SIXTH YEAR — DAY MORNING APRIL 1[illegible] 1886. — PRICE ONE CENT.

CHURCHILL AT HALF-COCK

HIS LORDSHIP FIRES A BIG TIRADE AT THE PREMIER.

Sir Charles Russell Replies—Sudden Somersault of the Daily News—Serious Modifications to the Scheme Expected.

LONDON, April 12.—The house of commons was again densely crowded this evening as a result of the announcement that Lord Randolph Churchill would attack Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill. Among the conservatives and the whigs there was interest in Lord Randolph's effort. Prince Arthur and Prince Christian and the Duke of Cambridge sat together in the peers' gallery, surrounded by a host of peers.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply to questions, stated that it would be impossible to close the debate on his request for leave to-night, and that on this account he had decided to postpone introducing his Irish land purchase bill until next Monday.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, conservative, made a brief address, in which he indicated for his party an understanding to refrain from forcing a division on the home rule bill until it came up for a second reading.

Lord Randolph Churchill, by virtue of his motion to adjourn at the last session, having the floor, resumed the debate on Mr. Gladstone's request for permission to introduce the home rule bill. He spoke substantially as follows: After a long consideration he had come to the conclusion that the scheme involved such a complicated and inextricable mass of contradictions that if anybody besides Mr. Gladstone had proposed it, it never would have been taken seriously. [Cheers.] It was hedged about with such fanciful and eccentric guarantees for the integrity of the empire that the speaker was astonished at the Parnellites' acquiescence. He had vainly searched all the authorities, ancient and modern, for a precedent for Mr. Gladstone's two orders which were to compose the proposed Irish parliament. The first order was intended to specially represent property, and it was worthy of attention that the great leader of the great liberal party had chosen such an antiquated and discarded scheme as the property qualification, for the electorate of this first order. The second chamber was also elective. Both orders were to sit together; each could demand the exercise of the right to vote separately and one order could veto any measure brought in by the other. Take a simple illustration of how this would work in practice. Suppose the new parliament would proceed to the election of a speaker. Assume that the popular party carried the votes for their party, the property party, by voting separately, could veto the choice and this in consequence, for three or four years the election of a speaker would be suspended. [Laughter.] The same thing would happen in all those cases in which one order had chosen to veto the action of the other, cases for instance, questions of rules of procedure or budget proposals. The speaker went on to analyze the receipts and disbursement of the "imaginary Irish budget" for the future, as he said, of showing that Mr. Gladstone's proposal to maintain the fiscal unity of the empire while giving Ireland home rule, was altogether untrustworthy. He then pointed out the amount which the premier had assumed that Ireland would every year contribute under home rule to the imperial treasury as contribution for the benefits of imperial unity was of an extremely illusory and precarious character. It might be seriously affected by many things. Taking it, however, as the price the Irish were to pay for maintaining the fiscal unity of the empire, what would the English have to pay? They would have to pay far heavier proportionately for the hands of the chancellor of the exchequer would be very much cramped, if not altogether tied, in dealing with the customs and excise duties of Ireland under her practical independence. How could he lower those duties? If he should lower them he would diminish the very resources wherewith Ireland was to pay her tribute to England. He would have to do so without hearing a word from Irish representatives; nor could he impose an additional tax in order to obtain a credit in case of an emergency without the delay involved in suing for the permission of the parliament at Dublin. Where then was the supremacy of the British? The real principle of the bill was simply—repeal of the union. It handed over the protection of the lives and property of every man, woman and child in Ireland to an Irish parliament and deprived the imperial parliament of all voice in Irish matters. The measure gave a smack on the one hand and spoke much on the other, expressing in the same breath confidence and distrust. On the question of Ulster he asked if an Irish government could pay its way if Ulster were withdrawn. The premier justified his proposals on the ground that there were 85 home rulers in the house. But why should the voices of 85 Irish members prevail over the voices of the 284 other members? History showed the rise and decline of former Irish parties. Butt in 1870 had a party 60 strong. The speaker saw Butt before his death when the latter was in the deepest distress over the break up of his party. Parnell in 1880 had 60 votes. In six months his party was divided, remaining so until the end of the last parliament. So the Parnellites formidable to-day were in danger of disunion to-morrow—a danger that Mr. Parnell sought to avert by insisting upon a pledge from his followers to vote in a certain way. [Cries of dissent from the Parnellites.] "The premier," continued the speaker, "further argued that the repeal of the union was unnecessary because English laws had a foreign aspect to the Irish. Mr. Morley had emphasized that by warning the house that unless Mr. Gladstone's bill was passed the country might prepare for resistance to the payment of rent, for revolt, dynamite, explosions and assassinations." Mr. Gladstone's proposals had given the nationalists an enormous advantage. He had listened to many of Mr. Gladstone's speeches, the charms of which were described as being like the effects of morphia. The sensation under the operation was transcendent, the awakening was bitterly painful. He regretted that it had not been deemed consistent with the customs of the house to take a division on the Gladstone motion for leave to introduce the bill, but the day of decision would speedily arrive, when the house would vote against the proposals which were dangerous, unconstitutional and misleading. [Loud cheers.]

Sir C. Russell, attorney-general, taunted Lord Churchill with infusing into his speech prejudice and passion. Mr. Gladstone's bill was the first genuine effort to give law in Ireland moral support. The condition of Ireland was not due to the perversity of the Irish character, that was only the weak excuse of an imbecile statesman. As to Ulster the bill gives Protestants and Catholics the same rights. The English had tried to govern Ireland and failed. It was now time for Ireland to try and govern itself. The speaker reminded the house that it had never been able to break the spirit of the Irish people. If the measure was not passed, if parliament refused it to-day, another parliament dare not refuse to pass it. If it were postponed till the military were used to enforce repression, it would still have to be done and under conditions infinitely worse.

Mr. Bradlaugh regretted the bitterness of the criticisms on Mr. Gladstone's speech. He would give Mr. Gladstone his heartiest support.

Major Saunders congratulated Mr. Gladstone on his maiden speech as the leader of the home rulers. The Parnellites represented three-quarters of the population of Ireland, but the minority represented the industry, education and backbone, and it would be found the fighting power of Ireland.

On motion of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach the debate was adjourned until to-morrow.

The Issue at Ipswich.

LONDON, April 12.—The home rule issue is being made the sole ground of contest in the election in Ipswich, to fill the vacancies caused by the unseating of Jesse Collings and H. W. West for fraudulent electioneering practices. The district is very close. The conservative candidates at present are Lords Dalrymple and Elcho. The tory placards contain the following appeal:

"Will you vote for Lords Dalrymple and Elcho, and the support of Her Majesty the Queen, the Marquis of Salisbury and the integrity of the empire, or for Messrs. Gladstone and Parnell, home rule and the ruin of England and the empire?"

Advice from the P. N. C.

LONDON, April 12.—The Pall Mall Gazette says that in view of the action of the conservatives in deciding to allow the first reading of the home rule bill so as to enable Mr. Gladstone to introduce his Irish land purchase measure and thus strengthen the tory campaign in the event of a general election, it would be wise for Mr. Gladstone to ride for a fall to-night. It advises him to force a division on his request for leave to introduce his home rule bill during to-night's debate in order to avoid the introduction of the land purchase bill and the consequent addition to his opposition. The thing had better be faced and settled at once, argues the Gazette, rather than have the land purchase bill "hanging about the necks of his adherents for several weeks" only to be finally settled in perhaps a less advantageous manner than is possible now. It is reported that Mr. Gladstone has become alarmed over the hostile criticism evoked by his Irish proposals.

It is Brute.

LONDON, April 12.—A sensation has been caused by the sudden right-about-face of the Daily News, the ministerial organ, and the only London journal hitherto supporting Mr. Gladstone's home rule scheme. This is what the News editorial says this morning:

"The state of Ireland during the past ten years, the brutal murders, houghing of cattle, cowardly boycotting and general state of terrorism in which society has lived owing to the machinations of secret associations have aroused a feeling of deep indignation and disgust in the English mind. Beyond this is the conduct of the Irish members of the house of commons. A nation that has seen the traditions of its historical parliament traduced, its authority defied and the house of commons turned into a bear garden in the name of home rule, can scarcely be expected enthusiastically to espouse a cause thus tainted. We are constrained to admit our conviction that the country is not yet ripe for home rule in Ireland. We regard Mr. Gladstone's scheme as one of the most consummate pieces of constructive statesmanship presented even by the author of a series of Irish land acts which have delivered Ireland from the incubus of an alien church, but we do not conceal our belief that though the measure may pass its first or second reading, it cannot, unless a remarkable change takes place in public opinion, become law at this session." The external interpretation of this change confirmed by several sentences about Friday's debate, is that the News has gone over to Mr. Chamberlain. This is likely to precipitate a second change of the editorship of this journal.

At the Bidding of the Parnellites.

LONDON, April 12.—It is stated authoritatively that on the morning of the introduction of the bill, namely, Thursday, the bill provided for a transfer of the constabulary to the Irish executive. But during the morning Mr. Gladstone received intimation from the Irish party that they would prefer that this be left imperial for the present so as not to increase the difficulties and create a risk of stirring up which bad blood immediately. It is also stated that after Friday's debate, Mr. Gladstone expressed a desire that public attention be called to the memorandum which he furnished to the American government when his language about Jefferson Davis having "created a nation" was put forward during the Alabama claim discussion as evidence of the hostile attitude of England. This memorandum explains that Mr. Gladstone's personal sympathies were with the union, and throws an entirely different light upon his famous remark. It is, perhaps, worth mentioning that Mr. Chamberlain was a strong secession sympathizer during the war period.

Notes.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach will wind up the debate to-night.

Lord Harrington had a long interview with Lord Salisbury to-day.

Michael Davitt denies that he has threatened to oppose the program of Mr. Gladstone.

Mr. Bolase succeeds Jesse Collings as under secretary of the local government board.

The premier is in high spirits. He proposes to devote the Easter recess to a campaign in Scotland.

It is announced that the lords of Kenmare and Cork, Lord Suffield and Viscount Kilcourcie have resigned.

Sir M. Kay Shuttleworth has been appointed Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in place of Mr. Henesage, resigned.

The editorial article in yesterday morning's Daily News on Mr. Gladstone's scheme served to increase the uneasiness of the liberals.

The Daily News believes that the proposed land purchase loan has been [illegible] 000,000 since Mr. Gladstone's scheme was first drafted.

The tories are hugging the hope that they may defeat the government again on the budget and thus a second reading of the home rule bill will never be reached.

It is stated that Lord Churchill has written Lord Salisbury, offering to stand aside if his presence will throw any obstacle in the way of the Hartington-Salisbury coalition.

The conservatives of Manchester have invited the liberals to cooperate with them in organizing a great public meeting to denounce Mr. Gladstone's home rule scheme.

Michael Davitt said yesterday that if Mr. Gladstone's home rule bill is rejected a tremendous row is certain, and Irishmen will then go in for nothing less than complete separation.

Michael Davitt declares that if Mr. Gladstone's land purchase bill does not nationalize the land in Ireland he will attack the measure against it, and says he is confident he would succeed.

Hugh O'Donnell writes to the New Freie Presse of Vienna, denouncing the scheme to rid Westminster of Parnellites. "Irishmen," he says, "will denounce Parnell if he consents thereto."

While Mr. Gladstone was driving to the house of commons this afternoon he was greeted with mingled cheers and groans. When he reached the palace yard the groans and hisses of the crowd quite outtopped the cheers.

The Dublin Freeman's Journal says: "The rejection of the Home Rule measure would result in an acute commercial crisis and would provoke the unemployed of Dublin to commit excesses similar to those perpetrated during the recent riots in London."

The liberals expect Mr. Gladstone to offer large amendments to his plan in committee as the only hope of passing it. If the bill is rejected on the second reading, Gladstone will retire; if the bill passes a second reading and is rejected later, he will appeal to the country.

Joseph Cowen, radical member of parliament for Newcastle-on-Tyne, and an advocate of home rule for Ireland, in a published letter says: "The present parliament will soon be dissolved, and with it I will end my parliamentary career."

Mr. Gladstone spent two hours yesterday afternoon in private conference with Mr. John Morley, the chief secretary for Ireland, and Earl Spencer, the ex-Irish viceroy. It is reported the Premier has decided to subject his home rule scheme to several important modifications.

It is stated that the Irish bill will be modified so as to include a representation of the Irish at Westminster in ratio to Irish contributions to the imperial exchequer. A further amendment will be made, it is said, in the direction of extending the power of veto of the imperial parliament.

An incident of to-night's debate excited much amusement. Lord Churchill during his speech wanted to quote from article 3 of the act of the union. He fumbled in his pockets for a time, and then began an apology to the house, saying that he had forgotten to bring the act with him. Mr. Gladstone instantly produced the act, turned up article 3, and handed the document to Lord Randolph amid general cheers and laughter.

The Grocers Also Know the Dead Beats.

The Toronto Retail Grocers' association held their monthly meeting last night in Temperance hall. President Robert Mills occupied the chair. There was a fair attendance of members. A committee reported that an agreement had been made with the leading wholesale houses that they should not sell to consumers or interfere in any way with the retail trade. Mr. E. J. Partridge read an interesting essay on "Dead Beats," in which he brought to light many ingenious ways this class of humanity had of taking in the confiding grocerymen. It was decided to get a list of all the "bad pays" and keep it on private exhibition. A motion was passed recommending retail grocers to close at 8 o'clock every night except Saturday, and asking Knights of Labor and trades union men to patronize those stores closing early.

The Queen's Own to be Invited to Stratford.

At the last meeting of the council of Stratford a sum of money was voted for the purpose of inviting and entertaining the Queen's Own at the fledging city on May 24. Twenty years ago on the same date the Queen's Own visited Stratford, and were encamped for a couple of days on the outskirts of the town. The city officials of Stratford will shortly send an official invitation to Col. Miller on behalf of the regiment. On the same occasion the Stratfordians will celebrate the anniversary of their dosing city raiment.

A Cigarmaker's Death.

DETROIT, April 12.—A desperate attempt at murder and suicide was made on Sunday night on the ferry steamer Fortune, while it was lying at the foot of Woodward avenue. The would-be murderer and suicide is William Brown who claims to have a wife and four children in Toronto. He pulled a revolver and, after shooting a dock hand and passenger, attempted to shoot himself. When taken to the hospital all he remarked was "You have not given me a fair show." Brown is 22 years old, a native of Montreal, is about 5 feet 7 in height, and a cigarmaker by trade.

THE PRINTERS TO BLAME.

MR. KIRK OF NOVA SCOTIA THINKS HIMSELF ILL-TREATED.

The Cost of the Northwest Rebellion—Immigration Statistics Wanted—A Blue Nose Member Waxes Warm.

OTTAWA, April 12.—Another question of privilege occupied the house after routine to-day. Mr. Kirk producing a copy of the proceedings headed "House of Commons Debates," which while purporting to be official reports were false and misleading. It was headed, "Better terms for Nova Scotia, insincerity of grits exposed." He would not complain had this been printed outside, but it bore the imprint of the official printers and the impression sought to be made was a false one. It sought to make the people believe that only one grit from Ontario and one from Quebec voted for better terms for Nova Scotia, but it did not state that all the members of the government voted the same way as the majority.

The Speaker examined the copy of the report and said it apparently was an official one, and it was a most improper proceeding, to which he called the attention of the Hansard committee.

The Minister of the Interior explained that it was customary for members to get any number of their speeches printed, and supposed this one was issued in the ordinary and customary manner, at which the opposition yelled "no, no."

Mr. Bechard thought it was an outrage, and Mr. Weldon challenged Mr. White to point to another instance of this kind where there was different headings and part of the proceedings suppressed.

The Minister of Justice only rose to contradict the statement of Mr. Kirk, that any member of the government voted against better terms, explaining that that question never came up at all, and Mr. Kirk said that was the very point, and the paper was misleading and intended to mislead. The official printers were utilized for party purposes.

The Minister of the Interior drew attention to the speech of Mr. Cameron (Huron) on Riel with the official imprint which had flaming headings.

Mr. Cameron denounced the tory trick as scandalous, and half a dozen members began talking more simultaneously than distinctly.

Another Cameron—he of Inverness—at last assumed responsibility for the heading of the offending report. He ordered the printing done, and there was not one single word misleading or unfair in it. Mr. Kirk had tried to mislead them, and the whole discussion was given with the division in the house, the only objection being to let the people have the actual facts. Not one word of the speeches was changed by him or the official printer, and in ordering copies of the report he only followed the example set by the grits, holding up at the same time copies of the speech by Laurier, headed "Ministers on Trial," "Was the Execution of Riel Justified." Mr. Cameron grew warm over the subject and elicited cheers from the government benches.

Mr. Davies pointed out the difference between the reports being printed by the official and by private printers and Laurier and Cameron's speeches were not printed by the official printers. If Mr. Cameron, (Inverness), however, stated it was not intended to deceive of course they would accept his statement.

Mr. White held the report was all right and didn't mislead any one being the actual truth, to which Mr. Davies retorted it might be his idea of party expenditure but Canada would look at it in a different light. Mr. Trow had spoken in a manly way in defence of the Northwest, but he asked if Americans had better immigration agents than Mr. McMullen, from whose speech he read an excerpt. He also quoted Sir Richard Cartwright and denounced such unpatriotic utterances. Replying to the statement made by an opposition member that the national policy made the cost of living so high that people were driven out of the country, he declared that implements, clothing, food and luxuries of farmers cost 25 per cent cheaper to-day than in 1878. The N. P. had made Canada a cheap and not a dear country.

Mr. McMullen accused Mr. Carling of corrupting the public mind and using unparliamentary language. He thought too much money had been spent on immigration, and stated that the national policy had not produced the satisfaction of the government. The discussion began to take wide range, and the speaker finally insisted that it should be confined to the motion.

Mr. Carling stated that he had read from Hansard, and Mr. Hesson and others explained that Mr. McMullen had undoubtedly changed the report. He was proceeding to explain the charge of paying money to Canadian newspapers, when the speaker called him to order. Mr. Carling insisted on an explanation, but the speaker refused to let the discussion continue unless confined to the object of the motion.

Mr. Woodworth insisted that Mr. Carling was right in making explanations of the charges, but the speaker was inexorable.

Mr. Beaty drew attention to the misapprehension diligently circulated in the cities that the government was assisting mechanics, and was glad to hear the Minister of Agriculture deny the statement.

Mr. Gault said no country in the world was better off than Canada. In Montreal there were no vacant houses; there was no boom, but business was brisk. The cotton mills were fully employed, and there was no deduction of wages. He favored sending immigration to the Northwest.

Mr. Paterson (Brant) referred to the defence of the position of the tories on assisted immigration two years ago and to-day, and asked why this change.

Mr. Ferguson (Leeds) held it unfair to say the country was unfavorable to mechanics. Canada wanted men and women of muscle, with an attachment of intelligence, and these were best supplied from the mechanic class. He denied that the N. P. reduced wages, and contended they were 30 per cent. higher now than in 1878.

THE SCOTT ACT IN SIMCOE.

The Town Council of Collingwood Are Disgusted and Petition for Relief.

COLLINGWOOD, April 12.—The following has been forwarded to Ottawa:

To the Hon. the House of Commons of Canada in Parliament assembled.

The petition of the mayor and council of the corporation of the town of Collingwood, humbly showeth:

That your petitioners find from experience that the Canada Temperance act of 1878 now in force in the county of Simcoe, is an absolute failure in promoting the cause of temperance, and, we have to regret, has been the means of increasing drunkenness in the county to an alarming extent through spirituous liquors being sold in hundreds of places, which heretofore had not been done under the licensing system:

Therefore, your petitioners humbly pray your honorable body may see fit to amend the said act so as to admit of beer and light wines to be sold in the counties where said act is now in force, or may come into force. That we believe would tend to educate the people to use light liquors and thereby decrease drunkenness in our land.

We therefore pray your honorable house to take the matter into your serious consideration. And as in duty bound your petitioners will ever pray.

R. C. CAMPBELL, Town Clerk. JOHN NETTLETON, Mayor.

The Public Health Act.

Dr. P. H. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health, writes saying that having heard that the Mayor has twice stated that the Provincial Board had neglected a plain duty in regard to a public nuisance, he desires to call his attention to the true reading of the Public Health act, which makes it an express duty of the Local Board of Health it is the Mayor's duty under the act, to call the attention of the Board to the condition of the cattle market. The act further provides for a reference of the matter, under certain conditions, to the Provincial Board. Dr. Bryce considers that, taking into account the efficiency of the present Local Board of Health and medical officer, it would seem unnecessary that the Provincial Board should be obliged to be continually notifying the City Board of its remissness in the matter of removing nuisances.

The Force of Habit.

From Chicago News.

"The force of habit is a wonderful thing," said the philosophizing passenger who expectorated upon the floor; "now just to show you, I'm a photographer out in the country here a piece, and the other day I was called out to take a negative of a dead man. At my suggestion his relatives propped him up on some chairs so that his position would be somewhere near natural, and then stood back while I took him. After focusing the lens I stepped out, looked to see that everything was all right, said 'now, hold still a moment, please,' and made the exposure. Right there was the first laughter that had been heard in that house for two weeks."

NINE HOURS A DAY'S WORK

THE CITY COUNCIL STARTS TO DISCUSS THE MATTER LAST NIGHT.

The Talk Suddenly Cut Off Because of a Lack of a Quorum—Mayor Howland Expresses Himself on the Duration of City Contracts—These Steel Boilers.

The absentees from the meeting of the board of aldermen last night were Ald. Allen, Carlyle (St. Thomas), Hastings, Turner and John Woods. The council sat out the regulation time, from 7.30 to 11 o'clock, when it adjourned for want of a quorum, in the midst of a discussion on Ald. Hunter's motion to make nine hours a day's work for all the laborers of the corporation. Several workingmen, who take a deep interest in the nine-hour movement, lingered in the public gallery till the last trump awaiting the fate of Ald. Hunter's motion, but they were disappointed in so far as its final disposition was concerned. The council managed to get through a large amount of business in the 3½ hours that it sat. The chamber, with its twenty-eight gas jets and two brilliant electric lights, was cheerful compared to the gloomy aspect which usually settles over the Market square on a drizzly, damp night.

Petitions for local improvements were read as follows: Six petitions to block pave Church street, from King to Bloor; G. M. Maguire and others, block pavement in Robinson street, Bathurst to Euclid avenue; Henry Hill and others, block pavement in Carlisle street, St. Patrick street to Bellevue place; W. S. Thompson and others, block pavement in lane near Bay street, south of Wellington. Other petitions were: John Marvin and others, against the construction of a block pavement in Portland street, Front to Queen; John Pape and others, for the extension of Carlaw avenue as a local improvement from Queen to Bloor; three largely-signed petitions, for the establishment of a branch of the public library in Orient hall, Queen street east; from A. W. Godson and 650 others, against any change in the limits of St. Patrick's market; from Wm. Dever and others, to the same effect; from James Bellingham and others, that action be deferred on the proposition to extend the limits of St. Andrew's market. McNairn & Co. asked permission to erect a steam engine at No. 23 Pearl street. Mr. Peck-Ewan complained that three of his business on Czar street could not be let for nearly two years because the thoroughfare was blocked up or opened and put in proper condition. Arthur H. Bennett claimed $175 damages for injury done to his wife by falling on icy sidewalk, opposite 22 Carlton street, on Jan. 25. Mr. Malone claimed for the Copland Brewing company damages for injury done their premises by water backing up into the basement, the main sewer south of King street, the cellars being flooded to the extent of two feet on two occasions.

Mayor Howland announced to the council that he noticed that in the executive committee's report the city printing had been awarded as usual to the Globe and Mail. He considered very good and ample reasons were given, he would refuse to sign any city contract for more than a year. He would not interfere, however, in the present case.

Ald. Saunders wanted to know when the electric light was to be tested according to the contract. Ald. Maughan replied that the government inspector of gas, Mr. Aubin, was here last week. There was nothing in the Dominion act providing for the inspection of electric lights. Mr. Aubin, however, had promised to inspect the electric light had he been paid. Besides, the necessary apparatus would have to be purchased. Ald. Saunders said he did not believe in paying for the 1000 candle-power light, when the contract called for 2000 candle power. Ald. Boustead thought it was a great misnomer for the city deputation that recently visited Ottawa was printed and circulated among the members. It is interesting reading.

When Ald. Hunter's motion to fix nine hours as a day's work for laborers employed by the city, was called up, Ald. Hall arose and said that this was a motion calculated to bring odium on the council. No petition had been sent in by the laborers for such a reduction of hours. At this stage (11 o'clock) the attention of the mayor was called to the fact that there was not a quorum in the room and the council adjourned.

AMUSEMENTS.

Reappearance of the Mikado at the Grand Opera House Last Night.

There was a large but not a full house at the Grand opera house last night, when for the third time The Mikado filed an appearance for a week's engagement. There were one or two pieces of original by-play last night's performance, notably in Ko-Ko's "Titwillow" song with Katisha, which caused considerable merriment, but, taken altogether, the revival is hardly up to what has gone before. The singing possibly, from an artistic point of view, was better, but there was a lack of snap and go which had its due effect upon the audience. Nearly everything was encored as of yore, but that spontaneity which characterized the former representations was entirely wanting. Only in the costuming was any particular improvement noticeable. Miss Ida Mulle as Yum Yum was very pretty and taking, and as of the other two maids from school, was pretty. Miss Roche sang well as Katisha and was sufficiently cold and stately. By the male characters there was a striving to hit off the humor of the piece which by no means helped the realization. Mr. Frank Bialr's Ko-Ko was clever and palatable, as was also Mr. Allen's Pooh-Bah; and Mr. Samuel Reed wrestled pretty successfully with The Mikado. But through it all there was an apparent sense of distance the spectators that the thing had been overdone.

The Ashbox Inspectors.

Sheehan and Coyne, the original and widely-known Ashbox Inspectors, with a good comedy and specialty company, opened a week's engagement at the Yonge street opera house yesterday afternoon and evening. They were greeted by large houses at both performances. The two principals proved themselves clever exponents of the character of the funny Irishman. The specialties were good and the general run. Little Miss Pullman, standing on a revolving ball, played pleasingly on the violin and cornet. Performance every afternoon and evening at popular prices.

Concert at Shaftesbury Hall.

A concert was given last night in Shaftesbury hall under the auspices of Brighton lodge, Sons of England, and Canada Lodge No. 49, I.O.O.F., for the benefit of the widow and orphans of A. Parsons, who was recently killed by falling from a building. H. Fitzpatrick presided, and with him on the platform were T. L. Hicks and J. C. Lindsay representing the societies. An excellent program was furnished by Prof. Bohner, Sherbourne Richards, Alfred George, Taylor and Misses Walters, Marshall, Rachel Wright, H. Morell, Maud Patterson and Mrs. Morris. This was Miss Marshall's first appearance as a reciter. She delivered Hiawatha's Wooing with good taste. The audience seemed well pleased with the entertainment.

A Great Vocal Volume.

A mass rehearsal of the members of the Toronto Musical Festival association was held last night in Temperance hall. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, there was a large attendance, every seat in the building being filled by members of the chorus. Israel in Egypt was the piece taken up. Mr. Torrington led and the baton is about as good as ever. He seemed to have the chorus well in hand. The need of a larger hall was evident, as much of the harmony was lost owing to the chorus too great a volume of sound for the space. The chorus could be distinctly heard at Yonge street. Tickets were issued to the members that they be marked at each rehearsal, and all who have not been at a certain number of practices, will not be allowed to sing at the Festival.

MRS. BARTLETT'S HUSBAND

THE WOMAN'S ALLEGED PARAMOUR ACQUITTED.

Rev. Mr. Dyson to be Called For the Prosecution—Damaging Testimony Expected Against the Prisoner.

LONDON, April 12.—The case against Mrs. Adelaide Barlett and the Rev. Mr. Dyson, a Methodist clergyman of Pimlico, for the alleged murder of Edward Bartlett, the woman's husband, by chloroform was brought up for trial at the central criminal court to-day. The court room was crowded. The crown declined to proceed against Mr. Dyson because it was convinced of its inability to maintain the indictment against him and he was accordingly discharged. Mrs. Bartlett, pale and attractive, watched the proceedings intently. The attorney-general in presenting the case urged the jury to refrain from convicting on mere suspicion, but to weigh the evidence carefully and patiently. A number of witnesses who gave testimony at the preliminary hearing repeated their evidence.

Mr. Bartlett's father testified that he believed the will offered for probate as that of deceased was a forgery. He stated that Mrs. Bartlett, during her husband's life, once eloped with his brother Frederick, with whom she remained for a week. Frederick, after this, went to America, and witness did not know his present whereabouts. The Rev. Mr. Dyson is to appear as a witness against Mrs. Bartlett.

Editor Sheppard's Talk on the American Constitution.

Mr. E. E. Sheppard addressed the Young Men's Liberal club last night, comparing the United States constitution most favorably with that of Great Britain and Canada. He deprecated the practice in vogue in this country and in the mother land of governments standing or falling on the success or overthrowal of their measures. In the American house of representatives, a body by constitution not at all more democratic than the British house of commons, legislation was not thus hampered. That great document, the American constitution, amended only fifteen times, was second in perfection only to the law Divine. Mr. Sheppard by no means advocated the adoption of that constitution, but he argued as to the necessity of the enactment of rigorous reform in the economy of our own government, which all knew to be as corrupt and rotten as it well could be.

An animated discussion followed the address. The Irish Home Rule question will be discussed on the 26th. The annual banquet of the club will be held Monday evening at the Reform club.

KINGS WITH BARREN HONORS.

Jay Gould's Opinion of Mr. Powderly and His Committee.

NEW YORK, April 12.—"You can say," said Mr. Gould in an interview to-day, "that this company (the Missouri Pacific) will have nothing further to do with either Mr. Powderly or any other member of his committee. We have been deceived enough by them and we do not propose to have anything of the kind occur again. They cannot get the Knights of Labor to obey them. They are simply kings with barren scepters in their grasp and have not power."

Sudden Death of a Well-Known Citizen.

Mr. Joseph Gray, an old and respected citizen of Toronto, died suddenly of heart disease last Saturday. He was well known in railway circles for the last twenty-seven years, and was secretary and treasurer of the old Toronto and Nipissing railway for several years before the amalgamation. He leaves a widow and son, Mr. H S Gray, connected with Gooderham and Worts, and two daughters, Mrs. P. M. Tipson and Mrs. J. W Bradley, all living in Toronto. The funeral takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence, 181 Wilton avenue.

A Vacancy in St. Paul's Ward.

Ald. Hastings having been appointed and gazetted an inspector of licenses under the Crooks Liquor act, his seat at the city council board becomes vacant. Mr. Hastings was not at the council meeting last night, and when asked about it, Ald. Denison said he had not received any intimation from Ald. Hastings that he would resign. Ald. Denison pointed out that under the law his being gazetted to the position annulled relieved him of the necessity of sending in a resignation.

A Bulky Petition.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 13, 1886.

Canadian Pacific Changes.

The Canadian Pacific has of late been getting along at railroad speed in more than one sense. The other day it was cabled that the acceptance of the new continental and ocean route by the British government was assured, and the next thing we hear is that the Barings are inviting tenders for the company's 5 per cent. bonds to the amount of twenty million dollars. Proceeds to be used to pay off that amount to the dominion government.

And next there is something else. From Ottawa we hear that the company expects soon to be able to do without the monopoly clause in its charter affecting proposed new railway connections in Manitoba and the Northwest. This has been promised before, although it must be remembered that the monopoly clause holds good until the year 1900. It is added that for giving up this right the company will demand an equivalent from the government in some shape or other.

It was certainly needful to make the Canadian road safe against American competition, to begin with. But, that security once fairly achieved, the doors of the Northwest may be thrown open. And that, we suppose, is about to be done one of these days.

Professor Huxley and Lord Wolseley are been airing their opinions on home rule. Neither of the gentlemen have displayed statesmanship enough in their utterances to cause any uneasiness about the eternal truth of the old adage, "the shoemaker should not judge beyond his last."

The New York Sun is terribly exercised over the introduction into the Newfoundland legislature of a resolution prohibiting the export of bait. The Sun counsels the administration to take a firm stand, and "put down its foot with decision" on the impudence of the Canadians. If the administration fails to assume this position, the Sun advises appeal to the English governments, which, it asserts, sat on a similar resolution of the Newfoundlanders some years ago. "Tempora mutantur et nos mutamur in illis." England knows that Canada, so far as Canada is concerned, is now perfectly capable of taking care of her own affairs, and will not interfere.

The cheap grain of America, Australia and India, and the cheap meat of Chicago have made farming almost a luxury in England and driven many farmers from their holdings in Scotland. So far as wheat is concerned, the prevailing low price in England is due to the development of the wheat fields of India by British capital rather than to competition from America. It was cheap Indian wheat that made the price of English wheat in February lower than it had been for 125 years. The continued development of India, together with competition from this side of the Atlantic, must work a great revolution in agriculture on the British islands.

A Maniac Captain in Command.

Mr. Gladstone's elaborate scheme for the dismemberment of the hitherto united kingdom darkens the prospect like an immense thundercloud. It can never be carried by legislation, or yet as the result of civil war alone; but only by foreign war in which Great Britain would be the party conquered. A great man has gone mad, but the country is greater even than its greatest man, and will not commit national suicide. The proposed exclusion of Irish members from the national parliament is outrageous. There may be tories who would secretly welcome this change, though they would probably be ashamed to own up to the fact. But that it should be welcomed by English liberals is impossible; and already the proofs of this begin to appear.

The truth is that the three kingdoms are now so united together that separation is impossible short of terrible and tremendous ruin as the result. Mr. Gladstone apparently proceeds on the assumption that the Irish people are in Ireland, and there only. A mistake of the first magnitude, surely, for there are to-day as many Irishmen in England as in Ireland. If the same legislation answers for both Celt and Saxon in Lancashire, why not also in King's county, or in Cork? The cry of "Ireland for the Irish" has at its bottom an idea which can never be carried out in practice. To carry it out logically and consistently the millions of Irish people, young and old together, who now find their work and their bread in England, should be deported to Ireland. But they would not take kindly to that proposal; they would say it came from an enemy, not from a friend. English workpeople might think it not a bad thing for them, because it would bring them at once full employment and better wages. But why waste words on an impossibility? Irish and English are so mixed and intermingled together, in all the relations of business and employment, both in Ireland and in England, that any serious attempt to separate them would be madness. When it was talked of that the Siamese twins might be separated by a surgical operation, the highest medical authorities pronounced it to be death, and it was not tried. But Dr. Gladstone fears nothing; his is the courage of a maniac surgeon, ready to perform the most dangerous operation.

Have we not read that terrible story of a passenger ship in mid ocean, with a captain in command who had suddenly lost his reason, and whose conduct struck terror into all on board, while yet no one dared to challenge his authority. It must have been a fearful scene—for a while. For the time being the British ship of state is in command of a captain who has lost his head.

It will be replied that it is just like the tories to say this of Mr. Gladstone, the great liberal statesman. Well if only tories said it, then there would be room for much difference of opinion. But it will scarcely do to call Mr. Chamberlain a tory, while the designation does not fit either Mr. Trevelyan or Mr. Goschen. The words of the Daily News are ominous; from the very start the London organ of the government damns Mr. Gladstone's scheme with faint praise. Unless the event compel us, we refuse to believe it possible for this bill to pass the house of commons. It is approved of, under a certain reserve, by prominent home rulers, but why? Simply because, in their estimation, it means the total separation of Ireland from England, and that at no very distant day.

It may be written in the book of fate that separation there is to be. But if so it will not be by act of parliament. No, only as the result of war, aye, of wars—bella, horrida bella—as one of the old Romans says. It is a terrible thought, but one which must occur to many reflecting minds, that Mr. Gladstone's dismemberment scheme marks a district step towards war as the only solution of the Irish difficulty. They are deceivers and false prophets who cry "peace, peace," when there is no peace. Some ingenious writer has pictured the possibility of a whole nation going mad; and there have been instances that looked rather that way. But let us still hope that the British nation is sane enough to control the madness of the maniac captain now in command.

The Stage and the Pulpit.

Editor World: There is an old saying, that if you want to touch the hearts of some people you must do so by way of their breeches' pocket. That must be the case of the Revs. Hugh Johnston and Canon Dumoulin, as I read in your issue of to-day that they both complain that the church receives less cash than the theatre. Now comes the question. Of course a minister of the gospel has to live. He has to be paid as well as other people. But has he a right to make a monetary ladder, as most ministers do nowadays, of his pulpit, and take or quit it, just as the almighty dollar lends its enchanting glitter to his much to be regretted greedy countenance? Christ and his apostles did not teach that; and yet Mr. Johnston claims to be an exponent of the teachings of his Master. Mr. Johnston says that the theatre is "a tremendous power for good or harm." I admit it. But so is the church. Good or evil can result from both, and is it from such egotistical fanatics as Mr. Johnston that we get the evil. I will admit that the stage has its faults. Has not the pulpit? I rather think it has. When Mr. Johnston denounces the stage in such a wholesale manner he does a wrong, a wrong which cannot be easily wiped out. People fully as respectable and as high in the religious world as Mr. Johnston visit theatres accompanied by their wives and children, but they object to being termed "gamblers and fallen women." How would Mr. Johnston like that epithet applied to his own wife? His reference to "old bald heads" may be in good taste, and may tickle the fancy of those before whom Mr. Johnston delivers his weekly "addresses," but to common sense people it can only be looked upon as poisoning virus that flows from the mouth of a hypocritical crank. A "horse jockey and a wife beater" may be bad and so may Mr. Johnston, but it ill becomes one who wears the garb of a clergyman to use such language. My experience has shown me that there is less harm in the theatre than in the church. Young men and young women who have attended the performances of Henry Irving, the late Adelaide Neilson, Edwin Booth, etc., etc., cannot but have profited by what they both saw and heard. It is time, and I for one believe the time has come, when these canting parsons should be counted out. Canadians as a rule are a God-fearing people, and don't want—and what is more, won't tolerate—humbug and cant. Let Mr. Johnston follow the footsteps of his Master, and not seek popularity (and more salary) by denouncing his fellow-men. It is cant; nothing less. As for the Canon of St. James', his growl for "more cash" can be answered easily enough. There is, I believe, an income, and a very large one, from the Lombard street property. Let the canon give some of that to the "poor missionary" that he is so anxious about. We have lots of poor in Toronto. But what cares the canon for them?

In conclusion, I may add that there are just as pure and virtuous women on the stage as there are in the church. It is the desire to make an honest living that makes men and women adopt the stage as a profession. The modern parson takes his pulpit and leaves it when he gets better pay, and why should he decry, like Mr. Johnston has done, the honest—and he does not know how faithful—efforts of those who try to and do lead a good life. The theatre has its teachings, and one thing can be said in its favor—it has no cant about it. A sensible man or woman can at any time judge right from wrong.

University Matters.

Editor World: Professor Loudon's letter in your issue of this date can be answered very briefly. There was a meeting of graduates at Moss hall prior to the regular meeting of convocation, at which very few graduates attended. The object of this meeting was to consider the advisability of holding a meeting of convocation. So far as I know, the meeting was the result of the spontaneous action of the graduates who attended it. The question of increased representation on the senate was discussed at that meeting in all its pros and cons, with other matters, and those present decided that they would like to have a meeting of convocation, and agreed as to what points they would like discussed. I told them a requisition must be sent in to the Executive committee sufficiently signed to warrant the committee in calling convocation together. The requisition was obtained and was handed to me, for the committee, as chairman, and named certain points for discussion, being those above referred to. The only question then for the committee was whether the meeting should be special, to consider only the specific points named in the requisition, or general, so that convocation should be able to discuss any subject properly introduced as well as those specified. The latter course was adopted and the meeting was called as a general meeting. Professor Loudon can see the requisition above mentioned at any time. The above facts were stated in convocation and gentlemen can judge whether anything material hinged on them. It seems to me that if Mr. Loudon was anxious to restrain the alleged ordor pravo jubentium he should have done as others did, namely, attend the meeting of convocation and object there. If for any good reason he could not be present at convocation he could have put his objections into the shape of newspaper correspondence during the session and not afterwards.

On the general question as to whether those graduates who supported the request for increased representation had their opinion manufactured for them, I shall leave them to speak for themselves. It seems to me rather too good a joke that men like Messrs. Kingsmill, Hodgins, Dr. Keanedy, and other good man and true should be so coolly charged with not knowing their own minds. The culprits who have "so far managed this whole affair" must be very wily. I am yours truly,

R. E. KINGSFORD,
Chairman Executive Committee Convocation.

SOME HORRIBLE CASUALTIES.

Three Deaths in a Colliery and Two Others by an Explosion of Dynamite.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., April 10.—At the Newcastle station a box of dynamite cartridges had been placed beside the blacksmith's hearth. William Albright, the blacksmith's helper, disturbed one of the cartridges. The shock of this exploded a dozen more cartridges. Albright was killed instantly and shockingly mangled. The blacksmith Wm. McGough had both eyes blown out, his ears blown off and his head and body badly injured. He will die.

A miner working in the first breast of the colliery operated by the Philadelphia & Reading coal and iron company cut a leader of gas, which exploded and blew him down the chute. The debris caught and imprisoned A. S. Doyle, of Phœnix Park, and Edward Canfield, of Black Heath, and the gas smothered them. Edward Parnell, aged 15 years, a slate picker at the same colliery, went into the hoisting engine house, fell into the machinery and was mangled to death.

Three Men Fatally Injured at a Fire.

LAWRENCE, MASS., April 10.—Fire broke out at 10 o'clock to day in the picker room of the dye house, the smallest of the Pemberton mills, and after a fierce conflagration of nearly three hours the building, which was three stories high and sixty feet long, was gutted. The loss is $100,000; fully covered by insurance. The roof fell, carrying down the two floors below and fifteen men who were fighting the flames. All but four of the men escaped. Of the men buried, George McKenzie was rescued, but died from the effects of his injuries. George Silva was extricated, having sustained severe but not fatal injuries. John Miller, a fireman, lay for nearly two hours on the second floor under a heavy beam, the flames blazing near him. Two heroic firemen, Victor Guiptas and Herbert Finn succeeded in prying the timber off his body and rescuing him from a slow death. Miller's jaw and left leg were fractured, and his right leg was badly burned from hip to ankle. He will die. Of the men who escaped, A. Briggs, F. Wilcox and P. D. Meserve were badly hurt. Foreman Merrill, of the Andover fire department, suffered the amputation of several fingers. Geo. Quimby was thrown from an engine and severely hurt and Florence McCarthy had both legs fractured. One has been amputated and the other must be if he lives. The burned mill employed seventy hands. It was the only one left standing on January 10, 1866, when at 5 p.m. without a word of warning the large mill fell burying between 600 and 700 operatives. The ruins took fire and 145 persons were killed and 175 were injured.

"Consumption Cure"

—would be a truthful name to give to Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," the most efficacious medicine yet discovered for arresting the early development of pulmonary disease. But "consumption cure" would not sufficiently indicate the scope of its influence and usefulness. In all the many diseases which spring from a derangement of the liver and blood the "Discovery" is a safe and sure specific. Of all druggists.

Stagnation on 'Change.

LONDON, April 11.—The discount was weak at 1½ for three months, and 1 to 1½ for short. On the stock exchange during the week absolute stagnation prevailed owing to the uncertain political situation. Leading brokers say they are hardly clearing enough to pay their clerks. Prices were steady. American railway securities shared in the inaction. Quotations were maintained until yesterday when there was a lower tendency.

Hoarseness and Bronchitis.

—Among the many remedies used for the cure of coughs and colds, none more speedily gains the confidence of the sufferer than "Hallamore's Expectorant." For hoarseness and bronchitis its rapid effect is surprising. In private sale during 25 years it has gained for itself an enviable reputation and produced wonderful results. In 25 cent bottles at all drug stores. edx

Labor Questions in France.

PARIS, April 10.—In the chamber of deputies to-day a radical motion censuring the government for the arrest of MM. Roche and Duc-Quercy at Decazeville in connection with the riots was discussed. The debate resulted in a vote of confidence in the government of 445 to 65. The senate voted urgency for M. Boserian's bill enlarging the powers of the executive so as to enable it to deal with strikes. One hundred and fifty-three members voted in the affirmative and 102 in the negative.

Public Notice.

—All testimonials in favor of Hallamore's Expectorant are from well known residents of Toronto. Mr. S. J. Willcock, 129 Spadina avenue, says: "I have used Hallamore's Expectorant for coughs and colds for thirteen years, and would not be without it. It never fails to cure me." edx

The Horrors of the Guillotine.

PARIS, April 10.—The guillotining of the murderer Koenig was a horrible affair and has caused a feeling of disgust with this antiquated system of capital punishment. The condemned man fought on the scaffold until overpowered and bound by the officers. He was then forced upon the balance plank, but as he continued to struggle and kick his head was seized and dragged through the circular hole and held in position by its hair until the knife descended. The assistants were obliged to remain in dangerous proximity to the knife in order to keep the man's head in place. Koenig meanwhile uttered frightful yells which were interrupted by the fall of the fatal knife.

It Acts Like a Charm.

—Ex-Ald. George Evans, 449 Queen street west, testifies to the efficacy of "Hallamore's Expectorant" as follows: "It is undoubtedly far superior to all other advertised remedies for coughs and colds, especially in the case of children, with whom it acts like a charm." edx

Being Educated for the Altar.

LONDON, April 10.—Princess Clementina, youngest daughter of the king of the Belgians, who bears the title of Princess of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, and who will be 14 years old on July 30, has been selected as the bride of Prince Albert Victor, eldest son of the Prince of Wales, now 22 years old. In view of this alliance the princess is being educated in the Protestant faith, and her life and habits of thought will be moulded as far as possible on an English basis.

—A. S. Smith, the hat manufacturer, has received the style of silk hat for spring both in American and English, in which he is prepared to fill orders either in the easy fitting wire brim or the regular solid brim. Ask your hatter for the wire brim hat in best quality. edx

Fire-Eaters in Greece.

ATHENS, April 11.—In the chamber of deputies yesterday several speeches were made in favor of a war with Turkey. Many of the members demanded the enforcement of the cloture, but Prime Minister Delijannis declared in favor of freedom of speech, and a vote of confidence in the government was passed by 129 to 83.

To Whom it May Concern.

—Geo. W. Platt, of Plotou, says he can confidently recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to any who suffer from loss of appetite, constipation, and general debility, that remedy having cured him, after severe illness, from the same complaints. 246

Foot to Fritter in Prison.

OTTAWA, April 10.—It is stated that the ten or twelve Indian prisoners remaining in the Manitoba penitentiary are all suffering seriously from the effects of the confinement and that they cannot live long unless released. Big Bear, among others, is breaking down. It is said, therefore, to be the government's intention to release the prisoners next week. This is in pursuance of the general policy of amnesty, but the release, it is stated, would not have taken place so soon, but for the reported danger to the lives of the Indians.

Philosophy of the Forehead.

Slow persons, with dull intellect, have very projecting foreheads.

Foreheads not entirely projecting, but having knotted protuberances, give vigor of mind and harsh, oppressive activity and perseverance.

Persons possessing poetic, ardent and sensitive natures not unfrequently have a blue vein forming the letter "Y" in an open, smooth and low forehead.

High, narrow, wholly unwrinkled foreheads, over which the skin is tightly drawn, show weakness of will-power and a lack of imagination or susceptibility.

Perpendicular foreheads, rather high and well rounded at the temples, rarely fails to go with solid understanding, power of concentration and love of study.

Perpendicular wrinkles between the eyebrows, when of equal lengths, signify anger, but if the wrinkles are of unequal lengths, they show deep thought and concentration.

A low, arched forehead, which is full at the temples, is indicative of sweetness and sensitiveness, and when combined with great fullness over the eyes gives an impressionable, idealistic nature.

A very retreating forehead which is low and shallow usually accompanies want of intellect. If slightly retreating, or what appears to be retreating from the fullness of the forms over the eyes, it signifies imagination, susceptibility, wit, and humor.

The Lost Restored.

—Ira McNeil, of Poplar Hill, Ont., states that his brother, aged 12, was afflicted with a terrible cold, from the effects of which he lost his voice. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam cured the cold and restored his voice in the most perfect manner. He says it cannot be exceeded as a remedy for coughs and colds. 246

The original boy cut—Cain's little crib.

A drawing-room—The dentist's office.

—Corns cause intolerable pain. Holloway's Corn Cure removes the trouble. Try it and see what an amount of pain is saved.

"A hopeless minority"—A barefoot boy in a hornet's nest.

Unprofitable paper mills—The dispute of pugilists in the sporting journals.

—The superiority of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is shown by its good effects on the children. Purchase a bottle and give it a trial.

There is a man in Troy, N.Y., named "Cassleek." It is seldom you meet a name like this.

During the confusion of Thursday's debate a liberal member, going to the cloak room, to get his overcoat, went to the wrong hook and put on one which was hanging where he thought he had left his own. A moment later, finding the coat unusually heavy, he sought for the cause and was astonished to find a revolver in each pocket. On investigation he found that he had gotten by mistake the garment of a Parnellite member.

—The sort of blood from which the constituents of vigorous bone, brain and muscle are derived is not manufactured by a stomach which is bilious or weak. Uninterrupted, thorough digestion may be insured, the secretive activity of the liver restored, and the system efficiently nourished by the aid of Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery and Dyspeptic Cure. It is the greatest blood purifier ever introduced into Canada.

—It may be only a trifling cold, but neglect it and it will fasten its fangs in your lungs, and you will soon be carried to an untimely grave. In this country we have sudden changes and must expect to have coughs and colds. We cannot avoid them, but we can effect a cure by using Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the medicine that has never been known to fail in curing coughs, colds, bronchitis and all affections of the throat, lungs and chest.

—Free and easy expectoration immediately relieves and frees the throat and lungs from viscid phlegm, and a medicine that promotes this is the best medicine to use for coughs, colds, inflammation of the lungs and all affections of the throat and chest. This is precisely what Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup is a specific for, and wherever it is used it has given unbounded satisfaction. Children like it because it is pleasant, adults like it because it relieves and cures the disease.

They Don't Go Much on Religion.

[One or two of the foregoing may be church goers, but the probabilities are it would trouble several of them to say themselves to what religious persuasion they belong. At any rate, the information is not given in their records, and, therefore, we have no means immediately available of ascertaining. The probabilities, however, are that Smith, Muldoon and Burke are Catholics and the remainder Protestants.]

Three Baseball Questions.

Editor World: (1) If Mr. Sleeman wins his suit against the Toronto and Hamilton baseball clubs will it hinder them playing in the International league? (2) Are the Torontos only going to have two catchers? (3) Have they signed all the men they are going to? A. F.

The Hamilton club has engaged Andy Somers, of Cleveland, a catcher with few superiors in America. He is a batter and a base runner of the first rank.—Hamilton Times.

The Ottawa baseball club has elected A. F. McIntyre, president, C. S. Neville, manager, and P. J. Fox secretary for the current year. The club expects to put a good team in the field shortly.

At a recent meeting of the St. Thomas Rifle club the present officers were re-elected as follows: W H Moore, president; Capt J Bradley, vice-president; Capt A W Graham, treasurer; Lieut T H Jones, secretary.

The date of the great purse at St. Louis, which it is hoped will bring Miss Woodford and Freeland together again, has been fixed for June 7. Ten thousand dollars will be given if those two famous flyers start.

A correspondent wants to know if, the weather permitting, some kind of a baseball match could not be fixed up for Good Friday. He thinks it would pay, and that at any rate it would be practice for the boys.

The Cobourg Baseball club has arranged with the steamer Norseman to carry visiting clubs at half price. Games have been arranged by the Cobourgs with the Rochesters, Utica and Toronto, of the International league.

Charles B. Thayer started from Hartford on Saturday for the Pacific slope on a bicycle. He is a brother of Mrs. McCray, author of "Wheels and Whims." Thayer will take the Erie canal to Buffalo. He will cross the Mississippi at Rock Island. He will return in the fall.

The Peterboro cricket club has elected these officers: President, Dr. Burnham; vice-president, Judge Weller; secretary, John E Hammond; committee on matches, H A Hammond, W B Rogers, W A Stratton and P E B Cooper, with Dr. Burnham and J E Hammond ex-officio members.

The Ontario Cricket association meet at the Walker house at 4 this afternoon. It is said that this is a holes-and-corner meeting, notice not having been sent officially to the clubs who are members of the association. The Torontos, who have not hitherto been members, will have delegates present, as they say, to see the fun.

Hanlan says that any regatta arranged by Peter Duryea he will have nothing to do with, and that he wants to be distinctly understood. Relative to Duryea's offer of $6000 for a regatta providing Beach, Hanlan and Ross compete, the Torontonian says he will go Peter one better—he will give a purse of $10,000 if the Prince of Wales will enter and row.

The St. Louis Sporting News of April 12 has a long letter giving the records of and describing the Toronto baseball team. The editor leads the letter thus, and The World sincerely hopes the first line will prove prophetic: "Canadian Champions. Sketches of the Men who are Bound to Get There, The Strong Points and Bright Prospects of the Toronto Giants."

The match between Malone, of Sydney, and O'Brien, of Melbourne, Australia, to run three races of 880 yards, 1000 yards and 1200 yards for $1000 and the championship of Australia, was decided at Sydney on Feb. 20. The first event was the half mile, and, although Malone fell upon one knee, he easily pulled off the race in 58 3-5 seconds. The next event, the "thousand," was won by Malone, who finished six yards ahead in 2 mins. 24 secs., which gave him the match.

On April 14, to commemorate its fourth anniversary, that great baseball authority and admirable all-round sporting paper, The Sporting Life, published at Philadelphia, will make its appearance in an enlarged form, and will be printed for the first time on its new Scott perfecting press. The Sporting Life is an excellent sample of what enterprise and good management can do towards making a cheap weekly paper a huge success. More power to the elbow of the Life and its Toronto correspondent, "Nomis."

Jem Smith, the English champion, having received no reply from Jack Burke, whose cartel he accepted for £1000 a side, has decided to accept Sullivan's challenge. The fight to be for £1000 a side and the championship of the world, and to take place on English soil. The proposal of the Boston boy that only a limited number of the friends of either man be allowed to witness the fight meets with Smith's entire approval, as he only wants a fair fight and no favor. Smith will allow Sullivan the amount he claims for expenses.—London Sporting Life, March 29.

The annual meeting of the Atlantic baseball club, held in their club rooms on Saturday night, was largely attended. Much enthusiasm was displayed over the prospects of the coming season, the club claiming to be able to present the strongest team in the senior amateur league. A new uniform of grey and red has been chosen. The following officers were elected for the year: President, ex-Ald. J. Downey; vice-president, James Towns; secretary-treasurer, Geo. S. Galloway; Committee, W. Dye, J. T. Fraser and J. Jackman.

Ewing & Co.'s baseball club, of the Manufacturers' league, met on Saturday at 55½ King street west to reorganize for the coming season. Mr. J. Halligan occupied the chair, Mr. G. Grove acting in the absence of the secretary-treasurer. After routine business the following officers were elected: Hon. pres., J. M. Ewing; president, G. Grove; sec.-treas., F. Mulholland; manager, R. J. Ewing; field captain, B. Currie; committee of management, R. Curzon, F. Tooze, H. Spry, D. Jack and F. Mulholland. The first match will be played on June 12.

Thos. Hooper, secretary of the Wentworth Fish and Game Protective association, informs the National association and sportsmen generally, that large quantities of quail, mallard and other ducks are being offered for sale in Hamilton, Ontario, contrary to the law now in effect, and apparently a dead statute. Many of the dealers claim their game to have come from Tennessee and Missouri, which states—so said by them—have no protection law. The falsity of the assertion should be placed upon record, and the sportsmen of the United States join hands with our Canadian brothers in suppressing the illegal and wanton traffic.—St. Louis Sporting News. There is a grand suggestion in the last sentence. Why should not the sportsmen of the two countries join together and form an international association for the protection of game and to secure amendments to the laws that should not only prohibit the exportation but also the importation of game out of season! This would be the most effective way of knocking out the money-grabbing dealers, and would at least aid very largely in the object game protective associations have in view. Consider it, ye gentlemen of the gun.

A proposition has been made, and will possibly be carried out, that in order to sustain the Canadian baseball league, Toronto should furnish a second professional baseball nine that will fill in dates when the first nine is out of the city. It might not be a paying speculation, but it would at least meet the circumstances and the worst the team could do could not be much more inglorious than the performance of the Guelphites in several of their matches at the close of last season. Under any circumstances it is strange that a man who professes to have the interests of baseball so much at heart as Mr. Sleeman should go to the extremes that he is doing. It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that his proceedings are scarcely so unselfish as he would have them appear.

SHOT WITH A RAMROD.

Extraordinary Case at the Simcoe Assizes—The Crown Counsel Assaulted.

SIMCOE, April 10.—The Norfolk assizes opened here yesterday before Mr. Justice O'Connor. Mr. John King, Berlin, was crown counsel. There was only one criminal case, the Queen vs. Joseph Smith, in which a true bill for the murder of one John Armstrong was found at the last assizes. Smith is a tall, powerfully built man about 64 years of age, is married, but has not been living with his wife for some years past. He owns a small farm in Walsingham, has been leading a reckless sort of life, and is pretty well known as "fighting Joe Smith." The evidence for the crown showed that Smith had, on different occasions, been urging Armstrong and his wife to go and live with him, but they always refused. On Sunday, Oct. 18 last, he went with a loaded gun to Wm. A. Root's house in Middleton, where the Armstrongs were living. He again urged them, and especially the woman, to go and live with him. They refused. He said they were mean and that he was mad, and remarked that he could easily drop a man a corpse with the gun. Armstrong told him he better not or he would get into trouble. Smith then levelled the gun at Armstrong, pulled the trigger twice, when the ramrod, which was in the gun barrel, was discharged into Armstrong's bowels, penetrating to the back. Smith pulled it out and asked Armstrong if he was hurt. He then went for a doctor. Armstrong died early on Monday morning. The defence was that the shooting was accidental in a scuffle. Smith was found guilty of manslaughter, and was sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary. He was defended by Colin McDougall, Q. C., and George Wells.

As Mr. King, the crown counsel, was passing out of the Norfolk house last evening he was accosted by John W. Ryerson, a Simcoe solicitor, who was one of the defendants in the riot case tried here at the last assizes. Ryerson called Mr. King aside, applied some abusive epithets to him and threatened him with personal violence. After some conversation between them Mr. King left Ryerson, who, it seems was angered at some things which occurred at the riot trial in which Mr. King conducted the case for the crown. It is said Ryerson's conduct will be brought either before the benchers or the judges as being offensively unprofessional.

DESTRUCTION BY AMERICANS.

How Our Brethren by the Sea Are Being Treated.

HALIFAX, N. S., April 12.—Telegrams from Shelburne county report American fishing schooners arriving on the coast almost daily and their captains making use of rather loud and defiant talk on the present position of the fishery question. In one case a crew has been shipped at Port le Bear. Others declare they will call for and purchase bait wherever and whenever they please, and say they will risk seizure, as they have been instructed by owners of vessels to do so. At Clark's Harbor yesterday a boat's crew from the Gloucester schooner Jacob M. Calderwood cut and rained a number of lobster traps set in the bay and belonging to native fishermen. They were noticed at the work by people on shore, but were not suspected to be engaged in wanton destruction and were not interfered with. Their schooner was anchored at the mouth of the harbor and early this morning she set sail and left the neighborhood. The fact that the outrage had been perpetrated was only discovered when men from the shore went out to-day to attend to the trawls, when they were found to have been almost entirely destroyed.

Mr. Mowat Commits Himself.

CHICAGO, April 12.—Mr. Mowat, premier of Ontario, who is in the city on his way to California, expresses the satisfaction of the liberals of Ontario over Mr. Gladstone's scheme for Irish home rule. He says home rule has been a great success in Canada, and that the liberals of his province endorse the demand of the Irish for the enjoyment of that privilege in Ireland. Home rule once conceded can never be taken from the Irish, and every step toward the establishment of this principle in Ireland cannot but be just one step ahead. From the success of home rule in Canada may be argued its success in Ireland.

Scholars on Strike.

TROY, N. Y., April 12.—About half of the male scholars at the eleventh ward school struck for shorter hours this afternoon and refused to continue their studies. They demanded only one session a day, and that to be from 8 o'clock until noon. The boys held an open-air mass meeting, and then procuring laths and sticks swarmed through the neighboring streets threatening violence to pupils who did not join them. The reserve from the police station was sent to the scene to give whatever protection was necessary.

A Ten Thousand Dollar Planing Mill Gone.

STRATFORD, Ont., April 12.—The planing mill of Mr. Thos. Orr was totally destroyed by fire this afternoon. The fire broke out about 4 o'clock and originated in the drying kiln. Loss about $10,000; no insurance.

Jack Frost Conquered.

—Although during the cold season "Jack Frost" gets in his work lively, yet Hagyard's Yellow Oil beats him every time curing chilblains, frost bites and all their painful effects. It also cures croup, sore throat, rheumatism and most painful affections. 246

Real Estate.

—Persons having real estate to sell are requested to leave description with Eager & Faulkner, 21 Adelaide street east. If desired, they will be published in their spring list free of expense. No charge is made unless sale is effected through them. 246x

Never Smoke a Bad One.

—Lots of people do it, and don't know it. A bad cigar is not only distasteful to the smoker, but it injures the system. W. R. Dobson's "Brave Boys" and "General Middleton" brands are noted for their purity and excellence. 246x

—If you are contemplating making a trip to Europe, remember the loss of the steamship Oregon and invest a few dollars in a policy in the Accident Insurance company of North America. Medland & Jones, Equity Chambers, 20 Adelaide street east, are the general agents, and their telephone number is 1067. y246

—To those whose occupations prevent them from having their teeth attended to during the day can do so by calling at F. H. Sefton's dental office, cor. of Queen and Yonge, whose office will be open hereafter till 9 p.m. All branches attended to. 246x

To Old Country People.

—They flock from the north, south, east and west to have their fine old country watches skilfully repaired by competent workmen at the Toronto Horological workshops, 360 Queen street west (360). 246

—Stanton's Sunbeams—beautiful little photographs on tinted mounts—$1 per dozen. 184 Yonge street. All other sizes at lowest prices for first-class work. 246

The Ottawa Journal says that: "The apparent intention of the militia department to issue the medals sent out for the Northwest volunteers by the English government, without the names of the volunteers being engraven thereon, causes considerable comment, and that of an unpleasant character, in militia and other circles."

A man giving his name as John W. Bird has been representing himself in London as a Baptist missionary who had been robbed of $85 on the cars while on his way to California. On the strength of his statements he collected quite a little sum from the London Baptists. This money John W. proceeded to "blow in" at a hotel, which coming to the ears of one of his benefactors procured his arrest.

The Sarnia Sun says: "The last assizes before the Scott act comes in force have been held in this county and there was not one criminal case on the boards. As a mark of the purity of the county Judge Rose was presented with a pair of white gloves. It is well for people to bear this fact in mind; not that we expect the Scott act will be the cause of criminal cases at future assizes, but if there are no criminal cases at future assizes everybody will be sure to give the Scott act credit for it."

The Mikado.

A Bewitching Beauty.

I have beaux by the score, and can always get more,
For with me they can all out a swell;
My form is complete, my style very neat,
I am known as "Toronto Belle."
The gents whom I meet, declare me so sweet,
They must kiss and caress me always;
So if you would try, just come up and buy
Your cigars at A. R. McKay's.

Lace Curtains.

—A big boom is now on at the corner of Yonge and Alice. Messrs. McKendry & Co. having purchased a tremendous drive in lace curtains, they are selling a really good pair of curtains, for 50 cents and 75 cents a pair, and in the better class goods the prices are ridiculously low. All ladies should go to Waterloo House, 278 Yonge, south corner Alice. 246x

Compelled to Yield.

—Mrs. Salter, of Franktown, Ontario, was for four years afflicted with a fever sore that baffled all treatment, until she tried Burdock Blood Bitters. Four bottles cured her. All chronic sores and humors of the blood must yield to B.B.B. 246

—It was a summer's evening,
Old Caspar's work was done,
And he before his cottage door
Was sitting in the sun,
Before him playing on the green
His little grandchild Whilelmine.

What a beautiful picture; and yet there might be hundreds of them if Toronto's Caesars bought their houses from Grant & Webster, 60 King east. 402x

They Take the Lead.

Upholstering is one of the fine arts. To be a good upholsterer, means that a man must not only be a good workman, but that he must have a certain amount of good taste. T. F. Cummings & Co., 349 Yonge street, take the lead in Toronto. They turn out none but first class work, work that cannot be excelled. Ladies' work made up to order. Drawing-room suites a specialty. 246x

—Mr. Gladstone's speech introducing his scheme for home rule is a grand oratorical effort for a man of his years. Whether he can carry it through both houses is a very doubtful point and one which forecasters fight shy of. Consummated facts are the only sure things on earth. It is a fact that Strathearn, 179 Yonge street, is selling a beautiful cornice pole, all complete, for 50c. 246x

Choice Black Teas.

—Direct from Foochow. No secret blend about them, but choice fresh teas, the finest imported, sold just as we receive them at 25, 30, 40, 50, 60 and 75 cents per lb. Marx & Co., 280 Queen street west, near Beverley. edx

—Hello! Gus you look happy, what's up! Well, Fred, I'll tell you: That dude that has so much cash called on Jennie the other night, and her mother got him to help her put up some pictures, and he drove the nails in and broke the plaster off their new walls, and she got mad with him and Jennie told me of it. I telephoned R. J. Licence & Co., cor. Bay and Adelaide, and they sent a man up and put up room moulding at my expense (and it only cost six dollars), and now I'm solid with the old lady. She thinks I've a great head. edx
