THE BRAIN (from a photograph.) It Healthy Condition. With Paresis Lesions.

There are many well known men confined in our Asylums who but a short time ago were prominent among our business and social circles.

Why are they there?

Paresis!

Did it come on at once?

Not at all. It was a gradual but positive growth. They overtaxed nature. The drain on their vitality, their nerve powers, their brain tissue, was too great, and they gradually but surely sank under it. The things they did to bring this sad end about are precisely the same things that are being done by thousands of men and women to-day. It is not necessary to name them. They all end disastrously unless checked or regulated.

Prof. Phelps, of Dartmouth College, knew this fully when he began his experiments which resulted in the discovery of the wonderful Paine's Celery Compound. He realized that paresis (consumption of the brain) was our great National weakness. He knew that the brain and nervous system must be fortified to meet the great strains which modern life bring upon it. He saw that men were becoming debilitated and women weakened by the pressure and demands of life, and he sought and discovered the remedy Paine's Celery Compound, if rightly taken, will renew the brain and build up nerve tissues as fast as they become exhausted. It is not a narcotic. It contains no drugs, no nostrums. It is perfectly pure. It is absolutely harmless. The high character of its discoverer guarantees this, and the indorsement of the medical and chemical Professions prove it.

Provincial Exhibition.

The Provincial Exhibition opened in this city on Wednesday last, and was continued on Thursday under favorable auspices. The throng of visitors was very large, and the Exhibition was first class in every particular. At 11 o'clock on Wednesday, the Lieutenant Governor and Suite arrived at the Drill Shed, when Senator Haythorne, on behalf of the Exhibition Commissioners, read the following

ADDRESS.

To His Honor Lieutenant Governor Jedediah S. Carvell, &c., &c., &c.

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR HONOR.

The undersigned, on behalf of the Board of Commissioners appointed by your Predecessor in Council to conduct the Provincial Exhibition, have much pleasure in congratulating your Honor on your appointment to the position of Lieutenant Governor of this Province, and on your assumption of the important duties connected therewith. Hopes were entertained in the early part of the year that the Exhibition of this year would be held under the new arrangement in the grounds of the Charlottetown Driving and Industrial Exhibition Company, but though great efforts have been made, and large sums expended in fencing, grading, and otherwise improving the recently acquired property of the company, yet it has been found impossible to complete a building of the character and dimensions required for Exhibition purposes during the present year. There are, however, good reasons for believing that the Province and its Capital will soon enjoy the use of buildings and grounds in all respects suitable to the purposes contemplated. Meantime it may be useful to contrast the past and present position and future prospects of this Province in connection with its agricultural and industrial pursuits.

The various governments of the Island, before and since the establishment of Responsible Government, made constant and liberal efforts (in proportion to the means at their disposal) to improve the breeds of all domestic animals. They imported horses for the saddle, the carriage, and the various purposes of agriculture, and thus was laid the foundation of the superior stock the Province now possesses. So also with regard to the cattle, the favorite breed in these early days was the Ayrshire and somewhat later the Shorthorn. The public has been indebted to private enterprise for the introduction of breeding stock, both of Ayrshires and Shorthorns, as also the Channel Island breeds so widely and justly celebrated for the richness and abundance of their milk, of the Holsteins for their larger size as well as their milk producing qualities, also of the Herefords, an old established stock in the country from which they take their name, long celebrated for the excellent quality of their meat and their general perfection of form, the same may be said of the black-polled breeds of Scotland recently imported here.

As to sheep, they still form an important feature in the agriculture of the Province, and though the demand for mutton in our home market is less than it was formerly, yet there is a good steady demand in New Brunswick and the United States. At the early Exhibitions the Leicester sheep was most in demand, its fleece was well adapted to domestic manufactures, and its carcass in those days of lean beef was not found too fat for the more robust appetites of our hard-worked predecessors. At the present day pure south downs and the kindred Shropshire, Oxford, Hampshire and other strains, are most sought after, their fleeces are approved by the manufacturers and their meat by consumers. But the undersigned deem it incumbent on themselves to offer words of warning to their fellow countrymen against shortening their stock of sheep, those great improvers of the soil, exterminators of the ox-eye daisy and of other injurious weeds, able to shift for themselves later in the fall and earlier in the spring, and thriving better during a dry summer like the past, when cattle have been seriously affected by the extreme heat and drouth.

Swine, like all the other domestic animals, are now bred on a more scientific and judicious system than formerly. It is now held that swine well managed should make at least one pound weight per day, so that they may easily be prepared for market. Thus with stock of all kinds already highly improved our Province is in a position to enter into competition with breeders in the other Provinces and in the United States. And it will be in order to remind the agriculturists of the necessity for providing ample supplies of nourishing food, so as to keep their animals at all seasons in a progressing and paying condition. Though it be true that the lives of our domestic animals for several months in each year are completely artificial, yet for that very reason farmers should see to it that the available resources are utilized. Many marshes might be dyked and the hay cut and saved by the same horse-power machinery used on the uplands. The hay thus obtained is neither salt grass or marsh hay, but good, tall, fine-stemmed natural grass, and now that pressed hay has become an important article of export, much larger quantities thereof might be spared to meet the farmers' obligations and its place supplied to some extent in the domestic economy of the farm by the improved dyked meadow hay thus obtained. The growth of fodder plants for use in time of drouth, and indeed in seasons of greater abundance, will be found very profitable obviating the loss of condition and milk in such seasons as the past. In some respects southern corn as a fodder plant seems well suited to this climate. No fear need be entertained of making the ground too rank. Sown in rows two feet to two feet and a half apart, well tilled in early summer by hand and horse hoe, the fortunate agriculturist who possesses an acre or two thus treated will find himself the possessor of a solid mass of green food, ten or twelve feet high by the first of September, and relished by stock of all kinds. In other countries two bushels of vetches, one bushel of wheat, and one bushel of horse beans per acre have been found to answer well, but in this country beans are not unfrequently destroyed by an aphis, and in a matter of so great importance as the summer and winter feeding of stock we should as far as possible avoid risks of failure. Nevertheless this seeding of wheat, beans and vetches, has been approved on the dairy farms of the Alesbury Dairy Company—the wheat and beans are valuable in their unripened state as fodder, and serve beside to hold up the heavy vetches. Such a seeding though not recommended for summer use, would, it is considered, answer well to succeed corn fodder, which the first frost of autumn destroys. This address would be incomplete were no reference made to cereals which are generally held to be the crowning glory of the agricultural year, and it is within the knowledge of the undersigned that farmers are much discouraged by the low price of grain. Probably your Honor's personal experience as an exporter of grain may have led you to the conclusion, that prices above the current market rates can only be obtained by producing samples of superior weight and quality, or shortening supply by holding back in expectation of a rise. The former course is to be recommended, and is available to the skilful enterprising farmer; the latter, practicable only for men in easy circumstances, and even they will often find themselves losers in the long run by holding for a rise. Are we then to regard the partial failure of our grain crops, the rusted stem, the ear lightened of its proper burden by the ravages of the insect progeny of the fly or wheat midge?

Let those who are inclined to despond because of the partial failure of the wheat and oat crops of 1889, remember that problems as different have ere now been solved by scientific research. Counsel should be taken with the managers of the Experimental Farms, particularly with Professor Saunders, to whom it would be a labor of love to devise and apply remedies suitable to damage so serious. But though Experimental Farms are established over most regions of this continent yet their managers must be supplied with reliable data before they set themselves to devise the proper remedies. Are these disheartening failures of wheat and oats due to poverty of the soil or to climatic influences, or to simply the action of insect or fungoid ravages? Set before the Professors an exact description of the land which yielded a satisfactory return of these cereals; it had probably been well manured as to quality, it was dry, with a good exposure, and gave satisfactory returns. But what about those other fields, where the juices of the wheat which should have swelled the ripening ear, were sucked out by the maggot or the wheat midge, leaving the farmer empty hulls instead of the full kernel expected.

Perhaps close investigation might lead to the conclusion that the poor crops were starved by the scarcity of those mineral substances, said to be essential to the production of healthy grain as nails are to the building of a house. There may have been manuring in both cases, in the successful one the manure derived from full feed stock no waste being incurred from exposure or other causes; in the other case the manure may have been derived from straw-fed cattle, and no care taken to prevent loss by the washing of rain water, and melting of snow, nor help being given to the land by the use of artificial fertilizers, the rotation of crops being also disregarded.

Can no mechanical aid be suggested to the farmer, by which obnoxious insects can be dispensed by spraying, or destroyed by poisonous liquids or powders. The undersigned ask your Honor's permission to illustrate this subject by very remote and by very recent experience. The turnip crops of Great Britain have, during the last century, if not longer, been frequently destroyed on their appearance above ground, by the jumping beetle of which we know something in this Island Province. Large rewards have been offered for the discovery of an efficient remedy by destroying or driving off these pests. But no such remedy was discovered till last year when an effective spraying machine was tried at one of the Model Farms in the West of England, and approved. The same or a similar machine lately met with a welcome reception at the Paris Exhibition, and it is hoped that by its aid the disease affecting the vines may be arrested, and the machine be also used for spreading powered fertilizing substances.

True, Your Honor, in these days of active research, a century will not be required to devise efficient protection for our cereals, against both their insect and fungoid enemies. Nevertheless, though we may have to acknowledge some partial failures, yet in this year of our Lord 1889, we may safely claim great advances in rural affairs. What abundance of delicious fruits are now produced at home. The Emperor, the Duchess of Oldenburg, the Gravenstein, and many other varities of apples. The cultivated strawberry, the bush berries, the culinary vegetables, the flowers, the poultry, and eggs, the butter and cheese; not one of those is a new industry, but how much more widely and successfully practiced to-day than when the first General Exhibition was held in this building 22 years ago. As a subject for pleasing contemplation, and for the encouragement of the despondent ones, it may be asked. Who can tell how much these improvements contribute to the health, the enjoyment, the culture, and the riches of this community?

Add to these encouraging circumstances the recent victories won at Moncton by the owners of Island horses, cattle and sheep, and last not least of Island orchardists, competing with a fruit producing Province of the highest reputation. Considering all these things, we may safely assert that the Island Province is fairly abreast of her two Maritime sisters in stock breeding, and rural economy.

Wishing Your Honor and your amiable Lady all happiness, and prosperity, the undersigned, on behalf of this Board, respectfully submit the forgoing.

HENRY LONGWORTH.

His Honor replied extempore. He thanked the Commissioners for their congratulations, and in turn congratulated them on the fine day and the magnificent success of the Exhibition, which was, he said, far beyond that of any former year.

Cheers were then given for the Queen, the Lieutenant Governor, and the ladies. Then, after some remarks by A. McNeill, Esq., the Exhibition was declared open. Following is the

ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

THE GLACIER HOTEL, Selkirk Mountains, Sept. 20.—Stayed a few days at Vancouver, sketching the big trees of Stanley Park, the beautiful inlet with its islands and mountain-backed shores, also rambled considerably through the adjacent forest and inspected the efforts of the settlers on the different roads, made by the municipalities. I was much puzzled to find that comparatively little land is at present being cleared and cultivated when its capabilities are considered. In fact when we remember the climate, the good market for all products and the comparatively low cost of the land to the settler, one would naturally expect to see a great rush for it by emigrants, especially in view of such crazes as the Oklahoma boom. Such is not the case, however, although there is a steadily increasing influx of settlers going on, and there can be no reasonable doubt as to their ultimate success and profit. One often hears the question. "What is going to keep up Vancouver? It has no country behind it." This is a great mistake. There is no more promising region for agriculture in the world than that which will eventually pay tribute to this "Terminal City." The Fraser delta, with its immense meadows, its forest flats and sloping uplands, with the sheltering mountain ranges beyond, forming a plain nearly 90 miles long, and varying from 100 to one mile wide, having as yet but little cultivation and capable of such rich yields of fruit, grain meat and other wealth. Then, further up the line of railway, after leaving the Fraser canyon, is the broad valley of the Thompson river, with its ranches and the rapidly growing town of Kamloops, to say nothing of the many branching valleys to the north and south. Even Vancouver Island will be sure to contribute its share of support to Vancouver city, when, as it is rapidly doing, the town becomes the overshadowing metropolis of the Province, and, while Victoria must still grow, and, indeed, will benefit by the rise of its rival in many ways, there is no doubt but, as a centre of resorts, the great seaport will derive much commerce from the island itself. The town of Nanaimo with its four of five thousand inhabitants, rapidly being added to, the rich farming lands adjacent and to the north are really within easy reach of Vancouver, and, as improved steamboat lines will certainly soon be at command, the people will be sure to find their way to the mainland capital for business and pleasure. Still, it would be well if more efficient means were taken to facilitate and encourge the settlement and clearing of the forest lands, which, though here and there heavily timbered, are not, all things considered, more difficult to subdue than those of the older provinces. Indeed, the climate considered, the advantages are rather on British Columbia's side. The foregoing, too, takes no account of the great mineral wealth of the country. Prices and cost of living are at present high, but that is, perhaps rather an advantage. The contemptuous, however, of the whole trading community for coppers and five-cent coinage, while indicating a state of prosperity, seems to the writer to be founded on a false basis. It is really a petty trick, chiefly on the part of liquor vendors, to extort a few extra cents from the public, and contemptible accordingly. The sail from Vancouver to Victoria in the fine steamship Islander was surpassingly beautiful. I know of nothing to compare with it. The Georgian Bay or Thousand Island scenery certainly fall far behind it. The maritime portion of this saltwater trip with its lovely islands varied with pasture, rock and forest, and its grand distant mountain backgrounds, baffles description by pen or pencil. The scenery of the island itself is something very different from American landscape generally, and affords new sensations to the lover of the picturesque. The weather of late has been wonderfully fine, though now we are having snatches of rain and sunshine interspersed, terribly tantalizing to the painter, both from the unattainable beauty of the effects so rapidly passing, as well as their great difficulty of representation. At present Mr. Bell Smith is the only other Canadian artist here, though Mr. T. M Martin is at present on his way homeward. We have, however, the distinguished companionship of the great American landscape painter, Mr. Bierstadt, whose presence is quite a boon both artistically and socially. He expresses himself as delighted with our scenery, and shows a wonderful energy in seizing every opportunity for studying it. His sketches, too, made on the Alaska trip are very interesting and unique. He had the good luck to escape scot free from the wreck of the steamer Ancon. Hoping that we may revive some interest in this account by the exhibition of our pictures during the coming season, and that they may not prove disappointing, I am, M. Matheus. R. C. A., in the Empire.

The Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company has pleasure in announcing two new appointments to its agency staff on the Island, in Mr. Donald McKenzie, of Charlottetown, for Queen's, and Mr. Samuel B. McCallum, Head St. Peter's Bay, for King's. Mr. A. F. McLean, Brae, Lot 9, is agent for Prince. Parties desiring either Life or Accident Insurance would do well to consult either before insuring elsewhere. Manager of agencies in Maritime Provinces, J. B. Paton, Halifax, N. S. Headquarters Toronto. President Rt. Hon. Sir John A Macdonald.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS.

As the year of most of our subscribers ends about this time, we beg to call their attention to the advantage of paying now, as they will be granted receipts up to the 31st December next, or, in the case of those who pay in advance, up to the end of 1890; thus receiving the paper for the balance of this year free.

As we are desirous of affording our subscribers every facility for paying subscriptions, we have made arrangements by which they will be called upon in the undermentioned places as follows, other announcements will be made from time to time:

Subscribers at Morell, Morell Rear, St Peter's and neighboring districts will, within the next few days, be called upon by Mr. John T. O'Brien; our friends in Souris and vicinities, as well as in the portions of King's County, East of Souris, will be called upon by a well known representative of the HERALD. A representative of this office will visit our subscribers in Summerside and neighboring districts within the next few days. Our city subscribers will also shortly be called upon.

We trust our friends in these different places will be prepared to do business with our representatives with as little delay as possible. As it may sometimes happen that the master of the house may be absent when our agent calls, we would consider it a great favor if matters would be so arranged that those at home could do the business, so that he would not be obliged to call a second time. We trust, now, that in all places those who travel in the interests of the HERALD will receive a cordial welcome from our friends.

FARM MORTGAGES IN THE WEST.

THOUGH Canadian farmers are told of the greater prosperity of their fellows across the line, and of the urgent need of reciprocity, the reports of deserted farms, of wholesale foreclosing of mortgages and of actual distress among the farmers of the West are becoming more and more frequent. The latest in this line is from Kansas, being the failure of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of that State This Company had loaned about three million dollars on farm security in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado and Dakota, and the immediate cause of the failure was the inability to pay a debt of about three hundred thousand dollars, and only one thousand in the treasury. The properties upon which the money of the company has been loaned may have been good security some years ago, but an investigation shows that much of it is now worthless. Many of the borrowers have left their places, and the buildings are deserted and in ruins. This is now a common story from the West. When high prices prevailed the settlers on the virgin soil prospered. But the prices of farm products in the West have shrunk below the paying point, and as fast as the virgin soil is robbed of its wealth, the settlers are forced to leave. With oats at twenty cents per bushel, other grains in proportion, and ranch beeves weighing twelve hundred pounds marketed at eighteen dollars per head, it does not pay to keep the soil up. In the face of facts like these how silly it is to tell Canadian farmers that reciprocity with the United States is the one thing needed to make them prosperous and happy. —Moncton Times.

PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION.

As may be noticed, a great portion of our space this week is taken up with the prize list and other matters in connection with the Provincial Exhibition, held in this city on the 2nd and 3rd inst. Taken altogether, the Exhibition was first-class, surpassing, in many respects, that of any former year.

In the course of his reply to the address, presented to him by the Exhibition Commissioners, His Honor the Lieutenant Governor referred to the excellence of the County Exhibitions, and the good conduct of the people attending them. He considered that no less than four thousand persons were present on the Exhibition grounds at Georgetown, and, out of all that number, he thought there were not more than ten or twelve who forgot themselves The conduct at the Summerside Exhibition also was excellent. Such order and conduct at gatherings of this kind are in the highest degree commendable.

The exhibition within the drill shed was not so large as we have seen there; but the exhibits were of a high order, and were arranged with a good deal of taste. The first thing that attracted the attention of the visitor as he entered was the exhibition of fruit, displayed on a table extending across the building, in front of the main entrance. The show of apples was really magnificent, and should set at rest any doubt as to this Province's capability for producing this fruit. About three hundred different samples were shown, and the judges must have found themselves puzzled in awarding the prizes. The exhibits of pears, plums and grapes were also highly creditable. After this, down along the building came the tables on which were displayed the flowers, fine arts, textile fabrics, etc

The grain exhibit was scarcely as large as on some former years, and in the case of the wheat the weight fell some pounds short of that shown at Georgetown. The potatoes were excellent, but the other tubers, we fancied, were not so large as some we have seen there.

The horse and cattle show was, without any doubt, much ahead of that of any former year. There were two hundred and six entries of horses, exclusive of foals. These latter would probably bring the number up to two hundred and fifty. The largest exhibitors of horses were the Messrs Dockendorff, of North River, who showed no less than seventeen, and captured several prizes, as will be seen by reference to the list.

Among the cattle, the herd of pure bred Galloways shown by Hon. D. Ferguson attracted much attention. They consisted of four cows, four calves and a bull, all jet black and hornless. There was, of course, no class in which they could enter to compete for prizes. Mr. Brow's herd was also much admired. There was a large show of agricultural implements of different kinds.

Among those exhibits deserving of mention were the samples of inlaid work shown by Mr. Joseph Perry, of this city; the buggy tops, seats and suitings shown by Messrs. Norton & Fennell; the soap from the factory of Beer & Sons, and the handsome handmade boots and shoes exhibited by Mr. J. H. Bell.

The most interesting feature in connection with the show was the horse parade, which took place on Thursday forenoon. The different classes were separately brought into the ring and paraded before the assembled multitude, and many were the expressions of admiration heard while those noble, symmetrical and spirited animals pranced on the green sward. After the evidence here given, no one could leave those grounds with any other than the highest opinion of Prince Edward Island as a horse raising Province.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE re-ballots in France on Sunday resulted in the return of about 120 Republicans, in a total of 183. The Boulangists are deserting his standard and now style themselves Revisionists.

THE Cambria Iron Works at Johnstown will have a new steel mill ready by January and will then turn out 1000 tons of steel rails a day. Pretty good business from a town that was completely destroyed.

INFORMATION has been received at the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, that Asiatic cholera is epidemic in Turkey, Greece, and some ports of Hungary, and that the disease is working its way towards central Europe.

THE Convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers opened at Ottawa on the 1st inst. Sheriff Sweetland, chairman of the local reception committee, presided. Sir John Macdonald was present and in a very pleasant speech welcomed the visitors.

THE Farmer's Review of Chicago reports that the potato crop of 1889 will probably exceed that of any previous year in the United States. The acreage is less than last year. The total crop is estimated at 233,700,000 bushels, which exceeds last year's crop by over 17,000,000 bushels.

THE Fishery Commission who were sent some months ago to Europe by the Dominion Government to enquire into the state of the herring fisheries have concluded their labors and return to Canada by the steamship Sardinian, which left Liverpool on 3rd October. They visited England, Scotland and Ireland during their tour of investigation.

THE International Congress opened at Washington on the 2nd inst., and elected James G. Blaine president and appointed some committees. The Congress then accepted an invitation for an excursion through the country at the expense of the United States and adjourned till Nov. 18th. The delegates then attended a reception and were lunched at the White House by the President and Mrs. Harrison.

A SPECIAL cable to a Toronto morning paper, dated London, Oct., 4th, says: "Mr. Shaughnessey, assistant general manager of the Canada Pacific railway, states that the company has just closed a contract with the Barrow ship building company for three steamers of six thousand tons each for the Pacific service to be delivered within a year. Regarding the Atlantic service the company has not yet decided whether to run the service itself or transfer it to a new company.

THE court of inquiry into the recent disaster to H. M. S. Lily, by which the ship became a total loss and seven of her crew were drowned, at Point Armour, coast of Labrador, concluded its sitting at Halifax on the 3rd inst. From the evidence adduced, the court found that the captain (Russell) and the 1st lieutenant (Hewitt) were to blame, and they were reprimanded and dismissed from their ship. The meaning of this is that had not the ship become a total wreck, the judgment of the court would have been the same.

ONE of the leading public men of Belgium, Hon. A. D. Devoe, Attorney General and procurer of the king, arrived at Quebec on the 2nd inst. He was accompanied to that city by Mr. Chas. Le Boutiller, of Gaspe Basin. In conversation Mr. Le Boutiller said a large number of capitalists of Belgium have selected as a site a large township near the Basin of Gaspe. This movement has to a great extent been entrusted to Mr. Le Boutiller and the Catholic cure of Gaspe, who is native of Belgium and a highly talented man. The procurer, in company with Mr. Le Boutiller, made an inspection of the country and the result has been most satisfactory.

THE "fierce light that beats upon a throne" is not seldom surpassed by the searching criticism which follows a monarch into retirement. The critics of ex-President Cleveland in his own party are again feasting upon the frailties of his Administration. After the election last year Democratic disappointment found voice in utterance of this sort, but it was deemed the natural outcome of a defeat. Their revival now, however, bears the appearance of a serious movement to resist the renomination of Mr. Cleveland in 1892. The Chicago Herald, an influential organ of the Democracy of the West, and a sturdy supporter of the Cleveland Administration in the campaign, indulges in very outspoken language, and declares that in the late Government there was too much Cleveland and too little Democracy. Republican criticism carried more weight than Democratic, and the regime "called into places of great conspicuity some of the foremost donkeys of the age." Mr. Cleveland's integrity is not questioned, but his personality must have had objectionable characteristics fatal to complete success in a political field where the candidate is perhaps of equal importance with the platform. What this new Democratic "kick" presages, it is too early yet to foresee.—Empire.

THERE is one politician in Virginia who understands what his party requires of him. He has the true Canadian Grit idea that all the wickedness and misery in existence comes from the opposite ranks. This individual is one Captain Nightingill, whose residence is given as Alexandria, Va., and whose sentiments are, correctly or incorrectly, thus set forth: 'I think the cause of the heavy loss of life by water and the extraordinary loss of property by fire in this country during the present year is due entirely to the fact that the Republican party is in control of the nation's affairs. There never has been a Republican administration within my recollection that has not been attended by great loss of life and property, and the great Ruler of all things has never failed to express His indignation of Republican control on inauguration day by giving such a day for the ceremonies as would make a Laplander ashamed of the party." Such views are of more than local importance, for they justify the wisdom of a majority of the people in keeping in opposition the party consenting to retain persons of this kind in its bosom. We have the same order of politicians here, and we take care to keep them in the cold shades, too.—Empire.

CIRCUIT RACES.

OPENING OF THE CHARLOTTETOWN DRIVING PARK.

The Charlottetown Driving Park was formally opened to the public on Wednesday of last week, when the last of the Maritime Circuit races took place. The day was fine and, notwithstanding the heavy rain of the previous night, the track was in very good condition. The attendance was not very large, but the order was excellent, and everything in connection with the two day's performances was admirably carried out, reflecting the highest credit on the management of the Park. They have, indeed, reason to congratulate themselves on the success which crowned the opening sports.

Shortly before 2 o'clock Lieutenant-Governor Carvell formally opened the Park in a brief speech; Mayor Haviland followed, complimenting the management on the success which attended their efforts in fitting up such a place for the development and improvement of horses, for the breeding of which the Island had long been famed. C. C. Gardiner, President of the company, made a few remarks, when cheers were given for the Lieut.-Governor and the directors. The Citizen's Band played "God Save the Queen," and the races were called.

The officers of the track were:

Judge—J. J. Davies, Charlottetown; James McLeod, Summerside; James Tuplin, New Annan.

Starter—J. J. Davies.

Distance Judge—John Henderson.

Timers—C. H. Dingwell and James McLeod.

Clerk—C. E. McKinnon.

THREE MINUTE CLASS.

The starters in this class were Kittie C., owned and driven by J. Churchill, Lowell, Mass.; Whistler, owned and driven by George Essory, Charlottetown; Neptune, owned by A. A. McKenzie, Cavendish, driven by P. S. Brown, and Nellie, owned and driven by Newton Lea, Truro. This race was won in three straight heats by the following horses: Kittie C. 1st; Whistler 2nd, and Neptune 3rd. Best time 2.39.

2.37 CLASS.

The starters in this race were Melbourne King, from Truro, N. S., Maud C., from St. John, N. B., and Maud M., owned by L. B. Miller, driven by P. S. Brown, Charlottetown. It was won by Maud C., Melbourne King and Maud M., in the order named. Best time 2.38.

THREE YEAR OLD CLASS.

Lady Chief, owned by Robert Fitzsimmons, Long River, driven by R. Steele; Chartreuse, owned in Amherst, N. S., and Hermit, owned and driven by A. N. Large, Ch'town, were the entrics for this class. Hermit was distanced in the first heat; and the race, interrupted on account of a heavy shower of rain, was not finished till the following day. Lady Chief took first money, Chartreuse taking second. Best time 2.45½.

SECOND DAY.

The attendance on Thursday was much larger than on the previous day. The track was first class, and the same good order prevailed. The Citizen's Band attended as on Wednesday, and discoursed sweet music at intervals.

2.45 CLASS.

After the finish of the three year old class the 2.45 was called. The entries were Mistake, Ratcatcher, Whistler, Kittie C., Minnie Grey and Maud M. Ratcatcher and Minnie Grey were distanced in the first heat, and Maud M. was drawn after the second heat. The race was won by Kittie C., Whistler, and Mistake, in the order named. Best time 2.36.

2.28 CLASS.

The entries for this class were Maud C., St. John; Bronze Chief, St. John; and Melbourne King, Truro. Maud C. took first money in three straight heats, beautifully trotted; Bronze Chief pushed her hard and was a good second, with Melbourne King third. Best time 2.22½.

RUNNING RACE.

Three entries were made for this race, viz: Tippo and Ida Grey, of Sussex, and Hopeful, of Moncton. Ida Grey was very lame and was only allowed to make one heat. The first place was taken by Hopeful in two hotly contested heats, Tippo being a good second. Best time 1.52.

Besides these races, mile and half mile exhibition races were given by a two year old, owned by J. C. Mahon, of Truro, N. S.; the pacing stallion, Westlawn, of Summerside, and a horse owned by a man named Jackson, from abroad.

Thus ended the first trotting contests at the Charlottetown Driving Park. They were, without any doubt, in every sense a success.

DEATH FROM POISONED CONFECTIONERY.

On the 2nd inst. Mrs. McRae, wife of Rev. Dr. McRae, of St. John, N. B., died suddenly. On the following day the citizens were horrified to hear it whispered about that she had met her death by being poisoned. It appears that a box of confectionery was received by mail, by Mrs. McRae on Tuesday, and addressed to Rev. Donald McRae, city. She opened it and ate some. An examination of the candy afterwards proved beyond all doubt that the confectionery contained strychnine in it, and a post-mortem examination showed this was the cause of her death. The following evening it was discovered that packages similar were received by Rev. J. DeSayers, Rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, and Rev. J. T. Dienstadt, pastor of the Exmouth St. Methodist Church, but both escaped the consequences of eating it in a strange manner. Mr. Deinstadt had opened his box and was about giving some to his children when his wife had a presentiment that something was wrong with it, and would not allow the children to touch it. Mr. Sayers in opening his put a piece of the candy in his mouth and immediately discovered a very bitter taste and spat it out, thinking some one had been endeavoring to play a joke on him. He was prompted, however, to show the candy to Dr. Harding and that gentleman at once said there was strychnine in it. The box of confectionery, like the one sent to Rev. Dr. McRae, was then handed over to Rev. Dr. Best, and he reported that there was enough strychnine in either box to poison a whole family. It was late at night when these facts leaked out sufficiently to be relied on, but the news soon spread through the city and created great excitement. Coroner Berryman empanelled a jury

LOCAL AND OTHER ITEMS.

Five persons were drowned in the Ribne, Germany, on the 22nd inst. by the capsizing of a boat.

In a railroad accident near Stuttgart, Italy, on the 1st inst., three carriages were smashed, ten passengers killed, and forty-three injured.

Donald Morrison, the Magantic outlaw, was arraigned at Sherbrooke, P. Q., on the 1st inst. for the murder of a bailiff. He pleaded "not guilty."

Policeman Hawkins, who shot farmer Douglas, was brought before the grand jury at Hamilton on a charge of murder, but they did not bring in a bill against him.

The wife of constable Lampierre, Montreal, while ironing on the 5th inst., overturned an oil lamp which exploded, and the lady was burned so badly that she died the next day.

Beer Bros. are now showing an immense stock of choice fall goods at great bargains. Their stock of dress goods, mantles and millinery is unsurpassed. Read their advertisement.

A lunatic named Harris raided a cemetery near Kingston, Ont., a few nights ago, and destroyed three thousand dollars worth of tombstones and monuments, while wildly trying to resurrect his mother-in-law.

French liberals in Quebec, who have been vehemently asserting that all Orangemen were wicked tories, are wild over the fact that Dr. Downey, leading member of the order, presided at Laurier's meeting at St. Catherines the other night.

Three men, supposed to be American thieves, John Burkett, Alfred Wood and James Walsh, were surprised in Toronto on the 3rd inst., drilling a safe in the Bay Tree Hotel on Bay Street. They were arrested, and the police magistrate sent them to the penitentiary for five years.

Hon. J. H. Fletcher, formerly editor and proprietor of the Island Argus, of this city, was on the 3rd inst. elected Lieut.-Governor of South Dakota, by a majority of twenty thousand votes. We tender Mr. Fletcher our hearty congratulations on the success he has achieved in the land of his adoption.

A recent Atlantic cyclone nearly ruined the city of Carmen, State of Compeachy, Mexico. It crushed many houses, wrecked some forty vessels and destroyed many lives. The surrounding country was greatly damaged. At Laguna Dellaman one hundred and five houses were destroyed and twenty-seven vessels wrecked.

His Lordship the Bishop and Rev. John C. McMillan left here on Monnay morning for Ottawa, where they will attend the ceremony of unveiling of the statues erected to the memory of Mgr. Guigues, Ottawa's first Bishop, and Father Tabaret, O. M. I., founder of Ottawa College. We wish them a pleasant trip and safe return.

S. S. Carroll arrived here on Saturday afternoon last with a general cargo and the following passengers:—Mrs. John Cairns, Mrs. Henry Sterns, Mrs. Russell Hodgson, Mrs. W. W. Clarke, Mr. G. C. Mills, C. E. Benoit, Miss McNeill, Jane Davidson, Annie Gaffney, Mr. J. Trainor, Mrs. J. S. Inman, Mrs. Carmody and Mr. Geo. McGee.

Saturday morning last a collision occurred at Rockland Station, on the line of the I. C. R. It appears a special freight took the siding at that point to allow the Quebec express, bound for Halifax, to pass. The special was too long for the siding and the conductor's van extended on to the main line. A brakeman was sent back to flag the express, but the latter dashed along and the engine crashed into the van at a high speed, wrecking it and considerably damaging the engine and track.—St. John Sun.

Some time ago the Montreal Rifle Association arranged a telegraph rifle shooting match, each company to shoot on their own grounds and the results to be telegraphed to Montreal, where they would be compared. The match took place last Saturday, nine teams, in different parts of the Dominion, competing. When the scores from the different points reached Montreal, it was found that the Charlottetown team were victorious, having scored 1695 points out of a possible 2100. Halifax comes second with 1677 points.

The Teachers' Provincial Association met in the Upper Prince Street School, in this city, on Thursday forenoon last. After routine, D. Montgomery, Esq., Supt. of Education, announced the death of Mr. Thomas Lepage, one of the Professors of Prince of Wales College, and moved the adjournment of the convention. At the afternoon session several papers were read and discussed. In the evening a public meeting was held, when addresses were delivered by Rev. Messrs. Reid and Lloyd, Dr. McLeod and Senator Howlan. On Friday forenoon some papers were read and discussed, the officers for the ensuing year were elected, and resolutions relative to the death of Mr. Lepage moved by D. Montgomery, Esq., and unanimously adopted by a standing vote. The convention then adjourned.

The Supreme Court opened at Summerside on Tuesday of last week. The docket included nine criminal cases: one of rape, two of forgery, one of bigamy and two of larceny. The grand jurors were: Major Wright, Esq., foreman; John T. Murphy, Wm Wickham, John J. Morrissey, Wm Rogers, F. McKenna, Donald McLean, John Large, A. E. C. Holland, Hugh A. Ramsay, Wm Tanton, John Squarebrigs, Charles Crosby, George Warren, Henry Gordon, James Palmer, Thomas Haywood, Benjamin Webster, Horatio McWilliams, George Hardy, jr., Owen Hughes, R. H. Macdonald and Farrar Stewart. It is evident the session will be a protracted one. Among the lawyers in attendance are the Attorney-General, Messrs. E. J. Hodgson, A. B. Warburton, W. S. Stewart, Chester B. McNeill, W. A. O. Morson and A. A. McLean.

Last Sunday being the Feast of the Holy Rosary, the services in St. Dunstan's Cathedral were unusually solemn and impressive. His Lordship the Bishop occupied his throne, and Solemn High Mass was celebrated. Rev. Father McLean was celebrant, and Fathers McElmeel and John J. McDonald acted as deacon and subdeacon respectively. The sermon of the day was preached by Rev. John C. McMillan, and it was a masterpiece of logical argument, as well as eloquence and earnestness. In the evening His Lordship again occupied his throne. Vespers were followed by Solemn Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, Rev. Father McElmeel officiating, assisted by Fathers McMillan and J. J. McDonald, as deacon and subdeacon. The High Altar was beautifully adorned with lights and flowers and the music at Mass and Vespers was first-class.

GENERAL NEWS.

John Fitzpatrick, alias Liverpool Jack, on trial before Judge Cowing, o' the general sessions, New York, charged with kidnapping men and shipping them to the Isthmus, was found guilty and remanded for sentence.

The S. S. Campus, which put back to Quebec three weeks ago with her cargo on fire, and left again on the 1st inst., with a general cargo for Liverpool, is reported ashore at Point St. Valier, fifteen miles below Quebec, with 20 feet of water in her hold.

Conybeare, M. P., released from Londonderry jail on the 4th inst., was received with great enthusiasm on his arrival at London. A procession of thousands of friends and admirers escorted him to Clerkenwell Green, where speeches of welcome were made.

It is reported that the London authorities have received a letter from a man signing his name "Jack the Ripper," declaring his intention of adding another to his list of victims at the first convenient opportunity. The police are making every effort to discover the writer of these letters.

A. W. Barrett of Oswego, N. Y., a cattle dealer, was robbed of $3,667 in cash and $1,500 in checks while riding in a Delaware, Lackawanna & Western sleeping car a few nights ago. On retiring he placed the money under his pillow in his vest pocket and in the morning the vest and contents were missing.

The Conservative demonstration at St. Scholastique, P. Q., on the 5th inst. was a great success. Taillon, Desjardins, Daoust and Beauchamp spoke to 10,000 electors. Daoust has represented Two Mountains since 1854, and with Sir John and Bourassa of St. John's compose the triple link which binds the present parliament to the long past.

At the Inter-state Fair at Trenton, N. J., on the 1st inst., Baptist E. Penaud leaped from a 150 foot tower to a net below. On nearing the net he turned, struck flat on his back on the ground, and was instantly killed. Seven thousand people witnessed the fatality. Penaud had a narrow escape from death at Montreal recently. It was reported he was killed. He escaped with slight injuries, only to meet his death as reported in the Trenton despatch.

The steamer Nimrod, Capt. Sopp, which arrived at Sydney, C. B., on the 5th inst., from St. John's, reports that on the 4th passed in lat 46.18 N., lon. 58.48 W., barque Minnie Swift, of Maitland, N. S., from Greenock for Miramichi, N. B., abandoned, directly in the track of shipping, with thirty feet of her stern out of water. On the 3rd inst., the Nimrod passed a lot of deals about seventy miles eastward, supposed to be part of the Geographique's deck load.

The figures "3.7.77." the warning of vigilants, were chalked on street corners of Helena, Montana, and printed in the evening papers on the 3rd inst. This call for a return to the methods of early days was occasioned by the discovery of four fires in as many houses the night before in the heart of the business section. The incendiaries are evidently the same gang who have been in the Northwest towns during the summer, and to whom the big fire in Butte, is attributed.

It is reported that General Boulanger will leave London and take up his residence in the isle of Jersey. It is said that the change is due to his desire to reduce his expenses, as the persons who have been furnishing him with financial support are refusing to continue to supply him with money. He has had a quarrel with Henri Rochefort. M. Rochefort will visit Egypt and pass the winter there, unless he is granted amnesty by the French government.

A meagre despatch from St. Pierre, Miquelon, to Montreal dated the 3rd inst., says the steamer Geographique, with cattle and general cargo, bound for Antwerp and Havre, was run into by barque Swift off St. Pierre, Miquelon, that morning and sank within 5 minutes. There were 25 of a crew and 14 cattlemen on board. Thirty five of these were landed safely at St. Pierre, the remainder are supposed to be either lost, or adrift in boats or perhaps picked up by the barque. The Geographique cleared on September 21. She belongs to the Bossiere line, is 1608 tons, commanded by H. Poussett, who is among the saved. She of course is a total loss. Fully insured.

The steamer Corona, of the Ouachita Consolidated Line, left New Orleans on the 2nd inst., for Ouachita river with a full cargo of freight and a good list of passengers. She exploded her boilers at False river, nearly opposite Port Hudson, the next morning causing the loss of the steamer and about 40 lives. The Anchor line steamer City of St. Louis, Capt. Jas. O'Neil, was near and the crew saved many lives. The surviving passengers and crew were taken on board by Capt. O'Neil and very kindly cared for. Among the lost are J. W. Blanks, captain, the first, second and third clerks, the steward, fireman, engineer, Billy Young, the second mate, both captains of the deck watch, and 11 passengers. The Corona was on her first trip of the season.

Intelligence from Sarawak, a British colony in Borneo, received at Victoria, B. C., says summary vengence has been meted out to the Ghall, the Chinese secret society, which recently decreed death to all non-members. Rajah Brooke, son of the famous Rajah who established British supremacy in the straits, learned of the conspiracy, and in a sudden attack upon the society's quarters secured documents that led to the arrest of about fifty leading members. Six were shot, eleven were flogged and branded, and after imprisonment will be permanently exiled. This is the same society which almost compassed the murder of first Rajah Brooke and all foreigners in Sarawak a generation ago. Several hundred were then executed and the society wiped out.

A Dublin despatch of the 1st inst. says: Canon Griffin, of County Cork, has written a letter severely condemning the statement made by Timothy Healy, that the renunciation by Balfour of the Catholic University scheme was a bitter blow to those seeking to consolidate the power of England at the Vatican against the Irish Nationalists, and that the leading object of the mission of Monsignor Persico, to Ireland was to muzzle the Irish ecclesiastics. Canon Griffin says that Healy's remarks are grossly insulting, and should such language reach the Vatican, it must teach the Pope what to expect if men like Healy ever get in power in Ireland. Canon Griffin declares that it looks very much like a schism in the Church when the Catholics applaud such utterances as those of Healy.

A Strong Following.—Many diseases result from neglected constipation, such as sick headache, bad blood, foul humors, heartburn, dizziness and general ill health. From one to three bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters is guaranteed to cure constipation and all diseases caused by irregularity of the bowels.

The cutlery business is pushed to that extent in Germany that a fair pocket knife can be made for 11 cents. This is cutting it down to a thin edge.

Severely Attacked.—I was severely attacked with diarrhoea and vomiting, the pain was intense and I thought I could not live till morning. Six doses of Dr. Fowler's Wild Strawberry cured me and I have not had the least symptom of it since. Mrs. Alice Hopkins, Hamilton, Ont.

The art of putting the right men in the right place is first in the science of government; but, that of finding places for the discontented is the most difficult.

In Many Forms.—Dyspepsia assumes many phases, all disagreeable to the sufferer, yet it takes no form which from two to four bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters will not cure. B. B. B. cures dyspepsia, tones the weak stomach, aids digestion, sharpens the appetite and renovates the entire system.

Medical authorities insist that stimulants weaken the voice, and doubtless they do. It must be admitted, however, that they strengthen the breath.

Cannot Fail.—Mrs. John E Thompson, of Shelburne, P. O., writes: My two children received great benefit from Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry for Diarrhoea and summer complaint. I gave it according to direction and they soon recovered. Be sure and get the genuine.

Men may have seven ages, but a woman after she reaches a certain point has but one. She sticks to that for the remainder of her life.

From Bad to Worse.—Scrofula leads to consumption. From three to six bottles of Burdock Blood Bitters will cure scrofula, salt rheum, erysipelas, boils, pimples, blotches, tetter, shingles, scald head, sore eyes, and all skin affections, by cleansing the system and removing all impure matter that causes bad blood.

NOTICE.

Owing to a mistake of our bottle manufacturers, their works shut down for the summer without a sufficient quantity of our special bottles on hand to keep us going, so we were compelled to substitute a square bottle without MINARD'S LINIMENT blown in the glass, for our fall trade on P. E. I. and part of N. S. The label and wrapper are the same as heretofore and each bottle has a white strip around it explaining reason for the change.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS.

Halifax, Oct. 7.—Wallace Graham was sworn in Judge of the Supreme Court before Chief Justice McDonald today.

Ottawa, Oct. 7.—A herd of cattle, comprising 325 head, belonging to Conrad & Co., of Maple Creek, N. W. T., were seized by the customs officials a few days ago. It is alleged that the cattle have been brought in without paying duty from Montana.

Dalhousie, N. B., Oct. 7.—The barque Peticodiac, of Moncton, arrived here yesterday with the master and eleven men of the ship Minnie Swift, of Me., together with nine men belonging to the barque Zalette, of North Shields, and six cattle men of the steamer Geographique. Four men, the stewardess, and Miss Masters, a passenger of the Minnie Swift, were drowned. The captain, two boys and two men of the Zalette were drowned, and one man is missing.

London, Oct. 7.—Terrific gales prevail to-day throughout Great Britain and Ireland, and are particularly severe along the River Mersey. Much damage was done at Blackpool. At Lancashire it is blowing with tremendous force. In the Irish Channel a large number of shipwrecks are reported. The storm destroyed 100 yards of the Holyhead breakwater, and isolated the lighthouse. The coast is strewn with wreckage. A large steamer is ashore off Aberffraw, Wales. In the northern portion of England and Ireland numerous buildings were demolished, and several persons injured.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 7.—The inquiry into the death of Mrs. McRae was commenced before coroner Berryman in the police courtroom this evening. The attendance of spectators was very large—all eager to learn by what means the Crown became possessed of the evidence which caused the arrest of Wm. McDonald, but they were disappointed. Although thirteen witnesses were examined not one furnished the desired testimony. The public are still in the dark as to the nature of the evidence in the possession of the Solicitor-General. All the witnesses to-night simply testified to the death of Mrs. McRae, and to the receiving of the candy. The investigation was adjourned until to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock; but it is not expected that the important part of the testimony will be reached before Wednesday at the earliest. All efforts to find out who the woman is that gave the information have proved fruitless, but that it was a woman is believed to be beyond the question of a doubt.

Common Sense

In the treatment of slight ailments would save a vast amount of sickness and misery. One of Ayer's Pills, taken after dinner, will assist Digestion; taken at night, will relieve Constipation; taken at any time, will correct irregularities of the Stomach and Bowels, stimulate the Liver, and cure Sick Headache. Ayer's Pills, as all know who use them, are a mild cathartic, pleasant to take, and always prompt and satisfactory in their results.

"I can recommend Ayer's Pills above all others, having long proved their value as a for myself and family."—J. T. Hess, Leithsville, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been in use in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them."—Thomas F. Adams, San Diego, Texas.

"I have used Ayer's Pills in my family for seven or eight years. Whenever I have an attack of headache, to which I am very subject, I take a dose of Ayer's Pills and am always promptly relieved. I find them equally beneficial in colds; and, in my family, they are used for bilious complaints and other disturbances with such good effect that we rarely, if ever, have to call a physician."—E. AN INGENIOUS THEFT.

At the office of Eggleston, Mallette & Brown, contractors and manufacturers of crushed stone, Chicago, a few days ago. A clerk placed $2,870 on his desk and sat down with the pay roll to count out and put in envelopes the sum due the workmen. The only other persons in the office, Mr. Eggleston and Mr. Mallette, were busy writing letters. As the clerk began counting the money a well dressed young man came in and engaged in conversation with Mr. Eggleston. A minute later another man came in through a different entrance and spoke to Mr. Mallette. The first stranger concluded his conversation with Mr. Eggleston, and passing by the clerk's desk went out. Mr. Eggleston went on with his writing. Then Mr. Mallette's caller withdrew. The clerk came out of the telephone closet and told Mr. Mallette that a prominent firm had a package for him and had called up to know where the package was to be delivered. Mr. Mallette did not understand what was meant and went to the telephone himself. The clerk then returned to his desk, but the money was gone. He was soon convinced that it had been stolen, that the two young men were the thieves and that the man who rang the telephone was their confederate. Efforts to trace the thieves up to last accounts proved fruitless.

SCHOONER SEIZED.

A special despatch to the Boston Journal from Bangor, Me., dated the 4th inst., says the British schooner Wandrian from Barrsboro, N. S., Capt. Wood, was libelled and seized there by Deputy U. S. Marshal Hathaway and placed in charge of a keeper. The seizure was made on complaint of Thomas P. Kennedy of Liverpool, seaman, who alleges cruel treatment by the captain—lack of suitable provision and arrears of wages due. The schooner arrived there September 22 from Bonaire with salt. Kennedy says, during a gale off the West Indies, he fell from aloft and severely injured his leg, but the captain refused medicine, made him stand at the wheel during all that night, and that twenty out of twenty-four hours during the passage he had no provision suitable to eat. On arriving at Bangor he and three others were refused their pay.

"I HEARTILY RECOMMEND PUTTNER'S EMULSION, TO ALL WHO ARE SUFFERING FROM AFFECTIONS OF THE THROAT AND LUNGS, AND I AM CERTAIN THAT FOR WASTING DISEASES NOTHING SUPERIOR TO IT CAN BE OBTAINED."

"I have been suffering from Pulmonary Diseases for the last five years. About two years ago, during an acute period of my illness, I was advised by my Physician to try PUTTNER'S EMULSION. I did so, with the most gratifying results. My sufferings were speedily alleviated, my cough diminished, my appetite improved, I added several pounds to my weight in a short time, and began to recover strength. This process continued until life, which had been a misery to me, became once more a pleasure. Since then Puttner's Emulsion has been my only medicine. As one who has fully tested its worth I heartily recommend it to all who are suffering from affections of the Lungs and Throat, and I am certain that for Wasting Diseases nothing superior can be obtained."

HYMN OF THE EARLY IRISH CHRISTIANS.

Though "Israel knew us not, O Lord, though Jacob owned us not,"
By Thee, our Savior, Father, Friend, we never were forgot;
"Glad tidings of great joy" Thou'st brought unto the farthest west,
And with Thy Gospel's heavenly light this favored isle hath blest!

Though plunged before (with grief we own)
in superstition's night,
With rapturous gratitude we hailed the first approach of light;
No barbarous rage, no obstacles, did Thine
Apostle meet—
We felt and we confessed Thy yoke was light, Thy burden sweet!

To Thee the thanks, to Thee the praise;
for only through Thy grace
Could such a change be wrought in us, a weak, a sinful race.
Oh, still, dear Lord, that heavenly grace
vouchsafe on us to pour;
Oh, grant Thy Faith may flourish still on Erin's Emerald shore!

Whatever, through the lapse of time, this favored isle betide,
Be Thou, O Lord! our children's stay,
their sure support and guide;
Though slavery, persecution, woe, may long, long be thy late,
Still may they keep Thy holy faith unstained, inviolate!

But should one day a brighter dawn for them arise at last,
May they in joy, as well as grief, still to Thy faith cleave fast;
May it still be their only boast, their pride, their joy, to be,
In evil and in prosperous days, equally true to Thee!

THE SAVOYARD BOY.

BY MARY HOWITT.

PART I.

There is, in the north of Italy, a little country called Savoy. It abounds in lofty mountains, dark woods, and blue lakes. The cheerful chamois climb and skip about the crags, and give a pleasant aspect of life to them; for they are beautiful animals, something between the deer and the goat, with lovely, gentle eyes. In the deep valleys among the mountains live kind, well-disposed people, who are, however, so very poor that they are often obliged to send their children out into foreign and richer countries to earn money. For this purpose they frequently buy a monkey, a tortoise, an organ, or something of that kind; or they catch white mice or marmots, to which they teach all manner of tricks; and then set out into the world to exhibit them for money. Thus they earn money until they reach some great city. There, at first, they show their curiosities, but generally later clean shoes in the streets as a means of gaining their bread. Usually, these people are very frugal; and, from the money they earn, store up enough to return home in a few years, bringing often a small sum with them for their poor parents.

There lived not long ago, in this country of Savoy, a poor woman named Magdelena. She was a widow, whose husband at his death had left nothing behind him but two children, Nicola and Betta, and a monkey with which he in his youth had travelled about. Magdelena worked as hard as it was possible, but was not able to earn sufficient food for herself and children. That was very bad when they were young, but it was still worse as they grew older; for, poor things! they only knew the outside of school, as their mother had not the means of paying for their schooling; besides which, they were obliged to help her all day long.

At length it happened that two young cousins of Magdelena, Peppo and Checco, who were about to set out on their travels to the great city of Paris, the one with a hand organ and the other with a marmot, came to her and said: "Dear Mrs. Magdelena, what is the use of all this hunger? If you go on working thus, you'll soon be too ill to work at all! Now there's Nicola, who is already ten years old; why cannot he go out with his monkey and earn some money? Let him go with us; we will honestly take charge of him and his affairs.'

Magdalena, who was very much distressed at the thought of parting with her son, would not at first consent to his going. At length, however, after long deliberation, she began to think that it might be the best thing for him, and in the end she consented.

The moment of his departure came; his mother kissed him again and again, and giving him her blessing, said 'God be with thee, my dear child! Remain good and pious! Thou wilt experience dark days during thy journey, but be not cast down by them; God will turn even them to thy good, for whatever he permits is purely a blessing. But, let it go with thee as it may, keep thy mother always in thy mind; she, in thought, will always accompany thee!'

Nicola could not speak a word for grief; he folded his hands, and the tears chased each other down his cheeks.

His little sister seemed as if she could not part with her brother; she clung to him, and even besought him, 'Ah, stop here, stop here, Nicola!'

There was one, however, to whom the parting brought joy instead of sorrow, and that was Pazetta the monkey. Betta gave him a most beautiful apple as a farewell gift, and he devoured it with a good appetite.

The cousins were impatient. 'Nicola!' cried they, 'forwards! forwards! else we shall have it too hot for walking!'

The boy threw his arms around his mother for a last embrace; then, taking his monkey on his shoulder and its little house upon his back, wandered away towards the great city of Paris.

The journey was very fatiguing to him in the beginning. The heat was great and the way was long. Large and small stones were plentiful on every road; but there was very little roast meat and pudding, neither did wine or milk hang in bottles on the trees. By degrees, however, the journey became easier, for he had been accustomed to hard labor at home, and upon the whole he thought it very delightful to go, like the birds and the clouds, merrily over hill and dale.

At noon, the three Savoyards generally seated themselves in the shadow of a tree, or on the bank of a sparkling streamlet, to take their rest; and, while the summer flies were buzzing all around them, they drew forth their black bread, or, on high days and holidays, the cheese also, which they bought in the last village, and this made them a real feast, whilst the fresh water of the brook tasted to them delicious, for fatigue and the heat made them thirsty. Neither had the monkey nor the marmot any reason to complain; they were carried all the way like great gentlemen, and always had something better than mere scraps given them to eat. Much rather would the poor lads have gone hungry themselves than that the little animals by which they earned their bread, should not share liberally with them.

'Now, when the dinner had been carried down into the eating room, that is to say, when it had come down into the five hungry stomachs, the three lads allowed themselves a little pastime. Peppo played on his hand organ, Pazetto, the monkey, leapt upon Nicola's head, and made there all sorts of grimaces for his own amusement, while Checco danced with his little marmot, singing the while,

Savoyard and marmot rare
Are a very wondrous pair;
Dance a minuet can they,
Each can dance as well as play.
The Savoyard leaps,
The marmot he springs;
The marmot he squeaks,
The Savoyard sings,
Hopsa, hopsa, juhaju!
Come all good folks to see us two!

And if there happened to be no people on the road, there were at least birds in the trees, and no doubt they delighted in the merry company.

But in the evening, when the peasants returned from the fields, the three little boys used to enter the villages; and there also they sang again their little song; and people now realy came, old and young, and had a deal of singing and dancing and music for their especial amusement.

The greatest fun was made by the monkey in his red jacket. He could make the most wonderful faces, and was terribly hungry. There were excellent morsels given to him, and sometimes a merry lad would wrap a stone in a paper and give it to him. Pazetto would take it with his long black fingers most carefully out of his hand, look most amazingly wise, examine it all over, smell at it all over, and most carefully unroll the paper as though it contained something very precious. But, as soon as he found the stone, he grew very angry, and flung it at the head of the lad who had made fun of him—which, of course, made the peasants laugh very much, and the little lads still more.

PART II.

In such a manner the three Savoyards travelled through the country for months. Now there was rain, now sunshine; now they encountered friendly faces and open hands, now cross faces and closed doors and purses—nay, often they were driven away with hard words. To-day they would sleep on a bench near the stove—to-morrow upon straw—the next day upon God's green earth; yet, however ill it might fare with them, Nicola was never disheartened—for he always recollected the parting words of his mother. At length, upon a beautiful summer evening, they saw the great city of Paris lying before them in the distance.

As it was very warm, and they were still a considerable way from the city, they paused beside a well and began their usual pastimes. Whilst they sat there, up drove a splendid coach drawn by four wild horses, with a coachman in a cocked hat upon the box, and with two footmen behind, covered all over with gold lace.

A beautiful lady looked out of the coach-window, a little girl sat upon her lap and played with an orange. As soon as the lady observed the little lads with their monkey she ordered the coachman to stop, for she wanted the little girl to be amused by the monkey. But the wild horses would not at first stop, they were so very wild. 'Little Savoyard,' cried the lady to Nicola 'show your little monkey to my little daughter.' Nicola sprang towards the coach window to exhibit his monkey. Poor Pazetto was especially hungry today, and as soon as he saw she orange he sprang at one bound into the carriage and on the very lap of the lady. The lady screamed, the child screamed, Nicola screamed, and the horses, which were so very spirited, became frightened, plunged first on this side, then on that, and hurled poor little Nicola from the coach-step. The two cousins tried to catch at the horses' reins, but this only made them wilder still, and away they sprang with the carriage at full gallop, bearing away the lady and the monkey, and a cloud of dust filled the whole road.

And there lay the poor lad, with a broken head, upon the ground. His cousins lifted him up, washed his wound, bound it up, and weary and sorrowful they all three entered the great city of Paris. The wound was not a severe one, and did not trouble Nicola much; but the loss of his monkey was indeed a loss beyond words.

PART III.

At first everything seemed very hard to Nicola in the city, where there were such crowds of people, and all strangers to him. They were not as friendly in their manners as his country-folk among the beautiful mountains of Savoy; and what was still worse, he found himself thrown among very wicked people, who, being thieves themselves, wished to teach him to steal; but he remembered the parting words of his mother, and, poor, though he was, nothing would induce him to thieve and to become wicked like them. His cousins lent him some money, with which he bought himself brushes and a bottle of blacking and a shoe-block; thus he began to black gentlemen's boots in the street, and as he was very obliging and did his work very well, people employed and encouraged him, and by the time he had been a month in Paris he was in good health and in tolerably good spirits.

He had taken his stand in a sort of open square, planted like a garden, in front of a coffee house, and where also stood many open booths, in which all sorts of strange and beautiful objects were to be seen. There were conjurers wild beasts, wax figures, giants and dwarfs, and many other such things. There was always a great deal of noise, and bustle at this place. All day long nothing but drumming, trumpeting, roaring, shouting, speechifying, and all at the same time.

During the whole time that Nicola had as yet occupied his stand there had remained amid all this throng of booths, one in particular which had never yet been opened, and about which nobody had yet been seen. One morning, Nicola came thither as usual with his little shoe-blacking establishment, and as it so happened that six gentlemen came in rapid succession to have their boots cleaned, he had no time to look about him. When the last, however, of the six had received the final polish, and his boots like those who had gone before him, shone like looking glasses, Nicola prepared to rest a little, and rising up looked around among the booths, and to his astonishment beheld signs of occupation in the hitherto empty booth. A huge canvas was hung out before it, on which was painted nothing at all but monkeys. Some were riding on poodles, others firing off cannon; some played at cards, others sat in groups drinking tea; and so on. Presently the booth was opened, and a man came forward with a little monkey in his arms, dressed in a red jacket, and this he fastened with a chain above the entrance to the booth, in order that by its comical grimaces it might induce the people to enter and see what there was still more remarkable inside.

'Pazetto! My poor Pazetto, art thou there?' exclaimed Nicola as soon as he beheld the little red-jacketed monkey. And scarcely had he uttered those words when the monkey sprang so high for joy that his chain snapped and at two bounds he was across the street, and without more ado seated on the shoulder of his young master. What a delight that was to them both! The monkey embraced and kissed him in the monkey fashion, without ceasing; and the boy was equally vehement in his caresses and endearments.

The master of the monkey saw from the window of his booth all that went forward; and coming out, with a long-lashed whip in his hand, began laying it with all his might on Nicola.

'You youngster!' said he, 'what are you doing with my monkey?'

'It is mine,' said the boy; 'only look how fond he is of me.'

'It is none of yours, you young rascal!' cried the man; and seizing him the monkey bit his finger most severely. This made the man only the more enraged; and he again flourished his whip, intending to chastise the monkey as well as the boy.

In the meantime a great crowd of people had assembled around them, some of whom endeavored to pacify the enraged man. On this the man called hither one of the police and related to him what had occurred. He heard the man's story, and believing also that the boy intended to steal his monkey seized him by his collar and was about to carry him off to prison. But again the monkey, which seemed to understand what was going forward, and could not bear that any harm should befall his beloved master, bit the policeman also; whereupon he, like the man, becoming only the more enraged, drew his sabre, and was about to run the little creature through, when Nicola held forth both his arms, beseeching him rather to vent his displeasure on him than to do his poor little Pazetto any harm.

All this excited a great disturbance among the people. Some took the part of the monkey-showman, and said; 'Yes, we saw as plain as could be that the monkey came out of his booth!' Others sided with Nicola, and said; 'But one can see that the animal belongs to the boy, else it would not defend him in the way it does!'

Thus the people spoke, some one way and some another; some even quarreled about it, and were ready to fight with the rest; and this drew other people to the spot, till there was such a great crowd as closed up the road.

Just in the very midst of all this a very magnificent carriage and four drove up. 'Make way! make way!' cried the coachman; for the throng was so great that he could not drive through. The people pressed together and made all the space they could, but it was not sufficient, and the carriage was brought to a stand.

'What is amiss there?' exclaimed an elegant gentleman, looking from the carriage window. 'Is there no police at hand?' With that a policeman stepped up to the coach and very reverently related what had occurred; for the gentleman in the carriage was no less than a prince.

'Let me see the Savoyard with his monkey,' said the Princess, who sat by her husband in the carriage. They brought the boy up to her; and as soon as she saw him she exclaimed: 'Ah! that is the very same boy whose monkey, not much more than a month ago, leapt into the carriage to me! I am glad the poor boy is alive; I was afraid that the carriage had gone over him.'

Nicola was now desired to relate briefly all that happened to him since that time. And now came forward the monkey-showman from the booth, and assured them that he had bought the monkey from an old woman on the high road. And that in reality was the truth; for when poor Pazetto had sprung again, in his terror, through the coach window, the old woman had caught him and sold him to the man. The Prince, therefore, who comprehended at once how the story might be, gave the man as much money as he had paid, and telling Nicola to mount with his monkey on the back of the carriage beside the servant, gave the word 'forwards!' and the horses sprang onward at full gallop.

As Nicola thus stood beside the gold-liveried servant, with all the people in the streets looking up to him, he seemed to himself to be in a very proud and elegant position, and yet did not dare to speak a word. He had, however, time enough to reflect upon what the prince was going to do with him; and what his mother, and Betta, and his two cousins would say if they could only see him standing in that grand way behind a princely coach and four! He also took the opportunity of examining the fine servant from top to toe, although he did make himself so very large and broad that the poor lad could scarcely find room enough on which to stand. The whole man seemed amazingly superb, only that his boots were not so highly polished as Nicola was accustomed to make those of his customers. 'Now I should have polished them much better than that!' thought Nicola; and then, all at once, it occurred to him that he had left his shoe-cleaning apparatus standing before the coffee house. That deeply troubled him, for he could not help wishing that the prince would take him into his service as a shoe-black.

At length the carriage drove through a long avenue of dark chestnut trees, and drew before a grand castle. Immediately a great number of liveried servants hurried from the door and assisted the grand people to alight. The servant from behind the coach also leapt down; but poor little Nicola stood there with a throbbing heart, waiting till somebody would tell him what he ought to do.

The prince and the princess went into the castle and appeared to have quite forgotten him. Nobody troubled themselves about him; and the carriage, with him and his monkey yet behind it, was driven to the yard. The coachman descended from his box, gave up the whip and reins into inferior hands, and went his way. The grooms took the horses from the carriage, and in so doing perceived a little Savoyard standing behind; whereupon they seized him by the arm, and with no very mild language dragged him down. Nicola attempted to explain to them how he happened to be there, but they would not listen to him, and one of them, seizing the whip, they drove him out of the yard.

Once more the poor lad found himself alone with his little animal among all the strangers of the great city. His situation as shoe-black in the princely establishment was nothing but a castle in the air!

PART IV.

But they had not forgotten him for all that. He was sitting, crying to himself, upon a turf seat in the shady chestnut avenue, when the servant came running in haste out of the castle; and, on seeing him, turned suddenly towards him, and bade him immediately return with him to the castle. He was conducted into the garden, where the great people were seated at a tea-table in a pleasant shady arbor. He was now desired, in the first place, to let his monkey dance before the little princess; and them to give them a clear and regular history of his life, from first to last. In this way the prince and princess soon perceived that he was a good and deserving lad, and that his mother was a pious and industrious woman; and they determined within themselves to show him the utmost kindness.

They placed him, therefore under the care of their forest keeper; sent him to school, gave him new clothes, and, in short, let him want for nothing which might enable him to become a clever and useful man. The boy did all that lay in his power to deserve so much kindness; learned in a short time both to read and to write, so that in half a year's time he was able to send a letter to his mother, in which he informed her of his good luck; he also acquired very readily all that was necessary for a forest-master to know; so that before long he entered the service of the prince as gamekeeper.

After four years, however, he became very ill. He ate and drank scarcely anything; thought continually of his good mother and sister Betta, and of the beautiful mountains in his own land, where the chamois sprang from rock to rock so merrily. This disease from which he suffered so severely was home sickness.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Alteratives. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity, of the Blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies, for a while, thinking the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alterative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being above all others, we used it with marvelous results. The sore healed and health and strength rapidly returned." —J. J. Armstrong, Weimar, Texas.

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I prescribe it, and it does the work every time."—E. L. Pater, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla here for over thirty years and always recommend it when asked to name the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"Ayer's medicines continue to be the standard remedies in spite of all competition."—T. W. Richmond, Bear Lake, Mich.
