisted on by the house of Bishops in Canada, that before he can be consecrated, a minimum of $40,000 as an endowment fund for his support must be secured or invested. This is incorporated in the basis of division. An appeal for the above is to be made in the diocese before asking for help from outside. The Rev H. T. Beer, pastor of Kaslo, will be at Christ church, Fernie, to-morrow evening, at 7.30, and place the matter before the congregation.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

A true Canadian sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor and the fact that honor lies in honest toil. Contented labor is an element of national prosperity.

Our workingmen should receive their full share of the care and attention of those who execute the laws, to the end that the wants and needs of the employers and the employed shall alike be subserved and the prosperity of the country. the common heritage of both be advanced.

The laboring man bearing in his hand an indispensable contribution to our growth and progress, may well insist with manly courage and as a right, upon the same recognition from those who make our laws as is accorded to any other citizen having a valuable interest in charge; and his reasonable demands should be met in such a spirit of appreciation and fairness as to induce a contended and patriotic co-operation in the achievement of a grand national desting.

I suggest that there be regular officers of the Government, charged among other duties with the consideration and settlement when possible, of all controversies between labor, and of its rights to be represented in the departments of the Government.

REV. D. HOLFORD, B. D.

CROW'S NEST PASS COAL

Toronto World.

An interesting feature of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's annual meeting, held in this city on Friday, is found in the out and out denial made by the president, Hon. George A. Cox, of statements widely circulated to the effect that the company had discriminated against Canadian in favor of American smelting interests. Mr. Cox pointed out that the company's present output of coke amounts to about four times the requirments of British Columbia and that the coal output is also largely in excess of domestic demands, All assertions, therefore, that the securing of a railway outlet to the north-western states entailed neglect of the Canadian market were and are foundationless. Up to date the company has sold to Canadian smelters 71,684 tons of coal and 137,782 tons of coke, while 90,640 tons of coal and 85,047 tons of coke have been exported.

The annual report submitted (it was the fourth in the history of the company) indicated a great advancement in development and equipment, and a considerable increase in output and revenue. An idea of the extent of the operations being carried on may be got from the fact that the company, during 1901, expended over two million and a quarter dollars, over $900,000 of which went in wages alone, paid to upwards of 1312 employer.

During the year the output of both coal and coke has been nearly doubled.

The quantity of coal mined was 425,457 tons, of which 222,000 tons was sold as merchantable coal, the balance being converted into 125,000 tons of coke. The company now produces coal at three different points:—Fernie, Michel and Morrissey Creek. Its coke ovens number 636, with a daily capacity of 1,000 tons of coke, and materials are on hand for the construction of additional ovens.

The financial statement for the year presented showed that the company earned a net profit of $270,848.39, out of which, after dividends of ten per cent. were paid, a balance of $28,142.89 was left over. Including $300,000 premium on an issue of new stock, the company starts 1902 with $517,017.41 at the credit of profit and loss account.

The showing made by the company during the period of development must be considered satisfactory, better results are promised for this year, and altho no official statement is made, it is believed a melon will, in the not very distant future, be cut for the benefit of the shareholders.

MICHEL

The new King Edward VII stamps are being received by parties corresponding with friends in England.

Mr. Sample, the energetic superintendent of construction, is hard at work with twenty carpenters, erecting a power house, etc.

The screens at the new tipple are being made ready, and everywhere you look indications are seen of activity in every department of work.

The output of coal is gradually increasing, and now the workmen are happy and contented, which is a good sign in a large mining camp.

A competent mechanic is putting the air compresser in position, the new boilers, made by a Toronto firm, will soon be established on a solid foundation, ready for operating the machinery.

The Temperance Society held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening. Mr. Brandon occupied the chair and in a few well-chosen words made a good impression on the audience. The log shanty was taxed to its utmost, forty-five being present and some came to the door but could not secure admission, so had to go away. A short but interesting program was given.

The Government examination of miners commenced on Monday morning, and are still in session in the large hall. They are under the supervision of the following persons:—Mr. D. Evans, Mr. Chas. Simister, Mr. Evan Evans, secretary; Mr. Wm. Almond and Mr. Edward Simister. Messrs Almond and E. Simister were elected to represent the miners, Mr. Evan Evans the Government and Messrs. D. Evans and Chas. Simister the Coal Company.

Quite a surprise was given Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Wright at the parsonage on Saturday evening, when the members of the official board came with an ample supply of provisions. After the business of the board was transacted supper was served to the members of the board and their wives.

Coke is already being shipped and no doubt will give satisfaction, as it looks as bright as a silver dollar. Doubtless great improvements will be made when the new tipple commences operation, as any stray pieces of rock will be picked out of the coal.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mrs. A. Miller is very ill this week.

H. Hill has received a shipment of spring goods. Call and see them.

Mrs. W. E, Davis, who has been on the sick list for some time, is recovering.

D. Crowly is giving a magic lantern entertainment in the S. A. Barracks to-night.

The lumber is on the ground and work has commenced on the new Baptist church.

Medicine Hat hockey team defeated Pincher Creek on Friday last, by a score of 9 to 5.

The famous Russell Comedy Company will give an entertainment in Princess Hall to-night.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Mr. Geo. Wilson and Miss Sadie Williams, of this town.

The family of Mr. Jas. Kirkpatrick arrived in town on Saturday last from Forest, Ont., their former home.

Miss Francis Tannhauser, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. Fraser, has been very ill during the past week.

A meeting to wind up the business of the hockey club for the past season, will be held in Mr. Cuthbert's restarant, on Tuesday evening.

Miss Stevenson, of Winnipeg, arrived in town this week to take charge of the millinery department in the London & Liverpool Co's. store.

Notice to contractors, builder and all whom it may concern:—The carpenters of Fernie desire to notify you that $3.50 for nine hours shall constitute a day's pay.

There will be a meeting in the FREE PRESS office on Thursday evening at 8:30 for the purpose of re-organizing the town band. All bandsmen are requested to be present.

The Methodist church will again be the scene of an entertainment, which is announced to take place on the 25th inst. The proceeds will be in aid of the parsonage fund.

The Cranbrook Herald speaks highly of the performance given in Cranbrook by the Russell Comedy Company which played there two nights this week. The Fernie people should show their appreciation of a good clean play by turning out in full force.

The services at Christ church, Fernie, to-morrow will be as follows:—Matini and holy communion, 11 a.m.; Sunday school and bible class, 2.30 p. m.; Evensong and sermon, 7.30. The Rev. H. T. Beer, pastor of Kaslo, B. C., will preach in the evening in connection with the Bishopric Endowment Fund.

Figures Talk,

The Great West Life Assurance Co., of Winnipeg, is earning from 2 to 3 per cent more on its investments than any other Life company doing business in Canada. That is why its preminm rates are correspondingly lower. H. G. Watson, agent for Fernie, has the figures and invites inspection. All Great West policy holders in town are requested to make their renewals through him.

A rumor has been circulated to the effect that the Coal Company intended using the grounds of the Athletic Association, but the statement has been proved groundless. Mr. T. C. Thompson, when interviewed in regard to the matter, this morning stated that the Company had not considered the matter at all; and if at any time they should find necessary to appropriate the grounds, they would reimburse the association to whatever extent was considered just.

Mrs. S. Arnold, of Cranbrook, is spending a week in town.

Don't forget the Russell Comedy Co. to-night in Princess Hall.

Mr. T. C. Thompson leaves to-day for Toronto on business in connection with the land titles.

The married ladies of the town will give a ball on Easter Monday, March 31. The invitations have not yet been issued.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing the lacrosse club for the coming season will be held in Mr. F. Cuthbert's restaurant, Tuesday evening. A full attendance is desired.

M. F. Thompson, who came here several months ago and took a situation with J. C. Hutchison, merchant tailor, has opened a shop in Pincher Creek. We wish him success in his new venture.

The annual meeting of the Fernie Board of Trade will be held on Thursday, March 20th The election of officers and other important business will come before the meeting. All the members should attend.

A meeting for the purpose of organizing the baseball club for the coming season will be held in the Royal Hotel on Wednesday evening, March 19th. All lovers of the game are requested to attend.

Miss M. E. English has engaged rooms up-stairs in the London & Liverpool Co's store and will open a dress making shop. Miss English comes from Toronto and has the reputation of being one of the best dressmakers in that city.

About 11 o'clock Tuesday night the Robinson-McKenzie saw mill was discovered to be on fire by some of the men employed there. So rapidly did the fire spread that within twenty minutes the building was consumed. The main mill shed was totally destroyed with the machinery, including carriage, shafting, belting, pulley, etcs.

It is said that Messrs. D. V. Mott & Son, of Fernie, B. C., will open up in the lumber business at Claresholm, on the line of the C and E. Ry. If the report be true it will be a boom to the hundreds of new settlers who will settle in that portion of the district during the coming season.—Macleod Advance. Enquiry at the office of Mott, Son & Co. reveals the fact that there is nothing in the report. The firm has added a lath mill to their plant here and are running night and day

The annual meeting of the Fernie Athletic Association was held in Joyce's Hall, Tuesday evening. There were about twenty-five members present. Mr. Jas. Bricker occupied the chair. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Pres., W. R. Ross; Vice-Pres., H. W Barnes; Sec.-Treas, A. H. Cree. The associational fee was fixed at $2, all clubs to have the privilege of fixing their own membership fee. The colors for the season are to be blue and red. Each club is allowed two representatives on the executive of the Athletic Association.

COAL CREEK.

The C. P. R. surveyors are working around here.

J. Brooks is driving a C. P. R. team now.

P. Kennedy intends taking a trip to New York in the summer.

W. Craig who has been working at Sidar returned home on Saturday evening.

A. D. McRae, of Winnipeg, arrived here last week, and with a gang of men is busy repairing the mill.

W. Timlick, of Hosmer, spent Sunday here and returned Monday evening.

Frank Dezall arrived here last week after spending three months with his parents in Ontario.

Geo. Moore has disposed of his property to James Sarage and will take a trip east in a short time.

Messrs. A. Waller, D. and A. Williams intend prospecting this summer. Dave says he has a timber limit and he thinks there is mineral on it too.

We understand that the contract between W. A. McLeod and A. D. McRae has fallen through. It seems that Mr. McLeod could not get suitable horses, although he had John Woods out trying to purchase horses. John is a good judge of horse flesh having made a good sale for the C. P. R. about a year ago.

SPIDER'S CHAPS.

A Tale of the Cattle Thieves of Agua Caliente.

Copyright, 1900 by W. LeC. Beard.

I asked him why he did not come to supper He answered that he "didn' seem ter want none jus' now somehow.' This was very startling. When I commended his bravery and magnanimity in doing what he had done to save the life of an enemy, he observed that "it wasn' no great shakes nohow," and that as he intended to square matters with Hollis sooner or later he didn't want Hollis drowned, as that obviously would prevent any such reckoning.

It was like Spider to attach the lowest possible motive to anything that he might do, but I knew better There was no use in saying anything more. I held out my hand. Spider winced as he took it. Then I found that his right palm had been cut almost to the bone by the rope that had been pulled through it. I took him back to the camp and dressed his hand as well as I was able with the limited resources at our command, and at last he rolled up in his blanket and fell into the deep sleep of utter exhaustion.

I had returned to my own tent and sat under the fly, looking out at the dismal landscape and feeling very blue indeed There was nothing, as far as the eye could reach, but rock, cactus and sand. How the cattle were to live I could not see. Something must be done. I was about to call the foreman for a consultation when I saw him coming toward me.

"Evenin," he remarked as though he had not seen me before that day. "Thought I'd come over an see what we'd best do with them there critters while the river's goin down. We can't stay here."

I didn't in the least know what to do. Furthermore, the river was not going down. It was rising.

"Yaas, so 'tis. That's what made me think that maybe, after all, we'll have ter take the herd ter ol' Lorena's range fer a bit. Can't do no better as I c'n see."

"Where is Lorena's range?" I asked. "Is there feed there?"

"'Bout 40 mile down the river. Oh, yes, there's grass there, all right enough." He spoke so dubiously that I asked for an explanation. "Oh, yes, there's grass there, all right enough," he repeated. "But then Lorena, he's there too. I don't like Lorena none too well. He's a greaser, an there ain't no worse one nowhere. He's got an all fired bad lot aroun him, too, down there to Agua Caliente. You'll have ter pay fer the use er the range, of course, an I reckon maybe we won't have no trouble. Anyhow, it looks like it's all we c'n do."

I was not borrowing trouble. I said that I thought we'd better start for Lorena's as soon as we could get away in the morning.

"I reckon," agreed the foreman. "Now there's another thing I wanted ter say. You see how we was at the river this mornin We're short handed, that's what we are, an we want more help."

This fact was not news to me, and I said so.

"Well, we're shorter'n ever now," the foreman went on. "Hollis he won't be no good fer awhile—one of his arms is a foot an a half longer'n the other, an it'll take er month ter get it back where it was. Now there's that kid—Spider. He done some mighty good work yes'day in the herdin, not ter talk erbout that job he done fer Hollis—a man what tried ter throw him down all he knowed. S'pose we take him on."

"But what will the cook do?" I objected.

"He's all right. We c'n pick up a Chinaman er sunthin fer him bimeby, an now he says the kid'll be a sight more use roun the cattle than ever he was with the cook outfit. I guess we c'n call that settled, so fur es the Bally Gurl goes. Course I know the kid can't do a man's work yet, an I only mean ter give him boy's pay fer now, till we see how he does. Are you willin?"

I was perfectly willing—more than that, I was delighted to give Spider his chance, but I did not say so. I only asked how Spider was to get a suitable outfit—apart from the horse. If he had taken a fancy to the ugly brute he had ridden that day he might have the creature and welcome.

"I guess that lets us out—the horse," responded the foreman. "The boys has got up a sorter chip in fer the rest. Hollis, he'll come up with consid'able of it, I reckon He will fer the chaps anyhow He owes it."

Hollis certainly did owe the chaps, but I was rather surprised from my knowledge of the man that he should so readily acknowledge his debt.

"Oh, yes, Hollis is mighty grateful, I reckon," replied the foreman when I expressed my astonishment. "Hollis'll come down with the money all right, don't you fear." There was something peculiar in the foreman's tone that made me suspicious.

"Does Hollis know that he's expected to contribute?" I asked.

"No, not yet. He will, though. I'm a-gonter see him now." The foreman hitched his holster conveniently forward and departed. I shouted an order after him to the effect that, whatever Hollis might or might not be willing to give, there should be no coercion in the matter. I never knew whether or not this order was obeyed. I rather think it was not.

I did not witness the announcement of Spider's promotion. Long before sunrise I had started out with the foreman to arrange with Lorena for the use of his pastures. The herd was to follow us.

As the foreman had said, I found Lorena to be a most villainous old Mexican and surrounded by a most villainous crew of followers. He knew that we were at his mercy, and therefore overcharged us frightfully. The pasturage on his range was good, and that at least was a comfort, but I didn't at all like the prospects in other ways. Two days later, when the cattle arrived, we camped, as before, on the banks of the river. Our ostensible reason for camping there was, of course, that we would be on hand at the earliest possible moment when the river should fall enough to allow us to cross. But really we chose this place, the foreman and I, in order to be as far away as we could from the wicked little town of Agua Caliente, the headquarters of Lorena and his friends. At best the town was far nearer us than we liked. The distance was only 20 miles or so.

For a week or two after we arrived we did not seem to me to have much cause for alarm. In fact, I would have been rather relieved had not the foreman kept up a continual croaking. The cattle were in no way interfered with. It is true that many of our men would avail themselves of every possible opportunity to get to Agua Caliente, and would frequently stay there much longer than they ought; but this, in view of the time that had lapsed since they had seen a town of any kind at all, was no more than one must expect. There was little for the men to do.

In fact, for this first fortnight, the life settled back to its old monotony as far as I was concerned. To Spider the new responsibilities that he had assumed seemed a never failing delight. He worked indefatigably, and at night was quite ready to go to sleep without the preamble of setting the camp by the ears, according to his former habit. Apart from other reasons, I think that Spider would at this time have considered such an outbreak beneath his dignity, unless committed for weighty and well considered reasons. Besides, his outfit arrived, which placed him, when the first stunning shock of surprise had subsided, on the pinnacle of all earthly bliss.

Spider might well be pleased. The "boys" had done their best, and Spider was equipped from head to heel with cowboy paraphernalia—saddle, bridle, spurs and all. His chaps were resplendent. The new leather made his legs, so the men said, look like those of a newly hatched chicken, they were so yellow. So taken with them was Spider that he was nearly thrown several times the first day he wore them because, instead of looking to see where his horse was going, he was admiring his legs. But a glory greater even than the chaps lay in his "gun," the heavy pistol, that with its holster and well filled cartridge belt Spider proudly buckled around his waist. He seemed to have grown two inches taller as he strutted about the camp. The outfit would have been woefully incomplete without this weapon. If a herder becomes unhorsed, the half wild cattle will attack him oftener than not and without this means of defense he would be helpless.

Spider threw himself into his work with an energy greater, if possible, than before. Lack of energy was at no time one of Spider's faults, and this was most fortunate, for we needed him and every one on whom we could depend more and more as the days passed by. Matters in the camp were going from bad to worse.

Those men who went most frequently to Agua Caliente began going oftener than ever. Sometimes they would leave their work in order to go there, and when they returned they would be filled with the malignant whisky prevalent in that region or with the still more malignant mescal. Could we have replaced them these men would have been discharged at once, but we could not replace them For a time I was comforted by the reflection that as soon as their money gave out this conduct must cease. It did not cease, but instead it became worse than ever. Some of the cowboys left. Some became so useless that, great as our need was, we had to discharge them. Of all the men who went often to Agua Caliente, Hollis alone would return sober.

"An he's jus' the las' one I care about," said the foreman as for the hundredth time we were holding a council. "He's han' in glove with Lorena an the hull gang. It's them what get the boys away—it's their reg'lar trick. They wants ter weaken us all they can an then sneak the cattle. Been stealin cattle fer years, they have, only no one couldn't prove nothin. They ain't takin no chances they c'n help, but the river's goin down purty fas' now, an they know it, so I reckon they'll make ther try fer our herd in a night er two—t'night, maybe. Better get the cattle together. There ain't no use in our foolin ourselves—things don't look none too gaudy, no way you c'n see 'em."

CHOSEN FROM A MULTITUDE.

The Preference Shown By Thinking People for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine—Record Sales in October.

Considering the large number of remedies for coughs and colds that are now offered to the public, and in view of the fact that nearly every druggist has a preparation of his own which he makes an effort to substitute for the medicine asked for, it seems truly remarkable that the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should increase by such leaps and bounds.

During October the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exceeded by several hundred bottles the record of any previous month in its history. When it is remembered that this preparation received very little newspaper advertising the evidence seems to be conclusive that it makes its way by sheer force of merit.

Thinking people recognize the harmfulness and danger of using strong drugs which are said to cure a cold in a few hours. They prefer to cling to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which they know beyond a doubt to be a thorough and effective treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, throat irritation, asthma, and even consumption itself.

The combination of Linseed and Turpentine, with half a dozen other ingredients of equal value for treating colds, in such proportions as they are found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proven to be a perfect protection against such developments as pneumonia, consumption and serious lung troubles. You can with certainty rely on this preparation to afford prompt relief and permanent cure.

Do you suppose that the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine would be more than three times that of any similar preparation if it was not the most effective remedy that money can buy? It has stood the test and proven itself worthy of the confidence that is placed in it. People recommend it one to another, and so the good news spreads. Be sure you get the genuine, with Dr. Chase's portrait and signature on the wrapper; 25 cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Lawyers occasionally make mistakes, but they seldom bring suit against one another.

A TRYING SEASON.

Little Ones Are Subject to Colds and the Result is Dangerous Unless Prompt Remedial Steps are Taken

The little ones are apt to take cold, no matter how carefully a mother may try to prevent it. While colds may affect children in different ways, the main symptoms usually are that the child grows cross, the skin hot, the appetite fickle and the child quite feverish. Unless something is done at once to relieve a simple cold, the result is often very serious—so serious, that many a childs life has been lost. There is no remedy that can equal Baby's Own Tablets in cases of this kind. These Tablets promptly break up colds and carry off the poisonous matter that has been retained in the system. By doing this they reduce the fever; the pulse becomes normal; the appetite is restored, and the child is again well and happy.

Mrs. O. E. Earle, Brockville, Ont., says:—"I always use Baby's Own Tablets for both my children, aged three and five years, when they are at all unwell. When my little girl was a few months old, she had a bad attack of whooping cough, and I found the Tablets very beneficial. Since that time I always keep them in the house ready for use. When the children are troubled with biliousness, any derangement of the stomach, are peevish or fretful, or when they have a cold, I always use the tablets, and am always pleased with the results."

These tablets are a certain cure for such ttoubles as colic, sour stomach, indigestion, diarrhoea, constipation, simple fevers and colds. They prevent croup and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold under an absolute guarantee to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. May be had from druggists or will be sent postpaid at 25 cents a box, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE HASLAM LAND AND INVESTMENT COMPANY

Winnipeg and St. Paul.

DURING THE LAST FOUR MONTHS we have sold between $400,000 and $500,000 worth of property in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, and we expect to sell a very much larger amount than this during the next four months.

WE HAVE A CONNECTION COVING the whole of the Northwest ern States, and are in communication with a large proportion of the prospective buyers of Canadian farm lands and other real estate in Manitoba and the Territories. We are advertising extensively in the daily and weekly papers and have about 100 local agents. We have a demand for improved farms in Manitoba and for business property in the towns and villages in Manitoba and the Territories. We have continual inquiries from parties who wish to rent improved farms. We are in a position to advise prospective buyers (if unable to sell them) as to where they will be able to make the best selections of land, as we have a system of inspection covering all the desirable localities in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories.

IF YOU WANT TO BUY ANYthing in the way of farm lands or city property, communicate with us; and if you want to sell anything have it listed with us. If possible, giv? us thirty days' option at your price, as we will then make a much more active effort to sell than if it was left in our hands in common with other agents. We own and have for sale 200,000 acres of land south of Indian Head in the best wheat and flax growing country of Canada, which we are offering at from $5 to $7 per acre; land that we expect to have sold within the next three months. It is an opportunity to get into this choice district which will not occur again; and the lands which will grow 35 to 40 bushels of sound wheat to the acre are very limited.

DIED IN THE FLAMES

OLIVER JOHNSON MEETS A HORRIBLE DEATH IN WINNIPEG.

THE FIRE WAS THE RESULT OF A STOVE IN A SMALL BEDROOM.

Winnipeg, March 5.—A terrible death was that of Oliver Johnson, who perished from suffocation in a small fire last night shortly after 12 o'clock.

Johnson, who was a laborer on the Canadian Northern, was an Icelander of about 43 years of age, and lived at a small boarding house on Notre Dame street east, kept by Mrs. Cudney. The house is a small two-story building situated about one hundred yards east of Main street.

The dead man ocrupied a small room on the second story. In his room was an iron stove which had no legs and was placed on the floor. These was a brisk fire burning in it and it was from this the fire evidently caught. When the firemen arrived smoke was pouring out of the house at every window. Mrs. Cudney, the landlady, and a child were the only other occupants, and they escaped early. The firemen at once entered the house and turned several streams on the fire. They were soon made aware of the fact that there was a man in the room on the second story, and mounted up the stairs. The smoke and flames were coming from the room in such quantity that they could not enter. However, Capt. Code, accompanied by a couple of firemen, saw a figure on the floor, and pulled the man out. He was quite dead. His clothes were scorched and burned, and also his hands. He had evidently been lying on the bed and rolled off, face downward on the floor. His clothes had not been removed. It is understood that the man died of suffocation, aithough he is said to have a cut on his head.

BUYING NORTHWEST LANDS.

Winnipeg, March 5.—Application has been made here for a charter under Canadian laws for the Northwest Colonization company, with a capital of two million dollars. The applicants are all Americans. The immense crops of grain grown on Canadian fields have attracted the attention of both capitalists and settlers from the United States, and they are coming across the international boundary line in large numbers.

The interest in real estate circles is intense and all real estate men report large sales and predict a very large immigration during the coming spring and summer. The parties have secured a tract of about a million acres of land in Canada from the Canadian Pacific railway company and the Canadian Northwest Land company, embracing some of the best wheat lands in the Northwest, in the Alameda, Arcola, Estevan and adjacent sections in Southeastern Assiniboia. It is the object of the new company to immediately put the lands on the market and sell at attractive prices to settlers and investors.

LET IT BE SOON.

Farm life in Canada will in time excel in ideality life in the city and it would not be surprising to see the movement of population from country to town which is one of the great economic questions of the present day checked in the near future and the tide begin to run the other way. The telephone, electric car, labor saving machinery, and superior advantages of country life will bring this about. The weekly trip to the postoffice will soon give place to the daily delivery of mail at the farmer's door. Improvement in the character of farm houses will have something to do, too. with the increased interest in country life which is shortly to be awakened. There is no reason why the home of the farmer should not be just as comfortable and convenient in its way as the city residence and when it is the country will possess a charm of its own for many people who are fond of fresh air and sunshine.

MUNICIPAL ELEVATORS.

St. Andrew's church, Ottawa,holds the record in Canada for contributions to the Presbyterian church century fund. St. Andrew's gave $26,437.81, although $25,000 was all that was promised.

A Canadian visited Grand Forks last week and put up at a lodging house run by a man named Gilbertson. Upon retiring he wrapped his roll of money, amounting to $695, in a piece of paper and stuck it through a knot hole in the floor, and in the morning all that remained was the knot hole. Diligent search by the police and the proprietor failed to reveal any clue as to the mysterious disappearance of the money.

LINCOLN'S KINDLY HEART.

A Letter Written Shortly Before His Assassination Found in

New York, March 6.—Soiled and faded, torn and frayed, a letter written by Abraham Lincoln a few months before his assassination, has been found in some rubbish and papers on Broadway, near the post office. It reads as follows:

"Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C., Nov. 21, 1864.

To Mrs. Bixby, Boston, Mass.

"I have been shown in the files of the war department a statement of the adjutant-general of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle.

"I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwnelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save.

"I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

"Yours very sincerely and respectfully, A. LINCOLN."

IMPERIAL ARMY SCHEME.

Canada Will Be Asked to Supply Four Militia Army Corps.

London, March 7.—The war office scheme, mentioned by the war secretary, Mr. Brodrick, in the house of commons yesterday evening, by which he hoped the colonial forces would become available in the event of a war involving the general interests of the empire, is said to contemplate India providing three army corps; South Africa, two army corps; Australia, two army corps; New Zealand, one army corps, and Canada, four militia army corps. These, in addition to six British corps, would constitute a force for imperial defence little inferior in numbers to the legions of the continental military powers.

TEACHERS FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

Forty Canadians Wanted to Teach Boer Children.

Ottawa, March 6.—The secretary of state has received an application from Hon. Joseph Chamberlain asking for the services of forty Canadian lady teachers to proceed to South Africa to look after the Boer children in the concentration camps. The arrangement will be for one year; the salary will be £100, with rations and house or tent accommodations. Passage will be paid both ways. Twenty will be secured in Ontario and twenty in the other provinces. A Normal school certificate is the standard of qualification.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

Chicago, March 6.—Navigation has opened here.

A seat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange now costs $250.

The Argonauts of Toronto have challenged for Henley honors.

Joseph Larkin, of Toronto, pleaded guilty to stealing $586 from the customs.

The First National Bank of Montgomery, Ind., was burglarized of $10,000.

The Prince of Wales opened the new ten million dollar dock at Avonmouth, Eng.

It is likely the pom-pom gun will be added to the equipment of Canadian artillery.

If Brodrick's new army enlistment scheme fails then conscription will be forced in Britain.

What is described as a valuable discovery of petroleum is reported from Springfield municipality.

The suspected San Francisco murderer has been arrested at Fort William. He gave his name as Peter Holt.

The British ministry will discuss preferential tariffs with colonial premiers at the coronation conference.

F. W. Cottle, cashier of the Elkhart State bank of Illinois, has committed suicide. He was $32,000 short.

President Roosevelt has informed the Boer delegates that the United States will not interfere in the South African struggle.

The rush of immigration to western Canada for the 1902 season has commenced, parties arriving from the south and east.

The report on the remount scandal in the British Commons was a severe blow to the war office. Canada has been included as a permanent source of supply for army horses.

THE City of Victoria is certainly launching out on new lines. At a meeting of the commissioners held in that city on the 7th inst. it was decided that wide open gambling should be allowed. So now we may expect to see all the tinhorn-gams heading for Victoria, herhaps Mr. Dunsmuir can place some of them in his cabinet, if not there should at least be good "picking" anywhere around the town since the recent election.

* * *

THE election of Colonel Prior in Victoria will come as a surprise to a great many, as Mr. Bodwell is by far the most popular man with all classes. It simply shows how strong a hold Mr. Dunsmiur has in that city when a man of Col. Prior's calibre can be elected over one of British Columbia's most popular men. In any other constituency in British Columbia Mr. Bodwell would have had a walk-over. The fact that Col. Prior's majority is only fifty-four, right in Mr. Dunmuir's stronghold, shows how weak a hold the government really has with the electors of the province; and small wonder; the people of B. C. are too enlightened to be hoodwinked by a government that changes its tactics as often as it changes its leader. It is high time that we have a government that will represent the people and the people's interests. Surely we have been the laughing-stock of the whole Dominion quite long enough.

THE Toronto Globe:—The religious statistics of the census are of considerable interest. The Catholics, of course, retain their old lead, and, in fact, their percentage of the whole population is slightly larger than in 1891, 41.5 as compared with 41.2 The Catholic population is 2,228'-997. The next in order are the Methodist with 916,862, the Presbyterians with 842,301, the Anglicans with 680,346 and the Baptist with 292,485. The Presbyterians have the largest increase, 87,000; the Methodist increase is 69,000, the Anglican 41,000 and the Baptist 35,000. A notable feature of the Baptists is their great strength in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, 83,000 in the former and 81,000 in the latter. The Baptist increase is larger than appears, as the Manitoba figures for 1891 includes Mennonites.

The Board of Examiners who have been examining the miners here for some time as to fitness for their positions report up to the present four hundred and twenty applicants of whom three hundred and ninety-three have been successful and twenty-seven have failed, of those who have failed twenty-four are foreigners. Mr. Barton, examiner, is authority for the statement that since the first crowd was plucked, the Slavs have apparently been under an instructor who has drilled them so thoroughly that they have their lessons by heart and can say them off without waiting for the examiner to ask the questions.

THERE seems to be no scarcity of good men among the Boers yet. Just when Kitchner begins to think that he has De Wet safely bottled up, a new terror appears in the person of General Delarey who promises to become more notorious than even DeWet, within a few days he makes two desperate assults on the British forces each time being successful in capturing a large number of men and a considerable quantity of supplies. His latest claim to notority being the capture of Lord Methuen. This effect is more serious in that respect, that it would encourage more such attacks on the part of the Boers, than when regarded as a British loss. To an onlooker it certainly seems as though Methuen can easily be spared; this is not by any means his first blunder. At Magersfontein he was either directly or indirectly the cause of a disaster which blighted so many homes, and caused so many who up to that time had remained neutral, to flock to the support of the Boers. Whatever the final result, it is to be deplored that at this late stage of the war the Boers are frequently meeting with such signal successes.

Mr. A. L. Gartshore, of Vancouver, special agent for the Canada Life, is in town.

Dr. Fagan, Provincial Health Officer, was in town on Tuesday in connection with the smallpox cases here.

Peachy, an employee at the Fernie Lumber Co., had the misfortune to lose several of his fingers while working at the planing machine, on Tuesday of last week.

A switchman named Clancy had his hand badly crushed while making a coupling in the yard the other day. Dr. Corsan dressed the wound.

Cranbrook will celebrate on May 24th if their celebration committee can secure the co-operation of the Fernie Athletic Association.

Provincial Post Office Inspector Greenfield was in town on Monday on official business. He reports everything in connection with the local office work in a satisfactory condition.

Mrs. R. F. Stillman returned from Toronto, Ontario, on Saturday last, where she has been visiting her relatives for the past three months. She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Elliott.

J. E. Mills, an experienced real estate agent, has opened an office over P. Burns & Co. Buyers and sellers of land have now a place to transact business of this kind. See his advertisement.

The Hotel Fernie will shortly take possession of the store occupied by A. J. Purdy & Co., using it as a bar. The present bar and front rooms will be fitted up for a store and will be occupied by Mr. Purdy.

A young lady at Lethbridge recently jerked back her head to keep from being kissed and dislocated her neck bone. Of course she escaped being kissed but it is nevertheless a terrible warning to the girls to save their neck.

There has been considerable trouble at Marysville with the construction of the smelter. On Tuesday a meeting was held in Spokane of the full board, and all difficulties adjusted, and as soon as work is resumed it will be pushed to completion. A large number of men will be employed than ever before, and the town will be in a most prosperous condition.—Cranbrook Herald.

It is announced that a committee of the Telegraphers employed on the Canadian Pacific Railway system is preparing a new schedule of wages to be presented to the company as soon as complete. As the men's demands are only reasonable it is to be hoped that the company will meet the men in a spirit that will facilitate an early settlement. If the company is going to have good men the position should surely be a little above that of general roust-about.

An interesting wrestling contest will take place in Princess Hall, on Saturday evening after the Russel Comedy Company's concert, when C. E. Hallett, the champion middleweight of Minnesota, Dakota and Montana, will wrestle with James Millan, a Scotch lad, of some reputation around town. and Alex Walker, the colored giant. Hallett will endeavor to throw each man twice in the space of one hour. The contest will be for a side bet of one hundred dollars and the gate receipts. Mr. Hallett intends to open a wrestling school in Pincher Creek and Fernie in the near future.

At a meeting in the Royal Hotel on Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing the football team for the coming season, the following officers were elected :—Hon. Pres., Thos. R. Stockett, jr. ; Pres., H. J. Johnson ; Captain, Wm. Taylor ; Sec.-Treas, J. R. Wallace. Managing committee :—Messrs. J. H. Bricker, S. Herchmer, Wm. Taylor, the president and secretary ; representatives to the Athletic Association, Messrs. J. H. Bricker and S. Herchmer. The membership fee was fixed at one dollar and a committee consisting of S. Herchmer, J. R. Wallace, Wm. Taylor and W. Piper, was appointed to collect both the membership fee and the Athletic Association fee. The secretary was instructed to write to the neighboring clubs with a view to ascertaining their views in regard to form a league for the coming season. Prospects are bright for football during the coming season as several eastern players have taken up their residence here since last season.

Dr. John Barber, dentist, will be in his office in the course of a few days. x

FOR SALE—Two cottages. Apply to A. H. Cree.

Constable Barnes took four prisoners to Nelson on Monday.

It is rumored that the Irish will walk on the 17th, "Bob" Moore will be master of ceremonies.

The Hotel Northern is again undergoing repairs. The bar is being fitted up in the latest style.

Bert Borson, the man who had his head crushed in by the falling of a rock at Morrissey last week, died in the hospital here yesterday.

Mr. N. C. Douglas, of Le Duc, Alt., is erecting a store south of J. F. Jarvis' general store. He contemplates putting in either hardware or groceries, but has not decided which yet.

The Cranbrook Lacrosse club was organized for the season on the 10th. The following officers were elected :—W. F Tate, President ; Geo. Leitch, Vice-President ; S. Hayes, Sec.-Treas., and J. Batby, Captain.

The Associated Board of Trade will meet at Fernie next year. This arrangement is due to the effort of D. V. Mott, who went to Kaslo with the idea in view. The members of the different boards can rest assured that they will be treated in a royal manner when they visit Fernie.—Cranbrook Herald.

Once more the sporting element of Fernie will have the opportunity of seeing a boxing contest. The event is between Coolguardie Smith, the famous welterweight, of Australia, and James Burrows, well known about town, and will be held in Princess Hall on Monday evening next. The contest is for a side bet of $250 and the Welterweight championship of British Columbia. Both men are doing some good hard training and a good fight is anticipated. W. W. Tuttle will referee the contest.

A. H. Cree has two cottages for sale. Those desiring property should give him a call.

Dr John Barber, dentist, will be at his office in the course of a few days. x

RICHES OF THE NORTH

VALUABLE MINERAL DEPOSITS WHICH AWAIT DEVELOPMENT.

AN IMMENSE TRACT SAID TO BE COVERED WITH THE BEST OF AMBER.

The great region lying north of the Province of Manitoba near the conjunction of the Laurentian outcrop and the alluvial deposits is a barren waste hitherto little explored by civilized man. Those who have visited this region report it as one in which nature's varying moods are seen at their best. Hills, rocks, forest and morass succeed each other in wondrous confusion. Those explorers who have visited this country state that endless surprises are experienced on all hands. In some districts huge deposits of the well known black, gold-bearing sand give promise of great wealth, and only need the shovel and pan of the placer miner to present to civilization their riches.

This same sand yields wonderful garnets, which only need polishing to be developed into rich jewels. Some of the specimens brought down by travellers and traders are extremely valuable. The country abounds in game, and the lakes are full of fish. The only thing which retards development is the difficulty of transportation. In the region of Reed, Standing Cormorant and File lakes these deposits are frequently met and have long been known to the natives.

In 1886 a party under the guidance with Prof. J. W. Tyrrell, then connected with the geological survey of Canada, visited the district, and reported on the prospects there, but since that time nothing has been done toward its development.

At Cedar lake, northwest of Lake Winnipegosis, rich deposits of amber have been found, according to the story of a gentleman who has just returned from that district. They are equal in quality to the best German article, though the pieces are not sufficiently large for manufacturing purposes and could only be utilized for varnish. In one bay on the lake shore there is a beach of a little over half a mile in length composed almost entirely of amber and amber debris, which extends from the timber belt far out into the water. Specimens of this have been brought south from time to time, and have been sent to various experts in different parts of the country, though no effort has been made as yet to develop the find commercially.

The origin of amber in nature has long puzzled scientists, though they all agree that it is probably derived from various extinct coniferous trees, although now appearing like coal as a product of the mineral kingdom. It is usually of a pale yellom color, though specimens have been found is usually of a pale yellow color. The first mention found of it in ancient history is in the writings of Homer; and in various parts of Europe amber ornaments have been found in lake dwellings and ancient graves. The chief source of supply at present is the shore of the Baltic between Konigsberg and Nemel, where it is found in considerable abundance along the shore. Large pieces of amber are particularly valuable, being extensively used in the arts, for the manufacture of smokers' mouthpieces, jewelery and ornamental objects. Combined with boiled linseed oil and turpentine a beautiful clear, pale varnish is obtained.

MACHINERY TRUSTS.

American and British Companies Control the Trade in Europe.

Presiding at the annual meeting of the machinery trust in London Jos. Lawrence, M. P., chairman of the trust, said he was not in favor of the suggested amalgamation with the American Printing Machinery Trust, but the directors were not opposed to cordial co-operation with the American company, in which event both concerns would be able not only to dominate British and American trade, but they would also dominate the continental trade of Europe.

PUGILIST FATALLY INJURED.

A dispatch from Chicago says that Samuel Uphouses, known in pugilistic circles as the "Brighton Slasher" is dying at his home as the result of a "knockout" blow he received in a fight recently. The police are searching for his opponent in the battle, but can only learn that he is known as "Young Choynski," and no one knows where he can be found.

Cholera has broken out among the pilbrims at Medina. One hundred and ten deaths have occurred from the disease.

KIPLING'S PRAYER WHEN ILL.

Bishop Brewster Says He Repeated "Now I Lay Me," When Near Death.

A New Haven dispatch says: Bishop Brewster of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut, in his talk to Yale students on "Robust Religious Faith," cited for them the case of Rudyard Kipling when he was critically ill in New York. He said:

"I suppose you young men are more or less readers of Rudyard Kipling. There is no name in English literature that stands more truly for masculinity than Kipling. In fact, he is said to be not ladylike enough to suit some of his critics. The story that I am to relate about Kipling, and I suppose none of you has heard it, comes to me first hand, and shows the strong, vigorous faith which is back of the man's writing.

"A trained nurse was watching at the bedside of Mr. Kipling during these moments when the author was in the most critical stage of sickness, and she noticed that his lips began to move. She bent over him, thinking he wanted to say something to her, and she heard him utter these words: 'Now I lay me down to sleep,' that old familiar prayer of childhood days. The nurse realizing that Kipling did not require her services, said in an apologetic whisper: 'I beg your pardon, Mr. Kipling. I thought you wanted something.'

"'I do,' faintly observed Kipling. 'I want my Heavenly Father. He only can care for me now.'

"It is this masculine, robust religious faith that we see in Kipling's writings," added Bishop Brewster, "and it is a faith which the young men of Yale university may well carry with them in the performance of their daily work.

RADICA IS RECOVERING.

Cable dispatches have described the operation performed by Dr. Doyen on the twins Doodica and Radica, who were joined like the Siamese twins. Doodica has since died from tuberculosis, but her sister, who suffered from the same disease, is, according to a special cable, improving rapidly. Dr. Doyen was aided in the operation by his three ordinary assistants, and Dr. J. A. Fort, professor of anatomy. In the operating room there were also Mme. Doyen, the wife of the surgeon; her young son, M. Bernstamm, a sculptor, and three sisters of mercy. The whole scene was photographed by a cinematograph apparatus.

Dr. Doyen proceeded to make the dissection with rapidity. He was very calm, and had his nerves under complete control. On more than one occasion he turned to the other operator, the one on the cinematograph, which kept unrolling the long film with its peculiar rattle, the only sound to be heard in the operating room.

The professor had taken up his position at the right side, and the apparatus could follow all his movements. On two occasions the surgeon seemed anxious about the length of time a suture was taking. On two occasions he turned to the cinematographer and asked him in a half whisper, "How long have I got still?" "Five minutes, two minutes," was the reply. And the photographic film kept spinning through the apparatus. The professor finally stopped, twenty minutes after the first administration of chloroform. The operation had lasted barely ten minutes.

GIFTS FOR THE POPE.

A dispatch from Rome says the pope has received a number of extraordinary missions, sent to congratualte him on his jubilee. They all brought costly gifts and autograph letters from the heads of the states they represented. Emperor William sent a porcelain clock. His holiness, in thanking the German envoy, referred to the friendship existing between Germany and the vatican, and said he congratulated himself on the good relations existing between Emperor William and his Catholic subjects.

THE FATE OF ANDRE

THE INTREPID EXPLORER WAS KILLED BY THE ARROWS OF NATIVES.

REPORT OF A HUSKIE, WHO WAS SENT TO INVESTIGATE.

The fate of Andre, the Swedish aeronaut, who made the hair-brained dash for the North Pole nearly four years ago had long been given up as hopeless, and the final word, which it was hoped would throw light upon his ending from North American sources has come in from North Keewatin, and the Hudson's Bay company, whose officers were requested by the Swedish consul at London, to be on the alert for any traces of Andre, have forwarded the sad intelligence that there is no possibility of any further information on the mystery from this continent. The relation of the death of Andre and his associates by the fierce Eskimo of the Arctic circle, is confirmed, according to the latest reports that have been received at Winnipeg.

When the Hudson's Bay people were asked to look for the daring explorer they were furnished with pictures of the balloon, and to these were attached descriptions in the Indian dialects, so that the natives at the various trading posts could inform themselves as to what they were to expect. Replies informing of vague aerial visitations were received from Labrador right across the country as far west as the Mackenzie basin, but none of them could be termed authentic, and only one was regarded as being worthy of investigating seriously. This was the report sent in from Ashton Alston, the factor at Fort Churchill, the most northerly post of the great company, on the west coast of Hudson's Bay.

In the spring of three years ago an Eskimo who had been hunting in the far northern regions near the Arctic Circle, and who had been ignorant of the circulars sent out by the company, arrived at the post with his catch of furs, and he had a strange tale to tell. Away up beyond the Barren Lands, and in the frigid zone, he had met a band of Arctic "Huskies," the wild natives who know only of the white men from stories of their brethren to the south. They eat their meat raw because there is no wood to cook with, and are as savage as the terrible cannibal aboriginals of the equator. These creatures saw the tobacco that the Huskie from the south had with him, and told him where he could get more. They said that a big something had come floating through the air. The southern Huskie, who was a coast man, said it must have been a big "oomiyak" sailing in the air. The coast Huskies have two kinds of boats, the "hyak," or men's boat, a small narrow craft capable of holding only one person, and the "oomiyak" or women's craft, a large boat which will carry many persons, as well as dogs and the family effects, and the southern Eskimo's description was most apt.

The northern Huskies told him that the big "oomiyak" was floating along in the air not far above the earth. They had seen it a long way off and when it settled to the ground they approached it and saw three white men strangely dressed come out. They were armed with guns, and walked around, coming toward them. Some deer sprang up between the two parties and the white men shot at them.

Some of the members of the party thought that the whites were shooting at them, and they immediately let fire their arrows. The Huskie bow is a short, stout bone and horn affair and shoots an arrow with frightful velocity, and the men are adept with the weapons. The three white men were killed in the twinkling of an eye, and the Huskies investigated their strange "oomiyak." They found rifles and cartridges, knives, some cooking utensils and other articles, to which they helped themselves. These they showed to the southerner. This was all that the southern Huskie was told. They described to him the place where the strange machine in which the whites had travelled had struck the ground, and he attempted to locate it, but failed. That was all he could tell, and as the man had previuosly known nothing of the balloon, as he had been away from Fort Churchill in the wilderness more than a little credence was attached to his statements.

He was provided with a quantity of supplies and dispatched into the solitudes again to find the Arctic Huskies and get them to locate the scene of the tragedy. He was away two years on his search, and at last gave it up and returned to Churchill last summer to make his report. The Huskie, like the Indian, is nomadic in his way and follows the game. In the summer he is where the fish are plentiful, and in the winter mhere the deer are to be most easily slain, and although the man scoured the country he could not find any trace of the same band he had encountered, nor could he get information which would help him in his search. During the time he had travelled thousands of miles and had suffered many privations, but then these to an Eskimo are natural experiences.

The information brought down by the man was communicated by Trader Alston to the proper officials, and reached the English headquarters staff in the usual way. By them it would be forwarded to the Swedish government.

WRECK OF AN AMERICAN LINER.

Waesland Goes to the Bottom of the Irish Channel—Two Lives Are Lost.

A London cable says: The American line steamer Waesland, Capt. Apfield, from Liverpool, March 5, for Philadelphia, and the British steamship Harmonides, Capt. Penton, met in collision off Holyhead. The Waesland sank. All but two of her passengers and all the crew were saved.

The loss of the Waesland was due to the dense fog which enveloped the Irish channel. The Harmonides rescued the passengers and crew of the Waesland. She carried 32 cabin and 82 steerage passengers.

The Harmonides struck the Waesland amidships and there was a terrible shock. Most of the Waesland's passengers had retired for the night. Perfect order and discipline prevailed. The crew of the steamer rapidly turned out the passengers and succeeded in assuring them that their lives were safe. The passengers were greatly influenced by the coolness of the crew, and obeyed instructions willingly and quickly. The Waesland's boats were quickly got out, and in less than half an hour the entire ship's company had been transferred to the Harmonides. Unfortunately two lives were lost. The dead are a steerage passenger named Dangerfied, and a child named Elsie Immott, the daughter of a cabin passenger.

INHUMAN TREATMENT.

United States Officers Will be Court-Martialed for Executing Natives Without Trial.

A court martial has been ordered to try Major Littleton, W. T. Waller and Lieut. John H. A. Day, of the United States Marine corps, on the charge of executing natives of the Island of Samar, in the Philippines, without trial.

Some of the circumstances in the case are peculiarly atrocious. One native was tied to a tree and publicly shot in the thigh. The next day the man was shot in the arms. The third day he was shot in the body, and the fourth day the native was killed.

Friends of the two officers attribute their actions to loss of mind due to privations which they suffered in the Island of Samar.

KILLED BY A TELEPHONE.

A dispatch from Duluth, Minn., says: One of the most singular accidents ever chronicled in the city occurred when James J. McKusick was killed by a shock while talking through a telephone. McKusick was at his home and stood upon a steel register in order to use more conveniently the 'phone. While engaged in conversation he suddenly turned up his hands, his body seemed to stiffen, and he fell dead at his wife's feet. It is supposed that the telephone wire crossed another electric wire and that McKusick, standing on metal, formed a circuit. He was 29 years old.

A BIG ENTRY.

The largest single entry ever passed at the port of Winnipeg was put through at the customs house one day last week. This was an importation of railway equipment made by the Canadian Northern railway, and the total value of the snipment was over $350,000, and the duty collected thereon was about $90,000, a tidy sum of toll money on American made goods. The equipment was mainly in the shape of box cars, which the railway company is importing for the purpose of taking out its proportion of the grain which is still remaining in the country.

DANES AND MORMONS.

A cable dispatch from Copenhagen says: The Mormon missionaries' propaganda here has become so active that they are distributing literature even within the Danish churches, urging young girls to attend Mormon meetings. Statistics show that one out of every 22 Danish immigrants to the United States becomes a Mormon. The clergy, in connection with the government, are continuing their plans to put an end to the proselytizing.

SOUTH AFRICAN NEWS

GENERAL DEWET WOUNDED IN TRYING TO BREAK THE BLOCK HOUSE LINE.

INHUMAN TREATMENT OF CANADIAN WOUNDED BY THE BURGHERS.

London, Marrh 6.—A dispatch at Harrismith, Orange River Colony, says that Boer prisoners report that General DeWet was shot in the arm during the recent attempt to break through the block house line.

BOTHA CAUGHT, BUT ESCAPES.

War Secretary Broderick announced in the Commons, with considerable unction, that General De Wet's son had been captured, but he failed to impart to the legislature more surprising news. This is that the famous commander General Louis Botha had also been made prisoner and had gotten away again.

That is a story held in reserve, and may yet result in some court-martials.

The affair happened after the capture of Botha's laager near Knapdaar, and the astonishing details would not now be known had not a trick been played on the British censor. The tidings came in a private letter from an officer in the field, the letter having been mailed by an intermediary at a free port to avoid the censor's scrutiny and even mutilation. It will be remembered that when Redington's troops made the night attack at Knapdaar they captured several prisoners and the camp equipment of the Boers. Among the men taken was General Louis Botha, but the British did not recognize him, and the other prisoners took care to shield him in every possible manner.

After the pursuit of the fugitive had ended the captured men were divided into groups, and Botha, fortunately for him, was included in the number that was intrusted to the care of the rear guard from which he escaped during the excitement of a shirmish.

TORTURES FOR CANADIANS.

Ottawa, March 6.—A letter published in an evening paper from South Africa says: The Boers rob every man of everything he has, clothing and all, and then leave him wounded and bleeding. The Manitoba fellows who were wounded the other day were treated in this manner and in addition to the ordinary torture of pain and thirst had to suffer from the fierce heat on their unprotected bodies for twelve hours. You can imagine the result. God help brother Boer when he runs into a Canadian now.

A dispatch from New York says: A strange story is exciting much discussion among military men, says a long dispatch to the Tribune, although it has been kept out of both press and parliament. It relates to alleged reprisals taken by Australian troops for Boer outrages in firing upon the wounded, and draconian measures adopted by Lord Kitchener for enforcing discipline. It is stated that the Australian officers and men who took the lex talionis into their own hands were tried by court martial and some of them sentenced to be shot. Nothing official has been obtained on the matter in London.

TRANS-CANADA RAILWAY.

A Road to be Built From Quebec City to Port Simpson.

Quebec, March 6.—The scheme of the proposed Trans-Canada Railway company is being actively revised here, and a meeting with that object in view was held yesterday. The idea is to build a road from Quebec to Port Simpson on the Pacific coast. The distance from ocean to ocean is about 300 miles shorter than the Canadian Pacific, 600 miles shorter than Mackenzie & Mann's proposed line, 700 miles shorter to Japan and China than the C. P. R. It will, moreover, cross the summit of the Rocky Mountains at a point less than half the elevation of the C. P. R.

The line is to be divided into four sections. The first is from Quebec to James Bay, via Roberval, the second from James Bay to Norway House, at the north end of Lake Winnipeg, the third to Peace River Pass, in the Rockies, and the fourth from Summit to Port Simpson, the best Canadian harbor on the Pacific coast.

A terribly fatal accident is reported from Rosthern, Sask. A Galician youth was oiling the machinery n the top story of the mill, when the back of his coat caught in the cog wheels, and he was choked to death before the engine could be stopped.

The Publisher of the Best Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces in writing to us states :

I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an unfailing remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitations.

Weak men believe in luck; strong men believe in cause and effect.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquillizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatments. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

OUT OF SORTS.—Symptoms, Headache, loss of appetite, furred tongue, and general indisposition. These symptoms, if neglected, develop into acute disease. It is a trite saying that an "ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," and a little attention at this point may save months of sickness and large doctor's bills. Hope For Consumptives

HOW THE RAVAGES OF THIS SCOURGE MAY BE STAYED.

Statistics Prove That More Deaths Occur From Consumption Than From All Other Contagious Diseases Combined—How Best to Combat the Disease.

The ravages of consumption throughout Canada is something appalling. In the province of Ontario, where statistics of deaths from all diseases are carefully kept, it is shown that 2,286 of the deaths occurring during the year 1901 were due to consumption, or about 40 per cent. more than the number of deaths occurring from all other contagious diseases combined. These figures are startling, and show the urgent necessity of taking every available means for combatting a disease that yearly claims so many victims. The time to cure consumption is not after the lungs are hopelessly involved and the doctors have given up hope. Taken in its early stages, consumption is curable. Consumption is a wasting disease of the lungs and at the earliest symptom of lung trouble steps should be taken to arrest the waste and thus stop the disease. Consumption preys upon weakness. Strength is the best measure of safety. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and strength builder known to medical science. The record of this medicine speaks for itself and proves conclusively that taken when the symptoms of consumption develop they build up, strengthen and invigorate the patient to a point where disease disappears. In proof of this take the case of Ildege St. George, of St. Jerome, Que., who says :—

"About a year ago I became greatly run down. I lost color, suffered constantly from headaches and pains in the sides ; my appetite left me, and I became very weak. Then I was attacked by a cough, and was told that I was in consumption. The doctor ordered me to the Laurentian Mountains, in the hope that the change of air would benefit me. I remained there for some time, but did not improve, and returned home feeling that I had not much longer to live. I then decided to use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After using several boxes my appetite began to return, and this seemed to mark the change which brought about my recovery, for with the improved appetite came gradual but surely increasing strength. I continued the use of the pills, and daily felt the weakness disappear, until finally I was again enjoying good health, and now, as those who know me can see, I show no trace of the illness I passed through. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life, and I hope my statement will induce similar sufferers to try them."

These pills are also a certain cure for the after effects of la grippe and pneumonia, which frequently develops into consumption. Through their blood-renewing, strengthening qualities they also cure anaemia, heart troubles, neuralgia, rheumatism, stomach troubles, kidney and liver ailments and the functional weaknesses that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery. There are many imitations of this medicine and the health seeker should protect himself by seeing that the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on every box. Sold by all dealers in medicine or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Actions speak louder than words. Some men never say die, yet they all have to do it.

SELECTIONS

Men and Beasts.

I once had a trainer, an old Irishman, who had served in a British regiment in India and who knew the ways of tigers in every detail. He taught three of them to do more work in the show arena than I have ever seen done by tigers. I have seen him sitting down between two of them at rest times during rehearsals and examining their claws to see if any of them were sore or split. Any one who has ever tried that with even a house cat knows that it strikes the feline nature as an unwarrantable familiarity, but they never did more than show their teeth and whine, and that in half playfulness.

One day he got very drunk. I had never known him to transgress before. Before he was noticed on his return to the cage he had gone in with his tigers and fallen in a heap on the floor. The other keepers tried to take him out of the cage, but to have done so would have meant a bitter and bloody fight with the three striped ones. They guarded him all night in his drunken slumber. The next time he put them to work, however, they balked, and he could neither persuade nor drive them. They had ceased to trust him, or something of that sort, and his usefulness with them was at an end completely.—F. Bostock in Frank Leslie's.

Hoptoads as an Edible.

A scandal has been caused in Paris by the discovery that the commercial supply of frogs' legs is largely adulterated with corresponding parts of hoptoads. It appears that frog hunters who pursue the saltatory game in the swamps about Montmorency, Vincennes, Boulogne and other suitably moist neighborhoods have been unable to resist the temptation offered by so convenient and easily captured a relative as the everyday toad, the result being that a large percentage of the so-called frogs' legs sold in the French metropolis are said to be in reality toads' legs.

The expert in such matters is not easily deceived. He recognizes the hind legs of the undeniable frog by the whiteness of the flesh, those of the toad being yellowish. But everybody cannot be expected to know the difference, and it is painful to think that the notion of the ignorant Englishman, who for generations has called the Frenchman "Johnny Crapaud," should find a basis of fact in his traditional accusation of toad eating.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Atmosphere of Comets.

Several attempts have been made to determine the refractive power of the atmosphere surrounding the head of a comet by measuring the change of the apparent position of the star before, during and after its occultation by the comet. Observations made at Geneva in 1881 by Dr. Meyer were interpreted to show an appreciable refraction. Observations by Burnham and Barnard at the Lick observatory in 1891 on a comet that traversed the Pleiades showed, on the other hand, no such effect. Mr. Perrine, at the Lick observatory, has lately repeated similar observations and found no trace of change of position of a star during its occultation by the comet. The spectroscope showed the comet to be gaseous. The light from the star must have suffered some refraction. The observations prove that the amount was inappreciable and that the gas was of extreme tenuity.

Ceylon Knives.

In Burma, in Ceylon and, though fortunately in a lesser degree, in Madras, says the Madras Times, quarrels are constantly occurring in which knives are brought into play and serious wounds inflicted, resulting more often than not in death. The knives used in Ceylon are sheath knives, and for long the law abiding portion of the community has been trying to get the authorities to insist on these knives being made with a button on the tip. They would be thus rendered harmless for stabbing, while still available for legitimate use. Were it enacted that no clasp knives beyond a certain maximum size of blade and handle should be carried on the person much good would result. Any one carrying a dangerously big knife should be made amenable to a special "knife act," punishable with the cane or birch.

Ways and Means.

Tears stood in my wife's great, gray eyes. "I am dying to go to the Paris exposition!" she exclaimed.

"You are very foolish!" said I, striving to be calm. "If you die, you will go to heaven!"

Recuba bit her lip. It was impossible of course, to gainsay my logic.

OSHAWA MIRACLE IS EXPLAINED

How a Remarkable Case of Paralysis Was Cured.

THE MOST INTERESTING MAN IN CANADA.

Joseph Brown Attracts Attention of Physicians, Scientists and Sick People.

JOSEPH BROWN.

From the Mail and Empire.

Oshawa, Ont., March 3.—Joseph Brown, whose case was fully reported in the Mail and Empire some time ago, seems to be the most talked-of and written about man in Canada. He is in receipt daily of many letters from all over the Dominion. Physicians and scientists, as well as sick people, write him, and many and often amusing questions are asked. To all Mr. Brown answers : "I have given my sworn statement, and it tells my story. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me, and that after I had been partially paralyzed and unable to move for over four months, and given up by many doctors."

Many people have been puzlled as to how a kidney medicine can cure paralysis. This is easily understood when it is remembered that the kidney poison, which is the direct result of kidney weakness, is most destructive to all healthy tissue and nerve.

Seventy-five per cent of all nervous diseases, paralysis and brain troubles, is directly caused by weak kidneys, allowing violent poisons to escape through the system to derange and destroy.

Dodd's Kidney Pills, by correcting the action of the kidneys, encourage these natural filters of the blood to extract and expel the poisons, thus removing the cause of many of these dangerous ailments, which are not generally spoken of as kidney diseases.

THE ANNUAL MEETING

The Fernie Board of Trade Elects Officers for the Ensuing Year.

W. R. ROSS IS PRESIDENT.

A. Joyce and J. S. T. Alexander Re-Elected.

The annual meeting of the Fernie Board of Trade was held in the Cuthbert Block on Thursday evening of this week. The were about thirty members present, Mr. A. Joyce occupying the chair.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and on motion adopted.

A communication from the Lethbridge Board of Trade asking the board to take action in regard to securing a Sunday mail service was read.

Several other communications were received from various Boards asking the Fernie Board to pass a resolution re prefrential trade with Great Britain.

On motion the communications were referred to a committee of three to be appointed by the President.

Mr. D. V. Mott proposed the name of Mr. Thos. Stockett, jr., for honorary membership and his name was put on the roll.

Mr. H. A. Kanouse then proposed the following names for membership.—H. Kershaw, Martin O'Reilly, W. R. Ross, Dr. Higgins, John Turner, F. Burns, W. Richards, W. W. Thompson, Geo. Clode and O'N. Ross.

On motion the regular rule of procedure requiring new members to be balloted for was suspended and the above gentlemen were admitted to membership on motion of Messrs. Mott and Johnson.

The nomination for president then took place and the following gentlemen's names were submitted :—Messrs. W. R. Ross, D. V. Mott and J. A. Rennie. On the matter being put to a vote Mr. Ross was elected, and after briefly thanking the members for the confidence reposed in him, took the chair.

Mr. A. Joyce was elected by acclamation to fill the Vice-President's chair, as was also Mr. J. S. T. Alexander to fill the position of Secretary-Treasurer.

The following names were then proposed for the executive committee :—Messrs. F. Stork, A. B. Trites, J. A. Rennie, D. V. Mott, H. A. Kanouse, H. W. Herchmer, H. J. Johnson, A. C. Liphardt, A. H. Cree, A. W. Bleasdell, J. R. Pollock, J. F. Jarvis, J. H. Bricker. A ballot was then taken and the following six were declared elected :—Messrs. A. B. Trites, J. A. Rennie, D. V. Mott, F. Stork, H. A. Kanouse and J. A. Bricker.

Mr. D. V. Mott gave notice of motion to increase the membership of the executive from six to eight at the next regular meeting.

The committee on Incorporation reported that they had been looking into the matter, but would require more time before they could make a satisfactory report and on motion of Messrs. Cree and Joyce they were given until the next meeting to report.

The treasurer reported that there was $68.35 on hand. He also gave a report of the receipts and expenditures.

On motion of Messrs. Kanouse and Rennie the report was adopted.

Mr. H. J. Johnson asked if the delegates to Kaslo had received their expenses. The expenses of Mr. Herchmer and Mr. Mott, were reported as being $49.25, and on motion of Messrs. Trites and Rennie the amount was ordered to be paid.

It was moved by Mr. A. Joyce, seconded by H. A. Kanouse that a salary of $25 a year be attached to the office of Secretary-Treasurer.—Carried.

It was suggested by Mr. H. A. Kanouse that the annual fee of the board be fixed at $5 and Mr. D. V. Mott gave notice that he would introduce a motion to that effect at the next meeting.

Mr. Kanouse called the attention of the board to the condition of the road to the mines, which was reported to be in a very bad shape.

Moved by Mr. Herchmer, seconded by Mr. J. A. Rennie, that the secretary be asked to advise the Government Agent and Road Commissioner of the condition of the road.—Carried.

Mr. Cree brought up the matter of fire protection and said that it ought to be considered without delay.

Mr. Herchmer suggested that the Coal company be approached in regard to securing a lot for a fire hall.

Moved by Mr. D. V. Mott, seconded by Mr. J. A. Rennie, that a committee of three be appointed by the President to interview the company in regard to the matter.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. A. B. Trites, seconded by Mr. J. H. Bricker, that a special meeting of the board be called next Wednesday evening to consider the matter of fire protection.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. A. Joyce, seconded by Mr. H. A. Kanouse, that a resolution of condolence be drafted expressing regret at the death of Mr. Geo. Levasseur, who had been a prominent member of the board, and that a copy of said resolution be forwarded to Mrs. Levasseur and a copy be kept in the minutes.—Carried.

Mr. D. V. Mott gave a brief report of the delegation to Kaslo. He spoke of the splendid treatment they had received and hoped that the Board of Trade would do all in their power to make the visit of the Associated Boards next year a pleasant one.

Moved by Mr. A. B, Trites, seconded by Mr. D. V. Mott, that a vote of thanks be tendered to Mr. Cuthbert for the use of his room for this meeting.—Carried.

The meeting then adjourned.

WRESTLING CONTEST.

AGrand Struggle—American Wins in 44 1-2 Minutes.

The wrestling contest which took place in Princess Hall, on Saturday evening, was largely attended and was one of the best contests which has ever taken place in the province. The match was to have been between C. E. Hallett, Jas. Millan and Alex. Walker, the first named agreeing to throw the latter two twice in an hour, but when the appointed time arrived Walker failed to put in an appearance and Millan consented to take Hallet on for the four throws.

Hallet is a professional wrestler, holding the middleweight championship of Dakota, Minnesota and Montana, and is one of the best athletes in America. Millan, his opponent, is also a splendidly built young man possessing tremendous strength, and although, but a working man has evidently had considerable experience in wrestling, as was demonstrated by the scientific exhibition which he put up.

The men came on the mat at 11.08 o'clock and the struggle commenced, Hallett soon discovered that he had no easy think in "Scotty" as he appeared to be the stronger man if anything of the two and was very quick. For the first 23 minutes both men put up a wonderful exhibition. Scotty acting entirely on the defensive and Hallet resorting to all the tricks known to the game in his endeavor to put Millan on his back. At the end of that time "Scotty's" wind was beginning to play out and with a terrible effort by his opponent he was slowly forced back till his shoulders rested on the mat.

After four minutes rest the struggle recommenced but Millan had put forth his best efforts and after a struggle of twelve minutes was again pinned to the ground by his opponent.

After five and a half minutes' rest they were at it again, but Millan had not the wind to stay with the game very long, at the end of 2½ minutes being again laid prostrate by his antagonist.

"Scotty" still had one chance left and after four minutes rest they continued the struggle, but in spite of the tremendous strength he exerted, superior science showed itself, and Hallet again triumphed. The contest lasted 44½ minutes, Hallet still having 15½ minutes to the good.

Everybody present seemed to be well satisfied with the result of the match. Although Millan had lost, he had nevertheless proved to all preseet his wonderful strength and ability, and that with a little training he would be a match for his victorious opponent. W. W. Tuttle refereed the contest and everyone was pleased with his decisions.

During the contest considerable alarm was caused by the giving away of one of the iron rods supporting the floor, which made a report like a pistol shot and nearly caused a stampede, but when the crowd discovered that nothing very serious had happened they were soon restored to order again.

FERNIE IS VICTORIOUS

Victory Again Rests on the Colors of the Fernie Hockey Team.

FERNIE VS. MEDICINE HAT

The Champions of the Territories go to Pieces Before the Heroes ofthe Crow's Nest Pass Score 6-2.

The greatest game of hockey that has ever been played west of Brandon took place in the Fernie skating rink last night, when the hitherto invincible team of Medicine Hat, met with a crushing defeat at the hands of what outsiders are pleased to call the "Fernie Coal Heavers." The ice was rather soft, but the game was a whirlwind throughout.

The excitement was intense from start to finish. Never before has the rink been packed as it was on this occasion. Special galleries had been erected, but every inch of available room was occupied.

Our lads realised that they would have to play as they never did before—and they did. Everyone was astonished and delighted to see their clever combination work and skillful play throughout the match. The visitors were on the ice about half an hour before out boys turned out and their fast skating and wonderful shooting brought a chill to the hearts of the spectators and they trembled for the result of the game. When Fernie defeated Pincher Creek it was thought the height of their ambition had been reached. They viewed Medicine Hat as utterly beyond them, but when the challenge from that team arrived our lads thought they would like to give them a trial anyway and the result—a score of 6-2 in favor of tne home team—proved beyond a doubt that Fernie has the best hockey team between Brandon and Nelson. The teams took their positions at 8:32 as follows :—

MEDICINE HAT		FERNIE
Walton	Goal	Miller
Cavanah	Point	Dowsley
Turnbull	Cover Point	Kastner
Niblock	Rover	Barber
Turnbull	Forwards	Lafortune
Dulmidge		Beaubier
Tweed		Coulter

In the first half the play was very even. The first score was made by Milt Kastner two minutes after play commenced by a strong lift from cover point, but one minute later Medicine Hat had evened the score by a brilliant rush on the Fernie defense. Five minutes more passed and Barber got in one of his brilliant plays, going through the visitors' defense like a streak of lightning, and landing the puck in the net. Three minutes of the terrible struggle again intervened, and it was again evened by the Hat boys, the puck jumping over Miller's boot in a most provoking manner. The struggle from now until the end of half time was the slowest part of the game, both sides being apparently slightly winded from the terrific speed of the first twenty minutes, and neither succeeded in making a goal, the score standing 2-2 at half time.

The second half was rather one-sided, the home team having things pretty much their own way. The puck was kept on the visitors' ice nearly all the time, and had it not been for the wonderful work of Walton, the goal tender, the score would have been much greater than it was. Shot after shot rained on the goal by the Fernie forwards. Barber came in with a beauty two minutes after play had started, and landed it in the net. Six minutes later he again did the trick ; then D. Lafortune, with a rush, did the necessary. The last goal was also scored by Barber. The visitors seemed to be paralyzed. They played splendid hockey, but time after time their combination was broken, and in spite of their magnificent play they were compelled to acknowledge that they were out-classed, the Fernie team playing all around them.

At the conclusion of the game the spectators rushed on the ice and carried our boys off on their shoulders. Never was such enthusiasm witnessed in Fernie before. The people fairly went mad with joy.

C. S. Pingle, of Medicine Hat, refereed the game, and a fairer and more impartial one never stood on skates. He showed a thorough knowledge of the game, and his decisions were never disputed.

W. C. Krouss and E. Wrigglesworth acted as goal umpires.

Considering that Medicine Hat has the best team in the Territories, possessing several players of more than local fame, such as Dalmidge, who played on the Winnipeg C. P. R. team, which defeated the champion intermediate team of Brandon, 3-2, about ten days ago, and Cavanaugh, one of the best players on the Peterborough team, the winners of the junior O.H.A. last year, our boys justly feel that they have reason to be proud of their victory, and the town will unite in doing honor to its hockey heroes.

After the game both teams repaired to the Royal Hotel, where a banquet had been prepared to do honor to the visitors. There were about fifty guests present. Mr. W. R. Ross, President of the Athletic Association, occupied the chair.

The first toast of the evening, "Our King," was responded to with the National Anthem, then followed "Our Visitors," the manager and captain of the Medicine Hat team replying in a very able manner.

Several other toasts followed :—"Our Hockey Club," "The Referee," "The Chairman," "Our Host and Hostess" which were responded to in a very able manner by those called upon. All expressed their delight with the game and appreciation of the clean play and gentlemenly conduct of the visitors. M. A Steele, N. Coulthard and W. McCormick entertained those present with songs and recitations, after which the gathering dispersed.

NOTES ON THE GAME.

Hockey is the King of Sports

Barber played the best game on the ice, scoring three times.

Milt and Dousley make a defence which is hard to beat.

Every man on the Fernie team played to win, not a blunder was made during the whole game.

The Hat boys took the medicine like true sports.

It was the cleanest game of hockey ever played in Fernie.

The throats of J. H. Bricker and Fred Stork will need medical assistance today.

Some of the Hat boys say they would like to live in Fernie.

The "Medicine Hat" team must take off the "Hat" to the Fernie boys and take their "Medicine" straight.

Leave your order for hot X buns and Easter loaf before Wednesday, 26th inst., as only a limited number can be made.—A. BECK.

A Ping Pong club has been organized at Wardner with our old friend, Irving Wilson, formerly of Fernie, as President. Fort Steele and Cranbrook had better look to their laurels.

More Figure Talk.

The Insurance and Finance Chronicle of Montreal compiled the interest earnings of the different companies doing business in Canada, and in the issue of Sept: 13th, 1901, publishes the following figures as a result :—

Canadian Companies, average	4.87 per cent.
British Companies average	4.03 "
American Companies average	4.31 "
The Great West average	6.99 "

SPIDER'S CHAPS.

A Tale of the Cattle Thieves of Agua Caliente.

Copyright, 1900 by W. LeC. Beard.

What the foreman said was perfectly true. I fully realized that now, and at once gave orders to round up the cattle. The river had fallen considerably, and it was decided that we should move the camp and gather the cattle at the nearest ford, 12 miles below. In this way it was just possible that, if the river allowed us, we might get across and away before there was an opportunity for trouble.

All of our men were at supper that night, and all of them, with the exception of Hollis, were trustworthy. The others had been weeded out days before. As the hasty meal was finished the foreman stood up and made a little speech to the men. It was very short.

"Boys," he said, "I reckon you all knows what you got ter do. Now you wanter saddle up an do it jus' as quick as you know how. There'll be trouble else at both ends er the line. Now's the time ter start."

The boys saddled and started. In a few minutes, except for the Ballet Girl, who was hurriedly striking camp, there was not a human being in sight. Driving the spare horses ahead of me, I went directly to our new camping place, gathering by the way what few cattle I could get. I was the first to arrive at the ford. I built a fire to guide the others to this point and sat down to keep it going until the cook could come up and relieve me.

Few of the cattle had strayed far. Followed by a shouting cowboy or two, small bunches soon began to come in. These bunches would be united on the river bank, and their herders would gallop off after more. Then the cook wagon drew up at the fire, which was utilized by the Ballet Girl for the manufacture and maintenance of a huge pot of coffee, kept for the benefit of all comers. There was no time to stop and eat.

"I reckon you all knows what you got ter do."

The men came and went and came again, all of them, except Spider and Hollis. I had not seen them since supper. I began to get very uneasy about Spider and made inquiries as the men came in. Cappy Lee, it seemed, was the last to see them. It was early in the evening. Spider was spurring along directly in Hollis' wake and both of them heading for Agua Caliente. It was long past midnight when Lee informed me of this. Calling the foreman, I hurriedly told him about Spider's absence and in whose company he was last seen. I also told him that I was very much afraid that something had happened to the boy and that I intended to start out at once in search of him.

"Ridin jealous er Hollis, I s'pose, like he always does," said the foreman. "Well, I reckon you'd better go," he went on, after thinking a moment "Oughtn't ter go alone, though"—

"He won't go alone, you bet you," Lee interrupted. "Jus' wait till I saddle up a fresh horse an get my rifle outer the wagon. I won't be long."

"What about yer work?" asked the foreman reprovingly.

"Have ter get 'long without me the best it kin, I reckon," responded Lee as he walked away to make his preparations. The foreman made a quick stride after him and then stopped.

"He hadn't no business ter talk like that, but I reckon he's right. He ought ter go, an maybe I'd done the same if I was him. Look here. Don't you get inter no fights you c'n help. If you don't come back by an hour after sun up, er if ther's anything ben done ter that ther kid, I'll let the cattle go, an I'll take every one er the boys—I'll head 'em myself—an I'll burn Agua Caliente an shoot every man ther is in the place."

I laughed.

"You needn't ter laugh," cried the foreman indignantly. "You know I don't talk 'less I mean it. If me an the boys can live ter do it, I'll do every las' thing I said."

At first I had thought that he was joking, but it was as he said. He meant every word. Of course I would not for a moment consent to such a plan as that he proposed, one that might involve the killing of men who had not done or intended us any harm. I gave the foreman orders to stop where he was until the following noon, and then, if we had not returned, to send a search party. But I could not see that we were in any danger.

"Danger?" responded the foreman obstinately. "Well, I reckon maybe I know some better than you do. If you ain't back when I said, we'll all be a search party. I'm boss when you ain't here. I'm a-gonter hol' all the boys as they come in an give 'em a night's rest. We c'n start work in the mornin one way er another—an hour after sun up. Hol' on a minute."

He ran to the wagon and took out a rifle, which he fastened to my saddle.

"Take this along. Maybe you'll want it," he said, shoving a handful of cartridges into my pocket. "Here comes Lee."

As he spoke the cowboy, freshly mounted, came cantering up, and we started off.

"You needn't be afraid of us hurtin no innercent men," the foreman called after us reassuringly. "We wouldn't do that." He waited until we were some distance away, and then, making a speaking trumpet of his hands, he bawled:

"In—Agua Caliente there—ain't—no—innercent—men!"

CHAPTER IV.

IN WHICH THE CATTLE ARE STAMPEDED BY LORENA'S GANG.

I had not an idea as to Spider's probable whereabouts. The desert was so very large and Spider so very minute a speck upon its surface that it struck me after we had started out that our quest was a singularly hopeless one. Lee, however, differed from me.

"I don't see no trouble in knowin where ter go," he said. "Pug Hollis, he'll be prutty sure ter strike to'rds Agua Caliente, an Spider'll sure be in his wake. All we got ter do is ter go ter Agua Caliente, too; that's all. If anything's wrong an that kid's alive, he'll be makin some noise er other ter let us know. He's a star at makin a noise, Spider is. It's right in his line."

By this time we were well away from the camp, out of sight of the fire. But for the pole star that hung burning brightly over our heads I would not have had the faintest notion of the direction in which we were going. But Lee, with the plainsman's unerring instinct, loped steadily along without ever raising his eyes. Lee was not a talkative person. The only sound that broke the oppressive stillness was the dismal yelp of a distant coyote, the smothered pad of the hoofs of our mounts as they fell on the soft sand and the regular click of the spur chains against our heavy wooden stirrups. Only once did Lee speak.

"Moon's comin up. See? That's fine. C'n tell what we're doin now." He pointed to a silvery sheen on the dark blue horizon, into which a few minutes later the full moon climbed, streaking the rolling surface of the desert with bright light and blackest shadow and silvering the stately forms of the tree cactus that studded the desert thickly. A faint white line a mile ahead marked the course of a trail, toward which, by tacit consent, we turned our horses.

Suddenly Lee held up his hand as a signal that I should listen. At first I could hear nothing. Then, sounding faint in the distance, there came three pops of a pistol.

"That's him—somebody what wants help, anyhow," called Lee. "Over beyon' the rise, thar, they are. We c'n see from the top. Le's hustle—quick!" Putting spurs to our horses, we soon were climbing a long, stony ridge that for miles divided the plain, concealing one half from the other.

Our horses stopped of their own accord as they reached the top. At first we could see nothing. Then my attention was attracted by a moving blot near the edge of the black shadow thrown by the ridge. As we looked the blot passed out of the shadow and was at once defined as a bunch of cattle driven by three horsemen toward Agua Caliente. Who these men were we could not tell at that distance, but they were not of our force, and one of them, from the peaked crown of his hat, was probably a Mexican. They were driving the cattle rapidly. One of the men stopped, and, turning, looked intently in the direction from which he had come. One of his companions came back and joined him. Then, after a moment, they both wheeled and galloped back to the herd, where the third man seemed anxiously to await them. Evidently the three were uneasy about something.

"They think somebody is a-follerin em," said Lee softly in my ear. They were not far from the truth if they did think so. A horseman emerged from the shadow, and the brilliant moonlight fell on the diminutive form and bright, new chaps of Spider.

Will Have Her Rights.

For the moment the woman idiot is much depressed.

"Convention," she bitterly exclaims, "will not permit one of my sex to blow down the muzzle of a shotgun. What am I to do?"

But presently a happy thought strikes her.

"I shall study up the difference between toadstools and mushrooms!" she cries triumphantly.

In point of fact, a woman idiot stands on practically equal footing with a man idiot as regards means of self destruction.

APPLY THIS TEST TO THE NERVES.

If You Have These Symptoms Your Nerves Are Weak and Exhausted---You Can Get Well by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Nervous diseases are little understood. They have long been enshrouded in more or less mystery by the medical profession. Many who are fast falling victims of nervous prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia think that they are merely not very well, and will soon be around again—so insidious is the approach of nervous diseases and nervous collapse.

Study these symptoms. They are for your guidance. You may not have them all, but if you have any of them your nervous system is not up to the mark, and a little extra expenditure of nerve force may bring the dreadful downfall.

Intolerance of motion, noise and light; twitching of the muscles of the face and eyelids; fatiguing sleep, sudden startings and jerkings of the limbs; dizziness and flashes of light before the eyes; irritability and restlessness in every part of the body; headache, indigestion, feelings of weariness and depression, and loss of interest in the affairs of life.

So long as the daily expenditure of nerve force is greater than the daily income, physical bankruptcy is certain to result sooner or later. Nerve force must be increased, and this can best be accomplished by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it contains in concentrated form the very elements of nature which go directly to form nervous energy. Nervous diseases do not right themselves. They come on gradually as nerve force becomes exhausted, and can only be cured when the nerve force is restored.

No treatment for nervous diseases has ever received such universal endorsement by both physicians and people as has Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

In the press of Canada you will find hundreds of earnest letters telling of the wonderful benefits derived from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50c a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Failure is, in a sense, the highway to success, inasmuch as every discovery of what is false leads us to seek earnestly after what is true, and every fresh experience points out some form of error which we shall afterward carefully avoid.—Keats.

A MOTHER'S ADVICE.

She Tells How Little Ones Can Be Kept Well, Contented and Happy.

When baby is cross and irritable you may rest assured he is not well, even if you are unable to see any symptoms of his illness other than fretfulness. It is not natural for a baby to be cross and he is not so without reason. He has no other way of telling his troubles than by crossness and crying. When baby is cross give him Baby's Own Tablets, and they will soon make him good-natured and happy, because they will cool his hot little mouth, ease his sour little stomach and help his obstinate little teeth through painlessly. These tablets are just what every mother needs for her little ones—and for her older children too.

Mrs. Clarence McKay, Roseway, N. S., says: "I find Baby's Own Tablets the best medicine I have ever used for my little ones. When my baby was four months old he was very much troubled with indigestion. He would vomit his food as soon as he took it, no matter what I gave him and he seemed to be always hungry and kept thin and delicate. He also suffered from constipation. After giving him the Tablets a few days the vomiting ceased and his bowels became regular, and I must say that since I began the use of the Tablets I have had less trouble with this baby than I had with any of the rest of my children." Every mother should keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house at all times—there is no telling when an emergency may arise.

These Tablets are a certain cure for all the minor ailments of little ones, such as constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, sour stomach, and simple fever. They break up colds, prevent croup, and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are sold under a guarantee to contain no opiate or other harmful drug, and dissolved in water may be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Sold by all druggists at 25 cents a box, or sent post paid on receipt of price by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOOK THE BAIT.

Old Man Bet Him $20 That John Would Be There.

"I used to think I was some pumpkins," said the drummer as he lighted his cigar in the office of a Detroit hotel the other evening, "but I hadn't been rubbing against the world over a year before I was saying nothing and sawing wood as hard as I could. About the first game I ran across was in Chicago. An old chap from the turnip fields, with a face as innocent as a baby's, came up to me on the street and wanted to know if I knew a fellow named John Smith.

"'You've been confidenced!' I said as I looked at a bank check in his hand.

"'I guess not,' he replied, though he looked rather scared. 'I lent a feller $10, and he gave me this check for $20 to hold till he got back. You see it's signed "John Smith" all right, and that was his name. No, I don't think he's come any game on me. He looked like a decent feller.'

"It was so refreshing," said the drummer, "that I leaned up against a lamppost and laughed till my sides were sore. I told the old man that his check was not worth the paper it was written on and that he ought to have known better and all that, and he finally grew quite indignant and said:

"'I don't believe he was any such chap. He said he'd be back at 4 o'clock, and I'll bet he'll come. I'm an old hayseed, but I know a good man from a bad one.'

"'You'll never see him again, and you'd better look out or somebody will get your boots.'

"'But I'm sure he'll come. I've got $20 here as says he will.'

"I didn't want to add insult to injury, but the old chap was so sure and saucy about it that I put up my twenty to teach him a moral lesson. A policeman was stakeholder, and we had only five minutes to wait. Then John Smith showed up, repaid the $10 and took back his check, and of course I lost my $20 and was humiliated into the dust besides. The old hayseed called the turn on me by advising me not to go far from my hotel and to leave my watch in my room, and I was full of grief for three days. Then, on a corner a mile away, I caught him playing the same trick and understood that it was a put up job."

"And that assuaged your grief," was suggested.

"Well, perhaps. At least it made me realize that I was the biggest ass in the United States."—Detroit Free Press.

The Three F's.

A correspondent writing from Saugatuck, Conn., says that in that town were born, and lived until quite recently, three brothers, triplets, who all lived to be about seventy-five years old. They were named Frederick, Franklin and Francis Sherwood and were known as the three F's. They looked so much alike that they were often taken the one for the other. All followed the sea and were for a long time masters of vessels.

THEY CANNOT UNDERSTAND

MANY PEOPLE STILL ENQUIRING ABOUT JOSEPH BROWN'S CASE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills Are Acknowledged to be a Wonder Working Medicine—Many Other Miraculous Cures Brought to Light.

Oshawa, Ont., March 10.—(Special)—One effect of the publication far and wide through the press of the miraculous cure of a case of Paralysis here in Oshawa has been to bring to the surface a great many similarly wonderful and well authenticated cures by the same remedy—Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mr. Brown, whose case has caused all the sensation, is a modest, unassuming mechanic employed in the Oshawa Malleable Iron Works. Since the publication of the facts of his case and its cure he has been overwhelmed with letters of inquiry from all over the country, and to each of answers simply:

"Yes, Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me after all the doctors and hospital specialists had given me up. I couldn't walk and had to be fed like a baby for four months, but the pills soon fixed me up, and I have been all right ever since."

He has also been in receipt of not a few letters from others who, too, have found Dodd's Kidney Pills a life-saving remedy when all else had failed.

Several of these, encouraged by Mr. Brown's example, have written to the papers reporting their cases, and all are very enthusiastic in their praises of the medicine.

But our explanation of all these cases has been offered and it seems to make them easily understandable—The Kidneys are Nature's blood filters. If the kidneys are healthy all diseases will be extracted and expelled. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the Kidneys, and thus enable them to throw off sickness and to protect the body from any and every assault of disease.

THE CUP GOES EAST

MONTREAL HOCKEY TEAM WINS TWO OUT OF THREE CONTESTS.

STANLEY CUP ONCE MORE GOES BACK TO THE BANKS OF THE ST. LAWRENCE.

The second match in the Stanley Cup series in Winnipeg was won by the Montreal hockey team, who whitewashed the Winnipeg Victorias by a score of 5 goals to 0. The game was Montreal all the way; the younger men from the east proving their superiority in every point of the game.

THE FINAL GAME.

The Stanley Cup returns to Montreal again. The eastern team decided this in the final game of the series by winning out by a score of 2 goals to 1. And such a game it was. Never before in the whole history of hockey in Canada has the equal of it been seen. It was a dazzling exhibition, which sent the audience into rapturous applause, applause which was continuous during the whole progress of the game. The contest was marked by a singular absence of rough play, only twice was the game stopped, and then only for a few moments, and so intent were both teams on winning that the referee had little trouble with the players.

Taking the whole series of three games together, the Montreal team won on its merits, and clearly demonstrated the advantage youth has over matured age in players. The Winnipeg team, with but two exceptions was the same which fought year after year to win the trophy, while the Montreal team are all young men, swift as a flash on skates, and play a beautiful combination game.

From appearances it will be an altogether different team of players who will represent the west in future contests for the cup which represents the championship of the world in hockey.

SHOOTING AFFRAY AT CALGARY

During an Altercation a Man Named Simpson Is Fatally Wounded.

What will probably be murder was committed at the Atlantic hotel, Calgary. Three men, Joe McDonald, George Scouting, and a man named Mueller, partners in the livery business, had some liquor and were quarreling in the stable of the hotel when Roy McKenzie, the proprietor of the hotel, came home. He told McDonald and Scouting to leave Mueller with him. McDonald and Scouting then went into the hotel, but afterwards learning that Mueller was in the dining room they lookedin, and again had some words. McKenzie again requested them to leave, and they started out.

They had reached the door, when an Englishman, named Arthur Simpson, who had been drinking, interfered and ordered them out. Scouting turn?d on Simpson, and after a few words they clinched and fell to the floor. Immediately afterwards two shots were fired from a 38 calibre revolver. One bullet passed through Simpson's coat harmlessly, but the other entered the right side, passing through the stomach and emerged at the right hip.

Simpson will probably die, and in the ante-mortem seatement which has been taken he accuses McDonald of doing the shooting. McDonald has been arrested. Scouting immediately jumped on a horse and fled to the country, and the police have not yet captured him.

CANADIAN HAY IN ENGLAND.

The Canadian hay trade established in Liverpool, Manchester, and the north of England over twenty years ago has now found a permanent footing in London. The London Road Car company, Mr. J. H. Moore, J. P., chairman, announced at the half yearly meeting held on the 18th inst: "That the number of people carried in the company's vehicles during the preceding six months amounted to the gigantic total of 34,500,000, and that the whole of the hay consumed by the London car horses comes from Canada as it is cheaper than that grown in England."

ONTARIO TOBACCO.

HenrC C. Ward, of Pontiac, Mich., has made all arrangements to purchase last year's growth of tobacco from the farmers of South Essex, Ont. It is estimated that fully two million pounds of the native leaf will be purchased by Ward. About six hundred farmers are interested.

SUGGESTIONS TO CATTLEMEN.

A Prominent English Stockman's Opinion on the Export Trade.

Some excellent suggestions affecting the cattle export trade were made by Mr. W. S. Williamson, of Bater & Williamson, Liverpool, the largest handlers of Canadian ranch cattle in England, in an interview accorded the Calgary Herald. Chief among these suggestions was the emphasizing of the necessity of getting the cattle upon the English market earlier in the season than is the present custom. For instance, last year not a bullock reached Liverpool before the first week in September, and then the rush of importation glutted the market.

Another valuable hint thrown out by Mr. Williamson when he explains that the American bullock brings a penny a pound more than the Canadian rancher because it is finished on corn, the call of the English market being for better bred cattle; and it will pay Canadian breeders to fatten after the American style.

The decision of the contract department to accept only homebred and homefed beef for army supplies was a serious blow to Canadian ranchers, as formerly 40 per cent. of these cattle were used for that purpose; still, if the marketing of these cattle could be commenced, say, in July instead of September, as was the case last year, they can all be sold at fairly good prices. As a matter of fact, no foreign beef was used in army contracts last year. There is however, an effort being made to have the restrictions referred to removed.

The fact that a supply of cattle is not obtainable the year round, Mr. Williamson considered would militate against the success of the Calgary packing house for the export of refrigerated beef to England. If a proper scheme of feeding were adopted to keep up the supply it should be a success. He closed his reference to this topic by pointing out the unlimited market for bacon that England affords, and volunteered to take all that could be supplied.

New York Herald: "In his address at the meeting held in Carnegie hall on Sunday to discuss the 'Saloon question in New York,' Dr. Lyman Abbott made a strong plea for the only system of regulation that is compatible with the principles of our democracy—the regulation that can be sustained and supported by public sentiment. He offered 'local option' as the only sane, practical solution of the Sunday liquor problem in New York city. He prefaced his idea by showing the folly of attempting to prevent a man by legislation from getting a drink on Sunday if he wants it. As it is a question upon which it is impossible for men to agree, the law cannot undertake to say that a man shall not have a drink on Sunday, 'each person must be allowed to choose his own way.'

"More significant perhaps than the attitude of Dr. Abbott on this question is the change in that of the Rev. Dr. Isaac K. Funk on the subject. Dr. Funk, who is the best known prohibitionist in the country, says: "If I was king of New York, or boss, which is the same thing, I would not make New York a prohibition city, eben if I could do it by mandate. I don't believe that an attempt to enforce such alaw should be made until the majority of the people are in favor of it.' "

In 1901 the average was still further reduced to 859. These figures are taken from the report of the inspector of licenses for 1901.

FINED FOR FRAUD.

How Manitoba Fruit Merchants Are Victimized by Ontario Shippers.

A telegram from Brighton, Ont., says: For some time past trouble has been experienced in Manitoba and the Northwest owing to the fraudulent packing of fruit shipped from Ontario in barrels. A serious complaint having been received recently from four or five fruit merchants in various parts of Manitoba with regard to the over-facing of a car of apples shipped from Brighton, Mr. W. A. McKinnon, of the department of Agriculture, Ottawa, came to Brighton to investigate the matter. As a result an information was laid by Inspector Carey against D. G. Bonter, of Brighton, charging him with having sold 38 barrels of apples, in which the faced or shown surface gave a false representation of the contents. On appearing before the magistrate the defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $9.50 and costs. Mr. Bonter claimed that he had purchased these apples from another party, and it is understood that he intends taking action against that party under the act. The department is resolved to put an end to the practice of fraudulent packing of apples, by means of which the public of Manitoba and the Northwest have been so long imposed upon.

A BOY HERO.

With a Burning Newspaper He Saved the Halifax Express From Certain Destruction.

Halifax, March 12.—A fourteen-year-old boy last evening saved the express train, loaded with 150 passengers, from destruction.

The boy, while walking along the track about a mile north of Grand Lake, noticed a broken rail, and knowing that the express was about due he must act quickly to save it. Taking a newspaper from his pocket he started on the run toward the approaching train and when he saw the headlight he set fire to the paper. This attracted the notice of the engineer, and the train was stopped.

The broken rail was on a curve on an embankment with the lake on either side, one of the most dangerous spots on the line. The train was speeding along, making up lost time, and as it was dark the train crew are convinced that had it not been for the prompt action of the boy there would have been a terrible disaster to record.

C. P. R. SUMMER SERVICE.

Seventy-Two Hours From Montreal to Vancouver After June 1.

It is said the management of the Canadian Pacific are pertecting arrangements for placing in service on June 1 what is claimed to be the fastest overland train on the continent. The schedule time for this train for the run from Montreal to Vancouver, a distance of 2,906 miles, is 72 hours, or three days. This is one day better than the time made by their through train during the summer season. For such a run the average time, including stops, is a fraction over 30 miles per hour. To make this through time, however, a speed of 65 miles an hour will have to be maintained over certain sections of the line. The feasibility of the plan is said to have been proved last summer by trial runs over different portions of the road, covering all but about 600 miles of the distance. A large amount of road work has been done recently, and improvements are still in progress to get the track in condition to stand the high speed of the heavy trains. A tri-weekly service is proposed to leave either end of the line on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. These trains will be run in addition to the daily service now given under the old schedule.

SUDDEN DEATH OF MRS. ROSS.

Wife of the Premier of Ontario Passes Away After a Brief Illness.

A dispatch from Toronto announces the death of Mrs. Ross, on March 12.

Mrs. Ross was taken ill on Monday, at midnight, but not seriously, and had been out shopping as late as Monday afternoon. She died of acute uraemia. The deceased lady was arranging to accompany her husband to the coronation festivities next summer. She was widely known and very popular.

W. Douglas, an employee of Barrett's mills, Port Hope, was drowned in the river at that point.

WILL GRIND MANITOBA WHEAT.

Arrangements Made in Minneapolis To Set Aside a Bonded Mill.

A Washington, D. C., dispatch says that Minneapolis millers are in a fair way to get what they want in the matter of the importation of Canadian wheat, grinding it into flour and by-products, and exporting the manufactured articles without the necessity of waiting for the payment of rebates of duty or for paying any duty at all.

A formal application has been received at the treasury department from the Washburn-Crosby company through Collector Peterson for authority to establish a bonded manufacturing warehouse. The collector has been directed to secure the necessary bond required under the treasury regulations. Under these regulations one entire mill must be set aside for the manufacture of export flour from Canadian wheat. It is specially provided that nothing but this kind of wheat shall be ground in the bonding mill. All importing and exporting must be done under the supervision of a store keeper of customs, whose salary will be paih by the Washburn-Crosby company. Certain regulations are also in force that require a careful accounting for all flour and by-products, all of which must be exported, not a scrap or residue of wheat is to remain in this country.

The difficulty which the millers have had in connection with the plan for grinding wheat in bond has been finding a market for bran. It is believed here that this difficulty has been overcome, as the application for permission to bond one of the mills indicates that the company is willing to comply with all the regulations. As soon as all the formalities required by the department are complied with the Washburn-Crosby company will be granted permission to go ahead and grind imported wheat for export. This will make unnecessary the plan proposed last week to have an officer of customs located at Minneapolis, and is a much simpler method of doing business than hitherto.

TWENTY-ONE DROWNED.

The Mississippi Boat Providence Is Overturned in a Squall.

A Vicksburg, Miss., dispatch says the steamer Providence, plying between this port and Lake Palmira, was overturned by a sudden squall at Cone Landing and twenty-one of her passengers and crew perished.

The boat left here on her regular trip, carrying a large miscellaneous cargo of freight and a number of passengers. Just as the steamer was entering Lake Palmira a sudden wind and rain storm of cyclonic proportions came out of the west, catching the Providence broadside on. The little vessel was lifted almost entirely out of the water, her upper works blown away and the hull turned bottom up in forty feet of water. Most of the crew and passengers were asleep at the time, and were drowned. Only nine of the entire boat's company were saved.

OSCULATION IN THE CHOIR.

A Pittsburg dispatch says: "Kissing in the church choir is the charge the congregation of the Cheswick Presbyterian church will sift. One of the deacons, who sings baritone, has been accused of having won the affections of two fair members of the choir and exchanging kisses with them while the congregation was listening to the sermon. The Rev. Isaac Revenaugh, the pastor, admits that he has heard the reports from excellent authority, and that he had insisted on their investigation. He is discouraged as to the future of his flock on account of the high standing of the persons involved.

FARMER SUICIDES.

At Maxwell, Ont., Mungo Dand, a farmer, during a period of mental aberration, committed suicide by shooting. He was about 50, a widower, and leaves a family of eight children.

The Montreal Star, in an article on the referendum, says: "Happily it is not a party question. The leaders of two governments, one Liberal and one Conservative (Ross in Ontario and Roblin in Manitoba), are trying this plan."

AN ALPINE CLIMBER

THE FIRST WOMAN TO SET FOOT ON TOP OF MT. SIR DONALD.

AN ENGLISH LADY CONQUERS THE GIANT OF THE SELKIRKS.

To include in a honeymoon trip the climb of the highest mountain of the Selkirks is probably something that few ladies could accomlish or probably desire to, but Mrs. Richard Berens, an English girl, undertook the task and has now the proud right of being the first woman to have set foot on the top of Mount Sir Donald, which pierces the sky at an elevation of 10,700 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Berens are of Kent, Eng., and are now returning from their tour around the world, having spent the most of the summer visiting the Rockies and while at Glacier Mrs. Berens heard that no woman had ever reached the top of Mount Sir Donald. She at once resolved in her mind to try, especially as she heard that a Philadelphia lady had made the assertion that she intended to be the first to make the ascent. In August she and her husband, with a guide, made a successful climb to the top of the Matterhorn of the Selkirks. Mrs. Berens donned a pair of her husband's breeches, cut so as to come a little above the knees, but woman-like stuck to her pink shirtwaist, and this shining mark enabled the interested spectators to watch through the long telescope from Glacier house her progress over crevasses and the most difficult kind of rock work.

Mount Sir Donald is the most difficult of all peaks to reach and up-to-date only about a dozen men have succeeded in standing on the seeming needle-point of rock. The feat of Mrs. Berens, who is a little slight woman of about 5 feet 2 inches and weighing only 96 pounds, is therefore no small one. She was none the worse for the climb, however though she had several narrow escapes. At one time the snow cornice on which she was walking gave way and had she not been securely roped to the guide would have been hurled to pieces on the rocks a thousand feet below. At another time she slipped upon the ice and was held dangling over a precipice in mid-air. She is not a little proud of her climb but says she would not do it again, nor does she advise any other bride to spend her honeymoon in climbing mountains of this calibre. Mrs. Berens says that she believes she saw 3,000 mountain peaks from her perch at the top of Sir Donald.

"Before deciding on the trip," says Mrs. Berens, "I was really puzzled to know what to wear. Not being a new woman I had no unmentionables stored away in my trunk and to make the ascent in skirt and frills I did not think would be possible. There was nothing for it but to don the necessary garments which my husband's wardrobe contained, and being a woman, I, of course, picked out the best pair of shooting knickers I could find as they were the most becoming under the circumseances. I will say that they are badly done for now.

"My greatest courage was not in getting up at the terrible hour of 2 a. m., but in appearing before the guides in my new rig. I think most people will confess that having been a girl all one's life it was embarassing to suddenly blosssm out as a boy. However, that trial being over we started bravely up. I must mention the thing that greatly amused me was that I kept unconsciously holding a piece of cloth in my hand as if I still had on my skirt. That was when I was walking on the level.

"When we first got on the rocks I asked the guide how long it would take to reach the top. He said about four or five hours, 'but,' thinks I to myself, 'what nonsense! I am sure it will not take more than an hour or so.' Alas, for my conceit! It was quickly taken out of me. It was not such an easy climb as it looked. I would advise no one to ever dispise a mountain—it always gets the best of you in the end. I looked down once but I did not do it again. The valley of ice and snow below me was miles off to the bottom it seemed to me. To look up was almost as bad for the distance to the top was so far that it had a most discouraging effect on my efforts. It really is surprising what a delight mountains take in growing gradually bigger when one is climbing them.

"I cannot attempt to describe the scenery but I can tell you there were thousands of peaks around us in all directions and it was a splendid sight. I can only tell you of this climb from a woman's point of view. What I would suggest to any lady that contemplates the climb is that in the first place she wear knickers, second to wear putties to keep her legs from being knocked to pieces by the rocks and to drink as little as possible but to get a good breakfast before starting out."

OUR SANITARY CONDITION

With the approach of spring a serious state of affairs presents itself for the consideration of the people of Fernie, in the sanitary condition of the town. That the health of a community depends largely on its sanitation has been demonstrated in thousands of cases, but perhaps no where so forcibly as in Havana and other Cuban towns, which, during the Spanish regime, had been hot houses for yellow, enteric, and almost every other kind of fever, have, since American occupation become as healthful as, or better than, any other town in the same latitude. Good water, and plenty of it, both for household and sewerage purposes, is the first step; and in a mountain town there can be no excuse for anything less: yet a visit to the reservoir will convince any one that whatever the quantity, the quality of the water furnished Fernie is to be deplored. Supplied by a creek which acts as a sewer for the community established at the mines, the water is scarcely suitable for cattle by the time it reaches the town. This matter cannot be charged to any neglect or oversight of the health officer, who has visited the mines frequently and done everything possible to prevent it, the water runs off the mountains and gathers in its course all kinds of refuse from back yards and outhouses, which has accumulated during the winter. The only course open is to establish the reservoir at some point on the creek above the mines where all possibility of contamination will be removed. It should be possible to secure a sufficient sum from the Government for this purpose, and also to instal a thorough sewerage system. This matter should be placed with our representative to be brought before the House as soon as possible. Other towns which are not paying nearly as much in taxes, are receiving every year bonuses from the Government for similar or less important purposes. Take for example the town of Revelstoke which last year received $40,000 for improvements on the river bank. If this means of securing a needed reform is impracticable or too slow, there yet remains what may be the most expedient and satisfactory way after all—incorporation. If those who object to this way out of the difficulty will visit the mines and examine our water supply they will find their objections melting away like the snow which contributes to our water supply.

THE choice of Mr. W. R. Ross for president of the Fernie Board of Trade was a wise one. Mr. Ross is a public spirited man and possesses the ability to fill the position in an able manner and will no doubt be a credit to the Board.

THE following from the Spokane Chronicle is instructive :—The Portland Telegram announces that there were 43 cases of smallpox in that city last month. The Des Moines News, while claiming that quarantine has been vigorously maintained in that place and the condition have improved, announces that since the 1st of February smallpox has been reported in 65 counties in Illinois, and publishes the statement in a Chicago despatch that "It is no longer pretended here or anywhere else that any part of the United States in free from smallpox. The disease in a mild form is epidemic in all sections of the country." If you havn't had it and don't want it, and have not been successfully vaccinated for a few years, wouldn't it be a good idea to protect yourself and your family?

IT WAS A DRAW.

Twenty Rounds Hard Fighting in Princess Hall.

The much-talked of boxing contest between Coolguardie Smith, of Australia, and James Burrows, of Fernie, for the welterweight championship of British Columbia is over, the match taking place in Princess Hall, on Monday evening, before an audience of three or four hundred people.

It was a hard fought battle, both men apparently doing their best. The contest was preceeded by a wrestling match between a Fernie man and one from Elko, the later winning after a short struggle.

About 9 o'clock the main event of the evening commenced. From appearances Burrows looked to have the advantage of his opponent in weight by eight or ten pounds, but Smith was quicker in his movements. The first three or four rounds were well contested, both men doing some good work. Burrows was very wary at first and seems to be trifle afraid of his opponent, but as the fight proceeded he got more confidence and forced his opponent around the ring in quick order. In the forth or fifth round Smith broke one of his fingers on his left hand, but gave no indication of the pain he was suffering although he only made a feint of using his left hand. He made some scientific upper cuts at Burrow with his right, but the latter avoided them and landed on Smith's ribs several times. About the eighth or ninth round Smith again met with an accident, breaking one of the small bones in his right wrist and getting a bad knock from Burrow's head on his nose. After that Burrows had things pretty much his own way, Smith playing very foxy in his endeavor to hang out the twenty rounds, He received several falls but always managed to get on his feet again before he could be counted out. Burrows did not appear to realize the condition that Smith was in or he would have pushed the fight, and Smith with wonderful grit hung out till the end and saved his money; the agreement between the men being that if both were on their feet at the end of the twenty rounds the contest should be declared a draw.

The crowd throughout the match was most orderly. W. W. Tuttle acted as referee during the contest.

POLICE COURT

Informations were laid by Crow's Nest Pass Coal company against the following miners for having matches in their possession in No. 1 mine :—John Carracher fined $1.00; Thos. Herbert, fined $5 and costs; Rupert Dunlop, cautioned; John Balko, fined $5 and costs. These men were warned that a repetition of the offence wonld be punished by imprisonment.

THE HAPPENINGS OF OUR WIDE DOMINION BRIEFLY CHRONICLED.

A RESUME OF THE EVENTS OF THE WEEK TOLD IN TERSE TERMS.

Three thousand Irishmen paraded in Ottawa on Sunday and endorsed the Nationalists and the Land League.

Mrs. Sarah Pettofer, who resided at Effingham, Ont., took her life while in a fit of despondency, by drinking carbolic acid. She leaves a husband and five children.

Niagara Falls, March 16.—A man who registered at Niagara Falls hotel as P. J. O'Connell, South Bend, Ind., walked into Niagara river and swept over the falls. He had been suspected of unbalanced mind. He was about 24 years old.

An unfortunate affair occurred at Stratford, Ont., when Father Walsh, who has been in poor health for some time and whose mind is said to be affected, met a couple of young Protestant ladies on the street after dark, ordered them home and struck them with his cane.

A shocking accident occurred a short distance east of Welland by which Charles Pearson a young butcher, was killed. He had a gun in the barn to shoot dogs and the trigger caught in the waggon and blew part of his head off. He never regained consciousness, dying a few hours afterwards. He was married.

At Dawson City, Brophy, who was the principal in the Dominion saloon hold-up last fall, was convicted and sentenced by Justice Dugas after two day's trial, to life imprisonment. No witnesses were called for the defence. The crime was clearly proven. The jury were out twelve minutes. Harris, an accomplice, was tried without a jury.

Fred Lowden was killed by a snow slide in British Columbia. He and Chris. Sherbert, another miner, were asleep at the foot of the Kokanee range, when the slide buried their cabin. After thirty-six hours, Sherbert freed himself. Lowden's finger nails were torn out, showing that he had made a desperate effore to dig out. Sherbert's feet and hands were badly frozen, and his feet may have to be amputated. He was clad in a shirt only during his fight for life.

On Saturday evening three men named Ed. Lynn, Wm. Martin and Murdock MacGuire, left Goderich in a skiff, and when on the lake, about 200 yards north of the pier, the boat upset. Lynn and Martin managed to reach the boat, and held on till the lifeboat arrived. MacGuire, who was a strong swimmer, tried to make the shore, but could not battle against the strong current flowing from the river. The drowned man leaves a widow and a large family.

Gillies Bros., of Ottawa, who own the timber limits north of Campbell's Bay, recently moved one of their stopping places from where it had been for years. A man whose business interests were affected by the change wrote anonymous letters to the firm threatening to burn its limits unless the old stopping place was used again. The letters were handed to the attorney-general, who directed Chief Detective McCaskell to investigate. Detective McCaskell ran the author down and secured from him a confession which is now in the hands of the attorney-general.

Henry L. Merrick, formerly pastor of St. Albans church, Colborne, Ont., but now representing an insurance company, on learning that Gen. Methuen was capturd, publicly expressed the hope that Gen. Kitchener would be bagged next. Casper Wilbert, a young farmer, who heard him, promptly knocked Merrick down. The same night, when Wilbert was passing Merrick's place, he was fired on by some one concealed in the barn, and a charge of buckshot entered his left thigh. Merrick disappeared the same night, presumably for the United States.

Leslie Jones, but twelve years of age, was presented with the parchment of the Royal Humane society by Mr. Recorder Weir, at the high school, Montreal. The interesting ceremony was conducted in the presense of about 1,200 pupils, and the little fellow, who is only in the third form, was heartily cheered by his schoolmates. The act for which the parchment was awarded was performed last summer at Point St. Charles. The little daughter of the captain of a steam tug fell overboard. Jones, who witnessed the accident, immediately dived after her. At first he only succeeded in bringing up part of her clothing, but he persisted and the sixth time he managed to get the body to the surface. It was thought the girl was still alive, but in spite of every effort which medical aid could suggest, resuscitation was impossible.

WILLIE AND THEODORE.

Redmond Calls on Roosevelt and Tells Him What the Irish Party Is Doing in Parliament.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., says that William Redmond and Jos. Devlin, Irish members of parliament, called on President Roosevelt.

Speaking of Home Rule, Mr. Redmond said: "The question was in a forward condition. Lord Rosebery has rejected Home Rule for Ireland, but in spite of that if the Irish party in the house of commons remains united the question is bound to come up again. Rosebery, although going back on Gladstone's ideas of Home Rule, was not too proud to remain in office three years, first as foreign secretary and then as prime minister, and all through the Irish vote. The Liberal party can never return to power without the assistance of the Irish party. It is an influential body and is independent of all the English parties. Our desire is to make it unpleasant for England, to embasrass her in every way possible; as, for instance, in the Boer war, which we have opposed to the very end. The Irish party feels proud that it has unanimously opposed the war. Its members in parliament have voted and spoken against it, and have denounced it. We are told that England is going to punish us for it, but the Irish have nevergone back on the principle of independence, and threats will not cause us to forsake the principle now."

A DARING ROBBERY.

In a Crowded Street in Chicago, a Thief Gets Away With $1,700.

One of the most daring of recent Chicago post office thefts, committed in a crowded down-town street, is engaging the attention of the local postal officials. Some one, by means of a duplicate key, opened a mail wagon and extracted a registered mail sack. The contents of the pouch are estimated to be of the value of $1,700. The robbery was committed in front of the Masonic temple, in State street, as hundreds were passing.

The driver in charge of the wagon went into the rotunda of the Temple sub-station to take up a registered mail sack there. He was absent only five minutes, but when he returned he found the lock of his wagon open and the valuable sack gone. There is no clue to the robbery.

GENERAL DELARY.

Gen. Delary, in command of the Boer army, who has taken prisoner Lord Methuen, is the same Boer officer who earlier in the war captured the Irish Fusiliers and their comrades in an engagement fully as spectacular as this last victory. Gen. Delary is not only a soldier and leader, but Lord Roberts has testified to his humanity and gentlemanly treatment of prisoners. As a member of the volksraad, before the war, Gen. Delary violently opposed the sending of the ultimatum which brought on the conflict, is an avowed opponent of President Kruger, and has been always an ultra-conservative in the counsels of his country. He is tall and slender, 49 years of age, highly honored by foes as well as friends for his just dealings toward all, and is known at his home at Lichtenberg as the "Silent Man."

KEEP TRADE AT HOME.

Merchants in country towns have a grievance in the way their townspeople carry the best trade to the city stores. They have much to contend with in this respect, and they are probably not be blamed for at times feeling sore on this point. Indifference by the people to the purchasing advantages at their own doors is a discouraging problem. The only remedy that has worked satisfactorily is to adopt the methods of the concerns that are attracting townspeople to the cities, and these are nothing more than tne cultivation of progressiveness. Handle only up-to-date goods, and do not let old stock accumulate. There are departments in large stores that will not let an article stay in stock for more than three months regardless of what it may have to be sold at. The motto is "sell," and if the manager of the department gets caught on a slow selling line once he benefits from his experience. Advertising will sell almost anything if the advertising is sensibly handled and the prices are right. Make lots of noise and get the people to your store Let them see that you are right abreast of the city stores in every respect and the city merchant will not get the trade that legitimately belongs to you.—Canadian Shoe and Leather Journal.

DROWNED IN A CREEK.

At Lyn, Ont., the five-year-old son of M. B. Stack, hotel keeper, while playing along the edge of the creek missed his footing and falling into the water, was drowned.

STORY TOLD BY METHUEN.

In a communication to the war office Lord Kitchener, giving further details of the disaster to Methuen's column, says:—

"Lord Methuen has sent me a staff officer with a dictated dispatch, from which it appears that certain particulars previously given, are inaccurate. The rear screen of mounted troops was rushed and overwhelmed at dawn. There was a gap of a mile between the ox and the mule convoys. The mounted supports to the rear of the screen, with General Methuen immediately reinforced by all the available mounted troops and a section of the 38th battery, maintained themselves for an hour, during which the convoys were closing up without disorder.

"In the meantime 200 infantry were being disposed of by Lord Methuen to resist the attack, which was outflanking the left of the rear guard. The Boers pressed the attack hard, and the mounted troops, attempting to fall back on the infantry, got completely out of hand, carrying away with them in the rout, the bulk of the mounted troops. Two guns of the Thirty-Eighth battery were thus left unprotected, but continued in action till every man, with the exception of Lieut. Nesham was wounded. Nesham was called on to surrender, and upon refusing to do so, was killed.

"Lord Methuen, with two hundred of the Northumberland Fusiliers, and two guns of the Fourth battery then found themselves isolated, but held on for three hours. During this period, the remaining infantry, namely, 100 of the Lancashires, with some forty mounted men, mostly Cape police, who had occupied the kraal near the wagons, also continued to hold out against the repeated attacks of the Boers.

"By this time Lord Methuen was wounded and the casualties were exceedingly heavy amongst his men. Their ammunition was mostly expended and the surrender was made at about half-past nine in the morning.

"The party in the kraal still held out and did not give in until two guns and a pom-pom were brought to bear upon them at about 10 o'clock, making their position untenable.

"It is confirmed that most of the Boers wore our khaki uniforms. Many also wore our badges; even at close quarters they could not be distinguished from our own men.

"It is clear that the infantry fought well, and the artillery kept up the traditions of their regiment. In addition to the forty members of the Cape police already mentioned, a few parties of the Imperial Yeomanry and Cape police continued to hold their ground after the panic had swept the bulk of the mounted troops off the field."

From other dispatches it appears that General Methuen was shot while riding to bring up the mounted troops, and that his horse was killed. After the surrender, Gen. Delarey rode up and treated General Methuen with the greatest courtesy and consideration. He ordered his return to Kleersdorp under the care of his own nephew and a medical officer.

According to the Kleersdorp correspondent of the Daily Mail, the burghers were so angry at this that a party of them went out and brought General Methuen back. Delarey, however, overruled the objections of the burghers.

WESTERN CASUALTIES.

Three casualities to westerners are reported from South Africa. They are Edward Charles Baker, son of J. D. Baker, Oakdale, Manitoba, who died of enteric fever, and Wm. Pell, brother of Miss Emily Pell, 304 Hargrave street, Winnipeg, and J. Duncan May, son of S. May, Stonewall, Manitoba, both dangerously ill from the same cause.

STRIKERS DEFEATED.

The strike inaugurated by the employees of the smelting plant owned by the Le Roi mine, located at Northport, nine months ago, has been called off by the union. The 350 or 400 men who originally went on strike, had dwindled down to seventy, forty of whom voted to cease hostilities. The plant has been operated continuously with non-union men. The immediate reason for ending the strike was that the Western Federation of Miners had cut off the smelter men's weekly stsike pay. The union has surrendered its charter and dissolved.

A FATAL QUARREL.

Earl Pye, the 14-year-old son of the registrar of deeds, of Gysboro county, died yesterday at his home, in Sherbrooke, as the result of injuries inflicted a week ago by John Murdoch, a chum 16 years old. They got into an altercation, and Murdoch hit him with a clothes pole in the face. Last night Pye died in agony. Both belong to respectable families. Murdoch has been arrested.

WINNIPEG BOARD OF TRADE.

Declares Itself on the Liquor Act and Referendum.

The meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, held on Thursday, March 13, to discuss the referendum was largely attended. A motion urging that the question of the Liquor Act and referendum was not a proper one for the board to discuss was defeated, and the following resolution, moved by A. M. Nanton (of the firm of Osler, Hammond & Nanton), and seconded by Mr. F. W. Stobart, president of Stobart Sons & Co., carried by a substantial majority:

"Whereas a measure entitled the Liquor Act is about to be submitted to the people by way of referendum on the 2nd prox; and

"Whereas, such act if enforced will detrimentally affect the commercial interests of the people of the province and create a feeling of unrest at a most important period of our history when a large increase is expected to be added to our population; and

"Whereas such act is not a prohibitory act, but permits the free importation from the other provinces and territories of liquor in any quantity, merely transferring the drinking from licensed hotels to the homes and unlicensed resorts, and will not materially decrease the consumption of liquor in the province;

"Resolved, That while expressing no opinion on the general question of the prohibition of the manufacture or of the importation of liquor into the province, yet, insomuch as we believe the Liquor Act will fail in its purpose and result in injury instead of good to the commercial and social interests of the people, therefore it should not become law."

Mr. Nanton said, in moving the resolution, that he felt that if the proposed Liquor Act were put into force it would do a great deal of damage. There was an impression abroad that the Liquor Act was a prohibition act. This was not so; the present act would but transfer drinking from Licensed places to unlicensed places and to homes.

Mr. Stobart said he seconded the motion because he believed that the Liquor Act was not in the best interests of the province. He believed that the proposed act if put into force would disturb trade without any corresponding benefit.

R. T. Riley, manager for the Sanford Manufacturing company, considered that the motion should be put without discussion. Every member present had made up his mind how he would vote, and the question was not an ordinary trade one.

Mr. G. F. Stephens submitted an amendment, as follows:

"That, as this matter is largely political, and one upon which the members of this board are far from unanimous, and as the question is one which each man should answer for himself, be it resolved that this board does not pass any resolutions or commit itself in any way for or against the Liquor Art.

R. J. Whitla, in seconding the amendment, said he thought that if they wished to retain their influence as a board of trade, as this matter was one of conscience, they should not as a board take any part in the matter.

Mr. Muir considered that the best thing the board could do was to drop the matter.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried as above stated.

WOLSELEY GOES TO THE CAPE.

Former Commander-in-Chief Leaves For the Seat of War.

A London cable states that Lord Wolseley, the former commander-in-chief of the British army, has started for Cape Town, and, although the officials deny that his trip is anything but a private visit, gossip connects it with the military situation. It is pointed out that Lord Wolseley's knowledge of South Africa, gained as a fighter and administrator, might be highly useful to Lord Kitchener either at the base (Cape Town) or at Pretoria.

Col. Frank Rhodes and Arthur Rhodes, brothers of Cecil Rhodes, and Lady Methuen will be passengers on the steamer which will take Lord Wolseley to Cape Town.

THEY GOT AWAY.

Heilbron, Orange River Colony, Tuesday, March 11.—Commandant Mentz, with the Heilbron command of Boers, broke through the Heilbron-Wolve Hoek blockhouse line, at Gottenburg. The Boers had been pursued for several days. So far as known, only one Boer was killed and five were captured.

LAWLESS AMERICANS

THEY DEBAUCH NATIVES AT MACKENZIE RIVER WHERE THEY WINTER.

COMMISSIONER PERRY ASKS THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT TO KEEP ORDER.

For half a century American vessels have had a monopoly of the whale fishing of the western Arctic ocean. By wintering near the mouth of the Mackenzie river they are enabled to make an early start, when the spring freshets drive the ice seaward from the entrance of the river. During their winter rendezvous the whaling crews do a trading business with the Indians, and as the chief article of barter is cheap whiskey, a systematic demoralization of the Indians is the result. The attention of the Canadian government has frequently been called to the necessity of putting a stop to this illicit traffic, and its baneful effects upon the natives, but practically nothing has been done in that direction. The subject is again brought forcibly to the notice of the government in the report of the Mounted Police. Commissioner Perry says: "Since my last report, further information has been received as to the operations of the whaling fleet which last year wintered some three hundred miles east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river.

"Tyranny over the Indians, debauching the Indian women, illegal trading, lawlessness among themselves, demand the assertion of our laws. A small, powerful steamer is needed, which can navigate the Mackenzie, and if necessary go into the open sea. The cost of carrying law and order into the Arctic regions may cause hesitation, but where our territory is being violated, our people suppressed, cost should be the last consideration."

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

W. D. Blackley, Well known in the West, Fatally Injured.

A Toronto dispatch says: What will probably prove a fatal accident happened at the corner of King and Yonge street in the most extraordinary manner. W. D. Blackley, a manufacturers' agent, well known in the west, was standing on the pavement waiting for a car. The Belt line car came along, the motor, with a trailer attached. As the motor drew up at the crossing the trailer banged into it with force, breaking the drawhead connecting the cars, and causing a piece of it to fly across the street and strike Blackley on the head, crushing in his skull. He was removed to the hospital in an unconscious condition, and there is but the slightest chance of his recovery.

HEIR TO A FORTUNE.

Julius Wagner, a Butcher of Rossland, Comes in For Pullman Car Company Shares.

Rossland, B. C., March 14.—Julius Wagner, a butcher of this city, has fallen into a great fortune. Together with his mother, a sister and a brother, he will divide $2,700,000 in cash, and $1,000,000 in the shares of the Pullman-Wagner Palace Car company. The first instalment of the fortune will be distributed on May 1. At present Wagner has an interest in a flourishing meat market on First avenue, of this city.

CANADIAN FEVER.

An intending settler from the States who struck Calgary for the first time, says the Herald, tells that a disease known as Canadian fever, has struck Iowa and Nebraska, and is rapidly spreading all over the States; in consequence of it many Americans are striking out for Canada. This gentleman stated that the immigration from Nebraska and Iowa to Alberta this year was simply phenomenal.

FELL TO HIS DEATH.

At Toronto, Frank Reynolds, a laborer, was coming down the stairwas in the eastern wing of the city hall when he missed his footing. FERNIE FREE PRESS.

FERNIE, B.C.

Why Englishmen Dislike New York.

In a paper on "London and New York" in Harper's Sydney Brooks gives this amusing explanation of the average Englishman's dislike for living in New York:

"It is this undisguised triumph of mechanics over æsthetics, of the new and useful over the old, that after a time makes New York for an Englishman rather a deadening city to live in. The iron enters into one's soul, and comfort, one feels, can be bought at too high a price. If only Americans could learn to do things a little more clumsily their metropolis would have many more charms for the English exile. In the long run mechanical perfection becomes almost as difficult as moral perfection to live with at ease. One turns a screw, and in twenty minutes one's room is warmer than two fires could make it in half a day. It is demoralizing, sybaritish. In England if the same system were introduced one could always rely on its being entertainingly out of order. But nothing seems to get out of order in New York, not even that great standby of English cemeteries and conversation, the drains.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Parmelee's Pills possess the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. Railroad Travel Compared.

The time table of the New York Central printed in 1844 gives ground for a comparison between the conditions of travel then and now. In 1844 it took thirty and a half hours to travel by mail train from Albany to Buffalo. In 1902, by the Empire State express, it takes five hours and thirty-seven minutes. In 1844 the fare from Albany to Buffalo was $11.50. In 1902 the fare is $6.15. In 1844 the route from Albany to Niagara Falls was by rail to Syracuse, thence via Oswego canal and Lake Erie; distance, 333 miles; fare, $10; time, 32 hours. In 1902 the distance by New York Central is 305 miles; fare, $6.15; time, 6 hours 14 minutes. In 1844 the cars were lighted with candles, there were no sleeping cars, meals were obtained at primitive taverns, and the physical condition of the roadway made long and tiresome delays necessary and a journey an irksome undertaking.

Campaigning In Samar.

With the exception of a small part of the island of Samar the ground is entirely covered with a dense jungle, which it is next to impossible to penetrate, says a Manila newspaper. The trails lead off fairly and after a few miles end in a blank wall of jungle, which is so matted that it takes hours for the soldiers to cut a trail wide enough for the passage of a single man at a time. What the natives call trails in the mountains are simply paths almost entirely covered with jungle grass, rattan and bamboo, through which the hardy mountaineers force their way with ease, while the more encumbered and less accustomed white soldier cannot get through at all.

RELIC OF THE REVOLUTION

A Secret Passageway That Was Used by Tory Leaders.

Tunnel workmen engaged in excavating at a farmhouse which stands on Scriveris point, close to Long Island sound, discovered a secret passage leading from the garret of the house to the sound. The passageway, it is believed, was used in the Revolutionary war by the Tory leaders of Westchester to escape from the American troops which, under Washington, were encamped for weeks in the neighborhood at the time that General Howe of the British army was encamped just opposite, on Long Island.

The legend of the passage has been known to the older residents of Westchester, although few of them have ever seen it. It was known as the "Tory hole." The builder of the old house was Isaac Wilkins, an Englishman, who settled in Westchester shortly before the Revolution. Notwithstanding that he married a sister of Lewis Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, he was a hot Tory.

The house stands near a small creek leading to the sound. It is a two story frame structure with shingled sides. It has an immense chimney and fireplaces and was considered one of the finest houses in Westchester county when it was built, 137 years ago. The upper stories are provided with portholes, through which the inmates guarded their grounds.

The passage leading to the tunnel is in the garret. It is about four feet wide and is covered with a trapdoor. Stones steps projecting from the outside of the chimney form a stairway all the way down to the ground, where a tunnel passes under the basement and runs out under the yard to the small tidewater creek. The mouth of the cave and the tunnel years ago tumbled in and are now almost obliterated, but the passageway from attic to cellar is intact.

Indulgence Is Craved

From the Free Press Subscribers Who Have Not Yet Received the Free Press Premium Barometer and Thermometer.

The manufacturers have been unable to supply instruments quickly enough to meet our needs and subscribers who are entitled to and have not yet received the Free Press combination Thermometer and Barometer are asked to wait patiently for a week or two until a further supply can be received.

In the first announcements all subscribers who renewed or sent in their subscriptions before Dec. 31st were promised prompt delivery of the Free Press combination Thermometer and Barometer and this promise was faithfully fulfilled. Long before such time, however, it was apparent that the demand for this instrument would far exceed the supply and a special rush order was forwarded to the manufacturers for several thousand more to be delivered by January 15th and the offer was extended to January 31st.

On account of the expensive nature of the premium, exceeding as it does in value that offered by any other paper in America, the Free Press intended to withdraw the offer on January 31st, but when the shipment arrived on January 15th the supply was found to be entirely inadequate and subscriptions and requests for the instrument continuing to pour in from all sides, it was decided to place a further order for several thousand and extend the offer until this last shipment should be exhausted.

A reliable thermometer and barometer is an article needed in every house. In the homes of the Canadian Northwest it is an almost indispensible article. You can secure a handsome instrument of this kind, guaranteed to register temperatures and atmospheric changes accurately, by forwarding $1.00 to the Free Press, Winnipeg. This payment entitles you to the Weekly Free Press for one year. Order at once on subjoined blank before supply is exhausted.

THE HAPPENINGS OF OUR WIDE DOMINION BRIEFLY CHRONICLED.

A RESUME OF THE EVENTS OF THE WEEK TOLD IN TERSE TERMS.

Three thousand Irishmen paraded in Ottawa on Sunday and endorsed the Nationalists and the Land League.

Mrs. Sarah Pettofer, who resided at Effingham, Ont., took her life while in a fit of despondency, by drinking carbolic acid. She leaves a husband and five children.

Niagara Falls, March 16.—A man who registered at Niagara Falls hotel as P. J. O'Connell, South Bend, Ind., walked into Niagara river and swept over the falls. He had been suspected of unbalanced mind. He was about 24 years old.

An unfortunate affair occurred at Stratford, Ont., when Father Walsh, who has been in poor health for some time and whose mind is said to be affected, met a couple of young Protestant ladies on the street after dark, ordered them home and struck them with his cane.

A shocking accident occurred a short distance east of Welland by which Charles Pearson a young butcher, was killed. He had a gun in the barn to shoot dogs and the trigger caught in the waggon and blew part of his head off. He never regained consciousness, dying a few hours afterwards. He was married.

At Dawson City, Brophy, who was the principal in the Dominion saloon hold-up last fall, was convicted and sentenced by Justice Dugas after two day's trial, to life imprisonment. No witnesses were called for the defence. The crime was clearly proven. The jury were out twelve minutes. Harris, an accomplice, was tried without a jury.

Fred Lowden was killed by a snow slide in British Columbia. He and Chris. Sherbert, another miner, were asleep at the foot of the Kokanee range, when the slide buried their cabin. After thirty-six hours, Sherbert freed himself. Lowden's finger nails were torn out, showing that he had made a desperate effore to dig out. Sherbert's feet and hands were badly frozen, and his feet may have to be amputated. He was clad in a shirt only during his fight for life.

On Saturday evening three men named Ed. Lynn, Wm. Martin and Murdock MacGuire, left Goderich in a skiff, and when on the lake, about 200 yards north of the pier, the boat upset. Lynn and Martin managed to reach the boat, and held on till the lifeboat arrived. MacGuire, who was a strong swimmer, tried to make the shore, but could not battle against the strong current flowing from the river. The drowned man leaves a widow and a large family.

Gillies Bros., of Ottawa, who own the timber limits north of Campbell's Bay, recently moved one of their stopping places from where it had been for years. A man whose business interests were affected by the change wrote anonymous letters to the firm threatening to burn its limits unless the old stopping place was used again. The letters were handed to the attorney-general, who directed Chief Detective McCaskell to investigate. Detective McCaskell ran the author down and secured from him a confession which is now in the hands of the attorney-general.

Henry L. Merrick, formerly pastor of St. Albans church, Colborne, Ont., but now representing an insurance company, on learning that Gen. Methuen was captured, publicly expressed the hope that Gen. Kitchener would be bagged next. Casper Wilbert, a young farmer, who heard him, promptly knocked Merrick down. The same night, when Wilbert was passing Merrick's place, he was fired on by some one concealed in the barn, and a charge of buckshot entered his left thigh. Merrick disappeared the same night, presumably for the United States.

Leslie Jones, but twelve years of age, was presented with the parchment of the Royal Humane society by Mr. Recorder Weir, at the high school, Montreal. The interesting ceremony was conducted in the presense of about 1,200 pupils, and the little fellow, who is only in the third form, was heartily cheered by his schoolmates. The act for which the parchment was awarded was performed last summer at Point St. Charles. The little daughter of the captain of a steam tug fell overboard. Jones, who witnessed the accident, immediately dived after her. At first he only succeeded in bringing up part of her clothing, but he persisted and the sixth time he managed to get the body to the surface. It was thought the girl was still alive, but in spite of every effort which medical aid could suggest, resuscitation was impossible.

WILLIE AND THEODORE.

Redmond Calls on Roosevelt and Tells Him What the Irish Party Is Doing in Parliament.

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., says that William Redmond and Jos. Devlin, Irish members of parliament, called on President Roosevelt.

Speaking of Home Rule, Mr. Redmond said: "The question was in a forward condition. Lord Rosebery has rejected Home Rule for Ireland, but in spite of that if the Irish party in the house of commons remains united the question is bound to come up again. Rosebery, although going back on Gladstone's ideas of Home Rule, was not too proud to remain in office three years, first as foreign secretary and then as prime minister, and all through the Irish vote. The Liberal party can never return to power without the assistance of the Irish party. It is an influential body and is independent of all the English parties. Our desire is to make it unpleasant for England, to embasrass her in every way possible; as, for instance, in the Boer war, which we have opposed to the very end. The Irish party feels proud that it has unanimously opposed the war. Its members in parliament have voted and spoken against it, and have denounced it. We are told that England is going to punish us for it, but the Irish have nevergone back on the principle of independence, and threats will not cause us to forsake the principle now."

A DARING ROBBERY.

In a Crowded Street in Chicago, a Thief Gets Away With $1,700.

One of the most daring of recent Chicago post office thefts, committed in a crowded down-town street, is engaging the attention of the local postal officials. Some one, by means of a duplicate key, opened a mail wagon and extracted a registered mail sack. The contents of the pouch are estimated to be of the value of $1,700. The robbery was committed in front of the Masonic temple, in State street, as hundreds were passing.

The driver in charge of the wagon went into the rotunda of the Temple sub-station to take up a registered mail sack there. He was absent only five minutes, but when he returned he found the lock of his wagon open and the valuable sack gone. There is no clue to the robbery.

GENERAL DELARY.

Gen. Delary, in command of the Boer army, who has taken prisoner Lord Methuen, is the same Boer officer who earlier in the war captured the Irish Fusiliers and their comrades in an engagement fully as spectacular as this last victory. Gen. Delary is not only a soldier and leader, but Lord Roberts has testified to his humanity and gentlemanly treatment of prisoners. As a member of the volksraad, before the war, Gen. Delary violently opposed the sending of the ultimatum which brought on the conflict, is an avowed opponent of President Kruger, and has been always an ultra-conservative in the counsels of his country. He is tall and slender, 49 years of age, highly honored by foes as well as friends for his just dealings toward all, and is known at his home at Lichtenberg as the "Silent Man."

KEEP TRADE AT HOME.

Merchants in country towns have a grievance in the way their townspeople carry the best trade to the city stores. They have much to contend with in this respect, and they are probably not be blamed for at times feeling sore on this point. Indifference by the people to the purchasing advantages at their own doors is a discouraging problem. The only remedy that has worked satisfactorily is to adopt the methods of the concerns that are attracting townspeople to the cities, and these are nothing more than tne cultivation of progressiveness. Handle only up-to-date goods, and do not let old stock accumulate. There are departments in large stores that will not let an article stay in stock for more than three months regardless of what it may have to be sold at. The motto is "sell," and if the manager of the department gets caught on a slow selling line once he benefits from his experience. Advertising will sell almost anything if the advertising is sensibly handled and the prices are right. Make lots of noise and get the people to your store Let them see that you are right abreast of the city stores in every respect and the city merchant will not get the trade that legitimately belongs to you.—Canadian Shoe and Leather Journal.

DROWNED IN A CREEK.

At Lyn, Ont., the five-year-old son of M. B. Stack, hotel keeper, while playing along the edge of the creek missed his footing and falling into the water, was drowned.

STORY TOLD BY METHUEN.

In a communication to the war office Lord Kitchener, giving further details of the disaster to Methuen's column, says:—

"Lord Methuen has sent me a staff officer with a dictated dispatch, from which it appears that certain particulars previously given, are inaccurate. The rear screen of mounted troops was rushed and overwhelmed at dawn. There was a gap of a mile between the ox and the mule convoys. The mounted supports to the rear of the screen, with General Methuen immediately reinforced by all the available mounted troops and a section of the 38th battery, maintained themselves for an hour, during which the convoys were closing up without disorder.

"In the meantime 200 infantry were being disposed of by Lord Methuen to resist the attack, which was outflanking the left of the rear guard. The Boers pressed the attack hard, and the mounted troops, attempting to fall back on the infantry, got completely out of hand, carrying away with them in the rout, the bulk of the mounted troops. Two guns of the Thirty-Eighth battery were thus left unprotected, but continued in action till every man, with the exception of Lieut. Nesham was wounded. Nesham was called on to surrender, and upon refusing to do so, was killed.

"Lord Methuen, with two hundred of the Northumberland Fusiliers, and two guns of the Fourth battery then found themselves isolated, but held on for three hours. During this period, the remaining infantry, namely, 100 of the Lancashires, with some forty mounted men, mostly Cape police, who had occupied the kraal near the wagons, also continued to hold out against the repeated attacks of the Boers.

"By this time Lord Methuen was wounded and the casualties were exceedingly heavy amongst his men. Their ammunition was mostly expended and the surrender was made at about half-past nine in the morning.

"The party in the kraal still held out and did not give in until two guns and a pom-pom were brought to bear upon them at about 10 o'clock, making their position untenable.

"It is confirmed that most of the Boers wore our khaki uniforms. Many also wore our badges; even at close quarters they could not be distinguished from our own men.

"It is clear that the infantry fought well, and the artillery kept up the traditions of their regiment. In addition to the forty members of the Cape police already mentioned, a few parties of the Imperial Yeomanry and Cape police continued to hold their ground after the panic had swept the bulk of the mounted troops off the field."

From other dispatches it appears that General Methuen was shot while riding to bring up the mounted troops, and that his horse was killed. After the surrender, Gen. Delarey rode up and treated General Methuen with the greatest courtesy and consideration. He ordered his return to Kleersdorp under the care of his own nephew and a medical officer.

According to the Kleersdorp correspondent of the Daily Mail, the burghers were so angry at this that a party of them went out and brought General Methuen back. Delarey, however, overruled the objections of the burghers.

WESTERN CASUALTIES.

Three casualities to westerners are reported from South Africa. They are Edward Charles Baker, son of J. D. Baker, Oakdale, Manitoba, who died of enteric fever, and Wm. Pell, brother of Miss Emily Pell, 304 Hargrave street, Winnipeg, and J. Duncan May, son of S. May, Stonewall, Manitoba, both dangerously ill from the same cause.

STRIKERS DEFEATED.

The strike inaugurated by the employees of the smelting plant owned by the Le Roi mine, located at Northport, nine months ago, has been called off by the union. The 350 or 400 men who originally went on strike, had dwindled down to seventy, forty of whom voted to cease hostilities. The plant has been operated continuously with non-union men. The immediate reason for ending the strike was that the Western Federation of Miners had cut off the smelter men's weekly stsike pay. The union has surrendered its charter and dissolved.

A FATAL QUARREL.

Earl Pye, the 14-year-old son of the registrar of deeds, of Gysboro county, died yesterday at his home, in Sherbrooke, as the result of injuries inflicted a week ago by John Murdoch, a chum 16 years old. They got into an altercation, and Murdoch hit him with a clothes pole in the face. Last night Pye died in agony. Both belong to respectable families. Murdoch has been arrested.

WINNIPEG BOARD OF TRADE.

Declares Itself on the Liquor Act and Referendum.

The meeting of the Winnipeg Board of Trade, held on Thursday, March 13, to discuss the referendum was largely attended. A motion urging that the question of the Liquor Act and referendum was not a proper one for the board to discuss was defeated, and the following resolution, moved by A. M. Nanton (of the firm of Osler, Hammond & Nanton), and seconded by Mr. F. W. Stobart, president of Stobart Sons & Co., carried by a substantial majority:

"Whereas a measure entitled the Liquor Act is about to be submitted to the people by way of referendum on the 2nd prox; and

"Whereas, such act if enforced will detrimentally affect the commercial interests of the people of the province and create a feeling of unrest at a most important period of our history when a large increase is expected to be added to our population; and

"Whereas such act is not a prohibitory act, but permits the free importation from the other provinces and territories of liquor in any quantity, merely transferring the drinking from licensed hotels to the homes and unlicensed resorts, and will not materially decrease the consumption of liquor in the province;

"Resolved, That while expressing no opinion on the general question of the prohibition of the manufacture or of the importation of liquor into the province, yet, insomuch as we believe the Liquor Act will fail in its purpose and result in injury instead of good to the commercial and social interests of the people, therefore it should not become law."

Mr. Nanton said, in moving the resolution, that he felt that if the proposed Liquor Act were put into force it would do a great deal of damage. There was an impression abroad that the Liquor Act was a prohibition act. This was not so; the present act would but transfer drinking from Licensed places to unlicensed places and to homes.

Mr. Stobart said he seconded the motion because he believed that the Liquor Act was not in the best interests of the province. He believed that the proposed act if put into force would disturb trade without any corresponding benefit.

R. T. Riley, manager for the Sanford Manufacturing company, considered that the motion should be put without discussion. Every member present had made up his mind how he would vote, and the question was not an ordinary trade one.

Mr. G. F. Stephens submitted an amendment, as follows:

"That, as this matter is largely political, and one upon which the members of this board are far from unanimous, and as the question is one which each man should answer for himself, be it resolved that this board does not pass any resolutions or commit itself in any way for or against the Liquor Art.

R. J. Whitla, in seconding the amendment, said he thought that if they wished to retain their influence as a board of trade, as this matter was one of conscience, they should not as a board take any part in the matter.

Mr. Muir considered that the best thing the board could do was to drop the matter.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried as above stated.

WOLSELEY GOES TO THE CAPE.

Former Commander-in-Chief Leaves For the Seat of War.

A London cable states that Lord Wolseley, the former commander-in-chief of the British army, has started for Cape Town, and, although the officials deny that his trip is anything but a private visit, gossip connects it with the military situation. It is pointed out that Lord Wolseley's knowledge of South Africa, gained as a fighter and administrator, might be highly useful to Lord Kitchener either at the base (Cape Town) or at Pretoria.

Col. Frank Rhodes and Arthur Rhodes, brothers of Cecil Rhodes, and Lady Methuen will be passengers on the steamer which will take Lord Wolseley to Cape Town.

THEY GOT AWAY.

Heilbron, Orange River Colony, Tuesday, March 11.—Commandant Mentz, with the Heilbron command of Boers, broke through the Heilbron-Wolve Hoek blockhouse line, at Gottenburg. The Boers had been pursued for several days. So far as known, only one Boer was killed and five were captured.

LAWLESS AMERICANS

THEY DEBAUCH NATIVES AT MACKENZIE RIVER WHERE THEY WINTER.

COMMISSIONER PERRY ASKS THE CANADIAN GOVERNMENT TO KEEP ORDER.

For half a century American vessels have had a monopoly of the whale fishing of the western Arctic ocean. By wintering near the mouth of the Mackenzie river they are enabled to make an early start, when the spring freshets drive the ice seaward from the entrance of the river. During their winter rendezvous the whaling crews do a trading business with the Indians, and as the chief article of barter is cheap whiskey, a systematic demoralization of the Indians is the result. The attention of the Canadian government has frequently been called to the necessity of putting a stop to this illicit traffic, and its baneful effects upon the natives, but practically nothing has been done in that direction. The subject is again brought forcibly to the notice of the government in the report of the Mounted Police. Commissioner Perry says: "Since my last report, further information has been received as to the operations of the whaling fleet which last year wintered some three hundred miles east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river.

"Tyranny over the Indians, debauching the Indian women, illegal trading, lawlessness among themselves, demand the assertion of our laws. A small, powerful steamer is needed, which can navigate the Mackenzie, and if necessary go into the open sea. The cost of carrying law and order into the Arctic regions may cause hesitation, but where our territory is being violated, our people suppressed, cost should be the last consideration."

A PECULIAR ACCIDENT.

W. D. Blackley, Well known in the West, Fatally Injured.

A Toronto dispatch says: What will probably prove a fatal accident happened at the corner of King and Yonge street in the most extraordinary manner. W. D. Blackley, a manufacturers' agent, well known in the west, was standing on the pavement waiting for a car. The Belt line car came along, the motor, with a trailer attached. As the motor drew up at the crossing the trailer banged into it with force, breaking the drawhead connecting the cars, and causing a piece of it to fly across the street and strike Blackley on the head, crushing in his skull. He was removed to the hospital in an unconscious condition, and there is but the slightest chance of his recovery.

HEIR TO A FORTUNE.

Rossland, B. C., March 14.—Julius Wagner, a butcher of this city, has fallen into a great fortune. Together with his mother, a sister and a brother, he will divide $2,700,000 in cash, and $1,000,000 in the shares of the Pullman-Wagner Palace Car company. The first instalment of the fortune will be distributed on May 1. At present Wagner has an interest in a flourishing meat market on First avenue, of this city.

CANADIAN FEVER.

An intending settler from the States who struck Calgary for the first time, says the Herald, tells that a disease known as Canadian fever, has struck Iowa and Nebraska, and is rapidly spreading all over the States; in consequence of it many Americans are striking out for Canada. This gentleman stated that the immigration from Nebraska and Iowa to Alberta this year was simply phenomenal.

FELL TO HIS DEATH.

At Toronto, Frank Reynolds, a laborer, was coming down the stairwas in the eastern wing of the city hall when he missed his footing. He grasped the bannister to save himself from falling, and in so doing over-balanced and fell 29 feet to the ground floor landing on his head. Reynolds was dead when picked up. He had been drinking. He leaves a widow and family.

FERNIE, B.C.

Why Englishmen Dislike New York.

In a paper on "London and New York" in Harper's Sydney Brooks gives this amusing explanation of the average Englishman's dislike for living in New York:

"It is this undisguised triumph of mechanics over æsthetics, of the new and useful over the old, that after a time makes New York for an Englishman rather a deadening city to live in. The iron enters into one's soul, and comfort, one feels, can be bought at too high a price. If only Americans could learn to do things a little more clumsily their metropolis would have many more charms for the English exile. In the long run mechanical perfection becomes almost as difficult as moral perfection to live with at ease. One turns a screw, and in twenty minutes one's room is warmer than two fires could make it in half a day. It is demoralizing, sybaritish. In England if the same system were introduced one could always rely on its being entainingly out of order. But nothing seems to get out of order in New York, not even that great standby of English cemeteries and conversation, the drains.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Parmelee's Pills possess the power of acting specifically upon the diseased organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease. In fact, so great is the power of this medicine to cleanse and purify, that diseases of almost every name and nature are driven from the body. Mr. D. Carswell, Carswell P.O., Ont., writes: "I have tried Parmelee's Pills, and find them an excellent medicine, and one that will sell well."

Railroad Travel Compared.

The time table of the New York Central printed in 1844 gives ground for a comparison between the conditions of travel then and now. In 1844 it took thirty and a half hours to travel by mail train from Albany to Buffalo. In 1902, by the Empire State express, it takes five hours and thirty-seven minutes. In 1844 the fare from Albany to Buffalo was $11.50. In 1902 the fare is $6.15. In 1844 the route from Albany to Niagara Falls was by rail to Syracuse, thence via Oswego canal and Lake Erie; distance, 333 miles; fare, $10; time, 32 hours. In 1902 the distance by New York Central is 305 miles; fare, $6.15; time, 6 hours 14 minutes. In 1844 the cars were lighted with candles, there were no sleeping cars, meals were obtained at primitive taverns, and the physical condition of the roadway made long and tiresome delays necessary and a journey an irksome undertaking.

Campaigning In Samar.

With the exception of a small part of the island of Samar the ground is entirely covered with a dense jungle, which it is next to impossible to penetrate, says a Manila newspaper. The trails lead off fairly and after a few miles end in a blank wall of jungle, which is so matted that it takes hours for the soldiers to cut a trail wide enough for the passage of a single man at a time. What the natives call trails in the mountains are simply paths almost entirely covered with jungle grass, rattan and bamboo, through which the hardy mountaineers force their way with ease, while the more encumbered and less accustomed white soldier cannot get through at all.

RELIC OF THE REVOLUTION

A Secret Passageway That Was Used by Tory Leaders.

Tunnel workmen engaged in excavating at a farmhouse which stands on Scriveris point, close to Long Island sound, discovered a secret passage leading from the garret of the house to the sound. The passageway, it is believed, was used in the Revolutionary war by the Tory leaders of Westchester to escape from the American troops which, under Washington, were encamped for weeks in the neighborhood at the time that General Howe of the British army was encamped just opposite, on Long Island.

The legend of the passage has been known to the older residents of Westchester, although few of them have ever seen it. It was known as the "Tory hole." The builder of the old house was Isaac Wilkins, an Englishman, who settled in Westchester shortly before the Revolution. Notwithstanding that he married a sister of Lewis Morris, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, he was a hot Tory.

The house stands near a small creek leading to the sound. It is a two story frame structure with shingled sides. It has an immense chimney and fireplaces and was considered one of the finest houses in Westchester county when it was built, 137 years ago. The upper stories are provided with portholes, through which the inmates guarded their grounds.

The passage leading to the tunnel is in the garret. It is about four feet wide and is covered with a trapdoor. Stones steps projecting from the outside of the chimney form a stairway all the way down to the ground, where a tunnel passes under the basement and runs out under the yard to the small tidewater creek. The mouth of the cave and the tunnel years ago tumbled in and are now almost obliterated, but the passageway from attic to cellar is intact.

Indulgence Is Craved

From the Free Press Subscribers Who Have Not Yet Received the Free Press Premium Barometer and Thermometer.

The manufacturers have been unable to supply instruments quickly enough to meet our needs and subscribers who are entitled to and have not yet received the Free Press combination Thermometer and Barometer are asked to wait patiently for a week or two until a further supply can be received.

In the first announcements all subscribers who renewed or sent in their subscriptions before Dec. 31st were promised prompt delivery of the Free Press combination Thermometer and Barometer and this promise was faithfully fulfilled. Long before such time, however, it was apparent that the demand for this instrument would far exceed the supply and a special rush order was forwarded to the manufacturers for several thousand more to be delivered by January 15th and the offer was extended to January 31st.

On account of the expensive nature of the premium, exceeding as it does in value that offered by any other paper in America, the Free Press intended to withdraw the offer on January 31st, but when the shipment arrived on January 15th the supply was found to be entirely inadequate and subscriptions and requests for the instrument continuing to pour in from all sides, it was decided to place a further order for several thousand and extend the offer until this last shipment should be exhausted.

A reliable thermometer and barometer is an article needed in every house. In the homes of the Canadian Northwest it is an almost indispensible article. You can secure a handsome instrument of this kind, guaranteed to register temperatures and atmospheric changes accurately, by forwarding $1.00 to the Free Press, Winnipeg. This payment entitles you to the Weekly Free Press for one year. Order at once on subjoined blank before supply is exhausted.

THE G. N. R. ENTERING N. W. T.

The Great Northern railway is preparing to transfer its recently acquired property, the Great Falls and Canada line, into the broad gauge road. The necessary surveys will be completed May 1st, and the work of widening will then begin at the Great Falls end of the line. There are only 66 miles of the road to rebuild across the Canadian line to Lethbridge where the road will connect with the Canadian Pacific at Dunmore Junction. But the Great Northern has 130 miles of narrow guage to rebuild to the international boundary line, and the work on this part will be done first. It is expected that broad guage trains will be running from Great Falls to Dunmore Junction by Sept. 1st.

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that, 60 days after date, I intend to apply to the Chief Commissioner of Lands and Works for permission to purchase the following described lands situate on the west side of Kootenay river in East Kootenay District;

Commencing at a point about 20 chains due west of the S.W; corner of Lot 323, Group 1, Kootenay District, Thence West 80 chains; thence South 40 chains; thence East 80 chains; thence North 40 chains to the place of commencement. Containing 320 acres, more or less.

Dated this 22nd day of February, 1902.

ROBT. SHORE CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Mrs. Shore Dies at the Cranbrook Hospital.

Death Said to be Due to Injuries Received at the Hands of her Husband.

This peaceful community was startled yesterday by the news of the death of Mrs. Robt. Shore and that her husband had been charged with murder.

On the 18th of February Robt. Shore, who resides at the mines, returned from Fernie after a big payday debauch and on being reproved by his wife he brutally assaulted her with his fists, causing injuries which it is believed resulted in her death at the Cranbrook Hospital yesterday. About a week or so ago the police were informed of the occurrence and that Mrs. Shore was in a very serious condition as a result of her husband's brutal conduct. They immediately investigated the matter and Mrs. Shore was sent to the Cranbrook hospital, the Fernie hospital being full at the time, and a vigilant eye was kept on the husband.

When the news of the death of Mrs. Shore reached here yesterday Constable Barnes swore out a warrant charging the husband with murder and he was taken into custody.

It appears from all reports that the accused has been in the habit of beating his wife, and that on this occasion he used his hand up so badly that he had to have it dressed by a physician. The deceased's side was covered with bruises and has been completely paralyed ever since the attack.

Nothing but indignation against the accused is heard on every hand and if the post mortem examination, which is being held in Cranbrook to-day justifies the charge which has been laid against Shore, it will no doubt go hard with him.

THE CHINESE QUESTION.

The following circular letter is being sent to the labor unions throughout Canada:—

To the Parliament of the Province of British Columbia:—Gentlemen—At the regular weekly meeting of Silverton Miners' Union No. 95, of the Western Federation of Miners, held in the Union Hall, Silverton, on Saturday, March 1st, 1902, the attitude of the British Government towards Canadian, and especially towards British Columbian legislation, on the restriction of Chinese and Japanese immigration, was well considered, and it was unanimously agreed that the uniform disallowance of such legislation, with no other explanation than that it was done "for Imperial reasons," showed upon the part of the said British Government, a contemtuous disregard of the wishes of the people of Canada that well deserves to be resented. And it was thereupon unanimously resolved that the British Government, in making treaties with the Governments of China and Japan whereby the people of these countries are licensed, contrary to the known desires of the Canadian people, to unrestrictedly come into Canada, has committed against the people of Canada an act of insolent despotism; and it is the hope of this Union that the people of Canada have the nerve to quickly prove to the said British Government that their "Imperial reasoning" in this case is very erratic. It was therefore further unanimously resolved that this Union most earnestly desires that both the Parliamants of British Columbia and of Canada firmly stand by such Acts of Restriction of the immigration or employment of Chinese and of Japanese as they have already passed, and that they pass and likewise stand by such further laws of restriction or of exclusion as the majority of the people of Canada may determine to be necessary for their welfare. Resolved, That every union in Canada be notified of the action of Silverton Union on this matter, with the request that each of them quickly express its views on the same to the Provincial Parliament of British Columbia.

A CONVENTION CALLED.

It is to Be Made Up of Labor and Reform Representatives

James Wilks, president, of Nelson; Rupert Bulmer, vice-president, of Rossland; Alfred Barr, secretary-treasurer, of Ymir, district association No. 6, of the Western Federation of Miners, have issued a call for a convention to be held in Kamloops, on Monday, March 14th. The object of the convention is to decide whether the labor and reform interests shall take an active part in politics. Following are extracts from the call issued:

The question of political action, being taken on the part of organized labor with a view to securing a more substantial and satisfactory representation of labor interests, in the Legislature of our province, and in the Parliament of Canada, is a principle that has received careful consideration and thorough discussion at the hands of local unions affiliated without district association.

The decision has been arrived at, that before any such step so important in its nature, and so far reaching in its effect, can be taken with any degree of confidence and propriety, it is absoluelty essential that the various labor unions and reform organizations throughout the province, should be by some means brought together in the closest possible touch, both in sentiment and action.

The objects of the convention are as follows:

1. To unite and harmonize all labor organizations and reform bodies in the province together for purposes of political action,

2. To adopt a provincial platform and promulgate a policy for the guidance of organized labor and other reform bodies in future political campaigns.

3. To do any or all other things which in the judgement of the convention will in any way protect or promote the interests of those represented.

By special arrangements with the C. P. R. Co., we have been able to secure the following reduced rates for the return trip. If fifteen delegates attend the convention, one and one-third (1⅓) fare will be charged for the round trip. If fifty delegates or more are in attendance a single fare will be allowed for the round trip.

THE SIMILKAMEEN.

D. R. Young, managing director of the Similkameen Valley Coal Company, Ltd: returned last Saturday night from a trip to the East, where he brought about the amalgamatiou of the Similkameen Valley Coal Company and the Ashnola Coal Company, Ltd., of Toronto, and completed the organization of the Ashnola Smelter, Ltd.

Mr. W. Blakemore, the company's consulting engineer, will leave Montreal for Ashnola about April 1st, and when he arrives he will proceed to prove thoroughly the company's ground. The plans of the company for this year include the completion of the city water and electric light plant and the actual development of the coal lands. The smelter will also begin development of several metalliferous mines on Copper and Kennedy mountains which have been secured.—Victoria Times.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Word has been received from Cranbrook that tne East Kootenay team that is coming here on Easter Monday is an exceptionally strong one and is doing some good hard practicing in anticiptaion of the game. The local team will be well up to to the standard that has deen able to hold its own in the past, and if they have the benefit of a good practice on Friday should at least be able to make a close game of it. The practice on Friday starts at 4 o'clock and everyone who can is particularly requested to turn out as team will be finally picked after the game.—Nelson Miner.

Action has been entered by Henry Kennedy, of Fernie, against Robert Kennedy, of Morrissey, for $5,000 damages for the alieniation of the affections of the wife of the said Henry Kennedy, for persuading her to leave his home and harboring her. The case will come up for trial in Nelson.

KILLED AT ELKO, B.C.

R. J. Swanson Crushed to Death Between Two Logs.

Fernie Loses a Pioneer and a Respected Citizen.

A very sad accident occurred at Logan's sawmill, near Elko, on Tuesday of this week, whereby an old and highly respected citizen of Fernie lost his life. The deceased, Mr. R. J. Swanson, has been employed lately as sawyer at Logan's mill, but on Tuesday, owing to scarcity of men he went out to roll in some logs, as no one was with him at the time there were no witnesses to the sad affair, but fifteen minutes afterwards he was found by one of the men crushed to death between two logs. As soon as the news of the sad fatality reached Fernie Messrs. A. Beck and C. J. Digby went to Elko and had the remains sent back to Fernie.

The funeral took place yesterday from the residence of Mr. W. H. Whimster, a friend of the deceased. The service was conducted by Rev. C. W. Houghton and a large number of sorrowing friends followed the remains to their last resting place.

Mr. Swanson was fifty-six years of age and had spent the greater part of his life in the west, having come to the country in the early seventies. He had lived in Fernie almost since its inception, and was associated with Mr. Digby in nearly all his contract work and other ventures in this neighborhood. Mr. Swanson was a true type of the men who came west in the early days, large hearted, a staunch friend and generous to a fault. No man has ever died in this vicinity who has left more friends and fewer enemies, nothing but expressions of sorrow are heard on all sides, and many will miss his kind genial smile so well known in Fernie.

The deceased's father and other relatives reside at St. Marys, Ont. They were notified by wire of the sad occurrence.

FERNIE MINERS UNION.

Vice-President Wilks Re-organizes the Union Here.

James Wilks returned to Nelson on Monday after a most successful visit at Fernie. He was here at the invitation of the Fernie Miner's union to address a meeting on the objects of trades unionism and its benefits to working men. The meeting was held in Joyce's hall on Saturday evening and was so largely attended that many had to stand. Much enthusiasm wss evinced and the meeting was a hearty one throughout. John Hescott, president of the Fernie Miners' union presided. Rev. Mr. Holford, pastor of the Baptist church, also spoke, expressing himself in accord with the objects of the meeting.

The primary object of the meeting was to revive interest in the miners' union and in this it fulfilled its object completly as at the conclusion 117 candidates were initiated. It was found that Joyce's hall was too small to accomodate all the miners and Mr. Trites placed Princess Hall at their disposal for meeting on Sunday afternoon and evening when the initiation ceremonies were continued. At the three meetings there was a total of 257 candidates joined or were reinstated. bringing the total membership up to the vicinity of 400. The members of the union are much gratified as the result of the meetings and passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Wilks for his visit. They have become very enthusiastic in their organization and intend to make it the banner one of the district. Steps will be taken at the next meeting to elect the quota of delegates to the convention to be held in Kamloops.

KOOTENAY MINES.

The shipment of ore from the Rossland camp for the week ending March 22nd shows another increase, with two additional properties rejoining the producing list. The Rossland Great Western has not shipped ore since the first of the year but this week it sent out 700 tons, while the War Eagle started shipping to-day, 60 tons being sent out, The Le Roi mines shipped 5,500 tons; the Lei Roi No. 2, 1,300 tons. Total for week 8,610 and for the year to date, 71,743 tons.

During the week ending March 22nd, the Granby smelter treated 6,671 tons of ore. Total treated to date, 333,342 tons.

WANT THE LEAD BOUNTY.

A delegation from British Columbia waited on the Premiur, Hon. Mr. Fielding and Senator Templeman in the Premier's office the other day. The delegates were Messrs. Buchanan, representing the Associated Boards of Trade of the province; W. H. Aldrich, representing the smelting interests, and Mr. James Cronin, representing the mining industry. In the first place the delegation asked that the bounty of $100,000, which was arranged for last year by the Dominion Government, to be paid at $5 per ton on production of refined lead, be paid even if the production for the year has not exceeded 14,000 tons. At present there is no prospect of 20,000 tons production. In other words they want $100,000 paid over for the production of 14,066 tons, or about $7 per ton. The delegates also asked that the duty on pig iron be increased from 15 per cent to 20 per cent., and on paint from 5 to 25 per cent. Delegates in addition asked that the Government deal with the 50,000 acres of coal lands they have got, and put them in the hands of an independent company, and place a limit on the price of $3.50 per ton f o b and on coke $1.75 for screen coal. A resolution was also presented by the delegates asking that an additional member for the Dominion Parliament be given to the Yale and Caribo district west of Columbia River.

The members of the Government promised to give the matter their best consideration.

DR. THOMPSON DEAD.

A Brother of Mr. T. C. Thompson Dies at Seattle.

Seattle Post-Intellegencer.

Dr F. H. Thompson, one of the most widely known young physicians in the United States service, died at the Seattle general hospital at 9.30 o'clock Friday evening after a lingering illness. For more than a week past Dr. Thompson's friends and relatives have entertained little hope for his recovery and early Friday it was apparent that dissolution was not far distant. The cause of his death was typhoid fever. Deceased was 26 years of age.

Dr. Thompson was one of the best known and most popular officers of the coast and geodetic survey steamer Patterson. He was a Canadian by birth, his family living in Toronto. He is one of five brothers, one brother, George T., arrived in the city Wednesday from British Columbia, having been called by telegraph because of his brother's illness.

Dr. Thompson was appointed to his present position in June, 1900, and was assigned to the Patterson. He has made two cruises with the vessel, one to the Bering sea and the other to Icy straits and Southeastern Alaska.

About two weeks ago he was taken ill with typhoid fever. It was the second attack of the disease. His death had been expected for two or three days, but he had displaced extraordinary vitality. He was well known in this city.

Another case of smallpox is reported at the mines.

The frame of the new Baptist Church has been erected.

Mr. Tazzman is erecting a very fine cottage at the north end of Blakemore avenue.

A. W. Bleasdell, druggist, bought this week through J. E. Mills, agent, Lot 26, Victoria Avenue, owned by J. L. McIntyre and Jas. Falconer.

There will be meeting of all those interested in the formation of a gun and rifle association at Cuthbert's restaurant on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Grand millinery opening at the London & Liverpool Co's store this afternoon and Monday. Cocoa will be served Monday afternoon to all the ladies of the town and to the Press.

SPIDER'S CHAPS.

A Tale of the Cattle Thieves of Agua Caliente.

Copyright, 1900 by W. LeC. Beard.

The men saw Spider nearly as soon as I. Two of them at once pulled up their horses and stopped, evidently intending to bar the way. Spider stopped also. The men rode on, and Spider followed, preserving his distance unchanged. They repeated this maneuver two or three times until at last the man with the Mexican hat lost his temper. He turned suddenly and darted after Spider at the full speed of his horse.

Firing three quick shots at his pursuer, Spider whirled about, and, with a yell of delight, vanished into the shadow, disappearing as completely as though the earth had swallowed him. Evidently recognizing the unwisdom of getting closer to an adversary who, unseen himself, can still see, the Mexican turned his horse toward the herd. Emerging once more from the shadow Spider followed as before.

"Hooray!" he yelled at the top of his shrill voice.

Just what Spider was trying to do I did not know. It was plain, however, that he was in some need of assistance, as there were three men opposed to him. I was about to start at full speed down the hill when Lee stopped me.

"Hol' on!" he whispered excitedly, catching my horse by the bridle. "Don't start ter run down this yer slope—you'll only break yer neck, an then you won't be no good to nobody. Ther's plenty er time. That kid, he's jas' worryin them three chumps into a fit—without no danger to himself too. Don't you see how he keeps jus' outer pistol shot? Take it easy down the slope. Once we're on the level, then we'll rush 'em."

Our horses picked their own way down the dark, bowlder strewn hillside. When we reached the plain, there was an instant's pause. Lee drew his rifle from the becket that rested under his left knee.

"Ready?" he asked. I was quite as ready as I was likely to be, but he waited for no reply. Dropping the reins on the neck of his horse, he sent home his spurs and dashed out into the moonlight, yelling like an Indian and pumping his repeating rifle with both hands as he went. As we came Spider swerved his horse and drew his pistol. Then he recognized us.

"Hooray!" he yelled at the top of his shrill voice. "I knowed you'd come. We got 'em! Whoop! Yip, yip, yip! Come on! I ben a-follerin them thieves all night."

Lee and I were riding side by side. Spider was some little distance ahead, shouting these remarks over his shoulder. He intended to stay ahead, too, for, ride as we might, neither Lee nor I could catch him. The three men who were driving our cattle did not wait for us. Firing an ineffective shot or two they turned to one side and vanished in the shadow of the hill. Spider turned his horse in pursuit.

"Come back!" called Lee. "Come back here, you kid! You crazy?"

Spider paid no attention whatever, but rode on at the best speed his pony could show.

"Come back, I say, or I'll rope your pony an throw him!" shouted Lee again.

"Have ter get within cast first, an you can't do it," returned Spider defiantly. What he said was quite true. We were losing ground at every stride. We were well into the shadow now.

"Come back!" I called in despair. "Will you obey orders or not?" Spider stopped instantly.

"Course, if it's an order it goes," he said. "But what d'you wanter pull up fer when we jus' got er chance ter get them thieves?" Lee had no words to waste at the time. He took Spider by the collar of his flannel shirt, lifted him half out of his saddle, shook him soundly, cuffed his ears and then returned him, with a thump, to his seat.

"S'pose you wanter get er hole shot in your fool little hide jus' because you think it's smart," said Lee, when he had completed these operations to his satisfaction. "You couldn't tell where them rustlers was a-waitin fer you in the dark there. Now get them cattle movin fer home er I'll take off yer chaps an spank you with 'em." To my great surprise Spider took these corrections and cantered away to obey his orders without a word. But, then, Lee had always been very good to Spider.

"S'pose I reelly oughter not a shook 'im so," the cowboy went on regretfully when Spider had left. "I couldn't let 'im get so uppity, though. Ther wouldn' be no livin in the same camp with 'im. But he scared me, that's a fact. That's reelly why I thumped 'im. I'd be mighty sorry if that kid got hurt, an he was fixin ter get hurt the very best he knowed. Here he comes, now, grinnin so the grin runs over his face all down his back."

"Them rustlers was a-waitin fer me, was they?" called Spider as soon as he got close enough. "Well, jus' you look over there once." He pointed to a moonlit space between two deep shadows nearly a mile away. Three men on horseback were crossing it rapidly, going in the direction of Agua Caliente. There was no doubt about their being the thieves. No other men would have been likely to be in that deserted place at such a time, or, if they had been, they would have shown themselves before when Spider was firing distress signals.

"Do you suppose that those fellows will go after more men and then come down on us?" I asked Lee as Spider returned to his work.

"Nope," replied the cowboy. "They can't afford ter take no chances, er they'd 'a' staid an fought it out. It ain't no joke fer a man ter get ketched liftin cattle roun here. You c'n raise the country ter go after 'im, an if he's caught he don't get ter jail alive. Them fellers was gonter take these here cattle across the line into Mexico—it ain't more'n 20 miles from Agua Caliente—an sell 'em there. Better get them cattle over the divide an movin to'rds home, though, as soon as we kin. It's mos' sun up now."

The cattle, tired and thirsty, started willingly enough toward our camp by the river, but they moved very slowly, after the manner of cattle. We had our hands full in hurrying them, all three of us.

As Lee had said, it was nearly sunrise. The cattle had hardly crossed the low ridge when the summits of the hills were reddened by the first beams of the sun that shot up over the level edge of the desert. This reminded me of the foreman's threat concerning Agua Caliente and its inhabitants. I had forgotten it until then.

"How far do you think we are from the camp?" I asked Lee.

"Our camp? Ten er leven miles. More maybe," he replied.

"We can't get there in an hour, then," I said. "Perhaps I had better send Spider on ahead to tell them we're all right."

Lee objected. He could see no reason why we should send any one away. There were only three of us as it was, and there was plenty of work to keep us all busy. Evidently he had not heard what the foreman had said, so I told him. It did not seem to alter his opinion, however. Spider threw up his hat and shouted. The hat fell beyond his reach, but he picked it up without dismounting and evinced a decided inclination to depart immediately for Agua Caliente. I sternly restrained him.

"So the foreman said he'd go over to Agua Caliente for a visit, did he? Well, unless we meet up with the boys as they go, them thieves what holds forth in the town will see an awful lot er fun by two hours from now. When the foreman says he'll do a thing, that's the thing he does every trip," commented Lee, grinning delightedly. "But we're sure to meet up with the boys—we're right in their track," he added, with a reassuring nod.

The foreman was even better than his word. Hardly had Lee finished speaking when a cloud of dust, that had been rapidly moving over the desert proved to be the wake that followed our men. Except Hollis, every one of them was there, even the Ballet Girl. He had screwed the spike that decorated the end of his artificial leg into the foot rest of his wooden stirrup and was riding straight and well, his long gray beard blowing back over his shoulder. The heavy pistol that always hung in his belt was re-enforced by another, and across his saddle a rifle was balanced.

While the boys noisily greeted Lee and Spider the foreman rode directly up to me and without preamble began to explain the suddenness of his appearance.

"You see, I didn' say I wouldn' start off before the time I set," said he. "I didn' mean ter, though, when you left, but the boys they got dead anxious. Ther's been a lot er them rustlers f'om Agua Caliente hangin roun the place, an we all thought you mighter stacked up agains' some trouble. So the boys got kinder scared up for you. Why, even the Bally Gurl, he starts out an gives me fits fer lettin you go without the lot of us back er you. He saddles up a horse an gets out his guns an swears he'll lead the boys himself if I don't start out. He's dead game, the Bally Gurl is, an I tell you these boys is a mighty good lot er boys."

"But I told you particularly that you weren't to attack Agua Caliente," said I reproachfully. "You weren't going to do that, were you?" The foreman looked somewhat dubious.

THE CAUSE OF HICCOUGH.

Hiccough is due to the spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm. This is the result of the irritation of the ends of the phrinic and pneumogastric nerves in the stomach acting reflexly upon the diaphragm. The exciting condition of the nerves can be overcome by a simple pressure of the index finger just above the upper end of the stermum.

HOW TO KNOW LA GRIPPE

The Symptoms and Dangers of This Deadly Disease Which is Driving So Many to Beds of Sickness---Effective Treatment by DR. CHASE'S FAMOUS REMEDIES.

Chill followed by fever, quick pulse, severe pains in the eyes and forehead, and dull pains in the joints and muscles, mark the beginnings of la grippe. There is also hoarseness, inflamed air passages, and obstinate cough, furred tongue, distress in the stomach, and diarrhoea. The one unmistakable feature of la grippe is the depressed spirits and weakness and debility of the body.

With the very young and very old and with persons of low vitality, the dangers of la grippe are very great. Pneumonia of a violent and fatal form is a frequent result. It is also claimed that very many cases of consumption can be directly traced to la grippe. The after effects of la grippe are most often felt in the nervous system. The extreme debility in which this disease leaves its victims is more than most nervous systems can endure—paralysis or prostration follows.

The most successful doctors advise their patients to avoid exposure to cold or over-exertion, and recommend both general and local treatment, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to strengthen and tone the system, and Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to loosen the cough and protect the bronchial tubes and lungs from threatened complications.

Any honest and conscientious doctor will tell you that this combined treatment recommended by Dr. Chase cannot be surpassed as a means of relieving and curing la grippe, and restoring the weakened and debilitated body to its accustomed vigor. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is too well known as a cure for bronchitis and severe chest colds to need comment. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food seeks out the weak spots in the system and builds them up. It rekindles the vitality of persons weakened by disease, worry or over-exertion, and cannot possibly be equalled as a restorative and reconstructant to hasten recovery from la grippe, and to prevent serious constitutional complications. NO VERIFICATION NEEDED AT HOME

EVERYBODY IN OSHAWA IS FAMILIAR WITH THIS CASE.

Joe Brown's Wonderful Escape from Death is now an Old and oft Told Story to the People of His own Town.

Oshawa, Ont., March 23.—(Special)—While interest in Joe Brown's case has been revived by the recent publication of the facts in so many papers. Oshawa people are well acquainted with the whole circumstance. Mr. Brown's father-in-law, Mr. John Allin, whose place of business is right in the centre of the town, has, however, had to answer many questions recently, but as he was very close to Mr. Brown during the whole of his painful experiences in '97 and '98, he finds this an easy matter.

Mr. Allin is quite as enthusiastic as Mr. Brown himself, and never tires telling the story of how Dodd's Kidney Pills conquered disease, and saved Mr. Brown's life. He says:

"We didn't think he would ever live through it, let alone get strong and able to work, but the pills made him all right and well in a short time, and the best of it all is that the cure has stood the test of time. It must be three and a half years since and as you know he's strong and hearty to-day and has been ever since Dodd's Kidney Pills sent him back to the shop."

There are many others in town who have recently been reminded of this wonderful cure of a seemingly hopeless case who find no trouble in calling up the facts, and none are slow to give all the credit to Doddjs Kidney Pills.

But few good things come to the average man. He must go after them.

A Quick Witted Doctor.

A certain French surgeon, of whom The Young Ladies' Journal tells, had so much more thought for his patient than for his own safety on one occasion that he resorted to an expedient which, although efficacious, might have resulted in his own death.

He had been commissioned to bleed the grand seignior and either through timidity or nervousness had met with an awkward accident. The point of the lancet broke off in the vein, and the blood would not flow.

That point must be got out somehow. Without stopping to consider the consequences to himself, the surgeon gave his highness a violent slap in the face. This produced the desired effect, for surprise and indignation on the part of his august patient put the blood into violent circulation. The vein bled freely, and the lancet point came out.

The bystanders were about to lay hands on the surgeon when he said, "First let me finish the operation and bandage the wound." This done, he threw himself at the feet of the sultan and explained his action.

The sultan not only pardoned him, but gave him a handsome reward for keeping his wits about him in a critical moment.

WOULDN'T STAY BURIED.

Adventure of a Man Who Was Dissatisfied With His Coffin.

A few weeks ago an Armenian while walking in the bazaar of Adana, in Asia Minor, fell on the pavement in a fit. The people in his vicinity, finding him unconscious, sent for the municipal physician, who examined him and certified that he was dead.

He was recognized as being an Armenian, so his body was handed over to the authorities of a neighboring Armenian church. There was not enough money in his pockets to pay for the expense of his burial, so the authorities postponed the funeral to the next day, by which time they hoped to collect enough money from charitable Armenians. The body was put in a coffin and left in a corner of the church.

At night, however, the man returned to his senses and, finding himself in a coffin, the narrowest of all prisons, began to shriek wildly. His voice and the clattering of the coffin awoke the priest and attendants, who were sleeping in an adjacent building. They were terrified, but eventually entered the church and, perceiving whence the cries came, rescued the man.

Early next morning the latter went into a coffin shop, where, by a strange coincidence, the first person he met was the man who had nailed up his coffin the night before. The latter took him for a ghost and fled precipitately, shouting for help the while. The Armenian rushed upon him and, seizing him, demanded pecuniary satisfaction for the damage done to his clothes in the process of putting him in the coffin.

The undertaker took courage on finding that the Armenian was not a ghost at all and retorted by demanding payment for the coffin and his trouble the night before. The dispute was adjudicated on by the other people in the coffin shop, apparently not to the Armenian's satisfaction, for, having come to the conclusion that Adana is hardly a healthy spot for him, he has removed to another town.

Which One?

"I should like to know the difference between a full colonel and any other colonel," said the person who reads the war news.

ANTIPODEAN NEWS.

SEVERAL AUSTRALIAN STATES SUFFER SEVERELY FROM DROUGHT.

LABOR RECRUITING SHIPS ATTACKED BY NATIVES—TWO OFFICERS KILLED.

According to the latest news by steamship Aorangi, several of the states in Australia have suffered terribly from drought. In New South Wales the death of sheep and cattle has been appalling, and the list of deaths from heat apoplexy is a long one. Public subscriptions are on foot to provide food and lodging at the seashore for thousands of poor in need of fresh air, the government to provide transportation. The governor has also set apart a period of prayer, the proclamation reading as follows: "Whereas in consideration of so very serious calamities from which this state is now suffering by reason of the protracted drought, that a day should be set apart in which all persons may unite in a prayer to Almighty God to obtain through his divine mercy a mitigation or removal of these calamities, I, the lieutenant-governor of New South Wales, direct that the 26th inst. be a public holiday throughout the state for the purpose aforesaid, and I hope that all classes will join in a solemn appeal for divine mercy."

THE PLAGUE.

Plague is again very active in Australia and the fatalities as compared to the number of cases are large. Rats seem to be the agency by which plague is kept alive. Many of those stricken, have killed rats or been near where rats have been found dead. Extraordinary precautions are being taken to destroy rats by the government.

BOER WAR AMENITIES.

Australasia has been aroused by the anti-war resolutions of a labor congress at Sydney. At this convention a resolution was passed against the British government's conduct of the war; a resolution against war itself as wrong on Britain's part, who should withdraw, even now, from South Africa. These resolutions have caused patriotic indignation meetings throughout the colonies, at which the labor congress has been censured, loyal speeches habe been made and torchlight processions organized.

PACIFIC CABLE.

TROUBLE WITH NATIVES.

During the month of February the natives of the South Seas gather on the coast in large numbers and the vessels which go to recruit laborers bring home many stories of treachery. This year is no exception to the rule and a number of these stories are reported.

The Ketch Venture, while in Cadell straits, a narrow and difficult passage, was attacked by natives who attempted to climb over the sides. In the fight which followed this attempt two members of the crew were killed by spears in the hands of the natives. Mr. Geo. McCabe, recruiting officer of the Labor vessel Rhoderick Dhu was another victim. The cruise of the barque had been fairly successful and without special incident until the Island of Malayta was reached. Here it was decided to land for the purpose of obtaining a few recruits if possible and although no instances of treachery on the part of the natives were known to the officers of the vessel, still Mr. McCabe took precautions against a disaster of any kind. In the boat commanded by Mr. McCabe were a number of his trusted men and another of the ship's boats was also in attendance to cover the landing party. No natives were seen on the island but shortly after the officer had landed and proceeded some distance up the beach he was suddenly fired on from the rear by some of the islanders concealed in some thick undergrowth. Mr. McCabe was killed instantly. The murderers after committing their treacherous deed immediately fled inland and thus escaped the wrath of the crew of the Rhoderick Dhu. Mr. McCabe's body was recovered and later buried at sea.

The chaplain of one of the recruiting vessels adopted a novel method of getting ngtives to ehter into contracts with him. He secured a phonograph and before leaving Queensland had a native already engaged on a plantation talk into it telling of the good times he was having. This was taken to the native villages and turned loose. The natives flocked to the recruiting ship.

The Danish bark, Puck, with 170 recruits on board, ran ashore and was wrecked. The recruits and crew were rescued by the German steamer Meteor. Another wreck of which news was received by the Aorangi was that of the schooner Prosperity, bound from New Castle to North Queensland. When off Point Lookout, Stradbrooke island, the man at the wheel drew the attention of the mate to land ahead. The mate for answer struck the man and immediately the schooner went ashore. The crew, with the exception of the mate who locked himself in the cabin, spent the night in the rigging and swam ashore in the morning. The mate and cook were drowned.

A tribal war was in progress in Noumea, one band of villagers attacked a rival village and according to reports received at Sydney a number of men were killed and the wounded decapitated. It was said also that cannibalism was practiced by the successful party.

CAMBRIDGE WON.

The Light Blues Capture the Fifty-ninth Contest.

Putney, Eng., March 22.—The Cambridge crew to-day fulfilled the expectation of the prophets and won the fifty-ninth boat race from Oxford as they liked. At no time throughout the race did Oxford in the slightest degree flatter the hopes of the supporters of the dark blue. Any possible chance which the Oxonians might have had was shattered by the result of the toss giving the light blues, Cambridge, all the advance of station. Immense crowds as usual turned out to view the contest, and the weather, though showery, was not so inclement as it has been most of the previous years.

Cambridge was the first to take the water, Oxford following after a slight delay, and both crews paddled to the moored skiffs at the starting line. The starting was delayed owing to the force of the tide making it difficult to keep the boats' noses straight. Lieut.-Col. Frank Willan, the umpire, however, finally got them away in a capital start. As was anticipated the livelier stroke of the light blues gave them the earliest advantage and their lead was increased at every stroke. By the time Craven steps were reached Cambridge had a clear length to the good and it was patent to every one that they had the race in hand barring accidents.

Huntley's somewhat sluggish stroke appeared to be too slow to suit some of the Oxford man behind him. Their weight would have told at least in the earlier part of the race, had they been given more chance. As it was each landmark on the river bank found them further and further in the rear, and at Harrod's stores their troubles were increased by the wash of their opponent's boat. Off the Sacarine works the dark blues' stroke made his effort and the Oxford crew struggled gamely. But only for a short distance. Nelson (Cambridge) did not quicken his stroke and the gap was reduced to about a length as the boats shot under Hammersmith bridge. The effort took all the steam out of the Oxonians, their stroke dropped from 37 to 32 and the race was practically over.

Cambridge came right away, pulling comfortably at an average of 36 strokes to the minute, and increased her lead without the slightest effort. Before reaching Bames bridge the dark blues were in the greatest trouble while the light blues, amid hearty cheers, paddled past the ship at Mortlake the easiest winners of the tamest university boat race in many years.

The official time of the finish was 19 minutes, 9 seconds, and the distance separating the two boats was officially given out as being five lengths, but it was nearly eight lengths. The spectators, especially the Oxonians, were not slow to show their resentment at the somewhat rare spectacle of a university eight absolutely rowed out. The defeated crew included the brothers Milburn, of Buffalo. This was the first time on record that two Americans participated in an Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

The experts agreed that the Milburns showed fine style. Many "Old Blues" congratulated them on the fine showing they made and hopes were freely expressed that they would both row next year.

INHERITS $6,000,000.

Frank Conger, of Brooklyn, who died suddenly a few days ago in a Detroit hotel, bequeathed to his adopted daughter, Oressa Stewart Conger, whom he took from the arms of her dead mother a dozen years ago in a railroad wreck at Hamburg, N. Y., an estate of six million dollars. The girl is now fourteen years old and for twelve years has been thought by many to be the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conger.

MILITIA REPORT.

The Major-General Says That the Permanent Force Should be Increased

In the annual report of the militia department, the major-general deals with the inefficiency of the permanent corps, from an instructional standpoint. He says the cavalry should be increased by four officers, twelve sergeants and seventy-eight men and the infantry by eighteen officers and 462 men of other ranks. He claims that this is absolutely necessary if the efficiency of the militia is to be kept up. He would have the maximum of the permanent force at 1,500 men, almost double its present strength, and a third company of garrison artillery. This he said is fully warranted by the increasing responsibilities of the force in the Dominion.

The general condemns the mischief of provisional schools for militia officers and claims that it is impossible for an officer to become thoroughly or anything like thoroughly competent under these courses. "It may be," says the general, "that many of the young militia officers cannot spare time to attend the royal schools of instruction but they should know that these sacrifices are necessary when they accept the commission and that they must be prepared to thoroughly qualify themselves and not seek for promotion by a short cut."

LOOKS LIKE FOUL PLAY.

Man Dies of Injuries Sustained in a Row at Seguin Falls.

Particulars of the circumstances under which Samuel Cooper, who died at Huntsville, of injuries, come from Parry Sound.

It appears that Cooper, who is a lumberman, and who had been working near Seguin Falls during the winter, had shown signs of being demented, but was considered harmless. A few days ago he went to the house of Thos. Hooper and it is alleged attempted to go upstairs. Hooper thereupon, it is said, attacked him with an axe. The other men, whose names are given as Clair and Bannister, took part in the fight. It is said that six or seven serious wounds were inflicted on Cooper and that he was also shot in the leg. The following day he was taken to the hospital in Huntsville where he died. Constable Hanna, at the instance of Crown Attorney Haight, has arrested Hooper and others concerned in the affair.

A BAD INDIAN.

Johnny Tarum Arrested by the Officers for Murder.

Vancouver, B.C., March 18.—Johnny Tacum, the Indian with a bad record, who slew Frank Hussey, at Toba Bay, wounded his Klootchman and also Frank Card, was captured by a posse of special police and brought here in custody this morning. Tacum thought he had killed Card also and was unprepared for the officers' arrival. The only trace of Hussey found is a mackinaw coat with bullet holes in the back and front. After Johnny had killed Hussey and as he thought Card, he sent his Klootch up the country, had the body of the murdered man and was starting to tell the authorities of the mysterious disappearance of the white men when arrested.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

Hon. Mr. Fielding delivered his annual budget speech in the House of Commons on 17th inst., which indicated continued prosperity, increased revenue and a surplus of $5,800,000. No tariff change was announced. Trade relations with Germany, the United States and the Motherland were clearly explained. Decreases in the post office and Intercolonial deficits were noted. Mr. R. L. Borden moved an amendment favoring protection and reciprocal trade preference within the empire. The Dominion Trades and Labor men waited upon the members of the government and requested changes in legislation along the lines suggested and adopted at the labor congress.

CAR DROPPED INTO GATINEAU RIVER.

When a train of the Ottawa Northern and Western railway, going north from Ottawa, reached Lane, a Grand Trunk car in the middle of the train broke loose, jumped the track and dropped over an embankment of 25 feet into the Gatineau river. The peculiar feature of this accident is that none of the other cars on the train were derailed. In the car directly behind the one which left the track, there was about eighty shanty men, on their way to Messrs. Gilmour & Hughson's shanties. Not one of them was hurt, although they were well shaken up. The train was recoupled and proceeded with very little delay, leaving the car behind.

LACROIX IS HANGED.

HE COMMITTED A FIENDISH CRIME AT THE VILLAGE OF MONTEBELLO.

HE WALKED TO THE SCAFFOLD WITH A FIRM STEP AND PAID THE PENALTY.

Stanislas Lacroix, the Montebello murderer, paid the penalty of his crime on the scaffold in Hull jail yard on March 11. There were about 120 present to witness the execution, but outside the walls of the jail were thousands who were more or less agitated over the first execution in the Transponte City.

Radcliffe was in an adjoining cell to the prisoner all night. The hangman, who had a terrible black eye, and was badly battered about the head, was a little nervous, but did his work well. The drop fell at 8 o'clock, and 13½ minutes later the doctors pronounced Lacroix dead. He died of strangulation. The prisoner made no statement on the scaffold.

Father Prevost, who was attending to the spiritual wants of Lacroix, said that the prisoner thanked all who had been kind to him, and forgave all his enemies. The prisoner had not taken any food since the previous afternoon, but was strong, calm, and collected, and evidently had nerved himself for the last. He mounted the scaffold with head erect and a firm step. His responses to the prayers offered by his spiritual advisers were clear and distinct, and could be plainly heard by the spectators. A crowd viewed the hanging from Parliament Hill. Some women were among the crowd.

The deed for which Lacroix forfeited his life was committed Aug. 14, 1901, in the village of Montebello, the murder of his wife and an old man named Hippolite De Tranchemontague. The crime was a most fiendish and shocking one.

DILLION IS UNPARLIAMENTARY.

He Calls The Colonial Secretary a D——d Liar and is Suspended.

London, March 21.—John Dillan, Irish Nationalist, was suspended in the House of Commons yesterday for calling the colonial secretary, Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, "a d——d liar."

One of the liveliest scenes witnessed in the House of Commons since the palmiest days of the Irish Nationalists ended yesterday afternoon with the suspension of John Dillon. During the discussion of South African affairs, the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, vigorously protested against the government's conduct in uttering "malignant slanders" in calliag the Liberals "pro-Boers."

The colonial secretary, Mr. Chamberlain, in the course of an equally incisive reply, said he desired deliberately to accuse Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman of losing no opportunity for slandering his countrymen, the soldiers and the government. Consequently, the "malignant slanders" had come from the opposition side.

The speaker, Sir William Court Gully, here intervened and declared that the term "malignant slander" was unparliamentary.

Both Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Chamberlain thereupon withdrew the words, amid cheers.

Mr. Chamberlain, proceeding, referred to the Boers who are fighting on the British side, when John Dillon (crish Nationalist), interjected, "they are traitors," on which Mr. Chamberlain retorted: "The honorable gentleman is a good judge of traitors."

A scene of great confusion ensued. When order was partially restored Mr. Dillon demanded a ruling on Mr. Chamberlain's words.

The speaker said: "An honorable member spoke of soldiers serving under the British flag as traitors. I deprecated the interruption and I deprecated the retort of the other member."

Mr. Dillon then said: "I will tell the right honorable member that he is a d——d liar."

BRAKEMAN CUT IN TWO.

William McCausland, a brakeman on the G. T. R., residing on Edward street, East Toronto, met with a shocking death at Oshawa. He was crossing the rails in front of an approaching train, when his foot was caught by an electric wire, throwing him down on the track in front of the engine, which passed over him cutting him in two.

The Prince Albert Advocate says seven cases in all of smallpox have developed in the Buttler settlement, some twenty miles out, being imported from the tie camps at the end of steel. The local authorities with the aid of the N. W. M. Police have the matter well in hand and are enforcing a strict quarantine, which will confine the disease to the affected cases. In the meantime travel from the camps where the disease originated has been stopped.

"JUST A LOVELY QUARREL.

The "Divine Sarah" and a Poet Say Sweet things to Each Other.

The Parisians are keenly interested in developments of a pretty quarrel between Sarah Bernkardt and Catulle Mendes, the author and poet, about the production of the latter's poetical drama, "Sainte Therese," which has been promised to the Comedie Francaise. Mme. Bernhardt heard of the drama, begged to be allowed to produce it and M. Mendes withdrew it from the Comedie Francaise and gave it to her, under stipulations, insuring a good run.

M. Mendes subsequently took it back when in full rehearsal on the ground that Mme. Bernhardt had made arrangements to go to London, which precluded a satisfactory run for "Sainte Therese." The story has been told in a series of remarkable letters exchanged between Mme. Bernhardt and M. Mendes, which the latter published. The letters are most amusing with their mutual gushing compliments and poetical forms of address, which, however, deteriorated into the chilliest expressions as the quarrel became embittered.

Mme. Bernhardt first addressed M. Mendes as "My dear beloved poet," asking to be allowed to produce "Sainte Therese," and M. Mendes responded to "his despotic sovereign" offering the piece for the coming season.

Mme. Bernhardt then replied to her "darling friend," promising to produce it March 1. M. Mendes thereupon telegraphed as a reply: "Dear Therese, the play and the author are yours." But later he heard that Mme. Bernhardt was making conflicting arrangements and telegraphed for explanations. This time Mme. Bernhardt merely addressed him as "friend," and explained that her arrangements did not affect the production of the piece. M. Mendes was not satisfied, but was induced to leave the play with Mme. Bernhardt. The rehearsals were begun, M. Mendes says he found Mme. Bernhardt had let her theatre to an Italian company for a period which rendered the promised run impossible. He realized that all was not plain sailing for "Sainee Therese," and got back his manuscript, which, he wrote, he will place in a drawer strewn with red roses, symbols of his admiration for Sarah Bernhardt, and with violets, emblems of her fickleness."

The last communication of M. Mendes was written in the third person and was addressed to "Madame Sarah Bernhardt."

Mme. Bernhardt replied to the publication of these letters by explaining that M. Mendes was wrong about the arrangements which he thought would interfere with his play. She intended to give it a run of twenty nights, and could not arrange for a longer rdn because of the risk of losing her London season, which brings her a large sum of money, and complained that M. Mendes resorted to a trick to get back the manuscript, which, he said, was only needed for a few corrections. Mme. Bernhardt concluded her letter as follows:

"In a terrible fit of despair and tears I drowned my illusions, hopes, admiration and friendship for that man. I came out of this crisis a physical wreck with my brains in a whirl, but my will safe and sound. As long as I live I will never see Catulle Mendes again."

M. Mendes, on reading this, telegraphed as follows to Mme. Bernhardt:

"Is it not silly for us to quarrel when in reality we love one another?"

The author poet then offered to give "Sainte Therese" to Madame Bernhardt if she would only promise to run it while it was drawing money. Mme. Bernhardt did not even reply to this communication, whereupon M. Mendes wrote to the Temps, replying to all the points of Mme. Bernhardt's letter and concluding, after a fervid outburst of admiration for her, that he would await "repentance in her dear, royal, cruel heart."

The matter thus remains, without hope of a reconciliation.

THE KING TAKES SNUFF.

King Edward has set the custom of taking snuff, which, as a result, promises to be generally revived. At the Marlborough House dinners a Georgian silver snuff box, once used by the Prince Regent, is handed to His Majesty at the beginning of the dessert, while the ladies are still at the table. The King helps himself liberally, sharing his pinches with favored guests.

King Edward will give a dinner to 500,000 of the poor of London on coronation day. Another "happy home" broken up, and a husband left with a broken heart, some small children and a picture turned toward the wall, is the story that is told around town. The facts seem to show that a certain married woman left her home rather unexpectedly one day this week and forgot to leave her address with her husband who is rather in donbt as to her whereabouts. Certain features of the disappearance seem to suggest a man in the case. At any rate it seems to furnish another proof that "marriage is a failure," in some cases anyway.

A Splendid Record for Paying Death Claims.

Mr. Geo. Levasseur, who held policy No. 912,424, died on Feb. 21, 1902. On the 10th of March the proofs of death reached the Spokane office, and on the 18th of March a check for the full amount was forwarded through the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in favor of Mrs. Sophia Levasseur.

It is remarkable to note, if we take into consideration the distance between Fernie and Spokane, and then the distance between Spokane and New York, besides going through all necessary formalities, that the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, through Mr. Allenberg, Manager at Spokane, paid the claim in just exactly twenty-five days. It is certainly a remarkable record.

Mr. Levasseur was only insured three years with the Society, having paid to the Society $228.48, for which they paid the amount of $2,000.00, leaving a net profit to the estate of $1,771.52.

The Equitable Life certainly deserves credit for such prompt payment.

FOR SALE—Several desirable lots for dwelling and business purposes, also two store buildings at Watson's.

People having improved real estate, or those wishing to build homes can raise money to suit themselves at Watson's.

A man named McKinnon, of Rossland died in the hospital here on Thursday. He was a victim of pneumonia.

Dr. Barber and wife arrived in town on Tuesday, the doctor can be found at his office over A. C. Liphardt's jewellery store.

Constable Farquharson appears this week in a handsome new uniform. He completely outshines the other officers of the law here.

Dr. Doherty has taken up his residence at the mines. This will make it much more convenient for those needing his services at that village.

The rink was closed for the season on Monday night after quite a successful winter. Mr. Digby says it is his intention to increase the size of it for next winter.

There are five cases of diptheria in town, Mrs. A. L. Byers, being the last victim of the dread disease. All those afflicted have been removed to the pest house.

Mrs. E. Todd will open a large stock of ladies white wear, silks, fancy goods and all the latest novelties, on or about the 1st day of April in Mr. A. K. Farquhason's new store.

Owing to the sickness of the Wilson Bros. they were unable to hold their usual quartette club meeting on Thursday evening, but next Thursday the dances will be continued as usual.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church will be held in the church on Wednesday next at 3 p. m. There will be no regular meeting on Thursday next week.

Good Friday was observed in Fernie in a most becoming manner. To look down the main street one would hardly realize that one was in a western mining town. all seemed so quiet. A large number attended the service in the Anglican church.

Messrs. Ross & Alexander are having their offices, in the Cuthbert Block, overhauled and remodeled and when finished will no doubt be the finest set of rooms in town. They installed this week a beautiful large wood cabinet for legal papers.

On Saturday last the express from the west was delayed over twelve hours, owing to a wreck this side of Elko. About a dozen cars on a west bound freight had jumped the track, tearing it up for quite a long distance and causing the delay. No person appears to know the cause of the wreck. No one was injured.

The Royal Hotel have received this week, from Chicago, a beautiful hotel cabinet for the office. Mr. Tuttle is also adding a gents' writing room to one of the parlors upstairs and is making several other changes in connection with the building, the most important of which is the installation of several new lavatories, which are on the way from the east.

The mass meeting which was to have been held on Wednesday of this week, owing to the inability of the committee to get a hall, was postponed until next Wednesday when Mr. Joyce has kindly offered the use of his hall for the occasion. It is to be hoped that there will be a large turnout, as the matter of fire protection is one of the most important questions of the hour to the citizens of Fernie.

At a meeting held in the Royal Hotel, on Tuesday evening, to organize the baseball club for the coming season, the following officers were elected :—Pres., John Kay ; Manager, W. W. Tuttle ; Captain, Mr. Kastner ; Sec.-Treas., A. C. Liphardt. Mr. W. W. Tuttle and Mr. E. Wriglesworth was elected to represent the club on the Executive of the Athletic Association. The club fee was fixed at $1. There were fifteen members of the club present and the meeting was enthusiastic throughout.

Local Union, No. 796, Carpenters and Joiners of America, gave a social evening to the carpenters of Fernie, on Tuesday of this week, in Joyce's hall. There were about forty guests present and a very profitable and enjoyable time was spent by all. After a justice had been done to a beautiful spread of luxuries, a number of toasts were proposed and responded to by those present. The toasts were interspersed by instrumental and vocal selections. The affair broke up about midnight everyone feeling that it was good to have been there.

Jas. Joyce, of Jaffray, was in town on Tuesday.

GIRL WANTED—To do general housework. Apply to Mrs. F. W. Keegan.

Dr. Barber is now at his office in the Bentley Block, opposite the Royal.

Special Easter music will be rendered in all the churches on Sunday next.

Mr. John Fraser and son, of Daughin, Man., are the guests of Mr Jas. Dunlop this week.

Mr. Dill, of the Dill & Hill Co., of Wolsley, N. W. T., is in town, the guest of Mr. Hill.

Mr. H. S. Monkman, of the Fernie Drug Store, spent Tuesday and Wednesday in Cranbrook.

Mrs. S. Arnold, who was the guest of Miss Ross, for several days. returned to her home in Cranbrook on Sunday.

W. C. Liphardt, who has been spend- the past three months in Toronto, returned to Fernie on Saturday last.

Rumor has it that the Hockey club will give a ball in the near futnre to help meet the expenses of the past season.

The meeting of the Executive of the Athletic Association which was to have been held on Thursday evening was postponed until next week.

Another consignment of ties. This time it is ladies' that have arrived. It is needless for us to tell you that they are swell, because you know, we know and everybody knows that when we say we have new ties, that they will suit the most fastidious.—Crow's Nest Trading Co.

The Queen of Hayti Co. gave a performance to a crowded house in Princess Hall, on Saturday night The performance was clean and well put on and seemed to be enjoyed by all present. They have a splendid street parade, which is instrumental in drawing large crowds to their performances.

Mr. W. Pippy left Monday for Springhill, N.S., to see his sister who is seriously ill. Mr. Pippy has been in charge of the motors and other electrical machinery at the mines for over a year, and is regarded as the best man who has ever filled the position. Having combined a thorough knowledge of the business with a conscientious carefulness in all his work. His position will be filled by D. Walmsley assisted by R. Davidson.

About twenty-five persons who have been under quarantine in Lalonde's boarding house, in the Old Town, for some time, were released on Tuesday. The house has been quarantined, with the exception of a few days, ever since the first outbreak of smallpox, four or five cases having developed there. The building has been condemmed by the Government and will doubtless be destroyed.

The entertainment given in the Methodist church, on Tuesday evening was a success both financially and otherwise. The programme was one of the best that has been put on in Fernie, and those who were not present missed a rare treat. Following is the programme ;—

Organ Solo ..... J. Bastian
Address ..... Chairman
Song ..... A. Colclough
Recitation ..... S. J. Marsh
Violin Solo..."Poet and Peasant"..A. T. Claxton
Song ..... J. Wilson
Gramophone ..... Comfield Melody

STORM AFTERMATH

A NUMBER OF CASUALTIES RESULTING FROM THE RECENT BLIZZARD.

"RALPH CONNOR" IS STALLED ON A BRANCH LINE TRAIN FOR TWO DAYS.

Casualties resulting from the blizzard which raged on the 14th, 15th and 16th of the month are reported daily.

At Winnipeg a milkman named Edward Stoddard attempted to make his usual delivery on Monday and dropped dead from exertion in struggling through the snow drifts.

Arthur L. Davis, a section foreman at Reston, Man., became lost in the recent storm.

J. Chadwick, of the Belmont district, was exposed for two days on the prairie, and suffered terribly, but will survive.

A report comes from Reston that Ernest, the 14 year old son of Widow England, nine miles southwest of there, got lost between the stable and the house in Saturday's storm and has not yet been found. There are no hopes that he is alive.

A man named Parker who lives on Manitoba avenue, Winnipeg, made a gruesome discovery when he observed through a slight rift in a snowdrift near his residence the upturned face of a woman. A superficial examination revealed the features of an elderly female who had doubtless perished there during the storm. The body was identified as that of Mrs. Mary McPherson, wife of John McPherson, of Pritchard street. Deceased was 64 years of age and had been missed at her home since Saturday night, but little alarm was felt at her absence as it was supposed she had sought refuge with friends.

Henry Murphy, a laborer, of Winnipeg, has been missing since Friday and it is feared he has perished

Passengers arriving in Winnipeg, on delayed trains from branch lines tell some interesting stories of their trying experiences, some of which are not without amusing features.

The Glenboro train arrived in the city, after being stalled since Friday, on Tuesday, 18th. Rev. C. W. Gordon, who has, along with A. M. Fraser, been out on the referendum campaign through that portion of Manitoba, was on the stalled train and says that the experience was one not soon to be forgotten. Meetings had been held at Wawanesa, Nesbitt and Carroll and on Saturday morning the party drove to Methven to catch the train for Treherne. The storm at this time was very severe, but after many difficulties Treherne was reached in safety. On leaving that station there were twenty-five passengers on board, two of whom were ladies. Twice the train became stalled but was gotten out all right, but the third time it was too much, and about two miles out from Treherne they had to give it up after several hours' work, when only two miles froim the depot. The storm at this time was exceptionally severe, the air being filled with a mixture of sand and snow, which made facing it a decided hardship. Several of the passengers were on their way to Winnipeg to attend the Stanley Cup games, and some of them decided to return to Treherne.

The storm rapidly became worse as night approached, and it was found almost impossible to keep the cars warm, as the wind kept drifting the snow in through chinks and crannies. All the passengers finally assembled in the smoker to discuss ways and means, and finally it was decided to take the two ladies of the party to a farmhouse about one quarter of a mile distant, and at which they arrived safely after a most difficult trip.

The only provisions on board was the emergency ration of biscuits and canned beef, which, along with some tea, was served in the baggage car and enjoyed with much gusto by the starving passengers. The long hours of the evening were whiled away with songs, stories, recitations and votes on the referendum.

At midnight all disposed themselves to try and get a little sleep, which was difficult, owing to the low temperature. and on Sunday morning all started for the farmhouse, which offered such a picture of comfort. It was found that the house belonged to Mr. Geo. Willett, a fine type of the genial, hospitable Manitoba farmer, who made them all welcome, and provided a most acceptable breakfast. A portion of the party remained here, and on Sunday night the roadmaster and a section foreman arrived with a most acceptable supply of provisions.

On Monday the first relief train arrived but was unable to make any headway against the storm which still raged with great violence. Tuesday the wind changed to the south and with the arrival of another engine and about 100 workmen relief was finally obtained. Several of the passengers who were not sufficiently prepared for the inclement weather was rather severely frost bitten, but all were loud in their praise of the train crew who did everything in their power to help the situation and a testimonial to that effect was drawn up and presented.

RADCLIFFE IN TROUBLE.

The Hangman is Roughly Handled in Hull by Frenchmen.

A dispatch from Ottawa, dated March 19, says: Hangman Radcliffe and Jailer Moussette, of Hull, had a difference of opinion to-day, in which the sheriff also took a hand. Radcliffe arrived in Hull this morning early and presented himself to Jailer Moussette, demanding admittance to see his prisoner. Jailer Moussette refused to let him further than the jail yard, where the scaffold is erected, and to a reported stated that the hangman was intoxicated and in that condition he would not admit him, as Lacroix wished to be at peace with the world. Of course Radcliffe denied being intoxicated.

A subsequent dispatch says: Hangman Radcliffe was mobbed and badly beaten in Hull. He said that Lacroix was not going to be the last Frenchman he was going to hang. Radcliffe was taken over to Ottawa in a police patrol to save him from the crowd. His head was badly cut and had to be stiched.

STRANGE ADVENTURE

NEW YORKER'S THRILLING EXPERIENCE WITH AUSTRALIAN BUSHMEN.

HE PROCEEDS TO THE PHILIPPINES AND IS SEVERELY WOUNDED AND MAIMED FOR LIFE.

A New York dispatch says: After twelve year's imprisonment among the bushmen of Australia, Joseph J. Gill, son of the late Thomas Gill, a well known Brooklyn manufacturer, has been heard from by his family, who had mourned him as dead.

Gill left home in 1886, and in 1803 his wife, believing him dead, married again.

On August 17, 1886, Gill sailed from New York for Australia, where he had extensive mining interests. The mines were situated about 500 miles from Sidney, and Gill expected to be gone two or three years. He left behind a wife and two children. For two years letters were received regularly. His mining interests were prospering and he hoped soon to return to the United States, he wrote in his last letter. A period in which no tidings were received from Mr. Gill followed, and then came a letter from the American Consul at Sydney, N. S. W., stating that Jos. Gill, a wealthy mine operator, and four companions, had been ambushed and killed by bushmen in Australia, not far from the mines which the Brooklyn man controlled. This was the last heard from Gill until the news of his imprisonment, which has just been received, It came in the form of a letter to Inspector McLaughlin, of the Brooklyn police. The letter was dated Dagupan, Northern Luzon, Philippine Islands. The letter. which was written in November, 1901, was addressed to the chief of police of Brooklyn. It was as follows:

"In 1887 I left my home in Brooklyn for Australia, where I was held a captive in the interior by bushmen until two years ago. I then came to these islands and entered the campaign with the Macabebe Scouts. Prior to Aguinaldo's capture I was severely wounded, and I am afraid c am a cripple for life. I am now making my way back to Sydney, Australia, to my wife and child. I do not know if my mother is dead, but would be glad to know her address if she is alive, or my brothers. I shall be in Sydney by the time you receive this letter. Please address me in care of the United States consul at Sydney."

The Brooklyn police had little difficulty infinding Gill's mother. Cable messages were at once sent to Gill at Sydney. No details have yet been received concerning Gill's imprisonment among the bushmen who murdered his four companions after his escape. Gill is said to have attempted to secure information concerning his family. The private detective, whom he is said to have employed, reported that his wife was dead, and soon afterward Gill married a Sydney woman. Gill's love of adventure led to his enlistment in the Philippine service.

NEGRO POISONER.

He Put Rat Poison in the Coffee of His Master.

A dispatch from Washington, D.C., says: Dr. T. Taylor of the state board of medical examiners, and his entire family were poisoned by coffee and hash containing arsenic put there by Jas. Walker, a negro driver, who had often threatened to kill the negro nurse.

When arrested, rat poison, containing arsenic, was found in Walker's pocket. Prompt aid saved the poisoned family, all of whom were seriously ill.

The negro has confessed that he put the poison in the coffee and the hash, but "only to kill the old nurse, who had conjured him." Feeling is against the negro, and troops have been called out to protect him.

A remarkable discovery has been made in the county of Mayo, Ireland, where a wooden boat, believed to be nearly 2,000 years old, has been dug up by some laborers. They struck something hard with their shovels, and at first thought it was a coffin. Later a boat, beautifully carved from the trunk of an oak tree was revealed. It was 46 feet long and showed absolutely no signs of decay. The wood was so hard that hatchets made scarcely any impression on it. The boat will be taken to the Dublin museum.

The French budget committee has adopted unanimously a motion, recommending that postage on newspapers should be reduced to one centum—one tenth of a penny—per copy up to the weight of nearly 2 ounces.

ONE MONTH EARLIER.

Great Lakes Navigation Will Open on April 1st.

The opening of navigation on the upper great lakes will be earlier than has ever been known. Ships will be plying between Duluth and Lake Erie ports by April 1. The usual date is a month later. An opening of navigation thirty days ahead of the usual time means an addition to the capacity of the lake fleet amounting to at least 15 per cent.

The last of the recently created stock of the exchange seats at Montreal was sold to the highest bidder for $17,500, which is the record price.

KILLED IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Another of Macleod's sons has given his life for the Empire's cause in South Africa. Word was received on Saturday, says the Macleod Gazette, of the death of Frank Thompson, a member of the Canadian Scouts, who was instantly killed in a recent encounter with the Boers. He enlisted and served with the C.M.R.'s in the early part of the war, but was wounded and invalided home. He volunteered again for service with the Constabulary but owing to his former injuries was refused. His patriotic spirit not to be thwarted he succeeded in making his way to South Africa on the ship which bore the Constabulary. His former experience soon secured him recognition and he was drafted in the Canadian Scouts. Deceased was a highly respected and popular young man, and his sad demise is keenly felt by his many friends in the Macleod district. Chas. Thompson, of Macleod, is a brother of deceased.

SMALLPOX ON BOARD.

A dispatch from Ottawa says: With reference to the Victorian, which sailed from Halifax with a portion of the C. M. R.'s, and whose non-arrival at Cape Town caused some apprehension, the facts appear to be that the boat arrived some time ago at Cape Town and proceeded to Durban, where she was quarantined in consequence of smallpox on board.

The department here has no official knowledge of the facts, because the transport was entirely under the control of the Imperial authorities, through unofficial channels, and were not divulged. The outbreak of smallpox on the boat, so far as can be learned, is not of a serious character.

BOER LAAGER CAPTURED.

Advices from Pretoria says: Gen. Bruce Hamilton has captured a small Boer laager eastward of Vryheid in south eastern Yransvaal Four Boers were killed, six wounded and seventeen were made prisoners. General Botha's brother-in-law, General Emmett, was among the Boers captured.

SERIOUS CHARGE.

Joseph Zotique Lajoie, president of the Lajoie Manufacturing company, of Terrebone, Que., has been arrested charged with an attempt to shoot a detective. Magistrate Lanctot remanded Lajoie for hearing on March 26, and declined to accept bail.

C. P. R. STRIKER RELEASED.

Judge Falconbridge has released John Hays on suspended sentence. Hays was convicted of interfering with employees of the C. P. R. during the strike of June, last, at Kingston, but the jury strongly recommended him to mercy.

CHATHAM JOURNALIST DEAD.

W. E. Hamilton, son of the late Sir Wm. R. Hamilton, royal astronomer of Ireland, dropped dead in the Rankin House at Chatham, Ont. He had edited a weekly newspaper, the Market Guide, for some years, and was 68 years old.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

Jas. Leggatt, boot and shoe manufarturer, was struck by an electric car at the corner of St. Catharine and St. George streets, Montreal, and received injuries from which he died shortly afterwards. He was about 55 years of age.

A Stratford jury in the case of Benjamen Stillifant, charged at the assizes with manslaughter of a boy named McLean by knocking him down while riding a bicycle at a high rate of speed, returned a verdict of not guilty, Judge Britton so advising. Stillifant thereupon was discharged. The judge gave it as his opinion that the case was surely one of accident.

The will of the late Marquis of Dufferin, who died on Feb. 12 last, has been probated. The estate is valued at £108,548.

The estate of the late Jas. H. Beatty, of Toronto, was valued at $202,000.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT

A MOTION CALLING FOR AN INVESTIGATION INTO ALLEGED WAR SCANDALS.

CAUSES AN ACRIMONIOUS DEBATE AND IS DEFEATED BY A BIG MAJORITY.

The debate in the house of commons on March 20th on the motion of the Liberal leader, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, for the appointment of a select committee to investigate the whole commercial history of the South African war, including the contracts for the purchase of remounts, meats and forage, and the contracts for freight and transportation, called out several acrimonious exchanges of remarks.

Reginald McKenna, Liberal, commenting on the remount department declared that widespread corruption in the horse purchase had been disclosed in almost every country on the globe.

Lord Stanley, financial secretary to the war office, interrupted Mr. McKenna with an angry denial of a specific charge regarding the purchase of horses in Spain. He said the statement was maliciously false and demanded proofs of the assertion made. Mr. McKenna said he took his facts from the report of the comptroller and auditor general. The imputation of malice was wholly false, but it was only part of the bogus defence in which the government was then engaged. He quoted figures and claimed that they bore out his accusation.

Mr. Lambton, Liberal Unionist, drew Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's fire by declaring that the leader of the opposition by his reckless language, had taken from many people the consolation of feeling that their relatives who had died in South Africa had fallen honorably in the service of their country.

To this Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman replied angrily: "I give the most complete and most circumstantial denial to every word the honorable gentleman has said." This statement caused confusion in the house and cries of "Withdraw" were shouted, but Sir Henry refused to withdraw his remarks, and Mr. Lambton said his language to Sir Henry referred to "Methods of barbarians and similar talk about the concentration camps and other matters." The speaker of the house, Sir William Court Gully, interrupting exclaimed: "Both gentlemen are out of order."

Mr. Lambton, thereupon apologized, but said that utterances such as he quoted, were gravely injuring the soldiers in South Africa, and the house ought to demand an authorative declaration of the opposition's attitude upon this question.

Mr. Norton, Advanced Liberal, joined in the attack on the government. He declared that the losses on transport of each column in South Africa amounted to from £70,000 to £100,000. When challenged regarding his authority for the statement, Mr. Norton said Mr. Brodrick, the war secretary, had ordered a departmental committee to investigate the matter and had then pigeon-holed the evidence.

H. H. Asquith, Advanced Liberal, strongly supported Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's motion, which he contended was only a vote of censure because the government had chosen to make it so.

A. J. Balfour, Conservative leader of the Commons, winding up the debate argued that the acceptance of the motion would hamper military operations and give advantage to the enemy, besides creating a bad precedent.

Sir Henry's motion was rejected by a vote of 346 to 191, the big majority eliciting loud ministerial applause.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

The Publisher of the Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces in writing to us states:

I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an unfailing remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitations.

The right use of air, water, fasting and exercise will cure nearly every disease known to man or woman.

A country bumpkin of Brescia, while cleaning an egg, discovered in its stomach a large black pearl, which has been purchased by a Milan jeweller for £1,500.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto, have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market.

In Java there is an orchid, the grammatophyllum, all the flowers of which open at once, as if by the stroke of a fairy wand, and they also all wither together.

Differences of Opinion regarding the popular internal and external remedy, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—do not, so far as known, exist. The testimony is positive and concurrent that the article relieves physical pain, cures lameness, checks a cough, is an excellent remedy for pains and rheumatic complaints, and it has no nauseating or other unpleasant effect when taken internally.

The odour from burning leather is considered a protection against infectious disease. During the prevalence of cholera in Vienna, years ago, no shoemaker was attacked. They prevented it by burning scraps of leather in their houses.

Bickle's Anti-Consumption Syrup stands at the head of the list for all diseases of the throat and lungs. It acts like magic in breaking up a cold. It is a medicine prepared from the active principles or virtues of several medicinal herbs, and can be depended upon for all pulmonary complaints.

A LONG SILENCE.

A woman named Marie Eska has just died at Spring Valley, in the State of New York, who for thirty years lived with her husband without exchanging a single word with him. This long silence was the result of a vow voluntarily taken.

NERVOUS TROUBLE

MAKES LIFE A SOURCE OF CONSTANT MISERY.

The Sufferer is Constantly Tired and Depressed, Will Startle at the Slightest Noise, and Is Easily Irritated.

There is no torture more acute and intolerable than nervousness. A nervous person is in a state of constant irritation by day and sleeplessness by night. The sufferer starts at every noise; is oppressed by a feeling that something awful is going to happen; is shaky, depressed, and although in a constantly exhausted state, is unable to sit or lie still.

If you are nervous or worried, or suffer from a combination of langour and constant irritation, you need a nerve food and nerve tonic, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are absolutely the best thing in the world for you. You will find after taking them that your feelings of distress and worry are being rapidly replaced by strength, confidence and a feeling that you are on the road to full and complete health and strength. Get rid of your nervousness in the only possible way—by building up strong, steady nerves.

Miss Ina Poucet, Bathurst, N. B., says: "Words fail me to adequately express what I owe to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was attacked by la grippe, the after effects of which took the form of nervous exhaustion. The least noise would startle me and I would tremble for some time. I used several medicines, but they did not help me, and as time went on I was growing worse and was so nervous that I was afraid to remain alone in a room. I slept badly at night and would frequently awake with a start that would compel me to scream. The trouble told on me to such an extent that my friends feared for my recovery. At this time my aunt urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after using eight boxes I was completely restored to health. I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life and I sincerely hope my experience will benefit some other sufferer."

These pills never fail to restore health and strength in cases like the above. They make new, rich blood with every dose, strengthen the nerves and thus drive disease from the system. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a certain cure for rheumatism, sciatica, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance, indigestion, kidney and liver troubles, and the ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery. Bright eyes, rosy cheeks, and an elastic step is certain to follow a fair use of this medicine. Be sure that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," is on every box you buy. All others are imitations. If you do not find these pills at your dealers' they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MARKET REVIEW.

(Compiled from The Commercial)

WHEAT.

We have to record another week of dull trade and declining prices in the wheat markets. There is still no radical change in the situation in regard to present or prospective supply and demand, or prospects for coming crops, but the speculative markets in the States lack the support of buyers, and are weakened by wheat bought at much higher prices some time ago, being continually let go by tired holders, and also by offerings made by professionals who consider the selling side the safe one. The course of these markets have been up a little one day and down again the next, but the result is a decline of 1¼c. on the week. During the last two days a notable increase in export sales is reported from the Atlantic seaboard, showing that, as the price dips down, European buyers are ready to take advantage of the situation and increase their supplies.

During the week the market for Manitoba wheat has been mostly dull, but on Wednesday and Thursday the decline in American markets induced some letting go on the part of large firms, and exporters took considerable wheat at the decline. There has not been much change in prices from a week ago, until Friday, a decline of ½c to ¾c was shown, and we quote values of 1 Northern, 70½c and 2 Northern, 67½ in store at Fort William, Port Arthur or Duluth, March delivery. For May delivery, 1 Northern, 72½c, and 2 Northern, 69c.

COUNTRY WHEAT—The storm and bad roads have stopped farmers' deliveries to a great extent and we note a light movement this week. Prices range from 55 to 60c per bushel for best wheat to farmers.

Liverpool Prices.—No. 1 northern spring wheat sold at Liverpool on Saturday at 6s 1d.

FLOUR—Standard brands are as follows: Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $1.95 per sack of 98 lbs.; Glenora Patent, $1.80; Alberta, $1.60; Manitoba, $1.40; Imperial XXXX, $1.20

MILLFEED—Bran, in bulk, per ton $14.50; shorts, $16.50. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is quoted at $27 per ton delivered to the trade; barley chop, $22 per ton; mixed barley and oats, $25 per ton; oil cake, $27 per ton.

OATS—There are plenty of oats coming to meet all demands and prices are steady at last week's range. Reports from Quebec where most of the surplus of western oats is being shipped say that the market there is easier. Seed oats are being freely enquired for but so far there has been very little actual buying done. Sellers are asking 45 to 50c per bus. for seed oats; 35 to 36c bushel for feed grades in car lots on track in Winnipeg. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 28 to 31c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—There is but very little doing in barley here. The market is firmer and we quote now 37c to 38c per bushel of 48 pounds for feed grades, and 40c per bushel for malting, on track in Winnipeg.

HAY—The market for hay is dead. Offerings are large and owing to poor roads, etc., there is but little demand. The general idea of the value is $4.50 per ton for fresh baled on track. Loose hay is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS—Beef is very firm owing to prevailing scarcity of cattle. We quote: Beef, city dressed, 7 to 8c per pound; country, ½c under these prices; veal, 8 to 9c; mutton, 8c; lambs, 8c; hogs, 7½c.

POULTRY—Demand is good, and all offerings are readily taken by dealers at figures we give. Quotations are: Fresh killed chickens, 11 to 12½c per pound, delivered here; ducks and geese, 10 to 11c; and turkeys, 12½ to 14c.

BUTTER—Creamery—Winnipeg buyers are paying 24 to 26c per lb. net for their supplies at present.

BUTTER — Dairy — Dealers say they have never known butter to be so scarce as it is at present. That is good butter. Inferior grades are not wanted and no interest is being taken in them. Wholesale dealers are paying 20c per pound, commission basis, for fine butter in tubs, bricks or prints; 16 to 17c for ordinary qualities. Seconds are only worth 10 to 12c per pound, and some of the receipts do not bring that much.

CHEESE—Jobbers are getting 11½ to 12½c per pound for cheese. Stocks now in hand are from Ontario.

EGGS—Quotations are still in the neighborhood of 12½c per dozen for fresh candled eggs, commission basis, here. Dealers are advising their country customers not to pay more than 10c per dozen for eggs at country points.

POTATOES—Farmers' loads, delivered in Winnipeg, are worth 20 to 30c per bushel.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—Beef cattle are very scarce and butchers cannot secure enough to supply their wants. In view of this fact prices have been advanced ¼c this week, and we quote now for best cattle 4¾c per pound. From 4 to 4½c is paid for commoner sorts. Buyers are out through the country looking for stockers, and we understand that everything in sight is being taken at prices which average about $14 per head for yearlings and from $18 to $20 for two year olds.

HOGS—The market is steady at 6c per pound for choice packing hogs delivered at Winnipeg.

SHORE IS ACQUITTED

DID NOT ASSAULT HIS WIFE AS CHARGED

Deceased Was the Aggressor in all the Family Rows Disclosed at the Trial on Friday.

That Robert Shore was more sinned against than sinning was the conclusion arrived at by most of those who heard the evidence yesterday in the charge of assult which was preferred against him by the provincial police. Shore and his wife conducted a boarding house at the mine. They did not get on well together and quarrels were frequent. Six weeks ago they had a couple of quarrels, knowledge of which did not reach the police for some time later. The woman was taken ill and was removed to the Cranbrook hospital where she died. The report at once became current that her death was due to injuries she had received at the hands of her husband, and upon Shore being arrested in was surmised, aud so reported, that he was held for murder. This report was not warranted by the facts, and the FREE PRESS regrets having given publicity to it.

The post-mortem upon the body of Mrs. Shore, which was made at Cranbrook, for Corner Moffatt, by Drs. King and Doherty, disclosed the fact that the deceased died from an obstruction to one of the blood vessels in the brain, said obstruction having originated in the heart, producing embolism.

In view of the report of the doctors making the post-mortem the jury brought in a verdict to the effect that the deceased came to her death from natural causes as a result of heart disease.

Robert Shore, who was taken to Cranbrook to attend the inquest, was then charged with assault and returned to Fernie. He entrusted his defence to Ross & Alexander who secured his release upon furnishing $100 bail.

When the charge of assault was taken up before magistrate Armstrong yesterday, W R. Ross appeared for the defence. Officer Barnes, who had charge of the prosecution, had but one witness. He gave his name as Edward Coursey, and said he was employed at the Shore boarding house in the capacity of cook. On the morning of February 18th he found Shore sitting in a chair, in his cook house, which was also used by the Shores as a sleeping apartment. Shore complained that his wife had refused to allow him to sleep in the bed that night. Shortly after he came into the room the two began quarreling and cursing each other. Finally the woman said: "Bob I will not stand that any more, you have cursed me enough." She then ran over and commenced striking Shore in the face with her fists. While she was thus assaulting him Shore fell out of the chair breaking the fall with one hand on the floor. Shore was acting upon the defensive, and when he regained his feet retreated backwards from his wife towards the bed. Mrs. Shore pushed him over the bed and renewed the assault. There was some wrestling upon the bed, but the witness professed his inability to say whether Shore was striking at his wife or merely trying to hold her hands. After a time witness heard the woman say: "Bob if you will let me up I will behave myself." Shore then allowed the woman to get up, when she went over to the cooking table, used by the witness, and, taking up a lighted lamp threw it at Shore, striking him. The oil set fire to the floor and witness put it out with a sack. Mrs. Shore then seized the rolling pin and attacked Shore with it, striking him several times. The witness them interfered and the fight was stopped. The witness did not see any marks on the woman after the tracas.

To Mr. Ross, under cross-examination, the witness added that the following day Shore returned to the house with one of his hands in a sling, and after some more quarreling Mrs. Shore started at him with a butcher knife, slashing at him but failing to hit him. On the same day Mrs. Shore's son assaulted his step father and Shore decided to quite the house, which he did, his wife giving him his clother.

The magistrate said there was no case against the prisoner and dismissed it.

A. C. Liphardt, secretary of the local baseball team, has received a communication from the secretary of the Medicine Hat club, suggesting the organization of a league consisting of Calgary, Cardston, Moosejaw, Medicine Hat, Pincher Creek, Macleod, Cranbrook and Fernie. While it may be doubted that all of the places mentioned could keep up their ends in a series of league contests throughout the season, it cannot be gainsaid that from among the eight points suggested material could be drawn for a strong and evenly balanced team. The local lovers of ball realize the assistance a league organization gives in stimulating interest in the game throughout the season and a meeting will be held for the purpose of considering the Medicine Hat proposal and presenting Fernie's views upon it.

SMITH WOULD LIKE IT

AFTER FERNIE LIBERALS NOMINATION

He Will Make a Fight Against the Following of Joseph Martin the Next Elections

E. C. Smith, M.P.P., arrived in Fernie on Tuesday evening, and, after spending a day in talking politics with the local Liberals, left on the Thursday morning's train. It is now announced that Mr. Smith will seek the Liberal nomination for the Fernie riding in the next provincial election. This much was conceded by a prominent Liberal on Thursday, in talking with a FREE PRESS representative. He intimated that Mr Smith had expressed a preference to represent the Fernie riding, and in his opinion the sitting member would be the choice of a Liberal convention, as there was no other Liberal candidate in sight. Since he had been in the house he said Mr. Smith had been in full sympathy with the Liberal organization of Fernie, and the records of the local association contain a number of resolutions reciting the confidence of the members in him.

The FREE PRESS representative was also assured that if Mr. Smith made the race it would be as an out-and-out opponent of Joseph Martin, as the Fernie Liberals did not consider themselves bound by the action of the recent convention in Vancouver in crowning "Fighting Joe" as leader. As to the present political outlook Mr. Smith professed to have no special knowledge. It might be that Martin would withdraw his support from the government, in which case it would fall, but there was no satisfactory assurance that Martin would break his present alliance, and for this reason any attempt at fixing a date for the election was altogether speculative.

The changes made in the boundaries of the Fernie district, at the instance of Mr. Smith, were in line with the recommendations of the local Liberal Association, and those of the Fernie Board of Trade. As it will be constituted the district will consist of that portion of the old riding lying east of the Kootenay river between the international boundary and its junction with the Bull river. and south and east of the Bull river from its junction with the Kootenay to its headwaters, and a line drawn north east from said headwaters to the northern boundary of the old riding. The chief result of this change is the cutting of Fort Steele out of the Fernie district. The reasons for this is manifold In the first place the boundaries as changed will make Fernie a destinctive coal mining district, while all the metalliferous mining sections of the old riding will be included in the Cranbrook district. By this means it is hoped to secure greater consideration for Fernie's claim for recognition in the way of government offices than might be expected if Fort Steele, the present seat of government for South East Kootenay, were left within the boundaries of the Fernie district.

It may be expected that the announcement of Mr. Smith's intention to seek election in Fernie will rouse the Conservatives to action, as there is considerable uncertainty as to when the elections will be brought on. To several of them the present trip of Mr. Smith to Fernie is regarded as nothing short of an attempt to get his political fences in order, and into which they read the probability of an early appeal to the province. They are already referring to the aspiring member as an outsider and a carpet-bagger, a designation which his Liberal supporters denounce as unfair and untrue.

HAS A NEW BRIGADE

WILL TRY TO CUT DOWN FIRE RISKS

Fred Stork Refuses to Stand for Re-Election as Chief, and Charles Henderson is Appointed.

Fernie is having another attack of the fire department fever this week, and before it runs its course the town appliances for fighting fire can count upon being put into good shape. The meeting of the citizens, called for Wednesday evening, for the purpose of re-organizing the fire department and discussing matters incidental to fighting fires, was well attended although it was somewhat late before it got down to business.

D. V. Mott was aked to take the chair, and J. R. Wallace to act as secretary. The chairman in outlining the object for which the meeting was called dropped a hint that something more lively than a discussion of fire matters might be expected if time permitted. He remarked incidentially that E. C. Smith, M. P. P., the districts representative in the provincial legislature, had arrived in Fernie on the previous evening and had already a conference with the executive of the Board of Trade. The chairman added that he understood Mr. Smith would be present, and that in addition to discussing fire matter the views of Fernie's citizens would be invited upon the railway policy of the Dunsmuir government, as outlined in the recent proposals respecting the Coast-to-Kootenay and Canadian Northern railway subsidies. It was late, however, before the fire matters were disposed of, and the audience was then in no humor to take up politics.

Fred Stork was the first speaker, he was nominally chief of the department, but said the brigade had virtually passed out of existence. The business before the meeting therefore called for the formation of a new organization. He considered the maintenance of a good fire brigade a very essential thing. While everybody knew that Fernie had been one of the most fortunate towns in British Columbia with the respect of fire losses, it could not be expected that the present good fortune would always stay with it. He therefore moved that the meeting proceed to re-organize the fire brigade, and that nominations for the office of chief be in order. This being assented to nominations were proceeded with.

Charles Henderson was nominated by "Judge" Trites, and Fred Stork was nominated by W. Bryson, seconded by L. Dobbin. The last named declined the nomination. He said he had served three years in a similar capacity, and did not consider that he had made any howling success of it. He therefore hailed with pleasure the nomination of officer Henderson, and suggested that it be made unanimous. This was done and nominations were then received for assistant-chief.

Geo. Cody was placed in nomination by Fred Stork and A. H. Cree; Robert Kerr was nominated by J. Bryson and A. K. Farquharson; and J. Falconer by J. R. Wallace and Robert Kerr. The three went to ballot which resulted in the election of George Cody, the votes standing Cody 10, Falconer 6 and Kerr 5.

Fred Stork here suggested that the further work of completing the organiza should be left to the chief and his assistants, that an adjournment should be taken, and that in the meantime an effort should be made to get as many to join the organization as possible?

It was decided to call for volunteers from those present when the following expressed their willingness to serve on the brigade;—F. Stork, A. B. Trites. J. Bryson, A. H. Cree, A. K. Farquharson, W. R. Ross, Robert Kerr, H. H. Trites, Wm. McDougall, Jas. Falconer, F. J. Watson, Dr. Higgins, L. Dobbin, M. Kastner, A. Thompson, M. Moran, Geo. Cody, J. Wilcox, J. P. Wallace, D. V. Mott, J. S. T. Alexander and R. A. Renwick.

Respecting the fire appliances on hand Fred Stork reported that there were about 1200 feet of hose, some 25 buckets, the complement of rope, four ladders and three or four axes.

J. S. T. Alexander reported that a small cash balance of the department's had been handed over to him. He was thereupon appointed secretary-treasurer of the brigade.

Discussion was then invited as to what program should be followed for the future, whether an effort should be made to erect a fire hall, or some other steps taken to prevent possible conflagration. A. H Cree spoke in favor of building fire walls in two or three of the business blocks. The cost of these walls he estimated at $2,000 each, and, in the case of the chief business block, the saving in insurance rates in 18 months would more than repay the first outlay. The building of fire walls he considered the most profitable for the insured.

Chairman Mott for the information of the meeting announced that he had been talking the matter over with Thomas Stockett, general superintendent of the Crow's Nest Coal Company, who had informed him that the company intended to experd $18,000 this year in improving the water service. He had not gone into details very much, but his recollection of the matter was that the service would have a new intake some two miles above the mine, that the water would be conveyed to town in a 12-inch main, and that the present mains in the commercial portion of the town would also be increased. There was some further discussion, after which an adjournment was taken until Wednesday evening, at the call of Chief Henderson.

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED

FRED WILDMAN'S BREACH OF LICENCE ACT

Inspector Says He is Determined to Enforce the Sunday Closing Law to the Fullest Extent.

Fred Wildman, a porter employed at the Fernie hotel, was charged before S. M. Armstrong last evening with an infraction of the Liquor License Act, in that he sold liquor at the Fernie between the hours of 12 o'clock on Saturday night last and one o'clock Sunday morning, legal time. Wildman entered a plea of guilty, but explained that the offence was not intentional. He said his instructions from the proprietor were that he should not open the bar before two o'clock, railroad time, but he sold a drink at 25 minutes to the hour, not knowing he was ahead of time. Officer Barnes, who conducted the prosecution as license inspector, asked the court to impose a severe penalty. He said the reputable element in the town were desirous of having the Sunday closing of saloons observed, but he was experiencing much difficulty in securing the law's enforcement. The magistrate imposed a fine of $40, or in default two month's imprisonment.

PROHIBITION IS REJECTED.

While complete returns have not yet been received of the referrandum vote taken upon the Manitoba liquor act, it is conceded that the temperance people have lost the fight. All the centres of population declared against the prohibition law, and in the city of Winnipeg, the antis secured a majority of 3,367 in a total vote of 8,267. The voting in the outside districts is not known as yet, but it is not thought that it will more than overcome the adverse vote of the centers, exclusive of the capital, leaving close upon 4,000 of and adverse majority. The negative vote in the cities was heavier than was anticipated, and owing to the almost impassible state of the roads in the the outlying sections the prohibition vote will be very much cut down. There was great jubiliation in Winnipeg, on Wednesday evening by the opponents of the measure, when the result of the polling was announced.

As the time approaches for the meeting of Whalen and Jim Milan, on Monday, 21st inst., interest in the bout increases. While, so far as known, neither man has had much experince in contests for decisions, it is conceded that Whalen is very handy, and that his sparring experience will serve him well. Milan is a Scotch miner, and his friends say he can be depended upon to give a good account of himself. The contest is for a purse of $200, 20 rounds, for a decision.

BULLOCK HANGED.

HE MURDERED LEON STAINTON, AND DIED PROTESTING HIS INNOCENCE.

THE HISTORY OF THE CRIME AND THE CLEVER WORK OF THE POLICE.

Fort Saskatchewan, N.W.T., March 26.—C. B. Bullock was executed at the police barracks here this morning at 7 a. m. for the murder of Leon Stainton, on April 26, 1901. Death was instantaneous. Bullock made no confession, declaring his innocence to the last.

Since his arrival at the police barsacks here he has been visited daily by Rev. G. C. Deasum, Anglican clergyman, and the Rev. A. Aldridge, Methodist minister. The latter was with him at the execution. It was thought a few days ago that Bullock would make some statement as to the crime, of which he was found guilty, but in spite of the earnest efforts of the two ministers mentioned above, he refused to discuss the subject at all. Much sympathy is felt for Bullock's father, who visited his son last evening.

BULLOCK'S CRIME.

Charles Bullock was hanged for the murder of Leon Stainton, in the Battle River country, in April last. The dead youth, Leon Stainton, had left his home in Kalamazoo, Mich., to take a position with the Union Pacific railway at Aspen, Wyo. There he met Charles Bullock, a young man from his state of Michigan. Bullock's parents lived on a farm in the Battle River district, of Alberta, N. W. T., and they had written to their son to come there and get land. Bullock asked Stainton, who was barely nineteen years old, to accompany him. When they left Aspen Bullock had $42 and Stainton $220. The two started together, but Bullock reached his home alone. He had plenty of money when he arrived, and gave his family $55, more than he had when he left Aspen. He stayed only three days, going away to British Columbia, as he said. Instead he went to Montana and changed his name. Two months later a body was found half buried in a bluff, near the Bullock farm. The body was identified as that of Stainton, and after weeks of hard work the police revealed the whole story. A long search located Bullock at Great Falls, Montana, where he was arrested and brought back to Edmonton. A trial resulted in his conviction and the death sentence.

CECIL RHODES DEAD.

Cape Town, March 26.—Cecil Rhodes died to-day peacefully at 5.57 p. m. He slept during the afternoon but his breathing became more difficult and his strength perceptibly diminished until he passed away.

DEFAULTER CAUGHT.

Detective Titus, of New York, received a telegram from Philadelphia announcing the arrest there of Morris Schwartz, who was accused of defrauding the Seventh National Bank of New York out of $80,000.

COUNTERFEITERS NABBED.

United States secret service agents report that a large counterfeiting plant was raided at Corona, Long Island, and that five men were arrested. The counterfeiters were imitating $5 gold pieces when the officers appeared.

POLICE CHIEF DISMISSED.

General Cameau, the chief of police at Port au Prince, Hayti, who was directly responsible for the immediate execution of Leon Gabriel, the French citizen who fired a revolver at him, March 22, has been dismissed by request of the French government. This closes the incident.

SEALING REPORTS.

The steamer Leopard has arrived at St. John's, Nfld., from the seal fishery, loaded with 12,000 seals. She brings a much better report from the sealing fleet than the steamer Newfodndland brought on Monday. The reports of the Leopard account for about 120,000 seals so far.

WILL DIE BY ELECTRICITY.

Albert T. Patrick, lawyer, of New York, has been convicted of the murder of the elderly millionaire recluse, Wm. Marsh Rice, on September 23, 1900. The penalty under the statue is death in the electric chair. A scant three hours of deliberation at the close of a trial prolonged for nine weeks and replete with sensational interest, sufficed to enable the jury to reach their verdict. The issue of the trial establishes the charge that Patrick conspired with Rice's valet, Charles F. Jones, ta obtain possession of the Texan's estate, estimated at $7,000,000, and that Jones killed his employer by the administration of chloroform at the direct instigation of Patrick.

A FOURTH CONTINGENT.

Dominion Government Has Made Another Offer of 2,000 Men to Imperial Authorities.

Ottawa, March 25.— The Dominion government has offered a fourth contingent to go to South Africa to aid the cause of the empire.

It is understood that this contingent is to be the largest on record. If the Imperial authorities accept Canada will forward with the utmost despatch 2,000 men. As to the composition of the force, that will depend entirely upon the wish of the war oKce. In this as in regard to the contingents that have already been sent to the front Canada will carry out the desire of the home authorities believing that in doing so she will be acting in the best interests of the empire. There is every reason to believe that the war office will ask that the greater proportion of the number offered will be mounted infantry. But as to the details of the force, that cannot be decided until an acceptance of the offer has been received.

The contingent will, no doubt, be raised the same way as the last one. Canada will supply the men and the department of militia will outfit and equip the contingent while Great Britain will, no doubt, insist, as it did in the last instance, in recouping the Dominion for the cost. There will be no difficulty in getting all the men necessary. Indeed there will be far more recruits than positions.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau on the lakes indicate that the ice at the Straits of Macinac will break up between April 5 and 10, and that St. Mary's river can be opened up by April 1 if the present warm weather continues.

SOUTH AFRICAN SITUATION.

Sir George Goldie's Ideas are Decidedly Pessimistic.

London, March 25.—Sir George Goldie, (vice-president of the royal Geographical society and founder of a thorough investigation of South Nigeriap), who has just returned from Africa, where he conferred with Lord Milner, Lord Kitchener, Cecil Rhodes, Sir Walter Hely-Hutchinson, the governor of the Cape of Good Hope, and numbers of the other influential men, brings home rather pessimistic ideas of the general situation from a British point of view. The conditions in Cape Colony he regards as especially dangerous, and he considers that the most serious British difficulties will be encountered there in the future as at present.

In the course of an interview with a representative of the Associated Press Sir George Goldie, while recognizing the possible importance of acting President Schalkburger's step, said he was convinced that the question of peace or war rests in the hands of President Steyn, and that Mr. Kruger and the other Boers in Europe, no longer represent Boer opinion. The real difficulty in the path of peace, he believes, is the question of granting amnesty to the Cape and Natal rebels, and, Sir George says, the vague promises of the British government have not the slightest weight while the fighting burghers are in their present state of mind. Sir George Goldie advocates granting amnesty to the rebels but he insists that every one must be disfranchised for life. This, he claims, would go far towards allaying the bitterness of the loyalists.

Sir George deprecates any attempt to permit the use of a dual language He says English alone must be the official language, and adds that the actual fact that practically the whole of the rising generations of the two republics are now in the concentration camps and are rapidly learning English, will be of great aid in this direction. He estimates that 100,000 armed men will be needed in South Africa for some years after the conclusion of peace. Sir George Goldie failed to meet any Boers who yet recognized that they had been finally beaten, though some of them admitted that they had been temporarily over-weighted by numbers.

ATTACK ON DELARY.

Lord Kitchener Reports the Capture of Guns and Prisoners.

A dispatch from London dated March 26 says: Incomplete reports of the result of the combined movement of British columns against Gen Delary have enabled Lord Kitchener to announce the capture of about a hundred prisoners, three fifteen pounders, two pom poms and quantities of stock and wagons. General Delary appears to have successfully evaded Lord Kitchener's cordon at the offset.

In a dispatch from Pretoria Lord Kitchener says: "At dusk on the evening of March 23, the combined movement against Delary was undertaken by columns of mounted men, without guns or impediments of any sort. The columns started from Commando Drift, on the Vaal river, and travelled rapidly all night and at dawn March 24, occupied positions along the line, from the Commando Drift to the Lichtenburg blockhouse line.

The troops moved rapidly eastward, keeping a continuous line, with the object of driving the enemy against the blockhouses or forcing action. The result has not yet been fully reported. Kekewich's column, after the commencement of the action, captured three fifteen pounders, two pom poms, nine prisoners and a hundred mules, carts and wagons, and a thousand cattle. The troops covered eighty miles in twenty-four hours. The total number of prisoners is 135."

BRAKEMAN KILLED.

A sad accident occurred at Moose Jaw on March 26. A young man by the name of Skipworth, acting as brakeman on the train going east, was down on the track attending to the coupling of two parts of the train that were being brought together. By some means his head was caught between the cars, and he was instantly killed. He had come from Bsandon the same morning on a heavy section of number one. He is an Englishman, and has friends in Brandon.

and 8 p. m., and in the rural municipalities as in municipal elections. That is, in the cities, Winnipeg and Brandon, voters will be allowed to register their ballots between the hours of 9 a. m. and 8 p. m. The hours for voting on the referendum will be the same in the cities and outside municipalities as in municipal elections.

An official bulletin on the subject of the cholera at Mecca and Medina admits that 1,196 deaths from that disease have occurred at the two cities mentioned.

CECIL RHODES' SECRET.

The London Daily Mail says it is in a position to assert that Cecil Rhodes left the bulk of his fortune, outside of some personal and family bequests, to the promotion of his vast imperial plan of education. This project embraces every land where the Union Jack flies. Its purpose is the intellectual betterment of the British race throughout the world and the fostering of the imperial sentiment. The Daily Mail adds that this idea of better fitting "Younger Britain" to cope successfully with rival nationalities was long a dominant scheme with Cecil Rhodes, but that even his closest friends little imagined the absorbing hold it obtained upon him until this was disclosed by the terms of his will. The details of this plan of education will be made public in a few days.

Cecil Rhodes left the Dalham Hall estate at New Market to his brother, Col. Francis W. Rhodes. This estate was purchased by Cecil Rhodes last December.

FUNERAL PREPARATIONS

The coffin containing the body of Cecil Rhodes will be conveyed to the parliament buildings at Cape Town during the morning of April 3, and will lie in state in the vestibule till three in the afternoon, when it will be removed to the Anglican cathedral, where the first portion of the burial service will be read. The funeral procession will afterwards traverse the principal streets of Cape Town to the railroad station. Then the coffin will be taken by special train to Bulwayo, stopping for a short time at Kimberly. Only a few intimate friends will accompany the body to Bulwayo. The coffin, during the funeral procession at Cape Town, will be carried on the gun carriage of "Long Cecil," the famous gun used at the seige of Kimberly.

PIANO MAKER DEAD.

Henry Newcombe, of the piano firm of Octavius Newcombe & Co., Toronto, died on March 28 accidently, in a room of a house on Bond street, in which he lived, the residence of his sister. In the house were two gas jets, one for a stove, the stop for which was close to that for light and which had been accidently partly turned on. Deceased was found dead in this room. He was aged 72 and unmarried.

KILLED WHILE FISHING.

A strange fatality occurred in Gorrie, Ont., on March 28, which resulted in the death of Henry Sanderson, a contractor of this place. He was in the act of fishing near the bridge, when his fishing pole came in contact with a live electric wire, and as a consequence he was instantly killed. Deceased was in his forty-second year and leaves a widow and family of three.

POSTAL CLERK MISSING.

The family and friends of Arthur Lindsay, chief clerk of the post office department at Ottawa, are considerably exercised over his mysterious disappearance from the city. He has not been seen or heard of since ehe morning of Friday, March 21, when he left his home, going as usual to the office. Mr. Lindsay had a considerable sum of money on his person, which leads his people to think that he may have met with foul play. Search has been made for him but without avail. He had apparently been laboring of late under some mental aberration which adds to the anxiety of those who knew him.

RUSSIAN PRINCES HANGED.

In a dispatch from St. Petersburg the correspondent there of the London daily mail says that news has been received from Kutais, Transcaucasia, that three Russian nobles Prince Kionaaz, Prince Valerian and Prince Zulukidz—were executed on March 3 for the murder of over 100 persons. The trials of the princes lasted for two weeks. They were the leaders of a widespread bandit organization which had terrorized the Caucasus by systematic robbery, arson and murder.

WINNIPEG ASSIZES

THE GALICIAN MURDERER SENTENCED TO HANG ON MAY 27.

JOHN CONNOLLY, AN OLD OFFENDER, GETS SEVEN YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY.

Winnipeg, March 25.— At the spring assizes yesterday Saloman, the Galician who murdered his wife at Stuartburn, Man., was sentenced to be hang ed on May 27. The prisoner was much affected, and plead for mercy.

John Connolly, convicted for robbery with assault, received a ten year sentence in the penitentiary. Connolly, had, just previous to his arrest on the present charge, been released from the penitentiary where he had been serving a sentence for a brutal assault on a woman. The prisoner thanked the judge for the sentence.

W. McMillan, found guilty of uttering a forged cheque, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

John Gilhouse for stealing the sum of $8 from a farmer asleep in a Winnipeg restaurant, was sentenced to three months hard labor.

One O'Grady, charged with the theft of a cow from a man named Coulter, of Tyndall, Man., received six months hard labor.

SERIOUS STABBING AFFRAY.

In a Winnipeg Saloon Fracas a Negro Stabs a White Man.

A stabbing affray which may prove to be a case of murder, took place in the Arlington hotel, Winnipeg, on Monday evening. Anderson Martin, a colored man, drew a knife and viciously stabbed William Skelly, a white man, and the latter was found to be seriously, and possibly fatally injured.

The trouble started io an altercation between Skelly and the negro, and, after some words, blows were exchanged, and the colored man was apparently getting the worst of the argument, when he drew a knife and drove it with great force into Skelly's side. He repeated the blow quickly, this time the steel blade finding a lodging place in his breast, and with a third blow, he drove the knife deep into the abdomen. Before those standing around could lay hands on him, Martin ran back through the dining room of the hotel and out by a back door. He then ran down a lane, and made his way to a house where he boards. He was arrested.

REVOLTING SUICIDE.

Jacob Wolf, a porter at a Winnipeg hotel committed suicide. The deed was most deliberate and was surrounded by revolting details. The man cut his throat in the dining room of the hotel and there was hardly a square inch of the room free from the stains of the blood that spurted from the wound in fearful floods. No reason for the act has been discovered.

OGILVIE MILLING CO. SOLD.

Negotiations have been completed for the sale of the Ogilvie Milling company to Charles R. Hosmer, of Montreal, and F. W. Thompson, of Winnipeg. The latter is at present general manager of the company at Winnipeg, The company, who are the largest millers in Canada, was founded by the late W. H. Ogilvie, of Montreal, who, on his death, was succeeded in his interests by his sons. The deal is understood to involve between three and four million dollars.

HARD ON THE MAYOR.

A Woman Uses a Whip on the Chief Magistrate of Topeka, Kan.

A dispatch from Topeka, Kan., says:—Miss Blanche Bose, a protege of Mrs. Nation, horsewhipped Mayor Parker in his office at the city hall today. Three times she slashed the mayor and then he sprang at her, tore the rawhide out of her hands and pushed her into the hall. Before beginning her horsewhipping Miss Bose gave the mayor a severe scolding and accused him of being responsible for the fact that the joints are running openly in Topeka.

When seen by reporters after the affair, Mayor Parker refused to discuss it. The woman who whipped him talked freely. She said: "I was in sympathy with Mrs. Nation, but did not take part in her raids. I have come to the conclusion that the only way to make public officers enforce the temperance laws is to horsewhip them. I have an organization behind me and we have whips for Governor Stanley and Judge Hazen. I think it is a good plan."

EVOLUTION OF PRIVATE KELLY.

Private Kelly, of the 2nd Battalion Northumberland Fusiliers, is officially dead and buried. The war office says so, and it ought to know. Yet there is joy in Kelly's home at Byker, for Private Kellyis alive and in the flesh—unofficially, of course. Word was sent from Nooitgedacht, after the fight on December 13, 1900 that Kelly had been killed. However, it was the wrong Kelly who had been buried with military honors on the field, and so Private Kelly is home, alive and well, even though a disgusted insurance company has paid over the amount due upon his death.

The Publisher of the Best Farmer's paper in the Maritime Provinces in writing to us states :

I would say that I do not know of a medicine that has stood the test of time like MINARD'S LINIMENT. It has been an unfailing remedy in our household ever since I can remember, and has outlived dozens of would-be competitors and imitations.

Fever and ague and bilious derangements are positively cured by the use of Parmelee's Pills. They not only cleanse the stomach and bowels from all bilious matter, but they open the excretory vessels, causing them to pour copious effusions from the blood into the bowels, after which the corrupted mass is thrown out by the natural passage of the body. They are used as a general family medicine with the best results.

It doesn't matter how pretty a girl looks at the piano; if she does not sound well it spoils the effect.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Artist and Plowman.

Artists have many amusing and some unpleasant experiences when trespassing in pursuit of subjects for their art. When Mr. Boughton once saw a man plowing in a field, he climbed the dividing wall and began to sketch him. This was too much for the involuntary model, who strode up to the artist and said, "Do you know what I could do with you?" "I haven't the slightest idea," Mr. Boughton answered, with a smile.

"Well," the burly plowman said. "I could chuck you into the road." "You'd better not do that," Mr. Boughton retorted. "Why not go back to your plow, and I'll whistle for you in half an hour?"

To Mr. Boughton's surprise the man obeyed and half an hour later was duly summoned to inspect the finished picture. "How much will they give you for that?" he asked after critically surveying the sketch. "Oh, about £10!" the artist answered. "Well, I'm hanged!" the astonished plowman said, scratching his head in perplexity. "I have to plow two months before I can earn as much as that."—Tit-Bits.

"Well, why don't you go too? Business is not rushing just now."

"Oh, I've got to stay at home," said Blank, in tones betraying deep disgust. "Somebody's got to be there to empty the bucket under the drip pipe of that dod burned refrigerator."

ASTONISHING PROGRESS

MEDICAL SCIENCE HAS ADVANCED BY LEAPS AND BOUNDS.

Now an Absolute Cure for Rheumatism has been Discovered—It is no Experiment, having been Successfully Proven in Many of the Very Worst and Apparently Helpless Cases.

Sundridge, Ont., March 29. (Special).—Physicians and others who study the treatment and cure of disease have been greatly interested in the case of Mr. Wm. Doeg, a farmer living in Strong Township about four miles from here.

Mr. Doeg had Rheumatism so bad as to be a cripple for years and was completely cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

In order to verify the report he was visited at his home and the following signed statement of the facts secured :—

"For four years I suffered excruciating torture. I was scarcely an hour free from pain. The trouble commenced in my back where it often remained stationary for months, and so intense was the pain that I could not lie down or take rest, but had to sit night and day in a chair.

"The pain would then move to other parts of my body and when in my knees I was unable to walk and confined to my room.

"I was treated by several doctors and also tried many medicines without receiving any benefit. Almost in despair I feared I would never again experience the pleasure of being free from painf

"My attention was at last directed to some remarkable cures of Rheumatism by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I bought a box and began to use them. I soon found that they were helping me a little and so I continued the treatment.

"In a few weeks I was well and able to go about my work which I not been able to do for over four years.

"This was years ago and I have not since had the slightest seturn of the trouble. I have worked on the farm steadily ever since and have always felt strong and well.

"I know that Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life and restored me to health and strength.

"I believe they will cure any case of Rheumatism, for I never knew as bad a case as my own and they cured me."

MARKET REVIEW.

(Compiled from The Commercial)

WHEAT.

We have to record another week of dull trade and declining prices in the wheat markets. There is still no radical change in the situation in regard to present or prospective supply and demand, or prospects for coming crops, but the speculative markets in the States lack the support of buyers, and are weakened by wheat bought at much higher prices some time ago, being continually let go by tired holders, and also by offerings made by professionals who consider the selling side the safe one. The course of these markets have been up a little one day and down again the next, but the result is a decline of 1¼c. on the week. During the last two days a notable increase in export sales is reported from the Atlantic seaboard, showing that, as the price dips down, European buyers are ready to take advantage of the situation and increase their supplies.

During the week the market for Manitoba wheat has been mostly dull, but on Wednesday and Thursday the decline in American markets induced some letting go on the part of large firms, and exporters took considerable wheat at the decline. There has not been much change in prices from a week ago, until Friday, a decline of ½c to ¾c was shown, and we quote values of 1 Northern, 70½c and 2 Northern, 67½ in store at Fort William, Port Arthur or Duluth, March delivery. For May delivery, 1 Northern, 72½c, and 2 Northern, 69c.

COUNTRY WHEAT—The storm and bad roads have stopped farmers' deliveries to a great extent and we note a light movement this week. Prices range from 55 to 60c per bushel for best wheat to farmers.

Liverpool Prices.—No. 1 northern spring wheat sold at Liverpool on Saturday at 6s 1d.

FLOUR—Standard brands are as follows : Ogilvie's Hungarian Patent, $1.95 per sack of 98 lbs.; Glenora Patent, $1.80; Alberta, $1.60; Manitoba, $1.40; Imperial XXXX, $1.20

MILLFEED—Bran, in bulk, per ton $14.50; shorts, $16.50. Delivered in bags, the prices are $1.50 higher.

GROUND FEED—Oat chop is quoted at $27 per ton delivered to the trade; barley chop, $22 per ton; mixed barley and oats, $25 per ton; oil cake, $27 per ton.

OATS—There are plenty of oats coming to meet all demands and prices are steady at last week's range. Reports from Quebec where most of the surplus of western oats is being shipped say that the market there is easier. Seed oats are being freely enquired for but so far there has been very little actual buying done. Sellers are asking 45 to 50c per bus. for seed oats; 35 to 36c bushel for feed grades in car lots on track in Winnipeg. Prices being paid to farmers at country points for No. 2 white oats range around 28 to 31c, Brandon rate of freight.

BARLEY—There is but very little doing in barley here. The market is firmer and we quote now 37c to 38c per bushel of 48 pounds for feed grades, and 40c per bushel for malting, on track in Winnipeg.

HAY—The market for hay is dead. Offerings are large and owing to poor roads, etc., there is but little demand. The general idea of the value is $4.50 per ton for fresh baled on track. Loose hay is worth about the same as baled.

DRESSED MEATS—Beef is very firm owing to prevailing scarcity of cattle. We quote : Beef, city dressed, 7 to 8c per pound; country, ½c under these prices; veal, 8 to 9c; mutton, 8c; lambs, 8c; hogs, 7½c.

POULTRY—Demand is good, and all offerings are readily taken by dealers at figures we give. Quotations are : Fresh killed chickens, 11 to 12½c per pound, delivered here; ducks and geese, 10 to 11c; and turkeys, 12½ to 14c.

BUTTER—Creamery—Winnipeg buyers are paying 24 to 26c per lb. net for their supplies at present.

BUTTER — Dairy — Dealers say they have never known butter to be so scarce as it is at present. That is good butter. Inferior grades are not wanted and no interest is being taken in them. Wholesale dealers are paying 20c per pound, commission basis, for fine butter in tubs, bricks or prints; 16 to 17c for ordinary qualities. Seconds are only worth 10 to 12c per pound, and some of the receipts do not bring that much.

CHEESE—Jobbers are getting 11½ to 12½c per pound for cheese. Stocks now in hand are from Ontario.

EGGS—Quotations are still in the neighborhood of 12½c per dozen for fresh candled eggs, commission basis, here. Dealees are advising their country customers not to pay more than 10c per dozen for eggs at country points.

POTATOES— Farmers' loads, delivered in Winnipeg, are worth 20 to 30c per bushel.

LIVE STOCK.

CATTLE—Beef cattle are very scarce and butchers cannot secure enough to supply their wants. In view of this fact prices have been advanced ¼c this week, and we quote now for best cattle 4¾c per pound. From 4 to 4½c is paid for commoner sorts. Buyers are out through the country looking for stockers, and we understand that everything in sight is being taken at prices wnich average about $14 per head for yearlings and from $18 to $20 for two year olds.

HOGS—The market is steady at 6c per pound for choice packing hogs delivered at Winnipeg.

HORSE MEAT.

Upward of 16,000 maimed, crippled and diseased horses are slaughtered annually in and immediately about Chicago, and, according to Assistant Pure Food Commissioner Rudolph M. Patterson, much of the flesh finds its way to the public market, presented as a healthful food product, under the guise of dressed corn beef. One large institution is located within a stone's throw of the western city limits of Chicago, and to gather a suuply of diseased and decripit animals, receiving stations have been located in several sections of the city.

A WINNIPEG MOTHER

Tells How She Keeps Her Little One Healthy and Happy.

All prudent mothers always keep at hand the means of treating the minor ailments of her little ones the moment the emergency arises. For this purpose there is no medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets, as has been proven by many a Winnipeg mother. Mrs. A. J. Waite, 56 Victoria St., says :—"Some time ago I sent for your little book on the care of infants and young children and have found it very useful. I have also used Baby's Own Tablets and can truthfully say that I would not be without them in the house for anything. My baby is nine months old and she has never been sick a day since I began the use of the Tablets. I have recommended the other mothers who have had similar good results, and I thank you for all the good your wonderful little Tablets have done my baby."

Baby's Own Tablets are a positive cure for all the little ills of children such as indigestion, colic, sour stomach, constipation, simple fever and diarrhoea. They break up colds and prevent croup and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. Guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Sold by all druggists at 25c per box, or sent post paid by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

There is no more land open for entry in Duck lake land district.

Nearly all infants are more or less subject to diarrhoea and such complaints while teething, and as this period of their lives is the most critical, mothers should not be without a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. This medicine is a specific for such complaints and is highly spoken of by those who have used it. The proprietors claim it will cure any case of cholera or summer complaint.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Smith Curtis has cut a very sorry figure before the royal commission appointed for the purpose of enquiring into the charges of malfeasance in office which he preferred against Premier Dunsmuir and his cabinet in connection with the Canadian Northern railway negotiations. So far the Rossland member has done little but protest that he was not ready to proceed with his charges. It will occur to most electors that Smith Curtis might with propriety have deferred the making of his charges, and the call for the appointment of a court to hear them, until he was ready to give out such information as he based them upon. So far as the royal commission is concerned it certainly looks as if it will prove a veritable boomerang for Smith Curtis. It will secure for him considerable attention from the electors of the province, but such as will scarcely aid him in his political ambitions. It was quite competent for him to assail the wisdom of Premier Dunsmuir and his cabinet in the matter of the Canadian Northern railway deal, but he overstepped the mark when he charged, in effect, that the premier was taking advantage of his position and control of provincial assets to unload his Esquimalt and Nanaimo railway on the applicants for a government subsidy at a fancy price. By taking this course Smith Curtis has given premier Dunsmuir a chance to prove in court, rather than stating in the legislature, that in the deal contemplated he was sacrificing rather than bettering his own interests. So far it has been shown that the premiur was endeavoring to secure the transfer of the E. & N. railway for two million dollars worth of bonds, which it is presumed were to be issued against the railway itself, such bonds having a probable value of 60 cents. If premier Dunsmuir were the sole owner of the E. & N. railway it would be somewhat difficult far an outsider to determine whether or not he was receiving a fancy price. But he is not the sole owner, and it is significant that his co-owners refused to entertain the offer to sell upon the terms proposed, and that for this reason the deal fell through. Smith Curtis had an opportunity to take an advantageous position in the matter of the government's railway policy, but he neglected it. Public sentiment in British Columbia is strongly against railway subsidies, and it is becoming stronger every day. It is conceded that no subsidy British Columbia could offer would ever result in the building of a railway through a section of country which did not promise sufficient business to make the railway's operations profitable. Railway subsidies assist the promoters, not the railways. When the Canadian Northern railway is pushed through the Rockies to the Pacific coast it will not be because of any assistance offered by the provincial government, but because the country through which the railway will pass justifies such construction. This being so, is there not room for question as to the lavish nature of the governments proposed assistance? In view of what the government proposes to give it would be interesting to know what the promotors asked. Are they in the unfortunate position of the modest Jew, who, having received all he asked, pined away because he hed not asked for more?

Nelson's Tourists Association appears to have a peculiar mission. As its name would suggest the association was formed to induce tourist travel through Kootenay's most attractive city, but, if the association's secretary knows what he is talking about, the tourists will be obliged to bring their lunch baskets with them, or be bled to death by the extortions of the local grocers.

* * *

Chief Justice Hunter has given his first decision. It was in a Chinese wash-house case and has more than passing interest for the incorporated cities of the province and such centers as are coquetting with incorporation. Some time ago the city of Victoria passed a bylaw declaring it allegal for Chinese washmen to sprinkle their clothes in ironing by squirting starchy water upon them from their mouths. A prosecution under the bylaw followed, which was carried to the chief justice on appeal. His lordship decided that the bylaw and conviction were both good, so Victoria will rid itself of one form of disease spreading preculiar to the Chinese.

At a meeting held on Wednesday evening steps were taken in the matter of the organization of the Fernie brass band. G. Malone was elected leader and together with Fred Perkins and W. Ross was appointed a committee for the purpose of getting things under way. It is expected that a band of at least twenty instruments will be got together which should greatly enliven the summer evenings.

A Splendid Record for Paying Death Claims.

Mr. Geo. Levasseur, who held policy No. 912,424, died on Feb. 21, 1902. On the 10th of March the proofs of death reached the Spokane office, and on the 18th of March a check for the full amount was forwarded through the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in favor of Mrs. Sophia Levasseur.

It is remarkable to note, if we take into consideration the distance between Fernie and Spokane, and then the distance between Spokane and New York, besides going through all necessary formalities, that the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, through Mr. Allenberg, Manager at Spokane, paid the claim in just exactly twenty-five days. It is certainly a remarkable record.

Mr. Levasseur was only insured three years with the Society, having paid to the Society $228.48, for which they paid the amount of $2,000.00, leaving a net profit to the estate of $1,771.52.

The Equitable Life certainly deserves credit for such prompt payment.

John Brown has sold lot 23, Baker ave., to Thos. Q. Biggar. The sale was made through J. E. Mills, agent.

The lack of interest shown by a number of the business men of the town in their non-attendance at the fire meeting on Wednesday evening is to be deplored.

W. P. Perkins, accountant in the Cranbrook branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, expects to move to the Kamloops branch of the bank within the next few days.

Albert Johnson, one of the sub-contractors on the British Columbia Southern, died at the Fernie hospital on Thursday of pneumonia. The deceased was 28 years old.

Thimoy Maysin, one of the best known characters about town, died at the hospital early Tuesday morning of pneumonia. He was known to nearly everyone in Fernie as Whiskey Johnnie.

"Bob" Robinson, president of the Frank carpenters union, has perfected the organization of a local carpenters union in Calgary. The Calgary union starts out with 38 charter members.

J. Smallwood and wife of Pembroke, Ont., arrived in Fernie on Tuesday. They will make their home in town, Mr. Smallwood having accepted a position in the tailoring establishment of J. C. Hutchinson.

Tommy Munroe, while working in Shaft No. 1 of the local colliery, had the misfortune to break his left leg on Saturday evening. The injured member in some way became caught by a car and was broken before it could be extricated.

The town of Elko contributed four inmates for the provincial jail this week. Peter Harlow, Philip McGovern and Wm. Reilly were assessed $5 or 10 days for causing a disturbance, and Tim Clancey was sent over for three months for a like offence without the option of a fine.

Fernie is to have a new fuaniture house. The members of the new mercantile concern are W. O. Robins and H. H. Brewer, the latter being formerly connected with J. D. Quail. Work has already been commenced upon business premises, the site of which is between the Northern Hotel and Martin O'Reilly's dry goods house, on Victoria avenue.

Work upon the construction of the Marysville smelter, which came to a practical standstill a short time ago, has been resumed. Geo. W. Hull, General Manager for the company, has returned from Spokane with his family, and report that the differences existing between himself and the co-directors have been settled, and that construction will now be pushed ahead as rapidly as possible.

A meeting of the Fernie gun and rifle association was held on Tuesday evening at W. F. Cuthbert's for the purpose of organizing for the season. The following officers were elected :—T. R. McIlmoyle, president ; O. N. Ross, vice-president ; J. S. T. Alexander, secretary-treasurer ; and E. L. Wriglesworth, captain. Another meeting will be held at the same place on Tuesday evening next.

Frank Nadon, of Medicine Hat, called at the FREE PRESS office on Wednesday. He desires the FREE PRESS to correct an error which it made some months ago, in stating that both his legs had been cut off by a freight train at Medicine Hat, in November last. As Frank walked in on the legs which were supposed to have been cut off there is no room for agrument, and we therefore take pleasure in tendering him not only our apologies but our congratulations.

E. W. Matthews, of R. G. Dun & Co., Commercial Agency, arrived in Fernie on Tuesday evening on his semi-annual revision trip. While here he met his brother, W. C. Matthews, the Canadian General Manager for the same company, who is now on his way to China and Japan, with a view to open up offices in those countries. With the eastern link completed this commercial agency will circle the earth, and it is considered as no small compliment that a Canadian should have been selected for the very important work of looking over the new field

Jack Hescott, president of the Fernie miners' union, left town this week. He has decided to give over mining for ranching and will try his luck at Cowley. Jack says he leaves the local union in fine shape and is assured that its growth from this time forward will be rapid. He has tendered his resignation as president and pending the appointment of his successor, the duties of the office will devolve upon Aaron Colcough, vice-president. Action upon president Hescott's resignation may be taken on Saturday evening.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church will meet at Mrs. A. Wilson's, on Thursday next, at 2 p. m.

Dr. Williams, of Elko. arrived in town on Monday evening. He has almost completely recovered from the effects of the accident which gave him so close a call for his life two weeks ago.

Provincial Officer Henderson has ascertained that he will be unable to fill the office of chief of the fire brigade, and at the meeting on Wednesday evening it is said he will tender his resignation.

Llewellyn C. Williams, teacher of piano, mandolin, guitar, cornet, alto, tenor, trombone, baritone, euphonium, tuba, etc. Music arranged for all instruments. Orders taken for all music. Opposite Royal Hotel, over tailor establishment. Call from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m

Captain Percy Blakemore, of Montreal, who is on Lord Kitchener's staff, was one of the officers entrusted with the duty of escorting acting-president Schalkburger and his party on their way to the meeting with General DeWet to discuss peace proposals. Captain Blakemore is a son of W. Blakemore.

The East Kootenay Bottling Works, of Cranbrook, has decided to establish a branch in Fernie. Machinery for the local branch is now on the way and is expected to be in operation for the first of the summer trade. The opening of the Fernie branch will mean the expenditure of over $3,000 upon the plant.

The three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. M, Bailey was buried on Thursday, the funeral services being conducted by Rev. C. W. Houghton, The little sufferer passed away on Tuesday morning as the result of an attack of pneumonia. Mr. and Mrs. Bailey have the sympathy of a wide circle of Fernie friends in their sad bereavement.

The East Kootenay Rugby football players were given a warm reception in Nelson on Monday when they met the Nelsonists in a well contested game. Upon the completion of the game Nelson had two tries and one goal to one penalty goal secured by the visitors. The Fernie representatives on the team were W. Taylor, Wallace and Hosby.

Coward & Company's new sash and door factory will be in operation next week. The company's plant is entirely new and represents the expenditure of close upon $10,000. The firm intends to compete for the trade of the Territories, in manufactured builders supplies, and the indications are that in time it will become a very important industry to Fernie.

On Saturday last the funeral of Dr. Frank H. Thompson took place from his father's residence in Toronto. The deceased was popular with a large circle of acquaintances, and at the time of his death occupied the position of surgeon on the United States ship Patterson. He was a brother of T. C. Thompson, accountant and land commissioner for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company.

She Wrecked Tony's Store

May Harris was up before Stipendiary Magistrate Armstrong yesterday upon a charge of mischief. On Thursday she started out on a collecting trip. She called upon Tony Carovetta for an unpaid balance. Tony was a little short and asked May to call again. This angered the lady and she proceeded to mix things up. She lifted a weight, with the intention of handing it to Tony, but he secured it before it had gathered sufficient force to cause injury. May then smashed some show cases and left. In going she forgot her umbrella. T. Whetherson was sent after this article some time later, but Tony refused to give it up as he wished to retain it as evidence against the local disciple of Carrie Nation. The result was a tussel between Tony and Wetherson and Whetherson was called upon to answer a charge of assault. The charge against the woman was withdrawn upon the payment of $19.50 for the damage done, and in Whetherson's case a fine of $1.00 and costs was imposed.

Defied the Health Officer

There was considerable excitement upon the arrival of the east bound train last evening. It appears that a man boarded the second-class coach at Creston Junction. He was taken off the train at Cranbrook, where he was held by Dr. King as a smallpox suspect. Dr. Bonnell, Medical Health Officer, was advised by wire to have the coach side-tracked at Fernie and the passengers in it vaccinated, so as to minimize the possibility of infection. Accordingly Dr. Corsan and officers Barnes and Henderson were on hand when the train pulled into the depot. The coach was side-tracked and the work of vaccinating the passengers therein commenced. All submitted their arms to the doctor with but two exceptions. Informations were laid against them by Dr. Corsan, under the health Act, and they were locked up in the car for the night. They will be given the option to-day of complying with the Provincial Regulations or spending 16 days in the detention hospital.

SPIDER'S CHAPS.

A Tale of the Cattle Thieves of Agua Caliente.

Copyright, 1900 by W. LeC. Beard.

"Dunno," he said candidly "The boys was kinder mad, an if we hadn't found you I reckon they'd 'a' give Agua Caliente a little shake up, whether I'd let 'em or not Min'," he added, with his usual scrupulous regard for the truth. "I didn't say I wouldn't er let 'em. Where's Hollis?"

I had no idea where Hollis was; was about to ask the same question myself. The foreman went about among the men, making inquiries, but no one had seen him or apparently felt much troubled about his absence.

"He drawed all the pay that was a-comin to him, didn't he?" asked one of the men. "Well, then, he jus' took an skipped over to Lorena an his gang, where he belongs; that's all." That seemed to be the general opinion, and there was a decided feeling of relief that he was no longer with us.

The cattle moved along merrily, each man doing his best to hurry them. Never before had I imagined that a wooden leg could be used to advantage in driving cattle; but, when wielded by the Ballet Girl, I found that it had a wonderfully accelerating effect.

When at last we reached the camp, I was thoroughly tired out. My ankle and wrist ached, and there was nothing I desired so much as rest. I started at once for my tent, and as I did so Spider rode up to the foreman and asked what orders there were for the day.

"Orders? Why, you little fool, your pony can't hardly stand on his legs, an you'll tumble outer the saddle in a little more," replied the foreman, with a gruffness assumed to cover his approbation of the boy. "Go'n turn your pony out an turn yourself in. Quick, now 'fore I make you."

Tumbling on my cot, dressed as I was, I slept for hours. On waking I became conscious of the rumble of distant thunder. The brilliant sunlight, that usually lit the desert until it was nearly as dazzling as snow, had disappeared, leaving the sand cold and gray. I thought that dusk had fallen, but my watch told me that the middle of the afternoon had barely passed.

"Reckon we're a-gonter have a little weather," remarked the foreman, who met me as I came out of my tent. "Jus' look over yander." He pointed to the eastern horizon, where masses of dark clouds, veined here and there with red lightning flashes, were piling themselves up into the sky. From the north another storm was rising, even more rapidly.

Except the foreman and the Ballet Girl, none of our men were in the camp. Some distance away the cattle, that had been brought in the night before and had failed to wander off to a sufficient distance during the absence of the men, were gathered on the mesa, guarded by Spider and Lee, who were riding around them at a steady lope in opposite directions. The two thunder clouds rose higher and higher, spreading around the horizon and narrowing the strip of blue sky that still shone between them.

"It ain't common ter have one thunderstorm round here, let alone two," observed the foreman. "The cattle feels the thunder, too—they're gettin oneasy. Reckon I better go'n give the boys a han."

The cattle were uneasy, I could see that from where I was standing. They tossed their heads and lowed and moved here and there among themselves. It grew darker each moment and the cattle became more restless. Sometimes, when cattle are in this condition, the sound of the human voice will tend to quiet them. Spider began to sing:

"Ther was an ol' geezer,
An he had a wooden leg,
But he never had terbacker,
So terback he had ter beg.
Another ol' geezer
Was as sly as er fox,
An he alw's had terbacker
In his ol' terbacker box."

Spider's voice rang shrill and clear over the desert, his song measured by the regular hoof beats of his horse. He passed back of the herd, and only an occasional note above the lowing and muttering of the cattle could one hear.

The air had been still, but now little puffs of wind began to arise, and ghostly little whirlwinds careered over the desert. The strip of blue sky was reduced to a mere thread; the darkness became thicker; the herd was an indistinct mass, except when the lightning showed everything in an instantaneous photograph. The foreman, riding at full speed, had nearly reached the herd; but, as shown by the lightning, his horse seemed to be standing still in an ungainly pose on the desert. Then everything was darker than before.

Once more Spider came to the front of the herd. He had increased the speed of his horse, for in quicker time than before his song went on:

"Jus' stop drinkin whisky
An save up yer rocks,
Then you'll alw's have terbacker
In yer ol' terbacker"—

The two storms met. For a moment there was blinding light, followed by a crash that split the sky. A dozen shadowy horsemen, that seemed to rise out of the ground, charged down on the herd, shouting and waving blankets.

I saw six flashes from the foreman's pistol. The Ballet Girl, who was standing near me, lurched toward a rifle that leaned against the wheel of the cook wagon.

The herd tossed and surged like boiling water. Spider darted forward to try and hold it. For a moment it hesitated. Then, with a roar of galloping hoofs, it broke and rushed madly away. The thieves had stampeded the cattle.

The lightning gave one more vivid flash and ceased. The crash of thunder that followed seemed to tear open the sky, for the rain descended like a liquid curtain that concealed everything.

CHAPTER V.

IN WHICH SPIDER RETURNS IN TRIUMPH.

I had never seen rain fall as it did then. It seemed to come in streams. It beat through the heavy canvas of my tent, forming a mist on the inside. The continuous crash of the falling water would have drowned the report of a mortar.

It rained and rained and kept on raining. Little brooks formed on the plain, then came together and made larger ones that finally tumbled over the edge of the cliff in a series of cascades. When an hour later the foreman and Spider returned to the camp, there were no signs of a let up. One by one our disheartened cowboys straggled in and repaired to my tent, where the nearest approach to shelter was to be found. None of them seemed particularly surprised when told of the disappearance of our cattle. They had expected it all along, they said.

"I don't never remember seein rain las' so long as this aroun here," said Lee as he tried vainly to light a damp match on the sole of his soaked boot in order to ignite the wet tobacco with which he had filled his pipe. "Them fellers must 'a' seen the storm comin up an then come over a purpose ter stampede the herd. Course we can't do nothin till it lets up, an then we'll have ter do some huntin, I reckon. This rain'll have washed out all the tracks."

"We'll fin' the tracks again without much trouble," replied the foreman. "Ther ain't no doubt but what we got ter do sunthin, though. Question is, what?"

"Looks to me as though we were in something of a scrape," observed, trying hard not to speak despondently.

"None so bad as what it might be," replied the foreman philosophically. "We got ter make a plan, that's all."

We held a disconsolate council with the water drumming over us on the strained canvas so that we had to raise our voices in order to make them heard. The plan, when finally decided upon, was a very simple one. That the thieves had made a clean sweep was evident, for none of the men who had come in had found any cattle. They had all been driven away. Now, to cover so much ground in so short a time argued that our enemies had a force much larger than ours—one that we could hardly hope, unaided, to defeat.

Therefore it was decided that as soon as it stopped raining some of the men would scatter over the desert to find, if possible, some trace of the missing cattle, while we would send a messenger to some ranches that lay on the other side of the river some 30 miles below us, with instructions to bring back all the men that could be mustered. Cattlemen are usually ready to help each other in cases of this kind, for no one knows when his own turn to require help may come. In this instance, too, the community of cattle thieves had long been a menace to the men on whom we called. All of them probably had suffered from this or another raid.

The rain ceased as suddenly as it began. The clouds parted and were blown in dark shreds across the sky. The pools that lay in shallow depressions of the plain were like beds of coals as the level rays of the setting sun reddened them.

DISTRESS OF SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

Is Too Well Known to Hosts of Nerve-Exhausted Men and Women—The Fatal Error of Using Opiates.

CURED BY USING DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

To lie awake night after night, the brain on fire with nervous excitement and thoughts flashing before the mind in never-ending variety, is the common experience of persons whose nerves are weak and exhausted.

During such nights nerve force is consumed at a tremendous rate.

Instead of being restored and reinvigorated for another day's wear and tear the body is further weakened and exhausted and the mind is unbalanced by this terrible waste of energy, which the lamp of life is rapidly burning out.

It is in this despairing conditionthat many men and women attempt to drug and deaden the nerves by the use of opiates. This is a fatal step which hastens nerve decay.

Surely it is wiser to build up and completely restore the nerves by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, a treatment which gets right down to the foundation of the difficulty and effects permanent results by revitalizing the wasted nerve cells.

Sleeplessness is only one of the many distressing symptoms which entirely disappear with the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a positive cure for weakness of nerves and body, and is specific for woman's ills because they almost invariably arise from exhausted nerves. 50 cts. a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The Colonel (a bachelor)—"Ah, Professor, here's to woman and wine, equally intoxicating, and always inseparable."

The Professor (benedict)—"Quite so; if ever you marry, you'll find that no woman is without her whine, and like your port—as she gets older she gets crustier."

BLOOD TROUBLES

MANIFEST THEMSELVES IN MANY DISAGREEABLE WAYS.

Such as Scrofula, Eczema, Boils and Pimples—The Blood Should Be Purified During the Spring Months.

XThe spring season is the time fot blood cleansing and blood renewing. Blood troubles are many—and dangerous—and manifest themselves in a score of painful and offensive ways such as scrofula, eczema, boils and pimples. The impurities that get into the blood pursue their poisonous way all over the body and are responsible for a large portion of all diseases, various in their nature but dangerous in the extreme. To have pure blood and plenty of it, you need a tonic and blood builder, and for this purpose there is noth'ing can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. These pills cure all diseases due to impurities in the blood by promptly cleansing and freeing the blood from all poisonous and offensive matter. If your blood is thin or insufficient; if you suffer from exhaustion at the least exertion; if you are pale, easily get out of breath, and feel constantly languid and fagged out, Dr. Williams Pink Pills will cure you by filling your veins with new, rich, red blood, Mr. Robt. Lee, New Westminster, B. C., says:—"Before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, my blood was in a very impure state, and as a result, pimples, which were very itchy, broke out all over my body. My appetite was fickle and I was easily tired. I tried several medicines, but they did not help me. Then my wife urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got a half dozen boxes and by the time I had used them I was completely restored to health, and my skin was smooth and clear. I shall always speak a good word for these pills when opportunity offers."

It is because these pills make rich, red blood that they cure such troubles as anaemia, shortness of breath, headache, palpitation of the heart, rheumatism, erysipelas, St. Vitus' dance, and the functional ailments that make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery. The genuine pills always bear the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper on every box. Sold by all dealers, or sent by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE BEST PILLS.—Mr. Wm. Vandervoort, Sydney Crossing, Ont., writes: "We have been using Parmelee's Pills, and find them by far the best pills we ever used." For delicate and debilited constitutions these pill act like a charm. Taken in small doses the effect is both a tonic and a stimulant, mildly exciting the secretions of the body, giving tone and vigor.

It is the best medicine I have ever used, and I would not be without a bottle of it in my house."

England's Last Lottery.

At 5 o'clock on Oct. 18, 1826, an immense crowd gathered at a hall in London to witness the last state lottery draw in England. The drawing of prizes on that occasion occupied less than two hours, whereas lotteries drawn some years previously were protracted for several weeks, the excitement being so great that doctors attended to let blood in cases where the proclaiming of winning tickets proved too overpowering for the holders.

From the days of Queen Anne lotteries had contributed largely toward the revenue, during the latter years bringing in from $1,250,000 to $1,500,000 per annum. The first public lottery held in England took place on Jan. 11, 1569. It was drawn at the west door of St. Paul's cathedral and continued incessantly, drawing day and night, till May 6 following.

MINARD'S LINIMENT Lumberman's Friend.

Her Advantage.

"Papa," said a Hyde Park preacher's little daughter the other day, "when I grow up I'm never going to marry either a minister or a doctor that gives people medicine."

"Why, dear?" he asked. "Don't you like preachers and doctors? You know preachers and doctors ought to be the most useful men there are. Doctors try to save people in this world, and preachers do their best to save them in the next. Isn't that pretty good business?"

"Yes," replied little Caroline, "but Dr. Pelletier's wife was here calling on mamma today, and they got to talking about things, and Mrs. Pelletier said when she was sick it was always just terrible to think of taking any of her husband's medicine, and then mamma said: 'Oh, but you're an awfully great deal more lucky than if you were a preacher's wife. You only have to refuse to take the medicine when you're sick, but a preacher preaches every Sunday.'"

Her Mistake.

"And she didn't think she would like golf at all?"

"No. She had a strange idea that plaids would not become her."

A Common Bred Cow

When toned up by Dick's Blood Purifier will give as much and as rich milk as a highly bred aristocratic Jersey cow gives upon ordinary feed, and a Jersey cow when given.

DICK'S BLOOD PURIFIER

will wonderfully increase her yield of milk. It saves feed too, because a smaller amount of well digested food satisfies the demands of the system and every particle of nourishment sticks.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES

A REVIEW OF RECENT HAPPENINGS IN EUROPE AND ASIA.

A RUSSIAN COLONEL CONFESSES THAT HE GAVE AWAY MILITARY SECRETS.

Col. Grimm (the Russian officer who was recently condemned to death by a court martial at Warsaw, after having been convicted of systematic revelation of military secrets to a foreign power) has confessed to having been guilty of high treason. About sixty arrests have been made at Warsaw in connection with the trial of Col. Grimm, who, it has been asserted, had, during ten years, revealed to Germany every plan prepared by Russia in the eventuality of war between the two countries. The discovery of the colonels treason was due to his wife, who denounced her husband in revenge for his having paid attentions to another woman.

Letters received in London from Harry DeWindt, leader of the expedition which is attempting to make its way overland from Paris to New York, and which left the former city December 19, 1901, dated Yakutsk, Siberia, February 16, announced his intention to depart on the following day for Sredne Kolymsk (in East Siberia, 1,660 miles northeast of Yakutsk). DeWindt had then already covered 2,000 miles of his land journey since he left the railroad, through blinding blizzards and with the thermometer at from 25 to 50 degrees below zero.

The officials at Yakutsk strongly urged DeWindt not to continue his journey. He said that the conditions were worse this year than ever that the cold was more intense and that epidemics and famine were raging. The traveller, however, determined to proceed. But, unless he reaches Sredne Kolymsk before May he will probably be obliged to remain there until winter makes sleighing possible.

Court etiquette and religious scruples have had an amusing tussle at the Hague. The trouble arose when the daughters of Dr. Kuyper, the premier, were invited to the first court ball of the season. Low necked dresses were commanded, but the Misses Kuyper considered that decollete dresses were inconsistent with their religious principles. They applied for a dispensation, but received a curt reply from the mistress of the ceremonies, who declared that the time honored customs of the Dutch court, must be adhered to. Dr. Kuyper made direct representations on the subject to Queen Wilhelmina, with the result that a compromise was arranged. The Misses Kuyper will stay away from the ball but will take tea with their sovereign in high necked dresses the same afternoon.

A terrible accident is reported from West Japan, where an avalanche slid down upon a petroleum works beneath a high hill, February 18, causing the death of over one hundred Japanese. About eighty bodies were taken out, and four were rescued alive but terribly burned. The oil works, warehouses, offices and dwellings were crushed and in parts not entirely submerged, fire started and all the buried buildings with the entombed people were burnt.

The Shanghai Mercury says that before his death Li Hung Chang surrendered full privileges to Russia in Manchuria and the present negotiations now going on are said to be a blind to hoodwink the rival powers. The Merrury says that had Li not died, his adhesion to Russia's policy would have involved China in war.

A cablegram from Brussels says: The Liberals and the Socialists, including many members of the chamber of deputies, held a big parade there on Sunday, March 23. The paraders halted in front of the city hall and sent a deputation to the burgomaster of Brussels bearing a petition for universal suffrage and proportional representation. The burgomaster promised to submit this petition to parliament.

As Prince Albert, a nephew of King Leopold, was leaving the theatre last night, hundreds of socialist students gathered about the prince and shouted for universal suffrage.

According to dispatches from Hong Kong, the rebels have captured the prefectural town of Kam Chou, in the province of Kwang Tung, and have seized the arsenal and granaries. The mandarins of the garrison fled, and appealed to Canton for re-inforcement. The viceroy of Canton replied that it was impossible to further deplete the Canton garrison, and urged General Ma to make the utmost efforts to put down the rebellion.

STATELY ENGLISH HOME.

A Wealthy American Ready to Pay Handsomely for One.

The London Times of the 21st of March contains the following advertisement: "Wanted to purchase by a wealthy American, desirous of settling in this country, one of the stately English homes. Would give a fancy price for a really suitable place. Must contain no less than thirty bedrooms, stabling for twenty horses, a finely timbered park and land to any extent. Good shooting indispensable. Must not be more than two hours from London. Address, Millionaire, care, etc.

The well known firm of auctioneers whose address follows, informed a pressman that the would-be purchaser was now in England and was thoroughly known to them. They had strict injunctions, however, not to reveal his name until the purchase was completed.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

Jas. Quirk Found Dead in a Pool of Blood in His Barn, at Brantford.

The body of Jas. Quirk, a well known athlete, and proprietor of the Commercial hotel, Brantford, was found at midnight Sunday, March 23 in the hotel stables. A bell boy heard groans in the barn, and informed the cook, who proceeded to the stable, and at the foot of the steps leading to the hayloft he found Quirk lying in a pool of blood.

It is supposed that Quirk went out at midnight to see some game chickens in the stable loft, and that when entering the loft he was attacked by some person and hit on the head several times with a blunt instrument, as his head is badly bruised. The culprit is supposed to have escaped through a gate leading to Dalhousie street, as the hostler had, before retiring, bolted the gate, and it was found open after the deed had been discovered.

A BIG UNDERTAKING.

Col. Sam Hughes Says He is Ready to End the War.

A dispatch from Ottawa says - It is understood that Lieut.-Col. Sam Hughes, M. P., has made an offer to the minister of militia to raise a contingent of 2,500 men in Canada to go to South Africa to put down the Boer war.

There are said to be conditions attached to the offer, one is that Col. Hughes goes in command, and the other is that he will not be responsible to any British officer, who, in the opinion of Col. Hughes, is not competent and able to appreciate and take advantage of Canadian troops.

PERcSHED IN THE BLIZZARD.

Albert Foubert, aged 44, a resident of Maissonneuve, was killed on a railway bridge near Buckingham station by the westbound "Soo" express on Monday, March 24. A companion of the man named Scanting, saved himself by climbing to the side of the bridge.

GORED BY A BUFFALO.

R. Rock, at One Time Scout to Gen. Custer, is Killed on His Ranche.

News has been received from Butte, Mont., of the death of Richard Rock, an old time and widely known scout and frontiersman, at his ranche near Henry's Lake on Saturday, March 22. Rock was gored to death by a buffalo which he had raised.

Rock was one of the scouts with the ill-fated Custer expedition, and is said to be the man who gave Custer information of the presence of the Indians under Sitting Bull in the valley where the crafty cheiftain had encamped. Rock advised the general to wait for the coming of Reno before attacking. A year or so ago Rock was sent by the government into the Yellowstone Park to count the buffalo remaining there.

Richard Savage, a miner of Anthracite, was found dead on the track about a mile and three-quarters east of Banff.

The consumption of beer in the United Kingdam last year amounted to 31.7 gallons per head of the population, says a London newspaper. In Germany and the United States the consumption (in 1899) was 27.5 and 13.5 gallons, respectively. In France it was only 6.2 gallons. Nevertheless, Great Britain does not, according to a government paper on alcoholic beverages just issued, hold the premier position as a beer drinking country.

THE ROOF FELL IN

FORTY WORSHIPPERS INJURED AT AN EASTER SERVICE IN KNOXVILLE.

A FIERCE FIGHT AT A SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CONVENTION.

Pittsburg, Pa., March 31.—A fierce wind storm struck the city yesterday just before noon and did almost incalculable damage to property and injured many persons. Scores of houses were unroofed, mill stacks toppled over and telegraph and telephone wires generally disabled. The most serious accident reported was the unroofing of the Knoxville Presbyterian church in Knoxville.

The church at the time was filled with an Easter congregation numbering about six hundred persons. The bricks from the chimney crashed through the roof and carried a huge piece of the hardwood ceiling, measuring about 40 by 20 feet down upon the worshippers in the pews. An indiscribable panic ensued and a rush was made for the doors and windows. The excitement was soon quieted and the work of rescue began. At least forty people were caught by the wreckage and more or less hurt.

Reports from nearby towns are slowly coming in probably on account of the crippled condition of the wires. It is feared that much damage has been done in these places

FIGHT IN A CHURCH.

Chicago, March 31.—Five men and three women entered the Seventh Day Adventist church where an inter state Adventist conference is in session, shortly after noon today and ereated such adisturbance that they were finally beaten and rushed from the church, pursued by nearly 150 worshippers. The eight alleged disturbers were arrested and taken to the police station. All these persons are members of the same religion but of another church. In the row, pews were overturned, clothing was torn, faces were scratched and the church had the appearance of a riot.

SENSATION AT BUTTE.

A Smooth Crook plays a Bold Game in Montana.

A sensation has been caused at Butte, Mont., by the declaration in court of the attorneys and a former associate and business partner of John G. Paulsen, former state architect, that the latter had not committed suicide five years ago, as reported and generally believed, but that he is still alive and probably residing with his family in Germany.

Paulsen was charged with having collected nearly $10,000 in bribe money from the contractors who built the state educational buildings and subsequently promised to make restitution. He went to his home in Helena for the alleged purpose of procuring the money, but the following day he was reported dead, the statement being made that he committed suicide. The body was at once placed in a vault. There was no inquest and friends were not permitted to see the remains. A few days later the widow departed for Germany taking with her to New York the coffin that was supposed to contain the remains of her husband. An insurance company held a policy for $6,000 of life insurance carried by the architect.

The statement that Paulsen still lives was made during the trial of a case growing out of the alleged building frauds.

Kingston, Ont., Mar. 29 – Whether Aullman, the Welland canal dynamiter, is Luke Dillon, as alleged by Buffalo papers cannot be found out here. The penitentiary authorities will say nothing. They know, as do the Dominion police, who Dullman really is, but are dumb when asked to verify the Buffalo statement. The warden said it was a shame to take up the matter anew, the men were well behaved and should be left alone.

A HEAVY SENTENCE.

William Brophy, one of the two men who held up the Dominion saloon at Dawson City, Yukon, last December, was found guilty in the Territorial court and sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Judge Dugas, who passed the sentence, stated in doing so, that he regretted the circumstances would not permit adding flogging to the punishment.

Sister Bede, of Loretto convent, Niagara Falls, was stricken with paralysis on March 29 while in the convent, and never regained consciousness, dying the next morning. The good sister had been in the Order of Loretto nearly forty years, and resided formerly at Mount Forest.

HIS LAST ACTIONS.

Salamon, the Stuartburn Murderer, Granted a Patent for His Homestead.

One of the last actions done by the condemned murderer, Salamon, before sentence of death was passed upon him by his lordship, Judge Bain, was to make application for a patent for his homestead near Stuartburn and complete his entry papers. This was done late on Monday afternoon in order that the business could be completed before he was condemned, as he would then be civilly dead, and in the eye of the law he ceased to exist after sentence had been passed upon him by the court.

It is understood that a patent will be issued to Salamon for his quarter section and it was the intention when application was made that this should be done in order to leave something for his four children, who are his legal heirs. The land will be held in trust for them until the youngest child is of age and by that time it is expected that it will have increased considerably in value.

Mr. R. D. Foley, the homestead inspector, says that Salamon did exceedingly well with his homestead for a Galician, as he went on it without a cent and now has two horses, five cattle and quite a few acres under cultivation.

A SIBERIAN MAMMOTH.

A St, Petersburg cable dispatch says: Cable dispatches from this city have already told of Dr. Herz's discovery of a mammoth preserved in the ice in Eastern Siberia. Dr. Herz now says he discovered it on September 22 near the river Ebrosowva, at the foot of a declevity just over 100 feet above the water. It was lying down with its feet curiously bent under its body. Dr. Herz concludes that it had fallen down from high ground, and had been instantly killed, as its neck was broken. There was grass in its mouth and food in its stomach. The fall must have happened 2,000 years ago. When Dr. Herz's party began the work of excavation the cold was such that a shed had to be erected. A fortnight was occupied in thawing out the monster. Meanwhile the stench was such that the stomach had to be cut out and refrozen elsewhere. Eventually, the huge animal was found complete, save a small piece of the back and half the trunk, which had been eaten by wolves. The mammoth was covered with hair of a red-brown color.

The reeurn journey, 3,000 miles, to Irkutsk, commenced on October 23. The distance was covered on skates, the mammoth having been dissected for convenience in transportation.

The tongue of the mammoth is nineteen inches long, and the tail with the hair on it, is more than fourteen inches long.

A PATHETIC TRAGEDY.

A most pathetic tragedy, caused by an unhappy misunderstanding, has been revealed at the coroners' court at Colwyn Bay, says a London dispatch to the New York Herald. On Monday a young man named David Richards missed a small box of money belonging to the shop of which he was manager. He asked his sweetheart, Lilian Keay, who was the only one who saw him put the box of money away, to restore it, thinking she had taken it. She denied any knowledge of the box. He thereupon shot her dead and turned the revolver upon himself and killed himself too. During the inquest on the two bodies Richard's employer rushed into the court holding up the missing box, which had been the cause of the tragedy. It had been found near the place where the unhappy murderer and suicide said he put it.

HEROISM AT A FIRE.

The Result When Neither Girl Would Climb Down First.

Not long ago a hotel was partially burned and was the scene of some sensational escapes as well as of more than one death. A young woman was telling of her experiences on that night, when she and a friend occupied a room on the third floor. They had been talking until a late hour, when they were startled by the cry of "Fire!" "We jumped up," said the girl, "and rushed to the door. Flames filled the corridor. The elevator shaft and the fire escapes were quite cut off from us, and nothing remained for the people on our side but to use the windows. As Kate and I stared out at the red glow in horror one or two people passed the windows, letting themselves down by the ropes. We looked out at them, dazed for a moment, and the crowd below shouted, 'Don't jump!' Then my brain cleared. I am pretty good at climbing, and somehow the idea of my being injured never entered my head. I said to Kate: 'Quick! Take the rope and let yourself down!' Kate turned to me and said quietly, but firmly: 'I am stronger than you. You go first.'

"'I won't,' said I, with insinuating contempt. 'You know I can always take care of myself.'

"'I shan't go first,' said Kate.

"Then we both lost our tempers. 'Kate,' I said, 'your chief fault always was obstinacy.'

"'Oh,' said she in withering scorn, 'and you're not at all obstinate, staying up here to burn!'

"One form after another passed the window. The flames shone brighter than ever. I was furious at Kate and she at me. We shook our fists at each other. The crowd shouted, 'Don't jump!' and I shrieked back at them: 'I'm not going to jump, you idiots! It's Kate's fault!'

"Really, when I think of the names we called each other, standing there with death creeping closer every moment, I blush. The crowd yelled frantically. 'I won't go first!' I shouted at Kate.

"'I won't stir an inch!' she shrieked at me.

"'Then we'll die!' I cried melodramatically.

"'Don't be a fool! Take the rope!' she yelled.

"'No!' I shouted. Just then there was a great shove at the door, and the firemen shouted in the corridor, 'It's all out!' Kate and I fell into each other's arms hysterically. We vowed never to speak of our idiocy, but we have a sense of humor, and so we've both told the story of our heroism."

FUN FOR THE DINNER TABLE

Suggestions by Which a Hostess Can "Make" Conversation.

A hostess always finds that it requires more tact to keep the ball of conversation rolling while her guests are at table than any other time. The following suggestions may prove of value as an ice breaker:

To each guest give a card on one side of which is a dainty pen and ink sketch of some vegetable, an artistic bunch of celery, lettuce or fruit. On the opposite side have the heading:

"NOW SOME OTHER PEOPLE ATE."

Below have the following statements, the descriptions to be answered by words ending in "ate:"

No. 1 never ate alone—Associate.

No. 2 never ate with his superiors—Subordinate.

No. 3 ate very daintily—Delicate.

No. 4 ate in the most lusty way—Invigorate.

No. 5 ate like somebody else—Imitate.

No. 6 ate so that he constantly grew worse—Deteriorate.

No. 7 ate in high places—Elevate.

No. 8 ate in a way that compelled attention—Fascinate.

No. 9 ate with other representatives—Delegate.

No. 10 ate with the politicians—Candidate.

No. 11 never ate today what he could leave until tomorrow—Procrastinate.

No. 12 ate so that his food was well chewed—Masticate.

No. 13 ate more than was necessary—Exaggerate.

No. 14 was always the last one to eat—Terminate.—What to Eat.

An Emerson Thought.

He who knows that power is in the soul, that he is weak only because he has looked for good out of him and elsewhere and, so perceiving, throws himself unhesitatingly on his thought, instantly rights himself, stands in the erect position, commands his limbs, works miracles, just as a man who stands on his feet is stronger than a man who stands on his head.

The real old fashioned woman takes a folded handkerchief to church with her and brings it home still folded.—Atchison Globe.

A Hint.

"Yes, my son; this is going to hurt me more than it will you."

"All right, pop; try and not holler so loud as ter disturb anybody, will you?"—New York Journal.

IT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Matrons of Fernie Entertain their Friends at their Annual Ball.

The ball given on Monday evening by the matrons of Fernie proved to be the most enjoyable affair of the kind in the town's history. This annual ball is now looked upon as a social fixture, and, popular as it has been in the past it will be more so now in view of Monday evening's marked success.

Princess hall, in which the dance was given, was tastefully decorated, and presented a most inviting appearance. The music for the occasion was furnished by Messrs. L. Stabler and Keith Whimster, and contributed in no small degree to the enjoyment of the evening. The refreshments were furnished by A. Beck, who added to his enviable reputation as a caterer.

The ladies to whom the credit is due for the success of the ball are Mesdames T. C. Thompson, A. Joyce, W. Thomson, White, H. J. Johnson, J. Williams, J. R. Pollock, D. V. Mott, Bonnell, A. C. Liphardt, J. A. Rennie, F. Stork, J. F. Jarvis, Corsan, A. W. Bleasdell, C. W. Houghton, F. J. Watson, W. S. Keay, J. D. Quail, A. B. Trites, J. H. Bricker, Nichol, Purdy and Proctor.

The costumes of the ladies were very pretty, those of Mrs. F. J Watson, Miss O'Reilly, Mrs. Corsan, Mrs. S. Graham, Miss Lawrence, Miss Digby and Mrs. F. Stork being among the most admired.

Those present included:

Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stork, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jarvis, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Trites, Mr. and Mrs. Nichol, Dr. and Mrs. Corsan, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pollock, Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Mott, Mr. and Mrs. F. J Watson, Mr. and Mrs. John Todhunter, Mr. and Mrs. Purdy, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bricker, Mr. and Mrs. O. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. S. Herchmer, S. Herchmer, W. Liphardt, L. Stabler, Dr. Doherty, J. Neale, E. Jarvis, J. Brearley, A. Beeridge, W. Brown, O. Tanhouse, M. O'Reilly.

The ladies in charge of the dance afterwards tendered a vote of thanks to Sherwood Herchmer and W. E. Randall for the tasteful manner in which they had decorated the hall.

ROGERS-KERSHAW.

A pretty wedding took place in the Methodist church on Wednesday evening, when Miss Lizzie Kershaw, daughter of Henry Kershaw, of Fernie, was married to S. R. W. Rogers, also of Fernie. The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. F. Stillman. The bride wore a pretty dress of white corded silk, with veil and orange blossoms and carried a boquet of roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary Jennings, of Fort Steele, wore a dress of white organdie with bouquet of roses and carnations. The bridegroom was supported by L. W. Patmore, of Fort Steele. After the ceremony at the church the bridal party and guests adjourned to the dining room of the Royal hotel where they partook of a well appointed supper, following which the usual toasts were offered and a musical programme enjoyed.

The present of the groom to the bride consisted of a very handsome pearl crescent broach, and the following list of presents attends the esteem in which the contracting parties are held by the community :

The Cured Meat War.

"Blake" Wilson, manager for the extensive business of P. Burns & Company, arrived in Fernie on Tuesday evening, While in Fernie Mr. Wilson will select a site in this vicinity for the erection of a slaughter house, so that the company will be in better shape for the handling of the fresh meat business of this section. Mr. Wilson also states that it was not improbable that in the near future the company would put on its own refrigerator cars for the company's business along the Crow's Nest branch. In speaking of the war in the cured meat trade, which was reported from the coast, Mr. Wilson said there was very little in it. The invasion of Swift & Co. caused a break in prices of several cents a pound, but there were very few sales. Orders for small lots were filled, bnt large orders were refused at prevailing prices. P. Burns & Co. were looking for six car loads of cured meats at the advertised prices, but this was not the sort of business the warring factories were after. Prices have now been restored, and have even been advanced.

W. T. PETERS KILLED

FOUND A HERO'S GRAVE AT HART RIVER

Was a Member of That History Making Company of Canadians Who Held Their Own.

W. T. Peters. formerly of Fernie, was one of those who fell in the gallant stand which the Canadians made against the Boers at Hart river. The complete list of the casualties has not yet been received but it is known to be heavy This stand of the Canadians will go down to history as one of the bright chapters of the war.

From the press despatches which have come through it appears that the British force, which was a portion of that under the command of General Kitchner, had started out on the morning of March 31st to capture a Boer convoy which had been discovered some five miles off, leaving the Canadians behind in laager with the baggage. The attacking British force numbered less than 200 men and they succeeded in walking into a Boer trap. The Boers waited until the British were right upon them when they opened fire and with the first volley emptied scores of saddles. It was a hand-to-hand combat for a while but the British were overpowered and the order was given to retire in squadrons. Although subjected to a raking fire the retirement was effected in good order.

The Boers followed up their advantage and made a very determined attack upon the Canadians which lasted for over three hours This was really the brunt of the engagement as the Boers were determined to secure the supplies if they could, and time and again their leaders exhorted them to renewed effort. The Canadians behaved splendidly. No quarter was sought, and one small body of Canadians remained fighting until every man was killed or wounded. The last shot from this party was fired by a Canadian who though mortally wounded emptied two bandoliers of cartridges at the enemy and then broke his rifle in two.

In addition to Peters two Cranbrook men were wounded and their condition is reported as dangerous. They are privates L. M. Liezort and J. C. Griffins

The engagement at Hart River is second only to that of Paadeberg in the relation of casualties to the number of those engaged.

W. T. Peters was a native of London, Ont., where his parents reside. He came west while the Crow's Nest line was under construction. He was a woodturner by trade, and alternately worked at this, in the mill at Cranbrook, and at firing for Engineer Falconer on the Canadian Pacific. He was thus employed when he left for Cranbrook to enlist.

Corporal W. A. Knisley's name also appears among the killed. Coporal Knisley is a brother of Miss Knisley, who is engaged as nurse in the Fernie hospital. Corporal Knisley saw service in South Africa with the Canadian Mounted Rifles on Second Canadian contingent. While serving with this force he was severely wounded and for conspicuous bravery was awarded the D. S. O. medal.

The news of the deaths of private Peters and Corporal Knisley occasioned profound regret in Fernie, which is only lessened by the knowledge that the gallant stand they and their comrades made against an overwhelming force of Boers, drew forth the plaudits of the Anglo-Saxons in every quarter of the globe.

They did not give their lives in vain, but in the making of history which in years to come will stir the patriotism of thousands of Canadian yet unborn.

Trouble on the Canadian Northern.

The threatened trouble between the Canadian Pacific company and its trackmen has been satisfactory adjusted by John T. Wilson, president of the trackmen brotherhood. There is now said to be a bad feeling between the trackmen and the management of the Canadian Northern road. The men have been endeavoring to secure an audience with superintendant Hanna but so far have not been successful and two of the trackmen's grievence committees have been discharged. The scale of wages and terms of employment constitute the men's grievences and the company will be given a chance to adjust matters or do without trackmen.

Thomas Brown has just received a verdict against the city of Hamilton in a somewhat unusual case. He was on a street car on the night of the reception to Laurier and lost an eye through the carless handling of a Roman candle by one of the processionists. He sued the city for $10,000 damages and got a verdict for $700.

The redistribution bill, by which the new Fernie riding is created, received its final reading in the legislature on Tuesday. This is the nearest approach to a fair apportionment of representation in the legislature that British Columbia has known. It is also one of the things for which the people are indebted to Joseph Martin.

FERNIE LAND TITLES

COAL COMPANY READY TO GIVE DEEDS

T. C. Thompson Expects the Hill Railway to Reach Fernie This Fall as the Difficulties are Adjusted.

T. C. Thompson, accountant for the Crow's Nest Pass Coal company, returned from Toronto this week where he has been engaged in company affairs. In speaking to a Free Press representative Mr. Thompson said the company was now prepared to issue deeds for the Fernie realty purchased from it, and notices to this effect will be issued at once to those concerned. These deeds require to be signed by the officers of the company in Toronto, so that within two weeks from the application for same at the Fernie office of the company they should be expected back from Toronto promptly executed.

The passing of the title of the property will enable the citizens of Fernie to proceed with the incorporation of the town if they so desire. The probability of such a move was mentioned to the officers of the company by Mr. Thompson, but they did not evince any great interest in it. In the event of it being decided to proceed with incorporation the probability is that the coal company will content itself with safe guarding its own interests. Speaking personally, Mr. Thompson said he considered incorporation a matter which should be carefully studied before being launched. While not wishing to discourage the movement its financial obligations should be fully understood. It could readily be appreciated for instance that a repetition of the small-pox epidemic of the past winter would severely try the financial resources of a newly incorporated municipality, and this was but one of the many possible contingencies that had to be provided for.

Respecting the entrance of the British Columbia Southern railway into Fernie Mr. Thompson said their was no room for doubt. The coal company and the Canadian Pacific Railway company are getting together upon the question of the crossing at Morrissey, and he thought the matter would be satisfactorily adjusted in a short time if it has not already been so disposed of. While he was in Toronto president Shaughnessy of the Canadian Pacific was also there, and he understood that the matter of the Morrissey crossing was to be taken up then. Mr. Thompson was of the opinion that the new road should be in Fernie by the fall.

In speaking of the coal company's programme Mr. Thompson said it could best be summarized by saying that a vigorous policy of development had been decided upon for the Michel, Coal Creek and Morrissey collieries,

While in the East Mr. Thompson purchased the stock for the store which the company will operate at the Coal Creek mines. This store he said the company considered indespensible for the men living at the mine, but there would continue to be a considerable number of the miners resident in Fernie, and he did not think the operation of the store at the mines would be as far reaching as was at first feared.

Mr. Thompson left on Thursday on a trip to the smelting centers of Kootenay and the boundary.

FERNIES NEW DEPOT

MAY BE RATED AS SOMETHING COMING

Superintendent Jamieson Says There is Not Much Prospect of Securing it This Year.

H. R. Jamieson, who succeeded J. G Bury as superintendent of the Crow's Nest division of the Canadian Pacific, spent a few hours in Fernie yesterday. The new superintendent is a thorough railroad man, with an urbanity of manner which will secure for him hosts of friends in his new surroundings. While in Fernie he was looking over the ground with a view to improving the facilities for handling the trade of the busiest point on the division.

Among other things he has decided to do is to put in a new siding for the convenience of the local merchants in the loading and unloading of carload shipments. This siding will be built to the south of the freight sheds, so that it will be handy to get at. In speaking of the new depot which it was reported the company contemplated erecting here Supt. Jamieson intimated that although the new structure could be counted upon, it need hardly be expected this year, but that next year will bring the town pretty close to a more presentable depot.

The new building will probably be built close upon the site of the present structure. This while not as convenient as a location more to the south is about the only site offering. At Cranbrook the company is proceeding with the erection for living quarters for the heads of the divisional depaatments.

Supt. Jamieson paid a visit to the Coal Creek mines before returing to Caanbrook.

MINING RECOGNIZED

The dominion government has decided upon the creation of a department of mines. This decision is very largely the outcome of the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Mining Institute, at which the suggestion that such a department should be formed was brought forward by W. Blakemore. It was pointed out that mining is rapidly becoming a most important industry in the dominion, and that the export value of minerals is far higher than even that of agricultural products, not including live stock. The production of minerals has increased in 15 years from $9,000,000 to $72,000,000, but the Government grant to the geological survey, which is the only department pretending to deal in any way with the mining resources of the country, remains the same as 30 years ago. In view of these facts Mr. Blakemore had no difficulty in convincing the Mining Institute that their interests had been neglected, and that a new departure was necessary in order to give the mining industry a fair show. The only opposition to the resolution, which was ultimately passed, came from representatives of the geological department who stated that the proposal was a reflection upon their work in the past. In the end, however, all objections were fairly met, and a resolution passed calling upon the Government to establish a department of mines, of which the government survey should form one branch, the second branch being a strictly economic mining section, under the control of a practical mining engineer, and the third a statistical department which should collect all available information as to mineral resources, cost, markets, transportation, and all other data, which would enable the public and intending inventors to thoroughly understand the value of any particular mining district.

The resolution embodying this proposal was seconded by Eugene Coste, a well known Ontario mining engineer, and carried unanimously. The result was an invitation issued by the Government to the institute to send a deputation to Ottawa in order to consult as to the details of the proposed scheme. This deputation waited on the government on Thursday morning last, and was met by Mr. Sifton. The deputation consisted of W. Blakemore, Montreal; J. E. Hardman, Montreal; Dr. F. D. Adams, McGill University; Dr. A. R. Ferrier, McGill University; Dr. W. L. Goodwin, Kingston; Robert Brown, Montreal, and B. T. A. Bell, Ottawa. A long conference ensued, the conclusion of which the ministers stated they had been determined to form such a department as the institute desired. That the preparations were already in hand, and that the only obstacle to the department coming almost into operation at once was the lack of a suitable building. Plans, and a large grant for a suitable building which will house the geological and all other allied departments are already in hand, and on the suggestion of the mining institute it is fully expected that Dr. Haenel, the present superintendent of mines, will be the head of the new department. This is the most important move yet made in Canada in the interests of mining, and all those who have been instrumental in bringing the government to such an important decision are to be congratulated upon the success of their efforts. Hitherto the industry has been retarded both in consequence of deficient information and because of false representations made by interested parties. With a government bureau, whose business it will be to publish reliable data, this difficulty will be removed, and the mineral resources of the dominion should receive the attention which they deserve. It is not a little significant, that at the interview, the minister of the Interior stated, what had not been suggested by the institute or by any member of the deputation, that the department proposed to be formed would be of great assistance to the government in an advisory capacity.

CAUGHT BY A BLAST

JOHN JOHNSON KILLED BY FLYING ROCK

Was Employed as Walking Boss by Grant Smith & Company on Their Work Near Elko.

Another fatal accident occurred on the railway grade near Elko on Monday, by which John Johnson, the walking boss in charge of a portion of the work for contractors Grant, Smith & Company, lost his life. Johnson had some misadventure while setting off a round of seven shots and his body was frightfully mangled. He was known to be the most careful of men in handling of powder, in which he had several years experience, and whenever their was any shooting to do he preferred to do it himself.

There were two men within a short distance of Johnson at the time he met his death. They had assisted him in the charging of the holes and retired to a place of safety, while he set off the seven shots. Their theory is that Johnson either made a mistake in the cutting of his fuse for one of the shots or else that he stumbled in getting away and fell over one of the charges. That he was very close to the shot which killed him is indicated by the manner in which the body was mangled.

Coroner Trites was notified of the accident and made a trip to Elko. He gathered up the stories of a number of the men in the vicinity but did not consider that the circumstances called for the holding of an inquest. It was shown that the best of fuse was furnished by the contractors so that no blame whatever attaches to them. The deceased was thirty years of age and had been in the employ of Grant, Smith & Company for the past seven years. He was a native of Sweden and unmarried. The body was buried at Elko.

WHAT BECOMES OF DREWRY?

The decision of E. C. Smith, M. P. P., to allow his name to go before the Liberals of the Fernie riding for their nomination in the next provincial election, may upset the political aspirations of our J. C. Drewry. Some time ago Mr. Drewry gave a reluctant consent to serve his province, and in certain quarters the matter was considered as good as settled until Mr. Smith expressed a preference for the Fernie rather than the Cranbrook riding. Whether Mr. Smith will be forced to measure his strength with Mr. Drewry in a Liberal convention is one of the interesting speculations wrapped up in the future.

Joseph Genelle, a brother of Peter Genelle the well known lumber man, was arrested in Rossland this week in connection with the burning at Dawson City of the river steamers Glenora and Mona. The steamers were mortgaged to McLennan & McFeeley, of Dawson, and it is alleged they were burned to secure the insurance upon them. At the time of the fire the watchman on the steamers was arrested, and confessed to having applied the match. Since his arrest however the police claim to have evidence that the boats were fired at the instigation of Genelle, the owner.

Elko is experiencing another epidemic of diphtheria. One death has been reported and there are said to be several cases receiving attention. There are three or four places in town under quarantine.

GORDON SENTENCED TO DEATH

Walter Gordon, the murderer of Smith and James Daw near Whitewater, was sentenced on Saturday morning by Judge Dubuc to be hanged June 28 next, between the hours of 8 and ten in the morning.

Judge Dubuc, in sentencing Gordon said he had been ably defended for the crime he had committed. The crime was most cruel and without provocation or excitement. The murdered men had no grudge against him He had killed them without warning. When he went there he had been received as a friend. After working for some time he desired to acquire the farm without paying for it. He had done the act deliberately in a most premeditated manner. He pretended that he expected money. After the murder he went home, apparently as unconcerned as if nothing had happened. After a fair trial he had been found guilty. He had brought disgrace on his old father and his devoted mother. It might end their lives. He would have ample time to prepare to meet his neighbors whom he had killed.

RURAL SCHOOL CENTRALIZATION.

A writer in the Forum, cites a case of centralizing rural schools in the township of Buffalo Center in Iowa. The system was changed in 1895. For the year ending September, 1894, the township maintained six district schools for six months, with an average daily attendance of 90 ; "for the year ending September, 1900, eight teachers were employed nine months ; average daily attendance was 290." In 1894 the total expenditure for all school purposes was $5.03 per pupil per month ; in 1900 it was but $2.31 Not only has this centralization given rural children a graded school in charge of well-qualified teachers, with a school year increased fifty per cent , and at much less cost, but it has made the pupils more punctual, has brought the attendance from 90 to 290, and has had a tendency to hold the larger boys in school. Speaking generally of the benefits of consolidation, the writer says : "Though they would be unwilling to admit it, many rural taxpayers would more readily adopt a plan to lessen the expense of schools than one to improve them. But when the same plan improves the schools, lowers the tax rate, and raises the value of real estate, the taxpayer ought to support it. In a large number of cases, outlying farms that had been left because parents wanted better school advantages, have been re-occupied—at an increased valuation—since the consolidation of schools has been accomplished. Land has sold more readily and at higher ptices. Parents who intended to leave the country for the city have often been retained, because the city's best blessing was brought within their reach."

UNDIVIDED IN DEATH.

Fatal Accident to Miss Laura Penn, of Thurlow, Ont.—Her Sister Died on Hearing the News.

Belleville, April 1.—Miss Laura Penn, who lived at Thurlow, north of the Grand Trunk railway, visited the station postoffice yesterday afternoon, and crossing the tracks on her way home she was struck by an engine and instantly killed. As she was about to cross the track she saw the train approaching and stepped to another track to avoid it. A light engine, which was moving on this track, struck her and she fell beneath the wheels, her body being cut in two near the middle. Deceased was 49 years of age. The death of Miss Penn was followed by the death of her sister, with whom she lived, a short time afterwards. This lady, who had been confined to her bed for some time by illness was so affected when informed of her sister's tragic death that she died within a few minutes after the sad news had been communicated to her. The sisters will be buried together.

MOURNERS CARRIED RIFLES.

A Chicago dispatch says : Two unique funeral processions were witnessed in Pike county, Ky., Sunday afternoon. There were over 200 mourners, and every man carried a rifle across his shoulder.

One was the funeral of the two Hatfields, Thompson and his son, Eph, who were killed in the quadruple tragedy of Saturday morning, the other victims being John Rutherford and Harry Watts. The Hatfields were buried on the mountain side.

The other funeral was that of John Rutherford. Both were conducted at the same time, and the two processions were in plain view of each other. The Rutherfords are greatly wrought up over the killing of their kinsman, and it is likely that a feud which may eclipse the celebrated Hatfield-McCoy feud has just begun.

ACCIDENTAL SHOOTING.

Chatham, Ont., March 31.— A. S. Thornton, accountant of the Bank of Commerce here, was accidentally shot today by A. Larmour, teller. Mr. Thornton was assisting the teller in removing his cash and books to the vault, after the day's work. Mr. Larmour picked up a revolver to carry it to the vault, when it slipped from his hand. As the weapon struck the floor it exploded. The bullet grazed the thigh of Mr. Larmour and pierced the left hand of Mr. Thornton, inflicting a nasty wound.

STRANGE COINCIDENCE.

Moncton, N. B., April 1.— Mrs. Harry Gallagher, wife of an I. C. R. employee was taken suddenly ill yesterday and died within a few hours. This morning her husband, who had expressed fears that he might suddenly pass away, was speaking of his affliction to friends when he collapsed and died in a few minutes. Two young children are thus left orphans.

COURT IN HOLYROOD.

Historical Old Palace in Scotland Being Set in Order—Has Been Untenanted for Over a Century.

Holyrood Palace, once the home of Mary Queen of Scots, but practically untenanted for over a century, is waking up now, much as the enchanted palace in the story of the "Sleeping Beauty" did when the prince aroused the King's daughter with a kiss. The great kitchens of the ancient royal residences in Edinburgh, in which for 150 years nothing has been cooked, are now in the hands of an army of workmen, being cleaned, repaired and equipped with modern cooking utensils, preparatory to being taken possession of by a staff of cooks capable of catering for unlimited guests. All the other apartments of the palace with the exception of two or three which will be left undisturbed on account of their historical interest, also are being refurnished and refitted in the restoration of their splendors.

All these changes are being made at Holyrood, because King Edward means to hold court in the stately pile from time to time in the future, and possibly may preside, in accordance with ancient usage, over the next General Assembly of the Scottish Peers, known as the "Parliament of the Kirk," held there annually. The last royal resident at Holyrood was Prince Charles Edward, the "Young Pretender," who held court there for a short time in his invasion of Scotland, in 1745.

Queen Victoria and the Georges III. and IV. made short visits to the old palace, too, and the glories of the levee held by the latter sovereign are remembered throughout Scotland to this day. It was attended by over 2,000 Scotch men and women of high degree, who were delighted to find the King wearing Highland costume. Some of the burly Scots, it is true, were inclined to approach their sovereign with more regard for heartiness than for strict court etiquette,but George IV. had a sense of humor, and was considerably more tickled than offended by his guests' bluffness.

It was at Holyrood that Darnley, the husband of Queen Mary, had Rizzio murdered, and it was in the little house near by that he himself was blown up with gunpowder as he lay ill in bed with smallpox, a proceeding in which his royal spouse was popularly supposed to be implicated, as she had sworn to avenge her secretary. The royal apartments at the palace, with the exception of the Queen's bedchamber, have been occupied of late by the hereditary keeper of the palace, as he is called.

In these rooms few alterations will be made. The Queen's sleeping room never has been disturbed. It contains her great four-posted bed, canopied and hung with rich curtains, as well as several articles of old-fashioned furniture, and its walls are hung with tapestry, part of which conceals the small door leading to the flight of stairs that the Queen used in going to and from prayers in the abbey, which now stands in ruins beside the palace. Up this narrow stairway crept the band of assassins whom Darnley hired to make away with Rizzio. The King himself led them into his wife's cabinet and held the queen firmly while her secretary was done to death. The murderers stabbed him 56 times with their daggers,

The folk who live in the neighborhood of the palace affirm positively that the spirit of the beheaded Queen makes nightly visits to the scene of her former activity, and this romantic belief is substantiated by the remarkable experience of the late Countess of Caithness, who insisted that she not only saw the Queen, but had a long interview with her. The countess, who was, by the way, an ardent spiritist, got permission to spend a night in the apartments of the long dead royal lady, and she related afterwards that as the moon was shining brightly she determined to visit Mary's old chapel, and did so by ascending the famous, winding staircase and going on to the ruined altar before which Darnley and the Queen were married.

At that moment the Queen appeared before her and addressed her at some length on the subject of her sufferings while in the flesh, being apparently not at all incommoded in conversing by the fact that she carried her head in one hand. The countess was so struck by the way in which the Queen defended herself against the charges history makes against her that she wrote a book about the interview and presented a copy of it to Queen Victoria, who remarked to her friend, Lady Ely, that she found it very interesting and "so amusing."

Queering a Rival.

"If you've got a rival in the sweetheart business," remarked the Freckled Fanatic, "you never want to knock him. What you want to do is to boost, boost and keep on boosting until she gets so tired of hearing you sing his praises that she hates him."

To Beautify the City.

"Mrs. Dash, what is your club doing to help beautify the city?"

"Oh, we are working hard to get the clothing houses to use the word 'trousers' instead of 'pants' in their advertisements!"

Like milk, eggs are a perfect food, containing all the constituents of nourishment.

NEWS FROM LONDON

ELEVEN MEN DROWNED AS THE RESULN OF A COLLISION IN THE CHANNEL.

THE DUKE OF NORFOLK AND HIS STAFF ARE FIXING UP THE ABBEY.

London, April 2.—Eleven men were drowned as the result of a collision yesterday morning near the Nab Lightship, between the channel steamer Alma and the British ship Cambrian Princess, Captain Roberts, from Peru for Antwerp. The latter sank immediately, and eleven of her crew perished. The Alma returned to Southampton, badly damaged.

The collision occurred during foggy weather. The Alma struck the Cambrian Princess on the starboard quarter, ripping her side wide open. The ship heeled over and sank in four minutes. The eleven survivors were hauled on board the Alma by means of ropes. The steamer's bows were badly stove in. The Cambrian Princess was built at Southampton. She was of 1,275 tons net register, and was owned in Liverpool.

A Deal pilot boat reports having picked up a lifeboat marked "Ship Maxwell." She also saw boats marked "Maxwell," and says a three masted ship sank eight miles southwest of the Dungeness lighthouse.

CLEANING UP THE ABBEY.

Westminster Abbey is closed to the public. The Duke of Norfolk and the board of works officials have taken charge of the sacred edifice, and the necessary preparations for the coronation will be commenced without delay. Alterations on a most elaborate scale have to be made in the abbey in order to provide accommodation for the numerous guests who have been invited to witness the ceremony on June 26.

TOO BUSY TO LEAVE.

The engagements of the Bishop of London, Right Rev. Arthur Ingram, have compelled him to decline the invitations of Bishop Potter of New York, and other bishops, to address the missionary gatherings in New York next Advent.

NEWS FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

Peace Negotiations Are Proceeding—Constabulary Ambushed.

Pretoria, April 2.—President Steyn and General Dlarey have been located, and a meeting between them and Acting President Schalkburger is expected to be arranged without further delay. It is reported that General Botha will also attend the conference. Commandant Mears has sent in word that his command will abide by the decision of the Boer government.

Commandant De Villiers, who has been operating in the Kimberley district, has sent in a flag of truce, asking for terms.

Commandant Alberts has called a meeting of the Boers in his district to take place thirty-five miles east of Springs Station, in order to discuss the proposal for a general surrender. It is said that General Hans Botha has summoned a similar meeting at Amsterdam.

The peace movement, however, has in no way interfered with the military operations. The British are again sweeping the northwest districts of the Orange River Colony, where, it is believed, they have about a thousand of Gen. De Wet's men within the cordon.

SOLDIERS KILLED IN WRECK.

Thirty-nine British soldiers were killed and forty-five were injured in a railroad wreck on March 30, near Barberton, Transvaal colony.

The war office, in reporting the railroad wreck at Barberton, merely say it was accidental. The victims nearly all belonged to the Hampshire regiment.

CONSTABULARY AMBUSHED.

A party of Constabulary and.. native scouts was ambushed near here on March 30, Six of the party were killed. The Boers eluded pursuit. Surrenders are occuring daily in the Standerton district.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION.

St. Petersburg, April 2.—The police prefect of Moscow, M. Trepoff, had a narrow escape from assassination yesterday. While receiving visitors, a governess, named Allart, suddenly drew a revolver, placed its muzzle at the official's breast, and pulled the trigger. The weapon, however, missed fire. In the subsequent excitement the woman tried to escape, but was arrested. It is believed was made in connection with the recent student troubles.

A Good Guesser.

An elderly woman with an impediment in her speech had troubles of her own at the corner of Twelfth and Walnut streets the other day. As each car came out Walnut street she would stop it and say to the conductor, "Dud-dud-dud-does th-this kuk-kuk-car gug-gug-go"— At this juncture, and sometimes before, the conductor would impatiently exclaim, "No; take the next car." Then he would pull the strap, and the car would go ahead, leaving the woman at the crossing.

There are five different lines passing out Walnut street at this point, and if the woman could read the signs she disregarded them. Finally a conductor more considerate than the others helped her aboard and allowed her to explain afterward. After three blocks had been traversed he found that she wanted to go to Darby, and his was a Darby car. When she learned this, she beamed her joy. "Yuh-yuh-young man," she said, "yuh-yuh-you're a gug-gug-good gug-gug-gug-guesser."

Messrs. C. C. Richards & Co.

Gentlemen,—After suffering for 7 years with inflammatory rheumatism so bad that I was often months confined to my room, and for two years could not dress myself without help. Your agent gave me a bottle of MINARD'S LINIMENT in May, '97, and asked me to try it, which I did, and was so well pleased with the results that I procured more. Five bottles completely cured me and I have had no return of the pain for eighteen months.

The above facts are well known to everybody in this village and neighborhood.

Yours gratefully, A. DAIRT.

Chronic derangements of the stomach, liver, and blood are speedily removed by the active principle of the ingredients entering into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. These pills act specifically on the deranged organs, stimulating to action the dormant energies of the system, thereby removing disease and renewing life and vitality to the afflicted. In this lies the great secret of the popularity of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

In the Streets of Cairo.

One of the most picturesque places in the world is undoubtedly the Egyptian city of Cairo, and not the least of its attractions are the varied and often musical street cries which assail the ears on all sides. Not only the street musicians who tap their tambourines to the admiring "Allahs" of the crowd, but the merchants and peddlers, contribute to the chorus.

A fruit seller, basket on head, with grapes and figs, will saunter by singing in a quaint minor: "Oh, grapes, oh, sweet grapes, that are larger than doves' eggs and sweeter than new cream! Oh, angels' food, delicious figs, bursting with honey, restorers of health!"

Another street cry which may be heard in the main street of Abbassieh, a suburb, contains the following enticing announcement: "Tomorrow, O people, I am going to kill a camel. The doctor says it is young and healthy. Oh, its flesh will be tender as the quail and juicy as lamb. Its price is but 1½ piasters (7½ cents) the pound. Do you love the sweet flesh of a camel? Then come early and be satisfied!"

Not the least picturesque figures in the streets are the city police in their neat white and red uniforms in summer and blue serge in winter.

Glacier Ice.

Glacier ice is not like the solid blue ice on the surface of the water, but consists of granules joined together by an intricate network of capillary water filled fissures. In exposed sections and upon the surface of the ice can be observed "veined" or "banded" structure veins of a denser blue color alternating with those of a lighter shade containing air bubbles. The cause of this peculiar structure has been the subject of much theorizing among investigators, but hitherto the greatest authorities consider that the explanation of the phenomenon is yet wanting.

THE SPRING FEELING

VARIABLE SPRING WEATHER DISASTROUS TO WEAK PEOPLE.

Even Usually Robust People Feel Run Down and Out of Sorts at This Time—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the Very Best Spring Tonic.

The spring months are a trying time to most people. At no other time of the year do health and strength seem so hard to gain and to hold. You do not feel that you are really sick, but you feelabout as bad as you could if you were seriously ill. That feeling ought to be got rid of—and it can be. What you need is a tonic to enrich the blood and free it from the impurities which have lodged in your system during the winter, and which are responsible for your present condition. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only reliable, never-failing tonic medicine. These pills make new, rich blood, strengthen the nerves, and bring health and vitality to every organ in the body. They are an ideal spring medicine and the best thing in the world for all diseases having their origin in impoverished or impure blood. The case of Miss Belle Cohoon, White Rock Mills, N. S., is strong corroboration of these statements. She says: "Three years ago this spring I was very much run down. The least exertion exhausted me. I seemed to lose ambition and a feeling of languor and sluggishness took its place. My appetite failed me and my sleep at nights was disturbed and restless. In fact I was in a pitiable condition. After trying two or three medicines without benefit, I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and they speedily worked a change for the better and by the time I had used a half dozen boxes I felt stronger than I had done for years. I have since used the pills in the spring and I find them an excellent tonic."

Because of their thorough and prompt action on the blood and nerves these pills speedily cure anaemia, rheumatism, sciatica, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' Dance, scrofula and eruptions of the skin, and the functional ailments which make the lives of so many women a source of constant misery. Other so-called tonic pills are mere imitations of this sterling remedy. Get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Why a Limpet Sticks.

The limpet has gained notoriety by the strength with which it adheres to the rock on which it decides to rest. The force required to detach the limpet from the rock has lately been tested by a well known naturalist, who found that more than sixty pounds must be exerted for the purpose. So this little thing, weighing about half an ounce, sticks so tightly that a force equal to two thousand times its own weight is necessary to drag it away.

It was at one time supposed that atmospheric pressure had something to do with the adhesive power of the limpet, but it is now generally agreed that the creature exudes a kind of glue for this purpose. If you place your finger on the rock immediately after a limpet has been detached, you will feel that the surface is sticky, and if you allow your finger to remain there for a short time you will notice that it is beginning to stick quite tightly.

WHEN DOGS ARE SICK.

The Way to Give Medicine to These Highly Sensitive Patients.

In all treatment of a sick dog remember you are dealing with a highly sensitive and nervous patient. Be very gentle, avoid roughness or anything likely to alarm him. In giving him any liquid medicine do not open his mouth, but, placing him between your knees, with his face looking in the same direction as your own, gently raise his jaw and, pulling his lips away from his teeth on one side of his mouth, to form a cup or funnel, very slowly pour from bottle or spoon the quantity he is to have into it.

Keep his head raised for a minute or two and if he does not swallow the dose insert a spoon between his front teeth. This will have the effect of drawing off his attention from the medicine and he will usually swallow at once. If the dose is a pill, bolus or anything solid, hold his head the same way as before mentioned, but with the left hand under lower jaw, press firmly on each side with thumb and finger at the junction of upper and lower jaws.

This will usually cause him to open his mouth, when the dose should be put into the mouth as far back as possible over the tongue (or he will spit it out) and close the jaws somewhat sharply, and in most cases the deed is done. If any trouble arises with the action of his front paws this may be got over by wrapping him round with a shawl or coarse apron.

When once you have got into the way of it, you will be surprised how simple it is. I am quite sure a practiced owner or kennelsman would dose a dozen dogs while a novice was making a bungle over one.—"All About Dogs," by Charles Henry Lane.

THE COLLAR BUTTON.

Its Blessings Realized Only by Those Who Have Lived Without It.

"In looking over a trunk full of old truck the other day," said the elderly man, "I came across a lot of old shirts with the buttons sewed on, and as I looked at them I realized anew what the collar button means to humanity There have been greater inventions surely, but not many that have conferred a more unmixed blessing on mankind.

"The younger person of today, accustomed to the collar button always, cannot realize what it was to be without it. He can never know what it was to have shirts with the buttons sewed on—or not, as the case might be. Not so very many years ago, when the collar button was yet comparatively new, before persons had come to keep, as everybody commonly does now, a lot of buttons on hand, the man who had lost his collar button thought himself entitled to the sympathy of his fellows, but wrung as he might be by that loss he could not even guess at the anguish that in the sewed on button days filled the heart of the man who, when he came to put on his last clean shirt, found that key button, the one on the collar band, most important one of all, gone entirely or only just hanging by a thread!

"I knew a man once who had this happen to him and didn't swear. That was the only great thing he ever did, but I have always thought that that alone was enough to stamp him as a most extraordinary man."

Ditched the Bishop.

"I remember once driving across the country with Bishop ——," writes Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady of "A Missionary in the Great West" in the Ladies' Home Journal, "while discussing the nature of the soul. That is, the bishop was discussing. I was only prompting by a question now and then. We were on the rear seat of a wagon, with the driver on the front seat. It was a very dark night. In the middle of the bishop's exposition the wagon took a wild plunge, there was a crash, and over we went into the muddy ditch.

"'I beg your pardon, genis!' said the driver, who had retained control of the horses as we scrambled to our feet. 'I was so interested in hearin the man discussin my immortal soul, which I hardly ever knowed that I had one before, that I clean forgot where we was and drove you plump into the ditch.'"

Better to Have Waited.

The other morning Jones turned up at the office even later than usual His employer, tired of waiting for him, had himself set about registering the day's transactions, usually Jones' first duty. The enraged merchant laid his pen aside very deliberately and said to Jones, very sternly indeed, "Jones, this will not do!"

"No, sir," replied Jones gently, drawing off his coat as he glanced over his employer's shoulder, "it will not. You have entered McKurken's order in the wrong book. Far better to have waited till I came!".

A Thieves' Trick.

A mastiff was trained to assist thieves in Paris. It was in the habit of bounding against old gentlemen and knocking them over in the street. A "lady" and "gentleman"—owners of the dog—would then step forward to assist the unfortunate pedestrian to rise, and while doing so would ease him of his watch and purse.

Page Woven Wire Fence

Owing to the variations of the Canadian climate, considerable allowance must be made in all fences for contraction and expansion, which makes an ordinary wire fence unserviceable, as when it expands it becomes so loose as to prove of little value. Note the continuous coil in this fence, this makes it elastic and self-regulating. The Page Wire Fence is made of "Page" wire, which is twice as strong as ordinary wire. Prices are particularly low this season. 50,000 miles of Page fences now in use. We also make Gates, Ornamental Fences and Poultry Netting. The Page Wire Fence Co., Limited, Walkerville, Ont. 2

A TORONTO MAN

THE MR. JARDINE REFERRED TO LIVES IN THE QUEEN CITY.

Well-known Throughout Canada As One of Canada's Commissioners to the Paris Exposition—His Statement is a Very Valuable One and Has Been Read With Much Interest.

Toronto, April 5.—(Special).—Mr. J. G. Jardine, whose statement as to the wonderful curative and tonic properties of Dodd's Kidney Pills has been published in many of the papers, is a resident of this city. city. His home is at 305 Crawford street.

Mr. Jardine was chosen as one of the Canadian Commissioners to the Paris Exposition two years ago, and performed the onerous duties of that office with honor to himself and credit to his country.

It is to his experience in the Frenc capital at this time that Mr. Jardine makes particular reference in published staeement in which he says:

"During my stay in Paris I felt many times quite run down owing to the complete change and to the worries and work of our business there. I suffered not a little with backache, with a general feeling of depression and I found Dodd's Kidney Pills invaluable.

"I had learned the value of this medicine before going to Europe as I had it very successfully for backache, which I found it relieved almost instantly. So when I went to Paris I was careful to take with me some of this my favorite remedy.

"Every time I was threatened with a return of the trouble I used a few Dodd's Kidney Pills, and can say they did not disappoint me. They tone up the system generally, and they do certainly relieve backache instantly."

What Mr. Jardine has said is amply borne out by many others in this city whose experiences have been and are being published from day to day. Dodd's Kidney Pills are certainly without an equal as a medicine for those who are "tired out." "run down" or "used up."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been endorsed most heartily by all classes.

ANOTHER HAPPY MOTHER.

Tells How Her Baby of Eight Months Profited by Wise Treatment.

Teething time is the critical age in a child's life. Any slight disorder in the stomach or bowels at that time greatly increases the peevishness of the little one, and may have serious and even fatal results. It is impossible to take too great care of your baby's health during this period, and no better remedy than Baby's Own Tablets is known for the minor ailments of childhood. Among the mothers who have proved the worth of this medicine is Mrs. R. McMaster, Cookstown, Ont. Her little baby girl was suffering from the combined trials if indigestion, constipation and teething, and the mother's strength was severely taxed by the continuous care the child needed. A box of Baby's Own Tablets, however, made such an improvement that Mrs. McMaster is now enthusiastic in their praise. "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the value of Baby's Own Tablets," she writes: "My baby of eight months was much troubled with constipation and indigestion, and was very restless at night. I procured a box of Baby's Own Tablets, and the results were so satisfactory that I have not used any other medicine since. My baby girl is now regular and healthy, and getting her teeth seems much easier and she rests a great deal better. These Tablets are a great help to little ones when teething."

Baby's Own Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. They produce natural sleep, because they regulate the stomarh and bowels and comfort the nerves. They promptly cure such troubles as colic, sodr stomach, ron-troubles as colic, sour stomach, constipation, diarrhoea, worms, indigestion and simple fever. They break up colds, prevent croup and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. Dissolved in water, they can be given with absolute safety to the youngest infant. Sold by druggists, or sent postpaid at 25 cents a box, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Free sample sent on application. Mention this paper.

FERNIE, BRITISH COLUMBIA.

SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1902.

CANADA is enjoying an unprecedented measure of prosperity at present. It is the one theme upon which the newspapers of the east are dwelling. Not since the work of the C. P. R. construction was commenced, twenty years ago, has the prospect looked so promising. Then the settlement of Manitoba and the great Northwest was the end sought. Today, however, infinitely greater forces are at work for the development of the entire dominion than were brought into being when Canada's great national highway was projected. The men who have the management of the Canadian Pacific in hand, however, are playing no mean part. They have already announced their intention of spending somewhat over $20,000,000 upon extensions and betterment of the system of railway. And that the great concern, the Canadian Northern, which sometimes is supposed to be in alliance with, and at others is heralded as an aggressive opponent of the Canadian Pacific, is straining every effort to push its railway through the Yellowhead pass and on to the Pacific Coast. From one end of the vast dominion to the other the wheels of industry are humming. In the maritime provinces the coal mining industry has been infused with new life, and a steel industry has been fairly launched, under conditions which indicate that in a short time Canada will dominate the steel market of the world. In the province of Quebec, and in the northern portion of Ontario, vast sums of money are being embarked in the pulp and paper industry, while in the vicinity of Sault Ste Marie marvelous progress has been made in the development of the iron and nickel resources, with the prospect raised of the dominion supplanting the great nickel-steel industries of the United States. Throughout all the great west the tide of immigration is setting in in a manner scarcely hoped for; and in British Columbia, during a period of comparative stagnation, a growth of 25 per cent is recorded for the silver-lead mining, while copper-gold and coal mining established entirely new development records. The Canadian Yukon rounds out a picture of Canada's growing time, and reliable advices from the north are that a quarter of a century will be too short a time to deplete the gold supply in nature's treasure house.

Gratifying as this prospect is it cannot be denied that the development of the metaliferous resources of this province would have infinitely greater if the men in control of affairs at Ottawa would look the conditions fairly in the face, and extend to the silver-lead miners the protection they seek. What reason can they advance for attempting to set up a different fiscal policy in the west from that which the requirements of the country have forced them to adopt in the east? The silver-lead mines of East and West Kootenay would be immensely benefited if the home lead market of the dominion was reserved for them. They are virtually excluded from the United States markets, and in marketing their their product have been forced to accept the London markets quotations, less the cost of transport to it. Something, it is time, has been done in the way of encouraging lead refining, but it is not sufficiently far reaching. In a few weeks the Trail refinery will be turning out refined lead, and for what? To meet the competition of the lead trust in disposing of its surplus in the market of Canada and of the world. It is for this reason that the federal authorities have been solicited to increase the duties upon lead and manufactures of lead, to the end that Canadian miners may be assured employed in Canadian mines, and Canadian artisans, employed in Canada, in the manufacture of the wares at present imported from the United States under the existing tariff. British Columbia pays a protective price upon almost everything it consumes. It is now asking that this same protection be extended so as to cover one of its chief products. There is no necessity for recriminations in discussing the desirablity of increased lead duties. The conditions which in the past justified free lead, or a low duty on lead, have passed away. Canada is now a lead producer beyond the immediate requirements of the local market. All that is asked is that such local market as there is be reserved for the output of Canadian mines, and that conditions be made favorable for manufactures of lead, so that the dominion instead of an importer may become an exporter of such manufactures. And, in view of the progress which Canada is making in the fields of industry, who will say that the goal set is beyond the bounds of the country's capabilities.

THE decisive rejection of the socalled prohibition measure by the people of Manitoba does not suggest that there has been any falling away of temperance sentiment. If it means anything, the vote indicates that the people of the prairie province have come to the conclusion that the end they seek is not to be attained in the manner contemplated by the Roblin government's measure. All kinds of corrupt practices are alleged against the liquor interests in the polling of the referendum vote, but it must be remembered that it would take a great deal of corruption to place two votes in the ballot box against the liquor act for almost every vote cast in its favor. As might be expected the temperance people are somewhat sore at present over their defeat, but when this has passed away the advancement of their propaganda may be looked for along different lines. Just at present the civic authorities of Glasgow are experimenting with a Public House Trust. This is somewhat of an adaption of the Swiss system of state control, with the difference that in Glasgow there is no immediate displacement of vested interests contemplated, and for such portion of the liquor business as the trust secures it acts, as trustee for the state. The Glasgow trust was organized for the promotion of sobriety and temperance. Its aim is to acquire existing licenses whenever they can be secured at upon reasonable terms. In such houses as the trust operates the normal demand for alcoholic liquors is supplied, but no inducements are held out to increase the trade. Instead, efforts are made to supplant alcoholic drinks with light beers and non-intoxicants. All of the officers of the trusts are paid a salary, and have no interest whatever in the sales of liquor, and after four per cent upon the trust's investment has been paid, the profits resultant from the business are spent in the acquirment and maintence of places for public recreation, or as the state directs. The promoters of the trust hope in time to eliminate the monetary interest from the liquor traffic and thereby advance temperance by removing the chief incentive for over indulgence. This plan of dealing with the liquor habit is already spreading to England, and promises to accomplish more than all the mandatory legislation that could be placed upon the statute books.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

SPRING cleaning at the mine is to be taken in hand as soon as the weather permits and will be carried out under the direction of the mine physician. It is time that a move of this nature was made in Fernie. Several of the alleyways and backyards in town are in a disgraceful condition and a general cleaning up would not only add to the appearance of the place but to the health of the citizens as well.

* * *

SOME of Fernie's enterprising merchants should make a special feature this spring of the sale of lawn grass. A little of it spread upon the yard enclosures would give newcomers the impression that Fernie's residents contemplated remaining in town throughout the summer, an inference it would be difficult to draw from the desert-like appearance of the residential portions of the town.

IT is the proud boast of Trail that it is the only city in the province free of debt. This very satisfactory showing was not brought about by starving the public works, and the sanitary condition of the city is said to be excellent. On the first of June the Trail council announces that a large at improvements will have been made, and that the council will have a credit balance of $1,000.

THE printers of the interior held a meeting yesterday at the Hal yon Hot Springs for the purpose of boosting the rate of legal advertising and job work. In support of the advance it was stated by C. E. Smitheringale, of the Slocan Drill, that the publishers needed the money, an argument which commended itself to the meeting as satisfying.

A Splendid Record for Paying Death Claims.

Mr. Geo. Levasseur, who held policy No. 912,424, died on Feb. 21, 1902. On the 10th of March the proofs of death reached the Spokane office, and on the 18th of March a check for the full amount was forwarded through the Canadian Bank of Commerce, in favor of Mrs. Sophia Levasseur.

It is remarkable to note, if we take into consideration the distance between Fernie and Spokane, and then the distance between Spokane and New York, besides going through all necessary formalities, that the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, through Mr. Allenberg, Manager at Spokane, paid the claim in just exactly twenty-five days. It is certainly a remarkable record.

Mr. Levasseur was only insured three years with the Society, having paid to the Society $228.48, for which they paid the amount of $2,000.00, leaving a net profit to the estate of $1,771.52.

The Equitable Life certainly deserves credit for such prompt payment.

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church will hold a social in Princess Hall, Tuesday evening, April 22nd.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Ingram died on Thursday. The bereaved parents have the sympathy of a large circle of friends.

W. G. McCormick, assistant agent for the C. P. R. at Fernie left this week for Lethbridge where he will spend a couple of months relieving the agent at that point.

F. W. Burn, accountant with P. Burns & Company, has been appointed branch money order agent for the Dominion Express Campany, "Fred" carries his new honors gracefully.

H. E. Macdonell, general freight agent for the Canadian Pacific in Southern British Columbia, arrived in Fernie ou Wednesday. He spent the day looking up the town's big shippers.

P. Burns & Company have commended work upon the erection of their slaughter house. It will be located about a mile south of the town at the intersection of the Coal Creek road and the railway.

William Downie, superintendant of the C. P. R. branch lines in Southery Kootenay, passed through Fernie on Tuesday. He is on his way east to meet superintendent Marpole who is returning from his Europeau trip.

Baptist church social under the auspices of the Ladies' Home Mission Circle in the Joyce Hall, on Monday evening, the 21st inst., at 8 o'clock. Proceeds to go towards church building fund. Tickets 25 cents. A good programme will be prepared and a good time had. Be sure and be present.

Owing to some misapprehension, the meeting which was called for Wednesday evening, for the purpose of considering the fire protection question, was poorly attended. It was therefore decided to adjourn until Monday evening at 8 o'clock, when the meeting will be convened in the furniture department of the London & Liverpool Co's store.

The new town of Morrissey is experiencing its growing time, there being upwards of twenty-five cottages under construction within the limits of the Coal Company's townsite. The two hotels outside the limits of the town are both doing a good business. They are catching considerable business from Fernie and their proprietors profess to be fully satisfied with the outlook for the future.

A meeting of the Fernie trackmen, who are affiliated with the B. of R. T of A., was held in Joyce's hall on Sunday and was well attended. The boys were all more or less jubilant over the success they are meeting with in the bringing of all the outsiders into the union. Any desirous of joining the union may secure the application form from Geo. Clapp, secretary.

P. Lund, of the contracting firm of Breckenridge & Lund, who have the contract for the construction of the spur to the Morrissey mine, as well as other work for the Coal Company, was in Fernie yesterday. He says his firm has about completed the work which it has in hand, but that it will be several months before the connection with the British Columbia Southern is effected.

The politicians of Kootenay will all have their eyes turned towards Kamloops today, the meeting place for the great labor convention of the province. It is the largest affair of the kind ever held in the province and its members are talking practical politics. They have it in their power to upset all the plans of the two old parties and secure recognition as an independent factor, and they will probably do so if Joseph Martin does not hypnotize them.

There was a prospect of trouble at the C. P. R. station on Wednesday morning just before the train pulled out for the mines. The travelling accommodation provided for the miners was insufficient and they invaded the reserved compartment in the first class coach. The conductor ordered the men out and refused to move his train until they complied. Constable Barnes was summoned. He advised the men not to have any trouble on the train and they forthwith quit in a body. They held a meeting in the afternoon and appointed a committee to wait upon General Manager Stockett and present their grievance respecting the insufficiency of the accommodation on the train. The men were well received and left with an assurance that another coach would be added to the train.

R. A. Bradley, the Nelson photographer, arrived in Fernie on Tuesday from the Territories. He says there is no pipe dream about the tide of immigration that has set in in the Northwest. Colonist trains are leaving Calgary daily for points on the Edmonton branch and specials are run every Sunday. All branches of trade are good. Mr. Bradley is on a trip round the world and in two weeks will sail from San Francisco for New Zealand.

E. E. Chipman, of Kaslo, D.G.M. of the Masonic Grand Lodge; H. Byers, of Nelson, D,D.G.M., and A. Moffatt, of Cranbrook, D.D.G.M., arrived in Fernie on Thursday. They proposed paying an official visit to the local lodge, but in some manner their communication went astray and the visit was not paid. The party left for Fort Steele on Friday. The visitors held a levee at the Royal Hotel where they received a number of local craftsmen and some who were not craftsmen.

The Dominion Express Co. have removed their branch money order office from Bleasdell's Drug Store to P. Burns & Coy's office. F. W. Burns has been appointed branch money order agent. Orders can be obtained at any time from Mr. Burns or from F. Stephens, express agent at C. P. R. freight office. We wish to thank our friends for past patronage and we hope through our complete, safe and cheap method of transmitting money by our up-to-date money order system to secure increased patronage for the future. Call and obtain rates.—THE DOMINION EXPRESS COMPANY.

Among the distinguished visitors of the week were E. E. Chipman, of Kaslo, government agent, assessor, etc., and Hamilton Byers, of the merchant prince of Nelson. A FREE PRESS representative sought an interview with Mr. Chipman upon the subject of the Kaslo smelter in which he with other leading Kasloites is interested, but the visitor was reticent. He said, however, that while the smelter was not yet built it was generally conceded to be in sight and that there was no getting away from the fact that Kaslo had the site. He added that the only thing new in the way of development along Kootenay lake was the growth of the tourist sentiment in Nelson, for the propogation of which an efficient organization had been perfected. Just what entertainment it was proposed to offer to the visitors Mr. Chipman could not say, but he had no doubt but that this feature was receiving due consideration as he learned from Mr. Byers that in anticipation of the travel large orders had been placed with eastern houses for shot guns and sech.

The fire department had a call to the old town early Monday morning. The fire started in one of the log building adjoining the Waldrof hotel, spread rapidly to another, and when first noticed had gained such headway that it was feared the hotel could not be saved. In the excitement of the moment no one thought of Fernie's Fearless Fire Fighters, and considerable time was allowed to elapse before the alarm was turned in. The road was very heavy, and the boys had an exhausting tug in getting their reel through the mud, but when they arrived on the scene they did effective work. The log buildings with their contents were destroyed, but a coat of paint will cover the damage to the Waldrof.

The official gazette contains notice of the appointment of Charles Thurman and Albert Duggan as first and second alternates on the board of examiners for the Michel mine, vice Edmond Large

SPIDER'S CHAPS.

A Tale of the Cattle Thieves of Agua Caliente.

Copyright, 1900 by W. LeC. Beard.

As we had planned, the foreman sent five men in different directions with orders to search for traces of the missing herd, to let us know at once if any were found, and to report by midnight in any case. Delighted at the prospect of action, the men trooped out of my tent. Some of them spread their blankets out to dry. Others offered needless help to the men who were preparing to set out. The rest, Spider among them, lounged about the cook wagon and "joshed" the Ballet Girl, to use their own phrase, because he could not start his fire. For some minutes the foreman stood in the door of my tent rubbing his chin thoughtfully. Then he called to Spider.

"Look — here, you kid," said he. "You heard what we said 'bout sendin down the river ter get more men. Well, I want you ter saddle up a fresh pony an be ready ter start in five minutes. Hear? The boss, here, he'll write a note fer you ter take. Get a wiggle on, now.' The laugh that Spider brought with him faded from his face. This was business, and without a word he nodded and strode away.

"I reckon he's about the bes' one ter sen'," continued the foreman, turning to me. "He'll do what he sets out ter do every time. Then it ain't likely ther's any danger down that way, an you can't tell what'll turn up here. It'll keep the kid outer mischief fer awhile.'

While the foreman was speaking I had torn a leaf out of an account book and had written the note. Suddenly I became aware that the laughter and talk of the men had hushed. A second later Spider, his face working with rage, dashed into the tent, caught up a rifle and vanished.

"Stop!" roared the foreman, lifting the flap that closed the tent door. Through the opening I could see that Spider had dropped on one knee and was taking careful aim at something that was out of my view.

"What you doin? Come here!" commanded the foreman sternly. Lowering the rifle, Spider rose slowly to his feet, keeping his eyes fixed on the point toward which he had been aiming. Running to the door, I followed his gaze with my eyes.

On a ridge of sand, half a mile away, three men were galloping up and down, waving their hats and firing pistols. They were shouting, too, for the faint echoes of their shouts reached us.

"Look there!" cried Spider. "See them men? Hollis is one of 'em, an that greaser what shot at me las' night. They're givin us the laugh, that's what they're doin, 'cause we los' our cattle an they got 'em. Are you fellers"—

"Come here! Hear me?" commanded the foreman again. "Look here, young man," he continued as Spider came reluctantly forward. "It ain't good business lettin your mad get up so bad you lose yer head, not for no one what works roun horses an cattle. You had orders too. Nobody what won't obey orders works in my gang. Ther wasn't no shootin called for. Besides," he added as an afterthought, "you'd a-knowed if you'd had any sense that you could not hit nothin at that range." Spider glanced at the foreman, and his face fell.

"That's right. I los' my head clean. I know I did. I won't do it again an, say, I'm awful sorry," he said penitently. Carefully lowering the hammer, he placed the rifle, apparently as a sort of token of surrender, in the foreman's hands. Then, without another look at the men who were still capering about on the ridge, he went away to saddle a horse.

"The boy's got the bes' eyes of anybody in the outfit, all right enough,' said the foreman, setting down the rifle. "I alwus knowed that, but yet I don't believe he c'n tell who those men are, not so far away as that."

It certainly seemed impossible that Spider could distinguish any one at so great a distance. I ran into the tent to get a pair of fieldglasses, but when I returned the men had disappeared.

"Jus' give one yell an then walloped off behin' the ridge thar as you went in," said the foreman. "They was lef' behin' by the res' er ther gang so's ter watch us, I reckon, an see what we're a-gonter do."

"Well, they won't watch nothin,' commented Lee, who had strolled up to us. "They're drank an they'll get drunker, 'specially if Hollis is there. He's ben sober so long now that he won't stop soon once he gets started."

"Meekness an sobriety an the rest of it ain't his style enough ter hurt," agreed the foreman. "But maybe Hollis wasn't there. Look a here, you kid,' he called as Spider rode up on the biggest and, next to his own, the ugliest horse I had brought from the ranch. I forgot ter tell you before that you're likely ter come up agains' a heap er trouble one er these times if you go shootin at men what you don't know, 'specially when they're so fur off you can't hit 'em. It ain't perlite."

So earnest was Spider that he failed for the moment to see that the foreman was joking.

"I did know 'em—two of 'em—Hollis an that there greaser," he cried. "I saw 'em. 'Deed I did. Honest."

"So?" replied the foreman, with assumed gravity. "Well, if that's the case, jus' you climb down offen that ther horse an go an get yer supper 'fore you start."

"Don't need ter. Got some grub here in my cerones (saddlebags). The Bally Girl give it to me jus' now. Mayn't I go?" The foreman waved his hand and smiled. With an answering grin Spider galloped away.

In view of the distance that must be traveled we hardly expected to see Spider again before daylight. Making allowance for delays, we hoped to get away on the following evening. To me the wait of 24 hours seemed a fatal waste of time. The cattle would probably be well into Mexico before that.

"Prawb'ly they will," agreed the foreman. "Then all we got ter do is ter get 'em outer Mexico again, that's all." This was delightfully simple in theory. The practice, I feared, would be somewhat difficult. It was obviously impossible for us to move, as we were then situated. Until our re-enforcement should come we could do nothing but wait.

Much sooner than was expected, however, these re-enforcements came. The men were just finishing their supper. In order to guard against a possible though unlikely attempt at surprise, one of their number, posted in a position from which he could watch both the mesa and the river flat, was acting as sentinel. Suddenly he hailed the camp.

"Ther's a gang er men an horses comin up the river," he cried. In an instant every man was on his feet, had caught up his rifle and was running to the edge of the cliff, sheltering himself behind the rocks that fringed it. Some of the men were ordered to fall back in order to guard us against surprise from the rear. They went, and then for a moment there was silence on the top of the cliff. A buzz of conversation from the men below could be plainly heard.

"Them fellers ain't greasers, anyhow," whispered the foreman.

"How do you know?" I asked.

"Why, greasers talks high up in their heads, like women, er kids. These men talks low in ther chests, like us. Listen."

"Hello the camp!" hailed some one from below.

"Hello below. Who are you?" roared the foreman in return.

"From the X bar X ranch. Ther's more of us comin. How d'yer get up that, anyhow?"

"Wait er minute," called the foreman. While the conversation was going on Lee had laid down his rifle and had been hurriedly gathering the resinous branches of the greasewood shrub that grew about us thickly, and binding them together with a rawhide thong. Lighting the bundle at the fire, he ran back and threw it over the edge of the cliff. Fanned by the draft made by its fall, the resinous wood blazed like a firework of some kind. The horses of the party below shied and capered as the glare struck their eyes, and there was some swearing among their riders. The light showed half a score of lean, sunburned men, heavily armed and well mounted. Their leader, an elderly man on a silver trimmed saddle, was at once recognized as an old acquaintance by the foreman.

"Glad t' see yer, Hayward," called he. "Turn t' yer left, thar, an you'll find a trail what'll bring yer safe up. Sorry ter sen that flare down, but we had ter be sure you was friends. Come up." Filing over the rough path that zigzagged up the cliff, the ranchers reached the tableland.

"Mighty glad you all's come—didn't expec' you so soon," said the foreman, shaking hands with Hayward. "How'd yer leave the cattle down your way?"

"There aren't any cattle down our way—not so much as a calf left," was the response. "This raid is the biggest thing I ever knew. It has wiped out every brand on the river anywhere along here. The boys are all up. We're the first, but the rest are coming, all that can. Seven of our men will never stir again."

"Gone out?" asked the foreman.

"Yes; shot by the thieves. I met that boy you sent after us about half an hour ago. He didn't know what to make of us any more than you did, and one of the boys who rode out to see who he was nearly got shot for his pains. We made him understand after awhile that we weren't rustlers, and then he gave us your message."

"Why didn't he come back with you?" I asked.

"Don't know. I told him he might as well, for we were all up and coming, but he asked us to tell you that he'd return shortly, and then he struck over the desert, going south. I don't know where he was bound for."

Spider's absence troubled me a good deal, but the foreman and the Ballet Girl took it very calmly indeed. There wasn't any one who could hurt him, said they, except possibly the three men that we had seen that morning, and it was not at all likely that he would meet them.

WALKED 223,840 MILES.

Edward Pearce, of Woodchurch, Eng., has just retired from the postal service. During the 37 years he held the office of rural postman he walked 223,840 miles, or nine times round the world. His daily walk for over 20 years averaged 17 miles, and he never missed a day's delivery of letters for 37 years.

Mrs. Kendall was once playing in Dublin, the role being Galatea. Pygmalion has that not unusual accessory, a jealous wife. During the temporary absence of the wife Galatea was about to throw herself into the arms of Pygmalion when an old lady in the audience called out, warningly: "Don't do it darlint! His wife's just gone out, an' it will be like her to be stoppin' at the key-hole!"

BILE POISONS---LIVER DISORDERS.

Headaches, Biliousness and Constipation Are Thoroughly Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is no single organ in the human body which exerts such a wide influence over the other organs as does the liver. It has been well named the regulator of the system. Once the liver grows sluggish and fails to filter the bile poisons from the system, there comes pain, disease and death. The head aches, the tongue is coated, the bowels become constipated, the digestive system is thrown out of order, and foul impurities that should be removed from the body, are thrown back into the blood stream to find their way to the weak spots of the human frame.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have a direct action on the liver, and bring prompt relief and lasting benefit. Nearly everybody is familiar with the extraordinary virtues of this famous treatment. Here is a sample of the letters received from cured ones :—

Mr. John Skelton, the well-known bridge builder of 101 Sherwood street, Ottawa, states :

"I have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for kidney and liver derangements, brought on by exposure, and find them better than any pill or medicine I have ever used.

"They cleaned my system and made me feel healthy and vigorous and better in every way. I can recommend them as the best liver and kidney medicine that I know of."

Mr. James Baird, postmaster, Consecon, Ont., states :

"It gives me and my wife much pleasure to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a family medicine of superior value. We use them in preference to all other pills in our family, and I might here state that they cured me while suffering from biliousness, and also cured my wife of sick headache, from which she suffered severely."

NOT THAT KIND OF A RANCH.

A good story has come up from the Pincher Creek district. Two travellers were driving through that section and met with an accident to their buggy. While one stayed with the rig the other went to a nearby farm house for tools to make the necessary repairs. Asking the farmer, who chanced to be a Swede, if he had a monkeywrench the astonished traveller received the following reply: "No. Ay got a cattle ranch; ma brother Ole haf a horse ranch; Nels Nelson haf a hog ranch ba de crick ofer dere, and a Jankee faller haf, a sheep ranch bout five mile down da road; but Ay bet you no faller d— fool enough to start a monkey ranch in dese country."

Many a man breaks his bill down town then growls because his wife wants a little small change.

There never was, and never will be, a universal panacea, in one remedy, for all ills to which flesh is heir—the very nature of many curatives being such that were the germs of other and differently seated diseases rooted in the system of the patient—what would relieve one ill in turn would aggravate the other. We have, however, in Quinine Wine, when obtainable in a sound, unadulterated state, a remedy for many and grievous ills. By its gradual and judicious use the frailest systems are led into convalescence and strength by the influence which Quinine exerts on nature's own restoratives. It relieves the drooping spirits of those with whom a chronic state of morbid despondency and lack of interest in life is a disease, and, by tranquilizing the nerves, disposes to sound and refreshing sleep—imparts vigor to the action of the blood, which, being stimulated, courses throughout the veins, strengthening the healthy animal functions of the system, thereby making activity a necessary result, strengthening the frame, and giving life to the digestive organs, which naturally demand increased substance—result, improved appetite. Northrop & Lyman, of Toronto have given to the public their superior Quinine Wine at the usual rate, and, gauged by the opinion of scientists, this wine approaches nearest perfection of any in the market. All druggists sell it.

WHY WOOLENS WEAR THIN.

A SCENE IN A GROCER'S STORE.

Sir, I have just come round myself to tell you that you have absolutely spoiled a pair of blankets on me.

I have!

Yes, sir, you have!

Surely you are mistaken, madam!

I am not mistaken. I send round my little girl a few days ago for a good strong soap to mash out some heavy things. In all innocence I used what you sent me, and the result is that my blankets are just the skeleton of what they were. They are ruined, sir, and it's your fault!

Yes, but I sent what I usually send in such cases.

What you usually send! No wonder Mrs. Moore, my neighbor, complains of her clothes wearing out; I that what I sold you injured your soap.

But, madam, I always give my customers what they ask for. Had you named a particular brand of soap you would have had it.

Named a particular brand! How was I to know anything of brands? But I know better now, and I know what ruined my blankets—and my hands are in a nice plight too!

I can assure you, madam, that it is not my desire to sell anything that will be injurious to either the hands or clothing of my customers, and I shall be glad to know how you prove find you usually send her the same blankets and your hands.

Well, I was telling Mrs. Neill my trouble, and she lent me a little cutting, and here it is; you can read it:

"Dr. Stevenson Macadam, Lecturer on Chemistry, Surgeon's Hall, Edinburgh, describes the destructive proically.

"After mentioning how strong alkali such as potash and soda, disastrously affect cotton, linen and wool, he says:

"On one occasion I employed this property of soda in a useful way. There was a large quantity of new blankets sent to one of our hospitals, which when given out, were said by the patients to be not so warm as the old blankets were, and that led to an investigatian as to whether the blankets were genuine or not. They looked well, and weighed properly, and I got a blanket sent to me for examination and analysis. We found soon that there was cotton mixed with the wool, and the question was as to separating the two, because they were thoroughly woven throughout, and it was only by detaching the fine fibres from each other that you identified the cotton fibre. I fell on the device of using soda. I took a bit of blanket and put it in a vessel with soda, and boiled it there, and very quickly the wool got eaten away by the soda, and there was left behind the cotton as a kind of skeleton—a sort of ghost—of the original blanket out of which it was taken. I mention this merely to indicate to you the pernicious effects of using caustic materials, which, when employed strong by themselves, affect woollen articles in this way, and which, even when not very strong, will more slowly, but with equal certainty, tend to destroy the woollen fibre."

Now, I want to tell you that we neighbors have had a talk over the matter, and we are not going to have our clothes and hands ruined in this way. Several of our neighbors who have proved to us that Washing Sodas, Potash, Chloride of Lime, and "soap substitutes" are most injurious to clothes and hands. "Free alkali" in soaps is practically the caustic soda that burns the clothes. Why, you dare not keep caustic soda in a tin canister; it must be in an earthen jar, or it will even corrode the tin! Now, it's for you to provide us with pure soap without free alkali, or we must find it elsewhere.

Madam, you enlighten me! So many soaps are advertised at pure, that I really took little heed to any difference between them.

I have one, however, that has medical certificates of its freedom from free alkali. It is guaranteed pure; and the makers offer $5,000 reward to any one who can prove that it is not pure, and further, I am authorized to return the purchase money to any one finding cause for complaint.

Let me see it! Why, Sunlight Soap! It's a beautiful clean, fresh-looking soap, and this Octagon shape is very handy. Give me five bars.

Note by the grocer.—This whole neighborhood is using Sunlight Soap now. I have no more complaints. I have no room in my store now for resinous concoctions of alkali poisons; but it is not the grocer's fault if the public are satisfied with common soaps. If the public ask for Sunlight Soap—octagon bar—we give it them.

Many a girl's distant manner may be traced to the fact that she had onions for dinner.

MINARD'S LINIMENT Relieves Neuralgia.

Unless you forget that you are trying to go to sleep you will not succeed.

You need not cough all night and disturb your friends; there is no occasion for you running the risk of contracting inflammation of the lungs or consumption, while you can get Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup. This medicine cures coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all throat and chest troubles. It promotes a free and easy expectoration, which immediately relieves the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm.

The heart that is soonest awake to the flowers is always the first to be touched by the thorns.—Moore.

As Parmelee's Vegetable Pills contain mandrake and dandelion, they cure liver and kidney complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain roots and herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shakespeare, writes:—"I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for biliousness and derangement of the liver, having used them myself for some time."

REFERENDUM VOTE

FIRST RETURNS INDICATE THAT THE LIQUOR ACT IS DEFEATED.

WINNIPEG GIVES A LARGE MAJORITY AGAINST THE ACT.

Winnipeg, April 3.—The test of the Manitoba Liquor Act by the referendum was held yesterday, with the result that the measure failed to meet with tne approval of the electors at the polls. The returns available last night showed that a total of 27,221 votes had been cast and of these 16,600 were against bringing the act into force, and 10,621 were in its favor. There was, therefore, a negative majority of 5,979.

MERITS OF LOCOMOTIVES.

A Report Showing Why Americans Are Ahead of Britishers.

London, April 3.—A parliamentary paper just issued gives correspondence respecting the comparative merits of the American, British and Belgian locomotives now in use in Egypt.

In a dispatch to the foreign secretary, Lord Lansdowne, Dec. 31, covering a number of reports received from railroad officials, the British diplomatic agent and consul general in Egypt, Lord Cromer, draws the general conclusion that the main reason why so many orders for railroad equipment have recently been given to the United States is that the American firms are able to execute them with extraordinary rapidity, due largely to the system of standardization.

In respect to price, Lord Cromer finds the British firms can hold their own where special designs have to be executed. With respect to the quality of British work it is at least equal and often superior to American and Belgian work, while in the consumption of coal the British engines have a decided superiority over the American, though not over the Belgian engines. The British manufacturers' weak point is delay in executing orders. The reports enclosed show that the American tenders promised delivery within one-third of the time required by the British firms, while they offered to supply standard locomotives of equal stability 19 per cent. below the English, though the latter's tenders for locomotives built on Egyptian specifications were lower than the American offers.

SMUGGLED FALSE TEETH.

A Big Business Being Done in Montreal in This Line.

Montreal, April 3.—The story has just leaked out that about two weeks ago secret service officers of the customs department seized between $10,000 and $15,000 worth of false teeth and other dental requisites which had been smuggled from the United States.

An investigation has been held and it is claimed by the officials that there has been quite a conspiracy among the minor employees of the customs service, and that four of them have already been dismissed. The investigation is still going on and it is stated that others may yet be implicated.

It is stated that the operations of the smugglers recently became so bold that as many as three and four packages passed through this channel each week. The authorities decline to give out the names of either the importers or the clerks implicated in the conspiracy, and simply state that the packages originated in New York and were consigned to a dental company in Montreal.

A GIANT TREE.

The largest tree known to have been discovered in British Columbia was found recently by Mr. Mat Higgins. Mr. Higgins purchased the timber in Hastings Park from the city and is now taking out shingle bolts there. He came across the shell of a burnt cedar that measured sixteen feet across on the inside. It is fifty-seven feet in circumference and in every way larger than any of the big trees in the park. Six horses could, according to Mr. Higgins, stand abreast inside the tree.—Vancouver Province.

FIRE AT EDMONTON.

Edmonton, N. W. T., April 3.—Bishopric & Mollois' livery stable, occupied by Williamson & Patten, and eighteen horses, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. The loss is estimated at $6,000, partially insured.

The Edmonton Cartage company are losers on the contents to the extent of $2,700, insured for $1,770 in the Insurance Company of North America.

RIDDLED WITH BULLETS.

A Brutal Negro Lynched by a Mob of Four Thousand Men.

Rome, Ga., April 2.—Walter Allen, a negro charged with attempting to criminally assault Miss Blossom Adamson, a 15 year old girl, in this city yesterday, was taken from the jail by four thousand people, who battered down the prison doors and hanged him to an electric light pole in the principal portion of the city. A volley was fired afterwards and fully a thousand bullets entered the negro's body.

Miss Adamson was on her way to a dressmaker's late in the afternoon when she was met by Allen, who told her that a dressmaker at a designated residence was waiting to see her. The girl went to the house mentioned, and the negro followed her into the house, which was vacant. All the men who took past in the hanging was unmasked.

DESTROYED THE BOUNDARY.

A Canadian Civil Engineer Breaks in Pieces a Russian Monument.

Seattle, Wash., April 2.—Advices from Skagway, Alaska, say that Richard Fazier, an official civil engineer of the Canadian government and one of the most prominent civil engineers in Canada, has destroyed a Russian boundary monument. The monument was of stone, resting on a stone base, and there was a Russian inscription on it. It was situated eighteen miles beyond the modus vivendi line on the Canadian side. In the presence of two American miners, Mr. Fazier ordered his men to destroy the monument. It was torn down, broken into small pieces and covered with sand and gravel. The affidavits of the witnesses have been taken and sent to the state department.

SOUTH AFRICAN WAR

LORD KITCHENER REPORTS A SHARP ENCOUNTER WITH THE ENEMY.

A REASON IS GIVEN FOR THE EXECUTION OF AUSTRALIAN OFFICERS.

Durban, Natal, April 4.—General traffic is closed throughout the whole country north of the Tugela river. The region is stoutly protected by lines of blockhouses extending from Ladysmith. Permits are required to enable people to proceed beyond Colenso. The town guards at Ladysmith, Dundee and Newcastle are under arms and have been recruited to their full strength.

A SHARP ENCOUNTER.

London, April 4.—Lord Kitchener, in a dispatch from Pretoria, announces that the Second Dragoon Guards fought a sharp rearguard action near Boschman's Kop during the evening of March 31. Four officers are known to have been wounded. No further details of the casualties have been received.

The column commander, Colonel Lawley, detached the Dragoons with the object of surprising a Boer laager, reported to have been located ten miles east of Boschman's Kop. The Dragoons found the Boers strongly posted, and the burghers were subsequently largely reinforced, with the result that the Dragoons had to fight a hard rear guard action in order to regain the main column. The heavy firing called up Colonel Lawley and his troops, who drove off the Boers. The latter's loss is reported to have been heavy.

WHY AUSTRALIANS WERE EXECUTED.

The Morning Leader publishes the alleged story of the crimes which led to the court-martial and execution of two Australian officers in South Africa, which is just now exciting keen indignation in Australia. The Morning Leader asserts that the several officers of this particular irregular corps shot natives like rabbits, and that they are even suspected of murdering men of their own command, against whom they had grudges. The incident which led to their court-martial was the cold-blooded execution by those officers, of ten Boers, who were journeying to Pietersburg with the object of surrendering. It was supposed that these Boers had £20,000 with them. Actuated by cupidity, the Australians stopped the Boers, tried them by mock court-martial and ordered them to be shot. This was done by a squadron of soldiers after some of the non-commissioned officers had refused to carry out the death sentence. The officers then ransacked the Boers' wagon, and were disgusted upon finding the £20,000 was in Transvaal money (paper).

The Morning Leader says further that a German missionary, a few miles distant from the scene of the execution heard of the affair. Lieut. Hancock, one of the Australians concerned, fearing he would divulge his information, shot the missionary down. This shooting eventually led to a complaint by the German consul to Lord Kitchener, who proceeded to court-martial the Australians.

TOTAL CANADIAN CASUALTIES IN SOUTH AFRICA.

Ottawa, April 4.—The total number of Canadians who have died in South Africa since the commencement of the war is 207. It would appear from the details that the first contingent suffered a heavier loss from death than any of the other contingents.

Strathcona Horse lost 30.

The Canadian Scouts lost 10.

South African Constabulary lost 45

The second regiment of Canadian Mounted Rifles, distributed in various other corps in South Africa, lost six.

Total—207.

It is understood that the militia deparement will offer th? services of about half a dozen dental surgeons to the imperial war office. The department has been besieged with applications from young dentists, who are anxious to gain experience and to serve with the British army. There is little doubt but that these men can be profitably used at the base hospitals and in the general hospitals along the line of communication.

William Peer, of Bell's Crossing, near Brockville, Ont., hanged himself in a barn. The cause of the act originated in a recent quarrel with a neighbor. Deceased was about 40 years old, and leaves a wife and two children.

The joys of meeting pay the pangs of absence; else who could bear it.—Rowe.

DUNDONALD WILL COMMAND.

The Canadian Militia on the Retirement of Gen. O'Grady-Haly.

London, April 4.—I have authority, says the correspondent of the Manitoba Free Press, to state that General Dundonald will assume command of the Canadian militia at the termination of General O'Grady-Haly's term of office. General Dundonald is now at Ascot awaiting the gazetting of his appointment. In view of the general's selection I have turned up recent expressions of his views. He has a tremendous belief in the citizen soldier as an increasingly important element in the defence of the empire, the state providing freely everything to secure his efficiency. He points to his experiences in Natal in the dark days of 1899-1900 as a proof of the splendid work in the field that civilian soldiers are capable of doing, when formed into good regiments under good regimental officers. He says that on the true recognition of citizen soldiers depends the solution of one of the gravest political problems now before our race, and insists upon the paramount importance of good shooting to make the empire safe. Such are the changed conditions of warfare that we must be a match for the enemy at a thousand yards or more, and this is only attained by constant practice in rifle shooting. General Dundonald anticipates his work in Canada with the keenest interest. He fully appreciates the conditions of Canadian life which must guide him to avoid the pitfalls of his predecessors.

"Canadians who served under me in South Africa were men from the tops of their head to the soles of their feet. To be more explicit, there are persons with rifles and men with rifles, When a general has men under him with rifles he knows what he can do and what risks he can take." DUNDONALD.

AN INTERESTING CURIO.

Probably one of the most interesting Indian curios ever brought here, says the Victoria Times, was received from the north in the shape of a piece of copper formerly owned by Chief Skow-ell, who in his time was one of the most powerful and wealthy Indian chiefs in Alaska. The copper is part of the equipment of every chief of any standing, and the use it is put to is quite characteristic. If the chief has a difference with a neighboring chief he hacks off a piece of copper to indicate his wealth, and when the difference has been settled and peace restored, it is riveted on again. The piece which has just arrived has been riveted five times, indicating that Show-ell had as many quarrels. It is two feet one inch in length, eleven inches wide at the centre and sixteen and a half inches at the top. Ethnologists are taking keen interest in Indian curios the world over.

GALLANT CANADIANS

THEY FOUGHT TILL EVERY MAN WAS KILLED OR WOUNDED.

BOERS MAKE A DESPERATE ATTACK ON A BRITISH COLUMN NEAR HART'S RIVER.

London, April 5.—There was severe fighting all day long on March 31 in the neighborhood of Hart's River, in the southwestern extremity of the Transvaal, between part of General Kitchener's force, and the forces of Generals Delarey and Kemp, resulting in the repulse of the Boers after heavy losses on both sides.

The Canadian Rifles especially distinguished themselves, one party commanded by Lieut. Bruce Carruthers holding its post till every man was killed or wounded.

Lord Kitchener's official report says:

"General Kitchener (Lord Kitchener's brother) sent Colonels Kier and Cookson from Vriekuil, Western Transvaal, March 31, to reconnoiter towards Hart's river. They soon struck the track of guns and carried on a running fight for eight miles, following the track through the bush. Emerging on a plain, large Boer reinforcements advanced against their flanks, forcing the British troops to take up a defensible position, which they hastily entrenched. Fighting ensued at close quarters until the Boers were repulsed on all sides.

"Delarey, Kemp and other leaders vainly attempted to persuade their men to renew the action. Fifteen hundred Boers participated in the engagement, but they had suffered too heavily and cleared away to the northwest and south. The British losses were also severe. The Canadian Rifles especially distinguished themselves. One party, commanded by Lieutenant Bruce Carruthers, holding its post till every man was killed or wounded. Others of the forces showed great steadiness, allowing the Boers to advance within two hundred yards of them and repelling them with a steady rifle fire."

ALL TORONTO MEN.

Lieut. Bruce Carruthers, who commanded the Mounted Canadians whose plucky fight with Delarey is commended in Lord Kitchener's dispatch, is a lieutenant of a troop and squadron and would possibly have about forty men under him. They were nearly all from Toronto district, and it is feared the casualties will be heavy.

OVER THE FALLS.

Sensational Suicide of Delia Tansey, of Buffalo, at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 5.—Delia Tansey, of Buffalo, went over the American Falls last evening. It was the most sensational suicide in years. The woman jumped over the railing of Goat Island bridge about ten feet from shore. Wm. Connors, of Liverpool, England, who was on the bridge at the time, ran down the shore and waded into the river. A rake was passed to him, which he succeeded in fastening in her clothes. Miss Tansey begged piteously to be saved. He tried to draw the woman toward the shore, but her clothing tore, and she was carried over the brink of the falls. Two hundred persons saw the woman go to her death.

A MINER'S TERRIBLE FALL.

New York, April 5.—After falling three hundred feet down a mine shaft at Hibernia, N. J., Andrew Michaeliquco, a miner, is still alive and the chances are good for his recovery. There was no obstruction whatever in the shaft, and the miner bounded from side to side. When his companions found him not only breathing, but giving signs of life that indicated a possibility of recovery, they were almost as much surprised as if they had seen the dead arise. He was quickly hoisted up and taken to a hospital. One of his legs is broken and the other is badly cut.

A BRAKEMAN KILLED.

Woodstock, April 5.—An accident took place in the G. T. R. station yesterday, which cost John Warner, of London, his life. He jumped on a moving freight car and started to rlimb to the top. As his hand grasped the highest step the screws gttaching it to the car came out and the unfortunate man fell between the cars. Two cars passed over Warner before the train was stopped by another brakeman signalling to the engineer. Both legs and an arm were mangled and the lower part of the body badly mutilated. He was conveyed to the hospital, where he died. He leaves a wife and family.

The fourth contingent will mobilize at Quebec.

THEY MEAN BUSINESS

WILL BUILD A PERMANENT FIRE HALL

Indications are That the Coal Company Will Meet the Individual Property Owners Half Way.

The property-owners of Fernie took a long step on Monday evening in the matter of the re-organization of the local fire department and the placing of it in such a position that due efficiency may be expected in time of emergency.

Monday evening's meeting differed from those which were previously held in that it was much better attended and developed a much livelier interest in the object for which it was called. Fred Stork was called to the chair. In taking it he said he presumed the first order of business would be to elect a chief for the brigade in the place of Charles Henderson who had been previously appointed but found since that he could not act. He therefore declared nominations for the position of chief to be in order.

The name of W. W. Tuttle was then offered and, being seconded was received with general applause. No other name being offered the chairman declared Mr. Tuttle the unaminous choice of the meeting, and asked him to preside. In acknowledging the honor conferred upon him Chief Tuttle expressed the hope that those present and the citizens in general would extend to him every assistance they could in the work of improving and maintaining the efficiency of the brigade. This he said was necessary if the brigade was ever to amount to anything. Personally he would endeavor to do the best he could for the brigade at all times but he would ask the indulgence of the people of the town for such mistakes as he might make. One of the requisites of a chief in his opinion was a good strong mind, and in this particular he thought he could qualify, but no one could make a success of the brigade unless he received the hearty co-operation of all.

There was some discussion following this respecting the filling of the other positions in the brigade, and upon motion such appointments and the placing of the men was left with the chief.

Fred Stork then called attention to the urgent necessity of securing some improvement in the manner of giving the alarm for fire, as well as the necessity for securing reel accommodation for the surplus hose. Respecting the reel he said the selling price of the same was in the neighborhood of $100 but he thought one that would meet the requirements could be improvised at the cost of $25.

There was some general discussion as to the best manner of sounding the alarm but in the end a siren whistle was decided upon and the chief and secretary of the brigade were requested by the meeting to interview Mr. Stockett and ascertain whether he would put the Royal hotel in telephonic communication with the electric light power house as well as allow the siren to be connected with the boiler in the same.

A. H. Cree then suggested that the merchants of the town be asked to allow one man from each of their stores to assist the brigade in calls of fires and to remain until their services are dispensed with by the chief. This is along the lines of the action taken at Cranbrook and was favorably received.

Harry Wilks then brought up the question of fire hall. He was of the opinion that the brigade would never amount to much until a fire hall of some kind was secured. The hall should be provided with a hose tower and sleeping quarters for a number of men. A suitable building he thought could be put up for $500 or $600.

This brought up the question of a site and it was decided that the management of the coal company should be interviewed in regard to the same. When it was learned what can be secured from this quarter in the way of a desirable site a systematic canvas of the town will be made for subscriptions to defray the cost of building and the purchase of such additional appliances as may be necessary. The suggestion that such a committee should be appointed came first from Fred Stork and was followed by a motion by J. S. T. Alexander that the chief should appoint three of the best rustlers in town to serve upon it.

This being accepted it was up to the chief to make his selection and incidentally his comparisons. He was equal to the occasion however and his first choice was received with general applause—J. S. T. Alexander. Then came Fred Stork and A. B. Trites. The later however asked to be excused and was replaced with A. H. Cree. This completed the committee but the chief remarked that he was a sort of fourth rate rustler himself and would assist the committee in its work if so desired, so the committee was increased to four amid much laughter.

The matter of providing a reel for the extra hose and a running truck for the ladders was discussed and a running inquiry started as the whereabouts and ownership of a number of set of wheels which had been seen about town. One pair was finally traced to Mr. Bricker and he made the brigade a present of them. O. N. Ross admitted the possession of another pair and he likewise donated them. This will considerably lessen the expenditure in sight, but it may be confidently predicted that a meeting called upon reasonable notice will find a way for expending any surplus which the soliciting committee may get together.

Chief Tuttle and Secretary Alexander of the fire brigade waited upon Messrs. Thos. Stockett, superintendent for the Coal Company, on Thursday, and were very greatly pleased with the manner in which they were received. Matters were talked over generally and while a final decision was not reached, the prospect is that the fire department will get all its representatives asked for.

Respecting the siren whistle it is likely that the Coal Company will provide it, and have it attached to the boiler in the electric light power station. In the matter of connecting the station with the Royal Hotel by telephone Superintendent Stockett said he would prepare an estimate of the cost of such connection and it is likely that the brigade funds will be drawn upon to meet it.

Upon the larger question of furnishing the department with a lot upon which to erect a permanent fire hall, Mr. Stockett was not so well prepared to talk. He informed the members of the Committee that he would require to confer with Mr. T. C. Thompson as to the ownership of a number of lots which were mentioned as desirable, and that an answer would be returned as soon as possible.

GOT THE GLAD HAND

IT SAVED LESLIE STABLER FROM DROWNING

Little Dorothy Proctor Plays the Part of Heroine in a Fishing Accident on Wednesday Afternoon.

Leslie Stabler, the well known Fernie pianist, had a close call for his life on Wednesday, and, were it not for the presence of mind of little Dorothy Proctor, the 10-year-old daughter of L. M. Proctor of the Fernie Lumber Company's mill, Leslie might now be sleeping peacefully in some quiet pool in the river where the water lilies grow.

Leslie went fishing on Wednesday in the vicinity of the Fernie Lumber Company's mill. He had gone out upon a log and, while intent upon his angling, lost his balance and took a header into the river. Just at this point the water is very rapid and swimming was practically out of the question. Stabler made one attempt to regain the log, but failed. The second attempt was more successful, but he was so weakened by this time that he had not sufficient strength to pull himself out of the water. It was here that the presence of mind of little Dorothy Proctor asserted itself. She very bravely walked out upon the log and rendered Stabler such assistance as enabled him to regain his position none the worse for his wetting.

THE HAT IN POLITICS

REASONS WHY IT SHOULD BE DISCARDED

Incorporation Does Not Necessarily Invove Involve Extravagant Expenditure By the Corporation.

The passing of the hat, as a means of raising funds for public purposes, while neither the best nor the fairest method of financing public undertakings, is unfortunately the only method open to the people of Fernie. It will continue to be so until the incorporation of the town becomes an accomplished fact.

One of the chief objections to the hat system of municipal government is that it places the load upon the willing members of the community, and allows those who would shirk their responsibilities every opportunity for doing so. It is to be hoped that when the hat returns from its present mission, of gathering in the coin for the fire hall expenditures; that it will disappear from Fernie politics.

Fernie is now too large a town to be without local self government, and the sooner steps are taken to secure incorporation the better it will be for all. As to the advantages of incorporation there appears to be no division of opinion among the merchants and property holders, but there does appear to be some apprehension in certain quarters as to the initial cost of securing incorporation, as well as the maintenance of civil government after it has been created.

There should be no difficulty in satisfying any reasonable man upon these points. In the first place the initial charges to incorporation are comparatively trifling, and, once incorporation is secured, the expenditures are just what the members of the city council make them. There is apparently but one question for the people of Fernie to answer: Is the town worth incorporating?

That the town is sadly in need of repair is manifest, but aside from the introduction of a system of sewerage there is no public work that could be classed as urgent which would entail any extraordinary demand upon the municipal treasury. As for water and light systems those of the coal company are fairly efficient, and no doubt the municipality could make arrangements with the management of the company for such extensions to both systems as the growing requirements of the town demand As to the municipalization of the systems, this is a matter which could very well be left over for the future. The coal company is already on the ground, and will have to be reckoned with whenever the municipality decides to embark in the lighting and water business, so that the case of the new municipality would be in no way prejudiced by any delay.

With respect to streets and sidewalks the demands of the town would not be unduly heavy. Those in the business portion will last for some time, and there does not appear anywhere a suggestion of the grading, which in other Kootenay towns has rendered the laying out of streets so expensive. This would mean that the expenditure upon sewers would constitute the only charge against the property of the town, and that a very light tax rate, together with the usual sources of municipal revenue, such as licenses, would maintain the treasury against the demands made upon it for running expenses.

There is no reason why the people of Fernie, under incorporation, should not equal in point of merit the accomplishment of the city of Trail. The people in the smelter city, some time ago, became tired of the starvation policy which the provincial executive meets out to unincorporated centers of population. They secured self government, and under it have made streets and built sidewalks, as well as meeting their sanitary requirements, and all without incurring a dollars debt, or imposing an oppressive tax rate upon the property.

What the people of Trail have done the people of Fernie could do if they applied themselves to the task.

CHINESE MENACE TO HEALTH.

The attention of the provincial health authorities is directed to the unsanitary condition of some of the Chinese washhouses of Fernie. In most centers of population the Chinese laundries come in for no small degree of attention from the local authorities, but in Fernie, where the necessity for rigid supervision is greatest, the health authorities appear to have passed the washhouses over as a white chip. Fernie has no sewerage system, and some allowance must be made for this in dealing with the washhouses; but Fernie has a waterworks system, and steps should be taken at once to see that every Chinese washhouse is connected with the water system, or moved into a quarter of the town which will render such connection possible. There are Chinese washhouses in Fernie, the proprietors of which make a bluff at purchasing their water for washing from the carts making daily rounds; but the stench arising from the washhouse premises is sufficient to body out the suspicion that water so purchased is made to do duty again and again, until the gathering sediment renders it useless for further service. The Chinese are noted for their frugality, but this is a case in point where less economy and a little more water would add to the health and comfort of the white population. If the Chinese laundries are forced to connect with the water system the incentive for so dangerous an economy will be removed. It is a matter worthy of the attention of the local representatives of the provincial health department.

FERNIE'S BLACK HOLE

IS WITHOUT AN EQUAL IN THE PROVINCE

New Provincial Buildings are Urgently Needed in Fernie Before Warm Weather Sets in.

Fernie is the possessor of the most remarkable jail in this province, and an institution worth going miles to see. It has often been claimed that prisoners in the provincial jails were made too comfortable, and that for this reason the jails are sought rather than shunned. This may be true of other jails, but it is not true of that at Fernie. The local institution continues filled beyond its normal capacity several times, but no one who has visited it will charge that any suggestion of comfort presents itself.

Fernie's jail is a veritable black-hole. There is cell accommodation for four men, or rather there are four cells, since but two of them have any vestage of a bed. These four cells open out upon a room 12x12, the floor of which is used for sleeping upon by the "overs" from among the prisoners who cannot be crowded into the cells. There are at present nine men confined in the jail but the average for the month is 15, and frequently the number is crowded up to 25.

Fernie is a great center for petty offences, there being no fewer than 57 cases disposed of in the town during the past month. This means a considerable prison population, and one of the first matters to receive attention after the new Fernie riding is created should be the erection of a new jail. Hampered and crowded as the officers are in Fernie the cost of prisoners maintenance has been reduced to something like 18 cents per man per day, so that for short-time men economy requires that they be kept in Fernie rather than incur the additional expense of transport to Nelson.

The question of a new jail for Fernie is more urgent than would at first appear and it is important that some change be made before summer as it is a duty of the state to properly house its wards, and not subject them to such crowding in premises, which, in the summer time, are more malodorus than a Chinese washhouse.

Thomas C. Bremer, one of Montreal's best known business men, was found dead in bed on Sunday morning with a bullet in his head.

There has been considerable uneasiness in Sweden over the contracting, by a representative of the Clergue syndicate, for 2,000 Swedes for the nickel-steel and kindred industries at the Soo. The people of Stockholm cannot understand the magnitude of new Ontario's development and all manner of alarmist reports were circulated to the effect that the 2,000 Swedes were contracting themselves into slavery.
