WITH CECIL LEITCH OUT INTEREST CENTERS IN EDITH'S MATCH

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 6.—Miss Cecil Leitch, British, French and Canadian champion, having been eliminated in the United States woman's national championship tournament at the Hollywood Golf Club, interest to-day centered in the match between Miss Edith Leitch, sister of the British champion, and Miss Elaine Rosenthal, of Chicago, and that between Mrs. Latham Hall, of England, and Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, Ga., the defending United States champion.

Mrs. F. C. Letts, jr., of Chicago, conqueror of Miss Cecil Leitch, was expected to have a hard match to-day with the able and steady Miss Marion Hollins, of New York.

Miss Edith Leitch was not regarded highly by United States golfers at the beginning of the tournament, but no player has shown as much skill with the irons and on the greens, and to-day it is generally admitted she is a contender for the title.

McGILL EASILY PLAYS AROUND MONTREALERS

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—Working out privately against the McGill squad at the stadium yesterday afternoon the M. A. A. A. rugby team failed to show any improvement over their form displayed in the opening game in the "Big Four" against Ottawa last Saturday, and the intercollegiate squad had little trouble in handling their opponents. The only redeeming features of the winged wheel team's performance was the work of Joe O'Brien on the half-line and the showing made by Hamilton, who has been shifted from right inside to flying wing.

Ottawas Hard Nuts To Crack

Hamilton Tigers Will Probably Lose Their Second Straight Game On Saturday.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—The Journal sport editor says this morning: "Ottawas will face a team of desperate men when they go against the Tigers. The latter have been the butt of gibes in their own papers, the jungle fans have roasted them unmercifully, and the only way the Tigers can save their good name is to beat the Senators.

"This will be a tough job, as Ottawas are traveling on high gear and are not going to make many slips.

"Dave McCann sent the Ottawas through another beneficial work-out last night, at which two teams practiced for over an hour.

"Ottawas have added considerable driving power to their offensive since last week. They should beat the Tigers here next Saturday unless the latter show a startling reversal of form, which is hardly warranted by their game against Argonauts."

HULL BLIND PIGS VISITED BY OFFICERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—Seventy-five operatives of the Quebec Liquor Commission, under the command of A. Bourassa, who is in charge of the investigating branch of the commission, aided by Inland Revenue Collector T. J. Purcell, Bailiff A. Mousette and a squad of Hull City police, swooped down on those engaged in the "bootlegging" in Hull this afternoon, in the largest raid of its kind ever attempted in this part of the country.

Over 70 alleged "blind pigs" were visited and liquor valued at over $10,000 was seized.

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE BECOMES MORNING PAPER

LONDON, Oct. 5.—London is to have a new morning paper. The Westminster Gazette, whose politics are moderate Liberal, as represented by the Asquith element of the party, is to be transferred to that field.

Sir William Robertson Nicoll, editor of The British Weekly, in announcing the transformation, says that The Gazette's size and appearance will be somewhat like The Times and the price will be twopence. H. A. Spender will be political director. It is also announced that "the experiment has behind it very influential support."

MAY AGREE ON TAX BILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. — Radical revisions of the tax bill, by agreement among the Senate Republicans, was in prospect to-day as a result of conferences yesterday between various factions.

Saved Two Lives.

Two lives were saved when a local housewife used Mir-A-cle in her wash machine—the life of the machine and the life of the clothes.

The addition to the suds of Mir-A-cle, the wonder washing cream, reduced the amount of rubbing required. No hand rubbing was needed at all. Order Mir-A-cle from your grocer.

OATS SLOW SALE AT $1.30 TO $1.40

Potatoes Bring $1.50 To $1.75 Per Bushel.

There was a fairly good local market to-day, with an abundance of vegetables offered. Potatoes sold for 55 to 60 cents a peck and $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel. A large quantity of celery brought 10 to 20 cents a bunch.

Oats were a slow sale, new oats bringing from $1.30 to $1.40 a cwt. Several carloads have been shipped in, which probably accounts for the lack of buying.

Hay sold for $17 to $20 a ton. Straw sold for the same price as yesterday, $12 to $13. Fourteen loads were sold on Wednesday.

Eggs were steady and were quoted at 44 to 45 cents wholesale and 48 to 50 cents by the dozen retail.

Butter was stationary, selling at 40 cents wholesale and from 42 to 45 cents retail.

A few baskets of grapes were offered at 65 to 75 cents.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Although new low record prices on wheat were touched in the wheat market to-day advances later were scored. Offerings appeared to be passing into strong hands. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to 1¼c lower, were followed by an upturn to well above yesterday's finish.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Corn, ½c to ¼c lower, including December at 48½c, made a moderate advance.

Oats started unchanged to ⅜c off and then hardened all around. Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.

WALL STREET TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — (Wall street, 10.30 a.m.) — Shorts met with little opposition in their further depression of prices at the opening of to-day's stock market. Passing of the quarter dividend on Sumatra Tobacco soon affected a decline of 2¼ points. Prominent rails, shippings and specialties were irregularly lower. Early quotations for foreign exchange indicated an extension of yesterday's general advance.

MONTREAL STOCKS

MONTREAL, Oct. 6. — Trading was quiet on the local stock exchange during the first half hour this morning, and only a few of the leaders put in an appearance. Brompton was traded in at 21, its closing quotation yesterday. Dominion Steel was weak, being quoted at 25, a point below its last sale. Laurentide, however, strengthened a half to 71.

Nothing sensational developed during the morning, and the close was unfeatured. Atlantic Sugar remained the same. Dominion Steel recovered half its early loss and closed at 25½. Laurentide was strong and closed ½ point up at 71½, as did National Breweries at 53 and Spanish River at 56½. Wayagamack weakened 1½ points at 41½.

MISS M'ARDLE TO BE PUT ON TRIAL TO-DAY

Stepdaughter of Daniel Kaber Is Charged With First Degree Murder.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 6. — Detective Henry J. Senff, of the New York police department, and Peter Christensen, former chief of the Lakewood police department, are to be two of the principal witnesses for the state to-day at the trial of Marion McArdle, charged with first degree murder of Daniel Kaber, her stepfather, two years ago.

Through their testimony County Prosecutor Edward C. Stanton said he hoped to prove that the 20-year-old girl not only knew of the plot of her mother, Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, to kill Kaber, but also assisted in it. Senff and Christensen were present when Miss McArdle is alleged to have made a statement in New York, implicating her mother and Mrs. Mary Brickel, her 69-year-old grandmother. Mrs. Kaber was convicted for her part in the crime. Mrs. Brickel is awaiting trial.

GANDHI AGITATES FOR INDIA HOME RULE

BOMBAY, Oct. 6.—Forty-eight non-co-operation leaders, including Mahatma K. Gandhi, the Nationalist leader, and a United States citizen named Stokes, have issued a manifesto reaffirming that it is contrary to the national dignity for an Indian to serve the British Government, especially as a soldier, and urging every Indian soldier to sever connection with the government "which has brought about India's economic, moral and political degradation."

Gandhi writes to The Bombay Chronicle that it is persistently rumored that his arrest is imminent. He appeals to the people in such an event to remain peaceful and refrain from strikes and merely to show their regard for him by greater zeal to the cause of home rule, thereby hastening the advent of full independence.

FIREWORKS BLAMED FOR SIMCOE BLAZE

SIMCOE, Oct. 6.—Fire, believed to have been caused by embers of fireworks from the fair grounds, last night destroyed the house occupied by Capt. J. B. Tirle and owned by Rev. J. B. Lomas, retired clergyman. The loss is estimated at $3,000. The contents of the house were carried out in safety by neighbors.

The firemen were hampered during the early stages of the blaze by sightseeing motorists, who blocked the road. All efforts to save the house were of no avail and then streams of water were concentrated on the home of M. M. Smith, manager of the Molsons Bank here, so that it would not be burned.

H. G. DAVIDSON ORDERED FREED FROM BANKRUPTCY

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—Hugh Graham Davidson, a partner in the firm of Thornton, Davidson & Co., stock brokers, of this city, adjudged bankrupt on July 31, 1920, was ordered by judgment of Mr. Justice McLennan yesterday, discharged from bankruptcy as from November 1 next.

The judgment states that the report of the trustee is entirely favorable to the applicant and that the evidence before the court "shows that applicant's bankruptcy was caused by misfortune, without any misconduct on his part."

ARCHAMBAULT FEARS CANADA COMMITTED TO WAR AGAINST FRANCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—That Canada had been committed to war against France in case Great Britain and France could not agree on the Silesian question was the fear expressed by Joseph Archambault, M. P. for Chambly-Vercheres, at a meeting at Longueil, following his nomination as Liberal candidate for the division at the forthcoming federal elections.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemiux, who also spoke, deprecated the treatment of the tariff as a dogma and deplored the introduction of a third party into the province to split the ranks of the Liberals, as in 1911.

LAWYER'S WILL BRIEF.

E. B. Devlin Disposed of $15,625 in 48 Words.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—Occupying a single sheet of foolscap paper and consisting of 48 words, the will of the late Emanuel B. Devlin, barrister, of Ottawa, and member of Parliament for Wright County, was filed for probate to-day by Redmond Quain, solicitor, on behalf of Mrs. Cecile L. Masson Devlin, wife of the deceased and sole legatee and executrix.

Mr. Devlin, who died in Montreal on August 30, left property to the value of $15,625.

DR. CLARK WILL NOT BE CANDIDATE AT ALL

Wires Calgary Friends That He Is Definitely Out of Fight.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 6.—Dr. Michael Clark will not be a candidate in the coming federal elections, so he stated in the following telegram to the Calgary Herald: "In answer to numerous inquiries from Red Deer and other constituencies, please be kind enough to save my friends and myself trouble by stating definitely that I will not be a candidate in this election."

SERIOUS TROUBLE AT ICHANG, CHINA

But It Is Believed Canadians Are Not In Danger.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—The Methodist mission rooms report the following cable from Shanghai, over the signature of Rev. N. E. Bowles, who is in charge of their outgoing missionary party to China:

"Arrived here after pleasant voyage. All well. There is serious trouble at Ichang. No prospect of our being able to proceed to Szechwan in the near future. Inform friends address until further notice, Shanghai."

No further information is at present available and press dispatches so far as have been noted do not carry any account of unusual occurrences in China.

As Ichang lies some fifteen hundred miles up the Yangtze and fighting in that part of China has been more or less continuous for several years, probably the special outbreak at the present time would scarcely be regarded as sufficiently unusual to form the subject of a special dispatch. Officers at the mission rooms point out that there is no danger involved to the outgoing party, nor even anything serious in the way of discomfort. They are likely to remain in Shanghai until conditions along the Yangtze improve sufficiently that steamer traffic will be resumed.

Rev. N. E. Bowles, who signs the cable, is a brother of Chancellor Bowles, of Victoria College.

The following is a list of those returning from furlough: Rev. N. E. and Mrs. Bowles and three children, Dr. E. K. and Mrs. Simpson and daughter, Dr. W. H. and Mrs. Birks and two children, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Leonard and five children, Mrs. Hoffman and three children, Miss S. Haddock, Miss L. G. Hartwell.

The following new missionaries are also members of the party: Dr. L. G. and Mrs. Kilborn, Toronto; Dr. C. M. and Mrs. Sellery, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Wilmott, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Walmsley, Milford, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Edmonds, St. Catharines; Rev. Harold F. and Mrs. Swann, Vancouver; Miss Grace Bedford, Winnipeg, and Miss Irene Harris, Winnipeg.

The following missionaries of the Woman's Missionary Society are also included in the party: Miss Ada B. Hambly, China; Miss M. Christine Sturdy, Toronto; Miss Mary E. Dallyn, Toronto; Miss A. G. Dunham, Orillia; Miss Alma M. Tallman, Hamilton; Miss Cora E. Smith, Cardinal; Miss Eliza B. Dolmadge, Souris, Man.; Miss A. Winnifred Harris, Greenspond, Nfld.; Miss M. E. Gormley, Lunenburg, N. S., and Miss E. Irene Thompson, Winnipeg.

CRITICISM FOR FRENCH ATTITUDE

British Papers Question If U. S. Will Consider Europe.

MUST DO SO IN TIME.

But Nothing Will Be Gained By Applying Pressure Now.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Reports that France will enter the conference on limitation of armaments and Far East questions prepared to bargain with the United States relative to mutual responsibilities in the Pacific and Europe were the subjects of editorials in a number of newspapers here to-day. Authoritative French writers have asserted that such a plan on the part of France would not be carried to consummation.

The Daily News asked what "reasonable reservations France could have regarding the main objects of the conference," and remarked that she had large interests in the Pacific. The newspaper added that "hardly any other country is more concerned than France to prevent another war and nobody would profit more on disarmament."

"Are these things," the newspaper went on, "to be sacrificed for the forlorn hope of dragging America, against her will, into European politics again? It is a forlorn hope, as the most casual student of American opinion can tell her. In the fullness of time the United States will be compelled to take a part in Europe which will satisfy every legitimate desire of France. America, no more than any of the rest of us, can live by herself alone. The days of isolation are past and over."

MAY RENEW ENTENTE.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The London Times special correspondent in Paris suggests the possibility of renewal and consolidation of the entente through the French and British delegates working together at the Washington conference in the general cause of peace. Relative to the French and British differences, he says what the French cannot understand is "the persistent neglect of British statesmen to meet them open mindedly and examine, in a spirit of friendly frankness, all causes of difference and strike an honest balance wherever identity of view is impossible."

"I have reason to believe," adds the correspondent "that proposals of this nature have repeatedly been made from leading Frenchmen to leading representatives of Great Britain, but no effective response has been noticeable up to the present."

Editorially, the Times emphasizes the value "the conference spirit" may be to Anglo-French relations.

Washington advices, says the paper, afford fresh evidence of President Harding's desire that the spirit of co-operation should prevail, citing the news that the United States and Japan have agreed to the reopening of the Yap-Guam cable and the issue of invitations to Belgium, Holland and Portugal to attend the conference.

CAMPAIGN NOW GAINING SPEED

Electioneering Machinery Gets Momentum From Manifesto.

MANY ALREADY NOMINATED.

"Swing" Toward Government Is Seen In Ontario.

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(Special to The Free Press.)—With Parliament dissolved and Premier Meighen's manifesto before the country, Government headquarters are moving swiftly toward concentrating the maximum of energy in the campaign. Cabinet ministers are leaving for the constituencies. Speakers are being marshaled for platform work, a campaign of educational publicity has been launched and the entire electioneering machinery of the party given an increased momentum. From all the provinces to-day came telegrams congratulating the prime minister on his manifesto and expressing confidence in the outcome of the contest.

At the headquarters here it was stated that the Government already has 50 per cent. more candidates in the field than any of the other parties and that within a fortnight it will have a standard-bearer in every riding from Sydney to the Yukon.

THE FARMER APPEAL.

While the Wood-Crerar crowd are appealing almost exclusively to the farmer ridings, thus imposing its class appeal, and while Mr. King is expected to be without candidates in at least 25 per cent. of the ridings west of the Ottawa River, Mr. Meighen will give battle in town and county alike and will fight with a hundred per cent. representation in every province. Advices from Ontario indicate an impressive "swing" toward the Government. Ministerial conventions are being attended by crowds remarkable for their size and enthusiasm. Returned soldiers are declared to be particularly active and women to be as enthusiastic as men. The old antagonism of free trade is reported to be welling up even more determinedly than in 1911.

The Brantford Expositor, one of the oldest of Liberal newspapers in Ontario, is the latest to break with Mr. King. Like The Kingston Whig, The Expositor sees in the Liberal platform a menace to some of the greatest industries of the province and is compelled to withdraw from the party's support.

FLETCHER SECEDES.

Meanwhile another bombshell has been hurled into the Wood-Crerar party by the defection of one of the Alberta districts, President Joshua Fletcher. In a letter to the press Mr. Fletcher, like Dr. Clark, protests against the declaration of the populist, Wood, declaring that the "Man from Missouri" is promoting policies "designed to bring about national suicide." He calls upon all citizens, regardless of class, who respect Canadian institutions to unite in stamping out the class system lately introduced into United Farmers' affairs as they would some dread disease. Mr. Crerar meanwhile maintains a conspicuous silence. More than a fortnight ago it was reported that he would immediately issue a manifesto to the country, but so far he has failed to do so. There are hints that delay is due to Mr. Wood's demands to co-operate some of his most radical views into the pronouncement, a course which Mr. Crerar fears would be disastrous for the party in Ontario and the East.

The date of the election is still undecided. However, as everyone knows that polling is to take place in the first week of December, the delay in announcing the exact date is unimportant.

BRIDE OF A DAY TRIES TO END HER OWN LIFE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—Mrs. Jennie Moore, a bride of a day, was in a hospital to-day suffering from the effects of poison, taken, the police say, with suicidal intent.

Thomas Moore, a city employee, told the police his bride took the poison last night, crying that she had made "a terrible mistake" in marrying him. He showed them a letter, with the salutation: "My Dear Old Pal and Sweetheart," which, he said, she had in the bosom of her dress. It

HALIFAX GREETS PREMIER WARMLY

Maritimes Show Appreciation of a Bonnie Fighter.

NO QUARTER TO CRERAR.

King's Tariff Fallacy Also Condemned By Mr. Meighen.

HALIFAX, Oct. 5.—(Special to The Free Press).—Halifax gave a magnificent welcome to Premier Meighen to-night, a fitting close to the most strenuous day in a strenuous tour. Four thousand people in Halifax loudly applauded his demand for a decisive mandate to continue a fiscal policy for Canada that means Canadian trade for the Canadian people. Three thousand were equally emphatic during the day in his several meetings in Hants and Kings Counties.

To-day the prime minister spoke five time for a total of over four hours in political demonstrations at Kentville, Windsor and Halifax, and in addresses to the faculty and students of the two universities, Acadia and Kings. He is winning Nova Scotia, traditionally the most partisan Liberal province in the Dominion. Here the Government fortunes were impaired through Union Government, loss of patronage and intercolonial dissatisfaction, but the prime minister has rallied his supporters in a marvellous manner, and where last week they conceded serious losses they are now confident of a pronounced success. They love a fighter in Nova Scotia, and certainly the prime minister is making such a battle as has not been seen here since the days of Tupper and Howe.

GREAT DEMONSTRATION.

The Halifax meeting was a wonderful demonstration. Hon F. B. McCurdy, Hon. J. B. M. Baxter and Hon Andre Fauteaux were all enthusiastically applauded. The New Brunswick leader, Mr. Baxter, captured his audience, and he more than justified to-night the prime minister's choice for him to represent that province. In the Maritime Provinces Canadian trade in Canadian channels is a vital issue, and Hon. Mr. Baxter dwelt emphatically on the necessity of the management of the use of St. John and Halifax as gateways for our foreign trade. Mr. Fauteaux made a plea for national unity, and declared that the agitators in Quebec crying for revenge were not representative of his people.

At all his meetings to-day the prime minister showed no quarter to either Mackenzie King Liberals or the Wood-Crerar propagandists. He claimed that their fiscal policies were twins, one red and the other auburn. They both meant free trade in the final analysis. Of the Liberals he said: "They were following the road that lead to American prosperity and had abandoned the road that made for Canadian prosperity." He is making the tariff the issue, and if defying any Liberal from Hon. Mackenzie King to his humblest follower to declare his allegiance to the official Liberal fiscal policy. It is evident that a strong Canadian national sentiment exists in Nova Scotia as every reference to Canada blazing her own trail without regard to the United States touches a popular chord.

The prime minister is mobilizing this sentiment behind him and his success in this is indicative of his party's success. Partisanship has always been a creed in Nova Scotia. Here Liberals and Conservatives have always fought for party and party leaders with greater intensity than for great principles. Hon. A. K. MacLean aptly illustrates the intensity of partisanship. He helped formulate the present Government's policy and indorsed it, but because the party that represents this declared policy is not named "Liberal," he is opposing his own principles as enunciated in that policy.

IN 1917.

Even in the great national crisis of 1917, when English Canada rallied behind Union Government and the army, anti-conscriptionist candidates led in a majority of Nova Scotia constituencies on the home vote. It is this solidified partisanship that the prime minister is attacking, and is doing it successfully. The Government is placing a splendid lot of candidates in the field. In Cumberland is Col. Charles E. Bent, D.S.O.; in Yarmouth, Hon. E. K. Spinney, the first citizen of that district; in Kings will be nominated the leading agriculturist of the province, W. J. Blair, superintendent of the experimental farm at Kentville; in Halifax two sure winners in Hector McInnes, K.C., and W. R. Powell; Hon. E. B. McCurdy again will contest Colchester and strong candidates are ready to enter the fray in Pictou and in Antigonish-Guysboro. In these men and the fighting campaign of the prime minister lies the hope of success of the Government. Hon. W. S. Fielding will have a hard fight to hold Queens-Shelbourne against Lawrence Hall, who stepped aside for him in 1917, and A. L. Davidson, Annapolis, and Col. H. B. Tremaine, Hants, claim they are sure of repeating their victories of 1911 and 1917.

CAPE BRETON.

Cape Breton constituencies are also being rapidly organized. In South Cape Breton there will be six candidates, two Government, two Liberal and two Labor, for the two seats and it is generally conceded that J. C. Douglas, Government and a Labor Protectionist, will win. William Duff, Liberal, will be re-elected in the German constituency of Lunenburg, while D. D. McKenzie, North Cape Breton, the ejected Liberal leader, also looks like a sure winner. He is plowing a lonely furrow and is not associated with Mr. King. Two weeks ago the Liberals would concede the Government but one seat in this province, but they have revised their estimate and are now claiming only a majority.

An Editor Recommends "5-DROPS" To Rheumatic Sufferers

Mr. L. P. Hill, editor Enterprise, Enaley, Ala., writes:

"I want to tell you that I have been living in this district for the past 87 years and there is no man that is better known than I am. I tell you this because I want you to know that I am no stranger to the people. About twenty days ago I was down on my back with the worst case of rheumatism and I began to use your medicine and in about a week I was on my feet again. People all over Birmingham and Enaley were astonished to see me get well so quick and wanted to know what medicine I took. I told them "5-DROPS" and every man who has the rheumatism knows of your medicine and say they will use it. I am telling every one of the virtue of your remedy and I am sure it will increase the sale of same."

Such evidence as this should be sufficient to prove to any person the value of "5-DROPS" in rheumatic troubles.

"5-DROPS" is sold by the leading druggists in every part of the United States and Canada.

EAST KENT FAIR EXHIBITS GOOD

More Than 2,000 Entries at Thamesville Show

LADIES' WORK PRAISED

Dramatic Club Puts on Splendid Entertainment

THAMESVILLE, Oct. 5.—The East Kent Fair was held here yesterday and to-day. Yesterday it rained most all day and the directors were looking very blue, but this morning Old Sol put on his very best appearance, and the day was ideal.

The crowd was about the largest that ever attended and the number of entries were over 2,000. The exhibits of all live stock were good, especially general purpose horses. The cattle were good in quality, but not as numerous as some years. The hog showed his supremity in Kent County, both in numbers and looks. Sheeep were only a fair exhibit, the farmers not taking to seven-cent-a-pound wool.

The poultry exhibit, comprising chickens, turkeys, geese and ducks, was very good, and many first-class birds were shown. The show of vegetables, flowers, fruits, roots and grain was away above many other years, and the exhibits of butter in crocks and prints, dressed chickens and home-made cooking were excellent. There was a grand display of canned fruits, pickles, etc., which made a splendid show. The show of apples, pears and grapes was a surprise, being the largest display in years.

The ladies' work was splendid and was very much admired. Potatoes, which are a very poor crop generally, were a surprise to everyone in the splendid exhibits.

The local Dramatic Club put on "All of a Sudden Peggy" last night to a full opera house, and every seat was sold again for to-night. The proceeds of the two nights are divided between the Agricultural Society and Public Library. The Indian band furnished the music for the day.

BRITAIN, FRANCE MUST PAY MOST

Assessed Nine Per Cent. Each of League of Nations Cost

EXPENSE PROPORTIONED

China, India, Italy and Japan in Next Category

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—Great Britain and France must pay the largest proportion of the expenses of operating the League of Nations, it was found when the committee charged with determining the share each country should pay reported to the assembly of the league to-day. Each must pay 9.2 per cent., while China, India, Italy and Japan were placed in the second category and were called upon to pay 6.65 per cent. each. In the third category were placed Argentina, Spain, Brazil, Roumania, Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slavakia, whose individual shares were fixed at 3.58 per cent. The scale was graduated down to .21 per cent., which will be paid by Nicaragua, Luxembourg, Panama, Paraguay, Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Honduras and Liberia.

Under this ruling Great Britain and France will pay 1,800,000 gold francs, while the nations in the second category will each pay 1,300,000. The countries in the lowest category will be called upon for 42,000 gold francs. This plan of payment was reached by the committee after holding nearly 40 meetings, including two night sessions.

REVOLUTION IN CHEMICAL SCIENCE

Sir William Pope Sees Great Epoch On the Way.

TO UTILIZE THE SUN'S RAYS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A revolution in chemical science which will have a "wide bearing on human affairs," was prophesied by Sir William J. Pope, president of the Society of Chemical Industry of Great Britain, in an address here before the international meeting of the British organization and the American Chemical Society.

"It is safe to prophesy that the next great epoch of organic chemical progress lies in the very near future and that it will lead us to laboratory methods of imitating with considerable fidelity the complex chemical changes brought about in living matter by the utilization of low potential energy," he said.

"When we possess full working details concerning the plant leaf process of converting carbon dioxide and water into formaldehyde and oxygen by utilizing the sun's energy, when we can make indigo and quinine by the identical methods adopted by the plants, chemical technology will be an entirely different proposition from the one which it now represents."

Further along in his address, which was entitled "Chemistry and Life," he said:

"On all hands we are met by the demand and indeed by the expectation that science will lift the curse of Adam from humanity. It is no part of my task to-day to discuss philosophical questions which originated in the Garden of Eden, but it seems plain that modern science is called upon to find means for curtailing the expenditure of such high potential forms of energy as human labor and mineral.

"The solution of this problem must come from the proper utilization of the radiant energy which comes to us from the sun; we require efficient methods for transporting solar energy from the tropics for use in our more temperate climes. It is perfectly possible that the scientific study of oil-bearing plants in tropical regions may lead to such improvements in yield and cost of production that vegetable oils will replace the ordinary fuels, coal and petroleum now used the world over."

LIBERAL CONVENTION IN ALBERTA CANCELLED

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 6.—The Alberta provincial Liberal convention, called for October 14 at Calgary, has been cancelled.

NOT OFFERED JOB WEED INSPECTOR

St. Thomas Health Officer Makes Position Clear

NO CHANCE TO REFUSE

Edwin Axford's Death Accidental, Says Jury

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 5.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Although it was stated at last night's Council meeting that W. J. Shaw, health inspector, had objected to being reappointed as noxious weed inspector, Mr. Shaw stated to The Free Press to-night that he had never been offered the position and therefore could not refuse to accept. Mr. Shaw states that he held the position for some years, but was relieved of the work some time ago, owing to his attention being required at other official duties. Edwar Burke, city foreman at that time, was then named, and he held the position until he left the city's employ some time ago.

Mr. Shaw admits that he refused to inspect certain parts of the city last summer, owing to the fact that he had no jurisdiction in the matter. Regarding his attitude at the present time he was decidedly noncommittal. Mr. Shaw pointed out that until next spring there will be no need for such a bay-law in any case, and as a result he had nothing to say.

Several of the aldermen were in favor of appointing George Bolter, garbage superintendent, at last night's meeting, but the majority favored Mr. Shaw, as it was stated that he had filled the position satisfactorily before. Objections were then raised because, it was said, that Mr. Shaw had refused the position a week ago.

The statement published locally to-night to the effect that Mr. Shaw had definitely declined the position is untrue, according to the inspector. Mr. Shaw states that he has done nothing in the matter.

DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

The coroner's jury investigating the death of Edwin Axford, who died on Sunday as a result of a motor car accident on the Sparta road on Saturday, to-night returned a verdict of accidental death.

A former St. Thomas man came here ostensibly to renew old acquaintances. He met some new friends, however, and they proved his undoing, for he paid a fine of $15 and costs to-day in the city police court on a charge of imbibing too freely of a bottle of hootch. He said that he had got into bad company last night and expressed the opinion that the whisky supplied him was not the very best kind either, judging by the after effects. The magistrate advised him to be more careful in the selection of his friends in future.

LONDONER IS MANAGER.

Clarence Birrell, formerly of the Public Utilities, London, has been appointed to the managership of the local uptown Hydro Shop, succeeding the late Frederick S. Lewis, who died on Sunday. Mr. Birrell is well known and has had considerable experience in commercial lines, especially electrical. The announcement of his appointment was made by E. H. Caughell, manager of the local hydro commission.

The first meeting of the Elgin Historical Society was held just 30 years ago, the organizer being Dr. J. H. Coyne, county registrar of this city. Last night the society opened its 1921-22 season at the home of Dr. Coyne and during the evening presented the founder and his wife with a handsome easy chair. The presentation was made by A. W. Graham. Mr. Graham recited a fitting poem from Kipling.

SYLVIA ANNOUNCES WHERE PAPER STANDS

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The London Times' Labor correspondent says that Sylvia Pankhurst, the militant suffragette, "having been expelled from the British Communist party for continuing to run The Workers' Dreadnaught as an independent paper after she was told not to do so, now announces the adherence of her newspaper to the Fourth Internationale."

The correspondent adds that nothing previously had been heard of the Fourth Internationale, but that it appears to have been formed within the last few days in Berlin. The German section of it, he says, has 80,000 members and it is reported to be receiving great support from Serbia and Bulgaria.

According to the correspondent, the formation of the British section of the organization is expected shortly. He says the policy of the organization has not yet been made public.

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomachache and inability to retain food are in probably nine cases out of ten, simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating or whenever gas sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestents. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Advt.

MAGISTRATE FLAYS SERVICE CHARGE

Is Rank Imposition, Says S. B. Arnold, Chatham

CITIZEN ENTERS PROTEST

Natural Gas Supply Not Sufficient to Cook Meals

CHATHAM, Oct. 5.—Magistrate S. B. Arnold denounced the gas service charge of $1 per summer month in no uncertain terms this morning.

A citizen was in the police court and he called the magistrate's attention to his most recent natural gas bill. It was for $2.55, for gas used during September. The figures showed that about 300 feet of gas had been used for the month. There was, in addition to this charge of 15c, a meter rent amounting to 40c for two months, apparently; then on top of the whole thing a flat charge of $2 had been placed, bringing the total up to $2.55 for gas consumption.

Then the citizen proceeded to tell court officials what he though about the unfairness of things in general and about the gas service rates in particular.

"I will most certainly agree with you there," commented the magistrate. "I think the charge rate of $1 is a rank imposition on citizens. "It is a 'service' charge apparently, yet at my house all day yesterday we hadn't enough natural gas to cook our meals with."

"Why this charge for "service" when you can't get service when you want it," he added.

NEED INSPECTOR.

Magistrate Arnold also expressed the opinion that the services of a Government gas inspector ought to be secured so that gas meters could be tested for citizens. He said that years ago, when he served as chairman of the gas committee in the City Council he repeatedly applied for Government inspection of meters for Chatham, but without any result.

County Engineer W. G. McGeorge and County Road Superintendent Pardo are making a tour of Thamesville, Wallaceburg, and Dresden to-day for the purpose of inspecting various paving schemes in the county together with bridge construction work that is nearing completion.

The work of paving the provincial highway for two miles east of Chatham was started this morning by Contractor W. P. Godson, of Toronto. When finished the pavement will be the first piece of the provincial highway to be constructed in this district. The roadway will be of cement, 18 feet wide with a cement depth of 8¼ inches in the center and 6 inches along the sides. There will be shoulders of earth six feet wide on each side of the cement portion. Forty men were engaged by the contractors this morning and the two-mile stretch is to be completed by November 1.

MRS. DUNSEITH DEAD.

STRATFORD, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Sarah Dunseith died last night at the home of her son, Robert Dunseith, R. R. 1, St. Paul's. She had been ailing for some time, although the primary cause of her death was a paralytic stroke which she suffered on Monday night. She lived for about three years in Stratford at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Wivell, 44 Linton avenue, and just two weeks ago returned to the old homestead near St. Paul's. Eight children survive: Mrs. David Nichol, in Saskatchewan; Mrs. J. D. Findlay, of Kelloe, Man.; Mrs. Wm. Wivell, city; William, of Levoy, Alta.; David, of Moore Park, Man.; Samuel, of St. Marys; Frank, of Brodhagen, and Robert, on the homestead.

CLOSING HOUR FOR LIQUOR SALE REMAINS AT 11 P. M. IN BRITAIN

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The chairman of the London licensing magistrates has finally decided to recommend that the closing hour for the sale of liquor by London's licensed victuallers should remain at 11 p. m.

This disposes of the question of the hour of sale until the February sessions, when the matter may possibly be reviewed.

On September 29 the licensed victuallers of London were unpleasantly surprised by an announcement that the licensing magistrates' chairman had decided to recommend that the future permanent closing hours should be set for 10.30. Hotelkeepers, however, declared that the recommendation was contrary to the spirit of the new licensing act and a press campaign was undertaken, urging that London should be allowed to revert, to some degree at least, to pre-war gaiety.

By the recommendation announced today the hour for breaking up of supper parties where drink is served will remain at 12 midnight as there is a period of one hour allowed for the consumption of liquor purchased before 11 o'clock for these supper parties.

NOVA SCOTIA GOT CHARTER IN 1621

Tercentenary Awakens a Reponse In Hearts of Scotsmen.

FIRST ATTEMPT FAILED.

Scottish Dream Was Not Realized Till Century Later.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 5.—The tercentenary of the grant of the charter of Nova Scotia, says The Glasgow Herald, cannot fail to evoke a response in Scotland, although the historical interest attaching to it is not without an element of melancholy. For, although Scotsmen have been great colonizers, and Scotland can claim a large chapter in the history of British colonization, the efforts of Scotland before the union to establish colonies were uniformly unsuccessful. The most famous of them, the Darien scheme, was a tragedy and, although no specially tragic story relates to Nova Scotia, the attempt which gave the colony its name was a failure. This year's celebrations are sufficient proof of that circumstance. The tercentenary of the grant of the charter by James VI. occurred on September 10 and was duly honored. A coincident celebration was held in Annapolis, once the capital of the colony, and its special significance is the bicentenary of the introduction of English common law into what is to-day the Dominion of Canada. If the Scottish colonization seriously undertaken in 1621 had prospered, Nova Scotia, instead of being the first province of the Dominion to receive the English common law, might well have been the only province outside the venerable system of jurisprudence.

King James knew as much about the sale of honors as any modern politician can do, and he based great hopes on the offer of a baronetcy and 30,000 Nova Scotian acres in return for contributions in men or money to the great scheme. The baronetcies sold well, but they did not fulfill their purpose, and the new titles created so much jealousy that a convention of Scottish estates, in the beginning of the reign of Charles I., petitioned that the precedence granted to baronets should not take effect "until the tyme that plantation for the whilk this dignitie is conferred be first performed."

The Scottish dream of a Scottish colony in Nova Scotia was nearly a century later realized by the establishment of a British colony, but the distinctly Scottish element in the settlement had vanished. The name, however, has always possessed an attraction for Scottish emigrants and Scotchmen have played an important part in its history as a British colony. It is significant and appropriate that the distinguished statesman who for a quarter of a century has been premier of Nova Scotia should bear the Scottish name of Murray.

PLANS TO MELT FROZEN CREDITS

Ter Meulen Bond Scheme Will Revive Trade.

SIR D. D. FRASER EXPLAINS.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—The Ter-Meulen bond scheme for the relief of seas trading, said Sir D. Drummond Fraser, of London, organizer of the plan for the League of Nations, in an address delivered here to-day before war-torn nations and new states will melt "frozen credits," allow creditor nations to extend material help, revive the productive power of countries upset by the war and will restore normal over-the American Bankers' Association.

He emphasized the following points:

It will reawaken the dormant confidence in the ability of importers in war-stricken countries to pay their way.

Governments may keep expenditures within their revenue.

Revenue-producing assets of borrowing countries may be mobilized for the purchase of essential imports, which in turn will restore the buying power of those countries.

Lending countries, of which the United States is the most important, may secure, with a collateral bond, a safe outlet for exports.

The scheme does not attempt to stabilize exchanges. These were dislocated because war stocks were replaced at excessive prices in certain countries before the recovery of their export trade. Conditions of trade in these countries must be restored to normal. When they have been restored the exchanges will take care of themselves, he said.

Sir Drummond warned the bankers that restriction of the credit of European countries means an inevitable shrinkage of exports from the United States or other creditor nations and a continued stagnation of foreign trade.

Sir Drummond suggested the formation of national export corporations in each of the lending countries, United States, England, France and Italy and others, backed by a pro rata guarantee of the Governments, banks and other financial institutions, and said that such concerns, if properly managed, should allow for normal foreign trade in as simple and effect a manner as the banks now handle domestic trade.

THE ASIA MINOR CAMPAIGN

LONDON, Oct. 6. — Messages from the fighting front in Asia Minor announce that strong forces of Turkish infantry and cavalry attempted operations on a large scale near Eski-Shehr, but that a Greek counterattack dispersed the Turks, says a Central News dispatch from Athens under yesterday's date. The Turks left behind many dead and wounded and also some war material, the dispatch adds.

These are the days of new things in the stores. Stock so new that the packing cases are not yet out of the way. Stocks so attractive that their advertisements are as excitable as the society news.

"DONNYBROOK" ATTRACTS 5,000

One of Oldest Country Fairs Enjoys Success

JOSEPH WADE PRESENT

Was President of the Society 67 Years Ago

DORCHESTER, Oct. 5. — "Donnybrook" Fair, which ranks among the oldest country fairs in Ontario, and known to all corners of Western Ontario, was held yesterday under royal weather conditions. It was the annual exhibition of the Dorchester Agricultural Society, and from all reports surpassed anything for several years back. Official figures show that over 5,000 passed through the turnstiles.

The show was a decided success from every angle, and the directors were naturally pleased, and altogether it was a great day for Dorchester. In every department the entries of exhibits exceeded other years. In all the live stock lines the showing was exceptionally good—horses, cattle, sheep and swine were exhibited in large numbers, and were of high standard.

The midway was very popular for both old and young. It was bigger than previous years and proved a source of entertainment from start to finish. The 1st Hussars Band provided the music in front of the grand stand during the afternoon. Not a single accident was reported and everything went off in splendid form.

OLD-TIMER THERE.

A conspicuous visitor at the exhibition was Joseph Wade, of Petrolea. Mr. Wade is past president of the society, having been president 67 years ago. Although away past the 90 mark, he is enjoying robust health, and in the past 67 years has never missed "Donnybrook" Fair.

CRERAR CLAIMS PROTECTION BAD

Western Farmers' Leader Opens Campaign at Brandon

EXPOUNDS FREE TRADE

Large Audiences Hear Leader of the Agrarian Party

BRANDON, Oct. 5.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Hon. T. A. Crerar, speaking at an agrarian meeting here to-night, opened his campaign. The speech came late in the evening and following a convention at which the farmers of the Brandon constituency chose Robert Forke as their candidate in the general election.

The hall was filled and an overflow meeting had to be organized. Mr. Crerar, who was loudly applauded, attacked the contention of the prime minister that protection had brought prosperity to Canada. In 1911, Mr. Crerar declared, census returns showed that Canada had a population of 7,200,000. Immigration since then, according to official figures, amounted to 1,800,000. In the same period births over deaths numbered 140,000, so that at the present time Canada should have a population of 10,140,000. As a matter of fact, however, unofficial reports of this year's census showed that the total population of Canada will not be in excess of 8,500,000. That, added Mr. Crerar, leaves over a million and a half unaccounted for.

HIS TARIFF THEORY

"Mr. Meighen wants to know where we stand in regard to the tariff," Mr. Crerar continued. "We stand opposed to the principle of protection as being neither sound economically nor right morally. Our policy on the tariff is development of the natural resources, of agriculture, of the forests and mining. These are real industries. If we put them in a healthy, vivid condition our country will prosper."

Mr. Crerar smilingly admitted at the outset that he was a somewhat young hand at the "business of politics." An election, he proceeded, had been called and many members of Parliament no doubt regarded it with regret. But the election was one of the most momentous in the history of Canada. Never had the problem for election been so great. A new party had made its appearance.

It was a natural thing that the movement should have had its birth among the agricultural sections of the community. Out of the farmers' organizations had grown a new ideal in the public life. There had been many foolish resolutions passed, but there was a serious desire to solve national problems. But while the movement arose among the farming population, it was attracting to itself peoples of all classes in the Dominion.

The new movement had attracted some criticism, but there was no movement worth while which did not attract some criticism. It was sure to get some brickbats thrown at it. But the Progressive movement was marching to certain victory.

"The Progressive movement," Mr. Crerar exclaimed, "has been called a class movement. In its origin it was perhaps a class movement. But anyone who suggests that the aspirations throughout Canada for better things are class aspirations is away wide of the mark of what actually exists at the present time. There is nothing to the claim that if the National Progressives are elected to office there will be class legislation, class domination. There is a studious attempt to fasten these things on our movement. I detest class legislation. I detest class domination. There has been too much of both in this country, far too much of it."

Protection as known in Canada, Mr. Crerar said, referring to the tariff, had no doubt aided certain industries in Canada. Here he cited the cotton industry, and the protection given to it, in illustration of his argument. But, he proceeded, the wealth of the country could best be developed by increasing the output of the farm, the forest and the mines. For that reason, the Progressives stood for free agricultural implements. It stood for free mining and sawmill machinery. But protection interfered with the natural channels of trade.

The protectionist claimed that industry should be protected that trade might be developed. He claimed that if industries were protected at home outside markets could be developed. But, argued Mr. Crerar, if a Canadian industry required protection in order to live in its home market, what chance had it abroad? If it had reached the point where it was able to sell goods abroad, what need had it of protection in Canada?

In 1914 manufacturers of agricultural implements in Canada exported $8,000,000 worth to countries all over the world, yet they claimed they could not sell at home without protection. Could anything be more absurd?

Winter Gardens, next Saturday night. Augmented orchestra. Admission 15 cents. f

ELOQUENT TRIBUTES TO LATE DR. R. V. BRAY

CHATHAM, Oct. 5.—Eloquent tributes to the memory of the late Dr. R. V. Bray were paid by the members of the Board of Education at their meeting last evening. Dr. Bray is a former members of the Board of Education, the library board and the Board of Health. The education board considers that the city has suffered a severe loss in his death. It was reported at the meeting that several improvements have been made in the schools and still more are necessary. In his report on the Collegiate Institute Inspector Rogers paid a tribute to the ability of the principal, W. J. Twohey. The city analyst reported that the water in the Queen Mary School well is unfit for use, and another source of supply will have to be found. It was decided to increase Miss Orde's salary $200 a year. FINE WEATHER FOR FAIR AT FOREST

Show Declared to Be the Best in Years

FLOWER EXHIBIT GOOD

John Hodgins Wins the Judging Competition

FOREST, Oct. 5.—Unfavorable weather put a damper on the fair here yesterday, but to-day the sun shone forth in all its glory, and the weather was ideal for the exhibition. Visitors declared the show to be the best in years. There were 109 exhibitors and the gate receipts to-day totaled $675.

The displays of flowers, poultry and domestic science claimed much attention. In the fruit classes apples held sway, it being too late for a good showing of other fruits. The live stock entries were not numerous, but the judges declared the stock to be as good as shown at other fairs.

In the procession of school children 352 took part. Forest school won first prize; No. 10 Bosanquet, second; No. 4 Warwick, third; No. 19 Plympton, fourth. The live stock judging competition resulted as follows: 1st, John Hodgins; 2nd, Earl Fuller; 3rd, Alexander Edwards; 4th, W. R. Cabel; 5th, Robert Auld; 6th, Elgin Fuller; 7th, Clifford Edwards; 8th, Gerald Robertson; 9th, F. L. Smith.

The midway and speed events proved big attractions during the day, and as a climax two concerts were held tonight and both were well patronized.

NEW POSTAL DISTRICT.

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—The Toronto Globe publishes in its news columns an item to the effect that a new postal district, to be known as North Bay, is to be organized. The suggestion is made that the decision to form the new district is the result of discontent in the service over recent promotions and that the reorganization is being carried out in order to restore harmony. The whole north country will be in the new district.

EXTEND TIME ON THE POWER PLAN

Waterways Commission Agrees to Hydro Board's Request

ON ST. LAWRENCE RIVER

Commission Intimates Time to Expire on November 14

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—The request of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for further time to complete plans for the proposed power development on the St. Lawrence has been granted by the International Waterways Commission.

To-night Sir Adam Beck received a wire from the commission stating that the time had been extended until November 6 for filing alternative plans, comment and suggestions in connection with the plans filed by the American and Canadian Government engineers. The commission will hold a meeting on November 14 to hear representations with reference to the plans. The wire intimates that no further extension can be given. Sir Adam stated last night that the extension fully met the wishes of the hydro commission.

The delay in getting the hydro plans ready is almost entirely due to the important changes made in the plans for generators, turbines, etc.

MUST OBSERVE MOTOR LAWS.

STRATFORD, Oct. 5. — Freeland Stricker, of Mitchell, was fined $10 and $40 costs in the police court this morning for failing to comply with the provisions of the Motor Vehicle Act, when his car collided with a horse and buggy driven by Mr. Fred. Studer on the Huron highway, on September 4. The act requires the car participating in an accident to give his name and address and license number to the person having the accident, and to render all assistance possible. Stricker denied the charge, but the evidence to the contrary was so strong that the magistrate said there was no possible doubt as to his guilt and advised him to settle with Mr. Studer. This he did, and his worship took this in consideration in fixing the penalty.

Advised by Cable of His Appointment to Post

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The New York Nationals won the third game of the 1921 series for the professional baseball championship of the world this afternoon before the largest assembly of fans thus far gathered to witness the classic.

The game jammed more spectacular pastiming in the third inning than in both of the previous contests combined.

Erratic hurling by Fred Toney, for the Giants, and by Bob Shawkey, for the Yankees, was responsible for the four runs garnered by both teams in that wild third chapter. They were replaced by Barnes and Quinn respectively.

IDEAL WEATHER.

The third game of the series would be played under perfect weather conditions, according to indications just previous to the players taking the field. A cool breeze was blowing and, except for a few fleecy clouds, the sky remained clear.

The Giants have been following the safe and sane idea in the first two games of the series, but they will be out to-day to try the sensational.

"We've got to take some chances," declared Assistant Manager Hughey Jennings. "We took them during the regular season and turned many a defeat into victory. Against such pitching as we have faced there is no other alternative. We've got some ideas along that line and may be they'll enliven our boys a bit."

Neither of the Giants' catchers, Snyder and Smith, have displayed so far any of the sterling backstop qualities with which they have been credited. Both have been weak at bat and short in the fielding end. In yesterday's game Smith made a bad muff on Nehf's heave when Meusel was stealing home. He could have caught Bob easily. He also made a bad throw to second when Ruth pilfered and was slow in sending the ball to Frisch when the babe stole third.

SCHANG WORKS WELL.

Wallie Schang, while short in the batting department, has performed admirably behind the plate for the Yankees, and so far his work has surpassed that of either of his highly-rated opponents. The Giants will be the home club to-day and will switch back to their natty white uniforms, while the Huggins clan will don their visiting gray and sit in the aliens' dugout.

Yesterday's game was all Hoyt. Waite's curve, his slow ball and his fast breaking drop behaved themselves admirably, and the boy twirler from Brooklyn let the Giants down with two hits—one of the greatest pitching feats in world's series history.

Not a Giant occupied the second sack until the ninth inning, and that Giant happened to be Frankie Frisch, who turned in a perfect batting average in the first game. Frisch got the only clean blow of the game off Hoyt, a single to right, and he moved to right when Young drew free transportation to first. The other hit, garnered by Rawlings in the third, was a short floater to left, which dropped between Peckinpaugh and Ruth.

Aside from Hoyt's wonderful twirling, the bright spots of the game were the steals by Ruth and R. Meusel, and a sensational stab of Meusel's liner by Frisch in the first, with Ruth and Miller on.

The umpires were assigned to-day as follows. Quigley, at the plate; Chill, at first; Rigler, at second, and Moriarity, at third.

STUDENTS OF HIGH SCHOOL TO DANCE

"If They Wish To Dance Themselves To Devil, Their Business," Says Principal.

HAVE HIRED HALL AND ENGAGED AN ORCHESTRA

Up To Parents, Not School, Whether Ban Is Placed On Pleasure.

To dance or not to dance is the great question that is causing much agitation in collegiate circles to-day. The student body has been demanding that a dance be held this evening to close the field day exercises. But the teachers are opposed to any such dance unless it is under the supervision of the said teachers. On the other hand, the students want to dance and they insist that they will dance to-night. To this end the Dayton & McCormick hall has been secured and a special orchestra is engaged. The dance will have no connection with the collegiate in any way with the exception that many of the pupils will be in attendance. Principal Mooney asserts that it is not endorsed by the collegiate in any manner, nor can it be called a collegiate dance.

UP TO PARENTS

"Of course, if the boys and girls wish to dance to-night, that is up to their parents," said Principal Mooney on this question. 'If they wish to dance themselves to the devil, that is their business, but they will not take the collegiate with them. They are under the supervision of their parents to-night the same as they are at all other times when away from school. We have no authority to say they shall not dance if their fathers and mothers see fit to allow them to attend this gathering to-night. But this dance is not in any way connected with the collegiate.

"Because the students who will attend it wish to designate the dance the rugby or the collegiate dance is no reason for believing that it is under the supervision of the school. Regardless of the name, this dance of to-night has no official connection with the collegiate or with any recognized student organization of the school."

ALDERMEN CALL HALT TO CIVIC SPENDING

This Attitude Induced By Request of Utilities Commission For Quarter Million.

WHY NOT USE SURPLUS FROM PROVINCIAL BODY ?

Practically One Mill of Taxes Goes For Well Drilling, It Is Pointed Out.

The request of the Public Utilities Commission for a debenture issue of one-quarter million next year, which will be presented to the Council at its next meeting, will not be favorably received by that body unless aldermen change their attitude considerably. The aldermen who could be reached by telephone to-day all were of the opinion that it is time to "call a halt" on civic expenditures. It is pointed out that the tax rate is high and with the tremendous increase in the assessment this year there is little hope of the taxes being reduced to any extent next year. Because of the evident necessity for practicing economy the aldermen declare that the whole situation will be thoroughly probed before the request of the commission is granted. In any event the ratepayers will be asked to vote on the expenditure, but the aldermen will ask for complete information regarding the plans for extension which the commission has adopted before submitting a by-law. They also ask why the commission does not collect the surplus of $100,000 from the provincial commission.

THOROUGH INVESTIGATION.

"There will be a thorough investigation of the extension plans of the commission before the Council grants this request," said Ald. Drake. "It is time to call a halt on this sort of thing. All the boards come to us for money and the civic expenditures are increasing yearly at a tremendous rate. We are from Missouri now and the commission will have to show us the necessity for the money before we will submit the by-law. This city is evidently going crazy over the matter of public expenditures. The Board of Education, the Public Utilities and the other boards of the city are spending money without thought of the consequences, and the Council bears the brunt of the whole thing."

Ald. Wenige questions why the commission does not use that $100,000 surplus, which is stored in the provincial commission's books at Toronto, instead of asking for a debenture issue.

COLLECT THE DEBT.

"Certainly if I had $100,000 coming to me I would not go out and borrow money instead of collecting the debt," said Ald. Wenige. "Anyway, the commission will have to show us where the money is to be spent before we approve the by-law. The average alderman does not know what is done with the money voted the various boards annually. He knows that the money goes and he believes that it is judiciously expended, but he is now asking that proof of this be given him. That is the attitude of the Council as a whole, I should say."

Ald. Harley also would have an investigation to learn where the money is to be used. This will be done even before the by-law is approved for sending to the ratepayers.

Ald. Watt would find out what is done with the surpluses that are shown each year by the different boards before approving any further debenture issues.

WELL DRILLING EXPENSIVE.

With reference to the present request of the commission it is pointed out that one-third of the total amount asked for waterworks is to be expended on wells. This will include the cost of drilling the holes and the equipment of any wells that may be found satisfactory. The commission is asking $40,000 for this purpose. This is practically equal to one mill on the assessment of the city. The aldermen suggest that they are entitled to be given the complete detailed facts of the proposed extensions in both the waterworks and the electric light departments before they are asked to approve any further expenditures.

LONDON DISTRICT INCOME TAX OFFICE MAKES NEW RECORD

Collects $4,735,379 on $5,000,000 Tax Allotment Not Due Until April Next.

NOW HAS SIX MONTHS FOR SMALL BALANCE

Income Tax Official Says This District Holds Palm For Honest Men.

The London district office of the income tax branch of the finance department has already collected within $265,000 of its entire tax allotment for this district for the year ending in April next. The allotment for this district for the period named is $5,000,000 and the district collections already, as on October 1, are $4,735,379.51. Thus the district officials have practically six months in which to collect but a little less than $265,000. This is on the 1920 assessment.

Of course, the bulk of the very satisfactory total so far reported was collected on the first installment when many people paid their whole tax without taking advantage of the installment provision. The receipts in the tax office are banked daily and from this the progress of the collections can easily be gathered. Thus on one date in April the deposit was $2,278,000, more than half of the total collected so far. On one day in July when the next installment was due $447,000 was deposited, while the largest September deposit was $412,614.92. Latterly the collections, of course, have dropped off, but this does not mean that the staff of the branch has had its labors lightened to any appreciable extent. The work that is occupying the principal attention in the office now is the checking of payments.

LENGTHY AUDIT PROCESS.

Persons taxable under the Dominion income tax law are supposed to first make out their own assessment for the tax they think they are liable. It is on this basis that their initial payments are made. Upon payment an interim receipt is issued from the office which merely gives the payee credit for the amount paid, but does not specify whether the payment is in full or an installment. After these payments have been audited and forwarded to Ottawa they are audited again at the capital and in the light of information at the disposal of the department an estimate is made of what the tax should be. If that estimate corresponds with the estimate made by the person assessed an official receipt for the payment is forwarded. If it is found, as frequently happens, that the citizen was "too honest" and assessed himself for more than the Government had a right to demand, a receipt is sent for the proper payment and a refund check for the sum paid in excess. If on the other hand the amount paid is less than it should be an official receipt in part is sent, together with a demand for liquidation of the balance plus interest at 6 per cent. from the due date of the payment to the present time.

CHECKS ISSUING NOW.

Refund checks, official receipts and bills for balances due are now being sent to the taxpayers. This procedure has created some confusion among the citizens who are not fully informed as to the course taken. They receive a receipt for a tax which they declare they had paid before, or they receive a receipt and a check, or a partial receipt and a demand for more. Then the fun starts. Usually, when they receive the mere official receipt, which is sent when their estimate of tax is approved officially at Ottawa, they wonder what it all means, but seldom carry it beyond that point. When a check is sent it is usually cashed and nothing more is said. But it is when a demand comes for more money that the fun begins. Then they invade the office and explain to the officials there that their original estimate was certainly right and the revised statement from Ottawa wrong. A period of explanation from the officials follows and sometimes the taxpayer is satisfied. Occasionally, however, he departs feeling that every official in Ottawa and in London has gone into cahoots to get more money out of him than he should pay.

"The people are coming in here just now," said District Commissioner Tamblin this morning, "but after we explain to them they usually are satisfied."

Naturally the district commissioner is delighted at the fine total received from this district, and is pronounced in his belief that London district contains more strictly honest men to the square mile than any other portion of Canada.

Can Sing Jazz, But Can't Say His Prayers

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—"Your honor, my son is 5 years old and he can sing every Broadway song, but he cannot say his prayers."

That was one of the arguments used to-day by Charles A. Furst before Vice-Chancellor Griffin, in Jersey City, in support of his petition for the partial custody of his little boy, Arthur, now living with his mother, Mrs. Lenore Schoenberg, at Jersey City.

It was directed that the father have the child each week from Saturday afternoon to Sunday night, which will make it possible to send him to church and Sunday school.

Assessment Of City Is $63,749,926 Next Year

Exclusive of Property Exemptions of Over Seven Million Dollars.

GAIN OF $9,226,806 OVER 1920 ASSESSMENT.

Land Has Increased 10.78 Per Cent. and Buildings Over 19 Per Cent.

The total assessment of the City of London for taxation purposes in 1922 is $63,749,926; exclusive of exempted property, which amounts to $7,793,881. The complete assessment, taxable and otherwise, is $71,543,881.

The total of the four city wards, excluding the annexed district, is $61,669,446, which is a gain of $9,226,806 over the 1920 assessment. The annexed districts of wards three and four show a total assessment of $2,080,480, a gain of only $312,877 over 1920.

The population of the entire city, according to the census of the assessors, is 59,784, a gain of 503 in one year. But in that portion of the city where there is no fixed tax rate the population increased only by eight souls; the annexed district shows a population increase of 495.

EXEMPTED PROPERTY.

Exempted property, totalling $7,793,955, is divided as follows: Schools, public and separate, $1,297,140; municipal properties, $1,570,100; Government buildings, $1,953,000; churches and other public institutions, $2,973,715.

The per capita assessment of every man, woman and child in London is now $1,066.34. Under the old assessment it was $914.46, an increase of $151.88 in one year. The actual per capita assessment for citizens, except in the annexed district, is $1 159.37. This includes men, women, children and babes in arms. In the eyes of the assessment department, every family of five in London is worth at least $5,500. In the annexed district the per capita assessment is $315.60.

Percentages of increase in assessment show that land was increased 10.78 per cent., buildings 19.10 per cent. and the average increase on lands and buildings was 15.75 per cent.

Business assessment was increased 15.13 per cent., while income assessment was increased 48.12 per cent.

In the city proper, wards one, two, three and four, without annexed district, lands in 1920 were assessed for $17,917,064; this year, $19,897,160, an increase of $1 980,096. Buildings in 1920 were assessed for $26,100,875; this year they are valued at $31,040,757, an increase of $4,939,878.

Business assessment in 1920 totalled $5,351,997; this year increased to $6,164,898, a gain of $813,198. Income assessment jumped from $3,072,997 in 1920 to $4,566,631 this year, a gain of $1,493,634.

ANNEXED DISTRICT.

Land in the annexed district was increased $1,792 in assessment over 1920 to $469,773. Buildings in the annexed district are assessed for $82,750, a gain of $8,020. Income assessment in that district increased $46,771 over 1920 to $174,721.

The total increases for the whole city show lands assessed for $1,981,888 more, buildings for $5,196,172, business increased by $821,218 and income assessment for the whole city by $1,540,405.

The final assessment report shows an increase in population of children between the ages of 5 and 21 totalling 2,290. There are 13,130 people in London between the ages of 5 and 21, and there are 9,617 children between the ages of 5 and 16. There are 4,906 children between the ages of 8 and 14 in the public schools and 435 between those ages in the separate schools.

KILLS SIX-FOOT SNAKE ON TORONTO LAWN

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—Frederick Emerson killed a snake six feet one inch long and five inches in girth, which he found asleep on his lawn on Thorn street, this city, yesterday. It is believed to have escaped from a circus, which was tented nearby earlier in the season.

DR. M'CRAE RESIGNS FROM BIBLE SOCIETY

Ordered to Take Complete Rest—Has Given Long and Efficient Service.

The Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae, who has been somewhat indisposed lately, will take an absolute rest for a while, and has, with deep regret, been compelled to tender his resignation as permanent secretary of the Western Ontario Bible Society, which he has held for a number of years. The board of directors of the Bible society greatly regret Dr. McCrae's retirement and have fittingly recognized his long and faithful services. Hundreds of friends in London and throughout Western Ontario will join in regrets and good wishes. Rev. R. J. Bowen will fill Dr. McCrae's place till the end of the year, when a permanent appointment will be made.

LARGEST CLASS IN HISTORY ATTENDING NORMAL SCHOOL; MALE STUDENTS TOTAL 37

Two Hundred and Thirty-Four Enrolled For Courses—Increase of Seventeen Over 1920-1921.

Normal School records show that the largest class in the history of the institute is now in attendance there. When the 1921-22 term commenced 234 students, first and second-year, answered the roll. This shows an increase of 17 over last year's figures.

Of this number 37 are male, an increase of 29 over last year.

The reason given for the advance in the various male classes is that at present there is a great scarcity of employment throughout the district and also that more are inclined to follow the teaching profession on account of the increase in teacher's salaries.

Records show that nearly 80 per cent. of the pupils are from out of town.

The following is a list of the names and addresses of the pupils in attendance:

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

All the talk is how these national farmer progressives do carry their stomachs the very highest possible, almost as if progress were some new thing and they invented it. But the only progress they seem to have ahead of them is the painting this whole North American continent with red, white and blue stripes o'er sprinkled with seven new stars.

A strange tale told to-day at our Admiralty Club how young Miss Peters stays alone in her father's house all night, her father and mother going to Toronto for to see some show. And about 11 of the clock she hears a burglar in the house and knows not what to do. The phone instrument is downstairs, she is afraid to scream for help. Then she thinks of an old "To Let" sign in a closet which she puts in a window, and in 10 minutes 20 people are clamoring at the door to the great disgust of the burglar, who leaves mighty hurriedly.

Two teacher friends journey from St. Thomas yesterday and discuss literature. The elder saying, anent Dickens, his novels: "I consider that 'David Copperfield' should be first and 'Bleak House' second." Whereby a seedy-looking man leans over and says: "Excuse me, but youse guys have got your dope wrong. There ain't no such horses running!" Which is strange.

Which reminds me how during my bronchitis, and after trying many remedies, I do call up a chirurgeon friend and to tell him my troubles. Finally remarking: "What else is good for this bronchitis besides Scotch whisky?" and the chirurgeon replies: "By St. George, man, who cares?"

Our day chief reports a strange thing how several years agone a young reporting man is employed to this office and he learns pretty smart. But presently he meets a maid who becomes the center of his existence. And not long afterwards, for some reason, he asks the day chief for a press badge, meanwhile gazing dreamily into space. And the day chief roars at him: "What do you want it for?" "Because," the youth replies hurriedly, "I am going to see Mary this night!"

Windsor becomes a royal city in all truth in suggesting that girls under 18 be forbidden public dance halls unless accompanied by their parents. The most sensible suggestion that has been put forward by anyone, and it comes, St. George witness, from a plain aldermanic man, and not from Sociological reformers. The passing of the chaperon accounts for much of our youthful silliness. And we be sure they enjoy themselves not one-half as much without her. The sweetest kiss in the world is one stolen when Madame Duenna has her eyes turned for a moment.

Which reminds me of a mighty significant dream I have last night, which is that Yang-kee battleships drop anchor at Port Stanley and all the countryside to examine her, their admiral being pretty courteous, especially since this is his first visit to the new Union State of Ontario. The young people to dance on these vessels pretty joyful, but we older ones stand back sorrowful somehow at seeing the Union Jacque replaced by a younger flagg. So I wake, and heaven be praised, it was only a dream.

The best news is that O. St. James Freer, of Toronto, proposes to have the acts of vaudevillians censored. One of our better-city clubs should forthwith invite him for a speech. For this is a movement that has long needed attention. Not any silly putting of comstockings on legs, but the putting of Maxim silencers on filthily ambiguous speech. Also the warning of vaudevillians that if they cannot make people laugh without the ordure of the slums, then we want not to laugh at all.

See where the Anglican church is preparing to make a great move towards church union, God be praised! Meanwhile they debate, carefully, over a new name for their church. Which reminds me of a verse in the Book, which says that bating a certain name, there is none other given under heaven whereby men may be saved.

To breakfast on porridge after the Scotch fashion at Christmas, seeing that we have cream to go with it. Then to my office pretty tired owing to lack of sleep. The first news is that the chief Yeoman-Liberal paper to Toronto do set forth a great cartoon showing Master Crerar setting fire to the prairie and vowing that no wheat pool will stop this fire, which he names his progressive party. The most apt, unwitting cartoon I ever saw in my life, for it depicts this grain-growing leader as a builder of destructive fires of class passions, and as this fire heads towards him, 'tis very like that he, too, will be destroyed in it.

Electrical Engineering Courses.

Special Evening Classes for Electrical Workers.

There are few mechanical lines offering more remunerative opportunities for ambitious young men than electrical work. Employers report that there is no trouble in securing men with a fair working knowledge of wiring and some practical experience with motor and dynamo work, but men who, in addition to this, have the necessary scientific knowledge required by the electrical expert are very difficult to secure.

The Technical School is establishing a class to meet this need in the local electrical trades by a class in Science of Electricity. Mr. Peart, of the Hydro-Electric staff, a graduate engineer with long practical experience, will have charge of this class. The course will include the theory necessary to understand the operation of the various types of electrical equipment, laboratory testing, the study of meters, direct current motors and generators, alternating current generators, synchronous motors, transformers, and a thorough study of the principles of transmission and distribution of electric currents. The equipment for this department is very complete.

Already a large number have enrolled for this class and any additional electrical workers desiring to enter should register as soon as possible.—Advt. f

Saved Two Lives.

Two lives were saved when a local housewife used Mir-A-cle in her wash machine—the life of the machine and the life of the clothes.

The addition to the suds of Mir-A-cle, the wonder washing cream, reduced the amount of rubbing required. No hand rubbing was needed at all. Order Mir-A-cle from your grocer.

EPWORTH LEAGUE MEETS MONDAY

All Methodist Churches of District To Send Delegates.

RALLY IN THE EVENING.

W. L. Clark, of Leamington, Will Be Principal Speaker.

Every Methodist church in the London district will be represented at the annual convention of the Epworth Leagues to be held in Dundas Center Methodist Church in Monday. An afternoon and an evening session will be held and it is anticipated that the church will be taxed to capacity with young people, who are laying plans for their season's activities.

W. L. Clark, of Leamington, one of the foremost speakers in the Dominion on young people's work, will give the principal address in the evening. Having lectured throughout the whole of Canada and in many parts of the United States, his talk on "The Garden of Youth" has promise of being most inspiring and thought-provoking.

Addresses by Rev. W. E. Millson and Rev. S. J. Thompson will feature the afternoon session of the convention. The former will speak on "Evangelism and Social Service," a subject of which he has an intelligent grasp, due to his long service as district secretary of the evangelism department of the Methodist church. "Methodist Missions in British Columbia" is the topic under which Rev. Mr. Thompson will confine his remarks to the leaguers.

RALLY IN EVENING

The grand rally of all the leagues in the city will be held at 8 p.m. At this gathering the report of the nominating committee will be received and the officers for the incoming year elected and installed. Following the song service, Mr. Clark will speak and a musical program given with the assistance of Mrs. W. B. Wortman, and Miss Dorothy and Miss Gertrude Cahill. Roll call of the members and the reception of the report of the resolutions committee will also be featured.

Officers for the current year of the Epworth League are: Hon. president, Rev. J. A. Agnew; president, W. Boyce; first vice-president, Miss H. Powell; second vice-president, Miss H. Hardy; third vice-president, I. Parkinson; fourth vice-president, H. Reavely; fifth vice-president, Mrs. A. J. McLean; treasurer, Mrs. E. A. Hart; recording secretary, S. H. Lee; corresponding secretary, Miss M. Tanton; conference representative, W. Hulbert.

PUBLIC MAY REGISTER FOR HEALTH LECTURES

Part of Course To Be Taken By Nurses May Be Taken By All Who Desire.

The Western University extension division has arranged to allow the general public who may be interested to register for certain lectures of the public health course for nurses which has just opened and for the public health course for first year arts. The lectures thus made available are those to public health nurses in sociology given by Col. W. J. Brown on Mondays at 4 p. m., limited to 10 in addition to the present class, and the public health lectures on Fridays at 4.30 p. m., limited to 10 in addition to the arts students, given by Dr. H. W. Hill. Physicians, engineers, inspectors, nurses in practice, who are interested in any of the lectures given in the professional public health course may register at the Institute of Public Health for any one or more of the total series. The sanitary engineering work is given by Mr. F. A. Dallyn, provincial sanitary engineer.

Last year the Institute of Public Health gave public health courses to 151 students, regular and special, besides university extension work. This year about 278 students are taking the same courses. This is in addition to the chemistry courses given at the Institute for arts and medical undergraduates of the university.

LONDON COLLEGIATE SPORTS POSTPONED

Owing to the unfavorable weather conditions the London Collegiate field sports, which were scheduled for this afternoon, have been postponed indefinitely. St. Thomas Collegiate was to send a basket ball, rugby, tennis and baseball teams here to compete with the locals, but were notified at noon to-day that the sports had been canceled.

SELECT G. W. V. A. DELEGATE OCT. 17

Secretary Hubert Paulger Will Probably Attend Convention.

QUESTION OF UNION

Amalgamation To Be Chief Item On Program.

Secretary Herbert Paulger will, in all probability, be selected to represent the local command of the G. W. V. A. at the annual convention of the Dominion association to be held in Port Arthur a week from next Monday. President W. G. Coles informed The Free Press that the candidate would be selected at the regular monthly meeting next Tuesday.

"Amalgamation of the veteran organizations will be the question that will overshadow all others at the coming convention," said Col. Coles. "Representatives of the Army and Navy Veterans, the Canadian Legion and other bodies will probably be in attendance, and every possible effort put forth to bring about unity among the returned soldiers of the country."

DISCUSS AMALGAMATION.

The colonel was unable to state on what basis the amalgamation might be brought about. None of the soldier organizations wish to lose their identity, but it is possible that they will consent to do so for the good of the veterans in general. For some time it has been the contention of the local branch that the G. W. V. A. should survive in any union because of the money investments which its members had made and the enterprise which they had taken securing remedial legislation for ex-members of the forces.

Unless some resolutions are introduced at the next meeting of the local club there will be no matters brought up by Secretary Paulger at the convention. The question of unity is such a big one that it will take precedence over all other minor issues.

ENROLLING TEACHERS FOR MURAL STUDY

Western University Campaigning For Pupils — Response Has Been Splendid.

Western University is making an intensive campaign with a view to enrolling teachers of London schools and Western Ontario as extra-mural students. The response has been splendid, Dr. Brown reports, and also points out that half the staff of one Western Ontario high school has already enrolled for the arts course. There are at present some 20 London teachers taking extra-mural university work, but it is hoped to enroll at least 100 within the next few days.

Extra-mural work, it is explained, is a sort of combining of correspondence lessons and actual residence. Those taking the course have to attend the Western summer school, but do much of their study at home and stand examinations by mail.

Western University is a pioneer in the field of making colleges useful to teachers. Several years ago they formulated a policy which had as its aim the enrolling of teachers throughout the 14 peninsula counties for degree work. Other universities are following the lead given, but faculty heads believe that the local institution will continue its present leadership in the work for better educated teachers.

NOT OFFICIAL—W. H. T. Mooney, principal of the Collegiate Institute, last night issued the following statement: "In spite of advertisements to the contrary, no arrangements have been made, or will be made, by the authorities in charge of either the rugby or basket ball teams of the Collegiate to attend any theater on the evening of the Collegiate sports."

PRAISES LONDON ZOO.

Inspector Tustin, of the London Humane Society, has received a letter from Secretary Wilson, of the provincial executive of the Royal Humane Society, complimenting London on the excellent condition of the animals in the Springbank zoo, and the modernity of the housing arrangements there for Canadian wild creatures. The London zoo, it is stated, should be an object lesson to other cities of the province.

URGE CIVIC WORK TO AID JOBLESS

Social Service Workers and Aldermen Agree on Solution

CONFER ON SITUATION

Part Time Work May Be Provided for 1,500 to 1,800

Part time work will be provided for between 1,500 and 1,800 jobless Londoners this fall if the suggestion of last night's joint meeting of representatives of the City Council with the Social Service Council is acted upon. It was estimated that within a short time there was a possibility of 2,000 men being out of work in this city, and that the only solution for this problem would be to commence such municipal undertakings as the laying of permanent roadways, beautifying the Thames and laying of storm sewers.

The joint meeting preceded the regular monthly session of the Social Service Council, at which a thorough discussion on censorship of motion pictures and vaudeville took place. Mrs. Harvy Winnett was appointed to succeed Mrs. John Gemmell as convener of the censorship committee, while A. F. Nash and Rev. John Gardutt were elected to fill the vacancies created by the withdrawal from the city of Rev. R. G. Peever and Rev. H. T. Ferguson.

MUCH OPTIMISM.

In spite of the fact that nearly 2,000 unemployed are expected by Christmas if no relief measures are instituted, there was an optimistic feeling at the meeting that London would fare much better than other cities, and that by following the suggestion of providing work there would be the minimum of distress. The point emphasized was that work was much preferable to doles and should be secured by every means possible.

The proposal is that outside work in sewers and other necessary improvements should be begun as soon as possible, and that if necessary there should be three shifts of men. The city, it was said, could provide steady work for between 500 and 600 men, or three times that number if each man worked only two days a week. Encouragement should be made to men who have any knowledge of farming to go on the land, and for bona fide residents of the city being given the preference in matters of employment.

Speaking as a manufacturer F. J. White stated that recently there had been a noticeable improvement in many lines of business which would help the labor conditions as long as it continued. Election time had a disturbing influence on trade conditions, but once the tariff question was determined there ought to be a return to better times.

A committee of the Social Service Council, composed of President James Gray, Secretary T. D. McCullough and Mrs. H. R. Henderson, was appointed to act with a similar committee of the City Council on further matters connected with relief or unemployment. The Council instructed this committee to urge manufacturing to keep running, to urge builders to proceed with contracts secured and to secure others, to urge citizens contemplating improvements to proceed with them and to urge farmers to necessary clearing of land, draining, etc this fall.

In regard to the censorship of vaudeville it seemed to be the mind of the Council that all possible influence should be brought to bear upon the local theater managements to eliminate anything of a suggestive or immoral nature. This was regarded as the only effective means by which the tone of the acts could be improved as theater managers were not likely to oppose the sentiment of a large precentage of their patrons.

J. H. Laughton expressed this feeling in advocating moral suasion rather than provincial censorship methods. He alsod rew attention to the difficulty of drawing the line betwen the decent and the indecent. It was just as wrong for people to pay high prices to see a Russian ballet dancer go through a few "wriggles" as it was for the child to spend 15 cents on a vaudeville act of the same type which would be called vulgar. Yet the better class of people patronize the former whereas they would abhor the latter.

THE PATRICIA.

There is something gripping about red-blooded Tom Mix, no matter what the picture in which he appears. He brings to the screen the scent and tang of the prairies and the attractions of the virile life in the great out-doors that never fails to make a big hit with his many admirers. In "After Your Own Heart," the picture feature in which Mix heads the bill at the Patricia for the last half of the current week, all the situations in which this star delights are to be had. There is plenty of hard riding, fights, when the development of the plot calls for them, and altogether thrills galore, in all of which the versatile Thomas demonstrates the particular line of ability in which he has won fame. "After Your Own Heart" is well staged. The majority of the scenes being laid in the West affords opportunity for beautiful scenery, and in this respect the photographic effects are worthy of special mention. Altogether it is one of the best Mix pictures seen in London for a long time.

The comedy part of the picture bill is provided by a Century production, well calculated to cure the most obstanate case of blues. A beautiful scenic completes the picture bill.

As a special attraction this week Manager Stewart presents Ackland and Mae in an excellent musical and comedy act, in which high class work on the Scotch bagpipes is featured. Lovers of the pipes will find in this turn something to warm the cockles of the heart and carry thought back to the land of broom and heather.

LOEW'S.

Bert Lytell has a role in his new picture, The Road to Paradise, now showing at Loew's, well calculated to bring out the particular happy qualities for which this screen star is noted. In his newest release Lytell is a particularly handsome and lovable hero, and he has a character which suits him to the ground, and a story which gives him the opportunities he requires. Supported by an excellent cast, including several players who are always popular with London fans, the new Lytell picture compares most favorably with the star's previous successes. Yesterday it was witnessed by large audiences at all showings and the troubles and consequent triumphs of the leading character found instant response in the hearts of the fans.

An excellent comedy, almost good enough to be featured by itself, is "Painting the Town Red". The name does not tell the story but the picture contains a series of most ludicrous surprises which prove amply sufficient to test the risibilities of the most pessimistic fan. The Allan's World News is as usual stricly up to date and presents late news events from all quarters of the globe in an extremely entertaining fashion. Three vaudeville turns complete a well balanced program. Cooper and Ridell caught the fancy of the audience on their appearance yesterday afternoon, and were prime favorites at each succeeding performance. Leader and Armstrong have an attractive act, presented in telling fashion. Neal Barrett & Co. pleased in their specialty offering. It is bright and contains plenty of ginger. Altogether the Loew bill for the last half of the week is up to the usual standard of that theater.

THE ALLEN.

When Rev. Dr. Charles W. Gordon (Ralph Connor) wrote "The Sky Pilot" he presented one of the most accurate depictions of a phrase of Canadian life ever set down on the printed page. When the story was adapted as a screen production by Catherine Curtis all the fidelity of the novel was preserved and the screen version had the extra advantage of being able to visualize the scenes which the author so forcibly described. The consequence is that "The Sky Pilot," which is the feature at the Allen for the last half of the present week, is about as good an example of an adapted novel as the screen holds. All the big scenes in the book are brought out with wonderful realism. The cattle stampede, in which 4,000 beasts participated, is even more thrilling when viewed on the screen than as Connor wrote of it. In the book one felt the danger of the situation; on the screen one sees it and experiences of both brings the verdict that the screen is the more effective and thrilling. Naturally the picture is well cast. All the characters have been selected for their particular fitness for the roles to which they are assigned. The ruggedness and grandeur of the Canadian Western scenery forms most attractive and suitable settings for the unfolding of the stirring story. To the feature add a funny Booth Tarkington comedy, "Edgar, the Detective," and the Allen World News, which is fully up to its usual standard of excellence, and the combination makes a picture bill which is most attractive and which was enjoyed by large audiences at all showings yesterday.

Beatrice O'Leary, the Century girl, in songs, duplicated the success she scored in the first half of the week, while the music by Allen's concert orchestra was a decided feature.

CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE AMERICAS

Like Beautiful Romance, Declares Dr. F. J. Kinsman

OUTLINES ITS HISTORY

Lectures at Auditorium of the Caholic Club

Taking for his subject, "Catholicism in America," Dr. Frederick J. Kinsman, one time Episcopal bishop of Maryland, and now a layman of the Roman Catholic Church, lectured before a large audience in the Catholic Club Auditorium last night.

He stated that the history of the Roman Catholic Church on the North and South American continents since the landing of the Jesuits in the early part of the 16th century was likened to a beautiful romance.

He spoke of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock in 1605, and, amidst laughter, added that they would have saved a great deal of unnecessary trouble if they had waited for a while and not landed until the present day.

The Jesuits, he stated, carried Christianity as far as the Great Lakes and down throughout the Mississippi Valley as early as 1604, but that some of the dissatisfied members of the church, through some laws which they could not agree upon, started religions of their own, and which their descendants had enlarged upon and were still following.

"We cannot expect these followers of non-Catholic organizations to turn to the Catholic church right away," he stated, "because they are following their principles of religion just the same as we are."

GAINS NOTHING.

He spoke of the constant friction which would arise between the Roman Catholics and Protestants at times, but added that it did not get either side any further ahead. When the call to arms sounded in the great struggle for democracy, God-fearing men and women of all denominations played honorable and noble parts side by side in aiding their country in the hour of need, and religion for a time was folgotten.

"In this democratic age," he stated, "we must all work together, for the bettering of social conditions, for the education of the younger generation and also from a political standpoint."

Dr. Kinsman stated that there is in the non-Catholic denominations the noblest desire of the workers to serve their fellow men, and, while this in itself is an outcropping of the highest aspirations of mankind, he still felt that it was wrong that this class of work should be separated from the church.

There has been an attempt on the part of the non-Catholic churches, he added, to banish the belief in the supernatural from the teachings of the church, and, in doing that, the people were unconsciously banishing God at the same time, because God and the supernatural could not be separated.

Speaking on the matter of world-wide church unity, which has been the subject of discussion in the non-Catholic churches for a year or so, he stated that on all sides he had heard men speaking of unity, thinking of unity and praying for unity. He added that the one peaceful working system of unity in the Roman Catholic Church set the other denominations thinking, and that now they were out trying to get results. "For unity," he remarked, "there must be one head and one body, no matter how many branches or roots you may have, and the Catholics have the representative head and body of the Catholic Church in the pope and the Apostolic See."

BROTHERHOOD WILL FIGHT REDUCTION

W. J. McPherson, organizer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, arrived in the city on Wednesday. He stated that the organization would fight the company in regards to the new wage schedule decided upon by them, but would make no statement regarding their plans or progress made by the wage board.

OIL STOVE EXPLODES, DEREHAM HOME BURNED

A Remarkable Discovery.

Among the 20th century discoveries none will go down to posterity as a more popular labor-saver than the great boon to housewives—Mir-A-cle Washing Cream. Entirely different than any other aid to washing, Mir-A-cle is in a class by itself. Used with soap it does the wash without rub being required. Include a bottle of Mir-A-cle in your order and make wash day easier.

Getting Too Fat? Take This---Reduce

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist (or if you prefer write to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.) for a large case of Marmola Prescription Tablets. One dollar is the price the world over. By doing this you will be safe from harmful drugs and be able to reduce two, three or four pounds a week without dieting or exercise.—Advt.

EAT LESS MEAT IF BACK HURTS

Take a Glass of Salts to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys; they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts, or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure any one; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

Why It Costs You Too Much To Live

The trend of living costs, as The Baltimore Sun observes, "is the most important issue in the average household of America to-day." When, therefore, this trend is upward, especially in foodstuffs, as during the past few weeks, father and mother naturally wonder a bit anxiously if this upward trend indicates the end of price reductions in many lines and the beginning of a new era of increasing costs. If prosperity is waiting for prices to come down where people can buy, then the reverse movement has a meaning to every one — banker, merchant, or toiler — and if the toiler happens to be among the millions of unemployed, his interest in this subject is apt to be especially acute. Reasons for the recent advance, from profiteers to short crops, come from all sides. The 70-per cent. increase in the price of cotton, thus giving Southern farmers more money to spend, is also advanced as a reason by Wallace's Farmer (Des Moines). "Labor costs, coal costs, high interest rates and high freight rates" — each has contributed to the rise in food costs, maintains The Memphis Commercial Appeal, which further declares that " war profiteers are seizing upon a natural demand to advance prices."

A careful examination of the editorial pages of newspapers in all parts of the United States has been made by The Literary Digest, with a view toward seeking the causes of high living costs, the tendencies for a rise or drop in them, and the remedies suggested for the relief of the public.

In the leading article of The Literary Digest this week, October 8, the result of this examination is presented, and it makes enlightening reading, indeed.

UNPAID BATHS IN LONDON HOMES NOT REPORTED

An inspection just completed on the part of the Public Utilities Commission, which was made from house to house, revealed that London had 290 more baths than had been reported. The growing cleanliness of London caused the waterworks department much pleasure, but they point out that baths have to be reported or else the department loses money. It is estimated that over $1,700 has already been lost through the failure to report new plumbing work. Warning advertisements will be run in the daily press, Commissioner Mitchell states, and plumbing concerns circularized.

UNABLE TO AGREE ON RAIL WAGE REDUCTION

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—Representatives of the railway and the joint conference committee of the five railway brotherhoods concerned in the dispute over the 12½ per cent. cut in wages recently instituted by the companies to-day reported to Justice MacLennan, chairman of the board of conciliation appointed in connection with the above controversy, that they had failed to find a basis for settlement during their "round table" conference, which has been in progress since Friday last.

His lordship expressed disappointment and requested that representatives of both bodies adjourn with him to his private chambers to talk the matter over.

HOME-MAKING ART A WORTHY SUBJECT

Not a Fad, East Middlesex Teachers Are Told

ANNUAL CONVENTION ON

Rural School Problems Discussed at Sessions

Household science as an important factor in the rural school curriculum was the principal topic for discussion among the 120 teachers in attendance at yesterday afternoon's session of the East Middlesex Teachers' Institute, meeting for their annual convention in this city yesterday and to-day.

With Miss Blanche Silcox presiding, the household science subject was presented in a comprehensive address from Miss Clara E. Elliott, of the Hamilton Normal school staff, who outlined the development of this valuable study during the past few years.

"There are still some people who consider household science is a fad, an educational bubble," Miss Elliott said, "but the majority of thinking people realize that education means preparation for the needs of the community, and, remembering that most of the small girls now in school are the home-makers of the future, the art of home-making must surely be a worth-while subject."

THE OLD SYSTEM.

The speaker referred to the old system of education, which she declared was "man-made for men" and pointed out that a knowledge of household economics does not come to the girl by instinct any more than a knowledge of arithmetic or spelling.

"It is a disgrace that so many of our girls pass through our hands without the fundamental knowledge required in the management of a house" Miss Elliott said.

The speaker pointed out that the school was the place for acquiring this type of knowledge, as the mothers in the home have neither the time or the teaching ability necessary. "It is economy of time, money and energy to have 20 children taught by one teacher rather than to allow 20 mothers to teach in 20 different homes," she said.

Miss Elliott strongly advocated the hot school lunch in the rural schools, both as beneficial to the health of the children and also as a means of demonstrating the practical side of household science, and gave some interesting instances of the successful carrying out of this dual scheme.

It was pointed out that the department allows a grant to the ungraded schools where domestic science is included on the curriculum for one hour weekly, with a bonus as well for the teachers who take the annual summer course in domestic science. At the present time it is estimated that in 260 rural schools in the province household science is being taught, while Saturday classes for the teachers to enable them to cover the first course of the summer school training in this subject are being successfully conducted in Wentworth county.

THE TRIP TO NORTH.

The afternoon program included a delightful resume of the trip taken through Northern Ontario this summer by the public school teachers of the province, Miss Sproat and Miss Willis reporting interesting retails of the trip.

Inspector P. J. Thompson was also a speaker, his brief address being chiefly an outline of the changes in the regulations covered by the attendance and adolescent acts, and instructions to the teachers on the proper filling of reports, etc.

A recreational evening session at the Normal School when some interesting educational films were shown, and solos were sung by Mrs. Edward Wyatt, concluded yesterday's program. To-day the election of officers, committee reports, class demonstrations, conferences and a timely debate form the program, which is taking place in the county buildings.

SCIENTIFIC BREEDING TO GET LAYING HENS

This Shown in Competition Now in Progress at Central Experimental Farm.

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—That scientific breeding and selections are important factors in securing best results with live stock is significantly manifested in the performance of the two greatest egg producers in the Canadian egg-laying contest being conducted at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The two leading hens are ful-blooded sisters from bread-to-lay stock and are in the pen entered in the competition by the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. At the time of writing they are tied for the first place, each having laid 266 eggs in 366 days. One of these hens during this period laid an egg a day for 72 days without a break.

The ordinary hen found on most farms to-day in Canada is producing less than 100.

COMMITTED FOR ROBBERY ATTEMPT

Osman Matsen Admits Breaking Into Crumlin Store

IN CANADA SIX WEEKS

Caught in the Act by Merchant and Son

Charged with breaking and entering the store of William A. Duffin, at Crumlin, on Wednesday night, Osman Matsen, a Dane, who told the court that he had only been in this country about six weeks, was committed for trial by Deputy Magistrate Graydon yesterday afternoon. Matsen, who also gave his name as Islas Lodson, admitted the offense.

Mr. Duffin was the only witness called by the crown. He told the court that his wife heard a noise in the store, which is attached to the dwelling, about 10 o'clock, after he and his family had retired. He and his son went down stairs with a lantern and a revolver. They met the accused, whom Dr. Duffin positively identified, and in the struggle the prisoner hit Mr. Duffin on the shoulder with a hatchet which he had. The son grappled with the intruder and took the hatchet away from him, hitting him on the head with the hammer side of the instrument. He was made to lie on the floor and was kept covered with a revolver until the arrival of the city police, who were summoned.

The witnesses stated that the would-be robber had got in through a back window, from which he had torn the screen. As far as the complainant had been able to see, the intruder had not disturbed any goods in the store. Mr. Duffin stated that the hatchet which the prisoner carried did not belong about the store.

Asked by his worship whether he had anything to say regarding the charge, the prisoner stated that he could not understand English very well, but admitted that "it's right what the man says."

TO ASK $250,000 FOR THE UTILITIES

Board to Request Council to Submit By-Law

PLAN FOR EXPANSION

Board Refuses to Publish Salaries in Detail

One-quarter of a million dollars for hydro and waterworks extensions in 1922 was yesterday passed by the Public Utilities Commission and a letter embodying that request will be sent to the City Council for preparation of a debenture by-law that will be submitted to the ratepayers of London on December 5.

Each department of the Public Utilities asks an equal amount, $125,000 each.

The subdivision of the statement of proposed capital expenditures, for which the debentures will be issued, is purely routine and made necessary through the normal growth of the departments

Chairman Vining expressed it in terms of big business. "We find that we will require $125,000 in each of the departments, electrical and waterworks, to take care of new customers and provide for the future," he said. "The debt is carried out of revenue and the total amounts proposed for expenditure represents only a portion of extension costs, which will be met, to a large extent, out of revenue.

MUST GROW.

"Capital investment in any business is an appropriation made to cover permanent extensions. London is growing and the city-owned utilities are growing with it."

The commission decided to ask $15,000 of debentures for metering water services in 1922. This will supplement $15,000 at least to be expended out of revenue for that purpose. This means that at least half the city will be completely metered by the end of the coming year.

For drilling test holes for wells $5,000 is appropriated, for well development $20,000 is proposed. Well pumps and motors call for another $15,000. For well drilling purposes and equipment, as shown, $40,000 is to be set aside. For main extensions $25,000 is provided.

In the electrical department $20,000 is asked for switching equipment for the new substation. For larger transformers and regulators $35,000 is asked. Services and meters call for $25,000. Extensions will require $20,000.

A report was made on the success of the Ohio Well Drilling Company's operations in London. Details were not furnished, but several wells give indication of considerable flow, while one recently sunk promises an enormous additional supply.

Request from the City Council that salaries of public utilities employees be published, with names of employees opposite salaries received, was refused by the commission on the stated grounds that it would be subservient to discipline and have a bad effect on the department's efficiency.

They agreed, however, to publish the salaries by groups—executive, office staffs, foremen, engineers, laborers. This decision was ordered sent to the city clerk.

WILL APPEAL AGAINST O. T. A. CONVICTION

Mrs. Annie Freeman Gives Notice of Action on Magistrate's Decision.

The first local appeal taken under the new law which gives the right to persons convicted under th O.T.A., has been taken by W. C. Fitzgerald, acting on behalf of Mrs. Annie Freeman who, on Monday of this week, was fined $300 or three months by acting magistrate Bartlett on a charge of selling liquor. Notice of appeal was served yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Freeman's conviction was secured on evidence provided by the two provincial officials who operated in London some weeks ago and secured cases against a number of local people.

N.Y. PRINTERS TO ARBITRATE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The New York local of the International Tygographical Union, has decided by a vote which was practically unanimous, to arbitrate its differences with the New York Employing Printers' Association concerning a new wage agreement. Under the expiring agreement the printers got $50 a week. They wanted a new agreement under which they would receive $55 a week. The employers wanted one under which the printers would get $40 a week.

GRANT NO MORE INDIVIDUAL LOANS

Housing Commission So Decided Last Night

EXPENDED $689,000

189 Houses Have Been Erected or Are Under Construction

No more applications for individual loans will be accepted by the housing commission. This was decided last night at the regular meeting, when several applications were ordered filed. The commission will concentrate on the sale of the Pine Lawn and Garfield avenue houses and the completion of some 17 houses, loans for which have been approved during the last few months. But so far as individual loans may be concerned the work of the local commission is completed.

Since the appointment of the commission 359 applications have been considered. Under the 1919 act 109 houses were erected, including those in Pine Lawn. Under the 1920 act 80 houses have been erected or will be completed when the 17 soon to be commenced are finished.

The total expenditure of the commission in loans made and authorized to date amounts to $689,000. Of this sum $400,000 was expended under the 1919 act and the remainder comes under the 1920 act. The Council has authorized the issue of $300,000 debentures for the use of the commission, thus it will have $11,000 to cover any contingencies that arise in the erection of the 17 houses this fall. Some of the applicants will ask for additional loans to cover the cost of installing furnaces, etc.

One applicant, who has been living in his completed house for some time, having occasion to write the commission, took the opportunity of expressing his satisfaction with the treatment he had received.

"I am well satisfied in every particular," said he. "My house is now worth $2,000 more than what it cost me. I may say that I have absolutely no cause for any complaint whatever."

COAL MINERS ARE "GIVEN THE AIR"

Quartet From Ohio Arrested Here on Vagrancy Charge

Four men, who told Magistrate Graydon on Thursday afternoon that they were coal miners from Rayland, Ohio, and who were in the toils charged with vagrancy, were allowed to get out of town under the direction of a kindly police officer.

Stanley Curry, John Kivikoske, John Whitley and Tom Foloske were the four wanderers and they told the court that they were out of work and had come to Ontario to try and get employment here. Magistrate Graydon expressed surprise that they should be out of work in their trade with coal at $16.50 per ton, but one of the quartet volunteered the information that they only received 78c of that $16.50 for loading the coal.

When the four were "given the air" they took it in a hurry and without argument.

James Aikens, who claimed Toronto as his home and who was charged with vagrancy, was found to be absent without leave from Westminster Hospital. He told the court that he had been shell-shocked overseas, but declared that he was wasting his time at the hospital, as he had not received any treatment there for months. He intimated that he would rather be sent to the county jail for 30 days than go back to a lock ward at the hospital. The magistrate stated, however, that he could do nothing but hand him over to the authorities.

Arthur Skelly, who has also been a patient at the Westminster Hospital, was charged with being disorderly and he too was sent back to the hospital for further treatment. According to the information which the chief had, Skelly had tried to smash up furniture and an auto at his place of abode. His sister was afraid of him. The prisoner asked for an opportunity to get his belongings as he was afraid that someone would steal them.

Steve Vinchaef, a local barber, was fined $20 and costs for keeping his barber shop open after closing hours on Saturday night last.

Washed Clothes in Waters of Lake Erie.

Summer campers at Port Stanley, now home for the fall and winter, have some laughable experiences to relate. A great deal of amusement has been created over the idea someone started of doing the wash on the beach. As a result of this practice many garments are decidedly "off-color," but they can be restored without rubbing by that wonderful washing cream, Mir-A-cle. Make next wash day easier. How Many Men Keep Youthful Looking

It is well known that within recent years the men have become extensive patrons of beauty specialists and masseurs. Not only the fastidious, but men generally who have a care for personal appearance. This has also led to the employment by many of home methods calculated to enhance or preserve physical attractiveness. Of these, perhaps the most widely used is the mercolized wax treatment, which explains the mystery of the silver-haired gentleman with the boyish face. The mercolized wax, obtainable at any drug store, is applied the same as cold cream, only not rubbed in. This gradually absorbs the dead and half-dead cuticle in tiny particles, revealing the fresher, healthier-hued skin beneath. To secure best results many apply the wax at night, washing it off in the morning. Women not only encourage husbands in this, but use the treatment themselves.

To keep away wrinkles and flabbyness many men use, after shaving preferably, a simple lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint of witch hazel. This gives splendid results.—Advt.

SMALLMAN & INGRAM LIMITED

LOSING CHANCE TO GET GAS SUPPLY

Ald. W. A. Wilson Blames Action of Aldermen.

NO CHANCE FOR PRICE CUT

Sixty-Five Cents Is Out of the Question.

Chairman W. A. Wilson, of the special gas committee, stated to-day that London has practically lost its chance to secure natural gas through the action of the Council in setting the 65-cent limit. He had a conversation with one of the members of the Progressive Oil & Gas Company yesterday and he has formed this opinion since that conference.

According to Ald. Wilson, the Progressive Oil & Gas Company will not meet the city in regard to the lower rate for gas. The company now has an offer to sell the product of its wells to a large company supplying Ingersoll and other cities east of London at a higher price than it was offered to London, says the alderman. Under these conditions it is not to be expected that London can get the gas at 65 cents, he intimated.

In fact, the special gas committee chairman asserts that he was told by the representative of the Progressive Gas & Oil Company that the request of the city for 65-cent gas could not be considered.

TELL OF ACTION.

Ald. Wilson, in his capacity as chairman of the gas committee, has writen to the City Gas Company, the Progressive Oil & Gas Company and to Gas Referee Henderson acquainting them with the action taken by the Council on the question. He has also asked the company owning the wells to reply stating whether any better proposition will be submitted to the city. These letters were sent away yesterday and it is not expected that any replies will be received until next week.

Colin Duffield, of the City Gas Company, stated that his company would positively refuse to reduce its charges for distribution of the gas below 35 cents a thousand. This decision is final, he intimated. Regardless of what action the natural gas company may take the city company will not make any concessions in the way of reduced rates for distributing the product of the Saul wells.

THORNDALE BRANCH OF THE W. I. MEETS AT MRS. WHEATON'S HOME

A delightful meeting of the Thorndale Branch of the Women's Institute, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Wheaton, 2nd concession of West Nissouri. The president, Mrs. Boulton Fitzgerald, was in the chair, and Mrs. G. B. Vining, secretary-treasurer, presented her reports of the proceedings since the opening of the season of 1921, which opening occurred in August.

Summing up the work of the branch in a bright and forceful little speech, Mrs. Fitzgerald drew attention to the healthy state of the treasury and asked members to bring suggestions to next month's meeting as to how their funds may best be expended for the furtherance of Institute aims.

The program which followed the business meeting, consisted of a piano solo charmingly rendered by Miss E. Murphy as also a happy comic recitation from the same clever source, and a song, "I Love Thee, Dear," which showed to advantage the clear and sweet soprano voice of Miss Rita Gree. The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Grace Blackburn, of London, who gave a talk, the text of which was: "They have fluttered broken wings—like Marie Bashkertseff; and they have sat still—like Emily Bronte:" a study of the soul life of two women.

With the hospitality for which Nissouri is famous, Mrs. Wheaton, at the conclusion of the afternoon, served a most delicious tea to the 30 or 35 ladies present. The proceedings closed with the singing of the national anthem.

LIBERAL SMOKER.

CHATHAM, Oct. 6.—A. B. McCoig, M. P., to-night gave a smoker for the benefit of the workingmen of the city. There was a good attendance.

Now Let's See Just Who Owns These Stovepipes

"Stovepipe, stovepipe, by the great horn spoon, where's that ding busted, double condemned six lengths of stovepipe that you were to send up to me this afternoon?"

"How d'ye get that way, your pipe went up awright."

"The heck it did. Here I'm freezin' an' the wife threatens to go home to mamma, an' you promised to have that pipe up here this afternoon, an' it ain't here."

The foregoing is a sample of one conversation between some citizen in London, at present unknown, and a stove store in the city, where he bought six lengths of disappearing pipe which has never found its way to his domicile.

Meanwhile there is another citizen, a public official by the way, who has six lengths of pipe which he didn't order and which is merely cluttering up his nice, tidy lawn. Adverse to publicity, the gentleman is not desirous of having his name appear in print, but if the man who wants the pipe and hasn't got it, communicates with this office he will be placed in touch with the man who has the pipe and doesn't want it.

Evidently a delivery man's error, but a well-known London man was surprised a day or two ago when a telephone message from his home to his office inquired why he had ordered oodles of stovepipe. He replied that he had not, and the home informant then told him that a delivery truck had just dashed madly into the street, hesitated at the house while the driver hurled six lengths of pipe through the air, and then dashed away. The pipe lit all over the lawn. It is still there, for no claim has been made for it. Meanwhile the rightful owner of the pipe is probably jeopardizing his future and incidentally the continuance of his telephone service by the things he is saying to the city stove dealer.

CALLS FOR MORE HOUSING WORK

Ald. Harley Would Carry On Under Revised Rates.

INCREASE THE DEPOSIT

This Would Reduce the Risk Taken By City.

Ald F. E. Harley, in an interview to-day, called for a continuance of civic housing work. Mr. Harley stated his conviction that the housing work should not be discontinued, but that the province should make larger credit grants and revise the rules governing the loan building plan at present.

The chief revision he calls for is the requiring of a 20 per cent. deposit on loans by applicants instead of 10 per cent. as at present, and that the rules regarding houses be amended so as to permit the building of simpler residences.

"The 20 per cent. deposit," he pointed out, "would reduce the civic risk by giving each builder an actual stake in the home proposed for erection. The present 10 per cent. is enough for some, but it does not guard against others that regard the housing plan as a means of temporary relief."

Ald. Harley also feels that the housing situation is still serious, though not acutely so. But to prevent further periods of house shortage he stated his conviction that the housing work should go on instead of being discontinued at a time when it seems to be more needed, of potentially greater benefit, than at any other period.

QUITS PROVINCIAL FIELD.

NELSON, B. C., Oct. 7.—At a nominating convention held here last night Dr. W. O. Rose, M. L. A. for Nelson, was the unanimous choice of the National Liberal and Conservative party to contest the federal constituency of West Kootenay.

News of the Federal Campaign

Dean, Liberal Candidate in Oxford, May Withdraw—Edwards Nominated In Frontenac — Dewart Will Not Enter Federal Fight.

KING OPENS CAMPAIGN IN P. E. I.

CHARLOTTETOWN, Oct. 6.—The Liberal campaign in Prince Edward Island opened to-night when Hon. Mackenzie King and his associates, A. R. McMaster, of Brome, Que., and Wm. Duff, Lunenburg, N. S., together with the Liberal candidates in Queen's County, addressed two audiences in the market hall and the Price Edward Theater.

Rain and consequent bad roads had kept away many persons from the country districts.

Referring to the tariff, Mr. King said that there must be increased production in the basic industries and this demands the lowest possible tariff on the implements of production. On necessaries, he said, the tariff should bear lightly. The home and its needs will be the first consideration in revising the tariff, he said.

MR. DEWART' INTENTION

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—The Globe says this morning:

"H. H. Dewart, who has led the Liberal party in the Legislature during the last two sessions, recently intimated to the Liberal members his desire to be relieved of the duties of the leadership, so that he might devote a larger part of his time to the practice of his profession.

"It is understood that a formal letter of withdrawal will be forwarded by Mr. Dewart to the Liberal members, who may be called together next week to consider the situation created by their leader's decision. It is not Mr. Dewart's intention to resign his seat in the Legislature or to become a candidate for the Dominion Parliament at the coming election."

MENTIONED FOR WEST ELGIN.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 6.—(By Staff Reporter.)—With at least four names under consideration the National Liberal and Conservative forces in West Elgin are getting ready for the convention which is to be held in Dutton, on October 12. Just who will be the candidate seems at the present time to be pretty well undecided, but Dr. J. D. Curtis is looked upon as the most likely choice. Many prominent men both in St. Thomas and West Elgin have urged the doctor to allow his name to stand, but he is somewhat reluctant owing to his extensive practice and a desire to drop out of public life.

Others mentioned prominently in connection with the candidature are: Mayor Frank L. Brinkman, W. W. Scott, M.C.R. engineer, and Warden Hugh McKillop, of West Lorne. All have a large number of supporters and would make excellent candidates, but so far Dr. Curtis and Warden McKillop are looked upon as the most likely ones.

Dr. Curtis would, according to local opinion, poll an unusually large vote in St. Thomas, where he is very popular, while in the rural districts he has a host of supporters, in view of the fact that he was born and raised in Southwold, on the old Curtis homestead. Warden McKillop, the genial reeve of West Lorne is also looked upon as a strong possibility. In the rural parts of the riding he would pull a large vote, and he is not unknown in St. Thomas, where he has been prominently identified with municipal affairs.

A BIG CONVENTION.

Mayor Brinkman needs no introduction; he is well and popularly known throughout the city and district, and either he or W. W. Scott, M. C. R. engineer, would poll a large vote in the city.

It is the desire of the supporters of the party, however, to name a candidate who would be acceptable throughout the riding and this will be the main point in deciding the question at the nomination meeting to be held in Dutton next week.

The convention promises to be one of the biggest and most largely attended in history. West Elgin, it is said, is one riding about which there will be little or no doubt in the approaching campaign. Each week-end little groups of political enthusiasts from various parts of the riding can be found in Dutton and in St. Thomas, the two centers of the riding, and judging by scraps of conversation overheard there are many who supported the U. F. O. in 1919 who will record their vote for the Meighen Government in the approaching contest.

At a meeting held here last night George J. Warney, who represented the party at London recently, declared that he knew of many who were talking Labor now, owing to the absence of a good, strong Government candidate. They would soon change when the Government party named its standard-bearer.

MAYOR DEAN MAY WITHDRAW.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 6.—Political activity in South Oxford is growing in intensity and the main topic on the lips of everyone is, what is Mayor Dean, who was offered the nomination at the Liberal convention, going to do? As yet he is silent.

Next Tuesday the National Liberal and Conservative party will hold their convention at Mount Elgin to appoint officers and nominate a candidate, and the only name mentioned is that of the present member, Donald Sutherland. The meeting will have a long array of speakers, including Hon. Hugh Guthrie, V. A. Sinclair, ex-M. P. P., of Tillsonburg; Miss A. H. Clayton, of Listowel, and Mr. Sutherland.

On the same evening the U. F. O. will make their first real attempt to form an organization in this town, when a citizens' meeting is announced to be held in the Council chamber to arrange for delegates to the U. F. O. convention in Mount Elgin on October 25.

The concensus of opinion is that Mr. Sutherland, M. P., and a U. F. O. candidate will be the only contenders in the fight as the present indications are that Mayor Dean will withdraw.

READY FOR CAMPAIGN

KITCHENER, Oct. 6.—The organization of the U. F. O.-I. L. P. in North Waterloo was completed at a largely-attended meeting held in St. Jacobs and arrangements for an aggressive campaign in behalf of the party candidate, Dr. J. E. Hett, are in charge of a combined committee of farmers and labor. It is understood that Dr. Hett will stand for a protective tariff.

DR. EDWARDS NOMINATED.

KINGSTON, Oct. 6.—Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards was the unanimous choice of the National Liberal and Conservatives of Frontenac in convention here to-day.

DR. MANION APPEALS.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 7.—"There is no reason on earth why the Liberals and Conservatives should not link with me," said the Hon. Dr. Manion, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, addressing a meeting last night of his political followers of the Fort William and Rainy River constituency.

"There is not a plank in the Meighen platform that even the staunchest Liberal in the country need have any qualms of conscience in extending his support to the platform of the Meighen Government. I am behind Premier Meighen to the limit. Liberals of many years' standing that have been affected by the split also are behind the premier in this connection. The Meighen platform, to my mind, is the salvation of this country," he said.

As to the assertion of Mr. Crerar that the Progressives are not a class group Dr. Manion differed. "Crerar says it is not," said the speaker. "Dr. Michael Clarke says it is a class group. You can flip a coin and take your choice. Michael Clarke should know."

ODLUM IS NOMINATED

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 7. — Brig-Gen. Victor W. Odlum was the unanimous choice of the South Vancouver Liberal delegates last night for the federal elections. Brig.-Gen. J. A. Clark was chosen by the convention of National Liberal and Conservative delegates as their candidate for Burrard riding. S. J. Crowe, the sitting member, declined to run again.

THE ONTARIO OUTLOOK

TORONTO, Oct. 7. — Government forces in the province at large are rapidly getting into line. It is still a little early for cautious campaigners to make predictions, but signs are accumulating that a drift to the Government has set in among the Farmers. A Conservative-Farmer member of the Legislature expressed this opinion yesterday, basing it on the trend of sentiment in his own riding.

"Two years ago," he said, "you could not get a farmer to talk to you at all on politics, but now they show a disposition to discuss matters. The farmers are beginning to realize that a federal election in which the tariff is the issue is not the same thing as a provincial contest. They appreciate the fact that their interests are bound up with the urban communities, which form their market, and there is an increasing disposition to leave things as they are."

A significant feature of reports from outside points is the apparent lack of morale in the Liberal ranks. Hon. Mr. King's attempt to get away from the Liberal tariff platform is not winning him support in protectionist centers and is losing him adherents who resent this way of playing fast and loose with a given pledge. Up in West Lambton, where F. F. Pardee has been an institution for years, a shift seems almost certain. So unpromising is the situation that Mr. Pardee, right hand man to Mr. King in Ontario, as he is, is said to be contemplating a graceful exit. By deserting the Union Government he has lost friends among those who supported him in 1917, and many die-hard Liberals have not forgiven him his earlier desertion of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. West Lambton promises a three-cornered fight. The Farmers have a former Liberal in the field, and the Government forces will probably choose R. V. Le Sueuer, a prominent young lawyer, when their convention is held. The split in the Farmer-Labor union may result in Labor's support going to Mr. Le Sueuer, which would make him a sure winner.

The Liberals are also expected to lose Peterboro, which they won in the by-election. "Ham" Burnham has succeeded in getting the Government forces united once more and a strong campaign is being waged. Premier Meighen is putting the seal of his blessing upon Mr. Burnham by speaking in his support in Peterboro during his Ontario tour.

The opinion still prevails that Sir Henry Drayton will be a candidate in Toronto, but J. R. MacNicol, president of Ward 6 Conservative Association, stated yesterday that it was untrue, as stated in a morning paper, that Sir Henry had assured the ward 6 Conservatives that he would not be a candidate in Parkdale. He stated that they had had no communication whatever from the finance minister.

EARLIER HOURS FOR MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

Lorne Avenue Club Discusses Ending of Meeting by 10 o'Clock.

Early hours for mothers is becoming as absorbing a topic among the city Mothers' clubs as the proposed curfew for juveniles, and the matter of a 10 o'clock closing for all the clubs was discussed at last night's meeting of the Lorne Avenue club. Trustee Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt made a brief speech, in which she suggested that while the limit allowed by the board is 10.30, the clubs might arrange to complete their meetings by 10 o'clock except on certain special occasions.

Mrs. Rose, union club president, gave a short address to the members on the duties of parents and children, in which she declared that a little more selfishness on the part of the average self-sacrificing mother would in the end be more beneficial to the child. Mrs. Rose also announced the changed date of the union quarterly meeting from October 24 to 17, when Assistant Inspector Greer will speak. Preceding the social half hour with refreshments, a pleasing musical program was presented by Mrs. Manning, vocalist; Miss Bonnie Banks and Miss Lena Cline, pianists, and Miss Violet Hunt, reader.

INSTALL 3,000 MORE WATER METERS HERE

Three thousand additional water meters will be installed in 1922, bringing the total number of metered water services up to 9,600, about two-thirds of the total number of water services in London. The cost of this work will be met by $15,000 of debentures and $35,000 out of revenue.

With this increase of metered services it is understood that water rates will be radically revised. The minimum charge will be lowered, it is understood, and a service charge may be adopted for both water works and electrical departments.

Commissioner Philip Pocock at yesterday's meeting of the Utilities Commission pointed out that in his opinion a service charge for both water and electricity was needed, and that he considered such a charge entirely equitable.

A DAY'S NEWS OF BRUCE AND HURON

JAILED SIX MONTHS AND FINED $500 AND COSTS

WALKERTON, Oct. 6.—Robert Osborne, Greenock Township, was sent to jail for six months to-day and in addition fined $500 and costs for manufacturing liquor contrary to the Inland Revenue Act. This was Osborne's second offense. A couple of months ago he was fined $500 and costs on the same charge. The case was tried by Magistrate Tolton.

Latchford Thacker said he got a distilling outfit from Winnipeg to purify drinking water on his farm, but the court thought otherwise, and fined him $300 and costs for operating an illicit still.

OCTOBER SUNSHINE FOR FALL FAIR AT TARA

Four Thousand People Attracted to Exhibition of Excellence—Concert as Climax.

TARA, Oct. 6.—Favored with bright and pleasant October sunshine, the second day of the Tara Fall Fair yesterday attracted a crowd of 4,000 people, and the fair was in every way a big success. During the two days of the fair, yesterday and Tuesday, there was not the slightest accident reported, and everything passed off fine. The officers and directors of the Fair Association are elated over the splendid attainment of this year's exhibition. The weather man delivered his best, as did also the exhibitors, who filled up the greater part of the various classes with the best exhibits placed on display here for many seasons.

Yesterday the horses, cattle, etc., were the main attractions, the showing in the various classes being made up of the finest specimens of the district, while the poultry measured up favorably to that of last year. The Women's Institute ladies served dinner on the show grounds and lunch in the afternoon. This was also a special feature and greatly appreciated, especially by the exhibitors at the fair. There was a splendid concert staged in the hall in the evening, which brought to a close one of the best fairs in Tara's history.

MANY WHEELED HOUSES AT TEESWATER FAIR

TEESWATER, Oct. 6.—Teeswater fall fair was held yesterday, and, in point of numbers and display, was the largest and most successful in the history of the town. The gate receipts were $800. The display of cattle and sheep has not been exceeded in any part of this country. Horse racing was a feature of the afternoon. Twelve buggy horses competed for prizes. A visitor reckoned the value of the automobiles parked throughout the streets and on the grounds at three quarter of a million dollars. There was no midway or games of chance on the grounds.

MARTIN TO CONTINUE FIGHT FOR SYSTEM

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—In a monster demonstration given by some 3,000 guests at a banquet tendered him last night at the Mount Royal Arena, Mayor Mederic Martin witnessed the culmination of his 10-year fight for the aldermanic system.

Mr. Martin was presented with a bronze bust of himself and a couple of lion cubs, typifying courage and tenacity. In his speech the mayor said that he had confidence that the Provincial Government would give back to him as mayor the powers he once held, and "it is my intention," he added, turning to Hon. Mr. Mercier, "to ask at the next session of the Legislature that the mayor be returned his power of veto and his surveillance of the city's employees."

U. S. OCCUPATION ARMY ALMOST AS COSTLY AS THAT OF FRANCE

PARIS, Oct. 7.—The cost of the United States army of occupation on the Rhine from the date of the armistice until April, 1921, was second only to that of France, according to the figures issued officially by the reparations commission, which has established gold marks at the standard, instead of pounds, francs or sterling. The figures are as follows: France, 1,276,450,838 gold marks; United States, 1,167,327,830; Great Britain, 999,016,859; Belgium, 194,706,228; Italy, 10,064,861. The Temps, commenting on these figures, says: "Had the expenses of occupation been figured to last April's rate of exchange the total cost would have been one-half."

BEGIN YEAR OF WORK FOR BOYS

"Ki-Y" Club Is Organized For the Underprivileged.

THE BIG BROTHER IDEA

Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs Undertake Big Task.

The organization of the "Ki-Y" club which took place last night marks the inauguration of a year's activities on behalf of the boy who by force of circumstances has not the same privileges as the average boy. Thirty-five youngsters are enrolled in this club and through the generosity of the Kiwanis Club are being provided with free membership in the "Y" and the necessary gymnasium equipment to permit them taking advantage of the physical classes which are being held.

By the end of the year it is expected that approximately 50 youths who are fatherless or who are handicapped in life by other reasons will have been taken into the association and given ample proof that some persons are interested in their welfare and whether they make good or not. The Junior business men's club has undertaken to care for 15 of that number, so that half of the objective of 100 has already been reached.

It is understood that the Rotary Club, which has a live "boys' work" committee, will be responsible for as many of the youngsters as the Kiwanis Club. Senior business men in the "Y" are also interested in the work among the lads and will probably do the 'big brother" act to the remainder of the 100 lads who ought to be provided with social and physical activieies.

The aim of the officials behind the movement is to remove all barriers of race and money from the association and to make entry to the "Y" possible to every lad who has the inclination to be linked up with its members. It is pointed out that one of the objections to the Y. M. C. A. heard during the last welfare drive was the impression that it was a rich boy's club and was not caring for the youngsters who cannot afford to pay their way. Quite a percentage of the 100 lads lost their fathers in the war, while not a few are orphans with no relatives to look after them.

ADVANCED ELECTRICAL CLASS AT TECHNICAL

J. W. Peart is Appointed Instructor of Course.

Advanced classes in electrical engineering will be included in the night school curricula of the London Technical and Art School, Principal Beal announced to-day. J. W. Peart, of the Utilities Commission, will be instructor in charge of the work.

This new class will afford a splendid opportunity to practical electricians, it is stated, that have not received special training in the scientific side of their profession. This course will cover the essentials of practical science schools in electricity, and will permit practical electricians to qualify for executive positions with higher pay.

SIR. JOSEPH COOK APPOINTED.

Figures Lie for Mr. Crerar

The report of Mr. Crerar's speech at Brandon, in which he attacked Protection and "expounded" Free Trade, contains the following curious and wonderful figures upon the subject of the population of Canada. That population, the leader of the Agrarian Party is trying to show, has lost out rather than increased under the present tariff policy of the country.

We have verified the dispatch all along the line and find the figures printed in The Free Press to be identical with those received and printed by the press in general. Here they are:

"In 1911." Mr. Crerar declared, "census returns showed that Canada had a population of 7,200,000. Immigration since then, according to official figures, amounted to 1,800,000. In the same period births over deaths numbered 140,000. So that at the present time Canada should have a population of 10,140,000. As a matter of fact, however, unofficial reports of this year's census show that the total population of Canada will not be in excess of 8,500,000. That," added Mr. Crerar, "leaves over a million and a half to be accounted for."

Tot Mr. Crerar's figures up, please:

Population, 1911	7,200,000
Immigration since 1911	1,800,000
Births over deaths since 1911	140,000

Mr. Crerar makes it 10,140,000.

We make it 9,140,000.

What do you make it?

Lost one million out!! But what is it to a "progressive" like Mr. Crerar! Accepting Mr. Crerar's "unofficial" figures (the reality will be much larger), the population of Canada has increased 1,300,000 since 1911.

During that period Canada entered and became one of the successful combatants in the most devastating war in all human history.

Take a few further figures: official this time and not hearsay:

Canada enlisted in the war 590,572. Her casualties were 215,185. Of this appalling number 56,763 were killed in action or died of their wounds. Out of it 4,960 died of other causes incident to military service. Our wounded total 149,732. Our prisoners of war total 3,729. Since the war 3,087 returned soldiers have died in Canada and 19 died in Siberia. Thus the dead alone number 64,829.

Of the wounded Canada at this moment carries a pension list (for disability in all classes) of 37,771. A grand total of 152,600 dead and disabled.

This is the flower of our manhood, remember. This is the seed corn of our race. These for the most part were the young marriageable men of Canada, the potential fathers.

As producers of progeny the dead are a total loss. From each one of them, in the natural course of human increase during the seven years since the war started, we might have had three children. That means a loss of 194,487. Again, if we put the disabled down at 50 per cent. generatively vital, and that we think a most conservative estimate in the matter of generative disability, the loss, using three as the standard, may be reckoned as 131,656.

To return to Mr. Crerar, according to his estimate, but allowing ourselves to correct his multiplication, the population of Canada in 1921 should have been 9,140,000, whereas (accepting his "unofficial" figures) the population of Canada in 1921 will be only 8,500,000. But wait a moment: Add our war losses, 64,829, to our loss in natural increase from war causes, 326,143, and we have a grand total of 490,972. This is practically half a million.

In other words, add 490,972, Mr. Crerar's estimated 8,500,000 (census 1921) and we have 8,990,972. That 149,028 less than the 9,140,000 which Mr. Crerar should have said we ought to have, had he—or his reporters—not been out that one million.

Thus the appalling slump in population which the leader of the Agrarian Party lays at the door of protection vanishes into thin air.

Instead, what loss in population we have sustained is due not to protection, but to patriotism. Increase through our ordinary channels has been quite normal. Loss through extraordinary channels has been as abnormal as German poison gas and Big Berthas could contrive to make it.

Mr. Crerar's figures criticize not the living, not the hearty, but the dead and the disabled in the greatest cause for which men have suffered.

The leader of the Agrarian party points a finger, not at any fiscal policy under the sun, but at those who:

"Laid the world away; poured out the red,
Sweet wine of youth; gave up the years to be
Of work and joy, and that unhoped serene
That men call age, and Those Who Would Have Been
Their Sons they gave—their immortality."

And this is politics!

An Orphaned Resolution

In March of last year, a resolution favoring compulsory military training was introduced in the House of Commons by Major H. M. Mowat, Unionist M. P. for Parkdale. His seconder was Brig.-Gen. W. A. Griesbach, of Edmonton, who entertained somewhat different views, but supported the general principle of the motion. Nobody else had a great deal to say about the matter, but the very idea of compulsory service in the Canadian militia four weeks in a year kept The Farmers' Sun and Kitchener News-Record in a state of nervous apprehension, editorially, all summer, with occasional relapses thereafter. The Free Press ventured to suggest that the matter was not a live issue, in view of the probability of sufficient volunteers turning out to the training camps as they were resumed, and this proved to be the case, although Hon. W. L. M. King has recently voiced objection to the attendance of men who served overseas. The debate in the House, if we recall aright, lasted but one day, and the resolution, being afterward superseded on the order paper by Government business, passed from view. Gen. Griesbach has been called to the Senate, and now Major Mowat has been appointed to a judgeship. Our contemporaries may rest easier.

The League's Triple Goal.

Despite the number of explanations that have been given as to the aim and objects of the League of Nations, the public, always eager for compressed information, never until the last debate at the League Assembly has been acquainted with its real objectives.

The information so much desired was provided by Monseiur Leon Bourgeois, the well-known French delegate. M. Bourgeois asserted that the League had a triple goal: The establishment of an international court of justice, the preservation of peace on all occasions when threatened, and the organization of the international life of the nations. In amplification of his succint and clear statement of the aim of the League, he said further: "We do not want to touch the sovereignty of any State or any nation. We do not try to establish any sovereignty whatsoever. But above the political sovereignty of States there is a moral sovereignty, which is that of law."

The French delegate's explanation was illuminated by the remarks of the Dominion delegate, Mr. Doherty, who gave able expression of the confidence of Canada in the ideals of the work of the League, and by Captain Bruce, Australia, who affirmed the faith of his far-off country in this arbiter of national destinies, saying: "If we throw behind us all questions of self-interest and self-seeking, if we continue determined that justice and righteousness shall prevail, then this League of Nations will become the great instrument for moulding humanity dreamt of in past ages and now created in our days."

The explanation no doubt will prove most satisfactory to the many who wished to be possessed of authentic information, and at the same time gives the Dominions a thrill of pride that their delegates so spontaneously professed such faith in a project which will help the nations to live more in accord with the ideals which seemingly until the present day have been beyond man's power to achieve.

Another Farm Leader Deserts

Joshua Fletcher, a district president of the United Farmers of Alberta, has followed the lead of Dr. Michael Clark and has announced his inability to support the United Farmers' federal party. Mr. Fletcher has been one of the stalwarts of the Agrarian movement in Alberta and for 17 years has been an active worker. Mr. Fletcher, like Dr. Clark, objects to the peculiar class views of H. W. Wood, president of the U. F. A., and his dominating attitude.

Mr. Fletcher's defection on the top of Dr. Clark's desertion is a body blow to the Agrarian movement. Such men, whose whole heart and soul have been in this movement, are not leaving their party except for serious reasons.

The facts are that there are two schools of thought in the Agrarian party, whose views are utterly irreconcilable. Dr. Michael Clark, Premier Drury and presumably Hon. T. A. Crerar believe in broadening out. It was these men christened the party National Progressive and issued an invitation to all men who believed in their platform to join hands with them.

H. W. Wood, J. J. Morrison and The Farmers' Sun, on the other hand, are as firmly of the opinion that the party should be a purely class one. They believe that every economic group should form its own party and these various economic groups should displace the old party system. They would abolish the present British system of responsible government, whereby the party having a majority forms the cabinet and is held responsible for its action. In its place they would substitute what they call a group cabinet. In addition, Mr. Wood proposes that every Farmers' candidate will place his resignation in the hands of the central organization. It is a system of "boss" rule hitherto unknown in Canada.

Apparently the Woods and the Morrisons are in control of the organization, although in Ontario in some ridings Labor and Farmers are uniting, but are uniting by what Dr. Clark calls a system of "log-rolling," the tariff being ignored.

With the Agrarian party dominated by men of the view of Mr. Wood and Mr. Morrison, the farmers of Ontario will have to give serious study as to their attitude and their votes in the coming election. Can they continue to support a party which proposes to abolish British responsible government, or do they agree with Dr. Clark and Mr. Fletcher?

THE SITTING-ROOM.

A grate fire and a snapping log,
Upon the hearth a sleeping dog;
The mother in her rocking chair
Sewing fully many a rip and tear
In little garments—while in bed
Slumbers each drowsy curly head.
Oh, mighty poets, can you miss
The glory of such scenes as this?

That this might be, the pioneers
Of freedom suffered dreadful years;
Braved countless dangers, forests wild,
To bless with peace a little child;
Took arms against a mighty foe,
And smiling died that men might know
Beyond all covetous desire
A home roof and a happy fire.

All history from age to age
Recorded on the printed page
Of battlefields strewn thick with dead
And ocean waters runing red
The cannon smoke and screaming shell
This very simple story tell,
'Twas all to save from wreck and doom
Their glory of the sitting-room.

STEEPLES.

There has always been something inexplainably fascinating to me about steeples—whether they be those of a church or school—or what not.

A town doesn't look like a town without its steeples.

Stevenson once wrote that his "favorite kind of mountain scenery" was found in the admiration he had for great cathedrals.

A man couldn't be much of a pessimist and an admirer of steeples at the same time. For, you see, he would have to look up to see them. And pessimists look down!

And in the case of a great cathedral, how the spires play among themselves—never quarreling.

We are lost spirits in a strange world when we fail to be uplifted by the evidences of aspiration made a reality all about us, such as in the reaching steeples which are appreciated by so few.

I talk with many people and see imaginary steeples pointing up through their words and attitude. Somehow the big God manages to plant in the hearts of some people a kind of power that doesn't let them fail. He builds steeples right up through their daily aspirations—and they win in spite of everything.

When we look upward we touch the lines of infinity. Our vision is made over and we find the fingers of perpetual hope which interlock with ours—and we smile because we believe and have confidence.

Steeples mean a great deal to the world. —George Matthew Adams.

AT THE CORNERS.

I now recall, with deep dejection, the accident of yesterday; it happened at the intersection of Bunkum road and Hayseed Way. Had I gone slowly, as my pastor has urged me to, a thousand times, there would have been no fierce disaster to swell the list of auto crimes. But I was sending my tin Lizzie a gait no Lizzie ought to know, and I, alas, was far too busy to scan the landscape, to and fro. And so that bus of Hiram Horner's came scorching to me all unseen, and we collided at the corners, and rolled in burning gasoline. I'm full of tin and grease and gravel, and as I sit here, sick and dour, I swear that I will never travel at more than seven miles an hour. Of course, I blame the other fellow, and say he should be pinched and tried; it is a habit, rather yellow, wherever motorists abide. And Hiram sits in silence solemn, and knows not I am telling fibs; the surgeon wired his spinal column, and put new washers on his ribs. The two poor Lizzies are so mingled, so void of a dividing line, the tinsmith's says he will be jingled if he can tell me which is mine. And so, in gloomy retrospection, I think about that ghastly wreck, while surgeons make a close inspection of sundry fractures in my neck. The roads are strewn with wrecks unholy, their number never can be told; it seems that people won't drive slowly, however bitterly I scold. —Walt Mason.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

A man came erround yestidday aftirnoon giving out little boxes of shoe polish, saying on them, You dont know wat a high shine is till youve used Dazzello. Being a funny shape man without mutch of a shine on his own shoes, and I in our vesterbule, thinking, G, I know wat Ill shine ma's exter shoes and Gladdises exter shoes and serprize them and maybe theyll each give me a dime or something maybe.

And I went up in ma's room and there was 2 pairs of black shoes under her bed and I shined both pairs with the Dazzello, making sutch a shiney shine the shoes looked as if they was made of patten leather, and then I went up in my sister Gladdises room and there was ony one pair under her bed, being a bran new pair without eny shine on them before I polished them with Dazzello but sutch a brite shine afterwards they looked like 2 different shoes, and ma and Gladdis came home together on account of having went out together, and I went down stairs holding Gladdisses shoes behind my back, saying, Hay Gladdis, wat will you give me if I shine your exter shoes under your bed?

Wat, my new dull calf skin shoes, Ill give you something you dont ixpect if you dare to toutch those shoes, sed Gladdis, and I sed, Well I got a sample box of blackening and if you ever saw the grate shine it makes you'd be glad to have it on your shoes, G, I bet you can see it for 2 blocks.

How prefeckly horrible, I dont think theres anything more detestible than a brite shine on shoes, and the briter it is the more detestible it is, thats wy I partickilly bawt calf skin, sed Gladdis. Her not having eny ideer wat I was holding behind my back, and ma sed, I feel the same way about it, I like all my shoes dull, cleen but dull, if theres enything that makes my blud run cold its highly polished shoes.

Me thinking, Heck, good nite, holey smoaks, G. And I went out of the room backwerds and quick ran up and put Gladdises shoes in her closit under a lot of things so she wouldent see them till she wunted them and even then not too easy, and then I went in ma's room and did the same thing to her 2 pairs, and I havent herd eny more about them but I ixpect to eny minnit.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

A proclamation has been issued inviting the people of Canada to observe the week of October 9 to 15 as "Fire Prevention Week," during which they will look over their premises and remove all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fires, and take any other measures calculated to reduce fire hazards and maintain health and safety. Canada shares with the United States the discredit of having the greatest fire loss record in the world. The cost is heavy, as the insurance and other records show, but it has been going on a long time and people regard it as regular if not natural. It is time for a change, and it would be profitable to make it.—Montreal Gazette.

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

ONTARIO WARMING FOR THE FRAY.

Editor Free Press. Any one who has lived in Western Canada and in the East as well cannot fail to recognize a distinct difference between the people who live in these respective portions of the Dominion.

This difference never asserts itself more plainly than when a great public question looms upon the horizon. The question that is bringing this startling difference to light at the present time is whether or not the people of Canada are going to abandon their historical policy of protection, which they have clung to with so much ardor for the last 40 years.

In the West the people are very enthusiastic and are on the lookout for new ideas that will help them in a business way toward greater prosperity. Their chief fault is overoptimism. They are weak in caution: on the contrary, the people in the East, especially in Ontario and the Maritime Provinces, rely upon past experiences and are cautious to adopt new ideas, believing them possibly to be mere promises, which shall never be put into practice. They believe in the poetic maxim:

"Be not the first by whom the new is tried,
Nor yet the last to lay the old aside."

In 1911, when the Government of Sir Wilfred Laurier tried to champion the cause of reciprocity, the people of the West supported it, but Ontario and the Maritime Provinces almost unanimously voted it down because it was not in the interests of Canada. It was a slight attempt to reverse the wheels of our national policy and the country would not allow it for a moment.

To-day we find the West, composed for the most part of farmers, has thrown aside their politics or (are expected by their leaders to do so) and follow the Wood-Crerar policy of free trade. They have made inroads into the rural populations of the Eastern Provinces and are attempting to influence the Eastern mind to send them to Ottawa to put into practice an unworkable policy of free trade. This policy has been declared by the Liberal party supporters of Hon. Mr. King as preposterous and wholly out of the question. If this is so, the Farmer party cannot secure either men who believe in protection or men who believe only in partial protection.

The Hon. Mr. King calls the Government a Government of compromise. Yet in Quebec conscription is discussed; in British Columbia protection is advocated, while among the rural districts free trade is more or less advocated by his Liberal lieutenants. He also states a Government of compromise must be lacking in principle, therefore his policy must be lacking in principle.

The policies of the Farmer party and of the Liberal party under Hon. Mr. King can stand anything but scrutiny and the people of Canada are beginning to scrutinize. They are beginning to go into the question of free trade and are finding that it was never a success in any country that adopted it. Even in Great Gritain it depopulated rural England and carried in its trail events that led to its annulment.

If the policy of free trade is merely a promise, a discarded platform picked out of the scrapbook of political philosophy, why should the U. F. O. be so easily hoodwinked into believing that the sensible men among the farmers will believe them or that the farmers' wives are going to be deluded by the exposition of such a glittering bauble expounded by uneducated orators.

No; the farmers of the Province of Ontario are not going to vote because of the fear of U. F. O. organizers, who desire to quit farming and be members of Parliament with a handsome salary of $4,000 a year. If these office-seekers cannot get this salary from others responsible firms the people are foolish to give it to them they do not deserve it, because they are not worth it.

The promise of the Farmer party cannot be put into practice by any Government, for if they were tried they would drive the country into chaos and disaster.

The MacKenzie King platform is equally unusable because it changes it application to suit changed conditions. The support that he receives from Quebec is based on revenge against the Government who carried through the war to a successful issue. Every one who votes, especially the soldiers, should remember that the boys who died believed they were doing right in sacrificing their lives and if the Government was defeated by the Quebec vote it would mean that the Government was wrong in carrying on the war and all the sacrifice was useless. Every patriotic citizen should stamp his approval of the course the Government took on election day and thereby give the dead soldiers the historical seal of his approval.

The farmers of the West are beginning to think also and there can be but one result. The Agrarian party between now and election day will lose ground in the West and in the East, while the Liberal party will lose influence heavily in the Maritime Provinces, Ontario and British Columbia.

This will result in a great victory for the present Government, a victory of the historical protective policy of Canada, and a victory of common sense over fads and faddists.

In conclusion, there is just one thing that Canada should be proud of, and that is at a time of reaction after the war there is already organized, under Premier Meighen, a Cabinet possibly the strongest that Canada has ever had and with an experience of our present conditions, such as to enable them to stabilize business conditions and assure all classes of people a fair and a square deal.

Canada has had a proud history; it has fought its own enemies, has defined its own policies and has stuck to its guns. In the election it will once again proclaim its approval of its own conduct by the election of the present Government, under Hon. Arthur Meighen. CICERO.

CHILDREN'S DAY NURSERY.

Editor Free Press: Just a few lines to call the attention of your readers to the children's day nursery on King street. I have heard some rumors lately of it closing up pretty soon if it did not get any help from the city. Is the city kicking at helping its poor? When mothers are trying to earn their bread so they won't be dependent on the city, isn't it only right that city help them by seeing to a place for their children? I am sure what little the mother can afford to pay doesn't keep up the nursery, and if the city shouldn't do this, who should? I believe there are from 29 to 35 children there every day. What will their poor mothers do if it is allowed to close without an effort to keep it open? Isn't it only right we should have a tag day or do something to help them get in their coal, etc., for the winter? What good are these baby clinics and other societies if we can't save the babies whose parents can't afford a doctor and who are dependent on the nursery for some place to put their children while they earn their bread and clothes? TO INVESTIGATE TRADE CONDITIONS

Deputy Commissioner to Visit Windsor on October 17

AFFECTS CONSULATE ACT

Walkerville Man Held Up at Cemetery

WINDSOR, Oct. 6.—F. C. T. O'Hara, Dominion commissioner of trade and commerce will be here October 17 to investigate trade conditions in regard to a consulate system which Canada proposes to establish in United States, according to word received by Chamber of Commerce to-day.

The Consulate Act has been held up by a protest from Windsor. Manufacturers object to a clause that requires every invoice over $1,000 of imports from Detroit to have the signed approval of a consul to be established in Detroit.

Following a preliminary hearing of the case before Police Magistrate Gundy, the trial of Harold Graham, charged with holding up and robbing Miss Loretta Trudell, a messenger for the Provincial Bank in Ford of $1,415 in May last, was set for the assizes which open at Sandwich next week. Graham denies all complicity in the robbery.

Two armed men held up Willian Leschman, 244 Monmouth read, Walkerville, as he was on the way home last night and took $120 from him. Mr. Leschman was walking home when, at St. Mary's church, two men emerged from the cemetery and covered him with revolvers.

READY FOR WAR.

Coal dealers are ready to wage war against the city continuing the sale of coal in large quantities. A deputation is expected to meet with the transportation commission of the City Council to-morrow night. Daniel T. Hurley, of the J. & T. Hurley Company, says that, so long as the city carried coal in stock for emergencies or for needy people only, there would be no complaints.

"Coal is being sold at the present time," said Mr. Hurley, "at $16 a ton by the city. Anyone can buy it. By this citizens of Windsor are led to believe that all coal dealers should sell coal at that price. In figuring the price of $16 the city has not taken into account wages of the superintendent, taxes, depreciation and maintenance of coal-handling equipment or interest on money involved," Mr. Hurley stated. All of these factors enter into prices charged by coal dealers.

Ald. Jackson, chairman of the transportation committee, says the council will be glad to hear what the coal dealers have to say.

WATERLOO TEACHERS AT KITCHENER CONVENTION

KITCHENER, Oct. 6.—The annual convention of the Waterloo County Teachers' Association opened in Zion Church this morning, with J. L. Daniel, of Galt, president, presiding. Nearly 300 teachers were in attendance. President Daniel's address to the teachers was on "Worrying," and a strong appeal was made by the speaker to overcome a defect that mars the work of many good but overconscientious teachers. This afternoon the convention subdivided into conferences of various departments.

REPEATS "PADDED PAY ROLL" CHARGE

Woman Speaker at Aylmer Revives Exploded McMillan Affair

McDERMAND RENOMINATED

East Elgin Candidate Steers Clear of Tariff Issue

AYLMER, Ont., Oct. 6.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Sidney S. McDermand, of Lakeview, late M.P., was this afternoon nominated as federal candidate of the Farmers' party in East Elgin. His selection was un-contested, and anticipation of that fact undoubtedly affected the attendance, the gathering in the Star Theater comprising but 125 of the "free and independent" electors. W. F. Smith, of Sparta, and Reeve Emerson McTaggart, of Malahide, proposed the name of Mr. McDermand, who was thereupon declared the choice of the National Progressive party by Lee Van-Patter, who presided.

Mr. McDermand delivered a fair and concise review of the late session at Ottawa, with particular reference to the country's finances and the railway situation. Nobody could find fault with his views on the tariff, because he did not approach the issue any closer than to advocate a "fiscal policy for Canada which would encourage colonization and rapid increase in the agricultural population and other basic industries."

Malcolm McVicar, provincial member for the riding, who is somewhat less concerned with the tariff, had more to say about it.

"Tariffs we have had, and must have," he said, "until such time as an order of things can be worked out that the revenues of this country can be met by some other means. It is folly for us to think that any man or group or party who may be elected to the federal House in this election will upset the fiscal policy entirely. It will not be done. They cannot do it. What can be done is close figuring, a tariff for revenue only, expenditures cut down to the very limit, and production speeded to its height."

RIVIVES McMILLAN CHARGES.

It remained for Mrs. T. W. Dykes, of Cowan—presumably Cowan, Manitoba—to provide the "hot stuff." Mrs. Dykes has scandals fastened on the late Dominion Government that Hon. T. A. Crerar and Hon. W. L. M. King have never discovered. In tones of horror that caused chills to run down the spines of her auditors, she exposed the fact that Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries in the late Government, was at one time president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. It seems that Mr. Ballantyne, who started the merchant marine, is also interested in certain well-known paint companies, the inference being that the ships of the Canadian merchant marine need paint from time to time. Not only that, but "While the widows were saving their nickles and the school children their coppers to send boxes to the boys overseas, General Mewburn, then minister of militia, was refurnishing his rooms at Ottawa with expensive hangings."

The climax, however, of Mrs. Dyke's attack came with a repetition of the pay roll charges made by R. J. McMillan, of Seaforth, at a meeting in Woodstock early in September of 1919. It will be recalled that Brig.-Gen. J. G. Ross, paymaster-general of the overseas forces, pointed out that there was "absolutely no truth" in the statements.

"Mr. R. J. McMillan made this startling statement," said Mrs. Dykes. "He said that the overseas pay sheets were padded with the names of 30,00 men that had never been out of civilian clothes, at an expense to this country of $30,000,000. This no doubt accounts for the loss of millions down there in the militia department. When the war ended there were millions missing, and not a voucher to show for it, at an expense, as I said a moment ago, of $30,000,000 to this country. He said that whole British hospitals and regiments voted for candidates in Canada during 1917, and that many soldiers did not mark their own ballots. The instigators laughed and boasted, and 95 of them were named, but there was no investigation.

"Dr. Edwards, who was here last year, made accusations against T. R. Preston, Liberal scrutineer overseas, of which Mr. Preston thought he was not guilty. Not being in the House that day, he wrote a letter to the press and challenged Dr. Edwards to meet him in his own riding or any place he wished to name, and said that he was not guilty. He said the real instigators were Mr. Borden and Mr. Meighen. The matter came before Mr. Mewburn, and, when pressed to investigate, he said the time was not opportune.

"Now, ladies and gentlemen, you may judge for yourselves, but to me this is simply ridiculous. Talk of honor! I leave you to judge for yourselves. These are facts, because when Mr. Mewburn was confronted with it he said he would investigate, and wrote Mr. McMillan, and Mr. McMillan replied. He said: 'Bring on your investigation and I will be there,' but the matter ended there and there has been nothing more said about it.

THE INDEMNITY "SCANDAL."

"Then the men we sent to Ottawa increased their own sessional indemnity from $2,500 to $4,000, without a dissenting voice. Truly the Government of our country has fallen into the hands of unscrupulous men! (Laughter and applause). Men who have betrayed the just interests of common people such as you and me. The situation of this country at the present time is alarming enough to arouse the attention of every man, woman and child. Can these things continue in a civilized country? Just imagine anything like passing one-sixth of the estimates without knowing what they were for! I tell you the time has come when we must have a change

"The women hold the balance of power to-day. Our national life is in danger. Are we going to sit with arms folded and see it gradually go down, as it must unless we rally to lift things up? If we do not remedy some of the existing evils, if the farmers do not lift each other out of the rut we have been getting in, it were better than we had never got the franchise.

"Not only must we send fit and proper men down there to represent us, but we must watch them. (Laughter and applause). See that they perform their duty, and observe their statutory limitations, and if sot, expose them as I am doing to-day, and at elections punish them."

Mr. McDermand, appreciating a difficulty on the part of his audience in grasping the volume of Canada's war debt, and the increased revenue made necessary thereby, translated the current year's requirement of $600,000,000 into units of milk cans. At $1.40 per can, he said, this total was equivalent to 400,000,000 filled milk cans, on a string of trucks 54,112 miles long. He advocated a system of Canadian trade consular agents in the United States. Of the railways, he said: "I feel strongly that perhaps under proper management by public ownership it would be possible to make these railways a public utility somewhere in the near future, self-sustaining if not paying lines, but there would have to be some drastic things done, and it would not be very good politics, perhaps to do it, but it is a very heavy question."

Mr. McVicar was of the opinion that the men of to-day are not as big-souled as those who lived in the past.

"We must not get ourselves into a state of mind where we labor only for the dollar," he said. "We must have, and will have in the near future, a regeneration of the soul of men; men should do things because they know it is good to do. We must have law and order, which are founded on the old Twelve Commandments," (the number is Mr. McVicar's) "and none of this higher criticism stuff which led Germany into the ditch. We must have freedom of thought, freedom of speech, and people who love law and order, and will give their lives for their heritage."

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often despondent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. I keep house and have the care of five children and I am very thankful I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound such a help. I recommend it to any woman suffering as I was before I used it."—Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CAMPBELL BECHER CHAPTER.

A neat, oilcloth-bound recipe book, containing the favorite gems of household cookery, is to be the next venture of the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., according to a decision reached at yesterday's meeting, of which Mrs. O. I. Cunningham was the hostess. The chapter members are begging recipes from their friends, and the book will be ready in the course of a month or so, proceeds of the sale to be, of course, devoted to the children's hospital fund. Twenty members were present yesterday to enjoy the announcement of the treasurer that the chapter is within $400 of their $2,500 objective for the hospital. The appointment of Mrs. F. J. Greenaway and Mrs. J. W. P. Jones as delegates to the Provincial Chapter meeting in Chatham on October 20, was satisfactorily arranged, while Mrs. Jack Stevenson and Mrs. J. McLeod were named recipe book conveners.

MOTOR REFUND.

That an "Automobile Committee Cot" in the new children's hospital may be the result of the recently canceled car raffle is the opinion of some of the committee who are confident that all the citizens who contributed to this cause will not ask for a refund of their ticket money. That there is no special "run" on the committee for the repayments was demonstrated yesterday when only 277 tickets were presented for refund during the hours spent by the committee at the Bank of Toronto for this purpose. Refunds will still be made for a certain period of time, but the generosity of the citizens in not making immediate demand for restitution has been appreciated by the committe. The suggestion that any balance left unclaimed go towards a fund for a special cot for the treatment of motor accidents has been made, but all suggestions of this nature are as yet purely tentative.

Leonard has promised a talk on the "Forward Look of Canadian Clubs," based on the interesting deliberations of the convention of Canadian clubs, held last month in Winnipeg. Brief addresses will also be given by Mrs. C. B. King, president of the London Y. W. C. A., and Miss Gladys Baldwin, president of the club, while a solo by Mrs. Harmon Westland, and a reading by Miss Jean Walker will add attractiveness to the program. A reception will follow the program, when new and old club members may meet to chat over the very bright future of the London Girls' Canadian Club, the first club of this nature to be organized in Canada.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

He waited for her at the open front door; he was happy again now; he even felt slightly foolish when he thought of the little breeze they had had last night. Norah was a sensible girl; it was extremely unlikely that he would be seriously attracted by a man of Laxton's type.

Mr. Ackroyd was comfortably sure in his own mind that some day Norah and Rodney would make a match of it; he knew Rodney for a steady-going, straight man, who would do his best to make a woman happy; he only laughed when Norah spoke of his mith affectionate contempt as an "old stick-in-the-mud."

"It's men like Rodney who make the best husbands, and don't you forget it," he told her, but Norah only laughed.

"Rodney is a dear," she said. "But—as a husband! Gracious!"

"But that's only her way of trying to hide what she really feels," was the argument with which Mr. Ackroyd comforted himself. He thought he understood women very well indeed, whereas, as a matter of fact, he knew considerably less about them than the average man, which is saying a good deal.

He had married above him, and though he had adored his wife to the day of her death, he had never understood her.

It was very much the same now with Norah; he was happily confident that he had studied her so carefully that he knew exactly how to manage her; he would have been amazed and highly indignant had anyone pointed out to him that his methods rather resembled those of a bull in a china shop. If he wanted his own way he generally went about getting it in a sledge-hammer kind of manner, believing that he was merely exercising what is known as a "firm hand."

He was quite sure that his determination last night—as he would have put it—"knocked all nonsense out of the girl's head."

He had yet to understand that, though Norah was very much like her dead mother in temperament, she had also inherited a great deal of his own obstinacy, and that as a rule the more people tried to set her against a person the more she clung to them.

"I'm quite ready," she said demurely at his elbow.

She slipped her hand through his arm as they went together down the lane that led to the main road; Friday, the big sheep dog, was racing ahead of them, barking happily.

"I've been thinking," Mr. Ackroyd said with elaborate carelessness which would not have deceived a child, "that a little holiday in town would do you a lot of good, my dear. If you want to buy some new frocks and furbelows we'll run up for a week or two; you'd like that, wouldn't you?"

He was perfectly sure that she would jump at the idea; it was only a month ago that she herself had suggetsed it, and he who had refused.

"It's much more healthy for you down here," he had told her. "You'll lose your roses if you go to London."

Norah was thinking of this now as she glanced up at him.

"Well?" he said, rather sharply.

"I don't think I care very much about London," she said. She kept her eyes steadily ahead of her down the road as she spoke. "The country's so lovely at this time of the year, and—and I don't really want any more frocks."

There was a little significant pause, then Mr. Ackroyd said "Humph!" rather curtly. His shaggy brows were frowning again; his arm felt rather stiff and unresponsive beneath her hand.

They were within sight of the village now; a thin church spire stood up above the trees; the roofs of the scattered houses and cottages shone red in the sunlight.

To the right of them Barton Manor rose majestically against the sky; the big gates were wide open; there were recent tire marks on the smooth gravel of the drive.

Norah glanced towards the house and quickly away again.

She wondered if Laxton had yet gone to London, or if anything had happened to make him change his plans. Her heart beat a little faster as she thought of what he had said last night:

"I will tell you the rest—when I come back."

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

THE HOUSEKEEPER'S PERSPECTIVE.

When an artist starts to paint an object, he must take into consideration the angle from which he sees it; this angle he terms "perspective." To-day I am going to talk about the angle or "perspective" from which the housekeeper looks out upon life.

The average housekeeper's perspective is apt to be too stationary. That is, she never changes her perspective—never gets a new perspective. Her housework holds her pretty close to the home, and she has few diversions to lead her thoughts away from herself—or away from what her neighbors are thinking!

It is a pathetic fact that the majority of housewives, especially in small towns, live in terror of "What the neighbors will say." They brood over small errors they make, and suffer keenly over public disapproval of some foolish thing they have done. I have known women who have actually regretted for years some slight mistake they have made which has "gone 'round the town."

Yet if those same women had been able to jaunt off somewhere on a short trip and get a new "perspective," they would have come home and laughed at the suggestion that they once brooded over a mere nothing. Indeed, I can cite just such an instance from real life:

A friend of mine who lives in a small town once made the mistake of severely criticizing the way one of her neighbors brought up her children; the woman to whom she made this criticism was false and promptly told the neighbor what my friend had said of her way of training children. This started a little feud between the families and other women "took sides." When my friend walked down street, the neighbor whom she had criticized would no longer bow to her. Naturally my friend was very unhappy. She wrote to me (for she does not live near me) and asked my advice. I replied: "Go away for a little while. Things always blow over."

My friend took my advice and went to the shore for a month in the summer. When she returned to her home, she wrote me the following paragraph:

"I think I've discovered the secret of getting on with one's neighbors. And that is—to get away from them for short intervals, now and then. If one stays at home all the time, one gets to magnifying everything they say and think. It was keeping too close to my housework and to my limited little life. I came home with a smile, and everybody was willing to smile with me. But if I'd stayed at home I'd never been able to smile at all, and then nobody would have smiled with me. Even the neighbor I criticized likes me now."

All of which boils down to this truth: That if a person wears a jaunty air—an air that says: "My little mistakes are not very bad, after all"—then the world is going to be convinced; but if a person takes his faults too seriously, then the world is going to take them seriously, too. And one of the best ways to get that "jaunty air" is to get a change of scene and change of thought.

I believe that housekeepers should make more visits, should take a two-weeks' vacation each year just as the business woman does, and should frequently manage to spend entire days away from the home for the purpose of shopping, going to the theater or sight-seeing. She, of all women, needs to "get a new perspective" frequently.

Weddings

Dickson-Smith.

A pretty house wedding was solemnized on Saturday morning, September 17, at the residence of W. R. Bowen, 340 Fourteenth street, Brandon, Manitoba, when Barbara E. Smith, youngest daughter of the late Mrs. Smith, of Southampton, Bruce County, was united in marriage to Dr. Stanley R. Dickson, second son of Dr. J. and Mrs. Dickson, 342 Eighth street, Brandon. Rev. J. George Miller performed the ceremony, in the presence of immediate relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

GLENARD'S DISEASE

My doctor said I showed definite anemia, neurasthenia and a visceroptosis. Now, what I want to know, is there any hope for me and will my children be like me? I have five. Could you suggest anything that will help me or my children?

Both kidneys are loose from their moorings. I am poor and have to work. My husband has T. B. Do you think I should have any more children? If not, please send me a preventative. I have become so weak I just stagger when I try to walk. I have hardly any memory at all.

Do you think my children are able to walk two miles to school every day?

Answer — Your condition excites profound sympathy. Visceroptosis is called Glenard's Disease, regarding which I am mailing you an article.

The abdominal organs (stomach, kidneys, etc.) are apt, as you say, to drop from their moorings. The condition causes much suffering, but is not necessarily incompatible with long life. In your circumstances, I should seek to enter a good hospital, where you can have a long rest. I have no authority to advise you, but personally, I am sure you should have no more children—and I do not advise as to a preventative. But your doctor in the hospital may legitimately advise you as to this after examination.

If your children are in good health, nothing is better for them than to walk two miles a day to school, rain or shine. When you yourself get strong and well, your memory will again behave as it should.

PARIS (By Mail.) — A Parisian conception of a trig tailored frock is shown in this model of dark blue serge, which is trimmed with very narrow black cire braid, surmounted by a rectangle of shiney steel buttons, each enclosed in a circle of the braid. Such are the ingenious trimming devices that give these foreign frocks their chic, however simple the design of the dress itself may be. Note, too, the cut of the sleeve, which flares somewhat at the wrist, and the bateau neckline, which still is considered the smartest finish. The foundation skirt is of silk with a deep hem of the serge, and may be adjusted on an elastic belt or joined to a bodice lining, to which the sleeves may be attached, thus leaving a freer armhole.

Joint Building Suggested For London Women

Y.W.C.A. Physical Committee Would Solve Housing Problem for City Clubs and the "Y"

To solve the "housing" problem, so long experienced in this city by the various women's organizations, and at the same time to provide a central Y. W. C. A. adequate to meet the needs of that growing institution in this city, the physical education committee of the local "Y" suggests the erection of a joint building, which would cover all the varied activities of the "Y," and at the same time give an auditorium and clubrooms for the use of the women's clubs.

The proposal emanates from a special meeting of the committee called yesterday by the convener, Mrs. Harmon Westland, and the result will be a recommendation, sent to the Y. W. C. A. board, proposing that this matter be mooted at all the general meetings of London women scheduled to take place through the fall season.

A FEASIBLE PLAN.

Speaking of the proposal Mrs. Westland declared that the idea was a perfectly feasible one, only needing co-operation to bring it to a successful realization. "At the King street Y. W. C. A.," she said, "we have an expert dietitian and a professional chef, both capable of running a dining-room accommodation for anywhere up to 500 customers. We have clubs of all kinds that are overflowing our present quarters, and we have had to borrow the Western University gymnasium to accommodate our physical classes. At the same time the women's clubs of the city have no place to meet. When a convention comes to this city there is a skurry to find accommodation, and I believe that in any move towards obtaining such a joint building we would have the support of the Canadian Club, Local Council of Women, I. O. D. E., women's institutes and a score of other societies at present feeling just this need."

Mrs. Westland was of the opinion that the business men would back any concentrated effort on the part of the "Y." "They are beginning to see that we are of use in the community, and I am sure would back us if we made a dash for better accommodation."

WILL ASK CLUBS.

If the suggsetion of the physical committee meets with the approval of the board a communication will be sent to each of the women's organizations in session, asking their consideration of the matter. "It may be months before anything definite is begun," Mrs. Westland said, "but at least they can be thinking things over."

The committee reported a registration of 32 in the physical class to date, and a special arrangement of fees being made to accommodate the C. G. I. T. groups.

The London Conservatory class in dramatic art, under the direction of Miss Topley-Thomas, will have its opening meeting to-morrow (Saturday), at 2 p. m., in the dramatic study-rooms, at the Woodman building, 476 Richmond street. Registrations for this class will be received up to the opening hour.—Advt. f

NEW LT.-GOV. MAY VISIT LONDON IN NOVEMBER

His Honor Lieut.-Col. Harry Cockshutt, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, will, it is expected, visit London during the month of November to officiate at the unveiling of the corner stone of the Memorial Children's Hospital. Col. Cockshutt was requested by the committee to perform this ceremony on Armistice Day, but it is understood that he has offered another date instead.

To consider this change of date and to confer with Lieut.-Col. Coles regarding the Armistice Day poppy tag, arranged by the G. W. V. A., a special meeting of the executive of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., has been called for this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Preceding this meeting the canvass committee of the hospital will meet to map out still further plans for the canvass, which is already well under way among the professional men of the city.

METHODIST W. M. S. OF LONDON DISTRICT MEETS HERE ON NOVEMBER 1

An interesting all-day session has been planned for the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of London District, which is to take place at the Ridout Street Methodist Church on Tuesday, November 1. Delegates to the number of 150 are expected for the convention, over which Mrs. W. G. Young, district superintendent, will preside.

The morning session will be taken up chiefly with reports and detailed business, including the election of officers, while in the afternoon Miss Foreman, a returned missionary, will speak on mission work in the West.

With the aid of a delatone paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck and arms. Enough of the powdered delatone and water is mixed into a thick paste and spread on the hairy surface for about 2 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed. This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delatone in an original package.—Advt.

OLD WHITEY'S ADVICE

Old Whitey—the most ancient hen in the flock—scrambled with some difficulty up to the top of the haymow in Farmer Green's barn. She could scarcely keep up with Henrietta Hen, whom she was following—by request. And when she arrived, breathless, at Henrietta's nest, that proud and elegant creature turned a troubled face toward her.

"See!" said Henrietta, "I've taken your advice and laid another egg. But it's nothing like the beautiful, big white one. This last egg is much smaller; and it's brown."

Old Whitey nodded her head.

"Well!" she said. "What is your difficulty?"

"Don't you think," said Henrietta, "that if Johnnie Green finds my nest he will sure to take both eggs?"

"No, I don't," was old Whitey's blunt answer.

"Then he'll be sure to take the big, white one," Henrietta Hen wailed.

"No he won't," old Whitey told her. "If he does, I'll miss my guess."

Well, that was really too much for Henrietta Hen to believe.

"That boy will never take a little egg and leave a big one," she declared.

"You wait and see if he doesn't," old Whitey advised her.

So Henrietta waited. Though she had little faith in old Whitey's advice, Henrietta could think of nothing else to do. And the next morning, to her great surprise, when Johnnie Green climbed into the haymow and found her nest, he took the small brown egg and put it in his hat. And he never touched the big, white egg at all. He didn't even pick it up and look at it!

"Your guess was a good one!" cried Henrietta Hen.

Perched in a beam overhead Henrietta Hen watched him breathlessly. And as soon as he had gone she went flopping down to the barn floor and set up a great clamor for old Whitey.

"What is it now?" old Whitey asked, sticking her head inside the doorway.

"Your guess was a good one!" cried Henrietta Hen. "He came; and he took the small one."

"There!" said old Whitey. "I told you so! I knew Johnnie Green wouldn't rob you of that big egg. And if you keep laying small eggs in that same nest you will find that he will let you keep the big one for yourself."

Henrietta Hen fairly beamed at her companion.

"How delightful!" she exclaimed. "I have become very fond of that big egg. I love to look at it. But there's another thing that worries me now. If that big egg should get broken . . ."

"Don't let that trouble you!" said old Whitey.

"I'm almost afraid to set on my nest," Henrietta Hen confessed. "If the shell of that egg should happen to be thin—"

Old Whitey seemed much amused by Henrietta's fears.

"Let me know if you break it," she said. And then she left Henrietta with her treasure.

"I'll be very careful," Henrietta called after the old dame.

ENIES WOMEN ARE RESPONSIBLE

Mrs. Wilson, Ottawa, Discusses Rate of Exchange

SPEAKS AT PARTY MEETING

Admits, However, Women's Love for New York Fineries

OTTAWA, Oct. 6.—Called chiefly for the purpose of appointing subcommittees and selecting their personnel, so as to elect officers of the advisory council and the executive committee, the advisory council and executive committee of the Eastern Ontario Liberal Association here to-day was featured by a number of interesting addresses. The meeting, which was held under the joint presidency of Mrs. Norman F. Wilson and C. Gordon Edwards, president of the association, was largely attended, more than 60 delegates, representing the 23 Eastern Ontario ridings, being present.

Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Wilson, who spoke both in English and in French; Mr. Edwards; Alex. Smith, the constitutional and legal adviser of the association; George Higgerty, W. Lyle Reid and Mme. Aurelien Belanger.

"Let it not be said," Mrs. Wilson stated, "that public life is not improved by the entry of women, and above all, let us cast our votes intelligently and for what we believe to be right."

The speaker took vigorous objection to the statement that women were responsible for the advance rate of exchange. Women were said to possess a love for the latest New York importations in hats and frocks. That may be true, but for one woman who indulged in these luxuries were there not a thousand to whom the weekly budget was a nightmare?

Mr. Edwards, who was unavoidably absent when he was elected to the presidency of the association at the annual meeting in June, thanked the members for the honor bestowed upon him. He was ready to do what he could to advance the cause of Liberalism and he rejoiced that women were accepting so heartily their responsibility in public affairs.

Delivery Boy's Mistake Brings Joy to This Home.

A confusion of grocery orders resulted in a well-known resident receiving by mistake a mysterious bottle. Investigation proved that the bottle contained real "joy" liquid—when it was used to aid in the family wash rubbing was not necessary. The bottle contained the wonder washing cream, "Mir-A-cle." You should order a trial bottle of "Mir-A-cle" to-day.

FUNERAL OF MRS. SHARPE.—The funeral of Mrs. Carmen G. Sharpe, who died at Victoria Hospital on Sunday, was held at 2.30 on Tuesday to Mount Pleasant Cemetery, where interment was made. Rev. John Garbutt, of Dundas Center Church, conducted the services at the home and at the grave. Mrs. Sharpe had lived here all her life, with the exception of your years in Galt. Besides her husband she is survived by three children, Gordon, Thelma and Harold.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

While he does not actually fly, but some people call him the flying squirrel. For he has folds of skin between the front and hind legs on each side and these folds of skin stretches out and looks almost like wings. When he jumps from the tops of high trees with his legs outstretched he will sail a long way. His tail is somewhat flat and helps to keep him balanced. Very few of us ever get to see this little yellowish brown fellow for he waits till evening to come out to play and eat. His home is usually in a hole of a tree, he loves to live in the old home of a woodpecker.

ON POKER CHIPS AND PAYING CASH.

Here is an interesting assertion I heard the other day.

If poker players played poker with actual money they would not be able to play with good judgment because they would be too greatly affected by the sight of the money going out. The chips enable them to think of the game instead of the money they are spending.

That fact interested me both for itself and because of a train of thought it started.

I immediately found myself thinking of some friends of mine.

Not because they play poker. I doubt if they ever played poker in their lives. But for this reason. They have recently made up their minds instead of having charge accounts or paying by check to go back into the ready money, cash payment class.

Every week now the husband brings home his salary in ready money, divides it up into special sums for each purpose, and puts it into separate envelopes. Then when his wife buys groceries, or a suit, or a hat, or a book, she pays for it in cash. A few bills such as the milk and the ice bill that represent absolutely routine expenditures are paid at the end of the week, but for all else actual cash is paid out.

The reason for this change is that both of them feel that they will handle money more carefully (which the fact that they were saving almost nothing out of a reasonably good salary made them realize they ought to do) if they handle actual money.

And though they have only been doing it a few weeks they find it it really working out this way.

You have a very different feeling about what you really need when you are paying for it out of $10 laid aside for groceries for the week and rapidly dwindling, than you do when you are just saying "Charge it," and feeling sure in a vague way that your bill can't run over $10 this week.

Of course you see the connection now between poker players and my friends who do not play poker. It is the same psychology with both. And it is sound psychology.

When I opened a checking account I said that I was sure I would not spend any money that I should not spend if I paid in currency. I have proved myself a hopeless optimist again and again.

It is far less painful to write a few figures on a piece of paper than to hand over crisp delectable bills. I do hate to drop from one hundred into another, but even that is less painful than parting with real money.

What queer creatures we mortals are! To know the money is going out ought to be the same as seeing it go. But it isn't. At least not with us ordinary folks. I suppose there are super-folks who are above such psychology. But I'll bet they aren't so far above it as they think they are!

POPULAR SONGS NOT DRY ENOUGH

Mourners of John Barleycorn Should Be Muzzled.

CATCH WHISKY IN RIVER.

Unitarian Temperance Society Registers Its Objections.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—Raising the old dickens with Bert Williams, Eddie Cantor and other amiable performers for the malty songs they sing, speakers before the Unitarian Temperance Society, in the First Unitarian Church, on Wednesday, said that as long as film Bacchanalias were uncondemned and lyricists poked fun at prohibition, enforcement of the 18th amendment would be doubly difficult.

For one, Charles Strong, a New York lawyer, said that only recently he went to a theater and this verse was sung:

"She makes moonshine and drinks her fill,
With all her faults I love her still."

WHAT WAS HE DOING THERE?

Many persons in the audience laughed, he said. Bert Williams, it was recalled by some, was singing "the moonshine shines so still-l-ly." At another theater, Mr. Strong said, he found some chorister getting enthusiastic applause with a spirituous chanson that ran:

"I'll build a little still somewhere on a hill
And let the rest of the world go dry."

He declared that some newspapers, public officials, theaters and even "some of the priests of God" were responsible for the contempt in which the amendment is held, and he thought the Unitarian Society and similar organizations might profitably hold a few sessions with American theatrical producers.

"I know men even of my own profession," he said, "who say, 'I have no respect for this law and I deliberately intend to break it.' It may be a passing fury, but it is a sentiment to be grappled with. No official can choose the law which he intends to enforce, and no citizen has the right to choose the law which he will obey."

Rev. William L. Walsh, of Billerica, Mass., president of the society, testified that a man in front of the church on Wednesday morning told him that he would show the clergyman a place where casks of spirituous contents were taken out from the Canadian shore and thrown into the Detroit River and Americans went out to fish for them.

"He told me of one man who caught cask after cask. He joked over it. I thought it tragic," Dr. Walsh said.

MIDDLESEX TEACHERS GUESTS OF CITY GUILD

Miss Irene Stockwell, president of the London Women Teachers' Guild, and Miss Evelyn Johnston, president of the Ontario Federation of Women Teachers, extended a warm welcome to the women teachers of East Middlesex yesterday afternoon when the organization arranged a delightful tea at Ryerson School in honor of the visitors, who are attending the annual meeting of the East Middlesex Teachers' Institute.

Miss Johnston had a brief word to say of the federation, urging upon the Middlesex teachers, who have already organized several local branches, the value of affiliation with the provincial society. The Ontario president pointed out that no antagonism exists between the trustees and ratepayers' organization and the organizations of women teachers, but that, on the contrary, warm co-operation is noted between these societies towards the raising of the status of the teaching profession.

In the kindergarten room, bright with autumn flowers, afternoon tea was served by the social committee, of which Miss Isabel Craig and Miss Gertrude Bapty are the conveners. The visiting teachers stayed on for a chat over federation ideals until time for their own evening session, also enjoying a tour of inspection about the handsome school building.

FATE OF WRANGEL SOMEWHAT VAGUE

Best Fighting Men Still Wait In Huts On Gallipoli.

HAS 20,000 MEN THERE.

Being Fed By France, Hoping They May Yet Be Needed.

ATHENS, Oct. 6.—The ultimate fate of Gen. Wrangel's Russian army, in exile, of whom 20,000 officers and men still are encamped on the Gallipoli Peninsula, still continues one of the unsolved puzzles of the Near East.

Gen. Wrangel has held together the best of his officers and men from among the refugee army which fled from Russia before the victorious Bolsheviki. He has hoped that his forces would be again needed in Russia, to maintain a new Government "when the Soviet regime collapsed."

But this is a hope deferred and Wrangel's best fighting men wait in their tents and huts on Gallipoli.

Major Jean de Roover, chairman of the League of Nations commission for the exchange of populations between Greece and Bulgaria, has visited the Russian camp and brought away a very favorable impression of the officers and men. He knows something about the Russian fighting man, for he was formerly the Belgian representative with Wrangel's army when it was the bulwark of the anti-Bolshevik strength in the Crimea. He says:

1,500 WOMEN THERE.

"In this camp, besides 1,500 women and children, there are 8,000 officers, 10,000 soldiers and 2,000 cadets in the military schools. These troops have kept their military organization. Their morale is of the highest and they voluntarily submit to the most stern discipline; for in all their hardships they are buoyed up by an unquestioning faith in their chief, Gen. Wrangel, and in the greatness of their mission.

"They are encamped under canvas, or in old huts that have no doors or windows, but are always in an irreproachable state of cleanness.

"They are fed by France. In addition, Gen. Wrangel is paying them, from the little money he still has—about a dollar a month.

"Wrangel, who succeeded in getting employment as labor corps in Serbia and Bulgaria for nearly all his Cossack troops, is trying to get Serbia to receive his Gallipoli army corps. Five thousand of them are going to be used by Jugo-Slavia as a frontier guard.

CHARGE ON SERBIA.

"As for the other regiments, the Government at Belgrade is prepared to offer them its hospitality if funds are put at its disposal which will cover their upkeep for two years. The Russian ambassador at Washington has still several tens of millions of dollars, the remains of funds that were sent him from Russia before the Bolshevik coup d'etat to pay for the orders for war material. Wrangel is making every effort to get the few million dollars necessary for the carrying out of his scheme raised out of these funds and transmitted to the Serbian Government.

"If he succeeds what will be the ultimate role of this legion? Will it fight again as an army? Probably not. The general opinion in Russian circles is that Bolshevism must go under in an internal convulsion of the country, and that the tyranny of Bolshevism will be succeeded by anarchy. It will be then that elements of order, a framework of administrative and police organization will be needed by the new Government to restore calm for the convocation of the Constituent Assembly. This is where the survivors of the National Russian army hope to be of service to their country."

A CURE FOR CIVIC APATHY.

Efficiency in municipal management is the aim of every good charter. This is only another way of saying that wise economy is a vital element in municipal management. For years students of municipal affairs have bemoaned the lack of popular interest in charter revision. A new charter drawn with the idea of reducing waste and lost motion to a minimum and of holding down local taxes would cause far more than an academic interest to-day. Prospective economy would be the best cure for apathy.—Minneapolis News.

"The Iron Food for Vitality."

True Beauty Food

is an "iron food" like raisins. Serve daily as a breakfast fruit for best results

Stewed Raisins

Serve for breakfast every morning and get your daily iron this way.

Cover Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins with cold water and add a slice of lemon or orange. Place on fire; bring to a boil and allow to simmer for one hour. Sugar may be added but is not necessary, as Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins contain 75 per cent natural fruit sugar.

Raisin Pie

Men are quickly refreshed at night by a dessert like this.

A more delicious breakfast dish than stewed raisins served with cream never has been known—just try and see.

You'll want it every morning.

The food-iron of the raisins will be an every day supply, if this becomes your regular fruit dish. The blood absorbs the iron; and vigorous vitality, if you possess it, is thus protected. Where vitality is lacking, it is frequently restored in this delightful way.

The greatest charm of woman is vitality. Its signs are bright eyes, healthful energy and a pretty rose tint on the cheeks.

You need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital.

Pale, tired women are given this attractive dish for breakfast at a famous sanitarium in Battle Creek. For physicians know that value of the raisin.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins, made from California's finest table grapes—American raisins, processed and packed immaculately in a great modern California plant.

MR. GLASS AT LUCAN.

First of Series of Organization Meetings Held.

LUCAN, Ont., Oct. 6.—(By Staff Reporter)—During his address at a meeting for the purpose of organizing the National Liberal and Conservative forces of this village and Biddulph Township for the coming federal fight, S. Frank Glass, late M. P., contrasted the consistent stand of the Government leader, Premier Meighen, with that of Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, on the matter of the tariff.

On the one hand was Premier Meighen, who consistently, both in the East and in the West, had been standing for an adequate and reasonable tariff which provides the protection necessary to provide work for Canadian workmen and a market for Canadian farm produce—a tariff which will keep out the unfair competitive product of other countries where labor is cheap by reason of the low living standard.

On the other hand was Mr. King, with the Liberal policy on the tariff—a policy so inconsistent that the people did not know where they were at.

AWAITING VERDICT.

"There are millions of American money held up at the present time," declared Mr. Glass, "awaiting the decision of the people of Canada on the tariff policy of the country. There is some $600,000,000 of American money invested in industries in Canada at the present time, employing some 70 000 Canadian workmen. Much of the continuance of this prosperity rests on the continuation of the national policy. If protection is continued in Canada additional large sums of money will be invested by Americans.

In his opening remarks Mr. Glass pointed out that the 1917 election had broken up the organization of the Conservatives on purely party lines, and it was now necessary to reorganize from the ground up. The prosecution of the war to a successful conclusion had brought Conservatives and Liberals together and they had found that they could get together on common ground. He advocated the appointment of a president, vice-president and secretary for Biddulph and Lucan. These would be local executives, which would go toward forming the executive of the East Middlesex Association. These executives would appoint conveners for each of the subdivisions, whose work it would be to call meetings for the purpose of choosing delegates to attend the East Middlesex convention, which will probably be held in London on Saturday, October 22, although this date has not been definitely fixed.

FAITH IN CAUSE.

Government supporters appealed to the electorate with courage and spirit, because they felt that they had a good cause, Mr. Glass continued. Parties were dismembered as a result of the war and a new idealism had sprung up among the people of Canada. The Government party, led by Premier Meighen, stood for the upbuilding and the development of the resources of the country. They were not representing any one, but all classes of the Dominion. In their leader they had a young man, born on an Ontario farm, who had by his own energy and determination raised himself to the highest position in the gift of his country.

It was strange, Mr. Glass declared, that the tariff policy on which during the past 43 years the country had shown magnificent development and unparalleled prosperity should needs be an issue in an election now. It was strange, too, that after all the years that Great Britain had had free trade that she should have found it disappointing and come to the conclusion that the protection of home industries was a necessity.

The horizon of the farmers in the West was bounded by wheat. It was about all that he saw or thought about. Of course, there was some live stock raising and dairying was on the increase, but he was speaking of the Western farmer as a whole. A few years ago they were asking for a free market for Canadian wheat in the United States and when that country took down the bars it made practically no difference in the price of the grain. About the only difference was an increase, due to the carrying charges to the American milling centers.

FARMERS FROM U. S.

The West has been invaded by a large number of American farmers, Mr. Glass declared, who sold out their high-priced farms in the United States and moved to Canada, where farm lands were cheaper. They had not the same spirit of loyalty that they should have. In the United States the farmers were begging for more protection, while those that came over to Canada were begging for free trade.

Touching on Mr. King's tirade against the formation of combines, Mr. Glass took occasion to show that the majority of the combines in the country were formed during the time that the Laurier Government was in power.

"Mr. King talks of graft and corruption," Mr. Glass commented, "but when he is asked to point his finger at one of these cases of corruption or graft he is unable to do so."

DR. STEELE.

Commenting on Mr. King's statement that the tariff plank in the Liberal platform was merely intended as a chart, Dr. Steele, late M. P. for South Perth, declared that Hon. Mackenzie King needed a compass as well as a chart.

During the past five years the opponents of the Government had been busily engaged in criticisms which the Government had been too busy to heed, and as a result of this a misconception of many matters had grown up in the minds of the people. The people had been told that millions were being squandered, but if one person could be found who could point this out it was something that the opponents of the Government had never been able to do in the House. They had come through the war years when millions were being spent without a scandal. The Government had left office with a clean record.

At all times there was a certain thing in which Canadians were interested, the speaker declared, and this was a normal time as far as that was concerned. The prosperity of a country depended on its fiscal policy, and so at this time, when the country was passing through a period of readjustment and unsettlement, it was more important than ever to give serious thought to what is being proposed in the way of a fiscal policy.

In this election the speaker pointed out two parties were attempting to interfere with the policy on which Canada had grown and prospered during the past 43 years. He expressed the greatest surprise at Messrs. King and Crerar for their pretended surprise that the tariff had been made an issue of the coming election. He pointed out that the greatest criticism from opponents in the House had been directed at the fiscal policy, and it had been attacked session after session, and yet they now expressed surprise that this was an issue.

Dr. Steele outlined the tariff policies of the three parties. The plank of the late Government provided for adequate protection for industries against the unfair competition of foreign countries. There were changes required at the present time, he admitted, as it had not been revised for several years and there was a doubt that a general revision was necessary.

ALREADY FREE.

In the King platform were enumerated a large number of articles which the Liberals contended should be placed on the free list. The speaker pointed out that about half of the articles enumerated were already on the free list. Despite this they adopted a plank which said that these things should be on the free list.

The farmers were asking for a substantial all-round reduction of the tariff with an immediate 50 per cent. reduction to Great Britain under the general tariff and free trade with the latter within five years. They also want reciprocity with the United States and all foodstuffs on the free list.

"Remember," declared Dr. Steele, addressing the farmers, "the Liberals and the Progressive party say that all the chief foods should be admitted free."

In connection with the claim of the Farmers' party that they wanted farmer representatives in Parliament, Dr. Steele pointed out in closing that they had in the Parliament just dissolved 43 farmers, some of whom were most diligent in their work in the interest of farmers. In several cases these men who had worked heart and soul for the farmers were now being opposed by the Farmer party.

At the conclusion of the meeting the organization work was given a good send-off by the choice of strong executives for both Biddulph Township and the Village of Lucan. The Biddulph executive is: President, Dr. William Dann, of Granton; vice-president, A. K. Hodgins, of Lucan; secretary, Michael Blake, of Lucan. The Lucan executive is composed of: President, Wm. Martin; vice-president, John Abbott; secretary, A. Scell.

Mr. Glass will hold a meeting to-night at Harding's Hall, Thorndale.

Fortune Found in London Home.

What is considered by many in London to be one of the best fortunes in years was discovered in the home of an East End resident. Good fortune came in the shape of a bottle of Mir-A-cle, left by a friend, who had used this washing cream that takes the rub out of washing. When you order soap, also order Mir-A-cle. It will make wash day easier.

SEES DANGER IN TOO MUCH PLAY

Oxford Inspector Warns of Modern Tendency in Schools

MENACE IN SCHOOL FAIRS

Pupils May Place More Value in Judging Cow Than Poem

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 6. — Oxford County teachers met in Woodstock today in annual convention with 125 present. The day was taken up with the hearing of addresses of which the most important was "Play at School" by Inspector Patterson.

The tendency in modern schools to stress play and recreation too much was emphasized in his remarks and he claimed that this had resulted in it being impossible to secure the same results in the matter of work accomplished from the students as was the case some years ago. Mr. Patterson did not strongly approve the school fair idea being carried to excess for this tended to cause the pupils to place too much attention upon exhibits and fair matters and too little time upon other studies.

"There is danger that they will form the conclusion that judging the merits of a dairy cow is of more importance than judging the merits of a poem," he said.

Miss Mina Roe, of Peterboro, addressed the convention upon the subject of "The Schools of To-Morrow." Mr. Gundy, of Galt, gave an entertaining address at the evening session. The important items of business will come up to-morrow when the annual election of officers will probably take place.

MILITARY PLANS TO DEFEND TOWN

Stage a Two-Day Battle at Strathroy

METHODS OF DEFENSE

Results to Be Announced at Banquet Here

STRATHROY, Oct. 6.—War was officially declared here to-night. The forces of the enemy are being mobilized. Officers of Western Ontario units are hastily summoning their men to defend this citadel. The battle will open on Thursday, October 13, and will continue throughout the long hours of Friday, October 14.

From present indications Strathroy will fall, but not without stout resistance. Precautions are already being taken and preparations are being made to fall back on Komoka, where hills will afford better protection.

Messengers arriving from the border to-night brought word that the enemy will enter Canada at Chatham and Sarnia. On Thursday they will be at Thamesville and Wyoming and from there the descent will be made on this town.

After the battle is over the 100 officers who are to participate will entrain for London, it is thought, where at a banquet at the Tecumseh House the results will be made known. The work is under the direction of Gen. Panet.

DR. GRANT TO ATTEND.

WINDSOR, Oct. 6. — Urban school trustees of Ontario will meet in convention at Windsor, January 11, 12 and 13. Dr. H. R. Grant, minister of education for Ontario, will open the convention.

A SERVICE AT COST

Only Three Cases Entered for Supreme Court

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 6.—(By Staff Reporter.)—It is officially announced by rebate of surplus revenue being made the local Hydro Commission that the in St. Thomas, as stated in The Free Press on Tuesday, will involve the sum of $12,000, all of which is being distributed among local users. Both household and industrial power users are affected and the largest individual rebate, it is stated, will be $600, to the M. C. R. department, which is a very heavy user for industrial purposes.

The statement of the local commission points out that the primary object of the promoters of hydro energy is to furnish service to the consumer at cost. The local commissions, it points out, were formed under an act of the Provincial Legislature in 1907. St. Thomas being one of the original municipalities to undertake the project it is now among the first to share in the distribution of surplus revenue.

In spite of the fact that it is possible now to distribute the above sum among users it is interesting to note that the price charged by the local commission since the formation of the local body has been well below other municipalities.

SUPREME COURT CASES.

Only one civil case and two criminal cases are to be heard by the Supreme Court at the sessions that open next week before Justice Masten, of Toronto, according to the docket just completed. The criminal cases, which will undoubtedly be tried first, as they go before a jury, have to do with the alleged pickpockets, James Conway and Frank Clarke, who were arrested at Port Stanley on July 1 by Officer Wm. Hammersly, of the L. & P. S. R., and H. J. Phillips, then chief of police at Port Stanley. The men are alleged to have picked the pocket of a prominent London man while he was in the crowd at the incline railway. A second charge against both men is laid by a resident of Vienna, who claims that they removed his pocketbook while he was boarding a train at the Talbot Street depot of the L. & P. S. R. on the same day.

The civil action is an important one, involving the estate of the late Charles Smith, of Southwold, who left an estate of $50,000 with his nephew Hiram Smith and Mrs. Smith, named as principal beneficiaries. The will was drawn on January 4, 1920, just two days before his demise, by J. S. Robertson,, well-known local barrister, and the litigants claim that it was not in accordance with the desires of the deceased and that it was not drawn up according to the Ontario Wills Act.

Many Seek Rooms in London Homes.

Many people are searching for comfortable rooms in London at present, as is evident by the experience of one resident centrally located, who was deluged by applicants. Cleanliness seems to be the most desired thing, as many who called at this home declared it was the snow white curtains at the windows that attracted them. The resident is congratulating his wife on her laundering ability. She lately discovered that Mir-A-cle Washing Cream takes all the rub out of washing if used with soap. Make next wash day easy. Order a bottle of Mir-A-cle to-day.

Be Pretty! Turn Gray Hair Dark

Try Grandmother's Old Favorite Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Almost every one knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Weyth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray hair disappears and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Advt.

YANKEES TO BLANK GIANTS AGAIN

Arthur Nehf Loses Tidy Hurling Duel by 3-0, and While He Allows But Three Base Hits, His Misplay and Bases on Balls Coupled With Smart Base-Running by Yankees Bring About His Undoing; Series so Far Makes History as No Team Ever Won Two Consecutive Games Without Allowing a Single Run to Score; Ruth Drew Three Walks and Stole Two Bases, While R. Meusel Steals Home

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—The New York Americans made world's series history here to-day shutting out the Giants, 3 to 0, in the second game of the struggle, leaving the New York Nationals runless after 18 innings of play in the first two days of pastiming in the city clubs' conflict. They did lively work on the bases and made the best possible use of their few hits, supported throughout by the brilliant twirling of Waite Hoyt, their young right-handed star.

The score was the same as in the first game yesterday, Hoyt allowing the Giants but two puny singles. Unlike the opening encounter of this all-New York series, to-day's game was played before a crowd that taxed the capacity of the Polo Grounds and let itself loose at frequent intervals in zipping outbursts of enthusiasm. It had plenty to enthuse over for the contest, while a pitchers' battle between Hoyt and Artie Nehf, who twirled stellar ball for the Giants, was replete with rattling plays and tense moments.

Possibly the thing that encouraged the followers of the Yankees, looking forward to the ultimate outcome of the series, was the splendid game pitched by Hoyt, who held the Giants to one hit up to the eighth and allowed only two all told, this following the sterling game turned in by Carl Mays in the opener.

Never before has a world's series opened with two straight shutouts of the same contestant.

So airtight was Hoyt's pitching that the Giants never had more than four men at the plate in any one inning. The nearest they came to the home base was in the ninth inning, when Frisch, with one down, singled to right and went to second when Young was given a base on balls. He was on his way home from second as a fast double play on Young and Kelly ended the inning and the game. The only other man to get to second was Nehf, who was given a base on balls and went down on an out.

Aside from Hoyt's marvelous twirling the game revealed "Babe" Ruth in a new role, that of the demon base-stealer—a role that seemed just about as popular with the crowd as his familiar one of home-run king. The great bambino stole second and third in rapid succession in the fifth inning and his clean pilfering of the far corner was greeted with the wildest demonstration of the series to date.

At bat Ruth's record was colorless. He did not once connect safely. Nehf appeared to pitch to him every time, but in trying to cut the corners succeeded in issuing three passes to the big fellow, much to the disgust of apparently the greater portion of the crowd. Ruth scored a run, however, getting on the bases once through a fielders' choice and finally tallying.

BASE-STEALING FEATS.

Ruth's base-stealing feat was performed late in the inning and did not result in a run. Not so, however, the surprise sprung by the next most justly celebrated slugger of "Murderers' Row"—the lanky "Bob" Meusel. This lithe Californian did nothing less than execute a clean steal of home in the eighth, duplicating McNally's feat of yesterday.

He did not have to slide for it, either, for the pitch he tore in on was wide and Earl Smith, the startled catcher, let it get away from him.

The Giants got their chance again today to grow enthusiastic over the playing of the remarkable Frank Frisch. This stellar performer undoubtedly prevented the score taking on a decidedly more lop-sided aspect. For one thing he made a great catch of a sizzling liner by Muesel, labeled for two bases, with two on, in the Yankees' first inning, turning the smash into a double play. Then, in the third, he brought the crowd to their feet with his brilliant performance in grabbing a difficult grounder from McNally, throwing himself at the ball, and then, while flat on the ground, reaching up and tagging Walter Pipp, who was tearing for third.

EXCITING THIRD INNING

Much of the excitement of the game was crowded into the Yankees, third inning. Schang started by sending a high fly to Bancroft. Rawlings squirmed and twisted to get under Hoyt's Texas leaguer, but was unable to hold the ball. Peckingpaugh walked and the crowd yelled to Ruth to "hit 'er out" as the Babe came up to bat. Coach Leary, of the Yankees, here ran out from the dugout and drew Umpire Moriarty's attention to the ball. The umpire examined it and threw it out of the game. Pitcher Nehf took no chances with the home run hitter and passed him to first, filling the bases. This brought up Bob Meusel, another hard hitter, but the best he could do was to send up a short fly to Bancroft, leaving the three base runners stranded.

NEHF'S THROW IS WIDE

The Yankees scored their first run in the fourth inning. After Pipp had sent a high fly to Young Ward got a hit on a slow bounder to right. McNally hit to Nehf, who, in trying to throw out Ward at second, shot the ball wide and both runners were safe. Wally Schang drew a pass, filling all the corners. Ward tallied the first run as Hoyt went out on a grounder. Rawlings to Kelly. McNally tried to score as the play was being made at first and was nipped at the plate by Kelly's good throw to Smith.

Except for Ruth's bases on balls and his two steals in the fifth nothing happened in the scoring line until the eighth, when the Yankees added two. Frisch muffed Peckinpaugh's easy fly. Ruth smashed a grounder to Kelly, who threw out Peckinpaugh at second, Bancroft taking the throw. Ruth sprinted to third on Bob Meusel's single to center and came home as Pipp was going out on a grounder, Rawlings to Kelly. Meusel took third on the play. Then the unexpected again happened—Meusel's steal home amid cheers that shook the grand stand. Ward ended the inning by fouling out to Kelly.

RECORD GATE RECEIPTS.

In addition to establishing a new world's series record of two consecutive shutouts by the same team in the first two games the gate receipts record established yesterday went by the board. The 34,939 spectators who witnessed the Yankees' victory paid $115,320. This was more than six times the gate receipts in the second game of the 1905 series, which was the first played at the Polo Grounds under the National Commission rules.

By a strange coincidence the Giants lost that game, too, to the Philadelphia Athletics, on the same field and by the same score as that of to-day's contest. Chief Bender did the hurling for Connie Mack and it was the only game won by the Athletics in the famous shut-out series. At that game, the first of the series in New York, 24,992 persons paid $18,988.

Of the $115,320 paid to-day the players will receive $58,813.20; the clubs $39,208.80 and the advistory board $17,298. If interest in the series continues and the play should extend to six or seven games a new total receipts record is almost certain, in view of the high prices being charged for both reserved and unreserved seats at the Polo Grounds. The present record for gate receipts is held by the 1919 series between the Cincinnati and Chicago clubs, when $722,414 was taken in during the eight games.

Peter Manning Breaks World's Trotting Record

Does Mile in 1.57¾, Beating His Own and That of Uhlan's 1.58

LEXINGTON, Oct. 6.—Peter Manning, Irving Gleason's great five-year-old gelding, this afternoon trotted the fastest mile ever recorded in a race against time, when he turned the oval of the Lexington track in 1.57¾. Driven by Thomas W. Murphy, the speedy gelding went the first quarter in .30, the half in .59½, the three-quarters in 1.29, and flashed under the wire in 1.57¾. The new record clips a quarter of a second off the old mark held jointly by Peter Manning and Uhlan. Uhlan trotted a mile at Lexington on October 8, 1912, in 1.58 and Peter Manning tied this mark three weeks ago at Syracuse.

Arion Guy, bay son of Guy Axworthy-Margaret Parrish, also starting against time, clipped a second and a half off the world's record for four-year-olds when Murphy piloted him around the oval in 1.59½. His fractional time was: .30, .59¾, 1.29¾, 1.59½.

The scheduled feature of the day's program, the Transylvania 2.05 trot, for a purse of $5,000, went to Grey Worthy in straight heats, with Periscope second to the gray gelding in both heats. Fast time was made in the event, the first heat being trotted in 2.04¼ and the second in 2.03 flat.

Woodstock Squad Wallops "Tecs"

First Intercollegiate Rugby Game Ends With Score of 11 to 1

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 6.—Woodstock College defeated the London Technical School squad of London by the score of 11 to 1 in the opening match of the Oxford and Middlesex Rugby Union, played here this afternoon.

The locals scored 10 points in the firsth alf of the game. The visitors settled down to business in the second half and held the College students to one point.

Lack of practice was responsible for the defeat of the Londoners. "Bud" the dog mascot of the "Tecs" appeared on the field at the beginning of the second half with a large bone in his mouth and the London players claim that the dog's actions assisted them in stopping the College boys. In the future the dog will march out with the bone at the commencement of the match so that the opposing team will be unable to run up such a large score.

The return game will bep layed in London on Friday, October 14. The following players represented the London "Tecs":

Woodstock—Flying wing, Cohen; half, Vansickle, Coleman, Harper; quarter, Merritt; snap, McArthur; inside, Ridderford, Ryan; middle, Lawrence, Reycroft; outside, Jones, Babb; spare, Boadway.

London Athletes Leave for Toronto

Capt. J. J. Syme, of the London Collegiate Institute, and six local athletes will leave London at 7 o'clock to-night for Toronto, where they will compete in the annual field day sports to be held to-morrow under the auspices of the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association.

Albert Lawrence, Cameron Willson, William Wanless and W. Thompson will be the relay team members for London. The latter youth was a member of the all-star Western Ontario track team which won the international honors at Baltimore last winter.

Lawrence has made some fast records on the Queen's Park track, and Wanless and Wilson are also classed as first-class sprinters.

Gorman and Tambling will also accompany the team to Toronto and will participate in the field sports.

SCHOOLS ORGANIZE BASKET BALL LEAGUE

DELAWARE, Oct. 6.—Representatives of Lambeth, Delaware and Mount Brydges continuation schools met in Delaware School on Saturday, October 1, and formed a basket ball inter-school league. These three schools will each enter a boys' and a girls' team. Coldstream School has since offered to enter a girls' team.

A board consisting of W. Wyatt, Mt. Brydges; A. Seabrooke, Delaware, and P. McFarlane, Lambeth, was appointed, and a schedule of games covering the following six weeks was drawn up.

The first games are: Delaware at Mt. Brydges, both boys and girls, Thursday, October 6; Miss Davidson and Dr. Pardy to be referees.

Annual Clash Of Collegiates At Tecumseh Park

St. Thomas and London Students Meet Here This Afternoon

Twelve hundred students of the London Collegiate Institute will attend the annual field day sports, to be held at Tecumseh Park this afternoon. The new program, which has been passed by the students, will be carried out today for the first time. Intercity competitions will be played with the St. Thomas Collegiate pupils and the track and field sports which were formerly held in the fall, will be conducted in the spring, prior to the annual Western Ontario interscholastic athletic meet.

PARADE AT 1.30 TO-DAY.

A monster parade of school children will be held at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. The pupils will assemble at 1 o'clock at the different sections, and will march in a body to Tecumseh Park.

Upon the arrival at the athletic grounds at 2 o'clock the program will be opened. The girls' soft ball match, between London and St. Thomas, will be the first event, and the basket ball game between the two girls' teams will be the next attraction. David Allan, physical director of the Y.M.C.A., will referee the basket ball game.

At 3.30 o'clock the rugby match will be staged. William Mace, of the Western University, will be the referee. The London Collegiate squad is handicapped by the loss of George Sessions, who has his right knee dislocated in a practice game on Wednesday.

Capt. J. J. Syme has asked the St. Thomas Collegiate officials for permission to play an ex-student on the team, but it is not known if the St. Thomas officials will give their permission or not.

A tennis tourney between the players of London and St. Thomas Collegiates will be staged at Thames Park courts, commencing at 2 o'clock. Single and double events will be held.

Western U. Team Down To Work

Constant Drill Precedes Opening Games With St. Mikes Next Saturday

Western University's rugby team is now down to honest hard work preparing for the opening group game with St. Michael's College squad of Toronto, here a week from to-morrow.

A. L. Blake, director of physical education at Western "U.", and Traynor, captain of the rugby team, will go to Toronto to-morrow to witness the big rugby match between the Toronto Argos and Montreal. The two officials will have a glance at the big leaguers performing and will return and give the local college students a few pointers.

TRAYNOR BOOTS WELL.

Traynor is in better kicking form this year than ever, and it is expected that he will figure largely in the coming interscholastic matches.

"Doc" Cline, who has not yet reported for practice, is expected to be out with the Western boys at the beginning of next week. Cline will strengthen the team considerably and Western will have a squad which will be equal to the teams turned out by the other three colleges.

On Wednesday afternoon of next week Mel Blake will make his final selection of the 12 men who will appear on the line-up for next Saturday's fixture.

The Western boys will be out on the gridiron every day next week, laboring hard for the coming season, as they wish to take the group honors this year.

PRESTON LIFTS CUP

PRESTON, Oct. 6.—Preston lawn bowlers lifted the Guelph Mercury trophy from the Guelph trundlers this afternoon. The game was closely contested and on the 14th end was a tie, but Preston then took the lead, which they maintained to the finish, winning by nine shots.

St. Marys Trims Sudbury By 20-0

Intermediate O.A.L.A. Champions Will Go After Senior Laurels as Well

ST. MARYS, Oct. 6.—St. Marys lacrosse team defeated the much-tooted Sudbury team in the final game for the Ontario O.A.L.A. intemediate championship by the overwhelming score of 20 to 0 before one of the largest crowds of the season.

The Northerners were outclassed in every stage of the game. In the first quarter St. Marys started the scoring and in about two minutes of play. Five more were added before the end of the period. In the second period St. Marys again bombarded the visitors' net which brought them another eight. The half time score count was 14 to 0.

Sudbury had many opportunities to score, but their shooting was wild. In the last period St. Marys started, scoring six before the end of the game. Stevens, the St. Marys goalie, had a real easy time all through the game, being only called upon occasionally to defend the nets. The teams:

Sudbury—Goal, W. Dorsett; point, F. Muirhead; c. point, G. Fenseo; first defense, D. R. Mitchell; second defense, L. Cleat; center, Brooke; second home, J. Weir; first home, H. Hanley; outside home, F. Fry; inside home, Doc Winters; spares, Brownlee, Ferris, James.

St. Marys—Goal, Stevens; point, Stewart; c. point, Yates; first defense, Alberts; second defense, Wilson; center Tuer; second home, Smith; first home, Lavelle; outside home, Cowan; inside home, W. Lavelle; spares, Sinclair, Heuther, Stricker.

Courts at London Hunt and Country Club Attract Many Devotees of Net Game; Fenton, Hendry, Taggert, Wilson, Ross and Boucher Still in Singles Championship Event; Four Pairs of Mixed Doubles Left

The Western Ontario tennis tournament, which has been revived for the first time since 1914, got away to a good start at the London Hunt and Country Club courts yesterday.

The weather was ideal for tennis and the grass courts were in the best of condition. Competition was keen in all the events and the committee in charge had everything organized to avoid any delay.

The tournament will be continued to-day and to-morrow. It is believed that the final event in the men's doubles will be completed before night, and the other two final events will be staged to-morrow.

CUP HOLDER MEETS WINNER.

The winner of the men's singles will meet Dr. Tisdale, of Delhi, for The London Free Press trophy. J. C. Boucher, of the city, has won The Free Press cup twice, and a win this year will make the trophy his permanent property.

The winners of the mixed doubles will receive the two cups presented by C. R. Somerville, and Hon. C. S. Hyman has also donated a cup for the winner of the ladies' singles.

The day's program was commenced with the men's singles and 23 matches were played. G. R. Taggart, Jr., defeated John Puddicombe, and J. C. Boucher eliminated R. Beaul. R. Hunter, of Cayuga, defeated R. H. Barnes, and Bernhardt won from F. Beattie.

SIX STILL IN SINGLES.

Fenton, Hendry, Taggart, Wilson, Ross and Boucher are the prominent players left in the men's singles event, and the matches to-day with these men will be interesting.

Boucher and Fenton, of London, defeated Tisdale and Hendry, of Delhi, in the third round of the men's doubles. The visitors played a fast game, but the local men proved to be a little the superior.

Taggart and Willan, of London, were defeated by Ferguson and Beattie. Three games were necessary to decide this match. Ferguson and Beattie were defeated in the first set, but won the next two.

FOUR MIXED DOUBLES.

Four pairs are now left in the mixed doubles and the semi-finals will be played to-day. Miss Spence and Taggart, Miss McKenzie and Ferguson, Miss McFarlane and Walker, and Miss McCausland and Willian are the players in this competition.

Secretary Boucher stated at the close of yesterday's program that he was pleased with the manner in which the games are being played, and the competitors are displaying a class of tennis rarely exhibited at any tournament.

It is now certain that the Western Ontario tournament will be continued annually in the future. When the 1921 tourney is completed arrangements will be commenced to have the affair again conducted here next year, and the committee will recommend that the affair be held earlier in the year.

To-day's program will commence at 10 o'clock in the morning and will be continued until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The big games to decide the cup winners will be played on the club courts to-morrow.

National U. S. Golf Title Will Remain

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 6. — To-day's matches in the national women's golf chmapionship tournament decided that the title would remain in the United States, the last two of seven visiting players who started in the competition on Monday being eliminated. Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, the defending champion, defeated Mrs. Latham Hall, Mid-Surrey, England. The score was one up, the champion taking the match at the home green as the result of a remarkable chip from the rough that carried 30 yards to within two yards of the pin.

Miss Edith Leitch, sister of the defeated British champion, Miss Cecil Leitch, lost at the 19th hole to Miss Elaine Rosenthal, of Chicago. An uphill battle when victory seemed doubtful and better putting in the pinch featured the winner's playing.

Miss Marion Hollins, of New York, defeated Mrs. F. C. Letts, jr., of Chicago, conqueror of Miss Cecil Leitch, four up and three to play.

Mrs. Letts gave her best yesterday in eliminating the player who had been regarded as certain to capture the title, and was unsteady to-day.

PLAN FOR PERMANENT CHILD WELFARE BODY

Basis Laid at Dominion Conference, Now in Session at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—The basis of a permanent organization to deal with problems of child protection and welfare was laid at to-day's session of the Dominion conference on child welfare, when a resolution favoring organization of those engaged in the administration and enforcement of Dominion acts relating to children and child protection for conference purposes was passed unanimously.

The day's discussion was productive of several important suggestions bearing on amendments to present laws and better care of children by other agencies.

This morning the need of placing children in homes rather than institutions, was strongly emphasized by several speakers. More rigid adoption of laws and personal acquaintance of state agencies with foster homes and parents was also advocated.

ANGLICANS TALK CHANGE OF NAME

Many Suggestions Placed Before Synod At Hamilton.

REFERRED TO COMMITTEE.

Three Names Suggested Were Not Voted On.

HAMILTON, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Discovering that there was anything but unanimity in the minds of the members of the general synod as to the most desirable name for the Anglican church in Canada, the lower house at the afternoon session was forced to defer action on proposals made by the committee on the name of the church and referred the matter back for further consideration.

The report, as submitted by Archdeacon Vroom, D.D., of Windsor, N. S., suggested that the matter be left to a ballot of the diocesan synods, the choice to lie between three alternatives, "The Anglican Church," "The Anglican Church in Canada," and "The Anglican Church of Canada." The archdeacon pointed out that as there was considerable divergence of opinion in the church membership such was the only equitable method of settlement that could be adopted.

URGES DECISION.

"We ourselves, in synod assembled, should take the bull by the horns and settle the matter ourselves," declared D. M. Owen, of Halifax. He moved that the name be changed from "The Church of England in the Dominion of Canada," to "The Church of England in Canada." Canon F. G. Scott, of Quebec, seconded.

That started a succession of protests from different camps. Capt. K. A. Mellish, of Vancouver, was the first to object. Such a name connected the presence of a "foreign" church in Canada. The use of the word "English" had long been a source of concern to those who were of Irish and Scotch extraction. The church might, with equal propriety, call itself the Scottish Episcopal Church in Canada. The name British Canadian would be imperial in its significance and local in its application.

Other names kept springing up like mushrooms till finally Principal Vance, of Vancouver, seconded by Dr. Lansing Lewis, of Montreal, moved that no action be taken and that the matter be referred back to the committee. His motion was adopted.

Great Boon For Small Car Owners

Dunlop Rubber Company's New Straight Wall 31x4 Cord Tires.

Users of cars taking 30x3½ rims have now available a Straight Wall type of rim, which allows the use of a 31x4 Straight Wall Cord Tire, recently developed by the Dunlop Tire & Rubber Goods Co., Limited.

This 31x4 Cord Tire, as previously stated, is made to fit the new Straight Wall rim in 30x3½ size, and its introduction at this date is particularly interesting because the 31x4 Straight Wall Cord Tire represents an extension of the Straight Wall principle in tire-building to the smaller car tire. This makes it possible for owners of "Brisco," "Chevrolet," "Ford," "Gray-Dort," "Maxwell" or "Overland" cars to use the new Straight Wall Tire—if they so wish—by converting their present Clincher Rims into Straight Wall.

Rim makers are now supplying 30x3½ Straight Wall Rims to interchange with 30x3½ Clincher Demountable Rims or Solid type 30x3½ Clincher Rims.

The new 30x3½ Straight Wall rim is exactly the same as the 32x3½ Straight Wall Rim except that it is twenty-three inches in diameter instead of twenty-five.

"31x4 Straight Wall" introduces a new size in Cord Tires, one that undoubtedly will be very popular because of the records it will set for tremendous mileage.

One Car Maker has already adopted the new Dunlop Cord Tire for equipment purposes, and the prospects are that others will follow the example immediately.

31x4 Straight Wall Cord is supplied in both "Ribbed" and the well-known "Traction" tread designs.—Advt.

WIDER UNIT OF SCHOOL TAXATION IS FAVORED

TORONTO, Oct. 6.—(Special to The Free Press)—The adoption of the principle of a wider unit of taxation for school purposes, suggested in the Legislature last session by Robert Cooke, M. P. P. for North Hastings, is likely to be one of the recommendations of the special committee appointed by the House to study educational matters in the province and recommend improvements in the present system. The committee has been at work for some time and it is said its report to the Legislature will contain a number of important recommendations.

The widening of the unit of taxation, carried to the fullest extent, would place the whole responsibility for education, particularly primary education, upon the state. At the present time the township is the unit of taxation in the rural districts, the revenue raised being divided evenly among the various school sections. It is argued that if the principle is right within the borders of a township it is equally right within the borders of a county or the province. At the present time the burden of providing proper education is entirely too heavy for some rural districts, where population is scattered and lands low in value. Since it is the duty of the state to provide education, and the state demands it of the municipalities, it is held that the state is responsible for those poorly equipped rural sections.

The acceptance of responsibility by the province for all education will necessarily involve new methods of raising revenue, and if the committee makes such a recommendation it will probably suggest means of providing adequate funds.

AFTER RETAILERS WHO OVERCHARGE

British Public Bodies Inaugurating Campaign

CARDIFF TO HOLD PROBE

LONDON, Oct. 6.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Public bodies are now taking up a campaign against the alleged profiteering by retailers whose prices do not correspond with recent cuts announced by wholesalers.

The corporation of the City of Cardiff, in Wales, has decided to carry on an investigation into the affairs of certain shopkeepers after an announcement by the lord mayor that he was buying frozen meat at 4½ pence per pound for distribution among the distressed. Butchers are charging the public from 18 to 20 pence per pound.

The Town Council, of Neath, Wales, has instructed the markets committee to inquire into the local prices for meat and bread.

The ministry of agriculture in its weekly market returns shows that the decline in prices for fat cattle during the last month, amounting to approximately $1.75 per cwt., was the heaviest recorded since April.

Corresponding falls in the wholesale dead meat prices have occurred, as has also the price for sheep, lambs and mutton.

WILL SEEK TO PUT END TO HOLDING UP BRITISH BY THE U. S.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The British Government is taking up with Washington the entire question of the entry of British subjects into the United States, it was learned to-day.

British Government officials point out that an individual may obtain the necessary vise, but may find upon his arrival at New York that the total monthly number from the geographical category to which he may belong already has been admitted and he, therefore, would be detained at Ellis Island, with resulting serious discomfort.

It was staetd that a number of such cases recently have occurred.

SMALL LOCAL MARKET TO-DAY

Rain Kept Farmers At Home. Live Hogs Cheaper.

There was little or no local market to-day, few farmers venturing out in the rain. Prices were steady for fruits and vegetables. Potatoes took a small drop, selling at from $2 to $2.25 a bag, $1.50 a bushel and from 40c to 45c a peck. Three car loads are being shipped in and are expected some time this week. They will probably be sold for $2 a bag or less, according to quality.

Hay was steady, bringing from $17 to $20 a ton. A few loads yesterday brought the top price, but the average price was $17 to $18.

Butter was steady and a slow sale. It is expected that a drop in price will take place soon as many farmers' wives who have been selling cream to the butter and cheese factories are now making butter.

Eggs are firm, selling from 44c to 45c wholesale, 45c by the basket and 48c to 50c retail.

Apples are in little demand, the weather not being cool enough yet for winter storing. They are bringing 40c to 50c a peck and $1 to $2 a bushel.

Live hogs registered a slight drop and are now selling at $8.50 to $8.75 per cwt.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Scattered speculative buying gave an upward slant today to the market. Liquidation on the part of holders appeared to be finished and bears showed no disposition to be aggressive for the time being. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to ¾c higher, were followed by a moderate sag and then by upturns to well above yesterday's finish. Wet weather tended to strengthen the corn market. After opening ¼c to ⅜c ½c higher, the market continued firm. Country offerings of oats were small. Prices started ⅛c off to ¼c up, and later hardened for all deliveries. October rye lacked support, but otherwise provisions were firm, in line with hogs.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7. — (Wall street, 10.30 a.m.) — Stocks in which the short interest is believed to be very extensive were subjected to further pressure at the opening of to-day's market. MEIGHEN SWAYS CROWDS IN EAST

Six Enthusiastic Audiences Addressed In One Day.

ROUSES FIGHTING SPIRIT.

Gets a Highland Welcome In Pictou County.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S., Oct. 6.—(Special to The Free Press).—To-day was another strenuous day for Premier Meighen, but he was well repaid for his efforts by the enthusiastic welcomes he received.

There was a large gathering at the depot at Halifax to see him off. On the arrival of the train at Stellarton 2,000 people were at the depot and he addressed them from his car. At Pictou the opera house was unable to hold only a fraction of the crowd anxious to hear him. Leaving Pictou, on the way to New Glasgow, the train was held at Westville, where a thousand people demanded a speech. They were headed by the mayor, and the prime minister and Col. Thomas Cantley, the candidate, addressed an open-air meeting. The climax of the day was at New Glasgow, where it seemed all the people of Pictou County were assembled. The Itzit Theater, seating 2,500, was filled at 7 o'clock. The Academy, with 2,000 seating capacity, was secured, and it also was filled before the time fixed for the meeting, and a third theater, the Roseland, was requisitioned to accommodate the others still outside anxious to hear the prime minister. Yesterday he spoke five times to 7,000 people. To-day he delivered six addresses, and in all must have talked to 9,000. Never has a prime minister in Canada accepted such a strenuous and arduous program. His voice is showing the strain and he cannot maintain the great pace he has set, but he determined to go to the full extent of his physical strength.

HIGHLAND WELCOME.

Pictou County gave him a Highland welcome. Here is more of the old party enthusiasm than in other parts of the province. Also the very industrial life of Pictou is dependent on protection. Every elector is a protectionist, including the Liberal candidate, E. M. MacDonald. The great steel and coal trade of New Glasgow, Stellarton, Pictou, Westville and Trenton have all been developed under the protective tariff and they are no mean industries. It is a question here whether the Liberals will accept the official Liberal tariff policy as the objective of their leaders or whether they will take the assurances of Messrs. King, Fielding and MacDonald that this official policy is a "chart." The Liberal leaders have a wide latitude in their course and may choose any port as their objective. Unemployment is found here to a considerable extent. The steel and coal trade is depressed. This may be a factor in the contest. The Liberals point to unemployment as conclusive proof of the Government's incapacity. The prime minister maintains that industrial depression and the consequent unemployment is due to world-wide conditions and to instability in our fiscal policy. That the conditions in Canada are better than in any other country is urged in the Government's defence, and it is also declared that a decisive victory for protection will be immediately followed by a business revival.

A GREAT FIGHT.

It is developing into a great fight in this province. Hon. Mr. Meighen has roused the fighting spirit of his supporters. He still has four meetings to consolidate his forces in Nova Scotia. Hon. Mr. King has gone from the province. He was gaining strength until the arrival of the prime minister, but it is certain that not only did Mr. Meighen check the Liberal advance, but he was broken the ranks of his opponents. There are few safe seats in this province for either party. Three are conceded to each party as very probable but not assured wins, leaving 10 constituencies where the result is at present very doubtful. The Liberals had the swing of victory until a week ago but now the swing is the other way. No more is there a fifteen-to-one victory claimed in this province and what is still more significant Liberal leaders now only claim they will have the largest group in the House and not a decisive victory as they have hitherto been forecasting.

INAUGURAL BANQUET. — The Nikator Club of Dundas Center Methodist Church held a successful inaugural banquet last night in the club rooms at the church. A splendid address on the qualities of manhood was given by Rev. John Garbutt, pastor of the church. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered him on the motion of Harvey Adair and Allan Grant. C. E. German was elected honorary grant pretor for the ensuing year. He will be assisted by the following officers: Grand Pretor, Milton Walker; deputy grand pretor, Ian McMillan; grand scriptor, Leon Adams; grand compter, Thos. Russel. The three groups, Junior, Intermediate and Senior Tuxis, also met and mapped out a program for the coming year.

NEW POSTAL RATES.—The new postal regulations under which parcels may be insured by payment of a small additional fee is proving popular with London merchants and has already resulted in relieving quite a lot of the congestion which this business formerly brought to the registered letters branch. The new regulation was brought into effect on October 1 and the public at once took advantage of it. In consequence the facilities for handling the regular registered mail at the local office have been considerably enhanced without additional staff.

SUMMONED TO OTTAWA. — Mr. Albert H. Ball, union representative of the Canadian National Express, has been summoned to Montreal to attend a conference of union officials on Sunday. He said that he had no authoritative statement to make regarding any cut or proposed cut in the wages of the expressmen, but that the body of representatives from all over Ontario would probably adopt some policy to work on when they met the G. T. R. officials on Sunday.

SLEDDING IS GOOD; BREAD AT EIGHT CENTS

One East End Baker Selling It at This Price.

While the bakers and the grocers have been warring over the price of bread a small bakery on Lorne avenue has been selling the staff of life at 8 cents a loaf straight. The proprietor declares that he is making a good profit at this price. He also asserts that if the bakers reduce to 9 cents a loaf he will sell his product at two loaves for 15 cents. When bread was selling at 12 cents he was charging only 10 cents, and then when the bakers reduced to 10 cents this baker lowered his price to 8 cents.

DIRECTORS DO NOT CONTROL RAILWAY

L. & P. S. Commission Are In Absolute Control.

LEASE FROM THE BOARD.

Aldermen Only Concerned With Receiving Annual Rental.

That the attitude of the directors of the London & Port Stanley Railway with reference to the agreement to be made with the M. C. R. is of little import is the expressed opinion of members of the London Railway Commission to-day.

In fact the communication respecting this agreement, which was before the directors yesterday, did not come from that body at all, according to Vice-Chairman Philip Pocock, of the L. R. Commissioon, who refers to the directors as the supposed owners of the road.

"This question of adjustment of rates with the M. C. R. is in the hands of our solicitor, who is also the city solicitor," said Mr. Pocock to-day. "The Dominion Railway Board is being asked to arbitrate the question of rates, and I suppose Mr. Meredith thought that the supposed owners of the road should be asked to indorse the request sent to the railway board. But that is merely a matter of form.

"With reference to the exchange of land at Port Stanley, there is nothing to hide from the Council in any way," continued Mr. Pocock. "It is merely a matter of straightening out the boundary lines between the railway property and the village highway. We have no desire to keep the Council in the dark in this or any other question that concerns that body."

In effect, the commissioners take the position that the directors, composed of members of the Council, have nothing to do with the road other than to accept the annual rental. The commission is in full control of the property as a tenant.

The directors, accompanied by the members of the commission and officers of the road, will make a tour of inspection to Port Stanley this afternoon. It is expected that the question will be threshed out in a conference to be held during the afternoon trip.

U. S. A. SAYS DOOR WASN'T SLAMMED

Can't Understand Remark of the Australian Premier.

NO OVERTURES ARE MADE

State Department Glad Dominions Are To Be Represented.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7 — Gratification was manifested at the state department to-day at the announcement that the British delegation at the conference for the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern subjects would include representatives of the dominion Governments, but officials appeared surprised at the assertion attributed to Premier Hughes, of Australia, that the United States had "slammed the door" when an endeavor had been made to obtain separate representation for the dominions.

It was said to be incredible that such a declaration had been made by the Australian premier, as no communications on the subject between dominion Governments and the United States Government had been exchanged, and could not properly have been sincere. Such an interchange might be promptly resented by the British foreign office as a violation of diplomatic usage. There has been an assumption at the state department that the British Government might naturally desire representation from the Dominion Governments and the inclusion of delegates from Melbourne and other overseas seats of Government has caused no surprise.

The difference in the size of the British delegation resulting from such representation will have no effect upon the finding of the conference, since it is a meeting of Government delegations and not a body in which the votes of the individual members will affect the results.

NANSEN ASKS HUGE SUM TO RELIEVE FAMINE

Says Efforts to Save 10,000,000 People Will Fail Otherwise.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Efforts to save 10,000,000 Russians from starvation will fail unless £5,000,000 is raised before Christmas, declared Dr. Friedtjof Nansen in an interview with the Daily Herald last night. Dr. Nansen, who is in London for the purpose of furthering measures for the relief of Russia, asserted that the solution of the world problem of unemployment was to be found in combating famine in that country.

Dr. Nansen confirmed from his own observation the dire need of Russia, and emphasized the fact that the Russian Soviet Government is dealing honestly with all supplies sent to that country, no food being distributed among the Soviet troops.

"It is a pity," he said, "that with Argentina burning her spare grain in furnaces, wheat rotting in United States granaries and Canada's bins bulging with 2,000,000 or more tons of corn than she can use these Russian millions should die of starvation."

FOUR MONTHS TO WALK ACROSS THE DOMINION

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 7.—W. H. Coulter, during the war a gunner in the First Battery of Canadian Field Artillery, walked into Halifax yesterday from Vancouver. He left the latter city on May 31, and states that he has made a better record than the hikers who reached Vancouver this summer from Halifax. There were 21 days on which he did not walk, he said. Coulter set out from Vancouver for Ottawa originally, with the intention of bringing attention to alleged bad treatment he had received while in service.

INCLUDE HOME IN RELIEF PLAN

Destitute Should Not Be Sheltered At Police Station.

OPINION OF DR. MacGREGOR

Need of Such Institution Is Shown By Appeals.

That the establishment of an industrial home should be included in any relief plans for the coming winter, is the expressed opinion of the Rev. D. C. MacGregor, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. There ought to be some building besides the police station, he points out, where men and women who are destitute might obtain shelter at least.

No new building is suggested for this purpose, but rather the utilization of some quarters which are vacant now, but which might be equipped with beds. Application for a night's lodgings would be made through the relief office of the civic authorities, who would also be empowered to grant a meal ticket on a local restaurant if it was proved that the person had no money.

The need for such a building, in the estimation of Mr. MacGregor, is shown by the number of calls which ministers of the city receive for help. The minister explained that as many as five had called on one evening asking for something to eat and a place to sleep.

SOLUTION OF PROBLEM.

"It may be a poor policy of mine, but I never have turned a man away from my doors without giving him some assistance," he said. "It gives me an easier conscience, at any rate, to know that I have not refused to help a fellow man. In many instances the men state that they have just got in on the train, but how they find me so soon remains a puzzle.

"The solution of the problem to my mind is having an industrial home or boarding house, where such men or women may be sent on an order of a responsible official. I believe the Salvation Army had such an institution at one time, but in recent years there has not been the same need of it as there once was. If we are to have many unemployed this fall and winter we certainly ought to have shelter for them."

BISHOPS PASS ON LAMBETH APPEAL

Indorse Approval of Union and Outline Policy.

STOP AT COMMUNION.

Will Not Let Outsiders Celebrate It In Church.

HAMILTON, Oct. 6.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Disclosure of the attitude of the bishops on the church union question marked the second day's proceedings of the ninth session of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada. In a series of resolutions adopted by the upper house and sent down to the lower house for its concurrence, the archbishops and bishops indorsed the "appeal to all Christian people" issued by the Lambeth Conference, accepted the recommendation that conferences be arranged with other Protestant churches and declared that such conferences should be initiated in Canada by a special joint committee to be appointed by the general synod.

The conditions on which the bishops would recommend such conferences were practically identical with those laid down by the Lambeth Conference.

POLICY OUTLINED.

The upper house, after referring to the fact that the Canadian bishops had participated at Lambeth, outlined its policy as follows:

1. The upper house of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada welcomes and adopts the "appeal to all Christian people" contained in resolution No. 9 of the Lambeth Conference.

2. The upper house accepts resolution No. 10 of the Lambeth Conference as follows: "The conference recommends to the authorities of the churches of the Anglican communion that they should, in such ways and at such times as they think best, formally invite the authorities of other churches within their areas to confer with them concerning the possibility of taking definite steps to co-operate in a common endeavor, on the lines set forth in the above appeal, to restore the unity of the church of Christ.

"The upper house recommends that all formal invitations to the authorities of other churches within the Dominion of Canada and all conferences that may result therefrom shall be in charge of a special joint committee to be appointed for this purpose at this session of the general synod."

The third resolution outlined the conditions on which the bishops would agree to such conferences. They state in the first place that they "cannot approve general schemes of intercommunion or exchange of pulpits," nor of "the celebration in Anglican churches of the holy communion for members of the Anglican church by ministers who have not be episcopally ordained."

CERTAIN EXCEPTIONS.

Continuing, the resolution states:

"The bishops of the Church of England in Canada will support the action of any bishop, who, provided there be no canonical impediment, gives occasional authorization to ministers not episcopally ordained, to preach in churches within his diocese, and clergy of his diocese to preach in the churches of such ministers, provided that, in his opinion, such ministers are working towards an ideal of union, such as is described in the Lambeth appeal, it being clearly and distinctly understood that this involves:

"The whole-hearted acceptance by such ministers of all set forth in paragraph 6 of the 'Appeal to All Christian People,' which is as follows:

"'We believe that the visible unity of the church will be found to involve the whole-hearted acceptance of: The Holy Scriptures as the record of God's revelation of Himself to man, and as being the rule and ultimate standard of faith; and the creed commonly called Nicene, as the sufficient statement of the Christian faith, and either it or the Apostles' Creed as the baptismal confession of belief; the divinely instituted sacraments of baptism and holy communion, as expressing for all the corporate life of the whole fellowship in and with Christ; a ministry acknowledged by every part of the church as possessing, not only the inward call of the spirit, but also the commission of Christ and the authority of the whole body.'"

STEVE VAN-A-SCHAEF IS REGULAR BARBER

"Steve Van-a-schaef, 258 Horton street, was fined $20 in police court on Thursday afternoon for keeping his barber shop open after 9 o'clock, contrary to the law."—Police court record.

A knight of the razor was Steve Van-a-schaef, and he lustily lathered and scraped, in his Horton street parlors from morning to night, until not one with whiskers escaped. A regular citizen, honest and fair, as good as most others was Steve; he never attempted to cut bald-headed hair or tell stories one could believe. After nine of the clock Steve refuses to quit, but keeps shaving and shaving away. Let others call limited hours their bit, but that's not his idea of a day. So he keeps his shop open and scrapes and shampoos, as long as his customers come. But his rivals object to his long hour work for he's putting their trade on the bum. So they enter their 'plaint with the powers that be that Steve has neglected the clock. "He's bre

So ready, dear husband, to answer the call of the brave,
Although you now rest in a far distant grave.
What more or what better could any man give
Than his life for his country that others might live?

May sorrow from our hearts depart,
For to-day he now is happy;
Since a robe of white is given
For his faded suit of khaki.
And though his merry laugh we miss,
And ne'er on earth will see his face,
We're glad he fills no coward's grave,
But sleeps the sleep of the noble brave

SEEK WAY OUT OF PAVING PROBLEM

Kent County Council Discusses Question

SPECIAL SESSION HELD

Ask Government to Increase Grants to Such Work

CHATHAM, Oct. 6.—A meeting of the County Council was held to-day to discuss Government aid for the construction of paved roadways in towns and villages which connect up with the county road system. Some time ago certain villages in Kent undertook work believing that they would receive 40 per cent. of the cost from the Ontario Government.

It is said that Hon. Mr. Biggs, during a conversation with Reeve Currie, of Dresden, gave this interpretation to the act governing Government assistance. Since then, and since the work of paving was undertaken in Dresden and other towns, it has been discovered that the Government will pay 40 per cent. of the county grant towards such work. This raises a problem which had not been anticipated.

At the last meeting of the County Council the grant to the towns and villages was increased to 40 per cent. but it is claimed by the towns that they are not yet receiving enough assistance in their pavement work.

SEEK AN INCREASE.

A scheme was suggested whereby the county could take over the whole cost of the work of such pavements, and thereby secure the full 40 per cent. from the Government, but this idea was discarded. An effort will be made to induce the Government to increase the grants to such work.

A resolution of regret at the death of Dr. R. V. Bray, county physician, was passed and Dr. J. W. Coulter, of this city was appointed to the position.

The council refused to pass a resolution asking the Provincial Government to repeal the natural gas act. It was felt that as the Government had promised to have the audit of the Union Gas Company's books completed, it would be unfair to complicate matters by asking for the repeal of the act until the municipalities see what will be the result of the audit.

IN NATURE'S PLAYGROUNDS.

A region which provides one of the most delightful winter holidays is the great Algonquin Park reserve, 200 miles north of Toronto and 170 miles west of Ottawa. Two thousand feet above the sea level, it has invigorating climatic conditions. No matter how cold it is, the air is dry, and the man with a sweater never suffers discomfort. The Highland Inn, the largest of the park hotels, will be open for the reception of guests this season from December 15 to March 15, and as the accommodation is limited, patrons are advised to make reservations early. CHARGED UNDER FOOD ACT.

GODERICH, Oct. 6.—Charles Bondi, a fruit dealer, of Wingham, appeared before Magistrate Reid this afternoon on a charge laid under the Pure Food Act. The case arose from the visit of a provincial inspector to that town a few days ago and finding some fruit which was said to be totally unfit for sale. A charge is being laid against Mrs. Bondi, wife of the fruit dealer, on a charge of obstructing the officer in his duty. The case, which was adjourned, is the first to be heard in this locality in some years.

PRESTON IS TO HAVE A MODERN THEATER

King Street Block Purchased and Work to Start Within a Couple of Weeks.

PRESTON, Oct. 6.—The Gale House block, on King street, has been purchased by out-of-town capital and will be turned into a theater. W. A. Bolduc has closed the deal. The purchasers will immediately start work to convert the present building into one of the finest theaters in the county. It will be built after the style of the most up-to-date picture houses in the larger cities and will be erected on the vacant land at the rear of the present building. The entrance will be built where the Princess Garden is now located.

The theater, when completed, will have accommodation for 1,500 to 2,000 people, and although it will be known as a moving picture house the stage will be built large enough so that road shows can be accommodated. Plans and specifications are being prepared and it is expected that work will be started in two weeks' time. The plans have been so arranged that the present occupants of the building will not have to vacate. The drug stone will remain as it is, while the Gale House confectionery store will have space in the arcade.

Satisfaction guaranteed. F. Steele, optician, 210 Dundas street. f

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Their batting sights clear and set for sharp-shooting, the New York Giants were determined to-day to bombard the Yankee twirling section and gain an even footing in the world's series. They hammered four Yankee pitchers for a world's series record of 20 hits yesterday and won the third game, 13 to 5, after dropping the first two without a score.

The weather at 8 o'clock this morning was partially cloudy, with official forecasts predicting rain. The sun was making an effort to clear away the threatening clouds, however, and it looked an even chance that the rain might hold off.

Manager McGraw intimated he would send Phil Douglas, the spit-baller, to the mound in an effort to hold the Yankee sluggers, while his men march to their second victory. Phil hurled a great game in the opening contest against Mays. Harry Harper, the Hackensack, N. J., southpaw, is most likely to oppose Phil, and if the Jerseyite is in form the fourth game of the series may develop another pitchers' battle.

DOPE MATERIALIZES?

All the dope issued previous to the series by the so-called experts has materialized, but it turned out they said Giants where they should have said Yankees, and vice versa.

They predicted the Giants would show the greatest dash, speed and resourcefulness, while the Yankees would win their games by terrific batting.

In the first two games the Yankees won by dash and resourcefulness, and in the third the Giants punched their way to triumph.

But McGraw's men are content to win, be it by dash or punch, while the Yankees, with one game to the good, still are all optimism.

RELIES ON HIS ACES.

Huggins probably will not call on Shawkey, Quinn or Collins again in this series, as the Giants got to them hard yesterday. If Harper comes through to-day he believes the series will be on ice for the Americans, with Mays and Hoyt in reserve for the needed two games. If Harper fails, Huggins will have to rely on his two aces for an "iron man" stunt.

Behind the bat yesterday Snyder performed all for the Giants. He wielded the lumber with precision, too, and he will be into the game again to-day. Walter Schang will perform for the Yankees, as usual.

Suffering from an abscess on his arm as a result of his base-stealing in the second game, Babe Ruth may be compelled to watch the fourth contest from the bench.

"Chick" Fewster will take his place in the event that Babe is unable to play. Ruth, who still lacks a series home run, may get a chance to pinch-hit, however, if the occasion warrants.

"My greatest desire right now," said the Babe, "is to crown my world's series play with a home run into the stands. I'd die easy if I could do it."

Yesterday's game, as a result of the ineffective pitching of the Yankee twirlers, saw a number of world's series records smashed. Those eight hits in the eleventh inning made one record, the eight run another, and the 12 men who batted still another. Young's two hits in the inning, one a single, the other a triple, also made history. The time required to play the nine innings—2 hours and 40 minutes—added a few lines to the records.

Twenty hits for one team in one game never were recorded before in a world's series. Burns garnered four of them—three singles and a triple. Frisch, besides drawing three free passes, hit safely twice; Young walked twice, then made a triple and a single in the same inning. Emil Meusel collected a double and two singles; Snyder four singles and Jess Barnes two. Rawlings got two and Bancroft one. Kelly and Pitcher Toney were the only Giants who failed to connect at least once.

To-day being a half-holiday for business people in New York a record crowd was expected to pack the Polo Grounds.

The umpires have been assigned as follows: Chill at the plate, Rigler at first, Moarlarity at second, Quigley at third.

CREATE ORGANIZATION FOR CHILD PROTECTION

Judges of Juvenile Court and Children's Aid Officials In Conference.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A permanent organization, to be known as the Canadian Association of Child Protection Officers, was created yesterday at the conference of judges of juvenile courts, provincial superintendents of neglected children and officials connected with care of neglected, dependent and delinquent children, in session here. J. F. Reynolds was elected president. Vice-presidents elected included J. J. Kelso, superintendent of neglected and delinquent children, Toronto, for Ontario.

WET FOR O. R. F. U. GAME.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—After an all-night rain, prospects are very uncertain for the Ottawa and Hamilton rugby game at Lansdowne Park this afternoon, under O. R. F. U. auspices. A liberal supply of sawdust will be placed on the ground to assure a fast game, however. The damp soil will nevertheless greatly hamper the players.

BARNES ANXIOUS FOR ANOTHER SHOOT AT THE YANKEES

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — Mrs. Jess Barnes and the pitcher's father, Luther Barnes, arrived at the polo grounds from Circle Ville, Kansas, yesterday, just in time to see Jess Barnes take up the pitching burden in the third inning with a four-run disadvantage, scored off Fred. Toney.

"All I want now is another crack at the Yankees," said the tall right-hander. I wasn't at all nervous when I went in to pitch and the Yankees all look alike to me. Yes, I pitched to Babe Ruth when I walked him in the eighth; I pitched to him, but the ball didn't quite cut the corners."

Barnes fanned Ruth in the fifth.

200 STUDENTS ATTEND DANCE

Collegiate Party Was Jolliest of Affairs.

CHAPERONS AND "EATS"

Committee Sees That All Formalities Observed.

"On with the dance" was the watchword among some 200 pupils of the London Collegiate Institute last night when they held the jolliest party in the history of the school in the Palace Academy. The fact that the party was frowned up by the authorities lent added zest to the evening's fun, each dance having all the attractiveness of a stolen kiss.

Purple and gold, the school colors, were used to advantage in decorating the hall, while myriads of lights winked at the youthful crowd in the moonlight. It is rumored that the transformation of the academy into a thing of beauty had some connection with the fact that there was a dearth of students in the third and upper school classes on Friday afternoon.

Augmented does not sufficiently describe the orchestra which dispensed alluring music up till the witching hour of midnight. At times when the volume of jazz was particularly large there were upwards of 40 musicians making harmony. At other times there would be a walk-out from the orchestra when a moonlight waltz appealed to the fancy of several of the orchestra members.

Of course, the young men and young women were duly chaperoned—the committee in charge saw to that when the teachers refused to condone the dance. Mr. and Mrs. Gibbons and Mr. and Mrs. Jones acted admirably in that capacity, while some of the parents visited the hall to watch the merry assemblage.

Refreshments were served from a booth, where the pupils could revive their jaded spirits with punch, ice cream and confections of various sorts. In fact the only disappointment of the evening came when the home waltz was played as the chimes struck 12.

BIG CHIEF REDUCED, BUT NOT IN WEIGHT

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 8.—This town on Friday lost the distinction of having the world's biggest chief of police by the defeat for re-election of James D. Noe, who weighs 325 pounds.

He is seven feet high and has to have his shoes, collars, hats and "everything" especially made for him.

Worry over the impending election caused him to lose 25 pounds, he said. He was reduced to sergeant.

The depression which was in the Ohio valley yesterday morning now is centered in the St. Lawrence valley. Another depression, which has moved very quickly from the Pacific coast, is situated in Manitoba. Rain has fallen heavily in Ontario from Lake Huron eastward, also over the Province of Quebec. Elsewhere in the Dominion the weather has been for the most part fine and in Alberta warm.

Freshmen Travel Rough Road To Comradeship

This morning the newcomers to Western University arts class were pounced on by the old-timers and given a merry and exciting time. Photo shows bound prisoners having boots and socks removed, while others receive a coat of paint for their countenances.

LONDON VOTERS NUMBER 22,087

City Clerk Makes Public Interesting Figures.

HOME OWNERS INCREASE

While Tenants Naturally Decreased During 1920.

The grand total of voters in London for all civic purposes is to-day officially announced to be 22,087. This includes 1,626 separate school supporters. The total of voters for general municipal purposes is 20,461, of which 12,895 are men and 5,055 are women.

These figures made public to-day are about 1,000 less than was first estimated. City Clerk Baker ascribes this to the raising of the exemption limit for income tax voters.

The announcement shows that there are 542 tenants less than in 1920, while home owners have increased 712. There are 12,895 property owners in London, 6,531 tenants and 1,035 income tax voters. The prosperity of the city is shown in that income taxpayers have increased by 54 in one year, despite the raising of the exemption limit from $700 to $1,000 for single men and from $1,700 to $2,000 for married men.

HEARTY SEND-OFF TO IRISH ENVOYS

Griffith, Barton and Others Leave For London Parley.

COLLINS GOES ON MONDAY

Will Make Further Effort For Effective Peace.

DUBLIN, Oct. 8.—A large crowd gave a hearty send-off in the Western Railroad station here this morning to the Irish peace delegates who will meet the representatives of the British Government in London on Tuesday next in a further effort to solve the Irish problem. All the plenipotentiaries were in the departing party with the exception of Michael Collins, finance minister in the Dail Cabinet, who was detained by family reasons. He will leave for London on Monday.

Before leaving Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein foreign minister, said he had no statement to make. The delegates were cheered as the train left the station.

Although the names of the Sinn Fein delegates have not formally been announced it is understood they comprise Mr. Griffith, Mr. Collins, Robert C. Barton, who has been a leading figure in the negotiations; Eamonn J. Duggan, Sinn Fein member of the British Parliament, and George Gavan Duffy, a representative of the Sinn Fein abroad. These men were designated to meet the British representatives at Inverness on September 20, the invitation to which was cancelled by Prime Minister Lloyd George because Eamonn De Valera, the Irish republican leader, declared that the Sinn Fein delegates would negotiate only as representatives of a sovereign state.

LAMBTON TEACHERS AT PETROLEA BANQUET

PETROLEA, Oct. 8.—East Lambton teachers in convention here were banqueted last evening in Victoria Hall. Chairman J. B. Dale, of the Public School Board, had charge of the arrangements. Prof McPherson, principal of the Normal School, Hamilton, was the speaker of the evening.

PREVENT ATTACK ON LEON.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Oct. 8. — Timely action by the Nicaraguan Government in sending troops to the Honduran frontier averted a contemplated attack on Leon, the largest city in Nicaragua, by the insurgents, it is declared here. Gen. Masis, minister of public works in 1909 and 1910, is in personal command of the Government forces, which have captured many of the rebels. Gen. Lobos, leader of the revolutionary band, is negotiating for a surrender. The Government has stipulated it will spare him and his followers if he delivers up all arms in their possession, reveals the plans of the revolutionists and ceases his expedition.

PLANS WINTER STEAMERS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—A line of steamers to serve points on the north shore of the St. Lawrence during the winter is one of the improvements which Hon. L. G. Belley, the new postmaster-general, hopes to see realized during his administration.

Unsuspecting "Freshies" Of Western Art Class Are Bound and Painted

FATHER MARRIES YOUNGER SISTER OF SON'S BRIDE

MIDDLEBORO, Del., Oct. 8.—When Miss Sarah Blaine Atkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Atkins, of this place, became the bride of David Brittingham, an electrician, of Lewes, the family ties were bound unusually close.

By the marriage it develops that the bridegroom becomes the stepfather of his daughter-in-law, a brother-in-law to his son, and his stepdaughter and the daughter-in-law become his sisters-in-law.

Mrs. Brittingham becomes the stepmother of her brother-in-law, the stepmother of her sister, and sister-in-law by marriage of her husband.

The mix-up comes about through the elder Brittingham and his son, "Lefty" Brittingham, of baseball fame, marrying sisters. Brittingham's wife is younger than his son's wife.

CASSEL'S ESTATE THIRTY MILLIONS

Biggest Part of It Goes To Two Grandchildren.

BIG SUCCESSION DUTY

Public Treasury Will Benefit By $10,000,000.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Sir Ernest Cassel, the financier, who died here recently, left an estate valued at £6,000,000, according to his will, which was probated yesterday. This estate is liable to a duty at the maximum rate of 40 per cent. and the public treasury will benefit to the extent of £2,400,000.

The largest part of the estate was bequeathed to two grandchildren, after whom the chief beneficiary is a sister. Large legacies were left to other relatives, while employees and friends also were remembered. The preliminary announcement of the contents of the will mentions no bequest to charities, but if all trusts mentioned in the document ultimately fail, the whole residuary estate will go to London hospitals.

CURRIE LIKELY CHOICE OF W. MIDDLESEX U. F. O.

Convention Being Held In Strathroy This Afternoon To Select a Candidate.

STRATHROY, Oct. 8.—(By Staff Reporter.)—United Farmers of West Middlesex will gather in convention here this afternoon to name a federal candidate. It is expected, however, that it will be quite late in the afternoon before the choice is made as each speaker is allowed several minutes and there will be many names placed on nomination papers. The prediction is that Harold Currie, the "stormy petrel" of the party, will be selected, but other names to go before the convention will include Ex-Warden D. Graham, Dan Campbell and Walter Bolton.

Annual Battle For Supremacy To-Day Proves Strenuous Affair.

FAIR CO-EDS DELIGHTED WITH FUNNY PERFORMANCE

Villains In the Play Proved To Be Perfect Gentlemen, However.

Arts freshmen were initiated this morning at Western University so that their own mothers wouldn't know them. There have been initiations before on the classic campus of the Huron College buildings, but none ever so complete as the one staged by the arts sophomores to-day on the unsuspecting "freshies." Unsuspecting because some strategic sophomore asked The Free Press yesterday to announce officially, that the initiation would take place on Monday.

But by 8 a.m. waiting hordes of the second-year men were in position at the arts college and their eagle-eyed scouts were watching for early arrivals. The fun started with the arrival of a gaunt Scotchman, whose muscles had been hardened by farm toil. So manfully did he fight for the honor of his class that the groggy sophs, once their victim was bound, wondered just who was doing the initiating.

BOUND WITH ROPES

But one by one the early bird freshmen were bound with ropes and placed in cold storage in the university barn. Larger groups began to appear on the campus and many royal battles were staged. But for the element of surprise, the freshmen might have turned the tables on the sophs. As it was, the individual and mass battles for supremacy will live long in university annals. The 1922 freshmen class almost equals the enrollment in the three other years.

The battles soon became a tournament series of contest, for beauty arrived on the scene in the person of fair co-eds. Screams of feminine laughter from the sophomore ladies, cheers and encouragement from the freshwomen.

BRING IN THE PAINTER

And when all were bound the painting began. Last year dainty little dabs were placed on youthful features of this year's sophomores by this year's juniors. But that effort was merely amateurish compared with the sign-painting work accomplished to-day.

White, green and red paint was liberally used, and to heighten the effect liquid shoe polish served for finishing touches. The freshmen will survive, but there is a growing belief that they will never look the same again.

Rose-tinted complexions that a movie actress might envy will probably be rubbed off by a week's vigorous application of soap and water.

THE VILLAINS!

After the painting, shoes and socks were removed and wild yells went up from one party where socks were found to be stockings, and one sophomore exhibited a dinty pink garter. The freshmen indignantly charge the sophomores will "planting" that bit of "evidence," but that is as it may be.

The shoes and socks were then carried to a mixing sack and the bound captives loaded in waiting motor cars for a parade about the city.

So ended the first of a series of initiations at the university. The medical first-year men are yet to be attended to, and the ladies are planning dark things.

Guests Rush From Rooms As Old Wall of Windsor Hotel Collapses Without Warning

Section of Crawford House Recently Taken Over By Contractors Falls Into the Street.

WINDSOR, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Guests at the Crawford House were awakened by a roar and a rumble about 7.30 this morning when a section of the old building near the corner of Ferry street and Medbury lane fell into the street. Nobody was hurt, as the rooms in the section that collapsed had not been occupied for a week, as the part of the building that fell had been taken over by contractors who were preparing to tear it down.

According to E. M. Doumani, proprietor, men had been working in the part of the building near the corner of Ferry and Medbury lane for several days, removing heavy fixtures. He attributes the collapse to the strain caused by the moving of heavy fixtures, aided by a strong west wind. No damage was caused as the building was about to be torn down in order to make way for a large addition to the hotel.

According to F. X. Menard, the clerk who was on duty at the time, there was no warning before the old section of the building collapsed. Guests, awakened by the noise, rushed from their rooms in other sections of the building, but returned and dressed when informed by the clerk and porters that there was no danger. A few of the more timid made their way to the street by means of the fire escapes in the rear of the building.

SEEK LOCATION FOR M'MASTER U.

London Will Waive Claim In Favor of Hamilton.

DECISION NEXT WEEK.

Important Meeting of Baptists At St. Thomas.

Although London has an excellent chance of securing McMaster University, it will probably waive all its claims in favor of Hamilton, which is without an institution for higher learning. One of the major questions confronting the Baptist convention, at its 33rd annual meeting in St. Thomas next week, will be the disposition of the denominational college, which is at present situated in Toronto.

Western Ontario is already being served by Western University and the introduction of another university in this section of the province would only be conflicting. The alternative proposition that McMaster be affiliated with Western and confine itself to training men for the Baptist ministry is out of the question, because McMaster would lose its character, which it has had an up-hill fight to maintain during the past decades.

LOGICAL CENTER.

Hamilton, however, with a large constituency in its own city and the Niagara district is the logical situation for the university, in the opinion of Col. W. J. Brown, executive secretary of the Western, and the Baptist clergy of this city. The reason for McMaster being moved is that it is being overshadowed at present by Toronto University, which draws the greater percentage of its Queen City students. McMaster as the only Baptist college in the British Empire draws from the whole Dominion, and would gain, instead of lose, students by moving. Affiliated with it is the boys' college at Woodstock, the Moulton Girls' College in Toronto, and the Brandon University.

SHIELDS CONTROVERSY.

In some manner the Rev. T. T. Shields controversy will also come before the annual meeting in St. Thomas. London is particularly interested in this matter, since the principal figure in it was once pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church here. However, interest throughout the whole of Ontario has been created in the feud which has been conducted by Mr. Shields and his congregation at Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, and the discussion promises to be most comprehensive.

Opening on Friday afternoon, the Baptist convention will continue for a full week and will attract between 400 and 500 delegates from these two provinces. S. J. Moore, president of the convention, will preside, and a thoughtful review made of the church's activities so as to formulate effective plans for the future.

All of the Baptist ministers and a considerable representation of laymen will go from London. Many of the local pastors are to give reports or addresses on matters which they are particularly conversant.

U. S. GLAD TO HAVE DOMINIONS THERE

Pointed Out They Are Most Interested In Pacific.

THINK HUGHES CARELESS

Must Have Known U. S. Could Not "Slam Door."

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The announcement that three of the British self-governing dominions are to be represented directly in the Washington conference is the good news to the people of the United States, declares The Tribune in an editorial this morning. Noting that latest reports include Canada, Australia and South Africa are to name members of the British delegation, which is to be increased in size from four to six, and the dominions will thus have three voices to Great Britain's three, the paper continues: "Canada and Australia are Pacific powers. South Africa's interests are Eastern rather than Western. They have all come to view the Pacific problem much as the United States does. They want to avoid trouble over China and over vexed issues like immigration. Americans would be loth to see them without spokesmen in a council which, it is hoped, will clear up a situation as threatening to their future as it is to ours.

"Premier Hughes must have spoken a little carelessly when he told the Australian House that Australia had been endeavoring to name a delegate in her own right 'until America slammed the door'. The United States could not properly invite the dominions to sit in the conference of their own right. Their status with regard to other nations is still somewhat indeterminate, in spite of Premier Lloyd George's statements at the opening of the recent imperial conference in London. The British Government has not yet notified the world that so far as international relations are concerned they are independent states.

"But on whatever footing they may come to Washington they will be welcome. They belong to that part of the world to which the center of international gravity is shifting. They sense the difficulties there all the better because they are home difficulties. They will help greatly to promote a settlement of Pacific problems which will respond to Western and Far Eastern rather than to European needs.

TUNNEL DEATH LIST WILL APPROXIMATE 40

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The death list in the St. Lazare tunnel disaster probably will approximate 40. Two burned bodies were recovered to-day when the last of the wreckage was removed. One of these was identified; the other is believed to be that of a woman. The bodies recovered number 30 and 10 persons are missing. Some of them may possibly have been saved, but they have not communicated with the police. There remain a number of arms, legs and parts of burned bodies, found, which may have belonged to the burned bodies, but they are thought to be all that was left of the missing persons. Identification in several instances was made by documents which had not been burned, although the bodies were charred beyond recognition.

Charlie To Do His Traveling Among Clouds

PARIS, Oct. 8.—Before he flew to London this morning, Charlie Chaplin placed with an airplane concern here an order for an aerolimousine of the latest type.

It is to be elaborately upholstered in morocco leather and will bear as his crest and coat of arms a comical derby hat.

The comedian says he will do all his future American traveling among the clouds.

SHERIFF MAY RESIGN MONDAY

Formal Action By Middlesex Officials Is Forecasted.

MANY BID FOR THE JOB

Offices of Sheriff and Jail Governor May Be Consolidated.

It is expected that Sheriff Donald M. Cameron's resignation will be handed to a Government representative on Monday, according to reliable information received by The Free Press to-day.

The sheriff was approached by a Government representative some days ago regarding his resignation, and at that time the sheriff intimated that he would take the matter up directly with the Government. The official again waited on Sheriff Cameron yesterday in regard to the matter, and it is said that the sheriff requested another couple of days to consider it, but it is understood now that the resignation will be forthcoming on Monday.

In a report on the escape of William and Sidney Murrell, two alleged murderers, from the county jail on September 2, Deputy Attorney-General Bayly recommended that Sheriff Cameron resign his position. The recommendation was brought to the attention of the sheriff, but he has refused to make any comment on the matter.

It is said that there are several making a bid for the vacancy which will occur with the resignation of the present holder of the office. Only two names at present have been mentioned, however, that of the deputy sheriff, B. F. Watterworth, who appears to be in line for the position if the Drury Government continues its policy of filling vacant Government positions by appointment, and E. A. Pocock, who has been mentioned as a possibility by some local labor men.

It has been intimated that the offices of sheriff, high constable and governor of the jail would be combined when a new appointment was made. This would, however, not do away with the office of sheriff, but would merely give the sheriff additional powers in the administration of the jail. There is no possibility of doing away with the sheriff's office, although a combination of the offices might possibly go under a different name.

BUILDING BURNS AT PORT STANLEY

Ashton Store and Dwelling Destroyed Late At Night.

TENANTS GET OUT SAFELY

Stock and Equipment of Stores Completely Gone.

PORT STANLEY, Oct. 8.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Fire destroyed one of the old landmarks of Port Stanley late last night, when the building opposite the L. & P. S. station, owned by James Standfield, of Windsor, and occupied by A. J. Ashton, of London, was razed. The building included a store, restaurant and annex, and they were all completely wiped out. The loss is estimated at no less than $8,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashton, who occupied rooms at the back of the building, were asleep when the fire started and had to make their escape in night attire. They lost everything of their personal possessions, in addition to their large store stock and restaurant equipment.

CIVIL POLICE UNABLE TO MAINTAIN ORDER IN MALABAR DISTRICT

LONDON, Oct. 8.—(Canadian Press Cable).—According to a Reuter dispatch from Simla, a general staff review of the situation at Malabar states that the Moplahs recently have changed their tactics and are no longer giving open battle, but are relying upon ambushes and guerilla warfare, returning to loot and destroy places after troops have restored order. Difficulty is being experienced owing to the fact that there are at present practically no civil police capable of maintaining order after it has been restored by the military.

The Moplahs have avoided military columns on all occasions except where there is a chance to accomplish a successful ambush. Therefore it has been deemed necessary to increase the number of troops employed by reinforcements, including a battalion of Gurkhas, a battalion of Burmese with howitzer and wireless equipment and motor transport. Infantry have been specially selected for their experience in jungle work.

SNOW IN MANITOBA

Half an Inch Reported to Have Fallen in Marquette.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 8.—Half an inch of snow is reported to have fallen on Thursday evening at Marquette, Man. A light snow also is reported from Reaburn. These are the first reports of snow in this province, although a very slight flurry occurred here yesterday noon, lasting a few minutes.

FIVE-ACRE SPORT GROUNDS FOR G.T.

Grand Stand Will Be Erected In the Spring.

GRADING NOW UNDER WAY

Will Meet Long-Felt Want In Sports.

A gang of men, with teams, are busily engaged grading land of the G. T. R. in East London, west of Egerton street, which covers an area of approximately five acres, that will become permanent recreation grounds for G. T. R. employees when work is completed.

Mr. Lewis, president of the G. T. R. Car Shops Athletic Association, stated to-day that the work of grading will be completed in about three weeks, after which it will be completely seeded and rolled and work on a skating rink, together with a place to change shoes and skates, and a refreshment room, will be commenced.

It is the plans of the athletic association to erect large covered and open grand stands in the early spring, something after the style of the stands in the Western Fair, for the accommodation of several thousand sport fans of the district.

When the recreation grounds are completed London will be second to none in Western Ontario for the accommodation of all local baseball, football, basket ball, rugby enthusiasts and others.

In the spring it is the intention of the Athletic officials to map out a baseball diamond in front of the grand stand, together with tennis nets, basket ball equipment, bowling greens and all other sport features.

Mr. Lewis stated that the grounds and buildings were being put in shape and erected at enormous expense and that although they would be able to handle all of the work it would take a large sum of money to keep it going.

To meet these great demands, he added, he did not doubt that the manufacturers' associations and others would come to their aid by holding their sports there and charging a nominal fee for the admission of the fans.

LABOR ANXIOUS TO ACT AT ONCE

Not Willing To Wait Government Relief Program.

TILLETT'S MANIFESTO

Says Coming Winter a Testing Time In Britain.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The pressure of the unemployment problem is steadily increasing, and intense anxiety is being manifested by labor organizations, manufacturers and the public, regarding the plan which the Government is formulating to deal with it.

A joint conference of labor leaders yesterday accepted the premier's invitation to advise with the Cabinet next week on the question, but the Laborites revealed in an exchange of communications with Mr. Lloyd George their desire to begin discussions immediately. They consented merely to examine the Government's proposal, explicitly disassociating themselves from responsibility for the policy to be adopted by the Government.

Ben Tillett, Labor member of Parliament and organizer of the Dockers Union, of which for many years he has been general secretary, in a manifesto last night declared: "Bankruptcy stares us in the face. This winter will be the testing time for working class organization. Every form of government is in a state of panic or ruin, and whether it will be imperial or national, Government disaster depends on the administration, but whatever the chaos of accumulated debts, labor and industry will have to meet their impost."

He urges the co-operation of all trade unions to compel Government assistance.

A JOINT CONFERENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press Cable.)—The vital question of unemployment was considered to-day by a joint conference of the joint general council of the Trades Union Congress, Labor party executives and Labor M. P.'s during a two-hour session. In answer to a request from Mr. Lloyd George, the Laborites replied that they would appoint a committee to meet the prime minister early next week to confer regarding practical measures for dealing with what is considered as the present "national emergency."

The Cabinet also discussed the question at its afternoon session in an endeavor to put forward a plan which is now in its early stages.

LABORITES CAUTIOUS.

The Laborites' reply to Mr. Lloyd George said a committee would be appointed to "explain our proposals and examine any made by the Government, but not as members of any joint committee, including financiers and employers, as suggested by you. . . . Nor can our representatives be held responsible for the policy ultimately adopted by the Government."

Mr. Lloyd George replied in the afternoon that he would be glad to meet the committee "early next week." The conference then decided to send a further letter to the prime minister, which expressed surprise that he had failed to arrange an immediate meeting. The letter concluded:

"Our representatives have been appointed on the assumption that you probably would wish to meet them to-day, and the conference reassembled this afternoon in that belief."

MISS STIRLING ENTERS THE FINAL GOLF ROUND

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 8. — The woman's national golf championship tournament was in its final round to-day with Miss Alexa Stirling, who was born in Atlanta, Ga., but is a British subject, defending the title she won in 1916 and has since held.

The other survivor of the 164 starters in the week's competition was Miss Marion Hollins, of New York, who has been a factor in most of the recent national United States golf tournaments. At her best she can outdrive Miss Stirling, but is inclined to be erratic.

The final round to-day was scheduled for 36 holes.

TWENTY-SEVEN PER CENT. OF DOCTORS DID NOT ISSUE "PER" IN ONE MONTH

Health of Patients Has Not Suffered, Says Report of the Board.

In support of its action in issuing the order restricting the doctors to 50 "pers" a month, the Ontario Board of License Commissioners has issued a circular to physicians, giving the data regarding the number of permits issued during the months from March to August inclusive. It is pointed out that the number of doctors issuing over 50 permits monthly was considerably reduced in June, July and August.

In connection with this fact, Chairman of the Board James Hales says, in the circular, "Although classes D and E reduced prescriptions markedly in June, July and August, possibly as the result of the May circular, no ill effects upon the health of the patients have been reported."

The month of June was the most arid month so far as "pers" were concerned. The dispensaries during that month filled only 20,143 prescriptions. July was next with 31,264. August followed with 37,442, while April saw 48,289 filled and March set the pace with 53,183.

PRESCRIPTIONS ISSUED

In March 189 doctors issued from 51 to 75 prescriptions each, while in August only 70 medical men were in this class. There was also a reduction in the number who issued over 75 per month, as in August only five doctors gave out more than 75, while in March 86 doctors exceeded this number. In June there were only three who issued more than 75 "pers."

Of the 3,489 doctors of the province, 57.01 per cent. averaged less than 10 prescriptions for the month of August, while 27.37 per cent. did not issue any "pers", during that time. Thus 80 per cent. of the total is included in these two classes.

Referring to this circular it states: "It might reasonably be assumed that the standard set by this majority is not too low, under normal conditions, for the entire profession. A still more liberal average would be that of the next class, which is under 40 per month.

"It is gratifying to note that the number of physicians, who during the past three months issued more than 50 per month, amounted to fewer than three per cent. of the entire number. The maximum of 50 per month set by this board seems to be sufficiently high, and if this number is exceeded and a satisfactory explanation is not given, suspension must follow."

PRIVATE SHOWING OF FILMS FOR SCHOOLS

If Found Suitable Will Be Used to Warn of Venereal Disease.

Two films which are suggested for the use in public schools of the city will be privately shown next Friday by the local branch of the National Council for the Prevention of Venereal Diseases. If found suitable for general educational propaganda they will be exhibited before mothers' clubs, gatherings of school children and other meetings not open for the general public. It is understood that there will be no public viewing in any of the local theaters.

"Life's Beginnings" and "The Origin of Life" are the names of the two photoplays which are to be considered by the council next Friday, and the filming of them will probably take place in the Medical School. Neither of them have been shown in the city before, according to Secretary E. J. Jenkins, and are as yet unrecommended by any Canadian organization.

Education is the weapon with which the council intends to fight the spread of venereal diseases and the disaster it leaves in its train. Literature will be promulgated wherever it is needed and every use possible made of films which preach a moral lesson without appealing to the morbid or sensual instincts of the public.

It is not likely that any business apart from the consideration of the two films will be transacted during this inaugural fall meeting of the local council. Another session will probably be called by the president, Gordon Ingram, shortly after Friday, when other matters of peculiar interest to the council will be dealt with.

COMPLETE STUDIES BY NIGHT CLASSES

Seventy-Five Children Granted Work Permits Under Adolescent Act.

London may be the first Ontario city to inaugurate night classes for pupils who have not completed their public school education. A report from the school attendance officer was read at the meeting of the public school finance committee yesterday afternoon. This report shows that 75 children, granted work permits under the Adolescent Act, had only reached the sixth grade in the public schools. One, it was reported, had stopped school when in the third grade.

The matter was left in the hands of Inspector Edwards for a report and recommendations.

It was also reported that at the recent repayment of tickets sold on a prize automobile, which charitable sale was stopped by the attorney general's department, three well-dressed young women who applied for a refund were unable to sign their names. It was understood that they were not foreigners.

The committee also decided to notify women teachers that if any of them contemplate marriage, and have full warrant for announcing the date of the ceremony, they must give the Board of Education at least one month's notice in tendering their resignations.

AGREEMENT REACHED WITH PORT RAILWAY

Meeting of Officials with the Village Representatives Satisfactory.

Although nearly two months ago the directors of the London & Port Stanley road and property holdings of the company at Port Stanley approved the changes made in the plans and deeds, they decided to take another trip to the port on Friday to be certain that everything was entirely satisfactory.

In 1912 Mr. Richards, manager of the L. & P. S. R., stated, when the deeds of the property were transferred over to the company from the village, the plans called for 43 feet of the cafeteria to extend over the roadway, and to make everything clear it was either a case of changing the plans, the roadway or the cafeteria. In order to straighten everything out to the satisfaction of the company and the village, it was decided to make an allowance for the error and correct the plans to coincide with the present stand of the building.

Mr. Richards stated that the plans were approved of now and everything was satisfactory.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 8.—Up betimes and to find it a cool, blustery day, the worst we have had since the June floods. Which weather do make me feel pretty gloomy and to reflect on how the holiest of human emotions is our master in more ways than one. This emotion being love or affection, and without it, methinks, half the factories and shopps in the world would close down to-night for lack of workers, and such a lynching and burning as never was. For it is affection, not conscience, that doth make cowards of us all. For no man would bear any slight whatever, real or imagined, but for the thought in his mind of a trusting, loving wife; a son that looks at him with worship in his eyes; or a mother whose silver hair is worth all the golden dreams of distant ports. And so, suddenly, we grow old and no more adventure until we set sail with Captain Death.

A great pity to our city that we have just uncovered our own section of "Main Street." Methought, for a while, that we be not cursed with this highway of littleness, but here it is and hundreds hu'ng and crying down it because some of our high school pupils will have a dance. And others mighty quick to disclaim any responsibility for it, meanwhile giving pupils high permiss'on to dance themselves to the devil. And that is why our dance halls are filled with unchaperoned girls and the devil let loose amongst us without hindrance. Yet youth dance, let those that feel youthful dance, don't make them feel that they break Moses, his commandments, by so dancing! When I was a child I lived amongst people that criticize us because we play a game of "stealing partners"—a sort of skipping game to music—at a birthday feast of mine. Which my own patron saint considered a good game and clean. But at other parties I find the head deacon's fat son do shine at kissing games, and no one objects to that filthiness!

Which reminds me how father-in-law answers an advertisement of a sure fire escape, guaranteed to work, one dollar. So he sends for it and to-day gets a parcel. Testament worth about 10 cents!

Out on Richmond street, near Dundas, and to observe the drinking fountain which is filled with a green scum the filthiest looking I ever saw any drinking fountain in the world outside Mexico, one I see in Mexico City taking second place, for, while I have seen rurales washing their socks in that one, which is to one side of the cathedral (not the one in front), St. Louis knows I never saw any man wash his false teeth in it! And while I know that this green scum in our corner fountain is merely algae and harmless in itself, it do argue the greatest lack of attention in the world and should forthwith be remedied. And if our health board were on the alert they would have long since made it a four shilling fine on any adult person found drinking out of the bulb in these fountains, sucking it like an orange! I will drink after horses and small children, but heaven preserve me from drinking after false teeth!

Come a soap box expert and to roar at us for opposing free trade, he holding that free trade is the hope of this country. Which, mayhap, it is. But we be suspicious of these soap boxes and them that stand on them. As a platform it is mighty unstable. And their orators are also unstable. The trouble is they get bored! "Hurray for yon warr," when the bands play. But pretty soon they get bored with the warr and would stop it to the national disgrace and shame. Many of them are able to suggest how to save the country millions, but they go about pretty seedy to their clothes. They would help the unemployed, but their hands are soft. They grieve over this wrong and that scandal, but they live fat, many of them, on the charity of some silly woman!

Out to a meeting of trustees yesterday afternoon, and a mighty vain, silly meeting. For a report is before them that they organize night public school classes owing to some 175 children past 14 not being through public school. So they refer this matter to their inspectors for a report and more money to be spent for coddling, and meanwhile the technical school do have night classes for the very simplest subjects, but none of these trustees so much as mention it.

Another thing is reported how teachers resign so as to take full advantage of holidays, some of them. Which is like young clerks who send wires to their employers, when away on holidays, that they miss their train. And no curing of these missers until some fine day they miss their jobs. The holiday complex seems to be afflicting our schools. In September there were only 18 school days. Next week two more holidays for convention. Which is strange. The more I see of trustees and education the more I am convinced that our modern education is the most inefficient thing in the world. Why five days' school? Why two months' holidays? Why six and a half-hour days and continual building of new schools. Why not six days a week and two shifts daily—younger and older pupils? It is well to mortgage the future if there is reason for it, but business principles, real ones, have never yet been applied to education except here and there.

Russia may be all that the radicals report of it, but the local ticket offices say they have had no run on tickets to Petrograd, Odessa or Minsk.

Nephew tells me that they are banning Canadian history in the high schools. History may soon play the role of Priscilla to Jack Canuck's John Alden —"Why don't you speak for yourself, John?" And it is a peculiar thing that while the Union States is chiefly bothered and shamed with hyphenates, Canada's particular pest is the "pro" this or that. Pro-American, pro-Bolshevikl, and these pro-gressives. (Ed.—What about pro-hibition?)

In most magaz'nes lately I see wonderful full page advertisements of how to spend three dollars for a little book and forthwith make $10,000 a year. A friend of mine, who was once a cocaine eater, remarks that he knows a simpler way. "For 30 cents," he says, "I have been made an emperor for three days!"

The older I grow the more convinced I am that this life is not all, and that in another life I shall be able to remedy the mistakes of this.

REMANDED FOR AUTO THEFT.—Charles Langridge, charged with stealing an automobile in Springbank Park, was again before the court this morning and remanded until Friday next. Bail was renewed, Mrs. Langridge becoming surety for her husband's appearance.

CO-OPERATE TO AID BLIND BABIES

Child Welfare Associations Will Probably Build Institute.

ELEVEN BLIND INFANTS

Parents Can Not Afford To Care For Little Ones.

The various child welfare organizations throughout the province will probably co-operate in the establishment of a Canadian institute for blind babies. At the meeting of the Ontario branch of the Social Service Council executive in Toronto this week the need of such a building was forcibly impressed upon the members, which included T. D. McCullough, the district secretary.

Speaking to The Free Press the secretary pointed out that there was at present no home where infants who are blind through hereditary or accidental causes can secure treatment and education that will fit them to become useful citizens of the future. From meager statistics available it was shown that there were 11 infants in this province alone who are afflicted with total blindness.

LOWER STANDARDS.

Many of these children come from homes which cannot afford to send them to hospitals for treatment or to expensive tutors for specialized education. As the citizens of to-morrow they will lower the intellectual standards of the country, be a charge upon public charity and a disgrace to the country unless they are cared for.

It is pointed out that in other countries, such as the United States, institutions have been established and have a very successful record of not only learning the blind to read and write, but correcting the afflictions before they become incurable. When the blind are treated as infants they stand a much better chance for having their eyesight returned to normal than in later years. Without this treatment the babies are made to suffer for the sins of their parents or other circumstances over which they have no control.

City News

WEEKLY COURT.—Several motions were disposed of at the weekly sitting of the high court at the courthouse on Saturday by Justice Rose.

STOLEN BICYCLE.—The police have been notified of another stolen bicycle. This morning Warren Brown, of Marley Place, reported that his wheel had been stolen last evening from the rear of his house. The theft of bicycles, which seem to have abated for a few days, is evidently again becoming popular among its devotees.

THROWN FROM BICYCLE. — Walter Stock, 29 Rectory street, was the victim of a painful accident on Friday. While riding his bicycle to work he was struck by a motor truck and thrown from his wheel. He was badly bruised and shaken up, but examination revealed that no bones were broken. Dr. Spence attended him. The accident occurred at the corner of York and William streets.

WILL STILL BE USED AS STABLES —J. L. Willson, manager of the market branch of the Merchants Bank, declares, in answer to a report that the stables at the rear of the bank were to be sold for garage purposes, that as long as the property was owned by the bank it would provide stable accommodation for the farmers. Mr. Willson stated that the bank had had a number of opportunities to dispose of the property at several times the rental paid by the present tenants, but that the farmers of the district must have accommodation for their horses. It was pointed out that the stabling problem in London was becoming more acute each year. The stables at the rear of the bank, which are conducted by Mann Bros., will accommodate some 250 horses.

FUNERAL OF LOUIS VAIL.—The funeral of Louis Vail, of Delaware, was held from the family residence on Friday afternoon at 2.15 to Delaware Methodst Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Hopper at 2.30. Interment was made in Delaware Cemetery. The pallbearers were: R. Smith, J. Pinfold, H. James, A. E. Scott, M. Bodkin and F. Glosdale.

DEATH OF JOHN W. SHOEBOTTOM.—A former well-known citizen of this city passed away this morning in the person of John Wesley Shoebottom at his late residence, Wingham. The deceased, who was 65 years of age, was widely known and highly esteemed by all. He was a member of the English church and a strong Conservative. He was also an active member of the Orange Order. Those left to mourn his loss are his widow, Margaret, one brother, Richard, of London Township, and four sons, Thomas, Frank, William and Garfie'd, and one daughter, Mrs. Sam Marshall, all of Wingham. The funeral takes place on Monday afternoon from his late residence.

CLAIMS LETTER TO PREMIER HAD LIBEL

Action Between Glencoe Parties Entered In Supreme Court.

John Whitlock and Nathaniel Currie, of Middlesex County, have entered writs in the Supreme Court against George and Charles Webster, of Glencoe, asking unstated damages for libel.

The writs were issued by Elliott & Moss, of Glencoe, and the alleged libel complained of is said to have been published by the defendants in a letter written by them to Premier E. C. Drury on or about January 24, 1921. No information is available as to the alleged libelous statements which are purported to have been contained in the letter to the premier.

CARRY OFF WOUNDED

But in the future ones, as well as the one to-day, university upper classmen showed themselves gentlemen. Bound captives were furnished with bath robes while waiting for further developments so they might suffer no ill effects from the October morning chill. One poor chap got some green paint in his eye through fighting back, as he should, and no one could have been more solicitous for his comfort than the men that were initiating him. The paint was speedily removed and the victim removed from the scene of carnage with honors of war.

Joseph Imported Corn To Egypt From Springbank

Editor Free Press: Correspondents who have wielded the neighborhood fountain pen after sleeping in and beside a 40-gallon keg of hard cider have endeavored to tell you of the fine sassy corn that grows on the back fifty, but their remarks are mere idle chatter compared to the tale of wondrous corn that has grown in the real garden spot of Canada, Springbank Hill.

Be it known, Mr. Editor, that in the days of Joseph there was a great famine in the land and what is known in these days as an "S. O. S." was sent out to Egypt and garnered in by Joe. Now, there was corn in Egypt, but it was imported. From where? sez you, Why, from Springbank Hill, sez I, and from that time forth Springbank Hill was where the entire world sent for supplies of seed corn.

When London was but a mere village the farmers on the hill had to wait for a strong east wind in order that the stalks, when cut by knives weighing 100 tons, would fall in a westerly direction and not imperil the lives of the villagers. As time went on the practice of cutting corn became increasingly dangerous and finally a law was enacted prohibiting farmers at Springbank from growing corn.

It was discovered, by accident, that the finest fruit in all Canada could be grown on that little knoll, some 100 acres in extent, and the farmers on the hill, hating to see their fellow yeomen in Kent, Norfolk, Elgin and other counties starving to death, turned over their seed corn to them, with a little "bless you, my children," stuff thrown in for good measure, and turned to the profitable occupation of growing fruit for hungry London mouths to consume.

That citizens have appreciated their kind and generous impulses is shown by the ever-growing popularity of the plums, pears and berries grown on Springbank Hill, where King Corn once ruled.

I have read with disgust the articles sent in by country "blow hards" and felt that now was the opportune time to spring the truth, and nothing but the truth, as stated by your London police court clerk every day, on the vulgar public. Yours truly,

"CAN-YOU-BEAT-THAT" JONES.

TWO HUNDRED FINE FOR HAVING ALCOHOL

Spirits Used for Cleaning Sewing Machines, Magistrate is Told.

A sewing machine agent appeared in police court this morning charged with having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling. According to the story of the police the man was under the influence of liquor and, when arrested, a bottle partly filled with alcohol was found in his pocket.

This morning he told the court he used the alcohol for cleaning sewing machines and had not partaken of any of it. He admitted that he had been drinking in company with a man from Biddulph at the Grank Trunk station, but claimed that his friend furnished the liquor. The bottle of alcohol was not used for drinking purposes.

Acting Magistrate Bartlett said that in the first place the agent had no right to be in possession of the alcohol without a special permit. There was a section of the O. T. A. which permitted the possession of alcohol by manufacturers, but to get it, it was necessary to apply for a special permit. This the man had not done. His honor was also inclined to cast doubt upon the story about "the man from Biddulph." He was of the opinion that the alcohol had been used for drinking purposes. A man was found under the influence of liquor. In his pocket was a bottle of alcohol. The natural inference was that the alcohol furnished the foundation for the intoxication, particularly since the prisoner's story about the friend from Biddulph, whose name he could not supply, was not corroborated. His honor held that the charge had been proven and imposed a fine of $200 and costs or three months in jail.

U. F. O. IN NORTH BRUCE.

CARGILL, Oct. 7.—A convention of the U. F. O. and U. F. W. O. of the North Bruce riding was held on Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the approaching federal election and appointing directors for the coming year. Ninety delegates from the different townships in the riding were present and speeches were delivered by H. Aiken, Allenford; James Johnston, county director, Underwod; R. E. Steacy, the U. F. O. candidate, and others. Harry Aiken was chairman.

Officers for political organization were elected as follows: President, James Johnston, Underwood; vice-president, Harry Aiken, Allenford; directors, N. E. Leeder, Saugeen; Mrs. McKinnon, Allenford; Miss Reta Rathwell, Amabel.

Mr. Harry Aiken of Allenford, county director for the past two years, retired from office and was supplemented by Mr. James Johnston, of Underwood. Mrs. D. C. McKinnon, of Allenford, was reappointed county directress for the U. F. W. O., and Miss Reta Rathwell, of Amabel, was reappointed directress of the U. F. Y. P. O.

Township directors were elected as follows: Kincardine Township, Robert Scott and Mrs. Roderick McLeod; Bruce Township, Mr. McKenzie and Mrs. Lamont; Saugeen Township, Robt. McEwing and Mrs. Lacey; Arran Township, D. C. McKinnon and Mrs. Morrow; Amabel Township, David Craig and Miss R. Steacy; Albermarle Township, Donald Cameron and Geo. Givens; Eastnor Township, Jas. Ceasar and Mrs. N. Landon; Lindsay, Daniel Martin and Mrs. D. Martin; St. Edmunds Township, E. J. Hopkins and Mrs. Hopkins.

It was the largest and most representative U. F. O. meeting which has probably ever been held in Bruce County. Plans were discussed for the campaign in North Bruce in the approaching election.

BEET SUGAR AT $8.50 OFFERED

Canadian Product Marketed For First Time To-Day.

BELOW OTHER BRANDS

Is 50 Cents Below the Wholesale Quotations.

As anticipated the beet sugar, which was marketed for the first time to-day, is underselling all the other brands of granulated. The initial retail price at which the product is offered is $8.50 per cwt., or 50 cents below the wholesale quotations of other refiners.

Although this is the lowest figure at which the commodity has sold for two years, it is expected that further slumps are inevitable. The beets are grown and refined in this province, so that the dealers are enabled to underbid their competitors on account of low transportation costs and freedom from duty or exchange.

The Canadian company is now in a position to give an intelligent report on the crop conditions, which have a material bearing on the future costs. Indications are that the crop is in excess if anything of last year and that the prospects of cheaper sugar are much brighter than they have been in the past.

The taste of the beet sugar cannot be distinguished from the cane product, it is stated. In every way it is the equal of the sugar which comes from Cuba and has the additional advantage of being freshly marketed.

PRICE OF GOODS.—Ivey, Elliott & Ivey, acting for John C. Green & Co., Limited, have issued a writ in the county court against Mrs. M. Bellamy, of Orono, Ont., for $789.83, which they claim is due as a balance of the price goods sold and delivered by the plaintiffs to the defendant.

SERVICE CHARGE FOR CITY WATER

Propose To Do Away With the Minimum Rate.

INDEPENDENT OF WATER

Follow Same Plan As Used For Hydro.

Minimum water rates will probably be done away with in 1922 and replaced by a service charge. The plan proposed was outlined by Manager E. V. Buchanan to-day.

Under this proposed system citizens will pay a fixed charge based on the number of rooms in a house supplied with running water, and the number of fixtures will be taken into consideration.

That charge will be independent of water consumed and will be imposed whether the individual consumption is one gallon, 1,000 gallons or no water whatever. Meters will be used to keep track of actual consumption, and citizens will only be charged for the amounts shown by the meter.

AERATION PLANT IS COMPLETE SUCCESS

Will Improve Quality of London's Drinking Water.

Report from the company installing filters for the waterworks department, received to-day by the Public Utilities, shows that the experimental aeration plant erected is an entire success. This experimental plant was erected by local hydro engineers.

Under the model system, which will be duplicated in the larger permanent plant, iron will be eliminated and sulphur odor and taste removed.

Raw water analyzed shows eight parts of iron in a given quantity of the well fluid. After aeration, settling and filtration only one part remains. Turbidity is reduced from six to one by the system and the oxygen content increased from four to nine.

Work is now well under way on the new filter house, which is being built of brick taken up from the city streets.

TRUSTEE FAVORS STUDENT DANCES

Restrictions Should Not Be Too Rigid, Says Trustee Rowe.

SHIMMY IS BARRED

But Understood Moderate Dancing Is Generally Approved.

That the restrictions regarding dancing in the collegiate and other similar institutions should not be too rigid is the opinion expressed by Trustee Rowe to-day with reference to the situation created by the students of the L. C. I. who last night staged a dance in the Palace Dancing Academy. Other trustees hold the same views, but they are not yet ready to give these views to the public. But it is intimated that if the collegiate students wish to hold a dance some time this fall, and care to confine themselves to the dances that are approved by the moderate devotees of this sport, the board may be willing to give its sanction to such. Whether the students will request one to be held under the supervision of the collegiate teachers is not known, but it is rather well assured they will be given permission to do so if they wish to give such a dance.

QUESTIONABLE AMUSEMENT.

"While I am not an advocate of dancing to an unlimited extent I believe that the young people of to-day are driven to questionable amusements often by the rigid restrictions maintained in the public institutions and in the homes," said Mr. Rowe. "So far as I am concerned I would be willing to allow the students of the collegiate to hold a dance under the supervision of the teachers. The latest dances, such as the shimmy and similar ones, would not be permitted, however. And the pupils would not be allowed to dance all night; the entertainment would break up at a reasonable hour."

The students in former years have asked permission to hold dances in connection with some of the collegiate sports and entertainments, but the board has invariably referred the question to the principal, with the result that the dances were not allowed. But the trustees are changing their views somewhat on the question now, and it is the opinion in educational circles that the collegiate pupils may be permitted to stage a dance in the near future under proper supervision.

Trustee Rowe, pointing out that he is not at all inclined to favor dancing to any great extent, related an instance which came under his notice during the last summer. He knows a church in Cleveland where the minister plays the piano while the members of the congregation dance at some of the social gatherings. The dancing is done in the basement of the church building. But Mr. Rowe would not advocate this for the local churches. On the other hand, he contends that the homes and some of the public institutions might relax the restrictions with regard to dancing, with benefit to the welfare of the general public.

GISTRATE IS NAMED FOR DUFFERIN COUNTY

RONTO, Oct. 7.—The Ontario Government has apointed three more magistrates with wide jurisdiction, Charles Burgess, of Port Credit, is appointed for the County of Peel, and Hugh Fallon for the County of Dufferin. Edward Arthurs, police magistrate of Espanola, has had his jurisdiction enlarged to cover several new townships.

WESTERN MEDS OF '12 GET TOGETHER

First Reunion of "Old Gang" Since Graduation

VISIT THE OLD SCENES

Plant a Memorial Elm and Deposit "Funeral" Wreath

The first class of Western University Medical School to hold a reunion, meds '12, closed its varied program, which included attendance at the Academy of Medicine clinic, by a banquet at the Tecumseh House last night, where years dropped away under the magic influence of fellowships renewed, and grave doctors, men of affairs in communities all the way from New York City to the great West, became boys again and once more caught the joyous gleam of youthful hopes which have been so splendidly realized by the members of the duo-decennial year.

The banquet at the Tecumseh House was unique in many ways. There was no formality, no formal speeches, but every man was expected to speak as the spirit moved him, and the result was that for the most part everybody spoke at once.

THE DAYS BEFORE '17.

True, there were moments of gloom, for in every class member's mind was a picture of utter woe. For in their drive about the city, fittingly enough in a sad, drear rain, they passed the tavern which will be known to history as "Jerry MacDonald's." But, alas and several dolorous alacks, the good old days have gone, never to return. No more will roystering students, intoxicated, be it understood, with youthful spirits and a small portion of nut brown ale, cross the moat there; there may be moaning, but it will not be of the bar!

But even that incident and memory took on the hue of optimism. For the class of '22 may boast its new medical school and the first to graduate from it, but '12 will remember that they had "Jerry's." A funeral wreath was left over the doorway of the now historic tavern, with the inscription, "Ichabod," the glory of Israel has departed. But underneath was the picture of a cat. The suggestion is that the cat came back.

But there were other memories as impromptu singers broke into "Auld Lang Syne." With interlocked hands the room rang with the melody and the memory of it, the joy and the sorrow of the song of he-men's friendship. For meds '12 did its bit in the war. They said very little about it, but it made their eyes shine to think of comrades that served efficiently and heroically in the French country, of comrades that served heroically and efficiently at home. Binding up the wounds of war, soothing shattered nerves, running the daily risks of war-born infections.

PLANT MEMORIAL ELM.

Class '12 planted an elm tree this afternoon as a memorial to their hopes. Before many years this tree and other trees to follow will shelter medical students still unborn. The doctors, in their less hilarious moments, thought this was a wonderful idea. A sort of continuation, a living proof to those that come after that the men of the now were the same at heart as the men of the future.

John Nash came in for an ovation from the class members. Mr. Nash is honorary historian of the class, a lineal descendant of the vergers of old Eton and Rugby. He is the caretaker for the new medical school; he served in the old. He is an honorary historian, but he is loved most for the things he knows and will never tell. Did or do ghosts walk in the vicinity of the anatomical laboratory? John Nash knows, but he is not telling. He knows the alumni of Western by their first names; the Western graduates are proud to have him call them "John, Henry or Bill."

The reunion was a success from every point of view. Members came from New York, Detroit, Hamilton, Toronto and all over Western Ontario. All of them were proud of Western medical, all glad of their alma mater's progress and future. The class consists of 42 members. Those not present sent letters and telegrams.

EVERY FIVE YEARS.

Meds '12 will hold a reunion every five years, hence they will meet again in 1926. But the significant thing is that they are the first of the medical school's classes of graduates to hold a reunion. Others are already organizing for future gatherings. Next year meds '13 will undoubtedly gather here; older classes have plans under way.

The movement is hailed with delight by the governors and faculty of the university. Nothing stimulates university pride so much as the perpetuation of class organization and spirit after graduation. From the purely practical side the class of 1912 has started a big thing for Western.

But these reunions will stimulate esprit de corps amongst undergraduates and will foster noble emulation amongst the growing roster of graduates. Some day in the future Western will hold its first centennial. The class organization now begun will lead up to that climatic point.

FATTY IS CHARGED WITH VIOLATING DRY LAWS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 7.—Roscoe Arbuckle, who came here to-day from his home in Los Angeles to face a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, was served with a federal warrant, charging the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, as he left the Superior Court building.

Arbuckle's arrest to-day grew out of his alleged violation of the Volstead Prohibition Act on September 5, the date of the hotel party, following which the death of Miss Rappe occurred.

He was brought before Thomas Hayden, United States commissioner, and released on $500 bonds for hearing on October 13, the same date on which he is to enter a plea to the manslaughter charge.

Arbuckle grinned broadly when a newspaper photographer unexpectedly took a flashlight picture in the federal commissioner's office, startling the small group present. He departed for his home late to-day.

NEW ORGANIST IS TENDERED RECEPTION

Theodore Gray, formerly organist of the Presbyterian Church in Glencoe, was formally welcomed on Thursday night at a musical rally held in the Robinson Memorial Church.

Following the rally and musical practice and entertainment, a social evening was held and addresses of welcome were read by the pastor of the church, Rev. W. L. Hiles, on behalf of the church; Mr. Putherbough, on behalf of the musical committee, and Mr. Lince, president of the choir, to which Mr. Gray responded fittingly.

Although the pipe organ was installed and ready for use on June 1 the church committee have been unable to obtain a suitable person for the position until Mr. Gray's term with the Glencoe church was finished.

He will be officially installed as organist to-morrow morning, when a special musical service will be held.

A. G. MORRIS IS NEW PRESIDENT

Chosen by East Middlesex Teachers' Institute

INTERESTING DEBATES

Means to Secure More Regular Attendance Sought

A. G. Morris yas yesterday elected president of the East Middlesex Teachers' Institute at the concluding session of the two-day annual convocation of that organization held here in the county buildings. As his executive Mr. Morris will have Miss Limon, vice-president; Miss Frances Cleveland, secretary; J. A. McNaughton treasurer; P. J Thompson, librarian, and Miss Christine Howlett and Messrs. Doan and Lewis as the additional members of the executive.

The decision that the consolidated school, as now being introduced through the rural districts of Ontario, is more efficient and more economical than the "Little Red School," was reached after a most interesting debate, in which Miss Neva Haskett and Mr. A. G. Morris upheld the policy of the little red school, the opposition being effectually taken by Mr. Edward Lewis and Miss Evelyn Bankes. The debate proved highly interesting and entertaining, and some valuable data pro and con. was secured, greater concentration in the one-room school being, in the opinion of the negative debaters, counteracted by the increased efficiency obtainable at a lessened expenditure in the consolidated school.

MANY CONFERENCES.

Conferences occupied the main part of the afternoon session, and the teachers took part in opportune discussions on such matters as "Play in the Schools," "Home Work" and a regular attendance standard. That organized supervised play and sports are coming to be considered important branches of the school curriculum was the opinion expressed.

Home work in modification, and only such home work as may be beneficially undertaken by the child alone, was the institute's finding on the question, the subsequent discussion bringing out many important points. With regard to attendance, the teachers were of the opinion that a sufficient interest, supplied through competition and some novelty methods, would insure regularity of attendance on the part of the children. A chapter of some interesting book, some unexpected music or community singing were suggested as additional school attractions.

Leading in these discussions were J. A. McLeish, Clifton Braithwaite, Miss Shirley Luton, Miss Margaret Leitch, Miss Charlotte Garrett and Miss Isabel Knisely.

CONVENTION REPORTS.

Comprehensive reports of the O. E. A convention in Toronto last spring were presented by Miss Cleveland and Miss Patterson, and delightful talks on "The Development of Appearance, Manners and Habits" were given by the Misses Dale and Evans.

The morning session included a clever address from Miss Clara Elliott on "Domestic Art in the Ungraded School" and a demonstration of composition teaching, taken by Miss Christine Howlett and Miss M. McGugan.

For the next Northern Ontario trip, the president, A. G. Morris, and Miss Helen Patternson have been appointed delegates, while the retiring president, Miss Blanche Silcox, was named delegate to the 1922 convention of the O. E. A.

As a conclusion to a most successful gathering some suggestions were made for the 1922 convention, including an Oxford debate and discussions on "Art in the Ungraded Schools" and "School Management and Punishment."

TREAT TUMOR OF BRAIN WITH AIR

Dr. Dandy, of Johns Hopkins, Explains Advanced Methods

ADDRESSES ACADEMY HERE

Dr. Neu and Dr. McRoberts Tell of Other Diseases

The most advanced method of treating brain tumors consists of injecting air into the brain cells and localizing the growth with the aid of the X-ray. A full explanation of this new departure was given before the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine at its first fall session yesterday by Dr. Walter E. Dandy, of Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, who is regarded as one of the outstanding brain surgeons on the continent.

In point of attendance and standard of lectures given Friday's session of the academy was the most successful yet held. More than 200 medical practitioners from all parts of the province were here to hear the three noted speakers, Dr. Dandy, Dr. Charles F. Neu, of the department of neurology, University of Indiana, Indianapolis, who dealt with "sleeping sickness," and Dr. Russell G. McRoberts, professor of neurology in New York, who told of the progress which had been made in the cure of epilepsy.

Dr. F. W. Hughes, president of the academy, expressed himself as being well pleased with the attendance at the session and urged that the other meetings which will be held be just as representive of the district doctors. The profession should be united for the spreading propaganda and for the stopping the spread of disease.

Dr. Dandy, in his opening remarks, stated that brain surgery had been badly handled, and that it was useless to deny that surgery had failed on the brain because it was built on a foundation of guesswork. It hadn't kept pace with the other fields of medical science and doctors had bungled in the difficult and hazardous effort to remove tumors.

Brain tumors, he said, were not infrequent, and it was the third most important affliction at the hospital with which he is connected. A discovery, however, that would help to a great degree in the work was pneumography or X-raying air-filled brain cells. He stated that he has yet never failed to make an accurate diagnosis, but pointed out that a man must be very skilled before he attempts the treatment as the mortality was high. One hundred slides, illustrating this and other techniques were shown.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.

Sleeping sickness, Dr. Neu explained in his address, was often overlooked because the symptoms of vomiting, pains in the back and temporary blindness may often be overlooked. The affliction comes at all ages, although principally between 25 and 50, and it is more frequent among the males. February and March were the most common months for it to occur in. If a person becomes comatose earlier in the sickness he had a better chance for recovery. The disease was prevalent all over the world, and was fatal in between 25 to 30 per cent. of the cases. Quietness and adequate nourishment helped in the cure, and morphine was often effective. Although it is known to be contagious, sleeping sickness does not necessarily follow a flu epidemic.

Operations were held by Dr. McRoberts to be of little value in the treatment of epilepsy.. Convulsions, he pointed out, did not justify surgical exploits. Head injuries were not to blame for the malady, nor could alcohol be held responsible. The real cause was within the brain, as treatments in a London hospital had shown conclusively. One-fourth of the cases were cured by proper treatment.

A luncheon was tendered at the Tecumseh House at noon to the visiting medicos, and at this there were no addresses. One of the guests was John Nash, who for more than 20 years has been janitor at the medical school. Mr. Nash, who is well up in years, is a great favorite with the graduates of the school. He thoroughly enjoyed himself and stated afterwards that "they are a great bunch of boys if you understand them." Mr. Nash became janitor at the medical school in 1900.

FEARED TWO HALIFAX YOUTHS ON PERILOUS TRIP HAVE PERISHED

NEWPORT, R.I., Oct. 7.—A 16-foot open boat named the "Vet," believed by the police to be that in which two Halifax youths, Arthur Sprague and J. H. Engle, started from that port on a cruise to Vancouver, B.C., was found half submerged near Seconet Light, in Narragansett Bay late to-day. The craft contained some old clothing, a water jug and a pair of oars. No word concerning the little craft's occupants has been received here.

The "Vet," in which the Halifax boys started their long cruise, was reported at Boston on September 27, and is believed to have left the next day. It has not been heard from since.

HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE TO NORTH END HOME

Fire, thought to have originated from a gas stove supposed to have been left burning in a rear kitchen, did serious damage to the home of A. Wigle, 189 College avenue, about 8 o'clock last night. It is estimated that damage to the extent of $5,000 was done.

No one was at home when the fire broke out, and when first observed had gained considerable headway. When the firemen arrived the blaze had eaten its way through the roof, and three streams were directed on the blaze before it was extinguished.

Furniture throughout the house suffered severe and probably total loss from water and smoke.

J. B. HAY, LONDON, CHOSEN GOVERNOR

Elected Head of Kiwanians of Ontario and Quebec

CONVENTION AT MONTREAL

Chet Gibson, of St. Thomas, Is Elected Secretary

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—(Special to The Free Press)—Montreal Kiwanis convention, of the Quebec and Ontario district, to-day elected J. B. Hay, of London, as governor for the coming year. The new secretary will be Chet Gibson, of St. Thomas. The lieutenant-governors are Stewart De Laronde, of Ottawa, and J. St. Clair, of Toronto.

The new governor presided at a banquet, attended by 500 delegates, at the Windsor Hotel to-night. The feature of the afternoon session was a speech by Verne Buchanan, of the Ingersoll Kiwanis Club, who made an earnest plea for a better understanding between the English and French races of Canada.

A resolution presented by the London club asking that the object of the district be made the caring for "underprivileged" boys, was carried unanimously. The work which London has carried on so successfully will now be taken up by all the clubs of the district.

The next convention will be held in Windsor.

CONVICTED OF BIGAMY

HALIFAX, N.S., Oct. 7.—Frederick G. Richardson, of Halifax, Reno, Nev., and Windsor, Ont., was found guilty of bigamy in the Supreme Court here this afternoon, Justice Wallace reserving sentence until his counsel could be heard. Evidence was submitted to the court to show that Richardson married in England in 1886 and lived there with his wife some 18 years, after which he came to Canada alone. Correspondence between Richardson and his wife gradually ceased.

About 10 years ago Richardson went to Reno, where he obtained a divorce. He returned then to Halifax and went through a form of marriage here, but on account of complications did not return to Reno as he had intended. In 1920 he went to Windsor, Ontario.

Judge Wallace's judgment held that "the facts justify me in declining to regard the evidence of intention and of residence at Reno as conferring domiciliary jurisdiction upon the Reno court."

SAYS FARMERS' PARTY CANNOT BE PERMANENT

Glasgow Herald's View of the Approaching Election in This Country

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Glasgow Herald, in an editorial article on the forthcoming Canadian elections, thinks that the Labor party in Canada is so strongly individualistic that it is unlikely to win much support for its proposals, comprising state ownership.

A good deal of Labor's thunder has been stolen by the Farmers' party, the rise of which, says the editorial, is by far the most outstanding feature of present day politics. While one cannot but sympathize with many of their aims, it is a matter of national politics.

Whatever may be the success of the farmers in the elections and what function it may serve in a modification of the economic policy it can never take a permanent place in the political life of the country.

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—"The agrarian or progressive party is not a factor in federal politics in Quebec, and in the interests of all Canada I hope it will not be a factor in the general results of the approaching election" said the Hon. Rodolph Lemieux, one of the leaders of Liberalism, in an interview to-day.

ARRIVAL OF AN AUTO SAVES MRS. TRUMBLE FROM BEING ROBBED

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—Prompt arrival of assistance saved Mrs. Trumble, widow of the late Beverly Trumble, Sandwich hotel proprietor, from being robbed of several thousand dollars worth of jewelry early this morning.

Five men drove up to the Trumble home on Sunset avenue before daylight and, after forcing entrance to the house, kept Mrs. Trumble and her housekeeper covered with guns while they ransacked the place.

As they were about to depart with their booty, the sound of an auto arriving next door frightened the bandits and they escaped through a rear entrance without waiting to pick up stuff they had collected in a pile in a downstairs room.

OBJECT TO NEW SCALE FOR WOMEN WORKERS

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—The Canadian Founders and Metal Trades' Association has issued to all its members a new scale of wage rates for the industry, and the reduction is causing considerable resentment in labor circles. One of the business agents declared that the new schedule would allow from $9.60 to $14.50 a week to female press hands, and that such a wage could not be considered fair.

MEHARG IS FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

Former Elgin County Youth Convicted at Hamilton

PATHETIC SCENE IN COURT

Mother Sobs and Prays for Her Son's Life

HAMILTON, Oct. 7.—Wilfrid Meharg, aged 22, formerly of Vienna, Ont., was this afternoon found guilty of murdering Dr. E. J. Whitworth, of Binbrook, on December 23 last, and sentence will be passed upon him by Chief Justice Mulock before the completion of the court.

When the foreman of the jury announced a verdict of "guilty" Meharg fell over on his side in the prisoner's box, and tottered when being removed from the courtroom.

A distressing sight was the presence of the father and mother of the prisoner in the courtroom during the summing-up, the mother sobbing and praying for her son's life.

His lordship, addressing the jury, said it was a sad sight to see the brokenhearted parents of the prisoner in court, but society must be protected and the jury must base their findings on the evidence and not on sympathy.

Edward Dickenson, who was acquitted of the charge of murdering Dr. Whitworth, pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of money during the hold-up in which Dr. Whitworth was shot. He will be sentenced later.

The conviction of Meharg closes one of the most interesting murder trials in the history of Hamilton. Working on the fact that two men entered the Laidman store at Binbrook on December 23, and shot Dr. Whitworth, who was attending it, the police, with the aid of slender clues were able to capture the two who entered the place and three others who were with them.

G. T. TRAIN HITS AUTO, TWO DEAD

Another Rushed to Hospital in Serious Condition

ACCIDENT NEAR GRIMSBY

One of Dead Member of Well-Known Musical Family

GRIMSBY, Oct., 7.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Andrew Yeager, aged 51, Miss Hildred Eckardt, aged 20, both of Grimsby, are dead, and Lloyd Yearger, aged 20, is lying in Hamilton Hospital in a serious condition, as a result of their auto being struck by an eastbound G.T.R. flyer at 3.35 this afternoon.

The car, with Lloyd Yeager driving, was proceeding south over the level crossing, east of the town, and apparently did not hear the electric warning bell, or see the train. The engine struck the rear end of the car on the right side with such force that Mr. Yeager, Sr., was thrown out on the cowcatcher. His head was badly crushed and practically every bone in his body broken. He leaves one daughter besides the injured son and his widow.

OF WELL-KNOWN FAMILY.

Mrs. Eckardt was injured about the head and body, and died almost instantly. She was a daughter of Thomas and Mrs. Eckardt, and one of the famous family of "Musical Eckardts."

Lloyd Yeager did not lose consciousness and was rushed to Hamilton Hospital by Dr. McLay on a westbound engine and caboose.

The engine threw the car against the crossing fence, smashing the posts off close to the ground and thence into the ditch.

The accident to-day brings the total number of Grimsby people killed on two level crossings here in 18 years up to 10.

MOTORMAN ARRESTED IN TORONTO FOR THEFT OF $70,000 AT ITHACA

TORONTO, Oct. 7. — Wanted in Ithaca, N.Y., on a charge of robbing a bank and the theft of $70,000 in cash and bonds, Carl Sharrow, a motorman on the Toronto Street Railway, was arrested here and taken back to Ithaca by Sheriff Skilling, of that town. He was arrested as he came off duty at the car barns.

Sharrow is charged jointly with his brother, now in Ithaca. At the police headquarters to-day he denied the charge and said he would waive extradition proceedings and go back to face the accusation.

Sheriff Skilling left here at 3.15 this afternoon with his prisoner for Ithaca.

U. S. GRANGE IS FOR PROTECTION

Farmers Believe in Safeguarding Home Market

MR. GLASS AT THORNDALE

West Nissouri Organizes for the Campaign

THORNDALE, Oct. 7.—(By Staff Reporter).—"We want urban industries to get the necessary protection for their workers, so that the workers of these industries will consume all our farmers raise." This extract from a pronouncement of the National Grange, submitted at a tariff hearing before the ways and means committee of Congress last year, was quoted by S. F. Glass, late M. P. for East Middlesex, at Harding's Hall this evening, to show how difficult is the sentiment among organized farmers of the United States to the policy propounded by Hon. T. A. Crerar. The Grange pronouncement, formulated at the largest gathering of farmers ever held in the world, asked no special privilege or activity of the United States Government, except such protection as would benefit the whole nation.

"Though the farmers of the United States number one-third or more of the population," read the brief to the tariff committee, "and are consumers of the products of American urban industries to a value at least proportional to their numbers, yet they seek no free trade competition to enable them to buy cheaply."

Mr. Glass also emphasized the potentialities of competition from the natural products of such countries as Japan, China, the Argentine and many European countries, if once the tariff is lowered, as the Agrarian party advocated.

TOWNSHIP OFFICERS.

The meeting, called for organization purposes, brought out a goodly attendance of West Nissouri supporters of the Meighen Government, in spite of continuous rain, and included a number of ladies. Bert Mossip was chosen chairman, and ex-Reeve James L. Robinson delivered an address, chiefly on organization. Officers for the township were elected as follows: President, W. B. Harding; vice-president, E. Fitzgerald; secretary, Miss Myrtle Bilyea. Vice-presidents—No. 1, Samuel Duffin; No. 2 (Thorndale), W. G. Lee; No. 3 (Evelyn), Edward McMartin; No. 4, James Carrothers; No. 5, Robert McVey; No. 6 Wesley Hall; No. 7 (Kelly's), Peter Elgie; No. 8 (Wellburn), William Sterritt.

"A free trade policy has always been before the public as long as I can remember," said Mr. Mossip, "but like a good suit of clothes, put on only for special occasions; it has never been a working policy. Inexperienced men will walk in where the initiated dare not tread. Are we going to allow unitiated men to try out a policy which the initiated dare not use?"

"There is no camouflage or deception about the policy of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen," said Mr. Glass, who was given close attention in quite a long address. "In every place from coast to coast he announces the same policy. For 43 years we have had in this country a protective tariff, the purpose of which was not only to protect the industries but the farmers. At the present time we are challenged by the Agrarian group. I believe there are men arguing conscientiously, perhaps, that this country shall open her markets to the world, but it is beyond my comprehension that men who have given study to this question could, in view of present conditions, believe that a free trade system is at all possible in this country.

"Those farmers who believe free trade is a panacea for all their ills are working contrary to the farmers in other parts of the world. They say protection is depleting the farms, that young men are rushing to the foundries and factories. Is that experience peculiar to Canada? Let me point out that in Great Britain, for 70 years free trade, the agricultural population has shrunk to 23 per cent. of the whole population. If that be so, have we to start in and try over again the dearly bought experience of Britain and throw our markets open to the world in order to increase the population of farmers. It is a fallacy, and there is only one cure, and that is to join hands with industry and build up in this country a great industrial population. The population of the cities, the workingmen and their families, they are the consumers to-day who add value to the products of the farm. (Applause.)

AIDED BY THE COUNTRY.

"If the Western farmers' horizon was not bounded by wheat alone they would know enough to encourage instead of criticize the merchant marine and develop their export trade. They care nothing about flour or the mills. I believe that if the cost of transportation of wheat to overseas markets were taken fully into account it would be found that it is in many cases sold at a loss, but the grain grower makes a profit because of the subsidized merchant marine, low freight rates, elevator system, etc., carried on at the expense of the people.

"It is the farmers of Ontario who said that the best way to get the money out of their cereals is to sell them on the hoof. The Westerners work along the line of least resistance. This man from Missouri, Wood, has moved over and got some of our cheap land, and now he is a dictator. There are 750,000 Americans in our West who sold their land in the United States and came over because they could get fertile lands for nothing. They 'mine' them for a few years and get all the wheat they can, and by the assistance of the Government, which gives cheap transportation, they make a profit, but they are whining all the time.

"Our unemployment is nothing to that in free trade England. We are a happy and prosperous people, and have more wealth per capita than any other country in the world. Bank deposits have more than doubled within a single decade. Our factory products amount to three billions and a half per year. Agricultural products have grown in 10 years from $400,000,000 annual value to close on $2,000,000,000, and yet critics anxious to achieve power, no matter what it may cost nationally, are crying down this country.

"I am informed that The Farmers' Sun this week gives prominence to a statement that Canadian-made goods are inferior to those made in the United States. I say, all shame to The Farmers' Sun and the people who edit it. If there were a tittle of truth in the statement it would be a shame for a Canadian to depreciate the products of his own country. The manufacturers of this country have no reason to be ashamed."

Mr. Glass will address a meeting at Dorchester on Monday, and one at Glanworth on Tuesday evening.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING.

PARIS, Oct. 7.—Wednesday evening some 60 relatives and friends invaded the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Murray, on Riverview Terrace, in the form of a surprise visit. The occasion was the golden wedding of that highly esteemed couple. R. L. Murray was born in Galt, his father being the late John Murray, of that town, and for about half a century he has been one of the leading business men in Paris. His esteemed partner in life, whose maiden name was Mary Mitchell, was born in Ayr and was a daughter of the late David Mitchell. They were married in Paris on October 5, 1871.

DON'T HOARD YOUR MONEY.

A writer in an Ohio farm journal estimates that at least $5,000,000 in that state alone is hoarded away in homes which, if placed on deposit in banks, would serve as a source of credit for from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 and go a long way towards relieving the present critical situation. This writer points out that, aside from the protection afforded against loss by theft or fire, the biggest reason why all surplus money should find its way into the banks as promptly as possible is that the banks are the cr factories, and the ray material of credit which they manufacture is t cash, and it is hard cash which country needs at the present t Moral: Don't hoard your money, put it to work for yourself, your c munity and your country by placing on deposit.—Ponoka Herald.

FREIGHT COST IS GOOD PROTECTION

Hon. Dr. Tolmie Shows Why Britisher Needn't Worry.

THE CASE FOR CANADA.

Definite Assurance Now Given Embargo To Be Removed.

The views of Hon. Dr. S. F. Tolmie, federal minister of agriculture, in regard to the British cattle embargo, soon to be removed, are concisely expressed in a summing up of his address before the British cattle commission some time ago. Dr. Tolmie said in conclusion:

"Canada fully appreciates that the British Government must take every necessary precaution to maintain confidence and safeguard the stability of the agricultural interests of Great Britain. The strategic importance of this policy is well understood. Further, it is realized that at the root of all the opposition that exists to the removal of the restrictions lies a fear that whether from the risk of disease or the result of competition the future of the live stock industry will be endangered. The question of disease has already been dealt with. As regards competition which would result in the demoralization of the market, British feeders or breeders should realize that such an eventuality would be as much a catastrophe to Canadian interests as to their own. The development or continuance of an import live cattle trade is absolutely dependent upon firm, steady prices and in this regard the interests of the Canadian and British producer are identical.

BREEDERS PROTECTED.

"On the other hand, the breeders of store stock in the British Isles are always protected by the heavy transportation cost in connection with the shipment of Canadian live cattle. This cost in the case of the forwarding of a steer from Calgary to Liverpool amounts at present to the equivalent of an import tax of 2⅝d per pound. It is submitted that a trade which is naturally protected against outside competition by the equivalent of an import duty from 30 to 35 per cent. of the value of the produce ought to be in a fair way to realize a reasonable profit on its investment. If Canadian producers can face such a handicap and still make a profit it would seem that British consumers may have a definite interest in the situation looking to the regulation by outside competition or the cost of home killed beef. Canada cannot afford to produce or forward cattle unless assured of a reasonable profit over and above transportation cost, and any decline in British prices will be more quickly and effectively felt in the Dominion than in the mother country.

A DEFINITE ADVANTAGE.

"Under present conditions, however, Canada would find a definite advantage in shipping to the British market and it is evident, therefore, that it is in the interests of the British consumer that she should do so. On the other hand, British breeders possess a geographical protection which insures them continuously such a workable margin of advantage as, under present condition in relation to world movement of food products, should provide every reasonable confidence in the future of the industry.

"The foregoing constitutes the case of Canada as from the beginning advanced and urged with greater insistence from year to year. We now wish to draw emphatic attention to the fact that the conclusiveness of this case has already been considered by the British authorities and a definite assurance given that the embargo would be removed."

PLACE MEMORIAL IN SCHOOL GROUNDS

Wheatley Problem Settled After Many Meetings and Much Discussion.

WHEATLEY, Oct. 7.—After many meetings and many plans proposed to erect some suitable memorial in remembrance of the heroes from this community who served in the war, one has at last been decided on that seems to meet the requirements. It was decided to erect the memorial on the new high school grounds. The names of all who served will be inscribed.

Miss Selena Epplett and Grant Brown, a popular young couple of this town, were quietly married at Windsor on Tuesday by Rev. E. A. Fear. They left immediately for a trip to Toronto. Their many friends wish them much happiness.

Mr. Albert Dawson, a highly-respected citizen of this community, died suddenly on Wednesday morning, aged 86 years. Deceased went to bed on Tuesday evening feeling as well as usual. In the night he took suddenly ill with severe pain around his heart and before his son, Garnet, with whom he lived, could reach him he was dead. The funeral was held on Friday, the services in Zion Church. An aged widow, three sons and five daughters survive.

After a lingering illness of many years Mrs. Robert Mills, aged 65 years, passed away on Tuesday. She is survived by her husband, one daughter and three son.

Lamarsh; second vice-president, William Kistler; secretary-treasurer, E. C. Brisco; directors, Alex. Jewiss, Ed. Wanless and A. A. Fleming. It was decided to start a movement for the appointment of a director of sport to take charge of the athletic park and all of the playgrounds of the city, organizing athletics and encouraging sport in general.

GENERAL SYNOD PLANS A WEEKLY

Delegates Take Step Toward National Church Organ.

MISSION BUDGET STEADY

Though Sums Donated To This Purpose Growing Gradually.

HAMILTON, Oct. 7.—With the authorization by the general synod tonight of the taking over of the Canadian Churchman and its operation under a joint board of directors, representative of the present shareholders and of the general boards of the Church of England in Canada, the Anglican church took the first step towards the establishing of a national church weekly designed to meet the needs of the communion throughout the Dominion. The decision was reached only after a heated four-hour debate and in the face of strong opposition.

Submitted to the joint session of the synod, convened as the general board of the Missionary Society of the Church of England, the proposal aroused a storm of protest. As the debate continued that section of the synod generally conceded to represent moderate high church opinion swung its support solidly behind the scheme, with the result that a decision was reached without division.

The resolution as finally adopted authorized a joint committee of the board of management of the missionary society, the general board of religious education and the social service council to negotiate with the present directors of The Churchman on a basis of a three-year agreement for co-operative management with outright purchase the ultimate object.

The basis as submitted by Canon Gould, of Toronto, general secretary of the missionary society, included the management of the paper by a board of 10 directors, five to be nominated by the present shareholders and five by the boards of the church; the stock to be placed at the disposal of this joint board; good will, circulation, property, etc., of the paper; the enlargement of the paper by four pages to be used for the publicity of the church departments, the cost of the enlargement to be borne by the church departments concerned, and the possible termination of the contract at the end of three years. An additional proviso introduced by amendment authorized the opening of negotiations for outright purchase if in the opinion of church boards such was advisable.

BASIS OF APPEAL.

Supporters of the measure based their appeal on the plea that the proposal offered the church an opportunity to take the first step towards the acquisition of a national paper and the filling of a want long felt by all parties in the church. The opposition, on the other hand, pointed to the present policy of the paper as being in conflict with more than one school of thought in the church and averred that under any such scheme of dual control as the one proposed the venture was doomed to failure.

Provost Sedgar, of Trinity College, Toronto, emphatically supported the project. It had its drawbacks, but, on the other hand, it was the first step towards the establishment of a national church paper, he said. Archdeacon Ingles, of Toronto, doubted if the journal would truly represent all shades of thought. He referred to the fact that the present management had refused to publish articles on the Anglo-Catholic Union.

Division on the original motion introduced by Canon Gould, of Toronto, and seconded by the Bishop of Huron, seemed inevitable, when E. J. Fream, of Calgary, supported by the Bishop of Ontario, introduced the amendment providing for negotiations for purchase. The latter met with the approval of a large section of the house and on its being incorporated in the original resolution it was adopted without division.

The Canadian Churchman is at present an independent religious weekly published in Toronto. Although negotiations between its owners and the Anglican church have been under way for some time, to-night's action was the first definite move made in the direction of its acquisition. The proposal before coming into effect will have to be ratified by the present shareholders in the paper.

MISSIONS.

At the morning session the synod resolved itself into a great missionary body, the house of bishops meeting with the lower house to deliberate on missionary matters chief among which was a discussion of the report of the board of management to the board of missions.

Hon. Richard Harcourt, Welland, re Indian treaties, declared that not even a modicum of justice had been given these people who were so little able to care for themselves. He urged that the primate look into these old treaties and consult with the premier with the idea of getting larger grants for educational purposes among the Indians in the West.

He believed that an unanswerable argument could be made out for the extension of grants which would give the Indians wider educational opportunities.

THE OBJECTIVE.

During the debate on the annual objective for missionary givings during the next three years no less than three attempts were made to increase the annual amount from the $240,000 asked for by the board of management to $300,000. The argument that financial and industrial depression made any large advances impossible ultimately prevailed, with the result that all three motions were talked down and finally withdrawn, leaving the apportionment of $240,000 per annum.

The report of the board of management of the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, as submitted by Canon Gould, the general secretary, reflected considerable increases in the financial givings of the church. The gross annual receipts of the society for the three years of the last triennium were as follows: 1918, $214,174; 1919, $304,706, and 1920, $1,000,236. The large advance in 1920, explained the secretary, was due to the splendid response given the Anglican Forward Movement.

CONGREGATIONALISTS AT WATFORD CONFERENCE

WATFORD, Oct. 7.—A meeting of the Western Association of Congregational Churches was held in the Congregational church on Tuesday and Wednesday, with the president, L. V. Johnstone, of Hamilton, in the chair. There were over 50 delegates present throughout the conference, and several motor loads from the young people's societies from London, Forest and Alvinston attended the Wednesday night session. On Tuesday the local ministers, Rev. Irwin, Hagar and Workman, gave short welcoming addresses.

Rev. (Capt.) Martin, Dr. Blyth, Rev. Geo. Kelly and Rev. W. A. McTaggart were the principal speakers. The pastor, Rev. T. de C. Raynor, presided over the Lord's Supper on Tuesday evening.

UNVEIL MEMORIAL TO KINLOSS HEROES

Seventeen Names on Tablet Ceremonially Unveiled at Holyrood—Fine Speeches Made.

CARGILL, Oct. 7.—A memorial tablet in memory of the 17 boys of Kinloss Township, who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, was unveiled at the Kinloss Township hall, Holyrood, yesterday afternoon. There was a very large crowd present and the ceremony was very impressive. The chairman was John Purvis, of Holyrood.

The memorial is in the form of a bronze tablet, upon which is inscribed the names of the 17 Kinloss soldiers who fell in the war.

Dedicatory prayer was read by Rev. D. McTavish, at the close of which the tablet was unveiled by Allister Hughes, a returned soldier, of the township. As the flags were drawn back the "Last Post" was sounded and the audience stood with heads bowed. The MacMorren Brass Band, of Lucknow, rendered music appropriate for the occasion.

Some eloquent addresses were delivered by H. Mahers, reeve of Kinloss; G. H. Moody, Ripley; Rev. Mr. Lacey, Whitechurch; Rev. Father Flahaven, Teeswater; Rev. C. N. McKenzie, Teeswater; Rev. K. A. Gollan, South Kinloss; Mr. Rowland, Walkerton; Mr. Campbell, Lucknow; S. R. Brill, Teeswater, and others. The speakers paid tribute to the heroism and sacrifice of the boys of Kinloss, who laid down their lives for the flag.

EX-SERVICE MEN SUCCEED ON LAND

Canada Has Spent Over $84,000,000 On This.

SYSTEM OF SELECTION

Soldier-Settler Has Also Advantages In Matter of Loans.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8.—Canada has spent over $84,000,000 in the establishment of return soldiers on the land. This figure represents over 27,000 individual ex-service men who have benefited from the law which had for its twin aims soldier re-establishment and the development of the agricultural resources of the Dominion. It represents 80 per cent. of Canada's ex-service men who have gone back to the land and 30 per cent. of the men of the Canadian army who were demobilized as physically fit.

Under the law any ex-service man eligible from a military standpoint, having seen service overseas, may apply for loans up to a maximum of $7,500 for the following purposes: For the purchase of land, $4,500; for stock and equipment, $2,000; for permanent improvements, $1,000. If on encumbered land the ex-soldier is entitled to loans amounting to $5,000; if on free Dominion land, to loans amounting to $3,000. In the case of purchased land the settler must pay 10 per cent. of the cost price of the land as a guarantee of good faith.

These benefits are open to men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, to ex-service men of Great Britain, the dominions and the allied forces, who lived in Canada prior to the war, and to ex-service men of the imperial or dominions forces, if on their arrival in Canada they spend a sufficient time to gain practical agricultural experience on Canadian farms. The imperials, however, are required to pay 20 per cent. of the expenditures for all purposes cash down.

On July 31 the number of applications was 60,827, and of these 43,765 had been accepted as qualified to farm. Nearly 1,000 others are in training with the intention of taking up farms when qualified. Of the 26,701 settled on the land, 20,624 were granted loans. The others were located on free Dominion lands without financial assistance.

SYSTEM OF SELECTION.

The settlement board adopted a system of selection, requiring that applicants must pass a rigid examination as to physical ability, moral character and sincerity of purpose, with the result that, out of the 26,000 men who have now been on the land upwards of two years, strict supervision of their operations has revealed the fact that only about 10 per cent. have failed to show promise of satisfactory results. In some cases it has been found necessary to allow the settler to withdraw from his obligation and the board has taken over his farm and sold it to another.

In 425 such cases, where the investment of the Government was $1,662,729, the Government realized on resale $1,654,523, showing a loss of only $19.30 on each farm.

The loans for land and permanent improvements run for 25 years, those for stock and equipment for six years, with interest at five per cent. No payments were due until the fall of 1920, when 12,231 men were liable. The number who made repayments was 9,330 and 1,439 made prepayments. There were 403 who repaid their entire loans.

In view of the collapse of the markets in the middle of the threshing season and of the occurrence of drouth and other visitations last year in some localities in the West the Government regards this statement as very satisfactory, and it is believed that a very few years will see most of these soldier farmers well on their way to success. Indeed, there are cases where settlers have taken from the ground crops aggregating in value more than the whole cost of their farms.

Alberta has the largest number of soldier settlers, with 6,058; Saskatchewan second, with 5,136; the other provinces in the order named: Manitoba, 3,319; British Columbia, 2,975; Ontario, 1,521; New Brunswick, 543; Nova Scotia, 381; Quebec, 363; Prince Edward Island, 329.

FAVORABLE TERMS.

In addition to the loan advantages which a soldier settler has, the board secures for him very favorable arrangements with regard to the purchase of his stock and equipment. Farm machinery manufacturers, lumber dealers, harness and wagon makers give special prices to soldier settlers, in some cases amounting to a reduction of 30 per cent. In the purchase of equipment the board has effected a saving of $886,894. It also has saved the settlers large sums in land purchase. No intermediary is permitted to take a rake-off on soldier farms; the land is bought direct from the owner.

The most important advantage, however, is the supervision which the board gives to its settlers. It advises him in all his operations until satisfied that he is doing well and in a position to carry on without assistance. It buys only what he needs, not what he wants, in this way curbing his propensity for rash buying.

A home branch counsels and assists in whatever manner seems to be desirable to the dependents of the settlers. This branch has secured the co-operation of the Red Cross and other societies in the establishment of hospitals in remote areas, and it has brought thousands of the women to centers of population for courses in home economics, which have proved very interesting and helpful.

This great re-establishment scheme, which, it is claimed, is unrivaled in the world, is administered by a board of three: Major John Barnett, Major E. J. Ashton, and Samuel Maber. The head office is at Ottawa, and district offices are established in every province.

DEFINITE DATE SPEEDS CAMPAIGN

Issue of Writs Finds Government Party In Fine Fettle.

NOMINATIONS ARE SLOW

Crerar Has Few Candidates In Field In West.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—(Special to The Free Press).—The issue of the writs for the general election with voting fixed, as officially announced to-day, for December 6 and nominations for November 22, is in line with the Government's desire for a campaign of education in the firm belief that as a result its policies will steadily gain in public support. Already there has been a perceptible swing towards the Government throughout all of the provinces. Even in Quebec, which many ministerialists believed to be a forlorn hope, predictions are now being made that the Government will carry 20 seats. The announcement has resulted in a speeding up of the parties' machinery.

A significant feature of the contest thus far is the slowness of both oppositions in getting candidates. While the Government has 90 per cent. of its candidates already in the field or in sight, Mr. Crerar has few candidates outside of the West and the rural riding in Ontario. Thus far he has not a single standard-bearer in British Columbia, none in Quebec, not more than one or two in the Maritime Provinces and not one representative in a single city in the whole Dominion. His appeal, so far as candidates is concerned is thus far to the farmers alone.

MR. KING'S PLIGHT.

Mr. King, strangely enough, is not much better off. Not expecting an election, although clamoring for one, the announcement of a contest caught him utterly unprepared, and the indications are that he is having the utmost difficulty in getting men into the field. This is particularly true of Ontario, where the decimated ranks of his party finds themselves without leadership, and are endeavoring to bargain with the farmers as to which party should contest this riding and that.

Mr. King, according to all reports, intends concentrating his campaign in the Maritime Provinces and in Quebec. His attempt to abandon his low tariff platform in the East has practically made it impossible for him to face the West, and as he cannot get to British Columbia without passing through the prairies, and does not hope for more than half a dozen seats in Ontario, he will likely confine his fight to east of the Ottawa River. While Mr. King was apparently making some headway in the Lower Provinces the premier has followed closely on the trail, and from all reports his campaign is a most unqualified success. In place of equally dividing the representation from down there the Government now expects a majority.

ELECTORAL OFFICER BUSY.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—(By Canadian Press.)—With the announcement of the election date as December 6 the political whirlpool here is steadying down to the usual campaign gait, with the scene of the most intense activity transferred to the office of Col. O. M. Biggar, chief electoral officer. The whole staff of this officer is working to-night in order that to-morrow the election writs may be ready for the signature of the Secretary of State and the affixing of the Great Seal of Canada. These writs will be on their way to the returning officers in 230 of the 235 constituencies throughout Canada by to-morrow evening. The five constituencies in which returning officers remain to be appointed will, it is expected, be placed on the completed list before the first of the week. The constituencies without returning officers are North and South Waterloo, in Ontario; Comox and West Kootenay, in British Columbia, and the Yukon.

In connection with the announcement of election day and the summoning of Parliament on January 17, Col. Biggar said that the latter action is merely a matter of form, but a necessary technicality in the issuing of the election writs. The date on which the new Parliament will meet cannot, of course, be announced until after the forthcoming election. An amusing incident in connection with this feature is that members of the Government originally decided on summoning Parliament for January 15. After the announcement was made it was pointed out that January fell on a Sunday, with the result that a hurried change had to be made. The change was made in something under 10 minutes.

THE USE OF GATE SIGNS.

In an educational campaign there are a number of essentials, one of which is to create an interest in the minds of those you wish to influence. It is not an easy matter to reach the man who most requires instruction. Bulletins and other literature sent to him often find their way into the waste basket unread. He is not easy to get out to meetings where the matter is to be discussed. The main object in using these signs is to reach the man who does not read bulletins or attend meetings. When he sees a sign on his neighbor's gate announcing the fact that a pure-bred bull is kept on that farm it starts him thinking. If every farm where a pure-bred bull is kept is indicated in this way natural curiosity will, as a rule, lead a man to make inquiries. Such an individual will probably have been claiming that his grade bull is just as good as the pure-bred, but he soon realizes that if he keeps a bull and has no sign up stating that it is pure-bred the inference is that it is inferior.

The spirit of "keeping up with the Jonses," while it may in some cases cause discomfort, is a real factor in human progress. When you get a man in a receptive frame of mind, you have accomplished considerable; in other words, you have fertile soil. The mission of the gate sign is to create interest, and in this it is succeeding in a great measure.—Agricultural Gazette.

JAPAN MAY SUGGEST ADDITIONS TO ADDENDA

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—Japan probably will accept the United States' agenda for the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions, but may suggest additions to it, according to information in responsible circles here. These additions would avoid concrete questions, but would include general principles, such as equal opportunity throughout the entire Pacific. The agenda was discussed by the Cabinet to-day and will be submitted to the advisory council on Monday.

MRS. WATLING DEAD.

STRATFORD, Oct. 7.—Mrs. John Watling, 36 Blake street, died at her home about half-past 7 on Friday morning, following an illness of only a few days. The late Mrs. Watling was 57 years of age, and was a native of England. She came to Canada with her husband in 1878 and for the past 29 years was a resident of Stratford. The late Mrs. Watling is survived by her husband and five step-children: Mr. Wm. A. Thompson, Mr. Russell G. Thompson, city; Mr. Chas. L. Thompson, of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. Herbert Thompson, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. J. A. Rolland, city.

SOLDIER FARMER HAS BANNER WHEAT YIELD

What is expected to be the banner yield of wheat for Alberta this year was threshed by A. D. McLeod, a soldier settler, who was established under the Soldier Settlement Act in May, 1919, near Millet, Alta.

Among other grains he sowed 12 acres of Morgan wheat on newly broken ground. This wheat has just been threshed and yielded Mr. McLeod 52½ bushels to the acre.

QUEBEC APPLE HARVEST UNIQUE

Community Packing a Feature of Co-Operative Plans.

Community packing of apples is an important feature of many co-operative marketing associations that handle the fruit with success. Community packing, in charge of competent and disinterested men, makes it possible to secure uniformity in grading and packing the product of the members' apple orchards. Attractive labeling of the packages is an added feature in many instances.

Community packing and grading is correct in principle, but how are we going to work it out? If I might suggest a practical way it would be to divide our fruit districts in so many divisions, with a central packing shed in each, to be used for packing the apples grown in that division. For instance, take centers like Rougemount, St. Hilaire, Covey Hill, Abbotsford, Chateauguay, St. Joseph Du Lac, in the Province of Quebec. In the most of these centers the Government spends money each year demonstrating the best methods of producing high quality apples. It is time now to spend the same amount in teaching the growers practical means of grading and packing their apples, and there is no better way of undertaking this plan than through community packing, which I advocate.

There is no use in speaking for one central packing house for the whole society, as we could not economically ship our apples to the one place for grading and packing. This would be much more simple, but is impossible to attain in our scattered sections. But if one central house is not practicable, that is no reason to abandon the community packing idea. The solution is to build more houses. These packing stations need not be elaborate. All that is needed is a room to receive the apples as they came in, a packing-room and a grading outfit. The house might well consist of a two-story building. It is not even necessary now, at least, to have a storage house, as the apples could be sent after packing to the Co-operative Centrale in Montreal, where there is every facility to store and handle the fruit. There is no difficulty whatever in disposing of fruit that is well graded and packed. The difficulty always comes from the fact that the fruit coming in is packed in all sorts of ways, arriving very often slack and in a more or less bad condition.

The supervision of packing stations by inspectors or agents of the provincial Government would then be an easy task. It would be their duty to see that the fruit sent in was properly graded and packed. In order to secure uniformity of grades it would be necessary that pickers, graders and sorters should follow well-defined rules in picking and handling the apples in the orchards as well as in the packing houses.

The problem of marketing requires that the manager of the co-operative concern, as early as practicable in the season, should make a careful estimate of the production in the various districts.—Rev. Fr. Leopold, in The Agricultural Gazette.

CHINA SHY WITH TOKIO.

TOKIO, Oct. 8.—China's answer to the Japanese proposals relative to Shantung indicate she is averse at present to carrying on direct negotiations with Tokio, in the opinion of Japanese officials. There has been no indication here as to the next step to be taken by the Japanese.

EAST ELGIN TEACHERS ELECT NEW OFFICERS

AYLMER, Oct. 7.—The East Elgin Teachers' Institute was held in the audience room of the Aylmer public school, and, with two or three exceptions, all the teachers in the inspectorate were present. A good program was well carried out. The principal speaker was Dr. S. Silcox, principal of Stratford Normal School, a former Elgin boy. The doctor's addresses on "The Problem of Time" and "Motivation in School Work" were very instructive and inspiring.

The institute was opened by a very able address by Miss Erie V. Amoss, the president, followed by "Observations," which covered a wide field, by J. C. Smith, I. P. S. Miss Audrey Swain read a valuable paper on "Combined Classes in Public Schools," which was much appreciated by teachers in rural schools. An excellent paper on "Tests and Scales," by Miss Amoss was rather scientific for the average teacher.

On Friday morning Dr. Cockburn and Nurse E. D. Hunt ably discussed the necessity of permanent nurses for schools. Rev. Jas. Anthony, of Fingal, gave an inspiring address on "The Teacher's Privileges."

The officers elected for the following year were: Honorary president, J. C. Smith, I. P. S.; president, Geo. Hunter; vice-president, Miss Edith Meikle; secretary, Mrs. C. Wise; treasurer, J. C. Smith, I. P. S.; librarian, Miss H. Hansley; delegate O. E. A., Mrs. C. Wise; executive, Miss M. Vansickle, J. T. Taslar and Miss A. Swain; auditors, Miss E. I. Pretty and J. H. Clinton.

BORDER BANDITS LOOT MAIL VAN

Get Sum Estimated At $100,000 In Detroit Raid.

VEHICLE WAS UNGUARDED

May Have Contained Race Track and Bank Receipts.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Four armed highwaymen here late to-night held up the Government mail truck, carrying the Windsor mail from the Detroit-Windsor ferry dock to the main post office, and after compelling the driver, an old, unarmed man, to drive into a dark alley, they unloaded all the registered mail into an automobile and drove away. They are believed to have secured many thousands of dollars in currency which was among the registered mail.

IN HEART OF CITY.

The robbery was committed in the very heart of the city and within a stone's throw of police headquarters. Twenty-one bags of ordinary mail, two bags of registered mail and 74 packages, most of them believed to contain American currency, were taken.

Windsor banks each night ship their surplus United States currency on the 10 o'clock dispatch to Detroit, and the men who committed the robbery were apparently aware of that fact.

In addition it is also believed that at least $100,000 in Windsor race track receipts was among the registered packages.

The robbery was a simple affair and accomplished without difficulty by the bandits, as the truck driver is an elderly man and was without arms or guard.

The robbery occurred on Jefferson avenue. Wm. R. McCauley, the driver, who is a Canadian Government messenger, could give no clear description of the bandits. No trace has been found of them.

MAIL INSURED.

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—Postmaster Joseph Casgrain to-night said, regarding the robbing of the mail from Windsor in Detroit to-night, that he had no means of knowing how much currency was contained in the packages, but there was no doubt it would total a big sum as every night large amounts were sent across the river.

He said that the mail was not insured by the Government, but it was insured by a private company.

Mr. Casgrain says the system of sending currency across the river has been in vogue for 50 years and he is surprised that a robbery has not been attempted before. Of late owing to the large sums being sent by mail employees of the Windsor post office have been fearful lest an attempt should be made to hold up the office.

News of the Federal Campaign

Pardee Is Expected To Refuse West Lambton Nomination and Accept Ontario Leadership.

MR. PARDEE TO REFUSE.

SARNIA, Oct. 7.—Events in the political field are moving more quickly in West Lambton, and the announcement is made of the Liberal convention on October 18 to select a candidate for the federal elections. The National Liberal and Conservative county executive meets on Monday, October 10, when the date of the party convention will be selected.

The statement from Toronto that Hartley Dewart, leader of the Liberals of Ontario, will next week resign from that position makes the question of the nominee of the Liberals the subject of much speculation in Sarnia, as it is openly stated by friends of F. F. Pardee that he is the choice of the provincial Liberal party for the leadership. It is generally conceded that Mr. Pardee cannot hope to win out in this riding in the federal election, and the course he intends to pursue, if the nomination is offered him, is still a matter of surmise. A defeat would be a serious thing for him, in view of his prospects for the leadership, and it is felt that a nomination will be tendered him and that he will gracefully decline the honor.

Meanwhile the National Liberals and Conservatives are going right ahead with their arrangements, and the first big event is the meeting in Sarnia on October 20, when Premier Meighen will speak at a big rally in the auditorium of the city hall.

Great preparations are being made to give the premier a great reception, and other prominent speakers will be here for the occasion.

TARIFF ESSENTIAL.

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 7.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—"If there is a country in the universe to which a protective tariff is as essential as the breath of life that country is Canada." These were the words of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen addressed to a meeting of approximately 2,000 persons gathered in the curling rink here to-night to hear him and his colleagues discuss the questions of the day.

"Only by an affirmative voice from this country, clear, ringing and decisive, that we intend to follow the protective policy, can we get back to normal employment conditions," the premier insisted. "Industries of Canada must be given a chance to compete with those of the United States."

KING HAS NO CHANCE.

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—That Mackenzie King did not stand a chance in the world of being elected in North York was the opinion expressed to-day by his Agrarian opponent, R. W. E. Burnaby, president of the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

Mr. Burnaby maintained that the real contest would be between himself and J. A. Armstrong, the National Liberal and Conservative candidate, and of the two aspirants he felt that Mr. Armstrong stood the lesser chance of being elected.

Mr. Burnaby added that a canvass for votes was already in progress on his behalf.

CHOOSE DR. CLARK.

LACOMBE, Alta., Oct. 7.—The Liberals of Red Deer riding, in a convention held at Lacombe to-day nominated Dr Michael Clark, formerly member for the riding and until recently first lieutenant of the agrarians.

Dr. Clark was not at the meeting, and when informed by telephone of the action of the convention he declined to accept, but said that he had always been a Liberal, was sympathetic to the Liberal leader and believed that a strong Liberal Government was needed at Ottawa.

The nomination of Dr. Clark was far from unanimous, the voting being 52 for him to 27 for A. D. McKenzie, of Penhold. In the discussion Dr. Clark was described by one delegate as "a political comedian and a public man who could not be trusted."

LOOK TO S. MONTGOMERY.

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—According to gossip around Harrison Hall to-day, Sam Montgomery, of Dover Township, a prominent farmer, and a member of the Kent Political Farmers' Association, is talked of as a candidate for nomination in the forthcoming U. F. O. convention, to be held in Chatham on October 22. Mr. Montgomery is a member of the U. F. O. executive, which has charge of the coming meeting. He has been township councilor for Dover for some time.

PREMIER MAY BE ABLE TO ATTEND

Lloyd George Says He May Arrange Work.

LONDON GIVES OUT HINT

Sinn Fein Conference Is Next Big Event.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press Cable).—A hint that Premier Lloyd George may yet be able to attend the forthcoming conference on the limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions in Washington was made in a semi-official statement to the press to-night. It was pointed out that the present position is that the British prime minister has notified the United States Government of his inability to attend, but that this is not necessarily his last word.

It is generally regarded that the United States Government is anxious for him to attend, and it is understood that considerable influence is being brought to bear upon him to induce a reconsideration of his decision.

This pressure was particularly marked during Mr. Lloyd George's stay at Gairloch, and it is understood that he found strong support at to-day's Cabinet meeting from his ministerial colleagues.

OTHER QUESTIONS.

It was stated that it is extremely probable that the prime minister will be prevailed on to go to Washington if developments in other directions make it at all possible. At the moment, however, his refusal holds good, and in the meantime the British delegates have not been selected. It is understood they will not be appointed until next week at the earliest.

Mr. Lloyd George left this evening for Chequers Court, his country home, and it is expected he will return to London on Sunday. The only information vouchsafed to the public concerning to-day's Cabinet meeting was the appointment of the Government's delegates to the conference with Irish leaders, although it was understood the discussion embraced both the Irish and Washington conferences.

START TO-MORROW.

The Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries, accompanied by Desmond Fitzgerald and four typists, will leave Dublin to-morrow morning, it was announced here to-night, and they will be given accommodations at Chelsea while attending the conference. It was reported that final informal conversations were held in the Mansion House at Dublin to-day between Eamonn de Valera, Irish leader, members of the Dail Cabinet, and the plenipotentiaries. It is understood the Irish delegates will maintain constant communication with the Dublin headquarters during the conference. The conference opens on Thursday of next week.

NOT PARTY AFFAIR.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 7.—Premier Hughes said to-day he proposed to discuss with representatives of other parties in the House of Representatives what policy George Foster Pearce, Australian delegate, should pursue at the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions. Premier Hughes also announced that the Government would appoint a new Australian minister to the United States to succeed Mark Sheldon, who at present holds that post.

MOTOR AND TORLLEY IN HEAD-ON CRASH

Frederick Westcott, Windsor, Has Three Ribs Fractured—Open New School November 3.

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—When his automobile collided head on with a Walkerville street car this afternoon at Pierre avenue and East Sandwich street, Frederick Westcott, 35 years old, manager of an auto supply company, had three ribs fractured, in addition to suffering other injuries. He regained consciousness after being taken to the Hotel Dieu.

Opening of the new Prince Edward public school has been fixed for November 3. Dr. R. H. Grant, minister of education, will be present, according to word received to-day by George Courtenay, secretary of the school board.

Thirteen Chinese residents of the this city, who will attend the annual convention of the Chinese American Association on Saturday, at Detroit, were issued passports this afternoon by Orval Adams, local inspector in charge of immigration.

Dr. Frederick Kinsman, former Episcopal Bishop of Deleware, lectured to-night in Stalphonsus Hall here on "American Catholicity." Dr. Kinsman was introduced by Bishop Fallon, head of the diocese.

Inclement weather to-day prevented the pupils of the Collegiate Institute holding their annual field day. The program of athletic events will be carried out on Monday, weather permitting.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN ADDRESSES STUDENTS

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Addressing a gathering of University of Toronto students at Hart House this afternoon, Sir Robert Borden said:

"I charge you with your responsibility in the matter of Canada's future. This task is one which not one of you can escape."

"We are none of us eternal, but our individual influences on our country's well-being is something that will continue as long as history. This is a solemn thought, but I am speaking of earnest things."

"Twenty or thirty years from now, when you have assumed these burdens, and are ready to pass them on, your dominating retrospection will be the thought of the service you have rendered, not of the pleasures which you have enjoyed.

"Each one of you is wealthy in that you have your lives ahead of you, with all the opportunities which our modern civilization affords. We older ones have utilized this wealth variously, and it is up to you to see that yours is spent to the best advantage.

"Nevertheless, I have confidence in the future of Canada, which I believe is safe and secure when in your hands. I trust that the few thoughts which I have expressed, will dominate your life activities and bid you God speed."

CITY WAS WRONG.

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—Charges of selling short-weight coal preferred by the police against the Windsor Ice and Coal Company were withdrawn to-day when it was found that the city scales on the market were inaccurate. A load of coal weighed by one of the patrolmen was 150 pounds short, according to the scales. Government inspectors have since tested the scales and found them to be in need of repairs.

The Dismissal of Death

Prior to the war the belief in a future life had very little influence on the majority of people. About the only time people thought seriously whether there could be a hereafter was when some loved one passed away. People did not deny a future existence. They simply paid little attention to the future. Modern civilization has made us so comfortable in this life that we have little thought for any other. The war, however, brought a great change. So many million homes were in sorrow and bereavement, that people naturally thought, and are still thinking, deeply about death and what might lie beyond the grave.

The war has struck a terrific blow at materialism. People cannot feel that this universe is to be nothing more than the masoleum of life's glorious possibilities and aspirations. They are more ready to agree with Prof. Tyndall, when he said: "I have noticed during years of self-observation that it is not in hours of clearness and of vigor that this doctrine of materialism commends itself to my mind; for in the presence of stronger and healthier thought it ever dissolves and disappears, as offering no solution of the mystery in which we dwell and of which we form a part." The danger is that people turning from materialism will fail to get the Christian conception of death and the life beyond, and in so failing fall victims to other cults which prey on the sorrow and the cravings of a bereaved people."

The keynote of the Christian conception was struck by Paul, who said: "Jesus Christ hath abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel." If Christ has abolished death, then the world ought to know about it, for death is the one ground of our fears and the dread of the human heart. We dread it because it brings us to the close of all we know experimentally. Whatever else Paul meant, however, he did not mean that Christ had abolished physical death, for all must face that. He undoubtedly meant the death of the soul. If physical death means the separation of the soul from the body, then spiritual death means a separation of the soul from fellowship with God. This is the curse of death; its real dread and doom.

Such a death or separation comes from sin. It is sin that gives death the power to shake and terrify the soul. The late Prof. Law once said: "It is sin that does make it death to die. Sin is the thing that ought not to be, that has no right to exist; and it is sin that makes one unfit to live, and makes it a moral doom to die." It is this moral and spiritual death which is referred to in Paul's phrase, "The sting of death is sin, and the strength of sin is the law." This death is not merely a fact in nature. It is a death that is never known to nature, for man is more than a part of nature. He is a moral being, and life and death are to him full of deep meaning.

It was this phase of death that Christ came to abolish. He by His redemptive work His death and resurrection has changed the character of death. He has "abolished" it, "devitalized" or "de-energized" death. He has dismissed death by destroying the works of the evil one who had the power of death. By redeeming the soul from sin and by the fact of His own resurrection He is able to deliver the soul from death. To those who are in Christ there is no such condemnation, "for the law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made us free from the law of sin and death." It is said that Charles Darwin was very fond of visiting the London Zoological Gardens and would often stand by the glass case which contained a deadly cobra. As he would press his forehead against the glass, the cobra with vicious, venemous strength would strike at him, and although he knew perfectly well he was safe with the strong glass between, yet the cobra never struck but he recoiled and his will power was never strong enough to overcome that recoil. So is the natural fear of death. Though the Christian knows its sting has been eradicated and that no harm can come near the soul that dwells under "the shadow of the Almighty," still the soul naturally recoils at the thought of death.

But the message of Christian hope does not end with the mere dismissal of death. Christ went further. "He brought life and immortality to light through the Gospel." The idea of immortality was in the dim twilight before Christ came. He brought it out into the life. He has given us deeper conceptions of life. Life is not just eating, drinking, working and sleeping. It means more than that. Eternal life is Divine communion; thinking God's thoughts, possessing His spirit and obeying His will. Such life can never be measured by the calendar. It means quality of life as well as longevity. "This is life eternal to know Him." The life Christ imparts is the highest possible life, containing the elements of knowledge, faith, love, hope, peace and power. It is inexhaustible in meaning, value and duration. All this is included in the dismissal of death and which led Paul to exclaim: "Thanks be unto God which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

No Doubt of the Issue.

The straightforward statement of Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Farmers' party, at Brandon, is in striking contrast to the shuffling, elusive speeches, full of half-truths, of Hon. Mackenzie King.

No one has been able to pin Mr. King down to any particular policy on any subject. He deals only in generalities. But as for Mr. Crerar, there is no doubt where he stands. His party has a platform and he proposes, if elected, to put it in force. He is opposed tooth and nail to the principle of protection and is not afraid to say so. He is just as courageous in the defense of his platform as is Mr. Meighen in support of the policy of his party.

Between these two leaders there is a clear-cut and a definite issue, which can only be settled by the people at the polls. Mr. Meighen firmly believes in the principle of protection. He is convinced that to maintain the industries of Canada, agriculture as well as manufacturing, Canada requires a moderate protective tariff. Lying next to a wealthy, populous and closely-organized industrial nation, with high tariff walls, he believes any other policy is disastrous.

Hon. Mr. Crerar, on the other hand, is just as sincerely of the opinion that protection is a disastrous policy for Canada. "We stand," he declared, "opposed to the principle of protection as being neither sound economically nor right morally."

The people of Canada will have to decide at the polls whether they want to put in power a leader and a party opposed to the whole principle of protection and with a policy that would wipe out half the industries of Ontario and jeopardize the tobacco, fruit and other agricultural interests of the province; or whether they will vote for a leader who will continue the historic national policy of Canada.

As for poor Mr. King, without courage to say whether or not he stands by the platform which he and his party pledged to put into effect, he hardly counts in the fight. The voters this election want to know definitely for whom and for what they are casting their ballots; in the case of Mr. Meighen and Mr. Crerar they do. Mr. King stands nowhere. It is no wonder that such staunch Liberal papers as The Manitoba Free Press, The Kingston Whig and The Brantford Expositor have deserted their leader and his causes.

Mr. Doherty Should Explain.

Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture in the Drury Government, has taken the platform in support of the Federal Farmers' party. This is a free country and Mr. Doherty has a perfect right to do as he pleases, although on general principles it is not wise to mix provincial and federal politics.

However, Mr. Doherty, in fairness to himself and the electors, ought to explain where he stands on the fiscal issue. In 1911 Mr. Doherty was a resident of the Province of New Brunswick. In those days he was a strong supporter of Sir Robert Borden. Mr. Doherty stumped the province condemning the reciprocity pact. Yet the fiscal platform of the Farmers' party, of which Mr. Doherty is now no inconsequential member, contains a plank which asks for a renewal of the reciprocity pact and in addition goes much further in the way of free trade than the Fielding agreement.

Has Mr. Doherty had a change of heart? Has he been converted by that ardent free trader, Premier Drury, or is he only a political wearther-cock swinging in this or that direction with the strongest breeze? Explanations are in order.

Why Not Read Hansard ?

The U. F. O. convention for South Huron held at Hensall debated at some length a resolution from the Varna branch requesting that the candidate of the party, if elected to Parliament, be asked to make a weekly report to the various Farmers' organizations, while the House is in session, giving a summary of his own attitude on public questions, the attitude of the various parties, a list of legislation and how he voted.

The idea of the Varna U. F. O. is an excellent one, except for the slight oversight that Hansard now contains all the information desired in much fuller and more accurate form than any member could take the time to give.

For the benefit of the members of Varna U. F. O. we might explain that Hansard is the verbatim report of the speeches, proceedings and votes of Parliament. Every day of the session it appears with the regularity of a daily paper, containing an exact report taken by expert shorthand men of the Parliamentary proceedings the day previous. It is called Hansard after an Englishman who first went to the pains of having printed the speeches in the Mother of Parliaments.

Hansard should be more widely read and studied by every voter who desires to follow intelligently Canadian public affairs. The Free Press would suggest that every U. F. O. branch subscribe for Hansard—the yearly cost is slight. Mothers' clubs, women's organizations and all bodies interested in the study of Canadian problems would be well advised to be placed on the mailing list. There would be less ignorance of political questions when elections come around if there were a closer study of Hansard.

The Third Column

FAVORS.

Favors are easy to get, for favors are easy to ask,
But who sets the hand of another to work must share with another the task.

"Help" is the commonest cry, it begins with the dawn of the day,
For few have the courage to stand up alone and go to the end of the way.

A favor will open the door, but the proof of your worth and your might
Is to battle your way all alone to the top and claim the reward as your right.

And what if the world doesn't see the hands that have favored you so,
Through the days and the weeks and the months and the years the truth of your glory you know.

Who rises by favor shall find with regret till he goes to his grave
That the comforts unearned he has taken from men have forced him to live as a slave.

Oh, better it is not to rise to the heights where life's glories are known
Than be carried on high by the hands of your friends and build no success of your own.

WEALTH.

Charles Kingsley was once asked to name the secret of his insight and power, and this was his reply: "I had a friend!"

Sometimes it takes a whole lifetime to convince some people that the greatest wealth in the world is to be found in the friendship and warmth of human companionship.

And it must not be forgotten that real comradeship is the fullest answer to many a man's largest success.

I sat in a most wonderful house the other day. Its furnishings were exquisite—selected with great care and evidently with a thorough understanding of the many periods of furniture building. But there was a coldness otherwise about the place that didn't make it seem like home.

Pals make a home—whether the walls are made of rare design or of the roughest timber!

I have always liked the story of David and Jonathan. Somehow the fineness of that friendship has made it easy to overlook all the mistakes that David ever made. For they loved each other very much.

One who is loyal and true to someone is a pretty safe person to trust under any circumstance.

Genuine palship—to have one or a good handful of friends—is to have wealth for a certainty.

Where material wealth has had full sway in the life of an individual or nation, the ending has always been one of ruin and sadness.

But who ever heard of a constant and ripe friendship that brought anything excepting beauty and happiness? And could money buy the minutest part of a thing so rare?

Do you want to be very wealthy? Have a friend—and be one!

—George Matthew Adams.

RICHES.

"If I had loads of money existence would be sunny," the poor fish sadly moans; "I'm certainly disgusted with being always busted, when other men have bones. The rich man has no sorrow; if he should try to borrow a grief 'twould be in vain, for money is the basis of all the joy that chases around this mundane plain." But when a man has riches his wails, in dismal pitches, assay the gates of morn; of all men who have anguish, or all who wilt and languish, he seems the most forlorn. All kinds of grafters fret him, the tax collectors get him, and leave him sick and sore; his pet investments fizzle, his tears fall in a drizzle, and life becomes a bore. The people tire and irk him, because they try to work him, and rend him from his kale; he has no friends to cherish, all his affections perish, and all his longings fail. Of all the idle dreamers, and all the ruthless schemers he is the proper prey; the robbers make him tremble, and gold brick men assemble around him on his way. The hates of men revolt him, the eyes of envy jolt him, and everywhere he wends he meets the whining needy, the covetous and greedy, but seldom meets with friends. And when we envy riches, while digging useful ditches or sawing helpful wood, our taste must be lamented; so let us be contented, and labor and be good.

PUTTING IT UP TO MA.

"Bobby, if daddy died, would you work to keep mamma?"

"Why, no!" said the little chap, not relishing the idea of work. "Ain't we got a house to live in?"

"Oh, yes, my dear," said the mother; "but we can't eat the house, you know."

"Well, ain't we got plenty of things in the pantry?" continued the young hopeful.

"Certainly, dear," replied the mother, "but they would not last long, and what then?"

"Well, ma," said the young incorrigible, "wouldn't there be enough to last until you got another daddy, like Auntie Molly did?"

Current Literature

"Rilla of Ingleside," by L. M. Montgomery (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto).—Laughter and love and tears are perhaps a unique trinity of human emotions to employ in the building up of the modern novel, but that such a novel can be produced, and successfully so, is demonstrated in L. M. Montgomerys' latest book, "Rilla of Ingleside" (McClelland & Stewart, Toronto). Neither Socialism nor sex-problem, those unpleasant harpies that feed on twentieth century fiction, appear in Miss Montgomery's book, which is yet an entirely readable and likeable bit of work.

It is rather a pity that so many modern women writers (and Hugh Walpole) have such a penchant for creating whole generations of characters as the dramatis personae of a series of novels. These family compacts are sometimes as difficult to get across to the public as a similar clique in real life might be. One cannot but regret that the creator of "Anne of Avonlea," surely one of the most delightful girl characters that fiction has produced, did not turn her admirable pen in some new direction for her subsequent books, none of which have shown the same winsome appeal and quaint humor as the original Anne.

"Rilla of Ingleside" is a chronicle of the family of "Anne with an 'E,'" who, as readers of the earlier books will remember, married her one-time enemy, Gilbert Blythe, and settled down to homemaking in Glen St. Mary, one of those dream-villages that this Canadian authoress knows so well how to create beside the blue gulf waters. But it must be admitted that the married Anne bears little semblance to that "creature of fire and dew" that glowed so vividly against the sharming background of Avonlea town in the first of Miss Montgomery's books, and Rilla, Anne's 15-year-old daughter, has none of the delicate, spirituelle qualities of her mother's girlhood, though she is a very loveable, very natural heroine for all that.

Rilla supplies the love, most of it. Romance between 15 and 20 is not the modern conception of the grand passion, but the "sweethearting" at Glen St. Mary is as fresh and fragrant as lavendar beds in some old-world garden, and the readers follow Little Rilla with her first love-letter into the scented twilight of Rainbow Valley as into some holy place.

Rilla also contributes not a little to the laughter of the book, and proves to be a sparklingly original little person at times. It is Rilla who insists that she is "not going to college this fall or any fall, because she never could bear ologies and isms, and, anyway, there has to be one dunce in every family." Rilla who declares that as she "neither toils nor spins, she must surely be a lily of the field." But it is also Rilla who takes up the weary burden of the war, falling very sore on Glen St. Mary, and who bravely accepts every war measure, even to adopting a sickly "war-baby," whom she brings up by rote to a sizable childhood. And it is characteristic of this little heroine throughout that she makes a solemn vow to wear a certain over-costly hat of green velvet "for three years, or the duration," and sticks valiantly to her word, until on Armistice Day she announces her unlady-like intention of kicking the said hat "about the room until it is without form and void."

Of humor there is a-plenty in the pleasant pages of Miss Montgomery's book, supplied chiefly by the family factotum, Susan Baker, one of those quaint (and in real life rather rare) village characters, with a pithy comment for every situation. One cannot remember to have ever met anyone of Susan's particular caliber who followed the details of the world war with a vision and judgment that would have made her invaluable at the British war office, but, all the same, Susan's remarks anent public affairs contain more than a grain of truth, and her scathing reference to the procrastinating tendencies of the late president of the United States must surely, if recorded earlier, have hastened the entry of the American army into the conflict.

The plot in "Rilla of Ingleside" is very slight, but it is not in the unfolding of a plot that the art of this Canadian writer lies. Indeed, the reader is sometimes at a loss to trace a consecutive thread between the chapters, and the multiplicity of characters are more than a little confusing to anyone who may not have read the preceding book, "Rainbow Valley."

But Miss Montgomery has accomplished that rare thing, a clean, wholesome romance for the reading of which any man, woman or child would be the better. Those glimpses into nature at which she is a past mistress are alone worth an evening's reading, and in her creation of "Little Dog Monday" and "Dr.-Jekyll-and-Mr.-Hyde," the Ingleside household pets, she has done a bit of colorful writing worthy of all admiration. Little Dog Monday, who watches for four long years for the return of his soldier master, may be a hackneyed theme, but at Miss Montgomery's handling the little story becomes an epic that dims the eyes of the reader with understanding tears.

Unfortunately for the sustained satisfaction of the book, that matter of perspective which makes Canadian novels difficult in both the writing and the reading, catches Miss Montgomery when she cannot resist making Anne's soldier-poet son, Walter, the author of the great poem of the war, "The Piper," heralded from end to end of the empire. One remembers too vividly that the great poem of the war WAS written by a Canadian soldier, but his name was not Walter Blythe, nor was the poem "The Piper."

But, all told, the war note is sounded loyally and true through all the pages. Glen Mary, where the folk came of old world stock, gives gladly and freely to the great adventure, and Anne and her household are very real and brave pictures of Canadian women in those dark days of sacrifice.

And, after all, it is through her descriptive gift that Lucy Maude Montgomery has made her way so surely into the hearts of her country folk. (By the way, this very charming lady delighted a London audience only a few months ago with her readings of selected extracts from this very book, then unpublished.) So that, knowing and reverencing that gift that makes her prose into poems, and her poems into lyric melodies, one cannot forbear a quotation. Listen: "How beautiful the old glen looked in its August ripeness, with its chain of bowery old homesteads, tilled meadows and quiet gardens. The western sky was like a great golden pearl. Far down the harbor was frosted with a dawning moonlight. The air was full of exquisite sounds, sleepy robin whistles, wonderful, mournful, soft murmurs of wind in the twilit trees, rustle of aspen poplars talking in silvery whispers and shaking their dainty, heart-shaped leaves, lilting young laughter from the windows where the girls were getting ready for the dance."

It is to passages like this that Lucy Maude Montgomery owes her front-rank place in that ever-growing company of Canadian writing folk.

Question—Will you kindly tell me the parentage and nationality of Mr. De Valera, the gentleman negotiating about Ireland and oblige.—Enquirer.

A.—His real name is Edouardo de Valera and he was born in New York City on October 14, 1883. His father was Vivian de Valera, a Spanish artist, who was fascinated by the charms of a fair Irish girl, Catherine Coll, the daughter of an Irish National schoolteacher of Bruree County, Limerick, who, after her father's death, had been a monitress in Bruree school and then went to New York. The married life of the artist and his wife was cut short after two years by the death of Vivian de Valera, and so the young Edouardo was taken to Ireland by his uncle, Edward Coll (after whom he had been named), and placed in the old homestead at Bruree. BEQUEST TO SOLDIERS' WIDOWS.

Question.—By the bequest of the late Catherine Hamon, of Toronto, who left $200,000 to be given to the war widows of Ontario, what right has the courts to hold this so long? They should have received this money before now. There will be considerable interest on this money. The Soldiers' Aid committee should take this matter up. What is the matter? READER.

Answer.—The will was ambiguous and for that reason has to be interpreted by the courts. It is not certain whether it applies to soldiers' widows all over the empire, Canada or Ontario.

MADNESS.

Editor Free Press: In these days of uncertainty and unemployment we still find men and women who throw away their money and waste their time very foolishly. Why? Because they lack vision and ambition. A person without ambition and a madness for pleasure is as useless and as dangerous to civilization as a wild wolf. We have observed several men and women who are a curse to their life partners. There is a woman in my neighborhood who can be seen coming home at midnight or after every night in the week, but never with her husband, who is an ambitious, hard-working man. This husband is a heartbroken man. The woman would not go out with him. She says there is no fun going out with the husband. The only nights she stays home is when she has company in the house, which is about once a week. She frequents public dance halls and show houses, but would not go there with her husband. I have not seen her out with her husband in the last year. Her kitchen is in a filthy condition, dirty pots and pans stand around day after day and some for weeks. The husband has been seen time and again scouring dirty pots at 10 and 11 p. m. on numerous nights after doing a hard day's work. He does not get the proper rest, and with worry and discouragement he is now a nervous wreck. While he is sitting at home wondering where his wife might be, she is spending the biggest part of the night in pleasure, and she sleeps in the daytime when the husband is at work earning her daily bread, as well as his own. She can be seen boarding the last Normal car downtown at midnight. There are numerous men of the same stamp in our fine city. We have been observing many such. There will be some names published before long in an endeavor to enlighten these blind pleasure chasers and warn others. There are societies for the prevention of cruelty to animals. Now we are forming a society for the prevention of cruelty and ruination of life partners. What this country needs is people with ambition, and we must curb those that kill ambition in others.

PLAN BIG FIGHT FOR THE ESTATE

Baker Heirs Going After Question in Torough Way

ORGANIZE A COMPANY

Local Claimants Meet Here and Approve Steps Taken

Another attempt is under way to clear up the affairs of a Pennsylvania Dutch settler, Jacob Baker, or Baecker, who is believed to have left an estate which is now computed at various amounts up to $1,000,000,000 in property in Pennsylvania, consisting of valuable property in Philadelphia, coal mines and other holdings.

At a meeting of London heirs, held here last night, the steps which have been taken by the Ontario Baker Heirs' Association, Incorporated, were explained and an appeal was made to carry on the work of clearing up the estate.

Steps have already been taken to organize a company in Philadelphia, which is to handle the entire matter. It is the intention to have a bill brought before the Pennsylvania Legislature at its next session to make it possible for the company prosecuting the search to obtain access to old records in the hands of financial institutions in Philadelphia.

BACK TO 1737.

Some property has already been traced and the president of the association and the secretary had with them copies of land deeds made to Jacob Baker, with the seal of the State of Pennsylvania affixed, which showed the Baker ownership of a number of parcels of land extending as far back as 1737.

One of the big questions is the location of a certain 99-year lease of properties in Philadelphia, which is said to be in existence, and which would give to the heirs some millions of dollars of property in the heart of Philadelphia.

The heads of the association bespoke their confidence that the estate existed. They have already advanced some $2,000 toward the formation of the Philadelphia company, and need another $3,000 to complete their contract in connection with this organization. Aside from this they are only asking funds to pay the expenses of the president of the association in Philadelphia while the recovery is being prosecuted.

There were some 30 London heirs at the meeting last night and they showed great interest in the matter. Some appeared rather dubious as to the success of this latest enterprise, as they pointed out that attempts had been made to clear up the matter during the past 50 years, all to no purpose. Many of those present had advanced money to other organizations, which had produced no results. The secretary of this incorporated society, however, pointed out that no great demands for money were being made and that the new organization was taking the right steps to prosecute the matter to a successful conclusion.

It is also the intention of the corporation to trace the family tree of Jacob Baker down through the years in an effort to determine the real descendants entitled to participate in the immense estate which it is believed exists.

BRUCE FARMERS SEEKING POWER

Arran Township Line Is Possible At $57 Per H. P.

TARA, Oct. 7.—The progressive farmers on the sixth concession of Arran are after hydro power and asked as to the cost of same. Dr. Hacking, chairman of the local hydro commission, received the information and called a meeting of those interested in the matter.

The commission offers two contracts. The first is to supply power at $57.76 per year to each consumer on a line from Tara to John Dolphin's, the commission to build the line. The second contract is if the prospective users build the line the service charge will be $20 per year. Contract includes maintenance charge and upkeep of the line. The charge for power will be 10 cents for the first 14 hours and five cents for balance of power used.

There are 10 farmers on this line and already six have signified their intention of taking the power. The commission requires nine subscribers on the line to put it in operation and it is expected that the required number will be secured.

TO ASK DEBENTURES FOR NEW NURSES' HOME

Hospital Trust Decides to Request City Council to Submit By-Law.

The City Council will be asked to submit a by-law to the ratepayers in December next to authorize the issue of debentures for the construction of the proposed new nurses' home. This action was decided upon yesterday afternoon by the Hospital Trust in special session. The meeting had been called particularly to discuss the advisability of erecting a home now.

While it was the opinion of the trustees that a by-law should be submitted to the ratepayers, there was no decision as to the amount of money that will be needed. This and other details will be decided later.

As it is necessary for all requests for the by-law to be sent in to the city clerk not later than October 12, the special meeting was called yesterday so the request might be sent in at once.

JURY EXONERATES DRIVER OF CAR

Samuel Whindell Came to His Death Accidentally, Is Verdict

HAPPENED A WEEK AGO

George Bindner, Driver of Automobile, Did Not See Wagon

Accidental death was the jurors' verdict at an inquest held at the police station into the death of Samuel Whindell, aged 78, a farmer, second concession of London Township, who died early on Monday morning of injuries suffered in an automobile accident on Sunday evening, October 2. A democrat wagon, in which Whindell was riding, was struck by an auto driven by George Bindner, 3 O'Brien street, on Oxford street a little east of Summit Hill.

Bindner stated that he was driving into the city from visiting friends a few miles out. There was a fine rain falling and as he neared the top of the hill he suddenly came upon the horse and democrat. He endeavored to avoid hitting it, but owing to the road being excavated and slippery he was unable to turn out, and as a consequence one of the wheels of the motor car struck one wheel of the wagon.

THROWN OFF WAGON.

The democrat had two seats on it, and both were loose, with the result that Mr. Whindell and the seats were thrown off the wagon. Bindner said he was traveling at a very moderate rate of speed, as the road was bad and it was very dark. This was corroborated by other witnesses. When the machine struck the wagon it had come to almost a stop and Bindner jumped out and picked the injured man up. He was carried to a near-by house, where he asked that a shaft that had been broken be repaired and he would go home, but Bindner drove him home in his car, and after Whindell assured him that he was not badly hurt he came home.

About midnight Mr. Whindell became unconscious and Dr. S. J. F. Bean was called and all efforts to save his life were futile. He is believed to have died from a clot of blood on the brain.

The first Mr. Bindner knew of the death was when he went to inquire as to his condition on Monday night. The news came as a great shock, as he was sure Mr. Whindell had not suffered serious injury.

WANTS RIGS LIGHTED.

A recommendation was brought in by the jury that all rigs carry a light at night. They pointed out that if rigs were lighted 90 per cent. of such accidents would not occur. In this particular case the accident would not have occurred had the rig been lighted, and on a hill the lights of the automobile being very irregular a dark object cannot be detected until right upon it.

STRUCK A GOOD BRITISH MARKET

Andrew Cormack Returns From Trip Across Ocean.

PRAISES SCOTCH BEEF.

Brings $40 a Head More Than Canadian Cattle.

CARGILL, Oct. 7.—Andrew Cormack, well-known cattle dealer, has returned from the old country, where he shipped 175 head of cattle. Mr. Cormack states that he struck a good market for his cattle, but that prices have since fallen off some. The embargo on Canadian cattle entering Great Britain has been a great handicap to stock farmers of this country, and it will be a great boon to the trade when the efforts of Canadian representatives to have the embargo removed are fully successful, and there is every likelihood that this will soon be accomplished.

Scottish farmers, Mr. Cormack says, produce the best beef cattle and their stock sells at $40 to $45 per head more than the best shipped from Canada. A very large number are sent over to England from Ireland also. Those from both Ireland and Scotland can be taken anywhere in the United Kingdom and slaughtered at any time, while Canadian cattle must be slaughtered not later than 10 days after landing at a British port.

MR. KING TALKS ABOUT ECONOMY

But Says Nothing About the Tariff Issue

IN THE ISLAND PROVINCE

Second of Series of Meetings in Prince Edward Island

GEORGETOWN, P.E.I., Oct. 7.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—"Economy and the strictest retrenchment in national expenditures are the crying needs of this country to-day," declared Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, in the second of his meetings on Prince Edward Island. Mr. King's meeting in the skating rink here followed immediately the King's County Liberal nomination meeting, where J. J. Hughes, member of the Commons previous to 1912, was chosen as the Liberal standard-bearer.

Premier Bell and other members of the Provincial Government, were on the platform. Speakers in addition to Mr. King were A. R. McMaster, Brome, and Wm. Duff, of Lunenburg. They also spoke of the need of economy and declared that the people must choose between continued extravagance as represented by the Meighen Government, and economy as outlined in the Liberal platform.

William Duff, in dealing with merchant marine expenditures by the Government, challenged Premier Meighen, while he was at Georgetown next week, to produce and Act of Parliament which would show that the Liberals had approved the Government's policy of building and operating merchant marine ships.

Mr. King and party returned to Charlottetown to-day, and to-morrow will go to Summerside, where they will spend Sunday and address a meeting early next week.

Meetings at Alberton, O'Leary, and possibly Souris, will be held before the tour of the island is completed.

PLAN WELCOME TO FEIN DELEGATES

Irish in London Arrange a Big Reception

WILL BE A PROCESSION

Expected Conference on Home Rule Will Be Lengthy

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(Associated Press Cable.)—When the Irish delegates to the conference of next week arrive here to-morrow a big reception committee, including members of the Gaelic League, the Sinn Fein, the Irish Self-Determination League and the Gaelic Athletic Association will be at the station to meet them.

The Irish Self-Determination League, according to an announcement, anticipates that a large crowd will gather and has requested that the precincts of the station be kept clear. The route to be taken by the delegation to their Chelsea headquarters will lead through the principal thoroughfares to the West End.

The houses taken for the delegates have been rented for two months, with the option of an extension of this time.

SAYS PREMIER HUGHES HAS MISCONCEPTION OF WASHINGTON ATTITUDE

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The London Times in an editorial to-night brands as "an entire misconception" Premier Hughes' statement in the Australian House of Representatives on Thursday in which he is quoted as having said that efforts to secure Dominion representation at the Washington conference were stopped when only "the United States slammed the door in our face."

The paper declares that the United States never rejected any proposal to have Dominion representatives at the conference, adding that the British Government, at a time when it did not fully realize the nature of the Washington proposals, suggested a preliminary conference which the dominion premiers might attend on their way home from from the imperial conference.

Great satisfaction is expressed by The Times at the increasing evidence of growing interest in the conference. The inclusion of an Australian representative, it says, is the most welcome indication we have yet seen that the British Government is awakening to the sense of the broader possibilities of the conference at Washington.

CAMDEN TOWNSHIP FARMER LOSES LEG

THAMESVILLE, Oct. 7.—Yesterday afternoon Joshia Boosey, of Camden Township, one mile from here, dropped dead from heart failure. The deceased was 78 years of age, and lived with a brother and sister. The family was among the very earliest settlers in this district.

Wesley McPherson, a Camden Township farmer, met with a serious accident this week. He was engaged in dragging some land, when his horses became frightened and ran away. In trying to stop the horses Mr. McPherson's right leg was caught in the drag and badly mutilated. He was taken to the St. Joseph's Hospital, Chatham, where it was found necessary to amputate the leg.

THE LONG-SUFFERING WORLD.

Worms are turning into a profitable business for those who provide the angler with his complete equipment, except his fish yarns, declares The London News.

A worm farm has been started in Leeds and worms are being sold by the pint. So far there has been no trouble, and the belief that even worms will eventually turn can no longer be accepted.

They are reared in specially prepared worm beds, and as many as 20 pints a day are being sold in one shop.

Leeds has also a magot farm, an enterprise started by an anglers' outfitter. Between four hundred and five hundred worms go to the pint, so that the selling of 20 pints a day by one man shows the incurable optimism of fishermen.

Profiteering in worms has been something of a scandal on the east coast during the present season, as much as a penny for six having been charged.—Winnipeg Tribune

CHECK BOOKS OF SARNIA GAS CO.

City Auditor Examining Service Charge Accounts

OFFICIALS NOT SATISFIED

Manufacturers Protest Successfully Shut-Off Order

SARNIA, Oct. 7.—The city auditor to-day began an examination of the Sarnia Gas Company's books to check them up since the time the service charge was begun, and find out if the statement submitted by the company at the inquiry at Chatham was correct. The city and several aldermen were not satisfied with the statement as submitted at that time.

A meeting called last night by Mayor Crawford was attended by only a few of the manufacturers of the city, when the question of the shut-off of the gas supply on October 10 was discussed and the hardships to the manufacturers recorded.

CAUSE UNEMPLOYMENT.

Those attending were assured that they would be permitted to use gas until further notice. Their statements showed that unemployment would result if they were compelled to close down and serious loss to business result. It was decided that those firms not represented at the meeting did not have an inconvenience to report, and it is expected that their supply will cease on the date set, October 10.

A convention of the teachers of West Lambton, which has been in session here for the past few days, came to an end this afternoon. The convention is declared a grand success by the many teachers who have attended, and the papers read have been of a high order and helpful.

APPLE PICKING IS GENERAL.

Fall Work On Farm Makes Satisfactory Progress.

TORONTO, Oct. 7. — Following is a summary of the reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario department of agriculture:

Potato digging is general in the province and reports are practically unanimous to the effect that potatoes are turning out very much better than was expected earlier in the season. The crop has matured considerably during the past few weeks and while it will no doubt be less than average, the shortage will be much less than was formerly expected. In Dufferin County potatoes have been selling at $1 a bag, in Temiskaming $1.30 to $1.50 per bag, and in Port Arthur district, which has a good crop of exceptional quality, from $1 to $1.50 per bogg.

Apple picking is also very general. In some of the apple sections the crop is comparatively good, but on the whole is below average. Northumberland reports a good, fai cop of high-gade apples, with prices up to $5 per barrel, f. o. b. Simcoe County reports Northern Spies as being more plentiful than other varieties and being marketed t $3.50 tree run. "Dealers buying apples readily at good prices," is the report from Durham, while in Dundas prices are quoted from $6.50 to $9 per barrel. The severe windstorm of last Friday did a great deal of damage to apples still on the trees in Dundas County and in Lennor and Addington and some other Eastern Ontario sections.

Fall work on the farm is making satisfactory progress. Plowing in many sections has been retarded on account of the dry weather, but it would appear that more than the average for the time of the year has been completed. There is a slight increase in the acreage in fall wheat and the fact that the harvest was finished up so early has been responsible for an unusual amount of work being done putting the land in shape for next year's crops, which should result in a larger acreage next year.

Silo filling is finished in many sections and silos this year have, as a rule, been entirely inadequate to take care of the record crop, which has been of excellent maturity as well as exceptional quantity.

Live stock prices still obtain at very low levels. Lennox and Addington repor fat cattle at 2 to 5 cents per pound; veal calves, 5 to 7 cents, and hogs, 9 cents. Generally speaking, however, the farmers are not disposing of their foundation stock, and taking the province over, the number going to market is only moderate.

The milk flow has been well maintained for the season of the year and prices for dairy products have been reasonably steady, although there has been a slight drop in cheese prices in some sections.

M'INTYRE FOR EAST ELGIN?

Liberals Having Hard Time Finding Candidate

SAY CHANCES ARE SLIM

C.B.R.E. at St. Thomas Opposes Wage Reduction

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 7.—(By Staff Reorter.)—The latest information in connection with the Liberal campaign in East Elgin is to the effect that Daniel McIntyre, veteran campaigner and a former candidate of the party, will be the standard bearer in the approaching contest. It is known that the Liberals are in somewhat of a delimma, for as far as can be learned, no one who would be at all likely to win the election appears willing to enter the field. They apparently realize, after what happened to W. G. Charlton, in the 1917 campaign and again in the recent bye-election, that the chances for a Mackenzie King supporter in East Elgin are decidedly slim.

On the other hand, it is also a well known fact that Daniel McIntyre is perhaps the most outspoken member of the party in East Elgin, and is more decidedly opposed to the U.F.O. policy than any other Liberal follower. He has also been spending a good deal of time during the past few weeks visiting the fall fairs throughout the district and on several occasions recently at public gatherinngs has delivered addresses, in which he touched on the political questions of the day.

THREE TIMES DEFEATED.

Mr. McIntyre was defeated on three occasions by C. A. Brower, former member for East Elgin, who represented th Conservativ party. Mr. McIntyre's first test was in 1898, his second in 1899 and the next in 1911. In each contest he was defeated by a small majority; in one issue his opponent only got 12 votes over Mr. McIntyre, while in the 1911 campaign Mr. Brower got 124 more that the proposed Liberal candidate.

In the last bye-election, while speaking at Yarmouth Center, Mr. McIntyre declared that he believed he might be able to-day to accomplish what he has failed to do in his earlier days, and he expressed the hope that he might some day be able to enter the field. It was stated that he is now being approached by party followers with a view to entering the contest.

John L. Stansell is said to be the most likely choice of the National Liberal and Conservative party in East Elgin.

In West Elgin William Tomlie already represents the Liberal party as far as the party convention is concerned

N. L. C. WEDNESDAY.

The Government will hold a convention next Wednesday when a candidate will be named from the following: Mayor Brinkman, Dr. J. D. Curtis, W. W. Scott, of St. Thomas, and H. C. McKillop, of West Lorne, warden of the county, and the United Farmers, who are said to be ready to support a labor man will have as their candidate either John Lane, the present nominee, or A. E. Hookway, W. Stokes, W. K. Sanderson or Albert Roberts. A selection will be made at the city hall in this city on Saturday, October 15.

There is a growing opinion in the rural parts of West Elgin, however, that unless the candidate of the Labor party is a pretty well-known man the farmers of the riding will not give their support to the joint U. F. O.-I. L. P. movement. It is openly admitted in Dutton and other villages in the rural part of the riding that such a situation as that in existence in the last provincial election will never again present itself. At that time it was a straight fight between the newly-organized U. F. O.-I. L. P. and the Conservatives. The candidate of the Labor-Farmer party was a well-known farmer, who had resided all his life in the riding. When a city man is named, and quite possibly a man who is not well known in the rural districts, the fight will be altogether different, especially in view of the fact that a candidate is also running in the interests of the Liberal party, who is a member of the United Farmers' Association.

From present indications it is impossible to obtain a forecast even from the most willing prognosticator.

FISTIC ENCOUNTER.

Herbert Dennis, an 18-year-old youth, residing in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk yards, appeared in police court to-day on a charge of obstructing an officer while in the discharge of his duties. The youngster bore a nasty scar on his face. The case was adjourned for a week owing to the illness of the crown attorney. The information was laid by Detective Harry McGowan, head of the Wabash detectives, who has been conducting a lengthy investigation into petty thieving here, with Detective Joel Smith, during the past few days. Mr. McGowan states that Dennis and he met at the bridge at the foot of Ommeeme street, and that a fistic encounter took place for some reason or other.

The local division of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees, comprised for the most part of Grand Trunk men, have decided to oppose the proposed agreement, including a reduction in wages and will give every support to their committee in carrying out their decision.

The local fire department was called this afternoon to the home of C. L. Jewell, in Ross street, to extinguish a small blaze in a chimney. Their services were not required, however, as Mr. Jewell had put the flames out himself.

William McCallum, of this city, appeared in police court to-day on a charge of nonsupport and desertion, laid by his wife, Mrs. Eliza McCallum. Hearing of the evidence was adjourned until next Monday. C. B. McClurg appeared for the plaintiff and Andrew Grant for the defendant.

CHECK ARTIST BUSY.

A beautifully plumed young woodcock was found dead as a result of coming in contact with a street railway electric wire this afternoon, by Constable John Hopkins.

Chief Hammersly, of the L. & P. S. R., appeared at the magistrate's office in the courthouse to-day and paid in the sum of $5, a speed fine paid to him by a London man.

A stranger named Forrest managed to pass off a worthless check for $25 on a girl employee of Taylor's Restaurant here early this week. Ex-Ald. Taylor, proprietor, notified the police a few minutes after the affair occurred, but a search of the city failed to indicate the whereabouts of the mysterious stranger. A description has been obtained and he will be carefully watched for.

Stirilling Camp, Sons of Scotland, a newly organized branch of the S.O.E., in this city, will hold an open night in Cavell Hall next Thursday. The officers are preparing a social program. This is the first attempt to organize such a Scottish society in this city.

COURT'S FINDING ON ZR-2 LOSS

Decide Accident Due to Structural Weakness

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The design of the dirigible ZR-2, which came to grief in the Humber River at Hull in September, should have been examined and discussed by a competent official committee before its construction, was the official declaration of a court of inquiry, issued to-day. The report adds that there is no evidence to show that this was done, and finds that the accident was due to structural weakness.

The report was issued, together with a communication from the Admiralty, which says the Admiralty is conducting a full investigation into the history and design of the airship, and the initial stages of its construction up to October, 1919, "when its responsibility for the design and construction of airships was transferred to the air ministry."

The admiralty's communication adds that the result of this investigation will be published in due course.

In connection with the publication of the report the air ministry appends a statement that the air council, while it considers that reasonable certainty has been reached as to what actually happened when the accident occurred, and as to the sequence of events, it is the council's opinion that judgment must be suspended on further points raised by the report until the work of investigation by the aeronautical research committee, which has already been begun, is concluded.

LATE POTATOES BELOW AVERAGE

But Crop In Brant Was Better Than Expected.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 7. — Late potatoes are reported to be a much better crop in Brant than was expected after the failure of the early crop. The average will run to about a two-thirds normal crop. Potatoes have dropped here to $2.25 a bag, with a likelihood that $1.75 will be the winter price. Apples are very scarce, however, and, judging from what appears on the local market, of not too high a quality. Even where sprayed the quality is not too high, worm holes and bruises being particularly noticeable.

The big spread between hogs on the hoofs and bacon in the stores was being emphasized here during the week. Hogs dropped to nine and one-half cents a pound on the hoof, and bacon ranged from 43 cents to 70 cents a pound. The alibi of the meat dealers is that there is no demand for by-products or the "cheaper" cuts, but inquiries failed to locate the "cheaper cuts," which would explain the great difference between nine and one-half cents on the one hand and 70 cents on the other.

U. F. O. members declare that such cases as these are the biggest argument for the U. F. O. development.

The announcement that agricultural implement prices would be cut 25 per cent. was well received here, but it did not result in any great rush to the dealers for new machines. What did prove of more than passing interest was the statement issued by local implement manufacturers showing the difference in length of usage of machines which were properly protected from the weather when not in use and those which were laying out in the fields all winter. It is a fact that any trip through the countryside will reveal dozens of implements of almost all kinds except binders and mowers left out in the weather without any protection. The result is actual loss, for the depreciation account is very great, and exposure practically cuts the life of a machine in two.

We Finance Farmers

IMPROVED machinery is solving the labor problem on many Canadian farms.

A Bank Loan has, in part, the same relation to farm activities as the use of modern machinery, as the latter enables you to work from two to three times the amount of land formerly cultivated, and a Bank Loan will furnish you the capital to operate the extra land.

John Munday, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Port Huron, assisted by Canon Hill, rector of Christ Church, Petrolea. The drawing-room was beautifully decorated with fall foliage, ferns and palms intermingled with old-fashioned garden flowers. The bay window, a bower of roses, made a very artistic setting for the marriage ceremony. The decorations of the dining-room were yellow and white, this color scheme being the feature of the bride's table. The bridal party entered as the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played, the bride being given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. John Archibald Kerr, of Petrolea. The bride looked very beautiful in a handsome gown of kitten's ear satin embroidered in pearls, the veil of exquisite old lace fashioned after the Spanish style, banded with orange blossoms and pearls. Her bouquet was of bridal roses and lillies of the valley. The bride's sister, Miss Marion Gurd, as maid of honor, looked charming in a French frock of mauve taffeta and carried sweetheart roses. The out-of-town guests numbered about 50. After the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Smith left for a month's honeymoon at Lake Placid, N. Y. The bride traveled in a navy blue tricotine frock trimmed with silver cloth and a navy blue coat of marvella cloth, with pointed fox furs. On their return they will reside in Toronto.

BABY BYRNE.

Has Never Caused One Disturbed Night.

27, York Street,
Sacriston, Durham.

Dear Sir,

I am sending a photograph of my baby Alice, aged 12 months, who has had Virol since birth. Though very tiny at birth, and artificially fed since two weeks old, she has never required medical advice, nor given me one disturbed night. Her weight is now 22½ lbs., and she has nine teeth, which she has cut without trouble. She is a most lovable and happy baby, and I am very grateful for the great benefit she has derived from Virol.

Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) (Mrs.) M. BYRNE.

Virol is used in large quantities in more than 2,000 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilizing of milk; it is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

BETTER BUSINESS PROSPECTS.

Slight betterment has been noted during the past two months in many manufacturing fields. There is an encouraging note of optimism in some trade circles. Both indicate that American industry is determined to take the view that the worst is over, and from that view it is possible to look back and realize the strain through which the country passed. It is now apparent from these figures that a serious panic was averted only by faith in the country and its institutions, and the same faith should go a long way toward dispelling the fear that the winter will be a period of idleness. — Indianapolis News.

Where Did You Get That Dress?

One afternoon, not so long ago, there was a large and fashionable garden party given here in London—a very large party on a very large lawn.

As usual, every woman invited was mightily interested in the matter of her dress. "What shall I wear What will the rest wear?" That was the question.

In particular, however, everybody was interested in the dresses likely to be worn by three ladies who had recently returned from visiting in the States. Naturally, it was argued, each of the three would have brought back something very new and stylish and "special" from New York, Detroit and Chicago—the three cities, respectively, in which they were known to have been staying.

The day arrived. It was a June day, and a rare and lovely day even for June. The skies above London were never so blue. The lawns of London were never so green. The roses in that garden were never so sweet, nor its maple trees and elms fresher in their foliage. And under the trees the tea tables, fine as fine could be.

Every woman was in her best bib and tucker. Every woman had an eye on the best bib and tucker next her. Every woman waited for a look at the three best bibs and tuckers that were coming from the "States."

The three travelers arrived, first one and then another. Eyes opened fairly wide in pleasure at the prettiness of the first frock; all frills and furbelows as the frocks then were. Eyes opened wider when the second frock proved to be the mate of the first frock, down to the last ruffle. And eyes opened to the twisting point, when the third frock arriving, it turned out, material, cut, frills and furbelows, to be the exact reproduction of the other two.

What a scream! There they stood, the poor creatures, in their dresses from the U. S. A. They were as like as three blue-birds in them, or three robin-redbreasts, or any other three, as like as like could be. One dress from Chicago. One dress from Detroit. One dress from New Yoark. Each dress in the mind of its wearer the newest thing out. And every dress like every other dress, not a stitch to choose between.

A smile passed round. When the thing dawned upon them, the three blue-birds or robin-redbreasts, or what you will, smiled, too But their smile was different. Think of it! All three as like as three peas down to the last dome fastening. But, dear me, it needs a woman to appreciate the situation.

So Mrs. A. smiled. And Mrs. B. smiled. And Mrs. C. smiled the smile that couldn't come off. Then the band played, "Oh, the Wild, Wild Women!"

What our three travelers had overlooked, or, more probably, had never given a thought to, was the fact that the thousand, thousand dresses made to standard every season in the workshops of the United States, are shipped, a hundred of this style and a couple of hundred of that style, here, there and everywhere throughout the cities of the Union.

And even then, who could have dreamed that three unfortunate London women, shopping in cities so wide apart as Chicago, Detroit and New York, would have had the ill-luck to hit on the identical model. When one shops at home, one shops in a safer place. But travel-shoppers must be content, as Shakespeare would say,

N. B.—The editor vouches for the authenticity of the above incident. Only, in reality, there were six United States dresses, all alike, at that party. The editor was afraid you wouldn't believe it.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

Something in the tone of his voice had seemed to imply so very much and yet, of course, it was absurd to imagine, for an instant that—

And then she woke from her dream with a start as she glanced across the road, and saw George Laxton himself.

He was talking to a man in a light dog-cart; a man who was leaning down towards him with every appearance of friendliness.

Both men were laughing, and at first neither of them saw Norah and her father.

Mr. Ackroyd had seen them, too, and his face hardened a little.

"I suppose Bethune hopes to get the lord of the manor for a patient," he said grimly. "I should have thought he would have had too much sense to imagine—" He broke off.

Laxton had walked away, and the man in the dogcart was turning his cob across the road towards the Ackroyds.

Norah kept her eyes deliberately averted from the tall, thin figure striding away down the village street.

She smiled rather nervously in reply to Dr. Bethune's greeting; she was painfully conscious of the disapproval in her father's face.

"Well, early birds!" said the doctor cheerily.

He was the most popular man in the village, and in spite of himself Mr. Ackroyd's face relaxed a little as he looked up at him.

"Well," he said, rather ungraciously, "making acquaintance with the new lord of the manor?"

"Oh, we're old friends already!" Bethune answered easily. "Nice chap, isn't he?"

Norah's father laughed shortly.

"I'm afraid I haven't had the pleasure—" he began stiffly.

Bethune looked frankly surprised.

"Really! Haven't you met him?" He half turned in his seat and looked after Laxton's retreating figure. "What a pity! I might have introduced him if I'd known you—"

"Thanks—thanks very much; but I'm not anxious to know him," said Mr. Ackroyd with sarcasm. "From all accounts he won't be staying in Lumsden long, and even if he were—" He paused significantly.

Bethune looked annoyed.

"Surely you don't pay any attention to the silly stories that have been flying round about the boy?" he asked vexedly. "It's preposterous the absurdities one hears. Come, come, Ackroyd, we were all a bit wild in our youth, you know." He smiled good-naturedly at the elder man's grim face, but Mr. Ackroyd did not unbend.

"As to him not being here for long," the other man resumed, "unfortunately, he won't be able to stay, or I dare say he'd be glad enough to do so. Barton Manor's a fine old place; there's many a girl who'd be only too pleased and proud to be asked to share it—eh, Miss Norah?"

Norah flushed sensitively.

Her father cut in shortly—

"Anyway, the place is to be let, and a good job, too, I should say."

Bethune shrugged his shoulders. He knew Mr. Ackroyd from A to Z, and took his choleric outbursts for exactly what they were worth.

"Well, we're not to get rid of him quite so soon as you seem to imagine," he said cheerily. "Laxton's just been telling me that he's going to have a house party—ask all his pals down from town, and do the thing in style." He chuckled retrospectively. "That'll make the folks round here sit up, eh? I'll bet my life Laxton knows how to make things hum if ever a lad did—Ah, well!"

He glanced from Norah to her father with a twinkle in his eyes. There was a little pause, then he broke out again:

"Come, Ackroyd, play fair! Give the devil his due. Laxton's a very decent fellow, take him all round. Of course, we all know he's not a saint, and I quite admit that he's sown a few more wild oats than were strictly necessary; but there's something to be said for him, you know. He had a shocking upbringing; his father was a scamp."

"And the son is also a scamp," Mr. Ackroyd struck in sharply. "My dear Bethune, I know what I'm talking about, and apparently you do not." He was angry that Norah should hear such a determined defense of the black sheep. "He's been a ne'er-do-well all his life; he had to clear out of England a few years back because he couldn't face his creditors; and things apparently were no better in America. Wherever he goes he makes his name a scandal and a byword, and I think it's a crying shame that such a young blackguard as I know him to be should be allowed to come down here and impose on decent people."

"Father!" Norah's voice was full of angry distress; she had flushed up to her eyes. "How can you say such things? You know they are not true."

"I know that they are true," Mrs. Ackroyd declared loudly. "And Bethune here knows it, too, only he doesn't choose to admit it."

He looked up at the doctor with challenging eyes.

Bethune was no longer smiling; his kind face was a little stern.

THE LONGING FOR PEACE.

The Irish people, who regard with horror the prospect of a return to civil war, are hoping against hope that the Cabinet will think it worth while to continue negotiations. As the Dublin correspondent of The Times remarked on Tuesday, they have been confident that a settlement would emerge from talk and letters. The Sinn Fein leaders, it is believed, have gone far beyond the wishes of their constituency. The voice of Britain calls for patience. In spite of sore provocation there is an undercurrent of sympathy in all hearts with a little nation struggling after liberty. The Historian Prescott expresses the thought in memorable words: "Free! Understand that well, it is the deep commandment, dimmer or clearer, of our whole being, to be free. Freedom is the one purpose, wisely aimed at or unwisely, of all man's struggles, toilings and suffering on this earth." A royal gift of freedom has been offered to Ireland. It will be one of the tragedies not only of that "high Milesian race" which has passed through so many sorrows, but of mankind as a whole, if through the folly of their spokesmen the gift is finally refused.—British Weekly.

Lady Trustee Thinks Schools Are Fascinating

Mrs. Hunt Has Spent Many Hours In City Classrooms During Her Term on Board of Education

"I am more fascinated by the public schools of this city, by the system of teaching, by the bright, responsive children and the splendid staff of teachers than I have ever been by anything in my life," declared Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt in reviewing to The Free Press yesterday the apparently wholly enjoyable year she has spent in office as a member of the London Board of Education.

Mrs. Hunt has followed the rather unique policy during her first term of visiting the various schools of the city and, not satisfied with a cursory glance, spending an hour or so with pupils and teachers in each room.

"I have spent many and many a happy morning sitting in one of the school seats, following with keen interest the progress of the lessons, which the teachers of the present day seem to make so interesting, and which the children grasp readily," Mrs. Hunt said. "I never was privileged to attend a public school myself, so every bit of the splendid system of education is an interesting revelation to me."

WANTS WOMEN ON BOARD.

Mrs. Hunt admitted that the prospect of a board on which she would be the only woman member did not appeal to her. In office herself for another term, this active board member believes that a percentage of three women on a board of 14 would not be more than sufficient. "Personally, I do not think that the number of the board will be reduced," she said.

Even without the big issue of the Collegiate before next year's board Mrs Hunt is of the opinion that there will be plenty to interest the women of the city during 1922.

"One thing the women ought to consider very carefully is the suggestion of building extensive additions to the Technical School, while so many of the city schools are in need of additions," Mrs. Hunt pointed out. "In most of the schools which I have visited the teachers have been handicapped by lack of room and few of the schools seem adequate for the growing attendance. I believe that a gymnasium is necessary, but it is not as vitally necessary as every-day accommodation for the public school pupils. I would not think of building a drawing-room in my house if there was not a kitchen there, though the drawing-room would be a delightful addition. An auditorium is a luxury, and in the present condition of affairs I don't think we can afford luxuries."

Mrs. Hunt declared that she has enjoyed working with her colleagues, though she is of the opinion that men sometimes miss important details while on the lookout for big concerns.

CAR FARE FOR KIDDIES.

"I want car fare for the little kiddies who attend the auxiliary classes, whose parents may find this extra expense impossible," she said. "It would not cost more than $25 a year and would make all the difference in the world to the little ones."

Asked as to possible women candidates for the board, Mrs. Hunt stated that she was personally most anxious to see Mrs. John Gemmell enter the field. "She would do excellent service on the board," she said.

Approached by The Free Press as to her possible candidature Mrs. Gemmell declared emphatically that she had no aspirations in this direction. "I have as many duties now as I can manage," she said, "and I would not consider nomination under any circumstances."

LT.-GOVERNOR TO UNVEIL HOSPITAL CORNER STONE

Col. Cockshutt Coming on November 4; G. W. V. A. Cot May Be Result of Poppy Day

His honor Lieut.-Col. Henry Cockshutt, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, will officiate at the unveiling of the corner stone of the Memorial Children's Hospital on the afternoon of Friday, November 4, according to official announcement made at yesterday's meeting of the executive of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E.

Lieut.-Col. Cockshutt, with Mrs. Cockshutt, will arrive in the city, it is expected, about noon and the latter will be the guest of the I. O. D. E. and hospital committee at a luncheon at the London Hunt Club. His honor will be the guest of some of the men's organizations of the city and the hospital ceremonial will immediately follow.

SAME PROGRAM

For this event a program has already been drafted, for use at the event of May 11 last, when it was expected that the former lieutenant-governor, Hon. Lionel Clarke, would officiate at the unveiling. The illness of the late lieutenant-governor necessarily postponed the ceremony, which will take place as far as possible along the lines then planned. His honor, Col. Cockshutt, will be presented with a handsome silver trowel, suitably engraved, Mrs. F. G. Greenaway, secretary of the hospital committee, having been asked to perform this office. The unveiling and sealing of the inscribed stone, which is already in place, will follow an address from the lieutenant-governor, and the National Anthem, prayer by the senior chaplain of the district and fitting hymns will be included on the program. It is expected that a brief address by Mrs. Arthur Smith, convener of the hospital committee, will also form a part of the proceedings and the G. W. V. A. Band has been secured.

The executives of the Municipal Chapter and the hospital committee, augmented by Mrs. E. H. Johnston and Mrs. Gordon Hunt, conveners of the luncheon, will meet early in the week to arrange final details.

G. W. V. A. APPEAL

During yesterday's meeting of the executive Lieut.-Col. Coles waited upon the members on behalf of the G. W. V. A., soliciting the assistance of the I. O. D. E. in the sale of scarlet poppies on Armistice Day in commemoration of the Canadian men who fell among the poppies of Flanders. The G. W. V. A. suggested the endowment of a cot ($1,000) in the children's hospital from the proceeds of the sale, which Col. Coles thought could be conducted for two or three days prior to November 11. From end to end of the Dominion an effort is being made to thus commemorate the world event of November 11, 1918, and the local I. O. D. E. has promised to consider the matter and to report in a week's time. It is expected that the Daughters of the Empire in this city will, if sufficient workers can be secured, join with the G. W. V. A. in this patriotic undertaking.

PLAYING TRICKS.

Now the hen known as old Whitey was something of a gossip. She went straight to the farmyard and told everybody what had happened—what Henrietta Hen had said to her and what she had said to Henrietta Hen. The whole flock had a great laugh over the affair.

To Henrietta Hen's delight, all her neighbors took a keen interest in the wonderful white egg. They asked her countless questions about it. Above all, they always took pains to inquire whether she had been so unlucky as to crack the shell. And if Henrietta hadn't displeased Polly Plymouth Rock one day, the truth might never have come out.

Anyhow, Polly Plymouth Rock told Henrietta Hen that if she had any sense she would stop making such a fuss over a china egg.

"China egg!" cried Henrietta. "I don't know what you mean."

"That's not a real egg that you're so proud of," Polly Plymouth Rock declared. "It's nothing but a make-believe one. Johnnie Green left it in your nest to fool you, so you'd keep that nest and lay eggs in it, right along. . . . You're so careful not to break that China egg! Why, if you tried to break it you'd find that it's solid as a rock."

Henrietta Hen couldn't believe the terrible news.

"I laid that egg myself!" she shrieked.

"You think you did, but you didn't," Poll Plymouth Rock snapped. "Johnny Green took an egg of yours one day and left that other one in its place, to deceive you. And everybody on the farm—except you—knows that he succeeded,"

The whole flock had a great laugh over the affair.

Henrietta Hen didn't wait to hear anything more. She rushed squalling into the barn and straight to her nest. One good, hard peck at the big white egg told her beyond all doubt that she had been betrayed. The beautiful, big, white egg wasn't an egg after all!!

Now that Henrietta Hen knew it she wondered how it could ever have deceived her. She saw that it was shiny and altogether unlike any egg she had ever seen anywhere.

"Johnnie Green has played a mean trick on me," Henrietta Hen cackled. "And now I'll play one on him! He can have his old china egg. I'll leave it here for him. But he'll find none of my beautiful little brown eggs beside it. I'll have my nest where he'll never discover it—not if he hunts for it all summer long!"

So saying, she left the haymow. And going into the carriage shed, her roving eyes chanced to light on an old straw hat of Johnnie Green's that lay upside down on a high shelf.

Henrietta Hen managed to flutter up beside it. And then with many a chuckle she laid a brown egg in the hat.

"There!!" she cackled. "This is the safest place on the farm. Johnnie Green hasn't had this hat on his head since last summer."

NOISE.

I am an active woman with a particularly busy life full of family duties and intellectual pursuits. I am no invalid, but, besides a weak stomach, I have always been afflicted with particular sensitiveness of any noise at night. And sound brings a palpitation of the heart and severe neuralgia pains in my head. Since I have been near a busy street corner the tooting of automobile horns makes me so nervous that I cannot sleep; when they come late at night my heart is so bad that all possibility of sleep is lost. I am not asking for general advice against nervousness for I try to combat this ailment with proper ventilation, diet, exercise, self-control, etc., but would like to know if there is any mechanical process for diminishing sound except stuffing cotton in one's ears, which I do not find sufficient. Also could not police regulations enforce a maximum of tooting, which ought not to be surpassed? Surely it is not right that careless and inexperienced chauffeurs should at every street corner disturb hundreds of nervous and sick people who have a right to their sleep?

Answer.—I have before written on this subject of noise. Most people consider it a joke. It furnishes a frequent pre-disposition to many diseases, some of them serious. Noise is universal. At 2 in the morning, at dawn, indeed—you will hear young people of both sexes joy-riding past your home. It appears no business is to be carried on without noise. At night you are awakened by rowdyism in your neighborhood. If you live in an apartment house you will find yourself surrounded by a tempestuous sea of noises. No consideration is shown anywhere to anyone.

In my city there is a society for the suppression of useless noises. It has placed signs in the streets leading to our hospitals forbidding noises. Who ever obeys such signs? Enter the hospital and you will find such legends on the walls as: "This building is for the sick, keep quiet." And it would be difficult to find any people in the city noisier than the nurses and the other employees leaning along the very walls where such an admonition has been painted. Florence Nightingale wrote about noises and their disastrous effect on the sick; she might have written in Hindustanee for any effect the admonition of that dear "Lady of the Lamp" receives from her sisters to-day.

The simple truth is we are not a sympathetic, not a generous-natured people, and in so far as noise is concerned we are not a cultivated people. As a writer on the causes of ill-health I feel I have the right to make these statements.

Questions and Answers.

I take much interest in your articles. They are educational, interesting and remove many false ideas and put many on guard.

Answer.—Thank you! Besides trying to give constructive advice I find many false ideas that need removing and many correspondents who need to be made wise in time.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

ANSWERED LETTERS.

Mrs. F.—"Please tell me a couple of good games for a crowd of women to play. My husband belongs to a men's club, which meets often, and all the wives of these men go along and play games in another large room while the club meeting is going on. We want something jolly."

Answer—Here is a game that could make the sphinx laugh: Each woman must bring with her an old suit case, and umbrella and a separate skirt and coat (in the suit case). The suit cases are mixed up, then they are stood along the wall at one end of the room with an umbrella beside each one. At a signal the players must, in unison, each open a suit case, take out the suit and put it on over their regular dress, close the suit case, open the umbrella, then rush across the room to the other side and back again to the starting place, where they must take off the suit, put it in the suit case and close the umbrella. There must be a timekeeper, and the one who does all this the quickest wins the game. The fun lies in the mad haste, the possibility of a stout woman getting a little woman's suit (and vice versa), and the unbecoming quality of the clothes (the more dowdy the suit, the better).

Another game—a sort of trick game—is this. Put a flower in the center of the room. Stand the players around the walls. Appoint a timekeeper. Tell the players that you are going to whisper in each one's ear the name of a different bird and that when you afterwards call out in turn the bird names given each one must rush forward to pick up the flower; the one who does this the quickest after hearing his bird name called, wins. But here is what you will actually do: You will whisper the same bird name in each person's ear, so that when you call that name they will all rush forward at once! "Pigeon" is a good bird name to use. After whispering it all around, stand in the doorway and begin calling out "Wren, Robin, Hawk"—and so forth, going down a long list of names not given; finally say "pigeon" and each, thinking he is the only one who was given that name, will rush forward—and a jumbled heap of people will be the result.

V. T.—How can I keep my small cucumbers in good condition until I get enough of them to put up? I have only three hills.

Answer—Keep them in brine. Fill a quarter size crock full of cold water and add enough salt to float an egg. They may lose their crispness, however.

A Reader—Please give correct amount of salt to be used in your recipe for dill pickles recently published. The recipe reads "3 gallons of water and 2 of salt." Isn't this a mistake?

Answer—Yes, it should have read, "Three gallons of water and two cups of salt."

Young Housekeeper—Is this menu suitable for a Sunday dinner: Cream soup, creamed potatoes, corn on cob, string beans, lettuce and tomato salad, ice cream and cake? Or should the salad course be served before the meat course?"

Answer: The menu is a very nice one but I would advise you to have potato croquettes instead of the creamed potatoes. When you have a cream soup you should not have a creamed vegetable. Variety is the secret of a tempting menu. The salad course comes between meat and dessert, just as you have it.

M. B.—What will take a chocolate ice cream stain out of a tan crepe dress?

Answer—Sprinkle spot with borax, place in cold water, let soak, then pour boiling water through it. There is danger, however, that it may remove the tan dye.

PARIS (By Mail).—Long wide box pleats are very possible as used in this youthful frock of broadcloth, in a beguiling shade of raspberry called by the French "framboise." Both in the front and in the back of the bodice the pleats are permitted to divide and disclose an underbody of dull blue and silvery embroidery, which makes its appearance as well where the sleeve is slashed just above the wrist. The entire effect of the frock is on the whole quite tailored, so that it lends itself well to copying in every day colors. For a dark dress it provides a particularly pleasing opportunity for introducing a touch of vivid color, so smart this season.

At this time of year raids on the family treasury are more frequent and disastrous than usual. The resources of the purse are tested severely. Without the aid of the store ads those resources might be entirely depleted.

LONG AGAIN?

It is with some anxiety that I hear that the dictum has gone forth from Paris that skirts are to be longer.

I say anxiety, not because I should mind seeing the women who have been wearing 'em at 12, 13 and even 14 inches (whether their legs justified it or not) cover up a few inches, but because, when we have gone to one extreme, we are terribly apt to go to the other. Having had our skirts about as short as possible, I should hate to see us have them as long as possible.

Do you remember the skirts of 20 years ago, Reader Friend?

I can place that period quite accurately, because I had a friend who was a stenographer and I can remember when she went to her office in a shirt waist and a black cloth skirt which almost touched all the way around and had a small dip in the back.

Just fancy! If she went down a curbing or down one or two steps she had to hold it up. And even when she walked on the level it was long enough to pick up all the dust and germs.

Moreover, it was fully and very heavy, giving her that much more to carry around in hot weather.

There is a great deal being said, as usual, about the unsuitability of the clothes that women wear to business. Some of the things women wear to-day may be unsuitable, but they are certainly vastly less so than some of the clothes they wore in the good old days.

It seems to me that the best criterions of the suitability of any costume are first, its adjustability to the purpose for which it is worn; second, its attractiveness.

Working women should not wear clothes that are frilly or fussy enough to hamper them at their work; they should not wear anything that soils readily unless it is easily cleaned; they should not wear clothes that require attention and keep them clothes-conscious when they should be thinking of their work; they should not wear clothes that exaggerate the styles so far as to make them conspicuous. Beyond that I don't see why they shouldn't dress as attractively and daintily as they like.

I think there never was a dress more suitable for work in summer than thin, dark organdies which have been so much worn this year. These are cool, becoming, attractive and washable. And yet I have heard conservatives say they were not "the thing for working women.

Take one of these dresses, made on conservative but attractive lines, with elbow sleeves and simple V or square neck, and then compare a girl dressed thus for with the working woman of 20 years ago, with a white shirt waist, with high white collar and long sleeves and a thick, dark skirt almost touching the floor. Which is the more suitably dressed for her work? Which will find her clothes less hampering? And which looks the more attractive?

Here's hoping we are not in for a swing of the pendulum to long skirts, long sleeves, high collars!

NOW SLEEPS ALL NIGHT, HE SAYS

Hamilton Man Tells of Wonderful Change Since He Began Taking Tanlac.

"Tanlac caps everything in the way of medicine that I've ever run across, and I want to tell you it's certainly done the work in my case," said William Pluman, of 14 Bay street, south, Hamilton, Ont.

"Before I got hold of Tanlac I suffered terribly with indigestion and stomach trouble and had no appetite at all. The little I managed to eat caused me intense pain, and I suffered so from bloating at times that when I lay down to sleep I would just almost smother. I was also troubled a great deal with constipation, had awful headaches and dizzy spells, and at times it was all I could do to stick to my work. I had such severe pains in my arms and elbows I could hardly put my coat on and was simply in a terrible fix. I would lie awake most of the night, unable to sleep, and would get up in the mornings feeling worse than when I went to bed.

"Yes, sir, this was the condition I was in before I got Tanlac, but the medicine has changed things around for me completely, and I now feel like an entirely different person. I have the best kind of an appetite, my stomach never troubles me any and I never have an ache or pain. I sleep like a log all night and just feel fine all the time. Tanlac has certainly been great in restoring my health and I don't hesitate to give it all the credit."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

FORCED TO EXTEND TIME FOR PAYMENT OF AGRICULTURAL LOANS

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 6.—Rural credit societies of Manitoba will be forced to extend time for payment of $1,000,000 of farmers' notes until next fall, according to information obtained here to-day. Total outstanding loans of the societies amount to $2,600,000. It is expected $1,500,000 of the loans will be collectable this fall and new notes payable in 1922 will be accepted for the balance.

Excessive rains which held up threshing operations, and lowered prices of grains and live stock, are the reasons the societies are unable to make full collections this fall.

ADJOURN THE CASE OF NEWSPAPER MAN CHARGED WITH DEFAMATORY LIBEL

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 7. — (By Staff Reporter.) — The case of J. Fred Young, staff correspondent here for The London Free Press, who is charged with defamatory libel in connection with a story which appeared in the columns of The Free Press a couple of weeks ago, was adjourned this morning at police court. Crown Attorney Angus McCrimmon is ill and adjournment was made for this reason.

Bail of $2,000 provided by Clifford Honsinger was renewed this morning and the case was laid over until Friday morning, October 14. Mr. Y[illegible] arrested on a warrant sworn out by detective Joseph McCully, of St. Thomas. The police officer charged that there was criminal libel in an article, telling of the alleged escape of a man for whom a warrant was held by the police.

Some of the brightest writers of the day are writing advertisements. You would better overlook the efforts of many a "near" literary light in the feature sections than the fame of real writers in the advertising pages. They have something to say—and it is worth reading.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head and ear noises or are growing hard of hearing go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Advt.

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.—Advt.

M 471 Delivered to You..$50.00

Hallam Furs are an Economy

It used to be thought that furs were rather a luxury, but now the economical buyers have discovered that furs are a genuine economy as well as a necessity. A fur coat or set will last from five to fifteen years—to buy cloth coats to last this long would cost very much more than the furs in actual money. In addition to that, you always feel well dressed in furs, — always comfortable, — always warm.

Hallam Furs less than Half Price

You can obtain HALLAM furs this year at less than half the price that they were sold at last year. This is due partly to the drop in the price of raw skins, and to the fact that, as usual, I bought our furs at the very lowest ebb in the prices.

Why I Can Sell at Such Low Prices

In the first place, I buy the skins direct from the Trappers and Indians for cash, and am the largest cash buyer of furs in Canada. Then I sell direct to you for cash. This method saves you the various middlemen's profits, the fur dealer, the wholesaler and retailer, high store rent, sales clerks' salaries, bad accounts, etc.

Another big advantage is you can see the furs in your own home and can examine them at your leisure without being influenced by anxious sales clerks.

The coat and set illustrated in this advertisement are fair samples of HALLAM values, and will be sent you promptly on receipt of price.

If HALLAM furs do not please you in any way, you can simply send them back at my expense, and I will cheerfully return your money—you are not out one single cent.

You can be sure of satisfaction when you buy by mail from me. That is my guarantee.

"REEL EMOTING" DECLARED TO BE ANYTHING BUT A STRAIN ON MOVIE ACTOR

Emotional Reaction Writers Taken To Task—Actor Does Murder Scene Then Asks If Weather Is Going To Spoil His Little Outing.

(BY C. R. L.)

One of the joys of reading the movie magazines is for the fictional qualities of their serious articles.

But since so many credulous folk "eat 'em up" 'tis no courtesy to be a spoil-sport.

Yet, I must protest one symposium seen recently in such a periodical.

It was a collection of articles from certain stars telling of the great strains they undergo when "emoting" for the films.

And seven of the 12 are stars that haven't an "emote" in them—

They are pretty, placid folk, who look like whipped cream embellishment on peach cake. If they ever had an emotional reaction it would be to say "damn" when the cutter eliminates a few feet of their close-ups.

On the other hand, there are innumerable players who do take their work so seriously as to find it a tax on their emotional resources.

But recently I sat in a certain studio watching two stars rehearse a scene.

The lady is famous for the way she works up a scene of "sacrifice" and the man is a favorite home-wrecker—on the film.

The play called for the lady to drop to her knees, clasp the villain about the legs, and plead with him not to leave her.

SHE "GOT" C. R. L.

Personally, I'm a fairly hard-boiled egg, but she "got" me. I vowed, mentally, that if I ever was lucky enough to have a lady love me so violently—I'd kill her before I tried to leave her in the lurch—I wouldn't be able to stand the strain.

It was harrowing.

Tears rolled down her cheeks.

As he tried to withdraw from her football embrace, she followed him on her knees—beseeching forgiveness and charity—whispering love words—exhorting him to be true to his plighted word—and, finally, when he tore himself free and lurched from the room—she fell against the door, a picture of unutterable woe.

"Fine!" cried the director.

"Gee!" she said, "I ought to go into vaudeville with that. I'd be a knockout! Say, Loole, got a cigarette?"

REGISTERING EMOTION.

Another day, I watched one of our best young man actors do some close-ups.

He sat in a chair, while the camera was "taking" the various emotions that were "registered" on his face.

These close-ups were not for one insert alone, but to be scattered through the whole film—and they were all being taken at one sitting.

The director stood out of the camera's range reading the lines for the various episodes that would indicate the especial emotions desired.

I saw terror, anger, despair and joy follow one another in quick succession.

"Now," said the director, "let's do that place where you think you're being murdered."

The actor arose from his chair, kneeled on the floor, cowered, trembled—and on his face was fear, stark, staring fear—it was horrible. Being just behind the camera man I caught every play of expression. It was great acting. It seemed an age before the camera man said "done!"

And then, our star rose, brushed his trousers nonchalantly and quoth he:

"I hope it ain't raining, I promised the kids I'd take 'em to the zoo this afternoon."

Art? You said it!

BLACKIE DAW in "The Son of Wallingford," showing at the Grand today.

EXCEPTIONAL BILL AT GRAND NEXT WEEK

"French Leave" First of the Big Road Shows Comes Monday—"The Skin Game," a Galsworthy Play, Thursday.

The first of the big road attractions to come in on Monday for a three days stay, with matinees on Wednesday is "French Leave," an irresistible comedy which comes direct from a five months run in London, England. "French Leave" is one of the really big English companies which Trans-Canada Theaters has secured for a Canadian engagement. It has already played in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and in each of those cities it has been accepted as one of the finest high-class attractions ever seen in a Canadian theater. The story of "French Leave" in brief deals with the adventures of an English wife who bamboozles a blustering old officer to give her husband leave of absence. The result is a series of complicated situations for all concerned and in its finality there is produced one of the funniest comedies ever staged.

"French Leave" will be presented with the same big notable cast which contributed so materially to its success in London, England. Walter Edwin, who heads the male characters, is one of England's funniest comedians, while Miss Surtees, the leading lady, is a London favorite. The people who have been asking that this city should get a chance to see some of the biggest road attractions should have their desire fulfilled by the companies booked for next week.

A GALSWORTHY PLAY.

Galsworthy's fine ironic play "The Skin Game" with an all English cast of distinguished players, will come to the Grand for three days commencing on Thursday next and including a special matinee on Saturday, October 15.

William A. Brady in association with Reandean, Ltd., London, has duplicated the London production in every detail. The play is one which has achieved great popularity in both London and New York and is now being sent on tour which will include Montreal, Toronto and Chicago and other large cities.

The dramatist has taken two English families and thrown them at each other's head. The one represents centuries of culture and affluence, the other is a product of to-day. The one suffers from gout, the other is active and unhampered. "I haven't the gout," says old Hornblower, representative of the new, to Mr. Hillcrist representative of the old patrician stock, "because I have no ancestors."

Hornblower has come to a village in the country district of English and settled down. He manufactures things. The Hillcrists have been there for 100 years and more and they live on the wealth that has been earned by their ancestors and handed down to them along with the gout. The Hillcrists are snobs, kindly, sentimental snobs, but snobs, nevertheless. Mrs. Hillcrist subs her new neighbors. That starts trouble. The result is a long, fierce fight, in which both families suffer.

Hornblower is a brainy, relentless enemy. He is a realist. If he is not to be accepted by the Hillcrists as an equal he will drive them out by surrounding their estate with smoking factories. Mr. Hillcrist is too much of a gentleman to fight very aggressively, but Mrs. Hillcrist is different. It is she who has snubbed the Hornblowers, particularly Chloe, old Hornblower's daughter-in-law. The fight reaches a climax when Hornblower buys up a piece of land next to the Hillcrists. He seems to have beaten them. But Mrs. Hillcrist is as unscrupuluos as he. She has discovered that Chloe has a pretty dark past, and as a last resort she uses her knowledge as a weapon with which to fight the Hornblowers.

The distinguished cast will include: Reginald Dance, Aileen Wyse, Audrew Cameron, Matthew Boulton, Stephanis d'Este, Russel Sedgwick, Francis Roberts, Arthur C. Crosby, Lister Williams, Walter Jackman, Frank Snell, Nora Nicholson, Lindon Lang and Ulric Collins.

MARIE LOHR COMING.

Opening at the Grand Theater here on October 20, Transcanada Theaters, Limited, will present for three nights and Saturday matinee Miss Marie Lohr, the flower of the London stage in two of her greatest Globe Theater successes, "Fedora" and "The Marionettes." From the passionate heroine of Herman Merivale's drama to the brilliant butterfly of "The Marionettes" is a far cry, but it measures the breadth of Miss Lohr's art. She is to-day admittedly the most popular and successful of all actresses before the London public. Young, beautiful, and possessing a genius for management as well as for acting, Miss Lohr has won for herself a unique position.

"Fedora," made famous by the Bancrofts, Mrs. Patrick Campbell and other great artists, will afford Miss Lohr ample opportunity to display her talents as an emotional actress of the first order. It is an exacting role, and it ranges up and down the whole gamut of human emotions—revenge, love struggling against hate, terror, remorse and the throes of a terrible death. Miss Lohr visualizes all with a passion and a power that have held her audiences spellbound in London.

The charming comedy of "The Marionettes" will reveal the brilliant actress in a very different light—as a fascinating social butterfly employing all her woman's wiles to win and retain the love of a husband to whom she has been married by arrangement.

FAVORITE STORY TO BE TOLD AT MAJESTIC

"Trail of the Lonesome Pine" to Be Attraction Next Week—William Grew Players Make Hit.

Dear to the hearts of thousands of book lovers and theatergoers throughout the United States and Canada is "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," a story of life in the wilds; a story of love and intrigue; a story that grips the heart strings and creates lofty emotions. Not only that the story been done in prose, but a song that was popular in every town and city in America, that was sold, played and sang probably as many times as any popular song ever produced, was written around it.

And this is the wonderful story, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," that the Wm. A. Grew players will produce at the Majestic Theater all next week for Londoners.

And now that the reader has been told that this favorite old story will be portrayed in London at the Majestic by the Wm. A. Grew players, it is hardly necessary to add anything more, because the combination of this gripping drama and the well-known ability of the Grew players will assure patrons of a treat all next week and an afternoon or evening well spent any time they visit the theater.

"Wedding Bells," which has been on the boards all this week, has been a decided hit and has been greeted by unusually large houses every night.

Additional players from New York have been recently added to the Grew players in this city, and it can be said without fear of contradiction that at the Majestic Theater in London the class of productions being staged are on a par with those of any stock company playing anywhere in America.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" will be produced every night next week, with special matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. On Monday night the usual offer of two seats for the price of one will hold good.

THEATRICAL PRODUCER IS VENTURESOME

If At First You Don't Succeed Put On a Couple More Shows.

BY BEN DEACON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The theatrical producer is a venturesome person. Last year he was declaring that he would risk but very little coin in a season that promised nothing but disaster. But evidently this was merely a sort of Klu Klux threat intended to frighten the actors' union, which was cutting up at that time. Since early August 19 of the productions which flared forth on Broadway have disappeared. One, "The Detour," is leaving to fill an engagement in another city, and the others simply turned over on their backs and died. News from the road companies indicates that patronage is as meager in most cities of the continent as it is in New York, yet the producer clings to the motto: If at first you don't succeed put on a couple more shows. As soon as one production closes always there is another to take its place. Despite the many failures, only three of New York's "legitimate" playhouses are dark.

October has brought in a great rush of shows. No less than five opened last night, while three more are scheduled to break out during the week. Comedies—one with musical frills and four plain—made up last night's premieres. Here they are in tabloid form:

A city bank clerk retires to the country and invests in a boarding kennel for dogs. He immediately gets into an amazing complication of troubles, during the passing of which he manages, however, to adjust the affairs of a married pair who are seemingly confronted with insurmountable difficulties, and also wins a fair dog-lover for himself. This is the story of "Beware of Dogs," which opened at the Broadhurst. Practically all of the troubles with which the piece abounds are caused by dogs. It is amusing, but a serious libel on man's best friend. William Hodge is both author and leading man.

Of "Like a King," which was the new fare at the Thirty-Ninth Street Theater, it is probably sufficient to say that in the first scene the hero is disclosed sitting on a park bench, broke and disconsolate, and yammering for a peek at the little town down East where he was born. The additional information that this is a typical American play enables you to guess the rest. Yes, he goes back to Lower Falls, Mass., harnesses up the old waterfall and winds up with fifty thousand dollars and his sweetheart of childhood days, who has been waiting all these years.

Another poverty-to-plenty plot is found in "Thank You," which was presented at the Longacre Theater, but this one has a novel twist. It deals with the adventures of a penurious parson whose fortune changes when a homeless niece arrives from Paris and stirs up the community to the realization that country clergyman cannot live on prayers and prunes alone. There are a number of well-drawn rural characters which, according to all reports, are cleverly portrayed by the members of the company, headed by Harry Davenport and Edith King, as the clergyman and his niece.

"The Fan"—at the Punch and Judy Theater—is another adaptation from the French of Robert de Fleurs and G. A. Caillavet. The plot involves—and "involves" is the correct word in respect to most of its characters—a somewhat flighty wife, an amorously roving husband, a sentimental young girl and her lover, a callow youth, a scalp-hunting beauty and an aged party suffering from a grouch caused by a jilting administered in his youth. It has, of course, been rendered as innocuous as the necessary adherence to the story permits.

"The O'Brien Girl" is a George M. Cohan show, but this does not mean that George M. has yet broken his vow not to produce this season. It came to New York last night after a run in Boston which carried it over from last season. The theater scouts report it a fair-to-middling medly of pretty good tunes, passable lines and rather good dancing. They don't enthuse, but then no New York critic ever will enthuse over a show which has first been regularly exhibited in any other city. It is against the rules of the lodge. But Boston was wild over it.

A scene from the Paramount picture, "Life," with an all-star cast, which will be shown at Loew's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

REAL THING NOW FOR MOVIE SETTINGS INSTEAD OF OLD CANVAS AND PAINT METHOD

"Period" Effects Produced By Clever Artists and Workmen—Trees, House Fronts Are Not Painted on Cloth Now.

It is not so long ago that the chief materials used in motion picture production were canvas and paint.

In those days producers had nothing upon which to base their film ideas except their past experience in stage work—

Trees, house-fronts, decorative interior wall effects, were painted upon flat canvas.

Tile floors were painted on floor cloth.

"Period" effects in furnishing were often a curious hodge-podge of varying styles, thrown together by men who had a vague idea of what period styles were.

The only "colors" used in the painting of "sets" were blacks and greys—and the results were flat tones.

Nowadays, before a set is arranged, real experts in furniture periods study the possibilities of each scene.

What furniture of the exact period style they lack is either secured from the market or is made in the studios from special drawings.

Very often artists go to places where certain styles of furnishings are known to be, make perfect drawings of these in detail, and return to the studio where these are manufactured in verisimilitude.

Lavish colors are used in the studios—so that, when photographed, each color "picks out" its own value in relation to the others.

Decorations are made in plaster—

WATCH! TAKE CARE! "DANGEROUS CURVE"

"Dangerous Curve Ahead" Rupert Hughes' Story of Married Life, At the Allen Monday.

If you take your work at the office more seriously than the business of loving your wife—look out— "Dangerous Curve Ahead." "Dangerous Curve Ahead," the feature photoplay at the Allen on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week, is an adaptation of Rupert Hughes' popular story of the same name which appeared in The Saturday Evening Post a short time ago. The trials, problems and joys of engaged, newly married and young married couples are humanly and truthfully portrayed in this delightful comedy drama of married life.

The story of the play concerns the early married life of a small-town girl, who was the belle of her community before her marriage to an easy-going domestically inclined husband. Inwardly chafing under the restraints imposed by the cares of her home, and the rearing of her two children, she seizes the first opportunity to taste again of the butterfly life in society, while her husband is away on business.

How she avoids the Dangerous Curve, and is brought to her senses by the illness of her little child, eagerly resuming the yoke of domesticity is dramatically portrayed.

Among the added attractions will be shown another grouch - dispelling "Snub" Pollard comedy "Late Lodgers," Allen News, Beatrice O'Leary, Canada's supreme soprano, Allen's concert orchestra.

Baby show on Monday matinee. Be sure to bring the babies.

"General Post," the first of the big special British productions, which will be the feature attraction at the Allen the latter three days of next week, is a delightful story of "snobbery repentant." This popular play made a great hit when it was produced on the stage during the war. The story deals with the daughter of Sir Dennis Broughton, a wealthy proud aristocrat, good-natured, but not brainy. He worshipped the family tree. So did his adored son Alec. But so did their daughter Betty, a girl of high strung nature, with a democratic, somehow or other in genteel blood. Betty is in love with Edward Smith, a courteous well-spoken man, a tailor by trade, to the disgust and horror of her family who hate her mingling with the "riff-raff." All this happened before the war broke out, at the first of which Edward Smith enlists for active service, and then there is action that indeed is most interesting.

Among the added attractions will be shown another of those rip-roaring Booth Tarkington comedies, "The Skipper's Flirtation," Allen News and a special musical program by Allen's concert orchestra.

NEW FACES IN FOREIGN PHOTOPLAYS REFRESHING TO AUDIENCES HERE

Change From California Scenery Also Restful — Experiments Being Made In Reproducing Scenes From Camera Negatives.

Outside of the very fine acting which one sees in the foreign films so far imported, their chief appeal lies in their new faces and backgrounds.

It is more or less refreshing to see an entirely new set of actors in a play.

With no disparagement of their abilities, one tires now and then of seeing the same players week after week. The presentation of strange personalities to the screen gives now interest to it.

If more of our photoplays had foreign backgrounds they would gain a good deal of interest.

Bryant Washburn's "The Road to London" was nothing out of the ordinary, but it did have the novelty of English scenery and a totally different countryside from our too-familiar California variety.

Experiments are being made along new lines.

It has been found possible to enlarge an ordinary negative up to a size required for the back drop of a scene, with any appreciable loss of detail.

A PERFECT ILLUSION.

For instance, a photograph of the sky line of a city may be enlarged—and the windows cut out of the enlargement—so that when illumination is placed behind it the illusion of a sky line at night is perfect.

So, a photograph of a scene in the jungle of Africa or of the Alps—or any place in the wide world, may be enlarged up to a point of realism.

One interesting example is in the production of "Pilgrims of the Night," a screen version of E. Phillips Oppenheim's book, "Passers-By."

The story was presumably laid in certain parts of England and France that are more or less familiar everywhere, and which could not very well be faked without detection.

Under the old method of production an entire company would have to be sent to Europe if these scenes were to be included. That would have been pretty expensive.

The producer, J. L. Frothingham, the inventor of this new method, had faith in his idea. He figured out his problems of perspective—he worked out all the angles at which his motion picture camera would have to stand and set his characters in such a way that they would not seem to be flat up against backdrops. And with the careful manipulation of lights he achieved unusual results from enlarged negative.

SENDS CAMERA ABROAD.

Now, if a producer wants the scenic effects of his play to reflect a foreign background, all he need do is send one camera man abroad, enlarge his negatives when he returns, make back drops of them, set up a few "props" in the way of trees, etc., in the foreground—and the result is practically the same as if he sent his company abroad.

A great deal of the scenery that looks most realistic to you is right in the studios.

In the recent picture of Charles Ray's a big freight station with tracks, platforms and cars was required. After a long search the exact kind of place was discovered—except where the problems of illumination were too great to be overcome.

So Charles Ray built the whole thing in the studio. He put down real tracks, used some real freight cars, and had a few of regular railroad men install switches and signals.

At a studio recently a complete Alpine panorama was reproduced. It was set up on a huge platform. Painted on a back drop were the snow-clad mountains of the distance. Set up on the platform so that they would give the right perspective, were a great tree, leading branches on all sides, a pathway leading through long grass, and flanked with bushes, rocks and wild flowers. The grass was growing in actual sod. The bushes had been taken up by the roots and replanted. The tree was a real tree.

And every day during the taking of the picture the grass was watered, the bushes were sprayed and new flowers were planted as fast as the others wilted.

So much for the cause of realism. It's a great life!

GOOD LIQUOR GONE

OMBRA, Oct. 7.—The summer cottage belonging to "Doc" Kennedy, of Detroit, was broken into on Wednesday evening and 20 gallons of liquor taken. The theft was not discovered until yesterday by Jack Kennedy, the only occupant of the house at present. It is thought the liquor was stolen during his absence on Wednesday evening.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made.

Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the bottle. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you 16 ounces of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for $2.50.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

"LIFE" MELODRAMA OF NOTE, FINELY SCREENED

Big William A. Brady Production at Loew's on Monday Said to Be Most Massive.

Based on Thompson Buchanan's successful melodrama, which created a theatrical sensation in New York in 1914, "Life," a William A. Brady production for Paramount, will be shown at the Loew Theater for three days, beginning on Monday next. This melodrama picture was produced in New York recently and is declared by press and public to be one of the strongest pictures of the season.

Billy Reid, a young private secretary to a wealthy New York broker, secretly marries his employer's daughter. Ralph Stuyvesant, son of the broker, is enamored of Muriel Barristord, an adventuress, and to gratify her whims he forges his father's name to a check. Tom Burnett, jealous of Billy, with the aid of Ralph, shifts the blame on Billy. At a ball given at the Stuyvesant home, Burnett shoots and kills the broker and circumstances pointing at him, Billy is arrested an convicted of the crime. He is saved from the chair by a ruse through the efforts of his wife and Burnett is brought to justice.

In addition to "Life" the program will include a Mack Sennett comedy, "Hard Knocks," Loew's screen pictorial, vaudeville and special musical selections by Loew's big concert orchestra.

Virginia Valli, at Loew's on Thursday next, leading woman for Bert Lytell in "A Trip to Paradise," the Benjamin F. Glazer adaptation of Franz Molnar's drama, has let loose the story of her sudden marriage to George Lamson, of New York. The pair had been engaged for some time, but Miss Valli was likewise engaged to play opposite Bert Lytell in his latest production.

"We'll have to wait until after my trip to California," Miss Valli objected when Mr. Lamson warmly insisted upon an immediate marriage.

"If you're going to make 'A Trip to Paradise' in California, why couldn't we make the trip together?" Mr. Lamson urged.

"It would be—paradise," Miss Valli murmured.

"It was some trip," said Mr. Lamson enthusiastically.

"Heavenly," Miss Valli murmured.

BABE IS REARED BY SOUTH SEA NATIVES

"The Shark Master" Story of the South Sea Islands Coming to the Patricia on Monday.

"The Shark Master", a story of the South Sea Islands, produced by Universal and starring Frank Mayo, will be the attraction at the Patricia Theater, next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Although writers and explorers have torn the veil of mystery from off almost every portion of the globe, the South Pacific is still dotted with unexplored islands, and in its atmosphere Fred LeRoy Granville has laid the scenes of his latest screen feature.

In "The Shark Master" Frank Mayo has the role of Arthur Deane, junior partner of the shipping firm of Marson and Deane, affianced to the beautiful daughter of his senior partner and, at the opening of the story, about to make his farewell inspection cruise of the firm's South Pacific trading stations before marrying June Marlson.

The schooner is caught in a tropic hurricane, the crew mutinies, and though Deane subdues the sailors after a terrific battle, the ship is lost with all hands. Deane is washed ashore on the Island of Amanu where, some fifteen years before, the sea had given up a white child who had been adopted by the natives, christened The Flaming Flower, and made tabu against all men by the chief.

GALLI-CURCI GIFTED WITH WONDERFUL PERSONALITY

"Interviewing" Galli-Curci, the great soprano, who will be heard here on November 3, at Grand Opera House, is a joy. She welcomes you with a simplicity and a cordiality that is disarming, if you have come equipped with notebook and pencil and a set of "questions." Always vivacious, with a ready sense of humor, and quick flashes of wit, she turns the conversation from topic to topic so quickly that you can scarcely follow her. She is always attentive, always interested and never pedantic. She can be serious and frivolous at will, a bubbling personality that captivates you. Galli-Curci is never "up-stage." You forget that you are in the presence of the singer who has trilled her way into the hearts of millions, and you go away with the feeling that you have met a very big woman, a truly great personality. You are conscious only of a very pleasant chat with a very interesting woman, and it dawns upon you that the great Galli-Curci answered the door bell herself, and that she is not surrounded by the attendants, retainers and body guards of the prima donna that is so dear to the writers of fiction.

statues, friezes in relief—are modeled in clay to special design.

Last year one producer sent an artist to Europe with instructions to visit certain palaces and museums and make copies for famous furnishings for later reproduction at home. He spent seven months abroad and returned with authentic interiors of rooms that have been the scenes of many an interesting chapter in history.

When the director calls for a room in the Vatican, a hall in Windsor Castle or the corridors of the palace of the Maharaja of Beypur, his artist trots out a set of drawings, the property man calls his crew together—and presto! we are transported there upon a magic carpet.

SENT ARTIST ABROAD.

Another producer sent an artist-architect around the world to bring back copies of all the various types of architecture of each country and the most famous historic buildings—and these are filed away for future use.

Many directors go to enormous expense reproducing architectural effects. Eric Von Stroheim claims to have invested hundreds of thousands of dollars in rebuilding Monte Carlo at Hollywood for "Foolish Wives." Griffith's evocation of ancient Babylon in "The Fall of Babylon" is one of the mammoth achievements of the film industry. In many cases a good deal of money is wasted, but the result usually is such as to justify the expenditure.

What I Think About Myself

BY ETHEL CLAYTON.

There are times when I think none of us strive hard enough in working for the high ideals that should actuate every man and woman in whatever walk of life. Certainly when the motion picture has achieved so great a place in the world, has become so tremendous a factor in the moulding of public opinion, reaching as it does every class of people, it behooves us all who are engaged in the work from whatever angle to devote our energies to the highest attainments within our powers. Personally I always try to do my best.

The world is full of beauty; we have but to look around us to see it on every hand. Thus the groping in the sordid has little or no excuse save by way of offering contrasts which shall enhance the beauty of the finer things of life. Good pictures should stimulate an appreciation of good literature and good reading is a correlative of all artistic endeavor and appreciation.

I would not take anything for the joy I have gained through good books. Pictures reach a wider and far more diversified audience than books and thus a greater responsibility rests upon the producer and actor than upon the writer of books. The screen author has a colossal responsibility to which the should bring the most earnest effort. All things working together for good, the possibilities of the screen are unlimited. The public must do its part in giving its support to what is worth while to the exclusion of the puerile, vicious or sensational, and even that which is poor art and poor drama, as well as poor literature, or we cannot accomplish our aims.

I have had my share of sorrow. It is only a short time ago since my husband died. I have tried to forget in my vacation tour of the world and in hard work. My dear mother has been a comfort to me and a delightful companion.

We are happy here in Hollywood and I think should be content with the joys we have here together.

Miss Marie Lohr, the famous English actress in "Fedora" and "The Marionettes," who is coming to the Grand Opera House, October 21, 22 and 23.

What I Think of My Sisters

(BY SHIRLEY MASON.)

To be asked by a newspaper man what I thought about myself, without any advice from my press agent is, to say the least, a bit unfair—for nowadays the motion picture actress has all her thinking done for her by her clever little P. A. So I decided to talk about the rest of the family—Viola and Edna.

Sister Viola, who adopted the name of Dana when she joined the Edison Film Company, was born gifted with the art of acting, for she no sooner showed signs of walking than she developed the art of dancing, later pantomime. Her engagement by the Edison people was the direct result of a friendly little recommendation by sister Edna, who is known to picture fans as Edna Flugrath. (Edna, by the way, has been making pictures for an English producing firm for the last three years.)

And now my two sisters established themselves as big screen stars—but they thought me too young, and too tiny, and would give me no help at all. One day I was visiting them at the Edison plant, was given an extra bit, made good, and engaged for their permanent stock company.

And to the present day it has been "all by myself." Without any help at all, but by steady, diligent occupation. I have succeeded in creating lots of friends through my seven years of screen work. Although I believe my plays are good and my characters good, I do not think there isn't any room for improvement. With mother as a serious critic, and with sister Viola to mock and ridicule, I have all I can do to polish up on my parts as soon as my director notifies me of my next story.

The work is not hard, as many screen folks say. No work is hard when one derives pleasure in doing it—and it is all pleasure to me. I live the roles I create—whether it is a Belgian maid, as in "Molly and I," or a circus performer as in "Her Elephant Man," or a Chinese maiden, as in "Wing Toy."

But I will always worship my sisters for their great acting ability—so much superior to mine, I think—although I won't admit as much to them. And I will continue worshiping the rest of the great screen folks so long as they do not become too egotistical. That is one vanity I will not tolerate in a player. There is no call for it. A human being is human, whether he is famous and wealthy or poor and unknown.

There is an open season for partridge, November 5 to November 20. Woodcock may be killed from September 15 to October 15; wild geese from September 1 to December 15; wild duck from September 1 to December 15. Musical Notes

A number of barber shops in Wisconsin use phonograph music to help trade in their shops.

A new negro chorus of 23 voices, the Coleridge Taylor Society, has been founded in Toronto and recently gave its first concert. Critics speak highly of its efforts.

The "visiophone," a device to synchronize music to moving pictures, or rather vice versa, has been invented by a French engineer. By means of this instrument the orchestra leader, or one of the musicians of the movie orchestra, can control the speed of the film being displayed in accordance with the music being played, either increasing or reducing the number of images per second thrown on the screen.

The problem before the teacher of music in schools ought to be one of developing a love for good music among children rather than teaching them only the primary rules of music and getting them to sing.

Arthur Friedman, the celebrated pianist, intends making his home in Canada and is to become a citizen of Toronto, where he will conduct master classes in piano.

Anna Pavlowa, the Russian dancer, has engaged a Russian scenic artist to create a number of settings for her new ballets this fall.

Among some of the American cities the music hall has been adopted as the most fitting memorial to the soldier dead. Lowell, Mass., is erecting a $1,000,000 memorial auditorium; Spokane, Wash., contemplates a music hall to seat 15,000; Dubuque, Ia., is erecting a memorial music hall at a cost of $500,000, and Texarkana, Tex., is also building a music auditorium.

The educational and cultural force exercised by music becomes more apparent every day. As a factor in school life it is recognized by the most eminent pedagogues as an absolute essential, while in the studios of teachers of singing it has assumed a place that may be termed indispensable by reason of its value in illustrating the vocal methods of singers of international fame.

There is a most significant development in connection with the cultural power of music. It has brought joy into the homes of countless millions in all walks of life, who have been enabled to get a new conception of life, thanks to the wonderful power for good which music weaves over the mind.

According to J.W. Seattle, supervisor of music in the public schools of Grand Rapids, Mich., about one out of every 10 children beyond the fifth grade play some musical instrument as a result of instrumental music instruction given in the schools.

NEW FILM COMPANY TO SCREEN CANADIAN PLAYS

The Canadian Northwest, or, if you believe the United States press agent who makes the announcement, and who probably has never been nearer the Dominion than Yonkers, N. Y., "the lonely and snowbound regions of the Canadian provinces," will be the locale of a number of pictures to be produced by a New York film company which has just been launched. The backers are Irving M. Lesser and Mike Rosenberg, who have large movie interests in California, and the projected series of productions is to be directed by Irving Cummings. There are to be 24 pictures and most of them are to deal with the exploits of the Northwest Mounted Police. Two, it is stated, have already been made, "Jules of the River" and "Trapped." The announcement states that most of the scenes will be photographed in Canada, although the exact location of the "lonely snowbound" studio is not revealed. The company is to be known as the "Western Exploitation Company."

CANADIAN COMPOSER IN NEW YORK "VODY"

Lieut. Gitz-Rice the Canadian composer, who in addition to "Dear Old Pal of Mine," now has many other popular songs to his credit, has joined the ranks of the Shubert vaudeville, and is appearing at the Winter Garden, New York. He has also found time between his "vody" acts to complete a new number, which he calls "The Silver Fox," and has dedicated it to William Faversham, who is appearing in Cosmo Hamilton's new play, "The Silver Fox," at Maxine Elliot's theater, New York.

HEART THROBS IN SEASON'S BEST DRAMA

Owen Davis Scores Real Hit With "The Detour"— New Productions.

BY BEN DEACON.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—It seems probable that 1921 will go down into theatrical history as the year in which Owen Davis wrote a real play. Davis, it may be recalled by former patrons of the "ten-twenty-thirty" school of drama of the pre-movie days, was at one time the leading exponent of the thriller. Many a pure and virtuous heroine was placed in the clutches of a despicable villain by the Owen of old and many a gallery arose and cheered when they noted that Owen had arranged for the much-desired rescue of the maiden in the last act. Owen's method of playwriting in those days was beautifully simple. He had a set of paper patterns for the beauteous heroine, the bold, bad villain, the feeble father, the mortgage on the old home, and the brave and noble hero. These he placed in a neat design and filled in the dialogue by means of a set of rubber stamps. His plays were popular with the patrons of that sort of drama, for the heroine was invariably cute and lovable, the hero staunch and of admirably sound morality, and the villain extremely hissable. But the critics always publicly declared they were awful, while privately they admired Davis for his nerve and envied him his income.

Then Davis deserted his melo-drama following (or the following, perhaps, ceased to follow as the movie habit grew) and devoted his time to works which were strictly intellectual and all that sort of thing. A number of them were produced on Broadway and some of them died an early death, while othes endured to go out on the road, but none received very serious attention from either critics or public.

This year Owen Davis has fathered the play which gives promise of being generally regarded as the outstanding dramatic achievement of the season. Certainly more has been said and written about "The Detour" than has been said and written about any other three of the new dramatic productions. And no wonder, for in "The Detour" Davis has at last given the public a sincere and convincing drama based on a theme both interesting and human, with characters which are not cut from any ancient stage pattern, but are skillfully drawn direct from life itself.

"The Detour" is the story of the unrealized, yet persisting, dreams of the wife of a grasping, land-hungry truck farmer. She has had her visions of a fuller, finer life, but fate has decreed for her a life of drudgery. Yet she still dreams and hopes, and her hope is centered upon the prospect of vicariously realizing the aspirations of her youth through her daughter, who she fondly imagines has artistic talent. For years this has been her one thought, almost her sole aim in life. She has spent long hours in cultivating a love for the beautiful in the girl, has patiently endured a double share of toil that the girl might have time to devote to her painting, and has saved every penny she could lay her hands on to pay for the course in a New York art school which, she believes, is to be the stepping stone to a place of honor and fame among the artistic elect. And then fate again plays her false. After she has denounced her husband as a thief when he tries to take her savings for the purchase of more land; after she has carried her determination to the point of quitting the home which has sheltered her for years, it is suddenly disclosed to her that the girl has no talent and that her real interest is not art, but the love of a young neighbor, a man cast in the same mold as her land-grabbing oaf of a husband. The final blow comes when the girl takes the money which has been so carefully hoarded to finance a career and presents it to her loutish lover to help him out of a financial mess. The woman is defeated, her aspirations crushed. But for the moment only. The final curtain finds her glorified by a sudden renewal of a hope which none of those around her can understand as slowly she drops into her treasure jar the few coins which some day may help to make a new dream come true.

The play was staged by Augustin Duncan, who himself portrays the father, while Effie Shannon makes the role of the mother a thing long to be remembered. In the supporting cast is an actor who at one time was a prime favorite with playgoers in Montreal, where he appeared in stock—Claude Cooper. Mr. Cooper does a particularly fine bit of character work in the role of a small town sheriff and tax collector. The other parts are all remarkably well cast and the play is given the very excellent and artistic performance which it merits.

HENDERSON BLAND, the famous English actor, who is starring in the big British production, "General Post," showing at the Allen on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week.

CHILDREN UNDER TEN UNGUARDED BY ACT

Ontario's laws protect the child between the ages of 10 and 16 who has to go on the stage, but there is absolutely no protection for the boy or girl under 10.

Those who framed the laws never for a moment thought that a child under 10 would ever have to appear in public, but during the past two or three years little tots of three have been brought in to bolster up the acts of their parents.

From an audience at one of the Toronto theaters recently came such a strong protest that the matter reached the ears of Superintendent of Neglected Children J. J. Kelso. The parents were to be prosecuted for not having obtained a permit for their child's appearance, but when the law was looked up it was discovered that there was no protection under the act for children under 10.

Superintendent Kelso is now in communication with Crown Attorney Eric Armour respecting an amendment to the law requiring a permit for the appearance on the stage of any child under the age of 16.

The theatrical interests will not oppose such a law.

INVESTIGATE FIRE.

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—Suspecting that fire last night at the warehouse of Zakoor & Peters, Glengarry avenue and Arthur street, was of incendiary origin, Fire Chief Defields this afternoon started an investigation. The chief believes the building was fired by burglars when they failed to find a way to break open the safe.

MYSTERY FIRE AT WHITEBREAD

Two Buildings and Motor Car Destroyed

INVESTIGATE THE CAUSE

Store Broken Into Twice; No Arrests Made

PORT LAMBTON, Oct. 7.—A mysterious fire, supposed to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the warehouse of Eric Johnston, general merchant, at Whitebread yesterday, with a quantity of goods, at a loss of about $1,000, which was partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Johnston was away from home at the time of the fire, having driven to Sarnia the day before.

An adjoining building, containing a quantity of oats belonging to J. A. Wadsworth, was also destroyed, together with a car. Mr. Wadsworth carried no insurance.

The fire was not noticed by any of the Whitebread residents until the building was falling in. An investigation will be made to try and find out the cause of the fire. The Whitebread store has been broken into twice during the past year, with a considerable loss to the owner and no person has been apprehended.

SUBMIT BY-LAW FOR LONDON FIRM

Chatham to Vote on $10,000 Assessment Plan

FOR SILVERWOODS, LTD.

Company to Spend $10,00 on Ice Plant

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—A special meeting of the City Council was held to-day to consider the question of submitting a by-law to the people in the coming municipal election to grant assistance to Silverwoods, Limited, of London, in view of them establishing an ice factory in the Maple City.

The proposal met with the unanimous approval of the aldermen, and a by-law will be prepared and submitted, granting the company a fixed assessment of $10,000 on their proposed local plant. The factory will be erected for the purpose of manufacturing, selling and distributing artificial ice in the city.

In the letter to the city the company offers to spend the sum of $10,000 on the factory; to employ 10 people at least, and to pay out at least $8,000 in wages to employees. The bylaw will go to the people on November 8.

HERRING SCARCE.

Fishermen along Lake Erie are complaining of the scarcity of herring in the lake this year, attributing the disappearance of these fish to gill net fishermen, whose nets, in the fall, are placed within five miles of the shore line by permission from the Government. This permission is granted by the Government, it is claimed, because, under the arrangement with the gill netters a certain quantity of herring spawn are secured in this manner and turned over to the fish hatcheries.

But shore fishermen claim that gill netters kill many more millions of spawn than they turn over to the authorities, and in this manner the lake is being quickly depleted of herring.

Because gill net fishermen are often unable to lift nets on account of storms and other conditions it is claimed that the nets thus kill off a great quantity of fish which would otherwise live to distribute spawn and replenish the fish supply in the lake.

FOUR CANDIDATES.

It begins to look as if there will be four candidates in the field for mayor in the municipal election to be held on November 8. Ald. Harrington has announced himself definitely several times. This morning Ald. Fitzsimons stated definitely that he would be in the field, and Mayor Brisco's friends look for him to be in the running when the nomination day comes around.

The fourth man will probably be ex-Ald. James R. Newkirk. It is stated in well informed circles that Mr. Newkirk is thinking very seriously, and some even go so far as to say that he is already canvassing for votes and testing out the feeling of the ratepayers.

HORSE STARVED TO DEATH.

Stephen Jones, a colored farmer, of Chatham Township, pleaded ignorance of how to treat a sick horse, when charged with ill-treating and neglecting the animal, in county police court to-day. Jones' horse was starved to death, High Constable Peters testified.

Explaining why he did not get a veterinary, Jones evinced a callous disregard for the sufferings of the horse, according to his testimony. He said that it was an old horse and that it "had to die some time."

Dr. Rhody, veterinary, who was sent out to Jones' place to treat the animal at the request of Constable Peters, found the equine in such a weakened condition that it had to be destroyed.

Jones' case was held over for a week. "It's perfectly absurd for any man to be allowed to treat a horse in this fashion," commented Crown Attorney H. D. Smith.

STOLE GOLD WATCH.

John Saunders, an English farm hand, recently employed by Wm. Ross, Dover, pleaded guilty to the theft of a gold watch and chain belonging to Mrs. Ross, in county police court. Magistrate Arnold remanded him for a week and in the meantime a search for the timepiece will be undertaken to see if it can be recovered from a field where Saunders threw it, because he was afraid that the "officers" were coming out to get him.

Bail of $2,000 was renewed this morning by Harry Boulton, charged with carrying a concealed weapon, and also of "having" liquor. His case was to have been taken up in county police court to-day before Magistrate Arnold. Instead a further adjournment for a week was made.

TRAIN HITS HORSE.

The G. T. R. eastbound train due to arrive in Chatham at 9.15 was nearly one hour late last evening as a result of striking a horse that had wandered on to the tracks some five miles from the city.

The train was proceeding toward the city, and when in the vicinity of the diamond a quiver went through the train, that was noticeable to the passengers. The train was brought to a standstill and it was discovered that a horse was lying in the railway ditch with two legs broken. They could find no way to put the animal out of its misery till the mail clerk appeared with a small automatic.

KNOWS NOTHING OF APPOINTMENT

H. B. Morphy Not Seeking Government Gifts

A JUDGESHIP VACANCY

Preparations for North Perth Convention

STRATFORD, Oct. 7.—H. B. Morphy was interviewed over the long distance telephone at Listowel regarding the report emanating from Ottawa on Thursday afternoon to the effect that his name was prominently mentioned as a possibility for a High Court judgeship, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of the late Sir Glenholm Falconbridge. The report was to the effect that the choice lay between Mr. Morphy and Mr. W. S. Middlebro, chief whip of the Government forces.

"The newspaper story was the first I had heard of it," said Mr. Morphy today. "It was a Toronto Star story, and possibly had a political purpose. I have never had any communication, directly or indirectly with Ottawa regarding that or any other appointment. Nor have I at any time made application for, or in any way sought, any office in the gift of the Government. I have not been in Ottawa since the House closed, and I need hardly add that when it is the desire of the people of North Perth that I retire from Parliamentary life, I shall gladly return to my private business with no thought of seeking any favors. Should any honorable office be tendered me without any solicitation, I would consider it a tribute to the constituency, and not to me. But as the report of Thursday goes I have absolutely no knowledge of its origin or purpose. Certainly, it was news to me."

Mr. Morphy intimated that preparations were going forward for the North Perth convention of Government supporters on Wednesday next at Milverton, and that there will be full opportunity for a free and untrammelled selection of a candidate and a discussion of the issues of the election by the ladies and gentlemen present, rather than by any imported speaker.

INTEREST TO EVERYBODY

Even Father Has a "Sweet Tooth," So Remember Him

It has been suggested that a day be set apart as a new national holiday, to be known as CANDAY DAY—to-day is Candy Day.

The idea will have peculiar interest for everybody, from the kiddies to the grown-ups.

Although there are numerous national holidays there are none that have the peculiar appeal of CANDY DAY.

Most of them have a political, religious or sentimental background and practically all of them are specific rather than general in their purpose.

CANDY DAY, on the other hand, is to be everybody's day—and for that purpose, no less than because it is to be observed by gifts of candy, it has been designated "THE SWEETEST DAY OF THE YEAR." It is set apart as the one great day on which no member of the family shall be forgotten. Everybody likes candy. The tired housewife brightens into a flash of half-forgotten youthfulness when hubby hands her a box of candy—possibly the first he has remembered to bring her in months. The sweetheart expects it. The children grow frantic in their appreciation of it. Father himself is by no means immune from the hunger of a "sweet tooth." Everybody likes it and everybody is pleased with the loving remembrance the gift implies.

It involves no extravagance. Candy is an inexpensive gift. CANDY DAY will work no hardship on even a slender purse. It will spread rejoicing broadcast; for its observance will become a ritual of love and good-will justifying the appellation already bestowed upon it, "THE SWEETEST DAY OF THE YEAR."

The association promoting Candy Day represents over $75,000,000 invested in Canadian plants and machinery. Candy Day will give to the people an opportunity to show their appreciation of the many and wonderful creations of the industry.

The slogan, "Everybody Loves Candy," is a truth, as is also the phrase, "A Candy to Suit Every Taste."

Insist upon the Genuine

Dear "Sunset" People:

I had a lovely white georgette dress embroidered in lavender. I have worn it three seasons and it is in just the style they are wearing now, but fashion says "Black". But to buy one such as I'd like —$69.00—so I called up dyers and cleaners,—"about $8. for dyeing the dress and we do not guarantee results".

Well I did not want to spend $8.—So I bought three cakes of Black Sunset Dye —and the result—is a beautiful jet black frock, all the hand embroidery "took" beautifully. The little china silk underslip, dyed as nicely as the georgette. At the same time I put in a new pair of silk stockings that were an impossible shade of blue, but were a fine quality of silk.

For a half hour's work I feel about $50.00 richer. For I have a really new frock and hose for 45 cents. I've used your dye before for my baby's rompers, and sweaters when they become faded, also dyed a jersey silk suit which was so spotted and faded I thought was hopeless. And a friend wanted to buy it from me when I had it on last evening. I really enjoy the work—and feel as if I'd earned a great deal.

HIGH TRIBUTE TO PREMIER MEIGHEN

KINGSVILLE, Oct. 7.—At the N. L. C. convention here the following letter of personal commendation and party unity was by an unanimous standing vote ordered forwarded to the Rt. Hon. Sir Arthur Meighen.

The resolution was moved by Eccles J. Gott, of Amherstburg, and seconded by Colin Cullen, of Leamington.

As the Government supporters of South Essex, in general convention session at Kingsville to-day, desire to express our commendable approval in the straightforward and outspoken stand you are taking on the issues so momentous at this time of empire reconstructing.

"The empire has confidence in you. The world admires you, and the Canadian people look to you as a leader with ability to guide the ship of national progress over tempestuous and turbulent streams of reconstruction.

"To say that the party in South Essex is solid for your policies is only a mild manner of expressing our appreciation of your leadership, and a determination that this progressive constituency will send a representative to assist your excellent Cabinet in transacting the country's business for another term of office."

MAY END THE GAS WAR IN ONTARIO

Conference At St. Thomas Will Affect Wide Area.

OTHER HEARINGS FUTILE.

Many Municipalities To Be Represented On October 24.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 7.—(By Staff Reporter.)—A controversy that has been raging since early last winter and which vitally affects all rural sections and many of the urban centers in Western Ontario, will in all probability be finally disposed of when the natural gas rate is reopened before Referee Henderson at the county buildings here on October 24 and 25. All municipalities will likely be represented, from the extreme western part of the district to the Niagara frontier, and a large amount of important evidence will likely be heard.

The controversy started early last winter, when the various gas companies doing business in Southwestern Ontario sent out cards asking the consumer to sign a contract agreeing to pay a much higher rate for gas than had formerly been the custom. In some cases the price was advanced from 30 cents up to 60 cents, while in many cases it was advanced to 80 cents per thousand cubic feet. Some few of the customers signed up, but the large majority objected. Later in the winter the gas was shut off in many districts and residents called indignation meetings, complaining that the company were using this means of compelling them to agree to a higher price.

HEARING IN CHATHAM.

Several hearings have been held, the most recent being in Chatham a couple of weeks ago, when it was definitely decided to hold a hearing in St. Thomas on the above dates. The meeting is an important one to Elgin County residents, as the various municipalities that comprise West Elgin were perhaps more seriously affected than any other part of the province when the increased rate was mooted.

In addition to this each of the Elgin municipalities have contracts good for another 10 or 20 years in many cases, in which the gas company agrees to distribute gas at the original rate set when a franchise to lay pipes through the district was granted.

THE DUTTON AGREEMENT.

The last Elgin hearing was held in Dutton last February. At that time an agreement was reached whereby the gas company arranged to continue the distribution of gas pending a final settlement as to price between the officials, consumers and the gas referee.

C. St. Clair Leitch, K. C., of this city, is representing the majority of the West Elgin municipalities, while W. K. Cameron, K. C., also of this city, represents Southwold.

CLANDEBOYE.

CLANDEBOYE, Oct. 7.—Cecil Morgan, of the 2nd concession, McGillivray, is still suffering severely from his recent accident. He fell from a distance of about 25 feet down a hay chute, striking on his hips across a manger. He is under medical treatment for internal injuries. Dr. Hamilton, of Ailsa Craig, is in attendance.

Thanksgiving services were held in St. James' Church on Sunday, October 2. Rev. Mr. Shore, of Ilderton, conducted both morning and evening services, which were largely attended, in spite of rath r inclement weather. The church was decorated with autumn leaves and flowers and appropriate fruit and grains.

Mrs. Margaret Lewis is almost fully recovered from her recent illness.

Wallace Cunningham is recovering from an attack of blood poisoning in his hand, caused by an injury received when cutting goldenrod.

The corn ear worm has almost spoiled the late table corn. This is its first appearance here, but it is easily destroyed by feeding stalks to the stock and giving the ground thorough cultivation.

Lucan Has Guardian of the Law Whose Ancestors Established Refugee Colony In Middlesex

RECALLS EARLY DAYS.

Grandfather of Present Constable, Peter Butler, Was Conspicuous Figure of Wilberforce Colony.

By E. A. Spence.

PETER BUTLER, descendant of settlers in "Wilberforce Colony" founded by refugees nearly a century ago, on the site of the present Village of Lucan.

Among the many picturesque figures in Middlesex County there are few more interesting than Peter Butler, of Lucan, probably the only colored member of the provincial police, of which body he has been a member for several years. Although some 60 years of age, Constable Butler is still active and a highly respected member of the community in which he was born and raised.

The Lucan constable is the last of three brothers of a highly respected family, whose forebears moved to what is now Biddulph Township about 100 years ago, making their home on a farm which now comprises part of the Village of Lucan.

Prior to his appointment to the provincial police, Mr. Butler was for some 30 years a member of the county constabulary, and he served the county faithfully during those years. Up until a few years ago he was a familiar figure at the county jail, to which he brought those who fell under the displeasure of the law in the vicinity of Lucan. No favoritism was shown any law-breaker, but all received just treatment at the hands of the Lucan constable.

WORKS TWO FARMS.

Mr. Butler is a married man with a family, and few residents of the village have shown more diligence and thrift than the colored citizen. He works two farms, one practically in the village and the other a short distance away. The two parcels comprise some 100 acres and are both well-kept, revenue-producing farms. He has two sons, one living in Lucan and the second a resident of London.

There is a most interesting story connected with the early colored settlers in Biddulph Township, among whom the grandfather of Mr. Butler was one of the most influential and prosperous. It was to this section of the province that a large number of refugee slaves came in 1829 to escape persecution even in the northern states of the Southern Union. The original members of the colony, which was set up in the district surrounding Lucan, came from Cincinnati, Ohio, and the settlement was known as the Wilberforce Refugee Colony.

Peter Butler, the elder, was born at Baltimore in 1797, and as a youth became a sailor. He followed the sea for some seven years, during which time he learned the trade of caulker. He followed this trade for some time after coming to Canada at Port Stanley and Port Dover. Later he went to Biddulph to look over the land and left his family in St. Thomas. He soon returned and removed the family to his field of new endeavors, and all took up residence on about the site of the present Village of Lucan.

THE LATE "DR. BUTLER."

The grandfather of the present constable was highly regarded in the colony, and having some knowledge of medicine, he was accorded the title of "Dr. Butler," and settlers came from considerable distances for treatment. The late "Dr Butler" is well remembered by old residents of Lucan. He was always well dressed and was a figure to command attention. Like his namesake, the colonist was a splendid worker. His farm was surveyed into town lots during a boom in the village, and according to accounts he left an estate, when he died in October, 1872, of some $22,000.

Of the considerable number of refugees who sought freedom under the British flag in the Township of Biddulph only a few remain in Lucan. The remainder have drifted to various sections of the country and only four families now resident in a village which at one time was almost predominately colored.

At the time of the establishment of the Wilberforce colony, London was a village of some 30 buildings and 200 inhabitants, while the northern colored colony numbered some 50 inhabitants, which was swelled at one time to 70.

The colony was not the success which its founders had hoped for it, but those who did make their permanent abode there, such as "Dr. Butler," were thrifty and energetic and did much toward making Biddulph the fine township that it is to-day.

GREAT INTEREST IN SCHOOL FAIR

S. S. No. 5, Delaware, Has Splendid Record

IMPROVEMENT IS NOTED

Building Repaired and Children Remembered

DELAWARE, Oct. 5. — The annual school fair of School Section No. 5, Gravel road, Delaware Township, was held with great success. Many were present, taking great interest in inspecting the numerous exhibits, which were of a high standing. There was a refreshment booth, which was well patronized. Miss A. Ronald, the popular teacher of the school, worked hard to make this annual event a success and was ably assisted by Miss Mary Colvin, Miss Leota Stevens and Trustees Mrs. James Turnbull and Alton Stevens. Many complimentary remarks were made by the visitors upon the great improvements that had been made by people of the section during this year. Bees were held and the school has been painted inside and outside, this work being entrusted to Henry Cooke, fourth concession, and trees have been cut down to allow additional light. Swings and teeter-teeters have been provided for the children. Inspector Thompson recently visited the school and was pleased with all that had been done by the section.

C. OF C. MANAGER MAXWELL GOES TO ST. KITTS WITH GOOD RECORD OF SERVICE

Has Been In Charge of Chatham Chamber of Commerce and Officer of Many Other Maple City Organizations.

M. M. MAXWELL.

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Manley M. Maxwell, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, will leave Chatham next month to accept a position as manager of the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce. His resignation will be considered by the directors of the local chamber at their meeting on Monday next.

Mr. Maxwell first came to Chatham in 1897, when he resided here for four years. He left in 1901 for Cleveland, where he was associated with The Cleveland Plaindealer, and later organizing secretary for the first executive of the Good Roads Federation of Ohio, which consisted of all the good roads organizations of the state. In 1909 he directed a good roads convention at Columbus, Ohio, which was the biggest good roads convention ever held up to that time. The meeting lasted for a week and there were delegates present from every state of the Union. At that meeting three-quarters of a mile of pavement was laid for the education of the delegates. He returned here in 1912 and for six years was the managing editor of The Chatham News. He has been manager of the Chatham Chamber of Commerce for two years.

PEPMASTER OF LIONS.

He is a past president of the Macaulay Club, a past president of the first brotherhood established in Chatham in connection with the Park Street Methodist Church, which was the forerunner of the Maple City Club; a member of the board of directors of the Chatham Horticultural Society, the West Kent Agricultural Society and the Kent Motor Club. He is the pepmaster of the Lions Club and a member of the board of directors of the Western Ontario Associated Boards of Trade. He also served for one year on the directorate of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association. He is also the secretary of the Victory Masonic Lodge, of this city. He has taken an active interest in Boy Scout work and was a member of the Boy Scout Council, of Chatham.

During the time he has been in Chatham Mr. Maxwell has been a popular and valuable citizen and sincere regret will be expressed at his removal from the city. As a manager of the Chamber of Commerce he has few equals in the country, if any, and St. Catharines is exceedingly fortunate in securing his services. He is full of pep, energy, ability and ambition, and on top of it all he is an indefatigable worker.

A short time ago Mr. Maxwell received a flattering offer from Brantford, but upon that occasion he was induced to remain in Chatham.

HYDRO EXTENSIONS IN TOWNSHIPS MAKE PROGRESS

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—Work upon rural extensions of hydro is now actually in progress in the townships of Nepean and Saltfleet, located in the counties of Carleton and Wentworth, respectively. At several other points in the province materials are all at hand and the building of the transmission lines will start at an early date. If the winter proves severe, it probably will check work on the greater part of the projected extensions, since the hauling of poles will be the only operation which could be economically pursued if the frost was deep in the ground.

CITY AND RURAL LEADERS ON TRIP

Two Hundred From Brant See Chippawa Development.

PART OF C. OF C. ACTIVITY.

Rural Relations Committee Is Link Between Sections.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 8.—A link between city and rural sections is the rural relations committee of the Chamber of Commerce of Brantford. One of the latest activities of this committee formed jointly of city and rural leaders was co-operation in bringing about the excursion to the Chippewa power development. Two hundred took in the trip, including the county council in a body, and the majority were from the county, as the first excursion had drawn almost entirely from the city. As a result the rural residents will have a keener conception of the great hydro-electric development plan being carried on, and it is believed that it will mean a weaning away of the rural element from opposition to the hydro-electric plan in general. This was needed, for there is considerable dissatisfaction against the plentiful supply of power for city purposes and the apparent inability to get power for rural residents other than those in close touch with the city—in the suburbs, for example. During the past week meetings were held in a number of sections throughout the county, in which the possibilities of getting power once the Chippewa development is complete were outlined and contracts were offered, with many signatures. The bearing by the province of half the financial cost of the distributing system is a big factor, for one farmer, residing but one-quarter of a mile from Burford village, paid $600 to have the line stretched to cover that quarter of a mile—and then had to make the necessary installations on his own property in addition.

ALL ONTARIO INTERESTED IN SEA ROUTE

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—Mayor Brisco is in receipt of notice that the annual general meeting of the Canadian Deep Waterways and Power Association will be held in the City Hall, Hamilton, on Tuesday and Wednesday, November 1 and 2, 1921. Addresses will be delivered by men who are authorities on water transportation in general and the St. Lawrence route to the sea in particular. The report of the engineers on the St. Lawrence route will be considered and plans will be laid for next year's campaign.

Municipalities and public bodies interested in the Great Lakes-Atlantic Ocean route or in the proper development of the water powers of Canada are invited to attend this meeting. A number will be present from this city.

WARDSVILLE.

WARDSVILLE, Oct. 7.—Word was received from Boston, Mass., that Mr. James Hutcheson had died and was buried there. Mr. Hutcheson, with his family, had moved there during September. His widow and two young sons, Allen and Morley, and little daughter, Agnes, survive him. He was the only son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Hutcheson, of Aldborough, and had been in poor health for some years.

Despite the occasional showers the barn of R. J. Petch was successfully raised, a large number of neighbors and friends gathering to assist in the work.

COURTRIGHT.

COURTRIGHT, Oct. 7.—Mr. W. Phillips, a prominent layman and active worker in St. George's Church, Sarnia, will take the services at Mooretown and Courtright next Sunday, October 9, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. respectively.

Mr. Phillips will address the congregations of Trinity and St. Stephen's churches on "The Duty of the Layman Towards the Church."

Next Sunday Rev. F. G. Newton, rector of St. John's Church, Sarnia, will preach at the harvest thanksgiving services in Christ Church, Corunna, at 11 a. m. and 7 p. m. There will be a special thank offering.

Some "Tips" On Fire Prevention

Make every day a fire-safe day.

Get rid of that pile of rubbish to-day.

One match can burn a whole city.

The only safe match is a burned match.

Your house can't run away from fire.

Every rubbish pile is a potential conflagration.

An air castle is better than a fire trap.

Take the bungle out of bungalow by building fire-safe.

Don't keep your family in a fire trap—build fire-safe.

Don't make a tomb of your home—build it fire-safe.

Every time a fire trap goes off someone gets caught.

No building is ever completed until it is made fire-safe.

Babies can't run from fire—build fire-safe.

A safety match is only safe in a fire-safe building.

Fifteen thousand lives and $500,000,000 could be saved in this country annually through fire-safe construction.

Fire-safe buildings earn money—they don't burn money.

Build earning buildings—not burning buildings.

Build fire-safe buildings—not potential bonfires.

What would you do if your home burned down?

Nice frame house—doors and sashes, couple a sparks—heap o' ashes.

Fight fire when you build—don't leave it all to the fire department.

The best way to fight fire is to not let it start. Concrete buildings won't burn.

Instead of spending millions every year to fight fire why not build it out once for all with fire-safe construction?

Fifty-two fire prevention weeks every year would save this country $500,000,000 and 15,000 lives annually.

The person who owns a fire trap is the person who always gets caught when the fire trap goes off.

If every structure in this country were fire-safe it would save every day 60 lives from fire death and $1,000,000 worth of property.

If Fire Prevention Week last year had put an end to fire trap construction it would have saved this country thousands of priceless lives and millions in valuable property. Let's not have any "if" about Fire Prevention Week this year.

When the firm alarm bell rings the owner of a fireproof building must get a lot of satisfaction out of knowing that, wherever the fire is, his investment is not in danger.

A fire alarm bell is a gigantic cash register, and very time it rings it means that someone has issued another paid out ticket.

The man who knowingly builds a fire trap is the sort of man who will trust a pin instead of suspenders. In case of an emergency almost anything is likely to happen.

A fire trap residence is like visiting mother-in-law—you can't tell how long she's going to remain nor how soon she may flare up over the least little friction.

The difference between a fire trap and a bear trap is that sometimes the bear gets away. The fire trap always catches someone.

It shouldn't be necessary to force people to build fire-safe buildings. Common sense proves it is the sensible thing to do.

Building buildings that will burn is like winking at an old maid—it not only looks foolish, but there's no telling how serious the outcome will be.

Many men would become incensed if they were accused of flirting. Yet, every time they erect a building that is not fire-safe they are flirting with disaster. The penalty they pay is included in the $500,000,000 a year fire loss in this country.

Make Fire Prevention Week accomplish something. Do your part to end fire trap construction in your community. Build every new structure fire-safe.

There are two classes of firebugs—the person who knowingly sets fire to a building and the person who knowingly builds burnable buildings. Fire-safe construction is the only cure for both evils.

How can we ever hope to overcome our housing shortage as long as we allow fire to destroy one-fourth of the buildings we build every year? The answer is—Build so it won't burn.

The way to prevent fire tragedies is building structures that won't burn. Help make that idea sink in during Fire Prevention Week.

Here's a pertinent question every community should ask itself during Fire Prevention Week: How can we ever hope to overcome our housing shortage as long as we allow fire to destroy one-fourth of the buildings we build every year? The answer is—Build so it won't burn.

The thing you especially want and didn't find on your last shopping trip may be advertised to-day. Did you look?

Nowadays no one is liberally educated unless he keeps in touch with the day's advertisements. To read the ads is to keep in touch with things.

To be an ad reader is to be prudent, economical and progressive. You buy with judgment and knowledge of goods.

CONTINUE RACIAL APPEAL IN QUEBEC

Joseph Archambault Makes False Charge Against Premier.

REMARKABLE STATEMENT.

Mr. Crerar's Speech Makes Little Impression At Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—(Special to The Free Press.) — Further evidence of the inflammatory campaign which the King Liberals are carrying on in Quebec is found in a remarkable speech delivered by Joseph Archambault, member of Chambley-Vercheres, in Quebec, on Wednesday.

Mr. Archambault was attacking Mr. Meighen for his stand at the imperial conference this summer and the press reports him as saying: "What is the position Mr. Meighen took there? We do not know, but we believe that Mr. Meighen engaged Canada to take part in a war between England and France in case of trouble over Silesia."

Mr. Archambault, of course, was addressing an exclusively French-Canadian audience and his purpose was clear. It was to stir up hatred against Mr. Meighen on the ground that he plotted in London to bring Canada into a war against France.

NEVER THOUGHT OF

The accusation is considerel all the more dastardly in view of the fact that it is grotesquely false, no such commitment having been made, suggested, thought of or discussed.

On the contrary, Mr. Meighen, in common with the other dominion prime ministers at the conference, gave and still give ardent support to the Anglo-French entente and in his memorable oration at the unveiling of a cross of sacrifices over the Canadian fallen at Vimy extolled the heroes, the sacrifices and the glories of France. Mr. Archambault is high in the councils of Quebec Liberalism.

In the House of Commons Mr. King recognized him as one of his chief lieutenants and for the past two or three sessions he has been foremost in Opposition debates. About six months ago he came into the limelight by declaring that Quebec's motto should be: "Je me souvins" (I remember.).

CRERAR'S SPEECH

Mr. Crerar's first speech of the campaign delivered at Brandon last night has made little impression in the capital, the leader of the Agrarian party, it is pointed out, added practically nothing to the speeches he has been making in Parliament since he left the Government in 1919.

While apparently surrendering to Mr. Wood and coming out clearly for free trade, he failed utterly to show how he would make up the tremendous loss in revenue which his policy would entail.

To years ago Mr. Crerar used to say that he would get revenue by an increased income tax, by an inheritance tax and by land tax.

Last fall, in East Elgin, he admitted that a land tax was impracticable, he no longer mentions his inheritance tax, the income tax is already at an extremely high peak and last night he dodged the revenue question altogether and talked economy. His new policy appears to be that his party could economize sufficiently to make up the loss of not less than one hundred and fifty millions of customs revenue, a policy which forgets the planks in his platform which would commit the country to the collossal expenditure of taking over the C. P. R. and the nationalizing trains.

Nor was Mr. Wood's lieutenant on much stronger ground in attacking the Government railway policy. For the truth is, of course, that Mr. Crerar was a member of the Government which took over the railways, that he favored the policy, that he has a nationalization of railways plank in his platform and that he has time and again voted in support of the Government's railway legislation in the House.

Finally, in regard to his talk about the Government's alliance with the big business, Mr. Crerar was treading on very thin ice. For this is the same Mr. Crerar who, less than three months ago, found himself in alliance with the Winnipeg Wheat Exchange and other representatives of big business in the move to block the Government's attempts to get at the men who are "farming the farmer" in the West. No less than 32 of the most eminent and high-priced counsel of the West were employed for this purpose by the agrarian leader and his wheat exchange friends and thus far their efforts have been successful in keeping on the lid. Moreover, it is pointed out that the Government's present taxation of wealth is more severe than it was when Mr. Crerar was a member of the ministry.

If you have dodged and evaded that shopping trip as long as you can just look pleasant and glance over the advertisements in to-day's paper. You'll find the dreaded "trip" is in reality something to look forward to.

IT'S AUTUMN ALL RIGHT.

The days are growing shorter and the twilight's nearly nil,
And the zephyrs after 6 p. m. have oft a hint of chill,
The garden's looking ragged and in places run to seed,
And you say: Can this be autumn? And the answer's, Yes, indeed.

There's a smell of pickling peaches in the atmosphere each day,
And you think you'll hang the hose up where it won't be in the way,
There is talk of furs and sweaters as the ladies plot and plan,
And you say: Can this be autumn? And the answer is, It can.

There's a growing list of home needs that the wife says must be met,
There are garments somewhere warmer that she'll simply have to get,
There are pipes that must be cleaned out, there are fall chores—quite a lot,
And you say: Can this be autumn? And the answer is, That's what.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

OCTOBER 9 TO 15, 1921

LONDON'S FIRE CHIEF APPEALS TO CITIZENS

"To you men who smoke cigarettes I make a special appeal---Be careful where you throw the 'butts,' for more than half the fires to-day are traced to this source"—CHIEF AITKEN

Taken from Wednesday's Paper.

FIREMEN PARADES PREVENTION WEEK

Citizens Are Asked To Reduce Fire Hazard.

FREE CITY OF DANGER

Civic Officials To Take Part In Campaign.

thorough inspection of all homes, stores and other buildings and the removal of all rubbish, is the request made to Londoners by the Fire Chief in connection with fire prevention week, which begins throughout Canada on Sunday next. The chief is making special preparations to the prevention campaign and is requesting that the attention of citizens be given every assistance to his men be given as free from fire danger as possible.

The chief intimated that the significance of the citizens by means of parades to the fire fighting apparatus. In addition to this the members of the department will make a thorough inspection of the business section of the city. Theaters, hotels, hospitals and asylum will receive thorough inspection and recommendations made to perfect safety in case of fire.

Fire Prevention Week has become a national institution and the dates were announced in a proclamation in a special edition of the Canada Gazette. The date from October 9 to October 15 was set by order-in-council.

A special appeal is made to Canadians to reduce the fire hazard in Canada. Special instructions are recommended with the distribution of appropriate literature to the pupils. Boy scout leaders are asked to lead their troops in the distribution of fire prevention literature to the pupils. Boy scout leaders are asked to lead their troops aid by giving instruction to their troops with fire extinguishers, as well as the means in co-operating with the prevention of fires.

It is pointed out that fire prevention is of national importance in the safeguarding of life and property. Special regulations are being issued for the prevention of forest fires to be studied by those in lumber camps and by hunters and settlers.

Extracts From the Fire By-Law.

48. (1) That the reels, engines and vehicles of the fire department of the City of London shall have the right of way on the streets and highways in the said city while proceeding to a fire, or answering a fire alarm call.

49. (1) No person shall, within the city, place, keep or deposit ashes in wooden receptacles, or within twenty-five feet of a house or building, unless the same are contained in some safe depository constructed of brick, stone, or other incombustible material.

(2) No person shall, within the city, keep in a cellar, basement or area under any sidewalk, any waste paper, straw, shavings, lumber or other combustible material, for a longer period than twenty-four hours; provided, however, that this sub-section shall not apply to the stock-in-trade or merchandise of any person within the city.

51. Any person convicted of a breach of any of the provisions of this by-law shall forfeit and pay, at the discretion of the convicting magistrate, a penalty not exceeding the sum of fifty dollars for each offense, exclusive of costs.

$64,874,935 Worth of Property Destroyed By Fire During the Last Five Years In Ontario Alone

(and this does not include forest fires)

The average fire loss in Ontario for the last three years has exceeded one million dollars per month, a per capita of $5 for every man, woman and child in the province.

EXTRACT FROM GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S PROCLAMATION

It is shown by authoritative statistics that the amount of the average annual loss of insurable property by fire in Canada exceeds twenty-six million dollars and that in addition to this recorded loss of our developed resources there is a tremendous unappraised loss from forest fires.

In Canada more than 300 persons annually lose their lives as a result of fire.

It is shown by reliable statistics that at laest 80 per cent. of the fires which occur originate either directly or indirectly through inexcusable ignorance and neglect and are therefore preventable and that the exercise of reasonable prudence and proper carefulness on the part of responsible individuals would reduce losses by fire in Canada to the comparatively insignificant proportions of losses in other countries.

Economic and humanitarian considerations imperatively demand that human life and material resources in Canada be so far as possible conserved in order that the national prosperity may be maintained and that the general welfare of the people may be measurably increased.

It is desirable that the attention of the public be directed to the extent and underlying causes of the preventable loss of life and property by fire and to the best and most practicable means for its control and that a specific period of the year be set apart and properly designated for the dissemination of such information.

Now know ye that we, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council of Canada, have thought fit to appoint and do appoint the week commencing Sunday, the Ninth day of October, and ending on Saturday, the Fifteenth day of October, in this present year as "Fire Prevention Week."

UNITED KINGDOM BUSINESS SLOW

Government Reports Show Few Signs of Returning Activity.

OUR APPLES IN FRANCE

Number of Unemployed In Britain Slowly Decreasing.

INdustrial Pg.—Proof Maginley .. .. ..

The number of the Weekly Bulletin of the Commercial Intelligence Service, dated October 3, reports that general business remains inactive in the United Kingdom, and such few signs of recovery as are visible refer to future prospects rather than to actual conditions. The returns of oversea trade for August show an increase of £8,000,000 in imports and £9,000,000 in exports over July, but these are attributable to relief caused by the termination of the coal strike rather than to any revival of business. Otherwise the month's totals represent little more than half of the figures for the same month a year ago.

Regarding unemployment, the 2,170,000 wholly unemployed and 988,000 on short time, which was reported on July 1, has been reduced to 1,527,000 and 400,000 respectively on September 2. An outstanding feature of the past month has been the demonstrations and disorder among the unemployed in their endeavor to secure relief from municipalities and the Government. The situation has determined the Government to open an investigation, which will probably lead to the institution of relief work.

A universal agitation is in progress against the lack of proportion between the prices which retailers are demanding for food and other commodities in comparison with the manufacturers' and wholesale prices, which are now ruling; and as a number of influential journals are waging a campaign against the rapacity of the retailers, and publishing definite figures showing the wide margin between what prices are and what they might be, it seems probable that their crusade will force down prices to a level which will eventually lead to a general revival in home trade.

UNITED KINGDOM CROPS DURING AUGUST.

The long drought was broken during August, and, though the rainfall was comparatively small, yet throughout the greater part of the country all grain was secured in good condition by the end of the month. Wheat was generally of good quality, with small amount of damage by smut. Winter oats and early spring crops of barley and oats are fairly satisfactory, but yields are light. Beans and peas are small crops. Potatoes are generally small. Root crops have improved greatly, but yields will be low. Apples are generally good, although smaller in size than usual. The yield of pears is small.

Taking the average crop to be 100, the probable yields per acre are represented by the following percentages: Wheat, 104; barley, 89; oats, 89; beans, 85; peas, 86; potatoes, 81; turnips and swedes, 70; mangels, 82, and hops, 89.

MARKET CONDITIONS FOR APPLES IN FRANCE.

Importations have been the exception rather than the rule, and not only is there very little demand for barrel apples, but even a supply has been developed from home sources for the luxury requirements of Paris. Inquiry is being made as to the possibility of getting together, in Canada, carload lots of the variety known as the Canadian Reinette, La Reinette du Canada.

Preliminary trade returns of the oversea trade of Australia for the fiscal year ending July 30, 1921, show an extraordinary increase of £64,359,212 in the value of the imports and decrease of £17,898,391 in exports. Total imports were £163,333,504, and total exports £131,925,118.

BRAZILIAN MARKET.

The market for August in Brazil has again been quiet, exports of coffee being small, shipping dull, and the bulk of the business being done with Europe. Fortunately, the general feeling amongst bankers, exchange brokers and merchants is that the market will remain firm and conditions gradually improve.

RELIEF PLANNED FOR SOUTHERN ALBERTA

Alberta Premier Also Plans Change in Liquor System.

EDMONTON, Oct. 7.—Provincial Premier Herbert Greenfield stated last night that the Alberta Cabinet has decided on a relief system for the southern part of the province this winter. The Government is also, it was stated by Attorney General Brownlee, considering the substitution of vendors' stores for the sale of liquor by drug stores as at present.

There is nearly always something new in the store that advertises. You will not find the same old stock as in your last visit. Publicity has sold it and made room for the new goods.

DOESN'T LIKE GOVERNMENT BUT APPROVES SELECTION OF STEVENS AS COMMERCE HEAD

"Financial Post" Not Favorable To Mr. Meighen, But Says New Minister of Trade and Commerce Is the Right Man In the Right Place.

The Financial Post has never been accused of having any especial leaning toward the present Dominion Government, therefore praise from this source may be taken at its full face value. And The Post is more than pleased with the new minister of trade and commerce, Hon. H. H. Stevens, of Vancouver.

The current issue of The Post contains the following from T. M. Fraser, The Post's correspondent in the Ottawa press gallery:

The department of trade and commerce has secured at last what The Financial Post has long been urging—new blood at its head. H. H. Stevens, of Vancouver, who succeeds Sir George Foster in what is, perhaps, the most important Government department, is young, bright and has very great energy. He is a broker and accountant and president and managing director of the Vancouver firm of Shatford-Stevens, Limited, importers and exporters. He has traveled extensively in the Orient and is conversant with trade questions.

Hitherto his public record has been that of an intensely keen politician and partisan. Just at present he is supremely interested in pushing the investigation into the Western grain trade which was undertaken by the Government last spring and held up by injunction secured by the members of the trade. His actions in this connection are not wholly reassuring, as the manner in which this investigation was conducted destroyed any possible good which might have emerged from it, and was admittedly designed for political rather than economic purposes.

Mr. Stevens has, however, made one move already which indicates that he may inject more than politics into the department of trade and commerce, although it is primarily of parish importance. He has announced that the department will open an office in Vancouver for the purpose of making a complete survey and study of every feature of export trade on the Pacific coast. Judging from the reports issued by the Government merchant marine there, the carrying trade at Pacific ports has maintained its activity about as well as in any part of the continent and the endeavor to extend this trade is commendable.

HE PLEASES THE POST.

HON. H. H. STEVENS, new minister of trade and commerce.

The department of trade and commerce has also taken action in another direction. Last session of Parliament permissive legislation was enacted providing for the appointment of Canadian trade agents with almost consular powers in the chief cities of the United States, corresponding with similar officials which the United States maintains in Canada. The object of appointing such officials was to endeavor to help in changing the balance of trade between Canada and the United States, which has been running so strongly against us. It looked like a good scheme, but it is now stated from the department that nothing will be done regarding it at present, as many Canadian boards of trade have questioned the wisdom of certain features in connection with the idea, such as viseing invoices of goods sent here.

CANADA'S MINERAL OUTPUT RUNS BELOW LAST YEAR'S

Six Months' Figures Show Gold Product Ahead, But Other Metals Smaller.

An official estimate of the value of the production of metallic minerals in Canada from January to June, 1921, is $24,264,423, or 32 per cent. of the total value of the production of 1920. During these six months the production of gold, lead and zinc exceeded that of 1920 in volume, but in the case of all other metals particularly nickel and copper, the volume was less.

The total gold production of Canada, during the first six months of this year amounted to 396,391 fine ounces, worth $8,194,129, on the basis of the standard value of gold, all this amount being taken by the royal mint, Ottawa, which pays for it in New York funds. At present the chief gold mines are operating almost at capacity and under more favorable conditions than during the first half of the year.

The output of coal from all Canadian mines for the same six months declined to 86 per cent. of the amount produced during the corresponding period last year, but was 5 per cent. in excess of the same period in 1919, while the quantity of coal exported during this period in 1921 was 869,004 tons, valued at $32,882,953, as compared with 1,278,957 tons during the corresponding period in 1920 and 948,495 tons in that of 1919. On the other hand coal imports increased substantially, the tonnage from January to June, 1921, being 8,319,246, as compared with 6,768,709 and 6,723,757, in 1920 and 1919, respectively.

Sales of asbestos for the half year were valued at 2,708,338, an amount considerably below the normal figure. Towards the end of the half year, more labor became available and a livelier market opened up, owing to greater activity in building operations and a decrease in stocks in the hands of manufacturers.

It is a good plan to scrap some things in the subconscious mind never to bring them to light—but don't treat your store advertisements in that way. Read them daily.

FOREIGN TRADE STILL DECLINES

Canadian Foreign Trade For Five Months Drops 40 Per Cent.

The foreign trade of North and South America and of the United Kingdom continues to contract, says the monthly business letter of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. In the case of Canada, her external trade for the five months ending August last amounted to $602,315,000, a decrease of $461,043,000 or 40 per cent. as compared with the corresponding months of the previous year. Of this decrease, imports accounted for $278,000,000 and exports for $178,000,000. These figures compare with a decrease of 43 per cent. in the trade of the United States during the seven months ending July. It is interesting to note that in the case of Canada the decrease in imports during June and July was 54 per cent., whereas in the United States it was 48 per cent., the comparison in both cases being made with the figures for the corresponding months a year ago. It is quite evident that the exceptional changes now taking place in the value of foreign trade are not confined to Canada, but are due rather to general conditions. At the same time the new United States tariff has been responsible for a great deal of interruption to the natural trend of trade between the two countries and our neighbors should remember that a market which is subject to change for political rather than economic considerations is likely to prove unattractive in the long run and to see its natural trade go elsewhere. Certain it is that increased stability in the conditions under which the creation and exchange of wealth takes place must precede any marked improvement in business. Uncertainty, from whatever cause, is one of the most powerful deterrents of the investment of capital and labor in industrial or commercial enterprises.

At the present time, less unrest from political causes, less recourse to Government aid for the adjustment of difficulties which should be solved by individual initiative and undertaking, and less public expenditure which results in the increase of the burden of taxation upon business enterprise, appear to be among the main essentials preliminary to an improvement in business.

LABOR TROUBLES HAMPER HARVEST

Western Farmers First Refused To Pay Rate of Wages Suggested.

NEAR STRIKE STAGED.

Farmers Eventually Paid More Than Government's Figure.

BY E. L. CHICANOT.

After being long anticipated as one of the earliest of Canadian harvesting seasons and lauded accordingly the garnering of the crop, of the Western Provinces and the marketing of the grain have been considerably hampered, not the least serious handicapping feature being the sudden and unexpected fall of rain and snow which came at a time when much of the crop was in stook and much more uncut. There are reasons why the harvesting of the Western Canadian crop was not further advanced at the time when the elements proved so inclement, for other factors entered into the retarding unlike climatic interruptions, inasmuch as they were humanly unavoidable to a large extent.

Each year the East looks to the West to relieve it for a few months of what unemployment it might have and to supply these men with a stake against the winter months. These men are annually indispensable to the Western farmer, but he has come to look upon them much in the light of an evil he cannot do without. This year with unemployment looming up more seriously than ever, the East sent its unemployed out and the West with a bumper crop on its hands was glad to see the laboring host arrive. Yet it is to be doubted if unemployment has been substantially relieved by the Western harvest this year and certain it is that many men will be facing the winter months without a pittance who had they adopted a more reasonable attitude, which existing economic conditions demanded, they would be facing the months of enforced idleness with greater assurance.

GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE.

To commence with, the Government, when it some months ago conducted a survey of conditions and attempted to make an estimate of the harvesters who would be required, made a statement, possibly without attaching due weight to it, that harvest pay would be $4 a day. Whilst the majority of harvesters who had worked for much more last year considered this small, farmers in many sections were strongly of the opinion that they were too high in view of the prices they were likely to receive for their grain. Harvesters, however, almost universally demanded this as a minimum. The result was that where they hung out for this amount farmers cut down their help to an absolute minimum. Where they had intended hiring a man they did without and performed the work themselves; where they might have engaged two or three men at a lower wage they made one do, acceding to the demand for high wages only when absolutely forced to by reason of the ripe crop lying on the ground.

A more serious development of the situation evolved later when it was found that the first estimate of the number of men the prairies required had been underestimated and the second harvest excursion from the East cancelled too abruptly. This gave those in the field—being a smaller number than requirements called for—a position where they could exert an extra lever in exacting their demands. Trains passed through prairie towns and farmers with their crops cut and ready for stooking went down to secure men. These refused four dollars a day, demanding five and sometimes six and their railroad fare to destination. Sometimes when farmers in desperation acceded to their extortionate demands they would fail to put in an appearance at the stipulated time, apparently having thought better of the contract or being influenced by others of the party. At the end of August it was no uncommon thing even in the larger centers to see farmers futilely seeking stookers among idlers who, when hearing the rate of pay, disparagingly compared it to that they had received last year.

There was a virtual strike existing in many points of the West at times, harvesters holding out for their demands and farmers refusing to accede to their demands and doubling their own efforts rather than pay what they considered extortionate wages. Whilst there were many idle men in Moosejaw and Regina the Government labor bureau at Vernon, B. C., was asking for 300 harvesters for the Regina district. The same condition prevailed at Edmonton, whilst the manager of the labor bureau at Calgary stated that he had received more requests for men from farmers than he could fill. Later wages had to be raised to $5 per day to induce men to leave the city for the farms. In Vancouver out of 1,600 men who had signed on to go to the prairies as harvesters only 600 responded when the call came, this in face of the fact that there was no prospect of work for them in Vancouver for some time.

GIANTS SMASH THROUGH YANKEES

(Four American League Pitchers Are Mauled)

DEFENSE FOR THEIR FIRST VICTORY

Wild Third Inning Gives Each Team Four Cheap Runs and Barnes and Quinn, in Role of Relief Pitchers, Stall Off Batters Till Giants Look at Two More Heavers in Eighth; Onslaught of Eight Hits, In cluding a Double and Triple by Young in the Same "Lucky Seventh" Is Responsible for American Champions Comp lete Undoing

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Giants awoke from their two days of lethargy to-day and sprinkled the greensward at the Polo Grounds with such a shower of hits that the Yankees were swamped under a score of 13 to 5 in the third game of the world's series.

The National Leaguers had gone runless for 20 innings up to the third session of this afternoon's struggle. Then the outbreak of hitting started.

Stealing the Yankees' thunder as the latter had stolen theirs in the previous games of the series, in speed and daring on the bases, John McGraw's men, after spoiling their American League opponents to a four-run lead, promptly canceled this advantage, driving Bob Shawkey, who had started for Miller Huggins' team, off the mound in the third inning. Then, after the score had run along in a tie for three more innings, they broke out with an orgy of hitting against second-string Yankee pitchers in the traditional "lucky seventh," putting over eight runs in this chapter and piling up a total of 13 runs and 20 hits in their eight innings at the bat.

Despite its one-sidedness the game was the sort that tickles the fancy of the average baseball crowd, and today's throng, despite the partizan leaning of a goodly portion of it, was no exception. It was full of thrills, brilliant catches, daring base-running and, on the Giants' side, long-distance hitting.

The crowd, with perfect baseball weather to bring it out, was a record-breaker for this series. More than 36,500 "fans" jammed the stands and bleachers. They broke the series record for noise and enthusiasm as well. The turn of the Yankee adherents came first, but the hubbub they kicked up was as nothing to that let loose by the Giants' supporters when their opportunity arrived.

The McGraw clan, riding roughshod over their opponents, the National League partizans unlimbered their vocal cords, their cowbells and rattles, heretofore subduced, and played the game as hard from their seats as their favorites did on the diamond. At times whole sections of the stands seemed to be composed of seething waves of yelling humanity. The Yankee supporters were dumb after the third inning and the close of the conflict became a Giant carnival.

The Yankee fielders stood up well under the bombardment of hits, and incidentally turned in some notable defensive feats. One of these was a jumping catch in the second inning by Aaron Ward, the Yankees' second sacker, which resulted in a double play.

It was George Burns, the Giants' center fielder, however, who turned in the most remarkable feat of the game, and also of the series. In the seventh inning he started with the crack of Pitcher Quinn's bat against the ball, and while still on the run, hauled down the drive over his shoulder, close to the center field fence. It was a marvelous piece of fielding, and drew a big demonstration from the entire crowd.

All the Giants, with the exception of Young and Kely figured in the hitting. Toney was taken from the game before he had a chance to bat. Burns and Snyder divided the hitting honors, each making four hits. Burns' hitting included a double and a triple.

Young had a double and a triple, while "Irish" Meusel had two singles and a double. Babe Ruth had another colorless day compared with some of his work during the season's campaign. In four times at the plate he struck out twice, made a single which scored two Yankee runs and drew a base on balls. He left the game in the eighth inning, after he had received a base on balls, Fewster running for him and scoring a run. It was said the home run king was suffering from an infected arm. On the fielding side he had but one chance, capturing Bancroft's sacrifice fly.

The game, which ended so lop-sidedly, started out as if it might be another one like the pitchers' battle of yesterday.

Toney, who started for the Giants, breezed along comfortably for two innings. The Yankees got to him in the third, however, and he was taken out with the bases full, none out, and three runs in. Anothr run was scored by the Yankees before "Jess" Barnes, who relieved him, could retire the side.

Shawkey met his fate, like Toney, in the same inning. His wildness was responsible. After he had forced two runs over the plate by passing batters, Jack Quinn was called to the mound. Two of the Giants Shawkey left on the bases subsequently tallied, but there was no more scoring off Quinn until the tempestuous seventh. Meanwhile Barnes was twirling a heady, steady game, and holding the Yankees safe, as he did to the end.

BREAK COMES IN THIRD.

The game broke wide open in the Yankees' third inning. Schang drew a base on balls and reached third on Shawkey's single to right. Miller hit for a base, scoring Schang and moving Shawkey to second. Toney gave Peckinpaugh a base on balls and all corners were filled. Cheers of the Yankee fans greeted the stands as the home-run king walked to the plate. Ruth slammed Toney's sixth pitch, and drove it to center field for a single, sending home both Shawkey and Miller.

Peckinpaugh took third. Here Toney was waved off the mound and Barnes was brought out of the bullpen. Ruth went out trying to steal. Bob Meusel walked and Peckinpaugh scored on Pipp's out. This ended the Yankees' scoring in the inning.

LEAD IS INFINITESMAL

The four-run lead looked big to the Giants as they went to bat. Barnes, first up, poked a single to left. Burns went out on a fly to center, but Captain Bancroft faced a single to right, Barnes stopping at second. Shawkey threw wide to Frisch, who walked, filling the bases. Shawkey appeared to lose control and passed Young, forcing home Barnes with the Giants' first run of the series. Shawkey then passed Kelly, forcing home Bancroft. Quinn replaced Shawkey at this juncture with the bases still populated. Frisch scored while "Irish" Meusel was being retired at first. Young and Kelly moving up. Young came home with the tying run when Rawlings hit a grounder to Peckingapgh, who could not handle the ball in time to throw out the Giants' second-baser.

Snyder fouled out to Pipp and left the score tied in a knot until the Giants' hectic seventh inning.

The National League leaders made more runs and hits in the seventh inning than in the two previous games of the series. Frisch began the attack by slashing a single to center and went to third on Young's two-bagger to right field. Kelly walked and the bases were filled. There was tremendous cheering when "Irish" Meusel slammed a double to right, sending home Frisch and Young. Kelly stopped at third on the hit. Rawlings came through with a single to center, scoring Kelly and Meusel.

WAVES "GOOD NIGHT"

Here Collins took up the pitching burden for the Yankees, but was unable to sweep back the attacking Giants. After Rawlings went out trying to steal, Snyder, Barnes and Burns hit out singles, amid frenzied rooting. With the bases full Bancroft lifted a sacrifice fly to Ruth, scoring Snyder. Frisch walked and the National League followers broke into tumultuous cheering as Young swept the bases with a tremendous three-bagger to left center. Collins then waved good night to the crowd. Pitcher Rogers, his rescuer, threw out Kelly at first, ending the slaughter, to the great relief of Yankee rooters, some of whom began to "ride" the American League champions. Twelve Giants were at bat in the inning, getting eight hits and two bases on balls for a total of eight runs. One man, Young, was left on base.

Each team added a run to their totals in the eighth inning. Frank Baker, home run king of other days, was given a cheer when he batted for Pitcher Rogers in the Yankees' ninth, but the best he could do was to give "Irish" Meusel a long fly.

The London Collegiate team is weakened by the loss of George Sessions, who is suffering from a dislocated knee. Efforts have been made to strengthen the weak spot, but it is not known whether the "Tecs" will prove superior or not.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH ATHLETICS TO BOOM

If the enthusiasm displayed at a meeting held by representatives from the different clubs of St. Andrew's Church is any indication of results there is some fall and winter ahead for the young people.

St. Andrew's Athletic Association was formed, with Ernest Denn's president, Charles Scott secretary-treasurer, and an athletic committee composing, among others, the following young men: Dr. Windrim, Gordon Marr, Earle Young, Ronald Foot and Charles McGill.

At the completion of the basket ball series a hockey league is to be organized. With the best open-air rink in the city, a steam-heated dressing room leading on to the ice, shower baths at their disposal, all that is asked is that old Mother Nature will provide lots of frost.

St. Andrew's Young Men's Club commenced their weekly meetings last Sunday at 3 p. m. They have been exceedingly fortunate in securing for their leader Mr. C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate for the Federal house. A cordial welcome is extended to all young men who would like to identify themselves with a live organization. FINDS PARENTS CRUELLY SLAIN

Montreal Couple Believed Murdered for Revenge

DAUGHTER'S DISCOVERY

Toronto Man Held as Witness for Inquest

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—Discovered by their daughter with their heads beaten to a pulp, probably by blows from an axe, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Onofre Batura, an elderly couple, residing at 385 14th avenue, Lachine, were found this afternoon in their home.

The motive of the double murder is given by the provincial and Lachine police as revenge, and a man, Stanilas Tomachuk, aged 40, is being held as a witness for the inquest. Tomachuk stated to-day that he lived in Toronto and arrived in Lachine this morning, but refuses to make any further statement in connection with the affair.

The woman's body, completely nude, was found in the cellar. Her hands had been tied behind her back and around her neck was a piece of wire, with indications that she had been strangled.

Dora Batura, aged 30, the daughter of the murdered couple, said that Tomachuk had asked her to marry him some six weeks ago and that both she and her parents had refused to hear of it.

WORLD LEAGUE COST TO CANADA TO BE CUT

LONDON, Oct. 7.—On the last day of the assembly of the League of Nations it was agreed to alter the article relating to contribution from the different states towards the expenses of the league, the result being that the Canadian contribution will be substantially reduced next year.

The question of repayment of part of this year's contribution in Canada and other nations, which appear to have been overassessed, was also considered and it was recommended that reimbursement be made when the league obtains a surplus.

MOTORISTS' COMPLAINT DECLARED UNFOUNDED

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—The investigation opened by the department of highways into a complaint that flint used in surfacing on the provincial highway near Jordan was causing serious damage to auto tires has convinced W. A. McLean, deputy minister, that the complaint was without foundation.

It was learned that the contractor, who owns a quarry in the district that produces a flinty stone, had not used any of it but had used a stone from quarries at Dundas, which have been supplying material for use in many sections.

Hon. F. C. Biggs announced to-day that a check for approximately $700,000 had been received by the provincial treasury from the Federal Government on account of good road construction in the province.

PALESTINE HAS 700,000 PEOPLE

Great Deal Fewer Than In Time of Christ.

MANY IMMIGRANTS NOW.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—There are now barely 700,000 people in all Palestine, a population much less than that of Galilee alone in the time of Christ, says Sir Herbert Samuel, the British high commissioner there, in a report just made public.

Ten thousand immigrants arrived in Palestine in the seven months between September, 1920, and May, 1921, he reports.

Sir Samuel attributes the scarcity of the population to lack of development.

The financial condition of Eastern and Central Europe and internal difficulties within the Zionist organization of the United States, says the report, have prevented the Zionist movement from providing, as yet, any large sums for enterprises of development or colonization. As a consequence, while there had been much pressure to admit Jewish immigrants, there had been little expansion in the opportunities for employment, he declared.

The water supply for Jerusalem having been found to be insufficient, the Government is bringing into use some ancient reservoirs of vast capacity, named the pools of Solomon, but of unknown date, possibly Herodian, situated eight miles away.

The garrison of the country has been reduced to 5,000 combatant troops, imposing a charge of £2,500,000 on the British exchequer, or at the rate of £500 for every fighting man.

HORSE FALLS IN UNUSED WELL, DEATH RESULTS

STRATFORD, Oct. 7. — A draught horse, owned by C. Schneider & Co., coal dealers, died early this afternoon as a result of injuries sustained when it fell down a well on the property of Mr. Decker, 54 East Gore street. The horse was hauling a load of coal to the house and in passing over what happened to be safe ground crashed hindquarters first into a disused well. The owner of the property, who has been in the house only a short time, was not aware that there was a well on the lot, as the rotted boards across the top were covered with turf. The horse's head and forefeet were visible above the well, but it was impossible for him to get out without assistance. As it was, hours passed before the suffering animal was extricated. A crane structure was improvised and bands placed about the body of the animal, and after much difficulty it was pulled out. The horse had been hurt in falling, and was so exhausted by its efforts to scramble out that it was unable to stand and died shortly after.

CRERAR WILL RUN IN MARQUETTE

Nominated in the Riding He Contested in 1917

TALKS OF THE TARIFF

Takes a Fling at Premier's Statements in East

SHOAL LAKE, Man., Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—By unanimous vote, the Farmers' convention of Marquette to-day chose Hon. T. A. Crerar, the party leader, as their candidate in the forthcoming federal election. Mr. Crerar's was the only name submitted to the convention. Marquette is the county which elected Mr. Crerar in 1917.

Addressing the delegates to the convention and a public meeting later, Mr. Crerar took occasion to reply to some of th changes leveled against the progressive body and against himself. As at Brandon, a couple of days ago, he claimed that the prime minister had placed no constructive policy before the people, and as at Brandon, he challenged the Government to lay bare the source of its campaign funds. Again he maintained that the tariff was an important but not the sole issue of the campaign. But here he pursued his argument further.

"The prime minister," Mr. Crerar declared, "is making the welkin ring throughout the Maritime Provinces—he is ringing the charges up and down everywhere else— that if Progressives come into power you will have free trade in the country and everything will go to the bow-wows. That, of course, is a gross misrepresentation of the facts.

BACKS UP

"My position is this and the position of the Progressive movement is this, that the principle of protection is unsound as applied to the finance policy of this country. But I want to say this also, that, for the purpose of revenue for some years to come, at any rate, it will be necessary for us to raise a considerable amount of money from the customs tariff."

Mr. Crerar argued, however, that the primary purpose of a protective tariff was to keep goods out of the country and that so far as it protected in this regard a customs tariff did not raise any revenue.

When goods failed to enter a country they did not produce any customs revenue. Under the present tariff of 35 per cent.—Mr. Crerar contended in illustration—woolen goods were practically prohibited from entry into Canada. If that rate were reduced to 17 or 15 per cent. woolens would come in, revenue would be raised, the spirit of competition would be introduced into the woolen industry and competition was the very life and breath of trade.

"Agriculture is the very foundation of our prosperity," he exclaimed. "If you are to have Canada prosperous you must have agriculture prosperous." He cited instances of the way in which, he said, farmers were suffering under the present fiscal system. He mentioned the case of a Marquette farmer, who bought a carload of cattle last fall, fed them and then had to sell them recently in Winnipeg for less than he gave for them.

There was another case of a Saskatchewan farmer who took a carload of cattle to Winnipeg, then sent them back to Saskatchewan because he could not afford to sell them at the price offered.

PUTS A QUESTION.

"Is that a healthy condition for business?" Mr. Crerar asked. "The farmers of this country cannot continue under such a condition of affairs. They cannot keep on buying in a protected market while their products are sold in the open markets of the world."

Agriculture was the staple industry of Canada. Not only for the sake of the farmers, but for the sake of the country as a whole, agriculture should be made as prosperous as possible.

Touching on the question of reciprocity with the United States, Mr. Crerar expressed the conviction that within a year the way would be open for a reopening of negotiations with the United States looking to an exchange on natural products on a basis that would be mutually satisfactory. But there was nothing to hope for from the present Government in that respect. The prime minister had frankly stated that he did not want reciprocity with the United States. The Government was doing nothing to secure new markets.

Replying to criticisms, Mr. Crerar said: "I am really surprised when I read some of the Eastern newspapers to read what a really villainous person I have become. I had no idea there was so much villainy and deep-dyed treachery to Canada in my make-up, and yet I know that these attacks are inspired wholly and purely for political purposes.

"A few days ago Mr. Henders, the former member for MacDonald, raked up some happenings, or alleged happenings, at Ottawa, and by a gross distortion and misrepresentation misled the people of this country. Mr. Henders has forgotten that he once stood for our platform and that he himself assisted in preparing it. I do not know what his reason is, but it is worth noting that in 1917 Mr. Henders signed a pledge to certain persons in Carman, Manitoba, that he would stand by the Government of Canada through thick and thin. Mr. Henders to-day is not a free agent in the sense of the word. He is not free to criticize as he should be in a position to criticize."

Mr. Crerar added that he was in Ottawa when the suggestion of the grain inquiry arose and it was common comment then that the purpose of the inquiry was to "get the grain growers' movement" and to "get Crerar particularly." Every effort would be made to misrepresent and distort the progressive movement.

"SPOTTERS" ARE TO BE PROBED

Result of Statement of Magistrate Gundy, of Windsor

THEIR EVIDENCE FAILS

Court Refuses to Convict on Their Statements

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—"Spotters" sent to Windsor by the Ontario license department to obtain evidence against alleged "blind pig" will be investigated by Nicol Jeffrey, K. C., special prosecutor, as a result of Magistrate Gundy this afternoon questioning the credibility of testimony given by two of the "special officers."

Prosecutor Jeffrey told the court that if an investigation showed these two officers had perjured themselves he would begin action against them.

The magistrate asserted that it was unfortunate that the license department was employing men to spend Government money to obtain evidence by purchasing liquor.

"Their work must have a more or less demoralizing effect on their characters," the court said. "I must say that the evidence of these two men has impressed me more unfavorably than that of any men who came here to prosecute a liquor case."

Charges of selling liquor against Kenworth Decke, of Sandwich West, and Mrs. Hanna McConnell, Riverside, were dismissed, the court refusing to believe the testimony of the spotters.

SCHOOL CHILDREN NEED LOTS OF PLAY, ADVICE

Oxford Teachers Secure Many Valuable Suggestions at Convention Held at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 7.—The second day of the Oxford Teachers' Convention, which was concluded this evening, provided a great deal of splendid material for those present, and during the day some excellent addresses were listened to. The feature was an address by A. K. Davidson, of London, who spoke on "Pictorial Perspective". He stressed the value of art in the school curriculum, and threw out a host of helpful suggestions. One thing he did was to discourage the use of the ruler by the student, save for the purpose of gaining a preliminary perspective of the objects to be drawn only. He went into details and the teachers found his remarks very helpful.

Alex G. Donald, secretary of the Y.M. C.A., gave an address in which he took issue with the remarks of Inspector Patterson, made earlier in the convention. The inspector thought that play was being stressed too much in modern schools. Mr. Donald was of the opinion that school children should have play and lots of it. He touched on the value of recreation in making schools more pleasant for the pupil who dislikes attending school, and Mr. Donald also named several splendid books which the teachers would find of aid.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Miss M. B. Topping, Central School, Woodstock; vice-president, Mr. Smith, principal of Tillsonburg School; secretary-treasurer, M. Walton, principal of Ingersoll Public School. The management committee comprises Inspectors J. M. Cole and R. A. Patterson, with Miss Addie Meggs, of Drumbo. Delegates to the O.E.A., of Toronto: Miss M. E. Topping, Woodstock, and R. A. Thompson, Otterville.

WANTS $35,000 TO SUPPLY HEAT

Chatham Company Makes Known Revenue Required

FACING A SHUT-DOWN

Business Men to Determine Rate to Be Charged

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—A meeting of the patrons of the Chatham Steam Heating Company, was held this afternoon to consult with U. M. Fell, president of the company, regarding the chances for securing heat from the central plant this winter. Mr. Fell informed the users, who comprise the most of the business men on King street, that the company would go out of business if they were not guaranteed at least $30,000 or $35,000.

A special committee composed of H. A. Dean, C. W. McGuire and R. J. Rankin, was appointed to determine what rate would be necessary to raise that much revenue, and this committee will then interview the users and endeavour to induce them to sign contracts for the present winter.

Mr. Fell reported at a meeting that out of a revenue last year of $15,000 the company had, at the end of the season, over $10,000 in unpaid bills, $6,000 of which is still uncollected. There was a dispute over the interrupted service.

WEST ELGIN FAIR IN BAD WEATHER AGAIN

Try To-Day to Hold Exhibition Which Was Spoiled Yesterday; Good Attractions Secured

WALLACETOWN, Oct. 7.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The management of the West Elgin Fair, one of the feature events of the season in Elgin County, is not by any means in good standing with old Jupiter Pluvius, for it was found necessary this afternoon to again postpone the second day of the annual exhibition owing to a steady downpour of rain. The same thing occurred on the second day of the fair last year, but at an early hour this morning preparations were under way to open up the fair grounds as usual. After waiting until about 2 o'clock, however, the directors decided to postpone the event until tomorrow. They are building all their hopes on the weather being a little more appropriate, in which case they will undoubtedly have a goodly crowd.

The fair this year had every promise of being the biggest success on record. The entry list in the live stock class is far beyond anything in history; in fact, it was owing to the large number of entries in this class that the directors were unable to postpone the fair until later in the month, as was done last year.

In anticipation of a couple of days' good business to wind up the season an exceptionally fine list of attractions had booked up for the midway and were preparing to-night to handle a goodly crowd to-morrow, weather permitting. Included in the attractions were a large merry-go-round and a couple of side shows, things that have been somewhat rare throughout the district this fall.

Judging of the live stock will begin early in the morning and if at all possible the speed events will be run off on the race track. A feature of the second day, providing the weather permits, is the parade of prize live stock, for which West Elgin is famous. Among the extensive exhibitors this year are Frank Silcox, of Iona, and Galbraith & Son, of Dutton, both well known in the Jersey cow breeding class.

It is likely that a dance will be staged on Saturday night to wind up the event.

MISS M. DAVIS HEADS LAMBTON ASSOCIATION

Teachers' Convention at Petrolea Declared to be One of the Most Successful Ever Held.

PETROLEA, Oct. 7. — One hundred and twenty teachers assembled here for the East Lambton Teachers' Convention. Interesting addresses were given by President Duncan Ewart, Inspector N. McDougall, Miss Mitchell, of Watford high school, and F. F. McPherson, B.A., principal of Hamilton Normal school. On Thursday evening a banquet was tendered to the teachers by the Petrolea Chamber of Commerce. Community singing, orchestral music and an address by Mr. McPherson were also special features of the evening's entertainment.

Friday's program consisted of papers on junior work by Miss McGinnis and Miss Pressey, also a report by W. L. Oliver, delegate to O.E.A. Mr. McPherson also gave a most interesting and helpful address on oral composition. The convention was considered one of the best in the history of the association. The following officers were elected: president, Miss M. Davis; vice-president, C. Routley; executive committee, Jas. H. Mahon, Robert Henderson and Miss M. Balls.

SPORTS SUPERINTENDENT.

CHATHAM, Oct. 7.—At a meeting of the Lions' Club last night Col. H. D. Smith asked that a superintendent of sports be appointed to look after the work carried out at schools, playgrounds and the athletic park. Percy K. Morley was appointed to the board of directors of the C. A. A. A.

¶ Only an organization composed of experienced, capable men and women who are carrying out with enthusiasm the plans and policies of the owner, and buying direct from the producers (nothing from brokers or commission men), could maintain a uniform high standard of quality, a constant supply for its customers, and a price never above $17.50 during the shortage last year. Consumption of Coal Here Nearly Three Tons Per Capita

How long will the visible supply of coal last the world? This is a question that has been discussed more or less during the last few years in all civilized countries of the world. The number of years that will pass before the coal fields are entirely exhausted, as given in different reports, varies from 110 to 1,273 years. How any expert figure juggler has reached these conclusions is more than the ordinary man can imagine. There are so many factors that are concerned in this question that it is practically impossible to determine even approximately in what year the last pound of coal will be consumed.

SOME FIGURES.

According to figures given in the Everyman Encyclopaedia the total amount of coal available in the fields of the United Kingdom in 1910 was 100,914,668,167 tons. In that same year the mines of the United Kingdom produced 264,433,000 tons. Thus taking these figures as an average output those mines will be exhausted in something less than 380 years. The majority of those living now will be dead long before that period has elapsed, and perhaps it matters but little, so far as the present generation is concerned, whether the coal fields will last for 380 or 3,800 years.

But the one question that is troubling the average man now is with reference to the supply of fuel available for the coming winter. Those who have already laid in their stock are wondering whether they will have sufficient to last throughout the entire winter, if it is extraordinarily long and cold, as has been predicted.

On the other hand, the man who is doing the most serious thinking right now is he who has not yet purchased his winter's fuel. Whether the world's supply of coal will last for 100 or 100,000 years is a question of small moment compared with the all-important matter of the visible supply in the family coal bin. When one considers the situation carefully it is quite evident that there is no use worrying over the total world supply. On the other hand, it is an easy matter to see that the individual supply is sufficient for this season.

According to the latest figures given out by the assessment department there are 59,784 people in London, without the suburbs. It is estimated that the total amount of coal used during the season would equal nearly three tons for every man, woman and child in the city. But not more than one-quarter of the supply has been stored yet. Thus practically 45,000 persons are still dependent on the ability of the coal dealers to take care of the rush that will surely come with the first cold snap.

One coal dealer points out that there are not enough coal trucks and wagons in the city to deliver the necessary fuel to keep the people warm this winter, if the purchase of the fuel is delayed until winter sets in. If no one of the 59,784 citizens of London is to be cold this season it is absolutely necessary that considerable coal should be placed in the bins at once. The dealers urge that those who have not yet bought their supply ought to delay no longer. Nothing can be gained and much may be lost by putting off this duty any longer.

D.U.R. LEADER OF MONTREAL MART

Advances 1¼ Points; Paper Group Remains Quiet

MONTREAL, Oct. 7.—There was no particular feature about to-day's trading on the local exchange, although gain predominated over losses.

Detroit United Railway led the market, opening easier at 61 and selling up to 65, with the close at 64½, a gain of 1¼ points for the day. Another traction, Montreal Tramways, registered the day's highest gain, one of five points at 150, on sales of 50 shares. Traction, on report of increased earnings had an advance of quarter point to 23½.

The paper group was quiet, Brompton, the most active, selling half a point lower. Laurentide gained quarter point to 71¼. Spanish River preferred at 66 was half a point off, and Abitibi lost a quarter.

Lyall declined two points to 63 on selling. Canada Cement was a point up at 86 and Dominion Bridge had a like gain at 75.

Steel of Canada led the group, selling 2¼ points higher at 91¼, while the common was unchanged. Dominion Steel was half a point lower at 25 and Ontario Steel recovered a good part of its recent loss, selling 1½ points up at 21½.

Bond trading was fairly broad with price changes unimportant.

CHESTNUTS SELL FOR $15 BUSHEL

Celery Feature of Local Market To-Day.

Despite the threatening weather there was a very good local market to-day.

No wheat has been offered on the market since the recent decline in price. At present it is quoted at $1.10 a bushel.

Oats are slow sale, only one load having been offered by 10 o'clock. New oats brought from 44c to 48c a bushel. Several carloads have been shipped in, which accounts for the poor demand on the local market.

A large quantity of apples were on sale this morning at $1 to $2 ar bushel. A few of the late apples have made their appearance, but there is still an abundance to be picked.

Pears were in good demand at from $1 to $1.75 a bushel; 75c to 90c for 11-quart baskets and 50c to 60c for 6-quart baskets.

Chestnuts made an appearance this morning and are selling at $15 a bushel and 30c by the pound.

Eggs were firm at 45c to 46c wholesale and 50c for strictly fresh, retail. Butter was easier with a small decline.

Honey dropped in price and is now selling from 85c to $1 a five-pound pail.

Celery was the real feature of the market, selling at 10c to 12c a bunch, according to quality and size; many sellers offering it at two bunches for 25c

Live poultry advanced in price and is now selling at a few cents higher. Spring chickens bring from 18c to 22c a pound. Ducks are selling from 18c to 20c live weight and $1 to $1.40 dressed.

Parsnips made an appearance and are selling at from $1 to $1.25 a bushel.

There was little or no change in live stock, small pigs selling at $8 to $12 each. Select hogs are bringing from $8.50 to $8.75.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. — An expansion of the investment situation and the dull and professional tone of stocks were the divergent features of the week in the securities market. Buying of Liberty bonds and Victory notes assumed large volume at the year's record prices. This was supplemented by the ready sale of new private offerings, including loans to South America and Australia.

Trading in stocks was more professional than at any period since the reaction from September's advance. Pressure focused in several of the industrial issues, notably those whose dividend and general financial prospects are more or less uncertain.

There was a good but only moderate inquiry for rails, especially junior issues of the western and southern sections of the country. Prominent among these was New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, which rose almost 10 points over last week's final price.

Domestic oils as a group led the market, their irregular advances, mainly under guidance of professional pools, being ascribed to an increased demand for crude products, accompanied by an upward revision of prices.

The money market tended towards further ease, due in part to an extension of lower discounts by federal reserve banks. Loans running into the coming year were made at slight concessions on high-class commercial paper, but call money ranged from 4½ to 5½ per cent.

NEW INTEREST IN COMING PARLEY

Britain Awake To the Importance of the U. S. Conference.

TO SETTLE THE PACIFIC

Disaster Threatens If Old Ideas of Rivalry Remain.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Interest in the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions is growing in London, as evidenced by the amount of newspaper space devoted to it. Editorial comment, which hitherto has been sporadic and largely colorless, was given precedence by several of this morning's newspapers over other subjects before the British people. Some journals, assuming that Prime Minister Lloyd George's decision not to attend the conference was final, warmly approved of the suggestion that A. J. Balfour would be the leader of the British delegation.

The Daily Telegraph told British electors that the problem of the Pacific touched their interests far more closely than matters they might consider wholly domestic.

"It is a strange irony of fate," the newspaper declared, "that as soon as the problem of the Atlantic was solved as far as Great Britain and Germany were concerned, an equally momentous problem emerged from the Pacific. It may threaten a world catastrophe if not dealt with at Washington in a spirit very different from that in which the former was handled. If no satisfactory understanding is reached there seemed little chance of escaping new rivalry in armaments between Japan and the United States for the mastery of the Pacific. It will be seen the whole future of China is at stake, and China's future is of vital interest to the nations which depend upon her markets as an outlet for her manufactures."

HYDRO SURPLUS COMING TO CITY

Believed That Sir Adam Will Secure It.

AMOUNTS TO $100,000

Will Reduce Debentures Or Permit Extension.

Sir Adam Beck was interviewed last night with regard to the $100,000 Hydro-Electric Power Commission surplus said to be due London, and it is understood that Sir Adam first expressed surprise that the money had not been sent the the local Utilities Commission, and second that he would look into the matter right away.

It is known that other municipalities, St. Thomas for one, have received their surplus, and it is believed that the check for $100,000 with accumulated interest will be forwarded from Toronto within a short while.

This will mean that the Utilities Commission will either reduce their $250,000 debenture request to $150,000, or the money may be expended for putting wires on Dundas and Richmond streets underground, together with a great extension of the city's white way and better street lighting generally.

BUSY AFTERNOON ON RUGBY FOOTBALL FIELD

TORONTO, Oct. 8. — The weather throughout Eastern Canada this morning is cloudy and very cool after raining most of last night. The many athletic events billed for this afternoon, particularly the rugby fixtures, will be accordingly played for the most part on wet fields, but this will not prevent the fans from enjoying the sport.

It will be a big afternoon for football. In the Big Four rugby Argos clash with Montreal on the latter's home grounds, while Ottawas and Tigers, of Hamilton, fight it out in the capital. The Intercollegiate League opens with a match between Toronto Varsity and Queen's, which will also mark the opening of the new stadium in the Limestone City. In the O. R. F. U. Torontos and Parkdale line up in Toronto.

In addition to the major league events many towns have smaller league fixtures and intertown games, so that in spite of the intense interest in today's world series baseball, rugby will be a great attraction.

THE LITTLE TOWN.

The little town was like a love to me
yet all in vain
I turned away from wandering to look for her again.
Most eagerly I came and found a stranger in her place,
A stranger with a gaudy gown and brazen painted face,
And all my joy at seeing her is frozen into pain.

For the path across the rye fields, where the lovers used to meet
At sundown when the world was still,
is now a busy street
With gas lamps at the pavement's edge, brick houses in a row.
And, where the dear old schoolhouse stood, a blazing picture show,
And always far into the night, the tireless tramp of feet.

There are shops to tempt the women's gaze, with hats for every head,
For the daughters spend on ribbons what their mothers saved for bread.
The pale-faced sons of men who played with me as barefoot boys
Pass by me all unknowingly amid the crowd and noise;
From unfamiliar faces peer the eyes of those long dead.

* * *

The night wears on, and one by one,
the glaring lights die down,
Kind darkness wraps my wanton love, hiding her garish gown.
A cool wind stealing from the hills by well-remembered ways
Freshens her into innocence pure as in far-off days,
And she is mine, all mine again, my love, the little town!

—Enid Norman in the Westminster Gazette.

APPROVE ACTION.—After viewing the property at Port Stanley, which it is proposed to deed over to that village in exchange for a strip that will permit of the straightening of the road, the London & Port Stanley Railway board has decided to approve the action taken by the London Railway Commission. Accompanied by Manager Richards, of the commission, the directors went to Port Stanley yesterday afternoon. Mr. Richards explained that he would have been at the recent meeting if he had been notified of the time that had been set. However, another meeting will be held on Tuesday night next and the whole question will be settled amicably.

PROVES ALIBI AND CASE IS DISMISSED

John O'Brien Brings Witnesses to Testify To His Innocence of Charge.

When John O'Brien appeared in court the other day charged with an infraction of the Motor Vehicles Act he said he could produce at least seven witnesses to testify to his innocence. This morning he had four of them in court with him and said he could get the others in 20 minutes. It was not necessary, however, as after hearing the evidence of the constable who made the report and Mr. O'Brien's own story the magistrate concluded there had been a mistake and dismissed the case.

The constable swore that the car No. 61-139 was driven east on Dundas street on the afternoon of September 29 and at the corner of English street passed a street car on the wrong side. The number of the car corresponded to the number of Mr. O'Brien's car.

Mr. O'Brien swore that his car was in the cornfield with him at the time the offense was supposed to have been committed. He was shocking corn, an operation in which he continued until 5 o'clock. He had witnesses in court who could swear that the car was not in London that afternoon. His honor then dismissed the case.

MUCH TRADE IN SECONDARY OILS

Advance at New York Under "Pro" Propulsion

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The cleavage between artificial and actual conditions in the securities markets became more clearly defined to day. Trading in stocks was rather perfunctory, while the investment inquiry assumed more impressive proportions.

Aside from the extensive transactions in Liberty bonds and Victory notes with most of the former at new high prices for the year, announcement was made of the successful flotation of two foreign loans. The Rio De Janeiro and Queensland (Australian) offerings, each for $12,000,000, were quickly absorbed.

In the stock market dealings were dominated by speculative, chiefly secondary domestic oils. They were lifted one to three points, evidently under professional propulsion, on the further advance of prices made by producers of crude products.

Mexican and European oils also were better in the absence of pressure, although reports dealing unfavorably with some of the foreign-owned Mexican properties were once more actively circulated.

Standard rails and industrials participated only moderately in the general movement and miscellaneous issues excepting motor specialties, and utilities were inclined to strengthen.

The list reacted before the close, however, call money's rise to 5½ per cent causing fresh selling of leaders, including Mexican Petroleum. Sales amounted to 535,000 shares.

Foreign exchanges were erratic, sterling holding its advance, French, Belgian and Italian rates easing variably, and most of the Eastern European remittances again weakening on the more disquieting conditions in these countries. Of these so-called neutral centers, Spanish, Swiss and Swedish bills were strong.

Railroad bonds of the minor, or convertible types, were active and higher. Mexican Government 4's and Chile Copper 6's were strongest of the foreign group. Total sales (par value) aggregated $17,650,000.

Financial Comment

Jones, Easton, McCallum Company, Limited, in their evening stock letter say of yesterday's market: "The news items of greatest interest in the market circles to-day were the segregation plan submitted by the Lehigh Valley and the announcement from Washington that an agreement has been reached for some material changes in the tax bill. It is too soon to count positively on any tax plan. Legislation of this kind is always uncertain till the very last moment. Frequently the most material changes are made by the conference committees, so that while the present plan is not particularly pleasing it is too soon for this subject to have any material bearing on the stock market. In all events there was nothing in the day's trading that could be even remotely chargeable to this fact. During the first hour the trading was mixed. There was renewed selling of tobacco issues and considerable pressure was brought to bear on Chandler Motor, but at the same time a good demand for the oil stocks was in evidence and that the buying of some of rails were noteworthy. We feel that with business generally showing an improving tendency that the ultimate move of importance will be an upturn, but temporarily we anticipate a continuance of such markets as have recent been experienced."

The annual statement of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company will prove a gratifying one for the shareholders this year, inasmuch as, contrary to the experience of the average industrial company, it does not show a heavy decline in net profits as a result of a loss in inventories, bought at the peak of prices and disposed of on the way down. The statement, on the contrary, actually shows an increase of $48,000 on milling operations, and with a slight decrease in revenue from other sources the net profits for the year are $30,000 ahead of last year. This in itself will be viewed with marked approval as indicating careful and wise buying on the part of the management in the face of a rapidly-falling market in wheat.

THE USEFUL CORNCOB.

The lowly corncob many find new uses, according to the department of agriculture. In the first place, a paste can be developed from it which forms an excellent binder for wallboard and the like. The residue, however, is even more valuable, containing approximately 10 per cent. of high grade furfural. This furfural is one of the basic needs of the immense chemical industry in the making of coal tar products ranging from dyestuffs to photographic laboratory materials.—Buffalo Express.

PREACHERS TOO ABSTRACT, CLAIM

Unitarian Conference At Detroit Hears Some Charges.

TALKS ARE TOO TRIVIAL ?

Rev. J. H. Lathrop Criticizes Lack of Boldness.

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—"Too many ministers, failing their opportunity to-day to make religion the most exciting thing in the world, are confessing their failure by running about and demanding that all competition with their failure, such as Sunday movies and baseball, shall be stopped.

"Too many ministers have allowed the bustle of the world to enter their pulpits, displace their serenity, and the result has been pitifully trivial sermons."

PASTORS SHORT-SIGHTED.

Rev. John H. Lathrop, of Brooklyn, made these statements in one of the closing addresses of the Unitarian general conference in First Unitarian Church on Friday.

"We ministers have allowed ourselves to become maids of all work. We dissipate our energy running hither and yon. We have contracted the disease of this short-sighted bustling time in which we live.

"I don't suppose many ministers have been playing cards when they should have been thinking—it isn't conventional—but there are other supposed duties that habitually get substituted for the supreme task of our profession."

LACK OF BOLDNESS.

Some of the complaints about lack of freedom in the puplit, said Dr. Lathrop, could be more properly charged to lack of boldness in the pulpit. He said too many preachers confined themselves to pious exhortations to abstract moralities. Even during the war, he thought, the church pulpit hardly did anything more than reflect the common spirit and temper.

In the present age of light-minded materialism, Dr. Lathrop concluded that the profession was not wholly to blame.

QUEBEC WAS NOT ALWAYS LIBERAL

Gave Conservative Majorities Five Times In Past.

ONTARIO LIBERAL TWICE.

Stayed Under Conservative Banner In Past Contests.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—(Canadian Press.)—In past years the present Liberal stronghold of Quebec gave Conservative majorities, and five times in its political history has discarded Liberalism for the beliefs of the opposite party. Commencing in 1867, Quebec returned 45 Conservatives as against 20 Liberals, but from then on, and with only one lapse, continued to elect more and more Liberals until at the present time any hope of a Conservative majority in the ancient province is regarded as entirely mythical. In the general elections of 1872, the second held in Canada, Quebec returned 38 Conservatives and 27 Liberals, but in 1878, the fourth general elections, dropped back to figures of 1867. The fourth and last Conservative majority in Quebec was in 1882, when the Government of the day succeeded in electing 48 candidates as against 17 Liberals. From then on the Liberals continued to produce majorities in Quebec until the climax of 1917, when the Unionist Government returned three members while the Liberals rolled up 62.

While Quebec was wayward to the extent of four tours of duty under the Conservative banner, Ontario joined the Liberal ranks on only two occasions. First in 1872 Ontario rolled up a Liberal group of 50, compared with 38 Conservative representatives, and for the second and last time in 1874, when the returns showed 64 Liberals and 24 Conservatives.

Both parties have come within one vote of splitting both provinces, but on only one occasion in each. In 1874 the Conservatives took 32 seats out of Quebec with the Liberals running one better with 33 seats. When the Liberals secured power in 1896 the Conservatives held Ontario with 44 seats, 43 seats went to the Liberals, while the Independents captured five.

The official returns of the general elections since 1867 show straight party fights until 1896, when, in addition to the five independents elected in Ontario, one was elected in Manitoba and one in the Northwest Territories. Each succeeding election since that date has brought a few Independents into the House of Commons, but the number at no time exceeded eight until recent years when floor crossing to sit in "No Man's Land" became one of the features of Parliamentary life. The eight peak was reached in 1900, but fell to two in 1911, when Ontario and Quebec each contributed one.

CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Then She Took "Fruit-a-tives" and Has Been Well Ever Since.

MADAM SLOAT.

Perth Junction, N. B., Jan. 22, 1920.

"For many years I was a great sufferer from Indigestion, Constipation and Rheumatism. My Stomach was weak and gave me constant distress, while Rheumatism in my joints made me almost a cripple. I was treated by two different doctors but their medicine did me no good.

"Then I tried 'Fruit-a-tives' and at once that fruit medicine helped me. Soon the Constipation and Indigestion were relieved and the Rheumatism began to go away, and in a few months entirely disappeared. EXTEND DOCKS TO FIT BIG SHIPS

Piers Stretched Out For the New Liner Majestic.

HARBOR SPACE NEEDED.

Can't Use Ship's Engines In the Cramped Dockage.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Announcement that the world's largest ship, the Majestic, will be ready for service between New York and Southampton next spring directs attention to the facilities for docking the great ship at her pier on her arrival at New York and the methods to be employed in doing so.

When the largest of the present ocean liners came out just before the war, it was necessary to extend the piers at New York where they are docked to protect their long hulls from traffic passing up and down the Hudson River. The extended piers will be a very tight fit indeed for the Majestic, while the task of getting her into her berth will present as big a job as the docking experts employed by the steamship companies at New York have yet encountered.

New York is perhaps the hardest port in the world in which to dock a great ocean liner, from the fact that it is the only one where the docks are at right angles to a river in which strong tides flow regularly.

GREATEST TROUBLE.

A ship's captain is usually pictured as experiencing his greatest worries when his vessel is at sea buffeted by wind and storm. As a matter of fact on modern liners storms are small concern compared to his anxiety when he enters a port and finds his ship hampered by lack of sea room—of space to navigate.

In harbor he is confined to a channel, ofttimes one in which he could not turn around. His speed is limited to bare steerage way. He must avoid striking passing craft or getting too far to one side from the deepened channel.

Opposite his dock, which in New York appears like openings between the teeth of a huge comb, he must come to a stop and swing the bulk beneath him crosswise to the flowing tide, hold it there, and nose his way into one of the openings.

Not daring to make use of the ship's own tremendous power by reason of lack of room, from a dozen to as high as 20 tugs are used in swinging into their docks such big vessels as the Olympic, the Mauretania, or the big 912-foot, 56,000-ton Majestic.

Indicating what damage might result if one of the big liners should bump into a pier or a passing craft, a marine engineer recently estimated that when moving at the rate of five miles an hour, about as fast as a man would walk, a blow equal to that of 14,000 runabout automobiles acting simultaneously would be inflicted. Those who have seen the results of a crash of a single car can visualize the collective result.

ENERGY NEEDED.

The technically inclined are informed by the engineer that the measure of actual energy required to stop the ship at a five-mile speed in one second is 158,867,360 foot pounds, or a force equal to 288,521 horse-power acting through one second.

As soon as the ship is within heaving-line distance of the pier, hawsers, or big ropes measuring 12 inches in circumference and tested to a strain of 131,000 pounds, are made fast. Attached to the ship's winches a slow, careful strain is put upon them. The strain is carefully watched for if the tensile strength be exceeded they would snap like a thread. If the tide pressure is too great ofttimes the ship will swing up broadside to a pier head then with aid of any tugpower, which power pulling on lines and an occasional turn of the ships screw, the long hull will be swung around and eased into the

SEEK TO ATTAIN FINANCIAL GOAL

Presbyterians Enter on Last Lap of Campaign

OF FORWARD MOVEMENT

Extension Work Awaits Payment of Pledges

With every confidence that their total objective will be realized before the end of the year the Presbyterian churches locally and throughout the Dominion enter this month upon the fourth and final lap of their Forward Movement financial campaign. Appeals are being made that everyone who subscribed money to church extension a year or more ago fulfill their pledges and thus allow the full realization of the program mapped out in home and foreign mission fields.

Attainment of the financial goal in this city is of particular interest to the smaller churches in the community, who are anxiously awaiting appropriations from the Forward Movement funds. Some of the churches are in need of more and better accommodation, while others are hampered in their work by lack of essential equipment such as heating systems, organs and Sunday school plants.

PLEDGED $70,000.

The London Presbytery, which comprises all the churches in the city and immediate district, pledged in the neighborhood of $70,000 to the Forward Movement. More than half of this amount was paid in at the end of the first year and to date it is believed that approximately three-quarters of the total pledges have been backed with money. The goal now is to make up the complete amount.

This presbytery compares very favorably with others throughout the country. It is to be expected that the money will come in more freely at the beginning of the campaign than at the end, and also that a certain percentage of the subscriptions will have to be cancelled because of death or other reasons. Rev. D C. MacGregor, who is a member of the campaign committee, informed The Free Press that the actual amount paid is known only by the committee in Toronto, to whom payments are made by churches rather than by the presbytery.

GET SURPLUS FUNDS.

Prior to the commencement of the peace thank offering the general assembly arranged for the distribution of funds. Over $2,500,000 has been thus allotted to the funds participating in the offering, $12,500 paid to the Montreal Presbytery for local church extension and $25,730 to Moose Jaw College, according to arrangements made at the time of the canvass. Further distribution of funds will be made at the first of the year and will include all the presbyteries which have paid in more than the amount of their objectives. All surplus funds over the objective go to the presbytery which raised them.

Foreign missions, home missions, theological colleges, pension funds, Sabbath schools and young people's societies have all been assisted by the money which has been apportioned so far. While a number of weaker churches in the rural districts of the East have been helped with money the finances available for home mission work have been directed mainly toward the extension of activities in the sparsely settled parts of the West and North sections of the Dominion.

APPROPRIATIONS MADE.

Of the $1,062,500 allotted to home missions and social service, $833,844 was up to May 1, 1921, appropriated for specific undertakings, as follows:

The erection or purchase of 62 churches, $141,680; the erection or purchase of 65 manses, $92,300; church extension in larger cities, $211,858; sites for churches, manses and church extension, $43,970; social service and work among foreign-speaking, $277,061; the W. M. Society for school homes and hospital units, $66,975.

To foreign missions $500,000 was allotted, and already $507,005 has been definitely appropriated for hospitals, girls' and boys' schools, churches, missionaries' residences, dormitories, institutes, sites, as follows: Trinidad, $8,000; British Guiana, $20,000; Honan, $71,400; Shantung Christian University, $47,000; Formosa, $69,000; Shanghai, $23,584; South China, $44,900; Korea, $120,550; India, $82,561; Gwalior, $10,000.

MISSION BAND HAS RAISED OVER $1,000

Talbot Street Organization Meets To-Morrow to Renew Activities.

The Mission Band of the Talbot Street Baptist Church is an unique institution. It has been conducted upon a large scale, one indication of the breadth of its work being the fact that last year it alone raised over $1,000 for missions. Its programs have always been live and interesting. This has in large measure been due to the quality of leadership it possessed. Mrs. N. Mills, who was superintendent of the band for so many years, has a genius for leadership and has been able to command the loyal cooperation of the young people of the church. The value of Mrs. Mills' training has been seen in the way the band has carried on since she retired from the superintendency nearly a year ago.

The first meeting of the band will be held on Sunday morning at 9.45. This will be the annual thanksgiving rally. That the band does not confine itself to foreign missions only is indicated by the fact that the members will bring gifts of fruit for the Protestant Orphans' Home. A good program has been prepared for this first meeting of the year and a large crowd is anticipated.

DISBAND COMMISSION.

WINDSOR, Oct. 7.—With the housing problem along the border no longer so serious as it was last year, the City Council may ask the civic housing commission to disband. The commission has had charge of the Government and city housing program during the last two years, more than 300 homes being built by money loaned at five and six per cent. by the Ontario Government.

JAIL FOOD COSTS MORE.

KITCHENER, Oct. 7.—According to the figures in Governor Cook's annual report the daily cost of prisoners' food is 20.25 cents, while last year it was 19.89 cents per day, and in 1919 but 18.40 cents. There were 141 prisoners in the jail during the year, 24 being the largest number at any one time, with one as the lowest number. This is Governor Cook's 34th annual report, he having the longest service of any official now in the employ of the county.

A WORTH-WHILE THOUGHT FROM A LONDON PULPIT

From the sermon, "Have the Faith of God," to be given in First Congregational Church to-morrow evening by the Rev. M. Kelly, president of the Ministerial Aliance.

Another danger spot, as the world moves forward, is that of industrial unrest. Never was there a time when the claims of capital on the one hand and those of labor on the other seem so irreconcilable as they do to-day. Strikes are not infrequent and even, if possible, of greater magnitude than ever before. Governments are nervous, and some of them look forward with dread, not knowing what may happen. Everything points to the fact that the world is passing through a great social convulsion.

Business men complain that they cannot practice religion in society as Jesus taught it; and even if we refuse to accept this pronouncement we know that many persons in the business world act as though this were true. There may be Christian elements in society and some choice Christian souls who in their business dealings are guided by the golden rule; but as a whole, society is a long way from being Christian; it is largely heathen. The principle by which it is mostly governed is the devil's golden rule: "Do unto the other fellow what the other fellow would like to do to you, only do it first."

Added to our industrial unrest is the present commercial depression with widespread unemployment; and it is in such days as these that men and women appreciate the steady influences of the Christian religion. There must be a better day before us and our faith is that our wilderness wanderings will some day cease and socially we shall enter the promised land.

We are laying deep the foundations of a great civilization, stone upon stone. What is needed is that each one do his duty. The plan is in the hands of the great Architect. Darkness and light may succeed each other and make men fearful, yet amid it all, let us have the faith of God and all will be well.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

"When the Crowd Voted Wrong"

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

The International Sunday School lesson for October 9 is "Paul at Ephesus."—Acts xix. 1-41.

Within the Greek lines of the present fighting in Asia Minor lie the ruins of the City of Ephesus, as well, indeed, as the remains of all the cities which in the Book of Revelation are called "The Seven Churches of Asia." That word "Asia" as used in the New Testament does not mean the whole continent, but the Roman province, comprising the western portion of what we now call Asia Minor. Ephesus was the capital of the province. Indeed, practically all of what was in Paul's time Proconsular Asia is now within the territory occupied by the Greek armies. The war news from Turkey these days has a peculiar relation to the current Sunday School lessons.

As I remember Ephesus I deem it one of the great sights of the ancient world, though now a complete ruin and uninhabitated. Standing on the hill where tradition says the Apostle Paul was imprisoned one gets a rare panorama. Lying below in form like a griddle, still green with swamp growth, is the clear outline of the ancient harbor, which once was forested with the masts of a world's commerce. The channel and harbor, now entirely silted up, extend a mile from the sea and the place is no longer a possible port, even if it had inhabitants.

Extending from the great stone docks to the magnificent ruins of the theater is a marble highway, lined with the broken fragments of forgotten splendor. There once the wise and wealthy, the famous and the mighty, strolled and rode in arrogant pride. The remains of this theater are the most impressive I have ever seen in all my travels, and it was in this very place that the Ephesian citizens, in a frenzy of mob spirit, gathered for the space of two hours, crying, in throaty clamor, "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!"

"VOX POPULI," NOT "VOX DEI."

Some whimsical fancy seized me as I wandered about that marble waste which once had been Ephesus. In vain I had looked for traces of the splendid Temple of Diana, once a world's wonder, adorned by the greatest artists and sculptors and architects of Greece; not even a fragment of the countless little images, such as Demetrius made, could I find. So, as I mused in the theater, open to the rich blue of an oriental sky, I lifted my voice in mockery and cried, "Great Is Diana of the Ephesians!" The only response was from a lazily circling bird, annoyed to have the silence of this desolation broken.

Once a milling mob of gesticulating, yelling, sweating, excited Ephesians, on this very site, had maintained the cry for the space of two hours—"Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" Surely this was "vox populi." If there is anything in a popular vote, Diana had it. All the tumult and the shouting was for her. Even a challenge of her eternal supremacy by a wandering Jew was sufficient to create this civic furore. Now, as I a far-faring American newspaper man, repeated the ancient slogan, it was in the consciousness that in all this wide world there is not living a single worshipper of the great Diana; none so mean as to do her reverence! What a reversal of "vox populi!"

So, to-day, uncounted millions in all lands are studying as a Sunday School lesson the Ephesian experience of this victim of mob law, Paul, the missionary of Jesus Christ. Down is Diana; up is the Nazarene. As Emperor Julian the Apostate cried: "O, pale Galilean, Thou hast conquered!"

A CITY'S GREAT NAME

Edward Bok has given a fund that will yield an annual prize of ten thousand dollars to the citizen who does the most within the year for the City of Philadelphia. The benefaction is a singularly good one and it should be widely copied, for its aim is the practical stimulus of good citizenship. It also raises a healthful discussion as to what is the best service that can be rendered a community. Who did most for old Ephesus, Diana or Christ?"

That question is answered in the asking. The worship of Artemis, or Diana, surely once brought travel and trade and wide repute to Ephesus. Her temple was one of the show places of the ancient world. The craft of Demetrius, the silversmith, was by no means insignificant. The cult of this many-breasted goddess of fertility was an important factor in the prosperity and fame of the brilliant and corrupt capital of Proconsular Asia. A city's religion always means more to it than appears in the Chamber of Commerce reports.

With the advent of this ambitious Christian missionary, Paul, whom the city was ultimately to try to lynch in its center of public assembly, the hour of doom struck for Diana. A new era opened for old Ephesus. Even in Paul's lifetime he made the capital the center of a widespread Christian propaganda, which reached out to all the neighboring Seven Churches of Asia. The three years he spent in Ephesus were a period of wide seed-sowing. As a result the city became one of the principal centers of the Christian religion. Paul's profoundest writing was addressed to the Ephesian Christians, who were so mature in mind and spiritual experience that they were expected to understand it.

The Apostle John followed Paul, spending his later life in Ephesus and consolidating the work that the latter had begun. Timothy also was Bishop of Ephesus. The best preserved of all the ruins on the site of the city to-day is the Church of St. John the Divine. Later Ephesus became the seat of one of the great church councils, and its place in early Christian history is one of shining importance. Christianity did far more for Ephesus than ever the worship of Diana had done.

A MAN AND A CITY.

"Of course, you know Mr. Bland, of your city," said a Maine citizen to me, pointing to the imposing house of a summer resident. I had to confess I had never heard of him before; he merely was one of the thousands rich enough to afford a luxurious summer home. He is a "somebody" in a rural Maine neighborhood; but he is nobody in particular in his own city. Therein he is like most of us. Few men have the qualities that make an impression upon the life of a metropolis. Consider the thousands of strangers who every day visit the great cities of the land, altogether unnoticed by the citizens. Preachers, professional men, editors, business men, come and go and their city, as a city, knows them not.

Again we advert to the significance of the fact that this man Paul stirred up every city he visited. He had a gospel that makes a dent. He impressed his personality and message upon the whole community and did so deliberately. That was part of his preconceived plan. His was a campaign of conquest. He was out to succeed in a definite task, which was to plant the Church of Christ in the strategic centers of his world. As I read recent communications from the mission field, and especially from China, I am impressed with the sagacity of modern missionaries in undertaking to do the very same thing. The very genuius of the Christian religion is comprehensive and conquering; we are required to make all our plans on a broad and confident scale. God gives special help—as witness the "signs" that attended Paul in Ephesus—to all His servants who attempt great works for Him.

LILIES THAT GROW IN THE MUD.

Instead of going into the details of the apostle's Ephesian experiences as recorded in the lesson (the riot in the theater, especially) permit me to mention merely two facts likely to be overlooked. The first is that while working in Ephesus Paul found time to write some of the great epistles which are part of the permanent literature of the Christian Church. Out of this debased heathen background came such fair flowers as the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians. It is not where you are, but what you are, that determines the output of your life.

Not that the apostle was insensible to environment. From from it. The second fact I would indicate is his own allusion to having "fought with the beasts at Ephesus." As every other real man, he felt the terrible tug and pull of a city's baser allurements. We may be sure that when Paul writes about the power of temptation and the greater power of Christianity he is speaking straight out of a vital experience. The downward drag of heathenism was real in his life. He had to struggle to preserve his own life unspotted, and he succeeded by the indwelling Spirit of the Christ who is able to keep His own, even in Ephesus.

CONVENTION POSTPONED.

TARA, Oct. 7.—The North Bruce Liberal Convention, which was to have been held here next Tuesday, October 11, has been postponed to October 18, on account of the Underwood Fall Fair being held on October 11.

INAUGURAL DAY FOR MISSIONS

Campaign on Behalf of Missionary Enterprises Begins on Sunday

FOR METHODIST CHURCH

Big Program to Be Put Across in Coming Months

This Sunday will be marked as missionary inaugural day in all the Methodist churches in the city and country. By unanimous agreement the annual conference of the denomination voted to recommend observance of this day by at least one simultaneous church-wide service of prayer and praise and preaching, on behalf of the extension of Christianity to all parts of the globe.

While the campaign is to extend throughout the entire year, one day has been set apart in which the thought of the people will be directed to the church's missionary opportunity and duty in home and foreign fields. No new organization has come into being for putting across this program, but unity of action has been secured by every congregation agreeing through its conference to mark October 9 as the beginning of the missionary campaign.

APPROPRIATE SERMONS.

Messages from all the pulpits of Methodism will be relative to the need of extending Christianity both at home and abroad. The foundation for the future mission activities will be laid and definite objectives set for each church to reach in their financial appeals. Every congregation has been asked to devote this one day to a faithful and conscientious consideration of the great, broad and vastly important enterprises conducted by the Methodists.

Money, while an essential, is not the primary objective of the campaign. The general strengthening of the world missions is attained as readily by the power of prayer as by the donations of cash. Both are needed, but it is pointed out that one is as necessary as the other and should, therefore, receive equal consideration. The money raised through the Methodist National Campaign was used to build up the work of the church. The new buildings and enlarged staffs now require additional money in order to realize the purpose for which they were formed.

11,000 LUMBER CAMPS REACHED

By Missionaries of Shantymen's Christian Association

PREACH TO 55,000 MEN

Appeal for Extension of Work Is Being Made Here

Forty years ago the religious press used to have many articles on "How To Reach the Masses." While learned men were thus suggesting ways and means, a humble Methodist preacher left his church and, with a big drum, solved the problem, and the Salvation Army reaches the masses all over the world.

To-day the problem is "How to Reach the Men." This also is being solved in a quiet way by the fashion of men going into the places where these men work in this new country. The agency is the Shantymen's Christian Association, which is conducting an appeal for funds in this city through one of its representatives, the Rev. Thomas Joplin. Its financial support depends upon free will offerings as the missionaries are instructed to take no collection or sell any literature.

When the association was organized a conservative estimate placed the men engaged in lumber, mining and construction camps in Canada at 350,000 men. The number of camps might easily be estimated at 7,000. To seek to place a religious instructor in even a tenth of these camps was clearly impracticable, not merely because this number of suitable men were not available, but because of the enormous expense involved.

The only business solution of the difficulty was to have men travel from camp to camp giving their message and passing on to the next. Following the example of the early disciples, it was found best to send these men in pairs.

TRAMPED 7,000 MILES.

During the last year 1,100 camps were visited, 55,000 men heard the Gospel; 8,000 were French-speaking men, and 13,000 were foreigners. The missionaries tramped 7,000 miles on foot, and thousands of little Gospels and tracts were distributed. It cost only 40 cents per man to preach the Gospel in these out-of-way places where these stalwart fellows would otherwise never hear the good news.

The most surprising result was the rapid change of attitude of the men towards the drink habit. When the work was begun, the general fashion of the men was to have a big spree and in a few days get rid of their winter's earnings. Within three years of the beginning of the work this fashion was changed in the places reached.

When a few years later prohibition petitions were circulated, probably 90 per cent. of the men signed them.

It is also a striking fact that Ontario lumber camps have never had much use for the Bolshevists, whose activities have made trouble wherever the camps have been unvisited by missionaries.

BRANTFORD ROTARIANS EACH ENTERTAIN BOY

BRANTFORD, Oct. 7.—The members of the Rotary Club had this evening, as their guests, each one a boy, those who had bringing sons and those who had not going "out into the highways and byways" for their guests. Taylor Statten, of Toronto, was the speaker of the evening and gave an address on boys' work, in which he emphasized the relation between the man and the boy.

The residents of Eagle Place this evening organized an improvement association for the general betterment of the district. The association is not limited in scope, but one of the things which will be taken up will be the early installation of an open air rink on Tuecla Park, as in former years though much earlier this time.

NOT ANXIOUS TO RUN.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 7.—With a Liberal convention called in the riding of Brantford for Saturday afternoon, to be followed by a mass meeting in the evening, there is much speculation as to the choice of a Liberal candidate. It is held to be certain that a candidate will be placed in the field, but the choice has not yet been made. The names of John Muir, Reginald Scarfe, George Cook and J. S. Shepperson have been mentioned, but these have stated that they are not in the running. Others spoken of are W. G. Raymond, Dr. Pearson, Dr. Robinson and Ross MacDonald, who is said to have some veteran support. Mr. Raymond would be a popular choice, but stated to-day that he was not in the field for the nomination.

Fred Ritz McCann Arrested at Simcoe Court

SIMCOE, Oct. 7.—Fred Maston was sentenced to five years at Kingston on pleading guilty to a charge of housebreaking and theft on the morning of April 28 at the home of Harry Brook, Simcoe.

Stephen Farrell, Jr., upon the same charge was found not guilty, the defense not being required to put in any evidence.

Shortly after the case opened Fred Ritz McCann, of Brantford, who was here as a witness, was arrested on the same charge and remanded to jail.

Later Alex. Farrell, a brother of Stephen, was arrested on a second charge of the theft of a spare tire and robe from Mr. Brook's car.

KNITTING FACTORY AT WINGHAM OPERATING

WINGHAM, Oct. 7.—The Wingham branch of the Clinton knitting factory has again resumed operations after being closed for several months.

The wedding took place yesterday of two popular young people of this vicinity, Miss Ruby Grain and Mr. Thos. Gilmore. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. W. Snell in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends, and after a brief honeymoon the happy couple will reside on the groom's beautiful farm in Turnberry, where they will have the best wishes of a large number of friends.

The death took place in Wingham yesterday of Jane Ann Lawlor, relict of the late Matthew Brandon, at the age of 85 years. The funeral takes place on Saturday from the home of her son-in-law, Mr. J. J. Brooks.

IN NATURE'S PLAYGROUNDS.

A region which provides one of the most delightful winter holidays is the great Algonquin Park reserve, 200 miles north of Toronto and 170 miles west of Ottawa. Two thousand feet above the sea level, it has invigorating climatic conditions. No matter how cold it is, the air is dry, and the man with a sweater never suffers discomfort. The Highland Inn, the largest of the park hotels, will be open for the reception of guests this season from December 15 to March 15, and as the accommodation is limited, patrons are advised to make reservations early. Write to any Canadian National-Grand Trunk agent, or to manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont., for illustrated booklet. J3h

INGERSOLL MAN FOUND DEAD BESIDE HORSE

Nelson Sharpe Discovered in Barn of Presbyterian Manse; No Marks Found on Body.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 7.—Nelson Sharpe, about 65 years of age, was found dead beside his horse in a stall at the Presbyterian manse barn here at 4.40 this afternoon. Sharpe was conversing with another teamster in the barn at 2.30 o'clock and later went out. What time he returned is not known. His body was still warm when found by Roy Cole. No marks of any kind were found upon the body by Dr. J. D. McDonald, who was immediately called, so that the theory that the horse had kicked him is given no credence.

Rev. M. E. Saxsmith, of the local Methodist church, to-day addressed the Ingersoll Kiwanis Club, using as his subject "The Power of a National Ideal." He described a national ideal as a force that knows no resistence as the common objective of every church, lodge, political tendency and person within a nation. He described the national ideal which led Germany astray and the world into war. He hoped that Canada would look well to her national ideals, especially in regard to the training and education of immigrants.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Opportune hitting put men on the runways for the New York Americans and two long flies to the outfield enabled the Yankees to annex the fifth game of the world's series here this afternoon before another immense crowd.

Hoyt, though hit more often than Nehf, kept the onslaught of the Giants well distributed with men occupying the sacks. The Giants had many more men on bases than the junior major league champions.

There has been a lot of talk about the Giants' lost and found batting eyes—now the Yankees are having their say. The Yankees made runs out of flukey hits and great base running in the first two games, but they were helpless in the hands of Jess Barnes on Friday and Phil Douglas yesterday. Now they are sore and assert they will pound Nehf or any other moundsman McGraw sends against them.

PREDICTS SLUGGING.

"My team has not batted anywhere close to form," declared Miller Huggins. "It is improbable that they will go through the entire series without having several batting rampages. You may look for one at any time now."

Ruth's injured arm did not keep him from playing and making his first home run of the series yesterday and he is almost certain to play as long as he is needed.

Snyder's work behind the bat for the Giants has been impressive in the last two games. He appeared weak in the opening contest, but seems to have found himself again, both behind the plate and at bat. Schang, his Yankee opponent, still is going at high speed. His long hit in yesterday's game scored the first Yankee run and it looked like a winner until Emil Meusel tore into one of Mays' floaters for a triple in the eighth.

GOOD GAME TO WATCH.

While yesterday's game lacked any of the sensational thrills that have marked the others, it was an interesting one to watch. There was Mays, hurling hitless ball for five innings, and Phil Douglas keeping his hits fairly well scattered in the meantime. In the first five innings Mays forced the Giants to roll easy taps to the infielders, only three balls going to the outfield. Douglas' spit balls were earning him strikeouts and both teams were fielding in good form.

Peckinpaugh made the first error of the series for the Yankees in the third inning, when he lost Snyder's grasscutter on a bad bound. Peckinpaugh's error was due in a measure to McNally's unsuccessful attempt to spear the ball.

N. B. VOTES TO-DAY ON LIQUOR IMPORTATION

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 10. — The Province of New Brunswick votes today on the question of whether the legal importation of liquor for personal use shall continue. The present provincial prohibitory act was adopted as a war measure, but was confirmed by popular vote on July 10, 1920. It is generally expected that the vote to-day will be in favor of a bone-dry province.

OWEN SOUND PAIR PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Mr. and Mrs. Dan McMillan Get Preliminary Hearing.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Few Witnesses Are Heard Before Adjournment Made.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 10. — Daniel McMillan and Mrs. McMillan, formerly Mrs. Jamieson Johnston, appeared this morning before Police Magistrate Creasor, charged with murder. They entered a plea of not guilty and the taking of evidence was commenced. A few witnesses were heard and then an adjournment was made till 2 o'clock this afternoon.

The charge is that both are implicated in the death of Jamieson Johnston, whose death recently was attributed by two doctors to strychnine poisoning. Evidence given at the inquest was to the effect that poison had been sold, and that the late Mr. Johnston had complained of his porridge being bitter.

It is said there is to be new evidence introduced, but this was not the case up to the time of adjournment.

RESIGNATION OF CARTER ACCEPTED

Governor of Jail Retires At End of October.

James Carter, governor of Middlesex County jail, received official notification this morning that his resignation as head of the institution had been accepted by order-in-council of October 4. The resignation takes effect on October 13.

When the governor relinquishes his duties at the end of the month he will have completed 26 years and six months in charge of the county bastile. He commenced his duties officially on April 1, 1905, and a few days after that date was notified of the order-in-council which ratified his appointment, made by Sheriff Cameron.

The notification of the acceptance of the resignation came from the department of the provincial secretary, and a similar notice was received at the sheriff's office.

MANY APPLICANTS.

There are said to be a very large number of applications for the vacancy which occurs when Governor Carter completes his term on October 31. In addition to a very large number of applications from local men there are as well many applications from those residing outside London and the County of Middlesex. One applicant, residing in the county, is said to be receiving especially strong support from county councilors and others. He has had a good deal of experience in handling criminals, having been a member of the police force both in London and in Calgary, Alberta.

It is rather uncertain at the present time just how the appointment of governor will be made. It is unlikely that the matter will be long delayed and there is every indication that Sheriff Cameron may resign within a very few days. As the appointment is in the hands of the sheriff, subject to the approval of the Provincial Government, the matter of the appointment would probably be in the hands of the Government entirely.

JOURNALIST LEAPS FROM DECK OF THE BALTIC

QUEENSTOWN Ireland, Oct. 9.—After the steamer Baltic left Liverpool yesterday one of her passengers, whose name was given as Edward Perritt, and who was described as a journalist, of Hartford, Conn., while conversing with friends on the second cabin promenade, rushed to the rail and succeeded, despite the efforts of others, in jumping overboard. A boat was lowered and buoys were thrown into the sea, but there was no sign of the man's body.

Edward Perritt, of Hartford, Conn., an Englishman by birth and a well-known writer, was recently in England. He was correspondent for numerous English newspapers, including the London Times, and had written much for newspapers and magazines both in the United States and England.

Travelers To Pay Taxes On $1 a Day Of Expenses

Ruling From the Income Tax Commissioner Finally Settles the Difficulty.

Inspector George Tambling, of the London district of the taxation branch of the department of finance, received from Ottawa this morning a ruling adopted by Tax Commissioner R. W. Breadner to govern the amount of expense allowance which commercial travelers shall be permitted to claim in filing their income returns. Hitherto there has been considerable difficulty in some districts in arriving at a correct estimate of a commercial traveler's traveling expenses, and it is to overcome this that the latest order has been issued from Ottawa. The memorandum, which is of importance to all commercial men, is as follows:

"In making a return of their incomes commercial travelers shall show all monies received by them from their employers, including expenses. They will be allowed as a deduction expenses actually and necessarily incurred in connection with their business less the sum of $1 for each day's travel, which sum is intended to represent amounts included in expenses but not directly attributable to the earning of the income.

THREE CLASSES.

"Travelers are roughly divided into three classes: (a) those who travel with grips only, (b) those who travel with trunks containing samples up to 1,000 pounds weight, (c) those who travel with trunks containing samples weighing over 1,000 pounds.

"The following figures show the general average of expenses for each of the three classes and where the figures returned in any individual case exceed the amount specified an explanation should be called for:

Class	Week of 5 days	Week of 7 days.
A	$45	$56
B	$60	$80
C	$80	$100

"A traveler making his return should show the number of weeks he was on the road, if necessary by dividing the weeks into weeks of five days and weeks of seven days.

SHOULD GET AFFIDAVIT.

"Where an explanation is asked of a traveler with regard to a charge exceeding the average and he is unable to give full details the inspector should procure an affidavit vouching that the charges made were actually and necessarily incurred in the conduct of his business, together with all information available.

"Form T-4 will be drawn up so as to show the classification of travelers according to the above classes and to show the total monies paid travelers by employers.

"Inspectors should note that the figures given above are neither minimum nor maximum and may expect that in some cases the amount of expenses will be below the figures given and in some cases above.

"This ruling will be applicable to 1920 and subsequent returns and will also be applied to all unsettled cases for previous periods."

BURGLARS TACKLE COP; BOTH SHOT

Windsor Policeman Uses His Gun In Effective Manner.

TWO ARE IN HOSPITAL

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—Tackled by two burglars who were in the act of breaking into Austin's drug store, Glengarry avenue and Wyandotte street, at 2.45 o'clock this morning, Constable J. E. Bower, of Windsor police force, shot both. They escaped by jumping a high board fence in the alley at the rear of the store. Less than an hour later two men, who police say are the burglars, were admitted to the hospital suffering from bullet wounds. One may die. They are registered at the hospital as Wm. Gerard and Alex. Desper, both of Windsor.

They were brought to the hospital at 3.50 a.m., in an automobile, by an unknown man. They told the authorities that they had been shot by hold-up men on the Tecumseh road a short time previous. Desper may die. A bullet is lodged in his abdomen and authorities this afternoon reported his condition as dangerous. A bullet is embedded in the other man's side, but his condition is not thought to be serious.

Following Constable Bower's report of the occurrence at police headquarters, the police flyer and other squads scoured the neighborhood in search of wounded men. When the report came from the hospital that two men had been admitted, Constable Bower immediately went to the bedside and identified them as the two whom he had surprised and shot, Chief Daniel Thompson stated to-day.

Desper is unconscious, but Gerard will be examined by officers to-day. The men are now under police guard in the hospital ward.

CHINESE BANKERS HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY ON CHINA'S FOREIGN POLICY

PEKING, Oct. 10.—The Chinese Bankers' Association, the strongest banking group in China, with important connections and influence, has issued a manifesto "for the guidance of the Chinese policy at the Washington conference," in which support is given for the Chinese stand relative to Shantung. The manifesto demands that the principle of the preservation of territorial integrity with respect to China's sovereignty must receive first consideration and that the principle must not be infringed by granting concessions or conferring preferential or exceptional rights to foreign individuals.

GROCERS CONTINUE WAR ON BAKERS

Seven-Cent Bread May Be Offered To Citizens Soon.

MEETING OF GROCERS CALLED FOR TO-NIGHT

Want More Profit For Acting As Middlemen For the Manufacturers.

London may see seven-cent bread within a few days. This is the announcement made by Ald. Drake to-day with reference to the bread war that is now being carried on between the bakers and the grocers. A special meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association has been called for this evening, when the whole situation will be thoroughly discussed. The bakery taken over last week by Ald. Drake, Chas. W. Summers and Sons, and McFarlane and McDonald, which is now putting out eight-cent bread, may be giving the residents of the southeastern section of the city seven-cent bread within a few days, according to Ald. Drake.

The grocers are not at all communicative with reference to the meeting which will be held to-night. It is understood that a proposition placed before the association by a local baker will be considered at length. Whether this will be accepted or not is not known. The war is caused by the grocers' decision that they will not accept the one-cent commission offered them by the bakers for handling the bread, which retails at 10 cents. The plan which will be discussed to-night will give them a larger profit if they agree to accept its terms.

In any event the general opinion is that Londoners will see cheaper bread within a week or so at the most.

It is expected that it will be reduced to nine cents a loaf at least, and it may be brought down to eight even within the next few weeks. While the three Hamilton road grocers are now selling it at the latter price the bakers generally are charging 10 cents.

MISS McARDLE MAY TAKE THE STAND TO-DAY

CLEVELAND, Oct. 10.—Marian McAdle, 20, on trial charged with first-degree murder in connection with the death of Daniel Kaber, her stepfather, was expected to testify in her own behalf to-day. The defense also planned to call Salvatore Cala, convicted of the Kaber murder. Cala, who confessed to holding Kaber while Vittoria Piselli stabbed him to death two years ago, is serving a life sentence in the Ohio penitentiary.

Let Every Property Owner Be Assessor

James Easton Has Novel Plan To Do Away With Complaints.

Every man his own assessor is the remedy proposed by James W. Easton for the solution of the problem of taxation. In a letter to The Free Press Mr. Easton points out that the present plan of assessment leaves too much to personal opinion to be even a relatively perfect method of securing justice. The court of revision also is only a palliative instead of a cure, he states.

In order to have this plan of valuation carried out, Mr. Easton would suggest that every person now owning property be compelled to file a claim with the clerk of the municipality. With this claim to possession the applicant would also be enforced to file his valuation for assessment purposes. Then, if any person wished to purchase a piece of land, he could file a new claim and value the land at a higher price than the first owner. Possession could be given after the first owner had a reasonable time to pay the difference in taxes questioned by the new valuation and failed, to do so. In this way the selling price of the properties would always be the basis for the assessment.

UNMIXED EVIL

Editor Free Press: Kindly permit me to express some opinions and make some suggestions on this perrenial problem that may be interesting and possibly useful generally.

The average citizen is apt to regard taxes as an unmixed evil, forgetting that they merely replace the expenses that people were forced to sustain during those times when peaceful possession of property was unknown or extremely lax and also that there is no such thing as ownership of property in the strict sense of the word, peaceful

Bear At Zoo Liberated; Young Deer Stolen and Rabbits Fed To Foxes

Unknown Vandals Create Havoc At Springbank; Duck Given To Vultures.

One of the worst cases of park vandalism yet reported in London occurred at Springbank Park on Saturday night, when persons unknown liberated the big black bear in the park zoo, made away with a young deer and fed various smaller animals to prey birds. One valuable duck specimen was thrown into a cage of vultures and nothing but a few feathers remain to tell the story. White rabbits were given to the fox and other acts of depredation committed.

The big black bear was recaptured yesterday afternoon without much difficulty. Long captivity had given him the luxury complex and after a short excursion along the bank of the Thames he readily submitted to capture and was returned to his cage. It would have been another story, park officials believe, had the cubs been released. Citizens of Middlesex County would have felt themselves returning to pioneer days if the zoo pets had gotten away and been discovered near some lonely farmhouse.

No clue to the vandals is in the possession of either the police or the park officials. The acts were committed late on Saturday night. Steps will be taken immediately to guard against further midnight disturbance of the city's zoo. Alarm signals will be installed and the various fence wires and cage bars may be connected with electric lines in order that on the receipt of an alarm signal a good current may be sent out as a salutary reminder that "no trespassing" means just that.

FRANCE MUST REMAIN ARMED TILL SECURITY IS ASSURED, DECLARES PREMIER BRIAND

Will Go To the Washington Conference On Disarmament With This In View.

ST. NAZAIRE, France, Oct. 9.—"France must remain armed as long as her security has not been assured," was the statement made today by Aristide Briand, the French premier, in an address outlining the French Government's foreign policy. He declared that at the present moment the French premier needs to have full authority to deal with all questions with which he treats in the realm of world interests.

"My voice must carry high and far," said Mr. Briand. "To-morrow beyond seas we are invited to examine into certain problems. We shall go to Washington first in order to fulfill a duty of gratitude and to see in their homes those noble and brave soldiers whom we have seen in France. We will go also to accomplish a duty toward France.

"France must remain armed as long as her security has not been assured. France has earned the right to reparations and security. At no time shall the French Government yield on those points. I will refute the accusations of imperialism which have been made against France. Our allies know that we demand our rights—nothing more. To-morrow at Washington I will prove that France wants peace.

"If guarantees of security are granted France she will be among the first nations to enter into the policy of disarmament, for France loathes war and imperialism."

MAYOR AND ALDERMEN INVOLVED IN ACTION

Attempt To Collect $60,000 From Gas Company To Start From New Angle.

CLAIM AUTHORITY WAS GIVEN BY COMMITTEE

No Request For Service Charge Made By Members of Aldermanic Board.

Mayor Little, Ald. J. Cameron Wilson, John Bridge, F. E. Harley and Ex-Ald. E. R. Seabrook will be called into account over the imposition of the "readiness to serve" charge of the City Gas Company in 1920 in a suit which will be entered within a few days in the division court for recovery of some $60,000 collected from citizens of London, but retained, according to Judge Judd, in contravention only to moral law.

Important evidence was secured by Ald. Wenige to-day, which, he believes, throws an entirely new light on the case in dispute. This is a bill rendered by the City Gas Company, under date of August 8, 1920, which states: At the request of the City Gas Company of the City Council, the following rates are substituted for the 85-cent rate thereto in effect. Below follows a list of rates in which the "eradiness to serve" charge is included.

Members of the City Council gas committee in 1920, Ald. Wenige alleges, state that they did not request the charge be put into effect, and so far he has discovered no City Council minutes giving the gas committee power to request certain rates, nor that any such request was recorded during the negotiations.

The members of the gas committee in 1920 unanimously state that they did not "request" that a service charge be imposed and that members of the committee specifically pointed out that the City Council assumed no responsibility in the matter.

This situation, it is believed, admits of a new argument with added force in the coming trial of the issue. It is believed that the counsel for citizens planning to enter suit for recovery will argue that the charge was imposed without "color of right" in that, Ald. Wenige alleges, the bill of August 8, 1920, led citizens to believe that the Council not only acquiesced in the service charge, but actually requested that it be imposed.

Ald. Wenige, interviewed to-day, stated his belief that the case for citizens in the matter of recovering the $60,000 collected now rests on firm ground, which will admit of no other termination than a court order for restitution. The fact that the City Gas Company ceased publication of the statement that the City Council committee had requested the service charge is believed to be an admission of a tactical error, which was remedied, in part, by the later notice.

266 CITIZENS FOR JURY SERVICE

Women Will Not Be Allowed To Judge.

Out of 1,612 citizens liable for jury service 266 will be selected by the City of London to-day. Those selected will be males, 21 years of age, British subjects and citizens of the municipality with individual assessment of $600 or more. Any citizen may run for the City Council or for the mayor's chair, but property qualifications higher even than for the municipal franchise restricts the selection of grand and petit jurors.

Contrary to the initial expectations, women will not serve on juries of Middlesex and Ontario courts. The city solicitor has advised that the Ontario Juries Act restricts jury service to "males." And while women are permitted to vote, to hold office generally, the bulwark of justice raised by the barons at Runnymede still holds that those charged with crimes shall be tried by a jury of their peers, not their peeresses.

In ward one there will be 61 jurors selected, in ward two 41, in ward three 70 and in ward four 94. These will serve as grand jurors in the high court division, inferior courts, and as petit jurors.

The Mayor of London, the assessment commissioners and assessors will to-day put the 1,612 names of jurors liable for service in an urn, which will then be "well shaken," according to the juries act, "so as to insure good mixing." From this urn his worship will begin to withdraw ballots, which will be called by the number displayed. The city clerk will take down the number and later look up the number in the rolls. The name of the citizen that the number stands for will then become a juror of the County of Middlesex charged with determining the cases in which high, middle or low justice shall be meted out.

Exemptions from jury service are so lengthy as to practically exempt most citizens of a municipality the size of London. A few of the list of exemptions follow: All women voters, male citizens over 60, anyone in an official position, whether Dominion or provincial, and in several cases municipal. Every teacher of any institution of learning, any barrister or student of law, physicians of all sorts and surgeons, but osteopaths, chiropractors and so forth are not yet exempted; every officer or member of one of his majesty's militia units, pilots, seamen, anyone employed about, in or on railway or street railway, firemen, editors, reporters and so on.

CONFESSION OF PROMINENT CITIZEN WHO BROKE AWAY FROM USE OF MORPHINE

Will of Drug Addict Becomes Dead—Few Are Ever Able To Come Back.

C. McN. FREEMAN.

Statistics gathered from the Society of Combating the Drug Habit Show that the number of drug addicts on the North American continent has increased 1,000 per cent since 1915, and that there are in the United States and Canada over 2,000,000 men and women who take some form of drug with narcotic or stimulating effect. Police court records show that drug addiction is no uncommon thing in this city, and today The Free Press is able to publish the confession of a London opium eater, whose experience is more horror-inspiring than DeQuincey's famous story.

The citizen who makes these confessions must remain nameless, but his name is familiar to thousands of Londoners, and it is only his success in throwing off the shackles of the insidious habit, coupled with importance of his statement, coming as it does from one of London's most prominent citizens, that permits this story being placed before the public.

ONLY 19 YEARS

"I was only 19 years of age," he states in a written confession, "when I took my first injection of morphine. Being a medical student I had no difficulty in procuring all the hypodermic syringes and morphia that I wanted." (It should be pointed out that Mr. A. was not a student of the Western University Medical School). "I know, of course, that the habit obtained a powerful hold on some, but I did not realize how very easily and quickly the habit is established."

He began with an eighth of a grain, which was increased in one month to three-quarters of a grain. He went home on vacation, and there amidst the family influence of affection and purity he determined to throw off the habit at once. But too late! Good resolutions vanished in a few hours and he again returned to the drug. Ever larger and larger doses required by the diminishing power of the drug to stimulate. He says:

TO SAVE HIMSELF

"At last the drug fiend no longer takes the narcotic for the sake of the heaven to which it can lift him for a few hours, but he takes it to save himself from the hell to which he descends if deprived of his accustomed dose."

Then followed a period of moral, mental and physical breakdown, in which self-control, will, honor, truth, honesty, intellect and imagination were sacrificed to the leprous devil of dope.

"I venture to state," the reformed drug fiend asserts, "that my firm would trust me now with $50,000, without security, to take from here to South America. But when I was under the influence of the poppy extract I would walk 20 miles in the night to break into a doctor's surgery for the drug; I would lie, I would cheat, I would steal; even the contents of my sister's missionary box went for drugs."

PARALYSES THE WILL

He then describes the particular hell the drug fiend, which he inhabited for [illegible] and from which, like Dante from Purgatory, he rose again to call himself a man. A hell of lost souls, literally lost.

"People seem to imagine that their power of self-control the ability to pursue the right course, whether it causes suffering or not, is something inherent in their natures and an inseparable part of themselves. But alas! these powers are mere chaff before the devastating effect of drugs. Not so many people would fall victims to the drug habit if they understood that the first effect of drug use is the paralysis of the will. It vanishes as if it never existed. Nothing is left the drug user but the capacity to suffer. What pains would seem trivial to the normal man are tortures of the damned to the victim of the drug habit. A mole hill would appear a mountain to me, and a grasshopper an intolerable burden."

Then came a period of utter collapse with the dreadful delirium of the opium eater. "A time when I craved for the drug more than bread, when to breathe without the stimulus of the drug was agony, depression as black as space beyond the rays of the fathest stars, love dead, affection extinguished, mind filled with the gibbering faces of the eternal charnel house.

SAVED AT LAST

A gloom so profound that nothing could pierce it. A chained soul crying to God as in a nightmare, and the lips of the soul refusing to frame even a whispered appeal.

The teller of this confession then states how he was cured. Not by his own will, for his will was dead. But a father remained who could understand. He was sent to a sanatorium, and by almost divine power of father and mother love he was saved from himself. Months passed of mingled delirium and anguish, until at last the demon was exorcised and the captive soul set free.

"The only way to fight the drug habit," the confessor stated to The Free Press interviewer, "is not to begin.

"I am cured now," he stated standing up, conscious of redeemed manhood, "but I have paid the price. This Thing (and his ominous words seemed to picture an army of drug-crazed madmen, whose numbers are constantly augmenting) must be stopped. Whisky barrooms were nothing compared with what may come if the greatest vice in history is not stamped out, now!"

Lambton County Should Receive Medal For Corn

Editor Free Press: I have read recently about the corn crop in the different corn counties, and, although this part of Lambton has nothing extremely large to offer, yet what I am going to tell you is a straight story of facts, and I have been a little hurt because I had to send in this myself instead of one of your reporters coming down after it, as I know some of them heard of it.

Jonah Straight, who has several farms in Lambton between Burns' Monument and the big bend, is the grower, and was grown on lot 52, concession K., on the West Gore, at the river. He does not farm his land and is about two miles from the homestead. There is a large barn on it, which has not had any crop put in for three years.

One of Jonah's friends is a missionary or something of that kind, and while this friend was in Egypt he got some grains of corn from a mummy pit and gave Jonah one last winter, and Jonah was carrying this grain in his pocket. One day late last winter when he was hunting rabbits in this barn he lost this grain of corn and couldn't find it. Along about six weeks ago his neighbor, Abe Bearfoot, noticed the barn bulging out and green stuff growing out of the roof and cracks, and went and asked Jonah about it. They drove over to see it and there was the barn just filled from top to bottom with ears of corn. They found one big stem growing up in the north mow. To get the corn they had to get rid of this big stem, so they cut a hole in the roof of the barn and erected a windlass. They started this going and it had been working steadily up till last Saturday, when, low and behold you, the windlass creaked and groaned and up came the mummy! Jonah fainted right away when he saw it and was considerably out of his head for a couple of days, but is better again. Abe foolishly went and got an axe and chopped this big stem, as he wished the mummy to go back home, but to keep the corn here. You know, the roots grew around the mummy and there was, I suppose, nothing else to do, but the worst was, when he cut in a few feet in the stalk, a watery liquid ran out, and he let it all run away. He says there was about 10 barrels of it. There was a great crowd gathered and among them was a commercial traveler, and he began sniffing the air and says: "Good corn brandy around here somewhere." He located it on the ground and began sucking some of the sods, and when I left there were about 300 sucking the sods and 500 more with axes chopping into this stem in different places, but they had not found anything when I left. Jonah has an awful crop of corn, and it is as black as tar. You know, the mummy was black and shriveled looking, and Jonah is afraid the corn may shrivel up since it lost its "mummy." That liquid smelled the best I ever smelled, but that mummy spoiled the whole thing. By the way, the mummy settled back when Abe chopped it off, and I suppose is back home in Egypt by now. A. FEW WANT TRADE COMMISSIONER'S JOB

Salary for Juniors Apparently Not Large Enough to Attract.

Apparently no one wants to be a junior trade commissioner under the Dominion department of trade and commerce. For several weeks advertisements issued by the Civil Service Commission have been posted in the various Dominion Government buildings in the city. These advertisements have set forth the advantages of establishing a connection with the Canadian trade service and the honorable and well remunerated appointments to which junior trade commissioners are eligible. As far as known not one application was sent forward from the City of London.

In the trade and commerce department's weekly bulletin of October 10, which was received by the Chamber of Commerce this morning Secretary Wm. Foran, of the Civil Service Commission, says that the total number of applications received was 75, and of these 69 stood written examinations. Generally the standard of knowledge revealed by the applicants was low, and in all Canada but four men were found eligible for appointment. As there are at present four vacancies the number of successful applicants is sufficient to fill them. It was the hope of the department, Mr. Foran writes, that a sufficient number of qualified men would be found to establish a waiting list, from which other appointments would be made as vacancies arose, but this hope was not realized. Another examination will be held and the department asks that young men possessing a general business knowledge and the equivalent of a university education should interest themselves in the work and become applicants.

YORKSHIRE POST HEARS EMBARGO ON CANADIAN CATTLE TO BE LIFTED

LONDON, Oct. 10. — Canadian Press Cable.) — The Yorkshire Post, which is prominently identified with the most important agricultural interests of England and Scotland, in its news pages features a statement of a correspondent that it has been decided definitely to lift the embargo on Canadian cattle, but continue the prohibition on the live cattle from other countries. The rumor, adds The Post, says that the Cabinet was not unanimous on the subject, but the majority strongly supported the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle.

Major-Gen. Moore, a noted authority on veterinary matters, says that the bogey of the importation of contagious disease from Canada lies more in the imagination than in the reality.

IRISH REPUBLICANS WHERE ABOARD ROWAN

Had Just Been Released From Prison in Perth, Scotland.

DUBLIN, Oct. 10.—Three Irish Republicans, who had just been released from prison in Perth, Scotland, were among the passengers of the Laird Line steamer Rowan, which was sunk early yesterday morning off the southwest coast of Scotland. The vessel collided with the United States steamer West Cagak, and sent out a wireless appeal for aid. The Clan liner Clan Malcolm rushed to the scene and in a heavy fog struck the Rowan, which quickly sank. So far as known 13 members of the Rowan's crew and three passengers were lost.

The loss of the Rowan greatly excited Dublin yesterday as a large part of the crew are known here and about half the passengers were Irish.

BLAMES COUNCIL FOR BIG REQUEST

Late Notification To Prepare Estimates For 1922.

GIVEN ELEVEN DAYS ONLY

No Time To Secure $100,000 Due Commission.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan, of the Public Utilities Commission, places the blame for the Public Utilities Commission asking $125,000 of debentures for electrical expenditures in 1922 without taking the $100,000 Hydro-Electric Power Commission surplus into account on the City Council or its servants. He stated that he had received a communication from the city clerk's office on Thursday, October 6, asking that the utilities commission immediately prepare its request for debentures. The commission met that day, hence, Mr. Buchanan pointed out, he had no time to discuss the matter with the commissioners nor secure a definite statement from the hydro commission that the $100,000 was available or otherwise.

He also pointed out that October 17 is the last day for submitting debenture requests, which would have fallen one day short of the next regular meeting of the commission after October 6.

A special meeting may be called, however, to revise the initial request, thus anticipating the probable action of the City Council in the matter. Aldermen, it is understood, without any hostility to the commission, will ask that in view of the pressing need of economy, whether in revenue-producing or tax-spending departments, all debenture estimates be cut to the minimum. They point out that while extensions on the part of the public utilities show growth which necessitates capital expenditures, they will not approve of borrowing money when considerable sums are already available.

JAPAN IN FAVOR OF DISARMAMENT

G. E. Trueman Says People Tired of Military Party.

WANT NO WAR WITH THE U.S.

Officers No Longer Given Seats In Street Cars.

Militarism is having its final day in Japan and must soon yield to the sentiment of the nation's people, which is overwhelming in favor of disarmament and the abandonment of the policy of territorial aggrandizement on the mainland. Such, in brief form, is the message brought back from the Orient by C. E. Trueman, a native of Strathroy, who for the past few years has been engaged in extending the activities of the Y. M. C. A. in Nagoya, a Japanese city of 500,000 people.

"Thousands of people in Japan are just as hostile at their Government's attitude toward China and other countries on the mainland as the people are in United States and elsewhere," Mr. Trueman told The Free Press at the local "Y" to-day. "The trouble is that the military party is in the saddle at the present time and are responsible for the exploitation of China, which has antagonized foreign feeling against the country.

"As for the United States, the Japanese have no desire to fight that country, but they are suspicious of her actions in strengthening both army and navy," added the secretary. "It is well known that the United States objects strenuously to the policy of the present Jap Government and are desirous of preserving the territorial integrity of political independence of China, so the people are watchfully waiting lest this feeling should assume a more concrete form.

"If a vote were taken of the common people of Japan there would be 90 per cent. in favor of the plan of disarmament. This is indicated by the fact that a former minister of justice, who has been preaching against militarism up and down the country, has talked to as many as 8,000 people at once and has found that a straw vote shows a great preponderence of sentiment in favor of complete disarmament, as being advocated in other countries."

An incident which evidences the decline of the military party in Japan was instanced by Mr. Trueman. In former years, when a military officer entered a street car all the coolies deferred to him and offered him a seat, but nowadays an officer in the role of a straphanger is nothing unusual. In fact, on one occasion the men even jostled an officer, who came into the car, and ridiculed him until they finally raised his ire. "Don't you know that I am an officer?" he finally demanded. From a corner of the car came the reply, "Don't you know there's been a revolution in Russia.

Democracy is one of the main objectives of the people of the country and in this connection they want the franchise extended to nonproperty-owners. In the city where Mr. Trueman worked only 17,000 out of the total population of 500,000 were entitled to vote. The Y. M. C. A., he pointed out, while for the use of natives, irrespective of religion, is helping the missionaries greatly in their work and is making a strong appeal to the social, athletic and spiritual wants of the Japanese. The "Y" was first started in Japan in 1888 and now has a network of branches throughout the country.

WOULD SELL NATIONAL RAILWAYS FOR $1

Lanctot Would Also Have Canada Imitate the Fordney Bill.

MONTREAL, Oct. 10.—"If John Bull wants the world's biggest navy to protect his commerce, his foreign loans and other interests, it is not for Canada to contribute towards its cost," said Roch Lanctot, Liberal M. P., addressing his electors at La Prairie on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Lanctot reiterated his policy of getting rid of the national railways for $1 and promised to fight to that end in Parliament. As to tariff, he urged that Canada should imitate the Fordney bill.

TOLMIE SAYS ASIATICS WILL "OWN THE COUNTRY"

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Asiatics "will own the country" unless their penetration of Pacific coast settlements is stopped, Hon. S. F. Tolmie, minister of agriculture, told a dinner gathering of the Agricultural Association here last night. Dr. Tolmie spoke particularly of the effects of the United States tariff on Canadian cattle. The minister announced that an experimental farm would be established in this district.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 9.—(Lord's Day.)—Roused mighty unseemly by a man on a motor velocipede, back-firing and rattling like a nest of mechanical guns, and mighty fearful that I shall not be able to go to sleep again. But what with planning what laws I would pass 'gainst these Sunday morning disturbers of rest, suddenly find myself dreaming that I am back in feudal times and a cook's man in some stronghold. Where I be shining pewter vessels on Sunday and singing, as I think, like a lark. Whereat the lord of the castle comes after me with men at arms and to order them to throw me off the highest point of the castle tower. And just about to be pushed off at a pretty sharp rock I see below when I awake, heaven be praised, with my Aunt Mary calling me to breakfast.

Comes nephew to me for money to purchase "The Merchant of Venice" for use in his school work, at which I rave at him: "Did you not study this merchant in 1919?" "Aye," he returns. "And in 1920?" And the answer is again the opposite of the negative. "And why again? Do your teachers plan to make a very Shylock out of you with this endless study of the Venetian pawnbroker, or do they imagine the rest of Master Shakespeare, his plays, has been deleted by the censor?" Which he has no answer for, except to say that he is infinitely bored with this yelling for ducats and daughters and for the nonce would study "Julius Caesar," but that famous man, apparently, is barred by the League of Nations for his militarism.

Up to the Western University mighty betimes on Saturday and to see the freshmen initiated with green paint and other colors. Taking our photographer with me and riding in taxis, like a reporting man that is able to use "I" in his stories, and not like plain getters of scoops. But, St. George helping me, some other man must go to for their future initiations. For no sooner there than one burly athlete roars at me: "Arts or meds?" Which I answer: "Neither; business college and correspondence school!" So a party of them begin yelling: "Initiate him, anyway! Where is the green paint? Where is the red paint? Bring cords; bring ropes!" So nearly frightened to death, but a party of their usual victims come then and I am saved, to my great content.

The man from New Brunswick on our street, who is an advertising man for the theaters, is lately introduced to the advance agent of a notable show that is to come from England. And this New Brunswicker is notable in his own way, having hobnobbed with the greatest in this Dominion, and even my Lord Duke Devonshire. But this advance agent wears a unitarian eyeglass, which covers only one eye, spats, also a gray morning coat, the first we have seen in this city. And the New Brunswicker introduced to him, whereat the agent surveys him through his one eyeglass pretty coldly and then exclaims effusively: "Ah!" Which is strange.

Captain Nelson returns to our Admiralty Club after a visit to Scotland in the interests of intemperance. So we greet him joyfully and he tells of his experiences. "I find a strange thing that the Scotchman at home wear kilts less than abroad, and that the whole kingdom is mighty up and doing. But the strangest thing is the silence in barber shops. No conversations whatever, and only such questions as whether the banlheaded customer wants a save on his face on his topp! Whereat Master McHether remarks: "That is easily explained. Ye ken both barber and customer are thinking pretty hard about the tip!"

Have only had a far, dazzling view of the maids of our university, but, methinks, Venus will be jealous of them. Such eyes, such curls, such chic! Which do incite us to poetry, herewith:

Kappa, Delta, Theta,
Zeta, Lamma, Psi,
Girls, girls, everywhere,
Ah me, oh me, oh my!
Alpha, Beta, Gamma,
Iota, Sigma, Nu,
The fairest maids that ever were,
The girls of Western U!

This last night I write a story of the magazines which, I think, is the very best sort of story, being full of wit, humor, philosophy and the highest kind of morality. But whether any editor will recognize my genius is another matter. But if I am recognized and paid for it, methinks I shall celebrate right royally. Going to two picture shows in one day, having a meal of fried oysters and oysters in soup at a Chinese restaurant and, mayhap, get my fingers manicured by a manicuring woman. A thing I have never had done, but pretty inclined towards it.

USE BUILDINGS NOW ON MARKET

Practical Suggestion To Eliminate Needless Expense.

ENCLOSE BUTCHERS' SHED

Cost Would Be Small Compared With New Work.

A practical suggestion that would eliminate any necessity for erecting a new produce building on the market square is offered by Frank Smith, a local grocer. By enclosing the two existing sheds the city, he says, would have two buildings large enough to accommodate all of the butter and egg dealers and would be utilizing property which is not serving its original purpose.

The shed which was at one time used as a selling place for butter and eggs is now used as a day-time garage for the most part of the time and on market days is leased to certain market gardeners. As for the butchers' stall, it is utilized almost entirely as a parking place for motor cars as the abattoirs have practically eliminated the wholesale meat dealers from the market.

WANTS NEW BUILDING.

Alderman Watkinson at the last meeting of the City Council recommended that a new building be built at a considerable cost to the city. No action was taken by the Council, as it was deemed advisable to first get the opinion of the market clerk on the matter. His advice may be along the line of Mr. Smith's suggestion, that of utilizing the two present buildings for the time being at least and save the city several thousands of dollars.

Mr. Smith points out that the cost of erecting sides and ends to the present building would be very slight and that the accommodation available by the alterations would be ample to meet the requirements of the farmers who are selling butter and eggs. By following out the plan the sheds would pay a revenue as the stalls inside would be rented by the year as is done now in the old butter and egg shed. The buildings are admirably located as they are only a few feet from Market Lane.

PERMITS TOTAL OVER $2,115,000

Pass Record of Last Year In Few Days.

$71,280 IN EIGHT DAYS

Activity Reported In Building of Homes.

Building permits for 1921 will this week pass the total of 1920, and enter the clearway for a record that will exceed 1919's total which so far is the record building year of London's history. The total for 1921 now stands at $2,115,645, as compared with $2,146,305 for the whole of 1920. There remains only $340,000 to be written up for the establishment of a building record.

The month of October, if the present building is kept up, bids fair to be the record month of the current year. In eight days recorded, $71,280 of permits have been issued.

Larger permits include one to E. E. Lennel for a brick cottage on Emery street, to cost $3,000; M. Moxell is the builder. E. J. Keteling is building a story and a half brick veneer residence on Beattie street, to cost $1,500.

W. E. Robinson has received permission to rebuild and alter a house on St. James street at a cost of $20,000. Watt & Blackwell are the architects; John Putherbough the contractor. Mr. Robinson's residence will, when alterations and additions have been completed, be one of the city's finer residences.

CHINESE STAGE PLEASANT PARTY

Clarence Street "Season" Opens and Closes First Night.

POLICE TAKE A HAND

Dominoes and Opium Enjoyed Until a Late Hour.

One of the pleasantest receptions of the season, even though it had rather an unexpected finale, was that tendered by Lee Sam to a number of his Celestial friends on Sunday evening. The party was staged in the spacious parlors at the rear of Lee's Chinese merchandise emporium at 359 Clarence street, and the invitations brought responses in person from Charlie Lee, Toy Lee, Lee Song and Charlie Jong.

No effort was spared to make the function a most enjoyable one for the guests. Festoons of chop suey served as special decorations, while Chinese eggs, guaranteed at least five years old, provided a penetrating perfume which pervaded the atmosphere.

For eats there were bamboo shoots in syrup, Chinese moss and shark's fins, while frequently the Chem Bem bowl was passed. Chem Bem, by the way, is a very respected brand of Chinese hootch, two or three applications of which is generally sufficient to make the mildest mannered Celestial in the business willing to desecrate the grave of his great grandmother. It is reported that as the party waxed merry on Sunday night one guest, with a pleasant wit, fed a spoonful of Chem Bem to Charlie Lee's kitten, which contributed to the entertainment by promptly engaging in a few spirited rounds with an electric fan.

DOMINOES WERE PLAYED.

After the eats games were in order. Dominoes proved the principal attraction, not the ordinary or garden variety which can be played with safety in the best circles, or not even the freckled cubes popularly known as "Senegambian golf." The dominoes provided for the entertainment of Lee Sam's guests were of Chinese ancestry, and the game was a gentle pastime in which it is quite possible for an unlucky player in a brief session to lose home, cash, laundry and clothes before he had hardly started to play. Toy Lee, Lee Sam, Harry Chung, Fred Lee and Charlie Jong gathered around the gaming board and bet their heads off.

Charlie Lee, who apparently was of more frugal mind, declined to play, but accepted the host's proffer of a few "pills," and, stretched in a perfectly comfortable chair, had just succeeded in conjuring up the most vivid dream of cross-eyed geisha girls dancing with pink dragons on a baby blue cloud when a commanding rap at the door betokened the possible arrival of belated guests. One Celestial eye applied to a convenient peep-hole revealed the character of the visitors. "Chleese it, le pleecey man cium," articulated an excited Chinaman, and the next instant the officers were in the room. The gay gamboleers, together with the dominoes and $28.15 found in the "kittie," were confiscated first. Then the officers unraveled Charlie Lee from his pipe and the whole party finished the night in the police station.

This morning when arraigned in court they acknowledged the offences charged against them. Lee Sam was fined $25 for including opium among the viands served at his party. Charlie Lee's vivid dream cost him $50 and costs, while the others of the party were fined $2 each and costs for gambling. The fines were paid and as Lee Sam's guests clattered and chattered out of the police station they expressed the opinion that, although the pastiming cost more than they had anticipated, they sure had a great time. Little social events such as these go a long way towards relieving the monotony among the local members of the Chinese smart set.

LAVERGNE OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN ON SUNDAY

QUEBEC, Oct. 10.—Armand Lavergne, K. C., opened his campaign for Quebec County at Lorettville on Sunday before a crowd of about 4,000 people.

Mr. Lavergne said he was not a Conservative and had never been a Conservative, but he found the Conservative party more honest. The Liberals were against the war in Quebec and for it in the English provinces.

Here Mr. Lavergne called the attention of his audience to a copy of Le Soleil, the Quebec Liberal organ, dated September 25, 1914. It contained a photograph of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and the occasion was a speech which the Liberal chieftain had delivered at a Methodist conference in Toronto, far from Quebec East. Here Laurier had affirmed, "We shall sacrifice our last man and our last dollar for England."

The farmers' party wasn't a class party, he said. It was a natural necessity. It was the voice of the people rising in disgust against what had been done. The Liberals and Conservatives could talk about the tariff, but the country would never have anything but a tariff for revenue. The Liberals were only opposed to Meighen in order that they might get to the manger.

He had been asked in 1919 to be a candidate in Quebec East to succeed Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but there was a pledge to be signed to support Mackenzie King and he had refused.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

ALDERMAN OBJECTS TO POLICE METHODS

Y. M. C. A. Boy Summoned for Riding Bicycle on Sidewalk.

"This intensive culture of a future crop of criminals must be stopped," Ald. Wenige stated to-day with regard to the summonsing of a Y. M. C. A. lad to police court by one of the constables in which the boy is to be charged with riding a bicycle on the sidewalk in front of Mr. Wenige's store.

The facts of the case, as told by witnesses, is that the lad saw a party of his comrades walking to the red triangle gym. He turned in off the street to the sidewalk, and coasted on his wheel, standing on one pedal, towards the red triangle building. Witnesses state that he was not astride of the wheel, that he was menacing no pedestrian, and in fact was committing no more serious offense than is committed daily by four-year-old youngsters who ride scooters or delivery boys who coast about in toy wagons while delivering goods.

The lad was "pinched" by a convenient policeman, it is stated, who took his name and address and ordered him to report to court.

"That sort of thing is officiousness carried to the final limit," Mr. Wenige stated. "If the policeman objected to a harmless act which could only be considered 'riding' a bicycle by stretching a technical point, he should have warned the boy. But, no, he takes his name and orders him to court.

"This matter should come before the City Council and steps taken to stop such actions. We want real criminals arrested, not boys in knee pants.

"I never hear of things of this sort without thinking of an advertisement which was changed somewhat to serve as a Victory Loan poster. The big, fat policeman leading a child about one-tenth his size who has evidently been found guilty of fishing in some place where 'no fishing allowed' signs were up. Until our police tackle big things consistently, instead of picking on kids for coasting on a bicycle, people aren't going to feel very kindly towards the courts."

ABLE TO DO HER WORK

After Long Suffering Mrs. Peasey Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ont.—"I suffered with irregular menstruation, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains, so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of medicines and had been treated by physicians but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. Peasey, 387 King St., Toronto, Ontario.

If you are one of these women do not suffer for four or five years as Mrs. Peasey did, but profit by her experience and be restored to health.

SEATS OF THE MIGHTY MADE AT OWEN SOUND

Walnut Chairs for Parliament Buildings Being Turned Out There.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 14.—The Owen Sound Chair Company's factory is now at work on an order received a short time ago from the Dominion Government, in competition with furniture manufacturers from all parts of Canada. The chairs are for use in the committee rooms and offices of the new Parliament Buildings and are of the very finest construction. They are of solid walnut, and are leather covered, and amongst the best chairs of that type built. This order will, with the other business that the company is securing, insure work during the balance of this year and part of next, for the employees of this company. This order practically completes the furnishing of the magnificent new Parliament Buildings, as most of the other furniture is already in place or under order. When Owen Sounders visit the national capital they can sit in the library, or in the committee rooms, on chairs manufactured in this city. And they can exhibit these chairs to others with just pride, for they are as good as can be built anywhere.

RUSSIAN OIL ON MARKET

MOSCOW, Oct. 10. — The commissariat foreign trade committee has decided to throw on the local market all the kerosene oil allotted for export and also to organize an export base in Riga, Letvia, for naphtha products. The announced purpose of this decision is to avoid control of these products by a Western European syndicate, which the commissariat alleges offered only one-seventh of their value for them.

Now "Quite Healed."

Our portrait is of Mrs. GIDNEY, of 10, Station Road, Ash Vale, Surrey, England, who writes:—

"About four years ago I had a bad breaking in both my legs which kept coming and going. At last they got so bad that I had about thirty ulcers, one of which was so large that you could almost see the bone of my leg. The doctor who saw my legs said only rest would do me good. In January my daughter brought me home a bottle of Clarke's Blood Mixture and said: 'I am sure, mother, this will do you good.' At once I commenced taking this medicine, and before I had finished the first bottle the ulcers began to get better, and after taking four bottles both legs were quite healed. Previous to taking Clarke's Blood Mixture I could only walk a very short distance, but only recently, to the surprise of my family and neighbours, I walked to Aldershot and back—two miles each way—to see the Military Tattoo."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions, ointments, &c., can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, the true cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take and free from injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores.

BOY FALLS FORTY FEET, SUFFERS BROKEN JAW

Walter Rowe, 10-year-old son of John Rowe, who resides on the 1st concession of Westminister Township, four miles east of the city, narrowly escaped death at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when he fell a distance of 40 feet from the top of a silo on his father's farm. The young lad suffered a fracture of the jaw bone, which is believed to be the extent of his injuries.

He had climbed to the top of the silo, which had been recently filled, to see if it had settled enough to remove the splash-boards, and in some manner lost his balance and fell to the ground. The fact that the ground was comparatively soft from the recent rains is thought to be the only reason that the child was not probably instantly killed.

Dr. Edward Spence was called and, after attending the lad's injuries, had him removed to Victoria Hospital, where after a thorough examination no other injuries could be found

CONTINUE RAIL CUT TENTATIVELY

Agreement Reached at the Conference at Montreal

PENDING SETTLEMENT

Union and Railway Officials to Continue Parley

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—After ten days of argument and conference with the commission of conciliation and investigation, headed by Chairman Judge F. S. McLennan, the representatives of the railway brotherhoods and railway managements came to a tentative agreement on Saturday evening, in which the men agree that a reduction of wages, of from 10 to 12 per cent. put into effect last June shall continue tentatively.

Agreement is made for further conference with reference to this, however, with the undertsanding that if the final agreement is that the wages should be reduced this agreement is to stand. Should, however, the wage cut be less than that enforced by the companies, the latter will have to refund the differences between the reduction authorized and that actually in force.

If more, no refund will be collectible by the railroads.

RIFLED MAIL IS FOUND IN TRUNK

Fingerprints May Lead To Arrest of Robbers.

DETROIT, Oct. 9.—(Special to The Free Press.)—An old-fashioned trunk, such as is often used by foreigners, stuffed with mutilated mail sacks and rifled envelopes and packages, found early to-day, gave postal and police authorities the first real aid in solving the mystery of the robbery of the Windsor mail wagon robbery here late on Friday night.

Police expressed the opinion during the afternoon, after a study of the trunk, that those who held up and robbed Wm. R. McCauley, the mail messenger, were Italians.

"Little Italy" and other districts where Italians live were subjected to a rigorous search to-day by members of the "Black Hand" squad of the police department.

FINGER PRINTS.

Finger prints are to be taken from the trunk and portions of the mail at the earliest opportunity, and these will be used, police said, in running down the robbers, for whom a reward of $20,000 now is offered by the United States post office department.

One suspect, Carl Grebe, age 34, of 160 Montcalm street, was interviewed by Detroit and Windsor post office inspectors and the mail messenger, McCauley, this afternoon. They could not identify him as one of the men who held up the mail wagon and got away with 72 pieces of registered and a number of sacks of unregistered mail.

Grebe is still held, however, under a charge of violation of the United States code. Police said he was indirectly implicated in the Toledo million dollar post office robbery and may know something of that of Friday night.

Meanwhile Windsor and Detroit postal officers are checking their records to determine the value of mail contained in the 26 bags taken by the bandits. Two of the pouches carried registered packages and early estimates placed the value as high as $100,000. Officials said to-day that this is a wild exaggeration and the total loss may not be more than a few hundred dollars. There were no money consignments from either Kentilworth race track or the Walkerville branch of the Dominion Bank, officials of these institutions said.

D. J. McLean, post office inspector, arrived from London yesterday morning to co-operate with the Windsor officials in the affair. He and Macauley, the bank messenger, visited the scene of the hold-up in the afternoon.

ARREST AT TOLEDO.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 9.—Federal authorities to-night placed under arrest a man giving his name as Bob Cunningham, and his age as 30 years, of Detroit, as a suspect in the hold-up of a mail wagon near the Detroit post office on Friday night. The authorities say an empty coin bag bearing the name of the National Bank of Commerce, Detroit, was found on his person, together with $250 in United States money and some Canadian coins.

The man was booked on the technical charge of suspicion.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Minnie Bell Adney, of Woodstock, wife of Lieut. Tappan Adney, R.C.E., has decided to offer in Carleton-Victoria riding as a Liberal candidate in the Dominion election.

ANNIVERSARY OF ALMA COLLEGE

Students, Faculty and Managers Celebrate

HOLD SPECIAL SERVICES

Wonderful Expansion Made During Last Forty Years

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 9.—(By Staff Reporter)—Students, faculty and the board of management of Alma College to-day observed the 40th anniversary of the opening of the institution by Bishop Carmen. The college has expanded in many ways and the list of students enrolled to-day is far larger, while the curriculum takes in a far wider scope than it did 40 years ago, although the same priciples are adhered to. At First Methodist Church this morning Dr. R. I. Warner, principal emeritus, gave a very interesting resume of the years he has spent in charge of the college, and expressed the hope that it might continue its good work for many more years.

The students, together with Principal Dobson, Rev. Dr. Warner and members of the board of management, paraded from the college this morning to First Methodist Church, where special services were held. Rev. Wilfrid Gaetz, a newcomer to the city, during the morning service alluded to the good work being accomplished by the institution, declaring that even though he had not been in this city very long the college was by no means unknown to him, for its fame reached far beyond the London Conference.

Many day students, former Alma students, and those who have at various times had any part in the development of the college, were included in the college group at First Church.

MESSAGES READ.

Rev. Perry S. Dobson, principal of the college, read a number of important messages from Rev. Dr. Chown, the general superintendent; from Dr. Graham, secretary of education, and from Rev. Dr. J. S. Williamson, of Toronto, the only surviving member of the original board of Alma College. All joined in congratulating the management and faculty for the wonderful expansion that has been possible during the 40 years that Alma College has existed.

Charles McVey, a former resident of Yarmouth, was arrested yesterday and locked up on a charge of stealing an automobile from a local citizen on June 24 last. The car was abandoned, it is stated, at Port Stanley. McVey, with another youth, was suspected of the theft, but both had left for parts unknown. They returned this week, according to reports, from New Mexico. Sergt. W. M. Ketchebaw, who has been on the track of the offenders every since the mysterious departure of the car last June, immediately began a search of the city. It was not long before he located McVey. On reaching police headquarters he is alleged to have intimated that the other youth might also be located and his case was adjourned for a week while the accused was remanded to the county jail.

HAVE A REAL C. OF C.

It is likely that another week or so will see the completion of organization work and the opening of a modern Chamber of Commerce, with headquarters at the city hall. Organization work has been going on during the past week and a membership campaign will be instituted shortly.

County Magistrate Frank Hunt claims to have made the acquaintance of Wilfrid Meharg, the Vienna youth found guilty at Hamilton of murdering Dr. Whitworth, on Friday. He states that Meharg came before him on a charge of violating the O. T. A.. The trouble started at a baseball game, where the liquor is alleged to have been distributed.

Over 150 students have enrolled so far for the night classes at the Collegiate and it is expected that a number of others will be on hand during the coming week. Several new classes have been added this year and the night classes promise to be an even greater success than last winter.

According to information available tonight, Crown Attorney McCrimmon has recovered sufficiently to be able to leave his bed and will in all probability be able to attend the court of general sessions, which opens before Justice Masten next Tuesday afternoon.

FARMERS' LEADER NOT FARMER, SAYS MEIGHEN

Premier Tells Annapolis Audience That Mr. Crerar is Head of Big Grain Company.

ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 8.—Speaking here this afternoon, Premier Meighen discussed the Government shipbuilding program. He admitted that the value of Government vessels had declined, but he asked his audience whether the value of practically everything had not declined in the last few years. Last year the steamers had made a profit of three and one-half per cent., he said.

The premier ridiculed Mr. King's declaration that he stood for a revenue tariff, a tariff for producer and consumer, and finally a tariff for the home. Every tariff is a tariff for revenue. If the present tariff was one for combines, monopolies and trusts, Mr. King should explain how he happened to be a member of the Laurier Government, which made the present tariff, the premier said. The tariff in force was just a little lower than the Laurier tariff.

He declared that there was nothing in the record of the Government of which he was ashamed. Rather than extravagance, as charged by the Liberals, the Government was practicing the most rigid economy. The fact was that the Government expenditures were only 3½ per cent. greater than before the war. True, the debt was infinitely larger, but a country could not participate in a war such as Canada had had and come through without spending money.

"The farmers," declared Mr. Meighen, "were headed by a man who was not a farmer, but the head of one of the greatest grain companies in the West."

ARCTIC BIRD IS UNUSUAL VISITOR AT OWEN SOUND

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 9.—A wild goose was seen on Owen Sound's main street, about half a mile from the city hall. It was of the species scientifically known as the cheu hypeboreus and commonly known as lesser snow goose, or little waver. It was pure white in color, having only the tips of its wings black. The goose had evidently been migrating south with a flock and had become tired, forcing it to alight. It could be approached to within two yards, but if anyone attempted to go closer it would fly away a short distance. All efforts to capture the bird were futile and in a short time it disappeared.

This is the only goose of this particular species that has ever been seen here. They nest on the shores of the Arctic Ocean and Hudson Bay and are only very rarely seen in Ontario.

HARDING URGES CUT IN FREIGHTS

Confers With R. R. Heads, Who Ask Wage Reduction

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—President Harding to-day took up with the railroad executives the matter of reduction of freight rates and indicated his desire that the railroads give this matter early and careful consideration.

The railroad executives, headed by T. DeWitt Cuyler, of the Association of Railway Executives, informed the president they felt that reduction of freight rates must go hand in hand with reduction of operating expenses and that operating expenses could not be reduced materially unless railroad wages were reduced.

The railroad executives told the president they were already considering the matter of rate reductions in connection with the Interstate Commerce Commission and that a meeting would be held in Chicago on Friday, when it was probable definite policies with regard to rate reductions would be adopted.

The president was also advised by the executives that the unemployment situation might be somewhat alleviated by the passage of the railroad funding bill, which would give the railroads necessary funds for carrying on improvement projects.

MORE CHARGES COMING IN WHITWORTH MURDER

Crown to Lay Conspiracy Counts Against Alleged Members of Hamilton Gang

HAMILTON, Oct. 8.—When the Supreme Court opened this morning Chief Justice Mulock had the grand jury called in and instructed that body that in view of developments at the Whitworth murder trial the crown had decided to lay further cases before the members. Conspiracy was the charge and he explained the law on that crime.

The judge issued a special order for the appearance of Wilfred Meharg, yesterday found guilty of the murder of the Binbrook veterinary, Dr. Whitworth, in the court. Meharg was called to tell of arrangements made for various hold-ups as related by him when he was on the stand yesterday.

Among those indicted were George Horning, Clarence Spaulding, Edward Dickenson and J. Smith, alias Fisher.

PASSENGER SHIP LOST; 13 MISSING

The Rowan Rammed by Boat Going to Her Rescue

OFF THE SCOTTISH COAST

Ship Had Previously Been Damaged in a Fog

BELFAST, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Damaged by one vessel in a dense fog off the southwest coast of Scotland and then sunk by another coming to its aid was the fate early this morning of the Laird Line steamer, Rowan, plying between Glasgow and Dublin. Thirteen of the Rowan's crew and three passengers are missing. Two passengers died after being rescued by vessels which responded to the wireless call for help.

An official statement says that the Rowan carried 93 persons, including the crew, 77 of whom are accounted for by the four vessels which went to the Rowan's assistance.

THE ACCIDENT.

The accident was due to a double collision in the north channel, off Corsewall Point. The Rowan first collided with the United States steamer West Camak, both of them being damaged. The West Camak stood by with the forepeak full of water, meanwhile sending out wireless calls for aid. The Clan liner, Clan Malcolm, responded, but in the confusion due to the heavy fog, ran into the disabled Rowan, which sank immediately.

The West Camak helped in the rescue work, afterward putting into Glasgow with 26 survivers. Captain Donald Brown, of Glasgow, is reported to have gone down with the Rowan. Three other vessels also answered the call and completed the work of rescue, as far as it was possible.

The Clan Malcolm, which rammed the Rowan amidships, was damaged only slightly.

NORTH BRUCE OPPOSITION.

KINCARDINE, Oct. 9.—There is a strong feeling here among Liberals that James Malcolm would be an ideal candidate for the riding of North Bruce against Hugh Clark.

M. PAUL FRANZ,

The World-famous Operatic Singer, of the Paris Grand Opera and Covent Garden, London, writes:

"It affords me pleasure to state that I have used Phosferine since 1912, and have derived practically invaluable benefit from it. All through the War, when serving in the French Army, I had a supply with me. The nervous strain on an operatic singer is very great, but despite the tremendous call made upon me when I created "La Legende de St. Christophe," at the Paris Opera House last year, and quite recently at the rev val of "La Valkyrie," I am pleased to say that Phosferine acted as a fine tonic in enabling me to bear the nervous strain without undue fatigue. I find your Phosferine so reliable, and think that it has most certainly helped to strengthen my voice."

This world-famous operatic singer is entirely satisfied he owes the unflagging strength and volume, the unfailing control of his vocal nerves to the re-energising qualities of Phosferine—Phosferine ensures his nerve organisms produce a sufficiency of vital force to maintain that unvarying perfection which gives him so pre-eminent a position on the operatic stage.

DRUMMOND NAMED IN WEST RIDING

Clerk of McGillivray Defeats Currie For U. F. O. Honor.

AT STRATHROY CONVENTION

J. J. Morrison Offered the Nomination and "the Premiership."

STRATHROY, Oct. 8.—(By Staff Reporter). — West Middlesex United Farmers upset the "dope" this afternoon in picking J. D. Drummond, clerk of McGillivray Township, as their candidate for the House of Commons. There was some much-touted material in the entry list, but the delegates paid rather less attention to past performance than to present form—to continue the race track metaphor. Mr. Drummond's nearest contender was Harold Currie, of Strathroy, county director of the U. F. O. The final vote was not announced, but is stated to have been 210 to 76.

An interesting feature of the afternoon was an offer of the nomination to J. J. Morrison, secretary of the provincial organization. Harold Currie, who was responsible for this tribute, explained that it meant election as member for West Middlesex, and likewise the premiership of Canada. Mr. Morrison declined both honors with thanks.

"My ambition," said Mr. Currie, "was to see three U. F. O. members from Middlesex in the Legislature, and then a Cabinet minister. I went to Toronto and came back with an offer of a Cabinet position for the worthy member for West Middlesex. That it was not accepted was owing to ill health. It is my ambition now to see a Cabinet minister from Middlesex in the Federal House. It has been my ambition to see J. J. Morrison premier of Canada and sitting member for West Middlesex, and I am going to make a motion at this juncture, which, I trust, will be poualar, and it is this. I don't want anyone to second it, but will ask those who feel like seconding it to rise to their feet: 'That we, the United Farmers of West Middlesex, in convention assembled, tender Mr. J. J. Morrison this convention, guaranteeing to finance the campaign and elect him as our representative for West Middlesex in the House at Ottawa.' "

Quite a number arose in support of the motion, but Mr. Morrison was promptly on his feet.

DOESN'T WANT TO BE PREMIER.

"I don't want to be a Cabinet minister," he said. "I don't want to be premier of Canada and member for West Middlesex. My policy is not a personal policy, but one for the people, and I want to follow it out to the finish."

Mr. Morrison devoted some time to pointing out that there is no "National Progressive Party." Organized farmers of East Elgin called their convention a few days ago under that name.

Mr. Drummond was probably the eldest of men balloted upon. His address, prior to the voting, was moderate in tone, and made a visibly favorable impression. He explained that he had no special ambition toward a political career, but, having been asked to allow his name to stand, did so on the principle that it was a duty to give public service if called upon. He took occasion to disagree with the agrarian plank of Senate reform. In his opinion there is but one cure for the Senate, and that is abolition. (Applause). Tariff revision, said Mr. Drummond, is long past due.

The nominee, as stated, is clerk of McGillivray, and resides three miles north of Ailsa Craig. He is a member of the mothers' allowance board of the county.

On account of the plan of appointing four delegates from each U. F. O. club, and from each subdivision where there is no club, almost the entire main floor of the Lyceum Theater was required for delegates alone, and many would-be spectators were unable to get into the building. J. J. Morrison, provincial secretary of the U. F. O.; G. J. Lethbridge, M. P. P., West Middlesex, and J. C. Brown, M. P. P., North Middlesex, addressed the gathering, prior to the nominations. Walter Bolton, of Adelaide, made a more than ordinarily efficient chairman.

THIRTY-FOUR PROPOSED.

Preliminary nominations brought out 34 names. L. Collins, Fred. Lockwood, Mrs. Dan Campbell, Russell Parker, B. Galbraith, H. Vroney and Samuel Bolton withdrew as soon as the list was read. Mr. Drummond, D. A. Graham, Harold Currie, George Marks, T. G. Turnbull, Ed. Wormal, W. Gilbert, J. E Campbell and John Sullivan were among the 27 who availed themselves of the privilege of inspecting the result of the preliminary vote, as compiled by the scrutineers, and took the platform, although Messrs. Wormal, Gilbert and Sullivan in their five-minute addresses announced that they were not contenders. Those who withdrew after seeing the nomination totals or were not present were Isaac Watterworth, Andrew Scott, Mr. McVittie, Charles Macfie, C. C. Henry, D. S. Campbell, J. D. Campbel, Hugh McPhail, Thomas Dromgole, Allen McNeil, A. D. Fletcher, E. W. Munro, Abe Ferguson, A. L. Walker, L. Curran, Neil Johnston, J. C. Elliott and H. Innes.

George Marks, of Parkhill, received the lowest vote on the first ballot, which was not collected until after 4 o'clock. T. G. Turnbull, of Komoka, dropped out on the second. J. E. Campbell, of Lobo, was low man on the third vote. On collection of the fourth the interesting discovery was made that there were more ballots than there were delegates in the hall, and a revote was taken, resulting in the elimination of D. A. Graham, Caradoc. All this time Dr. Drummond's strength had been growing, there being about 100 votes for him on the third round of balloting. On the final ballot, with only Mr. Currie as contender, he had easily a majority of the available vote.

CANDIDATES SPEAK

The chairman reminded the candidates that the riding executive had approved the recall plan and pre-war sessional indemnities.

Other than Dr. Drummond, D. A. Graham, of Caradoc, first president of the West Middlesex organization, was the only speaker to touch upon the tariff issue.

"As to the tariff helping us," he said, "the tariff that keeps goods out keeps goods in. I am in favor of Canada negotiating, not to give anything away, but on a fifty-fifty basis. If we listen to the manufacturers we would have to keep all in Canada."

John N. Sullivan said that he had helped Duncan Ross in the last election, but "later on when we needed a friend, we had a representative who was catering to the big interests, I believe. It is things like that that have brought us here to-day. We want a man who is fearless, and ready to take up the cudgels and protect us when he goes to Ottawa, against the big interests that try to put their iron heel upon us. The packing houses are ruling this country to-day, otherwise who could have put the price of hogs down to four cents and raise it to 13 cents in two weeks? They wanted money to win this election, and there is going to be more money spent that way than ever before."

Mr. Sullivan had by this time exceeded the five-minute limit, and there were shouts of "sit down." The speaker did so, and there were calls from the body of the House "you didn't say if you were going to run."

"No intention," said Mr. Sullivan, and he was followed by W. Gilbert, of West Williams. Mr. Gilbert compared the U.F.O. to John Brown's body, for when mouldering in the grave its spirit would still go marching on. He started to review the rise and fall of ancient empire, presumably leading up to the Meighen Government, but had only got as far as the Chaldean and Persian dynastics when the time limit stoppd him, too.

"No use in magnifying our strength," warned George Marks, of Parkhill. "I believe we are going to have a hard fight."

"Brains are at a discount at Ottawa," declared J. E. Campbell, of Lobo. "We have had men of knowledge, wit and wisdom, education, wealth and with a great grasp of public affairs. They were put there by the men electors of this country, and never in the history of Canada, has a body of men been so disliked as that bunch there now." (Laughter.)

"When you see who got the money for the hydro investigation, it will surprise you," said Harold Currie, last to speak. "I just wonder if these men, and the lawyer who got $100 a day for attending the timber commission, were animated by the same spirit of sacrifice to our country as our boys who went overseas and laid their all on the altar of sacrifice for $1.10 a day. I feel at Ottawa the field is broad, almost boundless, for hard hitting and plain talking. We will hound the footsteps of our opponent in this election."

"Are all the candidates bona fide farmers? inquired a delegate. Mr. Bolton looked them over and though they were, and the balloting began. It did not finish until after 6 o'clock, and anticipation of this fact led to the chairman calling on the speakers early in the meeting.

Mr. Lethbridge was very brief, but predicted a majority for the candidate to be chosen of 3,975.

"Vote for the choice of this convention and do not divide your votes," he urged.

J. C. Brown approved the recall system as "the only safeguard you have." He was ready to come back home at any time, if asked by 60 per cent. of his electors.

"You cannot expect your federal representative to wipe off the national debt by magic," he reminded the convention. "It has got to be paid by the people."

NO "PROGRESSIVE PARTY"

"How many delegates are there here to-day who are hoping to run this new institution along old party lines," asked Mr. Morrison, "who do not realize there is any difference? I have no doubt many of you look at it as a new political party, when it is a very different thing. The old parties largely dominated the political institutions. They even formulated the policy and the people largely followed. Now, under the new institution we are endeavoring to change all that and we have the idea now that the people must dominate the policy and the men whom we elect are only to carry out that policy.

"We have an idea coming from many sources that this institution is called the National Progressive political party of Canada. There is no such name as the National Progressive Political Association. Mr. Drury is in the political movement, and not in the heart of the institution now, and these questions belong to the United Farmer organization. The question was asked in the House if the name 'Progressive' was indorsed by the Canadian Council of Agriculture, a federation of provincial bodies. The answer was: 'No, it was not indorsed, because they did not intend to create a new party.' Each province has to look after its political affairs.

"We don't want to form a political party, because all political parties go wrong. When you have a political party people begin to think party and forget principle. When you put your affairs entirely in the hands of these men you elect they are human like the rest of us and want to see how they can best maintain themselves in office, and that is why we are politically bankrupt to-day.

"Now, there are people who arise up and say: 'Let us make a new party.' What can you gain? Men are nearly all alike. If you create a new party and a new group of partisans, what better are you off? You are identically where you started. You must think principle and never mind party.

"'The second question asked in the House was: 'Was the question considered?' and the answer was: 'Yes, but not indorsed.'

"'Was the name indorsed by the Ontario and provincial associations?' Answer: 'No, because it never came before them. There was nothing to consider.'

"'Was Mr. Crerar indorsed as leader?' 'Yes.'

"I know it is hard to get away from these ideas, but the time is coming when we have to. You can call your Government all the Progressives you like and if it does not get progressive action it is not progressive.

"You must pick a good, strong man, with backbone, for there are plenty of temptations, or you might as well go away home. The Government is a reflection of yourselves. You choose the men. If it is a bad Government you are bad. If they are good you get the credit. We have been picking men in the head office for some years and it is hard to get one without some defects."

In supporting the recall system Mr. Morrison was asked by a delegate if there were any machinery for enforcing it.

"No," he answered, "but it is like all other things, you will never get the machinery until you agitate for it. If the man is not honorable enough to act on it you cannot make him. But he would be politically dead; he would be ostracized when he came back for reelection. If I am man enough to take the mandate of the electors I should be man enough to take their recall.

"I do not believe you would have had the election that is now going on, only that the Government saw they could not put through their redistribution bill. They were going to give more seats to the cities and less to the country, and rural members who saw their seats about to be gerrymandered out of existence would fight to a finish and the premier could not put the bill through; the Government would have been beaten on the floor of the House.

SEES LISTS "PACKED."

"There has got to be an enumeration, and best opportunity you ever saw the lists. Do you think you correct enumeration? I am won't. Isn't it time we had new form of government?

"There is talk of the Conservatives and Liberals joining forces in West Elgin and North Oxford. The same old party game. It doesn't make any difference, only beat the other fellow.

"I entered the Liberal party in 1896, because they advocated a lower tariff, which I believed in, and still believe in, but we didn't get it. I worked hard in 1911 and our party was snowed under, and I went back in the field and hoed turnips for three days. I didn't want to see anybody. It wasn't the Tories did it. It was the beneficiaries of the tariff system, who were in the Liberal party. (Applause.) There were 40 in Toronto who bolted and put up money to defeat their own party, and they are in the party yet and are in for a purpose. They call themselves Protectionist Liberals. Why don't they get out and go in with the real protectionist party?

"The women have been given the franchise, and I say it is a shame to bring you in now, because the House is awfully dirty, but I know you will do your duty. All kinds of things will be said to you by ward heelers. The women are 'on the fence' and it is the people on the fence the election workers go after. It has been said they will vote as their husbands or brothers do. I don't think the women are going to do that. If they did there is no earthly use giving you the franchise.

"You are going to see the dirtiest election you ever saw fought out. I hear now there is more than a million pamphlets ready to distribute about 10 days before the election. Why don't they put them out now if the want to educate the people? They know a trick worth two of that. They don't want to give the other fellow a chance to answer, but to get in the insidious work on the unwary.

"And then the money will go. If I were mean enough to sell my vote I would take the money and vote as I liked afterwards. And yet they believe that there are people who sell their votes and honor the sale. I cannot understand that, but they do.

"They talk about a tariff for revenue, and buy made-in-Canada goods only. Wouldn't an excise tariff be a good thing for these fellows? I think so."

"Expert work, moderate prices. F. Steele, Optician, 210 Dundas street." f

OPPOSITION TO UNION IN SYNOD

Opponents Show Hands and Are Determined To Persist.

TRY TO SIDE-TRACK IT

Debate, However, May Be On Program To-Day.

HAMILTON, Oct. 9. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—First signs that opposition to church union in the General Synod of the Canadian Anglican Church is likely to be determined and persistent were in evidence at Saturday's session, when a clash occurred over the setting of the time of the union debate. As a result the debate is scheduled for to-morrow afternoon or evening, the time it will secure being dependent on the extent of the discussion on the report of the general board of religious eduation. Under a special canon the latter has precedence.

Saturday's clash arose over a question from Rev. Dr. R. J. Renison, of Hamilton, as to the time at which the union debate was to commence. One section of the synod was then pressing for the setting aside of Wednesday evening for a special missionary session. Dr. Renison pointed out that as the religious education council had the floor on Monday and the Social Service Council on Tuesday, there was danger that the union debate would not be reached until late in the week, when many of the delegates would have returned to their homes.

URGES IMPORTANCE

"The union question is too important to be sandwiched in between consideration of routine reports," he declared.

At that Dean Llwyd, the prolocutor, remarked that the union debate had been set for Monday. Dr. Renison persisted that the whole question of when the debate should take place should be reopened. His efforts met with opposition from many parts of the house and finally E. J. Fream, of Calgary, rising to a point of order, declared that the Hamilton clergyman was out of order, as the synod had decided on Monday as the day for the consideration of the bishop's pronouncement. His contention was upheld by the chair. Twice later Dr. Renison attempted to voice his contention.

"The eyes of the whole Christian world in Canada are looking towards this synod," he declared, "hoping that from us will come some definite and tangible pronouncement on church union."

In the face of the chair ruling his efforts to make his point proved futile, he and others who supported him finlly bowing to the inevitable.

That section of the synod for which he speaks fears that the debate will not commence till late to-morrow with the result that no division will be reached and discussion would have to be postponed till Wednesday, when they claimed, the whole subject would be cold.

BOY SCOUTS' WORK

Prof. Robertson, of Ottawa, chief commissioner of the Boy Scouts for Canada, addressed the lower house of the Anglican General Synod at the morning session. In a forceful address the chief commissioner outlined the scout movement in Canada and emphasized the splendid work that is being accomplished. This afternoon the scouts held a big rally in a local theater, when Canon Scott, of Quebec, the famous Canadian padre, addressed them.

A message received from the house of bishops concurred in the report of the committee on "the state of the church."

Justice Hodgins withdrew his motion presented on Friday regarding the calling of a meeting of laymen during the synod to consider the report of the committee on the resolution from the laymen's missionary movement and other matters of like importance. The reason for withdrawing his motion was because the points it dealt with were fully considered during the discussion yesterday.

Venerable Archdeacon Ingles also withdrew his motion concerning the obligation of the board of management of the M. S. C. C. to give an annual grant of not less than $500 to the Bishop of British Honduras for his work in that diocese.

On Saturday afternoon the delegates to the synod were taken for a motor drive around the city and district, over 50 automobiles being volunteered for the occasion.

Many of the clerical delegates occupied local pulpits to-day. No reference was made by any of them to church union, although prominent leaders on both sides of the question were among those who spoke.

THREE OPPONENTS FOR HON. MR. BENNETT LIKELY

CALGARY, Oct. 8.—William Irvine will contest East Calgary for the Labor party and the United Farmers of Alberta will select a candidate to contest West Calgary, it was decided yesterday.

Efforts of the Farmers and Progressive Liberals to effect a fusion in West Calgary have so far proved abortive, and it is expected Hon. R. B. Bennett, minister of justice, will be opposed in West Calgary by the Farmers, Progressive Liberals and Labor.

H. W. Wood, president of the U. F. A., has declined the Progressive nomination in West Calgary, remarking that if he had any qualifications for service it was in the capacity in which he was now serving.

BITTER ATTACK ON DRURY IN LIBERAL PROPAGANDA

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—Official Liberalism in Ontario has evidently decided on a policy of war to the knife so far as the U. F. O. is concerned. The party printing press is starting its propaganda work in the Province, beginning with a slashing attack upon Premier Drury by reprinting the speech made by W. E. N. Sinclair, M.P.P., for South Ontario, in the Legislature in February last. The phamplet uses heavy type on its front page to describe this criticism as a "powerful arraignment of the members of the Drury Government for their bitter failure to control expenditures and curb extravagances in handling the business of the Province" and for "their absolute violation of pre-election promises."

BOY, STRUCK BY TRUCK, DIES IN MOTHER'S ARMS

TORONTO, Oct. 8. — Struck by a motor truck near his home, Jack Benson, aged 4, of 183 Glenholme road, in Earlscourt, died 20 minutes later in the arms of his mother. William Cairn, 121 Laughton avenue, the driver of the truck, was not detained, following an investigation by County Constable W. Brimcombe. The little boy, it is stated, ran out from behind a standing ice wagon immediately into the path of the truck.

Get your organs of digestion, assimilation and elimination working in harmony and watch your trouble disappear. NR does it or money back.

One Day's Test Proves NR Best

The stomach only partly digests the food we eat. The process is finished in the intestines where the food is mixed with bile from the liver.

It must be plain to any sensible person who realizes this, that the stomach, liver and bowels must work in harmony if digestive troubles are to be avoided or overcome.

This fact also explains why sufferers from indigestion, also suffer more or less from headaches, biliousness and constipation.

If you are one of the many unfortunate persons who cannot eat without suffering afterward, if you are constipated, have bilious spells, headaches, coated tongue, bad breath, variable appetite, are nervous, losing energy and feel your health slipping away, take this advice and get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) right today and start taking it.

Give it a trial for a week or two and just see how much better you feel. See how quickly your sluggish bowels will become as regular as clock work, how your coated tongue clears up and your good, old-time appetite returns. See how splendidly your food will digest and how your energy, "pep" and "ginger" revive.

Just try it.

You take no risk whatever for Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is only 25c a box, enough to last twenty-five days, and it must help and benefit you to your entire satisfaction, or money returned.

Five million boxes are used every year,—one million NR Tablets are taken by ailing people every day—that's the best proof of its merits. INDIA DEMANDING SELF GOVERNMENT

Cause of Industrial Unrest In That Country.

COMPLETE HOME RULE

Says H. G. Beall, Y. M. C. A. Worker In Hyderabad.

That the natives of India will never be satisfied until they are granted complete home rule by the British Government, is the opinion expressed to The Free Press to-day by H. G. Beall, who is home on a furlough after five and a half years' work with the Y. M. C. A. in Hyderabad, India. Political dreamers of the country have every intention of securing self-government for India such as has been granted to Canada, he points out.

"There is considerable industrial unrest in India to-day due to the desire of the natives to obtain a more complete measure of home rule," said Mr. Beall. "It was begun by the action of the British Government in passing a bill which granted a certain degree of self-government. The radicals seized upon it and are now challenging their fellows to demand a still greater share in the government of their own people.

FOLLY TO YIELD.

"The fact of the matter is that India has been given as much home rule as it is capable of handling at the present time and it would be folly if the British should ever accede to the wishes of the radical party by extending the original bill which they passed. Not till they realize the responsibility which goes with self-government will the natives be granted fuller powers."

Hyderabad, the state in which Mr. Beall has been active as physical instructor and promoter, contains 1,000,000 people and is one of the most important Mohammedan states in the country. Its ruler, called the Nizan, is second as a native ruler only to the Sultan of Turkey. Famine has not affected the country this year, as the monsoon winds have been favorable and prevented the famines which have been noticed in other years.

In Hyderabad City, where Mr. Beall was located, most of the time there is a population of 400,000 and, like other cities, is under British administration. Mr. Beall has been active in promoting playgrounds, physical education, athletic meets and similar activities among the people, and has the entree into a thousand schools and colleges of the state. The Y. M. C. A. is doing an excellent work through its 260 branches in the country, he states.

COUNTERPETITIONS BEING CIRCULATED

Ask Provincial Government Not To Give Share of Corporation Taxes to Separate Schools.

Counterpetitions are being circulated quietly in London in which the Provincial Government is asked not to grant a share of taxes levied on corporations to separate school boards. It is understood that several such petitions are now being signed and that similar efforts are being made all over Ontario.

The separate school supporters maintained that a portion of taxes levied on corporations for educational purposes should be diverted, in just proportion, to the maintenance of separate schools. They point out that such corporations have many separate school supporters on their payrolls, and that they do business with separate school supporters.

They urge that Ontario follow Quebec's example in this matter. For while Quebec is overwhelmingly Roman Catholic, yet Quebec Protestant schools, which are "separate" there, are given a share of all taxes.

BOYS ROB STORE. — Wakeling's grocery store, Pottersburg, was entered by juvenile thieves on Saturday night or Sunday and $11 taken from the safe which had been left unlocked. The police were notified at once and this morning one lad was arrested on suspicion of having been connected with the crime. The lads obtained entrance to the store through a rear door and apparently went direct to the safe. Finding it unlocked, they removed $11 from a cash box there and made their exit again without disturbing any of the store's stock.

TAKE PROTEST TO NO. 2 COMMITTEE

Piccadilly Street Residents Not Satisfied With Pavement.

WANT BRAND NEW SURFACE

Engineer Says Traffic Will Remedy Defects.

Residents on Piccadilly street are planning to come before No. 2 committee on Tuesday night to demand that some action be taken to make the paving on that street between Wellington and Waterloo streets satisfactory. It is claimed that the whole block should be resurfaced to make a good job. Several of the aldermen on this committee, while they do not wish to take sides against the city engineer, state that the surface is not in good condition now. It is expected that the whole question will be thoroughly threshed out to-morrow night.

City Engineer Brazier declares that this pavement is "perfectly good." But the ratepayers, who will bear the expense, assert that it is anything but good and they are demanding that something be done to remedy it.

Ald. Drake, a member of No. 2 committee, "raised cain," to use his own expression, about the pavement the other day when an official inspection trip was made over it. He never saw a surface put down as this one has been completed. The trouble as he sees it is that the work was done when the weather was too cold, and the surface could not be properly rolled together.

WARM WEATHER

According to Ald. Drake, the engineer asserts this will be remedied by the traffic over the street. But the alderman thinks that might be true if the weather were warm, but the traffic cannot improve the condition of the surface in the cold weather.

Ald. Drake says that the work could not have been completed during the cold weather.

"When it was seen that the surface material would not roll together properly, work should have been stopped," he said. "There was no use in going ahead with the job under those conditions. But the engineer says the mixture is in reality a better one than is ordinarily use, and this is another reason the surface could not be rolled out smooth now. If the weather had been warm the result would have been different."

However, the ratepayers interested declare they will fight the question through to the Council. It is probable that No. 2 committee to-morrow night will recommend that all payments of taxes for this pavement be deferred for one year to allow time for traffic to smooth out the roadbed, if this is possible.

HARVEST FESTIVAL AT ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH

Rev. H. B. Ashby Exchanges Pulpit With Rev. A. S. H. Cree.

Splendid services marked yesterday's celebration of the harvest festival at St. Matthew's and the Church of the Redeeming with October's splendid coloring, music of the highest devotional type and sermons of inspirational value made the day memorable. Thank offerings by the parishioners in both churches far exceeded expectations and set a new high record for both.

Rev. H. B. Ashby, rector of St. Matthew's, filled the pulpit at the Church of the Redeemer, morning and evening; Rev. A. S. H. Cree, rector of the Church of the Redeemer, preached at both of St. Matthew's services.

St. Matthew's choir rendered a beautiful morning program, during which Miss Stella Draper sang "Ye That Dwell in the Land" and in the evening William Sewell sang "O Clap Your Hands."

Rev. Mr. Cree preached in the morning from the opening words of the parable of the sower: "Behold a sower went forth to sow." In the evening he chose Joshua's parting injunction to Israel: "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve."

St. Matthew's had a plendid special service for children in the afternoon.

At the Church of the Redeemer, Rev. Mr. Ashby preached on subjects appropriate to the harvest festival motive, and the joint choirs of St. Luke's and the Church of the Redeemer rendered an inspiring service of praise. Wesley Matthews sang in the morning, while Gordon Knapp sang in the evening.

PREMIER REPLIES

TRURO, N.S., Oct. 8.—In the closing speech of his Nova Scotia tour here tonight Premier Meighen denied charges of extravagance made by Liberal speakers and defended expenditures on the Canadian Government merchant marine and militia and defense and emphasized the tremendous importance of continuing the protective policy in Canada. He characterized Mr. King's declaration for a revenue tariff as meaningless.

Mr. Meighen reiterated his declaration that Canada pays the smallest per capita tax for defense of any country in the world. The militia expenditures of the country had been cut almost to the point of peril, for it was necessary to maintain a certain force.

a certain force. Canada could not take the humiliating position of having no defense at all.

ASKS HOW

The issue now spoken from the heights of Charlottetown is economy and retrenchment, said Mr. Meighen. How, he asked, would the Liberals reduce expenditures? Would they abandon the pension system or the steps to re-establish Canada's soldiers, or the efforts to settle soldiers on the land? He thought not. The Liberals were much worried over the railway situation, and well they might be, for Canada's railway muddle was a legacy from the Liberal party. They certainly left something on the doorstep of this Government to handle, said Mr. Meighen. Did the leader of the Opposition think anyone was going to take the load off the back of this country and pay the railway deficits?

TO RUN IN THREE RIVERS

THREE RIVERS, Que., Oct. 8.—Interviewed by the Canadian Press here yesterday, Hon. L. P. Normand, president of the council, denied a rumor that he intended to run for election in Maskinonge County. "I am the Government candidate in Three Rivers-St. Maurice division," he said.

LABORITE IN EAST YORK.

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—Harry Kerwin, a member of the machinists' union and a Socialist, was the choice of the Labor party on Saturday to contest the federal riding of East York.

LINCOLN I. L. P. NOMINATES

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 9.—Major E. J. Lovelace, mayor of St. Catharines, was chosen nominee of the Independent Labor party for Lincoln at a convention held yesterday.

N. F. MACLEAN NOMINATED.

TORONTO, Oct. 8.—N. F. Maclean, oldest continuous member of the House of Commons, was to-day again nominated by the National Liberal and Conservative party of South York. There were over three hundred delegates in attendance.

PLANS CAMPAIGN IN N. B.

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I., Oct. 9.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, spent Saturday evening and Sunday here and will address a series of meetings at the western end of the island during the next few days.

On Saturday evening a reception in honor of the Liberal leader was held in the Odd Fellows' Hall, under the auspices of the Prince County Women's Liberal Association, where Mr. King made a brief address. He thanked the electors of Prince County for their invitation to him again to become their candidate and for their past support.

On Monday evening, with A. R. McMaster, Brome, Que., and William Duff, Lunenburg, N. S., Mr. King will address a meeting at Kensington. Tuesday will be devoted to meetings at O'Leary, Tignish and Alberton, and on Wednesday Hon. Mr. King will speak at Summerside.

On Thursday morning the Liberal leader will leave Prince Edward Island and that evening will address a meeting at Moncton. He will go to Sussex the following day.

Saturday and Sunday will be spent at St. John, and in the following week the Liberal leader will address meetings at St. Stephen on Monday and Campbellton on Tuesday, returning to Ottawa the following day.

MURDOCK SEEKS A NOMINATION

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—James Murdock, international vice-president of the Order of Railway Trainmen, and for some time acting president, will allow his name to go before the South Toronto Liberal convention.

Mr. Murdock, who has official headquarters in Cleveland, but whose home is in Toronto, has been granted two months' leave of absence by his organization and will throw himself actively into the coming general election campaign in Canada.

Mr. Murdock reached Toronto Saturday. He will shortly confer with Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader.

THREE-CORNER FIGHT WELCOME

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 9.—(By Staff Reporter).—According to officials and those in close touch with the Independent Labor party, and the United Farmers, in West Elgin, a three-cornered fight in that riding is welcomed by the joint forces. Never before was a party more confident of victory than the Labor and Farmer organization. One official declared the other day that he had not the slightest doubt as to the outcome, even if there are three candidates in the field, in fact he anticipates a far easier victory for the U.F.O.-I.L.P., with three candidates than with only two, as was the case in the provincial election. The presence of three candidates in West Elgin is, on the other hand, taken by the National Liberal-Conservative forces as a sure indication of victory. They point out that in 1920 in the provincial contest there were only two candidates, and the Liberal supporters had no option but to vote for the U.F.O. man, who was in reality a former member of the Reform party. To-day, however, the Liberals have an old candidate in the field, who is also a member of the United Farmers. The The National Liberal and Conservatives purpose naming one of the best candidates available, and the I.L.P. also purpose naming a candidate, who will be capable of carrying the city.

TAKE NO CHANCES.

Then again, those who have been in close touch with the political situation in West Elgin for many years, state that while there are many who in 1920 were willing to vote for a change of government, more as an experiment than anything else, would not take the same chance when the entire Dominion of Canada is under consideration. These same supporters, who voted U.F.O. in 1920, would, it is stated, not think of casting their vote that way to-day, for they have been through a year or two with a U.F.O. Government at Toronto.

At all events the campaign is certainly warming up in West Elgin, and the approaching election is one of the chief topics of conversation throughout the riding.

East Elgin is also warming up to the contest, and a Liberal convention is to be held next week, when a candidate will be named to look after the Liberal interests.

The Conservative party will hold an open convention at Dutton on Wednesday, and by the end of the week the two ridings will be ready for a campaign, for on Saturday night the Independent Labor party will name a standard bearer, who, according to a promise from the U.F.O., will also be given the support of the Farmers.

It is somewhat difficult at the present time to ascertain just who is likely to get the I.L.P. convention next Friday night, but it is stated that it will go either to Albert Roberts or ex-Ald. A. E. Hookway.

NORTH OXFORD LIBS. DIVIDED

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 8.—The executive of the North Oxford Liberal Association met this afternoon and decided to hold a mass meeting on Saturday afternoon next, at which meeting a candidate will be chosen to represent the Liberals in the coming federal election.

The meeting was a closed one, but it is understood that the members present expressed themselves freely and a number were in favor of not having a candidate, leaving the issue between Mr. Nesbitt, Government candidate, and Mr. Lillico, U. F. O. nominee.

Some went even further and made it plain that they intended to support Mr. E. W. Nesbitt, the nominee of the National Liberal and Conservative Association.

RAYMOND IS LIBERALS' CHOICE

BRANTFORD, Oct. 9.—W. G. Raymond, Brantford postmaster, was the choice of the Liberal convention for the riding of Brantford in the federal arena on Saturday afternoon, by a two-to-one choice over Ross MacDonald, young barrister of this city. There were many other nominations, mostly complimentary, but the fight was between these two. On MacDonald's motion the nomination was afterwards made unanimous.

Following this the candidate declared that he would not be tied to any man's chariot wheels, but would go to Ottawa prepared to carry out Liberal principles and favoring the Laurier-Fielding tariff policy of a tariff for revenue.

In the evening the newly chosen candidate and F. F. Pardee, West Lambton, spoke at a public meeting, Mr. Pardee declaring that the Liberal tariff policy was not one of free trade, in which no clear-minded man could agree, but the old policy of tariff for revenue. He denounced the Meighen Government for extravagance, citing particularly the railway problem and the merchant marine, saying that he did not disapprove the inception of the latter, but of the continuance of the policy when ships were tied up to British docks in hundreds without cargoes.

CONSIDERING UNION OF COUNTY OFFICES

Difficulties In Way of Amalgamating Work of Sheriff, Constable and Governor.

The matter of the amalgamation of the offices of sheriff, high constable and governor is still rather in the air, although it is definitely stated that Hon. W. E. Raney has the matter seriously under consideration as regards Middlesex and one other county.

As far as Middlesex is concerned there is the difficulty of the importance of the work in this county as compared with other counties. With the possible exception of York County it is said that there is more work in the office of the sheriff here than in any other office in the province. It is said that the work is heavier here even than in Hamilton, as Middlesex is a much larger county than Wentworth.

It is said that whatever the decision of the attorney-general there will still be a governor appointed for the county jail. The only difference would be that the sheriff would have complete control over the jail and would be responsible for its entire management.

Again, in the matter of the high constable, it seems likely that this position would also continue, although possibly under a different name. The County Council appears to be favorable to the appointment of a man who would be in charge of the county police. The office of high constable is an appointment in the hands of the County Council and it is likely that the matter will receive the consideration of that body when it meets again in December.

ONE DRINK OF HOOTCH AND CHILDREN VANISH

There is at least one citizen of London who swears that he will partake of no more spirits stronger than local option, especially when on a visit to another city.

Last week, while on a visit to a relative in Montreal, he decided to see the sights and at the same time avail himself of the opportunity of getting something stronger than two per cent.

He was entrusted with the responsibility of four young relatives when on a sightseeing tour of the city, but decided they would be safe to stand on the corner while he tasted something stronger than near-beer. When he returned to get his young charges they were missing.

After walking around for quite a long while, searching either for the children or a place to rest, it is not known which, he was picked up by the kind arm of the law.

When he arrived at the station he was delightfully surprised to find his little relatives holding an interesting conversation with the chief. Explanations were immediately given and everything was straightened out, but he stated that in future he would leave the children or the stronger than two per cent. out of his program, as they didn't mix very well together.

FUNERAL OF BLOSSOM ROBERTSON.—The funeral of Blossom Robertson, aged four and one-half years, was held from the family residence, 420 Grosvenor street, on Wednesday afternoon and was largely attended. Services were conducted by Rev. J. N. Norton, assisted by Rev. T. S. Roy. The Sunset male quartet rendered beautiful selections both at the house and the grave. Members of the Taxis Boys' Club acted as pallbearers.

VOTING WILL NOT BE THE LAST WORD

Only Assembly of Parliament Will Show Who Is In Power.

ALLIANCES IN PROSPECT

Government As Well As Opposition May Be In the Business.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 10.—(Special to The Free Press).—The result of the coming federal election may be made officially effective only when Parliament assembles. Assuming that after the election no party has a majority over all and even if its supporters were the smallest group, the Government's intention would be to carry on, call Parliament and let that body decide the question of confidence or no confidence. If the Government secures the largest following it would go ahead as a matter of course without assuming that any alliance among its opponents would be effected; but there is no hesitation here expressing the view that, although it might be in a minority, there will be no precipitate action by the Government or no resigning until a parliamentary vote determines the question of confidence. Meanwhile many things might happen.

THE GROUP SYSTEM.

This situation is one of the inevitable results of the group system. In Ontario and Manitoba, it is pointed out, Governments which do not command a majority of the House are going ahead and from intimations in high sources here to-day the intention is to follow these precedents, at least until Parliament voices its view to the contrary. If the scales are pretty well balanced instead of the improbable event of any party having an absolute majority, there will be negotiations for alliances and the Government people figure out that, under such conditions, they as well as their opponents, can go into the alliance business. It is the first Dominion general election where such a condition was ever a possibility, not to say a prospect.

The capital has quieted down now that the issue has been passed on to the country. Every official formality has been complied with here and all that remains is the campaigning outside and the voting, but, as indicated, Parliament may be the last electoral resort.

SUIT FOR COMMISSSION DISMISSED WITH COSTS

The action brought by Watson McCluskey against the Vulcan Company, Limited, for $750, which he claimed as commission for the sale of capital stock in the company, was dismissed with costs by Judge Talbot Macbeth this morning. The evidence was taken at the nonjury sitting of the county court at the courthouse on Tuesday last.

His honor decided that the plaintiff had no claim against the company, but in his judgment pointed out that he would make a notation that his finding would not be a bar to action against any other parties.

The plaintiff claimed commission of $750 for the sale of $5,000 of stock in the defendant company to Boug and Anderson. The defendants claimed that the sale was not made on their behalf.

FLOOD AND FIRE HITS PETROGRAD

American Relief Heads Wire Moscow for Supplies

FLOOD DUE TO WINDS

Bridges and Docks Washed Out; Shipping Hindered

MOSCOW, Oct. 8.—(Associated Press Cable)—A dispatch from Petrograd on Saturday says that city is suffering from a flood, caused by winds which have driven the water up the Neva River into canals, washing out bridges, flooding cellars and docks and hindering shipping.

While Red army workmen are busy trying to save property threatened by the flood, fire destroyed the central telephone station, stoping all telephone service in the city. An investigation gave rise to the suspicion that the fire was of incendiary origin, the dispatch added.

The American relief administration headquarters there wired to the Moscow headquarters asking for more supplies so as not to interrupt the feeding of children, and in order to maintain communication between the kitchens and the warehouses.

SHELBURNE, Ont., Oct. 8.—R. K. Woods, of Corbetton, was nominated as the Progressive candidate in the federal riding of Dufferin, at a U. F. O. convention held here to-day.

TWO YEARS FOR THEFT OF AUTO

Sentences Pile Up On William Graham.

FRAUD TO OBTAIN GOODS

Already Sentenced To Five-Year Term.

William Graham, charged with the theft of an automobile which he obtained from the Universal Motor Sales on a worthless check, pleaded guilty before Judge Macbeth this morning and was sentenced to two years in Kingston penitentiary. The sentence will run concurrently with five years to which Graham has already been sentenced on charges of obtaining money and goods under false pretenses.

The prisoner was found guilty by Deputy Magistrate Bartlett on Friday last on four charges of fraud. He was sentenced to three years on the first charge and two years on each of the other three charges, two of the two-year sentences to run concurrently.

It was charged that Graham stole the car from the Universal Motor Sales on September 17, when he obtained possession of the vehicle on a worthless check issued on the Molsons Bank here. The car was valued at $570. The crown attorney did not press for any additional term.

You know of men well up in years who are still "drudging along". They cannot stop if they would, but must go on to the end of their days working for a living. You can avoid that.

Why Not Pension Yourself?

Why not "take stock" of your present financial position—to size up your personal affairs and decide on a plan for the future?

Our New Pension Plan

Farmers Back the Tariff

In contrast to the widely diverse pronouncements of speakers at meetings of the Agrarian party, with respect to the tariff issue, is the straightforward stand of farmers supporting the policy of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen. At convention after convention, within the past week or so, farmers have spontaneously given emphatic expression to their belief in a policy of moderate protection for Canada, and stated clearly their reasons for that faith.

At the South Huron convention which renominated Mr. Merner, John Sowerby, of Goderich, said: "The tariff concerns the prosperity of us all and is the main factor by which the prosperity of Canada has been advanced since 1878." Ex-Warden W. R. Elliott, of Stephen Township, said: "We are lying beside a country that has built itself up by protection. Every country in the world has raised its tariffs since the war. It was farmers of the United States who were responsible for the Fordney tariff, and I think before this election is over the farmers of this country will be opposing free trade." Reeve N. W. Trewartha, of Goderich Township, said: "If we had free trade, the largest source of revenue of our farmers' wives—the money they receive for eggs and butter—would be cut off, to a large extent."

At the North Huron convention, John Joynt, M. P. P., who has several times voted with the Drury Government, said: "I speak as a farmer, as well as a business man, and I believe in protection." George Spotton, federal nominee, remarked on the presence of several U. F. O. club president, and pointed out that "a man may be U. F. O. and still vote for Sir John A. Macdonald's historic policy that has given the home market to the farmer."

To mention only one more instance, among many, Alfred E. Kerr and John Orr, Dumfries farmers, introduced at the South Waterloo convention a resolution appreciative of the home market provided by the fine industrial centers of Waterloo County, and pledging full support to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's tariff policy. A. R. G. Smith, farmer, near New Hamburg, who seconded the nomination of F. S. Scott, declared: "I never was more convinced than during the past few years of the importance of a protective tariff for the farmers of the Province of Ontario and the Dominion of Canada, and I am going to support the policy which I believe will be the protective policy for the whole Dominion."

A slogan of U. F. O. speakers is: "Think for yourselves." Evidently the lessons of Canadian history are not lost upon thinking farmers.

Cut Out Carelessness

There is a traitor abroad in the land. His name is Carelessness. According to the estimates of those who deal in numbers—numbers of accidents, numbers of fires and so forth—Carelessness is more powerful as a destructive force than "the combined armies of the world"—Carelessness is more deadly than bullets, has wrecked more homes than have the mightiest siege guns.

A writer on Carelessness, in The Grand Rapids News, calls it the great enemy of the people of the North American continent. Then, personifying the enemy, he makes him say:

I steal in the United States alone over $300,000,000 each year.

I spare no one, and find my victims among the rich and poor alike, the young and old, the strong and the weak; widows and orphans know me.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage earners in a year.

I lurk in unseen places, and do most of my work silently. You are warned against me, but you heed not.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the street, in the factory, at railroad crossings, and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, and yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush and maim; I give nothing, but take all.

I am your worst enemy.

I AM CARELESSNESS.

What is true of the United States is true of Canada. We, too, are a careless people. If a foreign army should land upon our shores, it could scarcely do us all the harm we do ourselves, by reason of the millions of little unconscious acts of carelessness of which we are certainly guilty.

In normal times the fire waste in five of the principal countries of Europe averaged 33 cents per capita. In Ontario in one year the waste from fire averages $6 per capita, over eighteen times as large as the per capita waste of pre-war Europe. This means that in Ontario every day in the year we cast to the flames and burn to ashes more than $40 worth of property, and heaven knows how many lives.

Most fires are the result of carelessness, carelessness in smoking, the careless use of matches, the careless handling of gasoline and other highly inflammable fuels, carelessly-built bonfires, attics and cellars and yards carelessly crowded with light and rubbishy materials, dirty chimneys, the deadly oil lamp, faulty electric wiring, connections and fixtures, the careless use of the electric iron, current left on, iron overheated; result, a sudden blaze with loss of property and it may be of fortune

And who shall tell of the carelessness that lies at the bottom of the destruction of our forests by fire; the millions and millions of dollars lost every year, when miles and miles of magnificent timber, which might have been used for constructive and industrial purposes, simply goes up in flames; the safety of nature's great gift dependent upon the intelligence of an engine driver, the sobriety, it may be, of a tramp.

October 9 has been adopted by general consent as Fire Prevention Day throughout North America.

It was on October 9, 1871, that Mrs. O'Leary's cow kicked over a lamp and started Chicago's great conflagration, which consumed 18,000 houses extending over an area of more than 2,000 acres. Two hundred persons perished and nearly 100,000 were rendered homeless. The property burned was estimated at $200,000,000.

October 9 heralds in Fire Prevention Week, October 9 to 15, inclusive. An opportunity is thus afforded everyone to get a whack in at the common enemy, Carelessness.

Join the clean-up campaign. Help awaken in the public mind a universal watchfulness against thoughtless habits that are causing the impoverishment of our country, through the enormous waste caused by preventable fires.

Ontario could be from twelve to fourteen million dollars richer this coming year than any other year, if she would. All Ontario really has to do is to: Cut out Carelessness. She would then cut out the major amount of our waste by fire

The Challenge of Cheap Labor

On the other side of the Tariff Wall sits China with her population of over four hundred millions, the major number of whom are engaged in industrial and agricultural pursuits and in the development of raw materials.

Apropos of raw materials, it will be remembered that in August past Lennox Simpson, for years financial adviser to the President of the Chinese Republic, laid before the Canadian Natural Export Club, in Montreal, certain very authoritative information on China.

In Mr. Simpson's opinion, and it will not be gainsaid that he has had exceptional opportunity to observe industrial and trade conditions in the Orient, such is the capacity of the Chinese to produce cheap raw material in large volume that the time is not far distant when Canada's claim to producing natural resources for the world may be seriously challenged.

Industrially, on the other hand, China may be said to be developing by leaps and bounds. For example, not only has China now become the third largest cotton-growing country in the world, but her cotton industry has increased in the past 30 years from two cotton mills in the whole of China, with 65,000 spindles, to 64 mills in 1921, with a total of 1,747,312 spindles.

According to an article reported in these columns from the current bulletin of the trade and commerce department, profits in one Chinese cotton mill—the Ho Feng—in 1920 ran more than $1,000,000 on a paid up capital of $900,000.

Cheap labor! Cheap labor alone makes such profiteering possible. Of cheap labor, China has an abundance. Cheap labor makes China a disastrous competitor of nations with a standard of living like that which obtains in Canada.

Foremen and skilled laborers, maximum rate 30 cents a day. Skilled women and ordinary men, 25 cents. Boys and girls, 15 cents. Children, boys, 10 cents; girls, 5 cents. That is the scale for cotton spinners in China.

It may be argued that the cotton industry is a very minor industry in this country; that in all, in 1920, Canada only exported cotton goods to the value of $3,262,810, while her export of wheat alone amounted to $185,044,806. Yes, but cotton isn't the only industry rapidly developing under new manufacturing conditions in China. Besides, even wheat would take a tumble were wheat seeded and harvested according to the Chinese idea of labor.

There is a growing suspicion that an underselling competitor is about as much of a menace as an overbearing one. And that there are just three hundred and ninety-one million more Chinese than there are Canadians, is no consolation, either.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Remember 1911.

The road to Dublin needs a shock absorbing pavement.

Drawing fire is often a prelude to drawing fire.

One thing they can never say about George: little he is, but he's no tab-Lloyd.

Make them walk their "no protection" plank next December—the water will be fine then.

Until the United States becomes the Land of the Brave and the Free (Trade) Canada had better stick to Protection.

Looking for what's wrong with the business of the country with a policy of Free Trade, is like looking for a leak with a match.

The tariff question seems to be the skeleton in the closet of the Liberal party. Well, they put skeletons on the free list in the U. S. A.

The Globe believes not more than 10 per cent. of the electors will cast their ballot for free trade. The Globe had better believe it.

"What's the use of five-cent bread if you have only four cents to buy it with?" is the way one woman elector tackles the question.

Twist the Lyon's tale as they will we have still nothing but the "tariff for revenue" diatribes of young Wm. Lyon Mackenzie King.

The Boston Transcript continues to gibe at "England's little debt to America." With 14, 15, 16 and part of 17 in the offing, we should have thought debt-honors were even.

Mr. King makes great political pother about putting commodities on the free list which already, according to Mr. Meighen, have been there for the past 20 years.

Canada, the premier Dominion in the British Empire, and the "back door" of the United States. Our Free Trade friends are laying up the old patriotic drubbing for themselves.

The war-time coalition of Liberals and Conservatives is still on. This time, however, for a war not against Germans, but against fanatics and extremists who would ruin the economic prosperity and the social stability of our own Canada.

The Third Column

FAME.

Fame never laureled his manly brow,
But these are the things he did:—
Toiled by day in his quiet way
Keeping his virtues hid;
Taught his children the path to go
Without ever striking an angry blow;
Never did much to go boasting of,
But he was a man that his friends could love.

Many a hungry man has sat
Down to his bread and meat,
And a pleasant word from his lips was heard
Making the dinner sweet;
And a wife all smiles at the door would stay,
Proud of him in a woman's way;
For happiness was her own to claim
Although his worth wasn't known to fame.

Talked of the old Red, White and Blue
At night to his children small;
Told them there of the world's despair
If ever our flag should fall—
And two of his boys in Flanders lie
Who learned from his lips the way to die—
Yet on he went in his quiet way
Doing his best from day to day.

Fame never laureled his family brow,
But now that his soul has fled,
And his lips are dumb, many go and come
Remembering words he said;
And I think as much to the world he gave
As the skilful hand and the medaled brave;
So what shall matter the fame he missed
Whose good deeds amount to so large a list?

THE MASTER.

He makes no visible motions. He says nothing. No brass buttoned lackeys, with bowing manners, attend him. He lives in a house of dignity, rather than one of display.

In hidden simplicity does he work.

But he has servants—thousands of them! They tumble over each other to serve him at his call. For he is that sort of master to whom immediate obeisance is made.

None of the earth have ever been beneath him.

To him did Alexander go. To him did Napoleon owe all that he achieved. To him Cromwell, Washington, Lincoln Carlyle, Emerson, Poe, Gladstone, Gambetta, Darwin paid daily tribute.

At his direction did Foch lead the millions of soldiers that brought allied victory in the late world war.

Confucius acknowledged him—and so did Jesus.

He is an eternal life running through the myriad years of time, space and events.

Your hands, your feet, your tongue, your heart, your stomach, your veins and arteries, your lungs and every intricate part of your marvelous organism has to do with him—the Master!

If you are down, he can pull you up. If you are mediocre, and yet have great heart, he is able to lead you into the path of greatness.

He is never idle. Even in the deadness of night does he dream.

But he must be respected. He must be appreciated. He must be given space wherein he may work and play.

And when you come to know him in all his power, in all the possibilities of his mysterious and magnificent make-up, he is able to be—and will be, indeed—your Master. And yet he will serve you throughout all your days.

His name? Your brain!

—George Matthew Adams

THE SAD OPTIMIST.

The most determined optimist has moments when he sighs, and mutters to himself, "I wist that life is not all pies;" and ere he's from his grouch uprist, he's shed brine from his eyes. The most resolved of Sunny Jims has moments of despair; he fails to dance on buoyant limbs, he seats himself to swear, and wearily he wipes his glims, and rends his beard and hair. I would not give a picayune for any mirthful gent who always hums a cheerful tune and never makes lament; he shows he is a locoes loon, devoid of sentiment. The optimist has gloomy days when he can't frame a song, for everywhere he turns his gaze he sees so much that's wrong, sees virtue halt on stony ways, while crime is going strong. But since he is an optimist, he fights the gloomy view; he taps himself upon the wrist, and says, "This will not do! There never was so dense a mist the sun could not break through! And all the evils I behold are doomed to pass away, and virtue, shod in shining gold, again will have her day; then why lament, and rant and scold, and flop my ears and bray?" The optimist sees good advance, though progress oft is slow; and if he is, by any chance immersed in tears and woe, he soon emerges from his trance, his teardrops cease to flow.

Digest of Canadian Editorial Opinion

The three leading subjects for the pens of Canadian editorial writers still continue to be Premier Meighen's new Cabinet, the attitude of the Liberal leader on the great questions of the day, and the Clark-Crerar correspondence. From these the following excerpts are taken:

The Sydney Post writes: "Cabinet reorganizations, on which Premier Meighen has been deliberating and working for upwards of two weeks, being finally completed, it will be conceded by all that the changes and additions that have been made have greatly strengthened the Government, both from an administrative and a campaigning point of view.

"It cannot be questioned that as a result of this reconstruction of the Cabinet the Government will enter the approaching election campaign immensely strengthened as a militant force. Dissolution may now be expected any day. With every province but Prince Edward Island strongly represented in the Cabinet, a Dominion-wide organization of the Government's supporters can be well and quickly perfected. When the campaign begins, as it will within the next few days, everything will be in readiness to enable the champions of the National Liberal and Conservative party to get off to a good start, with that momentum that only the swing of victory gives."

The Winnipeg Tribune, under the caption, "Delphic Obscurity," writes: "There is a statement in Mr. Mackenzie King's speech in which he opened his political campaign which is distinctly puzzling to the ordinary man."

This is the "letter" and "spirit" reference to the tariff, regarding which the paper remarks:

"Is not this just a little obscure? In regard to the platform of every political party there are two spirits, guardian angels, as it were, which hover over the mundane corporeal and material letters in which its declarations are embodied.

"There is the spirit of inspiration, giving birth to rotund, sweeping asservations of general principles and painting upon the bosom of darkness the divine ethereal image of the party's most sacred purpose of catching votes.

"Then there is the spirit of interpretation, which later guides the footsteps of power away from the pitfalls of overt action waiting in practical affairs on a too blind following of the spirit of inspiration.

"Mr. Mackenzie King should be prepared to say to which of the two spirits he refers in his somewhat cryptic remarks upon the policy of the Liberal party, and Mr. Meighen's conundrum propounded thereupon.

The Brantford Expositor says: "In order to understand the difficult position in which Liberals of the old school are placed at the present time one has only to consider the platform adopted by the Liberal convention at Ottawa in 1919 and the pledge of the Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King in regard to it.

"The most casual reader can see at a glance the embarrassing position in which both the platform and the declaration of the Liberal leader, Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, have placed the Liberals in Brantford. The policy as enunciated strikes a direct and disastrous blow at some of the great industries of this city, and it is not much wonder that it is viewed with alarm by supporters of the Fielding tariff, which was in existence from 1897 to 1911, and under which the country enjoyed such a remarkable degree of industrial and commercial prosperity."

The St. Catharines Standard: "During recent months there have been many evidences that Mr. Mackenzie King, leader of the Dominion Liberal party, has been very favorable and indeed has made many approaches towards a working agreement with the Agrarian forces under Mr. Crerar, by which the two parties would avoid conflict in the matter of nominating candidates in the coming general election. It has been equally evident that Mr. King has been unable to make much progress in this direction. The farmers have not taken kindly to his advances, having some suspicion, perhaps, that they would be made a second string to his bow.

"In the period which will elapse between now and nomination day there are many opportunities for alliances. It is quite probable that Mr. Crerar's followers will prefer to make alliances with the Labor party where possible, but it will be no easy matter to hitch up these forces in more than a moderate number of constituencies for the coming elections."

The Charlottetown Guardian has the following to say on Mr. King's decision to run in North York: "Mr. Mackenzie King, certain of defeat either in Prince or North York, has decided to take it in North York.

"Mr. King himself declares that so far as the tariff is concerned he is on an 'unchartered sea.'

"Where Mr. Mackenzie King and the remnant that followed him got into trouble was when they undertook to make a new chart, and now he and his followers have discovered that the chart is not workable. His Quebec friends on whom he depended have told him plainly that the Liberal tariff policy is not workable; they have declared unequivocally for the Meighen policy of adequate protection; hence the abandonment of the Liberal chart.

"The free trade, or near free trade, fallacy of the Liberal party, if adopted, would spell irremediable ruin to Canada and Mr. Mackenzie King has been told so by the friends upon whose support he has depended upon till now."

The Montreal Gazette writes: "The National Liberal convention of 1919, which put Mr. King in his present position, had strong inclinations to free trade.

"Mr. King has said nothing in his many speeches of the past two years to indicate that he dissented from this declaration of principles, and at Toronto on Tuesday he said nothing to suggest that his tariff ideas had been changed."

Having listened to the various speakers at the Lemieux banquet the paper opines:

"All this evidently impressed Mr. Mackenzie King. He accepted Mr. Lemieux's claim that the Laurier tariff was an ideal. He said the Liberal party did not stand for free trade in Canada to-day. The issue he held was between the old Tory party and the Liberal party, between high protection and a tariff for revenue. He did not think there was anyone in Canada who would take away from industry legitimate profits and thus damage the industrial life of the country by endorsing revolutionary free trade changes in the tariff. Evidently Mr. King was affected by what he had impressed upon him at Montreal—for the time being at least. He got away from the National Liberal convention platform;, but will he stay away? The situation as it now presents itself suggests a split in the Liberal party councils rather than anything else, and when a party is divided its action cannot be foretold. Those who think moderate protection is the proper tariff policy for Canada should vote with the party that says so in its acts as well as its platforms, and does not have to get away from itself and its past in the process."

The Guelph Herald: "The fact that the Liberal party is not going to be a factor in the approaching election campaign is becoming increasingly impressed upon close observers, and one of the signs of the times is the abandonment of Hon. Mackenzie King by many old-time Liberals and the refusal of others to have anything to do with the party as it is constituted and run at present. The Kingston Whig, for instance, the oldest Liberal paper in Ontario, has deserted Hon. Mackenzie King. The Whig announces that it will maintain an independent attitude in the coming Federal elections."

The Sailing of the Quest

On Saturday the little 200-ton Quest set out from the Port of London on her long adventure to the stormy oceans of the South. A voyage of 30,000 miles in so small a vessel, carrying a crew all told of less than 20, seems strangely out of keeping with these days of mammoth battleships and liners. It belongs rather, as far as the ship and its human freight are concerned, to the times when the mariner adventurers of Queen Elizabeth's England went out to discover, for England's glory, the unknown waters and lands of the world, carrying their lives in their hands. It differs from the conditions of those times in that the Quest will have on board, packed in the narrow compass of her hull, only 111 feet in length, with a beam of 23 feet and a depth of 12 feet, every appliance and article of equipment that modern science can devise for the successful prosecution of the researches that the expedition has in view. In other respects the enterprise of Sir Ernest Shackleton and his ship's complement of sailor-observers, all of them tried men, some of them companions of his former voyages, is hardly to be distinguished from one of those brave old Odysseys. They, too, will carry their lives in their hands and cheerfully face for many long months bitter discomforts and grave perils of storm and sea, in search of the unknown. The main object of their quest is the exploration of the Enderby Quadrant, the sector of the Antarctic area which lies between Africa and the pole. It takes its name from the London firm of Enderby Brothers, who, like Mr. John Rowett and Mr. Frederick Becker, the two men to whose support the present expedition is chiefly due, preferred the chances of geographical discovery to those of financial gain. The Quest and her crew, after touching at South Trinidad, Tristan da Cunha, and Gough Island, on the passage out between South America and Africa, will put in at Capetown to make the final preparations for the venture in the seas of the Enderby Quadrant, which they will traverse twice. Then, after cutting across their own tracks, close to Kerguelen Islands, they will turn to New Zealand, and thence head for Cape Horn, having thus completely circumnavigated the South Pole. The discoveries that may be made include, besides incursions into unknown fields of biology, geology, and other domains of science, the possible determination of the exact position of islands that can now only be spoken of as "lost," and must in any case considerably add to the sum of human knowledge of the earth's surface. The whole expedition, the story of which will be told from time to time, as opportunity allows, in our columns, is a modern rom a flight into the unknown, a da adventure of gallant men true to seafaring traditions of their race. Ernest Shackleton and his compan carry with them the best wishes o their fellow-countrymen. It is the d of other men of their type in other that have laid the foundations of empire.—London Times.

Annual Musical Festival To Be Established Here; Competition Week For District Next March

London Follows Lead of Western Cities in Becoming a Center for Yearly Competitive Event; Outstanding Musicians of Continent as Judges

London is shortly to become the musical center of Western Ontario through the establishment of an annual musical competitive festival, the first event of which is to take place, according to present plans, during the week of March 27, 1922.

Competitions in all classes of musical work, open to all classes of individuals and organizations, will be conducted in this city during that weke. Judgesof outstanding prestige on the continent will be secured, and public concerts will be given every evening for the final competitors, with probably a general closing recital of the winning organizations presenting the prize winners.

The scheme, launched by Mr. Harry Dickinson, organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's Cathedral, introduces the first event of this nature to be staged in this district, or, as far as is known, in the central part of the Dominion. Through the Western cities, however, and in most of the large American centers these annual musical competitions are accomplishing a splendid educative work along musical lines, and have also, it is understood, become a source of revenue for the carrying on and enlargement of the undertaking each year.

ASK C. OF. C. TO HELP.

The Chamber of Commerce will be approached at once with a request for the appointment of a honorary treasurer, and it is expected that a permanent secretary will be appointed when the scheme is fairly established on a yearly basis.

Mr. Dickinson is confident of the support of the C. of C. and of individual citizens, as well as of the musical organizations of the city in the undertaking, which involves no financial responsibility. Initial expenses will be met through the box receipts for the evening concerts during the festival week and through the entry fees of the contestants, which, however, will be fixed at a most reasonable rate, and financial prizes, as well as medals and trophies, will be given. Private enthusiasts are also ready to give financial assistance during these early stages if required.

The initial work of the scheme lies in the formation of musical centers throughout the distirct, and in many of the large towns these have already been successfully established, with active district representatives at work. The result will be a network of musical organizations over this part of the province, all preparing to participate in the annual competitive event. Trophies in some of the classes will probably include some larger prize, which may be held through three successive years, as will as medals, banners and financial prizes.

PREPARE TEST NUMBERS.

Following the system already introduced in similar undertakings, a program of test numbers will be announced by December 1, and competitors may enter at once, with a clear four months ahead for practice on the work chosen. The tests will admit orchestral, band and choral organizations, school classes, and piano, vocal and orchestral soloists.

Details for the musical festival have been practically completed by a number of local enthusiasts, who are satisfied of the ultimate success of their venture. Mr. Dickinson, who has most of the data in hand, and who has been in consultation with a number of the leading conductors and judges in Canada and the U. S. A., has himself had wide experience along these lines in England, where he was for several years accompanist at the Leeds festival, in Detroit and elsewhere. The intention is to keep the program of work, for the first year at least, within the reach of the present musical experience of the district, at the same time holding up a good standard of musical excellence.

The suggested program of competitors includes school classes, choirs, under and over 30 voices; military bands, orchestra, pianoforte, three grades; singing, three grades; male chorus, ladies' chorus, male quartet, ladies' quartet, organ, solo, and possibly elocution.

The girls of arts '22 entertained on Saturday afternoon at a most delightful tea at the university, in honor of all the girl students and very particularly of the freshettes. In the arts building the tea table was charmingly arranged with ruddy autumn leaves, glowing mauve-colored zinnias and yellow marigolds. Mrs. W. F. Tamblyn and Mrs. Dorland poured tea, the hostesses, very pretty in their college gowns, worn over dainty organdy frocks, assisting in looking after the guests, who numbered nearly 100. During the afternoon a bright little program was presented, including solos by Miss Christine Dawson and piano numbers by Miss Helen Carson and Miss Aileen Boomer. A happy feature of the party, of which Miss Dona Waller and Miss Mary Granger were the conveners, was the wearing of different colored badges by the girls of the various years, each badge being printed with the name of the wearer. The church was charmingly decorated with glowing masses of autumn leaves and many golden mums and marigolds. Mr. Frank Humphries presided at the organ, and during the signing of the register Miss Ruth Kingsmill sang very sweetly "A Psalm of Love." The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. A. R. Smith, of Detroit, wore a lovely frock of deep brown satin and brown lace, plush hat with uncurled ostrich feather, and carried an arm bouquet of bronze mums. Her bridesmaid, Miss Ina Clark, was smartly gowned in navy crepe with touches of gray, black velvet hat and carried yellow mums. Mr. J. Hilley, B.A., of Toronto, was the groomsman. DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

While penguin is a bird, but he looks more like a scarecrow. His wings are very small and are more like the flappers of a seal, these help to make him a good swimmer. But you would laugh to see him try to walk on those web feet, he lumbers over the ground like a boy with his feet tied in a sack. The penguin lives in the Far South, where great numbers of them will build a square village. Each family will have their little plot, the village has streets and lanes. If a member of another family gets off his lot there is a lot of scolding and pushing until the neighbor has him out of his yard.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Bethune knows nothing of the kind," he said sharply. "In fact, Bethune will go on further if you insist, and say that it's all a confounded pack of lies."

Norah turned her head sharply away to hide the little light of triumph in her eyes; for a moment the two men glared at one another, then Bethune laughed and gathered up his reins.

"Oh, well, we're not going to quarrel," he said lightly. "After all, it's a free country and every man is allowed his own opinions; but I tell you what, Ackroyd, I'll bet you five pounds to a penny that in the long run you'll come round to my way of thinking and admit that my estimate of Laxton was right and yours wrong. . . You won't? Well, well." He laughed good-naturedly, raised his hat, and the next moment was driving off down the sunny road.

Mr. Ackroyd was very red in the face; he spluttered a little when he spoke.

"Confounded ass! 'Pon my word, I'm getting tired of Bethune and his eternal tolerance. Wait till Laxton's let him in for a tidy little sum, he'll curse himself then for not having listened to me. I could tell him a few interesting truths about the young puppy, I——"

"Father, what do you really know about him?" Norah broke in exasperatedly. "It's all very fine to keep on hinting things, but you don't tell us anything definite."

There was a touch of temper in her voice; she could not understand why her father was so obstinate; surely Dr. Bethune must know best, considering that he and the black sheep were apparently on the best of terms.

Mr. Ackroyd grunted something unintelligible. "Never mind what I know."

His voice softened suddenly; he looked at her flushed face with apologetic eyes.

"There, there, we won't talk about him any more. I just want to go into the post office for a moment."

He left her at the gate of the little house that had been turned into a sort of general store with a tiny post office counter rigged up in one corner. Norah heard his rather loud voice bidding the postmaster good morning.

She walked slowly away a few steps in the sunshine. There was a little frown between her eyes. She was conscious again of the premonition that had come over her last night when she left the house after the little breeze with her father.

Something was going to happen.

She tried to laugh at herself and her fancies. It was absurd—ridiculous. She turned round and went slowly back to the post office.

As she reached it George Laxton came out. He held a sheaf of letters in one hand and a long strip of penny stamps in the other, which he was mechanically tearing off one at a time and sticking carelessly on to the envelopes.

He did not see Norah at first. He shovelled the letters anyhow into the letter box and turned to cross the road, when he almost ran into her.

"I beg your pardon. . . ." He touched his cap unsmilingly and went on his way.

Norah looked after him with angry eyes. She was conscious of a horrid feeling of disappointment. He might have spoken, she thought. She raised her head with a touch of dignity.

Laxton was on the other side of the road now. As he reached the kerb he turned and glanced carelessly over his shoulder to where she was standing.

For a moment he seemed to hesitate, then he came quickly back.

"I'm not going to town, after all," he said without preamble. "I wonder if you'll be kind and show me some of the drives round your wonderful village this afternoon; or if you have been forbidden to have anything more to do with me."

There was something mocking in his voice; a sort of hard unhappiness in his eyes.

Norah glanced quickly towards the post office.

"I'm not a child," she said impulsively. "I can do as I like."

A faint smile crossed the somber face of the black sheep.

CLASS 27 MEETS.

The charitable work carried on by class 27 of Dundas Center Church will take a new form this winter, when emergency cases will be provided for by the class members. Thirty members were present at this month's meeting, held at Mrs. William Bayley's home in the Hamilton road, and arrangements were made to take a free-will offering for the relief work of the class on the first Sunday of each month. The class enjoyed a chat over the dainty refreshments served by the hostess during the social hour. Mrs. William Sherlock, of Queen's avenue, is to be the hostess at the next meeting.

SHOWERS EXPECTED AT LONDON DAY NURSERY

Executive Prepares List of Articles Needed to Help the Kiddies Along.

Twenty-two little kiddies (only two of them picaninnies, though), may be seen any day at the London Day Nursery on King street, where a visit is a source of satisfaction to both visitors and residents. To help in the care of these dear babies, all of them under real school age, the executive is enlisting the services of the mothers' clubs of the city and of organized classes and clubs in connection with the city churches. Showers of groceries are suggested, and in the letter which the secretary is going to write to all these organizations, a list will be given of all the groceries that are needed to run such an institution as the Day Nursery, including some of those things which may be made into suitable good things for very little people to eat. The list contains oatmeal, corn meal, sugar, tapioca, rice, barley, canned soups, flour, soap, ammonia, prunes, preserves and jams (homemade), vegetables, butter, macaroni, soda biscuits, sweet biscuits, syrup, eggs and ever so many more things, all of which will be most welcome when the showers begin to pour in.

Recent donations to the nursery have been $4 from Miss Lipsett's S. S. class, vegetables from the harvest home at Colborne Street Methodist Church, and $1.50 from the children of a Port Stanley summer cottage S. S. class.

DELAWARE W. I.

The October meeting of the Delaware Women's Institute took place recently at the home of Mrs. George Patrick, second concession, with the president, Mrs. James Martin, presiding. The roll call was "Quotations From Longfellow." Mrs. James H. Matthews, expresident, gave a most interesting and exceptionally well-prepared paper on "What One Ought to Know About Deeds, Wills and Mortgages," and Miss Gladys Patrick contributed a vocal solo. Final arrangements were made for the refreshment booth, which the ladies will conduct at the fall fair on October 12. Afternoon tea was served at the conclusion of the business session. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. Buddle.

CATHOLIC WOMEN WILL HOLD FIRST CONVENTION

League Meeting Initial Diocesan Gathering of Women—Bishop Fallon to Speak.

Mgr. McKeown, in an address yesterday afternoon to the Catholic Women's League meeting in St. Peter's Parish Hall, was warm in his praise of the women's organizations existent in the church and in the community, which he declared were a great power for good and in the parish a splendid support to the work of the clergy. Mgr. McKeon referred to the approaching convention of the Catholic Women's League, to be held in this city on October 25 and 26, pointing out that this was the first diocesan convention of women to be held in the diocese of London.

"In philosophy," the speaker stated, "there are two kinds of good, the universal and the particular, and it has been demonstrated that the universal redounds to the benefit of the particular, though the opposite is not always the case. So will the convention of the Catholic Women's League benefit in particular the London branch of the league, though designed to aid the work through the diocese."

INTERESTING PROGRAM.

Final arrangements for the convention were carried out yesterday in the appointment of committees and the partial drafting of the program. The convention opens with a luncheon at the Tecumseh House on Tuesday, October 25, followed by an afternoon of business, including reports and an address from Miss Power, of the Provincial Department of Child Welfare. In the evening his lordship Bishop Fallon will address the delegates, who will afterwards be entertained at a reception by the London subdivision. A motor ride through the city, arranged by the Knights of Columbus and the London subdivision of the league, will take place on Wednesday, following a second luncheon and a morning of continued business.

COMMITTEES NAMED.

At a reception committee for the delegates, who it is expected will number two from each of the 50 subdivisions in the diocese, the following ladies have been appointed: Mrs. Coffey, Mrs. H. A. Panet, Mrs. Foley, Mrs. Philip Pocock, Mrs. Frank Forristal, Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mrs. Walter Costello, Mrs. S. B. Pocock, Mrs. Roche, Mrs. Amero, Mrs. Van Loon, Mrs. T. F. Sweeney, Mrs. McHale, Mrs. T. F. Bidner, Mrs. T. J. Murphy and Mrs. Richard Forristal.

Other committees are the motor committee, of which Mrs. William McPhillips is the convener, assisted by Mrs. J. S. Nolan, Mrs. E. H. Nelles, Mrs. Darcy, Mrs. T. F. Kiley, Mrs. Killingsworth and Mrs. Ed. Shea; billeting, Mrs. Joseph Frezell, Mrs. Frank Forristal, Mrs. Dicknoether, Mrs. Philip McGinnis, Mrs. Van Loon, Mrs. Frizell; printing, Miss Kathleen Dromgole; press, Miss Mary Manley.

DRAMA LEAGUE TO VOTE.

Mr. Walter Hampton, the noted English Shakespearian actor, has asked the London Drama League to take a vote on the plays he will present during his visit to London this month. Mr. Hampten offers for his London visit a choice of six plays: "The Merchant of Venice," "Hamlet," "Macbeth," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Romeo and Juliet" and Kennedy's "Servant in the House."

The Drama League secretary has issued ballot cards to 800 members, asking for votes on this question.

IN THE BLUE AND GLOWING DAYS.

Great is the sun, and wide he goes
Through empty heavens without repose;
And in the blue and glowing days
More thick than rain he showers his rays.

Though closer still the blinds we pull
To keep the shady parlor cool,
Yet he will find a clink or two
To slip his golden fingers through.

The dusty attic spider-clad
He through the keyhole, maketh glad;
And through the broken edge of tiles.
Into the laddered hayloft smiles.

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—Navy blue poire twill and duvetyn in a golden shade of tan are not a new combination, but the manner in which they are combined in the attractive frock illustrated is modish and pleasing. The young woman who spends her days at an office will find this a suitable frock for daily service, as the combination of colors is inconspicuous without being somber, and the lines are becoming and girlish.

This design suggests also a splendid foundation for remodeling a last season's cloth frock, which, if black, may change its identity with a front of gray or dull blue, and henna, too, may be used either with black, brown or dark blue.

In the collection which includes this model, loose panel effects were also prominently featured, both for youthful figures and for older women. Another characteristic of this collection was the effort to achieve a youthful silhouette by retaining a flat back and front, with all the fullness of the skirt gathered to the sides. This is a favorite device in French frocks.

A QUEER WAY TO HELP.

Mrs. Ladybug wished that she hadn't come to the vegetable garden to see the person who called herself Mrs. Ladybug's cousin. She wasn't at all the sort of relation that Mrs. Ladybug cared to have.

Although the stranger in yellow was most agreeable, somehow Mrs. Ladybug disliked her exceedingly. And strange to say, Mrs. Ladybug couldn't have told exactly what it was in her cousin that displeased her. It wasn't alone the yellow gown that the new cousin wore. Nor her simpering smile. Nor her trifling manner. It was something else—something that made Mrs. Ladybug feel that she was not to be trusted.

"I must hurry back to the orchard," Mrs. Ladybug announced. "There's work waiting for me there. I really ought not to have left it to come to see you."

"Don't take your work so seriously!" her cousin advised her. "You ought to take more time for amusement. I hope you'll come to see me often."

Mrs. Ladybug's opinion of the stranger sank even lower.

"If some of us weren't earnest about our work the rest of the world would have a sorry time," she declared. "I may as well tell you that I shall not be able to call on you again. I shall be too busy. I shall be too busy. And there's no use of my urging you to come to see me, because, of course, you have your work to do, too."

"Oh, naturally!" said Mrs. Ladybug's cousin with an odd smile. "Still, I could leave it once in a while to make a cousinly call."

"It won't be necessary," Mrs. Ladybug told her. "If I need you, I'll send for you." And she said to herself grimly, under her breath, "she'll never hear from me."

"If I can help you at an ytime, don't fail to let me know," the cousin told Mrs. Ladybug. "Doubtless I could be of some service, though I'd always rather work on vines—squash and pumpkin preferred."

Mrs. Ladybug thanked her. "I shouldn't want her helping me," she thought. "I'll warrant she's so careless that she would do more harm than good." And Mrs. Ladybug looked at the vine on which they were standing.

"I see you're helping Farmer Green with his squash vines at present," she remarked aloud.

"Yes," said her cousin. "I have this one almost finished."

"Good!" said Mrs. Ladybug. And she took a closer look at the vine. It seemed far from healthy. In fact, she noticed that the leaves were tattered and torn.

"What are these great holes in the squash leaves?" she inquired.

Her cousin fidgeted and made no reply. Glancing at her, Mrs. Ladybug thought she was growing a bit red in the face.

Then all at once Mrs. Ladybug guessed the dreadful truth.

"You've been eating these leaves!" she cried.

Her cousin tossed her head.

"A person has to eat something," she retorted.

Mrs. Ladybug threw up her hands.

"I knew you weren't trustworthy," she muttered. "I knew you weren't the sort of relation I'd want anything to do with."

Then Mrs. Ladybug left her.

Later, when Chirpy Cricket met her, he asked her if she had seen her cousin who was spending the summer among the squash vines. And he was astonished when Mrs. Ladybug glared at him and exclaimed:

"Never mention her to me again!"

Fifth game to-day at 2 p. m.

Saturday's game postponed, rain.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—"Babe" Ruth made a home run at the Polo Grounds to-day, but his circuit blow, a tremendous wallop into the right field bleachers, came in the ninth with nobody on the pillows and failed to save the Yankees from defeat in the fourth game of the world's series.

The Giants won by the score of 4 to 2, evening the count for the series, which now stands at two victories each.

The game, a snappy, quickly-played contest, was witnessed by more than 36,000 persons, a few hundred less than the record crowd on Friday last. For seven innings it looked like a repetition of last Wednesday's pitchers' battle between Carl Mays and Phil Douglas, these two twirlers again being pitted against one another. Then in the eighth the Giants broke through Mays' guard and scored three runs, enough to win, by a pretty exhibition of consecutive hitting. The Giants added another, but as it turned out an unnecessary run in the ninth. The Yankees were able to hit Douglas consecutively only in the fifth, when they scored once, their other tally being accounted for by Ruth, with his ninth-inning blow into the bleachers. That the "Babe" appeared in the game at all was a big surprise to the fans. It had been feared that his injured arm would keep him out of the play for the remainder of the series, and even Manager Huggins, of the Yankees, did not expect up to an hour before game time, that Ruth would be in the line-up to-day, announcing that "Chick" Fewster would take his place in left field. It developed, however, that Ruth, determined to play, had had his arm well plastered up, and shortly after 1.30 o'clock he came on the field in uniform and to all appearances as fit as ever.

SHOUT FOR RUTH.

The sight of the "bambino's" bulky figure drew forth a big shout of welcome from the crowd, which was repeated when he made his four-play wallop in the ninth. He handled his two fielding chances cleanly. There was nothing in his work at the bat to indicate that his injured arm was handicapping him in the least. He did not, however, try to steal any more bases.

"I have realized one of my great ambitions—to make a home run in the world's series," Ruth said after the game, "but I'm sorry it didn't come with men on the bases. It might have meant the winning of the game."

The real honors of the day—despite the spectacular feat of Ruth in making his first world's series home run, which, by the way, was the first homer of the 1921 tilt—went to the lanky man who occupied the mound for the National Leaguers. "Shufflin" Phil Douglas' exhibition of baseball art was a pretty thing to watch. He held the heavy-hitting Yankees, with the exception of Ruth and Schang, in almost complete subjection when hits meant runs and grew better as the game drew towards its close, only Ruth being able to reach him to any effect in the last three innings. The Yankees' first run, in the fifth, was scored when Wally Schang cut loose with a fence-breaker to left for three bases, scoring McNally, who had reached first on a fielders' choice. Schang was left when Mays grounded to Rawlings for the third out.

The break of the game came in the eighth. The lively Yankee infield had broken up an incipient Giant rally in the previous innnig by a fast double play. But in their next turn at bat Manager McGraw's men went at it again with a determination that would not be broken down.

MAYS IN BAD WAY

"Irish" Meusel started it by hitting the first ball pitched to far left center for three bases. This set the Giants' supporters cheering and they went wild when Rawlings speedily singled to center, scoring Meusel with the tying tally. Mays was in rather a bad way here for a run was in and a man was on first with none out. Matters speedily became worse for him when he missed Snyder's bunt in a headlong dive for it, with the result that Snyder landed safely on first and Rawlings on second. They both moved up on Douglas' sacrifice, which Mays threw to Ward, barely getting the batter. Then up stepped George Burns, who previously had found the range with a single off Mays in the sixth. Burns' aim was even better this time, for he drove a slashing double to left field, scoring Snyder and Rawlings and putting the Giants two runs to the good.

There was still only one man out, but Mays put on more steam at this point, causing Bancroft to fly to Ruth and Frisch to foul to Schang.

The Giants' final run came in the ninth, when George Kelly broke the ice for his first hit of the series, a smart double to left, and scored on Emil Meusel's single.

The official figures gave the attendance as 36,372. The gate receipts were $118,527, of which the advisory board's share is $17,779.05, the players' share $60,448.77 and the two clubs' share $40,299.18.

Hamilton Eleven Defeat London, 4-3

District All-Stars Play on Rain-Soaked Field Here on Saturday

Hamilton and District Football Association all-star soccer team defeated the London and District selected eleven by the score of 4 to 3 in an exhibition match at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon.

The field was wet and sloppy, and for this reason the game was not as fast as it was expected. The unfavorable weather also kept the soccer fans at home and only a small crowd witnessed the contest.

With the score a tie and only 10 minutes to play, Bowman, the star forward man for Hamilton, sent a speedy shot past Adamson. Bowman was the individual star of the game, and by his remarkable scoring ability tallied three times.

FIRST PERIOD.

Hamilton secured the ball at the opening of the first period and made a rush at Adamson, but the goalie made an exceptionally fine stop, and was applauded. Branston scored for London five minutes after play. Hamilton tied the score a few minutes later when Bowman received the ball near the front of the goal and made a tally. Spurgeon scored for Hamilton, taking the lead. Ridley evened up the score once more when he received a pass from Holt. Bowman again scored for Hamilton.

The competition was more keen in the second period and the teams put forth every possible effort to draw a win. Bowman scored the deciding goal, and the Hamilton team then adopted the defensive methods.

The line-up:

Hamilton—Scanlon, goal; Hayes and Foy, backs; Gowns, Jones and Gilfelen, half backs; Bowman, Garside, Spurgeon, Parker and Prowsen, forwards.

London—Adamson, goal; Lathan and Allman, backs; Ince, Broomhead and Smith, half backs; Ball, Currie, Ridley, Holt and Branston forwards.

Referee—Noble, of London.

Elks Again Lose To Woodstock

Exhibition Rugby at Tecumseh Park Goes to Visitors at Close

The Askin Street Elks rugby squad was again defeated by Woodstock College team in the return game of a home-and-series played at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon, the score being 12 to 7.

With the score a tie, 7 to 7, and only five minutes to play, the College boys broke through the London line and scored a touchdown. London was unable to stage a comeback.

The few rugy spectators who attended the game, in spite of the rain, witnessed a fast exhibition of rugy. Both teams were comparatively light, but speedy.

Considering the fact that the Elks have had very little training up to the present time the London aggregation shapes up well.

"Buz" Baker and Hoffman played a hard game for the Askin Elks, while Vickert and Bewell were the stars for the winner. The line-up:

Prodger After Another Hockey Title

"GOLDIE" PRODGER.

Goldie Prodger, London's professional hockey star, is convalescing rapidly after an operation for appendicitis and fully expects to return to the ice this winter in better condition than ever.

As playing manager of the Hamilton National Hockey League Club, Goldie has high hopes of landing the honors this coming winter. His ambitions are founded on the fact that the Tigers will be greatly strengthened with several stars from ranks of the other clubs.

Cully Wilson, formerly with the Les Canadiens; Sprague Cleghorn, of Ottawa, and Kenneth "Badman" Randell, of the Toronto St. Patricks, who teamed it with Prodger on the same defense for a season are among the new faces to don the Tiger regalia.

Goldie is angling for a high-class net guard ian and has his eye on two or three amateurs who for years have been turning a deaf ear to professional calls.

PERRY GORMAN WINS DASH AT TORONTO

London Sprinter Does 100 Yards in 10 3-5 Seconds; Wanless Is Second in High Jump

Perry Gorman, of the London Collegiate Institute track team, won the 100-yard open race for boys under 18 years, at the first annual field day, held under the auspices of the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association at the Exhibition grounds, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon.

Gorman made the 100 yards in 10 3-5 seconds, and finished second in the first heat. There were 29 competitors in the event.

The London Collegiate students made a creditable showing considering it was their first attempt in an out-of-town meet. The London team was small compared with some of the other teams, and the weather conditions were very unfavorable.

Perry Gorman, N. W. Wanless, J. Cameron Wilson, and Albert Lawrence comprised the London team, and Harry Tambling, a second-year student, also made the trip. The boys were the guests of Mrs. Cleghorn while in the Queen City.

In the 100-yard international high school race, which was held immediately after the 100-yard open, Gorman finished third in his heat.

SECOND IN HIGH JUMP.

Bill Wanless won second place in the first heat of the same event, but was lost in the final. Cameron Wilson also finished third in the heats.

In the running high jump for international high schools Bill Wanless jumped second in the preliminaries and was unable to finish, owing to the fact that he spiked his hand.

In the 880-yards Albert Lawrence finished fifth. There were 41 runners in the field.

Capt. J. J. Syme and J. H. Cameron, of the London Collegiate staff, who accompanied the team to Toronto, were pleased with the showing made by the locals. The wonderful showing made by the Hamilton C. I. can be attributed to their persistent endeavor to build up a track team during the past few years, which was made possible by the liberal allowance from the Board of Education to be used for athletics. Their track team was composed of 28 members, who were well supported by a crowd of rooters.

MONTREAL, Oct. 9.—Brilliant playing by the Argonauts' back division resulted in an easy victory for the double blues in the rugby fixture against the M. A. A. A. squad in the second game of the interprovincial series of the season, played here on Saturday, the visitors winning, 40 to 5. Conacher, Batstone, McCormick and a procession of substitute backs, who played at various stages of the game for the Toronto team, proved too speedy for the Winged Wheel defense, the visiting rear guard toying with the M. A. A. A. wings throughout the greater part of the game and scoring almost at will.

Argos fielded one of the fastest, best-trained and most evenly balanced squads ever seen on a local gridiron. Their performance was greatly admired by the spectators present, their movements in open play being carried out with machine-like precision, which dazzled the local twelve.

Second Straight

OTTAWA, Oct. 9.—The Hamilton Tigers went down to defeat before the onslaught of the Rough Riders, of Ottawa, in an Interprovincial Rugby League game at Lansdowne Park on Saturday afternoon by a score of 3 to 5. Bitterly cold weather greeted the teams for the struggle, and the gridiron, following the continuous rains of Friday, was a veritable sea of mud and water. The only wind was a slight, gusty northener, which blew directly across the field and proved little or no advantage to either team. Nearly 5,000 persons witnessed the struggle.

ST. JEROMES DEFEAT KITCHENER SECONDS

KITCHENER, Oct. 9.—The opening game in the O. R. F. U. intermediate series was played here yesterday afternoon between the two local teams, Kitchener and St. Jeromes, resulting in a victory for the colleians by a score of 8 to 1. It was a hard fought game throughout, the winners only showing superiority in teamwork, which resulted in the college team securing more open kicks than their opponents. Every point in the game was scored by kicks to the dead line.

The game was handled by Rev. Father Reitzel as referee, and J. Curley as judge of play.

In the soccer game between the Rangers, of this city, and Craig Lee, of Galt, the former team won by 6 to 1. Despite the heavy downpour of rain on Friday the grounds were in fine shape for the double-header.

WESTERN ONTARIO HAS ITS SERIES

WINGHAM, Oct. 8.—There requires no stretching of the imagination in asserting that the baseball world in Western Ontario is at present dividing interest between the world's series and the approaching finals in the North Wellington League. Undoubtedly amateur baseball holds a stronger position in Western Ontario than ever, as evidenced by the crowds who attend every game where the participating teams can deliver the goods. Zurich and Wingham teams are strong and fast, and it goes without saying that no better exhibition of real baseball will be seen this year outside of the larger cities, than when these two teams take the field at Wingham on Monday the 10th, and at Zurich on Saturday the 15th, in the North Wellington finals.

Western U. Squad To Play St. Mikes

Plan Monster Auto Parade to Mark Opening of Football Season

Plans are now under way for a monster motor parade for next Saturday afternoon to mark the opening of the rugby season. St. Michael's College squad, of Toronto, will be here to oppose the Western "U" in the initial contest.

M. L. Blake and Traynor, captain of the Western "U" team, returned to London yesterday after witnessing the rugby match between Montreal and the Toronto Argos. Several valuable pointers were received and at the practice to be held this afternoon the two Western "U" men will explain new plays to the team members.

The London rugby players will practice every night this week for the intermediate interscholastic

Manhattans Open League To-Night

Six Club Teams Enter the Fivepin Bowling League

The Manhattan Club Fivepin Bowling League will open to-night at the National Alleys, when Art Jackson's Giants will oppose the Cubs, who are under the leadership of Hector Boyce.

A six-team league, composed only of Manhattan Club members, has been organized and games will be continued throughout the winter months.

A handsome shield, which is emblematic of the club championship, has been secured and special prizes will be donated to the bowlers having the highest score each week.

The captains of the teams, who were appointed at a meeting recently held, are: Alex. McCormick, Hugh McCormick, H. Spettigue, H. Boyce, A. Jackson and Reg. Quick.

FRED KERR HIGH GUN AT SPRINGWOOD SHOOT

The Springwood Gun Club held a weekly shoot on Saturday afternoon. Fred Kerr, of Crediton, hung up the high score. Every bird looked like a duck to Fred, and he did not let many get away.

Dick Jordan was the next highest sprant and turned in a good score. Duck does not go after the duck, and a Saturday was an ideal day for that sport he was thinking more of shelter than a high score.

Following is the result of a 50-bird event:

Fred Kerr	23	25	48
J. Jordan	23	22	45

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: Rails were the only important exception to the firmer tone of the stock market at the opening of today's session. Union Pacific fell 1⅜, and other transcontinentals, as well as cotton carriers, were fractionally lower. The constructive side of the market was again chiefly represented by oils, notably the low-grade shares. Pan-American Petroleum rose 1 point, and California Petroleum, General Asphalt, Royal Dutch, Houston and Cosden made good advances. The list became somewhat unsettled within the first half hour as a result of selling pressure, directed mainly against Mexican Petroleum and Studebaker.

TORONTO STOCS.

TORONTO, Oct. 10—The week opened exceedingly dull on the Toronto stock exchange, with very few stocks dealt in this forenoon. One lock of $100,000b (par value) 1934 victory bonds boosted the total sales in this department. The block went at 094.70, which was five cents higher than Saturday's top and was the highest paid for this issue this morning. The only other victory to show any activity was the 1923's, which held about steady or a trifle lower than Saturday. Throughout the stock list buying was scattered and light with no particular change in prices.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Wheat prices developed some strength to-day because of the Government crop report showing smaller yields of wheat and corn than had been looked for. Notice was also taken of bullish accounts as to the well sold out conditions of the United States wheat surplus. On the other hand, houses with Northwestern connections were sellers during upturns and instrumental in causing reactions. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures to 2c higher with December at $1.10¾ to $1.11 and May at $1.14¾ to $1.15¼, were followed by a material setback, but then by renewed gains.

Large receipts weakened corn. After opening ¼c to ⅝c higher, including December at 48c to 48¼c, the market sagged to below Saturday's finish.

Oats, easier with corn, starting ⅛c to ½c up, with December at 33⅜c to 33⅝c and later showing slight losses.

Higher quotations on hogs gave firmness to provisions.

Let Every

possession being all that is possible to enforce. In cities and smaller communities there is usually to be found other comforts that are provided by common consent that must also be paid for and these are usually also added into the tax rates. Fire and foods are also often necessary for the common comfort and safety and add to the sums needed by the community; these are not evils, but rather emphatically desirable things, and all are secured at less expense than was under a state of private warfare secured for the bare essentials of living on earth.

The methods of apportioning this cost of safety and comforts have in the past been a constant source of strife and friction, as those least benefited have usually borne the bulk of the burden, as the persons most benefited had the most reason to evade the burden and used more effort to escape it; careless, venal and ignorant men were too often manipulated into the assessors' positions by push and pull, with disastrous results for the masses of the taxpayers. The provision of appeal to a revising authority is only a palliative and not a cure, as a little attendance and attention at a sitting of this nature will demonstrate to any one. If the appellants were sworn to state the whole truth and nothing but the truth, as in a court of justice, the case would be more within control, as a charge of perjury where the facts are available is not very desirable.

The present plan of assessing values of property for tax purposes is probably much better than some past plans in London assessing, but leaves far too much to personal opinion to be even relatively perfect as a method of securing justice. In my opinion a better plan would be to have each person claiming peaceful and personal possession of any property value their property for themselves under these conditions; the claimant should file with the clerk of the municipality where it is located a claim to possession, property not claimed to be deemed abandoned to any one desiring to file a claim and pay the rates thereon, just as mining claims are handled until formalities have been completed; and with the claim to possession claimant shall file a legally enforceable option to sell the claim to the property to any one legally entitled to hold it at a valuation in legal tender, this would fix the value for taxation purposes on the "owner's" valuation, checked by the valuation of the whole community and insure the absolutely proper relations of taxable and market values for all conditions. The new claimant should not be given possession for a reasonable time after having legal title and filing the new valuation in order to permit the former owner to pay the difference in valuations and regain possession if desirable, this difference being the penalty for undervaluation by the owner in an attempt to evade the proper share in necessary provision for safety and the other comforts and conveniences of civilized conditions. If the property has more value as a home than as a saleable article, that whole matter is within the personal opinion of the owner whose own valuation is the basis of all procedure, as the whole question simmers down to "what is it worth to the possessor." Amendment to present laws may be necessary to enforce this plan of action, but would be easily done if desirable to sufficient voters to enforce their will at the polls.

All of which is respectfully submitted to fellow citizens.

L. C. I. BOILER HAS A BADLY DENTED SIDE

One of the new boilers at the Collegiate Institute was dropped off the vehicle used in transporting it to the Collegiate site, it was reported to-day by citizens, and a large dent made in the metal sides of the heating unit. Architect Carrothers, of the Board of Education performed this, was stated that this was the usual thing.

"The old boiler was rolled over and over for about a mile," he stated, "to get it in place, on account of the mud. These boilers weigh several tuns, you know."

"Will any repairs be made to the dented boiler?" he was asked.

"Not necessary," was the reply.

"What about seams starting and other complications?"

"There won't be any," he replied. "The boiler will be put in as it is and no trouble is anticipated."

The Strength of Water Power Securities

Strikes, deflations, inventories to mark down, and all other afflictions of the average industrial security have had but little effect upon strategically located Water Power Companies.

The services of Power Companies have been but little affected by changing business conditions. On the contrary, most of them are showing steadily increased earnings, both gross and net.

Our experience which extends over many years, convinces us that they are the most desirable securities, combining safety with a generous interest return.

DELEGATES BEGIN ADVANCE PARLEYS

Irish Problem Reaches Real Conference On Tuesday.

TRUCE RECENTLY BROKEN

This Will Be First Subject To Be Debated.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Michael Collins, Sinn Fein minister of finance, arrived in London this morning, completing the Sinn Fein delegation which to-morrow will confer with representatives of the British Government to ascertain "how the association of Ireland with the community of nations known as the British Empire may best be reconciled with Irish national aspirations." The Sinn Fein delegates were early at work to-day completing arrangements for the meeting.

Prime Minister Lloyd George and the members of his Cabinet forming the British delegation also had a meeting to decide upon the course of procedure.

Mr. Collins is staying with the secretariat of the Irish delegation, the other Sinn Fein delegates being accommodated in another residence near by.

Arthur Griffith, the Sinn Fein foreign minister, said this morning he was delighted with the success of the Sinn Feiners in securing the services of a third secretary to the Irish delegation, John Charters, who, besides being highly versed in legal matters, was chief of the intelligence section of the war office armaments output committee during the war and for nine years was director of the intelligence department of The London Times. Mr. Griffith said he expected Mr. Charters to be of great value to the delegation interpreting the British proposals. Mr. Charters is staying with Mr. Griffith.

NO FEAR OF TRUCE.

Eamonn D. Duggan, Sinn Fein member of the British Parliament, who since the truce has acted as chief liason officer, arrived early at the secretariat for a conference with the other delegates. He said he had arranged to keep in close touch with his substitute as chief liason officer of Ireland regarding the truce and declared he had no apprehension concerning St. Murphy, the substitute, he said, had served as liason officer in Athlone, where he had behaved with discretion, no friction having arisen between him and the military.

The Sinn Fein delegates have decided not to accept any hospitality while in England, except from personal friends. This decision is not due to hostility towards Londoners, they say, but because they wish to save themselves from being overwhelmed with invitations and desire to devote every moment to the work in hand.

The chief risk to a settlement now is believed to be in Ireland, rather than in the conference chamber.

BRITISH JOBLESS PRESS FOR WORK

Further Demonstrations by Unemployed in Various Cities

APPROVED BY A BISHOP

Head of Diocese of Chelsea Says Strenuous Action O. K.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Unemployment demonstrations were held in various parts of the country to-day. The Bishop of Winchester, in a letter read at a demonstration at Farnham, gave his commendation to the demonstrators, telling them that the Government had been slow in taking up the matter and that the unemployed were right in pressing it for action.

The bishop said Cornwall was showing a grave situation as regards unemployment, and added: "We can only demand that work should be made in order that men, women and children shall have at least a minimum livelihood until the trouble lessens."

The bishop suggested that the nation ration itself.

The pressure of the unemployment problem is steadily increasing, and intense anxiety is being manifested by labor organizations, manufacturers and the public, regarding the plan which the Government is formulating to deal with it.

Ben Tillett, Labor member of Parliament and organizer of the Dockers Union, of which for many years he has been general secretary, in a manifesto last night declared: "Bankruptcy stares us in the face. This winter will be the testing time for working class organization. Every form of government is in a state of panic or ruin, and whether it will be imperial or national, Government disaster depends on the administration, but whatever the chaos of accumulated debts, labor and industry will have to meet their impost."

He urges the co-operation of all trade unions to compel Government assistance.

KING THOUGHTFUL

King George who had specially requested that no money be spent on decorations for his reception, arrived at Manchester yesterday to open the new Royal Exchange.

Replying to the address of welcome, his majesty said he was sorely troubled by the present widespread unemployment, which was causing so much suffering, and he hoped that the efforts of his ministers to alleviate the present situation and to prevent future unemployment may be successful.

ASKS PRIEST TO STILL A GHOST

Montreal Woman Fears Her House Is Haunted

NEIGHBORHOOD AROUSED

Objects Said to Move in a Mysterious Fashion

MONTREAL, Oct. 8.—A haunted house has been discovered in Montreal, in the heart of St. Henri, according to the statements of reliable ecclesiastical authorities and eyewitnesses, who claim to have been convinced, despite themselves, of the reality of some weird phenomena beyond human explanation, which is said to have been recurring intermittently since last Monday noon in the residence of Mrs. A. Deschenades, Cazelais street. So pronounced and continuous have become the manifestations, according to the occupants of the house, that the parish priest, Father Desnoyers, was last night asked to bless the house, in the hope of dispelling the unknown influence which is working havoc with the nerves of the household.

The uneasiness of the family has also spread to a considerable number of neighbors in the district, and the house has been the gathering point for some days past of large crowds of curious people, to such an extent that it has been found necessary to station a policeman outside the house in order to preserve its privacy.

PRIEST'S OPINION.

Rev. Father Desnoyers, parish priest, when questioned concerning the report of a haunted house in his parish, declared that undoubtedly very unusual happenings were occurring in the home of Mrs. Deschenades, although he did not think any extraordinary importance should be attached to them, saying that accounts of what had been going on in the house had been greatly exaggerated. He disclaimed the theory of evil spirits playing pranks, which is by no means accepted by Mrs. A. Deschenades.

Father Desnoyers said that he had visited the house last evening, but that he had not been witness to anything at all out of the usual. He explained that some members of the family were of the opinion that some departed soul was pleading for prayers on its behalf in this way. No death has occurred in the family since taking up residence in the house several years ago, the husband of Mrs. Deschanades having died in another house in the parish.

THINGS DO MOVE

The story of the various manifestations, as told by occupants of the house to neighbors, is to the effect that the house is really haunted by some power which makes itself known in most distressing ways at all hours of the day and night, although the effects of these uncanny doings have been mostly observed during the daytime. The supposed phenomenon is entirely in the nature of the sudden moving about of various household objects, which are found removed from their original positions, and generally in a disordered state. Only once, however, so far as can be learned, has any object been actually seen in movement.

Nothing out of the ordinary has ever been observed in the house until last Monday noon, according to the statement of the family. Mrs. Deschanades noticed that some articles of furniture in the house had been displaced, and later it was found that the bed clothes on one of the beds had been thrown about in wanton fashion.

From this time onward, it is said, the manifestations continued, pictures in the parlor falling to the floor, but remaining unbroken. Articles of furniture were continually displaced. The beds were the most frequently attacked, it being sometimes necessary to make them several times a day, so often were the coverlets tossed about.

One member of the household claims to have seen a coverlet moving a short distance. Some time afterwards it was found on the floor, it was stated. All these phenomena were declared to be recurring intermittently, mostly in the daytime.

EFFECTIVE NEXT YEAR

Revision of Cost of Maintaining League of Nations Given in Detail.

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A Reuter dispatch frim Geneva says:

How the expenses of the League of Nations are distributed is exemplified as follows, the figures representing the units payable by each state:

The British Empire and France, each 90; Italy, India, China and Japan, each 65; Canada, 35; Australia, South Africa, Netherlands, each 15; New Zealand, Persia, Greece, Portugal and Siam, each 10. Great Britain and the British dominions and colonies are thus carrying more than 40 per cent. of the cost of maintaining the League of Nations.

The reduction in Canada's proportion has been made and will be effective next year.

BRITISH EXPERIMENT WITH SHIP GYROSCOPE

MISSING TORONTO M. D. MAY STILLL BE ALIVE

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 9.—The remains of a porcupine, believed to have been killed for food by Dr. Graham Chambers, Toronto physician, who has been lost in the bush north of Atikokan since September 9, was found on Saturday last by the search party some distance from where his trail disappeared near Eye Lake.

Members of the party who are searching the woods for some trace of the doctor are still hopeful that he is safe.

Dr. Chambers is a prominent Toronto doctor. He served overseas at Saloniki and elsewhere.

FURS, WORTH $10,000, STOLEN AT TORONTO

FREED ON CHARGE OF MANSLAUGHTER

George Smith Case at Windsor Dismissed

WINDSOR, Oct. 9.—The trial of George Smith, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of his brother, Samuel Smith, of Essex, who was killed in an automobile accident near Maidstone in July, resulted in dismissal of the case in Magistrate Gundy's court late on Saturday night.

Samuel Smith, who was chief of the Essex fire department, was driving in a car with his brother, George Smith. The car ran into a ditch and Samuel Smith was instantly killed. The crown maintained that George Smith, who was at the wheel, was intoxicated at the time of the accident, and that he was consequently liable for his brother's death. Magistrate Gundy said he found no evidence to warrant sending the case to a higher court and ordered it dismissed.

INVESTIGATE PAIL CASE.

Crown Attorney Urquhart on Monday will investigate a report that the dead body of a five months' old baby girl was found in a pail on the dock in front of a West End hotel about three months ago, and that although the finder of the body, who is said to reside at the hotel, reported the matter to the police department nothing has yet been done to clear up the affair.

Richard D. Druilard, living at No. 3 Janette avenue, who has a butcher shop on Sandwich street west and who rented rooms above his store to a young man and woman in June last, told the crown attorney that a month after the couple move in they left. He inspected the rooms, he said, after the couple had gone, and found evidence that a child had been born there. Later the child's dead body was found in a pail on the dock, Druilard is alleged to have stated. The body was taken to Chapin's morgue, he says. The pail in which the body was found was identified by his wife, Druilard said, as belonging to her.

The crown attorney says he has never received any report of this case from either the coroner or the police.

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—Gifts from King George V. to Victoria College, Toronto, will be unveiled and placed on exhibition next Thursday on the occasion of the celebration of the 84th anniversary of the founding of the college.

KIDNEY TROUBLE?

The Kidneys are the Blood Filters—When they Weaken and Stop Up, the System Becomes Overloaded with Uric Acid

Niagara Falls, Ont.—"I have used nearly all of Dr. Pierce's medicines and take great pleasure in giving them a boost. The Anuric Tablets are the greatest benefit to mankind. I was suffering with kidney trouble and was rejected by different insurance companies. Today I am holding three good policies. All I ask the readers of this is to give the Anuric Tablets a trial, and become a life user in the future."—William Dempsey, 32 Bridge St.

HEALTH IS YOUR MOST VALUABLE ASSET

Montreal, Que.—"I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's Anuric enough for what it has done for me. For three months I was under the doctor's care and got no better. I was always complaining of my kidneys. Finally I made up my mind to try Dr. Pierce's Anuric Tablets. I took two packages and don't complain any more. I have gained in weight and am still gaining. My appetite is great and sleep has come to me. That is what the Anuric Tablets have done for me. I truly recommend them to those who are suffering from kidney ailments the way I did. They are mighty good, though not expensive; easy to buy, but hard to beat."—T. A. Brown, 415 Dorchester St., W.

CANADA'S CHANCE TO AID LEAGUE

Sir Robert Borden and Hon. Mr. Rowell Explain Situation

MAY INDUCE U. S. TO JOIN

Speak at Organization Meeting of League Society at Toronto

TORONTO, Oct. 9.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.) — That Canada holds a strategic position for extending the influence of the League of Nations was emphasized by prominent speakers at the first public meeting of the League of Nations Society of Canada on Saturday evening, which was presided over by Sir Robert Borden. Canada, it was said, is in a position to interpret the hopes and aspirations of the league to the United States, which is the one great nation still remaining aloof.

In pointing out the purposes of the gathering Sir Robert said that the aim of the League of Nations Society in Canada is to influence for peace those people whose hearts were touched by the unspeakable horrors of the war and to induce them to do all in their power to prevent further wars.

The task of sketching the accomplishments of the League of Nations during the last two years fell to Hon. N. W. Rowell. Pointing out some of the work accomplished by the league, Mr. Rowell said it had brought about an agreement between Great Britain and France over the Upper Silesia question. It had also paved the way for the disarmament conference at Washington.

THE WORLD COURT

Another great achievement was the setting up of an independent, impartial judicial tribunal, which now exists for the first time in the history of the world. That means that the nationas have an international court of justice with the judges appointed from the various nations.

Still again, the League of Nations has thrown open its doors to the nations of the former enemy ranks, Austria and Bulgaria being already in, and that broad-mindedness, he felt, was one of the greatest steps which has yet been taken in the way of preparing for a complete reconciliation of Europe.

The league, continued Mr. Rowell, is working for the freedom of intercommunication between nations; it is putting into effect international health commissions to check plagues and outbreaks of epidemics; it is working along the humanitarian side by aiming at the suppression of the opium and white slave traffics.

CANADA'S OPPORTUNITY.

"In Canada we occupy a pivotal point towards the league," said Premier Drury, "and while the United States as a nation has not yet entered the League of Nations I still believe the people at heart are in sympathy with the league. We in Canada have an opportunity such as no other nation has had in promoting good understanding, in making it so strong among the Anglo-Saxon races that nothing could possibly shatter the good relations. With me, the idea is almost a religion. We can see in the Anglo-Saxon peoples a great force, which, if wisely used, would make for the peace of the world."

Speaking on behalf of a quarter of a million workers in Canada, H. J. Halford, of Hamilton, declared that the Trades and Labor Congress had been advocating the idea of a league of nations for years, while the workers themselves are longing for it.

Following a motion of Justice Riddell, it was decided to form a Toronto branch of the League of Nations Society, with Sir Robert Falconer as a chief executive officer.

A typical big city telephone exchange, where the operators handle as many as 175,000 calls in a single day.

While You Use It, It is Yours

THE telephone wire is the throbbing artery of modern business. While you use it, it is yours.

A Toronto business man, talking from his Private Branch Exchange to a Private Branch Exchange in Montreal has the exclusive use of over $115,000 worth of telephone equipment.

Which is not unlike loaning a luxurious limousine to a man who has been using the street car. He not only gets around in much less time, and accomplishes more, but is everywhere received with consideration.

"85% of my $3,000 sales this week were made by Long Distance. I called on one firm a dozen times without being able to sell them. The first time I called them by Long Distance, I sold a carload. I could hardly believe my ears."
—Subscriber's Letter.

Bradstreet's charts show that two-thirds the business failures are due to insufficient sales activity. Thomas A. Edison is quoted as saying:—"I have been through five business depressions. This latest one acts exactly like all the rest. The man who, if business fell off 66 per cent, increased his selling effort 75 per cent, managed to pull through as if there was no depression."

You can increase your selling efforts many times, at low cost, by using Long Distance. A subscriber writes that it costs him only 1-1/3% of his sales. Our manager will gladly co-operate with you, if you will call him.

Umpires—Moriarity at the plate Quigley at first; Chill at second; Rigler at third.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Jess Barnes stepped into the breach after Fred Toney was knocked out of the box in the first inning of the sixth world's series baseball struggle and held the Yankees at bay, while the Giants drove lefty Harper from the mound. Shawkey, who relieved Harper, was soundly mauled in the fourth for four runs.

This gave the Giants the game that tied the series.

Home runs by Fewster, who replaced Ruth in left field, and Emil Meusel and Fred Synder featured the game.

Babe Ruth announced this morning that the injury to his arm would keep him out of the game for the remainder of the series. His physician warned him, he said, that to take further chances would risk the loss of his arm.

The commander-in-chief of the Yankees contemplated the prospects of his men with optimism as he breakfasted with one eye on the sport page and the other watching the tricky grapefruit. The team got back its fighting spirit while whipping the Giants yesterday, he remarked, going on to predict that the Giants would never come back fast enough to beat the Yankees out of the championship.

BABE RUTH OUT.

The only gloom on Huggins' horizon was the fact that Babe Ruth's doctor again had ordered him out of the series because of his injured arm and leg. The Babe overruled a similar order on Sunday in his eagerness to see the series through, but it appeared he might have to bow to the new edict. He was cobviously in bad shape after yesterday's exertions and his doctor declared there was danger of permanent injury if the big slugger persisted further in using his infected arm.

Huggins declared the Yankees could win without Ruth, however.

"Wasn't our Meusel wonderful in the field and at bat?" he inquired.

That was an easy one to answer. Meusel was wonderful, even more so than the box score showed. The hitting statistics give him a two-bagger and a single. They didn't even hint how close he came to making another two-bagger. It was in the ninth inning. The Yankee Meusel slammed a liner over third base and galloped half way around the diamond before someone gently broke the news that the ball had been adjudged foul.

THE SECOND TIME.

Strolling back, he picked up his bat again, feeling much the same as in the first game of the series, when he whaled a three-bagger and was called out for dubbing first base on his way to a better roosting place. This same Meusel was who stifled a Giant hitting spell in the second round with a beautiful throw to second after Bancroft mauled one into right field while Burns was on base. Again in the eighth he extinguished the flaming Giant hopes by fast fielding on Kelly's smash that caromed off a signboard, and a whizzing throw that tagged Kelly at second. Young obviously had singled, and a run seemed imminent at the time.

Unlike Huggins, McGraw made no wery forecast of the future. Nor had any bouquets for the past. "I believe Ruth was out at first on that hit," he said. This referred to the little surprise attack by the enfant terrible which started the Yankees toward triumph number three. Mr. McGraw also maintained the umpiring behind the plate was bad. "We lost, and we could have won," was his retrospective summary of the proceedings that went off yesterday before the tribune assembled at the Polo Grounds.

Teaching The Bible In Public Schools

London Teachers' Association To Carefully Consider Suggestion For Religious Instruction.

KEEP MATTERS OF SECT STRICTLY UNDER BAN

Legislation Necessary For Change Already Exists, Says Archdeacon Cody.

Religious education in London's public schools will be given unusual prominence in the coming session of the London Teachers' Association, which meets at the Normal School on Thursday and Friday of this week. E. E. Reid, general manager of the London Life Insurance Company, is to give a paper on the subject and will suggest concrete action on a problem that has been discussed for many years but has so far not been transferred from the field of theory to the field of action.

In an interview to-day Mr. Reid stated that in his address before the London teachers he would urge that there are many ways now by which non-sectarian religious instruction may be given in the schools. "That is the thing that will be urged," Mr. Reid stated.

Archdeacon Cody, formerly minister of education, also points out that permissive legislation already exists whereby religious instruction may be emphasized. The Bible may be taught, a form of daily prayer has been drawn up by the department and is now in the hands of the London public school inspectors.

And while there is no attempt made to sway the minds of children in one or another sectarian direction, the instruction permitted does impress youthful minds with the grandeur of the deistic conception of the universe, awakes their higher spiritual natures in hearing passages from the finest book in English literature, the Bible, apart from its being the bulwark of religious faith.

Ministers are also permitted to hold instruction classes for children of their particular sect. It is expected that a real start in public school religious instruction will result from this year's session of the teachers' association.

SULPHURIC ACID BURNS BOY'S LEG

Cork Comes Out of Bottle in Harold Dean's Pocket—Injuries Not Serious.

Harold Dean, a Collegiate pupil, is under the care of a physician due to having his leg burned yesterday by sulphuric acid. Dean's injuries are painful, but not serious.

Requiring sulphuric acid for experimental purposes, he secured some at a drug store and put the bottle in his pocket. The cork came out and the contents escaped.

His coat was ruined by the acid and his leg was badly burned. An umbrella he was carrying also received a portion of the liquid fire, and when opened looked as if it had been worked on by an army of corn borers.

NO CLUE TO MURDERER OF NEW JERSEY GIRL

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Oct. 11.—The mystery of who murdered 11-year-old Janet Lawrence in a clump of woods on the outskirts of Morristown last Thursday deepened to-day as detectives abandoned the second of the clues they had worked on.

Frank Felice, arrested yesterday after neighbors had told of seeing a "wild man" near the scene of the murder, was said to have convinced the authorities that he had no connection with the crime.

A report that an escaped lunatic had been arrested in Stamford, Conn., and had admitted being in Morristown on the day of the murder, was denied by the Stamford police, who said they knew of no such man.

RUSSIAN CROWN JEWELS FOUND ON UKRAINIANS

SOFIA, Oct. 11.—Jewels which belonged to the Russian imperial treasury are alleged to have been found in the possession of a Soviet delegation from Ukraine, which came to Bulgaria to purchase grain for Russia. The Bulgarian authorities are holding the Ukrainians, who were placed unded detention when they disembarked at Varna.

The Russian Soviet Government has protested to the Red Cross commission, headed by Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, but the Bulgarian authorities have demanded guarantees that the delegation will agree not to circulate Bolshevik propaganda in this country.

Irish and British Delegates In Downing Street To Discuss Proposals.

PREMIER LLOYD GEORGE AND GRIFFITH DOMINATE

Can't Expect Any News For Weeks Yet, Journalists Are Told.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The conference of representatives of the British Government and the Sinn Fein, called for the purpose of endeavoring to find a solution of the Irish problem, met at 11 o'clock this morning in the Cabinet room at 10 Downing street, Prime Minister Lloyd George's official residence. After a session which lasted until 1 o'clock the conference was adjourned until later in the afternoon.

A communique issued after adjournment was taken merely said that the first session of the "conference on Ireland" was held at 11 o'clock. It gave the names of those present and concluded by saying that the conference was adjourned until 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Sinn Fein delegates were cheered as they drove away from No. 10 Downing street in motor cars. They refused to answer questions put by newspaper correspondents.

NO NEWS FOR WEEKS.

One of Mr. Lloyd George's secretaries, who received the newspaper men just after the conference opened, smilingly said, "You cannot expect any news for weeks yet."

When this morning's conference opened the Irish delegates, after an exchange of introductions, took seats at the Cabinet table, with their backs to windows overlooking the Horse Guards' Parade, with the British representatives opposite them. Strictly speaking, nobody presided, in the ordinary sense of the word, but Mr. Lloyd George was the spokesman at the outset for the British and Arthur Griffith for the Irish.

Mr. Lloyd George's remarks were brief, as was the reply of Mr. Griffith, and the conference settled down to the work in hand. Sinn Fein sympathizers outside sang hymns during the opening stage of the conference.

The text of the communique given out after the first session follows:

"The first session of the conference on Ireland was held in 10 Downing street at 11 o'clock. Those present were the

Would Put Five-Year Limit On Aldermen

Alderman Harley Will Put In Practice What He Preaches.

RETIRES FROM CITY COUNCIL THIS YEAR

Citizens Should Lose Franchise If No Vote Cast In Three Years.

Limitation of aldermanic service was proposed by Ald. F. E. Harley to-day. In his opinion no alderman should serve for more than five years, and to prove that he practices what he preaches, Mr. Harley plans to round out his political career this year by running for Mayor of London. If defeated, he plans to retire to private life.

"I have always felt," Mr. Harley pointed out, "that every citizen should take a deep interest in public affairs and be prepared to serve in any capacity his capabilities and the confidence of the electors might call him to. I also feel that five years is as long as any citizen should serve in the City Council. There should be a complete change every five years in order that councilmen might always represent the newer political ideas of the city."

Ald. Harley also stated that he stood for penalties on citizens who fail to exercise their franchise at elections. "As it is, he stated, "London is ruled by an actual minority. Less than half of those entitled to vote do so at municipal elections. There should be laws passed whereby any citizen who, without a valid excuse, fails to vote in three consecutive elections should be debarred from voting for a similar three-year period.

"Such a law might be more than a gesture, but it would at least make the privilege of voting seem more valuable. Human nature appreciates that which is lost or about to be lost more than anything they may actually have."

LONDON WOMAN HELD AS FORGER

Mrs. Anna Beese and Husband Arrested At Cleveland.

SUM INVOLVED IS $50,000

Police Unable To Identify Woman As Former Resident.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 11.—A man and a woman, who gave their names as Charles Sydney Beese, 39, and Anna Beese, 24, who, detectives say, have passed forged checks which may total $50,000 on banks and hotels in all parts of the continent were being held here to-day charged with forgery.

In the man's pockets were found engraved cards bearing the inscription, "Lieut. Sydney Beese, 11th Hussars, British Army." Before her marriage three years ago Mrs. Beese said she lived in London, Ontario. Scores of check books taken from merchants in various parts of the United States were found in the couple's apartment.

Neither at police headquarters nor at local militia headquarters can information be obtained regarding either "Lieut. Sydney Beese" or his wife. The militia records contain no reference to the man, and while the maiden name of his wife is not supplied the police are unable to speak with accuracy as to the bona fides of her claim that she lived in this city for a time prior to her marriage.

VOTE ON $700,000 OF DEBENTURE ISSUE AT COMING ELECTION

Requests For Funds To Be Dealt With By Council Next Monday.

SPRINGBANK DAM FOR DECISION OF RATEPAYERS

Not Definitely Settled Yet What Amount Utilities Commission Will Ask For.

Debentures approximating $700,000 will be asked for at Monday night's session of the City Council. The Public Utilities is asking for $250,000, but this may be reduced to $150,000 either at their own request or on demand of the city fathers. The Hospital Trust is asking for $800,000 for the construction of a nurses' home to be erected between the new children's hospital and the medical school. That building would complete the university-hospital group of buildings occupying both sides of Ottaway avenue for the extent of a block.

Another $150,000 will be asked for building a dam at Springbank. The Chamber of Commerce is taking a vote on the matter now and will undoubtedly support the plan, it is believed, which means so much for public recreation. The step will be taken at any event by the City Council, in that citizens will be asked to vote on the debenture issue. The Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the plan, it is understood, because of the fact that London, outside either Lake Huron or Lake Erie, has no facilities at present for water sports. Even with existing low fares to Port Stanley over the city railway, it is believed that the river should be made fit for public use from Dundas street bridge to the proposed site of the new dam.

$250,000 FOR WESTERN.

Western University, it was stated today, asks $250,000 towards erecting a new arts building. This building, officials of the university state, is absolutely necessary if the university is to take care of the constantly increasing enrollment of students.

Debentures for public works which are classed under the head of local improvements will also be authorized, but will not be put to a vote of the people.

Scottish Golf Balls Float Off Jutland

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Jutland coast is becoming rich with unexpected fish in the form of floating golf balls. A boatman has just announced that he has collected 250 of these balls this season. The waters of the North Sea flow around the north of Scotland and meet the waters of the Atlantic off the Dogger Bank, so that it is more than probable that these golf balls were started on their journey by sliced drives at Seaford or North Berwick, or were topped drives into Scottish burns and streams.

DIES FROM BEING STRUCK BY ENGINE

Albert Luce, Orchard street, Succumbs In Hospital.

Mr. Albert Luce, 8 Orchard street, was so badly injured by being struck by train No. 110, due in London about 3.40 yesterday afternoon, that he died in Victoria Hospital last night, at 11.20.

Mr. Luce was an employee of the bridge and building department of the Grand Trunk and, together with fellow employees, was engaged in making repairs to a bridge at Komoka.

He had just completed his work on the bridge and was walking along the track to the village when he was struck by the train and hurled to the ground, suffering severe injuries about the head and shoulders.

Although he was reported to be resting easily early last night, his condition grew worse later in the evening and he died about midnight.

He is survived by his wife, one son, Roy, and a stepdaughter, Leona, and a small baby daughter.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

The jury, under Dr. Cameron Wilson, will be empaneled this afternoon and will view the body and hold an inquest at 6.15 to-night.

TO FIRE 'EM ALL AND HIRE 'EM OVER

Outside City Employees To Get Blue Ticket On Saturday.

All outside city employees will be discharged on Saturday, October 15, to be re-engaged on the winter schedule basis, Ald. Watkinson announced to-day. This question will come up at the meeting of No. 1 committee on Wednesday, but the alderman asserts all plans have been completed for carrying out the work on Saturday. The Council has also approved of it, he says.

According to the alderman all employees will be discharged and only those who are bona fide Londoners will be engaged again. Preference will be given to the heads of families.

There is no idea of making any reduction in the wages, Ald. Watkinson stated.

"I am absolutely opposed to any cut in the wages unless the usual practice is reversed and the start is made at the top of the ladder," said the alderman in this connection. "Wage reductions are ordinarily started at the bottom and before the top of the line is reached the need for economy has been lost to sight. This plan which should be carried out on Saturday in accord with the decision of the Council is merely to assist in caring for the unemployed during the coming winter.

SHERIFF HANDS IN RESIGNATION

Donald Cameron Has Held Office For 28 Years.

Donald M. Cameron, sheriff of the County of Middlesex for more than 28 years, has handed in his resignation, which is to take effect the end of the present month. The resignation was handed to a representative of the attorney-general's department on Monday afternoon.

In the report of Deputy Attorney-General Bayly on the escape of the alleged murderers, Sidney and William Murrell, it was recommended that Sheriff Cameron resign in favor of a more active man. The sheriff was approached by a representative of the Government in regard to his resignation and requested a couple of days to think the matter over and get things in shape.

Sheriff Cameron was one of the finest and most efficient officials who ever held Government office in the County of Middlesex until his health became bad some four years ago. He was one of the most public-spirited citizens of both the county and the city and took an active part in public affairs.

WAS NEWSPAPERMAN

In his younger days Sheriff Cameron was a member of the reportorial staff of The Toronto Globe. He became a member of that paper in 1863 and is probably the oldest former worker on the Toronto publication. In 1884 he was elected member for West Middlesex for the Federal House. He was also warden of the County of Middlesex at one time. He is now 78 years of age.

Stole To Get Money For Trip Across the Sea To Where Mother Is Dying

Young Dane Tells Pathetic Story To Judge In the County Court.

In a little vine-clad cottage on one of the islands of far away Denmark a mother is lying close to death, while her son is in jail here because he tried to steal enough money to take him back to the bedside of his greatest love.

On Monday last week, Osman Matsen, who came thousands of miles from his native land to a land of promise, Canada, received a letter from Denmark telling of the serious illness of the white-haired little woman about whose knees he toddled in years gone by. He could picture the little home and the beloved mother so far away and they occupied his thoughts above all else.

Two days of this suffering and he could stand it no longer. He decided that he must get back to his tiny home to hold his mother close to him again before she left for the land beyond [illegible] call. He had no friends or relatives in Canada and knew no country [illegible] the call of mother love was so [illegible] he started out to [illegible] which would take him back [illegible]

TELLS PATHETIC TALE.

The prisoner, with a catch in his voice, told the simple story to Judge Macbeth this morning at the courthouse. On Wednesday night he took a hatchet, with which to force an entrance to the store of William Duffin, at Crumlin, and, walking a mile and a half from the farm on which he was employed, gained entrance through a back window. He was caught by Mr. Duffin and his son and turned over to the city police.

The young Dane told his story in rather broken English, but quite clearly, and seemed to understand clearly the position in which he had placed himself. He has only been in Canada [illegible] six weeks and told the court that he had learned English at a night school in Denmark.

After hearing the prisoner's story Judge Macbeth declared that it was too bad that young Matsen had got into trouble, as it was experienced farm hands like himself who were needed in Canada.

Matsen was sentenced to not less than [illegible] months nor more than two years, less one day, for the offense, with a recommendation that he be sent back to Denmark. In addition to this Judge Macbeth intimated that he would communicate with the department and recommend that he be sent back to his native land as soon as possible.

GEORGE WILLIAMS, FOUNDER OF THE Y. M. C. A., WAS BORN HUNDRED YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Twenty-Three Years of Age When Organization Started. Knighted By King.

One hundred years ago to-day there was born in a sleepy village near Old London a babe who was destined to become the founder of one of the greatest world movements ever inaugurated. When his parents christened him George Williams they little realized that he would be honored with knighthood from the King for founding, at the youthful age of 23, the Young Men's Christian Association.

Out of the desire of Williams and his intimate friend Beaumont to improve upon the living conditions of their fellow workers in a large drapery establishment in London, England, has grown an association which to-day consists of 9,000 organizatons with 1,483,000 members and property valued at $143,000,000. Scarcely a civilized portion of the globe to-day but what boasts of a red triangle institution similar to the one begun in the English metropolis 77 years ago.

Williams and Beaumont were clerks in the firm of Hitchcock & Rogers and the filth and folly of their fellow clerks not only disgusted but worried them because it was so contradictory to the upbringing which Williams, at any rate, had had. One evening he suggested to Beaumont a plan for improving conditions, and was gratified to hear his chum say: "All right, George, you lead and I'll follow." This compact made on Blackfriar's Bridge gave to the world the Y. M. C. A. of to-day.

BEGAN IN ENGLAND

Beginning in England in 1844, the association movement was soon domiciled in North America—in Montreal in 1851, and in the same year in Boston, Mass. Later it spread to continental Europe, to the British possessions beyond the seas and more recently to the Orient and other parts of Asia. In North America alone the red triangle flourishes in over 2,000 cities and towns, while the magnificent work which its officers did during the great war are historical facts.

This is the reason for the anniversary celebrations which are being marked in hundreds of branches throughout the world to-day and throughout the current month. The memory of Sir George Williams, founder of the Y. M. C. A., is being revered in all parts of Christendom for it is no idle statement to say that thousands of men have been saved to the church through the agency of the "Y." and that still greater thousands owe their three-fold development of the mind, body and soul to the association.

MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT

The somewhat unique unfolding of the association movement in the United States, records "Association men," criticized and questioned by some, was clearly within the limits the founder had set for it. He welcomed the formation of mutual improvement clubs and of admitting to association membership and fellowship others than actually Christian young men upon whom the management of the association was rested. This policy is still being followed out in heathen countries where members are welcomed regardless of their religious beliefs.

One of the corner-stones upon which the association was founded is the fact that it is a young men's movement. Founded by two young men for young men, it has stood at all times for the boys and youths who are desirous of having social, athletic and intellectual activities. While the primary purpose of the association is evangelical its spirit of comradeship has the greatest appeal to the would-be member.

An interesting incident in connection with the anniversary of Sir George Williams' birth was the recent erection of a memorial tablet in St. Paul's Cathedral. Inscribed on it are the following word credited to Mr. Williams: "My last legacy, and it is a precious one, is the Young Men's Christian Association. I leave it to you beloved men of many countries to carry on and to extend."

FOUNDER OF Y. M. C. A.

GEORGE WILLIAMS, who, when he was 23 years of age, started the work that has grown world-wide.

3 BIG QUESTIONS FOR CONVENTION

G. W. V. A. Port Arthur Meeting Most Important One.

MAY INTRODUCE RITUAL

Discuss Co-Operation With United States Veterans.

Three major issues will confront the delegates who attend the annual G. W. V. A. Dominion convention in Port Arthur next week, it was learned from officials of the local command to-day. Of primary importance is the problem of amalgamating all veteran organizations, secondly comes the matter of a ritual for the association, and finally is the question of an extensive co-operation with the American Legion. All veterans are vitally interested in the decisions which will be made by the G. W. V. A. in these proposals.

While unity and fraternity have been discussed on previous occasions, a suggestion which is quite novel is that of the association arranging a basis of co-operative endeavor with the American Legion. Tentative plans have already been made as a result of correspondence between the headquarters of both organizations, and these will probably be submitted by Dominion President R. B. Maxwell for the consideration of the convention.

The services which would be mutually rendered in each country would include the extension of relief, pensions or information to Canadians and Americans who are not residing in their native country. Each organization would also render valuable aid in locating any missing ex-service man and extending courtesy to members who were traveling outside of their own country.

U. S. REPRESENTATIVES.

That the Americans are serious in their proposals is evidenced by the fact that they will send one or two representatives to the Port Arthur convention of the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A., and have requested the Canadians to reciprocate by sending delegates to their annual convention in Kansas City, which opens the last day of this month. At these meetings it will be possible to discuss many matters of mutual interest to the veterans of both countries and strengthen the bond of friendship between the United States and Canada.

Many members of the G. W. V. A. have entered in the contest for submitting a ritual that will be used by the different commands in placing the association on a fraternal basis. The intention is not to make the association a secret society, but to make it so attractive that it will survive when the post-war problems have all been settled.

G. W. V. A. TO ELECT REPRESENTATIVE

Unemployment Situation Will Be Given Attention To-Night.

FREE MEDICAL ATTENTION

For Men Who Are Out of Work.

Election of a delegate to attend the annual convention of the Dominion Command and consideration of the unemployment situation from the angle of the returned men will occupy the attention of the local meeting of the G. W. V. A. to-night. It is probable that Secretary Herbert Paulger will be appointed to represent the local branch at Port Arthur this month and that free medical attention will be requested for jobless veterans and their families this winter.

Last winter considerable suffering among ex-service men was prevented by the action of the Federal Government in granting medical attention gratis, through the D. S. C. R., to veterans who were out of work. Conditions, while somewhat improved this year, still warrant, it is believed, similar action being taken again this year, so that the returned men will be relieved of the necessity of paying heavy doctor bills.

Such a service could be rendered with little additional cost, as the D. S. C. R. still employs experienced practitioners, and is in a position to carry out any relief scheme that may be initiated. At the present time the only persons who are entitled to assistance from the Government through the department are men who are suffering from maladies or wounds contracted overseas. There has been a falling off in the number of men being treated, especially "out" cases, so that the addition of a few unemployed sick could be adequately cared for by the existing machinery. Col. E. G. Shannon, of the D. S. C. R., while unable to give his opinon on the matter, pointed out that the Government might accede to the veterans' requests if presented now.

As this is the only meeting of the command to be held before the Dominion convention in Port Arthur next month all resolutions that local veterans may wish to submit to the consideration of the Dominion convention must be brought up to-day. There is little doubt but that Secretary Paulger will be delegated to attend the meeting and to take with him any resolutions that may receive the assent of the local command.

CATHOLICS DO NOT ASK FOR CHANGE IN LAW

Request Government to Carry Out Provisions of Statutes Already on Books.

Rev. Father Brisson stated this morning that the petition which was recently signed in behalf of the Catholic schools of Ontario was not a petition to the Government to change laws, but merely a notice to see that the laws which were in force, and had never been acted upon, would be followed out.

Clause 1, in Section 66 of the Separate School Act reads as follows: "A corporation by notice (Form 'B') to the clerk of any municipality wherein a separate school exists may require the whole or any part of the land of which such corporation is either the owner or occupant, or not being the owner, is the tenant, occupant or actual possessor, and the whole or any portion of the business assessment or other assessments of such corporation made under the Assessment Act to be entered and assessed for the purpose of such separate schools."

Father Brisson stated that the Canadian National Railroads' stock was being held by the public and that although the majority of them were possibly public school supporters, there was a great number of them who would assign their portion of the taxes to the separate schools if the law were followed out as it should be.

There are also many hundreds of other large firms and corporations throughout the province in a similar position and he asserted that in no case had a share of the taxes been given over to the support of the separate schools.

FORMAL CHARGE LAID AGAINST PATROLMAN

Herman Rademacher Accused of Throwing His Wife From Bridge.

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—A formal warrant charging Herman Rademacher with the murder of his wife, Gertrude, who was thrown from Belle Isle bridge into the Detroit River last Thursday and drowned, was drawn by the county prosecutor to-day, as a result of the former policeman's confession last night.

Rademacher had been held since Saturday on a police charge.

MOPLAHS PUNISHED

LONDON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — Reuter's correspondent at Simla, India, says that the summary courts dealing with the Moplah rebels are taking strong action. Eight hundred and one prisoners have been committed to higher courts for trial on major charges; 1,634 have been sentenced to terms of two years' imprisonment, and 376 to terms ranging from two to 20 months, while 19 were acquitted.

C. OF C. VOTING ON NEW DAM

If Favorable $150,000 By-Law Will Be Asked.

STRUCTURE 19 FEET HIGH

Filtration Plant Would Eliminate Sewage From the River.

The Chamber of Commerce is taking a vote of its members on the question of a new dam at Springbank. If the vote is favorable, as it is expected it will be, the directors of the C. of C. will submit a request to the Council to submit a by-law to the ratepayers to authorize the issue of $150,000 debentures to be used in the construction of the proposed dam.

For some years this question has been under discussion in the city. Last fall estimates were prepared and it was planned to submit the proposition to the ratepayers then, but this was delayed because of larger plans, including the river drive scheme, being suggested. The estimates considered then were $233,400, whereas it is believed that the dam can be erected for not more than $150,000.

NEW LOCATION.

The site of the new dam will be approximately three-fourths of a mile west of the old dam. This will give an additional stretch of water adjacent to the park for boating purposes. The structure will be 19 feet high and this will raise the level of the water at he forks by four feet. Thus there will be ample facilities for boating of all kinds between the city and Springbank. Eventually electrical equipment may be placed at the dam to provide for a stand-by in case of trouble on the hydro lines entering the city.

There will be absolutely no danger of floods resulting from the damming of the river. The latest type of electrically operated gates will be placed at the dam to permit the flow to be controlled at a moment's notice. In this way the flood from the spring rains and the melting ice can be let out without any menace to the lower portions of the city situated close to the river.

FILTRATION PLANT.

It is also pointed out that the decision of the Council to construct a new filtration plant at the Coves next year will eliminate objections that the sewage will make the river unfit for pleasure purposes. With the completion of the new sewage disposal plant next fall the Thames will be practically cleared of all raw sewage.

While the erection of the dam is connected more or less remotely with the construction of a power house there is no intention of building the latter at the present time. This may be done some time in the future, but it will be postponed for a number of years at least, as the first step in the larger scheme of river beautification, which will include a driveway down either side of the river from the city to Byron.

The members of the C. of C. are asked to send in their ballots at once so the results may be tabulated in sufficient time to have the question submitted to the City Council at an early date.

ASSESSOR WARNS OF EXEMPTIONS

Advises Only Certain Percentage Be Granted.

TOTAL MUCH TOO LARGE

Over $7,000,000 of Property Escapes Tax Payments.

Assessment Commissioner Grant today issued a warning with regard to the growing total of exempted property in London, advised the setting of a permanent percentage limit for such exemptions, and pointed out that the city's spendthrift policy with regard to public works in the districts which have a limited tax rate is driving population away from the older parts of the city, thereby increasing the taxation burdens of those that remain.

Mr. Grant's percentage limit suggestion is the first of its kind yet advanced. At present London's total assessment, including exempted property, is over $70,000,000. Exempted property totals over $7,000,000. Mr. Grant points out that this is going too far and that no city should be compelled to bear such a burden.

For every seven dollars in taxes paid by citizens, six dollars represents his own individual taxes; the other dollar stands, really, for taxes paid on exempted properties.

Mr. Grant pointed out that the city has a 14 per cent. of assessment debt limit, and to his mind the logical thing to do is to set a percentage limit to exemption of properties. Ten per cent. or lower would solve the problem when, as he pointed out, the whole system of exemption is revised, and this would mean that many exempted properties now entirely free from taxation would pay a full share of the difference between the actual assessment of church, institutional and public buildings and the 10 per cent. limit.

Mr. Grant also points out that it is the city's business to see that city conveniences are not extended beyond the area in which the annual tax rate is in force. This includes water mains, new schools and sewers. The city is now confronted with a suit for the setting aside of an $80,000 sewer extension assessment which, if decided against the city, will have to be paid out of the pockets of the general taxpayer.

It is also pointed out that the extension of water, electric light and street lighting to sections beyond the city, where county tax rates are in force, is drawing citizens from London at a tremendous rate. Citizens move from London knowing that they can secure all city comforts in suburbs, and even if they have to pay double for electric light or water, they are able to more than make up the difference through the lower rural tax rate and the absence of municipal income tax collectors.

"It is time to call a halt in this matter," Mr. Grant stated. "The total of exempted property is too large, and public works made without regard to tax rates in force is stopping the city's normal growth."

In a recent report of assessment and population, Mr. Grant points out that the four city wards increased only eight in population during the past year; the annexed district gained over 400, and no figures are available of growth in the suburban districts of London where the tax rate is comparatively low.

BROKE HIS LEG.—H. P. Edwards, 1219 Florence street, employed on the new Victoria school building, Wharncliffe road, fell from a ladder while working on the school this morning and broke his leg. The police ambulance was called and he was removed to Victoria Hospital after Dr. Bowman had applied first aid treatment.

"EVERY MAN AN ASSESSOR" PLAN FINDS FAVOR WITH SEVERAL OF ALDERMEN

Matter Will Be Discussed By No. 1 Committee At Meeting On Wednesday.

London may act on the suggestion made by James Easton to allow every man to act as his own assessor. The plan is finding favor among the aldermen and it will be brought up for discussion at No. 1 committee on Wednesday afternoon. It is expected that it will be referred to the Council with the view to taking such steps as may be necessary to initiate the plan.

Ald. Wenige stated to-day that he is heartily in favor of the suggestion and he will father it through the Council. Several other aldermen are inclined to believe the plan might be worked out to good advantage also. It is receiving considerable support from the individual ratepayers as well.

"That is the system," said Ald. Wenige, referring to the plan to-day. "Put every man on his honor. You may rest assured that the various properties would be equitably valued. Every owner would think twice before he would attempt to place a lower estimate on his holdings than he believed it to be worth. There would be a few pikers, perhaps, who would want to evade paying their share of taxes in this way. But they would be prevented from undervaluing their properties for selfish reasons. Certainly they could not expect to sell on any other basis than that set by themselves for assessment purposes. Thus even the few pikers would see the advantage of paying a reasonable amount of taxes rather than depreciating their properties."

PURCHASE OF PROPERTY.

Ald. Wenige further explained that he would not favor carrying out the suggestion that any person could purchase property by filing a claim to it and valuing it at a higher figure than that set by the true owner. This would not work out satisfactorily, he thinks. His idea is that the property owners of London should file their returns annually, stating their property and the valuation thereon, in much the same manner as is done in making the income tax returns to the Government. He points out that every person is placed on his honor to make a correct income return. There are penalties provided for those who are caught trying to evade this in any way, but the percentage of cases where it is found necessary to impose this penalty is small. The alderman is of the opinion that the assessment of the city could be carried out equitably by placing the onus of valuation on the property owners. At any rate, he has so much faith in the plan that he is intending to suggest its adoption by the Council. Whether his fellow aldermen will see his viewpoint on this or not remains to be seen, but it is expected that the matter will be favorably considered.

CHILDREN'S LIBRARY MAY BE STARTED

Dream of Separate Building On Specious Grounds Might Come True.

London may soon have a unique library institution which would be the first of its kind in Canada, probably North America. This proposed institution would be known as "The Children's Library" and would fill, it is believed, a long-fet want.

Ladies interested in library work in London had the matter under consideration to-day and these preliminary discussions may lead to an early statement of aim which is expected to enlist a hearty support of all classes of citizens.

The public library has a children's room that is beautiful in many respects and is used by thousands of children, and so large has the work grown that many citizens feel that now is the time to launch the children's library plan.

They picture a one-story building set in ample grounds. Inside there would be sunny book rooms with shelves fitted to all sides, the biggest, medium-sized and the smallest.

There would be a reading-room with stores of children's magazines and picture books filled with delightful scenes of a really charming world once billboards and other atrocities of that sort are forgotten.

But the chief room would be the story telling room. Those discussing the idea picture a wide fireplace that would burn real logs, in this room devoted to Peter Pen et al. And there groups of youngsters would listen to the stories of beautiful princesses and handsome princes, three bears and forests of bears, fairies and brownies and the babies that lived under blessed St. Brandon's isle.

"Oh, its only a beautiful dream," one lady stated; "we couldn't do it in London."

"But we will," said another with determination. "There is no beautiful dream but is realized, some time, some how!"

ORGANIZE SERVICE COUNCIL IN WINDSOR

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Evening — Will Fight Liquor Smugglers.

Windsor now has organized opposition to the liquor interests and other combines which, through their activities, are lowering the respect for the law in the border cities. An enthusiastic meeting of prominent citizens was held there last night, at which the problems of the district were discussed with a view to their immediate solution. A branch of the Social Service Council was formed and a secretary was appointed.

Many of the "big guns" of the Ontario Council addressed the meeting and discussed with the citizens the best methods of attacking the social evils which exist in the neighborhood of the border. Gilbert Agar, provincial secretary, Peter Bryce, director of Child Welfare for Ontario, and T. D. McCullough, district secretary for Western Ontario, were all in attendance and assisted with the organization.

If the uncontradicted statements which have been made recently concerning conditions along the western frontier are correct, the Social Service Council has its work cut out in raising the moral standard of the communities. A large percentage of the towns along the border are said to be engaged in the illicit shipment of liquor to the United States, while lawlessness also takes the form of smuggling other contraband and disregard of the Sabbath day.

While the Social Service Council is establishing and strengthening branches throughout the whole of Western Ontario, the organization at Windsor is regarded as perhaps the most important. Due to its situation close to Detroit, the temptation to contravention of the law and to following the example of the United States in respect of Sunday observance, is very great. There are, however, a considerably large number of people who are doing their best to right conditions and preserve the good name of the border cities.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 11. — Up early owing to my wife being seized with a distemper and so abroad to the chirurgeon's and to rouse him, thinking mayhap I shall be a widow man by the time I get back, but on returning with the chirurgeon he informs me that she suffers with no more than the vapours complicated with her foot going to sleep, which wakes her out of bad dreams screaming that her foot is dead. So vexed at her, but glad that she is not dead as she makes out what with the price of undertaking and such like, but mean to have her life insured this week 'gainst any eventuality.

The weather do continue the most mixed I ever saw it. Night skies marvelous blue in the twilight, but rain by morning. All being a portent, methinks, of snow e'er long and so with my greatcoat to the tailors for a new lining come winter.

A strange thing is how I wear summer small clothes next to my shin to this date and mean to wear them until November. This being the new fashion and a great maker of hardiness. But never in my life before did I wear summer small clothes to this date. It being a fixed rule at our house, in my youth, for to don red flannel come the first of October. And though these flannels tickle and itch the worst in the world, I find them a sovereign preventer of pneumonia, and withal pretty comfortable.

A sad, charming little story yesterday of how a fox terrier puppy falls in love with a kitten and they chum together the happiest in the world, but the fox terrier sold. Whereat the kitten do pine away utterly and dies, finally, with its small head between its paws pretty forlorn. A Burns is needed to express the real beauty of this story and the thing, behind which seems, somehow, to be a clue to the Mystery. Poets have filled the libraries of the world of love between the sexes, which is love only sometimes, but methinks David alone did justice to that perfect sentiment of friendship, such as he felt for Prince Jonathan.

A might petty, bothering day yesterday. First the printers spoil my poem utterly, in which I use letters of the Greek alphabet, by rendering my "Lambda" as "lamma," which, Zeus witness, was never in any alphabet whatever! Also, due to rain, I am unable to ride my velocipede and what with one thing and another feel utterly disgusted with life. The climax coming when our religious reporter do match me for drinks (malted milk and eggs) and he wins (30 cents) to my great discomfort.

Which reminds me how my nephew goes to spend the night with the reigning chum in his life at this moment bating myself, who do consider himself a permanent fixture, and miss the rogue more than I thought possible. So he comes back after school yesterday and pretty full of his visiting and other pleasures. The notable things being that his chum's mother do cook wonderful spiced cookies and they have a playing harpsichord which plays itself. He also mentions what he has for his meals: "We have chicken for dinner last night," he observes, "and pie, and for breakfast we have more pie. Methinks they be pretty pious family!" Which, St. George witness, is a truer saying than he wotted of. For many families these days may lay no higher claim to piety than that.

Out to our medical school yesterday and to interview the dean of it, who speaks to me more comfortably than ever expected. Pointing out that I am welcome to come there to search for news and also observe: "And if I be short with you, Pepys, at any time, mind me not. For by St. Andrew, I am liable to loose my amiability at any time and mean naught by my shortness." Which pleases me mightily. Also showing another side of human nature. If all of us were less quick to take offence some bullies might find this life a paradise to the vexing of we meek, but most of us would be happier.

The news is that the grocers continue their warr on the bakers, which leads us to believe that when bakers and grocers fall out, sober, ordinary honest people are mighty apt to get their dough!

It is also suggested that the men who turn out the bears at our zoo do so being displeased with the visions giver them by their handmade hootche, which fails to produce the animal tent that older tipplers be familiar with in memory. And so failing of that crowing glory of intemperance, they forthwith fall on our wild animals and set them loose. But this sort of vandalism should be put an end to. It was the work of cowards and methinks drunken cowards. Let us see to it that it happens no more and those attempting it be properly punished.

We wish not to be written down as a fomenter of international antipathies, but methinks every Briton will this day carry his back straighter, seeing that the Lords' privy councillors of his majesty do indicate that they want no "Congressional medal of honor" for our "Unknown Lad" who lies in Westminster. Especially from a Congress that would disrupt this empire by every means possible for a little, political end; who introduce laws insulting the King in that no actor is to play the part of royalty on a Yang-kee stage. This Britain still holds that the Wooden Cross is our highest decoration of valor! A million have been issued!

INSURANCE COMPANIES WILL PAY ALL LOSSES

Stolen Mail Insured—Amount of Money Taken Was About $4,000.

"The only people who will lose by the Detroit mail robbery will be the insurance companies," said Postal Inspector D. J. McLean, referring to the hold-up of the mail truck in Detroit and the theft of a quantity of Canadian mail matter. "The money packages stolen, aggregating in value some $4,000, were all insured," Mr. McLean said.

It was first reported that a large number of "race track letters," each thought to have contained money, was included in the loot of the mail thieves, but the inspector investigated this report and found that the "letters," so called, were notices of a meeting of track owners and contained no money. There were 30 of these letters in all.

REORGANIZE STAFF FOR 1922 SOON

Changes Coming At Victoria toria Hospital.

MAY NAME MEDICAL CHIEF

Dr. Tillman Will Probably Head Children's Institution.

Appointment of a medical and surgical staff at Victoria Hospital for 1922 is now under consideration, and the names of the various heads of departments and assistants will be announced within a short while, Superintendent T. H. Heard stated to-day. The reorganization at this time is considered particularly important in view of the enlargement of the hospital administration by the inclusion of the new children's hospital, and the appointment of a permanent medical chief-of-staff is forecasted.

That appointment would not, of course, affect the existing appointment of administrative superintendent, which office is held by Mr. Heard, but would be a position now believed to be necessary by reason of the hospital's extension and the opening up of a separate building for the care of sick children.

The staff of the new children's hospital is already tentatively appointed. It is understood that Dr. W. J. Tillman will be the surgeon-in-chief at that institution.

MANY CLINICS.

Victoria Hospital is also doing an ever-increasing amount of work in the way of clinics. In co-operation with the Institute of Public Health and the Medical School, pre-natal work has grown in one year from an experiment into one of the most largely used of the hospital's health services. Dr. Robert Fergusson is the head of that clinic. The venereal clinic continues to extend its influence, and is a bulwark against the rising tide of social diseases.

The general free dispensary clinic and tuberculosis clinic are visited by hundreds each month. The issue of antitoxins for various communicable diseases is said to be responsible for London's present practical immunity from plagues.

With the opening of the new children's hospital a clinic for sick children will also be opened and special attention given to the question of diet, health preservation, and functional disorders.

FIRE SCARE CAUSES EXCITEMENT AT THEATER

Coolness of Actors Averts What Might Have Been Panic at Majestic.

While day after day and week after week the children of the city in the various day schools are trained just how to act in the event of a fire occurring at any time and great care is taken by the teachers to see that the drills are carried out in perfect harmony with a view to their strenuous work having some effect in later life, the drills had no effect whatever on an enormous crowd at one of the local theaters on Monday night, when a screen fell over in the lobby of the theater and someone got the idea into their head that it was nothing short of a fire raging behind their backs.

In less than half a second everyone in the house was on his feet, intent on escape.

Happily, the management and one of the "heroes" of the play who, by the way, in the midst of a violent love appeal to a girl who had just turned him down, took immediate hold of the situation and by their coolness prevented what might have ended in a heavy loss of life or at least some serious injuries.

J. E. Bodaly, 1 Windsor avenue, has returned to the city on furlough from Portuguese East Africa, where he has been engaged in missionary work for several years.

Specialist Said ECZEMA Was Incurable

—but he reckoned without Zam-Buk

Writing from Sweetwater, Tenn., U.S. Capt. Oscar V. Petty, says:—"For four years I had an obstinate dry eczema. "My skin peeled off, and disfiguring splotches of the eruption appeared on my face and head. A well-known skin specialist said the eruption could not be cured, but friends out in Maine got me to try some Zam-Buk. To my great delight, I soon saw an improvement. The peeling skir stopped within a week. At the time I started with Zam-Buk the eczema had spread all over my body, so that it took reasonable perseverance for the balm to be thoroughly effective. However I am delighted to inform you, that now, by the use of Zam-Buk, my skin has been restored to normal healthy condition." "I have a friend who also suffered from a similar distressing skin affection. In his case too, within a few days Zam-Buk was acting splendidly. He tells me that Zam-Buk beats anything he has ever known."

Zam-Buk cannot be equalled for ulcers, boils, abscesses, piles, ringworm, poisoned wounds, and all sores, wounds and injuries. Purely herbal. All dealers 50c. box, 3 for $1.25. FOR TRIAL SAMPLE mention paper and send 1c. postage to Zam-Buk Co Toronto.

COMMEND POLICY OF ATTY.-GENERAL

Delegates to Epworth League Convention Are Pleased

GAMBLING QUESTION UP

Large Attendance at Annual Meeting of District

By a standing vote the Epworth Leagues of the London district, assembled in annual convention at Dundas Center Church, yesterday commended Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general of Ontario, for his fearless stand on the question of all forms of public gambling. The evening rally was the largest in the history of the district leagues and was featured by the installation of the new executive including the incoming president, H. Reavely, of Hale street, and an address by W. L. Clark, a prominent lecturer and author, of Leamington.

The convention was divided into two sessions, consisting of a public rally in the evening and a meeting for the leaguers in the afternoon. Rev. W. E. Millson gave an address on evangelism and social service at the afternoon session, and was followed by the Rev. S. J. Thompson, who spoke on "Methodist Missions in British Columbia. W. Boyce, president of the district presided.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The turnout was large, especially from the rural districts. Dundas Center, with 85 per cent. of its enrollment present, had the largest representation, while North street, with 81 per cent., captured the record for the rural section. Each league was called upon to report its membership, attendance and missionary contributions, and it was shown that the various leagues have contributed considerably over $2,000 during the past year to missionary enterprises. Each league was assigned to a different section of the church, where banners denoting their congregation had been previously placed.

The text of the communication to be forwarded by the convention to the attorney-general follows:

"We, the Epworth Leagues of the London district, in convention assembled, do extend most heartily our congratulations on your splendid efforts to do away with race track and all other forms of public gambling. We appreciate your courageous stand on this evil, which has become a public scandal and a blotch on the fair name of our province. You have no doubt raised enmity by your actions, and we therefore send you our warmest thanks and pledge ourselves to support you in the arduous task which you have undertaken."

A second resolution was to Frank Langford, of Toronto, requesting that the Epworth League ritual which, for some reason, has been deleted from the church discipline, be inserted once more, and at the earliest possible moment.

Rev. W. E. Millson, of the department of social service and evangelism, in his afternoon address pleaded with the young women not to set a pace in dressing that cannot be followed by their sisters, who may not be in as fortunate circumstances financially. By following every dictate of fashion they make other girls feel uncomfortable and this was decidedly ill-advised, especially in a league meeting.

Rev. S. J. Thompson outlined the history of Methodism in British Columbia since the earliest times and his address was listened to with great interest. Mr. Clark, of Leamington, who gave the address of the evening, spoke on "The Garden of Youth," and pointed out the folly of sowing the seeds of sin in soil which the Lord had intended should be used for bringing forth only good deeds. He referred to the Epworth League as one of the most productive of seeding places.

Rev. J. A. Agnew, who was returned as honorary president of the convention, told the leaguers that the people of to-day were taking things too easily and this spirit was responsible for the empty pews in the average church. He introduced and inducted into office the following officers: President, H. Reavely; first vice-president, Maitland Numa; second vice-president, Helen Hardy; third vice-president, Alice Carley; fourth vice-president, Rev. W. E. Jewitt; fifth vice-president, Mrs. A. J. McLean; recording secretary, Gladys Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. A. Hunt; conference representative, W. Boyce; secretary evangelism and social service, Rev. W. L. Hiles.

During the evening session Mrs. W. B. Wortman rendered vocal numbers, while Misses Dorothy and Gertrude Cahill gave appropriate violin selections.

WILLIAM HENRY DEAD

William Henry, a well-known Londoner, died at his late residence, 19 Queen's Place, last night, after an illness of a few days. Deceased was 34 years of age and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry, Caradoc Township. He was born in this city and resided in the North End for a number of years.

Besides a widow and infant daughter, he is survived by his mother and father, three sisters, Annie, Nelli and Lena, two brothers, Jack and Jim, all of this city.

ROYAL TEMPLARS OF TEMPERANCE REVIVED

At a largely-attended meeting at the Foresters' Hall, East London, the London Council of the Royal Templars of Temperance was reorganized and the following elected to office: Select councilor, Thomas Leah; vice-councilor, Mrs. Annie Ellison; financial secretary, William Giles, 280 Talbot street; recording secretary, Mr. Wade; herald, Mr. Osborn; chaplain, Mrs. Carney; warden, Clement Ellison; past chancellor, Mr. Jewell; guard, Mr. Garnard.

Seven applications were received for membership, but on account of the inclemency of the weather but two reported for initiation.

Manager of Insurance Bro. A. H. Lyle and Organizer Bro. Allen, both of Hamilton, were present at the session and briefly addressed the council.

Bros. Wade and Giles were appointed a committee to secure the Foresters' Hall in the Dowler building for meetings on the second and fourth Fridays in each month.

At the Theaters

THE MAJESTIC.

That old-fashioned love story which is so dear to the hearts of many thousands of book lovers and theatergoers all over the world, "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," was presented to a packed house at the Majestic Theater last night and will be offered there for the remaining part of the week.

The theme of the story deals with life in the wilds, love and intrigue and is one that grips the heartstrings and creates forty emotions.

The story deals with an uneducated girl in the heart of the wilderness, way down in the mountains of Virginia. While out for a run through the woods one day, among the only friends she had ever known, the birds of the air, the animals in the woods and the babbling brooks, she meets a handsome young Easterner, who had picked out that particular part of the country for a holiday. Knowing that her people were moonshiners, and fearing that he was one of those cursed "revenooers" which many of the Southerners had cause to fear, hate and respect, she is very backward at first, and it is only after many secret meetings that she is at last persuaded to present him to her folks.

The happy days soon come to an end and he is forced to return to the city with a promise of a quick return.

Shortly after he has gone an old feud breaks out among the hill gangs and "June," as the girl is called, is forced to take refuge in another part of the country.

A long time after, when both had given up all hopes of ever seeing each other again, they had a chance meeting at the place where they had first met and are happily reconciled.

The Grew players are rapidly instilling themselves in the hearts of Londoners and with this offering merely put another feather in their caps.

ALLEN'S

One of the largest audiences of the season witnessed the first showing of "Dangerous Curve Ahead," the feature picture being presented the forepart of this week at the Allen Theater. The story, in part, is as follows:

Phoebe Mabee is engaged to Harley Jones when the inevitable third party arrives in town. Phoebe immediately commences a violent flirtation with him and breaks off her engagement with her fiance. Following a period of miserable repentance the engagement is renewed and they are married.

After a long and miserable career of married life and under the restraints imposed by the care of her home and the rearing of her two children she seizes upon the first opportunity of again tasting the wine of life when her husband is away on a business trip.

How she avoids the "Dangerous Curve" and is brought to her senses by the illness of her little child constitutes a happy ending to the picture.

Presented on the same bill is the great laugh producer, Snub Pollard, in a comedy entitled "Late Lodgers." Allen's News Pictorial, Canada's supreme soprano, Beatrice O'Leary, who was forced to respond to several encores, and Allen's Concert Orchestra.

Monday afternoon's matinee and baby show attracted a large audience. Dr. H. A. Stevenson acted as judge.

THE PATRICIA.

The large audience which filled the Patricia Theater last night to witness the first local showing of "The Shark Master," starring the Universal player, Frank Mayo, were treated to a full program of interesting romance, stirring adventure and plenty of thrills.

Sublimated thrills were furnished by a fire in mid-ocean, the sinking of a huge liner, a tropical hurricane, a dive from a high cliff into the foaming breakers and the rescue of an island maiden from the shark-infested waters.

One of the features of the picture is the handling of a score of fear-crazed sailors, who had mutinied during a storm at sea, and forcing them to return to their posts of duty.

As a lover Frank Mayo fills the duty to a "T" no matter under what circumstances the affair may be. In the picture he has two very serious affairs of the heart. First the conventional love affair with the girl in his own station of life, and later, as a derelict, in a soulful union with an untamed maiden in the South Sea Islands.

On the same program a Starr comedy and two-reel Western drama, starring Eileen Sedgewick as "The Girl in the Saddle," together with Bill and Cora Monohan, star vaudeville entertainers, who offer a comedy skit entitled, "Hot Town Artists," is presented.

LOEW'S.

William A. Brady's picture production of "Life," based on Thompson Buchanan's stage success, was well received by the large audience which was present at Loew's Theater last night.

As an excellent example of the melodramatic stories, which were all the rage some years ago, "Life" has qualities which make it quite acceptable to all classes of movie fans. One watches with tremendous interest the vain struggles of an innocent man, accused of a crime, trying to escape the fate which menaces him, and when his faithful wife, after many dramatic incidents, at last succeeds in freeing him and bringing the guilty ones to justice, the conclusion is naturally a very happy one. The picture was well produced, and the heart interest and appeal of the story manifest themselves with convincing force.

Among the added attractions is a Mack Sennett comedy, "Hard Knocks and Love Taps," presenting an amusing struggle of domestic life. Loew's concert orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Tirri; British and Canadian Pathe news and three vaudeville attractions.

Heading the vaudeville is an offering of comedy singing and talking by Baldwin, Austin and Gaines. Connie and Albert have a good offering in comic songs and parodies and a school days' act, and, last but not least, Byron and Langdon with a comic skit.

The program will be repeated again to-morrow and on Wednesday.

GRIFFENHAGEN DISMISSED.

REGISTRATION AT WESTERN IS 729

Largh Growth in Classes Shown by Official Figures

350 IN ARTS CLASSES

150 Taking Medical Course and 229 Public Health

The total registration of the classes at Western University for the term just opening is so far 729, according to figures given out last evening by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, secretary. They are divided as follows:

Arts	350
Medicine	150
Public Health	229
Total	729

This does not take into consideration the summer extra-mural or extension classes, but only those who are in residence.

The number is mighty gratifying to the governors and staff of the university, putting Western as it does, in a position where it compares not unfavorably with other Canadian universities As Colonel Brown pointed out last night, the arts department registration is more than half that at McGill last year, and more than 60 per cent. of that of Queen's University.

HEALTH REPORT.

"FRENCH LEAVE" BRILLIANT PLAY

London Comedy Success Delights Audience at Grand

EXCELLENT ENGLISH CAST

Story a Delightful One of the French War Zone

When a pretty woman throws the wrench into a man-made machine she generally makes a terrible mess of things. Just as "generally," however, she gets out of the mess by the simple feminine trick of enlisting the sympathies of someone, necessarily a man, who, knowing how the machine is made, has the proper idea for taking it to bits as a preliminary to a search for wrenches. Add a dash of destiny favorable to pretty women and the machine returns to position, well oiled and running as easily as need be.

Some such complications as the above were set on foot "Somewhere in France," when little Mrs. Glenister, a bride of a few months, in utter defiance of military rules, decides to visit a brigade resting out of line, in which her husband, Capt. Harry Glenister, holds rank as brigade major. Mrs. Glenister threw the wrench. But it took the combined fascinations of "Mlle. Juliette," the quick thinking of Corp. Sykes and the gruff sympathy of Brig.-Gen. Archibald Root, C.B., to bring the machine to a halt just a second this side of the "crash." And even then it is to be doubted that the crash could have been averted if destiny, in the guise of a serious illness, which befell the divisional officer, had not put Gen. Root temporarily in command, with power to send Mrs. Glenister back to Paris "under a military escort," efficient enough to keep that lively young lady in order, namely, under escort of her husband.

TENSE MOMENTS.

Of course there are tense moments. Among these the moment in which Captain Glenister first finds out who the fascinating Mlle. Juliette really is. The moment in which that honest soldier and lover feels his first pang of jealousy on account of what he calls the "sickening egotism of that swine," Lieut. George Graham, acting staff captain. The moment when General Root indulges fairly freely in Madame Denaux's "vin ordinaire," makes a pretty speech and squeezes Mlle. Juliette's hand under the mess table. The moment when M. Jules Marnier, brigade interpreter, in the fury of his zeal against spies, discovers that Mlle. Juliette is the infamous Olga—"Something," and warns all and sundry against the dangerous subtleties of that much-sought-for young woman.

Corporal Sykes, brigade mess corporal, and Rifleman Jenks, mess waiter, consider the "goings on" in Madame Denaux's brigade billet to be "some'fing awful," and prognosticate that things will grow "awrfuller and awrfuller before they finish." Despite, however, the gloomy foretellings of these men of poached eggs and pick-me-ups, the clouds that overshadow the messroom in due season roll by, as lightly as the clouds that hide the prospect of erstwhile sunny France from Madame Denaux's window. And when at length the sun shines it shines not alone upon happily reunited lovers, but upon the befogged mentality of Jenks, who, young as he is, must that day have gotten a comparatively clear look-in on the ways of women.

Madge Surtees gave a vivacious and finished interpretation of the role of Mlle. Juliette. Her "broken English" is capital. Her French cafe chantant mannerisms are true to the life. She dresses the part with the requisite "flare." And if her transitions from the role of the Paris popular singer into that of the English lady and wife lack a trifle in verisimilitude, why let it be said that such transitions are among the most difficult in dramatic art. Miss Surtees is a brilliant and attractive little artiste.

Jack Murtagh's work as Captain Harry Glenister is worthy of the highest commendation. Though the audience was fairly rocking with merriment, it is Mr. Murtagh's art to "moult no feather." Serious and overcast in his jealousy of Graham, he lets the audience laugh itself into hysterics and never cracks a smile. It was a perfect piece of control, an earnestness of character conception which made of his role a sheer delight.

Walter Edwin as the testy and yet kind-hearted General Root, has, perhaps, a more conventional part. It is, however, a part into which, by his clear-cut conception of the character, as also by sudden gusts of self-criticism and humor in the man, he infuses a real originality. The evening closed with everybody in love with General Root.

Harry J. Thomas gave a gentle and true-to-life interpretation of the role of Corporal Sykes; nothing overdone and yet nothing come tardy off in the make-up of the old soldier. Charles Romano made a bright and whimsical Lieutenant Graham. William Dean was a true Cockney comic in the character of Rifleman Jenks. John Skinner gave a neat and excellent interpretation of the French interpreter. While Genevieve Bortolacci, with her voluble harsh peasant French, as well as by the haunting sense of tragedy in her, ran the requisite shadow line into the brilliant and laughable scene.

"French Leave," taking it on the whole, is as good an antidote for glooms as could be imagined and well worth seeing.

The one scene is simple, but well set. Costumes for the most part military, relieved by Mlle. Juliette's gaudy "frou frou."

A good-size audience, every member of which was cheered and delighted.

"French Leave" will be repeated tonight and on Wednesday, matinee and evening. It is worthy the patronage of London. FANFAN.

Watch Your Gums—Bleeding a Sign of Trouble

Medical science knows how serious is the sign of bleeding gums. For it knows that tender and bleeding gums are the forerunners of Pyorrhea, that dread disease which afflicts four out of five people over forty.

If the disease is unchecked, the gum-line recedes, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the Pyorrhea poisons which seep into the system and wreck the health. These poisons often cause rheumatism, nervous disorders, anaemia, and other ills.

To avoid Pyorrhea, visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums. Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea or check its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean. Start using it today. If gum-shrinkage has already set in, use Forhan's according to directions and consult your dentist immediately for special treatment.

NO NIGHT CLASSES IN LOWER SCHOOLS

Inspector Edwards Shows Fallacy of Proposal.

Inspector C. B. Edwards yesterday asserted that he would not recommend the establishment of night public school classes to be held in various wards. This proposal was made direct to the Board of Education by Dr. George Weir, school attendance officer, instead of through the senior inspector. It is believed that the plan would mean the spending of a considerable sum, and that the establishment of night public school classes might subvert the night school work of the technical school, where a thousand young Londoners are attending each week.

Mr. Edwards will, however, take due cognizance of that part of Dr. Weir's report which stated that considerable illiteracy existed in London. These cases will be thoroughly investigated and such illiterates, if found, may be compelled to attend the night classes at the Technical School, where ample provision is made for any degree of intelligence, classes for foreigners being one of its many activities.

The night school enrollment is growing at an unprecedented rate, Principal H. B. Beal announced to-day, and during this week the few remaining places may be filled on application.

MAY ARBITRATE ON SMALLER WAGES

Probable Outcome of Proposed C.N.R. Reduction

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—The question of wage reductions, as affecting the lower paid employees of the Canadian National Railways, will in all probability be referred to a board of arbitration as a result of the stand taken by F. P. Brady, adviser to the National Railways executive, before the board of conciliation, which met this afternoon.

A previous session of the board a few days ago was adjourned in order to allow the representatives of the railway and the employees to negotiate to a further extent. Mr. Brady agreed to the withdrawal of all suggestions of a revision of the schedule of working conditions, but refused to consider any alteration of the scale of wage reductions which the company made effective on July 16 last.

The representatives of the employees maintained that the reductions in the case of the lower paid men were improper at the time when they became effective, and much more so at the present, because the cost of living had shown decided advances during the last two months.

As a result of the firm stand taken by both parties, H. P. Hill, chairman of the conciliation board, stated that he would at once make a report to the Minister of Labor. The only course left in order to settle the dispute would be the appointment of a board of arbitration.

ASSAILS CRITICS OF DEPARTMENT

True Facts Bared by Manager Buchanan Who Brands Story Colossal Misrepresentation.

"Colossal misrepresentation of facts" quite well expresses the opinion given by Manager Buchanan, of the Utilities Commission yesterday with reference to the story as carried by a local paper on Saturday of a South London lawn having been laid waste by the city pick and shovel gang. According to the story the owner of the lawn registered several complaints to the department because her lawn had been torn up and left with a big hole in it for five weeks by the men who were laying water mains.

"We have never received any complaint of that case," said Mr. Buchanan. "The least any paper could do before publishing any such story that reflects on the action of any civic department would be to secure the complete facts before giving the case publicity. In justice to us we should have been asked for a statement of the situation before the story was published. If any complaints had been made to this department they would have been looked into immediately."

LEAGUE PROVES VALUE TO WORLD

Sir George Perley at London Tells of Geneva Parley

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Sir George H. Perley, Canadian high commissioner, returned to-day with Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty to London and gave the Canadian Press some impressions of the second assembly of the League of Nations, which has just concluded.

Sir George said the league had already justified itself. It was unfortunate that so many people expected too much from the start. The very fact that the representatives of the different nations got together and discussed matters had in itself made for world peace. The discussions throughout, he said, were characterized by a degree of patience and tolerance that was most inspiring.

Of the work accomplished, said Sir George, the outstanding achievement was the formation of a permanent court of international justice, which the powers had tried to establish several times previously. A step forward had also been made regarding the traffic in women and children, the assembly extending the international convention handling this matter. The league had also shown the world what could be done by joint action in health matters. Regarding typhus, Canada had given generously towards this and it was hoped that other nations would increase their subscriptions.

Concerning the criticism leveled against the league, alleging unduly heavy expenditure, Sir George Perley said two experts, one English and one French, had investigated and reported that the expenses were not excessive.

LONDON PUPILS GET CHANCE AT 25 MEDALS

Special Activities Mark Opening of Fire Prevention Wook—Firemen Are Distributing Literature.

It has been decided that 25 of the medals to be awarded by the Ontario Fire Prevention League, Inc., as prizes for the best essay on fire prevention subjects, to be written by pupils in Grades III. and IV. of the public, private and separate schools, will be open to competition by pupils in London.

Among the other allotments for the province are the following: Toronto 180, Hamilton 40, Ottawa 40, Amherstburg 2, Aylmer 2, Beamsville 2, Blenheim 2, Brantford 12, Chatham 8, Galt 8, Goderich 3, Guelph 7, Kitchener 7, Leamington 2, Listowel 2, Morrisburg 2, Owen Sound 10, Petrolea 3, Ridgetown 2, St. Thomas 7, Sarnia 8, Stratford 6, Strathroy 2, Walkerton, Walkerville 3, Wallaceburg 3, Waterloo 3, Windsor, 9, Wingham 2, Woodstock 8.

One medal each is allotted to all villages with a population of less than 1,000 under the 1911 census, and also to counties outside the established boundaries of cities, towns and villages. Fire prevention topics will be taken up in the city schools this week.

The local branch of the Ontario Fire Prevention League, which is really a subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce, under the chairmanship of J. M. Watt, has been busy in the distribution of literature in preparation for the fire prevention week which commenced on Sunday. The annual meeting of the Ontario Fire Prevention League, Ico., will be held in Toronto on Tuesday, October 18. J. M. Watt will probably attend from London. At that meeting reports of what has been accomplished during the week will be submitted.

The firemen are busy to-day distributing literature calling attention to the citizens the significance of fire prevention week and asking the co-operation of all citizens of Canada to cut down the national waste, resulting from fires which may, with a little care, be easily prevented. Booklets and colored signs are being distributed to the various public offices in the city.

KITTEN DIES PINING FOR ABSENT PUPPY CHUM

A Little Story of True Love With Pitiful Ending.

An interesting story of the love of a kitten for a fox terrier pup comes from Malcolm McKenzie, of Byron. It is a story which will interest animal lovers and which Mr. McKenzie thinks ought to enlist others who are not already lovers of animals.

The last one of a litter of fox terrier puppies took a great liking to a scraggy little kitten of no particular breed and the two became great friends. They always slept together, the kitten curled up between the paws of the terrier. The friendship developed between the two and they were always together.

Finally one day the pup was sold and taken away. Almost immediately the kitten began to pine and refused to eat or drink anything. No particular attention was paid to the little bit of fluff, as the owner believed that it would get over the loss of its playmate in a few days. One day the kitten was missed from the house and was later discovered in the yard, lying with its head between its paws, dead. The kitten, deprived of its playmate, had died of a broken heart.

News of the Federal Campaign

Ontario Tour of Crerar Is Arranged—B. Fancher Chosen By East Lambton Farmers—Oxford Convention To-Day.

WOMAN MAY OPPOSE PREMIER

WINNIPEG, Oct. 10.—Manitoba may have a woman candidate in the person of Mrs. Mary McCallum, assistant secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, contesting Portage la Prairie on the Progressive ticket in opposition to Premier Meighen, according to a report published in the Winnipeg Tribune to-day.

KEEPING IT DARK

BRANTFORD, Oct. 10.—The G. W. V. A. issued an official statement with reference to Saturday night's secret meeting to-day, the last paragraph reading:

"The G. W. V. A. attitude with reference to the forthcoming federal election was briefly discussed. The president vigorously declared himself with regard to the present political situation. It was agreed that the G. W. V. A. attitude be not made public at this juncture and that no aspirant for federal honors be allowed to campaign at the meetings."

NOT EVADING ANYTHING.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., Oct. 10.—Addressing a meeting here to-night, Right. Hon. A Meighen said he was not, as accused, stressing the tariff issue in order to avoid other matters. "There is nothing in the record of this Government, from its inception to the present day, that I am afraid to disuss before any audience in the world," he declared.

Mr. Meighen referred to some "explosive rubbish" in regard to a telegram which some Liberals said had been signed by him and which was produced in the House of Commons following the last general election. The telegram suggested constituencies in which votes at large, cast in the last election by soldiers, should be placed. The law provided, said Mr. Meighen, that these votes should be placed where the soldiers desired. The Government was entitled to try to get these men to vote in the constituencies where votes were necessary; so had the Opposition. But the telegram, said Mr. Meighen, had not been written by him and had never been sent.

KOHLER IN HALDIMAND

CAYUGA, Oct. 10.—Jacob Kohler was to-day nominated as the Mackenzie King Liberal candidate for the riding of Haldimand. W. G. Charlton, of Welland, formerly of Aylmer; Thomas Marshall, M. P. P., Lieut. A. T. Thompson, J. W. Holmes and D. L. Gibson spoke.

LESUEUR TO BE N. S. C. CHOICE

SARNIA, Oct. 10.—A meeting of the executive of the National Liberal-Conservative party of West Lambton will be held to-morrow night, when arrangements will be made for the convention at which a candidate will be nominated.

The convention date, it is presumed, will synchronize with the visit of Premier Meighen on October 20, and the convention will be held on the afternoon of that date if present arrangements are carried out, followed by the ratification meeting in the evening, with the premier as the principal speaker.

Throughout the riding there seems to be but one man spoken of in connection with the nomination for the Coservatives, and that is R. V. Lesueur, of the firm of Hanna, McKinley & Lesueur. Reports from all parts of the county indicate to unanimity in the choice of a candidate, and it is safe to say Mr. Lesueur, if he accepts the honor, will unite the party as it has never been united before, and will win handsomely.

FRICTION INCREASES.

The friction between the Labor and farmer elements is increasing, and it is safe to predict the full support of Labor for the Conservative candidate and the policy of protection. The defections from the ranks of the farmers in both the Lambtons are said to be sufficiently alarming as to suggest the calling of another convention by the farmers in an endeavor to bolster up their forces, and the present candidate, Robert White, is said to be quite willing to have this course followed.

Preparations are going ahead to give the premier a royal welcome in this border city, and steps will be taken to provide accommodation for an overflow meeting, as the accommodation in the auditorium of the city hall, the largest meeting place in the city, is expected to be inadequate. To-morrow night the Conservatives are having a meeting in Point Edward, and on Wednesday night they meet the electors in Sturgeon Creek.

MORPHY TO BE PERTH CHOICE

LISTOWEL, Oct. 10. — Considerable interest is being evinced here in the National Liberal and Conservative convention to be held in Milverton on Wednesday next, and it is hoped by a great many that H. B. Morphy will get the nomination. It is generally conceded that Mr. Morphy has so ably represented the riding in past years that there can be no doubt but that he will be in the field again. Mr. Morphy is a man of striking personality, gifted as a speaker and thoroughly British. Two of his sons fought nobly in the Great War, in which the elder made the supreme sacrifice. The National Liberal and Conservatives of Listowel, Mr. Morphy's home town, feel that he is all that can be desired as their Government representative.

EXPECT SUTHERLAND NAMED

PILLSONBURG, Oct. 10.—Intense interest is evidenced by all political parties in South Oxford as to the outcome of the Conservative convention at Mount Elgin to-morrow afternoon. It is fully expected that Donald Sutherland, the late member elected as a Unionist in 1917, will receive the nomination.

As yet Mayor Dean, the Liberal nominee, has made no announcement as to the course he will pursue, but something is expected directly after the result of the convention is known, but it can now be safely said that the Liberals are not going to stand idle and let any one party have the riding by default. In fact, it is fully expected Mayor Dean will retire from the field and an extraordinary well-known man from the North part of the riding will carry the Liberal banner.

G. W. Fisher and B. Garret, of the Canadian Debentures Corporation, Limited, Toronto, are in Tillsonburg for a few days in the interests of the English Electric Company, of Canada, Limited.

NORTH GREY N. S. C.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 10.—The annual meeting of the National Liberal and Conservative Association of North Grey was held in the town hall, Meaford, this afternoon and was attended by quite a number of the supporters. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, T. W. Thomson; vice-presidents W. H. Smith and W. T. Moore; lady vice-presidents, Mrs. C. S. Cameron and Mrs. W. H. Sing; treasurer, David Rutherford; secretary, E. C. Spereman; auditors, John Parker and D. C. Taylor. Vice-presidents for the various polling subdivisions and municipalities were also elected.

The date of the convention of the party was set for Wednesday, October 19, in the city hall, Owen Sound. There was a strong feeling in the meeting that the convention should also be held in Meaford, but when this was put to a vote Owen Sound was decided upon.

Matt Kennedy, sr., of Owen Sound, spoke briefly, saying that he intended to vote for the party that had Canada's interests at heart. W. S. Middlebro was the principal speaker of the afternoon. He reviewed the history of the present Government. "It is time to get back to a permanent government; group government is of no use," said Mr. Middlebro. The tariff question was very thoroughly gone into. His address was concluded by a character sketch of Premier Meighen.

W. T. Moore, of Meaford, and C. S. Cameron, of Owen Sound, moved a resolution that the association express its confidence in Premier Meighen and his Government.

Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, the Westerner will devote the week of October 17 to his election campaign in Ontario. The send-off will take place at Brampton on Monday night next, when Premier Drury and J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U. F. O., will appear on the same platform and at the same time will give the official start to the provincial Farmer campaign. The following meetings have been arranged for the week, with Hon. Mr. Crerar the leading speaker:

Simcoe, October 18.
Woodstock, October 19.
Wingham, October 20.
Mount Forest, October 21.
Orangeville, October 22.

A portion of the following week will also be given over to Hon. Mr. Crerar's Ontario campaign, but as the dates are uncertain arrangements have not yet been made for the meetings. Following this part of his Ontario tour the Progressive leader will visit the Maritime Provinces and upon his return he will be available for another week or 10 days in Ontario.

B. FANCHER NOMINATED

ALVINSTON, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Free Press.)—B. Fancher was this afternoon nominated by the U. F. O., of East Lambton, to contest the riding in the coming election. The retiring member is J. E. Armstrong, National Liberal and Conservative.

At to-day's convention 30 names were placed before the delegates, of which only four were balloted upon: Mrs. Swartz, Mrs. John Darville, Jacob Wiltsie and Mr. Fancher. On the latter's selection the nomination was made unanimous. Mr. Fancher accepted.

TO CONTEST EVERY RIDING

MONTREAL, Oct. 10.—Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, to-day formally declined to change from his candidature in St. Lawrence-St. George division for the forthcoming federal elections, and stated his decision not to accept the nomination for the St. Antoine division. In his letter announcing this decision Hon. Mr. Ballantyne said it was the intention to put Government candidates in the field in every riding of the Province of Quebec.

HAS NO BEARING ON EXTENSIONS

Debenture Issue Whether Or Not Refund Received.

CARRY OUT OTHER WORK

Street Lighting Needs Improvements In Certain Districts.

The question of a refund of the $100,000 surplus by the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission has no bearing on the local issue of debentures for electrical extensions, according to Commissioner Philip Pocock. If the Public Utilities Commission of London secures a refund of this money in any way it will be considered as a "windfall." And as such it will be used to carry out some work which it would be necessary to issue debentures for otherwise, but on which it is thought the ratepayers would not care to authorize the expenditure of any considerable money. But even if this money were to be received to-morrow the commission would still ask for $125,000 to be used in extending the electric light and power lines in London.

Mr. Pocock points out that the street lighting in certain districts needs improving. He suggests that this surplus could, and should, be used for this purpose. The ornamental lighting system would be extended to all the larger business districts. Under his plan East London, including Dundas street and the Hamilton road, and Richmond street north of Queen's avenue would have the ornamental lighting. But the cost of street lighting would not be increased.

PUT LINES UNDERGROUND.

In addition to this the "windfall" would be utilized for placing the lighting and power mains underground in the main business district. Conduits for this purpose were installed when hydro was first inaugurated in London, but they have never been used to any extent as yet. Mr. Pocock asserts that these could be used without making much change in them. Some new manholes would be necessary, but this would be the extent of the changes, he says.

Continuing Mr. Pocock intimated that the commission must have at least $125,000 next year to allow of the necessary extensions to be made to the electrical plant and lines. In this connection he states that the city is now using 2,000 horsepower more than it used when the factories were running night and day making munitions. The greater portion of this additional power is being used in the homes. This necessitates an increase in the feeders and in the transformer capacity in many sections. Then it will also be imperative to install additional transformers in the substations to care for the extra loads.

GEODETIC SURVEY MAP FOR LONDON OF FUTURE

Will Cover City and Suburban Area of 140 Square Miles.

London's new geodetic survey map will show with scientific accuracy a city and suburban area covering 140 square miles in which during the coming 50 years, it is expected, that the present London will multiply its 1921 population by 10. This announcement of the city engineer was coupled with the statement that the map, so far as the present city limits are concerned, will be completed next year; but after that three more years will be devoted to mapping the city's suburban district.

This area will be circular in form and 13.5 miles in diameter as opposed to the present three and a half mile diameter of the city found by encircling its most extended limits.

At the present density of population 10 people to the acre, the future London will contain 896,000 souls. Mr. Brazier would not be quoted as to when that population might be expected, but the maps now being made will serve, it is believed, long after the present city will have become a mere section of the greater London of the future.

CHEAPER BEET SUGAR BRINGS CANE LOWER

Quotations Cut Twice During the Past Few Days.

Introduction of Canadian sugar on to the market has resulted in not only cheaper sugar but a reduction of 50 cents a hundredweight in the wholesale cost of the cane product. Competition has forced the price of the foreign-grown commodity down to approximately the same level as that of the domestic sweetening.

During the past week the different refineries have cut their quotations twice, each time by 25 cents a bag. This brings the wholesale cost down to $8.59 on the Toronto basis, but as one grocer pointed out this is still considerably above the cost of the beet sugar, which is $8.35 to the retail trade.

Grocers are somewhat concerned over the increased cost of cranberries this year. Due to a small crop it is expected that there will be no possibility of any lower quotations than the initial rate of $9 a half box. Last year they were quoted at $6 to $7.50, so that at least one Christmas-time essential will cost the housewife much more than usual.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press Cable).—It is stated that trade has so far improved that a number of British vessels will shortly leave Welsh ports, with cargoes of metal manufactures bound for the Far East. It is understood that large orders for galvanized sheets have been placed in Britain on behalf of Far East importers, during the next few days.

READY TO EXCHANGE HIS EARS FOR DOG'S

London Man Volunteers As Subject of Experiment.

If there is any doctor in London or the surrounding territory who thinks he can restore the hearing of a human by grafting the ears of a dog to the deaf man's dome there is a volunteer right in this city who is willing to offer himself for the experiment, and if it proves successful in restoring his hearing he will pay all the expenses of the operation, provided he is allowed to do so on the instalment plan.

The volunteer's interest was aroused by the story recently published in The Free Press of an American doctor who contended he could restore sight to the blind by transferring the eye of a dog to the human socket. The only objection to this plan is found in the fear that a subject so treated would probably have a tendency to murder whenever a cat appeared. No such danger is anticipated in the case of transferring the ears of a dog to the head of a human as the means of restoring hearing. It might cause the subject to pay more attention to the odd whistle, but it is contended that in these days of the close application of the Ontario Temperance Act such a tendency might prove to the advantage of the subject, as it might let him in for occasional refreshments which one with less acute hearing might miss.

However, the volunteer who has communicated with The Free Press has taken all this into consideration and is determined to run the risk. Not only is he prepared to obey the Shakespearean injunction to "lend me thine ear," but he is willing to go much further than that and swap a perfectly good lug from a dog's ear, provided his hearing can be restored by the process. Any physician who is interested may, by communicating with The Free Press, be put in touch with the would-be subject.

BROTHERHOOD BANQUET NOW FIXED FOR OCT. 28

First For All To Be Staged "Without Money and Without Price."

London Christian Brotherhoods of the various evangelical churches will hold their annual banquet at the Masonic Temple on Friday, October 28. The Sunday following will be marked by emphasizing the Brotherhood ideal in all London churches and many prominent speakers are being secured.

The Brotherhood banquet last year was a huge success. It was staged "without money and without price," and the same idea will be repeated this year. The idea of the parable of the wedding feast will be exemplified, it is stated. For the lonesome byways and hedges will be searched by "king's messengers" with orders to "compel" all those found to report for the annual feast of Christian fraternity.

Rev. William Ward, the father of the Brotherhood idea in England, will again speak to the London brethren that have forgotten sect in uniting for world evangelism.

It is announced by Premier Massey. Sir John has had a distinguished career as a jurist and writer on legal subjects.

WESTERN PLANS HOSPITAL TRAIN

Tour Western Ontario In Interests of Better Health.

PHYSICIANS TO CONSIDER

Believe They Will Approve Forward Step In Hospital Science.

Western University, in co-operation with the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine, may soon sponsor the chartering of a hospital clinic train which, staffed by academy members and Western medical instructors, would tour Western Ontario in the interests of better public health and incidentally to show citizens of this district just what Western University is doing in the field of civic medicine.

Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Brown had the plan placed before him to-day. The proposal was referred to the Academy of Medicine as Western University would not care to inaugurate such an effort without the initial endorsation of practicing physicians.

It is believed, however, that the plan will commend itself to the physicians. It is pointed out that the London & Port Stanley Railway has surplus coaches in the winter which might be easily fitted up for clinical demonstrations. Arrangements might easily be made with both the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific railways for free transportation, in view of the fact that the traveling hospital clinics would advertsie the roads in question and go a long way towards creating favorable public sentiment.

The clinic train would be put on a switch at a given station, it was pointed out, and citizens could report for medical examination, for demonstrations of hygiene, prenatal work, child welfare and especially for baby clinics.

The train, of course, would be used almost exclusiviey for the smaller communities.

THREE-YEAR SENTENCE FOR UNFORTUNATE MAN

User of Drugs Who Forged Check Sentenced to Kingston Penitentiary.

Three years in Kingston penitentiary was the term imposed by Magistrate Bartlett in police court this morning upon an unfortunate young man who appeared before him on one charge of theft and four charges of obtaining money or goods under false pretenses.

A few days ago the prisoner appeared charged with cashing a forged check in Mrs. Leader's grocery store. The check purported to bear the signature of Dr. Tillman, but inquiry revealed that it was a forgery. He was also charged with stealing a mirror and with obtaining goods under false pretenses. Pleading guilty to all three charges he was remanded until this morning for sentence, but when he appeared to-day two other charges of false pretenses were entered against him. One was that he obtained chickens from Margaret Weir, supposedly for Scandrett Brothers, and the other a similar case in which the fowl were ordered from Cecil Thompson, a market vendor, and were ostensibly for Hocken Bros. He pleaded guilty to both additional charges.

Parley

British representatives, Prime Minister Lloyd George, Lord Birkenhead, Winston Spencer Churchill, Sir L. Worthington-Evans, Sir Hamar Greenwood and Sir George Hewart, and the Irish representatives, Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, Robert C. Barton, Eamon J. Duggan and George Gavan Duffy. There also were present two British secretaries and Erskine Childers and John Charters, the Irish secretaries. The conference adjourned until 4 o'clock.

There seemed to be a disposition to consider the sending of an invitation to Belfast, asking that the Ulster Government send representatives to the meeting, and it was possible that such a step would be taken. Ulster has thus far stood aloof in the negotiations between the British Government and the Sinn Fein, but there seemed to-day to be some sentiment in favor of calling both Northern and Southern Irishmen together in an effort to reach, once and for all, a definite understanding.

LITTLE COMMENT.

It is doubtful if there was ever an opening day of an important conference in London marked by so little newspaper comment as to-day's meeting. Several of this morning's journals refrained altogether from discussing the conference, while others assumed an attitude of restraint, manifestly balancing between hope and fear. The proclamation issued at Dublin last night by Eamonn De Valera, in which he called for unity of Ireland, was issued too late to be reviewed editorially, some papers finding room only for a summary of the proclamation in their news columns. There were no predictions relative to the outcome of the deliberations of the conferees and it was recognized that the result of the negotiations was as uncertain as they have been at any time since early last July, when they were initiated.

The London Times, anxious for good results, said that recent events should have "led both England and Ireland to learn the blessedness of concord through the bitter experience of strife," and that such progress as actually had been made should inspire confidence in the ultimate success of the negotiations.

ADVISES OPTIMISM.

The public was advised by The Daily Chronicle to "blend prudent caution with optimism." The newspaper remarked that the negotiations leading up to to-day's meeting had done nothing material to narrow the wide gulf between the views taken on each side of the question.

"Of the many conferences held regarding Ireland," declared The Daily Mail, "there has never been one with such sharply contrasted possibilities for good or evil."

The Dail Eireann representatives were models of punctuality this morning. They stepped out of their automobiles in front of the prime minister's official residence at exactly 11 o'clock, the hour arranged for the opening of the conference.

DELEGATES ARRIVE.

Mr. Lloyd George and the members of the British Cabinet forming the Government delegation were in the Cabinet room, where the conference is being held, when the Irish representatives arrived. Arthur Griffith was the first to enter, being followed closely by Michael Collins, who slipped in quickly to avoid photographers. They were accompanied by Robert C. Barton, Eamon J. Duggan and Gavan Duffy, the other members of the Dublin delegation, while Erskine Childers and John Charteres, who, although not members of the Irish mission, were expected to play an important part in the negotiations as advisers, followed.

A crowd of several hundred persons had gathered in Whitehall, at the end of historic Downing street, which was kept clear, except for photographers and newspaper men, of whom there were a large number, representing journals in many parts of the world. The crowd gave the Sinn Feiners a cheer as they passed through the high-timbered gates which were erected some months ago at the entrance of Downing street, when there was apprehension that an attack might be made upon the Government offices.

A number of Sinn Fein flags were displayed by the people, mostly Irish, who cheered the delegates when they recognized them, which was not easy, as they were in closed cars. Sinn Fein emblems also were worn by many, while Englishmen were busy trying to sell the emblems to passersby. One young Irishman held aloft a placard reading: "Peace and justice." Most of the delegates sat impassively as they passed, but some acknowledged the cheers by lifting their hats.

The members of the Dail Eireann had become used to demonstrations during the meetings of the Dail in the Mansion House in Dublin during the past two months, but Mr. Charters, whose work in the intelligence service of the British Government had kept him out of the public eye, seemed a little dazed by it all. He rode on the seat with the driver, looking wonderingly through his monocle at the demonstrators.

The Irish Parley

To-day the English-speaking world has its eye on Downing street. There a peace conference, the delegates to which are all members of English-speaking nations, is now in progress. May affection, justice and common sense be the arbitrators chosen by agreement of parties to decide the dispute between them. And may the "devil's advocate" be conspicuous by his absence.

Discussing the Irish situation, some time since, at Dundee, Scotland, Winston Churchill, secretary for the colonies, made a speech in which it was observed he laid especial emphasis on the statement that the British Government would "insist upon allegiance to the King, whether as King of Great Britain or of Ireland."

At the time, English press dispatches reported that this declaration was "considered by many of his hearers virtually to hold out to Ireland the prospect of a separate kingdom, along the lines suggested by Lord Hugh Cecil, last May, when he brought forward a scheme by which Ireland would be made an independent kingdom, the king to be a member of the Windsor family, probably the Prince of Wales, to be appointed by the King of England."

According to The London Nation and Atheneum, the Dual Monarchy scheme an alternative for De Valera's "republic," is the plan favored by Mr. Arthur Griffith, head of the Sinn Fein peace delegation at present in London.

Writing to the subject editorially, The Nation remarks:

"The prime minister is the least pedantic of men, and if a monarchial solution should once more become a definite and powerful slant of Irish opinion—well, the British constitution is an elastic thing, and it can be adapted to that particular need as to others."

For Ireland to set up a "petty" king under the suzerainty of Great Britain, when she may have partnership with the dominions in the British Empire on a basis of equality, presupposes, in our opinion, so childish a conception of the recent march of events that we cannot credit the clever, the brilliant Irish people as giving it a moment's consideration.

Instead, who is there but prefers to believe with Hon. George McColl, Barnes, ex-M. P. and prominent English Labor leader, when he contends that under the Government's offer political party divisions have been dissolved in Ireland by "the practical, instructive common sense of the Irish people."

An instructively practical and common sense people, without doubt, would see its best future not as a separate nation, whose sovereignty at best could be a name only, but as a reigning partner in a "vaster empire," a greater league of nations than has been.

If English nationalism and Scotch nationalism and French nationalism (Quebec) can be given due expression within the empire, why not Irish nationalism?

The question which constitutes the real difficulty in the situation, however, is not so much extreme theoretical claims of this kind or of any other, as it is the narrow sectionalism of Ireland itself. How can provision be made for ultimate Irish unity? That is the crux of the whole matter.

Apropos of to-day's conference, we find two striking cartoons in two London journals. One cartoon shows a substantial farm cart, marked Dominion Status, loaded down with sacks of produce ticketed, respectively, Prosperity, Peace and F. S. D.; while to one side of the cart the figure of De Valera is shown chasing a shadow marked Separation. The second cartoon pictures John Bull (Truce) watching while the South, her harp on her back, and the North, his shillalah in his hand, prepare for an Irish jig on a circle of green marked British Empire. And John Bull exclaims:

"I don't mind what step you dance, my friends, so long as you keep within the circle."

To-day is a great day, an anxious day for the friends of Ireland.

"Inquisitive Man"

How easy a thing it is to say all's wrong with the world, to sit down and let many of the wrongs get fast footing!

It is quite a different thing to prove "all's right with the world." And yet, if one but looks alone at man's effort to "carry on" the conviction that much more is right than wrong happily is borne in upon us very readily.

In substantiation of the assertion an editorial note from The Manchester Guardian shows how vividly the "carry on" spirit burns, and, while the desire to bring light remains, and by simple deduction affirm "all's right with the world."

The note reads as follows:

"An easily fashioned commonplace of the day is that the war has brought with it a moral and intellectual stagnation. But generalizations are seldom safe, and if the outlook of the moralist is blue, and if the failures of the politician provoke ironic laughter, in the intellectual and scientific field there is great adventure. Indeed, the facts go to show that the intrepid inquisitiveness of man has received a new impetus. On the one hand, there is an Einstein pushing back the confines of knowledge; on the other, the more prosaic but more dangerous Polar exploration of the Quest, and the Mount Everest expedition. Sir Ernest Shackleton started this week on his voyage to the confines of the Antarctic, and in the North Polar regions an expedition to map out Baffin Land is in progress. Capt. Stefansson has gone into the Canadian Arctic to add to the world's food supplies by domesticating herds of caribou and musk oxen; the All-Russian Co-operative Society is making an interesting attempt to open up sea and river communication with Northern Siberia, and in the East a natural history expedition to look into our simian pedigrees is shortly to be undertaken. The Everest expedition nears its climax, for the final climb of the northeastern flank of the mountain is soon to be commenced."

To these illustrations one might add hundreds of others from every field and department of literary, scientific and industrial activity. When viewed from this point man's inquisitiveness becomes his glory, and while the desire to know and to apprehend truth in its many phases exists surely in the larger sense, "all's right with the world," for "inquisitive man" is moved by a "divine discontent."

Mr. King's Wild Talk

Afraid of the tariff issue, Mr. Mackenzie King is now trying to persuade the public that the issues are the extravagance of the Government, its corruption and its autocracy, whatever he means by that.

As for extravagance, Mr. King cites the enormous debt. It is probably quite true if Mr. King and his Laurier Liberal supporters had won in 1917 the war debt would not be as heavy as today. But Canada, on the other hand, would not have the same proud record. Canada glories in her war debt, her millions spent for pensions, for soldiers' re-establishment, for building hospitals and land settlement.

Outside of these extraordinary war expenditures the cost of running the Government of to-day is close to $140,000,000, as compared with $138,000,000 as long as 10 years. Mr. Meighen, speaking at Portage la Prairie, dealt with this charge in the following scathing terms:

"Is there a single municipality, a single city, a single government in this country or in any other, whose normal expenditure has not increased more than two per cent.—yes, more than 20 per cent.—in these 10 years? Everything costs more, but by reason of ruthless and unsparing economy in the cutting out of public buildings, in the reduction of staffs, in the dispensing with everything we could dispense with, we have managed, even at the cost of labor, and of all that we buy, to keep the normal expenditure of Canada virtually where it was 10 years ago. I could give instance after instance aggregating millions that have been saved to the Canadian people. In the face of this fact we are asked to listen to the appeals for economy from the mouths of those who wasted or all but wasted $500,000,000 on transcontinental railways that we did not need and that should not have been built, and we are asked to put the builders of the transcontinental railway into power in order to re-establish economy. Did you say Mr. Crerar might be very economical? I doubt it. I have not heard that his confreres in the Government of Ontario have startled the world with their economy. I look at Mr. Crerar's platform and I see that he is committed to buy out the C. P. R. and all the coal mines of the country, and I am not quite clear how he is going to follow that policy and at the same time reduce the public debt."

Now as for the charges of corruption. Will Mr. King, The London Advertiser or any Liberal supporter name a charge which has been proven against the present Government or the old Union Government. The two administrations have a remarkable record. Millions were spent during the war and yet not a charge of misappropriation has been made. The public accounts committee is the body to probe any charges and yet to-day the Government stands without even a serious challenge before that committee of any item of the vast war expenditures.

It is a remarkable record, which has nothing comparable with it in Canadian history. As for the charge of autocracy Mr. King has never explained what he means by it or has anyone else. It is apparently a phrase he must have inherited from his illustrious grandfather.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Politics is "great grain" to Mr. Crerar.

May to-day's conference take the "ire" out of Ireland.

What Canada's "man from Missouri" should be "shown" is—the door.

There is a hopeful feature regarding the crime wave, it is not "permanent."

"Boss blunder government" is a good synonym for the Soviet Government.

If Ireland wants a King of her own why not send her William Lyon Mackenzie.

Mr. King should "defy augury" as Hamlet did—not court as he does in his Charlottetown address.

Old King Coal is a "merry old soul" so long as he keeps the home industries fires burning.

Russian royalties are now getting their titles tin-plated by way of the United States.

Canadian beet sugar is now underselling all other brands of granulated. Can you beat it!

Galsworthy isn't the only one who can write a "skin game" story—witness the $10,000 fur robbery in Toronto.

In Ireland, though North is North and South is South, here's hoping the twain shall meet.

Mr. King is fishing for votes with "free" seine thread, which has been on the free list for 25 years.

When nations are trying so hard to "unite" surely the Protestant branch of the Christian church should lead the way.

Ford wants the judges of the United States to be paid $75,000 a year, so that, like Caesar's wife, they can be "above suspicion." Honesty comes high.

London will send 22,087 voters to the polls this year. Of these there are 12,895 home owners. Some little home city!

The theory of relativity states that "the universe is uniformly curved in all places and in all directions." No wonder we need all-round men for such a universe.

Hamlet calls fingers, "pickers and stealers." The Prince of Denmark must have been prognosticating the New York beggar whose "average pickings" are said to be $40 an hour.

The Third Column

TOGETHER.

Oh, we're travelin' together,
An' we're smilin' when we can;
We're sharin' in the weather
An' we're sharin' in the plan;
We spend awhile in sorrow,
An' we stop to shed our tears,
But there's always some to-morrow
That will brighten up the years.

Oh, it's arm-in-arm we wander,
With Old Father Time as guide,
As he leads us over yonder
Where the happy souls abide;
An' we stop to pick the roses
That are bloomin' on the way,
An' we take as God disposes
To the endin' of the day.

Oh, we've suffered an' we've sorrowed,
An' we've feared that all was lost;
From our stock of faith we've borrowed
When our way was tempest tossed;
But somehow the skies grew clearer,
An' the sun came out anew;
An' we found our friends were dearer
When we'd seen the trouble through.

THE SELF-PITIER.

The world isn't anywhere nearly as interested in us as we ofttimes imagine that it is.

A man really is important only as he accomplishes important things. And importance is not a quality of bulk. Humble work is just as important as that which invites great gaze.

I recently received a very lovely letter from a young man who worked day after day in a sugar refining factory. He wrote that for a long time he felt everything and everybody was against him. Then he made up his mind that he would try out a plan.

This was the plan—to tell people every time they did something that helped or pleased him! In other words, he acquired the "Tell Tim" habit. And he tells me now that he is a foe to self-pity instead of a slave to it.

I congratulate this young man and can assure him in advance that he will accumulate usefulness every day that he lives—which is a much finer sort of saving than anything I can think of—because you can keep giving it away and still be growing richer!

The self-pitier leaves nothing but a damp path of loom behind him.

I have no sympathy with those who will not make any effort to get out of themselves.

I must admit, however, that there is much of uneven distribution in this most imperfect world. And yet there is a wonderful law of averages that keeps working day and night.

While passing along the street yesterday I came across a soldier who had lost his legs in the service of his country. He was selling pencils. But he was not begging! Rather he was GIVING. For he had a smile and a "God bless you" for everyone who passed him. He was a light brightening the busy throng, and a credit to himself.

Self-reliance, self-respect—but never self-pity! There are all too many things to do, and too few to get them done.

—George Matthew Adams.

MOTOR MADNESS.

My shining car no more you see around my stately residence; the windshield's hanging from a tree, the axles are astride a fence, and wearily my weird I dree, and wonder why I have no sense. "Don't go so fast," I have been told by many wise and prudent guys, "or soon a wooden box will hold a delegate about your size;" their counsel was as good as gold, but prudent counsel I despise. And so I stepped upon the gas and made my gilded wagon fly, and I would let no auto pass, however fiercely it might try; and sage advice like sounding brass appeared to me, as I whizzed by. "I've warned you once, I've warned you twice," the friendly speed cop to me said, "and if I have to warn you thrice, a prison cot will be your bed; or maybe you'll be laid on ice, with tapers at your foot and head." My pastor urged me to reform, and use my small supply of brains; "all day," he said, "the sapheads storm along the pike in noisy wains, and soon the coroners will swarm, and sit on your and their remains." And so I went my dippy way, and laughed at maxims and at saws, at frantic speed I pushed my dray, and busted all the traffic laws; and now you see me here to-day, the worst old wreck that ever was. Learned surgeons try to make me straight, but they are worried and perplext; apothecaries near me wait, and pastors, with their timely text; and staid morticians, at the gate, are saying that their turn is next.

PREMONITION OF DEATH

An account of a remarkable instance of a mother's premonition of her son's death is disclosed by The London News in an account of the coroner's inquest proceedings over a case of accidental drowning.

The father and mother of the victim were sitting at tea, the testimony declares, when suddenly the mother exclaimed: "Something is up. We shall hear something directly." She was so upset that she could not finish her tea, and ten minutes later the couple heard their son was drowned.

Sir Harry Lauder's Highland estate, Glenbranter, was offered for sale at Glasgow last week. As no reasonable offers were forthcoming the sale was abandoned.

A Folkestone pig breeder was dressing a pig's carcase for market when he discovered in the stomach a watch he lost weeks before. The watch has been cleaned and is now going well.

The Scottish steam herring drifter Gonnage, of Buckie, while steaming out of Scarborough, struck a submerged boiler, part of the wreckage of the cargo steamer Trelyon, which was torpedoed during the war. The drifter sank immediately, but her crew of nine were rescued.

The British association has marked its appreciation of the schemo for establishing the Brent Valley bird sanctuary as a permanent nature reserve in memory of Gilbert White by making a contribution through the Shelborne society towards the upkeep and endowment fund.

Mr. H. R. Herbert, of Nottingham, claims to be the possessor of a picture by Rembrandt, which he bought some time ago, with other paintings, for £25. He has submitted it for examination to a London expert, who has pronounced it to be a genuine Rembrandt, worth £10,000.

It was announced to a deputation of unemployed which waited on the Gosforth (Northumberland) Council that that North-Eastern Railway would shortly provide work for several hundred men on the erection of new carriage and wagon repairing sheds at Gosforth. The contract is stated to amount to £100,000.

During a cricket match at Ashford, Kent, a ball was driven out of the ground. It passed through the window of a house and fell into a pudding, which was being made on the kitchen table.

Alderman Walter James Dacombe was found by his coachman hanging from a ceiling joist in his business premises at Southampton. Mr. Dacombe was a former mayor and sheriff of the town and held many public offices.

Harold Boyle, 40, secretary and finance officer to the Scarborough war pensions committee, pleaded "guilty" at Scarborough to having stolen £124, and was sentenced to six weeks' imprisonment in the second division.

Victor Robinson, an ex-soldier out of work, was remanded at Manchester, charged with murdering his five-year-old son and attempting to murder his wife. It was alleged that he stabbed them both with a pair of scissors.

Sergeant James Robertshaw, formerly of the Royal Engineers, has been made a Freeman of the City of Bradford and presented with an illuminated scroll from the corporation as a city token of appreciation of the services of its soldiers.

The ministry of pensions has informed the Edmonton war pensions committee that after September a gun carriage and firing party could no longer be provided by the army at an ex-soldier's funeral. The committee resolved to send a strong letter of protest to the authorities against what was described as "tramping on sentiment."

The east window of the Church of St. Katharine Cree, Leadenhall street, which was damaged in a day air raid in July, 1917, has now been restored. There are inscriptions from 1703 downwards indicating when it was examined and cleaned. One inscription runs: "Thomas Jordan cleaned this window, and 'Damn the job,' I say, 1815."

As a flock of sheep was being driven along Upper street, Islington, one of them suddenly became alarmed by the traffic and jumped through the plate glass window of a costumer's shop. The window was shattered and the sheep badly cut, but the whole flock followed their leader through the falling glass into the shop.

John William Rimmer, of Sydenham Park, Sydenham, was sentenced at Greenwich to 14 days' imprisonment with hard labor for cruelty to his dog. The dog killed some of his fowls. He shot it twice with a revolver and also gave it poisoned meat, but it was found still alive two days later, and was dispatched by a veterinary surgeon.

Girl members of the Young Farmers' Club, started early this year at Hemyock, East Deven, have scored a success over the boy members. Examinations in the farming knowledge gained in the course of the season placed three girls at the head of the list. The members of the club are all between 10 and 18 years old and have taken the keenest interest in the animals entrusted to them.

Applying to the Kingston magistrates for a summons for assault, a man explained that he made a bet on Polemarch of £1 each way. The clerk: Then you were a very lucky man. Applicant: No, I was not, for the bookmaker refused to pay me, and only put his fist up when I saw him in the street at Surbiton. He hit me hard and he was a much bigger man than you are. (Laughter.) The summons was granted.

At the wedding at Isham, near Kettering, of Mr. Edward Maurice Atkins, son of the rector, and Miss Cannon, of Newbury, the bridegroom assisted in ringing the bells before the ceremony, and after the couple were married they both helped to ring a peal. The officiating clergy were the bridegroom's father, uncle and grandfather. The bridegroom is a member of the Cambridge University Guild of change ringers.

Official figures issued on Saturday show there was a slight diminution in the cost of living during August. Retail prices at the end of the month, according to the index figures published in the Labor Gazette, were 120 per cent. above those of July, 1914, and showed a decrease of two points compared with August. The fall, it is stated, is mainly due to reductions in the prices of certain articles of food and of clothing and coal.

Sir John Bramston, who has died at Wimbledon, was for more than 20 years assistant undersecretary at the Colonial Office, a post for which he had qualified by official experience in Queensland and Hong Kong. Born at Skreens, in Essex, in 1832, he was the son of Mr. T. W. Bramston, who was M. P. for South Essex for over 20 years, his mother being a daughter of Admiral Sir Eliah Harvey, G. C. B., who commanded the Temeraire at the Battle of Trafalgar.

Lieutenant-Colonel the Maharaja, of Jind, who is paying a brief visit to London, placed a wreath on the Cenotaph in Whitehall on Saturday morning, inscribed: "To the undying memory of our brave soldiers." They remained on active service through the war.

OBREGON OF MEXICO.

A great man, one of the greatest in history, is doing his work practically unrecognized by the world in general and America in particular, if we trust the judgement of E. J. Dillon, one of the oldest and best known of British journalists. The new hero, whom Mr. Dillon places above Bismarck and Roosevelt, among others, for certain qualities of leadership, "and that elusive quality which occasionally goes by the name of grandeur," is Alvaro Obregon, president of Mexico. He is also, which may be more to the point in the eyes of a great many Americans, an organizer of industry, "a man of action, simple in his tastes, unpretentious in his manner and sincere," asserts a representative of System (Chicago), and he is quoted in the pages of that magazine for October as unequivocally inviting the United States to assist in Mexico's commercial development. To The System representative he gave a two-hour exclusive interview, in which he promised that there would be no confiscation, deplored that a small group of "special interests" in the United States "in their desire to keep everything to themselves, have frightened away other investors, and through their world-wide propaganda have deprived Mexico of its good name in order to monopolize her riches." The Government has made "marvelous progress, declares this writer, and, as soon as recognition comes, this country will waken to the fact that a new and better Mexico has arisen, under the guidance of its one-armed, plain-speaking president.

Obregon, it may be remembered, recently survived another attempt on his life, a very common achievement with him if most of his biographers are to be believed. Both Agnes C. Laut, in The Forum, and Sophie Treadwell, in The New York Tribune, have testified to the Mexican president's "magnetism," democratic instincts and genius for commanding the sort of people it is necessary to command in present-day Mexico. Other interviewers have shown him lounging in coffee-houses, gossiping and telling "funny stories." Characteristic of his attitude toward himself is said to be the story he tells of the loss of his arm. The arm was lost on the battlefield, and could not be identified among the other arms scattered about, he relates, until somebody dropped a piece of money, which the Obregon fingers, true to their master's instincts even in separation and death, immediately grasped. Though many observers have testified that the president is sympatico, as the Spanish word meaning genial, friendly and sympathetic goes, Mr. Dillon is the first who has found Obregon worthy of a place among the great ones of the earth. "In the course of a varied experience in most parts of the globe, during the long span of time between the close of the Franco-Prussian war and the Paris peace conference," writes Mr. Dillon in The Nation (New York), "I have come into contact with most of the statesmen, rulers and leaders of men whose deeds and endeavors have made contemporary history. The list includes Bismarck, Gambetta, Gladstone, Crispi, Chamberlain, President Kruger, the Marquis Ito, Disraeli, Roosevelt and Venizelos, and most of the prominent public workers of the present day." Of all the world characters named on this formidable list, Mr. Dillon goes on:

"I can honestly say that none impressed me so powerfully or so favorably from the point of view of leadership, single - mindedness, and that elusive quality which occasionally goes by the name of grandeur, as the Mexican reformer of whose existence and aims the people of the United States are only now beginning to have a vague inkling.

"Alvaro Obregon is a born leader with whom love of justice is a consuming passion and duty the highest law. A man of sterling character and of a humane and sympathetic temper, he combines the fervor of the idealist with the capacity of the organizer, and his solicitude is the driving force of his public and private activities. His words are acts and his promise the beginning of achievement. His respect for truth in all its Protean shapes and singular surroundings is almost tantamount to worship."—Literary Digest.

MRS. DOYLE LIVED ON MILK AND BREAD

Tanlac Restores Hamilton Woman To Perfect Health—Now Eats Anything.

"I think it is enough to make anyone happy to enjoy the splendid health I do now," said Mrs. John Doyle, of 123 John street north, Hamilton, Ont.

"Last winter I had the 'flu,' and as I had already been in a badly rundown condition for several years, it just seemed to wreck my whole system. All through the winter I was down in bed half the time, instead of getting better I seemed to get worse. My stomach was so badly upset that I had to live entirely on bread and milk. If I ventured to eat anything else at all I would simply suffer agony.

"I would have terrible pains in my stomach and would bloat up so bad that I often felt as if I was suffocating. My nerves were worn to a frazzle and I had frequent headaches. I went to bed tired, got up feeling tired and all through the day hardly had the strength to do a thing.

"But I'm so glad I tried Tanlac, before my suffering is all over now. I feel splendid, eat whatever I wish and never have a touch of indigestion. My nerves are steady and I am free from headaches. I sleep perfectly sound and just feel so much stronger that the housework seems easier than ever. My winter has taken Tanlac since it restored my health and it has helped her just like it did me. Tanlac has certainly been a blessing in our home."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

COMMANDANT OF S. A. ADVOCATES CURFEW LAW

Laxness of Parental Authority to Blame for Much After Trouble

From rescue and police work under the Salvation Army in Toronto, Commandant Adams has recently come to London to take over the general command of Bethesda Hospital and the Salvation rescue home in this city.

Asked by The Free Press for an opinion on social conditions in London, Commandant Adams told briefly of the work carried on at the rescue home among wayward girls, blaming such sad conditions as exist largely on the laxness of the present day. "Parents must be to blame for wrongdoing among very young girls, who have far too much liberty in these days," she said.

"I would by all means advocate a curfew in every city, and would like to see the ruling strictly enforced."

Commandant Adams has an efficient staff in control of the work at Bethesda Hospital, one of the foremost institutions in the province. As superintendent of the nursing school, Miss Reekie has come from Toronto, after having engaged in her profession in various parts of Canada and in the United States, where she took a post-graduate course. Miss Reekie, who hails originally from the old land, will have among her assistants at Bethesda Miss Dickison, a graduate of Calgary Hospital, as day supervisor, and Miss Hunt, a graduate of Hamilton Hospital as night supervisor.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Very well—I will come along in the car at 3 o'clock."

She caught her breath with a little gasp of dismay.

"Oh, not to the house."

Laxton mouth twisted a little.

"I thought you said you could do as you liked," he said impatiently.

"So I can, but. . . ." She faltered, her eyes fell. "I'd much rather, you didn't come to the house," she said weakly.

He laughed.

"Very well; I'll wait at the end of the lane. Good-bye."

He was barely out of sight when Mr. Ackroyd rejoined his daughter; he was smiling and looked well satisfied.

"Sorry to have been so long, my dear, but Anderton was talking about your friend Laxton." There was a touch of cynicism in his voice. "Nobody seems to be able to talk about anything else. By the way he was in there—you saw him, I suppose?" He glanced at his daughter suspiciously.

"I saw him come out, yes,"

"Oh, did you!" with a sort of growl. "Speak to him?"

"He said good morning."

"Humph. Well, if it's of any interest to you to know it, he's engaged to that school friend of yours — what's-her-name! Laurie—Laurie something."

"Laurie Fenton."

Norah's hands were clenched in the pockets of her tweed coat.

"Yes, Laurie Fenton. Heaven only knows what they hope to get married on—neither of them have got a shilling in the world, have they?"

"I don't know."

"Humph! Well, Laxton's a fool!" said Mr. Ackroyd bluntly. "Ought to have looked out for a woman with money. It's his only chance."

"Laurie's very pretty."

"A doll, from what I can remember."

"She was the prettiest girl in the school years ago."

"If that's all she's got to recommend her, she won't keep Master Laxton on her muff-chain for five minutes," Mr. Ackroyd asserted emphatically. "However, it's no business of ours."

They turned their steps homewards.

"Who told you?" Norah asked presently.

"Told me—told me what!—oh, about Laxton! Well, Anderson told me; he says that it's common knowledge in Lumsden. She was down here with him the other day—dozens of people saw them. Scandalous, I call it; allowing a girl to race about the country alone with a young scamp like that."

"Don't be so absurd, Father." Norah laughed rather constrainedly. "People don't bother about chaperones now. And any way, if it was only Anderton who told you, I shouldn't believe it; he's a most awful scandal-monger; he knows everything that goes on in the entire village, or thinks he does."

"Naturally; he keeps the post office."

"I never believe a word he says," his daughter answered sharply.

She was rather silent for the rest of the way home; rather silent, too, during lunch. Rodney glanced at her uneasily once or twice; when the meal was ended he asked her if she would go out with him.

She looked up, flushed and hesitating.

"I don't know. . . . I'm tired — I . . ." She stopped. "Oh, well, perhaps I will," she added abruptly.

She went up to her room; it was only 2 o'clock; she opened the window and looked out down the lane towards the main road.

If Laxton were really engaged to Laurie Fenton she was certainly not going out with him, she told herself haughtily; but she was not sure that she believed it, perhaps because she did not want to believe it.

Anderson was certainy a scandal-monger. Very little went on in Lumsden or for miles around it that he did not know and retail with relish and embellishment, as he weighed up pounds of sugar and sultanas.

Norah had heard her father say scores of times that he was a dangerous man.

She wandered restlessly about the room; she could not make up her mind what to do. Should she go or should she not?

She looked at herself in the glass with critical eyes.

She made a little grimace at her rather wistful reflection.

Laurie was so pretty; even years ago, when they had both been school girls, people had always turned round in the street to look at her.

She recalled the earnest way Laxton had been speaking with her that day at the station; she wondered it had not occurred to her that there must be something deeper than an ordinary friendship between them.

She moved away from the glass. It was absurd to imagine for an instant that he would ever give her a serious thought after Laurie.

She blushed crimson at the idea.

G.W.V.A. AUXILIARY FINDS NEEDY CASES

Relief Work Among Soldiers' Families Carried on by Active Society

Combining a social half hour over the teacups with their regular business session the ladies' auxiliary to the G. W. V. A. are meeting this afternoon to talk over the ever-increasing demand for relief work among the families of returned men.

Many sad and deserving cases present themselves to the auxiliary members, whose duty it is to lighten these adversities as speedily as may be. Illness and lack of employment have resulted in several cases in real privation which might have been disastrous save for the timely intervention of the auxiliary. At the moment, in one little London family, the father, a returned man, has employment for but three days in the week, and with three little ones at home the mother must yet do her bit for the family finances by daily outside work. This task is made doubly difficult by the lack of a perambulator, as frequently the mother has to carry her four-months-old baby to and from her work, a trying journey when it is noted that this family lives in the outskirts of the city.

The auxiliary members will gladly avail themselves of the opportunity of supplying this particular need, as well as the need for warmer winter bedding for this household, if anyone desiring to help will communicate with the president, Mrs. J. F. Thompson.

When a woman spends too much for a hat she is always willing to let the result rest on her own head.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—One of the foremost creators of fashions in America has not forgotten the favor accorded last spring to the three-piece suit, and presents this good-looking model, which consists of a simple, slim-line dress, with elbow-length sleeves and square neck, the normal waistline indicated by the gathered fullness at the sides, drawn in to the figure with a narrow, gilt-buckled belt. The material used is black duvetyn, with a cut-work applique of gray duvetyn to match the squirrel trimming of the swagger box coat. A harmonious touch is added to the costume by the charming gray felt hat, with fringed sides and galalith ornament.

THE TALE OF MRS. LADYBUG—THE DINNER BELL.

There was great excitement in Farmer Green's orchard. The neighbors came a-flying and a-running and a-crawling from all directions. And little Mrs. Ladybug was the cause of the hurly-burly.

She had appeared with a strange, daring object hanging by a cord from her waist—if she could be said to have a waist. The queer, dangling thing had a handle at its upper end. And when Mrs. Ladybug moved a jingling, jangling sound might have been heard.

In notime at all a crowd had gathered around her. And some of the more curious and ill-bred pointed at whatever it was that puzzled them.

"What's that?" they asked Mrs. Ladybug.

Strange to say, she seemed pleased with the stir that she had made.

"It's dinner bell," she explained.

They gazed at it in wonder, until at last somebody spoke up and demanded, "What's it for?"

"To give the alarm with," she replied.

"What alarm?" chimed a chorus of voices, high and low.

Mrs. Ladybug smiled an odd sort of smile as she answered, "The fire alarm, of course! Everybody's always talking fire to me. It makes me frightfully uneasy. There's so little one can do alone in case of fire. But now—" she added, "now when anyone says 'Fire' I'm going to ring this bell with all my might."

Well, people didn't know what to say—then. Later, however, they gathered about in groups and talked a good deal about Mrs. Ladybug and her dinner bell.

Strange to say, she seemed pleased with the stir that she had made.

Miss Moth said that she feared Mrs. Ladybug would disturb her rest if she rang the bell in the daytime, when Miss Moth was accustomed to sleep. Buster Bumblebee hoped Mrs. Ladybug would not ring it at night, because he had short enough night's sleep as it was, with the family trumpeter waking everybody in the house about dawn. And Freddie Firefly exclaimed that it would be very annoying to him if Mrs. Ladybug gave the alarm of fire whenever she saw his flickering gleams on pleasant evenings in the meadow.

If others were troubled, Mrs. Ladybug herself was much pleased by her dinner bell. She liked to hear it tinkle as she worked. She said it was a cheerful sound and so long as she wore it she never needed to worry about being lost. It was as good as a cow-bell for letting the world know one's whereabouts.

There was only one thing that annoyed her. Since she hung the bell from her waist nobody had mentioned fire to her. Nobody had said a word about her children burning. It seemed as if none of her neighbors wanted her to sound a fire alarm. And if there was anything that would have given her joy it would have been to seize the handle of her bell and ring it madly.

There were even some people that complained of the tinkle it made among the apple trees.

Peppery Polly Bumblebee laughed at them.

"You've brought this trouble upon yourselves," she told them. "How can you expect Mrs. Ladybug to keep the tongue of the bell still? She can't even keep her own tongue from wagging!"

No doubt Peppery Polly knew what she was talking about. She had a very sharp tongue herself.

CAMP ECHOES SOUNDED FOR "Y" BOARD MEMBERS

Girls' Work Committee Entertains at the Wellington Street Residence

Echoes of the Y. W. C. A. summer camp at Port Bruce were very happily sounded at the Wellington street residence yesterday afternoon, when the members of the "Y" board were the guests of the girls' work committee and the camp leaders.

Around the cozy grate fire in the big living-room the members chatted over their teacups, Mrs. Tanton presiding over the pretty tea table, with its gay bowl of yellow marigolds, and a group of the "camp maidens" assisting in looking after the guests.

Brief and informal talks from the leaders on their personal impressions of the camp proved of great interest to the board ladies, who learned many things about camp life and the glamor of summer holiday-making at Port Bruce.

The speakers included Miss Hilda Keene, who, as chaperon to one of the older groups in camp, found that her girls realized a most delightful relaxation from accustomed responsibilities, presenting as they did all types of city homes. "Every girl in the camp was a first-rate sport," Miss Keene declared.

BIBLE STUDY.

Bible study, the speakers agreed, was one of the outstanding features of the camp life, and probably the one bringing in the most gratifying results. As Mrs. Frank Anderson, camp mother, put it, "the girls didn't feel that religion was a thing that couldn't be talked about."

Other speakers were: Miss Jones, who, as camp nurse, looked after the health of the young campers; Mrs. John Crawford, who chaperoned a group of industrial girls through a pleasant fortnight at Port Bruce; Miss Bessie McCamus, convener of the girls' work committee, and Miss Helen d'Avignon, camp director. Miss d'Avignon referred especially to the effort made to carry out the ideal of fourfold development in the life of the girl and spoke with enthusiasm of the spirit of co-operation existent among the girls.

"We felt that something has been accomplished," she declared, "when the 200 girls who were in camp during the season agreed, after careful thought, to adopt for their personal application the "purpose" introduced by Dr. Coe in his Sunday school work in New York City, a purpose which covers service for others and the highest ideals of girlhood and womanhood and which concludes with an avowed belief in the unfailing power of love."

During the afternoon charming solos were sung by two of the camp girls, Miss Erie Mitchell and Miss Kay Gibson.

Among the guests were: Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Archibald Graham, Mrs. J. H. Cameron, Mrs. E. E. Reid, Mrs. Bruce, Miss Kingsmill, Mrs. J. R. Henderson, Mrs. Harmon Westland, Miss Helen Gibbons, Mrs. F. P. Betts, Miss Jean McCrimmon, Miss Laura Macdonald, Miss Geddes, Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. T. P. McCormick and Miss Marion Price (St. Thomas).

PEOPLE AND THEIR PICTURES.

Don't you think it is interesting to watch and study people's reactions to pictures of themselves and other people?

A friend of mine always detests any pictures which she has taken. Sometimes I can understand her feelings, for if we really beed like some of the snap shots our friends take of us we should want to adopt the custom of the ostrich. But on other occasions I think the pictures really look like her and am surprised at her distaste. I should like to see a picture of herself as she sees herself. Plainly it would not at all resemble herself as she is.

Another friend surprises me equally by the delight she seems to take in any picture of herself no matter how unattractive the presentation. I have seen her point herself out in a group snap shot with the inevitable, prideful "that's me" when the picture was such that I should think that she would have torn the thing [illegible] I used to think at first that this was a sign of great modesty on her part. "She does not realize," I said, "that she is reasonably good looking." But I have seen cause to change my mind. She does realize that she is reasonably good looking (in fact I doubt much if she would use that qualifying adjective). But she has such a habit of seeing everything belonging or pertaining to her through rose colored glass that softens and beautifies it that she does not see the crude lines, the distorted grin in the picture as we do. Instead she sees it as charming because it is she, and therefore must be charming.

I think those two people are extreme types of two large classes into one of which the average human being falls.

You may think this is exaggerated, but is it? People who see things about themselves as they actually are are rare, but how infinitely rarer are people who see themselves as they are!

Peoples reactions to other folks pictures are not quite so character revealing as their reactions to their own, but they are interesting, nevertheless.

I think you can judge something of the way people feel by their reactions to pictures of you. Show a picture which you consider a fairly good representation of yourself to a half dozen of your friends and some of them will say it is a wonderful picture in a tone that plainly indicates they think it flatters you, and others that it is a good picture, others that it does not do you justice.

Again, show a picture which accents a certain mood to several people and you will see how they react to that phase of your character. For instance, I have a picture which makes me appear very soulful. The friend who knows me better than I know myself cannot bear that picture. Plainly she does not like me t oappear sulful. Either she thinks I am not soulful or she doesn't like me when I am.

Perhaps you think these are fine drawn distinctions. They aren't really. They are just experiments in character and mind reading, no more fine drawn than those of the handwriting expert.

WHO SLAYS A FRIEND.

Who slays a faithful friend,
A comrade all the years,
One who, without an end,
Unknowing doubts or fears,
Has sheltered from the sun,
Has served his every need—
Who murders such a one
Is murderer indeed.
Who slays a faithful tree
By lazy carelessness
Arch murderer is he
Who doubly doth transgress.
Who leaves his fire alight
May set a world aflame—
And God shall see that bright
Red banner of his shame.

GIANTS, GIVING YANKEES EDGE

Ill-Luck Follows Art Nehf's Twirling, as He Allows But Six Hits, Though Two Long Sacrifice Flies Get Desired Results

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—A bunt in a baseball game doesn't hold a candle to a home run as a popular feat, but a little bunt which "Babe" Ruth laid down on the grass at the Polo Grounds today showed how much importance sometimes attaches to the less sensational performance.

The "Babe's" home run in the ninth inning of Sunday's game was for the Yankees as a team just one more run and nothing more. His bunt in the fourth inning of to-day's game, the fifth in the 1921 world's series, proved the turning point of the contest, which was won by the American Leaguers by the score of 3 to 1 over their National League opponents.

The victory again gave the Yankees the edge in the series, which now stands:

Waite Hoyt, the "boy wonder" from the flatbush section of Brooklyn, pitched the Yankees to their third victory in the series, his potent right arm being aided by some great defensive work on the part of his teammates in holding the Giants' scoring proclivities to a minimum. He had been scored upon in the first inning, an error by McNally paving the way to the Giants' only tally, but the Yankees tied the score in the third when Mike McNally was passed by Artie Nehf, the Giants' crack left-hander, went to third on Wally Schang's double and came home on Elmer Miller's sacrifice fly.

RUTH WHIFFS THREE TIMES.

Then, to start the fourth for the Yankees, Ruth, who had struck out his first time up and twice afterwards, did the unexpected thing and laid down a bunt. The Giant infield was taken completely by surprise and Ruth landed safely on first. The way had been opened for a tally and Ruth scored it a moment later on "Bob" Meusel's hot double to left, which his brother Emil, on the Giant team, seemed somewhat slow in handling. This ultimately proved to be the winning run for the Yankees, but another was speedily added when Meusel scored on Aaron Ward's sacrifice fly.

HOYT SETTLES DOWN.

That ended the scoring for the day. Hoyt, who had seemed a bit unsteady in the early innings, settled down behind his two-run lead and pitched a heady game, which had the big guns in the Giant line-up guessing when safe blows were necessary to put across runs. The youthful Yankee twirler was hit more freely than in his shut-out game of last Thursday, as the 10 safeties for the National Leaguers attest, but he would have had another scoreless game to his credit with a little better luck in the first inning, which witnessed the Yankees' only fielding bobble, a mess made by McNally of George Burns' hard bounder. As it was, the flatbush boy won the honor of being the first boxman to win two games in the present series and of holding the heavy-hitting men of the McGraw clan to one solitary run in 18 innings.

SUCCESSION OF THRILLS.

Over 35,000 fans turned out in the fine weather and the greatest interest in the close series had brought out, besides getting a succession of thrills from the tense moments of the game, witnessed with excited emotions the feat of "Babe" Ruth in striking out three times in four times up, making his total eight strike-outs for the five games.

"Babe," however, has been playing under a great handicap. He injured his elbow steadily second in Thursday's game, and infection set in, and a minor operation was performed. Every time he swung his bat to-day his face reflected the extreme pain caused by the injury. In addition he had been troubled with a bad leg, the result of an old pulled tendon.

The Giant infielders gave a fine performance on the defense, giving Nehf fine support. Only one error, a dropped throw by Frisch, marred their record. Nehf held the slugging Yanks to six hits. The Giants' inability to hit Hoyt effectively was their fatal handicap. George Kelly led his team at bat with three hits.

SAFE ON McNALLY'S ERROR.

The American Leaguers did not get a man on base in the first inning, but the Nationals came through with one run. Burns hit to McNally, who fumbled the ball and the runner was safe. Bancroft forced Burns at second, Peckinpaugh to Ward. Hoyt tried to get Frisch's hard-hit ball, but it rolled over towards short and Bancroft drew up at second. Young was given a base on balls and the bags were full. Kelly raised a Texas leaguer to center and Bancroft scored. "Irish" Meusel struck out and Rawlings ended the inning by forcing Kelly, Peckinpaugh to Ward.

In the second inning, Bob Meusel, for the Yanks, singled to right and moved on to second on Pipp's sacrifice. As Ward struck out Meusel tried to steal third. Frisch dropped Smith's good peg and Meusel made a break for the plate, but was nipped as he slid in, Frisch to Smith. Frisch was given an error.

THAT BUNT OF RUTH'S.

The Yanks tied the score in the third. McNally drew a base on balls and went to third on Schang's two-base drive to left. The runners were held on the bases as Hoyt was thrown out at first by Bancroft. Miller sent a long sacrifice fly to Meusel and McNally scored, Schang taking third. Peckinpaugh went out at first on an unassisted play by Kelly. In the fourth the Giant outfielders moved towards the fence and the infielders stepped back a few paces when Ruth came to bat. He fooled them, however, by laying down a bunt and beating Nehf's throw at first, the Giants kicking at the umpire's decision calling him safe. The crowd cheered Ruth's strategy. He scored right afterward on Bob Meusel's slashing drive to left. Meusel moved up to third on Pipp's out at first and scored the last run of the game on Ward's sacrifice fly to Burns.

Both on the defensive and offensive sides of the Yankees' play the work of "Bob" Meusel stood out conspicuously. The lanky right fielder of the Hugmen hit .500 for the day with a single and a double in four times up, his double, as related, scoring Ruth with the run needed to win the game, and his own crossing of the plate directly afterwards making the Yankees two up on their opponents. It was Meusel's powerful righ arm, however, which proved the most telling argument of the game outside of the box work of Hoyt. His quick throw to first of Bancroft's single in the second, trapping the Giant shortstop on the lines toward second, starting a run-up on Bancroft during which George Burns, who had started from first on the hit and run, tried to score but was caught at the plate as Peckinpaugh shifted the play to Burns and threw to Schang. This play saved one tally, but at a still more critical point in the game Meusel's deadly aim proved the factor which broke up a Giant rally and possibly saved the contest for the Yanks. It was George Kelly who took chances with Meusel's arm after singling to right in the eighth with Young on firsta and one man out. Kelly made a gallant dash for second but Meusel's throw was there first. One more Giant then had to be attended to, to retire the side, and Hoyt induced Emil Meusel to send up a high foul which Wallie Pipp got close to the boxes, after a long run.

Zurich Defeats Wingham In Ninth

Two Misplays Enable Zurich to Tie Score in Eighth; Final Score 4-3

WINGHAM, Oct. 10.—The first game of the North Wellington League finals was played here to-day between Zurich and Wingham and resulted in the most keenly contested and exciting game ever played here. The final score was 4 to 3 in favor of Zurich, the deciding run coming in the ninth inning. The game was a pitchers' battle between Olbert, of Zurich, and Morden, of Wingham, and both put up splendid exhibitions.

Wingham led 3 to 1 until the eighth inning, when a couple of costly errors gave Zurich two runs, and in the ninth the boys from the South added another, which gave them the game. The return game in Zurich next Saturday should be a real battle, as Wingham's team is by no means beaten. The weather was very bad and the crowd was not so large as was expected. Batteries: Zurich, Olbert and Henning; Wingham, Morden and Anderson; umpires, Wilson and Ramsay, of Owen Sound.

HARRY WILLS FLOPS GUNBOAT SMITH IN FIRST 67 SECONDS

HAVANA, Oct. 10.—Harry Wills, the negro heavyweight pugilist, this afternoon knocked out Gunboat Smith in one minute and seven seconds of fighting. Six clean blows from Wills, among them a crushing right to the back of Smith's neck, dazed the former sailor, and a left upper-cut to the jaw sent him to the floor, where he was counted out. Smith did not land a blow.

The fight was to have gone 20 rounds.

ENGLISH MUSICIAN IS GRANTED UNION CARD

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—The controversy between the American Federation of Musicians and Albert De Courville, manager of an English theatrical company, which opens at a local theater today, has ended by the musicians' federation allowing Charles Edward Coulrick, the English orchestra leader, a temporary card in the union, which will permit him to carry out the Canadian tour.

When it was first stated that Mr. Couldick was being brought to Canada to play with the company, the American Federation of Musicians objected to members of its union playing under his direction, as he is not a member of the federation.

DEMAND FOR CANADIAN GOODS IN EUROPE IS GROWING IN STRENGTH

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press.)—A marked improvement in conditions in Italy and in Belgium is reported by the respective Canadian trade commissioners in the forthcoming bulletin of the department of trade and commerce.

In Brussels, writes Trade Commissioner A. S. Blaney, the general commercial and industrial situation shows substantial progress. There is a strong demand, he says, for Canadian canned goods in Belgium, including salmon, pears, apricots, apples, meats and condensed milks, also for fresh apples, honey, cheese, butter, eggs and generally all food products. The tendency is towards higher prices.

W. McClarke, Canadian trade commissioner at Milan, notes an encouraging feature in the Italian situation an improved politico-social condition, a marked reduction in strikes and an increasing investment of capital.

"I'll Win," Says Phil Douglas

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—"Tell the folks down in Birmingham I'll win the world's championship for the New York Nationals if I am called upon to pitch the deciding game" was the message Phil Douglas gave to newspaper men to-day.

And the Giants believe it will be just about Phil's turn to twirl again when the all-important game comes around.

"I pitched to every batter during yesterday's game, including Ruth," he said. "The Babe hit a low spitter in the ninth when he knocked his home run. I think he outguessed me for he was all set for the kind of a ball he hit. He gave it a good ride."

But Douglas took the measure of Ruth once in the matter of strike-outs along with seven other Yankee batsmen.

Boucher And Ross Meet In Final To Challenge Tisdale

Western Ontario Singles Tennis Title Lies Between Three Players Now

A. D. Ross and J. G. Boucher will to-day play the final event of the men's singles, and the winner will meet Dr. Tisdale in the challenge match for The London Free Press trophy, emblematic of the championship of Western Ontario. The semi-finals and finals of the mixed doubles will be played at the London Hunt and Country Club on Saturday afternoon.

Boucher beat Bernhardt 6-1, 6-3.

Ross (Brussells) defeated Fenton, 6-2, 7-5.

Boucher won from Hendry (Delhi) 3-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Nearly $300,000 Fund To Players

Cleveland and Pittsburg Teams to Split $43,878 and Two St. Louis Teams Get Nearly $30,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The players participating in the 1921 world's series funds will divide $292,522.33, a new high record for the players' share. Under the rules players and umpires cease to share in the gate receipts after to-day's game, the fifth of the series. The increased seating capacity and higher admission charges account for the new high record.

While to-day's attendance and gate receipts fell slightly below those of Friday. Six clean blows from Wills, among them a crushing right to the back of Smith's neck, dazed the former sailor, and a left upper-cut to the jaw sent him to the floor, where he was counted out. Smith did not land a blow.

The fight was to have gone 20 rounds.

The best previous figures for the players' total share were those of the 1919 series, between Cincinnati and Chicago, when the players' pool amounted to $260,349.66. While the present series has not yet evolved a winner and loser, the two local clubs' players will divide $219,391.66 on a basis of approximately $131,634.97 to the team which finally captures the championship and $87,756.69 to the losers. Subject to possible minor corrections by the advisory board accountants the Cleveland and Pittsburg players in the role of second place winners will divide something like $43,878.34, while the two St. Louis teams, as third in each pennant race, will split $29,252.23. The four umpires' remuneration will be provided from the advisory board's fund upon a basis of a sum equal to one winning and one losing player's share combined and divided into four equal parts.

MR. ROLLO MAY BE ONE OF CANADIAN ENVOYS

Rollo, minister of labor for Ontario. The Ontario Government has accepted the invitation of the Dominion Government to name a technical adviser to the Government delegates and recommended Mr. Rollo. Manitoba and Quebec are also sending technical advisers.

DETROIT POLICEMAN ADMITS WIFE MURDER

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Herman F. Rademacher confessed to-night, according to Allen W. Kent, assistant prosecutor, that he murdered his wife last Thursday by throwing her over the railing of Belle Isle bridge into the Detroit River, where she was drowned. The act, Rademacher said, followed a quarrel while he and his wife were out walking in the park. He had been held on a charge of murder since Mrs. Rademacher's body was recovered on Saturday.

London Collegiate Defeats Technical School Easily

London Collegiate Institute rugby team swamped the Technical School squad in the opening match of the Oxford and Middlesex Interscholastic Rugby Union, played at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon, the final score being 25 to 0.

A. T. Taylor, who has been coaching the local Collegiate boys, was pleased with the showing made by the team, and the Londoners are now confident that they will give St. Thomas a struggle for the intercity title.

The new rugby rules adopted this year were continually used by the Collegiate boys, and resulted in running up the high score. Long passes and tackling were the features of the play by the L.C.I. team members.

The Technical school boys were weak on the tackling, but considering that this is the first year the Tecs have participated in organized rugby the Dundas street scnool boys have no reason to be discouraged.

SESSIONS JOINS TEAM.

Sessions, the captain of the L.C.I. team, who had his knee dislocated last week, was in the game, and will be able to take part in the games with St. Thomas. Beard made a number of clever runs and plunges, and is one of the strongest players on the Collegiate team.

The Collegiate scored four touchdowns, two rouges and a drop kick.

The "Tecs," under the leadership of Birch, continued playing an offensive game, and tried hard to cross the line for a touchdown.

Gardner, of the "Tecs," had his nose injured, and was forced to retire from the game.

Woodstock College team will play "Tecs" here on Friday afternoon.

The line-up:

London Technical—Dunlevey, flying wing; Casselman, left half; Appleford, right half; Uptigrove, full back; Birch, quarter; Mills, snap; Adams, inside; Gunther, inside; Spence, middle; Gardner, middle; Hedden, outside; Loveless, outside.

London Collegiate—Hunter, flying wing; Ardiel, left half; Lawrence, right half; Sessions, full back; Crittle, quarter back; Rourke, snap; Hill, inside; Murphy, inside; Beard, middle; McCausland, middle; Foote, outside; Daly, outside.

CLINE TROTS OUT FEW DAYS PRIOR TO GAME

Western U. Star Rugby Player Joins Squad With Several Other Veterans

"Doc" Carl Cline, star rugby player for Western University last year, marched out on the gridiron yesterday afternoon, decked out in Western "U" rugby regalia, and expressed his intentions of giving the university every possible aid.

Five other former Western "U" players will again be on the line-up. These are: Traynor, Wainwright, MacMahon, Jarrott and Callaghan.

The new rugby rules have been rehearsed several times already and a set of new signals has been adopted. The Western line looks stronger since the former university players returned and indications are that the Londoners will shape up well in comparison with the opposing teams from Toronto.

Rugby followers from London and the surrounding district are expected at the big opening intercollegiate game at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon, when St. Michael's College squad, of Toronto, will be here to line up against Western and show them what they know about the game.

"We are out to win the series and provide the best class of rugby," said M. L. Blake, physical director of the Western University.

M.A.A.A. Hockey Meeting Thursday

Date Set Was Friday, But It Interfered With Orients' Baseball Night

The London Manufacturers' Amateur Athletic Association has changed the date of the Manufacturers' Hockey League meeting from Friday evening to Thursday. Owing to the fact that the Orient Club is holding a baseball night on Friday the hockey executive altered its plans so as not to conflict with the other function.

All concerns affiliated are invited to send representatives to the meeting on Thursday evening, which will be held in Brisco's store, Dundas street.

Officers will be elected for the ensuing year and arrangements made for the coming year.

All the teams who were members of the league last year have again been invited to enter the league.

To Work Y. Team Noon Hour Daily

Director Allan Selects Hour When Athletes Are Most Fit

The members of the Y. M. C. A. track team who will take part in the triangular relay race at the Western University field sports on Friday afternoon will be trained at noon hour to-day, to-morrow and Thursday.

David Allan, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., has adopted this plan of training the athletes and determines that it will be more profitable than the former plan of having the athletes report after school hour or in the evenings.

The Collegiate track team, which will enter the competition, will no doubt be the same as that which took part in the Sportsmen's Patriotic Association meet at Toronto on Saturday.

Western "U" athletes have been chosen and are preparing for the coming affair.

Collegiate To Play Games October 25

Events, Postponed Last Friday, Are Rearranged; In St. Thomas on October 13

At a meeting of the field sports committee of the London Collegiate Institute, held yesterday afternoon, it was decided to have the postponed sports day on Tuesday, October 25.

The St. Thomas Collegiate are holding their sports on Thursday afternoon of this week and various teams will be sent from London to participate in the intercity competition.

The rugby match between the London and St. Thomas Collegiate teams will be the feature event of the day. The girls' baseball and basket ball team will also compete against the St. Thomas aggregations.

It has been decided to carry out the same program here on October 25 as had been arranged for the sports on last Friday, which was interfered with by the rain.

Members of the sports day committee are striving to make this year's event the greatest in the history of the school.

The track events will be held early in the spring at Queen's Park, and the sports day program will be confined to intercity competitions between St. Thomas and London teams.

HUGH CLARK IS CHOSEN AT TARA

Late Member For North Bruce Is Nominated Again.

GUTHRIE TALKS TARIFF

Warns of Free Trade Doctrine of the Crerarites.

TARA, Ont., Oct. 10.—(By Staff Reporter).—Col. Hugh Clark, of Kincardine, late M. P. for North Bruce, was again the choice of Government supporters of the riding at a large and fully representative meeting this afternoon in Bailey's Hall here. Major Ernest Pettigrew, M. C., one of five others proposed, allowed his name to stand, but the vote gave Col. Clark a big majority, and the meeting made his selection unanimous. Those who were nominated, but withdrew, were Charles Green, of Southampton; Lieut.-Col. A. E. Belcher, of Southampton; T. J. Bridge, of Lion's Head, and H. T. Potts, of Arran. James A. McDonald presided.

Major Pettigrew made a straightforward statement of his views, supporting the tariff policy of Premier Meighen and advocating strict economic and speeding up Canadian industries to the limit.

"Whoever gets the convention, I will do all in my power to assist him," he said. Major Pettigrew is at present a resident of Wingham.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie went fully into the tariff proposals of the federal parties, and pointed out that the Liberal convention at Ottawa in 1919 adopted a fiscal plank resembling very closely that of the Farmers' party, including substantial reductions in the tariff and a long free list, which includes all important foodstuffs, agricultural machinery, gasoline and oils, fishermen's equipment and fertilizer.

MUST TAKE PLATFORM.

"They talk different things in different places," said Mr. Guthrie, "but when men solemnly meet together and formulate a plan and pledge themselves if returned to power to carry it out, surely the electors are entitled to take them at their word and believe them."

The Farmers, said Mr. Guthrie were very bold in their platform, and have refused to change it. They are for immediate substantial all-round reduction, 50 per cent. reduction in favor of Great Britain now and free trade in five years, and adoption of the reciprocity treaty in 1911. They are trying to break down the fiscal policy established in this country since 1878. Mr. King will deny it nad Mr. Crerar will deny it, but that is the case.

"They sometimes refer to us as the high priests of protection," said Mr. Guthrie, "but I want you to note that the average tariff to-day is 23 per cent., or three per cent. less than Mr. Fielding left it, and the average tariff on all goods, both free and dutiable, everything that comes into the country, is but 14 per cent. or less than in the time of Alexander Mackenzie. I don't say the tariff is exactly right in every respect. I know it is not. That is why we had a tariff commission make an inquiry, and if the present Government is returned to power a revised tariff will be brought down. It will be a tariff of moderate protection, but the principle of protection will be there to protect the farmers of this country, as well as other industries, and help us to get revenue enough to pay the amount we have to raise annually. Mr. Crerar says he can raise the money by income tax, but the sum needed is so high that you cannot raise it without driving capital from Canada to the United States. There is one other way, by a slight land tax. The Dominion Government has the power, but it has never done it, having been of the view that land is something which should be left to the municipalities. If Mr. Crerar or Mr. King came into power with a free trade policy that is all they have left to raise the revenue and carry on the affairs of Government."

THE FORDNEY BILL.

Mr. Guthrie quoted from recent trade returns to show how the Fordney bill has reduced and in some cases entirely stopped Canadian exports of farm products to the United States.

"It will be argued," he said, "that the Fordney tariff is an emergency tariff and will not be continued. Don't take any stock in the New York Sun and the Toronto Globe, which copies its editorials, saying that when the permanent bill comes before Congress it will be modified. Canada will have to take care of her own interests as never before. (Applause). If either the Farmers or Liberals gain power and put into effect even an approximation of their tariff planks, God help this country for at least a generation to come. It is true there are 100,000 walking the streets in Canada to-day out of employment. There are two million in Great Britain and eight millions in the United States. Our condition here is the least unfavorable I know of anywhere. There is more and better employment in Canada than in the United States or Great Britain. Soup kitchens and bread lines are established in New York and Chicago to-day, and we haven't got them in Canada yet."

Most of their manufacturers are loaded up with goods they are ready to dump at a moment's notice."

Dealing with the origin of the Farmers' movement Mr. Guthrie recalled that it began in the West among farmers from the United States.

"They have always wanted free trade with the people back home," he said, "and I doubt if that is all they want. (Applause.) The United Grain Growers carry on a tremendous business in the West and I claim on lines that are not patriotic, that discriminate against the Canadian manufacturer. The implements and washing machines and other goods they advertise in their catalogue under the brand of U. G. G. are purchased from firms in Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin and New York. I made this statement before and it was challenged in the House on behalf of Mr. Leo Rice, their manager. He forgot that his evidence before the tariff commission is on record. I quote you that evidence and make the charge again here to-day. Every dollar that goes out to bring in that machinery gives a job to a man in the United States and makes more unemployment here. Do you wonder they want to put agricultural machinery on the free list. It is now away below what Mr. Fielding had it and below what he proposed to make it under reciprocity. We have had a big free list since the Union Government was formed, a free list which no one thought would ever exist in this country.

"Mr. Drury I admire in some respects, because he is straight forward. He gave a sworn statement as to what he believed was right in regards to the tariff and you cannot get away from it. Before the cost of living commission in 1918 he said: 'I want free trade on manufactured goods.' There it is in half a line. That is not an offhand statement, but a considered statement and a sworn statement. He is free and above board and I fancy he speaks as leader of the United Farmers. He did not say farm products. That is where he stands and that is where his party stands, and where Mr. King stands, because he is breaking his neck at the moment to get an alliance with the farmers that will get him into power on any platform. The premier is making a grand fight. He is the gamest young premier this country ever had and it is the duty of the people of North Bruce to stand by that man and his policy better than you ever stood up for anything in your lives." (Applause.)

Col. Clark prior to the voting said that if Major Pettigrew was chosen he would be a candidate of whom the party might be proud; a man with a military record of which they might be proud. A few weeks ago he would have been willing to retire had Major Pettigrew's name then been brought forward, but had since given his pledge to friends that he would stand. This Union Government, he said, for all it has been maligned has shown courage and done things that were not popular, because they were in the public interest. We are faced with a decline in farm products. Farmers of the United States are faced with the same thing and look upon protection as the remedy. Here the organized farmers took upon something like free trade as the remedy. There was far more reason to declare for reciprocity 10 years ago, when markets were open, than to declare today in favor of the policies of Mr. Crerar and Mr. King. The United States is putting up an almost prohibitive tariff against farm products. Our exports of farm products to the United States are rapidly reaching the vanishing point. The Canadian farmer cannot sell his products to the United States and Mr. Crerar offers to allow farm products from the United States and elsewhere to come into Canada free. "We believe in protecting the farmer, as we do the manufacturer," he said. Col. Clark paid a tribute to Premier Meighen as "one of the biggest and brainiest little men I ever saw."

Hon. Mr. Guthrie and Col. Clark also addressed a public meeting here this evening.

Mr. Guthrie will attend the South Oxford convention to-morrow.

CAMPAIGN BANNERS MUST NOT BE COTTON

Windsor Council Refuses Request of W. C. Kennedy; Local Hydro Heater Plan to Be Investigated

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—The City Council at its meeting to-night refused to grant permission to W. C. Kennedy, late M. P., to display the usual campaign banners beyond the confines of his committee room unless they are made of some other material than cotton. Such signs, members of Council declared, infringed on a resolution recently passed by the Council.

By a voe of 7 to 5 the aldermen recommended that the natural gas commissioner refuse gas to manufacturers. The civic transportation committee had suggested that industries to which gas is a necessity be allowed to use an amount not to exceed 25,000 feet per month, but the aldermen voted "thumbs down" on the idea.

The London plan for installing cheap electric heaters at a cost of $20 to $40, with hydro power to be supplied at a flat rate of $3 per month, will be investigated with a view to its adoption here.

WILL NOT GET LUMP SUM.—London will not have any money refunded from the provincial hydro commission on account of the $100,000 that is to the credit of the city in the books of the treasurer of the provincial commission, but this surplus will be used to pay the city's monthly bills for power. Dr. Stevenson held telephone communication with the provincial commission yesterday afternoon and was assured that the money is to the city's credit and that it will not be refunded direct but in the way indicated.

SAYS CASE INVESTIGATED

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—Daniel Thompson police chief, explained to Crown Attorney Urquhart to-day that the finding of a baby's dead body on the dock in front of the West End Hotel last June had been thoroughly investigated, but that no information that would warrant an arrest had been discovered. Mr. Urquhart had been asked to investigate by Richard D. Drullard, 2 Janette avenue, who said the child belonged to a couple who rented rooms at his home and had suddenly moved.

FIRST TIME C. N. R. SHOWS SURPLUS

President Hanna Presents Optimistic Finance Statement.

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—President D. B. Hanna, of the Canadian National Railways, issued this statement to-day:

"It is a matter of extreme gratification to me to be able to announce to the Canadian people that during the month of August this year the gross revenues secured from the operation of the Intercolonial, Prince Edward Island, National Transcontinental, Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railways exceeded the expenses by a substantial amount. This is the first monthly period since these railways have been operated by the board that it has been possible to present such a favorable statement. While I do not wish to appear as unduly optimistic, I do believe that the economies effected, as one result of the consolidation, are beginning to be reflected in operation and that the day is not far distant when the National Railways will be an asset in which all Canadians may take pride.

NOT EXCEPTIONAL MONTH.

"The month of August is one not specially busy, in that it marks the end of the crop year in the Canadian West, as the new grain does not begin to move until September, in large quantities, to the lake carriers and to the sea.

"The mileage of the railways embraced by the statement is over 17,000 miles. The figures for the month of August were:

"Gross earnings, $10,536,461.74; working expenses, $10,489,230.30; net earnings, $47,231.44.

"No one would venture to foretell the future with trade conditions as unsettled as they are to-day. It would, however, appear that the end of serious operating losses on the National Railways is appreciably nearer—nearer, in fact, than the most sanguine of us had hoped for. We are beginning to reap the fruits of the great and complicated work of consolidation, which was begun when the merging of the Canadian Northern and Canadian Government lines was accomplished in 1918, and continued when the lines of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway were turned over to the National for operation."

'SEMI-READY WEEK' OF FASHION AND PHYSIQUE TYPES

Demonstration of the Perfect Photo-Type Method of Tailoring Clothes for Men in Semi-ready Suits and Overcoats

On Monday next begins the "Semi-ready Week," which will be more than just the Fall Fashion Opening, for it will comprise a new and larger display of the Semi-ready physique type system of tailoring.

Many have tried to imitate this method of making clothes, but none have carried it to the precise conclusion which the originators of the system scientifically worked out when they created and named their product "Semi-ready tailoring."

With new patterns and styles on show, with suitings and overcoatings in a diversity of models, the real reason for an open shop and a warm invitation just to see, the "Semi-ready Week" is to emphasize the fact that the physique type system allows the use of the finer cloth materials and gives scope to clever, skillful tailor work.

The display is under the direct supervision of a special representative of the Semi-ready system — one of the directors of the company.

The idea is not to sell, so much as it is to show Semi-ready, their adaptability—to every man, no matter how hard-to-fit he may think he is.

Semi-ready stores in Canada have adopted the slogen of "To-day's goods at to-day's prices," and Leo Watson's store on Dundas street promises the highest grade of clothes ever shown in Canada.—Advt.

DETROIT MAN BEATEN TO DEATH BY GANG

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—George B. Benish, aged 38, widower and father of three small children, was attacked by a gang of men and literally beaten to death in an alley off Kirby avenue east, between Russell and Riopelle streets, early today.

Hearing shots in the neighborhood, patrolmen began an investigation, and a few minutes later found Benish's body. A fragment of concrete and a length of gas pipe were found near the body. Benish had suffered injuries to the chest and also a broken jaw, and bore marks of kicks all over his body. Police are holding three men, who say they saw the assault.

Detectives learned a gang of men who were in a Riopelle street restaurant at the time ran out and chased Benish, catching him and beating him, leaving him for dead.

DETROIT MOTORMAN SLAIN BY UNIDENTIFIED MAN

DETROIT, Oct. 10.—Henry Mitchell, aged 35, a motorman, was shot and almost instantly killed shortly before 7 o'clock to-night by an unidentified man.

The motorman's slayer rode on the car with his victim from the downtown district as far as Turner avenue, where the motorman left his car to turn a switch. The passenger also alighted. Witnesses told the police the passenger fired six shots at the motorman and ran.

Leslie Jull, a deputy sheriff, ran to Mitchell as he lay on the ground and asked him if he knew his assailant. Mitchell mumbled a name and died soon afterwards.

EXPRESSES CONFIDENCE IN CARVELL'S FAIRNESS

MONTREAL, Oct. 10. — Expressing confidence in the chairman of the board of railway commissioners, Hon. Mr. Carvell, and adopting a resolution not to oppose the application of the Bell Telephone Company, of Canada, for an increase in rates, the council of the Board of Trade at to-day's meeting placed itself on record regarding these matters.

DIED SUDDENLY.

WINGHAM, Oct. 10.—Wm. Blatchford, almost a lifelong resident of this town, died suddenly on Saturday. Mr. Blatchford was sick for only a few days, and his illness was not considered serious until Saturday, when he was taken to the Wingham Hospital, where he died a few hours later. The deceased was 52 years of age, and leaves a widow and three small children. The funeral will be held from his late home, Shuter street, on Tuesday afternoon, and will be conducted by Maitland Lodge, I.O.O.F.

COMMIT TWO FOR TRIAL AT 'SOUND

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McMillan Get Hearing In Spring.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Free Press)—Daniel McMillan and his wife, Mary McMillan, were committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction by Magistrate Creaser, after a preliminary hearing to-day, on a charge of having murdered Jamieson Johnson, Mrs. McMillan's first husband, three days after whose death she married McMillan.

The courtroom to-day was crowded both morning and afternoon, by men and women, expecting to hear new evidence that might be adduced. The hearing started at 10 this morning and ended at 4, with one and a half hours' adjournment at noon. The two prisoners were in the court, McMillan looking none the worse for the 10 days' confinement, but Mrs. McMillan showed signs of the strain that she was laboring under.

THE CASE.

Johnson died on the evening of Labor Day. The attending physician refused to give a burial certificate and the coroner made an investigation and gave a certificate that death had resulted from tetanus. Johnson was burried on September 7, and on September 10 the widow married McMillan, who was an employee of her husband. Two days later the body was ordered exhumed and an inquest was held. The stomach was sent to the provincial analyst, and the report from him said there was no sign of poisoning in the stomach. The jury, on the evidence returned a verdict pointing to McMillan and his wife as the probable slayers of Johnson. The preliminary hearing to-day brought out little new evidence. Mrs. Breen, a neighbor, told of Johnson's illness on the Saturday previous to his death, and of his statement that he had been given porridge by his wife that was so bitter that he had asked her if she had put some turkey rhubarb in it. Johnson had cramps and spasms in his legs, body and face. Mrs. Amelia Karn lived next door. On the morning before Johnson's death she had seen him helping to grease a wagon about 5.30, and about 7.15 had seen him sitting on the back doorstep trying to vomit and evidently sick. His wife had come out past him while he was still sitting there and had gone down by the barn, but did not look at Johnson.

NEPHEW ON STAND.

Donald McMillan, a nephew of Johnson, told of Johnson being quite well about 5.45 on September 3, but about 7.15 he wound him sitting on the back step all hunched up and apparently ill. He had helped his uncle into the house and got Dr. Middlebro. Johnson had cramps and spasms. That night he was able to walk upstairs and on Sunday was apparently quite well. He saw him again on Monday evening and Johnson was apparently well and said he was feeling fine. The witness did not see Johnson vomit, but he did complain of pains in stomach and legs.

J. D. McMillan, father of the last witness, said he had called with his wife on Saturday and had heard Johnson tell about the bitter porridge. Mrs. McMillan, wife of the last witness, and sister of the deceased, also told of this, and told of giving her brother raw whites of eggs beaten up in water, six of them, and two more beaten in milk. Her brother had improved greatly after. He was feeling much better before they left, and was smoking. On Sunday he had been apparently all right.

Robert Gibson gave evidence on serving Johnson and Dan McMillan, the accused, with porter and sugar on the evening of his death. Chas. Olmstead, son-in-law, called, said he had been asked by Johnson to go home with him and Mrs. Johnson on the night the latter died, as Johnson was very ill. He drove with them in the buggy. When they got to Johnson's home Johnson was yelling with the pain, and had stiffened out. Mr. Karn had helped him take Johnson into the house. Dr. Middlebro was called, and about 9.30 Johnson died, after having suffered greatly. He also said Dan McMillan had told him that Johnson was jealous of him (McMillan).

TALK OF WILL.

Strathy was another employe of Johnson. He was in the bush on September 3, when Donald McMillan had come out in the afternoon and told of Johnson's first illness. He heard Dan McMillan tell Olmstead not to laugh as there was nothing in the will for him. He had seen the will. H. J. C. Karn told of Johnson's terrible spasms and of remaining with him from the time he came in until his death.

A young lady clerk in Parker's drug store told of selling strychnine to a man on September 1, who signed Dan Cameron in the poison records book, and who hesitated to give his address, later saying he lived on R.R. No. 7. The man greatly resembled McMillan, the prisoner.

Rev. P. T. Pilkey told of marrying McMillan and Mary Johnson and identified their signatures. Dr. Middlebro stated that when he first attended Johnson on the morning of September 3 he believed Johnson to be suffering from cramps brought on by probably malnutrition. After the second severe illness, two days later, he suspected that Johnson had been poisoned by strychnine, and had so informed the coroner. He believed that if analysis had been made immediately after death and no strychnine found it could be considered that strychnine had not caused death. When left for a week the strychnine might become diffused and no trace left, he believed.

Dr. Frizzell had made the autopsy, and had sent the stomach to the analyst. He agreed that all the symptoms pointed to strychnine poisoning. At the time of the inquest Dan McMillan swore he had never been in Parker's drug store. To-day George Flanagan swore he had seen Dan McMillan in that store between August 29 and September 3.

C. A. Fleming, principal of the Northern Business College, was positive that the same person who wrote Dan McMillan in the marriage register had also written Dan Cameron in the book in which poison sales were recorded at Parker's drug store. He pointed out many points of similarity. This finished the evidence.

After warning the prisoners, the magistrate asked them if they had anything to say. Mr. W. H. Wright, who appeared for McMillan, and H. G. Tucker, who appeared for Mrs. McMillan, declined, and the magistrate then committed them for trial.

The assizes are to be held here on October 17, but the lawyers will not be ready by then, so the case will probably not be heard until the spring assizes, next April.

O. T. A. APPEAL FAILS.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—The first case to be tried locally under the new amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act, putting the power of hearing appeals into the hand of county judges, came up this morning before Judge Barron. The case was the appeal of Henry Petrie, of South Easthope, against the conviction registered against him in police court for selling liquor contrary to the provision of the O.T.A. His honor dismissed the appeal, which means that Mr. Petrie must pay $500 and serve a month in jail, or five months additional, if he does not pay the fine.

DEBATE UNION AT ANGLICAN SYNOD

Speakers Insist On Episcopal Ordination For United Church.

HAMILTON, Oct. 10. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—The momentous debate which is to decide whether or not Canadian Anglicanism is to accept those proposals looking towards church unity made by the bishops at Lambeth, commenced in the lower house at this afternoon's session of the general synod. Discussion centered around the message on church union, sent down by the upper house last week. The debate stands adjourned till Tuesday to be resumed at the conclusion of consideration of the report of the Social Service Council.

A number of speakers claimed that episcopal ordination is essential to a valid ministry, and by the same reasoning absolutely vital to the very existence of a church. They were quite willing to move towards union, but only on that basis.

In the opinion of one speaker of the more liberal school such a union was really absorption. With that latter view a very strong element in the synod is in accord. They will be heard from on Tuesday.

In the reopening of the debate at the commencement of the evening session Very Rev. Dean Starr, of Kingston, moved to have the bishops take part. His motion met with a chorus of disapproval.

JUDGE ERMATINGER.

Judge Ermatinger, of St. Thomas, thought that the other bodies concerned were quite competent to urge their own objections. "The objections of these bodies are being urged from the floor of this house, when we might better leave it to them to make their own," he declared amidst applause.

Perhaps one of the outstanding features of the debate was the appeal of Canon F. C. Scott, of Quebec, for the unswerving adherence in the church to those doctrines upon which its foundations rested.

"We do not believe for one moment," he declared, "that un-Episcopal ordination is sufficient for the true church." He feared that the bishops had been a little too generous in expressing their views. Not for financial expediency would the church give up that heritage handed down from the head of the church himself. Canon Scott warned against the creation of a cleavage in the ranks of the Anglican church itself. If there was too much haste, such would be the result and then the reunion of Christendom would be farther away than ever.

Archdeacon Ingles, of Toronto, impressed on his hearers the necessity of insistence on confirmation as a requirement asked of church members and also the emphasizing of the holy sacrament and the incarnation.

Rev. Dyson Hague, of Toronto, pleaded with the members of the synod not to fall below the level set by the Lambeth appeal and by the Canadian bishops in their pronouncement. "We do not ask that any other communion be absorbed into the Church of England," he declared. "Thank God, the church, through its episcopacy, has discarded that fatal policy."

The mutual commission proposal for reordination of the ministers of the churches concerned in the union question was debated in the afternoon.

Chancellor Kirwan Martin referred to the offer of the bishops to accept a form of commission which would be [illegible] He was greatly disappointed, however, at the way in which the proposal had been received by other Protestant churches.

What they seemed to want was that the bishops should accept the ordination of their denomination. Archdeacon Smith, of Montreal, gave his account of the negotiations which have taken place between a joint committee appointed by the Montreal Presbytery and the Bishop of Montreal, the basis for a strong appeal for a continuation of the conferences with the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The Presbyterians alone had come to the Church of England on their own accord and asked for a conference, he said. At those conferences, which had extended over a year, cultured leaders in the Presbyterian church had indicated their willingness to accept "ordination to the sacred office of the Catholic priesthood."

Reading the written agreement which was arrived at he described the various forms of services by which the commissions could be exchanged. He wished to point out, however, that there was danger of being too optimistic.

The debate opened with a somewhat confused discussion as to the method to be adopted in the consideration of the message on church union sent down by the bishops. Ultimately, on the motion of Chancellor Worrell, Toronto, it was agreed to consider the preamble and the remainder of the message, resolution by resolution.

That difficulty was disposed of only to have another crop up immediately. Canon F. G. Scott, of Quebec, protested against the wording of the preamble, maintaining that it involved a principle which the Canadian Anglican Church could not countenance. He referred to the implication in the words "The Upper House of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada having taken part in the issuing of an appeal to all Christian people" as giving the Lambeth Conference a position in the church which was not lawful for it to assume. The inference was that the Lambeth conference had legislative authority, and the Canadian bishops were bound to take the action they had taken because they had attended it.

After several protests had been made Chancellor Worrell moved a motion of nonconcurrence in the preamble on the ground that the upper house, as such had not attended the Lambeth Conference, and it could not agree to a resolution committing "to the national, regional and provincial authorities of the churches within the Anglican communion the task of putting the aforesaid appeal into effect."

His motion was adopted without revision.

FEAR SILESIAN DECISION.

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—The hurried return to Berlin of Chancellor Wirth and the unexpected conference on Sunday between Dr. St. Hamer, the minister of Great Britain, and Dr. Rosen, the foreign minister, to-night form the basis of a rumor that the German Government is definitely anticipating an adveree decision on the Upper Silesian question.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache Is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advt.

FIRE PREVENTION

All This Week

When the Fire Bells Ring—

Are You Nervous?

When the fire engines rush to the part of the city where your home and family are located, does your heart beat just a little faster? Do you worry until you know where the fire is? If you do, then you are one of the persons who should be particularly interested in this week's fire prevention campaign. Get busy to-day, clean up the rubbish, go through the attic, inspect your furnace or stove pipes, and then when the fire alarm rings you will get a lot of satisfaction out of knowing that wherever the fire is, your investment is not in danger.

Manufacturers! Inspect Your Buildings To-Day!

Remember that your factory is sheltering the bread-earners of many families. Ease your mind to-day—see that your building is not a fire trap.

Here's a Pertinent Question Londoners Should Ask Themselves This Week

How can we ever hope to overcome our housing shortage as long as we allow fire to destroy many of our houses each year? Here is the solution—Build so it won't burn.

The Average Fire Loss In Ontario Each Month During the Last Three Years Was One Million Dollars and 300 Persons Annually Lost Their Lives

NOTICE TO THE TEACHERS OF THE CITY

PRIZES FOR ESSAYS.—Arrangements are made for prizes for essays, open to pupils in the third and fourth forms of public, private and separate schools in Ontario, for the best essays on "Prevention of Fire In Home and Factory." One thousand gold-plated and enameled medals will be presented as prizes for these essays. There will also be 15 sterling silver medals, open to the high schools of the province and seven gold medals, for the best theses written by students in universities and colleges. The competition in all classes closes on November 15 and the judges are: W. H. Shapley, president Dominion Fire Prevention Association; Arthur Hewitt, president of the Ontario Fire Prevention League, and John B. Laidlaw, ex-president of the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association.

Have your class write on the above essay and then select the best one and send it in. It will not only impress on the pupils' minds the seriousness of the tremendous loss caused by fire, but the prizes will make it most interesting. Why not set aside next Friday afternoon?

Canada's Fire Loss Is Largest Per Capita Of Any Country On Globe

Annual Fire Waste Reaches Appalling Sum of $30,000,000 and Canadians Bear Burden by Indirect Tax on Every Man, Woman and Child; Build for Safety and to Resist Fires

Canada's fire loss amounts to nearly $30,000,000 a year, the largest, per capita, of any country in the world. To make up for this enormous wastage an indirect tax is levied on every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Everyone, therefore, has a direct personal interest in fire prevention and protection and should realize his or her personal responsibilities.

The ultimate object of the fire prevention work is the reduction and elimination of conditions which contribute to the origin and to the spread of fire. Eighty per cent. of fires are preventable, and the adoption by every municipal authority, even in the smallest village, of proper fire prevention regulations and building codes, and their strict enforcement, is the first step to obtain it. Fire prevention must include the use of our more fire-resisting natura resources without materially increasing the cost of the structures, because better building conditions constitute its foundation.

In the early days the settlers built their homes with logs. Those who desired more permanent houses used stone that could be quarried in the vicinity or else the boulders that were distributed over large areas in the clay belts. Later the frame house became more popular and this method of construction is today being followed in many parts of the Dominion, especially where no building restrictions exist. The tendency, however, is for more fire-resisting construction, and the ambition of those living in small towns and villages is the home built of clay products.

In the cities and larger towns the architects and engineers realize the importance of better construction, and today all the new public, office and industrial buildings are of fireproof material. Very little attention, however, has been given to the construction of small dwelling houses. At the present time fire-resisting buildings can be erected at a cost very little above that of the ordinary types by the proper use of our natural resources, and especially those of the district in which the buildings are being erected.

From information disseminated by the natural resources intelligence branch of the department of the interior the further use of some of the nonmetallic minerals is of great importance to the development of the deposits of those minerals in different parts of the country.

Asbestos and gypsum are among the resources that are utilized in the manufacture of fire-resisting materials. In the supplying of long asbestos fibers to meet the demands of the textile trade, large quantities of the shorter fiber are produced for which it is necessary to find a market. During recent years they have been largely used in the manufacture of asbestos shingles, wallboards and other products.

Most of the gypsum used in the building industry is manufactured into hardwall plasters, wall-boards, building blocks and roofing tile. Recently precast hollow blocks have been used in Manitoba for the exterior walls of small houses and bungalows, the exterior surface being waterproofed and then stuccoed. If this style of construction proves satisfactory it will mean better and cheaper dwellings and the development of the deposits found in most of the provinces of the Dominion.

Very little research work has been done in connection with the resources utilized in the building industry in comparison with other modern industries, although the opportunities are very wide. It is obvious that a small economy in their use would, at the present time, represent a very large sum and that a better knowledge of and the adoption of fire-restricting materials would do much to lessen Canada's fire losses.

THE PENALTY OF CARELESSNESS.

When it is definitely known that at least 85 per cent. of the total of this loss is due to no other cause than carelessness it should shame the self-respecting Canadian into giving much thought to ways and means for overcoming this defect in our national life.

During the past 10 years, 1911-1920, Canada's fire waste, from destruction of property alone, has been almost $230,000,000, as follows:

1911....	$21,459,575	1916....	$20,487,509
1912....	21,083,819	1917....	20,086,085
1913....	23,305,408	1918....	31,815,844
1914....	21,583,118	1919....	23,207,647
1915....	19,022,332	1920....	27,800,000

The above value has been entirely destroyed; there is nothing to show for it.

To guard against fire loss, in one form only, that of insurance, the insurance companies collected in premiums approximately $311,506,000, out of which they returned in payment to policyholders for losses approximately $161,100,000.

During the year 1920 Canada's fire loss in property destroyed amounted to $27,800,000, in addition to which approximately $26,000,000 was paid in insurance premius over and above the amount returned to policyholders.

But this is not all. Interest and upkeep of waterworks for fire protection represents an annual expenditure of $6,200,000, while to provide fire protection by fire departments, including interest on capital invested in equipment, maintenance, etc., calls for $7,640,000 annually.

Private fire protection, which is a rapidly growing form of insurance against fire loss, entails an annual cost, principally upon business interests, of $6,350,000.

With this total of $73,990,000 as the 1920 cost of fires and protection, the lack of interest by the general public in fire prevention is amazing. With an estimated population of 8,000,000 Canada is paying a tax of $9.25 per capita, or on an average family of five, $46.50. This tax is collected in various ways, being included in the cost of food, clothing, amusements, etc. But no matter how it is paid it is inescapable.

Last year Ontario spent $6,664,989 on the construction of public highways. This created general public interest, and was a highly commendable work. But, last year, Ontario's fire loss, covering 9,221 fires, was $10,883,000, and yet so little interest was taken in this heavy fire waste that it hardly received a second thought. During the recent municipal election in a large Ontario city one of the leading questions discussed was the addition of a number of firemen to the fire department, but, strange to relate, not once was the matter of collective effort at fire prevention suggested.

A particularly regrettable feature of the fire record of this country is the loss of life. During the same 10-year period as above over 2,500 lives have been lost by fire. Last year 224 lives were lost in this way, and practically no amelioration of this condition is in hight.

Only one method to overcome public apathy on the subject of our fire waste appears to promise results, namely, personal responsibility for fires and sufficiently aggressive and reliable officials to see that the laws are enforced. —From Conservation.

Homes Eqipped With Hydro-Electric Ranges Are Safe From the Dangers of Overheating, Explosions or Suffocating Fumes

The shrieking of the fire sirens on the speeding trucks that thundered past a London workman meant the death-knell of his wife and three babes he had left, apparently safe, at home fifteen minutes before.

A simmering coal stove, under the sudden forced draft of a driving gale, sent the unguarded fire roaring, ignited the wainscoting, and death stalked hand and hand with the fire fiend.

It happens throughout the land every day; now it is the overheated coal or wood stove; again the explosion of a coal oil or gasoline burner, or suffocation from the leaking gas pipe or deadly open jet.

Guard Your Loved Ones By Installing An Electric Range

No risk of suffocation.

No danger of fire or explosion.

No matches. No flame.

The safest and most efficient stove inventive genius has produced.

Besides, Hydro is cheaper than any other fuel, whether gas, oil, coal or wood.

You may have the stove best suited to your needs installed complete within three days.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—More buyers were in the market to-day and wheat prices moved upward on early trading. The opening was ½c to ¾c up. Scattered selling at the start encountered few buying orders and the initial advance amounted to around 1c over yesterday's finish. The early bulge was lost when pressure increased, but this did not prove persistent and full recoveries were made.

Corn futures advanced early when hedges were removed on liberal sales of cash corn made late yesterday. Country offerings were smaller, but trade was light and the market responded to every light wind that blew. Oats were firmer on scattered buying and lessening pressure. The opening was ¼c higher.

Provisions were firm.

MONTREAL STOCKS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—An extremely dull session marked the opening of the local stock exchange this morning. The feature of the early trading was Spanish River, preferred, which appeared 2½ points lower from its last quotation. Other leaders did not appear during the first half hour.

The close was unfeatured, although trading was brisk all morning. Brazilian was quoted at 24, its closing figure yesterday, as was also Dominion Steel at 25. Breweries advanced ¾ before closing at 53¼. Riordon was quiet at 3 and Spanish River closed at its opening quotation.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—The feature of slow trading on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning was the comeback of Holly. Keora dropped half a point on sale of 10,000 shares and Dome Mines was steady at 20.50. Schumacher reappeared at 24. Total sales were 28,680. Silvers were quiet and fractional changes were registered in Beaver, Peterson Lake and La Rose.

WORKERS WILL NOT PERMIT WAR

Politicians May Vote Credits, But Without Result.

ULTIMATUM OF UNIONS

Will Be Passed On Day the U. S. Parley Opens

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Affiliated transport workers, railroad employees, miners and metal workers have been called to meet in a conference on November 11, the date of the opening of the Washington conference on limitation of armaments, according to a decision of the International Federation of Trade Unions of Great Britain. Robert Williams, secretary of the Transport Workers' Union, informed the Daily Herald, organ of labor, last night, that the conference would call on the peoples of America and Europe to wage war against capitalism in the only effectual way."

"When politicians and statesmen vote credits for war munitions," he continued, "they will have to reckon with the question whether the workers will produce and transport them."

Mr. Williams asserted that the conference that has been called would become a comprehensive one, which would include the workers of Europe.

RAIL AGREEMENT JUST ARMISTICE

Definite Settlement As To Wages Has Yet To Be Reached.

MAY GO TO ARBITRATION

Chief Benefit Is That There Will Be No Strike.

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—This is not a settlement, but an armistice, was the summing up of one of the executives of the railway association in discussing yesterday the agreement arrived at between the railways and their employees. "It is disappointing in that it is a further delay in getting back to normal. Tentative settlements with employees are not settlements at all. I understand the agreement is practically the unanimous decision of the board of conciliation. But it leaves the wage issue still vague."

Other officials are less pessimistic and say that no other course could be adopted as the United States settlements still hang fire both as to wages and freight rates.

"One big national gain is made through the agreement," said a C. P. R. officer, "and that is that any danger of interruption to Canada's railway service at this critical period of the year is removed, as both sides have agreed to give prior notice before asking for a reconsideration of the rates of pay. This will probably not happen until the United States situation has clarified."

BELIEVES JAP INVASION WOULD BE IMPOSSIBLE

Dr. McCallum Says Long Trip Across the Pacific Would Prevent It.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 11.—Talk of war between the United States and Japan is as nonsensical as suggested inter-planetary communication with Jupiter and Mars, according to the statement last night of Dr. A. B. McCallum, professor of medicine at McGill University, Montreal, who just returned from a five months' lecture tour in China for the Rockefeller Foundation. Declaration of war between the two countries would only result in a guerrilla warfare in which no great injury would be done to either nation. If the fleet of either power steamed across the Pacific it would so use its coal supply that it would be helpless. I believe that it would be impossible for either country to land an army in the other's territory.

EMERGENCY TARIFF RUNS TILL FEBRUARY

Under Terms of New Measure United States Wall Remains Up.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11—The emergency tariff, instead of expiring on November 25, would remain in effect until February 1 under a bill favorably reported to-day by the House ways and means committee. The life of the dye embargo would be extended, as well as the rates carried in the Emergency Act.

CHAMBERS' TRACKS SEEN BY SEARCHERS

Scouts Have Been Sent To Elizabeth Mines To Continue Hunt.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Searchers yesterday were encouraged considerably by the finding of tracks believed to have been made by Dr. Graham Chambers, Toronto physician, who is lost in the bush north of Atikokan. The footprints led westward, and it is said that if Chambers continued in that direction he would come out at Elizabeth Mines, six miles west of Clearwater Lake. Scouts have been dispatched to Elizabeth Mines.

The search party now consists of 21 members, including two mounted policemen from Fort Frances.

Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, sent a telegram last night to the Dominion Government requesting that Inspector Dann, of the local body of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, be given power to dispatch a corps of mounties to aid in the search for Dr. Graham Chambers, of Toronto, who is lost in the Atikokan bush.

AIR BOARDS TO ASSIST.

OTTAWA, Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The Air Board is taking steps to assist in the search for Dr. Graham Chambers, of Toronto, who has been lost in the woods north of Atikokan, 142 miles west of Fort William since September 9. Col. Leckie, director of operations of the air board, sent a letter to-day to Capt. Carter, in charge of the Northern Ontario station at Sioux Lookout, where there are three machines, asking Captain Carter if he could co-operate in the effort to locate the doctor.

THEIR OLD TEACHER.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 10.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Realizing that Dr. Chambers, lost in the bush at Atikokan, is "Foxy" Chambers, their former lecturer in chemistry at the university, the druggists at Fort William and Port Arthur are organizing a search party to be sent out to aid those already seeking for traces of the lost professor.

A party will probably leave Fort William to-morrow for Atikokan.

702 JAILED IN THE PAST YEAR

Largest Number of Prisoners In History.

MOSTLY LIQUOR CASES

Ninety-One Committed For Breach of O. T. A.

Castle Carter gave board and lodgings to more guests in the year ending September 30 than it has done in any 12 months previously. No fewer than 702 men and women partook of the hospitality offered at the Ridout street home, and approximately 40 per cent. of that number gained their admittance through trifling with the O. T. A. and other measures designed to insure prohibition. The arm of the law gathered in 189 who were drunk and disorderly and 91 who kept their hootch in ther than a private dwelling.

More than half of the number admitted Canadian citizenship; Roman Catholic and Church of England were the popular religious persuasions given, and 327 of the prisoners made their livelihoods as laborers. First timers and repeaters were about evenly divided and 100 had occupied a cell on three occasions or more. The total number of days served by all the prisoners was 8,829 in 1921 and 8,697 in the previous year.

One of the deductions that can be made from the annual report is that the uneducated classes contribute the great percentage of the total number of jail inmates. The laborers had 327 of their number incarcerated, 69 of the servant class were interned, together with the following: Machinists, 18; boys, 17; farmers, 20, cigarmakers, 16; carpenters, 17; bricklayers, 10.

Of the total number 414 were Canadians, 108 claimed English birth, 37 Irish, 24 Scotch, 67 United States and 36 other countries. Roman Catholics had 197 of their communion; the Church of England, 188; the Presbyterians, 11; Methodists, 132; and other denominations, 58. Three hundred and eighty-four said they were temperate and 302 admitted intemperance.

Those sentenced include: Drunks, 134; violators of the O. T. A., 60 and perpetrators of larceny, 88. A large number in each case were committed for trial, but were not sentenced. Three escaped from the jail, including the Murrell brothers, who are still at large, and Vincent Strong, who was recaptured.

CARVELL DEFENDS POWERS OF BOARD

Insists It Has Power To Settle Telephone Rates.

NO RIGHT TO APPEAL

Status of the Board Is Definite, He Declares.

OTTAWA, Oct. 11.—Chief Commissioner F. B. Carvell, at the hearing of the Bell Telephone Company's application for increased rates before the railway commission this morning, refused to consider the declaration of counsel opposing the application that it was not within the right of the privy council to refer back the appeal against the previous judgment of the railway board. Mr. Carvell also refused permission to opposing counsel to appeal to the supreme court for a ruling as to the status of the board in the case.

LONDON MAY COPY DETROIT AND GET RID OF WOMEN EMPLOYEES

DETROIT, Oct. 11.—Highland Park, an adjacent city, has decided to strike from its pay roll all women employees. Married women were recently ordered discharged from city positions and last night the Council adopted a resolution prohibiting officials from hiring married women in the future. The Council was prompted in its action by the large number of men out of employment, it was said.

The question of employing married women in city offices will be taken up by No. 1 committee at its regular meeting to-morrow afternoon. Ald. Wenige stated to-day that he will investigate the situation in the city hall to determine whether any married women are holding down jobs that should be given to the heads of families who are now out of work. If the situation warrants such action he will move to have any such positions declared vacant, that married men who need the work may be engaged.

JUDGE REFUSES TO UPSET DECISION OF MAGISTRATE ON SHOOTING

KITCHENER, Oct. 11.—Judge Hearn, in county court this morning, dismissed the appeal taken from Magistrate Weir's decision in the case of the Town of Waterloo vs. License Inspector Zinkmann. The inspector was charged with discharging firearms in the corporation contrary to the by-law. The defense held that he fired his revolver in discharge of his duty as a provincial constable. Inspector Zinkmann last July fired his revolver at a truckload of liquor from Seagram's distillery when the driver refused to stop.

ALL KITCHENER WARDS SHOW POPULATION LESS

KITCHENER, Oct. 11.—Contrary to expectations, the population of the City of Kitchener is not 23,000, but 22,717, according to the figures announced by Assessment Commissioner Martin Huenergard this morning. It was expected that the west ward would show an increase to partially offset the decrease in the other four wards of the city, but release of the figures shows that the west ward has a decrease amounting to 76. All wards thus show a decrease, making a total loss of 310 from last year. Even at that the figure is over 1,000 greater than the Dominion census of 21,651.

SEEK WIFE OF AIR PILOT WHO IS DYING

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—A communication has been received by a local paper from John T. Kinsella, superintendent of United States air mail at Cleveland, asking information as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Dixie Shea, whose maiden name was Martha Ramer, who is believed to be visiting her parents at Newmarket, Ont. Her husband, Dixie Shea, an air mail pilot, fell while making a landing in the federal field in Chicago, on October 7, and is at Johns Hopkins Hospital, not expected to live. He holds the speed record of the air mail service of the United States.

PAY $200 OR GO TO BASTILE.—Frederick Carter, a delicate appearing young man, applied himself so devotedly to the task of tanking up on Monday that when the police found him he was in a deep blue sleep, dead to the world and its worries. The patrol was requisitioned to carry him to the bastile, and on the journey he awakened long enough to hand to one of the police officers a bottle partly filled with alcohol which he said a friend had given to him. In court this morning he had a most successful hang-over and when charged with having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling could only plead that he knew nothing about it. He was fined $200 and costs or three months in jail.

LORD BYNG MAY OPEN NEW MEDICAL SCHOOL

Board of Governors to Formulate Plans For Formal Opening at Meeting This Week.

Western University board of governors will meet this week to take final action on plans for the formal opening of the new medical school, Dean Paul S. McKibben stated to-day. Recommendations have already been made to that body by the governors of the medical school.

Invitations will be extended, it is understood, to several of Canada's most prominent citizens. Dr. McKibben would not give the names of those invited, but it is known that the governor-general, Lord Byng, will be asked to honor London and the university.

WIRELESS RETURNS OF COLLEGE ATHLETICS

Special "News" Service for Western University Students.

Amateur wireless operators of Western University are planning to keep the arts and medical school students fully informed of university athletic meets this fall. Arrangements have been made with amateur wireless leagues in the United States for this service, which will be reciprocal between Western and other Canadian universities and the American colleges.

Bulletins were posted yesterday in the science building on Waterloo street, stating that games between all the Eastern Canadian and American colleges would be reported for the convenience of university wireless operators, and also including games in the middle east as far south as Pittsburg and Baltimore.

Several Western undergraduates are keenly interested in wireless work and through the Y. M. C. A. Radio Club are giving the local work of amateurs considerable additional prestige.
