WIT AND HUMOR.

A Belgian scientist says that salt is conducive to longevity. This is a round about way of saying that fresh people are soon killed off.

"HACKMETACK," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 50 cents. Sold by John M. Wiley.

Laugh and the world laughs with you,
But get short and endeavor to borrow,
Then you'll see how quickly your friends turn blue,
How they "see you" with sad-eyed sorrow.

ARE YOU MADE miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. Sold by John M. Wiley.

Do not be discouraged because you discover that you are not a man of genius. An eminent scientist declares that genius is a form of epilepsy.

SHILOH'S CURE will immediately relieve Croup, Whooping Cough, and Bronchitis. sold by John M. Wiley.

"And then, gentlemen of the jury, I must appeal to your sense of justice. You must remember that you are twelve strong, well-fed men, opposed to this one miserable, puny defendant."

SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria and Canker Mouth. Sold by John M. Wiley.

Visitor (regarding the baby)—Oh, what a dear little dots of a child! He resembles you both, indeed he does. He's got his mother's handsome eyes and his father's hair. Father (who is bald-headed)—I think he must have; I haven't.

WHY WILL YOU cough when Shiloh's Cure will give immediate relief. Price 10cts., 50 cts. and $1. Sold by John M. Wiley.

"Don't you know how many times three times ten is? Now, Harry," said his teacher, "if one loaf of bread cost ten cents, wouldn't three cost thirty cents?" Maybe so at your bakery, but we deal with a baker that gives three for a quarter."

FORDYSPEPSIA and Liver Complaint, you have a united guarantee on every bottle of Shiloh's Vitalizer. It never fails to cure. Sold by John M. Wiley.

It is said that bees can predict weather. They can certainly make it hot where they are.

THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." Sold by John M. Wiley.

It is said that cork-screws have sunk more people than cork jackets ever floated.

A NASAL INJECTOR free with each bottle of Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy. Price 50 cents. Sold by John M. Wiley.

Isn't it paradoxical that 1.20 o'clock is past 1, while 1.30 o'clock is only half past?

There is no necessity of passing a sleepless night and enjoying the entire household with that cough, as West's Cough Syrup will cure you like magic. The best known remedy for coughs, colds, consumption in its early stages and all throat and lung diseases. All druggists. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle.

The new fall bonnets, they say, will be V-shaped. The bills will be X-shaped.

West World's Wonder or Family Liniment, a sure cure for rheumatism, neuralgia, cuts, burns, wounds and bruises. 25 and 50c. All druggists.

"Wayfarers in Michigan are attracted as well by the letter as by the spirit of the sign of East Jordan: "Know syder for caille."

World's best West's Liver Pills cure liver complaint, dyspepsia, sick headache and indigestion. Sugar coated. 30 pills, 25c. All druggists.

"No, sah; no, sah. I don't wuk fah no white man fah fifty cents a day—no, sah; but when dey talks about twenty-five cents and a watermillon, I'a willin' to be reasonable."

Do not neglect a cold or cough, as it frequently results in consumption. You will find a never-failing remedy in West's Cough Syrup. All druggists.

A cow entered the chapel of St. Paul's church in Kingston, Ont., attracted by a choir rehearsal, and before she went out she had ripped up several benches and torn the garments of several tenors and basses. It is simply wonderful what critical acumen even the dumb beasts sometimes display.

West's Cough Syrup, the household remedy for coughs, colds, sore throat, influenza, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and consumption. 25c., 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. All druggist.

Small Boy—"Mother, please give me another lump of sugar for my coffee. I've dropped the one you gave me." Mother—"Where have you dropped it?" Small Boy—"In the coffee."

All enterprising druggists wishing to supply their customers with the best keep West's Cough Syrup and recommend it, as it is the best made.

Fond Mother—"Are you not somewhat astonished at my girl's singing?" Professor—"I must confess I am—but at her age one is naturally venturesome."

Singers and public speakers will find perfect relief for all throat difficulties in the use of West's Cough Syrup.

The effects of the earthquake are more terrible than at first supposed. Different parties have commenced to write poetry about it.

At this season of the year it is very necessary to keep a bottle of West's Cough Syrup in the house for sudden colds. Nothing like it. Cures like magic.

A man must become wise at his own expense.

Delays are dangerous. Procure a bottle of West's Cough Syrup at once and cure that troublesome hacking cough and sore throat, relieving pain and misery. It is the household remedy for all throat and lung diseases. All druggists.

Marrying a woman for her money, says a philosopher, is very much like setting a rat-trap and baiting it with your own finger.

TRY IT.—Two of the most troublesome complaints to relieve are asthma and whooping cough, but Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam seldom fails, either in those, or other prevailing throat and lung troubles. All dealers in medicine have this remedy for sale.

Highly complimentary.—Brown—"You never found me out in lies, did ye, Smith?" Smith—"No, Brown I've invariably found you 'at home' in 'em."

THE BELFAST RIOTS.

Astonishing Testimony Not Creditable to the Rev. Dr. Hanna.

Mr. Justice Day, with his colleague in the commission of inquiry as to the four months continuous Orange rioting and bloodshed in Belfast, has been putting some very unusual, but at the same time needed questions to some of the witnesses, who up to the present, have been officials. Mr. F. N. Cullen, described as Divisional Magistrate and Assistant Inspector General, in answer to the Judge, made the following important statements absolutely bearing out our published views of the brutal rioting and its causes:—

Don't the crowd as a rule, make for the public houses? As a rule the rioting begins by wrecking public houses.

Are you a Roman Catholic? No I am a Protestant. I certainly think that the conduct of some clergymen and the statements made by them had a great deal to do with the rioting.

Who were those clergymen you referred to? I think Dr. Kane and Dr. Hanna. Although I gave Dr. Hanna credit for his action with regard to the school trip, still I think the conduct of him and Dr. Kane together with the newspaper, had a good deal to do with it. There was also a Mr. De Cobain who wrote letters which had a very bad effect on the people.

What struck you specially by these letters, reports, and speeches? As far as I remember Mr. Cobain called the constabulary invincibles or something like that.

Did you see the reports of the statements made by these clergymen as to the action of the Chief Secretary? I can give you a copy of the newspapers, but I can tell you I never read them.

Mr Adams—You mentioned some letters a while ago. Is this one of them that I have here before me from Mr. Cobain, in which the police are described as "livered assassins and as "cowardly and cruel" and as belonging to the invincibles? Yes; that is one of them.

Are you aware that the invincibles are the men who were concerned in the murder of the secretaries in the Phœnix Park? Yes.

Were any steps taken to make the writer of this letter amenable? I am not aware.

This was written in the middle of the riots? It was.

You say that rev. gentlemen made use of language calculated to excite the passions and inflame the feelings of the populace? Yes.

Who were the clergymen? Revs. Dr. Kane and Dr. Hanna.

To what denomination do they belong? Rev. Dr. Kane is a Protestant clergyman and the other is a Presbyterian clergyman.

Other evidence having been given, the court adjourned.

THE "CHESTNUT."

One of Many Explanations of the Slang Word.

The application of the word "chestnuts" to an oft told tale has become so general and is accepted so unquestioningly by a bored public that but few stop to inquire the origin of the term as used in that connection. It came about in this wise:

Two or three years ago a party of young folks of this city were enjoying themselves at a Hallowe'en party in the orthodox way, with apples, nuts, and—jokes. One young man, who had probably been reading up an almanac or a volume of Joe Miller for the occasion, fairly deluged his companions with anecdotes. Some were good, some were bad, but all were unmistakably aged. The young man worked industriously at his anecdote mill and ground out his stories at the rate of about six an hour for several hours. His listeners good-naturedly laughed at his venerable witticisms until the hour of midnight approached. Then a fun-loving young damsel devised a plan to stop his flow of talk.

"Have a chestnut Mr. Smith?" she said, when the young man commenced another story.

"Thank you," he replied. "As I was saying, when I saw the——"

"Chestnut, did you say?" put in one of his hearers.

"No, but——"

"Try a few chestnuts," said another.

"I have some," replied the unhappy young man; "but, as I was saying, when I saw the——"

"Chestnuts?" said the original conspirator.

It was no use. The young man gave up his story-telling, and the name "Chestnuts" has clung to him ever since.

The joke on the young man was retailed in every direction until an actor at the opera house heard it. He thought the word 'chestnut' very expressive, and used it in the course of conversation with his fellow-thespians in its slangy sense. It was instantly caught up by his companions, for if there is anything your thorough-going actor dearly loves it is a new slang word, and within three months the word "chestnut," to designate a stale joke, rang through the dressing-rooms of every theatre from New York to Frisco. Pittsburg is acknowledged to be a live, progressive city, with its natural gas, typhoid fever and city hall rings, but not everybody knows that it was the birthplace of one of the most successful slang words of the century. The history of its origin has never appeared in print before, and no one can therefore say that this narrative is a "chestnut."

"Work, Work, Work!"

How many women there are working today in various branches of industry—to say nothing of the thousands of patient housewives whose lives are an unceasing round of toil—who are martyrs to those complaints to which the weaker sex is liable. Their tasks are rendered doubly hard and irksome and their lives shortened, yet hard necessity compels them to keep on. To such Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" offers a sure means of relief. For all female weaknesses it is a certain cure. All druggists.

A single bottle of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will establish the merits of this medicine as a blood purifier. Many thousands of people are yearly cured of chronic diseases by the faithful use of this remedy. It is unequalled for the cure of scrofula.

A RADICAL CHANGE.—Daniel Sullivan, of Malcolm, Ont., takes pleasure in recommending Burdock Blood Bitters for dyspepsia. It cured him after years of suffering. From being a sceptic he is now a confirmed believer in that medicine.

POLITICS OF THE FUTURE.

We have frequently pointed out the reason why, in our opinion, the tariff cannot be an issue in Canadian politics at the present time, and it is unnecessary to go over the ground again. By common consent the subject has been dropped, except that it is incidentally referred to by liberal speakers who contend that there are certain inequalities in the present law which require to be remedied. No one any longer pretends that a high tariff will produce good times or that free trade is a specific against depression. The justice of Gen. Hancock's much ridiculed remark that "the tariff is always more or less of a local question," is now very generally admitted. Yet the Canadian tariff will form a subject for grave consideration in the near future, and for reasons external to Canada. The one fact deducible from the recent United States elections is that the tariff reformers are gaining ground. A great nation will not go on year after year taxing itself more than a hundred millions of dollars too much thereby to shut out competition in certain lines of goods. Extreme protectionists admit that taxation must be reduced, and they advocate the abolition of excise; but the masses of the people will not consent that intoxicants should be relieved of their burden of taxation in order that it may be kept upon articles necessary for health, comfort and social progress. Within a few years at most there will be a general reduction in the tariff of the United States, and the extinguishment of the national debt of that country will materially lighten the demands upon the treasury, and the consequence will be the abandonment of a protective tariff and the establishment of one for revenue only. This change, which is inevitable within a few years, will have great influence over Canada, for we may take it for granted that in any changes which may be made we will not get many favors without giving some return. Such of our products as they cannot very well do without our neighbors may let in either duty free or under a low tariff, but they will discriminate against us whenever they can unless we keep with them step by step in throwing down the barriers. The almost universal demand of the Canadian people for a broad plan of reciprocity, if not perfect free trade with the United States, will supplement this outside pressure, and the combined voice of the two influences will be resistless. Now what will be the result? This is the great question of the near future. It is with this subject that, if not the next, the succeeding Parliament will have to grapple. The public service will call for some $40,000,000 a year and probably more. If we throw down all trade barriers between us and the United States, nearly one half of our sources of revenue will be cut off, and the reductions in our tariff, which we would have in time to make to keep up with our neighbors will materially affect the other half. At present if we made a customs union with the United States, adopting their tariff, pooling the revenue of both countries, and dividing the revenue according to population, we would have fully as much money for the public service as we get under the present system, while we would save the large expense of maintaining revenue officers along the international boundary. But when the tariff common to both countries is reduced, and with anything approaching free trade between them. Canada and the United States must have for all practical purposes a common tariff, the amount which Canada would collect from her imports from Great Britain and elsewhere out of America would be likely to fall far short of requirements, particularly if the annual expenditure is to go on increasing as it has during the last few years. Before Mr. Blake has been in power five years he will therefore be likely to be brought face to face with the question: How shall a sufficient revenue be raised?

MR. TEMPLE'S LITTLE PROJECT.

If you talk with our bland friend Mr. Thomas Temple, M. P., he will demonstrate to you that the modest little railway he is building over in Maine with the money he got out of York County, is only a little local road, a modest little affair. If you ask him what about its connection with the Short Line, he will assure you in the words of the Hon. John Henry Pope that "there ain't nothin' to it." And to the average man, who regards geography with a holy horror and never professes to know any more about it than is necessary to get to the nearest railway station, there is no particular use in trying to show that Mr. Thomas Temple's little game is a long one, and that he is engaged in a scheme to draw the trade of Canada from New Brunswick to a port in the State of Maine. Let us therefore call up an independent observer, one who does not care whether Mr. Temple ever sees Ottawa again, and hear what he has to say about Mr. Temple's railway. We quote:—

"The Lewiston Journal reports the completion of Sebasticook & Moosehead Railroad, a line of eight miles from Pittsfield to Hartland. The first work was done ten weeks ago. It is now complete, with a fair equipment and not a dollar of debt. It will be formally opened with a celebration on the 17th. It is hoped by the projectors to push this line to a connection with the Canadian Pacific, furnishing that line a winter port at Belfast."

It is hoped by the projectors, says the Journal, and who are the projectors? Well, the principal one is Mr. Thomas Temple, M. P., who, while he is pretending to build a bridge here to carry the trade of the West through Fredericton is secretly planning to draw it elsewhere. And the worst feature of the case is that he denies that he has any such designs. It is only a little local road, so he says, and so his friends echo. Mr. Temple should muzzle his enthusiastic Maine friends until after election. Or at least he should pay up that $30,000 which he owes the County of York, and stop his deception about the bridge.

THE PORT OF ST. JOHN.

When the good people of St. John have nothing particular to do, they talk about their harbor. The board of trade gets together and passes resolutions enough to pave it, after the manner that a much dryer and warmer loyalty is alleged to be paved. The newspapers have a shot all round at the question and then it drops out of sight for a while. And so it has kept on year after year; but the desire of the hearts of the people is yet to be fulfilled. The white wings and smoking funnels of commerce do not obscure the view from Fort Howe to any great extent, and the navies of the world do not uncomfortably crowd each other in the narrow channel. The dream of 1866 is a dream still. We have had nearly twenty years of union, but if you want the Liverpool of North America you will not find it anywhere in the neighborhood of Partridge Island. As there is a cause for everything there must certainly be one for the non-fulfillment of the long cherished hopes of St. John. Perhaps the city hoped for too much, but this is no reason why it should realize nothing. The harbor, while not the largest on our coast, is extensive enough to accommodate an immense trade and can be made much more capacious. Much is said of the dangers of the Bay of Fundy, but these are not sufficient to prejudice the port. At least this is what shipowners and insurance men say. The difficulty to our way of thinking is to be found in the people themselves, who "resolve and re-resolve and die the same" or at least bid fair to do so. They talk but they do not act. They are patriotic and public spirited and far sighted and all that sort of thing until the time for action comes, and then they change into red hot partizans. If St. John had been always represented by men who would fight for the city's rights they would have been recognized long ago. Mr. Weldon makes an effort when he can in this direction, but he sits on the left of the speaker and Mr. Barker and Mr. Everett oppose him, and half the electors of St. John appear willing to approve of their doing so. Somebody gets up and says "Harbor Commission," and then goes up a chorus of "Yes, harbor commission." This takes because nobody knows what it means, and the plain intelligible task of electing men who will not be kept from their duty by a wire fence, is shirked.

Avoid the harsh, irritating, griping compounds so often sold as purgative medicine, and correct the irregularities of the bowels by the use of Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They are invaluable as a family medicine.

Unpublished Letter by Carlyle.

Moatrose Standard.

The character of Thomas Carlyle (says Dr. James Hutchison Stirling) seems one of still great and unsatisfied interest; and the following letter of his, which has hardly been seen by anybody but himself (it will surprise my own family), may tend to draw some of us perhaps to think more piously in his regard than has been common of late:—

CHELSEA, 18th Jan, 1842.

My Dear Sir,—The decision you so earnestly expect ought at least to be sent you soon: unfortunately, it is all the kindness I can show you at present.

I have read the whole of your prose manuscript. If you knew what an element one lives in here, this of itself might be proof that you are worth something to me. The poetic manuscript I have not read in whole, but only in parts—such parts as seemed sufficient for grounding a practical conclusion on; and this I now in great haste proceed to transmit to you.

It appears to me clearly altogether improbable that any bookseller, in these times of the book trade, would so much as consent to publish your MS at his own cost, far less pay down any sum of money for it. Nay, I am not at all sure, harsh as this may seem, that it were for your own real good to have it published, to have it even what is called "succeed." There is undoubtedly sign of talent in it; but talent is far too loose; crude, and unformed a condition. To have such accounted real finished talent, and praised and preached abroad, is precisely the fatallest future for a youth of any merit—the sweetness in the mouth which in the belly becomes bitter as gall. You will understand all that better, I hope, some ten years hence, and twenty years hence better still. But, on the whole, however that may be, I hesitate not to pronounce your poem entirely unworkable as a financial element, in this place, at this time; and advise you not to spend more effort in that direction, but to quit it altogether for some more promising one. I, at least, who know hardly any bookseller, and have indeed small sympathy with their trade and aims at present, must profess my inability to make any helpful use of the MS. I will, if you still request it, submit the paper to the publisher of Fraser's Magazine, the only bookseller that I speak to once in six months; but I say beforehand that he has no chance to accept it. This is my sincere verdict. A much politer and softer to the ear might easily have been written; but my words are to do you good if they can, and a deeper feeling of regard orders me to avoid all flattering unctions in your ease.

You seem to me a young man to whom Nature has given a superior endowment, which you run a considerable risk of failing to unfold. Alas, it is so easy to fail. You have in you that generous warmth of heart which is usually, if it be well guided, the mother-soil of all sorts of talent; but which also, if ill-guided, can run up into miserablest waste and weeds. Your mind is open in many directions, great ideas or prophecies of ideas announcing themselves to you; all this is well and best. But, as I can discern withal, all this must as yet be kept in, held down with iron rigor, till it fashion and articulate itself; the cruellest waste for it were to dig it all out at present as germinating seed, to let it all rush up as worthless spurry and chickweed. My dear young friend, you must learn the indispensable significance of hard, stern, long-continued labor. Grudge not labor, grudge not pain, disappointment, sorrow, or distress of any kind—all is for your good, if you can endeavor and endure. If you cannot, why, then, it is all hopeless. No man ever grew to anything who durst not look death itself in the face, and say to all kinds of martyrdom, "Ye shall not subdue me!" Be of courage; a man lies in you—but a man is not born the second time, any more than the first, without travail. Your desultory mode of study, hitherto has probably been a great misfortune—a thing to be pitied, as I well know, and not to be blamed as times now go; but it is a thing you must correct and get the better of. I fancy I discern in you, indeed, a certain natural tendency to haste, crudity, and semi articulate diffusion. I earnestly entreat you, stand up against the unmercifully as against your worst foe! It will never do. The world wants alcohol, not beer wort. It is a crime to produce the latter if the former be in you. You must learn the meaning of silence—that forgotten knowledge of silence I am always speaking of. Be in no haste to speak yourself. Why be porous incontinent? Nothing can ferment itself to clearness in a colander. Pray that you may be forced to hold your tongue. The longer you keep silence, the richer will your speech be when it does come.

Practically, my advice were very decidedly that you kept by medicine; that you resolved faithfully to learn all sides of it, and make yourself in actual fact an Iarpos, a man that could heal disease. I am very serious in this. Pecuniary means will occasion difficulty (there was no such difficulty in reality); but they need not prove insuperable if you bestir yourself. If a man bestir himself, what thing is unsuperable? Your present wishes, tastes, &c, ought to go for little with you. A man who cannot gird himself into harness will take no weight along these highways! I would even advise that you resolutely postponed, into the unexplored uncertainty of the future; all concern with literature; determined to set no store by that, to let it come or stay away as it might chance to like. As a trade, I will protest against your meddling with it; describe it as the frightfullest, fatallest, and too generally despicablest of all trades now followed under the sun. He that can, Mithridates-like, make poison his aliment, let him live in it, and conquer (by suffering) first of all; let no other try it. A steady course of professional industry has ever been held the usefullest support for mind as well as body—I heartily agree with that. And often I have said—What profession is there equal in true nobleness to medicine? He that can abolish pain, relieve his fellow-mortal from sickness, he is the indisputably usefullest of all men. Him savage and civilized will honor. He is in the right, be in the wrong who may. As a Lord Councillor, under one's horse-hair wig, there might be misgivings; still more as a Lord Primate under one's cauliflower, but if I could heal disease, I should say to all men and angels without fear, Eneece!

If literature do unfold itself at length under shelter of such a profession, then let literature be welcome; it will be safe, beneficial, and have a chance to be true and wise, in such circumstances. How many true physicians have turned out to be true speakers, or even singers? A man can first speak when he has got to know something; and knowledge comes from experience alone. My decided advice is, that you stand resolutely by medicine, determined to find an honest livelihood by medicine, and do a man's task in that way. Then is there a soil that clothes one's existence, round which all manner of beautiful and wholesome things will grow.

And so farewell for the present; and a good genius guide you—a good, patient, valiant heart, which is the best of all geniuses! I have not time to write another word.—Yours, with many good wishes,

T. CARLYLE."

The above is extracted from a book now published by Mr James Thin, Edinburgh, in which Dr James Hutchinson Stirling discusses the character of Carlyle in relation to this letter.

Salvation Army in Quebec.

The salvation army opened fire on the city of Quebec last week. A Quebec despatch of Nov 2nd says:—"Rowdies have gathered around the salvation army barracks at all their recent meetings, hooting, yelling and throwing stones. This afternoon the mob was large and riotous, and the mayor addressed them, advising them to be orderly, but the police had to disperse them later on. This was done without difficulty. To-night the crowd was large and more riotous than ever and resisted the efforts of the police to disperse them. The police became somewhat excited and one of them, mistaking ex-Councillor Maloney wending his way homeward for one of the mob, inflicted severe injuries to that gentleman's head. The police are to be reinforced to suppress this rowdyism."

Capital Punishment.

There assembled, a week or two ago says an English exchange, in a certain public house in the vicinity of Morpeth market-place, a few town councillors, tradesmen and others. They were conversing on the attempted execution of John Lee. One of the party, addressing a worthy town councillor, said he thought that the accident on the scaffold at the attempted execution of Lee would be a great argument for the abolition of capital punishment. At this the councillor exclaimed: "Wey, if thoo abolishes capital punishment, what wad thoo do wi the morderers? Wad thoo chop their heeds off!"

A man was passing along the street, when he drew near to some laborers who were engaged in building the wall of a house. As he passed by a brick accidently fell, striking him on the shoulder. Looking up to the men, who were about four stories high, he shouted indignantly—"Hi, up there, you just dropped a brick." "All right," responded a bricklayer, "you needn't take the trouble to bring it up."

The First Sign
Of failing health, whether in the form of Night Sweats and Nervousness, or in a sense of General Weariness and Loss of Appetite, should suggest the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. This preparation is most effective for giving tone and strength to the enfeebled system, promoting the digestion and assimilation of food, restoring the nervous forces to their normal condition, and for purifying, enriching, and vitalizing the blood.

Failing Health.
Ten years ago my health began to fail. I was troubled with a distressing Cough, Night Sweats, Weakness, and Nervousness. I tried various remedies prescribed by different physicians, but became so weak that I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest. My friends recommended me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which I did, and I am now as healthy and strong as ever.—Mrs. E. L. Williams, Alexandria, Minn.
I have used Ayer's Sarsaparilla, in my family, for Scrofula, and know, if it is taken faithfully, that it will thoroughly eradicate this terrible disease. I have also prescribed it as a tonic, as well as an alterative, and must say that I honestly believe it to be the best blood medicine ever compounded.—W. F. Fowler, D. D. S., M. D., Greenville, Tenn.

Dyspepsia Cured.
It would be impossible for me to describe what I suffered from Indigestion and Headache up to the time I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I was under the care of various physicians and tried a great many kinds of medicines, but never obtained more than temporary relief. After taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for a short time, my headache disappeared, and my stomach performed its duties more perfectly. To-day my health is completely restored.—Mary Harley, Springfield, Mass.
I have been greatly benefited by the prompt use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It tones and invigorates the system, regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, and vitalizes the blood. It is, without doubt, the most reliable blood purifier yet discovered.—H. D. Johnson, 383 Atlantic ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

REV. DR. STEPHENSON.

Sorrows of the Little Ones of London—How Some of Them are Being Cared for and Provided with Homes in Canada.

There was a good sized audience present in the Methodist church on Thursday evening to hear Rev. F. B. Stephenson, LL. D., of London, lecture on the "Sorrows of Child Life in the English Cities." Hon. A. G. Blair presided, and His Honor Sir Leonard Tilley also occupied a seat upon the platform. The church choir furnished music before and after the lecture, Miss Hogg presiding at the organ. After a short prayer by Rev. Mr. Taylor, the attorney general made a few introductory remarks concerning the work in which Dr. Stephenson was engaged and the object of his visit to the provinces. The doctor, he said, was well known in Canada, through his many years of active labor on behalf of the outcast poor of the great city in which he resided. A very large number of the homeless and friendless children of London had been cared for through his instrumentality, and as a result of his efforts several hundred of them were living in good homes in Canada with very satisfactory results. Dr. Stephenson had during the past summer been travelling over the greater part of Canada in the interests of his philanthropic work and he hoped that his visit to New Brunswick in connection with this work would be a successful one, and that his efforts in future would be directed towards making this province known as a field for emigrants. He had much pleasure in introducing Dr. Stephenson.

Dr. Stephenson's lecture was a most interesting one and during the hour and a half occupied in its delivery was followed with the closest attention by all. He is a very pleasing speaker and knows well how to entertain an audience even when depicting the miseries of the slums of the great cities. In his opening remarks he pictured the bright side of the great metropolis where wealth and happiness reigned, and then took his hearers down into the slums and dens where hundreds and thousands of children of the outcast poor were growing up in savage ignorance and filthiness, knowing nothing of the decencies of life and hastening on to degradation and vice. He related numerous instances of the pitiable condition of these paupers which had come under his own personal observations during his twenty years of mission work among them. After dwelling for some length upon the miseries and sorrows of these little outcasts, he entered into a description of some of the means that were being employed by different philanthropic societies and individuals, and particularly of the mission with which he was connected whereby some of them are being provided for. Their aim was to rescue these children from degradation and vice before they arrived at an age to absorb a life-long moral taint. It was much an easier thing to prevent crime than to reform it.

HOMES HAD BEEN PROVIDED

where the children are being trained and educated. The mission work in which he was engaged had eleven branches, seven of which are in London, and four in other parts of England, having 700 children in keeping. They had also 260 children at Victoria Park, and a Lancashire farm where are about 170 more, making in all some 1,100 children in training. They took them in at all ages from a few weeks old up to fourteen years, preferring the younger children. They endeavored to rescue all that were most exposed to evil, but no criminal classes, such as had already been imprisoned, or subjected to punishment for wrong doing were taken. Their institutions were unlike most of the others conducted on the family principle—a system borrowed from the Germans. The children are divided into groups of from twenty to thirty, each group into a separate house and placed under the care of one who has a motherly care over them, the result being that the little ones are trained in the same way as if they were in private christian families. This system of theirs has found to be much better than crowding the children into large buildings, and is now being quite generally adopted. While here they are placed under a course of instruction, and are also taught trades of various kinds.

After being trained in these homes for several years they send them out to different parts of the world, the most of them being sent to Canada. During the last twelve years they had sent and all of them had been provided with good homes on their arrival here, the larger portion of them being in Ontario. They keep the track of every child they send to Canada, having a system of visitation which costs them between $3,000 and $4,000 every year, besides keeping up constant correspondence. He had the names of all the children that had been sent to Canada, and knew where nearly every one of them were now. They considered their responsibility extended until the boys and girls reached the age of 18. The children sent here are faring very satisfactorily, and he was happy to say they were growing up good citizens of Canada, and some of the earlier ones that were sent out are now holding some responsible positions. He had kept a careful record of all the boys and girls that had left their mission homes in England, and of the 718 that had been sent to Canada, 606 of them were reported satisfactory and only 28 of them had turned out badly. Or, in other words of the emigrant children had proved satisfactory and only four per cent of them unsatisfactory. He thought that if ninety-six out of every hundred children of some of our most respectable families would turn out good citizens it would make a moderately fair showing. The proportion of success was very gratifying to him and to all the others who were identifying themselves with this work. During his recent visit to Ontario he had visited a large number of the children and he was very much satisfied with their condition and prospects in life. They sent no emigrant children out here unless they had first received some three or more years, not less than 3 years, training in the mission homes. To maintain these institutions, their annual expenses amounted to about 12,000 pounds sterling, or about 18 pounds sterling annually for every child that was being cared for and fitted to send away among the emigrants. So you see they are not sent direct to you from the slums, as some imagine, but first receive a careful christian training at a heavy expense.

NINETY SIX PER CENT

At the close of the lecture Sir Leonard Tilley made some remarks bestowing words of praise on all the mission workers that were engaged in this work of saving the children. If only four out of a hundred of the youthful emigrants that they are sending out here turned out to be black sheep, they would receive them here in New Brunswick with open arms.

Dr. Stephenson, at the close of the meeting expressed his deep sense of gratitude to the two prominent gentlemen who had occupied seats with him on the platform for their recognition of him and his work, and for the kind words they had spoken. A collection was taken during the evening in aid of the mission work.

Dr. Stephenson also lectured on the same subject in Marysville last evening. The lecture was well attended. He speaks in St. John on Monday evening next.

VICTORIA COUNTY TO THE FRONT.

Grand Liberal Rally at Grand Falls—Victoria and Madawaska Organized.

Correspondence of THE GLEANER.

GRAND FALLS, Nov. 3.—A very large and representative meeting of the liberal party of Victoria and Madawaska counties was held in Sirois' hall here last evening for the purpose of organizing and getting ready for the coming contest. There was a large number present from Madawaska, among whom were Dr. Bernier, Mr. Theriault, Sheriff Rice, A. R. Balloch, Maxime Martin, H. Pelletier, Dennis Cyr, Christopher Parent, Jos. Martin, Basil Beaulifari, Isaac Albert, and B. R. Violette. Every parish in Victoria was well represented. A. J. Beveridge, of Andover, was called to the chair and made some appropriate remarks stating the object of the meeting. On motion of Coun. J. E. Porter, it was resolved to organize a liberal association for the counties of Victoria and Madawaska. The office bearers of the association were chosen as follows:—

Dr. Bernier, Edmundston, president;
A. J Beveridge, Andover, vice-president;
F. W. Kerston, Grand Falls, secretary;
Thomas R. Cameron, Andover, treasurer.

The following were chosen the vice-presidents for the different parishes:—

C. E. Baxter, Perth;
J. E. Porter, Andover;
James Watson, Grand Falls;
B. R. Violette, St. Leonards;
Abraham Perron, St. Ann;
Henry Gagnon, St. Basil;
A. R. Balloch, Madawaska;
Peter Michaud, St. Hilaire;
Edward Vasseur, St. Francis;
Docite Bosse, St. Jacques;
G. W. Day, Drummond;
Fletcher Tweedale, Gordon;
G. L. Everitt, Lorne.

On motion it was resolved that the association be composed of the officers elect, the vice-presidents and eighteen delegates from each county. The vice-presidents were requested to call meetings and organize their several parishes at an early day.

On motion of Dr. Bernier seconded by Coun. Porter, the association heartily endorsed the platform of the Liberal party of the Dominion, and Hon. Edward Blake as their leader. Stirring addresses were then made by Coun. Rice, Coun. Porter, Coun. Lovely, Dr. Bernier (in French and English) F. W. Brown, Geo. E. Baxter, Jos. Hennes and Mr. Theriault in French. The meeting then adjourned. A caucus was afterwards held at the Grand Falls hotel. A candidate will be brought out in a few days to oppose Mr. Costigan. The Liberals of Victoria can report large gains all over the two counties since the last election and they are confident of success.

General Notes.

GRAND FALLS, Nov. 4th.—The annual meeting of the Grand Falls Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday evening when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—

F. W. Brown, President;
E. Rollins, } Vice Presidents;
W. Warnoell, }
P. G. Fraser, }
Chas. McCluskey, Secretary;
A. R. Hallett, Treasurer.

A large managing committee was also elected. The Society decided to purchase one of the government stock horses.

Mr. Thomas Lawlor, attorney-at-law, of this city, has opened an office for the practice of his profession at Andover. Mr. Fred LaForest, also of this city, has opened a law office at Edmundston. Both young men have good prospects of success.

Sale of Timber Lands.

Applications for licenses for timber berths at the crown land office continue to come in rapidly and the number of licenses issued up to date is far in excess of last year and for several years previous. There were 23 square miles of land sold this week, and fifteen more applications, representing about 30 miles of territories, are now advertised for sale. The licenses sold this week were: Lot No. 52, Bass river, Gloucester, 5 square miles, John F. Carter; No. 23, Little Salmon river, 2 miles, Geo. J. Vaughan; No. 54, south of Coal Creek, 2 miles, Hugh McLean; No. 55, Miramichi Portage road, 2½ miles, Alex. Gibson; No. 56, Sisson Ridge, Victoria Co., 2 miles, Geo. T. Baird; No. 57, Maliageek brook, 2½ miles, J. B. Snowball; No. 58, Cains river, 3 miles, John Sadler; No. 59, Barnaby river, 2 miles, Allan Ritchie; No. 60, parish of St. James, Charlotte, 2 miles, Hugh Thompson. All were sold without competition except the last, which went a few dollars in advance of the upset price.

Confederation Life.

The many patrons of the Confederation Life Association in this city and province will be pleased to observe the punctuality of that company in the settlement of its claims, as evidenced by the following card of thanks:

Fredericton, Nov. 4th, 1886.

W. G. Gaunce, General Agent Confederation Life.

Dear Sir,—I desire to thank you for the very prompt and satisfactory settlement of the claim against your company, arising out of the death of Charles S. Fleming, one of your most recent policy holders. Familiar in the past with the excellent security your company affords, I am now acquainted with its despatch in the settlement of losses.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN H. FLEMING,
Administrator Estate late C. S. F.

Quadrille Assembly.

The quadrille assembly has been reorganized for the winter and have made arrangements for a series of dances to be held in the Masonic hall during the coming winter. The first of these series of dances will be held on Monday evening next. The managing committee consists of Messrs. R. Thorburn, L. LeForest, W. Listen and A. Bailey, with Mr. P. Owens, secretary, and Mr. D. J. Stockford, floor manager.

St. Andrew's Society.

The annual meeting of the Fredericton Society of St. Andrew will be held in the Barker House on Monday evening next at 8 o'clock. Among the business to be transacted at the meeting is the election of officers and the final settlement of the bursary question.

A CURE FOR CROUP.—It is a valuable fact for mothers to know that there is no better or more certain remedy for croup than Hagyard's Yellow Oil used internally and externally. This handy household remedy may be had of any druggist.

OVER THE RIVER.

What is Going on in the Villages of St. Mary's and Gibson.

ST. MARY'S, Nov. 6.—Sergt. Vandine and detective Roberts visited the village Thursday and served a Scott act paper on several illegal dispensers of the ardent.

Mr. Chas. Friel recently returned from a hunting trip in the wilds of York. He was gone some five or six days. He reports partridge nests and caribou tracks very plenty.

Mr. Samuel Dayton has been finishing the work of the road commissioner. He is doing good work and the roads are greatly improved thereby.

Mr. Belyea has opened a restaurant and eating saloon in the Haines building. He is doing a good business.

Court St. Mary's, No. 145, I. O. F., meets on the 16th inst. It is doing good work and will initiate a large number at the next meeting.

Mr. Robbins, agent of the Mutual Relief Association of Nova Scotia, is actively canvassing the villagers in the interest of the company.

St. Mary's presents quite a lively appearance now on the arrival and departure of trains. The location of the bridge necessitated the erection of a station house at the village. It presents a very imposing appearance, and is one of the prettiest stations on the road. Mr. Alex. Sinclair is in charge. A new siding has been constructed and for the first time in many years two trains stood side by side at the St. Mary's crossing. The removal of the western terminus of the Northern & Western to St. Mary's, which, by the way, seems a public necessity, would be the means of making quite a town at the end of the bridge.

A number of the excursionists from St. John, after viewing the government horses, came across the bridge to look at some of the noted horse flesh in St. Mary's. Mr. John McCoy's stables were the centre of attraction. Sir. Charles was in the best of condition to meet his old friends from St. John, and Charlie Morris seemed quite at home in his new quarters. Mr. McCoy also led out a fine two-year-old colt from Sir Charles. Its fine action and striking likeness to the sire were favorably commented upon. Mr. Kelstead's beautiful two year gelding, also sired by Sir Charles, elicited much admiration.

What might have been a serious accident happened at St. Mary's Wednesday evening. A young child of Mr. Gibbs was playing on the street, when a loven waggon accidently passed over it. Although it seemed badly hurt at first, Towar playing around the streets as usual next morning.

At a regular meeting of Lorne Council No. 486 Royal Arcanum, held at Gibson on the 27th October, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted and placed in the minutes of the council:—

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from amongst us our beloved brother Daniel Dougherty;

Therefore Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved widow and children in their great affliction the deep sympathy we feel for them in their irreparable loss; and at the same time express the regret and sorrow with which we, as a fraternity, sever all earthly connections with a courteous and obliging brother.

And further Resolved, That we send a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Dougherty and to the press on behalf of the council.

B. N. HUGHES, Chaplain.

There was a good audience present at the Sabbath school concert in the Gibson Methodist church on Wednesday evening last. The children acquitted themselves admirably both in the music and the recitations. The proceeds of the concert, $1200, is in aid of the library fund.

The St. Mary's fire brigade held a social dance in the engine house last evening which was well attended.

Balabrega, the Swedish Wonder.

Balabrega's modern miracle company, which is to open a season of four nights here on Wednesday evening next, is at present playing to large houses in Halifax. Of the company the Herald says:—

The entertainmet is a very enjoyable as well as instructive one. To give an account of the different acrobatic feats and slight of hand tricks of magic performed, would take too much space, but some were of such a startling nature as to deserve mention. Part fifth, Balabrega's cabinet seance, entitled "fooling the spirits" was very amusing and created roars of laughter. Tied hand and foot in a cabinet, he removed his coat at will, caused materialized hands to appear, beat a tambourine, blew horns and wound up by causing a military officer who went in the cabinet for the purpose of detecting the secret, to appear before the audience with his coat tied up in a knot around him, his vest open and braces hanging down in front. The feats of second sight or supernatural vision, by Miss Linden, were something astonishing. Blindfolded on the stage, she readily told the name of any article submitted to Balabrega by different persons among the audience. The same lady has a cage of performing canaries, who do anything at her bidding. They climb ladders, run races, play see saw, and one of them sits on a cannon while another discharges it. C. W. Littlefield gives whistling imitations of different birds, and his vocal imitations of barking dogs, crowing cocks, lady singers, etc., affords great amusement. The acrobatic part of the bill is done by Fritz Young and Miss Emellie Sells, and is well up to the standard of such exhibitions. The performance concludes by Balabrega mesmerising several young men, who take off their coats and go through a regular circus ring act.

Sporting Notes.

An interesting game of football was played on Thursday afternoon last between the University football team and a picked team from the city. The match took place on the University cricket grounds. The play lasted for about an hour when the game was abruptly closed by a fall of rain, neither side having won a goal. Had points been reckoned the University boys would undoubtedly have come out ahead. There was some good playing on both sides.

The Telegraph says:—"There is much speculation in sporting circles concerning the result of the trotting race to take place at Moosepath next Tuesday between McCoy's Charlie Morris, of Fredericton, and King Bros.' General, of this city. The race is for a purse of $225. The match was made yesterday and a deposit placed with Mr. D. C. Clinch, who will be final stakeholder. There will also be a pacing race between Ryan's Maud and Kelly's Colonel.

Supreme Court.

The supreme court met again this morning to deliver judgments, but owing to the absence of Justice Fraser, who is attending the Sunbury circuit court, the court was adjourned over again until Wednesday next. The judgment in the Currie case will then be delivered.

Organ Recital.

An organ recital is to be held in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening next.

GUY FAWKES DAY.

Celebration of its Anniversary by the Fredericton Orangemen.

Yesterday was the 282nd anniversary of Guy Fawkes day. The orange lodges of Fredericton celebrated its anniversary in a quiet but pleasant manner in the orange hall last evening. The entertainment given by them was attended by a large number of the members of the institution as well as many others who were present by invitation. Alderman Parker presided at the meeting and made a few opening remarks which were well received. A band orchestra consisting of seven pieces, and a large choir of young ladies and gentlemen, furnished an abundance of excellent music during the evening. After the opening remarks by the chairman, the band rendered the Quickstep "Kittie Wells" after which followed a chorus by the choir and then another selection by the band. After this musical treat, the chairman called upon Mr. Wilson, who entertained the audience for about twenty minutes with a pleasing address which was frequently interrupted with applause. The tenor of Mr. Wilson's remarks about the institution was to show that it was the duty of its members, and in fact everyone who enjoyed the privileges of civil and religious liberty, to use their influence for the purpose of imparting to the institutions of our country a greater degree of adaptability to the wants of the common people and to see to it that the people of all portions of the empire should enjoy the blessings of self-government. When Mr. Wilson's address was concluded a chorus, "The Star of Bethlehem" was rendered very beautifully by the choir, after which followed in order, a reading by Mr. A. L. Haines; a waltz "Song of Songs," by the band; chorus, "We're Coming to the Battle" by the choir; a reading by Mr. W. M. Clark and a solo "I Will be True," and another in response to an encore by Mr. Wm. Wilson, and then came a half hour's intermission, when the committee passed round candy, nuts and apples in abundance, which were disposed of by the gathering, particularly by the young people, in a social manner. After intermission the band played another polka selection, when Rev. W. P. Anderson, of Queens Co., the deputy grand chaplain of the order, delivered an address on "The aims and objects of the association." Next on the programme was a chorus "The Orange and the Blue" by the choir, after which followed a song in character by S. J. Brown, which provoked a good deal of laughter. After another piece of music by the band and another by the choir, the very successful entertainment was brought to a close by the national anthem.

FIRE AT DALHOUSIE.

The Business Part of the Town in Ashes.

On Wednesday evening last, the business part of Dalhousie was laid in ashes. A despatch to the Globe says that the fire broke out in the post office at half-past ten o'clock. Twenty-two stores and houses on the north side of Main street were consumed. The loss amounts to $80,000. The post office is in the centre of a block of wooden houses on William street, the principal street in Dalhousie. Mr. H. A. Johnston is postmaster. The building is owned by the estate of John Maher.

The sufferers by the fire were: H. A. Johnson, J. C. Barbarie, E. Morodon, G. Gordon, Mrs. A. McKay, W. Smith, G. H. Labillois, John Duncan, Archibald Chisholm, John Miller, John McAskill, N. M. Bateman, A. Savoy. None of these were insured.

G. Haddow was insured for $4,000 in the City of London and British American; Alex. Chisholm was insured for $1,800 in the Royal Canadian and Citizens; Mrs. Cullen was insured for $700.

The town having no engine, gunpowder was resorted to, which had no other effect than to feed the flames and prevent the more timid from saving goods.

The fire's progress east was checked at Blaney's hall, which had a narrow escape; its progress west at Chisholm's large corner store, its last victim.

The high insurance rates and the fact that no fire has occurred for twelve years accounts for the small insurance. Considerable provisions were saved, a large quantity of the fall's supplies being in. No immediate assistance is required.

A Subject for a Specialist.

A GLEANER reporter went to Chatham and "scooped" some news items which the local papers failed to get, and friend Smith of the Advance thinks that he ought not to be allowed at large. He made some observations which our contemporary did not like, and it at once insinuated that he must have been tight. Whether the Advance man is so much in the company of drunkards and lunatics that he fancies that everybody else must be one or the other, or whether he judges others entirely by his own conduct, is not quite apparent, but one or the other of these explanations appears to be the only solution of the paragraph in the last Advance referring to THE GLEANER's account of the Oddfellows's excursion. There is a third explanation which has just suggested itself. Perhaps our contemporary meant to be funny. There may be something in that. Will it not kindly explain? If its remarks were a joke the whole GLEANER staff pledges itself to laugh most consumedly. If they were intended to be serious then it will be necessary for our contemporary's friends to have an eye to him. A mental state which could seriously evolve the paragraph referred to is a sure precursor of disaster.

Police Court.

At the police court yesterday Hugh Eggar, of Eggar and Hayes, hotel keepers of St. Mary's, and Robt. Rosborough, clerk, were tried for violation of the Scott Act. Eggar acknowledged the offense and paid his fine. Rosborough did not appear and it is said that he has cleared out. The case was proved however and the fine recorded against him.

After some nineteen witnesses in all had been examined in the Linforth case, the police magistrate dismissed the case yesterday.

Two Scott Act cases are to be brought on this afternoon if the informant puts in an appearance.

In Short Metre.

The asylum commission met in St. John yesterday.

Hi Henry's celebrated minstrel company will visit this city shortly.

Another game of foot ball is being played this afternoon between the University and city teams.

Political Notes.

The Liberals of Northumberland have called a convention for Friday next for the purpose of nominating a candidate.

SUNBURY TORIES.

They Meet Again this Time in the Jail.

The Sunbury tories met on Tuesday last in the county jail. Notwithstanding that they called the convention on the day which the court opened in the hopes of getting a crowd together in this way, they were unable to muster more than eighteen electors after all their scheming. Prominent among these hopeless few were four of Sunbury's rejected candidates and two ex-sheriffs, solid tories all of them. This convention nominated Mr. R. D. Wilmot. It is said that they were unanimous.

A Reply.

To the Editor of THE GLEANER:—

SIR,—In your issue of Thursday the following appears under the heading of "Political Jottings":—

"The occasional ranting stenographic correspondent of the Sun and Farmer is also the Halifax Herald's authority for the statement that a 'Rielite' convention was held in Fredericton on Friday last and attended by 'forty' delegates."

If by the "occasional ranting stenographic correspondent" is meant myself, of which there seems to be no doubt, I beg to state that I was not the "authority" in any way for the above statement.

Yours very respectfully
FRANK H. RISTEEN.

Fredericton, Nov. 5th 1886.

Personal.

Rev. John Read, of Marysville, left for Moncton this afternoon having received a telegram of the death of his sister, Mrs. Colpitts, at that place, this morning.

Mr. John. V. Ellis, of the St. John Globe, was in town this morning.

Hons. A. G. Blair, P. G. Ryan, and Jas. Mitchell returned from St. John last evening where they had been attending the meeting of the asylum commission.

Mr. Geo. Haggerty, mechanical superintendent of the railway works at McAdam is in town to-day.

Mr. Geo. E Lavers, general agent of the North American Assurance Company, is in town.

Demise of Lucy Jones.

Mrs. Lucy H. Jones died on Thursday afternoon of congestion of the lungs, the same disease that carried off her husband, the late Thomas Jones, just the week before. She contracted a cold during her husband's illness and was taken to her bed the day that his death occurred. Thus within a week, both husband and wife have departed, and there being no other members of the family, the home is made vacant. They were the owners of considerable property which will come into the possession of the wife's relatives. Mrs. Jones is said to have conveyed the greater part of her property by will to her half brother, Mr. Odbur Hartt, who resides at present in New York.

A Handsome Offer.

The gentlemen who visited us on Thursday to see the government horses, also visited St. Mary's and looked over Sir Charles and a number of his colts. They were so highly pleased with their appearance that one of them offered three thousand dollars for Sir Charles, but Mr. McCoy refused to part with him at that figure.

THE SCOURGE OF AMERICA.—The one terrible blight of our country is scrofula—from impure blood—it causes consumption and many wasting, lingering and fatal diseases. Burdock Blood Bitters cures scrofula if taken in time.

Died.

In this city, on Thursday, 4th inst., Lucy H. Jones, widow of the late Thomas Jones, aged 64 years.

Funeral to take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from her late residence on Carleton street, opposite Masonic Hall.

Stock Horses
VERSUS Stock Oysters.

A number of gentlemen from St. John and Kings County arrived here on Thursday last to view the Stock Horses that we e imported by the Government, and good judgment was shown by the purchaser in selecting such fine stock, but they are not to be compared with the fine STOCK OYSTERS from a selected bed in Prince Edward Island of which my agent has at considerable expense and trouble, succeeded in getting me TEN BARRELS, the rest having been forwarded to the United States for Thanksgiving Dinners. Tickets 25 cents, with railroad excursion coupons included, to witness this grand stock. Don't forget the date, SATURDAY, Nov. 6th, place York Street Restaurant. Hours 6 p. m. to 12 midnight.

"Cheap Drugs are the dearest things on Earth."

The Advantages of Morse's Carbolated Cod Liver Oil.

It is believed that the not infrequent and discouraging failures of plain Cod Liver Oil and other tonic and alterative treatment to cure consumption, grow out of the fact that they have no positive power to arrest the decay of the lungs; that while Cod Liver Oil supplies the waste of adipose tissue and vitality that the disease has made, as no other substance can, it does not exercise any controlling power over the disease itself; it only gives Nature a fair chance to work her own cure. Something more is wanted—SOMETHING TO ARREST THE DECAY THAT DESTROYS LIFE—some prompt remedial agent that shall act directly upon the disease to check it while the Cod Liver Oil is building up the system. This important addition we have in Morse's Carbolated Cod Liver Oil. The power of Carbolic Acid—to arrest decay—is something marvelous. The destruction of matter cannot proceed where it is administered. Its disinfectant, purifying and cleansing properties are truly remarkable, and have been of the greatest practical value to medical men.

It is palatable, and now put up in bottles holding a full pint. Price, $1. Formula on every label.

MOONDYNE.

THE GOLD MINE OF THE VASSE.

"What number?" asked the driver.

"I shall get out here," said Mr. Wyville.

"But you may wait for me—say half an hour."

He walked down the quiet little street, with its uniform brick houses, green blinds, and white curtains. It was a street of comfortable residences of small business men and well-to-do mechanics. Number 37 was in no way different from the neighboring houses.

Mr. Wyville rang the bell, and an old lady, with glasses pushed up to her forehead, and a piece of sewing in her hand, opened the door, and looked inquiringly at the caller.

"Does Captain Draper live here?" he asked.

"Yes, sir; but he is out at present," said the intelligent old lady.

"I am sorry; I will call again," said Mr. Wyville, turning to go.

"He will be in soon," said the old lady; "he comes in to dinner always."

"Then I shall wait, if you please," said Mr. Wyville, and he entered the house, and sat down in a comfortable little parlor, while the old woman, drawing down her glasses, went on with her sewing.

"Captain Draper is my grand-nephew," said she, after a silent interval.

"Indeed!" said Mr. Wyville. "Then you will be pleased to know that I come to offer him a good command."

"Oh, I am delighted!" said the old lady; "he is so good, so conscientious. I always said as Samuel would come to something 'igh. He has been waiting for a ship for nearly a year. I know he doesn't please his owners, because he is too conscientious."

"You will also be pleased to hear, madam, that his owners this time will be quite conscientious, too."

"I am so delighted!" said Captain Draper's grand-aunt.

At this moment, the outer door opened, and immediately after Captain Draper entered the room. It was rather a chilly day, and he had buttoned his coat close up to his throat. He was not a robust figure—rather slim, and bent forward. The past ten years had laid a strong hand on him. The charm of his younger manhood, the boisterous laugh and hearty manner of waving his hand, was much lessened; but the cold watchfulness of his prominent blue eyes was proportionately increased.

He had a long and narrow face, thin jaws, covered with faded side-whiskers, worn rather long. His upper lip and chin were shaven, showing his wide mouth. His lips were dry, as of old, but now they were bluer, and more offensively cracked. On the whole, he was a decent-looking man in outward appearance; as he walked rapidly through the streets, with shoulders bent forward, one would say he was a consumptive hurrying home. But there was a compression of the mouth, accompanied with a quick watchfulness of eye, and an ugly sneer in the muscles of the nose, that would make his face detestable to any one who had the power of rapidly perceiving character.

Mr. Wyville read the face as easily as if it were a printed page.

"Captain Draper, I presume?"

"That is my name," said the other, with a wide and unmeaning smile of the cracked lips, in which the rest of the face took no part.

"I have come from the Treasury to offer you command of a vessel in the service of the Government."

"Ah—that's good. In what branch of the service, may I ask?"

"Transport," said Mr. Wyville.

"Troops, I suppose?" said Draper, still smiling.

"No; convicts."

Captain Draper placed a chair so as to see Mr. Wyville's face in the light. As he took his seat he had ceased to smile.

"An!—convicts. Where are they going?"

"Western Australia."

"Captain Draper remained silent so long that Mr. Wyville spoke again.

"You are willing to take such a vessel, are you not?"

"Well, I want a ship—but these convict ships I don't like; I don't want to——Are they male convicts?" he asked, interrupting himself.

"Yes, mainly; there will be three hundred men, and only fifty female convicts on board."

"Fifty." Draper stood up and walked across the room to the mantel-piece. He leant his elbow on it for a time; then he took up a little glass ornament in an absent-minded and nervous way.

Mr. Wyville sat silently watching him. As Draper raised the piece of glass, his hand trembled and his face worked. He dropped the glass to the floor, and it was shattered to pieces. This recalled him. He smiled at first, then he laughed aloud, his eyes watching Mr. Wyville.

A Bargain in Corner Lots is what most men desire, but to keep from filling a grave in a cemetery lot ere half your days are numbered, always keep a supply of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" by you. When the first symptoms of consumption appear lose no time in putting yourself under the treatment of this invaluable medicine. It cures when nothing else will. Possessing, as it does, ten times the virtue of the best cod liver oil, it is not only the cheapest but far the pleasantest to take. It purifies and enriches the blood, strengthens the system, cures blotches, pimples, eruptions and other humors. By druggists.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—There is probably no better relaxing remedy for stiff joints, contracted cords, and painful congestion, than Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It cured Mrs. John Siddell, of Orton, Ont., who was afflicted for years with contraction of the bronchial pipes and tightness of the chest. It is the great remedy for internal or external pain.

A Common Cold

Is often the beginning of serious affections of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and Lungs. Therefore, the importance of early and effective treatment cannot be overestimated. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral may always be relied upon for the speedy cure of a Cold or Cough.

Last January I was attacked with a severe Cold, which, by neglect and frequent exposures, became worse, finally settling on my lungs. A terrible cough soon followed, accompanied by pains in the chest, from which I suffered intensely. After trying various remedies, without obtaining relief, I commenced taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and was Speedily Cured.

I am satisfied that this remedy saved my life.—Jno. Webster, Pawtucket, R. I.

I contracted a severe cold, which suddenly developed into Pneumonia, presenting dangerous and obstinate symptoms. My physician at once ordered the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. His instructions were followed, and the result was a rapid and permanent cure.—H. E. Simpson, Rogers Prairie, Texas.

Two years ago I suffered from a severe Cold which settled on my Lungs. I consulted various physicians, and took the medicines they prescribed, but received only temporary relief. A friend induced me to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. After taking two bottles of this medicine I was cured. Since then I have given the Pectoral to my children, and consider it for Colds, Coughs, and all Throat and Lung diseases, ever used in my family.—Robert Vanderpool, Meadville, Pa.

Some time ago I took a slight Cold, which, being neglected, grew worse, and settled on my lungs. I had a hacking cough, and was very weak. Those who knew me best considered my life to be in great danger. I continued to suffer until I commenced using Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. Less than one bottle of this valuable medicine cured me, and I feel that I owe the preservation of my life to its curative powers.—Mrs. Ann Lockwood, Akron, New York.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is considered, here, the one great remedy for all diseases of the throat and lungs, and is more in demand than any other medicine of its class.—J. F. Roberts, Magnolia, Ark.

FISHERY

Question!

Our American cousins are almost daily getting into trouble by having their fishing schooners seized for fishing within the three mile limits, which is a scaly thing for them to do. We wish to inform our friends, one and all, that they can get Oyster Bait in the shape of Stews, Fries Raws, on the Shell and off, at York Street Restaurant, which is within the three mile limit.

Coasters being at our port (York Street Restaurant) will be cleared at the Custom House by us free of charge.
