E. C. Smith, an old timer of the Kootenays, and former member of parliament for this district in the provincial house, arrived in the city last week from Mount Dora, Florida, to which place he went from Cranbrook some three years ago for the benefit of his health ,which is somewhat improved. John Levett, another Cranbrookite, has also been living at Mount Dora until a short time ago, when he and Mrs. Levett moved to another Florida town. Mr. Smith's many East Kootenay friends are pleased to see him back again and hope his health will permit him remaining in the Kootenays.—Courier.

Bill Says: "Cycling Has Walking Beaten a Mile"

"I THINK both you fellows are missing a good thing.

"I heard you grouching something terrible yesterday, Jim, about your long, tiresome walk. You were late and got docked. I started ten minutes later and had lots of time. And you, Tom, said your feet burned and ached from walking so much.

"Why, my bike and I have the laugh on both you fellows all the time. We spin along home while you're trudging along. Cycling has walking beaten a mile."

"Well, wheeling is very fine with

A Real Bike Like Yours

I wish I could afford one like it, Bill."

"Why, Tom, the shoe leather you're wearing out hoofing it on the hard sidewalks would help pay for a C. C. M. bike like mine. Besides, your time is worth money and a bicycle saves a lot of time. And then, you know, one like mine will last for years."

"That's so, Bill."

"Yes, and when you're buying a bike, Tom, be sure to get one with

C. C. M. Triplex Hanger

It makes a wonderful difference in the ease of riding. It gives your bicycle more speed—and pep—and power."

"How much extra is the Triplex Hanger, Bill?"

"Not a dollar. It's on every C. C. M. Bicycle at

No Extra Charge"

"What about that handy little brake on your bike, Bill?"

"You mean the Hercules Coaster Brake. It's been nicknamed 'the Little Fellow with the Giant Grip'. You'll notice it hasn't any clumsy side arm. The Hercules is regular equipment on every C. C. M. Bicycle, too."

"It's some bike, Bill. Guess we'd both better get that kind and ride to work, too."

? WHY ? THE RED CROSS In times of Peace?

Despite the world-wide activities of the Red Cross since the close of the war, and the incalculable amount of good which it has accomplished in the intervening period, there are still many persons, uninformed, who somewhat wonderingly ask, "Why the Red Cross in times of peace?"

The mission of the Red Cross, as it is evidenced throughout the world today, is a twofold one: Post-war work and peacetime work. Briefly summarized, their activities, as applied to the British Columbia Division, are as follows:

Post War Work

1. To continue and complete war work amongst soldiers still in hospital.

2. To maintain the existing workshop for disabled soldiers, and to increase the number of these workshops.

Peace Time Work

1. To train and maintain Red Cross public health nurses for service in the rural districts, as well as in the sparsely-settled pioneer sections of British Columbia.

2. To provide emergency service and outfits throughout the Province for dispatch to and service at the scene of accident or disaster.

3. To relieve sickness among the needy everywhere and anywhere in British Columbia.

4. To promote Red Cross principles and practice amongst the youth of British Columbia—to enlist their sympathies and help, and to enroll them in the Junior Red Cross.

FERNIE WINS THE OPENER

Fernie Baseball Team won the opening game of the East Kootenay Baseball League from the White Spruce Lumber Company's nine at the local diamond on Wednesday evening by the score of five to three.

Fernie took the lead in the first innings and the White Spruce were never dangerous until the seventh when they rallied and got three runs across the plate. There was a large attendance but cold weather prevailed, causing much discomfort to both players and spectators. The game was full of thrills and judging from the class of ball played, the Fernie fans are billed for some real ball during the season.

The game was preceeded by a parade of the players through Victoria Avenue up to the grounds. The G. W. V. A. Band, under Bandmaster G. Ramsay,, headed the procession in a very able manner. This organization appearing in uniform gratis, and are deserving the hearty support of all for the manner in which they came forward with their services.

The following is the box score of the game:

LEAGUE BASEBALL NEWS

Next Sunday the Fernie fans will have another opportunity of seeing the White Spruce nine in action when they meet Waldo on the Fernie diamond. Cranbrook is billed to play at Wardner, while Fernie will journey to Wycliffe. The Fernie team wish to thank the following owners who have given the use of their cars to take the players and a number of fans: W. R. Wilson, T. Wilson, T. Graves, A. Walde and Wm. Johnston.

FOOTBALL

Fernie football team played Michel team at Michel last Sunday. The weather was ideal and a good game ensued. Fernie won the toss and played with the wind and sun in their favor. Michel started out in a very spirited fashion, but Sawyer in goal for Fernie allowed nothing to pass. Michel scored their first goal from a scrimmage in front of goal, H. Travis scoring. A second goal for Michel came a few minutes later, Booth in trying to clear heading the ball through his own goal. The second half seen Fernie to better advantage. Davidson played very well this half, but had little backing. Johnny Gibson was easily the best half back on the field. He gave Travis and McFarlane a warm time. McFarlane and Travers are about the best right wingers in B.C.. Robson was off the field for about half an hour through injuries and was not much use afterwards. Fernie had a few chances of scoring in the second half but did not seem to make good use of them. The game finished with the score 2-0 in favor of Michel.

The Fernie and Michel juniors will meet at Fernie on Sunday. As both teams are very strong a good game is assured. Come out and boost the juniors. The game is called for 4 30 p.m. on the North End grounds, and the following players will represent Fernie.

Goal, Dan Kost; backs, Gibson and M. Nee; half backs, Payne, J. Thompson, P. Kost; forwards, Williams, J. Davidson, D. Nee A. Thompson. Reserves, Hamer, Davidson, Smith.

NAZIMOVA SCORES IN "MME. PEACOCK"

Nazimova at her greatest; that is 13; Fernie, 5; Time of game,1 hour "Madame Peacock." Before the audience first as a brilliant stage celebrity, Jane Goring, a moman of fascinating, gorgeous personality, a woman who had sacificed the love of a man to her irresistible ambition. Then suddenly there appeared a young girl, eager and aspiring and ingenous; and had it not been for the explanatory subtitle doubt would have remained in the minds of those who witnessed the shadow performance as to whether so utterly different a person could be portrayed by the same actress.

Of the supporting cast, George Probert proved especially pleasing; a manly and likeable leading man: and credit too belongs to John Steppling as the theatrical manager; to William Orlamond, Rex Cherryman, Albert Cody, Gertrude Claire and to Mrs. Woodthorpe. The picture was adapted from Rita Weiman's story by Nazimova, directed by Ray C. Smallwood, photographed by Rudolph Bergquist and given special art settings by Edward Shulter. Metro is the releasing company.

"THE TWO SYSTEMS"

THE STOCK COMPANY: Under this form of organization Capital is involved and naturally must be compensated. Under the provisions of the Dominion Insurance Act the Stock Companies may allot to the Shareholders:—

(a) All interest earned on the paid-up capital.
(b) One-tenth of all profits earned on participating policies, and
(c) All profits earned on no-participating policies and other sources.

THE MUTUAL COMPANY: Is purely a means of mutual protection. There is no capital invested excepting the premiums of the policyholders; so that all profit derived from whatever source, is the exclusive property of the policyholders and is returned to them as dividends.

THE ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCE: The above statement reveals the essential difference between stock and mutual companies. Just as some co-operative enterprises eliminate "the middleman," so a mutual life company eliminates the "Shareholder," as the late Wm. McCabe, L.L.B., F.I.A., has said—"The mutual principle is the only one by which the participating members of a life insurance company can receive a full equivalent for their money. It gives insurance at net cost."

COMMISSIONER WAS HERE

Railroad Commissioner Shinnick was in the city on Tuesday accompanied by Trainmaster McFadden, of Cranbrook, investigating the demand for the C.P.R. to replace the local which had recently been taken off. A large delegation from the Board of Trade met the Commissioner at the station and advanced arguments for a better service.

Mr. Shinnick did not seem to be very optimistic in the matter. He said that business had declined so rapdly in the last few months that unless a community was absolutely suffering hardship through lack of service, the Commission did not feel inclined to compel the railroad company to pht on a service which would cost them a heavy loss. In the month of March, when the local had been taken off the passenger service had dwindled to an average of 41 a day, which was about sixty less than the service was carrying between Crow's Nest and Lethbridge, and that was why the train had been discontinued.

RESULTS OF SPRING ASSIZES

The first Criminal Assizes to be held in Cranbrook were concluded on Wednesday afternoon when the jury hearing the murder trial where Nick Cuchiurin, a Roumanian, was charged with the murder of one Steve Grchgren, after 16 minutes' deliberation, following the charge of His Lordship, Mr. Justice Murphy, returned a verdict of not guilty. This trial occupied two full days and arose out of a quarrel at Yahk on Oct 3 last, wherein accused admitted having used a knife in self-defence upon three men of a party of four who maliciously attacked him and his partner, with the result that Grchgren died on April 22 last, or over six months after receiving the injury, but without doubt death was due to complications following said injury.

The criminal calendar at the assize just closed was one of the largest and embodied crimes of greater seriousness than has been the case for some years. This occasion too is the first upon which A. I. Fisher has represented the Crown in a criminal assize, and that he presented the cases for the prosecutions in a very creditable manner is clearly shown by the number of convictions sustained. Nine charges comprised the list, including three for murder, two for attempted murder, two burglary, and one gross indecency. In this latter case the Grand Jury returned "No Bill." One case of attempted murder was traversed to the Fall Assize, and there was one acquittal of the charge of murder. The convictions, six in all, were as follows: Billie Chinourd, alias Bille Shoulter, guilty of manslaughter, sentenced to seven years in New Westminster penitentiary; Charlie Chinourd, guilty of manslaughter, five years; Fred Melosky, attempted murder of Constable Hilton at Michel, found guilty and sentenced to five years; Aleck Nicholson, guilty of theft from cash register at Cross Keys Hotel, Cranbrook, and also the theft of five cases of whiskey from a private residence at the same place, was sentenced to the penitentiary for two years; Toby Adrian, an Indian, found guilty of horse stealing, was sentenced to 23 months at Okalla Prison Farm.

While the criminal work has been disposed off the assize at Cranbrook will not be finally concluded until Monday, as there still remains the civil list to be acted upon. This, however, is very light and apart from a contested divorce matter, is made up of an assessment for damages and several matters in Chambers.

On Wednesday next the civil Assize will open here and will probably occupy the remainder of the week. But two cases are to be heard, namely, Farquharson vs. C.P.R., and W. J. J. Morrison vs. the Rock Creek Lumber Co.

CELEBRATION AT CRANBROOK

Practically all arrangements for the big celebration at Cranbrook on the 24th of May have been completed.

The big parade starts at 10.30, after which the first ball game will be played at the City grounds.

After lunch the big horse racing program starts; in the neighbourhood of thirty horses—running, trotting, pacing—will be on hand. Ten or so harness and running horses are coming from Calgary; ten of the best horses, at present at the Spokane race tracks. are stopping over enroute to the Prairie circuits, and a string of fifteen are stopping over enroute from Tjuana race track, Mexico, to the Prairie tracks. Purses in the neighbourhood of $1500.00 are being hung up for the meet.

Attempts to have Fernie and Coal Creek Football teams play there, are still being made, and they may go down to try for the $100 purse, being offered for this game.

The final game of ball is played at the City grounds in the evening, for the winners share of the purse.

Two big dances, with good music, wind up the day. Good music and a real happy throng guarantee enjoyment, all in all the 24th of May at Cranbrook, promises to be a real holiday for all who take in the celebration.

The daughters of the Empire will hold a rummage sale shortly. Anyone having any second hand clothing to dispose of will please notify Mrs. M. A. Kastner, the secretary.

ORGANIZE BASEBALL TEAM

At a meeting of the employees of the Trites-Wood Co. on Monday the Triwood Baseball Club was organized. The following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—A. B. Trites.
Hon. Vice Pres.—R. W. Wood.
President—E K. Stewart.
Vice- Pres.—H. R. Huntington.
Sec.-Treas.—J. W. Carnwath.
Executive—E. Kennedy, J. Shand, W. Murray.
Team Manager—P. I. Barnet.

The idea is to create more amusement during the summer months and it is to be hoped that others will follow suit. The boys are practicing hard and looking forward to a pleasant and successful season. They are open for games with any city team that will not conflict with the League games.

WM. FERNIE PASSES AWAY

William Fernie, of Victoria, the founder of Fernie and one of the real pioneers of Kootenay, has passed away, death calling him on Sunday last, after a lingering illness of several weeks.

The deceased, who was in his 84th year, was the original discoverer of coal in this district and put the first stake in at Morrissey long before the Crow railway was thought of.

He was born in Kimbolton, Huntingdonshire, England, and when 14 years of age went to sea on the ship "Salesman." He left the boat at an Australian port and went to work in the mines at Bendigo and Perdue, staying at it for four years, when his thirst for adventure led him to other fields and he took to sea again. Later he became quartermaster on the United States mail steamer plying to South America. Finally he came to British Columbia in 1860, locating in the Cariboo country, where for many years he was engaged in mining. In 1873 he was appointed to a government office, which he held for four years, resigning to join C. Baker in an attempt to secure a charter for the British Columbia Southern Railway in the eastern part of the province.

In 1887, after successfully securing the right to build the railway, Mr. Fernie located the coal fields of the Crow's Nest and in his honor Fernie, which was established shortly afterwards, was named after him.

For many years Mr. Fernie struggled along with a small company, but finally succeeded in interesting Toronto capitalists, who used their influence to have the Crow's Nest Pass branch biult through the mountains, and after that it was more or less easy sailing. For a number of years he was a director of the company, but later on disposed of nearly all his stock and retired to Victoria, where he resided since.

For many years he has given large gifts to charity and soldier institutions and his death is a distinct loss to the province.

He was a brother of Peter Fernie, famous British campaigner, who died last year.

Citizens of Fernie unite in expressing deep regret for the death of Mr. Fernie.

RECITAL IN UNITED CHURCH

The audience who listened to Harold V. Anderson's recital on Wednesday evening enjoyed a rare treat. It is not often we have the privilege of listening to such a splendid and varied program. Mr. Anderson's range is quite remarkable in such a young pianist.

From Bach's Fugue in D minor to Chopin's Valse in A flat there is a chance to display a wide variety of feeling and splendid technique. The Nocturne in F minor by Chopin showed a wonderful tone quality and the Prelude (Molto Agitato) was given with fine dramatic effect.

The Witches' Dance by MacDowell and Mr. Anderson's own composition, Humoresque, were very well received, but without doubt Mr. Anderson excelled himself in his rendition of Lisza's Hungarian Rapsodie N. 12. His well developed style showed to splendid advantage in this delightful concert number.

He was ably assisted by Miss J. MacDonald, whose two short songs were thoroughly enjoyed. She has rare singing qualities of sweetness and sympathy, which token a voice of high promise.

The I.O.D.E. are to be congratulated on their enterprise in making it possible for Mr. Anderson to be heard to such advantage.

OLD TIMERS' MEETING

A meting of the Old Timers' Association was held in the council chamber on May 13, for the purpose of electing officers, Mayor Henderson acting as chairman. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted and the following officers were thn elected:

Hon. President—Wm. Fernie.
Presidnt—H. J. Johnson.
Vic-President—Arthur Fenwick.
Vice-President—Aubrey Snow.
Vice-President—Frank Labelle.

SET OUT FIRES WITHOUT PERMIT

On Wednesday, May 11th, Lauchie Meachen of Marysville, was tried before Stipendiary Magistrate John Leask, at Cranbrook, charged with setting out fires during the closed season without first obtaining a permit, in contravention of section 108, of the Forest Act of British Columbia. He was found guilty and fined $10.00 and costs.

This is the first case of illegal burning which come to the attention of the Forest Officials during the present year. In view of the fact that no damage occured to standing timber, His Worship was disposed to administer the minimum fine.

The offence is a serious one. The Forest Officials are entrusted with the protection not only of our forests but of the lives and prosperity of the citizens which can be endangered by indiscriminate burning. Action will be taken by the Provincial Police and Forest Officers in every instance where it can be shown that the provisions of the Act in respect to the prevention of Forest Fires have been violated. A determined effort will be made during this year to reduce the annual loss from forest fires causes through careless burning and campers' fires and offenders may look for the fullest penalty imposed by the Forest Act.

The Ladies Aid of the Baptist church wish to express their thanks for the generous response of individual friends and heads of the various business establishments to their cake and apron sale, in providing goods for sale. The sum of $175 was realized.

OFFICERS ARE BUSY

On Monday last, Ed. Robbins, was brought before Justices of Peace Gregson and Watson, charged with having entered Canada as a non-emigrant and ceasing to be such without reporting such facts to the nearest Immigration Officer. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25.00, or one month in goal.

Information was laid by an official of the Department of Immigration who has been investigating complaints received from the Fernie district that numbers of workmen from the States have been coming across the line and securing work other than agriculture employment, on this side, thereby violating certain sections of the Immigration Act, and at the same time adding to the general unemployment situation in Canada.

Evidence furnished before a board of Inquiry on the previous Saturday, showed that Robbins entered Canada at Coutts, Alberta, claiming to be on a visit to some friends for a few weeks and to return to the States through Gateway. He also admitted that he was warned by the Immigration Inspector, that he must not accept work in Canada. On the following day, however, he tried to get work at Lethbridge, and unable to secure it, came on to Michel, where he again tried, and being unseccessful, continued his journey to Fernie, where he applied and received a permit to follow the occupation of a miner for 60 days.

A close check on the movements of certain persons after entering Canada has resulted in several deportations being ordered during the last week as well as prosecutions before the local court, and have included those entering at Coutts, Alta., and Newgate and Kingsgate, B.C., who have arrived in this district and tried for, or accepted, other than farm employment.

HORRAY, KIDS! BIG CIRCUS ON THE WAY WITH CLOWNS 'N EVERYTHIN'

Advance cars, with their complement of billers, agents, contracting for supplies and railroad accomodations; special advertising men engaging space for banners, and publicity men passed through Fernie and blazed the way for the coming on Tuesday, May 24th, of Howe's Great London Circus and Van Amburg's Trained Wild Animals, the new big merger of established white top organizations.

It will not be long before the four all steel trains of the big show steam into the city and all the familiar activities of the circus will be with us—and many that are not familiar, but none the less attractive for all that. For the Howe-Van Amburg circus carries in every department, things new to the show lot—from motor and electric contrivances to its three-ring, two steel arena performances; from its portable folding grandstands to its lengthy, impressive and novel street parade.

The canvas city of the combined circuses covers eleven acres of ground. There are eleven hundred people, five hundred and fifty horses and four hundred animals with the show. There are nineteen elephants, all of them performers of merit, while the famous Van Amburg trained wild beasts furnish thrills in proper circus abundance.

CITY BASEBALL LEAGUE

A meeting will be held in the Fernie Cigar Store on Sunday, May 22, at 10.00 a.m. for the purpose of organizing the above League. Everybody interested in playing ball this year should not miss this opportunity.

WILL CIRCLE KOOTENAY

(Nelson News)

Expressing the conviction that the finest fellows on earth, the Kootenay Oldtimers, will just naturally have to foregather at Nelson on the First of July, when they hear of what is being planned. Captain F. P. Armstrong, secretary of the association, admitted yesterday that effective work was going on behind the scenes in preparation for the big reunion of "the men who made the Kootenay," that will be associated with the general Dominion Day celebration that the G.W.V.A. has in hand.

On coming back to town Captain Armstrong has plunged right into the work of organizing the reunion. The Oldtimers will, in all probability, be the guests both of the Veterans and of the Nelson branch of the Kootenay Oldtimers. That is to say, they will be shown special honor by the Veterans and will have the old log cabin rendezvous on the Recreation grounds, while the local Oldtimers will arrange some form of special entertainment.

"The building of the Crow was a recent event to these men," declared Capt. Armstrong. "Some were here before the C.P.R. was here at all. Old Bill Fernie, the man who founded the Kootenay mining, has passed out, and his treasury of personal lore is lost to the country. He was the oldest timer by years. Bob Galbraith of Fort Steele is now the dean. He has a big margin over anybody else. There is the flight of '82, Jim Gilker, Bob Green and others. Scattered over the country are 50 or more of these early day adventurers, who started this country into being.

"To get together and talk over those early days of Silver City and Golden City, of the steamer Mudhen, of old steamboat days, of hunting and of trail blazing—all this before Nelson was though of—to call old times to mind, will be the object of the reunion.

"As the time progresses more are eligible to join the ranks of the Oldtimers. A man requires to have lived here 21 years, and on earth 51, roughly speaking, to be eligible.

"The Chako-Mika register will be on deck to be signed again by those attending.

"Any Oldtimer who voluntarily stays away from this reunion will kick himself the rest of his days, if I am any judge."

"Circle Kootenay" is the slogan Captain Armstrong has evolved for the reunion. The Revelstoke contingent will be supposed to return home by way of the East Kootenay, and the Fort Steele denizens will be expected to make the circuit of the main line to get back to "Steele" Every group will be expected to make a circuit.

DROWNED AT CRESTON

Creston, B.C., May 15.—A drowning accident in which Sergt. Searle, who is in command of the R. C. M. P. station at Creston, lost his life and Constable Uren almost met the same fate, occurred at the Goat river, about a mile from town early this morning. The two, along with Constable Burden, were en route to the barracks here after spending the night on watch at the Idaho boundary at Port Hill. The fatality occurred at a point on the lower road where the Goat river, which is now at very high water, floods the road.

However, on the trip out on Saturday night no trouble was experienced in getting through the flood waters but it would appear that during the night the water rose considerably, or that the late sergeant's horse stepped into a washout of unexpected depth, and in its struggles in the rushing waters, the rider and horse were both carried out into the main river and swept down stream.

Constable Uren, who was close behind, got into similar trouble and was unable to lend any help while Constable Burden found the navigating too treacherous to reach the drowning man in time to be of any assistance.

As soon as the news of the fatality reached town a party of citizens at once started to patrol the river banks, to rescue the body, but up until late this afternoon no sign of the drowned man has been seen but his horse was recovered this afternoon. A reward of $150 has been offered and the river is being carefully watched by a score or more of the local Indians who are familiar with all its twists, eddys and cut banks, but with the stream running strong and spreading out over the flats area, the watching and search is no small undertaking.

Sergt. Searle had only been here a few months, coming from Lethbridge in March to take over the post from Constable Petty.

He was a popular and most efficient officer and his untimely demise is keenly felt. He is survived by his wife, who with her mother is resident at the local barracks.

HAYWOOD WILL COME BACK FROM RUSSIA TO JAIL

London, May 16.—William D. Haywood will return to the United States to serve his 20-year sentence in Leavenworth prison, he declared today in a statement wirelessed from Moscow.

The I.W.W. leader, whose disappearance brought bitter criticism from associates who are also under sentence for hampering the nation's war activities, announced he will return after the Third Internationale and other conventions have been held in Moscow. Haywood's bondsmen will not suffer loss, he said.

SHORTHAND FIRST USED BY THE ROMANS

Startling as it may seem, shorthand was widely used in the time of the Caesars. Its beginning is a matter of conjecture; its evolution has extended over many centuries. The first mention of an abbreviated system is in connection with the Roman poet Quintus Ennius, 200 B.C., who used a scheme of 1100 signs that he devised for writing more swiftly than was possible by an or alphabet. Doubtless some method of abbreviating words was also used by the Hebrews and by the Persians, though there is no evidence that shorthand characters or other special symbols were employed.

The first definite and indisputable evidence of the use of shorthand is recorded by Plutorch, who mentions that in the debate on the Catilinians conspiracy in the Roman senate in 63 B.C., the famous oration of Cicero was reported in shorthand. The method of shorthand used was invented by Tiro, who was a freedman of Marcus Tullius Cicero. Like many of the slaves of that time, captives of other nations, he was highly educated and on receiving his freedom from Cicero he adopted two-thirds of his master's name and became Marcus Tullius Tiro. He then became Cicero's secretary and confidant. The writing was done on tablets that were covered with a layer of wax.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 5 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 30, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

IMMENSE TELESCOPES

Once upon a time a group of scientific men who were particularly interested in astronomy, decided that it would be splendid to have an observatory in California. Everything seemed ideal — steady climate, clear skies and conveniently situated mountains—all that was lacking was the money! This was an obstacle, indeed, but not enough to block the progress of men who were used to gazing at the stars. They looked about them and soon spied their gold tucked snugly in the spacious pockets of one, James Lick, a burly miner who had "struck it rich." Him they approached with their scheme but the wealthy one would have nothing of it.

Then the conspirators put their heads together in council. Approaching him again they spake, like the famous Abou Ben Adam, more low, but cheerily still. "We would call it the Lick Observatory after you," they said, "and we would equip it with the largest and finest telescope in the whole wide world. Just think how famous it would make your name!"

Lick was but human after all, and he fell for their clever blandishments. The observatory was built on Mount Hamilton at an elevation of a mile. A road 30 miles long was built out of the funds for the sole purpose of reaching the observatory. A marvellous telescope with a lens three feet in diameter, the largest in the world at that time, 1888, was installed. Lick deid happy in the success of his great enterprise and was buried, according to his wishes, directly beneath the pier of his huge observatory dome. His observatory has done wonderful things in the world of science and the stars, and all honor is due to the rough old prospector whose gold made it possible for the scientists' dream to come true.

However, Jas. Lick might not rest so pacefully under his colossal telescope if he knew that only six years later a Chicago street car millionaire stood sponsor for another whose lens licked the Lick lens by four inches. This is housed in what is known as the Yerkes Observatory, after its benevolent builder, and is situated just outside the lights and smoke of Chicago.

These two are both what are called refracting telescopes, having huge lenses at the end of their long tubes through which the object is seen direct. The lense is one solid piece of glass and had to be cast and recast until it was an absolutely flawless mass. In one case this took a year to accomplish. Then the corners of the rough block were carefully chipped off and it was ground and polished until it had absolutely the correct curve and a surface more perfect in smothness than one can imagine. To test it an imitation star was made by a tiny hole in a screen, with light behind it. If this showed any ragged rays of light the lens was gently rubbed with the thumb until the spot stood clearly defined.

In later times a more easily constructed and much larger instrument called the reflecting telescope has been invented. At the Dominion Astronomical Observatory, Victoria, we have the largest one of this type yet completed, though a larger one is under construction for the observatory at Mount Wilson, California.

The most important feature in this Canadian instrument is a huge reflecting mirror at the base of the tube. The mirror is farmed of a solid piece of glass six feet in diameter and a foot thick at the outside edge, with a hole 10½ inches in diameter in the centre. Its upper surface is silvered and formed into a flawless parabola which brings the reflected light to a focus 30 feet above the mirror. The mirror weighs 2½ tons; yet, it is so accurately supported and counterpoised that its surface cannot be distorted, as it must not deviate more than one two-hundred-thousandth of an inch from the theoretical curve. The object is reflected from this mirror into a very small mirror just below the point of focus, and can be seen either through the ten-inch hole in the great mirror or from a hole in the side of the tube below the point of focus. This type of telescope has a much wider range than the refraction type.

ANGLERS' ATTENTION

For the information and guidance of the angler, the Canadian Pacific Railway has issued a booklet entitled "Open Seasons for Fishing in Canada and Newfoundland." This booklet covers extensively the kinds of fish to be had in each province, the open seasons, and the resident and non-resident license fee. Fishing being a popular summer pastime in Canada this little booklet will in all probability be in great demand and prove of value for the information it contains.

SATURDAY NIGHT CHANGES TUNE

Saturday Night says: The City of Fernie, British Columbia, shows a financial statement for the year 1920 which is, as the auditor notes, a decided improvement over that for the preceding year when the city ended business with a bank overdraft to the extent of $26,212, and other items, all of which amounted to $29,603. The last statment is of a different order. The corporation at the close of 1920 had a credit of $14,716, and this and the details contained in the financial statement printed by the municipality, are evidence that the affairs of the place are being conducted with a due regard for that caution which should mark the conduct of the fiscal governors of any community, large or small. A corporation of any size can have either a clean bill of health or it can be up to its ears in debt. Whether it is one or the other denotes what degree of respect its citizns and other parties may have for its standing. It is a known fact that tax defaulters pay up more readily when they feel that the affairs of their place are being properly conducted, and the readiness of taxpayers to acquit themselves of their liabilities promptly is always an asset. The condition of the sinking funds in connection with the funded debt of the city appears to be quite good, and anyone interested can see from the items in the report that the city is paying its way as it goes, and that it is conducting its various departments in a proper economic manner.

CLOWN FOLLOWS HIS FATHER IN FAVOR OF THE AMERICAN PUBLIC

In the days of singing and talking clowns, Johnny Barlow was emperor of clown alley, as the funny men's aisles in the circus dressing rooms are termed. Throughout the United States and Canada, John Barlow, star funster, was as well known as Charley Chaplin is today. When Johnny sung his ballads and uproarious ditties, the circus audiences joined in the choruses, and then made Johnny repeat so that they might not miss anything of his art. Today, Johnny's son, John Barlow, Jr., stars in the great three-ring, two stage, Howe's Great London Circus and Van Amburg's Wild Animal performance. The king is dead. Long live the king. Thus, the Barlow dynasty of laughter is still reigning under the big top, he will be seen when in Fernie on Tuesday, May 24th.

At last a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a short time, the Constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

CUTTING CORNERS

Ever since Jack Dempsey flattened out Jess Williard those interested in ing affairs have been speculating as to the chances of Georges Carpentier defeating him. The sensational flattening of Joe Beckett by the Frenchman made his admirers still more confident that he could defeat Dempsey. Previously the chief objection to Carpentier was that he was not big enough and strong enough to master such a rugged, rushing customer as Dempsey. Beckett, however, was quite as rugged as Dempsey, and he was disposed of as though he had been a lightweight. The fact that he was licked almost as expeditiously by Moran rather detracted from the Carpentier exploit, but later on it took Dempsey all his time to get away with Brennan. So those who had originally calculated that Dempsey and Carpentier would make an interesting fracas did not have to hedge any bets.

Now that they are matched to meet in Jersey City in a little more than two months, controversy rages. Of course, if it didn't rage it would be a sorry thing for Tex Rickard, one of whose duties is to work the sporting world into a frenzy concerning the hostilities. So far as it has been expressed, the American consensus is that Dempsey will win easily. The only thing upon which everyone seems agreed is that the fight will be a short one, because of the terrific offensive powers of both fighters. We recall that predictions that the great war would be over in a few weeks were rife in the late summer of 1914, and were based precisely upon the same fact. Of all dope, sporting dope is, speaking by and large, the most untrustworthy, and of all sportig dope perhaps that concerning the ring wins the brown derby. Readers who are old enough to recall the Sullivan-Corbett fight will remember that nine-tenths of the contemporary wisecrackers did not admit that Corbett had a chance. Later on they wondered how they could have been so foolish as to credit Sullivan with a chance.

Readers of sporting pages will no doubt imbibe many thousands of words of more or less critical opinion concerning the outcome of the prospective hostilities at Jersey City. They are not to be blamed for that. We merely suggest a couple of thoughts. One is that there is hardly any way to get a line on the fighting qualities of either Dempsey or Carpentier, and there will be none until the fight is over. One can imagine what sort of fighter Dempsey was when he whipped Willard; one can conceive Carpentier's form when he knocked out Beckett. We do not imagine either of them has improved since then. The chances are that both have deteriorated. How far?

ORPHEUM THEATRE
Wed. and Thurs., May 25 and 26

The case of improving heavyweight champions is rare. The champion who will continue to work faithfully and punish himself into condition after he has attained the crown and discovers easy ways of making big money is rarely encountered. He is something like the office holder who works so hard for the appointment that when he wins it he has no energy left.

The other point is: Pay no attention to the figures that will be published showing how much heavier Dempsey is than Carpentier. The American is a bigger man in every respect, except perhaps, in the legs and between the ears. However, the disparity is not to be compared with the disparity between Willard and Dempsey. At his best, Bob Fitzsimmons weighed perhaps 80 or 90 lbs. less than Willard, and not many sharps would concede Willard a chance with the freckled Cornishman if they had met at the time Fitzsimmons and Corbett met in Carson City. Ed. Dunkhorst was as big as Willard, and rugged. Fitzsimmons beat him with one punch, when to the horrified spectators he seemed to sink his arm into Dunkhorst's midriff almost up to the elbow.

Size, weight, reach have little or nothing to do with a comparison between two gladiators unless in other respects they are known to be on an equality. There are three things that count as the first three in the ring. They are condition, skill and the punch. We have every reason to assume that Carpentier's condition will be as good as it can be. We have heard nobody suggest that he is not as skilful as Dempsey and a quicker thinker. Can he punch as hard? What does it matter? It is conceded that he carries a knockout in each hand. As an observer remarked the other day, a 13-inch shell is just as deadly as an 18-inch shell. The only difference is that its devastation is not so widespread. Carpentier can hit hard enough to put Dempsey away if he lands on him. Dempsey himself has admitted that Carpentier would have solved Brennan in three or four rounds and knocked him out, thus admitting the power of the Frenchman's blow, and giving him a slight edge upon the modest speaker in the matter of intelligence. However, Dempsey may be talking on behalf of the gate. He does not want the impression to become general that Carpentier has no business in the same ring with him. About every time a pugilist says anything he happens to find us in a mood of extreme incredulity.

WOMEN GETTING BIGGER

The director of physical education at the University of Pennsylvania states that statistics of women's colleges covering a period of sixty years show the average college girl of today is an inch taller than the college girl of 1860. These statistics also prove the modern girl is six or seven pounds heavier.

ALLEN PLAYERS IN FINE SHOW

(Sentinel-Kamloops)

Stunning gowns, an array of talented artists, a plot emanating from Buenos Ayres, that whirlwind centre trigue, went to place the production of gaiety, fashion and diplomatic in- of "The Lady of the Scarlet Poppy," by the Allen players at the Opera House last night, among the foremost offerings of the season.

With Miss Verna Felton in the leading role and gowned exquisitely in wonderful creations, which elicited sharp, indrawn breaths of admiration from the feminine members of the audience, the performance held intense interest throughout.

This is the first appearance of the Allen players here in seven years. For the past 18 months Mr. Allen has been appearing in Tacoma. Before coming to Kamloops the company toured Vancouver Island. The fact that the repertoire of the Allen players could last 18 months in that most critical of American cities, Tacoma, seems to indicate the company needs but little further comment here.

Briefly the plot hinges around the machinations of Qualina Vallastro, interpreted perfectly by Miss Verna Felton. As an adventuress, victim after victim, always, always the idle rich, becomes emeshed in her web.

The opinions this "vampire" gives of her husband, Senor Juan Vallastro, by Mr. Howard Van Alystyne, right to his face, elicits unfeigned mirth of the audience.

The play is so full of interesting features, space forbids much detail. An instance of the perfect interpretation of her part by Miss Felton is best told when one of her victims, the only person in the world whom she fears, is brought into her presence. This scene is dramatic in the extreme so completely did Miss Felton enact her role that only the tick-tock of the clock on the wall could be heard. Not a foot scraped the floor. There was not a rustle of a dress. No greater tribute to an artist could be rendered than silence such as that.

There is much pathos in the exposure of his mother's wicked life to her son, Senor Emillo Vallestro, by Mr. Alvin Baird, who also assumes the role of Ernest 'Enry Bodgkins, butler, whom Mr. Fred Sullivan, as Frank Kemper, promoter and financier, disastrously attempts to teach the great American indoor sport of poker. He loses all his spare money, even his watch and chain, to the apparently innocent Ernest 'Enry.

Romance centres around the pretty love affair of Dorothy Lanier (Miss Marvel Phillips) daughter of a New York Senator, whose marriage, she feels, cannot take place with Milton Randolph (Mr. Allan Strickfaden), due to schemes of the adventuress who refuses to comply with the law by giving consent to the marriage of her sister to the son of Senora Vallastro, thus rendering the marriage illegal. It is in overcoming this difficulty that Senor Joseph Regolio (Mr. Clifford Dunston) figure in the intensely dramatic scene described above.

Aunt Molly Lane (Miss Florence Spencer) is one of the hits of the evening. Her humor, whimsical and droll, convulsed her audience time and again. In her youth she had refused the offer of marriage of Kemper. Meeting him after nearly a score of years, she determines not to get left a second time and the intrigue to bring this about made the building ring with uproarious laughter.

The Allen players are billed to play a week's engagement at The Grand, starting June 6th, the opening play will be "The Lady of the Scariet Poppy."

IS GRANDEST ON EARTH SHE SAYS

Winnipeg Woman on Verge of Despair When She Got Tanlac. Health Restored.

"I can't begin to tell all Tanlac has done for me; it's just the grandest medicine in the world," said Mrs. Matthew Cooke, of 763 Henry Ave., Winnipeg, Man.

"I was one of those who suffered more from the after effects of the 'flu' than from the 'flu' itself. It left me in a miserable condition. I couldn't regain my strength and one reason was that nearly everything I ate disagreed with me. I believe I was the most nervous person on earth. I spent a good deal of money seeking relief, but nothing I tried reached my case.

"I was just on the verge of despair when I decided to give Tanlac a trial, as I heard it praised so much. Never in my life have I seen anything to equal the change it made in me in a short time. I soon had a hearty appetite, nothing I ate disagreed with me and I picked up in weight wonderfully. As it built me up my nervous trouble disappeared and now I sleep all night long without waking once.

"When I get up in the morning I feel bright and cheerful just as I used to years ago. Tanlac proved in my case that it deserves all the praise that people are giving it. There certainly is no other medicine like it."

ASSISTANTS IN CANADA

Lenine, the dictator of Russia, is reported to have established a precedent and earned the gratitude of the United States, by taking Big Bill Haywood off their hands. Haywood was formerly the most potential of the I.W.W. leaders, and by his organizing efforts built that famous revolutionary body up to a membership of 420,000. After the trial of the I.W.W. conspirators at Chicago during the last year of the war, Haywood was retired to private life by the Federal authorities, and it is indirect proof of his organizing abilities that the I.W.W. is said to have dwindled to a present membership of 50,000. Lenine now proposes to utilize those abilities by bringing him to Moscow and making him Minister of Propaganda in the government of the Red Republic. This news is more reassuring to the Western hemisphere than it is to Europe; for it is said that his duties, for the present, will consist of perfecting an organization and appointing agents to spread Red propaganda in Germany, Poland, Norway and Sweden. Many of his adherents in the I.W.W. were of these nationalities. In view of this premature announcement, it looks as though Big Bill would have to run the gauntlet to get to Moscow, but so long as he goes a good many Americans will be happy; and there will be no sorrow should he fail to reach his destination.

Since Lenine has gone into the business of importing foreigners to serve as cabinet ministers, we beg to advise him that Canada has a number of citizens of the same type as Big Bill Haywood, whose presence and services we would gladly part with. There are several in Winnipeg and other Western cities; and there is in Toronto a soap boxer named Macdonald, whom the city would part with for the price of a postage stamp. And the best of it is that Macdonald is willing to go. Macdonald has lately been busying himself among the unemployed, but employment for the unemployed seems to be foreign to his aims. He and his kind demand for the unemployed the kind of relief that does not involve work. "I asked for bread and ye offered me a job" is the bitter purport of their complaint.

Macdonald was one of a deputation which recently interviewed the Toronto Board of Control, and was frank enough to admit that he was in favor of the establishment of Soviet government in Canada. When Controller Maguire suggested that he had best go to the land where Soviet government exists, he offered to go next day if the city would provide him with a passage. At present the public authorities have no funds set aside to pay the fares of gentlemen who wish to go to Russia and stay there; but if Lenine will agree to take a job-lot of trained and voluble Bolsheviks off our hands, we have no doubt that the financial part of it could be arranged. —Saturday Night.

DICKEN'S OFFICE BOY NEVER READ STORIES

A gatekeeper at the Temple in London has the unique distinction of having been office boy to Charles Dickens, and, more unique still, admits that he never read any of the great novelist's stories. In the March Bookman, Catherine Van Dyke gives the story of an interview with the old man, William Edrup.

Among other stories is one of attempted bribery. There was much excitement in London over "Mrs. Lairriper's Lodgings," which was appearing serially in a London magazine. One man came to the office boy to offer sixpense if he would disclose the end of the story.

"Mr. Dickens," the old man said, "gave me three shillings a week, and every time my ma had a new baby (which was often) he advanced me a shilling but having to give it home. I could only keep twopence a week for myself. My master knew this, and that the sixpense the man offered to me for telling the end of the story meant a lot to me; but when I told him the man wanted to sell out the happenings to others he said, 'Come here, William boy,' and he took me on his knee. 'I'll give you sixpense now for yourself and I'll give this penny with a hole in it if you promise me to keep it for good and ever. but you tell that scoundrel that I say the end of the story is this—they all die sooner or later'."

NAMES OF PRECIOUS STONES

The names of precious stones reach so far back in the depths of time that their original meaning cannot be traced. This is true of the word "emerald." So far as seems to be known it is a derivative or a variant of a Sanskrit word meaning precious stone but no doubt the people who spoke Sanskrit gave it the name because of something which the stone meant to them. It may have been given this name because of its color or its hardness, or its rarity or because of something which it symbolized. It may be that the ancient and sacred language of India adopted the word from some older language and that in the long association between the stone and its name, the first significance of the name had been lost. The Greeks adopted the word "emerald" and it seems to have had no other significance to them than to us, being merely the name by which one might identify a particular stone.

The same condition is found in the case of the word "opal." It meant to the Greeks a particular and beautiful stone, just as it means to us—an opal. Distinguished students of language can only conjecture what the word "opal" meant in the beginning of its use. It may have been some ancient word signifying a multitude of colors or a peculiar irridescent lustre, but that is mere guessing.

The word "diamond" is sought to be explained as meaning "something exceedingly hard which may be seen through," and is said to have been formed of the Greek word "dia," which means "through," and "admant," which stands for extreme hardness. It is fairly plausible, but it is probable that the word "diamond," or something like it, may be found in a language older than Greek.

"Pearl" is thought by some writers to come from the Latin "pirula," meaning "a little pear," because so many fine pearls were pear-shaped. "Ruby" is thought to have been so-called from "ruber," the Latin for "red," but it may be that the word "ruber," meaning red, was derived from the name of the ruby.

"All the Boys Want a Ride on My New C.C.M."

TOMMY STEVENS has one big kick—

All the boys want to ride his new C. C. M. bicycle.

Tommy says, "The fellows pester the life out of me. Before one of them has finished a ride, some other fellow is

Coaxing for a Turn

They all seem to like my new C. C. M. a lot better than their own bikes."

Aside from this one kick, Tommy is tickled to death with his new bicycle.

He admits he can hardly blame the fellows for wanting to ride it. It runs so much easier. And when the boys ask him why, Tommy tells them about the

C.C.M. Triplex Hanger

It reduces friction. And there's a freedom from those mean "tight and loose" spots often developed by other hangers.

Tommy says, "It makes a C. C. M. bicycle run so smooth and easy you'd almost think you were riding down grade. And I can feel the Triplex fairly sizzle with power and pull away like mad when I hit her up!"

Boys! Girls! Have you ridden a C. C. M. Bicycle with the C. C. M. Triplex Hanger? Get your father to go to the dealer's with you and see one.

The New Models Are Beauties

The last word in bicycle style and smartness. Wonderfully smooth enamelling that fairly sparkles. And the "bright as sunshine" nickelling is done over copper so it can't rust.

All C. C. M. Bicycles have the New Hercules Positive Drive Coaster Brake — the kind that coasts farther and has no clumsy side arm.

The C. C. M. is "A Real Bicycle for a Real Boy."

And there's a special one that the boy won't outgrow. Equally good for a lad of nine or a youth of twenty. Step into a C.C.M. dealer's and ask to see the C. C. M. 18-in. Curved Bar Model.

THE RED CROSS Still Carries On IN British Columbia

THE POST WAR WORK OF THE RED CROSS throughout the world is still a vital factor—a colossal task. This call for increased membership is one to which no person in British Columbia, placed in possession of even a few facts, will fail to respond.

Returned Men Still In Hospitals In the hospitals and sanitariums of British Columbia there are still over 800 returned men seeking to regain health. True, these men have all the attention which crowded hospitals and over-worked nurses and attendants can bestow, but they are lacking these little things of comfort—these small, simple luxuries which mean so little to you who are strong and healthy; so much to them who are ill and suffering. The Red Cross supplies them with tobacco, socks, pajamas, underwear, sweaters, slippers, razors, shaving soap, and so on. Their wants are few and simple—their needs are great.

Workshops For Disabled Soldiers In a memorandum drafted by the workshop sub-committee of the Victoria Branch of the Red Cross for submission to the Federal Government, Clause 1 states:

"That even after all that has been done by the Government of Canada, through its various departments, for the welfare of returned men, there remains in this country 'a residue of disabled men who are unemployable in ordinary industry, a residue for which no provision exists, namely, those who possess some potential capacity, but can only exercise it if some special arrangements are made to enable them to do so.'"

Fernie	1	1	500
Cranbrook	1	1	500
White Spruce	0	2	000
Wardner	0	2	000

On Sunday three League fixtures were played. Wycliffe by defeating Fernie at Wycliffe, 4-1, won their second game, tieing for first place with Waldo, who defeated White Spruce on the Fernie diamond, 6-4, in ten innings; and Cranbrook won from Wardner at Wardner, 8-5.

The next League fixtures scheduled are on May 29, when the two leaders, Waldo and Wycliffe, meet at Wycliffe. Cranbrook comes to Fernie and the White Spruce journey to Wardner.

Enthusiasm runs high and the fans are turning out in crowds to witness each game along the line. The above scheduled games should be rather interesting as each team is out to fight for places.

Judging from two of the games already played, having to go into extra innings, and the closeness of scores, the teams are fairly even and the fighting spirit of each team ensures the fan that he will get his money's worth before the season is over.

WALDO VS. WHITE SPRUCE

Waldo baseball team last Sunday at Fernie defeated the White Spruce nine by a score of 6 to 4, ten innings being played before Waldo registered their win. The game was fast all through and held the fans to the last of the tenth in great excitement. The White Spruce nine were very unlucky to lose, their defeat being mainly caused by a couple of costly errors.

WYCLIFFE—FERNIE

Wycliffe won their second game of the League fixtures on Sunday last by defeating Fernie at Wycliffe by a score of 4 to 1.

The game was scoreless up to the sixth, when Wycliffe tallied twice. Fernie's lone run came in the seventh, while Wycliffe added one each in the eighth and ninth.

Wycliffe was unable to find the base path until the fifth. After that listless ball gave them chances they did not overlook, while Fernie with men on bases nearly every innings were unable to cross the plate.

Both pitchers handled themselves creditably in the pinches, especially Musser of Wycliffe, who pitched himself out of numerous holes in the first few innings.

FOOTBALL

The results of League games for last week were as follows:

Fernie 2, Blairmore 0, at Blairmore.

Coleman 1, Michel 1, at Michel.

Bellevue 1, Coal Creek 1, at Bellevue.

Hillcrest 3, Corbin 1, at Corbin.

Next week a table showing the stand of each team will be published:

BLAIRMORE V. FERNIE

The Fernie team travelled to Blairmore last Sunday and defeated the Blairmore team by a score of 1-0, Dick Thornton scoring the only goal of the match with a beautiful drive from the 18 yard line. The goalkeeper got his hands to the ball but could not hold it. Dick knows how to make the ball increase speed. Geo. Davidson had his ankle broken after 15 minutes of play and this handicapped the Fernie team, but they held their own and ran out good winners. Davidson will be out of the game for some weeks. This should encourage the boys to go strongly after insurance.

BELLEVUE V. FERNIE

Bellevue will play at Fernie on Sunday, May 22. They have a very good line up and are expected to make the local boys travel. The following players will represent Fernie:

Goal, Sawyer; backs, W. Thompson and G. Murray; half backs, P. Robertson, J. Gibson and A. Dicken; forwards, J. Robson, H. Hardy, G. Booth, D. Thornton, A. Thompson.

Bill Riley has applied for his transfer. We hear he is headed toward Coal Creek. Fernie will lose one of their best men. When in shape he is a first class half back and always inspires his men.

MICHEL JR. VS. FERNIE JR.

The Fernie Junior Football team will play Michel at Michel on Sunday. The boys are short of cars to take them down and would much appreciate it if the owners of cars would help them out in this matter.

The Fernie team will be:

Goal, Dan Kost; backs, Joe Hamer and D. Nee; half backs, T. Payne, J. Thompson and T. Davidson; forwards, T. Williams, J. Davidson, F. Martin, M. Nee and J. Smith.

Reserves: P. Kost and R. Pennington.

"KISMET" PICTURE MAKES FILM HISTORY

There is nothing more indicative of the dawning of a greater era in motion picture production, an era of artistic achievement which has at last placed the motion picture on a level with the best that the stage offers, than the gradual appearance in the silent drama of footlight artists who have heretofore regarded the motion picture as something quite beneath their dignity.

Of paramount import is the appearance of Otis Skinner in "Kismet." The picture, produced by Robertson-Cole as a super-special will be seen at the Orpheum theatre next Wednesday and Thursday. It is a significant fact that Mr. Skinner was not so very long ago allied on the side of those who did not take the art of the screen at all seriously.

"While I do not think the screen will ever supercede the stage," remarked Mr. Skinner recently in discussing this question, "I firmly believe that the next few years will mark the appearance on the screen of many of the most prominent stage players of the century, for more than one reason.

"First of all, the screen has advanced to the point where it is no longer in the experimental stage; it is a medium for expression which has clamored for and won the recognition of those connected with things theatrical; and secondly, the stage actor by reason of his training is eminently fitted for screen work; he brings the temperament of the theatre to his work; he has the ability of adapting himself to any circumstance, for the stage actor has received his education in the 'school of hard knocks.'

"My own brief experience in the realm of the silent drama has proven most delightful. The amazing amount of work required for the filming of a single scene, the care which the minutest detail receives, and above all the wide range which the camera allows for the development of a play, has been a revelation."

"THE TWO SYSTEMS"

THE STOCK COMPANY : Under this form of organization Capital is involved and naturally must be compensated. Under the provisions of the Dominion Insurance Act the Stock Companies may allot to the Shareholders:—
(a) All interest earned on the paid-up capital.
(b) One-tenth of all profits earned on participating policies, and
(c) All profits earned on no-participating policies and other sources.

THE MUTUAL COMPANY : Is purely a means of mutual protection. There is no capital invested excepting the premiums of the policyholders; so that all profit derived from whatever source, is the exclusive property of the policyholders and is returned to them as dividends.

THE ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCE : The above statement reveals the essential difference between stock and mutual companies. Just as some co-operative enterprises eliminate "the middleman," so a mutual life company eliminates the "Shareholder," as the late Wm. McCabe, L.L.B., F.I.A., has said—"The mutual principle is the only one by which the participating members of a life insurance company can receive a full equivalent for their money. It gives insurance at net cost."

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the city council took place last evening with all the members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted.

The business transacted was mostly in the shape of a number of bylaws.

Instructions were given the city clerk that all scavenging rates and arrears must be collected

By-law No. 226, regulating and licensing hotels, road houses and clubs, was passed. The hotel license was fixed at $200, and clubs at $25 per annum, to come into force on the same date as the coming into force of the government liquor act.

A by-law was passed providing for the inspection of premises for fire prevention purposes.

By-law No. 229, providing for regulations regarding fire escapes.

The Pound By-law was amended fixing pound fees for horses at $10 per head and cattle at $5 per head.

A by-law amending the Building By-law and Electric Wiring By-law was passed, providing regulations for all classes of buildings and making it necessary for securing a permit for these operations.

A vote of thanks was passed to the local branch of the I.O.D.E. for a beautiful picture of the King and Queen.

LOCAL COUNCIL OF WOMEN

A continuation of the annual meeting of the local Council of Women was held in the council chamber on Wednesday of last week. The list of officers for next year is as follows:

President—Mrs. A. I. Fisher.
1st Vice-Pres.—Mrs. S. Herchmer.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Mrs. A. B. Trites.
Cor Sec.—Mrs. A. Cummings.
Rec Sec.—Miss M. Hogan.
Treas.—Mrs. E. K. Stewart.
Convenor of Committee on Laws—Mrs. H. F. McLean.
Convenor of Committee on Education—Mrs. Wallace.
Convenor of Press Committee — Mrs. Parker.

A brief resume of the work of the council for the year shows to their credit the appointing of women commissioners, who got on the Provincial and Dominion voters' lists many names of women who would not otherwise have been on.

The Health committee worked to secure a school nurse and it is expected that in the near future one will be established in Fernie schools. This committee also got a permanent system of garbage collection established, which has resulted in a cleaner, healthier and more beautiful city.

Conditions under which food was being sold were improved so that now it is possible to buy both bottled milk and wrapped bread.

All possible aid was given in establishing a public library in the city.

A study was made of the laws of British Columbia as affecting women and children, and a paper read on this subject during the year by Mrs. S. Herchmer.

An appropriation for playgrounds was secured and the work of erecting playground apparatus at the Fernie Annex and West Fernie schools is to be begun immediately. It is hoped when these are erected that the citizns will co-operate in guarding them from vandalism and wanton destruction.

Mrs. Gee, of Victoria, gave a very interesting talk, which was much appreciated. After telling of the Local Council's work in securing a policewoman and in strving for a woman's police department in the capital city, Mrs. Gee pressed home the need of a school nurse in a city like Fernie. She told of the great good that was being accomplished by the nurses who are now established in every school of the larger centres and many of the smaller towns as well. They are everywhere proving themselves indispensable. It may soon be compulsory to give every school child this physical supervision so as to increase his efficiency and thus his value to community and state.

It was felt by most of those present that there was an especially crying need of a school nurse in Fernie, not only by reason of our cosmopolitan population, but because of the contract system of medical aid, under which nearly every child comes. Whenever the nurse in her daily rounds found any need, small or great, the child could be sent at once to his regular doctor. This medical attention is already paid for, but is often never received because the need is not detected. For instance, ofttimes mentally deficient or backward children are only so through some physical defect, which could be easily remedied, if detected and the child given so much better chance in life. The medical men who have the contract heartily approve of having a school nurse, are willing to co-operate with her, and are anxious to see one instituted, as they believe she would be of great benefit to the children and community as a whole. The problem of financing a nurse is negligible, as the government will pay half, and she would have time to do a good deal of community nursing which is always in demand, wherewith to reimburse the board for the balance of her salary.

PAPERS LAUD MR. FERNIE

Victoria papers have made extended editorial references to the career of the late William Fernie, whose death was recorded last week, the former Kootenay pioneer having taken up his residence at the provincial capital after his retirement from business.

The Colonist says:

"In a manner that will be felt in every direction where local philanthropic effort is required, the death of William Fernie will be deeply regretted. The great majority of the citizens knew him only by name, and then always in connection with some charitable donation, always of a substantial kind. Only a few people knew of the extent of his philanthropy, for his benefations were as often as not annonymous, and his greatest satisfaction was derived from the knowledge of doing good for his own sake, and in order that his fellow men might benefit. The late Mr. Fernie, during the years of his active career, and they were full of achievement, wrote his name into the history of British Columbia, of which he was a worthy pioneer. He had the true pioneering spirit which discounts hardships and only looks upon them as rungs in the ladder of success. As a prospector he had to face many privations and dissapointments, but like most of his race, who refuse to be discouraged, he met with ultimate success. His presistency won for him wealth and a place in the annals of the province which he chose as the scene of his labors. His name was selected as that of the new prosperous mining town near the eastern boundary of British Columbia, and his association with the Crow's Nest Mines, the wealth of which he discovered, made him a participant in a large way in the development of the province.

"Victoria can ill afford to loose such a citizen as Mr. Fernie. The province owes a good deal to his energies, and what he accomplished will always be recalled with pride. In a just cause he was never appealed to

MISS VERNA FELTON AND THE ALLEN PLAYERS

It will be like "Old Home Week" to the many friends of Miss Verna Felton and the Allen Players, at the Grand Theatre on June 6, when this popular company will return for a week's engagement. The Allens were undoubtedly the most popular company on the road and have endeared themselves to the patrons of the spoken drama by keeping absolute faith with their advertising and presenting the very best plays obtainable and by a company that is second to none. Each and every play is mounted and costumed and produced with careful attention to detail.

During the absence of the company from this territory they have been appearing almost continuously in the coast cities. After the road tour of 1914 they appeared for one solid year at the Princess Theatre, in Victoria. Then spent another season on the road. After that Miss Felton was the featured leading woman of the famous Baker Stock Company at Portland, Oregon. Then Mr. Allen secured the Hippodrome in Tacoma, where they have been up to the present time. The entire cast comes direct from this engagement. The plays for this season were selected from their vast repertoire of bills and each and every one is a tried success. The repertoire for Fernie will be announced later. Pre-war prices will prevail.

TWO CASES AT ASSIZE COURT

The spring Assizes covering civil cases only, opened here on Wednesday morning before the Honorable Mr. Justice Murphy. The first case to be heard was that of W. J. J. Morrison versus Rock Creek Lumber Co. The matter arose out of a contract for the sale of timber on limits of the plaintiff to the defendant company on a stumpage basis. The plaintiff brought action, alleging that the contract for the sale bound the defendant company to log the limits clean, whereas further allegation is made that they removed their sawmill and ceased operations while there still remained a substantial quantity of merchantable timber. This case has not been concluded as further evidence is required as to the actual quantity of timber supposed to be available on the limits, the plaintiff claiming this amounts to over 600,000 feet, while the defendant company takes the stand that less than 200,000 feet remain and this is not merchantable, in view of the inaccessibility to log it economically.

The case of Farquharson vs. C.P.R. began on Thursday morning and is still in progress. This is a damage action wherein the plaintiff claims he suffered material losses through failure of the defendant company to furnish proper cars when required to transport logs, the sale of which he had contracted with the Baker Lumber Co. at Waldo. Shipments were to have been made from Cokato to Morrissey. A. I. Fisher, assisted by F. C. Lawe, is conducting the case for the plaintiff and J. E. McMuller, solicitor for the company for the province, assisted by S. Herchmer, of this city, are handling the case for the railway.

COL. LOWERY CROSSES DIVIDE

R. T. Lowery, founder of the Fernie Ledge, which later changed its name to the District Ledger, died on Friday last at Grand Forks general hospital. The Nelson News contains the following reference to his death:

Succumbing to Bright's Disease, for which he was receiving treatment at the Grand Forks General Hospital, "Colonel" Robert T. Lowery, the pioneer newspaper man of the Kootenay, who came to this district 30 years ago from Ontario, died Friday, at the age of 65 years.

His dying wish, communicated to his executor, W. R. Dewdney, government agent at Grand Forks, was that he be buried at Nelson, by the Oldtimers, and accordingly the Nelson branch of the Kootenay Pioneers' association will have charge of the funeral, which will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from St. Savior's Church. C. W. Busk, president of the branch, and Captain F. P. Armstrong, secretary, will officiate as chief mourners, while J. A. Gibson, J. A. Gilker, J. Fred Hume, H. Selous, Alex. McDonald and A. Tregilllus will be the pallbearers.

Colonel Lowery's newspaper enterprises in British Columbia must have been a dozen in number. In the 1903-04 volume of his "Float," which he periodically collected in book form, he stated that he had up to that time "been the father of eight Kooenay papers," adding whimsically that his reward was "still coming up the pike." Since then he is known to have had three, and has probably been more.

Born in Eastern Ontario, young Lowery moved to the Sarnia district with his family at an early age, and his first business venture was a partnership with his older brother John at Petrolea, in a stationery and newspaper business, the brothers owning the Petrolea Topic. Then he moved to Sault Ste. Marie, entering the stationery business.

On May 26, 1891, 30 years ago he arrived in this district. After putting in the season in the mining camps he went east for the winter, but returned in the spring and started a little fruit and stationery store in Nelson at the point where the Canadian Bank of Commerce now stands. When the townsite of New Denver was auctioned by the government in 1892 he attended the sale, bought lots and founded a newspaper. Almost immediately he moved to Kaslo, which then had a population of thousands and started publication of the Claim, staying till the high water of 1894 coincided with the decline of the boom. One of his last numbers was printed in blue ink to indicate the blueness of the prospect and gave great offence to the people of that community and section. He then returned to New Denver Ledge.

Many old copies of this publication are still to be seen, the front cover embellished with the well known picture of ye bearded editor indicating scathing editorials, banknotes carpeting the floor under his feet, rows of nuggets ornamenting the editorial table, while on the wall overhead hang a blunderbuss and numerous knives rest ready for use, and at one side the office bulldog devours a delinquent subscriber.

Of Colonel Lowery's long list of newspapers the Kaslo Claim, the New Denver Ledge and the Greenwood Ledge are the three prominent ones. For a short time he published a Ledge in Nelson, in the West Block. He also had a paper at Nakusp and at another time one at Fernie. About

TOM WHELAN DOUBLE CROSSED

That the Oliver government promised the beer men that the license system of selling beer would be continued, and received a contribution of $65,000 to its campaign fund on the strength of this representation, is stated by the Vancouver Sun under a heading reading: "Beer Clause Was Rated at $65,000 Cash."

The Sun article says:

"While conflicting statements are being given out by the provincial government regarding plans for the carrying out of the sale of liquor, men engaged in the selling of beer have abandoned hope of ever gettiny what thy would call a square deal.

"Discussion over the future of the bar business has brought out much interesting information of the fight made to get from the government the right to continue to sell the foaming glass over the long mahogany.

"Bit by bit information has been made public regarding the huge campaign fund which party managers collected to put the Oliver government back in power at Victoria.

"Of the total sum collected by supporters of the provincial government $65,000 was contributed by the beer men upon the understanding that the right would be given them to continue the sale of beer.

"From a source of absolute reliability the Vancouver Sun has learned the following facts about the Oliver government campaign fund, and the Oliver government agreement with the hotel men, club managers, and jitney bar owners, relating to the last general election.

"A meeting was held at a house on Bute street to discuss the terms on which the brewery and retail sales interests would support the Oliver government candidates. One of the Oliver government representatives at this Bute street house discussion was a member of the legislature.

HOWE'S CIRCUS WAS GOOD

Howes Great London Circus associated with the American Van Amburg Trained Animal shows appeared in Fernie, Victoria Day for two performances. The magnitude of the big tented enterprise was not realized untli the parade passed in review along the main streets and it was commented on as being the longest, flashiest and cleanest parade ever seen in Fernie.

The magnificient display of imported hunters, coach, and heavy, draft horses clearly denoted the pride in which the big English-American management took in the show and it is doubtful if a better exhibition of horseflesh could be seen.

The Program

Was a mixture of both circus and wild animal acts which were above the average, the majority of which made a distinct hit with both audiences.

The Howes London dancing horses were the favorites and presented a terpsichorean number which was worthy of the finest Music Hall or variety program.

The old English leapers and tumblers recalled memories of early days in Merry England and while this number was old to the Britisher it was quite new to the American. He received the number with wide open applause.

The old country atmosphere was a decided relish to some of that which has been presented here in the past and Howes London Circus will be welcome on its return visit.

FEVERISHLY SEARCH OIL

Readers of anti-British papers in the United States have been imagining for months past that, with the publication of the correspondence between London and Washington regarding the petroleum controversy, war would at once ensue, with the odd chance of "freeing" Ireland from the Sassenach schwein.

And now fuel is added to the flame of hate by the anti-British pronouncements of Harding's Secretary of the Interior, A. B. Fall, who, in a word, charges that the Lloyd George government is plotting world domination through oil monopoly.

The Fall message to the senate is just one passage in the romantic drama of exploration and intrigue for control of the world's supply of motor fuel.

Canadians cannot afford to ignore developments in that great search which touches at so many points the vital interests of the British Empire of the future.

Oil has now a greater lure than gold.

Mushing from Edmonton to Fort Norman in the Arctic Winter, paddling in the oil-scummed creeks of the New Guinea jungle, browning in the desert suns of Mespot and Northern Australia, bribing with Russians and Latin Americans, exploring the uttermost parts of the earth, the seekers after oil are the scouts of the new world transport, industrialism and warfare.

If Hearst cannot get WAR for headlines, surely the world search has glamor enough for his feature writers.

Oil has suddenly caught the imagination of Britain and of Australia. David Lloyd George and William Morris Hughes have caught a vision of an Empire linked and bulwarked with oil-driven battleships and aircraft. To the Anglo-Persian Oil Company, representing the Motherland, Australia has given a monopoly of all the oil "down under."

That is just an example of the "sinister" but really very statesmanlike developments which Secretary Fall and the Standard Oil Company so much detest and desire to misrepresent.

Then there is the Mespot situation which some American had painted as a British "steal," until the truth was made known this winter by Sir Charles Greenaway. Since then Secretary Fall and Senator Lodge have had to turn to South American for a subject of discussion and patriotic warning.

Reporting Secretary Fall's published letter to Senator Lodge as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and Republican leader of the U.S. senate, an organ of the American oil industry says:

"Realizing that oil control means world domination, the British Royal Dutch Shell interests are reaching into South America and other countries. They have gained control of rich fields in Venezuela close to Colombian oil fields in which Americans are interested. Colombian oil properties may fall into the hands of the British, Secretary Fall fears. To avoid that outcome he urged that the controversy between this government and Colombia be settled by ratification of the treaty, which proposes to pay $25,000,000 to Colombia for benefits received or prospective."

And the oil trade journal rejoices that "Secretary Fall has been attending the Senate sessions during consideration of the Colombian treaty as personal representative of President Harding."

So that the Washington administration actively backs a political move to prevent business deals by British investors and business interests (always granting the Royal Dutch Shell is British) with Colombian interests. It so happens, however, that Great Britain does not control the Royal Dutch Shell, and that President Harding is in the position of using the Monroe Doctrine and American political power to prevent any but American business men from getting into the oil business in a weak, foreign state.

Interestingly enough, it is this very use of politics to aid business that forms the basis of all the Washington charges and the Hearst shrieks against the British oil policy since the Great War.

Fall's letter was read to the Senate by Majority Leader Lodge:

"Great Britain learned at least one lesson from the recent war, that is to say, that the nation which controlled the oil industry controlled commerce by sea," says Secretary Fall in this document, going on to charge that British interests are acquiring territory in Venezuela and Mexico that are "menacing" Columbia.

While the oil trade papers charge the "British" Royal Dutch Shell Co. with machinations in Colombia, Secretary Fall says that Lord Cowdray's interests are to blame. The Cowdray and the Royal Dutch Shell or Deterding groups are not the same, but that does not trouble Mr. Fall. He goes on to charge that the British government owns the Mexican Eagle (Aguila) Oil Company, which, he says, is doing dire things in Mexico.

Perhaps Mr. Fall thinks Britain owns them all, for he says further that "British nationally-owned oil concerns have capital and property valued at double that of American oil concerns." If this were true, especially as regards property, the British admiralty would probably feel much more certain of its oil supply in time of war than it does today.

The interesting Secretary Fall, it should be noted, is the orator who, as U.S. senator from Texas, sought every pretext to induce the United States to intervene in Mexico and to overrun and annex that oil-bearing country for the benefit of American oil and mining interests, and at the slight outlay of a few score thousand lives of doughboys.

With his prestige heightened and opportunities for trouble-making increased by elevation to cabinet rank, Secretary Fall now issues a message of interference in foreign affairs, just when negotiations between Earl Curzon, the British Foreign Secretary, and U.S. Secretary of State Hughes reach their most delicate moment.

If it were not the United States but Great Britain which dominated the petroleum markets of the world, the butting-in of Secretary Fall might be justified. But the basic fact remains that Great Britain with the largest navy and the greatest need for a navy, actually controls less than 27 per cent of the world's production of petroleum. On the other hand, the United States produces on her home territory 63 per cent of the world's supply and has political and economic control over Mexico, the second largest source of supply.

It is to remedy the dangerous British shortage that the British government is putting enough money into one rival of the Standard to foster competition. The Anglo-Persian Oil Company, Ltd., is the enterprise in question, and it is meeting with enough success in Persia and Australia to convince the American oil trade press that the procedure is highly immoral.

Mesopotamia is now a classic example of the furor Americanus concerning petroleum monopolies. Ever since the mandate was given Britain the American propagandists have told the world that Britain had stolen the country and was putting a ring fence around it to keep out all non-British business men. This was supposed to be the whole story.

But, as a matter of fact, Britain was merely protecting the rights given British companies before the war by the Turks, while at the same time someone was holding very silently to the rights given by the same Turks to the Standard Oil Co. in Palestine before the war. Nobody was accusing the Standard of stealing or monopolizing, but Britain was, as usual, the butt for charges of exploitation, robbery and predatory imperialism.

Sir Charles Greenaway exposed this hypocrisy in his annual address as chairman of the Anglo-Persian in London this winter. Palestine answers Mespot, but it is doubtful whether any disinterested Americans or many Canadians know it.

The negotiations which Sir Auckland Geddes as British Ambassador has been conducting in Washington have had to do with effecting a reasonable settlement of the problems arising from the Standard Oil's alleged rights in Palestine (now under British mandate) and from British companies' claims in Mesopotamia, similarly under British mandate.

No matter what settlement is effected, Britain must somehow or other find a ready supply of oil for her ships plying between Britain and India. From Suez to India the Persian and Mesopotamia fields would seem to be the logical source, with Palestine serving in the Meditterranean. The route to India must not be imperilled.

CAN BEAT HANDS SHUCKING CORN

Farmer After Taking Tanlac, Works From Sun Up Till Sundown Without Tiring.

"Tanlac has fixed me up so fine that it's a fact, I believe I could beat any of the hands on the place shucking corn," said Walter Robertson, a prosperous young farmer of Kenville, Manitoba.

"Over two years ago the 'flu' came mighty near laying me out. I was down in bed flat on my back for five weeks and was not able to hit a lick of work for two months after that. I had little or no strength and it was all I could do to pull through the day. My stomach was left all out of order and my appetite went back on me.

"I got so I actually hated to go to the table to eat, for nothing set right with me. I had awful burnings and pains in my stomach and fell off a great deal in weight. I couldn't sleep to amount to anything and felt so weak and tired out that it took all the grit and nerve I had to keep going.

"But it's not that way with me now. Tanlac has simply made me all over again and I'm as good a man physically as I ever was in my life. My biggest trouble now is trying to get enough to eat, for everything agrees with me and I have picked up ten pounds in weight. I sleep like a log and don't remember the day when I ever felt better. I don't ask odds of any man now, for I can work from sun-up till sundown and come home feeling better than I used to early in the morning. I call a medicine a world beater that will fix a man up like that."

RUSSIAN "ISMS" COUNTLESS

One of the most striking tales of Russia under the Lenine-Trotsky regime has come to light in the form of a series of narratives written by Captain Francis McCullagh, who was formerly a British army officer and is now acting as special correspondent of the New York Herald. Capt. McCullagh, speaking the language with fluency, and in various disguises, was able to pass himself off as a Russian and mingle freely with the people. For several months he was in Moscow, suffering as the people suffered, living as best he could on rough porridge at 100 roubles a cup, tea made of hot water and carrot scrapings, together with a thin soup which contained next to no nourishment.

"I talked," he says, "to all sorts of people, but found everybody intensely fatigued, suspicious and unwilling to talk of Bolshevism, the only exception being the paid Bolshevik offcials, male and female, who number in Moscow 230,000 persons against 100,000 workingmen. Those who were not officials only spoke of the lack of food and fuel and the innumerable difficulties of life; and they were all cowed and dispirited."

The restless and chaotic activities of the professional Bolshevist, Capt. McCullagh describes at length, and does it more in sorrow than in anger. He found the intellectuals among the Russian Bolshevists in such a state of indescribable ferment and agitation, that it was sometimes difficult to believe that they were sane. For instance, one whom the Captain made a friend of, and who was a functionary in what they called their political department, dabbled in a multitude of things. He lectured in a theatre on the opera which was to be produced before workmen who had never been to an opera before in their lives. He also lectured on literature, organized theatricals in factories, taught peasants to write, wrote articles for the newspapers (which are all government organs), and between times painted the whole front of a Bolshevik book shop with mad daubs of every possible color, the result being an absolutely outlandish effect. Futurism up-to-date, so to speak. If it were not for lack of materials these Bolsheviks would be conducting the wildest experiments in regard to dress, cookery, clocks, town planning, music, furniture, architecture and the like. As it is they are trying to combine painting and music, and are teaching what they call Marxian arithmetic, art and metaphysics, whatever that may be.

The Bolshevist goes on the plan that everything must be new. Literature is to be re-written, though they stick to Shakespeare, Moliere and Ben Johnson. The History of England will be written entirely from the Socialist workingman's point of view, which to say the least is going to be a terrible handicap, when one must confine himself to Jack Cade and the modern labor movement.

Captain McCullagh described the practice of filling the universities with elderly men, who merely impede the progress of the younger and more talented students, just ts they impede the progress of dramatic art by filling the theatres with people who can never hope to attain a high standard of taste. All this is part of the propaganda of the Reds, based on false principles, and on the whole profoundly insincere; for they profess to think that in education the acquisition of facts and the formation of taste and judgment is everything, and the slow building up of character is nothing, a theory which is refuted by all human experience.

The Reds have marked for destruction all books dealing in any way with Christianity. The Bible, Dante, Milton and Bunyan are forbidden, and so is any work that treats of the social problems from a Christian point of view. Presumably H. G. Wells would come under the ban.

It takes no great student of history to recognize the influence of the French Revolution upon these Russian Bolshevists. The men in France who changed the calendar because it reckoned from the birth of Christ, and who set up a worship of the Goddess of Reason, have their parallel in Lenine and Trotsky.

In conclusion, I cannot do better than give Captain McCullagh's summing up as to what, in his opinion, the end will be:

"A probable outcome of the present Russian experiment will be a military reaction involving the extermination of half a million Reds and perhaps another half million or more or less inoffensive Jews, and the persecution by the Whites for twenty years of those Socialists and Liberals whom Lenine hated and who will probably have done more than any other political parties in Russia toward bringing about Lenine's downfall. Then the pendulum will swing from right to left and from left to right (with a sanguinary pogrom marking the end of each oscillation) until it finally settles at a federated bourgeois republic."

COLUMNS OF BATS LEAVE CAVE DAILY

In a mountain near Montalban, Luzon, Philippine Islands, there is a large cavern, with many branching chambers, and a central dome 200 feet in height perforating the mountain top, from which, in December last, an American officer saw issue a solid column of bats, which flew rapidly in a straight line for 15 minutes, disappearing over a mountain range in the direction of Manila, without a single bat having left the column. Engineers stationed there told the officer that the flight of the bats had occurred at practically the same time each day during two years. From other sources it was learned that the phenomenon had been observed for at least 30 years.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

COL. LOWERY CROSSES DIVIDE

1902 he moved to Vancouver, but his paper there lasted not more than a month and he came back. In recent times he secured a paper at Penticton, which he ran off for a while, while continuing the Ledge at Greenwood. Possibly no one individual knows the complete list of the Col.'s journalistic enterprises. In the volume of the "Float" already referred to, issued 18 years ago, he made reference to the Kaslo Claim, the New Denver Ledge and "the ghost of many other Claims."

Alex. McDonald, Ned Stanley, Captain F. P. Armstrong, J. A. Gibson and other oldtimers recall many incidents, amusing or otherwise, of the late editor's life, some of which were due to his trenchant comments on current affairs. He was in New Denver at the time of the fire and escaped from the old Newmarket hotel in night attire. He had numerous differences with the churches and once or twice with the bench. He was everywhere with the heyday of mining in the Kootenay-Boundary territory and left lasting word pictures of those early times of Sandon Kaslo, New Denver, Nelson and other camps of those days. Of late years the Colonel's column of "Float" was the principal avenue through which he was known to the general public.

He was unmarried. Three brothers and two sisters survive him. William resides in Sarnia, John is in the stationery business at Petrolea and Samuel in the same line at Port Arthur. The sisters reside at Port Arthur.—Nelson News.

in vain, and he always took a staunch and earnest interest in those matters of public importance which bespoke progress."

The Times says:

"When the late Mr. William Fernie left his native heath in England to make his way in strange places of the world he was not to know that half a century afterwards would find him well on his way to fame and fortune. Nor was it a case of the silver spoon. The distinguished citizen who has just responded to the last call was a pioneer in every sense of the term. He was of the kind of builders which does not understand the meaning of failure. But he understood the responsibility of wealth. He shared his success with his fellowmen. He counted it a joy to carry cheer to those less fortunate than himself. And although no appeal to his generosity went unheeded it was his particular delight to bestow his benefactions anonymously. Many homes have been cheered and many a cause has been assisted by funds whose origin was not disclosed. Only those more immediately concerned knew the wider extent of the late Mr. Fernie's philanthropy. How manifold were his interests may not be apparent except to those who knew him in the years when he was more actively engaged in the business to which he owed his success in life. Every progressive move found response and support in his enterprising spirit. He was a firm believer in British Columbia and the town which bears his name is a fitting monument to the part he played in the calling to which his talents were devoted. This city in particular and British Columbia in general will feel the serious loss which his death occasions. There are altogether too few of his type."

TOM WHELAN DOUBLE CROSSED

"It was arranged that the Oliver government would put in the moderation act a clause permitting the sale of beer at retail as part of the moderation system. This part of the arrangement was covered by a letter signed on behalf of the Oliver government and taken away from the Bute street house by Mr. Thomas Whalen of the Regent hotel.

"It was also arranged that the brewing company and the retailers selling beer should contribute to the Oliver campaign fund and give active support to the Oliver government candidates.

"Following the discussion at the Bute street house, a more generally attended meeting of the beer interests was held ,with Fred Flanagan, then of the Orpheum Cafe, in the chair. The matter of political contributions and support was discussed. Fred Flanagan stated to the meeting that the trade had an absolute promise of the right to sell beer being contained in and given by the moderation act; and that this promise was covered by a letter.

"This statement was corroborated by Michael Riordan of the Crown hotel, Thos. Whalen of the Regent hotel, and Fraser of the Richards buffet.

"On this basis it was decided that all those holding near-beer licenses would support the candidates of the Oliver government and contribute to the campaign fund. Most of the license holders made contributions.

"The breweries made up a fund of $65,000 in cash which was paid over to a prominent merchant of this city for transmission to the representatives of the Oliver government campaign fund; and this merchant reported back to the breweries that the money had been paid over to the campaign fund in due course.

"Signs of discontent have appeared among the license holders from time to time; but open outbreaks have been prevented by the brewers, who had to obtain from the government an agreement for the handling of the brewery outputs on terms liberal enough to justify of sufficient amount to prevent trouble and disclosures."

"THE MOLLYCODDLE" A COSTLY PRODUCTION

In giving to the public his latest screen effort, "The Mollycoddle," which is the third of his United Artists Corporation productions, Douglas Fairbanks presents the most costly motion picture of his career, representing an expenditure of more than a half million dollars. The picture will be presented at the Orpheum Theatre,, Monday and Tuesday next.

The enormous cost of "The Mollycoddle" was due to the star's desire to continue the policy he inaugurated when he became an independent producer and member of the "Big Four." At that time he declared that money would be secondary and that it would be his aim, with each succeeding production, to eclipse all previous efforts.

That Fairbanks was not merely talking when he announced his intentions was evidenced with the release of his first and second United Artists' offerings in which it was plainly seen that considerable money and time had been spent to place entirely new material on the screen. Especially so in his last picture, "When the Clouds Roll By" considered to be one of the greatest novelty productions ever filmed.

Even greater efforts have been used to surpass the more prominent episods of entertainment in "When the Clouds Roll By," with "The Mollycoddle." To make this possible the star devoted ten weeks in the preparation of the story, working out numerous innovations which have been perfected more surprisingly than anticipated.

PRICES ARE ON THE SLIDE

When prices were moving upwards, loud and long was the protest. Everywhere the high cost of living was the absorbing topic. Indignant men and women wrote letters to the newspapers. Politicans busied themselves about the matter. Delegations called on governors, mayors and other public officials. Labor organizations kept up a running fire of agitation, and the "buck" was shot in a lively way from producers to manufacturers, from manufacturers to wholesalers, from wholesalers to retailers, and then from the retailers back around the circle.

Now that prices are falling—have fallen in many lines to prewar prices—the public is taking the reverse movement as placidly as it takes a sunset or a pleasant May morning. Hardly a thank-you is heard from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Every one craned his neck to look at the airplane, but no one regards the toboggan slide.

Yet prices are surely on the toboggan slide. The federal reserve bank bulletin for the Pacific coast district reports that in this region the $27.50 that it took to buy 100 pounds of sugar last June will not only procure that much sugar today, but in addition 50 pounds of flour, 25 pounds of beans and prunes, 13 pounds of new potatoes, 10 pounds of rice and generous quantities of 29 other staple foods, as well as 10 bars of soap.

The slump extends from the Pacific to the Atlantic. An eastern grocer, in a communication to a New York daily newspaper, gives a table of staple groceries, with their retail prices as of July 25, 1920, and May 6, 1921. He shows that $21.91 will buy as much food now as $44.79 bought ten months ago. The comparisons are interesting:

	July 25 1920	May 6 1921.
50 lbs. sugar	$15.00	$4.00
1 bus. potatoes	5.00	1.10
1 sack flour	2.25	1.4g

THE EDISON TEST

Mr. Edison has invented many things, but his latest achievement has brought him more publicity than most of his previous inventions. He devised a set of questions by which applicants for positions in the Edison shops and business might be tested for intelligence, knowledge and ability. Thirty out of several hundred applicants passed the examination. This test and its result would be a matter of concern to Mr. Edison and the men who desired to work in his shops, if the incident had closed at this stage. Mr. Edison made it a matter of public interest by condemning the colleges and universities as inefficient, because graduates failed to answer his practical questions.

Dr. James L. Gordon

Appearing at Fernie Chautauqua, Which Commences June 11.

In the sharp controversy that followed some college men have been unfair to Edison as he was to them. They speak of his 160 queries as "Tom fool questions." They may be so described if they imply dense ignorance in the man who can not answer most of them. They certainly are foolish questions if they are intended to discover definitely how far the time of a graduate has been wasted at the university.

But for the purpose which Mr. Edison had in mind, that is, the selection of thirty or forty men out of ten times that number of applicants, they may have been reasonable and practical. No less than 160 questions have been printed in spite of Mr. Edison's desire to keep them secret. In biography he asked: who was Paul Revere, Hancock, Plutarch, Hannibal, Danton, Solon, Leonidas, Pizzaro, Bolivar Cleopatra, Bessemer. In geography: What countries bound France where is the Volga, Korea, Manchuria, Magdalena Bay, Tallehasse, Kenosha, Messina, Assouan, Copenhagen, Spitzbergen, etc., He enquired what city produces the finest china, what city in the United States is noted for its laundry-machine making. What is the fur centre? In what country are kangaroos? Where do we get hats, shoes, copper, amethysts, brass, tin, shellac, codfish, figs, dates, prunes, sardines, peanuts, wool, platinum, benzol,, borax, etc.

The following are among the general information questions: "What is the largest telescope? Where was Napoleon born, Where is the highest tide? What is the greatest depth of the ocean? Name a famous violin-maker. Who invented the typesetting machine, the printing press, photography, the cotton gin? Who discovered the South Pole? the law of gravitation and several other things. Who wrote the Star Spangled Banner, Home Sweet Home, composed Il Trovatore, said 'Fourscore and seven years ago,' etc." Applicants are asked the composition of brass, how leather is tanned, how sulphuric acid, glucose, and numerous other things are made, to name three alkalis and three poinons. They are invited to name six big business men in the United States, and to tell the distances of places. Among personal questions they were asked whether they could play any musical instrument, what business they liked best, what experience they had in salesmanship, stenography and other crafts. Add some questions in physics and mechanics and we have given a fair idea of the examination.

From the answers given to these questions, Mr. Edison could form a good idea of the interests, appitudes, general intelligence and practical knowledge of the young men seeking employment. He might learn more by the form and scope of the replies than by the number of questions answered. He could conclude from the complete ignorance of the things that any person with an eager mind would know that the candidate would be unfit for any kind of service requiring mental alertness or observation. The examiner should remember that a man of mature years gathers up this kind of information unconsciously all his life and that a youth must not be judged by the standard of men who have been reading, conversing and traveling three times as long. But if proper allowances are made we should say that Edison's test has a great merit.

As a test of the value of a university course it is a feeble device. If a university was intended to train students so that they could pass such an examination it should have commercial travellers and primary school predagogues for its staff, with dictionaries, encyclopaedias, geographies and elementary reference books for its library. The students would avoid poetry and pure literature, ancient and modern, philosophy, history (except the record of facts), the laws of life and of political and economic society.

Yet while the Edison test would not go far to try the best work of the university it could serve some purpose. A candidate in that field might give such answers, and so express himself in discussing the subjects, as to show an absolute lack of intellectual culture, and the want of such mental capacity and power as a university degree implies.

Only Mr. Edison might not be a competent judge. It is possible that another Edison interested in literary, social or moral questions could set 160 questions as simple and practical as his own and that Mr. Edison could not himself pass the test.

PAT DALY CUTS LOOSE

Collarless and baggageless "Pat" Daly, from northwest, causes consternation at Pennsylvania by "rendering" Irish Airs.

When the Associated Press burned up the telegraph wires recently with a dispatch about Pat Daly's mission to New York in connection with his million dollar suit against R. K. Neill of Spokane and R. W. Wood. et al., for share in the Premier mine, it was surmised in Nelson that the New York reporters must have given the well known mining man a position on the front page. This surmise on the part of Mr. Daly's friends was correct:

The following account of Mr. Daly's doings, given by a New York daily under a double column head, shows how he impressed one talented and imaginative newspaper man:

Like a breeze from the north, Pat Daly and his whistle blew in from Nelson, B. C., yesterday. No trunk, no grip, no bag—"jus tas you see me, bye," he explained. "But I've me whistle," and he stood in the lobby and played "Mary Brannigan." Then he calmly resumed his old pipe—not a T. D., but it might as well be. It's as bad, only more durable.

Lobby of what? A Bowery lodging house? Not on your life. The best for Pat. The Pennsylvania, or nothing.

"They gave me a hard look when I asked 'em for th' room, ye see. I ain't no dude and I wouldn't wear one of them durned things around me neck for another gold mine. I ain't much on neckties and the likes o' that. The bellhop says 'Grip Sir?' and I says, 'Grip nothin', I want a room.' Well, when I pulled out the roll I got the room, all right. But I'm having a divil of a time. Every mornn' the maid chucks me out because she don't see no grip in the room and I have to go down and tell 'em I'm still here. So now I just leave a few nuggets layin' around and they know I'm stayin'. Come up, bye," said Pat, and we went up to his suite on the eighth floor.

Daly hit New York for the first time yesterday. He's a County Kildare boy, but most all his sixty-year life he has spent in the mining camps of the great northwest. He makes hi shome in Nelson, B.C., a lttle town of 6000 people, but one of Canada's beauty spots. But most all the time he's up in the camps 'way up north, and that's where he's really himself.

Pat Daly is known to every mining man in the west and has the confidence of some of the country's biggest financiers. Pat talks of millions as ordinary folk do of dollars. He's a typical miner—combs his hair only for company, slicks up only on special occasions.

Here in New York he's been getting shines and everythng, though he hasn't got as far as getting his suit pressed. His whistle is his life's companion. He declares that when out looking for gold he'd play the instrument. If he found gold, he'd keep on playing, considering the whistle a mascot. If luck went bad, he'd stop playing, the whistle being a hoodoo. So the whistle works both ways.

"Well, I guess I always played. I'm musical by nature, you see. The head waiter calls it a 'floot.' It's only a ten-cent thing, that's all. It's nothing of the knd. I plays dances for the miners with it and, say, they can dance.

"I was down to the Caffy de Paree last night. That's a fine place. And fine girls there, too, One—they called her the hostess—wouldn't dance with nobody but me. A fine dressed fellow there he got jealous, but she says: 'I'll dance with Pat, no one else.' And she did, too. Dance? I can dance any dance, But I like the old waltz best and they played one for me, sure they did.

"Then yesterday we went to an Eyetalian place — Molly's or something. I says to the head fiddler, 'Give us an Irish chune, bye,' and I gives him a dollar. So he plays 'The Wearin' of the Green.' Then I says, 'Play another Irsh chune,' and I gives him another dollar. He played 'The Harp That Once Thro' Tara's Hall.' Then I says, 'Play a lot of Irish chunes.' Well, the fiddler says, 'If I play all Irish chunes the English customers 'll all be leavin'. 'Is that so?' says I. 'Then play all Irish chunes the rest of the night and sind the bill up to the hotel, bye.'"

Pat drew from his inside pocket the little tin whistle, a foot long, with five holes in it. He placed it to his ips and began to play. Fritz Kreisler may be supreme in his art, but he can't play a tin whistle like Pat Daly. Pat can play you off your feet—you can't sit still. "Pop Goes the Weasel" "Mary Brannigan" "Haste to the Wedding" and bits of "Yankee Doodle" and—say, Pat has the jazz bands looking like last summer's $2.95 silk shirt.

"They come near puttin' me out here.' said Pat, pausing for breath. "Last night, after comin' home from the caffy, I walks into the hotel playin' the whistle. Neil O'Rouke the night manager, says, 'You can't play that thing here.' 'Why not?' says I to him 'We can't have that noise at this hour,' says he, 'Noise?' says I, 'Where's yer ears, man?' 'Tis music, 'that's what it is,' 'Well, ye can't play it in the lobby,' saye he, 'Who the hell says I can't?' says I, 'I'm payin' fer me room and I'll play the whistle if I feel like it. O' Rouke,' says I, and I did, too, ye bet, bye," said Pat. "I played it all the way up th' elevaytor to me room, too."

Pat finds New York girls "pretty good," but he "gets tangled up in the loops when I try to take hold of 'em to dance." For looks, though, they have nothing on the girls of Seattle, Spokane and Nelson, B. C., and when it comes to cooking—

"I bet they can't cook. Bye, ye ought to see me hot cakes. Griddles, they call 'em here. I ain't had a decent plate since I struck here. They don't know the business in New York, that's all. I could open up a hot cake restaurant and I'd have 'em coming in for miles. Cooking's me long suit."

Pat expects to take in the Follies and all the exciting sights before returning to Nelson. He showed the ore that he keeps in his dresser to indicate that he's still at the hotel.

"It's from the mine," he explained.

"You see, I'm here on a little business. Me friend, Judge Frederick C. Robinson of Spokane is in New York and he's got me lawsuit. I'm claimin' about $2,000,000 on a big mine up there—the Premier mine, about 154 miles north of Prince Rupert, near the Alaska boundary. I prospected the whole thing and practically worked it and then they tried to kick me out, but I need the two million. Oh, I got a few other little mines layin' around, besides. Now I'll play a chune," he said.

He played "Auld Lang Syne" in a way nobody would have though possible on such an instrument.

"Can you play any jazz?" he was asked.

"Jazz?" he said, "And sure, didn't jazz come from Ireland?" and he burst into "Why Did They Sell Killarney."—Nelson News.

LUMBER CUT IS 50 PER CENT. DOWN

CRESTON, B. C., May 20.—Norman Moore, district forester of East Kootenay, who was here on an official visit from Cranbrook yesterday, has equipped the local fire warden, Jas. Long, with a Ford car fitted up to carry a considerable quantity of fire fighting equipment, and has placed him in charge of the district from Goatfell to Kuskanook, with two assistants who will go on duty toward the end of the month. The Forestry Act has been amended this year to compel mill operators as well as lumber camp superintendents to provide fire fighting equipment consisting of half a dozen buckets, six shovels, three mattocks and three axes for each twelve men employed, such equipment to be boxed and used for fire fighting only. Mr. Moore states that the winter cut of timber was at least 40 per cent. less than the preceding winter, and that for the whole year the shrinkage will be 50 per cent. Last year the cut of timber in East Kootenay was almost 200 million feet, but with only about a dozen of the 42 mills in the district at present operating is is not to be expected that this year's cut will be even half of the preceding year.

For 1920 the timber loses by fire in East Kootenay were about $78,000, and Mr. Moore figures that eight per cent. of these fires were due to lightning. The provision of picnic sites and camping spots along the highways by the forestry department has noticeably reduced the number of fires that previously started from carelessness on the part of campers and picnic parties.—Nelson News.

BASEBALL

The baseball game played between Fernie and White Spruce on Victoria day for the benefit of the G.W.V.A. band was a financial success. All returns are not in yet but indications point that in the neighborhood of $150 was realized. Great credit is due the football supporters and Veterans for the way they came forward and aided the baseball clubs in making the game such a success financially. The band paraded the teams down to the football grounds, where the game was played, and rendered several selections during the game. The changing of the game from the regular and advertised place caused considerable confusion. Quite a number of fans who had not heard of the change were on hand at Victoria Park and at the last minute had to proceed to the North End. The game turned out very erratic on both sides, and after the first couple of innings loose fielding and heavy hitting ran the score up into two figures. The game lasted over two hours and a half and was anything but interesting. After the clouds cleared Fernie came out with the long end of a 13-9 score.

Last Sunday being an open date for all league teams, Fernie journeyed to Waldo and played an exhibition game, coming home with Waldo's scalp to the tune of 5-3. The game started out in the rain, which made play and throwing uncertain, but after the rain stopped a very good brand of ball was put up by both teams.

Fernie's next League game is at home. Cranbrook is scheduled here for next Sunday, May 29. The game will be called at 3 o'cock.

Fernie Boy Scouts traveled to Cranbrook on May 24 and engaged Cranbrook Y.M.C.A. in a baseball game, losing by a score of 8-6. The Cranbrook team were much the older team but they had their work cut out to beat the Scouts. Covert pitched for the Scouts and had the Cranbrook team guessing all through the game and but for a bad error, with three men on bases, allowing all three to come home, there would have been a different story to tell.

FERNIE VS. COLEMAN

The Fernie team have changed their fixture with Coleman and will play in Fernie on Sunday, May 29. Coleman kindly consented to come here owing to Fernie not being able to travel. The following team will represent Fernie, kick-off at 6 p.m.:

Goal, Sawyer; backs, W. Thompson, G. A. Murray; half backs, P. Robertson, J. Gibson, A. Dicken; forwards, J. Robson, M. Whitelaw, D. Thornton, A. Thompson, G. Booth.

Reserves: W. Corrigan, H. Brown.

FERNIE VS. BELLEVUE

Fernie entertained Bellevue last Sunday and won a moderate game by 2 goal to 1, the Bellevue full backs making miskicks which resulted in Fernie scoring their goals, one by Hardy and one by Booth. Bellevue did most of the pressing in the second half and their centre forward scored the best goal of the game, with a neat header. Sawyer played his usual game and saved Fernie from defeat. Bellevue seemed to have things all their own way in the second half, but bunched too much in front of goal, spoiling their chances of winning. It was a good clean game which was well handled by Referee Manning.

FERNIE JR. VS. MICHEL JR.

Fernie juniors went down to Michel last Sunday and suffered defeat by 3 goals to 2. Fernie gave a good account of themselves against a much heavier team. Michel was 3 up in the first half and Fernie got 2 in the second half, but could not equalize. D. Costa played a good game in goal.

"THE TWO SYSTEMS"

THE STOCK COMPANY: Under this form of organization Capital is involved and naturally must be compensated. Under the provisions of the Dominion Insurance Act the Stock Companies may allot to the Shareholders:—
(a) All interest earned on the paid-up capital.
(b) One-tenth of all profits earned on participating policies, and
(c) All profits earned on no-participating policies and other sources.

THE MUTUAL COMPANY: Is purely a means of mutual protection. There is no capital invested excepting the premiums of the policyholders; so that all profit derived from whatever source, is the exclusive property of the policyholders and is returned to them as dividends.

THE ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCE: The above statement reveals the essential difference between stock and mutual companies. Just as some co-operative enterprises eliminate "the middleman," so a mutual life company eliminates the "Shareholder," as the late Wm. McCabe, I.L.B., F.I.A., has said—"The mutual principle is the only one by which the participating members of a life insurance company can receive a full equivalent for their money. It gives insurance at net cost."

IN THE CITY POLICE COURT

A H. Watson, J.P., acting in the city police court, has disposed of a number of cases this week, among them being J. L. Dandoff, who appeared on a charge of being in possession of a gun without having secured the regulation permit, and as a result of this omission to adhere to the law, Dandoff is poorer to the extent of $75, which was the fine imposed. In matters of this kind the penalty is very severe and those who have been careless may suffer equally with Dandoff or possibly a heavier fine might be imposed.

Under the traffic regulations, Norman Pointon contributed $25 and costs for driving over city sidewalks. It is the intention of the police department to vigorously prosecute those who contravene traffic regulations, among which driving over the sidewalks will be considered a very flagrant breach.

F. Letcher was convicted of not having in his car the license certificate showing that he had bought and paid for the license plates on his car. He was fined $20 and costs. In this connection motorists or car owners should not be of the opinion that all that is necessary as showing they have paid the annual license is to have the 1921 plates exposed on the car. They should also carry with them the license certificate received at the time the fee is paid, so that if a police officer demands the production of this document it is then easily available and further complications or discomfort to the motorist is dispensed with. On the other hand failure to do so leaves the party open to prosecution. According to the police the purpose for which this authority is given them under the Act is that in case of stolen cars, on in the event of the proper date license plates being exhibited, but possibly having been changed from another car, which is not permitted,, and other minor reasons, these points can be cleared up instantly by the production of the original license certificate.

Several vags also appeared in the police court and were fined the usual amount.

MEETING RE JULY 1 SPORTS

There will be a meeting on Monday evening, June 6, at 8 o'clock in the council chamber for the purpose of discussing sports for July 1. For the last two years sports have been held on this day and the returns have been placed in a fund in the bank until they were sufficient to start building a swimming pool. If the sports are successful this year the work can be gone ahead with. It is therefore hoped that all those interested in the children of Fernie having a swimming pool will turn up at the meeting. Let all boost for Children's Day.

AMERICAN CONSULAR SERVICE —CONSULAR REGISTRATION

The American Consul at Fernie desires to call the attention of American citizens residing within the Fernie Consular District to the importance of greater care in attending to the matter of Consular registration. While there is no great need of registration on the part of mere transients who intend returning to the United States within a few months, it is advisable that such American citizens as intend remaining within the district for any considerable period should take prompt measures to secure registration.

This is particularly true in the case of American citizens who have become such by naturalization. The laws of the United States require that such citizens as were born British subjects should apply for Consular registration within two years after entering Canada. Naturalized American citizens who were born subjects or citizens of some other country must without fail apply for registration within five years.

A child born within the district, whose father was at the time of his or her birth a citizen of the United States is a citizen of the United States, and remains such during minority. But if such child desires to retain allegiance he should at the age of 18 years appear before the Consul to make declaration of intention, and upon reaching majority must again appear to take the oath of allegiance.

The law also provides that an American born woman, the widow of a British subject or of a foreign resident, may resume her American citizenship by registering with the Consul within one year of the termination of the marital relation.

Likewise a British born or a foreign born woman, the widow of an American citizen, may retain her status as a citizen of the United States by registering at the Consulate within one year from her husband's decease.

The interested parties should also promptly notify the Consul of all births of children to American citizens within the district, as well as of all marriages, deaths, naturalizations, change of residence, and other matters affecting the status of such citizens upon the register.

STEALS WATCH GETS 9 MONTHS

A special sitting of the County Judge's Criminal Court was held on Tuesday, when Ed. Martin appeared before His Honor Judge Thompson on a charge of the theft of a Hamilton gold filled watch from the person of Joseph Gagnon. The offence was alleged to have been committed at the Queen's Hotel a couple of weeks ago. Gagnon fell asleep in a chair one afternoon and upon awakening discovered that his watch was missing. Martin was at once suspected, and Gagnon and a friend interviewed him, demanding the watch and promising nothing further would be done if he returned the timepiece. Martin professed innocence and later the matter was reported to the city police. Chief Lawson soon located the suspect and upon searching him two watches were found, one of which was positively identified by Gagnon. Martin contended he had obtained it from Gagnon in a trade. He entered a plea of not guilty, and maintained it during the preliminary investigation and his election for speedy trial. He, however, amended it to one of guilty when the trial opened here last Tuesday. To the court he stated he had merely taken the watch from Gagnon when he was drunk for safe keeping and had intended to return it. This excuse, however, was palpably too thin to receive weight with the judge, and Martin was sentenced to nine months at Nelson with hard labor.

COUNTRY BOY ROLES PLAYED BY CHARLES RAY

People have fallen into the habit of calling every picture in which Charles Ray appears with a rustic background a "typical Ray picture" and letting it go at that. This would seem to indicate that the youthful star's characterizations are largely all alike, which is not true.

Mr. Ray is one of the most versatile stars of the screen. Reviewing some of his most recent pictures reveals the fact that in the past year he has appeared in such widely diversified roles as a prize fighter, a crack baseball player, a hotel clerk, an expressman, a bank clerk, a son of poor but honest parents, a son of rich but unscrupulous parents, an English aristocrat and finally, a detective.

He has the last named part in his newest Thos. H. Ince picture, "A Village Sleuth," in which he will be seen at the Orpheum theatre for Saturday only. Mr. Ray is a small town lad with ambitions to become a great detective, and, securing a position as chore boy in a rest sanitarium he unexpectedly is given an opportunity to show his sleuthing ability. And makes good. Jerome Strom directed the picture, which is a Paramount release, and Winifred Westover is the leading woman.

THE DOMINION CHAUTAUQUA

Chautauqua week is near at hand. On the 11th inst., at the old tenting ground, Fernie Chautauqua opens a six day engagement. The executive committee would like to remind the citizens of Fernie and vicinity of the importance of this event and to solicit their co-operation and support.

The Dominion Chautauqua is always of a high order of merit. According to reports received from places where the present Chautauqua has already been held, this year's program is pronounced the best yet. Its variety is such that it makes its appeal to all. If you are fond of strong, inspiring lectures, then this need is met in speakers of international reputation. Miss Agnes Laut, author and lecturer, in many respects perhaps the most influential woman in Canada; Dr. James Gordon, late of Winnipeg, one of the greatest pulpit orators of Canada; Judge Alden, one of the well known Chautauqua speakers of the United States; Miss Lettie Coleman, who proved her worth on the Dominion circuit last year, will all visit Fernie on this occasion. Are you a lover of music, then do not fail to hear J. Horace Smithey, the great American baritone; Edna Reed, soprano; Thelma Rose, violinist; Thurlow Lieurance's Symphonic Orchestra; the Bell Ringers, etc. If the dramatic appeals to you then you will enjoy the Coffer-Miller Players in their presentation of "The Rivals."

The children are not to be overlooked. Since the holiday season is not yet at hand a specialist in children's entertainment will spend the week previous to the opening of the Chautauqua and give a portion of each day on the play ground teaching organized games, etc.

Citizens of Fernie, you are asked to bear in mind that the Fernie Chautauqua is not yet an established institution. The Dominion Chautauqua is growing in power and influence. The great question is shall Fernie remain on the circuit, and for one week each year have the privilege of hearing lecturers, musicians, etc., of international fame. It all depends on the interest that is taken this year. A number of citizens have gone as guarantors for the success of this Chautauqua. We cannot expect men to do this if we do not give them our hearty support. Co-operation is needed. To make this Chautauqua a success five hundred tickets should be sold before the 11th. Can we not get to gether and make this Chautauqua such a success that it will become a permanent institution for good in this city?

On Behalf of the Executive.

MISS VERNA FELTON AND ALLEN PLAYERS AT GRAND

After an absence of seven years Miss Felton and the Allen players, who open a week's engagement at the Grand theatre on Monday next, will be welcomed by their many friends. They were undoubtedly the most popular company that ever toured Western Canada, and where the company have appeared this season the press have been most lavish in their praise.

Miss Felton and The Allens have just finished an eighteen months engagement at the Hippodrome in Tacoma, Washington. During that engagement they produced all of the best comedies and dramas and have selected their repertoire for this season from the great number of plays produced in Tacoma. Each one of the plays to be produced the coming week is a recognized success. And as has always been with this excellent company, each play will be produced with special attention to detail ,costuming and scenery.

Following is a review taken from the Nelson News:

Rising to the height of her artistis powers as Miriam in "Outcast," the play presented by the Allen Players at the opera house last evening Miss Verna Felton again proved her dramatic ability to be of a high character by keeping her audience in emotions varying from tears to laughter and then back again, and at several of the climax situations one could have heard a pin drop. The clever handling of the situation at the denouement at the close of the third act by Miss Felton and Mr. Strickfaden proved a masterly piece of stagecraft.

This bill proved, without doubt, so far, the company's best work and throughout the entire list of characters there was not one case of miscasting.

Miss Marvel Phillips was given her first real chance for dramatic display since the beginning of the company's engagement here and took every advantage of the part for which she was cast and her acting in the crisis scene in the last act was a worthy spot in a throughout splendid play.

Fred Sullivan and Clifford Dunstan as Hugh and Tony, the friends who stuck to the hero, were responsible for some clever bits of characterizations,, and Allen Strickfaden again gave a good demonstration of his powers for natural acting and handled the many difficult situations of the play with realistic artistry.

The other parts, taken by Mrs. Allen, Miss Spencer and Alvin Baird were small, but in each case the actor made the most of a limited chance for acting display.

The costumes, scenery and stagings were well done and the entire production would have done credit to a metropolitan cast in a metropolitan theatre.

Pre-war prices will prevail. Children 35c; general admission 55c; reserved seats 85c. These prices include the tax.

ENUMERATORS NOW BUSY

On Wednesday morning, June 1, the sensus of Canada was commenced. The census has been called "the largest single act of administration of the government," in reference partly to its physical extent—the census organization covering every section of the country- for a complex and many sided task—and also to the great importance of census results in the general machinery of government.

The success of the census depends largely upon the co-operation of the people. Without general appreciation of the ends in view, and without the cordial assistance of individual citizens towards those ends, a good census will be impossible.

The census of June 1, 1921, is the sixth comprehensive decennial census to be taken since Confederation.

The fundamental legal raison d'etre of the census is to determine the representation in our federal parliament. As is well known, the British North America Act gave the Province of Quebec a fixed number of seats (65) in the Dominion House of Commons. The number assigned to the other provinces was pro rata, with an arrangement that the first readjustment should take place on the completion of the census of 1871, and that a similar readjustment should follow every subsequent decennial census. The census is thus primarily to enable a redistribution bill to be passed by parliament.

But the census has far wider uses than to fix electroral representation. It constitutes, in fact, under the modern system, nothing less than a great periodical stocktaking of the Canadian people, designed to show from the widest angle point that has been reached in the general progress of the nation.

As the practice of nations in regards to census taking tends more and more to uniformity, the census affords the inestimable benefits of comparison with other countries and enables our national problems to be studied in their general setting. Especially is this true of the countries which constitute the British Empire. The census of the various Dominions, India and the Crown Colonies are now taken in the same year and within a few weeks of each other; so that when the results are completed we shall have a large and harmonious body of data at command for the study not only of the relations of the dominions inter se, but also of the place of the Empire as a whole among the nations of the world.

NOTICE TO FERNIE CITIZENS

A government official will call upon you in a few days for the purpose of taking the census for the Dominion of Canada. It is important that every citizen, both young and old be registered .This will act to advantage to our city, and may possibly have the effect of lowering the taxation, as it will be used by the Provincial Government as a basis of revenue distribution.

There will be a number of questions to reply to, but there need be no hesitancy in answering same in full, as they are for the purpose of statistics only.

HE COULD HARDLY STAY ON THE JOB

Parker's Health Broke Down Completely, But Tanlac Put Him In Fine Shape

"Every time I see any of my friends now the first thing I go to talking about is the way Tanlac has fixed me up," said Fred Parker, 330 Donald St., Winnipeg, Man., an employee of the Canadian Government Railway.

"A year ago my health seemed to break down all at once. My stomach got all out of order and my appetite went back on me. I began to fall off in weight and I got so weak I could hardly stay on the job. I had to live on a light diet all the time, such as porridge and milk puddings.

"I had awful pains in my stomach, especially at night, why, they woke me up at all hours, and in the morning I felt so drowsy and tired out it didn't seem like I had slept a wink all night long. Sometimes it took all the grit and nerve I had to face a day's work, and when night finally came I was simply exhausted, that's all there was to it.

"That was the shape I was in two months ago, but four bottles of Tanlac have put me back to where I feel as fine as I did the best day of my life. I can't tell I ever had stomach trouble, for I eat like I used to and never have a sign of indigestion afterwards. I sleep fine, have picked up ten pounds in weight and can do as big a day's work as the next fellow."

HAZARDS OF RAIN-MAKING

The plight of Hatfield ,the rainmaker who has been monkeying with the clouds in the dry-belt around Medicine Hat, is curious. He claims to have turned on the tap, but he cannot turn it off. He contracted to give the farmers three inches of rain at $1000 per inch, but up to the middle of May he has delivered six inches, half of which his employers probably regard as over-run on which no dues should be paid. And they also discovered recently that they had had enough. The question then arose, could Mr. Rainmaker produce a dry spell? At the time of writing we cannot say whether the clouds have been as propitious in the matter of a switchback as they were in loosening up their precious fluid. Nature is a nasty old joker to fool with, and wise men let her alone. There is a story told of Dr. Strachan, the first Anglican Bishop of Toronto, which has a timely application. Once during a dry spell a deputation of York farmers approached him with a request that he order prayers for rain on the following day, which was Sunday. The Bishop walked out into his garden, which was located opposite the spot where the Toronto Union Station now stands, gazed across the bay and up into the skies: "I dinna think they would be efficashious," he bluntly remarked and retired.

Conditions seem to have been efficacious for Hatfield at the outset and then they became capricious. The difficulty that has arisen is a good deal like that set forth in an old comic opera by Harry B. Smith and Victor Herbert, "The Wizard of the Nile," which Frank Daniels used to present. Daniels played a travelling wizard who in a reckless moment promised to make the Nile rise. To his astonishment it did, but unfortunately rose too much and it took all the license of a comic librettist to solve his difficulties. Possibly the farmers around Medicine Hat have small appreciation of comedy. — Saturday Night.

GETTING TO THE POINT

Germany must now be almost convinced that she lost the war, and that it is her place not to dictate terms but to accept them. She has appealed to the United States, from whom the German emperor once proposed to collect thirty billion dollars tribute, and the United States has advised her to pay up. She has exhausted her resources of strategy in the attempt to separate the interests of Britain and France. If there is now any difference between these allies it is only in the number of days that should pass before the French troops occupy the Ruhr Valley. But France is mobilizing her troops with the full assent of Britain.

There is another German offer coming. It will be a real proposition, either full acceptance of the Paris terms or something near enough it to delay the French occupation. There is no doubt that Lloyd George and Briand expect such a message. They are now with their advisors going over the financial details to determine in what manner payments shall be made and what shall be the guarantees. These particulars will be necessary whether the matter is settled now or after occupation.

A so-called Irish Ambassador to Russia arrived at Murmansk early in April and being unable to speak Russian, was badly beaten on the train by "Red Guards" and robbed of his money and valuables and then jailed until his identity was established, according to a report from Petrograd. On arrival of the "ambassador" in Moscow the Foreign Office apoligized for the "regrettable incident." It does not say by whom the incident was regretted, whether by the "ambassador" or the Moscow Foreign Office.—Exchange.

OPTIMISTIC OUTLOOK REGARDING BUSINESS

"Gradually matters will adjust themselves, and when they do there will come to us an era of prosperity such as we have never seen."

These encouraging words were embodied in the address which Peleg Howland, President of the Imperial Bank of Canada, delivered at the 46th annual meeting of that institution on May 25. And they were based not only on his own observations as a business man and a banker, but also on reports of the bank's branch managers scattered over six of the nine provinces comprising the Dominion. In order, however, to facilitate the desired readjustment, he urged "the utmost care in public and private expenditure, particularly that of a capital nature." And then made this trite remark: "It is time, I would say, for cautious optimism." W. Moffat, the general manager, during the course of his address also incidentally dealt with the country's financial situation, and besides pointing out the necessity of a drastic decrease in government expenditure, urged, in order that the burden of public debt might be lightened, increased immigration of desirable settlers.

The financial statement submitted to the shareholders indicates that the management of the Imperial Bank practices what it preaches. Banks, like mercantile and industrial firms, are affected by the general financial conditions obtaining in the country. The Imperial Bank, however, by a wise blending of caution and enterprise, came through the fiscal year ending April 30 in a way that should be reassuring to the public as well as gratifying to the shareholders of the institution.

A particularly interesting feature of the bank's deposits from the standpoint of the public, is the increase of $9,120,945 which has taken place in savings during the year.

Largely as a result, as the general manager points out, of increased advances to grain dealers, grain farmers, and cattlemen, commercial loans, amounting to $61,975,400, increased during the year by $1,504,457. As the bank, in making advances to this class of borrowers, is cautious in its selection, the loans so made are held by the management to be among its safest.

During the year there was a net gain of eleven in the number of the new branches opened by the bank.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

FERNIE, B. C.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Our local leather chasers enhanced their position in the Crow's Nest League by their splendid display of footwork on Sunday last, which resulted in the disposal of Hillcrest as opponents. Score 2-0.

Quite a large number of enthusiasts journeyed to Fernie by the evening train to witness the game scheduled between Fernie and Coleman. Referee Manning of this camp handled the game creditably.

A. Blackie, formerly an electrician of this camp, was among the visitors from Hillcrest.

Lack of advertising was given as the reason for the small turnout to the football club dance held on Friday last.

We are asked to request all local members of the Ladies Chapter of the Loyal Order of Moose to attend at the Hawthorne Hall on Monday, at 7.30 p.m., for the purpose of arranging for the projected social dance on Thursday next, June 9.

Mr .and Mrs. Wm. Laurie, of Cranbrook are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. Millburn, of Riverside Avenue.

The "shivaree" band turned out to welcome Mr. and Mrs. T. Ferneaux on their return to camp.

The teams from this camp participating in the forthcoming ambulance and mine rescue competitions, which will be held in Michel on Saturday, June 25, are vieing with each other to bring some of the spoils back to camp.

The Ladies Chapter of the Loyal Order of Moose are holding another of their famous social dances in the Hawthorne Hall on Thursday evening, June 9. Doors open at 7 p.m. Dancing from 7.30. Refreshments provided. Good music. Admission 50c.

George Monks, who has been an inmate of the Fernie hospital for the past few months, is now on the way to recovery.

Miss Janet Fowler returned home during the week from the Fernie hospital, where she underwent an operation for internal trouble.

It has been suggested that the Knights of Pythias commence their socials earlier, thus enabling the local members and families to participate without the necessity of staying over night.

The annual children's sports, confined to members of families, are being held today by the members of the Club up here. All young children assembled at the depot at 10 o'clock to receive 10c each. An added attraction to the usual program is the bicycle race.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Branch have taken over the boarding house at Michel.

Patrons of the terpschicorean art had ample opportunity to display their abilities in the Club Hall last night. The social committee held a grand social dance. The music was suppiled by the Bass orchestra. Dancing was indulged in from 10.30 p.m. to 3.30 a.m. The ladies of the camp provided the refreshments.

The local horticulturists are getting plenty of time to follow the pursuit of their favorite hobby, the mines only working two or three days per week.

Supt. Caufield arrived back in camp on Monday from attending the convention of the Knights of Columbus held in Vancouver.

Mrs. Hughes and family left camp to take up their residence in Fernie during the past week.

AS THE SPARKS FLY

It has taken a good many thousands of years to quiet the fears of mankind about the presence in the skies of one of those rare visitors, a comet. Today, however, the statement that Pons-Winneke will flip its tail at the earth on June 27 causes little more than a mild curiosity and the hope that if the promised shower of meteors materializes it will be spectacular enough to furnish at least a momentary thrill.

Back in 1910 Haley's comet caused considerable consternation in backward sections, and among the uneducated there were acts of frenzy. The shock brought a revival of interest in church services in many localities. But the comet, after furnishing a brilliant spectacle in the eastern sky, allowed the earth to slip undisappeared into the unexplored sky depths.

Pons-Winneke is too small to be seen without the aid of a telescope. Its nearest approach to the earth will be some 12,000,000 miles, which will occur Jun 7. From then uneil June 27 the comet and the earth, astronomers say, will engage in a race that will end with the meteor shower, and then Pons-Winneke will dive into oblivion for a while.—New York Sun.

ENUMERATORS NOW BUSY

It is expected that from two to five weeks from June 1 will suffice in normal localities for the completion of the field work. After the third or fourth month it should be possible to give out the first results for many cities, towns, counties, etc. As to when the final count by provinces for the entire Dominion will be available, so many unforseen contingencies are possible that prophecy is dangerous, but it is expected that five or six months should enable a close approximation to be made. In the recent U.S. census the population count was announced in nine months and seven days.

Altogether the census will cost about two million dollars. The amount set aside this year is about one million and three-quarters, but there was a vote of $50,000 last year for equipment and preparatory work, and another quarter of a million will probably be required in 1922 and 1923 to finish.

Many questions are being asked as to what the enumerators are going to inquire about when they make their call. In order to clear up some of these perplexities for the public, the following questions will give an idea of what may be expected. The head of the house will be called upon to give the information, but should the husband be absent the wife will be called upon to give the information.

1. Name.
2. Residence.
3. Tenure and class of house; is house owned or rented; if rented, how much per month.
4. Relationship to head of household.
5. Sex.
6. Single, married, widowed, or divorced.
7. Age.
8. Country or place of birth of person; of father of person; of mother of person.
9. Year of immigration to Canada.
10. Year of naturalization.
11. Nationality.
12. Racial or tribal origin.
13. Can you speak English.
14. Can you speak French.
15. Language other than English or French spoken by you as Mother tongue.
16. Religion.
17. Can you read.
18. Can you write.
19. Chief occupation or trade (state definitely what you work at).
20. Are you an Employer, Employee, or Working on own account.
21. If "employee," state where employed as "farm," "cotton mill," "foundry," etc.
22. Total earnings in past 12 months (since June 1, 1920).
23. Were you out of work June 1, 1921.
24. Number of weeks unemployed in the past 12 months (since June 1, 1920).
25. Number of weeks unemployed since June 1, 1920, because of illness.

Have you any poultry, swine, horses or cattle?

What was the value of the product from the garden, if any?

No forms are left for persons to fill in except where roomers or boarders are kept, when the individual population is used; again the head of the house is responsible for having this form completed by the person named and returned when called for.

It will materially assist the enumerators if this information can be quickly and easily collected, and the public can be of great assistance in this respect.

All the officials, commissioners and enumerators are sworn to secrecy, and their integrity is unquestionable for this purpose. The generous cooperation of the public is solicited in order that there may be a rapid and accurate census.

"THE TWO SYSTEMS"

THE STOCK COMPANY: Under this form of organization Capital is involved and naturally must be compensated. Under the provisions of the Dominion Insurance Act the Stock Companies may allot to the Shareholders:—
(a) All interest earned on the paid-up capital.
(b) One-tenth of all profits earned on participating policies, and
(c) All profits earned on no-participating policies and other sources.

THE MUTUAL COMPANY: Is purely a means of mutual protection. There is no capital invested excepting the premiums of the policyholders; so that all profit derived from whatever source, is the exclusive property of the policyholders and is returned to them as dividends.

THE ESSENTIAL DIFFERENCE: The above statement reveals the essential difference between stock and mutual companies. Just as some co-operative enterprises eliminate "the middleman," so a mutual life company eliminates the "Shareholder," as the late Wm. McCabe, L.L.B., F.I.A., has said—"The mutual principle is the only one by which the participating members of a life insurance company can receive a full equivalent for their money. It gives insurance at net cost."

NEXT WEEK'S GAMES

Fernie vs. Corbin at Fernie.

Coal Creek vs. Michel at Coal Creek.

Coleman vs. Bellevue at Coleman.

Blairmore vs. Hillcrest at Blairmore.

MICHEL-BLAIRMORE GAME

The first half was fairly decent, ending 1—0 in favor of Michel. Shortly after half time Michel was awarded a penalty kick, A. McGowin taking it and scorng. Ths seemed to peeve Blairmore's centre forward and he deliberately kicked the ball off the grounds delaying the game and kick-off. The rest of the game Michel had things pretty much their own way and notched two more goals. Fowler, Michel forward, played a good game till he got the ball up to the goal mouth then missed four open shots trying to hit the sun. Blairmore's goalkeeper played a good game but had too much to do. Stricter referees for league games would be appreciated by the fans.

FERNIE VS. COLEMAN

Quite a large crowd turned out to see these old rivals and Coleman certainly gave them good returns for their money. The game started with both sides having an equal share of the play. Coleman worked well together and after fifteen minutes of play Yates opened the score. P. Robertson equalized for Fernie soon afterwards, the goalkeeper carrying the ball over the line, and Referee Manning promptly gave a goal. Coleman kept up the pressure and scored another goal. The spectators did not have to wait long for another thrill, for Thornton equalized with a nice header. Both sides strove hard to get the winning goal. A nice run and centre by the Coleman outside right enabled Roughead to score the third goal. Roughead cleverly sidestepped Booth and headed a grand goal. With Fernie handicapped by losing W. Thompson through injury, they began to tire and Coleman increased their lead, Jackson scoring a fourth goal, making the points secure for Coleman. Jackson played a great game at centre half and greatly helped Coleman to win. His passes were always well timed and his forwards knew how to take advantage of them. The Coleman team on a whole combined well and the Fernie spectators gave them every credit for their win, hoping to see them here again before the season is out. The Fernie boys played hard, playing ten men practically the whole game. They tired towards the end and Coleman had things all their own way. Sawyer played his usual game in goal and could not be blamed for any of the goals scored. Murray played a sound game at back and deserves great credit for staying the game through with a dislocated shoulder. Captain Booth played better when he went full back and planly showed that is his right position. He would do well to keep his players from bunching. Dick Thornton played his usual hard game but got little support from his team mates, the result of too much bunching.

Fernie has signed a new centre forward, T. Kennedy. He has shown up good in the practice games and will be a great help to the team. With Hardy back again the forward line will be considerably strengthened so we may look forward to 2 points on Saturday, when Corbin entertain the locals.

The following will be the Fernie team in the game with Corbin:

Goal, Sawyer; backs, G. Booth, G. Murray; half backs, P. Robertson, W. Corrigan, J. Gibson; forwards, J. Robson, H. Hardy, T. Kennedy, R. Thornton, A. Thompson.

Reserves: M. Whitelaw, H. Brown, D. Costa.

CRANBROOK vs. FERNIE

On Sunday Fernie met their old rivals, Cranbrook, and kept themselves in the running by defeating them before a large crowd, on the home grounds by the score of 13 to 5.

The game was of a see-saw variety, Cranbrook opened up in the 1st scoring two runs while Fernie only managed to get one; the second was scoreless; in the 3rd Cranbrook secured another, while Fernie piled up 4 in their half; Cranbrook added two more in the 4th holding Fernie down, after that some nifty playing by Fernie, two double plays being featured, kept Cranbrook from scoring the rest of the game; Fernie got one each in the 5th and 6th and started a batting rally in the eighth after two were out that netted them 6 runs, bewildering Cranbrook who seemed could do nothing to stop them. The box score of the game is as follows:

CITY LEAGUE

On Wednesday representatives of four City Teams met and definitely formed the City League for the season of 1921. The teams represented were; Tri-Wood, by Mr. Barnet; North-End, by C. Ihas; Coal Co. by R. Colton and the Vets by G. Davidson.

The following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—W. R. Wilson.

Hon. Vive-Pres.—G. G. Henderson, M. A Kastner, Dr. Bonnell, T. Uphill, H. R. Huntington, A. Watson.

President—S. T. Wilson.

Vice-Pres.—Dr. Asselstine.

Sec.-Treas.—J. R. McLeod.

Executive—One member of each team to act in conjunction with the present executive of the Fernie team.

The opening game will be played next Wednesday night between the North End and the Coal Co., at the ball diamond. The next game will be on Friday when the Vets meet Tri-wood. Games will be played each week on Wednesdays and Fridays till the end of August. All games to start at 6.45 p.m. sharp and be of seven innings duration.

It was decided that as a number of players not in the organizations represented would invariably be left out, to grant teams the privilege of going outside their fold but not to encroach on each other's domains. This ruling should be instrumental in some good ball playing. Players from time to time will be picked from the four teams to represent Fernie in the League, so if you want to make the local team, get on a team. Next week we will publish a complete schedule.

WALDO vs. WYCLIFFE

Wycliffe and district ball fans witnessed the second home game of the season on Sunday afternoon when the Waldo nine met the local team in a fast contested league game. Both were out for a win, each having played two succesful games, placing themselves on the top of the league. Sunday's game was to determine the league leaders.

Waldo went to bat in the initial inning and Campbell, the first man up walked and scored later on Todhunter's hit, then the game tightened up and both teams played errorless ball, neither side scoring until Wycliffe tied the score in the second, Clark crossing the plate on Musser's two-bagger. The game continued to be full of excitement for the fans with the score remaining unchanged until the sixth when the Clark-Musser combination again proved fatal to the visitors, putting Wycliffe in the lead. The third and last run of the game was brought in in the seventh. Waldo made a whirlwind effort to beat the lead the locals had but without the desired results and the tightest and best all round game so far this season ended with the score standing 3 to 1 in favor of Wycliffe.

THE MINERS' STRIKE

Mr. Lloyd George in discussing the coal strike which has now lasted for eight weeks, draws attention to the apathy of the public towards the situation and describes it as due to a willingness to wait until a permanent settlement can be reached. The people of Britain are heartily sick of the threat of industrial disruption which has rested its shadown on their peace for some years past. They are ready to suffer far greater ills than they are being subjected to at this time if the triumph of their suffering will be the creation of a state of affairs which will enable the country to resume its legitimate place in the world of commerce. Britain's life blood is commerce. It is certain that the country is suffering grievously at this time. Trade is slipping from her grasp. Conditions which will perpetuate unemployment for a long time to come are being created, and the idleness in the colleries of the past two months may set Britain back for a year in industrial expansion.

The people of Britain realize the implications of the miners' idleness, and they are not angry for they understand that under the circumstances passive resistance can accomplish far more in the long run than active interference in the dispute between the owners and employees. Recent by-election results show that they trust the government to find a way out of the difficulty, but they require that it should be a permanent solution, which will remove the sword of Damocles that has hung for too long over their industrial life. The nation has confidence in itself and that confidence has been proudly justified by the ability shown to bear all the disadvantages which the present dislocation entails. There is a settled belief in the country that the price of coal must come down, for if it does so will the price of every article which depends on it, and, therefore, the purchasing power of the consumer will be greater and Britain will be in a better position to compete in the world's markets.

Britain has set an example by the restraint exercised during the present crisis. That the vast mass of the striking employees are themselves loyal citizens of the country is one of the redeeming features of the strike, and the utmost toleration has been shown towards them because it is realized that they have been ill advised. The government has exerted all legitimate efforts to bring about a settlement. It has even promised, as an outright gift to the miners, a sum of £10,000,000 of the nation's money to tide over the time during which an adjustment of wages is being effected. That alone shows the earnest desire which exists for peace, and the obstinacy of the miners' leaders is difficult to understand. What the strike has accomplished so far is to make the nation more determined than ever that there shall be no nationalization of the mines. The people see clearly that, with government ownership, they would be faced all the time with just such happenings as that through which they are now passing and the nation would be held to ransom again and again. There is too much commonsense in Britain to endorse a policy which means that any basic industry, so well established as mining, should be subsidized by the State. The miners may not realize it now but they will soon understand that the present strike has sounded the death knell of nationalization.—Colonist.

¶ The Coming Week of June 6 to 11 will see the greatest Red Cross Membership Enrollment Drive that Canada has ever known. British Columbia must, and will, top the list, else it will defeat its own traditions, so splendidly upheld.

¶ The Red Cross is today a living thing, pulsating with energy. A child of war, it will not be denied its right to manhood in time of peace. Vast as was its work in battle, vaster still are the labors which now confront it—labors which it is pledged to undertake.

¶ Join the Red Cross in British Columbia, and by your example and effort help it to achieve its work in the relief of sickness and distress. Help it to inculcate its principles and practice amongst the rising generation — the mothers and fathers of tomorrow.

¶ Join the Red Cross in British Columbia, you men and women of our Province, and help it in its greatest endeavor for the improvement of health and the prevention of disease.

¶ Join the Junior Red Cross in British Columbia, you boys and girls. You will be proud to wear its emblem—you will be glad to serve under its banner. Many are the children less fortunate than you whom you can help and cheer.

WHISPER AGAINST ENGLAND BLOW AT WORLD LIBERTY

Conference Sunday is always a notable day in the sessions of the New York East Conference and Hanson Place Methodist Episcopal church was well filled to hear the annual sermon by Bishop Luther B. Wilson, who is presiding. There was an unusual demonstration during the bishop's sermon when the large audience burst out into long and loud handclapping when the bishop, referring to the soldier as being one of the noblest men and telling the audience not to forget France, or Britain, or Belgium, or Italy, men who saved the world from the tragedy of having the flag of Prussia floating over them, he shouted out in eloquent passage, "In the name of bonds indissoluble, welded by the blood of millions of brave men, these whisperings, these waves of propaganda, in the name of God must be stopped, for the men who dare to whisper against Engand are not friends of peace nor of righteousness, nor are they friends of America, though they have homes and secure benefits of our great land."

GAZZALO GETS SIX MONTHS

Sam A Miller, formerly of Elko, but now having a residence in the vicinity of "Boozeville" valley appeared before Magistrate recently on various charges arising out of Prohibition. He was fined $50 for having liquor in other than a private dwelling house with which two 40-gal. barrels containing spirits of a kind and nine bottles were confiscated. This charge was prosecuted by the Provincial authorities, but in the chain of circumstances, Miller, through other alleged offences became entangled with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Customs officials. A further charge of refusing to stop his vehicle when demanded to do so by a federal officer when about to cress the International Boundary was preferred. Acused was found guilty on this and an additional fine of $125 was imposed.

In the County Judge's Criminal Court before his Honour Judge Thompson, Joe Gazzalo, an old timer of Michel was sentenced to six months in Nelson Gaol for assault upon Sergt. Craig of the R.C.M.P In sentencing accused the Judge said: "I have looked into the authorities and I have come to the conclusion that on a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm it is the result that counts. The chief authority is Rex vs. Hossetter, 7 C.C.C. I find the accused guilty of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. There has been a great deal of this assaulting police officers in Michel lately. One case a short time ago nearly resulted in murder and that has to be stopped I do not think a fine would meet the ends of Justice, at the same time as this is the first case that has come before me I don't intend to be severe. I will sentence you to Nelson Gaol for six months." The former case referred to was that of Fred Melosky who used a shot gun upon Constable Hilton and another man a few months ago, for which he was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years.

PIONEER CROSSES DIVIDE

Death called another Old Timer away early on Thursday morning in the person of our well known townsman, D. V. Mott. He had been ill for several weeks, but had gradually recovered sufficiently to sit up and move around a little; in fact he was up just a few minutes before the call came.

Deceased who was 72 years of age, if he had lived until Monday next would have celebrated his golden wedding.

He was born in Kansas and with his family came to this country over thirty years ago, first locating in Hamilton, Ont., later he moved to Alberta where he took up ranching. About twenty-two years ago the family came to Fernie where the deceased became interested in the lumber industry with the Fernie Lumber Co., later he secured the limits on Mount Fernie, which he disposed of to the Elk Lumber Co. He then went into the newspaper business and for a time conducted the Fernie Ledger, which he later on sold to District No. 18, U.M.W. of A. Since then he has made a reputation for himself as a newspaper correspondent and was known far and wide throughout the west.

He always took a keen interest in public affairs and was an active member of the United Church. Deceased leaves a widow, one son, Arthur, and a daughter, Mrs. E. G. Daniels to mourn his departure. The funeral will be held from the United Church on Saturday at 2 o'clock.

THE ELK RIVER

The cool weather yesterday, caused a slight drop in the waters of the Elk; but during the night a heavy rain fell and this morning with the return of warm weather, the river is again rising with alarming rapidity.

The water has risen to a point just confined within the banks and should the warm spell continue for a couple more days, the water will be over the Elk Valley Lumber Company's yards and probably sever the connecting link between the city and West Fernie.

To the north-east of the city, between here and Hosmer the river has overflowed its banks, making several minature lakes, however, where this has occured ther is nothing but bush and no damage will result. The river bank protection work erected by the Provincial Government some time ago is doing its work well, and it is not expected that any damage will be caused by flooding in the Fernie Annex district, which was so badly hit during the 1916 floods.

CITY COUNCIL PASS BY-LAWS

The regular meeting of the City Council was held last night, Ald. Robichaud being the only absentee. The minutes of the metting of May 26 were adopted as read. Ald. Robichaud arrived late.

Mr. Adamson of the Kootenay Telephone Lines appeared before the Council relative to complaint with regard to alleged destruction of boulevards, etc., in connection with the present construction operations of the Telephone Company. The Mayor advised that this be considered and he would be given instructions later.

A communication from the Secretary of the Teamsters Union suggesting a joint meeting for the negotiating of renewal of agreement was filed as the date of June 8 was fixed by the Union and that has now passed.

The garbage question was the subject of further discussion. Receptacles suitable for this purpose and of very substantial quality are available at the City Hall at $4.00 each, on the cash and carry or at $4.25 each and the City will deliver same to the residence of purchaser.

In order that the garbage disposal system may be more successfully and economically handled, it is essential that householders co-operate with the City and one way in which this can be done is to secure the proper receptacles in which to collect the refuse and place them in convenient locations for collection.

An enquirey from the Chief of Police as to whether the minimum license fee of $30.00 should be charged the Chautauqua was tabled without definite action taken.

Drs. Bonnell, Garner and Asselstine returned remittances covering city employees on medical contract from which account an item of $80.00 had been deducted covering an account the city had charged against the doctors for an isolation hospital case. The communication stated that the medical aid contract does not include infectious diseases. The matter will be further investigated.

The trucks are to be insured, this being left in the hands of the City Clerk to place on the basis of the most favorable quotations received.

The contract of the Canadian Westinghouse Co. for supplying the City's meter requirements for one year was accepted.

The usual batch of civic accounts were authorised to be paid.

By-Law No. 206, cited as Hotels By-Law but, covering in addition, Clubs, Roadhouses, etc., was presented and considered in committee and later finally passed and adopted. The draft form gives at the outset the legal definition of person. The Chief of Police is inspector and on his recommendation will licenses be granted. Applications must be in writing and accompanied by fee of $1.00 to cover inspection. Applications must give details of premises and state whether or not applicant is the true owner of ister of guests showing time of arrivals and departures of said guests. Hotels must have at least 20 bedrooms fully furnished and having adequate bedding, this is in addition to quarters occupied by family, help and proprietor. Each bedroom must have at least 38 cubic feet of space and 2 ft. windows. A dining room must be maintained and operated. For any contravention of Federal or Provincial Statute respecting sale of liquor or intoxicants, upon conviction, the license is automatically cancelled. Persons of loose or idle character, prostitutes, etc., are not to be allowed to remain on the premises. The The license fee is fixed at $25.00 for the present. This By-Law was finally passed and adopted.

By-Laws covering the following were also passed and adopted:

(1) Inspection of premises re Fire prevention measures.
(2) Fire Escape By-Law.
(3) Pound Amendment By-Law, increasing penalties.
(4) Building By-Law Amendment.

Soft Drinks By-Law received its three readings. This governs the hours and times during which sales are permitted in all establishments where soft drinks are sold: viz clos-

JULY FIRST CELEBRATION

The meeting held on Monday evening to consider the matter of a Dominion Day celebration was largely attended and most enthusiastically in favor of a demonstration that day. The proceeds to be devoted entirely to the Children's Recreation Fund. It was reported that the fund already had $2600 to its credit in the bank and that if a thousand or two could be added to this amount, work could be commenced almost immediately on a permanent Children's Swimming pool.

Good committees were appointed to handle the business of the celebration and a detailed program wil be published next week.

It is urgently requested that every citizen get out and boost for the celebration as the cause is most worthy.

Owing to the list of committees not being complete it is being held over till next week. There is a meeting in the Council Chambers tonight at which all arrangements are expected to be made and work in earnest will be commenced.

CHAUTAUQUA BEST YET

The Penticton Herald says the Chautauqua Program this year is the best that has been given in that city.

The best Chautauqua Penticton has ever had will come to a close today with a concert by the Scotch-Canadian concert party in the afternoon and a concert prelude by the same party in the evening and Pitt Parker in "Ninety Minutes with a Crayon Wizard" at night, says the Herald.

"Those who heard Dr. Evans last Tuesday night thought that he was simply a wonder as an eloquent orator and a fun maker on the platform. But Tuesday night there appeared another orator, who although somewhat different in style was quite as interesting and effective. He was Judge George D. Alden, speaking on "The Needs of The Hour." Judge Alden is a New England orator. He is also something of a mimic. And he is a humorist. He uses these abilities to present to his hearers his claim that to get back to national honesty the individuals of the nation must get back to God.

The address was followed with rapt attention, not only by the big crowd of adults but also by many boys and girls. Judge Alden punctuated his remarks with many stories and jokes. He was just about as successful in keeping the crowd laughing as was Dr. Evans earlier in the week, and that is saying a good deal. His orathe business. Hotels must keep regtorical flights were noteworthy too."

THE GREAT MURDOCK

Weird mystification from India and the Far East, baffling and amusing magical novelties and illusions, startling spirit manifestations, tests in applied psychology and thought transmissions, Oriental divertissments and dances and last but most important his famed Crystal Seance are the features promised by the Great Murdock, who, with his company of wonder workers, will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre for an egagement of one night only, Thursday June 16.

In his appearance we are promised the original and peer of Seers and in his Crystal Seance the most marvelous demonstration of mental celerity and physic power ever presented. This phenomenon, it is said, has baffled the many societies before whom he has appeared throughout the world.

With his fascinating and facetious personality and an entertainment of rare merit, Murdock has enjoyed sensationally successful engagements throughout the country, it is said, and we are promised here the same features and effects that have characterized those successes.

Murdock attributes his remarkable talents only to his unusual development of the sixth sense, an inherent psychic mentality and an understanding of human nature and subconscious thought; having attained these accomplishments through a life time study, particularly of the weird philosophy of the Yogi Meditators of India.

POULTRY INSTRUCTOR COMING HERE JUNE 17th.

C. W. Traves, provincial poultry instructor will be in Fernie on June 17. While he is here every poultry man should take advantage of his visit.

He will give an address on how to make poultry pay and other interesting topics that will be of benefit to all. He will give his address in Haddad's old store, in the Miners' Union Building at 8 p.m. sharp, June 17th. Everybody welcome, there will be no charge made to hear his lecture.

MICHEL COMPETITION

The East Kootenay Mine Safety Association is holding its Mine Rescue and First Aid Competition at Michel on Saturday, June 25th, and arrangements are being made to convey competitors and others from Coal Creek and Fernie by special train via the Great Northern Railway.

The object of the Association is to promote interest in First Aid and Mine Rescue work among the employees of the Coal Companys in the East Kootenay district, and to encourage the adoption of the principals of the "Safety First" movement.

It is expected about sixteeen teams will be taking part in the competitions, and with the G.W.V.A. Band in attendance, an interesting day is promised.

The Prizes are on display now in A. C. Liphardt's window.

ALLEN PLAYERS HERE THIS WEEK

The Allen Players who for many years have entertained western audiences with high class comedy and drama opened a week's engagement at the Grand on Monday night with a very strong play "The Lady of the Scarlet Poppy," with Miss Verna Felton in the leading role.

Not for many years has the Fernie audiences had the pleasure of witnessing such a really first class performance. Every member of the company was an artist and those present were quick to appreciate their talent.

On Tuesday evening the company played the roaring comedy "A Pair of Sixes" and proved just as proficient in comedy as they were in the drama the preceeding evening. On Wednesday, "The Cave Girl" proved a fitting vehicle to show the wonderful versatility of Miss Felton, who seems to be at home in any part she takes. Last night the company played "The Outcast to an appreciative audience. Tonight they will put on "Pollyanna, the Glad Girl," and if you really want to get rid of that grouch don't fail to attend.

On Saturday they will put on a matinee, presenting "The Brat." At night the well known play "Fair and Warmer" will be produced.

The Allen players are a company which well deserve your patronage. The prices charged are very low; in fact, you have paid $2 many times for shows that were not in the same class for a minute.

FIGHTING SCENES IN KHYBER PASS.

British and Indian troops numbering 900 battle in the Santa Susanna Pass in scenes of "The Hope" the big spectacular melodrama produced by Metro, and showing next Monday and Tuesday at the Orpheum Theatre. This Pass, located in the mountains above Chatsworth, Cal., is the division between the San Fernando and Ventura Valleys.

It was chosen as the location for the fighting scenes in "The Hope" because of its similarity to the famous Khyber Pass in India. This great Passageway, "gateway to India," is the scene in Cecil Raleigh's and Henry Hamilton's melodrama of a spirited engagement between Afghanstan savages and troops of the British army.

Khyber Pass is probably the most famous of all mountain Passageways. It is located at the northwestern corner of India. For years it was feared that Russia or some other power would attempt to capture India by rushing through this Pass.

The small army that participates in the battle scenes of "The Hope" will be transported daily to and from location and the Metro studios in Hollywood, a distance of fifty miles. Herbert Blache is directing this famous story under the personal supervision of Maxwell Karger, Director General, and has a squad of assistants. Jack Mulhall, Ruth Stonehouse, Frank Elliott and Marguerite de la Motte head the cast. Both Mr. Mulhall and Mr. Elliott participate in the battle scenes.

PRESERVE OR GO WITHOUT

Among those who realize that at the present rate of cutting, our forests will within a few short years be pretty well depleted, there is a movement to further conserve our standing timber by placing an embargo against the export of pulpwood. At the moment there is an embargo against the exportation of pulp wood taken from Crown lands, but none from lands held in fee simple. In other words, where land is privately held the owner has every right under present regulations to cut and export every stick he owns. Of course, American paper manufacturers who are looking to Canada for raw material to keep their mills going are naturally opposed to extending this embargo to timber lands held in fee simple. Among other things, they state that it is propaganda striving to serve personal ends. It looks to me like propaganda strving to serve the country's ends, by conserving our forests for our own people. At any rate it is good business, and should on that score appeal to Uncle Sam, who is primarily a business man. Note, for instance, his Emergency Bill, which will heavily penalize our exports to that country.

However, even more drastic steps than this must be taken else a very few years will find us as bare of forest resources as is New England. Between forest fires on the one hand and the axeman on the other, the denudation proceeds at an alarming rate. Senator Edwards, of Ottawa, one of the best posted lumbermen in Canada, is authority for the statement that the standing supply of timber in Eastern Canada will be exhausted in twelve years at the present rate of consumption; while even British Columbia, that land of forests, will according to experts be short of timber in the next generation, provided the felling goes ahead at the present rate.

The answer to this problem is threefold: First, better fire protection; second, reforestation on a gigantic scale; and thirdly, the conservation of our forests by finding an annual crop substitute for at least sulphite pulp, in the place of trees, even though the quality be poorer and the cost greater. So far as possible our forests should be preserved for the biulding of homes and other uses where no substitute can be found for good lumber.

Up to the present our schemes of reforestation have for the most part been mere child's play, and outside of Quebec there has so far as the writer is aware been no real plan evolved, and even there the work is confined to a company or two wise enough to see that the present timber on their limits will in time be exhausted.—Saturday Night.

PUSSY'S NO PUSSYFOOT

A householder was recently astonished at beholding a company of rats rolling and staggering across the kitchen floor. Probing the cause of this strange phenomenon, he found that a bottle of whiskey had been broken near the spot, and that the rodents, having drunk deeply, were distinctly "merry."

The animal kingdom is far from being vigorously teetotal. Elephants often show a liking for beer, porter, wines and spirits. A showman who had a performing elephant found that by dosing the beast with brands he could be taught all manner of tricks with the greatest ease. One evening, when the elephant was appearing at Porstmouth, he was allowed to imbibe too freely, and, after rolling about the ring, collapsed into a heap, his head dazed with the spirits.

Although camels will go for many days without water, they are always ready to drink whiskey, and have been known to prefer it to their usual beverage. The effect of strong drink upon lions is to render them quite tame.

In 1899 there was a well-known racehorse which was regularly doped with whiskey before the race, owing to its faint-hearted nature. This practice led to many successes; but finally the day came when the jockey was utterly unable to make it go faster than an ordinary walk. After proceeding a few yards in this fashion, it leant against the railing and subsided upon the course.

"If I did my duty," said a nearby policeman, "I should run that hoss in for being drunk and incapable!"

Dogs are perhaps the most abstemious of animals, but even they have been known to like the bottle. A doctor reports the case of a Skye terrier which suffered from distemper, and became so ill that port wine was administered three or four times every hour in order to save its life. After the dog recovered, his master found he had become a perfect dipsomaniac. Whenever there was port wine on the table, he would climb upon a chair in an andeavor to satisfy his craving.

If you put whiskey in pussy's milk, you would find her raise no violent objection. Cats, like the rest, behave in an extraordinary fashion when inebriated.—Saturday Night.

PERSONNEL OF SCOTTISH TEAM

Comprises All-Star Football Players With Big Reputations.

When the officers and members of the Scottish All-Star Football team arrived at Halifax, the desire of all Canadian football men to have an Old Country professional, first-class team of players come to this country was satisfied.

The Dominion Football Association, through President Dan MacNeil and Secretary-Treasurer D. W. Roy, have completed final arrangements for the tour, after several months' efforts and development, and those officials welcomed the party on behalf of the Association which they represent on their arrival at Halifax.

The party of sixteen players, who have been chosen for this long-deferred missionary football enterprise to bind Canada and the Old Country closer in the bonds of sport and brotherhood, sailed from Liverpool May 10 on the Cunard Lined Cameronia. Upon their arrival in Canada, the Canadian National Railways took charge of transporting the party to the Pacific Coast and return, and the railway is bending every effort to make the tour a pleasant one for the visitors.

The tour is creating considerable interest in Canada, and in addition to the matches played in the Dominion, the program will include four games in the chief cities of the United States. Matches in Canada will be at: Halifax, May 18; Ottawa, May21; Montreal, May 24; Hamilton, May 26; Toronto, May 28; Fort William-Port Arthur, June 1; Winnipeg, June 4; Regina, June 6; Saskatoon, June 8; Calgary June 11; Edmonton June 14; Vancouver, June 18. On their return trip they will play at: Prince Albert, June 28; Winnipeg, July 1; Toronto, July 6. International game at Montreal on July 9. The four games in the United States will be played between July 9 and 26.

The officials of the visiting team include Col. J. B. Wilson, chirman of the Third Lanark Club; Andrew Mitchell and Thomas Sloan, two of tthe directors and Mr. Connell, who is manager of the undertaking. The line up of the team is:—

CRAIG BROWN—Centre half back of the Motherwell Club who came into the team when Cringan, the Celtic star, was forced to withdraw, is credited with being a "team in himself" by Old Country experts.

JOHN MARSHALL—One of the two players from English Clubs expected to tour with the Scottish Team Plays for Middlesborough and is credited by "Bedouin" as being the great right back of modern times .Starred in recent international.

JAMES GORDON—Captained Scotland's team on several occasions. Formerly starred for Rangers but has been performing for Dumferline Athletic during the current season. Probably the most versatile player in Britain. Starred in recent international.

JIMMY QUINN — On retired list. Gained fame as centre forward for Celtic and Scotland. Of the aggressive, bustling type, he packed a wicked shot. Probably the best centre Scotland has produced. May play here occasionally.

JAMES McMENEMY — The dandy little winger, who contributed much to the success of Patrick Thistle in the recent Scottish Cup series. Formerly played for Celtic and was frequently capped for Scotland. Known as the "Napoleon of Football."

PADDY CROSSAN — No Scottish team would be complete without one member from Edinburgh. "Auld Reekie's" representative is Paddy Crossan, a back of the first water, rugged as he looks, but a veritable stonewall in the pinch. Possess a powerful kick.

ALEX. McNAIR — Veteran right back of the Glasgow Celtic, hero of many international battles and considered one of the "brainiest" defence men playing the game in the Old Country. Of the "old war-horse variety." Never beaten!

JIMMY BROWNIE—Famous goalkeeper, who can be classed as a veteran. Has been faithful custodian for Third Lanark for many years, and hes seen much service in internaional matches. One of the best exponents of last-line defence in the World—"Daddy of them all."

The army of "prominently mentioned" for the office of Governor-General of Canada may now demobilize.

For low-down meanness it would be hard to equal the Iowa farmer, who trained his cow to kick his wife every time she attempted to milk it.

Owing to the mild weather, health authorities predict a prolific crop of flies. Householders are urged to start a vigorous "screen and swat" campaign.

The book agent who entered an insurance office in an Ontario city is convinced that his business is full of risks. Instead of getting an order he was written up for a policy.

Asked concerning the rumored sale of the London Times, Lord Northcliffe said: "The only time the Times is for sale is when the regular morning editions are on the street."

The "cash and carry" system in connection with the delivery of orders from government vendor's shops may prove a hardship to customers who have more than they can carry.

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

NINE MILLION CARS IN STATES

New York City—All previous production, sales, export and registration marks were passed by the United States automobile industry in 1920, according to statistics contained in "Facts and Figures," 1921 edition, just issued by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

General prosperity and the increasing use of cars and trucks as economic transport units on farm and in industry are believed to be the leading factors in the increased business of the industry during the past year.

"The motor car has become an indispensable instrument in our political, social and industrial life," said President Harding in his first message to Congress on April 12. This statement, which appears on the cover of the annual review of the industry, is the keynote of the 1921 edition, supported by many pages of research on the use of the car in many avenues of business. Three million motor vehicles are used by farmers, 100,000 by doctors, 30,000 are used by State governments, 12,000 by municipalities, 12,000 by rural schools, 4,000 by packing houses, several thousand by the post office department, and thousands more by telephone companies, salesmen, bus lines and other commercial and professional activities.

The total wholesale business of motor vehicles, part, tires and accessories in 1920 amounted to $3,594,814,620. This included car and truck sales of $2,232,927,678, parts and accessories of over $725,000,000, and tire replacement business of $636,750,000.

Closed bodies formed 17 per cent of the passenger car production of the past year, as compared with their 10 per cent place in the 1919 output. The total number of vehicles produced in 1920 was 2,205,197, of which 322,039 were motor trucks and 1,883,158 were passenger cars, a gain of 12 per cent over 1919 in total motor vehicle output.

Automobile registration in the United States for 1920 totalled 9,211,295, or 22 per cent more than in 1919. Approximately 990,000 of these vehicles were motor trucks. South Dakota now has one automobile for every five persons, Iowa one for every 5½, and Nebraska one for every 5.9. New York leads the list on the basis of gross registrations, totalling 670,290. West Virginia showed the greatest percentage growth by adding 61 per cent to her 1919 record. Ohio was the banner state from the standpoint of numerical increase, adding 110,359 cars and trucks.

Exports formed a large part of the automobile business than ever before, having 7½ per cent of the total output as compared with 4 per cent the year before. The total number of motor vehicles exported was 170,765, or more than double the 1919 figure of 82,652. United Kingdom, British Isles, Canada and Cuba were the largest buyers.

The automobile today pays more special taxes than any other U.S. industry. Total levies assessed upon the automobile exceed $316,720,000. Over $148,000,000 of this is in Federal taxes, a sum large enough to cover the Federal judiciary, congressional and executive expenses, as well as the costs of the Department of Interior, Commerce, Treasury, Justice, Labor and Agriculture, plus the expense of the diplomatic and consular service.

"Laddie Boy" the dog recently presented President Harding, is the pet of the White House. Wise office-seekers make it a point to fill their pockets with dog biscuits when they call at the executive mansion.

If there is any truth in the theory of a New York scientist that music cause flowers and plants to thrive, amateur gardners might try what effect a brass band would have on the anaemic products of their back yards.

Since a cinnamon bear has been added to the list of White House pets Washington correspondents are expecting spicy developments.

FROM REMOTEST PARTS OF GLOBE

Tanlac Elements Come From Many Lands Far Awey From Here

The ingredients from which the celebrated medicine, Tanlac, is made, come from remote sections of the earth, and are transported thousands of miles over land and sea to the great Tanlac Laboratories at Dayton, Ohio, and Walkerville, Canada.

The Alps, Appenines, Pyrennes, Russian-Asia, Brazil, West Indies, Rocky Mountains, Asia Minor, Persia, India, Mexico, Columbia and Peru, are among the far away points from which the principle properties of this remarkable preparation are obtained.

What is said to be the largest pharmaceutical laboratory in the United States has been completed at Dayton, Ohio, for the manufacture of Tanlac, which, according to recent reports, is now having the largest sale of any medicine of its kind in the world; over 20,000,000 bottles having been sold in six years.

The new plant occupies 60,000 sq. ft. of floor space and has a daily capacity of 50,000 bottles. Uniform quality is guaranteed by a series of careful inspections by expert chemists from the time the roots, herbs, bark and flowers are received in their rough state from all parts of the globe until their medicinal properties have been extracted by the most approved processes. The finished medicine is then bottled, labeled and shipped out to tens of thousands of druggists throughout the United States and Canada to supply a demand never before equalled by this, or any other medicine.

The after-dinner orator who urged the English-speaking nations to "club together and fight together" can witness a demonstration of the links that bind them together by attending the international golf tournament in Scotland.

A Quebec editor has had the Montenegrin order of Knight of the Order of Danillo conferred upon him. It is said to be one of the most ancient orders in existence and can be traced back to the time when Daniel hypnotized the lions in their den.

A Toronto paper reports that Col. George H. Ham, C. P. R. joymaster plenipotentiary and minister of mirth, is now engaged in writing a movie play on quite new lines. The synopsis discloses rare humor and originality of craftsmanship and plot. The silent comedy drama is to be wholly Canadian and introduces types and characters that are part of Canadian individuality.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

P. R. Allen, owner and manager of the Allen Players, is in the city after an absense of seven years. The last time Mr. Allen visited Fernie he weighed exactly 327 pounds. Today while he is not so robust, he is still around the 300 mark. Mr. Allen is quite a booster for Christian Science, and has a reason, in fact his experience sounds like a Tanlac adv. Two years ago he was down and out, physically having lost 147 pounds and given up as dying by the leading physicians of San Francisco. He was operated on for cancer of the stomach and given only two months to live. His daughter, Miss Verna Felton prevailed upon him to try Christian Science, which he finally did. Since that he has gained 70 pounds and has completely regained his health.

BOARDS MEET AT INVERMERE

INVERMERE, June 4th.—The first sesion of the second get-together convention of the Asociated Boards of Trade of Southeastern British Columbia went off successfully in Community house, Lake Windermere camp, here today.

There were present at the official dinner amongst others John Kingham, president Asociated Boards of British Columbia, Victoria; Fred A. Starkey, commissioner, Associated Boards Nelson, and Captain F. P. Armstrong, of Trade of Eastern British Columbia, from the same place; Archie L. Leitch Jaffray, President Mountain Lumbermen's association, and Board of Trade presidents Green, from Golden; Fink, from Cranbrook, and Bevan of Creston.

Other invited board of trade guests, present were from Vancouver, Revelstoke, Nelson, Fernie, Cranbrook and Golden to a total of 80. Many of those from East Kootenay points arrived in autos accompanied by their wives.

Regrets over being unavoidably detained were received from Messrs. Hannah, Wilson and Payne of Calgary and Vancouver Boards of Trade, Dr. King, minister of publice works, and others. Telegraphic felicitations were received from the Spokane Chamber of Commerce.

Speeches for the evening as made by chief representatives rang with optimism; spoke of the need of closer provincial cooperation and the better developement of our natural resources. One and all were loud in praise of the beauties of Lake Windermere district. Being his majesty's birthday, this was specially observed by drinking the customary loyal toast and speeches were made interspersed with musical selections by talented artists

This morning the business session at Lake Windermere camp was largely attended Very little new business was brought up, but the important subjects of completion of the Banff-Windermere automobile road extension; the government telephone system; sign marking main roads and urging the provincial government to look more closely and help out by irrigation poylicy settlement on unoccupied land were thoroughly ventilated.

The afternoon was given over to a golf tournament, tennis, boating and auto trips, especially to Sinclair Hot Springs and the end of construction part of Banff-Windermere road.

President G.J. Spruell, LL.B., Cranbrok is presiding officer throughout.

CITY COUNCIL PASS BY-LAWS

ed 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. daily and Lord's Day.

Electric Wiring By-Law received final sanction. Permits for wiring are now required for which $1.00 fee must be paid. Specifications for wiring are outlined and must be adhered to strictly.

Several members of the council were lulled into a state approaching slumber without snores by the readings of the "Fire Prevention By-Law" which while we remained awake occupied almost half an hour. This covers practically every imaginable matter for the prevention of fires and while it is equally as verbose as the historic notes to Germany, at the same time the exhaustive details into which it delves makes it as intelligible reading as a property description in metes and bounds. However, the effect this By-Law will undoubtedly be far reaching in preventing conditions in and about business premises and elsewhere being created which would be favorable to the spreading of conflagrations.

Adjournment was taken at 11 p.m.

FERNIE vs. CORBIN

Corbin visited Fernie last Saturday and were defeated by the score of 2 to 0, after a moderate game. Dick Thornton scoring the goals for Fernie. Kennedy at centre for Fernie, played a very useful game, giving the wings plenty to do and shooting at every opportunity, he gave Thornton some nice passes and Dick knows how to take advantage of them. Corrigan played a steady game at Centre half, and with a little more practice will fill the position and help keep the team together. With Davidson back in the forward line, Fernie make a better showing and will give a better account of themselves in the future.

The Fernie Hillcrest game for Saturday is postponed till some time next week. The Hillcrest players are taking in the big game at Calgary. Several car loads of Fernie sports are going also.

Don't forget the Junior game on Sunday, at 6 p.m. in aid of D. Ferguson, who broke his leg in the first game with Coal Creek. Show your appreciation by buying a benefit tag.

The folowing players will represent Fernie Juniors on Sunday:

CONTROLLING TUBERCOLOSIS

At Framingham, Mass., a community demonstration is being carried out to determine how effectively tuberculosis can be controlled with the use of all known means for the discovery and treatment of this disease and with the co-operation of all available community agencies. The undertaking is being financed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and is under the direction of a special committee appointed by the National Tuberculosis Association.

In working out this health program in Framingham, adequate medical, nursing, dental and clinic services have been provided for infants, school children, factory workers, etc. Twelve or thirteen thousand out of a population of 17,000 have been given a thorough medical examination. Special consultants have been offered to the local physicians to aid in the discovery of all possible cases of tuberculosis. All available means for the treatment of the disease have been used.

In this examination work, in a house to house hygenic canvass, in a sickness census, and in many other ways, Framingham agents have been of great service, by canvassing homes, by urging co-operation, by distributing educationl literature, etc.

The outstanding facts in this demonstration for disease control to date are as follows:

1. Total numbes of cases under care increased from 27 to 200 in the first year.
2. The percentage of cases discovered in the early or hopeful stage of the disease increased from 55 to 88 per cent during the demonstration.
3. The precentage of cases given proper sanatorium treatment increased from 15 to 33 per cent.
4. The health expenditures in the town have increased from 40 cents per capita to about $2 per capita per year.
5. The tuberculosis death rate has been decreased from an average of 121 per hundred thousand for the previous decade to a rate of 54 per hundred thousand in 1920. This means a reduction of about one-half.

The chief lesson to be learned is that tuberculosis is controllable, if towns and cities are willing to undertake an adequate programme.

STELLAR FIELDING GIVES FERNIE A WIN

In the best game played here this season in the East Kootenay League, Fernie defeated Waldo by a score of six runs to one. The Fernie fielding was the feature of the game, accepting chance after chance without any costly errors and pulling off some exceptionally clever plays.

Fernie opened the scoring in the first innings getting in one run, Waldo tied the score in the second, getting their only tally of the game. Fernie added three runs in the third and two more in the seventh.

Waldo looked like getting in runs on several occasions, having men as far as third base, only to have them held there by the sterling fielding of the Fernie boys. B. Wilson pulled off a couple of exceptionally fine catches of Texas Leaguers, the whole Fernie outfield was safe. Murray grabbed up a fast grounder between first and second, with his bare hand throwing his runner out at first. Callihan pitched his usual sterling game, getting a little the better of Todhunter, but had the Waldo team played the same errorless ball as did the Fernie team, the score would have been much closer.

Cranbrook - White Spruce

White Spruce took possession of the cellar in the league race when Cranbrook defeated them on Sunday last, at Cranbrook, snowing them under by the score of 17 to 3.

Cranbrook went on a hitting spree and knocked pitcher Sofko out of the box in the 5th, Bishop relieved him, but the clouting continued. R. Armstrong pitched a one-hit game; after two men had walked in the 7th, Bishop clouted the ball for a 3 bagger, scoring both men and coming home later on a wild pitch.

Batteries—
Cranbrook; Armstrong and Adamson. White Spruce; Sofko, Bishop and Dunlap.

Wardner - Wycliffe

Wardner gave Wycliffe a battle royal on Sunday last, when they held the league leaders down to a 9 to 7 score. Good clean hitting featured the game.

Thompson pitched a steady game for Wardner and hit in five runs with a 2 bagger in the first and another in the 9th innigs. Wycliffe's battery were the clouters for Wycliffe, Muser getting a three base hit and McTeer, cleaning the bases with three-baggers in the first and ninth. With two down in the ninth, Musser lost the plate and walked three which followed by Thompson's hit scoring two, gave the Wardner fans a wild vision of a win and they played for a hit to score two and tie the game. Crear relieved Musser and the second ball thrown was wide of the plate but McTeer recovered in time to nip Thompson at third ending the game.

Batterie—
Wardner—Thompson and Garrison.
Wycliffe—Musser, Crear and McTeer.

PIRATES SLAUGHTER MICHEL CREW, 13-9

MICHEL, June 5.—Pincher Creek visited Michel today and took revenge on the home team for defeating them last week by turning tables and beating them 13 — 9. Pincher Creek's pitcher with the exception of the first inning was steady and received excellent support from his team mates, while Krall retired in the fourth inning after Pincher had scored four runs, making nine. Italko then pithched four innings, Pincher getting two more runs, Krall pitched the last inning, Pincher adding two more, totalling 13. A feature of the game was Krall's home run in the 5th inning. Michel's battery: Krall, Italko, Esterwood and Irvine.

Pincher Creek	230 400 112—13
Michel	400 013 001— 9

Immediately after the senior game the juniors played Bellevue and in a fairly good game defeated them 11-6. Michel's battery: Saddler and Kozier.

Bellevue	001 000 401— 6
Michel	003 221 03x—11

CITY LEAGUE

The City Baseball League got under way on Wednesday night when the North End Team showed how the game could be played to the Coal Co. aggregation to the tune of 6-5. The game was keenly contested all the way and not until the last man was put out was the result certain.

The Coal Co. opened up the scoring column early in the game, only to ground when the Northenders came from behind in the 3rd; the score standing 3-2 against them, and pounding the ball to all corners of the lot, netted three runs; from then on, good fielding by both teams kept the score 5-4 until the closing innings. The Coal Co. put on a spurt in the 7th and after securing one run had to wind their way homeward with the small end of the score.

Quite a number of fans took in the affray and went away with the opinion that McLaren was the shining light of the evening.

The teams lined up as follows:
North End—Ruschal, c; Riggetts, ss; Crumbley, p; Dunlap, 1st; Ihas, cf; Sofko, 3b; Balayti, 2b; Shikoro, rf; Wasnock, lf.
Coal Co.—C. Colton, cf; T. Wilson, lf; E. Colton, 1b; S. Wilson, 2b; B. Wilson, ss; McLaren, 3b; R. Colton, c; McIntyre, rf; Dufour, p.

STREET CRIES OF OLD LONDON

In the grey old city there are very many curious trades and professions and a walk down some of the "mean streets" will bring to light strange shops and outside stalls. In Hoxton, for instance, you may see the sellers of birds, chiefly canaries, and though he may not chant as did those of an older time:

"Sweet singing birds, sweet singing birds,
Come buy one, and try one, time's on the wing."

Yet he will urge you in true Cockney parlance to buy; or you may go into an exact counterpart of Tony Sweedlepipe's shop in Kingsgate Street, Holborn, and buy larks, finches, or what not, even now.

The bird shop has not changed much from those of 200 years ago, for both have cages all round, some made of wood and others of wire, with little red earthenware vessels like flowerpots for water and seeds, while on a table near the door will be tufts of grass and clover for the larks. There one may listen to the pipings of the linnets, red poles, thrushes, chaff finches and other songsters.

The itinerant cryer of singing birds however is as extinct as the Dodo.

The London Barrow Woman is a thing "gone out," but in Shenstone's time she was very much in evidence—

"Her hair, loose curled, the rest tuck'd up between
Her neatly frill'd mob cap, was scarcely seen;
A black-chip hat peculiarly her own,
With ribbon puff'd round the small flat crown
Pinn'd to her head-dress, gave her blooming face
A jaunty openness and winning grace."

She made a picturesque figure as she wheeled her barrow through the streets of London and cried in melodious fashion:

"Round and sound
Twopence a pound
Cherries, rare ripe cherries."

Then alternating her cry with "Green and ripe gooseberries. Amber berries, ripe amber berries. Currants, rare ripe currants," she would end as began with cherries:

"Cherries, a hapenny a stick.
Come and pick. Come and pick.
Cherries big as plums.
Who comes. Who comes?"

On each side the barrow was a row of sticks with cherries tied to them.

Apewter measure, clean as a new pin, brass scales and leaden weights were also there.

There was another cherry woman who carried her wares in her basket on her head while cherries on sticks were fixed round a small light basket she carried in her hand. Her cry was also most melodious and could be heard far enough, "Fine cherries, sixpence a pound, fair cherries." Who has not heard Herrick's charming song:

Cherry ripe, cherry ripe,
Ripe, ripe I cry;
Full and fair ones, come and buy."

Another cryer, almost as popular a hundred years ago, he who perambulated the streets of London blowing a trumpet to the tune of "Troop every one." As he marched he sold hobby horses to the children. These were carried in a frame over his shoulder. Each horse was decorated with a gaudy flag. Very few such horses are to be found these days. If the little lad wants a horse ride he must use daddy's walking stick.

The girl who cried her matches was very popular in the days when the lucifer match was unheard of. She had a little bundle of sticks, a dozen maybe, as thick as lead-pencils, in a bundle, and cried as she went from house to house, "Brimstone matches, a penny a bundle." These matches were but sticks of wood dipped in boiling brimstone.

It was a wonderfully hard task to get a light in those days for then flint, steel and tinder boxes were required. Very few of us have seen these articles outside of a museum. The tinder-box was of metal. In it were two comparments, one for a piece of flint, the other for the tinder made of burnt rags.

When a light was required the piece of flint was held over the tinder and knocked sharply with a small steel rod in such a way that the sparks fell upon the tinder, when by blowing gently on it, a glow was set up and a light obtained by dipping the brimstone end of the match in the glowing tinder. What a task, and how delightful it must have been on a wet or cold, frosty morning.

These brimstone matches were before my time, but in my younger days I have known people who had used them, and after all they were the forerunners of our present matches, 300 million of which are turned out daily in the Old Land across the sea.

MOUNTIES BAG AUTOS FROM BOOTLEGGERS

CRESTON, June 6.—The Buick car which was taken from an American whiskey runner quite late last fall by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and which has been stored at the Bevan garage ever since, has just been sold by the Customs Department to Mayor Genest of Cranbrook, who was here on Saturday with Customs Officer White of Cranbrook,, both of whom drove home in the machine. The capture of this Buick made a total of seven autos the mounties captured in similar fashion last season, to say nothing of a team of horses and wagon which were also operating in the same line in a very ingenious fashion. It is estimated that the sale of the cars alone has netted the federal treasury not less than $10,000.

SLUICING GOLD AT WILD HORSE

After nearly three years of mostly preliminary preparation, during which time more than the usual amount of grief, endurance and obstruction has been encountered and overcome, thanks to the determination of those at the head of the Gambie Mining company, who hold large placer leases on the famous Wild Horse Creek, the company has this year entered on the first stage of profitable operation, when sluicing was commenced under the direction of Mr. House, who so successfully carried out all the preliminary work of last season.

In company with Messrs. Beattie, Ward and Hogarth, a Courier representative was accorded a glimpse over the workings Wednesday afternoon.

The crew were busy at work on the first clean-up of the year, which showed promising results. We observed two pans of the yellow metal each bearing estimated values of about $400.00 which was the cleanings from one sluice box only. In contrast with other mining propositions in the Kootenays, every man on the job at Wild Horse is optimistic over the prospects of encountering a fair share of the metal that has stampeded nations and sent thousands of men into the primeval thirsting for its grasp, and with that end in view miners are digging and delving, raking and scraping. The old spirit of the early sevties is upon them, when royalty on $15,000,000 was collected by the government. It is estimated a like amount never came under the eye of the gold commissioner, for in the palmy days of the gold rush at the gulch the precious metal was too abundant to worry over anythink like $15,000,000.

Water is diverted from Boulder and Fisher Creeks and there is plenty of it, the force being sufficient to move great boulders at ease and send them racing through the sluice at a speed which makes one's head whirl. Latterly the company are washing in virgin ground and are encountering innumerable boulders, a healthy indication that gold will be found in paying quantities, so Mr. House informed the tenderfoot from Cranbrook. In a few instances powder had to be employed to shatter a few of the giant boulders.—Cranbrook Courier.

C. P. R. CAMP 6, BULL RIVER

Camp 6, or headquarters for the tie and timber department of the C.P.R. on Bull River, is the terminus or distributing point for men and equipment for all camps tributary to the main river north of Bull River town, where one upon arrival at the pretentious little city is greeted by a smile and a hearty handshake by the resident, business people and others who are familiar characters of the place.

After the usual places of business are visited one begins to feel much at home through the generous treatment and hospitality shown to the guests and customers who patronize them. A good community feeling is the result and one caries away the impresion of good will and satisfaction long after. The trip up river is next in order if one is inclined for higher altitudes or employment at the "up-river" camps, where logs, ties and much merchantable timber is to be made and driven down the streams to the mill and finally loaded on cars for distribution along the western main line and its various branches.

Once at Camp 6 the main freight roads or highway ceases to be a good thoroughfare, here the main river is formed by the west fork, the Tanglefoot and the North fork which furnishes an outlet for an immense area of timbered limits. North and west of headquarters or camp 6 along the streams the scenery changes as one travels onward. On the West fork camp 7 is next then we come to 12 some three miles beyond and camp 14 is the last camp of much importance which was built years ago in the "palmy days" previous to 1914. A good view of the Three Sisters mountain peaks is to be had at camp 12 their snow capped spiral domes beckoning to the skies, while Lookout mountain with its green foliage is in open contrast t othe pale and lofty peaks of higher altitudes. Camp 12 is one of the beauty spots among the camp loctions, waterfalls, the whispering winds and the ozone-laden air, with its exhilerating breezes, would lend enchantment and a new lease of life to consumptives and others effected by weaknesses, both mental and physical.

DEMPSEY - BRENNAN FIGHT

By Bob Farrell.

It was a good thing for the sport loving public of this country that Tex Rickard was strong enough to brave the criticism hurled at him for staging the Dempsey-Brennan match at the Madison Square Garden on the night of December 14, and in addition to putting on the battle to have motion pictures taken of the contest.

In the first place, the contest proved that Dempsey is not the "mankiller'" he is touted to be, that he is not invincible to the strength and courage of another battler in his class and it also proved that Georges Carpentier will have a very good chance of annexing the world's heavyweight title when these two men meet.

Many of the experts when they saw the house of cards which they had built for Dempsey, came tottering down, at once shouted that he allowed Brennan to stay for the sake of the pictures, but the pictures themselves prove that the champion had to use every ounce of his great courage, every atom of his ring generalship and every bit of his speed to avoid being dethroned, and this is very clearly shown in the second round when Dempsey must have "sweated blood." In the second stanza, one of the clearest shown in the pictures, Dempsey was in bad shape and it was only the great lack of ring generalship on the part of Brennan which saved him. It was his rare strength which enabled him to weather the storm for the succeeding ten rounds.

Brennan was not put away with the "Rabbit Punch." The ravings of the ringside experts faded into whispers when they saw the pictures which show clearly and distinctly the blow which put an end to the title hunting ambitions of Mr. Brennan. The fans who have missed the actual battle will see the fracas in more detail and much clearer in the picture than any of the thousands who were able to get into historical Madison Square Garden on the night of December 14.

These pictures will be shown in Fernie; watch for the dates.

SHE HIT HIM AND WAS FINED

We are informed that at Natal last night a magistrate fined a 130 pound woman $5 for hitting a six foot man of robust build in the stomach. If her height was in proportion to her weight it seems she could not have hit him in any higher location. The man who laid the information is a burly Englishman and it is quite apparent that he considers the age of chivalry as utterly dead. It may well be that the magistrate, following the Marquis of Queensbury rules, considered that the poor man was hit below the belt, which to say the least, was a serious matter. In any case the magistrate has ruled that men must be protected against the unwarranted attacks of women and it behooves the fair sex to be careful. Don't use your hand, but try a meat axe.

DEMPSEY-BRENNAN FIGHT PICTURES SHOWN AT THE ORPHEUM WED., JUNE 22.

Has Dempsey been over-rated? After viewing his battle with Bill Brennan, in Madison Square Garden on the night of December 14, and then seeing the motion pictures of the affair, even a novice is bound to admit that Dempsey is not infallible, and to look forward with some terminity to the meeting between "The Man Killer" and Georges Carpentier, scheduled for sometime, somewhere this year.

It ought to be one of the rules of the Boxing Commission that all championship battles be filmed, for it is only on the unfailing evidence of the camera, that disputes can be settled without any tinge of partisanship.

The press of the entire country was agog with this and that statement by hundreds of experts who viewed the battle. Every expert appeared to have his own pet version of the fracas, and the boxing fan who did not see the actual battle was up in the air as to what really did happen.

All the arguments, squabbling and petty differences of opinion was laid at rest when the pictures of the battle appeared on the screen and proved once more that a camera can see more, tell a story with greater detail and with more truthfulness than it is possible for any human being to do.

There are millions of boxing fans throughout this country, in Europe, South America, and the Antipodes who devoured every line written on the big battle in Madison Square Garden, which by the way was to give an inkling as to the chances Carpentier had with the present holder of the world's heavyweight title. The many versions sent out over wire and cable were so much at variance that the poor fan is now up in the air as much as ever, and his only salvation is the picture of the battle which shows every punch, every piece of ring generalship and every step of footwork throughout the twelve rounds as well as showing the blow, clearly and distinctly, which put a damper on the championship aspirations of Bill Brennan.

These pictures will be shown at the Orpheum, one night only, Wednesday June 22nd.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. R. Johnstone arrived back in camp after a week's holidaying in Calgary and district.

Our local leather chasers journeyed to Michel on Sunday last to fulfill their league engagement. The referee's decision of a draw did not meet with the approval of the boys. The general opinion is that Coal Creek should have won.

The junior leather chasers journeyed to Fernie to play a benefit game with Fernie juniors, the proceeds to be devoted to Bobby Ferguson, who had the misfortune to break his leg whilst playing football for the juniors in the last encounter with the Fernie juniors. A large numbr of enthusiasts took in the game. Fernie proved the better team and ran out winners.

The Club members sure gave John Barleycorn a decent burial on Tuesday night. But, oh what a difference in the morning. Everybody is now on the wagon.

The provincial police authortities are again shuffling the cards. We hear of a change of constable for this camp.

Kelly, our local bird imitator, sure took the house by storm at the band smoker with his impersonations of the mocking bird, etc.

Several of our football fans journeyed to Calgary to witness the Scottish touring club in their encounter with Alberta.

The Ladies Chapter Loyal Order of Moose will hold their usual meeting on Thursday next in the Hawthorne hall, Fernie, at 7.45 p.m. Local members govern themselves accordingly.

A large number of the boys took in the smoker held by the Vets Club for the benefit of the band. Tommy Morrison, of this camp, officiated at the ivories.

Our local First Aid teams are putting in strenuous practice preparatory to the competitions to be held in Michel on Saturday next. They are out for the big prizes.

The Eldrich Dancing Academy, under Prof. Cuddleford, are holding classes in the Club Hall, Tuesdays and Thursdays from 3 to 11 p.m. Quite a number of the rising generation are practicing the light fantastic.

The mines were idle Monday and Wednesday this week.

Jack Worthington left for Calgary on Tuesday night to bring in a new car purchased by R. Johnstone.

Bobby Ferguson is out of the hospital and is getting around camp by the aid of crutches.

Ye scribe regrets the results of the sports held up here on June 3 were handed in too late for insertion last issue.

Sergt. Pass and S. Wilson were in camp locating the money making devices used up here on the occasion of our carnival, with a view to using same at the 1st of July celebration sports to be held in Fernie.

Watch the notice board for announcement of special train arrangements for the competition at Michel on Saturday next.

FIRE IN GARAGE WAREHOUSE

Fire broke out early Wednesday morning in the warehouse of the Fernie Motor Car Co., Ltd., and had it not been for the quick arrival of the brigade the building and contents would have been quickly destroyed. As it was one car belonging to C. W. Barrett was completely wrecked and two others badly damaged. The origin of the fire seems to be of a very suspicious nature, as gasoline was found burning all over the cars and a can full sitting on the floor. As there had been none in the biulding when it was closed for the night, the inference is plain that some fire bug had been at work.

The family of Frank Warwick, who lived upstairs in the building, were very badly frightened.

The police are busy investigating the circumstances surrounding the fire.

COMPETITIONS AT MICHEL

The East Kootenay Mine Safety Association, who are holding their annual competitions at Michel on June 25, have arranged for a special train to leave the M.F. & M. yards at Fernie at 8.30 a.m., and the G.N. station at 9 am.; returning to leave Michel at 7.30 p.m. Free transportation will be provided for all competitors and the Fernie band.

The Mine Rescue competition will commence at 11 a.m.; First Aid at 1.30 p.m.; Ladies First Aid at 3 p.m. and Juvenile competition at 4 p.m. Prizes will be awarded at 5 p.m.

W. R. Wilson has generously donated a lunch at the Michel hotel for all visiting competitors, the band and the officials of the Association.

LADIES GOLF CLUB

The following are the events for the coming week:

Tuesday, June 21—

Mrs. Irvine's Cup competition. First flight. Draw will be posted Monday morning.

Tuesday, June 28—

Mrs. Liphardt's Cup Competition.

Driving Competition—Prize 2 golf balls donated by Mrs. Huntington.

Putting Competition—Prize 2 golf balls donated by Mrs. Suddaby.

Results of last week's events are as follows:

Mrs. Liphardt's Cup was won by Mrs. Herchmer, who made the record score of eight, the lowest so far this season in this competition.

The Putting competition was won by Mrs. Liphardt and Mrs. Irvine, each making a score of six.

The Driving competition was not held on account of the weather, the grass being too wet.

CARD OF THANKS

Mr. D. A. McLeod wishes to thank his numerous friends for floral tributes, and those who in so many ways showed their kind thoughtfulness during his recent sad bereavement.

MINERS TO GET AUTONOMY

CALGARY, June 14.—Full and complete autonomy is to be restored to Alberta and Eastern British Columbia by the miners or what is known as District 18 of the Unuited Mine Workers of America. This was fully foreshadowed by a resolution that was adopted at the opening session of the convention of miners of this district held in the Labor Temple, Calgary, on Tuesday morning and which in part read:

That we accept the invitation extended by the International executive board of the U. M. W. of A. through its representatives, and without reserve agree to comply to the conditions laid down and pledge our cooperation to the end that harmony and co-operation between the various branches of our organization may be obtained."

The adoption of this resolution followed an address by John P. White, of Des Moines, Iowa, ex-president of the United Mine Workers of America, who dealt at some length with what the organization had accomplished in the past. He alleged that the convention had been called with the object of restoring the autonomy of the district and of forming a constitution.

Mr. White explained how the affairs of the district had been administered by the international union since it stepped in to combat the efforts, two years ago, of the One Big Union. "The International organization" he said, "has considered well all phases of the the situation in the district and is anxious that the mine workers here be given the opportunity to govern themselves in consonance with the laws of the United Mine Workers of America, and to that end we have been vested with authority to convene this convention and outline to the delegates the position of the international union, and what is expected of District 18."

In mentioning the condition on which autonomy would be restored, Mr. White made it clear that this was considered on the understanding on the part of the mine workers of the district that respect must be paid to the laws of the United Mine Workers as outlined in their constitution, and that there should be a proper and just regard for authority as expressed by its officials, also strict adherence to contract provisions.

"It is absolutely necessary for this adherence to be expressed," he said, "If the mine workers of this district expect to go forward in the future with the great army of United Mine Workers of America."

Mr. White stated it was not their purpose today to enter into recrimination as to the things that had transpired in the past. They believed that the experience of the last two years had proved the utter fallacy of the course pursued by those who sought to repudiate the United Mine Workers of America, and who had rushed headlong into an untried experiment that gave no promise of accomplishment and purpose.

"What our great international union and its officials are concerned about, despite the statements that have been made to the contrary," he said, "is the welfare of the mine workers of this district and the success and perpetuity of the United Mine Workers of America. It must be evident to the humblest member of our organization in district 18 that had it not been for the persistent endeavor of our union and its influence in Canada, the miners of the district would not have been able to maintain their position against the powerful influences that would have been arrayed against them and if the miners of district 18 will act in harmony and concert with the membership throughout our jurisdiction, they can look forward with hope and confidence."

International dissention and extreme radical actions, too frequently displayed had proved fruitless of practical results. The constant and steady growth of the United Mine Workers of America, coupled with its substantial accomplishments covering the many years of its organized existence was the best evidence of its soundness as well as its progressive influence for good and by education, agitation and organization it had forged steadily ahead, encountering tremendous obstacles but ever and continuously aiming at that high station to which it sought to lift the miner. It had been instrumental in revolutionizing the conditions under which the mine worker performed his labor. It had been the one great institution that had driven out the grosser evils from the miner's life and had brought a larger degree of sunshine and happiness into his home. Continuing, Mr. White stated that the interests of the mine workers of the United States and Canada were such that they should continue in complete harmony and accord the splendid affiliation that had contributed to the wonderful progress made by the mine workers of the North American continent.

Despite the absured and ridiculous statements that have been repeated so many times by misguided individuals, who have roamed amongst you." said Mr. White, "sowing the seeds of discord and disruption, have been base and groundless, the officials of the international union now as in the past, are solicitious of the welfare of the mine workers of district 18 and are desirous at all times to co-operate with your chosen representatives in such a manner and way as to bring the largest results to all concerned. Without the co-operation and unselfish support of our great union and its vast membership in the States, the mine workers of Canada would have found it most difficult to maintain the progress that has been secured. In the recent internal difficulties the mine workers of this district wandered away from the teachings and policies of the United Mine Workers of America and allied themselves with a dual movement that could not help but spell ruin to all their best interests.

The manufacture of spring clothes pegs is to be commenced in a few weeks at Nelson. The Kootenay capital is also to be the home of a match factory.

ADVERTISING BUILT IT

WRIGLEY BUILDING

Wrigley's new office building in Chicago is at the new Boulevard Link Bridge, Michigan avenue and the river and heads the vista looking north on Michigan avenue, so Mr. Wrigley chose a beautiful design which makes the building a decorative feature of the Chicago lake front and harmonizes with the Chicago Beautiful plan.

The main building is 16 stories high, surmounted by a tower 42 feet square and rising 398 feet from the street level. This tower will contain a clock with dials on four sides, each 20 feet in diameter and will be surmounted by a searchlight lantern 9 feet in diameter.

The building is covered with enamel finish terra cotta on all four sides. It is regarded as one of the most beautiful buildings in Chicago and people and press are enthusiastic about it. The Chicago Tribune published a picture labeling it "A Jewel of the Link."

Wrigley recently completed new factories at Chicago and New York, and the Canadian and Australasia Wrigley companies have built new factories at Toronto and Sydney.

All this new construction work in the space of a few years is certainly a tribute to the power of advertising and the accumulative effect of a multitude of 5-cent sales.

Cincinnati man tells how to shrivel up corns or calluses so they lift off with fingers.

Ouch ! ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone, tell him to order a small bottle for you.

THIS MAN DREDAED TO SEE NIGHT COME

Was So Restless He Couldn't Sleep And Daylight Was Always Welcome

"With the exception of a little milk toast, which comprised my diet for more than eight weeks, I could not eat anything," said Capt. Geo. W. Womble, residing at 105 Jennings St., Knoxville, Tenn., a highly respected citizen of that city.

"I am now able," continued Captain Womble, "after taking two bottles of Tanlac, to eat practically anything. I had a bad form of stomach and intestinal trouble for a long time and for months my condition had been such that I suffered agony. I got so I could not eat the simplest food. I tried doctor after doctor and all kinds of medicine but nothing that was prescribed for me seemed to do me any good. I had terrible pain in my breast just over my heart and for weeks and weeks I got no relief.

"I finally got so nervous that I actually dreaded to see night come, as I could not sleep and was always so restless that I would rejoice to see daylight come. I was also constipated all of the time. In fact, life seemed a burden and I was so miserable that I was almost on the verge of despair. Several of my neighbors told me about Tanlac and advised me to try it.

"I am personally acquainted with Mr. Dan M. Chambliss, of the firm of Kuhlman & Chambliss, and when I told him of my condition he advised me to begin taking Tanlac without delay and that it had relieved hundreds of the best people in Knoxville. I have now taken two bottles of Tanlac and am giving you this testimonial in the hope that it may induce others to take it. Since taking this medicine I actually feel like I had been made all over again with the youth, energy and ambition of a sixteen year old boy."

BY-LAW NO. 233.

Draft of Building By-Law Amendment By-Law.

The Municipal Council of the Corporation of the City of Fernie in open council assembled enacts as follows:-

Section six (6) of By-Law No. 64 of the By-Laws of the Corporation of the City of Fernie is hereby repealed and struck out and the following is enacted in its place.

(a) Every building, of any nature whatsoever, hereafter erected on an Avenue shall be of such dimensions that the whole of its front lines shall not be less than fifteen feet from the line of such Avenue, and every building, of whatsoever nature hereafter erected on a corner lot and fronting on a street shall be of such dimensions that its side line parallel with an Avenue shall not be less than fifteen feet from the line of such Avenue. This section shall not apply to buildings hereafter erected on Blocks 5, 6, 9, 10, 13, 17, 21, 25a, 28b, 31, and lots 1 to 10 inclusive in Blocks 14, 18, 22, 25 and 32.

(b) Not more than one dwelling for each 3600 square feet of any one lot or plot shall hereafter be erected on such lot or plot.

(c) A permit shall not be required for the erection or alteration of any building or part of a building the estimated cost of which does not exceed the sum of $75.00, provided however where such operations involve the street, a permit to use said street must first be obtained, and payment made for the use thereof at the rate set out in Sub-section H of this Section.

(d) The erection or alteration of any building or part of a building, the estimated cost of which exceeds the sum of $75.00 or any platform, staging or flooring to be used for standing or sitting purposes, must not be commenced until a permit for such erection or alteration shall have been obtained from the Building Inspector by the owner or his agent, and no such owner or agent shall proceed with the erection or alteration of any building or part of any building, or of any platform, staging or flooring, until such permit shall have been obtained. The application for such permit shall be in writing on a blank form to be obtained at the office of the City Clerk, upon which blank form the applicant for a permit shall give clearly the information asked for and required by this By-Law, and shall also give the correct estimated value of the work proposed to be carried out, and for which permit to proceed with is asked for, which information is to be verified by the statutory declaration of the applicant when required by the Building Inspector.

When the application for a permit to proceed with the alteration or erection of any building, or part of a building or any platform, staging or flooring, is made, drawings and specifications sufficient to enable the Building Inspector to obtain full and complete information as to the extent and character of the work to be done, shall be submitted with such application. All plans and drawings shall be drawn to a scale of not less than one-eighth of an inch to the foot, on paper or tracing linen, or shown by some process that will not fade or obliterate, and all distances and dimensions must be accurately figured and drawings made explicit and complete.

(e) Every permit shall expire if active work is not commenced within a period of six months from the date of its issue.

(f) Every permit shall be subject to revocation should the Building Inspector or any of his inspectors ascertain that the work being carried on under such permit is being done in a manner which does not reasonably comply in every respect with the requirements of this By-Law. The revocation of a permit shall be in writing and shall be served on the owner or his agent, or in the absence of both, on anyone in charge of the work, and after service of such revocation of permit as aforesaid, all parties doing work in or about said structure or premises shall render themselves liable to the penalties of this By-Law.

(g) The owner who desires to erect, repair or alter any building, or his agent shall, before the permit to proceed with the work is delivered to him, furnish the Building Inspector a certificate showing the quantity of concrete, brick work, stone work, plastering and lime which he estimates will be in the said building, so as to enable the Water Works Department to collect the proper charges for the water to be used in such building.

(h) The fees to be paid in connection with the erection, alteration, repair or removal of any building shall be as follows:-

A permit for the erection, alteration, repairs, to or removal of any building, the cost of which does not exceed $1000.00,—$1.50; exceeding $1000.00 but not exceeding $5000.00—$2.50 and for every $100.00 or fraction in thereof in excess of $5000.00—50c.

For the use of any street, 10c. per day for each 30 feet of frontage occupied.

(i) Such sum as the Building Inspector shall consider sufficient to cover damage to property of the Corporation which may be caused by the operations for which a permit is applied for shall be deposited with the City Clerk previous to delivery of the permit to the aplicant. Such deposit shall in no case be less than $25.00.

Word was received on Thursday evening that Henry Munkwitz, son of Mrs. Munkwitz, of West Fernie, was accidentally electrocuted at Coalhurst. No particulars have as yet been received. A number of Jews from Alberta propose to take advantage of the new British Columbia Liquor Act to open export warehouses in this district close to the international boundary line. The idea is to secure a monopoly of the American bootlegging trade. The Act should be at once amended to put a stop to this nefarious business. If these warehouses are allowed to exist the American government will have every reason to consider it an unfriendly act on behalf of the B.C. government.

Cranbrook at White Spruce.

White Spruce - Wycliffe

Wycliffe, June 12.

White Spruce, the cellar champions, lost by one run here today in a fast game. Joe Peters, their new pitcher put life in the team and with his good pitching together with the classy fielding by second baseman Bishop made the league leaders hustle to win the game 4 to 2. Musser for Wycliffe registered his fifth straight run, McTier got three hits, clouting in three runs.

Batteries—
Wycliffe: Musser and McTier.
White Spruce: Peters and Dunlap.
Umpire: R. Trew.

Waldo - Cranbrook

Waldo, June 12.

Waldo won from Cranbrook here to-day 15 to 5. They scored six runs in the opening frame and continued to pile up runs in nearly every inning. Cranbrook's errors were costly while Waldo's battery worked well and their team mates cut short several rallies by the visitors.

Batteries—
Waldo: Baserin and Ferka.
Cranbrook: Bamford, Armstrong and Adamson.
Umpire: H. Trehel.

FERNIE SMOTHERS WARDNER NINE

On Sunday last, Fernie kept up their aggressiveness and easily defeated Wardner on the home grounds, in a league game, taking their measure in a one-sided game by the score of 17 to 4.

Wardner started the scoring in the first inning, crossing the plate once; and adding one each in the 4th, 6th and 9th. Fernie started rallies in the first two innings, taking advantage of Wardners erratic fielding, coupled with heavy hitting, garnering 5 in the 1st and 4 in the 2nd, thus securing a lead that was never disputed, and consequently took interest out of the game. Fernie, despite such a lead, kept pounding the pill and gathered 2 more in the 3rd, 3 in the 5th, 2 in the 7th and 1 in the 8th.

The fielding of both teams was none too good, but Fernie seemed to tighten up in the pinches, puling off two more fast double plays retiring the side before they could score.

Wardner had 8 men die on bases while Fernie had three.

The umpiring; a big stumbling block to harmonious sport, turned out as usual; Parker who started to handle the game gave Wardner a couple of bad decisions, and was removed in the second inning, Ashton then took his place and handled the remainder of the game in a very creditable manner.

Fernie by winning their game, is still a strong contender for league honors, holding second place. A loss for Wycliffe and a win for Fernie will place them on even terms for first place. Fernie plays at Waldo next Sunday and both teams are determined to win, as they both have the leaders to play at home and figure a win on Sunday will give them a good chance to oust Wycliffe from first place.

The game between the Vets and Tri-Wood, scheduled for Friday last, was postponed and played on Monday of this wek. Tri-Wood emerged victorious by the tremendous score of 21 to 14. In 1st innings T-W. secured 11 runs, adding more in each frame, while the Vets, fighting all the way were unable to overcome such a lead. The game ended in the twilight and some of the fans were of the opinion that the name of the league should be changed to the "Twilight League." J. Garbutt handled the indicator to the great disatisfaction of all concerned.

On Wednesday night the Vets were again defeated, this time by the Coal Co. by the score of 26 to 4, (the adding machine broke and this is the last result). The Vets lacking sadly in fielding were easy victims for the Co. who took advantage of such and did not let up for a minute, hitting hard, often and scoring at ease. The ended shortly after the Moon appeared, allowing the fans and players to go home.

Last week we made a mistake in the schedule so herewith publish the correct ones. Cut it out.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

COAL CREEK TEAM LEAVES PITCH AS RESULT OF DISPUTE

MICHEL, June 12.—Coal Creek visited Michel today to play their league game here. The first half was fairly good football and the Creek made some dangerous rushes scoring once.

Immediately after the second half Michel forwards rushed the ball to the Creek goal, Herby Travis breaking through and carrying the ball to the goal line and a Creek player deliberately kicked his feet from under him. The referee awarded a penalty kick although the spectators thought it already a goal. A. McGovern, of Michel, took the penalty and scored, this peeved Coal Creek very much. The referee ruled Morrison of Coal Creek and McFarlane off during a mix-up, and Coal Creek left the field upon being ordered to resume play. Referee Mitchell put the ball in play McGovern kicking it down the field and Watson scoring, the game ended 2 - 1 in favor of Michel.

This was a disgraceful exhibition and unless stricter and more efficient referees are appointed for league games the Crow's Nest Football league will be losing the support of the public. Today there was a large attendance, the new grand stand, kindly donated by President Wilson, of the C. N. P. Coal Co., being filled to overflowing. Michel's brass band was in attendance.

After the football game the junior baseball team played Coleman and came out winners 8 - 7 in a very good game. Score by innings:-

Coleman ....000 004 210—7
Michel ....100 400 03x—8
Michel's battery: Sadlish, Kozler.

CALGARY EXHIBITION — JUNE 30 TO JULY 8

At the Orpheum Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, June 20th and 21st

CALGARY EXHIBITION

In the program which will be presented at the 1921 Calgary Exhibition, to be held June 30th to July 8, the management considers it has the highest class and most entertaining features that have ever been secured for the Calgary Exhibition.

An attraction which will undoubtedly be the most popular for many years is the massed Festival Choir of 200 voices, composed of the five Calgary Choirs which competed in the recent Alberta Musical Festival. The choral work at this festival was so good that one of the adjudicators, Dr. W. H. Hall, professor of choral singing at Columbia University, New York, said: "The choral work at this Festival has reached the highest mark I have ever heard in choral work on this continent."

A forty-five minute concert will be given each evening by the massed choir, accompanied by a thirty piece orchestra, which will include solos and other special numbers in addition to the choral numbers.

Another feature which will delight all Exhibition patrons, young and old, will be the fireworks. A remarkable display of aerial fireworks will be given and in addition a reproduction of the Naval Battle at Dover. This will be given each evening following the regular platform program, which in itself would constitute a wonderful evening's entertainment.

The live stock and industrial exhibits this year promise to be exceptionally good, and the prospects are particularly bright for the best all round Exhibition that has ever been held in Calgary.

TEACHERS' SALARIES

The recurring differences of opinion arising between teachers and School Boards on the question of salaries suggest that there should be some central authority in a provincial educational system where the decision would rest. As matters are salaries, vary in different localities, and, apparently, this variation is not necessarily because the teachers in some places do not measure up to the standard achieved by those in other localities, and also the variation is not always due to the amount of work which may be involved. During recent years there have been a number of differences arising over the salaries paid to the teaching profession. With the demands for more money that have arisen has come the desire of the public that a higher standard should be set for those who are entrusted with the mental development of the youth of the Province.

One of the drawbacks to the educational system in this Province is the mixing of boys and girls in the same classes. Far better results would be achieved if there were seperate schools, with male teachers for the boys and female teachers for the girls. No matter how proficient a woman teacher may be, she almost invariably experiences difficulty in instructing boys, and we are not sure that the same does not apply, although not to a similar extent, where male teachers instruct girls up to a certain age. It is undoubted that our schools at present have a preponderance of female teachers, and while there are many of them efficient and fully competent, the system suffers and the boy students are unduly handicapped. Since education in British Columbia is Provincial in its scope the teachers should come under the Civil Service and the salaries should be paid by the Provincial Government, leaving municipalities to find moneys required for buildings and their maintenance, and the other expenses involved. By this method it would be possible to bring about schedules of salaries for teaching and thus partially prevent the differences which arise on the subject from time to time.

Some day the force of public opinion will bring about reforms in our educational system. It is a long process advocating these, because reform comes slower in this respect than in almost any other. One of the obstacles to the promotion of conditions which will mean a raising of the standard of education is that the authorities appear to have a smug satisfaction in the system as it prevails, and can see no desirability for improvements except such as call for new expenditures on technical studies. The salary differences that arise are an indication that all is not well in our educational regime. They show that dissatisfaction prevails, and where there is dissatisfaction there cannot be complete efficiency.—Victoria Colonist.

HAVE YOUR OWN GARDEN

Is gardening worth while? Gardening is worth while because:
It is out of doors.
It is good exercise.
It is interesting .
It makes the gardener acquainted with Nature's way of doing things.
It is useful.
for producing good things for the home table.
for making the home surroundings more beautiful, and for profit.

A garden may be utilized in two ways, first, as a home garden. The aim in the home garden should be to supply sufficient quantity of high quality vegetables in wide variety throughout as long a season as possible. Second, as a market garden. The aim in a market garden should be to conduct operations for a maximum net profit at the end of the season, considering the condition of the ground after the crops are removed.

The time to begin thinking about garden operation is in the winter or early spring. First select the plot. Sandy loam with south westerly exposure is usually best, although almost any soil mey be improved. Do not undertake the cultivation of a larger space than you can care for thoroughly. For early crops it is well to manure the land heavily, and plow or spade it before it is frozen.

Make your plans early. Select your crops. For the home garden be guided by the tastes of the family. Do not plant too large a variety, but plan for a steady supply throughout the season.

For the market garden select one or two of the vegetable crops—two is better, because, then not all your eggs are in the one basket. Choose crops which grow well in your neighborhood and which can be readily sold. Neighbouring gardeners and grocers can help you on these points. The following are good crops to work with: beans, cabbage, cucumbers, potatoes, sweet potatoes, and tomatoes. Melons, onions, and celery are a little more difficult .

Make your plans definitely. Decide in advance about the manuring, the spacing and the care of crops. Buy your seed well in advance and test it carefully. Make provision for manure and fertilizer, marketing and storage.

And then keep at it or the weeds will win out during the month of June. Beat them then and you will be their master easily for the rest of the year.

ALL BARROOMS CLOSE UP

A complete observance of the new government liquor act, which came into effect at midnight on Tuesday, was shown in Fernie on Wednesday morning, when every barroom, and club in the city heeded the warning given them by the police and ceased selling beer to the public.

It was rumored that the G.W.V.A. club would defy the warning and keep its bar open, but it was decided to close up and await the result of their Vancouver local's action in remaining open, before the Fernie local would oppose the government's order. No beer or even near beer may now be purchased at any place except at the government liquor store.

To obtain liquor or beer the prospective purchaser must now apply to the government agent here for a permit costing $5.00 annually, and having secured this, it is then possible to purchase requirements from the local vendor.

From comments upon the streets the new act does not seem to be at all popular, the closing of the club bars being one of the most bitterly attacked clauses of the act, and hope is being expressed that the Vancouver G.W.V.A. club will be successful in their testing of the mandate of the government liquor commission ordering all bars to be closed.

Michel Lodge, I.O.O.F. degree team will compete with Mt. Fernie Lodge team in the initiatory degree on Wednesday evening next, June 22. Members who want any pointers along this line will do well to attend. Refreshments.

BODYGUARD FOR THE KING

Belfast, June 16.—When the King comes to formally open the northern Irish parliament here on June 22, it is planned to have a fine body of men as guard of honor for him. One hundred men have been drawn from the Royal Irish constabulary for the purpose. None of them is less than six feet in height. All are from the Ulster counties. The men are now in training for the occasion.

MADE-IN-B.C. GOODS WEEK

Until conditions improve, the BC. Government Department of Industries will not advance any industrial loans, was the announcement made by Premier Oliver recently.

School Inspector Mackenzie has condemned the school buildings at the Port Haney school.

Help yourself during the week of June 20-25. Buy Made-in-B.C. goods, and not only will you help yourself, but you will also help your neighbor, your town and your province.

The outlook in British Columbia is what we make it. If we believe in the intrinsic stability of British Columba; if we realize our problems and meet them with confidence; if we think of progress instead of stagnation; if we prove our faith in ourselves and our province by giving our support, our thoughts and our time to putting our weight behind British Columbia industry; then no one can doubt the outcome.

The taking of the census of Canada will be completed during the month of June. Various estimates have been given during the past two years of the population of British Columbia. The provincial government Health Deparament places the total at 555,000. Other sources place the total as high as 708,000.

It is up to you, to all of us, to say and do the right thing to stabilize business. Stability waits on activity plus faith; faith in ourselves, our province, its industries and its people. Insisting on Made-in-B.C. goods is one way in which we can show our faith.

Speaking at Prince George, B. Westcott, of the Immigration Department of the G.T.P., predicted greater settlement in Central British Columbia this year than ever before.

British Columbia business is solid; at heart British Columbia men and women are sound. We must show the world, each other, ourselves, what the B.C. spirit means. If we boost for B.C., work for B.C., and give our support to everything that is indentified with B.C., we can make up our minds to go ahead.

Business in British Columbia is getting into its stride again. It is setting a steady pace that it can keep. Let us swing along with it by getting behind the industries in our midst. If the manufacturer and farmer are prosperous, so will everybody share in the prosperity.

THE MAYOR IS PEEVED

The widespread publication of a dispatch from Victoria quoted as emanating from the Liquor Control Board office yesterday, stating that the prosecution of the G. W. V. A. club here was unauthorized and merely an attempted coup on the part of the Fernie police, was indignantly received by the mayor, police commissioners and police department here. A special meeting of the board of police commissioners was held this morning and they decided to issue an official denial to the insinuation that the Fernie authorities exceeded their powers or deliberately sought to make an unwarranted coup. On June first the Mayor received a circular from the chairman of the Liquor Board, wherein he stated:

"The board is well aware of existing conditions with respect to the unlawful sale of liquor and the trade that has been carried on in beer and near-beer, and I wish you would be good enough to warn all hotels, bars, cafes, cabarets and soft drink places and any other place where beer or near-beer has been sold in the past, that the sale of beer or near-beer must cease on and after the 14th. The Board relies on the co-operation of all police officers, municipal and provincial, in the strict enforcement of the new Act, and will at all times be pleased to assist you in carrying out and upholding the law."

It was also pointed out that in the event of a municipality failing to enforce the Act, that the government will do so and charge the cost to the city. On June 9th the following telegram arrived:

"My circular letter, dated June 1, should have included clubs amongst the places to be warned against selling beer or near-beer after June 14. Please officially warn all clubs to this effect.. (Signed) A. M. Johnson, Chairman Liquor Control Board."

The seizure at the local Veterans' Club was made only after flagrant demonstrations were made to the police and before any information was laid against the G.W.V.A. an inquiry was sent to Victoria regarding the procedure concerning ex-service clubs to which on June 20 the Chairman of the board replied:

"As far as this Board is aware no club or any other person at the coast or elsewhere is selling beer contrary to the provisions of the Government Liquor Act. It has been currently reported in Vancouver that the Soldiers Clubs there proposed to defy the law and sell beer. The Board has already taken steps there in conjunction with the police officials of Vancouver to obtain evidence of any unlawful sale and you can rest assured that every violation of the Act will be promptly prosecuted when evidence is obtained of such breach."

Upon receipt of these instructions the Fernie police commission instructed the laying of the information against the Fernie G.W.V.A.

Mayor Henderson on June 22 wired the Attorney General that information reached the local Veterans from the Provincial President that beer had been sold in Vancouver clubs without any intervention by government authorities and asked for verification or contradiction of this information. Up to going to press the Attorney General has not deemed it expedient apparently to reply to the Mayor's wire.

CITY FATHERS HOLD SESSION

The city council met last night to transact the semi-monthly business. Ald. Bean was the only absentee.

There were no delegations present on this occasion.

A telegraphic communication from the Supt. of B.C. Soldiers Settlement requesting that with a view to expedite distribution of better housing funds, acceptance of $12,000 for Fernie be made, same to be taken by the city when grant from the federal fund is made to the province. The council agreed to guarantee this liability as a sufficent number of applications for the full allotment have already been received.

A written complaint from certain residents on Lindsay avenue with regard to stagnant water collecting, was referred to the Dept. of Public Works.

The Medical Health Officer submitted a report as of June 11, covering inspection of samples of milk from local dairies. The following shows the percentage of butterfat from the tests made:

J. Podbielancik	3.5
J. Kosta	3.4
D. O. Bricker	3.3
J. Martenson	3.3
J. Pearson	3.3
Jules Anderson	3.3
F. Street	3.2
M. Valley	3.2
G. Bella	3.1

With regard to repairs to the bridges over Coal Creek on Park Drive, the Provincial District Engineer estimated that it will cost $800 for the north span only, half of which amount the government ask the city to assume, as the boundary of the city is defined as the centre of the original Coal Creek channel. The matter was laid over.

The Fernie Literary and Athletic Association made formal application for license as a club under the present muncipal bylaw which regulates these institutions. The report of the inspector on these premises was favorable in that they comply with the specified requirements of the bylaw and the license was granted. This club is better known as the Miners Club and has operated here for about two years until the new Liquor Act went into force on June 15, when it practically ceased to operate.

The Soft Drinks Bylaw was finally passed and adopted.

The meeting adjourned shortly before 10 p.m.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Our local leather chasers journeyed to Corbin on Sunday last. Corbin emerged victorious after a well contested game. The boys all agree that it is sure some trip to get there.

The stork paid another visit to the camp on Wednesday and deposited its burden at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Workman.

Quite a number of Creekites took in the Catholic bazaar on Tuesday and Wednesday. We learn that three of our residents won substantial prizes at the drawing in connection therewith.

G.W.V.A. CASE POSTPONED

The trial of the Fernie G. W. V. A. for alleged infraction of the Government Liquor Act was opened this morning before Magistrate Whimster but was adjourned until June 30th on application of A. I. Fisher, counsel for the prosecution. S. Herchmer, assisted by D. M. Mitchell, acted for the defence and vigorously opposed the motion to adjourn unless the court could give the defendants assurance that they would not be subjected to any interference during the interim, should the Soldiers Club here continue to operate in the identical manner according to repeatedly verified information from similar clubs at the coast that they were supplying beer to their members without molestation ever since the present Act superceded the Prohibition Act. Counsel for the defence, arguing to proceed, stated that it was based on the principles involved to a greater extent than the actual alleged offence, and to facilitate the case for the prosecution at this time, if the case went on immediately he would admit that the liquor seized was beer within the meaning of the Act. Counsel for the Crown contended that adjournment was necessary to obtain further information, evidence and witnesses, at the same time reminding the court that it had no power to direct the actions of the authorities or instruct them to ignore any breach of the law. The adjournment was then granted, which elicited from Mr. Herchmer the remark: "We will have to break the law in the meantime and I will take exception to everything now." This is indicative that in so far as the defence is concerned the legal battle will now resolve into a fight to a finish with each single point, technical or otherwise, being bitterly contested.

Thos. Uphill, M.P.P., who is a member of the local G.W.V.A., and who has taken a very active interest in this and other matters concerning the association, volunteered an interview for publication following the present disposition of the case. He stated that he had failed to persuade the local officers of the G.W.V.A. to resume supplying beer to members of that club, although urging them to run the gauntlet and take chances on further prosecutions being instituted, but so far, pending receipt of information by the veterans from a source not divulged, no beer is being served. Mr. Uphill was visibly perturbed to a state verging on anger over this development, and further expressed the opinion that the Fernie Vets had been given more notoriety than entitled in attacking the constitutionality of the government Liquor Act.

THE ROADS AND TOURING

(By Fred Spading)

There are times when one has occasion to change one's mind and my recent drive to Vancouver and back, 772 miles each way, has forced me to change mine. The last time I made this trip was nearly three years ago, and then the roads for a considerable distance, especially between Kingsgate and Sand Point, were very bad, and from Davenport to Ellenburg they were not much better, which justified me in the statement which I have repeatedly made that our roads were the best mountain roads in North America.

Whilst we have practically stood still on road work, the States of Idaho and Washington have done the opposite. All the way to the coast from Spokane is just like a race track now and if one wished he could drive 60 miles an hour all the way.

From Bonners Ferry to Sand Point it was simply fierce when I drove over it five weeks ago. There were miles of sand which was very bad, much worse than it ever was, but there were large crews at work, and when I came back over the same road less than a month later, with the exception of one short stretch of sand, it had been hard surfaced and was as smooth as a billiard table. The whole road will be finished in about three weeks, I was informed, and then, much against the grain, I am forced to admit that the worst part of the whole drive from here to the coast will be the first four miles out of this town.

Whilst on my trip I called on all the Auto Clubs and Tourist Bureaus and gave them a lot of information regarding this section of the country and let them see all the photos I have of it. This I hope will bring good results. It was hard to convince them of the splendid motoring opportunities we have, and though they have had all our literature, their knowledge was very meagre until I had the opportunity of personally describing it all to them. I met quite a few who said that they intended to drive east from the coast but that they had thought of going south from Spokane or Portland through the States, but after I had told them how much better they would find it by coming this way they all said they would do so.

The morning I left here I stopped at our camp site and took several pictures of the scenery from different points in it, and showed them around also. I stopped at quite a lot of camp sites between here and the coast and gave them the once over. Our site has them all skinned and there is little doubt that we shall find it will be one of the biggest drawing cards we have. It will be ready for occupancy before the end of the week, and I think we ought to have sign boards placed at Kingsgate and Crow's Nest to let campers know that we have the best site and most up to date one to be found anywhere along the way. Cranbrook has a large sign at Kingsgate and the people there told me that it is one of the first things the campers look at.

Crop indications in Washington are excellent, and if nothing happens to them, we shall have a lot of visitors from that state later on in the summer. Financial conditions everywhere are preventing early touring, but a good crop will probably more than balance things up.

Don't be pessimistic about it.

PRICES OF LIQUOR FIXED

Under the new dispensation of liqrou sale by the Provincial Government there will not be any sale of liquor at cheap rates.

Following consideration by the Cabinet of the prices at which liquor will be sold under the new order, which became effective on Wednesday, June 15,the official prices were announced. The price lists will be immediately issued by the Government.

It is to be noted that prices of malt liquor have yet to be announced. It is the plan of the board to have deliveries of such made direct by the breweries to purchasers under an arrangement between the Government and the breweries. Other liquors will be sold direct by the Government to the public—through the Government stores or delivered by express or parcel post, the Government, as the Act required, shouldering the cost of the transportation.

The prices announced are practically as high as the "bootlegger" charges for liquor which have of late prevailed. In fact the element, having studied the Government figures, profess to believe that so long as the stocks they have in hand and which were cleared prior to the enunciation of the increased Federal imposts, held out, they can undersell the Government.

Prices of Scotch

As already announced in the Colonist, prices of Scotch whiskies will range from $4 to $5 per reputed quart, according to brand and quality For imperial quarts the prices will range from $6.50 to $7.50 per bottle. The Government will be importing large quantities of Scotch in bulk, the lowest priced brand of which will be sold at $23 per gallon, while the highest will touch $27 per imperial gallon.

According to the official prices for rye whiskey, the price per reputed qpart will be about $3.25, with seven-year-old stock $19.50 per imperial gallon and $5 per imperial quart. Two-year-old rye will sell at $2 less per gallon, at $4.50 per imperial quart and at $3 per ordinary bottle. G. &W. and Walkers Club will be sold at $4 per bottle; Corby's Special Selected will cost $5.75 per imperial quart and $3.75 per reputed quart, while Seagram's will sell at $5.25 and $3.50 respectively. Other brands will be on like scale.

For gin, Melcher's Green Label will retail at $3.25, the lowest figure for that particular brand of liquor. The same brand, in bulk, will cost $18 per imperial gallon of six ordinary bottles or at the rate of $3 per bottle if purchased in six bottle lots. Gordon's London Gin will sell at $4.25 per reputed quart. There will also be a brand of gin retailed at $20 per gallon.

Other prices fixed by the Cabinet are as folows:

Brandies—Special imported French, $4 per reputed quart; Hennessy XXX $5.50; Martel XXX, $5.50; Renault XXX, $4.50; Godet, "1852" $8.50.

Alcohol—Pure grain alcohol, $27.50 per gallon; $7 per imperial quart, and $4.75 per reputed quart. Alcohol (absolute), will be sold at $36 per imperial galon and $5 per reputed quart.

Irish whiskeys — Jameson's XXX $5 per reputed quart; Burke's XXX $4.75; Irish $4.50.

United Staes whiskeys—$4.50 per reputed quart on three well known brands.

Rum prices are fixed at $26 per imperial gallon for 35 over-proof; $7 for imperial quarts and $4.75 for ordinary bottles. Proof Rum will be $3.75 per bottle with larger quantities costing less. Under-proof rum (15) will be sold at $3.25 per bottle.

Wines

Port wines — Gonzales Byass port wine, $14 per gallon and $2.75 per bottle; Warre's Convido, $2.75; Tarragonna, $7 per gallon and $1.50 per bottle; California port, $5.50 per gallon and $1.25 per bottle, native port wine, $1 per bottle, sacramental wine, $5 per gallon and $1.25 per bottle; sherry wine, $10 per gallon and $2 per bottle; other brands of imported wines will be sold at from $1.75 to $3.00 per bottle; California sherry, $5.50 per gallon and $1.25 per bottle; native sherry, $1 per bottle.

Champagne will cost $7.50 for quarts and $4.50 for pints. The brand is Pommery and Greno "Extra Selected." The price list states that other brands are on order.

As for malt liquors, ale and stout will be sold at $5 per dozen reputed pints (Bass's best); Guinness's stout will be worth $9 per dozen reputed quart bottles, or $5 per dozen reputed pints, with splits selling at $3 per dozen. Barclay & Perkins will cost two-thirds this amount.

St. Julien claret will sell for $1.85 for quarts and $1.10 for pints; Margeauz, $175 and $1.00; Medoc, $1.50 and 90 cents.

Sauternes are worth $2.25 for quarts and $1.25 for pints. Hautsauternes will bring $2.50 for quarts and $1.50 for pints.

Dealing with liqueurs, creme de menthe is worth $4 per bottle; kummel, $4; creme de cacao, $4; curacao rouge, $4; vermouth (Nolly Prat) $4.25.—Victoria Colonist.

IS CIVILIZATION ON THE DOWNFALL

Arnold White, one of the most thoughtful writers of the day, joins issue with those who, taking a pessimistic view of things on the slightest provocation, say that our civilization is doomed. The unrest of the present day and the prevalence of strikes may give substance to their doleful views. But, as Mr. White points out, after each of our great wars social upheavel has sadened the thoughtful. To England after Waterloo, he says, belonged the foremost place. But a great price was paid for her glories. The social condition of her people was deplorable. The French and American wars suspended all efforts for its elevation. But in contrast to those days the condition of the manual laborer has enormously improved. Western civilization in those days scarcely existed in many countries. On the continent the torture of prisoners was habitually practised. In the prisons of heathen Hanover a machine was used to tear off the hair of the offending wretches. Restless and nomadic mendicancy in Britain a century ago was an enormous evil. The mind and imagination of men were strained by the long series of wars.

To prove that in spite of the turmoil that folows war, and to which the present has been no exception, there is no cause for despair, Arnold White points out that there still exists encouraging signs of the spread of refinement, due to a good heart and the wish to help others. Ten million children in the British Empire celebrated Empire Day on May 24th. The spiritualizing movement founded by the Earl of Meath in 1904 had no parallel in 1804 or in 1821. A hundred years ago no movements of the kind existed. The civilizizing effects of humanity expressed in such wide-world movements as the Boy Scouts, the Girl Guides, the Salvation Army (whose work is too little recognized), the Church Army, the Waifs and Strays Society (which places its lads on the soil and teaches them thoroughly how to work in the field or garden), and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals have all survived the great war. There is no sign of their dissolution, which implies soundness of national heart and purpose.

Those who take stock of the present and compare it with the past will agree that, in spite of calamity howlers and Bolshevik leaders, the future of our race, with such evidence as we possess, is brighter than ever before.—Victoria Colonist.

ROADSIDE DESPOILERS

After every holiday echoes are loud of the injury and defacement wrought in public places by thoughtless or half-barbarous persons who go throu a park or countryside like a troop of destroying soldiers or a swarm of locusts. The litter and refuse left by picnic parties is hard to excuse.

But the depradations of the automobile parties upon the roadside shrubbery, which is in the freshness of its beauty in June, deserve more than a casual reproof. The chairman of the committee on public improvements of the North Country Garden club of Long Island has just made public a letter sent to the Automobile Club of America, asking its aid in a campaign against the swarms of motorists who "denude the roadsides, the woods and even private country places of flowers and branches of flowering shrubs and trees." All the influence which the automobile club can exert will hardly be enough, we fear, to check this growing but harmful habit.

There can be no sufficient excuse whatever for this wanton breaking off branches of shrubbery or tearing up handfuls of roadside blossoms, which, in their place, give pleasure to the sense of all who pass, but wither in 10 minutes in the greedy hands of people who, unchecked by good instincts, seek to carry away anything which they can lift.—New York Sun.

SUNFLOWERS AS A SILAGE CROP

Much interest is being taken both in Canada and the United States in the value of sunflowers as a silage crop, particularly in districts where corn is not a reliable crop. The claim is made that sunflowers are a hardier crop than corn, withstanding both drouth and frost to a greater extent. Insofar as the claims put forth for sunflowers as a food for cattle are virtually of recent origin, experiments and investigation regarding them are practically in an introductory stage. It is interesting to note, however, that an analysis of sunflower fed at an Idaho agricultural experimental station indicated that it compared favorably with corn silage. In Canada also studies of the relative value of sunflowers and corn for silage purposes suggest that in nutrition there is not any great difference, although corn is to be preferred where it can be plentifully and easily grown. Where this is not the case, sunflowers are an excellent substitute.

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 1 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

MADE-IN-B.C. GOODS WEEK

According to the district horticulturists' report from Vernon this week, the apple crop, especially in the Salmon Arm district, will be heavy this year. Growers have now started "thinning." Generally throughout the valley it is anticipated there will be the biggest crop in many years, certainly one as abundant as two years ago when a record was yielded.

British Columbia canners are much pleased over the assurance received from Mr. P. W. T. Ross, representing a well known French importing house, who is in Vancouver. He stated in an interview that salmon from this province was considered as good, if not better than any in the world. Mr. Ross was formerly a resident in Montreal, having been born in Canada, although his business interests have been largely in France for some years. He anticipates a big increase in the consumption of British Columbia fish in time to come.

The Hedley Gold Mining Company is arranging to resume development at Hedley, where the Nickle Plate mine is located. There was a loss in operation at the mine last year, owing principally to high labor charges, but it is thought this condition will now improve. There is a general improvement in the gold situation in Canada, it is said.

The "Made-in-B.C." movement is a movement aiming at the development of British Columbia. It is a movement to boost British Columbia, but it is not a movement to run down any other section. "Live and let live" is its object. It is a movement that recognizes that true patriotism consists not in speaking ill of your neighbor, but in believing in and working for your own.

British Columbia can produce practically al it needs, and yet it is the heaviest importer per capita of the commodities it produces of any province in Canada. Is there any reason for the "Made-in-B.C. Campaign."

A deposit of galena is being developed by Mr. O. Eden at Giscome Portage on the Upper Fraser River, it is reported. The mica deposits on Mica mountain, at Tete Jaune Cache, are likely to be placed on a producing basis this year. The quality of the mineral is considerably high.

This is the time of the year when visitors from all parts of the world flock to British Columbia. Let them see that we believe in our provnice, the industries in it, and the people who gain their living from them, by patronizing home industry to the fullest extent of our buying power.

The unemployment committee, composed of members of the G. W. V. A. Executive and the Employers' Association, is urging the public to purchase Made-in-B.C. goods to relieve distress among the unemployed. The committee has had several meetings, and each time it has emphasized that if the public will buy more home grown and home made products, the situation will readily improve.

At the last meeting it was pointed out by President Walter Butterworth of the G. W. V. A., that out of 60 men brought to Canada from overseas to work in the mines on a six months' contract, 50 were before the government employment agencies looking for other work at the end of that period. The mining concerns might have done much better to have taken a chance on Canadians, and in this province, on men of British Columbia.

The same committee has urged the Provincial Government to favorably consider the tender of the Coughlan firm here for the construction of the Johnson Street bridge in Victoria, because local men will be employed and provincial materials used.

The unemployment committee is also asking North Vancouver Council to order the installation of British Columbia boilers on the new ferries about to be built. The engineers favored an American make, it was said, but the committee pointed out that it was time public organizations in the province, at least, were made aware of the importance of favoring the provincial products. The Council considering the request.

The world knows little of failures and cares less. The world only watches success. If British Columbians give preference to Britsh Columbia goods, British Columbia will succeed; it will draw the attention of the world, and that means more people more industries and more prosperity.

Manufacturers in the province expect to record a big increase in the sale of provincial goods from June 20th to 25th, the period set for the "Made-in-B.C. Week." Extensive plans have been made to make the week a success in every way, and available co-operation is being received locally from farmers throughout the province.

"It will be a splendid opportunity for the people of British Columbia to see what we have in this province," said Mr. Frank Parsons, chairman of the campaign executive, "and it will be found that the public will show its discrimination."

MINERS' ELECTIONS

Election for District No. 18, U. M. W. of A. officers will be held some time during July, the date not having been officially announced by the international commission which will continue in control of the affairs of the district until that date,on which full autononmy will be handled over to the newly elected officials.

Meantime there is a casting about for material to fill the various posts. According to Wm. Peebles who represented the coal camps across the river at the miners' convention held in Calgary last week. Bushner of Brule, one of the Drumhellar valley camps, is the likely choice for president at this date. His candidature has not definitely been announed but is understood to be generally favored. So far no one has come forward to offer himself for the vice-presidency but whoever is chosen will likely be a Pass man, likely from Fernie. Frank Wheatley, who could have had the presidency had he wanted it will likely be the new secretary-treasurer. Mat Logan of Lethbridge is a candidate as district board member for the Lethbridge district.

The election is wholly in the hands of the international commisslon. Candidates for election must have been members of the U. M. W .of A. in good standing for three years prior to the date of the election and resident in District No. 18 for 12 months. This will preclude the candidacy of any of the O.B|U. leaders who seceded from the international during the squabble which broke up the orbanization in Alberta. There are now about 4500 members of the U. M. W. of A. in District No. 18.—Lethbridge Herald.

SECURE WINTER COAL SUPPLY NOW

CALGARY, June 20.—Before leaving for the east on Saturday, Senator G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, strongly advocated that the public of Western Canada should, as far as practicable, immediately secure their coal supply for the coming winter.

The Senator pointed out that this policy would be to the advantage of the consumer for the following reasons: That there has been a reduction in the price of fuel by many of the coal operators as well as by the Coal dealers; that there has been a reduction in freight rates which will be only in existence for the summer months; and that there are ample cars now available to insure prompt shipment of fuel requirements.

"With the prospect of a good crop in this country," he said, "there is every possibility that a shortage of cars will occur during the autumn and winter months as they will be largly required for the handling of grain. It is therefore to the advantage of all consumers who are in a position to do so, that they should take advantage of this favorable situation."—Lethbridge Herald.

MINERS' CONVENTION

The Special Convention of District 18, U.M.W. of A., was concluded at Calgary last week. The complete autonomy of the organization was returned to this District after a lapse of nearly two years, and it is again with the powers enabling it to administer its own affairs, this, of course, being in compliance with the affiliation with the parent or International organization and in strict adherence to the principles and aims of that institution. The convention was called by a special committee of the International and the decision of the delegates to again return to the fold was received with expressionse fold was received with expressions ers representatives. A new constitution to govern in this District was drafted and accepted; provision made for the holding of an election and the installing of the newly elected executives to administer the affairs of the district. This will be done between now and Aug. 1 of this year. John P. White, former International President, presided at the convention. His thirty years of experience in the Mine Workers movement enabled him to present the situation, not only as it exists today in this district, but as it exists today throughout North America. His wise counsel and sound judgment without fail when any question of doubt arose in the minds of any of the delegates, dispelled such influence and made clear the best course to pursue.

BURTON CITY, B.C.

A member of the Free Press staff visited Burton and district a short time ago and was surprised to find that quite a percentage of the people of that district are old Pass residents. A few of these are:

Ike Moseley, a miner here some years ago, who now has a fine orchard and is also strong on the small fruits and who also sports a motor launch on the lake and a car.

His next neighbor is Sam Hall, a former resident of Coleman, who has a magnificent orchard of nearly one thousand trees—apples, pears, cherries, plums, etc.,—all heavily loaded with fruit—an orchard worth seeing.

The Davis boys, also from Coleman, went in strong for cherries and now have a magnificent cherry orchard in splendid bearing shape.

Bill Hamilton and Mr. Nordstrum, some time ago of Fernie, have also done well in that district.

The three Williams brothers, also old Fernie residents, are located across the Narrows from Burton.

Bobby Lawe, who was a visitor in Fernie for some time last winter, has purchased a ranch a short distance from Burton, as also did W. J. Claridge and Baysil Robertson.

Quite a number of new settlers have arrived in that district this spring, attracted no doubt by the mild climate and easily cleared rich land at low prices.

Arrangements are now being made to put a townsite on the market, as it is thought that the time is come when the district will fill up rapidly. A number of promising mining claims in the immediate vicinity are now being developed, and placer mining is to be started again soon a short distance from Burton.

Frank A. Wood, the Florida statesman who amassed a fortune in the early days of Kootenay mining, died a few days ago at St. Petersburg, Fla., a city which he helped build up from the jungle. He was a native of Brownsville, Ont.

Having abandoned their prediction that the comet would collide with the earth astronomers are now busy estimating the number of millions of miles by which it will miss. As a miss is as good as a mile a few millions are neither here nor there.

Managers of Fourth of July celebrations across the border fear that the superior attractions of British Columbia will attract so many of their citizens on the national holiday that there will be nobody left to read the Declaration of Independence.

Of the thousands of fight fans who witness the pugilistic encounter in the Jersey City arena it is a safe bet that not one in 100 will call Carpentier "Carpont-ee-aye." Should the French champion lose his backers are more apt to call him "Carp," which is another name for "poor fish."

CALGARY EXHIBITION

Prospects are very bright for the most successful exhibition ever held at Calgary. A banner program will open on July 1st. Preparation Day is June 30th, the official opening taking place on Friday. The attractions include a wonderful musical feature in the Massed Festival Choir of 200 voices, which will form part of the evening programs. The display of fireworks which will conclude each evening's program will be the most elaborate ever presented at Calgary, including in addition to the aerial fireworks a magnificient reproduction of "The Battle of Dover."

The entries, which closed last week, are sufficient evidence that the exhibits will be up to the usual high standard maitained by the Calgary Exhibition, and in many departments the exhibits will be better and larger.

In the livestock department the sheep exhibit will excel anything ever seen in Calgary before. The prize list for this branch has attracted a number of new exhibitors, including seeveral from across the line, who are sending large entries in many breeds.

The horses, cattle and swine entries include many splendid entries from the best breeders and promise a very interesting all-round exhibit. As a matter of fact, this branch of the exhibition promises to tax to the uthost the accomodation at the disposal of exhibitors.

The best horse races in Western Canada have been entered for the racing programs on the first four days, July 1, 2, 4, and 5, while Auto races will be the feature of the afternoon programs of the 6th and 7th.

Auto Polo, which proved such a popular inovation at the last exhibition, will be part of each evening's program.

Inquire of your agent regarding special rates on all railways for the Calgary Exhibition.

FAMOUS ENGLISH PLAY NEXT MINTER PICTURE

"Sweet Lavender," the Mary Miles Minter starring vehicle which will open at the Orpheum Monday, had a long and honorable career as a stage play. It has been the most successful of all plays by Sir Arthur Wing Pinero. Its presentations may be counted by the thousands and its popularity has extended over many latitudes. The reason of this is not far to seek; it proclaims itself in the gentle humanity and genial humor of the play. Mr. Pinero avowedly designed the piece as a pleasant entertainment not as a "problem play," and the proof that he accomplished his purpose is the fact of the work's phenomenally successful career in all parts of the world. It played over 1000 performances at Terry's theatre, London, alone.

Buelah Marie Dix, famous writer of stories and plays, prepared the scenario. She has preserved all of the original humor, making only such slight changes as were necessary to make it more understandable for American audiences.

Realart has assembled an excellent cast for the offering. Mary Miles Minter has the name of "Lavender." Theodore Roberts, one of the world's character actors, has the part of lovable Prof. Phenyl, sunny-hearted, incompetent, friend to everyone save himself. Harold Goodwin is excellent as the college boy lover while Milton Sills, Sylvia Ashton, J. M. Dumont, Starke Pateson, Jane Keckley and Flora Hollister are well cast in other roles of the famous old play. Paul Powel directed.

Over thirty members of Michel Lodge, No. 54, I.O.O.F., visited Mt. Fernie Lodge on Wednesday evening, and their degree team conferred the initiatory degree in a most excellent manner. Tables were then prepared and all sat down to a most enjoyable supper. The balance of the evening was taken up with a musical program, speeches, etc., which were participated in by members of both lodges.

The town of Natal is experiencing a building boom at present and many new buildings are being rushed to completion. Among the large buildings are: The Natal Trading Co., 2-story, 84-32, with full concrete basement; P. Zaratti, a large hotel, 60x90, which will be finished within 60 days; Jas. On Sunday the ball fans will have their first chance of seeing Wycliffe, the team which tops the ball league, with six wins and no defeats, when they clash with the White Spruce team on the local diamond. The first conviction under the government Liquor Act in the city police court occurred this morning, when George Leeman, a lumberman, was found guilty of being intoxicated in a public place. He was accordingly assessed the minimum fine of $50.00 or two months' imprisonment. The penalty under the new Act is much more severe than under the Prohibition Act, the minimum for a jag now being being $50 whereas formerly the customary fine imposed was $21. Leeman is remaining in gaol considering whether he will pay or serve the sentence of two months.

It would appear that the Provincial government had the nerve to make the Government Liquor Control Act a law of the land, but have not the nerve to enforce it. If one club is allowed to sell beer it will not be long before they all are at it. From all indications half the hotels in the city will go out of business within the next month.

COLEMAN CARRIED OFF THE HONORS

The Coleman football team continued its winning streak on Saturday evening. Hillcrest was the opposing team. The contest was very even and the checking very close. The Hillcrest goal-keeper saved his team again and again, he played a great game. Coleman scored two koals in the first half and two in the second. At no time did they extend themselves or fall into difficulties. The game was clean and played in the best of spirit. The referee handled the game splendidly and decisions were very just. The final score was Coleman 4 Hillcrest 0.—Lethbridge Herald.

BLAIRMORE VS. FERNIE

Fernie football team defeated Blairmore at Fernie on Sunday last in a Crow's Nest Pass league fixture by a score of two goals to nothing.

The two teams seemed to be fairly evenily matched but Fernie took advantage of opportunities while Blairmore's forwards seemed to lack sting behind their shots. Kennedy opened the scoring for Fernie after 18 minutes of play when he took up a nice pass from his outside man and gave the Blairmore goalkeeper no chance to save. Blairmore put on a spurt after this reverse but the Fernie defence was invulnerable.

Shortly after the second half commenced Murray of Fernie fouled the ball within the dread area and Blairmore was awarded the penalty. The Blairmore left back took the kick and shot the ball wide. Just before the whistle went for time Fernie raided the Blairmore goal and Alex Thompson, Fernie's 15 year old left wing, scored from close in with a shot that gave the Blairmore goalkeeper no opportunity to prevent the tally.

The following team will represent Fernie in the game against Coal Creek at Coal Creek on Sunday:

Goal, Sawyer; backs, Booth and Murray; half-backs, Robertson, W. Thompson, Gibson; forwards, Hardy, Kennedy, Thornton, Thompson.

Reserves: Dicken, H. Brown, F. Hamer.

They will leave Fernie on the 2 p.m. train.

MICHEL PULLED OUT A VICTORY

Coleman ball team played at Michel last Sunday, and came with the determination of getting revenge for the awful beating Michel gave them in Coleman last Wednesday. However, they were obliged to go home defeated by 11-10 score, after gamely trying to overcome the lead Michel obtained in the first four innings. Coleman used three pitchers; Hoggan pitched the first two and the last three innings, Bill Gates pitched the third and fourth, and McGinney, a junior the fifth. Krall pitched the entire game for Michel. The fielding of both sides was rather ragged. This win places Michel at the head of the league.

Score by innings—

Coleman	102 010 231—10
Michel	520 300 10x—11

Batteries: Hoggan, Gates, McGinney, Hoggan and Johnston; Krall and Irvine.

Wardner scored four runs in the opening frame of their game with Wycliffe. Wycliffe scored one in the fourth and five more in the seventh through a few hits and a comedy of errors. Wardner made it six all in the seventh on two hits and Crowe's error. Three more for the home team in the eighth made the score nine to six in favor of Wycliffe finishing up an interesting game. Over fifty carloads of fans witnessed the game and evidently enjoyed the closeness, with plenty of hits, runs and errors.

WALDO HANDS FERNIE SET-BACK

Fernie suffered their second defeat of their E.K.B.B.L. schedule on Sunday, when Waldo took the long end of a 6-4 score of the game played at Waldo.

Waldo was materially strengthened by the services of Neitzling, a new man, in the box who struck out 15 and only allowed 2 hits; costly errors behind him in the 4th gave Fernie their 4 and only runs of the game, after that things seemed to break Waldo's way and Fernie was granted a goose egg inning after inning. Waldo started their scoring in the 1st, geting 2, they added another in the 3rd and tied the score in the 4th, in the 5th Waldo secured 2 more, putting them in the lead which proved enough to win. God ball by both teams from then on held down the score the rest of the way.

The game was full of features; three double plays with two one-handed catches of 'Texas Leaguers' figuring in two of them, capped the day. In the 2nd, Fernie uncorked another of their fast doubles, B. Wilson to Murray to R. Colton; "Red" Ayres, Waldo's 2nd baseman, speared one away up in the clouds, one-handed and tagged a runner on the line, in the very next inning, Shand, who has been playing a steady game at third for Fernie, grabbed a texas leaguer, and like Ayres, also tagged a runner on the line.

Quite a number of Fernie fans went down by auto and took in the game. The teams were greeted by one of the largest crowds that have yet witnessed a game in Waldo.

White Spruce-Cranbrook

White Spruce Lumber Company's baseball nine on Sunday broke the jinx of five straight losses by defeating Cranbrook on the Fernie diamond by a score of 8 to 4.

The game was somewhat ragged for the first four innings, but tightened up in the fifth and from then on no score was made by either team. Peters, the White Spruce's new pitcher, throws a nice ball, but the fans did not have much chance to see him work to his capacity, as he was apparently afraid to test his catcher too much.

Bamford pitched a steady game for Cranbrook but was unable to keep the hits scattered enough to keep down the score. Errors came freely during the third innings and White Spruce piled up four runs.

High Average Mileage

Sometimes you find a tire that gives extraordinary mileage—one in a dozen perhaps. Whereas the average of mileage given by a dozen—or a hundred—Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" will be as high as that given by the exceptional ordinary tire.

It's the high average that counts—that cuts the cost of miles—that makes it worth while to get Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" instead of ordinary tires.

THIRD BOUT UNDER 'NO DECISION RULES

New York,—The third bout for the world's heavyweight championship under no decision rules at a limited number of rounds will be under way when Jack Dempsey and Georges carpentier square off in the Jersey City ring, July 2. The only previous title contests held under similar conditions were the Willard-Moran, 10-round battle at New York, March 25, 1916, and the Willard-Dempsey contest at Toledo, O., July 4, 1919. The first bout went the limit, Willard gaining the popular verdict. At Toledo, Dempsey knocked out his ponderous opponent in the third of the scheduled 12-round bout.

Modern ring history in the heavyweight division is considered to have begun when John L. Sullivan knocked out Paddy Ryan in nine rounds at Mississippi City, Miss., Feb. 7, 1882. Including that contest and the one in which Marvin Hart defeated Jack Root to gain the title relinquished by Jim Jeffries, there have been 24 championship bouts. The longest was that in which John L. Sullivan knocked out Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richburg, Miss., the shortest, that in which Tommy Burns stopped Bill Squires in one round at Colma, Cal., July 4, 1907.

By the average duration of these championship contests, which is a trifle under 15 rounds, Dempsey and Carpentier, scheduled for only 12 sessions, would seem likely to go the prescribed route. The length of the Sullivan-Kilrain duel, however, stretches this average and examinations of the records, shows that 11 of the 23 battles have stopped short of the 12-round mark, while the most recent championship fight, in New York last December, ended with the knockout of Bill Brennan by Dempsey in the twelfth round.

Persons who wager on an official result in the Jersey City bout, can win or lose only in two events, a knockout or a disqualification on a foul. To make possible a clean-cut decision it has been suggested that promoter "Tex" Rickard appoint 3 judges who shall sit at the ringside and announce a verdict after returning to New York, following the bout.

1882. February 7—John L. Sullivan knocked out Paddy Ryan in nine rounds at Mississippi City, Mass.

1889 — July 8, John L. Sullivan knocked out Jake Kilrain in 75 rounds at Richburg, Miss., in the last championship bout with bare knuckles.

1892—September 7, James J. Corbett knocked out John L. Sullivan in 21 rounds with big gloves at New Orleans, La.

1894—January 25, James J. Corbett stopped Charley Mitchell in three rounds at Jacksonville, Fla.

1897—March 17, Bob Fitzsimmons stopped James J. Corbett in fourteen rounds at Carson City, Nev.

1899 — June 9, James J. Jeffries stopped Bob Fitzsimmons in 11 rounds at Coney Island.

1899—November 3, James J. Jeffries defeated Tom Sharkey in 25 rounds at Coney Island.

1902—July 25, James J. Jeffries stopped Bob Fitzsimmons in 8 rounds at San Fransisco, Cal.

1903—August 14, James J. Jeffries knocked out James J. Corbett in ten rounds at San Francisco, Cal.

1904—August 26, James J. Jeffries knocked out Jack Munroe in two rounds at San Francisco, Cal.

1905—James J. Jeffries retired and handed title to Marvin Hart after the latter had stopped Jack Root in 12 rounds at Reno, Nev.

1906—February 23, Tommy Burns beat Marvin Hart in 20 rounds at Los Angeles, Cal.

1907—May 7, Tommy Burns beat Philadelphia Jack O'Brien in twenty rounds at Los Angeles, Cal.

1907—July 4, Tommy Burns stopped Bill Squires of Australia in one round at Colma, Cal.

1908—December 25, Jack Johnson defeated Tommy Burns in 14 rounds at Sydney, N.S.W., the police interfering.

1909 — October 16, Jack Johnson knocked out Stanley Ketchel in 12 rounds at Colma, Cal.

1910—July 4, Jack Johnson knocked out James J. Jeffries in 15 rounds at Reno, Nev., for a purse of $101,000.

1912—July 4, Jack Johnson beat Jim Flynn in 9 rounds at Les Vegas, N.M., the police interefering.

1914—June 27, Jack Johnson beat Frank Moran on points in 20 rounds at Paris, France.

1915—April 5, Jess Willard knocked out Jack Johnson in 26 rounds at Havana, Cuba.

1916—March 25, Jess Willard defeated Frank Moran by popular verdict in 10 rounds at New York. (No decision).

1919—July 4, Jack Dempsey knocked out Jess Willard in three rounds at Toledo, O.

1920—September 6, Jack Dempsey knocked out Billy Miske in 3 rounds at Benton Harbor, Mich.

1920—December 14, Jack Dempsey knocked out Bill Brennan in twelve rounds at New York, N.Y.

FELT LIKE AN IRON BAND AROUND HEAD

Mrs Osborne Says She Shudders When She Thinks How She Suffered.

"For yeors," said Mrs. V. B. Osborne, of 718 Lancaster Ave., Lexington, Ky., "I have been in a run-down condition, nervous, weak and dizzy. I was actually so nervous that any sudden noise or excitement would produce a palpitation of my heart that frightened me. I absolutely could not climb stairs, for to attempt such would thoroughly exhaust me.

"I had nervous headaches and when they came on it seemed that an iron band was drawn tight around my head. I now shudder when I think of those headaches. My stomach was weak and I could not digest the lightest liquid food. Any food of a solid nature caused nausea and the sickening sensation remained for hours.

"My misery was almost unbearable. My sleep was never sound and I was worn out all the time. My condition was indeed a very deplorable one. I finally sought treatment in Cincinnati but nothing helped me one particle. I was on the verge of giving up in despair when a neighbor pleaded with me to try Tanlac. I obtained a bottle of the medicine and began its use.

"I began improving at once and soon felt my nervousness and dizziness disappearing. Then my headaches left me and I realized my strength had returned. My appetite and digestion improved and I am now so much better in every way. This Tanlac is a wonderful medicine and the only one that ever really helped me. I hope every poor woman who is suffering as I did will try it."

SHUTTING 'EM OUT

Senator France of Maryland, Lincoln Steffens, the journalist, and William Johnston, the president of the International Association of Machinists, lately journeyed to Reval, in Esthonia, front door to Soviet Russia, exuding good will toward Russia. Senator France was coming back to tell his country the real truth at last about the bolshevist, Johnston, who has striven for the resumption of commercial relations between Russia and the United States, was to place the aid of his organization at the disposal of the authorities, to help in the reconstruction of the ruined transportation facilities. Lincoln Steffens has shown that he has at least an open mind toward bolshevism and all its works.

But the trio were turned down at the threshold, as other Americans have been, and they have come away disgusted. The bolshevists are sore at all Americans. They have found American correspondents intractable. Theses reporters have insisted on using their own eyes and ears. They will not write at the dictation of the commissars. Seeing red, as they do, and enraged against the United States government for persistently ignoring them the soviet authorities have ceased to distinguish between friend and foe. If you come from America, that is enough to stamp you as one of the opposition.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Reversing the usual order, a Detroit man was fined for driving his car so slowly that it caused a traffic jam.

At an international rugby football match between French and Irish teams the French forwards were so rough that they were warned officially. An amazed American spectator asks: "Can such things be? If the day has come when a group of Frenchmen can be too rough for an Irish football team, we can look for Pancho Villa to entertain at afternoon tea, Lenine to become a director of Rothschilds, and Babe Ruth to start on an habitual course of buting the ball.'

WILL FORCE A SHOWDOWN

VANCOUVER, June 20.—The prosecution of the Fernie Command of the Grea War Veterans' Association for selling beer to its members will force a "showdown" between the provincial government and the Veterans' organizations holding Dominion charters.

This statement was made today by Walter Drinnan, provincial secretary of the G.W.V.A., who announced that an emergency meeting of that executive would be held at once to decide on a course of action in support of the Fernie Veterans'.

"While we have urged that all locals selling beer in the province must act on their own responsibility we feel that this is a matter for the provincial command to deal with if the Fernie branch has not violated the law," said Mr. Drinnan. "Why in the world have they picked on Fernie instead of prosecuting in Vancouver or Victoria, I do not know. The local commands have been selling beer right along and theirs will make a better case.

Mr. Drinnan declared, however, that if it were fohnd that Fernie had deliberately violated the law by selling to others than bona fide members, stern action with the branch would be taken. The provincial command might go so far as to cancel the charter, he intimated, having powers from the Dominion command to do that.

"If we find that Fernie acted just as the Vancouver branch has done and has ben seling only to members, we particularly shall seek an immediate conference with the attorney-general," continued Mr. Drinnan. "We will take up the various points of law brought to our attention by the counsel we have obtained.

"It was the desire of the whole organization in British Columbia as elsewhere to abide by its constitution, which provides for strict observance of the law, Mr. Drinnan concluded, but this was a case in which it was contended there was no violation of the law.

"It is a privilege we have we believe under our Dominion charter rights," he added, "and on that ground we have a right to sell beer. If it can be shown, though, that we are acting in violation of law we undoubtedly will cease."—Nelson News.

SEVEN I.W.W. TO SERVE LONG TERMS

Walla Walla, Wash., June 21. — Handcuffed and chained to each other and guarded by three officers, seven I.W.W., convicted of the Centralia American Legion murders two years ago, arrived at the penitentiary this afternoon to serve 25 to 40 years.

Their long months of confinement in the Grays Harbor County jail showed on their faces.

They were registered, photographed, measured and then taken to cells to enter routine prison life. The man are Britt Smith, O. C. Bland, James McInerary, Bert Bland, John Lamb, Ray Becker and Eugene Barnett.

Guards usually bring the prisoners from the east side to Yakima and stop over night, completing the journey the next day but the seven were brought through from Seattle without a stop. Prison officers announced that they desired to take no chances in this case, as the men were widely known.

The train stopped at the foot of the penitentiary hill and the prisoners were marched the short distance to the prison, where they went through the usual formalities. They will be assigned to work later.

CRESTON HAS HOPES

CRESTON, June 19.—R. Hewat registrar of voters for Kaslo riding, will be here on Tuesday afternoon to hold a voters' list court of revision for the convenience of the residents of the Creston Valley. This is the first time on record this facility has been accorded, and goes to show that the preponderance of the vote in the Kaslo constituency is now at the Creston end. In view of this steady increase in population and the prospect of a redistribution before the next provincial election, there is already considerable speculation as to what riding Creston will be in at the next voting, with a strong feeling that a new constituency of Creston will be created, which will include such Lake points as Boswell, Crawford Bay, Grays Creek, etc., all of which are horticultural centres and whose interests are common to those existing in Creston valley.

Although the census enumerator has to be a human interrogation point he has to answer more questions than he asks.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

WERE YOU EVER LOST IN THE WOODS?

Even if you were never lost in the woods, what would you do if you should loose your way to-morrow.

"No matter where, or in what circumstances you may be, the moment you realize that you have lost your bearings, there is just one thing for you to do: STOP! Then sit down.

"Now any man can remember that. It is a bit of 'book learning' that no man can afford to despise. It is the one and only way to clear your wits, to drive off the demon of panic, and it is sure to help you out of your predicament.

"Chew a twig. It won't take long for you to recover your sense enough to know that if you stay right where you are until morning, your companions, by that time, will be searching for you. They will be scouring the woods, hallooing, firing guns, scouting for your trail. Suppose you do have to stay out all night, alone in the woods; nothing will hurt you. The stories of bears and panthers pouncing on sleeping men are all tommyrot. So keep your shirt on.

"But you don't want to stay here like a numbskull and face the sly grins of open ridicule of a searching party. Very well, the bugaboos are fleeing. Now take a stick, make a bare on the ground, and trace your probable course from the time of leaving camp to the time your first suspected you might be wandering astray. Mark on it the estimated location of such landmarks as you noticed. If you are not altogether a tenderfoot, you will remember how many streams and ridges you have crossed. Anyway, you will recall some feature of the country you traversed. Not unlikely, when your mind has recovered its equipoise, you will be able to 'backtrack' without much difficulty.

"But in any case, no matter how confident you may be, DON'T take ten steps from the place where you are until you have marked it. If place is favorable for a smoke sign (in flat woods it is of no avail) build a fire, with enough damp or punky stuff for a good while, and bank it with earth so it can not spread. Or, blaze a tree on four sides—make big blazes that can be seen from any direction.

"Then take note of the lay of the land around you, the direction of its drainage, the character of its vegetation, and the hospitalities that it offers to a night-bound traveller, in the way of drinking water, sound downwood for an all-night fire, natural shelter, and browse or other bedding. Now, when you start out to recover the trail, make bush-marks as you go along; otherwise it will be the easiest thing in the world to lose your way back to that blazed tree.

"But if you don't find that back track of yours, and if no familiar landmark shows up before the sun is within an hour of setting, QUIT for the day. It is high time, now that you get right to work and make yourself snug for the night. Your success or failure to-morrow will depend very much upon what kind of a night's rest you get."

—Firelighter.

BEER FROM THE COAST

That all is not bliss with the advent of Government Liquor Control, particularly with respect to this city, was further emphasized at a special meeting of the Fernie Board of Trade held here on Tuesday afternoon, when information was presented to the business men that the Liquor Control Board had decided not to purchase any more of the product of the local plant unless the management accepted an arbitrarily fixed price, same to include federal manufacturers' tax of 3 per cent, or in other words the brewery would realize an amount which would not allow them to operate at a profit. In consequence of this seemingly unfair treatment by the government through the Liquor Control Board directed at this community, the local Board of Trade unanimously adopted a motion deploring this attitude of persecution on the public and instructed the following telegram be dispatched to Victoria:

"The Fernie Board of Trade considers that Liquor Control Board should handle beer manufactured in this district for local consumption. From inquiries made, people here are anxious for local beer and strenuously object to beer being imported from the coast to the detriment of our local industry. At present time there is no beer available in the district, and this is causing very great dissatisfaction. We desire that you immediately make arrangements with your vendor to have our local beer supplied to those desiring it."

Three days have now elapsed since this message was dispatched but so far no recognition of the appeal has been taken at the coast.

It should not be inferred or understood to mean in acting in this matter that the people of Fernie are trying to thrust thmeselves into a business controversy between two parties, the Liquor Board and the Brewery Co. The situation as between these respective parties in handling an ordinary business transaction is strictly a matter of their own concern, and for them to reach a solution. However, when a disagreement or breach transpires and develops a condition whereby the public of the community is made the victim of the machinations of either party to effectually gain its object, it is time those interested in public welfare and fair play should take such action as will cause the wrongdoer to play the game squarely. It was with this idea in view that the representative citizens here through the Board of Trade took steps to intercede.

It may be said that the initial basic point of contention is a monetary one the Liquor Control Board say, "You must supply us with beer at a price named by us." The brewery refuse on the ground that inasmuch as no specified quantity is agreed to be accepted we cannot be assured of sufficient turn-over to give a profit to cover the cost of manufacture or return on investment. The Liquor Board say, "All right, we will not purchase your beer at all. We will supply Fernie district from the coast." Both these mandates have now been carried out. Yesterday a carload arrived from Vancouver and is now open to sale to the public.

It is at this juncture, however, that the public receive the brunt of the conflict. The Vancouver beer costs $25.00 per barrel, while our local product was sold by the vendor for $20 per barrel. The profit acquired by the Liquor Board on Fernie beer was 25 per cent, whereas on the imported article, allowing $14 cost at the coast and adding freight to Fernie, plus warehousing at $4 a barrel, makes it laid down here $18; but they are retailing it for $25, and in this manner admit a profit to the government of $7 per barrel or about 40 per cent.

Not only does the consumer now have to bear a 25 per cent increase in the cost of his favorite beverage, but he has to arrange for the delivery of the imported beer from the vendor. Formerly when local beer was supplied, the consumer merely placed his order with the vendor and this was filled by delivery at his residence without any extra cost.

We were repeatedly given to understand when the present legislation was submitted to a referendum of the people that under government control liquors, which includes beer, would be supplied the public at the lowest possible price. Under existing conditions in Fernie the consumers are being penalized to the extent of at least 25 per cent and in addition are being forced to accept an article they do not prefer.

From a community point of view if such discriminatory measures are permitted to continue, it will have a very serious effect upon our commercial enterprises. In this case alone it sounds the death knell of our local brewery industry. The Fernie-Fort Steele Brewing Co. plant represent an investment of at least a quarter of a million dollars, and if it is forced to entirely suspend operation, 25 men will be thrown out of employment and a monthly payroll of $3000 will be withdrawn from circulation.

The foregoing facts bring home step by step how the action of the Liquor Control Board in this matter is one of the most bitter slaps ever committed upon a section of the public. It is therefore high time the innocent victims should declare themselves in unequivocal terms and not allow this usurpation of their rights, otherwise they may be further subjected to conditions equally if not more intolerable.

EVERYBODY TO CELEBRATE

Everything is all set for the big celebration tomorrow, and if the weather is favorable, July 1st, 1921, will be a red letter day in the history of Fernie sports.

All the committees have their work well in hand and the program is a dandy.

The Indians have already arrived for the horse races and they are said to have a fine bunch of ponies.

The baseball tournament will be between teams from Waldo, White Spruce and Fernie and as they are all well matched the fight for the prize money will be keen.

The football competition will be between Michel, Coal Creek and Fernie—three real teams. Don't miss these games.

The big program will start off in the morning with a grand parade, starting from the Public School at 10.45., and from that time on event will follow event in quick succession.

The G.W.V.A. band will be in attendance all day.

Turn out and make the day a grand success.

BEER BOTTLES AS WEAPONS

His Honor Judge Thmompson held a special sittings of the county court on Tuesday, when six applications for naturalization were heard, and also an assault case from Michel, the King vs. Fieretti. This was a quarrel between two Italians, Angelo Fieretti and Silvio Bino, arising out of a card game. In the fracas beer bottles were the chief weapons used and both men received more or less grave injuries. The occurrence took place over a month ago but proceedings were withheld pending recovery of Bino, whose injuries confined him to the hospital for some time. On the evidence, the court held that Bino, the complainant, has received what was coming to him as he had been looking for trouble and had been the original aggressor, but after the initial mix-up, when he had endeavored to depart, Fieretti, the accused, smarting from injury, became violent and pursued and made an attack with a bottle. He was found guilty of assault and fined $50, but both accused and complainant were severely reprimanded by the Court, and admonished that if at any future time either one became involved in the commission of any crime and found guilty they would receive the maximum penalty the court could impose.

Chief Lawson of the city police staff has resigned to accept a position with the Alberta provincial force at Coleman. He expects to leave about July 31. During his stay here the Chief has rendered good and efficient service and in his departure the city will lose a good officer and citizen. If the police commission can see their way clear they should try and prevail upon Mr. Lawson to reconsider his resignation.

E. K. M. S. A. COMPETITIONS

The East Kootenay Mine Safety Association held its annual Mine Rescue and First Aid competitions at Michel on Saturday, June 25, and a large number of people from Fernie journeyed there to take part in or to watch the proceedings.

That the Association is creating a lively interest in its work is shown by the number of teams taking part in the events, and from the comments heard it is expected that still more teams will prepare themselves for future events of this kind.

Fernie was represented by one Mine Rescue team; four senior, one ladies and two junior First Aid teams. Coal Creek by one senior, one ladies and two junior First Aid teams. Michel by one Mine Rescue team and two senior First Aid teams; and Corbin by one senior First Aid team.

The judges in the Mine Rescue competition were: Duncan McDonald, Gen. Supt. of Mine Rescue and First Aid work with the Workmen's Compensation Board in the Province of Alberta; John MacDonald, Mines Inspector, Fernie; and E. L. Warburton, Supt. of Corbin Mines.

The judges in the First Aid competition were: Drs. Bonnell and Corsan, of Fernie; Dr. Workman, of Coal Creek; and Drs. Graham and Weldon, of Michel.

T. Uphill, M.P.P., presented the prizes at the close of the competitions, and the Fernie G.W.V.A. and the Michel bands entertained with musical selections throughout the day.

In announcing the successful teams the secretary drew attention to the work of the Association and pointed ont the advantages to be derived from First Aid training. He also spoke of the assistance rendered by Minister of Mines Sloan, and by the coal companies operating in the district, which had made the competitions possible.

The Mine Rescue teams had difficult tasks, and these were made more strenuous by having to be performed in workings only four feet in height. The results were:

1st Fernie — Capt. E. Hesketn, 91.2 p.c.

2nd Michel—Capt. M. Littler, 89.2 p.c.

In the First Aid competitions the judges commented very favorably on the high standard shown in the work, particular mention being made of the work of the junior teams: The results were:

Ladies—

1st Fernie — Capt. Mrs. Whalley, 92 p.c.

2nd Coal Creek—Capt. Mrs. Corlatt, 85½ p.c.

Juniors—

1st Coal Creek—Capt. J. Fowler, 100 p.c.

2nd Fernie—Capt. J. Terry, 99 1-3 p.c.

3rd Fernie—Capt. J. Pierpont, 99½ p.c.

4th Coal Creek—Capt. J. Larmont, 94½ p.c.

Seniors—

1st Fernie — Capt. J. Strachan, 98 2-3 p.c.

2nd Fernie — Capt. J. Hamer, 97 2-3 p.c.

3rd Fernie — Capt. W. Hynds, 97 1-3 p.c.

4th Coal Creek — Capt. T. Walls, 95 1-3 p.c.

The fifth, sixth and seventh were tied as follows:

Michel—Capt. W. Porter, 90 2-3 p.c

Corbin — Capt. W. Almond, 90 2-3 p.c.

Michel—Capt A. Lyne, 90 2-3 p.c.

8th Fernie—Capt. W. Whalley, 89 p.c.

The Fernie Mine Rescue team, the three successful senior teams and the first and second junior First Aid teams are all proceeding to Blairmore to take part in the competitions on Friday and Saturday of this week.

One of the principal objects of the recently formed Economic Council for dealing with problems of unemployment in the province, will be to induce the people to purchase Made-in-B.C. goods.

British Columbia experimental farms are leading those of the whole Dominion in the matter of egg production, according to recent official reports from Ottawa. It is reported that at the Agassiz farm 200 eggs from one hen a year is a common thing, while from 250 to 270 are not considered rare. At the Vancouver Island Station 200 pullets gave an average of 195.97, eighty-two going abevo 200.

DROWNING ACCIDENT

John Horn Hewitt, a well known and highly respected resident of the Fernie Annex, was the victim of a drowning acident last Sunday afternoon while out fishing, accompanied by his father-in-law, Matthew Tully, and his brother-in-law, Wm. Tully. The party had left here early Sunday morning and fished in various places up till about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when they reached the confluence of Lizard Creek and Elk River. They all decided to try casting from a small island a short distance out in the river, but which could only be reached by wading out. The water in all streams at this season is quite high and the current abnormally rapid, so immediately the trio attempted to ford out to the island they were swept of their feet and carried down stream. Miraculously, however, a triple tragedy was avoided through Wm. Tully, the youngest member of the party, being carried inshore, enabling him to grasp a projecting log. To this he clung and as his father was being swept by him he grabbed his clothing and bore the strain of holding himself and his parent until they recovered sufficiently to clamber up the river bank to safety. Hewitt, however, was not so fortunate and was carried farther out in the river. As he floated down beyond the two frantic watchers he was apparently unconscious because he seemed to make no effort to rescue himself. He possibly had been stunned from coming in contact with driftwood or some other obstruction. When last seen the body was being swept into a log jam, where it disappeared. Volunteer parties immediately left here and the river was searched until darkness set in. On Monday the provincial police and friends continued their quest but the remains have not yet been recovered and probably will not be until the water recedes.

Deceased was about 35 years of age and married. His wife (ne Janet Tully) and two children survive. He was at the time of his death employed as pipefitter at Coal Creek mines, but was a machinist and millwright by trade. He was present Noble Grand of Mt. Fernie Lodge I.O.O.F., and being musical was an active member of the local choral and amateur societies. The sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family.

BATHING FATALITY

Thomas Griffiths, of Waldo, formerly of Fernie, 18 years old, was accidentally drowned in a slough just behind the mill of the Ross-Saskatoon Lumber Co., at Waldo, B.C., on Saturday afternoon last.

He had just had dinner and went bathing and apparently took cramps and went under. Nobody witnessed the accident and no anxiety over his absence was felt by his widowed mother until late in the evening, as the lad was in the habit of going on fishing expeditions without leaving any notice of his going. When he was still absent at ten o'clock his mother got several men to search for him. The lad's clothes were found at the edge of the slough and the search party immediately began dragging operations. The body was recovered next morning at eight o'clock after an all night search.

Where pre-empter in occupation not less than 5 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

This privilege is also made retrective.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 30, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."
—Lord Roseberry.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN AND DIRECTS "THE KID"

"The Kid," Associated First Nationals six reels of joy, is to be the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre for the holiday. It is more Charlie Chaplin than has ever been put into one picture before, in addition to being six full reels in length, the story was written by the comedian himself. He directed it himself and plays the leading role.

Jackie Coogan, one of the greatest finds ever made in the search for boys with real acting ability, plays the title role. His work was so pleasing to the comedian that before the production was over he was universally known among the film colony on the coast where the picture was made as "Charlie Junior," a name which Chaplin gave him himself.

Edna Purviance, whose beauty and general acting ability made her such a splendid leading lady for Chaplin in previous productions, has the leading feminine role.

HIGH SCHOOL PROMOTIONS

These results are based on examinations held throughout the year and on the general work of the pupils.

Names are arranged in alphabetical order.

First Year to Second Year Class

Stephen Bernot, Margaret Birkett, John Corlett, Marie Coppe, Lillian Dicken, Edna Edgar, Clarice Littley, Alice Miller, James Reynolds, Leon Ruschal, Elaine Ross, Alvin Vansacker, Merle Wallace, May Whalley.

With condition—Beatrice Coughlan, Violet Coughlan, Lily Graham, George Ihas.

Results in this class are on the whole very satisfactory.

Second Year to Third Year.

James Campbell, Grace Douglas, Fred Elley, Edna Johnston, Annie McDonald, Ernest Quail, Annie Reynolds.

With condition — Everett Covert, Molly Henderson, Dora Rizzuto, George Wasnock.

Results of the year's work in this class are very poor owing to the unsatisfactory attitude of some of the pupils to class work.

Results in the Third Year class will be low also owing to the complete change in teaching staff at the beginning of this term, involving loss of time in the new staff getting in touch with the work, and to the new and higher standard to be attained by successful students in writing on Junior matriculation rather than on the former intermediate examinations.

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives.'

'Fruit-a-tives' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure."

The census enumerators have completed their work, but there is still time if you have not been included in the count to get in touch with G. G. Moffatt, chief enumerator. In the last census taken the count gave Fernie about 1200 when it should have had 5000. We do not want any such rating again, so be sure your name has been included in the count. If you are in doubt phone Mr. Moffatt at once.

Segt. Pass and Detective Evans of the R.C.M.P., late last Saturday night raided the room occupied by Way Kee, a celestial, in the Central Hotel here, in search of drugs. They found six papers of cocaine and six papers of opium, carefully secluded between the mattress and springs of the bed wherein Way Kee was sleeping. He was arrested and the drugs seized. The case has not been concluded but the defendant's contention is that he was not aware the dope was in his room. He has been employed as cook at this hotel for about one year.

Fire broke out about noon on Wednesday in the planing mill of the East Kootenay Lumber Co., at Jaffray, and that portion of the plant was completely destroyed. This fire did not seriously damage the sawmill or stock of lumber in the mill yard, except the lumber stored in the dry-kiln and some large piles adjacent thereto. The planer mill boiler room was saved but the engine and all planing mill machinery are a total loss. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated bearing in one of the machines. The sawmill has started up again but large gangs of men are still engaged in putting out the remains of the fire.

Dr. Garner returned on Tuesday from a two weeks' holiday at the coast.

Leslie Mills' car turned turtle at the foot of the big hill on Tuesday. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Robt. Wilson and family, of Cassidy, Vancouver Island, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson. Robert is manager of a coal mining property at that place.

At the concert to be held in the Grand Theatre on Friday in aid of the Fernie Symphony Orchestra and of the Fernie Public Library, the chair will be taken by W. R. Wilson at 8 p.m. sharp. Tickets $1.00.

Mayor Henderson and his colleagues are doing good work on the sidewalks and streets but they do not want to overlook that city watering cart. No work is quite as important at this season of the year as keeping the streets well sprinkled.

The road appropriation for this district has apparently been exhausted with the road work for the season far from completion. The road between Michel and Crow's Nest is simply impossible; the road is also very poor from the White Spruce mills to the other side of Cokato.

F. Lefeaux, representing the Cunard, Anchor and Donaldson Lines, was a visitor to the city last Saturday. Mr. Lefeaux reports Atlantic steamship bookings very heavy, both eastbound and westbound. Harry E. Douglas and J. Austin act as agents for these steamship lines in Fernie and are in a position to book passengers to and from Europe.

League Standing—

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Wycliffe	7	0	1000

Cranbrook	2	5	286
Wardner	1	6	143

Next League games, July 10:
Wycliffe at Waldo.
Fernie at Cranbrook.
Wardner at White Spruce.

Wardner, June 26.—The Fernie team won here today after an eleven innings games. Score 9 to 6. The Wardner boys, though away down in the list, always give a good account of themselves and make them all go to win. The score was 6 all in the 9th and two extra innings were played, Fernie scoring thre epoints in the first of the 11th. An otherwise good game was spoiled somewhat by umpire troubles.

Batteries — Callahan and Rushcall, Fernie; Thompson and Garrison, Umpires: Martin and Thompson.

Cranbrook, June 26.—Waldo defeated Cranbrook today 13 to 5 in a very interesting game before a good crowd of fans. Warren Spence pitched his first league game and shows signs of developing into a good boxman. Waldo played their usual steady game and used Basiren and Neisling on the mound. The umpire showed a lack of knowledge of the rules of the game.

Batteries — Basiren, Neisling and Barger, Waldo; Spence and Adamson, Cranbrook.

Umpire: Rutherford.

Fernie, June 26.—Wycliffe made it seven straight behind pitcher Musser in their game with White Spruce today, nosing out on the long end of an 8 to 6 score. It was a poor day for umpires, according to reports from all games today, and Kastner was no exception. From the sidelines it looked like Wycliffe got several raw ones. The game was a good battle for several of the scores. White Spruce scored one in the first but Wycliffe soon asumed the lead and were never headed. Errors in Wycliffe outfield and White Spruce infield accounted for several of the scores. Whie Spruce rallied in the 9th, having men on 1st and 2nd, with one down, but a fast double play, Musser to Chase to Crearer, ended the game.

Batteries—Musser and McTier, Wycliffe; Peters, Dunlap and Costa, White Spruce.

Umpire—Kastner.

HOLIDAY ATTRACTION

Orpheum Theatre Has Big Holiday Attraction in "Thme Kid"

Charlie Chaplin's first venture into the field of feature comedies, "The Kid," will open at the Orpheum Theatre tonight. Because the story has a strong vein of pathos throughout, the unusual comedy talent which has made Chaplin the most famous funny man in the world stands out stronger and more joyous than in any previous production in which he has appeared.

"The Kid," is a realization of an ambition which the comedian has held for years. He conceived the story when he was first starting on his screen career, but could think of it only as something he would like. Then he made his contract with Associated First National Pictures, Inc., under the policy of that distributing organization of permitting uncontrolled production on the part of stars and producers.

Chaplin whipped his idyll into shape and started work upon the production of the story. It took him a year to complete. There are but five characters of importance in it and are characterized as The Man, The Woman, the Kid, The Tramp and The Policeman. The comedian himself plays the part of the tramp, while a real find as a juvenile actor, Jackie Coogan, has the title role; and Edna Purviance plays the part of the Woman.

The Woman abandons her baby by leaving it in a limousine car. Thieves steal the car and toss the baby into an ash pile, where it is found wailing by the tramp. The Tramp raises it through babyhod and into early childhood. The Woman has made a success on the operatic stage and devotes her life and fortune to aiding children of the slums. Thus she comes to know both the Tramp and the Kid without suspecting the latter's identity.

When it is discovered that Charlie is not the Kids father the authorities seek to seperate them, but the Tramp has spent his life evading authority and does it again. The Woman discovers that the Kid is her abandoned baby and the picture draws to a nappy close

Chaplin as a nurse, as a guardian to a precocious kid, and as a reason why the police force should be increased, has one of the best comedy roles that has ever been prepared for him on the screen. First National's six reels of joy, as "The Kid" is designated, is really a mild statement of the actual hilarity caused by the action on the screen.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

KNOWING THE WAY AROUND

What would you think of a boy who did not know the population of his own city? I met one not long ago, while on a visit to Rochester. I used to know the population of Rochester but was wondering how much it had increased in recent years. This boy could not tell me and did not even know whether it as twenty-five thousand or two hundred thousand. He was walking the streets of his city but but looked to be somewhat dead.

I know another boy who is alive to the world in which he lives. He wears on his Sweater Crest the Pathfinder's Badge and in order to win this he had to meet the following requirements:

To secure a Pathfinder's Badge a Trail Ranger must—

(a). Know the location and papulation of five neighboring towns and be able to tell the roads leading to them so that a stranger might easily find the way.

(a.) Know the location and populashort-cut for a distance of two miles in every direction, or have a general knowledge of district within three miles of home, and be able to direct or guide people by day or night.

(c). Draw a rough sketch map from field notes of an area of two miles square or a strip five miles long indicating main landmarks, important buildings, roads, railroads, etc.

(d). Read a map correctly.

Salt Superstitions.

Superstitions concerning salt are among the earliest known to mankind. There is much evidence in holy writ for the ceremonial uses of it, and the old Mosaic law commands that every sacrifice of a meat offering shall be seasoned with it. Homer calls it divine, and many of the old Teuton races looked on salt springs as holy and worshiped at them. The origin of this superstition seems to be that since salt cannot corrupt it should be regarded as a symbol of immortality.

Novel Dance.

The word "ball," as applied to a dancing party, came to be used in the first instance from an ancient "ball play" given in church by the dean and choir boys of Naples during the Feast of Fools at Easter. At subsequent dancing parties in Naples the dancers threw a ball at one another to the sound of their own singing. They whirled about in measured time, and the sport consisted in loosening hands in time to catch the ball.

Pretty, Isn't It?

There is no altar on earth which vies in marble majesty with the altar of heaven—Tien T'ian—in the south of the Chinese city of Peking, which Emperor Lung-le of the Ming dynasty reared in A. D. 1420, with its triple balustrades, stairs and platforms of pure white marble carved miraculously, its great circle covering a wide area in the midst of a vast inclosure. There the emperor knelt once a year.

Palestine's Salt Mountain.

Palestine possesses a remarkable salt mountain situated at the south end of the Dead sea. The length of the ridge is six miles, with an average width of three-quarters of a mile, and the height is not far from 600 feet. There are places where the overlying earthy deposits are many feet in thickness, but the mass of the mountain is composed of solid rock salt, some of which is as clear as crystal.

Give Him a Goatskin.

The professor is the goat.

"If it were not for one trivial thing," mused Professor Cranium, the famous memory expert, as he stroked his chin in par, "I could give young Stewpidd his diploma. His record as a student of my course is almost perfect."

"What is his little trouble?" asked Dr. Hackem-Uppe.

"He forgets to pay for his lessons."

Kindness Makes for Service.

It was once commented upon by Joseph F. Smith that, wherever men are kindest to their animals, there do those animals give the best service to men. As example, the writer cited Holland and Denmark, where the utmost affection and care are bestowed upon the cows, which there give freely of their milk, and the dairying industry flourishes.

Hardener of Steel.

Molybdenite, chiefly found in Tasmania, is used for a variety of purposes, but its principal value is in the manufacture of steel, to which it gives a hardness and toughness that makes the steel suitable for use in propeller shafts, guns and boilers.

Reviving Picture Frames.

Often the gilding on picture frames that are otherwise good has become cracked or soiled. Buy a bottle of liquid gold and apply it to the frame. If large bits have chipped off, remove all before retouching, otherwise the renewed surface will be uneven.

Cooling Air in Mines.

To cool the air far under ground, and thereby permit the miners to work longer shifts, the owners of a European coal mine compress air at the surface of the ground and pipe it through the workings.

Telegraphing Pictures.

A French inventor's process for telegraphing pictures uses a system of hollows and reliefs, the passage of a stylus over which determines the intensity of the current transmitted.

No More Rudders.

A British patent has been granted for apparatus to steer vessels by pumping jets of water out of either side of the stern, thus doing away with rudders.

Use for Broken Glass.

There is a use even for broken glass. Some of it is ground into fine powderlike particles and used for various purposes. Some is melted and made into new glass objects.

Labor Saving.

A novel device which feeds tacks into position to be driven by a hammer is equipped with claws to draw carpet or anything that is to be fastened tight.

Possibly He Had.

A strange bequest was that of Jabez Hollister, an Englishman, who left a set of albatross toothpicks to his sons "in order that they might never have occasion to sit in a dentist's chair."

Daily Thought.

Applause is the spur of noble minds, the end and aim of weak ones.—C. C. Colton.

EVERYBODY SEES A CHANGE IN FATHER

Grateful Son Says His Father Looks Like a Different Man Since Taking Tanlac.

"My Father suffered from chronic stomach trouble for over twenty years and has paid out thousands of dollars for medicines and doctors," said G.W. Slayton, a well known Cobb County farmer, living a short distance out of Atlanta, Ga.

"We tried nearly everything, trying to cure him and he went off to the Springs, thinking maybe the water might help him but it just looked like nothing would reach his trouble. Then he tried dieting and lived on liquid food until he almost starved, but even that failed to do him any good and he just kept going from bad to worse.

"I don't guess there ever was a case as stubborn as his and if there ever was a confirmed dyspeptic, he was one of them and I guess he would have been one yet if it hadn't been for this Tanlac.

"The first we heard of this medicine was when my Father saw an advertisement in the papers from parties he knew in Tennessee, who were friends of his and he knew what they said about it was the truth so he got it right away and began taking it. Well, sir, it acted just like magic, everybody noticed the change in Father. Why, he is just like a different man and sits down to the table and eats like a farm-hand. Only yesterday he ate pork and turnips for his dinner and ate so much we were actually afraid he was going to over-do the thing but he laughed and said nothing hurt him now and that he was hungry and expected to eat and make up for lost time.

"Now, when medicine will do things like that I think people ought to know about it and I want to say right now that I would not give one bottle of Tanlac for all the other medicines and health resorts in the country put together."

It's the little things that seperate us from success—not the big ones. Insisting on every article, no matter how small, bearing the Made-in-B.C. brand, means the success of the Made-in-B.C. movement.

MADE-IN-B.C. GOODS WEEK

Many large orders for British Columbia lumber are being received from the United States at present. Whether this is due to the recent strikes it is difficult to say.

According to Mr. A. B. Buckworth, crops along the Pacific Great Eastern Railway "never looked better." There were 24,000 asessed acres of fine agricultural land in the Pemberton District alone and at Pemberton, he states he saw timothy waist high.

A thing done right today means less trouble tomorrow. If we all get behind local industry by insisting on the products grown or manufactured in B. C., the future of this province will have no trouble or worry for any of us.

The Sarnia hatchery this season sent 12,825,000 whitefish eggs for distribution in British Columbia waters, acocrding to a report from the Dominion Fisheries Branch.

Because a road is well beaten does not necessarily mean it is the best road to travel. The people of British Columbia have been in the habit of accepting the imported article in preference to the one produced by their own people. If they reverse this attitude they will bring properity to every man, Woman and child depending on local industry, and build up a greater province.

TOURIST SEASON IN FULL SWING

(By J. F. Spalding)

Every day brings an increase in the number of tourists visiting Fernie, the great majority of whom are from California points. On Tuesday evening there were five different parties in the camp grounds; four of these were from California. T. H. Williams of Alameda said that he knew of at least fifty people who intended coming this way this summer, and added that there was little doubt that there would be several hundred parties from there before the summer was over.

About six weeks ago I received a request from the California State Auto Association for 5000 maps of this section. It also contained the information that they were inundated with enquiries about South Eastern B.C. and that they expected that they would be placing that number of maps in the hands of people who were coming this summer.

This only goes to show that my contention all along that California would eventually be our best prospect is likely to be confirmed. The people there do not want to go to the coast; they have it at home. They want to get away from it and into the mountains, and there are no more beautiful mountains anywhere than we have right here and certainly no better roads. They can come up here one way and return another, giving them a wonderful round trip. Consequently the more we advertise this section the more will come.

Mr. Austin and party from Miami, Florida, were here on the 25th. They had been through Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Wyoming to here. He asked me to route him anywhere I thought he would like to go as he wanted to see as much of the mountains as possible, and had the whole summer to spend doing it. I routed him to Banff and Lake Louise, then Golden and down to Cranbrook and on to Nelson, all around the Okanagan to Ashcroft, and from there to Lillooet and Lytton, where he will ship his car to Agassiz and drive to Vancouver. They will then go over to the Island and do that, then drive all down the Pacific coast to San Diego, where they intend to stay the winter. By the time he has driven all that way he will know British Columbia pretty thoroughly, and when he gets back to Miami, if he is not a booster for B.C. then I miss my guess. He wrote in the remarks column of the register: "The scenery up here is very beautiful and excels anything we have seen."

R. A. Hill, from Berkeley, California, wrote: "The roads are very good and the scenery colossal, more than comparing with Lake Tahoe and the High Sierras."

A. H. Rowe, from Oakland, California, wrote: "Your scenery is awe inspiring, Nature's own, which cannot be beaten."

Dr. Pearson, of Carstairs, wrote: "Alberta should take a lesson from B.C. in road making."

Mrs. H. F. Durbin, from Milwaukee, wrote: "This route through the Crow's Nest should be advertised."

The Made-in-B.C. movement is part of the Made-in-Canada and Trade with the Empire movements. Boosting British Columbia industry by purchasing B. C. made goods helps to build up a greater province, a greater Canada, and a greater Empire.

British Columians are proud of their province and believe in its future. They believe in it for their children and their children's children; but only by building up British Columbia industries can they guarantee its future.

TRAVEL TO THE UNITED STATES

So many cases of confusion arise as to the boarder requirements that the American Consul at Fernie has thought best to issue a statement covering the leading provisions governing admission to the United States

(1). Citizens of Canada, or British Subjects domiciled therein (but not merely passing through in transit), are not required to present passports, identity cards, permits or similar documents in entering the United States directly from Canada.

(2). Aliens of any nationality, who are regularly domiciled in the United States, but who have proceeded to Canada and return directly therefrom to the United States within six months of their departure also require no passports.

(3). With certain exceptions, all others not citizens of the United States require visaed passports to enable them to enter the United States. Thus it may be said that those who should bear passports from their governments embrace two classes: (a), Aliens not of British Nationality, whether domiciled in Canada or merely passing through the Dominion in transit. and, (b) British Subjects who are merely passing in transit. Such persons can enter the United States only upon a passport which must have been visaed by an American Consular officer before presentation at the Boarder. Any person of these latter clases contemplating a visit to the United States should first communicate with the American Consul of the district wherein they reside. In this connection it may be stated that the Fernie Consular district includes the following territory:

All Kootenay, a strip of Alberta, from the Crow's Nest Pass east to far as Pincher Creek; and, Similkameen as far West as Carmi and Bridesville.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE

On Tuesday the Bishop of Kootenty conducted a confirmation service in Christ Church. The Bishop in his address drew attention to the upheaval caused in great part by the world war. He said that the problems before the statesmen of Europe were so appalling in complexity as to baffle human reason.

Bishop Doull claimed that the only cure to the ills of humanity lay in a recognition of Jesus Christ, who alone holds the key to the solution of all our problems—social, economic, religious.

Addressing the confirmees, the Bishop urged them to cherish the gift of the Holy Ghost by diligent use of the means of grace, viz., Prayer, Bible study and Holy Communion.

In a time of widespread neglect of public worship, the Bishop urged the congregation not to neglect the assembling of themselves together and so to strengthen the fellowship idea of the Church.

After the service a pleasant hour of social intercourse was held at the Rectory.

The Bishop's visit has been a dynamic to many for which we thank God and take courage.

The confirmees will make their first Communion on Sunday at 11 a.m.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION

The Dominion Day celebration this year, although handicapped by disagreeable weather, was a financial success, and regardless of the slight discomfort to which those participating in and turning out for, might have been subjected, the ultimate object of further increasing the Children's Permanent Recreation Fund was achieved. The committee has not been able to bring down the final report which will show the net amount realized, but this is conservatively estimated at about $1500. A detailed statement will be published in a later issue.

On this occasion it was very gratifying to note that while we only in a very limited manner advertised the celebration in the neighborhood of this district, an exceptionally large turn-out of visitors from these places came here. They came from everywhere within a radius of a hundred miles. Cranbrook sent a goodly number and these were augmented by those from Wardner, Bull River, Jaffray, Waldo, Baynes, Newgate, Elko and other Canadian points. From Eureka and other adjacent Montana points several automobile parties came, while the G.N. passenger conveyed many American cousins on pleasure bent.

The festivities were opened by a big parade, which probably for size compared favorably with those of other years. Fairly substantial prizes were offered for best decorated trucks, automobiles, bicycles and similar turnouts, but even these apparently were not sought for to the extent as in years gone by. There was not the brilliant display of vehicles in gala attire one would expect on an occasion of this kind. The outstanding feature was the appearance of the Boy Scouts. They made an impressive display of what can be accomplished in a short time. It is only eight months ago since this movement was reorganized here and the lads merit the highest praise for their ability to respond to this useful mode of training, carried out under the direction of G. C. Evans, scoutmaster and officers. The Old Timers Association made its first public appearance, and while the parade judges considered their appearance warranted the inflicting of a penalty upon the organization, this could not be due by any stretch of imagination to any other cause than that of jealousy that these old stagers could have pioneered hereabouts 22 years ago and defy the decaying breath of time by their youthful appearance at this stage. The school children turned out en masse and certainly added to the attractiveness of the parade. Music was furnished by the G.W.V.A. band, the Salvation Army band and the Pipers, all of which contributed generously to enliven the spectacle.

Apart from the children's sports and other racing events, baseball and football were the chief attractions. The crowning event of the day, according to the enthusiasm displayed by the spectators, was the baseball game between the Boy Scouts and the Y.M.C.A. youths from Cranbrook. Without regard to the respective ages of the members of these teams, in size the comparison of the individual members seemed ridiculous. But what the Scouts lacked in size they certainly showed from the outset that they equalized in speed and savvy. The brand of ball put up by these youngsters was by far the best demontstration of the game put up during the day. They were there in every department of the game, fielding the ball without a "bobble," throwing it with the accuracy of seasoned players, hammering it out with confidence, and when on bases were as nimble as antelopes. Both teams played well but by playing a little better cass of ball the local lads won out 2 to 1.

The Fernie senior baseball nine fell down very badly in their game against the White Spruce aggregation. They played a far inferior game of ball than they usually do. Some of the enthusiastic supporters of the Boy Scouts team suggested that the wrong team represented the city in the senior tournament. This may be so, but the Fernie team feel confident they will regain their lost laurels before the end of the season. Despite the unnecessary delay in getting the final baseball game started between Waldo and White Spruce, it certainly was a spectacular game when it did get away and aroused the fans to exert sufficient energy to forget the cold air. Waldo was the favorite before the game opened but there were several small wagers made on the outcome. The game stood 9 all at the end of the nine innings and was then called on account of darkness. A division of the prize money has not been made so we may have a play-off game here to decide the matter.

Michel and Fernie entered teams for the senior football and this resulting in a tie the prize money was split equally.

The following are the prize win-

CALGARY S. A. BAND COMING

The Calgary Salvation Army Silver Band, who are making a tour through to the Pacific Coast, visiting enroute, Okotoks, Coleman, Blairmore, Bellevue, Fernie, Cranbrook, Nelson, Kootenay Landing, Vancouver, Victoria, Kamloops, Revelstoke and Golden will be in Fernie on Monday July 18th.

The band has long been recognized as one of the best Salvation Army Bands in the Dominion. It is attached to the Calgary No. 1 Corps, and has done splendid service in that city for over twenty years.

Like all other Army Bands, the Calgary Silver Band consists of working men, none of whom receive any remuneration for their services but rather contribute to the upkeep of the band.

In every case the musical performances of the Band have received high appreciation in the public press, and from many leading musicians, whilst the earnestness and sincerity characterizing the spirutal and community work of the bandsmen have been no less encouraging to Salvationists and Christians generally.

The band numbers 35 pieces, the music is composed and arranged by the Salvation Army Musical Department, London, Eng., the instruments are the property of the Calgary No. 1 Corps.

During the past months, the band have spent a great deal of time playing at the various hospitals, in and around Calgary.

The present tour is the most ambitious journey the band has ever undertaken, although at various times the band has visited other parts of Alberta, and met with great success, both musically and spiritually.

Further announcement will be made through the press, and the Salvation Army Headquarters at Fernie.

W. C. F. A. CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Western Canadian Firebosses' Association was held in Hawthorne Hall, Fernie, B.C., on Friday July 1st, 1921.

The President of the District being absent on account of being on a vacation, W. Stockwell, Sec., Sub.-Dist. No. 1, was appointed chairman with Secretary F. Lote, Hillcrest, as Secretary of the convention.

The following committees were appointed: Resolution Committee; A. Frew, G. Bambrough, E. H. Ward. Grievance Committee; J. T. Griffiths, Dunlop, Brown.

Auditors reports accepted on accounts of Secretary and Treasurer, a vote of thanks was passed on the able manner in which the books had been kept.

Secretary's Report (itemized) for the year was received very satisfactory and a vote of thanks with confidance was passed.

R. Holmes, the President being unable to attend, his address to the delegates, which had been sent to the Convention was read by the Chairman.

The Constitution was then discussed, clause by clause, which took up considerable time. Article 1. Section 3 was amended to read "It shall be open to all persons holding a First, Second or Third Class Certificate." Section 5 "Head office to be held at Fernie instead of Hillcrest, but all correspondence will have to be sent to F. Lote, Hillcrest, who is still District Secretary of the Western Canadian Firebosses' Association. All other clauses in the Constitution, being very satisfactory, to stand as they are.

The District Secretary reported on the work of the past year and the great results that had been obtained in regard to the increase of membership in the face of the unemployment in the different mines. He also reported on the reduction of wages that has taken place at some of the mines and that by instructions of the executive he has asked the managements at these mines for a reconsideration, pointing out the injustice of so doing when the price of coal is based on the cost of production.

PROSECUTION WITHDRAWN

In the police court Thursday morning before Magistrate Whimster the two charges against the Great War Veterans Association of Canada, Fernie Branch, for keeping liquor for sale and selling liquar were withdrawn by A. I. Fisher, counsel for the prosecution. Absolutely no reasons for the withdrawal of these charges were offered by the Crown, but this surprising turn in the case indicates it was believed sufficient grounds existed which precluded the successful prosecution of the matter to sustain a conviction before the higher courts. The question of the return of the 32 gallons, presumably beer, seized on June 18, when the initial offences were committed, was deferred. The defence applied for delivery back to the club, but the prosecution argued under Section 68 of the Government Liquor Act, that they still retain the right to confiscate any liquor seized regardless of the disposition of the case. This point remains undecided. The charge against Geo. Bowen, bartender at the G. W. V. A. club, when the second raid was made upon these premises on June 25, was further remanded for one week on application of defence to obtain additional information from Ottawa, which is claimed to be very essential for the proper contesting of the charge. Bowen is personally charged with selling liquor, although he is regularly employed as steward for the G.W.V.A. club. On this occasion the police seized six kegs, the contents of which, according to statements given out by members of the club, were water. Samples were submitted to the provincial analyst and the report of the tests made is that the liquor is four per cent alcoholic strength by weight.

THE SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA CONCERT

The Fernie Symphony Orchestra, assisted by some prominent local talent, gave a concert on July 1, under the auspices of the City Library committee. There was not a full house but those whose privilege it was to be present certainly had an enjoyable musical evening. Those taking part were: Mrs. Hooker, who sang The Flight of Ages and Sunshine of Your Smile in a pleasing manner and being recalled sang Until as an encore. Thos. Biggs was in good voice singing The Leighthouse Bell, while Sam Evans' singing of Nirdance was very creditable. Messrs. Evans and Biggs sang the duet, Watchman What of the Night very well. The male voice quartette consisting of Messrs. Evans, Colclough, Biggs and Duncan, sang Pickaninny Lullaby and Annie Laurie in good style. Just at the interval Miss Marsh brought down the house with her Hornpipe Dance, and had to repeat it. The vocal part of the program was certainly ahead of the usual concert platform in this district.

The orchestral numbers were a surprise to the audience. The first number, Gloria from Mozart's 12th Mass, was well rendered, but the instrumentalists might have been more firm in their tone, especially the strings. The Romance from Haydn's Queen of France Symphony was played in good rhythm, with good color tone, which it certainly calls for. The Bobero, a composition of R. M. Price, which calls for a lot of care, was well played. The playing of the Tannhauser March was done with a brightness and vivacity which was indeed good. Moonlight in Venice, the first portion a duet for two cornets, the second a bass solo, were well taken with orchestral acompaniments. The Ciribribin Waltz was played very acceptably. The final number, consisting of Scotch Songs and dances arranged for orchestra, found much favor with those present. Mr. Erickson, the pianist, fulfilled his duties well.

W. R. Wilson is what you may call an ideal chairman, his witticisms and terse remarks being very timely. Altogether the effort from a musical point of view was distinctly creditable to the performers and showed much care and study had been taken in the preparation of the program, and it is to be hoped we shall hear further from them in future.

CAMP SITE DRAWING CARD

(By J. F. Spalding)

A considerable portion of my last week's contribution was deleted for want of space, but the editor told me that it would be in this week's issue. In case it is not, however, I am going to repeat some of it here, and that is: I would like to have the clerks in all the stores to make a point of asking the tourists who make purchases from them, if they have called at the Information Bureau, and if they say they have not, to ask them if they will do so, and also tell them that they can get the most reliable road information to be got at this office. The only possible way in which to keep track of the tourist business coming to the town is by having them register, but at the present time I do not suppose that five per cent of them are doing so. I do know that during the time the banner was stretched across the street considerably more called than do now, yet more are going through than were then.

There has hardly been a night since the camp site was ready for occupancy that there has been less than six or seven car loads there. I was told that there were 61 people spent the night there on Wednesday. These campers are all very loud in their praise of the site, its conveniences and arrangements and especially for the beauty of its surroundings. They will spread the word east and west and more and more of them will make for Fernie. If they can be induced to visit this office and I can get them to stay a day or two with us, it will mean a very considerable amount of money will be left in the town. It is all additional revenue, brought at very little expense, and there is hardly a store in town that will fail to reap benefit from it. So if you will all make a point of calling attention of these tourists to this office, you will be helping very materially to increase this business. It would also be a good idea if those who do not yet know where the site is, would familiarize themselves with its location so as to be able to tell tourists where it is. It was only yesterday that a tourist told me that he asked where there was a camp site and was directed to go west about two miles. He told me who had told him this and it turned out to be somebody directly connected with a garage here. I went to see him about it, and he said that he did not know we had a camp site here.

OLD TIMERS' OFFICERS

There were fifty-two members of the Fernie District Old Timers Association present at the annual meeting last Thursday evening. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. President—H. J. Johnson.
President—Dr. Bonnell, M.P.
Vice-President—Arthur Fenwick.
Vice-President—Aubrey Snow.
Vice-President—T. Labelle.
Chaplain—A. C. Liphardt.
Physician—Dr. Corsan.
Sec.-Treas.—J. A. McLean.

While engineers in charge of the work of construction of the proposed new ferries for North Vancouver are understood to have favored American-made boilers, the committee of Employment of the G.W.V.A. has requested the Council to consider the use of British Columbia boilers. The committee points out that the product of this province is just as good, and that the sentiment of the people at this time is strongly in favor of Made-in-B.C. goods.

OWNED THE PREMIER SITE

One of the men who originally owned the claims upon which the Premier mine is today giving up enormous wealth, near Stewart, B. C., Charles Bunting, was in the city recently.

Enthusiasm over the prospects of the Premier was an outstanding feature of a conversation which he had with a Colonist representative at the Westholme Hotel. He produced a huge sample of the ore taken from the property, and stated that the silver in it would be worth between $50 and $75. The sample has cracked in one spot, and Charlie has had it bound with silver wire.

Although not now financially interested in the Premier, Charles takes a great interest in its development, and still has his log cabin close to it.

Charlie, his brother William, and "Scotty" Dilworth, formed a partnership as prospectors after Charlie had been blacklisted in the metalliferous camps of British Columbia for his labor activities. In the valley of the Salmon River, near Stewart, in 1910, William Bunting and Dilworth staked claims that have become famous in mining history. Charlie was not with them at the time, but he became one of the owners, and was "business manager" for the partners. Today there are mining men who say that the Premier has greater potentialities than any similar property on the continent. Charlie Bunting stated that it has already broken all records for output in proportion to the amount of development work done.

The Premier, the claims for which were staked in 1910, was first worked by a British Columbia stock company in the following year. The development was confined at that time to the galena showings, with fair results. Then W. J. Rolph, representing a Canadian mining company, examined the property and put men to work on it. A high grade vein was traced for some hundreds of feet, and it was open cut along its length, high grade ore being found in each cut. At the beginning of the war the work was dropped, and the property was next bonded by a New York company. This concern spent nearly $100,000 in less than two years on the property, but the direction of the ore bodies was misjudged, and, geting little results, the company quit. R. K. Neil, of Spokane, W. R. Wilson, R. W. Wood and A B. Trites, of Fernie, bonded the property in 1916, and set to work there in the next year. They did not make the mistakes of their predecessors, and found they were within a few feet of ore at nearly every point. In 1919 the Guggenheim interests took over the control of the mine, and have been developing it ever since. During the past winter it is stated that no less than $1,500,000 in ore was hauled over the snow for shipment to Tacoma. The aerial tram from the mine to salt water at Hyder is just about completed, and from now on the flow of rich ore, much of it running $500 per ton, will be practically continuous.—Colonist.

THE PERMIT SYSTEM

Experience is proving that one thing operating against a greater business being conducted by the Liquor Control Board is found in the system of permits which obtains. There is a large element in the Province in favor of the Liquor Control Act, but opposed to the principle which makes it necessary for individuals to become licensed before they can exercise the right to purchase. The opposition to the licensing system is illustrated in the comparatively small number of yearly permits being taken out, while another reason why those who would otherwise have done so do not take out permits is because the Government is charging the full annual fee for a privilege which only extends over six months and a half. This is a short sighted policy which will lead to a loss of considerable revenue.

The temporary permit clause is not working satisfactorily. This limits the amount which may be purchased at any one time, whereas those who take out such permits are often leaving for holiday trips in the province to places where liquor is unobtainable. They fail to see why their privilege should be restricted. Temporary permits are, therefore, not at a premium, and we are inclined to the belief that because of the restrictions imposed the business carried on by the "bootlegger" still thrives, more especially because of prices charged by the Government stores. The Liquor Control Board has been very emphatic about its intentions of doing away with the "bootlegging" business, but the character of the Act, and, more particularly, the regulations under which it is operative, are of a nature which encourage the illicit sale of liquors, a practice which the Government will find it a very difficult matter to check. These are certain features of the Act which require amendment. A revision, or the elimination of the permit system, is a subject which has come within the realm of practical politics in view of the opposition to the principle, and the fact that already it has been found to provide no check whatever to the "bootlegging" business—Colonist.

Mr. William Turnbull, Provincial Lumber Commissioner with headquarters at Victoria, wil leave shortly for London and Egypt, where, it is said, there is a large market for Canadian timber. While away he will study general market conditions, principally in the interests of the lumber industry here.

DEMAND FOR TANLAC BREAKS ALL RECORDS

Amazing Success Achieved by Celebrated Medicine Not Only Phenominal, But Unprecedented—Over 20,000,000 Bottles Sold in Six Years — Foreign Countries Clamor For It.

Never before, perhaps, in the history of the drug trade has the demand for a proprietary medicine ever approached the wonderful record that is now being made by Tanlac, the celebrated medicine which has been accomplishing such remarkable results throughout this country and Canada. As a matter of fact, the success achieved by this medicine is not only phenominal, but unprecedented.

The first bottle of Tanlac to reach the public was sold just a little over six years ago. Its success was immediate and people everywhere were quick to recognize it as a medicine of extraordinary merit. Since that time there have been sold throughout this country and Canada something over Twenty Million (20,000,000) bottles, establishing a record which has probably never been equalled in the history of the drug trade in America.

Fame Is International

The instant and phenominal success which Tanlac won when it was first introduced has been extended to practically every large city, small town, village and hamlet in North America. Its fame has become international in its scope and England, Japan, Mexico, Cuba, Hawaii, Alaska, Porto Rico and many European countries are clamoring for it.

From coast to coast and from the Great Lakes, Tanlac is known and honored. Millions have taken it with the most gratifying and astonishing results and have pronounced it the greatest medicine of all times.

Tens of thousands of men and women of all ages in all walks of life, afflicted with stomach, liver and kidney disorders, some of them of long standing, as well as thousands of weak, thin, nervous men and women apparently on the verge of collapse, have testified that they have been fully restored to their normal weight, health and strength by its use.

Restored To Health.

Still others, who seemed fairly well, yet who suffered with indigestion, headaches shortness of breath, dizzy spells, sour, gassy stomachs, coated tongues, foulness of breath, constipation, bad complexion, loss of appetite, dejected, depressed feelings, state that they have been entirely relieved of these distressing symptoms and restored to health and happiness by the use of Tanlac.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

To win a $50 baseball prize; 2nd prizes in First Aid Competitions at Michel and Blairmore; 1st prize in the July 1st Parade for the best representitive turnout, is the record established by the Boy Scouts of the 4th Fernie Troop in the period between June 25th and July 2nd.

June 30th saw the close af the Boy Scout year, and, while the Scouts of Fernie have only been organized 8 months, it might be interesting to see what has been accomplished thus far.

At the present time there are 54 active members, one Scoutmaster and 3 Assistant Scoutmasters, as well as several volunteer instructors in the various branches of Scout activities.

One Scout, Stewart McPhee, deserves to have his name mentioned, he has reached the rank of "All round Scout," as well as holding a number of proficiency badges.

59 Proficiency Badges are held in the troop and 34 boys have qualified for their 2nd class rank. While this showing has only been made possible by close attention and diligent study and work, outdoor sports and exercises have not been forgotten, and a first class baseball team has been organized which is composed of bona-fide Boy Scouts.

In three more days 54 Boy Scouts with their officers expect to be under canvas at their Annual Summer Camp. This will mean a glorious two weeks for the boys in pursuit of healthy and clean activities—activities which appeal to every true boy—the boy who has prepared himself to take his share of the community's work and play, in other words, the boy who knows he's alive and is thankful for it, and of such is the 4th Fernie composed.

SCOUT NOTES

On Monday July 11th, the Boy Scouts Annual Summer Camp will open at Morrissey. 54 Scouts and their Officers will camp out for two weeks.

Wednesday July 20th is visitors' day at the camp and all parents and friends are cordially invited to come out on that day and see what the boys are doing.

Will all persons owning autos and who are willing to run a load of the Scouts out to the camp at Morrissey, on Monday July 11th, get in touch with the Scoutmaster, Geo. C. Evans or Mr. J. L. Donaldson.

HOME BANK OF CANADA HAS RECORD YEAR

President H. J. Daly Sees No Cause For Alarm.

Summary of business conditions, the effect of the war on Canadian industries, and an optimistic view of what we may expect in the future were the keynotes of the addresses of the President and General Manager presented to the Shareholders at the annual meeting of the Home Bank of Canada. The financial report was the best in the history of the bank, and showed the year ending May 31st, 1921, to have been a record one for profits.

Speaking of business conditions, President H. J. Daly said, "there is no occasion for misgivings or discouragement as long as we thoroughly understand our position and appreciate the requirements we are under with regard to living economically applying our means and energies towards the development within Canada. There is every prospect that we will not be outdistanced by any other nation in the advance towards economic readjustment.

"The readjustment pains are severe but not nearly so severe in this country as in other countries participating in the war, due to the fact that this is a younger country in comparison with European countries, and also that it is comparatively undeveloped.

"Our people are dissatisfied in that they are ambitious for improvement and eager for the fruits which the future holds in store. They are also sane and contented in that they realize we are a nation of working people living in a land replete with possibilities. Production is the keynote of readjustment and labor is the basis of production, therefore, we may rejoice in possessing generally speaking, a labor body, who recognize the possibilities for natural betterment, and improvement and are capable of appreciating that the realization of these are dependent upon the concerted effort of all classes."

Colonel J. Cooper Mason, General Manager, in referring to the Bank's position said, "We stand between the cautious policy of limiting loans to the more substantial forms of security and the duty of carrying on the service of banking to prevent the stagnation of business." Explaining the progress of Inflation and deflation he said, "When the war fortunately ceased, a heavy purchasing influence was withdrawn from the market and all the facilities which had been erected to supply that urgent demand became non-productive, with the consequent unemployment. In the business sense, if we may view war as having any creative force in business, the termination of the war meant the closing of a vast market for export, leaving Canada and other nations that had 'speeded up' in industrial and agricultural production, with an accumulation of raw materials, finished supplies and equipment more than was required for the needs of the ordinary market in times of peace."

WONDERFUL TRIBUTES TO HEINTZMAN & CO.'S SKILL

The following letters were received from our head office this week:

Toronto, June 29th, 1921.

Heintzmen & Co., Ltd.,
Lethbridge, Alta.

Gentlemen:—

We have just received an order through Messrs. C. W. Lindsay, Limited, of Montreal, for "nine" HEINTZMAN & CO. PIANOS for the C.P.R. EMPRESS STEAMERS plying between Montreal and Liverpool on the Atlantic service, as follows:

3 Classic Pianos on the "Empress of Canada."
1 Style D. Grand and 1 Classic on the "Montcalm."
1 D. Grand and 1 Classic on the "Montclaire."
1 D. Grand and 1 Classic Oak for the "Montrose."
Nine Pianos in all.

This is a further testimonial to the standing of THE HEINTZMAN & COMPANY PIANO, both Grand and Upright, as these large steamers plying between America and Europe have heretofore always had either pianos made in Europe or American pianos. A large corporation like the C.P.R. go into the matter very thoroughly in making a selection of instruments and have their musical experts test the various pianos thoroughly, and their decision in our favor is a high tribute to the tone qualities and construction of THE HEINTZMAN & COMPANY "Upright" and "Grand Piano."

Yours truly,
HEINTZMAN & CO., LIMITED

Toronto, June 29th, 1921.

Gentlemen:—

We have just received the following telegram from Walter F. Evans Company, Limited, HEINTZMAN & COMPANY representatives at Vancouver:

"I have just sold MADAME NELLIE MELBA Style E. Grand to be shipped to her private home in AUSTRALIA and will be placed in her own special boudoir studio. This, we think, is a very gratifying tribute to the HEINTZMAN AND COMPANY PIANO, more particularly as she has purchased it for her own personal use and will be constantly used by her." MADAME MELBA, as you are aware, is the "Premier Prima Donna" and with her wonderful voice has charmed the musical people and crowned heads of the whole world, and this purchase of a HEINTZMAN & COMPANY Grand for her own music room in her Australian home is a tribute of which we are very proud.

We might state that we have also received an order from MADAME LOUISA TETRAZZINI for a Style G Semi Grand to be made specially for her and shipped this fall for her music room in her castle in ROME, ITALY. This piano will be made in "Queen Anne" style and the finish will be "white enamel" with the carvings picked out in GOLD. We have the privilege of displaying this piano at the TORONTO EXHIBITION, after which it will be shipped to ROME.

The selection of the HEINTZMAN & COMPANY Grand Piano by two such world wide artists as MADAME TETRAZZINI and MADAME MELBA is a wonderful endorsation of the quality of tone in the HEINTZMAN & CO. GRAND.

Yours truly,
HEINTZMAN & CO., LIMITED

Owing to the enormous success of our previous puzzle advertisement, which gained for us hundreds of new clients, who, being so pleased with their free watch, that they are now our permanant customers, we have decided to further advertise and gain recognition in 1000 new homes, by giving away another 1000 valuable watches, to those who are clever enough to fill in the missing letters in the following phrase.

T-ES- W--CH-S A-E F-L-Y G--R-NT-ED

By correctly filling in the missing letters, you can obtain absolutely free a watch, that will equal for time any solid gold watch made, which is sufficiently proven by the large number of testimonials that we have received. Solve this puzzle correctly and comply with our simple condition of which we will write when we inform you if your reply is correct, write clearly, your name and complete address, so that we may without delay inform you of your success.

COMMUNICATION

Dear Editor—Kindly give me space in the Free Press to express my views re the election of officers for the next term in District 18.

In days gone by we have had quite a deal of unnecessary trouble which I am afaraid has not gained the worker anything or has it been for his welfare, and which I am afraid has not gained the worker the respect of the public. One of the main reasons for this has been the petty desires of certain individuals who, to serve their own purposes, which are despicable, and to advance their own interests and desires, have had a too willing following of the radical element. So I think the time is now for the worker to act in order that peace shall prevail in District 18 the next term.

The nomination for District Secretary is an important one and I am satisfied that the men's choice in the person of Mr. Hunter will be justified and I am sure will tend to lead to above conditions as he has the good will of the better class of worker. He has also the respect of the employer; and in the meetings which will be held in the future I think he will be listened to with respect, and with regard to other qualities his standing as a citizen is above reproach and no one can accuse him of the little mean petty desires to place self first.

Announcement

On Saturday, July 2nd, we were obliged to close down our plant indefinitely. The duration of this suspension of local industry may be temporary or it may be permanent. It is almost entirely dependent upon the will of the general freedom loving public of this city and district, whether they will humbly submit to this divestment of their liberties by forces in the process of organization to effect a combine to control the manufacture of brewed beverages in this district.

The ambition promoting a combine is monopoly for unscrupulous gain. There are abundant reasons why you should not tolerate this attempt to impair your thrift and prosperity.

Because—

The Fernie-Fort Steele Brewing Company, Limited, is not directly or indirectly responsible for the closing down of its plant.

Because—

We decline to condone to the coercive measures imposed we are purposely being falsely placed in the public eye as the responsible party. We are being discriminated against and the public of this entire locality are being wilfully victimized in order that this discrimination may be effectively practised.

Because—

The success of any centre of population is measured by the progressiveness, public-spiritedness and co-ordination of utilitarian ideals of its inhabitants. Fernie cannot afford to lose any industrial enterprise much less suffer the interruption of one long established and one annually contributing $40,000.00 by pay-roll circulation to this city.

Because—

The stagnation of our industry reflects depression in other branches of local trade, and it introduces, even though it be in a small way, the grim spectre of unemployment.

Because—

We have always upheld the principles of organized labor, granting our employees the right of the "closed shop" and paying the highest schedule of wages under our industrial classification. Had we retracted from our position and accepted the dictates of the combine arrayed against us we would be forced to abrogate our wage contracts and ask the workers to accept a reduction, thereby reducing their standard of living. The working men of this district have been our source of existence to this time. By their skilled hands we have been able to manufacture products of the highest quality and through them we dispose of the major portion of our output. Consequently 2000 barrels await disposal pending the decision of the Board to meet us on a fifty-fifty basis.

Because—

In so far as our products enter into the cost of living of the public in general under the existing method they alone are paying the excessive cost and subjected to added inconveniences attendant upon the condition invoked by the combine. They are actually enhancing their profits solely at your expense.

Because—

The people of this community are being denied the privilege of obtaining a local product to which they have been long accustomed. A beverage of superb quality, excelled by none for its exhilarating and satisfying properties. We are able to supply this renowned beverage in any quantity once the Board decides to lift the boycott.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Sherwood Herchmer and A. Watson expect to motor to the coast shortly.

The jail was full of drunks on Saturday night. They all had government permits.

Fred Waters, of Seattle, is in the city spending a few days with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Wilson left this morning on a motor trip to Calgary.

On Monday night the Tri--Wood baseball team meets the North End aggregation at Victoria Park.

A meeting of the executive of the Golf Club will be held in Herchmer & Mitchell's office at 8.30 this evening.

Mrs. Arthur Muirhead, who has been visiting her parents here, returned to her home in Kamloops today.

Mrs. A. W. Greenwood and family, accompanied by Miss Lindnark, have gone to spend the summer camping at Jaffray.

The Kootenay Telephone Lines, Ltd. will issue a new directory about July 15th. Fifteen hundred copies will be printed this issue.

The Ladies Aid of Olivet Baptist Church will hold an Ice Cream Social on Tuesday, July 19, in the basement hall, at 8 p.m. Admission 25c.

Part of the clothing off the body of Jack Hewitt was found in the river the other day, but no trace of the body has yet been found.

Joseph Erlington, a man who recently arrived in Fernie from the old country, was badly injured by a fall of coal at the mines today. He is in the Fernie hospital.

Dr. Pickering left on Wednesday for Vancouver, where he will spend a few weeks holidays. During his stay he will take a post graduate course in dentistry.

The latest news from Corbin is to the effect that the government has let the contract for the painting of the stakes for the proposed wagon road into that town.

The regular monthly tea of the Ladies Guild of Christ Church will be held at the hame of Mrs. Sheffield, Pellatt Avenue, on Wednesday, July 13, from 3.30 to 6 p.m.

Fernie fight fans took a keen intrest in the Dempsey-Carpentier affair on Saturday last and considerable money changed hands. Billy Ingram received the fight returns at his place of business and the large crowds present showed the keen interest in the affair.

Mrs. R. D. Scott, of Vancouver, visited the Local Council of Women, and gave a very comprehensive report of the National Council meeting at Calagry. A large number turned out to hear Mrs. Scott, who is National Vice-President for British Columbia.

In the list of the High School promotions as published in our last issue the name of Miss Mollie Henderson appeared as being promoted conditionally. This was incorrect; Miss Henderson wrote on the government examinations and the results have not yet been published.

Alexander Faulds, aged 70, of Vancouver, prominent mining engineer, who in 1905 investigated the Fernie explosion for the Dominion government, was drowned in Stanley Park reservoir on July 4. It is believed he waded into the water, became dizzy and toppled over. He was at one time provincial inspector of mines.

The members of the Women's Missionary Society and others interested in missionary work will be pleased to learn that Miss Jack, a missionary home on furlough from West China, will be in Fernie on Monday, July 11, and will speak at the home of Mrs. McVannell at 8 p.m. Miss Jack has been well received througout the Okanagan and Kamloops and her lecture should prove of particular interest.

Now that the hot weather is upon us, street sprinkling is just about the most important work that the city has on its hands. Hitherto the sprinkling has apparently been done when the team had no other work to do. Instead of starting at 10 a.m. the cart should be busy about three hours before that time and kept going all day. Thousands of dollars worth of goods are destroyed every month in this town through inefficient street sprinkling.

WHITE STAR YEAST CAKES

D. R. Macdonald, of Corbin, is in town today.

Two city prisoners escaped from the local chain gang this morning and have not been seen since.

The W. A. of the G.W.V.A. will hold their monthly meeting in the G.W.V.A. rooms on Tuesday, July 12, at 8 p.m.

The only effect the government control has had so far in Fernie is to try to put the local brewery out of business for the benefit of the big coast breweries.

Joe Austin returned on Sunday from Vancouver, where he attended the Grand Lodge of the Masonic order. His family, who accompanied him to the coast, will remain there for a few weeks holidays.

Mrs. Corning, sister of Mrs. G. G. Moffatt, returned from a trip to Europe this week. Mrs. R. W. Wood, who was also a European visitor, returned to Canada on the same boat, but is visiting a few weeks in the east before returning to Fernie.

Chas. Klingensmith was in the city yesterday getting a government permit. He wanted to buy a barrel of beer, but the sample bottle of Vancouver beer he examined was so dirty that he decided to use Johnny Walker instead.

The Veterans Club is getting in beer from Lethbridge every day. All the other clubs will quickly follow suit and it will only be a short time till the government control will have their hands full trying to do business. Booze can be imported cheaper and in greater variety than can be purchased from the government stocks.

HAVE YOU EVER?

(By Orville Leonard, fire ranger)

Have you ever seen the smoke clouds from a forest fire burning?
Have you ever lived for hours in that crackling bright inferno?
Have you had your shoe soles burned off in the feathery floor of ashes?
Have you seen men shouting wildly though you could not hear their voices
For the roar and hiss of leaping flames, the howl of winds engendered?
Have you ever met a settler driven from his fired homestead
While years of labor on his fields were wiped out in an hour?
Have you ever seen a country where the furred and feathered wild things
Lie scattered in the debris of their desolated mansions?
Have you ever seen a woodland when the fire fiend has finished
The blackened stumps of noble trees, the rich soil stripped and barren?
If you have, friend reader, you'll see that your camp fire is put DEAD OUT and you'll look where you throw your cigarette.

Joseph Beaudoin, one of the earliest settlers in the Nechako Valley, has commenced cutting a large acreage of fall rye already, and expects to average at least three and a half tons to the acre this year. He also expects a second crop.

Work on the reconstruction of the concentrator and mill at Britannia Beach will commence at an early date, it is understood. It is anticipated that it will take about twelve months for the installation of the necessary machinery, and that an expenditure of $1,000,000 will be involved.

BASEBALL

JULY 1ST GAMES

WHITE SPRUCE vs. FERNIE

In the July 1st Baseball Tournament, Waldo drew the bye, necessitating White Spruce and Fernie playing off in the elimination game in the morning.

The W.S. nine handed Fernie one of the worst defeats suffered this year, decisively winning their game, and the right to meet Waldo for the 1st prize, by the score of 14 to 7.

The Sprucers spruced up in their playing and started the scoring early in the game, and were never overtaken. Fernie rallied several times but not sufficient enough to do any more than cut down the big lead against them.

Rush Adamson handled the indicator and credit is due him for the able manner in which he performed his duty.

BOY SCOUTS WIN

The Fernie Boy Scout baseball team revenged their defeat by the Cranbrook Y.M.C.A. at Cranbrook on May 24 by defeating the same team here on July 1 by a score of 2 to 1.

The game put up by the boys surprised the large number of fans who witnessed the game, which has been classed as the best game played here on July 1. The Cranbrook boys had a great advantage in age and weight, the Scouts looking like midgets along side of them, but they soon demonstrated that both sides were pretty evenly matched when it came to playing ball. The Scouts took the lead in the third innings and held it until the fifth, when Cranbrook notched a run, tying the score. The Scouts came back in the 6th with another run and held the Cranbrook boys hitless and scoreless until the end of the game.

WALDO vs. WHITE SPRUCE

The game in the evening between Waldo and White Spruce was more keenly contested. Supporters of both teams giving way to their enthusiasm several times even to hindering the progress of the game by going out on the diamond. Rush Adamson again officiated and so keen was the enthusiasm that several times his decisions were contested by both players and fans alike, and, each time, after necessary explanations, all returned to the lines, his decisions remaining unchanged. We may add that Rush had a critical job, but rendering decisions as he saw them and in accordance with the rules he was able to give the best of satisfaction.

Weather all day was not of the ball variety, and, although it rained a little during the evening game, no one deserted his post, but stayed with the game till the last. The game did not terminate, being called in the eighth after 2 hours and a half of play.

THE DEAD TELL TALES

So far as the medical profession is concerned, it is quite untrue to say that "dead men tell no tales."

When a person is found dead the position or attitude of the body may often throw a most important light on the mode of death. And it may answer the vital question: "Did the deceased die by his own act or by the act of another?"

As a general rule, after death the body, which first relaxes, passes into a state of rigidity and may stiffen into an attitude of attack or resistance; its members may retain in this state the position of the last act of will which they perform.

In cases of sudden and violent death it is by no means unusual to find the body or one or more of the limbs rigid and fixed. Razors and pistols are frequently found in the hands of suicides and these weapons are grasped under circumstances which would appear impossible were it not known that the death spasm may be retained for a considerable period.

In the case of Lord William Russell, who was murdered by Courvoisier in 1840, it was noticed that one hand of the murdered man firmly grasped the bed sheet, as if in a struggle against an assassin. The position of the hand very often furnishes some evidence against the presumption of suicide.

In cases of drowning, one frequently finds, on the removal of the body from the water, that pieces of rope, grass from the banks, or part of an oar firmly grasped in the hand. This is one of the strongest proofs known in medical jurisprudence that the individual has gone into the water alive.

Part of a garment may be found firmly clenched in the hand, and it may serve to identify the person subsequently accused of the murder.

I have already said that a weapon may be found in the hand of a person who has destroyed himself. This in itself confirms the presumption of suicide. It has been found that attempts to make the hand of a dead person grasp a weapon have signally failed.

In 1884 it came out in evidence at the trial of a man named Saville for the murder of his wife that she was found dead with a razor not grasped, but lying loosely in her hand.

There was no blood on the hand that held the razor, and that circumstance, together with the fact that it was held loosely, rendered it probable that the weapon had been placed there by some other person.

A dead hand may clasp some quite ordinary article. Years ago a woman was found killed in her house holding a small wooden snuff-box in her hand. This proved that she had been murdered suddenly and had offered no resistance.

Again, a dead person may be holding a handful of hair. This may be the hair of the accused, and here an important question of identity may be raised.

These are curious facts—and there are many others—which enable a dead body to "speak" to the skilled observer, and, although apparently trivial, they may decide the guilt or innocence of a person charged with murder.—Colonist.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE COMING TO THE ORPHEUM WEDNESDAY & THURSDAY

There are few stars whose life story is as well known as is that of Constance Talmadge, so great is the popular interest in this dainty commedienne, and yet, she never appears at the Orpheum theatre without the management being besieged for additional information on the part of new patrons. Therefore to satisfy this laudable interest in an authoritative way, there is here presented some authentic facts.

Miss Talmadge has golden hair and brown eyes. Her height is 5 feet, 5 inches. Her weight is 120 pounds. She was born in Brooklyn, N.Y., April 19, 1900 and educated at Erasmus Hall. Her first engagement was with the Vitagraph where her adaptability for the screen was early recognized. Her first appearance in a great picture was with the Triangle in "Intolerance." Later she made a distinct hit in the Selznick production of "Scandal" and the "Honeymoon." Then followed engagements with Select in "Up the Road With Sally," "A Pair of Blue Stockings," "Mrs. Leffingwells Boots," "Sauce for the Goose," and "Romance and Arabella."

But her best work has been pronounced by the critics to have been done for the Associated First National Pictures, Inc., where her clever playing in "A Temperamental Wife," "The Virtuous Vamp," "Two Weeks," "The Love Expert," "The Perfect Woman," "Good References" and in her latest screen offering "Dangerous Business" has won her an assured place in the affections of the patrons of the silver sheet.

In many respects she occupies a unique position among the leading actresses of the screen and she practically stands in a class of her own.

The apple crop in the Okanagan Valley this year will equal that of the record year, 1919, according to Mr. J. E. Reekie, leading fruitgrower of Kelowna.

Made-in-B.C. goods will be a feature of the Vancouver Exhibition this year, acording to Manager Rolston, who state that nearly all available space in the manufacturers' building has already been spoken for. "There will no doubt be a record showing of provincial goods," he said, "and much attention will be paid to the quality of goods displayed."

Success bring success. If the industries already located here prosper, others will come and more employment will be availabe for the workers of British Columbia. The "Made in B. C. IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of our dear husband and father, Frederick Roo, who passed away July 12, 1920.

Just one year has passed since our great sorrow fell,
But in our hearts we morun the loss of one we loved so well.
For many years our family chain was fondly linked together,
But, oh, the chain is broken now; one link is gone forever.
Do not ask us if we miss him, there is such a vancant place,
Oft we think we hear his footsteps or we see his smiling face.
Sleep on, dear father, and take thy rest;
They miss you most who loved you best.

KNOCKED FIRE DEPARTMENT

After a rest of three weeks the city council met last night. His Worship the Mayor was in the chair and Aldermen Corrie, Currie, Douglas, Irvine and Robichaud were present.

A communication was received from the Vancouver city council enclosing a resolution transmitted to Premier Meighen at London, Eng., that no renewal of the Anglo-Japanese treaty be made unless provision is contained that the Dominions have exclusive right to regulate immigration from Japan. The resolution was filed.

In connection with charges for the removal of garbage from business properties, these accounts were reconsidered and certain adjustments were made. The fee for this service on regular motion was reduced to $3.00 per load.

Some recommendations to be made at the annual convention of B. C. Municipalities were adopted. The question of the city sending a delegate to that convention was left over until next meeting.

A motion was passed, being a recommendation of the health committee, to establish a special health area to cover the north end section immediately adjoining the city limits.

A file of correspondence covering exchanges between the Department of Insurance, Secretary of the B. C. Underwriters' Association and the Mayor, was presented and read to the council. The subject matter of the initial communication from the coast indicated that some party had made a report to the underwriters reflecting on the efficiency of the Fire Department here, and from the very nature of the information supplied it is very evident that this attempt is naught but a malicious and false representation for selfish ends. An investigation is being made and developments will be announced later.

Tax Sale Property Sale By-Law was given three readings.

The By-law cited as the "Offensive Trades By-law" was submitted and will be finally adopted next meeting, when the text thereof will be published.

Further consideration was given the Fire Prevention By-law and this will be approved in the near future.

Adjournment was taken at 11 p.m.

TOURISTS LIKE CAMPING SITE

(by J. F. Spalding)

It takes all kinds of people to make a world; all have their opinions and it is the variation in these opinions, which, after being sifted, permits decisions of importance to be made. We have not had a camp site in Fernie until just lately on account of the many different views about it, which given voice to by various sections of our citizens. However, the Board of Trade with the co-operation of the City Council; and after enquiring from other places which had one, came to the conclusion that this town was losing considerable revenue through being without one.

A suitable site was secured through the co-operation of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., who have leased three acres to the Board of Trade for that purpose, and now Fernie has a camp site which is fast becoming known, and everybody who has stopped at it to date, have been loud in their praise of it.

I have been too busy to keep close track on the number who have stayed in it until the last few days. On Sunday night there were 8 parties; Monday night 7 parties; Tuesday 6 parties and on Wednesday 8 parties.

One party wrote in the register "Scenery wonderful and very much enjoyed, the action of the Fernie citizens in providing such excellent camping accommodations is very much appreciated. Your ideas are right." Another wrote, "Enjoyed camp here very much." another said, "Camping ground fine, the people were very good to us all the way, but were more so here, thanks." another party who had driven from Boston and camped every night for over a month said, "At this place we have had the best camping place yet, thanks."

These people will spread the word as they go along and it will not be long before we shall have them making for here in flocks, as there is little doubt that those who know of it, if they are within reasonable reach; are going to make for the town rather than camp outside in lonely places. One tourist told me yesterday that he was preparing to camp at Yahk, and just as he was going to put his tent, a rough looking hobo came up and asked him for money for a meal, he gave him 25c. and the fellow said "That's not enough, fork over four bits," he thought discretion was the better part of valor, and he did so, but packed up his tent again and hit for Cranbrook. Others have told me that they are nervous about camping in lonely places and always make for a town.

We thought that the four seperate plots we have prepared would be sufficient for this year, but find that it will not, so we are going to build two more fire-places right away. These will have to do us for the rest of the season, but next year quite a lot more work will have to be done, and places prepared for at least a dozen parties at one time.

A certain party in town tackled me this morning and said that the camp site was no use, in fact it was a deterrent to the town as it was keeping people away from the hotels and restaurants. Less than an hour later I was told that some of the hotels had been complaining about the same thing.

It is evident that these people have not given the matter very much thought, excepting from their own viewpoint; they should realize that there are other businesses in town as well as theirs, and that even if they did loose a little from it, the others will gain, from the fact that these tourists who stay over here must get their supplies from somewhere; it is an absolute impossibility for them to carry all they will need on an extended trip such as most of them are making. However, neither the hotels or restaurants do loose a cent through it. Many campers get here rather late and rather than get their own suppers go to the restaurants for it, I have seen them often. Then some who have been on the road any length of time, when they arrive at a town which looks good to them, will stay at a hotel for a change, therefore if more people are brought here on account of the site, the better chances of more business to the kickers. Eeven though this were not the case, and they did not get more business, it is certain they do not loose any, because a tourist camping, is out for camping and will not put up at hotels anyway, and will only get occasional meals at restaurants, and those not camping will not go to the camp site.

So there you are, look at both sides of the question and if you are fair minded, you will soon admit that the camp site is a very valuable adjunct.

CASES AT THE COUNTY COURT

The County Judge's criminal court this week, although it is only the commencement of the long legal vacation, was one of the heaviest for some time. In all seven cases came up, only four of which went to trial.

John Robertson, a lumberjack, was found guilty of having in his possession a suit of clothes, knowing the same to have been stolen. He was sentenced to six months in the Nelson gaol with hard labor. Robertson had been previously convicted under the Government Liquor Act for being drunk in a public place and was serving the minimum of two months in default of payment of a fine of $50. While engaged in some light work on the city streets with other prisoners on July 8, he and another prisoner, George Leeman, made use of the opportunity to escape. They departed about ten o'clock that morning and at 2 p.m. walked into the arms of a cordon of city and provincial police at Swinton, a station on the G. N. nine miles west of here. They were rearrested and appearing before Judge Thompson pleaded guilty to the escape charge and each given five weeks and three days, same to run concurrently with former sentences. His Honor, in this connection, took occasion to comment upon the apparent carelessness exhibited by the guard in charge of the prisoners at the time they were at large and intimated that in future a display of negligence in this respect would necessitate inflicting penalties upon those responsible.

The remaining case, Rex vs. Riley, Booth and Hardy, charged with breaking and entering by night the premises known as the Miners Club, and stealing therefrom a quantity of cigarettes and $7.00 in cash, was adjourned to September court on application of defence. The accused were allowed out on bail in the sum of $1000 and two sureties of $500 each.

A civil matter between the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. and Dr. Weldon, of Michel, under the over-holding tenants section of the Landlord and Tenants Act was heard. Judgment in this case was reserved.

BEER

If another plebiscite could be taken to test public sentiment in respect of the open sale of beer and the lighter variety of wines it is probable that there would be a majority in favor of such a plan. Many people who are not the slightest bit interested in the use of alcoholic stimulants are of the opinion that a comparatively unresericted distribution of the less potent kind of intoxicating liquor would reduce the use of the stronger beverages. All this may be quite true. But the fact remains that the Liquor Control Act definitely provides that intoxicating liquor shall be sold only by the official vendor at a Government store. Very naturally this has no relation whatever to liquor purchased outside the Province and imported under Dominion privilege. Section twenty-six of the new law reads as follows:

"Except as provided by this Act no person shall, within the Province, by himself, his clerk, servant, or agent, expose or keep for sale, or directly or indirectly or upon any pretence, or upon any device, sell or offer to sell, or in consideration of the purchase or transfer of any property, or for any other consideration, or at the time of the transfer of any property, give to any other person any liquor."

While the foregoing section is self-explanatory it is further provided that neither a vendor nor a person acting in any capacity for him shall sell liquor in any other place or at any other time or otherwise than as authorised by the act and the regulations affecting it. In other words a restaurant, a grocery establishment, a club, a stationery store, or other form of vending agency must not expose any kind of liquor for sale. In view of this precise and definite provision, and more especially in the light of the decisive verdict of the Legislature in session, how can it be argued that either the Liquor Control Board or the Government has one ounce of authority to change the statute without first having obtained the permission of the elected representatives of the people?

There is nothing in the act which may lead to speculation upon whether any particular grocery store, or any particular ice cream establishment, or any particular kind of club might prevail upon the authorities to train the blind eye upon infractions of Section 26. And if it is necessary to particularize upon the interpretation of the prohibition and what it includes Section forty-six is as definite as could be and reads as follows:

"No person other than a Government Vendor shall sell or deal in any liquor known or described as beer or near-beer or by any name whatever commonly used to describe malt or brewed liquor."

The Premier of the Province has given his opinion upon the question and he regards any sales contrary to the precise provisions of the act to be unlawful. There is no neccessity even for this opinion. The act is plain and capable of being understood by everybody. All that is necessary to remove such doubts as may exist in the minds of the people is a definite announcement by the Liquor Control Board to the effect that the Government alone is the sole and absolute vendor of liquor in British Columbia to British Columbians. Even this procedure is merely telling the people that the law is the law.

It is easy to understand that a number of ex-service clubs would prefer to retain the privileges which were theirs under the Prohibition act. So would the jitney bars, and so would the various type of "soft drink" establishments. But the law does not permit. If the clubs prefer to test the strength of the act in a friendly way so well and so good. It can be said at the outset, however, that neither of the Veterans' organizations in this city is desirous of doing anything except the right thing. Their case has plenty of support; but it looks as if it could not succeed until the act is changed.—Victoria Times.

SKETCH OF A. MACDONALD

The Manitoba Free Press has the following sketch of the life of Alexander Macdonald, one of the largest stockholders in the Crow's Nest Trading Co. and the A. Macdonald Co., of Fernie:

Fifty years ago today stepped Alexander Macdonald, wholesale merchant, from the Red river steamer, Selkirk, to Winnipeg soil on what is now the foot of Lombard Street. The city was in its embryonic state. It was before industry had tapped the then practically unknown mighty western prairies, and if Winnipeg was born, it was before the christening, and when the territory covered by the flourishing western metropolis, with comparatively insignificant exception, was bare prairie.

Fort Garry with its approximately 500 population reposed at the junction of the Red and Assiniboine rivers, a granule of its destined rank and commercial importonce. And yet in some respects it was on a par with its new invader, who was fated coincidentally to attain importance with it in almost equal proportions.

The growth of Winnipeg has been a theme of world wide comment, possibly, however, equalled by the achievement of a few of its pioneers, in the front rank of whom Mr. Macdonald will stand.

At the period spoken of, the Red river steamer was the only link of communication with "civilization." Its arrival from the south—from Moorehead, Minn., was a periodical event to the plucky pioneers who had "blazed the western trail," and the inhabitants assembled in large numbers when the shrill whistle announced its approach with its mail, its newspapers and incidentally to welcome new arrivals.

The first person to greet Mr. Macdonald before he stepped from the steamer on Winnipeg soil, was the late W. F. Luxton, the man who was the principal factor in the establishment of this newspaper. Recognition of the inherent qualities which time has shown these pioneers to have possessed, was mutual, and a friendship was born that meant so much for western development, and which death only disposed.

Had the Stamina Needed

Mr. Macdonald had been well drilled to meet the demands of the rougher life that now faced him, and he was of the stuff and possessed the stamina that has distinguished the successful pioneer. In his Perthshire home his childhood had seen more devotion to work than to play, and when in 1868 he emigrated to Canada, his business experience had scarcely passed the kindergarten stage. But he was soon initiated to the arduous Canadian methods. Selecting Seaforth, Ont., as his stopping-off point, the hardy young Scotsman secured work there in a country store and dairy farm at which "Rising Early. Toiling Late" was the motto strictly observed. And so the refining process continued.

One of the young emigrant's daily tasks was to drive a milk wagon a distance of 13 miles morning and night to a cheese factory. But this was only an incident of those strenuous days, for between the morning and evening deliveries his time was taken up with the delivery of goods to the town customers of the store.

And here it was that he was disciplined for the great career to which he was fated—the grocery trade.

That he did well in his new capacity was evidenced by the fact that his master deemed him fit for promotion, although the recognition from a momentary standpoint was carefully withheld, his pay for the first eighteen months being at the rate of $12 per month.

Then his energy and intelligence received their initial acknowledgment, and he succeded to the important position of a full-fledged clerk in the store. But the elation created by this promotion was short lived. The western fever began to ferment in the locality; young Macdonald was easily tainted and the infection became so strong that he decided to hit the western trail, in spite of opposing difficulties.

At this period Canadian railroad venture was still in embryo and the steamer and "the prairie schooner" were the principal means of transportation. The road to the Canadian west trailed through Moorehead, Min. and the mode of travel was of the most primitive order. It was after a tedious journey that Mr. Macdonald reached his destination.

"First" a Great Day Then

If, on the day that Mr. Macdonald stepped to the dock at the foot of Lombard street, this locality had not become noted for its commercial importance, it was recognized as a trading centre and the inherent love of sport, too, was manifest. The First of July was a great day of the year among the early settlers. The stalwarts from the surrounding territory assembled here to display their athletic skill, and the field—in the vicinity of what is now the intersection of Main street and Portage Avenue was the scene of many tough contests for supremacy.

"Novel and interesting they were to me," Mr. Macdonald said. "The competitors included Indians, half-breeds from far and near on the surrounding plains and as far west as the Rocky Mountains. Picturesque, many of them, too. And their Red river carts—hundreds of them loaded with furs, were squandered over the surounding prairie.

"These traders sold their wares, principally furs, purchased their supplies for the coming year—and then followed the general jolification which often lasted several days.

"Rather suspicious of the newcomer, when you once succeded in gaining their confidence, these natives were easy to do business with. The Hudson's Bay company had implanted the germ and the ideals of honesty so firmly and had gained the general confidence to such an extent, that goods committed to the charge of the freighter were looked upon as sacred; indeed, so impressed had the natives become with the integrity and the example set that you could leave your loaded carts for any length of time on the plains unguarded and nothing would be touched.

"In the latter connection, let me make a reservation. If from sheer necessity, a trader or other class of settler, absolutely required goods that might be within his reach with the owner absent, he would help himself, but would always report to the nearest H. B. post and the company on demand of the rightful owner, would pay the amount involved. I might add that up to within a few years prior to my arrival, such a thing as a lock was scarcely known in the Red River settlement—it was considered unnecessary and to many was unknown.

Fort Garry Becomes Winnipeg

"A census taken shortly before my arrival at Fort Garry showed the population to be less than 500. The name given to the place by the Hudson's Bay company was not favored generally. The matter was often discussed and the opposition intensified to such an extent that ultimately a public meeting was called at which the matter was thoroughly threshed out, and 'Winnipeg' was the name selected. In 1874 we applied for, and received letters of incorporation. The first to contest the mayoralty seat, were Francis E. Cornish and W. F. Luxton, the first named winning the election by a narrow majority. So you see, I was here at the birth of Winnipeg as well as at its christening.

"The settlers of these days were not without their tribulations, the greatest of which I may refer to briefly as the threatened Fenian raids, which gave unnecessary alarm, and the grasshopper plague which devastated the whole country."

Mr. Macdonald's first engagement in Fort Garry was with the firm of Palmer Clark, general store, where he remained for a period of three years, leaving to enter the employ of Higgins & Young, well-known pioneer merchants. It was when the last named firm went out of business that he ventured into trading on his own account. His first warehouse was located on Market street east. Importing apples and other fruits and products from eastern points for local consumption, his dealings extended by leaps and bounds and ultimately he devised and organized a wholesale business although his available capital was but little more than $30,000.

Indtroduced New System

Mr. Macdonald's ideals were ambitious as they were novel and his competitors, many of them, laughed to scorn his proposals. The fact was that he had calculated on the possibility, new to the west, or perhaps to any other country at that time, of transacting a wholesale grocery business without the aid of travellers or solicitors of any kind.

"The plan ultimately worked well," Mr. Macdonald said. "The principles on which we worked were the right ones. 'Cash, or 30 days—one price only, and that the lowest that the goods could be sold for on these terms.' Notwithstanding the fact that for the first five years there was no profit, no interest on the capital invested and that the salaries paid ranged from $45 to $75 per month althuogh we worked from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m.—our rent being $25 per month—we felt confident that the system would prove a success eventually. And our confidence was well rewarded. Our expansion was rapid because the principal we had adopted was the right one. At the end of 21 years we had worked up a business of over $9,000,000, and we had a paid up capital of $1,600,000, which we sold at a premium of 50 per cent. or equal to $2,400,000.

"Our present business was started about eight years ago by my old managers to whom I gave financial assistance. The business has prospered in equal proportions, and to such an extent I believe, that today it is the largest of its kind in the Dominion. We have 12 wholesale warehouses and three factories; our turnover today is about $20,000,000 per annum, and it is still growing by leaps and bounds. We atribute our success to the principles on which the busines is conducted, and to the able and efficient staff, not one member of which is without direct personal interest in the financial success of the firm. Those who are not stockholders, nevertheless participate in the general profits of the business. Semi-annually there is a general dis-

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-emptor in occupation not less than 3 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased; conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

PHYSIOLOGICAL ACTION OF TANLAC EXPLAINED

World's Leading Authorities Show Just What Tanlac Really Is and Explain Effect of Each of Ten Ingredients on the Human System. Power of Medicine Conclusively Proven.

A day never passes but what thousands of people ask the questions: What is Tanlac? Why its phenomenal success? Why do we hear so much about it? and, Why has this preparation so far out-stripped all other medicines of its kind?

The answer to these questions is easy and can be explained in just one word—merit. Tanlac is scientifically compounded and represents years of work, study, experimentation and research by some of the foremost chemists and pharmacologists of America.

The Tanlac formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State pure food laws. It is purely vegetable and is made from the most beneficial roots, herbs and barks known to Materia Medica. The Tanlac Laboratories are among the largest and most modernly equipped in this country.

Ten Ingredients in Tanlac

Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Brittanica says:

"It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered."

In referring to other of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text book, states that "they impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well-known authority in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as a "run-down condition" uses the following expresion:

"It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, because of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation and elimination, improve the nutrition and vital activity of all the tissues and organs of the body and produce that state of general tonicity which is called health.

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient:

"It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory, and in other standard medical text-books, as having a beneficial action upon the organ of secretion, whose proper functioning results in a purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner, objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalized.

Tonic and Body Builder

Tanlac was designed primarly for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows, that any medicine that brings about proper assimilation of the food and the thorough elmination of waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.

SKETCH OF A. MACDONALD

tribution by the way of bonus to the employees, gauged by the volume of business for the period ended. Buying in large quantities in the lowest markets for spot cash, with losses under our system, practically nil, we believe our operating expenses are the lowest in spite of the fact that we pay the highest wages."

Heart With the Soldiers

At no period of Mr. Macdonald's career were the traits of his character better elucidated than during the Great War. His great heart went out with the boys. He imagined their hours of loneliness and hardship, their concern for those left behind in the homeland, which he considered it was the duty of every non-participant in actual war operation to alleviate in every possible degree.

"Nothing I can do—nothing any of us can do can recompense them for their patriotic services. We may give in substance to some extent—they are risking their all for us," were the sentiments he often was heard to express

One of his first acts was to make arrangements with the local newspaper offices by which 3000 Winnipeg newspapers were forwarded daily to the boys in the trenches and in the hospitals. This striking consideration, of which few outside of newspaper circles, have known in the fulness of its extent, was appreciated more than words can express.

Nor were the spiritual essentialities overlooked. The members of the first contingent for the front were each presented with a copy of the New Testament and Hymnal neatly bound in khaki, and of size, although of clear type, to fit the tunic pocket.

The 43rd Cameron Highlanders, of which by the way Mr. Macdonald is honorary colonel, was supplied by him with all the necesary instruments, which he had specially imported from a leading manufacturer in Scotland, for a bag-pipe band. There were some highly qualified musicians and others who rapidly developed in this aggregation, and Mr. Macdonald had good reason to be proud of their achievements, for it was stated by authorities that as a musical body they had few, if any, equals in the trenches. This was no idle compliment either, for their fame spread to such an extent that as a special favor the boys were asked to play a number of selections at the London, England, Lord Mayor's banquet.

Only to a limited extent is the practical interest in charitable institutions taken by Mr. Macdonald known. He has been a member of the advisory board of the Children's Home since its institution. He was instrumental in the procuring of the land at Tuxedo, the erection of the buildings and the improvements thereon, the total cost of which, about $130,000, was paid in its entirety before the doors were opened.

The Friend of Many

There are other institutions in which Mr. Macdonald has taken an outstanding practical interest. The Home of the Friendless may also be specially mentioned in this connection. This institution has been carried on successfully without solicitation for help from the general public. Its principles are of the highest, and strange as it may seem to many, it depends entirely on faith and prayer for its upkeep. In connection with this worthy object, Mr. Macdonald procured ten acres of land in Kildonan and he was also instrumental in the erection of the commodious buildings, the cost of which was in the neighborhood of $90,000.

When in the year 1872 John Kenny and W. F. Luxton conceived the idea of establishing a newspaper in Winnipeg, Mr. Macdonald was in their councils; he was in on the ground floor, in fact, when the Free Press was born, for he turned the crank of the primitive hand press that brought the first copy of this paper into existence. A few years later he became definitely interested with Mr. Luxton in the publication.

Mr. Macdonald's experience in the matter of newspaper publication were not by any mean confined to the Free Press; he was president of the Tribune Publishing company in 1903 and several following years.

Mr. Macdonald in addition to being head of the greatest wholesale grocery organization in Canada, occupies other important offices. He has been president of the Great West Life Assurance company since that corporation was established in 1894; he is also director of the Northern Mortgage company, and he was associated in the establishment of the Canadian Fire Insurance company. In 1910 he was elected president of the Canada Free Trade League. His public offices have included those of alderman; he was chairman of the finance committee 1887-8 and was elected to the mayoralty in 1892.

Although 76 years old, Mr. Macdonald is still young and hearty in spirit, and the active head of his business.—Manitoba Free Press.

WONDERFUL TRIBUTES TO HEINTZMAN & CO.'S SKILL

The following letters were received from our head office this week:

Toronto, June 29th, 1921.

Heintzmen & Co., Ltd.,
Lethbridge, Alta.

Gentlemen:—

We have just received an order through Messrs. C. W. Lindsay, Limited, of Montreal, for "nine" HEINTZMAN & CO. PIANOS for the C.P.R. EMPRESS STEAMERS plying between Montreal and Liverpool on the Atlantic service, as follows:

3 Classic Pianos on the "Empress of Canada."
1 Style D. Grand and 1 Classic on the "Montcalm."
1 D. Grand and 1 Classic on the "Montclaire."
1 D. Grand and 1 Classic Oak for the "Montrose."
Nine Pianos in all.

This is a further testimonial to the standing of THE HEINTZMAN & COMPANY PIANO, both Grand and Upright, as these large steamers plying between America and Europe have heretofore always had either pianos made in Europe or American pianos. A large corporation like the C.P.R. go into the matter very thoroughly in making a selection of instruments and have their musical experts test the various pianos thoroughly, and their decision in our favor is a high tribute to the tone qualities and construction of THE HEINTZMAN & COMPANY "Upright" and "Grand Piano."

Yours truly,
HEINTZMAN & CO., LIMITED

Toronto, June 29th, 1921.

Gentlemen:—

We have just received the following telegram from Walter F. Evans Company, Limited, HEINTZMAN & COMPANY representatives at Vancouver:

"I have just sold MADAME NELLIE MELBA Style E. Grand to be shipped to her private home in AUSTRALIA and will be placed in her own special boudoir studio. This, we think, is a very gratifying tribute to the HEINTZMAN AND COMPANY PIANO, more particularly as she has purchased it for her own personal use and will be constantly used by her."

MADAME MELBA, as you are aware, is the "Premier Prima Donna" and with her wonderful voice has charmed the musical people and crowned heads of the whole world, and this purchase of a HEINTZMAN & COMPANY Grand for her own music room in her Australian home is a tribute of which we are very proud.

We might state that we have also received an order from MADAME LOUISA TETRAZZINI for a Style G Semi Grand to be made specially for her and shipped this fall for her music room in her castle in ROME, ITALY. This piano will be made in "Queen Anne" style and the finish will be "white enamel" with the carvings picked out in GOLD. We have the privilege of displaying this piano at the TORONTO EXHIBITION, after which it will be shipped to ROME.

The selection of the HEINTZMAN & COMPANY Grand Piano by two such world wide artists as MADAME TETRAZZINI and MADAME MELBA is a wonderful endorsation of the quality of tone in the HEINTZMAN & CO. GRAND.

Yours truly,
HEINTZMAN & CO., LIMITED

WILLIAM S. HART AT THE ORPHEUM FRIDAY & SATURDAY

In "The Cradle of Courage" which comes to the Orpheum theatre Friday and Saturday, the famous Paramount Star appears as a policeman —one of the most striking roles he has had in many months.

It is a complete departure from his recent western dramas, but none the less effective, for it gives him a characterization that places heavy demand upon his versatility and dramatic power. As a result he is certain to elicit new praise from the thousands who have admired his splendid portrayals for seasons past and who will welcome his new productions with open arms.

This is the third of his personal productions for Paramount and is regarded as fully up to the high standard set by "The Toll Gate" and "Sand!" the two preceding pictures.

The "Barbary Coast" in San Francisco, the haunt of the submerged tenth, the underworld habitues, crooks and others, is the scene of the story which shows the transformation of a man in the vortex of great events, how he wins honor and love after youth spent in the lowest circles of society.

It was adapted by Lambert Hillyer and also directed by him. Joe August was the photographer. Ann Little is the leading woman and Thomas Santschi has the heavy role. Gertrude Claire also has a strong character role.

Later reports state that Bill arrived well within the 11 hour period. He took two hours and twenty-five minutes to come from Cranbrook to Fernie.

Practically their entire time was occupied in connection with the situation that has developed through the Fernie branch becoming involved in prosecutions under the government liquor Act. Following the conclusion of the numerous consultations and conferences attended by the provincial officers, Mr. Drinnan stated for publication that he was perfectly satisfied with the attitude the Fernie local had decided to adopt relative to the future operation of the club here.

The Fernie executive unanimously undertook to discontinue supplying beer to the members pending the final decision on this matter when the test cases and negotiations now under way between the G.W.V.A. provincial executive and the liquor control board are concluded. There was much opposition to the adoption of this procedure from certain local G. W. V. A. members. However, these objections were withdrawn temporarily in the light of the wisdom of submitting this course to a trial with a view to reaching a mutually satisfactory solution.

Fernie vs. Cranbrook

Cranbrook put pennant aspirations practically out of reach of Fernie, when, on Sunday last they trimmed their visitors in a slugfest by the score of 12 to 8.

Cranbrook upset the dope for fair, and with their win, Fernie dropped down to third place, making it necessary for Fernie to win both their remaining games, while Waldo has to loose one and the leaders to loose their last two game for Fernie to be faveored with a three-cornered tie for first place.

Fernie started the scoring in the early innings and held the lead up to the sixth, with the score standing 6 to 3 against them, Cranbrook took advantage of Fernie's erratic fielding and coupled with some health clouting, netted 4 runs, and from then on they were never overtaken.

Cranbrook hammered the ball unmercifully all over the lot, several 3-baggers being hung up. Armstrong and Drummond each pulled off spectacular catches of line drives. Bamford kept Fernie's hitting confined to high flies or easily handled grounders while his teammates hit Callihan timely.

Waldo vs. Wycliffe

Waldo, July 10th.—Wycliffe suffered its first defeat of the season here today. A large crowd of rooters watched Waldo's newly strengthened team win by the score of 4 to 0.

Wycliffe threatened to break into the run column several times but Neisling was going good and his teammates supported him well. Musser for Wycliffe pitched big league ball and only slow work by the outfielders allowed any runs. McKay of Waldo made a great catch in right field. McTier's catching was also a feature.

Musser struck out 12 and Neisling 13.

Batteries:— Neisling and Barger, Waldo; Musser and McTier, Wycliffe; Umpire, J. Hume.

White Spruce vs. Wardner

Fernie, July 10th—White Spruce shoved Wardner into the basement by winning today, 6-1 in a fast game. Wardner had their usual one inning blow-up and allowed 4 runs in the first inning. From then on Peters and Thompson pitched good ball and their teams played well behind them.

Batteries—Peters and Dunlap, Costa, White Spruce; Thompson and Garrison, Wardner; Umpire, C. Martin.

SUNNY SAND CREEK

(By L. G. Ross, Galloway)

By the side of Sand Creek,
Flows a cooling spring;
Where the wild flowers blossom,
And bonnie birdies sing.

In the waters waiting;
Waiting there to dine.
There are trout in plenty,
Just drop them a line.

For the children's pleasures,
Ready hangs a swing,
Makes them feel so happy,
Hear their voices ring.

Down the Mountain Canyon.
Comes a gentle breeze.
See a table standing,
'Neath the leafy trees.

From the crossing, half a mile;
Most through shady lane;
Keep the east side all the time,
Till the place you gain.

MICHEL vs. MICHEL

As there has been quite a discussion in Michel as to whether there is an outside team capable of trimming the regulars, the following teams took the field at 6 p.m. on Saturday July 9th under referee Andy McGovern.

Inside team—Goal T. Baybutt; Full backs M. Littler, T. Owens; Halves T. James, M. McLean, A. Davis; Forwards Ben Ball, A. Almond, Alf Ball, J. Marsh, E. Ainsworth.

Outside team—Goal F. Shorrocks; Full backs J. Taylor, T. Porteous; Halves E. Hughes, Ted Foster, Dave Taylor; Forwards T. Shorrocks, R. Winstanley, R. Bonar, W. Horrocks, F. McKenzie.

Captain Dave Taylor of the outside beat Capt. Littler for the toss and elected to play against the wind with the sun behind him.

Right from the start, the outside forwards took the ball to the vicinity of the inside goal where Baybutt was called upon to save a hot shot from Bonar. After a few minutes scrimmaging, Littler heaved the ball to midfield with a ponderous kick from where the inside forwards raced down the field and Ben Ball was only inches wide with a shot that had Shorrocks beat all the way. From the resultant goal kick the outside forwards combined in some pretty footwork, and Bonar getting the ball from Horrocks about 10 yards out, bewildered the opposing backs by neatly slipping between them and slammed the ball in the net far out of the reach of Baybutt.

This reverse seemed to put stimulus into the regulars and McLean got Ainsworth away down the wing with a lightening sprint which left the outside halves standing; when he got to the corner flag he placed a beautiful centre which was utilized by J. Marsh, who shook the net with a fast rising shot which gave the goalie no chance at all.

Play was centred in midfield for some time and Foster was having his work cut out holding in check the forwards of the inside. Ben Ball and James were playing pretty football at this time and a perfect understanding existed between McLean and Davies.

A miskick by McLean gave Winstanley a chance slip past Littler and registered number 2 for his team.

From the centre kick, play was taken to the outside goal and Shorrocks brought off two more marvelous saves from Almond and Alf Ball. Ainsworth forced a corner off J. Taylor and from the kick, Dave Taylor secured the ball and made one of his spectacular dashes down the field and feeding the wing, gave McKenzie a chance of showing his speed, but after beating the backs, McKenzie had the hard luck of seeing his shot hit the crossbar. Half time arrived with the score 2-1 in favor of the outsiders.

On the starting off of the second the inside team took the ball in front of the outsiders goal, where Almond had two shots at goal, only missing by inches each time. The next item of note was a solo effort of Foster, who, securing the ball 10 yards in his own half just waded through the opposition and crowned his effort by placing the ball in the net from the 15 yard range with a lovely shot.

From the restart the prettiest play of the afternon was witnessed when Owens placed the leather far up the field to where Alf Ball was waiting, and that player combining with Almond and Marsh took play right in front of the goal where Marsh netted No. 2 for the regulars. At this period Almond and Alf Ball were staging as good a display of football as ever played in the Pass and it was only the sterling playing of Dave Taylor and Hughes that were keeping them from scoring—Dave especially showing his prowess as a half-back.

Porteous placed the ball well up to W. Horrocks, and that player after beating the opposing halves set McKenzie flying down the touch line, on reaching Owens, McKenzie crossed the ball over nicely and T. Horrocks meeting it with his left foot, crashed the ball in the net for the fourth goal to the Outside men.

From the centre kick Almond and Alf Ball took play to the outsiders goal, and after McLean had hit the upright with a hard shot, James tricked several opponents and shot a lovely goal high up in the net.

The regulars were trying hard to equalize the score, and it was only the versatile play of Taylor Bros. and the impregnable Foster that kept them out.

However, the equalizing tally was forthcoming, Foster fouled Almond in the dreaded area, and Almond taking the penalty, beat Horrocks with a daisy cutter which never raised three inches from the ground. From then on, both teams fough hard, but the defenses held out, tho Bonar removed some more paint from the upright with a shot that would be impossible to hold had it been on the inner side of the post.

BLINDMAN'S TRIUMPH

Tyo or three times in the coruse of every generation this world is treated to the spectacle of some man achieving distinction against overwhelming odds. It is a spectacle of very great value to the human race, since men's characters are formed by example and consequent emulation, says the Vancouver Sun.

To see a man physically handicapped rise to the top is proof positive of the dominance of mind over matter, of determination over misfortune and of good over evil. It is an exhilirating inspiration to young and old alike to find that the soul and mind of man are superior to his condition.

The recent election in Saskatoon of Harris Turner to the Provincial Legislature is just one case as this.

Harris Turner is a newspaperman. He courts no party and no leader. He was accorded the highest honor within the reach of the citizens of Saskatoon as an Independent and on his merits alone. In effect, the people of the Saskatchewan city voiced their confidence in Harris Turner as the man most able to represent them and the man most worthy of their trust. Party affiliations had nothing to do with it.

Not so many years ago—shortly before the war—Harris Turner was a reporter in Vancouver. He was capable, but not outstandingly energetic. He drifted to Saskatoon and while serving there on the "Star" heard the call of duty, and among the first, went overseas with a Canadian battalion.

He left many friends scattered across the continent in the many places he had worked and among them a girl to whom he had become engaged.

After some months the word was sent to Canada that Harris Turner had been totally and hoplessly blinded while in action against the enemy. His friends were very sorry, for they read in the accident the end of a promising and capable newspapermam They felt that Harris Turner would end his days as a helpless charge upon his parents.

When Harris Turner returned to Canada, he returned as the representative of his soldier comrades in the Provincial Legislature. It was then that he commenced to demonstrate the fact that affliction is sometimes only a spur to ambition. He started a little weekly newspaper in Saskatoon, which failed for lack of advertising support. He continued writing and made his living by this means. His wife—for he was married shortly after he returned from overseas—read the papers to him faithfully. For a time this hoplessly blinded man conducted a daily column of humor and wit in the Saskaton Star.

His determination, his character, his ability were at last recognized by the people of Saskatoon when they sent him to the Legislature.

Harris Turner was one who loved the luxuries his eyes afforded him. He loved the shimmer of the sunlight on the water, the coloring in the autumn leaves and the pure silver of the monlight. He sees these things now only in his memory. When he walks, some ne has to lead him.

But Harris Turner will yet fill a large place in the public life of Canada. Such ambition and courage as his will never fail.—Victoria Times.

COMMUNISM GETS K. O.

British Labor in session at Brighton—at the time when it might be supposed that the workingman would be in the best mood for kicking over the traces and upset the cart—has given an expression of opinion on Communism and has presented it with the cold shoulder to the tune of over four million ballots or a net majority against it of 3,891,000. In other words it can be taken for granted that if the Bolshevik plant in Great Britain refuses to flower when the industrial skies are dispensing an appropriate vapor it is quit obivious that there is at least something wrong with the soil. In the meantime Messrs. Lenine and Co. are not at all enthusiastic about the quality of the seed.—Victoria Times.

MINERS EXHAUST FUNDS

One of the important side lights of the coal strike in Great Britain is to be found in a statement by a leading member of the Nottinghamshire branch of the Miners Federation. He lays all the blame for the suffering which the striker has brought about at the door of an element among the Welsh miners which is out to wreck the capitalistic system—a movement which commenced with the "ca-canny" policy and had now extended to an attempt to dip in the Midland miners' tin. The rub comes with the statement that the Nottinghamshire miners had exhausted their funds amounting to £250,000 and had incurred a debt of £100,000 additional. Such is the strike!—Victoria Times.

HOLDUP MEN MAKE GETAWAY

About 1 o'clock Wednesday morning How Foon's restaurant was the scene of an attempted hold-up when two armed desperadoes endeavored to force the two Chinese on duty in the kitchen to deliver up unto them all valuables. The daring attempt was frustrated partly, it is supposed, through inexperience on the part of the highwaymen, but more particularly owing to the fact that the weapons drawn upon the Celestials did not have the effect of silencing them, but rather stimulated them to emit hideous cries, which were sufficient to attract many other nearby Chinese, as well as Constable Clarkstone, who was two blocks or more away. For their trouble all the robbers secured were some keys from the cooks pocket, whom they beat into partial submission by one striking him about the head with the barrel of his revolver. Some nasty scalp wounds were inflicted. Not a cent in cash or any other valuables were taken, nor did the robbers appear to make any systematic attempt to locate the strong box, this giving rise to the opinion of the police that they were either strangers to this locality or novices. However, the bedlam let loose by their victims may have caused undue haste on their part.

It was three minutes to one when Constable Clarkstone, patrolling Main street, heard the unusual noise. It took him three or four minutes to ascertain from where it came and reach the restaurant, but the thieves had departed and no further trace of them has since been found. This is more difficult owing to the fact that the police have found it practically a hopeless effort to get anything like an accurate description of the men other than the usual, "One was a big tall man, the other a little fellow." Both wore masks covering the upper portion of their faces and they were armed with very large weapons. One entered the restaurant by the main entrance and the other came in through the kitchen at the rear, and they met in the kitchen. The two Chinamen were the only occupants of the establishment at the time.

CONCERT FOR BENEFIT OF RED CROSS

Michel, B.C., July 17. — Thursday evening of last week a concert was put on here in the opera house for the benefit of the Red Cross Society, by local talent. It was a hugs success, both financially and in pleasing the full house in attendance. Near one hundred dolars were secured, after expenses being deducted, for the Society. All the program was excellent, but the Scotch dancing of Miss Tina McGovern and brother and light toe dances of Miss Catherine Irvine, formerly of Seattle, were especially good and well worth the price of admission. The thanks of all are due those rendering the program and to W. R. Wilson, of Fernie, for free use of hall, and to the Trites-Wood Co. for use of gramaphone, also to William Fiddes, of Lethbridge, for splendid posters supplied for advertising purposes.

THE ALBERTA ELECTION

The latest returns emphasize the clean-cut nature of the victory of the Farmer party in Alberta.

They will go into office with a large majority. Just who will be premier has not been settled. The logical man is H. W. Wood, head of the United Farmers, who although not a candidate in the election, organized the machine which carried his party into power. A seat can easily be found for him, if he is chosen to select a cabinet and take office.

From the public viewpoint, the weak and dangerous attribute of the Farmer party is that it is a class party. It lacks the essential representative nature which the oldline parties possess. It represents a class of the community instead of all classes of the community.

The favorable feature of the Alberta result, as compared with the situation in Manitoba and Ontario, is that the Farmer party will be able to form a government and carry on without making a deal with any group. It will bear responsibility for its actions. Without such responsibility and a group government, composed of more or less entagonistic elements, held together by deals of which the basis is the desire to hold office even at the expense of principle, cannot possess it—a government soon descends into a condition of weakness and political immorality.

The new Alberta government has a majority big enough to make it a strong government, though it is going to be handicapped by the lack of experience of the large percentage of new members and by the fact that it is a class administration.—Nelson News.

BODY IS RECOVERED

The body of John Horn Hewitt, who was accidentally drowned in the Elk River on Sunday, July 3, while on a fishing expedition, was found late Friday afternoon about one mile below the C.P.R. station at Morrissey by a fisherman.

The body was lying face downward close to the bank of the river and was in such a state that identification was only made by the clothing found on the body. Hewitt's watch had stopped at 1.35 o'clock, so it is believed that he went to his death immediately after being swept off his feet and that he was unable to make any effort to save himself.

The funeral, which was held on Sunday from the United Church, was largely attended and the many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the young man was held.

He leaves a wife and two small children to mourn his loss.

The government has opened a liquor store at Courtenay and a beer store at Cumberland.

GOT WHISKEY RUNNERS

Provincial Constables Brown and Duncan and Sergt. Pass of the R.C.M.P., had an exciting night Friday, July 15, near the Indian village, Tobacco Plains reservation, while on patrol duty for whiskey runners across the international boundary. They apprehended one auto containing ten cases of liquor. This car was driven by S. McCarty, otherwise known as "Bucktooth" McCarty, of Eureka, Mont., while O. Bjork of the same place accompanied him. They were travelling toward the line and were stopped by the officers obstructing the road with their own car. This method was adopted when two previous cars failed to halt at the officers' command or even when fired upon, consequently they decided they would take no chances of failure to stop any subsequent vehicle. The prisoners and confiscated liquor were brought to Fernie and the case tried before Magistrate Stenson on Saturday morning. McCarty was fined $100 under the Liquor Act and additional charges were preferred against both men of entering Canada by stealth, for which they drew fines of $50 each. They were then, after the customs officials seized the car, turned over to the immigration officials, who desire to take further proceedings against these men.

BANFF ROAD AND MOVIES

(By J. F. Spalding-

During the past week matters of vital interest to this section of the Province in connection with the above have come up, and my article this week will be confined to them.

On the 16th I received a letter from a gentleman telling me that the Dominion government had cut the appropriation for work on the Banff-Windermere road and that as a result there was only enough money in sight to keep the crews working until the middle of next month. It has been pointed out to the Department at Ottawa that if they are not able to keep at work, it will not be possible to get this road finished until 1923, whereas if the extra $50,000 they ask for is granted they can finish all but 16 or 18 miles before the snow flies this year, and finish the balance in time to have the road opened next year towards Fall.

This gentleman asked me to take it up with the Department form the tourist point of view, which I have done in the letter following. Dr. Bonnell has also written about it, and the Associated Boards of Trade of South Eastern B.C. are doing so as well, and between us, it is to be hoped that we can manage to have the work completed without further delay.

The other day, the Nelson News had an article saying that the Provincial government had sent their official photographer there to take moving pictures of its industries and scenic attractions, and that from there he was going to Kaslo and Revelstoke and then back to Victoria. These pictures are being used throughout the United States, Canada and Europe in the endeavor to get settlers and tourists, yet they have never sent a photographer to film the best part of the whole of the province, viz., South Eastern B.C. This got my goat. We have been sidetracked in practically every one of the so called advertising schemes of the government long enough, and I think the time has come for us to let the powers that be know that there is such a place in existence, and demand that the coast and the interior west of Kootenay Lake quit hogging everything and hand some of the good things to us once in a while. My letter on the subject follows:

July 19, 1921.

The Department of Patriotic and Educational Service, Victoria, B.C.

Dear Sirs—In the issue of the 18th inst., of the Nelson Daily News there appeared an article stating that the official photographer of your Department was in Nelson taking moving pictures of its industries and scenic attractions, and that these films were to be used by the department to appeal to the tourist and others. It also stated that he was going from there to Kaslo, then Revelstoke and back to Victoria. It is said that many thousand feet of films of this description, which have been taken throughout the province, are being shown now through the States, Canada and in Europe and England.

So far as we here are aware, your photographer has never been in Eastern British Columbia for this purpose, and in view of the fact that this section of our province produces more revenue per capita than any other section of it, and has far greater scenic attractions also, we cannot understand why it has been so neglected by your Department.

The mining and industrial records of this section are too well known to you for any need of recapitulation but I wish to touch on the feature which apparently is not so well known to you, but which is bound to become in the very near future, as a producer, the equal, if not the larger, of either of the others, viz., the tourist.

Perhaps what I have to say will carry more weight with you if I state first of all my grounds for the authenticity of it. I have been a professional photographer for twenty years and specialize in landscapes. During the last seven years I have driven a car throughout the whole of the three Western provinces and through California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and Wyoming. There are very few, if any, places of tourist interest in either of these places which I have not visited, and with all due respect to the opinions of others, I say that South Eastern B.C. has more scenic attraction per mile, and more miles of it, than any other section in the whole of North America, and its roads are better than any other parts of the American Continent. The following are extracts from the "Remarks Column' in our tourist register:

"I have driven all over the United States and nowhere have I seen such wonderful scenery or perfect roads." —From Miami, Florida.

"Across the border we have a saying, 'See America First," added to that should be 'And then drive up into Eastern B.C. and taste of Paradise." —From Pasadena, Calif.

"This is the finest scenery in America. I enjoyed it so much last year that I had to come again this."—From Pasadena, Calif.

"Your roads and scenery are wonderful. One could not find a more enjoyable trip anywhere." — From London, Eng.

These are just a few picked at random from the register and they simply carry out the general opinion of all the tourists who have visited us, and confirm my contention, that if Eastern British Columbia receives the advertising it is entitled to by your Department, in a very few years it will become the motoring playground of North America.

During the last three years this Board of Trade has spent a large amount of money in publicity, which together with that spent by the Associated Boards of Trade of South Eastern British Columbia, comprising the Boards of Fernie, Cranbrook, Creston, Windermere and Golden, amounts to a very considerable sum, but it is a mere drop in the bucket to what should be spent. What we have done, however, has had very good effect so far, but it is slow compared with what it would be were your Department to extend to us at least equal consideration with other parts of the Province.

It may be that your plans include us, but if they do not, we feel justified in the request that you give instructions re the filming of this sec-

S. A. BAND A WINNER

The Salvation Army Calgary Silver Band, comprised of 35 pieces, visited this city this week on their Alberta, British Columbia and Pacific coast tour, and the music lovers here were given an exceptional treat. This organization, it is claimed, exists solely for evangelistic purposes and not for the display of musical ability, but they undoubtedly excel in all branches, and they certainly are generous in giving public demonstration. At the concert, which is the chief attraction, only a nominal fee is charged, and the exhibition of talent is far in excess of the rate demanded. While here the band gave several open air concerts in different parts of the city, and held a special one at the general hospital for the inmates there. They motored to Morrissey, where the Fernie and Creston Boy Scouts are holding their first annual camp, and delighted the youngsters with a musical festival. The local church organizations tendered a banquet to the visitors during their far too brief stop over here.

WOULD GO FROM HOUSE TO HOUSE

Tennessee Farmer Wants To Go From House To House And Tell Everybody About Tanlac.

"If I were not so busy with my farmwork I would go from house to house to house and tell the people about Tanlac," said A. J. Livingston, a well-known farmer, living near Ashland City, Tenn.

"I had stomach and kidney trouble and suffered torment with my back and side. The doctors could do nothing for me so I wrote to a friend of mine in Nashville about Tanlac and he advised me to try it, saying he had heard so many favorable reports about it and sent me a bottle.

"After taking the first bottle I felt so much better that I ordered another bottle myself and the result is I am a well man. I told a friend of mine about it and ordered a bottle for him and he had good results. I can eat anything I want and it don't hurt me and can sleep like a log. To tell the truth, I just simply feel like a new man and have more strength and energy than I have had in years. It is simply the grandest medicine in the world. I would like to see all my friends and get those who are suffering to try it, and I hope you will reach them through this testimonial which I have gladly given."

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, which accomplished such remarkable results in this man's case, is a wonderful tonic, appetizer and invigorant. It builds up the system, creates a healthy appetite, promotes digestion and assimulation of the food and makes you feel strong, sturdy and well as nature intended.

OUT OF PURE IDLENESS

The Reverend Samuel Reynolds, Head Master of the Plympton Grammar School, Devon, in the year 1734, was far from being an inspired teacher, and his pupils were not slow in recognizing this fact, for boys in the 18th century, or indeed any century, are "very much of a muchness," as the old saying goes.

So, while the Head Master was listening to one lad, who was painfully stumbling through an Ode of Horace, the rest of the form were huddled together watching with intense amusement the attempts of one of their number to sketch the master as he sat at his high desk before them.

"Joshua has got him to the life!" whispered one lad.

"Spectacles and all!" added another.

"You might count his hairs!" said a third, bending over the paper.

Each and all had something to say or some suggestion to give to the young artist, and at last the talking and tittering became so unguarded as to rouse even the easy going Head.

He looked suddenly up from the Horace: "Joshua! bring your exercise book to me!" came the order.

It was his own son, but the Master was a just man and would show no favoritism on that account, so the 12 year old Joshua slowly left his place and handed up his sheet—which should have been filled with a Latin exercise—and then stood by the side of the desk, with downcast eyes and a shame-faced look on his round, rosy face, awaiting a punishment which he felt was well deserved.

The Reverend Samuel Reynolds fixed his glasses more firmly on his nose and looked long and fixedly at his likeness.

"Did you do this?" he asked sternly.

"Yes, sir," said Joshua falteringly.

The boys meanwhile looked eagerly on, feeling sure that a caning was in prospect, but instead the Master took up his quill pen, and wrote at the bottom of the portrait, "Done by Joshua, in school, out of pure idleness," and then handed the sheet back to the boy.

"Go back to your place, sir," he said severely, "and for the future waste no more time in idle sketches!"

This sketch is still in existence, and is, of course, greatly valued as being the earliest known drawing by Sir Joshua Reynolds, who became the first President of the Royal Academy, and perhaps the greatest portrait painter that England has ever possessed.

Sir Joshua was born in 1723, and was one of eleven children, all of whom were fond of drawing; but paper being scarce in that large family, the children were allowed to draw with a burnt stick on the whitewashed walls of a long passage in the house.

Sir Joshua's first attempt in oils is still extant; it is a likeness of the Reverend F. Smart, and is done on a bit of sail, with common shipwright's paints which he found in a boathouse.

Sir Joshua did this in his thirteenth year; but before he was eight years old he had acquired the knowledge of perspective from a book which fell into his hands, and was able to draw the Plympton School House according to rule; no easy matter for anyone, as it has a colonade of pillars supporting the upper part of the school. These pillars are still there as when the boy Reynolds drew them.

Sir Joshua was knighted by King George III., and died in 1792, and was buried in St. Paul's Cathedral, full of honors and so universally beloved that it was said he had not an enemy in the world.

"LAST OF THE MOHICANS" NOW A LIVING HISTORY

Critics have placed Maurice Tourneur's new picture, "The Last of the Mohicans,' by J. Fenimore Cooper, in a new category of film productions. It is called a permanent photoplay classic, which means that it will live when the ordinary entertainment film has passed on. This is for several reasons, the first being that Tourneur proved he could make an absorbing entertainment out of Coopers famous story, and at the same time preserve the historical and educational values..

"The Last of the Mohicans' is a story too well known to need repetition, but the sweet love tale, with the humor and pathos thrills and exciteing moments, is one that wil cause every beholder to gasp — then laugh, then gulp—for it is intensely human, intensely real, and replete with historical events that thrill.

All the ability and knowledge of the great Tourneur has gone into this production, which comes as his first through the new Associated Producers, of which he is a member, with Thos. H. Ince, Allan Dwan, Marshall Neilan, Mack Sennett, George Loane Tucker and J. Parker Read, Jr.

An all-lead cast, especially selected by Tourneur, appears in this story. The scenic backgrounds are exquisite in their rugged beauty.

Coming to the Orpheum soon.

Synopsis of Land Act Amendments

Minimum price of first-class land reduced to $5 an acre; second-class to $2.50 an acre.

Pre-emption now confined to surveyed lands only.

Records will be granted covering only land suitable for agricultural purposes and which is non-timber land.

Partnership pre-emptions abolished, but parties of not more than four may arrange for adjacent pre-emptions with joint residence, but each making necessary improvements on respective claims.

Pre-emptors must occupy claims for five years and make improvements to value of $10 per acre, including clearing and cultivation of at least 5 acres, before receiving Crown Grant.

Where pre-empter in occupation not less than 2 years, and has made proportionate improvements, he may, because of ill-health, or other cause, be granted intermediate certificate of improvement and transfer his claim.

Records without permanent residence may be issued, provided applicant makes improvements to extent of $300 per annum and records same each year. Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

Pre-emptor holding Crown grant may record another pre-emption, if he requires land in conjunction with his farm, without actual occupation, provided statutory improvements made and residence maintained on Crown granted land.

Unsurveyed areas, not exceeding 20 acres, may be leased as homesites; title to be obtained after fulfilling residential and improvement conditions.

For grazing and industrial purposes areas exceeding 640 acres may be leased by one person or company.

Mill, factory or industrial sites on timber land not exceeding 40 acres may be purchased; conditions include payment of stumpage.

Natural hay meadows inaccessible by existing roads may be purchased conditional upon construction of a road to them. Rebate of one-half of cost of road, not exceeding half of purchase price, is made.

PRE-EMPTORS' FREE GRANTS ACT.

The scope of this Act is enlarged to include all persons joining and serving with His Majesty's Forces. The time within which the heirs or devisees of a deceased pre-emptor may apply for title under this Act is extended from for one year from the death of such person, as formerly, until one year after the conclusion of the present war. This privilege is also made retroactive.

No fees relating to pre-emptions are due or payable by soldiers on pre-emptions recorded after June 26, 1918. Taxes are remitted for five years.

Provision for return of moneys accrued, due and been paid since August 4, 1914, on account of payments, fees or taxes on soldiers' pre-emptions.

Interest on agreements to purchase town or city lots held by members of Allied Forces, or dependents, acquired direct or indirect, remitted from enlistment to March 31, 1920.

SUB-PURCHASERS OF CROWN LANDS.

Provision made for issuance of Crown grants to sub-purchasers of Crown Lands, acquiring rights from purchasers who failed to complete purchase, involving forfeiture, on fulfilment of conditions of purchase, interest and taxes. Where sub-purchasers do not claim whole original parcel, purchase price due and taxes may be distributed proportionately over whole area. Applications must be made by May 1, 1920.

GRAZING.

Grazing Act, 1919, for systematic development of livestock industry provides for grazing districts and range administration under Commissioner. Annual grazing permits issued based on numbers ranged; priority for established owners. Stock-owners may form Associations for range management. Free, or partially free, permits for pasture, compost or manure, up to 160 head.

WORLD'S DIAMONDS

How concentrated is the diamond? All the dimonds in the world could be packed in your wife's clothes closet, even if it is a Toronto apratment size. They could be stored in a kitchen pantry, where, in the dim light, the cook might mistake them for navy beans and attempt a puree. They form a pile about as big as the pile the coal man leaves on the sidewalk at the basement entrance to your apartment, building or shop. If the pile had a base diameter of about eight feet, and were rounded into a cone, it would be five feet high. A pile of coal of equal size—and coal by every tie of chemical relationship, is diamond's first cousin—would cost less than $50, even in these days of "black dimonds." The pile of diamonds, reckoned at $100 a carat, would have a value of $4,635,547,-480. If figured at current diamond prices, it would be worth three to five times that price.

There are, it is estimated, 46,355,-474 carats of cut and polished diamonds in existence. In terms of avoirdupois, they would weigh ten and a half tons. The total includes possibly the first diamond ever found on earth —who knows? — and the last gem picked from the chimneys of South Africa; the little twinkler that the shop girl wears on her finger, and the Koh-i-noor that blazes in the crown of the King-Emporer.

One hundred dollars a carat, used as the basis in the above estimate, is perhaps, below the average cost of diamonds throughout history. Formerly diamond prices were subject to wide variations, but South Africa stabilized the market and gave the buyer a chance. The rise in prices has been steady. But every diamond is an individual problem as far as price is concerned. Prices always depends on the stone's color, comparative flawlessness, inherent brilliancy and cutting. Quotations could be given for carats and fractions thereof, but such quotations are not wholly dependable.

For example, some blue-white, one-carat stones sell for $2,500, while you can buy a one-carat yellow diamond for $150. Blue-white diamonds bring the highest price in the market, but many connoisseurs prefer as more beautiful the snow-white gem, found among the river diamonds, whose sharp, cold brilliancy is like that of clear ice gleaming in winter sunshine. Some collectors, however, are keen on black, blue, yellow and similar varieties of the stone.

Imagine connoisseurs discussing bits of carbon, for that is what the diamond is, carbon compresed at a high temprature. Think what crimes have been commited for the sake of this enormously concentrated and beautiful carbon, to secure the luck and wealth and favor that may go along yith it. The diamond does not depend on its fame on either the "diamond" of the American national game nor on money values, or even its romantic story, but rather on its own intrinsic beauty. Its name, derived from the Grek "adamas," or "invincible," tells the secret. In beauty and durability it is invincible.

Today share prices in the mining companies are down, but the diamond remains, supreme and indestructable. South Africa has added $400,000,000 worth to the worlds stock, and still seems inexhaustible, producing 98% of the annual output. Only 5% of the nineteenth century's production was lost in the hundred years. No matter how many may be withdrawn from sight by purchase or theft, nature continues to reveal them for man's skill to claim.

Even chance brings them to light; a native laborer found the Excelsior when loading a truck, and its 971 carats eclipsed all records. Cut into ten stones of widely varying sizes, it meets the desire of many, whereas, in the old days one prince would have claimed and hoarded it all. Scarcely less the result of chance was the discovery of the Cullinan; not all the great gems are found by methodical and scientific processes of the De Beers. Nature stil plays the part of the bountiful giver, a few stones being found annually in many portions of the globe.

Although the modern, perfectly-cut diamond is less than a century old, the diamond makes its appearance in literature about the seventh century, B.C. The prophet, Jeremiah, in his 17th Chapter, says that "with the point of a diamond" records were graven on stones, but some scholars hold that the word translated, diamond really means some kindred subtance. This was written about the year 600 B.C. A few years later comes evidence which is stronger: Ezekiel, referring to the gems seen by the Jews in Babylon, which lasted from 588 to 537 B.C.

"Thou hast been in Eden, the garden of God; every precious stone was thy covering; the sardius, the topaz and the diamond, the beryl, the onyx and the jasper, the sapphire, the emerald and the carbucle. Thou wast upon the holy mountains of God; thou hast walked up and down in the midst of the stones of fire."—Ezekiel XVIII 13-14. Written about 588 B.C.

In the first cycle of three precious stones is the diamond. Surely the prophet was corect in calling it one of the "stones of fire." Even when rudely cut as in the days of Solomon, and the Queen of Sheba the diamond glittered with a brilliancy which no other stone could approach as if to send forth forever portions of the energy and fire used up in fusing and compressing it into being.

But in the days of the early empire the partricians of Rome rarely owned them. The supremacy of Constantinople and the Moorish conquest of Spain brought only a trickle of diamonds into Western Europe. A fashionable jewelry store in Toronto today carries more diamonds in stock than were in all Europe when Columbus sailed from Palos. The Beau Sancy was the first of the $6,000,000 collection of the Kings of France, and it was the first to be cut into anything like modern fashion.

Time was when diamonds adorned only the princes of the earth and sparkled only in palaces. But they have now become the great democratic gem. The stenographer emits Kimberley sparkles. Faint Dutoitspan gleams show in the ears of the pretty waitress. No cook or housemaid can hold up her head without a diamond among her jewels.

And yet Alexander the Great penetrated to the borders of India without learning more of the diamond than mere hearsay of the fabled sands of Golconda. From the first Pharaoh to the last, through all the pageantry of thirty-one dynasties, diamonds were unknown beside the Nile.

What made the difference between the ancient and modern world so far as diamonds are concerned? Correct cutting, is the answer. The earliest cutters used thier wheels deftl enough, but they neglected their mathematics. Bringing out to the full a diamond's brillinacy is a mathematical problem pure but not simple. Increase of facets adds to surface area and surface glitter. But the ankle of total reflection must be considered in relation to the angle of incidents, and the facets so arranged that a ray of entering light will be reflected from the inner surfaces and returned in refracted rainbow-sparkles through the top of the stone.

Since brilliancy is the crowning glory of the diamond, the modern cutters do not hesitate to sacrifice whatever weight is necessary to achieve maximum brilliancy. It was found that fifty-eight facets were the right number and to this number the cuting was done. Then it was learned that a diamond is at its sharpest cvlimax of brilliancy when its depth "from table to cutlet" is six-tenths of its diameter and a little more than two-thirds below. Cut in this style, a diamond not only flashes light from every polished facet surface, but seems alive with coruscating inner fires. The proportions were discovered fifty years ago and even to-day mark the final triumph of art in the achievement of the perfect modern jewel.

Diamond cutting was brought from Portugal to the Netherlands when the Jews were expelled by the House of Braganza. For centuries the Jews, domiciled in Amsterdam and Rotterdam, held the lead as craftsmen in the diamond cutting trade. Hence the strong position of the Jew in the trade today. It was with the greatest difficulty that diamond cutting was introduced and established in London. Many returned soldiers, especially the crippled, have been taught the trade in London, but are having difficulty in maintaining their position. Considerable cutting has been done in recent years in the United States, although Amsterdam and London are still the greatest markets. The South African diamond kings are either continental Jews who have either become naturalized in England or are Englishmen. The Hindus were long ago left behind as miners, merchants and cutters; their fields were not abundant or their production scientific; their jewels never went into the open market and their skill as cutters was deficient.

But imagination inevitably reverts to the days when the palaces of Delhi, Teheran or St. Petersburg held the bulk of the world's store of choice gems. The Romanoffs hoarded many priceless diamonds with their other treasures in precious stones. The Czar Ivan Alexiovitch purchased 881 brilliants; the Empress Catherine possessed 2536 brilliants; at the London Exhibition of 1857, there were shown from the Romanoff vaults a diadem containing eleven opals, 67 rubies, 1811 brilliants and 1712 rose-cut diamonds. The Czars are less of a mystery today than the fate of their sceptres and tiaras, but it may be taken as certain that some day the Orloff and its companions will be found, still glowing and flashing, indestructible and invincible.

If the Czars could have had their way all the product of the Ural mines and the choicest of all other fields would have been theirs, but this in not their age. South Africa has made it possible for anyone to purchase a one-eighth carat for some thing like $20, for the United States to purchase in one year $27,-000,000 worth of uncut diamonds and for one self-made American to give his untitled wife a $320,000 necklace. Among gems the diamond is emperor but a very democratic emperor. Even if the most famous specimens of story were to go, if the baleful gleam of the Hope were seen no more, the diamond would remain one of the greatest lures of mankind.

The tumble of stocks on the exchange will hardly become so loud as to deafen the modern maid to the utterance of the word "diamond" by the shyest of eligible men.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

MOTOR CAR TOURING

The following editorial from the Toronto Mail and Empire will be of interest to our readers:

A practice that has developed strongly across the line is that of motor camping tours. The automobile party sets out for a ramble of a week or a month, carrying small tents, and other camp equipment. Instead of paying $5 for a room per night at the hotels, the roadside is utilized as sleeping quarters. Sometimes the car is fitted up. But the cost of travelling this way is small, and and exceedingly enjoyable outings are possible. Train trips cannot possibly compete with the motor tour as a means of seeing a limited area of country. The motor tent party is becoming an institution.

The more enterprising cities and towns in the States are turning the "rage" to their own account. Springfield, Mass., has an outdoor kitchen in a tent park. In California, the Forestry Service provides electric lighting, garbage receptacles, benches, fireplaces, etc. Santa Barbara has a community park, with full services, for which a small charge is made. Fredonia, N.Y., has provided special facilities. In fact, every progressive city and town will in a year or two find the need of auto camp sites as pressing as having a railway station. More traffic may come and go out via these camps than by the station in the summer months. After all, is it not a healthy development? The high hotel charges in the cities are a terror to travellers of moderate means. From $5 to $10 per night for a room is only for plutocrats, and those who want to get poor quickly. The traveller who wants to see things by rail has hardly an alternative to patronage of the hotels, but the motor tourist who can tuck himself up in a sleeping bag or make a rough bed on top of a canvas escapes the principal cost. He has only his gasoline, tire, or other car expense, and simple meals which he himself can prepare.

If the motor car is an expense in many ways, it can be made an economy in this way. And no more delightful way of spending a holiday can be found than sight-seeing around this country or in the United States. Canadian cities and towns have not seen much of the auto camper, but when he flourishes in the States, he soon springs up in Canada, and to invite him by special facilities is an opportunity of which the most progressive communities will not be neglectful.

TAXING THE TAXLESS

Taxes, taxes, nothing but taxes. Income Tax, but I don't see where the IN comes in; the fact is the IN is OUT. Then there's the Sales Tax, Poll Tax, City Taxes, Country Taxes and coming down to brass tacks, is it a wonder most men say: Bother ? ? ? the taxes! Now, if I were Minister of Finance I would try a few other means of raising the wind, and at the same time ease the pent-up feelings of the business man.

Take short skirts for instance—instead of preaching sermons on the temptation which beset poor mortal man, why not levy a tax something like this: Allow six inches above the ground level free, one dollar for the first inch, two dollars for the second inch, three dollars for the third inch and so on until the "see" level of the knee is reached, from thence ten dollars an inch. Wouldn't that bring in the sheckles, unless fickle Dame Fashion changed again.

But I wouldn't put it all on the ladies, for I would put a tax on striped, spotted and splashed socks, such as sported by many of the sterner sex. What is more annoying than to have the ascetic eye spoilt by a conglomeration of colors which would make Benjamin's coat look as sombre as a funeral dress. And those ties that ruin the eyesight at first glimpse, with their vivid mues, a nice little tax on the wearer, another on the guy who sells them, and a double one on the maker would ease the yearly penalty of many a weary taxpayer. Of course there would be a tax on bachelors unless they could prove to the satisfaction of a mixed jury—could they?—that they had made an effort to wreck their lives on the rocks of matrimony, and then, according to their omission or commission, the tax would be fixed to meet the crime.

No, I wouldn't attempt a tax on spinsters, there would be too much danger attached; let them off and go back at them another way. According to the law of Moses —or someone else— spinsters keep cats; then tax all felines or their owners who allow the aforesaid cats to remain at large after curfew has tolled. This would produce a good revenue, and at the same time save many a poor man from using more than two and a half per cent language.

There are a lot of other ways of raising the wind. I might even think of putting a tax on politicians who will spoil a picnic with lengthy speeches, and I think it would be to their good, for there would be no bother afterwards in calling back what had better not have been said. This would raise the wind and probably the dust as well. But as I am not likely to be Minister of Finance for a hundred years or so, some of you might bring these suggestions before your M.P.'s.

The lost game of the baseball League in Fernie will be played on Sunday nert at 3 p.m, White Spruce vs. Fernie.

British Columbia residents are giving increased support to the agricultural resources of this province. Fewer strawberries were imported from the State of Washington during the past season than at any time during the past decade.

White Spruce—Waldo

White Spruce furnished the surprise for this week by shutting out the fast Waldo outfit by the score of 3 to 0.

It was a pitcher's battle all the way up till the seventh, errors behind Neisling gave the Sprucers a chance to break into the run column in the 7th. White Spruce secured a run in each of the last three closing innings. Peters for White Spruce had the Waldo tribe eating out of his hand, 16 going via the strike out route.

Batteries — Peters and O'Hara, White Spruce; Neisling and Barger, Waldo.

Wycliffe—Fernie

Fernie fans had the pleasure of witnessing one of the best games of ball staged here this season on Sunday last when Wycliffe, the league leaders shut out Fernie by the score of 3 to 0. This win for Wycliffe cinches the League Pennant for the fast Staple Lumber Co.'s ball-tossers; they now have a two-game lead on Waldo, the runners up with only one more league fixture to go.

Wycliffe secured their three runs in the third after Fernie dished out a few errors, filling the bases, followed by a couple of hits. After that airtight ball by both teams prevented further scoring.

Musser and Callihan both did good mound duty, while fast fielding behind them cut off several runs, Fernie having 8 men die on bases and Wycliffe 10. Musser was credited with 4 strike-outs and allowed 5 hits; and only allowed one mau to get as far as third; Callihan had 5 strike-outs with 8 hits chalked up against him. The fielding of both teams was good Wycliffe "booted" 3 and Fernie 5.

WALTER JOHNSON OFF BUT NOT TY COBB

Two of the greatest baseball players were declared last winter by the hot stove league patrons to have seen their best days. The winter fans had it that Ty Cobb would find the handicap of age and managerial duties with the Detroit Tigers too great to permit the stellar playing which made him the most feared player in the American League, and that Walter Johnson, of Washington, holder of many pitching records, was through.

The fallacy of winter predictions has been proved in the case of Cobb, for the Tiger manager is playing as good ball as at any time in his career, and is far ahead of his usual pace for this time of the year. In the case of Johnson, however, the records tend to uphold the winter predictions, for the fire-ball king does not seem to be able to get started.

Walter Johnson has never been the same since he reached the height of his ambition last summer by hurling a no-hit game. The great pitcher had a sore arm after that, and numerous trips to physicians seem to do little good. Johnson, always maintaining a games won and lost percentage far in advance of his team, this year is behind his team's record.

Frequently pounded out of the box this year, and many times a failure as a relief hurler, Johnson has shown virtually none of the pitching form which made him the league leader in past years.

MICHEL DRAWS WITH COLEMAN

Michel, July 16.—Michel football team visited Coleman, the present league leaders, Saturday evening, accompanied by a couple of hundred fans and in one of the fastest and roughest games this season tied with Coleman, the score being 1—1.

J. Watson was injured in the first 20 minutes but gamely played to the finish. Fowler and H. Travis had the crowd yelling with their combination rushes but had tough luck in shooting, although Fowler eventually scored Michel's goal. Michel by a misplay scored Coleman's goal for them. Coleman was lucky not to get trimmed and had horeshoes to even draw. Michel's back division could stand strengthening but we have the fastest and best forward line in the pass.

MICHEL WINS AND LOSES IN BASEBALL LEAGUE

Michel, July 16.—Michel's baseball team went to Cowley Saturday to play their league fixture there and emerged victorious, the score being 8 to 3 in favor of Michel. Some of the boys celebrated on the way home and did not reach Michel until the early morning, consequently when they played Blairmore here this afternoon they fell down badly and gave poor support to their new pitcher Todhunter, and Blairmore won today's game 7—0. Mulholland pitched for Blairmore and was accorded good support. Michel fans have now seen three former Lethbridge pitchers in action, Seaman, Pendergast and Mulholland. Are there any more to come along?

CRESTON IS SHIPPING ABUNDANCE OF SMALL FRUITS

Creston, July 18.—Although it is now at least two weeks since Creston Valley had anything that resembled even a shower, fruit crops are coming along splendidly, and the raspberries that are moving in large quantities are so far the finest lot of this fruit that has ever been shipped. However, to keep them up to this excellent standard, rain should be forthcoming before the end of the week. The latest item on the export list is summer cabbage, which started moving from the Fraser ranch on Thursday. Mr. Fraser produces this under the overhead irrigation system and the dry weather is precisely to his liking — rain has a tendency to split the cabbage heads. With continued hot weather his crop will average at least 15 tons of marketable cabbage to the acre. About the only disappointing field crop this year is potatoes, which are not showing their usual healthy growth, and are patchy besides. The season has been quite ideal for spuds, and about the only way to account for it is that growers are cropping their land too often to murphies, while others are using the same varieties year after year on pretty much the same potato lands.

The shipping of perishable fruit will be at the peak of the season this week, and right now the eastbound train is running at least an hour behind time due to having to wait for the boat, loading fruit at Kootenay Lake points, and the half hour or more that is lost loading fruit at the three Creston Valley stations. On Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays the C. P. R. is supplying an additional ventilated express car to handle the tri-weekly shipping from the lake points.

RAIL WAGE CUTS APPLY FROM JULY 16

Montreal, July 19.—Official announcement was made today by all Canadian railway companies that the new wage scales, providing for an average reduction of 12 per cent, which was recently submitted to the officials of the brotherhoods, would be effective as from Saturday, July 16. About 300,000 men are affected.

The companies, it was stated, at first intended to make the reduction effective as from July 1, but found that in the case of the maintenance of way employees the 30 days' notice required under the Canadian Industrial Disputes Act did not expire until last week.

WILL PUNISH OFFENDERS

Victoria, July 18.—It will cost soldiers' and other clubs a lot of money before they are through with it if, after being caught, they think they can safely continue to sell beer during the long time their cases are before the courts of appeal. So declared Attorney General Farris here in commenting upon the breaches of the act.

BRILLIANT SWIMMING

The recent Mid-Pacific water carnival in Honolulu furnished evidence that Hawaiian swimmers are heading more and more toward their avowed goal—world's leadership.

Brilliant performances marked the meet, and results showed that the younger watermen and maids, in particular, are developing at a rate which will make them formidable rivals to the world's best in competition hereafter.

Pua Kealoha, the 18 year old marvel of the Hui Makani Club, won the 50 yard dash in 24 2-5 seconds, the 100 yard sprint in 54 4-5 seconds and the 220 yard swim in 2 minutes 24 4-5 seconds, times which no swimmer has equalled consistently in open water so far. And there is every reason to believe he has only begun to show of what he is capable, for he was a novice less than two years ago.

The three sprint races afforded proof also that Hawaii has other great short distance swimmers, for Warren Kealoha, William Harris, Harold Kruger and San Kahanamoku forced the pace all the way in one or the other and were hard in the running to the finish. Unfortunately, Duke Kahanamoku, world's recordist at 50, and 100 yards, was not among the contestants.

Lady Langer, another representative of the Hui Makani, stamped himself one of the foremost middle distance swimmers yet come to light. He came within an ace of the international standards in the 440 and 880 yard race, which he captured in 5 minutes 2-5 second and 11 minutes 15 1-5 seconds respectively, and he defeated, among others, that famous Australian champion, Frank Beaurepaire, of Melbourne, who has to his credit a victory at 880 yards over the great Norman Ross.

It is to be regretted that William Harris, a sterling all round performer, was anxious to measure strokes with Kealoha in the sprints, and so failed to start in the longer events. Hawaiians expected confidently to see him put up a splendid fight at the quarter and half against Langer and Beaurepaire, and there is little doubt he would have driven them hard, for he beat both in the 220 yard swim.

In the racing for mermaids, the outstanding feature was the work of a 16 year old girl, Miss Mariechen Wesselau, of the Outrigger Club. Not only did she swim the peerless Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey of New York a dead heat at 50 yards in the world's record time of 28 4-5 seconds, but she finished second to the latter in the women's national 100 yard outdoor championship, herself covering the course in 1 minute 5 2-5 seconds. This is a mark which only Miss Bleibtrey has beaten to date, and predicts a wonderful future for the little islander.

Other Hawaiian lassies in their teens who displayed astonishing ability were the Misses Estelle Cassidy, Helen Moses and Lily Bowmer. The two first named were close to the leaders in the 50 yard dash and finished within a very few seconds of Miss Weselau in the 100 yard swim, while Miss Bowmer won a 50 yard race for girls under 15 in 40 1-5 seconds, equalling the time which captured the women's national title in this country last winter. These three together with Miss Weselau, also swam as a team for the Outrigger Club, and romped away with a 400 yard relay race in 4 minutes 47 3-5 seconds, setting a new open-water world's record for the event.

Honolulu still lacks mermaids able to cover distance from the furlong upward in fast time, but the youth of the freshly developed stars, and their remarkably swift improvement lately ,indicate they will acquire all-round ability as they gain strength and skill with maturity.

BANFF ROAD AND MOVIES

tion as soon as it can be done.

Yours very truly,

Fernie, B.C., July 16, 1921.

Sir James Lougheed, Minister of the Interior, Ottawa.

Dear Sir James — It has been brought to the attention of this Board of Trade that it is the intention of the government to curtail its expenditures on the Banff-Windermere road this year, and that if this is done, the work at present being carried on will have to be discontinued about the middle of August, and if so over 150 men will be thrown out of employment at a time when there will be very great difficulty in securing other work, owing to the number already out of employment in the province. This is one of the strongest arguments against a stoppage of work on this road, but there are many others just as important, and as I am fully in touch with this matter, I have been instructed by this Board to take it up with your Department in the hope that you will see the great importance of this road being finished and open for motor travel without delay.

On a recent tour throughout Washington, Oregon and California, I called on all the Automobile Clubs and Tourist Bureaus and had long talks with them all in my endeavor to have them route people up into British Columbia. They were all particularly enthusiastic about the province, but said that nearly all of their enquiries had requests for information about this road, and that they were quite sure that when it was opened there would be thousands coming this way. The road has been so extensively advertised that the great proportion are putting off their visit until it is opened, which is causing a loss of revenue to this province of thousands upon thousands of dollars yearly. The California State Auto Association has recently written to me asking for partculars about it, and in their letter stated that there were thousands in California alone only waiting for it to be opened to tour here. Most of those who do come from there will come up through Spokane and return through Macleod and Lethbridge to Glacier and Yelstone Parks, consequently it is not only this province which is losing, but Alberta as well.

This Bureau receives enquiries from all over America about touring this province and most of them are anxious to come as soon as this road is opened.

There are a lot of them now who are driving up to Golden and shipping their cars to Lake Louise, but the facilities supplied by the C.P.R. are so poor and vexatious to the tourist, and I have received so many complaints about it, that I am afraid the advertising they will do for us will be of the kind we do not want.

We understand on reliable information, that if an additional grant of $50,000 is made this year for the carrying on of the work, at the end of this year there will only remain between 16 and 18 miles uncompleted, which could easily be finished in 1922, otherwise it will be 1923 before it is done, which means, that for the sake of such a small additional sum, the provinces of British Columbia and Alberta will lose a revenue which at a very conservative estimate would amount to considerably more than a million dollars.

The Associated Boards of South Eastern B.C. ,comprising Fernie, Cranbrook, Creston, Windermere and Golden, are all vitally interested in this matter, and have done all in their power to have the work finished as speedily as possible.

Three years ago we were promised that the work would be rushed and hopes were held out that it would be finished during the latter part of 1920 or early in 1921. A Highway Association was formed with offices in Calgary, Spokane, Seattle, Portland and in several places in California. Literature was prepared and has been distributed throughout the whole of America. Many tourists expecting to go over the road came here last summer and already there have been a number this year. Their disappointment has been great, and the impression created in their minds has not been very complimentary. They think that we have been very slow and dilatory.

Trusting that your Department will realize the importance of an early completion of the work and make the additional grant to enable it to be carried on this year.

We remain,

Yours very truly,

The Fernie Board of Trade.

CITY FATHERS IN SESSION

The regular meeting of the city council was held last night with all present except Ald. Bean.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read.

A telegraphic offer to sell the city $10,000 worth of its bonds at 79 was received. This could not be accepted at this time.

Letters from the B.C. Underwriters Association were received and read. These dealt with the question that arose last meeting through the apparent derogatory reports having been communicated to the Provincial Department of Insurance and the Fire Underwriters Association, alleging unsatisfactory conditions in the Fire Department. His Worship conducted the correspondence in this connection and presented the true state of affairs as they exist in relation to fire protection and prevention within the city. The responses received from the coast since they received the authentic information commend the municipality and also express gratification that the reports first directing their attention to the city were misleading. The Underwriters also commend the city on the inauguration of the garbage disposal system.

On motion of Aldermen Irvine and Corrie the council concurred in the report of the Mayor.

The city loan under the government Better Housing Scheme, was the subject of a lengthy discussion and the Mayor was authorized to execute the necessary documents in the event of this matter advancing that far before the next meeting.

A list of delinquents for garbage disposal service was presented. There appears to be some who absolutely refuse to pay these charges, basing their refusal on various grounds. The council decided that this practice most come to a halt. The bylaw must be tested if necessary, so all those in arrears will receive due notification that they must pay up on or before Aug. 25 or legal proceedings to collect will be taken.

In the matter of sending a delegate to the Convention of B.C. Municipalities, which opens in Alberni on Aug. 31, it was decided that there were no matters of sufficient importance coming up at this gathering to warrant making the expenditure.

The Shops Regulation Bylaw will be revised and brought up to date. His Worship said in looking over some of the earlier bylaws, in view of Henderson being blamed for all the Sunday Observance regulations and enforcements, he was surprised to learn that so far back as 1909 an ordinance was passed which imposes a penalty up to six months' imprisonment for anyone selling anything other than drugs on prescription on the Lord's Day.

A number of owners of plots in the cemetery have approached the Mayor with regard to installing a water supply in the graveyard. A committee will look into the feasibility of this and report back to council at a later date.

The council went into committee of the whole to consider the provisions of the Fire Prevention Bylaw. The committee reported back and a second and third reading came in regular order.

Bylaw 237, the Automobile Garage Bylaw, received the same treatment.

Bylaw No. 236, being the Offensive Trades Bylaw, was finally passed and adopted.

BOYHOOD CLASSIC, NOW IN PICTURES, TREAT FOR YOUNG

What boy missed seeing Maurice Tourneur's "Treasure Island?"

"Hardly a one" answers theatre managers all over the country.

When this famous French producer made Stevenson's widely read book into a scenario critics conceded that he had produced a wonderful picture. Most of them observed the masterful way in which he brought tense moments—every thrill — and made the story more than worth seeing. Just as they reported this point in that picture, so have the advance audiences praised the same in "The Last of the Mohicans," which will be shown at the Orpheum next Wednesday and Thursday.

"The Last of the Mohicans" is finely visualized by excellent characters with the master hand of Tourneur ever off-screen, guiding them smoothly in their varied actions. The camera work, scenic effects and wondrously gorgeous settings are all astonishingly beautiful, and the picture is bound to please the many patrons of this popular house. One show only each night at 8 p.m. Admission: Adults 50c: children 25c.

HANDS DOWN JUDGMENT

His Honor Judge Thompson handed down judgment in the case of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co. vs. Dr. Weldon, of Michel, this week, heard at the special session of the County Court on July 14 and 15. Action was brought by the Company to evict Dr. Weldon from the premises occupied by him as hospital and office-residence, under the overholding section of the Landlords and Tenants Act. The defence contended by reason of an arrangement under the Master and Servants Act between the Doctor and the employees at Michel, of which the Company, if not a party to, was cognizant of, and therefore the eviction proceedings could not apply as this would terminate the medical aid plan in operation at the colliery. His Honor adjourned the matter for ten days in order that the Workmen's Compensation Board or the Attorney General could be served with notice of these proceedings and given an opportunity to intervene. Neither of these parties desired to intervene with the result that the following judgment has been signed by the Court: "I hold that the tenancy was a monthly tenancy; that due notice to quit has been given and a demand for possession. I cannot see how the Master and Servants Act can affect the tenancy of the hospital and the house. While it may work a hardship upon the defendant,, the plaintiff is entitled to possession of the premises, and I direct that the proper writ be issued in order that the plaintiff may obtain possession of the hospital and the house. Costs to the plaintiff."

THE BALL GAME NEXT SUNDAY

The big ball game that has been the talk of the district since July 1, between White Spruce and Waldo, is to be staged on Sunday next.

This game is played as the result of their tie game on Sports Day, when the game was called on account of darkness at the end of the 8th innings.

The managements of both teams, the fans who saw the game, in fact everybody concerned, were desirous of seeing a decision reached, consequently rather than split the gate then a game to decide the issue has been hanging fire ever since with final mutual arrangements to be made.

Since July 1 Waldo has had the misfortune to have two players put on the sick list and approached their opponents for the privilege to secure men to fill their places. Permission was granted with the right of White Spruce to do the same. The teams no doubt will procure the best available men. These added to the line-up of the teams as they appeared on July 1, will make the game one of the fastest of the season and will be worth watching.

Fans who had the pleasure of seeing the game between Waldo and Wycliffe on Labor Day, 1919, well remember it. The one on Sunday will be well up alongside it in regards to class.

Booster tags will be sold at 50c. 40 p.c. of the aggregate gate will be turned over to the Children's Fund. The clubs are undergoing extra expense to stage this game and the remaining 60 per cent will go to help defray such expenses.

In all probability Kastner and Adamson will officiate. Fans who know the ability of both men as umpires will be assured of the fairest decisions being rendered.

Mrs. Fred Clarkston and child are visiting at the coast.

SCOUTS HAD GREAT TIME

Sunburned and tanned, fifty odd Boy Scouts arrived back in Fernie on the 23rd inst., thus bringing to a close the first annual Boy Scout summer camp. Was it a success? Just ask the boys themselves and we assure you that we'll stand by their verdict. Two glorious weeks of camping with activities that delight the heart of every healthy, red-blooded boy.

Perchance you were not among the lucky ones who had the opportunity of coming out to see the boys, so we will give you an opportunity of at least hearing how the time was spent:

6.30 a.m.—Reveille.
7.00 a.m.—Parade and inspection.
7.15 am—Breakfast.
8.00 a.m.—Tent inspection
9.00 a.m.—Rifle practice, Wolf and Fox patrols.
9.00 a.m.—Signalling. Eagle and Owl patrols.
9.00 a.m.—Camp chores. Creston and Stag patrols
9.00 a.m.—Fatigue duty. Beaver patrol.
10.00 a.m.—Orderly room.
1100 a.m.—Swimming parade.
12.00 noon—Dinner.
12.30 to 1.30 — Compulsory rest hour.
2.00 to 4.00 p.m.—Fishing.
4.30 to 5.00 p.m.—Recreation.
5.30 to 6.15 p.m.—Supper.
6.15 to 8.45 p.m.—Football, baseball and fishing
8.45 p.m.—Warning for parade.
9.00 p.m.—Lowering of flag and roll call.
9.30 p.m.—"Last Post."
10.00 p.m.—"Lights Out.."

This program was changed daily, but is a sample of the boys' activities

On Saturday, July 16, a sham battle was held in which Billy Bean was the hero. Practically all the Scouts took part in this and a great time was spent.

One of the features of the camp was the "camp-fire" at night. Impromptu concerts and heart to heart talks took place daily at this period, and few boys who took part in this camp will forget the last night. "Lights Out" was not sounded until midnight and sufficient is it to say that the memory of this last camp-fire will live in the memory of the boys long after they have outgrown the boys.

The seven Creston Scouts came in to Fernie with our Scouts and were billeted here until Monday morning, when they pulled out on the morning train accompanied by the cheers and Scout call of the Fernie boys.

In conclusion, the Fernie Scouts have come to stay. They have justified their existence and are entering more whole-heartedly into their training, and the Scoutmaster wishes to avail himself of this opportunity of thanking the parents and citizens of Fernie who have so kindly assisted in making this first annual Boy Scout Camp the success that it has been.

Geo. C. Evans, Scoutmaster.

OLD MAN DROWNED

A sad fatal accident occurred near Baynes Lake on Sunday morning, when Martin Tormey, aged 99 years, met death by drowning in a small unnamed lake near that place. Deceased is survived by his widowed daughter, Mrs. D. Hart, also of Baynes and with whom he resided. The aged man, although totally blind,, took frequent walks around the neighborhood guiding himself by his cane and the fences. On Sunday he took one of these customary rambles, but when still missing at 11 o'clock a search was instituted. His body was found partly submerged in the small lake mentioned, about 1.30 p.m. It would appear that the old gentleman had lost his way from the end of the fence he had been following and wandered aimlessly until he fell over the rather steep embankment at the edge of the lake and into the water. Coroner Duthie held an inquiry into the matter and decided an inquest was not necessary, as death was undoubtedly due to purely accidental causes.

Believing that it is practical Christianity to provide employment for those who are willing to work but cannot find it, a number of Vancouver ministers are actively supporting the Made-in-B.C. Campaign.

NOTICE

There will be a public meeting held in the Council Chamber on Monday night at 8 p.m., in connection with the Children's Swimming Pool. Important matters will be discussed; also means of raising additional funds on Labor Day.

LIQUOR CASE ADJOURNED

This morning a further remand of eight days was granted in the Liquor Act prosecution Rex vs. Geo. Bowen, steward of the Fernie G. W. V. A. A. I. Fisher, counsel for the Crown, intimated the adjournment was necessary inasmuch as there were other cases before the higher courts of the province at the coast in which points of law are being raised by the defence, and until these have been finally disposed of it would be somewhat futile to proceed in a matter wherein identical points would come up. The defence renewed its undertaking not to sell, handle or deal in any way with liquor pending hearing of the trial. It was made very clear by the Crown, however, that with respect to the local case some points of evidence might differ from the other cases being tried elsewhere, and after decisions on those are known each party will be at liberty to contest the case as may be advisable, and that any decisions would only be binding upon each party insofar as they thought applicable. Mr. Mitchell for the defence expressed full agreement as to this, adding that each party would reserve the entire freedom to act as though no test cases had been heard.

BROOMLEY COULD NOT DRESS SELF

Was Victim of Rheumatism For Three Years But Says Tanlac Completely Restored Him.

"Tanlac has not only rid me of a terrible case of rheumatism but I have gained fourteen pounds in weight besides," said Harry Broomley, of 627 Victor Street, Winnipeg, Man.

"While overseas with the Canadian Forestry Division I became so crippled up with rheumatism I had to be sent back home from France, and was in a hospital at Brighton, England, for a long time. My legs got so stiff I couldn't bend them and could only get around by the help of a walking-stick. Then the rheumatism spread to my shoulders, arms and hands so that I couldn't even dress myself or write my name and the pain throughout my whole body was something awful.

"I had such terrible pains after every meal I was almost afraid to eat and fell off twenty-five pounds in weight. The little I did force down would lie in my stomach like lead and I would bloat up terribly with gas.

"When I got back to Canada and received my discharge I met an old friend who also had been overseas and had suffered much the same way as myself. He told me how Tanlac had put him right and advised me to try it. So I got a bottle and it did me so much good I kept right on with it until now I am a different man. I can now eat a good hearty meal without suffering from indigestion. The rheumatism has entirely left my shoulders, arms and legs and I no longer need a walking-stick to get around. I have gained fourteen lbs. and am so much stronger I can work all day long and don't get tired."

RAILWAYS CANT OPERATE

The people of this continent are only now beginning to realize the fearful consequences of the McAdoo railway award. It took time for the absured system inaugurated under the Wilson regime to bring about the financial decay that was sure to follow. The standardization of railway employees' wages, along with impossible working conditions wished on the railways of both the United States and Canada, has not only had the effect of piling up enormous deficits, but worse yet, the smaller railways have in some instances ceased operation entirely, the plants being sold as junk.

The Hon. Joseph M. Brown, ex-governor of Georgia, in a recent communication to Congress, set forth the situation as he sees it in his own state. For instance,, he cites the case of the Georgia Coast and Piedmont railway. Not only has bankruptcy followed in the trail of the McAdoo award in respect to this line, but the road itself has been absolutely dismantled, the ties, the steel rails, the locomotives and the cars all being sold for what they would bring under the auctioneer's hammer. Think what it means to the country served by this railway. The towns and villages formerly fed by this line are now cut off from civilization, except for the wagon roads. They are in the back woods once more, relegated to primitive conditions which they have not known for generations.

The positions of the Valdosta, Moultrie and Western railway, another Georgian corporation, is little or no better, for the appointment of a receiver forshadows a plan to scrap the line and sell it for junk. If the line is scrapped, as seems likely, it will leave numerous formerly prosperous Georgian centres without railway communications.

Another case in point is the Georgia and Florida railway, which recently asked the federal government for a loan of $1,700,00, in order to pay off pressing creditors, and keep its 250 miles of line in operation. The alternative is the scrap heap.

In Louisana a bid was made recently by the Southern Scrap and Metal Co., of New Orleans, for the prilege of junking a goodly portion of the Arkansas and Louisana Midland railway, and at the moment southern business men are endeavoring to save it from its fate.

Think of the wage scales and the working arrangements which force such conditions upon an innocent public, and think also of the unemployment that such a suicidal course will bring in its wake.

In our own case we are only better off to the degree in which the Canadian Pacific and our Government owned lines can stand the gaff. The one dependant upon surpluses earned in better days; the other upon the public purse.—Saturday Night.

COMING TO ORPHEUM

Mark of The Beast

There are certain brutal happenings and nameless cruelities that make men despair of the thing called humanity. Nor do all of these happen in Armenia, or Africa, or in savage lynchings by fire and rope. They happen even in Philadelphia.

A 17-year-old boy, a strippling of a lad, whose only offense was that he was working in a job from which a striker had walked out, was set upon by three assailants. He was rendered helpless. While helpless, down and done for, air was forced into his body from a compressed air tank. The tremendous pressure ripped his lungs and other vital organs to shreds.

Now, what manner of creatures are these animals who did this thing? They doubtless are shaped like men, walk and have speech like men and have been regarded as men by their fellow beings.

It is this sort of crime on the part of supposed strikers and alleged workers that is breeding a cold rage in the hearts of decent Americans.

Somewhere this sort of bestiality is planned, approved and applauded after it is done. Somewhere the torturer and killer wears the crown of a hero.

If the leaders of workers' organizations do not want labor blamed for such outrages, it is time that they bestirred themselves. They must aid in stamping it out or take the white-hot blame that is coming. Mere words will not help. Unless they want the stigma to rest on the whole movement they must help in the finding and the hanging of murderers and the punishment of mutilators and torturers.

Will they help in removing the mark of the beast?—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

BOLD, BAD VILLAINS

The decay of the villain is lamented by E. T. Raymond in the current Strand. No more really bold, bad men in the novels, he says, and all because people no longer believe in Good and Evil. Hence the decay of "that once glorious thing," melodrama. Since Dickens and his contemporaries the best writers, it is argued at some length, have produced only milk-and-water villains, instead of the rampaging, full-blown Heeps, Levisons and Count Foscos, who were so detested by their authors. Long, John Silver, of "Treasure Island," was so apparently beloved by his creator, Robert Louis Stevenson, as not to qualify in the Villainy stakes.

But how Charles Dickens, Wilkie Collins and Miss Braddon did hate their villains and hang 'em unmercifully! Dickens gloats over Fagin, Dennis the hangman, Jonas Chuzzlewit and Carker. But the modern mode of H. G. Wells would have asked us to consider Uriah Heap as the victim of a vicious scheme of education and Pickwick as a vicious exploiter of the workers, that benevolent person being quite evidently well-to-do. The real villain to Wells and his ilk woud be the social system, and it is pretty hard to make that thing a convincing villain.

Curiously enough, the Victorian women novelists of the higher class were more tolerant of villains than the men. George Eliot showed a good deal of the modern tendency to mix up vice and virtue in one and the same persons. Charlotte Bronte takes an undoubted Victorian villain, a libertine in practice, bigamist in intention, and transforms him, without any expostulation on his part, into a most undaunted hero. On the other hand, Mrs. Henry Wood, in "East Lynne," has a superby complete villain in Sir Francis Levison—bold, bad and baronetical. He is actually described as "that bold, bad man"—that famous phrase, not an invention of satire.

"You damned Frenchman," as the hero throttled the sleek one, used to be a stock-in-trade, but the war changed that, and German villains have never had enough of finesse. While Wilkie Collins produced surpassingly romantic and villainous Latin types, Thackery's good humor marked the incipient decline, which Anthony Hope and William le Queux have valiantly but vainly attempted to counteract. The climax came with the glorification of the villain Raffles, by E. W. Hornung.

The modern veip is struck by Wells, who makes heroes out of all sorts of viliains. The self-confessed irregularities of Mr. Britling would certainly bring an old house down on him, or get him cut to pieces by an express, if Dickens were arbiter of his fate. Instead he saw it through as the model for everyone. Why all the change? It is in the attitude of the people. Mr. Raymond says that when God and the Devil are disestablished in favor of something called biological necessity, and microbes are feared much more than demons, it is natural that the old sharp distinction between good people and bad people should be blurred. And the Old Bailey and the Toronto Police Court remain about the only places where one cannot plead the pressure of an unjust social environment. Besides, Shakespeare was the master of melodrama, and he is dead.

Co-Operation in Human Efforts

If there is one thing which has been made clear to us in the past six years it is that communities and individuals have a capacity for endurance far exceeding all rational estimates in the previous years. The enemy endures for years on a diet which by all scientific tests is insufficient to support life for more than a few months; the hunger-striker who ought to have died in three weeks lives on for six or seven; the nation which is manifestly bankrupt carries on with all the appearance of solvency and even prosperity for an apparently unlimited time; the strike, which ought to have ended in complete exhaustion at the end of a month, continues unabated after two months, and the community which ought to have been strangled by it is alive and cheerful and comparatively indifferent. — Westminster Gazette.

POPULAR CONDUCTOR, A FORMER RESIDENT, DIES AT KINGSGATE

(Lethbridge Herald, Mon. July 25th)

George Frederick Goff, 42 years of age, for twenty years a railroad man on the Canadian Pacific Crow's Nest line, will be buried here tomorrow. Mr. Goff, who has been a popular conductor on the Crow line for many years, passed away at Kingsgate Friday of tuberculosis, a disease which grew out of injuries received in a wreck fifteen years ago at Doolin Pit, near Medicine Hat. In this wreck Mr. Goff had his chest crushed. The deceased and his family resided in Lethbridge for about six years. The family is well known here.

George Frederick Goff was born in Christchurch, England, coming to Canada at the age of three. The family settled in Toronto, George later coming west. He started railroading at Medicine Hat. On Feb. 3, 1902, he married Isabel Edith Campbell of Toronto. She with two sons, George, nine, and Lawerence, eleven, survive him. Mr. Goff's father resides at Toronto, also a brother, Charles, who lives in that city.

After undergoing treatment in many sanitariums and trying different climates, Mr. Goff returned to his home in Kingsgate, where he passed away. Funeral services were held in Cranbrok Sunday in the Presbyterian church, the deceased being an adherent of that faith.

THE KEEPING OF POULTRY

If resident in either town or country and you wish to know how best to keep poultry and secure the most satisfactory results, consult a pamphlet treating the subject prepared by the Dominion Husbandman, F. C. Elford, and recently issued by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. The pamphlet can be had free on application to the Publications Branch. It tells of how poultry can be made to pay, how the birds should be housed and fed, how they should be treated in winter and summer, how to commence keeping in a small way, the equipment that is desirable, how to choose a breed, how to hatch and rear, and how to gather, keep, or market the eggs. In short all the esentials to success in poultry keeping for home comsumption or selling are clearly and explicitly explained.

In the term poultry are included turkeys, geese, ducks, guinea fowl and pigeons, the raising and care of which are fully discussed. Numerous illustrations of types of birds, and of methods of housing and feeding contribute to make the pamphlet an invaluable compendium on poultry-keeping and marketing.

France Welcomes Mr. Herrick

The welcome extend to Ambassador Herrick by President Millerand at the Elysee palace was marked by such unprecedented details of ceremoial as call for the most cordial American rejoinder to the expressions of honor made by the president of the French Republic to the ambassador of the Uniter States. The extreme of mutual cordiality was made evident by President Millerand's provision of a royal escort for the visitor and his personal assurance that France is anxious to work with America toward the establishment of normal and friendly relations, and by Ambassador Herrick's outspoken words of more than formal friendship and a prayer for co-operation in the truest interest of both nations.

France has learned to love Ambassador Herrick; as Le Temps has said, recently: "No Frenchman will ever forget what Mr. Herrick did for France in 1914." an dequally, no American now lacks the highest admiration for what France did for the world in her stand for civilization. It is fitting that Mr. Herrick, so endeared to France, should again represent this country in the capital of the land of Lafayette and Foch.—New York Sun.

At last a friend advised me to take 'Fruit-a-tives'. I did so and soon I felt some relief. I continued with 'Fruit-a-tives' and in a short time, the Constipation was banished, I felt no more pains or headache or the disagreeable sensations that follow dyspepsia. Now I am well, strong and vigorous."

The U. S. Lumber Schedule

If we were short a million and a half homes when lumber was on the free list, how much worse off shall we be if Canadian lumber, as tentatively proposed in schedule D of the Fordney Bill, is subject to a twenty-five per cent. ad valorem duty. Certain powerful groups are in the capital working hard for Schedule D. What if they succeed? Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr. estimates that this twenty-five per cent protection will cost us, if we still insist on importing Canadian lumber, $200,000,000 a year. If we refuse to pay this, and fall back on our own resources, our dwindling capital of forests will be further whittled away. Our forests, heaven knows, need protection enough already, but Schedule D means the kind of protection that protects nobody but the few men who profit from the destruction of the forests.—From the New Republic.

The Absent-Minded Bishop

Many amusing stories are told of the absent-mindedness of a certain prelate whose see is on the road to Lyonesse. For example, he was travelling on a branch line in Devonshire, and when the train stopped at a place where tickets are inspected he searched his pockets in vain. "It does not matter in the least, my Lord," said the railway official.

"It matters a great deal," was the bishop's reply. "For how can I tell where I am going to if I cant not find my ticket?"—London Morning Post.

BASEBALL LEAGUE

The East Kootenay Baseball League closed its 1921 season's schedule with last Sunday's games; Wycliffe carrying off the honors with 8 wins and 2 looses and has the right to fly the Pennant.

The six teams comprising the league have engaged in home and home games only; the season being hardly long enough to permit the extension to another set of such games, and the number of teams participating not big enough to carry games any farther under such a plan; consequently the schedule terminates seemingly in mid-season. There are still about five weeks of good ball weather and each team is now at liberty to stage games independent of the league.

The league has had a very successful season and is on a good footing toward a better one next year. This, the league's first year in operation, has disclosed numerous faults that need to be rectified in the future years to enable the elimination of dissention between teams and players. Outside of minor umpiring troubles, the importation of men to strengthen some of the teams, etc., very little trouble has been encountered, but the league will profit immensely by its experience so far.

The following is the standing of the teams at the close of the season:—

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Wycliffe	8	2	800
Waldo	7	3	700
Fernie	6	4	600
Cranbrook	5	5	500
White Spruce	3	7	300
Wardner	1	9	100

—Results last week—

Fernie 7 — White Spruce 2.
Wycliffe 7 — Cranbrook 9.
Wardner 0 — Waldo 11.

WHITE SPRUCE vs. FERNIE

Fernie took the closing league game with White Spruce on Sunday last by the score of 7 to 2.

Fernie had on their line up two new men and they were instrumental in holding the defensive play of the team from getting out of bounds on several occasions.

The class of ball put up by both teams was as fast as has been seen so far in any of the league games here. White Spruce lead in the scoring up to the seventh, when successive hitting by Fernie gave them 4 runs, enough to overcome the lead against them and put the game on the shelf.

OUR GOLF GOING WRONG

What is the matter with golf? Well, there are a lot of things the matter with golf. For one thing, it is getting away from the average player. I note in the American papers that a fellow down in New York has invented a range finding putter. "The club," we are told, "consists of a metal cap with a twelve inch rod or sight attached to the putter. The sight enables the player to get a true line on the hole just as a range finder on a gun, thus making a perfect shot. From the edge of the green the inventor holed in eleven consecutive times with the device."

Next comes a new kind of a driver —very expensive—but it will send a ball farther than has heretofore been possible. Particularly if one uses some new fangled ball or other, or perhaps a club with a steel shaft in place of a wooden one. Next thing we know some one will be inventing a gun, projecting the golf ball with T.N.T. and the new weapon will be guaranteed to shoot the ball from any tee to any green on the course. Such invention will naturally follow the range finding putter. Between the two, with possibly other inventions to follow, most anybody will be able to make the long holes in three and the short ones in two or possibly one, and in place of golf players the links will be filled with sharp-shooters.

And this reminds me of another ever growing of our troubles. Throughout the country there is an ever growing tendency to make our golf courses more difficult. Highly paid experts (golf engineers) are employed. They proceed to tear down old hills and build new hills, all at an enormous expense. They guage all play by the standard of Bobby Jones, Duncan and Mitchell, people whose every day drive is two hundred and fifty yards or upward, mostly upward, and who with a mashie "swipe the pill" for a hundred and fifty yards.

Such being the case the golf engineers place a cross bunker at a disance of one hundred and fifty to one hundred and sixty yards from the tee, and in consequence Mr. Average Player plumps right in it on his first shot. For sure he is what the experts call a "dub," making the eighteen holes in a hundred, or worse, and therefore is not entitled to much, if any, consideration. But at the same time it would be well to remember that he is the average player. In fact, if he goes the eighteen in one hundred there will be five who play worse to the one who does better.

If golf is to remain the popular game that it should it will be well to remember that the payers—the mainstays of the clubs of the country—are not all Vardons and Rays, Braids and Taylors. We like to think of Ray with his three hundred yard drives but that is his business. We play golf for the fun of the thing. But if it ceases to be fun then we will find other amusement.—Saturday Night.

The Fernie Baseball Team's Batting and Fielding Average

With the close of the League the scorekeeper has compiled the averages of the Fernie players and team. The averages of games played take in all the league games and the three exhibition games that the team participated in, with the score on each occasion; it will be noted that the team has scored 95 runs with 69 against them, and only on two accasions has the score in the debit reached two figures, while they were set back once via the shut-out route. The averages cover the thirteen games the team has played so far this year.

In the batting averages, which are only complied from the league games, C. Colton is away out in front, leading with a margin of 203 points, he also excels as the leading run-getter, being almost double his nearest rival The team batting average is .214.

In the fielding averages, according to the biggest amount of games played, Callihan leads with .929, misusing 8 chances out of 114, "Pep" Colton is running him close, being only 2 points behind. The team's fielding is .876.

WILD WOMEN IN DAYS OF YORE

Where are the wild women of yesteryear?

They are gone. I suspect, for good. The conclusion is reached after a perusal of an ancient green-covered book which I picked up in a secondhand shop. The inscription on its back, "Pirates' Own Book," contracted my attention. It was only a short time later that I realized what an essentially feminine person the most radical of the cigarette-smoking ballot-casting women of to-day is in comparison with a few who lived at the beginning of the 19th century.

The female bandit of to-day, when banditry is flourishing, is unknown. In 1809 when pirates were scouring the sea a number of the fair sex assisted in the scouring and proved quite the equal of the blood-thirsty males in the courageous efficiency of their work—if one may be permitted to speak in such a fashion of their unlawful profession.

There was Anne Bonney, so the pirate book will inform you, a peaceful housewife of Cork until she took to the seas and unrighteousness. Anne was respectably married at first, but not for long, since she chose to elope with a handsome sea-dog named Captain Racham. Together they pillaged happily upon the seas for a while until the captain had the misfortune to be captured after an engagement and was sentenced to be hanged.

"If you had fought like a man," she told him with feminine tenderness, just before he was suspended from the gallows, "you would not now be hanging like a dog." This discouraging experience apparently disgusted Anne and she disappeared from the police record from that time on. She was a "fearless and intrepid fighter" and proved to be a capable asistant to her husband, except upon the numerous occasions when she was about to present him with heirs and of a necessity, was parked on the shore temporarily.

Even a more notorious figure in a profession which one could naturally classify as an essentially masculine one, was Mary Reid. In her early years Mary was dressed as a boy by her mother in order that a prosperous grandmother might be imposed upon and persuaded to contribute to her support. The habit of deception apparently grew upon Mary. She continued the disguise even after the moneyed grandmother had died.

She entered the army as a trooper and concealed the secret of her sex until she fell in love with a fellow-soldier, after which it was soon discovered. She married the gentleman and lived a happy, though respectable life until he died. Then, again assuming the dress of a man, she went on board a vessel bound for the West Indies. The vessel was captured by pirates and Mary impressed into the service. With varying adventures she continued as one of them, displaying great courage, virtue and revealing her sex only upon two occasions. One was when Anne Bonney, believing her to be a man, fell in love with her and aroused the jealousy of Captain Rackam. An explanation was necessary to straighten out the tangled state of affairs. Both agreed not to reveal the confidence however, and she continued her manly ocupation until her susceptible heart again got the better of her.

This time she fell in love with an artist, one of the prisoners taken aboard after a merchant vessel had been captured by the crew. The artist, as one might suspect from his calling, was not much of a fighting man, but nevertheless, was foolish enough to quarrel with one of the crew. Mary, learning that a duel was to be fought, and fearing for the safety of her lover, challenged the pirate to a combat herself. One obtains a vivid idea of the result of the duel by an amusing wood-cut in the "Pirates' Own Book." The sailorman is shown standing before Mary with a surprised and disturbed look upon his plain countenance. The cause of his distress is Mary's sword, which has been run through his body. Mary's artist, therefore has no duel to fight, and they swore eternal love and faithfulness to one another. Which, since there was no clergyman to be found on or near their pirate ship, was as much as could be expected under the circumstances.

Mary's life was happy and more or less uneventful from that point on. She was, to be sure, eventually captured and brought before a court of justice. But the judgment was never executed. Sentence was suspended until Mary could give birth to a child. This having been dutifully done, she thoughtlessly brought an end to an adventurous career by dying.

Yes, sir, those were the days when women wore the trousers and made strong men tremble with fear.

ROBBERY AT MICHEL

MICHEL, B. C., July 25th.—Some time between noon Sunday and Monday morning burglars entered the Trites-Wood Co. departmental store here through the coal shute, and by the look of things proceeded to fill up on watermellon and other eats in the basement, before proceeding upstairs to help themselves.

The cash register in the meat and grocery department was opened but only a small quantity of change was missing. This change was left over from late Saturday night.

The robbers evidently intended having a good time as they took a quantity of fishing tackle and tobacco. The hardware department also lost some knives and flashlights, etc.

The clothing department was next visited and practically two complete outfits were taken, indicating that two did the stunt. They also made quite a clean-up in the jewelry section, taking watches and tie pins, cigarette cases. etc.

Owing to poor night telephone service in Michel, Fernie and Crow's Nest, the police could not be got in touch with until several hours after the discovery. It is understood a complaint is being forwarded to the government to have the service improved.

A reward of $150 is offered for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of the guilty parties.

Was Cracked Before

On August 4, 1916, the safe in this store was blown and $2700 in cash and a quantity of jewelry taken and no trace of the parties was ever found. This store is evidently looked upon as an easy victim.

Mr. H. A. LeRoy and family live over the store but had motored to Baynes Lake on Sunday, not returning until near one o'clock Monday morning but noticed nothing amiss until loking around at 6:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Local constables Mills and Hilton as well as the Mounted Police are working on the case in conjunction with Inspector Dunwoodie and Chief Spiler of Fernie.

Making the Bachelor Pay

Bachelors in France are much stirred up over the tax that has been levied against them. Whether it will worry them into matrimony remains to be seen. Just now they are concerned about how to pay and keep their freedom. Not the spirit of romance, nor the pity for the matchless female, but a falling birth rate has moved the French government to try to draft the bachelor into the ranks of family men. But whether or not the foot loose male finds it cheaper to marry than not to marry, the intent of the new law will be accompished for with malicious wisdom, the tax collected is to form a baby bonus fund for those who are adventurous enough to assume family obligations. Large families are to be encouraged to make up for no families, and the men who refuse to contribute children of their own to the nation must help bring up the children of other men.

No wonder the bachelors are worried. Eeven if they elude the instinctive pursuit of the female of the species there is no escape for them. A relentless government hunts them down. If financial caution and selfishness are responsible for the avoidance of marriage the government may win by battering down the defenses of the crabbed old bachelor. At any rate, the experiment of making a man pay for the privilege of remaining single should clear away the mists surrounding the bachelor and show him in his true colors.—New York Tribune.

Great Powers and China

For the United States, there seems to be growing concensus of opinion that a policy of isalation is impossible, and if possible, is injurious to American interests. At any rate, if a policy of isolation is practicable for the United States in Europe, the present chaos in China makes such a policy impossible in the Pacific. And it is from the point of view of China that such a proposal for a triple agreement should be approached. If the three Great Powers can conjointly take in hand the rehabilitation of China, then they may secure two great objects. They may be able to satisfy the legitimate aspirations of Japan without endangering the independance of China and American and British interests in that country and by pursuing a policy of co-operation they may blow away those suspicions which (under the cloak of fatalism) make war inevitable. Thus they may contribute in a signal monner to the maintenance of the peace of the world.—London Morning Post.

FIGHT FIRE IN COAL MINE

(Lethbridge Herald, Mon. July 25th)

Pumping water across the Belly river to the Federal coal mines on the oposite bank, the local fire department, after fighting a destructive blaze for fully three hours early Sunday morning, succeeded in controlling it after $15,000 to $20,000 damage had been inflicted. The loss, which consisted of the power house, the air compressor and two pumps. was partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is not known, but there is a strong suspicion of incendiarism based on the story of the night watchman, who states that he saw a man with a light, riding a horse, making a hasty retreat from the colliery when he first sighted the fire.

The alarm was sent into No. 1 Fire Department at 10.30 Sunday night, and the response was immediate. It was with considerable difficulty that the hose was thrown across the river to the scene of the fire. This handicap, entailing much loss of time, accounts for the heavy loss. When the pumps did begin to play on the blaze they worked splendidly. It was three o'clock in the morning before the flames were under control and the other buildings connected with the property placed out of danger.

The police are investigating the conflagration, working on the story of the night watchman.

Officials of the Federal Coal Company, when interviewed, said they knew no reason why anyone should wish to destroy the property. They took occasion to speak highly of the efficient service of the fire fighters, who battled with courage and determination a fire that for a time threatened to leave the whole works a mass of charred ruins.

Patriotism Is Not Enough

If India will it, she can take her place among these free and equal nations, and help on the coming of the brotherhood of man. But for that purpose she must eschew narrow nationality. She must join hands with the rest of the world. She must take their thought, their science, their education, their experience; and in return give her thought, her help, her co-operation. Nationality is very well as a means; as an end it is an end, whereas India should have a beginning, a new beginning. Patriotism is a good thing so far as it goes, provided that it goes forward and not back into the barren past. But, even at its best and finest—"patriotism is not enough."—Times of India.

FERNIE COMING INTO ITS OWN

(By J. F. Spalding)

There is an old saying "that nothing ever loses in the telling it" that certainly holds good in respect to our camp and scenery. People who have stayed there have all been particularly impressed with its location, arrangement and cleanliness. They are telling about it to others they meet along the road and when they get home, and many of those coming in now, say that they have been told to be sure to stay at Fernie camp site. One from Salt Lake City the other day, said that before he left home he was advised to stay here, another from California told me the same thing and several parties from Alberta and Saskatchewan have said the same thing.

Monday evening there were nine car loads, Tuesday evening there were twelve car loads, Wednesday evening thirteen cars. Three parties have stayed two days so far, and two of them were still there up to yesterday. One lady from California told me this morning that it is the first camp site they have stayed at that they did not pick up half of it when they wrapped up their tent, she said that they had stayed at sites which had more elaborate fittings, but none were so clean and that she had written to some friends who were going to drive up here to arrange their run so that they stopped here for a day or two.

This live advertising is going to do us more good than anything else and also lessen our expenses. We have been considering running advertisements in certain papers, but there will be no necessity for that this year. The camp is not large enough now to accommodate those who are coming. Last night two parties had to leave their cars outside by the road.

Our efforts in the publicity line have been pretty closely watched by the Boards of Trade of Lethbridge and Nelson. They have got together recently and as a result desire to come in with the Boards of South Eastern B. C. and be included in all subsequent publicity. Official intimation of this will be received from the Lethbridge Board of Trade shortly, then it will be up to our Associated Boards to decide whether it will be to our advantage to accept their proposal or otherwise. For my own part, I believe the idea will be a good one. With Lethbridge on the East, drawing from Yellowstone and Glacier Parks and Nelson on the West drawing from the interior of the Province, and when the Ymir is built, from Spokane also, both sending parties through this way, this section will be bound to have a considerably increased travel.

Many of our people are going up to the camp in the evenings and meeting the tourists. This is what they like and they all speak about the great hospitality of the people of Fernie. It seems to appeal to them as much as anything else. Keep this up and when you are talking to them don't forget to tell them what there is to be seen and done around here, many of them will stop longer through it, and the longer they stop, the more money they spend in town.

It is a pity that nothing has been done to alter that road coming in from Crow's Nest Depot, every tourist from the east has a complaint to make about it, yesterday one told me that it was the most dangerous piece of road he had been over from Oakland, California, to here, and if he tells about it as he travels along, some of them are nervous enough to cut out this part of the trip on account of it. It is astonishing how quickly anything like that spreads.

Several accidents this last week would have not occured if a few dollars had been spent on certain pieces of road close by, but they had to happen before it will be done, and somewhere around $500 in repair bills have to be footed because of this poor policy. The maintenance of our roads is a matter of the greatest importance.

Sir James Lougheed has written to the effect that the Dominion Government is giving it's best attention to the Banff-Windermere Road matter. No reply has been received from the Provincial Government as yet, about their photographer coming through here and photographing this section of British Columbia.

LATE DISPATCHES

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 4.—A motion introduced in the legislative council today by one of the people's representatives, urging confederation between the British West Indies and Canada, was voted down.

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—Unless the revenue of the Bell Telephone Co. during the next two or three months increases substantially, and there is no indication that it will, the company will make application to the Board of Railway Commissioners for authority to further increase its rates.

Winnipeg, Aug. 4.—Three masked men with revolvers held up Louis Hornet, storekeeper at Ponomah Beach, and robbed him of $1690, which he was taking to the bank.

London, Aug. 4.—Extreme reticience is being abserved regarding the Irish negotiations. From a number of conflicting reports today the only definite fact emerging is the Dail Eireann has been summoned to meet on Aug. 16, but whether to register the success or failure of the negotiations there is no hint.

Detroit, Aug. 4.—"Miss America," owned by R. Wood, of this city, today won the 25 mile Great Lakes speed boat championship for the Perry Sinclair trophy.

THE VETERANS HOLD PICNIC

We were favored with ideal weather for our picnic, which took place on Sunday, the mecca being Morrissey. Long before the advertised time of starting our quarters were besigeded by the kiddies. At 10 o'clock the motor trucks began to assemble and as tickets were issued they were loaded up and sent off. Several private cars were also used.

On arrival at Morrissey fires were lighted and preparations got under way for testing the culinary abilities of Comrade F. Sheers, who was in charge of tea and coffee, said duties being carried out in a creditable manner. On arrival of the commissariat wagon, containing supplies for which the liquor control board had issued a special permit, the "wets" immediately lent a hand for the unloading, and our genial dispenser was soon at work taking in the "chips" provided for the purpose. The children were amply regaled with ice cream and lemonade free.

A series of races was run, in which all competitors received monetary prizes, the winners receiving a larger share. The ladies tug-of-war proved to be very mirth provoking, the winning team representing Coal Creek, its members being Mesdames Branch, Corlett, Knight and Millburn, and Misses Larmont and Millburn, the captain being Mrs. Branch. Comrade Thos. Uphill officiated in this contest Later in the afternoon a football game with seven members of the fair sex and four of the sterner on each side, was staged, Comrade T. Biggs being the knight of the whistle and after the game adducing certain marks on his face as evidence that some of the players had finger nails.

The day was further enlivened by the presence of our band, martial music being alternated with terpsichorean. The school board placed the schoolhouse at the disposal of the ladies' committee and it proved indispensable.

The return journey was made about 7 o'clock in the evening, ending one of the red letter days in the annals of this branch.

BEER NOW $20 BARREL

Victoria, Aug. 3.—"This is once the big cities will have to suffer for the sake of the smaller communities," was the statement of one of the commissioners of the Liquor Control Board, in discussing the re-adjustment of beer prices throughout the province.. The new schedule of prices, which went into effect on Aug. 1, shows no decrease in the price of beer to people in the larger centres, but there is a material reduction to consumers in the outlying districts. Owing to the distance from the nearest brewery, Prince George pays the highest price for beer, $23.50 per barrel, or $2.35 per dozen pint bottles. In all cities where a brewery is located the price will be $20 per barrel and $2 per dozen pint bottles. A lower price might be quoted in the larger centres, but the price named will be retained in order that the price in the smaller communities may be kept as low as possible.

THE GREAT FERNIE FIRE

Monday, Aug. 1st, was the 13th anniversary of the great Fernie fire. In looking over a few clippings from Old Country papers containing reports of the fire at the time, we can afford to laugh at their exaggerated reports. The following are a few extracts from a Glasgow, Scotland, paper, of Aug. 5, 1908:

Michel in Flames

Ottawa, Aug. 5.

The town of Michel, in Crow's Nest Pass, which escaped the first onset of the bush fire, is now in flames, a high wind having rekindled the blaze. The women and children have been sent to the neighboring towns for safety.—Reuter.

Ten Thousand People Out of Work

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 5.

The death roll in the great fire has been exaggerated. Latest reports show that the total number of deaths is probably seventy. Ten persons have recovered from injuries.

Fernie is still smouldering and threatens to set fire to Michel. A breeze is feared.

At Kootenay mining and smelting are crippled and ten thousand people are thrown out of work.—Press Association.

Alarming Plight of Coal Creek

Ottawa, Aug. 5.

All the mines in the Crow's Nest region have been shut down, and the men are fighting the fires in relay. The means employed are ploughing strips of land to serve as guards to check the spread of the flames, burning back the fires (i.e., burning off the vegetation), clearing away underbrush, and soaking the roofs of the houses with water, of which there is fortunately a good supply.

Only about a dozen houses have been burned in Hosmer yet, but the fire is all around, and men are fighting for their lives to save their homes and property.

Many people from Fernie have taken refuge in the new coke ovens which are being built by the Canadian Pacific Railway. In these they will be safe even if the town burns.

A director of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., residing in Toronto, said today: "My greatest fear is for the town of Coal Creek. There are about 1500 people in the town, including a number of women and children. According to reports, the fire is within three miles of Coal Creek, and is creeping towards it, cutting off the escape of the residents by the west, which is really their only way of escape except for two Indian trails. One of these, known as the Flathead Trail, extends to the McEvoy Creek River, while the other strikes the South Fork of Michel Creek, in the district in which the fire is burning. Both trails are mere paths over the mountains and will be impossible for women and children."

The death roll is now less than one hundred.—Press Association.

Fernie Miners Resume Work

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 5.

Mr. Winston Chuchill, President of the British Board of Trade, has sent a telegram to Mr. McBride, the Premier, expressing his sympathy on the occasion of the forest fire disaster. The coke ovens at Fernie have escaped damage, and the mines have resumed work.—Reuter.

Prince of Wales Sympathy

The Prince of Wales has sent the following telegram to Earl Grey:

"Cowes, Aug. 4.—I am so distressed to hear of the terrible destruction of life and property by the great fires in British Columbia.—(Signed) George."—Reuter.

Message From Lord Minto

Ottawa, Aug. 5.

Lord Minto, Viceroy of India, has sent the following telegram to Earl Grey, Governor-General of the Dominion:

"Simla, Wednesday — I shall be grateful to you if you can express my heartfelt sympathy with the sufferers in the terrible fire disaster in British Columbia.—(Signed) Minto."

Fernie, the principal town destroyed by this latest conflagration, is a thriving and growing mining and lumbering centre. It lies deep in the mountains, surrounded by densely wooded ridges. Five miles away are the well-known Fernie coal mines, which are connected with the town by a branch line of railway. There are about 700 coke ovens at work in Fernie, and lying in the centre of one of the largest coal yielding areas on the Continent, the town gave promise of rising to be a place of no mean importance. Its inhabitants numbered 5000. Many of those miners are from Scotland. Cranbrook, which is also stated to have been destroyed by the fire, is situated, like Fernie, in a hill-girt valley, and surrounded by almost impenetrable forests. Its population is about 3500. Cranbrook's industrial interests are chiefly mining, lumbering, fruit ranching, and general farming. It is a pretty little town, one of the most desirable places of residence in British Columbia.

Anxiety in Sunderland

The devastating fires in British Columbia have a melancholy interest for several Sunderland people, owing to the fact that many relatives and friends emigrated to Fernie within the last year or two. The absence of direct news is causing much anxiety in Monkwearmouth, where several well known and highly respected people who left for Fernie, had lived, among them being Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Dicken and five or seven children, late of Southwick Road; Mr. and Mrs. P. Horn and children, of the same thoroughfare; and Mr. and Mrs. J. Hamilton and six children, once of 23 Douglas Terrace, Monkwearmouth.

SUDDEN CALL TO PASTOR

Rev. S. V. Marchbank, pastor of Olivet Baptist Church, was suddenly called by His Maker last Sunday afternoon shortly after the Sunday School classes had been dismissed. He died at his work and in the House of God where he had served since April of this year. The immediate cause of his demise was an attack of heart failure.

On Thursday afternoon loved ones, friends and acquaintances assembled and paid their last respects to the departed pastor, when the burial services were held, and he was laid to rest in St. Margaret's cemetery. Rev. W. S. Burns, of the United Church, and Rev. W. T. Tapscott, incumbent of the Baptist Church, Cranbrook, officiated. The text chosen by Rev. Burns was: "So Moses, the servant of God, died there and He buried him." Moses, who was truly great for his statesmanship, as a lawgiver and scholar, and his name is revered throughout the Christian world, but in his obituary notice the writer summed up the greatness of the great man's virtues in the words, "Servant of God." The departed pastor was a servant of God and as Moses, he was called away in the very hour, when as far as we can see, he was most needed.

Rev. Marchbank has labored in pastoral capacities in England, South Africa and finally in Canada, coming to Fernie some months ago, where he has rendered faithful service. He was eulogized as not being of the impulsive, emotional type, but of quiet and kindly ways, respected by those who knew him slightly, beloved by all who knew him well. The theme of the sermon he woud have delivered last Sunday evening was "Ready," and in preparing it had remarked "It is a great thing to be ready." Rev. Tapscott, of Cranbrook, reiterated the words of commendation for the departed one and his sterling worth had been generously appeciated by the Cranbrook brethren, where he had supplied on occasions, as well as by his congregation here.

The death of President Stone of Perdue University and the awful experiences of his wife, who lay for eight days in a crevasse on Mount Acon, is the first fatality of the season in the Canadian Rockies. While both Dr. Stone and his wife were climbers of some experience the tragedy shows the reckless foolhardiness of attempting difficult ascents without proper precautions. The Alpine Club rule that descents should not be made in parties of less than five should be incorporated in the National Park regulations if not in the laws of the Dominion. With the ever increasing number of tourists visiting the Canadian Rockies each season, fatalities will become frequent enough without allowing foolhardinees to add to their number. — Kamloops Sentinel.

The city of Ladysmith may purchase the waterworks which supply that progressive town. The ratepayers will be asked to vote on a by-law to borrow $50,000 for the purpose.

FLYING AROUND MT. EVEREST

Further particulars as to the Mt. Everest expedition, in which Canada is represented by Major Edward O. Wheeler, D.S.O., indicate more precisely just what an achievement Britpluck and science are preparing.

It appears that the final dash up the last ladder of the Himalayas is to be made next year as a climax to infinite preparations of a trying and dangerous nature which are now in progress. Last summer Col. Howard Bury, the chief of the party, went to India for the Royal Geographical Society and, through the medium of the Indian government secured from the Tibetan government permission to enter that mysterious land and use the Tibetan Himalayas as the base for operations. This year the surveyors, photographers and airmen were assembled from the ends of the earth and the advance party is now being led into the mountains from Darjeering to establish camps and storehouses and to survey from the air and by land the best available route for the climb.

Unfortunately, the best route is not available, as the government of Nepal has refused passage across its territory, which it is believed, provides the most accessible approaches to the sacred mountain. Just what toll of life will result from this prohibition remains to be seen, but it is hoped that success will crown the greater efforts necessary by the longer journey and stiffer climb from the Tibetan side.

As anticipated Major Wheeler was married to Miss Dorothy Danielson of Birmingham, England, before setting out. There is something of the fine old chivalrous spirit in this marriage on the very eve of an undertaking as perilous as any in the annals of sporting endeavor. The younger Wheeler is a charter member of the Alpine Club of Canada and before entering military service in India took a leading part in all its activities. His name has only been added recently to the personnel of the expedition, being loaned by the survey department as an evidence of the practical support given this undertaking by the government.

Hitherto, the last-minute veto of the Indian office has frustrated many attempts to conquer Everest, the world's highest mountain. The plan originated thirty years ago with General C. G. Bruce and has been organized by Sir Francis Younghusband, of Thibet fame, as chairman of the committee. Funds are still short and the important preliminaries are being curtailed on this account, but next year will tell the tale.

Many a time in the last generation the religious fears of the natives or the political jealousies of the Czarist governments of the Russian Empire prevented the despatch of expeditions which had been organized, but no difficulty is anticipated with the Bolsheviki, busy enough elsewhere. The Himalayas are holy ground as being the source of the sacred river Gangees and the natives are not always as useful as they might be in assisting Europeans up the great snowy cliffs.

The present plan is to attack the peak from the north by crossing into Thibet as far as Kapba Dzong and then proceeding to the north of the Everest group, until the slopes of the final peak itself are reached. A base will be established as high as possible, and as near as possible to Everest itself, where a camp will be pitched replete with every mountaineering comfort. The use of airplanes will be tested for reconnaissance purposes, although it is impossible for an airplane to rise again after once landing in so high an altitude. Climatic conditions will be noted for the benefit of next year's climbing party, which General Bruce is to lead. Also Major Wheeler will make complete maps of the hitherto unexplored region—a gigantic task in itself and of the utmost value to science.

PET PIG OR SPIDER INCONVENIENT—VERY

Although the average woman is content with a pet Pom or Peke, a blue Persian, or a green parrot, occasionally a member of the fair sex strikes an original note in pets which if widely followed, might prove rather embarrassing to the police and public.

The other day comes the news that an ultra-fashionable and very charming young lady, whose name may have been "Mary," might often be seen on the Promenade des Anglais, at Nice, closely attended by a grey lamb with a black face.

One can imagine what a nuisance a fashion of this kind might become if it grew common. Fancy a whole flock of lambs at a bargain sale. Besides, lambs grow into hefty sheep at an alarming speed.

It is not so long since an American lady caused a great stir in Hyde Park by being seen escorted by a pet pig. The little porker was, of course, a perfect aristocrat of the sty, wore a becoming blue ribbon, and a dainty little coat; but his grunt was the same as that of the most plebian pig, and his tail just as curly.

But most people greatly prefer pigs to spiders. Sir Walter Scott used to be followed like a little pig all over the grounds at Abbotsford. The taste of a well-known actress is for the biggest spiders she can find. One would not expect too much affection from a spider, but she makes pets of them, and they seem to respond, especially at feeding time.

Power of League

We expected too much of the League, and the dissapointment has been commensurably great. We are not, however, prepared to condemn the League for the shortcomings of the nations, nor, while admitting that it is before its time, are we willing to denounce its birth as premature. It stands, at any rate, for an ideal, and it exists as a rallying point for all men and all nations of goodwill. The ony danger that we can see is that it may be used as a means of propaganda by faddists and factions, otherwise it cannot fail to do good. As the time goes on and the passions engendered by war die down, peoples will recognize their interdependance, and will turn to the League as the only instrument of international peace. —Pall Mall Gazette.

The Hon. Mary Ellen Smith of Vancouver, put herself on record last week as being most emphatically opposed to allowing any more women immigrants to enter Canada until such time as conditions have returned to normal, with the present problem of unemployment that this country is struggling with. She believes it is not unfair to the people of Canada to have this country made a dumping ground for Great Britain's surplus female population, but it means hardship for the new-comers as well.

Vancouver Elks plan to entertain forty thousand children on their annual flag day, Aug. 10. Last year they acted as hosts to twenty thousand youngsters. The Elks' motto for the occasion is "Be a kid for a day."

COULD BEAT HANDS SHUCKING HIS CORN

At Least J. A. White Would Bet So, After Being Releived Of Dyspepsia by Tanlac.

"My wife and myself have had stomach trouble," says Mr. J. A. White, residing on the Leestown Pike, R.F.D. No. 6, near Lexington, Ky., "and have been both nervous and run down."

"We could not see anything without suffering afterwards and could not sleep at night. We were regular nervous dyspeptics. We tried many remedies without permanent benefit until we heard of Tanlac. I got this medicine and began using it. We noticed immediate results. We are both greatly improved by Tanlac. We give all credit for the change of health to Tanlac. It is a remarkable medicine.

"I personally feel so good that I told my hands a day or two ago that I could beat any of them shucking corn. I meant it and believe I could have beat 'em all."

Of all the maladies that afflict humanity, chronic dyspepsia, such as Mr. and Mrs. White suffered from, is probably the most prevalent and hours might be consumed in describing the sufferings, mental and bodily, of the victims of chronic dyspepsia.

A morbid, unreal, whimsical and melancholy condition of the mind aside from the nervous physical suffering, is the usual state of the average dyspeptic and life seems scarcely worth living.

Tanlac, the celebrated medicine, was designed especially for overcoming this distressing condition, and millions of people have taken it with the most astonishing and gratifying results. It seems to go straight to the spot, toning up and invigorating every organ of the body.

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

Creston Review: Creston's patrol of seven Boy Scouts, who were in camp with about sixty of the Fernie Scouts at Morrissey, from July 11 to 23, got home on Monday afternoon, and to hear each and every one of the boys tell it, they certainly had the time of their lives.

THINKS EDISON TEST IS EASY

Who has not heard of the famous Edison test of intelligence which the "wizard of science" drew up to determine the knowledge and reasoning powers of applicants who desired to enter his employ. Doubtless, almost everyone knows also that one of the Edison "victims" did well if he secured 60 per cent standing. Now comes along an intellectual phenomenon in the human form who not only made a straight 100 mark in answering these questions, but who considered the whole test nothing but a "slight mental exhiliaration."

He is Michael J. Nolan, a specialist in knowledge, a shell-shocked veteran of the Great War, and said to be one of the 25 most brilliant minds of the United States. The remarkable thing about Mr. Nolan is that his mental powers did not develop extraordinarily until five years ago. That was when he was invalided into a Canadian Red Cross hospital. Within four weeks after entering it, he qualified as an expert in bacteriology. Since then he has made child's play of every mental test given. Here are some of them that he has passed, according to a writer in the New York Herald:

1. Made a perfect score in the United States Navy intelligence test, which he considers more difficult than the army test.

2. Scored 211 out of a possible 212 in the army Alpha intelligence test, answering all questions in fourteen minutes of the allotted seventeen minutes and scorning to check his answers. His only mistake was in locating the Packard automobile plant in Flint, Mich., instead of Detroit.

3. In what was plainly a difficult stunt information test arranged by the university authorities, he made a perfect score, answering all sixty of the questions in one minute and ten seconds, while his nearest competitor, an instructor at the university, answered fifty-four and required over one hour to do that.

4. In a general intelligence test arranged for the entire university, stated by the university authorities to be far more difficult than either the army Alpha or navy tests, he scored 168 out of a possible 180 in tewenty-five minutes of the alotted thirty minutes.

The latter test is described as so hard that the average mind could not grasp even the directions. Moreover, Mr. Nolan's standing in the Alpha test remains unequalled. The best previous mark was 207 made by a Yale professor while an army officer. The average college man makes about 134 and the average soldier 65. In the information test Mr. Nolan competed with 300 students. One human encyclopaedia wrote 54 correct answers out of 60 in little more than an hour. Mr. Nolan answered all 60 correctly taking but one minute and ten seconds.

Mr. Nolan is a fine specimen of Irishman and has a physique which doctors say is one in a thousand. He could easily take a medical course in three months, educators declare. When feeling top-hole it is his habit to crush a Brazil nut into pulp in his left hand. While he has laid no definite plans for the future, he seriously is considering becoming a sanitary engineer. In the meantime, when he feels a little bored with life he hunts up some new kind of mental test and gives the professors something to wonder over to the exclusion of everything else.

LEONARD THORP, YAKIMA'S OLDEST NATIVE SON

Leonard Thorp, seventy-six years old, member of the first white family to settle in Yakima Valley, believes he is the oldest living native son of Oregon. He was born in Polk County in 1845. Fielding Mortimer Thorp, his father, came out with one of the early emigrant trains and took up a donation claim near the present town of Independence. It was in 1861 that Leonard and his father drove up one hundred head of their cattle to winter in the rich bunch grass valley of Yakima. They left the stock in charge of three herders and went back to Goldendale, where they were living. But when spring broke the whole family was moved up into the new country. They settled along the Yakima River, at the lower end of the Moxee, and for some months were the only white inhabitants.

Ingratitude

According to an old proverb, republics are ungrateful. It would seem to be applicable, to say the least, in the case of former service men who committed suicide in New York in 1920, as just revealed before a senate committee.

These men, it appears, were wounded, ill or otherwise disabled, for the most part mental cases. According to the testimony by competent medical officers, most of them would be alive today had they received proper care and attention. In the whole of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, it appears, there is not a single bed for the accommodation of veterans under obsevation for mental diseases. Either the Federal government turns these men over to insane asylums—often it seems mighty wretched places for a human being to inhabit—or they have to be kept in their homes.

The whole method of dealing with such cases would seem to be slipshod and callous in the extreme. Men who have been stricken in the course of risking their lives for our security certainly deserve such treatment as will make their lives worth while. If we really rate them as heroes, it is anomalous to treat them as waste cannon fodder.—New York Sun.

Mining development in the vicinity of Stewart is progressing so favorably that residents of the Northern town are most optimistic for its future.

Five thousand Vancouver families have pledged themselves to give preference to the products of this province in order to give employment to those out of work.

AUTONOMY FOR DISTRICT NO. 18

(Lethbridge Herald)

With the announcement of the election of the full slate of officers to take charge of District No. 18, U.M.W. of A., the One Big Union incident is practically closed so far as the mining camps of the province are concerned. It is now over two years since the United Mine Workers' organization was disrupted in District 18 by the One Big Union. The organization of the One Big Union, which is an off-shoot of the I.W.W., was made possible when the radical section secured control of the Alberta Federation of Labor convention in Calgary two years ago last spring. At that time P. M. Christophers, president of District 18, and Ted Browne, of Taber, secretary, were leading lights in the disruption, and together they led the miners into the O.B.U. camp, forming the mining department of the O.B.U. Following this action came a series of strikes, and some very spirited debates between the O.B.U. faction and those of the membership who remained loyal to the international. Robt. Livett, of Bellevue, and Frank Wheatley, of Bankhead, were among those who remained loyal to the international, and they were mainly responsible for holding enough of the organization together so that when a special commission from the international was sent from Indianapolis to cancel the charter of District 18 and administer affairs during reorganization there was something to work on. For nearly two years now the special commission has been in control of the district, and during that time the present working agreement was signed.

This agreement terminates on March 31 next, and the negotiating of a new agreement will be among the first tasks of the new control body named by the membership. Practically every camp in the province and in South Eastern British Columbia is now affiliated with the U.M.W. of A. again, and the total membership is around 5000.

Robt. Peacock, who was named district secretary, has been secretary of Lethbridge local since the reorganization. His headquarters will now be in Calgary. He is a brother of Charles Peacock, former secretary of Local No. 574, who was one of the leaders in the O.B.U. movement here.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

LIQUOR ACT IS VALID

Vancouver, Aug. 3.—About twenty clubs and individuals are affected by the decision of Mr. Justice Macdonald.

By arrangement between counsel motion is today to be made to the Court of Appeal at Victoria to review the judgment. Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, counsel for the Army and Navy Veterans, will attempt to reverse the decision. The crown will be represented by E. C. Mayers.

In substance Mr. Justice Macdonald decided the Government Liquor Act was valid and that the authority for the Provincial Legislature was found in clause 16, section 92 of the B.N.A. Act. This allotted to provinces exclusive jurisdiction in matters "of a merely local or private nature in the province."

POOR YEAR FOR SALMON

Victoria, Aug. 3.—British Columbia faces the poorest salmon fishing year in her history, states J. P. Babcock, assistant commissioner of fisheries. An almost hopeless fight has been waged by Hon. Mr.. Sloan and Mr. Babcock for years in an endeavor to save the industry, and the happy announcement is made that at last an international agreement has been reached by which the Washington Sate authorities will co-operate with those of this province in affording the salmon an opportunity to reach the spawning grounds in sufficient numbers to replenish the badly diminished supply. Fishing will not be permitted in the waters of Puget Sound for a full third of the week during August.

Meanwhile, Mr. Babcock, draws attention to the fact that there are large stocks of the best canned salmon on hand, and beacuse of the absurdly low price people are refraining from buying. This stock is of the highest grade, he declares, and people will wait a long time before having another opportunity to buy salmon at so low a figure.

A Citizen of No Mean Empire

No would-be wrecker of the Empire can be a good citizen of the Commonwealth however ardent his professions to the contrary. He cannot denounce and condemn the Britsh flag, and at the same time honor that of Australia. A British citizen and an Australian citizen may consistently acknowledge both, and yet denounce this, that or any government for the time being, either here or in England, on the score if its misrule. Every man in this world wide Empire of ours, seeing that it is governed by a world-wide democracy, is free to advocate any constitutional changes he pleases, but peace and ordered government demand that constitutional changes shall be echieved by constitutional means.—The Australiasian.

The average cost in Canada of imprisoning a prisoner in the penitentiary is $2800. To this must be added the loss or damage resulting from the commission of crime, together with the value of the support given to dependents of the man imprisoned, as well as the economic loss to the state of the man's labor. Though a limited amount of pay work was done at the penitentiaries during the past year a revenue of $143,334 was returned to the government.

A serious automobile accident occurred about three miles east of here on Sunday afternoon in which five men and one woman miraculously escaped death. An Overland car driven by A. Elfanson, saw-filer for the White Spruce Lumber Co., containing the above party and his young child were proceeding homeward to the mill from this city about six o'clock. When about three miles from here Elfanson apparently lost control when the car got off to one side of the road in the softer earth. The car then plunged over the embankment into a slough where the water was from two or three feet deep. The young child was thrown clear but the car completely turned turtle imprisoning the five other occupants under it in the swampy water. J. Wilson, of the Fernie Cartage Co., was travelling in the same direction with a party of six men and only about fifty yards behind the unfortunate car. The prompt assistance this party were on hand to give undoubtedly saved the lives of all the others. They bodily lifted the overturned car off the five and removed them to a point of safety. All the occupants of the first car received paniful cuts and bruises, while Mrs. Elfanson sustained more serious injuries and was taken to the Fernie hospital.

WALDO WINS IN PLAY-OFF

The play-off in the baseball tie for the first and second money of the Dominion Day tournament was staged on Sunday last. Waldo carrying off the honors by the score of 10 runs to 8.

Both sides were strengthened considerably by imported players, but Waldo refused to allow this, stating exhibition of baseball was put up, errors coming freely on both sides.

In the first inning both sides scored one run, in the second Peters hit two batters and walked a third, this together with three hits gave Waldo four runs. White Spruce got a run in the third and retired Waldo one, two, three. The fourth inning was a regular swatfest, White Spruce getting six hits and five runs putting them 2 up on Waldo. Peters walked another Waldo batter in the fourth and Baserin hit the first home run ever scored on the new Fernie diamond, tying the score. White Spruce endeavored to change their pitcher at this point but Waldo refused to allow this, stating that there was an agreement that the same batteries as were used on Dominion day had to be used, and after a delay of nearly twenty minutes the game was resumed and Waldo notched another run, again taking the lead from then on were never headed.

Much excitement was manifested throughout by the large number of fans who witnessed the game, mainly due to the heavy betting, and it is believed that nearly three thousand dollars changed hands over the result.

COLEMAN 5—FERNIE 1

Coleman came up on Wednesday night and took the local's measure in an almost shut-out ball game by the score of 5-1.

The start of the game looked as if the fans were to be favored with a real ball game, as no Coleman players passed first while they held their opponents in check by some pretty fast plays during the opening innings, keeping up that class of play throughout the remainder of the game.

In the third, Coleman slammed out a few hard ones and three runs crossed the plate, adding one each in the 4th and 6th. Fernie's lone tally came in the ninth, C. Colton beating out a throw, the next two fanned, then the pitcher and short stop booted the next two allowing Colton to score thus avoiding a shut-out. Coleman met the White Spruce nine at Coleman on Monday and sent them back via the shut-out route, they almost duplicated their feat against Fernie. The scorekeeper was very lenient handing the locals a clear sheet in the error column. A very small but enthsiastic crowd turned out to see the game. Johnny Hovan, who is home on a holiday, was back in his old position as catcher and helped a lot. Callihan knocked down a hot one, and managed to get hold of it before it touched the ground, doubling E. Johnson at third, who had just scored a triple and prevented Coleman adding one more to their lead.

COLEMAN BLANKS WHITE SPRUCE

COLEMAN, Aug 2.—White Spruce of the Eastern B. C. League were taken into camp here last night by Coleman to the tune of 6-0. Siler pitching for Coleman, was in rare form, and held the visitors to a few scattered hits. Cosgriffe, Coleman's lead-off man, made the circuit the first innings and repeated again in the third, being followed around by Jack Johnson, while Ernie Johnson chased them around to third base on his own three-sack clout. Little and Zeith, by scoring in the fifth, finished the scoring for the balance of the game. Coleman boys played nice ball and certainly deserve the support of the townspeople. Cosgriffe was switched from his old position at centrefield to second base and played stellar ball, as also did Litle on first. Both these boys wield the old hickory stick in good style and can be dependen upon to hit the ball hard and often, Hogan, at short, covered a lot of ground and as usual handled himself well.

The visitors are a peppery bunch and are a real good bunch of sports and a return game is being looked forward to at an early date.

The line up:

Batteries — Blairmore, Mulholland and Brown; Michel, Todhunter and Esterbrooke.

SOCCER RULES BEING MOOTED

TORONTO, Aug. 1.-Delegates from all parts of Canada are in attendance at the annual meeting of the Dominion Football Association here today. Important amendments to the rules governing Canadian soccer are up for consideration. This morning's meeting was largely concerned with preliminaries to the main discussion. The meeting will continue nearly all week.

The Connaught cup finals between the Ladysmith team of British Columbia, and the Toronto Scottish, will be played here on Wednesday evening and Saturday afternoon.

FERNIE FIRE, 1908

It was the first of August,
In nineteen hundred and eight.
That the fair City of Fernie,
Met with a dreadful fate.

Came a whirlwind from the mountains;
The Fire Fiend rode the gale,
And shrieked the knell of the burning town
While many a cheek grew pale.

Then, noble heroes fought the flames,
When they came rolling high;
They fought to save the little ones.
Which they would do or die.

And never on the battlefield
Along the firing line;
Were braver men than Fernie had;
Their courage was sublime.

In years that are to come,
Full many a writers' pen
Will tell, what time Fernie burned
And the deeds of Fernie men.

Oh! the bitter tears and anguish,
Oh! the hearts in dark despair,
When they saw their homes in ashes
And the children weeping there.

Then Cranbrook opened wide her doors
To that sore stricken crowd;
And unto all a welcome gave,
Of which B. C. is proud.

Our cousins south of us, you know,
Did surely act the man;
And soon supplies came rolling in
From the City of Spokane.

The stricken City's cry was heard,
And flowing like a tide,
Came help unto the suffering ones
From our Dominion wide.

Yet Fernie soon did rise again,
And all the world will know,
Calamity can never daunt
The men upon the Crow.

—L. G. Ross, Galloway.

WHIPPING POST AND CRIME

The introduction of the whipping post in Hungary as an auxiliary instrument of corrective punishment has had a most salutary effect, declares Minister of Justice Von Tomosanyi.

"The mere fact that the whipping post has been legally made an instrument in the administration of justice and for the correction of morals has been quite sufficient," declared the minister in a statement. Since 1920, when the law was passed, corporal punishment has been applied in but one case.

The law provides that the courts may sentence a man to be lashed for repeated crime against property, gross violation of morals, extraordinary brutality, immoderate profiteering.

The only case in which a man was sent to the whipping post was that of a thief, who simply could not be broken of his stealing and respect for the law inculcated in him by mere imprisonment.

In this particular case it seems not to have been without effect, for the thief felt the humiliation far more than he did the pain, and it is noteworthy that he has not been up again for stealing.

The Minister of Justice called attention to the fact that the law was merely a provisional measure and expires at the end of one year, that is, a few weeks now.

THE SKUNK

This animal certainly needs no introduction for he is in fact far too well known. That they should be an outcast from man and beast on account of their vile odor is easy to understand. Indians have reasons for every such occurrence, and their legend concerning the skunk is as follows:

It seems at one time in the animal world there was a great famine and it was necessary to conserve the food to keep some of the animals from starving to death. The grizzly bear was the head chief over all the animals and he gave orders for all the food to be collected and stored in a cave where a wolf was the guard. Now it chanced one day that the wolf fell asleep while on guard and a skunk and a snake, seeing their opportunity, went in and ate all the conserved food it was possible for them to do. The wolf awoke and caught them, then calling the head chief the grizzly bear, the latter placed a curse upon the two thieves, saying "that man and beast shall sun you both for evermore."

While the many Indian myths such as this and others make entertaining reading we must take them no doubt for what they really are—myths. The body of the skunk is about eighteen inches in length with a tail of from twelve to fourteen inches. While walking their back is much curved and their tail, which is bushy, is carried erect as though the animal was proud of its beauty.

WHEN INDIA RUBBER CAN MARK STEEL

In a series of experiments that Dr. P. W. Bridgman has been conducting at the Jefferson Physical Laboratory at Harvard University some new facts about metals, ice and other substances have been discovered. The Scientific American describes these in detail. From its article the following facts of general interest are taken.

"In these experiments pressures were carried up to ten times the firing pressure of smokeless powder in large guns. A pressure of 300,000 pounds to the square inch was obtained. To visualize this figure in another way, it represents the pressure that would be exerted by a body of water 120 miles deep. It would take a column of solid rock some fifty miles high to exert such a pressure on its base.

"Under the influence of such pressure as this, substances ordinarily soft and pliable show remarkable stiffness. Paraffin wax at 300,000 pounds is more rigid than soft steel. A piece of the steel, bedded in the paraffin when the latter substance is made to flow under this pressure, will go with the stream and become bent and distorted with the wax, now harder than itself. Soft India rubber, it was found, at these pressures becomes so brittle that it will crack like glass, and so hard that irregularities in its surface can be impressed upon soft steel."

MAY REPLANT HAIR IN A GENERATION

A rather amusing new invention is one for the artificial replanting of bald heads.

The machine, operated by an electric motor, makes punctures in the skin of the scalp, inserts hairs therein and clips them off at proper length. Having no roots, they are not expected to grow but the inventor guarantees that they will stick.

The work must necessarily be performed a little at a time, in order not to cause too much irritaion. A planting of 75,000 hairs will make a very satisfactory head covering.

BIG GAME ON THE INCREASE

Victoria, Aug. 3.—Most optimistic is the report of the Game Conservation Board, submitted by Hon. J. W. deB. Farris, attorney general, who states that most forms of big game are on the increase, thanks to the careful methods employed by the game officials. According to the new regulations for this year, no does, cow moose or cow caribou may be killed, but the report claims that there is such a general increase in those species that the hunter should have little trouble in securing his limit. Copies of the regulations are being prepared for circulation in all parts of the province.

SUPERB ACTING IN NEW MINTER FILM

A picture that is good and wholesome but at the same time entertains with tense and swift moving dramatic action, is "Eyes of the Heart," which will be shown at the Orpheum theatre next Monday and Tuesday evenings. In the opinion of everyone in the vicinity of the writer this film sets a new standard of excellence for the work of the star, Mary Miles Minter, who gave one of the most remarkable impersonations of her entire screen career.

Miss Minter is seen in a role entirely different from anything she has ever before attempted— and her success is a splendid tribute to her remarkable versatility. As a young blind girl, she gave a remarkably convinving picture. An operation gives her her sight when she is sixteen and her utter disillusionment and disappointment in her friends and her sordid home make a situation of intense dramatic interest. The young star gives a powerful as well as beautiful characterization that will undoubtedly stand out as one of her most noteworthy productions.

It deals with the thesis that vision is not a thing of the eyes alone but also of the heart. Eyesight alone cannot discern the truth; there must be understanding as well. The girl's "heart verdict" was truer than the testimony of her newly opened eyes.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL

Cranbrook, July 31.—On Tuesday afternoon the Bank of Commerce quietly unveiled the bronze plaque in honor of its soldier members who enlisted from the bank here. The plaque is circular in shape, two feet in diameter and is concaved. It bears eight names, one, Lieut. J. Wilson, having paid the supreme price. The other names inscribed on it are: Thos. F. Boiston, Richard E. M. Crotty, Gordon Dinning, Richard C. Girling, Francis B. Hornibrook, Geo. F. Horspool and Gordon A. Wollinger.

Judge Thompson presided at the ceremony and Col. Pollen unveiled the plaque. There were about a dozen invited guests.

FORESTRY CONVENTION

Arrangements have been made for the holding of a Provincial Forestry Convention at Vancouver, Sept. 19 and 20, and at Victoria, Sept. 21, under the auspices of the Canadian Forestry Association. The British Columbia directors of the Association are Hon. Hewitt Bostock, Hon. A. C. Flumerfelt, P. Z. Caverhill, Provincial Forester, Chas. D. McNab, H. R. McMillian and R. D. Prettie. It is expected that a considerable delegation will be present from Eastern Canada and from Alberta.

While the subjects for discussion will accord the greatest prominenece to British Columbia, there are a number of Eastern questions having close application to this province, such as the future of the Eastern timber supply, and the progress of applied forestry amongst Eastern pulp and paper companies. A distinguished group of speakers ,each an authority in his special sphere, will take part. Every effort has been made to have the program thoroughly practical and helpful and to make the topics and their treatment of positive service to the business interests of British Columbia. The Canadian Forestry Association is a national institution, 21 years old, with no identification with any government or commercial interest. The membership is composed chiefly of Canadian citizens having a patriotic interest in forest concervation. C. E. E. Ussher of Montreal has been President since 1919 and will attend the British Columbia convention.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN" COMING TO THE GRAND

A frand revival of Stetson's spectacular "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be seen at the Grand theatre on Tuesday, July 16. Many of the present generations have never seen this greatest of all moral drama, which teaches a lesson or moral and virtue. It is a play that will live forever in the minds and memory of all who see it. Stetson's production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is claimed this season to be the best ever given of this wonderful book play. A company of forty picked artists, including twenty colored singers, musicians, dancers and entertainers for the plantation and other scenes. Special scenery and other effects are carried, including the grand transformation scene of Eva's ascension into heafen, a real pack of Cuban bloodhounds, trained to take part in the drama, are used in the thrilling scene showing Eliza's escape from the slave hunters. Nothing is omitted that will add to the naturalness of this drama of real life. The parts of Uncle Tom, Topsy, Little Eva, Aunt Ophelia, Maria, Simon Legree, St. Clair and many other parts are rendered true to life. A big street parade will be given on day of show, with band, ponies, chariots, floats and novelties.

MUNICIPAL FINANCE

Victoria, Aug. 2. — Perhaps the greatest task facing the provincial government is that of municipal finance. Premier Oliver and Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, are taking the month of August to prepare a scheme for presentation to the legislature at its fall sitting. The increased revenue from the sale of liquor, together with the return from the income tax, promises to augment the general revenue to such an extent that a larger portion may be given the municipalities. During August delegations from various parts of the province will appear before the executive council to assist in drafting a plan that is expected to solve a tangled situation.

The population of Prince Rupert has doubled in the past five years, according to census estimates.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT

John Barnett, dead; Thomas Minton, uninjured, in custody charged with manslaughter; and H. Woods, J. Rawlinson and E. J. Carter, all of this city, nursing minor injuries and recovering from severe shakings-up, is the toll of an automobile accident about ten thirty on Wednesday evening, about a mile west of Natal, near the junction of the main Crow's Nest Pass trunk road with the Elk Prairie highway. The party, among a number of other motorists, were returning from Coleman, Alberta, where they had attended a baseball game between Fernie and Coleman teams. According to report by one of the occupants ,the car was travelling homeward at a good rate, but in taking the sharp turn at the junction to proceed to Fernie, owing to the unevenness and loose gravel on the road the car skidded and one of the rear wheels lodged in a rut, causing the car to topple on its side and then completely turn turtle, pinning Barnett, who was in the rear seat, underneath. All others managed to get clear. Barnett was immediately rushed to Michel hospital, where it was ascertained he was suffering from internal injuries and broken spine. He soon recovered consciousness and was quite rational but the end came about 4 a.m. He was a resident of this city and district for the past twenty-five years and a prominent old-time character. His regular occupation was cook, which he followed continuously in lumber camps until a year or so ago. In the early days he worked for C. D. McNab, A. McDougall and other prominent interior lumbermen, with whom he was an intimate friend, rather than an employee. Recently he disposed of some property in an eastern city, the proceeds of which are reported to have been more than ample to keep him in comfort for his lifetime even had he been younger. He was sixty years of age and is survived by his wife, who resides at Vancouver, and daughter, Mrs. Cornelius Whalen, also of Vancouver.

Thos. Minton is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Minton of this city and is considered an expert licensed chauffeur. Due to the many reports current that intoxicants may have played some part, the failure of the driver to immediately report the accident, and the hasty removal of the vehicle from the scene thereafter, a searching investigation is being instituted and the authorities have laid the formal charge of manslaughter in advance of the inquest ordered by Coroner A. C. Murray, to convene on Friday. Bail for Minton has been fixed at $8000.

ENFORCING LIQUOR ACT

The provincial police during the the week end were active with regard to the enforcement of the Government Liquor Act in different parts of this district. At Crow's Nest, J. Lewis, lessee of the Summit Hotel was fined $100 for having intoxicating liquors in a place where soft drinks are being dispensed, while in a shack adjacent to the hotel 18 barrels of beer were found and as no owner could be found to claim them they were seized and confiscated.

At Elko, Constable Duncan made a seizure of 27 cases presumed to be whiskey. This shipment arrived there by rail consigned to one "John Melia" from the coast. As far as can be ascertained by the authorities there is no such resident at Elko as John Melia and since signing the receipt for the shipment no one has called for the liquor. The police are also busy with regard to those parties who, according to shipping records, have been consignees of substantial quantities of beer and liquor immediately prior to the Act coming into force, but concerning which no reports have been submitted to the Liquor Board, and where the investigation discloses the whole or greater portion of these consignments missing the parties who received are to be called upon to explain what disposition has been made.

LADIES GOLF CLUB

Thursday, Aug. 4, the approaching and putting contest for the Liphardt Cup was a tie between Miss Bonnell, Mrs. Irvine and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the final winner being Mrs. Irvine.

The driving contest was won by Mrs. Harvey Brown, 131 yards, the prize being one tee donated by Mrs. Irvine.

The putting contest was a tie between Mrs. Moffatt and Mrs. Kirkpatrick, the final winner being Mrs. Kirkpatrick, prize one tee donated by Mrs. Irvine.

AUTOISTS DRAW FINES

The city police prosecuted two offenders under the motor traffic regulations yesterday. J. Fransen, of Claresholm, Alta., touring this section in a runabout, the body of which is designed in shape and painted to represent a rainbow trout, drew a fine of $20.00 and costs for travelling about the city thoroughfares in excess of the speed limit. Frank Letcher, a local chauffeur, also was fined $20.00 for travelling about the city after dark without exhibiting proper lights.

Two Hindus appeared in the police court charged with imbibing too freely of John Barleycorn, and the minimum penalty of $50.00 each or two months imposed. They paid the fines.

ADVERTISING FOR FERNIE

Roughly speaking there has lately been an average of around 25 people a night in our camp site. This is a low estimate, but as so many of them do not register, it is impossible to be exact. There has been nothing but praise for the enterprise of the city in providing such a fine camping ground, and every one of these people leave here live advertisers. They come from all parts of the country, and will spread the news everywhere they go. Two parties recenty spent the best part of a whole week there, and both of them were writing up their trip. One of them said that his narrative would be published either in the Canadian Magazine or the Cosmopolitan Magazine, and that he was going strong on Fernie.

The importance of keeping the grounds clean has been rather forcibly brought out during the last few days. The Vice-President of the Calgary Auto Club recently made a trip from Calgary to Golden for the purpose of obtaining first hand information about the trip, to put before their club. He was camping all through and in his report, which was published in the Calgary Herald, stated that owing to very poor camping facilities at a certain town near here, it was the only place on the whole trip where he was obliged to put up at an hotel. I read this report last Monday afternoon, and that evening up at our camp, was talking with another motorist who praised our site very highly and said that he had stayed at the town in question the night before but as the camp site there was so beastly dirty he had camped outside it on the road side. If he would say that much to me, what would he say about it to other campers at every place he stopped? They in turn would tell others and in a very short time that camp will get a black eye which it will take a long time to get rid of. Well, so long as I have anything to do with it, they will never be able to say that about our camp site. I am up there several times a day, and up to date must say that those who have used it have left very little litter around.

LITTLE GIRL HURT BY AUTO

A fatal automobile accident was narrowly averted here on Saturday afternoon last when Pjores, the five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parri was struck and knocked under a car in the centre of the business district. The child attempted to cross the street in the middle of the block and ran out in front of a city street watering cart just as an automobile was passing that vehicle travelling at a moderate rate of speed in the same direction, but the suddenness with which the little tot appeared in front of the car did not give the driver time to stop or avoid hitting her. Very fortunately the car did not pass over the child's body or undoubtedly fatal results would have occurred. As it was, the injuries were confined to cuts and bruises about the face and head. The little one was removed to her home after the wounds were treated at the hospital.

THAT FIRE DEPT. MIX-UP

The council held its regular meeting last night, all present. In the absence of City Clerk Moffatt, Miss Carmichael acted as secretary for the meeting.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read.

A communication was received from one of the applicants under the Soldiers Better Housing Scheme stating for unexpected personal reasons he was obliged to withdraw the application for the loan. This matter as far as the remaining applications are concerned will be finally arranged on Monday evening next at eight o'clock in the council chamber by the finance committee. On this occasion it is very earnestly requested that those who have already signified their intention of taking advantage of the loan be present. Now also that one applicant has withdrawn there is $2500 available for any bona fide applicant. Full information may be obtained at the City Hall by anyone interested.

Dr. Young advised the council that the territory in the north end immediately adjoining the city limits had been created a special health district and the city medical officer and sanitary officers will have jurisdiction therein. The question of charges for serving this area will be taken up further with the Department of Health.

The Fire Prevention Bylaw and the Automobile and Garage Bylaws were finally passed and adopted.

Dr. Corsan submitted tests of milk as to percentage of butter fat, from the various dairy establishments operating in or near the city. The medical health officer also explained to the council the method used for testing milk as to cleanliness properties and exhibited results of these tests for the enlightenment of the city fathers. The Doctor intimated that with regard to results of milk tests he did not think it fair in all cases that the results of tests should be published, and suggested this be not done in future. It was the unanimous decision of the council, however, that these be given full publicity. It was only fair to the consumer that they should know something about the quality of the article they were purchasing and while it might be the case in rare instances that on account of milk taken from a receptacle for test not having been properly mixed would show an unfavorable or lesser percentage of butter fat than the average standard quality supplied by that establishment, if the dairyman knew his business the chance for this misleading result would be very remote. The latest tests resulted as follows:

AN EASY TRIP TO THE TOP

A Fernie correspondent writing to the Lethbridge Herald, says:

"The citizens of Fernie at noon Friday suddenly developed an epidemic of "rubberneckitis," when flash signals were observed coming from one of the peaks of Trinity mountain. Field glasses soon came into prominence and it was observed that a party of two men had somehow effected the dangerous climb up bare rock and were standing on the very pinnacle of the mountain flashing signals with a hand mirror. Upon inquiries being made as to the daring men's identity it was learned that one Harry Fulton, with a companion, set out from Fernie last night with the intention of making the climb, travelling as far as the base of the "First Sister," as the peak is known in Fernie, last night and starting early this morning on the hazardous climb. Fulton's feat is one which has only been made four times before, as far as can be learned here, and on two occasions the feat was attended with fatal results."

The correspondent who wrote the above is either a stranger here or is trying to be a little bit sensational. Any old timer here will tell him that the "Three Sisters" mountains have been climbed dozens of times, and on several occasions with ten or twelve in a party. He also speaks of two fatalities on the Sisters, wherein he is again wrong. There never has been an accident on this climb as it is one of the easiest mountain trips to be had in this district. About 18 years ago a young love-sick Scotch lad committed suicide by cutting his throat with a pocket knife while he was resting at lunch time on a climb up the "Sisters."

SPORTS ON LABOR DAY

On Tuesday evening quite an interesting gathering of representatives of the baseball and football clubs and the Boy Scouts met in the council chamber for the purpose of arranging for tournaments on Labor Day.

The advisability of such a day was extensively gone into, but owing to the lateness the meeting was adjourned until tonight (Friday), when it is expected that a full attendance of the executives of the respective bodies, and all interested in celebrating on Labor Day, will be on hand.

The meeting is called for 8 p.m. sharp in the council chamber, and all are requested to be on hand early as a good deal of business has to be settled.

WHITE SPRUCE WILL SOON SHIP

That the White Spruce Lumber Company at Fernie is running its mill night and day on a contract for 10,000,000 feet of match and box stock, and expects to start shipping the seasoned lumber next week, at the rate of five cars a day, was stated yesterday by I. R. Poole, secretary of the Mountain Lumber Manufacturers' Association, who returned Sunday night from a week on the Crow.

The Ross-Saskatoon mill at Waldo is now closed down, Mr. Poole states, and the majority of the Crow mills will be closed by the end of the month owing to their log supply being cleaned up by that date. This is two or three months earlier than the normal date of closing, and is dictated by market conditions.

"There is no surplus of men on the Crow," declared Mr. Poole, who stated that the majority of the operators were just barely able to find the men they required. Where the men go to is something of a mystery, he said. One employer who received 11 men from Vancouver, at the end of a month had just two of them left. Another who received 10 men from Vancouver had two left, and had fired two, the other six having left his employment to drift. This was the tale they all told.

At Wattsburg, the British Columbia Spruce Mills, Ltd., is making good progress with its great mill plant. The big boarding house is now going up, and 25 cottages on the bench have been started by General Manager G. C. Robson.

Inspector Dunwoody returned today from a trip of inspection through West Kootenay.

The city authorities deserve a good deal of credit for the large amount of road work done on the back streets this season. The improvement is very noticeable.

BEER SELLERS SENT TO JAIL

Vancouver, Aug. 8. — Three sentences of six months each were handed out by Magistrate South today in cases under the moderation act, appeals being entered in each instance.

Expressing deep regret that he should be compelled to send to jail two men who had fought for their country and shielded him and his family from donger, the magistrate sentenced Archie Campbell and David Kirkwood to six months' imprisonment.

"I hope counsel who advised you to break the law has made the necessary arrangements for an appeal," said the court, "and that you will be able to get out immediately."

W. F. Brougham, for the defence, said that while he had not given the advice, he thought it was very good.

J. Fleming was also sent down for a like period, while fines of $1,000 were imposed in the cases of the Campaigners' Club and the Overseas Mechanics' Club.

The charge against the bartender of the G. W. Veterans' Club, J. Harwood, was stood over for one week.

MAKES HEARST PAPERS RAVE

Just when a Canadian Journal is denouncing the Americanizing of Colonel William Wood's Volume, "Flag and Fleet," it is refreshing to learn that an American Journal is denouncing the "Anglicizing" of Barnes' history of the United States.

Barnes has been the classic school history, and has done its bit well towards keeping alive ancient hatreds, but now it is denatured, just as "Flag and Fleet" authorized by the Ontario Department of Education for the schoools of the Province, has been toned down.

But the new Barnes arouses the ire of no less patriotic and flag-waving a newspaper than the Boston Sunday Advertiser, one of William Randolph Hearsts choicest publications. What an opportunity for the brand of journalism represented in the United States by Hearst is afforded by an American text book which defends Benedict Arnold and calls the war of 1812 a mistake!

The patriot, Natan Hale, whose only regret on the British scaffold was that he had but one life to give to his country, is ignored in this "American" history, as are Ethan Allen, Mad Anthony Wayne and the Battle of Stony Point, while, as the Boston Sunday Advertiser says in black face type, there is a full page of praise for the traitor, Benedict Arnold, whom "Congress had treated unfairly."

Pains are taken in this book to teach American children that "the first signer of the Declaration of Independence was a smuggler; so had been his father," that the Continental Congress "was a scene of petty bickerings and schemings among "selfish", unworthy, short-sighted, narrow-minded, office-seeking and office trading plotters," that "half of the colonists were loyal to England," that the rest were united in resistance only, "because they dared not be otherwise," and that if in England the wise course had only prevailed against the "foolish king," "this great country would probably now have been a great branch of the British Empire."

"Turn this picture to the wall," says the Advertiser, in sorrow of the most lashrymosely patriotic kind, printing the famous painting "The Spirit of '76." The text-book which for fifty years has been a stimulant to patriotism has been filled with poison. No more are the English "tyrants" and the Americans self-emancipators. Ichabod. The glory has departed. John Paul Jones ceases to outshine Horatia Nelson, Clay and Calhoun become "rash young statesmen" who brought on the was of 1812; George the Third is merely "foolish and headstrong;" the Revolutionary War is made out to be a struggle of Briton against Briton."

The Advertiser's exposure, which the Advertiser admits to be astounding, may yet call back to earth, some of the maligned heroes. or instance there is Ethan Allen, of Vermont, who tried to sell out to Lord Dorchester when the then Sir Guy Carleton was keeping Canada out of the Revolution. Allen was not held to be worthy buying. The British Government still has the documents proving Allen's treachery to the Continental Congress, and they would make good reading at a Fourth of July celebration in the Green Mountains, but, if the Advertiser has its way, that bit of history will never reach the people of Vermont.—Toronto Sunday World.

Volstead now reigning in its stead it is proposed to change the name of Rye, N.Y.

NORTHCLIFFE'S FIRST SALARY

(Vancouver Province)

Lord Northcliffe Friday night lived again in reminiscence the days of 33 years ago when he was a pale, fair-haired lad on the staff of the Bicycling News, at Coventry, with a salary of 35 shillings a week. Mr. Stephen Golder, secretary of the Vancouver Automobile Club, was editor of the paper, and it was with Mr. Golder that Lord Northcliffe recalled in memory the old days when they used to go cycling together.

When his lordship learned that Mr. Golder was in the city he invited him to pay a visit, and for about two hours the two lived the past again.

"I have the distinction," said Mr. Golder, this morning, "of having given Lord Northcliffe his first pay cheque, and of owning the first copy of the first paper he published. It was called "Answers to Correspondents, No. 3." Numbers 1 and 2 were never issued, Lord Northcliffe having decided on this publicity trick to whet the curiosity of the public.

"For about eighteen months he was on my staff on the Bicycling News, and each week I paid him his 35 shillings. Prior to joining the staff he had contributed several articles for which he was paid seven shillings and sixpence a week.

"The great British publisher referred to those early days at our meeting last night with a good deal of envy," said Mr. Golder, "and remarked that he was probably happier then with his youth and work and meagre income, than today.

"Northcliffe in those days was known as "Three Words a Penny Harmsworth," because of the idea he conceived of making money through the sales and exchange column of the Bicycling News. He was laughed at when he first suggested charging three pennies for a line for the exchange of bicycle lamps, bells, handlebars and saddles, yet the venture proved so great a success that the paper had to be enlarged to carry all the advertisements that came in.

Mr. Golder refers to another point of interest in those days in the fact that on the staff at the same time with Northcliffe was Max Pemberton, A. G. Morrison, F. Percy Low, A. J. Wilson, George Lucy Hillier, Lillian Campbell Davidson, Dr. Gordon Stables, all well known writers today. The artist was George A. W. Moore, whie another of the contributors to the paper was Sir Boverton Redwood.

Northcliffe joined in the cycling outings by the members of the staff, but he was never a very robust youth and his endurance as a cyclist was limited, says Mr. Golder.

HIGH COST OF SICKNESS

One of the chief worries of a breadwinner's life is the fear of becoming sick. Sickness expenses mount up like losses at Monte Carlo. The trained nurse costs $42 a week. Most of the Canadian ones must have a housekeeper. Hospital rates vary, but semi-private rooms average from $25 to $35, and private ones from $35 to $60. Operations cost from about $75 for simple ones up into the thousands. There is a charge of $15 for administering anaesthetic, a charge for the operating room, a charge for X-rays, special nurse fees, and regular physician's charges. The total for attendance and medicine is enough to wipe out savings of months or years.

The Canadian people need cheaper medical services. The hospitals are not profiteering, because most of them barely make ends meet, and many have deficits. The average earnings of a physician are not at all excessive. Part of the increased cost arises from superior quality of service. Fifty years ago people died from diseases that now are combated successfully. We have such an array of toxins or antitoxins, special tests, special implements, and methods of treatment, that the overhead of medical service is far higher. But the fact remains that the cost of being sick keeps down the birth-rate. Married couples avoid having children because of the expense. At birth and during the years of childhood, the boy or girl requires a heavy outlay. Women today have special medical attendance for conditions their mothers bore in silence. They seem to have as much trouble, if not more. The efficiency of medical service was never as high as it is now, but the cost has expanded in so many ways that serious illness is feared in thousands of homes as a wrecker of finance. Cheaper service is needed.

In some parts of the continent, nationalization of the profession is now being seriously agitated. Under that system, doctors would be paid by the State. There would be no fees. Doctors then would be like the Chinese physician—their pay would be higher, relatively, if they kept their patient well. Some medical men have complained that newspaper articles on diseases, their cause and cure, are educating the public too well, and lessening their practice. Better hygiene is inculcated in these articles. But some easier method of meeting expenses of illness is pressing upon the people, and any way to help toward a healthier population is an economic boon.—Toronto Sunday World.

FARMER COULDN'T GET HIS SHOES ON

Feet Were Dreadfully Swollen With Rheumatism—Tanlac Ends Troubles

"I've found the right medicine at last. Give me a bottle of Tanlac, please," said Joseph Reszitka, a farmer of Grunthal, Man., as he approached the counter of Liggett's Drug Store, Winnipeg, the other day.

"Tanlac is the one and only medicine I ever tried that does what they say it will do. Four years ago after an attack of grippe, followed by pneumonia, I was all run-down. I lost my appetite and although I ate only the lightest foods, I suffered agonies afterwards. Then to make the matter worse, about a year ago rheumatism got hold of me and my ankles began to swell and my knees got stiff. Many a morning I was unable to get out of bed, I couldn't put my boots on, my feet would swell so during the night, and often I couldn't stand up.

"For weeks at a time I couldn't do a lick of work on the farm and hobbled around as miserable as a man could be. Nothing helped me, although I tried everything I heard of. If I hadn't gotten hold of Tanlac when I did I don't know what would become of me. I'm like a new man now. I've got a big appetite, my digestion couldn't be improved upon and I have gained ten pounds in weight. The rheumatism has been entirely driven out of my system and I haven't an ache or pain.

"I am buying this bottle now because I need it, but I want to have it handy if anything should go wrong with me. I never intend to be without it."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

It was the unanimous opinion of our sailor guests that the spirit of hospitality registered a higher percentage in Vancouver than any port they had visited for months.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

Ald. Corrie introduced the subject of the letter published in an issue of the Free Press of July 29, by Ald. John Bean, which according to the voiced opinions of aldermen was an open confession of underhand and despicable tactics worthy only of that spineless type of humanity who have not the courage or belief in their own convictions or desires to openly assert them, nor the manliness to challenge the propriety of the acts or suggestions of others. The general discussion on this question was indeed animated and unmistakably brought forth the individual opinions of Ald. Bean by all the councillors. When one who had been a member of that board could sit thereon for such a long period and never utter a verbal protest that he considered the efficiency of the fire department was being reduced, was amazing, and it became an astounding matter that without any intimation to his fellow councillors he should resort to the unspeakable method of attempting to betray them by sending misleading and distorted representations of fact to strangers, who, had they not deemed it advisable to verify the alleged conditions might have had the effect of bringing down upon the business concerns and property holders of this city the impression of an unjust increase in insurance rates. It would now appear that Ald. Bean cared not what would have been the result so long as he caused discomfort to those he disliked and in view of the fact that he was terminating his residence in this city he would not have to assume any of the burden his acts might invoke.

The council went on record "characterizing the conditions in the fire hall as represented by Ald. Bean to be quite false and his action contemptible."

Ald. Bean has not tendered his resignation from the council, although the information in possession of the council was that he has gone to Vernon to permanently reside.

The city authorized some expenditures in connection with improvement to the tourist camp site. It was reported that the street improvement program will be continued as long as possible, although the volume completed so far this season has exceeded expectations.

A traffic regulation is to be introduced at next meeting whereby anyone driving any vehicle which collides with any of the silent traffic cops on point duty will be penalized with a minimum fine of $25.00.

ABSENCE MAKES THE HEART, ETC

One of the new European fashions is separate holidaying by husband and wife. When holiday time comes, the husband betakes himself to his chosen resort, the wife packs off to the seaside or other watering place. Until the end of the holiday, they drop each other out of sight, and, when possible, out of mind. When they come back home, they are refreshed, find new attractions in each other, and begin their joint life with a new zip. The old monotony, the weary sameness, the threadbare mentality are gone. They can once again "discover" each other.

What a pitiful state marriages are in when husband and wife become so familiar with each other's ideas, or mental processes, that each can fortell exactly what the other is going to say. Yet that happens in thousands of marriages. Especially when the couple are hemmed in without much outer variation, and one day is the same as the other, the wells of mental freshness dry up. No wonder that John seems a bore to his wife, and wifie is tiresome to John. What both need is a change—something new, different, contact with new personalities, a replenishing of ideas from new circumstances. If the holiday is taken together, there is no break in the groove. Husband feels he should accompany his wife, and she, in turn, thinks she should subordinate her desires for pleasure to his. Often it is only half a holiday for either. Now, if he went fishing, or golfing, or to a Summer resort, his two or three weeks' seperation would give him a better prospective regarding his wife. He would see her patience, her self-sacrifice, the monotony of her routine existence. If she went away by herself, she would appreciate his virtues better—those virtues she so appreciated when she married him.

It may be objected that there are children to be thought of. Perhaps husband may engage in Summer flirtations, or wife be attracted by some gay Lothario in irreproachable flannels. If there are children, these might also, if big enough, be allowed a holiday out on a farm, away from both parents, or spend a week or two with relatives. The principle of the thing can stand a thousand variations. But when two people have to live in closest intimacy year in and year out, they need rejuvenation of ideas, a freshening of the mental grip, a stirring up of personality. Deadly monotony is the worst foe of marital happiness, if the husband and wife have retained original spirit. The old-fashioned wife whose one commandment was her husband's comfort, and the equally old-fashioned young man who wants only to bask in his wife's smiles, are fast becoming like the Dodo—extinct. They find that love is improved, happiness and contentment increased, and attraction magnified by judicious absenses.—Toronto Sunday World.

In the matter of fluctuation there is a close competition between weather and prairie crop reports.

When a Quebec woman gave birth to triplets the event was referred to by the local paper as a "baby shower."

"Of course, dear brother, it is hot," observes a paper in the torrid belt. "We do not generally have cold weather this time of year."

Owing to the "Scotch" mist the departing "gobs" may have noticed that the Narrows were considerably narrower going out than coming in.

A woman soap box orator in an Iowa city was driven from her pedestal by a bombardment of stale biscuits. It is inferred that the audience considered her place was in the kitchen.

When a shower of small frogs visited a Connecticut district the other day the thrifty farmers promptly gathered up the "manna" and fed it to their ducks. The toughest old bird in the flock is now as tender as the rear leg of a frog.

FATTY ARBUCKLE AT THE ORPHEUM FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

In a Special Six Reel Comedy, "The Life of the Party"

When the poet said, "Make me a child again just for tonight," he was not thinking about "Fatty" Arbuckle but Chubby Roscoe takes him at his word in his new picture, "The Life of the Party." He dons rompers, socks and a very juvenile straw hat and goes through the streets of New York thus attired—in a taxi-cab. The occasion is a children's party for the Better Babies' League, and Roscoe, as a genial lawyer who always aims to please and who has been attracted by the eyes of the pretty secretary of the League, becomes quite the "life of the party." Afterwards, however, when he is homeward bound with a chauffeur who is more or less hors de combat on account of some bootleg whisky, the trouble commences.

"The Life of the Party," adapted from a funny story by Irvin S. Cobb, will be shown at the Orpheum theatre Friday and Saturday.

Don't fail to take in the Shirt-Waist Dance on Aug. 16. A good time is in store. Bass' orchestra, Ice Cold Refreshments, etc. $1.50 a couple; extra lady 50c.

FERNIE WINS

For thirteen innings of the most sensational baseball ever played on the Fernie diamond this season, in fact for many seasons, Prendergast of Hillcrest and Callihan of Fernie battled for supremecy in a pitchers duel. With the score standing six all in the last half of the thirteenth inning, two men down and two strikes on the batter, Noll, Fernie's first sacker, took advantage of a three circle wind-up of Prendergast's and pilfered the home plate, giving Fernie the game by a seven to six score.

The first innings was extremely disastrous to Fernie, when Hillcrest got in four runs through a couple of wild throws and two errors by Shand coupled with two safe singles by Morrison and Berg. This gave Fernie a stiff uphill fight,, but they kept on gamely getting one run in the first. Hillcrest again asumed their four run lead in the third when Berg hit a three-bagger and was brought home when Brown got a single. Fernie busted in on Prendergast's offerings in the fifth and scored two runs, Noll doing some sensational base stealing. In the seventh Noll again came into prominence and scored one more for Fernie. In the last half of the ninth with Kelly on second and two men down Wilson hit a Texas leaguer and Kelly tied the score. In the tenth elventh and twelfth innings both sides were blanked. In the thirteenth frame Prendergast led off with a single, Collins walked, advancing Prendergast, Morrison flied out, O'Dell flied out. Climie hit a two-bagger scoring Prendergast. Hillcrest one up. Berg flied out. The enormous crowd got to its feet and rooted with full force when R. Colton came to bat in place of C. Colton for Fernie. Colton out Berg to Morrison, Kelly hit fly to left field, Collins fumbed and dropped the ball, Kelly safe on second. Noll hit a fast one to Berg who muffed, Kelly on third, Noll safe on first. Noll took second, Ferko out O'Dell to Morrison, Wilson at bat with the crowd yelling itself hoarse. Wilson hit safely scoring Kelly, Noll going to third, Balayti at the bat, strike one, strike two, ball one, Prendergast's back to Noll, starts wind-up. Noll gets off on big lead, Prendergast's wind-up suddenly stops when he sees Noll on the run, throws the ball to Clark but too late. Noll is home and the game is won.

FERNIE LOSES

On Wednesday, Fernie, who staged such an uphill battle against Hillcrest on Sunday, journeyed to Coleman and played them a return game, coming home sadder and wiser to the tune of 12 to 5.

Callihan for Fernie, who had already worked in the box 3 games, one a 13-innings, inside of the last week, was unable to stand the onslaught of the Coleman sticksters, who clouted the ball every place but where a fielder had a chance to gather it in ,even to hitting it so far that the runner had crossed the plate before the ball was returned.

Siler, for Coleman, was not quite so puzzling to the Fernie batters as he was in the previous game when the two teams met here, but they did not hit so consistent as Coleman with men on bases. His team mates backed him up and hit timely.

Score by innings—

Coleman	210,301,50x—12—13— 4
Fernie	001,010,120— 5— 8—10

Batteries—Siler and Johnson; Callihan and Hovan.

Umpires—Morgan and Cowell.

MISTOOK FUNGI FOR MUSHROOMS—SEVEN DIE

Winnipeg, Aug. 8.—Seven persons are dead at Stuartburn, near Dominion City, Man., as a result of eating poisonous fungi in the belief that they were mushrooms.

Save for a six-months old baby the deaths wipe out an entire family consisting of Fred Huska, his wife and five children. The tragedy was enacted before neighbors knew that sickness had touched the family, and when help arrived it was too late to save the father, the last to die.

The story, as it could be gathered from the almost incoherent utterances of the sick man was that what they took to be mushrooms were gathered by the children on Sunday. The first death occurred on Monday. Another child died Tuesday and by this time all the members of the family were suffering from the poison and unable to help themselves.

Harvest hands are rarely afflicted with sleeping sickness. The farmers take every precaution to see that they do not drift into a state of coma.

The New York woman who jumped from the twenty-fifth storey window of the Waldorf Astoria to escape the intense heat was too precipitate. The next day it rained.

DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER

CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT PICTURES

THE TRUTH ABOUT THE DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER FIGHT IS TOLD IN "THE BATTLE OF THE CENTURY"

Arguments on Who Was the Better Man May Be Weighed and Measured Thereby Enabling One to Arrive at Their Own Decisions.

The truth about the DEMPSEY-CARPENTIER FIGHT

DEMPSEY'S IN-FIGHTING

A feature of the greatest sporting film ever produced. "The Fight of the Century" is the clear manner in which the public are enabled to see the champion's tactics at close quarters with his opponent.

Throughout the fight Dempsey availed himself of every opportunity in driving home powerful blows to Carpentier's body when in clinches. Several of the terrific punches travelled no further than six inches, and with such speed that the human eye, in the excitement of the bout missed many of them.

But the battery of cameras trained on the ring did not miss a single blow, their eagle-eye absorbed every motion and punch of the champion, with a result that the finished film reveals the truth of the champion's greatness

THE FAMOUS SECOND ROUND

Followers and backers of Carpentier will be anxious to see the famous second round, in which the press accounts gave the challenger credit for having rocked the champion with right and left blows to the head, and at one time it looked as if the challenger had the championship crown within his grasp.

The filmed version of the battle "The Fight of the Century" shows this intensely dramatic moment in detail. Carpentier is seen to open up and go after the champion with all his might and main. The punches of which, Carpentier declared himself "any other man but Dempsey would have gone down." This round shows the enormous crowd rise to its feet in the frenzied excitement of the moment. There seems to be no doubt that the champion felt the effects of the challenger's blows.

SLOW MOTION PHOTOGRAPHY INTRODUCED

That followers of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight might more readily follow the actions of the champion and contender in "The Fight of the Century" in their battle for honors at Jersey City on July 2nd, slow motion photography has been introduced, enabling fans to study the motions of the two fighters slowed down eight times less than their normal speed.

This method affords the public a scientific and interesting study of the tactics of the two fighters. "The Fight of the Century"' in this respect will settle many an argument, which has arisen as to the merits of the two men, champions in their class. Glimpses of the battle which created world-wide comment, may be seen, taken by this latest device of the motion-picture camera and which for the first time in history has photographed two champions in action together in "The Fight of the Century," at the Isis Theatre, Wed. & Thurs. next.

DEMPSEY A REAL CHAMPION—"The Fight of the Century" First Authentic Film of Fight Shows This To Advantage.

Jack Dempsey is the undisputed heavyweight champion of the world, if anyone is in doubt as to this statement, let him visit the ISIS Theatre this week where "The Battle of the Century" is being shown. It is the only authentic film of the big championship fight between Dempsey and Carpentier, held at Jersey City. The clearness of the film and its completeness will amaze you. You will see the championship bout from the sound of the first gong until the final knockout which shattered Carpentier's hopes of ever holding the world's heavyweight crown. The film makes one thing absolutely clear, and that is that Jack Dempsey, formerly heavyweight champion of America is now the undisputed champion of the world. He is a fighter through and through, and although credit must be given to the way in which his challenger stood up against him for three rounds, before he was knocked out in the fourth, it emphasizes all the more the supreme power and strength of the champion over his opponent.

Dempsey, as we clearly see him in the film, (from the ringside) entered the ring that memorable day with the intention of holding his own. Judging from the facical expression he was intent on fighting. He seemed anxious to get into the fray, and dispel any doubt in the minds of his followers that he could not "deliver the goods." Jack's in-fighting methods are supreme and he packs a terrific punch, one can almost hear the thud of the leathered fist against Carpentier's body, the film is so realistic. We will admit that we were as much excited while viewing "The Battle of the Century" as if we had paid down fifty dollars for a ringside seat. But this is quite natural as everyone who will see this remarkable film will feel a thrill, its depiction is so realistic.

In the second round, Carpentier opened up on the Champion to such an extent, and with such speed that if we had not already known the outcome of the bout, we were sure that Dempsew would topple over from the force of the challenger's blows. But Dempsey comes back stronger than ever in the third, and as the gong sounds for the finish of the round, we see the two fighters mixing it up in a great whirlwind finish, Dempsey pounding away at his opponent who covers to defend himself. The fatal fourth round will long be remembered for its intensely dramatic moment when the challenger went down for the count of nine, suddenly jumping to his feet only to be floored again by a terrific fusilade of blows which spelled defeat for Carpentier. But the plucky little Frenchman, with all the grit, characteristic of his race, made a super-human effort to rise before referee Ertle counted the fatal ten over his prostrate form. He could not rise, so dazed was he from the final volley from the champion's gloves. Dempsey carried him to his corner in true sportsmanlike style and received the applause of the throng.

The training of both men is gone into in detail, showing the methods employed by both camps to put their Jack and George into shape. One is then taken to Jersey City and sees the enormous crowds arriving from every point of the continent, the arena before the contest, and the wonderful spectacle of 90,000 fight fans gathered to witness "The Battle of the Century." "The Battle of the Century" is truly a great work and will provide a thrill for all those who were not fortunate enough to visit the scene of the big fight. For those who have already witnessed the bout at Jersey City, it will serve as a reminder and will show many of the incidents which escaped the human eyes in the excitement of the day at the arena. It is surprising to see the amount of detail caught by the eagle-eye of the camera in "The Battle of the Century," the only authentic film version of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, held at Jersey City. The film is being shown at the ISIS Theatre, and shows the great fight better than if one had travelled to the arena to see the battle. It is a great picture and will not have any difficulty in arousing public interest, once it is seen.

THE PRICES OF LIQUORS

We do not ask the public to accept our statements that the Liquor Control Board is charging abnormal prices for its wares. Facts and figures speak for themselves. In the case of whiskies, with one or two exceptions, there are only very ordinary and what were formerly cheap brands in the local Government store, and the prices for these range from $4.50 to $5 per reputed quart. So far as we know there is no reduction given if these whiskies are sold to a purchaser by the case (of twelve bottles), so that the prices per case range from $54 to $60. Most of the brands on sale can be secured for export in Great Britain at from (with the rate of exchange allowed for), $14.80 to $25 per case, to which must be added the import duty of nearly $20 per case. Thus whiskies, and we have allowed a wide margin for difference of brands, can be landed here, plus the small extra cost for freight, at from $35 to $45 per case. We doubt if there is any brand of whisky, except perhaps such as may come under the head of Commemoration Vat, which cannot be secured direct from Britain at prices which are at least 25 per cent below those charged by the government, and in some cases the difference would be nearly 50 per cent. It is the same with Irish as with Scotch whiskies, and the government is enjoying almost equal profits where it sells brandies, gin, ales and stouts and, if we are not mistaken, the profits are higher still in the case of all wines in the limited list of these which the government has on sale.

It is our intention to go more fully into these prices, on the basis of information in our possession, but for the moment enough has been said to show that profits, very much beyond the ordinary, are being made through the operations of the Liquor Control Board. We draw attention to this matter in the hope that a reform will be effected and it would be advisable that such a reform should be brought about before the coming session of the legislature. Liquors for export purposes are showing a downward tendency in Great Britain. It is true the duties imposed have been raised, but the increase is by no means so great as to warrant the prices charged at the government stores. We know overhead expenses are very heavy, and there has been a certain investment of capital in building up a system of Government Control, but the people do not expect that such capital expenditure should be returnable out of the first year's revenue, as seems to be the purpose of the Liquor Control Board. It must be remembered that the prices we have quoted include the profits derived by exporting agencies, and since the government can buy direct from distillers' agents, and is purchasing on a large scale, the probability is that, if proper supervision is being exercised, the prices paid are lower than those we have quoted.

The whole question of prices demands careful investigation. The Liquor Control Board should make public the prices it is paying for the different brands of liquor, and then the public would have an opportunity to learn what profits are being made. Liquor control is a venture of the people's and should not be made the medium of hole in the corner methods. Full publicity should be given to all operations. In this way, and in no other can the government expect to obtain public cooperation in the task of interpreting the people's will.—Colonist.

HIGH VALUE OF PREMIER MINE ORE

There is from twenty to thirty million dollars' worth of ore already proved up at the famous Premier Mine, near Stewart, B.C., the Colonist learns from an authoritative source.

The last ore shipments contained as high as eight ounces of gold to the ton, and while the silver values are not known, it is believed that they were almost as high.

There have been about 60,000 tons of ore shipped from the Premier Mine since last fall, with a value somewhere between one and a half and two million dollars. There was a big pile of sacked ore at Nine Mile when the lower end of the road broke up last spring, and this has been carried to tidewater.

The high-grade ore body is proved by the drill below No. 4 and a drift is under way from that level to reach it.

FIND GOOD ROADS IN FERNIE COUNTRY

(Inter-Lake, Kalispell, Mont.)

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Gay have returned from an automobile trip to Fernie. Mr. Gay states that Fernie has an excellent tourist camp, with a fine building, electric lights, running water and stoves for cooking purposes, and the camp is being well patronized. While he was there he was told that about 60 had visited the camp in a single day.

The roads in British Columbia he says are the finest. The construction is very thorough, with ample turnouts in the mountain regions, and on dangerous curves the roadway is made wide enough for three cars abreast. "Slow" signs are posted at all dangerous curves and railroad crossings.

The scenery about Fernie, he says is most magnificent and the business men of Fernie are using every effort to induce vsitors to their country.

CAMPING IN COMFORT

All the comforts of camping, with none of the drawbacks of having to prepare meals, etc., can be enjoyed during a visit to one of the Canadian Pacific Camps located on Lake Wapta (Hector station near Lake Louise) or Lake Windermere, B.C.

There appears to be some misapprehension as to these camps, for they do not consist of tents, but of log or rustic cabins for sleeping quarters, with a central club house, containing combination dining and living room and necessary kitchen facilities.

There is accommodation in each camp for fifty people and the locations are ideal for anyone wishing to enjoy a quiet holiday in the great outdoors, where hiking, riding, fishing, boating, etc., can be indulged in to the heart's desire.

WHITE STAR YEAST MAKES CLEAN-UP AT EDMONTON

(Reprinted from the Commercial Review of July 15th)

The educational factor is a great exhibition, properly conducted, such as the big show held in Edmonton this week, is of the greatest possible value to the community within its radius of influence. Such an exhibition serves as a sort of clearing house for experience. Those who are not getting just the best possible results from their efforts in any particular line of endeavor, whether it be in the raising of a steer, painting of a picture, feeding hogs, the making of pickles, or any other activities featured in the prize list, are afforded the opportunity of inspecting and profiting by the results attained by the more successful competitors.

In the Department of Domestic Manufactures for instance, the awards in the classes of home-made bread and buns afford a most valuable lesson in the matter of the selection of yeast to be used, which of course is a very important factor in bread-making. The following is a list of the successful competitors,, with the yeast used in each instance, so far as ascertaintble. Where the space for "Yeast Used" is left blank, information is not available.

LOOKS LIKE GOOD CAPTURE

Chief of Police Lawson and Constable Clarkston on Monday night made what is now thought to be an important capture of members of an American counterfeiters' ring, when two men, giving their names as T. L. Clarke and C. F. Johnson, aged 29 and 27 respectively, were arrested about a mile west of this city travelling towards it in an automobile. These men had been here a couple of days astensibly to purchase liquor for removal to the United States. They attempted to negotiate for a quantity from the local Export Liquor Co., but later approached the manager to deliver $1500 worth at some point in the vicinity of either the Montana or Idaho international boundary without the formality of the issuance of export documents. They received a point blank refusal but persisted in the endeavor to secure liquor seeking the aid of a member of a cartage firm frequently employed by the export company, whom they succeeded in getting to agree to see what he could do. Payment in advance was demanded, whereupon Clarke tendered three bundles of fifty bills each of the $10 denomination, Federal Reserve notes, Bank of San Francisco, Series 1914, all of which were later observed to bear No. L 89847384 A. This transpired before midnight and the party receiving this currency immediately became suspicious that it was "queer" although the suspicion was not revealed to the prospective purchasers. Subsequently when satisfied it was counterfeit the police were notified with the result that the arrest was made about 3 a.m. The pair were in possession of a new Reo Six car which had travelled only about four hudred miles, bearing Spokane County License No. 20264. In this was found a bottle of whiskey so that vehicle now has had seizures placed on it by both provincial authorities and customs officers. It has further been ascertained that Clarke has travelled under aliases of H. A. Morris and Thomas Clinton, the latter believed to be his correct name. United States Treasury agents are already en route here but the Canadian authorities will prosecute on a charge of uttering counterfeit money and having in possession forged notes, which is a penitentiary offence, carrying a maximum penalty of 14 years.

Later—Positive indentification of one of the alleged "shovers of the queer" arrested has now been made, namely Thomas Clinton, who was known hereabouts as H. C. Morris alias T. L. Clarke. Two United States treasury officials arrived in the city this morning and are investigating the matter of the origin of the forged Federal Reserve notes. The $1500 in $10 bills tendered by Clinton are products of identically the same plates as those disposed of to Yahk and Cranbrook bootleggers a short time ago. In those cases, however, it is stated the manipulators of the "queer" unloaded $1200 and $4000 worth respectively, receiving in return unadulterated alcoholic beverages to the face value of the currency had it not been bogus. The local case will come up for preliminary hearing on Tuesday next before Magistrate Whimster. Meanwhile the accused are confined to the city gaol without bail.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Bellevue football club were visitors here on Sunday last. Owing to their late arrival there was only a poor attendance at the game.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil Shimmons have taken up their residence amongst us, having been in Vancouver for the past three years.

Mike Hudock and family, old time residents of this camp, have again taken up their residence here.

Mrs. T. Prescott and family left on Wednesday morning for Salmon Arm, B.C., where Mr. Prescott has secured the position as principal of the school. During the three years Mr. and Mrs. Prescott have resided amongst us they have made many friends. The best wishes of the residents go with them to their new sphere of labor.

J. J. McCartney, of Calgary, representative of the International Correspondence School ,was paying a business visit to the camp on Wednesday.

The local "bachelor boys" held their annual picnic on Sunday last, proceeding to Elko by motor. The arrangements were admirably carried out by Harold Puckey, president of the Bachelor Boys Association.

Several of our residents took in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at Fernie on Tuesday. We would suggest to the theatre management an earlier start thus enabling Creekites to see the end of the shows, or arrangements made for late train.

The ferocious proclivities of Prince, the canine pet of Mr. and Mrs. Page, were terminated by lethal methods on Saturday last.

J. Mancine was removed to Fernie hospital on Monday night with injured ribs, sustained by falling while on his way to the washhouse after finishing his shift.

CAMP SITE APPRECIATED

There are quite a few Fernieites, formerly skeptics as regards the value of motor tourist traffic—especially the camping element of it—to the town, who have recently become converts to the belief that it is worth cultivating and going after. There are a few hard boiled skeptics left yet though, and if they are open-minded enough to be convinced by disinterested evidence ,all they have to do is to walk up to the camp site and read in the register there the expressed opinions of our visitors who have stayed there. If after doing that they are not convinced, then they are beyond hope.

Tourists are coming out of their way to make use of it. On Wednesday evening two cars, one from Lincoln, Nebraska, and the other from San Diego, came in through Gateway on their way up to Lake Windermere, but had heard about our camping ground and came here for the night. They stayed until Thursday afternoon and then retraced their way to Elko. They say it is the best scenery and the best camp site they have seen on their trip. Thursday night at 8 o'clock nine cars were there.

Last week end another tourist on his way back to Winnipeg from Seattle told me that he stayed in the camp site at Wilbur (about half way between Spokane and Seattle) and read in the register there what a tourist from Florida had written. It was, "With the exception, perhaps, of the camp site at Fernie, B.C., this is the nicest site we have seen since leaving home." This man said that when he read that he decided to stay at Fernie on his way through, and he did, for three days. He stated in our register that he had read about us at Wilbur and said some nice things about their site also. That is the way in which the news spreads. Another tourist from Portland said that there was an article on a trip through here written by someone in Portland which he had read in the Oregonian. It spoke well of our camp site, and was the means of his stopping here.

I fully expect that we shall have to utilize every available yard of our three acres next year, and instead of the six plots we have now, prepare at least fifteen or twenty.

Three weeks ago copies of the letters I wrote to the provincial government about neglecting this section of the province in their moving picture department of advertising, and to Sir James Lougheed, about an additional grant from the federal government for the Banff-Windermere road, appeared in these columns. The following answers have been received:

Vancouver, Aug. 10, 1921.

Re Motion Pictures

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 19th ult., received and contents noted.

The matter of taking motion pictures in your district has been thoroughly discussed with our photographer, A. D. Kean, and we are arranging for him to make an extended trip in order to obtain scenic and other pictures in your district. As soon as arrangements can be made Mr. Kean will call upon you, and I can assure you every effort will be made to obtain pictures that will give your district as much publicity as possible.

Yours truly,
A. R. Baker, Director.

Banff, Aug. 15, 1921.

Dear Mr. Spalding—With reference to the securing of an additional grant for work on the Banff-Winderemere road this season, I am glad to advise you that an extra $50,000 has been obtained.

I wish to thank you for the efforts of yourself and the Fernie Board of Trade in helping to secure this sum.

Faithfully yours,
J. M. Wardle, Chief Engineer.

REPORT OF INQUEST

The inquest touching the death of John Barnett, who died from injuries resulting from an automobile accident near Natal, on Wednesday night, Aug. 10, was held before Coroner A. C. Murray on Thursday night, and the jury, after deliberating for nearly one hour, returned a verdict that "John Barnett met death through the overturning of a car driven by Thomas Minton through some accidental cause unknown to the jury." A rider was added to the verdict that the government be petitioned to have this highway widened at the turn in question. The evidenve of the occupants of the car would tend to show that in their belief they were not travelling at a speed greater than 15 miles an hour. The turn came upon them very suddenly and in attempting to negotiate it the car skidded in the loose gravel off the roadway into a slight depression at the roadside and toppled gradually over, first on its right side and then partly upside down with all the passengers underneath. These witnesses were agreed that the turn was taken a trifle wide. The brakes had been promptly applied and everything done by the driver to manipulate the car efficiently, but the incident happened so quickly it was over before anyone realized what had occurred.

The first rescue car containing six men reached the scene within two or three minutes after the incident. It was driven by A. Klauer. With respect to securing a coherent narrative or accurate explanation of the minute details of the occurrence, Mr. Klauer said he thought this would be impossible as the knowledge of the fact that Barnett was imprisoned beneath the overturned car and the urgency for his release produced confusion and excitement among those present. There was absolutely no evidence of any of the party being under the influence of liquor nor of any of them having consumed intoxicants during the trip other than that of Herbert Wood, teller of the Imperial Bank, who was a passenger in the front seat, and who said that while at Coleman he and Minton, the driver, had partaken of two glasses of beer.

From Coleman to Natal, a distance of 18 miles, all the witnesses emphatically stated that the nature and condition of this stretch of highway was exceedingly dangerous and required skill and experience to drive it safely. Minton had covered this portion of the journey without any trouble. Joseph Letcher, proprietor of the Kootenay Garage here, drove the accident car to this city from the scene about an hour after it happened and found nothing defective with the mechanism. He had had no authority to do this but when Minton had stated t was his intention to do so he, Letcher, had volunteered to drive it owing to the noticeable nervousness of Minton.

Minton, who stands charged with manslaughter, was put on the witness stand by his counsel, D M Mitchell of this city., and the lad told his version of the affair without the slightest hesitation and in an unquestionably straightforward manner. He estimated he was travelling about 15 miles an hour but upon reaching the junction of the roads became dazzled and slightly over-drove the turning point and in bringing the car around it skidded in soft gravel, then hit something solid and aurned over easy. He is 21 years of age and said he had driven motor cars steadily since 1917, but had two years' experience as an auto driver and mechanic prior to that. He was quite familiar with the road and had driven it frequently.

ETHEL CLAYTON HAS DIFFICULT ROLE IN "SINS OF ROSANNE"

Ethel Clayton plays a sort of feminine Jekyll and Hyde in her latest Paramount photoplay. "Sins of Rosanne," which will be presented at the Orpheum Theatre tonight (Friday) and Saturday. The picture is a mystery romance, with the bulk of the action laid in South Africa, and was adapted from Cynthia Stockley's popular novel.

The heroine is an English girl who was mothered for two years by a Malay woman and was imbued by her with a passionate desire for bright stones and the strange power to cause injury to those she might hate. When she sees jewels, she comes under the influence of her craving and will not stop at anything, even theft, to obtain them. When the lure is taken away, she becomes again a gentle, lovely personality. A beautiful romance develops. according to the story, and destroys the spell.

Baby camels born in captivity rarely live for any length of time but one recently born in the New York zoo promises to set a record. With the atmosphere and environment now closely resembling their native desert there is no reason why they should not increase and mulutiply.

BASEBALL ON LABOR DAY

At a meeting of the Labor Day Sports Committee held in the Boy Scout hall on Monday evening, it was decided to hold a monster baseball day, and invite the best baseball teams possible to compete.

To secure only high grade baseball, one big prize of $500 is being put up, the team winning the tournament to take all. This should be a good inducement to some of the first class teams from across the line and along the boundary country.

A prize of $100 was also put up for one junior game. Fans who had the pleasure of witnessing the junior game on July 1 will be pleased to hear that arrangements are now complete for this prize to be competed for by the Fernie Boy Scouts and the Cranbrook Y.M.C.A.

A program of sports for school children have been drawn up and a sum of money set aside for prizes for these events.

AMERICAN CONSULAR SERVICE—FERNIE

Attention of the travelling public is invited to the circumstance that passports issued by many foreign Governments enable the bearers to proceed to Canada. Before a person entering Canada upon such a passport can proceed to the United States, it is essential that the pasport be endorsed by a diplomatic of Consular officer of the issuing Government, as valid to enable the holder to proceed to the United States.

Therefore holders of passports so restricted should, before making application to the American Consulate at Fernie for a vist, transmit them to the nearest Consular officer of their own Government for the proper endorsement.

The foregoing statement does not, of course, apply to passports which do not expressly limit the bearer to Canada, or any other specified countries.

REPORT OF G.W.V.A. BAND

It is one year since the inception of the Fernie G.W.V.A. Band. Below we give the secretary's annual report, along with the balance sheet.

—Fernie, B.C., Aug. 8, 1921.

Gentlemen—This being the first anniversary of the band under new management, I beg to submit the following report:

On Aug. 8, 1920, the band commenced under the name of G.W.V.A. with nine members ,increasing in the first six weeks to 14 members. The success of the band has been due to the unsparing financial assistance given by the G.W.V.A. and the untiring efforts of Bandmaster Ramsay. We must not overlook the support given by the Fernie baseball club on Victoria Day.

Bandmaster Ramsay took over the band when it possessed little more than a name and the good intention of a few enthusiasts, who organized the band and who, during its existence, have contributed to its success by regular attendance at rehearsals. The remarkable achievements of the band and proficiency of the men is due to the Bandmaster, who has instilled within his men the desire to strive for perfection, not only through individual, but by co-operative efforts.

The attendance of the members at rehearsals has been 100 per cent during the winter months, except in cases where a member has been following his daily employment, some of them working on afternoon shift.

We are building up a musical library of which any city should be proud and it is hoped that the citizens of Fernie will contribute liberally to the band if called upon to do

CLAIM ENGLAND AS A COLONY

Writing of the visit of the King and Queen to the Channel Islands, a correspondent of the London Chronicle says:

Your true Islander, conscious and proud of being part of the Norman Duchy which in 1066 conquered and annexed England, really claims that England is his colony and possession. Only recently on a public occasion in Jersey, the writer heard one of the Island officials half seriously refer to "the mainland" as an example of their Anglo-Norman enterprise.

The Islands of Guernsey and Jersey are free and independent states, each with its own parliament, laws and constitutions, acknowledging only the direct authority to the Crown. Norman-French is strictly the official language, and the very titles of the officials—if one excepts the lieutenont governors appointed from London—proclaim their distinction; The Bailiff (or chief judge); the jurats (or magisterial senators); the rectors; the procureur du roi (attorney-general); the prevot, or denonciateur (sheriff); the greffier (clerk of "the States" or Parliament); down to the connetables (chairmen of the parish council of Douzaniers). Then Sark is ruled by its hereditary seigneur, who feudally appoints his seneschal or judge, and Alderney has its douzaine or legislature under a dean.

These very titles show how the ancient and independent character of the islands is still maintained. Officially and legally, the language is the old Norman French, which our conquerors imposed upon England, now only surviving in the phrase "Le Roi le veult" with which royal assent is given to acts of parliament at Westminster. In practice nowadays the islanders use English for legal proceedings as well as in business and social converse, though the quaint Norman patois is still often heard.

Untouched by any modern innovation, full power still attaches to the historic "clameur de Haro," when an aggrieved islander, in the presence of witnesses, drops on his knees and crying: "Haro! Haro! a l'aide, mons prince, on me fait tort," appeals for justice in the same way that his ancestor centuries ago appealed to the Duke of Normandy. As recently as 1914 the "clameur de Haro" was exercised in Alderney.

One could walk from end to end and across Guernsey in a few hours, while Jersey, twice the size, has only 32 square miles. Yet what land, however spacious, can show greater beauties than are packed in these sun bathed, fertile isles set in a set of sapphire?

There is a touch of the Mediterranean in the rock-fretted shores and deep blue sea and sub-tropical vegetation, as there is of old France in the high, narrow houses and winding streets of St. Peter Port and St. Helier, while ancient castles and old martello towers speak of martial days and years of long ago.

"In his "Toilers of the Deep," written during his exile in Guernsey, Victor Hugo immortalized the life of the island fisherman. But fishing is no longer a leading industry in the Norman archipelago, famous though it still is for the finest lobsters in the world. Nowadays the life of the Islands centres in the intensive cultivation of the naturally fertile soil, aided by the wonderful climate and sunshine.

Long famous for its beautiful breed of cattle, Jersey is now also synonymous with early new potatoes and tomatoes. In recent years Jersey has pushed practically everything else aside for potato growing. On the sunniest slopes of the hills, from the foot to the very crest, there are the serried terraces which look like vines from a distance, but in reality are the scarcely less golden potato plants.

In the few months of the season Jersey has exported as many as 80,000 tons of potatoes to all the English markets. Then follow tomatoes, also grown in the open, with apples, pears, grapes, etc., in diminishing importance. It is one of the sights of St. Helier to see the long lines of carts on the quayside waiting to transfer their baskets and barrels to the steamers.

Guernsey specializes in cultivation under glass, which was introduced some forty years ago on a small scale and proved so successful that hundreds of acres are now covered with glass houses. Guernsey produce is thus earlier in the market. Tomatoes (which are different from Jersey) and grapes are the staple crops of the island, together with forced melons, flowers, potatoes, beans, figs, salads, etc. The first crops of tomatoes are grown in artificially heated houses, and the second crop (for there are two a year) by the natural heat of the sun.

To what extent Guernsey is a land of small holdings is shown by the fact that the average farm is only five and a half acres. Yet intensive cultivation with two good crops a year make the soil literally golden, and there are today few more prosperous men than the Guernsey "growers."

FOR A DRY SHIP

The steamer "Swiftscout" was recently christened with a bottle of water at Portland, Ore. In connection with the event the workmen of the Northwest Bridge and Iron Company of that city formulated the following resolution, a copy of which was presented to the management of that corporation:

"Resolved, That no part of a ship be referred to as a saloon, for the reason that such reference might raise false hopes. That all bars be removed from harbor entrances or designated by some other name. That the word 'port' be expunged from navigation charts and references. That the use of alcohol lamps be forbidden by law."

FEARED SHE HAD HEART TROUBLE

Winnipeg Woman Felt At Times She Would Smother—Health Restored By Tanlac

"I was told no medicine in the world could help me, but Tanlac did what seemed to be impossible and I am feeling better than I have in many years," said Mrs. Walter J. Crowders, of 645 Rosedale Avenue, Winnipeg, Man.

"About a year ago my health broke down completely and I had to take to my bed. I had a regular seige of it and only after many weeks was I able even to do so much as sit up. Nothing I took gave me any strength and I just wasted away.

"I barely ate enough to keep alive, and what little I did eat caused great distress from acid stomach. Sometimes I felt like I would smother, and my heart would palpitate so I was afraid I had heart trouble. My Husband spared no money in providing me with the best of treatments, but nothing benefited me, and, as I said, I was told my case was beyond the reach of any medicine.

Major Park's statement about what Tanlac did for me, convinced me gave it a trial. It was simply marvelous the way this medicine brought back my health and overcame all my troubles. I feel like a different woman, eat anything without fear of discomfort afterwards and I have gained ten pounds in weight. It is simply wonderful that a medicine could do so much good. My life is no more like what it was than a bright sunshiny day is like a dark, rainy one. I am a well and happy woman and it's all due to this grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

FERNIE, B. C.

OLDEST COURT IN THE WORLD

The most ancient court of justice in the world is situated in the East End of London. It is enshrined in an old and dingy brick building in a rather squalid corner, which bears the high-sounding name of St. James' Place.

In this obscure, out-of-the-way corner of London is a court which was hoary with age before King Alfred was cradled. It has wandered over the face of the earth for long centuries, and it has had, and still has, its home in many strange lands far removed from the land of its birth. But today you can see it exactly as it was more than three thousand years ago, when Jethro, father-in-law of Moses, counselled him to "choose able men out of Israel and make them heads over the people — ruler of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties and rulers of tens."

These "rulers" were the judges who presided over the first courts long before the first Nebuchadnezzar reigned over Babylon, precisely as Dr. Hertz, Chief Rabbi of the Jews, and his two assessors conduct the twentieth century court in St. James' Place in East London.

As is seemly to so venerable an institution this court, which is known as Beth Din (the House of Judgment) is very sedate and dignified. It has none of the ceremonial of our own courts of justice, none of the pomp and splendor of the assize.

In a large room on the first floor of the court house you will find perhaps a hundred or more Jews of both sexes and all ages assembled, awaiting their turn to present their cases before the tribunal; and meantime discussing their grievances in a babel of tongues, ranging from Yiddish to the patois of Russia and Poland—with sympathetic listeners.

As each successive case is called, the parties mount the stairs to the court, and find themselves in a barely-furnished room and in the presence of the Reverend Rabbi, and of his assessors, one sitting on each side of him behind a long table.

The two dominant features of the Beth Din are its silence and its entire absence of all formality. There are no prosy or eloquent counsel, no jury and no warders. In low voices the plaintiff states his grievances, the defendant pleads his cause, and the witnesses are heard. The litigants then retire; the judge and his assessors consult together inaudibly, and the verdict is quickly given. It is justice administered on ideal lines of business and common sense, and without listening ears—for each case is tried in the camera.

And what is the jurisdiction of this strange and really wonderful court? It covers the whole field of wrongdoing, except crime. It adjudicates on debt and breach of promise, assault and libel. It decides disputes between husband and wife, parent and child, employer and servant. It lays down the law in problems of religion or ritual or diet.

Unlike our own courts of law it has no power to enforce its decisions. The litigants who come before it however, must first sign an undertaking to abide by its verdict; and such is the faith in its wisdom and justice that, with very rare exceptions, its judgment is accepted as final.

And that this faith is by no means confined to Jews is proved by the fact that many cases that would otherwise come before East End magistrates are sent for adjudication to the Beth Din, with the certainty that justice will be done. In fact, many of the cases thus remitted could not be properly tried in an English court for they only speak strange tongues, of which the police court interpreters are as ignorant as the magistrates themselves—Province.

so. We are in need of a few uniforms to make our ranks complete; also a few instruments in need of repair and general overhauling, having been in use for the past ten years. It is also necessary that a new Eb Bass be purchased to replace the one discarded, so as to bring the bass section up to the standard. During the past few months we have had several applications from bandsmen in other cities to join our ranks, providing that they could secure employment, but owing to industrial conditions in this district we have been compelled to refuse these applicants, as some of our players have had to leave the city owing to lack of employment.

During this season the band has given ten open air concerts and have generously rendered their services on several occasions for charitable purposes gratis.

As you will note by the financial statement, the past year's expenditures have been mostly for music and repairs. I would suggest that in future all music be purchased in Canada owing to the heavy taxes imposed on American publications.

I would further suggest that a band contest be held in the Kootenay and that the July celebration committee in this city include it in the program for 1922. This matter would need to be decided a few months in advance so as to give an adjudicator a chance to choose a test piece for the contestants to rehearse.

In conclusion I wish to thank the donators to the smoking concert; also those who helped the band financially and otherwise during the past year, and would urge one and all to continue to give the same loyal support so generously given in the past.

D. F. Markland, Sec.

This will be a decided convenience for people living in the Pass towns, as they always travel back and forth and as the towns are very close together it seems foolish to wait for a train.

FERNIE vs WHITE SPRUCE

On Sunday last Fernie once again defeated the White Spruce aggregation, this time by the score of 8-2.

The Sprucers opened up the scoring column in the third, Fernie tied up by securing one in the fifth, in the sixth Fernie broke the tie, adding another, after that they took advantage of their opponents erratic fielding, garnering 2 more in the 7th and 4 in the 8th. White Spruce staged a rally in their half of the ninth, only to be retired after securing one lone tally.

Neitzling in the box for Fernie worked well in the pinches, retiring the batters via the strike-out route with men on bases. Bishop for the lumbermen held the locals well in hand up to the seventh when his defense wavered behind him allowing Fernie to gain too big a lead to be overtaken.

The snappy fielding of the Fernie players throughout the entire game, and of the White Spruce up to the seventh kept the fans on their toes.

ERRORLESS BALL WINS FOR FERNIE

Playing airtight, errorless ball, Fernie took the second of the home and home games with Hillcrest at Hillcrest Wednesday afternoon by the score of seven runs to two.

Neitzling, pitching for Fernie held Hillcrest well in hand during the entire game, only in the third, when Hillcrest managed to get two runs across the plate, and in the first and eighth innings, were Hillcrest batters able to reach first, being retired in the one, two, three order in all other frames.

Mulholland pitched a very good game for Hillcrest but his support was rather ragged and Fernie were able to score two runs in the first, third and fourth, and one run in the fifth innings. The only excitement in the last three innings was when Hillcrest managed to fill the sacks, only to be dissapointed, the side being retired before any scoring was done.

OLD TIMERS FAR SUPERIOR

If some of the pitching stars of the past were to return to baseball today what an inferior collection of pitchers they would behold. Mathewson, Big Ed. Walsh, Rucker, Waddell, Chesbro, Three Fingered Brown and other great hurlers have passed out of the game only to have their places filled pitchers who years ago would have difficulty in holding a berth in the minors.

Pitching has retrogressed until today it is absurd to classify the ones of the present day with those of yesterday.

The pitchers themselves will tell you it is the drastic rules imposed upon them that have assassinated the art of pitching. But the old-timers will shake their heads and say "They are not what they used to be."

Pitching has suffered greatly as a result of magnates greed for heavy hitting. Pitching has suffered much from the severe rules prohibiting the so-called "freak" deliveries, all because the majority of fans preferred to see heavy hitting rather than a pitching duel.

In the major leagues today the twirlers consider themselves the victims of the livelier ball and the drastic rules. Some will make no attempt to put "anything" on the ball, some will explain that it is foolishness to use any speed and then there are others who will explain to you that they just pitch them up and trust to luck and good support of the other eight players.

There are only about six twirlers in the big leagues today that have a record that might cast them into the set, 'real major league pitchers.' The foremost of these is "Red" Faber of the shattered White Sox, With a team that is next to last in the American League, this pitcher has won 22 and lost 8 games. His pitching average is .741. Next to the White Sox hurler Wilbur Cooper has won 14 and lost 6, Babe Adams has won 14 and lost 3, Coveleskie has won 16 and lost 7. Mays of the Yankees has won 16 and lost 7. These players are the only ones that have any record this season worth mentioning. Nehf, Alexander, Grimes, Scott, Haines, Barnes, Douglas, Doak, Shawkey, Jones, Caldwell, Shocker, Mails, Davis, Johnson, Bush, Bagby, Sothorn and others have all found that they cannot pitch their best under the present rules and the livelier ball.

They are all optimistic that the rules will be changed in the near future. Either they will introduce a less lively ball or lift some of the severe rulings that have hampered their pitching.

In some circles they have ventured the opinion that the oppressed pitchers will improve under the present livelier ball and drastic rulings, and that in another three years they will be just as effective as when the "shine," "spitter," "knuckle" and other freak deliveries were allowed. Their contention is based upon the fact that in the olden days the batting was just as heavy as it is today. The reason was that the pitchers were only allowed to throw underhanded to the batter.

There were so many batting orgies that the rules were changed, allowing a pitcher to throw either side-arm or over-handed. The result was the the heavy hitting stopped. Then the batters were supressed to such an extent that in the early nineties the pitcher's box was moved out farther, to its present distance away from the home plate. This was the method obtaining a happy medium between batting and pitching. Still the pitchers mastered the new distance, and up to the time that "freak" deliveries were eliminated and the new ball introduced the pitchers had much the better of things. But now the batters of today have much the bigger advantage than the pitchers of a few years ago had over the hitters

At any rate, the records of today do not show one pitcher in either National or American Leagues that could be compared with Mathewson, Walsh, Rucker, Waddell, Chesbro, Brown and the other great pitchers whose names will be handed down to posterity while the present day crop will be forgotten.

FOOTBALL ACCIDENT

Coleman, Aug. 15.—A very regrettable accident occurred at the football match played on Saturday evening between Corbin and Coleman. The game was within five minutes of being ended and Coleman was leading 3 to 0, when the incident occurred. Fred Service, a young and clever player, made to tackle "Yates" of Coleman when by some strange turn young Service had his leg broken. It remains a mystery yet not only to all the players but to Fred himself how it could occur. Of course the game was stopped and all the help rendered that could be, before Dr. Field arrived on the scene. Service was immediately taken to the hospital and his limb set. He is resting quietly and receiving the greatest attention possible.

The Coleman boys regret the accident very much as the game was proceeding on the most friendly terms. Fred's wants are being attended to as the boys have raised sufficient money for his immediate needs and more will be done later.

A plant grows in Japan which furnishes a sort of vegetable leather. It is a pretty shrub called the misumata, and its inner bark, after going through certain processes, is converted into a substance as tough as French kid, so translucent that one can almost see through it, and as pliable as calfskin.

THE TRAGEDY OF RUSSIA

Mr. Hoover's telegram to the former president of Switzerland makes clear the tragic nature of Russia's need—a need "beyond the resources of the the available charities" of a world that is itself sore beset. What is emphasized is that it is not the draught of one season that has created the black areas with a penumbra of want that covers the greater part of Russia. The causes of shortage of food, Mr. Hoover asserts, are such that "they will be recurrent every year until there is much further change in the economic system." The building up of transportation, of agriculture and of industry, moreover, calls for measures beyond the reach of charity.

It seems sardonic humor on the part of Lenine, who, facing this utter inadequacy of transport, complains that the crops had not been kind enough to take into consideration this lack of transportation facilities, and "especially unthinking where there are no facilities at all." Thus with unfilial irony, says the New York Times, he lays upon the soil of his motherland the blame for the conditions which his own blighting rule has been responsible for bringing about. His communistic machinery having broken down, he is, in one breath, asking the "proletariat" to make concessions to the peasants in order to free them from famine, "for without an alliance with the peasants," he says, "the Soviet power cannot subsist;" and in the next breath he is uring "electrification of industry," which must be restored "at whatever cost"—a feverish opportunistic policy in the face of a catastrophe which makes his humor sound blasphemous.

SPECIAL PHOTOGRAPHIC PARTY WILL TAKE 50,000 FEET OF B.C. MOVIES

The Canadian government has the most complete moving-picture organization of any government in the world, according to R. S. Peck, director of exhibits and the publicity bureau of the department of trade and commerce, who arrived in Vancouver the other day.

During the current year more than 100,000 feet of film will be turned out by the bureau to be distributed throughout Europe, America and the Orient and this series dealing chiefly with the industrial life of the Dominion, will be supplemented by thousands of interesting "stills."

Mr. Peck made the announcement that a special bureau car, attached to the Canadian National Railway, would shortly reach Vancouver, when the expert staff of photographers would busy themselves gathering pictures already not taken by two movie men now here compiling the story of the coast fishing industry.

Desirous of clearing up an important point in the mind of the general public, Mr. Peck emphasized that Canadian and foreign theatres showing Dominion government pictures paid well for the service they obtained.

"There has been an impression abroad that we go to great expense in turning out these picture," he said. "But while it is a fact that there is considerable expense invol ed in carrying on our extensive work, we have contracts with the leading film distributors to take our pictures and the revenue compensates us well."

The photographers had already travelled many miles in a Jericho Air Station seaplanes ,with Major C. MacLaurin as pilot, he added, and had taken interesting pictures of the work at the station. One of these films would show a monster seaplane in the act of apprehending dope smugglers, trailing one of the big incoming liners.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

CATHOLIC S.S. PICNIC

About two hundred children enjoyed the Sunday School picnic held on the church grounds on Wednesday. It had been arranged to go to the golf grounds. which grounds were kindly lent for the occasion by W. R. Wilson, the kiddies' friend. The day was so showery, however, the program had to be changed. The children left at one o'clock in motor cars belonging to J. T. Mangan, J. Aiello, John Bossio, Mrs. C. J. O'Neil, Geo. Cody, Jr., A. Klauer and Father Anthony, for a spin to White Spruce, Cokato and back. At 3 o'clock ice cream cones, candy, peaches and lemonade were served in the parish hall. "Why should it ever come winter, when we can get all the ice cream cones we want for nuthing," murmured one of the youngsters. There was something doing all the time—not a moment of inactivity.

The committe in charge, composed of Mrs. Haddad, convenor, assisted by Misses D. Rizzuto, Annie Podbielancik, K. Hughes and Agnes Culleton, are to be congratulated on the deft handed way in which they handled the event.

Rev. Father Murphy of Edmonton and Father Bissette of Cranbrook were distinguished guests.

"We'll be there and thank you, Father," chorused the children when the Pastor promised a monster Christmas Tree Festival to all faithful attendants at Sunday School.

CAMP HARMONY

Down by the river at Morrissey
There stands a camp called Harmony;
In a great big tent on the river shore
We live as the Indians did of yore.

The first day saw us in swimming togs,
Building a dam of stones and logs,
Making a place for us and the frogs
To swim in harmony.

The next day brought us some neighbor boys,
Who filled the air with their fun and noise;
They built us a pantry and gave us trout,
As well befits a good Boy Scout.

Every night when we feel a-shiver
We build a bonfire by the river,
And sing a camp song with much ado
While the neighbors accompany on the kazoo.

Then the shadows deepen among the trees,
And our voices hush on the evening breeze;
The camp-fire flames burn high and low,
And a spell is cast by their ruddy glow.

We love the water from mountain brooks,
We love to read in shady nooks,
We love the dawn and the song bird's call,
But we love the camp fire best of all.

Adieu, dear camp, till we come once more
To live upon this lovely shore,
Where the scent of the spruce wafts across the land,
And the rugged, silent Rockies stand.

—From Girls Camp at Morrissey.

PROVINCIAL GOVT. NEWS

(Special Correspondence)

Victoria, Aug. 17.—Perhaps the most important question which has been before the Oliver government since it took office is that of municipal finance, and the entire month is being devoted to it by the executive council, with the Premier and Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, determined to find a solution. All the recommendations made to the government by various municipal representatives for the past two years are being considered, and the Premier says he hopes to meet the situation without finding an increase in taxation necessary.

The Liquor Act is expected to produce a profit of $1,000,000 before the end of the year. The amusement and automobile taxes have increased and the income taxes are the heaviest for years. A reduced budget is inevitable, but the finance minister is optimistic and declares there will be no marked shortage when the estimates are brought down at the fall session. A rigid policy of retrenchment has been made necessary this summer, but the Premier has declared himself unwilling to incur avoidable obligations.

THE TOURIST QUESTION

By J. F. SPALDING

PROMINENT VICTORIA CITIZENS AT FERNIE

On Wednesday evening, A. E. Todd, Stephen Jones, H. J. Scott and W. Lineham on a motor tour from Victoria to Calgary and back, stopped here and asked to meet some of the active citizens of Fernie, to discuss with them a proposal which they are endeavoring to have the Provincial Government adopt.

Owing to the short notice, (barely three-quarters of an hour) it was impossible to call a general meeting of the Board of Trade but a fairly representative body were got together and a meeting was held in the Council Chamber.

Mr. Todd is the Honorary President of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, and Vice Presdent of the Canadian Highway Association, also has been Mayor of Victoria several years and is now one of the Aldermen. Mr. W. Lineham is a wealthy citizen of Victoria and a great traveller, he is the present President of the Victoria Real Estate Exchange and a director of the Canadian Highway Association. Mr. Jones is the owner of the Dominion Hotel in Victoria and a Director of the C. H. A., and Mr. Scott is the manager of the Canadian Explosives Ltd., and also a Director of the Canadian Highway Association.

Mayor Henderson welcomed them in the name of the City and then Mr. Todd introdured the others of his party, giving a brief history of each one with the object of impressing the meeting with the fact that they were all very responsible men, and that anything proposed by them to the Government would be listened to with respect, and be more likely to receive adoption than if proposed by a body of less important men, especially if their proposal received the endorsation of the different Boards of Trade throughout the Province, for which purpose they wished to meet our board. He then called upon Mr. Lineham, the originator of the project, to explain it.

Mr. Lineham said that he had visited New Zealand this Spring and travelled throughout the whole country, and it was there that he realized the possibilities of the tourist industry, which is managed entirely by the Government of that country. He went into the system adopted by them rather fully, and compared what that Government has done with what has been done by our Government in the way of making capital out of its principal asset, the gist of his speech is as follows:

The Dominion of New Zealand was settled in 1839, just four years ahead of this province, and now has a pop-

THE LATEST DISPATCHES

London, Aug. 26. — The British government's proposals were laid before the Dail Eireann, which rejected them unanimously, but is willing to negotiate on the principle of Government Consent of the Government, Eamonn de Valera says in his reply to Premier Lloyd George. The letter proposes that Great Britain and Ireland appoint representatives with plenary powers to negotiate details on this principle. "We have not sought war nor do we seek war, but if war be made we must defend ourselves and shall do so," says de Valera's letter. "We long to end the conflict," he adds.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

A coroner's jury investigated the death of John Ilovski alias John Kenosky, who died here last Sunday as the result of injuries sustained while engaged at work in the woods of the White Spruce Lumber Co., five miles east of here. From the evience adduced it appears that deceased and his partner, W. Lynch, were felling a tree on a hillside. In falling the tree struck a snag or long stump causing the falling tree to shoot backward directly over the stump from which it had been cut, and for some unexplained reason Ilovski had taken up a position behind the falling tree so that when the rebound came he received the full impact from the butt in the abdomen. Internal injuries inflicted were severe, but according to medical testimony Ilovski at first emphatically declined to permit an operation, as he had been advised some three years ago when he had undergone an operation, that he would never survive another. It was therefore over 24 hodrs after the accident before Ilovski was operated upon and he never rallied. The jury, however, were of the opinion that death was directly due to the injuries and these had been brought about by accidental causes. Dr. Garner stated he could not but feel that had deceased consented to an operation immediately there would have been a good chance of recovery.

"THE SILVER HORDE" COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

Rex Beach's big production, "The Silver Horde," a new Goldwin offering, will be shown at the Orpheum theatre soon and is a glowing tribute to the ability of the author. It is an Eminent Authors production and meets the high standard for pictures set by this brand.

The story fairly pulsates with the spirit of indomitable courage and daring which mark those who defy the ruggedness of the North and the vicious elements it breeds in the struggle for existence. The cast is made up of players of excellent types, all equal in ability to present true characterizations.

Most of the action revolves about the parts played by Myrtle Stedman, Robt. McKim, Betty Blythe, Curtis Cooksey and Frederick Stanton, players popular with lovers of the screen, who put many thrills and a great deal of romance into the fight waged by the trust interests against the independent faction for a monopoly of the salmon canning industry in Alaska.

Rex Beach journeyed to the Northwest with Director Frank Lloyd and the cast for the exterior scenes made in that location, and rendered much assistance in keeping the action realistic and in harmony with his visualization of the story he wrote.

AMERICAN CONSULAR SERVICE, FERNIE

Under new regulations promulgated by the Treasury Department of the United States, Consular Invoices should show (1) the kind of money (gold, silver or paper) in which the value or price is stated, and (2) the date of acceptance of order for goods.

It is thought that the statement, "U. S. Gold Cur." or "Can. Paper Cur.," as the case may be, will be sufficient compliance with the first provision, and "Order accepted..... .....1921," a compliance with the second.

JUVENILE BURGLARS

Another burglary was reported to the police this week when the confectionery establishment of John Wood was entered and a quantity of chocolate bars and cigarettes appropriated. The regularity with which these have been occurring had become a distasteful problem to the police, but the similarity of the articles stolen led the authorities to suspect that juveniles were responsible. On Monday evening a call came from the drug store of N. E. Suddaby, where a well known young lad was alleged to have been caught red-handed taking some periodicals. The constable upon arriving to take his charge in custody, immediately connected the recent burglaries with youngsters and put the question: "Where is all that other stuff that was taken from Dragon's and from Wood's?" To this he received the prompt reply: "I'll show you but I had nothing to do with that." Following the instructions as to where the caches were, nearly all the missing articles, except the chocolate bars, were located, including miscellaneous articles taken from various shacks, just outside the city limits on coke oven hill. Two other youngsters of ten and twelve years of age respectively, were implicated in all these incidents, the cases of the two business houses in this city being exclusively the work of these latter two. Upon being confronted with the accusation of having committed the offences, it is stated by the police that they readily confessed and gave full details of how they pulled off the jobs. Informations have been laid against all three and they will appear in the juvenile court within a few days.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Thomas Clinton, alias T. L. Clarke, alias H. A. Morris, and Chris. F. Johnson, were committed for trial on Wednesday morning for having in their possession $1500 forged Federal Reserve bank notes of the United States. The evidence for the prosecution with regard to the local transaction was that the 150 ten dollar bills were tendered for 30 cases of whiskey. The poor imitation of these notes was clearly demonstrated by E. H. Wood, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, by comparison with genuine notes. The Crown introduced some startling testimony through B. J. Riley, hotel proprietor at Yahk, B.C., and G. F. Mash, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, Cranbrook, B.C. The latter produced identically similar bills to the face value of $2000, which Riley testified had been given to him on or about July 22 last by Clinton, one of the accused in the present case, and another unidentified man, receiving therefor between thirty and forty cases of whiskey. Clinton has also been committed on this charge prosecuted by the provincial authorities.

"THE CONFESSION"

One of the triumphs in photodramas in the history of the last ten years will open for a run at the Isis Theatre, when "The Confession" will be unfolded for the approval of the public. And right here is a good time to say that if there were more film productions of this kind there would be no further need of censor boards throughout the Dominion—it is the cleanest, most wonderful acted, beautifully photographed, and the tensest story it has been our good fortune to witness in many months.

The cast contains stars who are known throughout the entire world for their ability in character portrayals, headed by the greatest emotional actor of them all, Henry B. Walthal, who we all remember and love from his portrayal of the Little Colonel in "The Birth of a Nation." The story itself runs the entire gauntlet of human emotions and carries a moral one carries in memory long after the last scene has been shown. At first glance one wonders such wonderful men as Cardinal Mercier, Gibbons and O'Connell endorse the picture and recommend it to the public and the religion, but after witnessing the production that question is fully answered and to ones satisfaction. "The Confession" was shown for its introduction to the Canadian public in the St. Denis Theatre, Montreal, where it was necessary to hold it for sixteen consecutive days, this theatre has a seating capacity of twenty-four hundred seats and still it was impossible to accomodate the crowds, and comes direct to the Isis from that run.

During its stay at the St. Denis Theatre, Manager Crow received many letters of commendation, the following letter was particularly interesting: The Manager, St. Denis Theatre, Montreal. Dear Sir:—As managing editor of the Canadian Catholic Magazine I take pleasure on complimenting you on the Motion Picture "The Confession" I had pleasure of witnessing at your theatre last evening. You are to be complimented, My Dear Sir, for having brought this picture to your theatre and it is hoped that Mr. Reid will not lay down his pen but in the future will give the public productions of similar interest. I hope this picture embodying the real moral that lives long in the mind of the public will be the means of elevating our screen productions of today. Very truly yours, Vincent V. Cox, Managing Editor.

"The Confession" will be shown at the Isis Theatre next Monday and Tuesday.

THE HOUSING SCHEME

At the regular meeting of the city council held last evening the following letter from the G.W.V.A. was discussed at length, but action in the matter was deferred:

Fernie, B.C., Aug. 24, 1921

To the Mayor and Aldermen, City of Fernie, B.C.:

Gentlemen — On behalf of the G.W.V.A. Association of Fernie, I beg to inform you that this branch is not in favor of the present housing scheme as laid down by the government. This matter has been taken up on several occasions and thoroughly discussed at our meetings. In December, 1920, this branch sent out the following resolution to our Provincial Command:

That we, the Fernie Branch of the G.W.V.A., resolve that the housing scheme Act be extended, whereby a returned soldier may buy a ready built house, instead of building, and that this privilege be extended to other points and municipalities.

I may state that the said resolution was endorsed by the Provincial Convention, held in Chilliwack, June, 1921, and is to be brought before the Dominion Convention in October. I venture to state that the spirit of this resolution was based on the attitude of the city council of 1919, who, at that time considered it inadvisable to build new property, owing to there being a large number of ready built houses on the market, also taking into consideration the high cost of material and labor. At the present time the same conditions exist, therefore it would be fallacy on the part of anyone to build, under the existing conditions. We consider that the government would be taking less risk if the money was loaned to buy ready built homes, or for the improvement of those already owned by the returned soldier, thus enabling the borrower to re-establish himself on a smaller loan and thereby make the repayment in a shorter period. Therefore we request that you will support our resolution.

THE TOURIST QUESTION

ulation of 1,200,000 people on her 103,000 square miles of territory, why is it that they have so far outstripped us in the race for settlement and developement? Simply because they have consistently exploited and developed their principal asset, which is the pastural and agricultural land and everything else has been secondary. What line has British Columbia taken? The assets which have absorbed our attention are fish, minerals and timber, each of which requires large preliminary outlay, and only employs a normal amount of labor, a considerable amount of which is Oriental and Slavic. To build up a population in a vast territory like ours, out of the three assets mentioned will be so slow that generations will be reqired to do it, unless we make further effort. We have entirely the greatest feature we possess, namely, the wonderful scenic beauty of the Province, which is in every way our largest and most valuable asset.

British Columbia has an area of 356,000 square miles, of which 148,000 square miles of mountain tops, 144,00 square miles of timber land, 40,000 square miles of water, rock and muskeg, unproductive below the timber line, 20,000 square miles only which are suitable for use when cleared, and 4,000 square miles improved or partly so. These figures which are the Governments own compilation should convince the most skeptical that our main asset is the SCENERY, because until it is cut, the timber should be included in that category. Therefore, the logical thing for us to do, is to develope what we have got the most of. The scenic attractions of B.C. are unrivalled anywhere in America, we have a playground equal to twenty-four Switzerlands, and all that is necesary, is to finish the essential works that are now under construction and then advertise in an aggressive maner, so that one hundred and fourteen millions of people on this continent will know what we have to show them. He went on to say that this task is much too great for any City or Community to undertake alone ,and that he considered that it is entirely the duty of the Provincial Government to inaugurate and cary it out for the benefit of the whole province, and the suggestions they had made to the Government briefly were the following:

That they appoint an honorary Commission of four responsible and successful business men and one of the Cabinet Ministers as a chairman. No renumeration of any kind to be paid to the members of the Commission, but that their travelling expenses should be paid. The Commission would start tourist bureaus in different parts of the province and larger centres of population, which would route tourists through the whole province and sell them their tickets for the different trips in book form. He said that the Government would receive ten per cent. from the transportation companies on the sale of these tickets which would be a revenue which in time would nearly pay the total expenses of the operation of the bureaus, and another feature in favor of this would be, that when a tourist had once paid for this book of tickets, he would see to it that he saw all he had paid for. He estimated that the initial expense attached to the bureaus for the first year would be around $32,000. A general manager to supervise the advertising, (for which a grant of another $100,000 would be asked) at a salary of $5000 a year, would be appointed, and with other incidental expenses, the entire proposal would not entail the outlay of $150,000 a year. Is there any other industry which would mean so much financially to the Province which could be started up for many times that outlay? This briefly, is the proposal which has been made to the Government who are considering it, and they have every reason to believe that it will be tried out. Before closing his speech he wished to say that Mr. Todd had omitted to tell us certain facts about himself when he was introducing the party and which he therefore would do. Less than 12 years ago there was no such thing as a highway along the Pacific Coast connecting California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia. Mr. Todd conceived the idea of such a highway and by the persistant effort of himself and others he succeeded in interesting in it, finally got The Pacific Highway put through from Vancouver clean down to Mexico which is now one of the finest surfaced roads in the world. He also was the originator of the Georgian Circuit and the present route from Vancouver to Alberta, which comes through from Vancouver to Seattle then to Spokane and Kingsgate, to here and on east. With a man who has all this to his credit, heart and soul in the present proposal to our Government, the success of it is practically assured if they decide to adopt it.

He finished up by saying that if the plan is adopted, nothing of a definite character would be commenced until the committe had made a thorough tour through the province and met all the public bodies and got their ideas as to to the working out of the plan in so far as their particular district was concerned. In this way they would be able to segregate the wheat from the chaff and bring about a working plan which would be fair and equitable to all parts of the Province, and asked this Board of Trade for their endorsation of their project.

The other members of the party made short speeches and then Mayor Henderson expressed the appreciation of the citizens of Fernie for the opportunity given them of hearing about the plan first hand, and said that the matter would be discussed at the next meeting of the Board, and his opinion was that it would receive Fernie's hearty endorsation. Mr. Stewart as President of the Board also spoke in the same strain, and then Mr. Todd said that they would be willing to answer any questions anyone might wish to ask, and invited discussion.

Several took the opportunity of asking information on points which they were in doubt and these were all answered to their entire satisfaction, the meeting then adjourned.

Mr. Lineham's Proposal.

Whereas: The Victoria Real Estate Exchange in meeting assembled decided that the great natural beauty and scenic charms of this Province be developed and capitalized, so that British Columbia may become the playground as well as the "Switzerland of America," for the benefit of its present population and all tourists and future residents.

Therefore be it resolved: that the Provincial Government be requested to carry out the following works, and appropriate such monies as may be required from time to time to carry out the policy herein described, namely:—

1. Appoint an Honorary Commission to consist of a Cabinet Minister and four citizens to supervise the entire scheme,

2. The Commission to elect a manager who will be personally responsible for the carying out of the Commission's orders,

3. Open and equip a tourist bureau in five of the principal cities or districts in the Province,

4. Arrange with all present transportation companies and hotels, and all others that may be created, that said companies allow a commission of 10% on all monies received from patrons which peresent Government coupons, said commission to be paid to bona fide Tourist Agencies who sell the coupons,

5. Appropriate the sum of not less than $100,000 for advertising purposes for one year, said sum to be increased as occasion demands,

6. Complete the road into Strathcona Park, and open up trails and bridle paths to all points of interest in the confines of the Park or on the Campbell River, and erect a Tourist Hotel at some point to be decided on, with accomodation for not less than fifty guests as a commencement,

7. Open up Jasper Park in the same manner and construct a hotel the same as in Strathcona Park,

8. Complete the necessary links on a Provincial Highway through the Province to Alberta and open up side roads and trains to points of interest on the route,

9. Select and equip with water, camping sites at intervals on the highways throughout the Province,

10. Extend and improve as rapidly as posible all present roads and trails,

11. Complete the Pacific Great Eastern Railway to Fort George and put on a through pasenger train as soon as business demands same,

12. Generally to carry out such works as will draw tourists from all parts of the world, particularly the North American continent, and facilitate the opening up of all points of scenic interest, and provide accomodation at points that are difficult of access with the ultimate object of securing a large population and the advent of industries, which automatically will follow population.

THE GAME OF GOLF

A great London physician stated recently that he had saved his life by taking to golf at 55. He suffered at that time from a circulation which was distinctly inadeqate to his needs. He became giddy at times. His arteries were tending to harden.

All these signs and symptoms were relieved in a short period, writes the Medical Correspondent of the London Times. In addition, he became more energetic, more active in mind as well as body, and more successful, if that were possible, in his professional work.

Golf, indeed, is the middle-aged man's game. No other affords him so much at so small an expenditure of time, energy, or money. Everything which the wisest physician would prescribe is obtained, as it were, automatically.

In previous articles it has been suggested that the troubles which attend sedentary middle age are largely referable to the circulation. The fact that the chest tends to become immobile and that the whole weight of the circulation is thus cast on the heart was pointed out. It was urged that by the suitable use of a belt a good deal might be done to prevent this disastrous state of affairs. The chief merit of golf is that in a perfectly easy and natural way it reinforces the action of the belt and at the same time strengthens the abdominal muscles which are nature's own belt.

One has only to think of the driving stroke to realize this. The player, approaching this stroke, is braced in his whole body. His mind, intent and ready, reacts in his whole nervous system, and so in his muscles. He stands firmly, and if careful observation be made will be seen to be using his chest rather than his body to breathe with. There follows the upward stroke of the club. The shoulders are thrown back, the chest is forcibly pulled upon, the body is drawn in. A powerful thrust is made by the abdominal musculation on the abdominal contents and a mass of blood driven out of the muscular field.

The swing follows. The whole body is rotated swiftly, the backbone sharing in this action. At the end of the movement the hands have been carried across so that the chest is pulled upon from the opposite side.

The other strokes of the game, each in its own special way, achieve a similar object. The tendency of the sedentary man to have the bulk of his blood stagnating in his abdomen is opposed and instead the muscles are flooded, the lungs opened out and oxygen taken in.

It is interesting in this respect to learn that two distinguished American research workers have just found that in patients suffering from breathlessness supposed to be due to heart disease the capacity of the lungs is always much reduced. The lungs are not opening and the efforts to breathe quicker are determined by this fact—by the need, that is, to "ventilate" the blood.

Golf more than any other game corrects this tendency. Golf moreover is exercise applied lightly. There is none of the "pumping" effects of the brisker games. The strain is applied slowly and so the body, even when flabby, can accommodate itself to meet it gradually, the process to perfection.

That is the physical side. It is important not only because there is also a mental side. The writer holds as the very foundation of his profesional faith that exercise of itself can accomplish little or nothing. The miserable and dreary spectacle of the sick man "taking exercise" is or ought to be enough to convince us all that exercise which requires to be "taken" is useless. That dismal "constitutional," those weary "systems" without reason or hope—what can these accomplish for a living man? To be of value, exercise must be unconscious. The more conscious it is the less good it is capable of doing. Let anyone, well or ill, walk a mile without other object than his health and see how tired, how utterly weary that mile will leave him.

The secret of golf is the fact that its fatigues are scarcely felt. Work, so to speak, becomes a pleasure; it is a mean to an end, not an end in itself. One does not, after the first day or two at any rate, play golf for health or even for life. One plays golf for golf. There is the whole secret in a nutshell.

Man was not made to think about his body. Rather his body was shaped to follow the dictates of his mind without so much as making its presence felt. To think about our bodies to lower our minds to their needs, as in medicinal exercises, is to lose the game before it has begun.

The golfer learns better. His enthusiasm, his keeness, his friends and their play—these matters fill his thoughts, inspire his hopes and bend his body to the needful tasks. And lo! unobserved the miracle happens. His body, a willing servant, is rejuvenated. His chest fills with good laughter that sets air and blood in a dance of life together, his mucles grow taut and the unreasonable demands of his digestive organs are silenced. In place of the dull ache for food which bespeaks ill-health comes the quick tang of a healthy appetite.

This man walks miles and is not weary. At the end as at the beginning entheusiasm blots out fatigue. His brain is swept clear as well as his body. His nerves become more responsive.—Saturday Night.

MINISTER DISCUSSES HIS WIFE'S TROUBLES

Rev. A. H. Sykes, former pastor of the Watkins Presbyterian Church, Nashville, Tenn., says:

"After seeing what Tanlac has accomplished in my wife's case, I am convinced that it is a medicine of great power and extraordinary merit. I do not think I have seen anything give such prompt results. Mrs. Sykes has been in delicate health for ten months, suffering from stomach trouble and nervous breakdown.

"I frequently sought medical advice but Tanlac is the only thing that gave her relief. After taking the medicine only a short time, she was able to sit up and help with the household duties. I think it only a short time until her health will be fully restored."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

"THE CONFESSION"

From the Famous Stage Play "To Serve the Cross" by Hal Reid

The Sensation of the Year.—The Wonderplay of Walthall's Career. Marvelous in its Conception.—Vivid, Thrilling, Stupendous.

Photodramas come and photodramas go but few of them live in your memory longer than a fleeting vision. Of all the great screen dramas of the day, none surpasses in story, direction, action, scenes and extraordinary dramatic strength this supreme drama. "The Confession" a massive seven reel production from the famous stage play "To Serve the Cross" by that virile writer Hal Reid. It's a play you can see twice ,yes three times, and be impressed by its hugeness more and more. The story itself bares the instinct of the human; lift up to nature the mirror that reflects every trait of love, passion and romance, filled to overflowing with tremendous suspense and tensest action. Both the play and picture has been recommended to the world by Cardinals Mercier, Gibbons and O'Connell, and to Canada especially by Father O'Rourke, of the Archbishop's Palace, the Knights of Columbus and the majority of the Priesthood.

Only Photodrama ever endorsed by the Catholic National Board of Censors.

Victoria, Aug. 17.—For the purpose of pushing on construction on the Pacific Great Eastern line north of Quesnel, into which town steel was laid two weeks ago, a loan of $1,000,000 has been negotiated by Hon. John Hart, minister of finance. Twenty-year bonds to that amount, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent, have been sold to a Toronto syndicate at 93.50. This price is about one--half point higher than the last sale made by the province of Canadian payment bonds.

RICH SHOULD PAY FOR POOR

The Board of Trustees of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, recently decreed that no surgeon under its jurisdiction should charge over $1000 for any operation. It is doubtful if this is a wise move. Of course, there are profiteers among the physicians and surgeons, as there are in other professions, but not many. On the other hand there is no other profession which shows so much done for so little. In the medical profession it has long been the custom, I would almost say the rule, that the rich pay for the poor. I have known a famous eye specialist to charge a wealthy patient a thousand dollars for a none too complex operation and to turn around and do a more difficult one on a poor person for nothing.

One of Canada's famous surgeons performed a major operation upon a millionaire and his bill was $15,000. On the other hand that same gentleman gives two mornings each week to a hospital where in the public ward he operates, giving his services gratis.

As I see it the only ones who will benefit by the ruling of these trustees will be the wealthy, while on the other hand there will be the tendency to make the poor pay more than they have been doing.

As a matter of fact no amount of money can ever repay the surgeons and physicians of the civilized world for the work they have done and for which there was no thought of remuneration.—Saturday Night.

CARPENTIER MAY NOT RETURN

New York—There has been a blow up in the heavyweight situation in this vicinity. Metropolitan fight fans were all set for a thrilling season running right into October. All sorts of matches were discussed, including a Dempsey-Brennan go for Labor Day and a battle between Georges Carpentier and Tommy Gibbons in October.

Now it looks as though both matches had gone to the boards. It may surprise a lot of folks to hear that the proposed international combat between the St. Paul flash and the Frenchman is teetering on the skids. Yet it certainly does look that way. Tex Rickard, contrary to general understanding, never did get Carpentier's John Hancock to a fight agreement. He merely had a verbal understanding with Deschamps and his fighter that they would come back to this country for a fight this fall.

Rickard looked about him, and finally picked Tommy Gibbons as the man. Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, signed an agreement for his protege to meet Georges. There is little doubt that the price Rickard agreed to pay was $60,000. As soon as Gibbons was committed, Rickard cabled to Deschamps in Paris, aiquainting him with the good news. That was a month ago.

Tex thought that by return cable he would receive cheers, thanks and all kinds of goods. But you've guessed it—he received nary a word. Absolute silence from the banks of the Seine. Evidently, even if he does come from Lens, Carp can't see the fight at all, at all. Anyway that is the inference to be drawn from Deschamp's silence.

Just now the Frenchman is in high favor in Paris. That news was received in a letter which came from the gay burg written by Harry Dime, who is over there looking into financial possibilities of European boxing. Harry says that Carp lives like a secluded prince in his palatial house, and charges the equivalent of a thousand dollars in francs to sally forth and show himself at a boxing bout or at some public gathering.

His courage in trying to win prestige for France by going up against the great American man-killer, has made him more of a hero in Paris than ever. He knows just how good Gibbons is. He also knows that he would stand a good chance of another beating were he to meet him. Why should he take that chance? He would be a busted flush in Paree were he to fall before the Minnesotan, and if he beat Gibbons it would be no more than was expected of him.

We will know all about it soon for Tex Rickard has sent a very urgent cable which is so worded as to necessitate an answer.

As to Dempsey-Brennan, Rickard says he has been feeling the public pulse and does not believe that a go between the two men would be popular. Rickard is some pulse artist. If he can't sense the attractiveness of a bout, it's a cinch there is no attractiveness to sense. So it is—as the writer already has said—that if Floyd Fitzsimmons wants the bout for Benton Harbor on Labor Day he will not have to bid against Rickard.

The lambasting which Bryan Downey administered to Johnny Wilson, former middleweight champion, has caused cancellation of the proposed Harry Greb-Wilson bout. Poor Harry! He wants to fight anybody and everybody, but doesn't seem to be able to hook on.

LOCAL SPORT

FERNIE VICTIMS OF HILLCREST

Before a large crowd, Fernie went down to defeat on Sunday last, when Hillcrest romped home with the honors by the score of 8-4.

That Fernie had a team too strong for the neighboring town was clearly demonstrated by the fact that Hillcrest had on their line-up the entire Bronks infield, and one outfielder, and an outfielder from Coleman, leaving only three Hillcrest regulars on the team.

The heavy rain before the time for the game marred the day, making the regular clay diamond like a sheet of ice, necessitating the game being transferred to the City Park where the large crowd of fans gathered, defying the weather man throughout the two hours of play.

Hillcrest opened the scoring in the first inning when an error let the first man up on first and came home on a hit and a sacrifice. In the third two three base hits by Manda and Hamilton and another error gave Hillcrest three more runs. Fernie grabbed two in their half of the third, Colton got on first on fielders' choice, Noel walked and Kelley drove in two runs with a three-bagger. Hillcrest added one in the fifth and three in the seventh. Fernie notched their other two runs in the sixth and seventh, getting one run in each of these frames.

Mulholland on the mound for Hillcrest pitched a fair game and was given excellent support which cut down Fernie's hitting considerably. Trekel for Fernie, struck out eleven batters to Mulholland's six and the Bronks seemed to be the only ones who could solve his delivery when necessary.

COLEMAN LOOKS LIKE WINNERS

MICHEL, B. C., Aug. 21—Michel went to Blairmore Saturday to play their league soccer fixture and after a good game, it ended in a draw, one all. Blairmore scored in the first five minutes on a rebound from the goal keeper, which he had no chance to save. Michel's goal came later after a nice combination play. Michel in the second half had much the better of the play, but the Blairmore goalie was invincible and stopped seemingly certain goals. Michel missed a penalty just before time.

This draw gives Coleman the championship and cup of the Crow's Nest Pass Football league with 25 points. Coleman won all games and drew three. Michel won all game and drew four, so failed by one point in tying Coleman. Michel has still the disputed Coal Creek game to play but on form should easily win. Now for the cup games and Michel hopes to meet Coleman, when a real game will surely take place as these two teams are very evenly matched, but Coleman had the lucky breaks and so won the league.—Lethbridge Herald.

The Crow's Nest Pass Collieries have been suffering from the widespread depression affecting the coal trade everywhere. The Coal Creek mines worked seventeen days in July. At Michel the mines worked sixteen days and at Corbin only seven. At Coal Creek a large Sirocco fan is being installed. This improvement, including the sinking of a shaft forty feet deep, sixteen feet in diameter and lined with concrete down to the solid rock, represents a considerable outlay. Undoubtedly, however, it will make No. 1 East one of the best ventilated mines in the province and permit it to assume, in a very short time, if not first, at least second place among the heaviest producers. No definite plan has been decided upon as to the form of power to be used in driving the new fan. A powerful steam engine is available, and, if necessary, can be used. The Alberta and B. C. Power Company is developing the Bull River water power, and its installation may be so nearly complete in the course of a few months that the whole south side of the Coal Creek Colliery will be electrified. The present auxiliary steam plant, running No. 3 and No. 1 East fans, in such case, would be kept in reserve to meet emergencies, and the load on the main plant would be relieved to the extent of the power now supplied to No. 1 south fan. Moreover this would mean the saviing of quite a few tons of coal of excellent quality now being burned daily under these boilers.—Vancouver Province

TOM WAS MIKE'S BROTHER

Big brothers who used to lord it over the "kid of the family" can sympathize with Mike Gibbons.

Mike used to be the big boss of his brother Tom, but things are all changed now.

Tom's chief claim to fame used to rest in being the brother of the famous Mike. Now Mike is known as the brother of the famous Tom.

Mike, the "old phantom," is training for a rather inferior bout with Augie Ratner. Tom is getting ready for a crack at the light heavyweight champion, and higher against, Georges Carpentier.

"Before we knew anything about the gloves I used to have it all over Tom," Mike said.

"He was just a little fellow and I could cuff him around whenever I wanted, whenever father wasn't looking.

"Then I started boxing and as Tom took on size he thought the gloves gave him a chance to get even, and he started to learn the game. But he didn't get along very fast. He learned how to box but he didn't develope enough punch to hurt me. I could easily avoid anything he tried to give me.

"But Tom grew bigger, he became a better boxer, and he learned to hit. He has me with the gloves now. I don't wan't to stop anything that he doesn't pull."

Despite the reversal of conditions Mike is getting a lot of pride out of the rise of his brother, and he boasts: "I told you so."

"Several years back, when I was going good, I told the sport writers that Tommy was going to get there some day, and he did.

"Of course, I think Tommy will beat Carpentier, and there is nothing personal in my judgment. I know he is going to win, because he is a better boxer and a harder hiter than the Frenchman.

"I have seen Carpentier in action. He has nothing but some flashy foot work and a good right hand. He won't get his right over on Tom as he did on Dempsey's jaw. Every time he misses he's going to get one in the exchange that will wear him down just like he was battered down by Dempsey. Tom can hit to the body just as hard as the champion can, and what is more, he knows just where to hit. He has been studying the vital spot for two years and he knows them. Tom has two good hands and what is more—he can take one. He will not have to take many from any boxer because he is clever enough to get away from them."

Mike is training alone. He would like to have Tom come along and help him, but the younger brother wants to stay up at his Summer home at Lake Osais.

JESS BARRED; OVER AGE LIMIT

Never again will "Generous" Jess Willard, the "Pottawatomie peasant," heave his huge displacement through the ropes in New York unless he can dig up a birth certificate or a laundry bill or some such document to prove that he is younger than 38. The New York boxing commission has enacted a statute of limitations against Willard and Jack Johnson. It bars all fighters of 38 years and over. Willard was a little vague when he came out of the brush a decade ago with his overalls tucked into his high-water boots proclaiming himself a white hope, but just before the Dempsey fight in Toledo, he coyly confessed to 38 summers, which would make him 40 now.

The boxing commission reached this decision even as Ray Archer, Willard's manager, was going around and around with Tex Rickard at Madison Square Garden, trying to get something like $80,000 for the fat, soft, agricultural scientist who gave such a realistic impersonation of the invertebrate orders of life, flopping on the floor of the ring in Toledo. Jess, the old bargain hunter, wants that much to fight Jack Dempsey again. Last winter he turned down an offer of $50,000 from Rickard. Not caring much more for a dollar than a mother for her first-born, Willard decided to wait out Rickard in the hope of splitting the difference between the price asked and the one offered.

The bargaining ran on and on, however, until the commission rang the bell, and the market closed with no sales recorded.

Tom Andrews' record book says Willard was born in 1887, which would make his present age but 34. Willard, however, obviously is much older than that and anyway, one gathers, the New York boxing commision would rather he'd just plug along.

Rickard will not promote Jack Johnson at all and the age limit also bars him as he is 43 years old.

Desserts More Delicious

—with Carnation

USE Carnation Milk just as you would cream for fruits, cereals, puddings, desserts, or for creaming tea and coffee. You will find it more economical because of its double richness. Carnation contains a minimum of 7.8% butterfat; whole milk and sterilized canned milk contain an average of only 3.5% to 4% butterfat. Besides it imparts an added flavor and wholesomeness that is delicious. Carnation is pure cow's milk evaporated to the consistency of cream, then hermetically sealed in cans and sterilized. So it is always absolutely pure. Try a dozen cans and you will always use this rich milk for every use.

Send for Carnation Cook Book containing 100 practical tested recipes. Carnation Milk Products Co., Ltd., 134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B. C.

Try This Recipe

CARNATION ICE CREAM

4 cups Carnation Milk, 1½ cups sugar, 1 cup water, 1½ tablespoonfuls vanilla. Carnation Milk is always ideal for making ice creams of any sort, because of its purity and richness. Eggs are not needed. For a plain vanilla ice cream, mix the sugar and a cup of the Carnation Milk together and let come to a simmering point; cook for five minutes in this manner; remove from fire; when cool, add remainder of the milk and water, and the vanilla. Freeze. This will make about a quart and a half. Serve with strawberries or other fruit.

COAL CREEK NOTES

Mrs. Wm. Morgan and family arrived back in camp after spending a holiday in England. They were accompanied by Mrs. Samuel Morgan, who has come out to join her husband.

The grim reaper paid a visit to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Koppenhoeffer during the past week, taking away Mr. Koppenhoeffer, who had been suffering for a considerable time. The sympathy of the residents goes out to the widow and three daughters left to mourn. The funeral took place on Wednesday, his old workmates acting as pallbearers. Through the kindness of General Manager Wilson a special train was placed at the disposal of the mourners.

Mr. and Mrs. Towers, of Spokane, and Mr. and Mrs. Hall, of Nordegg, were present at the funeral of the late George Koppenhoeffer, the deceased being the father of the two ladies mentioned.

Owing to the considerable damage done to property the Company have been forced to take drastic measures. Warnings have been issued and parents will be held responsible for damage done by their children.

C. McNay and John Biggs, mine foremen at Nos. 2 and 3 mines respectively, have resumed their occupation after their holidays.

The craze for the possession of clothes pegs and flour sacks of one of our residents received a check when the offender was brought before our local J.P., who remanded him for one week. Constable Collins removed him to the coop at Fernie.

Charlie O'Neil has received orders to proceed to the coast to undergo an operation as a patient of the Soliders Civil Re-establishment.

Richard Fairclough was admitted to the Fernie hospital for treatement for varicose veins.

All local Moose members are requested to attend the meeting in the Hawthorne hall on Monday next to arrange for a membership drive, a special dispensation having been received from the supreme lodge for the purpose. Meeting at 7.30 p.m.

All local members and families of the G.W.V.A. and Ladies Auxiliary desiring to participate in the picnic to Morrissey on Sunday are instructed to purchase their tickets at the G.W.V.A. rooms not later than 9.30 p.m. Saturday.

By special permit granted the members of the Club were enabled to indulge in liquid refreshments at the banquet staged on Saturday last, reminiscences of old times being freely indulged in.

Another old timer in the person of Bob Holland, erstwhile barber at the Club here, struck camp again on Wednesday in pursuit of the wily job.

The Company are renovating the houses up here.

Owing to the non-appearance of the Hillcrest football club in their scheduled game with Fernie on Sunday last, the local football fans who journeyed to town were disappointed.

Mrs. G. Koppenhoeffer and family desire to thank the Coal Co. for special train and the residents for their sympathy and floral tokens, during their recent sad bereavement.

Do not forget the Moose sale of work and home cooking on Sept. 8, in Hawthorne's Hall. Dance afterwards. $1.00 a couple. Bass orchestra. Refreshments.

HOW LONG SHOULD A BOY SLEEP

Sleep, that great mystery, is most important in the growth of a boy, yet how rebellious he is when it comes to bed time. To sit up late is to him a great privilege, and indullgent parents many times are responsible for the fatigue and restlessness due to irregularity of sleep. Without sleep the brain will soon wear out. Wear and waste always go hand in hand with octivutt. Sleep helps to renew and build.

Warner thinks the hours of work (per week) and the hours of sleep (per night) should be as follows:

Age bet.	Work	Sleep
8- 9	15	12
9-10	20	11½
10-11	25	11
11-12	30	10½
12-14	35	10
14-15	40	9½
15-17	45	9
17-19	50	8½

We grow mostly during sleep, for then the products of nutrition, which during the day are used in replacing the constant waste of the system, are employed in building new tissue. A boy eats and sleep far more in proportion to the adult; and this surplus of nutrition is expended in building up, or growing.

There is a tendency to mouth breathing among boys which should be corrected early. "The boy who sleeps with his mouth open not only has disturbed sleep but disturbs other sleepers, and lets an enemy in that dries up the saliva of the mouth, injurs the teeth, diseases the throat and lungs, irritates the nerves, and racks the brain." An Indian warrior sleep and hunts and smiles with his mouth shut, and with seeming reluctance opens it even to eat or to speak. An Indian child is not allowed to sleep with its mouth open, from the very first sleep of its existence; the consequences of which is, that while the teeth are forming they take their relative natural position, and from that healthful and pleasing regularity which has secured to the American Indians, as a race, the most beautiful mouths in the world. The nostrils were made to breathe through and their delicate and fibrous lining is necessary to remove dust and other foreign substances, to purify and warm the air in its passage, and to stand guard over the lungs, especially during sleeping hours.

Victoria, Aug. 17.—An optimistic report of conditions in the interior of the province has been brought back by Hon. J. H. King, minister of public works, who has returned from the Kootenays and Okanagan district. Heavy fruit crops and activity in lumbering is responsible, he states, and the unemployment problem is not so acute as on the coast.

LABOR DAY INSTRUCTION

Rev. B. J. Kennedy, O.M.I., will speak next Sunday evening in Holy Family Church at 7.30 p.m., on "The Old Church and the New Question." You will be furnished on this occasion with an opportunity of visualizing the stand of the church of the apostles through the ages on that ever recurring undertaking "Reconstruction." Much has been written and spoken, especially in later years on the impotency of the Church of wrestling successfully with this question. But as Pascal has said: "The spirit of evil is infallible." It always hits at the right institution. So beware!

The old British Constitution is a venerable old document; the Magna Charta is the foundation thereof. It was an Archbishop of the Church, Stephen Langton by name, who persuaded King John to sign this guarantee of the liberty of the British people.

FOREST FIRES CAUSE HAVOC

The high winds of the past week caused a number of bush fires to break out in this southern district. Four more or less serious fires have occurred and considerable damage has been sustained.

In the neighborhood of Bull River a conflagration raged and made rapid progress across the divide, threatening the timber holdings in the Lizard Creek valley west of the city. A large number of men were sent up beyond the camps of the Elk Valley Lumber Co., and they have been successful in checking the advance of the flames in that direction.

On Wednesday morning a fire was reported in the timber limits in the vicinity of Wilson Creek, some miles up the Elk river north of Natal, and a number of men were sent up to fight the fire and at present it is now well in hand.

The bush fire which wrought havoc in the vicinity of Crow's Nest has now travelled beyond the boundary of this province and penetrated several miles into Alberta, where it is reported to be causing damage to the limits of the McLaren Lumber Co., having its headquarters at Blairmore.

The extent of the loss by this fire in Anderson Creek valley on the B. C. side, to the Rock Creek Lumber Co., has been tremendous, and as far as can be ascertained there is grave apprehension that possibly three lives have been sacrificed. A party of three men whose names are not available motored to the Rock Creek mill a week ago and teamed their supplies and outfit as far as possible up the creek where they intended entering upon a fishing expedition. They were to have been met the end of this week and brought out but the entire area where they were has since been fire swept and it is considered nothing short of miraculous if human life has survived the conflagration. A rescue party is now traversing the charred valley in search of these men but it will be a day or two before any word will be received back from them.

There were numerous thrilling escapes by lumbermen working in the valley and the fire fighters while the fire was in progress. Cruiser Chase, Foreman Al. Landin and the cook at the camp located at the head of the flume were trapped and sought security by submerging in the waters of the dam and using wet blanket coverings. They were forced to remain 36 hours in this plight before they could make their way out. Another incident occurred Wednesday when a foreman with a gang of ten fire fighters were temporarily surrounded by fire, but they managed to work their way through and escape with unpleasant recollections and slight scorchings. One team of horses is know to have dashed through the flames and escaped unhurt but several head were destroyed.

It is stated there is not a square foot of timbered land in this valley that has escaped fire damage. In addition the property loss includes the destruction of two logging camps, a small portable sawmill located in the limits, and extensive damage to the log flume, which is between six and seven miles in length, together with a large amount of logging equipment and stores.

Laterly this fire divided and one stretch narrowly missed destroying the mill of the Rock Creek Lumber Co. as well, while the limits and mining timber camp operated by A. Rizzuto was seriously threatened by the other branch. The Forest Department on these fires had gangs of 75 and 125 men respectively engaged day and night and until Monday evening it was nicely under control, but a hurricane suddenly swept through the Pass in an easterly direction and fanned the embers until it became a conflagration of such magnitude and intensity that it was beyond human ability to cope with it.

The conditions are now more favorable to battle with the existing smaller fires. The high winds which prevailed for two days have subsided and light showers have occurred in various sections, enabling the fire rangers and their crews to make progress in controlling and extinguishing the remaining fires.

The canning industry in British Columbia has received a decided impetus this year with the establishment of a large new plant at Kamloops. It is expected that the season's pack of "Kamloops Tomatoes" will be between ten and twelve thousand cases.

THE PRICE OF SPUDS

A correspondent at Newgate sends in the following, presumably taken from "Farm and Home":

The U.S. potato crop is 113,000,000 bushels short. The Washington crop is less than last year by 90,000 bushels. Oregon is less by 426,000 bushels. There is hardly a city in the U. S. where potatoes are not selling for $2.25 a sack. In Chicago the wholesale price is $3.50 and $3.75 a sack; in Boston $6.25; and in New York and Philadelphia $5.00 a sack. Every spud that can be spared in Canada has a hungry market waiting for it.

LABOR DAY CELEBRATION

Preparation are now well under way for the big celebration on Labor Day, and owing to the number of entries in the baseball tournament it has been decided to extend the celebration over two days — Monday and Tuesday. Mayor Henderson has therefore declared a civic half holiday for Tuesday afternoon.

The big prize of $750 for the winning baseball team has caused quite an interest and up to the present it is expected that Coleman, Wycliffe, White Spruce, Fernie and Hillcrest will put teams in the field, but this may not be all as the entries do not close until Saturday night and several teams have been making inquiries.

A professional umpire has been engaged, and he will probably be assisted by Mr. Adamson, of Cranbrook.

In Junior baseball two games will be played, namely, Fernie Boy Scouts vs. Cranbrook Y.M.C.A. on Monday; and Fernie Juniors vs. Michel Juniors on Tuesday.

Arrangements are now under way whereby picked teams of footballers representing the Pass in B.C. and the Pass in Alberta, will stage a game on Tuesday, but this is as yet uncertain.

The children's sports will be extended over two afternoons, starting at 1 p.m. each day at the City Park. The following are the events:

OUR FUTURE PUBLICITY

A most enthusiastic joint meeting of delegates from Nelson, Cranbrook, Lethbridge and Fernie Boards of Trade convened in the council chamber here on Wednesday evening for the purpose of amalgamating in connection with future publicity campaigns and advertising for the inducement and benefit of the tourist traffic through this southern trans-Canada route; and also with a view of spreading wider knowledge in respect to established and prospective circle tours and side trips within this expansive area.

An organization was formed which will be known as the Tourist Association of Southern Alberta and Southwestern British Columbia. P. L. Naismith, of the C.P.R. Department of Natural Resources, Calgary, was unanimously elected Honorary President; and R. Randolph Bruce, of Invermere, Honorary Vice-President. The officers of the new association are: Arthur G. Baalim, Lethbridge, President; F. M. MacPherson, Cranbrook, Vice-President; and E. K. Stewart, Fernie, Secretary-Treasurer. J. F. Spalding of Fernie was appointed permanent Publicity Commissioner for the entire district and the head office will be located here.

The objects of the association are primarily for the purpose of advertising and distributing general authentic information to tourists and prospective settlers. The membership will comprise the boards of trade of Calgary, Banff, Lethbridge, Macleod, Pincher Creek, Blairmore, Coleman, in the province of Alberta; and Fernie, Cranbrook, Winderemere, Golden, Creston, Nelson, Trail, Rossland and Grand Forks in the province of British Columbia. A director from each of these boards will constitute the governing body, although the administration will be actively conducted by the permanent commissioner, assisted by the Publicity Committee, and under the supervision of the officers of the asociation.

The central bureau established here will be the distributing agency of all advertising matter and data, both general and of sectional nature will be assembled for that purpose. While the organization at the outset will only be able to carry on a campaign curtailed to the extent of the financial support received, it will be the chief aim to expand so that the area over which its energies are directed will become one of the best known havens for vacation seekers, tourists, and settlers in the Dominion. In this manner it is hoped a fair share of tourist traffic will be diverted to visit this section which will be known as "Sunny Southern Alberta and the Scenic Heart of the Rockies—A Paradise for Motorists, Anglers and Huntsmen."

The organization has already been assured of hearty co-operation and reasonably substantial support from the respective boards of trade enumerated. All the bodies consulted are agreed that by concentrating in this work of distributing attractive and descriptive literature setting forth the unsurpassed scenic beauty spots and principal attractions of each respective community, and the district at large, the greater will be the scope and effectiveness in spreading broadcast the advantages and possibilities as to what the district has to offer the touring public and the prospective home-seeker. The delegates were unanimously agreed that Fernie and Cranbrook boards of trade, which were characterized as the pioneers in this achievement in so far as the Crow's Nest Pass is concerned, had already brought forth most gratifying results, not only for these individual localities, but their work had been fruitful for the surrounding territory and the possibilities to be gained by expanding and reaching farther afield were readily recognized.

Commissioner Spalding will be assisted in the important branch of the work by a Publicity Committee, composed of Wm. Rutherford, Nelson, B.C.,; W. H. Wilson, Cranbrook; and J. E. Harris, Lethbridge.

"A ROMANTIC ADVENTURESS" WITH DOROTHY DALTON

Dorothy Dalton has become known as the girl who can do anything and in "A Romantic Adventuress,' the Paramount Picture which comes to the Orpheum Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week, she adds a difficult and beautiful fancy dance to her category of achievements. Those who recall her in the Parisian dance in 'L'Apache" will remember the remarkable performance she gave and the dance in "A Romantic Adventuress" repeats that success.

Miss Dalton has the role of Alice Vanni, daughter of an old dancing professor of New Orleans, who, when her father dies, goes to New York and is exploited by her mother and finds out the true situation in time [illegible] man she loves. The pro[illegible] was adapted by Rosina Henning [illegible] "A Water City Favorite" by Charles Belmont Davis. Charles Meredith heads a supporting cast, which is enhanced by such players as Robert Schable, Augusta Anderson and Howard Lang.

WILL TAKE SPEEDY TRIAL

In the County Judge's Criminal Court here Tuesday at a special session, Thomas Clinton alias T. L. Clarke alias H. A. Morris and Chris F. Johnson elected for speedy trial on the joint and individual charges of having in their possession forged Federal Reserve Bank Notes well knowing the same to be forged and for uttering counterfeit bank notes.

Mr. D. M. Mitchell, acting as counsel for the accused men, launched an application for bail and vigorously argued in support thereof. Mr. A. I. Fisher, council for the Crown, however, strongly opposed any application for the granting of bail. His Honor, Judge Thompson after hearing the argument, said,; "The sole principle in granting bail is to make an order for such bail as will in the ordinary course of events insure the appearance of an accused at his trial, after taking into consideration the offence committed, the punishment which might be inflicted if guilt is proven, the accused's place of residence, his ability to furnish bail, all these have to be taken into consideration. It is not that a man shall pay to the Crown a certain amount of money but that he shall be here for his trial. The tendency according to modern decisions is to look into the individual facts. I have to be satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the man will turn up." The application was therupon refused with leave to apply if the defence has any new material to advance in support of granting bail at any time between now and September 14th when the cases come on for trial. The prisoners were taken to the County Gaol at Nelson which is considered more secure quarters for them to remain pending the temporary confinment until the trial.

In the case of the King against Riley, Booth and Hardy, local lads, who when having a spree last June, broke and entered into by night the premises of the Miners' Club and helped themselves to a quantity of cigarettes and a small amount of cash, please of quilty were entered. Counsel for the accused urged leniency and with the consent of Crown counsel on account of the hitherto exemplary characters of the boys. His Honor, Judge Thompson passed sentence of two years in New Westminster Penitentiary, but sentences in each case was suspended provisional upon the accused fulfilling conditions as to good behavior for the next two years and making restitution for the goods stolen and paying all costs of the prosecution.

LIVING IN QUEER TIMES

There are many interesting little items in the newspapers these days. For instance I note that at Zion, Illinois, a man was recently arrested and fined $65 for smoking a pipe on the street. At Topeka, Kansas, the authorities raided 35 stores suspected of selling cigarettes. Where "fags" were found the proprietors were arrested and the evidence of crime confiscated. Still another interesting item is dated Richmond, Virginia. It tells how five hundred masked men took a negro away from the sheriff and hanged him to a tree. There is no mention of any arrests. Still another gives the details of how the president of the Michigan Avenue Trust Company, Chicago, stole $1,900,000 and got away with it. Again no arrests. In Toronto the other day a youth was fined $20 for hugging his best girl while driving a motor car. I further note that Attorney General Raney is calling upon the members of the Social Service Commission to help hi menforce the Ontario Temperance Act. The "hop" fiends, drunks and social outcasts generally are to be discharged from their duties as stool pigeons and the members of the Social Service are to take their places. They have been promised that if they will all turn informers their names will not be discolsed. A man writes to the newspapers protesting. He wants to know why professional spies and informers already on Raney's pay roll should have their livings taken away from them by these gentlemen blacklegs; and with a hard winter coming on, too.

Some people say it is the moon, and others the sun spots, and still others that relativity has something to do with it. Anyway, we are living in queer times.

TRYING TO START A BUILDING BOOM

Conferences have been held in various parts of the country with a view of starting a building boom. Brick makers, lumber dealers and those having to do with various other activities conected with building, all claim that substantial reductions have been made in the prices of their wares, and that no further decreases can take place until there is cheaper coal for the brick makers, cheaper labor for the lumbermen and so on through the list. The building trades have so far refused to consider a reduction in wages, it having been suggested that a cut of ten per cent. would do something to stimulate the trade.

Without wishing to throw a monkey wrench into the works it may be stated on the authority of both builders and architects that much greater reductions in prices than are contemplated at present will have to take place before there is anything substantial in the way of building activity.

Those whose business leads them to study the situation from every angle are of the opinion that before there can be a real boom, prices will have to be cut full fifty per cent., or even more, and there are those who maintain that something near pre-war prices will be necessary before building will become as general as it should. There is one thing certain, a ten per cent. reduction in the wage bill will never accomplish very much. A very material thing stands in the way. Money cannot be borrowed to build $5,000 houses that cost $10,000. The general buyer of mortgages is too shrewd a person to take any such chances.—Saturday Night.

A new industry has recently been established in Vancouver. It is the manufacture of a delicious non-intoxicating wine from loganberries.

TO DISCOVER MAGNETIC POLE

The discovery of the magnetic north pole or even the finding of bonds of union, other than that of gravitation, between the earth, the sister planets and our parent sun may be the result of the scientific Arctic exploration that will be undertaken by the MacMillan Baffin Land Expedition that sailed in July for a stay of a year or more in the north.

The Carnegie Institution through its department of terrestrial magnetism with the co-operation of the Canadian and American Government bureaus and universities has furnished the scientific equipment of the expedition, and has given two members of the expedition, G. D. Howell, jr., and R. H. Goddard, special training in the scientific observations that will be made simultaneously with other northerly stations established by various European countries and Canada in conjunction with the Amundsen Arctic expedition.

"There is no telling what facts of science are hidden in the icy embraces of the Far North," declares Dr. Louis A. Bauer, director of the department of terrestrial magnetism of the Carnegie Institution. "The discovery of these secrets will not only enrich science but may also be immediate benefit to the welfare of mankind.

"It is planned that for a period of eight to ten months continuous and systematic observations shall be made pertaining chiefly to the magnetism of the earth, the electrical and meteorogical condition of the atmosphere, and to polar lights.A sledge trip may also be attempted to the locality of the north magnetic pole, supposed to be near the western coast of Boothia Felix, during which a systematic magnetic survey of the region may be undertaken."

"The observations of polar lights will be of special interest." Dr. Baeur states. "Polar explorers have repeatedly furnished testimony and have recited experiences which apparently indicate that the polar light rays, or beams, pass through the atmosphere and come down comparatively close to the earth's surface. The MacMillan Expedition equipped with special photographic appliances for settling the questions as to the depth of penetration into our atmosphere of the auroral beams in polar regions and thus it will be able to make contribution to our knowledge which will undobtedly help greatly in establishing a rational theory of polar lights."

Victoria, Aug. 17.—Premier Oliver ascribes the refusal of W. J. Bowser, K.C., leader of the opposition, to accompany the P.G.E. excursion party this month to Cottonwood River to a natural desire to avoid the embarrassment which might arrive from too close a survey of the errors of the former Conservative government in connection with the provincial railway project. "If it were not for this inheritance from the Conservative government, we would not find any difficulty in meeting the financial requirements of British Columbia," stated the Premier recently, "but since we have the foundling on our hands there is nothing to do but see it through, and I hope when the members of the legislature who do make the trip see the real situation they will have no objections to voting the money required to complete the line to Prince George."

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

GIRLS WHO ARE "GOOD SPORTS"

This is the sporting age, and women in it have a freedom they have never enjoyed anywhere at any time. The motor car has loosened many of the old conventions that tied down mother and daughter. The trend of fashion since the war has been distinctly away from traditional reserve. Girls have been asserting themselves as equals of men in society, business, and in pastimes. But why is it that girls do not see more clearly that a man likes a girl who is a sport? By that is meant a girl who takes real pleasure in swimming, in tennis, in golf, and other active outdoor games. Too few girls seem to appreciate the fact that a man will place more trust in the solid character and "wearableness" of a girl who is a good sport than in that of one of the house-plants.

When asked their opinion on the matter, girls who are good sports say that the veranda-chair pictures are afraid that active games would spoil their make-up. Few girls seem to be able to view complacently wildly disarranged hair, flushed faces, and sporting clothes. Too many prefer Georgettes to middies, and French heels to running shoes. The girl who always has her complexion arranged with exactitude, her coiffure faultless and every detail of dress well manicured, may say to herself, "Well I am undoubtedly at my best in appearances." and be satisfied. But the average man knows that appearances are more often than not deceiving. If he marries, his wife will not always appear to him as does his fiancee when he calls in state. The plain facts of living cannot be ignored. Therefore is it not better for themselves that girls should go in for sport for sport's sake? They develop themselves physically, achieve independence of character, and rightly deem themselves better than the clinging vine. They make better wives, and mothers—and in time, grandmothers.

The opportunity to the average girl to indulge in sport is not so limited—for costly clothes are not special requisite. Many good people lament the rush of young girls to the cities, where they live in dingy bedrooms, get poor meals, and have no healthy exercise. To be able and willing to play tennis, basketball, golf, swim, and skate would lift these thousands of girls, deprived of the opportunities and comforts of good home life, into a higher plane. We ought to have more recreation grounds for such young people—grounds where nice acquaintances can be made in the right way. Half of life consists in meeting the right people, and being able to hold your own with them in the recreations open to all. Girls who are good for but little but piano-strumming and veranda posing do not know what jolly good times they are missing.

MERCHANT TELLS OF A REMARKABLE CASE

Writing from Maxeys, Ga., A. J. Gillen, proprietor of a large department store at that place, says:

"I have a customer here who was in bed for three years and did not go to a meal at any time. She had five physicians and they gave her up. One bottle of Tanlac got her up, on the second bottle she commenced keeping house and on the third she did all the cooking and hausework for a family of eight."

This sounds really incredible, but it comes unsolicited from a highly creditable source and is copied verbatim from the letter.

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

British Columbia's opportunities for increased trade with Switzerland, were emphasized by Dr. Carl P. Huebacher, Consul-General in Canada for the Swiss Government in an address before the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade. The visitor was obviously impressed with the vast possibilities for increased development in British Columbia, and urged that exporters here insist on direct shipments to his country. "Canada's records in the war had placed her in the forefront of nations in the eyes of Switzerland, and there was no limit to the business that might be done between the two countries," he added.

WINNER IS TO BE ANNOUNCED

There were three of them—two men and a woman—strong, masterful, imbued with the raw elemental courage and strength that is the heritage of those who have lived, loved and fought in the grim, bleak wastes of the Alaskan snow country. Wall Street had vowed to break them—to trick them out of a vast fortune that was rightfully theirs. It was the cunning of Wall Street against the Might of the North. Several inquiries have been received at this office as to the prospect of a swimming pool being constructed. On inquiry we find that a special committee was appointed to investigate the whole matter. The committee reported that nothing could be done at present as the funds in hand did not warrant the starting of construction. It is to be hoped that the matter will not now be dropped and forgotten until next spring. Every effort to increase the fund during the winter months should be made, and with the assistance that the municipal council should give to the project, it should be possible to start construction in the spring.

LOCAL SPORT

FERNIE WINS RAGGED GAME

In a friendly game on Sunday last, featured by numerous errors followed by timely hitting Fernie defeated Hillcrest by the score of 11-10. This makes the third game the locals have taken from the Hillcrest troupe in four starts.

Callihan, who started in the box for Fernie, worked well the first three innings but the visitors got to him in the fourth when they pounded out five hits in succession, scoring as many runs. In this frame, with the bases full, Brown hit a three-bagger, coming home later, when the next man up hit safely. With one out in this frame, Bishop replaced Callihan and held the visitors well in hand the rest of the game.

Pendergast started well for the visitors but weakened and seemed to lose much of his control, walking no less than ten batters. In the sixth he gave Noel a walk, who ambled to second on a wild one that gave the catcher no chance to get him, then to third on a wild pitch and home on a passed ball.

With the score standing ten all and one out, Bishop on third drew a throw from the catcher, the ball hiting him and bounding out into the crowd, coming home with the winning run.

THE GIANTS RUSH ALONG

PIRATES WAVER AS GIANTS RUSH ALONG; YANKS PUSH HARD

The major league pennant races approach the September stretch with the Pittsburg National league leaders wavering badly as New York increases its speed, while the Cleveland and New York Americans continue their neck and neck race. The two St. Louis teams are playing splendid ball but have only a mathmetical chance of reaching the top.

The spectacular feat of the New York Nationals in cuting down Pittsburg's lead by winning five straight contests from the Pirates was surpassed by St. Louis in taking 6 straight from Boston and decreasing the Braves' advantage over them for 3rd place to almost one game. With his pitching staff rounding into good form, Manager McGraw of the New York Giants is confident of overcoming Pittsburg's lead, although the Pirates will play most of their remaining games at home. In the 5-game series the Giants out-scored the league leaders 27 runs to 5 and out-hit them 45 to 32. Each team made 2 errors.

Boston batted well in its series with St. Louis and the fight for third place with its consequent share in the world's series prize money should be an interesting one. The Braves have let up in their batting but the pitchers are showing improvement. The Cardinals have won eight straight games and play Philadelphia and Pittsburg this week. The Quakers had their first winning week since May.

Brooklyn will find it hard to get back into the first division as their pitchers are being hit hard.

Chicago and Cincinnati are batting well, but lack consistent pitching.

In the American league, Manager Speaker of Cleveland is using his pitchers to good effect. Only three runs were averaged off the Indian pitchers last week. Bagby was called upon for relief duty three times, Sothorn was the only Indian pitcher to go the full distance last week. New York seems to have recovered its stride again and promises to keep close to the champions.

The Washington pitchers are ineffective and the heavy hitting of the St. Louis Americans should carry them into third place. Boston and Detroit pitchers are not doing very well, although both clubs had a winning balance last week. Chicago and Philadelphia also lack pitching strength.—Lethbridge Herald.

ALBERTA DEFEATS "UNITED STATES"

An Alberta baseball team played a team picked from the league leaders of the United States at Fernie on Sunday last, and although the States has claimed the championship of the entire world, the 'scrubs' from Alberta put it over them to the tune of 8 to 4.

One or two Fernie men played with the States' team, while a couple of stars from the little hamlet of Hillcrest werre accredited with 7 of the 8 runs made by Alberta. About 3,000 spectators were present, quite a few of them coming from Seattle, Portland and Spokane.—Enterprise.

COMPLETING DATA ON RECLAMATION

Creston, Aug. 26.—After a lapse of at least seven years, work was restarted this week of completing the work of gathering the necessary engineering data that should go a long way toward finally deciding as to the feasibility or otherwise of the reclamation of Kootenay Flats. Water rights branch engineer, W. J. E. Biker is in charge of the party, which consists of ten men, and they are operating along the Kootenay River in the Dominion engineer's cruiser, Marion.

The party came up from Nelson on Tuesday, and imediately started at work at a point near the Reclamation farm, which is the spot where engineer Muerling's work ceased early in 1914. A complete topographical survey is to be made of the whole area from that point to the Idaho boundary at Porthill, and when all the facts are marshalled on this bit of finish up work a complete survey of the Kootenay River on both sides of the line will be available, as Engineer Jones completed the work on the United States side in 1916, and issued a very comprehensive report the following year. The work Mr. Biker is doing is in exact accord with the plans laid by Mr. Swendsen, the Idaho director of reclamation, and A.E. Cleveland, B.C. comptroller of water rights following an international conference at Victoria late in June, an an on-the-spot inspection of the Idaho side of the proposition at Bonners Ferry on July 12. When Mr. Biker has the work finished, which will take five or six weeks, another on-the-spot conference will be held, most likely at Creston, at which the Provincial, Dominion, Idaho and United States federal reclamation officials will be present. That the Canadian Indian department is keenly interested in the work is indicated in the arrival here on Tuesday of R.L.T. Galbraith, Fort Steele, the Kootenay Indian Agent, who had a conference with the local reds, at which he issued specific instruction that the Biker survey party should have free access to all Indian lands in the course of their work, an Indian constable Ryckman will be here at the end of the week to see that Mr. Galbraith's instructions are lived up to.—Nelson News.

At the last general meeting of the Vancouver Economic Council, dealing with the unemployed problem, it was unanimously decided to petition the Council of North Vancouver that British Columbia materials and labor be used in the construction of the proposed new ferry. "We should point out that B.C. goods are as good as any on the continent; that even the necessary machinery may be had in B.C." said Mr. N.G. Neill, Secretary of the Employers' Association, who asked for endorsement of the petition. A committee was appointed to present the petition to the North Vancouver civic officials.

No Waste with Carnation

CARNATION, is the milk of double richness, because it contains a minimum of 7.8% butterfat; whole milk and sterilized canned milk contain an average of only 3.5% to 4% butterfat. It is more economical than ordinary milk and is best by cooking test and there is no waste. It keeps indefinitely in the hermetically sealed and sterilized can, and you can keep an extra supply always on hand. And even after the can is opened Carnation will keep for several days in a cool, dry place. You use the amount you want—no more, no less. Buy a dozen cans. Give it a fair trial. Your grocer sells two sizes—the "tall" and "baby" cans.

Send for Carnation Cook Book containing 100 practical tested recipes. Carnation Milk Products Co., Ltd., 134 Abbott St., Vancouver, B. C.

MINING ACTIVITY

(Cranbrook Courier)

The announcement that the Federal Mining Company, the largest company of its kind in the world, has entered the East Kootenay field, is the most interesting piece of news that has been made public for many years. The company has bonded the Stemwinder property, near the famous Sullivan mine, and will immediately start diamond drilling the hill, operations on which will be carried out all winter. It is also believed that they have acquired the North Star mine, latterly worked by Thompson and McKinney under lease. The Stemwinder, the oldest developed property in the Kimberly section, is the property of McKenzie & Mann. Just what developments will be undertaken has not been given out officially, but it is said the Federal will spend $3,000,000 on the property and in all probability construct a roilroad to link up with the Great Northern.

For years the mining district of this section, the most promising in the entire province of British Columbia, has been strangled and suppressed by certain interests. We have the largest silver-lead-zinc mine in the world at Kimberly. With a fair shake there is adequate room here for ten more like it and a monster smelting plant. This will ultimately come, the truth is breaking through.

The new shipping line to South America, announced by the Universal Shipping and Trading Company, will be valuable to B. C. from the point of view of trade. Mr. H. H. Hamer, president of the concern, is in Vancouver, and announced the plans. The boats will ply between Vanvouver and the Southern Country.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

WHAT IS A BOY ANYWAY?

A normal boy, fifteen years old or more, has 200 bones and 500 muscles, his blood weighs 25 pounds, his heart is nearly five inches in length and three inches in diameter. It beats 70 a minute, 4,200 times an hour, 100,800 times a day, and 36,792,000 times a year. At each beat a little over two ounces of blood is thrown out of it; each day it receives and discharges about seven tons of that wonderful fluid. It is the most remarkable pump in the world.

His lungs contain a gallon of air, and he inhales 24,000 gallons a day. The aggregate surface of the air-cells of his lungs, supposing them to be spread out, is 20,000 square inches. The weight of his brain is three lbs. or more. His nerves exceed 10,000,000. His skin is composed of three layers, and varies from one-eighth to one-fourth of an inch in thickness. The area of the skin is about 1,700 square inches and is subjected to an atmospheric pressure of 15 pounds to the square inch. a total of 12.7 tons. Each square inch of his skin contains 3,500 sweating tubes, or prespiratory pores each of which may be likened to a little drain tile one-fourth of an inch long, making an aggregate length in the entire surface of his body of 201,160 feet, or a tile ditch draining the body almost 40 miles long. Truly he is 'fearfully and wonderfully' made.

BIG CONFERENCE ON B.C. FORESTRY

The Forests of British Columbia are in the main the property of the whole people. Although an incalculably great town, the greatest contributor of freight to the railways and steamship lines, nevertheless forest wealth is the most easily destructible of all the natural assets, and its maintenance as a raw material calls for a definite programme of conservation.

Keeping in view the vital problems associated with British Columbia's timber and timber industries, a Provincial Forestry Convention has been organized for Vancouver, September 19th and 20th and Victoria, September 21st, which in addition to a program of constructive subjects has drawn its speakers from the first rank of industrial leaders and professional foresters. Such subjects as "The Trend of the Timber Situation in Eastern Canada, the Middle West and the Pacific Coast" will be handled by three thoroughly qualified speakers. Mr. G.C. Piche, Chief Forester of Quebec, who has just returned from Sweden, will attract much public interest by a popular talk on "A Canadian Observer in Scandinavia." Mr. J.O. Cameron of Victoria will speak on "Manufacturing for Export," Mr. H. R. MacMillan, of Vancouver, on "Lumber Export in Relation to Forest Products," Mr. F.S. Buck on "The Motor Truck in Logging," Mr. E.W. Hamber, Mr. Archie W. Martin, Mr. P.Z. Caverhill, Provincial Forester, Major Maclaurin, Mr. H.R. Christie, are a few of the other speakers who will handle important subjects.

A hearty invitation to the general public to attend all sessions has been extended by the Canadian Forestry Association under whose auspices the convention is being held.

AN OBJECT LESSON

The relief which comes to Bolshevist Russia from capitalist countries is itself an object lesson. Russia is nominally a food-exporting country. She has in other days sent large quantities of wheat, rye, barley and other grain to Western Europe. Russia was also an exporter of dairy produce, eggs, meat and livestock. Today, after more than three years of Bolshevik government, which promised comfort and plenty to the people, they find themselves seeking and accepting relief from other countries. This is not so much because of the general failure of Russian crops. Such failures are local and could have been compensated by the surplus of the provinces where crops were normal. Destitution is due to the fact that land has been left uncultivated, that former producers have become demoralized and confused, that the farmers are without stock and implements, and without confidence, direction or courage. It is mostly due to Bolshevism.

It is announced that Alfred H. Lomas, of Duncan, has been appointed by the civil service commission at Ottawa to act as Indian Agent in charge of the Kootenay Indian Agency with headquarters at Fort Steele. This foreshadows the retirement from this work of R. L. T. Galbraith, whose superannuation was announced some little time back. Perhaps no one has been more intimately connected with the history of this section than Mr. Galbraith, and it is believed that having for so long been resident at Fort Steele, he does not intend to forsake it, but will still live in retirement there. His successor in office has been in charge of Indian work on Vancouver Island. —Cranbrook Herald.

"Rainmaker" Hatfield plans shifting his cloud-producing plant to a more strategic location next season. Saskatchewan farmers fear that he may intercept the moisture-charged clouds drifting in their direction and extract the precious liquid before it reaches them. This may raise a question of provincial rights that will cause as much contention as the three-mile limit in marine law.

THE BASEBALL TOURNAMENT

Fernie baseball club, by defeating White Spruce club in the final of the Labor Day baseball tournament on Tuesday afternoon by a score of 9 runs to 3 , won the $750 prize put up by the local Sports Committee. Large crowds turned out both days of the tournament to witness the various struggles for supremacy, and were served with a brand of ball rarely seen in this part of the country, professionals from nearly every club in the Western Canada League participating in the line-ups of the various teams entered. In the first round Hillcrest, Wycliffe and White Spruce drew byes, leaving Fernie and Coal Creek to play the elimination game before the semi-finals.

Promptly at 10 o'clock on Monday morning Umpire Baerwald, late of the Western Canada League, announced the batteries and the game commenced. From the start it was easily seen that it was to be a one-sided affair, Fernie getting away with a five run lead in the first innings, which they added to consistently and emerged winners by a score of 14 runs to 4.

The big tournament was set aside for a match game for $100 to be played by the Fernie Boy Scouts and Cranbrook Y.M.C.A. When the two teams entered the diamond it seemed as if the match was to be between Davids and Goliaths, the Boy Scouts looking like midgets alongside the Cranbrook Y team, but the little fellows soon demonstrated they could hit the pill and scored six runs in the first two innings, holding the Y scoreless. The Y however got to Covert in the fourth and scored 5 runs. The Scouts managed to hold a one run lead until the finish and won the hundred.

White Spruce and Wycliffe then took possession of the diamond and the fans were treated to the best game of the tournament, a real pitchers' battle between Swartz of Calgary Bronks pitching for White Spruce and Ault, late of Moosejaw, for Wycliffe. Wycliffe opened the scoring in the third innings when with two men down Bamford and Crowe got a single each, and with Bamford on second and Crowe on first, McTeer connected for a three base hit, scoring two runs. White Spruce got one in the fourth, when Hauger hit a three-bagger. McTeer tried to catch him napping off third but the ball hit Hauger and went to the outfield, Hauger coming home. No further runs were scored until the last half of the eighth, when Dooley got a two-bagger off Ault and Hauger drove him home with another three-base hit, tying the score. The game then went to the 11th innings, when Nelson got a single, stole second on Crowe's error and came home when Bamford fumbled Barger's drive to short.

Hillcrest announced through their manager that owing to the non-arrival of some men they expected they were unable to play off the semi-final with Fernie, but would pick up a team and play an exhibition game. This game was played off between a Fernie nine and a pick-up team, Fernie keeping their best men fresh for the final and resulted in a win for the pick-up team by a score of four runs to three. Pendergast and Brown were batteries for Hillcrest, and Bishop and Andresen for Fernie.

The first day closed with a monster dance in Victoria Hall, which was largely attended and voted a winner by all present.

Tuesday's games opened with a junior game between Fernie Juniors and the Fernie Boy Scouts, the Scouts going in when it was learned that the Michel Juniors were unable to play. This game resulted in a win for the Fernie Juniors by a score of 6 runs to 4.

Promptly at 4.30 p.m. Fernie and White Spruce took possession of the diamond for the big final game of the tournament. Umpire Baerwald announced the batteries: Thollander and Dooley for White Spruce; Hartman and Schroeder for Fernie.

Fernie went to the bat first and opened up with a couple of runs, Mee and Walters crossing the plate on two clean hits and an error on Devine. White Spruce evened up in their session at the bat in the first, when a couple of errors let two men on bases and Nelson drove them in with a two-bagger. From then on Hartman held his opponents well in hand and it was only in the fifth that White Spruce got their only earned run of the game, when Nelson, Hauger and Barger got a single each and Nelson scored. For the balance of the game the White Spruce were practically retired in the one, two, three order, Fernie connecting freely with Thollander's offerings and added runs in nearly every frame.

Children's sports for prizes amounting to over $150 were run off during the two day celebration, and not a single prize offered was passed up for lack of entries. The kiddies had the time of their young lives and will remember Labor Day for some time to come.

CLUB IS NOT A PERSON

Victoria, Sept. 6.—That duly authorized clubs cannot be held to be "a person or a corporation" within the meaning of the act, is decided in a judgment handed down by Mr. Justice Murphy in the stated cases taken by H. D. Twigg, for the Victoria unit of the Army and Navy Veterans against a police court conviction when Magistrate Jay imposed a fine of $1000 on the local club on a charge of selling beer to members.

This decision will affect all clubs known as members' clubs, the Victoria golf club and the Union club, among others, where it is held that they, when not incorporated, are neither persons nor corporations within the meaning of the act. Members' clubs are in effect societies of joint owners — the members themselves—and, therefore, not brought within sections 26 nor 46 of the Government Liquor Act.

This decision has a far reaching effect and may lead to the use of beer in all members' clubs unless appeal is taken by the crown. C. L. Harrison appeared for the crown in the police court case, and E. C. Myers for the crown in the supreme court.

CITY COUNCIL

The city council met last evening with the mayor and all members present except Aldermen Corrie and Bean.

The Chief of Police was instructed to bring action against three citizens who refuse to pay what is due for scavenging.

Owing to the fact that all applications for loans have been withdrawn, the money received from the provincial government for better housing, amounting to $12,000, was ordered to be returned.

The application for a license for the Fernie Club was granted.

A deputation of citizens waited on the council re dumping of garbage along the river. It was explained to the delegation that when finished the material which has been dumped would all be covered in a manner similar to the same kind of work as that which has already been done on Island Park Road.

The meeting adjourned.

THE COMING ELECTION

Election forecasts, with the Dominion contest so many weeks distant, must of necessity be rather broad and general in their scope. But even at this time there seems to be good reason for doubting if the Farmer party will make anything like the showing that its supporters expect.

It will have a majority in the prairies, probably carrying Alberta solid, but doing not quite as well in Saskatchewan, where its showing in the provincial election was much weaker than had been anticipated. Manitoba may be pretty well split between all three of the major parties.

British Columbia is not only with the National Liberal-Conservatives on account of Empire affairs, but it is also strongly protectionist. It is certainly not likely to line up with the prairie Farmer party which wants free apples, free lumber and the duty removed from other products manufactured in this province.

If, therefore, the Farmers reach the Great Lakes with a majority it is not going to be a very large one.

Quebec cannot be expected to support the Farmer party, although the tariff policy, observers believe, will gain some seats for the Meighen government. Neither can the Maritime provinces give any great accession of strength to the Farmer party, even if a stray seat or two go in their favor.

There remains Ontario. Will Onhario, its great population and its great industries built up as a result of protection against the American concerns which would have destroyed them, vote for free trade? It elected a Farmer government in provincial affairs, but will it vote to endanger its industries and risk losing population and business to the great American companies across the line.

It hardly seems likely.

On the other hand, is it going to line up with the Quebec group in support of Mackenzie King and his policy of abolition of protection, of tariff for revenue? That, also, seems hardly likely.

In a few weeks the trend of political opinion in the various provinces will be more clearly shown, but there are many experienced political observers in this Dominion who will be very surprised if the weight of solid opinion in Canada does not turn toward Mr. Meighen and his policy.—Nelson News.

WALLACE REID PUTS OVER BJONES BJUG

Bjones Bjugs! Ever hear of them? Neither did old Enoch Jones, who had been making them for forty years. What happened was that his live-wire nephew, Sylvester, came to work for him, brought in a lot of new-fangled ideas, including a whirlwind advertising campaign with a "B" placed in front of the ancient Jones Jugs, and jerked Enoch's tottering business to its feet. But what got Enoch's goat was the fact that Sylvester by night was one of those jazz dancers in a big Broadway cabaret.

It all happens in "The Dancin' Fool," Wallace Reid's amusing screen comedy at the Orpheum theatre Friday and Saturday this week. The picture is just about the most entertaining offering breezy Wallie has had in several months. Bebe Daniels aids and abets the handsome star in a series of ultra-modern dances, calculated to make anyone rub their eyes. Tully Marshall, Lillian Leighton and Raymond Hatton are in the cast.

Tom Wood directed the picture, which is a Paramount Artcraft and was adapted from Henry Payson Dowst's magazine serial.

THOUSANDS OF TOURISTS

(Lethbridge Herald)

"The biggest thing Lethbridge and Southern Alberta and Eastern B.C. ever got into from the standpoint of advertising," is how Arthur Baalim sizes up the organization of the tourist association formed at Fernie. "Instead of making a few scattered, feeble efforts at doing something to attract summer tourists we will now work together. Instead of distributing hundreds of pieces of literature we will now be in a position to distribute thousands. In a word, so far as Lethbridge is concerned, it will put the city on the map in big red letters."

Mr. Baalim, who was honored with the presidency of the new association, is enthusiastic over its future. It is young but it is going to accomplish big things, he told the Herald. In the opinion of Mr. Baalim thousands of tourists will be drawn to Lethbridge, Cardston, Pincher Creek and Pass towns and on to Nelson, Cranbrook, Creston and other B.C. cities, where hundreds are now, as a result of the activities of the new association. Then, too, there is the point of colonization behind it for Lethbridge, he points out. He thinks this is one feature that should commend it to every business man in Lethbridge.

The towns and cities that are now in are Lethbridge, Cardston, Pincher Creek, Macleod, Sweet Grass, Montana, Blairmore, Coleman, Fernie, Cranbrook, Windermere, Creston, Nelson, Trail and Rossland. Penticton may come in this year. If not they are certain to join up next year, Mr. Baalim says. Calgary and Banff, two points that will profit most perhaps, will also become affiliated.

Lethbridge has been assessed $600. "Fifty dollars a month for publicity for a city the size of Lethbridge is nothing," said Mr. Baalim. "In my opinion we get into this splendid movement pretty cheap. We hope that every booster in the city will get behind us in putting over this scheme."

Mr. Baalim spoke highly of the entertainment at Fernie. The delegates were royally received. One of the impressive features of the convention was the enthusiasm and pep shown by the men from British Columbia. "Those fellows are live wires and believe me, they are behind this big, broad tourist scheme with all the power they have," said Mr. Baalim.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The dance held up here under the auspices of the Bachelor Boys was a great success. The hall was artistically decorated, the color blending bespeaking the artistic temperament of those responsible. The duties of floor manager were carried out by Ed. Coughlan. The refreshments were of first class order. The apparent relish with which they disappeared spoke volumes for the culinary abilities of the ladies.

With the approach of winter the Bachelor Boys are discussing the possibility of a skating carnival, providing proper facilities can be secured. Go to it, boys.

A special train was run from the camp to Fernie on Labor Day for the convenience of those wishing to attend the sports.

With the summer holidays consigned to the past ,the school reopened on Tuesday morning. Mr. Harris is the new principal and Miss Whittaker the other new addition to the staff.

Mrs. M. Hugall, Mrs. T. Morrison and Mrs. T. Birkett left camp on Sunday last en route to the Old Country.

The decision as given by Justice Murphy re the status of bonafide clubs under the Moderation Act, is the topic of conversation up here.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

(By T. G. Wallace)

The Alpine Club of Canada solved one of the serious problems this Summer—namely, how to escape from the heat. The Club met in the meadows near Lake O'Hara at an altitude of 6700 feet, within easy reach of glaciers and snowfields. The members were reading the newspaper reports of high temperatures on the plains whilst they were glissading on the snow slopes and snowballing each other. Truly this is a land of contrasts. The vast prairies pass suddenly into towering mountains, and the perspiring citizen soon finds himself obliged to don sweater and overcoat and winter underwear! There is no need in the mountains for the iceman to call, and nature herself has iced the drinking water that flows from glaciers hundreds of feet thick. On one day it was reported to be 101 in the Valleys of British Columbia and the same morning fresh snow fell on the mountains and the waters in the tents was frozen!

Mountain climbing will become more and more a much-sought summer recreation. It calls for careful physical training and it is an excellent promoter of health. It has its risks and dangers — the untimely death of Professor Stone is an illustration of how even an experienced mountaineer may be the victim of the mountains. But these risks add zest to the sport and call for the exercise of one's best intelligence. The mountains are rapidly crumbling. We speak of the "everlasting hills," and from the plains they look solid and enduring, but those who have come into close grips with the mountains know that heat and cold, frost and rain, are pulling them to pieces. There is the danger of the avalanche and the rockslide. Falling stones soon acquire the velocity of bullets, and if one happens to be in the path of a rockslide one takes cover as men do in war. One has to learn how treacherous the snow can be when it thinly covers a crevass, or when it lies on a steep ice-slope. One learns to avoid the place where avalanches are likely to engulf the unwary climber. The glacier in its flow over precipiecs breaks up into seracs or pinnacles, and the wind will sometimes topple over masses of ice weighing tons. The rocks that look so firm only await the touch of the climber to dislodge them and woe to the unfortunate person on whom they fall. "Prove all things," is a good motto for the climber.

In spite of all this the mountain air is invigorating and the exercise of climbing is health-giving. There is a thrill of pleasure that no other form of recreation gives. The surroundings are elevating, inspiring. Men go to Europe to visit the cathedrals of the Old World, they admire the towers and spires and lofty arches; but here in the mountains are God's great cathedrals with towers far more gigantic than any work of men, with spires that pierce the clouds and are clothed with the spotless garb of mountain snow. You see the wonder of the sunrise and the sunset—the sun first kisses the upper peaks when the valley below is wrapt in darkness. You see such colors on the mountain lakes as artists can scarcely reproduce. You hear the music of a thousand waterfalls and the deeper roar of avalanche and rockslide. Nature nowhere works on so grand a scale as in the mountains. But to know the mountains and to appreciate them, you must go right into the heart of them and become intimate with them. More and more people will love and enjoy the mountains, more and more the people of Canada will come to realize what a magnificent asset we have in our mountains.

Commissioner Eadie, of the S. A., at the United Church, on Thursday, Sept. 15.

TOO MUCH GOLF OR NONE AT ALL

A Montclair woman sues for divorce alleging that her husband is a golf maniac. If he plays the game at all the respondent will probably admit that he is and not defend the suit. The case proves that wives are hard to please. In the old days men were accused of using clubs on their wives and uttering dreadful language, indicating temper. Nowadays they use clubs to hit the ball—sometimes—and they explode the horrible vocabulary upon the game, the club, the ball, the lie. If by chance they win they return home in an angelic mood beautiful to see. A golf wife may be a grass widow, but if she gets a divorce on that ground, she deserves to marry a second time and to get a husband who has never played the game, and who will work off the tantrums to which all husbands are subject on her and not on the course.—Exchange.

"It is not right or proper to interfere with nature," said an English cergyman in denunciation of an attempt to produce rain by bombing the clouds. If this dictum were accepted it would put the beauty parlors and barber shops out of business.

TO CARVE 1000 FIGURES

The famous Sphinx was originally an isolated rock, which offered itself usefully for the purpose of a wonderful sculptor. In Egypt, not far from Cairo, may be seen enormous human figures in a seated posture, carved out on the fact of a cliff.

Even more remarkable in its way will be a gigantic piece of rock sculpture that has been undertaken 12 miles east of the city of Atlanta, and which is designed to serve as a memorial to the Confederate armies of the Civil War. There Stone Mountain uplifts from a level plain a great vertical cliff of gray granite, 1000 feet high and more than a quarter of a mile long, out of which are to be carved in relief the figures of a thousand soldiers of the Lost Cause.

Each figure will be a portrait, 50 feet high, and none of them will stand lower than 200 feet from the ground beneath, so that the whole design will be within view from as great a distance as five miles. Three thousand acres of land in the vicinity will be made a park. Most conspicuous among the figures will be a group of mountain men led by Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. After them will come a troop of cavalry, with infantry following, and, in the rear, batteries of guns advancing around the shoulder of the mountain. The idea meant to be conveyed is that the mountain, if it were opened, would be found to be actually full of men.

A famous sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, is to have general charge of the work. Steel cables dropped down from the cliff, supplemented by horizontal cables connected with them, will support cages in which the men who do the carving will conduct their operations.

CIVIC REFORM

The Union of B.C. Municipalities has gone on record in favor of a two-year term for aldermen and a one-year term for mayor. The grounds leading up to this decision are not explained in dispatches, but it is a recommendation which does not throw very much light on what is wanted to bring about reform in civic government. If aldermen are to have a two-year term it is more advisable still that a mayor should be elected for the same period. He is the only member who gives his whole time to the business of the city in which he presides. He is expected, above and beyond any of the aldermen, to know more about current civic business. His duties are exacting, onerous and at times anything but congenial, and while there is a mayoralty allowance it is seldom more than will cover the demands made on the position he occupies. For these reasons, and more than anything else because a mayor should be given every opportunity of becoming acquainted with all the details and duties of his office, it is important in his case, because of the responsibilities with which he is charged, that his term should be two years rather than that this privilege should be extended to aldermen alone. If the suggested two-year term for aldermen is the sole contribution of the Port Alberni convention to the discussion on reform in civic government made by the delegates, it might as well have been shelved.—Victoria Colonist.

Failure to make improvements or record same will operate as forfeiture. Title cannot be obtained in less than 5 years, and improvements of $10.00 per acre, including 5 acres cleared and cultivated, and residence of at least 2 years are required.

More Economical and Convenient —and Doubly Rich

CARNATION MILK is more economical and convenient than ordinary milk because of its double richness and keeping qualities. Carnation contains a minimum of 7.8% butterfat; whole milk and sterilized canned milk contain an average of only 3.5% to 4% butterfat. In summer, when other milk "turns" easily, Carnation can be kept indefinitely in the can and for several days after the can is opened, in a cool, dry place. Try a dozen cans—for a week—and you will use this richer milk for every cooking purpose. Always dilute with an equal quantity of water for ordinary cooking purposes. To cream tea and coffee, or on fruits and cereals, use it as it comes from the can. Buy this good milk from your grocer, the Carnation milkman.

INSURANCE

The family of a prudent parent does not need charity. Bacon truly said that the man who has a wife and children has given hostage unto fortune. It is equally true the man who owns an Insurance policy holds a bond from fate. It is a security that is never absent.

"It is carried in a man's pocket."
"If thieves steal it they cannot cash it."
"It is free from care and is a sure inheritance."
"In short, a policy is the anchor of the home."

BRITAIN WILL PULL THROUGH

As an instance of the indomitable spirit of the British people, and their traditional facility for "muddling through" under conditions that sometimes appear almost hopeless the following article by W. C. Barron, the well known publicist, appearing in his New York paper, will be of interest:

Mr. Barron states: "Two years ago I declared that England was the great war sufferer but that her people did not know it. I thought I saw pretty clearly what the demoralization in her coal mining forces and her future shipping profits and her transportation unsettlements would do to her national income. Now England is awake to the situation, but not fully so.

"The sentiment of the people may be expressed thus, as I quote from one returned from the occupations area in Germany: "We have won the war, and the first thing to find out is how much Germany can and will pay. If she can pay and won't, we'll make her. We will drive right into Berlin with the French and take her coal fields and her industries, and will make her know where she stands and what she has got to do. But if she cannot pay, we'll buckle down to it and pay up ourselves as best we can. We have no intention of repudiating any of our debts, including our indebtedness to the United States. We are going to see everything paid."

"Few people are in a position to take the financial latitude and longitude of this little isle.

"The government people had hopes this spring that the deficit would not exceed £100,000,000. Present prospects are that it will far exceed that for this fiscal year. It should be remembered, however, that every warring nation consumes more than it earns, and that war expenditures cannot be checked immediately after the close of the war.

"This is not a serious matter when only two or three nations are at war. Other nations have the resources and goods, and can extend credits. The serious problem before the world today is to find the credit in the after-war reconstruction period.

"But the English people refuse to recognize defeat, and they have always confidence in their national leadership, and in their "muddling through."

"If one leader or set of leaders fail, they know that others must come forward. As a nation the English people stand confident and defiant. They won; they are English; and they will pay. That is their whole sentiment.

"Their trust is in their race, their blood, their bulwark of empire, and, above all, they have a supreme faith in an ever-abiding and over-ruling Providence. They did right by themselves, their neighbors and their allies during the war. They will even see justice done today to the living and honest working people of Germany. They will continue to do their duty day by day, but they will not worry.

"They have defied the lightning of war, and they will face the lightnings of finance as they have to. They will borrow and they will pay; but they will not, in advance, borrow any trouble."

CLOSE TO FIGLEAF STAGE

If somebody is going to start a reform in the fashionable gowns women wear, he'd better get a start while something is left to start on. With the skirt climbing upward and the bodice rolling downward, society is getting dangerously close to the figleaf stage. Last season there were gasps at the beaches when bating skirts disappeared, and this season gasps are promised in fashionable circles at the disappearance of the bodice. When Alice Deslysia, a stage star, gets shocked at dress style it must be pretty bad, and the other day in New York, Alice is reported to have said that, "while back-stage in a musical comedy we pay no attention to such things, it seems disgusting that society women and perhaps other well--dressed girls will be wearing such extraordinary costumes" as the new gowns from Paris. "The back," she says, "is nothing. There is no back. From the waist up there is nothing but two strings of beads for suspenders. Such a costume would not be permitted on any American bathing beach, nor in Deauville, either, except at night." It is obvious from these remarks from general observation that the waist line is not very well defined and is prone to move up and down. — Exchange.

"I think it my duty to tell you how much your medicine has done for me. I suffered for three years with terrible Eczema. I consulted several doctors and they did not do me any good.

Then, I used one box of 'Sootha-Salva' and two boxes of 'Fruit-a-tives' and my hands are now clear. The pain is gone and there has been no return. I think it is a marvellous cure because no other medicine did me any good and I tried all the remedies I ever heard of, without benefit until I used 'Sootha-Salva' and 'Fruit-a-tives.'

'Fruit-a-tives' cooled the blood and removed the cause of the disease, and 'Sootha-Salva' completed the cure."

A conservative estimate places the value of the tourist trade for the month just close to $7000. Cranbrook's free parking accommodation came in for some very favorable comment from a large number of campers.

MAKING A MODEL RAILWAY

Will Henry Ford revolutionize the railroad system of this continent? When he bought the 60-mile Detroit, Toledo and Ironton road recently, as a complement to his automobile business, wiseacres smiled. Ford was at last running up against a real problem. Railway management was supposed to be almost unimprovable in important phases.

But Henry Ford's managers have put into effect a wage minimum similar to that in effect in the Ford automobile factories. Transportation has been speeded up to nearly twice the usual average. Trains travel 50 and 60 miles an hour, loads are increased, and ,stranger than all, the system appears to be put on a good revenue-producing basis. Now Ford is calculating on readjusting the whole of railway equipment. Instead of 200-ton locomotives, 75-ton ones are expected. They will do as much work at a fraction of the cost. The saving will be chiefly in steel, but a sort of "Tin Lizzie" on wheels is likely to be designed. The Ford organization is out to prove that it can throw out present railway standard equipment, and substitute for it new designs and materials, based solely on efficiency.

If Ford's railway, which is one of the auto wizard's most interesting experiments, sets a new pace in management and efficiency, the pressure on the big systems to make extensive reforms will be irresistible. All railroads need speeding up, and more economy in all departments. If machinery and organization can get twice the traffic movement at half the cost, one of our present perplexing problems is solved.

COLEMAN TRIMS FERNIE 5 TO 2

Coleman, Sept., 5.—The semi-final for the Mutz Cup was played here on Saturday evening between Fernie and Coleman.

Wilson of Fernie, referred the game. Fernie won the toss and kicked towards the north goal. Coleman forwards played an aggressive game and within three minutes had scored the first goal. Just after centering again, Coleman rushed toward the Fernie goal and for the second time Burns beating the goalkeeper.

The game got better and each team began to settle down and some real good play took place. Fernie pressed hard and Wilson, right wing for Fernie, scored a beautiful goal. The game became more interesting and some very fine rushes were made by both teams.

Fernie has a young aggregation of players and their forward line was equally as good as Coleman's. They were puting forth great effort to equalize before the whistle blew for half- time but the half ended 2-1 in favor of Coleman.

On resuming play Fernie again became dangerous and Ford was called upon to save. The defense of Coleman was puting up a great game and but for their steadiness and tact Fernie would have scored.

The third goal for Coleman was a difficult one to judge and hit on the inside of the goal post. Coleman now were on the aggressive and a splendid rush finished with Muir, center placing a hard shot into the net for a fourth counter. The game was far from one-sided and Fernie again and again came dangerously near scoring and was rewarded with another goal. The weakest part of Fernie's team was it's defence. The goalkeeper seemed to be inexperienced. Just about five minutes from time Coleman forwards massed themselves together round the Fernie goal and fairly rushed the ball through for a fifth tally. The game ended Fernie 2, Coleman 5. Coleman is now in in the finals and their supporters expect after the form the team has been showing a victory in the final game.—Lethbridge Herald.

A Georgia preacher announced that in his next Sunday sermon he would run the devil out of town and when the day arrived all the men were absent on a fishing trip. The women of the congregation assert that the pastor made good his threat.

RESULT WAS BIG SURPRISE TO HIM

Never Saw Anything Like the Way Tanlac Overcame His Troub'es, He States

"Yes, sir, Tanlac has set me feeling fine and full of energy, and I don't hesitate at all to add my endorsement to the medicine," said W. J. Hornall, of 526 Twenty-second Avenue, Vancouver, B.C.

"About a year ago the influenza left me in a mighty bad fix, and I didn't seem to be able to pick up any of my lost strength and energy at all. Nothing tasted good to me. I could not even stand the smell of cooking and had no appetite. The little I did manage to eat caused me to bloat so that my heart palpitated terribly, and at times it was just all I could do to get my breath. I had such awful headaches and dizzy spells they almost drove me wild and my back ached so it caused me no end of worry, especially when I had any climbing to do or had to be in a stooping position.

"My nerves were were so shattered the least excitement would upset me. I didn't know what it was to get a good night's sleep and was so weak and worn out I just had to force myself to work.

"I got hold of Tanlac and the medicine certainly proved a big surprise to me, for it has given me such an appetite I can hardly get enough to eat now, and my stomach never bothers me a bit. The headaches and dizziness have all disappeared, my breathing is free and easy, and I never have an ache or pain. I sleep like a log every night, am brimful of strength and energy, and in fact just feel good all the time. Tanlac has certainly done the work for me and I cannot speak too highly of it."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

BOLSHEVISM BEATEN BY RUSSIAN CHURCH

The old bureaucratic Orthodox Church has died; or rather, is dying, writes Boris Sokolov in Posliedniya Novosty, a Russian periodical publication issued in Paris.

"The old Orthodox clergy, partisans of the Autocracy, its obedient officials, have disappeared, no one knows where. Many of them have died. Others again are eking out their existence in obscure parishes. A new type of priest has taken their places; or, more properly speaking, is now arriving, for this phenomenon has its own history and course. This new priest is more a man of the world; he does not wear long hair, and he wears a collar. In the day time he is serving somewhere, frequently in some Soviet or Commissariat. He is a priest for his fervent belief, in the name of religion. He is an apostle of that faith. He is in favor of an independent church. He is undoubtedly a staunch democrat. And frequently he happens to be an irreconcilable foe of the Soviet regime.

"More and more frequently the Communists themselves are being married at Church. At the point of death they send for the priest. Their children are being baptized. And so all through. Here is a Red army hospital to be inaugurated; and, at the request of the soldiers, a prayer service is held. The sentiments of 1918 and 1919 seem never to have existed at all. In a bloodless struggle the Orthodox Church has defeated Bolshevism. But, having been victorious it has been transformed itself. It has become more of a church, more Christian, less canonically orthodox."

THE IDEA OF AMALGAMATION

Port Arthur has intimated its intention of taking the initiative in the amalgamation of ex-service organizations is no national step is taken in this direction during the coming Autumn. The three organizations represented in the Ontario town are prepared to join forces, and such an action would, we believe, have an effect throughout the Dominion. The desire of each of the existing organizations to preserve its identity under some form of amalgamation seems to be the stumbling block to the amalgamation idea, though it is one which a broad spirit affecting the interests of the returned soldiers as a whole should readily overcome. It may be sad that the inception of the idea of amalgamation came from Victoria, and although on the surface it does not appear that much progress has been made it is likely that the mental attitude of the returned men is gradually being attuned to a desirability which is becoming more apparent every day.

There is no room for three or four of such organizations with the same end in view but conflicting viewpoints as to how it may be reached. There should be a common purpose and a common method of attaining it, and if this were the case the public respect for the attitude of returned men towards national problems would be proportionately increased. At present, as has been pointed out before, the public do not know what is the considered viewpoint of the men who fought for Canada upon any question that arises. This difficulty would be overcome and much more tangible results would be secured by an amalgamation of all the ex-service bodies. It is a matter for these bodies themselves to decide, without any interference from any other section of the community, but their interests in the premises are obvious. The wonder is that they were not realized long ago.

THE GREAT WORLD COURT

The Court of International Justice created under the authority of the League of Nations may become the most exalted and dignified tribunal in the world. Its authority will be wider than any other. Nations rather than individuals will appear before it as litigants. The greatest jurists of the world will argue before this court. The decisions will be recorded in world history.

Election to this court will be the highest honor that could be paid to any jurist. It will even confer some distinction on the nation from which a judge comes. For there are only eleven judges and four assistants to be chosen from the forty League nations. In fact the number chosen from these countries will be less, since the choice is not limited to League nations, and there is little doubt that one at least will be taken from the United States. It may even be that Elihu Root, who took the leading part in drafting the constitution of the tribunal, will be elected president. Several nations have nominated him to membership and it is not unlikely that he will lead in the first ballot.

Each nation in the League has the right to nominate two candidates from home and two from abroad. Canada has nominated Sir Robert Borden and the minister of justice. The chances are several to one against the election of any Canadian. In any case there can be only one from each nationality. We could hardly expect more than two from the British Empire or three from all English-speaking countries. The constitution sets forth that "the whole body should represent the main forms of civilization and the principal legal systems of the world." The civilization and legal systems of Great Britain and the United States may perhaps be considered as of the same class.

If it were conceivable that Sir Robert Borden and Mr. Doherty could both obtain a majority of votes Sir Robert would be elected under the clause which provides that in case two candidates from one nation obtain a majority the eldest of these "shall be considered as elected." Sir Robert is ten months older than the minister of justice. Even if two judges should be chosen from the six League nations in the empire, one would be from Great Britain and all the other nations would compete for the other.

It happens that there were eleven members of the commission which drafted the scheme of this court. Only one of these came from a British country. This was Sir Walter Phillimore, lord justice of appeal, former president of the International Law Association and editor of publications on the law of nations.

The judges and assistant judges of this court are elected by the League assembly and council for a period of nine years. Their jurisdiction includes the interpretation of treaties, adjudication of any question of international law, breaches of international obligation, the nature of reparation and the consideration and determination of disputes between nations which may be referred to the tribunal.

CRANBROOK NOTES

Cranbrook, Sept. 3.—J. T. Miller, who has been night operator at the C. P. R. station for some years, has been transferred to Fernie. He has sold his house on Burwell avenue to J. Walker, and expects to leave shortly for his new home.

With the fall school term opening on Tuesday, teachers and pupils are returning to the city after holidays spent elsewhere. Mr. and Mrs. L. Baker came in this week-end and have taken up their residence in the Cummings cottage. Mr. Baker is the new first assistant on the high school staff.

Dr. and Mrs. Grier came in on Monday's train from Vancouver. The doctor went to the coast to attend sessions of the B.C. Medical Association.

W. H. Wilson and F. M. MacPherson were the two delegates sent from the Cranbrook Board of Trahe to Fernie, where a new organization which will be known as the "Tourist Association of Southeastern B. C. and Southern Alberta," was formed. This new body has been formed as a sort of publicity bureau to advertise this part of the country. Mr. MacPherson was elected vice-president and Mr. Wilson was put on the publicity commission.

Mrs. Dufour, who has been visiting her brother, J. Miller, returned to her home in Fernie on Saturday.

Mrs. N. E. Ryckman, who has spent the summer in Alaska and Victoria, is home again.

Dr. and Mrs. Fergie left this week for Invermere on a short holiday.

The Isis Is Showing First Run Pictures

The Isis reputation for showing First Run Pictures is too well established to need further comment. Here is another Big Picture, "Paid in Advance," with Dorothy Phillips, Priscilla Dean, Lon Chaney, Wm. Stowell, Bill Burgess, Joseph Gerard, Frank Brownlee and Harry DeMore, in a Curwood story, and will be shown at the Isis Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 14 and 15. Positively first showing in Canada.

If you have forgotten the story, this will refresh your memory. Joan Gray, daughter of a Canadian fur trader, finds herself beloved by two men, who are objectionable to her, one Batesse LeBlanc, the other called "The Beast." Through the jealousy of a half-breed girl, these two fight a fatal duel in which the "Beast" is killed.

Joan and her father decide to go to Dawson City. The father dies on the long trip to the gold fields, and she arrives at the pleasure palace of Gold Dust Barker, her father's supposed friend. The girl finds herself a virtual prisoner among rough men and fast women. Barker's offer to her father had been simply a lure to bring her to his place. Barker makes a degrading proposal to her. Joan in desperation offers to marry the highest bidder. One man, a drunken miner called "The Cur," offers his mine worth $100,000 and wins her. After many trials the "Cur's" regeneration is complete and all ends well.

The scenery is most magnificent, and as to the acting, we need but point to the cast.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Herchmer and Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson returned on Saturday from a 3000 mile motor trip to coast points. During their stay in Vancouver Mr. Watson and Mr. Herchmer visited several golf courses and made some very creditable scores.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of my dear friend, Mrs. G. Moses, of Fernie, who fell asleep in Jesus, Sept. 13, 1920. "She did what she could."

I often think of the days gone by,
When we were all together;
A shadow o'er our lives is cast,
A loved one gone forever.
—Mrs. H. Huish, Calgary.

My Little Old Second Hand Car

You're not a twin-six, an eight or plain six,
My little old second-hand car,
But your cylinders four, with a buzz and a roar,
Have faithfully carried me far.
You may make more noise than an elite Rolls-Royce.
But to my ears no music you lack!
And though you break down in some faraway town,
You somehow pull through and come back!

You don't always lead — but you match my own speed,
My little old second-hand car!
And though I may rave when your parts misbehave,
Still, we're pals to your very last scar!
No wealth you display--just my own hard-earned pay—
Yet, when driving, how princely I feel!
Yes, you've brought me more joy than I've known since a boy.

COUNTERFEIT CASE NOW ON

The trial before Judge Thompson, of Chris Johnsan and Thos. Clinton, alleged distributors of counterfeit Federal Reserve bank notes of the United States, was opened here on Wednesday and is still proceeding, the case for the defence only opening on the afternoon, of the second day. A. I. Fisher, ex-M.L.A., of this city, is conducting the case for the Crown, while A. B. Macdonald, K.C., of Vancouver, and S Herchmer of this city, are appearing for the accused.

The evidence adduced by the Crown is that on the night of Aug. 15 or early morning of the 16th, Clinton and Johnson approached one J. Wilson, proprietor of the Fernie Cartage Co., with a view to purchasing 32 cases of whiskey and gin. The bargain was, after some negotiations, concluded, Wilson undertaking to secure the desired order for them and deliver it that night to the American boundary near Roosville. He demanded payment in full before moving any liquor and received three bundles of ten dollar bills purporting to be Federal Reserve Bank currency of the Bank of San Francisco, Cal., each bundle containing fifty bills or in all 150 bills. Upon examining the money after the departure of the accused, whom Wilson had arranged to meet a few miles beyond the city, he became suspicious as to its genuineness and consulted some other parties, who advised him they believed it to be bogus. Wilson then notified the city police, who, later, in his company, journeyed a mile or so west of the city, where they found accused, and they were placed under arrest.

Benjamin J. Riley, proprietor of a hotel at Yahk, was called by the Crown. Riley testified that on the night of July 22, Clinton, accompanied by another man, so far unidentified, had a liquor transaction whereby Clinton and his partner on that occasion secured from him between thirty and forty cases of liquor, for which they gave him $10 Federal Reserve Bank bills to the face value of $2000, identical with those tendered Wilson, and which he, Riley, upon depositing to the credit of his account in the Royal Bank of Canada at Cranbrook, had been advised were worthless.

Evan Berg, assistant cashier of the branch of the Federal Reserve Bank at Spokane, positively pronounced the bills tendered Wilson here and those tendered at Yahk, as forgeries, and emphasized the glaring differences in the forgeries from genuine notes by producing the genuine article. Bank managers from Cranbrook and of this city also testified as to the imperfections of the counterfeits and the impossibility of their passing anyone having any bank experience.

At the conclusion of the case for the Crown, both counsel for accused made application for dismissal on the ground that the Crown had not established a case showing guilty knowledge as to the bills being forgeries. Forcible arguments, supported by certain legal authorities, were submitted, but the Court held that a prima facie case had been established, and the accused must be placed on their defence.

Johnson, accused, was called, and was still being cross-examined when the court rose after five o'clock on Thursday evening. He stated that he was 26 years of age, was born in Norway, but had migrated to the United States when about 15 years of age. His occupation was that of railroad engineer, he having been employed for several years by the Great Northern Railway running east and west of Hillyard. Johnson, however, under cross examination, stated he had been engaged in bootlegging transactions between British Columbia and Idaho, and also in and about Spokane during recent years. In connection with the present case he related that Clinton had suggested to him that they make a trip to Cranbrook to secure liquor for one Fred Barton, alleged to be a resident of Spokane, but whom Johnson only knew by sight at that time and has only made a slight acquaintance with since. By arrangement Clinton travelled from Spokane to Yahk in Johnson's car, where he, Johnson, had joined him and the two continued the journey to Cranbrook. At Cranbrook they met the man, Fred Barton, who had commissioned them to make the booze-running trip. They had been advised by Barton that he could not secure the desired kind of liquor either at Cranbrook or Yahk, and he suggested they try Jaffray and Fernie to obtain it for him. He supplied them with currency with which to make the purchase, the currency being the notes in question given to Wilson here. Johnson contends he was not actually present when Clinton gave the money to Wilson here at that time, he being engaged preparing their car for its outward trip. He was still being subjected to a gruelling examination when court adjourned.

Mrs. W. R. Wilson's cup was played for on Friday, Sept. 9, and was won by Mrs. E .Kirkpatrick; score 65, handicap 36—29. Mrs. Herchmer, runner up, 66, with handicap 30—36.

OLIVER CALLS EARLY SESSION

Victoria, Sept. 14.—Premier John Oliver today summoned members of the British Columbia legislature for the special fall session to open on October 18.

The call for an early opening, the premier explained, is made so that "there will be as little conflict as possible beween the sitting of the legislature and the activities accompanying the Dominion election campaign."

The chief matters to be considered, he said, will be taxation and passing of the 1922-23 budget.

This will be the first fall session of the British Columbia legislature. It is called in compliance with the statement made by the premier at the end of the session last spring that the legislature would meet before the end of the year to deal with the questions of taxation and aid to municipalities.

Since the session ended the premier and Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, have had the McAdam commission at work gathering and sorting information of the financial standing of British Columbia municipalities so that the legislature will have something to go on.

The work of the McAdam commission is now nearly completed, it was said today.

The fall session does not mean that legislatures are to work in two sessions a year, it was explained at the parliament buildings today. The fall session this year will take the place of a spring session in 1922. It is considered likely that the British Columbia legislature will meet in the fall instead of spring hereafter.

LAST TIME TONIGHT FOR CHIEF WHITE ELK

Tonight is the last time to see and hear Chief White Elk, who is appearing in person at the Orpheum theatre with the all Indian drama in six parts entitled "Before the White Man Came.

The Chief captured the audience with his snappy talk and wonderful singing. He is the most versatile entertainer ever seen in Fernie.

The following is a copy of a letter sent to the manager of the company which speaks for itself:

Gem Theatre, Nelson, B.C., Sept. 13

Mr. J. Bochmer, Fernie, B.C.:

Dear Bochmere—After hearing the numerous favorable comments by our patrons since the close of your engagement here, I feel that I would be remiss in my duty if I did not tell you how much our patrons and myself enjoyed the "Before the White Man Came" show. The picture is a decided novelty and Chief White Elk is an intensely interesting speaker, and has a voice which would be hard to equal.

The business done was far beyond expectations, but of greater importance than any monetary gain was the general satisfaction of our patrons.

Wishing you the success which your show deserves,

Sincerely yours,

J. P. Pitner.

GOT AWAY WITH WHISKEY

The most daring raid and hold-up ever perpetrated in this section of the country was reported to the provincial police here on Thursday morning, when Wm. Kerr, formerly a resident of this city, but now presumed to be following the vocation of rancher at Dorr, B.C., was robbed of a stock of liquors upon which he places an invested value of $8000.

The incident as related to the police is that Kerr was travelling in an automobile Wednesday night near Flagstone, a small settlement south of his residence and nearer the international boundary, when hailed by occupants of another automobile. Immediately upon stopping he was forced at the point of a gun to get out of his car and taken into the woods, where he was gagged and trussed up to a tree. Before being placed in captivity, however, Kerr discovered that instead of one car of bandits there were four or five in the party, each manned with armed men. Kerr was then left for a time but later his captors returned and removed him to a vacant barn, where he was again left helpless. He managed to liberate himself after some time and proceeded to his ranch on foot, his automobile having been rendered inoperative by the bandits. Upon arrival at his home he found that his stock of liquors, estimated at the above value, had been taken. As far as can be ascertained the raid was pulled off by an organized gang of bootleggers from the United States, and it is believed the cars crossed into the State of Montana between Gateway and Roosville about 5 a.m.

The Canadian authorities are already on the trail and are being ably assisted by the state officials of Montana and border towns, as well as by United States federal authorities, and according to latest reports early arrests are likely.

The liquor in question has a somewhat interesting history, and the victim, Kerr, also received considerable notoriety in the courts of this province a year ago. Kerr at that time was employed at the Fernie Hotel, and occupied a suite of rooms in a business block here. The city police, learning that he had a large stock of liquor stored in his suite, seized it under the Prohibition Act. It was confiscated to the Crown, and Kerr was fined $100 by the local magistrate. The case was appealed to the county court, when the decision was reversed. The Attorney General appealed to the Court of Appeal but that tribunal sustained the decision of the county judge and Kerr received back his liquor, and instead of bringing it back to Fernie, he had the provincial authorities consign it to his ranch at Dorr.

FIRE AT BULL RIVER

A serious fire in the town of Bull River on Tuesday afternoon destroyed all the buildings in one of the business blocks with the exception of Markle's store on the corner. The buildings were occupied by several Chinese merchants and the damages amounted to about $15,000.

The fire is repoted to have started in the kitchen of a Chinese restaurant, spreading rapidly to the other frame structures and virtually wiping out everything on the west side of General Street.

The extensive lumbering interests of the C. P. R. at this place, consisting of sawmill, planing mill, large stocks of lumber, ties and poles workmen's cottages, offices and stores department escaped damage. Only small portion of loss is stated to be covered by insurance.

A MILLION AT SUNDAY SCHOOL

In all probability Sunday, Sept. 25, will see the largest Sunday School attendance there has ever been in Canada. Plans and progaganda have been under way for some months with a view to making Rally Day, which falls on this date, not only an inaugural day for the beginning of the season's work, but also a real, big day in all Canadian Sunday Schools. A program, including a special service for the day, has been prepared by a joint committee of the Sunday School Boards of the Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian churches, and one million copies of this have been distributed to Canadian Sunday Schools of these denominations. If present prospects are in any way realized there should be well over a million babies, boys and girls and grownups in the various Schools, on Rally Day.

WHO WILL BE CANDIDATES ?

In the interior of British Columbia, according to the Victoria Colonist, present members of the provincial house are credited with grooming themselves for Dominion political status. For instance, Dr. Sutherland, of Revelstoke, could have the Liberal nomination for one of the Kootenay ridings, it is stated; Fred Anderson, member for Kamloops, is credited with a desire to run at the forthcoming federal election as Liberal standard-bearer for Cariboo riding, and there has been talk among Nelson Conservatives that Dr. Rose, present Conservative member for that city in the provincial house, would be a likely candidate in the West Kootenay riding at present represented by R. F. Green, Unionist. Rumor has it that Mr. Green will, in all likelihood, go to the senate, new appointments to which will shortly be announced. Friends of Rev. Thos. Menzies, Comox, representative of the People's Party in the provincial house, are likely to request him to allow his candidature to be announced in the federal riding of Comox-Atlin as an Independent candidate at the forthcoming election.

C.B. of R.E. WON'T JOIN THE O.B.U

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—(By Canadian Press)—The Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees will not be linked up with the One Big Union, A. R. Mosher, president of the brotherhood. stated this morning.

"The press dispatch from Winnipeg to the effect that the O.B.U. would seek a fusion with the C. B. R. E." said Mr. Mosher, "is the frist intimation I have received of any such attempt. We have received no communication from the O. B. U. and consequently have no idea what Mr. Russel, the O. B. U. representative reported to have made the announcement, has in mind. The C. B. R. E. is in no way connected with the O. B. U., and so far as I am aware there is no good reason why it should be. On more than one occasion the C. B. R. E. has voiced its unmistakeable disapproval of the O. B. U. and any attempt to link our name with that organization is unwarranted."

WITHDRAWS INFORMATION

(Blaimore Enterprise)

The case against Donald Lewis proprietor of the Summit Hotel at Crow's Nest, instituted by Sergt. Nicholson, of the Alberta Provincial Police, came to a climax yesterday, when Nicholson asked to withdraw the information laid by him.

It is ridiculous to think that the police have within their power to place a civil citizen to needless expense for apparently no other reason than to make of the citizen a criminal. In this case, circumstances were such as should at least warrant dismissal police officer, and it would be interesting to the public to know what steps the department governing the provincial police in Alberta will take in the matter. Some of the circumstances connected with this case were cited by us last week. The affair without a doubt, happened in British Columbia territory. The police were acting on information furnished them by a party whose premises at the east end of Crow's Nest lake were searched for intoxicants and the goods confiscated were acknowledged to have been purchased from the accused, Lewis. Lewis was held up on a railway crossing in British Columbia, by Alberta police. No liquor was found in the car, and in a German-like manner, Lewis was switched over into Alberta and placed in a cooler to await his fate.

Solicitor Harris, of Lethbridge was retained by Lewis, and had the case been proceeded with, matters would have proved interesting for the prosecution.

Here is one case where, as far as the Alberta police have proof, an innocent man was put to expense of upwards of $500, with practically no come-back, whatever, and it is time that the department of the attorney-general put a stop to such atrocities.

Following recent emphasis of the entente cordiale which has been established between Canada and the United States, an American editor has sent out inquiries regarding the reason why the Canadian people are generally so critical in their attitude towards and comments upon the manners of Americans. Our cousins have their little peculiarities just like the people of all other nationalities, but Canadians are tolerant after the manner of their forefathers in the Old Land. They have no prejudices against Americans. They welcome pleasure the ETAOIN SHRDLU CM them when they come over for either business reasons or in pursuit of pleasure, as hundreds of United States citizens resident in British Columbia and other parts of Canada can testify. Next to our own, their system of government is the most democratic in the world. They speak our language and they make the very best of citizens. Why should there be dissensions or misunderstandings between these two people?—Colonist.

Coming to the Orpheum

WELCOME TO CONVENTION

Forest conservation is a subject where the interests of the man on the street and those of the lumberman and logger meet on common ground. The forests of British Columbia are merely another term for the livelihood of the majority of the citizens of the province. Keeping this in view, the programme of the Provincial Forestry Convention at the Vancouver Hotel on September 19th and 20th and at Victoria the following day has included subjects of popular interest as well as those appealing especially to the lumber industries.

"Keeping British Columbia Free from Fire" by C.S. Cowan, Assistant Provincial Forester will commence about 11 o'clock on the morning of the 19th, while "Forest Work by Aeroplane" will be heard about 3.30 the same afternoon, Major MacLaurin and Captain L.A. Andrews being the speakers. Business men will be keenly interested in "Industry Organization" by W. B. W. Armstrong, the successful manager of the B.C. Loggers Association. "Lumber Export in Relation to Forest Problems" by H.R. MacMillan, formerly chief Forester of B.C. will attract much notice as the opening address on the afternoon of the 20th. The program is one of the finest that has been assembled for a convention in this province and a large number of companies have already assigned representatives to be present at all sessions. The meetings are wide open to the public to whom the Canadian Forestry Association has extended a hearty welcome.

A writer in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer says that "if we could once get the poison idea out of men's minds that work is some kind of an affliction, it would do much towards the rejuvenation of the human race." Quite true; but many men still act as though they believe that the curse laid upon Adam is still in full force and effect.

IS NOW ENJOYING BEST OF HEALTH

Says Tan'ac Has Entirely Relieved Her of All Her Troubles

"No one can realize the pain and misery I went through, but Tanlac has made a strong healthy woman of me and I just can't praise it enough," said Mrs. E. Wilson, wife of a well-known contractor of Vancouver, B.C.

"I had one of the worst cases of stomach trouble that I believe a person could have, and I ate little more than enough to keep alive. I could hardly stand anything on my stomach, and at times even a little toast would cause me to suffer from indigestion. I would bloat up with gas which caused my heart to palpitate terribly, and often I had dizzy spells. I had awful pains through my back and shoulders and I was miserable nearly all the time.

"I kept reading and hearing so much about Tanlac that I started taking it myself and it has relieved me of all my troubles. I am eating heartily and I never have a sign of indigestion any more. Those awful pains are all gone from my back and shoulders and I am free from those dizzy spells. I have actually gained twelve pounds in weight and I'm feeling as strong and healthy as I ever did and can do all my housework without the least bit of trouble."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

Asiatic Exclusion is Petition Demand

Vancouver, Sept. 16.—Under the auspices of organized labor and committees interested in the problem of unemployed men here, a wide movement has been started for exclusion of Asiatics other than wards of the Empire. Door to door petitions are being circulated, soliciting enrolment and financial aid, state the committees. A special effort is being made to interest farmers who say they have to depend upon Asiatics for their unskilled labor.

Carnation is Doubly Rich
—dilute with water

CARNATION MILK gives added richness and flavor, because it is fully twice as rich as ordinary milk. Carnation contains a minimum of 7.8% butterfat; whole milk and sterilized canned milk contains an average of only 3.5% to 4% butterfat. It is pure cow's milk evaporated to the consistency of cream. But none of the cream is taken out—only water is removed. Cook with Carnation—but add an equal quantity of water to restore the proportions of whole milk. Use pure, rich Carnation for its convenience and economy. All grocers sell tall and baby sizes.

B. C. HAS SIXTY NEW COMMUNITIES

Wrigley's Directory, Just Out, Notes Tremendous Growth in Agricultural Settlements in Province

POPULATION 600,000

Sixty new communities have come into existence in the province during the past year, bringing the total up to 2,209. The new settlements are largely created by the occupation of new lands by soldier settlers, and are an indication of the growth of the basic agricultural industry in British Columbia.

Mr. Roy Wrigley, head of the firm, is highly pleased with his product. The population of the province is given in a conservative estimate at 600,000, as compared with the figures of 718,000 by the Dominion statistician, R. H. Coats. The increase in the rural district has been remarkable. The following table shows the increase in comunities, the arrival of families setling in little districts being responsible for the growth: 1918, 2,010 communities; 1919, 2,042 communities; 1920, 2,149 communities; 1921, 2,209 communities.

The 1921 issue comprises 1,320 pages, the first 36 containing the personnel of the British Columbia Government, together with a list of officials of various departments of the government, both at Victoria and throughout the province, with short articles giving the jurisdiction of the various departments, and indicating the great resources of the province; and the book contains scenes and views throughout British Columbia, and also maps covering all automobile routes in the province.

The gazetter portion of the book deals with 2,209 seperate and distinct cities, towns, villages and settlements in the province of British Columbia. This is an increase of 68 places over the 1920 issue.

The new directory lists all of these places and gives a complete list of the men who are working these farms.

In Vancouver the directory gives the names of the heads of firms, and the salaried employees and contains 318 pages regarding the city, its industries and residents. In addition, there is a complete list of the residents of the cities of New Westminster, Nanaimo, Nelson, Vernon, Prince George and other towns.

A classified business directory gives the names of all business firms, manufacturers, wholesalers and distributors throughout the province, under 682 distinct headings.

The following is a fairly accurate list of the population in the leading towns of the province, many of which show a considerable gain over the population of last year. The City of Vancouver is not given owing to the fact that the Wrigley Directory does not take in the residence addresses of the business people.

Anyox	2,000
Britannia Beach	2,000
Chilliwack	1,600

The Wrigley Directories have taken a definite place among the large institution of the West. Besides the British Columbia Directory they include the Alberta Directory, Hotel Red Book, which gives information regarding hotels throughout the world, and the Canadian Storage Directory, which lists all storage and distributing facilities in the world. Next November they will issue a directory of Saskatchewan which will cover that province as completely as the present books cover British Columbia and Alberta. The work of collecting and collating the information outside of the cities is largely under the direction of the company's secretary, Mr. Frank H. Horn, whose work has made him one of the most travelled and best known men in the west.

Anti-Tobacco Crusaders From U.S. Visit Province

Vancouver, Sept 16. — Delegates from the U.S. Association for Ending Tobacco and Other Social Evils are now in Vancouver seeking moral and financial support. Heading the party is the Rev. A. B. Parr of Seattle and San Francisco. With him are eight women delegates. Members of the Unemployed Aid Association are opposing their solicitation of funds, saying that no money should be devoted to freakish Reform waves at this time, or any other time, when thousands need work and other necessities. The Rev. Mr. Parr declares that British Columbia will eventually become weedless and without a drop of hard drink in sight.

THE GET-TOGETHER SPIRIT

The other day, a Puget Sound town held a holiday all of its own. With funeral rites, the townsfolk buried a hammer in a mimic coffin and they celebrated "Get-Together Day." It ended community discord and established harmonious team-work.

Our own thriving provincial town hardly needs a special holiday of the the kind, but there is no reason in the world why we cannot celebrate "Get-Together Day," every day of the year by the simple process of getting together all the time for community interests. There is nothing like the good, old community spirit of uplift progress and helpfulness. Cohesion, the mighty power that keeps all the atoms together, may be applied here and everywhere else. Every interior city of British Columbia needs more of it. It cannot be overdone. It means everything.

By all means let us foster the get-together spirit right here and be that much better off.

WHO PAID FOR THE WHISKEY?

In the recently published "Stray Thoughts and Memories" of the late Judge Rentoul, the following poser occurs: "A Mexican dollar is worth 4s. in Mexico but worth only 3s. 10d. in the United States, and a United States dollar is worth 4s. in the United States but only worth 3s 10d in Mexico. A man in Mexico had one Mexican dollar, and only one. He went to a public-house and bought twopense worth of whiskey and received as his change a United States dollar, then crossing into the United States he bought twopence worth of whiskey and got in change a Mexican dollar. Going back into Mexico he entered a second public-house and ordered twopence worth of whiskey and was again given a United States dollar in change. He continued these proceedings till late in the afternoon, when he was found in Mexico hopelessly intoxicated with a Mexican dollar in his pocket, no poorer than when he had set out. The problem is, who paid for the whiskey? clearly not the distillers, for they did not let it out until paid for; clearly none of the publicans, for each publican got a coin worth 4s. and gave one in return worth 3s. 10d. Someone paid for the whiskey, and the problem I want to solve is, was it the consumer or the producer?

The passenger suddenly appeared around a curve and the crew hastily removed the handcar. In doing so some of the crew's dishes were strewn on the track and Lee Shim, heedless of the closeness of the approaching train, stepped back on the track and gathered them up. He waited too long, however, and in stepping off the track was struck and hurled over a steep embankment beside the track and killed.

"ALF'S BUTTON" COMEDY CLASSIC

Cecil M. Hepworth, whose film version of W. A. Darlington's clever novel "Alf's Button," is causing so much comment all over the civilized world, is certainly to be congratulated upon his work. It is without a shadow of a doubt the cleverest and most consistant pieces of film comedy ever presented. Briefly, the story tell of Alf 'Iggins who, having been presented with a new army tunic, is amazed to discover that one of the buttons possesses the same magic quality of Aladdin's Lamp. In fact, the button has been once the self-same lamp, having got in with a lot of brass junk purchased from the Orient by the British Government. The amazing series of adventures that ensues from the basis of the thousand-and-one comedy incidents, linking themselves into a laugh that starts at the beginning and continues right though to the end.

"Alf's Button" come to the Orpheum Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, September 21st and 22nd.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE TO INTRODUCE STYLES

In addition to appearing in the chic costume of a French maid, Constance Talmadge will be seen in some very smart and up-to-the-minute styles in her latest Associated First National release, "Lessons in Love," which comes to the Orpheum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday next.

For Constance and her sister Norma recently signed a contract with Lucien Lelong, one of the best known couturiers in Paris whereby they agree to have Lelong furnish them with twelve models per year. These day and evening gowns will be the very last word in ultra-chic advance styles, and will be introduced into America exclusively by the Talmadges. By the terms of the contract, water color sketches and samples of material are submitted to the Talmadges of every unique style or novel design as soon as it is brought out by Lelong, and in this way the Talmadge sisters will be able to show on the screen the very newest changes in styles long before they become generally adopted by the Ameican public.

Babe Ruth's feat of surpassing his last season's home-run record is another illustration of what can be accomplished by hard knocks.

A Buffalo paper tells of a golf match that was won when a grasshopper leaped on a ball hanging on the cup ring and rolled it in.

"We wants a Barf, but we wants no women 'elping us."

"Look 'ere, Eustace," says Alf 'Iggins to the genie, "we likes a little privacy when we takes a bloomin' sluice."

One of a thousand laughs in "Alf's Button," coming to the Orpheum on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 21 and 22.

CARUSO VOICES

It is admitted that Caruso was the greatest operatic tenor of all time. His voice possessed wonderful range and sympathetic timbre, with power and volume of tone, and he combined all the physical characteristics for the production of vocal sounds. What are these?

The lungs are the bellows which supply the blast of air, and on the air-blast depends the volume and prolongation of musical notes. Caruso's lungs were so powerful that when a Steinway concert grand piano was pressed against his chest he moved it several inches by the expansion of his lungs. The power of his voice was so great that he often fractured glasses in my consulting room by singing their fundamental notes at the orifice.

Musical tones are produced by apposition of the vocal cords as the air-blast passes through the larnyx. the pitch is regulated by the tension of the vocal chords, the range of their length, and the quality or timbre principally by the resonations in the mouth, nose and accessory air cavities. These parts intensify larnygeal tone by resonance and harmonic additions.

It therefore takes adaption of many parts to make a great singer.

I have many times examined Caruso's throat, and comparing him with other great singers I found the following characteristics of the perfect singing machine.

The most striking feature was the great length of the vocal tube; the distance from the teeth to the vocal cords in Caruso was at least half an inch more than in any other great tenor I have examined.

A second point was the length of the vocal cord, on whose length, breadth and thickness the pitch of the voice largely depends. The average length of the relaxed vocal cords in a man is 18 millimeters (about ¾ in.) Caruso's vocal cords were 1-6 of an inch longer than those of any other tenor I have seen.

The capacity of vibration of the vocal cords is another most imporant factor, for the higher the note the more rapid must be the vibration. Caruso, when singing his wonderful chest C sharp, reached the phenominal vibration for a man of 550 per second.

There are subsidary factors in the perfect singing voice. The quality of the material composing the top of the throat, the nose, and the cavities above the larnyx have an important influence on the quality of the sound produced. Caruso's whole body seemed to have more than average resonance, and if his knuckles were tapped they gave out a higher note than the knuckles of the average person.

And one of the great secrets of his wonderful voice was the formation of the epigiottis, which was thick at the base, as in bassos, but exquisitely fine and delicate at the free end.

These are the ascertained anatomical factors which go to the making of a great singer, but, of course, mental and emotional qualities are also of importance.

I would like to add that in 1914 I suggested to Caruso that he should bequeath his larynx to his native town, and he agreed. The examination of this unique tone apparatus in its entirety would clear up many debatable points regarding the vocal cords. Afterwards the authorities should present the gift to the National Museum of Italy, where it would be preserved.— Wm. Lloyd, F.R.C.S., in Daily Mail.

Market Classes For Schools

Vancouver, Sept. 16.—Market Classes for school pupils have been started in New Westminster and may be adopted here. Pupils are marched to the public markets, taught market values, and otherwise recieve training in the values of table supplies and foodstuffs. Both boys and girls are included in the classes. The movement finds favor with educators, parents and pupils.

An abundent rice and a short potato crop may result in "croquettes" replacing "French fried" on many tables.

Women passengers can now have their hair "bobbed" while bobbing on the ocean. One of the Atlantic liners carries a woman barber for their accommodation.

COMING TO THE GRAND

"French Leave" the merriest, most hilarious and laughter provoking comedy of the past decade is light, bright and not altogether unplausible. Beyond question many young British wives desired in the course of the late war to visit many young British husbands—officers within the lines—and so, if regulations were to be obeyed inaccessible.

Not these eager ladies would have evaded these "silly old rules," as did Mrs. Harry Glenister by the pretence that she was a Parisian singer on a holiday visiting her family. Yet once in and about brigade-headquarters in a 'rest camp', might not the same adventures have befallen them. Would not flirtatious old generals have held their heads under the table? Would not young staff-captains less cautiously amorous, have sought moonlight meetings? Would not watching husbands, no less unable than unwilling to escape, endure the jealous pangs that torture Glenister? Would not attendant mess corporals and the like have observed pop-eyed and open-mouthed, these signs, wonders and rufflings of routine.

And this naturalness of incident combined with the skilful and naturalness of one of the greatest charms of the unusual comedy by Reginald Berkeley, which has convulsed two continents and scored a rarely equalled success, both sides of the Atlantic. With a few strokes readily shaded Major Berkeley sketches in the personages. Glenister quietly poised, busy, frank, as fond in affection for his wife as he is foolish in nervous jealousy; the more youthful Graham teetering back and forth between boyish impulsiveness and boyish confusion; the old general, red to bursting and hoarse almost to croak with whatever mood happens to be upon him. irritation, curiosity, self-satisfaction. suspicion, sympathy, sense of duty; an officer and a gentleman under all his ruflings and rumblings.

"French Leave" is now touring Canada under direction of Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited, with an all English company and an elaborate production, and will be presented at the Grand Theatre on November 25th.

AMATEUR OR PRO BASEBALL

Cranbrook Courier

With the termination of the baseball season at hand and the plans being discussed for next season, there is argument for and against professional baseball. The consensus of opinion, however, is favorable to amateur ball, in view of what happened in Fernie on Labor Day and Cranbrook's experience with professional lacrosse and ball players some six years ago. It may be letting the cat out of the bag to inform Courier readers that six Calgary professional players were engaged to play with the Hillcrest team at Fernie Labor Day for a purse of $750.00. The manager of the White Spruce team, learning of this, boarded the train and met the incoming Calgary players, offering them an additional fee if they would "turn down" Hillcrest and play with the White Spruce aggregation. Being out for the money first and last and always, the players went over to the White Spruce team. This little instance is related merely to show how crooked professional baseball is. There is no assurance whatever as to the game being conducted on the level. On the contrary there is every liklehood of a "frame up" before the game is played. Professional baseball will recieve no suprot from this paper in this district.

Pros. killed lacrosse and baseball here twelve years ago and there hasn't been interest here since. This city or any other town in the district can not afford to keep a lot of lazy ball players lounging around doing nothing. Let us stay with the amatuer game. Wattsburg, Creston, Yahk, Wycliffe, Wardner and Cranbrook are all favorable to purely local baseball. Let's play the game. A get-together of those favorable to amatuer baseball should be called and a get-together in the form of a little social evening with the ball players held to show our appreciation of their efforts of the past season. While Cranbrook was far from carrying off the honors in the East Kootenay Baseball League, they are to be congratulated on having a purely local team which. with regular practice, backed up by local enthusiasm and a few iron men, will force next year's league up to the stretch. How about a get-together? Talk 'er up.

High Average Mileage

Sometimes you find a tire that gives extraordinary mileage—one in a dozen perhaps. Whereas the average of mileage given by a dozen—or a hundred—Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" will be as high as that given by the exceptional ordinary tire.

It's the high average that counts—that cuts the cost of miles—that makes it worth while to get Ames Holden "Auto-Shoes" instead of ordinary tires.

No Changes Likely in Liquor Prices

Victoria, Sept 16.—Despite rumors that leading liquor interests demand more money for whiskey, with the ultimatum of cutting off supplies, there is no apparent chance of a change in liquor cost. It has been made plain, officially, that the prices are not apt to go up or down. This fact has been verified by Commisioner Falconer.

A Harvard Professor does not agree with the belief of astronomers that the moon is a dead planet and regards their statement as mere moonshine.

The swallows some days ago packed up all their little belongings and hied themselves off to southern climes. They were the first of our Spring and Summer visitors to notice the decline of the sun in his diurnal courses and leave to greet the return of Spring in another land. These swift-flying little creatures enjoy a distinct advantage over all other migrants of their kind. They can pick up provender as they go along, and doubtless are in prime fettle to undertake new domestic duties as soon as they arrive in the south. Peter McArthur, the Canadian humorist and philosopher, has been considering the swallow and its ways and speculating upon the possibility of mankind taking a lesson from its manners. Man has made unto himself wings and now can fly faster than anything wearing feathers. Therefore, Peter wonders how long it will be ere, yearning for perpetual Summer, great flights of airoplanes may be discerned in the heavens bearing multitudes of human beings down to the regions where the birds pass the Winters. The thing may come to pass in a modified sense long before the present generation is gathered to its fathers.—Exchange.

DIAGNOSIS OF CANCER

Attention was called recently by a medical man of high reputation and large experience to the rapid increase of deaths from cancer in the Scottish capital. This was followed by editorial comment in the Lancet, in which statistics were quoted to show that Edinburgh in this respect does not occupy a singular position and that this most dreaded of diseases is making more rapid headway in Great Britain and indeed throughout the world than any other of the serious ailments flesh is heir to, not excepting even consumption.

These authoritative statements are all the more startling when one considers the great advance in recent years in diagnosis and the fact that cancer is curable if recognized and treated in its earlier stages. This circumstances should have tended to reduce the mortality, but we find the mortality rising, not falling, in spite of all improvements and discoveries in medical science. It seems evident moreover, that enviornment plays a small part, as the well-to-do suffer equally with the poor. In particular instances both radium and the X-rays have undoubtedly effected cures, but the percentage of failures has been vastly greater than the number of cures, and the best medical opinion has long abandoned hope of being able to cope successfully with the disease by these means. As in the case of consumption, too, specifics which are periodically announced to the world are to be looked upon with suspicion. Even reputable physicians sometime allow enthusiasm to overcome their caution by proclaiming the discoveries of cures which are in every instance found unable to stand the test.

The truth would seem to be that the study of cancer must be conducted along the lines which at present appear to give most promise of valuable and lasting results. Since the disease is curable when recognized early enough, diagnosis would seem to be the key to the problem and the medical should bend their efforts in this direcetion in dealing with the disease. Meanwhile the experts of science will continue their experiments to discover the cause of cancer and its antidote, and in the light of what has been achieved in combating other human scourges there is hope that they will eventually succeed in greatly limiting it if not in its entire elimination.

THE IRONY OF THINGS

One only has to glance at the headlines of our provincial dailies to see the irony of fate in the world's happenings. Here is found pathetic little and big life stories of the ironies of fate in abject poverty, obscure martyrdom and the Gethsemane of life's struggle. Contrasting with these one also finds the extremes of wealth and plenty, this week's British Columbia headlines had these:

10,000,000 Russians Starving.
1,000 Attend Big Banquet.
Tiny Tots Expire; No Food.
Debutante's Dinner Cost $10,000.
Aged Man Expires in Gutter.
Chicken Salad Poisons 200.

Speaking of headlines, it may be a cheering contrast to turn from these sordid stories of life's pathos to the following whimsical little stories, also told in headlines this wek:

Goat Devours Clothesline.
Grandma Wallops Tramps.
Runaway Sheds Lingerie.
Ancient Hen Lays Twin Eggs.
Home Brew Cork Breaks Nose.

Toronto has taken over the street railway system of that city and promptly raised the fares. Detriot, Michigan, has operated its tramway system for a year and lost a large sum of money. Community operation seems to have a blighting effect upon certain public utilities.

WILL WORK PRISONERS

The regular meeting of the city council was held last evening with all members in attendance.

The minutes of the previous meeting were adopted as read.

The Chief of Police reported favorably on the application of the Fernie Hotel for a hotel license and it was accordingly approved.

The Fire Chief applied for 14 days leave of absence. This was referred to the fire, water and light committee for decision.

An offer to the city of $7000 worth of debentures maturing in 1940 was made. The finance committee were authorized to go into the matter.

The city clerk, in view of an application to take a certain lot out of the fire limits, was instructed to communicate with the Fire Underwriters Association as to what effect on rates in this city it would have to withdraw the strip of lots on Pellatt Avenue from Thompson street to Gemmill street from the present fire limits.

In connection with the establishment of the Special Health Area north of the city, further correspondence with the Provincial Health Department and Attorney General will be necessary before this question is definitely settled.

Another batch of prosecutions will be instituted against deliquents for garbage disposal fees. All those notified heretofore have either paid these charges or undertaken to pay.

The question of the city putting in the cement walk on the only remaining lot in the business section was taken up and owing to the city having done this work in two recent cases it was alleged considerable comment was current. It was pointed out that even allowing $4 per day for the labor of prisoners, this work had been completed at far below estimates of local contractors. The motion to construct the 30 feet in front of Dragon's barber shop was passed.

A motion by Aldermen Douglas and Corrie that no prisoners be used on this job was rejected.

ENFORCING LIQUOR ACT

The provincial government is apparently taking earnest proceedings in its endeavor to see that the Liquor Act is to be observed, at least in so far as our neighboring city, Cranbrook, is concerned. During the last week two hotel proprietors were grabbed by unknown agents for selling or keeping liquor for sale. One was that of J. Brown, proprietor of the Wentworth Hotel, the allegation being that he sold a bottle of whiskey to a stranger, who tendered a ten dollar bill for the purchase. This was found in Brown's possession when he was arrested immediately after the alleged transaction. He was tried before Magistrate Leask and sentenced to six months at Nelson. Last Sunday evening James Buchanan, proprietor of the Cross Keys Hotel, Cranbrook, was called to the room of a guest who had been stopping at that hotel for a couple of days and asked by the guest on account of assumed illness, if he could sell him a glass of liquor. "Scotty," as the proprietor is known hereabouts, according to the related facts, agreed, and departed for the refreshment or medicinal liquid. Returning to the room, he handed it in through the partly opened door and forthwith was firmly grasped by the Chief of Cranbrook Police. Scotty came up formally on Wednesday and intimated to the court that he would plead guilty to the charge and take the minimum penalty of six months at Nelson, but would like a day or so to arrange his affairs during his enforced absence. The formal plea of guilty being entered, sentence was deferred until Saturday next, as bail could not be granted after sentence was imposed. Two other liquor cases disposed of this week were the appeals by L. G. Clarke and W. McFarlane, proprietors of a pool room in Cranbrook, who had been convicted by the magistrate for having liquor for sale. Clarke's trial was commenced on Sept. 6th and lasted four days, when judgment was reserved. McFarlane's retrial was heard on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, both before His Honor Judge Thompson. Owing to the evidence adduced by McFarlane establishing as it were a complete alibi, and also as he was not at any time in charge of the conduct of the pool room business, he handling the livery and transfer branch of the firm, the appeal was allowed and the conviction quashed. In the case of Clarke however his defence was that the liquor found on the premises was there for his personal use, as he had arranged to leave the night it was discovered on a fishing expedition to Premier Lake, and intended taking it with him on that occasion. The court, however, did not hold this to be a probable story and in face of the other evidence adduced by the prosecution, found Clarke guilty, and sustained the conviction and six months sentence. Clarke has given notice that this case will be carried to the Court of Appeal and in the meantime is out on bail.

CLARK DREW FIVE YEARS

The final chapter in the counterfeiting case, which has aroused considerable interest locally along the Crow to the west, was concluded yesterday when Judge Thompson handed down judgment finding the accused T. L. Clarke, alias H. A. Morris, guilty, and acquitting the accused Chris F. Johnson. However, Johnson's freedom did not even permit him to get out of the court room, as Chief Lawson, at the instance of the R.C.M.P., served him with a warrant for arrest under the immigration regulations, it being stated by the authorities that they now desire to deport Johnson back to his native country, Norway, or at all events to the United States. The sentence upon Clarke was five years in the penitentiary at New Westminster, and in connection with the remaining charge, namely, passing $2000 worth of counterfeit money upon Benjamin J. Riley, of Yahk, this was traversed by the court until the criminal sittings of the county court during November of this year.

To take up the case from where it stood when we went to press last week, the following is taken from the Reason for Judgment by His Honor Judge Thompson:

Clarke and Johnson were now in Fernie, having tried Waldo and failed to obtain liquor. The first place they went to was Wilson's Livery Stable. They did not then go to Rogers but first went to try Wilson. There they found the witness Roe and asked him where they could buy some liquor. Roe told them that the best place was Rogers' and endeavored to find Rogers and get them in touch with him. Late at night Clarke and Roe located Rogers in his room and Clarke asked him to sell him some liquor, stating what he wanted. This Rogers agreed to do. Clarke asked him to let them have the liquor that night, which Rogers refused, stating that he could not get his customs papers out until the next day. Clarke then arranged to meet Rogers the following day and buy the liquor. Roe left him and he found Johnson. They then proceeded to Wilson's to put up their car. There they met Wilson and obtained 32 cases of liquor from him. What happened at this meeting I do not know. I am quite satisfied that Wilson is not telling the whole truth. Whether it was he or they who first suggested that the liquor should be obtained from him I cannot tell. The fact remains, however, that they did obtain their liquor from Wilson. Clarke paid over the money. Johnson was standing by the door. Nadon, an employee of Wilson's, was in the room. Wilson counted over the money and found that the amount was correct. They proceeded to his house, where, I believe, he, Nadon, Clarke and Johnson sacked up the liquor. It was then agreed that they should go out into the country some three miles towards Cranbrook and wait until Wilson came along with his car and the liquor, Wilson having agreed to carry the liquor as far as the border and guaranteeing them against any loss.

There are two ways in which liquor can be obtained and shipped. So far as the Canadian authorities are concerned, one is legal, the other illegal. Rogers was the manager of a licensed exporting company. He may openly ship liquor by any means of transport. He obtains his papers from the customs officials and so long as that liquor is in transit in Canada it cannot be touched. Wilson was not a licensed exporter; he was a bootlegger. Once he made the sale and bargain to ship his liquor it was liable to seizure and confiscation at any moment and he himself was liable to imprisonment for six months. No matter who shipped the liquor, whether it was Rogers or Wilson, the moment Clarke and Johnson took possession of it they ran the risk. If Clarke and Johnson believed that their money was genuine and if they were prepared to run the risk when the liquor was handed over to them, why not make the transportation of the liquor at all events from Fernie to somewhere below Yahk absolutely safe from seizure. From my observation of the two men, Rogers and Wilson, and from the business that they are engaged in, I would say that Rogers is a shrewd business man, perhaps not too scrupulous, but at all events ostensibly keeping within the law. Wilson on the other hand is a man with a certain degree of cunning in the bootlegging business, but without the business ability of Rogers. If Clarke and Johnson knew that the money was bogus, Rogers would be the last man they would go to. There they would have completed their transaction by day; they would have to pay over their money; so far as Rogers was concerned their transaction was legal, and even though the notes passed him, they would in the natural course of events be immediately deposited in the bank and the fraud discovered. Wilson's transactions on the other hand were illegal. At best he could not deposit his money until the next day supposing the notes had passed him, and as he was to convey the liquor to the line, in the ordinary course of events he would not be depositing his money until Wednesday, the 17th. In the meantime they would be well across the line. If they transacted their business with Rogers and he discovered that the notes were bogus, he would without hesitancy, being himself in a legal position, notify the authorities because he had nothing to fear. If they transacted their business with Wilson he would be afraid to notify the authortities because he would render himself liable to confiscation of the liquor and to six months imprisonment. These, it seems to me, were Clarke's deductions and the reason why they did business with Wilson.

Clarke and Johnson then undoubtedly proceeded along the road to Cranbrook. In the meantime Wilson began to worry about the 150 ten dollar bills. In all probability it was a big transaction for him. Though it was late at night he went to Roe in the Fernie Hotel; got him up and showed him the bills. Roe at once pronounced them counterfeit and Wilson proceeded to inform Constable Clarkston. It is rather a mystery to me why Wilson did this. All he needed to do was to keep possession of both bills and liquor. The men had tried to defraud him and he need take no steps at all. If he informed the authortities he himself might get into trouble and yet he informed the police. It seems to me that he was afraid he might be mixed up in a charge of having counterfeit money, a far more serious offence then selling liquor, and that he chose what was in his own mind the lesser of two evils.

In arriving at my conclusions, I do not do so upon the evidence of what occurred or did not occur after the arrest. I do so solely on what took place from the inception of the scheme to its end. So far as the accused Clarke is concerned, taking into consideration all the circumstances of the case, weighing very carefully the probabilities of his story, I cannot help but arrive at the conclusion that he was in possession of and used and dealt with the forged notes, knowing them at the time to be forged, and find him guilty.

So far as the accused Johnson is concerned; while he was engaged in an illicit transaction, at no time did he have the notes in question in his possession. When they were passed over to Wilson there is no evidence that he could see what was taking place; at best he was standing by the door. Neither Wilson nor Nadon took particular notice of him. While the finger of suspicion is pointed very strongly to his knowledge of the forgery, nevertheless there is some reasonable doubt and sitting as a jury I must acquit him.

THE EARLIEST TRADES UNIONS

The annual success of Labor Day is not remarkable. Nor is labor organization a modern aspect of civic life. The development of gilds, as the "unions" were originally called in England, dates back, in the case of craftsmen, to the ewelfth century. But earlier still were religious, benevolent, an dprotective gilds. The old kin-bond (which is still evident today in the family feuds of Kentucky) gave way gradually to protective associations ,and there is in existence a capitulary of 884, which prohibits villeins from forming "associations vulgarly called gilds" against those who have despoiled them. In the eleventh century there were gilds in England of widely varying purpose; some whose members afforded each other help in blood-feuds; others whose purpose was to grant assistance where property was destroyed by fire—a very early form of the mutual fire insurance company. Other gilds made the stlvation of members' souls their chief aim.

625,000 BOTTLES SOLD IN NEW YORK

Biggest Thing of Kind Ever Seen In That State, Declares Big Wholesaler

The fact that 625,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the state of New York since its introduction there less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East, for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George B. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Snow Company, the well-known wholesale druggists, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenominal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rates continues," said Mr. Evans, "this state alone will probably require considerably over 750,00 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this Statement."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

WILL FIGHT WAGE CUT

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 20. — No wage reduction of coal miners must be permitted and all resources of the minerss' union must be available to back up the policy in opposition to wage cuts, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, declared here today in his report made at the opening of the biennial convention of the international union.

He also recommended a postponement until next February of the miners' adoption of definite wage demands and declared that with all wage agreements expiring on March 31, 1922 "the full influence and economic power of our great membership may thus be utilized to the great advantage of our people for the achievement of our ideals."

Much of Mr Lewis' forty thousand-word report related to the wage question, apparently indicating that this would be among the most important business of the convention which brought together between 1500 and 1600 representatives of local unions scattered throughout the United States and Canada.

Other essential points of Mr. Lewis' report included a recommendation that the convention reaffirm its declaration of two years ago favoring nationalization of coal mines; a declaration that "the fight in Mingo county, West Virginia, must be won," and a recommendation that legal proceedings be instituted to make a full test of the constitutionality of the Kansas industrial court laws.

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY—AT THE ISIS

DOMINION GOVT. NEW CABINET

OTTAWA, Sept. 21.—(Can. Press)—The prime minister, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, had a couple of surprises when he announced his new cabinet this morning, after the ministers had been sworn in by his excellency, the governor-general, who returned to the city at 8:15 from Kingston. R. B. Bennett, K.C. of Calgary, succeeds Right Hon. Doherty as minister of justice, and R. J. Manion of Fort William, becomes minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment. Both of these men had been promiently mentioned but more recently it had been intimated that neither was likely to be included in the new cabinet.

Six ministers, Right Hon. C. J. Doherty, justice; Hon. J. D. Reid, railways and canals; Sir George Foster, minister of trade and commerce; Hon. W. R. Wigmore, minister of customs and excise; Hon. J. A. Calder, minister of immigration, and Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general, have retired.

There are nine new ministers with portfolio and two without portfolio. The new men are: J. A. Stewart, Lanark, minister of railways and canals; H. H. Stevens, Vancouver, trade and commerce; R. B. Bennett, K. C., Calgary, justice; R. J. Manion, Fort William, soldiers' civil re-establishment; L. P. Normand, Three Rivers, president of the privy council; J. B. M. Baxton, St. John, minister of customs; L. G. Belley, K. C., Quebec, postmaster-general; Dr. J. W. Edwards, Frontenac, minister of health, immigration and colonization; Rodolphe Monty, Montreal, secretary of state, and Edmund Bristol, K. C., of Toronto, and James Wilson, of Saskatoon, without portfolios.

The portfolios in which there is no change are:

Prime minister and minister of external affairs, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Finance, Sir Henry Drayton.

Militia, Hon. Hugh Guthrie.

Marine and naval, Hon. C. C. Ballantyne.

Public works, Hon. F. B. McCurdy.

Interior, Sir James Lougheed.

Agriculture, Hon. S. F. Tolmie.

Labor, Hon. G. D. Robertson.

Sir Edward Kemp and Hon. E. K. Spinney (Yarmouth and Clare) remain as ministers without portfolio.

The post of solicitor-general remains to be filled and an announcement as to this portfolio is expected in a day or so. Right Hon. C. J. Doherty is to be appointed to another office but as yet the premier has not indicated what that office will be.

Of the old ministers who retired. Hon. J. A. Calder, Hon. J. D. Reid and Sir George Foster, are understood to be slated for the senate, and Hon. R. W. Wigmore for another appointment outside. Hon. P. E. Blondin, postmaster-general, is already a member of the seate.

The new cabinet met this morning in the privy council chamber immediately after the ministers had been sworn in. An announcement as to dissolution is expected tomorrow.

Three members of the reorganized Meighen cabinet have yet to be sworn in. They are R. B. Bennett of Calgary, Dr. R. J. Manion, Fort William and James Wilson of Saskatoon, minister without porfolio. It is understood that they are, or will shortly be, on their way to Ottawa and that they will be sworn in soon.

For Every Milk Purpose—Carnation

because it is doubly rich

USE Carnation wherever you use ordinary milk. But remember to dilute with an equal amount of water. This restores the natural volume and content of whole milk, and is necessary because one tall can of Carnation is twice as rich as one quart of ordinary milk. Carnation contains a minimum of 7.8% butterfat; whole milk and sterilized canned milk contain an average of only 3.5% to 4% butterfat. That is double richness. It is more economical than ordinary milk—no waste. Ask your grocer for a price on a dozen cans, and try this pure milk for a week.

FOR THE DAINTIEST TEA BISCUITS—CARNATION

One quart flour, 1 level teaspoonful salt, 2 heaping teaspoonfuls baking powder, 1 large tablespoonful of butter or lard, 6 tablespoonfuls Carnation Milk, 7 tablespoonfuls water, or enough to make soft dough. Sift flour, baking powder and salt into a bowl. Rub in with the hands the butter or lard until well mixed. Add Carnation Milk and water. Roll out about half an inch thick, cut and bake in a quick oven for 15 minutes. The secret of biscuit making is to have the ingredients cold, the mixture put together rapidly, and the oven the right temperature when biscuits are put in.

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

Choking and Gasping for Breath Relieved by "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

MRS. PENNINGTON

NEW ROCKLAND, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered with it during the winter. I began having Choking Spells—gasping for breath and could not speak. I would have one of these bad spells in the evening, one during the night, and one in the morning. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

"In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and in a few days, the choking spells stopped, and I have had none since May 7th, 1920. I have so wanted to tell other sufferers who have the same trouble about "Fruit-a-tives" for I know how they must suffer.

Some thought the Asthma would come back on me as winter came on but it has not, thanks to "Fruit-a-tives" Mrs. J. M. PENNINGTON.

IT NEVER GOES DRY

From an up-Coast Bay comes a letter from Mrs. J. Hobson, who is the proud discoverer of a new reason for using Pacific Milk. "I got milk from my neighbor's cows," said she, "but we were always being told that there was none today, the cows had gone dry. The Pacific Milk cow never goes dry. And the cow's milk looked like water after Pacific Milk so back I went to Pacific."

LIFE INSURANCE AT ACTUAL COST

THE MUTUAL OF CANADA is so organized that it is actually selling life insurance at cost—the only old line company incorporated in the Dominion operating on that principle. Shareholders do not figure in the Mutual Life. There are no "middlemen." All surplus is credited solely to the policy-holders and is used for their exclusive benefit. These profits may be drawn in cash; they may be used to reduce the premiums or employed to purchase increased insurance. In any case the result is to reduce the insurance to a net cost basis. There are many other advantages in the Mutual system. Before placing your insurance get in touih with a "Mutual" agent—he will give you all detai's.

WHITE SPRUCE BESTS FERNIE

On Sunday last the ball players of the two local clubs took advantage of what may be their last chance to stage a game this year. Donning the uniforms after being ardent spectators during the big games on Labbor Day, the players engaged in a friendly encounter in the City Park, White Spruce finally emerging victorious by the score of 6 to 2.

Rain threatened to mar the game in the earlier innings and on several occasions the spectators had to take refuge in the refreshment booths until the showers were over.

The game was fairly evenly contested up to the seventh when successive hitting in the 7th and 8th innings enabled White Spruce to assume a comfortable lead. Bishop, hurling for the winners had his opponents well in hand all the way, allowing only 4 scattered hits, while Callihan was touched up for hits when hits meant runs. Both Fernie's runs were scored by J. Hovan on some daring base-running aided by the rain getting on the 'umps' specks. Ward Thomas of the W.S. handled the indicator only after making sure no pop bottles were procurable.

MUST HAVE MONEY IN HAND

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—Regulations governing the admission to Canada of immigrants, published in last week's Canada Gazette, provide that each must have at least $250 in his possession in addition to a sum sufficient to cover land transportation charges. In the case of immigrants under eighteen years, the sum of $125 is required, while parents must possess $50 for each child under the age of five.

These regulations are waived in favor of farm laborers and domestic servants and in favor of persons travelling to join their families.

The entry into Canada is prohibited of persons not in possession of a valid passport issued by the governments of their respective countries. These passports must be presented within one year of their issue and if not British passports must be vised by a British diplomat or consular officer. This regulation is not intended to apply to British subjects coming to Canada either directly or indirectly from the United Kingdom, the United States or any of the self-govering dominions or to citizens of the United States or to persons who have resided in the United States for at least one year.

To Fight Fire-Damp

Fire-damp is the great emeny of the collier, and it is peculiarly insidious inasmuch as it collect without giving any sign to the senses of its peresence. Many attempts have been made to devise a reliable detector, and it is interesting to learn that very promising experiments have been carried out by the British Ministry of Mines with a new form of instrument for this purpose. This instrument relies for its operation upon the expansion of liquid in a glass tube. It is now undergoing extensive trials underground, and the final result will be awaited with keen interest.

Unemployment — Freight Rates — — and the Railways

THE indicator of true prosperity is employment. The presence of unemployed men, unemployed machinery, unemployed railway equipment, and unemployed capital in Canada is reason enough, therefore, for every large Canadian business interest to study its relation to the general problem—to see whether anything in its power remains to be done to advance the general prosperity of the country.

IN this connection the railway companies have been specially interested. Frieght rates touch everyone, and because they touch everyone, are always close to the public consciousness and more conveniently attacked than the true causes of depression which are less easily discerned and more difficult, if not, indeed, impossible, to control.

FURTHERMORE, the railways while joining with everyone else in the general agitation for deflation of prices and wages—found themselves recently in the seemingly anomalous position of demurring when it was proposed to lower rail rates, they were made to appear as though they were endeavoring with one hand to put wages down and with the other hand to keep rates up, thereby securing for their own treasuries instead of passing on to the Canadian public, any saving effected on the wage rolls. They were placed in the equivocal position of having urged blanket increases of rates when wages went up—and of opposing blanket decreases when wages were seemingly decreased.

THE following statement is offered, therefore, with a view to exhibiting what the railways believe to be the true relation of railway freight rates to the question of unemployment, outlining the history of Canadian rates, explaining something of the ground work of rate making and clearing up the seeming anomalies referred to, so that none may remain as possible causes for future weakening of confidences between the public and the carriers.

Freight Rates and Unemployment

With a large part of the world's population idle or only partially efficient, owing to wars or disturbed political conditions, with inventors in many parts of the world almost afraid to expose their inventions, organizers afraid to organize, capital hesitating to invest, a corresponding proportion of world production is missing. The total of goods available for the world is less than normal, those who do not produce, speaking generally, cannot buy, few purchasers, few sales, little employment, this is the great worldwide fundamental of the unemployed situation.

The condition is international, not local to Canada. If Canadian railway rates were a determining factor in making the sale prices of our export goods, in other words, if Canadian prices were higher in international markets than the goods of our competitors, then railway rates would be contributing to unemployment in Canada by depressing our sales abroad, lowering the number of our customers and the orders coming to our producers.

But in the first place the real effect of freight rates on price making a debatable point. This is proven.

(1) By the fact that prices fell last fall after rates were increased, instead of rising, as the retail trades had prophesied.

(2) By the fact that a ten per cent. reduction on western coal rates, offered in order to stimulate coal movement in the summer months, was followed by a drop in the coal tonnage offering, instead of an increase.

In the second place, assuming for the purpose of argument, they did have serious effect. Canadian export rates are lower and not higher than the rates in countries with which Canada may be compared. Mile for mile the haul from western Canadian points to the head of navigation is cheaper than in the United States. The export rate on grain is lower than it was last August.

In other words, in international competition on her chief items of export, Canada is helped by her railway rates. So far as international trade is concerned, they are alleviating unemployment rather than aggravating it.

Inside Canada the same is true. Although it is a very difficult point to prove or disprove, the railways of Canada are sincere in claiming that, by and large, goods are carried more cheaply in Canada than in the United States. Canada had one blanket reduction of five per cent. last January, whereas there is still no decrease nor immediate prospect of a blanket decrease in the United States.

The Trend of Freight Rates

With the exception of war and post-war conditions, the whole tendency of freight rates in this country, as in any other progressive country of its kind, is downward. As Canada's population arises, as our industries multiply and the density of traffic becomes more nearly like that of older countries, some of the principal costs of railway service can be subdivided among a great number of shippers and travellers, levying on each, therefore, a smaller fraction of these costs than before. For twenty years prior to the war, traffic was on the increase. For twenty years, therefore, the railways have been adjusting rates downward—quite apart from special decreases put in effect by the board of railway commissioners. The revisions have been skillfully applied by experienced, practical economists, that is, by the freight traffic experts of the railways, whose business it is to know all branches of industry intimately so that the benefit of these voluntary rate adjustments would go to "Key Commodities," thus stimulating further growth of the country, increase in traffic, and in the end, further reduction of rates. The difference between giving a reduction to a "key industry," rather than spreading over all kinds of goods, is illustrated in the case of a certain small railway which by concentrating rate reduction on lumber enabled the mills of that region to remain open and the people to remain at work, whereas if the effect of the reduction had been scattered over all the goods carried by that road each family would have been able to save a small handful of silver in a year (provided the decreased rates had been passed on as decreased prices by storekeepers)—but there would have been almost no employment.

So much for the day to day reductions arranged on thousands of articles by the traffic deparments of the roads. In 1907 a substantial reduction in eastern rates was made. In 1914 a very material cut was applied in the west. So that the transcontinental lines entered the war period with a depressed earning power.

Now while all—even the railways—see the desirability for low freight rates, there are certain limits beyond which no one urges reductions. Of course, there are theorists, such as Mr. Bernard Shaw, who believed that all railway service should be free. But leaving aside views so far in advance, as yet, of public opinion, it is assumed by most people that a railway will give best of service at least cost because, of course, even free railways must be paid for by the taxpayer—when their managements are allowed to show their mettle by meeting the obligations of their properties out of their earnings. It is usually recognized that these obligations fall into two groups:--

Group One—To pay their employees, to pay for current supplies of materials, such as coal, etc.; to pay for repairs and replacements.

Group Two—To pay such a wage or hire for the use of the capital which built these railways as will make Canadian railway securities always desirable and easily marketed, whether as bonds or stocks. This involves more than the mere payment of the established rate of dividend in the case of privately owned roads. It involves the earning also of some surplus—a safety margin of income over expenditure which will insure investors of complete safety. This principal of a surplus was definitely established by the judgment of the board of railway commissioners in 1914, under the chairmanship of Sir Henry Drayton—and upheld by its judgment of 1920, when the matter was again considered exhaustively. On this principle rests Canada's ability to enter the money markets whenever she may need and feel confident of bringing back funds for extending her railways as she may require in the future.

War conditions, following the western and eastern rate adjustments brought the railway managements sharply up against these fundamental problems. Comparing the governments figures for 1907 against 1919—the last year for which the railway blue book is available—the wage bill of the railways rose 306 per cent., coal 345 per cent., ties 320 per cent. But neither the volume of traffic or the scale of freight rates increased in comparable degree during that period. The actual revenue per ton mile, which is the real proof or disproof of the matter, advanced only twenty per cent. over 1907. The year 1920 enlarged the discrepancy, although an increase of 35 per cent. on western lines and 40 per cent. in the east was supposed to yield enough additional revenue to meet the increased wages. The increased wages were effective from May first—the increased rates not until September. The effectiveness of that increase depended on the volume of traffic remaining at a fairly high level. It did so for a time, then began to drop. Today it is very low. Nevertheless a five per cent. decrease was applied in January. For the first six months of 1921 as compared to the first six months of 1920 the volume of traffic on the most fortunately situated Canadain road fell 26.72 per cent. and its revenue on this business, in spite of the high rates, fell 11.14 per cent.

The net result of these changes has been a state of emergency in the offices of even the most fortunately situated of all Canadian roads. Wages could be paid and bills met on time. Even the usual dividend was paid and a very slight surplus, one of the factors in maintaining the reputation of Canadian railway securities, was earned but this was only done by deferring work that must ultimately be done on current account. Such economies cannot long be continued without eating too far into the broad safety margin which the Canadian roads maintain. Nothing but slackened speed of trains and reduced Canadian industrial efficiency can result if these savings have to be long continued. Falling traffic still further aggravates the condition, maintenance cannot continue to be sacrificed to protect the credit of our railway securities. Neither can be neglected.

In May the managements approached the task of reducing their wage bills. For the first time in many years it was the managements and not the men who were taking the initiative. They had been forced to adopt the war time incresases granted in the United States, where 92 per cent of the members of the railway union lie. Therefore when the reverse movement was undertaken in that country the Canadian roads at once gave due notice and a provisional and conditional decrease of roughly 10 per cent., corresponding to the same movement in the United States, was put in effect, tentatively as from July 15th. This reduction has not been accepted by the United States membership of the unions, where a vote is being taken on the question, nor by the Canadian membership, who have applied for a board of conciliation. Every resource of the managements will be used to sustain this imperatively necessary and only too moderate reduction of their wage bills, which account for sixty per cent of the cost of operation. They are compelled to regard the matter as still unsettled and, therefore, not to be considered as a basis for the reduction of railway rates, a view which a majority of the board of railway commissioners has just expressed in its judgment.

In Conclusion

The railway managements welcome deflation of railway rates and are working steadily toward that end. On two grounds, however, they asked that any general decrease be deferred:

First—Because the so-called wage decreases are not yet assured and cannot be until the parallel decreases in the United States, where 92 per cent of the union membership lies (and where no freight reductions have been ordered) are settled.

Second—Because the volume of traffic in the immediate future is problematical and any serious decline, if coupled with a decrease in rates, would have a very grave effect on even the most favorably situated managements.

The railways have spoken against blanket decreases on the grounds that it would be in the interests of the country as a whole to concentrate any beneficial effect to be expected on "key commodities" rather than distribute them over all classes of goods, thereby benefiting only the distributors.

They have been actuated throughout by the desire to assist in the process of deflation, objecting only when that process might seem to threaten their solvency and injure them, and through them, the ultimate interests of the Canadian public.

But in our hearts we love him still.

Could I, his mother, have clasped his hand,
The son I loved so well;
To kiss his brow when death was nigh
And whispered (Thomas) farewell.

CHILDREN WILL ENJOY CLEAN COMEDY SCENES IN "THE LITTLE CLOWN"

A comedy drama that will appeal to picture lovers of all ages is "The Little Clown," the latest Mary Miles Minter release, which comes to the Orpheum Theatre Monday and Tuesday.

There is love interest in the story, of course, but the picture is happily lacking in any of the 'sex stuff' which has brought reproach on many of the most sumptuous motion picture productions of the last year or two.

All children love motion pictures, and parents may well be grateful to Realart for the clean, wholesome stories in which they present Miss Minter.

"The Little Clown" is full, from beginning to end, of delightful comedy situations which will please the most blase picture patron, yet which are perfectly suitable for a juvenile audience to see.

A real circus, one of the few wagon outfits left in this country, was hired to put on the circus scenes, which are so realistic that probably every daddy in town will make an excuse for seeing this picture, just as dads habitually take their youngsters to the circus so they can see it themselves.

"The Little Clown" is a new comedy by Avery Hopwood, that versatile playwright who has had the unusual record of four plays running in New York at once, all during the 1920-21 theatrical season. This comedy of circus life will not be played on the stage until after the film production has been released for many months.

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of Mrs. Ellison Paton, who died on Sept. 16, 1920.

Twelve long months have passed and gone
Since God took our dear daughter home.
'Twas hard to part from one so dear,
But now she dwells forever there.

Her suffering here on earth was great
But she bore it all for Jesus' sake.
Her memory is as sweet today
As at the hour she passed away.

We'll meet again on that bright shore
Where partings there will be no more,
For God shall wipe all tears away,
And praise him through an eternity.

LECTURER BOOSTS FERNIE

(By J. F. Spalding)

On the 9th of this month Fernie was visited by two very well known ladies from across the border, Dr. Best, a physician and lecturer, and Mrs. Shipman. These ladies were touring Western Canada, and especially British Columbia, gathering data for a lecture tour which Dr. Best will be making throughout the States next year. Mrs. Shipman has been taking photographs, of which she will make lantern slides by which Dr. Best's lectures will be illustrated.

They had been to Nelson and accompanied the local Alpine Club on their climb to the Kokanee Glacier. From there they had intended originally to go to Watertown Lakes, thence to Montana, but whilst at Nelson they came across one of our last year's booklets and to use Dr. Best's own words: "After looking through it we thought that we should see something of that district also, and as Fernie seemed to be the scenic centre we decided to stay off there and interview Mr. Spalding." They wired me and asked me to meet them at the train, which I did, and took them to one of the hotels. They both had bad colds but wanted to climb one of our mountains, for which I made arrangements for the following day. Unfortunately the weather turned out unsuitable for climbing, so they spent most of the day in resting and gathering data. On Sunday I drove them down to Elko, and in spite of bad weather and poor visibility, they marvelled at the splendid scenery on the way and expressed themselves as spellbound at the canyon, which they rambled around in considerably.

These ladies have spent ten weeks to three months every summer the last five years at Banff and other resorts along the main line, and have climbed every peak which has been climbed, being the first ever to reach the summit of several of the most difficult. They have seen practically all there is to be seen in the Canadian Rockies now, and assured me that South Eastern B.C., and particularly this section of it, surpassed anything they have ever seen before. They have taken a number of pictures themselves and also have some of mine. Dr. Best said that she will speak principally about these parts and Nelson in her forthcoming lectures. Not only have these ladies visited the Canadian Rockies; they have toured England and Continental Europe, Hawaii and the Phillippines and are now planning a world tour for the near future.

Dr. Best told me that she was greatly interested in walking tours, such as are conducted in Switzerland, and has started up several walking, or hiking, clubs in her home state of Minnesota. Others are being started up elsewhere, and their main objective is walking tours through the mountain districts of the States and Canada. At the present time she is particularly interested in finding out a favorable route connecting Glacier and Watertown Parks with an outlet to Elko, and they left here on Monday evening's train for Crow's Nest. They took the local from there to Pincher Creek on Tuesday, so as to see Crow's Nest mountain and the Frank slide by daylight, and were going to Watertown Lakes and from there would go east via Cardston.

Before leaving here they complimented Fernie on its progressive spirit and expressed regret that they had met so little of this elsewhere on the Canadian side. They felt sure that as a direct result of their visit this district would benefit greatly, and that we could expect quite a few motoring parties from Minnesota next summer amongst whom they hoped to be.

The season, though far advanced, is not over yet by any means. There are two or three parties in the camp site most nights, and when the threshing is finished the farmers from the prairies will be coming through in increased numbers this year, on their way to Oregon and California points.

Even though this season is not yet ended, preparations are already being made all over the country for next season. I have just received a letter from the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, stating that one of the leading outing magazines in the States have notified them that they are going to devote the entire space in one of their forthcoming numbers to motoring in the Pacific Northwest, and asked me to secure copy and photographs for it. They in turn have asked me to write 1000 words on this district and illustrate it with some of my best photos, and send it to them within the next week for inclusion.

Our new Tourist Association will soon commence vigorius operations. We formed it with Lethbridge, Fernie, Cranbrook and Nelson Boards of Trade. Since then Grand Forks, Trail, Pincher Creek and Cardston have joined, and several others are favorably considering doing so. We expect that we shall have most of the boards on our membership before we finally close the list. With the exception of the Pacific Northwest Tourist Association, which is backed by the governments of British Columbia, Washington and Oregon, our Association will be the only one on the whole American continent backed by such responsible bodies as boards of trade. Every other tourist association or bureau in the country is run as a money making concern, either as a private or corporate enterprise, receiving fees from recommended hotels, railroads, etc., and commissions on sales and reservations. The average tourist knows this and that the places which subscribe the most are best recommended, and therefore treats the information he gets from them with certain skepticism. On the other hand, with us he will know that our recommendations are sincere and not inspired by commercialism. It is my firm conviction that our Association will very soon become a very influential factor in the motoring element of North America, and that the results of its activities will ultimately prove a vast financial benefit to each of the communities in its membership.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL

On the 29th instant the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce was the scene of a very impressive ceremony at which a plaque in memory of the 1701 men who enlisted from the Bank of Commerce in the Great War was unveiled. The bank was tastefuly decorated with autumn leaves and a large and representative gathering of the people of this community was present. Proceedings were opened by a prayer by Rev. Hamilton Brown, who saw service as chaplain with the C.E.F. Dr. Bonnell, M.P., who also saw service with the army at Salonica, spoke fittingly on the subject, making mention of the fact that no less than 260 men of this bank had died in the service of their country and that 258 decorations had been awarded for bravery. The plaque was then unveiled by Mrs. A. B. Trites, as Regent for the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. W. R. Wilson then spoke and in his speech expressed the desire that the day would not be far distant when the people of this community would see their way clear to erect a good and sensible monument to the memory of the hundreds of soldiers who had left this town. Rev. Father Kennedy closed by offering benediction, after which the audience joined in singing "God Save the King."

The plaque is of beaten bronze and bears the names of the four men who enlisted from this branch, one of whom paid the supreme sacrifice, the other three having returned to the service of the bank.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT

A very serious auto accident to J. Bretin, a visitor from Montana, was narrowly averted on Wednesday night, when a Hudson Super-Six driven by him went over the embankment on the government road at the sharp turn on the Brewery hill. Bretin was approaching the city at about 8 o'clock in the evening, travelling at a good speed, and owing to the rain which was falling at the time his vision was blurred by water on the windshield, and he failed to notice the sharp turn to the right to proceed down the hill in question, with the result that the car smashed into the railing along the embankment, demolishing it and allowing the car to precipitate to the bottom 20 feet below. The car sommersaulted and rested upside down but the lone occupant was thrown clear and escaped with minor injuries.

THAT LIQUOR HOLDUP CASE

In connection with the reported holdup and robbery of Wm. Kerr, of Dorr, when about $8000 worth of liquor was stolen a few weeks ago, with the receipt of information from the police of Salt Lake City, Utah, that M. Gorrie, for whom a warrant had been issued here for alleged implication in this affair, had been arrested, the local headquarters of the provincial police this morning announced that this makes the fourth arrest in connection with this case. It is now stated that within 36 hours following the receipt of the report of the robbery from Kerr, through the assistance of the Montana state officials and the Kalispell sheriff, three men were taken into custody, namely, H. A. Henderson, presumably a resident of Salt Lake, and who already has a record in police circles; Dave Gorrie, brother of M. Gorrie, just apprehended, well known in this city and who has lived on the family ranch at Roosville, not far removed from Kerr's premises; and J. Robinson, who gives the alias of Hansen, when arrested at Kalispell, but who, according to local police records, under the name of Robinson got into difficulties through alleged illicit trafficking, and also in connection therewith a Dodge automobile which was seized by the customs officials and stored in a local garage. It was discovered one morning that the garage had been broken into and the said Dodge car has totally disappeared since that time, as also did Robinson until he was gathered into the toils through his association with the suspects in the present liquor coup. There is still at large another suspect, well known to the police, but who so far has eluded the net spread out for the capture of the gang alleged to be responsible for the Kerr robbery. It is understood that all those at present under arrest will fight extradition back to Canada but in view of the evidence so far gathered by the respective police departments it is thought there should be no difficulty in bringing them back here to stand trial.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Should an innocent man who has been sent to prison on circumstantial evidence seek escape or should he resign himself to fate and serve the term? This is the question which confronts Thomas Meighen, Paramount star, in his latest picture, "The City of Silent Men," which will be shown at the Orpheum, Friday and Saturday.

Jim Montgomery might have chosen the latter alternative, had it not been for the fact that his mother was dying from grief. He makes his escape, but arrives home just in time to see his mother's funeral cortge leaving the home. He goes west, and in a new land, builds his life anew. He is traced by a detective, and he knows that he can be identified by his fingerprints. How does he win his freedom? The answer is one of the strongest and most sensational climaxes ever viewed on the screen. Lois Wilson is the leading woman, and Kate Bruce, Paul Everton, George MacQuarrie and Guy Oliver round out the cast.

GOT DAMAGES FOR ACCIDENT

An action for damages resulting from a collision between two automobiles some four or five miles east of the city during June last was heard before His Honor Judge Thompson and a civil jury in the county court last week. The plaintiff, C. Dimele, storekeeper of Coleman, sued the British Columbia and Alberta Power Co., the owner of the second car, for some $400, same being the cost he claimed to repair the car. The plaintiff alleged that the driver of the Power Co. car, when the two vehicles suddenly met near a curve on the road, became excited and instead of keeping to his own side of the road veered to the left and crashed into his car, which he contended was in its proper place on the road. The defendant company denied this and alleged that owing to the excessive speed at which the plaintiff was travelling there had not been time for its car to turn out to the right. The jury in addition to hearing the evidence by both sides, took a view at the scene of the accident, and returned a verdict entirely in favor of the plaintiff, Dimele. The court thereupon gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff in the full amount asked, together with costs, and dismissed a counterclaim presented by the company with costs.

FAILURE OF COMMUNISM

By Sir Hall Caine.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—What had been happening in the country? Things had been going as the peasant expected. Towns, grown out of all proportions had been impossible to maintain. In Siberian towns the general rule had been seven persons to one room and the country could not feed them. Even in Southern Russia, the never-ceasing influx of people had been too much for the resources of the country. The towns had wanted food, and for the little of this the country had been able to supply, the towns had only paid in paper, which was useless because it was unable to buy anything the country wanted.

The demobilized masses had returned from the Great War, but such of them as belonged to the towns had not resumed normal industrial work because they had been short of raw materials and had no assurance of safety of transport for their goods. But that had not been the worst by any means, soldiers of the Red army had had to be kept and the Soviet Government had compelled the country to keep them. Their method of doing so had been a form of legalized robbery.

By this system the farmer who had saved and stored his corn had had it taken away from him without warning by guards of the Red army. It had been a tax, therefore. There had been no thought of paying for it, even in paper money. There had been scenes of violence and blodshed, especially in the valley of the Volga, but the end had always been the same.

The dream of the peasants had been dispelled. Instead of having everything, they found they had nothing. The result had been a natural one. Human beings, even when they are only Russian mouijiks, can not be treated like dumb, driven cattle. The peasants had ceased to cultivate any more land than had been necessary to provide their families with their daily wants. In the meantime a similar spirit had been stiring in the towns. The suicidal attempt begun in Petrograd and Moscow to nationalize all industries at one stroke had been operating all over Russia, particularly on the banks of the Volga. The result was reckless spending and wasting in all trades and professions. Animals had been used until they dropped dead in the streets, trains had been run without repair until the locomotives broke down.

Steamers and barges on the river had been uncared for until they were no longer fit to use even in summer weather. Factories had been closed down and houses left to take care of themselves until the roofs fell in. All waste, waste, waste. It had been monstrously wrong and wicked, but it had been according to human nature. The Soviet Government in its blindness, had struck a deadly blow at that one sense which, above all others, an enlightened government seeks to keep alive and extend to all classes—the sense of security. In Russia, since the Bolshevist rule began, there had been no security.

But worse than the material waste had been the moral injury. After three years of Bolshevist rule the Russian peasant was a man without proper pride and therefore without strength. "What do I care what happens?" he said. All hope was gone. He had no joy in life, no fear in death. Such was the moral economic condition of a great part of Russia at the end of 1920.

Then suddenly the men of the Kremlin began to be aware they had made a mistake. Their dream was also dispelled. Having everything they had nothing. The real wealth of the country had not been in the palaces they had pillaged, but in the land and what came out of it. Soil and labors of the husbandman had been the only real wealth of Russia and they had gone far to ruin both.

The Soviet Government began to see that if the famine was not to come something had to be done. Then Leonid Krassin in London, and afterwards Lenine in Moscow, admitted they had treated the peasants badly. But the belated remorse of the Soviet Government was not unmixed with suspicion "The peasants are keeping something up their sleeves," they thought. "They are not all destitute. Some of them have stores of corn which they are hiding away."

It was partly true. In South Russia and Siberia, where, by reason of distance, the grip of the Soviet Government was not very tight, some peasants had been able to evade the requisition of the Red Guards. Torture might have enabled the guaards to compel the peasants to disclose the secrets of their hiding places, but why kill the goose that laid the golden egg? Had they not done enough of that already? The government thought of a better plan. They would make peace with the peasants.

The army wanted food and must have it or Bolshevist rule would come to an end. But the peasants wanted shoes, clothes, implements, candles matches and oil, and they would only give up their corn in exchange for them. There was just one thing to do and one alone—to get these things from foreign countries.

It was a bitter pill to the Bolshevists to have to ask for help of the capitalist governments but they had to swallow it somehow. Premier Lenine said, "I realize now that the day of communism has not yet come, therefore I am willing to deal with capital."

So the Soviet Government drew us fairy tales of the vast wealth of Russia in grain and sent representatives to Europe to fix up treaties of trade. The response they received was such as to make them objects of pity. They had lied so often about what was going on in Russia that they were not believed now that they were telling something like the real truth.

France said in effect: "You are a government of robbers and assassins and we will not touch a coin of your blood-stained money."

America said: "You are not a government at all, therefore go back and get your credentials from your own people before presume to speak to the executive of a free nation."

Great Britain alone of the great nations concluded a treaty, coupled with guarantees about propaganda, which the Soviet Government has never observed, and can never observe without cutting the throat of their Bolshevist principles.

What was the result? Down to the end of 1920 certain goods, insignificant in bulk, arrived in Russia, from Germany, Sweden, Poland, Greece, Great Britain and America. A greater part of these found their way to Moscow and remained there. Civil war had diminished all means of transport. The railways were not equal to one-thousandth part of their normal work and the river transport was not capable of one-hundredth of what it did before the war. Therefore the only effect of the attempt at trade with the foreign countries was that life became a little easier for people in Moscow and Petrograd by reason of the goods, which had been delivered there and had remained there.

Thus the first effort of the Soviet Government to stave off the famine, which they well knew was coming, by an appeal to capitalist governments had failed miserably. In the meantime what was happening in the country? The peasants in the South, who had stores of grain, were safe from starvation, but those in the Volga region and 650 miles to the east of it, where the requisitions had been most severe, were scraping out a miserable existence on what little was left of their reserves. At the beginning of 1921 hardly anything remained except, the seed they had to sow in the spring.

Nobody who was not stone blind to what had been going on in Russia since 1914 had any excuse for not seeing that the great famine would come thus, whatever the climatic conditions might be.

WONDERFUL GAIN IN WEIGHT REPORTED

Young Woman Only Weighed 76 Pounds—Now Weighs Over 100 And Is Gaining Every Day.

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss LaRue Davis, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand, and can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Tanlac is sold in Fernie by Strachan Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

STRANGE TALE TOLD OF MUMMY'S CURSE

An eerie story of a mummy with a curse, is told by Mr. Frederic Villiers, dean of war-correspondents and artists, in his book "Villiers," which has just been published. The mummy was brought from Egypt by one of his friends, Walter Ingram. On its breast was a papyrus predicting that any person who disturbed it would die a violent death and his bones be scattered to the wind and swept into the sea. Some months later the curse was fulfilled. Ingram went wild-game shooting; was trampled under foot and killed by a rogue elephant, and "his bones were washed by heavy rains into the sea."

Villiers has taken part in every war since 1870, and has more varied experiences than probably any man living. He speaks in the most intimate fashion of many famous men whose names are fast becoming remote.

Through all his adventures he passed scathless, though he was arrested in the great war by the French for execution as a spy; was stung by a scorpion in the Soudan; and narrowly escaped drowning in one of the Nile campaigns. He obeyed Archibald Forbes' famous rules for a correspondent: "You must always get away before your communications are cut; you must not be taken prisoner, for then you will be out of business completely; you must not get wounded, for then you become a useless expense to your paper; and if you get killed you will be an infernal fool."

The tone of the lumber market is steadily improving. Export shipments from B.C. are recommencing. A contract was let last week by the Canadian Robert Dollar Co. to Grant Bros. for the logging of 15,000,000 feet of lumber at Mud Bay.

In Any Recipe Calling for Milk

Use Carnation for every milk purpose, but observe the rule of double richness and

To ½ cup of Carnation add ½ cup of water and stir.

Always dilute Carnation with an equal amount of water in any recipe calling for milk. This is necessary because a tall can of Carnation is nearly twice as rich as a quart of whole milk. On fruits and cereals, or to cream tea and coffee, use this richer milk just as it comes from the can. Or if you require a whipping cream, use Carnation (see recipe). All grocers sell tall and baby sizes.

AIM TO RID CITY OF "UNDESIRABLES"

A special squad of plainclothes men will scour the city under Police Commission orders issued Thursday to rid Vancouver of vagrants and petty thieves prior to the return of men who will constitute the unemployed class this winter. Chief Anderson received definite orders to proceed with this special duty at once, as numerous "drifters" had already arrived, and the petty crime sheet at headquarters showed already the need for immediate action.

"We wish it made known far and wide that Vancouver will be a very unhealthy place for undesirables characters," said Mayor Gale. "Let us take time by the forelock, and before this unemployment situation grows more acute let us give this city a thorough scouring to round-up all those undesirables we now have. As sign to special duty all the men needed to make this clean-up. Do not confine it to the down-town sections, but let us also have a good patrol service through the outlying sections.

"There are now many men unable to give a good acount of themselves. We don't want such characters loose. Go the limit and get results. Put on a day and night service that will show the citizens that we mean business, and mean to handle things this winter in a business-like way, which will make it very hard picking for the crook or professional loafer, who may have decided to sojourn here. We don't want half-measures. Put all the men on this duty you deem necessary, and if you wish increase the number from time to time," the mayor concluded.

The chief replied that in view of increasing vagrancy and petty thieving he had already inagurated a special assignment squad, but that with the instructions from the commission he would enlarge his original plans and guarantee results, as the men of the force were as eager to clean up the city as were the commissioners themselves.—Vancouver Province.

TUXIS BOYS AND TRAIL RANGERS

BY Firelighter

WHEN A BOY SHOULD FIGHT

A boy attending a preparatory school caused his father considerable surprise when his report card reached home, by having under "deportment" the mark "good-plus." It was something unusual, in fact, so much so that the father visited the school to ascertain the reason for this unexpected outburst of goodness. Upon reaching the school, the father went to the office of the Head Master. After exchanging greetings, the father said, "Wont you frankly tell me how my boy got "good-plus" in deportment?" "Gladly," said the Head Master. "The other aftesnoon your boy was with a group on the campss and one of the group started in to tell a dirty story. Almost immediately your boy walked up to him and said, 'look here, Bill, if you keep on telling that story I'll knock you down.' Bill though he was joking and continued to tell his story, when your boy made good his promise. He not only knocked Bill down, but gave him a good thrashing as well. Naturally the news of the fight reached my office and I sent for your boy. When he came I requested him to tell me all about the affair on the campus and he told me what I have been telling you, only he added this, 'I'll knock down any fellow who tries to tell me that kind of a story, for I have too much love and respect for my mother and sister to permit that kind of a story to be poured into my ears.' When the report card was made out I felt that your boy deserved 'good-plus" in deportment, and, Sir, I would like to have about one hundred boys like your boy in my school."

—Firelighter.

QUESTIONABLE AS A REMEDY

A few weeks ago three doctors reported to the French Biological Society that a tincture of "allium sativum" would cure hardening of the arteies. Now they report that pulmonary gangerene can be cured by the same means. A serum prepared from "allium sativum" and injected into the veins will restore youthful vigor in men who have had arterial distension. In fact, the range of bodily troubles that liberal doses of "allium sativum" will mend seems almost unlimited.

Any person wanting to get some "allium sativum" would naturally go to a druggist. The name suggests something rare and complex. However, it would be well for most intending takers to arrange a holiday for the treatment. At least seperation from family and friends seems almost essential. For "allium sativum" is, in common parlance, garlic. Garlic is a bulb of the lily family, and may often be noted in picture shows (any one) by its penetrating odor. If inhalation of garlic odor were the cure then patrons would be forever immune to the hardening of the arteries, gangerene, etc. But the tincture is made by steeping the bulbs three weeks in alcohol four times their weight, and 30 drops are to be taken daily. The alcoholic part of the medicine will be attractive enough to offset the diaphramatic spasms that the garlic may create.

Hippocrates and Pliny mention garlic as a curative. In olden times it was an anti-tubercular agent, and in 1726 Madame Fouquet wrote in a book that the gases arising from the stomach in digesting garlic were of much benefit to the throat. The garlic may be taken in three or four ways, but it is well to have a strong chaser of cloves, or other neutralizer of odor, and even then complete disappearance from civilized society is advisable.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The finest exhibition of footwork was displayed up here on Sunday when our local leather chasers entertained Coleman in the semi-finals for the Crahan Cup. Our boys had the best of the play, but the visitors' defence was impregnable. No score was the result. Jimmy Wilson of Fernie handled the game creditably.

Teddy Trafford was noticed among the football enthusiasts up here on Sunday last.

Reminiscences of 'Tyldesley Bonds' wakes were indulged in freely at the family gathering held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith during the past week end.

Our genial steward is back again at the Club, having recently been under the weather.
