Miss D. Schagel of the Crow's Nest Trading Co. staff, has resigned her position.

Matthew Corbett, of Winnipeg, is the guest of his brother, James, of the Crow's Nest Trading Co. staff.

Work on the waterworks improvement is being rushed rapidly in order to finish before the ground freezes.

Mrs. A. B. Trites entertained a large number of ladies at bridge yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. W. Derbyshire has purchased the residence of Mrs. Jackson at 200 Pellatt Ave. M. A. Kastner put the deal through.

At the United Church on Oct. 28, Mr. Alan Tomlinson and Mrs. Margaret Johnson, both of Newgate, B.C., were united in marriage.

The regular monthly tea of the Ladies Guild of Christ Church will be held at the home of Mrs. J. S. Corbett on Wednesday. Nov. 8, from 3.30 to 6. Everybody welcome.

J. W. Shorthouse, who for a number of years has been employed at the Quail hardware store, has resigned his position and purchased the confectionery and ice cream business belonging to Geo. Cody, Jr., in the Dobson & Willingham block.

Thursday. Nov. 9, is the 10th anniversary of Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. The Regent, Mrs. A. B. Trites, will entertain the Chapter at her home from 3.30 p.m. A hearty invitation is extended to all members.

The grand ball given by the Pythian Sisters on Tuesday evening was the most successful masquerade ever held in Fernie. Victoria Hall was packed and the costumes were of every kind and description.

The Fernie Boy Scouts are hard at work preparing a concert, consisting of a minstrel show, First Aid work, Scout activities and stunts. This will be held in the Grand Theatre on Nov. 17 and will provide one of the best evening's entertainment Fernie has seen for some time. A detailed programme will appear in next paper.

E. Groat will deliver an address to the Young People's Get Together Society on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at 7.45 p.m., in the basement of the United Church. Those who had the pleasure of listening to Mr. Groat's address to the Educational and Social Club last season will no doubt welcome this opportunity of hearing him again. Readings will also be rendered by Miss Marion Westby and Miss Edythe Kershaw.

Dr. F. W. Green, of Cranbrook, and former partner of Hon. J. H. King, federal minister of public works, is visiting in the city. "East Kootenay is a veritable hive of industry," said Dr. Green, who is on his way to Victoria for the opening of the shooting season. "Mining is in full swing and the coal mines around Fernie have opened up again." Although for many years a partner of Hon. J. H. King and a firm personal friend of the minister, Dr. Green has been a life long Conservative, and always took opposite sides with his partner in an election campaign. He is a native son of Victoria.—Vancouver World.

Some Fernie crank, who has not even the nerve to sign his name, has recently written a letter to the Attorney General at Victoria complaining of the deplorable moral conditions existing in the city of Fernie. Every store in the city which handles soft drinks is accused of selling liquor and even some who are running lunch counters are also accused. For instance, the writer specifically mentions the name of Wm. Ingram as a dealer in illicit liquor. When a cur of this kind descends to lying about a citizen who has never at any time handled liquor, it is high time in the interests of all our citizens that the authorities make an effort to discover the name of the person and publicly expose him.

SO MANY PEOPLE ARE NERVOUS

"Fruit-a-tives" The Greatest of all Nerve Remedies

This Fruit Medicine Restores Health

The increase in the number of persons suffering from Nervousness is world-wide; due, in a measure, to the reaction following the war. Sleeplessness, Headaches, Mental Depression, Rheumatism, Nervous Dyspepsia, Bad Heart Action, are the results of a disturbed condition of the Nervous System.

The nerves and the blood are so intimately, so vitally, connected that the condition of one is bound to affect the condition of the other. If the blood is laden with impurities, it is impossible to have strong, steady nerves.

The first essential in treating nervous troubles is to purify and enrich the blood. This, "FRUIT-A-TIVES" will do.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" stimulates the bowels, kidneys and skin and purifies the blood. "Fruit-a-tives" improves appetite and digestion and insures food being properly digested, thus enabling the blood to carry wholesome nourishment to build up the body, particularly the nerves.

Men and women who take "Fruit-a-tives" for some form of nervousness—because they cannot eat or sleep or work or enjoy life—say that this fruit medicine is simply marvellous in its action.

50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers or sent postpaid by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa Ont.

R. Potter, of Penticton, formerly city engineer of Fernie, was in the city this week looking over the housing problem and with a view to purchasing the local creamery, the deal for which, we are informed, is practically closed. He was much impressed with business conditions here and said that Cranbrook district was the shining star which was attracting a number of business concerns to come in here. A deal was closed by Mr. Potter, through Martin Bros., for the purchase of the McConnel property on Fenwick avenue. Mr. Potter will return to Cranbrook in a short time and he expects to move his family here in the spring.—Cranbrook Courier.

With the last drop in the price of all Ford Models this makes the Ford the lowest price in history, but NOTICE, the Ford Company have advised us that if the increase in sales will not warrant this reduction the present prices will be withdrawn. Therefore, we strongly advise anyone who intends buying a Ford Car to do so at once, as we believe this last drop in price is only to stimulate the fall business and we fully expect an advance in the price before spring. If you do not wish to lay out all the money just now, we will arrange to deliver you a car in the spring at the present prices if you sign an order and pay a small deposit. This will protect you against any advance on the present price, and should there be another drop in the prices before spring we will give you the advantage of whatever the drop might be.

Call in and let us talk the matter over or phone 158, when we will call and explain the advantages of this proposition to you.

On Wednesday morning eight sneaking, crawling creatures in the persons of the government liquor stool pigeons, left on the morning train for the west, after having laid informations against a number of hotel men in the district. These people, who by the way were mostly Americans, thank God, have justly earned the contempt of their fellow men. Any man who, for a monetary consideration, will endeavor to make his fellows break the laws of his country, in order that he may inform on them, seems to be deserving of all the contemptible things one can say about him, and the citizens of Fernie were not slow in expressing their opinion. Wherever they were known they were ordered from the public restaurants and dance halls and finally were glad when their despicable Judas task was accomplished, to escape from the city with whole skins. Some of the names of these liquor spotters were: Corless, Ferguson, Lobb, Chisholm, Buchanan and Shively. We wonder what would happen to a bunch of Canadians who would pull this stuff off in a Montana town.

FORTUNE TELLING

The police at Florence have just arrested "Professor" Mazzetti, a fortune teller and clairvoyant, who has driven a thriving trade there for some years. He claims to predict the future infallibly and to have control over the laws of time and space. He also — and herein lies the secret of his popularity — undertakes to bring about a happy ending to any love affair. Women of all classes visited his consulting room and wrote to him for advice. The police have seized over 500 letters, mostly from young girls, enclosing money and begging for help in turning the hearts of recalcitrant admirers.

The exact charge on which Mazzetti has been put in prison this time is not yet known, but it seems that before the war he underwent a term of imprisonment at Brescia for extorting thousands of francs from a very rich girl whose fiance had left her, and who was willing to pay anything to get him back again.

Fortune telling looms large in the life of the average Italian woman, and generally comes to the fore in sensational trials and love tragedies. A few months ago a pretty young widow committed suicide because a clairvoyant had told her that her lover would prove faithless. He was being bewitched, she declared, by another girl who had found means to enter his room secretly and sprinkle a love powder over the furniture. To counteract this spell the widow was supplied by the fortune teller with a magic ointment which she was to rub on to the hands of the young man next time he came to visit her. This was duly done but apparently failed of success, for the widow took a dose of poison.

Men and women of every class consult fortune tellers in Italy, and believe implicitly in their predictions especially as regards love and marriage. Cards are the favorite means of divination, and many women are adepts at telling the cards for themselves and do so regularly every Friday—the lucky day—to see what will befall them during the coming week. Love philters, magic powders, and amulets are much in request. There is a very useful powder which, if sprinkled into the envelope of the letter you are sending off, is warranted to ensure a speedy and satisfactory answer. A lady who kept a boarding house once told the writer that she always used this powder in writing to make arrangements with her clients, and invariably with excellent results.

But it is not enough to secure good influences; you must guard against bad ones. In the country the oxen—the peasant's most precious possession—wear red ribbons in their tails or on their horns to protect them against the evil eye; but in spite of this, an enemy sometimes manages to bewitch them, the symptoms being that the animals mope and refuse to eat in their own stable. The only remedy for this is to get the priest to come and perform an exorcism. Some priests are credited with special powers of driving out evil spirits and their services are much sought after.

Tragedies and crimes are frequently connected with witchcraft, which rouses uncontrollable primitive passions of fear and revenge. Last year, in the district near Pisa, a little peasant boy fell ill. The parents consulted the stregone (witch doctor), who told them the child was bewitched. He advised them to boil the boy's clothes in a pot of water and the first person to come to the house during the process would be the one who had done the harm. The pot with the clothes was set on the fire and after a little while an old beggar woman knocked at the door. This was proof positive, and the poor creature was seized by the family and so severely beaten that she died.

"THE ETERNAL FLAME"

Friday and Saturday This Week.

In carrying out her announced policy of giving the motion picture public the best that money, time and artistic endeavor can produce, Norma Talmadge is following her great triumph in "Smilin' Through" with another magnificent film, "The Eternal Flame," an adaptation of "La Duchesse de Langeais," by Honore de Balzac.

In "The Eternal Flame," which will be the First National attraction at the Orpheum on Friday and Saturday of this week, is to be found a story of tense interest that revolves around the scandals and romances of the court of Louis XVIII. Miss Talmadge portrays the leading role of the Duchess, a great beauty of high character, who, when she learns that her husband, the Duc de Langeais, is betting on her purity, becomes the coquette of the court. In her flirtations she arouses the love of the invincible General de Montriveau. He is furious when he learns of her desire to be known as the conqueror of the man who has never fallen in love, and in his rage kidnaps her, intending to brand her with the mark of infamy. She pleads and he has not the courage to go through with the terrible punishment and releases her. The Duchess realizes that her love is real and in daily letters to the general bares her soul to him. The letters are returned unread. In despair she determines to quit the world and seek spiritual solace in a convent and the events which follow her decision carry drama as poignant as the screen can give.

Conway Tearle portrays the leading male role as De Montriveau, while Adolphe Jean Menjou is to be seen as the Duc de Langeais. Others in the cast are Wedgwood Nowell, Rosemary Theby, Kate Lester, Thomas Ricketts, Irving Cummings and Otis Harlan, Frank Lloyd directed.

I never use a street car,
I never ride a train,
I drive a good Ford Roadster
In sunshine and in rain.
It carries all my grips around
And travels fast as well;
It means less time in travelling

43 PER CENT MEANS CREAM

Mrs. B., of New Westminster, wants to know if each can of Pacific Milk is 43 per cent cream. We mention it here in reply to her letter in case there are other women who do not understand the fact. Yes, Mrs. B., through our improved process each can of Pacific Milk is 43 per cent fresh, sweet cream, which accounts for the fact that your cake was too short. Either use less shortening or dilute the milk more.

PRIESTS START PUNJAB ROW

Calcutta — The Akali trouble is growing in dimensions; in fact, as the Englishman of Calcutta points out in a leader, the trouble, which began in Peshawar, has extended to all parts of the Junjab. The story of the movement, which is being keenly watched and even now exploited for all it is worth by the Indian extremists, is shortly as follows:

The Akalis, originally a wandering caste of warrior priests, who were encouraged by the government because they kept alive the spirit of Sikhism among the people who were once the backbone of the Indian army, have recently increased very largely in numbers.

These Akalis have conceived the idea, whether rightly or wrongly it is not for a layman to say, that the Sikh regular priesthood, who have been controlling temple endowments, revenues and properties, have not been discharging their trust in a proper manner.

Instead of taking legal proceedings against the priests, the Akalis started to seize temples and temple properties by force. These proceedings began at Peshawar. Sir Hamilton Grant refused to interfere in the cause of law and order, making the excuse that the quarrel was a religious one.

Flushed with the triumph at Peshawar, the Akalis began to attack one shrine after another all over the frontier province and the Punjab. A mohunt, aware that an attack was coming and that the government was not prepared to protect him, took steps to defend himself and his property. The result was the terrible tragedy at Nan Kana Sahib. The mohunt here certainly went far beyond what was necessary and on him the law took its revenge.

The affair, however, made it clear to the government that it ought to be fair to both sides, and since then the priests who have applied for protection against the Akalis have been given it.

The government has been very restrained, but the same can hardly be said of the extremists, who are now circulating seditious and defamatory statements of the conduct of the police in the hope of stirring up some very big agitation, necessary to revive the failing Congress cause.

THE LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

The Loyal Order of Moose is an international, fraternal society, consisting of more than eighteen hundred lodges in the United States, Canada and throughout the English-speaking world, having an aggregate membership in all these lodges of more than six hundred and fifty thousand men. Most of the lodges provide sick benefits and funeral expense funds for their members. Each lodge is a complete unit in itself, with full local autonomy.

As a means for the better accomplishing their purpose, the lodges have organized a central agency called the "Supreme Lodge of the World, Loyal Order of Moose," with headquarters at Mooseheart, Illinois. All the general activities of the Order center there and the Supreme Officers in active charge, have their offices there.

The members of the Order have, in the construction of Mooseheart, provided an assurance that, in the event of the death in poverty of the parents, the child will be well cared for and educated. Each Moose pays one dollar a year to Mooseheart for this protection.

For further information as to the Loyal Order of Moose, and any of the lodges throughout the world, address the Supreme Secretary, Mooseheart, Illinois.

Mooseheart—The School that trains for life:—

Mooseheart is an estate of 1015 acres, 35 miles west from Chicago, on the Fox River, between the cities of Aurora and Batavia, Illinois. The title is in the Supreme Lodge of the World Loyal Order of Moose. It is a home and training school for life, for the children of deceased members of the Moose. At this time 1151 children are cared for at Mooseheart.

The residential part of Mooseheart resembles a modern village and consists of more than fifty buildings, of up-to-date construction, with red Spanish tile roofs.

There is a central heating and power plant, a large efficient printing establishment, an elementary and high school, several industrial shops, an up-to-date farm plant, many halls and residences, and post office of the second class.

The educational features are highly vocational and practical. Instruction in many of the most useful crafts, including agriculture, are given.

"THE STORM" IS DYNAMIC FILM STORY

After all, a picture is essentially a story, and the plot therefore is the most important element. "The story's the thing."

"The Storm," coming as a Universal-Jewel attraction starring House Peters, to the Isis Theatre soon, was adapted from the New York stage sensation of the same name. Theatrical history was made by the play, written by Langdon McCormick. It is grippingly dramatic, and besides the elements of simple drama there is woven into it the theme of two kinds of fear that men may feel toward women.

One man in the triangle of the story is afraid of women because he knows nothing of them, has never seen anything of them. He's a woodsman primitive and honest.

The other is the product of London and Paris society. He fears the gentle sex because he has "seen too darned much of women."

The woman in the case is an innocent French Canadian girl, forced to live with the two men for four long months through being hemmed in by a snowstorm.

On this novel situation McCormick constructed a story that holds the interest to the very last by its unusualness.

The reproduction of the snowstorm scene and the devastating forst fire establishes new records for sensationalism and thrills, even in these blase days. Throughout the action Director Barker has maintained the element of suspense so splendidly that even the most thrill-proof movie fan is going to sit spellbound. Nothing like it has ever before been presented, and it is easy to understand the glowing commendation heaped on picture and drama alike by the metropolitan press of the country.

Virginia Valli is the girl and Matt Moore is the Londoner, while Peters brings his manly directness and emotionalism to bear on the starrng role of the woodsman. Josef Swickard and Frank Lanning have supporting roles.

New York and other metropolitan critics have been unanimous in endorsing "The Storm" as one of the greatest pictures produced in a decade and it probably will be ranked first among the big pictures of the year.

Brigham Young, Blue Beard and Landru were novices in the matrimonial game compared with a colored preacher recently arrested in Dayton, Ohio, for bigamy. The Ethiopian automatic coupler admits having had forty wives. Getting married was a habit with him and he kept a card index of the names and addresses of his numerous spouses. This year was a banner one with a score of fourteen. There will be razors in the air when the forty deceived dusky damsels mobolize for his trial.

The Long-Life Battery

Since the days of the first storage battery (which was an Exide), the Exide has been earning its reputation as the long-life battery. Ask some Exide owner—they are all about you, for more cars leave the manufacturers' hands equipped with Exides than with any other battery.

The dependable, long-lasting power of the Exide means more to you even than comfort—it means dollars and cents economy.

When you get a new car you have a right to a battery of Exide quality—in other words, an Exide Battery. In replacing an old battery in your present car, insist on an Exide and if you have any trouble in getting one, write us or our nearest district distributor.

If you don't feel warranted in buying a new Exide Battery at this time, ask our nearest Service Station—before you consider getting a substitute make of battery—whether your present battery cannot be rebuilt with genuine Exide parts.

Go to an Official Exide Station for Winter Storage—it will pay you.

THE TALE OF TWO CITIES

Most readers will have heard of the labor strife that has been going on at Buffalo, months on end, in connection with the trolley men. Too few have heard of the Philadelphia situation among street railway employees, by way of contrast. Buffalo is, or was, a highly unionized community, and the closed shop is the issue with the street railway employees of that city. There is no question of wages or conditions. It is a hundred per cent union or bust. In the disorders which followed the Buffalo strike valuable property was destroyed. Car barns and cars were dynamited. Men loyal to the company were assaulted as were their faimilies. In fact nothing was left undone that a desperate mob could accomplish.

Turn to Philadelphia by way of contrast, and just remember that the management of the two companies is identical, under President T. E. Mitten. In Philadelphia in place of a hundred per cent union which the Buffalo strikers were bent upon, there is a co-operative plan in full force, and the trolley men of the "City of Brotherly Love" are proud owners of no less than sixty thousand shares in the stock of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, which represents about ten per cent of the whole. So it is that while Buffalo strikers are destroying the things that give them a living the Philadelphia workmen are building for the future, and incidentally these workmen are intent upon eventually owning the entire Philadelphia property. This is being accomplished in a very simple manner, but the plan, of course, is highly disapproved of by the labor unions. That is to say there is a co-operative wage dividend equivalent to ten per cent of the annual pay, and this is invested regularly in the stock of the company. The wages paid are based on the average of three union cities, while working conditions are equal to that of any unionized centre.

This is what has been accomplished over a period of only a few years, in a city which was at one time as red hot a union centre as Buffalo ever was. Philadelphia has learned her lesson, and sooner or later Buffalo will learn hers. For the same conditions that obtain in the Pennsylvania city, and which are well nigh ideal, can be put in force in Buffalo and no doubt this will come about in due course.

In the interval the Mitten men of Philadelphia, who to the number of seven hundred loyally volunteered to stick by their President and operate the Buffalo cars, are on the job, and in spite of all the strikers and their sympathizers can do they have been able to keep them going. — Saturday Night.

CODDLING ATHLETES

In dismissing from his squad 11 promising football candidates for delinquencies in their studies, Coach Tad Jones of Yale takes a step that might well be followed by college coaches the country over. In declaring that "coddling athletes who do not keep up in their studies is bad business for all concerned" the Yale mentor falls in with a view expressed by Percy Haughton some years ago when he was directing the Harvard team.

With the efforts of the Harvard student council to keep men of athletic ability up in their studies Haughton had no sympathy whatever. The student who did poor and unsatisfactory work in the class room and laboratory, he declared, seldom made an athlete worth while. In the type of football he taught mental alertness and keenness of perception were just as essential as a sound and vigorous body.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Railway News

Mr. Edward Everett Beck, who since the death of Mr. Jackson has been acting manager of the Vancouver Hotel for the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been appointed manager. Mr. Beck has been connected with this hotel ever since he entered the service in 1907, first as clerk, then as rooming clerk, and since June 16th, 1920, as assistant manager.

Calgary—For the first time in two years the car department at the Canadian Pacific Ogden Shops worked full time. This was the official announcement made at the offices of the general superintendent of the Alberta Division. The department mentioned is one of the largest at the shops and will effect carpenters, car repairers and helpers. It is stated that the heavy movement of grain is the cause of the increased work. The announcement has been received with much satisfaction by the men concerned.

Sherbrooke.—Three years in the St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary was the sentence on Joseph Couture, of the township of Lingwick, for placing a bolt and a spike on the Canadian Pacific Railway track. The case was heard before Judge J. H. Lemay, in the District Magistrate's Court, when the accused was charged with placing obstacles on the railway track with intention to destroy valuable property and endanger human life. The accused immediately pleaded guilty and, after receiving the usual warning from the court, was committed for trial. He asked for a speedy trial before Judge Lemay. Counsel for the plaintiff advised the court that the accused had a rather bad record and claimed that he had previously served one term of two years and two separate terms of four years in jail.

The court commented upon the seriousness of the offence insofar as valuable property and scores of lives were threatened, and pointed out that he was liable for a term of five years, or even a term for life if it were proven that the obstacles had been place there intentionally.

Regina—"There is so much wheat in some parts of Southern Saskatchewan that it will take until next summer to get it shipped out of the country," said J. H. Chown, superintendent of the C.P.R. at Regina, last night.

Mr. Chown made this statement upon his return from a trip over the southern lines of the Regina district, the trip including the Arcola line as far south as Stoughton, through to Weyburn as far west as Assiniboia and thence up the Soo line to Moose Jaw.

"The wheat crop in some of the districts in this area is as good or better than 1915," said Mr. Chown, "and now that threshing is well under way some remarkable yields are being demonstrated. Where people expected to get 15 bushels to the acre the threshing machine is registering 25 bushels, where 25 bushels were anticipated they are getting 35 bushels and where 30 bushels were estimated the yields are running close up to 50 bushels to the acre.

"At Vantage," continued Mr. Chown, "I walked up to a threshing outfit operating not far from the station and engaged the thresherman in operation. He told me the wheat he was threshing was running 38 bushels to the acre. The grain was uniform, well ripened, a good color and an excellent sample of wheat in every respect."

Edmonton—A good harvest and the existence of a plentiful supply of foodstuffs in all parts of Canada is the basis upon which C. E. E. Ussher, general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific railway with headquarters in Montreal, makes the encouraging prediction that business is bound to show considerable improvement during the next few months and soon to reach the level of the best of prewar times.

Mr. Ussher was a visitor in Edmonton in the course of a tour which took him as far west as Vancouver.

Passenger traffic business is a worthy barometer in the testing of general business conditions, and Mr. Ussher announces that the year, from a passenger traffic standpoint, has been an excellent one, while it is felt certain that the coming winter and spring will see still further increases. Tourist travel during the past season has been almost as good as it ever was, while reservations made for winter traffic, including ocean cruises, are exceptionally numerous at this time.

Then, again, traffic to and from the old country during the past few months has taxed accommodation to capacity, while steamers plying between the west coast and the Orient have also been doing great business.

Mr. Ussher is a strong enthusiast for an open door policy of immigration into Canada, and in speaking upon the topical subject he declared that there would come a time before many months had passed when Canada would be setting up a cry for labor.

In Montreal the telephone girls are instructed to say "Thank you!" instead of repeating the number called by the phone user. Some efficiency expert figured that this would save a fraction of a second on each call, the mole totalling a big time saver.

Great admiration is expressed for the Philadelphia men who recently made the wonderful record of visiting a department store, locating the article he desired, purchased it, gave instructions as to its delivery and was on his way to his office in six teen minutes.

POWER OF DOLLAR IS EASILY SHOWN

Keep One Moving and See What It Will Do for Your Community

PAYS MULTITUDE OF DEBTS

When It Is Sent Out of Town, However, to Pay for What Can Be Bought at Home It Is Gone Forever

(Copyright)

It is a rather wonderful thing, when you stop to think about it, what one lone dollar will do, if it is kept at work. This has been illustrated in a striking manner on several occasions by means of a very simple experiment. If you want to see just how important a role a silver doller or a dollar bill plays in the lefe of a community here is the way to do it. Just attach a tag to the dollar and turn it loose, with the request that every person who receives the dollar make a note on the tag as to how he received it. The result will be an eye-opener.

Here is the way it works: Smith, the lumber dealer, who first possesses the dollar, buys some groceries from Brown and pays for them with the dollar. About that time Jones, the plumber, who had done work for Brown, sends his collector around and Brown pays the bill with this dollar. Jones owes Green, the printer, a small advertising bill, so he sends this dollar with possibly some others, to Green to pay his bill. Green had just put the dollar in his cash drawer when in comes Black, the milkman, to whom Green owes a dollar for milk delivered at his house. Green takes the dollar out of his cash drawer and pays Black. For some time Black has owed White, the carpenter, for some work done on his dairy house, so now he takes the dollar that Green has paid him and pays up what he owesWhite. White still owes for some lumber that he bought from Smith, the lumber dealer, so he takes the dollar and squares up his account with Smith. Smith now has his dollar back. Brown has been able to pay his plumbing bill. Jones has squared up with the printer, and so on, all around the circle

What Might Have Happened.

Now suppose that Smith, instead of buying his groceries from Brown had purchased them from a mail order house in a far distant city and sent his dollar to pay for them. Brown would not have had that dollar to pay Jones, the plumber; Jones could not have paid his printing bill; the printer would have had to stand off the milk man; White, the carpenter, would not have got the money for the work he had done for the milkman, and Smith would not have got the money which White owed him for lumber.

This is all so simple that it requires no student of economics or professor of mathematics to figure it out. Anyone can see that when Smith sends that dollar to Chicago or some other city where the mail order houses flourish, that dollar is gone so far as Smith and Jones and Green and the rest of the people in Smith's town are concerned. That dollar will never come back to pay any bills in Smith's town. And the thing that stands out most striking, but is most often overlooked, is that Smith, the man who first spends the dollar, is hurt just as much when he sends that dollar out of town as is the home grocer from whom he might have bought his groceries.

Now just multiply this one dollar by a hundred or a thousand or ten thousand. One dollar may not seem to make much difference in the average town, but a thousand dollars or even a hundred dollars make a difference. Just as one dollar will pay a dozen or a hundred small bills, a hundred or a thousand dollars will pay a dozen or a hundred big bills. When Brown, the grocery man, owes a thousand dollars and can't pay it, he is headed for bankruptcy courts. When Jones, the plumber, can't collect the money which is due him from Brown or maybe a dozen Browns, he is headed in the same direction as Brown. And so it goes all around the circle until it hits Smith or a dozen Smiths who have sent their money out of town to add to the fortunes of the mail order men.

Buyer One Who Is Hurt.

Thus, it will be seen that this buy-at-home proposition is really a selfish one with the man who buys the goods. He is not hurting the home merchant when he sends his money out of town, any more than he is hurting himself.

Every sensible man knows that his livelihood depends upon whether business in his town is good or not. If business is not good, he cannot make a good living for himself and his family, no matter how hard he may work, and business cannot be good if the business men in the town are not making money. This is a plain business proposition for every man and woman in the community. By spending their money at home they are helping the home merchant only incidentally. They are buttering their own bread. When they send their money to the mail order house, they are not only hurting the home merchant incidentally—a thing more important to them—they are likely to be taking the bread out of the mouths of their own children.

Tanlac Does The Work, States Rickson

Still another who vouches for the fact that "Tanlac makes you eat better, sleep better, work better and feel better," is Jerry Rickson, 1001 4th St., West, Calgary, Alberta, Canada, valued employee of the Robin Hood Milling Co. In telling how the medicine helped him to regain his robust health Mr. Rickson said:

"For four years I was in a terribly run-down condition, and kept getting worse. I was in such bad shape I fell off from a hundred and fifty-eight pounds to a hundred and thirty, and I tell you it took a mighty effort for me to keep on working. Somehow I stuck it out, but my nerves were certainly very shaky, and I got but very little rest nights. My appetite dwindled to almost nothing and even when I did venture to eat a regular meal it did me no good whatever.

"I saw by the papers where Tanlac was being praised by lots of people, so I started taking it, and I sure am glad I did. Five bottles put me in fine shape again, I eat hearty, sleep soundly, and have gained back a lot of my lost weight. Tanlac does the work without a doubt, and I am more than glad to recommend it."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

CONVERT BITUMINOUS COAL INTO COKE

On the assumption that the converting of bituminous Canadian coal into coke may be a remedial method of extending consumption of this coal in Canada, the Ottawa government is considering the erection of a plant in Alberta, probably at Calgary, and another in Nova Scotia. This is in accordance with the scheme of the government to devise means of securing independence from the United States anthracite fields. Experts have been assigned to report fully on the proposal to erect the converting plant.

CRANBROOK CURLERS BUSY

(Cranbrook Courier)

This is anything but curling weather, nevertheless a record number of curlers turned out at the annual meeting and election of officers on Tuesday evening in the city hall, the building being comfortably filled long before the hour set for deliberations. It was unquestionably the largest summer gathering of the Cranbrook Curling Club ever held and a criterion of what will develop later in the season.

Following the reading of the minutes and the auditor's report, which showed a slight deficit, President Hogarth explained that a committee had waited upon the city council and were successful in securing the Arena rink again for the curling season and granted the use of the old curling rink for the holding of the Crow's Nest Pass bonspiel, which would be held some time in January and which promised to eclipse all previous attempts made by the Cranbrook club for the entertainment of visitors.

The president declared all offices vacant and called for names to fill the respective offices. The election resulted as follows:

Hon. President—V. Hyde Baker.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Dr. F. W. Green.
President—George Hogarth.
Vice-President—Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon.
Secretary—Alan Graham.
Executive Committee—F. M. MacPherson, W. F. Cameron and E. H. McPhee.
Chaplain—Rev. F. V. Harrison.
Ice Committee—R. C. Eakin, Walter Soden and Samuel Fyles.
Official Umpires — John Cholditch and T. M. Roberts.
Membership Committee — W. D. Gilroy, Ross Pascuzzo, S. Fyles, C. J. Little, Jack Delany, F. W. Burgess and John Martin.

It was decided to increase the dues this year, which was found necessary owing to the district bonspiel being held here in January. After some discussion dues were settled at $12.00 for the season and provision made for rinks entering the bonspiel to be charged $5.00 per head.

The Fink Mercantile Company cup will be taken out of the open competition and placed in a points competition. The object of this move, which has the sanction of Mr. Fink, is to encourage new players to take a more active interest in the game. The competition will be open to the whole club. The Fink Mercantile company will supplement this trophy by a special prize.

Expressions of thanks were tendered W. E. Worden, Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon and W. F. Cameron for their generosity in providing cups for last season's playing.

ALONG THE BANFF WINDERMERE ROAD

ONLY a few short years ago the noble Kootenay Columbia Valley was practically unknown except to its few inhabitants. But no longer will this great silent vale remain unknown and inaccessible, for blasted out of the rock and hewed through the great forests of pines there has been built a highway, a great motor road, which will be opened officially to the tourists next year. This will be known as the Banff Windermere Road. It follows a route from Banff, through the Vermillion and Sinclair passes to the Windermere district of the Columbia Valley, a distance of some eighty miles. On it the traveller will follow the most wonderful succession of peaks, ravines and valleys on the North American continent, rivalling in rugged splendor those seen along the Grand Canyon of the Colorado.

In the late Summer, under the direction of L. O. Armstrong, the well-known Canadian lecturer, and under the auspices of the Canadian Pacific Railway, there started from Banff a party of writers and camera men. This was the first party privileged to traverse the new highway by the pack train method of transit, and probably the last as the road is practically completed.

Marble Canyon was the first side trip of the party, this being some two miles off the main road and so named because of the grey marble rocks that form its sides. Looking into the abysmal depths of this narrow gorge, the presence of the mad torrent below could only be detected by a cloud of spray-mist and the rumbling of the rushing water.

In the vicinity of Marble Creek, a mile or so from the main road, on the mountain side, are the Vermillion paint pots.

These are three holes some seven or eight feet deep, filled with water of three colors, ochre, red (Vermillion) and green, the coloring being due probably to deposits of the soluble oxides of iron and copper. These combinations have formed natural pigments that are equal to the finest commercial paints. It is known that the Kootenays long before the advent of the white man used these colorings to decorate their tepees with weird designs and adorn their bodies with "War Paint" before attacking their enemies. The Indians, too, were the first to commercialize these, [illegible] and barter these pigments with southern tribes for corn and even for the shells of Mexico.

The next bit of journey, some 15 miles, was through the Vermillion pass—still along the road. Many writers have essayed the description of mountain roads—long pine avenues with their lights and shadows; on either side snow capped peaks flung against the sky, these flanked by high foot hills topped with burnt forests, where dead pines twining and intertwining their dead branches form a great drape of grey lace. Above and below are streams—tumbling torrents—water falls—springs that bubble from the rocky sides and send their silver streams to swell the volume of turbulent creek. And lingering over all is the odor of the pines and always the inspiration of Nature's sublimest creations — the mountains themselves.

At Vermillion crossing for the first time the party left the road, for it is in this vicinity that the last bit is being completed, some seven miles.

Resuming the journey next day, the pack train following the most direct route forded and deforded the tortous river, then climbed up some hundreds of feet and was once again on the road. Here the traveller realized just what an amazing piece of engineering building this highway was.

The party proceeded through the Vermillion pass into the Kootenay Valley and camp was pitched at Kootenay Crossing, already a well known and used camping ground that boasts the modern conveniences of a rustic table, poles for tents, nearness to water and all the facilities that make camping pleasant. Here, too, are the first traces of the incoming settler, the smoke of clearing, the little cabin, the transforming of bush into farm land.

The Kootenay Valley is connected to the Columbia via the Sinclair Pass, used for years by the Indians, who after incursions into the rich lands of the Vermillion and Kootenay, where moose, elk and other game still abound, crossed the Divide to visit the hot springs now known as the Radium Hot Springs.

For seven miles the pack train slowly ascended to the summit of the pass, the exact spot being marked by a little emerald lake known as Summit Lake. For the first time maples, already touched by mountain frosts and flaming by the road sides, were noticed. The scenery through this district is more imposing than ever. Chasms are deeper, peaks are higher, vegetation is more varied. Then followed the descent into the wonderful canyon itself enclosed by rugged redw alls, known as the Iron Gates, towering hundreds of feet on either side.

And in the heart of the canyon on the side of the mountain is a pool formed by a flow from springs, which pour out of the surrounding rocks at a temperature of 115 degrees. These springs are 2500 feet above the sea level, and have been valued for their medicinal qualities by the few who know them.

There are four Indian Reserves in the Valley—the homes of a remnant of the once powerful and warlike Kootenays and on the rock wall of the canyon are curious ancient Indian markings. These Indians are now peaceful and law-abiding, living by hunting, fishing, farming and stock raising.

From the Hot Springs to Lake Windermere the source of the Columbia River is only a distance of fourteen miles and there the party arrived eight days from the time it started, as scheduled.

RED MOUNTAIN

The fifty ton mill at this property is now grinding out gold bullion from ore reserves which are sufficient to last for several years. Apart from the fact that further development promises a vast increase in ore tonnage, we are inclined to regard Boundary Red Mountain shares favorably at prevailing quotations.

Expert mining opinion confirms us in the belief and the shares have demonstrated their underlying worth by an advance of 28 per cent on the Vancouver Stock Exchange in a period of one month. Last sales were at 64c per share as compared with 50c on Sept. 26th.

We earnestly advise you to acquaint yourselves with the opportunity offered in Boundary Red Mountain. Fullest information sent on request.

THE MUTUAL LIFE OF CANADA

1869 Fifty-three Years of Better Results for Policy Holders. 1922

What Does "Mutual" Mean in a Life Insurance Company?

It means that the Policyholders, through their premiums, provide the funds for the organization and upbuilding of the Company without assistance from any outside source whatsoever. It follows, therefore, that the Policyholders:

(A) OWNS all the assets, including Head Office and everything pertaining to the Company.

(B) CONTROL all its affairs through a Board of Directors elected by and from its Policyholders.

(C) RECEIVE every dollar of its profits.

NOTE — All Profits earned on non-participating policies in a Mutual Company go into the general fund and are distributed among the holders of participating policies.

It follows, therefore, that a Mutual Life Company can and does furnish Life Insurance at Cost.

What Does "Capital Stock" Mean in a Life Insurance Company?

It means that a few men provide "funds" for organization expenses, obtain a charter, turn these "funds" into paid-up Capital Stock, and thereafter the Stockholders:

(A) OWN the Company.

(B) Control the Company through a Board of Directors, at least two-thirds of whom are elected by Stockholders.

(C) And unless otherwise provided for in their charters, they may:

(1) TAKE all interest earned on their paid-up capital stock.

(2) TAKE all profits earned on non-participating policies.

(3) TAKE up to one-tenth of all profits earned on participating policies.

It follows, therefore, that a Stock Company cannot and does not furnish Life Insurance at Cost.

Let us see what this difference between "Mutual" and "Stock" means as applied to the earnings of the Mutual Life of Canada for year 1921.

ACTUAL PROFITS EARNED:

On Non-Participating Business	$ 123,000.00
On Participating Business	2,120,000.00
Total Earned in 1921	$2,243,000.00

Under the "Mutual" plan of the Mutual Life of Canada, every dollar of this magnificent sum belongs to and is credited solely to the participating Policyholders.

Under the terms of the Dominion Insurance Act, other Canadian Life Companies, may allot to themselves, if not provided otherwise in their charters, besides all interest earned on their paid-up capital:

(A) ALL profits earned on Non-Participating Business	$123,000.00
(B) Ten per cent of profits earned on Participating business	212,000.00
	$335,000.00

An equivalent amount each year for the next 20 years would amount to $6,700,000.00. This would mean that, without taking into account future expansion,

The Policyholders of The Mutual Life of Canada will receive in the next 20 years over Six Millions of Dollars more than they would have received if this Company had been organized on the Capital Stock instead of The Mutual Plan.

If contemplating Life Insurance think only of The Mutual Life of Canada and increase the investment value. No foreign business nor investments entertained. Assets exceed Forty-eight Million Dollars. Business in force, Two Hundred and Twenty-eight Million Dollars.

COLLARS AND TOE PRINTS

After all we have been given a physical examination twice a year, after the dentist has tapped our remaining teeth with his little steel crowbar and the oculist has set us in front of his weird little chart:

After the health boards, the welfare workers, and the federal home demonstrators and maternity act employees, yes, and the Volstead legionaries and divers and sundry other gangs of federal, state and municipal functionaries have finished with us:

Why, then, we are all to be "fingerprinted" and required to carry upon our persons a fac-simile of the said finger prints and a card of identification. It is thus that burglars, thieves, forgers and all crookdom are to be confounded.

That is the newest proposal for the "greater good." The New York State Chamber of Commerce wants it. It is all for everybody's greatest good, of course. Nobody who walks uprightly and has a sweet conscience should object to it, and all that.

Why not simplify this whole business? Why not require every male and female aged 10 days and upward to wear a suitable chilled steel collar, engraved with the name and a serial number and bearing a yearly license tag? Why not have on file the toe prints as well as the finger prints in addition to the records of our Binet-Simon tests, our answers to Tom Edison's questionnaire, front and profile photographs and our Bertillon measurements?

Then we could all report every fifth day to some super-bureaucracy. Let's make one bite of it. — Philadelphia Public Ledger.

B.C. GOVERNMENT HAS SIX MAJORITY

Victoria, Nov. 2.—The provincial government was sustained on the first division of the current session of the legislature when an amendment to the address in reply to the speech from the throne was rejected by a vote of 25 to 19. The amendment was introduced by R. H. Neelands, labor, South Vancouver, and deplored the omission from the speech of any reference to unemployment.

KING URGES SILENCE BE OBSERVED

Ottawa, Nov. 2—Governor General Byng has received a message from King George expressing the hope that the two minute silence in memory of those who gave their lives during the war will be observed throughout Canada on Armistice Day, Nov. 11, commencing at 11 o'clock in the morning. In a communication to Premier King the governor general hopes that the people of Canada will join in making the observance a reality. The two minutes of silence is endorsed by the premier in a statement issued last night.

In her campaign address the woman candidate for congress in a North Carolina district says: "I am a Presbyterian and want to go to heaven but I want to go by way of Washington, with a stopover in Congress for two years." After spending two years in Washington she may encounter many "detour" signs before reaching her final destination.

The commercial bodies of a number of Alaska towns resent having their country depicted in the movies as a land of everlasting snow, glaciers, and polar bears. To counteract this impression they have decided to raise a large fund to film phases of life in the territory as it really is. The film aims to show there are no roadhouses nor dance halls in Alaska. Gunmen never had a place in the history of modern Alaska, not even in the boom days of the gold rush. The mounted police are a Canadian organization and can not exercise their power in Alaska. Snowfields and blizzards are not typical of Alaska. The snow fall is light except on mountains—there is rarely wind in winter. The Indians pictured are not typical of Alaska. Northern natives never wore feathers, leggings nor blankets.

COAL CREEK NOTES

The Club hall was filled to capacity on Tuesday evening, when our local minstrel troupe put on their 1923 Revue, "On the Sands." The summer attire worn by the feminine portion of the troupe reminded one of the old days on Blackpools golden sands. Great credit is due to Mrs. J. Caufield and her assistants for the splendid artistic talent displayed in the "make up." Catchy songs and choruses was the menu served, the titbit of the evening being the Scotch dances in costume ably portrayed by Miss Waters of Fernie. A five piece orchestra furnished music for the dance which followed.

The Moose children report having had a real good time at their Mooseheart frolic on Thursday evening in the Hawthorne Hall.

Quite a number of "poppies" were disposed of in the camp on Saturday last.

The mines have worked continuously since Thanksgiving.

The General Manager of the Coal Coal has kindly placed a special train at the disposal of the residents desirous of attending the Armistice Day service at the Orpheum theatre, leaving Coal Creek at 10 a.m.

A dance club has been formed in Coal Creek which will hold two social dances a month. The fee is $1.00 for men. The ladies are expected to provide refreshments. The first dance will be held on Friday, Nov. 17, starting at 9 o'clock. Admission: Ladies and members of dance club free; nonmembers 75c. Further information can be had from J. Monks, Secretary.

CASES BEFORE COUNTY COURT

His Honor Judge Thompson held the regular session of the county court on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The two criminal cases could not be proceeded with as certain material witnesses had not been notified. The cases in question are Rex v Belecky, assault occasioning bodily harm; and Rex vs. Nick Gradzuk, keeping a disorderly house.

The civil cases that came on for hearing were Carosella vs. Hutchinson, a damage action arising out of cattle belonging to the defendant trespassing upon lands of the plaintiff. Judgment was reserved. In the suit of Fernie Liquor Exporters vs. John Armour, judgment also was reserved. This was a case wherein the plaintiff sued for the amount of a cheque upon which payment had been stopped by the defendant when the goods for which it had been tendered were seized by the authorities and subsequently forfeited to the Crown.

Two petitioners for naturalization from Michel appeared and their applications were recommended.

ROTARY CLUB LUNCHEON

The regular weekly luncheon of the Fernie Rotary Club held yesterday was a function of more than ordinary importance, inasmuch as it was given over to the commemoration of Armistice Day. Sherwood Herchmer presided as chairman and prior to calling upon the principal speakers, eloquently introduced the subject of thankful memory which Armistice Day recalls and proposed "the silent toast." Major Moffatt in his opening remarks harkened back to the first Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1918, and very vividly depicted the conditions under which this day of days was like to the boys in the trenches. It was, said the Major, as he had experienced it, very similar to any of our own days during the current week and owing to the fact that the boys in the front line had many times formerly been hoaxed that the war would end the next day, when the official order to "cease fire" was given it was doubted.

W. R. Wilson gave a most impressive address on the same subject. He painted a realistic word picture of the atrocities of warfare and urged that the interpretation that should be made of the Armistice was that it should be a day of earnest thought for the betterment of humanity.

Harry Douglas introduced a matter of public interest, particularly for the welfare of the children—the project of establishing anl maintaining a swimming pool. This question had been introduced some years ago and the necleus of a fund was on hand but something definite should be done. Acting on this suggestion the chairman appointed a committee of Rotarians, E. K. Stewart, J. R. Wallace, Rev. Burns and Dr. Gee. It will be the duty of this committee to confer with the trustees of the fund and endeavor to present for public endorsement some tangible scheme whereby this project may materialize without undue delay.

"DOMESTIC RELATIONS" HAS THEME WOMEN DISCUSS

Is it more cruel for a husband to resort to physical violence when he is angry and distrustful of his wife than to inflict mental cruelty upon her?

Just what "mental cruelty" means is a hard question to answer. Many of the most learned judges who daily hear stories of domestic infelicity and are called upon to grant divorces on the ground of "mental cruelty"—confess they are at a loss exactly how to define the term.

In Katherine MacDonald's latest Associated First National photoplay "Domestic Relations," the famed beauty of the screen, has the role of the young wife of a jurist who inflicts pin-pricks of pain upon his wife with his indifference, his sarcastic remarks, his failure to appreciate her love. Any married woman who has experienced it will testify that there is no suffering that hurts so much as does this "mental cruelty" type of marital anguish. The force that was adopted by another husband in "Domestic Relations" when he failed to believe his wife resulted in the man being sent to prison by the same judge, who that very morning had cruelly hurt his own wife with his mental flagellation.

When Miss MacDonald is seen in "Domestic Relations" at the Orpheum theatre next week local theatregoers will have an opportunity to determine which husband was the most unjust, the jurist, with his arctic indifference to the charms of his beautiful young wife, or the brutal, dull-witted husband who used physical force to emphasize his lack of faith in the good woman who happened to be married to him. It is a nicely balanced question and is sure to provoke an unusual amount of discussion in all walks of life where married men and women fail to properly appreciate and understand each other's likes and dislikes.

COMMUNICATION

Editor Fernie Free Press:

As a visitor, may I through the medium of your columns call attention to the very dangerous state the plank walks are in in this city. I had the misfortune to fall through a sidewalk, where a 12 inch plank was missing, receiving a very bad injury to my leg. The doctor told me it may cause me a lot of trouble. I have mentioned the fact to two officials on work and to the chief of police, and nothing has been done to prevent others being injured, or a child might be killed by dropping through. I think if the city could be made responsible it would do away with the criminal negligence that seems to exist at present. It seems strange that this city is not responsible when other cities in B.C. are.

B. CAUFIELD HAS CLOSE CALL

Barney Caufield's big McLaughlin car turned turtle on that long straight stretch of road just this side of Morrissey on Sunday last. Barney was returning home with his family when the accident occurred,there being five passengers in the car at the time. Two of the children were slightly bruised, the others escaping without a scratch. Barney was pinned under the wheel, but with the assistance of a road gang who came to his aid was quickly released without injury. The accident was caused by one of the wheels snapping off in a rut.

CORBIN DEBATING SOCIETY

At a meeting at Corbin on Sunday, Nov. 5, the subject debated was "Wet vs. Dry." Wm. Chapman stated the case for the Wets and John Clarkson for the Drys. Mr. Chapman dealt with the liquor laws in the various provinces and also with the effects of prohibition in the United States, quoting figures which went to prove that in Chicago insanity was largely on the increase since prohibition, saying that it was better to be drunk than insane. Moonshine whiskey was also the cause of death and blindness. It was better to give the people their freedom to drink good liquor. Mr. Clarkson then spoke for the Drys, saying that total prohibition was the only remedy for the evils that arise through drink, saying that it was a fallacy to suppose that prohibition would cause unemployment, as the brewing trade employed less men per $1000 of capital than any other industry. Every drunkard was at one time a moderate drinker and our hospitals, asylums and prisons were full of people either directly or indirectly through drink. After the speaking a vote of the members resulted: Wets 12, Drys 12.

DO IT ELECTRICALLY

PLANNING THE KITCHEN FOR COMFORT

According to a recent summary in building circles, more than a million homes are under construction at the present time, which means that more than a million women are planning more than a million kitchens.

For obvious reasons, no room in the house is of more interest to the housewife than the kitchen. It is to her advantage to see that all working surfaces are high enough to permit her to cook, wash dishes and prepare foods without bending her back above each task. It is up to her to see that sufficient "convenience outlets" are supplied to permit the use of electric labor savers such as kitchen motor, electric dishwasher, fireless cooker, cleaner, washing machine and electric iron. Even though she does not aspire to an electric range and refrigerator at the start she will see to it that the wiring installation is extensive enough to care for her growing electrical needs.

She will demand that her kitchen walls be light-colored for the sake of cheerfulness and that they be finished in a material that can be washed, such as paint or tile. And last, but not least, she will plan her kitchen so that sink, stove, ice box and dish closets are conveniently located so that dozens of steps are not necessary between each one.

MANY BELIEVE SNEEZING EVIL

Do we sneeze for good or for evil, or for both? A distinguished English surgeon has been quoted as asserting that the former is true. He says: "When a man sneezes heartily he may know himself to be in the best of health. No person in poor health was ever known to sneeze."

Probably the hay fever sufferers would have something to say on this subject and in fact we are told by other authorities that the statement is decidedly open to question.

The fact is that the majority of peoples, both ancient and modern, with the exceptions noted hereafter, seem to have regarded the act of sneezing as one usually fraught with evil. The custom still existing in many lands and among many peoples of uttering a salutation or benediction on hearing one sneeze is a survival of a traditional fear of evil foreshadowed by the act.

Some time ago a German authority in answering a question regarding the origin of the almost universal Teutonic habit of saluting a sneeze with "Zum wohl," or "Gott segne dich," or "Gesundheit," said that it originated during the prevalence of the great plague in the 14th century. One of the earliest symptoms of infection was a sneeze, single at first, but soon followed by a number of sneezes in quick succession. When a person sneezed, therefore, it was assumed that he was infected with the plague, and all who were near him commended him to the care of heaven, and lit out hotfoot to get away from him.

This is the view generally held of the origin of the custom, as it prevails throughout Europe today, but it will not bear investigation, since similar customs prevail among the wildest tribes of Asia, Africa, Australasia, etc. Besides this the literature of Greece, Rome, Egypt, the Jews and other ancient peoples is full of illusions to similar superstitions in regard to sneezing.

Aristotle—to show that the custom of saluting a sneeze was an ordinary (and therefore ancient) one in his day—undertakes to explain it by saying that "when one sneeze and those near salute him, the salutation is in honor of the brain, which is the seat of the understanding and wit."

The Greeks, who refined upon all ancient and inherited customs, and after them the Romans, had an elaborate code by which they distinguished whether a sneeze was to be regarded as a benignant or a malign portent, the distinction being made according to the time, place and circumstances. Thus, if one sneezed between midday and midnight, the augury was happy, unless the moon chanced at the time to be in the sign of the Virgin, the Balance, the Crab or the Scorpion when it became an evil omen. Both Greeks and Romans regarded "sneezing to the right," that is, turning to the right as the sneeze occurred, as a most happy omen.

Father Famien Strada, who has made the most erudite researches into the history and literature of the sneeze, says that Prometheus introduced it to mortals. He had made a statue which he wished to endow with life, and for this purpose he stole a beam of sunlight. Wishing to conceal the theft from Apollo, he hid the beam in his snuffbox. Shortly afterwards, being desirous of taking a pinch of maccaboy, he absent-mindedly put the beam up to his nose—causing him to sneeze violently.

Many savage and semi-civilized races of the Orient have some curious customs regarding the sneeze. When the Sultan of Monomotopa sneezes, for instance, the fact is made known from the palace by a certain signal. Instantly every subject within hearing of the signal sets up a shout, the cry is taken up by others, and so extends until it rolls throughout the confines of his empire. When the Sultan of Senaar sneezes, on the contrary, every woman in his harem or within hearing turns her back upon him, and makes a sign of contempt, by smiting her lips with her hands—disgusted that so mighty a personage should have to sneeze like an ordinary mortal.

BIGGEST SILENT CITY

Greenwood cemetery, in Brooklyn comprising 475 acres, was opened in 1840 and since that time more than 300,000 burials have been made in it. Among the noted monuments in Greenwood cemetery are those erected in memory of Horace Greeley, Jas. Gordon Bennett, John Matthews, the Brown brothers, S. F. R. Morse, Mary M. Danser, Charlotte Canada, Captain Caraja and A. S. Scribner. The soldiers' monument, the firemen's monument and the bronze statue of DeWitt Clinton are also worthy of notice.

When a delegation waited on Premier Bracken of Manitoba to ask for a grant for the Dog Derby he intimated that the financial cupboard was so bare that there was nothing for the bowwows. So the poor dog got none.

Boston is reported to be alarmed over the appearance of a new insect pest known as the Mexican bean beetle. Dumping tea in Boston harbor once caused a revolution and spilling the beans might prove equally disastrous.

Dr. Juan Balme, the Mexican plant wizard, is reported to have produced a new fruit that combines the luscious taste of the peach and the tang of the almond. Dr. Balme began the work of fertilizing the blossom of the peach with the pollen of the sweet or edible almond seven years ago and has succeeded in eliminating the useless bitter kernel of the peach and substituting a valuable article of commerce.

LUMBAGO

IF you feel a touch of lumbago, you can ward off the evils of recurrent attacks, by taking Gin Pills without delay. Learn a lesson from the experience of Mr. H. A. Jukes. After suffering with lumbago for years, and being confined to the house at times, Mr. Jukes began to take Gin Pills. His letter to us reads, in part: "and much to my surprise, I at once felt a change for the better. I have been taking them at intervals, and, up to date, have had no recurrence of my old trouble; in fact, I have not felt better for years."

Don't delay. Buy a box on our money-back-guarantee, or write for a free sample. National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ont. U.S. residents should address: Na-Dru-Co., Inc., 86-88 Exchange St., Buffalo, N.Y.

MRS. RUE IS A COOK

Mrs. Eleanor Rue likes Pacific Milk better than other canned milks she has tried and says it is quite superior to fresh milk for cooking. She says the first can of Pacific Milk she bought was when the Manufacturers' Association started their campaign to increase the use of British Columbia products. She had no idea it would be any different from other canned milks and was surprised to find it better to her taste and to give her cakes a finer grain.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

The drive for two hundred new members is still on, so take advantage of the Ten Dollar open Charter and become a member. There have been cases where very little has been paid, as little as three months dues, and five children have been taken to Mooseheart. The cost to educate and bring them up to eighteen years of age will be twenty-five thousand dollars. Is there any insurance equal to it? A burden that is heavy for one is borne lightly by many. The upkeep of Mooseheart is two dollars per annum per member or only four cents a week to each. Six hundred and fifty thousand members guarantee it. The local Lodge has been in existence ten years. They are one hundred and ninety-six strong. They have paid $21,000 in benefits. Workmen, will ye stand at Mine Gate idle while they dump on to your shores not, alas, the raw materials but the windows and the doors?

Have you stopped to consider if you should die tonight what would become of your wife and children. The Moose provide the insurance you need. Why hesitate? What's the use? Be a man; be a Moose. Ladies, get your husbands, brothers and fathers to join the Moose. Then you will be eligible to join the Women's Chapter of the Women's Legion of Mooseheart. The Men's and Women's Legions have established in Florida, Mooseheaven, which is a home for old men where they can go in their old age and take their wives. The most eminent men in the world are joining the Moose to show their appreciation of the great work they are doing.

Yours for the Old Folks Home.

ACTING IN "THE STORM" IS SUPERB

The limited number of principals in the cast of "The Storm," the Universal-Jewel production which will be seen Wednesday and Thursday at the Isis Theatre, gives each of the three featured players an unusual opportunity for making his acting stand out prominently. House Peters, the star, and Virginia Valli and Matt Moore make the most of their chances. They give a performance that is flawless from an artistic point of view and one hundred per cent in entertainment value.

The play in all its magnificent action is uncommonly gripping and affords an audience the keenest pleasure and suspense. Virginia Valli as the French-Canadian orphan, loved by both Burr Winton and Dave Stewart, is a lovable type and plays the part with a deep understanding and sympathy that is winning her widespread commendation.

"The Storm" presents the struggle between the two lovers to win the girl and the attempt of Manette to play fair with both of them. The demands for a happy ending are met in an unusual, but natural way that sends everyone home happy.

The portrayal of the storm and fire scenes are master strokes of stage management and reflect great credit on Universal, Director Reginald Barker and his associates. None of the stupendous grandeur of Langdon McCormick's scenic spectacle has been lost in the film, rather it has been anhanced by virtue of the wider attitude to the camera.

The forest fire scene in the picture was enacted under grave dangers to the players and the cameramen. The faces of the trio are discernible at all times as they push forward through the fire swept passes of the mountains.

New York and other metropolitan critics have been unanimous in endorsing "The Storm" as one of the greatest pictures produced in a decade, and it probably will be ranked first among the big pictures of the year.

All Her Friends See A Great Change

When a medicine produces the desired results its praise is sure to be heard. That is why Mrs. Katrine Neilsen, Holmpatrick, Calgary, as well as thousands of other men and women throughout Alberta, has become such an ardent champion of Tanlac.

"Not in a long time," says Mrs. Neilsen, "have I enjoyed such good health or felt so well as I do since taking Tanlac. I just think it is the grandest medicine on earth and I never expect to be without it in my house. For several years past I have felt all run down and have been extremely nervous. I had no relish for any kind of food and what I did eat seemed to do me very little good. I felt tired all the time and my sleep was so unsound that it did not rest me. I some how managed to keep going, but it taxed me to the utmost to do my housework.

"So many people here in Calgary were taking Tanlac and praising it that I began taking it myself and the first bottle made a great difference in my feelings. It was only a few weeks until I was enjoying splendid health and since that time, which was about a year ago, I have taken a bottle of Tanlac now and then with the result that I feel strong and well all the time. Everyone speaks of how much better I look than I did before I started taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

HERE'S STORY OF THE COP WITHOUT A VICE

There was a policeman and he was a highly virtuous cop; he did not drink, he did not smoke, he did not swear and he would stay up all night to get a chance to put somebody in jail.

He regarded the law as his private possession, and his enemies as foes of the public weal.

Of all his enemies, he most heartily despised one unregenerate lawyer who had cross-examined this cop with considerable acerbity.

Now it happened on his rounds one night, this officer, with two others, came upon an ungodly quartette shaking dice at a dollar a throw in a poolroom. The attorney was one of the sinners and the officer announced he was going to call the wagon and take 'em in.

In the ensuing argument the policeman sniffed the lawyer's breath and in shocked tones exclaimed: "You have been drinking, too."

Now the attorney knew what he had on his hip and he did some quick thinking; he mysteriously invited the officer into the private office; when they were in there alone he closed the door, pulled out the flask from his pocket, extracted the cork and, handing it to the officer said:

The righteous servant of the law took the flask and exulted: "Now I have got you!"

"What do you mean?" asked the lawyer.

"Got you with liquor on you."

"It may have been my liquor once, but it's yours now," retorted the lawyer and then he opened the door wide and backed out into the poolroom, crying:

"No, sir, that's one thing I refuse to do, drink with an officer while on duty, or in uniform."

The officer stood there stricken dumb, the entire crowd saw him with the open bottle in his outstretched hand, and one man's word was as good as another's about that time.

For days this policeman kept on trying to explain that it wasn't his bottle, that he never took a drink, that he wouldn't be found dead with the stuff, etc., etc., and the more he argued the more he was laughed at.

So he quit the force in disgust and went to work.

The question is now raised if the Daugherty order applies to vessels on the Great Lakes. Eminent legal authorities differ as to whether the three-mile limit applies to fresh as well as salt water.

A number of local citizens have lately been receiving copies of the old fake Spanish prisoner's letter, offering to split a fortune with the receiver if they send sufficient coin to assist in getting the prisoner out of jail. GOVERNMENT BY CAUCUS

Premier Oliver's disclaimer to Mr. W. J. Bowser's criticism that the provincial government is now being governed by caucus can hardly have been intended very seriously. The people of the province were informed very circumstantially of the recent caucus at Nelson. It was held for the purpose of discussing and obtaining sanction for governmental policies of the present session of the legislature. Those policies, in some respects, were amended owing to the attitude of the said caucus. Other policies were recommended and adopted. There is nothing inherently wrong with government by caucus within due restriction, but it tends to diminish the responsibility of ministers of the Crown. Its object is that by caucusing policies before they come before the legislature in the form of bills, smoothing in the nature of unanimity of purpose may be obtained by a political party. It is the method of the drill sergeant who disciplines troops before they engage in battle, only in the political case the regiment can mutiny and force the instructor to obey its behests.

Government by caucus is, as we have said, a departure from the theory of constitutional methods, and that departure can be carried to a point where it will work evil. After all, the purposes of political parties, and especially a government party, can be overdone in a legislature. Government by caucus is a millstone put around the neck of free debate in open parliament. It tends to make those private members, who subscribe to this doctrine or who are whipped into the line of party subservience on every conceivable policy, mere automatoms, or "rubber stamps," as members in this province have been called before in a colloquial sense. That is the danger of government by caucus. A caucus may give authoritative instructions to its members. It may issue mandates which the members are bound to obey implicitly and blindly. It may commit them to courses which are opposed to their instinct and judgment. It does bind them to party purposes and party prejudices, and these do not always mean the general good. A member may, by inclination, belong to the party, but where legislation is concerned he should be governed by reason and judgment. These latter he should not be prepared to sacrifice at the bidding of any caucus.

Premier Oliver has not made it clear that, to whatever extent there is government by caucus in this province, it is not detrimental to provincial interests. No one expects him to make a clean breast of his purposes in holding caucus meetings at times when the legislature is not in session. It is desirable enough to promote party harmony, but it is not desirable to induce any member, or members, by the caucus practice, to sacrifice "his unbiased opinion, his mature judgment and his enlightened conscience" for the purpose of party harmony and with the sole desire of presenting a united front to political opponents. That is the sacrifice whereby government by caucus may work untold ills. A member may betray instead of serving his constituents if he allows his own judgment to be warped or diverted by the exegencies of the caucus system.—Victoria Colonist.

BABE RUTH NOW ON THE CHUTE

New York, Oct. 28.—The greatest disappointment of the world series was Babe Ruth, largely because so much was expected of him. Babe did his best, and hit just three balls hard in the entire series. One went for a double, one for a single, and the other was turned into a putout by Bill Cunningham after a sensational catch. The Babe's collapse was the biggest crash since Jess Willard kissed the canvas seven times in the first round at Toledo under the battering bangs of Jack Dempsey.

Babe's contract has two years to run, but there are clauses in it which the Babe has consistently made operative to the point where a clause for breaking them legally would be readily obtained. If he is no longer of value to the club—and there are good judges of baseball who say that he is through, that the old eye is gone the way of the dimmer — he can be released without either legal or moral hold upon the Yankee owners.

He has been receiving $75,000 a year because he was supposed to be the greatest hitter in organized baseball. In the world series now gone into history he proved himself one of the worst.

In all probability he will get another chance during the spring training season next year. If he were a Ty Cobb, likely to take his downfall to heart and to work all winter to get himself in shape, there would be hope for him. But it looks bad now. He is already on the chute and some one has greased the slide. Only a miracle can save him—and that miracle must be supplied by the Babe himself.

Robert F. Kelly, a baseball expert, says: "Somehow there was a note of tragedy about the pitiful attempts of Babe Ruth to connect for a base hit. It was quite a sight to see the once proud slugger with shortened bat and twisting feet, try to even connect for a single. Once he prided himself on the sweep of his swing, staking everything on a home run, satisfied to lose when he missed. Playing for large stakes or for none. It was all right, for he won often enough to cover up his losings.

"Everywhere today where baseball people gather to talk of their game the question is handed back and forth, 'Is he through??' Certainly there are grounds for such a speculation. In the entire lineup of the Yankee team there was no weaker spot than that filled by Ruth. He was the weakest hitter in the Yankee lineup. Last fall he was injured and counted out. Nothing could be said about the way in which the Giants' pitchers stopped him in that series. It was laid to his injury. This year, before the series started, his host of supporters were confident that his burly figure would be one of the most prominent in the game.

MY FOREST HOME

Oh, for my forest home again
Beside the mountain stream,
Its waters murmuring long
Beneath the trees so green.

The flowers bloom before the door—
They always look so fine,
It was a pleasant place to be
In the good old summer time.

The children came from near and far;
To them it was just grand
To make playhouses on the shore
Of pebbles and of sand.

They had their picnic table, too,
Set with things to please,
In a cool and shady place
Underneath the trees.

There a clever doggie lived;
With people he would mix;
They would always roar and laugh
To see him at his tricks.

But now, alas, a change is come—
No doggie, good and kind,
And he who trained the flowers there
Is gone—and also blind.

And so the world goes rolling on,
With joy to some, to others sorrow;
We have to take things as they come,
Still hoping for a bright tomorrow.

INDIAN SUMMER

At this period of the year the phrase "Indian summer" is constantly in use. Every one associates it pretty definitely with a certain charming type of weather, yet few knew that our forefathers found nothing charming in its original implications.

It must be remembered that, to the early pioneers the coming of winter was an event to be hailed with the greatest of relief. The appearance of winter meant that for a few months, at least, they would be safe from Indian attacks. But it sometimes happened that, after the first onset of winter the weather became warm again. This was the Indian summer, so called because it gave the Indians another opportunity of visiting the settlements with their destructive warfare.

The phrase "Indian summer," therefore, was, to our forefathers, a term wont to curl the blood. The early pioneers on discussing weather prospects, never expressed the hope that "we'll have a good long Indian summer this year." They had only one feeling toward Indian summer, and that was destruction.

Says Joseph Doddridge, who is the authority for the above explanation: "The melting of the snow saddened every countenance and the genial warmth of the sun chilled every heart with horror. The apprehension of another visit from the Indians and of being driven back to the detested fort was painful in the highest degree, and the distressing apprehension was frequently realized."

B.C. MOTHERS GET $331,278

Victoria — Attorney General Manson recently presented to the legislature the report on mothers' pensions for the first nine months of this year, showing that at the close of the period in September there were 771 mothers and 1978 children receiving assistance.

During the nine months there was disbursed in pensions to mothers $331,366. For the whole period since the act came into effect on July 1, 1920, to September 30, the total outlay under its provisions has been $968,278.50.

Most of the mothers receiving assistance have three children or less. There are 97, however, depending on the government's assistance who have four children, 34 who have five, 28 who have six, 6 who have seven children and three mothers who have eight.

E. S. H. Winn, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, who has charge of the mothers' pensions administration, points out that greater uniformity in the operation of the act has been obtained as a result of amendments passed at the last session of the legislature, under which the local advisory boards ceased to function and the work was done by the board's trained investigators.

The investigators have been able to help assisted mothers in securing more suitable living quarters, and they have endeavored to investigate in a manner which would not offend the mother, but rather that they might be regarded as friends offering advice and assistance. The report says:

"It has been a constant source of gratification to note the marked improvement in the health and home conditions of the assisted families. The haunting fear of want and sickness which had formerly possessed the homes is gradually disappearing. There has been a very noticeable improvement in the self-reliance and general outlook of the mothers and in the appearance and development of the children. The board has encouraged self-help to the fullest extent. otherwise there would be a grave danger of creating a class that would tend to relax personal effort and lean on public benevolence."

The report pays tribute to the splendid co-operation of the medical profession, as in many cases free treatment was arranged for by physicians and specialists where treatment otherwise would not have been obtained.

One of the big problems that required solution during the year was that of the assisted mother with an incapacitated husband, or an invalid or imbecile child over 16 living with her. In these cases the allowance is required to be used for the support of the mother and children under 16, but it was found that part of the allowance was going for the upkeep of the husband or invalided children over 16. The question was taken up with municipal authorities and arrangements made whereby the act's allowances were augmented by a grant from the municipality of at least $10 a month for the support of the incapacitated husband or invalided child over 16.

"Provisions of the act are becoming better understood," Mr. Winn says in the report, which is also signed by Parker Williams and Hugh B. Gilmour. "For a considerable time the opinion seemed to be prevalent that any woman who was a widow, a deserted wife, or whose husband was totally incapacitated, or confined to an institution for the insane, or in prison, was entitled to all the benefits of the act, and 131 applications have been received from women who have no children under 16. In spite of the broad interpretation of the word "indigent," a great many applications have been received from women whom it would be impossible for the board to classify as "indigent mothers."

As an instance of this the report quotes the case of a woman whose husband left an estate valued at $14,000, while another woman was left with $9500 of real estate, yet both applied for mothers' pensions.

"Efforts appear to have been made to interpret the act to embrace all forms of relief and to try to shift on to the government many troublesome cases which were proper cases for other forms of aid," Mr. Winn adds.

Cost of administration of mothers' pensions during the first 9 months of this year when $331,366 was disbursed for assistance, amounted to $12,293, or 3.57 per cent of the total disbursement. This included the cost of installing a new system and making a re-survey of all allowed cases, in connection with the inauguration of the trained investigator system and the elimination of the advisory boards.

Railway News

Hardisty, Alta.—Work has just been completed on the C.P.R. bridge, Hardisty, after a great deal of labor has been spent on it.

The trestle was begun in 1906, when the railway came to Hardisty, and trains ran over in 1908. The trestle is 2,714 ft. long, 70 ft. high, and has in it 1,800,000 ft. board measure of lumber, as well as 27,000 ft. of piling. It is estimated that it has taken 800,000 tons of material to make the fill.

The present bridge presents a safe and perfect means of transit.

St. John, N.B.—Five members of the Baseball Writers' Association of the United States arrived in St. John from Montreal. They were Fred Lieb of the New York Evening Telegram, who is president of the Writers' Associatio ; Sid Mercer of the New York Evening Journal; Irvin Vaughan of the Chicago Tribune; Denman Thompson of the Washington Star, and Ed. Ballinger of the Pittsburg Post. They left on the S.S. Aranmore for Digby, en route to the Kegemakoogee district where they will hunt big game. The party are the guests of the C.P.R. The trip was arranged by Joe Page, baseball writer and sport enthusiast, who is a special representative of the C.P.R. He met the majority of the writers in New York and accompanied them to Montreal, Quebec and as far as this city.

The visitors were met at the station by G. Bruce Burpee, district passenger agent of the C.P.R., and C. B. Allan, secretary of the New Brunswick Tourist and Resources Association, and driven to the Royal Hotel.

Montreal—A press dispatch from Calgary crediting to the secretary of the Federated Shop Trades there a statement to the effect that the C.P.R. and certain other railways had knowledge of the conciliation board's award some days before it was filed with the department of labor and in consequence thereof paid the reduced rates of wages as set by the conciliation board prior to the announcement of the award by the department of labor, was brought to the attention of George Hodge, assistant general manager of the C.P.R., Eastern lines, who conducted the case for the railways before the board of conciliation and investigation.

Mr. Hodge denied most emphatically the correctness of the statement. He said furthe that as far as the C.P.R. was concerned it had no knowledge of the report until it was received at the company's offices on September 4, and that instructions to restore rates of pay which had previously been put into effect as from July 16, were issued under date of September 5, making the reduced rates effective as from August 16.

Moose Jaw—"One hundred per cent more grain has been handled by the Canadian Pacific Railway up to the middle of October this year, than ever before for the same period. That will give you an idea of the way the grain is being taken out of the country," said Mr. Chas Murphy, general manager of Western Lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway

He expressed himself very well pleased with the movement of the crop throughout the whole West. When asked as to the possibility of a grain blockade, Mr. Murphy stated that the Canadian Pacific was accepting all grain that was being offered. He pointed out that on one day over four million bushels had been taken out of Fort William and Port Arthur. Mr. Murphy pointed out that there was difficulty in getting bottoms on the lakes to take the grain out, but the elevators were far from being full, and the Canadian Pacific still had the big Transcona elevator empty.

Already Mr. Murphy stated there was a large quantity of grain being shipped out from the head of the lakes by the all rail route. He declared that he could see no grain blockade in sight.

Mr. Murphy pointed out that the Canadian Pacific had moved 14,000 cars off the Saskatchewan division of the railway. This was five thousand more cars of Saskatchewan wheat than had been moved in the same period in any year.

He also pointed out that even with the unprecedented grain movement the Canadian Pacific was moving from 250 to 275 carloads per day from the Western coal mines. "There was thirteen thousand tons moved yesterday," he declared. I was here three weeks or a month ago and at that time I stated we were moving 250 to 275 cars of coal a day, and the movement has been kept at that ever since. We realize, he declared, that the wheat can be moved during the cold weather and people can live, but if the cold weather comes and there is no coal there will be great suffering in the country, and possibly worse.

EVERY ONE WANTS MONEY'S WORTH
CHEAPEST NOT ALWAYS BEST
Person Who Buys From Catalogue House Sees Only the Price and Forgets That Value Is Thing That Counts

(Copyright)

When you spend your money you naturally want to get all you can in return. No one can criticize you for having that desire. Only those who are commonly referred to as having "more money than sense" throw their money away. All others are careful to see that they do not get the worst of any bargain. But one has to be able to look farther than the end of his nose if he is to be sure that he is getting the most that he can get for his money.

That is the defence of the man who buys from the mail order house instead of patronizing the merchants in his own town. He says he can get more for his money when he buys from the mail order man than when he spends his money at home. But in arriving at that conclusion he certainly has not been able to look further than the end of his nose.

In most cases the man who buys goods from a mail order house does so because he thinks he is getting the goods for less money than he would have to pay for them at the store in his own town. He thinks he is looking out for No. 1 and he says it is not his fault if the merchant in his town cannot make any money and is forced to go out of business. He overlooks the fact that he is likely to be as hard hit as anyone else when that merchant closes his doors but, leaving that probability out of consideration, the chances are about 10 to 1 that the buyer has really lost money on his deal with the mail order man.

Price Not Only Consideration

In buying an article of any kind, whether it be a house and lot or a paper of pins, the price is not the only thing to be considered by any means. You are not in the habit of going into a store when you want to buy a suit of clothes and saying to the storekeeper: "Give me the cheapest suit of clothes you have in the house." You want the best suit of clothes you can get for the price you pay for it, but you don't usually want the cheapest thing you can find.

A man may delude himself into believing that when he buys a suit of clothes from a mail order house for $10 he is saving money, but what is there to justify him in such a belief? The mere fact that he is getting a suit for $10 does not mean that he is saving money. The chances are that if he should go to the man who runs the clothing store in his own town and ask for it he could get a suit of clothes for $10 and the chances are also that it would be just as good if not a better bargain than the suit which he could get from the mail order house for the same sum. It is not the price he pays that shows whether he is getting a bargain or not. It is the quality of goods that he gets for his money that counts.

Can Undersell Mail Order House.

The home merchant can sell as cheaply as the mail order man if he sells as cheap goods as the mail order man sells. His expenses are not as heavy as those of the mail order man. He pays less rent in proportion to the business he does, his taxes are less in proportion to the capital invested. His advertising bills are less than those of the mail order man in proportion to the volume of his sales. He can undersell the mail order man any day in the year if he wishes to sell only goods of the same quality and style of those sold by the mail order man, but he doesn't do this because he knows that the majority of the people in his town do not want that quality and style of goods. Therefore he keeps in stock goods of all qualities and all prices. He has the $10 suit for the man who thinks that he can get more for his money by buying a suit at that price than he can by buying a better one for $20, but he tells the customer just what he is buying.

The next time you think about buying something from a mail order house, if you ever do think of such a thing, go first to your home merchant and ask to see the article which you are thinking of buying.

Ready to Compare Prices.

Your home merchant is a business man. He gets the best values he can for his money when he buys goods, and he does not expect his customers to do anything else. All that he asks, in return for the favors he does his customers and the things he does for the good of the community is that he be given an opportunity to meet the insidious competition of the mail order house. He is perfectly willing to have his prices and his values compared to those of the mail order house, but he has a just complaint when he is not given a chance to make this comparison.

If all buyers would take the value as well as the price of the article they are buying into consideration, the mail order houses would all go out of business tomorrow.

TESTING PLANT LOCATION

(Cranbrook Herald)

Following the announcement made last week that the ore testing plant, which has long been promised to this province by the Dominion government, was likely to be located at the coast, interior points are up in arms to have the reported decision of the government changed so as to locate it in the interior, preferably in the Kootenays.

A number of years ago the matter was taken up and the decision arrived at to locate the plant at Nelson. This was owing chiefly to the action of Hon. Martin Burrell, then minister of mines, in deciding that such a plant would be more useful, and more likely to serve its purpose, if located in close proximity to where the undeveloped mineral areas were situated. Later the ministry of mines at Ottawa was merged into the Department of the Interior and the Deputy Minister is known to be quite firmly of the opinion that the plant should go to the coast, where it could be used in connection with the University of British Columbia.

At the same time, Hon. Charles Stewart, the minister, is stated to have assured the Interior people that the plant would most likely be located in the interior, and only a short time ago a prominent Nelson man, interviewing the government on the suject, got the assurance that the ore testing plant would be most likely located in the Kootenays. It has not been learned just what has occurred to bring a change in the previous decision, but it is announced from Ottawa that it is considered the time limit covering the previous $100,000 appropriation has expired, and in a letter to the Vancouver Board of Trade last week, Premier MacKenzie King is understood to have made it clear that the plant was to be located at the coast.

The Nelson Board of Trade immediately got down to considering the matter and has sent a strong protest to Ottawa on the matter. To this the Cranbrook Board of Trade is joining its voice in a strongly worded wire addressed to Dr. J. H. King, East Kootenay member at Ottawa and minister of public works. It was decided at a meeting on Monday evening to wire Dr. King, and on Tuesday the following wire was sent:

To Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Public Works, Ottawa.

Understand from press dispatches that ore testing plant is to be located at Coast. Cranbrook Board of Trade feels strongly that original intention of placing this plant in Kootenays should be adhered to, and would ask your influence to this end. Plant would be of inestimable benefit to prospectors and small mining operators, and supply long felt want in mining development in the Kootenays. Establishment of plant at Coast would greatly limit its usefulness to interior, where undeveloped mining resources largely lie. We therefore strongly urge reconsideration of this decision.

"Bands Across the Sea" was the apt heading of a dispatch describing an audience in Liverpool "listening in" on an orchestra playing in Pittsburg.

I.O.D.E. TENTH ANNIVERSARY

In honor of the 10th anniversary of Mount Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E., Mrs. A. B. Trites, Regent, entertained the members on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 9, to a delightful tea. An interesting review of the work performed by the Chapter since its inception was submitted by respective former officers, while a very pleasing musical program was added to an otherwise highly enjoyable function.

The first Regent of the Chapter, Mrs. N. E. Suddaby, gave a vivid sketch of the progress of the organization during her term of office. She stated it would have been very encouraging could those then engaged in the work have had such assurance of its permanent success as is evident today. Of the 26 Charter Members there are now but 11 residing in Fernie, and only ten of whom are still members. The loss of an organization's membership to the extent of 50 per cent might, and very often does result in failure; but in Fernie Chapter the places have been taken by others, and the numbers increased so that today it can justly be proud of its membership.

The motto: "Our Country First," ddi not begin to hold the true signicance until 1914. The educational work amongst the school children has broadened with the advance of time and has been most commendable. "Our meetings," said the speaker, "allotted three-quarters of an hour to the discussion of business, and the remaining time occupied hearing essays on subjects of 'Empire Biographies,' 'Canadian Heroines,' 'Current Events' and musical numbers. But the war entirely changed our plans, and when this dread news reached us first war measures decided by the National Executive was to supply a hospital ship to the British Admiralty. Our whole membership took active part in this campaign and we were able to send from our Chapter almost $1000. It was a big achievement and we were very proud to render such immediate aid to our country."

"When our first contingent left Fernie for Valcartier, our Chapter supplied foodstuffs for emergency rations on the journey. When the second contingent and Imperial Reservists departed we were able to do the same and also supply knitted comforts. A contribution of $200 was made to the Belgian Relief Fund. A great deal of material for the Chapter was donated by the members, but no one at that time realized the demand would be unending.

"The Patriotic Fund committee enabled us to carry on our work on a larger scale and on Aug. 31, 1914, it was resolved that the Red Cross work should be followed to help our country in its crisis."

"Our Chapter has always met with harmonious co-operation, and at all times cheerfully asumed the duties which lay nearest to hand. In all its endeavors it has staunchly adhered to the motto: "Our Country First."

The Regent, Mrs. Trites, on behalf of the Chapter, expressed grateful appreciation for the services rendered by Mrs. Suddaby during her term as chief executive and also as an active member. Accompanying this econium was a beautiful bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, the gift of the Charter members and the Executive.

Mrs. G. G. Moffatt as Regent of the Chapter for four years, presented the splendid record of achievements during the war, stating that it would be impossible for her to do the Chapter justice as it was beyond her ability to find expressions sufficiently praiseworthy. It was all war work; especially in Red Cross and Soldiers' Comforts, with side issues incidental to war conditions. It was only due to the loyal and untiring efforts of the faithful members, assisted by the cordial co-operation from fraternal societies, both locally and in adjacent districts, that the high degree of success was attained. The Red Cross activities expanded so rapidly that it was necessary at an early date to take over larger quarters, open daily, and regular weekly shipments made.

As the days and months slipped by appeals came from every quarter—prisoners of war, Belgian Relief, Hospital Ship in France, our sanitariums at Balfour and Frank.

The educational work was faithfully carried on during these years, and it is gratifying to note that the Chapter had appointed an Educational Secretary. The creation of this office this important branch of the work. has been of tremendaus benefit in

In conclusion, Mrs. Moffatt said, "This is a very halting and inadequate expression of the excellent work which combined to make us the banner Chapter of British Columbia for these four years, and we were among the first to complete our full National War Memorial obligation."

Mrs. A. I. Fisher, who held office of Regent for a term following the conclusion of hostilities, said that there was a decided tendency towards relaxation from activities such as had been carried on under the tension of the World War. Nevertheless the Chapter had continued to make its donations to the local Memorial Fund, St. Dunstan's, our sanitariums, to soldiers' wives and many other charitable causes. The Red Cross supplies received final disposition by being sent to the French Relief. A contribution was made to the National Memorial.

During this term Mrs. Moffatt had been presented with a Life Membership for her untiring efforts as Regent during the strenuous war days. It was also in this year that the Chapter had adopted the Coal Creek school. Willing assistance had been given for Sporting Days, Navy League, Reconstruction, and many other similar commendable institutions. The year was concluded by making three Life Members in the National Chapter in recognition for their devotion to war work and work of the order.

Mrs. A. Cummings read an interesting paper on Canadian authors.

The sentiment expressed by the concluding speakers was that of gratification that after a decade of activities there was no indication of slackening of pace. This is evidenced by the energies now being directed towards the great educational movement—the National War Memorial. By this accomplishment it is felt 'a bridge of passage' will have been made for greater and better work, because it will enable the young men and young women of our fallen heroes to develop learning and culture. It behooves the members of Fernie Chapter as Daughters of the Empire to continue with unabated energy until they have fully demonstrated their gratitude to the men who flung aside every personal consideration, sacrficed their prospects, abandoned their careers and broke up their homes so that our lives and our country might be spared the ravages of the enemy.

ADDRESS BY COL. HODGETTS

Col. John Hodgetts, of Ottawa, head of the St. John's Ambulance Association of Canada, was the guest and principal speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon on Thursday. The club also entertained on this occasion the members of the mine rescue team, J, Hamer. ardent First Aid instructor, and John Puckey, officer in charge of the Government Mine Rescue Station.

The address by Col. Hodgetts was a very enlightening discourse on the activities of the St. John Ambulance Association, which now proudly claims to have 75,000 members enrolled. Primarily the object of this organization is to educate people in different communities in the art of First Aid, but there are other kindred subjects of inestimable knowledge value taught. The Association has always vigorously conducted "Safety First" campaigns, which tend to instil into the mind that "carefulness" is the essential factor in avoiding injury to life and limb. This element is being more rapidly recognized as time goes on, and throughout the country large industrial concerns, transportation companies and public bodies are very active in teaching people "not to take chances."

In this community where the principal industry was coal mining, the very nature of which is recognized as hazardous for those employed therein, the need for those skilled in First Aid and resuce work is great. While adults should interest themselves in the task it was highly necessary that young boys and young girls should learn and be able to render assistance when occasion demanded to those struck down. Fernie up until recently proudly possessed a Boy Scout Firt Aid team which had shown remarkable proficiency, but unless the "grown-ups" continued to display the proper spirit and encourage the lads in their work, their interest would wane.

Another field in which the Association provided tuition by furnishing text books and instruction was that of "home nursing." This was aplicable more for the girls and young womanhood, but was very beneficial to all. In this country today only a ridiculously low percentage of those stricken with illness received ministration from professional nurses. If a general knowledge were gained of what should be done and how to do it when sickness occured in the home, greater comfort would be assured for those afflicted and recovery to health hastened.

TEACHERS CONVENTION

Saturday, Nov. 11, was field day in Fernie for Public and High School teachers, when 52 representatives of the profession from all parts of East Kootenay were present at a convention in the Fernie Central School.

The Convention — the first of its kind in East Kootenay — was voted an unqualified success by all those in attendance. A special invitation had been extended to the Cranbrook Teachers' Institute and 14 members of that organization motored down for the event.

The day was spent chiefly in discussing technique and methods of teaching the special subjects. In the morning Miss Woodland, principal of the Cranbrook public school, gave an address on "Drawing in Senior and Intermediate Grades," in which the importance of drawing as a subject in the school curriculum was emphasized. To illustrate her remarks, Miss Woodland had a number of examples of the work done in the Cranbrook school, which were much apreciated and admired. An open discussion followed, led by Miss Coles and Miss Fraser of Fernie, after which the visiting teachers were shown over the Central School building and the session adjourned.

At 1.15 a luncheon was served in the Napanee Hotel, to which the members of the School Board had been invited. Trustee Wm. Gates and A. J. Moffatt, secretary, on behalf of the Board, both spoke of the cordial feeling which had always existed between the trustees and teachers in Fernie. The other speakers were: Mr. Beddome, President of the Fernie and District Teachers' Association; Miss Woodland, Mr. Manning, Mr. Paul Murray, a veteran teacher in British Columbia; Mr. Baker, formerly of the Fernie High School staff, but now teaching in Cranbrook, and P. H. Sheffield. During the luncheon Miss J. M. Charlebois and Miss Isabel Dicken favored the company with musical selections.

At 3 o'clock Miss Hogan, vice-principal of the Fernie school, addressed the Convention on the subject of "Music," in which the methods of teaching singing in the school were explained and the value of vocal music in the class room set forth. After a brief discussion the teachers adjourned to the corridor, where exhibitions of motion songs by the pupils of Miss I. Dicken's class and folk dancing by Miss Mercer's pupils were much enjoyed.

The next address was given by V. Z. Manning, inspector of public schools, who spoke of the nature and value of "Standard Tests," especially in the matter of grading classes. Mr. Manning also complimented the teachers of East Kootenay upon th eexcellent results made by their pupils in the last Entrance examination, and expressed his satisfaction at the good work being done throughout his inspectorate.

Although no definite arrangements were made for another Convention, the desire was generally expressed to have another next year, which will probably be held in Cranbrook.

A special warrant for almost $50,000 has been passed by the B.C. government as counsel's expenses in the freight rate appeal.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICE

The Armistice Day Memorial service, which has now become an annual event, was held in the Orpheum theatre on Saturday morning at eleven o'clock, when a large audience gathered for worship. The members of the G.W.V.A., under whose auspices the service was held, marched in a body from the Club rooms to the place of worship. The Boy Scouts also had a place in the procession. Comrade Billsborough occupied the chair and with him on the platform were the clergymen of the city, with the exception of Rev. Father Kennedy, who was unavoidably absent. Prayer was offered by Rev. Don Campbell. Familiar hymns were sung. The address was given by Rev. H. Oswald, whose thoughtful and inspiring message was well received. The speaker paid tribute to the men who had died in Freedom's cause, and appealed for a spirit of service and sacrifice in the life of today. He emphasized the fact that the great need of the world is not so much new forms and organizations as a regenerated humanity.

A very interesting and helpful service was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The following is one of the essays on Armistice Day, for which prizes were offered, written by Miss Annie Arrowsmith, of Coal Creek:

The war of 1914-18 was caused by the ex-Kaiser William's ambition to conquer the world. Nearly all the nations in the world were engaged in this war, so it is sometimes spoken of as "The World War." It is the greatest war ever known, so it is also named "The Great War." When Germany refused to respect the neutrality of Belgium, Britain declared war on the Germans on Aug. 4, 1914, and all British Dominions responded to her call. When the war commenced the British and their allies had a shortage of ammunition. These allies almost lost hopes of victory, but at last decided to fight under one commander-in-chief as the enemy had done from the first. Marshal Foch was chosen for this important position, and from that time the enemy lost all they had gained for a year previously. The ex-Kaiser ordered his fleet to attack the British navy but the sailors mutinied. The soldiers also refused to fight any more. The Germans were now facing starvation.

Then the German people came to the conclusion that their leaders had lied to them when they said that Germany was winning. The firing along the battle front could now be heard in Germany, so the Germans knew that if they didn't surrender their enemies would be marching into Germany next. So they begged for peace which was granted.

When the news reached the soldiers that they must not fire another shot, they were disappointed because they couldn't keep fighting and avenge the wrongs done by Germany; but were glad to think that there was not going to be any more bloodshed. They were all anxious to get home. When the news reached us we thought it was too good to be true. There was great excitement and rejoicing. Crowds were waving flags and singing patriotic airs. People were so glad they were crying with joy.

The first Armistice Day was when the enemy asked for a truce. Each succeeding Armistice Day is really the anniversary of the signing of the armistice or a stoppage of the late World War. The armistice was signed on the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918. It is now kept as a day of remembrance of the fallen soldiers. The general method of celebrating Armistice Day is for all work to cease and people remain in silence for two minutes at 11 a.m. in memory of our fallen heroes, who gave their lives for us. About a week before Armistice Day we buy red poppies to remind us of those who shed their blood during the Great War. The money gathered is given to the dependents of our fallen heroes.

We hope that there will never be another war, and that we'll always have an armistice on the 11th of November, so that those who have lost their lives haven't died in vain. May we do all in our power to avoid war and help to maintain a perpetual armistice.

A meeting of the District Rod & Gun Club will be held on Monday evening in the council chamber. Important business.

"FOOLISH WIVES" SCREEN MASTERPIECE

The first real million dollar photo-drama has made its appearance. It is "Foolish Wives," an extravagant picturization of life and adventure at Monte Carlo, made by Erich von Stroheim for the Universal Film Company. In the lavishnees of its sets, the absolute accuracy of its details and its unusual characterizations, it is reputed to outstrip anything hitherto attempted for the screen. It is to be presented at the Isis Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 29 and 30.

Much has been heard of how von Stroheim caused the construction at the Universal studios in California of huge structures exactly duplicating the principal buildings at the European pleasure resort. Those who have seen the picture say that the director has absolutely reproduced Monte Carlo, from the exotic architecture of the Casino down to the monograms on the linen of the Hotel de Paris.

Universal announces that more than $400,000 alone was spent for sets and that varying numbers of "extra" actors, from several hundred to several thousand, were used from time to time to get crowd scenes typical of the surging pleasure-seekers who throng the plazas, the parks, the promenades and cafes of Monte Carlo.

The magnificent sets, the gay crowds and the colorful activities of Monte Carlo, have been used, it is understood, only as a setting for von Stroheim's strange and forceful story of the adventures and intrigues of a bogus Russian Count and his pursuits of the frivolous wife of an American diplomatic envoy. The director himself plays the role of the Continental Lothario and is said to have created a character recognized as the most debonair, yet the most despicable ever seen on the screen.

These characters live and move about in settings of remarkable grandeur and realism. The ocean promenade at Monte Carlo—the plaza, the elaborate suites of the Hotel de Paris—the Cafe de Paris—the Casino with its expensively dressed throngs of roulette maddened men and women—the exotic night water carnival—the pigeon shooting range—the quaint outskirts of Monte Carlo—the private villas and the sublime views of shore and sea which make Monte Carlo a mecca of beauty—all these and many more have been caught by the camera's eye as atmosphere for "Foolish Wives."

It took more than eighteen months to produce "Foolish Wives.'" The last six months of this time were devoted to cutting and editing the vast amount of negative film exposed. Actual figures for the production show that 320,000 feet of film were taken. This has been cut down to a little over 10,000 feet, the present length of the photo-drama. Only the most striking scenes and the most perfect photography were retained.

It is of interest to note that scores of prominent San Francisco society folk acted as "extras" during certain scenes of the picture. They were used to give tone to the promenade scenes showing the Monte Carlo ocean terraces, where Europe and America's aristocracy are to be found strolling during the Riviera season.

Although it is a picture of luxurious settings and wonderful photography, "Foolish Wives" also has its full quota of thrills. One of its stirring sequences is a fire and rescue scene of unusual vigor. The Count and the Envoy's wife are trapped in the burning tower of an Italian villa and forced to jump into life nets. The scenes are intensely realistic, it is said, and are heightened by natural colors, showing the flames, the fire engines and the richly gowned onlookers in vivid tints.

Masterful handling of the crowd scenes, artistic adaptations of lighting and photography, infinite care in bringing out the subtle ties of character or incident, and especially a cleverness in the utilization of symbolical objects and settings, are understood to mark the highlights of von Stroheim as an actor and a director and to have made "Foolish Wives" just what it is called—"the greatest moving picture ever conceived."

MICHEL PYTHIAN SISTERS

On Nov. 6 the Michel Pythian Sisers gave a social evening in honor of the Grand Chief. Great credit was given by the Grand Chief for the work done, after which she gave a most beautiful address.

Refreshments were served and the Grand Chief presented with a pair of pillow cases, the presentation being made by Bro. Leroy, the chairman. The Grand Chief made a suitable reply. Songs were rendered by Sisters Hartley, Gullett and Gaskell. Pianoforte solos were given by Master Stanley and Miss Annie Gaskell. The Sisters wish to thank the Kola boys for supplying the music. A number of dances were indulged in.

You Remind Me of My Mother—FoxTrot. — Whiteman and His Orchestra. } 18949

An advanced type of fox-trot in slow, sumptuous time, but full of pep. Banjo and piano furnish a perfect background for the jazzy saxophone melody. "You Remind Me of My Mother" is a good dance for a large room, as the pleasant, lively melody is carried on a full-voiced saxophone.

Those Longing for You Blues—Fox trot — The Benson Orchestra of Chicago } 18948

This is a perfect gem of dancy melodiousness rendered in splendid time, a whole lot steadier that you'd expect. A rich-toned piano sets off the melody. "Those Longing for You Blues" is slow in time, but a sporty little saxophone titters and trills and bleats humorously and a contrabass drops so low you look around for something to hold on to.

Zenda—Fox Trot — Zez Confrey and His Orchestra } 18945

The brasses carry most of this melody, with an acrobatic obbligato on the saxophone. Bits of Mendelsohn's "SPRING SONG" are beautifully interwoven while the leaves are tumbling. "Zenda" is being featured in "The Prisoner of Zenda". It is a smooth fox-trot with a striking piano background.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS SCORES SUCCESS

Richard Barthelmess, star of "Tol' able David," pronounced one of the three best pictures of the present season, will be the feature at the Orpheum Theatre next week in his latest First National attraction, "Sonny." This is the adaptation of the sage play by George Hobart which ran so successfully on Broadway last fall and which was declared one of the most human stories ever dramatized.

Pauline Garon, who created the leading feminine role in the stage play, retains her part in the screen production by virtue of her excellent acting. Patterson Dial, who had an important part in the Barthelmess' "The Seventh Day," has the role of a Red Cross worker, while the remainder of the cast includes Margaret Seddon, Lucy Fox, Herbert Grimwood, Fred Nicholls, Jas. Terbell, Margaret Elizabeth Faulconer and Virginia Magee.

Henry King, who directed the two previous independent Dick Barthelmess pictures, wielded the megaphone for "Sonny" and the complete liasion between star and director promises, in this instance as in the two previous releases, a perfect picture.

The story centres about the complications ensuing when Joe Peters, Hoboken poolroom proprietor, returns from the war to find himself taken for Sonny Crosby, who was killed in France. Sonny happened to be the last word in money and blue blood. Joe wouldn't have taken the job for anything, but—there was Sonny's blind mother looking for the return of her boy.

In addition to the regular state ticket, electors in Washington vote on over forty referendums at the coming election. To facilitate taking the vote the polling booths might be equipped with windlasses.

Joseph Pender Stanley Errington, who at one time worked in the bush for East Kootenay lumber companies, since he came out of the army, claims to be the legal heir to the title and estate of the late Sir John Stanley Errington, who died more than 30 years ago. The baronet died without issue and the title was declared extinct. It was one of the oldest baronetcies named in Burke's Peerage. The British Columbia claimant is visiting Vancouver barristers seeking legal aid. Should he secure the title and estate he will in all probability come back to East Kootenay and engage in ranching.—Vancouver Sun.

FERNIE AND CRANBROOK DEMANDS THE BEST

J. R. Walkley and Bert Johnson, of the Cranbrook and Fernie Meat Markets, returned home Sunday last after spending a week at the Calgary Fat Stock Show. Among their many purchases in the beef line they bought 16 head of the choice Baby Beaves which are fed and shown yearly at this show by the children of the Calgary farming district. All the winners in this class went to Mr. Walkley's bid, including the Grand Champion Angus Steer, from John Gillis Lougheed. This is the third year that Mr. Walkley has bought this class of beef to B.C., and he was heartily congratulated at the close of the sale by the exhibitors. Half of this beef was purchased for the Fernie Meat Market, and will be for sale at that place from now on.

CANADIAN LITERATURE

It is often said that Canada has no national literature and outside of a little poetry, a few novels and a handful of short stories, this is absolutely the truth. A short time ago an editor of one of Canada's newer magazines received a MSS. from a lady whose name often appears in Canadian and American periodicals. Enclosed with the MSS. was a note to say that "while this story was not specifically Canadian, it could easily be made so by substituting the word Montreal or Toronto for the word Boston wherever the latter occurred in the narrative.

Does it make a story Canadian because a Canadian city is named in it? Or because the author is of Canadian birth? Does it make a story Canadian because some person comes over from England or the United States and exploits our coldness, or our wildness or our-what-not, in order to give thrills to the readers of another country? I do not think it does. And yet that is what most Canadian literature has consisted of in the past.

I believe there is a national spirit animating our body politic; a sense of nationality that is the direct outgrowth of an environment and manner of living, which is totally unlike any other environment on earth; and that it makes true Canadians different from all other people, both collectively and individually. And moreover, that individuality is worthy of being perpetuated. Yet these differences cannot be displayed in national exhibitions, nor featured in daily newspapers. They cannot be defined and analyzed even by those superbeings, the modern psychologists. They can be understood and interpreted only by that divinest faculty of man—the imagination of the artist.

It is the business of an author to observe and interpret the life around him so as to make it understood by his readers as a phase of life distinct individual and peculiar to the environment which serves as the scene of his story, and not only the scene but the characters of his story should be the inevitable outgrowth of environment. If we substituted the names of New England towns for those of French Canadian villages in some of Gilbert Parker's stories, would that make them American? No, It would only make them ridiculous. Try to adapt one of Norman Duncan's stories of Newfoundland to British Columbia, and see how impossible it is to separate a real work of art from the soil of its nativity.

Why have we not a national literature, wherewith to impress our personality upon the other peoples of the earth, The very first book written on this continent was written in Canada; and yet the people to the south of us are biulding themselves up a distinctive literature, and using the brains of Canada to do it with. Why is this,

I think one reason is illustrated by the case of Arthur Stringer; and what is true of him is true more or less of all the best Canadian authors.

There is a magazine in the United States which has a perfectly normous circulation, and which pays its contributors as much or more than any other magazine in the world. In a recent number it was featuring Arthur Stringer in its editorials and hailing him as "the most gifted writer alive." When a man brought up and educated in a country of 7 million, can go over to a foregn country and take first rank among a hundred million, surely Canada is producing such stuff as geniuses are made of. Yet so strong was Mr. Stringer's patriotism that several years ago in the height of his fame, he left the United States and bought himself a home near his birthplace on the shores of Lake Erie. (Mr. Stringer always contends that he is a farmer by trade and a writer by profession). But the man had to live and he could not live on scenery even in Canada. So a year ago this month he moved his family back to New Jersey. For all th emagazines in this country, together, could not pay Mr. Stringer one tithe of what he was offered from American periodicals.

Another reason was stated recently by B. K. Sandwell, secretary of the Authors' Association, and professor at McGill University. Mr. Sandwell said that up to the present, conditions in Canada had not been such as to inspire authors with the necessary stimulus. Mr. Sandwell did not know at that time that a very great stimulus of this kind was about to be given, and we are all very pleased and proud that it should come from a member of Mt. Fernie Chapter I.O.D.E. I refer, of course, to Mrs. R. W. Wood's well known gift of $200 a year for ten years, to be awarded for the best short story submitted each year. After hearing of Mrs. Wood's offer, Mrs. McIntosh, of Montreal, was moved to emulate her example by donating $100 a year for ten years for the best one-act play, rules to be very much the same as those governing the short story. That is, the writer must be a B itish subject; the MSS. must be sent to the National Educational Secretary of the I.O.D.E. at Toronto; and all rights in the story must be vested in the Daughters of the Empire.

We are so accustomed to Mrs. Wood doing everything in her power to further education, art and general culture in our own district that we may lose sight of just how far-reaching is the influence of this latest gift. Mrs. Wood is here with us today and I'm not going to embarrass her with tiresome praise, which is the last thing she would desire. But I think we should realize the nation-wide significance of this act.

Because $200 is quite a large price for a short story in Canada, it follows that all the best writers of the Dominion will probably compete. It will therefore be easy for the Daughters of the Empire to sell the prize story at a good price. Or should they wish to have it published in Echoes they can still collect five or ten of these prize stories later, and publish them in book form. In this way enough could be realized to renew the prize money from time to time, and thus make of it a perpetual institution.

So far as I know Mrs. Wood's gift is the greatest single impetus ever given to Canadian literature. There have been prizes offered locally in certain parts; there have been prizes such as Hadder and Stroughton offered last year, of $2500 for the best novel sent them. But that is just an extra large price offered for one story, which they will sell again for their own profit. This prize, as I have shown, may be made a perpetual inducement to Canadians to build up a distinctive literature of their own.

In closing I don't think I can do better than quote two short poems from a British Columbia authoress of whose work we have every reason to be proud, Miss Isabel Ecclestone Mackay. The first is entitled:

Laureate.

Death met a little child who cried
For a bright star which earth denied,
And Death, so sympathetic, kissed it,
Saying: 'With me
All bright things be!'
And only the child's mother missed it.

Death met a maiden on the brae,
Her eyes held dreams life would betray,
And gallant Death was greatly taken:
'Leave' whispered he,
'Your dream with me
And I will see you never waken.

Death met an old man in a lane;
So gnarled was he and full of pain
That kindly Death was struck with pity—
'Come you with me,
Old man,' said he,
'I'll set you down in a fair city.'
So, kingly Death along the way
Scatters rare gifts and asks no pay—
Yet who to Death will write a sonnet!
If any dare,
Let him take care
No foolish tear be spilled upon it!

The second is written in free verse called

The Returned Man

They thought that he would come back
Quieter
Less boyish
But still a hero with tales to tell.
So when there were no tales
Only blank silences—
When he lay for hours
Staring through leafing branches
And forgot them
Utterly—
They tried to arouse him, saying:
'The war is over.'
But when he turned on them
His shadowed eyes,
They stammered—
Knowing that they lied!

I think one of the brightest signs of the times is the fact that the Daughters of the Empire are getting behind this branch of Canadian art. The Daughters of the Empire have never taken hold of anything yet that they have not made a success of it, so I feel there are great hopes in the future of building up a true Canadian literature.

WIT & WISDOM

One candidate for congress in New York state feels confident of election. He has appointed his wife, who is accustomed to having her own way, his campaign manager.

"Kindly Act Week," Octobes 30 to November 6, is to be observed in the United States. As it happens to be the week before election it will call for wonderful self denial on the part of campaign workers.

Georges Carpentier, late heavyweight champion of Europe, has been engaged to visit foreign countries on a trade mission. Should he drop off at Senegal he would have little trouble in booking a big order for boxing gloves.

At a blacksmiths' convention in Michigan one of the delegates predicted that the trade would be a lost art in 25 years and that horses will be shod with a sort of a slip-on rubber pad. The kick of a mule with rubber shock absorbers would lose much of its effectiveness.

About $15,000 worth of Creston Valley lands were disposed of at the government sale of lands here on Monday, better than half of the parcels offered being sold at the sale or disposed of privately by J. W. Smith, Land Department representative, the following day at the upset price. With the exception of lands that are subject to overflow the demand was quite uniform on all the tracts offered. — Creston Review.

According to statistics compiled by the United States department of agriculture, Canada comes first in the consumption of butter. Each person in Canada is credited with consuming 27 pounds of butter a year, compared with 15 pounds in the United States. Sweden leads in the consumption of milk with 68 gallons given as the annual amount consumed by each person. Switzerland leads in cheese, eating with an average for each person of 26 pounds a year. Although official figures are not available, Germany is believed to lead in sauerkraut consumption, Spain with garlic and Italy spaghetti.

A magistrate in Pennsylvania proved his mettle when he meted out a good fistic thrashing to a man who appeared before him charged with wife beating. When the woman told her story and placed on exhibit the blackened eye, the magistrate shouted: "Wait a minute! I'm getting tired of this! I am going to see how he likes it!" With these remarks the magistrate came right over the top of his desk, ordered the accused to stand up and then rapped him a humdinger over the left eye. He fell to the floor, but was ordered up for another one. Rising the third time, quite penitent, he received a couple of stinging slaps to the right and left sides of his face.

Gains 35 Pounds Rheumatism Is Gone

The wonderful reconstructive powers of Tanlac are again very forcefully demonstrated. In this instance the grateful beneficiary is John H. King, locksmith, living at 299 14th Ave., West, Calgary, Alberta, who declares:

"Tanlac built me up to good health, with a gain of thirty-five pounds in weight, over a year ago and I have been feeling fine ever since. Just after coming back from overseas, about two years ago, I was taken down with an attack of rheumatism that crippled me up so I couldn't work and sent me to a hospital for about ten months.

"During this long siege of rheumatism I lost fifty-five pounds in weight, going down from one hundred and sixty-five to only one hundred and ten. I was just a shadow of my old self and had no strength or energy left. I was terribly run down and felt tired out and exhausted all the time.

"Finally I resorted to Tanlac and to handle the small fruits grown in surprised me. It proved to be so well suited to my needs that by the time I finished the fourth bottle I was feeling a hundred per cent well. As a medicine and tonic to build a person up and make them feel right I don't believe Tanlac has an equal."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

"EVERYGIRL" REAL LIVE COMEDY

(From Vancouver Sun)

Refined humor, sprightly daintiness, abundant melody — always in handsome settings — marked the opening performance of Tom McKnight's musical revue, "Everygirl, at the Avenue Theatre last evening. This pleasing musical comedy is made up of equal parts of comedy, melody, dancing and pulchritude; is sweetened by oft-recurring lyrical beauty and seasoned by much rib-tickling drollery; and the whole is kept well stirred by its action and served very much to the taste of the audience.

Perhaps the features of this entertaining pot-pourri that call for most praise are the youth and charm of the chorus, the colorful richness of the costumes and scenery, the poise and finish of the principals, the cockney incongruities Pat Rafferty and, above all, the total absence of anything untoward. It was a show to which a daughter might bring her own father, if you know what I mean.

There was a plot. Oh, yes. All musical comedies have plots; and in the case of "Everygirl" we were assured of this at the very start by Tom McKnight, whose easy dignity presided over the whole revue in the character of Busybody. The plot (we are told) centered about Everygirl prettily played by Dorothy Mackay, and showed (we are informed) her career from the cradle to the altar.

Most of said career appeared to take place in a very stagy atmosphere, but this, of course, did not lessen the vivacity of the piece. Opposite Everygirl there was Only-Boy (Billy Patterson), but there the symbolism ran out, unless "Little Girls" and "Big Girls" possess an allegorical significance.

In fact, the action was far more allegro than allegory, and that is a good thing in revue. In a large and talented company, Mayme Bell and Pauline Harvey deserve special mention for their singing and acting ability; while the sponataneous comedy of the diminutive Pat Rafferty, master of "fall" styles, must be acknowledged the "life and soul" of the offering.

It is a good, clean entertainment.

EVERY ONE WANTS MONEY'S WORTH

CHEAPEST NOT ALWAYS BEST

Person Who Buys From Catalogue House Sees Only the Price and Forgets That Value Is Thing That Counts

(Copyright)

When you spend your money you naturally want to get all you can in return. No one can criticize you for having that desire. Only those who are commonly referred to as having "more money than sense" throw their money away. All others are careful to see that they do not get the worst of any bargain. But one has to be able to look farther than the end of his nose if he is to be sure that he is getting the most that he can get for his money.

That is the defence of the man who buys from the mail order house instead of patronizing the merchants in his own town. He says he can get more for his money when he buys from the mail order man than when he spends his money at home. But in arriving at that conclusion he certainly has not been able to look further than the end of his nose.

In most cases the man who buys goods from a mail order house does so because he thinks he is getting the goods for less money than he would have to pay for them at the store in his own town. He thinks he is looking out for No. 1 and he says it is not his fault if the merchant in his town cannot make any money and is forced to go out of business. He overlooks the fact that he is likely to be as hard hit as anyone else when that merchant closes his doors but, leaving that probability out of consideration, the chances are about 10 to 1 that the buyer has really lost money on his deal with the mail order man.

Price Not Only Consideration

In buying an article of any kind, whether it be a house and lot or a paper of pins, the price is not the only thing to be considered by any means. You are not in the habit of going into a store when you want to buy a suit of clothes and saying to the storekeeper: "Give me the cheapest suit of clothes you have in the house." You want the best suit of clothes you can get for the price you pay for it, but you don't usually want the cheapest thing you can find.

A man may delude himself into believing that when he buys a suit of clothes from a mail order house for $10 he is saving money, but what is there to justify him in such a belief? The mere fact that he is getting a suit for $10 does not mean that he is saving money. The chances are that if he should go to the man who runs the clothing store in his own town and ask for it he could get a suit of clothes for $10 and the chances are also that it would be just as good if not a better bargain than the suit which he could get from the mail order house for the same sum. It is not the price he pays that shows whether he is getting a bargain or not. It is the quality of goods that he gets for his money that counts.

Can Undersell Mail Order House.

The home merchant can sell as cheaply as the mail order man if he sells as cheap goods as the mail order man sells. His expenses are not as heavy as those of the mail order man. He pays less rent in proportion to the business he does, his taxes are less in proportion to the capital invested. His advertising bills are less than those of the mail order man in proportion to the volume of his sales. He can undersell the mail order man any day in the year if he wishes to sell only goods of the same quality and style of those sold by the mail order man, but he doesn't do this because he knows that the majority of the people in his town do not want that quality and style of goods. Therefore he keeps in stock goods of all qualities and all prices. He has the $10 suit for the man who thinks that he can get more for his money by buying a suit at that price than he can by buying a better one for $20, but he tells the customer just what he is buying.

The next time you think about buying something from a mail order house, if you ever do think of such a thing, go first to your home merchant and ask to see the article which you are thinking of buying.

Ready to Compare Prices.

Your home merchant is a business man. He gets the best values he can for his money when he buys goods, and he does not expect his customers to do anything else. All that he asks, in return for the favors he does his customers and the things he does for the good of the community is that he be given an opportunity to meet the insidious competition of the mail order house. He is perfectly willing to have his prices and his values compared to those of the mail order house, but he has a just complaint when he is not given a chance to make this comparison.

If all buyers would take the value as well as the price of the article they are buying into consideration, the mail order houses would all go out of business tomorrow.

RED MOUNTAIN

The intrinsic worth of Boundary Red Mountain shares is shown by a recovery in price from 45c to 58c in seven days. Professional speculators on the sellin gside of the market failed to take into account the buying power created by announcement of prevailing bullion production at the rate of $565 per day.

We believe that this production record will lift the shares far in advance of their recent level of 66c. Saturday's close was 57c bid—59c asked.

COAL CREEK NOTES

1 East mine was laid idle on Monday in consequence of a "bump," which occurred during the early forenoon. Fortunately there were no parties in the place where the bump occurred and all men working in the area got away safely. Dan Unittici was crushed by a door. He was taken to the Fernie hospital, but was allowed to proceed home.

The grim reaper claimed one of our residents this week in the person of James Watson, who passed away in the Fernie hospital after having gone an operation for appendicitis. The funeral will be held on Saturday.

A number of Creekites availed themselves of the special train on Armistice Day to participate in the Veterans annual parade and service.

W. H. Thompson, district supervisor of the Moose, was in camp rustling for new members for the order on Tuesday.

Micky Hudock returned to camp after a week spent in the South Fork. Cooking venison permeates the atmosphere in consequence.

Tommy Glover brought in a fine specimen of the Bruin family last week end as the result of his prowess and skill.

Nine essays on Armistice Day were sent down from the school here to be judged in connection with the Veterans Armistice Day competition. The prizes for Coal Creek were awarded as follows: 1 Annie Arrowsmith, 2 Edward Coughlan. Honorable mention, Helen Workman, Belle Smith, Percy Oakley.

Col. Hodgetts, director general of St. Johns Amublance Association, visited camp on Wednesday as the guest of Dr. Workman and Supt. Caufield. Col. Hodgetts gave an address in the Club Hall on the Origin and Usefulness of the Association. The lecture was much appreciated.

All ex-service men and members of the Ladies Auxiliary are requested to attend the funeral of the late James Murphy on Sunday afternoon in the R. C. church at 3.15, to the Soldiers plot. All having uniforms and medals are requested to wear them. A special train will leave Coal Creek at 2.20 p.m. on Sunday for the convenience of those attending.

ADDRESS ON SOCIAL HYGIENE

The Rev. H. T. Archibald, secretary for the Provincial Council for Social Hygiene, addressed a meeting in the United Church on Friday evening last.

The speaker, after outlining in a general way the aim and scope of the Society that he represented, said in part:

From time to time, as is in the knowlede of us all, certan phases of public health have been brought to our notice and drastic action has been taken through government agencies and voluntary organizations to combat one or other of those great diseases which take their toll of our civilized countries, such for example as the disease of tuberculosis. Here, the public have been educated to the prevalence of and danger of tuberculosis and as to the methods which may be adopted to lessen the incidence of the disease.

For long it has been suspected that there were other great diseases attacking our communities with great effects but it remained for those statistics, made valuable through and during the war, to awaken us fully to their danger and extent. These are both venereal diseases. It was found in every military district in Canada that from 13 per cent to 17 per cent of those offering themselves as recruits for service had to be rejected as physically unfit through the presence of one or other of these diseases.

The point to be emphasized is that these men represented the best of our manhood in the prime of life, coming up out of the social conditions of civil communities. We are now certain from the figures which better investigation has placed at our disposal, that from 23 per cent to 30 per cent of the population are infected. We must remember the amount of innocent infection which is included in these figures, especially among women and young children. A study of the literature put out by the Provincial Council will give a knowledge of how far these diseases go and what undeserved misery they give rise to.

So great is the menace and dreadfulness of these diseases, due largely to the fact that we have refused to face them, that the governments of civilized countries have already taken drastic action. In Great Britain a Royal commission was appointed to investigate the whole situation, followed by government legislative action and grants made to enable sufferers to be treated. In the United States of America, likewise, legislation has been passed, while the federal government of Canada has a special Department of Public Health to deal with the situation, which again has been followed by action on the part of every provincial government.

Along with this action on the part of the governments, voluntary organizations have been formed to back up these official efforts by means of an educational and preventive campaign. Hence arose the Canadian National Council for Social Hygiene, and the B.C. Provincial Council for Social Hygiene.

The Provincial Council aims to fight the attitude of indifference and refusal to face the facts as they exist by creating a strong body of public opinion among both men and women, which shall demand the eradication of these dieases. Our policy will work out in two directions. In the first place we must make known the right methods of cure, through means provided by the government, and also by all reputable private practitioners coupled with the serious warning against resort to advertising quacks in any shape or form.

We must ask for serious consideration of the means whereby the government clinics can be made more effective, through follow-up work, social service case sheets, etc., so that the causes of infection may be traced to their roots. We must also make it widely known that the innocent are liable to contract these diseases as well as the guilty.

In the second place, we must work out on preventive lines, by striving to understand those conditions of life which favor the spread of the diseases and, by understanding, then be able to remove trem. This means an investigation into the sociological conditions and influences of present day life.

Thus we must study home conditions and the modern tendencies that weaken family life. Industrial and working conditions generally must also be reviewed, as well as the effect of present amusements and modern habits, such as dress, picture shows, cabarets, motor cars, etc.

There is also the modern problem of marriage, as for example, the lack of preparation for marriage and the economic barrier. Again, we must seek to positively educate the public by all means in our power on the right training of the young and the ideals of sex and the right attitude of mind towards the whole question.

Primarily we feel very strongly that this is an unavoidable responsibility placed upon parents themselves, and we must help the parents to carry out their duty.

Finally, we feel very strongly that any campaign of this sort must fail of its end and do more harm than good unless it is based upon the great moral and spiritual ideals, which alone can advance the race.

MURDER TRIAL NEXT MONDAY

Monday next, Nov. 27, will see the famous Picariello murder case revived in public interest when the trial of the alleged slayer of the late Const. S. O. Lawson, and his alleged female accomplice, Mrs. Charley Lassandra, opens in Calgary before Mrs. Justice Walsh.

Since the close of the preliminary hearing in Coleman, "Pick" has been confined in the Calgary jail, while Mrs. Lassandra has been at the Fort Saskatchewan penitentiary.

The trial is expected to precipitate one of the hardest legal battles in the judicial annals of the province. A mild sensation was created last week when the resignation of J. W. McDonad, K.C., from the position of crown prosecutor of the Macleod judicial district, and his withdrawal from the Picariello case was announced. This leaves A. A. McGillivray, K.C., of Calagry, associated with Mr. McDonald at the preliminary hearing, alone. Just who will assist him in the conduct of the case has not been announced. A. McKinley Cameron, of Calgary, will be the senior counsel for the defence, assisted by S. Herchmer, of Fernie. C. F. Harris, of Calgary, defended the prisoner at the preliminary hearing.

U. M. W. OF A. ELECTIONS

There is likely to be some keen competition in connection with the election of officers in District 18 of the United Mine Workers of America according to information circulated.

It is said that while there has been no opposition to Wm. Sherman, the president, E. Mallabone, of Canmore, will contest the position of secretary-treasurer, held at the present time by Robert Peacock. Wm. Ryan, the vice-president, will have two opponents—D. Grant, of Bellevue, and Brant Matthews, of Rosedale.

There will be a keen fight in connection with the position of international board member, which has for a considerable time been held by Robt. Livett. Those who are opposing him are Rod McDonald, of Blairmore; Frank Wheatley, of Blairmore; John Brooks, of Bellevue; and C. Hesketh, of Fernie.—Blairmore Enterprise.

ROTARIAN LUNCHEON

The Rotarians held their weekly meeting last evening in the grill room of the Napanee Hotel. The Business Methods Committee was in charge on this occasion and the program opened with a question and answer drill in which every member of the Club took part. This feature was extremely interesting as well as educational, and coupled with an address on business methods, ethics and standards by President Ed. Stewart, forcibly brought home to every Rotarian and guest present the ideals we should ever have before us in our daily walks of life.

Chairman of Committee, Phil Sheffield, presided and was delightful at times. His introduction and explanation of the topic was masterly; his natural cheerful manner, augmented by the spirit of Rotary, made every one feel comfortably at home, and his sparkling repartee continually enlivened the proceedings.

W. R. Wilson injected considerable merriment by reading a synopsis of the Armistice Rotary luncheon meeting held a fortnight previous. This he had reduced to rhyme and the accurate recital of the incidents on that occasion in this form evoked unrestrained laughter and applause.

Following the president's address, Mr. Wilson again arose to his feet asking permission and craving the indulgence of the members while he made a few remarks in reply. We all in times gone by have had the privilege as well as the pleasure of hearing discourses by Mr. Wilson. These have been on occasions when matters of local and more widespread importance were the subject, and at no time were the orations lacking in sound logic or in having ample food for thought. The hearers could always be assured that a moral for each and all could be carried away and treasured in memory as something highly beneficial and pleasant. Those were functions when Mr. Wilson at least had had some opportunity to give his subject somewhat careful thought and preparation in advance but last night without any hesitation he launched forth extempore and delivered what we believe to have been one of the most brilliant and inspiring discourses during his long residence in this city. Only by reflex action could the world be reverted from its plungs of recent years resultant in present day discord, dissension, strife and turmoil. People can accomplish this only by adhering to worthy principles. In rapid succession, illustrated by glimpses of personal touch, Mr. Wilson laid bare what ultimately happened when we as individuals in our every day lives failed to embody and practice the code of honor, loyalty, justice and service to our fellow men. "Never break the law" might have been chosen as the theme for this word picture. No matter in what form or how trivial we may transgress or infringe upon the rights of constituted authority or spiritual teachings, just as surely as we do, the inevitable punishment is meted out.

The attention of the Rotarians was again directed to the fact that the School Extension Bylaw debentures were now available for disposition. Some time ago it had been suggested that these municipal securities should be sold locally and this method will now be vigorously taken in hand by a Citizens' Committee. A sub-committee of Rotarians comprised of A. Klauer, A. Watson, T. Prentice, Major Moffatt and Harry Douglas, was appointed to confer with the city council with a view to effecting an organization to carry out this work to the desired conclusion, that is, secure subscribers within the city to take up the entire issue of $32,000, 6 per cent, 1942 maturity. The bonds may be had, according to Mayor Henderson, in any denomination suitable to the respective purchasers.

SOCIALISTS KICKED OUT

In the recent borough elections in London the Labor-Socialist element was practically cleaned out of office by the Municipal Reformers. London taxpayers had in many cases seen their municipal rates double in a period of less than two years, and naturally enough they became alarmed. For the time being at least the London voters shed their indifference. Day in and day out they preached municipal reform and the lowering of the tax rate, and when polling day came they voted. In consequence the labor party, which is partially Socialist and part Bolshevistic have lost their strangle hold on most of London's boroughs. In the fourteen London boroughs which were controlled by the Labor-Socialist party from the year 1920 to the present, the tax rate ran from 5 shillings and 9d. in the pound, the rate in Poplar Borough down to 2 shillings and 11d. in Fulham, whereas in the Municipal Reform boroughs the rate ran from 3 shillings and 6d. in Hammersmith down to 1 shilling and 4d. in Westminster. In boroughs such as Stepney and Deptford the rates in a two year period had doubled, but worse yet the doles, which were the sink holes for these boroughs funds. In Poplar, for instance, manufacturing concerns could not get hands, while the population was spoon fed out of the borough treasury.

A part of labor's programme, which is now defeated, was State control of industry. Under the labor regime coal, bread, meat and what not, were to be operated municipally. In fact, it was the old useless, visionary idea of taking capital out of industry with no idea of compensation. All in all it was Bolshevism at its worst. —Saturday Night.

According to a reliable estimate made this week, there are about 850 men now employed at Kimberley, including also the new mill site. There is no further accommodation available at present, for which reason no more men are being taken on. In the meantime the town has enjoyed a moderate boom from the additional population which has come in, and among the new buildings recently put up are two churches, for the Methodists and the Catholics. The official opening of the Methodist church is expected to take place shortly, the building now being just about completed. Hitherto Rev. Evan Baker, in charge of the Methodist work there, has had the use of the basement of the school building.—Cranbrook Herald.

SKILFUL SLAVES IN EVERY HOME

(By Lilian Cassels)

If the labor now performed by electricity, steam and machinery for citizens of the Uinted States were accomplished by hand power, it would require thirty slaves apiece for each man, woman and child in the country. This is a statement made by the Smithsonian Institution.

This being true, it is emphatically to the interest of every home-builder to see to it that he and his wife and children get their share of the general service. And as the powers of electricity are practically boundless in the elimination of hand work in the home, it is particularly to his interest that he provide abundant doors through which the wonderful energy can get in; for when it is allowed to work to the limits of its powers, housework is made more a matter of direction than of drudgery and the time and energy of women are saved for gentler occupations than those that have wearied them for generations past.

A knowledge of the quality of the electrical material and equipment used, of workmanship, and of the number of outlets and the places they are installed, is important to the home-builder, however, before he can know definitely that he has a satisfactory electrical installation—or just electricity.

Outlets are the places where electricity is drawn "out" from its circuit and used, as in chandelier, light fixture or other socket.

"Convenience outlets" are devices located in wall, wainscoting, baseboard floor, dining table, kitchen cabinet, laundry, etc., enabling one to instantly connect portable lamp or labor saving, heating, or cooking appliances. "Convenience outlets" are designed to serve current to appliances of large wattage (capacity); most lamp sockets are designed only for lights of low wattage (capacity). Therefore, it is a matter of economy for homebuilders to install plenty of these outlets — the doors through which each family's share of the electrical slaves noted by the Smithsonian Institution may get out from the circuits and into the merry-go-round of household service. This is one of the points in which there is a wide difference between simply having electricity, and having an electrical installation that will give permanent satisfaction.

Another difference is in the honesty of the work supplied, and the quality of materials used. On the one hand is the responsible, qualified contractor who uses standard materials and who does business on the basis of good workmanship, and fair prices. Competing with him is the casual contractor, the man who uses sub-standard equipment, assembled by incompetent workmen, and who often "forgets" many of the essentials to a satisfactory wiring job — such as a sufficient number of "convenience outlets"—in order that he can afford to put in a lower bid than the dependable contractor.

How useful are your slaves if you keep them locked up in the wires? How much can be done with an electric sweeper if there are not easy connections in every room for attaching it? How much can you use a vibrator if there is but one socket where it may be connected, leaving you perhaps in the dark while it is working? How many devices, such as a quick heater for shaving water or a curling iron or a hair dryer, can be used in the bathroom if there is no "convenience outlet" ready to serve these with current? How can a woman expect to dress and primp comfortably if there is no other light in her room than one overhead, perhaps an additional bracket beside which she could not possibly place her dressing table? What benefit may be derived from that efficient engine of ventilation — the electric fan — if there is not in every room an outlet designed to care for its current requirements? How much comfort or pleasure, indeed, may one hope to draw from the possession of percolator, toaster, grill, or any of the efficient housekeeping appliances, if one must step on a chair or box every time it is desired to use them, and unscrew a lamp which will then roll about precariously or perhaps be broken?

In the laundry there is the same need for exit doors for the slaves. Washing machines and ironers are soon to be part of every modern menage; and a thousand and one disappointments and inconveniences, arising from inferior and incomplete electrical installations, can be overcome if housebuilders will, in making their initial plans and arrangements use ordinary care and the same good common sense they use in other buying operations.

DO NOT ANSWER MINERS' REQUEST FOR CONFERENCE

Calgary, Nov. 20. — Officials of district No. 18, United Mine Workers of America have not received any reply from the Edmonton operators yet regarding requests for a conference. Robert Peacock, district secretary, said Monday that the operators in the Edmonton field have not evinced any interest in getting together with the union officials on the question of making an agreement for the union workers in the Edmonton field. Although 75 per cent of the miners are now organized, according to official reports, the operators have not communicated directly with the district headquarters here, and have confined their attentions to discouraging the organizers, who have been sent into the field from time to time, officials say.

World Traveler Gives Tanlac High Praise

"Tanlac has restored me to such excellent health that I can recommend it sincerely. It brought me complete relief after I had been in the hospital two months with neuritis, and built me up in a short time from a dreadfully run-down condition."

This emphatic statement was made by Mrs. Vivian Angelo Short, highly esteemed resident of 2139 34th Ave., Calgary. Mrs. Short is a woman of exceptional education and refinement. She has travelled extensively, having been practically all over the world. She lived in London and Paris several years and has visited Smyrna, recently burned in the Turko-Grecian conflict, and Constantinople.

"About a year ago," said Mrs. Short, "I was attacked by neutritis. It caused terrific pain in my knees, ankles, arms and shoulders. The soreness and stiffness were exceptionally severe and often my ankles and joints would be painfully swollen. I could not walk, every attempt causing me perfect agony and I was unable to rest day or night.

"On the urgent advice of a nurse I began taking Tanlac. Within two weeks I was so much improved I was able to walk totally free from any trace of my old malady. I will always feel that I am deeply indebted to Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

THE EXTRA CREAM

Mrs. Anderson says the extra cream has brought Pacific Milk up to the highest possible standard. She says the old process seemed to her to be perfect but 43 per cent of good cream makes it simply splendid for household use.

Mrs. A. thinks we have reached the final improvement. Perhaps we have, but we shall not discontinue trying to improve. To stop is to stagnate.

MOOSE ORDER AND CHILDREN

All About Children—Yes.
Children without Father or Mother.
Children without Father.
Children without Mother.

How more than Seven Hundred and Fifty Children are cared for and educated.

"Every child is entitled to at least a High School Education and a Trade."—James J. Davis.

David Starr Jordan, President of Leland Stanford University of California, has said:

"If you ever wish to go in for philanthropy, if you ever wish to be of any use in the world, do something for the little children, if ever you yearn to be truly wise, study children. We can dress the sore, bandage the wound, imprison the criminal, heal the sick and bury the dead, but there is always a chance to save the child. If the great army of philanthropists ever exterminates sin and pestilence ever works out the race's salvation, it will be because a little child has led them."

More than Five Hundred Thousand men have said: "I will give four cents a week or two dollars a year to make a home and build a school to educate children," and that home and school has been built and is in operation.

CRESTON GIRL MEETS TRAGIC END IN STATES

Creston, Nov. 19.—Word reached Mrs. Bolton here Saturday morning by wire that her daughter, Alice, was dead at Hoquiam, Wash., and asking for instructions as to the disposal of the remains. No further light was cast on the incident until Saturday's Nelson News came to hand, and a dispatch in it from Hoquiam indicates that the girl came to a sudden end, due to being stabbed by a Finlander by the name of Anderson, who, in a jealous rage, aggravated by heavy indulgence in moonshine, not only fatally stabbed the Bolton girl, but also shot and killed a Mrs. Johnson, a rooming house keeper in that town, and completed the tragedy by shooting and killing himself.

The address of Mrs. Bolton was apparently obtained by finding some money orders among the effects of the dead girl, which she was sending to her mother in Creston.

The murdered girl was the fourth daughter of a family of eight children, the mother and the younger members of the family coming to Creston about six years ago fram Blairmore, Alta., to reside with Mrs. Bolton's mother, Mrs. Remington, who about that time had bought a home here at the upper end of Victoria avenue.

Deceased was a girl of 19 years, and of a bright and attractive appearance. She left Creston about four months ago, going from here to Cranbrook and later to Nelson, and thence to the coast. Before her departure from Creston she was employed as a waitress at both the Commercial and Creston hotels for several months.

Her father passed away a couple of years ago, his body having been found in a shack in Northern British Columbia.

The body of the dead girl will be taken to Blairmore, the old home, for burial.

PREDICTS A SHORT SESSION

Victoria — The legislative assembly seems likely to be short, judging by the way business is being conducted so far. Already a large number of new bills and amendments to old ones have been introduced. Most of the amendments are designed to make existing laws more workable and the majority of them are fathered by the Attorney General, who in the course of his practice has discovered flaws in the statutes.

Some more contentious measures will have to be brought in yet, one of these being the Liquor Act amendment. The government will ask for clauses to make the law more workable and more easily enforced.

It will take perhaps two weeks to discuss the budget and the estimates and in the meantime other measures will be advanced and the committees will complete their worn.

One of the most important resolutions to come before the house was that introduced by W. J. Sloan, minister of mines. This resolution asked the Dominion government to prohibit the admission of Orientals into this country. It was followed by an amendment of the leader of the opposition, the most important feature of which the government is in agreement with. This would ask that no treaties or arrangements with Oriental countries be entered into which are objectionable to British Columbia. The legislature has no power to legislate against Orientals and can only act in an advisory capacity.

Matters of government policy have been discussed in caucus of the party several times but nothing has been given out yet indicating what action will be taken in regard to retail sale of beer. The best informed opinion is that the government will take no action, although it will permit a private member to bring the matter forward and a vote of the house will be taken independent of party allegiance.

The independent members have been voting with the government on most questions and none of them would care to put Oliver out in order to put Bowser in. The member for Newcastle is a persistent critic of anything which directly or indirectly affects labor and often interrupts the speakers in order to force his views on them. In doing this he has had to be called to order a number of times.

On the whole it would seem that the government is stronger today than it has been since the last election and unless something unusual and inopportune should intervene there is little likelihood of an election for a year or two at least.

DRAMATIC RECITAL

(Crowded out Last Week)

Seldom has a Fernie audience had the opportunity to enjoy a dramatic and musical programme such as that arranged by Mrs. Pat Pearson and held in the United Church Auditorium.

Mrs. Pearson is a graduate of the academy of dramatic art of London, Eng., and it was while studying there that she attracted the attention of Sir Beerbolm Tree and by his advice applied herself especially to Shakesperian roles. Later this great Actor-Manager offered her the understudy of Puck, which part she acted on several occasions in Tree's well remembered production of "A Midsummer's Night Dream" at "His Majesty's" in 1908. Such was her success that this notoriously exacting and particular authority in the theatrical world offered her a permanent place in his caste. She was not prepared, however, at that time to take up drama as a profession but has always most generously given of her talent for local benefit.

In her opening monologue, "Loraine Loree," one only needed her sharp, quick stacato rendering of the line beginning "Borum Borum" to absolutely hear the click of the horses' hoofs (how often have we heard that sonorously declaimed by the unimaginative), and at once she showed herself a finished artiste in her varied program of recitations and musical monologues. She was particularly clever in her rendering of Gilbert's 'Comedy and Tragedy," following it with the sinister and tragic aim of the elocutionist but not always a favorite of the public.

Mrs. Pearson was accompanied in her musical monologues by Miss Charlebois. Heretofore the ambition of our musical talent has been handicapped by the need of an accompanist—by accompanist we do not mean pianst—we have had and still have brilliant pianists—but a sympathetic accompanist embodies a gift unto itself which is given to few. In Miss Charlebois we have this rare talent combined with all else that goes to make up a brilliant pianist. The interpretation of Rachmainoff's "Prelude in G. Minar" was delightful and in response to an enthusiastic encore gave one of Macdowell's compositions in which her technique and execution and graceful phrasing left her audience charmed. But it was in her accompaniments that her particularly sympathetic quality of touch was most noticeable. Possibly it is to this talent of hers that we have had at least the opportunity that we have long waited for of hearing Mrs. Watson in something really "big." Mr. and Mrs. Watson came to us during the war, when everyone was out of harmony with classical and serious music and with the unerring intuition of the truly musical they gave us the lyrical and light selections our harrowed mentality craved, but those dark days are over and we listened to Mrs. Watson's beautiful rendering of "Elsa's Dream" from Lohengrin with intense interest and pleasure, with perfect confidence in her accompanist she perhaps for the first time did her beautiful voice justice. For her encore she sang "Ciascumlodice" from Daughters of the Regiment, and the flexibility of her voice was shown to great advantage in the change from the dramatic to the lighter marziale tempo.

Mrs. Suddaby, who preceded Mrs. Watson on the program, is also a pupil of Signor Morando. Although both their voices are of the same register and similar quality, each has distinctive individuality and charm of her own. In Mrs. Suddaby's first song, "La Cloche" by Saint Saens, the wonderful quality of her middle register was most noticeable, rounded and resonant as a bell. In responding to an enthusiactic encore she gave one of Amy Finden's Indian Lave Lyrics, "Temple Bells," and it was interesting to note how readily her voice assumed the plaintive timbre suitable to this lovely melody.

Mr. Watson, always a great favorite with his audience, was especially happy in his violin selections and equally so in his interpretation of them .His brilliant rendering of Drdla's "Souvenir" was a revelation to those in the audience who had hitherto not heard him in this class of composition. For an encore he gave "Loin du Bal" and later in the programme played "Bouvree Gigue," and perhaps it was in this that his complete mastery of his instrument in the quicker movements showed to the best advantage.

The concert closed with the singing of the National Anthem by the audience.

"I Was Run Down"

"Body was completely covered with Boils"

"If you have ever had boils, you know how painful and annoying even one or two can be. But imagine having your whole body almost entirely covered with them! I am a watchmaker by trade, making a specialty of repairing the highest grade movements. This is probably the most trying of any mechanical work, particularly for a nervous individual like me. Working under great strain both day and night for three months, brought me almost to a state of collapse. I was so irritable and nervous that the slightest thing would 'send me up in the air.' If I managed to get a few hours of sleep at night I was lucky. I had no appetite for food. I certainly was miserable. During this time boils began to appear on different parts of my body and the pain from them made life a misery. My suffering was so great at times that I felt there was nothing left for me to do but to end it all. I consulted doctors but they all told me that if I didn't give up my work and live out of doors, I would go into a decline. As I had no money I couldn't do this. In fact paying doctors' bills and buying medicines used up all the money I made. Finally in desperation, I decided that I would either kill or cure myself, so I began to study my case. I realized that I was as completely run down as any one could possibly be with a bad case of nerves. What I needed was building up. After reading descriptions of different preparations, the one which appeared to be the best for me was Carnol. It has simply performed miracles for me. Four bottles have done more than months of travel abroad. I feel like a two-year old. I sleep eight hours every night and eat three good meals a day. My skin is like a baby's, free from blemishes of any kind and I have now almost forgotten that I have ever had such things as nerves. I want everybody who is ailing to know about Carnol, because I have such faith in it I believe it will cure any human ill."

Mr. J. H. Mc. C.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money 1-622

"FOOLISH WIVES" MASTERPIECE OF SCREEN ART AND DRAMA

"Foolish Wives," the long-heralded million dollar picture, will be presented at the ISIS Theatre next Wed. and Thurs.

Erich von Stroheim wrote, directed and starred in the picture. He, it was, who conceived the idea of building a replica of Monte Carlo at Universal City. To what a remarkable extent the celebrated pleasure resort, with its buildings, its crowds, its gaming salons and its activities, has been reproduced for the screen, cannot be seen.

It is said that the production of "Foolish Wives" cost the Universal Film Manufacturing Company $1,103-736, of which $421,000 was spent for sets. It is easily seen how such an enormous amount was spent on these sets. They are accurate and complete, even to the Monacan soldiers, police and firemen, and the monograms on the table linen in the Hotel de Paris.

As gorgeous as they are, however, the sets are just a background for the colorful action of the picture and the odd types von Stroheim has brought to life in his story. The picture concerns a bogus Russian nobleman, "Count" Sergius Karamzin and his two accomplices, the "Princesses" Olga and Vera Petschnikoff. These three international adventurers occupy a costly villa at Monte Carlo and prey upon the wealthy visitors among the throngs which infest the Riviera.

The Count, played by von Stroheim himself, struts about in his natty Russian captain's uniform and victimizes the foolish women attracted by his bearing and suave manners. There is no limit to the depths of his depravity.

He sets his cap for the young and foolish wife of the American envoy to Monaco. Piqued by her husband's neglect, caused by his diplomatic affairs, she falls an easy victim to the wiles of the Count. Her folly finally leads her to the Count's villa at night where she is trapped in a burning tower and deserted by her blackguard hero. The fire has been started by a discarded sweetheart of the Count. The wife's rescue and the realistic fire scenes which acompany it, form one of the most thrilling episodes ever screened. Natural colors, obtained by hand coloring the film of the fire scenes, gives a lurid reality to this sequence.

The envoy, finally awakened to his wife's folly, seeks out the Count and knocks him down. The envoy then exposes the accomplices and orders them to leave Monte Carlo. During the night the Count is killed by an old counterfeiter whose daughter he has wronged. At the final fade out in her husband's arms, the foolish wife comes to a realization that American men are the best mates for American women, which is the lesson of the picture.

About $15,000 worth of Creston Valley lands were disposed of at the government sale of lands here on Monday, better than half of the parcels offered being sold at the sale or disposed of privately by J. W. Smith, Land Department representative, the following day at the upset price. With the exception of lands that are subject to overflow the demand was quite uniform on all the tracts offered. —Creston Review.

B.C. ANNUAL BUDGET

Victoria, Nov. 22. — According to statements contained in the annual budget address of Hon. John Hart, minister of finance, British Columbia is in a better financial condition than any other province in Canada, and this because of the careful system of borrowing which has been followed during the past few years. With Canadian money now at a premium, the minister declared that the province would be saved seven or eight million dollars before the maturity of loans already placed. This was the most fitting reply to the Bowser predictions that the provincial treasury would be virtually bankrupt through the borrowings of the finance minister, said Hon. Mr. Hart.

A noticeable feature of the budget address was the announcement that despite the heavy calls upon the government there will be no increase in taxation. Further, said the minister, expenditures in practically every department will be lower for the next fiscal year than formerly and last year there was a reduction of $1,162,757 from the estimated total. Estimed revenue for the coming year is placed at $18,769,596. Last year's estimated revenue was $18,882,391, but the actual revenue was $1,871,795 higher.

"The credit of the province is better than at any time since Confederation," said Hon. Mr. Hart, "and this is demonstrated by the ready salt of our bonds, the prices we have received and the number of financial houses bidding for the issues. The province is fortunate in owning great natural resources within its bounds - timber, mines, agricultural lands and fisheries. The return of normal conditions and the influx of people we may expect in the next few years, combined with the sound, sane policy of development of our natural resources must assure us of a bright and prosperous future.

While nothing definite has been announced by the Oliver government regarding their proposed plans for colonization, it is known that a definite comprehensive policy is being worked out and will probably be announced in the Legislature within two weeks. After two visits to the Old Country, where he communicated with the Imperial authorities, Hon. T. D. Pattulo, minister of lands, has proposals which he maintains will mean the securing of thousands of the best type of British settlers for the vacant lands of this province. Answering repeated critisisms from labor and opposition members, regarding the provision of employment for those out of work, rather than the encouragement of newcomers, the government has pointed out that only agriculturalists are being sought. There are several million acres of the best on the continent in the valleys of the Central Interior and the fruit districts, and the encouragement of bona fide settlers to take up land will form the chief plank in the government scheme.

Little satisfaction has been secured by the opposition members in probing the financial dealings of the Liquor Control Board before the public accounts committee. Despite the constant criticism of the government liquor policy, no concrete suggestions for the improvement of the act have been submitted as yet and Conservative members appear to be unable to unearth anything but trivial mistakes before the committee. Prices have been reduced materially and the government profit for the coming year. Figures tabled recently show that there are 63 liquor stores. For the year they handled about $12,000,000 worth of business, with a profit of nearly $4,000,000.

There is little prospect of the Burde eight hour bill passing the House this year, although there is a general feeling of support for the principle. The stand is taken, though, that industry would be sadly handicapped at the present time if B.C. were asked to compete with other provinces and states where longer hours of work are the rule.

NEW STAHL PRODUCTION IS SPECTACULAR DRAMA

Henry B. Walthall, one of the first favorites of the screen, will return in a featured role with the presentation of the First National attraction, "One Clear Call," at the Orpheum theatre next week. Associated with Mr. Wilthall in this production are Milton Sills and Claire Windsor in the featured roles.

"One Clear Call" is the third production emanating from the noted producer-director, John M. Stahl, for First National, within recent months. The first two, "The Child Thou Gavest Me" and "The Song of Life," scored such stupendous successes throughout the country that Mr. Stahl declares he felt justified in putting every financial resource and skill he possessed behind his latest production.

do the scenario. The picture calls for a large cast, expensive settings and spectacular mob scenes. In one instance, at least, several hundred

For this purpose he secured the screen rights to the Francis Nimmo Greene story and had Bess Meredyth riders are called upon to depict a night time foray of Ku Klux Klansmen.

Action in the story centers around a small Alabama town where Henry Garnett, dissipated son of old Col. Garnett has returned to the home town again. Among his old associates Dr. Alan Hamilton, a brilliant surgeon, is the only one who extends the hand of friendship. Suffering from physical ills young Garnett endures mental anguish because of the disappearance of his young wife, against whom he has committed no wrong but who had left him solely because she disapproved of his method of living. Dr. Hamilton discovers that the woman he loves is the missing wife and in the dual conflict between love and loyalty the story finds one of its elements of interest.

GOLDEN RULE HAS PLACE IN TRADE

Has Been Found to Be Good Business Policy Both for Buyer and Seller

OBLIGATION NOT ONE-SIDED

Consumer Gains as Much By Being Fair With Merchant as Latter Does By Being Square and Honest

(Copyright)

Some cynical persons have remarked that the Gold Rule has no place in business. They have taken the position that instead of doing unto others as you would have them do unto you, the only safe and sane plan is to do others before they have a chance to do you.

Fortunately for business and for the world at large, however, these persons are few and far between. The great majority of people are honest

It has been proven repeatedly that even in business it pays to practice the Golden Rule, just as it has been proven repeatedly that "honesty is the best policy." It not only makes a man feel better down in his heart when he employs the principle of the Golden Rule, but he finds that it is good business. This applies not only to the man who stands behind the counter and gives a full pound of sugar to the man who asks for a pound, but also to the man who stands on the other side of the counter and pays his money for that pound of sugar.

Does Consumer Do His Part?

The consumer expects the merchant to be honest and square and give him his money's worth for every penny that he spends with him, but how often does the consumer stop and ask himself the question, "Am I being as fair and honest with the merchant as he is being with me?" The consumer not only expects the merchant to give him honest weight and full measure at the lowest possible price, but he expects a world of other things at the same time. Nine times out of ten he expects the merchant to give him credit, and nine times out of ten the merchant does it. Many times he expects the merchant to "carry" him for three or four months before he pays for what he buys, and as many times the merchant does it. He expects the merchant to pay for advertising space in the church program which he is getting up, and the merchant does it. He expects the merchant to "kick in" most liberally when he is raising a fund for the benefit of the town band, and the merchant does it.

He expects the merchant to provide the bonus which is to be paid to obtain a new factory which will benefit the working man, the clerk and everybody else in the town, and the merchant does it. He expects the merchant to "come across" with a donation to help the poor family which otherwise would become a charge upon the common funds of the community, and the merchant does.

Another Side to Picture.

Now look on the other side of the picture. Mr. Consumer decides that he needs a new suit of clothes, or Mrs. Consumer decides that she wants a new kitchen range, or some of the little Consumers express a desire for a train of cars or a bobsled. Mr. Consumer picks up the big mail order catalogue which the mail order house has printed with his money or that of others like him, and he looks it over until he finds a picture that strikes his eye. It's a picture of a "nifty" looking suit of clothes. Of course, he can't feel the picture to see whether the cloth is as good as it looks; he can't look the mail-order man in the eye and ask him whether he will guarantee it to wear for at least a month or six weeks; he can't tell the mail-order man that he will drop in the first of the month and settle for it; he can't tell the mail-order man that he would like to have a little of his business or a chance to do a little carpenter work or painting or plumbing for him, as long as he is buying his goods from him, for the mail order man hasn't any business or any work to give him. But the picture is a pretty one, so Mr. Consumer digs out his hard-earned cash, goes down to the post office, buys a money order and sends it to the mail-order man.

Found Golden Rule Pays.

Mr. Consumer found that it pays to remember the Golden Rule in business. If he had done unto the merchant as he would like the merchant to do unto him, he would have got more for his money and he would have aided in making it possible for the merchant to help him and the town when they needed it.

The world has discovered that the Golden Rule is not for use only on Sundays, but that it is value on every day of the week.

UPHILL BECOMES LEGIONAIRE

Fernie Lodge L.O.O.M. No. 1335 was delightfully surprised at Legion news flashed from Vancouver, that Tom Uphill, the popular local M.P.P., for Fernie Riding, was with a large number of Moose M.P.P.'c and other Moose who were initiated Legionaires by that very much alive Legion, the Maple Leaf, of international fame. This will have a wonderful effect on the ambitious and laudable aims of Lethbridge Lodge and their Legion. Also the aspirations of Bro. Uphill, who is son pleased at having been initiated into the mysteries of the Legion that he has expressed himself to the effect that there will be a Legion in the Fernie Lodge, of which he is a charter member.

District Supervisor, Bro. Thompson, is out to give him all the assistance possible by not only boosting the local lodge to 500 members, but also to furnish a chain of lodges from Lethbridge to Cranbrook, including Blairmore and Michel. The very much alive Fernie lodge is behind this as well, as was clearly evident from the theme of conversation at a most wonderful entertainment consisting of a bazaar, concert and dance, that broke up in the wee sma' hours. This function was put on by the ladies of the Chapter, Women's Legion of Mooseheart.

With weekly accessions from new members who are now joining Fernie Lodge in large numbers, and lady relatives, I believe when the Grand Regent sees this in the Mooseheart Magazine there will be one more hurrah for "The Old Man's Home" at Moosehaven, and so say all of us.

FIRST PRIZE ESSAY ON "ARMISTICE DAY"

The following essay by Audrey Mills on Armistice Day" won first prize in the Senior Division:

Armistice Day is on the 11th of November. It is commemorated in the countries of all nations which took part in the Great War. It is observed as a holiday in honor of the end of the greatest war ever known.

The Armistice was signed by Germany on Nov. 11, 1918, at a tiny station called Rethondes. At 11 a.m. all firing and fighting ceased and peace ruled once more. Thus ended the Great War.

The Great War was really brought on by Germany's resolve to set up a "middle European empire" which would stretch from the Baltic Sea to the Persian Gulf. She wished to make herself the superior of all nations, especially Great Britain, of whom she was very jealous. Britain had the greatest navy in the world and she had possessions all over the globe. Of all this Germany was very jealous but she did not want Britain to come into the war at once. Instead she wanted to crush the other countries and then conquer Britain at her leisure.

Germany had been preparing for war since 1871. She had been strengthening her navy till it ranked second to that of Great Britain. She had doubled her army and had made great quantities of guns and ammunition. Her people were taught to believe themselves greater than those of other nations, so all German citizens were given military training.

The first outbreak of the war was caused by the assassination of the nephew of the Emperor of Austria-Hungary by a Serbian. Later, Russia came to help Serbia. France then came to help Russia, and accordingly on Aug. 1, 1914, Germany declared war on Russia. She then planned to invade France, but to reach France she had to pass through Belgium, which was a neutral country. So to protect Belgium, Britain declared war on Germany, on Aug. 4th, 1914, the same day that Germany declared war on Belgium. Canada then came in to help Great Britain.

Canada sent over as many men as possible. She distinguished herself in many battles, among which are the battles of Ypres, Vimy Ridge and Paschendaile. In the battle of Ypres they forced the Germans to retreat in spite of a new and appalling invention of the Germans—poison gas.

The war raged for four long years. The battles were so numerous that they cannot be mentioned here. Beautiful cathedrals and wonderful paintings all were wantonly destroyed by the ruthless Germans. All Europe and Asia was in the turmoil. The war continued year after year till the Germans, growing tired of fighting, asked for an armistice.

Today we celebrate Armistice Day by religious services or celebrations.

THE SCOUTS CONCERT

The Boy Scouts' Concert and Minstrel Show on Friday afternoon and evening last was a decided success. The minstrel show is a pleasing form of entertainment that hasn't been done in Fernie for a long time, and Friday night's concert was well received, not only for its novelty, but bacause it was well done.

Boy Scout activities had a large part in the first half of the program. There was a camp-fire scene, with the boys singing old favorite songs in unison; there was a boxing-match that brought a good many of the audience to their feet with excitement; the wrestling match didn't have a slow moment in it; and the exhibition of First Aid work was merely a sample of what can be done by the Boy Scout First Aid Team that has brought honor to Fernie, and will yet bring more.

Havelock Fleming is not only a good Scout, but a good piper, and his number is always welcome to a Fernie audience, but the audience were quite unprepared for the splendid exhibition of dancing put on by the Misses Nettie and Peggie Walker. Scotch reels, Irish jigs, and Sailor's Hornpipe were presented in an extremely clever fashion, and were much appreciated by the audience.

Flag Drills are always spectacular, and the Scouts in their uniforms made that of Friday night particularly pleasing.

The closing half of the programme was the minstrel circle. The boys were well trained in their ballads, the songs were well chosen, and the part-singing really good. Corrigan made a good interlocutor, and Munro Parker and Tony Kobus as end-men kept him quite busy. Each of the boys had a "turn," and most of the turns and gags had a local application.

Although the secretary-treasurer of the Scout Association has not made his report on the financial end of the concert, it is known that the receipts were approximately $300.

PICARIELLO ON TRIAL

Calgary, Nov. 28.—For three hours Monday afternoon, Chief of Police James Houghton, of Coleman, friend of Steve O. Lawson and associateed with him in the chain of events leading up to the brutal slaying of the A.P.P. constable at Coleman on Sept. 21, stood up coolly in the witness box while counsel for the crown and the prisoners at the bar, Emilio Picariello and Mrs. Florence Lassandro, subjected him to exhaustive grilling.

Houghton swore that "Pick" and the girl drove to the A.P.P. detachment the night of the murder. He had seen them later drive toward Blairmore after three shots were fired. He identified the death car, the green coat and red tam worn by the Lassandro girl and testified that Steve Lawson had been shot in the back with a .38-calibre bullet.

The chief told a clear, connected story, sticking doggedly to the facts as related by him at the preliminary. The determined efforts of J. McKinley Cameron, chief counsel for the defence, to shake his testimony bore little fruit.

The witness admitted hearing Const. Lawson remark to Pick, Sr., that "if he (Pick) did not get Steve, he'd go and get him." This was following the afternoon pursuit in which, as related, Lawson shot three times as a warning to young Pick, at which counsel for the defence observed that he must have shot wild in view of Steve's injured hand.

Efforts on the part of the defence to show that Lawson himself might have done some of the shooting on the night of Sept. '1, collapsed when Houghton swore that the constable was unarmed and that there were no weapons found near his body. He owned two guns, a .32 and a .38 calibre, both of which were found in the detachment.

During the examination of this witness, who is one of the star witnesses for the crown, the barricade west of Coleman against rum runners was pronounced by Houghton a real help in handling the bootlegger. It greatly reduced his chances of "running the line" safely, although, he said, there were trails by which the liquor gate could be avoided.

It is unlikely that night sessions will be held, which means that it will be Thursday evening at least before a verdict is rendered. Several referances were made by counsel and the bench of a lengthy trial. The six jurors, in whose hands the fate of the alleged gunman and that of the wife of one of his trusted henchmen, Charley Lassandro, rests, have been made comfortable. They are kept closely guarded and have no access to newspapers whatever.

Interest in the now famous trial is increasing. Monday afternoon the bench ordered the corridors leading to the supreme court room cleared, the mob of men and women clamoring for admittance interfering with the proceedings.

Hundreds were turned away disappointed. The courtroom, however, was filled, many passing up luncheon in order to get a front position in the line following the noon recess. Scores of women attended court Monday, many of them fashionably dressed.

He seemed to be in good spirits, something which cannot be said of the sad-faced bit of young womanhood beside him in the prisoners' dock. Every trace of the flippant, carefree girl of the preliminary hearing has disappeared. Florence Lassandro's past three months appear to have been years, characterized by a conflict of great passions out of which has loomed in all its fearfulness the real nature of the crime for which she stands accused. At least, that is the story her face tells.

Calgary, Nov. 29.—Pearly Lawson, a tot of nine years, after answering His Lordship Mr. Justice Walsh that she understood the nature of an oath, was sworn, and in an astonishingly intelligent manner told the court at this morning's session of the Picariello trial, that she saw her daddy grab the man in the car around the back as if to hold him, saw the woman in the car shoot, heard other shots but was not sure who fired them, and then she saw her daddy "let go" and fall to the ground. This was the first direct evidence that the woman did any shooting. Pearly swore that she saw a gun in the car.

Two witnesses, one a new witness, swore that at least three flashes came from inside the motor car. They were G. H. Snoodles and Jas. Allen. Allen heard four or five shots altogether on the night of the murder. He saw the flashes while the car was standing still and heard other discharges as it began to move away.

This witness, a Coleman grocer, gave important new evidence touching the afternoon shooting as "Pick" Jr. dashed at a 50-mile clip through Coleman toward B.C. He saw Const. Lawson hold up his hand and cry "halt" at the driver of the car. Steve "Pick" however drove on and Lawson fired two shots in the air.

Ernest Hines and Edward Wood gave positive identification of Picariello as the man at the wheel of the "death" car. They were not certain as to the identity of the woman with Mr. "Pick" in the front seat of the McLaughlin.

Another witness, George Allen, of Nelson, B.C., in Blairmore the night of the murder, swore that he heard Picariello remark that evening as they stood in front of the Alberta hotel, owned by the accused, that "if they start shooting I can start shooting too."

The number of shots fired is still unfixed, witnesses' evidence ranging from four to six shots. The intensity of the reports seems to have varied, indicating that two weapons were in play. This, however, has not been definitely established.

Thirty witnesses for the prosecution had been examined whan an adjournment was taken on Wednesday. Considerable evidence had been submitted which tended to connect both accused with the murder of Lawson, but what was described as being the real "fireworks" was scheduled to develop on Thursday.

While both counsel for the defence and prosecution refused to divulge just what was meant by "fireworks" it was intimated that several star witnesses for the prosecution, including Sgt. Scott, Constable Day and Inspector Maj. Nicholson, of the Alberta provincial police, would be witnesses on Thursday.

HUNTING ACCIDENT

A most pathetic accident of the hunting season occurred last Sunday in the South Fork game section, in which James Strachan and his father, Robert Strachan, both of this city, were the principals. The lad, who is but 15 years of age and a pupil in the High School, had accompanied a party, leaving here last Saturday. Everything went on very satisfactorily until Sunday afternoon, when the gun carried by Mr. Strachan accidentally discharged as he was in the act of slinging it over his shoulder. At that particular time the boy was directly behind and received the full charge in his left arm. They were then in the wilds and a distance of some four miles from camp, where their automobile had been left. Prompt first aid was administered with the very crude materials at hand and the boy displayed unusual pluck under the trying circumstances, and attempted to allay his father's fear by heroically bearing his suffering and stating the wound was merely confined to his arm. He then with a little assistance negotiated the four mile walk and withstood the strain of a 20 mile motor drive to this city without collapsing.

Later developments necessitated the amputation of the left arm below the shoulder as the gunshot wound was found to be of a most severe nature. Up to the present time no complication have arisen and recovery is gradually being made. Most profound sympathy of the citizens is being extended to Mr. Strachan and his family in their misfortune.

CITY COUNCIL HOLD SESSION

The city council held a special meeting on Wednesday evening, Nov. 22 in order to make up for some of the adjourned regular sessions. On the occasion of this exclusive special meeting the records show that all members were present with the exception of Ald. Corrie.

A motion was passed delegating certain discretionary powers upon His Worship as to forms for concrete sidewalks and cement mixer.

Aldermen Douglas and Graham comprise a committee to investigate the present condition of the water mains throughout the city and to place orders for pipe and fittings as may by them be deemed necessary.

Wm. Dicken was awarded a contract to supply certain posts and poles to be used in conjunction with the West Fernie electric light and power to be used in conjunction with the extension.

Ald. Graham will replace Ald. Corrie on the Court of Revision.

The customary statutory motions relative to the civic election for 1923 and school board, were formally sanctioned. These appoint A. J. Moffatt as returning officer and fix Monday, Jan. 8, as nomination day, and Thursday, Jan. 11 as polling day, if such is required.

The Poultry Association were represented at this meeting by a deputation, which presented a request for a grant from the city. They will receive $150.

The city clerk was instructed to write the Attorney General with reference to activities of "stock salesmen" in the municipality, with a view to giving the civic authorities some jurisdiction in matters of this nature.

The next regular meeting of the council will be held this evening.

MAY STRIKE IN EDMONTON

(Calgary Herald)

It was officially stated at the offices of the U.M.W. of A. on Thursday that it is not the intention of that organization to call a general strike in District 18, commencing on Friday, which is exactly in line with what the Herald has already stated. Wm. Sherman, president of the association, denies that he ever made such a statement in Edmonton. He claims it is only the Edmonton field that will be affected.

Operators here repeat that in their opinion, that if a strike in the Edmonton field is actually called, it is extremely doubtful if the officials of the U.M.W. of A. will be able "to make it stick." They state that what is underlying the whole thing is the desire of the officials of that organization to be able to come back to the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association next spring and say they have the whole of District 18 organized and will use that as a lever in their negotiations for a new contract.

It is stated that the Edmonton non-union operators are not at all concerned over the threat of the officials of the U.M.W. of A., owing to the large falling off in orders. It is said they are still determined to shut down their mines altogether rather than accede to the demand that they pay the same wages as at union mines.

Local operators say that even if the Edmonton mines are closed down it will not materially affect the general coal situation. As a matter of fact very few, if any, of the domestic coal mines anywhere in district 18 are working full time just now.

SUDDEN DEATH AT COAL CREEK

A sudden death was reported from Coal Creek last Monday afternoon, when Joe Desemoni, aged 55, a well known miner, pased away. On the day of his demise he had worked and appeared to be in his usual health. He came off shift a little early, changed at the wash house and apparently had proceeded from thence to the timekeeper's office, where it is customary to turn in tally checks at the close of each shift. He failed to reach that point and shortly after 3 o'clock his body was discovered by another workman, Geo. Monks, near some piles of iron pipe, on the platform of the warehouse building. Medical aid was forthwith summoned but life was extinct. There were no marks of violence and superficial indications point to death being due to heart failure. Coroner Duthie was notified and in view of the remote possibility of death being caused by accident resulting from a fall and a fracture of the skull from contact with the iron pipes, upon which the head rested when the body was found, a post mortem was ordered. Interment took place in St. Margaret's cemetery on Thursday.

Good-bye Maggie. If I never meet you on this earth again I will meet you On the Sands at the Grand Theatre, Tuesday, Dec. 19, 1922.

The United Church ladies are opening their bazaar tomorrow. They have booths of aprons, fancy work, candy, quilts, food and a special booth of articles made of flour bags and unbleached cotton, for which a prize will be given for the best article of each. Afternoon tea will be served.

A HELLENIZED BUDDHA

In a quiet aisle in the Pennsylvania Museum the head of the Buddha, uniquely beautiful among the few specimens of its kind in America, has recently come imperturbably to rest after a long journey from extreme northwestern India. And very solitary and aloof he appears, this early representative of all existing Buddhas, in the midst of his more obviously Indian and apparently more ancient surroundings. You approach him through the colonades of a South Indian temple overdecorated with the profane bas-relief carvings of a decadent period. At the other end of the colonade glows on his lotus-thorne a brass Buddha from Thibet worn smooth by generations of dead-and-gone idolatry, yet centuries younger than this youthful god-king of black basalt. On near-by panels are hung stone bas-reliefs from the Peshawar Valley, telling the story of the Bodhisattve's final incarnation and yet apparenting antedating him by ages. But, a stranger in his own gallery, he dominates it by his own superlative quality, a Hellenized Buddha or an Indianized figure of Apollo. Which is he?

He is both: Indian mind and Greek genius. He is occidental plastic art giving concrete expression to an oriental conception of the ideal and worshipful. For two hundred years or so after the death of Gautama, an historical personage in India, in the fifth century B.C., no image of him existed. At all events none has as yet been found; nor has any reference to an effigy of him been discovered in the voluminous Sanskrit inscriptions of that period, although, in the intervening time, shrines were built to mark the significant localities of his life and ministry. During the same period the religion founded by his teachings spread from the north throughout India, beyond the barrier Himalayas into Tibet and China and thence across the straits and seas into the Japanese Archipelago. But it was not until long after the fourth century B.C., after Alexander the Great had led his ever-victorious army through the Kyber Pass into the fertile valley of the upper Indus, that graven images of the Buddha began to take their permanent place in the ritual of Buddhism. The first sculptured Buddhas we know are Greek in technique, and they were carved in India two or three hundred years after the death of Gautama. They are called Gandharan after Gandhara, the old Sanskrit name for the religion of the Peshawar Valley where the Greek armies first debouched into the Indian plains, where their influence longest remained, where now the hard-riding regiment of the Guides patrol and plays polo, and from the soil of which all extant examples of Greco-Buddhist art are sprung. — From "Indian Mind and Greek Genius," by George Marvin.

THE WRECK OF THE JACK POT

(Dave King died in New Jersey a short time ago. Some twenty odd years ago he was publisher and editor of the Kaslo paper, and ranked second in the province only to Bob Lowery in ability to publish a spicy country weekly. Following is one of his poems.)

On some dark night in New Denver
She snow and rain and blow.
De boys she say lets play some draw,
All right, I say, she go!

Now I was play dat game before
An' know, you bet your neck,
All 'bout de raise befo'e the draw—
But dat was down Quebec.

Wan man was nice, Unat Stat,
(I find out since den
She work at short card for de biz—
I don't know what that ben.)

An' prospector named Sleek—
By gos! if I have gun dat tam
I make dat feller seek.

Anoder man from town Sendon,
She lak to play the gam—
Was what you say de 'sure ting' boy,
But I not care for dam.

I'm what you call rich man dat time,
I own the Merci Dame.
Dat was dam good claim.

When we start in I did not have
So very much monee,
But after while, by gos! my fren—
You ought to have seen me!

We have de drink mos' every han'
I'm taking straight whiskee,
De boy, she's hav de lemonad—
Pooh! Dat's too weak for me.

I raise de bet and made de bluff
Mos' every tam she go,
You see dat gam you tink I'm swift,
An' oder felow slow.

Well, 'long 'bout two, t'ree, four de clock
De mon she mos' all mine.
One feller say, "to hell de luck,
We play jack pot dis tam."

Well, I not know Jack Pot ver' well—
She's shift boss at Receau—
But I not car who play the game,
So long's I get de dough.

We'n dey explain I see de chance
To pull off de gran' coup—
Jus' 15 minutes from dat tam
By gos! I'm in de sou'.

Barkeep trow up de han'
But Sleek she raise me fifty dol'
Saint Jean! I hear de ban'.

De man from Unat Stat, she stay,
An' raise Sleek fifty back;
Dat cos' me hundred, but I'm gam,
Dere's where I make mistak.

We draw de card. Merci! Merci!
Dame Fortune how you sing!
I got de whole world by de tail—
By gos! I got four king.

But den, my monee she's all up;
De boy she bet de check—
Hooray! I bet the Merci Dame!
I'm in for break der neck.

Dere's call all round, I sign de pap
My claim gains' whole dam place—
De man from Unat Stat, she smile—
Mon Dieu! She's got four ace.

Dat morning very early, I guess
'Bout half-pas' two, t'ree, four,
Dere was a fight in New Denver,
I not live dere no more.

But now I got anoder claim,
You see she's right up dere;
I call dat claim Jack Pot—for why?
Dat claim she is not square.

Come all you man what hunt for stake
With beeg pack on de neck,
Don't try with man from Unat Stat
To buck the cold, cold deck.

On some dark night on New Denver,
She snow and rain and blow;
You say, "Good night, I go!"

On a Friday afternoon somebody forced the locks, entered the school rooms and took away all the straps and canes from Ogden Street school in Fort William. Nothing else was missing.

Among a litter of pigs born recently in New Brunswick was one with six feet. The little porker was as strong and well as the others.

THE COMMUNITY THEATRE AT NARAMATA

A Young Orchard in the Okanagan Valley near Naramata

THE British people are theatre-loving folk, and have to their credit traditions of the theatre that are greater, and of more world-wide importance than any other country. Therein, no doubt, lies the reason why Canadians today take so much interest in theatricals, and particularly those of the amateur variety. Being a small population lying alongside a great one, it is but natural that Canada's professional stage should be entirely dominated by that of the United States, but it is greatly to Canada's credit that there has come into being an important theatrical movement in this country which is distinct from that of the regular professional stage. Under existing conditions it is only thus that there can be developed a Canadian stage with a literature of its own. Montreal has its group of Community Players, Toronto has its Hart House Theatre, and Winnipeg, Vancouver and Victoria, as well as many other Canadian cities, have their theatrical organizations, all of which are doing an excellent work, but none of them are more worthy of note than the little theatre which has been established in the fruit-growing village of Naramata in the Okanagan Valley, B.C.

It was built by Carroll Aikins on his small fruit ranch. For years he and Mrs. Aikins had been interested in the theatre. One of his own plays was produced three years ago in Birmingham, and it was because there was no native theatre where Canadian plays could be tried out that the little theatre of Naramata came to be built.

The neighbourhood of Naramata had actors enough. Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Aikins were of the sort that could make actors out of anybody who had a love for that sort of thing—but the theatre was another matter. It had to be built, but before that it had to be designed and, not knowing so much about what regular theatres had in them, as about what he thought they should have, Mr. Aikins was able to evolve a community theatre that in completeness of equipment and simplicity of arrangement does not suffer in comparison with any theatre of the kind on the continent, but which presents many novel and interesting features. The theatre is built in the spacious upstairs of the fruit ranch packing house. The stage is on the floor level, and the benches rise gradually on shallow steps, but it is in its stage that the theatre is most remarkable. The back wall is a huge plastered dome with a specially prepared surface on which a splendid array of variously colored lights can create any effect desired. There is no space to describe the scenic effects, all of which were designed and built by Mr. Aikins and his assistants. It is enough to say they were simplicity itself and amazingly successful.

The actors are the fruit pickers of the neighbourhood, reinforced by a number of enthusiasts from various parts of Canada who have gone to Namarata to study stage-craft. It is Mr. Aikins' hope that this number will grow, and that his splendid little theatre will have an opportunity of giving a first production to new Canadian plays by Canadian authors. The theatre has already become the most important place in the country side, and will continue to make life more worth the living in beautiful Naramata.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION

Another sample of legislation passed by the Oliver government giving power to woman, is that providing that women may be members of a jury. Although certain members of the House thought it unique to permit, or ask women to serve in this way, it is the aim of the administration to treat men and women voters alike.

Speaking as an independent member of the Legislature last Friday, Major R. J. Burde defended the government against the opposition in regard to the activities of the department of industries. He said that as a member of the Advisory Council he had had a voice in the granting of every loan, and it should be remembered that of the 1000 applications received only 77 had been favorably considered. The major regretted that the money available for loans had run out when $1,000,000 had been advanced, and declared that unusual conditions had existed when the new department was established. This action was taken as the result of requests of returned men, and he said if the entire million loaned were lost for the sake of having relieved that situation the money could be considered well spent.

While the government has signified its intention to proceed with the construction of new buildings for the University of B.C., a certain amount of dissatisfaction has been expressed by Premier Oliver and some of his supporters over the necessity for the government providing money for higher education, when the municipalities are repeatedly turning down money by-laws for the needs of public schools. The stand is taken, however, that the institution is provincial in its nature, and that all sections of British Columbia will benefit through the provision of adequate university facilities.

One of the outstanding features of the present session of the legislature is the criticism of opposition members of government policy, and the subsequent pricking of these bubbles. Recently Canon Hinchliffe, of Victoria, objected to the use of a certain textbook on history being used in the university, because the book was not considerate enough of Canadians who participated in the war. Hon. Dr. McLean, minister of education, declared this was typical of the unfairness of opposition members, who might be better occupied in looking after the general interests of the province. The text-book referred to was only one of 67 used in the university and the teaching of history was in the hands of Prof. Eastman, a Canadian by birth, who had served overseas, and two assisting professors with enviable records.

British Columbia needs selected settlers, was the contention of Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, woman representative in the legislature from Vancouver. She spoke of the great need of filling up the waste places of the province with settlers of British birth and said that the greatest advances made by Canada came as a result of the activities of the Laurier government in promoting immigration. The government should not hesitate to pursue an active policy, so that the hundreds of thousands of acres of farm lands in B.C. waiting for development might be occupied by contented citizens.

A strong defence of the agricultural policy of the government was made in the legislature Friday by Hon. E. D. Barrow, head of that department. He spoke chiefly of soldier settlement areas and the criticism of opposition members regarding the appointment of Colonels Davies and Latta to the land settlement board. The fact was, he contended, that these men were eminently fitted for their work and had achieved splendid results in settling veterans upon the land.

APPALLING RECORD OF CARELESS DRIVING

12,500 persons were killed and 300,000 persons were injured in automobile accidents in the United States during the year 1921, and yet this appalling total seems likely to be exceeded in 1922.

In spite of the most extensive educational campaign against railroad highway crossing accidents ever carried on, figures just compiled by the Insurance Department of the Pennsylvania Railroad System show that in June, July and August, of this year, such casualties increased 30 per cent, as compared with last season.

The period covered embraces the first three months of the National Careful Crossing Campaign," in which railroads of the United States have joined in efforts to make plain the deplorable results of carelessness. During the three months, on the Pennsylvania System alone, there were 107 crossing accidents, in which 71 persons were killed and 115 injured.

That this year's large increase in these casualties is chargeable almost entirely to growth in the reckless and inexperienced driving of automobiles, is shown by the fact that casualties at highway crossings from all other causes combined decreased.

There were 85 automobile accidents at Pennsylvania Railroad crossings in the three months in question. They caused the death of 56 persons, and injury to 107 others, or an average of two personal casualties for each accident. Twelve of the accidents resulted in 39 deaths; four caused the death of 20 persons, or an average of five for each car involved.

In two of the accidents, entire families were wiped out. That these lives were sacrificed to pure recklessness is particularly emphasized by the fact that in both instances the drivers of the cars lived close to the scenes of the accidents and were entirely familiar with the lay-out of the railroad tracks and roads over which they were driving.

The responsibility of automobile drivers for the safety of riders in their cars is no less than that of locomotive enginemen for the safety of their train passengers. It is, therefore, impressive to note that as against the lives lost in only three months by careless driving of motor cars over tracks, there were no passengers killed in train accidents anywhere on the Pennsylvania Railroad System during the entire year ended May 31st, last. In that period no less than 1,400,000 passenger trains were operated and 152,000,000 passengers carried safely.

The chief reason for this striking contrast is that locomotive enginemen are thoroughly trained in every detail of their work, and are required to demonstrate knowledge and ability to operate trains safely before being entrusted with their handling.

On the other hand, analysis of the causes of crossing accidents shows that the vast majority of motor car casualties at railroad highway crossings are attributable to a comparatively small percentage of inexperienced and irresponsible automobile drivers who have neither the knowledge training or judgment required for the safe operation of such machines. The result is often failure to exercise even the most ordinary precautions necessary for the protection of life when approaching or driving over railroad tracks.

Moreover, reckless driving of automobiles is not confined to highway crossings. This is shown by the daily reports in the newspapers of accidents caused by driving automobiles into telegraph poles, or stone walls and by skidding, sideswiping, turning over and colliding. From this running chronicle of death and injury, the conclusion would seem warranted that what is needed at the present time is not merely a Careful Crossing Campaign to concentrate attention on crossing accidents alone, but a national campaign carefully planned and directed against all forms of careless automobile driving.

ITALY'S CROMWELL

The leader of the Facisti, and now Italy's Prime Minister, has aroused world attention by his dramatic course of action and sudden rise to fame. A short eighteen months ago, Benito Mussolini was unknown. Today he is one of the leaders of thought in Italy, and perhaps in Europe. In his first appearance in the Italian Parliament he has used language and adopted an attitude that have no parallel in recent times. Indeed, it is necessary to go back to the times of Cromwell to find anything like an analogy. The extraordinary thing about the career of Signor Mussolini is that while once a Socialist himself he is now the most bitter opponent of that creed. He was when a young man-he is still under 40-editor of the Socialist organ, Avanti, but the war completely shattered his faith in internationalism.

It was the failure of the Italian Socialists to repudiate Bolshevism that gave Signor Mussolini his chance of national fame. That was the origin of the Fascismo movement. In 1920, when the Socialists attempted an incipient revolution in Italy by seizing factories and other establishments, Signor Mussolini and his followers commenced to take strong action. The movement grew with unprecedented rapidity. A few weeks ago it reached a such point of strength that it forced the De Facta Government to resign. There was no choice for Premier save Signor Mussolini himself. He is now head of the Government, but controlling no recognized party in the Italian Parliament, although in the country he has a trained and disciplined army of 400,000 Black Shirts. In the formation of his Government Signor Mussolini rejected all compromise. He asks for none in his statement to Parliament. If anything, he tells Parliament that it must suffer the consequences if it does not follow his leadership.

Facismo has had starting and dramatic beginnings. It represents new and vigorous forces in Italian national life. With the advent of its leader to political power it is face to face with the realities of politics inside and outside Italy, and the test of its real strength is yet to come. The best that can be hoped for Fascismo is that it will develope into a political party of middle class, working class and peasant Conservatives whose sole regard is for the welfare of Italy. There is plenty of room for such a party in Italy, where the old parties, and especially the Socialists have lost their grip on the pubic imagination. The place of Fascismo cannot be decided until after a general election. It cannot be decided by the attitude of Premier Mussolini towards Parliament. Parliament in Italy, as elsewhere, must remain more powerful than any individual in the State. Until after a general election and he is sustained in power the path of Premier Mussolini must remain perilous, and especially perilous so far as his authority goes to speak for Italy in international councils.

Big Picture Plays the Orpheum Theatre Next Wednesday and Thursday Under the Auspices of Fernie Baseball Club

Peter B. Kyne, the famous novelist, is the author of "Kindred of the Dust," an Associated First National attraction produced by R. A. Walsh, which is scheduled to begin a two day engagement at the Orpheum theatre Wdnesday and Thursday next.

The story appeared originally in the Saturday Evening Post and then was issued in book form, many editions of which have been sold. Its popularity and adaptability for filming caused Producer Walsh to purchase the motion picture rights to it.

One of the strongest casts ever assembled for a single picture enacts the story, including Miss Miriam Cooper, the talented actress whose work in "The Oath" and "Serenade," other recent First National productions, will be well remembered; Ralph Graves, Lionel Belmore, Eugenie Besserer, Maryland Morne, Bessie Waters, W. J. Ferguson, Carolyn Rankin, Pat Rooney, John Herdman and Bruce Guerin.

Miss Cooper plays the part of "Nan of Sawdust Pile," a little maid to whom the fates have been unkind, but who, through many vicissitudes, manages to find the happiness for which her starving soul was hourly craving.

As Donald McKaye, son of the owner of the largest saw mill in the Northwest, Graves gives a particularly effective characterization to the role; and because of his work in this picture stardom is predicted for him.

The Spokesman Review contains the following reference to the marriage of Miss Agnes O'Neill and Dr. E. J. Barnett. Miss O'Neill is the sister of Claude O'Neill, of Fernie, and has visited in Fernie several months during the past year: "Miss Agnes O'Neill, daughter of Mrs. B. O'Neill of the Rockwood apartments and Dr. Edwin J. Barnett, son of Mrs. Catherine Barnett of the Cambridge apartments, will be married this morning at St. Augustine's church. Father Fitzgerald will officiate. The only people present will be the families of the young people. The bride will wear a brown suit with hat to match and a corsage bouquet of orchids, roses and swansonia. The attendants will be Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Lavin, the bride's sister and brother-in-law. After the ceremony they will leave for a honeymoon in Portland and San Francisco. Miss O'Neil is a graduate of the University of Washington and a member of the Delta Gamma sorority. Dr. Barnett, who is a child's specialist in the office with Dr. McCormack, is a graduate of the University of Illinois and the College of Physicians and Surgeons. He belonged to the medical fraternity Nu Sigma Nu and the honorary medical society Alpha Omega Alpha. He is a member of the University and Rotary clubs. The news of the wedding comes as a surprise to friends of the young people, who have planned everything quietly and simply."

Preceded by the Kilties Band, playing "The Cock o' the North," and supported by J. A. Gibson and J. A. McDonald, two Scotchmen prominent in the business life of the west arrived at the depot at Nelson Wednesday night, the cynosure of all eyes, to take train for the coast. One was A. Macdonald, familiarly known as "Sandy Macdonald," the big wholesale grocer of Winnipeg and many western cities, including Nelson, and the other was John Paterson of Paterson & Brown, the firm that owns 27 retail grocery stores in Winnipeg. The day spent in Nelson was incidental of a trip to Vancouver, where Mr. Paterson will look over the business openings. "Are we optimistic?" repeated Mr. Paterson, referring to his own firm. "Doesn't it look that way when we have established six new stores in Winnipeg this year, and are looking for new opportunities elsewhere?" Mr. Macdonald yesterday visited his branch here, A. Mocdonald & Co., the plant of the McDonald Jam Co., the Presbyterian ladies bazaar, and the band room of the Kootenay Kilties, among other points of special interest.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

The ease with which the transfer of authority from Lloyd George to Bonar Law was effected and the speed with which it was ratified by the British people, is yet another illustration of the fact that Great Britain is the most flexible of democracies. In no other country of the world could a change of government have been accomplished with such ease or the popular will on the subject have been registered with so little disruption of business. The fact remains that these elections occurred during an international crisis and the political conflict made little disturbance in the conduct of affairs. Lloyd George is the last of the eminent statesmen of the war to be rejected by his countrymen, but the grace with which he accepted the inevitable ensures him a place in the permanent regard of the British peoples. There is no more reason to believe that he is dead as a factor in British public life, than there was in the case of Mr. Balfour, whom prophets recklessly consigned to oblivion years ago.

The victory of the Conservatives under Mr. Bonar Law must be interpreted as due to the desire of the majority of the British people to demonstrate to the world at large that they stand for safe and sane ideals of government in the face of shattered political institutions all over Europe. Among the more eminent Conservatives, Unionists and Liberals there seems to have been a unity of belief on one point—that the menace of Red revolution must be faced and fought. Its formidable nature may be judged by the fact that of approximately fourteen million votes cast, the Labor party, with its confiscatory programme received about four million. Though British institutions are still secure, the amount of support accorded Bolshevist ideas is disquieting.

One trembles to think what would have happened Britain had the Labor Party in its present frame of mind, been victorious. The election manifesto issued by the National Executive of that party shows clearly that the Labor leaders have gone Bolshevist. This is not to say that Arthur Henderson and Mr. Clynes, the two outstanding figures, desire to reproduce another Russia in the British Isles, but none the less this would have been the effect of their policy had they won and stood by the manifesto. The Labor Party's scheme of government began with a capital levy as if wealth were carried about in stockings in place of being set to work and kept at work as is the case. Another of their proposals was a heavy increase in the income tax, obilvious of the fact that with a capital levy there would be no substantial incomes to tax.

But the British Labor Party does not stop there, for they further demand that private enterprise practically ceases to be, beginning with the railways and the coal mines and running on through industry until "nationalization" is general, all oblivious to the dreadful lessons taught by Lenine-Trotsky & Co. and the rest of the "sewer rats" that have made Russia a hell upon earth.

Really the only difference between the British Bolshevists and those of Moscow breed was that Henderson, Clynes and the rest wished to do by legislative enactment what Lenin, Trotsky and the other Russian leaders did with their murdering Chinese troops and the torture chamber.

However, the British people have again proven their sanity, and it is interesting to note that the victory at the polls of those who stood on the Labor party platform were in a great majority of cases the result of three-cornered contests.—Saturday Night.

WOODSWORTH BALDERDASH

To listen to Rev. J. S. Woodsworth, M.P., is to insult one's intelligence. The other evening some hundred or so Toronto University College students had the opportunity of viewing Woodsworth's intellectual wares. This Socialist M.P., it will be remembered, had to do with the Winnipeg "rebellion." And it is this phase of the matter that is of particular interest at the moment. Woodsworth in the course of his remarks in reply to the quetion as to whether labor opposed the church, is quoted as saying:

"Well, in Eastern Canada the Church is much more prograssive, etc. In the west the Church has lost ground. On the Pacific Coast the Church is negligible. In Winnipeg during the strike the Church oppressed Labor. It used its organization and buildings to enrol lawyers and doctors, and gave them guns to shoot their fellows. I know the inside history of all this. The Winnipeg strike was merely an effort to get higher wages, not to upset the government. Anything else was newspaper talk."

So the Winnipeg disturbance was "merely an effort to get higher wages, not to upset the government. Anything else was newspaper talk." This will be news to many.

Winnipeg's bakers, perfectly satisfied with their jobs, were forbidden to bake bread nor when baked could it be delivered, in order to "get higher wages."

The delivery of ice was interfered with, though the weather was hot and much food spoiled, to "get higher wages.

The firemen were pulled away from their duties, (who cared if the city burned up?) "to get higher wages."

The mails were held up and the telegraph lines were silent, "to get higher wages."

These are facts, not Woodsworth fiction, and no one knows it better than Woodsworth himself, for he was on the spot with his co-workers the Rev. Ivens, "Bob" Russell and the rest of the "martyrs."

The least one should expect from a "man of the cloth" is that he occasionally tells the truth. — Saturday Night.

Rubin Casowich got six months in jail for having cocaine in his possession in Montreal. He had been admitted to bail, which he jumped, was arrested on a bench warrant, and was reported to have died in jail. He walked into the dock just in time to prevent the clerk of the court pronouncing him dead.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

ORPHEUM THEATRE

Wednesday & Thursday, Dec. 6 & 7

This Telegram tells the Tale

It's a heart-size photodrama

A picture as sweeping as the league-long rollers, as strong as the forest giants that tang it.

The drama of a man's belief in the woman he loves—even against the iron will of a fighting father.

MIRIAM COOPER

Sweet, Poignant, as "Nan of Sawdust Pile"—the little outcast who makes two mistakes in life, when she lets a bigamist deceive her into marriage — and when again she loves the man she shouldn't.

A PICTURE YOU SIMPLY MUST SEE.

Railway News

Winnipeg, Man.—Since the commencement of the crop year up to Oct. 1st, 85,595,574 bushels of wheat have been marketed by the Canadian Pacific Railway western lines, it was announced at the local office recently. During the same period the company handled 12,229,772 bushels of coarse grain and for the same period last year 56,164,115 bushels of wheat were marketed as well as 6,940,688 bushels of coarse grain. Total cars loaded to date amount to 52,773 as against last year figures of 38,257.

There is every indication that the volume of travel to Europe during November and December will this year be heavy. It is already apparent that the number of those who intend spending Christmas in the Old Country will be unusually large, and the Canadian Pacific Railway is making special arrangements to accommodate the traffic. A special through train will be run from Winnipeg to the steamer "Montcalm", sailing from St. John, N.B., on December 12, and through tourist sleepers will run from Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina and other western points to catch other C. P. R. sailings from St. John, thus giving a through service from these cities to the Old Country.

Bow Island.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company has a gang of men at work here on the improvements to their pumping plant and when completed there will be quite an improvement to the volume of water that can be pumped from the river. The work includes the putting in of a new boiler and pump at the river, so that they can use natural gas as well as gasoline, and thus be sure of fuel at all times for pumping, and does away with water trouble and having engines run for water. It also increases the service here and practically does away with supply at other points.

H. R. Miles, division engineer, has charge of the work and has a crew of eighteen men working with him under Foreman W. J. Oliver. It will take at least three weeks for the work to be completed. When finished they will be able to fill the present water tank, which holds 16,000 barrels, in three hours. When it is considered that there will be at least twelve to sixteen trains daily taking water here it means there must be a supply of it on hand at all times. This new installation will meet the requirements.

Winnipeg.—Western Canada's export business in fruit, potatoes and other lines of produce has developed to such proportions that exporters are now arranging to establish big collecting warehouses in Winnipeg and other cities of the prairie provinces. The Canadian Pacific has granted special storage in transit privileges at Winnipeg, Regina, Moose Jaw, Lethbridge and Calgary on carload shipments of apples in boxes originating in British Columbia.

Under the new arrangement the shipper has the privilege of holding this produce in Winnipeg or any of the other western cities named for a period of six months and then on reshipment he gets the advantage of the through rate.

St. John, N.B.—The prize awards to section foremen on the New Brunswick district of the C. P. R., for the best sections of rails, roadbed, etc., have been announced recently by General Superintendent J. M. Woodman. His prize of $50 for the second best went to N. Mason on the Shogomoc sub-division. The first prize of $100, given by Manager J. J. Scully, was announced a few days ago. Of third prizes of $25 each, one given by Superintendent Boyles of Browanville, is awarded to W. E. Nason, on section 5, Mattewamkeag sub-division; and one given by Superintendent Gilliland of Woodstock, to T. Abbott for section 11 on the Shogomoc sub-division. The list of roadmaster prizes of $10, the sub-divisions and the winners, follow:—

Roadmaster, Owens, Shore Line; winner, T. Gidden.

Roadmaster, Richardson, Shogomoc; winner, B. Saunders.

Roadmaster, Lister, Gibson, winner, B. Clark.

CURIOSITIES

A mail carrier in Quebec had his horse struck and killed by an express train. The engine driver immediately applied the emergency brake which brought the train to a sudden stop. The clerk in the mail car opened the door to see what the trouble was and a letter fell at his feet. The carrier was taking it to the post office when his team was hit and the vacuum caused by the open door drew the letters into the mail car.

A marriage which took place at Vento, Holland, gave the bridegroom the distinction of being a grandfather before he had come of age. The groom is eighteen and the bride forty-five. She was a widow with several children, one of whom was married a year ago and has a child, which makes the groom a grandfather. The eldest son is 22, so that the groom becomes "father" to a man four years older than himself.

A party of football fans in an automobile returning from a game at Ladysmith, B.C., ran into a bear ambling along the middle of the road. The animal faced the glare of the head lights and charged at the car, driving his head against the bumper. The bear regained his senses almost immediately and rushed into the woods, leaving behind a badly dented car and some of his hide.

During the absence of her husband a German woman in a Berlin suburb committed suicide by turning on the gas. The returning husband rang the bell and receiving no answer pushed it so violently that a short circuit was caused inside the gas filled house. The front door was blown off, knocking the man down. The interior was completely wrecked.

With his left arm severed in a sawmill at Harlowe, a man walked half a mile to his boarding house to get first aid. Then he started to Flinton for a doctor. A passing motorist gave him a lift. The doctor was out and he started for Tweed, some miles away. He finally found a physician, and is now in Belleville hospital.

A baby 29 months old was carried to the polls at Barrow, Eng., to cast a vote in the parliamentary elections. The infant was one of the many whose names appeared through errors in the list of registered voters.

A freak Barred Rock cockerel with only one wing was hatched on Vancouver Island. The bird's neck grew from the side where its wing should have been. Whenever it fell over it could not get up. Someone would always have to set it on its feet again. The bird was otherwise normal and grew to full size.

According to a report from Camilla, Ga., a negro woman has died at the age of 134. The woman had a grandson who was 50 years old. Last year, according to members of her family, she cut a third set of teeth. They worried her and she had them pulled out.

An Assyrian loaf more than 2400 years old has been discovered by a French explorer. It is supposed to have been baked in 560 B.C., and was in excellent condition when found. The loaf is bun shaped and was wrapped in a cloth in a tight sealed sarcophagus.

Two men were repairing a rifle in a farm yard in New Brunswick, and as a test fired at a barn door. The bullet struck a hinge, rebounded and struck a horse in the head causing instant death. The animal had just been sold for $300 but the loss fell on the original owner.

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong healthy lad, full of life and energy While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmured Mother,' but this is the only word he could utter he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a tonic and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained. The poor child would waken in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of, that I thought I would get a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

Mrs. P., Montreal.

MANY PUT TRUST IN THE UNKNOWN

Never Satisfied With Those Things With Which Tey Are Familiar

INCLINED TO TAKE CHANCE

Curious Traits in Human Nature Have Made Possible Growth and Development of the Great Mail Order Houses

(Copyright)

A curious trait in human nature makes itself apparent very frequently. That is an inclination to trust in the unknown rather than in that with which one is familiar. A person is very apt to take a chance, even though he may know that the odds are 100 to one against him, instead of being satisfied with lesser rewards about which there is no possibility of doubt.

It is, possibly, the flaring up of the ever-present gambling instinct, but there is something more in it than that. There is in it the unexplained tendency on the part of most people to reach for the chimerical and ignore the tangible and substantial thing which is near at hand. Man is seldom satisfied with those things which are within his grasp but is reaching always for the unattainable. Too often, he loses that which he might easily gain by blindly pursuing that which is always just out of his reach.

Why "Con" Man Thrives

Coupled, in a way, with his faith in the unknown is the tendency on the part of so many people to place confidence in a stranger in preference to one who is known and has been tried and proven. It is this tendency which makes possible the operations of the "con" man, the get-rich-quick artist, the unscrupulous promoter and the salesman of worthless mining stocks. The man who would not think of trusting Bill Jones, his next-door neighbor and fellow church-member, will confidingly turn over his life's savings to a stranger who unfolds a tale of riches to be won. Bill Jones might talk his head off in behalf of a legitimate proposition without getting a dollar where the slick stranger with the worthless proposition can get thousands.

It is these two tendencies which, apparently, are so widely prevalent among all classes of people that have made possible the success of the great mail order houses in the big cities. A knowledge of psychology is as important to the mail order man as a knowledge of business practices. He plays upon these tendencies of man to take a chance, to trust in the unknown rather than the known, to place confidence in the stranger rather than the friend.

Hope to Draw Prize

Those who buy merchandise from a mail order house are moved partly, whether they realize it or not, by that trait in their nature which prompts them to trust in the unknown rather than in that with which they are familiar. They are hoping, it may be unconsciously, that they will draw a prize. They do not know what they will get, for it is impossible for one to know what he is going to get when he orders merchandise from a picture and a highly-colored description in a catalogue. He is taking a chance on the unknown.

Buying merchandise from the local merchant, on the other hand, contains none of those elements of chance that enter into the dealings with the mail order house. When one buys a stove from the hardware store in his home town, he may get none of the thrills that come from taking a chance but he will get a stove that will last longer and keep him warmer than the one that he might get from the mail order house and to the average individual these things are likely to be more important than the thrills.

Using Your Eyes

When you buy from the local merchant you see the things you are buying, you inspect it carefully, examine the workmanship and the quality of the material of which it is made and in many cases you have the privilege of testing it before paying for it. You have not only your own eyes and knowledge of values to rely upon, but you have the advantage of the advice of the merchant who has an expert knowledge of the merchandise which he is selling and who, in 99 cases out of 100, can be relied upon to tell the truth about it. Then you have the guarantee that is backed not only by the retail merchant, but in many cases by the manufacturer. If the article which you buy does not prove satisfactory after it is given a fair test, you can take it back to the store where you bought it, in most cases, and get your money back. The retailer may get his money back from the manufacturer, but if he doesn't he stands the loss. In any event you are protected.

Why a person will place his confidence in a stranger rather than a friend or will trust in the unknown rather than in that which is tangible, is something that is hard to understand. Even the mail order house does not pretend to know why it is so but it accepts conditions as it finds them and makes the most of the opportunities that they offer.

The story, "North of the Rio Grande," is one of the most thrilling sweeping yarns ever picturized, and the players who interpret it could not have been better selected. It is a Western picture, a sizzling romantic drama of the great outdoors, of the land where men are men. It moves with the sure breathless speed of the two wonderful horses around which it is woven; it has situations to set the pulses throbbing, the heart beating wildly and the brain to stand still at the wonder of what is going to happen next.

It has suspense, vigorous action and a thunderbolt surprise just before the end. And it has been filmed in the actual settings—down in Arizona. So you will find that from such facts as these there are boundless exploitation possibilities.

If you are in need of quilts go to the United Church bazaar tomorrow. They have some good ones, the kind mother used to make.

BAN INTERIOR WAREHOUSES

Vancouver, Nov. 29.—The Province today says the government amendments to the Liquor Act may include one which will make illegal liquor warehouses at any except coast points on the ground that the interior towns cannot conveniently export liquor to any countries where the importation of liquor is legal. Interior points in which liquor warehouses are now located include Fernie, Creston, Keremeos, Cranbrook, Yale, Grand Forks, and Greenwood.

Compulsory distribution to schools of part of the liquor profits now given municipalities may also be enacted.

With the last drop in the price of all Ford Models this makes the Ford the lowest price in history, but NOTICE, the Ford Company have advised us that if the increase in sales will not warrant this reduction the present prices will be withdrawn. Therefore, we strongly advise anyone who intends buying a Ford Car to do so at once, as we believe this last drop in price is only to stimulate the fall business and we fully expect an advance in the price before spring. If you do not wish to lay out all the money just now, we will arrange to deliver you a car in the spring at the present prices if you sign an order and pay a small deposit. This will protect you against any advance on the present price, and should there be another drop in the prices before spring we will give you the advantage of whatever the drop might be.

BIG G. W. V. A. CONVENTION

A working organization that will be equal to all demands for the service so unselfishly given for returned men and dependents, but that also effects a close working contact between the component parts of the organization—the branches, district organization, and provincial command— was the chief product of the three-day G. W. V. A. convention at Penticton, according to H. A. Bryant of Fernie, who arrived home on Monday night, along with his fellow delegates of the East Kootenay.

Mr. Bryant comes back as district representative for East Kootenay, and his associates were George Townsend of Fernie and Walter Kay of Cranbrook, W. J. Williams of Trail, the new district representative for West Kootenay, got off at Castlegar, being met there by his car, H. H. Currie of Nelson, new second vice-president, completed the Kootenay lineup.

For the next couple of months, the modified and strengthened organization will put all its force into the work to be done in connection with the approaching sessions of the royal commission on pensions and reestablishment, looking particularly, perhaps, to the question of the handicapped man, Mr. Bryant intimated.

While this is going on, the 10 districts, formerly called zones, will organize commands, each with a president, vice president, and secretary-treasurer, and each district representative has instructions to conduct a ballot of his branches within one month, to fully constitute the command. Each district will be expected to hold one or more district conferences in a year.

The primary feature of the reorganization, so far as the provincial command is concerned, the East Kootenay men state, is that the necessity of organizing work is at last officially recognized. The provincial command will accept quarters in the building of the Vancouver branch, and the executive has authority to make any arrangemnts considered advisable, with the Vancouver branch, as to assistance with secretarial work, so that Secretary-Treasurer Walter Drinnan may spend 50 per cent. of his time on the road. To faciliate this, the branches with most experience in adjustment work are asked to do as much of this work as possible themselves.

ASKS SEC. PEACOCK TO BE CONSISTENT

OTTAWA, Dec. 5.— Hon. James Murdock, minister of labor, replying to a telegram from Robert Peacock, of the Royal Canadian Mounted police Calgary, secretary of district No. 18, U. M. W. of A. denies that members have been used to prevent the miners picketing in the Edmonton coal fields and asks Mr. Peacock "by what process of reasoning you can justify on the one hand calling a strike under conditions contrary to the law, and on the other hand appealing to the government for relief from an alleged injustice resulting from what you deem to be too severe an application of another statute."

Mr. Peacock in his telegram alleges that mounted police and provincial police were "unduly arresting our members for peaceable picketing in the Edmonton field."

Mr. Peacock's telegram to the minister of labor follows:

"Our attention has been drawn to the action of the Canadian mounted police, also provincial police, of unduly arresting our members for peaceable picketing in the Edmonton field. We believe you fully realize the discontent such action will create throughout the whole of our membership if this is continued and we would appreciate your taking whatever steps are necessary to put an end to this injustice in order that our membership be kept in control."

Mr. Murdock's reply to Mr. Peacock:

"I am in receipt of your night letter fourth instant referring to alleged action of mounted police in preventing oprations of your officials along picketing lines and requesting action on my part to end present injustice as alleged, in order that your membership be kept in control. On enquiry, I find that no action along lines of which you speak has been taken by the mounted police. I am not informed as to action taken by provincial police, but provincial police are in any case under control of provincial and not federal authorities. I Gather from press reports that members of your organization in considerable number are on strike in Edmonton district. There has been no enquiry before a board of conciliation and the strike would be, therefore, presumably opposed to the terms of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act.

"Your message indicates that your membership has been hitherto kept in control, in which case you would apparently accept resposibility for existing strike and I would be obliged if you would let me know by what process of reasoning you can justify on the one hand calling a strike under conditions contrary to the law and on the other appealing to the government for relief from an alleged injustice resulting from what you deem to be too severe an application of another statute. Kindly let me have full statement on this point."

U. C. BAZAAR A SUCCESS

The United Church Ladies' Aid held their annual bazaar in the basement of the Church on Saturday afternoon last.

The fancy-work booth was a prominent feature and drew a large crowd. It was in charge of Mrs. J. E. Gee, assisted by Mrs. T. Lawes, Mrs. Digby and others.. The color scheme was pink and grey.

The candy booth, in charge of Miss Isabel Dicken, with the able assistance of Miss Dorothy Dicken and Miss Frey, was beautifully decorated in violet and gold. A large amount of home-made candy was dispensed, some very clever special ideas being utilized to good effect.

A special feature was the competition booth in charge of Mrs. Corrie, in which prizes were given for the best article made from flour sacks and unbleached coton. The prize in the former class was won by Miss M. Elliott and in the latter by Mrs. Gee.

A quaint and pleasing note was added by the three patchwork quilts, which were the work of Mrs Ingram and her helpers .

A large and varied stock of aprons were readily disposed of. This corner was looked after by Mrs. Moses and Mrs. Shorthouse.

The delicatessen table did a rushing business. It was convened by Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. McVannell and others.

The tea room was in charge of Mrs. Munkwitz and the guests were looked after by Miss Hogan and her class, the Junior Aid.

Mrs. Fisher, President of the Ladies Aid was general convenor for the whole affair, and the amount taken in was almost $1100, the largest sum ever realized at a United Church Bazaar.

WILL HANG ON FEB. 21

Calgary, Dec. 2.—"Guilty!" Clearly and solemnly the word broke the oppressive silence of the court-room at five minutes past eight o'clock tonight, and a few minutes later Emilio Picariello and Mrs. Florence Lassandro were sentenced to be hanged for the murder of Steve O. Lawson at Coleman, September 21 last, the execution to take place at the Fort Saskatchewan jail February 21, 1923.

It was a tense moment. Ears were strained to catch every syllable uttered by the foreman of the jury and His Lordship Mr. Justice Walsh. The supreme court chamber was packed to the doors, and a fighting mob outside were held back by cordons of police. As the dread hour of eight o'clock drew near, the crowd was silenced by the appearance of the prisoners brought in under guard.

Picariello, sullen and unmoved, came first, taking his position on the right hand side of the dock. Mrs. Lassandro, supported by her matron, followed. She was on the verge of collapse—a pale, weak little creature, the object of hundreds of curious eyes.

Promptly at the stroke of eight, counsel for the Crown and the deence filed in, followed a moment later by His Lordship. His Lordship made a statement prior to the bringing in of the jury in which he declared firmly and pointedly that there must be no demonstration of either approval or disapproval after a verdict had been rendered. "Any person guilty of a contempt of this court, should they come before me, will be severely punished," he said.

The sheriff brought in the jury—six citizens of the realm in whose hands the fate of the prisoners in the box rested. They answered to their names, and Clerk of the Court Lawrence J. Clarke addressed them saying:

"Gentlemen of the jury, have you agreed upon a verdict. If so, make it known through your foreman."

W. H. Bagley, foreman, slowly arose and said: "We have."

"What is your verdict?"

There was a silence of but a moment, but it seemed an hour. The ticking of the clock could be heard.

"We find both of the accused, Emilio Picariello and Florence Lassandro guilty of murder," declared the foreman.

There was another stifling silence, and then His Lordship said: "Gentlemen, I concur with your verdict of conviction. All through my charge to you, I endeavor to conceal my own personal views and feelings, because I thought that you gentlemen were quite capable to decide the guilt or innocence of the accused from the evidence adduced. I felt at the close that the Crown had most completely established its charge, and that a serious miscarriage of justice would have occurred, had a verdict other than the one rendered, been given."

Picariello was asked to stand up. His face was stolid and unmoved, and his keen dark eyes were fixed on the face of His Lordship. Asked if he had anything to say regarding the verdict of the jury, he answered through his lawyer, J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., that he had nothing to say.

His Lordship explained that under the British law there was only one sentence that could be meted out to a murderer, which was death. He said the evidence would go to Ottawa and be reviewed, and there it will be finally decided whether or not the execution of the sentence would be carried into effect. He had no right to hold out any hope, and in the meantime, he advised the prisoner to prepare to meet the sentence. There was a movement in front, and the clerk crossed to the wall, took down a calender and passed it up to His Lordship. Picariello watched this, but he maintained his poise, except for a new pallor on his cleanly shaven face. He watched Mr. Justice Walsh unmoved as the measure of his life span was counted.

His Lordship spoke. "You will be taken immediately to the provincial jail at Fort Saskatchewan, where you will remain until the twenty-first day of February, 1923, when you will be taken from your place of confinement and hanged until dead. And may God have mercy on your soul."

"Pick's lips twitched, and as though dazed he dropped into his seat.

Mrs. Lassandro was immediately sentenced. His Lordship said that he had no alternative but to sentence

LIQUOR ACT AMENDMENTS

(Special to the Fernie Free Press)

VICTORIA, Dec. 6.—Changes to the present Liquor Control Act will be brought down in the House this week by Attorney-General Manson which are likely to open up the Act in full debate during which time a 'beer-clause' will be offered as an amendment by a member other than a Cabinet Minister.

Five dollar permits for 'hard likker' are to be reduced to $2 while to purchase beer by a resident will cost $1 annually. The non-resident clause is to be eliminated in order to satisfy our American cousins.

Provision is to be made in the act to allow the Liquor Control Board to be composd of one or five members. It is altogether likely that some changes are to be made in the personnel, rumor connecting the names of Archie Hohnson and Col. Winsby as being dropped and thus leave the whole say in the administration to J. H. Falconer, a close friend of the present government.

An Amendment affecting the distribution of the profits, is likely, a certain fraction being designed for school purposes, while the remainder coming to the municipalities will be treasury department. Advertisements allocated to hospitals direct from the of liquor, which have been under a cloud since a Liberal pinoc held in Vancouver last summer when practically all the advertising was composed of liquor ads., is still to be permitted but these must contain the name of the concern in order to show that the government is not footing the bill.

Attorney-General Manson will also attempt to place the export house in the interior out of business by raising the annual fee to $10,000. This will meet with opposition.

Mr. Frank Adolph, the well known lumberman of Baynes Lake, left Monday for Washington, N.C., where he goes to assume an important public position, being appointed to the position of the secretary of the board of trade of that city. Mr.Adolph was in the city Monday saying good-bye to his many Cranbrook friends, who wish him success in his new position. —Cranbrook Courier.

HOCKEY

The Fernie City Hockey League was organized at a meeting held in Ingram's Hall, Monday evening and is to be run under the auspices of the Fernie Hockey Club. The league is composed of all the same teams as last year; Northern Hotel. West Fernie "Bluebirds", Ingram's "150" and Coal Co. The executive is negotiating with the Rink Company to secure the ice for the league games from 7 to 8 instead of after skating, as last year, which works too much of a hardship on both spectators and players. A schedule of games will be published as soon as the ice question has ben arranged.

West Frnie—Costa, Shand, Tobin, R. Commons, J. Thompson, Biggs, H. Johnson.

MANY GIFTS FOR MANY WOMEN

Old Santa will sponsor to a lot of new Christmas gifts this year, and will be electrical.

The windows of electrical shops over the land are blossoming out in holly wreaths adorning electrical household appliance of every sort, which combine great usefulness with novelty, and whicch fit almost any pocketbook.

"Give her something she can use" is the thought in every man's mind when he goes to buy his wife or other feminine members of his family Christmas gifts and from these window displays may be chosen something for each and every one of them.

Where the man of large means may prefer to supply his women friends with articles of greater show, the man of moderate circumstances finds a mecca in any one of these shops in which his taste for choosing presents of utility and beauty combined may be gratified. And many men of the first-named variety will also buy Electrical gifts.

The first and best offering that any man can buy his entire household unless this has already been installed, is a complete system of good wiring, with a sufficient number of convenience outlets for electrical appliances which can be added from time to time. This means not only a Happy Christmas for the whole family, but a happy and a more peaceful life the year around, brought by the feeling that the perfect service of electricity is at hand to transform drudgery and labor to ease and comfort; to save steps and time, and to brighten with light and entertainment.

Beginning with Grandmother -- for what a cheerful gathering place her home at Holiday times has always been and how glad one is to add to her comfort --- there are footwarmers hearing devices, radiant heaters, heating pads, flashlights, heating blankets, bed warmers, reading lamps -- perhaps, tho she has become feeble and invalid, she has not lost her interest in human affairs,and a radio receiving outfit is just as suitable beside her easy chair as it is for any younger member of the family.

For the daughter at college what could be more appropriate than a fudge pan or a corn-popper, to plug in at a moment's notice. Since the advent of the electric corn-popper, the little red and yellow ears of Indian Corn have found their place in the "goody box" that arrives frequently from home.

And then for "other girl" gifts, there are perfume burners, boudoir sets, sewing, reading, desk, floor and art lamps, toilette appliances and grills.

For mother, the list to choose from is longest. The universal business of making and managing a home has never left her affections, and the electrical industry has provided so many devices to satisfy these desires that it is not hard to choose. There are wired tea-wagons and kitchen appliances with separate motor arrangement; there are table appliances of varying handsomeness and price some washed in silver and others made of luster-wear, there are grills and fans, and lighting fixtures and lamps, there are electric log fire places to add cheer to any room, there are vacuum cleaners, dishwashers and electric refrigerators, there are ice cream freezers, player pianos, phonographs.

The business woman is not forgotten here and special departments containing devices which will marvelously eliminate waste of time and energy from her daily life of routine are to be found.

Christmas suggestions and shopping lists of presents for every member of the family are provided, and there is no need that any man should turn away dissatisfied because he could not find suitable gifts for each.

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a sight. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw. I was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look,—an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed at large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Elsie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had never been as thin as I was, a year or more ago she ran me a close second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed into a fine handsome girl with one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen I asked her what had caused the big change. She said Carnol. She told me she had been taking it regularly for the last three months and that from the first week of taking it she had begun to put on flesh. I was so encouraged by what she said that I couldn't get to the druggist fast enough. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in me you ever saw. I now weigh 165 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and I know that I am admired"

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 8-622

CHALLENGE TO PREMIER

(Special to the Fernie Free Press)

VICTORIA, Dec. 4.—W. K. Esling's annual attempt to delve into the arrangements between the government and the Northern Construction Company in respect to the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, took a new turn in the Legislature on Friday last when the Rossland member, balked in his attempts to secure the officials and books of the construction concern before the Public Accounts Committee, rose to a point of privilege and made a sporting offer that he would resign his seat if his charges proved unfounded but that the Premier should resign if Mr. Esling's claims are not substantiated on fact.

Previously that morning, Mr. Esling had rquested the Public Accounts Committee, before whom he is due to be questioned on account of his allegations that the treasury has been looted of thousands of dollars, to have speaker's warrants issued for the accountant and the books of the construction company. Scenting possible danger, the Liberal members of the committee voted down the proposal to have these warrants issued immediately, Dr. K. C. MacDonald, North Okanagan, taking the view that the committee members should have the week-end to thinking it over. With the Session rapidly drawing to a close and with three sittings a day being scheduled to start this week, there appears little possibility of Mr. Esling's request being accepted or his sporting offer taken up by Premier Oliver.

BANFF-WINDERMERE ROAD OPENING

Invermere, B.C., Nov. 30th—Telegraphic advice just received from Hon. Dr. J. H. King, Federal Minister of Public Works, says the Parks Branch have decided that the Banff-Windermere road will be officially opened on June thirtieth, 1923.

Attorney-Gegeral Manson has announced that a new policy with regard to prisons is under consideration by the government. He told the Legislature recently that the whole trend of modern times was not to consider prisons as places of punishment but as institutions of correction, and that steps were to be taken which should show a decided improvement within a short time. His plans will result in turning Oakalla Prison-farm into a model house of correction.

LOYAL ORDER OF MOOSE

Another big class was added to the Fernie Lodge, No. 1335, on Monday evening the 4th inst. The number in the class was 13, which augers well for the future of this Lodge as 13 is now considered the lucky number. This Order meets the peculiar need of men engaged in hazardous occupations. Artizans should, while this drive is on, take advantage of the wonderful protection provided and seek admission to its ranks, thereby availing themselves of this splendid precaution. Business men, professional men, employers, would also be doing a good thing by helping to afford the protection by firmly building up a Lodge of 500 members here and by doing so you are helping to put your growing industrial city on the map.

The wide advertising facilities of the Mooseheart magazine reaches every member of the order monthly. As the membership is reaching the million mark it is fair to assume that at least three million people are reading what we are doing in Fernie, therefore you are putting Fernie on the map as nothing else can do.

The special feature of the drive on the basis of Ten Dollars initiation is because the members are ambitious to have a chapter of the Men's Legion of Mooseheart or second degree put on here and also to build up the Women's Legion of Mooseheart. These Legions have by their continued effort accomplished another most wonderful feat by establishing Moosehaven in Florida on a large estate where when members of the order who become too old to maintain themselves are eligible to be taken along with their wives.

Splendid pictures appear in this months Mooseheart magazine which I hope each member of the Lodge here will show to their neighbors. It is entitled, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

A business man going to New York had a piece of string tied around his finger, his friend said "your wife told you to get something," he said, "no, that is to remind me to pay my life insurance premium," the other said, "I cannot afford life insurance," he replied, "I cannot afford to be without it." Neither can you neglect take their places as good and useful order approaching a million members, this is not an experiment which has long since been proved by the number of young men and women who have been brought to life's estate able to take thei rplaces as good and useful citizens in the world. This is wholly and truly the Loyal Order of Moose of the world. Sick accident and funeral benefits are paid by the local Lodge.

Citizens of Great Britain, France and Italy can now send their children to Mooseheart and old men and their wives to Moosehaven. The charter rate of ten dollars will remain open till end of this month, so now is the time to join this great order of Moose. What's the use, be a man, be a Moose. Ladies of Mooseheart Legion, remind your spouse, your son, your father or your brother to join up for ten dollars fee instead of twenty and don't forget the Moose pin offered by the organizer. See any member or Organizer Thompson.

A Communication

Nov. 24, 1922

James Wilson, Secretary, Fernie Lodge No. 1335, L. O. O. M., Fernie.

Dear Brother Wilson—We are interested in the progress of your campaign and would appreciate hearing from you as to how you are getting along.

It is wonderful when you realize that in spite of the adverse industrial conditions that during the twelve months prior to the 1922 Convention 71,000 new members were added to our Order, and we feel confident now since business is better that before the 1923 Convention rolls around, we will more than double this number.

This can be accomplished by the co-operation of the officers and members of the various Lodges—using constant propaganda to those who are eligible to membership—telling them of the advantages of being a Moose—the benefits we pay, the protection of Mooseheart to their families and the service of the Order in general.

The Order today stands as one of the most successful of all the fraternities, and its plea for the conservation of childhood has created new interest in the child of today. Our Director General's motto "A High School Education and a Trade for every boy and girl" is an object lesson for all.

Let us hear from you, we want to help you make your campaign a success, we are at your service.

Fraternally and sincerely yours,

Fred W. Jones,
Ass't Director General

STANDARD OIL IN GREAT WAR

Abuse of the Standard Oil Company and other great corporations is so much a matter of habit of mind on this continent, that it is salutary to learn facts which show that rich corporations do not necessarily and at all times place mercenary considerations first. Comparatively few have studied the question of the relation of raw materials and basic commercial products to the prosecution of the war; but those who have done so have made some astonishing discoveries. A day or so after Armistice, Lord Curzon made the brief and cryptic statement "The Allies floated to victory on a sea of oil" and Marshal Foch later made a somewhat similar confession. The fact is that in 1917, shortly after the United States entered the war, France and Great Britain found themselves in a position where a petroleum famine was imminent. The appalling nature of the situation was necessarily kept a close secret but it may be realized from the fact that it meant a collapse of air, submarine, and a considerable part of the naval service, the wheels in munition factories and army motor transport reduced to idleness. Certain defeat in fact!

The story how Mr. Walter C. Teagle and Mr. E. C. Bedford of the Standard Oil Company undertook the emergency work of rectifying the situation, and by bringing all the independent companies of the United States into co-operation succeeded in doing so, has never been adequately told. We get a glimpse of the situation and of the men who took it in hand in a letter written by the late Lord Northcliffe to the late Walter H. Page, U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, on August 13th, 1917. At that time Northcliffe was serving as British Commissioner to the United States and staying at Manchester-by-the-Sea. The letter found in Mr. Page's papers show the breezy intimacy of the relations between the two men; and reveals Northcliffe's short cuts to action. The following is the passage that refers to the oil crisis:

"In great privacy let me tell you of an enormous responsibility that was placed on my shoulders one midnight, in the form of a desperate cable from A. J. B. (Mr. Balfour) as to the immediate putting of our fleet out of action owing to an apparent suddenly-discovered great shortage of oil. I had only been here for a few days, but long enough to know that such fuel is already scarce here. I knew that that cable; if disclosed, would cause such a jump in the oil market as has never been known. I was up bright and early, I can assure you. A little cautious pussy-footing as to the oil fuel situation brought no comfort—great demands, small supply—nothing doing. I read and re-read the telegram, and finally called up the Standard Oil head man (Mr. Teagle). We met, and I gave him the cable to read, dispite its most urgent, most secret inscription. He read it slowly twice, gave it back to me saying, "if it can be done, it will be done." I said nothing whatever about the price. Those people started in right there and oil is pouring across the Atlantic in giant strides, and at lower price than we have averaged over here. They could have squeezed millions out of our trouble if they had chosen. When I thanked them, they merely remarked, 'It's our war as well as your's.' I can can imagine the panic at No. 10 (Dowing Street) if they had known that I had disclosed that cable to the oil controller."

It is well that such facts as those casually revealed in the above chatty episcle should have been kept from the world at the time. A knowledge of the oil situation as it was in the late spring of 1917 would have paralized the morals of the Allied nations. But the time has come when the history of the great industrial corporations in relation to the war should be written. It should be almost as interesting as the long chronicles of battle.—Saturday Night.

BLAIRMORE LADIES WILL PLAY AS "THE VICTORIAS"

BLAIRMORE, Dec. 4.—The Ladies' hockey team, which was recently organized, got busy on Saturday and sold tags to realize finances for the purpose of buying uniforms which will be the same color as the men's team. To say that a large number of tags were sold would be putting it mildly, as over $200 was raised, putting them well over the top. There is no doubt that a good class of hockey will be put up by the fair sex as their ability as skaters is well known here, and a little practice in stick work should put them on par with any ladies' hockey team in the west, and they will be ready to meet all comers.

The club is to be known as the Blairmore Victorias, and the officers elected were: Hon. Pres., Mrs. Raul Green; Hon. Vice-Pres., Mrs. G. A. Vissac, Mrs. H. Gibeau, Mrs. H. Burns Pres., Mrs. W. Bird; Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Jean Kemp. The office of vice-president has not yet been filled. Mr. W. W. Scott was chosen manager and no doubt will be able to handle the job. At a tea served on Saturday by Mrs. W. Bird, the proceeds of which also went to the club.

BROADCASTING FOR MOOSE IN NOVA SCOTIA

Louie Harlow, Micmac Indian guide, stood up in the stern of the canoe with a birch bark horn pressed to his lips and sprayed the wilderness with this uncanny cry.

"Ou-ou-ou-ou—ou-erak! Ou-ou-ou-ou-ou-erak!" was the perfectly simulated call of a cow moose. "Ugh! Ugh!" was the imitation of the grunt of a little bull, and the combination was designed to fool a big male and cause him to appear without unnecessary delay.

Long before the radio was heard of, Nova Scotia guides were broadcasting a moose love song with intent to lure the lordly moose within range of the hunter's rifle. Louie Harlow, of South Milford, N.S., is the wizard of this wilderness wireless, and he uses no complicated apparatus. He cuts a likely scroll of bark from a white birch, rolls it into megaphone form, length about a foot, and then sews it together with a strong and slender spruce root resembling cat-gut. No seamstress could do better. There are smooth loops at intervals, the whole length on the outside of the horn. Every knot is tied inside, even at the small end.

"How do I do it?" says Louie. "I ain' sayin'. Nobody else knows how."

These guides have their secret tricks of trade and are proud of them. Louie Harlow is Nova Scotia's greatest moose hunter and has killed or lured to the rifle more moose than any other guide in Nova Scotia. Louie is a half-breed Micmac and opines that his other half is Scotch. He was born at Bear River on the Indian reservation, and has worked as a guide under A. D. Thomas of South Milford for 23 years. Swarthy of complexion, with a black moustache and straight black hair, he resembles an Indian less than his own son, but is master of Indian woodcraft. He can hear a moose moving in the woods when his companions hear nothing, and is the first to sight a moose or deer swimming the lake or standing on the shore. "A moose in ten days, or less" is Louie Harlow's motto, and it is said that he has never yet disappointed a sportsman who can shoot. Louie's siren song will fool the wisest old bull in the woods, but when he comes within range the hunter must do the rest.

Five of the most popular sporting writers of the United States this autumn spent ten days with Harlow and his brother guides in Nova Scotia. They had been reporting the world's series baseball games, and welcomed the quiet of the woods and the rest it brought. They were new to the woods, but they came out with a fair share of moose heads, and voted the trip the best holiday they ever had.

Although there is a vast area of beautiful country in Nova Scotia along the western and southern shores particularly, including the famous Land of Evangeline, the interior is the moose hunter's paradise. There are miles upon miles of lakes, rivers, and forests well populated by moose, deer, bear, and smaller animals. A favorite approach to this region is through South Milford, easily reached via Annapolis Royal, N.S., by way of Boston and Yarmouth, N.S., or St. John, N.B., and Digby, N.S. The ride from Digby and Annapolis Royal on the Dominion Atlantic Railway to South Milford is by automobile, and from South Milford, the hunter or fisherman, with a few portages, can paddle in a canoe three-quarters of the way across Nova Scotia to the Atlantic Ocean. The moose season lasts from October 1 to November 15, starting with moose calling and ending with still hunting. A dozen guides, among them such celebrities as Louie Harlow and Sam Glode, both Micmac Indians, work under the direction of A. D. Thomas along the shores of the Liverpool chain of lakes, Kedgemakoogee and beyond. Nova Scotia is conserving its moose—a hunter is limited to one bull a year—and the moose country will always be good moose country because that's about all it is good for, except trout fishing.

The government has decided to take off the bounties paid on all predatory animals and birds except cougers, timber wolves and coyotes. As a result of this action $10,000 will be saved yearly by the Game Conservation Board. Persons securing a return from the destruction of the crow will have to seek some other form of amusement and profit.

The new Civic Voters' List for the year 1923 is now posted on the City Hall Notice Board, and all persons should see for themselves whether their name is on the list or not; this applies especially to people who have recently become the registered owners of property. The Court of Revision sits on Monday next, December 11, after which date no additions can be made to the list.

The City Council met last Friday but the session lasted barely one hour. His Worship presided and all members were in attendance. Apart from purely miscellaneous routine maters, of which there were very few, business transacted consisted of placing orders for materials in connection with the waterworks renewals, and electric power meters to take care of the added number of consumers when West Fernie is connected up. For the Waterworks Department some 5,500 feet of cast iron water main, with necessary valves and fittings will be purchased. The pipe will be varying sizes from 6 in. to 14 in. An order was placed with the Canadian General Electric Company of Calgary, for 150 approved type of meters.

AMAZING DISCLOSURES

(Special to the Fernie Free Press)

VICTORIA, Dec. 6.—Amazing disclosures involving prominent Vancouver Liberals mixed up in the Liquor business with the government, were brought out in the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature during the past week which are likely to be re-echoed when the electorate in Vancouver are called upon to fill the seat formerly held by M. A. Macdonald before he unsuccessfully tried to break into the Federal House at Ottawa.

W. T. "Billy" McArthur, the man who held the Liberal purse strings in Vancouver some years ago; William Gilchrist, former head of the Ward Five Liberal Association; Jack Smith, son of Mary Ellen Smith, M. L. A.; G. C. Hyatt, formerly a mining man, but who has now a dozen or more agencies for hard liquor and wines in the Old Country; all of these ar involved in the game which was suspected at the 1921 Fall Session of the Legislature but investigation of which was denied by the Olivr Government who called for specific charges.

One of the worst examples of government patronage was during the trip made by Hugh Urquahart, now manager of the Vancouver warehouse, to Great Britain and France in the spring of 1921 immediately prior to the Moderation Act coming into force. William Gilrhrist accompanied Urquahart on the same boat to Liverpool where they parted company. Hyatt was waiting for the purchasing agent at London and travelled with him to Scotland, Ireland, and France. He sold the government during the past twelve months 12,120 cases of liquor; Gilchrist's total was 10,200 cases and 2822 gallons, while Gillespie & Co., Victoria said to be connected in some way with Gillespie, Hart, Tood Company, sold 8850 cases and 2584 proof gallons.

Jack Smith, son of the lady member for Vancouver, is mixed up with the game in company with J. S. O'Brien, being the firm operating the Elysium Hotel, Vancouver. The government bought 2000 cases of 'Spey Royal' lying in Auckland, New Zealand. The day before the government accepted the draft for £8500, a cable was received by the Bank of Commerce at Vancouver, changing the name of the person to receive a commission of £1360 to J. S. O'Brien, a partner of Smith in the hotel business.

Last week's sittings of the Public Accounts Committee brought out information of the California Wine Co., operating on False Creek, Vancouver, where Peter Falconer, is an employee, and in which W. T. McArthur and William Gilchrist are interested. Port and sherry wine is manufactured from loganberry pulp and other ingredients. Just to give the company a good boost when it started up, J. H. Falconer instructed the warehouse manager at Vancouver to circularize all the vendors to the fact that the wine company was a B. C. concern and to push the sales. Mr. Falconer went further and, using the words of Mr. W. J. Bowser, chief investigator for the Conservatives, "Falconer had nothing more to do than to scout around the country side for barrels to Saanich, for use of transporting berry be shipped to the Hamsterely Farm, pulp to the wine concern in Vancouver. He went still better when he sold the company all the spare straw wrappers which cases goods from the Old Country come in.

Immediately such disclosures were made in the Coast dailies, the C. P. R. did a rushing boat service bringing down Liberals to the Capital, all anxious to either keep their skirts clean or else to protect their friends. J. H. Falconer denied that he was financially interested in the wine concern. Gordon Wismer, a close friend of the ex-Attorney-General, Mr. Farris, took the stand that he had merely acted in a legal way for a cocktail concern in Vancouver which had sold their brand to the government. And so it goes. The investigation is continuing this week.

her to the same fate. He added, however that in as much as she was a woman, some clemency might be extended. The woman was then sentenced to be hanged at Fort Saskatchewan, on the same date. She was supported by the matron as she bent forward, her lips moving as if she wanted to speak. She uttered a little moan, as she resumed her seat beside her condemned companion.

The doom of the two was sealed. They now knew their fate, but with astounding fortitude they held up to the last. As will be noted the date of their executive is exactly five months to the day following the slaying of the Coleman constable. Another coincidence is the fact that Basoff, the last man to be hanged in Alberta, was out to rob Picariello when the train was held up out of which grew the subsequent killing of two officers of the law.

As stated above the counsel for the defense spoke for four hours, beginning at 7.30 p.m., developing a theory of the tragedy, which he skillfully and methodically fitted into the evidence adduced by the Crown, the whole case of whom he attacked with biting sarcasm and adroit argument. In his concluding sentences he stirred the jammed court room with this statement: "Gentlemen, don't be bullied or influenced by the presence here of the Attorney General of this province or of public sentiment, or of the dramatic appeals of my learned friend in an attempt to vindicate the virtues of the Alberta Liquor Act Such a mess has been created down there that some victim must be found. Give this man the same consideration as you would your neighbor or friend."

Self defense or justifiable homicide was the theory advanced by McKinley Cameron. He contended that Picariello's state of mind the evening of the shooting was one of triumph over "saving his load" and outwitting the police. He was not agitated but apparently went to the barracks "Pick" did not shoot Lawson or fire to square things up with the officer and see if he couldn't make some arrangements about getting Steve back from Michel. A scuffle followed Lawson"s arrival at the side of the car in which Lawson grabbed Picariello around the neck as related by Pearly Lawson, and that it appears from the evidence that Lawson leaned down into the car, probably to get the automatic, which he made no attempt to show was not in possession of the accused, that there was a discharge of a gun from somewhere, one of which came close to Mrs. Lassandro's foot, that she considered her own life in peril, and thereupon shot, as she confessed to Scott, using the .38 calibre gun, the shot of which was found in Lawson's body.

That the .32 calibre bullets went wild in the melee in an erratic manner, smashing the speedometer and windshield, and that Lawson was shot while stooping over in the car, and not as he attempted to beat a retreat and that in this stooping position, the frightened woman fired, striking him in the stomach, but this was probably due, it was held, to her excitement.

Therefore, the contention was that any shots wilfully or deliberately, but that Lawson appears to have grappled him around the neck, probably choking him. That the shots were then fired from somewhere and by someone not established, followed by the firing of the woman in obedience to Nature's first law, that of self-defence. Unwittingly, he argued, the crown had produced evidence which fitted into his theory with far more consistency than it did into any of their theories, which, he said, "arose and vanished as the case proceeded from day to day."

Mr. Cameron carefully explaind to the jury that the prisoners were being tried separately, unless a common design on the life of Lawson had been proved, which he denied. He ridiculed the efforts of the crown to prove that Lawson was unarmed. There had been no suggestion made that he was armed. "Pick's" conduct the evening of the shooting was not one of bitterness or revenge. He felt proud that Steve had outwitted the officers, and that even Scott had said that his threats were a joke.

With reference to rum running in the Pass generally, Mr. Cameron observed that "it was dangerous when the police did not want you to go through, but quite safe when they approved of your going through."

Severe censure administered to Sergt. Scott, "the champion confession man of the force" for his not taking down in writing the confessions of the accused. "If it were not for Scott's confessions, that he had tucked away in his mind but not on paper so they could be examined, where would the case for the crown be, anyway?" he said.

Mr. Cameron submitted that if "Pick" had been in a rage, and wanted to "get" Lawson, he would have shot him on sight as he appeared in the door of the barracks. There was no trace of design to kill Lawson. Again, there appeared to have been no provisions for protecting their lives after the shooting. They could have gone west or east in "Pick's high-powered car and probably reach the border, but there was no trace of a plan or a design. There was no evidence of a common design to kill any body on the part of the accused.

All through the trial the crown had attempted to put the .38 calibre gun into Picariello's hands. This was due to their keenness to get a conviction of this man. Their theories, like their witnesses, were funny. It was unkind to a gallant officer like Lawson to be accused of retreating and to be shot down in the back. He held that Lawson had hold of the automatic and never let go until he received his fatal wound.

Concluding, the learned counsel made a strong plea that race prejudice be not allowed in any way to influence the jury or vicious propaganda that had been going on since the trial, or any reports that had appeared in the press.

Calgary, Dec. 1. — A. A. McGillivray's address to the jury in the Picariello-Lassandro murder trial this afternoon, consumed upwards of three hours. It was an eloquent, logical, impressive presentation of the contention of the prosecution concluding with the words that the Crown left to the six men sworn as jurors, to decide the guilt or innocence of the prisoners, "that if they were convinced of their guilt to say to the people of this land that crime shall not ride rampant among any class, and that our officers of the law who by day and by night protect our homes and our children, shall not be shot down like dogs." There were two objects to be served: the punishment of the guilty, and the protection of the rights of the community.

The learned counsel traced step by step the various incidents culminating in the killing of Const. Lawson, Sept. 21 at Coleman. He argued that the identity of the occupants of the death car had been positively established as the accused, and that there was no hostility shown by Lawson when he went out to meet them as they drove up to the barrack's door. The number of shots fired did not matter. Lawson was shot down in cold blood, in the back, and the flashes of the shots, one of which killed him, issued from the car occupied by the accused. The fact that Lawson was shot in the back indicated that he was not attacking but rather seeking shelter from the rain of bullets.

The defence had expressed wonderment that Mrs. Gibeau, in whose house Florence Lassandro had taken refuge, had not been placed on the stand. It was the privilege of the defence, if they thought she could throw any light on the issues, to place her on the stand. They had failed to make any defence.

"At any rate, what material bearing has the testimony of one Italian woman on this case, in the light of the great preponderance of evidence produced by the Crown?" asked Mr. McGillivray.

"I appreciate my learned friend's wit and cleverness, and it is always a pleasure to be opposed by one of whose ability never fails in producing everything in his power in favor of his client, but I hold, that the grave points involved in this trial, a trial involving life and death, must not be brushed aside as a joke," calmly retorted Mr. Gillivray.

He ridiculed the claim of self defence, saying that it was a fair inference from the evidence that while Picariello and the girl were hiding they framed up between them the best possible story to shield themselves, which apparently was that the girl should shoulder the blame, saying she shot in self defence.

"It has been said that Sergt. Scott one of the Crown witnesses, struck the chief of police of Blairmore, but I ask you, was Sergt. Scott asked by my learned friend why he struck the chief of police?" asked Mr. McGillivray.

Continuing, he said that in a British court of justice the sex of a prisoner must not be considered. Mrs. Lassandro went for her gun in order to accompany "Pick" to Coleman to "get" Lawson, and her interest in young Steve "Pick," probably supplied the motive. In the days of chivalry even, murder by women was not tolerated. The counsel then presented the following submission based on evidence adduced, summarizing their argument:

First—That on Sept. 21 last, Const Steve O. Lawson was killed with a .38 calibre bullet.

Second—That the bullet was the cause of death.

Third—That it mattered not that one bullet only entered his body. He was killed. Both parties in the shooting were jointly guilty.

The counsel here read a number of sections from the Criminal Code, but explained to the jury that His Lordship, whom he described as one of the ablest trial judges in Canada, would lay before them the points of law.

Fifth—That both of the accused, and they only, were in the car, the car from which came the bullet that killed Lawson.

Sixth—That two guns were used, one a .38 calibre produced as an exhibit and acknowledged by Florence Lassandro as her gun; another, a .32 automatic, not yet unearthed, but which belonged to Picariello, he having been seen with an automatic the day of the murder and having been issued a permit to carry the same, also a .38 calibre, the two guns in use in the slaying of the constable.

Seventh—That having regard for the evidence, the guns were the only ones capable of shooting the kind of bullets produced.

Eighth—That from the various statements made by Picariello, it was fair inference that the crime was deliberate, cold-blooded murder.

Ninth—That the motive was either revenge or the terrorizing of the police, impressing upon them that it was a dangerous thing indeed to touch the family of Emilio Picariello.

Eleventh—That Lawson was shot in the back while moving away from bullets fired by these people, and that these prisoners could not have been defending themselves as Lawson was shot in the back—not in the stomach as Mrs. Lassandro stated in her confession to Sergt. Smith.

"Figures never lie," it has been claimed, but this is far from the truth. The defaulter who has "doctored" his books in such a way that he has escaped detection for years, knows that figures can be made to lie. The shrewd politician, who knows how to juggle statistics, knows that they can be made to tell a story that is far from the truth.

But there is another medium of expression which is also supposed to be a stickler for truth, but which is a greater prevaricator than figures. That is a picture. A picture of any person or thing, supposedly, is an exact reproduction of the original, but this is frequently only a wild supposition. The photographer who did not make his picture tell a little fib now and then would soon go out of business from lack of patronage.

Pictures Better Than Words

Pictures have come to occupy a very important place in the life of the world in recent years. It has been said that for newspaper purposes a picture which tells its story strikingly is worth more than columns of written words on the same subject. Newspapers and magazines have realized the truth of this fact and as a result pictures are used profusely in illustrating the news and fiction of the day.

No one has been quicker to realize the possibilities of the picture when properly-or it might be said improperly—used, than the mail order man. He has realized that a picture will do more to sell his kind of merchandise than a column of words and figures. One reason for this is that it is harder to catch a picture in a lie than it is in printed words and figures. For instance, if you sell a man a table on the strength of a printed statement that it is 48 inches wide and if when the table reaches the customer it is only 36 inches wide, the customer not only has a moral right to kick, but he has a legal right to accuse the seller of obtaining money under false pretences. However, if the customer buys a table which looks in a picture to be 48 inches wide, but which proves upon its arrival to be only 36 inches wide, he has no legal grounds upon which to base a complaint if the seller has not told him in so many words that the table was 48 inches wide.

Stick to Truth In Figures

Some unscrupulous mail order houses have taken advantage of this selling power of pictures in a very ingenious way. They adhere strictly to the truth in the actual measurements given in their catalogues of the articles which they have to sell. They may employ descriptions which exaggerates the qualities and appearances of the articles offered, but when it comes down to actual measurements the descriptions given are technically correct. Then these concerns rely upon their pictures to sell the merchandise, realizing that a picture will make a far deeper impression upon the mind of the prospective buyer than the actual figures given. A picture of a wide, roomy bed will attract the eye and the reader probably will not stop to measure off the width of the bed as it is described in the catalogue to see whether it is as wide as desired. Figures, in the abstract, mean little to the average reader and do not convey the impression that is given in the picture.

A former manager of a mail order house tells how his concern manipulated pictures in this way to suit its purposes. Pictures of its chairs were retouched so that the legs seemed to be an inch and a half in diameter when they were really less than an inch. It made narrow beds appear in the picture to be wide and comfortable. Posts of iron that were really an inch in diameter were made to appear as if they were three inches in thickness. These things are easy for any competent artist to do.

Patrons Had No Recourse

This concern, however, adhered rigidly to the truth in the measurements included in the descriptions. Customers who found, when they received their goods, that they were not what they expected, could kick, but it would them no good. The mail order house could show that it had set forth the measurements truthfully in catalogues, and there was no recourse for the customer.

There is no question but that pictures will lie, sometimes without any manipulation, and the person who buys an article of merchandise from a picture is taking big chances, even though the picture is not intentionally altered to give a wrong impression. Any amateur photographer knows from experience how the camera often will give a wrong idea of proportions.

The only safe method is to buy from the local merchant where one sees the article itself and not a picture of it. The article itself cannot lie about its dimensions, at least.

BLAIRMORE MINE ACCIDENT VICTIMS

BLAIRMORE, Dec. 2.—A very serious accident occured at the Green Hill mine of the West Canadian Collieries, No. 3 level, on Friday afternoon, when fireboss J. Patterson and three miners were injured in the course of their employment. The cause of the accident is not known except that it occured from a shot. J. Patterson, A. Peresini and Saminiato were only slightly injured, but A. Costigana is very seriously injured. The extent is not yet known. All the injured were rushed to the hospital and attended by Dr. Olivier, and are progressing as well as could be expected.

Given Special Treatment

BLAIRMORE, Dec. 4. — The victims of the mine accident which occurred on Friday are progressing favorably. The West Canadian Collieries Co., got a specialist from Calgary, and after examination it was decided to take them to Calgary, and J. Patterson, Peresini and Saminiato left on Sunday evening for that city to enter a hospital.

The more serious of the four is yet unable to travel but will likely proceed there in a few days. All were injured about the face and eyes, which makes the case more serious.

The men going to Calgary were accompanied by Wm. Patterson, brother of one of the injured and Peresini was also accompanied by his brother.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS IN "EXPERIENCE"

Miss Wheaton competed with 6,000 other Gotham beauties for the honor of appearing in "Experience." Her chance to break into the movies came as the result of the kindness of a friend who sent her picture to the newspaper. She is eighteen years old and had come to New York from her home in Ithaca, N. Y., to study music.

Director George Fitzmaurice and the casting department at the Paramount eastern studios decided that some sort of a contest was necessary to get the right girl to play the part of "Beauty" in the picture. All the stage beauties were more or less cold and did not fit with Mr. Fitzmaurice's idea of beauty. Consequently the Daily News was enlisted in the search for the real American beauty and Miss Wheaton was the lucky contestant.

Miss Wheaton was busy for two weeks with her part having close-up shots with Richard Barthelmess, who plays the leading role, "Youth," and other scenes filmed with the remaining principals in the cast.

A fair hearing has been given chiropractors endeavoring to secure the right to practice in British Columbia. Through the appointment of a select committee Premier Oliver arranged that both the chiropractors and members of the medical profession should air their views. Strong arguments have been put forward by supporters of chiropractic, but equally strong evidence has been submitted by the doctors. At present it appears that the Neelands Chiropractic Bill will not pass, and that the chiropractors will have to abide by the legislation passed by the government at the second last session. This requires them to pass examinations set by a board, upon which is a chiropractor. In this way the government claims the chiros have been given a fair chance.

Determined to secure for this province the sole right to import liquor, Attorney-General A. N. Manson has again moved a resolution in the Legislature asking Ottawa to grant this request. The minister takes the stand that at the last session of the Federal House, if it had not been for the opposition of British Columbia senators, legislation would have been passed giving this province complete control of the importation and sale of liquor. Hon. Mr. Manson assured the Legislature that bootlegging had been cut down 75 per cent. during the past six months, chiefly as a result of the government's action in cutting off many export warehouses. He maintains that bootlegging can be all but abolished if the province secures control of importation. Last year the House was unaninous in this regard and it is expected that the attorney-general will be given full support for his resolution.

NEW COAL MINE AT CROW'S NEST

Controlling large coal properties south and east of the Crow's Nest station, the Spokane and Alberta Coal and Coke company, an American concern, are spending considerable money at the present time in development. The company, which looks to Spokane and the Pacific northwest as its market, expects to be shipping coal this winter. A large force of miners will be employed, it is understood, after rail facilities are opened up.

Permission has been granted by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the linking up of the company's three mile spur, with the Crow main line, just east of Crow's Nest. This spur is under construction, Grant Smith and McDonnell and company, main contractors on the Lethbridge Northern irrigation project, having the contract. They are making rapid progress despite the low temprature and mountain snows.

The Spokane and Alberta Coal and Coke company is composed of Spokane mining men and capitalists, with L.K. Armstrong as general manager. They have been doing some development work for over a year, but not until arrangements were made for the linking up of the property with the railway, could actual mining of coal be accomplished. The headquarters of the company is in Spokane.

DR. GARNER ADDRESSES YARMOUTH, N.S. ROTARIANS

The Yarmouth (N.S.) Gazette, contains the following reference to Dr. Garner of this city: At the Rotarian Luncheon on Tuesday, Dr. Garner, a Rotarian from Fernie, B. C., was the speaker, while Rev. H. T. Gornall, pastor of Wesley Church, also delivered a brief oration. The program was a very impromptu one, it was, nevertheless decidedly interesting, and the hour was a happy one. Dr. Garner had been attending the medical congress in Boston, and came to Yarmouth to visit Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Parker, at Hebron. His remarks were not based on any particular subject, but on affairs generally, and he gave the Club a pleasing review of the congress meetings in Boston. He also spoke on the matters pertaining to Western Canada, and furnished his hearers with a grist of information, concerning the Great West, as seen from a personal standpoint. Dr. Garner referred to the work which the Rotarians were accomplishing in Fernie, where the club was organized about the time the one in Yarmouth was formed and was called the infant club of British Columbia district. Despite the fact that Dr. Garner had received only a brief notice of the duties he was to perform he in every sense proved himself quite equal to the occasion, and his pleasing address was well received. The music for the day was led by Rotarian Seymour C. Baker, with A. Roy Williams at the piano.

COAL OR CURRENT

Central electrical plant at the coal mines is the suggestion of Waldemar Kaempfert, former editor of the Popular Science Monthly. Only thirteen per cent of the energy derivable from coal is actually utilized under present methods. Charles P. Steinmetz, the inventor, is credited with the novel idea.

As a matter of fact, the British Labor party put such a reorganization of the British coal mining, transport and heating industry into the forefront of their post-war political policy. But the prospect of dispelling London's soot-laden fogs while producing the nation's light, heat and power at twelve electrical stations situated at the pit mouth has not yet appealed to the British electorate as practicable.

AUDIENCE WELL PLEASED

The vaudeville concert put on by the staff and pupils of the High School fulfilled in every particular the high promises made for it.

The theatre was filled by a very appreciative audience, and judging by the applause and remarks, was more than pleased and to some extent surprised by the excellence of the programme.

The opening number was a chorus in costume—Pierrot—sung by the pupils, then followed a Highland dance given by nine young lassies. Piper Havelock Fleming, in full regalia, was as usual a great favorite. The juvenile jazzists were quite a treat, their smiles winning the audience at once. Tony Carosella and Ralph Whalley took these parts.

The sketch in two acts "Miss Molly" showed some splendid ability and it would be hard to mention any one particularly.

Mrs. Connick was manager and stage director and great credit is due her and the principals, for the fine finish of the acting.

Miss Merle Wallace and Miss Dorothy McLean gave a well-rendered piano duet, followed by a solo dance by Miss Mary Hughes.

The costumes for the chorus and the dances, were all designed and made by Miss Anderson and Miss Corbett, as was also the beautiful curtain, used throughout the entertainment.

The closing chorus, "Tingle, Tingle," with the solo parts taken by Miss Lilian Dicken, was the number which seemed to please the audience most and was repeatedly encored.

The orchestra, in charge of Miss Charlebois, added greatly to the effect of a really fine entertainment. We must not omit to mention the two pages, who announced the different turns. They were perfectly turned out to the last detail, in fact the whole vaudeville owed a great deal of its charm to the exactness with which each little part was carried out.

The pupils and teachers of the Fernie High School wish to take this opportunity of thanking all those who so kindly assisted them in their concert; particularily Mrs. Connick in the work of getting up the concert; Mr. C. Commons and Miss Nettie Ingram, who assisted the orchestra; Miss C. Mercer and Mr. Wm. Johnston for advertising; Mr. Joe Longdon for electric fixtures; Mr. "Slim" Gould for stage assistance and all those who helped behind the scenes.

Executive Committee — R. Smith, W. Phillips, J, Rigg, G. Townsend, F. Yearby, H. Brown, C. Hesketh, A. Arrowsmith, W. Atherton, Wheeler, J. Price and H. Bryant.

As evidence of the good work accomplished by Fernie Branch in the welfare of the returned men and dependents, we append the Secretary-Treasurers Annual Report.

Comrade President and Comrades,

I hereby beg to submit as secretary, a report of our activities during the past year.

Our membership on Dec. 1st, 1921, was 159 paid up, our present membership being 149 paid up, showing a decrease of 10 members and arrears of dues to the amount of $194.00.

Firstly comes the work of better organization which requires attention if our work is to continue with success. With this end in view I would suggest that membership dues be paid through the Coal Co. pay roll, which I think would eliminate a great amount of delinqeuncies.

In spite of the handicap of the economic conditions prevailent during the spring, progress has been made and our membership is in excess of our hope. This should inspire us to exert every means towards securing new members and reclaiming those who have lapsed; not only should we give our attention to the extention of our membership, but, our action should be prompted with the idea of performing a public service. If we are to be established as an effective force in the community, we must keep the high respect and esteem of the general public. Heretofore we have been damaged by the actions and irresponsible statements emanating from some who purported to be our comrades; we must guard well our integrity and sacred rights of citizenship must be dearly treasured. We do not seek favors, what we desire is reinstatement to a plane of respectability and usefulness in society fitting to our organization.

During the period of the Clean-Sweep Campaign, the following claims were taken up through ths branch: Gratuities 7; Repatriations 7; S. C. R. Vocational Training 7; Restoration of Naturalization Papers 2; Pensions 2; Burials 2; Discharge Papers Corrections 1. Unfortunately there were many claims put in after the closing date set by order in council, which were not met. We had in all 19 cases adjusted and we have others under investigation. I regret, however, I am unable to give the actual statistics owing to the ones receiving these benefits not reporting the amounts recieved. But a rough estimate of claims settled through this branch during the past year has passed the $4,500.00 mark and if we accomplish nothing else, the assistance in settlement of claims of our comrades and dependents justifies our existence.

During the past year we have issued relief to the amount of $562.55, which includes beds and meals to transient comrades, fruit and comforts to the sick and funerals. During the strike period, there was a waive payment of membership dues for a period of five months, which was an approximate loss to this branch of $375. Christmas tree, picnics and Christmas cheer for the widows amounted to $631.70.

In spite of the large expenditure, I am pleased to state that we are in a little better financial position than at the close of 1921 and can show a credit balance of $398.32.

We are now on the threshold of a new year; we cannot go back and change anything that has passed, for it is a journey that can never be taken again; but we can avoid things that have been matters of regret to us, and if in the past year we have been negligent of our obligations as members of this branch, we can, in the year ahead of us do better and go forward with the ideal of service and comradship that should characterize the members of the G. W. V. A.

Honor is due to our officers and executive committee for their self-sacrifice and devotion to duty, who at all times were ready and willing to render assistance for the good and welfare of the association.

In conclusion I beg to thank the membership for their kindness and courtesy shown to me during the past year.

With fraternal greetings, wishing you all a prosperous new year,

I have the honor to be,

Fraternally yours,

D. F. Markland, Sec.-Treas.

THE WEATHER RECORD FOR THE WEEK

BEER CLAUSE INTRODUCED

An appeal to all members of the House to forget their political affiliations when considering his motion, to be moved on Monday of this week in the Legislature, asking that the House should resolve itself into committee of the whole to "consider the question of the sale of malt liquors under the Government Liquor Act'—in short, another beer clause—was made by Captain Ian Mackenzie, Liberal member for Vancouver, in the Legislature yesterday afternoon.

Captain Mackenzie referred to the fact that last year, because the Government had not seen fit to bring down a beer clause as a Government measure, the Conservative opposition had walked out of the House and refused to take cognizance of the private member's motion. He appealed to the opposition this session to remain in their seats and deal with the question on its merits.

In speaking to his motion, the second member for Vancouver admitted that it would bring equal embarrassment to the Government and the Opposition.

Mr. David Whiteside stated he would take the same point of order this year that he had taken last year, namely, that the motion was out of order because it called for the expenditure of public funds, and it was not competent for a private member to introduce any motion requiring outlays of money.

"I would be a sublime optimist if I did not think my friend from New Westminster would object to my motion," said Captain Mackenzie, who alleged: "I am entitled to consideration of such a vital measure."

"I am convinced if I could remove the political aspect of this question from the minds of some members we would get a more elastic provision on who recalled that last year he had introduced a similar motion when, unfortunately, a certain section of the members of the House had considered it their duty to "leave these halls."

Mr. R. H. Pooley— He has no right to cast aspersions on any member of this House.

Capt. Mackenzie—It is the duty of a member of this House to vote for or against a resolution presented. I hope, if they see fit to oppose any resolution, that they will stay and declare themselves.

Capt. Mackenzie was quite willing to admit that there might be honest differences of opinion on the matter. It was his personal conviction that the majority of the electors of the Province are in favor of what he termed "a safety valve" to the present Act, whereby the sale of beer by the glass could be provided for.

"You cannot, as a Government, allow conditions to exist as they are in Vancouver and other sections. The veterans have gone on record in favor of the sale of beer by the glass. It is better to give it to them than make law-breakers of them."

"Why should we be afraid to go back and test public opinion, should the Government refuse to act? They tell us we should be bound by the decision of the people on the recent plebiscite. It is the duty of any government in power, the duty of any legislature, to deal with the important issues before it. But if the Government is not strong enough to deal with it, why not go back to the people?"

Capt. Mackenzie stated he was opposed to the principle of the plebiscite, but if the House should deem it necessary and advisable, then an appeal to the people, the most vitally concerned, should be had. At least, it would have the effect of letting the House know just what the people were thinking about.

Capt. Mackenzie quoted from a report of the Quebec Liquor Board operations to the effect that the principle of the sale of beer and light wines by the glass had actually improved liquor conditions in that province. He declared public opinion was not in favor of dire penalties for the sale of malt liquors, thereby opposing the proposal in the bill of the Attorney-General to impose a jail sentence for those convicted of the sale of malt beverages.

The motion was passed, and the full discussion of the advisability or otherwise of the sale of beer by the glass will be fully aired in the House on Monday of this week.

SALE OF BEER BY THE GLASS STANDS OVER

VICTORIA, Dec. 12.—The question of government authorization of the sale of beer by the glass in British Columbia, as well as the proposal to submit the question to a plebiscite, was settled today in the legislature when a motion to dismiss the subject for this session was adopted by the House by a vote of 25 to 17. Several motions had been brought in or were ready for submission by Independent members dealing with the beer question. The government attitude is that federal cooperation in enforcing the present British Columbia Liquor Act should be asked again before the province took any action.

All hope of any action by the legislature in respect of dealing with the beer question at the present session was blasted this afternoon when, after what proved to be one of the most acrimonious debates during which Chairman H. B. Jackson threatened to call the sergeant-at-arms to eject Tom Uphill, Labor member for Fernie, the House approved of a motion introduced by J. B. Clerihew, Liberal, Victoria. The motion is said to have been the compromise reached at Liberal caucus early in the day.

LABOR'S RADICAL LEADERS

One cannot view the elevation of J. Ramsay Macdonald to the leadersip of the Labor Party of Britain, nor the vice-leadership of John R. Clynes with any great degree of enthusiasm. Macdonald was the man who during the dark days of the war gave the British Government more anxiety than possibly any other man in the British Isles. No matter what the Government was doing he was always against it. When it was thonght that Kerensky might be able to save the Russian situation for the Allies, and keep the rabble under Lenine and Trotsky out of power, Ramsay Macdonald was all for Lenine and Trotsky; and it was only the flat refusal of British tars to transport Macdonald to the scene of the Russian trouble that kept him out of active participation. As for Clynes, he is known to be hand and glove with the Russian Soviet in spite of anything he may say to the contrary. Just previous to the election of Clynes was in correspondence with Moscow in reference to political matters, urging that government to ratify the Urpuhart Agreement as "it would considerably ease the Labor Party in the coming elections." Clynes' communication to the Soviet was as follows: "Immediate ratification of the Urpuhart Agreement would considerably ease the position of the Labor Party in the coming elections. Churchill and Curzon and their supporters at all election meetings will declare it impossible to deal with Bolsheviks as proved at the Hague, Genoa, and by the non-ratification of a purely commercial agreement. I am convinced all my colleagues would agree with this statement.

Let us hope that political responsibilities will take the radical edge off these gentlemen's appetites.

CAUSES OF COAL MINE EXPLOSIONS

Several fatal explosions in coal mines have recently startled the public. The question has been raised why so many should have occurred and so soon after one another. Director Bain of the federal bureau of mining ascribes the cause to lowered morale after the strike.

He believes that the chief blame should be placed upon the operating managements. The bureau has been the great demonstrator that the spread of an explosion from the spot of origin through the whole mine generally is owing to the presence of explosive dust. Preventing the spread of the explosion is a matter of precaution. The preventive agency that English law compels to be used consists in mixing unburnable dust with coal dust, but watering this dust proves equally effective. The mining director remarks that the second greatest explosion in an American coal mine followed two days' failure to wet and lay the dust.

His explanation that lessened attention to the highest standards of operation has played a major part in causing the recent disasters is apparently supported by records. During 1901-10 there were 106 explosions but during 1911-20 only 75. About 1910 the mining bureau was founded, and there seems to exist a connection of cause and effect between its activities and the fewer explosions.—Spokesman Review.

FEEDING FORTY MEN

The chef in a camp of one of the big mill companies, whose name we are not permitted to mention, says he will not even try any other milk than Pacific.

His experience covers ten years on the Coast, and he has tried every brand of milk, but this British Columbia product is not only richer, but has a better flavor and goes farther. He says he likes it fully as well as fresh cream for cooking.

Of every four dollars paid by a purchaser for liquor at a government store, $1.25 stays in the province, one dollar goes to Scotland, while $1.67 goes to the federal government. This was an estimate given the public accounts committee this week by Archie Johnson, head of the liquor board.

In connection with this year's Christmas mail the postoffice department asks people to refrain from sending small cards or envelopes. Where speedy delivery is essential these small envelopes all too readily slip out of bundles of letter mail; they are too small to put through stamp cancellation machines, and in hand stamping great care has to be taken otherwise the cancellation stamp will obliterate part of the address. In many other ways they too readily lend themselves to slow handling, and in case of delay responsibility rests entirely with the sender.

The falling off in the Provincial collections from the amusement tax ought to be an indication to our municipal authorities that the proposal to double that tax so that municipalities may benefit would be a very unwise procedure at this time. The amusement houses are in anything but a flourishing condition. They are heavily hit by the existing tax which undoubtedly has had a deterrent effect on attendances.

Nearly three feet of snow fell on Saturday and Sunday morning without the city making an effort to put the snow plow out until the streets were practically impassible. Instead of keeping the plow at work all Saturday afternoon and night they put it to work Sunday when it was impossible to do anything but a butchered, half completed job which will keep the pedestrians in trouble all winter. Mayor Henderson evidently thinks he can handle the snow problem the same way as he did the dust question in the summer.

"RAGS TO RICHES"
WITH WES BARRY

All who revel in Wesley Barry, the thirteen-year old boy actor, will have a chance to see him in another picture. The latest one in which he is featured is "Rags to Riches" a Harry Rapf production for Warner Brothers, which will come to the Orpheum Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week. "Rags to Riches" was adapted for the screen from the famous stage success of the same name.

Here Wesley is the same befreckled fun-loving mischevious lad who delighted thousands in "School Days;" the same youngster who runs the gauntlet of glorious scraps and shuffles out of them with a coolness which has been the envy of every youngster and grown-up seeing him on the silver screen.

The story is about young Marmaduke Clarke, only child of the wealthy Blakewell-Clarkes, who is surrounded by every luxury, but pines for the normal vigorous life of boyhood. While reading a book of adventure one evening he is visited by a burglar, introduces himself, and when the second-story man proves averse to conducting operations on a safe with a bystander looking on, Marmaduke follows him to his quarters—a den sheltering a dangerous gang of crooks. This begins the action, which moves delightfully through the country and into a sheriff's home.

The taking of certain parts of "Rags to Riches" is said to have been attended by great danger to both Wesley Barry, the producer, director and cameraman. In one instance Wesley, holding fast to the side of a trestle while a train roared past, found his strength give way, and dropped fifty feet into the whirlpool below, where he was fortunately saved by a cameraman who swam to him. Producer Rapf and Director Worsley also had to dive hastily into the water when a train approached while they were along a track to discover a suitable spot to "shoot" the scenes.

As predicted in this newspaper two weeks ago, the Burde eight-hour bill was defeated in the Legislature when a vote was taken. However, the issue was a close one, twenty-two members opposing the present passing of the bill, while eighteen cast their votes for it. Many members declared they were in favor of the principle but did not wish to see industry stifled in British Columbia at this time through the passing of restrictive legislation, when the competition between the province and neighboring states and provinces would be such as to cripple local industry. Premier Oliver said that in this young province it was absolutely necessary that production be kept at a high level. In time it might be expedient to cut down the hours of work in certain industries, but that time was not the present. Present indications are that next year there may be a different story, as several of those who opposed the passing of the measure this year have stated that they would not withhold their support next session.

THE FREIGHT CAR SUPPLY

The attention of Executives in all Canadian concerns interested in shipping or receiving shipments of goods without undue delay, is drawn to the reasons for the increasing car shortage, the effect on this situation of the recent coal and railway strikes in the United States and the growing necessity for public co-operation to offset the difficulty.

In the first place, the improvement in business conditions has increased the demand for cars.

Secondly, the railway strike has so hampered rail operations in the United Staes that Canadian cars entering that country are only with difficulty being recovered. At the present time there are approximately 24,000 more Canadian box cars in the United States than United States cars of a similar class in Canada.

And third, in addition to this factor of impaired railway service, the recent termination of the coal strike throws on the American railways a suddenly increased demand for cars and motive-power to move accumulated orders for coal. This makes it even more difficult for the Canadian roads to keep down the number of their cars on foreign rails.

To meet the situation, the Railway Association of Canada has made special direct representations to Washington and obtained assurances that the United States railways will do their best to hurry the return of our cars; and the Canadian roads, through this Association, will maintain constant pressure to see that this is done. Furthermore, the dwindling supply of cars will be offset as far as possible by the usual effort of our roads to move cars faster and farther and thereby make each car carry more in a day.

One great factor in car economy lies out of the railways' control—and in your hands, or the hands of your Shipping and Receiving Departments. If on your instructions they will take pains to load more goods in each car and release cars promptly, you will help protect your plant and your neighbors' plants against the further danger of car shortage.

Even if it takes your staff a little more time to load outgoing cars to utmost capacity—and

Even though you may already be releasing cars well within the free time limit—

It will pay to increase this shipping efficiency still further and co-operate with the roads.

United States traffic is from 5 per cent. to 17 per cent. heavier this Fall than last Fall, quite aside from strike accumulations of shipments. Canada appears to be following suit. To share in returning prosperity it is essential to help protect your own car supply.

We take the liberty of suggesting that instructions conforming to the suggested notice on page 4 of this bulletin be posted in your Shipping and Receiving Rooms.

CANDIDATE KISSED OLD MAIDS FOR VOTES

OMAHA.—The kissing of two "old maids" and the near joining of church were among items listed in the expense account of L. W. Little, defeated candidate for sheriff of Nemaha county, which was filed at Auburn today. After stating that he spent $27.50 in his campaign Little itemized the account as follows:

"Gas and oil; drove car 100 miles; walked 900; nine blowouts and seven punctures; gave away nine yards of cotton flannel, three hair nets and two pair of hose; was dog-bit twice; told 10,000 lies; got kicked off at two farms; kissed 62 babies and two old maids; attended one barbecue; came near joining church for policy's sake; made one public speech, and if I had made another I would not have received a single vote."

A LUBRICANT—NOT A LAXATIVE

CHIROPRACTOR "POKES" LAWYER

VICTORIA.—At Wednesday's sitting of the select committee on chiropractic, Dr. B. D. Gillies, of Vancouver told how he had performed autopsies on over 600 bodies in Vancouver and had witnessed numerous autopsies in Vienna. However, he had never seen what the chiropractors call a subluration of the spine, except in the case of fractures. He could see no basis for the idea that distortions of the spine disappeared after death.

Dr. Walter Sturdy, chiropractor, of Vancouver, was again on the stand Mr. M. A. Macdonald, K.C., counsel for the doctors, sought to show that he could not cure patients by spinal adjustments, and he said he was prepared to produce doctors who had been consulted after chiropractors had failed.

"Produce the patients and do not deal with hypothetical cases," said Mr. Gordon Wismer, counsel for the chiros.

Mr. Macdonald endeavored to show, through consulting X-ray photographs, that Dr. Sturdy did not understand these pictures. The latter retorted that Mr. Macdonald's ignorance of anatomy made it difficult for him, Dr. Sturdy, to answer the questions asked.

Mr. O. L. Bancroft, Vancouver lawyer, appeared before the committee and said that he did not wish to "knock" the doctors or anyone else. Physicians had done him a great deal of good at times, but he had hobbled into Dr. Sturdy's almost doubled up, and using two walking sticks. After treatment he left the office walking erect and with the aid of only one stick. He said doctors had not relieved him so quickly.

He was invited to have an X-ray photograph made of his spine at the Jubilee Hospital, but said he had not come to Victoria for that purpose. Mr. Bancroft said he did not claim to be cured as yet, but hoped to be in time.

Dr. Gillies maintained that the doctors were obliged to be very careful in diagnosis while the chiropractors did not pay sufficient attention to this.

Asked whether or not a "flick of the spine" could cure a gastric ulcer, Dr. Gillies said this was impossible.

He also pointed to the danger which was often run by a patient not seeing a doctor quickly enough.

The committee decided to hold afternoon sittings while the Legislature is in session in order to get through with the hearing of evidence in time to submit a report to the House.

John McRae, Yale, told the medical men they could not expect chiropractors to make 100 per cent cures. "The doctors don't do it," he added.

"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening that, 'If you make the slightest noise, I'll shoot?' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger The shock had left me so weak, that, for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. of....

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 4-622

OUR ESTATE AT VIMY

The Dominion of Canada owns a good deal of territory on this continent, but the people will value no part of this estate more highly nor cherish any more tenderly than the 250 acres of land which they have acquired at Vimy Ridge by gift of the Government of France. This small portion of Europe is familiar by sight to many thousands of Canadians, and by name to all their countrymen. It is one of the places where Canadian manhood and heroism were nobly displayed, and where deeds were wrought which will always be remembered in Canadian history. Beneath the soil at Vimy lies buried a city of Canadian dead. Above it stands a memorial containing the names of many thousands of the fallen whose bodies could never be identified.

For all time to come Canada will care for this estate, which she now receives as a gift, though it cost her the highest price that a nation could pay, except the loss of honor. Successive generations of Canadian pilgrims will visit that Holy Land, many of them in memory of their own ancestors, or relatives, all of them in honor of their fellow countrymen who fell in the Great War for a noble cause. There are other fields in France where Canadians fought as valiantly and died as nobly as they did at Vimy, but the Canadian National Park at Vimy Ridge will represent them all.—Vancouver Province.

ILLEGAL SALES

The amount of illegal sale or bootlegging, going on in B.C., has been variously estimated. On July 5th, 1922, the 'Vancouver World' claimed that the Government Liquor Stores were not selling one-half the amount being sold in B.C. It has several times repeated this statement.

On August 2nd, 1922, a charge of selling liquor contrary to the Liquor Act was made against two bonded warehouses in Fernie and their entire stock of Liquor, valued at $200,000. was seized. On September 2nd, 'The Victoria Times' claimed that one result was that the sales in the Government Liquor Stores at Fernie and Michel (close by) had increased from one hundred to two hundred per cent. As a matter of fact the actual increase was at Fernie 136 per cent. and at Michel 114 per cent. This would indicate that the 'World's' estimate, when made was well within the limits—as much as is being sold illegally as is being sold in the Government Liquor Stores.

The Governor-elect of Kansas announces that he will bring his own cow with him and do his own milking when he moves into the executive residence. Other occupants of the office have been charged with confining their dairy operations to "milking the taxpayer."

EXILES TO RULE

Caillaux and Malvy, two French politicians exiled for anti-war activities, are planning to come back. Just why two criminals could hope to rule France again seems strange to us. But French law and consequently the French attitude toward political criminals are not the same as ours.

The law of France protects public officials who perform acts which are in themselves illegal, but which can be construed to be in the public interest. France has special courts for officials of the state. The officials try each other and are likely to be lenient.

But in time of war all this is likely to be reversed and the sentence will be harsher, particularly if a Cabinet Minister's opponents attain power. Then a revulsion of public opinion expressed at the polls will make of such men as Malvy and Caillaux the heroes of the Left and make good Malvy's prophecy "We will rule."

Railway News

Philadelphia.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has opened its new offices here in the Cross Building at the corner of Locust and 15th Streets. Growth of the company's business and the gradual movement of the city's most important business institutions in this direction were responsible for this move into larger quarters in the heart of the hotel, theatre and business district. The offices which have been handsomely fitted, accommodate both freight and passenger officials on Canadian Pacific rail and ocean lines, as well as representatives of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault and the Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railways.

London, Ont.—This year the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged to hold weekly first aid classes at London throughout the entire year and the instruction will be furnished by the employees themselves, many who have become very proficient in first aid work.

By this means those employees who have had previous instruction can drop into the classes from time to time and refresh themselves on the instruction, while the new employees, especially those in train and engine service, whose duties may require them to be absent from the classes one week, will have the opportunity of taking the instruction later on as the classes will continue throughout the year. E. T. Wright, C. P. R. storekeeper at London, is chairman in charge of the committee, which is looking after the formation of first aid classes on the London division.

Montreal.—Judge Choquet's warning issued some time ago threatening to fine the parents of boys causing damages in any part of the city was put into effect when he condemned fifteen mothers of arrested lads to pay $3.72 each for the acts of their offspring.

For some time there has been daily reports from the C. P. R. of destruction to cars and fixtures by youngsters who run wild through the yards and use the cars for playing hide and seek. The most serious accusations were laid against boys who were caught throwing stones at passing trains, endangering the lives of travellers. Judge Choquet gave a warning that he would hold the parents responsible for the acts of vandalism by children. When he had fifteen cases prepared for court he carried out his warning by making the parents pay the costs of the damages incurred.

Montreal.—From Finland to Duluth, Minn., via Montreal, travelling alone and tagged like a piece of baggage, is the record of Veikko Tuominen, aged eight, who stepped off the Canadian Pacific train in Duluth the other day, wearing a smile of confidence and trust in the strange world about him. He was on his way to his uncle, Frank Salini, at Virginia, Minn.

The lad recently became an orphan, and his uncle wrote to friends in Helsingfors that he would take care of the boy. Salini was unable to go to Finland for him, so little Veikko was tagged and placed in charge of the Canadian Pacific. He came from Helsingfors to England, where he was placed on board the S.S. Melita, and carefully looked after until his arrival at Montreal. Still a ward of the company, he was sent on to his destination. In all he travelled about 9,000 miles, and appeared to be as happy as a clam.

Parry Sound.—Parry Sound, Ontario, was last week the scene of the latest of a series of railway accidents that seem to indicate a growing carelessness on the part of motorists. It was another case of the motor car hitting a moving train, and there was about the event all the usual evidences of gross, foolhardy disregard of danger that marks most of these so-called accidents.

The engine was switching at the time, and was moving at about five miles an hour. The engine bell was ringing, and the whistle had sounded just before the engine whistled at the crossing. A motorist who was giving thought to the important fact that he was approaching a railway crossing could not have missed the warnings given, but in this case the auto rolled merrily on and struck the side of the engine, and naturally came off second best. Fortunately the occupant of the car escaped injury for which he need waste no thanks on his own watchfulness and careful driving. It might be a good idea to leave all approaches to level crossings unpaved, or make them so rough as to compel slow driving of motor cars, for in no other way will some people be persuaded to approach these crossings at a speed that will permit them to come to a stop when their lives depend upon their so doing.

A New York man who wagered that he could sell genuine fifty-cent pieces on Broadway for a quarter lost. Silver does not appeal to the wary Gothamite, who is accustomed to buying goldbricks.

"The wind she blew some more" off Cape Flattery Tuesday night, when it registered seventy-two miles an hour. Some of these breezy nights Old Boreas may be called upon to raise the wind to pay a fine for speeding.

British Columbia apples are being made the subject of so much enviable comment in the East that only their natural rosey color conceals their blushes.

TRANSMUTATION

The philosopher's stone, that would turn everything into gold, seems to have been first heard of in the twelfth century. Prior to that period the greater number of the early seekers after the law of things — the Greeks and Arabians — contented themselves with affirming the fact of transmutation without indicating how it might be accomplished. Later on, numerous adventures in the realm of alchemy informed the world that they had actually made gold out of various substances, but they seemed to be reluctant to tell just how it was done. Their doings led to much fraud and imposture, and in the reign of Henry IV. of England, in 1404, it was enacted that "none from henceforth shall use to multiply gold and silver, or use the craft of multiplication." In 1575 Duke Julius of Brunswick burnt a female alchemist who had failed in her promise to furnish him with a prescription for the making of gold. Still, it was not so much edicts and punishments that caused alchemy to fall into disuse and disrepute, as the growth of other ideas with regard to chemistry. The pursuers of science began to find out things that relegated the thaumaturgical alchemists to the background. The transmutation of metals sunk, for centuries, in to oblivion.

It is interesting that after all these years scientists have again begun to tell us that transmutation is possible. They say they have proved that certain of the elements previously considered as primary and indivisible are in reality undergoing slow transformation. Professor Sir Ernest Rutherford of Cavendish laboratory, Cambridge, has recently informed us that it is possible to obtain hydrogen out of six different elements that were previously regarded as having no hydrogen in them. Again, the men of science have come along with their astonishing doctrine of electrons, which makes the ordinary man wonder just where he is, and what with radio activity and one thing and another he is apt to be thrown slightly out of his usual equilibrium. As there are numerous enterprising professional talkers who are ready to explain life and the universe on the basis of a few of the new discoveries, he is sometimes apt to be led astray, and prematurely to disregard the landmarks and lighthouses by which he has previously guided his course.

As for transmutation of metals, there is not much, at present, to be either perturbed or elated about. If someone did find out suddenly how to change iron and copper into gold, there would of course be an immediate hubbub and a new standard of value would have to be found. This would make some notable headlines for newspapers in all conscience. All that appears to have been done at present has been concerned with the obscure metals uranium and thorium with lead as the final product.

But the experiments are not content with metallurgical researches. They are turning their attention to physiological changes. They talk of glands and serums and alterations in blood corpuscles. Some of them dream of pills that will change criminals into beings a little lower than the angels—an idea which it at any rate fascinating, and decidedly thought-suggesting. What are human beings, anyway, and what is character? Born into this world as separate packages of humanity, it would seem that we are capable of improvement or deterioration. Outside of the original stuff of our being, character is slowly transmuted into something that is not well, and vice versa. We should give a thought now and again to the gradualness of this transmutation. We may be as obscure and as apparently negligible as uranium or thorium, but at any rate we do not want the transmutation that is always going on to result in something like lead. Some of us think we are pure gold already, but it is possible that we have not yet been tried in the fire. It is all very well to chatter about the changes that are going on in the world, but what about those that are going on in ourselves? In any case most of us can think of some dear souls whom we have known, respecting whom it might be said that they proved the truth of the apostle's words: And "beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord," they were "changed into the same image from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord."

Coal is classed as jewels in certain parts of the frigid East. The Kennebec (Me.) Journal reports that a man called at the office and asked if he could put in an advertisement as he had found an article of great value. On being assured that he could he produced a lump of anthracite which he had picked up on the street.

Fortunately for the deposed Sultan, Christmas is not observed in Turkey and the numerous members of his deserted household will be spared the sad sight of a long line of empty stockings on the "infidel's" holiday.

THE NEWER CANADA, FARTHER NORTH

1—A farm in the Peace River country.
2—Vegetables and children grow well in the newest north.
3—Vermilion Landing on the Peace River.
4.—A Peru River potato patch.

SO far as known, the first grain crop ever grown in what is now the Province of Alberta, was in the Peace River country. This was in 1809. Daniel W. Harmon, in charge of the Northwest Company's post at Dunvegan, records in his diary that in that year on July 21st, he cut his barley.

"I think it is the finest," he wrote, "that I have ever seen in any country. The soil on the points of land along this river are excellent."

Harmon's opinion as to the possibilities of the country was supported by traders and travellers who followed. Professor John Macoun was the first scientific explorer to study it thoroughly. In a book published in 1882 he stated that "the vegetation throughout the whole Peace River valley is of the most luxuriant character, and it seems more like that of the tropics than of a country drawing near the Arctic circle." But when the Province of Alberta was formed, ninety-six years after Harmon made the entry quoted from his diary, there was less than five hundred acres under crop in the whole area of 115,000 square miles, included in the drainage basin of the river.

The Edmonton Dunvegan and British Columbia and Central Canada railways were built in the early years of the European war. The mileage from Edmonton to the town of Peace River is 311 and to Grande Prairie 407. But it was not till 1920, when the C. P. R. took over the operation of these lines, that a satisfactory service was assured, and the settlers were given sufficient confidence to enlarge their operations.

In that year, according to the figures of the Alberta Department of Agriculture, there were produced in the provincial constituency of Peace River the following quantities of grain: Spring wheat, 1,495,680 bushels, an average yield per acre of 30.34; winter wheat, 15,107, an average of 16.26; oats, 4,334,400, an average of 40.22; barley, 323,400, an average of 22.42; rye, 40,092, an average of 43.81. Harmon's judgment was thus well vindicated after 111 years.

It should not be forgotten that its mineral and timber wealth may yet be shown to equal its agricultural. For over a century it has been a rich fur producer and many farmers add considerably to their revenue by trapping in their spare time.

Dr. G. M. Dawson, when assistant director of the geological survey, made an estimate that in the Peace River territory there was at least 23,500 square miles of land suitable to agriculture. The acreage sown to various grains in 1920 in the country immediately tributary to the river was under 175,000. Estimates that have been made since have not reduced his figure, so it is evident that there is plenty of opportunity for new settlement. He calculated that if all the land available for cultivation were sown to wheat and yielded twenty bushels to the acre (ten bushels less than the average yield for 1920) the total production would be 300,800,000 bushels — more than all western Canada produced in wheat in 1921. As high as 69 bushels of Marquis wheat per acre has been obtained as far north as Fort Vermilion, 250 miles north of Peace River, and 500 beyond Edmonton. The thermometer does go away down at times in these areas, but it is doubtful if anyone has ever pulled out on that account. The mean winter temperature of Fort Vermilion is but a few degrees lower than that of Winnipeg.

In the growing season the frost danger is not great. In thirty years in the Fort Vermilion farm, only twice has there been frost damage, and then the loss was far from complete. The display of flowers and vegetables at that far northern point can be equalled at few points in the Canadian west. The long days hasten everything to maturity, and harvest begins about the middle of August. The average precipitation is between twelve and thirteen inches, and as most of it occurs in June and July, it proves ample.

The charm which the country possessed for all who traversed it in the days when it was still "the wild northland," the title which Sir William Butler gave it in the seventies, still holds for those who pursue more prosaic tasks than his. To journey by the river, from where it bursts through the mountain canyon, west of Hudson's Hope, to the vermilion Chutes, seven hundred miles downstream—there being no obstacle to navigation between the points—is an experience never to be forgotten. At Dunvegan the banks are nine hundred feet high, gradually lowering as the river broadens. At the Chutes it is close to a mile and a half across.

It is a waterway along which a very large population must some day find prosperity and contentment. What has been accomplished in the last few years makes it certain that that "some day" is not now as far off as it seemed to be during the long period when Peace River development was only a dream.

Turkey was placed second, pork and beans third and corned beef and cabbage fourth. On this side of the border the old reliable "ham and" is the choice of a host of cheerful consumers.

"BABY TALK" ATTACKED

All the romance vanishes from "baby talk" when its victim falls into the hands of a New York doctor who is conducting a kindergarten for children with faulty speech. Among the many kinds of faulty speech the clinician-teacher ranks "baby talk" as a prominent offender. He tells of cases where grown men have found themselves of breaking themselves of "baby talk." Commoner but scarcely less unfortunate is the child which is retarded at school because of slowness in emerging from the "baby talk" stage.

The danger point, according to an expert, is at the period when the infant is commencing to form sentences. As verbs are added to nouns, then childish lisp becomes "cute" and is encouraged. The "cuter" the more dangerous, according to the scientists. And "Blah," says the ardent swain, whose sweetheart lapses into "baby talk."

"Nonsense," says the adoring mother.

After all, science stands very little chance when romance is a-brewing in cradle or on chesterfield.

Railway News

Montreal—It was announced at the head office of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Windsor Street Station here, that free transportation would be granted by that Company to all relief supplies for the sufferers from forest fires in Northern Ontario when consigned to the Cobalt Relief Commission, at Cobalt, Ontario. These supplies will be accepted by the railway at any point on the Canadian Pacific system, and will be rushed forward without delay.

Winnipeg—From September 1 to October 5, the C.P.R. has marketed 68,272,864 bushels of grain, according to a statement issued at the local offices. During the same period 35,484 cars were loaded, which is the equivalent to 51,180,789 bushels. The previous highest figures recorded were in 1915, when the company marketed 32,023,000 bushels and loaded 22,472 cars, which is equal to 29,887,760 bushels.

Penticton—After more than a quarter of a century of service on Canadian Pacific boats on British Columbia inland waters, Capt. George Robertson made his last trip on Saturday, and when the Sicamous tied up at the Penticton dock that evening the captain passed down the gangplank for the last time in an official capacity.

Captain Robertson is from now on a fruit rancher, and he proposes to lead the simple life on the ten-acre property which he purchased on The Bench three or four years ago.

His career in marine circles in British Columbia is a lengthy and honorable one and dates back nearly forty years.

Halifax—The many friends in Halifax and Dartmouth will be pleased to learn of the success of Edward Everett Beck, formerly of Dartmouth, but now residing in Vancouver. He has just been appointed manager to the Hotel Vancouver. Mr. Beck is a son of Mrs. Beck-Lydiard, Dartmouth. He has three brothers, Charles A., Dartmouth; Harry, Middle Musquodoboit, and Archibald in Winnipeg.

Going to Vancouver from Halifax, where he was a stockbroker, Mr. Beck has seen the Hotel Vancouver grow from a small brick building to the present fifteen storey fireproof structure.

Famous men and women from all parts of the world have been cared for by the smiling official during his service with the company.

Winnipeg—September records of the handling of the season's crop afford a remarkable demonstration of efficiency in grain handling by railroads, elevators and by the human element that plans and directs. Compared with other years the September movement far surpasses all previous records. All over the west long trains are carrying the current of wheat to the lake front and thence to the markets of the world

Feeding the transportation routes are thousands of threshing outfits which during the recent fine weather have been operating in every district from early morning until dark.

	Sept. 1922	Sept. 1921
Cars of wheat	39,344	26,756
Oats	919	1,590
Barley	2,081	1,633
Flax	52	83
Rye	2,027	469
Total	44,456	30,463

Calgary, Alta.—Many farmers in the irrigated districts in southern Alberta have every reason to be satisfied with the result of their season's work, according to G. H. Hutton, superintendent of the agricultural and animal industry branch of the Canadian Pacific Department of Natural Resources in Calgary, who has returned after a visit to that section of the province. The yield of wheat has turned out most satisfactory, in some cases averaging thirty-seven bushels to the acre. One man in the Coaldale district had realized a net profit of $6,000 from 425 acres.

In the Vauxhall district one of the farmers had informed Mr. Hutton that he purposed finishing with 100 steers, 5,000 lambs and from twenty-five to thirty dairy cattle, and that he would have even then 200 tons of hay for sale from one section of land. Incidentally Mr. Hutton mentioned that the feeding of the lambs under contract in the irrigated districts was being considerably extended this year. The business promised to provide a most satisfactory market for alfalfa hay and coarse grain, and to involve a relatively small risk, inasmuch as it was possible to contract lambs now for spring delivery. The profits from that line of work, he said, were in marked contrast to those which were realized even under the best of conditions in the growing of grain alone on irrigated land.

A returned deer hunter in an Ontario district reports that he saw the tracks of one mo[illegible] and fifteen game wardens.

According to a Tacoma report, experiments have resulted in producing a wood briquette that is said to equal anthracite in heating value. The new fuel is composed of bark, sawdust and mill refuse. If commercially practicable the value of the discovery in a district where a vast amount of material for its manufacture is available can scarcely be exaggerated.

Do All the Things For The People of Their Community That The Catalogue Concerns Will Not Do.

(Copyright)

It has been said that three-fourths or nine-tenths, or some such big proportion — the exact figures do not matter — of the business of the world is done on credit. If this was not true there wouldn't be much business done, for no currency system could be devised that would furnish enough money to meet the needs of commerce if every article sold had to be paid for in actual cash. The amount of money in circulation in the United States is only $47 per capita and this would not go very far if everyone had to keep enough on hand to pay for all that he might buy.

The greatest of financiers need credit. They keep their resources employed and at times are in need of ready cash. The same thing is true at times of men of smaller means. The credit system, as it is used sometimes, especially in the smaller communities, is abused and works a serious hardship upon the business men of the town. Some merchants, to avoid the loss that results from such abuse of the system or possibly to enable them to sell goods at a lower price than their competitors, operate strictly on a cash basis, but the great majority of merchants in every community give those customers who are responsible and honest the privilege of a charge account and the chances are that some sort of a credit system, properly safeguarded, will always continue to be a feature of legitimate trade.

Asks Catalogue House for Credit

You who have a reputation in your community for being at least fairly responsible and upright know that when you desire it or need it you can obtain credit from at least some of the merchants in your town. But some time when you are in need of some article of merchandise and are a little short of ready money, order what you want from a mail order house in Chicago or some other city and ask them to please charge it till the first of the month. The experiment will be interesting, at least, and the answer that you receive may cause you to give a little thought to the difference between trading with the mail order house in some far-off city and buying from the merchants in your own home town.

Some mail order concerns are now operating a so-called credit system, but it is not a credit system such as is maintained by most retail merchants. These mail order houses will sell certain merchandise on the installment plan, but they not only demand an initial cash payment, but require the purchaser to sign a contract which operates as a mortgage not only on the merchandise purchased, but upon any other property that the customer may possess. There is nothing in this system that bears any similarity to the open credit system that is used by the majority of retail merchants.

There are some other requests you might make of the mail order man when the occasion arises and the responses might be equally interesting. For instance, you, Mrs. Farmer, who bought that box of groceries from the catalogue house last month write the manager and ask him to buy your butter and eggs. Of course, it would be considerable more trouble to pack them for shipment to the city than is to take tham in to your local grocer, who is always ready to pay you the market price for them, but then maybe the mail order man would pay enough more than the market price to pay you for the extra trouble. And then, again, maybe he wouldn't.

And, then, there is that mowing machine that you, Mr. Farmer, have been figuring on trading in for a new machine. Suppose you write to the mail order man from whom you bought that wire fencing and ask him what he will allow you for your old machine on a trade for a new one. Of course, the local hardware dealer in the town where you find a market for your farm products will allow you a fair price for your old machine, but what's the use of asking him to do it. The mail order man surely will be glad to do that much for you, will he not? Yes, he will not.

List Is Endless

There are a good many things the mail order man will not do for you. The list would be too long to crowd into one issue of a newspaper. He will not give you credit, however much you may need it. He will not buy the farmer's produce. He will not pay a dollar of taxes to help support your schools or build your roads He will not contribute a cent to the support of your churches or your charitable institutions. He will not lend you a helping hand in time of trouble.

The local merchants in community will do everything for the people in that community that the mail order man will not do for them. This fact should make it easy for the people of the community to decide which it is to their interest to do business with.

WHAT IS THE LIMIT?

What is the limit of decency in a woman dancer's dress?

How many clothes should she be required to put on when she appears before the public and just how many may she be allowed to take off in order to give proper expression to her art?

These always interesting and puzzling questions come to the front again as a result of recent protests against the costumes worn—or, to speak more accurately, the parts of them not worn—by two famous dancers, Miss Irene Castle and Isadora Duncan.

In Providence, R. I., the other day Miss Castle was forbidden by the police to appear in a butterfly dancing costume which left her feet and legs bare. And in Boston, where a very rigid stage censorship exists, Isadora Duncan was barred from appearance because she wore so little clothing and because that little persisted in slipping out of place as her body writhed and twisted in her classical dances.

Righteous-minded Bostonians were shocked at the glimpses the insecure and very scanty Duncan draperies gave of portions of her body—glimpses which they thought should be reserved for the privacy of her dressing room and the eyes of her husband.

"Miss Duncan came on the stage to dance Tschaikowsky's Symphony No. 6," says an eye witness of the exhibition that scandalized Boston. "Her costume was rather scant and the upper left part persisted in slipping down. Many held their breath, for at times it seemed as if the dancer would leave behind what little she had on.

"It was in the finale of this number that the spectator saw Miss Duncan at her altogther best. She came out in a dark, transparent gown which left absolutely nothing to the imagination. Her right breast was entirely bare. The slightest movement permitted the gown to part and in this almost naked condition she went through five minutes or more of classical dancing.

"No attempt was made on the part of Miss Duncan to add to this gown and hide her nudity when the lights were turned up at the conclusion of the number. She called to Nahan Franko, the conductor, to step on the stage and the plare of the foot and ceiling ligts as she walked to the front of the stage created an astounding effect."

Isadora Duncan went on to Chicago and there the public raised similar objection to the way it thought her scanty costumes slipped and slid over the limits of decency.

TRYING TO BRING RUSSIA TO CANADA

The United Mine Workers of Nova Scotia are once more off on a tangent. The executive of this organization has issued a call for all workers in Canada to join the miners, the men in the Ontario northland being particularly addressed. The platform, which it is said, has been unanimously adopted by the Nova Scotia miners' organization, includes full wages for all unemployed workers, whose unemployment is caused by the closing down of mines, mills, factories, railways, etc., a minimum purchasing wage for the lowest class of labor based upon the family budget of costs as published in the "Labor Gazette," and last but not least a five day week of six hours per day for all workers in mills, factories, mines, etc.

There is every reason to believe that the United Mine Workrs of Nova Scotia are a bunch of Bolshevists, not a bit better or worse than the Lenin-Trotsky Russian crowd. And it is their aim, clearly, to make private ownership impossible by making conditions of work impossible for those who operate our various industries. Such people never learn by experience. The millions who have died in Russia from starvation while the Bolshevist Government has been putting its silly schemes of communism into effect means nothing apparently to our equally silly Bolshevists.

In Russia to-day according to E. W. Hullinger in the current number of the "Fortnightly Review" there are one and a half million men under arms. Service is compulsory and discipline is severe, while the rations are black bread and soup. Which by the way is more than the average Russian citizen gets to fill his stomach with. And this is the sort of thing that our Nova Scotia miners would have us duplicate here.

On account of its numerous revolutions, Albania has been called the "ferris wheel' 'of Europe.

Civic candidates are now busy looking after No. 1, the same being first choice on the ballot paper.

Canadian wheat was awarded highest honors at the International Exposition in Chicago. No. 1 hard is hard to beat.

New outside treatment for Colds and Croup

This Test Size Package of Vicks VapoRub

TORONTO

Mrs. Edward Cherpaw, of 14 Enderby Road, Toronto, writes: "When our married daughter was visiting us, her little child contracted a cold. She asked us to get a jar of Vicks VapoRub and she would prove to us what it would do. It certainly cured the child in short order, and we use it now in preference to anything else."

OTTAWA

Mrs. Ed. Lemire, of 389 Rideau St., Ottawa, Ont., writes: "I have used Vicks VaporRub for sore throat and colds in head with good results. I strongly recommend it also for eruptions of the skin, and all kinds of sores."

BRANTFORD

Mrs. W. F. Scrivner, of 32 Grey St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "We have found your Vicks VapoRub very beneficial in relieving colds on the chest and lungs. We have used it on the children and by keeping a bottle of Vicks on hand have kept them free from colds all winter."

QUEBEC

Mr. Paul Verrault, of 64 Richelieu St., Quebec, Que., writes: "I am only too glad to recommend Vicks VapoRub as I have used it for several cases, such as sore throats, colds in the head, and earache, and I have already recommended it to many of my friends."

WHILE the supply lasts, the coupon below is good at any local drug store for a test size package of Vicks VapoRub, the external, vaporizing treatment for all cold troubles.

Though new here, Vicks is a family stand-by in the States, where over 17 million jars are used yearly. Its success is due to its amazingly quick double action. Rubbed on, it penetrates and stimulates the skin. At the same time, its ingredients, released as medicated vapors by the body heat, are inhaled with each breath directly into the nose, throat and lungs. Thus colds are often broken up over night, croup relieved in fifteen minutes.

Mothers prefer this new way of treating children's cold troubles because it avoids upsetting their little stomachs by internal dosing. It is fine for spasmodic croup, sore throat, tonsilitis and head colds, and as a salve for cuts, burns, bruises and itchings.

Vicks is the discovery of a pharmacist in the States who found how to combine, in salve form, the world's best remedies for colds—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc. Made at first in the back room of his drug store, for a few friends, its fame spread county by county, state by state until now Vicks is the largest selling remedy of its kind in the world.

To demonstrate their faith in Vicks, the manufacturers have authorized every local drug store to give out 100 test packages free.

HAMILTON

Mrs. R. Daugherty of 407 McNab St., North, Hamilton, says: "I think Vicks VapoRub one of the best remedies I have ever used. I have a child two years old, who seems to no sooner get rid of one cold than he has another. I find Vicks stops the coughing so quickly, when applied to his chest. I would hate to be without Vicks in the house."

MONTREAL

Mrs. James Hicks, 34-A St. Remi St., Montreal, says: "We have great faith in Vicks VapoRub. I used it on my children for colds in the chest, and found it relieved them even when the cold was very bad. My husband has been sick seventeen months with 'Flu' and double pneumonia and was taken to the hospital with no much hopes. He has used different salves but none to compare with Vicks."

LONDON

Mr. C. Phoenix, of 755 Grey St., London, Ont., writes us: "I am a hunter, trader and trapper, also a fisherman. I use Vicks VapoRub in place of liniments, because it is very handy to carry and gives such quick relief for small animal and insect bites, and for chapped hands and lips. I have not had a cold all winter."

For All Cold Troubles

GOVT. BLENDING OF WHISKIES

It is quite obvious from information that was disclosed before the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature that it is essential in the interests of the public that better supervision should be excercised by the Attorney-General over the operations of the Liquor Control Board. We have already alluded to the superfluous prices paid for stock in the way of whiskies. We have touched upon the practice of blending that is pursued. It is necessary and desirable to emphasize the dangers that lie in the latter practice. It accounts for the method employed to make unsaleable whisky, saleable. According to information the Liquor Control Board's blender performed 26 operations, using from 85 to 90 cases of three different brands. The likelihood is that in all, with the Milburn used for dressing, an amount of not far short of 9,000 cases were used in the blending processes.

Since it was unsaleable whiskies that were employed for the blending processes, the assumption is that they were immature whiskies. There is no one who will believe, and least of all those in the trade, that the blending of immature whiskies will give a mature product. There is, we believe, little virtue in the method for artificially aging whiskies. The utilization of prune wine in this blending relieves the whiskies treated of their harsh taste—usually the sign of immaturity—but it does nothing more. It leaves the blend still immature, perhaps a little more palateable, but none the less harmful. It is apparent that the Liquor Control Board has adopted this practice of blending with a view to disposing of whiskies which are found unsaleable in any other way. The blended product is bottled by the Liquor Control Board and sold under a Government label. That is the only guarantee. There is no guarantee of age. There is no stamp of an analyst. The public, under what amounts to a process of deception, buy liquor which has been refused before.

The Attorney-General should enquire, in the first place into the policy which led the Liquor Control Board to buy whiskies for which there is no demand. Secondly, he should discountenance any practice whereby the public are deluded. The whiskies sold by the government should all be guaranteed, not by the Government, which knows nothing about the business, but by the distillers, and there should never be any doubt of the age of whisky. The blending process is not a branch of Government control, and never should have been tolerated. We would like very well to believe Mr. Manson's dictum that the Lqiuor Control Act is being administered in the interests of the morals of the people of British Columbia. This can never be done while immature whisky is being sold under any guise at the Government's vending establishments. The practice to which we have directed attention appears to be dictated by the policy, "that the public will take whatever we give them." That is not the way to place the law on a moral plane. The public must be protected. The Government has a clear and open duty in this respect. Whoever is responsible for introducing the blending process into the operations of the Liquor Control Board should be relieved of any further confidence. What is more, an official statement should be forthcoming to reassure the public on the question of wares which bear the Government's stamp of approval.—Victoria Colonist.

KEEP OFF THE TRACKS

The accident on the railway track last week was not unexpected by those who have watched with some concern the school children who so carelessly walk across and along the tracks. The little victim, however, was not a scholar and it was perhaps his first visit to the railways, but nevertheless the boys and girls are too careless when near the tracks.

Parents and teachers should continually impress upon the youngsters the danger of playing near the trains. Time after time the trainmen have chased the kiddies off the right of way but back they come oblivious to the danger.

Safety first is the best policy and parents and teachers should be most emphatic in warning the boys and girls.

There is only one way for them to be safe from danger and that is to keep away from it.

THE LIQUOR APPEALS

The hearing of the appeals in the liquor cases was continued befor His Honor Judge Thompson on Monday and up to date the following cases hav been disposed of: Wodyga, Lanfear, John McKay, Altomare, Gallagher, Gradzuk and McCabe. The Zoratti case was partly heard but adjourned to January 3rd. The remaining cases not heard is that against Frances Boschuk which is one of selling liquor in the Hosmber Hotel.

In the Wodyga case the evidence adduced by the Crown went to show a sale by the accused to two agents of the Liquor Control Board of a bottle of whisky in exchange for a five bill which the Crown alleged was marked and was found on the accused within a few minutes after the alged sale. No evidence was given by the accused. In the Lanfear case the evidence given by the Crown alleged the sale by the accused to two Liquor Control agents of a bottle of whisky. In this case the accused gave evidence denying the sale. The other cases completed were along the same lines, except the Zoratti case, the evidence for the prosecution being completed subject to further cross-examination of one of the witnesses for the prosecution. In the Zoratti case one of the Liquor Control agents—Lobb—was cross-examined as to his nationality when he claimed to have been naturalized a British subject in London, England, to have been admitted a member of the London Stock Exchange, and to have enlisted in the R. N. W. M. P. in London, England, in 1913 and to have come to Canada in that year. This witness stated that he was born in Germany in 1890, that his father was an Alsatian and his mother French, and that before naturalization he lived in London England for three years. The defence is taking the position that Lobb was not a member of the London Stock Exchange as he claimed, and the further cross-examination of this witness has been adjourned to January third.

His Honor stated that he was reserving his decision in all the cases, and it is not expected therefore that the cases will reach a definite conclusion until sometime in January.

WOMEN ON THE JURIES

There can be no possible harm in empanneling women on juries and there might be a great deal of good.

But since the machine to alter the rules of jury duty has been set in motion this would be an opportune time to examine some of the defects in the system with a view to remedying them.

When a jury is selected to try a case it is assumed that each juryman is fully prepared to return a verdict in accordance with the law. This is assumed so seriously that the examination of each juryman is a nominal matter.

There is the case, for instance, of a half-breed who was tried for murder some four years ago in an Alberta court. The case was fully made out. Neither judge nor spectator could find one flaw in the evidence of the crown witness. The man himself expected to hang.

But after hours of suspense the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty," simply because one juryman did not believe in capital punishment and was able to out-argue and out-patience the rest.

Next day the same defendant was tried on a charge of theft and convicted on evidence which necessarily proved him guilty of the murder with which he had been charged and acquitted on the day before.

It is impossible to estimate the number of times that justice miscarries because jurymen insist on judging guilt not by the law of the land, but according to their own peculiar moral code.

Since jury duty in British Columbia is being wisely expanded to include women, the time is ripe for further amendments which will make it necessary for trial judges to examine all jurymen to determine their adherence to the code of morality and penalties the state has set down.—Vancouver Sun.

TWO DRUMHELLER MINERS POWDER EXPLOSION VICTIMS

DRUMHELLER, Dec 18.—William McKinnie, fire boss and Harry Reece, miner, were blown to pieces and J. A. Scott and R. Jones, machinists, were injured, when at midnight Sunday the powder magazine at Gibson Syndicate mine, a mile southwest of the town, exploded with tremendous violence.

So far as could be learned, aside from slight damage to the wash room, across the tracks from the magazine, no damage was done to the mine buildings nearby, nor the tipple, a few hundred yards away. The explosion occurred at shift change and it was reported that most of the men were averse to entering the mine after the explosion, for fear of subterranean damage.

The blast occurred a moment after McKinnie and Reece entered the magazine to draw powder for the oncoming shift. No explanation of the explosion is yet forthcoming.

Scott and Jones, together with two other miners, who escaped injury, were in the mine wash room, about 200 yards from the magazine. Huge chunks of earth drove through the roof and caused injuries to Scott and Jones.

Officials at the mine, without access to the records were unable to say how much giant powder was stored in the magazine at the time, but the explosion was terrific, the shock being felt for miles around.

HOT BATTLE AT CARDIFF MINE

EDMONTON, Dec. 18.—A free-for-all fight was the result of an attempt on the part of the operators of the Cardiff mine to open the property for work this morning. Constable Olsen of the Morinville detachment of the A. P. P. was hit over the head with a club and rendered unconscious. He is being treated by Dr. Ferguson, of Morinville. Constable Bone was also hit over the head but not seriously hurt.

Five or six miners, of the 40 men who attempted to get to the mine, were injured more or less seriously by sticks, stones and bricks and were forced off the property onto the Alberta mine property. Thirty-five miners regained the hotel on the Cardiff mine property, and the mine is now being operated by these men.

The Cardiff operators had these men at the boarding house, ready to start work, when a mob of 200 to 300 pickets, women and children included, started to swarm over the property as the men emerged from their quarters. There were provincial police present, who attempted to hold the crowd, but were unable to cope with the outbreak that followed.

The situation at the Penn mine, in the city, was also the cause of some anxiety on the party of the city police this morning. With 14 men, all that Chief Chute could spare of his force from the ordinary duties of the day. Inspector Dan Fraser had to adopt decided forceful tactics with the strikers who made a determined rush toward the wash house on the mine property when the working miners were preparing to go down on the morning shift.

The four mounted policemen rode their horses ahead of the rush of strikers, however, and the men changed their tactics, turning off the mine property and back to the highway, where the police were greeted with a shower of stones. Owing to the darkness, it was again impossible to make any arrests and immediately it became light enough to see, this form of attack ended.

Complaint is made that the train service between Portland and Seattle is not speedy enough. A Seattle man considers that he is marooned if he has to remain in Portland longer than is absolutely necessary, while the Portlander homeward bound from Seattle thinks the telegraph poles are miles apart.

ROYAL MOUNTED CHIEFTAN PLAYS IMPORTANT ROLE

The Commissioner of the Royal Mounted, situated at Fort Macleod, Alberta, who is seen leading the stirring rescue fight and round-up of the Indians in Ralph Connor's vivid picture of mountain and plain, "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," which comes to the Orpheum Theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week, has been in this branch of the service since the days of the Louis Reil Rebellion. During those trying times he and a small body of scattered riders held in check the threatened uprising of the Blackfeet, the Cree and the Stony Indians who abound between the International Border and extend as far north as Peace River Crossing on the Upper Athabasca. The most difficult patrol work was in the foothills of the Rockies and especially in the famous Sundance Canyon. There are probably no greater monuments to feats of individual herosim than can be truthfully chronicled regarding this body of fighting men, and the inspector is most proud of his jurisdiction over them. For reasons of state his name cannot be divulged, but his likeness will be recognized by all the official members of this body of Scarlet Riders as well as the Indians, the bad men and the trappers and pioneers of the Great Northwest.

THE ANIMOSOTY BUGS

Who told Ambassador Harvey that the "Irish Question" is dead in America? He thinks that the acceptance of the Free State Treaty by the British Parliament has settled and ended that question. It should do so, but it has not, any more than it has settled and ended it in Ireland.

If he were reading papers like The Gaelic American he would know that the old factional rights are keeping up with all of their familiar ferocity—a ferocity that seems to increase in measure with the need and opportunity for decreasing it. He should remember that "agitation" is a trade like another and that it is also a sport for those with a taste for it.

In the United States, as in Ireland, the great majority of Irish men and women are heartily for the Free State, but these are not the noisy ones and consequntly not the audible ones. They do not hold meetings and they do not live on perpetuating ancient animosities. Nobody is better aware than they, however, that the Irish question survives and is likely to do so for some time to come.—New York Times.

NOW JAIL FOR SELLING BEER

VICTORIA, Dec. 16.—Although the Legislature sat until 1.45 a.m., Friday, considering Attorney-General Manson's amendments to the Liquor Act, little of a contentious nature developed. The last sitting came as a surprise to many members, who had understood the House would not sit after midnight while morning sessions were being held.

Dealing with the abolition of the single-purchase permit, Mr. Manson was asked if the person buying for medicinal purposes would not buy from a bootlegger rather than pay for the new two-dollar permit. The minister said in specific cases of buying for medicinal purposes no permit fee would be charged.

Mr. R. H. Pooley declared that some vendors were not enforcing the liquor legislation according to the spirit of the act, and added that in Victoria two minors known to be under 16 years of age, had purchased liquor from the government store.

Mr. Manson was given a transcript of evidence in the case and promised investigation.

A clause is being inserted in the act to force advertisers of liquor to specify that the Provincial Government or the Liquor Board have nothing to do with the advertising.

Mr. Pooley favored a more drastic clause, forbidding the use of newspapers or outdoor boardings for advertising liquor. In this contention he was supported by Capt. Ian Mackenzie of Vancouver, who held that some breweries and distilleries were lowering the prestige of the government by attempting to couple the Liquor Board with their own private brands.

Stipulation of imprisonment for the first offense of selling beer was attacked by Capt. Mackenzie, who held that in the face of the present condition of public opinion it would be unduly harsh to inflict such punishment.

"So long as the Legislature has a law like this on the statute books it can not afford to let any opportunity pass to strengthen enforcement of the law," declared Mr. Manson. "Under present conditions there have been scores of cases where people charged under the act have been released on bail of $100 and have forfeited their bail. In the case of second offenses organizations have sent up other members to bear the brunt. This has not been satisfactory and a continuance of that condition will result in a general breakdown of the act's enforcement."

"Organization which sell beer for personal profit should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law, but fraternal organizations should not be subjected to such regulations," declared Capt. Mackenzie.

The Attorney-General said it was almost impossible to distinguish between legitimate fraternal organizations and proprietory beer clubs.

Mr. H. G. Perry, Fort George, favored elimination of the clause altogether and a substitution of the former conditions when 3 per cent. proof spirits could be sold.

"That's absolutely impracticable," declared Mr. Manson. "We can't go round testing beer as in the old days. We can't enforce it."

"You aren't enforcing it now," retorted Mr. Perry.

"We are doing fairly well," returned the atorney-general. "At the same time there are so-called good citizens, influential men, acting as police commissioners, who don't make a semblance of pretense to enforce the act. So long as I hold this office the law will be enforced, or I will move for its repeal."

Mr. Perry moved an amendment that the clause be repealed, which if carried would virtually legalize the sale of near beer, as under the old conditions. The amendment was defeated, only seven voting with the Fort George member. Capt. Mackenzie submitted another amendment, moderating the penalty by abolishing the jail sentence for the first offense, and substituting a fine maximum of $500. The amendment was lost fifteen to twenty.

An amendment offered by Mr. Pooley abolishing the practise of the board appealing liquor violation cases where the penalty was imprisonment was also defeated fifteen to twenty-two.

FINAL WORK OF SESSION SPEEDED UP

VICTORIA, Dec. 16.—The British Columbia legislature was prorogued Saturday noon by Chief Justic MacDonald.

In seven weeks the House put through 100 new acts, besides getting through all the usual routine business and voting supply.

The prorogation ceremony was simple. Following the retirement of the administrator Speaker Paulin returned to the chair and the House sang the national anthem. Then, like school boys relieved from their tasks, the members celebrated. Sessional papers, order papers and nearly everything detachable were hurled in showers.

Most of the members are leaving today to be back in their homes before Christmas.

In the session Saturday morning final work was speeded up.

"My Boy was Starving to Death"

"As He Was Getting No Nourishment He Was Gradually Wasting Away."

"Here's a story which will interest every mother. Before my boy was born, I was in such delicate health that the doctor didn't think I would survive the ordeal. For weeks after he was born my life was despaired of, so I couldn't feed him and the poor little fellow was left to the care of friends. He wasn't naturally strong. No care was taken in choosing his food and his poor little stomach became so weakened that he couldn't keep anything on it. As he was getting no nourishment from his food, he was gradually wasting away. Finally, in desperation, we sent for a child specialist and he said that my boy was starving to death. He gave him some medicine and advised a certain diet. The child did improve but somehow couldn't seem to get strong. This went on for four or five years and the boy still continued weak and puny looking. He could not play like other children without having to lie down and rest. My sister who lives on a farm near the sea, said that she could fix him up if I would send him to her. While I hated being separated from him, I was ready to make any sacrifice to get him strong. He was away from me for three months and it was with feelings of great excitement that I awaited his return as my sister had written me that I would be surprised when I saw my boy. When my sister got off the train, I could not believe that it was my own boy that she was leading by the hand. I never saw such a change in any child. He was fat and rosy and full of life with a happy smile! 'What on earth have you done to him,' I said. 'Why,' she replied, 'I simply made him live out of doors, gave him good food—and here's the real secret, I gave him three bottles of Carnol! Before he had taken half a bottle his whole appearance had changed. He got heavier, his face took on a colour and he would run round for hours at a time.' The change in my boy is the most wonderful event in my life. I am a regular 'fan' for Carnol and never lose a chance to boost it. As I write I am looking out of the window and when I see that rosy, active, healthy child running round, I cannot believe that he was once a puny, delicate boy."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 5-622

The story of "Cameron of the Royal Mounted" concerns the adventures of a young man who is forced to leave college in Scotland and go to Canada, owing to the fact that he is accused of raising a check. In Canada he meets and falls in love with the daughter of a farmer by whom he is employed. Fearing to tell her about the incident of the check, Cameron leaves a note for the girl and goes to another town, where he joins the Royal Northwest Mounted Police. A situation develops, however, which story concerns his struggle to explain the past and regain the coveted uniform. In the end he is successful, even to the extent of winning the love of the girl.

The Government this session brought down a law permitting women to serve on juries. Several members of the House opposed the move, but the stand was taken that once women were permitted to vote and had the right to sit in parliament, it was only just that they be permitted to serve on juries.. However, the fair sex will not find the privilege a compulsory one and may refuse to act by notifying the sheriff.

Mayor Henderson takes exception to our remarks about the snow plow not being out on the Saturday previous during the big storm. He says the team was played out from working on Saturday and could not turn out on Saturday night. We might suggest to the Mayor that in a case of an emergency such as the big storm, the citizens would not object to him hiring a team for the occasion, or a dozen teams if necessary.

James Blair, who for a number of years was a resident of Fernie and an employee of the Great Northern Railway, was found dead in his shack at Sirdar on Saturday morning, death having ensued several hours previous, presumably from heart failure. He was around pretty much as usual on Thursday, but was not in evidence at all on Friday. Early Saturday morning when no smoke was noticed issuing from his chimney the door was forced and his corpse found lying in bed. So far as can be learned deceased was about 74 years of age and was a native of the Bellville district, Ontario, coming west when about 24 years of age, and after working several years in the middle west of the United States he finally returned to Canada to work for the Great Northern at Fernie, from which city he went to Kuskanook in 1908 and started in to develop a small ranch, and working at lumbering, mining and any other near-home jobs that were offered. He was a very quiet and unassuming nature and enjoyed the friendship of all who knew him. The funeral was attended by a number of Sirdar friends, the last rites being conducted by Rev. George Knox, Methodist pastor from Nelson.

STRIKE UNJUST SAYS MURDOCK

OTTAWA, Dec. 19. — (Canadian Press)—"I shall lose no opportunity of condemning the strike as unlawful, and, so far as I can see, unjustifiable, since it appears to have no other purpose than the securing of a closed shop, an object which menaces alike the freedom of the individual and the welfare of the community.

"If you and those associated with you persist in maintaining the present situation, I shall most certainly hope to assist in framing some changed methods or laws that will prevent a recurrance of such attitude on the part of those assuming to represent labor."

These declarations are made by the minister of labor, Hon. James Murdock, to Robert Livett, International Board Member, U. M. W. of A., with respect to the mine workers' attitude in the district 18 (Alberta) coal strike. A further exchange of telegrams between the minister and Mr. Livett was given to the Canadian Press today.

Murodck's Declaration

"Referring to strike called by your organization in Edmonton district, reaching me in detail, that the principle involved is not only object of forcing recognition of union. Now I am, from past experience and otherwise, well aware of the conditions resulting from the fullest recognition by employees of the trades unions to which their employees belong, so that matters of grievances and wages and working may be dealt with by direct negotiations, but I have yet to learn of any situation in which the principle of union recognition or the interests of either party to a dispute or those of the public at large can be advanced by the declaration of a strike.

"It is, as you will be aware, but a few months since the close of the disastrous strike for another and, in a sense, more justifiable cause, in the southern part of district No. 18, and it is especially unfortunate that your organization should have seen fit at the present time when the coal industry has by no means recovered from the long cessation of work in the spring and summer months and without any effort to secure redress by the means provided by law, to bring on the present strike on a matter which can, as a rule, be satisfactorily adjusted only by negotiations. I trust your efforts will yet be cast in the mould of fair adjustment of present conditions. Kindly let me have conclusions of your committee on this point.'

"(Signed) James Murdock,

Livett's Reply

To this telegram Mr. Livett replied on December 14 as follows:

"In reply to your wire, December 11, I cannot understand why you are consistently drawing to our attention that we violate the law when you have been clearly informed as to our past actions in connection with the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act. It will be useless for us to further ask for a board in view of the fact that the operators of the Edmonton field have vowed they will not do business with the U. M. W. of America. To apply for a board of investigation at this time would only be a determent to our interests and it is not our intention to apply for same.

"(Signed) R. Livett."

The Minister's Reply

"I acknowledge your message of 14th. In expressing surprise that I continue to regard the strike your organization is conducting in Edmonton coal fields as contrary to law, you overlook the fact that it was in a message from Mr. Peacock, secretary of your organization, that the question of law was first raised, he having objected to enforcement of the laws that regulate picketing, whereupon it became necessary to point out to Mr. Peacock his inconsistency in protesting against one law at the very moment he was defying another law.

"You are, of course, well aware that Mr. Peacock's claim that the strike was brought within the law by reason of a conciliation board inquiry conducted two years ago was and could be no more than a subterfuge. It became yet more absurd when it was made clear that the enquiry in question had not involved the collieries concerned in the present strike.

"I shall lose no opportunity of condemning the strike as unlawful, and, so far as I can see, unjustifiable, since it appears to have no other purpose than that of securing a closed shop, an object which menaces alike the freedom of the individual and the welfare of the community. By experience and observation I know well the value of sound trades unionism and I am aware that in some cases, as a last resort, and in accordance always with the laws of the land, even a strike may be the only power left to wage earners to change the attitude of a short-sighted and rapacious employer, blind to reason and justice, and of the type sometimes found, and in such a case I should condemn with equal vigor the conduct of the employer who himself would be responsible for the use of the strike weapon.

"You are well aware no such condition exists in the present case, a strike being declared without affording the department opportunity of enquiring by conciliation board or otherwise. Again I ask if you will not use your influence as the international executive member in charge of the district in favor of a restoration of conditions preceding the strike, so that due inquiry into the situation may take place under the laws of the land.

"I shall be glad to have word from you on this point.

"Signed) James Murdock,

No reply to this latter message

Won't Use R. C. M. P.

OTTAWA, Dec. 19.—(By Canadian Press)—Mounted police are not likely to be ordered into the Edmonton coal strike area to assist in the preservation of law and order, following rioting at the Cardiff mine, it is intimated here. What is likely is that officials in the district will be informed if they feel that the need for further protection of life and property is urgent, they can, by following the course laid down in the militia act, ask for the sending of troops to the area and those troops would be automatically supplied, under the law.

A reply to the request sent to the department for the aid of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is understood to have gone forward today.

A Quiet Day in Cardiff

EDMONTON, Dec. 19. — A large chunk of rusted iron piping, weighing about six pounds, is the evidence securd against Mike Tokie, one of the striking miners who participated in the disturbance at the Cardiff mine Monday. Tokie is under arrest charged with hitting Foreman Morin with the missile. Two other arrests were made at Cardiff yesterday, one striker being charged with hitting a miner over the head with a club while another is alleged to have assaulted an A. P. P. constable. All three men will appear before Magistrate G. B. McLeod on Wednesday afternoon.

Several Thousand Canadian Families Have Tried Vicks

MONTREAL

Mrs. J. H. Troughton, 446 Claremont Ave., Westmont, Montreal, writes: "I tried a jar of VapoRub when my little girl had bronchitis and found it a great relief to her breathing. My husband uses it every night up his nose to clear the passages for breathing. I also inhaled VapoRub when I had a very bad cold and cough and would not like to be without it in the house."

LONDON

Mrs. Lily Waghorn, of 126 Elliott St., London, Ont., says: "My daughter had a terrible cold and sore throat. I rubbed Vicks on her forehead as her head was aching, and got her to bed. Next morning she was nearly well. I divided a jar with two of my neighbors, whose children had croup. It eased them quicker than anything they had yet tried."

HAMILTON

Mr. D. S. Shaperd, of 340 Barton St., East Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I get a cold in the head every winter and it usually lasts me between one and two months. I used Vick's twice and my cold disappeared."

If you have little ones at home, you certainly should take advantage of this brief opportunity to try Vicks VapoRub, without expense—the external, vaporizing treatment for all cold troubles. There are a few of the free test packages left at the drug stores. You may get one by using the coupon below, but be sure to present it quickly.

Mothers will like Vicks for croup and children's colds because it is applied externally and does away with the inward dosing that so often upsets their little stomachs. It is just as good for skin hurts and itchings, too.

Vicks is a simple but ingenious combination in salve form of the old-fashioned, time-tried remedies—Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Wintergreen and Turpentine.

When rubbed on it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin. In addition, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat and inhaled with each breath directly into the nose, throat and lungs. Thus colds are often broken up over night—croup relieved in fifteen minutes.

Vicks is a family stand-by in the States, where over 17 million jars are used yearly.

QUEBEC

Mrs. C. Pritchard, of 26 Stuart St., Quebec, Que., writes: "I have used your wonderful remedy, Vicks VapoRub, with splendid results, and have had occasion to recommend to one of my relatives, who used it in a case of pneumonia with the same results I have had from it. I am glad to recommend it to my friends and neighbors."

OTTAWA

Mrs. M. Stefano, of 645 Somerset St., Ottawa, says: "When I first heard of Vicks VapoRub I had been bothered with catarrh for over a year. I applied Vicks on my chest for three nights and on the fourth day my cold was better. In one week the catarrh was all gone. I haven't had a cold this winter, and the catarrh didn't come back. Every time I got in the least draught it seemed to settle on my chest. I highly recommend Vicks VapoRub."

TORONTO

Mr. Charles Hale, of 70 Lindsay Ave., Toronto writes: "I was troubled with catarrh for some tmie until a friend recommended Vicks VapoRub. I rubbed a small portion of Vicks on my nose at night for about four nights, and I have not been troubled since."

PHENOMENAL GOLD FINDS

JOHANNESBURG — Although the discovery of gold and diamonds in this remarkable country is a daily occurrence passed over without mention the striking of what is described as a new El Dorado of the north is causing not a little stir.

Already a steady stream of diggers from the Rand has begun to move northward in search of the precious metal.

It has been known for some years that gold was present in alleuvial form at various places in the Waterberg district; it has remained for prospectors during this year to locate and follow up the conglomerate reefs throughout a large part of the northern regions—indeed, right across the Waterberg, Rustenburg and Nariso districts. There is also every prospect of their extension for a long distance into the Bechuananland Protectorate.

In February last gold was picked up in the Waterberg area. Discoveries following this created some excitement, and many diggers from Johannesburg and other mining centres hurried north.

Later in April, prospecting was extended still further north, and while no success was obtained for a time, the outcrop of a gold bearing conglomerate was eventually found in a donga and also on a high ridge.

These were merely projecting points of hidden reefs. They were followed up, and a gold-bearing conglomerate reef was located. The formation was studied and followed across three farms, and opened up. In the latter process another reef was discovered 120 yards to the north of it.

News of the discovery spread rapidly and a great rush began. The Back Bush simply swarmed with men in search of the precious metal. They came in motor cars, they came in ox wagons. Their objective was the same. They wanted options on the line of formation to search for gold.

At the time of writing the gold-bearing lodes have been opened up on five farms close together near a place called Zaastepoort. On the same formation the reef has been struck 35, 45 and 70 miles eastward in the Waterberg district. The first prospecting party has also followed up and tested the lodes over 70 miles up the west, tracing them into Bechuananland.

Experts who have been sent to this new district have reported that the test and assay from the lodes are phenomenal.

Meanwhile the rush north continues, People have hurried to the district from the Cape—1000 miles away—from Durban, and even from America, but the original finders are intent upon forming their own syndicates. They are said to hold that the district is a second Witwatersrand.

PROBLEM OF FILLING KIRK

(Kalso Kootenian, April, 1918)

As a general rule people really never realize just what a force advertising is. I have with me this week a concrete illustration of it.

Last Monday the pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church came to me and asked me for my help. He said that he wanted to get his church filled on Sunday night, just once—to see what it looked like. He wanted any advice on how to do the trick. He had a big patriotic service in contemplation, he said.

Well, you know, I set my think tank to work and in about fifteen seconds said:

I tell you what I'll do, Mr. Campbell, but you must not expect me to do it again. I'll give you ten dollars' worth of advertising space in the Kootenian, and pay for it myself. You fix me up copy for an ad for your patriotic service and let me have it not later than Tuesday morning, and I'll guarantee to fill St. Andrew's so that you will have to stick out the S.R.O. sign.

He laughed, because he thought I was just joking, or running a bluff, I think; but had his copy in on Tuesday morning. I gave the ad about ten dollars' worth of display space, charged it to my personal account and "let her go gallagher".

Well, last Sunday night St. Andrew's church was packed to the doors, and they had to rustle some benches to accommodate the crowd. All denominations besides Presbyterians were represented, and I have no doubt that the service was enjoyed and appreciated by all, and in a number of cases could prove beneficial to case-hardened sinners, who have never been out to church for years. For myself, I am a hard one to get to church because I realize that I am past all hope of redemption; but in the present instance I revelled in my ability to show what I could do in the way of swinging a crowd.

Somehow I feel certain that in the Book of Life my record will be credited with that ten bones—a credit against many debits of a short but sin-blackened life. It is some consoltion to me to feel that I shall be thus credited because I am equally certain that I shall recive no credit (except from Pastor Campbell) from the tight-fisted Scotch that comprise the bulk of the congregation of St Andrew's.

Under a law recently passed by the Maine Legislature, ice can not be served in—or for—any drink in the hotels or public eating-places of the state. It was contended that there is danger of the existence of harmful bacteria in ice which comes from streams that are subject to pollution. Violators of the law will no doubt be sent to the cooler.

ASIATIC MENACE

That the eastern people are realizing the importance of the Asiatic question in this province is shown by the recent editorial from the Toronto Mail and Empire:

The British Columbia Legislature has passed unanimously a resolution calling for an amendment to the Immigration Act to "completely prohibit Asiatic immigration into Canada." That that represents a rising feeling in British Columbia there is no doubt. The Asiatic menace to British Columbia's white population is real. It consists of undermining of the white man's economic opportunity to live. The Orientals of the Coast Province tend to obtain strategic industrial position.

Chinese and Japanese are prominent now in agriculture, mining, lumbering, fishing and retail trading. They have obtained almost a monopoly of fishing, and a Dominion Commission has recommended the cutting down of the number of licenses issued. They have invaded mining, The coal mines of Vancouver Island are manned by Japanese—potential soldiers of the Mikado. The Chinese have thousands of acres of the most fruitful valleys, living on nothing practically, and constantly buying more land. White settlers have to band together to prevent sale of more land to them. Chinese coolies and Japanese laborers are in force in lumber camps. The Legislature passed an Act requiring that logging permits for Crown lands should go only to those employing white labor, but the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council found that Act ultra vires. One of the worst features of the situation is the fact, stated by the Vancouver World, that in the past 11 years, the birth-rate of the Japanese in British Columbia has risen from a ratio of 1 to 252 of white to 1 to 13. At that rate in the next ten years, Japanese births in British Columbia will outnumber white births.

If that tremendous growth of a native Japanese population goes on, while the economic opportunities of the white population are diminished by cheap Oriental competition in this generation, British Columbia will become a "yellow" Province. It will be, in reality, a Japanese colony under Canadian laws. But this peaceful penetration will mean that, if ever Japan ceases to be friendly, our Coast will be in the hands of our enemies. The possibilities suggested by the combined immigration of Orientals, and the gigantic increase from a birth rate ten times that of the whites, are staggering. There must be determination to prevent Asiatic supremacy.

Wife—I see that in Sumatra a wife can be bought for two dollars. Isn't it perfectly awful?

Hubby—Oh, I don't know, I suppose the prices are high there, just the same as in other countries.

SUCCESSION DUTIES

The comment offered by Mr. W. J. Bowser on the amendment to the Succession Duties Act is very much to the point. Through the amendment the amount of an estate exempted from succession duties is cut from $5,000 to $1,000 and the amount which passes exempt to a widow or children from $25,000 to $10,000. The new legislation means an increase in the taxation levied on the dead. It is a desire to reach out after even the smallest beneficiaries through wills, and why it should be considered necessary to do this is not understandable. No doubt it will mean more revenue, but we were promised in the budget that there would be no new taxation. Succession duties are taxation, and they have been increased in their incidence by making them reach those who they never reached before.

A policy such as is implied in the amendment noted will not tend to encourage thrift. It will teach people to evade succession duties by disposing of their savings while living rather than waiting for the State to dispose of them when they are dead. It will teach them to invest in securities that cannot be touched by the Government of this province, and that means that it will prevent investments being made in British Columbia. The amendment to the Succession Duties Act may bring more revenue, but it will have effects altogether unexpected by the Government. There is enough hostility to the lengths to which this legislation has been carried without arousing any more. The subject has been given altogether too little consideration. Mr. Bowser, in protesting, has voiced an universal wish for surcease from the burden of succession duties on small estates, instead of, as the Government intends, making that burden more embracing.

A FLAT CONTRADICTION OF M. CLEMENCEAU

As a fighting man who does not run away from attack, M. Clemenceau can hardly fail to say something about the statement of General Sir Francis R. Bingham, chief of the interallied military control commission in Berlin.

Speaking of M. Clemenceau's charges that Germany was secretly arming, General Bingham said:

"There are unquestionably small arms and ammunition hidden in Germany, but these are insignificant compared with the stocks being destroyed.

"My personal opinion is that Germany really has been combed of all war supplies worth mentioning."

This is a flat contradiction by the highest expert authority of a very serious and specific charge made by M. Clemenceau in his speeches. It can not fairly be ignored, for the greater part of M. Clemenceau's reasoning rests on the assertion which General Bingham flatly denies.—New York World.

THE LARGEST HOTEL IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

Montreal's palatial new hotel, The Mount Royal, the largest in the British Empire, was formally opened on Wednesday, December 20th.

The erection of this new hotel formed one of the largest building enterprises of the American continent during the past year. Almost an entire year was required for the work, during which time more than 1500 men have been employed on the site.

The Mount Royal is a most imposing example of Georgian architecture, for which the materials used were granite, buff stone and light buff brick. It is ten stories high and covers a site of 306 by 227 feet, said to be the largest floor space of any hotel in America. The interior design is in Italian Renaissance, which treatment is also carried out in the design and colorings of the furnishings and decorations.

Some idea of the magnitude of this new hotel may be obtained from a few of the details of statistics as supplied by the architects. The electric wiring for the building required approximately 150 miles of wire, enclosed in 60 miles of conduit. The telephone system has capacity for some 2,000 stations, (equal to the service requirements of a city of 10,000 population). There are several public service rooms, such as the main dining room, lobby, ball room and banquet hall with floor space comparable with that of the larger ice rinks, and the hotel has its own artesian wells with a capacity of 7,200 gallons of water an hour.

A clever idea in connection with the design of the building is the floor arrangement. Above the third floor the building forms a double letter "H", making every guest room an outside room.

BAPTIST CHURCH SPECIAL SERVICES

Olivet Baptist Church devoted last Sunday evening to a missionary service. The mission work in connection with the church having been undertaken by the pastor's wife, Mrs. Campbell. The service was conducted chiefly by her and was in every way an exposition of her success in enlisting the young people's interest in this work.

Miss Elsie Puckey read a paper on Foreign Mission work of the Baptist Church showing results in Bolivia and provinces of India facing the Bay of Bengal.

The Junior Class, by their selection, made an appeal for work in the Home Mission of Canada, each child speaking for some class of people calling for missionary effort, as settlers in remote parts, immigrants, Indians.

Th Senior Class of girls gave, in picturesque form, a history of the work of the Baptist Missionaries in their Indian provinces. Miss Marion Westby, of this class, added much to the service by her rendering of a poem "On Furlough".

Hymns suitable to the occasion were sung by the congregation. A trio, "Speed Away," was rendered with very harmonious effect by Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. A. Elley and Mr. Harold Wilson. Gounod's "There is a Green Hill" was sung by Mrs. Elley. This difficult solo was given in beautifully clear and sympathetic tones and formed a fitting close to the musical part of the service.

In closing, Mrs. Campbell addressed the congregation, taking as her text, "Go Ye" (Math. XVI. 15). She explained the significance of the Master's departing injunction, and making a local application of the chosen words, drew attention to the neglected state in religious matters of the Chinese of Fernie. A collection taken after her address contained the special contribution of ten dollars for testaments for these people. These testaments will contain the Gospel written in the Chinese language.

G. W. V. A. NOTES

COKATO SCHOOL CHILDRENS CONCERT

On Friday last the school room was packed by parents and visitors, to take in the concert givn by the scholars.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Fernie, officiated as chairman. The program was a rather large one, nevertheless was cram full of merit, consisting of songs, recitations, duets and monologues. The children were evidently well trained as shown by the way they acted the parts alloted to them and it reflects great credit on their teacher, Miss E. Frey. Credit also must be given to a portion of the Fernie brass band, who in spite of the inclement weather put in their appearance and gave sveral selections during the evening. Also to Mr. Campbell, who gave three Scottish songs and was well applauded for them.

Father Christmas then appeared to distribute the presents from the large Christmas tree to each and every scholar, aftr which tea, sandwiches and cake were served by the ladies.

A vote of thanks was given to the chairman, the singers, the band and the ladies, who had made the concert so successful. God save the King was sung and in the wee sma hours the meeting dissolved.

ENTRANCE BOYS ENTERTAINED

Every Rotarian attended the dinner held at the Napanee last evening to entertain the 27 boys of the entrance classes. The spread was magnificient and all seemed to thoroughly enjoy the program of community songs and addresses provided.

The principal speakers were Sherwood Herchmer and W. R. Wilson who were listened to with deep attention by all. Mr. Herchmer spoke for about ten minutes on the subject of choosing a vocation in life and his remarks contained a lot of good hard common sense which if the boys take to heart will be of great help to them in the future.

Mr. Wilson said in part:

"Mr. chairman—I desire to assure you that I greatly appreciate the privilege of being here this evening. The purpose of the meeting as I understand it, is that we are here to help in the entertainment of some of the young School Students of Fernie.

"I further have the impression that the chief object in this social arrangement tonight is for the purpose of trying to help, encourage, and stimulate the useful conceptions and mental energies of our young guests. I, therefore, hope Mr. chairman, that our joint intercourse this evening will not only prove pleasant to us all, but that our unity of purpose will be profitable and that our contact tonight will at least lend an encouraging influence to the young people present in their pursuit of learning and in the right kind of thinking.

"There is an old saying, Mr. chairman, that runs about as follows: 'As a Boy or Man thinketh, so he is and so he will be.'

"This old human adage may in harmony with our gathering here tonight be dwelt upon with useful purpose, for the same has a very comprehensive meaning, for it touches nearly every condition of human affairs.

"In this order of things comes the growth of youth accompanied and linked up with thoughts built upon thoughts. If such thoughts are allowed to drift uncontrolled by the will, the results may be that the Boy or Man who allows himself to become immersed in this thoughtless line of conduct will finally learn to his regret that the real and best purpose of the life and career he was destined to fulfill has been destroyed or impared through his own failure largely to cultivate and exercise a proper will power over his own affairs.

"I sincerely hope, therefore, that every young person in this room here tonight will have it in their mind that they are going to make the best use of their faculties that they are blessed with. That each one of you, through the good influence of your parents, Church and teacher, have already conceived a legitimate purpose and sound idea of life and that you are determined to make this one great purpose your supreme duty .

"Your ideals on this question may, and I presume will differ or vary in the conceptions of the class of calling you may desire to follow, which is quite a natural thing for you to do. Nevertheless, you must each focus your thought upon some form of career that you feel yourselves best fitted for by nature, and what you may think it is going to be the best thing for you to do, not forgetting at the same time that your parents and true friends will always be glad and ready to help you to arrive at this determination, for it will be well for you to keep in mind that the real starting point of your own life commnces when you leave school and take away from your home that parting look of your dear, loving mother and father, which kindly and anxious impression will always linger in the heart and mind of every man that makes a satisfactory success in life. Good parents and good teachers will encourage you to cultivate the faculty of earnest thinking. You will from them learn that good will come to yourself from doing things willingly, promptly, and definitely, and that if you follow this line of procedure you will by so doing increase your own self confidence in the right direction and that in proportion, as you increase this important faculty, the desire for finishing and doing everything you may undertake to do, will naturally and pleasantly lead you to carry and hold on to this form of fixed and intense desire, which you will learn to apply to your daily routine of duties and advantage to yourself.

"Further, through the medium of improving your faculties, you will be better able, and more worthily fitted to realize the ambition of your life. In your life aims and endeavors, you will be confronted with many obstacles. Sometimes thoughts will come to you spontaneously and unpremeditated, which natural propensity, unless properly controlled and regulated by a soundly cultivated will, may prove to be to your diadvantage. The guarding against any form of detering influence upon your own efforts will largely depend upon your own development of real courage and a determination to make your life a success. Then, in-as-much as this is the natural ,and praise-worthy thing for every healthy and intelligent boy to do, I am sure that every boy here tonight will at least make up his mind that he will diligently apply his mind to this guiding idea.

"I have known some young men when they have been favored with opportunities for studying subjects that would have materially helped their progress in life, make all kinds of excuses for not taking advantage of such favorable arrangements They would rudely state without giving what they were going to say much thought: 'There is nothing in it for me.' They would say that they had other plans, or that they were tired. This type of young man's instinctive desires will never become strong enough to enable him to make a sure success of any opportunities that may incidentally come his way if he continues to follow this line of thought. The boys and men that make a worthy success of this life, try earnestly to develop that self confidence that comes to them through a sound understanding which can only come through study, and loyal, and intense application to duty with continual perseverence. Nearly all real achievement is made through some measure at least of sacrifice, and a cheerful willingness to devote oneself earnestly to acquiring the essential qualifications that properly fit us for positions of responsibility. The World and the ways of the world, therefore, calls upon youth for Courage, Galantry and earnestness of purpose, and real manliness, all of which will be the outgrowth of a wholesome and well cultivated mind, which in my closing remarks here tonight I desire to state that I hope to see every friend strive and be assisted in obtaining."

DEATH OF ANDREW BLACK

Fernie citizens were deeply shocked last evening to learn of the sudden death of Andrew Black of the local Government office staff. Deceased had been in poor health for nearly a year, but no one anticipated any danger as he was able to be around up till within a few moments of his death. He had just finished his evening meal when he was attacked suddenly by heart failure and expired in a few moments in spite of all the doctors could do, who were called in at once.

"Andy," as he was more familiarly known to a host of friends, was one of our soldier boys who made a name for himself in the Great War. Enlisting as a private with the 54th Battallian in 1915, he quickly rose to th rank of Major and was awarded the M. C. for bravery on the field.

A few months after his return from overseas he married Miss Alice Duthie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robrt Duthie, whom with his parents in Aberdeen, Scotland, he leaves to mourn his death. He was in his 31st year.

The funeral, most probably of a military nature, will take place at 2.30, on Sunday afternoon.

CRIMINALS FEAR FRENCH CHEMIST

PARIS.—A chemist of recent years has become the best known detective in France. Edmond Bayle is a small, dark, quiet man; he works in a modern equipped laboratory in the Palais de Justice; he is feared by criminals of all classes, and his ultimate fame promises to surpass that of Alphonse Bertillion, the French finger print expert who died in 1914.

Dr. Bayle is chief of the technical bureau of the Paris Police Department. Here all the criminal information of the republic is concentrated, classified and studied. From this bureau the expert chemist and physicist gives directions in the field of criminal detection. So successful has he been that the ignorant criminal classes have come to regard him as a worker in black magic. His unique methods have been studied by the police department of New York city. Dr. Bayle rarely gives much attention to the personality of criminals or their particular psychology. His workshop consists of many rooms and passageways, equipped with all the paraphernalia of a big industrial laboratory, and includes a photograph gallery. He has spectroscopes, microscopes and X-ray machines by the dozens, each fitted for a special purpose such as examining blood spots, forged documents, counterfeit money, powder burned clothes and the wreckage that is picked up on a criminal trail.

Dr. Bayle's study is lined with books on science, and catalogue records of his work. In the records of his bureau there are registered no less than 8,000,000 names of persons involved in crimes, past and present.

"The detection of crime today is something very different from the popular conception," said Dr. Bayle to the Associated Press correspondent. "The Sherlock Holmes and Arsene Lupin stories of great criminals and their feats are no doubt most entertaining, but that is all I can say for them. From my point of view there is no crime that can not be detected, that does not leave its traces behind, at least theoretically. For one thing, criminals, as a rule, are not very intelligent. The uneducated man usually commits crimes of passion and brutality; the educated man runs to fraud.

"My methods astound the ignorant criminals, and they have come to fear me when I enter the courts. The so-called intelligent professional criminals seem to have begun to try to thwart me in a small way. Nowadays they endeavor, by wearing gloves, not to leave finger prints behind, but we have reached the point where their finger prints through gloves can be detected.

"Crime is really not mysterious. The curious point to me is that the crimes which interest me most do not interest the public.

"There has been great progress made in the detection of crime during the last six or eight years, particularly through the application of chemistry and photography to detection.

"In my opinion we are not yet in sight of a crimeless civilization. Crime is a part of human nature. Much of it is spontaneous. The fear of detection and punishment will not prevent it.

"I would like to point out that part of our endeavor has been to help to protect innocence, and prevent the miscarriage of justice. Science does not seek to convict. It looks for truth, no more and no less.

"During the war a spy case, that of a certain Vigo, alias Almeryda, attracted much public attention. The man was found dead in his cell, and there were those who claimed he had been assassinated there. The only evidence was two spots on his shoe laces. By comparative analysis of these, one I found to be mud and the other paint of his bed, and I was able to conclude he had hanged himself and thus cleared the jailers of guilt.

"Another case: During the war a young captain wrote his mother the night before a battle in which he was killed. A postscript to the letter revoked a former will in favor of his wife. By analysis of the ink and the handwriting in this postscript it was shown that the mother had forged his signature. She confessed it though her confession added nothing to the value of the proof.

"We are beginning to eliminate eyewitness proof in crime. We prefer our own, as eyewitnesses distort the facts without sometimes wishing to. Science can not lie."

"So you want to marry my daughter eh?"

"I do, sir."

"Young man, have you considered her family in this matter?"

"I have, sir. I love that girl so much I'd be willing to put up with anything."

At the Orpheum Theatre on Friday and Saturday, December 29th and 30th.

During the session of the Legislature now nearing its end the old cry that the only way to deal with "bootleggers" is to give the British Columbia Government a monopoly in the purchase of liquor was again raised. That monopoly, as we pointed out before, would simply mean a monopoly in controlling the price. The Government has made a first move in combating "bootlegging" by reducing the prices of its liquors. It is only a beginning, and a very small one. The true way is to bring the price of Government-sold liquor to a point where it will no longer be profitable for any "bootlegger" to operate. This will solve the problem, and save the expenditure of many thousands of dollars in the employment of "stool pigeons" and other methods designed to detect illicit traffickers in liquor.

WHAT MADE ME HAPPY

"I was congratulating myself that I had passed the winter without catching a cold, when I got one at the beginning of last May. It was because I was run down. Being run down I had some trouble in getting rid of this cold. I was a nervous wreck. I would wake up regularly mornings feeling that some terrible calamity would take place. Although we were comfortably off, I felt sure my husband was going to lose everything. The children worried me. If they made the least noise, I would get into a terrible temper. I would scold them so that I am sure they hated me. I would be mad with myself after it was over and make up my mind never to let it happen again. I would go to bed at night and begin to think and picture dreadful things which might happen to me and my family. I would lay awake for hours, sometimes until daylight, until I was so weak that I could scarcely raise my head. I would waken next day just as tired as when I laid down. After a while I got so that I didn't care what happened. The children annoyed me and I wouldn't have cared if they had left me for good. I felt that it was only a matter of time before I would lose my mind. I knew that my symptoms were due to a run down condition and that if I could only get something to build me up, I might be all right. I knew that there must be some good tonics but most of them made such foolish claims that I was afraid of them. Happening one day to run across a leaflet about Carnol, I was impressed with the moderate way this preparation was described, so I made up my mind I would try it. I did and today I am the happiest and healthiest woman living. I haven't a care in the world. Instead of running away from me, my children are now with me all the time. My husband tells me that my disposition is as near an angel's as any human being's can be, but of course he is prejudiced. I don't believe I have a nerve in my body now."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 6-6

Daughter—Mr. Bankleigh is coming here tonight. If he asks me to marry him, how shall I answer?

Mother—Promptly!

KEEPING THE TRAINS SPOTLESS

1. Packing away the rugs after having had their turn on the vacuum.
2. Cleaning the pillows on the vacuum cleaner invented by Canadian Pacific employees.
3. The train carpet beater in action. Straps attached to the roller quickly loosen all dust.

A FEW hours spent in the Winnipeg, Montreal and Vancouver yards of the Canadian Pacific Railway while the dining and passenger trains are being cleaned gives one the assurance that there is little need for travellers to worry as far as germs are concerned.

The yards are equipped with the very latest devices for the cleaning and equipping of its trains. The same pattern of equipment is in use in Winnipeg, Montreal and Vancouver, and at these three terminals the coaches undergo a thorough cleaning. Approximately 110 cars are cleaned in Winnipeg per day, and it costs $18.00 to clean each car.

When a passenger train arrives at, say Winnipeg Terminal, it is run down to the coach yard and everything moveable is taken out. Then commences the cleaning and germ ousting process. The heavier tapestried cushions, pillows and bed blankets are placed under a vacuum cleaner with 90 pounds pressure. This is the first process of cleaning, then follows the disinfecting. The carpets are placed on a wire netting, which looks not unlike a bed spring only that it moves on wheels. At one end there is a huge roller to which is attached scores of leather straps, which is referred to in the yards as the "cat and 109 tails" This revolves at a terrific force and after the carpet has been twice beaten there is a poor chance of any dust remaining. Carpets usually stand this treatment from 18 months to two years. While all this portable stuff is being cleaned, workers are busy inside the car. They do not spare disinfectant or soap and water.

The kitchen tables and ice boxes are aluminum, and all the sauce pans are of copper. When one considers that several hundred meals a day are prepared and served from one of these small kitchens, it is no wonder the diner service is considered one of the most remarkable features in connection with passenger traffic

There are at present in the entire system 155 dining cars in which approximately 8,000 meals per day are served. Back in the Winnipeg coach yards is the Dining Car supply building and linen department. It is here that bread, rolls, cakes and pastry are made each day to meet the demand for the Buffet and Dining cars. There is a first-class artificial ice plant installed so that the supply of food on hand is kept in perfect condition. Every room is well stocked, with the exception of the wine cellar, which boasts of nothing more than soft drinks. Several seamstresses are busy in the linen room, where the bed and table linen are kept in repair. The linen department of the railway is well stocked. There are in the entire rail service alone 245,253 sheets; 204,867 slips; 68,925 cloths; 201,933 table napkins; and 373,267 face towels, as well as many other pieces The laundry lists when checked at the end of each year show that approximately 33,000,000 pieces go through the wash tubs, at the three big terminals and other divisional points along the line. No steward, cook, waiter, sleeping car conductor or porter, is put on a Canadian Pacific train without having graduated from the school of instruction. They attend lecture classes every morning until fully qualified to attend to the wants and needs of travellers over the Canadian Pacific.

PROTESTS A.P.P. USE IN STRIKE

(Lethbridge Herald)

Lethbridge Local, No. 574, United Mine Workers of America, is watching the Edmonton field strike developments very closely, and recently passed a resolution protesting against the employment of provincial police to "molest officials of the U. M. W. of A. while engaged in their lawful duties in the organization."

Attorney-General Brownlee, to whom the local branch of the miners' organization sent the resolution, replied stating that "my instructions to the police are to maintain law and order and to see that there is no injury to life or property, and to take such action as may be necessary to that end."

Tuesday's dispatches from Edmonton stated that on Christmas day Hon. Brownlee and Commissioner A. C. Ryan of the A. P. P. visited the strike area, inspecting the disposition of the large A. P. P. force detailed to maintain order during the struggle.

Whereas it is best to have uniform wages and a uniform agreement in all the coal mines of the province of Alberta;

And whereas officials of the U. M. W. A., District 18, have been endeavoring to bring this about but have been strongly opposed by the mine owners of the Edmonton district;

And whereas it appears that the mine owners have obtained the assistance of the provincial police force to aid them in their fight to prevent the miners in attaining their object;

Resolved that the members of Local 574 U.M.W.A., District 18, desire to bring to the attention of the attorney-general of the province of Alberta the inadvisability and danger of permitting the provincial police to molest officials of the U.M.W.A. while engaged in their lawful duties in the organization.

And the members of this local desire to further strongly protest against the recently granted injunction inasmuch as it destroys the only effective means that the miners possess in their endeavors to obtain better wages and better living conditions.

Alex. Robertson, Sec.
Of Local 574, U.M.W.A.

To this the Attorney-General replied as follows:

Edmonton, Alberta,

Dear Sirs,—I am in receipt of yours of the 12th inst. enclosing resolution of your local. The mine owners have not obtained the assistance of the Provincial Police; neither have the Provincial Police interfered with anyone lawfully conducting himself. The outbreaks of a week ago at which three provincial police officers were injured and the outbreak which I am informed occured again this morning at one of the mines during which rocks were thrown and shots fired by some of the striking miners, are not lawful. My instructions to the police are to maintain law and order; to see that there is no injury or damage to life or property and to take such action as may be necessary to that end. Outbreaks such as abovementioned will not be tolerated.

Beyond acting according to my instructions, the police have not interfered between the parties.

Yours very truly,
J. E. Brownlee,
Attorney-General.

A. Robertson, Esq.
Sec. Local 574, U.M.W.A.
Lethbridge.

Doctor—Your throat is in a bad state. Have you ever tried gargling with salt water?

Sailor—Yes, I've been shipwrecked a dozen times.

Small Pupil—Bed.

SAVE GOLF FROM COMMERCIALISM

Officers of the United States Golf association are to be commended for their warning to the golf clubs of America to beware of the rocks of its great popularity because it is a game for the player far more than for the onlooker.

The devotee of baseball usually is passive. He sits in the stand and watches his hero slam the ball over the fence.

The golfer glories in the fact that he can go out in the open and do championships largely because they could capitalize their fame and titles in these exhibitions.

The first sign of revolt against this condition came recently when the Highland club of Pittburgh refused an increase in salary to Gene Sarazen, the new national open champion, and permitted him to leave the club's employment. They voted in favor of obtaining a "pro" whose ability as teacher and mechanic would overshadow his ability to obtain prominence in sporting page headlines.—New York Herald.

Railway News

Toronto.—It is announced that Mr. G. S. Beer, C. P. R. city passenger agent, under District Passenger Agent William Fulton, has been promoted to the post of assistant district passenger agent. Mr. Fulton now has two assistants in his territory.

Medicine Hat, Alberta—An expenditure of about $60,000 is represented by the extension to the Canadian Pacific Railway roundhouse and the construction of the Company's mechanical coaling plant, and that sum is about equally divided between these two improvements. In both instances the work has given much employment to local men and there is still a considerable amount of inside work to be done in connection with the extension to the roundhouse.

Renfrew, Ontario—Mr. Ed. Williams, Canadian Pacific Railway baggage master, who in addition to his regular duties, takes care of the flower garden which attracts so much favorable comment from travellers over the line, has secured another triumph. Mr. Williams has just been notified that his plot has been awarded second prize in the Quebec district, all of the depot gardens having been recently judged by an official of the road. During the past few years Mr. Williams has carried off a number of first prizes but the competition is growing keener year by year.

St. Thomas, Ontario—Work has been commenced on the construction of an extension to the present C.P.R. yards east of the city, in the form of an 800-foot repair track at an expenditure of approximately $15,000. The grading work which is being done by Irwin and Son of this city, was started recently. The extension is necessary to cope with the increased business and also to facilitate the repairing of cars. It is also understood that the addition of the new tracks will result in several more employees being added to the C.P.R. repair gang.

A small track about 80 feet long will also be erected alongside the new tracks to be used in case of an emergency. The new track will hold at least forty cars. Four teams and about twenty men are engaged in rushing this work to completion.

Belfast, Ireland—For the first time on record a Canadian-bound steamer sailed from Belfast Lough conveying mails direct from the Northern capital. The vessel was the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's S.S. "Metagama," which, incidentally, was built in Belfast. The vessel anchored off Kilroot and 23 bags of mail, together with some 100 emigrants from Ulster, were conveyed to it by the Harbor Commissioners' tug "Musgrave."

Hitherto it had been the practice to send the mails to Liverpool and other ports, from which they were despatched, but, acting on instructions from the secretary of the Post Office in London, the present system was introduced.

One of the passengers was a five-year-old child, from Duolin, whose parents are in Canada. The little one was in charge of a matron who handed it over to the matron of the "Metagama."

A Belfast "Telegraph" representative was shown over the "Metagama," and saw something of the excellent arrangements made for the comfort of passengers.

London, England — Major A. Ewan Moore, London Manager of the C.P.R. Department of Colonisation and Development, 62-65, Charing Cross, has received the following letter from their Brussels office:

"Dear Sir,—I beg to advise that a certain Mr. Martin, Avenue des Courses, Bruxelles, who has formerly resided in Canada, brought over by our Line in April of this year a shipment of Canadian potatoes. They were planted soon after arrival, at Boisfort, a suburb of Brussels, where an exhibition of land products was held on Sunday last. A certain Mr. Lemmens planted 2½ acres with Mountain Green and Irish Cobblers. His crop amounted to over 300,000 lbs.; one plant bore 9 lbs. 2 ozs., one potato weighing well over 2 lbs. This particular plant has been lent to us for window display and has attracted a great deal of attention. Mr. Martin has 400,000 kilos of Canadian potatoes in Belgium, which are not to be sold for immediate consumption but only for reproduction.—Yours very truly,

NEW MAE MURRAY PICTURE GORGEOUS

In "Broadway Rose," Mae Murray's latest production, to be presented by Robert Z. Leonard at the Orpheum Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, the famous Metro star has another of those roles which have come to be associated with her name and which provide opportunities for magnificent settings, gorgeous costumes and the dance episodes without which no Mae Murray picture is complete.

It is the story of a country girl who has become a Broadway favorite and won fame as a dancer. Admired by many men, surrounded by the flattery and luxury which comes to those who are successful in catching the adulation of the Gay White Way, Rosalie Lawrence finds her happiness in the love of Hugh Thompson, whose parents are wealthy and of the socially elect.

Rosalie discovers, however, that the passage from Broadway to 5th Avenue is not easily accomplishd. The Thompsons have other plans for their son. Marriage with a Broadway dancer is not included in their social code. They have already picked out the wife for their son in Barbara Royce, a debutante of their own set. And so Rosalie consents to a secret marriage in order that there may be no break with his parents.

The result of this step involve Roalie in a series of stirring incidents which threaten her with disaster but she eventually finds happiness.

The scenes of "Broadway Rose" are elaborate and lavish, representing the playgrounds of the idle rich and the gilded haunts of New York's night life. The costums are striking in their originality and beauty and the original dances conceived by Miss Murray add to the interest of the picture.

"Broadway Rose," Tiffany production, directed by Robert Z. Leonard, was written by Edmund Goulding, who also wrote the scenarios of "Peacock Alley and "Fascination." The photography is by Oliver T. Marsh and the art settings by Charles Cadwalder.

Asked for his last message to the people of the Uuited States on the occasion of his departure for home, M. Clemenceau announced that his ghost would come back and deliver it after he was dead. The "Tiger" overlooked the fact that spirits are not permitted to pass the three-mile limit.

SEEKING AID FOR STRIKERS

CALGARY, Dec. 26.—With the object of endeavoring to make arrangements for the financial assistance of the coal miners in the Edmonton field, W. A. Sherman, president of District 18, and Robert Livett, international board member, are leaving for Indianapolis on Friday next to take the matter up with the head executive. It is now several weeks since these miners struck work owing to the non-union operators refusing to have anything to do with the U.M.W.A.

Protect the Mines

EDMONTON, Dec. 26. — Increased police protection has been provided at the mines in the Beverley and Clover Bar fields, following similar action at the Cardiff mines and a number of special constables have been sworn in for duty to supplement the regular members of the provincial police force already assisting in the work.

Armed guards have been stationed by Commissioner Bryan at all the strategic points and these have been linked up with mounted patrols covering the entire field. Sergeant Major Harrison also has a flying squad which is kept in readiness at all times to shift constables by automabile wherever needed. The Clover Bar railway bridge is one of the points at which men have been posted to prevent crossing from the mines on one side of the river to the other.

Attorney-General Brownlee spent Xmas afternoon in making with Commissioner Bryan, a personal inspection of the strike field, going over every part of the Clover Bar and Beverley and visiting the several police detachments.

SINCE 1870 SHILOH 30 DROPS STOPS COUGHS

THIRTY-TWO MILLION YIELD

With an estimated mineral output for 1922 of $32,167,463, against a one of $28,066,641 in the previous year, as announced by Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, the province has registered a gain in value of output of $4,100,822.

This gratifying showing, the minister intimates, is proof that the mining industry has revived remarkably during the past twelvmonth, that it is rapidly recovering from the decline which resulted from poor market conditions following the war metal boom, and that continued improvement may be looked for in 1923.

The feature of the 1922 production is the increase in gold and silver values, the former amounting to $4,116,816, which is $1,079,462 better than in 1921, and the latter totalling $4,034,154, which is $2,422,953 in excess of the previous year.

Credit for this lies to a great extent with the Premier Gold Mining company of the Portland Canal mining division. The lode gold and silver taken from the Cassiar district, of which Portland Canal is a part, are estimated to total 170,200 ounces of gold and 4,816,000 ounces of silver. The greater part of this, in fact practically all of it, came from the great mine opened up within the past few years in the northwestern section of the province.

Placer gold output also shows an increase, the total being valued by the official estimate at $297,000, an increase of $63,800. Marked interest has been taken during the year in the placer fields. Hydraulicking and dredging operations, actual and projected, are multiplying. While the old camps of the Cariboo and Atlin are not more than holding their own, new possibilities are being manifested. Mr. Sloan directs attention in this conection to the Cedar Creek field as proving that the historic Cariboo has not yet given up all her riches. J. D. Galloway, the resident mining engineer, emphasizes the importance of this discovery from which $73,000 worth of gold was taken during the season, notwithstanding that both water and equipment were limited. The proving of one rich high old channel, such as that upon which the present Cedar Creek diggings are located, may lead to the finding of more ground of similar character in the Cariboo. This discovery will undoubtedly result in more intensive prospecting, along somewhat different lines than has taken place in the past.

In regard to precious metal production, it is to be noted that the Belmont Surf Mines, Limited, of Princess Royal Island, have added quite materially to the gold output, and that recent developments in point of ore reserves are said to be satisfactory. The Nickel Plate mine of the Hedley Mining company has done little, while the Rossland camp which in former years was the backbone of the lode gold industry, has not been producing. The latter centre, however, is expected soon to be as active as before. The output of silver has been swelled by contributions from many comparatively small but potential important mines of the Slocan and other parts of the East Kootenay, where there has been a revival that augurs well for the future.

Only one of the base metals shows a decline as against 1921, mainly copper. The value of the output is estimated to be $4,042,060, a drop of $837,564. The reason for this is that the Britannia Mining company, Howe Sound, has not been shipping. The destruction of plant by fire and other difficulties forced the company to concentrate on development and reconstruction. The prospects are that it will be ready to resume marketing early in the new year. Under the circumstance it is gratifying that the total value of the provincial production was so well maintained and the explanation is to be found in the achievement of the Granby Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, whose output is placed at 29,690,00 pounds. The copper market is becoming steadier, and attention is being turned to the placing upon a shipping basis of some of the lower grade copper properties that have been inactive. Announcements of interest and importance, in this connection, may be looked for at an early date.

Lead and zinc outputs have increased, the first by $790,542, and the last by $455,543. The silver-lead-zinc ores of the Kootenays are responsible, the bulk of the two latter metals coming from the ores of the Sullivan mine, Kimberley. The new electrolytic methods of treating zinc ores at the Trail smelter, of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company of Canada, has given courage to many independent operators, and the new concentrator at Kimberley, now under construction strengthens the conviction that conditions have permanently improved, and that the immediate future of the mining industry in eastern British Columbia is exceedingly bright. It is a matter worthy of comment that lead and zinc are being produced in British Columbia at a cost that permits it to compete with the similar products of any part of the world.

The coal production will approximate 2,669,414 tons, valued at $12,797,070, an increase of $377,095. Coke is estimated to drop from 59,434 to 40,837 tons, a monetary decrease of $1,230,179. These figures are considered remarkably gratifying in view of the fact that the Crow's Nest field was idle for several months, and also for the reason that the collieries of the province, and particularly those of Vancouver Island have had their market invaded by imported fuel oil. Mr. Sloan asserts that 1,000,000 tons of locally produced coal is being annually displaced by those importations from the United States, and in consequence of which the coal mining industry is not making satisfactory increases in comparison with the growth and development of the province.

BIGGEST NEWSPRINT PLANT TO BE IN NEWFOUNDLAND

The project calling for the development of vast resources of water power in the Humber district of the north-western interior of Newfoundland and the creation there of the largest newsprint plant in the world, with a daily capacity of 400 tons, will be begun early next year, according to an announcement made on December 2nd in New York shortly after his arrival from England where he closed the final arrangements, by Sir Richard A. Squires, Prime Minister of Newfoundland.

The development of the water power resources, which amount to 250,000 horsepower, will begin immediately, he said, and about 80,000 horsepower of the total power will be made available some time next year. The construction of the newsprint plant, at Humbermouth, will be completed in a year and a half, and by the time the point of maximum production has been reached the capacity of the plant will be larger than any now existing newsprint mill. This increase of the world's total production of newsprint with 146,00 tons a year will not, in the opinion of Sir Richard, materially lower the cost of this product, but should undoubtedly raise the supply to the general level of the demand.

Extensive timber areas of spruce in the Humber district, which will be utilized for the production of newsprint pulp, are now in the hands of the Newfoundlond Products Company, an organization which has held the rights to these lands by an act of the Newfoundland Legislature for the last ten years. A large British concern, the Armstrong Whitworth Company, which is building the steamship Newfoundland, will have full charge of the development of the water power and the construction of the newsprint plant.

Bonds to the amount of $4,000,000 sterling have been issued to cover the cost of the project, and half of this sum has been guaranteed by the British government under the trade facilities act, while the other half has been underwritten by the Newfoundland government. Complete plans for the undertaking will be submitted to the Newfoundland Legislature early in 1923.—Saturday Night.

SOMETHING NEW FOR QUINSY

Ontario Man Tells About That New Vaporizing Salve

Mr. Joseph Haley of 199 West Milk St., Brantford, Ont., says: "My wife has suffered with quinsy for years, but Vicks VapoRub must have prevented it for she got thru the winter without a single attack. We sent part of a jar to a neighbor, whose boy was very sick with a cold or grip. He also got relief. Vicks surely should be in every home."

They used to treat colds externally with tallow, goose grease and camphor. Recently internal dosing has been the habit and people naturally doubt the value of a salve.

For this reason, Canada druggists introduced Vicks VapoRub, the vaporizing salve for all cold troubles, last winter by giving away dozens of jars to responsible families and every jar sold was on 30-day trial.

The above report is just one of a great many received from enthusiastic Canadian families. With such endorsement and a positive money-back guarantee, every household ought to give Vicks a thorough trial as the home remedy for croup, colds, sore throat, bronchitis, catarrh, neuralgia, cuts, burns, bruises and sores.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test trial package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St Paul Street, W., Montreal, P.Q.

NEW CANADIANS GO HOME FOR CHRISTMAS

1—The Canadian Pacific liner "Montcalm," one of the new "Mono-cabin" class ships which will this year be engaged in the "Home-for-Christmas" travel.

2—The saloon of the "Montcalm," typical of the comfort and high standard of decoration of this class of ship

3—A cabin on board the "Montcalm." This ship carries second and third class only.

HOME for Christmas — to many thousands of Britishers now living in various parts of Canada that is more than a thought, it is a sentiment. Christmas probably means more to English people than to most others, while to the Scotch, New Year's Day is the Day of Days. For both of them the holiday season brings a heart pull towards the Old Country that will not be denied, and to many of those who will not admit the "touch of human nature that makes us all kin," the holiday season comes as an excellent opportunity, and something of an excuse to make a trip back "Home" For Christmas week old London draws all the world. The fascinating splendour and incomparable facilities of entertainment are at their best, and like April in the English countryside, it sets all who know her longing to be there.

It is already apparent that the holiday travel to Europe will this year be rather heavier than it has for some time, which may perhaps be taken as one result of the more generally satisfactory crop year through which the country has passed. Then, too, conditions in Great Britain are somewhat better stabilized than they have been, and the welcome home will probably be all the heartier.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has made special arrangements to meet the expected increase in traffic. Trains carrying passengers will run alongside the ships at St. John, NB., thus guaranteeing a practically uninterrupted journey from any point in Canada to the British port. A feature of the trans-Atlantic holiday travel this year will be the employment of the new Canadian Pacific Mono-class steamers. Technically these steamers provide second-class and steerage accommodation, but their apopintments and service are such as to make them adequate for almost any standard of taste. The "Montcalm," which will be included in the holiday sailings, is typical of that class. She is an oil-burner of a total length of 563 feet, with the utmost in spacious and luxurious accommodation. In the short time in which she has been running, she has proved comfortable to the last degree, and her fittings include a cellular double bottom and the very latest and most perfect operating safety devices. Lounges, drawing, card and smoking rooms and dining saloon are the last word in modern interior decoration, with first thoughts given to comfort and good taste. A special Children's Room is a new feature, and the steerage, or third class, accommodation is of the most modern description. Here again the lounges, smoking and other rooms, and the dining saloons provide unexcelled comfort and ample space.

By way of guaranteeing a through service for holiday travellers, the Canadian Pacific will run special tourist sleepers from Edmonton, Calgary, and other Western points. These will connect with special trains at Winnipeg, and will run through to the ship's side.

Sailings from St. John are arranged as follows:—"Tunisian" to Glasgow and Liverpool, Dec. 5, "Melita" to Southampton, Dec. 9, "Montcalm" to Liverpool, Dec. 12, and "Metagama" to Glasgow, Dec. 1?

A PARADOX OF GOLD AS MONEY

It seems difficult to impress people with the fact that money, except commodity money, is not wealth. Money is merely a convenience, a means to an end, but not the end itself. It is a medium for distributing or transferring wealth without transporting bulk in every transaction of exchange between man and man. It is a symbol or token which simply signifies at any given moment in whose hands the wealth it represents resides. And at any given moment it may serve to transfer wealth from one man to another or it may be converted into wealth by surrendering it therefor.

Gold coin is really what is called commodity money. So that when gold is paid for an article the process is merely that of exchanging one commodity for another. This is, in effect, barter. In illustration of this it is only necessary to give the facts in regard to the gold dollar.

The dollar weighs 25.8 grains. It is nine-tenths fine, so that 23.22 grains are pure gold. The Government pays a fixed price of $20.67183 an ounce for gold. The ounce contains 480 grains. Divide 480 grains by 23.22 grains and it will be found that the ounce of gold will make exactly 20.67183 dollars. Since the coinage of gold is free, the Government pays for the minting and the one-tenth alloy of copper, thus stamping on this little disk merely the value of pure gold it contains.

Gold as a commodity has been used as a medium of exchange from time immemorial. Its value for this purpose is due to a unique group of properties. It is mallable, ductile, noncorrosive, durable, easily divisible and its identity is perfect. The supply is limited, the demand for it is steady, and its bulk is small in proportion to its value. It is easily transported and easily guarded.

Not only is the production limited but much of this is absorbed by the arts. It has fulfilled more requirements for a standard of value than any other commodity. Its value has fluctuated with supply and demand as have other commodities, but stability has in general characterized it. At no period in the history of the world has it alone as a circulating medium been able to do the total work of exchange, so that various other commodities from time to time have come to its relief, such as silver, copper, iron, corn, tobacco, wine oil, salt, slaves, cattle, and even service. In fact, the word pecuniary is derived from the Latin word meaning a herd of sheep or cattle.

Silver relieved its burden greatly as a medium, as did the base metals to some extent, but the greatest relief has come from the Bank note since the silver in a dollar is not worth a dollar, the silver dollar is partly commodity, partly token money. The copper an nickel coins are purely tokens.

The silver dollar consists of 37¼ grain of silver, this being the fineness of the old Spanish milled dollar which we took as our standard when we coined our first dollar in 1792 and which fell in fineness only 9 per cent. in four centuries—the most remarkable coin for long stability in the entire numismatic history of the world. The debts of the Revolution were contracted in this kind of currency.

Gold, therefore has virtually ceased to function as a medium of exchange. As if exhausted by its age long efforts to carry a burden that has always been beyond its strength it now lies inert and passive in the Treasury vaults. This is its final resting place and from this tomb it may never again emerge to behold the light of day as currency.

Del Mar, in the '80s, after years of painstaking research made the astounding discovery that up to his time the average production of gold had always been at a loss so far back in the centuries as he could trace, taking into consideration rich, lean and abandoned mines—the latter always being reworked by fresh adventurers—the immense amount of futile working and prospecting that has always gone on, and the untold millions of capital invested with nothing to reward it but loss. — Saturday Night.

DANGER OF WEALTH

Quebec province has made a profit of four million dollars on her liquor business. But, alas and alack, a suspicion lurks in the mind of the habitant that an additional four million has leaked into the pockets of others than the government. So Quebec's prosperity may yet prove the political ruin of the Quebec administration. The discontent that grows with great riches is sometimes quite as dangerous as the disquiet that accompanies extreme poverty.—Toronto Telegram.

Railway News

Montreal.—Automobile accidents are still continuing at railway crossings despite all the efforts of the railways to prevent them. In one instance at Holland Centre, Ontario, an automobile drove up and stopped on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The driver thought that an approaching train would take another passing track. The driver, realizing his mistake, tried to get his car out of the way of the train. But his car was stalled. The engineer was unable to stop the train, with the result that the automobile was smashed and three occupants of the car were injured.

At a crossing on Aylmer Road, near Hull, Quebec, an automobile ran into a Canadian Pacific train. The driver was going too fast to stop his automobile when he saw the train. Two occupants of the automobile were injured.

A motor accident with all the thrills of a movie stunt occurred at the corner of Yonge and King streets, Toronto, when an automobile charged into one of the King street windows of the Canadian Pacific Building, making a report that sounded as though the gas tank had exploded.

The car, according to the police, was coming north on Yonge street. The signals were against the car, which in its flight grazed a Belt Line car going east on King street. It continued to swerve right across the pavement into the plate glass front of the imposing C. P. R. office building. Here, with a loud backfire from the engine, the car suddenly plunged its front wheels through the quarter-inch plate-glass window. Being up against an immovable obstacle it naturally came to a standstill.

No one was hurt. The fender of the car was badly smashed up, the right front tire torn off and the rear wheel badly damaged. The window was broken right across the whole twelve feet or so, and to a height of about six feet in one point.

The driver admitted that he was nervous at the time; he hadn't the slightest idea of what was happening.

New Liskeard.—The work of constructing the northerly extension of the C. P. R. from Kipawa to Des Quinze is progressing at a good rate, and already the grading has been completed on 35 miles of the extension, with 19 miles of rails having been laid.

The present contract, held by Angus & Taylor of North Bay, calls for the construction of 70 miles of roadbed, the northern end terminating in the vicinity of Des Quinze, one of the greatest series of waterfalls in Northern Canada.

This extension places the C. P. R. on the southern outskirts of mineral lands of big prospective merit in that part of the Province of Quebec lying adjacent to the gold-mining fields of Ontario. It is known that the C. P. R. has also carried survey work far into the new land to the north.

Moose Jaw.—The subway at the Canadian Pacific Railway station is about to be put into commission. All six passenger tracks in the passenger terminal are completed, and the first four tracks are in operation. The work of completing the subway is in full swing. The stairways are in place and the interior of the subway is lined with the handsome glazed tile.

When the subway is put into commission the general public will not be permitted on the station platform. The tickets will be inspected at the doors leading from the waiting room to the subway. Passengers alighting from trains will descend the stairs to the subway and then pass up the stairs into the depot.

The completion of the subway will finish the building programme undertaken by the company three years ago.

Moose Jaw.—Out of a total of 44,817 cars of grain loaded at country elevators on the Canadian Pacific lines in the three prairie provinces, between September 1 and October 14, 25,500 cars were loaded in the Saskatchewan district.

The total quantity of grain shipped on the Canadian Pacific lines up until October 14th, was 65,219,498 bushels, or an average of 1,455 bushels per car.

Some idea of the enormous increase in the quantity of grain handled this year, up until October 14, as compared with the amount handled in the same period in 1915 and 1921, can be obtained from the figures following:

Year.	Bushels Shipped.	Cars Loaded.	Bushels Marketed
1915—	43,006,880	32,336	46,540,000

St. John, N.B.—On the Shore Line division of the C. P. R. the laying of heavy rails is being continued from St. Stephen towards St. John, and it is expected that the heavy steel will be completed to Pennfield before the very cold weather sets in.

Unsuccessful candidates have the consolation of knowing that many of the world's greatest men have had the same experience. Lloyd George, Woodrow Wilson, M. Clemenceau and Orlando met a similar fate.

It is expected that the amnesia victim in Montreal who has forgotten the name of all his relatives is merely trying to escape sending them Christmas presents.

A Chicago banker attributes the increase in savings deposits in that city to the fact that the bootleggers are laying away the profits in their "wet" goods for a rainy day.

THEY WHO DANCE MUST PAY FIDDLER

People Cannot Take More Out of A City Than They Put In.

COLLAPSE IS INEVITABLE

(Copyright)

He who dances must pay the fiddler. That is an old saying which is full of truth. The primary idea in this saying, of course, is that one cannot have any pleasure without paying for it in some way, but this is not the only sense in which it may be construed. It means that we cannot pursue any foolish policy indefinitely without paying for it in the end.

No man can overtax his physical strength indefinitely without risking disaster. Dissipation or overwork may be continued for a time without any noticeable results, but if continued for a sufficiently long time the inevitable comes to pass. The laws of nature cannot be violated with impunity. If one takes out of life more than he puts in, if he tears down his physical strength faster than he builds it up, he must eventually pay the fiddler.

What is true of the laws of nature is equally true of economic laws. The people of a community may for a time tear down the commercial structure of a town faster than they build it up without meeting disaster, but it cannot be continued indefinitely. In the end they must pay the fiddler.

Exhaust Resources of Community

The person who makes his living in a community, receiving the money of the community for his labor or the products of his labor, and then spends his income outside of his community is helping to exhaust the resources of the community just as the man who expends his energy through dissipation or overexertion faster than he builds it up is exhausting his physical resources. One man may do this, of course, without noticeably affecting the economic strength of the community, but when a dozen men or women do it the effect becomes noticeable and when a hundred do it the resources of the community become exhausted to a point where collapse is inevitable. Those who are responsible for this situation may think that they have profited individually by their actions, but they have not realized that in the end they must pay the fiddler

They are the same persons who seem to be able to get through life without much effort. There are some who proceed on the theory that the world owes them a living and they proceed to collect it. They take what they can get and give nothing in return. Such persons, however, are not very numerous. Most of us pay for everything that we get. Some may have to pay more than their share and these are carrying the burden of those who get more than they pay for. The fact remains that, as a general rule, one cannot have much worth while without paying for it.

The merchants of any community are the backbone of that community so far as its prosperity and progress are concerned. Individually there may be some of them who do not exert themselves to boost their community, but collectively they are the men upon whom the living of every person in the community depends. The success or failure of an individual merchant may not be of particular concern to the people of a community, but the success or failure of the merchants as a whole is a matter of the very greatest concern.

Provide Markets for Farmers

The merchants of a town, in the first place, provide a market for a large part of the products of the farmers in the territory surrounding the town. They buy the produce of the farmers in small quantities, in accordance with their need, and some of them buy in larger quantities for shipment to foreign markets. If the merchants could not do this there would be no market at least for the small quantities except at ruinous prices. If the farmers could not realize a reasonable profit from their products, there would be no money for them to spend and there could be no money to pay for your products or to pay for your labor. It is therefore of the greatest importance to every member of the community, whether a resident of the town or a farmer in the country surrounding the town, that the merchants be enabled to provide this market for at least a part of the farmer's products.

Every dollar sent away from a town to a mail order house helps to diminish the ability of the local merchant to provide a market for the farmer's products or to do any of the many other things which the merchants of every town do for their community.

Business in a community cannot be conducted on a one-sided basis. A man cannot take out of his community a good living for himself and family and give nothing in return. He may do so for a short time and get away with it, but in the end he must pay the fiddler.

PREMIER PAYS $750,000.00 PROFIT

The Premier Gold Mining company, operating at Stewart, B.C., has declared a dividend of $750,000, according to a telegram from H. A. Guess, general manager, received by S. Norman & Co. yesterday. Payment will be made on January 3.

The forthcoming disbursement will be at the rate of 15 cents a share on the 5,000,000 shares issued. It will increase the total of dividends to $3,150,000, of which the remainder, $2,400,000, was paid this year.

R. K. Neill, of Spokane, W. R. Wilson, R. W. Wood and A. B. Trites, of Fernie, B. C., were the sole owners until about a year ago when they divided their holdings with American Smelting & Refining interests.

Several months ago the production was 7200 tons monthly, valued at $100 in gold and silver to the ton, or more than $8,000,000 annually, and it is believed it is proceeding at this rate. Crude ore is the greater part of the output, although the quantity of concentrates is important. The smelting is done at Tacoma.—Spokesman.

The liquor laws in regard to the favorite malt beverage are unchanged. The regular $5 permit has been abolished. It will cost $2 in future. The single-purchase and foreign permits have been done away with, while beer and wine permits will cost only $1 instead of $2. One drastic amendment to the Government Liquor Act provides a jail sentence for those found guilty of selling beer. Several members made a vain attempt to have this changed to a substantial fine. Another amendment is expected to wipe out the bonded warehouse; licences will cost $10,000 in future.

HEALTH TURNS THE CLOCK BACKWARD

BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

HEALTH TALK No. 23, By G. J. Parks, Chiropractor

Bronchial asthma differs from other forms only in the fact that it appears localized in the chest rather than higher up. There is a spasmodic struggle for breath that often amounts to real agony. The breath is short and painful.

The cause is pressure upon spinal nerves in the dorsal region, or upper back between the shoulders, and adjustment at this point is the only means of getting at and removing the nerve pressure which is the cause of this disease. Those suffering from this ailment frequently have a humped curve in the back-bone in the region of the neck and upper shoulders. Adjustments have been responsible for the restoration of thousands who thought themselves doomed to a lifetime of suffering.

VISIBLE RESULTS CONVINCING

E. B. Zell, an attorney, writes: "Visible results cannot be disputed and such results I have observed, both in my own case and in cases in my family. Chiropractic is a science which merits every aid. It forces recognition from the most sceptical."—Chiropractic Investigating Bureau, No. 19192.

CIVIC AFFAIRS DISCUSSED

At a meting of the Rotary Club, held yesterday, Mayor G. G. Henderson was asked to give a short talk on the financial condition of the city and civic affairs generally. As the Club is composed entirely of business men, the Mayor did not beat about the bush, but gave them a line of facts and figures which speak for themselves. He said in part—

Three years ago at a public meeting I told the electors of this city that the affairs of the city could be conducted more economically and efficiently and at less expense to the taxpayers than had ben the case for the past several years. Whether this has been the case or not during the past three years is for the taxpayer to judge.

Three years ago, there was a current account overdraft at the bank of some $30,000.00. In addition to this there were some $4,000.00 of odd unpaid accounts, many of them three and four years old.

The city was keeping five horses at a cost of over a thousand dollars a year, all of them of the full age of 21 years and some of them nearly 30. One of them died soon after of old age. The city hadn't a wagon it was safe to hitch to—no tools, no implements, practically nothing with which to do work.

Since then the city has bought and paid for a $600.00 team of horses, an up-to-date dump wagon which cost something over $300.00. A fire truck which cost over $3,500.00; two high-class work trucks which cost over $4,000.00 each; an electric motor with which to operate the rock crusher, which cost $1,000.00; a concrete mixer which cost between thirteen and fourteen hundred; a power-driven waterworks pump; no end of tools; and a $2,500 storehouse.

The old electric light system has been changed from an obselete system into an up-to-date system at a cost of $3,200.00, and made extensive additions which cost over $6,000.00.

A portion of the old, worn out wooden waterwork main has been replaced with high-class cast iron pipe at a cost of $8,000.00. These items I have mentioned, including the overdraft at the bank and unpaid accounts, total over $70,000.00.

In addition repairs and hard-surfacing a lot of the streets has been carrid out besides the work done on the sidewalks.

The total revenue for last year from all sources amounted to $119,152.00. In this connection I would like to mention that the Police Court fines for last year were $4400.00 less than in 1919. The total expenditure for the year amounted to $88,195.00. This included $12,732 under the head of ordinary public works. The fire department cost $4,793.00, which is $1700.00 less than any year prior to 1920.

The Police Department and Administration of Justice cost $6883.00, which is $2,126.00 less than at any time prior to 1920.

The schools cost $37,619.00, which is of necssity a lot more than they used to cost.

The health department of the city $2665.00, which included the keep of indigents, large hospital accounts, etc., and was double the amount provided for in the estimates for this purpose this year. Other items such as street lighting, salaries, and so forth brought the total expenditure up to $88,195.00, leaving a credit balance for the year of $30,956.42.

This has been accomplished by savings in many ways. As for instance: In 1919, the city paid the bank in interest on overdrawn current account, the sum of $3,285.00. Last year, the bank paid the city $1,432.00 interest on the same account, a difference of $4,717.00 as between 1919 and 1922. For ten years, prior to 1921, there had never been a year during which the city had not paid the bank large amounts in interest on this account.

Today, instead of the city's debenture sinking fund account being in arrears there is a surplus of $6,486.73.

Instead of an overdraft at the bank of $30,000.00, as was the case at the beginning of 1920, the city today has a credit balance at the bank of $63,013.37.

But I am sorry to say that the water works is in a deplorable condition and it will take every cent of our surplus and more to replace parts of the system that are going to pieces. We have alrady ordered $17,000.00 worth of iron pipe to be used in the spring for this purpose.

Mayor Henderson's statements of the affairs of the city were corroborated by Alex Watson, manager of the Home Bank, who spoke after him.

THE CIVIC ELECTION

Monday next is nomination day and if necessary the election will take place on Thursday.

There has been quite a lot of election talk during the past week, but the candidates for the Mayoralty Chair have finally simmered down to Mayor Henderson and Ex-Ald. Edward Marsham.

All the old Aldermen are in the field with the exception of Ald. A. Corrie. The name of Wm. Barravlough and Edwin Rutledge are also mentioned as candidates.

We understand that S. Herchmer, R. Phillips and Dr. Garner will be in the field for School Trustees and G. G. Moffatt, for Police Commissioner.

There will not be a public meeting before the election as owing to poor attendance at the civic meetings held in past years it seemed unnecessary.

THOMAS MEIGHEN IN "THE BACHELOR DADDY"

A picture which radiates happiness and which will undobtedly help many to see the finer and truer side of life is "The Bachelor Daddy," which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre, Friday and Saturday of this week. It is a picture which demonstrates the power of child love and no better selection for the starring role therein could have been made than Thomas Meighen, famous as the 'Good Luck Star.'

The story is of a man who unselfishly adopts the five motherless children of his dying pal, despite the fact that his own wedding day is but a week distant. He does not know it the time, but the little ones bring him to the realization of a greater love than he thought posible.

The work of the star in this Paramount picture is wonderful, while Leatrice Joy as leading woman acts her part with warmth and charm. Of the five kiddies—Charlotte (Peaches) Jackson, Barbara Maier, Bruce Guerin and the deBriac Twins—too much cannot be said.

HEAVY TAX PUTS BAN ON LIQUOR WAREHOUSES

VICTORIA, Dec. 30. — All except about six of the 37 liquor warehouses which have been operating in British Columbia will go out of business today.

Their disappearance will be the result of the law Attorney-General Manson had put through the legislature this month increasing the licences from $3000 a year to $10,000.

Most of the warehouses which will continue in business will be merely branches of the Consolidated Exporters corporation, which is the official name for the private liquor trust in this province, formed by the individual houses in an attempt to resist the inroads made on their business by the government. The trust will have to pay $10,000 licence fee for each warehouse.

During the last year there have been nearly 40 warehouses operating in various parts of the province.

Commencing Monday a straight jail sentence of from one to three months will be what beer sellers will get instead of merely a small fine for first offense. This is aimed at clubs as well as private bootleggers.

Next week annual liquor permits will be cut from $5 to $2 and beer permits from $2 to $1. All single purchase and tourist permits will be done away with.

LECTURE AT BAYNES LAKE

On Friday last, the Rev. W. D. Stewart, Presbyterian minister for the district, gave an address on the League of Nations in the Adolph Hall at 8 p.m. A charge for admission of 50 cents, to go to the East Kootenay Mission, was made, and there was a good attendanc, over 80 being present. The chair was taken by Capt. J. Barnard.

As an opening to his subject, the lecturer outlined the methods that had been tried for preventing war, ranging from the total subjugation of the conquered by the Romans to the Balance of Power idea employed in Europe before the recent war, and pointed out that the last-named had been as great a failure as the first. He then emphasized the fact that various eminent statesmen in the Old Country had publicly stated that, in their opinion, only the League of Nations stood between us and another immeasurably greater war a few years hence; and he earnestly warned his audience that, taking into account the enormous improvements that had been made, since the Armistice, in engines of war and chemicals destined for the destruction of human life on a huge scale, another great war would, in all likelihood mean the total extinction of our boasted civilization.

After showing how the above-mentioned opinions were borne out by the Russo-German secret agreement, details regarding which had only recently been published in the Press, Mr. Stewart went on to outline the constitution of the League of Nations, mentioned one of two defects which could be rectified, and showed what a vast work it could do if properly supported. Before concluding, he called attention to the wonderful recovery made by France and Belgium and the present deplorable condition of Austria, Germany and Russia.

In proposing a vote of thanks to the lecturer, the chairman pointed out that the keynote of the address was the personal responsibility of the individual for the success or failure of the League of Nations and all that it meant. Owing to the secret diplomacy hitherto employed, the responsibility of the "man on the street" for the recent war was limited; but no such excuse could now be urged, and, unless we all did our best to support the League of Nations, we should only have ourselves to blame for the catastrophe which, sooner or later, was bound to follow on the failure of the League.

A social evening, with military whist drive, music and refreshments, was then indulged in, during the course of which the chairman announced that the funds of the East Kootenay Mission would benefit to the amount of $42; and a most enjoyable gathering broke up at a late hour with a hearty vote of thanks to the ladies and gentlemen who had so kindly given their services during the evening, special mention being due to Mrs. Nutt at the piano, and Mr. J. Brooks with the violin.

COMMUNISTS, THE STAGE, ETC.

That fine old journal the "Boston Transcript" has been printing recently a series of articles on "The Reds in America," which if published in a less reliable and more sensational newspaper than "The Transcript" one would be inclined to doubt the truth of the statements made therein. According to Mr. R. H. Whitney, the author of the series, the Communist Party, both in the United States and in Russia, have been quick to see the excellence of both the stage and the screen as mediums through which Red propaganda could be fed the public, while at the same time no inconsiderable revenue is being derived from the stage by the Russian Communist Party or Soviet, please yourself as to the tag. It is interesting to note that when we go to the opera or the theatre and hear artists who have left Russia since the present regime came into power, we are contributing, indirectly to the support of that bloody band of murderers, Trotsky-Lenine and Co., And it comes about in this manner: All artists, singers, musicians, dancers and the like coming to this Continent from Russia have to secure permission of the Soviet Government before they are permitted to leave. With the permission, which covers all people whether Russians or not, comes a contract in writing containing three conditions: First, that the artist shall agree not to conduct propaganda while out of Russia against the Soviet regime, special preference being shown to those who will conduct propaganda for the Soviet; Second, that the artists agree to deduct from their earnings thirty-three and one-third per cent. for the benefit of the Soviet; and Thirdly, that they agree to return to Russia at the expiration of their leave. For the purpose of seeing that these demands are carried out these artists are supervised by a special committee appointed by the Soviet. This is composed of reliable members of the Russian Communist Party of America. As usual the Soviet attempts to cover up its tracks by introducing the Russian Red Cross of America as part and parcel of the agreement, but this fools no one, as this Russian Red Cross and the Soviet Government are to all intents and purposes one and the same thing.

According to Mr. Whitney many prominent movie favorites, men and women, as well as stars on the legitimate stage, in this plan to sow the seed of communism through entertainment for the public. For instance Isadora Duncan, the dancer, who it will be remembered arrived in New York some weeks ago was held up at Ellis Island pending an investigation. It so happens that it was not Isadora's morals that were under scrutiny but was a question as to whether or not she and her young Russian husband, possibly might be Communists. Of course she denied the allegation with virtriolic indignation, but all the same she is widely quoted in Communist newspapers and magazines, published in many languages, as being distinctly favored to the red handed ruffians who now control the destiny of Russia. For instance, here is a piece of it, front page, black type, in one of the Communist journals: "The martyrdom which Russia is suffering will be as fruitful for posterity as the martyrdom of Nezarene."

However, if we wish to see Communism 'hot off the pan,' Hollywood, California, is the place to look to. Among the movie picture people mentioned by Mr. Whitney as being either directly or indirectly interested in Communism in America, and Communist files have been captured which support the author's statements, are such well known screen figures producers and managers, as Charles Chaplin, Will Rogers, Norma Talmadge, Allen Holubar, Charles Ray, Joseph Schenck and Eric Von Stroheim. There are some interesting sidelights in conection with this group of names. For instance, there is Joseph Schenck the producer, and Norma Talmadge, the film star. In September last Norma Talmadge and her husband Joseph Schenck, met by engagement in Berlin one Charles Recht, a New York lawyer who defended Ludwig Martens, and who eventually succeeded Martens as head of the Soviet Russian Government representation in the United States. The three proceeded to Moscow to conclude arrangements for an extensive picture propaganda campaign. So if later on a picture appears on this continent depicting the Soviet as so many cherubins, with Lenine and Trotsky the ministering angels, and Norma Talmadge in the middle of it, you will know what it is all about. That is, of course, if it gets by Will Hays general director and censor of movies in the United States.

Russian and American Communists clearly recognize that they can "put over" things on the films in the way of propaganda that are impossible in any other form. For instance, when William Z. Foster, the salaried industrial director of the Comunist Party of America was in Los Angeles some time since, he was the guest of honor at a reception given by Charlie Chaplin, at which there were also present many radical members of the movie colony of Hollywood, and a number of parlor bolshevists. Of the latter there are many, including some of the indolent rich who have nothing better to do than travel on the fringe of movie society. In this connection it occurs to me that possibly the Comunist doctrine of free love may have a good deal to do with the enthusiasm displayed for the "cause" by the Hollywood movie colony and their friends. —Saturday Night.

VERY DIFFICULT SITUATION

The Germans proved their resourcefulness and their unscrupulousness during the war. They are now demonstrating their qualities in the same direction in the days of peace. They are said to be busy as beavers in all the arts of peaceful industry. Nothing is permitted to go to waste in the country; everything is scraped up and utilized for some purpose, if it is utilized at all. Nothing is being said about it, but the fact is that the Teutons are finding ready markets for all they produce. Notwithstanding all this, the German proclaim to the world with vehemence that they cannot meet their obligations. They are defaulting in all their signed undertakings on the ground of inability to pay.

None of the nations with the exception of Great Britain, believes a word the Germans say. National experience with the Teutons have been unfortunate. The French have an account of long standing to settle with them. The late war constitutes only one item in this account. French statesmen and French people are pondering over the possibilities of the future. They know what will happen when Germany gets upon her feet again whatever the form of government directing the affairs of the nation. We might as well face the facts candidly and admit that the French desire to keep the Germans under their feet as long as possible. They believe self-preservation demands such a course.

The Italians also have had their troubles with the Austrians, encouraged by the Germans, and they naturally sympathize with the aspirations of the French. Such are the conditions which confront Europe and will prevail in every conference that may be held to consider reparations. Great Britain has been accused of business in her schemes for the re-establishment of Europe. But in reality the British people are simple in heart and unsuspicious in disposition. They are prone to accept the word of all men and the fact does not occur to them that Germans may be different from most other men and take special credit to themselves for that fact. Under such circumstances how can an immediate settlement be expected? We fear statesmen who attend reparation conferences have a long and weary time before them.—Colonist.

LIFE WAS MISERY !

"I was reading the other day about Neurasthenia, about the large number of people who were troubled with this disease. It is just what my wife had. She felt miserable all the time and was constantly depressed. She would waken in the morning and tell me that something dreadful was going to happen that day. Life was nothing short of misery for her. She was so depressed that I expected she would lose her mind and have to go to a sanitarium and I kept wondering how I would get the money to pay for her. She could not eat and had no appetite for food. She was irritable and cranky most of the time. If she was crossed in any way, she would immediately work herself up into a violent temper. This worried me because she had always had a kind and gentle disposition and nothing which was said or done seemed to irritate her. I spoke to our family doctor about her and he said that her trouble was imagination and that if she would try and forget about her depression and look on the bright side of life she would be all right. Of course I didn't dare tell her this because I knew she would get into one of her tempers. When she got over these fits of temper, she was always weak and ill and more depressed than ever. The doctor said a tonic might help her and gave me a prescription but this did not do her any good. She tried all kinds of other tonics with the same result. Carnol was recommended to me and I wish to state that it is the leader of all tonics. Since taking it my wife has changed completely. Now she is always ready for her meals and work is no burden. It is a pleasure for me to recommend Carnol to anyone who is in need of a tonic or a body builder. Excuse me for writing this letter but I want you to accept my thanks for that wonderful tonic known as Carnol." — Mr. J. M., Toronto.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 7-622

Opponents of the mayor of Hamilton, who is a candidate for re-election are trying to make campaign capital out of the fact that his worship is a bachelor. The propaganda is said to be proving a boomerang as the widows and spinsters are rallying to his support.

Railway News

Winnipeg.—The principal officers of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Winnipeg entertained Major Wm. Kirkpatrick at dinner at the Royal Alexandra Hotel prior to his departure for Montreal where he assumes the duties of the new office to which he has been promoted as general foreign freight agent in charge of ocean service.

Lethbridge.—The requirements of the Canadian Pacific Railway for men for construction work on the Foremost line, has helped out the labor situation in the city very materially. About 80 men have been placed on this job through the local government bureau, but in spite of this 194 names appear on the idle list.

"Lethbridge is doing better than most of the western cities," said Supt. Thomas Longworth. "We are placing a few men right along, the C. P. R. helping us out greatly."

Lethbridge. — The Lethbridge "Herald" says: "Miss Doris Carter, of Del Bonita, drove into Magrath on November 6, to meet her little cousin who had travelled from Vancouver, in charge of the conductor of the C. P. R." It speaks well for the efficiency of the railway authorities, that a little girl of 11 years of age could travel so far alone in safety. Thanks are also due to the kindness of the Travellers' Aid, who took the child in charge at Calgary and Lethbridge.

Fort William.—That Fort William is rapidly getting into her pre-war stride again was shown by statistics given out to-day by Building Inspector McNamara. Before the year closes, the building permits for the 12 months will have reached $1,500,000.

Up to November 22 the total value of building permits issued for this year is $986,485, to which will be added in a few days a permit for the building of another unit to the Canadian Pacific Railway coal dock on Island No. 2, which will run into hundreds of thousand. of dollars.

St. John.—Eighteen members of the C. P. R. Investigation Department who are on duty at Sand Point during the winter season have arrived in the city. Others are expected, and with the cessation of port activities at Montreal and the shipment of all remaining freight from warehouses the full detective force will be transferred to this city. The same corps of investigation officials work at Montreal during the summer season and here at the winter port, and as the respective ports gradually open or close the C. P. R. police are transferred as the changing conditions warrant.

Moose Jaw.—Approximately five thousand bags of second-class mail are being handled in Moose Jaw at the Canadian Pacific Railway depot every day by government transfer agents. The greater part comes from eastern points and the United States.

The volume of the mail began to increase about two months ago, corresponding with the commencement of threshing operations, and it has steadily grown in proportion to the present time and it is not expected that the increasing tendency will cease until after the turn of the year. In addition to the mail actually handled here by the transfer men, baggage cars crammed full of second-class matter are daily passing through the city for points further west.

Montreal.—A new week-end cable letter service is announced by the Commercial Cable Company, connecting with the Canadian Pacific Telegraphs. The announcement will be of great interest to those who have frequent use for cables to Great Britain, as it sets forth a considerably lower rate for messages over the Commercial Company's cables.

The rates are effective immediately to Bradford, Bristol, Dundee, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Manchester, and Newcastle-on-Tyne.

From Ontario and Eastern Provinces the new rate is $1.20 for a minimum of 20 words, and 6c for each additional word.

From Manitoba: $2.20 for the first 20 words, and 10c for each additional word.

From Saskatchewan and Western Provinces: $2.20 for first 20 words, and 11c for each additional word.

To other points in the British Isles the rate will be: from Ontario and Eastern Provinces, $1.60 for the first 20 words, and 8c for each additional word.

From Manitoba: $2.40 for the first 20 words, and 12c for each additional word.

From Saskatchewan and Western Provinces: $2.60 for the first 20 words, and 13c for each additional word.

"LORNA DOONE" DECLARED BEST

Heralded by critics throughout the country as Maurice Tourneur's "greatest masterpiece" and a "thrilling dramatic spectacle of unrivalled beauty," "Lorna Doone" will open at the Orpheum Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday next.

Tourneur's fictionization of Blackmore's famous novel has attracted world-wide attention and for once the critics have forgotten to complain that "the picture is nothing like the book." While the novel has been decidedly condensed in the film version, all the main dramatic episodes which have made the book a "best-seller" for three generations have been retained and the spirit of the times has been faithfully reproduced.

For the fan unfamiliar with the novel, "Lorna Doone" offers an evening of exciting entertainment for the love story works out to a triumphant ending only after tremendous conflicts in which life itself is the stake. A spectacular fight in which one man matches his wits against the strength of a whole band of outlaws and the burning of 'Doone' village after a bloody battle are "thrillers" that would satisfy anyone.

To the book lover, the student of English classics and the educator, the coming of Lorna Doone" will be a rare treat. Tourneur has earned a reputation as an educator in the film industry and his screen versions of classical books and plays have been marked by such artistry that they have won permanent places in the film libraries of schools, churches and community houses .

Critics declare that "Lorna Doone" far outstrips even "Treasure Island" and "The Bluebird" which won Tourneur such acclaim. Massive sets, marvellously staged pageants, realistic fights and picuresque costumes have been combined wtih the lavish hand of a producer who spares no expense to obtain desired effect. The royal baptism scene in Whitehall Chapel of Westminster Abbey is said to be one of the most beautiful spectacles ever shown.

Madge Bellamy, endeared to the public by her splendid work in Thomas H. Ince's "Hail the Woman" plays the title role. With her beauty and undeniable charm, she should be ideal in the part of the gentle "captive maid of Exmoor." John Bowers, one of the biggest men physically of the screen, has been oppropriately cast for the role of "John Ridd' Lorna's lover who was the "strongest man in Devonshire." Frank Keenan plays the regal old outlaw cheif, "Sir Ensor Doone" with Donald McDonald as the villainous "Carver Doone," who meets such a horrible death in a quagmire.

THE BATTE OF THREE RIVERS

OTTAWA, Ont. — Arrangements have been made by the Department of the Interior, to erect a monument on des Forges Street, at Three Rivers, Quebec, to commemorate one of the most interesting of the minor battles that followed the American attack on Quebec by Arnold and Montgomery in 1775. In the spring of the following year many of the American troops passed Three Rivers in wretched condition and evacuation of the country seemed to be proceeding at great speed but on June 8 it was learned that an American column was marching on the town which was without a garrison or defense. A corps of volunteers was organized by Joseph Boucher de Niverville who managed to hold the enemy at bay until the arrival of a detachment of Royal Light Infantry from Quebec. A constant fire was maintained by the Canadians and the Americans were dispersed

The Americans had captured Antoine Gauthier, habitant, and obliged him to act as their guide, "Gauthier pointed out to them," says Dr. Sulte, the Canadian Historian, "the great risk of marching by the main road on account of the gunboats watching along the river and consequently he was allowed to strike through the bush to Ste. Margurite. He lengthened the circuit so well that the troops in town had time to cut a long trench in the common and plant the battery on the crest of the hill near by so as to cover the most part of the common. On June 8 the attack was made on the whole line of that trench, but the Americans were so well peppered by the rifles and cannon that they retired without renewing the attempt."

Mr. William Michelin, of Three Rivers has generously donated a piece of ground near the site of this battle. A monument is to be erected and a memorial bronze tablet placed thereon.

It may be a century or two before Europe adopts the good old Chinese custom of wiping out all indebtedness at the end of the year.

THE COSTLY COCKTAIL

Mr. Hearst is seriously concerned that Britain's bill for drink runs around $2,113,650,000 a year, or after government taxes are deducted about $1,227,180,000.

He says that Britain spends enough on liquor each year to pay for half the total war debt of the debtor nations to the United States.

Mr. Hearst need not worry. Britain's debt will be paid.

Britain's drink bill need not affect the United States in the slightest. It has no foreign significance whatsoever. But it has a domestic interest.

The Demon Rum is a costly guest.

In England and Wales 2000 pounds are spent every minute that licensed premises are open.

In Britain, during 1921, 403,000,000 pounds were spent on liquor, 111,000,000 pounds on war pensions and 27,000,000 on old age pensions.

For every 1000 gallons of milk consumed, 1800 gallons of beer were consumed.

It is a heavy economic problem that Mr. Hearst in his hatred of Britain should find stimulating rather than depressing.

It might be interesting to know just how closely the discontent which has strengthened the Labor party in Britain has been connected with liquor expenditures which are keeping workers poor.

British Columbia has its problem, too. Every month $750,000 is sent out of the province to outside industries. For every $1.25 that comes to the province through the liquor business, $2.75 goes out of the province never to return.

Aside from all moral and social considerations and from a purely economic standpoint, how long can British Columbia stand it?—Vancouver Sun.

When a nurse in a Wellesley, Mass., hospital telephoned an anxious husband that he was the father of triplets and wished him a Merry Christmas he dropped to the floor with the receiver in his hand.

Bread cast upon the water is said to return after many days. Bacon that formed part of the cargo of a freighter torpedoed during the war was recently washed ashore on the Isle of Wight.

HOPEFUL OF LEAGUE

The New York World takes a hopeful view of the future of the League of Nations. It declares that the League's importance lies not in what it can do now but in the fact that it "continues to exist."

"Let the League but hold on and it will be content," says the editor of the great American journal. "For soon or late France will settle with Germany and Germany will become a member of the League. Soon or late Europe will settle with Russia, and Russia will become a member of the League. Soon or late the American isolationists will have made all the conceivable blunders they can make, and a party committed to the League will come back prepared to accept the responsibility that America's power in the world claims.—Presbyterian Witness.

A despatch from the Coast says: "New York and London now recognizes the Premier Mine at Stewart as one of the great gold producers of the world. Another quarterly dividend aggregating one million dollars has just been declared. Competent authorities point out that that in the first year of actual operations the Premier paid nearly twice the dividends paid by the famous Comstock Lode in Nevada, in its first year. The Premier ore keeps its value with depth. Canada's three other members of the 'Big Gold Four' are Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre in Northern Ontario. London cables today tell of increasing interest in B.C. mining properties."

THE FRUITS OF PLAN AND WORK

Members of the Royal Irish Constabulary disbanded when Ireland became a Free State, have started a settlement in Canada, and have already achieved marked success.

Entering British Columbia, first with a senior officer in advance, then with a number of former rank and file, they have developed into a formidable aggregation of settlers, growing fruit near Kamloops, erecting buildings, establishing telephone lines and in general laying out a first-class community settlement. And the tale of their "invasion" is decidedly interesting.

First the former Divisional Commander R. F. Cruise, who personally investigated a number of settlement opportunities in the Empire before he finally decided that the properties of the B. C. Fruit Lands Company, comprising 3000 acres near Kamloops and of which H. F. Mytton is resident director, would suit best the needs, ambitions and capabilities of the former R.I.C.'s.

Recommending the project highly to the remainder of the disbanded force still in the Old Country, Cruise himself purchased a tract and was soon joined, not only by several former officers but by a number of former constables. Those who were sufficiently fortunate to possess means bought fruit lands; those who could not, sought positions in other lines of industry until they could save money enough to make a first payment.

These efforts, fortunately for the ambitious newcomers, were aided by the fact that as former members of the R.I.C. they drew pensions that are not inconsiderable.

For instance, Captain Bryne, then in England, through former officers here purchased six acres of fruit-bearing land at $750 and acre and soon after his arrival, took off 1000 boxes of choice McIntosh apples and 400 boxes other apples, the whole affording him a profit estimated at twenty-five per cent.

On the other hand, Captain Fenton, one of the members of the "colony" who recently purchased a tract, had previously toiled in a B.C. cannery from twelve to fifteen hours a day in the rush season, walking three miles to and from work each day until he managed to save sufficient money to secure land and the latter became fruit bearing.

Again, many of the new settlers have purchased non-bearing lands; planted the tract and have taken jobs on farms and ranches until the holdings begin to bear fruit. Men now industriously developing the settlement, owning their own homes and "industries," embryo employers have, in order to get a start, worked as apple pickers, boxmakers, cow punchers and farm laborers—an experience that is proving decidedly valuable. Thus a party of them hav just completed the erection of a telephone line from the settlement to the trunk line leading to Kamloops.

Needless to say, co-operation is the keynote of the settlement, a fact that —to cite one instance—was demonstrated strongly when these fruit growers assembled recently and built a community fruit packing plant close to the railway through which to prepare their produce for market.

A large number of former R.I.C. officers and constables still in the Old Country are expected to come to the settlement in the near future and, in addition, the success of the enterprise has attracted a number of ex-army and navy officers.

And through it all runs three words that form a whole sermon to the intending settler in Canada—"Plan and work."—J. J. Larkin in the Saturday Night.

WHO FIRST FELT "LIKE A FIGHTING COCK"?

COCK-FIGHTING was born with the cocks.

But it is only 80 years ago that the first man felt "like a fighting cock!"

Now he has brothers, sisters, nephews, nieces, all over the world —all feeling "like a fighting cock!"

It happens this way: A person half sick with bad stomach, dull and heavy headache, takes Beecham's Pills just before going to bed. Immediately the Pills begin to harmonize the digestive and eliminative organs.

Consequently, this person has a good night's sleep and arises in the morning with clear brain, bright eye, keen appetite, and full of energy for work and play.

It is now just 80 years since Beecham's Pills first began correcting disordered stomachs and stirring sluggish livers and bowels to natural activity — and feeling "like a fighting cock" is associated as inseparably with Beecham's Pills, as the pills are with good health.

TELLS MOTHERS HOW TO TREAT CHILD'S COLDS

The Direct Action of a Vaporizing Salve is Best

Treat one cold with Vicks VapoRub and, as in the case reported below, you will adopt this external method for all the cold troubles of the family.

When the little one comes in wet and snifling, just apply Vicks over throat and chest and cover with a flannel cloth. Repeat at bedtime.

Vicks acts like a liniment or plaster. In addition, its ingredients, vaporized by the body heat, are inhaled all night long.

The child is usually better next morning and the bad after-effects of internal dosing are avoided. Just as good, of course, for adults.

Mrs. Wm. White, 44 Sebastopol St., Montreal, Que., writes: "I find Vicks splendid. I used it for a headache and sore throat and also used it on baby for bronchitis and when I called in the doctor he said it was the best thing I could have done. I have recommended it to others and they have used it. I apply it freely to the affected parts and leave it to do its work."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, Que.

Over 17 Million Jars Used Annually.

THE TWISTER AND THE BOOSTER

When the creator had made all the good and beautiful things, in order that they might be truly appreciated, he then made the beasts and reptiles and poisonous insects.

When he had finished he had left over scraps that were too bad to put in the rattlesnake, the hyena, the scorpion or the skunk; so he placed all these together, covered it with suspicion, wrapped it with jealousy, marked it with a yellow streak and called it a twister.

Then, as compensation for this fearful product, he took a sunbeam and put it in the heart of a child, the love of a mother, the brain of a man, wrapped these in civic pride, covered it with brotherly love, gave it a mask of velvet, and a grasp of steel, and called it a booster.

He made him a lover of fields and flowers and manly sports; a believer in equality and justice.

Ever since these two were created, mortal man has had the privilege of choosing his associates.—Exchange.

QUEBEC IN WINTER TIME

(1)—The Chateau Frontenac stands sentinel over Old Quebec. (2)—The Toboggan slide on Dufferin Terrace, Quebec. (3)—Bobsleighing is a popular sport at Quebec. (4)—Quebec Skiing maid pauses to take in the beauty of her environment.

OVER all the world there's not another place like Quebec. Its beauty and its old-world charm have made it famous everywhere. Three hundred years have passed since first it began to be, and each one of those years has left its mark upon the town until it has become a storehouse of Canadian history. It is a place for all the world to visit, and yet it is, perhaps, less well known to Canadians than it is to Americans who every year come north to see it when summer suns bathe its bold outlines, or when winter snows crown the lofty citadel and the town's many spires. It is in winter that Quebec is at its best. At no other time is it so characteristically Canadian or so typically French and it is in winter that Quebec most enthusiastically throws open its doors to invite the world to see how joyously splendid winter in Canada can be.

Sitting high upon the famous rock and overlooking the wide sweep of the St. Lawrence, and the snow covered Laurentian hills the Chateau Frontenac, always a fitting crown to the splendid scene is now made still more so by the addition of a town that will double the accommodation of this famous hotel. On a winter night there is no more perfect scene. The thousand lights of the upper and lower town glint on the snow and above them all hang the graceful outlines of the Chateau, every lighted window telling of the comfort and gayety that waits within.

The interior of the Chateau is in perfect keeping with the historic charm of the ancient city, while its appointments and cuisine are the last word in comfort and modern excellence. It is one of those places where home comforts are combined with the conveniences of the up-to-date hgh class hotel.

Arrangements have been completed for Quebec's program of winter sports and as the season has set in with plenty of snow the program may be said to be already under way. A triple chute toboggan slide has been erected to extend from the top of citadel rock down to the terrace and along to the main entrance of the Chateau, and night after night it is crowded with happy parties of tobogganers. The skating rink on the terrace with its warm dressing rooms is a constant source of delight to guests and not a few of the men have already begun the winter's program of curling on the covered rink. The snowshoe and skiing clubs of the city have their programs of events well under way, and there are endless opportunities for the guests to participate in the outdoor sports. Snowshoe tramps, skiing events, and sleigh driving are daily occurrances and these are organized under the direction of a sports-master whose business it is to see that visitors to the city have every opportunity of taking an active part in the sports if they so desire. Curling will be a special feature this winter, partly as a result of the visit to the city of the visiting Scotch Curlers early in January and on the night of January 31st a parade of snowshoers and a fireworks display will form an outstanding event.

The per capita consumption of fruit in Canada is reported to be rapidly increasing. The trite expression "an apple a day will keep the doctor away" may not be literally true, but the habitual eating of fruit and more fruit pays dividends in both health and happiness.

Railway News

Vancouver.—Three hours after the Queen of the Pacific, Empress of Canada, Capt. A. L. Hailey, had made a graceful landing at C. P. R. pier A, se[illegible] 2, a long train with her valua[illegible]lk cargo rolled out of the yards on its way to eastern points. The magnificent ship was tied up about 4 p.m. and a battalion of stevedores got all the silk in the cars and out of the yards at 7 p.m., 24 hours ahead of a similar cargo on board the President Madison, which left Yokohama the same day as the Empress of Canada.

Montreal.—Calls at Belfast on both the eastbound and westbound trips of Canadian Pacific liners sailing between Montreal and Glasgow, instead of only on the westbound trips as at present, and more extensive use of Southampton as a port of call for passenger traffic, are innovations planned by the Canadian Pacific Steamships, Limited, for the 1923 season.

The calls at Belfast on eastbound trips are an inauguration of a new passenger service from Canada to Ireland. This service will be maintained by the steamships Metagama, Marburn and Marloch, and will commence with the sailing of the Metagama from Montreal, bound for Belfast and Glasgow, on May 3. This will be the first Canadian Pacific sailing from this port in 1923.

Winnipeg.—With the completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway line from Acme to Drumheller, Alta., last month, five new mines were put into operation along this line, according to Charles Murphy, general manager of western lines.

The coal mined is of excellent quality for domestic use and should remove any danger of coal shortage in the west this winter, Mr. Murphy states.

Evidently the farmers of the district are not confronted with the fuel problem, for Mr. Murphy, while travelling through the district, noticed farmers filling their wagons with coal dug up with shovels.

Lethbridge.—Jurisdiction of the Lethbridge division, Alberta district, Canadian Pacific Railway, was extended far inside the western borders of Saskatchewan when the Lethbridge operating department of the railway took over on December 11 the operation of the newly constructed portion of the Lethbridge-Weyburn line. The Lethbridge division now extends to the town of Shaunavon, Sask., half way between Lethbridge and Weyburn, 122 miles east of Manyberries, which has been the end of the steel on the west, and the territory of the Lethbridge division now covers 725 miles of line from Crow's Nest to Shaunavon and from Calgary to the border.

Owen Sound.—Joseph Lee, section foreman on the C. P. R. at Dundalk for seven or eight years, has been appointed section foreman at Orangeville and has moved to that town. Just before his departure from Dundalk Mr. Lee received a cheque for $25.00 from the C. P. R. representing the amount of the prize offered by the Company to the Superintendent having the best kept section on the Bruce division. Six years ago Mr. Lee was the winner of the Roadmaster's prize.

Ottawa.—Ottawa loses a popular citizen, and an able railwayman in Mr. F. P. Tinker, district freight agent for the Canadian Pacific Railway for several years, who has just received a promotion. On the first of the year Mr. Tinker takes up the position of district freight agent for the Canadian Pacific and associated lines in Detroit. These lines include the Canadian Pacific Steamship Co., the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway, the Duluth South Shore and Atlantic Railway and the Spokane International Railway.

Mr. Tinker came to Ottawa on December 1st, 1916, from St. John, N.B. He started railway work on the old New Brunswick Railway on Oct. 7th, 1887, and was taken over by the C.P.R. when the company purchased the road and has been with the company ever since.

Mr. C. S. Morse, of Toronto, a well known C.P.R. man, has been transferred to Ottawa to take over Mr. Tinker's duties. Mr. Morse arrived in Ottawa on December 26th.

Chatham, Ont. — "Speed-mania" has again broken loose in the city and unless some strong steps are taken to eliminate this craze it will gain a strong foothold in the city, declared Chief of Police Groves.

A complaint was laid to the police by the C. P. R. to the effect that an automobile going south on William St. at a considerable rate of speed struck one of the north-side gates which had just been lowered for an oncoming train and completely smashed it.

The tower-man, realizing that one of the south gates was liable to be similarly treated by the speeding motorist, raised these gates at a considerable speed, being just quick enough to make a passage for the speeding motorist. The number of the car was secured by one of the local section crew and turned over to the police.

"The driver of the car will be charged with reckless driving," stated the Chief. "It is high time that we take decisive steps to prevent any accidents which can be directly traceable to reckless driving."

According to a trade report, the gasoline motor is rapidly replacing Old Dobbin, both on the farm and in the city. It is stated that he brings less than one-half of his valuation of two years ago. An analysis made of recent auction and private sales in an eastern province shows that horses compared with from $150 to $200 two have brought an average of $90 each, years ago.

MAN'S WILL POWER MAKES HIM VICTOR

When it comes to a distance of over a hundred miles, a man, walking, can beat a horse every time, says a writer in Onward. A man has covered a distance of a hundred miles on foot in less than thirteen and a half hours —no horse ever equalled that feat.

P. Fitzgerald, an Englishman, in 1884, did five hundred miles in one hundred and nine hours, eighteen minutes and twenty seconds—no land animal ever began to make a record approaching that.

Another Englishman named William Gale walked one thousand miles in one thousand consecutive hours—this again was a feat no four-legged animal could accomplish—because mere muscle and animal strength does not count against man's determination, will power and spirit.

In swimming the same facts hold good. Although a dog can beat a man for a short distance, he could not swim for twenty miles, and it is the same with every act of endurance, a man has something within him stronger than flesh and blood and muscle, he has the brain to say "I will" and that does not allow him to admit defeat. It is so in every capacity of life. That "I Will" is the magic that makes failure impossible, that wins battles great or small, that makes is possible for us to accomplish any ambition that we set for ourselves. The first thing each morning if we would say to ourselves "I Will" do the very best I know in every task that faces me today, "I Will" be man enough to stand up for the right and 'play the game according to the rules' —we would soon grow in strength and have the self-confidence that would make us laugh at troubles and obstacles, knowing that we had the magic power to overcome any handicap the game of life might offer.

DIED AND CAME TO LIFE AGAIN

Hong Kong. — Thirty years ago Chin Gee Hee was a humble storekeeper in Seattle, who probably spent much of his time wondering where his next meal was coming from. Today he is "King of Southern China."

And it is all because, according to his own story, he died when he was forty-six and was sent back from heaven to live a more useful existence than he previously spent.

There is a big bronze statute at Sunning as a perpetual reminder that Chin Gee did his duty when he came back to earth. He built a railway from Kongmoon to Sunning, in Southern China, and in the eyes of the peasants of that country Mr. Chin is something more than a mere story-book saint.

He is seventy-six now, but he claims that during his brief sojourn in heaven he was told that he would live 104 years. Just how long he lived in Seattle not even Chin Gee Hee remembers exactly, but he still possesses an illuminated address presented to him by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. He made money while in Seattle, but he also lost most of it, and when he returned to China he had to sell his home to pay his employees.

After that, at the age of forty-six Chin Gee Hee "died." That, at any rate, he declares to be the positive truth. In heaven, he says, they told him they were not ready for him and they suggested that he return and build the Kongmoon-Sunning railroad. Chin took the hint and shortly after his "resurrection" he became surprisingly prosperous and successful. The building of the railroad was only one of his achievements.

He prefers kings to presidents, declaring to interviewer: "Presidents no good. Americans kill three presidents. People like king all same England. See Prince of Wales walk all over earth and no one shoot him."

His idea for the economic salvation of China is that everyone in the country should contribute on the basis of one dollar a head, the rich paying enough to meet the shortage of money from the poorer classes.

LOCAL MARKETS ARE ESSENTIAL

Equal Responsibility For Their Support Rests Upon The Farmers and Merchants.

MUST ASSIST EACH OTHER

Prosperity of Community Depends Upon Each of These Two Classes Buying Products and Goods of Each Other.

(Copyright)

The first essential in the development of any business is the possession of a market. The manufacturer must have a market for his products or he cannot succeed no matter how valuable those products may be or how efficiently his plant may be operated. The wholesale merchant and the retail merchant may have the choicest stocks of goods, but they may as well go out of business if they have not a market where they can dispose of their stocks. The farmer may produce bumper crops, but they will rot upon the ground if he cannot find a market for them. The wage earner's skill and muscle bring him no returns unless there is a market for his labor.

The question of markets is the big one in every line of business and in every community the question is vital one. In each community, which must be taken to include not only all the people who live in the town but the farmers who live in the surrounding country as well, there are two sides to the market question. The business men of the town must have a market for the things which they have to sell. Otherwise they cannot continue in business. At the same time the farmers must have a market for the things they raise or they may as well go out of business.

When Either Fails Both Suffer

The merchants of the town can provide a market for the products of the farmers and the farmers can provide a market for the goods which the merchants have to sell. As long as each class of citizens provides a market for the other class all is well and the goose hangs high, but when either class fails to provide a market for the other the goose is cooked, not only for the class which is deprived of the market but for the other as well

The farmer has a right to expect the town which is his natural trading point to provide a market for his products, and the town is not performing its proper function as the trading centre of its community if it does not see that such a market is provided. The responsibility of looking after the fulfillment of this obligation rests largely upon the merchants of the town. The farmer is a producer and he must dispose of his products before he can become a consumer. It is, therefore, not only right but necessary from a business standpoint that the merchants should aid the farmer in turning his products into money. Otherwise the farmer naturally will have no money to spend in the stores of the town.

Obligation on Farmers

On the other hand, the merchants of the town have a right to expect the farmers to provide a market for the merchandise which they have to sell, and the farmers are not doing their duty to their community if they do not provide such a market. In this case, also, it is not only right, but it is necessary to the prosperity of the farmers that they should aid the merchants in turning their merchandise into cash. Otherwise it is obvious that the merchants will have no money with which to buy the products of the farmers.

This is a double-barreled proposition and the obligation rests equally upon both the merchants and the farmers to maintain markets which are essential to both classes of citizens. Any town which would import from points hundreds of miles distant the farm products which it could buy at home would be pursuing a very short-sighted policy, for it would be making it impossible for the farmers in its territory to buy the goods of its merchants. As a matter of fact no town does this unless it is forced by unusual conditions to do so. A town may be located in a community which is not productive enough to meet the local demands, and in that case it is forced to import farm products, but the town which is compelled to do this is at a disadvantage from a commercial standpoint unless it is essentially a maunfacturing town, in which case its products are sold to other communities and bring in enough cash to offset that which is sent away to purchase the farm products.

Must Have Outside Business

In the average community, however, the town is dependent for its prosperity upon the money received from the farmers in the ordinary channels of trade, rather than upon that obtained from the sale of its own products. In the average town the merchants cannot make money and continue in business if they are dependent solely upon the people of the town for their business.

No business can last long with "everything going out and nothing coming in," and it is equally true that no business can be operated on the principle of "everything coming in and nothing going out." To maintain the balance which is necessary to the maintenance of prosperity in a community there must be an even trade between the business men of the town.

Britain's Financial Recovery

The paramount cause for the speed in the British monetary recovery lies in the retention of the financial leadership of the world in London. This insures the bringing of lucrative orders for British goods from the four corners of the globe. It also gives British factory owners superior facilities over those of other countries in the financing of their foreign sales. This is an essential element in the expansion of modern trade.—Windsor Border Cities Star.

CONDEMNS BANKRUPTCY LAW

The movement which is beginning to shape itself in oposition to the present Bankruptcy act is bound to become stronger and more formidable. If the federal parliament does not repeal this law, the Hon.. Mr. Taschereau, prime minister of Quebec, declares that the provincial government will have it carefully examined by leading lawyers, and if they agree that the law is unconsitiutional the province will appeal to the supreme court to have it so declared, and if it should be necessary appeal will be carried to the privy council. The old system of abandonment of property that was formerly in force in the province of Quebec was certainly ten times better than the present system, which is an encouragement to dishonesty.—La Presse.

What If Greenland's Icy Mounts Became as India's Coral Strand?

LONDON.—The earth is wobbling on its axis, according to Colonel P. Jensen, the Danish scientist who returned recently from a degree measuring expedition into Greenland. He reports that Greenland is moving westward at the rate of twenty yard a year. This seems to confirm the recent reports of surprising climatic changes of the North Pole.

It is now established that there is a periodic shifting of the latitude of the North Pole. The movement is difficult to detect because of the small area of the Pole—about the size of a tennis court. Some authorities say that the poles are gradually changing their position, and that this alteration to the world's axis will in time mean that regions which are at present ice bound will become warm and habitable countries.

LINCOLN'S INN

There is not so much of old London left that we can afford to neglect the quiet retreats and pleasant places which are maintained for us by the Inns of Court—the spacious lawns of the Temple, the broad walks of Gray's Inn, and the shady garden which has grown out of Lincoln's Inn Fields—and the traditions which each of them cherishes Each has its peculiar charm; and if the Temple appeals most strongly to the historian and the antiquary it has a rival in the younger Inn, which takes its name from the Earls of Lincoln, who once had the site for their London seat. Even the man who knows his London well is often unaware of the many treasures which the big square still possesses in the old town houses of a Stuart court, which are now tenanted by lawyers—painted ceilings, panelled walls, carved staircases and such things.—Westminster Gazette.

A Boston paper says that Americans would have a clearer conception of the Dardanelles situation if the Turks were astride the Panama Canal.

GOITRE

HEALTH TALK NO. 128

By G. J. Parks—Chiropractor

Goitre is a swelling of the thyroid gland. It is usually accompanied by stomach weakness. There are several varieties of goitre. The watery type is easily and quickly subdued, but the other varieties are more stubborn in yielding to Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments.

The cause is removed by adjustments of the spinal bones affecting the nerve impulses to the thyroid gland and the stomach. When such adjustments are followed through to the point where the spinal nerves are freed of the pressure caused by the disturbed alignment of the spinal joints, the normal flow of nerve impulses restores a normal condition. In other words, NATURE cures it.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

News of a terrible tragedy at Bellevue this week, reached the police here yesterday. Chas Worth, a former resident of West Fernie, where his wife and family reside, in a quarrel with his son, Edwin, who has been living with him at Bellevue, shot and instantly killed the boy.

The murder took place on Tuesday morning and the father remained in the house with the body all that day and on Wednesday morning when some neighbors approached the building he attempted suicide by shooting himself.

He was conveyed to the Bellevue hospital where he lies at the point of death, with no hope entertained for his recovery. The family in Fernie are grief stricken by the shock of the double tragedy.

MICHEL MINERS BACK AT WORK

FERNIE, B. C., Jan. 8.—After four days' idleness, striking Michel miners returned to work today, following a visit of Charles Peacock, secretary of the miners' union, to the camp.

This action will now permit negotiations between local union officials and the Crow's Nest Pass company, as the company had refused to discuss the grievance until work was resumed.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE GAMES

Owing to the mild weather of the past week or so, the rink management have not been able to hold their ice; consequently the city hockey league games did not get started last Monday evening as advertised.

It is hoped that the weather man will favor them with more favorable hockey weather and that with Ingram's 150's pitted against the Northern; we will be treated to a fixture on Monday night, January 15th, and feel sure it will be worth witnessing.

Both teams are anxious to get away, so you are assured a closely contested game.

The league needs your enthusiastic support; so be on hand at Monday night's game. They had great things in view this season, but the weather has been very disheartening; Kimberley, Cranbrook, Coleman, Blairmore and the Calgary Hustlers have been on their program for weeks, and it is hoped that they get in to enable them to show their wares against these invaders. Don't forget next week's fixtures; Monday night: Ingram's 150 vs Northern, referee, R. McLeod. On Thursday the Coal Co. and the Bluebirds are billed to clash. Games at 6.30 p.m.

Keen Mayoralty Race

Yesterday was fine election weather and keen interest was taken in the Mayoralty contest. Mayor Henderson was backed by a strong working committee of business men and it was thought that he would win easily, but Ed. Marsham also had his friends, who worked tooth and nail for their man and every available voter was taken to the polls.

From three o'clock until closing time, the returning officer and his staff had barely an idle moment, with the result that the largest vote ever polled in a civic election was registered.

Intense interest was taken in the count, Marsham led the Mayor all the way through until over 600 ballots had been counted and at one time was leading by sixteen. But the last fifty ballots were disastrous for him and the Mayor gradually drew away from him until he was leading by the narrow margin of eleven.

Not much interest was taken in the contest for Aldermen as only one candidate, William Savage, a comparatively unknown aspirant for municipal honors, came out against the citizens' ticket.

Dr. Garner was elected by acclamation to serve on the Board of School Trustees for this term.

The Annex Sewer Debenture By-Law, which needed a three-fifths majority, was carried by the small margin of 20.

Following is the results of the voting:—

ANNEX SEWER DEBENTURE BY-LAW

The electors of Fernie in the re-election of Mayor Henderson as chief magistrate of the city of Fernie have shown their good hard horse sense. Ed. Marsham is a fine fellow, but without business experience sufficient to handle the work of a corporation of the size of Fernie.

There is a lot of work to be done during the coming year, which will even tax the knowledge and experience of Mayor Henderson, and it would have been a mistake, indeed, to have placed this work in the hands of an inexperienced Mayor.

However, the election results surely must give Mr. Henderson a lot of food for thought. If a man with a teamster's experience can give him such a run, there must be several reasons. If Mayor Henderson will make a study of these reasons and use a little more tact and diplomacy in the handling of city affairs in general and city employees in particular, he will not have to worry very much on election day.

The voters are always willing to back a man whom they think is working for their interests, but that man must use a little judgment and handle things in a fair way and he must also remember the electors are not always grasping for the last cent.

For instance: The diversion of the hospital grant into other city channels was to the minds of most people a reprehensible thing. The ratepayers of the city do not want their taxes cut down or a surplus piled up at the expense of the hospital.

RETURNED MEN ENTERTAINED

Nearly three hundred veterans of the Great War and other campaigns, were the guests of honor at a Banquet given last Tuesday evening in the basement of the United Church, by Mr .and Mrs. W. R. Wilson. The basement was specially decorated for the occasion with red, white and blue bunting and with the flags of the British Empire, and the manner in which the candle-lit tables were set, was a work of art.

The Rev. W. F. Burns, acting as Chairman for the evening, opened the proceedings with the one minute silence period, now emblematic of the deep feeling towards the fallen heroes, and followed this with the blessing. Dinner was then served and knives and forks reigned supreme for an hour, but, even after every one had been satisfied, several platters passed around in an unsuccessful attempt to tempt the diners to start afresh on the turkey. At the close of dinner, the Chairman proposed a toast to the King, after which the entire gathering sang the National Anthem.

In his opening remarks the Chairman, Mr. Burns, stated that he thought Mr. Wilson should occupy the chair, but the host of the evening had requested him to act, stating that he wished a quiet evening so that he could really enjoy the various parts of the program. He welcomed all returned men to the hall, and stated that all felt deeply grateful to Mr. Wilson for providing such a sumptuous banquet and also giving the returned men full opportunity to meet one another again. He stated that owing to the length of the program, it would be necessary to curtail all speakers to five minutes each and that no encores would be possible on the musical part of the entertainment.

The program for the evening was featured by splendid singing and music, and as one speaker aptly remarked, "Fernie needs no radio phone to 'Listen in" on famous stars, as long as we have such a galaxy of talent as provided the musical part of the program"

The first item on the program was a song by Miss Dicken, entitled "Whisper and I Shall Hear," and it was when she finished that the audience felt the meaning of the "no encore" order from the Chairman.

Major Moffatt, was then called on for an address. He was rather taken by surprise in being asked for an address, he stated, and would therefore simply confine hemself to expressing heartfelt thanks to Mr. Wilson for giving him opportunity to be among so many of his war-time comrades again .

The next speaker called upon was Mr. H. A. Bryant, ex-President of the G. W. V. A., and he also expressed thanks to the host for opportunity to be present at such a gathering and also for the excellent dinner that had been provided them. He announced that the Great War Veterans were about to start on a Dominion-wide campaign to help the dependents of the disabled and fallen comrades of the Great War and strongly urged all returned men to join the Association and help in this great work. He also wished to take the opportunity to point out the sterling assistance the Association had been receiving from the Women's Auxilliary and from the I.O.D.E., and to thank them for the splendid work they had done.

Mrs. N. E. Suddaby provided the next item when she renedered "Ros-

Dr. S. Bonnnll, was then called upon by the Chairman for an address. He stated that on behalf of the members of the G.W.V.A., he wished to express appreciation to the donor of the dinner. Every ex-service man, he stated, knows that in Mr. Wilson he has a real friend in Mr. Wilson certainly appreciated that fact.

He went back to the war days, and to the times when he was listening for "Come to the Cook House Door, Boys," but never had he answered that call and found such a spread waiting him. He thought of the many faces who were missing from the banquet table, and stated that the G.W.V.A. stands for service towards the dependents of those comrades. When he was representative for this district at Ottawa, he was in a position to verify that statement and he knew positively that the G.W.V.A. were carrying out this work.

World-War veterans, he stated, would not sell their experiences overseas for anything and should the time come that their services should be required again, the veterans would be ready to come forward as they did before.

Bernard Caufield, of Coal Creek, was the next speaker called upon and he started out with a couple of rather good stories that kept the gathering holding their sides. He outlined the coal mining industry, and told how during the war, the production of coal was so fundamental that the Government stooped miners from joining the colors so that the coal supply would not be depleted.

"My Old Shako," a song by Wesley Owen, followed and delighted the entire assembly.

Thomas Uphill, M.P.P., then spoke for a few minutes and stated that Fernie had a war record to be proud of, and it was to her credit in having such a citizen as Mr. Wilson to come forward and remember the boys in the manner he had done, and that in all his personal experiences he had always found Mr. Wilson ready and willing to give what aid he could to the veterans.

A violin solo by Mr. Alex Watson was the next item on the program, and his "Scotch Melodies" was received with great applause and the Chairman was compelled to make an exception and request Mr. Watson for an encore.

D. F. Markland, secretary of the G.W.V.A. then outlined the work of the local branch and stated that during the clean-sweep campaign the Fernie Branch had secured no less than seven thousand dollars in outstanding pensions, gratuities, etc., for returned men. These, he stated, were not confined to members of the Association but any claim of any returned man placed before the Association had been attended to without question. He made an appeal to all unaffiliated ex-service men to join the organization and help this work along. They hope to be able to do even greater things in the coming year and wished to see every ex-soldier a member of the G.W.V.A. by the spring of 1923.

Mrs. Alex Watson, then favored the gathering with a song entitled "Humoresque," in such a manner that it was only with difficulty that her audience were subdued in their clamors for an encore.

Mr. Burns then called upon Mr. Clem Stubbs for an address. Mr. Stubbs stated that he was very grateful to Mr. Wilson in giving him the opportunity of meeting so many of his comrades, many of whom in all probability he would have never been able to meet otherwise. While Dr. Bonnell, he stated, believed that a great number of men would join the colors in the case of hostilities, he thought there would be a great number who would rather not. War, he said, was a terrible thing, and that he hoped the job which the veterans had started would be finished without their further aid.

The last musical item on the program was a song entitled "Last Night" by Mrs. T. R. Laws and was received with great applause. Mrs. Jas Broley and Miss Dorothy Garner acted as accompanists for the singers in a very able manner.

Mr. A. I. Fisher, K.C., in a short address, thanked Mr. Wilson for the dinner and humorously remarked that all that was left for him to do now was to take all the slack out of the coal and to dump all the rock far over the hill. He also wished to thank the musical stars and said that as long as we had such musical talent in Fernie we needed no radio phones here. He envied the veterans in their having taken so great a part in the World War, and now was pleased to see they were discussing the great community problems, and hoped that if we did not see the time, our children would, see a Federation of the World.

Mr. Herchmer was then called upon but stated that he had very little to say and would confine himself in stating that he was proud to be a guest and that everyone, he was sure, had a splendid evening, the banquet had been beautifully served and all were grateful to Mr. Wilson for the banquet he had provided. In Mr. Wilson, he added, the returned men had a staunch friend, always ready to hear and help them.

Secretary Markland of the G.W.V.A. then proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Wilson and without waiting for a seconder, the entire gathering broke out into spontaneous applause and cheering.

The Chairman then called upon Mr. Wilson for an address. Mr. Wilson assured the ex-service men that it afforded him the greatest pleasure to be able to be with them and regretted that Mrs. Wilson was unable to also be present. His memory went back, he said, to past banquets and the times when he was bidding young men good bye, and a feeling of sadness come over him when he though of those who were still "over there," some of those faces came back to him vividly, and the various songs and speeches throughout the evening had failed to shake off this feeling.

The banquet, he considered, was part of his duty to the returned soldiers who have obligated every member of the community to a debt of gratitude which would be hard to wipe out, and hoped for another opportunity to go more fully into the obligations of the community to the veterans.

In reviewing the various speakers, he rather facetiously remarked that if he was to comply with Mr. Fisher's request, that he take all the slack, the "gas" producing body, out of the coal, he would really feel sorry for some of the local speech-makers, as it would be sure to prove injurious to their effectiveness.

He reviewed the coal mining industry in America, telling how two men got chased out of Philadelphia after selling a boat load of anthracite coal for fuel, which the Quakers failed to ignite, and ultimately was broken up and put on the side-walks. Later, another two men with a similar boat load of anthracite coal persuaded a smelter to try the coal in their furnaces, but after trying all forenoon to get it to burn gave it up as impossible and went to lunch. On the return from lunch, the coal had not only caught fire but had burned so fiercely that it had melted the grates of the fire box and destroyed the brick linings. This was the start of one of the greatest industries the world has even known, he stated. The future of this country rests with three things, he added, coal production, agriculture and forests. The forests of Canada were rapidly becoming depleted and should be conserved. All through this western part of the Dominion, the mountains were rich with coal and minerals of all kinds, he stated and advised young men to take up prospecting throughout this undeveloped and even unexplored region.

He hoped for many such meetings as he believed that the best means of learning was through social contact of the right kind.

In concluding he reiterated that the purpose of the banquet was in a small way to help to remove the obligations due to the returned soldiers. He expressed thanks to the ladies for their part in serving the banquet and for the readiness in which they rallied to the call. He said that he only had to mention the fact that it was for the returned men and he was assured of hearty co-operation, the reason for this, he concluded, was that the ladies never forget the farewells of the boys going to the front.

The evening was successfully brought to a close when the large gathering stood at attention and sang "God Save the King" following which three hearty cheers were given for Mr. Wilson and another for the ladies.

Ranch," covering about 3,000 acres in Alberta, Canada, 60 miles south of Calgary, owned by the Prince of Wales, and which will be the future home of the great Shropshire sire. The Prince signs himself "E. P.", meaning "Edward Prince," and when he bought the ranch during his tour of Canada he rode the range of his prairie "dominion beyond the seas," with the Alberta cowboys, and decided that its proper moniker was "E. P. Ranch." Since then the Prince has sent a large flock of Shropshire sheep, Dartmoor ponies, thoroughbred fillies descended from Ormonde, St. Simon and Bend Or and shorthorn bulls and cows from his Cornwall, England, stock farm to the Alberta ranch. The purchase of the Shropshire grand champion was made by the Prince's representative, Prof. W. L. Carlyle, of Calgary, who attended the Chicago Exposition in quest of the best Shropshire ram exhibited. This ram, which weighs 250 pounds, was exhibited by J. C. Andrews, West Point, Ind., a director of the International.

ATTACK UPON HEAVEN

MOSCOW, Jan. 8.—The young communists, observing the Christmas of the Julian calendar yesterday launched their widely heralded "attack upon heaven" in a grotesque carnival procession that was a mockery of the world's great religions.

Thousands of Russian students did a gigantic snake dance around a great bonfire, the kindling of which before one of the principal railway stations brought the day of revelry to a close. The climax of the celebration came, however, when the young people gleefully tossed into the flames straw and paper figures representing the deities of the Christian, Mohammedan, Jewish and Buddhist religions.

The Rusian Christmas had been especially chosen by the young communists as the occasion for shattering by mockery the ancient yuletide story and the traditions which their organization halls as "religious myths." Hence the procession that threaded the streets of Moscow today held few reminders of the old-time celebrations of the Russian church.

Flaring stars of red, burlesque of the star of Bethlehem, were borne aloft at the head of the parade followed by posters and banners upon which were daubed cartoons of deities and saints. No ikons, no reminders of the church processions that in the past have marked the advent of Christmas festivals were in evidence. There was music and singing aplenty but the songs were parodies of the splendid carols of the Russian church.

Goblin-like burlesque of the gods of all people alternated with other trucks upon which rode students and young women dressed as caricatures of religious dignitaries. Placards proclaimed such doctrines as "Religion is the opiate of the people" and "Man made God in man's image, not God made man in his." One truck carried an infant wearing a red cap. He was placarded as "Young Communism."

Lost in their long coats and army caps young children from the orphanage and institutions tramped through the snow led by their teachers, to watch the bonfire which their communist elders had decreed should take the place of the chimney side vigil in wait for Santa Claus.

There were no disorders; neither was there any attempt to prevent rrgular Christmas services. But here and there a street beggar evidently oblivious of the travesty wandered through the crowd whispering "Alms in the name of Christ on Christmas Day."

SWISS ARE NOT SOCIALISTIC

There is no doubt where the Swiss nation stands on the question of socialistic experiments. Information is now coming forward as to the referendum which was taken in that country early in December as to whether or not there should be a levy on capital in Switzerland. The vote stood 730,500 against and 109,400 for the Socialistic proposal. Not in one single canton did the suggestion carry, indicating that the Swiss people have some regard to their future welfare.—Saturday Night.

SUPERB COSTUMES SEEN IN "BLOOD AND SAND"

Three richly embroidered costumes weighing 105 pounds provide much of the interest attendant upon Rodolph Valentino's colorful and varied Spanish wardrobe in his new Paramount picture "Blood and Sand," by Vicente Blasco Ibenez, which comes to the Orpheum theatre soon. Thirty-five pounds each, weigh the gorgeous silver, gold and satin tornador costumes worn by the star in his appearance as "Juan Gallardo," a bull fighter of Spain. When fully dressed with the addition of his cape of pink silk, a Spanish bull fighter tinkles and rings like a battery of bells on a busy Sunday.

But the torero suits are not the only colorful features of the Valentino impersonation in this picture. There is a ragged outfit of the young street gamin with bull-fighter aspirations and the dashing gypsy costume worn at Gallardo's country place. All have been figured to display at its best the vivid, exotic touch which has created the sudden, country-wide Valentino vogue.

The Valentino genius for romantic love-making has adequate opportunity with the two widely differentiated feminine leads, played by Lila Lee, sweet and gentle, and Nita Naldi, volcanic and tempestuous, "Blood and Sand," is a Fred Niblo production, adapted by June Mathis. Alvin Wyckoff photographed. Included in the cast are Walter Long, Leo White, Rose Rosanvoa, Marlie Marstini, George Field, Fred Becker and Charles Belcher.

DESTRUCTION OF EIDER DUCK

A considerable decrease in the number of Eider Ducks, one of the most valuable of the water fowl protected under the Migratory Birds Convention Act, is reported this season by the Chief Migratory Bird Officer for the Maritime provinces. This scarcity is more noticeable along the sea coast of Nova Scotia, one of the principal lanes in the migrations of water fowl, this official states in a recent report to the Commissioner of the Canadian National Parks. Similarly in Massachusetts the Director of the Divison of Ornithology of the State Department of Agriculture in his "Notes for Observers," of November 15, remarked that Eider as well as other ducks and geese were appearing in Massachusetts water with few if any young testifying to a disastrous nesting season.

TO WIN THE CROWDS

The British Empire Exhibition, London, England, is beginning by building the world's largest stadium at Wembley. It will make the Roman Coliseum look like the Eglinton Hunt Club's stand. It will be for football.

That is the way to start an exhibition. The first thing to do is to get the crowds. Nothing draws crowds nowadays like sport. Get them to Wembley for football and you may induce them to take passing glances at Canadian cows or Australian ostriches and thus insert a little imperial propaganda into their sport-filled brains.

The lesson applies fairly generally: Take people as you find them if you want to do anything with them. Preachers, please note.-Toronto World

A real old timer in the person of John Beckett crossed the great divide on Saturday evening last after an illness of several weeks. Deceased came to Fernie with the construction in 1898 and has resided in the district ever since. The Old Timers' association turned out in a body to pay their last respects at the funeral which took place on Monday to the Fernie Cemetery. He leaves a wife who resides in Manitoba to mourn his death.

The sword of Democeles, which has been flirting over Sandy MacNeil's head for many years, at last has worn out the thread and he was cast into outer darkness on Wednesday of this week when Benchers of the Law Society of British Columbia disbarred him from further practice of law in the province of British Columbia for unprofessional conduct. Two other coast lawyers got the same medicine and three others are still on the anxious seat. The Law Society seems at last to be coming to its senses. In Alberta the other day, a judge sentenced a Calgary lawyer to seven years in the pen for misappropriating trust funds.

DRIVING OUT THE CROOKS

Unless the citizens of Quebec, the Maritime Provinces and one or two of the Western Provinces shake a foot and get some effective Blue Sky legislation on their statute books they will soon be in the unenviable position of being the last strongholds for the seller of shady or worthless securities. Ontario will without doubt place an effective "blue sky" measure on its statute books at the next session of the Legislature. Manitoba already has legislation which has been exceedingly useful in keeping out the wildcats, and there are also some protective measures in force in the other Prairie Provinces, though they require tightening up.

Of necessity, therefore, the future stampng ground of Canada of sales sharks will be chiefly the rich Province of Quebec, and in a minor degree, British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces, unless they get busy. The current number of the "Canadian Mining Journal" makes reference to the present position of Quebec and Ontario concerning these frauds. It says:

"Last winter, and previously, a flood of useless gold mining script based upon supposed mines in Northern Manitoba was poured into Montreal. The promoters could not satisfy the protective laws of Manitoba, so sought victims in Quebec, where there are no such laws. There were many victims. Not one of these properties is now a productive gold mine, and it is unlikely that any of them will ever return a dollar to the shareholders. An analogous case was the sale in Montreal recently of certain Ontario gold mining stocks that could not be sold legally in Ontario. The "Canadian Mining Journal" investigated one such case of bare-faced fraud and found that the Ontario provincial authorities, though willing and anxious to bring the culprits to justice, were unable to take any action, because, though the fake company was represented as incorporated in the province of Ontario, the fraud was being committed in the province of Quebec. There must be some measure of uniformity and of co-operation among the various provinces if the laws are to be effective."

One of the weak links in the work of putting a stop to the selling of worthless securities and other trash has been the inert, not to say slothful, manner in which the Canadian Postoffice department treated complaints made respecting the use of the mails for the dissemination of advertisements meant to deceive, and which were plainly fraudlent. However, there has been a great change for the better during the past year, or since the tenure of the present Government. The Postoffice Department is now extremely active, and when a self-evident fraud is being committed with the aid of the mails, and it is brought to the attention of Hon. Charles Murphy's department, there is action and quick action. It is only in this manner that Provincial blue sky laws can be made effective. For it may be taken for granted that anybody selling doubtful securities, and having his business interfered with by Provincial enactments, is going to do the next best thing and try the mails before he gives up the entire idea and goes to work. The hearty co-operation of the Canadian Postoffice department is necessary and I am glad to say we are getting it.

RADIO CHURCHES

"At long last" the churches are taking up the movies in a constructive way. A company has been formed on the initiative of a religious weekly, and with the support of a number of denominations in the United States, to produce and distribute films on a large scale. Ten thousand Protestant churches in North America are estimated to have their own motion-picture machines. It will be interesting to see how this field is developed by the new company.

Radio may some day be utilized by the churches—long after the commercial world has developed radio to a point where the churches have begun clamoring for a censorship. Only a few churches are as yet providing material for the big commercial distributing stations. Yet there are thousands of pastorless churches in the United States and not a few in Canada, besides the thousands of isolated families and bed-ridden persons who seldom hear a church service.

What church will be the first to provide a service for these unchurched persons by means of its own station? Perhaps this expensive task is one for the denominations. Churches that have chimes, a fine organ and choir, a stately service and a strong preacher are surely in a position to compete with other programs.—Toronto World

It is doubtful if the old witch in Macbeth stirred up more antagonistic ingredients in her seething kettle than the trouble that the diplomats are now brewing in the Ruhr basin.

THE SOVIET ARMY

Perhaps through lack of fighting or for internal reasons affecting discipline and teratment the Soviet Army is reported to be by no means the efficient instrument that it is purported to be by its authors. During late months the Moscow government seems to be unable to maintain the standing army of 800,000 men, which is supposed to be Russia's military strength. Revelations affecting the matter are contained in the Soviet newspapers. These indicate that the army is faced with disintegration. Since fighting on a great scale has been discontinued, permission has been given to Soviet troops to drive cabs for hire on the streets, using military horses; they are allowed to carry out private tailoring work, to mend linen and to hire themselves out for agricultural work. The result is that when inspections take place very often more than half the strength of the army is absent and the missing men are scattered all over the country. That means that 75 per cent of the men in the standing army are undergoing no military training, and are being left to themselves to seek their subsistence by taking any work they can find.

Another disrupting factor is the loyalty of the officers to the Soviet regime. This has often been questioned. At a recent conference of the "political staff" of the Ukranian and Crimean armies the matter of the officers' loyalty was to the fore, and it was established that apathy was growing among the Communist officers to an alarming extent. Many of them, it was found, were relinquishing their posts of their own free will in favor of better qualified officers who had served under the old regime. There is now in progress a definite combing out process in order to rid the army of its principal counter-revolutionary element, but the efforts to stop the disintegration of the rank and file seem hopeless, because the root of the trouble lies in the lack of money to keep up such a large unproductive force. The Soviet army, a "mercenary army" in the more literal acceptance of the term was never constructed for peace time employment. The realization of this has led the Soviet Government to bring into effect compulsory service as an instrument to obtain a more effective control over the population. —Victoria Colonist.

"Five years ago when I was first married I had wonderful energy. I could be on the go all day long without feeling the least bit fatigued. I had a great appetite and could eat anything. I weighed 147 pounds. I used to be busy every minute of the day and, when the day was over, I could go to bed and never waken once during the night. Thirteen months ago my first baby was born. After that my energy seemed to leave me. I was tired all the time. I had to force myself to do my household duties. Instead of being a pleasure as formerly, these duties became a real task. I lost all desire for food and nothing would tempt me. I had to make myself eat. I would go to bed at night and toss from side to side for hours at a time. After a while I would doze off only to find that I had been sleeping for ten or fifteen minutes. Naturally when morning came, not having slept, I started the day completely tired out. I was shaky and nervous. The least noise would startle me and make my heart race along. I could see that my husband was worried. I was losing weight every week and had already lost 54 pounds. I tried all kinds of tonics, but they didn't help me. One night, a night I shall never forget because it started me on the way to health and happiness again, my husband brought in a bottle of Carnol. A friend told him that Carnol had saved his wife's life, so he insisted upon my trying it. Six weeks after I began taking Carnol, my weight increased from 93 pounds to 158, an increase of 65 pounds. And, am I well these days? Every morning I fairly jump out of bed ready to tackle anything and every minute of the day is a joy to me now."

ROAD BUILDERS SEEK UNIFORM REGULATIONS

Chicago, Ill.—A movement inaugurated jointly by the Canadian Automobile Association and the American Automobile Association, endorsed by the International Traffic Officers' Association, now bids fair to result in the enactment of uniform highway regulations throughout the continent. The movement will be furthered at the approaching thirteenth American Good Roads Congress and fourteenth Good Roads Exposition, to be held Jan. 15 to 19 in Chicago under the auspices of the American Road Builders' Association. This subject is agitating the entire field of highway transportation and development at present, and the indications are that it will be brought to a head through a proposal by President T. J. Wasser, of the road builders' organization, in his address Tuesday Jan. 16. Mr. Wasser will propose joint action by the Canadian Automobile Association, the American Road Builders' Association, the American Society of Automobile Engineers, the American Automobile Association, the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, the American Association of State Highway Officials and the United States Bureau of Public Roads, and possibly other agencies with a view to working out a solution of the question.

The subject of Mr. Wasser's address will be "Highways—Their Use and Abuse." The Road Builders' president will discuss such questions as a more adequate width for roadways, marking roads with direction signs and numbers, gasoline filing stations, the billboard nuisance, and uniform traffic rules and restrictions. At present, according to Mr. Wasser, each of the nine provinces in the Dominion and 48 states in the Union, are operating its highways independently of the others, and there is conflict and confusion.

FALSE ECONOMY HAS NO VALUE

Buying Cheap Goods Just Because They are Cheap Does Not Pay

QUALITY OFTEN OVERLOOKED

(Copyright)

Economy is one of the greatest of virtues but false economy is no more a virute than anything else that is false. To be able to economize wisely is one of the greatest blessings that one can have, for it is the prerequisite to thrift and well-being. Too many persons, however, who think they have found the secret of true economy are practicing a false economy which is worse than wilful waste.

For instance, the man who buys a stove from a mail order house for $9 because he thinks he would have to pay $10 for one if he purchased it from his home merchant, is practicing a false economy, for the chances are that he would save more than $1 in the end if he purchased the $10 stove from the local hardware dealer.

There are several reasons why this is false economy. The first one is that dollar for dollar, the greatest part of the merchandise sold by the mail order houses is of less value than that sold by the retail merchants of the smaller communities. The mail order business, as a whole, is built upon cheapness. In order to attract customers the catalogue houses must sell goods cheaply and in order to do that they must sell cheap goods. Their business is built up on price and not on quality. The retail hardware dealer, like retail dealers in other lines, probably can match the prices of the mail order houses. He probably has a $9 stove which he can sell to the man who wants to get a $9 stove. The trouble is that the man who buys from the mail order house does not distinguish between price and quality.

Thinks he is Economizing

The man who buys the $9 stove from the mail order house probably would not buy a $9 stove from his local merchant, for in the latter case he would see just what he was buying and might realize that the $9 stove would not meet his needs. He orders a $9 stove from the mail order house, however, just because the price is $9 and not because he has any assurance that the stove will meet his needs. He thinks he is saving a dollar or two by buying this stove instead of paying $10 or $11 to the home merchant for one that he has seen and knows will give him satisfaction. The chances are that when the stove arrives and he has used it for a short time he will realize that he has practiced false economy—that it would have been more economical in the end for him to pay a dollar or two more to his home merchant and get an article that was guaranteed by the dealer.

The patron of the mail order house, also, often fails to take the matter of transportation charges into consideration when making his purchase. He sees only the price of the article as listed in the mail order catalogue and does not think of the express or freight charges, which, with the cost of a money order and postage often make the total cost of the article greater than the price at which the same thing could have been purchased from the local store. Another case of false economy.

Buying merchandise of poor quality because the price is low is often false economy when the purchase is made at the home stores but it is doubly so when the merchandise is bought from a mail order house. When buying at home one can be reasonably sure of the article purchased at a low price, while there is no such assurance when it is bought by mail on the "sight unseen" plan.

Idea Is Exploded

The idea that the mail order houses sell the same quality of goods at lower prices than the home merchants is quickly exploded when one learns of the large profits that are made by the majority of the mail order houses and the large selling expense to which they are subjected. The large mail order houses spend hundreds of thousands of dollars annually for advertising and the selling expenses of the smaller concerns are proportionately as large. Their other expenses, such as rent, taxes and labor, are also higher than those of the local retail merchants, in proportion to the business which they do. In spite of these heavy expenses, the mail order houses distribute millions of dollars in dividends among their shareholders. In one large mail order concern the profits of the stockholders, in cash and stock dividends, have aggregated as much as 1,000 per cent. on the capital invested in the short period of nine years. This does not indicate that the mail order houses are in business for their health and are giving away merchandise to their customers.

The mail order houses have capitalized the desire to economize that is inherent in almost every one. By placing cheapness the fundamental element in their business they have inculcated in the minds of their patrons the idea that they are economizing when they buy cheap goods at cheap prices.

THE MODEST CHINESE

Sometime during August the typhoon took 50,000 lives at and near Swatow, China. Towards the close of October the first accurate and detailed account of the disaster reached the world. The Sawtow typhoon of 1922 takes rank as one of the world's greatest disasters, but the world would have never head much about it if foreign press associations had not persisted in gathering the terrible story.

A few buildings survived the tempest of wind and rain. Some massive concrete buildings were smashed by the force of the blow. With this in mind, it is hardly necessary to say that the native city simply fell in and was wrecked. To add to the horrors, the wind broke down a sea wall and a veritable tidal wave swept in, sweeping broken vessels among the debris in the streets and drowning many. The monetary loss is estimated at $25,000,000 in the city of Swatow alone.

That was a great news story. If it had happened in almost any other great country the accounts would have filled the newspapers for days immediately following the event. But China does not act that way. The people simply organized relief work and forgot to advertise. Even while the storm raged the Chinese displayed their usual fortitude. The owner of a wrecked house, climbing down into his cellar, found his servants practicing swimming in the flooded basement! Such is China.—Toronto World.

SHE LIKES CREAMED MUSHROOMS

Mme. Kathleen Howard, contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, New York, says creamed mushrooms on toast is her favorite dish, so at once you know that the Mme. Howard is blessed with the hearty appetite of health.

Stomach power depends on motion and secretion, and these two processes so vital to digestion depend, in turn, upon 100% flow of nerve impulses from the spinal nerves. Chiropractic spinal adjustments free the spinal nerves thus allowing free access of nerve energy to the stomach and all other organs and parts of the body.

Mrs. Theo Silverton writes:—"After more than seven years of suffering, I have been completely restored to health by a course of Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments. My indigestion and palpitation give me no further trouble. It seems to me almost miraculous that under adjustments I should be restored to health and be able to enjoy life as only a well woman can.

JUDGMENT IN APPEAL CASES

On Tuesday of this week, His Honor Judge G. H. Thompson finally handed out his decisions in the eight alleged contraventions of the Government Liquor act cases in the County Court when he quashed convictions in five and upheld convictions on the other three.

These cases arose out of appeals from convictions and sentences of six months each by Stipendary Magistrate R. J. Stenson in the cases of Rex vs McKay, Altomare, Zoratti, Gallagher, McCabe, Gradzuk, Lanfear and Wodyga. The defendants were charged by operatives of the Liquor Control Board with having sold, and with keeping for sale, liquor, in contravention of the Government Liquor Act, last October, and since that time the cases have been dragging through the courts.

The McKay, Altomare ,Zoratti, Gallagher and Lanfear convictions were quashed and the defendants dismissed. McCabe, Gradzuk and Wodyga were sentenced to serve the six months in jail.

Following is the judgment in the Wodyga case and the reasons advanced by His Honor for his decision.

Reasons for Judgment

This is one of twenty-seven appeals which have been brought before me from convictions made by R. J. Stenson, Esquire, Stipendiary Magistrate, for infractions of Sections 26 and 46 of the Government Liquor Act. In these twenty seven appeals there are nine persons concerned, Ludy Wodyga, Herbert Lanfear, John McKay, Angelo Altomare, Frank Gallagher, Nick Gradzuk, Pete Zoratti, R. C. McCabe and Frances Boschuk. The appeal was allowed, by consent, in the case of Frances Boschuk. Against the others there were two, three and four charges; some for selling liquor, some for keeping for sale, some for having unsealed liquor and some for selling beer. The cases were so in interwoven with each other that I determined to listen to one charge against each person before giving judgment. This was for two reasons, firstly, there was then pending an application by way of Stated Case to the Supreme Court of British Columbia, as to the meaning of Section 47 of the Act. Secondly, I was assured the cross-examination of the various police officers and special officers engaged in obtaining the convictions, would be so long that it would be impossible to close the cases for weeks, if the same cross-examination had to take place in each case. For example the main cross-examination of Lobb, which took place in the Zoratti appeal occupied over two days. For these reasons I determined to reserve judgment in each case until I finally completed; not, however, hearing two cases against any one accused until I had determined the first case brought against him. By following this course I was convinced that my judgment would be unprejudiced. In order to give a logical judgment, I think it would be wise in the first appeal, to settle the law regard to the status of the various officers and special officers employed; and to outline the general effect which the evidence of each of them brought to my mind.

I have already laid down what I believe to be the law as to the status of these classes of witnesses, in Rex ex rel Morris vs Leask. I do not know whether this case has been reported or not. To my mind there are different grades or classes of police officers, whose testimony requires different standards of investigation and belief. In the first place we have the regular police and detective force, the members of which are, for the most part, engaged in detection of crime already committed. They do not, as a rule ,endeavor to bring about the commission of crime. Their duties and positions are well defined by Mr. Justice Creswell in Sopworth v Sopworth 4 Sw. & Tr., 243. He says:

"Police detectives are most useful. They are employed in a government establishment, they are responsible to an official superior, they have no pecuniary interests in the result of their investigations beyond the wages which they receive for the occupation that they follow, and they may be and are constantly employed not only with safety but with benefit to the public."

We then come to the next class of detectives. Where it is alleged that a person carrying on a continuing series of crime or offenses, especially offences which consist in the selling or keeping of liquor, it almost stands to reason, that, in order to obtain a conviction, there must be an inducement held out by the officer to make the supected person commit the offence. In other words, the officer must be what is commonly called a spy or an informer. The evidence of these men must be looked upon with more suspicion than is that of the ordinary policeman or detective. In my opinion the witnesses Lobb, Corless and Ferguson belong to this class. They have apparently been sworn in as Provincial Constables, nevertheless they are paid on a different basis to that upon which the regular constabulary are paid. They are special officers of the Liquor Control Board, paid $5.00 a day and expenses. They are the Secret Service men of the Liquor Control Board; what in common parlance would be called the "Dry Spuad." Their status is different from that of the police officers or police detectives as defined by Mr. Justice Cresswell. In order to hold their positions they must have results, and unless they are men of high character, unless they are absolutely honest in their work, if they cannot get results by fair means the natural temptation is to use foul.

I now come to the next grade of detectives. The men who are hired as

HOPE TO AVOID STRIKE

WAHINGTON, Jan. 15.— Inability to reduce the cost of production in the bituminous coal mining industry is the fundamental cause of high prices and the fuel shortage which has menaced the public in recent years, the United States coal commission today in a preliminary report of its fact finding investigation laid before congress.

Labor troubles, transportation difficulties and over-development of the industry in mines and man-power to a point where it is much larger than necessary to supply public demand for its product, if operations were continuous, were all three assigned as among primary cause for the condition.

Regarding the possibility of another coal strike after April 1, the report said the commission "has reason to believe that an agreement will be reached in the near future that will avoid any widespread cessation of mine operations in union fields on April 1."

COMMITTEES APPOINTED

The first regular meeting of the 1923 Council took place last evening with Mayor in the chair and all the members present except Ald. Graham, who is in Calgary.

Works and Property — Ald. Robichaud and Graham.

Fire, Water and Light—Ald. Graham and Aiello.

Parks—Ald. Robichaud and Barraclough.

Health and Hospital Board Representatives—Ald. Douglas and Irvine.

The first named in each case to act as chairman and the Mayor to be a member ex-officio of all committees.

Ald. J. S. Irvine was appointed acting Mayor for the year with full authority to act in the absence of Mayor Henderson.

The old Annex Sewer By-Law was repealed.

The meeting then adpourned.

Spares were needed for both teams.

The first game between the junior teams was played on Friday, January 12, this resulted in a victory for G. Corrie's team by the score of 4 to 3. Line up:

Ingram's 150 Defeat Northern

The opening game of the City Hockey League, played at the local arena Monday night, resulted in a win for Ingram's 150 over the Northern by a score of four goals to one. Mild weather during the day somewhat softened the ice, and marred the the game but an extremely pleasing exhibition of the game was put on.

The opening tally came in the second period, when Dicken shot from the corner of the rink hitting Bludell in the back of the leg with the puck, which bounded back into the net. Shortly afterwards a nice combination run by Glover and McLaughlin resulted in the latter bulging the twine putting Ingram's two up.

It was not until well on in the third period that the Northerns were heard from. Their individual rushes were ineffective, and, in finding this out, they got their lone tally when M. Commons grabbed a rebound and beat Hovan. Ingrams again took matters in hand and added a couple more tallies through Glover and McLaughlin before the final gong.

Bluebirds and Coal Company Tie

Tying the score in the closing minutes of their opening game here last evening, the Coal Company team secured a somewhat lucky point against the Bluebirds, who had led the scoring all through the game and had the edge on the run of play. Just before the final gong, Jeff Commons, captain of the Bluebirds, was severely cut on the face, in a scrimmage in front of the Bluebirds goal and had to be taken to the hospital for treatment.

The first period opened in ding dong fashion and end to end play kept the defence of both teams busy during the larger part of the period. First blood came when Smalek seized an opportunity and slammed the rubber past Dunlap. This was the only tally of the first period.

The second period was still young when Shand came right through the Coal barons from end to end and put the Bluebirds two up. This was followed by a determined attack by the Coal Co. and B. Wilson opened their scoring when he caught a rebound and batted the puck into the net. Even play followed for a time, then Smalek with a nice individual rush got his second goal. Right from the face-off, Sofko reduced the Bluebird lead when he went through on his own and bulged the twine from almost impossible angle.

The Bluebirds were in early on Dunlap in the opening stages of the third period and J. Commons broke through and scored their fourth goal; the Coal Co. then took matters in hand and gave Costa some busy moments and finally Sofko came through and scored again. Towards the close of the period McTeer got away and broke right through the Bluebird defence, but Costa jumped out and stopped the shot but failed to effect a proper clearance and in the scrimmage which followed J. Commons was apparently struck on the cheek by a skate causing a V shape cut across the face. The game was stopped while Commons was taken to the hospital. With but a few second's time left the Coal Co. made determined raids on Costa and it was on one of these that Sofko scored his third goal with another of his angle shots which beat Costa all the way. No overtime was played. Bluebirds 4, Coal Co. 4.

COLEMAN, Jan. 12.—Carl Scaba was killed this afternoon while working in the International Coal and Coke Co. mine. The accident was due to a fall of roof rock. ASKS FOR STATED CASE

CALGARY, Jan. 13.—On Saturday morning J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., made application to Hon. Mr. Justice Walsh for a stated case to be heard by the appeal court, in the matter of the trial and conviction of Emilio Picariello and Mrs. Lasandro for the murder of Constable Lawson of the A.P.P. at Coleman on the evening of September 21, 1922. The application was made on various grounds, one being as to the proper summoning of the extra panel of ten jurymen, and another, alleged lack of proper instruction to the jurymen by the judge on various points, there being 31 questions in all.

Mr. Jusice Walsh announced after the hearing that he would reserve judgment as to which one of the questions or all or any of them, he would consider sufficient for the purpose of a stated case.

PICTURES FOR PUBLIC SCHOOL

1264 Tecumseh Avenue,
Shaughnessy Heights,
Vancouver, B.C.,
January 6th, 1923.

Educational Secretary,
Mt. Fernie Chapter, Fernie, B.C.

Thank you for your letter, and enclosed list of pictures presented from time to time, previously, to school in Fernie by the Fernie chapter, and may I say what a help it is to have someone so understanding and helpful in the office of Educational Secretary; it means so much to the work provincially.

The committee are glad to adopt the suggestion from you, and will allocate the collection for Fernie to the Central Public School, your further suggestion regarding duplicate pictures having been previously presented is an excellent one, and just mhat we are asking to be done in all cases; for you will see on receipt of the collection there are some included, which have already been presented by many chapters. There is a small "key" or catalogue which accompanies the collection, and which for preservation must also be framed, and of course hung with the pictures, as a guide to their understanding.

When you have had the pictures framed, as it is most unlikely that any of the committee for this province can be present to formally pass them over to the school, it will be advisable for the Regent, and yourself to make arrangements with the School authorities for as impressive a ceremony as possible, to be made, for the presvaluable gift in some senses than the entation of the pictures. It is a very actual cost, which in itself is quite impressive, the pictures before framing being worth about $100 or over.

The collection will be sent on to you shortly, we have made arrangements for an art firm to pack the pictures, so that there may be every precaution against damage in transit, and they have undertaken to do this for the cost of the actual material used, only, for the small charge of one dollar. If you can arrange for them to be on view to the public before presentation to the schools it would be desirable, so that the public may see for themselves this part of our Memorial.

Will there be any sons or daughters of soldiers matriculating from High School this year in Fernie, and thus be eligible for our Bursary?

With the season's greeting, sincerely yours,

supernumeraries in the work. In this class I would place Shively, Buchanan and Chisholm (alias Mitchell). The three of them are American citizens, not subject to the jurisdiction of our courts, with no interest in the country, hired by the day and absolutely dependent upon the obtaining of results from their work for their daily pay. To my mind, the great difference between the second and third class of detectives is that the second class have instructions to obtain general results, in a specified locality to stop the commission of the offence in that locality, the third class of detectives are instructed to obtain results in special cases. The second class have general directions to stop the commission of the offence, the third class are instructed to obtain a conviction against a special individual. Undoubtedly these last three mentioned men were hired because they had American cars. These men are what Mr. Justice Cresswell calls "most dangerous agents"; and I need not say with what degree of suspicion their evidence should be looked upon.

It has been urged upon me that these men are accomplices, or at all events, their evidence should have no greater weight than that of an accomplice. As a matter of law this is not the case. As a matter of fact, I agree with the proposition. But every case depends upon its own merits.

I will deal now with the characters of the three American so-called detectives, as they appear to my mind. These thre men were acting directly under Lobb. They were apparently responsible to him and him alone.

Of the three of them Shively seems to have been the leader. Shively would be amusing, if he were not dangerous. He says that he is an American citizen, that he came to Canada and took part in this work for the purpose of cleaning up Canada, and to enforce the law. I could imagine many Canadians taking this attitude. I could even imagine some strong prohibitionist in the United States taking this attitude. But I cannot imagine a man, who confesses to having repeatedly broken the laws of his own country, suddenly being possessed of such a streak of virtue that he has to clean up his neighbor's household. By endeavoring to foist upon me that idea he brands himself as an untruthful man, and shows himself to be one of those despicable characters who endeavors to cover up something of which he is ashamed, by the cloak of hypocrisy. I am confirmed in my view by the evidence of Buchanan when he said, that he was engaged by Shively and when he hesitated about taking the job, was told by him it would be all right, because it would be the other fellows who were breaking the law while they were upholding it.

I now deal with the character of Chisholm (alias Mitchell). He impresses me as being completely under the influence of Shively. He seems to have been the one who was generally with Shively. His different stories in the box corresponded almost word for word with those of Shively. For these reasons I have very grave doubts of his general character for truthfulness. I cannot understand why he assumed an alias. Apparently he was unknown. It seems to me there was somthing sinister about this action.

I will deal now with the character of Buchanan. He appeared to me to be the best of the three. As I said before, he was rather ashamed of the work he was engaged in and it was only when Shively told him, that, after all, the other fellows were breaking the law and they were upholding it, that he consented to join.

The fact remains, however, that these men broke the law originally, by coming into Canada after being engaged in the United States; that one and all made a false declaration, or consented to a false declaration being made, in that they were tourists, that at one time two of them at all events came into Canada without reporting at all; that they came to Canada for purpose of seeing and touring Canada. As a matter of fact I have no doubt whatever, but that the three of them consented to accept the position because they were getting five dollars a day and expenses and they were prepared to go to any length to obtain results and so justify their employer, Lobb, in keeping them on the job. Their evidence is untrustworthy.

I will deal now with the characters of the three other men. Ferguson appears very little in these prosecutions. He always acted under the instructions of Lobb who was the leader. All I need to say of him was that while his evidence is not untrustworthy, it must nevertheless be loked upon with great suspicion. The fact remains that Ferguson was undoubtedly dismissed form the Royal Canadian Mounted Police force; and that at the time of his dismissal, he was fined for misconduct.

I will now deal with Corless. To my mind his evidence in these cases was tainted by evidence given in a previous case of Rex vs Gradzuk. The latter is one of the appellants. He became cognizant of the fact that these men were informers and fled to the province of Alberta, where he was beyond the jurisdiction of the Court. A charge was laid against him of keeping a common bawdy house at Hosmer, B.C. On this charge he was brought back by the police, Corless being one of the number who went after him. Corless was the main witness of all that took place at the Hotel at Hosmer, and gave evidence in support of the Crown's case. He says that Gradzuk was brought back through his information; and the reason he gave that information was that he was out to protect law and order, and that part of his work was to suppress bawdy houses, and yet he confesses that he was in a similar house a short time before and took no immediate steps to correct that abuse. He states that it was not for the purpose of bringing Gradzuk within the jurisdiction to answer to the charge of selling liquor, that the information was laid of keeping a common bawdy house. Corless was not a constable in the ordinary sense of the word, although he was sworn in as a constable. On the contrary, I believe that the information laid against Gradzuk was for the sole purpose of bringing him back within the jurisdiction. I may say the evidence in the case of Rex vs Gradzuk, charged with keeping a common bawdy house, was so weak that I dismissed it at the conclusion of the Crown's case.

While I do not say that Corless is not truthful in some respects, nevertheless his evasion of the truth in Rex v Gradzuk was, to say the least, unfortunate.

I now come to the character of Lobb. This man is probably one of the most interesting witnesses whom I have ever had before me. He is the leader of the whole "Dry Spuad," which has been operating in this part of the country. He is the "King Pin," as it were, of the whole proceedings. If he falls down and is proved untrustworthy, practically the whole position of the "Dry Spuad" becomes untenable. He swore in evidence that he was originally a German subject, born in Alsace, at a town called Carles, His father was a German, his mother a French woman. He had an uncle living in England, a British subject, who was a stock broker in London. He went to school in Frankfort, and subsequently in Brussels. He came to England and spent a year; then went back to Germany and was conscripted into the German army, where he stayed for a year. On these points however, his evidence is somewhat obscure, as he says in one part of his cross-examination that he served in the German army first, then came to England for a year and went back to Calais, then returned to England and spent two years. At the end of this time, three years at most, he became a naturalized British subject; and his uncle purchased him a seat on the Stock Exchange. He alleges that, by reason of difficulties with his cousin, he left his uncle's firm and was sworn in as a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, in London. He came to Canada in August 1913 and entered the Secret Service of the force, rising to the rank of corporal. During the war, his employment was altogether to pose as a German, obtain the confidences of German reservists, and prevent their return to Germany, and that since the war he has been engaged in ferreting out infractions of the Opium and Narcotic Drugs Act. All this evidence would be very consistent, if it were not for two statements which he made, first, that his uncle bought him a seat on the London Stock Exchange for £500. I examined him on this point, which he practically cleared up, by saying his uncle did not pay £500 but went on his bond for £500. He did not get a seat on the London Stock Exchange, but evidently was employed in some clerical capacity. This point was not elaborated upon, and I am not sufficiently familiar with the custom and laws of the London Stock Exchange to express any opinion on the point, except that there is a strong possibility his latter explanation is the correct one. I cannot understand, however, why he persistently stated that his uncle bought for him a seat on the London Stock Exchange for £500. The second point is his natuarlization. Under the Imperial Statute which was in force at that time, and is still in force, before a man can become naturalized he must reside within His Majesty's Dominions five years within the last previous eight years. It was pointed out to him, I think by myself, that he either could not be nathralized or he had obtained his naturalization by false pretences, whereupon he expressed surprise and asked if it had always been the case. I told him it was, and undoubtedly was at the time he professed to have been naturalized. Some six or seven years ago Lobb was chief witness in a trial of sedition against one Sam Farrar at Medicine Hat. There he was certain of his naturalization. If there was one thing he did not remember at that time, it was the fact that he took the oath of allegiance. During these trials, in

Mrs. Hodgins Says Tanlac Entirely Overcame Her Indigestion—Strength Has Returned

"I have more faith in Tanlac than any medicine I know of, and will always feel grateful for the way it helped me," declared Mrs. Elizabeth Hodgins, 404 Hastings St., E., Vancouver, B.C.

"About three years ago I suffered from such a terrible case of stomach trouble it was almost impossible for me to retain a thing I would eat. In just a little while after eating I was in misery with gas on my stomach and cramping pains. I would go for days unable to keep down a bite of food, was so worn out I could hardly walk, and kept getting worse.

"A neighbor who had taken Tanlac advised me to try it, and when I started I felt so much better I kept on till I had taken four bottles. The stomach trouble left me, I now eat anything, have plenty of strength, and enjoy splendid health. I can't say too much for Tanlac."

Here and There

Point Grey, B.C.:—The approximate total cost of the new area that is to be developed by the C. P. R., between Thirty-seventh Avenue and Forty-first Avenue, and Granville Street and Maple Street, will be $155,299, of which the municipality will be asked to pay $26,446 for the construction of sewers, which will eventually revert to the municipality. This statement was made by Mr. Newton J. Ker, land agent for the C. P. R., at the Point Grey Council meeting.

Winnipeg:—"Never in the history of the west has grain moved more freely and with greater despatch, and also in greater quantities over Canadian Pacific lines than during the past season," said Charles Murphy, general manager in charge of western lines. "Up to the present time," Mr. Murphy continued, "there hasn't been the slightest congestion on western lines." As an illustration of prompt movement the general manager said that fully 85 per cent. of the amount loaded was moved east of Winnipeg daily.

Winnipeg:—Speaking of the record crop movement in the Canadian west during the past season and the part the railways played in the marketing of it, D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, addressing the Kiwanis Club luncheon here, declared Winnipeg was now the greatest wheat market in the world in the point of receipts. He quoted figures showing that inspections for the three months ending November at Chicago totalled 8,275,500 bushels, Minneapolis 45,969,100 bushels, while inspections at Winnipeg for the same period amounted to 108,231,513 bushels.

Referring to the shipment of grain over the Canadian Pacific Railway from September 1, Mr. Coleman said an average of 1,016 cars were loaded each day in Winnipeg for transportation east which meant that a loaded train left here for the lakes every 45 minutes during the 91-day period.

Calgary:—Very considerable interest is being taken in Calgary and throughout Southern Alberta and Saskatchewan in the completion of the gap on the Canadian Pacific Weyburn-Lethbridge branch line, which has just been opened for traffic. It is stated a great stimulus will be given to the manufacturing of clay products in Saskatchewan, making it commercially feasible to use coal from the Lethbridge fields for the development of the clays in the south-eastern part of the province.

At the present time there is very little being done in the development of the clays; lack of capital and lack of technical knowledge have been responsible for this tardiness. The completion of the branch line, however, it is expected, will centre attention to the development of what some people are firmly inclined to believe, will be a new and important industry in the West.

Moose Jaw:—After being in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway for forty years, William Pascoe, locomotive engineer, of this city, has retired, at the age of 66 years. Mr. Pascoe joined the Moose Jaw roundhouse staff in 1882. The following year he was promoted to fireman, and shortly after handled the shovel on the first Trans-Canada train, over the Moose Jaw-Medicine Hat division. In 1887, Mr. Pascoe was placed on the "hog-head' 'side of the engine, and handled the throttle on the first locomotive that hauled a passenger train from Moose Jaw to North Portal.

Mr. Pascoe was one of the first to homestead in the Moose Jaw district, and after leaving his home in North Dorchester, Ont., he travelled to the end of the steel, then at Winnipeg, and completed his journey to this district by means of an ox cart. The lure of the railroad was too strong for Mr. Pascoe, and he abandoned his homestead to enter the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company shortly afterwards, when the steel had reached Moose Jaw.

Quebec: — A beautiful booklet which describes the past and present of the Chateau Frontenac has just been issued by the C. P. R., and has been sent by the thousands of copies, to all the leading hotels of Europe and the United States. It is unquestionably a work of art, replete with illustrations, and containing a graphic history of the "grand chateau." Not only this, but the book is a record of French Canada from the first landing of Jacques Cartier to the battle on the Plains of Abraham, and from that time on.

answer to myself, he was not quite sure whether he took the oath of allegiance or not. During the Farrar trial he professed to have his naturalization papers in Lethbridge. They have still not been produced. He now varies his evidence and says he remembers that it was arranged by his uncle, and that his uncle had great difficulty in arranging it; that he remembers going to somebody either a Notary or a Magistrate and signing some documents; and that what he meant by his naturalization was a document, which he produced in Court, signed by the German authorities, which has been termed by the interpreter called (Mr. E. Frey) a Release ertificate. This document allows the holder to leave Germany, but is void if he has not, within six months, made his abode outside of the country, or has not tried to secure citizenship in any other country. This document he presumes was what he meant when he spoke of his letters of naturalization. But how could that be? He swears that he was not naturalized until 1913, and yet this document is dated the 9th December 1911, and was handed out to him shortly afterwards. His whole evidence on the question of his naturalization is a mass of equivocation and contradiction. There may be some reason for all this, some public reason, some reason of public policy; but the whole thing is mysterious and suspicious. Why should he affirm what is impossible, then deny it, then try to equivocate? He is no fool, and knows what he is talking about. I cannot understand why he should take this position. The truth, whatever it may be, cannot affect his position in these cases. The only explanation which presents itself to my mind is, that he is afraid of some difficulty or trouble in connection with his joining the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and his employment, especially during the war, on the Secret Service of that force. His evidence on this point raises suspicion, and shows that, for some reason or other, on this question he either cannot or will not be frank with the Court. In a previous case in which he appeared before me, that of Rex ex rel Morris vs Leask, I gave him a high character; but he has now filled my mind with doubt. As I say, it may be for some public purpose that he has assumed this attitude, or it may be for some private reasons of his own. He has raised doubts in my mind. He has given evidence in connection with this matter in a mysterious manner. I dislike mystery, and look for frankness in any witness giving evidence before our Courts, especially in a man engaged as an officer of the law in enforcing the law.

These are the main witnesses in these prosecutions. Of the various police constables, who appear in the different cases, I will speak when I reach each individual case.

I will now come to the facts in connection with Wodyga. He is charged with keeping liquor for sale contrary to Section 26 of the Act. He has a house near Flagstone, B.C., which is near the border line and near the Port of Newgate. It appears after Shively and Chisholm (alias Mitchell) came into Canada in Shively's car, they went to the accused's house and asked for liquor which was sold to them. They paid for the liquor with a marked, five dollar bill, then went away. Constable Lobb and Constable Brown (a Provincial Constable stationed at Waldo) were nearby and immediately went to the premises. Lobb reached out and took the five dollar bill from the accused's pocket. They then searched the premises and found liquor similar to that which is alleged to have been sold to Shively and Chisholm. They thereupon arrested the accused. No defence was put in on the part of the accused. The question therefore is whether prima facie proof having been given, that the accused had in his possession or charge or control liquor in respect of or concerning whirh he is being proseiuted, then is he not called upon to prove that he did not commit the offence with which he is so charged?

I have alredy held following Mr. Justice Middleton in the case of Rex v Leclaire 28 C.C.C. 216 that in section 81 of the Government Act the word "may" means "must."

I was in doubt as to the meaning of the words "prima facie proof." The only case which has been quoted to me, where these words have been in any way judicially considered, is that of Jenkins vs Crocott et al 73 L.J.K.B. 215. I think the distinction between "prima facie proof" and "prima facie evidence" is a very fine one, if there is any distinction at all. But, in any event, I am quite satisfied that prima facie proof has been given that the accused had in his possession liquor, in respect of or concerning which he is being prosecuted. No evidence was given on behalf of the defence and therefore he must be convicted. The conviction will stand. Costs reserved.

COMMUNICATION

Jan. 18th, 1923.

To Whom It May Concern:—

It has been rumored, and by some, stated; that the Fernie Hockey Club played an active part in the recent Civic Election.

The undersigned wishes to deny the statement that the Fernie Hockey Club, as an organization, took any part whatever in the recent Civic Election of Jan. 11th, and trusts that those that have such statements to make will confine them to the individuals they concern.

One of the rights enjoyed through British and Canadian citizenship is casting our vote for whom we wish, and it is regretable to think that a struggling Hockey Club could control a decisive number of votes.

Pres., Fernie Hockey Club

DOUBLE FATALITY NARROWLY AVERTED

BLAIRMORE, Jan. 14.—A double fatility was miraculously averted at No. 3 mine of the West Canadian Colleries on Saturday, when Jack North and E. Erkala, miners, were buried beneath huge pieces of cap rock which came down without warning, seriously injuring both men.

North, the most seriously hurt of the two injured, was caught beneath a piece weighing several hundred pounds and his life was only saved by the big rock resting on a prop, avoiding all the weight resting on him. He was extracted with difficulty and rushed to the hospital, where they were attended by Dr. Olivier, and at last reports were progressing as well as could be expected at present.

ONLY CATHOLIC GOVERNMENT IN NORTH AMERICA

Ottawa—To the class movements for political control has been added another by the frank confession of Hon. L. A. Taschereau, premier of Quebec.

Speaking at the close of the session of the Quebec Legislature, he described his government as "the only Catholic Government on the continent of North America," and was generous enough to promise that in this British and Protestant country that those "who belong to another religion" would have their convictions respected. How generous of the prime minister of "the only Catholic Gevernment on the continent of North America!" He will still permit the British and Protestant electors of Quebec to have their religious rights. To prove that his was a sectarian government he claimed immunity from criticism for himself and his colleagues because they were those "who submit ourselves to the will of the religious authorities." In all his speech there is not a reported word of reference to British Government, British institutions or British sentiment. He first says that his is "the only French legislature on the continent," but later in his address broadens his vision to describe his government as "the only Catholic Government on the continent of North America." All other sects, Anglicans, Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists and Jews, are put beyond the pale, but he is generous enough to permit them to remain under "the only Catholic Government on the continent of North America," but how long this may continue is not in the power of Mr. Taschereau, as he admits that his administration "submit ourselves to the will of the religious authorities."

Is it any wonder that Liberal papers such as The Vancouver Sun are alarmed, and asking if this is Canada? Does Sir Lomer Gouin, the master of the Ottawa Government. "submit," like his puppet in the Quebec Legislature?

Objection is made to one of the state officers in Oregon opening a restaurant in the Capitol building. It is feared that the votes of members might be influenced by serving them with their favorite dishes.

LOCAL & GENERAL

S. Herchmer returned on Saturday from a trip to Calgary.

A. McEwing, of Butte, Montana, is spending a short time with his sister, Mrs. Bonnell.

Ed. and Wm. Kummer left on Friday last for California, where they will spend the balance of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ingram gave a five hundred party to a large number of friends on Tuesday evening. A pleasant evening was spent.

Joseph Letcher and Jack Wilson doing business under the firm name of The Kootenay Garage have dissolved partnership.

There will be a meeting of the curlers in the rink on Monday evening at 7 p.m., to arrange for the local bonspiel.

The hockey game advertised for Wednesday between the Fernie Ladies' team and the Calgary Regents was postponed owing to soft ice.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Potter, of Cranbrook, were in the city yesterday. Bob is now part owner and rustler for the Cranbrook Herald.

Since November 1st, eighty inches of snow has fallen in Fernie and nearly thirteen inches of percipitation, The snow is very deep in the mountains this year and will greatly retard lumber operations.

James Miller, of Barrons, Alta., was in the city on Tuesday. Jimmy says, with the assistance of one man, he is farming about 800 acres and getting fat on the job. He was in the city booking ice orders for his ice plant at Crow's Nest Lake.

Word was received on Tuesday of the death of Mrs. R. Piper at Nelson, B. C. Deceased was a daughter of Mrs. C. Carlson of this city. The family have been running in very bad luck; one year ago the father died, last winter a son-in-law, A. W. Evans, was lost in the mountains and never returned and the mother is ill now. The body of Mrs. Piper was taken to the city and internment took place today.

James Clarke, who represented Fernie at the Provincial Convention of the British Columbia Poultry Association, in Vancouver, last week, is home again. Jim says they had a very fine display of birds at the big show, but a lot of them would have to look to their laurels if Fernie breeders would send their exhibits to the coast. He met Bob Clarke, of Vernon, formerly of Fernie, who was at the Vancouver exhibition with a big bunch of prize winners.

The intervention of mild weather has caused the postponement of the bonspiel of the Crow's Nest Curling Assoc. which was to have opened in Cranbrook this week. It is now to be held the week commencing February 5, weather permitting. The soft weather has held up the local curlers for nearly a month, but six or seven rinks will attend the Cranbrook bonspiel.

Capt. Barnard, of Baynes Lake, is very much worried over the possibility of the Wigwam Pulp and Paper Co. building their concrete dam across the Elk River in winter time. He has written a column article to the Nelson News warning the public of the danger of winter construction of concrete. At the rate the company are proceeding he need have little fear of any permanent work being done this winter at any rate.

Lethbridge Herald — Signoretta Italia Garibaldi, as she is known, granddaughter of Guiseppe Garibaldi, the great Italian Liberator, is not coming to Lethbridge after all. In accordance with a letter received by Supt. Jungett of the R.C.M.P., from the commissioner of immigration at Winnipeg, he, along with the Mayor, went to the Lethbridge hotel to meet the lady on Friday morning, but discovered that she had not arrived. The letter stated that Miss Garibaldi was coming to the city from Fernie, and would be at the Lethbridge hotel on Friday morning, proceeding to Moose Jaw on the afternoon train. In communication by phone with the Italian consulate at Calgary, the mayor learned that Miss Garibaldi had been to Calgary, from where she intended to come on to Lethbridge and Fernie, and then on to Vancouver. She had, however, cancelled her itinerary, going back from Calgary to Winnipeg.

Little four-year-old Roy Mitchell, son of D. W. Mitchell of the Palace Meat Market, backed into a pail of scalding water yesterday at noon and was terribly burned. The child is doing as well as can be expected.

In Loving Memory of Alice, beloved daughter of Mrs. R. Wallwork, who died Jan. 24th, 1919.

Thy will be done seems hard to say,
When those we loved are called away;
God took her home, it was his will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.

No one knows how much we miss her,
Only those who have lost can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For her that we loved so well.

TRAPPER FINDS VICKS HANDY FOR A HOST OF ILLS

Ontario Man Just Rubs It On For Most Anything

Mr. C. Phoenix, of 755 Grey St., London, Ont., writes: "I am very pleased to recommend Vicks VapoRub. I am a hunter, trader and trapper, also a fisherman. I use Vicks VapoRub in place of liniments, because it is very handy to carry and always gives such quick relief for small animal and insect bites, and for chapped hands and lips. My boots would blister my feet and I rubbed it on them and it made them just right. When I go trapping next fall I will have plenty of Vicks VapoRub in my kit. I call it the "Trapper's Friend." I have not had a cold all winter and I go out all night with my traps.'

Vicks VapoRub, the discovery of a Southern druggist, is a combination in salve from off Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine, etc.

Absorbed through the skin and at the same time inhaled as a vapor, Vicks reaches immediately inflamed, poultices and plasters.

The modern direct treatment for all cold troubles. The successor to goose grease, camphorated oils, liniments, pounltices and plasters.

Used for croup and children's colds, Vicks gives remarkably quick results and also avoids nauseating internal dosing. Just as good for adults and for skin inflammations, such as cuts, burns, bruises, bites, stings.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

THE DOLLAR STANDARD

All nations now measure their own currency in American dollars. Even the pound sterling, to which all others were wont to bow, now counts its worth by that measure. We read that "the pound sterling has almost reached the pre-war parity of $4.86," the American dollar being the standard implied. The pound has hitherto been so satisfied with its £. s. d. system that it has ignored all the decimal systems which in many nations have so vastly simplified daily transactions great and small, and which so greatly facilitate transactions between nations

As Britain depends more than any other country on external commerce, it looks as though she had felt that she had such a lead that she could afford to obstruct herself with a defiant handicap. Britain's trade is so vast, and its ramifications so multifarious, that it would require a distressing convulsion to make the change—distressing, to a people controlled by the convictions that what they do and always did is necesarily the right way. The circumstances which, for the time being, have made the dollar, and not the sovereign, the universal standard may perhaps suggest the idea that as soon as possible British currency should be decimalized.

One thing that has prevented hitherto is that she has, on one side of her, Europe, largely at one on the decimal system of France, counted in francs, and on the other the United States, counting everything in dollars. Unfortunately the francs and dollars do not divide evenly into each other in gold weight.

It would be a good thing if, when more anxious matters are disposed of, the League of Nations could get the nations to agree on an equivalent currency for all nations by equalizing weight, so that five francs wuold weigh exactly one dollar, and the pound would be in point of weight exactly five dollars, making all other coins multiples or fractions of these. It is desirable that when we talk of a million or a millionaire the word should mean the same everywhere.

At the present value of gold, the dollar is more convenient than the franc. It is, indeed, the smallest denomination that can be coined in gold, and to small at that. As the British currency never was decimal in its numeration it could not expect the other countries to conform to it, though in times past most countries had what they called a pound, and many had something equivalent to shillings and pence. The United States has remnants of some of these in country market places, or had within living memory, and their common use of the word penny for a cent is due to the fact that the old York shilling was just half of the Sterling shilling, so there were twelve cents in it. Canada had, in the first half of last century, the Halifax £. s. d., in which the shillings were five to a dollar. But £. s. d. must everywhere give way to some decimal system. Any decimal system will reduce readily to any other; but a common system would be far better At the same time we might all—the United States with the rest—adopt the French metrical system of weights and measures now in use in most countries and in scientific work everywhere.

NO KU KLUX

Recent events have made the organization of the Ku Klux Klan in Canada a dead issue. It is not shown that people in any part of Canada ever invited this society to come and establish itself in the Dominion. Any move in that direction was made by outside organizers, who do not labor without reward. But Louisiana incidents, following others less sensational but equally disgraceful in California, will be sufficient to satisfy the ordinary Canadian that there is no more place for the Klan here than there is for any other form of lynch law. It has never been found necessary for society in this Dominion to organize and operate private tribunals in competition with the laws and courts of the land. If it was ever necessary in the United States that time is past, as the rising tide of indignant public opinion is beginning to show.

HEATED CONTROVERSY OVER GRAIN MARKETING

Ottawa—That the grain dealer and the grain growers' interests are not allied is the dictum of Premier Dunning, enunciated in his heated controversy with John Evans, M.P., Saskatoon, on the grain marketing proposals recently made by the Saskatchewan premier.

Mr. Evans claimed that Hon. Mr. Dunning is "passing the buck," or in other words is evading the real issue in marketing the western grain crop. Mr. Dunning retaliates, "Mr. Evans might explain how it is possible for a man to do his duty as a member of parliament or as a member of the Legislature on a question affecting grain marketing when he is at one and the same time an active politician and also a director of a grain-handling corporation which would undoubtedly be affected by the decisions which were reached in parliament or in the legislature upon the question. One of the greatest weaknesses in the farmers' movement today, in my judgment, is the fact that so many men are directors in these corporations and at the same time active politicians—members of the legislature and the federal parliament."

It was claimed by Conservatives that Hon. T. A. Crerar could not serve honestly both as $15,000 per annum president of the United Grain Corporation and $4,000 per annum leader of grain grower's political party. Mr. Dunning has discovered the accuracy of the Conservative criticism. But Mr. Dunning did not discover this until Hon. T. A. Crerar, grain magnate, Hon A. B. Hudson, grain exchange counsel, and others' wrecked the farmers' chances of a wheat board. Mr. Dunning is right in his conclusions. It was proven that T. A. Crerar could not serve both the grain exchange and the farmers. Can Mr. Evans? There is this difference—Evans is a sincere Progressive; Crerar was a Grit partisan masquerading as a Progressive to further the ends of the Grit party and the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

The will of a wealthy Baltimore lawyer contains a bequest of $200,000 to provide for the purchase of a site and erection of "a summer White House." It is stipulated that the site be within motoring distance of Washington, and unless advantage is taken of the offer within eighteen months the sum shall revert to the estate.

Auto tractors promise to scrap the "ships of the desert" as a means of transportation across the Sahara. They make the journey across the hot sands in a fraction of the time required by the double-decked freighters. The only advantage the camels have is that they can do without water longer than the tractors can without gas.

CRUISING IN THE WEST INDIES.

(1)—Empress of Britain at St. Pierre, of Martinique, the scene of the volcanic eruption in 1902, when 30,000 people lost their lives. The path shown was once a busy street. (2)—Headquarter Palace of Cuban Republic, Havana. (3)—Statue of Empress Josephine, first wife of Napoleon, on Martinique Island, West Indies. (4)—Morro Castle, Santiago, Cuba.

SINCE ocean liners have been made as comfortable as the best city hotels, cruising has become very attractive to those seeking a rest. The luxury of the ship, the fresh sea breezes, the trips ashore at the places visted, the making of new acquaintances, the experiences gained only by travel make an ocean cruise an incomparable delight.

In former winters many Canadians and Americans escaped from the severity of the home winter by taking sea cruises. Cruises to the West Indies are very popular, not only on account of the mildness of the climate and the beauty of the scenery, but because of the romantic history attached to these places. In the seventeenth century the West Indies were the headquarters of large numbers of British pirates who preyed on Spanish trading ships. These pirates were in a large way responsible for destroying the commerce of Spain. A few of the interesting sights of the West Indies are banana plantations, mahogany groves, sponge fishing fleets, and woods of cocoanut palm trees.

Two cruises to the West Indies, and islands of the Spanish Main, Panama and Venezuela, will be made by the Empress of Britain this winter. The many special features that contributed last winter to the success of these Canadian Pacific cruises have been retained and new ones added. The Empress of Britain was again selected by the Canadian Pacific for the cruises to the West Indies by reason of her great popularity as a luxurious ocean liner of the most modern and comfortable type and size, being of 22,200 tons displacement. The Empress of Britain is also the only steamship making cruises to the West Indies burning fuel oil. This outstanding feature appeals to passengers who have travelled in the Tropics as coaling or shifting coal at the various ports is eliminated and passengers are assured of spotless promenade and open spaces, with no noise, dirt or cinders.

The Empress of Britain is devoted entirely to the purposes of the cruises, and no cargo is carried. In addition to the comforts to be found usually at only the best hotels ashore the food and service are of Canadian Pacific standard. The passenger accommodation is most attractive, and not more than two persons are booked in a room unless it is desired to accommodate a family party. Those who desire to travel alone will find a good proportion of single cabins. Other attractions include a gymnasium, swimming pool, verandah cafes and large decks for games and dancing. An augmented professional orchestra is carried for concerts and dancing.

The itinerary of the first cruise, starting from New York on January 20th, includes the following ports of call: Havana, Cuba; Port Antonio, Jamaica; Kingston, Jamaica; Colon, Panama; La Guayra, Venezuela; Port of Spain, Trinidad; La Brea Point, Trinidad; Bridgetown, Barbados; Fort de France, Martinique; St. Pierre, Martinique; San Juan, Porto Rico; Nassau, Bahamas; returning to New York, covering a distance of over six thousand miles during the 27 days of the cruise. The second cruise will start from New York on February 20th, and will be similar in most details to the schedule of the first cruise, Hamilton, Bermuda, being substituted as the final port of call.

There are excursions ashore at the various ports, conducted by representatives of the Canadian Pacific, allowing unusual opportunities for visiting every possible points of interest during each cruise. Two days will be spent ashore at Havana and two days in Jamaica, including trips to many nearby points. An additional day is provided this year at Panama and a journey will be made from Colon through the Culebra Cut to Pedro Miguel, Panama City and Balboa. In Venezuela the trip includes one of the most fascinating rides in the world from the port of La Guayra to Caracas, the capital, 3,000 feet bove the Caribbean Sea. Port Antonio, one of the prettiest spots in Jamaica, has been included in the itinerary this year.

FEATHERED FUN

Egg-Remont Cup Final—
Yolk-Shire vs Henull County

There was an exceptionally good attendance to witness the above teams in their strenuous game at Cockle Park on Saturday. For the County, Orpington deputised for Buff, that player having had his luck-bone fractured in a recent match, and for Yolk-Shire, Island substitued Andy Lusian at centre half. The County were by far the more aggressive eleven. Yolk-Shire lacking in defensive tactics. The Kennal Band rendered appropriate selections during the interval, the teams lined up as follows:

Yolk-Shire

Houden
Black Minorca
Rhode Island Red
Silver Campine Light Sussex Pullet

White Leghorn Cross Breed Orpington
Ancona Wyan Dotte
Gray Rock
Cockerel

Henull County

At Cockel Park before 3,000 spectators, Cross kicked off for the County against a stiff breeze, Leghorn accepted a neat pass, eluded the Yolk-shire half, but was robbed by Black when well placed. Island set the Yolk-shire quintette in motion and Sussex made a brilliant solo run and presented Pullet with a glorious opportunity of which he took full advantage, by giving Cockerel no chance to save. On the resumption, White got going on the left but his well-timed centre went astray and Minorca cleared, from a throw-in, Light got possession, passed all opposition and scored from the 25 yard range. Just before the interval Ancona had to retire owing to a damaged gizzard.

The second half saw the County liven up and the brilliance of their forwards was now the chief spectacle and Breed a new acquisition from Aylesbury City notched a lovely goal. The same player scored again after a melee in front of the Yolk-shire goal. Campine, Light and Sussex essayed a nice forward movement but the stability of the County defense kept them at a safe distance.

About 20 minutes from time Leghorn was fouled just outside the Yolkshire area and from the resultant free kick, Gray put the County in the lead with a powerful drive, leaving Houden helpless. Yolk-shire fell away towards the end of the game and more goals were scored by the County, Breed adding two and Wyan one. Thus ended a good old English game. Result: Henull County 6 goals, Yolk-shire 2 goals. A Chicken had charge of the game.

In presenting the cup to the winners, Lord Incubator expressed his great pleasure in being present to officiate at the presentation ceremony. He hoped that the unfortunate team would have the consolation of knowing that they were beaten by an international eleven, and that to them their defeat was no discredit (applause).

The general opinion of the spectators regarding the downfall of Yolkshire was that the County had the services of Chick Karswood, that worthy having got them in excellent form for the great day. For Yolkshire, Light and Sussex played well considering, but they lacked the experience in front of goal. For the County, Breed acquitted himself like a born footballer and left no room for criticism. Gray was a towee of strength to his side and gave a most creditable display.

The teams were entertained at the Swan Hotel in the evening.

"HAD A NARROW ESCAPE"

"I never realized until a few months ago how risky it is to neglect a cold in the chest. I have always had such good health, that a cold either in the head or chest, while unpleasant, never gave me any worry. Outside an occasional cold, I had never known what it was to be laid up even for a day in all my life, until last December. One afternoon I got a chill and no matter how close I got to the stove, I couldn't seem to get warm. This chill was followed by a cold in my chest. As usual I neglected it and it kept getting worse and worse. Finally I had to go to bed and send for the doctor. His examination showed that I had pneumonia and a bad case at that. By careful nursing on the part of my husband, my children and some friends, I managed to pull through, but the doctor told me I had a narrow shave. And here's where my troubles began. While I was now out of danger, I was anything but well. I was still very weak from the effects of the pneumonia. Although I had lots of life and energy before my sickness, I was now worn out and tired all the time. I slept fairly well, more because I was exhausted. But my sleep didn't refresh me because, while I appeared to be asleep, I was conscious most of the time of what went on around me. Although all kinds of tempting dishes were prepared for me, I had no relish for food. This sickness had already undermined my health to such an extent that I was a living skeleton. I was getting discouraged as nothing I took seemed to do me any good. 'I wonder if Carnol wouldn't build you up,' a friend said one day, 'it did me a world of good, I was completely run down and you can see for yourself how well I look today. Why don't you try it ? Thanks to this friend's advice I am in perfect health again, as healthy and as full of life and vitality as I have ever been."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 9-622

G.N. PLACING OIL BURNERS ON MOUNAIN DIVISIONS

GREAT FALLS, Mont.—Replacing of 25 coal burner locomotives on the Great Northern railway through the Rocky Mountains in Montana with oil burners will be effected early next spring, according to C. O. Jenks of St. Paul, vice president of the road. Mr. Jenks was here today on an inspection trip

At the time the oil burners are installed in western Montana the same type of locomotives will be replaced on the lines west of Spokane after having given away to coal burners for several years owing to the fuel oil shortage.

Construction of 25 miles of double track between Java and Nyak on the Kalispell diviision will be begun early in the spring by the Great Northern railway, Mr. Jenks said. The new track will connect with the terminus of the present double track at Java and when completed will make a total of approximately 50 mlies of double track through the Rocky mountains on the southern border of Glacier Park.

The new construction will represent an outlay of at least $500,000, Mr. Jenks said. The survey already is completed, camps have been established and a portion of the working force has been organized. It is the intention to complete the construction in time to be of assistance in handling the fall traffic of 1923.

WOMEN CONTROL TOWN'S DESTINY

THEY HOLD PURSE STRINGS

It is Estimated That at Least 80 Per Cent. of Retail Purchasing is Done by Feminine Shoppers.

(Copyright)

It has been said that the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world and nowhere is this more literally true than in the world of trade. The woman is the purchasing agent of the household and man, as a rule, is very glad to have her handle the job.

It has been estimated by some students of the merchandising game that 80 per cent. of all retail buying is done by women. This may be a high estimate but a visit to the retail stores of any town or city is enough to convince one that the figures are not too high. The preponderance of women among the buyers is sufficient, at any rate, to make not only the retailer but the manufacturer and the wholesaler realize that it is the women that they must please with their merchandise.

Because they do by far the greater part of the buying in any community, the women have a responsibility that they do not always appreciate. The women of a town through their buying power, can make or break the merchants of a town and as a natural consequence they can make or break the town. It is in their power to make it a prosperous town or a dead town. When the women of a town acquire the mail order habit the town may just as well begin making the arrangements for its own obsequies.

Hard To Understand

Just why a woman, who is a shopper by instinct and a shrewd judge of values in merchandise, should succumb to the lures of the mail order house it is difficult to understand but, unfortunately, some of them do. No one knows better than the woman who has had some experience in the buying of merchandise how difficult it is to distinguish between the genuine and the imitation even after a close inspection. In fact, this is the exception rather than the rule. The merchants know it and expect it. They expect a woman, if she is a good shopper, to "look around a little."

If a woman should walk into a retail store and purchase the first suit that she tried on, for instance, the shock probably would prove fatal to the storekeeper or the saleswoman. The chances are that she will try a dozen suits and look at as many more before she selects one that suit her taste or pocketbook, and the storekeeper not only expects but wishes her to do this. He wishes her to be satisfied as he knows that a satisfied customer is the best advertisement that he can obtain.

Taking a Chance

This same woman, however, may order a suit from a mail order house on the strength of nothing more than a pretty picture and an alluring description. She has not even the opportunity to try it on, to say nothing of the chance of examining the fabric, noting the exact shade of the material and inspecting the workmanship. She is taking chances on the suit fitting her, on the material being good and durable, the shade becoming to her and the workmanship of such character that the suit will fall to pieces. The woman who takes such chances cannot be called a shrewd shopper.

It might be more easily understood why mere man, unaccustomed and averse, as a rule, to shopping excursions, should fall a victim to the catalogue habit. He might find it easier to order from the picture in the catalogue than to go to a store and look for the article that he wanted or he might take the position that he wouldn't know what he was getting anyway if he went to the store and he might as well take a chance on the mail order gamble, but why the woman who knows what she wants and know that she is getting what she wants when she gets it should buy on the "sight unseen" plan—well, that's another question altogether.

Women's Greatest Opportunity

Women are taking a more and more prominent part in public affairs all the time. They are now in many parts of the country in running the affairs of the state. Even where they do not have the ballot they are playing a big part, individually and through their organizations, in the conduct particularly of local governments, yet in the one field where they can do most to help build up their communities they may be overlooking their opportunity. With the buying power in their hands they can do more for the community by staunchly supporting their home business men than they can possibly do in any other way.

Man may think he is a very important element in the progress and development of his town but when he reflects that 80 per cent. of the buying power of the community is in the hands of the women he is apt to realize that he is a very insignificant atom.

FLORENCE VIDOR HAS ROLE OF NURSE

The wholesome beauty, grace and charm of Florence Vidor, Thomas H. Ince's classic star, is strikingly demonstrated in her part as a nurse in Ince's startling picture "Skin Deep."

As the nurse in charge of a convalescent crook who was frightfully mained in an airplane fall while making his thrilling escape from prison, Miss Vidor has the difficult task of implanting in the soul of the crook the desire to abandon his career of crime.

Returning to her patient's room one morning, she finds that he has fled. Which road did he take—the one leading back to his old haunts in the underworld, or the new and open road pointed out by his new-made friends?

You can follow him with Miss Vidor down the trail he followed when "Skin Deep" comes for a two day run to the Orpheum theatre on Monday next.

DEAD MINER WAS A RETURNED SOLDIER

BELLEVUE, Jan 13.—The inquest into the death of the man named Sydney Taylor, was held on Wednesday last before Coroner J. H. Robertson, at Hillcrest. It was established that while miners were on their way home after their shift was over, a man named Louden was injured and he had some ribs broken. The evidence established the fact that Taylor met his death by being struck by a mine car in No. 1 slope, near nine north level. The following is the verdict brought in by the jury: "We find that Sydney Taylor met his death by being struck by an empty mine car while he was travelling up No. 1 slope, near nine level, at about 3.30 p.m., Jan. 9, 1923."

It is understood that the late Mr. Taylor was a member of the Canadian overseas forces. His discharge papers show that he was a member of the 138th Battalion. The late Mr. Taylor was about 40 years old and a native of England, and had only been in Hillcrest a few months, having come from the Edmonton district after the strike was settled.

NO SYMPATHETIC STRIKE BY MINERS

ALLIANCE WITH MOSCOW NOT TO BE TOLERATED

GLACE BAY, N.S., Jan. 13.—A telegram here yesterday from Silby Barrett, one of the disputants for the international board membership of District No. 26, United Mine Workers of America, who is now in Indianapolis, states that the international executive board have decided to demand the executive board of the Nova Scotia district to withdraw its application for membership in the red international at Moscow.

TRAGEDY VICTIMS BURIED SUNDAY

BELLEVUE, Jan. 14.—The funeral of the victims of the tragedy of the past week were laid to rest in the Bellevue cemetery on Sunday at 4.30, the Rev. H. Peters officiating. The remains of the two Worths arrived from Blairmore and were brought to the church where there was a short service, conducted by Rev. Peters, assisted by E. W. Christie. There were a few remarks from the Rev. Peters in which he paid high tribute to the young man, Edwin, who has been a member of the Sunday School for some time and who acted as secretary of the school till just recently.

The late victims came to the camp some seven or eight years ago from Royal Collieries, near Lethbridge, and have resided in Blairmore. They were people who were respected by all who knew them. The events of the last week came as a shock, although it had been known for some time that the elder Worth had been in poor health for some months and had not been seen in public for some time. The son and widow of the late Mr. Worth came to Bellevue the latter part of the week and will be returning to Fernie in the near future.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our daughter, Bertha Reuter, who died, Jan. 9th, 1920.

A bitter grief—t shock severe,
We little knew death was so near;
Only those who've lost are able to tell
The pain that's felt at saying farewell

Three years have passed, our hearts still sore;
As time goes on, we miss her more.
One of the dearest, one of the best,
We miss her most who loved her best

ENCOURAGEMENT

"From the Land of Sunshine and Roses"

S. Tucker, Inglewood, Cal., writes: "It is with difficulty that we can restrain our enthusiasm over the splendid victory gained for Chiropractic in the recent election here. Chiropractors and Chiropractic are more talked of than almost any other one subject. We have been surprised to find how many, among those we have met, are all for Chiropractic. People all over the world are beginning to realize the great advantage of relying upon Nature's healing forces. OLD TIMERS' BANQUET

Burns' Night was a wonderful occasion for the Fernie District Old Timers who gathered at the Fernie Hotel for their annual banquet. Mayor G. G. Henderson occupied the chair, and there was not an idle moment in the program during the whole evening.

Dr. Corsan having said grace, over seventy members of the association sat down to the magnificient spread provided for the occasion.

After dinner a toast to The King, was drank and a silent toast to our departed members; J. D. Quail, Mike Sorkie and John Beckett.

Addresses by Dr. Bonnell, Arthur Fenwick of Fort Steele, and W. R. Wilson, were listened to with eager attention by those present.

Dr. Bonnell expressed the great pleasure it gave him to again gather with old pals of construction days—the best friends he ever had. He spoke of the changes that have occured in the history of the world since those times and of the many old friends that had been killed in the recent war. He spoke feelingly of the lure of the mountains, of so many who had left the hills for the plains, but they were all glad to get back again.

Arthur Fenwick, of Fort Steele, expressed the joy it gave him to be present. It was a real pleasure to meet those friends of other days and clasp their hands again. He was a Canadian and his father and grandfather before him had been Canadians but he had come into our glorious mountains from Sand Point, Idaho, many years before the Crow's Nest Pass Railway was thought of. He always wanted to see just what was over the top of the next mountain and so he wandered until he found the grandest spot on earth, near old Fort Steele.

W. R. Wilson departed from his usual serious vein. He took for his subject association and with a series of anicdotes and stories kept his audience in a roar of laughter for nearly half an hour. Later he told of how he came to Fernie. He had been asked by the directors of the Coal Co., to make a report on Coal Creek mines and he had been so interested in certain conditions which he discovered there and which were absolutely unknown in the history of coal mining that he became intensely eager to make a study of them, and when asked by the directors of the Coal Co. to assume the management of the property, he accepted.

J. L. Gates, Andrew Rosen of Jaffray, Ald. Robichaud and H. J. Johnston also spoke briefly, relating their earlier experiences in the Crow.

The musical part of the program was certainly a great treat. Mrs. F. R. Lawes and Mrs. E. Kirkpatrick, sang several selections, and the Walker children, accompanied by Piper Strachan, gave a number of Scotch and Irish dances in coustume, which received much deserved applause

Thos Beck and Jimmy Johnstone also added greatly to the program with their recitations.

WONT ALLOW PICK'S APPEAL

CALGARY, Jan. 22. — Mr. Justice Walsh Saturday refused to give counsel for Emil Piccariello and Mrs. Florence Lassandro leave to appeal to the appellate court of Alberta against the death sentences passed upon two accused, on the basis of all or any of the 32 questions of law raised by McKinley Cameron in his application. The judge held that none of the technicalities cited were debatable .

Mr. Cameron announced Sunday evening that he would carry the application for leave to appeal to the appellate division of the court direct.

The hearing has been set for January 29, at Edmonton. At this hearing, Mr. Cameron will seek to show the appellate judges that Mr. Justice Walsh wrongfully refused leave to appeal. If the application is granted, Mr. Cameron will apply for a date to be set upon which he can appeal against the verdict on the basis of the 32 points of law wrongfully applied in the conviction of his clients.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

The City Hockey League is catching up on postponed games this week, four games being pulled off instead of the regular two and fandom is being treated to some real classy games of the national winter pastime.

Monday evening the Northerns and Bluebirds locked horns, the latter emerging victors by a score of two goals to nil.

It was really a battle between the opposing goaltenders, both being given some hot work at various stages of the game. Biggs and J. Thomson, scored for the Bluebirds in the second period, the only goals of the entire game.

Tuesday night, the Coal Co. defeated Ingram's 150's in a scoring bee by the odd goal in eleven. The final score being six goals to five. The Coal Co got away to a four goal lead in the first period. McTeer, T. Wilson son Sofko and B. Wilson beating Hovan in the first ten minutes. Ingram's somewhat livened up in the second period and Dicken found the net three times making the score four to three in favor of the Co. at the end of this period. The third period was a treat to watch both teams working hard and fast. B. Wilson and Sofko added two goals for the Coal Co. but this lead was reduced shortly afterwards by McLaughlin who scored two for Ingrams. Kirkpatrick almost tied the score in the closing minutes of the game when he sent in a rocket from the side which hit Dunlap in the arm and bounded out of play..

Thursday evening, the Northerns broke their jinx at the expense of the Coal Co. whom they defeated in a battle royal by a score of three goals to one.

The first period was rather listless until Ashton scored the opener for the Northern. This stung the Coal Co. to action and McTeer scored a well deserved goal a few minutes later, tying the score. The second frame was simply an exhibition of goal tending by Blundell and on one occasion he was injured so severely that he had to leave the ice for nearly ten minutes. Northerns practically cinched the game early in the third when M. Commons got a couple past Dunlap. The Coal Co. made desperate efforts to reduce this lead but Blundell foiled all their attempts to score.

This evening Ingram's and Bluebirds meet, the winner will top the league. Monday next the same two teams play and the following Thursday, Coal Co. and Northerns meet again.

SWASTIKAS WIN FIRST GAME 3-0

Featuring fast skating, tricky stick handling and a combination that would have done justice to any of the pro teams in the Western Canada Pro League, the Fernie Swastikas outplayed Calgary Regents three to nil in the first of their home and home series played in Calgary on Wednesday evening of this week.

Smartly attired in white knickers and red sweaters, the fair damsels from the southern city looked the part of real hockey players and during three exceptionally fast, fifteen minute periods they outskated, outplayed and outscored the Regents, in a game that proved a great attraction for a crowd that numbered close to eight hundred persons.

In justice to the Regents it must be said that they were far from being the same team that played under the green and white colors last winter, but this did not distract in any way from the brilliant performance dished up by the Swastikas. They played their positions, passed the puck when it should have been passed, and shot on goal whenever they had a chance. Their display of hockey was an eye-opener to the crowd, many of whom were delegates gathered in Calgary attending the Western Canada Fairs Association and the Alberta Dairy Men's Association conventions.

It was in speedy skating that Fernie displayed their greatest superiority. They skated like fiends, both offensive and defensively when checking back and only on two occasions did the Regents appear to have a chance for a goal. On the other hand, the damsels with the red and white uniforms shot so many times on Daisy Blight that the little Regent net custodian must have thought that the combined Allied Army was bombarding her.

From start to finish it was a case of too much Fernie and although they had a wide margin in play and were rushing two and three abreast and shooting at will, it wasn't until the second period that they managed to locate the net.

About five minutes had elapsed in the second session when Dorothy Henderson stick handled the length of the ice for a shot fifteen feet out which beat the Regent goal keeper. This goal urged the visitors to speed and more speed and three minutes later Dahlia Schagel staged an end to end rush and her speed enabled her to go clear around the Regent defense for a close in shot which gave Fernie a 2 to 0 lead. Three minutes later Mrs. Wilson and Edith Biggs staged a great combination rush, the former receiving the pass inside the defense and her shot from about ten feet out easily located the net.

The contest wasn't any pink tea affair by any means as the players, especially the Regents, used their weight and it was a common sight to see the girls sprawling on the ice. Mrs. Brownlee was the only player penalized, being twice benched in the second period and once in the third. While Dahlia Schagel appeared to be the fastest skater in the game it would be unfair to give any member of the Fernie team more credit than the others. They all starred, with the exception of the goalkeeper, who had an easy time, and the two subs, who didn't get into the play, although they gave their teammates great support in yelling.

MICHEL & NATAL VETS' BANQUET

MICHEL, B.C., Jan. 21.—Saturday night, Jan. 20, Michel and Natal War Veterans and a number of invited guests numbering altogether about 200 sat down to a turkey supper in Michel Hall as guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson, president of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co.

The Rev. Mr. Garlick acted as chairman and called upon the boys for a minute's silence in honor of their departed comrades before saying grace and partaking of the sumptuous repast which, laid upon four large tables, had everybody's mouth watering. After everybody had eaten their fill a splendid program commenced.

Mr. M. D. (Mickey) McLean, local president of the G.WV.A., gave an interesting address and thanked the host and hostess on behalf of the boys for their interest and kindness in bringing the bunch together for such an occasion.

Mr. Archie McCrone, Mr. James Cadoo and Mr. Steve Travis each rendered a song which was followed by a recitation by Mrs. Garlick. Mr. M. J. Condon then addressed the gathering. Mrs. Guillitt, a song, followed by a short address by Dr. W. Graham. Mr. W. Owen, of Fernie, sang also Mrs. Rutherford, of Michel, which practically completed the first half of the program. The surprise of the evening was then furnished the host and hostess when they were presented with a silver bon bon dish by the little infant daughter of Mr. Steve Travis, one of the local soldier boys; as a mark of appreciation from the veterans here.

Mr. Wilson, on behalf of himself and wife, responded fittingly. The next item on the program was a song by Mrs. A. Watson, then an address by Dr. S. Bonnell. Miss I. Dicken sang, followed by a short address by Mr. T. Uphill, our local M.P.P. Then came a song by Mrs. Suddaby, violin selection by Mr. A. Watson, song by Mrs. Tim Lawes. Next Hector McKaskill, piper, brought a grin to the faces of the numerous Scotchmen present. Mr. H. Bryant, President of the Fernie Branch of the G.W.V.A., then gave an instructive address on the amalgamation of the different bodies of war veterans, to be effective soon. This was followed by a short address by Maj. Moffatt, who had charge of so many of the boys here.

The Rev. W. Moses proposed a vote of thanks to the host and hostess and also to the Fernie and Michel artists who furnished such a splendid program. Mr. Wilson then addressed the gathering and advised the young men particularly to seek self culture and improvement, not forgetting to extend the helping hand to needful comrades. Mr .Douglas then led in singing "O Canada" and God Save the King," the gathering breaking up with three cheers and a tiger for Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Wilson and Fernie guests came down on a special train over the G.N., returning after the evening entertainment.

BRITISH PRESS ON FRENCH ACT

LONDON, Jan.. 20.—The Daily Telegraph published the following announcement this morning:

"Today the seventh of a series of articles which Mr. Lloyd George is contributing to the Daily Telegraph on current political questions of national and international interest, was due to appear in our columns. It deals with the action which the French have already taken and will take in the Ruhr, and condemns it in unsparing language.

"Mr. Lloyd George, as is well known, is taking a holiday in Spain, and in the interval which has elapsed since he wrote his article, the gravity of the situation in the Ruhr has manifestly deepened hour by hour. In view, therefore, of the delicacy and difficulty of the international situation and of the importance of maintaining, notwithstanding present difficulties, the friendship sealed by the common services of the two nations in the war, the editor of the Daily Telegraph has decided not to publish the article."

The Daily Chronicle, however, published Lloyd George's seventh article and, in addition, says editorially:

"In writing the article which we publish today, Mr. Lloyd George, we believe, has rendered a service to his countrymen and the world. He has written frankly and fearlessly—too frankly some people will say, but have those who say it realized how vital are the British interests sacrificed by France's action in the Ruhr?

"Take our interest in reparations. British taxpayers, large and small, groan today under such burdens as none ever bore before. We are arranging to repay our debt to America. France makes no gesture to repay hers to us and now our one hope of relief—that of reparations from Germany—is destroyed by French action. For though the pretext for the invasion of the Ruhr was to get more reparations, its effect, no serious person can doubt, must be to diminish enormously the amounts that the Allies can ever obtain."

"It is the old interest of the goose and the golden eggs. But do we all appreciate how important to us were those golden eggs which France is destroying before they are laid?

"Or, take a still bigger interest, our interest in peace. Nine-tenths of that vast multitude who fought, bled and died under the Union Jack from 1914 to 1918, died 'to end war.' It was the nation's slogan and we were and are sincere about it. But if there is one thing that the French invasion of the Ruhr is calculated to make certain, it is that within the lifetime of many—perhaps most—now living, there will be another great war in Europe. Is that an issue so unimportant that we can afford to keep people in ignorance about it?

"Only a few months ago some writers talked at the top of their voices about a 'new war' to arise from the side of Turkey. Turkey is a very small power, and most that was said then was mere scare-mongering, yet our people were not wholly deaf to it, so deep is their anti-war instinct. Are they now, to be deaf and blind and dumb when the seeds of a war are being sown—and that in the main seed plot of European conflicts, involving the greatest of powers not nations, from whose strife it will at least be possible for use.

"British statesmanship and British journalism have moved for many years in an atmosphere of extreme reticence regarding the French. We have never told full truth about their actions and policy, if that truth was uncomplimentary, and large numbers of our people are almost totally ignorant about it. Our motives for reticence were honorable. We had fought side by side with France in the greatest of all struggles, the blood of our millions had bedewed her trenches, an immense army of our dead lies buried in her soil. We felt, too, and still feel, that in avoidage of disagreement as far as possible between the victors of the Great War lay the best hope for the world's eventual recovery, and while the main policies adopted were allied policies, our statesmen could not freely criticize, however, much against their will but had to consent. Such reticence has long been abandoned (if it was ever practiced) on the other side of the channel! Can it any longer be maintained on this? We think not.

GERMANY CAN NOT UNDERSTAND THE WORLD

Imprisonment in the Dusseldorf jail of several prominent German obstructionists, and other acts by the French forces indicative of a stern policy, came as a shock to the Germans in the Ruhr region, who had brought themselves to believe that the French were bluffing.

Germany's inability to understand any psychology than her own has been her undoing. It drove the German people into the fatal World War in 1914. They were cocksure that Belgium would not resist when, to strike France at a vulnerable point, they threw their armies upon Belgian soil. They thought that Great Britain, intimidated, would stand aloof as a mere observer. They counted at least upon Italian neutrality.

Even with all these misinterpretations of national spirit and sense of justice, Germany might have won the war if she had not capped those blunders with the culminating folly of driving the United States to the support of the allies by ruthless submarine atrocities.

When that record is considered, it is understandable that the Germans have again made the mistake of misinterpreting military actions taken by France to enforce the reparations agreement.

And now they are surprised to find that the French are not bluffing, but have set about a disagreeable task with a resolute purpose.

It was hoped, when Germany kicked out the Hohenzollerns and set up a republic government, that the new Germany would profit by the blunders and misinterpretations of the old monarchy and put itself in closer understanding with the world.

It is regrettable that these expectations seem to have been unfounded. —Spokesman.

HAYWOOD'S ADVENTURES

"Big Bill' Haywood, the former chief of the Industrial Workers of the World, may thank his stars that the practice of killing men because they have annoyed the powers that be or "just because," has died down in Russia. Two years ago he fled from the United States to that country to become the Czar of an autonomous industrial colony in Siberia. It was called the Kusbas, and was to be conducted as an experiment in I. W. W. ideals. It has failed and "Big Bill" has quit the job, yet still lives. The trouble with "Big Bill' appears to be that he was better at talking and conspiring than he was at working and organizing industry. He spent most of his time in Moscow as an exhibit for foreign visitors and correspondents and tried to run his colony as though he were the professor of a correspondence school. He made the discovery that the conduct of a state or of an industry requires energy and mental concentration and his physical and intellectual make-up was able to provide neither.

And now, where is "Big Bill" to go? When he left the United States he was under conviction for having conspired against the welfare of the nation, but was out on bail under heavy bonds pending an appeal. He jumped his bail and his friends had to raise many thousands of dollars to cover the cost of this betrayal of their confidence. During his absence the appeal was decided against him, so that if he returns to the United States he must face a term of imprisonment and also the reproaches of the friends who were victimized by his flight. The soviet authorities have taken over his industrial colony and are running it as a business on capitalistic lines, so that there is now no place in Russia for a gentleman of his ideas. No other country wants him. "Big Bill's" resignation also makes it hard for a large number of blatherskites and loafers who established themselves as members of his Utopia; that they will probably be compelled to work. —Saturday Night.

Hollywood has had many scandals but Jackie Coogan has yet to be charged with shooting craps.

LOOKING TO EMPIRE

The Bonar Law government faced with the tremedous problem of trade depression and unemployment, is evidently turning its thoughts toward imperial cooperation as the way out. On the one hand it is looking to the increase of imperial trade to make up for the loss of European markets. On the other hand it suggests emigration as a means of relieving the pressure of unemployment. In both respects Canada bulks largely in the programme. It behooves us, therefore, to examine such proposals systematically, but also with a clear understanding of economic necessities. —Toronto Star.

Orpheum Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, Jan. 31st and Feb. 1st

"WHAT YOUR HUSBAND NEEDS"

"One night my husband came home looking so ill and worn out that I thought he would faint. I knew there had been something wrong with him for some time, but I could not get him to tell me what it was. Finally he confessed he was tired and sore all over. I made him go to bed. Next morning he insisted upon going to work although he was anything but well. I knew that his trouble was partly due to worry because for some months before he had been out of work. This put us so heavily in debt that the grocer and butcher refused to give us more credit. It was being out of work that worried my husband. He wouldn't eat because he was afraid there would not be enough food for the children. We were so poor that we had to keep the children from school because they had no clothes. I knew that if I could only get my husband strong and well again everything would be all right. He is a carpenter by trade and when in good health earns good wages and he is always sober and industrious. But I knew that it was impossible for any man to do good work when he was ill and worried. I decided to speak to our old family doctor, who had retired from practice. When I explained how we were situated he gladly offered to do all he could to help us, although he didn't like to interfere with the new doctor's practice. Finally he said, 'What your husband needs is a good tonic and I know of nothing better than Carnol.' I thought that if our old family doctor recommends Carnol it must be all right. On my way home I got a bottle and before the first bottle had been used, my husband was a changed man. After he had taken four bottles his appetite returned, he had more energy, that tired look in his eyes disappeared and what is most important his wages have been more than doubled and he is now superintendent of the wood working shop in which he formerly worked as a carpenter. Thanks to Carnol our troubles are over and we are once more a happy and contented family."

LAUGHTER REIGNS, JOY POURS, IN FIVE PART LLOYD COMEDY

Harold Lloyd says that it took four months to dope out the ending of "Grandma's Boy"—that final laugh that made its first audience, when it was previewed in Long Beach, Calif., laugh so hard that it held up the next act for ten minutes. The hardest part of a comedy, contends Lloyd and his producer, Hal Roach, is the "gag" for the final fadeout.

"Grandma's Boy" is hailed as Harold Lloyd's most pretentious comedy in a line-up of laugh-producing photoplays that have not had one mark against them. Lloyd's newest comedy is always a step forward, and "Grandma's Boy" is a mighty big stride ahead.

It is in five reels and its laughs, thrills and suspense are built around a theme as serious as the psychology of fear. Lloyd is seen as the bashful small town boy, afraid of his own shadow. When his little old-fashioned grandmother comes to his rescue with her great wisdom and teaches him the meaning of self-confidence, he makes the sleepy little town of Blossom Bend—and the girl in particular—sit up and take notice that the worm has turned!

"Grandma's Boy" is from the story by producer Hal Roach, and Sam Taylor and Jean Havez. Fred Newmeyer directed, and the cast includes pretty Mildred Davis, Anna Townsend, Dick Sutherland, Charles Stevenson, and Noash Young. It is an Associated Exhibitors feature comedy and will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre, next Wednesday and Thursday.

TORONTO FOOLISHNESS

A Toronto girl, 4 years of age, had been adjudged "Canada's loveliest child" in a competition conducted by a Toronto newspaper. And that in spite of the fact that the loveliest child in all the world is to be found in every home where there is a child! —St. John Telegraph.

The New York Central has sent its famous locomotive, 999, to the scrap heap. As far back as 1893, this engine, with Charley Hogan at the throttle, reached a speed of 112 miles an hour between New York and Buffalo. No other steam locomotive has ever run as fast.

DEMPSEY AND LEONARD BEST

Who is the best fighter in the world? Jack Dempsey stands out further in his division than any of the other champions, but there is so little high-class material in the heavyweight division that Jack naturally looks greater than he really is.

Today the palm must go either to Dempsey or Benny Leonard. Two or three years ago it would have been easy to pick the best. Jimmy Wilde, the 105-pound midget, did more startling things and showed better form than any other fighter in the ring. Of late he has gone back and now he has retired.

Wilde did not make his appearance in America until some time after he had passed the crest of his career, but even then he showed a great deal more stuff than anyone else possessed. Wilde could use every blow known to the ring and could use them in perfect form. Weighing as low as 102 pounds at times, he beat bantams, featherweights, and occasionally a lightweight felt the powers of his small fists.

For a little man like Wilde to concede ten pounds to an opponent and win is a great deal more remarkable than for a middleweight to win the heavyweight title under similar conditions. Even a few ounces make a world of difference among the midgets, but weight cuts little figure among big men.

In fact, great weight is more of a handicap than a help. Both Jess Willard and Fred Fulton were too big. Dempsey at 195 pounds has an advantage over men who scale more than he. The champion is big enough to have the necessary strength without sacrificing speed. If he weighed any more than he does he would not be as good as he is.

To get a line on how Dempsey and Leonard compare, imagine Dempsey as a lightweight. Dempsey uses only swinging blows. Leonard can hit straight with both hands. That alone seems to give Leonard the edge. Leonard's footwork is superior to that of Dempsey. For a big man Jack is remarkably light on his feet, but in stepping in or out to inflict or avoid punishment he does not begin to compare with Leonard.

Dempsey's defence consists of a swaying motion of the head and shoulders and a fast attack. That is all he requires against the slow-moving hulks he meets, but he would have to have more than that to get by in the lightweight class.

Although Lew Tendler virtually held Leonard even last summer. Tendler does not compare with Leonard so far as "class" is concerned. None of the other lightweights is worthy to be mentioned with Leonard.

Pancho Villa may become a great fighter. If the Filipino continues to improve he may come to be ranked with the great midgets who have preceeded him. Villa is so tough that it seems to be impossible to hurt him with a blow. He is so fast that he can land on the cleverest of boxers and he hits hard enough to bring down most men of his own weight.

A more sustained attack would make Villa a much better fighter. His attacks would be irresistible if he kept going in the way that made Terry McGovern so formidable. There is more of the wolf than the bulldog in Villa's makeup.

There are some who think that Johnny Kilbane is—or was— a great fighter. Kilbane is the smartest of all the boxers in the ring today.

None of the thousands of others has enough ability to be ranked with the greats of the ring. Georges Carpentier has some brilliant qualities, but he has too many faults to be really great. Lynch, Walker, Wilson and Greb are not worthy to be compared with some of the men who have held their titles before them.

Tom Gibbons comes close to being a great fighter. The man from St. Paul possesses far more science than most big fellows. He has plenty of speed and he hits with good effect. The only thing that keeps Gibbons for being a great fighter is his lack of determination. He is a wonder until the pinch comes, then he weakens.

Canada complains that we Americans know nothing about Canadians. Well, for the matter of fact, we Americans do not know very much about ourselves.—Chicago News.

Alarmed at the volume of western products now competing with local commodities in the eastern markets, a Toronto paper calls for an investigation of the cause and suggestion of remedy. British Columbia apples and eggs have already penetrated to the Atlantic Coast, while prairie turkeys are crowding the Ontario birds off their roosts. Something ought to be done.

PAYROLLS TO BE PROBED

EDMONTON, Jan. 22.—Edmonton coal operators granted their first concession to those seeking to find a settlement of the strike in this field when they gave permission for two members of the committee named by the Alberta Federation of Labor, to examine pay rolls in all the local mines for the past three months. J. Rae and W. H. Potter, both of Calgary, will carry out this investigation. The purpose of which is to see if a majority of the men, now at work in the mines, were employed prior to the calling of the strike. The striking miners have claimed that a majority of all men working in the Edmonton field walked out during the first week in December. The operators denied this, declaring that new men taken on since the strike started form but a minority of the present employees. The examination of the payrolls by these labor-nominated investigators is expected to clear up this point.

The operators declare that if this committee can prove that a majority of their employees are in favor of joining the U.M.W. of A., they will be perfectly willing to talk settlement terms.

Suspicious Explosion

EDMONTON, Jan. 22.—Saturday afternoon just about the time for changing shifts an explosion occured in the main shaft of the Penn mine here, which completely shattered the four 12 by 12 posts at the bottom of the cage shaft. The cage was half overturned but fortunately no one was in it. Two men who were in a nearby shaft were knocked down but not badly hurt. The damages are about $100 and repairs were made immediately. Police are of the opinion that it was "inside work" in conection with the strike.

Cause of Explosion

EDMONTON, Jan. 22.—Ice pressure at the bottom of the shaft at the Penn mine was responsible for an explosion which occured there Saturday afternoon about 4.30 o'clock, states Manager Jack Starky this morning.

Two miners who were approaching the shaft were thrown down by the force of the explosion, but not badly hurt. The damage which was slight, was repaired over the week-end.

Owing to the recent changeable weather, the alternating frost and thaw, water has seeped into the shaft bottom and froze there, the alternating process causing a tremendous pressure, from which the explosion resulted.

COST OF LIVING IN PARIS

The average income of a day laborer in France is about 200 francs a month, or $30. The laborers live on that, and live comfortably, but an American would find it very unpleasant. Outside of Paris, the cost of living is much lower, and $30 per month will suffice for even an American, if he does not spend too much for recreation and amusement. But in Paris, 300 francs is scarcely enough for even the bare necessities. Clerical workers are paid from 500 to 750 francs a month ($50 to $75), and Americans can easily live on that in Paris.—Cleveland Leader.

THINK NATIONALITY

Somebody has advised Canadians to stop calling the Canadian National railways the C.N.R. because the shorter term omits the important suggestion of "national." If we did it more the country would grow quicker. —Victoria Times.

COMMUNICATION

SIMPLY A POLITICAL DODGE

To The Citizens of Fernie:

We beg to take the liberty to insert a few lines in the Fernie Free Press concerning the hand bills which mentioned the names of the ex-Fire Chief, the present Fire Chief and Constable Dawes, and a thousand other things.

We can truthfully say that our worthy friend Mr. Marsham did not confine himself to the truth in stating that our well-liked friend, Jimmy McNicholas, was fired by Mayor Henderson from the Fire Department of the City of Fernie. Jimmy left on his own accord to join his wife in the Old Country, as this country did not agree with the health of his wife, and he thought of starting into some business for himself.

Secondly it seem very hard to think that I as the new Fire Chief is an encumbent to the City of Fernie, but I am pleased to say that the Insurance Adjuster was present at the Hospital fire, and taking into consideration the low pressure of water, the Adjuster was well satisfied with the Fernie Fire Department, and since Mr. Marsham signed his name to those untruthful statements, my wife has made a great many friends, thereby the old saying is still true, there is always good comes out of evil.

Mr. Marsham's statement to Constable Dawes that he knew I was not popular, so that was the course he took to get one back on Mayor Henderson, and to obtain a few more votes, simply a Political Dodge, and he said he was quite willing to take the bread from my mouth and eat it himself, furthermore, Mr. Marsham said so long as he swims, it doesn't matter who sinks in election time. But always remember no one can debase you but yourself; slander, satire, falsehood, injustice—these can never rob you of your manhood. Men may lie about you, they may make your feelings the target of their wit or cruelty—never be alarmed, never swerve an inch from the line your judgment and conscience have marked out for you. They can not, by all their efforts, take away your knowledge of yourself, the purity of your motives, the integrity of your character and the generosity of your nature. While these are left, the Fire Chief and Constable Dawes, in a point of fact are unharmed.

"You can circulate hand bills all over town,
But there is the thought I announce,
It is'nt the hand bills you peddle around
But the impression you leave that counts."

Fire Chief Theodore Johnson.
Constable Harry Dawes.

Dr. French's famous Distemper Cure—Suddaby Drug Store.

Mrs. J. S. Irvine was called to Vancouver early in the week, owing to the serious illness of a sister.

A man named Fred Smith was arrested at Baynes Lake on Saturday, charged with having carnal knowledge of a girl under 16 years of age.

Provincial Magistrate Stenson has resigned and Mayor G.G. Henderson has been appointed Stipendary Magistrate in his place.

At the present time it looks as if there would be seven rinks from Fernie attending the District Bonspeil at Cranbrook on February 5th.

Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Stewart gave a bridge party on Friday evening last, upon the occasion of the eighteenth anniversary of their marriage.

Don't forget to bear in mind the St. Patrick's Concert, "Light Through Darkness." Also Irish songs and dances, which will be held in the Grand Theatre, Friday March 16th. Curtain at 8 p.m.

The Great Northern Railway are converting a large number of locomotives from coal to oil burning. We understand this work will be completed early this Summer, and will have the effect of curtailing the production of coal from local mines.

Mrs. Henry Rowson, of 7 Ackland W., Albert Ave., Hall, Yorks, England, would like to receieve information about the whereabouts of her brother, Walter W. Stevens, who was last heard of four years ago at Fernie, where he was a sergeant in the guard at the internment camp.

Mrs. Fisher, "Echoes" secretary, Mount Fernie Chapter, I. O. D. E., invites all "Echoes" subscribers and intending subscribers and friends to an "At Home" next Wednesday afternoon from 3.30 to 6 o'clock. Will all kindly accept this invitation as personal invitations will not be issued. Subscription price and renewals will be fifty cents (50c) as usual.

The financial event of the week is the new issue of P. Burns & Co., Ltd., first mortgage 6½% 20 year bonds, in denominations of $1000, $500 and $100. Principal and interest are payable in Canada, London or New York, at the option of the holder, at par exchange.

Now is the time for winter sports, and Fernie is the place. Hockey, skating and curling are in their zenith. Snowshoeing is now at its best. A large party conducted by Mr. Brand recently visited the McDougal camp, luncheon was served and the party returned about midnight. Tobogganing, which was much in vogue some years ago is again reviving. "Slim" has purchased a new toboggan and consequently he is very popular these days. The Junior Aid of United Church is enjoying a party tonight on the hillside.

New York interests are very active in connection with Portland Canal properties, bonding and financing several groups with a view to active development during the coming summer. The spectacular results obtained at the Premier have drawn attention to the possibilities of that section as nothing else could. The Wilson and Trites-Wood interests have bonded several properties on which they are making payments, and either doing or planning development. The Premier Gold Mining Company has also been active in the investigation of other properties, with a view to extending its holdings in that district.

A very enjoyable time was spent at the home of Mrs. Strachan last Friday evening when a party of young people surprised Jim. The evening was spent in dancing and games and delicate refreshments were served. The party broke up in the wee sma' hours in singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow,' and everybody saying that they had a whale of a time. Those present were: Misses Lilian Graham, Nettie Ingram, Mary Hughes, Rose Frey, Dorothy Corrie, Edythe Kershaw, Gladys Bean, Georgie McKenzie, Polly Sloan, Jennie Strachan, Lilian Dicken and Masters Jim Strachan, Howard Corrie, Peter Gordon, John Reid, Thomas Evans, Norman Uphill, Thomas Nelson, Owen Corrigan, Nicholas Smith, Jack McPhee and others.

CROUP AT NIGHT

Need Be Feared No More, Says This Montreal Father.

If the child seems croupy, apply Vicks over throat and chest at bedtime. It usually averts a night attack. And if croup comes on without warning, use of Vicks often brings relief inside of fifteen minutes.

Mr. Keeling, of 1106 Newmarch St., Verdun, Montreal, Que., says: "I found Vicks very good for colds on the chest. My boy suffers with croupy cough and I rub his chest well with it and I get very good results. It is also good for colds in the head."

Vicks is the ideal treatment for children's cold troubles; it avoids so much internal dosing. Just as good, too, for grown-ups' colds, and for cuts, burns, bruises, sores, Stings and skin itchings.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

A special meeting of the K. of P. will be held Saturday, January 27th, at 7 p.m. Visit of Grand Chancellor, R. J. Davis. All members are requested to attend. A social will be held at 9 p.m. Members wives cordially invited. Please bring refreshments.

Two rinks from Cranbrook, skipped by Cameron and McPhee, came to Fernie on Wednesday evening to take home with them the Fleishman Cup, but as usual, the result was not satisfactory as far as they were concerned. McPhee lost to Kastner by a score of 14 to 6 and Mayor Cameron, while putting up a more strenuous fight, still suffered defeat by a score of 8 to 11. The Cranbrook boys surely anticipated defeat as they brought an undertaker with them on each team.

NO OIL SO FAR SAYS STILLMAN

No oil has thus far been struck in the Irma-Fayaban-Wainwright field, according to a letter to the Vancouver Sun, from C. O. Stillman, president of the Imperial Oil, Limited.

The letter follows—

Someone has been good enough to send me a copy of the Sun of Friday October 20, containing an article by one Howard T. Mitchell, on the Imperial Oil drilling operations at Irma in Alberta, and an editorial based upon this article. Since both editorial and article are at variance with the facts, I am setting down certain information which may be enlightening to your readers.

Canada consumes in six days all of the petroleum it produces in a year. The discovery of a domestic source of Canadian national securities and in supply would mean:

1. An appreciation in the value of our credit generally;
2. A material and immediate increase in population.
3. A stimulus to agriculture and industry in general;
4. The attraction of new capital to Canada in great volume;
5. A considerable augmentation of the national revenue through royalties on petroleum production;
6. A potential augmentation of petroleum to Imperial Oil Limited, and to all other companies engaging in this industry.

In these circumstances, is the search for a Canadian supply of petroleum to be encouraged, or is it a patriotic duty to harass and impede a sincere effort to make Canada self-supporting in this vital natural resource? Is Imperial Oil Limited, performing a national service, or is it, as your editorial suggests, endeavoring to filch an asset of great value from the people of this country?

The first comprehensive effort and the first outlay of capital on a large scale in an endeavor to find petroleum in Canada has been that of Imperial Oil, Limited, a Canadian Company, with six thousand shareholders in Canada. It has to date expended a sum in excess of three million dollars in a systematic petroleum drilling campaign which has extended from the forty-ninth parallel to practically the Arctic Circle, and which has covered a dozen widely separated areas in the western country. Around these areas thousands of leases are held by individuals or syndicates awaiting the result of our test.

In entering upon this campaign, Imperial Oil, Limited, made no bargain with either Federal or Provincial governments, nor did it seek or accept any special treatment or concession. We asked nothing from the government which the poorest prospector could not demand as a right. We accepted the terms and conditions as to rentals of government-owned lands, royalties upon all petroleum produced, and every restriction and regulation which had existed in the laws of Canada for years. Can the editor of the Sun think of any other development of a natural resource which not only has been carried on without government assistance or subsidy and which has been from the beginning a source of revenue to the national treasury?

Imperial Oil, Limited, asked for no monopoly—another company did. It sought and would have obtained, but for the opposition of the people of Alberta and Saskatchewan, the exclusive right to drill for oil over a term of years in practically all the potential producing areas of the Northwest Territories and Western Provinces. Being denied this, that company refused to take an even chance with other petroleum enterprises, and invest its capital, not in the Canadian west but in the more profitable and assured fields of California, from which vantage point it is now shipping petroleum products to compete with those of our refinery at Ioco. Our crude petroleum manufactured at Ioco comes from a field owned and controlled and operated by a Canadian organization in Peru.

Imperial Oil, Limited, has now been conducting its exploration campaign for five years, and to date it has not been successful in producing a commercial supply of petroleum. Every step of its operations has been closely checked by the Dominion and Provincial governments. The log of its wells has supplied a wealth of geological data to the Department of the Interior. Our operations are constantly under the scrutiny of government engineers.

Imperial Oil, Limited, has not proclaimed that its operations have so far been unsuccessful because it was not in the national interest to do so. If and when we meet with success, as we confidently hope to do, we will lose no time in informing the public of the exact facts, and we think that then we shall be entitled to due credit as pioneers in the production of a most vital commodty in the country. We have encouraged, by the loan of equipment, by the freest access to the geological data gathered by our own technical staff, and in some cases by financial assistance, the drilling enterprises of local groups engaged in a legitimate and serious effort to find petroleum. We have offered to cooperate with any of the large world companies willing to come into this country and invest capital upon the same terms as those under which we operate. So far we are the only world company drilling for oil in Canada, although every large company is now vigorously engaged in similar campaigns in foreign lands. When the expenditure of Imperial Oil, Limited, capital brings in an oil field there will be no lack of competition and no hesitancy on the part of companies which are now vaunting their patriotism and their British affiliations to reap the benefits of our enterprise.

You refer to a monopoly of the Alberta oil fields. Thus far for us it has been a mono[illegible] of great financial risk, of ardous labo[illegible] and of splendid effort to self-sacrifice upon the part of our organization. Whatever the outcome may be, the chief gainer must be the country at large. We have already paid hundreds of thousands of dollars to the government in rentals. If we find oil the government royalty is fixed at the level prevailant in the most prolific fields in the world.

In conclusion may I say that as a Canadian my greatest ambition is to find a petroleum reserve for my own country, and if its is not our fortune to find it we hope and expect that it will be found by someone. The task is big enough for all who are willing to engage in it, and surely because we alone have essayed it on a large scale and because we have gone from Coutts to Fort Norman with Canadian capital and Canadian men, is not evidence that our motives are ulterior or that we have anything but the best of the country at heart.

MAKES GLAD

The reductions in the passage rates to and from the United Kingdom and India, Australia and the Far East, which are now announced, will be very welcome to the commercial community, as well as to individuals in their private capacity. In so far as they will stimulate the travel and reduce its cost they will be of real value to commerce.—London Times.

But surely their leaders mgiht know, if they were not leaders of the blind. PREPAREDNESS

By Dr. Frank Crane

John Hays Hammond, Jr., inventor and engineer, warns the United States against saving money on appropriations for scientific work at the expense of national safety.

It is, therefore, his opinion that no effort should be spared in developing scientific efficiency in war, that we may be ready for the next conflict.

This is the usual argument. It sounds convincing. Its premise may be correct, however, but its conclusion is faulty.

There is no doubt that a war may come; and that it is the part of wisdom to be prepared.

The logic breaks down as to the method by which we should prepare.

It is assumed that the best way to make the nation safe is to develop efficiency in destruction to such a point that we may be able to outkill and out-destroy the enemy.

But that sort of program never did defend a nation and never will.

If we would use our brains and sense and devote our energies toward federating the world and devising some plan to settle disputes otherwise than by armies, we should be taking the only means for the prevention of war.

This does not mean that we should not have an adequate army and navy and should not be properly prepared by force to resist an invasion made by force.

It means that we should spend more money, thought and effort in perfecting some system of international agreement than in perpetuating the old system of national resistance.

We insure the peace and safety of the city, not by heavily arming our citizens, but by disarming all, except the policemen, and by strengthening the police.

World safety can only come in the way that city safety comes—by abandoning the principle of private protection and delegating force to the courts and the police.

It is as much a crime against sense for one nation to go heavily armed as for one citizen to go heavily armed.

The way out of war is by intelligent cooperation among nations. There is no other way.

For each nation to arm itself so heavily that no other nation or combination can conquer it is absurd and has never worked out.

VAIN PURSUIT

A vast part of the world's striving is striving for things that are not worth while, for prizes which are ephemeral, or which turn quickly to dust and ashes. Man has enthroned the artificial at the expense of the normal; but slowly the gravity of that error is being revealed to him. Humanity, after all, is learning the hard lesson, and if the leaven works slowly, let us never forget that it is working.—St. John Telegraph.

One reason assigned for the alleged superiority of New Zealand cheese over the Canadian product, giving it a preference in the English market, is that the long ocean voyage from the Pacific island give the cheese more time to mature. WHY BABIES CRY

It's often hard to find the trouble —It may be teeth — it may be stomach—but oh! so often it is just a chafed irritated skin on which poor Soap has been used.

The remedy for this is so simple! Hours of suffering—night after night of disturbance—have been avoided by mothers, who have insisted on—Baby's Own Soap. Of course it costs a little more, a very little more, however—than what is often bought and used—but four generations of Canadian Mothers are there to vouch for its purity, for the soothing healing effect on Baby's delicate skin, for the lovely pure flower fragrance it leaves when Baby fresh and clean is taken from his bath.

Don't you think, Madam, it's worth paying the 15c. a cake, a little less if you buy a box (3 cakes) which your dealer asks for Baby's Own Soap. Adv.

Contractor Out With New Facts

Vancouver Citizen Says Tanlac Put Him On His Feet 4 Years Ago And He Still Feels Fine.

George T. Sibson, well-known contractor, of 1069 Nelson St., Vancouver, B.C., is still another who has received both immediate and lasting benefits from the use of Tanlac.

"Although it has been about four years now," said Mr. Sibson, "since Tanlac set me right. I am still feeling fine and can conscientiously recommend it to anyone, for I consider it the best.

"For two years, before I took Tanlac, I was in a badly run-down condition. My nerves were bad, I could not sleep and felt tired and exhausted all the time. I had no appetite, lost weight continually, and was subject to splitting headaches. My energy left me and I was run down all over.

"Finally a friend advised me to try Tanlac and I began to feel good results almost from the start. A few bottles did away with all my miserable feelings and built me up to my former good health, which I have enjoyed to this good day."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

Over 35 million bottles sold.

RUSSELLITE RUSTLINGS

The attempted Americanization of Britain begun by Pussyfoot Johnson goes on apace. A few weeks ago we told of the advent of a middle west town-booster in Cardiff, Wales. The booster's chief antidate, H. L. Mancken has also been over there too; and now we hear that the Russellite millennialists are making a great campaign, the literature of which is to be found on the boardings through the land. Since the Russellites were caught using their prophetic pamphlets as cover for German propaganda in the United States and Canada five years ago they have been more or less under a cloud on this side of the Atlantic; but this is a matter which the British public knows nothing about. Since Bottomley is in jail somebody must exploit them. Thus the sojourner in the motherland sees everywhere the familiar announcements "Millions Now Living Will Never Die" and "Satan's Empire Falling." The Russellites are also making some promises that we do not remember to have seen promulgated on this side: "Life, perfect, limitless; with a regenerated race; on a restored earth; with a corrected climate and life-perpetuating food."

British publications are enquiring where the money comes from for this expensive campaign which bears the imprint of the "International Bible Students Association." The answer is fairly clear. The Russellites, like their founder, expect to persuade a considerable number of hopefuls to give up their money now, since they will not need it when the millennium comes. Pastor Russell did not prove to be one of the millions now living who would not die, despite the fact that his authorship of the promise should have entitled him to a share in its benefits. If the public knew as much of the International Bible Students Association and its founder as do the Canadians and Americans they would know that their history is rank failure to deliver the goods, as per schedule. Russell at various times fixed the beginning of the millennium for different dates. When it failed to come he would look up his "dope book" and proclaim that he had made a slip in his calculations but had the figures right this time. These postponements continued until he prophesied that it would come in 1914. We all know what the world got in 1914 and Pastor Russell was obliged to admit that the millennium was suspended for the duration of the war, and announced that it would come after the armistice, which he did not live to see. Instead of the millennium we got the Treaty of Versailles, which is hardly the same thing.

These circumstances have produced a lack of confidence in Russellite promises. But that suggestion of a "corrected climate" is alluring, especially in a January so variable as the present. If the Russellites can revise the weather there are all sorts of openings for him in Canada. In Ontario we would like a steadier temperature, a cessation of jack-in-the-box tricks on the part of the thermometer; in the West we should like an abolition of drought; in the maritime provinces a little less moisture, a better distribution of rainfall and presumably the trouble they promise to correct in the motherland. The "corrected climate" feature is an added boon devised by Pastor Russell's versatile successors. It shows that they are anxious to give the public what it wants.—Saturday Night.

TAXES RAISED BY HARD TIMES

Burden is Lightest in Communities Boasting Live and Thriving Towns

FARMER FEELS THE EFFECT

Is Inclined To Forget, At Times, That He Is Most Vitally Interested In The Prosperity Of Near-by Cities.

(Copyright)

Taxes are always heavy—to the man who has to pay them—but taxes in some communities are much higher than in others. If you have ever stopped to investigate the matter you have discovered that the lowest taxes are found in the most prosperous communities. And there's a reason.

The prosperous community has the lowest taxes because there is a large amount of wealth in the community against which the taxes may be assessed. There are prosperous merchants with large stocks of goods upon which taxes are levied. Property values are high and there are thriving industries which pay a large proportion of the taxes.

The higher the property values and the greater the wealth of the community the lower are the tax levies, for a lower tax on each hundred dollars of valuation is required to produce the necessary revenue for the administration of the city and county governments.

Other Taxes Are Raised

On the other hand take a dead town. Property values are low. Merchants' stocks are small and they have little money in the bank. Industries which ordinarily pay a large part of the taxes of a community have closed down. There are vacant store buildings which were formerly lined with stocks of merchandise upon which the owners paid heavy taxes. Who pays the taxes that were once paid by the merchants, the manufacturers, the bankers and the men who had large holdings of high-priced property? The taxes to conduct the city and county governments, to maintain the schools, to build and repair the roads must be collected from someone. Who pays them? The man who owns his little home or the vacant lot or two upon which he has been planning to build his home must pay double or triple the amount which he paid in the times when the town was prosperous, to make up for the taxes which are not paid now by the merchants, the bankers, the manufacturers and the big property owners who bore the heaviest burdens of taxation when times were good.

The farmers in the country surrounding the town are also amongst the heaviest sufferers from the ebbing of the town's prosperity. A certain amount of money must be raised by taxation to provide for the expenses of the county. Roads must be built and kept in repair. Bridges must be built and maintained. Salaries of county officers must be paid. County institutions for the care of the sick and the poor must be maintained. In counties which contain one or more thriving towns, a large proportion of the taxes for the county are paid by the towns. The greater the wealth of the towns and the higher the property valuations, the lower the tax levy for the entire county. When the tax levy is low the burden placed upon the farmer is light.

Burden Falls on Farmer

When the county contains no prosperous and wealthy towns, the greater part of the burden of taxation for the county falls upon the farmer. The value of property in the town and the higher tax levy that results from the lower property values in the towns makes his taxes higher.

The farmer forgets, at times, that he is vitally interested in the prosperity of "his town." He thinks that it is up to the town to take care of itself and that it is up to him to take care of himself, and he overlooks the fact that the prosperity of the town means as much to him as it does to those who live in it. The farmer who is inclined to overlook this fact has only to think of the matter of taxes and he is likely to change his point of view, for taxes are one thing that neither he nor anyone else can escape, and they are one thing in which the farmer ordinarily takes a very little interest.

How The Farmer Can Help

There is just one way in which the farmer can best promote prosperity in the town near which he lives and that is by spending his money in that town instead of sending it away to the far-distant city. Every time the farmer sends an order to the mail order house he helps to destroy the prosperity of his own community and to boost his own taxes. When he sends a dollar away from home he gets none of it back. When he spends a dollar at home, a part of that dollar comes back to him in some way. It helps the town where it is spent to provide a profitable market for his products and it helps the town pay a large part of his taxes.

The farmer is one man in the community, above all others, who should have no love for the mail order houses for they are doing more to add to his troubles than any other one agency.

COMMISSION ON PENSIONS

H. A. Bryant has been notified that he has been appointed by B.C. Central Committee as chairman of Sub-Committee District 17 (Fernie Provincial Electoral District) for the purpose of collecting evidence to submit before Royal Commission.

Any ex-Service men of the C.E.F., having any suggestions or evidence under the following clauses please forward same to Secretary or President, E.K.D., G.W.V.A, Command, Box 1116 Fernie B.C.

1. To receive suggestions as to—

Any improvements in the method of procedure whereby Canadian ex-service men may apply for pensions and treatment.

Procedure whereby these ex-service men may submit an appeal from decisions as to pensions and treatment.

2. To hear evidence as to needs of discharged handicapped men of the C.E.F. and as to means of making suitable provision for them, apart from any definite legislative provision which already exists.

Those contemplated by the term handicapped men might be considered as including the following cases:

Those whom real old age has at the time of discharge, with or without other disability, rendered unfit for employment on the open labor market, and those who are prematurely old from causes either arising out of or entirely unassociated with service. It is needless to say that this group will increase as time goes on.

Those handicapped by severe physical disabilities which are the result of deformities, amputations or arise otherwise from injuries due to service.

Those with some chronic condition due to service but who are not included in the tuberculous.

Those who are suffering from some mental or nervous condition in whole or part due to service.

The tuberculous.

Those, who, owing to various other causes due at least in part to service are unable to give any fixed occupation the same extent of efficiency as is expected from a man 100 per cent fit.

Examples of matters which might come under paragraph 2 are:

3. To hear evidence as to the extent and nature of existing re-establishment needs among Canadian ex-service men and their dependents.

Note—In connection with paragraph 3 it is to be noted that, under the terms of the Order-in-Council, this has to do particularly with the re-establishment needs of handicapped men. The Commission has decided, however, that while keeping this class particularly in mind, evidence as to the needs of other classes of returned men will be taken, but this should be confined as closely as possible to the nature and extent of actual existing needs, rather than to remedies the latter being within the purview of Parliament and not of the Commission.

4. To hear evidence and suggestions as to disposal of canteen funds.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Last week, through our columns, we published a picture of Young Rayner of Toronto, underneath which, was a challenge to Ernie Arthur for a bout. Monday of this week we received a reply and on showing it to Young Rayner, he calmly took out his pencil and wrote the word "accepted" across the bottom. Following is the letter:

Dear Sir—

I hear that there is a wrestler in your town by the name of Young Rayner who has challenged me for a match. I would like to come west and meet this man under any terms to suit him. I have just got back from Moose Jaw, Sask., as I wrestled there last Tuesday, Jan. 16th, and winning my match in the fifth round of 6 ten minute rounds bout. I would like to meet Young Rayner in a 6 or 8 ten minute rounds bout or under any way that will suit him. I would like to meet Rayner at an early date as I am booked in Winnipeg to meet Johnny Myers for the World's Title at a future date.

Hoping arrangements can be made for a match in Fernie and hoping to see you soon, wishing you luck, I am, yours as ever,

Sincerely,
Ernie Arthur.

CHIROPRACTIC ADJUSTMENTS

How it pulls at the heart strings when a child is sick. It is easy to disturb the nervous balance of an infant and once thrown out of order, the adjustment of the spine is all that will restore it and remove the cause of the disease.

The first thing to be determined is the nature of the patient's trouble. Then the responsibility is fixed by an examination of the spine. After being positive that the malposition of certain vertebrae have caused the patient's present condition—the next thing in order is the Adjustment.

DREADED DISEASE IS MASTERED

"Our baby, fourteen months old, was taken very sick last September. After a consultation of medical doctors the baby's sickness was diagnosed as cerebral meningitis. After weeks of treatment during which the child steadily failed and when hope was all but gone, I decided to call a chiropractor, and an improvement in our baby was soon noticed.

By the fifth day the fever was gone and he sat up in bed and played with his toys. He was apparently normal except that his eyes were crossed, but after adjustments for two weeks they became normal. We are glad to state that he has been well ever since, and we are surely thankful to chiropractic for what it did for our boy."

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the City Council was held in the Council Chambers Thursday evening, Mayor Henderson occupied the chair and all aldermen excepting Ald. Aiello were present.

The principle business of the evening was the matter of constructing a new water main from the City to Fairy Creek bridge to replace the old wooden pipe which is in a very bad condition. After some discussion a motion was passed issuing instructions that cast iron pipe be procured in sufficient quantity to replace all wooden waterpipe in the city leading to and as far as Fairy Creek bridge.

The report of the city auditor, G. F. Johnson, was laid before the council, and shows a gratifying surplus of revenue over expenditure of $30,-149.31 for the year 1922.

Mr. H. A. Bryant, representing the sub-committee of the G.W.V.A., waited on the council and presented a request from the headquarters of the sub-committee for some financial aid to help them collect data to place before the Royal Commission.

The Annex Sewer by-law came up for review and without further discussion a motion by Alderman Douglas and Barraclough giving the by-law its final reading was carried.

The feasibility of procuring a motor ambulance to replace the present horse drawn ambulance, which is becoming a heavy expense to the city, came up for consideration but the matter was set aside until some definite information as to the cost of such an ambulance was procured.

The request presented by Mr. Bryant came up for discusion and the opinion of the council was that this was a matter for the Dominion Government and not the municipalities to look after. However, the City Clerk was instructed to get in touch with Mr Bryant and get more particulars as to the work the committee had to perform.

WALDO BEAT FERNIE TWICE

Last Sunday afternoon a team from Fernie went down to a rather heavy defeat at the hands of Waldo-Baynes at Waldo by a score of five goals to nil. The request for a team to play Waldo called for a good team but not the full senior team as they figured Fernie seniors would be rather too strong for them. Fernie complied with this request and were rather surprised at the result.

Waldo meritted its win never allowing Fernie to become really dangerous. Wilde and Muldoon each scored two goals and Trenouth added the fifth.

The lineup:

Waldo—Goal McKay; defence, E. Wilde and Ross; forwards, Trenouth, Ayres, Muldoon, Sharp and Beattie.

Fernie—Goal, Dunlap; defence, Tobin and Biggs; forwards, Dudley, A. Thomson, M. Commons.

Tuesday evening, Waldo visited Fernie to play a return game and Fernie placed a team against them which was supposed to be one of the best possible, but the management made the same mistake as they did last year, the team was not picked until the night before; and composed of two players from each of the City League teams, consequently they had no practice in playing together, and this certainly showed strongly in the run of play. Not at any period during the entire game did Fernie show any material sign of combination and their individual work against defence players like Wilde of Waldo is useless and the result, six goals to three in favor of Waldo confirms this. Waldo arrived without their goalie and John Hovan, of 150 fame, took his place in the nets, playing a stellar game and his work was very instrumental in Fernie's defeat.

From the face off Waldo soon demonstrated they were not a team to be taken lightly and they gave the Fernie defence a few anxious moments. McTeer seemed to have difficulty with his skates and was forced to retire from the game, Tobin replacing him on defence. Wilde came through with a rush and opened the score five minutes from the start. Two minutes later Muldoon got an easy goal putting Waldo two up. After this Fernie retaliated and Bish Wilson got through and landed the rubber in the net, Hovan having no chance through Wilde being in front of him. Four minutes later Dicken evened up the score with a hard fast shot from the side.

The second period was evenly contested both goals being visited in turn. Jimmy Thomson and Trenouth were sent to the cooler in this period for a couple of minutes each for minor infringements. Dicken put Fernie in lead seven minutes from the start when he came through the Waldo defence and scored his second goal. This lead, however, was short-lived, Trenouth scoring the equalizer four minutes later.

Waldo took things in hand in the third session and Trenouth gave them the lead three minutes from the face off. Not content with this, Wilde, put on two more for Waldo in quick succession. Fernie seemed to be absolutely demoralized and could not get away from centre ice. In the last few minutes of the game, Waldo played a six man defence and easily kept Fernie at bay till the final gong.

The lineup:

Waldo—Goal, Hovan; defence, E. Wilde and Ross; forwards, Trenouth, Ayres, Muldoon, Sharp and Beattie.

Referee—C. Glover.

POLICE MAKE LIQUOR RAID

The City and Royal Mounted Police combined made a raid on the residence of Joseph Perri, at the north end of Victoria Avenue, and found five barrels containing 120 gallons of liquor, valued at approximately $3,000, stored in the basement of the dwelling.

This liquor was placed under seizure and Perri was brought before Magistrate G. G. Henderson in the city police court here Monday afternoon, but an adjournment of the hearing was made until today so that the accused could secure the counsel he desired to represent him. Upon appearing today a further adjournment of eight days was granted.

Immediately after Perri had left the police court, Chief Anderson of the city police made application for and was granted a search warrant to search the Grand Central hotel, which is owned by Perri, for liquor. On making this search, the police discovered eight bottles of liquor on the premises and this was also placed under seizure, so Perri will also face a charge of having liquor at the hotel. It is reported that a considerable quantity of the liquor seized is home brew.

ALBERTA MINERS WILL ASK SAME SCALE OR BETTER

CALGARY.—Demands for continuance of the scale of wages existing at present probably will be made by miners in district No. 18, U. M. W. of A., when they meet here February 27, at their annual scale convention, when they will decide upon the scale of wages they will ask the operators to agree to for the year commencing April 1. They may even go further, and demand an increase in wages, according to William A. Sherman, district president.

Mr. Sherman said it is probable that the miners will demand the same scale of wages under which they are working now, and which the operators signed last fall after one of the longest miners' strikes in the history of the district.

The present agreement between the operators and the miners will last until March 31, when, according to the agreement, another pact between the two will be signed.

ENTERTAIN SCHOOL GIRLS

The Mount Fernie Chapter, I. O. D. E., entertained the Entrance Class girls to a banquet on Wednesday evening, January 31st.

Mrs. A. B. Trites, the Regent, welcomed the girls and stated it gave the chapter and herself great pleasure to have the girls as guests this evening.

Community singing, a feature of the evening, was an added attraction.

Mrs. G. G. Moffatt gave a splendid address on the "Responsibility of Good Citizenship and the Franchise to Women." The drastic measures used by the militant suffragettes and the unpopularity of their methods. Canadian women took no part in this and then when the war was declared, these suffragettes took the place of men so effectively and efficiently, that Parliament and people began to say, "Why shouldn't these women have a vote," and first thing we knew we were enfranchised. The speaker said "now that we have got our vote, what are we going to do with. it?" In the first place we must learn to vote intelligently and be good citizens,and you will all have the privilege of voting in a few years for the man or woman who is to represent you in your town, province or Dominion.

"You are not too young to begin trying to be a good citizen; now a good citizen improves his own property, respects other peoples, the boulevards people have carefully made each season, he plants trees, shrubs, and lays out a garden or lawn, until he has become a real comfort to himself and an ornament to the town he lives in.

"It is your legal as well as your moral duty to respect all public and private property and to carry your ideals along the lines of construction, not destruction, if you would be a good citizen and to vote intelligently."

Mrs. A. B. Trites, the Regent, gave an interesting address to the girls on "Friendship and Fellowship." The speaker said in part: We as members of the I.O.D.E. are very interested in you and we are very glad you are striving to receive an education .

If education is teaching a man to think, to control his thoughts primarily, to be master of his mind, it is as absolute in the matter of character building.

Education is the process of equipping a man for service, whatever else it may do; and it is a failure if it does not do so. The speaker said there are three ways a man may serve his generation. There is the service of the hand, the service of the head and the service of the heart.

There are material values in life, intellectual value and spiritual values.

In the garden of charity, fidelity and justice, and brotherly love, we may cultivate everything in life worth while and after all it is really the small things in life that make up a great life.

We,the Mount Fernie Chapter, desire to see you succeed in life, but no one can be truthfully successful in life until he finds himself or she finds herself working in harmony with the eternal laws of the universe.

No man or woman can be his highest self until he seeks it in cooperation with the plans of the all wise King of each individual life.

A duet rendered by the girls was highly appreciated. Much credit is due Miss Hogan for the efficient training of the girls.

Mrs. A. B. Trites presented to Miss Hogan and Miss McMurray a copy of "Girls Manuel" from the chapter.

Our educational secretary, Mrs. Herchmer, was convenor of the entertainment and everybody spoke glowingly of the delightful evening spent.

Our parting song, "Leave Me With a Smile," seemed to catch the hearts of all.

The banquet closed with the singing of the national anthem, "God Save the King."

GRAND CHANCELLOR, R. J. GARDNER VISITS FERNIE

The Fernie Lodge No. 31, K. of P. was honored by a visit from R. J. Gardner, Grand Chancellor of this Domain, on Jan 27th. A special meeting was called for the occasion, in spite of the short notice, a large number were present. Brother Gardner made a very interesting speech touching on various matters on fraternalism, and also reported on his visits to the lodges in the Province.

After a meeting, a joint social of the Knights and Pythian Sisters, was held. Bro. W. Pennington accompanied for dances and Bro. R. J. Cooke, for the singing. Songs were rendered by Bros. G. Kennedy, D. F. Markland and R. Billsborough and Sisters M. Turnbull, M. Markland and A. Morris. D. Alton demonstrated to the assembly that he was still young by doing o double shuffle to a rathsprey played by Bros. A. Lees and J. Stockwell on the violin. During the evening refreshments and ices were served, the crowd dispersed at 11.45 p.m., all voting that they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

APPEAL MAY LAST ALL WEEK

EDMONTON, Jan. 30.—Present indications are that the application of J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., of Calgary, for a new trial on behalf of Emillo Picariello and Florence Lassandro, now being heard before the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta will not be brought to a conclusion until the latter part of the week.

Thirty-three questions have been raised by Mr. Cameron as to the conduct of the trial, empanelling of the jury and admissability of certain alleged confessions, but of these points approximately 10 have been argued to date.

The fact that the Alberta provincial police officer, Scott, who was taking a main part in the investigation of the killing, had not written down or taken any notes of Mrs. Lassandro's alleged confession was given considerable stress by Mr. Cameron. The counsel for the appellants cited evidence at the trial before Mr. Justice Walsh to show that Scott admitted that the first time he had put down the alleged confession into writing was his report to superior officers some nine or ten days following the incident, and had "carried it around in his head" during that time.

EDMONTON, Feb. 1.—The appeal of J. McKinley Cameron, K.C., of Calgary, to the appellate division of the supreme court of Alberta for a new trial on behalf of Emil Picariello and Florence Lassandro, closed on Wednesday afternoon, and A A. McGillivary, of Calgary, is now presenting the argument for the crown.

Mr. McGillivary, appearing for the crown, had made considerable headway in his argument up until noon today, and had covered 19 of the 33 questions raised in the application. The question dealing with the supposed action of Mr. Justice Walsh in not fully instructing the jury as to evidence as to the conduct of one of the accused being used against the other, was fully dealt with by counsel, for the crown, McGillivary argued that Mr. Justice Walsh had not taken this action and voted the case of King versus Kelly to show that even if this had been done in the charging of the jury, proof of common design or conspiracy would make such evidence admissable.

FACTS ON THE COAL SITUATION

The seriousness of the fuel situation in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec is sufficiently felt without the spreading of unfounded yarns respecting coal being kept away from the consumer or distributed in an unfair manner. A great many of our citizens are under the impression that there is coal in plenty, and that for some reason, not yet explained, the coal men, retail, wholesale and at the mines are playing a hold-up game.

Each month the Dominion Bureau of Statistics issues a bulletin showing the importation of coal into Canada, the production of our own mines and also our exports. If these were read and digested by those who are now busily engaged writing yarns as to how much coal is coming into the country and how little is being distributed, some real information might be given the public. But apparently that is not what is desired. What writers are evidently after is an excuse to stir up dissatisfaction and discontent by telling their readers that they are being imposed upon.

For the twelve months, up to the first of the year the importations of hard and anthracite coal amounted to 2,499,000 tons, as compared with 4,538,000, the three year average for 1919-20-21. In other words the importations for the year 1922 were over two million tons short of what they were during the year 1921. Of the total anthracite imported 165,000 came from Wales. It is also apparent that the Province of Quebec was on the job when it came to importing Welsh fuel their total imports, bituminous and anthracite, amounted to over half a million tons, whereas Ontario's total imports from Great Britain amounted to only 26,000 tons.

Of soft coal our imports are also much smaller than in previous years. The total for 1922 being 9,481,000 tons as compared with 11,472,000 tons the average for the three year period, 1919-20-21. The export of Canadian coal was also below the average in 1922, Eastern Canada having exported but 71 per cent of what it did in former years, while Western Canada did better, exporting 93 per cent of normal. This can be accounted for by two factors, home comsumption and low production, the latter mainly, as the Provinces where our coal is produced imported nearly as much from the United States as in normal years. For instance, New Brunswick imports from the United States amounted to 86 per cent of normal, whereas Quebec's imports including all the Welsh coal taken, amounted to but 64 per cent of normal and Ontario 53 per cent of normal.

Taking these figures into consideration is it any wonder that our coalless Provinces have had a bad time of it escaping jack frost.—Saturday Night.

88 MINERS APPEAR IN EDMONTON COURT

EDMONTON.—Eighty-eight striking miners who were rounded up by the city police on January 2, at the Standard mine appeared before Mr. Justice Simmons and a jury on January 24th, charged with unlawful assembly. The large body of prisoners with a strong guard of provincial policemen occupied the entire body of the courtroom, the trial going forward without any spectators through necessity.

The evidence introduced by the prosecution during the morning consisted mainly of recitals of what happened on the morning of January 2 when pickets assembled at the pithead of the Standard mine and, according to the witnesses for the crown, threw abuse and more concrete forms of disapproval at the miners who were heading for the shaft to begin their morning's work.

By breaking up into small groups, however, they managed to get to the shaft while the police on duty at the point told the strikers to throw down their clubs. Some obeyed while others still retained their weapons when they were formed up at the top and marched towards town.

BITUMINOUS MINES IN UNITED STATES SIGN UP

NEW YORK.—Bituminous coal operators and officials of the United Mine workers of America have signed a new wage agreement running for one year and covering the tri-state competitive field of Ohio, Illinois and Indiana. This agreement will be used as a standard for fixing wages and working conditions throughout the rest of the bituminous territory. The new wage agreement, it was announced was virtually the same as that which expires April 1, based on the federal fuel administration's findings in 1920.

Hockey Rules

Adopted March 19, 1919; Amended March 27, 1920; March 18, 1921; Revised November 20, 1922.

The Game

Canadian Amateur Hockey is played on ice by two teams of six players wearing ice skates. Each player is equipped with a hockey "stick" with which he plays a "puck" along or over the ice in order that his team may score a "goal" against the opposing team. The "match" is played for a stated length of playing time, and the team scoring the greatest number of goals is the winner. A referee controls the play, and enforces the rules, assisted by goal-umpires and timekeepers.

Players

1. Six players shall compose a team. The players are designated as follows: Goalkeeper, right defence, left defence, centre, right wing, left wing. In addition to the players mentioned, each team may use two extra players as substitutes, but there shall not be more than six players on a side on the ice at any time during the match, but each member shall have the right to use one more substitute in their branch competitions. This does not apply to elimination and final games.

A substitute goalkeeper shall also be allowed, but this substitute shall not play any other position but goal, and any substitution to be made only at the end of a period, except in the case of injury, as hereinafter provided for. In case of a penalty to a goalkeeper, he shall be replaced by one of the players on the ice at the time the penalty is inflicted.

The players names, numbers, playing positions and registration card numbers shall be embodied in the Referee's official report of a game.

Sticks

2. Hockey sticks shall not be more than three inches wide at any part, and not more than thirteen inches long at the blade. They shall consist entirely of wood, with tape binding permissible.

The Puck

3. A hockey puck is a flat, circular disc of vulcanized rubber, one inch in thickness and three inches in diameter.

Goal

4. A goal is placed in the middle of each goal line, composed of official goal nets supported by two upright posts four feet in height, placed six feet apart, and at least five feet from the end of the ice. The goal posts shall be firmly fixed in the ice on the goal line. In the event of a goal post or net being displaced or broken, the referee shall stop the play, and the game shall not proceed until the post or net is repaired. It shall be the duty of the referee before each match to measure the goals. A dark distinguishing line shall be drawn on the ice between the centre of each goal post and extending one foot on each side. From the centre of this line and fronting the goal a half circle shall be drawn in the ice with a radius of four feet. This arc shall be the goaltender's territory. (The home team shall be held responsible for the strict observance of this rule, and the referee shall not permit any game to be started until this rule is strictly complied with).

The official goal net shall be with a covered top extending seventeen (17) inches from the goal posts to the back bar on a line, and extending at the base along the ice twenty-two (22) inches from the goal posts. The covering to be composed of mesh net not covered with anything to obstruct the view of the goal umpire.

Referee

5. There shall be one referee for a match, except when the Executive may appoint an assistant referee, and in no case shall they belong to either of the competing clubs. The referee is to enforce the rules, adjudicate upon disputes or cases unprovided for by rules, appoint or remove umpires, control the timekeepers, keep the score, announcing each goal as scored, and at the conclusion of the match, declare the result. The puck shall be considered in play until the referee stops the game, which he may do at any time, by sounding a whistle or ringing a bell. His decision shall be final, and there shall be no appeal.

Timekeepers and Penalties

6. Two timekeepers shall be appointed, one by each captain, before the commencement of the match. It shall be their duty to keep an accurate account of the time of each game, deducting time for stoppages in the play. They shall report any variance in their time to the referee by ringing a gong, and the matter shall be at once decided by him. The referee shall also appoint a timekeeper who shall keep the time of penalized players, and shall direct them when to re-enter the game. The timekeepers shall be under the control of the referee. A gong shall be kept for their use. A penalty imposed on any player shall not commence until said player has reported to the penalty timekeeper. The duration of the penalty shall be measured in actual playing time, exclusive of stoppages. A player who is serving a penalty at the conclusion of a tie game or overtime period shall complete the duration of his penalty in the succeeding overtime period. Uncompleted penalties of a tie game shall not be completed in the succeeding game of a series of games.

Goal Umpires

7. There shall be one umpire behind each goal; he shall inform the referee when a goal has been scored. But the decision of the referee shall be final.

Goalkeeper

8. (a) The goalkeeper may stop the puck in any position or manner he wishes, in his own territory, but shall not throw or hold it, and no other player of the defending side, other than the goalkeeper, shall, during play, lie, sit, kneel or slide along the ice in the goalkeeper's territory. The goalkeeper may wear pads and a face protector, but must not wear a garment which would give him undue assistance in keeping goal.

(b) No player shall come in bodily contact with the goal tender while the latter is in his position, and any goal scored by any player while the goal tender is being charged shall not be counted.

Match

9. Each side shall have a captain (a playing member of his team), who, before the match, shall toss for choice of goals. Each captain must wear a 4-inch armlet distinctive in color from the color of his clothing, marked with the letter "C," to be worn on the right arm between the elbow and the shoulder, to distinguish him from the other players.

VALENTINO FACES REAL BULLS IN PICTURE

Real Spanish fighting bulls were transported from Spain to Hollywood via Mexico for the sensational bullring scenes of "Blood and Sand," Rodolph Valentino's first Paramount star picture which will be shown at the Orpheum theatre, Wednesday and Thursday. They are said to have differed from the domestic variety as "Man-o-War" differs from the humble truck horse. Running wild from birth on lonely ranches, shipped in black boxes to continue their isolation from mankind, they entered the arena with only the elemental instincts of wild animals, to kill and destroy any one daring enough to face them.

Sensational to the limit is this great Ibanez story of the life and loves of a young bull-fighter, are those scenes in which Mr. Valentino does sword and cape play before picked animals of Senor Miura, the Duke of Veragua and the Marquise of Saltillo, the three leading bull breeders in Spain. He was trained for the dangerous business by Rafael Palomar, famous Spanish matador, and was well-voiced in the graceful art.

"Blood and Sand," a Fred Niblo production, is a story of a bullfighter. It abounds in those colorful elements every American admires, It was adapted by June Mathis while Alvin Wyckoff presided at the camera. Lila Lee and Nita Naldi have the principal feminine roles while others in the cast include Walter Long, Leo White, Rose Rosanova, Marie Marstini, George Periolat, Jack Winn, Harry Lamont, Fred Becker, Charles Belcher and Gilbert Clayton.

Cheese is made from reindeer milk in parts of Norway. Being a seafaring country "skippers" are always in demand.

HOW TO SLEEP 3-IN-A-BED

YES, it CAN be done—but not like this.

The trouble is, most people go to bed with "something" on the mind—or ON THE STOMACH!

The answer is, no matter what the day has brought forth to upset your mind and digestive organs, take Beecham's Pills when you retire.

Though in no sense a "sleeping potion," this 80-years-famous household medicine so harmonizes the system that you can sleep in quiet and perfect rest, even in two feet of bed space.

Beecham's Pills are as efficient and harmless for children as for adults—sweetening the stomach, invigorating digestion and stirring liver and bowels to natural activity.

The Waldo hockey team, after metting out a 6 to 3 defeat to Fernie, here on Tuesday evening, journeyed to Cranbrook on Wednesday and returned with the short end of a 5 to 3 score. It looks as if Cranbrook is top dog in the district, but Billy Ingram contemplates contesting this point with his city league leaders.

Steam coal production in the Crow's Nest Pass district for January will probably reach the record-breaking amount of nearly 300,000 tons, with all of the mines averaging in the neighborhood of 11,000 tons a day, according to O. E. Whiteside, of Coleman. Mr. Whiteside, who is a past president of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Association, was a visitor in Calgary, Tuesday, attending a meeting of operators.

The redistribution bill, which will be considered at this session of the Dominion Parlament, will give British Columbia 14 members in the commons instead of 13 as at present. The quota per member is 38,000 persons. Greater Vancouver, on the lower mainland, which is at present represented by three members, now has a right to 4½ members on the basis of its population. For convenience, however, this will be made four members, and part of the district lopped off and attached to one of the adjoining interior districts, which will also have their boundaries adjusted according to poplation. There is also a possibility that the two Kootenays will be roughly combined into one constituency, and the member saved from that district put into a new constituency, to be created from the Cariboo and northern British Columbia.

Elsewhere in this issue, hockey fans and players, who are not versed in the new 1923 rules of the game, will find them in print. We were in hopes of being able to publish them in full, but owing to their length, we are obliged to regrettably carry part of them over till next week, and the most important part at that, bearing on the cleanness of play. There is one or two rules that looks as if they need amicable interpretation, for instance, the one pertaining to the face-off after an off-side from the goal-keeper, seems to be a rather tricky point to define to the satisfaction of all concerned and, about the only methods towards every player arriving at the same opinion and thus helping rather than hindering the referee in his duties, would be to get together and thrash the points out. This also would apply and go a long way in the matters of kicking the puck, tripping, etc.,and other rough and unfair play not defined in the rules but left to the discretion of the referee, who, in the opinion of players checked up for these infringements, has always sadly made a mistake. We think a study of the rules by players in a body would be a great help to the game. Don't you Mr. Player?

MRS. R. R. PIPER BURIED AT FERNIE

(Cranbrook Courier)

The grave closed Friday afternoon over one of the saddest and most pathetic funerals in the annals of East Kootenay, when the body of Mrs. R. R. Piper was laid to rest in the Fernie cemetery. The deceased, affectionately known in Cranbrook before her marriage as "Pat" Carlson, was a nurse of the very highest accomplishments, graduating at St. Eugene hospital in June 1921. Since that time she has registered in British Columbia, Washington, California and Oregon. In the latter state she was stationed with the Sacred Heart hospital at Medford, returning to British Columbia in December, 1921, when her marriage to Mr. Piper tok place.

Her sudden demise was a complete shock to her friends and relatives. She was apparently in good health when she went to the Kootenay Lake general hospital at Nelson to visit with patients. She had retired to the waiting room and complained that she felt faint, collapsing in the arms of Miss Katie Muir, a nurse who formerly was associated with deceased on the St. Eugene hospital staff.

CAPT. ARMSTRONG DEAD, EAST KOOTENAY SADDENED

CRANBROOK, Jan. 29.—Word of the death of Captain Frank P. Armstrong, in Vancouver, Friday night, has been received with regret by the old-timers of the East Kootenay, with which he was so intimately connected in the early days. He was one of the real pioneers, and had many interesting stories to relate of his experiences on the waters of the Kootenay and Columbia Rivers, when he used to navigate the river boats up from Jennings, Mont., to Fort Steele and Wasa, and down from Golden to the Windermere on the Columbia river.

This was the main avenue for trade and travel before the building of the Crow's Nest line, and later of the Kootenay Central, up from Cranbrook north to Golden, and it was to make a straight bott trip through that the now defunct canal to conect the two big streams at Canal Flat was built.

At the time of his accident about six weeks ago at Kaslo, when he fell from a gang plank against the wharf, he was in charge of the Kootenay Lake wharves for the C. P. R.

In addition to his own family, there are three brothers, J.F., formerly government agent at this point, and the others are in Montreal and Quebec. Mrs. M. A. Beale of this city is a niece.

The funeral is taking place in Victoria on Tuesday. The late Captain Armstrong served during the war on the river boat service in Mesopotamia, and probably in his time had as much to do with the upbuilding of of the Kootenayes as any one person.

SOVIET CONSISTENCY

The one perfect combination in consistency, according to an authority, is the combination of ignorance and arrogance. This combination has worked incessantly in Russia since the Bolsheviki seized control at Moscow. Not for an instance has the arrogance of the Lenine crew abated, and never have they permitted the slightest ray of light to enter their minds. If they did not formally adopt as a motto of their rule "ignorance is bliss," they have acted it throughout almost five terrible years. And they believe it still. At the very outset of their terroristic reign they made war on intelligence with intent to destroy it. They adhere to that policy although it has been demonstrated that the plentitude of brawn in Russia cannot be made of use even to itself without it is directed by brains. —Brockville Recorder and Times.

CLEARS THE HEAD INSTANTANEOUSLY

Melt a little Vicks VapoRub in a spoon. Inhale the vapors. Then insert some in nostrils, snuffing it well back. You will be delighted to see how it clears the head.

Catarrh sufferers seem to think they have to endure it forever because they live in a "catarrh climate." The disease is hard to get rid of, but Vicks brings welcome relief and in many cases persistent use has wrought permanent benefit.

Vicks is a quick-acting treatment for all cold troubles—absorbed like a liniment and at the same time inhaled as a vapor.

Mrs. M. Stefano, of 645 Somerset Sa., Ottawa, Ont., says: "When I first heard of Vicks VapoRub I decided to try it, as I had a severe cold in my chest and catarrh in the nose. I had been bothered with catarrh for over a year and every time I got in the least draught it seemed to settle on my chest. I applied Vicks on my nose and chest and rubbed it well. In the morning there was a change. I applied it on my chest for three nights and on the fourth day my cold was better. I applied it on my nose for one week for the catarrh and the catarrh is all gone. I haven't had a cold this winter and the catarrh didn't come back. I highly recommend Vicks VapoRub.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

The Vicks is new in Canada, it enjoys a remarkable sale. Over 17 million jars used yearly.

MUSSOLINI, THE HEAD FASCIST

Rome Correspondence
"London Observer."

Mussolini, on whom every eye in Italy is now turned, was born in 1883, near Forli, in Romagna, a province which breeds sons of fire and of "melancholy cruelty." His father was an unlettered blacksmith and an ardent apostle of Socialism, who preached internationalism to the discontented people of Piscaza with so much success that he ended in prison. Mussolini grew up restless and passionate. "I often came home with a broken head, but I knew how to take revenge." he tells us in a laconic diary quoted by "Arros." Sometimes he was allowed to blow the great bellows in his father's forge, but most of his early childhood was spent scouring the woods and fields in search of birds, "My love of birds was very great, especially the owls, and I was an audacious little country thief," he tells us. His peculiar love was shown by stealing call-birds from a fowler, which reminds me of an English boy who told me that he was so devoted to animals that he longed to be apprenticed to a butcher.

The Socialist blacksmith opposed his son's education, but his mother and grandmother insisted upon sending him to school and taking him to church. The long services unsettled him and he tried to escape them. "The rosy lights of the candles, the penetrating smell of insense, the color of the sacred vestments, the droning cantalena of the faithful and the tones of the organ moved me profoundly."

At nine years old his father finally consented to his going to college with the Salesian Missionary Fathers, whose schools were then very famous; and he even drove him there himself in the family donkey-cart. The donkey fell before they had gone any distance. "A bad omen," groaned the father. "A high-spirited boy," half-groaned the Rector, when he met Mussolini's fearless dark eyes and saw the bandaged hand, the result of a last "round" with another truculent spirit before leaving home. The little wild flower of the fields had been sadder to leave his caged canary than his brothers, but now as the heavy door closed behind him, upon his father and the familiar donkey, he burst into passionate tears.

A pen-knifing incident with an obnoxious companion led to his expulsion from college, and was followed by a further trial of college life at Forlimpopli, which at this moment is the centre of strife and bloodshed between Socialists and Fascists. At the age of twenty, after a brief period of sonnet-writing and an attempt to write for the Socialist organ "Avanti!" he obtained a post as schoolmaster at the communal school at Gualtieri Emilla on the River Po. His salary for teaching forty little boys, whom he soon learned to love, was fifty-six lire a month (£2 odd at the old exchange); 40 lire went in board and lodging. No wonder that when the long vacation came he sought his fortunes in Switzerland. It is characteristic that while on the tramp he heard of his father's imprisonment and hesitated whether he should return; he went on. Full of faith, enthusiasm and ideals, the young Mussolini gained a following and became editor of a violent revolutionary paper, spreading Marxist doctorines, and was soon expelled as undesirable alien.

Hungry, irate with God and with himself but undaunted, Mussolini is again upon the road. He begs for bread—no, I should say demands bread in resolute, defiant tones, as he bursts into a family supper-party in a courtyard just off the road. He steps back into the darkness of his silent pilgrimage, drives his teeth into the bread with rage, closing his eyes, vainly striving to shut out the picture of that family circle, the wondering eyes of the startled children, and of that friendly hand holding the white bread out to him under the lamp-light.

He worked as a laborer for two and a half lire a day, he suffered imprisonment for sleeping in vagabond style in an empty wooden box, but it was a period more of spiritual than of material suffering. One day, while wandering towards a city where fame glanced at him, he met a Russian, a fair young man with mild blue eyes and a smile of humble resignation. He carried a parcel of books under his arm, an alarm clock in his hand. There was a dignified exchange of civilities between the pilgrims, the clock being delicately set down on the roadside while the Russian showed his visiting card—"Student in Philosophy, docotor in Medicine, doctor in Law, professor in Fine Arts." They shook hands, and the Apostle of Tolstoi and the Apostle of Karl Marx tramped the road together. But there is one thing that Mussolini has always objected to; the sharp "trin trin" of a telephone bell drives him distracted. He looks with suspicion at the alarm clock.

"Why do you carry that clock?" he finally asked.

"I do not know wnere to put it."

"They will take you for a thief and imprison us both."

Then came an ultimatum—the company of Mussolini or the possession of an alarm clock? The Russian knew his clock; he did not know Mussolini.

"Goodbye," he said, firmly clasping the clock and his books.

"Goodbye," said Mussolini, "and, by the way, what time is it?"

Mussolini did not mean to stay in vagabond obscurity; he felt his powers, and people soon flocked round him. His gifts of leading and organizing masses of people, and his incisive pen was welcomed, and as quite a young man he became acknowledged leader of the Italian Socialists Party, and was even made editor of their chief organ the "Avanti!" The war came as a shock to Mussolini; it showed him that Socialism led to a precipice, and his acute political instinct made him realize the necessity for intervention if Italy were to remain a nation. He resigned his posts, left the ranks of the Socialists, and founded a daily newspaper, the "Popolo d'Italia"; he then volunteered for the front. He was wounded, and returned to Milan to continue another kind of warfare in the columns of his newspaper, which was getting an immense circulation among the rising generation of young patriots whose mentality Mussolini thoroughly understood.

No one will understand this strangely interesting man if they do not realize his newspaper and his passion for it. The "Popolo d'Italia" is his own child, born of his spirit; Fascismo; born of the spirit of war, is his carefully-trained foster-child. His imposing head office at Milan is both fortress and home to him. He has gathered there a varied company of writers, chosen more for explosive talent than for culture. No spectacled academicians, no musty tomes or reference for Mussolini's electric journalism. He seems to think that life-enhancing qualities will enable them to jump the pitfalls of their profession. Thus the "Popolo d'Italia" is growing up like a precocious bold and rather insolent child, somewhat unkempt but brinful of nerve and personality. The articles on foreign affairs have a fascinating originality, as if written by perennial youth teaching us about the future, careless to learn the lesson of the past.

It was a shock to Socialists when such a patriotic paper was founded during the war, and they immediately said it was financed by France. The accusation was disproved by a "jure d'honeur" who studied the balance sheets. During those early days of struggle there was sometimes only enough money to pay compositors and porters, but the staff never minded rough times. They had Mussolini, and what did anything else matter? they said. He is the life of the place; he darts in and out with that quiet rapidity which keeps his people on the "qui vive." When Mussolini shuts himself up in his lair to write one of his impassioned articles, seated under the black flag of the Arditi, skull and dagger its device, with revolvers resting among his papers, a hunting-knife glistening upon a volume of Carducci, the bravest of his staff dare not approach him.

I have seen and spoken to Mussolini several times; but who can know him? He has a part to play. He struck me as a taciturn man with a gift of speech; one who loved no man and all men; who could be kind and generous to friends but crush an enemy without a pang. His penetrating eyes watch one, and he avoids being the first to speak. I had the sensation of being in the presence of a volcano at rest but by no means extinct. In the apparent simplicity of his character lies its complexity. Like Napoleon he would rule the word "impossible" out of the dictionary, and orders must be carried out at once, if not sooner. A hard worker, morally and physically courageous, with amazing driving power, he commands respect. But he rules successfully more because he inspires fear and admiration than love. "Etremendo," say his followers.

The alarming thing about Fascismo is that all the Fascists long to look like Mussolini. His "arm" now consists of 400,000 well-disciplined "Black Shirts," who would follow him anywhere without questioning. He is called "Il Duce," and they think that he could fill any position on earth or in heaven better than any other mortal. He has the great quality of being able to delegate work and authority. There is the "fighting Fascio" and the "Syndicalist Fascio," which include the 400,000 youths on active service and 700,000 workmen, each with its own organization. At the same time they all know that Mussolini is the mainspring of the whole movement, and when there are difficulties he alone has the grip of the situation and can command obedience.

With Fascismo at the crest of the wave it is impossible to exaggerate the political power of Mussolini and the far-reaching influence he at present exercises in the Italian home. Everyone will realize what rocks lie ahead for a leader who governs by force—"Je m'en fiche" for his motto—who allows no other ideals but his own, and teaches a particular brand of patriotism which exhilarates national vanity. "Italia dev' essere fascista," says the Chief. Italy is to be moulded afresh, and the new mold is Mussolini's patent.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

Tells how to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain.

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you.

Mrs. Hodgins Says Tanlac Entirely Overcame Her Indigestion—Strength Has Returned

"I have more faith in Tanlac than any medicine I know of, and will always feel grateful for the way it helped me," declared Mrs. Elizabeth Hodgins, 404 Hastings St., E., Vancouver, B.C.

"About three years ago I suffered from such a terrible case of stomach trouble it was almost impossible for me to retain a thing I would eat. In just a little while after eating I was in misery with gas on my stomach and cramping pains. I would go for days unable to keep down a bite of food, was so worn out I could hardly walk, and kept getting worse.

"A neighbor who had taken Tanlac advised me to try it, and when I started I felt so much better I kept on till I had taken four bottles. The stomach trouble left me, I now eat anything, have plenty of strength, and enjoy splendid health. I can't say too much for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.

Over 35 million bottles sold.

AN INTERVIEW WITH PROMINENT THEATRICAL MAN

W. J. MALCOMB

Famous Character Man of the Old School.

JO-TO COMPANY:

Under God, Jo-To saved my life. Why, man, I had suffered tortures from stomach trouble for thirty years. I had five X-Ray examinations made of my stomach and three doctors told me I had ulcers there that would finish me. For two years and eight months I never did a tap of work and what I suffered no one will ever know. During this period my wife and I lived on $350 and the generous assistance given us by the Elks, of which lodge I am a member. I fell away in weight from 263 pounds to 130. Just think of that for a man of more than average height. Why, man, I was dying, and was in a condition that I did not care how soon it happened.

Then I happened to try Jo-To. I was in such agony that I would have taken anything, and you can fancy how happy I was when I found that Jo-To relieved me. I took the first box and as I continued to improve I took four more before I was back to the normal. Now look at me! I weigh 180 pounds and feel like a boy. Why, the benefit to my nerves was wonderful. It used to be that I would feel like screaming if I heard a scratching sound, but when you came in, do you know what I was doing? I was filing a thin piece of steel to make a key, and the rasping did not bother me a bit. Let me tell you something else. My head is now so clear and I feel so active that my earning capacity is wonderfully increased. In addition to my regular work here I carry out little plans on the side that have added materially to my income. In short, instead of dying I am alive in every sense of the word.

Go ahead and tell the world about Jo-To. Tell them I have so much faith I would stake my life on its efficacy, for Jo-To saved my life as sure as God is in heaven. Anybody that doubts this can only write me or come and see me, and I will convince them that it is the truth. The farther you can spread the story the better it will be for mankind.

W. J. MALCOMB.

Jo-To quickly and harmlessly relieves all stomach distress and suffering such as gas, acid, sour stomach (heartburn), bloating, and all after eating distress. Guaranteed absolutely harmless. Sold at all drug stores.

AUTOMOBILE TOURIST TRAVEL

What it Means in Dollars to South-Eastern British Columbia and to Southern Alberta — by J. Fred Spalding, Commissioner of The Tourists Association of South-Eastern British Columbia and Southern Alberta.

With the advent of 1923 and the opening of the Banff-Windermere Road, we shall see the real commencement of automobile tourist travel to our part of Western Canada, and the time is now opportune to endeavor to bring the business men of the country to a fuller realization of what this tourist business will mean to them. By business men I mean not only those in business in our cities and towns, but the farmer as well, in fact, everyone who has any financial interest in the country is, or should be, vitally interested in the development of the Tourist Industry.

Four years ago an automobile tourist to Eastern B. C., was sufficient curiosity to arouse our curiosity. Americans did not know that there were roads fit to travel over between their country and ours, or that they would find good roads here, especially in the mountain sections, and local travel between our two provinces was practically confined to commercial travelers.

In an endeavor to bring tourists to see the scenery around Fernie and Cranbrook, those two boards of trade individually commenced to issue a few hundred pamphlets. This was in 1918 and 1919. This was followed in 1920 and 1921 by a co-operative campaign put on by the Associated Boards of Trade of South-Eastern B.C. In 1920 a 30-page descriptive and beautifully illustrated booklet was prepared, and 10,000 of them distributed in the United States and Canada. In 1921 we had another booklet about the same size but confined to illustrations, and they were distributed in the same way.

At the end of 1921 season, as a result of other cities desiring to co-operate in this publicity, The Tourist Association of South-Eastern B.C. and Southern Alberta was formed, the controlling interests being the Boards of Trade of Lethbridge, Cardston, Fernie, Cranbrook, Windermere, Nelson, Trail and Grand Forks, and the City Councils of Pincher Creek, Macleod and Banff. This co-operation enabled us to issue a forty-page descriptive and well illustrated booklet which fully described the beauties of our scenery and general excellence of our roads, and 15,000 of these went all over the American continent in 1922. In addition to this, during the four years in question, descriptive articles appeared in newspapers and magazines from time to time.

Resulting from this four years of advertising, what do we find? An increase in automobile travel throughout South-Eastern B.C. and Southern Alberta of several thousands per cent. In 1919 there were probably less than 500 cars through here. In 1920 this increased to about 1,200 cars, In 1921 it jumped to more than 2,000 cars; and last year to over 3,500 cars. This has been accomplished at a total cost of less than $12,000 spread over that term of four years.

This great increase in motor travel has forced our governments to improve our roads, and the different cities and towns along the routes to prepare camping grounds. We can now advertise, without the slightest exaggeration, that the roads in the territory represented by membership in our Association are absolutely the best of their kind in all of North America, and that camping grounds, the equal, if not superior, of any in the United States will be found every few miles. This is admitted by ALL the tourists, no matter where from.

It is an unquestionable fact that the scenery in the Canadian Rockies surpasses in grandeur any other in America, and this is an asset worth many millions of dollars. It only remains for us to see that we take full advantage of what nature has so bountifully supplied us with, to enable us to collect this revenue.

Four years ago, after making a tour of the greater part of North America by automobile to find out at first hand just how our scenery did compare with that elsewhere. I made the statement that I was quite convinced that if this part of Western Canada was properly advertised, within FIVE YEARS it would be "THE MOTORING PLAYGROUND OF AMERICA." I see the fulfillment of that prophesy with the opening of the Banff-Windermere Road on June 30th next.

As an instance evidencing the interest in the Canadian Rockies in one state alone, I have recently received an urgent request from the touring manager of The California State Automobile Association for 5,000 maps showing the Banff-Windermere Road particularly. He states that he does not believe that even that large number will fill his requirements for the coming season, and that he expects he will have to ask for another lot later on.

The Dominion Government and the Canadian Pacific Railway Company between them have had several thousand feet of film taken over the Banff-Windermere Road, and this is now being shown through the Associated Screen News Service in over 7,000 theatres throughout Canada, the United States and Europe. Next month our Association will be sending 60,000 large maps to every part of the American continent and in many other ways the eyes of the motoring public of America will be brought to a focus on South-Eastern British Columbia and Southern Alberta this summer.

By those who are in a position to know, it is conservatively estimated that there will be over one thousand automobiles present at the opening ceremonies of the Banff-Windermere Road, which is to be an International event on June 30th next and from then to the end of the motoring season, at a still more conservative estimate, over ten thousand cars will pass over it. This 10,000 cars are what are expected to come from United States points alone. We cannot estimate the number of Canadian cars yet, but I believe there will be several thousand of them which will make the 566 mile Circle Tour of the Rockies.

MAN OF MINE ROMANCE DIES

SACRAMENTO.—James L. Butler, 67, who, with his wife founded the town of Tonopah, Nev., in 1901, died here today. Mrs. Butler, who was known as "the mother of Tonopah," died last June.

Butler and his wife left their ranch in Lake county in 1901, heading overland for what was known as the Klondike district of Nye county, Nev. They lost their way four miles north of Tonopah, near Frazier's Springs. Two burros which were pulling their buckboard strayed from their camp. For four days the Butlers searched for the burros or for help in finding their way to their destination.

On the fourth day of their search, wearied by their wanderinys, Mrs. Butler sat down on a great ledge, now known as Mount Oddie. She kicked a piece of rock loose. It gleamed like virgin silver. When her husband appeared with the vagabond burros, Mrs. Butler displayed her find. They christened the site Mizpah from the old Hebrew blessing: "God be with you." The Discovery mine was sunk there and yielded fabulous returns. It is estimated Butler left $1,000,000.

Another sign of an early spring An anti-mosquito convention is to be held in Florida next week.

JUVENILE SETTLERS

One of the most important results of the recent visit to Canada of Commissioner David C. Lamb, head of the Emigration work of the Salvation Army, and his conferences with the Minister of Immigration and Colonization, is that official endorsation was given to the proposal of the Salvation Army to bring a number of selected juveniles from the British Isles to settle in the Dominion.

Part of the plan is to place a number of these boys, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, as apprentices on Canadian farms. These boys will be chosen from among many who are ready to leave school. Many of them are the children of parents who are unable to afford to continue their education or bear the expense that is incidental to a long apprenticeship to a skilled trade. It is here where the Salvation Army will cooperate. With the joint approval of the boy and his parents, arrangements will be made for the boy to come to Canada, where he will be placed as a farm apprentice under a contract for one year. Every possible precaution will be taken to see that the boys chosen are of excellent character.

Already Adjutant W. Spearing, of the Salvation Army, Vancouver, has received several requests from farmers in British Columbia, who are willing to take one of these boys.

It has been arranged that the first party of boys will arrive in Canada sometime in March, and a quota will be placed on farms in British Columbia.

In the past forty years, about 76,000 juveniles have come to Canada from the Mother Country under the auspices of such Agencies as the Salvation Army and it is significant that none have become a charge on the Canadian public, many, indeed, have become prominent citizens, a number being conspicuous in the public life of the Dominion. During the war over 10,000 of these boys enlisted with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

APPROPRIATION FOR NEW STATION AT INVERMERE

INVERMERE, Jan. 29.—The announcement made by Vice-president D. C. Coleman, in dispatches from Winnipeg, that an appropriation had been passed for the building of a depot at Lake Windermere, confirms a rumor that has been floating about periodically for many years. Lake Windermere is the depot for the whole of the Lake Windermere district. It enjoys the distinction of being the only station on the Lake Windermere branch betwen Golden and Fort Steele which has enjoyed the benefit of an agent since December 1914. A modest little portable depot, a box-car on the ground has done duty all these years, but with the proposed opening of the Banff-Windermere road on June 30, it is no doubt thought that it is time the old box-car took a move.

WINDERMERE GOOSE YIELDS GOLD; MEN RUSH TO LOCATE

INVERMERE, Jan. 29.—A mild ripple of excitement has occured in this vicinity by the fact that a good housewife, in dressing a domestic goose which had been in residence near Brady Creek on the western shore of Lake Windermere, had taken out enough free gold to pay for the cost of the bird.

The rumor says that all the other birds in the flock have since been bought up, but the results of the examinations have not been made public. The good news is spreading rapidly. When first reported it was as above. By noon the next day is was reported on the streets that the good lady had taken $12 away from the goose, and by 6 o'clock the same night the amount had risen to $22. It is still going.

Be the rumor as it may, some excitement has been raised and it is creditably stated that no less than 35 placed claims have been staked, taking up practically all the available ground. It is said that no prospecting had ever been done on this creek before. Those who are interested are awaiting anxiously the arrival of spring to be able to carry on. At present the snow prevents all work, beyond that of staking.

If the German miners refuse to work in the coal mines the French may proceed to convert the black Forest into fuel.

"Two and One Is Shoe Polish," Little Pat's Answer

Little Pat started at school yesterday, entering the first grade. After he had come home his mother listened to many strange tales of the day's doings. But Pat's reports were not confined to his domain alone, for in the early part of the evening he was walking along the street near his home, when a grownup friend stopped him.

Right away things started. No questions were needed. Pat was wound up like an eight-day clock.

"Say, I went to school today and gee whilikins, what a time we had. De teacher giv us a piece of paper dat was about a yard long and about a foot wide and she made us put numbers all over de place."

"What, a yard long and a foot wide?" asked Pat's friend.

"Yes," was the reply, and then the youngster measured off a distance of about 16 inches long and about three inches wide. That was Pat's idea of a yard and a foot.

"De teacher axed me if I cud count and I told her yes and I can add, too."

"What is one and one, Pat?"

"Two, and two and two is four and three and three is six," kept on Pat without a letup. He continued this until he reached seven and seven. He could not answer this.

The little fellow's friend then tried him on a lower number.

"What is two an one, Pat?"

"Shoe polish."

"What is two an' one?"

"Shoe polish, I said."

"No, two and one makes three."

"Ya can't tell me, mister, cus I knows, two an' one is shoe polish."

Nothing could make Pat believe that two an' one was anything el

"I Was Run Down"

"Body was completely covered with Boils"

"If you have ever had boils, you know how painful and annoying even one or two can be. But imagine having your whole body almost entirely covered with them! I am a watchmaker by trade, making a specialty of repairing the highest grade movements. This is probably the most trying of any mechanical work, particularly for a nervous individual like me. Working under great strain both day and night for three months, brought me almost to a state of collapse. I was so irritable and nervous that the slightest thing would 'send me up in the air.' If I managed to get a few hours of sleep at night I was lucky. I had no appetite for food. I certainly was miserable. During this time boils began to appear on different parts of my body and the pain from them made life a misery. My suffering was so great at times that I felt there was nothing left for me to do but to end it all. I consulted doctors but they all told me that if I didn't give up my work and live out of doors, I would go into a decline. As I had no money I couldn't do this. In fact paying doctors' bills and buying medicines used up all the money I made. Finally in desperation, I decided that I would either kill or cure myself, so I began to study my case. I realized that I was as completely run down as any one could possibly be with a bad case of nerves. What I needed was building up. After reading descriptions of different preparations, the one which appeared to be the best for me was Carnol. It has simply performed miracles for me. Four bottles have done more than months of travel abroad. I feel like a two-year old. I sleep eight hours every night and eat three good meals a day. My skin is like a baby's, free from blemishes of any kind and I have now almost forgotten that I have ever had such things as nerves. I want everybody who is ailing to know about Carnol, because I have such faith in it I believe it will cure any human ill."

Mr. J. H. Mc. C.

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money 1-622

"EVERYBODY'S CAR"

Everybody's Business

THE Ford Motor Company has made a genuine attempt to give the public automobile transportation at a price within the reach of all. It has carried out the ideals of the inventor of the Ford Car, Henry Ford, and has placed the Ford Motor Company in the position of performing a public service to the people of Canada.

It has definitely made Ford products a national institution—being such, the Ford Motor Company believes it is justified in telling the public it serves, how the present low price of Ford Cars can be maintained in 1923.

How the Present Low Price of Ford Cars Can Be Maintained in 1923

We are absolutely frank with the public when we say that the present low prices are not justified by present production but only by the production it is hoped will result from them.

The present low prices for Ford Cars are based on maximum production only. To-day's market on steel and other raw material that goes into the manufacture of Ford Cars will not warrant these prices except at peak production. Ford prices must go up unless they are justified by increased production.

Everybody's Business

The Ford Car is everybody's Car—the Ford business is everybody's business. You and your neighbor, and his neighbor are all vitally affected by the price of Ford Cars.

If you are at all concerned about buying a Ford this year make it your business to let the Ford Company know about it.

You Can Set the Price!

Fill in the memorandum below and mail to the Ford dealer whose name appears below.

This merely signifies your intention to buy a Ford Car and obligates you in no manner to buy.

The Ford Company must know how many cars are wanted in 1923 in order to maintain the prices. You can help if you act at once.

I understand that Mr. Ford and the Ford Motor Company have reduced the price of Ford Cars to a point never before conceived to be possible, and that these prices are not justified by the present volume of business, but that they have to bring about a larger volume of business to justify these prices.

While I am not immediately prepared to buy a car, I will want a..... about.....and as I desire to get it at these reduced prices, this will authorize you to inform the Ford Motor Company that I intend to buy a Ford unless something unforeseen happens, and am advancing this information so that the Ford Motor Company may proceed and manufacture this car during the winter months, so that I may have prompt delivery at the time I desire it.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

Ingram's 150 vs Bluebirds

Last Friday evening the postponed game between the Bluebirds and Ingram's 150 was played off and resulted in a win for the 150 by a score of three goals to nil. The Bluebirds were without the services of their captain, Jeff Commons, who has been transfered to Michel, and were apparently without a leader.

Ingrams had much the better of the exchange in the first period and McLaughlin scored twice and Glover once in this session for the only goals of the game. The second period nearly saw the close of the game when Tobin and J. Thomson took exception to a decision of referee McLeod and skated off the ice, refusing to continue playing if McLeod was to remain in charge of the game. After a delay of nearly fifteen minutes the game was continued with Ashton in charge and the third period was a battle royal, both teams taking advantage of the leeway they were given.

The line up:

Ingrams—Goal J. Hovan; defence, Kirkpatrick and Glover; forwards, Dicken, Davidson, McLaughlin, Beale and F. Hovan.

Bluebirds—Goal Coste; defence, J. Shand and Biggs; forwards, Tobin, J. Thomson, Smalek and R. Commons.

Monday evening the same two teams met in the regular scheduled game and Ingrams again scored a win by a count of four goals to one. This game was one of the nicest seen in this season's City League play. Bluebirds had out a new forward, Perry late of Coleman, they have elected Tobin captain in place of Jeff Commons, and seemed to be a more organized team than played on Friday last.

The Bluebirds took the lead a few minutes after the start when Biggs and Thomson went down the ice, the latter finishing with a shot that beat Hovan all the way. This started some fast work on Ingrams' part and Dicken scored twice in quick succession to tie the score and then lead. Just before the end of the first period Glover got through and scored another for Ingrams.

The second sesion was scoreless, the defences of both teams getting in some nice work.

Just before the final gong Ingrams got their fourth goal when Glover and Dicken came up in a nice combination rush and Dicken slipped the puck into the net from a seemingly impossible angle.

Coal Co. vs Northern

Thursday evening the Coal Company and Northern battled to a two goal tie. No overtime was played, the Coal Co. being content with the one point as they were without the services of Sofko, one of their star goal getters.

Coal Company opened the scoring in the first period about ten minutes from the start when after a scrimmage in front of the Northern net Baker got the puck and slipped it to Bish Wilson who made no mistake. The Northern came back in the second period and tied the score when M. Commons netted a pass from Ashton. Towards the close of the period McTeer came through with a rush and put the Coal Co. one up again. It was not until within half a minute of the final gong that the Northerns got through and M. Commons again netted, snatching up a pass from Reardon who got the puck behind the Coal Co. goal and flipped it back to Commons.

The lineup:

FERNIE MEN INVEST IN PROPERTY NEXT PREMIER MINE

With an intimation to proceed with the development of the Big Missouri mine in the Salmon River section of northern British Coumbia, Mr .A. B. Trites, vice-president of the Premier mine, this week made the second payment on the bond he took on the property last summer. This is good news to the hardy men who have pinned faith to that district.

On two occasions Sir Donald Mann and associates had the Big Missouri under bond, and both times they allowed the bond to lapse. In 1919 the bond of the property was given up on the advice of Prof. Bancroft, then of McGill University, and later with the Granby people, operating the Hidden Creek mine and smelter at Anyox. But Mr. Trites evidently preferred the advice of practical miners to that of Prof. Bancroft and the diamond drills.

Last summer's work determined the theory of the practical men to be correct, with the result that a vein of high grade ore, with appearance better than the marvelous Premier mine itself, was opened up. In consequence of the summer's work, under the direction of Harry Howson, a well-known mining superintendent. Mr. Trites has made the second payment on the Missouri bond. He has also made the second payment on the bond he and associates took on the Unicorn group, lying south of the Big Missouri.

The payments mean the further development of both of these properties, and men who are acquainted with the Salmon River section are predicting that the coming summer will prove by development that the ore zones of the district extend to the Missouri, and will add tremendously to the potential credit of the Salmon River section.—Vancouver Word.

CHIROPRACTOR SAVES LIFE

Brazil, Indiana, November 9th, 1922.

The life of one of the members of the Wiley High School Football team is probably due to the quick and efficient work of Dr. J. F. Durkin, local chiropractor, who was called to attend the lad Saturday afternoon during the Brazil-Wiley football game. George Robertson, one of the Wiley squad, received a dislocated Atlas during one of the scrimmages, and was rendered unconscious and practically paralyzed. Dr. Durkin was called, after attempts were made to restore the boy by methods in general use at the school, and when he arrived the lad had been unconscious for possibly thirty minutes. After a slight adjustment of the spine, made by Dr. Durkin, the lad sat up and looked about and was able to talk to his companions. He was taken to Dr. Durkin's office for further attention, and an hour later boarded an Inter-urban car for home, apparently fully recovered from his thrilling experience.

THE DISTRICT BONSPIEL

The annual bonspiel of the Crow's Nest branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club commenced on Monday of this week at Cranbrook.

There are 12 rinks from Cranbrook entered along with six from Fernie, three from Lethbridge, two from Pincher Creek, and one each from Coleman and Bull River.

The open events are the Grand Challenge, supported by Cranbrook club; the Trites-Wood, supported by Fernie; the Macleod, supported by the Macleod and Taber clubs, and the Magrath, supported by Lethbridge.

The Walker Trophy completed its ten years of existence last year and Fernie and Lethbridge had a battle royal to annex for the fourth time, which happened to mean perpetual ownership. Milt Kastner for Fernie defeated Dougal McNabb in this big game, and the Walker now reposes in the archives of the Fernie Club. It is to be replaced by another trophy, donated by Mayor W. F. Cameron of Cranbrook.

The closed events are inter-club or inter-city, for the international Coal and Coke Co. cup. One rink from each club represented at the spiel playdown.

Then the inter-Provincial, Alberta vs. British Columbia, for the Liphardt cup. Winning rinks play down.

The grand aggregate, with individual cups, goes to the rink that wins the most games in the open events.

The annual meting of the Crow's Nest Pass District Curling Club took place on Wednesday evening at the city hall, and was followed by the customary banquet, which took place at the Cranbrook hotel, when the visiting curlers were the guests of the Cranbrook Curling Club.

President, G. Hogarth, Cranbrook.
Vice-Pres., S. Kirkham, Lethbridge.
Sec.-Treas. S. Herchmer, Fernie.

Executive members from the following places were also elected. Cranbrook, W. F. Cameron; Fernie, M. Kastner; Lethbridge, J. D. Johnson; Blairmore, D. G. McKenzie; Pincher Creek, Staples; Carmangay, McNaughton; Coleman, McBurney; Taber, Ross; Bow Island, Reid; Michel, Warwick; Bull River, P. McGrath.

The next district bonspiel of the association is to be held at Lethbridge, and it was decided to keep the number of Competitions the same as at present.

There was a good attendance at the banquet, and those attending were given music down to the hotel and twice around the table by the bagpipes played by Sandy Watson of Fernie, and Alan Graham of Cranbrook. The proverbial haggis was also in evidence, brought in borne aloft by Dr. Gillespie of Pincher Creek, and address to the haggis was given by John McDougall of Cranbrook.

Dr. G. E. L. MacKinnon, acted as chairman for the program which followed the banquet, and various toasts were honored, the first being to "The King." Mayor Cameron extended a welcome to the city to the visitors, exhibiting a very substantial key, nicely beribboned, to indicate the openness of the welcome that was ready for the curlers. He also exhibited the new Cameron Cup which he has presented to the association for competition in the the Consolation event, to replace the one that was won outright last year. To the toast of the visitors, Messrs. Sherwood Herchmer of Fernie and S. Kirkham of Lethbridge, responded, and later Mr. Herchmer responded to kind words extended to him for his work as secretary of the association. Alderman Brondson also extended a welcome to the visitors from the city. Music was provided during the evening by Messrs. McMurod and Tayson, of Pincher Creek; Alan Graham, of Cranbrook; the Cranbrook Banjo Club; J. K. Chorlton, Mr. Yates, of Pincher, and the Robinson Orchestra, of Cranbrook. Various other toasts were also honored, including the ice committee, Messrs. Bowness and Eakin, of this city for the good ice provided, and the local club, by the visitors, and the press, and the gathering broke up in the early hours of the morning.

Fernie skips are showing the way. The jewelry division in the four open events is Fernie 9, Lethbridge 3, Cranbrook 2 and Pincher Creek 2. Corrie and Herchmer are running neck and neck for the Grand Aggregate. In the International, Harvey Brown is in the semi-finals and in Inter-Provincial, Wallace is in the same stage.

The rsults of play up to the time of going to press will be found in the tables published in this issue on page four.

HOLY FAMILY CHURCH NOTES

The Sunday just passed saw another step forward in the evolution of the Holy Family Parish, with the formation of a local branch of the Sodality of the Children of Mary. Twenty-five young ladies, ages ranging between fourteen and twenty years were admitted to membership in the organization. The existence of this new branch was easily rendered possible with the assistance given by the Sisters of Saint Joseph of Peace.

The candidates attended early Mass and received Holy Communion in a body. In his sermon, Rev. Father Kennedy emphasized the importance of the principles upon which the organization just brought to Fernie is grounded. "Youth is a very precious time, adding to the innocence of childhood the beauty of knowledge. It is a time of unbound generosity and enthusiasm. These unrestricted, inexperienced feeling need a guiding hand. That of parents may suffice to a certain extent, but the influence of religion, at once restraining and inspiring, is indispensable to pilot adolescence through the first shoals of life, in calm or storm, Youth can always find a secure haven when guided by the 'Star of the Sea'."

In the afternoon, a very pleasing social event took place at the residence of Mrs. Klauer, who kindly extended the hospitality of her home for the occasion, when the ladies of the Catholic Women's League entertained the prospective members of the Sodality to afternoon tea.

The dainty refreshments were greatly enjoyed by all. Two Past Presidents of the League, Mesdames Herchmer and Turner presided at the tea table. After a short musical programme provided by the girls, Miss Dora Rizzutto read an address which ably conveyed warm appreciation of the guests to the Sisters, Mrs. Klauer and other members of the Catholic Women's League, for the training they had received and for the hospitality so kindly extended to them.

Miss Annie Podbielancik then presented to Sister Mary Agnes, who had special charge of the candidates during their preparation, a huge box of chocolates, accompanied by an address expressing the very sincere gratitude of the girls for the thoughtful, loving and patient instruction which was given them.

The large audience, that crowded the church in the evening, witnessed a beautiful and impressive ceremony when the new members of the Sodality took their pledges, the most important being that of faithful adherence to their religious duties. Each was presented with a medal, to keep the memory of the obligations assumed ever-present in concrete form.

THE LITERAAY SOCIETY FERNIE HIGH SCHOOL

The Literary Society of the Fernie High School held its first meeting of the year, Friday afternoon, Feb. 2.

The meeting opened with the president, Miss J. Harper, in the chair.

Unique song "La Mere Michel et son Chat" was rendered by the second year students accompanied by a cat and a very select orchestra.

Miss Edna Harvey then gave a very humorous reading. A spirited debate followed the subject being "Resolved that the farmer has done more for the country that the manufacturer." The leader of the affirmative was Miss A. Culleton supported by Mr. A. Vansacker. Miss M. Caufield and Mr. J. Campbell nobly upheld the negative side of the question.

The meeting then adjourned with the resolution of publishing a High School magazine.

I.O.D.E. PRESENT PICTURES

The Central School was the scene of a very pretty function, yesterday afternoon, when the ladies of Mount Fernie chapter I.O.D.E., made their annual presentation of books and pictures to those students and departments who had led their classes in Canadian History last year.

Mrs. Herchmer, educational secretary, explained the purpose of the presentation in a short but forceful speech to the assembled boys and girls. The presentation was then made by the Regent, Mrs. Trites. William Duncan and Emma Chubra, now of the High School, received prizes for having the highest marks in Canadian History in the Entrance Classes. Annie Coste, Alice Haigh and Leslie Buchanan were given books for having led the Junior Fourth Reader Classes in Canadian History. Mr. H. A. Bryant, on behalf of the G.W. V. A., made the presentation of the books to those who had written the best essay on the subject of "Armistice Day." In the Junior competition the awards went to Jack Connick and Gladys Wilson, while Audrey Mills and Osborne Kennedy won the prizes in the Senior competition.

Trustees Cummings and Garner, and Alderman Irvine were present and addressed the boys and girls, and Mrs. Trites made an address which was highly appreciated by the students. The afternoon's function concluded with a showing of a set of slides on the Defeat of the Spanish Armada.

GOLD MONEY IS BEST STANDARD

What classes suffer through depreciation of money?" That is the question which Prof. T. H. Boggs set himself to answer at the Sunday Forum yesterday afternoon. There was a crowded attendance, and the address was followed with keen interest.

The lecturer traced the history of money, how it had taken the place of cumbersome "trading," "bartering" or "swapping" of the actual commodities produced by some and needed by others. Pieces of leather, cowrie shells, even dried fish, had been used as money, but now gold was pretty generally established as the standard of currency, because of its durability and because it was less likely than other things to fluctuate in value.

But even gold, in which much value was packed in small compass, was cumbersome and inconvenient, and so paper notes had come to be used as the symbol of money. But paper notes must have gold behind them, they must be readily convertible into gold, and the bank which could not give gold for its paper money was faced with collapse and ruin.

In an attempt to change the condition of society, to injure "capitalism," paper money had been multiplied to an enormous extent. This was only good as long as people were willing to accept it—and they accepted it as long as they believed it redeemable — but when this faith ended, disaster would follow, and would adversely affect all classes of society. From this disaster the working class would not be immune.

The value of money fluctuated. The British Bank note had fallen at times below its face value, the Canadian note had only been received in the United States at a discount, but the British people with that integrity and business ability which characterized them, had taxed themselves "to the bone," had worked to the limit to bring back the value of the British pound, and it had increased in value, was increasing in value, and unless there was a "set back" it would reach its standard value.

In spite of this there was among the British people poverty and unemployment, but had those who had power used it to lower the value of British money the conditions of Britons would have been worse, though a few, and the least deserving ones, might benefit by "juggling" with the currency.

In Vienna a tourist tendered a $20 gold piece in payment of a dinner bill of 300 gronen. The bewildered waiter asked the proprietor of the hotel what change he should give, and was told that the customer could have as much change as he desired. This showed the varying value of money.

A further illustration was that of an Austrian carpenter who, before the war, loaned a friend 3000 Austrian gold crowns, the equivalent of a year's work, the savings of a lifetime. His debtor paid back in legal tender after the war 3000 depreciated paper crowns, which he had earned by three days' work. Thus did "inflation" of money make a mockery of thrift and encourage cupidity.

Gold, said the professor, might not be the perfect money, but experience had proved it the best we have at present.

Our system of "capital" and "currency" might not be ideal by a process of evolution, something better might come about, but the governments which used the present system with honesty and intelligence could look forward with more hope of progress, prosperity and stability than governments which used tricks of "inflation" and multiplication of paper money. History proved that such schemes, often tried, had resulted in disaster.

COAL STRIKE AT DRUMHELLER SHORT

DRUMHELLER, Alta., Feb. 3. — A mass meeting of miners having voted to return to work yesterday afternoon, the sympathetic strike in the Drumheller valley was of short duration. All pits affected by the walkout resumed operations on Saturday morning.

The brief strike was put into force against the advice of the U.M.W.A. officials, and in returning to work the miners have averted what might have been a serious split in the union ranks.

CALGARY, Feb. 2.—All coal mines in the Drumheller valley under the jurisdiction of District 18 U.M.W.A. were closed on Friday morning for an indefinite period. Union miners downed their tools, and marched out on a sympathetic strike following a reduction in staff at the Hy-Grade collieries some days ago.

The miners demanded that the entire staff at the Hy-Grade be kept on the rolls and the work distributed proportionately, which course the management refused to follow. On Friday morning all pits were picketed to inform the workers that the sudden strike had been declared.

Mr. Livett frankly admits that the miners have broken their agreement with the operators.

"We are going to enforce our laws irrespective of consequences," said the international board members.

PLACED 28,000 ON THE LAND

World-wide recognition of the success of the Canadian Soldiers' Settlement scheme is a great tribute to the Hon. Arthur Meighen, who inaugurated this work that has placed 28,000 ex-service men on the land. So successful has been this scheme—the only successful one among the nations that participated in the Great War—it is now proposed that it be broadened to secure settlement on the land of all classes and he made a permanent feature of federal administration. Mr. Meighen's successors in office have no criticism of his scheme and have made no changes in policy or administration. Here are some interesting facts:

Loans to soldiers total $92,336,442, of which $15,827,100 has already been repaid.

48,731 horses, 78,244 cattle, 9,494 sheep and 12,623 swine have been purchased for soldier settlers by the government.

The government has saved the soldiers $1,063,611 in the purchase of implements, and $4,096,943 in the purchase of lands.

In 36 years the C.P.R. placed 47,392 settlers on the land; in 4 years, under Mr. Meighen's plan, the govment placed 28,000 soldier settlers on the land.

Actual failures among soldier settlers have been less than ten per cent.

Where settlers have failed, the government has been able to sell their land without public loss.

American, British and Canadian authorities pay tribute to the success and practicability of Mr. Meighen's scheme.

Recently, Professor C. R. Fay, of Christ's College, Oxford, and exchange professor in economics in Toronto University, gave the result of his exhaustive examination into the scheme, and strongly recommended it to be adopted for settlement purpose for British immigration. He paid the most enthusiastic tribute to the scheme and its administrators.

To Mr. Meighen their tributes are particularly flattering. It is his project, founded and developed during the war for re-establishment of our soldiers. That he planned wisely and well is demonstrated by the result and by a comparison with the work in other countries.

FRESH FLAVOR OF PACIFIC

Among other things which women mention in their letters to us are the flavor and freshness of Pacific Milk. Some ask why this British Columbia product is so different. We can only claim that part of the credit which is due to the improved process of canning. Actually, that flavor and freshness are due to the purity and quality of the natural milk. The better process simply retains this naturalness.

SHILOH FOR COUGHS

WITH THE B.C. GOVERNMENT

VICTORIA, Feb. 9.—Complete arrangements have now been made by the government for the construction of the New university buildings at Point Grey. The science building, which was commenced in 1912 but abandoned when partially finished, will be the first unit of the university group to be completed. In order to hasten construction and assist the unemployment situation as much as possible, arrangements have been made for the commencement of construction by February 15, without the delay necessary in calling for tenders.

Messrs. Sharp and Thompson, architects, of Vancouver, who won the prizes offered by the board of governors of the university for the best plan in 1910, have been retained by the government to supervise construction. The R. J. Ryan Contracting Company will supply equipment and complete the science building. All materials will be purchased by the government purchasing agent. In this way many thousands of dollars will be saved. The new building will be ready for occupancy when the next university term opens.

For the purpose of settling many matters pertaining to public works in British Columbia, Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, has gone to Ottawa, at the request of Hon. J. H. King, federal minister. Hon. Dr. Sutherland hopes to secure additional federal aid for provincial highways and be enabled as a result to proceed with the completion of many important highway links.

Another matter to be taken up affects nearly every district in the province. It pertains to bridges over navigable streams. The construction of needed bridges in many places has been held up owing to the high cost of including draw-spans. According to the present statutes, draw-spans have to be included in bridging navigable streams. But many so-called navigable streams are no longer navigated and to comply with the law would be necessary to spend tens of thousands of dollars uselessly.

Bridges over the Skeena at Terrace and over the North Thompson rivers are planned and probably will be proceeded with as soon as the necessary changes are made in the statutes. A marked example of extra expenditure in bridge construction is that of the big railway bridge over the Fraser river at Prince George. There an expensive draw-span was included but since the completion of the structure the bridge has seen no steamers pass under it.

After many delays, owing to the lack of money, the government has decided to complete the paving of the Pacific Highway to the International Boundary. Some nine miles of concrete pavement will be put down and the work will be finished by late summer. As a result, there will be an unbroken stretch of hard-surfaced highway from Vancouver to Seattle.

While New Westminster and Vancouver may profit more directly by the completion of the highway than other sections, still automobile clubs and officials all over the province have urged Hon. Dr. Sutherland to finish the job without delay. Greatly increased tourist travel from the United States will be the direct result of this undertaking.

Hon. J. D. McLean, new minister of railways, has made his first official inspection trip over the P.G.E. Railway. He reports the government line roadbed in good condition and is planning for the preparation of a complete survey of the resources along the line. It is expected that a colonization plan will be worked out and every effort made this year to place the line on a paying basis.

REX INGRAM SCORES AGAIN —"THE PRISONER OF ZENDA"

Motion picture fans who look for exceptional photoplays will have an opportunity on Wednesday and Thursday next to see a picture which is one of the outstanding productions of the year, for on that date Rex Ingram's "The Prisoner of Zenda" will come to the Orpheum Theatre.

It is a story teeming with dramatic action, full of intrigue, romance and excitement. It concerns the adventures of an English gentleman, one Rudolf Rassendyll, who, because of a remarkable likeness to the ruler of the mythical kingdom of Ruritania, becomes for a time its actual ruler and wins the love of the Princess Flavia.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is the most popular romance of a generation. From the time when Anthony Hope, then more interested in his political career in England than in writing, composed it, the narrative of Rudolf Rassendyll's reckless adventure has taken full hold of the hearts of all who read. This was the first of the stories of romance in little kingdoms in Europe, and no better indication can be had of its success than that it inspired hundreds of writers to imitate it. But none of the resulting stories had the zest, the devil-may-care spirit of the original, for that was written chiefly for the love of imagination the author had; it was as glamorous to him as to his readers.

In the hands of a director such as Rex Ingram, who made "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" for the same motion picture producing organization, "The Prisoner of Zenda" has stepped out of the pages of the book and come very much to life on the screen. Different essentially from "The Four Horsemen," as different as realism is from romance, the newer picture nevertheless has been done upon the same great scale and with the same faithfulness to the spirit of the written page. In every matter, from the designing of the mammoth settings which represent the Castle of Zenda to precision of court etiquette, Mr. Ingram took charge, and the result is a magnificently beautiful picture.

"The Prisoner of Zenda" is a Rex Ingram production for Metro, adapted by Mary O'Hara from the Edward Rose stage version of Anthony Hope's novel. It was photographed by John F. Seitz.

SCION OF NOTED POET HAS EXCITING THEORIES

There are two very interesting points of fact in connection with George Rigas, the popular Grecian dramatic star, who for several years prior to coming to the United States to play Romeo in a Grecian production of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet" was the foremost matinee idol of Athens.

The first interesting point is he is a great-grandson of Constantine Rigas, a famous Greek poet and the first promoter of a war for Grecian independence. In about the year of 1778 Constantine formed the bold plan of freeing Greece from the Porte by means of a secret association and the songs he composed in his native language were filled with such patriotism as to arouse a potential share of the populace and to embitter them against the Mussulmans. During the Greek war of independence the Rigas songs were sung by everyone and tended to inflame all believers in his political doctorines to the extent of inspiring them to fight with all their might. He was finally arrested and put to death by the Turkish authorities in May of 1798.

The second interesting point regarding this descendant, now a prominent figure in American photoplays, is that he is most emphatic and quite impressive in his declaration to the effect that Socrates, Euripides, Democritus and other celebrities of ancient times have been reincarnated and are now active in various artistic intellectual fields in southern California. He claims to know them all personally and he asserts he can prove he is right about it. In a recent sensational interview he included such luminaries as Charlie Chaplin, Cecil DeMille, Douglas Fairbanks and Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney of Los Angeles in his list of personages recognizable as "human continuations of leading lights of yore."

It is estimated very few people saved their income tax as they went along.

"Would Wake Up Screaming"

"The Least Sudden Noise or Loud Talking Would Startle Him."

"Up to the age of eight, my boy was a strong healthy lad, full of life and energy While playing leap frog one day with some boys of his own age, and while in a stooped position, a big boy jumped on his back and in falling my boy caught his foot in an iron grating and dislocated his hip. The pain was so great that he fainted and the other boys were so frightened they ran away. For hours he suffered terrible pain and when found and brought home was very weak, with his thigh and leg swollen twice its size. The doctor set the bone but the pain and exposure were too much for the poor boy and he became unconscious A high fever set in and for weeks he lay between life and death raving for hours at a stretch. One day he opened his eyes and murmurred Mother,' but this is the only word he could utter he was so weak, but I knew the worst was over He got stronger but for months was in a nervous condition The least sudden noise or loud talking would startle him and he would begin trembling. He was quite lame and the swelling still remained. The doctor gave him a tonic and told me to rub the leg with olive oil. This reduced the swelling and took away the lameness, but the nervousness remained The poor child would waken in the night screaming at the top of his voice. The doctor gave him several different tonics but they were no use. I found a circular about Carnol and it seemed so different from other tonics I had heard of, that I thought I would get a bottle. Three bottles were all that was needed to make my boy like his own self again. It is hard to convince my friends that the change in him now is entirely due to Carnol. Of course I still have to watch him and give him Carnol occasionally but I know that he will soon be as strong again as ever he was."

Mrs P., Montreal

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 2-622

HER BRONCHITIS YIELDS TO VICKS

A "Very Effective Relief," Says This Toronto Lady.

Mrs. R. K. Bankin, 115 McGill St., Toronto, Ont., says: "Last fall I had a very bad attack of bronchitis. I saw Vicks VapoRub advertised and tried it according to directions. I would not exaggerate about your valuable medicine. It is a most pleasant and effective relief for any kind of colds. I will always keep it in the house.

Vicks VapoRub comes in salve form and for head and chest colds, you just apply it over throat and chest, cover with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases vapors that are inhaled all night long into the throat and lungs—Menthol, Camphor, Thyme, Eucalyptus and Turpentine. Vicks is also absorbed through and stimulates the skin, aiding the vapors to relieve congestion. Usually colds go in one night and croup is commonly relieved in 15 minutes.

By invitation of the manufacturers, fifteen thousand families in Canada tried Vicks last Winter for cold troubles. The only condition being that they would report results. The above is just one of these enthusiastic reports received.

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

Contracts for two new bridges over the Kootenay river have been let. One bridge will span the Kootenay at Waldo, and owing to the need for special foundations, will cost $39,000. The other will be erected north of Wasa at a cost of $19,000. Eventually the Wasa bridge will care for a good deal of the heavy traffic when the Banff-Windermere highway is completed.

G. R. Pollock, of New York City, lectured in the Orpheum Theatre, on the subject "The Hope for Distressed Humanity" and was listened to with deep interest by over 300 people. Cranbrook Herald—C. H. Robinson, fisheries inspector and overseer, of Gerrard, was a visitior to the district on official business early this week, visiting Cranbrook and Kimberley. While here he conducted a case against an offender who was found guilty of fishing through the ice, which is against the Fisheries Regulations. A nominal fine was imposed in this case, and the fish seized. This has been gong on at Fish Lake and Monro Lake, the inspector states, and it is to the interest of all sportsmen to discourage the practice, since it would soon lead to the serious depletion of the streams and lakes of the district.

EARLY DAYS IN THE KOOTENAY

INVERMERE, B.C., Feb. 1. — Two men intimately connected with navigation of the upper reaches of the Columbia river — from Golden to its source—by an odd coincidence recently passed away in the general hospital at Vancouver being Captain Francis Patrick Armstrong, late of Nelson, and Captain Francis Hugh Bacon, late of Golden but later of Vancouver.

It so happened that each of these came from the province of Quebec, being born within a few days of each other, Captain Armstrong at Sorrel on the 14th March, 1861, and Captain Bacon at Montreal on the third day of the same month in that year. Both in the strict sense of the word were pioneers of the East Kootenay district, but it fell to the lot of Captain Armstrong to have come out earlier than the other and if anything to be more closely connected with the district's development.

Captain Armstrong's paternal grandfather was Charles Logie Armstrong; his father was James Armstrong, C.M.G., who held the important post of Chief Justice of St. Lucia and Tobbago, W.I., where he gained distinction by codifying the laws. The family name is an old one in the records of the Eastern Townships. In 1841 Chief Justice Armstrong married Charlotte Olivier, in Sorrel. Of the surviving members of the family, Louis Olivier Armstrong, of the tourist department of the C.P.R., now resides in Montreal, while an elder brother, James Ferguson Armstrong, a retired officer of the provincial government resides in Victoria; Mrs. Louise Le Belle, still lives in Sorrel, Quebec.

Captain Armstrong's associations with the Kootenay districts started in 1882, when at the age of twenty-one, as one of an explorator party in charge of the late Hon. Frederick W. Aylmer, C. E., looking for a pass for the coming Canadian Pacific Railway, he travelled down the Kicking Horse pass to as far as the mouth of that river, where now stands the town of Golden, then known as "the cache." His was the first party to penetrate that way, all others having branched where Leanchoil station is now and followed south on the old trail of the Kootenay Indians. Going on west from the cache they cut a trail to the summit of the Selkirk mountains, which they reached on the 22nd of October, 1882. From there they returned and wintered at the post which the late Walter Moberly, C.E., had established in 1874.

During the winter of 1882-83 Captain Armstrong made a round trip of some three hundred and sixty miles on snowshoes, dragging a toboggan having the mail on board, to Joseph's Prairie (now Cranbrook) the nearest settlement which could be reached in the winter season. He brought back such glowing accounts of the Columbia Lake's region (now Lake Windermere district) that the Hon. Fred Aylmer induced he and a Yorkshireman named Charles Bellhouse to return the following spring and take up land.

This was the first recorded preemption ever taken in the north-east Kootenay, at that time a part solely inhabited by the more or less belligerent Kootenay Indians. Part of the farming operations which these two carried on consisted in growing potatoes, of which the seed was brought on the backs of horses from Tobacco Plains, in Montana, some hundred odd miles to the south.. The 1884 crop proved to be such a good one that in order to dispose of it Captain Armstrong rip sawed lumber and built two flat-bottomed boats in which he freighted his farm products down the Columbia Lakes and river to Golden City, and from thence on the "First Crossing"—later Donald. There, in addition to selling the crop he broke up the boats which he sold as lumber returning to the farm in a Shuswap Indian canoe.

The first venture proving such a success Captain Armstrong branched out and devoted the whole of 1885 to taking potatoes over the same watercourse in batteaux, bringing passengers and freight back up the river to prospect and mine, making two trips a month.

In the Fall of 1885 he went back to Montreal and there purchased the machinery for a steamer and returning in 1886 built the S.S. Duchesse, 74 feet over all, with a beam of 17 feet. She was the first steamer ever to run on this stretch of the Columbia river, a popular form of transportation of passengers and freight which held during the seasons for the following succeeding 34 years. During that period Captain Armstrong passed through a variety of experiences owning and building several stern paddle wheeled river craft, which were either wrecked or passed out of existence from natural causes. He further extended the length of his operations, by running one craft, the S.S. North Star further south, down the Kootenay river to Jennings, Montana; also in 1888-89 operating the S.S. Marion on the western part of the Columbia river, with Revelstoke as a centre. His interesting experiences in river navigation would fill a good-sized volume.

During the gold rush in 1896-97 he visited the Yukon but later returned to Golden and again took up river navigation.

Owing to the completion of the construction of the Kootenay Central branch of the C.P.R., profitable navigation on this portion of the Columbia river practically ceased and Captain Armstrong turned his energies to working for the Department of Public Works, Canada, and in due time moved to reside in Nelson.

With the breaking out of the world's great war he was among the first to volunteer for service overseas with the Imperial government. Through some misunderstanding as to his capabilities his services were not finally accepted until 1917, but then in charge of a number of other inland water faring men, who at different times had voyaged with him, he left for the Old Country. While away he saw active service on the Tigris amongst other parts. Returning to Nelson, when relieved, he again took up with the Department of Public Works, Canada, and while with them, on the 15th of October last, through the breaking of a plank he fell fifteen feet from a pile driver at Kaslo and sustained a fracture of his right leg near the thigh bone, at the same time seriously injuring himself internally. He was taken with all speed to the Lake General hospital at Nelson where he received the greatest possible care and attention. He was in bad straits at first but later rallied completely but apparently other troubles arose for it became necessary to take him to Vancouver for a serious operation. His removal was made for this purpose but apparently it was not to be for he passed away without it on the 26th of January.

In addition to other activities in the East Kootenay district, Captain Armstrong was always much interested in mining.

On the sixth day of January 1890, at Montreal, he was married to Minnie Howden Barber, who, with her two daughters, the Misses Charlotte and Ruth Mary, survive him.

Captain Bacon was one of those who was always closely associated with him for many years in the steamboat business, and was one of those who accompanied Captain Armstrong when he went across seas for altive service. He first came to British Columbia in 1886 and was in active steamboating on the upper Columbia until 1903, when he entered the service of the Columbia River Lumber Company at Golden, leaving their employ to become government assessor and collector of taxes at Golden, later acting government agent at the same place. He left that part in the year 1917 to reside at the coast. He married Miss Mary Madeline Hill at Ottawa, Ontario, in March, 1899, and is survived by their two hhildren, Audrey and Frances E. Bacon.

GORDON FAVORS CHURCH UNION

Ralph Conner, author of "The Sky Pilot," "The Man from Glengarry," and many other novels dealing with the life of Canada, may be a man of dual personality, in that he is also the Rev. C. W. Gordon, minister of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, Winnipeg, and ex-Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, but he has no two opinions on the question of Church Union. In the course of a recent interview, the Preacher-Novelist emphatically declared himself as opposed to further delay in the consummation of the Union.

"The interests at stake are so vast and pressing that the Christian Church cannot afford to pause for a single day, merely for the sake of pausing or because of any hope that we may have of winning those opposed to Union to share our convictions," said Dr. Gordon.

"We shall have to expect that a number of brethern will be unable to see their way clear to move into the Union just now, but no amount of delay will change their convictions or attitude, he continued. "I feel that the delaying of this great movement for Christian unity in Canada is trifling with interests so serious and inviting disaster so great that I could not accept responsibility for advising delay."

Speaking of the situation in the West, with which he is so familiar, Dr. Gordon said: "There is no doubt in my mind that as far as Western Canada is concerned, Church Union is practically accomplished, and nothing that I can imagine will prevent its formal and complete consummation. Very few indeed will be the Presbyterian congregations in the West that will remain outside the Union Church."

Dr. Gordon believed that the alignment and mobilization of the Christian forces of Canada by Church Union will do more than anything else to advance the cause of true religion, among the people. "The preservation of this Church or that Church, this name or that name, is so utterly insignificant that it sinks out of sight," said Dr. Gordon.

Delighted Over Quick Recovery

"Three bottles of Tanlac did me a world of good, and I certainly think it is a fine medicine," declared Mrs. Nellie Mollard, 1424 Wascana Ave., Regina, Sask.

"For several months before I got Tanlac I was simply run-down all over and became dreadfully nervous. I had absolutely no appetite, never relished a bite I ate and weighed only a hundred and nine pounds. I was so unstrung the least little thing upset me terribly and I was so weak I couldn't even do my housework.

"A neighbor advised me to try Tanlac, saying it had helped her wonderfully. So I started on the medicine and now I have a splendid appetite, relish what I eat, and feel greatly improved in every way. That tired, run-down condition is all gone, and I have gained considerable in weight. I can recommend Tanlac highly."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

Hockey Rules

Duration of Play

10. The teams shall play three periods of 20 minutes each, a ten-minute rest being allowed at expiration of each period. The duration of matches shall be one hour, exclusive of stoppages. The team scoring the greater number of goals in that time shall be declared winner of the match. If at the end of that time the game is a draw, there shall be a ten-minute rest, after which ends shall be changed, and the match continued for ten minutes, each side playing five minutes from each end. If neither side has then scored a majority of goals, additional similar periods of ten minutes shall be played in the same way until one side shall have scored a majority, with a five minutes' rest after each ten minutes of play. In case either club should decline to play in any of the necessary extra periods, it shall be declared a loss for that team. No match shall continue for more than 30 minutes (actual play) overtime.

Facing the Puck

11. Play shall be started by the referee blowing his whistle or ringing a bell, or calling "Play" while dropping the puck to the centre of the ice between the sticks of two players, one from each team, who are to face it. The left-hand side of the players who face the puck shall be towards the opponents' goal, and they must keep the blades of their sticks on the ice until the puck falls to the ice. After a goal has been scored the puck shall be faced in like manner in the centre of the ice.

Change of Players

12. A change of players may be made at any time by the substitute or substitutes reporting to the referee, when that official has stopped the play, but they must not get on the ice while play is in progress; each substitute or substitutes must be all ready to play and must take his or their position without delaying the game. The player for whom the substitution is made must also leave the ice promptly when the substitute appears. In case of injury to the goalkeeper a substitute may be allowed, but he must play in goal and in no other position. The substitute goaltender can only be used at the end of a period, or in case of injury as aforesaid. Should any player be injured during the match, break a skate, or from any accident be compelled to leave the ice, his side shall immediately put on a substitute to equalize the teams. Should more than three players of one team (exclusive of the goalkeeper) be compelled to retire because of accident, the opposing side shall drop a man to equalize the teams. No player shall resume play until he has received permission from the penalty timekeeper to go on. In the event of any dispute, the matter shall at once be decided by the referee.

Score

Off-Side

14. A player shall endeavor to be always on his own side of the puck, and persistent failure to be on-side shall be designated as loafing, and penalized as a foul.

A player is off-side when he is in front of the puck, or when the puck has been hit, touched, or is being skated with, by any of his own side behind him (i.e., between himself and the goal of his team).

A player being off-side is put on-side when the puck has been hit by, or has touched the dress or person of, any player of the opposing side, or when one of his own side has skated in front of him, either with the puck or having played it when behind him.

If a player when off-side plays the puck, or annoys or obstructs an opponent, the puck shall be faced where it was last played before the off-side occured.

All players on the defending team shall be on-side when they and the puck are behind their defending line and in front of their goal line.

Players on both teams shall be on-side when they and the puck are between the goal line and the adjacent end of the rink.

When an off-side occurs off the goalkeeper, the puck shall be faced at a point five feet at right angles from the goal.

Knocking-On

15. The puck may be stopped with the hand but not carried or held or knocked on by any part of the body. A player must not throw the puck or shove it along the ice with his hand or kick it deliberately.

Charging, Tripping, Etc.

16. No player shall raise his stick above his shoulder or throw it along the ice. Charging, tripping, collaring, kicking, cross-checking, pushing, lying, sitting, or kneeling on the ice, shall not be allowed. And the referee must rule off the ice, for any time in his discretion, a player who, in the opinion of the referee, has deliberately offended against the above rule. If any player makes any unfair or rough play, or disputes any dicision of the referee or other officials, or uses any foul or abusive language, or enters into any altercation with a spectator, the referee may rule him off for such time as he may deem expedient, or for the remainder of the game, and no substitute shall be allowed. If, in the opinion of the referee, a defending player has deliberately committed a foul to prevent a score, he shall not stop the play until that play has been completed.

When the Puck Leaves the Ice

When the puck goes off the ice at the side it shall be similarly faced five feet from the side.

When the puck hits the referee play shall cease and the puck faced where the accident occurs.

Ice Lines

The defending Line extends the width of the ice, parallel to and 20 feet in front of the goal line.

Centre Ice is a spot midway between the two goals and at right angles to the centre thereof.

Stoppages

19. Should the match be stopped by the referee by reason of any infringement of any of the rules, or because of an accident or change of players, the puck shall be faced again at the spot where it was last in play before such stoppage.

THE WRESTLING CHAMPIONSHIP

On Monday, February 12th at 9.30 p.m. sharp, Ernie Arthur, of Montreal will meet Young Rayner of Toronto in a 6 10-minute round wrestling competition for the Canadian Middleweight Championship. This promises to be one of the fastest wrestling competitions ever staged in this part of the country, as Arthurs has wrestled and defeated most of the top notchers in his class and comes to Fernie with a record unmarred by corruptness which has a tendency to creep into the wrestling and boxing games, while Young Rayner is the clean cut type of a fellow who promises to be a rough handfull for any man of his weight who happens to come in his way and who has wrestled and defeated many of the leading middleweight wrestlers in the country.

This contest will be staged under the Marquis of Queensbury, New White Rules, which speeds up the game to a remarkable degree, eliminating many of the long motionless, old-fashioned holds, which were none to popular with the fans.

Contestants have signed a hard and fast legal contract which assures the public a good honest run for their money and a good square honest-to-goodness old-fashioned wrestling competition. To revive the popular game in our town I have consented to promote the above mentioned match under strictly honest conditions. Further preliminary attractions will be staged in addition to the big tussle, in the line of boxing, when you will have an opportunity of viewing a pair of our local boys who are there with the goods and who will perhaps prove an eye opener to all.

Dear Sir—Since I came to Michel on Saturday last, I have been training each day and am in good condition for my match with Arthur on Monday, Feb. 12. I will arrive in Fernie, Sunday morning after finishing my training on Saturday night and feel confident of my success.

Yours for Sport, and my best wishes
Young Rayner.

CRANBROOK TO PLAY WALDO HERE MONDAY

On Monday evening next, Feb. 12, Fernie hockey fans will have an opportunity of witnessing a hockey game de luxe, when Cranbrook and Waldo meet at the local arena.

Cranbrook will appear on the ice with an undefeated record, having met and displayed their superiority over the teams in their immediate vicinty and will no doubt endeavor to add to their honors. This is by far the best team that Cranbrook has boasted of for many years and their ability merits their record.

Waldo is out to avenge a defeat suffered at the hands of Cranbrook a couple of weeks ago, and believing their spent condition, owing to a strenuous game at Fernie the evening previous, did not allow them to give of their best and they intend to give a better account of themselves in this encounter.

According to dope, a win for Cranbrook will give them the leadership of the whole district as they have already defeated Waldo, who in turn had triumphed over Fernie on two occasions. The game is billed to start at 8.15 and to be over before the big wrestling match will commence.

Let's hope that in speaking of the world war a few years from now we will not have to say which world war.

The career of many a fine washerwoman has been utterly ruined by her ambition to become a movie star.

Conditions could be worse. There are always more troubles we haven't than troubles we have.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

Coal Company vs Ingram's 150

Monday evening the scheduled game between the Coal Company and Ingram's 150 was postponed owing to the absence of players on both sides through sickness, and an exhibition game between those two teams was played. The Coal Company are the champion drawists of the league and they maintained their reputation in this line by holding the league leaders to a three goal tie. The game was really exciting throughout and the fact that the game was simply an exhibition did not prevent the teams from giving of their best. R. "Pep" Colton made his first appearance as guardian of the twine for the Coal Company this season and played an exceptionally fine game, two of the goals which were scored against him being chargeable to his defence men.

Ingrams drew first blood about halfway through the first period when Kirkpatrick got through and shot high and hard, Dudley attempted to stop the puck in the air and changed its course, the rubber landing in the net. A few minutes later Sofko got hold of a rebound and tied the score.

The second period was practically a repitition of the first, end to end play being the order of the evening, and both sides missed some golden opportunities. McLaughlin gave the 150's the lead when he went through on his own and gave Colton no chance to save. Sofko again tied the score just before the bell when he finished an individual rush by landing the puck in the net.

Ingrams started pressing hard right from the face off, and Davidson put Ingrams ahead when he fired in a fast one which glanced off McTeer's stick into the corner of the net. Sofko again evened up matters, scoring his third goal from close in. Ingrams kept Colton busy during the last few minutes but the score remained three all.

The lineup:

Ingrams—Goal, J. Hovan; defence, Kirkpatrick and F. Hovan; forwards Dicken, Davidson, McLaughlin, Beale.

Referee—Swedeberg.

Bluebirds vs Northerns

Thursday evening the Bluebirds sent the Northerns into the cellar position of the city hockey league, winning by a score of four goals to two. The Northerns were evidently having a family quarrel in the dressing room at the end of the second period and when they appeared on the ice for the third period Blundell was missing, having taken off his pads and refused to continue. This matter of refusing to play is one that is not appreciated by the fans, whatever the provocation, there is absolutely no reason for any player to lay down. Ashton donned the pads for the Northern and they got a real hearty cheer when they refused to be dictated to by their unruly goal tender, whose action, no doubt, was intended to stop the game.

The Northerns took the lead early in the game when Reardon went through and slipped the puck to Mel. Commons who gave Coste no chance. Coste was kept busy for the next few minutes, then Smalek broke away and taking all the bumps the Northerns had to offer, he clung to the rubber and finished by beating Blundell easily. The Bluebirds came to life after this and swarmed around the Northern goal and Tobin scooped a couple of rebounds past Blundell for two goals in as many minutes.

M. Commons reduced the Bluebirds' lead two minutes from the start of the second period when he grabbed a rebound and scooped the puck into the net. The Northern continued to press but Coste was turning everything aside that came his way. Perry and Biggs got away and after the nicest combination run of the evening, Biggs grabbed what looked like a wild pass and slammed the puck into the twine.

Ashton took Blundell's place in the Northern goal for the third period and both he and Coste defied the opposing ranks to beat them for the entire period, and both goals certainly ran some narrow escapes. Towards the end of the period, Smalek got through again and with only Ashton to beat lost his stick after his first shot had been stopped and slid into the goal with the puck. The goal was allowed by the goal umpire at the time but after consultation with the referee the goal was disallowed as the puck had not been shot into the net with the players stick.

The lineup:

Northerns—Goal, Blundell and Ashton; defence, Swedeberg and C. Commons; forwards, M. Commons, Reardon, A. Thomson.

WILL FERNIE SEND THEM?

The reputation the local Ladies' Hockey Club have earned for themselves apparently is becoming a serious drawback to their obtaining engagements with outside teams. For the past two weeks the Regents of Calgary, have stated they were unable to come to Fernie for a return game, last week they were too tired after a trip to Edmonton a week previous, this week, one member of their team is reported sick and two others cannot get away from their work to make the journey.

Manager Hovan and Secretary Mary Dragon have Challenged and even coaxed Lethbridge, Coleman and Blairmore ladies' teams to come here for an exhibition game but all to no avail, the prowess of the Fernie Swastikas is too much for them to face.

It now apears that the only chance the local ladies have of displaying their skill at hockey, will be at the Banff Carnival which commences, on February 23rd and continues until March 2nd. Under a special dispatch heading from Banff, the Calgary Herald prints the following: "Negotiations are under way with four or five ladies' teams to compete for the World's Championship Lady Hockey Team Cup, donated by the Alpine Club of Canada, and it is expected that lady teams from Calgary, Fernie, Edmonton, Camrose and the Amazons of Vancouver, who won the cup at last year's carnival, will enter the competition, the games being played carnival week."

It will be noted that the Alpine Club Cup is emblematic of the Ladies' Hockey Championship of the World, this in itself would be one of the finest trophies ever brought to Fernie, should our ladies' team be successful in carying off the honors.

As to their chances of lifting the Cup, we have only to consult their record of the past two seasons, and compare it with the record of their opponents. Last year at Banff Carnival the Calgary "Byngs," a ladies team that Fernie decisively defeated at Calgary and Fernie, defeated the Vancouver Amazons by a score of two goals to nil, but were disqualified owing to their not having amateur cards and one of their members having been professionalized in another branch of sport. In the final play-off between the Amazons and the Calgary Regents, the former managed to scrape through by a one to nil score, the goal being scored by Miss Tees, a Calgary Byng girl whom the Amazons secured for the final game. The Regents of Calgary this year have amalgamated with the Patricas of that city and yet when Fernie visited Calgary three weeks ago, our ladies team found no difficulty in winning by three goals to nil. The Calgary papers commenting on the game were unanimous in stating that Fernie had the finest aggregation of lady hockey players that ever graced the Calgary arena, so it is easily seen that if the Fernie club goes to Banff, they will be fast favorites for the Championship.

The financial end of the trip to Banff has held our team from competing in this competition for several years and it is time that Fernie realized how much there is to gain by bringing a World's Championship Trophy to the city. A rough estimate of the cost of sending the team to Banff and keeping them there during the carnival week amounts to something in the neighborhood of six hundred dollars, and the failure of the Calgary Regents and other teams to come here for exhibition games have reduced the local club's earning capacity to nil. It has been stated that the girls intend making a canvas of the city with a view to securing enough funds to cover the trip to Banff and we believe that Fernie will not be found lacking when they make the call.

HEALTH TALK NO. 641-J

By G. J. Parks, Chiropractor.

The man who is unhealthy often knocks so loud he can't hear Opportunity's invitation to come in. To get your health; get your spine in alignment. Today, of course.

When health goes you can get it back by restoring the conditions of health. Free nerve energy for healthful functioning by Chiropractic Adjustments and health follows.

Twelve Reasons for Chiropractic Spinal Adjusting.

1. All life is transmitted by way of the spinal nerves.
2. The backbone is the pipeline.
3. Nature made the backbone jointed and flexible to permit bodily movement.
4. The 24 movable joints of the backbone may be thrown out of alignment.
5. This defective alignment of one or more joints causes pressure upon the spinal nerves at their point of exit.
6. The exit for spinal nerves is between joints. The openness of the exit depends upon each joint being in perfect alignment with the next one.
7. The Chiropractor discovers this lack of alignment by the sense of touch.
8. He restores alignment by an adjustment made by hand.
9. The object of the adjustment is to free the nerve of pressure.
10. After the nerve is freed, Nature restores the normal condition of health.
11. Neglected spinal conditions invites disease and unhappiness.
12. Health is your right and your responsibility.

"I am an everlasting booster for chiropractic," says Geo. L. Fish, of Modesto, Cal. "After an auto accident I wandered about for two years and some months a victim of aphasia — couldn't remember the past--the stomach was so weak malted milk was the only nourishment possible, and the left arm was only half the size of the other. Finally Dr. C. E. Eddy was called and the first adjustment dissipated both pain and fever; daily adjustments had my paralyzed arm in action in a week, rapidly restored my weak stomach and heart action to normal and produced a remarkable restoration of all the unbalanced functions of my body."

LADIES PLAY A TIE GAME

The Regents Ladies' Hockey team of Calgary came to Fernie Wednesday afternoon for their long delayed game against our local ladies' team. After playing three fifteen minute periods and holding Fernie to a one goal tie they skated off the ice, and absolutely refused to play the regulation hockey rule game which requires that should the score be a tie at the end of the regular three periods, the teams shall play overtime of ten-minute periods until the tie is broken.

On the run of play, as far as the game went, a tied score was well indicative of the merit of the playteams. Fernie did not seem to be playing their regualr game while the Regents showed much better form than they did when they last visited Fernie. Their star performer was Miss McLatchie, who had been moved back on the defense from the forward line, and she was a continual source of worry to the Fernie defense, her goal was the result of an end to end rush and her parting shot from close in did not give Miss Richardson any chance of preventing the score. The Regents had a couple of Banff players on their lineup, Miss Brewster and Mrs. Moore, the former is an exceptionally fast skater, but invariably finished weakly. Miss Blight in the Calgary goal had a little more work than the Fernie custodian and turned aside some real hard ones.

The Fernie defense seemed to be a litle flustered in the first period but after the goal was scored they settied down to a more methodical game and stoped everything that came their way. Miss Schagel had exceptionally hard luck in not scoring in the second period when she went through and shot hard from outside the defense, the puck hitting Miss Blight and rebounding into play. Miss Richardson playing her first game against an outside team on Fernie ice, played a great game and well merits her position. Miss Henderson was not quite up to her usual form but some of her rushes certainly was well worth watching.

The forward line seemed to have considerable dificulty in getting started and during practically the entire first peroid they were confined to centre ice nearly all the time. Mrs. Wilson's rush in the second period, when she went from end to end to tie the score, was a real eye opener, her parting shot was a beauty, about waist high and the puck was labeled "goal" from the time it left her stick. Miss Biggs worked hard throughout the game, back-checking being her fort, although she managed to fire in a shot on Miss Blight on several occasions. Miss Ross was far below her usual performance but this little lady has just recovered from a bout with influenza and could hardly be expected to stand the rough and tumble game the Swastikas and Calgary Regents indulge in. The two Fernie subs did not get much chance to show what they could do.

Fernie attacked right from the face off and Miss Biggs had the first try for goal within half a minute of play but Miss Blight turned her effort aside. Miss McLatchie opened up the scoring when she came through and eluded the Fernie defense and scored from close in.

After considerable end to end and centre ice skirmishing in the second period, Mrs. Wilson who had gone back to relieve the pressure on Fernie goal got the puck and went through the Calgary team with ease and whipped the puck into the net with a wonderful parting shot.

The third period was about an even break until towards the close of the period when Fernie seemed to hit their stride and the Regents were compelled to adopt the defensive and when the final bell went they skated off the ice and their manager absolutely refused to continue, without giving any reason, except that his team did not wish to play it off.

The lineup:

ARTHUR WINS FROM RAYNER

For the first time in history, Fernie was the venue of a Canadian Middleweight Championship Wrestling match when on Monday evening, Ernie Arthur, present holder of that title, successfully defended it against challenger 'Young' Rayner of Toronto.

The bout was exceptionally fast for wrestling and was a real eye-opener to the small audience, and the class of work put up deserved a much better attendance, never at any time during the whole forty-three minutes of wrestling did the bout slow up.

Arthur's experience and his marvelous manner of breaking dangerous holds won for him what will be known as one of the finest wrestling matches ever shown before a Fernie audience.

The bout was scheduled to go six ten-minute rounds or the best two out of three falls. In the first and second rounds, Rayner seemed to be doing the bulk of the attacking and during this time secured several startling holds on Arthur. On several occasions he had a heavy head-lock on Arthur but the latter seemed to be a past-master of getting away from this hold. He would place hands on the mat and raise his feet in the air, then extract his head from the hold, much the same as we would pull the cork out of a bottle. His method of getting away from body holds was extremely peculiar, he would jump around like a newly-landed brook-trout and invariably Rayner would be compelled to release his hold.

The first fall came in the seventh minute of the third round, when after getting away from a bad head lock Arthur secured what he called a Japanese Arm Scissor on Rayner's right arm and held the challenger until he was compelled to seek relief by going to the mat.

Rayner struggled hard in the fourth session to even matters up and on one occasion secured a toe hold which worried Arthur considerably for some time until he managed to break away from it, by countering. The final fall came in the fifth period after seven minutes had gone, when Arthur again secured the Japanese Arm Scissor hold and forced Rayner to give in.

Rayner addressed the audience and stated that he was satisfied that Arthur was the better man, but that he considered his chances good against any other middleweight wrestler in Canada.

Arthur stated that although he had wrestled all over the world, he had met in Rayner one of the most powful contenders for his title and that the lad had a brilliant future before him.

As a considerable number of the spectators were in the hall before the delayed hockey match between Crandrook and Waldo finished, promoter S. T. Wilson, secured Ted Soars and Perry of 'Bluebird fame' to give a three-round boxing exhibition. Soars, who recently defeated Mike Cassidy at Coleman, seems to be well versed in the fistic art and his footwork was well worth watching. This bout was followed by a preliminary of six rounds between T. Lewis and Gus Williams, two local Welsh lads, who mixed it rather freely during the 12 minutes fighting. Although no decision was given, Williams seemed to have slightly the edge on his opponent. Before this bout Lewis issued a challenge to fight Soars in a ten round match for one hundred dollars side bet and best purse. Williams issued a similar challenge to either Mike Cassidy or Landers of Lethbridge.

Joe Hamer, of Fernie, refereed both boxing and wrestling matches.

RULINGS IN PICK'S APPEAL

Written decisions were handed down Monday by the members of the appellate court — Justice Stuart, Simmons, Ives, Hyndman and Beck — who heard the appeal in the Picariello-Lassandro case. The first four ruled against the appeal, and Mr. Justice Beck dissented from their findings. The rulings follow:—

Mr. Justice Stuart

With regard to the legality of the constitution of the jury Mr. Justice Stuart said it was quite regular to add the ten additional names to the panel.

As to the various statements made by the prisoners, the objections made that they were inadmissable by reason of the crown not having laid a proper foundation by proving they were voluntary. Mr. Justice Stuart held that the trial judge was justified in concluding that those made by Picariello were voluntary made.

As to the statements made by Mrs. Lassandro to Sergeant Scott but not taken down in writing separately, those relating to what Picariello had said of his intention to get Lawson, the learned judge held that as the trial judge had impressed upon the jury that this evidence was not admissable against Picariello, but that as against herself, her own understanding of Picariello's intent was quite sufficient.

The whole question was before the jury. The form in which her words were narrated was a proper matter for observation by counsel and for consideration by the jury, and it was for them to say what weight they should give to the evidence and, considering its form, what influence as to common purpose or intent, so far as Lassandro was concerned, they should draw from it. The learned judge therefore held that the trial judge made no error in admitting the evidence with regard to statements made by Mrs. Lassandro, which were obviously intended as proof of the existence in her mind of a certain purpose or intention.

Mr. Justice Stuart said that "it was much to be preferred that Sergeant Scott should have been able to repeat her exact words instead of repeating their substance by indirect narration. There was too much danger that he, the mere witness, would be interpreting the meaning of her words as expressive of an intention or purpose, instead of the jury, whose exclusive province it was,." His Lordship then quoted the evidence given by Scott, and remarked: "Here it will be seen we have a doubly narration —Scott narrating Lassandro's narration of what Picariello had said. The trial judge in his charge to the jury of course very clearly impressed upon them that this was not evidence admissable or binding upon Picariello. As against herself, her own understanding of Picariello's intent was undoubtedly quite sufficient, But even against her Scott says he is only narrating her exact words 'as near as possible.' Even a slight variation in the recital of her language might have very grave consequences, when from her language it is sought to draw an inference as to what was merely in her mind. Of course, a witness cannot be expected to remember exact words spoken, but when so much depends upon the meaning of the words, it is a question whether the party calling the witness ought not to submit to this misfortune rather than ask the court to allow his witness to give his idea of the substance of the language used." His Lordship, however, after making these observations, said the whole question was before the jury and that it was for them to say what weight they should give to the evidence and, considering its form, what inference as to common purpose or intent, so far as Lassandro was concerned, they should draw from it.

Mr. Justice Stuart also held that the trial judge had made it clear to the jury, the necessity of their using evidence, admissable only against one of the accused, against that accused only, and that statements made by one not in the presence of the other were admissable only against the one making them, and that he clearly intimated to the jury that they might acquit one and convict the other.

With regard to question 16, Mr. Justice Stuart held that it was im-

MRS. LAWSON TO SUE FOR DAMAGE

REGINA, Feb. 10.—An action to recover $50,000.00 from the estate of Emilo Picariello, slayer of Constable S. Lawson, A.P.P., will be brought on behalf of Mrs. Lawson, now resident in Regina, as compensation for the loss of her husband. The civil action for damages arising out of the sensational murder at Coleman, Atla., on September 21 last year, may be started by Wm. Gray, barrister, Lethbridge, who is now in Regina, or it may be undertaken by the attorney-general's department of the Alberta government.

CRANBROOK BESTS WALDO

Cranbrook looked to be a very nifty aggregation of puck chasers, especially their front line, whose work alone defeated Waldo by the overwhelming score of nine goals to one. Waldo were not the team that defeated Fernie some time ago, they hardly ever attempted to do any back-checking and played with a one-man defense nearly the entire game.

For the first thirteen minutes Waldo played hockey and then let up and Cranbrook were not long in asserting themselves and notched three goals in the remaining seven minutes of the period.

The second session was practically a repitition of the first with Cranbrook bombarding Hovan in Waldo goal. Cranbrook added a couple more scores and then H. Blemenauer drew the only penalty of the game when after being warned for interferance, tried to show where the referee was wrong, and was sent to the cooler for a minute to think it over. Sharp got Waldo's only goal towards the end of the second when he mangaed to get in a shot that bounced over Hogarth's stick into the corner of the net.

The Cranbrook forwards ran wild in the third session and shot on goal practically at will and four goals were added to their total. The combination of the Cranbrook forwards was pretty to watch, but with no back-checking to buck up against they were able to show up better than they otherwise would have done.

The lineup:

Waldo—Goal, Hovan; defence, McTeer and Wilde; forwards, Muldoon, Ayres, Trenouth; Subs, Sharp and Beattie.

Cranbrook—Goal, T. Hogarth; defence, R. Blumenauer and Bachelor; forwards, B. Huffman, Doc Huffman, H. Blumenauer; subs, E. Hogarth and Burgess.

possible for the judge to comment properly upon the evidence at all without using the language he did use.

Dealing with the objection against the judge's charge with respect to the law of manslaughter and self-defence, His Lordship held that these questions were immaterial so far as Mrs. Lassandro was concerned. That there was no basis in the evidence for a verdict either of manslaughter or not guilty, so far as she was concerned. Nothing had appeared which could possibly be considered a provocation of her passions. His Lordship also rejected the plea of self-defence with regard to Mrs. Lassandro.

"With respect to the judge's charge in the case of Picariello the situation, however, is considerably different," said Mr. Justice Stuart, while stating that it was a grave question whether he did not, at least in some of the separate sentences addressed the jury, makes an erroneous statement of the law, in so far as the two passages, taken by themselves and away form the context, were calculated to leave on the minds of the jury that there could not be mere manslaughter if there was an intent to kill, which Mr. Justice Stuart stated was not according to law.

"The jury know nothing of the law. They are judges of the facts. In arriving at their verdict against a person they must accept the law as given them by the presiding judge. If that is given to them erroneously on a substantial material point, it must easily be seen that the verdict is vitiated." Declaring that the appelate division had been constituted for the purpose only of checking errors in law and for the purpose of ensuring that all persons should be convicted or acquitted in accordance with the law, he added: "This is where an ill-informed public talks often of 'technical points,' little appreciating where their criticism leads." With regard to these two passages referred to, His Lordship held that when taken along with their context, they contained an exposition of the law, of which no complaint could be made.

All of the other question were answered in the negative and the appeal was dismissed. Mr. Justices Simmons and Ives concurring.

Mr. Justice Beck

Mr. Justice Beck dissented from the finding of the other four members of the court and held that there was more than one serious and insurmountable objection to the trial judge's charge on the subject of manslaughter, inasmuch as the charge defined manslaughter as "unlawful killing without intent."

Mr. Justice Beck also held that the trial judge misdirected the jury when he said, "If the killing of a human being takes place and there is no explanation of the circumstances under which it occurs, the intention to kill may be presumed, because the law assumes that every man means the consequences of his act, and if, therefore, without any explanation of the circumstances under which the killing takes place, if there is no explanation of it to excuse it or justify it or to reduce it, then the law will assume that a man intended to do what he in fact did, and therefore, the killing was intentional," meaning as is evident from what follows, that the killing was murder.

His Lordship also held the trial judge in error in directing the attention of the jury to the alleged telephone conversation between Pick and his son, as this was only hearsay evidence, and that even if the evidence went in without objection from the defendant's counsel it did not relieve the trial judge from responsibility to see that only proper evidence went before the jury.

As to Mrs. Lassandro, his Lordship held that there was evidence sufficient to allow the jury to find provocation in her case.

He also held that the evidence in the case of Picariello was sufficient to have justified the jury upon a proper direction to have found provocation, while the two defendants were in the automobile and Lawson and they were in conversation and finally engaged in a struggle.

Mr. Justice Beck further held that the trial judge was wrong in putting the burden of the proof of self defence upon the accused. "In my opinion, as I have already intimated, the burden of proof continues upon the crown throughout the case to establish all the essential elements of the offense charged, or the lesser offense or offenses of which the jury may be entitled to convict the defendants, and once the crown has entered upon its evidence and circumstances surrounding the occurence are put in evidence, if that evidence leaves the essential character of the intent open to a reasonable doubt, the accused is entitled to the benefit of the doubt—even if this view is not accepted I thing it cannot be doubted but that the learned judge put too heavy a burden of proof upon the defense."

It is true that the jury was recalled, and a new direction given, but it seems to me that it was not likely to have removed the false impression already conveyed to them, for the reason that the first view was very vigorously and exhaustively impressed upon them, while the new direction was not only not of the same character, but the learned judge, retaining, in fact, the opinion that he was right, gave the new direction expressly on the ground only that counsel for the crown thought it fair, and not on the ground that it was the law."

Mr. Justice Hyndman

Mr. Justice Hyndman held that the crown established beyond a per-adventure that Lawson was killed on September 21, by either of the two defendants, and after running over briefly the history of the case as revealed in the evidence, stated that had the crown rested its case on this state of facts there could have been but one issue, murder or no murder—and with regard to the objection that the trial judge misdirected the jury with regard to the law relating to manslaughter, Mr. Justice Hyndman said that if no circumstances appeared in the crown case or the defense pointing to self-defense or manslaughter, it was not incumbent on the judge presiding to instruct the jury regarding them and that should he do so and was in error in his statements of the law it should make no difference.

His Lordship held that it was amply proved by the evidence that the killing was done by the two accused acting in concert.

His Lordship after making a very careful review of the whole case said that he could not bring himself to the conclusion that the jury had been misled or did not sufficiently appreciate correctly the law applicable to the facts of the case, and dismissed the appeal.

He added a warning to police officers, to take heed and realize that they must act with prudence in the use of firearms, and that it was not for every offense that they were at liberty to shoot to bring about the capture of suspected persons. His Lordship said that Constable Lawson had no right whatever to shoot at young Picariello and that his unlawful act was the immediate cause of the later tragedy which resulted in his death.

Ex-Postmaster Praises Tanlac

Declares It Restored Him Completely When Almost Helpless From Rheumatism

Joseph Frederick Warren, a well known resident of 1156 21st St., East, Vancouver, B.C., postmaster, at one time, for sixteen years at Cornwall, Prince Edward Island, recently gave out the folowing statement regarding Tanlac:

"Tanlac made such a wonderful improvement in my health two years ago that I have been a staunch supporter of it ever since. I consider it the greatest medicine for rheumatism, loss of appetitie and a run-down system in the world.

"The rheumatism had got so bad in my arms, shoulders and hips I was forced to quit work. I couldn't take a step or move a muscle without suffering torture and at times I couldn't even put on my coat. My appetite went back on me, too, and I was run-down all over.

"Well, five botles of Tanlac rid me of the whole thing and built me up so that I have enjoyed health ever since. I have never come across the equal of Tanlac in all the seventy-two years of my life."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

CITY LEAGUE HOCKEY GAMES

Coal Co. vs Bluebirds

Tuesday evening the Coal Company stepped out and trimmed the Bluebirds by the score of five goals to two. The game was a real good game to watch and the run of play was not quite indicated by the score, the Coal Co. took their opportunities while the Bluebirds shot high and wild.

The Bluebirds took the lead in the first period when Perry shot from the corner of the rink and the puck glanced off someone's skate into the net. This was the only score of the first period.

The Coal Co. got to work in the second session and shortly after the start Scotty Wilson got through and gave Coste no chance. Two minutes later Sofko put the Coal Co. one up with a nice shot from close in.

The third period was still young when Sofko went right through and added a third goal for the Coal Co. Wilson got a rebound a few minutes later and batted the rubber into the net. The Bluebirds were having a hard time in locating the net and any that did come that way were turned aside by Colton. After a scrimmage in front of the Coal Company goal. Smalek got the puck and slipped it to Perry who banged it home. Just before the end of the game Scotty Wilson got through again and scored his third goal for the Coal Co. The Coal Co. appeared without the services of Bish Wilson, who received an injured shoulder in a game a couple of weeks ago.

Northern vs Ingram's 150

Thursday evening, the Northerns upset all the dope on the City Hockey League and emerged winners over Ingram's 150 team by a score of four goals to one, in one of the hardest fought games of the season. Colton who has been transferred from the Coal Co. to the Northern to replace Blundell, was at his best and the goal that was scored against him was from a rebound off the back boards.

Shortly after the start Reardon came through on an individual rush and opened the scoring. A few minutes later Thomson added a second goal which raised considerable dispute as to how the puck was placed in the net. Dicken, however, settled the argument when he skated to centre ice and allowed the goal to count although referee McTeer had disallowed it. Ingrams came back strong in the second period, but Colton was turning everything aside that came his way. M. Commons and Reardon got away on a nice combination rush, and eluding the 150 defense, Reardon scored the third goal for the Northern.

In the opening minutes of the third period Hovan had a busy session and he had some hot ones to stop. Ingrams broke away, however, and Colton came into the spot light, finally a rebound came out from behind the goal and Dicken made no mistake. Ingrams kept up the pressure until Swedeberg, after a nice combination run with M. Commons, scored the fourth goal for the Northerns.

THE RELICS OF EGYPT

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 9. — These two days have given the staff a most necessary respite, which has enabled them to make considerable progress with the work of dealing with the contents of the various boxes with which the laboratory in the tomb of King Seti II. is at present crowded. They have now completed the examination of the contents of the wooden casket on which are wonderful painted scenes depicting the king and his courtiers hunting lion, antelope, wild ass, ostrich and other African desert fauna and showing him in battle against his Asiatic and Ethiopian enemies. On the ends are symbolical scenes of the monarch, represented in the form of human-headed sphinxes, trampling on his enemies.

The contents of the casket comprised the King's robes, which are of the finest material and decorated with elaborate bead and gold work or lapis lazuli and turquoise; several pairs of sandals in run work and leather, elaborately ornamented with inlaid bead work of surpassing beauty, and a large amber necklace and faience collarette of exquisite floral design. Most of these articles, particularly the fabric, were in a most perishable condition, and their examination and treatment have necessitated long and tedious work. This, however, has now been concluded and the objects are all packed and made ready for transport to Cairo, where they will undergo further investigation.

Work has now been started on another chest, namely, a wooden box painted red. On the lid was found one of the King's faience collarettes and a number of faience rings, strung on a roll of linen. Inside there was, on the top, a large robe of woven tapestry fabric in a perished condition, though somewhat better than the fabric previously found. Sewn on this robe, in the centre, is a magnificent, finely-wrought silver and gold scarab buckle, so arranged as to take the form of the king's cartouche, and inlaid with turquoise, lapis lazuli, glass and cornelian.

This robe is a most magnificent piece of work. It has been lifted out with some difficulty from the box, and under it have been exposed various objects not yet completely identified, but including silver-coated boomerangs, a bronze snake inlaid with gold, and a number of violet faience libation vases, bearing the protocol of the king. These vases and cups are a portion of the original contents of the box, as is indicated by an hieratic docket upon the lid, but mixed with these original contents are other objects thrown in by the necropolis officials who visited the chamber after the robberies, and put into the nearest box, irrespective of its original contents, articles which the robbers had cast on the floor in their search for more valuable and more portable metal objects.

These extraneous objects are, for the most part, in the nature of jewelry, and among them, as far as the present investigation has gone, is a garment covered with gold and inlaid stone and glass, which looks as though it had

COWS FROM HOME FIELDS

Here in British Columbia we are too close to the Fraser Valley to fully realize its important standing among dairymen al over America. Cows from the famous herds are eagerly bought and sent everywhere to help raise the standard of less fortunate districts. The chief reason for Pacific Milk's superiority is that is comes exclusively from the Fraser Valley.

NIP BABY'S COLD IN THE BUD

External Treatment With Vaporizing Salve Is Best

Some children seem to take one cold after another—never have a chance to build up any strength. This is apt to make them puny and delicate—just sets them back for months.

Many Fernie mothers are finding that they can break up a cold best with Vicks Vapo-Rub, the externally applied, vaporizing salve. While it acts like a liniment or plaster, it is also inhaled as a vapor, and so gets into the throat and lungs immediately. The cold is often broken up overnight.

Mrs. Wm. White, 41 Sebastopol St., Montreal, Que., writes: "I find Vicks splendid. I used it for headaches and sore throat and also used it on baby for bronchitis and when I called in the doctor he said it was the best thing I could have done. I have recommended it to others and they have used it. I apply it freely to the affected parts and leave it to do its work."

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

On Monday last at the United Church, Mr. Charles Carlson and Miss Dorothy Woods were united in marriage. The marriage was a quiet one, only the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties being present.

A handsome monument was erected on Thursday last in the Provincial Court House grounds to the memory of our brave boys who fell in the Great War. The monument, which stands 18 feet high, contains on it the names of all those from this district who made the supreme sacrifice.

Ingram's 150's will play at Cranbrook on Sunday, Feb. 17, at 3.30 p.m. A special railway fare of $3.90 has been arranged for all who would like to go from Fernie. The team will consist of the following players: J. Hovan, Kirkpatrick, McTeer, Dicken, Glover, McLachlan with T. Wilson, Beale, Davidson and F. Hovan as subs. A return game will be played in Fernie on February 23.

Sergt. Hanna and Constable Tutin, of the R.C.M.P., on February 10th, made a raid on the residence of Dominis Longi, in the northern part of the Annex extension, and found a still and a quantity of mash, also about half a gallon of spirits. Accused appeared before Magistrate Henderson and was fined $300.00 and costs or four months imprisonment. He paid the fine.

Mr. A. L. Hay, District Agriculturist, Cranbrook, will be in Fernie on Friday, February 23, under the supervision of the department of agriculture, to give an evening lecture. This should be an interesting fact to the farmers in this district, as many know, who have heard Mr. Hay on previous occasions, so turn out and hear something that will be of interest. Watch for particulars.

33, TOLL OF EXPLOSION

CUMBERLAND, Feb. 9.—Trapped by a terrific explosion in No. 1 slope of No. 4 mine, owned by the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, thirty-three men are known to be dead and five have escaped, but the exact number remaining in the gas-filled workings is unknown.

The explosion took place shortly before 8 o'clock Thursday night and by 10 o'clock this morning thirty-three bodies had been removed. It is believed that the total of dead may be higher, as a check-up of those who were working in that section of the mine has not yet been completed.

The work of identifying the dead who have been brought out of the gas-filled chambers of No. 4 mine, No. 1 slope, is proceeding in the temporary morgue here. Only a partial list was available this morning, but among the dead were placed the names of—

Dave Summerville, unmarried.

William Mitchell, a youth.

M. Martinelli, who leaves a wife and three children.

Others who are believed to have perished and whose names will probably figure as victims of the disaster when identification is complete are:

Robert Smith, married.
Peter Manacore, married.
A. Bonora, married.
Thomas Williams, married.
J. Ferlnot, a youth.
Vincent Vavalieri, married.
Adam Charleston, single.
Andrew Robertson, married.
Norman Huby, married.

Two of those who escaped are Bob Brown, well-known as a member of the Cumberland football team, whose conditions is serious, and Jim Gibb, who is also receiving medical treatment.

Rescue parties wearing McGregor and Draeger gas helmets are battling their way into the clouds of after damp that fill the extensive workings of that section of the mine.

No cause could be attributed at this time for the explosion as the mine was being worked with all possible care and no naked lights were being used. The different chambers had been carefully examined by firebosses before the shift was allowed to go in to the workings. The air courses were working at that time and no unusual signs of gas were noticed of a character to call for any portion of the workings being closed.

The explosion took place only a few minutes after the night shift went in and before some of the men had got well to work. Two of the bodies brought out, those of William Mitchell and Mummy Martinelli, partners, indicated that they had been killed by the force of the explosion. The other bodies which have been brought to the surface indicate death from after-damp, or asphyxiation.

CUMBERLAND, Feb. 10.—(Canadian Press)—Thirty-one bodies were in the little morgue here this morning and two more are yet to come out of the mine—the toll of the explosion which occurred in the Cumberland Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, Thursday night.

A coroner's jury was formed Friday afternoon, but after the jurors had viewed the bodies the inquest was postponed until Friday, February 16.

Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines for British Columbia, announced that a rigid enquiry will be made into the disaster.

While rescue crews are digging their way into the tunnel to recover the two remaining bodies—for there is no hope of finding the men alive—preparations are being made to hold a funeral on Sunday for all the white men who were killed.

Of the bodies in the morgue, fourteen are those of white and seventeen Orientals. The two yet to be recovered are Chinese.

Robert Brown, who with James Gibb and John Webber, was in the hospital unconscious since brought from the mine, recovered consciousness late last night. According to his story which he was barely able to whisper, Brown and Gibb were working together some distance from the scene of the explosion. Feeling the shock, they made for the tunnel mouth. They fell over John Webber, who was unconscious, having been knocked down by a string of runaway cars.

While they were picking up Webber, six men passed and ran ahead of them. Brown and Gibb, carrying Webber, later came on the bodies of these men, all piled together. They had run into the after-damp.

Taking warning from the lot of the six men, Brown and Gibb still carrying Webber, turned and retraced their steps. They met a chinaman known as "Big Sullivan" who advised them to follow him to safety. They did not do so and the Chinaman went on and won his way to the surface.

Webber recovering consciousness, the three later tried twice to get up the slope, each time being driven back by the terrible after-damp. Finally they collapsed. For a time they conversed then collapsed into unconsciousnes.

Brown's story ends at this point, but the rescue party members declared that groans brought them to the place where the trio lay. Webber was brought out with Brown's sweater still over his head.

Had Brown and Gibb known it, they would have been perfectly safe at the spot at which they had been working. A mule that was with them remained and was brought out alive and apparently in good condition this morning.

A young New Zealander who wrote Bernard Shaw begging for his autograph to add to a collection, drew forth the characteristically genial advice from the dramatist to "set fire to the collection of autographs and sit on the top."

AULD LANG SYNE

Owing to the weakness of its threads, this covering has broken up and fallen into many pieces, so that its exact design and the purpose for which it was intended, can not be stated with certainty at present. It is now being picked out piecemeal, a tedious process which requires much time, patience and skill, and it is hoped that it will be possible to string it on new threads and to reconstruct it. Until that procedure has been completed it will be impossible for anyone, no matter how expert, to say what this covering really is, or what the nature is of the other objects remaining in the box.

This question of identifying the articles, as also of establishing historical or peronal data from the various objects found in the ante-chamber, is one of the most difficult problems confronting Mr. Carter and his assistants. As has been pointed out several times already, the history of the period to which these chambers belong is most obscure. Very little is known about it. Consequently, while there is every possibility that considerable light will be thrown on it by the discovered, the greatest care has, naturally, to be taken in making public any deductions.

The position of the objects and their relation, one to another, play a great part in identification, and the manner in which the contents of the chests and boxes have been disturbed and mixed up renders this work most difficult. Often a deduction made from one collection of objects has to be corrected in the light of information derived from a closer examination of subsequent objects. Therefore, while experts periodically express opinions regarding the historical and other data obtained from these chambers, these opinions must, for the time, be regarded, to a very great extent, as conjectures, and only when an examination of all of the objects has been completed and the information derived therefrom collated, will it be possible for anyone to arrive at any authoritative conclusion.

Some of the most interesting things now under examination are fabrics among which is a quantitiy of woven tapestry, that is, linen into which patterns have been woven, of which various specimens have been found in the boxes so far opened. Much of them is in a perished condition, but is capable of reconstruction. The only specimens of such work previously have been a collection of a few small pieces now in the Cairo Museum, which were found by Mr. Carter in the tomb of Thothmes IV. in 1902-3. These pieces are a thousand years earlier than any other piece known, and are finer by thirty-six strands to the warp than any other ever made. Up to the present moment the strands of the specimens found in Tutankhamen's antechamber have not been counted, but they are certainly of the finest texture, and since the period of Tutankhamen is reputed to have been the zenith of the Middle Empire industry, there is every reason to expect that they will be at least of equal fineness to those found in the tomb of Thothmes IV.

On Thursday again there was no work at the tomb, and the approach thereto, for the first time since the removal of the contents began, was almost entirely deserted by visitors. It is most probable that nothing will be done today but it is expected that work in the tomb will be resumed on Saturday, by which time Lord Carnarvon will have returned.

Mention has been made before of the extraordinary jumble of articles in the so-called annex to the other chamber of the tomb, an inner chamber with a floor level two or three feet lower than that of the outer chamber, the only view of which at present is through a small hole near the floor, made by ancient robbers. Following are some of the most conspicuous articles. There are several statuettes, apparently carved in stone, some of which seem to be figures of Hapi, adapted to make vases. Hapi was the god of the Nile, and one of the guardian deities of the dead. There are more than one gaming board, like chess boards with black and white squares, apparently inlaid in ivory.

There are boxes, all more or less elaborately painted or decorated, but closed, and it is impossible to conjecture the nature of the contents. There are more alabaster vases which vie in beauty with those already found in the outer chamber. There is also a great quantity of articles of pottery or faience, including vessels of a variety of shapes, presumably for table purposes and sacredotal uses.

Some gilded poles appear to be part of the canopy, sections of which, as already told, were found in the outer chamber, and which is believed to have been taken by the king on his travels to be set up as shelter when he stopped to rest, or give audiences. There are a number of woven baskets, seemingly of the finest kind, and funeral boats of various sizes, such as were habitually buried with the dead to assist them in crossing the water surrounding the Elysian fields. These are mixed with other articles of household furniture from the palace, such as carved and gilded bedsteads, chairs and bead work hassocks.

The whole place is in extreme confusion, the entire floor being covered with objects often piled one on top of another. Considering the extreme care needed in handling these things, the task of disentangling them and getting them out offers a thorny problem.

The Language of Perscriptions

A member of the Alberta legislature is advocating in the house that doctors be required by law to write their prescriptions in English and in plain language. But isn't there a danger that the thing may look rather undignified? For instance, a man may feel quite all right in his conscience going around to the drug store with something he does not understand on a slip of paper, but supposing he discovered on the prescription something like this: "Give this bird a pint of good strong gin;" isn't it going to be rather shocking? —Winnipeg Free Press.

Your Headaches A Warning

It is a dangerous habit to seek relief from headaches through drugs which deaden the pain but fail to remove its cause. Ninety per cent of the sick headaches and accompanying dizziness are a warning that inactive kidneys are leaving poison in your system. You need Gin Pills. A few doses will relieve the kidney congestion and banish the cause of your headaches. Thousands of people have won lasting benefit from Gin Pills. So can you!

"I Was a Fright!"

"Nothing I Could Take Made Me Any Fatter."

"Up to the time I was seventeen years old, I believe that I was the most miserable and unhappy girl that ever lived. Honestly, I was a sight. I was the most ungainly looking creature you ever saw. I was thin and scrawny—straight up and down. My height was five feet nine inches and I weighed exactly ninety-one and three quarter pounds. No matter what kind of clothes I put on I looked like a fright. I was clumsy and awkward. I used to stand before the glass and study my features. I found I had a good nose, good eyes and a good mouth, but my cheeks were sunken and my face looked like a skull with a piece of parchment stretched over it. But nothing I could do or take made me any fatter. Men rarely even glanced at me. When they did, they merely gave me a casual, amused or pitying look,—an expression which I am sure meant, 'why is a being like that allowed at large?' I used to lie awake at night for hours at a time wondering why there were so many beautiful girls in the world and I was so hideous. I met a friend of mine one day, Elsie W. and I hardly knew her. While she had never been as thin as I was, a year or more ago she ran me a close second, but when I met her she had taken on flesh and had developed into a fine handsome girl with one of the prettiest figures I had ever seen I asked her what had caused the big change. She said Carnol. She told me she had been taking it regularly for the last three months and that from the first week of taking it she had begun to put on flesh. I was so encouraged by what she said that I couldn't get to the druggist fast enough. I bought a bottle and since then I have been taking it regularly. It has made the greatest change in me you ever saw. I now weigh 165 pounds and all my friends tell me what a wonderful figure I have and I know that I am admired"

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 8-622

MERCHANTS MUST BUILD "BACKFIRE"

Can Beat Mail Order Houses at Their Own Game If They Will Do it

ADVERTISING ONLY WEAPON

Catalogue Merchants Spend Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars Annually to Create Demand for Their Merchandise

(Copyright)

The forest ranger and the prairie farmer have learned that they must fight fire with fire. They know that when the all-consuming forest or prairie fires are sweeping toward them their only hope of safety lies in the "backfire." By kindling and carefully controlling a fire of their own they force the bigger fire to burn itself out, finding no further fuel on which to feed.

The merchants of the small cities and towns are learning that in waging their fight for existence they must adopt the tactics of the men of the West. The great mail order houses of the cities are the consuming flames which threaten to wipe out the retail merchants of the small towns unless the latter, realizing their danger, take steps to remove the menace. The retail merchants, as a whole, are beginning to realize that they must fight fire with fire and that they must build a "backfire."

Advertising is the weapon with which the mail order houses conduct their warfare on the retail merchants of the small cities and towns. The mail order houses do their advertising through their own catalogues and through certain publications which are known as mail order advertising mediums. A big mail order house spends hundreds of thousands of dollars merely on the preparation and publication of its bulky catalogues.

Business Built Upon Advertising

The catalogue houses also spend thousands upon thousands of dollars in advertising in the mail order publications which look for their circulation to the people of the small towns and the rural districts. Advertising in some of these mediums costs as much as from $40 to $85 for a single inch, yet the mail order houses find it profitable to pay these high rates. Their business is built upon advertising, and if they were denied the use of the mails for their advertising for a single month their business would be destroyed.

In advertising the local merchants find the only weapon with which they can beat the mail order houses at their own game. This does not mean necessarily only newspaper advertising, although that is the big gun in the battery employed by the successful merchant in his battle for trade.. Advertising is a big word and it covers a big field. There is no longer to be found the man who does not believe in advertising. Every merchant believes in advertising of some sort. The placing of a display in a show window is advertising. The only difference between that kind of advertising and advertising in a newspaper is that where one reaches dozens the other reaches hundreds. Attractive store. They serve their purpose but this purpose is only to attract the window displays are, of course, an important adjunct of any retail attention of those who may be passing by the store. There are other forms of advertising, such as personal solicitation, but printed matter must always continue to be the chief reliance of merchants in attracting coustomers to their store.

Advertising Begets Confidence

The buying public has learned that the store which takes the people into its confidence through its advertising is the one in which it may expect to get the best bargains and the most satisfactory treatment. It knows that the store which advertises consistently and regularly has the best and most up-to-date stocks because this store sells its goods more rapidly than the one which does not advertise and, therefore, is not forced to carry over old stock from one season to another. The public knows that the store which advertises can place lower prices on its goods because it turns over its stock oftener than the store which does not advertise and therefore does not have its capital tied up in slow-moving merchandise.

The mail order house does not get its business by merely letting the public know that it has dry goods or hardware or groceries or some other commodity to sell. It creates a demand for its goods by placing in its catalogues attractive pictures and detailed descriptions of the articles it has to sell. The lure of the mail order catalogue lies in the fact that the merits, or alleged merits, of the merchandise offered are placed before the prospective purchaser in the most graphic manner. The local retail merchant has the same opportunity to do this that the mail order house has and can do it much more effectively than the mail order house can. The retail merchant can talk to the people of community through his home newspaper and that is something which the mail order houses as a rule cannot do, for the local newspapers through a sense of loyalty to their communities and their home merchants will not accept the advertising with which the mail order houses would flood them if they had the opportunity.

FIRST NATIONAL OFFERS MAMMOTH SUPER-DRAMA

It is not often that any film concern can essay really mammoth screen productions in this age of mounting prices, because at the outset the cost is prohibitive. David W. Griffith's "Intolerence" was the last photoplay of this class and proportion. But now comes the First National with what is claimed to be perhaps the biggest super-drama of them all. It is entitled "Passion" and is described as "the foremost screen epic." Some idea of the size of this production can be gained by contemplating the fact that five thousand persons are in the cast. A further insight to the immensity of this feature spectacle is given in the claim that the ordinary motion camera was too limited in its scope to photograph all the action of certain of the unusual mob scenes in this release and consequently an ingenious new invention had to be devised. Further, the introduction of Poli Negri, the famous Continental star, in this photoplay is said to amount to a revelation in the depth and power of the silent drama. It is enthusiastically claimed for her that she has set a new high standard in character deliniation in pantomine.

"Passion" is announced as the attraction at the Orpheum Theatre for two days beginning Wednesday next and the management has made arrangements for a record-breaking business in view of the exceptionally brilliant reputation this feature has attained in the other cities in which it has been exhibited. The story is said to be replete with subtle thrills and it unfolds one of the most appealing love stories yet recorded, if one can judge by the advance press sheets giving the synopsis. The fact that the principal character is a little French milliner who rises to such a place of prominence that she is able to rule king of her land is suficient inkling of the interesting potentiality of the narrative. She rises only to fall again and the depicting of her downward journey is even more thrilling than her climb up the ladder of fame. Once she is brought back to her old ground among the lowly masses, she finds herself the helpless target for universal hatred which knows no mercy. Her ultimate fate is inevitably tragic.

Poli Negri in "Passion" at the Orpheum Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, February 21 and 22.

SLOAN ORDERS FULL ENQUIRY

NANAIMO, Feb. 10.—Hon. William Sloan, minister of mines, who is here, has issued the following statement in connection with the Cumberland disaster:

"Until I get a report from the special investigation which I have authorized, and which is in charge of Mr. George Wilkinson, former chief inspector of mines, it is difficult to reach any conclusion as to the cause of the disaster. Mr. Wilkinson passed through Nanaimo at 3.30 this morning from Victoria, and my instructions are that this investigation shall be complete and exhaustive.

"The workings where the explosion took place were examined by Mr. Jackson, district inspector for the department, on January 29 last, and his report indicates that there was at that time no explosive gas, and working conditions were good.

"This is the worst disaster on Vancouver Island in recent years, and it brings home the distressing fact, that despite precautions and human efforts, coal mining is the most hazardous of occupations, entailing hardships, suffering and sorrow.

"My heartfelt sympathy goes out to those who are bereaved by this disaster."

BOWEL TROUBLE OVERCOME

To Whom It May Concern:

I feel very grateful for what Chiropractic has done for my son George.

He had continual trouble with his bowels ever since he was two years old. For three years I had to give him medicine to move his bowels and unless this was done he would go for days without a movement.

The sixty adjustments certainly did work wonders so that his bowels are regular now for the first time since he was a baby. He is five years old now. His appetite has improved and he has gained about ten pounds in weight.

ANEMIA

A majority of the cases of anemia are in young women who suffer from constipation and most of these cases of blood disease are in reality toxic conditions, since the pallor and sallowness of the patient is largely due to the fact that the system is undergoing a slow process of self-poisoning by the retention of body waste.

In Chiropractic adjustments for anemia, the excretory channels of the body receive first attention. That adjustments also produce vast additional numbers of red blood cells, has been demonstrated by blood tests of cases while under adjustments, thus giving to this method of handling anemia the soundest scientific backing.

THE GUILD OF PLAY CONCERT

The crowded house that awaited the raising of the curtain last night, could hardly have been prepared for the surprises awaiting them. The unexpected talent and the beautiful costumes completely taking the audience by storm, brought round after round of applause.

The opening Morris and Country dances were beautifully done by the older girls, who, grouped in the background, was an interesting setting for the tiny tots who folowed with their nursery rhymes and dances. Little Rene Woods, as 'Bo-Peep' opening the scene was followed by Helen Wood and Bernard Moffatt in a dramatic impersonation of 'Jack and Jill,' then came Hazel Skilley with 'Diddle Daddy' and Nancy Dunwoodie as 'Little Miss Muffett' was accompained by a most realistic and terrifying spider. Evelyn Fleming and Dorothy Cummings in 'Ding, Dong, Bell' and 'Polly Put the Kettle On,' did their little parts most quaintly, while Jimmy Carnwath and his 'Little Gun' is surely a coming nimrod. Margaret Markland's dear litle voice introduced 'Mary's Little Lamb,' and Rhoda Sheffield was a most clever 'Old Mother Hubbard.' Nellie Buchannan in 'Hickory, Dickory, Dock,' was very good and Clifford Wood, a very solemn 'Georgie Porgie' was followed by a very gay 'Mary, Mary, Quite Contray,' in Margaret Fleming and little Alice Payne was an adorable 'Baby Bunting.' Tiny Cynthia Pearson (of three years) as a 'Litle Irish Girl,' was at first very shy of the footlights but having once tasted of their glamour and glitter. insisted (much to the delight of the audience) in keeping the centre of the stage until forcibly removed.

The second item of the program, 'John Peel,' a song and dance by Polly Sloan, Jessie Starr, Minnie Williams and Ruth McIntyre, was beautifully done and was followed by a recitation by Katherine O'Neil, who, in this and in her clever dancing in two distinctly opposite roles impersonated in 'The Irish Jigs' and her beautiful skirt dance as 'Peace,' showed a versatility and cleverness very much appreciated by the audience.

The Pixie dance by eighteen little girls impossible to recognize with their hooded costumes, was beautifully done and very effective under the colored lighting, and the Gypsy dance following was equally fascinating, the solo dance being taken by Jessie Starr, quite as perfectly and finished as could have been done by a professional with splendid support from Dora Starr, Margaret Brown, Isaline Andrews, Dorothy Platt, Lavinia Loyns, Daphne Todd, Polly Sloan and May Maltman; the later having a solo dance herself later in the performance, also showed great talent.

Five boys now came on the scene, with their characteristic song and dance, 'Chin, Chin, Chinaman,' which the audience could not get enough of, and folowing came young Anthony Pearson with an amusing recitation and then Mary O'Neil in a musical monologue and dance 'The Sunbeam,' assisted by Emily Morrison, Mildred Taylor, Annie Blinston, Clarice Shupe, Florence Coles, Doris Whyatt, Bessie Payne, May Markland, Rhoda Buchannan, Phyllis Sheffield, Frances Brown, Marjorie Bean, Annie Gallagher, Ethel Oakley, Helen Schupe, Louise Phillips, Peggy Smith and Jean Fisher —their lovely costumes and graceful dancing supporting the dainty soloist, made this one of the most attractive items on the programme.

Jessie Starr, in her 'Scraf Dance,' proved what she promised in her first dance and was a real delight to the audience and her little sister, Dora, following in the song and dance, 'The Interferring Parrot,' kept everyone in peals of laughter and might have spent all her few years on the stage. so cleverly did she captivate and hold her audience in perhaps one of the most finished performances possible for so young an amateur. Too much praise, also could not be given to those who gave her their clever support, which called for more acting than any of the other parts.

The Pageant of the Empire and the League of Nations formed the end part of the programme and included national dances.

'The Sailor's Hornpipe,' done by Virginia Cummings, Mary O'Neil and Dora Starr, brought down the house, while a 'Welsh Country Dance', with Margaret Brown, Madge Buchannan, Mildred Kastner and Louise Klauer, in their quaint costumes was a close competition.

Jessie Beck and Elsie Puckey gave an excellent and particularly graceful 'Highland Fling,' followed by an 'Irish Jig,' by girls who had already proved themselves favorites with the audience.

An encore to the 'Cowboys Dance' was insisted on. Again Nelson Wallace and Joe Hilton covered themselves with laurels in 'Cousin Jonathan's Dance,' bringing down the house, followed by a 'French Peasant's Dance' by Nora and Mable Harper, Elsie Puckey and Frances Gallagher, perfectly done; then Madge Buchannan sang the difficult son, 'La Brabacognne' so well that it is easy to prophesy a coming vocalist.

Jennie Harper and Minnie Williams each did their solo dances to perfection. The programme ending with Katherine O'Neil's beautiful dance already mentioned.

Much of the success of the performance was due to Miss Nettie Ingram and Mr. Watson, who with piano and violin, accompained the songs and dances. Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Suddaby who assisted with the singing and Mr. Longdon, who arranged the lighting and stage effects, added materially by their services.

One of the most interesting incidents of the evening was Mrs. Pearson's curtain call and presentation of flowers, the audience showing most evident appreciation of her wonderful work.

FIRE DESTROYS VICTORIA HALL

Fire of unknown origin broke out early last Saturday morning in the Dobson & Willingham block and for a time threatened to destroy the entire building. The fire must have started and obtained a strong hold in the Victoria Hall some considerable time before being noticed, the alarm not being turned in until nearly three a.m., and by that time the fire had broken through the floor and burning debris was seen falling from the roof into Wm. Johnston's garage behind the C.P.R. Telegraph Office.

Firemen broke through the window in the Telegraph office door and broke down the partition dividing the two places and quickly subdued the flames there but noticed that the seat of the fire was on the floor above and ran four hose lines up to Victoria Hall. About 4 a.m., it looked as if the flames were well under control but a few minutes later fire broke through the roof of the building and getting a good hold on the tarred roofing, blazed its way across to the Miners' Union Building. The brick partition between the two buildings, however, checked the progress of the flames and confined them to the roof of the Victoria Hall, which collapsed and fell on the hall floor in a flaming mass.

At this time the Fire Department's chances of confining the blaze to the top floor of the building, looked very slim and up until about 5.30 it was a matter of surmise whether the four business places on the ground floor were going to be entirely gutted or not. However, water was kept pouring an the floor of the Hall and by six o'clock the blaze was well under control.

The only place that the fire burnt through the hall floor was directly behind the stove in the kitchen of the dance hall and it is believed that it was at that spot that the fire originated.

Insurance Adjuster Harrison, of Calgary, was in the city early this week and insurance claims approximating fifteen thousand dollars have been settled. The following are approximately the damage estimates of the various parties concerned:

Dobson & Willingham, building and furniture, $9,000.00.
Fernie Co-Operative, $900.00.
Shorthouse Candy Store, $500.00.
C. Commons, instruments, $600.00.
Johnston's Garage, $300.00.

Ladies Benevolent Society, $200.00.

C.G.I.T. HOLD BANQUET

Under the leadership of Mrs. Don Campbell, a most enjoyable and profitable evening was spent by the members of the C.G.I.T. Clubs and thier mothers, in the basement of the Baptist Church, on Monday evening, the 19th inst. The object of the leader was to interest the mothers in the work of the organization, and to teach the girls the art of conducting such a meeting.

A banquet was served at 5.30 p.m.. The tables being decorated in the colors of the club—Blue and Gold. Streamers of the two colors were suspended from the ceiling above the centre of the table to each corner. Covers were were laid for 45 people. A souvenier gift of a corsage boquet of flowers lay on each mother's plate. After the delicious meal was over, toasts were given and responded to and a programme was rendered of no small merit. Rev. Don Campbell gave a short, pithy address on "The Home and its Importance to the Young People." Three-minute addreses were given by several of the Senior girls on The spirit of purity, love, service, truth, joy, etc.

Songs and choruses were well rendered and the programme concluded with an address by Mrs. Campbell on "The Ideals of the C.G.I.T."

An account of this meeting would be incomplete without mention of the excellently performed duties of the young chairwoman, Miss Lily Wiltshire, President of the Senior club. As toast-mistress she could not have been excelled; and her conducting of the meeting could have put many an older person to shame.

Miss Edith Birtwistle added greatly to the decorations of the room by hanging a greeting in large gold letters on a white background, with the words, "Welcome, Mother," to the centre post. Everyone voted the evening the best yet.

PICK ALLOWED ANOTHER MONTH

One month's stay of execution was granted Emilo Picariello and Florence Lassandro, sentenced to hang on Feb. 21 for the murder of Constable Lawson, by Mr. Justice Walsh in the supreme court today.

The application was granted on the grounds that a delay was advisable pending the decision as to whether their appeal to the supreme court of Canada for a new trial is allowable. Ottawa advices are to the effect that Sir Lomer Gouin, minister of justice, will give an opnion on Saturday or Monday.

Mr. Justice Walsh's decision in regard to a month's reprieve will not be affected by the Ottawa decision.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. — No decision has been yet reached by the cabinet council in the appeal for clemency in the cases of Emil Picariello and Mrs. Florence Lassandro, under sentence of death for the murder of Constable Steve Lawson at Coleman, Alberta, last September.

The appeals are under consideration, it was stated last night, and announcement is expected today. The hanging of the condemned people is set for February 21 at Fort Saskatchewan.

LAVISH SCENES IN "MANSLAUGHTER"

The most lavish scenes since "Joan the Woman!"

That's what is said of the Roman bacchanal recently staged by Cecil B. DeMille for his first Paramount production.

Several years ago the same producer gave to the screen his classic tale of the Maid of Orleans. At that time thousands of 'extras' clad in the picturesque costumes of the period, were to be seen daily around the studio and on the massive sets created that picture.

Since that date there have been many huge scenes filmed at the West Coast home of Paramount Pictures. Hundreds and even thousands of people have worked simultaneously before the cameras. But it remained for Cecil B. DeMille to again set a new mark for sheer, spectacular splendor. And he did it with the Roman scenes in "Manslaughter."

The episode, which used to point a powerful moral, shows Rome just before the fall—pagan Rome with all of its licentiousness and debauched beauty. At the height of the revel—while the guests, the dancers and the guards slumber in drunken stupor—the barbarian hordes storm the gates and pillage, burn and destroy everything in their path.

Leatrice Joy in the role of the patrician hostess of this bacchanal and Thomas Meighen as the leader of the barbarians have the principle roles in this as, with Lois Wilson, they have in the major portion of the actual story of "Manslaughter."

Credit for the stately settings goes to Paul Iribe, art director for Cecil B. DeMille productions, who also contributed to the designing of the hundreds of colorful costumes. An elaborate ballet trained by Theodore Kosloff especially for this occasion figured prominently in the action of this portion of the picture.

Jeanie Macpherson, who adapted Alice Duer Miler's story for the screen, spent many weeks in research work preparing for the actual filming of these scenes. Several famous paintings including the "Thumbs Down" painting depicting the end of a gladiatorial combat were literally reproduced by the producer and scenarist. "Manslaughter," which is Cecil B. DeMille's most masterful and lavish creation is the Wednesday and Thursday's attraction for next week.

REV. FATHER KENNEDY TO GIVE SERIES OF LECTURES

During the next few weeks the local council Knight of Columbus will hold a number of entertainments in Holy Family Parish Hall, the chief feature of which will be a series of lectures on Canadian History by Rev. Father Kennedy. His ability to treat his subject with skill and with a thorough knowledge of the facts is well known to the public.

The first of these entertainments will be given on Friday evening, Mar. 2nd, at 8.30 p.m., and the Knights express the hope that as many of the citizens as possible will take advantage of the opportunity afforded to refresh their memories on some of the more salient points in our country's progress.

Canadian songs, Canadian music and Canadian readings and recitations will have a prominent place on the programme, and the proceedings should prove a source of real education to all and be the means of stimulating our pride in our great Canadian heritage.

WHAT OF OUR SYSTEM?

(Saturday Night)

A couple of recent editorials in these columns dealing with Socialists and Socialism has to a considerable extent increased the size of my mail. Some agreed with my rendition of the situation, and some did not, naturally. For the latter I am thankful, as it serves as an excuse, if one were needed, for pursuing the subject. Among this correspondence is a communication from J. Davidson Ketchum, Chairman, Students Christian Movement of Canada.

In this communication, employers are accused of taking no interest in sociological questions, (not a statement of fact, as there is much evidence to the contrary) and he also says the the "employed have already made their investigations and find conditions deplorable." He further states that previous to the adoption of what is called our industrial system, "people ate at least as regularly as millions do today.' '

While Mr. Ketchum may not have realized it, no better recomendation could be had for this so-called "system" than that paragraph. The famines which have overrun parts of Europe have been brought about not by an industrial system but by the breaking down of that system; through war, anarchy, misgovernment and insubordination.

Our present methods of manufacture, trade and commerce may be said to have sprung into life with the birth of the steam engine, and the power loom, and later on came the sewing machine, the steamship, the railways, the electric telegraph and the power press. Let us go back a bit and see how people in the non-industrial centuries, compared in comfort with say Canada or the United States, where the industrial system is working more normally, owing to the three thousand miles which fortunately intervenes between this Continent and Europe, where war is still the uppermost thing in the people's minds.

Back in those days the workmen's houses had no glass windows, and when at last glass windows were procurable they were taxed. Sewerage and supplies of pure water, or the means of purifying it, were unknown. Disease was everywhere. Education was for the few. Of household conveniences, there were none. The barley loaf was the chief form of nourishment for the workman, and at times there was precious little of that. Take a glimpse into the past from the pen of Macaulay, during the reign of William and Mary (1692). "Here (in England) the laborer was forced to husband his coarse barley loaf, but there (France) it not seldom happened that the wretched peasant was found dead on the earth with half chewed grass in his mouth." This sounds like Russia under the Soviet; with its wrecked industrial system.

Compare the present "deplorable condition" which Mr. Ketchum talks about with the days following the Black Death, when the English King and Council set wages at a low figure, in spite of the high price of commodities, and workmen who refused were imprisoned and whipped and even branded. And how is it, may I ask, that such a situation was relieved and labor as a whole placed miles above pauperism and slavery? It was not done with Children's Crusades and Students' Conferences, that is certain. On the other hand it was done by the men of genius; yes, and by men with either money or credit; the men who invented and built the steamship, and the locomotives, and by other men, also with energy and brains, who drove these ships over the seas and built railway tracks over the land, opening up heretofore closed countries, making it possible for millions to live in calm comfort.

Our Children Crusaders have no doubt spent considerable time damning Rockefeller, who gave us cheap oil to burn in place of tallow candles, and Carnegie, who with his brains and enterprise brought steel rails within reach so that the railways were able to extend their lines and so open up remote places. Yes there is Armour. Another fine name to hate or have a gab feast over, but still he was the man who first brought western meat into eastern markets in cold storage cars, and undersold the local butchers, to the vast benefit of the consumer. All these men were rich, and therefore what they had or have, according to some one else. Belongs to those who never created anything more tangible than an argument.

And the strange part of it is all made possible by borrowing money, the stuff that should not exist according to some people. As Guy Morrison Walker says in his "Creator of Wealth," (a book I would recommend to the Crusaders) "there is nothing cheaper than capital. If safety can be assured to capital, the use of it can be purchased for two or three per cent. The great fortunes are made not by the possession of capital, but by men of brains and purpose, men who purchase the use of the capital, and use it with their brains to build up great industries."

In a recent address in Montreal Sir Arthur Currie of McGill University, stated that the college aimed to produce intellectually well rounded men, of broad sympathies and good judgment, trained in accurate thought. I would recommend that Sir Arthur pay some attention to our Children's Crusade movement as outlined by Mr. Ketchum and others, for while these gentlemen have every right to mull their own brains with fantastic theories, befundling the brains of the youth of Canada is quite another matter.

MAKES APPEAL ON BEHALF OF DISABLED VETERANS

A special appeal to the employers on behalf of disabled returned soldiers is being made by Attorney-General A. M. Manson, minister of labor. A letter has been despatched to practically every employer of labor in B. C., asking for co-operation in providing work for returned men, and especially those incapaciated through their war experiences. The minister points out that there are between 800 and 1000 disabled veterans in the province.

"They remind us," he writes, "of a duty which we cannot ignore. Many of them before the war were assured of safe positions in the professions, in commerce or in industry, and of every comfort for the rest of their days. They put those things behind them. They made the sacrifice—a sacrifice known to all. They have come back mained in body and broken in health, desiring nothing so much as to be able to make a new start in life. Many of these men find it impossible to look for a return of the same measure of prosperity which they formerly enjoyed. But they do ask to be allowed to serve the community in some useful capacity, in such a way as their strength and opportunity will permit."

Hon. Mr. Manson appeals to the employers to arrange their organizations so that at least a few veterans may be given employment and to give the preference to returned men when engaging more assistance. Incidentally, he points out that more than eighty per cent. of the men who have been added to the civil service the past four years, by appointment and re-instatement, have been returned soldiers.

What About Canada

South America is prosperous and most of the republics felt only remotely the shock of the World War. Their money has not deteriorated in value. The people to the south of us have ready use for our wares. If intelligent attempts are made our business with the South American Republics can be easily doubled during the year upon which we have just entered. But we must go at it understandingly.—Los Angeles Times.

Took Tanlac on Physicians Advice And it Put Her in Fine Condition, States Mrs. Coles

"Tanlac is certainly an ideal medicine," recently said Mrs. Bessie Coles, highly esteemed resident of 1851 Lorne St., Regina, Sask.

"I was in such a badly run-down condition that I just felt miserable all the time. My appetite had failed me to such an extent that I was losing weight steadily. My nerves were awfully unstrung; many, many times I couldn't get even an hour's sleep all night long, and I never felt like doing my housework at all.

"I was badly in need of something to build me up and when a physician advised me to take Tanlac, I lost no time getting a bottle. Now, I really don't feel like the same person, the medicine has done me such a world of good. My nerves have steadied down, I am sleeping like a child, eating heartily, have gained several pounds, and am feeling just fine. Knowing what a wonderful medicine Tanlac is, I can sincerely recommend it to anyone."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

A SUNDAY IN IRELAND

Southern Ireland may be on the eve of peace negotiations, but the record of yesterday is not hopeful. Several houses of supporters of the Free State were burned, Revolutionary soldiers directed fire from machine guns at a congregation of worshippers as they came out of church after morning mass, Coroner Thomas Higgins, father of a Free State minister and brother-in-law of Governor-General Timothy Healy, was assasinated at his own door by three armed visitors. Peace will not be likely to arrive, even if compacts are made, so long as men capable of such butcheries are at large.

ALBERTA COAL SHOW INCREASE IN EXPORTS

EDMONTON, Feb. 16.—The total amount of coal produced in Alberta for 1922 was 5,976,432 tons according to figures contained in the annual report of the Mines Branch for the year tabled in the legislature by Premier Greenfield Thursday.

Of this amount 1,443,942 tons were sold for consumption in Alberta, 1,099,789 tons for other provinces and 105,514 tons for the United States. Coal sold for consumption in Alberta includes coal sold to railway companies, a large portion of which is used outside the province.

Importations of coal from the United States to points east of British Columbia in Western Canada show a decrease of 928,985 tons below the 1921 importations, while shipments of Alberta coal to all Canadian provinces except British Columbia show an increase over 1921.

39,327 tons were produced in 1922 in excess of the 1921 production. The largest production for any month was October, 1922, when the total was 926,888. This being the largest coal output in the history of the industry in Alberta for any month.

379 coal mines were in operation during the year, of which 100 were opened and 44 abandoned. 57 were closed temporarily. There were 84 prosecutions for contraventions of the Act and 81 convictions of these 22 were workmen, 45 operators and 17 officials.

12,537 persons were employed in mines during the month of December, being an increase of 301 over December of 1921.

CURLING AND REAL LIFE

From the nature of the game a good curler ought to be a pretty good sample of citizen. And by a good curler is meant one who is a good loser as well as a good winner; temperate in victory and placid in defeat. The fortunes of the game hang by a hairsbreadth and change in an instant. A man's sporting instinct gets him on the qui vive and he strains to win.

The battle of life is pretty much like a curling game. Winning and losing, so it goes with all the little excitements of the game. And the man who strains to win when things are going against him in the battle of life is going to be a pretty good citizen, as well as a good curler. What determines the calibre of a man is the way he meets his fortunes, both good and adverse; it isn't how much is a man worth, but how he goes through life that counts. That's why a good curler can't very well be a poor citizen.—Cranbrook Herald.

PROTEST USE OF ORIENTALS

CUMBERLAND, Feb. 15. — Ten miners, bearing protests from a mass meeting of underground workers, had a meeting today with officials of the Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Limited, in an effort to have radical changes effected in the system of mining coal here.

The men are asking that the long-wall system of mining be abandoned and that Orientals be barred from the workings underground. Unless these demands are answered to the satisfaction of the white miners they will refuse to go back into the pits. All those present at the mass meeting pledged themselves to give support to the committee members.

The meeting which was addressed by Sam Guthrie, M. L. A., for Newcastle, severely censored Rev. Thomas Menzies, M. L. A., representative for the district, for failing to give support to proposed amendments to the Coal Mines Regulations Act, introduced by Messrs Guthrie and Thomas Uphill.

In the section of Number 4 mine, where the explosion took place on Thursday last, the long-wall system of mining was being followed. The miners believe that this method is more dangerous than the pillar-and-gallery system of cutting coal, permitting greater accumulations of explosive gas.

Cumberland coal mines are the only collieries in British Columbia employing Orientals underground. White miners have been agitating for their exclusion from the workings for a number of years. In the explosion of last week and also that of August of last year the majority of those killed were Orientals.

The Chinese miners are also in a sullen mood. They took no part in the dangerous work of rescue in the gas-filled galleries underground and even refused to dig graves for the victims of the explosion.

Mr. Kenneth Graham and Mr. Charles Graham heard the delegates but stated they were not in a position to take action, and asked that the meeting be adjourned till today, when the men will have the opportunity of appearing before Mr. James M. Savage, managing director.

The remaining bodies of the explosion victims were buried Tuesday in the midst of a snowstorm which covered the ground with a foot of snow. One other body will be shipped to California tomorrow.

PRINCE PAYS TOUCHING TRIBUTE TO WAR VICTIMS

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The story of a visit made by the Prince of Wales to a hospital where thirty-six hopelessly crippled war veterans are spending their days is printed by the Daily Mail.

After seeing twenty-nine of the men and offering them his condolences, the Prince asked where the other seven were. He was told that these were so shockingly mutilated that it was hardly desirable for him to see them. The Prince, however, insisted and attendants accordingly took him into the ward. With each of the six whom he found there the Prince chatted cheerfully and then asked where the seventh was. He was told that no one except the doctors and nurses were allowed to see this sufferer, who lay alone in still another ward. The Prince expressed a desire to visit him.

The member of the hospital staff who related the story tried to dissuade His Royal Highness but the Prince was insistent and was finally conducted into a little room. He walked firmly to the bedside but turned very pale when he saw the afflicted veteran. For a few moments he stood with bowed head. Then he slowly stooped down and kissed the shattered face.

"A Terrible Experience"

"I Recall My Experiences with the Burglar with Feelings of Horror!"

"How would you feel if you wakened in the middle of the night with a flashlight shining in your eyes and the gruff voice of a man threatening that, 'If you make the slightest noise, I'll shoot?' That was my experience the end of last March when my husband was away in the woods and I was alone with my three children. Everytime I think of this experience a shudder passes over me and as long as I live I shall remember it. At the time I really thought I would die. It's a wonder my heart did not stop beating I was so weak that even if I had any desire to move, I could not. I was bathed in a cold, clammy perspiration Even to recall the shocking details now makes me shudder. It was a result of this shock that I contracted a high fever and for hours at a time I was delirious. I got so bad that the doctor finally gave up hope of my ever recovering, but by careful nursing, I was finally pronounced out of danger The shock had left me so weak, that, for no reason whatever, I would suddenly burst into tears All the life seemed to have been taken out of me. I kept getting weaker and weaker, so much so that my husband and children were constantly worrying about me. Doctors prescribed for me and while I willingly tried their medicines, only very few of them did me any good, but unfortunately the good was not lasting. My family asked me if I would try Carnol and I said, 'I was willing to try anything,' but felt that it would not do me any good. Four bottles of Carnol taken regularly, has completely restored my former health and strength and, while I occasionally recall my experience with the burglar with feelings of horror, I am otherwise as well and strong as I have ever been. Carnol is the most wonderful preparation I have ever used for building and restoring health and strength. It has done wonders for several of my friends to whom I have recommended it." Mrs. McC. of....

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 4-622

MAJOR ROGERS AND HIS TIME

(1) Major Rogers lived in this house in Waterville, Minnesota. He also died here.

(2) Watch presented to Major Rogers, of Rogers Pass fame, about 1885.

(3) Major A. B. Rogers, who discovered the Rogers Pass, the first feasible route through the Rockies to the Pacific Coast.

ONE of the most difficult tasks in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was to discover a way through the Rocky Mountains. A number of explorers had made attempts to find a way, but it remained for Major A. B. Rogers to discover the most feasible route, the route that was chosen, and is now known as Rogers Pass.

Major Rogers was a true type of railway pathfinder. The reputation he had made in the United States as a locating engineer and his advanced ideas on railway construction attracted the attention of the Canadian Pacific Railway officials, who engaged him to take charge of the mountain section from Savona's Ferry in B.C., to Moose Jaw. He saw at once the problem that confronted him in finding a straighter road through the Selkirks, than (as was suggested) to follow the great bend northward of the Columbia River, a distance of over two hundred miles. He found the near way by following the South fork of the Illecillewaet River to the present site of the Glacier House, where he climbed a mountain and gazed upon the summit of the pass that now bears his name. Major Rogers seems to have been a man of few words. His reports contain little beyond the technicalities of his undertakings, otherwise a description of the magnificent spectacle displayed by the Rogers Pass and its surroundings, when seen for the first time by a white man, would be well worth the reading.

This was in 1881. The following year the exploration was completed by ascending the Beaver River Valley to Bear Creek, a tributary stream, then up that stream through the rugged defile between Mts. MacDonald and Tupper to the summit of the pass, and over the same to the Illecillewaet Valley. The surveys of the main line between Calgary, at the Eastern base of the foothills of the Rockies, to which point they had been carried from the East, and the summit of the main range were completed in 1883. Three years later daily trains were passing to and fro between Montreal and Port Moody, at that time the Pacific terminus of the railway; and so they passed for thirty-one years over this section, until with the opening of the Connaught Tunnel under Mount MacDonald, it was no longer needed.

It was on November 7th, 1885, that the last spike in the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway across Canada was driven at Craigellachie, British Columbia. This opened up a new era for Canada. In recognition of the valuable work done by Major Rogers the directors of the Canadian Pacific presented him with a cheque for $5,000 and a watch thus inscribed:

"Presented to Maj. A. B. Rogers by the Directors of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company as a token of their indebtedness to him for the discovery of a pass for the railway through the Selkirk Mountains, and of their appreciation of his services as Engineer-in-Chief of the location of the Mountain section of the railway."

Evidently Major Rogers was of a more poetical than financial temperament, for he carried the cheque in his pocket for several years, and he only cashed it when his friends of the Canadian Pacific insisted that he should do so.

At the time of his death in 1889, Major Rogers left his watch to his brother, L. Z. Rogers, of Waterville, Minnesota, who in turn left it to his only grandson, George Rogers Glotfelter. Young Glotfelter was killed in France on October 3rd, 1918. The watch is now in a safety deposit box of a Waterville bank. There are, at present, two nephews of Major Rogers living, both of whom accompanied him on all of his explorations in the mountains, and were with him when he discovered Rogers Pass. They are Mr. Albert L. Rogers and Mr. John G. Rogers, 1108 5th Avenue, Seattle, Wash.

The nieces of Major Rogers, and particularly Mrs. C. A. Gray, have taken a great deal of interest in the activities of their uncle, and are in possession of a great many of his original letters, newspaper clippings, including letters to him from both Sir William Van Horne and Lord Shaughnessy.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of William King Simpson, aged 19 years and 3 months, killed at Coal Creek, Feb. 26, 1921.

A bitter grief, a shock severe,
We little knew death was so near.
Only those who've lost are able to tell
The pain that's felt at not saying farewell.

Two years have passed; our hearts still sore;
As time goes on, we miss him more.
One of the dearest, one of the best,
We miss him most who loved him best.

Died—In Fernie on Feb. 20th, Katie, the 8-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Heckler. The funeral took place on Thursday from the Roman Catholic Church.

Ingram's 150, strengthened by two other players, were defeated by a score of 3 to 2 in a fast game of hockey at Cranbrook on Sunday last. The game was played on heavy ice.

Lethbridge was cleaning house last week and in consequences, Fernie and other Pass towns have been flooded with a crowd of undesirables from the Lethbridge underworld.

The Fernie-Cranbrook hockey game, billed for tonight, has been postponed owing to water on the ice and will be played sometime after Cranbrook comes back from their trip to Nelson.

John Porter, manager of the Greenhill Hotel, Blairmore, has severed his connection with the house, and may go into business at Fernie. His brother, Gordon, is the new manager of the Greenhill.

Harry Willingham arrived in town from Vancouver on Monday and after the fire loss was adjusted in connection with the Dobson & Willingham Block, immediately put a gang of men at work putting a new roof on the building. He expects to be in the city for about a month.

The local bonspiel opened on Monday night with twenty rinks in the draws. The three open competitions are out to the eights. Owing to the mild weather the draws have been suspended until next week. In our next week's issue we will publish the schedule as far as played in each competition.

Kirkham of Lethbridge, one of the visiting skips at the bonspiel, does not like the deliberative style of some of the Cranbrook skips, which he says is particularly aggravating, and next to poor sportmanship. The general verdict is that a little more deliberiveness would not have hurt Kirkham's rink in one spot, and that it is worse than poor sportmanship to grouse at a rink that beats you.—Cranbrook Herald. All fair minded curlers who attended the bonspiel will agree with Stanley Kirkham in his criticism of some of the Cranbrook curlers for the length of time they took to study out an end. When it takes three hours and a half to study out a game which should be played in two hours and a half, there is certainly some kick coming.

"CAPTAIN OF THE MEN OF DEATH"

Used to be Tuberculosis, Now Pneumonia.

Dr. Osler says pneumonia has taken the place of tuberculosis as "Captain of the Men of Death," to use a phrase coined by old John Bunyan. And influenza is not far behind. The germs of these diseases are constantly with us. The only reliable protection against them is the resisting power conferred by good health. To avoid these dangerous diseases in winter, don't let yourself be run down and above all never neglect a cold. Break it up in the beginning with Vicks VapoRub, the external vaporizing treatment for colds.

"A stitch in time saves nine."

Mrs. J. Merson, of 171 West St., Brantford, Ont., writes: "I have four children varying in ages from 11 years to 11 months, and I've used Vicks with great success on all of them. One boy, age 3½, had a repetition of pneumonia from which he suffered last winter, Vicks applied in time saved him. The babe had his first rub at three months. Once his little chest seemed completely closed. My husband phoned for the doctor and I, in the meantime, rubbed him liberally with Vicks, following your directions minutely. The doctor said: 'What have you got on him?' I told him and he said 'It is very, very good, just leave him now he is all fixed up and I'll call tomorrow.' "

At all drug stores 50c a jar. For a free test size package, write Vick Chemical Co., 344 St. Paul Street, W., Montreal, P. Q.

The annual convention of District No. 18 U.M.W.A. will open in Calgary the first of the week. After the convention the delegates will meet the Coal Operators in an endeavor to arrive at an understanding for the agreement which expires on March 31st.

The Presbytery of Toronto, by a vote of 91 to 29, put themselves on record as being in favor of proceeding immediately to the consummation of union with the Methodist and Congregational churches.

Mr. George Dunwoody, of Coal Creek, desires to thank the Doctors and hospital staff for their attention to the late Mrs. Dunwoody. Also members of Brother and Sister Lodges, L.O.O.M., members of Coal Creek Club and Fernie branch G.W.V.A. for practical sympathy rendered during his recent sad bereavement and all who attended the funeral.

A sad event took place in the Fernie hospital on the 16th inst., in the death of Mrs. Geo. Dunwoodie, a well known lady of Coal Creek. Deceased who had only been ill for a few days, leaves a husband and four small children to mourn her death. Only a year ago her sister, Mrs. W. Homer, also of Coal Creek, died very suddenly in a similar manner. The funeral, which took place on Tuesday, was largely attended by her friends and neighbors from Coal Creek. Mrs. Dunwoodie was 27 years of age.

AGAINST ORIENTALS

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(C. P. Cable)—The appeal in the case of Brooks-Bidlake and Whittal, Limited, against the attorney-general of British Columbia, was dismissed by the judicial committee of the privy council today.

The question at issue was as to the power of the British Columbia government to restrict the employment of Chinese or Japanese in connection with timber licenses granted to the appellants. The licenses prohibited the employment of the Orientals. The appellants submitted that the Dominion of Canada had exclusive authority concerning the privileges or disabilities of Orientals in the provinces and that the prohibition of their employment in connection with these British Columbia licenses was, in truth, devised to deprive Orientals, whether naturalized or not, of their ordinary rights as inhabitants, and, in fact, prevented or prohibited their earning a livelihood within the province of British Columbia. Further, it was claimed, that insofar as the prohibition was directed against the Japanese it was a contravention of the Japanese treaty.

Another contention of the appellants was that the lands being crown lands were not in the same position as if privately owned.

The appeal was argued in December last and judgment was reserved. However, the judicial committee of the privy council a month or so ago decide to hear further argument by Sir John Simon on behalf of the province of British Columbia.

The judgment dismissing the appeal states that the points raised were:

First—Was the stipulation against employing Chinese or Japanese in connection with provincial timber licenses valid, or was it wholly or partly void as conflicting with the British North America Act or the Japanese Treaty Act.

Second—If the stipulation was void were the appellants entitled to a renewal of their licenses from the British Columbia government.

Their Lordships dealing first with the contention that the stipulation is void, as conflicting with the British North America Act, states that they are unable to agree with the contention that the act reserves to the Dominion parliament the exclusive right to legislate on the subject of naturalization and aliens, or that the provincial legislature is not competent to impose regulations restricting the employment of Chinese or Japanese on crown property held in the right of the province.

Section 91 of the act reserves to the Dominion parliament a general right to legislate on the rights and disabilities of aliens and naturalized persons but the Dominion is not empowered by that section to regulate the management of the public property of the province or to determine whether a grantee or licenses of that property shall or shall not be permitted to employ persons of a particular caste. Such functions are assigned by sections 92 and 109 to the provincial legislatures. This conclusion is sufficient to dispose of the present appeal. Each licensee issued upon the understanding that no Chinese or Japanese shall be employed in connection therewith, their lordships state, and the appellants' right to a renewal of the license is contingent upon their complying with the stipulation.

"It appears from the endorsement of the writ in this action and the affidavits," the judgment continues, "that the appellants have employed and claim a right to employ both Chinese and Japanese labor. Now whatever may be said as to the stipulation against employing Japanese labor there is nothing, apart from the British North America Act, to show that a stipulation against the employment of Chinese labor is invalid. The stipulation is severable as the Chinese and Japanese are separately named and the condition against employing such Chinese having been broken, the appellants have no right to renewal of their license.

"The point raised as to the Japanese treaty act does not arise and their lordships think it unnecessary to deal with it.

"The appeal fails and is dismissed with costs."

FOREIGN FOMENTORS OF DISORDER

In view of the present agitation for leting down our immigration bars to all comers, nationality figures in connection with the recent disorders in the mining fields at Edmonton are illuminative. The coal miners struck in the dead of winter in the hope of forcing acceptance of their demands, and offered violent resistance to the operation of the mines by men willing to work. As a result 88 men were arrested for unlawful assembly at the Standard Mine and found guilty by a jury. Judge Simmons, realizing that many of the prisoners had been misled by agitators among them, showed leniency by letting them out on suspended sentence for a year, which means that in the event of further offences any of them may be called up and sent to jail. A poll of the prisoners with regard to their nationality, showed only three natives of Canada among the whole batch of 88. The vast majority came from Eastern Europe, where Bolshevistic principles and striking for the purpose of ending existing systems of government, are rife. The following figures show the countries from which the prisoners came: Ukrainia (Little Russia) 30; Austria, 21; Poland, 5; Russia, 5; Germany, 1; Roumania, 1; England, 6; Scotland, 3; Wales, 4; Ireland, 1; United States, 5; Canada, 3.

Such figures leave no question of where the majority of the trouble makers who have been trying to disorganize fuel production in the West, came from; and are an illustration of the consequences of immigration from Eastern Europe. Much as our mines need workers, production can only be assured by the right kind of workers—those who want to work, in brief.—Saturday Night.

YOUR BABY SHOULD HAVE THE BEST FOOD

"That her baby was pale, thin and did not gain in weight for several weeks. After trying many foods, her doctor prescribed Borden's Eagle Brand Milk and her baby gained over one-half pound the first week, and slept well for the first time in over a month."

In this paper from time to time you will find an advertisement of Borden's Eagle Brand Milk, a food that has raised more healthy babies than all the prepared infant foods combined. Cut out the advertisement and mail it to The Borden Company, Limited, Montreal, and they will send you, free of charge, what you want, either instructions in your own language for feeding your baby, or a baby book, or a recipe book telling you how to make tasty dishes with Eagle Brand. Ask for by name what you would like to have.

Careful With Glue

Animal or hide glue is considered indispensable to such industries as cabinet-making, furniture manufacturing, coach-building and others using jointed or veneered wood. It is therefore of importance for those engaged in such industries to note that this animal glue loses its strength very rapidly at temperature approaching that of boiling water (about 212 degrees F.), which are those obtained in the ordinary double glue pot. It is asserted by the Forest Products Laboratories, forestry branch, department of the interior, Canada, that hide glues

CANADIAN AND BEST

It is no small wonder that British Columbia produces the finest quality canned milk in Canada. We do not, of course, take credit to ourselves for this superiority, but lay the praise to the splendid dairy standards maintained by the dairy farmers of the Fraser Valley.

Our part is to keep this good milk for you in all its richness and purity, with flavor unimpaired.

Here and There

Fort William—E. G. Noble, first aid instructor on the Canadian Pacific railway, who for the past seven years has been instructor on the eastern divisions, is in the city preparing to take charge of the whole of the western divisions, from Fort William to Vancouver, and to organize first aid classes among the employees of the railway company and instruct them in the emergency treatment of accidents.

St. John, N.B.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has to Jan. 6th shipped more than two million bushels of grain more than during the corresponding period last year. This season's shipments have already totalled 4,987,164 bushels as compared with 2,658,582 bushels on the same date last season. The outlook is for a continued heavy movement.

London, England — Shareholders of the Canadian Pacific Railway here have been officially informed that a measure of relief is to be granted them from the British income tax for the fiscal years 1919 and 1920 in respect of the company payment of the Canadian income tax. This is the first official word on the subject of Canadian Pacific shares. By the Finance Act of 1920, however, all British subjects resident in overseas Dominions were granted for 1920, in some cases for 1919, and in the future, the right of reclaiming the British income tax as though actually resident in Britain. This affected Canadians deriving income from which the British income tax had been deducted. It is estimated that the amount saved by Canadians so situated, if they did not neglect to file their claims under the Act, would be over $1,000,000.

Golden, B.C.—That the provincial government will commence work on the Golden-Leanchoil road early in the spring, is announced by J. A. Buckham, M.L.A. A survey will be made as soon as possible and the work will be done by contract. The cost is estimated at $234,000. That portion of the road to be constructed by the Parks branch of the Dominion Government will also be got under way this year, it is stated.

The completion of this road will create a large amount of tourist traffic through Golden, and will also afford a loop whereby local cars may travel to Calgary and points in Alberta, and return over the newly completed Banff-Windermere road to Golden, passing some of the most magnificent mountain scenery on the continent.

Ottawa — The "Ottawa Eevening Journal" has the following editorial which is good reading for automobile drivers all over the country:

This is the season of the year when statistics begin to appear. Among them will be those dealing with automobile accidents, and it will probably be found that the railway level crossing is still the most favored location for traffic mishaps of varying degrees of seriousness. This time of the year may also be a favorable one for considering the matter of accidents at railway crossing, especially in this locality. Ottawa has a number of railway crossings, although not more than the average Canadian city. Automobile accidents frequently happen at these crossings, and they are usually caused through negligence on the part of car drivers. An obligation to use reasonable care rests upon all users of the highway, whether they walk, drive a wagon or drive a motor car. Most people do exercise that care, the more cautious ones even being wise enough to stop, look and listen. But there are others who do not. Official records of accidents at the railway crossings in Ottawa prove this beyond doubt. There are actually on record cases where men have driven their cars into trains at a standstill on a crossing.

Here is an illuminating case. On December 18th an engine was going towards Bank street on the railway tracks with four cars and a crew. When approaching Booth street crossing the whistle was sounded and the bell was rung automatically. A motor car, to quote the official report, "coming at about 30 miles an hour attempted to cross in front of the engine. Brakeman Little, who was riding on the front footboard, gave the engineer the signal to stop and he applied the brakes in emergency. The automobile stopped right in the middle of the crossing and the engine came up against it and pushed it a few inches, leaving a small scratch on the car. The driver would not give his name, but drove off, remarking, 'Oh, to h— with it.'" That is not all. Automobile accidents have happened on city crossings which are protected by watchmen or in other ways. From November 9 to 27, 1922, on the crossings at Booth (corner Britannia), Queen and Main streets, there were ten instances, four of which were on one way, of local car drivers disregarding stop signals or getting on to the tracks with the gates down. To most persons this sort of recklessness is almost incomprehensible, and seems to warrant the most drastic reprisal measures. A driver who disregards a watchman's signal deserves the strongest condemnation. To prevent accidents, it is essential that motor-drivers should co-operate with the railway officials. The great majority may be depended upon to do this. And the drawing of attention to the foregoing facts may induce the minority to think a little more deeply on the subject.

TWO PAINTINGS BRING $20,000

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Feb. 16.—Charles M. Russell, western artist, of Great Falls, Montana, is exhibiting two paintings which are attracting unusual attention. One has been sold to the Prince of Wales, the other to Douglas Fairbanks, each for the sum of $10,000.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Feb. 16.—Charles M. Russell, for many years a resident of this city, was early known as the "Cowboy Artist," and is rated as the best painter of western scenes living today. His paintings are full of life, correct to the slightest detail, and represent a time in the west which has passed. Mr. Russell lived in Montana since he was 11 years old, coming here from St. Louis, Mo., alone, as a boy, and working at cowpunching on the ranges for many years. He lived with the Blood Indians north of the line two years and knows the Indian of the old days in detail.

While riding the Musselshell range in the middle '80s as a cowboy for a Helena cattle firm, Russell would frequently send the firm drawings instead of writing. This winter was the one which practically wiped out the range cattle business in Montana for a time, and Russell sent in the picture of a cow standing humped in the snow, with a coyote waiting for her to die, and under it the legend "The Last of 5000." The picture was drawn with a pencil, but it made Russell famous in the west overnight and thereafter he followed painting as a vocation, mixing his own paints and being his own teacher.

Dr. Seward Webb, New York millionaire, met Russell in Great Falls shortly after and got the latter to go to New York to study painting as his protege. Russell remained in New York about a month, returning to the west and going on with his work. His studio in Great Falls is a log cabin of the old days, with fireplace and all of the old-time furnishings. Mr. Russell has sold many paintings abroad and exhibited in Canada, in London and in New York, a considerable number of his works being in English art collections. At no time has Mr. Russell ever been able to keep pace with the demand for his works, and the present sale is only an incident, except that it is made to the future king of England. Mr. Russell is married and lives in Great Falls with his wife and one boy; he and his father are spending the winter at Santa Barbara, Cal.

People—People—People

"The administration today is suffering from a shortage of traffic. It has a staff and facilities to handle a much heavier traffic than is offering." So says Sir William Hoy in his latest report on the working of the railways of the Union. The mileage operated now runs into the big total of 11,531 miles. And we are going to spend over £4,000,000 on still more lines. In the year, the expenditure on the railways was reduced by over £3,000,000. But the revenue fell off still faster. What is clear, then, is that at the moment our railway system is too big for the country.—Johannesburg Times (South Africa).

If Germany Had Won

French methods of collecting indemnities may not appeal to certain interested people who appear to think that as France bore the brunt of the fighting during the war, France should also bear most of the burden that follows the war. But if Germany had won; would the Kaiser have been content with a peaceable collection of the reparations agreed to? Would Germany have left France saddled with only a financial defeat? France knows Germany better even than the pacifists who spend most of their time spreading German propaganda. And France, having once been dealt with by a German conqueror, knows best how to deal with a defeated Germany.—Toronto Telegram.

DEAD TOWN IS ALWAYS SHUNNED

Community With Such a Reputation Suffers As From A Pestilence

RESTS WITH THE CITIZENS

People Can Create and Maintain Prosperity If They Will Keep Their Money At Home in Circulation

(Copyright)

"Stay away from that town. It's a dead one."

Do you want that to be said of your town? Of course you don't, for you wish, as a matter of local pride, if for no other reason, to have your town stand high in the estimation of the world. But are you sure that you are doing everything in your power to place your town in the position which you wish to occupy? That is the question that every person should ask himself or herself at frequent intervals.

When things are running smoothly, when times are good, and when it is fairly easy to make a good living for the wife and kiddies, it is so easy for a man to forget that these things do not come to a town as a matter of course, but are the result of the right kind of effort on the part of the citizens of the community. It is so easy for a man to grow careless and think that because this condition existed it will continue to exist without any effort on his part or that of the other residents of the community. That is why it is important for every one to stop and think seriously once in a while about what it would mean to him if the prosperity that makes life worth living for him should take wings and fly away.

Nobody Loves a Dead Town

Nobody likes to live in a dead town. No one even likes to visit a dead town. That is why you sometimes hear that warning "Stay away from that town. It's a dead one." The town which has the reputation of being a dead one suffers as if from a pestilence. Business men seeking new locations will have none of it. The live travelling salesman, even, will give it a wide berth. Those who live in it will get away if they can.

When a town is live and prosperous, local business is good, real estate values are high and stable, labor is in demand and wages are good, the streets are well lighted, the residents and their property are protected from robbery and fire and good schools are maintained for the education of the children. When a town is dead, there is little money in circulation, store buildings stands empty with "For Sale" sign hanging on the front door, there is little employment for the laboring man, the streets are dark, the schools are crippled.

What sort of a town do you want to live in? There is only one answer to that question. You want to live in the live town and enjoy all the good things that come to the residents of such a community.

Answer Easily Found

The only question then is as to how these prosperous conditions can be created or maintained and it is the easiest thing in the world to find the answer to that question.

If the people of a community will keep their money at home and keep it in circulation among themselves, they need have no fear of ever being compelled to live in a dead town. If the people will patronize their own business men instead of sending their dollars to the mail order houses, the prosperity of the community will take care of itself.

The local stores, to a very large extent, make every town. The taxes paid by the business men of the community are the principal support of the schools and public institutions. It is the taxes paid by the storekeepers, to a large extent, that make possible the public improvements, the fire protection, the street lighing and many other things which make a town worth living in. The mail order house does not pay any taxes in the town from which it gets its money. It does not help to support the schools or the churches. It does not help light the streets or maintain the fire department. It is the aim of the mail order houses to drive small town merchants out of business, to send to the cities for their merchandise and they are spending thousands of dollars every month to accomplish this purpose. If they should succeed, who would pay the taxes that are now paid by the local merchants? It's a certainty that the mail order house would not pay them.

Issue is Clear Cut

Every dollar spent at home helps to make the town a live one.

Every dollar spent away from home to the mail order house helps to make the town a dead one.

The issne is a clear-cut one and is squarely up to every resident of the community, whether a resident of the town itself or of the country surrounding it. The man who does not care whether he lives in a live or a dead town, if there is any such man, need waste no thought on the subject, but the man who wants to live in a live town cannot get away from it. It is up to him to make his town a live one or a dead one.

Coal Co. vs Northern

For the first time this season, the Coal Company took the lead in the City Hockey League when they secured one point in their game against the Northerns last Monday evening, the score being one goal each. The Northerns were extremely anxious to play off the tie and according to rules their plea was justified, but the Coal Co. claimed a precendent had been made when two other tie games had been allowed to stand, and refused to play overtime.

For heavy ice, the game was exceptionally fast and well worth watching. Both Dunlap and Colton were on their mettle, and the score shows the class of work they put up. The first period was continual two man end to end rushes, both teams playing three men defense, and Colton and Dunlap turned everything aside that came their way.

The second period was half way through before the Coal Co. opened the scoring when following a rush down the ice, Baker whipped the puck out from behind the Northern goal and T. Wilson fired the disc back into the net giving Colton no chance.

The Northerns evened things up in the final period when A. Thomson came through with a rush and drew off the defense then slipped the puck to C. Commons who made no mistake. The call of time found both teams exerting every ounce to get the winning goal but the heavy ice was making the going extremely hard.

The lineup—

Northerns—Goal, Colton; defense, Swedeberg and Reardon; forwards, M. Commons, A. Thomson, Ashton and C. Commons.

Referee—A. Dicken.

Bluebirds vs Ingram's 150

Wednesday evening the Bluebirds gave Ingram's 150's cup aspirations a heavy jolt when they came out of the fray with the long end of a four to two goal score, going up to a tie with the Coal Co. for the top and bumping Ingrams into another tie for the cellar with the Northerns.

Ingrams opened up the scoring early in the first period when after an attack on Coste, Dicken grabbed a rebound and scored. A few minutes later Smalek worried his way through the 150's defense and tied up the score.

The pace became fast and furious in the second session and the Bluebirds forged ahead when Perry and Tobin scored in quick succession. Ingrams worked hard to reduce this lead but Coste barred the way.

The third period was a battle royal from start to finish and some rough tactics crept into the game that were not appreciated by the fans. After five minutes play Dicken got in one of his angle shots and scored Ingrams second goal. Some fast end to end play followed. Then J. Thomson got away on his own and shot the puck high in the air but Kirkpatrick in endeavoring to bat the rubber while in the air, deflected its flight and the puck landed in the net. From then on, Hovan had nothing to do, Ingrams came all out and kept up heavy pressure on Coste. Tobin on the Bluebird defense got so excited that he forgot all hockey rules and when the game was just about over, he grabbed the puck and threw it over the fence. Ingram's suffered heavy casualties in the third session, their entire forward line, Dicken, Davidson and McLachlan are nursing a beautiful black eye each.

A. PETERS' S.C. REDS

Judge Jos. Shackleton's opinion of my Single Comb Reds:

S. C. Rhode Island Reds—This was, I considered, the best and largest exhibit in show. Starting with the cock birds and going all through the balance of the class there was uniformity in color, size and type. Practically every bird was a rich, brilliant red on surface and quite a number carried this right down to the skin with very slight contrast between the surface and undercolor. This combined with good type, neat head points and fine condition makes up what I consider a real good exhibit. The winners are to be congratulated on the quality and condition of the birds shown.

This is the only way to test your birds. Put them in the showroom. The judge will tell you which is a good one or bad one. A. Peters, Box 831, Fernie B. C.

Health turns the clock backward

HEALTH TALK No. 21-B

By G. J. PARKS Chiropractor

THE HUMAN SPINE

Uncle Bill Health says—
"Occasionally public affairs become sick. Muscle Shoals developed a bad case of red tape cramps, and the four-power peace pact no sooner reached the Senate than it came down with talking sickness."

The ancient Greek taught much in their subtle philosophy which we of modern times as yet only faintly comprehend. They understood secrets which we are just beginning to find out.

They practiced systems of self-adjustments in the form of beautiful poses and exercises as shown by the marvelous statues their sculptors have left us. In Greek art we note the poses in which the spine is flexed first this way and that as in the Discus Thrower, The Flying Mercury, etc. Their dances consisted of continual twistings and turnings of the spine, the effect produced being one of rare beauty and health-bringing measures. They never allowed their spines to get out of alignment. They were too wise. And true to the Greek nature they combined beauty with utility. They even threshed their grain by having men and maidens dance upon it until the grain had separated from the husk, thus adding wealth to the practice of health and beauty.

A SAMPLE OF WHAT IS BEING DONE FOR CHILDREN

To Whom It May Concern—

My daughter, Deloise Warner, was stricken with infantile paralysis at age three. We, of course, had the best medical skill obtainable and everything possible was done to improve her condition. She grew gradually worse. Her legs were drawn back against the thighs and she was so sensitive to pain it was necessary to move her about on a pillow.

Grasping at anything that promised results, we called in a chiropractor. He adjusted her through one whole summer. The child is now six years old, and one of the leaders in her dancing class. Enclosed is a recent photograph showing her as she appears today.

CITY COUNCIL MEETING

The City Council held their first regular session for this month in the Council Chambers, Thursday evening, Mayor Henderson occupied the chair and all Aldermen were present.

Several firms have been writing the City regarding the laying of the Annex Sewers. These were tabled.

On a motion by Ald. Douglas, seconded by Ald. Barraclough, a resolution passed by the Council of the City of Edmonton regarding a commission on taxation was endorsed by the local council.

A motion by Ald. Irvine, seconded by Ald. Robichaud, that auditor's report be accepted, was carried. City auditor Johnson submitted a price of $400.00 to make a semi-annual audit for the year 1923. This was accepted.

Medical Officer submitted his 1922 report and stated that Fernie had enjoyed an exceptionally healthy year. The only epidemic suffered was one of scarlet fever, thirty-one mild cases of this disease having been reported. He recommended that a caretaker be secured for the Isolation Hospital.

The Council accepted the report and instructed the City Clerk to take necessary steps to secure a suitable caretaker for this hospital.

The application of Mr. J. S. T. Alexander to increase the width of the lane at lots 11 and 12, Block 4, from eight to ten feet according to plan submitted was approved.

Permit was granted to Dobson & Willingham to reconstruct the roof of Victoria Hall but the council requested a complete plan of hall and partitions to be erected be submitted before the balance of the work could be approved.

The School Board submitted their estimated requirements for the ensuing year at a gross of $47,219.00 less 1922 Poll Tax receipts leaving an approximate estimate of $45,000.00.

Motion by Ald. Douglas, seconded by Ald. Barraclough, that school estimates be accepted and the council provide for $45,000.00 to cover same, was carried.

It was pointed out that the increase in 1923 school estimates over 1922 would cause an increase in school rates of 5.80 mills.

Mayor Henderson retired and Ald. Irvine took the chair. Mayor's Salary By-Law No. 252, which grants the Mayor $2,000.00 for 1923, was discussed, passed through its three readings and was finally approved.

The usual sheaf of accounts were passed for payment.

The estimated expenditure for 1923 amounted to $11,000.00. The waterworks improvements which are to be carried out this year will be taken care of by the surplus of revenue over expenditure during the past two years.

Moved by Ald. Irvine, seconded by Ald. Douglas, that finance committee prepare and bring in at next meeting their recommendations for the tax rate to be levied for 1923.

A motion was passed that dog tax for 1923 be $3.00 for dogs and $5.00 for bitches, with a rebate of 50 cents if paid before May 1st.

Poll tax exemptions for 1923 was granted to all disabled returned soldiers.

GRAYSON WINS THE DOG DERBY

THE PAS, Man., Feb. 23.—Completing the 200-mile course in 26 hours and 52 minutes, William Grayson, driving the team of seven husky dogs owned by Charles B. Morgan, of The Pas, Man., today won the world's championship for long distance mushing for the third consecutive year and permanent possession of the Burns' trophy. With the cup went $1200 prize money.

Morgan has offered to donate another cup for future races, an offer which is tonight under consideration by the dog race association.

The winning dogs were, of course, tired, but otherwise in excellent condition.

Exactly nine minutes after Grayson arrived at the finishing post, A. ("Shorty") Russick, driving seven dogs at a fast pace and all running well, ended his journey of 200 miles, and won second prize money of $700. "Billy" Winterton, who drove Morgan's team in 1921, arrived at The Pas one hour and 23 minutes behind Russick. "Billy" Winterton recieved $400, and Solomon Cook, who finished ten minutes later, won $200 by finishing fourth.

Cook beat out Sam Pranteau, the favorite, by half a second, for fourth money. Baptiste Campbell, driving the favored team owned by Tom Creighton, had not arrived early this evening. Chas. Stabback, driving the other Creighton outfit, turned back after covering 28 miles. He found the going too hard. Sjorkman also returned this morning after covering a short distance. He had trouble with his dogs, which were not in good condition. The time of the race this year is two hours and one minute slower than last year's time, which set a world's record of 24 hours, 51 minutes.

Discoveries in Egypt may furnish any number of new names for sleeping cars. The present list is practically exhausted.

ALL EXPORT HOUSES CLOSE

EDMONTON, Feb. 26.—Four export liquor houses in Calgary, three in Lethbridge, one in Medicine Hat and one in Edmonton must close their doors on Thursday of this week by reason of the order-in-council passed by the Alberta cabinet bringing into effect certain provisions of the federal temperance act.

Requests for extensions of time in order to clear up stocks are being made to Attorney-General Brownlee, who, is however inclined to let the law take its course. To date he has not given his consent to any extensions. One request for an extension came from Lethbridge this morning. The one Edmonton liquor house has all its stock ready to be shipped to some outside point where liquor may be shipped under the Temperance Act and is now virtually out of business.

Prohibition enforcement officers at the capital believe that the closing of the liquor houses is the one step needed to put the lid on the illicit sale of hard liquor in the province. All liquor now will be handled through the vendors. Some time next month it is expected drug stores in Calgary and Edmonton will be cut down to six ounce bottles, and doctors' prescriptions for larger amounts will have to be filled at the vendors' stores in each city.

Meantime the beer committee dealing with the hotelmen's petition is holding a session on Tuesday morning when a time limit will be set when all petitions, in the hands of members of the house will have to be returned with their reports as to the validity of the names thereon.

PACKERS' COMPETITION OPEN BANFF CARNIVAL

BANFF, Alta., Feb. 27.—The carnival program began with the packers' competition for the championship of western Canada and the silver cup presented by H. E. Sibbald. This event included breaking camp, packing ponies, striking camp, unpacking ponies and cooking the preverbial camp meal of bacon and beans, the teepes along the main street being used as camps. This competition was won by Scotty Wright, a game warden and Watty Potts, a guide, their time being 17 minutes 50 seconds.

Nominations for the carnival queen include Miss Lillian Rich of Hollywood, leading lady of the Trimble Murfin company; Miss Gladys McLean of the Regent hockey team of Calgary; Mrs. Frank Patrick, wife of Frank Patrick, hockey magnate of Vancouver; Miss Elaine Ross, Fernie, and Mrs. Lottie Selwyn of Banff.

The buffalo carcass for the barbecue has arrived from Wainwright, and has been transported to Lake Minnewanka, where it will be roasted on Saturday and steaks distributed to the spectators on the occasion of the grand prix dog derby. President Jim Brewster and Secretary Barney Collison announce that the head and hide which are on exhibition on Main street, will be put up as prizes in special contests arranged at the end of the week.

The American visitors are extremely enthusiastic over the marvelous beauty of Canada's natural playground. Charles Peters of Life, one of the best know artists on the continent, declares that the Canadian Rockies surpass the Alps in beauty, while E. F. Warner of Field and Stream states he has seen nothing to equal it of its kind in America.

Miss Kelley, assistant secretary of the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Co., has resigned her position in Fernie and will in future make her home in Toronto.

SWASTIKAS TRIUMPHANT

BANFF, Alta., Feb. 28.—In one of the hardest fought hockey battles ever seen in Banff, with a low hanging sun in the eastern sky and the ice soft along the edges, Fernie Swastikas wrested laurels from the 1922 World Champion Ladies' Hockey players, the Amazons of Vancouver.

The score was two to nil. In spite of the adverse conditions it was a splendid game from many points of view but it was patent from the start that the Fernie girls had been trained to a point where they outskated and outplayed the Coast aggregation from the face-off.

The Swastikas were lucky in winning the toss and played the first and last periods with their backs to the sun, while the Amazons were forced to play against the glare. The Fernie girls pressed their advantage in splendid style. From the outset they hammered the Vancouver goal ceaselessly. Shot after shot with speed and precision such as is expected only off high class men amateurs or even at times professionals, rained into the Amazon goal area. Had it not been for the superb goal tending of Miss Voikevik, the score would have been doubled or even trebled.

The first score came in six minutes, when taking the puck out of one of the infrequent melees down in the Fernie defence area, Miss Schagel came down the ice with amazing speed, her clever stick handling completely overcame the Amazon defence and right from the boards on the extreme left, she winged one into the net which no one could have stopped without a board fence across the goal. The Swastikas determined to net another before the period ended and started out with a combination play which dazed the Amazons forward line completely. Time and time again the Swastikas' forwards came down the ice like a platoon on drill and then in six minutes from the first score the clever combination would not be denied. From centre to right flew the puck, Miss Biggs sailed it a few yards, out-guessing the Vancouver defence, then a magnificent pass right into Miss Hammill's stick and in less than a second the puck was as neatly netted as could be undertaken.

The period ended without further score, but it was by no means on account of Amazon pressure, because the play throughout was in the Coast girls' territory.

In the second period the play became rougher. Girls on both sides took chances with their liberty, but Umpire Woodworth appeared to see no violation of rules other than the forward pass upon which he was very strict, although he paid no attention to roughing, in which forwards of both sides indulged freely, when utterly tired in the third period.

In the second period there was a terrific mix-up in the Vancouver goal during which Miss Voikevik together with the puck was pushed right into the net. The goal was disallowed.

Playing again with the sun advantage the Swastikas in the third period kept the puck in Vancouver territory throughout. Repeated rushes and rapid fire shots made it close business at times, but again Miss Voikevik proved herself the star of the Coast team.

The game ended without further score, leaving the Fernie Swastikas in the race for the Championship. Fernie plays the winner of the Calgary-Edmonton game on Friday and Saturday, total goals to count.

The Calgary Regents this morning defeated the Edmonton Monarchs in the semi-finals of the Ladies Hockey World Championship series for the Alpine Cup at Banff. They will now meet the Fernie Swastikas in the finals to be played tonight at 8 p.m., and again at the same time tomorrow night, the total goals scored in these two games to decide the Championship.

Leslie Smith, of Yahk, is in town today. Leslie is still packing one arm in a sling, the result of a bad fall last November. The broken bone was set in a Cranbrook hospital, but they apparently made a mess of it as Leslie had to go to Nelson for a further operation. He will be unable to work for several months.

DISTRICT EIGHTEEN MINERS WILL ASK YEAR'S RENEWAL

CALGARY, Feb. 27.—Requests for a renewal of the present wage agreement with the operators for another year commencing April 1, will be made by miners in district No. 18, United Mine Workers of America, when they meet the Western Canada Coal Operators' association here Thursday. This decision was made today when the miners met in their annual scale convention.

The miners were practically unanimous on the question, the only complaints being made that in some cases contracts between miners and mine operators regarding working conditions had not been enforced properly, resulting in many grievances.

FERNIE SCHOOL COST IS LOWEST

The annual report of the Public and High Schools of British Columbia for the year 1921-1922 has just been issued from Victoria. It should be of interest to Fernie citizens to compare their school costs with those of other British Columbia cities. The following are the average costs to each city, for educating one child for a year. These calculations include Public and High School pupils. The cost does not include cost on capital account as debenture payments for buildings, but it does include all other current expenditures. As the yearly cost for new buildings should be about the same for all cities of British Columbia, the comparative figures should not be altered on account of them. It is a great satifaction to see the very enviable place that Fernie takes in these comparative cost being the lowest of the following:

The first column is the number of school children and the last is the average cost per child.

Fernie	1016	$ 41.27
Cranbrook	639	53.87
Nelson	1140	57.06
Revelstoke	743	42.00
Kamloops	882	105.00
Penticton	891	56.86
Vernon	969	53.40
New Westminster	3164	53.53
Point Grey	2870	122.00
Prince Rupert	852	151.00
Nanaimo	1345	44.08
Kelowna	658	43.00
Chilliwack	548	45.00
Armstrong	603	102.00
Trail	657	74.00
Vancouver	20551	60.00
Victoria	6780	54.60
Average	48,284	$ 52.86

Fernie is noted for its children. We have a larger number of school children per capita of population than any other place in the province. The study of the number of children column is enlightening from this point of view. As it costs more to clothe and feed a large family than a small one, so, also does it cost more to teach a large school family than a small one, and here lies the reason for our school tax mill rate.

Afterwards the Coal Creek Ladies' Guild served refreshments to the visitors. The return train left punctually at 10.30 p.m. and everyone reached Fernie feeling fine.

Wm. Hunter, Wm. Dickenson and Richard Derbyshire have been in Calgary all week attending the annual convention of District 18 U.M.W.A.

CREATE WORK BY WORKING

(Saturday Night)

In another column will be found a communication from the Rev. Salem Bland, who is also of the opinion that we must scrap our industrial system. Unfortunately Mr. Bland does not give us in his letter much of a lead as to how this is to be accomplished, and even after a long chat with this gentleman on the subject I am still in the dark. It reminds me of Mark Twain's remark about the weather, "people complain but nobody does anything." Mr. Bland's only lead in private conversation was a suggestion for some sort of government ownership and control, with competition eliminated and dividends in the waste basket. So far as practical tests are concerned Government control has never got us very far. During the war such control cost the Government of the United States two billion dollars, wasted on its railways, while our own little experiment on Government owned lines is by no means out of the woods.

The American failure in regard to its railway operations was plainly due to William McAdoo, who was in charge under President Wilson, and who for political reasons started in to buy the favor of the railway hands. He granted all sorts of demands pertaining to wages, working conditions, etc., making such a mess of the thing that we, as well as the United States, are suffering the consequences, even to this day. And it may be added that railway transportation under the McAdoo regime was more efficient, as well as more costly than at any period in the history of that country. If this is what we are to expect from government supervision or control of our industries it is self evident that we must look elsewhere for the millennium.

It is to be feared that Mr. Bland, like many others, overlooks the human element as it pertains to industry, as did Lenine when he undertook the operation of factories on a go-as-you-please principle of Soviet committee management; and with equally disastrous results in respect to making Russian peasants grow crops for the benefit of the State without proper remuneration. The whole scheme was a flat failure, as there is much evidence to prove. Mr. Bland fails to see that capital, in other words riches, are other than a source of evil. He points to the great fortunes and shakes his head. He fails to see that we must have capital under any scheme of industry, be it syndicalism, socialism or capitalism. He sees the great enterprises that are successful, but takes not into account the failures. Unquestionably great injustices have been done to labor in this world, particularly in Europe previous to the war, when they won and held a great share of the world's markets by means of cheap goods, produced by poorly paid labor. However, matters are not nearly so bad as Mr. Bland wuold have us suppose.

Our difficulties as I see them are that productivity has fallen away. What an employer has to watch is the total cost of labor in the manufacture of an article. If the cost is too great buyers cannot be found. There are two things that can be done, in order to reduce prices, which are our present bugbear, either labor must work for less or increase its productivity. No right thinking man wants to see workmen on scant rations, so let us take up this question of production. Let us take up the building trade as an important example. This country, in fact the world, is short of houses, and the reason we are short is that they cost too much, more than people can afford to pay. The workman cannot afford to buy or build, and neither can a lot of other people presumably much better off. Costs are out of sight. Many a man employing labor in building operations is paying for what he is not getting, efficiency combined with an honest desire to give a good day's work for a good day's pay.

Suppose everybody, the men in the woods cutting down the trees, the men in the mills, in the shops, in the factories; the masons, the plumber, the steamfitter, the carpenter, the painter; everybody connected directly and indirectly with the building trades, up and down the line, office hands and all, resolved on increasing their production by twenty per cent. what would be the result? A house that now costs $4,000 could be erected for $3,200, and a $20,000 house, as at present valued, could be built for $16,000. No one on any end of this work need be paid a cent less than they are getting today, while on the other hand it would create a huge amount of work, and necessary work it is, this housing of the people, that today does not exist.

As I see it labor has these problems very largely in its own hands. It may increase the demand for labor by working harder, which in turn will reduce costs and create more work and more jobs. Any manufacturer will tell you that the only way to lower overhead expense is to work full speed. When a factory is working half time it is not only keeping people out of employment, but it is delivering goods at a cost that prevents a certain number of people from purchasing, and this applies as well to a box of candy as it does to a factory building.

INCURABLE

by Walt Mason

The Janizaries of law are after me at times, and many heavy fines I draw for speed and kindred crimes; along the dusty road I scoot, a menace dire to man and brute; the wise one, when he hears me toot, for safety wildly climbs. Sometimes the judges scold and rail, a storm of words they raise, the while they sentence me to jail, to stay there sixty days; "this term," they say, "may curb your zeal, and when again you're at the wheel you in your inmost heart may feel that safety surely pays." This speed germ swung ajar; a locoed motorist went past as goes a shooting star; again we saw the peelers hale the speed fiend to a dungeon stale; now he will get six months in jail, and lose his motor car.

is a frightful thing, when once it's in the blood; and I shall always scorch and swing through gravel, dust and mud; I am as helpless as the bloke who has to have his jolt of coke; I'll always leave a trail of smoke, and scoot and skip and scud. Thus spake the speed fiend as he left the hoosegow, cold and gray; of freedom he had been bereft for many a weary day; of high resolves his heart was full; no more wild driving would he pull, and he would dodge the cop and bull who guard the public way. Next day the village stood aghast, its face all

THAT was years ago when he packed a terrible grouch, a mighty irritable stomach and a liver that refused to do the things that all good livers should. No wonder his friends called him an "old pill" and stayed away.

But that was years ago—long before he discovered Beecham's Pills and learned that two at bedtime can bring sunshine into a man's life. Today, he's an optimist, a hero to his wife, and a staunch believer in Beecham's Pills.

The cheer that Beecham's Pills bring into a man's disposition, is the incomparable cheer of sound digestion, active liver, and the regular habits that make good health.

All he has to do is to stand in the middle of the street, roast in summer, freeze in winter, and get soaked with rain in the spring and fall.
