Poetry.

Sun-Pictures.

Her photograph
Lies on my desk. Upon those features dear
I see the smile; I seem once more to hear
Her lithesome laugh.

Sun-pictures! yes—
It bears me back to blissful days of yore,
When life for me one sunny aspect wore
Of happiness.

The golden morn,
When forth we wandered mid the sunbeams mild,
And watched in woods how, like a darling child,
The day was born.

The purple eve,
When hand in hand we sat and saw the sun
Out in the west, his path of glory done,
Th' horizon leave.

The long bright day,
When, still together in the noontide sheen,
We idly watched across the chequered scene
The sunbeams play.

The sunlit sea
We floated o'er, or wandered by its marge,
And saw earth-pictured on its bosom large,
Eternity.

Too happy time,
Too full of innocent unmingled mirth!
For the low level of this shadowed earth
All too sublime!

Sun-pictures fade,
As fade the sunbeams from the darkling west,
As fades the truth from out the fickle breast
Of faithless maid.

The shadows chill
Fell o'er our path. Yet as I sadly gaze,
And think upon the happy by-past days,
I love her still.

Love her—and know,
Though seeming dead there still shall be reborn,
And live again for us on some glad morn,
The Long-ago.

There, where no sun
Rises or sets; and where aside are laid
All earthly burdens, we twain shall be made
Forever one.

"Olive Varcoe."

In her quick sympathy his sufferings became hers; and the wonder, reverence and gratitude he felt, oppressed her; and his bleeding pride wounded her likewise. She dreaded to hear a word of thanks from him; she hated what she had done for him; she could not endure to be so high above him in his thoughts.

Now she had conquered his pride, she wanted him to be proud again. So to hide from him that she saw his pain, and to avoid his thanks, she looked at Charles Vigo, and sunked for very sorrow, with a quiver on her lips. She knew that all she had suffered was in vain, that John himself had dragged his crime into the light, and implored all men that he alone might bear the penalty.

And though this took from her the sting of thinking that Charles Vigo had hunted him down, it increased the anguish of pity that swelled in her heart for all at Trewavas.

Sir Hilton had given his arm to Mrs. Langley; the others followed, Olive knew not how, for her eyes were blinded, and in another moment she found herself mounting the turret stairs, every step of which was to her a monument of agony.

In the chamber there broke upon her, through her tears, a vision of John's face—a wild, haggard face, with madness on it, unutterable woe, and death.

Then breaking away from some hand that held her, she rushed forward and fell upon the floor, and would have touched him, but he shrieked out,

'No, Olive, do not touch me! Say you forgive me, only that, and I can die contented.'

With broken sobs, Olive spoke words of peace to him, then she felt herself lifted from her knees, and saw blind Mrs. Langley's arm around her.

Sir Hilton had taken his old place by his brother's side; Lady Trewavas, Charles Vigo and Mrs. Gunning were here, and Olive understood that the trembling woman who supported her had come also only for her sake.

Then she rallied all her courage, and gathered in her breath to listen, as John's feeble voice broke faintly upon her ear and heart.

Without the breaks and interruptions which fever and unreason made, we will tell his words.

'Olive, only Olive, knew how I loved her,' said he. 'She saw how tortured I was—how galled and maddened I was—by jealousy, and by the knowledge of the poor half love Hilton gave her. The blame is not all mine. I loved her first, and for more than two years she tacitly accepted my affection. It was I who rode with her, I who walked with her, I to whose arm she clung when weary, or when, in pretty cowardice, she chose to fear some harmless creature of the woods. And this was all deceit, all done to blind Hilton, or to cheat her mother, who liked me best. She thought she could do this, and tread upon me, as upon some poor harmless worm in her path; she did not think I was a viper, that could turn and sting. As Olive talked to me, with her childish outpouring of passionate words that meant nothing, I was devising in my mind the best way to die. At first I swear I never thought of killing her; that was the mad impulse of a moment; but I did think I would die in her presence, reproaching her with my last breath. Once I was sorely tempted to kill my brother. Hilton, you remember the day? We were in the garden, and you maddened me with your blind, careless talk; but Olive, who suspected me, and had greatly watched me of late, had plunged my pistols into the water. This saved him. But it was on that day I resolved Eleanor Maristowe should never be his wife. From his own lips I had heard, he chose her for no great love, but because she fulfilled all the requisites his pride required in a Lady Trewavas; and languidly content with her beauty and her affection, he strove through these to drive from his heart a deeper passion, which he feared might lead him to a less prudent marriage. My heart burned at this. My whole nature rebelled at it, and in the warfare that rose up in my soul, order was overthrown. A something—I know not what—fell into ruins within me, and in the chaos I blindly groped for justice. If God would not hear me, and do justice, I would take my cause into my own hand, and deal out justice to myself.'

Here John raved somewhat, mingling prayers with his madness; asking why one man in blind selfishness and pride, should take coldly a blessing which would make another's heaven.

'My lamb, my one ewe lamb!' he cried; 'but to him only an image to hang his name and his jewels on, and show to the world as his.'

Sir Hilton rested his chin upon his hand, and looked upon the raving man; but he uttered not a word.

When a great light pierces the brain, speech is numbed. Olive, watching him, wept.

Then John got calm again, muttering to himself that it was a wrong world, and he had his own way in it.

'I thought Eleanor would be just,' he said, 'if I laid these things before her as I saw them in my own mind. So I watched an opportunity to find her alone, but, knowing Olive followed my steps of late, I took advantage of a burst of temper on her part to lock her in her room. I gave the key to Lady Trewavas, saying carelessly I was going to fish a while in the creek.

'I did not know that, the better to observe me—I believe she thought I meditated suicide—Olive had taken from the library the key of the old door at the foot of the disused stairs. From the creek I saw Eleanor go into the wood, with a book in her hand. I did not follow her at once. I thought over all that I would say, the arguments I would use, the prayers, the entreaties I would urge, to make her break off this marriage. Above all, I would be gentle, I said.

'I had poison with me—I had sent to London for it, under Dr. Burton's name; for, if it came to the worst, I would die before the wedding. And now I feared myself so much, that I took this bottle from my pocket, and broke it against a stone, throwing the fragments into the creek; then I went lightly to the wood. I knew where to find Eleanor, for, in passing me, she had said, "How hot it is to-day!" I am going to the Lady's Bower, the coolest spot in the wood."

'When I found her, she was weeping and angry; and as I talked, she grew more angry. My prayers beat against her hard heart in vain. At last I reproached her. I told her she had encouraged my love, and made a stepping-stone of my bruised spirit to reach Hilton. Then she said I lied; and I bore that meekly; but seeing she would not spare herself a miserable marriage for my sake, I tried her for her own.

'I repeated all Hilton's words to me in the garden, and I told her where his red love was. I said his marriage would be a mockery, a sin, and misery, and her smiling lips a mask to hide her tears. And these, and her sorrow, and her prayers, would all beat against her husband's heart as vainly as mine had now against hers.

'Oh, I used strong words, but gentle—I did indeed. Yet they did not melt her, as I thought. She grew harder and harder to me; she opposed to all my vehemence a well-bred scorn, a coldness like an icy wall, against which my passion and my misery fell back upon myself, maddening me.

'She was white with anger—that concentrated anger, self-possessed, which woman accustomed to the world can hide, or vent in irony sharp and cold as cut steel. She did not seem to fear for herself in taunting me; she had been pampered all her life long; no harmful thing had ever touched her; and her soul, asleep in its soft luxury, never awoke to the thought of danger till too late. Never mind her words—they were cruel; having once broken through the well-bred surface of her serenity, she was not held back by any consideration for me.

'She owned scornfully that she had seen my love, and despised it too much to care whether she had wounded it or no. She confessed she might have made my heart a stepping-stone to her own wish—she did not know—she did not care—she had not thought about it.

"And now, surely, I have had enough of your miseries, and of Olive Varcoe's, too, for one day," she cried. "Stand off my path, and let me pass."

'But I dared the madness that [illegible] the demon in me with [illegible] that moment I hated her.

"You shall never be Hilton's wife, I said resolutely.

"You mistake me," she answered. "All this only determines me the more to marry him. And I will put such a barrier between you and him, between you and Trewavas, that your presence shall never insult me again. What! am I to bear for ever this insolent interference between me and my affianced husband?"

"Not insolent," I said, meekly, "but well meant, kindly meant, to save you pain."

"Insolent!" she repeated, "and cowardly. Yes, Mr. Trewavas, you are a coward, and as a coward, I despise you."

'My meekness had given her courage to say this; and, as she spoke, she flung her hand towards me in a contemptuous gesture.'

[illegible] hand touched me. She did not know what the touch of her hand was to me! I lost the power over that strong demon in me, which some have said since is madness; the cords which held him snapped like threads.'

Springing up, John gazed upon his listeners with a haggard face, and then, falling back, shuddering, he went on more wildly.

'Her tranquility would have chained me; that being gone, my fear went too. I seized the hand that had struck me; I flung my arms about her.

"Not a coward!" I cried. "Not afraid to die—with you. Let us die together!"

'I struggled with her, dragging her towards the pool,'

'She shrieked aloud, then I put my hand upon her lips, and said, softly, 'Do not shriek; there is no one in the wood but you and I. The very beasts die silently; why should man alone meet death with cries?'

'Holding her thus triumphantly, I could philosophise like a madman. But she tore down my hand and screamed twice, 'Olive! Olive!' then fell down at my feet in a death swoon.'

'I thought her dead, and knelt beside her in an agony of joy. The ancient quiet of my life, before I knew her, came back to me in a great wave.

'At that moment her lips shook, her eyelids quivered, and I saw she lived, and my tranquility was a deceit—I was as one enveloped in flames. I cried out that I must save myself—that I must have peace, even if she died to give it me.

'As I wrung my hands over her white face, I remembered a little phial in my pocket: not poison—oh no!—but something I had bought to use—being a coward—after I had taken poison. I drenched her scarf with this fluid, and held it closely to her lips. She will not suffer now in dying, I said.

'Then the thought struck me that the shock and chill of the water might bring back consciousness, and at this moment my eyes fell on a crimson cord lying on the grass; I swear I know not how it came there, but I caught it up and tied her wrists.

'There, you know the rest. I am faint, I am sick—I can tell no more.

'There was no cry, no sound save the splash of the water; from which I fled madly. I ran through the wood in a time so short, it seemed incredible. I reached the creek, and caught up my fishing-rod again. I could not kill myself—the means were gone. The side on which I blindly groped for justice, I love her. I was sure of that; and she would be "an image to hang necklets on"—not bone of his bone, flesh of his flesh. I could have wept for her; and I, the outcast, would not have changed with her for worlds. In this spirit I thought I would go back, and ask her to forgive my hard words; and, as I still hesitated, I found I had lost the Syrian cord which I had worn as a girdle. "Now I must go back," I said, "to find it."

'As I retraced my steps slowly, searching always for the cord, I thought I heard a sharp cry; then, in a moment, Eleanor's voice pierced my ears, shrieking, "Olive! Olive!" It was a cry of such fear, that for a moment I stood still in terror, leaning in faint sickness against a tree, my strength gone, my eyes blinded.'

'When I recovered from this, all was still as death; and in this stillness I ran on in desperate haste towards the Lady's Bower. As I neared it, something fell into the water with a heavy splash. On hearing this, I did not faint, or stand still in horror; I rushed on blindly, and reached the pool, to find silence and loneliness.

'If there had been a deadly struggle, there was no mark to tell it; all looked innocence and peace. But I was not deceived. Such a cry as I had heard only springs to human lips in times of direst agony; and leaning over the pool, I peared with shrinking eyes into its depths.

'Then it was I thought I saw beneath the beech tree a shadow, a lilac shadow, like the folds of a robe. At that I uttered a cry that rang through the wood; then remembering none would hear me, I ran wildly towards Trewavas for help. I went by no path, but between the trees, the shortest way, and as I set aside a branch, I saw a man running furiously, with madness in his face, and guilt and fear past words. The man was John Trewavas, and at sight of him the truth pierced me as suddenly as sunlight touches new-awakened eyes.

'I am not a woman given to fainting, yet I fell now like one struck dead; all my blood had attacked my heart at once, and with an icy stupor on me, I lay, I know not how long.

'When I awoke, I gathered leaves and grass, like one bewildered; and wandering on and on, I lost my way, and still thought I was nearing Trewavas still thought I was going for help. Then I found I could not go—I could not denounce John Trewavas. Better die than bring such trouble to the roof that had sheltered me; and flinging myself down upon the grass, I wept till my soul died away in me, and I had no more strength.

'Thus weeping, Mr. Vigo found me, and a sight of a human face I gath red courage and hope; I began to tell him of that I had not verified that fatal cord of mine, of a lilac shade beneath the water, and the shadow might only be the darkness of the long beech boughs that overspread the pool. My heart bounded at the hope, and my agony grew calmer.

'"Murder!" I said within myself—"no, it is impossible, I have been mad to think it. She would have shrieked aloud—have struggled in the water; she could aloud not have died quietly like that. The shadow was the purple shade of the red beech, and I have pierced myself with a grief as vain as shadows."

'With this thought I smiled, as I waved a farewell to Mr. Vigo; but as the great trees hid him from my sight, my heart fell again. Why had I heared that cry, "Olive! Olive!"—why had John that upon his face which curdled my blood to think of? And this great bell at Trewavas, why did its sounds come flying to greet me? Who was missing?

'Agonised in every thought, I resolved to avoid meeting any of the household till I had visited John's room and solved my doubts. I entered the room unseen; I crept up to his painting-room. If he were here, and met me quietly, I should know that shadow in the pool was a sick fancy, and Eleanor had only cried to me in terror of his anger. What more likely than in pleading his cause himself, he should get angry, telling her of her hollowness. At jealousy he had threatened her, he said, he did. I knew the thought of that at times.

'He was not in his painting-room, and the drawing on the easel had not been touched that day. Then I searched for poison, and in a small packet labelled "Carmine," I found chloroform. Could he kill himself with this? I asked myself. And fearing that—not thinking then how Eleanor had died—I took it with me. You know how heavily this weighed against me in Sir Hilton's mind.

'I knew now that Eleanor was missing, and I never questioned myself again whether the shadow in the pool was a fancy or a truth. She was dead, and there only remained to me the power to save Sir Hilton and Lady Trewavas, by my silence, from the deeper anguish of knowing whose hand had done the deed.

'When I entered John's painting-room I felt Eleanor was dead. This feeling impelled me to destroy his journal and sketches. Horror-stricken as I was, the solo clear idea in my bewildered mind, was the resolve to save the Trewavas name from the stain of murder.

'When circumstances, and what I had done to save John, had fastened suspicion on myself, worn I are too weak to tell what I felt—it was a strange mingling of joy and pain—an agony when Sir Hilton looked at me with such bitter loathing—a joy when I saw his pride unbroken, his brother unsuspected.

'You will remember the finding of the poor girl in the pool, her wrists tied with that red cord? If Bolster had not brought it to me, I must have confessed that I was in the wood that day—I must have confessed that I had lost it near the Lady's Bower; and all that I had heard and seen would have been torn from my unwilling lips. So I burnt the cord, and heaped another proof against myself in Sir Hilton's soul. I did this, because I would not be a witness against his brother; yet that he should deem me guilty, cost me tortures that seemed like a rain of fire on my cheek.

'Charles Vigo had guessed the truth. I saw it in his eyes when I thanked him for the cord. "You lost it near the pool; the knot slipped as you drew the cord through your hands in anger," he said, as he looked me in the face. I grew white to the lips, but answered faintly, "Yes."

'"You will not ask me questions?" I cried, as I gasped his arm.

'"Not one," he answered. "I respect your motive, though I lament your silence. Olive, duty should be stronger than love."

'"Let me alone," I said. "Let me die for them if I will."

'I could not say more for tears; I thought that what I did was a duty, an expiation. Passionate, wilful as I had been, I could not feel all guiltless of this sin. I had not poured oil upon the stormy waters around me; my hasty words had often roused John's dangerous moods, not soothed them. But I had played with fire, not knowing it.

'Before this crime I was a child, uttering every thought and passion like an unlearnt nursling; now I was a woman, taught self-control, humiliation, and repentance, by a fearful lesson. I think, but for God's mercy I must have died.

'Florian, my story is ended; only I have left untold—because a pile of words high as heaven could not tell it—all Charles Vigo's nobleness, his generous pity, his brave defence of that poor outcast, Olive Varcoe.'

Thus simply did Olive tell the story of her suffering.

Charles Vigo, hovering near as she and Florian sat together in the deep bay window at Bosvigo, heard Olive's lips praise him, but he saw it was Florian whose face kindled—Florian, whose eyes paid him the tribute of her tears.

'Miss Langley,' he said,' I should like to relate that story to you my way. I should not tell it as Olive has done. I should expatiate on the indignation I felt, when I saw a guilty coward laying his crime upon a weak child's shoulders, and that child accepting the burden eagerly, blinded to her true duty by her passionate love and gratitude for people who, in my eyes, had wronged her from the beginning.'

Bayfield Show.

The fall show of the Stanley Agricultural Society was held at Bayfield on the 8th inst. The day was all that could be desired, and there was a large turn out of the beauty of the village and country. It is much to be regretted that political differences are allowed to interfere with the operations of this society to some extent. The outside show was very good, especially in horses and sheep. Some very fine buggies were shewn by our enterprising townsmen Messrs. Knox & Rathwell and Mr. Whitely. They divided the prizes of this department between them. Inside, the dust was intolerable but the exhibition creditable. We noticed some counterpanes which irresistably suggested the idea of comfort in the coming cold nights. The butter shown by Mr. Tough was really first class; we would like to see some of it in Goderich. The display was fair as to quality but not up to the mark as to quantity. A new invention in the way of churns was shown by Mr. J. Wallace, Goderich Township, it seems to work well.

The following is the South Huron.

THE RIDING SAFE.

MR. BISHOP ELECTED.

PREMATURE REJOICINGS OF THE PROG. PARTY.

THE GREATEST SELL OF THE SEASON.

The election in South Huron last Wednesday resulted, as most of our readers are no doubt aware by this time, in the return of Mr. Bishop, the Reform Candidate, by a majority of 14.

The majority is small and the narrow escape the Reform party has had should teach them a salutary lesson. Had they possessed the energy and had the organization of their opponents, there is no reason why Mr. Bishop's majority should not have been equal to that of Mr. Gibbons two years ago. On the part of Reformers there was a feeling of security as well as apathy, the result of which is that they have had a very narrow escape from defeat. Of course the Tories claim that the result of the election shows that they have gained over a large number of Reformers, but the full returns as compared with those of the election last year, show that the Tories have polled 49 votes less than they polled in the same municipalities last year. The reduced Reform majority is due therefore wholly to the fact that a large Reform vote remained unpolled. We fear local and petty jealousies had much to do with the indifference of Reformers. They should learn a lesson from the present contest, and follow the example of their opponents, who lay aside all such feelings when election time comes, and turn out to a man in support of their candidate. Were Reformers to do the same they would be much stronger than they now are.

In looking over the returns, the result of the unity and organization of the Conservatives is shown in the fact that Mr. Case has polled within 49 votes of the total cast for the Conservative candidates last year, while Mr. Bishop falls 358 votes short of what were cast for the Reform candidates. A sufficient Reform vote, therefore, remained unpolled to give Mr. Bishop a very handsome majority, instead of the paltry 14 by which he is now returned.

With reference to the Town of Goderich the result has taken very many by surprise. Considering the stories which were circulated we only wonder that the town did as well for Mr. Bishop. The electors were told that he had done all he could against the town, that he had voted to have our taxes increased, that he had endeavoured to have the country town removed from here, and other stories equally false and absurd. Goderich has had no better friend in the County Council than Mr. Bishop, and he has frequently stood up for our rights at the risk of losing his seat for doing so. And this is the return we make him.

But leaving Mr. Bishop aside so far as he is personally concerned, there is another reason why the town should have given a larger majority than ever for the Reform candidate. Up to the time the present Government came into power we were in a position of bankruptcy. Our Municipal Loan Fund indebtedness was hanging like a mill stone about our necks, crippling our resources and standing in the way of our making necessary improvements. No previous government had the resolution to grapple with the question, but the present one took it up, settled it in a manner eminently just and satisfactory, relieved us of a large portion of our indebtedness and placed us on a sound financial footing so that we know precisely how we stand. And on the first opportunity we show our gratitude by giving a majority against them! We offer that the people of the town are ashamed of themselves.

Mr. Bishop has been elected, up till Thursday afternoon there was some doubt of the result. On Wednesday evening the returns showed Mr. Case to have a majority of 47, and the Tories were wild with enthusiasm. Their shouts rent the air and a hugh bonfire was lighted, around which they danced with glee. Similiar demonstrations were indulged in at Seaforth, Clinton and elsewhere. Those who knew the riding however were satisfied there was some mistake in the figures from the township of Stanley, and though the result was doubtful, were still in hopes that Mr. Bishop was elected. On Thursday afternoon when the full returns were received and it became known that the Conservative Case was lost, a more crest fallen lot than the Tories could not be found anywhere. The Prog. organ in town had to suppress the five columns of matter, gloating over the result, which it had prepared, the party from town who went to Seaforth on special invitation to join in a celebration over the result had to return chop fallen, and dismay and desolation prevailed. Mr. Case found that the money he had spent on champagne for his friends under the delusion that he was the member elect was spent under false pretences, and he had to notify his friends not to send any more letters or telegrams addressed M. P. P. The Mail, London Herald and other Prog. papers which had published the first returns under sensational headings such as "John A. Macdonald vindicated," &c., (though they insisted during the canvass that Dominion politics had nothing to do with the election) were obliged to back down and console themselves with the fact that Mr. Bishop's majority was so small and that the town of Goderich had gone for Case. They still claim a "moral victory." Seeing their party have polled fewer votes than last year we trust they are still satisfied with their "moral victory."

On Thursday evening the result of the contest was celebrated here and elsewhere by bonfires and other celebrations, which were enjoyed with the more zest on account of the huge sell which had been perpetrated on the Tories.

Louis Riel M. P.

The election for the County of Provencher, Manitoba, to fill the seat vacant by the death of Sir George E. Cartier, took place on the 20th inst., and resulted in the return of Louis Riel, the rebel and murderer of Thomas Scott, by acclamation. The member elect, against whom a warrant for murder was recently issued, and who fled the country to escape arrest, is said to be on his way to Ottawa to take his seat when the House meets to-morrow. Whether he will be allowed to do so remains to be seen, but his election places Sir John A. Macdonald in a very awkward position. There is no doubt an amnesty was promised him and the others concerned in the rebellion of 1869-70, but the government has broken faith and not proclaimed it. When, a short time ago, warrants were well issued against Riel and Lepine, and the latter was arrested, Riel published the following protest:—

ST. VITAL, 17 Sept., 1873.

To-day Monsieur A. D. Lepine has been arrested at his residence in St Boniface and lodged in prison at Fort Garry by the authorities.

Monsieur A. D. Lepine is thus molested because he is accused of having taken part in "certain actions" authorized by the Provisional Government of Assiniboia in 1870. But the arrest of Monsieur A. D. Lepine for such a reason is a great injustice.

The Canadian Government, which has allowed it, has perjured itself twice in respect to us. First, it broke engagements it had authorized to be made in its name, and which Sir J. A. Macdonald and Sir G. E. Cartier had really made in its name in the month of May, 1870, with Judge Black, Rev. Pere Richot and Monsieur Alfred H. Scott, delegates of the Provisional Government of Assiniboia. Afterwards the Canadian Government was false to the word of honor of Our Wellbeloved and illustrious Archishop Monsignour Tache. For in the month of May, 1870, His Grace, laboring to reassure us to the good intentions and sincerity of the Canadian Government in treating with our delegates, gave me in name of Canada his word of honor that none of us would be troubled or molested for having taken part in the troubles that agitated the country, and that a general amnesty would be proclaimed before the arrival of the new Governor.

To-day, therefore, as Monsieur A. D. Lepine has been imprisoned contrary to the sworn promise (foi) of the Canadian Government, and as a large number of our fellowcitizens are pursued and molested by assassins and unjust warrants, I protest against the odious arrest of Monsieur A. D. Lepine, against the evils and persecutions to which the authorities have unjustly subjected us since the 24th of the month of August, 1870. I appeal to God—I appeal to men.

LOUIS RIEL.

Those who were acquainted with the circumstances of the rebellion never doubted that the amnesty was promised and the above protest leaves no doubt of it. La Minerve, a government organ, now admits that it was, and the fact goes to show the duplicity of Sir John A. Macdonald. In 1872, during the elections, Sir John said at Peterboro, when speaking of Riel, "God knew, he (John A.) wished they could catch him," and afterwards added, "Mr. Riel made himself scarce, and was now living in peace across the border ready to foment disturbances in that country, which was still a burning volcano." Later on, at Hamilton, he said:—"Riel and his friends had held possession of the country, and after a mock trial, foully murdered Scott." A voice in the crowd, interrupting the speaker, exclaimed "You did not try to catch him," to which Sir John A. Macdonald replied, "that was not true; Riel ran away before the expedition arrived." And he went on to remark that "Riel only sneaked back under the shelter of friendly half-breeds."

The country will be anxious to learn whether the amnesty which was promised to Father Richot and Alfred Scott when in Ottawa as delegates from Riel's government, to Bishop Tache shortly after, and which was doubtless renewed last year when Riel withdrew from the field in Provencher, and allowed Sir Geo. Cartier, who had been ignominiously defeated in Montreal, to be elected by acclamation, will now be openly proclaimed and justified, and the Premier of the Dominion be revealed as a hypocrite and liar, or whether he will make good his election utterances and "catch" Riel when he walks into his clutches. The conduct of the government throughout this matter has been disgraceful, they have been deceiving somebody, and if they have got themselves into a disagreeable fix they have their own duplicity to thank for it.

London, Huron and Bruce Railway.

It is announced that the contract for the construction of the above road has been awarded to Hendrie & Co. of Hamilton, and that the work will be proceeded with at once. Some miles north of London will be graded this fall and the entire distance between Clinton and Wingham during the winter. It is expected the entire line from London to Wingham will be opened for traffic by the 1st of January 1875. The tender of Hendrie & Co. was somewhat higher than some of the others submitted, but the Directors, in consideration of the fact that that firm would probably be able to complete the line some months before the stipulated time, and that the additional earnings so secured would make up the difference, decided to award it to them.

The financial arrangements of the Company promise good results. The Township bonuses will yield 97 per cent, the municipalities being willing to cash their own paper at that figure. The Bonds of the Company will find a favorable market, from the fact that 33 per cent. of the gross earnings are to be set aside under agreement with the Great Western, to meet the interest, and a subsequent 20 per cent. to act as a sinking fund to pay off the principal. This arrangement with a Company like the Great Western is equal to a guarantee on its part of the principal and interest, and will enable the bonds to be sold at a high figure—92 probably. The Government subsidy of $2 000 a mile will be payable in next cash, as the road progresses. Some parties still express a doubt whether the road will ever be completed but it certainly looks now as if it would. It must prove a great advantage to this county to have a road traversing it from north to south.

Since the above was written we learn that work was commenced at Wingham on Monday.

Unanimously Condemned.

The English press continue their denunciations of the rascally conduct of the government in selling the Pacific Railway charter to Sir Hugh Allan, as disclosed by the evidence of Sir John A. Macdonald before the Royal Commission. The Pall Mall Gazette, Times, Standard, Spectator, Saturday Review and Examiner, all of which are leading papers, have spoken out strongly in condemnation of the ministry, and declare that Canada will be disgraced in the eyes of the world if they are not at once turned out of power. Some of them go so far as to say that Lord Dufferin should at once dismiss them from office, select new advisers and dissolve the present corruptly elected parliament. In Canada the independent press has spoken in the same manner. The Canadian Monthly, Illustrated News, Trade Review and other publications which formerly gave the government a general support now condemn them in no mistakeable terms, and the religious press is of course loud in their denunciations. Our ministers are disgraced in the eyes of the world and unless they are hurled from power the county will share the disgrace with them. Our commercial as well as our political morality must suffer, and if it does we shall know on whom the responsibility rests. The press and the politicians who support the government in their disreputable acts must share the responsibility with them. By condoning the crime of their leaders they make themselves equally guilty. Let the people rise in their might and hurl from power those who have so debauched and disgraced this fair Canada of ours.

The Mail on the South Huron Election.

"The election of Mr. Case is a marked expression of confidence in Sir John Macdonald."

So wrote the Mail under the delusion that Mr. Case was elected. It must legitimately follow that his defeat is a "marked expression of" want of "confidence in Sir John Macdonald."

"It only requires that the record of this Government should be placed before the people of Ontario to secure their utter condemnation."—Mail.

It was placed before the people of South Huron and they did not express their "utter condemnation" of it, but their entire confidence in it.

"A great and noble victory has been won—a victory will give additional buoyancy and vigour to the true friends of honest and economical government in Canada. Electors of South Huron, we send you hearty greeting."—Mail.

Just so. We thank you for your congratulations.

What the Leader Says.

"We wonder whether the so-called Reform Party will be disposed to accept the verdict rendered by the electors of South Huron on Wednesday last, as a veritable indication of what public opinion actually is."—Leader.

Yes. They are quite disposed to accept of it.

"Mr. Case, a pronounced Liberal-Conservative, accepted the issues on these very grounds, (the position of the Dominion Government,) and, although a new man, and comparatively unknown in many parts of the riding, he faced his opponent, and, as we now know, has been victorious."—Leader.

A doubtful victory for either Mr. Case or the Dominion Government.

"We can assure our friends of South Huron that they have won a victory which cannot fail to be fruitful of results and beneficial to every Province of the Dominion of Canada."—Leader.

We trust it will also be beneficial as an index of the feeling in Ontario.

THE EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE, which is composed of eminent theologians and divines from all parts of the world, has just completed an interesting and successful series of meetings at New York.

Newspapers in Canada—the Future.

We quite agree with the following remarks of the London Advertiser under the above heading:—

We have several times taken occasion to remark that, in our opinion, the Press of Canada, taken as a whole, and considering the age and population of the country, has no reason to shirk comparison with the Press of any other English-speaking section of the globe. The most serious hindrance under which our journalism has labored has been the undue multiplication of newspapers. "Too many newspapers in the place" might be the truthful epitaph over the tombstone of almost any of the numerous feeble essays in journalism that have for a while shed their flickering light before disappearing in darkness for ever. It may be set down, we think, as not capable of successful controversion, that there is no city or town in Ontario in which more than two vigorous newspapers—one on each side of politics—can be remuneratively conducted. This is true of Toronto; it has been proved true of Hamilton by several signal illustrations; it is more true of London. No one has needed to be told that two Tory journals could not be profitably conducted in a place of the size of this city. If one flourished, it was necessarily at the expense of the other.

There is doubtless a law of "natural selection" in journalism, as well as in Darwin's natural world, which secures "the survival of the fittest." For that matter, however, the public are not so blind as to need to be told what journals are most largely circulated, what journals are most business like and energetically conducted, what journals are prosperous. Now we think it highly probable, putting aside for the moment the thinning out of the garden-plants of journalism hinted at, that the crop of aspirants for newspaperial emoluments and honors will not hereafter be quite so extensive in Canada as has hitherto been the case. In the beginning to be felt that a certain training, certain aptitudes, are needed in the successful journalist; and that it does not follow, because a man is a successful dentist or blacksmith, that he would be "the right man in the right place" in the editorial chair. Another cause which will perhaps tend to prevent a certain class from rushing in where angels fear to tread, is the fact that it now requires a large capital and large current expenditures to produce a wide-awake, energetic daily or weekly newspaper. The result will be the advantage of the public; if they have fewer newspapers, they will have better ones.

Meeting of Parliament.

The Dominion Parliament meets at Ottawa to-morrow and speculation is rife as to whether the government will be sustained or not. It is stated that in order to escape defeat they will ask for a Committee to consider the evidence taken before the Royal Commission and to receive further evidence. A short time ago it was averred that a Commission was the only competent tribunal to investigate the Pacific Railway Scandal, now the government are willing to grant a Commission. Why did they not do it before, when the house met on the 13th of August? The proceedings of the Legislature will be watched with much interest.

The Municipal Elections.

The Tories having by falsehood and misrepresentation succeeded in gaining a small majority in town, threaten to make politics the test question at the next municipal elections, and are laying their plans accordingly. Of course in their canvass they will repudiate any such intention, but we warn our Reform friends and those who disapprove of introducing politics into our local affairs, to be on their guard and not to dodge their votes. If the Tories will introduce politics Reformers must meet them on their own ground, and on the heads of the former be the responsibility of the bickerings and ill feeling which are sure to follow from the course they are pursuing.

Surrender of the Charter.

Sir Hugh Allan has surrendered the charter for the building of the Pacific Railway. It was Hobson's choice. He could do nothing else after the recent disclosures and his failure in England to raise the money to carry on the work.

—Speaking of the South Huron election, under the delusion that Mr Case was elected, the London Herald says:—"We hope we will not be accused of conceit if we flatter ourselves that a great portion of this change is owing to the influence which the Herald has obtained in the riding."

We hope our confrere is still satisfied with its influence when it knows that its candidate was defeated and that the Conservatives polled 49 votes less than at the last election. This result does not say much for the influence of the Herald.

LOCAL NEWS

MAPLE LEAF QUADRILLES.—We have to thank the publishers, Messrs A. & S. Nordheimer of Toronto, for a copy of the above just issued by them. They are very pretty and introduce a number of well known airs.

HARDWARE.—Mr. Lambert Wells has purchased the bankrupt stock of Hardware of the firm of H. Gardiner & Co. and intends to dispose of it at first cost and under. Those who want bargains had better give him a call.

STEAM BARGE HERALD.—We understand this vessel, while on her way to this port with a cargo of coal for W. Seymour & Co, met with an accident which detains her at Sarnia for repairs. We have not learned the extent of the damage.

FARM FOR SALE.—As will be seen by advertisement in another column, Mr. Fenton of Hamilton offers for sale a lot of 100 acres in Ashfield, within 1 mile of Port Albert and 10 of Goderich. The lot is heavily wooded with valuable timber and will be good for farming purposes after the timber is taken off. The Nine Mile River flows through the lot.

SALE OF THE RIDGE.—Henry Y. Attrill, Esq., of Baltimore, Maryland, has purchased the Ridge property from Sir A. T. Galt, also 9 acres adjoining, from the Widder estate. Mr. Attrill, who visited our town last summer and was much pleased with it, and whose family spent the season here, intends to use the property as a summer residence.

CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP AND NAME.—The last issue of the Clinton New Era contains the "valedictory" of E. Holmes and the "salutatory" of E. Grigg, the former having disposed of the office and good will of the business to the latter. The name of the paper will be changed to the Monitor and it will be conducted in the Conservative interest. We wish Mr. Grigg success.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Geo. Cox was on the evening of the 10th inst., presented by the teachers of the Wesleyan Sunday School in this town, with a purse containing a considerable sum of money, on the occasion of his retiring from the office of Superintendent of the school, a position he has held for over twenty years.

ENTERPRIZE.—Our local contemporary, which did not appear till Friday afternoon last, failed to give the result of the election which took place on Wednesday, though it was known early on Thursday that Mr. Bishop was elected. It only gave the vote in the town and the returns which came in on Wednesday night showing a majority of 47 for Mr. Case, and these latter it copied from the Globe. As it was known on Thursday that Mr. Bishop was elected by a majority of 14, the conduct of our cotem. in attempting to deceive the public is not very creditable.

DISGRACEFUL CONDUCT.—On Sunday evening last, about 8 o'clock, some parties, whose names we will abstain from mentioning in the hope that they will not be guilty of like conduct again, drove into town and around the square, shouting and singing in a very rowdy manner. Such conduct is disgraceful at any time but more especially on the Sabbath.

BUSINESS CHANGES.—Mr. Johnson of the firm of Johnston & Kerr, Hardware Merchants, has disposed of his interest in the business to Robert McKenzie, late of Moore & McKenzie. The firm will henceforth be known as Kerr & McKenzie. Mr. Daniel Gordon has taken Mr. McKenzie's place in the firm which the latter has left, and that business will be carried on by the firm of Moore & Gordon.

SPECIAL NOTICE.—G. McBroom, seedsman, London, Ont., has received by steamer from Rotterdam, Holland, 169 packages of choice bulbs for fall planting, comprising Hyacinths, Tulips, Crocuses, Lilies, &c. These bulbs will be forwarded to any address at the prices named in the catalogue and free of express or mail charges. Send for catalogue. Please reserve your order for seeds till you receive my Descriptive Catalogue and Amateurs' Guide for 1874. 1390 4w

ROTHWELL & HOLBROOK.—These gentlemen will be in town on Friday and Saturday next and give a free exhibition of the skill and power they possess in training and subduing horses. They were present at the Provincial Exhibition in London and attracted considerable attention. They are prepared to break in horses that are fractious or given to bad tricks and to give instruction in their system of doing so. They will drive through the streets without bit or reins and make some wonderful exhibitions of the power of man over the brute creation and the tractability of the horse when properly treated.

SUMMER HOTEL.—As will be seen by the proceedings of the Town Council, that body have decided to submit a by-law to the people forthwith, to grant a bonus of $5000 in aid of the erection of a summer hotel in town. Should the by-law be passed a special act of parliament will be asked for to legalize the granting of the bonus, as under the present act there is a doubt whether the corporation can grant money for such a purpose. We trust the people will have no hesitation in passing the by-law, as the outlay will be amply repaid by the increased business which will ensue from the large influx of visitors, which the providing of proper accomodation will induce to come here.

PROF. MARTIN.—Prof. Martin, Wizard and Ventriloquist, visited our town last week and gave six performances in Crabb's Hall, including a Matinee on Saturday afternoon for ladies and children. The professor is a wonderful performer, his sleight of hand and other tricks being perfectly marvellous. His dancing dolls are capital and afford much amusement to the children, and as a ventriloquist he is an a-1. A number of useful presents are distributed every evening and at Saturday's performance every child present received a gift. The professor is well deserving of patronage.

STORM SIGNAL.—A storm signal is about to be erected here to be under the direction of the Magnetic Observatory in Toronto. It will consist of a mast with a signal drum, which will be hoisted when a storm may be looked for. At night the drum will contain a white light. The science of storms is now so well understood that they can be foretold with great accuracy, and although the storm may not reach the point where the signal is displayed it is almost sure to prevail in the neighbourhood. The mast will be erected near the lighthouse and its keeper will receive the telegrams from Toronto ordering the hoisting or lowering of the drum, and will attend to it.

TO-DAY comes promptly to hand, and is, as usual, filled with highly-interesting reading. It's sister department is unusually good, and its illustrations excellent. Prof. Pierre Blot contributes his usual semi-monthly chapter on Cookery, while Dio Lewis' department is admirably adapted to the present season. But perhaps the most interesting paper in the present number is that of Prof. John Wise the aeronaut, entitled, "The Graphic Balloon—The True story of its Construction." We think the Professor has acted wisely in waiting until the excitement had subsided, and until the subsequent failure of the balloon to answer the purpose for which it was intended—even after it was inflated and started on its mission—had proven the correctness of his opinions, and the justice of his protests; and now he lays his side of the case before the public in that same quiet and matter-of-fact style that has characterized his former articles in To-Day. It will be read carefully by all who have taken an interest in the subject. To-Day is published at 733 Sansom Street, Philadelphia.

POINT FARM HOTEL.—We had the pleasure the other day of inspecting the plans of the new hotel which Mr. J. J. Wright of this town intends to erect at the Point Farm 4 miles from town. The buildings will form three sides of a square, the main building being 230 feet by 34. It will face the south and from its western extremity a wing 100 x 40 feet will run back. This wing will contain a dining room 70 x 40 feet. The kitchen, laundry, &c. will be contained in a wing 70 x 20 feet, which will form the third side of the square. The main building will be three stories high and the wings two stories. The main entrance will be through a projecting tower in the centre of the building. This tower will be 70 feet in height and will be surmounted by a neat railing and flag pole. There will be 350 feet of verandah and numerous balconies. The house will accomodate 200 guests, and a number of persons have already made remittances to secure rooms for next season. Building operations will be commenced at once and vigorously prosecuted. We wish there were more people of Mr. Wright's energy in Goderich, and we trust his present undertaking will prove amply remunerative to him.

Moved by Mr. Smaill, seconded by Mr. Gordon, that tenders be advertised for, for the extension of the Main Sewer along Elgin Street to north side of Brittania Road.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

Grey.

HOUSE BURNED.—Robert Barr, of lot 21, Con. 9. Grey, had his house burnt on Saturday morning, about 4 o'clock. Mr. Barr was aroused by the noise of the fire, and arose only in time to rescue his children, who were sleeping in the second story. Nothing was saved but a few bed clothes. The house was a good two-story frame. Mr. Barr cannot account in any way for the fire. No insurance.—Expositor.

Wroxeter.

COON HUNT.—While three little girls, daughters of Mr. Thomas Gibson, farmer, of Howick, were coming through the bush they encountered a racoon, to which they gave chase, and having succeeded in treeing the animal, the eldest, a girl of twelve, stationed her two youngest sisters at the foot of the tree, and ran home to procure an axe, with which she cut down the tree, and despatched the coon.—Expositor.

McKillop.

A SUDDEN DEATH.—A son of Mr. Jas Hastie of this Township, aged 15 years, died very suddenly a few days ago. The boy was at school on Tuesday and was a corpse on Saturday night. The disease, we learn was inflamation of the bowels—though it isn't usual for this disease to kill so quick. Mr. Hastie has the sympathy of the neighborhood in his sad bereavement.

Brussels.

From the Post.

IMMENSE POTATOES.—A monster potato, weighing 3 lbs and another weighing 2¼ lbs., were left at our office on Thursday last by Mr. Thos. W. Williamson, of 18th con. Grey. We never saw such murphies for size before. We "raised" those potatoes, Saturday at dinner time. Mr. Williamson thinks he can't be made to take a back seat on big potatoes.

AN OUTRAGE.—On Saturday, the 5th inst., an ox belonging to Mr. W. G. Hingston was missed from the field. Nothing was heard of the animal until the following Sabbath, when some boys of Mr. Kerr, a neighbor, discovered the animal in their bush, dead, and with bullet holes in its side. Mr. Hingston offers a reward of $50 for the apprehension of the villain who killed the poor creature.

Clinton.

RUNAWAYS.—On Friday evening last, while the Commercial Hotel 'bus was coming from the Station, the horses took fright by the line breaking, when near the Queen's Hotel, and ran away. The driver was thrown from the top of the bus but fortunately escaped unhurt. The horses continued on until they reached the corner of Albert and Huron Streets, where they were brought to a standstill by the tongue of the bus striking a post. The tongue bent and broke, and a piece of it tore along the horse's side for about a foot, making a frightful gash. Under veterinary treatment, the horse is recovering. Another runaway took place on the same evening. Mr. Rutledge's (of the Bayfield Con.) horses, taking fright from the runaway 'bus, started down Albert Street and then down the Bayfield Road, where they were luckily brought to a dead stop just beyond the Railway, by the waggon running into a culvert. No damage.—New Era.

Seaforth.

PUBLIC HEALTH.—The epidemic of Diphtheria is subsiding. Scarlet fever is nearly at an end. The few cases of Typhoid fever are recovering and no new cases are reported.

A NEW CROSSING.—We have a new crossing in front of Mr. Counter's shop, passing from thence over to a point near Mr. Thos. Lee's grocery. It has been put through by private enterprise.

BONFIRES.—We had a bonfire on Wednesday night in front of Dr. McNaught's house on Victoria Square, in honor of Case's return, and on Thursday night another bonfire on the same ground in honor of Bishop's election. On the latter occasion a large crowd gathered, and short addresses were delivered by the following gentlemen in order as their names occur,—Dr. Coyne, Bell, Thos. Ballantyne of Downie, M. Y. McLean, D. D. Wilson and B. Shantz, after which the two concourses separated after giving three cheers for Bishop and three for the Queen.

West Wawanosh.

ACCIDENT.—We regret to learn that C. Girvin, Reeve of West Wawanosh, and two other parties named Sheppard and Holland, met with quite an accident a few days ago. They were driving together in a buggy when the horse from some reason became restive, began to kick up its heels and finally ran into the ditch upsetting the buggy. All three were thrown out and severely injured. Mr. Girvin fell on his head and was so stunned that it was some hours before he returned to consciousness. He is still suffering from the effect of his mishap but is gradually recovering.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met to-day (29 Sept)—pursuant to adjournment. All the members present, Reeve in the chair.

Mr. A. D. Campbell appeared respecting part of lot 22, con. 10, which he purchased at a tax sale in 1869, the same having been illegally sold. Mr. Campbell offered to take $100 and relinquish all claim on said lot.

Moved by Chas. Durnin, seconded by E. Gaunt, that this council offer Mr. Campbell $75 and he give a deed free of all expenses.

Mr. Campbell offered to take $75 and the council pay all expenses, which was accepted.

Moved by C. Durnin, seconded by E. Gaunt that the Clerk get a deed made out and send to Mr. Campbell for proper execution. Carried.

Moved by D. McIlwain, seconded by Wm. Kinahan, that the Treasurer send Mr. Campbell $75 on receipt of a deed properly executed. Carried.

Minary, for building bridge on 4 & 5 con. line $27; James Smith for approaches to said bridge $2; Thomas Alexander cutting hill on 8 & 9 con. line $6; James Smith building bridge on 14 con. between lots 18 & 19 $30.

Moved by E. Gaunt, seconded by D. McIlwain that this council now adjourn to meet again on Saturday the 15th November.

Carrick, seconded by P. S. Guigher, that the amount of $4 be refunded to Wm. Coldwell, as charged against him last year for statute labour, he having done the said work this year, under the superintendence of Robert Eaton, pathmaster—Carried. Moved by S. Rannie, seconded by Wm. Carrick, that the Clerk be, and is hereby instructed to prepare by-laws to enable the Council to levy and raise, by rate and tax, of and from all the rateable property in the township, in this present year (1873,) the following sums, for the purposes hereinafter mentioned, viz.: For special school rate, as per orders from trustees, $5,662; for township purposes, $1,209; general school rate for County, $524; for County purposes, as per notification from County Clerk, $2,788—Carried. Exeter

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—On Saturday, 11th inst., a meeting of teachers and others interested in education was called at Exeter by J. R. Miller, Public School Inspector, for the purpose of organizing a Teachers' Institute. There were about forty in attendance during the day, three-fourths of whom are actively engaged in teaching. The organization was formed, and named the Exeter District Teachers' Institute. The following officers were elected:—J. R. Miller, Public School Inspector, President; T. Blatchford, Vice President, and S. P. Halls, Secretary and Treasurer. It was also decided that this Institute meet on the second Saturday of each alternate month.

Mr. Halls then illustrated his method of teaching the very important but much neglected subject of Composition. He gave abundant evidence of being well able to perform his part of the programme. To say the least, his method is admirable, and worthy of imitation. As soon as he had resumed his seat a motion for adjournment was made and carried.

At 1.30 p. m. the members again met, and Mr. T. Blatchford illustrated his method of teaching reading to beginners. A class was formed out of those present, and Mr. B. began teaching them as he would a lot of little children, exercising their risibilities in no inconsiderable degree.

Mr. Miller then gave quite a lengthy and interesting address on school organization. After Mr. Miller had concluded, the following resolution was moved, seconded by S. P. Halls, seconded by T. Blatchford, that this meeting learns with much regret that Mr. Currie, late Principal of the Exeter school, has been compelled on account of ill health to resign his position as such. The teachers of this district therefore take this the earliest opportunity of expressing their sincere sympathy with him in the circumstance; and further they hereby express their high regard for him as teacher; and while we regret that he has been compelled to give up the work of our profession for a time, we earnestly hope that his health will soon be restored, and that he may yet again adorn the profession by his talents, and test the management of schools.

Mr. Curry being present, was taken rather by surprise, and feeling as he did indisposed at the time, made a few appropriate remarks, promising to reply more fully through the press, which he has since done. The meeting was a success. Mr. Miller intends to hold similar meetings at Varna and Dungannon.

Presbytery of Huron

The Presbytery of Huron held its quarterly meeting at Clinton, on Tuesday, 14th inst.

Mr. Barr gave a report setting forth that he declined the pulpit of Duff's church, vacant according to instruction a of Presbytery. Mr. McLean reported that he dispensed the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper at Ethel; that the congregation there is very prosperous under Mr. Thomson—thirty enrolling themselves as members in full communion, and that three Elders, Messrs. Spence, McKelvie and Bowes, were ordained in due form.

In view of the prayer of a petition of Rev. Charles Fletcher, of Goderich, the Presbytery agreed to commend his case to the favorable consideration of the Assembly's Committee on the aged and infirm ministers' fund, in order that he may be dealt with as liberally as the funds will admit of. Much of the time of the Presbytery was spent over a case of reference of the congregation of Duff's Church, McKillop, in regard to receiving supply, and the state of the congregation generally, when at length it was agreed to request Mr. McLean to give three Sabbaths to that congregation within the next three months, the Presbytery meanwhile agreeing to supply Mr McLean's pulpit in the event of his going.

A suitable minute was adopted expressive of the Presbytery's regard for Mr. McDiarmid, whose resignation was accepted at last regular meeting.

Mr. Gracy, on behalf of the Committee appointed to visit the congregation of Egmondville, gave a report setting forth that the congregation was exceedingly anxious to maintain their present organization, and resolved to remove the present arrears, and to do their utmost in the future to pay the Minister's stipend, but that in the event of their not being able to do so, that they would look to the Presbytery for aid.

Mr. McCuaig gave a report on Home Missions, giving a lengthened statement of the Mission work, &c., within the bounds of the Presbytery.

In accordance with the prayer of a petition from Cranbrook and Ethel, it was resolved to send Mr. Thomson, a student, to labor there for the winter months. Mr. Young was appointed Moderator ad interim of the Session of Dungannon, and Messrs. Jackson and Carrochan, Elders, were associated with him as assessors. Power was granted to Mr. Young to moderate in a call at Dungannon, if he should see cause before next meeting.

A Committee consisting of Messrs. Goldsmith, Ross and D. D. Wilson, was appointed to arrange for Missionary Meetings to be held during the winter.

The consideration of the financial report of the congregations was delayed till next meeting. The next meeting is to be held in Seaforth, on the second Tuesday of January, 1874.

At the R. C. bazaar in Stratford, lately, $300,50 was realized from voting on a cane to the most popular man.

Parson Bros., oil dealers, Toronto, have suspended. Assets, $200,000, liabilities, $80,000.

Col. Saunders, Clerk of the Peace for the County of Wellington, died a few days since at an advanced age.

One hundred tons of spikes were used in changing the gauge of the Grand Trunk Railway.

A number of farmers in the County of Bruce are forming themselves into companies of a dozen or more, for the purchase of threshing machines.

Jolly, the High School teacher who uttered a forged cheque, has been found guilty at the Hamilton Assizes and sentenced to three years in the Penitentiary.

Lieut.-Col. French, of Kingston, will probably receive the appointment of Superintendent of the Mounted Police in the North-west vice Fabenne Smith, resigned.

The Northern Railway will change its gauge next year; the Midland is making preparations to do so immediately, and all the other lines of the broad gauge must follow suit.

In his address before the Waterloo Teacher's Institute in Berlin, last week, Mr. Sangster said he never knew a teacher worth his salt that considered his work was over at 4 o'clock.

A small tombstone, about two or three feet in height, bearing the words "Joseph Howe," has been placed over the grave of the late Lieut. Gov. of Nova Scotia in Camp Hill Cemetery.

The Hon. Mr. Langevin, who received a large haul from Sir Hugh's corruption fund, is openly accused of appropriating most of the money to his own use. The old theory of "honor among thieves" has received a shock.

A fire originating from a singular cause occured at Charing Cross on the 15th. In boring a well at the Dominion House water was struck at a depth of 119 feet, which was followed by a rush of gas, which, exploding, set fire to the hotel and totally destroyed it; loss, $3,500.

The Ottawa Citizen, in reply to the unanimous denunciation of the Government by the leading organs of the British Press, bravely declares "we can live without their good opinion." This is on a par with the beggars' motto, "Let them cant about decorum who have characters to lose."

The St. Catharines Times says:—Sheriff Woodruff and four other Saints have been off to the Long Point regions for a week's duck shooting. In five days they killed three tons of ducks. This is a genuine true story, which we can vouch for, as we have it from the sheriff's own lips. If this isn't duck shooting we should like to know what is.

It is reported, we know not with how much authority, that Lord Dufferin, backed up as he is—almost unanimously—by English and Canadian opinion, will, after he receives the official report from the Royal Commission, dismiss his advisers and select new ones. That this would be a proper course no one can doubt.

In Brantford Central School, the other day, a class was engaged upon the reading lesson entitled "True Greatness." The teacher took occasion to call for examples of greatness, and received for replies, John Milton, William Morley Punshon, Napoleon Bonaparte, the Duke of Wellington, Rev. Mr. Cochrane, &c.; then he asked for the name of some one morally depraved but intellectually great, and the answer at once giving was, "John A. Macdonald."

A new feature was introduced at the late fall fair held at Ailsa Craig, by the North Middlesex Agricultural Society. The innovation will be best understood by the following extract from the prize list: "Best looking Irishman, W. K. Atkinson; 2d, Nelson Smith. Best looking Scotchman, S. Lake. Best, looking Dutchman, R. J. Potter. Best looking Welshman, P. Matthews. Best looking Canadian, Duncan A. P. Graham." We take it for granted that a committee of ladies acted as judges.

FAIRBANK'S SCALES.—The readers of THE WORLD have been informed through its Vienna correspondence of the success of the various American inventions in the great Exposition, and of all the various articles of labor-saving machinery there exhibited none is more deserving of the award granted it than the celebrated Fairbanks' Scale. These scales have been referred to in our courts of law as the "standard," as the weight they indicate is always accepted by both buyer and seller. Some years ago, when exposing the false weights of various dealers in this city, THE WORLD did its test weighing upon a Fairbanks' Scale, from which (as from a court of last resort) there could be no appeal. The highest prize at Paris in 1867, and now in Vienna, with the approval of the entire commercial classes, not only of this country but everywhere, stamps the Fairbanks' Scales as the one every dealer should possess.—N. Y. World Sept. 16th, 1873. 1392

ANOTHER CLAIMANT.—A person claiming to be the real, old, original Arthur Orton arrived in London. Of the Tichborne case it may truthfully be said, "the plot thickens."

The Canadian Illustrated News says its leanings were always in Sir John A. Macdonald's favor, and that it confidently hoped the evidence before the Royal Commission would have put matters in a more favorable light for the Government. It is sorry to be compelled to confess to "profound disappointment" at the result. The News says: "We had expected a far more thorough and satisfactory defence from Sir John A. Macdonald." The News adds that a change of Government must be regarded as not only desirable but certain.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE PURE FREE FROM ALCOHOL

D. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the off-springs of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Painters, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuge, no anthelmintics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

The Quill.

[The following is an impromptu poem read by the Rev. W. F. Clarke, of Guelph, at the recent meeting of the Press Association in London.]

Before all pens of steel or gold
Give me a good goose quill,
Readily made, easy to hold,
And pliant to your will.

Over the pages it swiftly goes,
From side to side in a trice,
Fleet as a sleigh o'er the beaten snows,
Or a skater on the ice.

It never runs against a snag,
Like pens of metal made,
And throws them all, whate'er their brag,
Completely in the shade.

Give pens of steel to business clerks
And secretaries trim,
Who write, adjuring twists and quirks,
In letters stiff and prim.

Give pens of gold to love-born swains,
And sentimental misses,
Dapperly things to note their pains,
And register their bliss.

But give to me howe'er uncouth,
A good old fashioned quill,
My trusty friend in early youth,
And loved companion still.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A good natured spinster used to boast that she always had two beaux; they were elbows.

What is the difference between an angler and a dunce?—One baits his hook; the other hates his book.

A French writer has described a young lady as a creature that ceases to kiss gentlemen at ten and begins again at seventeen.

How to Get Rid of Corns.— Rub them over with toasted cheese, and let your feet hang out of bed for a night or two. If the mice do their duty, the cure will be sufficient.

When yor pocket-book gets empty, and every body knows it, you can put all your friends in it, and it will not "bulge out worth a cent."

Josh Billings says:—"It is a statistical fact that the wicked work harder to reach hell than the righteous do to reach heaven.

Fast young men declare that the great beauty of an ocean voyage "is that you can get as tight as you please and people think you are only sea sick."

A poor man, who was ill, being asked by a gentleman whether he had taken any remedy, replied 'No, I ain't taken any remedy, but I've taken lots of physic."

A negro was put upon the stand as a witness, and the judge inquired if he knew the nature of an oath. "For certing, boss," said the citizen: "If I swear to a lie I must stick to him!"

'What's your business?' asked a judge of a prisoner at the bar. 'Well, I s'pose you might call me a locksmith.' 'When did you last work at your trade?' 'Last night; when I heard a call for a perlice I made a bolt for the front door.'

A Careful Scot.—A man who was discovered asleep among a lot of tombstones in a stonecutter's yard, said on being awakened, that he had come in to buy a monument for himself, and having picked out one, made up his mind he would try it one night before purchasing.

"What's the matter there, Alice? Don't your shoes fit?" "No, papa, they don't fit me at all," replied the little one. And then she enumerated all the faults of the shoes in set terms, and reached the climax thus—"Why, they don't even squeak when I go out for a walk."

At a recent tea party in the Highlands a young man who had been relating his more than wonderful exploits in various parts of the globe was not a little set back by the remark of an old traveller. "Young man, ain't you ashamed to talk so when there are older liars at the table?"

A clergyman once, when reading the burial service, came to the place where he must say, "our deceased brother (or sister)." He did not know which; so, turning to a mourner; he asked whether it was a "brother or a sister." The mourner innocently said, "No relation at all, sir—only an acquaintance."

Among different nations there are different kinds of loafers. The Italian loafer spends his time in sleeping, the Turkish loafer in dreaming, the Spanish in praying, the French in laughing, the English in swearing, the Russian in gambling, the Hungarian is smoking, the German in drinking, and the Amer-

Perhaps the Proper Reason.—A minister in the country was preaching his farewell sermon, and took for his text, Acts, xx. 22. "I go bound in the spirit to Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me." "Ah!" said one of the elders, who was not much concerned at the ministerial change, loudly enough, "Weel kens he that the stipend is fifty pun' better whaur he's gaun than it is here."

Will Hamilton's Manners.—Will Hamilton, the "daft man o' Ayr," was once hanging about the vicinity of a loch, which was partially frozen. Three young ladies were deliberating as to whether they would venture upon the ice, when one of them suggested that Will should be asked to walk on it first. The proposal was made to him. "Though I'm daft, I'm no ill-bred," quickly responded Will; "after you, leddies."

A Deep Joke.—'Here we are now, within a quarter of a mile of land,' was the joyful announcement made by the captain of an ocean steamer to his grumbling passengers. Where? Which way is it?' were the eager interrogations which followed. 'Anywhere down below there,' said the captain, pointing to the bottom of the sea; 'the lead gives us just two hundred and twenty fathoms of water, and the land comes slap up against the brine.'

"Mother wants to know if you'll please lend her your preserving kettle, 'cause you know as how we want to preserve." "We should with pleasure, boy, but the truth is, the last time we loaned it to your mother she preserved it so effectually that we have not seen it since." "Well, you needn't be easy about your old kettle. It was full of holes when we borrowed it, and mother wouldn't trouble you again but she seen you bringing home a new one."

An Unwilling Elder.—Mr. Shirra, of Kirkcaldy, on one occasion went to a member of his church who had been elected an elder, but who declined the honor, as he had done on several occasions previously. Mr. Shirra said he would serve his edict, and call him in the church for ordination. The edict was duly served on the day appointed, and the recusant called by name. The elder rose and said with earnestness and solemnity, that he was not suitedf for such an officer. Mr. Shirra stopped his mouth, saying, "Come awa doun; do ye no ken that the Master had ance need o' an ass?"

It is funny that about the only things ever said good or bad about George III. are comprised, in the following. It is likely that no King ever lived to be so old and reign so long, of whom so little, good, bad or indifferent, has ever been said. He had a singular habit of repeating his words. On seeing a piebald horse for the first time, he exclaimed, "Hallo! what's that horse painted for?" When told that it was its natural color, it was a piebald, he said, "O, piebal, piebal, piebal!" "The apple dumplings," he said, "very nice, but how the 'mischief did they get the apples inside! No seams, no seam, no seam." Voila tout.

A Beautiful Horse.—There is nothing that can contribute so much to render the horse beautiful and elegant, to improve his condition and make him all that is desirable, as "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy;" it has been used by many persons who own valuable carriage and other horses with decided success, and so well pleased are they with it that they always keep it on hand in case of emergency; it may be given at all times with perfect safety. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, Ont.; proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

Special Notices.

Breakfast.—Epps's Cocoa.—Grateful and Comforting.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills."—Civil service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk. Each packet is labelled—"James Epps & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, London."

Manufacture of Cocoa.—"We will now give an account of the process adopted by Messrs James Epps & Co., manufacturers of dietetic articles, at their works in the Euston Road, London."—Cassell's Household Guide. 1341.

BOGUS MEDICINES.

Holloway's Pills and Ointment.

I HAVE for a considerable time past considered it to be my duty to advertise the public of the British North American Provinces against buying from unprincipled dealers medicines emanating from New York, and sold as my "Holloway's Pills and Ointment," in which much ingenuity has been displayed in passing them off as of my make. It is very difficult indeed to attempt to enumerate the many devices to which the parties have had recourse. They say, amongst other things, that a new label has been adopted by them, and with barefaced effrontery caution the public against being deceived by spurious imitations.

A poor man by the name of Holloway is employed by the so-called Chemical Company in New York, who lends his name for a small weekly sum. The medicines sold by this Company are palmed off upon the public as my "Holloway's Pills and Ointment," so that were they to injure half the community no discredit would fall upon the fabricators of these compounds, but would considerably damage the reputation of my make.

As it is not at all necessary for this Crew to incur any expense in the sale of their productions, or to a very limited extent (trading as they do my name), they are in a position to offer them at a very low price in Canada, where they are purchased by a few Wholesale Houses that I can name, and will name hereafter, if they continue to vend the same.

The following are the names and addresses of some of the Houses who get my medicines from here direct:—

Messrs. Avery, Brown & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. Forsyth & Co., Halifax, N. S.
Messrs. T. B. Barker & Sons, St. John, N. B.
Mr. T. Des Brisay, Charlotte Town, P. E. I.
Messrs. Langley & Co., Victoria, B. C.
Messrs. Moore & Co., Victoria, B. C.

My Pills and Ointment are sold at the lowest wholesale net prices, in quantities of not less than £20 worth—viz., 8s. 6d., 22s., 34s. per dozen boxes of Pills or pots of Ointment, for which remittances must be sent in advance. These medicines are not sold in the United States.

Each Pot and Box of my preparations bears the British Government Stamp, with the words, "Holloway's Pills and Ointment, London."

(Signed) THOMAS HOLLOWAY,
533, Oxford Street, W. C.,
London, July 1, 1873. 1381

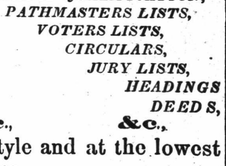
Iron in the Blood



MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by a corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.
