The natural gas situation is being discussed to-day by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at the weekly luncheon. There is a decided opinion held by several of the members of this organization that the City Council has taken the wrong attitude on the question in setting the limit of the price to be paid at a figure that will be absolutely refused by the companies concerned. The conference to-day, at which the members of the special gas committee are in attendance by special invitation, was called that a thorough grasp of the situation might be attained. It is expected that the Chamber of Commerce will have some recommendation sent on to the Council with reference to this question at an early date.

DISCUSS SOCIAL SERVICE REPORT

Regarded As Young But Important Part of Synod Work.

QUESTION OF MARRIAGE

Remarriage of Divorced Couples Up For Discussion.

HAMILTON, Oct. 11.—The presentation and discussion of the report of the social service council was the chief business of the General Synod at this morning's session. For this occasion the house of bishops united with the lower house. His grace the primate is president of this council and the bishop of Toronto is chairman of the executive. Among the important questions that are being taken up have to do with the discharge of social service obligations resting on the council, which is by far the youngest of the great departments of the church. Much work was reported done in the triennium, stress being laid on the formation of the department of welcome and welfare, to look after newcomers. The council has now under consideration the question of requiring health certificates before marriage.

It will likely discuss matters of public health and morals, such as venereal diseases and their prevention, prostitution, feeble mindedness, care of the insane, redemptive work, intemperance and narotic drugs.

Marriage and divorce and the remarriage of divorced people, also mixed marriages, are matters which come within the purview of its work.

The care and welfare of illegitimate children will also be discussed. Unemployment and complications of capital and labor will furnish topics for discussion. Several notices of motion, received this morning, urged, among other matters, the promotion of purity in the home and individual life; the urging of the Dominion

IN MEMORIAM

WELCH—In loving memory of my dear husband, Frank Welch, who died three years ago to-day, October 11, 1918.

When evening shades are falling
And we are sitting all alone,
In our hearts there is a longing
If you only would come home.
Oft and oft our thoughts do wander
To a grave not far away,
Where they laid my darling husband
Three long years ago to-day.
—His Loving Wife and Little Children. f

ROBINSON—In loving memory of Myrtle, wife of Clifford Robinson, who died on October 11, 1918.

Some may think that we've forgot her
When at times they see us smile;
But they little know the sorrow
That our smile hides all the while.
—Mother, Sisters, Husband, Children. f

DIES, RESULT OF POICEMAN'S SHOT

Alexander Depreis Succumbs in Hospital at Windsor

BURGLARY ATTEMPT CHARGE

Officer Says He Shot When He Surprised Two Trying Robbery

WINDSOR, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Free Press)—Alexander Depreis, 1634 Dougal street, died in Hotel Dieu to-night as the result of a bullet wound received when he was shot at 3 a.m. today by Patrolman J. E. Bower.

According to the officer, Depreis and William Gerard, 1616 Howard avenue, were attempting to break into Austin's drug store, Glengarry avenue and Wyandotte street. Bower says he ordered them to throw up their hands and that one of the men pointed a weapon at him. He shot twice, one bullet striking Gerard in the right side above the hip, and the other lodging in Depreis' abdomen. Depreis and Gerard, Bower says, climbed over a fence and persuaded an unidentified man to carry them to the hospital in his automobile. They told the hospital authorities that hold-up men on the Tecumseh road had shot them.

Bower went to the hospital later and identified them as the men at whom he had shot. Gerard's condition is not serious.

ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE IN A CELL

Brantford Young Man Changes Mind Before Too Late

BRANTFORD, Oct. 10.—Apprehended for his alleged matrimonial miscues Albert Fairweather, a young Eagle Place resident, to-night attempted to hang himself in a police station cell. He might have succeeded had he not changed his mind before it was too late and police officers were able to cut loose a cord around Fairweather's neck before he had been choked. He is recovering from the effects of the act. Fairweather, after he was put into the cell, became despondent and took his belt and shoe lace off. He rigged up an apparatus which he placed around his throat and then suspended himself from a cell bar by jumping off a bench. At the last moment he became terrified and made a grab to undo the belt, but the shoe lace remained tightly around his throat and he staggered to the cell door in a semi-conscious condition.

His feeble rapping on the door attracted the attention of policemen, who cut him loose and called in medical assistance.

Fairweather will appear in court tomorrow on a bigamy charge.

LADY BECK'S CONDITION NOT THOUGHT SERIOUS

TORONTO, Oct. 10.—Lady Beck, wife of Sir Adam Beck, who was taken to the General Hospital early this morning, was resting comfortably at a late hour to-night. It is not believed that her condition is serious. Dr. Wm. Goldie is in attendance.

REMEMBER ARMISTICE.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—At a conference to-night of representatives of the local chapters of the I. O. D. E. and the Great War Veterans plans were furthered for the observance of Armistice Day here on November 11. A cenotaph will be erected on the city hall square, where fitting ceremonies will be held, including the placing of floral tributes to the city's heroic dead. The selling of poppies will be another feature of the day's observance.

Sage Tea Dandy To Darken Hair

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Luster To Hair.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advt.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advt.

TWO APPOINTED TO MOTHERS' COMMISSION

Brantford Council Names Judge Hardy and Mrs. M. M. MacBride; New Roadway Approved

BRANTFORD, Oct. 10.—At the City Council meeting this evening Judge Hardy and Mrs. M. M. MacBride were appointed to the Mothers' Allowance Commission with the recommendation that Mrs. J. W. Wright and Dr. C. Fissette be also reappointed. This would make the board of the same constitution as for the last year.

The Council approved a resolution calling upon the Provincial Government to construct a roadway from Guelph to Port Dover through the Grand River Valley as all roads constructed to date have been east and west with no roads from north to south. The resolution will be sent to the councils of Guelph, Galt, Waterloo, Preston, Hespeler, Paris, Waterford, Simcoe, Port Dover and the Grand River Valley Boards of Trade.

A committee was appointed to prepare rinks for the winter for open-air skating. The fuel investigation report was filed.

WANT CIVIC PAY CUT AS STEP TO ECONOMY

TORONTO, Oct. 10. — Seventy-five members of the Board of Trade waited on the Board of Control, of the city government, to-day and asked for a reduction of wages paid to unskilled labor by the city and for other steps towards economy.

The deputation claimed that the high wage rate of 60 cents an hour for unskilled help was "a deterrent to a resumption of normal activity in all lines of industry because of the precedent which it established, the encouragement which it gives to demands being made for a similar rate in industry and the unrest resulting from the inability of industry to comply."

Mayor Church said the big outlay in Toronto was for education and carrying charges on debts, and that the City Council was not responsible for the mounting tax rate. He gave no assurance that the wage rate would be cut, although the deputation declared that Toronto was practically alone in paying 60 cents at present to unskilled labor.

Montreal Merchant Says They Must Speed Up at Once

BUSINESS DUE FOR BOOM

Wholesalers' Stocks Are Rapidly Becoming Depleted

MONTREAL, Oct. 10.—(Special to The Free Press)—"The factories must go full blast at once." In these optimistic words the manager of one of the largest wholesale dry goods houses in Canada expressed his conviction that business has definitely turned and about to enter on a boom.

"The mills must not wait till spring. They must go ahead right now," he said, emphasizing the shortage of stocks and the fact that all surplus stocks had disappeared and illustrating that with an invitation to look around the building.

A GREAT CHANGE.

In a large attic, which a week ago was crammed with empty packing cases ready to be filled, there were only a few boxes left. All had been shipped out.

"The situation has completely changed in the past month," said the warehouseman. "A month ago we were looking for orders and our 60 travelers were working hard to get them. To-day we are so overwhelmed with orders that we are dictating the prices and we have only one trouble—we do not know where to get sufficient stock to met the demand. As fast as supplies arrive they are absorbed."

Pointing to the shipping room, where clerks were hustling breathlessly to keep things moving at express speed, "You can see for yourself," he said.

PROMINENT LAWYER AT DAYTON FOUND SLAIN

DAYTON, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Lucien Soward, prominent Dayton attorney, was mysteriously attacked and murdered in his office shortly after noon to-day.

His body, with the neck broken and the eyes blackened, was found in a pool of blood in one corner of his office, in one of the downtown office buildings. A knife was sticking in the body and had pierced the heart. The office was in great confusion and money was scattered all over the floor. Police found no clue as to the possible murderer or murderers.

Mr. Soward was about 40 years of age. He owned a large home in Oakwood, a fashionable residential district.

VISCOUNT GREY MAY RETURN TO POLITICS IN RANKS OF LABOR

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Particular significance has been attached to a speech made by Viscount Grey, ex-minister of foreign affairs, at Berwick to-day, in consequence of its being his first political address made since his retirement in 1916.

The speech is regarded as forecasting his return to political life with active participation in the councils of the independent Labor party.

PREPARE FOR CONVENTION.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 10.—At a gathering here to-night of the members of the Chamber of Commerce further arrangements were made for the reception of delegates to the Associated Boards of Trade convention here next month. Two resolutions, one on unemployment and the other on express rates, are being formulated by the local chamber.

LADY INJURED

CARGILL, Oct. 10.—A car, driven by Alex Bisset, of Kincardine, collided with a coupe, driven by Mr. Nelles, manager of the Standard Bank, Tiverton. Both cars were badly wrecked and a lady occupant of Mr. Bissett's car was injured. The mishap was purely accidental and no blame is attached to either of the drivers.

ILLTREATED HORSE.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—Albert Dunseith was fined $10 and costs or 20 days in jail in police court this morning on the charge that "On October 9, in the Township of Downie, he did drive and illtreat a horse, leaving it on the highway without food or water." Evidence was given by the police to the effect that the horse was found on the highway and was obviously in need of food, and bore marks on its body of illtreatment.

CLUB SEASON CLOSED.

STRATFORD, Oct. 10.—The Country Club season was happily closed to-night with a stag dinner in the clubhouse. The affair, which was arranged by the house committee, headed by Ald. F. M. Gifford, was not only a delightful event socially, but it served as a post-season stock taking of the summer's activities. Various matters relating to the club's welfare were discussed around the festive board and some of the ideas expressed will be incorporated in the next season's program

CAR STRIKES CARRIAGE

CARGILL, Oct. 10.—A car, driven by Miss Nora Tanner, of Elderslie, collided with Andrew Cormack's buggy while he was turning into his lane at Paisley. Mr. Cormack's horse was swung completely around by the impact and the outfit considerably damaged. No one was hurt.

CHILD DIES SUDDENLY

CARGILL, Oct. 10.—Lena, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erasmus Lang, residing three and a half miles south of here, on the Brant-Greenock town line, died suddenly yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock from acute indigestion. The little girl attended school on Friday and was in the best of health. Yesterday noon she ate a hearty meal and in about an hour's time she was dead. The funeral will be held at Chepstowe on Tuesday morning.

Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet Club

WE OFFER FOUR STRONG REASONS FOR BUYING YOUR HOOSIER IMMEDIATELY.

1st We deliver your Hoosier when you pay your first dollar. You pay the balance a little at a time. No extra charge for these easy terms.

2nd You do not pay a cent more than the regular price of Hoosier. The low 1921 prices for the Hoosier prevail. These prices are fixed by the factory.

3rd During this Sale we will give FREE with every Hoosier Beauty the handsome, practical Kitchen Set and Special Tool-Compartment Tray—the greatest single convenience ever installed in a Kitchen Cabinet.

4th There is no kitchen convenience that can compare with the Hoosier. It is not an ordinary Kitchen Cabinet, but a real working center, at which all kitchen activities are concentrated.

A demonstration costs you nothing. It will convince you that you pay for the Hoosier in wasted energy every day you do without it. And, remember, right now, you not only get the FREE Kitchen Set and Compartment Tray with this wonderful cabinet, but

The Special Cooking Spatula was designed by Mr. James Scott, supervisor of industrial education, Syracuse, N. Y.

Do not compare these tools with "so-called" kitchen sets you see advertised at a low price. You cannot buy this set or one of like quality (exclusive of tray) for less than $12.00.

These kitchen tools are made and guaranteed by the Harrington Cutlery Company, of Southbridge, Mass. They are worth $12.00.

This week we are giving this set free with each Hoosier Beauty. And, what is even more important, we give you an ideal place in which to keep it—a specially-constructed tray that keeps the knives from coming in contact with each other, and thus dulling the edges.

When Hoosier's big, uncluttered worktable is extended this tray comes out with it, so you can always get at each tool easily and quickly. This feature has never before been incorporated in a Kitchen Cabinet.

It is positively the greatest single convenience ever installed in a Cabinet. The Tray is not regular Hoosier equipment, but has been added to the Hoosiers offered during this sale.

The set comprises ten pieces, all of the Best Carbon Tool Steel, including six fine, sharp knives, two kitchen forks and two spatulas. Knives are finely ground and guaranteed to hold a keen edge. Handles are fitted to the hand. They are light-weight rubberoid finish and strictly sanitary. Blades are firmly pinned in.

You cannot get this Set and Tool-Compartment Tray after this sale closes. Right now you get BOTH—FREE—when you pay the dollar that sends your Hoosier home.

Women of Middle Age

THE critical stage of a woman's life usually comes between the years of 45 and 55, and is often beset with annnoying symptoms such as nervousness irritability, melancholia, heat flashes which produce headache and dizziness, and a sense of suffocation. Guard your health carefully, for if this period be passed over safely, many years of perfect health may be enjoyed.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted to help women through this crisis. It exercises a restorative influence, tones and strengthens the system, and assists nature in the long weeks and months covering this period. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and contains no harmful drugs or narcotics. Its value is proven by many such letters as these:

Regina, Sask.—"I was going through Change of Life and suffered for two years with headache, nervousness, sleepless nights and general weakness. Some days I felt tired and unfit to do my work. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and found good results, and I also find it a very helpful Spring tonic and useful for constipation from which I suffer much. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to several friends, and am willing you should publish this."—Mrs. MARTHA W. LINDSAY, 810 Robinson St., Regina, Sask.

Lascelles, P.Q.—"During the Change of Life I felt so weak and run down I could hardly do my work. The perspiration would pour over my face so that I couldn't see what I was doing. We live on a farm, so there is lots to do, but many who felt as I did would have been in bed. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did me a world of good. I tried other remedies but I put Vegetable Compound ahead of them all, and I tell every one I know how much good it has done me."—Mrs. DUNCAN BROWN, Lascelles, Prov. Quebec.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A dull morning brightened up in time for the staging of the seventh game of the 1921 world's baseball series this afternoon and another big crowd gathered to see their favorites break the deadlock caused by three victories for each team.

A double by Pipp, coupled with Ward's bunt and McNally's single, gave the Yankees the first run in the second inning. The Giants scored the tieing run in the fourth on Young's single to Ward. Young stole second and scored on Meusel's single.

The Giants won the game in the seventh when Ward fumbled Rawlings' grounder and Snyder's double sent the winning run in.

Both teams seemed to think that tricky something called the "freak in the game" would make its appearance this afternoon and point out the ultimate victor in the championship struggle. Whoever wins to-day's game will be only one victory away from the throne, while the losers must take the next two games in succession to become champions of the world.

Carl Mays will be sent against the awakened Giants to-day, Manager Huggins said, following to-morrow by Waite Hoyt, who permitted the National Leaguers but one run in 18 innings. "Shuffling Phil" Douglas is the likely choice of McGraw.

Should this big spitball artist be put to work this afternoon it will be the third time he has opposed Mays. They pitched the starter last Wednesday and the Yanks won, 3-0. When they met again on Sunday the Giants won 4-2. Douglas will carry a handkerchief with him to the fray. He has a bad cold, it was noised about by his comrades. Perhaps it will keep him from pitching. If so, McGraw said he would select either Sallee or Pat Shea, a newcomer. Shea in his few weeks of active duty with the Giants this past season won five games and was beaten only twice. McGraw said he would like to give the youngster a chance in the series.

ADVANTAGE WITH GIANTS.

Metropolitan fandom believes the rumpus at the Polo Grounds will go the full nine games. Regard, they say, how the teams, over the span of a whole week, showed themselves imbued with a tit-for-tat spirit. The Yankees took the first two, then the Giants won a pair, after which the Yankees forged one ahead, only to have the Giants catch up with them yesterday by pummelling the service of Harper and Shawkey for 13 hits and eight runs.

The advantage of power in the box now lies with the Giants. Douglas and Barnes have shown they can halt the rush of Yankee bats. Douglas is booked to pitch to-day and Nehf to-morrow. Nehf lost two games to the Yankees, largely because his team mates made but one run in the 18 innings they labored with him. This would leave for the possible ninth game assignment Barnes, who twice has rescued Toney from the fury of a Yank attack, and then held them while the Giants pounded out victories. Besides, there are the second string flingers as yet untested.

On the other hand Huggins has trotted out only two successful pitchers—Hoyt and Mays—and the Giants now vow they no longer dread the underhand shoots of Mays, having beaten him on his second start. It is Mays who may have to pitch a fourth time if the series goes the limit.

Yesterday's game was exciting the first four innings, so full of thrills that what followed seemed drowsy, though the closing rounds produced as much of interest as the average contest.

WILL DOG THE YANKS.

The Giants are going to lead the Yankees a dog's life from now on, said Manager McGraw to-day. He was feeling snappy over the Giants' victory of yesterday. Commenting on the fighting spirit of his men, McGraw mentioned their having won three of the last four games after the Yankees had twice downed them at the start.

Snyder and Frisch, of the Giants, hit better than any of the regular Yankee sluggers in the first six games, their averages being .412 and .409. E. Meusel, of the Giants, leads in total bases with 15, which includes two doubles, a triple and a homer. Frisch leads in runs with five and in stolen bases with three.

Play By Play

FIRST INNING.

YANKEES.—Fewster flied out to Young who made a nice running catch to the wall. Peckinpaugh got a long hit to left for two bases. Frisch threw out Miller at first, Peckinpaugh going to third. Douglas knocked down Meusel's grounder and threw him out at first. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

GIANTS.—Burns flied out to Meusel. Bancroft doubled to left. Frisch flied out to Miller and Bancroft went to third after the catch. Mays robbed Young of a hit and threw him out at first. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

SECOND INNING.

YANKEES.—Pipp doubled up against the left field fence. Ward sacrificed, Frisch to Kelly. Pipp scored on McNally's single to right. Schang forced McNally, Bancroft to Rawlings. Mays lined out to Rawlings, who made a leaping catch. ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

GIANTS—Kelly fanned. McNally threw out Meusel at first. Pipp making a back-hand catch. McNally threw out Rawlings at first. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

THIRD INNING.

YANKEES—Fewster got a single to left, but went out stretching it, Meusel to Bancroft. Peckinpaugh got a Texas leaguer to left. Miller popped out to Bancroft, Meusel fanned. NO RUNS, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

GIANTS.—Baker went in to play third base for the Yankees in place of McNally, who hurt his shoulder sliding into second in the second inning. Peckinpaugh threw out Snyder. Douglas fanned. Burns got a two-base hit over Baker's head. Bancroft struck out. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

FOURTH INNING.

YANKEES.—Pipp grounded out to Kelly (unassisted). Douglas tossed out Ward at first. Baker, the home run king, flied out to Frisch. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

GIANTS—Mays threw out Frisch at first. Young got a single off Ward's glove. Kelly struck out and Young stole second. Young scored on Meusel's line single to center. Rawlings went to Pipp (unassisted). ONE RUN, TWO HITS, NO ERRORS.

FIFTH INNING.

YANKEES—Douglas threw Schang out at first. Rawlings threw out Mays at first. Fewster fanned. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

GIANTS—Snyder flied out to Miller. Douglas grounded out to Pipp (unassisted). Burns got a two-base hit, but was out at third stretching it, Miller to Ward to Baker. NO RUNS, ONE HIT, NO ERRORS.

SIXTH INNING.

YANKEES.—Peckinpaugh fouled out to Frisch. Frisch threw out Miller. Meusel flied out to Young. NO RUNS, NO HITS, NO ERRORS.

MOORS DEMORALIZED BY RECENT DEFEATS

Number Who Surrender to Spaniards Brought Breech Blocks of Cannon.

MADRID, Oct. 12.—A dispatch to El Sol from Melilla reports that Moroccans who came to the Spanish camp to offer submission to the Spaniards brought with them the breech blocks of three cannon which formerly had been emplaced at Gourougou. They said Abd-El-Krin, the leader of the tribesmen, had deceived men concerning the strength of Spain, and at the same time had asserted that there had been a revolution in Spain and that Spain would be invaded.

The Moroccans told the correspondent that Abd-El-Krin, together with the Beni-Urraguel tribesmen and the Riffians, are utterly demoralized by recent defeats.

HARDING'S OPINION IS CLOSER TO ENGLAND'S

U. S. President Now Thinks "Absolute Disarmament" Perhaps Not Desirable.

REASONABLE LIMIT PRACTICAL SOLUTION

American Delegates To Armament Conference In Preliminary Session.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—A month of careful preparation for the United States Government's part in the armament conference began to-day with the first meeting here of the four delegates selected by President Harding to speak for the United States.

Diplomatic, military and naval data of a specific nature already have been compiled for the guidance of the delegation, but the real task of fitting the whole mass of information together and building upon it a constructive program remained to be done by the delegates themselves in the long series of meetings that will precede the opening of the conference on November 11.

To-day's meeting was called by Secretary Hughes, head of the delegation, to permit of a preliminary survey of the situation and of a general outline of the things to be done. President Harding had communicated his ideas through Mr. Hughes and memoranda were available covering various points of technical information.

WANTS "REASONABLE LIMIT."

Some hint of the president's hopes for the armament conference were given as the delegates were assembling by publication of a letter the president had written in reply to a prayer that he work for "universal disarmament." Absolute disarmament, Mr. Harding wrote, was "beyond hope of realizing" and perhaps not even desirable, but a "reasonable limitation of armament" was a practical proposition with some hope of accomplishment.

Similar sentiments have been expressed generally by United States military and naval authorities who have concerned themselves with preparation of the data that was before to-day's meeting. It is understood that the first consideration of those familiar with the international situation has been rather "a reasonable limitation" of future armament construction than a scaling down of present strength. The latter, it is pointed out, could well be considered after a building program for the future had been agreed upon.

The letter in which President Harding outlined his hope for "reasonable limitation" was addressed to Miss Ella I. Freed, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"By reasonable limitation I mean," the president wrote, "something practicable that there is a chance to accomplish rather than an ideal that there will be no chance to realize. It is necessary to deal with actualities, to do the best possible. Universal disarmament would be beyond hope of realization; even its desirability at this time might well be questioned. Thousands of years of historic recording the wards and controversies of mankind suggest that human nature would require revolutionary reorganization to make universal disarmament possible. A consideration of the present state of the world must, I think, inforce the conclusion that this is not a hopeful time to undertake that kind of revolution. On the other hand, a world with the horrors of recent experiences seared into its mind staggering under a load of debt and armaments has generously justified our hope for a favorable attitude towards the practical effort, the sincere beginning that we are attempting."

BURNED AT STAKE AS HUNDREDS LOOKED ON

LEESBURG, Texas, Oct. 11.—Wylie McNeely, 19 years old, charged with an assault on an eight-year old girl, was burned at the stake here to-day. He was seized by a mob at Mount Pleasant, where he had been taken for safe keeping, and brought here. Several hundred persons witnessed the burning.

JEALOUS BEAR KIDNAPPED OWNER ON DAY OF WEDDING

BEECH PARK, Oct. 12.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The mysterious disappearance of Peter Swick, which has caused tremendous excitement throughout the entire country for the past week, was cleared up to-day with his rescue from a room in the old Hullett mill, where he had been held a prisoner ever since he vanished.

Just a week ago to-day Swick was to have been married to Miss Henshaw, a daughtr of Ed Henshaw, the town postmaster. The guests were all assembled and the bride was putting the finishing touches to her trousseau in her room upstairs when Swick, who was looking out of the parlor window, excused himself and went outside. That was the last seen of him. Searching parties were organized, but no trace of his whereabouts could be found, and the consensus of opinion was that marriags had suddenly become distasteful and he had taken a train to parts unknown.

The truth of the disappearance is so strange that it might easily be classed as fiction. Love, however, performs feats that puts fiction to shame. In Swick's case it was animal love—the affection of a three-hundred pound pet bear, named Stella, that he had raised from a cub. He found the animal about two years ago. It had both front legs broken. By the time the limbs were healed Swick and the cub were great friends and it was a common sight to see the two roaming around together. During her master's courtship the bear was sulky and on the day the wedding was to have taken place followed him to Miss Henshaw's home. Swick saw the animal through the window and went to order it home, when it picked him up and carried him to the mill. Throwing him down inside the building the bear slammed the door shut and with its muzzle pushed the heavy bolt in place. During the week he was prisoner the bear stole pies, meat and other foods from farm houses and dropped them into the mill through a hole in the roof, which she made.

The bear put up a stiff fight when William Northern, Ed Henshaw, Abe Werner, James Gardner and Silas Hooter attempted to enter the mill, and Werner had his arm badly torn.

When Miss Henshaw arrived the animal slunk away towards the high bank fronting the lake, uttering a weird sound, not unlike a long-drawn-out moan, and, standing poised for an instant on the pinnacle of the bank, jumped into the water, one hundred feet below, and was seen no more.

Trustees Scored For Locking Up Schools

Popular Indignation Over Refusal To Let Schools For Political Meetings.

London ratepayers are quite incensed over the action of the Board of Education in refusing to grant permission to hold meetings for the discussion of questions of vital public interest in the schools of the city. The request of S. Frank Glass, M. P. for East Middlesex, for the use of Pottersburg School during the coming campaign was refused because "if this were permitted all other parties in the fight would demand the same courtesies extended to them." The ratepayers are asking what right the board has to refuse this or any similar request for the legitimate use of the school buildings.

Mr. Glass calls attention to the fact that nothing could be of much greater importance to the city or Dominion as a whole than the coming election. The issues are of national import and they affect every citizen of Canada. On these grounds alone the board should permit the schools to be used for the discussion of these matters which are of such interest to every resident of the city and country. The reason for refusing is a mere subterfuge, he thinks. It is a petty thing to close the buildings entirely to the speakers who wish to place the issues squarely before the electors.

OPEN SCHOOLS TO ALL.

"In closing the schools the board is simply making it harder for the electors of the city to secure the necessary information on the questions of the day to enable them to vote intelligently," said Mr. Glass. "It is unreasonable on the part of the trustees to take this attitude on the question. They excuse their action by saying that if one party

COLLEGIANS ARE WARRING TO-DAY

Sophomore Girls Initiate First-Year Maids.

For the first time in Western University's history, first-year women students were given the grand razz by the girls of the second year. Hitherto the gentle arts of initiation have been left to the students of the sterner sex, but this year precedents were abandoned, mid-Victorian prejudices swept into the nearest waste basket, and the 1921 initiation proceeded along original lines.

Notices were posted yesterday by the sophomore girls' initiating organization, calling upon all freshwomen to appear for lectures this morning garbed as follows:

Hair to be drawn into six pigtails.

Each pigtail to be decorated with a large green ribbon.

Shirt waists, where possible, to be worn hind part before.

Freshwomen to wear one black and one white stocking.

Each freshwoman to carry a bell.

These orders, signed by the chief inquisitor, were generally obeyed. And as bobbed hair is quite popular at Western "U" this year, the "six pigtail" order produced some weird effects.

GOSH, IT WAS AWFUL.

The initiation was carried out indoors, owing to the rain and for other reasons. What transpired behind closed doors is not for mere men to know or even imagine. But one young lady, with that choice use of classical diction which distinguishes the university student the world over, exclaimed, "Gosh, it's awful!"

The men sophomores, having cast a bewildered eye on the pigtailed freshwomen, went into solemn conclave with a view to surrendering the initiation belt. They felt, one young second year man stated, that they had been utterly outclassed.

The initiation ceremonies, the first of their kind ever held in London as regards female participation, will come to an end with a dinner, it is understood. The sophomores, having established their superiority, will generously relent and welcome the "wearers of the green" to the sacred sisterhood of those tried but not found wanting.

START WORK IN FEW WEEKS ON WESTERN ONTARIO'S NEW $1,000,000 UNIVERSITY

Forget Party Ties and Use Ballots For Best Interests Of Canada, Says Dean Tucker

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.—That all electors should exercise their franchise in the coming election, forget old party affiliations and vote in the best interests of the nation is the purport of a resolution introduced by Rev. Dean Tucker, of London, at this morning's session of the General Anglican Synod. The resolution, which was laid over for further consideration, is as follows:

"In view of the general elections now impending the synod would strongly urge upon all electors to exercise their franchise and to do so in the interests of the nation and not from mere personal, mercenary or party motives. This body would call the attention of the candidates and their agents to the importance of avoiding, as far as possible, all personalities and the usual unworthy accompaniment of political contests. It would also earnestly call upon the leaders of political parties to do their utmost to raise the great national contest to the high level of the dignity of our young nation and the importance of the issues involved."

Dean Tucker proposes having a copy of the resolution sent to each candidate, if the synod approves.

SUDDEN DEATH OF 'HARRY' FOWLER

Well-Known Newspaper Man Passed Away This Morning.

LEAVES SCORES OF FRIENDS

Demise of Brilliant Journalist Will Be Widely Regretted.

J. H. FOWLER.

London lost a splendid citizen and Canadian journalism one of her most popular and brilliant members in the death at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning of John Henry ("Harry") Fowler, after an illness of only a few days. A member at various times of both The Free Press and The Advertiser, "Harry" had made hundreds of friends in the city and probably few men were as well known in London as the deceased.

The deceased was born in Watford about 45 years ago and after graduating from the public and high school there took up theology at the University of Toronto with the intention of entering the Methodist ministry. He obtained his degree of bachelor of arts at the Toronto college and for three years engaged in church work, which he left, however, to enter journalism.

COMES TO LONDON.

In 1905 "Harry" came to London as a reporter on The London Advertiser, with which paper he remained for two years. In 1907 he went to The Toronto World and later to The Winnipeg Telegram. He returned again, however, to The Advertiser, leaving to become a political and municipal writer on The Free Press. He remained with The Free Press for two years, when he returned to The Advertiser.

While a member of the staff of The Free Press "Harry" conducted a column which was read all over the country. It was replete with wit and wisdom and added to his popularity.

Later the deceased removed to Ottawa, where he became a member of the press gallery and covered the activities

SAYS PACIFIC'S SAFETY SUREST PEACE FACTOR

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Oct. 12. — Amicable arrangements for the safeguarding of the peace in the Pacific at the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions to be held in Washington will be the "surest factor in the peace of the world," declared Premier W. F. Massey yesterday. He added that New Zealand was fortunate in being able to send Sir John W. Salmon, a recognized authority on constitutional law, as her representative at the conference.

PREMIER'S VISIT TO WESTERN ONTARIO

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. — Premier Meighen's complete itinerary for the Province of Ontario was given out to-night by the National Liberal and Conservative party headquarters. Western Ontario meetings have been arranged as follows:

October 19—Afternoon, Clinton; evening, Goderich.

October 20—Evening, Sarnia.

October 21 — Afternoon, St. Marys; evening, Stratford.

October 22 — Evening, St. Thomas.

Sunday, October 23, will be spent in Toronto.

October 24—Evening, Brantford.

Part of Buildings Will Be Occupied By This Time Next Year.

PRELIMINARY DETAILS ARE BEING COMPLETED

Contracts Will Be Let When Ratepayers Approve Debenture Issue.

Western Ontario's new million-dollar university, which has been the vision of many for the last few years, will become an actuality before the close of 1922. Construction work on the new buildings will commence within a few weeks and by October, 1922, several of these will be ready for the classes of that year. This announcement, made by Mayor Little to-day, will be received with pleasure by Londoners and all citizens of this section of Ontario who have been anxiously looking forward to this. The years of hard work on the part of those having the interest of Western Ontario at heart in this connection has at last come to fruition.

Mayor Little pointed out there is practically nothing in the way of this building program being carried out now. The request of the governors for a debenture issue of $250,000, which will come before No. 1 committee this afternoon, is the key to the situation, he says. If this request is granted, and he is assured that it will be, the university authorities will immediately take action towards getting the construction started.

PRELIMINARY DETAILS.

Of course, no contracts will be let or other similar action taken until after the ratepayers have approved the debenture issue on December 5, but the preliminary details will be completed so there will be no delay later.

With the $250,000 which the city will grant for building purposes, the university authorities will have practically one and one-quarter million dollars with which to erect the buildings. The Provincial Government, at its last session, voted $800,000 for this purpose, and assistance has been promised by the County of Middlesex.

Money from other sources is also available for this work. The total outlay to be made within the next year does not represent the final sum which will be expended on university buildings in London. Rather, this is merely a good start and the work will be continued as the number of pupils demand. While the new Western for the present is referred to as the million-dollar university, in the not far distant future it will be more accurate to call it the two-million-dollar one. Those who have taken such an interest in it to bring about the purchase of new grounds and erection of the buildings have a vision that its growth from this period on will be more rapid than even the most optimistic can believe possible.

SITE PURCHASED.

The site of the new university was purchased some years ago. Lying west of the river, immediately north of the city, it will be necessary to construct a bridge connecting the grounds with Richmond street. This will be done with part of the money which the city will grant this year. The remainder of the $250,000 will be used to erect dormitories and other similar buildings. The Government grant of $800,000 will be devoted to the construction of the main classrooms, including the arts and science buildings. The plans are all practically complete.

Commenting on the whole proposition, Mayor Little expressed the opinion that the ratepayers of the city will give an overwhelming majority in favor of the granting of the debenture issue. He points out that London must do something to assist the university in its building program. The provincial grant was made conditionally on the city doing its share in this work. But his worship has absolutely no doubt of the outcome of the vote on December 5, when the by-law authorizing the expenditure of $250,000 for university construction will be placed before the ratepayers.

PUBLIC WORKS TO RUN TO $800,000

Budget To Go To Council On Monday Next.

PROGRAM IS LENGTHY

1922 Will See Even More Works Than This Year.

The bill for 1921's public works will probably be presented at the Council meeting on Monday evening next. The total runs to $800,000. This amount will have to be paid for by debentures issued under the provision of the local improvement acts respecting municipalities.

The passing year has broken all records of expenditures in the way of pavements, storm and sanitary sewers and for sewage disposal. The extra emphasis given public works this year was because of the prevailing industrial depression. That London has had less unemployment than other Canadian cities, that at no time did the municipal Council have to make provision for public relief, is said to be due to the policy of providing city work for unemployed.

City Engineer Brazier stated to-day that while $800,000 of work was put under way this year, part of the total would be carried over to 1922, owing to the fact that the $150,000 sanitary sewer system in West London would not be completed until next year.

LARGE WORKS PROGRAM.

"Debentures for local improvements," he stated, "are not issued on a general vote of the ratepayers. Public works are generally petitioned for by citizens concerned. A majority of names and property assessment to secure the Council's approval to a petition."

An even larger public works program is now being outlined by members of the works committee of the City Council for 1922. The program includes the erection of a sewage disposal plant, considerable paving extension, together with the completion of more crushed stone roads and the building of a new sewer system in the vicinity of Wellington and High streets that will cost $270,000.

The Weather

FROST TO-NIGHT.

"Zimmie"

PROBABILITIES.

Fresh, northerly to westerly winds, mostly fair and quite cool. Local frosts to-night. Thursday — Moderate to fresh westerly winds, fair, not much change in temperature.

NOTES.

A depression which was over the lower lake region yesterday has moved slowly to the eastward of the States with increasing energy, while the center of the area of high pressure has drawn southward to Missouri. Rain has fallen in most localities from Lake Huron to Newfoundland. From Lake Superior to British Columbia the weather has been fine.

INVALID YOUTH SENT TO PRISON

Inspector Kelly Charges Such Sentences Imposed Here.

That children are being sentenced by city courts to provincial correctional institutions suffering from acute nervous disorders was the charge made by Inspector W. E. Kelly, of the Children's Aid Society to-day. One boy was recently sentenced, he stated to-day, who was suffering from chorea, or St. Vitus dance. Efforts are now being made to have the child released on parole.

This disease, a prominent surgeon stated to-day, with regard to Mr. Kelly's report, is particularly serious when it affects children.

"A child who is suffering from chorea," he stated, "has probably been subjected to some shock or fright, and the remedy is complete rest; or there has been malnutition — insufficient or improper food — when a course of nutritious feeding would be necessary."

The physician stated that it was a matter anyone might question whether a child suffering from so serious a disease would be able to get either complete rest at a provincial reformatory institution or the nutritious feeding needed.

The agitation for the establishment of a juvenile court in London continues to gather additional impetus. It is understood that Judge Mott, of Toronto, head of that city's juvenile court, will address the local Kiwanis Club at an early date.

BANKS WELL ABLE TO HANDLE RURAL CREDIT SYSTEM; GOVT. BANKS UNNECESSARY

Opinion of Bank Manager On Proposal of Provincial Government.

The announcement of the Provincial Government that it will go into competition with the savings banks in the province for the purpose of financing their rural credits scheme is being received with opposing views by the banks and by labor men.

The proposal of the Government is to open several branches of the subtreasury in various parts of the province to receive deposits from citizens at 4 per cent. The money will be loaned to farmers under the rural credits scheme, for which legislation was passed at the last session of the local House.

Local bank managers, while they could not say whether or not the proposal would have any considerable effect on the business of the banks, expressed the opinion that rural credits were not necessary. They believed that the banks were able to give substantial farmers all the credit which they required and believed that they were in a better position to handle the business than the Government would be.

DIFFERENT VIEWS.

Labor men, one a well-known financial man and chartered accountant, believed the proposal a good one. In their opinion it would give the citizens an opportunity to obtain better returns for their savings and at the same time would give the farmers an opportunity for to obtain long-term loans, which would tend to allow the farmers to branch out and increase production.

H. F. Skey, manager of the main branch of the Bank of Montreal here, told The Free Press that he could not see any advantages which the scheme would give the farmers over the present facilities offered by the banks. Those who were deserving of assistance to carry on their farm business could obtain loans from the bank. The Government scheme of rural credits would open the door to those who were undeserving of loans. He made no comment on the 4 per cent. savings bank scheme.

"The rural credit system is unnecessary and the banks and loan companies are well able to handle this business," declared F. C. Field, manager of the head office of the Bank of Toronto. He stated that the rural credits scheme in Western Canada had not worked out particularly well, he understood. Many of the farmers had obtained loans and had been unable to repay them at the end of the loan period.

Mr. Field did not believe that the proposal to open subtreasury branches would have any great effect on the business of the banks. The banks all had the best of facilities for handling the business of loans to farmers and he expressed the opinion that the Government would find that the expense of their organization would more than offset any advantages.

CHANCE FOR FARMERS.

"I think the proposal would prove a good thing," declared Ex-Ald. Henry Ashplant, well-known labor man and chartered accountant, both for the farmers and for those in the urban centers. The banks have held interest down to 3 per cent., while they have loaned their money at higher rates during the past few years.

"Such a plan will give the farmers an opportunity to branch out more," he continued. "I believe that it is recognized that the farmers need loans for longer terms than the commercial short-term loans, which the banks are prepared to give. Moreover, I believe that if the scheme is well handled by those who understand banking that the Government will be able to pay 4 per cent. to depositors. In addition to giving the depositors 33 per cent. more for their money it also has the advantage of the safety of the Government, which is behind it, although I believe that the banks at the present time are exceedingly sound.

"It would have a tendency, in my judgment," Mr. Ashplant stated, "to increase the productive activities of the farmers of Ontario. Long-term loans would give the farmers an opportunity to branch out and extend their business."

W. H. Stewart, also well-known in labor circles, expressed the opinion that if the banks are not in a position to assist the farmers as they should be assisted then the province should take the matter up. In connection with the rural credits, Mr. Stewart believed that if the plan was extended to include small manufacturers, who are unable to get the necessary backing from the bank, it would do a great deal to relieve the unemployment situation in the province.

LIMIT SPEED OF TRAFFIC IN PARK

Twelve and Half Miles Per Hour Is Maximum.

BAN DELIVERY VEHICLES

Signs Warn Cyclists Not To Exceed Five Miles Per.

Restrictions were to-day placed on the vehicular traffic in Victoria Park, which insures a certain measure of safety for children who wish to play there and for the pedestrians who make use of the central breathing spot. Signs have been posted in prominent places, prohibiting commercial traffic and making the maximum speed limit for any conveyance 12½ miles per hour.

Automobiles are allowed to travel at the rate of 12½ miles per hour, while carriages motor cycles and bicycles must not exceed five miles an hour. Moreover, they must all keep to the right as the avenues in the park are designated as "one-way" roads. This measure will prevent accidents caused by the difficulty in keeping watch on traffic coming from two directions.

Commercial vehicles which were wont to dash through the short cuts provided by the park must in future use the adjacent roads. Only the motorist can appreciate the speed restrictions which have been placed on the different vehicles, which are still allowed entry to the park. Five miles per is little more than a walking pace, while 12½ miles per is about as slow as a motorist goes in dense traffic.

While the initiators of the move to have the park closed to traffic are pleased with the legislation which the city fathers have instituted, they are not entirely satisfied. Whether they urge complete restriction of the roadways depends on the success with which the present proposals work out. If the restrictions are enforced by the police, there ought to be little likelihood of any accidents within the park.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 12 (Columbus discovers America, 1492). Up pretty betimes thinking how My Lord Admiral Columbus discovers this continent 429 years ago, and methinks we are growing old somewhat. These 429 years being a respectable age for any empire, all the greatness that was Rome's or Greece's being told in that length of time. A wonderful four centuries such as never was in the world before so far as we know, though future diggers and excavators may discover—which we already have a vague hint of—that there were greater civilizations long before the present dawn of history. A time when other stars sit guard over our north pole, when Greenland was tropical to its climate and ships sail into the harbors of Atlantis. I have a dream that stays with me as of a thing actually seen. Hills overlooking a purple bay around which cluster mighty pleasant white houses. And high above rises a mighty moon at full. A pleasant place, I have never seen the like of it in my journeyings up and down the earth.

A great hailstorm yesterday, the greatest we have had for a long time, and the streets, as I ride home at night, are wet with the angry tears of dethroned summer and the fallen maple leaves make a carpet for the fairy feet of the frost fairies. Oh, it is sweet to love the earth and all that it does. This orderly but ever-varying procession of days and seasons. Some new beauty in each day from sunrise to sunset, and methinks the moon grows lovelier each year. Oh, that we fools would realize what a paradise we may make of this earth if we would love it tenderly, as tenderly as we do our livers.

Out to a meeting of our trustees yesterday, when comes men of our Trades and Labor Council and to argue with them on protection of London home industries and labor. The best political speech for our party, and all unwitting, that I have ever heard. They showing that when we spend money in other cities for things we can do or make here, we might as well be living in ancient Greece and be paying tribute to these other cities. Also, that if we protect not ourselves, no one else, St. George witness, will do it for us. And it is but a step from protecting London to protecting Canada. And if we tear down the wall betwixt ourselves and foreign markets laboring men everywhere may expect 10 and 12-hour days, as was charged by this committee, and other high infringement of their rights and dignities.

Out to the shows last night and to see this "French Leave." St. Andrew knows I feel like leaving London and joining this company in some capacity. Such youthful charm, and, above all, with that sparkles like rainbow trout just landed from a mountain brook. Such shows as these are worth the price of admission, and mean to go to see it again at my own expense.

Comes a book selling agent to my father-in-law, saying: "May I sell you Boswell's 'Life of Johnson,' bound in half-calf and only four shillings down!" Whereat father-in-law looks at him pretty sharp, saying: "I want no books in half-calf, such a thing savoring too much of the cannibals their practices; and, moreover, I have no interest in the life of an Afro-American pugilist!"

Nephew submits the following one-act play after Master Lee Pape: "Scene—Garden of Eden. Characters—Adam and Eve. Time—Honeymoon well over. Act 1. Adam: 'Well, I guess I'll go down and talk to the lions.' Eve: 'Oh, Adam, I've got something to ask you.' Adam, gruffly: 'Well, what's on your mind besides water?' Eve: 'Don't be cross with your snookums. But what did you think when you saw me coming?' Adam: 'Well, I thought, if you must know, that I couldn't recall having advertised for a housekeeper!' Serpent (aside): 'He-he.'"

My Aunt Mary comes home from a church meeting the maddest I ever saw over an argument staged by several charitable party women against her. They holding the free trading is right on moral grounds if no other, because it would keep women from committing the high crime of smuggling when they come back from visiting couzens in the Union States. Which I laugh at pretty loud, whereat Aunt Mary says: "You needn't laugh, you would-be young snippet, for as soon as they get through this conference for the limitation of armaments I am for having a world conference on the limitation of arguments!

The news is that M. Clemenceau do ask the whole world: "Who wins the warr?" Doing this the bitterest possible. And the owl of Athene do reply from high Olympus: "Who, who-oo-o?" The trouble is that there was no victor, the sooner that fact is stablished the better. Bating, possibly, the devil. A silly, vain, stock-company warr in which the parties do wonder if the others are getting away with bonds or selling goods to themselves. And the last investor, the Yang-kees, after making a great display fo coming to the rescue, vow they set the company on its feet when they only set it by the ears.

Our police reporter tells how a wandering man comes before the local commander of the faithful who asks: "What do you do for a living?" "Not much," says the man, "I just sorta circulate around." "Please note," the magistrate says to Master Moule, the clerk, "that this gentleman is retired from circulation for 30 days!"

And it is also told on this judge how a young woman complains of her husband: "We be married for only one week and he throws a piece of plum cake at me!" "Disorderly conduct," says the judge, "$10 or 10 days!" "And I m-made the c-cake with m-my own hands!" sobs the bride. "Assault with deadly weapon," roars the judge, "one year with hard labor!"

VIEW BODY.—Coroner Cameron Wilson and a jury on Tuesday night, at 6.15, in the undertaking parlors of Wesley Harrison, viewed the remains of Albert Luce, 8 Orchard street, who was killed by a Grand Trunk train on the night of Monday, October 10. After viewing the remains it was decided that an inquest would be held at the courthouse on Friday night at 8 o'clock. The jury is composed of Percy Ashton (foreman), C. Lethbridge, Chas. Egelton, Thos. Brigan, R. Morgan, Chas. Fysh, Jos. Good, G. W. Thomas and Chas. Radford.

WILL AID BOYS.—Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham has volunteered to secure the co-operation of the newly-organized London Lions' Club in the S. A. C. work for orphaned sons of war veterans. The Kiwanis Club started the work in the city and are taking care of many lads, but there are more boys than Kiwanian foster brothers. The Lions, it is understood, welcome the opportunity of serving in every way possible.

DORMITORIES FOR Y. M. C. A. PLANNED

Provide Homes For Young Men In City.

SEVERAL APPLY DAILY

Suitable Location Is One of the Obstacles.

Dormitories which are regarded as the greatest need of the London Y. M. C. A. may be established next year in connection with the Red Triangle Building. Sufficient funds to finance the plan and a suitable location for the quarters are the only obstacles which at present stand in the way of the board of directors providing board and lodging for the young men who have no home in the city.

Secretary E. J. Jenkins informed The Free Press to-day that an average of between four and five strangers applied to the Y. M. C. A. every day for "a room." In some instances they are merely transients who are "Y." members elsewhere and are accustomed to finding dormitories in other association buildings. Others are men who have come to London to work and desire quarters in the "Y." that will be at once central and convenient to the many privileges of the institution.

With the establishment of an auxiliary gymnasium the life of the present "Y" building has been lengthened considerably and has postponed the erection of a new building for some years, at least until the cost of building more nearly approximates pre-war prices. Dormitories are therefore regarded as essentials that cannot await the new building and which must form part of the present plan if the association is to adequately care for the welfare of the hundreds of young men in the city who are without homes.

REVENUE PRODUCERS.

A feature which prompts the fulfillment of the proposal is that the dormitories would be revenue producing and add to the funds of the "Y." Furthermore, the boarders would be members of the local branch and give that much more stability to its membership. It is believed that there would be little difficulty in filling 100 cubicles immediately they were opened.

"London is behind other cities when it comes to providing board and lodgings for those young men who are forced to put up with distant boarding houses," said Secretary Jenkins. "We could fill our dormitories simply through the advertisement of other associations which have long had dormitories established."

It is not likely that the dormitories will be distant from the parent building as that plan would be more expensive and not so satisfactory to the association or to the boarders. The Y. W. C. A., which is more progressive than the Y. M. C. A. in the matter in question, have found that two buildings are decidedly unwieldy and that the rooms should be of easy access to the social, recreational and physical rooms of the main building.

COMMITTEE OF 12 FOR RELIEF WORK

Will Keep In Touch With Members In Distress.

THREE FOR EACH WARD

Spirit of Co-Operation To Be Expanded.

At the next meeting of the local G. W. V. A. a "committee of 12" will be appointed to exemplify the good and welfare of the association by keeping in touch with all members of the command and caring for all members and their families who are in need of assistance, financially or otherwise. A similar committee was formed two years ago and did excellent work on behalf of the returned soldiers of the city.

These 12 apostles of sympathy and good cheer will be allotted to the four wards of the city and be responsible for the members in that section. A veteran or his family who are afflicted with sickness, death or unemployment will find in the members of this committee the same helpfulness and encouragement as is found in societies which are purely fraternal in their character.

COMMITTEE WILL REPORT.

Three men who are acquainted with the people in a certain ward will have jurisdiction over it and will bring to the attention of the G. W. V. A. all instances where relief is opportune or where some concrete expression of sympathy would help ease the burden of a fellow member of the association. Men who have let their membership lapse through financial difficulties will be given the same consideration as the paid-up member, and the plan may be even extended to reach veterans who do not belong to any organization but who are obviously in need.

It is not the intention of the association to spend large sums of money in extending relief, but to bring any destitute families to the attention of the civic authorities and in the last resort raising special subscriptions among the members so that no men will be without food and shelter during the coming months. It had been decided to appoint the committee at the meeting last night, but it was postponed to allow a fuller discussion on the question of amalgamation.

CENTENNIAL GROUP HOLDS FALL BANQUET

Young Men Hosts of Ladies — Pastor Gives Pertinent Address.

The recent banquet of the Centennial Methodist Church Tuxis group was one of the most enjoyable features of the church year, members state. The young men invited the Cavell Club—composed of young church women — as their guests of honor.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Thompson, was elected honorary president of the young men's group and after the banquet gave an inspiring address on the subject of "Modern Temptation of Young Men and Women."

The toast to "the ladies" was proposed by G. Adams and was responded to by Mrs. W. Watkins. The banquet was a success from every point of view and shows the interest taken by the Centennial young people in modern church activities.

ELECT TUXIS ALDERMEN.—Knox Church young men last night elected Clark Gunther as their aldermanic representative on the Boys' Council. Leonard Gidley was the defeated candidate. Mayor Kay states that there will be an emergency meeting of the Boys' Council at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday next at 5 p. m. They meet to lay plans for the coming "Made-in-Canada" week. They hope to secure the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce.

MANY FARMERS ARE SIGNING FOR HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER

Provincial and County Aid May Be Asked In Lighting of New Highway.

S. Frank Glass, M. P., has reported to the local Utilities Commission that farmers of Middlesex and Huron counties are taking advantage of the Hydro-Electric Commission's offer to give farmers Niagara power. Forty-eight farmers in the vicinity of Bayfield alone have signed contracts for services. Communities in Middlesex County are also organizing for hydro power on the farm.

It is expected that within a year hundreds of homes throughout Middlesex and Huron counties will be as well equipped in the electrical sense as city homes. Electricity will light them at night or in the hours of dawn, when crops require early starts. Electric bells will replace knockers, the Niagara current will turn cream separators, sewing machines and run farm motors.

In this connection it is stated that citizens on the route of the now completed London-Lambeth highway are planning to ask provincial and township aid in installing highway lights. Tentative plans call for the erection of several hundred double searchlight reflectors between the city limits and the episcopal village, which would make the highway as well lighted as a city street.

The Lambeth highway will in a few years be lined with suburban dwellings, it is predicted, throughout its five miles of length. Real estate values have already doubled in value along the route, it is stated, and further gains are anticipated.

GRAND TRUNK HAS BETTER OUTLOOK

Vice-President In City Says Business Is Improving.

NO LOWER FARES YET

Railway Must Get Money Or Operate At Loss.

J. E. Dalrymple, vice-president of the Grand Trunk Railway, passed through the city to-day at noon on his way to attend a meeting of the traffic executive of American lines in Chicago on Friday. He will stop over in Detroit this afternoon, where he will attend a conference of the Grand Trunk officials.

He stated that business in the East, while it was not yet up to the standard, had developed a very good start and was well on the way to producing big results. There was a wonderful grain business being done at present in Montreal, he stated, where last month they handled 27,000,000 bushels and that now preparations were being made to handle the majority of the output of grain from the Canadian West.

For the period between July 1 and September 30, he stated, the port of Montreal had handled 40.28% of the total amount of grain exported, which was nearly as much as all other ports on the Atlantic and gulf ports of North America.

NO LOWER FARES IN SIGHT.

When asked about a reduction in passenger rates, Mr. Dalrymple stated that Canada, with a population of approximately 9,000,000 people, compared to the United States with nearly 110,000,000, had much lower rates, and he could not see at the present time how they would be able to reduce their fares to any extent.

"The passenger train service in Canada at the present time," he added, "is being run at a loss on all railways in operation. We are trying to do the best thing possible for the people of Canada in giving them cheaper transportation and operate as cheaply as possible, but at the present time there is no use of talking about it as it can't be done.

"We are not like any big business concern," he remarked. "We have only the transportation to sell and must meet the big overhead expense in that way, and if we lower passenger rates we will be forced to operate at a much greater loss than we are doing at the present.

"Our organization runs on wheels," he asserted, "and if we don't get enough money by transportation rates we are going to develop a large, flat wheel or the wheels will stop.

"The proposition regarding the freight rates is absolutely 'up in the air,'" he concluded. "The chairman of the railway board of commissioners intimated some time ago that there should be a reduction in freight rates, and it is certain that there will be some lowering done; possibly not for a while, but as soon as the finances of the railway will permit it."

ALD. HARLEY IS AGAIN CHAIRMAN

Head of Local Soldiers' Aid Commission.

MRS. EDWARDS V.-CHAIRMAN

Will Ask Provincial Government For Relief Grants.

Ald. F. E. Harley was yesterday chosen chairman of the Soldiers' Aid Commission for a second consecutive term by the local executive of the soldiers' welfare organization. During the three latter years of the war after the armistice Mr. Harley served as chairman of the reception committee of the S. A. C. He was elected chairman for the first time in August, 1920, and his re-election is considered by his friends as a signal recognition of his loyalty to the work.

Mrs. A. T. Edwards was also re-elected vice-chairman, and George F. Copeland was re-elected director of finance. Ed H. Lance was unanimously re-elected secretary-treasurer of the local office.

The commission also went into the question of relief for veterans' families during the coming winter. Pressure will be brought to bear on the Ontario Government for the increasing of existing relief grants in order that the dependents of no Ontario soldier may suffer actual want during the coming winter.

It is understood that L. E. Lowman's employment as head of child welfare work in London, as an appointee of the provincial commission rather than the civic body, was again under discussion and a definite course of action decided upon. A delegation may wait on the provincial executive of the S. A. C. this week.

DISCUSS WOMEN AS POLITICAL WORKERS

No Action Taken, However, by Empress Avenue Mothers' Club.

Although the question of women workers in the coming federal elections was introduced at last night's meeting of the Empress Avenue Mothers' Club by the president, Mrs. Linnell, no definite arrangements were made for supplying women canvassers, and no discussion resulted beyond a general expression of opinion against the free trade policy.

A sale of home cooking and fancy work brought in a satisfactory sum in spite of the inclement weather, and a pleasing program included an informal address from Mrs. Thomas Mason, president of Rectory Street Club; readings by Mrs. Ed. Pellow, the Chesley Avenue Club president, and a jolly little duet from Dorothy Bathurst and Jean Venner.

ASK $1,000,000 OF CITY COUNCIL

Approximate Total of Debenture Requests To Date.

FINANCE COMMITTEE

Will Outline City of London Bill To-Day.

The finance committee of the City Council will to-day consider about $1,000,000 of applications for debentures, take steps for the preparation of the City of London bill, and take action of the proposed erection of a butter and eggs building on the market square.

Applications for debentures include $250,000 for the Public Utilities Commission, which may, however, be reduced before or during the meeting to $150,000; $200,000 for a nurses' home at Victoria and completion of the new children's hospital, $250,000 for Western University which will be necessary if the institution is to get an $800,000 grant from the province as well as donations from other municipilaties, and sundry requests for debentures from the London Railway Commission, and other bodies.

In the preparation of the City of London bill will also go a debenture issue to cover this year's public works program.

Proposals advanced by Ald. F. R. Watkinson that a new building be added to the market square group will also be considered. This proposition may be amended on the recent suggestions of Frank Smith, a market square grocer. Mr. Smith believes that north and south sheds at least should be inclosed, thus making the building available for butter and egg merchants, without considerable additional expense. It would also do away with the shed's present part-time use as a public garage, which use is said to be detrimental to the best interests of men engaged in the garage business.

QUEEN'S ALUMNI HOLD REUNION

Fifty From Western Ontario Honor Alma Mater.

PROF. MORRISON SPEAKS

Is Tendered Rousing Reception By Graduates.

The annual banquet of Queen's University Alumni of Western Ontario was held on Tuesday evening at the De Luxe Cafe. About 50 representatives from London, St. Thomas, Aylmer, Dutton, Strathroy, Watford and other centers assembled to renew acquaintances, pay their respects to their alma mater and to hear Prof. Morrison, of Queen's University. Prof. Morrison was tendered a rousing reception when he rose to speak on his very appropriate theme, "The Foundations of a University." His address was full of enthusiasm and wit and in it he championed the cause of the smaller university, claiming that when a university passed beyond a certain size, it ceased to be educative in the truest sense of the term. The smaller university, whose professors are intimately acquainted with the student body and by their personal contact exert an influence on them beyond the walls of the lecture-room, is, after all, he claimed, the great function of the university. One of the evidences of the success of this function is to be found in the spirit and enthusiasm which its graduates manifest in after years toward their alma mater and the contribution they are willing to make in the solution of her problems. The speaker looked forward to the day when there would be free trade in education. In that day no one university would be found monopolizing the field of education, but each would have a part in reclaiming those who were in abject ignorance, crying out for the light of knowledge. In that day, Western University would be found ministering to the needs of Western Ontario, Toronto University to the needs of Central Ontario and Queen's University to the needs of Eastern Ontario.

Prof. Morrison's address was a reply to the toast to Queen's University proposed by Rev. J. M. McGillivray, of Knox Presbyterian Church, St. Thomas. A vote of thanks to the speaker of the evening was moved by Prof. A. G. Dorland, of the department of history, Western University, and seconded by Rev. J. A. Shaver, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Strathroy.

In the absence of Dr. A. Vogden, principal of St. Thomas C. I., and president of the alumni, Rev. Mr. Stuart, of South London, the oldest graduate present, occupied the chair.

The address of the evening was followed by the annual election of officers. The officers for 1922 are: President, Inspector V. K. Greer; vice-presidents, Miss Mary McPherson, Rev. J. M. McGillivray, Dr. Jamieson, Prof. Detweiler, Mr. Bluett; secretary-treasurer, Major Graham; assistant secretary-treasurer, Mr. T. W. Oates; executive committee, Miss Storey, Major Shannon, Inspector Edwards, Prof. Dorland, Miss Henry, Mr. McWilliams.

A characteristic feature of these annual reunions is the singing of Queen's songs and the giving of Queen's yells.

CHILDREN UP TO FIVE ARE BLANK RECORDS

Dr. D. S. Detwiler Gives Interesting Address to Mothers' Club.

"All children up to five years of age are blank records, on which every passing impression is registered and held," was the opinion expressed by Dr. D. S. Detwiler, in an address to the Lord Roberts' Mothers' Club last evening on "Safeguarding the Health of the Children." Dr. Detwiler pointed out that between the ages of 5 and 12 years the child begins to record new and individual sensations, rather than carrying on the unconscious mimicry of earlier years. The speaker referred to the many minor ailments affecting the health of the young child, in particular adenoids and diseased tonsils, which should be at once removed.

"Every child should have plenty of play and plenty of fresh air and exercise, should sleep 10 hours each night, with the windows open, and should be given a daily bath, preferably cold," Dr. Detwiler said.

A gratifying attendance of members marked this opening meeting of the season, held on the second Tuesday of the month, which will in future be the regular meeting night. A further donation to the children's hospital was agreed upon and the executive will at once formulate plans for arranging some money-making event next month.

Mrs. D. S. Detwiler presided over the meeting and a pleasant social half hour, with refreshments, followed the address.

MORE EGGS THIS WINTER FROM EVERY HEN

Poultry Keepers In For Big Profit.

Poultry Experts agree that eggs are going to be scarce again this winter and prices possibly higher than ever before. So the Poultry Keeper who can get his hens laying heavily now is in for a golden harvest.

Henry Trafford, of Binghamton, N. Y., a recognized Poultry Expert, who for nearly eighteen years was Editor of Poultry Success, says most failures to make hens lay and pay big profits are due to the laying life of the average hen being too short. Every hen is born or hatched with 1,000 or more egg germs in her system, but usually is sent to market after one year of laying, and before she has laid 200 eggs. If kept and given proper care this hen might make the very best layer of high-priced winter eggs for at least three years to come.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen and to make old hens and pullets lay all through the cold winter months when eggs bring highest prices, double egg production and triple chicken profits. These and many other money making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN SYSTEM" of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. If you keep hens and want them to make money for you this winter, cut out this notice and send it with your name and address to Henry Trafford, Suite 469C Court Bldg., Binghamton, N. Y., and a free copy of "The 1,000 Egg Hen" will be sent you by return mail.—Advt.

WORKS EMPLOYEES CONSIDERED SAFE

Ald. Watkinson Hasn't Authority to Dismiss Them, Is Claim

NO. 2 COMMITTEE MEETS

Complaints About Streets and Sewers Are Heard

Listening to complaints of angry citizens who waited on the committee to register objections against the state of the roads, the action of the engineering department in fixing the grade of Langarth street at a high level and the inactivity of the committee with reference to construction of the storm and sanitary sewers for the Wellington road section, occupied the attention of No. 2 committee of the Council last night for the major portion of the meeting. The aldermen promised consideration of all the cases.

There was also some criticism of Ald. Watkinson for daring to state that all of the employees of the works department, which is directly responsible to No. 2 committee, would be fired and hired again on Saturday. Ald. Watkinson is chairman of No. 1 committee, and his action was considered anything but discreet.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY.

"Where does Mr. Watkinson get his authority to do all this?" queried Ald. Drake. "I see where he is going to fire all the men in the works department next Saturday. Do you know anything about it, Mr. Engineer?"

"I know that none of the employees in my department will be fired on Saturday," answered Engineer Brazier.

"Mr. Watkinson won't fire anybody," interjected Ald. Ashton. "If he does, there will be a dead No. 1 committee on Monday."

"What right has he to butt into our work?" said Ald. Drake. "The only employees he can fire are the firemen and the policemen."

"Yes, and he is afraid to say any-

ASKS LOWER GRADE

U. A. Buchner appeared on behalf of Mr. Thornton to ask that the gradient of Langarth street be lowered in order that the street may not be so much above the lots. If the proposed grade is carried out some of the properties will be five feet below the level of the street, Mr. Buchner asserted. He questioned what was the necessity for raising the street to such a level. If it was done to secure sufficient drainage, as he had understood it was, he thought the city had taken a wrong course in depreciating private property to secure the desired drainage when the construction of a proper drain would be much cheaper and more desirable to the ratepayers on the street.

City Engineer Brazier explained that he has already lowered the grade by one foot from the first level proposed. He also pointed out that as much filling as is possible will be done on the lots. They are down in a water course, at any rate, and the city could not alter the gradient of the streets to conform to the low-lying properties.

Mr. Thornton objected that he did not mind having his "nose kept down to the grindstone," but when he was expected to turn the stone it was too much. In this he referred to the fact that he would be compelled to pay taxes for the work on the street, which will depreciate the value of his lots.

Chairman W. A. Wilson assured him that, while the question could not be officially opened again without a two-thirds vote, the case would receive due consideration.

ASKS REPORT

Thomas Blanchard asked for a report on the tiling of a creek which passes through his property. Engineer Brazier explained that this is not ready yet. It will be presented at the next meeting of the committee.

Residents of Wellington road wanted to know when the sanitary and storm sewers are to be installed in that section. The street is almost impassable and many of the people are "living over three feet of water" because of the lack of proper drainage.

"That street is in a terrible condition," agreed Ald. Brighton. "Something should be done. Then a strip of sidewalk which was washed away months ago had never been repaired. Those people over there have reasons to kick."

Engineer Brazier stated that the repairs to the walk would be made immediately. He pointed out that the sewer work could hardly be undertaken this year. The department has under way about $700,000 worth of sewer work now, and this is as much as can be handled in one season. The Wellington road section would cost $270,000 to complete.

It was also charged that several toilets are emptying into an old private drain on the Wellington road, which flows directly into the river. Ald. Drake suggested that the Board of Health should be asked to look into this, but it was deemed advisable to leave it alone for the present.

The engineer submitted it was all a question of whether the committee wished to undertake the extra work this year or not. It was finally left with him to bring in a report.

EVERYBODY TOO BUSY.

P. Mohan refused to go ahead with his contract to lay the siphon sewer under the river at York and Dundas streets. The Webster Construction Company, the next lowest bidder, declined the job last night because of too much work on hand now. The committee decided to call for new tenders.

APPROVES ACTION TAKEN

L. & P. S. property at Port to be Exchanged for Strip of Land Adjacent to Tracks.

The London & Port Stanley directors, after having viewed the property at Port Stanley which will be exchanged for a strip of land adjacent to the tracks in that village, have decided that the L. & P. S. Commission had taken the proper course. At a meeting the directors formally approved the commission's action and gave their consent for the transfer to be made. The deeds will accordingly be made over.

Congregation of Maitland Street Baptist Church Seek Services of Former Londoner.

The congregation of Maitland Street Baptist Church has extended a call to Rev. (Dr.) A. T. Sowerby, Ph.D., LL.D., of Toronto. The call was forwarded early this week. As yet Mr. Sowerby has made no reply. He has been asked to succeed Rev. J. N. Norton, who has resigned the charge at Maitland street.

Rev. M. Sowerby is a former London pastor, having been at Talbot Street Baptist Church for a number of years. Some years ago he accepted a call to Toronto.

HYDRO IS HAMPERED BY ELECTRICAL STORM

Lack of Street Lights Due to One of the Feed Wires Being Broken by Sleet

Street lights throughout the city were not turned on until after 8 o'clock last night as the result of one of the three feed wires of the hydro being put out of commission by the electrical storm, which struck the city late yesterday afternoon.

E. V. Buchanan stated to The Free Press last night that the feed wire was broken within the city limits and that the two remaining feed wires are not sufficient to carry the load, and as a consequence the street lighting had to be abandoned. The house lighting was not affected by the break.

The storm, which was accompanied by a strong southwest wind and hail, struck the city about 4.30 o'clock and continued with severe intensity for over half an hour. The lightning was severe at times, but no damage was reported done in the city, apart from what the hydro suffered.

CATCH BAD MEAT IN NICK OF TIME

Local Health Board Hears Charge Against Butcher

COMPLAINT ABOUT LANES

Filthy Milk Wagons Also Reported to Board

"Milk wagons fit only for hauling manure," and report of a butchering firm in the city grinding up putrescent meat into highly spiced sausages were two charges made by Sanitary Inspector Richard Sanders at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Health. Names were not given, and no action was taken by the Board of Health beyond Commissioner Sanders' advice to the inspector that he "coax" the recalcitrant offenders along to a better conception of their duty.

Mr. Sanders stated that drivers of milk wagons went about in the same clothes that they used in cleaning cow stables, and that one man had dispensed milk about the city clad in rubber boots, to which the odor of the barnyard still clung. "His feet," the inspector stated, "were kicking about amongst the milk bottles."

The butcher who was preparing to foist putrescent meat on the citizens of London disguised as "real country sausage," was discovered just in the nick of time. One hundred pounds of this meat were used in the process of manufacture. The whole lot was confiscated and treated with kerosene oil.

The Free Press asked the sanitary inspector for the name of the butcher in question, but the request was refused.

FILTHY LANES.

Mr. Sanders also complained of the filthiness of private lanes in the heart of the city.

The Board of Health decided to publish the salaries of its officials. "They receive little enough," Commissioner Saunders stated.

It was reported that the Provincial Board of Health approved of London's pure milk by-law.

J. G. Young, plumbing inspector, explained that he was co-operating to the fullest extent with the Public Utilities Commission in the matter of reporting new plumbing fixtures. The plumbing inspector also stated that the citizens were not apparently aware that the laying of private drains required the issue of a permit and the filing of a plan. Such was the case, however. These plans would be exceedingly valuable later on, the inspector commented, and would save future owners considerable sums in locating drains.

Impetigo was the most prevalent disease amongst children last month, 69 cases being reported.

A total of 321 cases of venereal disease have been treated at the Victoria venereal clinic this year, it was reported.

Sixteen cases of whooping cough were reported during the past month and 12 cases of diphtheria. Other communicable diseases were very light.

The public health nurse made 317 visits during the month.

MISS McNAUGHTON BURIED

The funeral of Miss Maria (Molly) McNaughton, daughter of Mrs. Mary and the late Titus McNaughton, who died suddenly at the home of her brother, John McNaughton, New York City, was held from the family residence, 650 King street, on Monday afternoon. Deceased was well known here, having lived in this city practically all her life and her sudden death was a great shock to a host of friends who held her in high esteem. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. D. C. MacGregor.

Besides her mother she issurvived by four sisters, Mrs. A. A. Reed, Brogan, Oregon; Mrs. Ethel Pearen, Ottawa; Mrs. Howard Eaman, Truro, N. S., and Miss Coral, living at home; two brothers, William, of Chicago, and John of New York City.

LABOR DEMANDS FAIR WAGE CLAUSE

T. and L. Delegates Cross Swords With Board of Education

OVER COLLEGIATE WORK

Plea of Protection for London's Workmen Is Advanced

Charges that the Board of Education was ignoring the "fair wage" clause in its by-laws governing school construction, which clause was passed on in initiation of ex-Chairman E. R. Dennis and former Trustee R. W. Shaw some years ago, were made yestrday by mmbers of the Trades and Labor Council at a meting of the public school committee of which Trustee Harry Hayman is the chairman, and on a direct question put to Architect C. E. Carrothers, the fact that the contract for the new Collegiate Institute was let to an "outside" firm, without the inclusion of the fair wage agreement was admitted.

Chairman Coleridge, of the Board of Education, assured the delegation, consisting of R. H. Hessell, Walter Ellis, Donald Wright and Ernest Ingles, that the matter would be thoroughly investigated and definite action taken to remedy the matter insofar as the board had power.

KEEPING WORK AT HOME.

In the course of the discussion, discussion, Trustee J. B. Wright and Ernest Ingles crossed swords over the question of municipal protection. Trustee Coleridge asked, not with a view to controversy he carefully pointd out, if the delegation wished the Board of Education to restrict its contracts and purchases to the home market as far as possible. Mr. Ingles answered emphatically:

"We do. If I was running the London Board of Education all contracts and civic purchases would be restricted to the benefit of London manufacturers, London merchants and London labor."

Trustee Wright took issue with this. "Do you mean," he inquired heatedly, "that we should pay $40,000 more for a school building than we would by going outside."

"I do not. You gentlemen should at least credit us with a little intelligence," Mr. Ingles replied. "No such far-fetched situation would arise. The plan has been tried out in the West and it has proven a success.

And I may say that if I were running the Dominion of Canada, Canadian goods would be protected by protecting Canadian labor. The issue is the same, local or national.

BACKED BY HESSEL.

Mr. Hessel also joined the side issue between Trustee Wright and Mr. Ingles.

"London citizens, labor men have voted for an industrial area and have voted bonuses for new industries. We agree to that because we want London built up. But every time London money is spent in Hamilton, Toronto, Ottawa or elsewhere, we are bonusing, Toronto, Hamilton or Ottawa industries, not London industries," he said.

Mr. Hessel was the chief spokesman. He pointed out, initially, that ex-Chairman Dennis and Dr. Shaw had assured him that the Board of Education had subscribed to the fair wage clause along with the City Council. He stated, however, that Sacretary Tanner had been unable to find the minute of that action, and further, that in the building of two schools recently the successful contractors had tendered on the basis of the fair wage clause, but that they had hired men at wages from 50 to 100 per cent. lower, which had been so much additional profit for the firm in question. And also that the board had insisted that the clause be lived up to.

"Coming up to the present," Mr. Hessel stated, "the contract for the new Collegiate has been let without even a reference to the fair wage clause, which sets a minimum for certain trades. They have brought in outside men to work there, and meanwhile London skilled laborers are walking the streets.

"Nothing can be done about that now, but we want to secure assurance that such will not happen again."

NO FAIR WAGE CLAUSE.

Chairman Hayman then asked School Architect Carrothers if the specifications for the new Collegiate had contained a fair wage clause. "No." Mr. Carrothers replied.

Trustee Coleridge then asked: "Are you willing that citizens pay $40,000 more for a school building in order that city work may be carried out by city firms?"

Mr. Hessel replied in the affirmative.

"Then," the board chairman stated, "you regard us as trustees of only a section of the people."

"No," Mr. Hessel replied, "not that. But we hold that labor in London has not been given a square deal. The company building the Collegiate, I understand, are employing carpenters for 10 hours a day, when the union rule is eight hours, and they are paying them no overtime. I do not suggest that the work should be slowed up, but we do ask that this overtime be cut out and more men employed. There are skilled laborers in London that have been out of work for four months."

ATTACKS LONG DAY.

Walter Ellis then took the floor. He went thoroughly into the question of the 10-hour day at the Collegiate, as alleged by him. He also stated: "I went up there last spring with other carpenters and asked for a job. They wouldn't give me a job because I had the union labor button in my coat."

Trustee Hayman asked: "Did they tell you that they wouldn't employ you because you wore the union label button?"

"No," Mr. Ellis replied.

"I understand," said Mr. Hayman, "that the Kingston Construction Company is paying more wages to good bricklayers than the union schedule allows."

"You only hear of cases of that kind," Mr. Ingles interpolated. "The other side of the story rarely comes to light."

"The Collegiate contract is let and over with," Mr. Hessel said in conclusion. "But we do request that the board sees if it has a fair wage by-law and that it be lived up to; if there is no such by-law that one be passed at the earliest moment possible, in view of what I anticipate during the coming winter."

"We will look into it thoroughly," Chairman Coleridge and Trustee Hayman assured the delegation. "In the meantime our records are open for your inspection."

POLITICIANS CAN NOT USE SCHOOLS

Public Schools Barred for Federal Election Purposes

ONE REQUEST REFUSED

Organizations Using Schools for Functions Must Pay

No city schools will be used for political purposes during the coming federal campaign, was the decision of the public school committee of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon. S. Frank Glass asked for the use of the Pottersburg School at an early date, but this request was turned down. Secretary Tanner stated, because of the N. C. L. party were permitted to use the schools the other party would have to be extended the same courtesy."

The committee also decided that no schools should be let for entertainments, receptions or bazaars without the orgaanization behind the movement paying the cost of such use. The actual determination of cost was left in the hands of the school architect.

COST ABOUT $10.

The request of the London Drama League that they be given the use of Ryerson School for the presentation of a Barrie play was granted on that condition. The same condition will apply to the use of the Lord Robert's swimming pool by the Y. W. C. A. The cost for the evening's use of a school will be about $10.

The matter of a new high school site in South London was referred to the Collegiate committee for investigation and report. The public school committee decided that it had no jurisdiction in the matter of changing the proposed location of the south branch high school from the Tecumseh avenue property, a move made necessary now through the early probable extension of Richmond street to the city limits.

SAYS BREAD WAR TALK ALL HOT AIR

Grocers Hold Meeting to Discuss Situation; Bread to Stay at 10 Cents

A meeting of the retail grocers of the city was held in the Chamber of Commerce last evening to discuss the "bread war" which was supposed to have been raging between the grocers and bakers during the last few weeks.

Harry Ranahan, who presided at the meeting, stated that all talk of a bread war between them was nothing more or less than a lot of hot air, as was also the talk of getting cheaper bread.

He said that the best quality bread was at present selling at 10 cents a loaf and that the grocers, instead of paying 9 cents as formerly, were getting it wholesale at 8½ cents, and in one case at 8 cents a loaf. He remarked, further, that they were trying to get all the bakers in the city to supply them with bread at 8 cents a loaf and that they would be able to make 2 cents, where at present they are only getting 1½ cents, to help meet the great overhead expenses. He added that as far as he could see there would be no further lowering of prices.

Several complaints were lodged regarding people who go to large wholesale firms, take the products they purchase over to the market square and dispose of it, and the grocers were asked to look into the matter.

A committee, composed of H. P. Rosser, Frank Pierce, Thomas Shaw, Ald. G. B. Drake, George Farrell and Harry Ranahan, were selected to take the matter up with No. 1 committee at their meeting this afternoon.

RAIN DELAYS ROADMAKERS.

TORONTO, Oct. 11. — The present rainy spell is seriously handicapping road work throughout the province and if it continues much longer will force the abandonment of part of the program mapped out for this season by the provincial department of highways. In ordinary years the department reckons upon getting through with the last of its cement and bitulithic paving by October 15, but it will be impossible to get all of it done by that time. Two of the roads held up are the Dundas road and the section of highways near Pickering.

Do This

Then see if your friends notice prettier teeth

Make this pleasant ten-day test. See what it does for your teeth. Then judge for yourself — by the clear results — how much this method means.

Millions of people have thus found a way to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. And you will also find it.

It fights film

This method combats the film on teeth — that viscous coat you feel. Film is the teeth's great enemy. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

Brushing in the old ways does not end this film. And most tooth troubles are caused by what is left.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few people have escaped these troubles caused by film.

Two new methods

Dental science has now found two methods to fight film. Many careful tests have proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. Other factors, now considered essential, are included with it.

Pepsodent combats the film with every application. It keeps teeth highly polished, so film less easily adheres.

It also stimulates the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva, to digest starch deposits which so often cling and form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Thus every use brings five desired effects which old methods failed to bring.

The modern way

Pepsodent is based on modern research. It does what authorities now regard as essential. Half the world over it is displacing old methods, largely by dental advice.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

Watch all the good effects. The book we send will tell the reason for them. Then decide if this method, in your family, should supersede the old. Cut out the coupon now.

ARE BRITISH TO THE VERY CORE

Col. Brown, in Address on "Canadianism," Tells of Unity

SPEAKS TO GIRLS' CLUB

Inspiring Address Given at Y.W.C.A. Last Night

"You cannot understand the spirit of Canadianism apart from the British Empire," declared Lieut.-Col. Walter Brown, executive secretary of the Western University, in an address on "Canadianism" to the Girls' Canadian Club last evening. "We are just as British here in Canada, just as much a part of the British throne as the people of Old London.

"We love the British throne and the royal family; we love British ideals and laws and institutions and all that goes to make up British citizenship," Col. Brown said. "The throne stands as the unity, the soul of 400,000,000 people, and the sovereign is the expression of that soul. In the great republic to the south of us they have no personality as their head, rather they have a flag. We, too, have a flag, but we have more than that, we have the lifting power, the psychological focus, in the royal family, and it is the royal family that binds the British Empire together.

Before an audience that overflowed the capacity of the King street Y. W. C. A., marking in a gratifying manner the beginning of a second season of activity in this the first Girls' Canadian Club to be formed in the Dominion, Col. Brown struck a strongly imperialistic note when he declared that the "whole mechanism of the League of Nations is in the British Empire and the league itself is an effort to make the other nations of the world assume a share of world responsibility.

CANADA'S RESOURCES.

Outlining the vast resources of Canada, including a graphic description of the 30,000 square miles of mineralized rock in Northern Ontario, and the great agricultural opportunities of the Canadian West, the speaker declared that the average Canadian does not know enough of Canada. "Right here in Western Ontario, if we were to draw a circle encompassing say 200 miles around Sarnia we would find the richest area on the continent," he stated.

Col. Brown was strong in his advocacy of the cause of womanhood. "When it comes to carrying on the traditions of the race, of promoting race efficiency, it is the women who count," he said. "It was the women at home who kept up the morale of the Canadian army overseas and it is the mothers of Canada of the future who will make this country the bulwark of Christian liberty."

"It is not in the richness of our resources that our greatest wealth lies," Col. Brown said in conclusion. "The best product of our race is the spirit of our people, the pioneer spirit of our ancestors, repeated in the sons and daughters of the Canada of to-day."

OFFICERS SPEAK

An address from Mrs. F. E. Leonard on the Canadian Club convention, held this fall in Winnipeg, and addresses of welcome from Mrs. C. B. King, Y. W. C. A. president, and Miss Gladys Baldwin, club president, were included on an interesting program. Orchestral music, solos by Miss Gladys McEvoy and readings by Miss Jean Walker were additional features. Supper and a pleasant half-hour chat between old and new club members concluded a wholly successful initial meeting.

MEIGHEN SUPPORTERS FILL GLANWORTH HALL

GLANWORTH, Oct. 11.—Supporters of the Meighen Government filled the hall to capacity here to-night as the first step of preparation for the coming federal fight. Supporters from all over Westminster Township turned out and the enthusiasm shown forecasted strong support and unity.

An executive was chosen for the township, and conveners were elected for each subdivision as follows: President, William Boler, Lambeth; vice-president, Richard Rose, Glanworth; secretary, E. Routledge, Wilton Grove. Conveners of the 12 subdivisions: Hugh Kernohan, Belmont; Norman Munro, Wilton Grove; Joseph O'Brien, Wilton Grove; Charles Parkinson, Ealing; Robert Brown, Wilton Grove; William Boler, Lambeth; Fred Boyce, Wilton Grove; W. E. Wright, Glanworth; G. McMurray, Tambling's Corners; E. McKone and Sextus Abel.

S. Frank Glass, late member for East Middlesex, addressed the gathering and spoke highly of the Government leader and of his stand on the tariff question, pointing out how United States plants now operating here would have to move out if it were not for the protective tariff upheld by the Meighen Government. Mr. Glass also stated that Canada's prosperity generally was in large measure attributable to the tariff.

PEACE DOVE AT IRISH PARLEY

First Anglo-Irish Sessions Without Friction.

NO OUTWARD INCIDENT

Griffith Speaks For the Sinn Fein Delegation.

LONDON, Oct. 11.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—British and Irish delegateas to the conference, which aims at settling the future of Ireland, held two two-hour sessions at No. 10 Downing street to-day, adjourning after the afternoon session until Thursday, in order to enable Mr. Lloyd George to grapple with the unemployment situation.

Both sessions were business-like, even the greeting of Mr. Lloyd George to the visitors from across the channel being hearty but formal.

The official communiques, issued at the conclusion of the proceedings, did not disclose the subjects discussed, but it was understood that the matter of procedure, upon which the Sinn Fein delegates placed much importance, occupied the greater part of the time. No notes of speeches and discussions at either meeting were taken. In fact, no stenographers were present, and both the British and Sinn Fein delegates maintained silence as to what happened.

PROCEEDS SMOOTHLY.

It was gathered, however, that the conference proceeded along anticipated lines and that nothing thus far has occurred to jeopardize its success. It is probable that the question of alleged breaches of the truce by both sides was taken up and the British and Sinn Fein officials have been more concerned about this subject, both being desirous of having the conference conducted in an atmosphere of peace.

The Irish delegates were aware, before they came to London, of dissatisfaction on the part of the British Government regarding the alleged breaches of truce, and they had no intention of unduly stressing that question, but were anxious for a mutual understanding on the matter.

The British authorities also are irritated over the resumed activities of the Sinn Fein police and law courts in Ireland, which are carrying on the work of punishing breaches of ordinary law and adjusting litigation. Recruiting for the Irish republican army, which in County Clare alone is said to have brought 15,000 men under arms, is another matter which the Government has taken exception to, and so long as any doubt of settlement remains the Government will endeavor to secure the position that each party continue just as when the truce was declared.

It is believed that both parties can arrive at a satisfactory arrangement in this regard.

The Sinn Fein delegates were cheered as they drove away from No. 10 Downing street in motor cars. They refused to answer questions put by newspaper correspondents.

NO NEWS FOR WEEKS.

One of Mr. Lloyd George's secretaries, who received the newspaper men just after the conference opened, smilingly said, "You cannot expect any news for weeks yet."

When this morning's conference opened the Irish delegates, after an exchange of introductions, took seats at the Cabinet table, with their backs to windows overlooking the Horse Guards' Parade, with the British representatives opposite them. Strictly speaking, nobody presided, in the ordinary sense of the word, but Mr. Lloyd George was the spokesman at the outset for the British and Arthur Griffith for the Irish.

Mr. Lloyd George's remarks were brief, as was the reply of Mr. Griffith, and the conference settled down to the work in hand. Sinn Fein sympathizers outside sang hymns during the opening stage of the conference.

The text of the communique given out after the first session follows:

"The first session of the conference on Ireland was held in 10 Downing street at 11 o'clock. Those present were the British representatives, Prime Minister Lloyd George, Lord Birkenhead, Winston Spencer Churchill, Sir L. Worthington-Evans, Sir Hamar Greenwood and Sir George Hewart, and the Irish representatives, Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, Robert C. Barton, Eamon J. Duggan and George Gavan Duffy. There also were present two British secretaries and Erskine Childers and John Charters, the Irish secretaries. The conference adjourned until 4 o'clock.

There seemed to be a disposition to consider the sending of an invitation to Belfast, asking that the Ulster Government send representatives to the meeting, and it was possible that such a step would be taken. Ulster has thus far stood aloof in the negotiations between the British Government and the Sinn Fein, but there seemed to-day to be some sentiment in favor of calling both Northern and Southern Irishmen together in an effort to reach, once and for all, a definite understanding.

LITTLE COMMENT.

It is doubtful if there was ever an opening day of an important conference in London marked by so little newspaper comment as to-day's meeting. Several of this morning's journals refrained altogether from discussing the conference, while others assumed an attitude of restraint, manifestly balancing between hope and fear. The proclamation issued at Dublin last night by Eamonn De Valera, in which he called for unity of Ireland, was issued too late to be reviewed editorially, some papers finding room only for a summary of the proclamation in their news columns. There were no predictions relative to the outcome of the deliberations of the conferees and it was recognized that the result of the negotiations was as uncertain as they have been at any time since early last July, when they were initiated.

The London Times, anxious for good results, said that recent events should have "led both England and Ireland to learn the blessedness of concord through the bitter experience of strife," and that such progress as actually had been made should inspire confidence in the ultimate success of the negotiations.

ADVISES OPTIMISM.

The public was advised by The Daily Chronicle to "blend prudent caution with optimism." The newspaper remarked that the negotiations leading up to to-day's meeting had done nothing material to narrow the wide gulf between the views taken on each side of the question.

"Of the many conferences held regarding Ireland," declared The Daily Mail, "there has never been one with such sharply contrasted possibilities for good or evil."

The Dail Eireann representatives were models of punctuality this morning. They stepped out of their automobiles in front of the prime minister's official residence at exactly 11 o'clock, the hour arranged for the opening of the conference.

DELEGATES ARRIVE.

Mr. Lloyd George and the members of the British Cabinet forming the Government delegation were in the Cabinet room, where the conference is being held, when the Irish representatives arrived. Arthur Griffith was the first to enter, being followed closely by Michael Collins, who slipped in quickly to avoid photographers. They were accompanied by Robert C. Barton, Eamon J. Duggan and Gavan Duffy, the other members of the Dublin delegation, while Erskine Childers and John Charteres, who, although not members of the Irish mission, were expected to play an important part in the negotiations as advisers, followed.

A crowd of several hundred persons had gathered in Whitehall, at the end of historic Downing street, which was kept clear, except for photographers and newspaper men, of whom there were a large number, representing journals in many parts of the world. The crowd gave the Sinn Feiners a cheer as they passed through the high-timbered gates which were erected some months ago at the entrance of Downing street, when there was apprehension that an attack might be made upon the Government offices.

A number of Sinn Fein flags were displayed by the people, mostly Irish, who cheered the delegates when they recognized them, which was not easy, as they were in closed cars. Sinn Fein emblems also were worn by many, while Englishmen were busy trying to sell the emblems to passersby. One young Irishman held aloft a placard reading: "Peace and justice." Most of the delegates sat impassively as they passed, but some acknowledged the cheers by lifting their hats.

The members of the Dail Eireann had become used to demonstrations during the meetings of the Dail in the Mansion House in Dublin during the past two months, but Mr. Charters, whose work in the intelligence service of the British Government had kept him out of the public eye, seemed a little dazed by it all. He rode on the seat with the driver, looking wonderingly through his monocle at the demonstrators.

PROVINCE OPENS SAVINGS BANKS

Deposits Will Be Accepted By Treasury Branches.

FINANCE RURAL CREDITS

M. E. McKenzie Appointed Director of Branches.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—(Special to the Free Press.)—The people of Ontario are to be given an opportunity to loan their savings to the Ontario Government. It was announced to-day that the Government had given approval to the scheme by which the province will open subtreasury branches at central points for the purpose of accepting deposits from the public, probably at four per cent. interest. This acton was taken under the legislation of last session.

The subtreasury branches will be under the administration of Hon. Peter Smith, and will probably be opened in half a dozen places as a starter and at other points from time to time as circumstances seem to require.

PART OF CREDIT PLAN.

The plan to accept deposits from the public had its beginning in the necessity for providing funds for the rural credits system provided for last session. At that time Mr. Doherty brought in legislation permitting deposits to be taken, and the bill was made wide enough to permit the money to be used for other purposes. It is not the intention of the Government to enter the banking business, but it is anticipated that after the requirements for short and long rural loans have been met there will still be an excess of deposits which can be invested in bonds of the province or school bonds or debentures. Regulations, of course, will be adopted to keep deposits sufficiently liquid to meet demands on the part of depositors.

It is not proposed to make loans at rates which will be under current reasonable rates charged by regular institutions. Furthermore, all moneys received on deposit will be used immediately in the province and will not therefore be diverted either from circulation or from productive uses.

DIRECTOR IS APPOINTED.

To administer the work involved in the carrying out of this policy the Government has appointed M. E. McKenzie with the title of director of subtreasury branches. A native of the county of Elgin, Mr. McKenzie was educated at the public schools and in Tillsonburg Collegiate Institutae. In 1907 he entered the service of the Traders Bank at Sudbury. He served in the head office of the Royal Bank at Montreal, and afterwards served at Toronto, St. Marys, Tweed and Burlington, being manager of the branches at the last two places.

GUELPH MAN, AGED 70, SENTENCED TO YEAR ON CHARGE UNDER O.T.A.

GUELPH, Oct. 11.—Convicted before Magistrate Watt to-day on a charge of selling liquor, Fred Leader, aged 70, of this city, was sentenced to one year in the Ontario reformatory. As the accused had served 12 months in the county jail on a similar charge in 1919, to-day's penalty was imposed without the option of a fine. Leader pleaded "not guilty" to the offense.

R. D. McKinnon, counsel for the defendant, gave notice of appeal, and pending the hearing before His Honor Judge Spotton, Leader was allowed out on $1,000 cash bail.

hurch Union Debate One of Session's Most Important.

EGARDING PRESS REPORTS

uggestion To Censor Newspaper Copy Is Turned Down.

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian ress Dispatch.)—Delegates of the wer house of the General Anglican nod this morning again took up the urch union debate shortly before adurnment. The best part of the session as taken up disposing of unfinished otions and routine business.

The question of church union, when rther discussed this afternoon, is exected to provide one of the most portant debates of the synod. It is essible, also, that some decision will reached to-day in the lower house. eplying to criticism regarding alleged accurate press reports, Rev. Dr. Renin, chairman of the press committee, fused to sanction a suggestion that ports be censored.

"What might be considered a very portant debate by us might not be nsidered as such by the newspapers," said. "Let us have absolutely indendent reports, without interference."

The absence of Rev. Dean Shreve, who as recently injured in an accident, erted what promised to be a very rm debate on a contentious subject. was to have presented a motion for e permissive use of the prayer of lation and the invocation of the Holy host in the canon of consecration, cording to arrangement in the Amerin prayer book.

In order to secure the legislation cessary so that the primate be powered to grant the degree of vinity a joint committee from the per and lower houses will shortly be pointed.

Rev. Dean Starr has been elected esident of the society of deans and v. Dean Owen the secretary.

R. PIDGEON'S REPORT

Rev. G. C. Pidgeon, D. D., pastor of oor Street Presbyterian Church, Tonto, presented the report of the cial Service Council of Canada, prior the presentation of the report of the uncil of the Church of England, which urch is a unit of the Social Service uncil of Canada.

Dr. Pidegeon pointed out that the rk of the future was positive rather an negative. It is examining vital tistics of all the provinces to ascern birth and infant death rates. It d been found that the infant rate as 42 per cent. of the entire death te. In one province it was as high 47 per cent. In five provinces it had en found that the percentage death te of children under one year was eater than that of deaths in the war, battles included. In this way the uncil of Canada was bringing to the tention of the authorities the need d value of public health work.

Divorce statistics were being compil- and moving pictures scrutinized. e effect on children, gorged with 000,000 feet of United States films, ought into the country last year, as posed to 55,000 feet of British films, as held up for the consideration of synod. With regard to women's urts statistics were also being colted, the work of the Council of Canalong these lines being stated to be at helpful to Governments in getting proper perspective and lining up a licy.

UTIOUS ON MARRIAGE LAWS

W. F. Cockshutt, of Brantford, ced the opinion that a vast amount work was being rushed through the nod without due consideration. Reding marriage laws, he thought there d been too much "railroading" and begged that anything sent on to the islatures of the country should be ry carefully considered.

"The country is overloaded with islation. There are thousands of ws on the statute books that are irely inoperative. I do plead with that you hesitate to send on to the al or federal governments any proals unless you are certain they are improvement on existing laws," said Cockshutt.

"To meddle with the sacred rights of thousand because there was one ong was carrying meddling too far. threatened to take all the honey of the lives of young people, Mr. ckshutt asserted in an appeal against clause in the report which anced that the council had under conideration the question of requiring alth certificates before marriage. ese things, he asserted, went down o the private affairs of individuals. These things should not be inflicted on hundreds or thousands for the ke of catching one," added the aker.

"I have sat through many synods and n many useless resolutions I go ough and I want to beg that this n't be sent to the Legislature."

After vigorous criticism of the legislon proposed by the Social Service uncil the synod refused to indorse the ommendation that a week's notice required from those who desired to rry. The cry of "paternalism" and fringement of the rights of the individual" proved so insistent that the clause in the report dealing with the subject was referred back to the executive for further consideration.

WORK FOR DIOCESE.

Canon Vernon said the matter of providing homes for unmarried mothers must in the last analysis be a diocesan work, which the synod should promote. A larger ministry for the outcast, the lonely and the unmarried mother and the lonely babe than in the past must be undertaken.

Canon Scott, of Quebec, deprecated the fact that the battle against the traffic in girls had not been joined in by all the nations. He moved a resolution that rescue homes be established in all dioceses.

Capt. Meilish, of Vancouver, dealt with the heavy traffic in drug smuggling. An appeal will be made to the federal health department to try and lessen the importation of narcotics.

Bishop Bidwell, of Ontario, recommended the extension of community centers in this province. Cottage hospitals and other needed facilities for women giving birth to children were included.

The adoption of the report preceded the adoption of a number of resolutions arising out of it.

These concerned a standard of purity, a Christian standard of marriage, the importance of the marriage contract, notice of intention to marry, which advocated a week's public notice from those about to marry. Exception to the last-mentioned was taken by Judge Thompson, of Cranbrook, B. C., which said smacked too much of paternalism.

DISCUSS ANNULMENT CASE

In the face of an eloquent appeal from Canon Scott to let well enough alone now the victory had been won for the Protestant churches, the synod at the afternoon sitting adopted a resolution rejoicing that the decision of the Privy Council in the Tremblay-Despatie case had made illegal the annulment of mixed marriages between Catholics and Protestants. Considerable opposition was voiced to that portion of the resolution moved by Archdeacon Ingles, of Toronto, which read: "The synod rejoices that by a recent decision of the Privy Council, the highest court in the empire, in the Tremblay-Despatie case, thanks to the persistent efforts of the Orange Order, the legality of such marriages is once more confirmed."

Canon Scott based his objections on the plea that "it is not British to kick an enemy when he is down."

Rev. E. Moore, of Montreal, stated that if the Synod was going to "crow over it" he would not be able to face his French friends when he went home.

Opinion seemed to be veering towards the views held by the two first speakers, when a forceful speech by Dr. Davidson, of Montreal, swung the house the other way. He stated that nobody wanted to do any crowing, but he wanted indorsation for what had been done. Since 1841 the right of annulment had been claimed by the Roman Catholic Church. That claim, he said, was an insult to Protestants. Roman Catholic bishops even claimed the right to declare the children of such annulled marriages illegitimate. That was a much worse evil than the divorce evil.

The motion was finally adopted, with small minorities in both houses dissenting. In spite of the plea made by Dr. Lansing Lewis, of Montreal, for recognition on the part of the church that there was a considerable section of public opinion which desired an extension of the grounds for divorce, the synod upheld the protest of the Social Service Council against any extension of the present grounds for divorce.

Discussion on the question was lively and indicated strongly marked divergencies of opinion. One section of the synod wanted to have the Church of England refuse to countenance divorce at all; others wanted to prevent the introduction of divorce courts in Ontario and Quebec; a comparatively small group favored greater facilities of divorce, and still another advocated separation as the only solution of unfortunate marriages.

The resolution ultimately indorsed on motion of the Bishop of Quebec and seconded by the Bishop of Huron, called attention to the fact that no Church of England clergyman should solemnize marriages between divorced persons, and protested against "any extension of the present ground for divorce in any contemplated legislation on the subject."

CROP OF APPLES AT KERWOOD IS GOOD

KERWOOD, Oct. 11.—Apples seem to be a fairly good crop. Thirteen carloads have been shipped, also 13 cars of cattle, to Liverpool, and six cars of cattle to Toronto.

The district delegates for West Middlesex Women's Institute convention in London are Mrs. McFee, of Appin, and Mrs. Ed DeGex, of Kerwood.

Rev. D. D. Thompson, of Cairngorm, will have charge of the Methodist services next Sunday morning at 10.30 and in the evening at 7 o'clock.

The funeral of the late Mrs. James Patterson, who passed away on Thursday after a lingering illness, took place from the family residence, 6th line west, on Saturday. Interment was made in St. James' Cemetery.

ROLLO TO SAIL FOR EUROPE ON MONDAY

TORONTO, Oct. 11. — Hon. Walter Rollo, minister of labor in the Ontario Cabinet, having been appointed by the Provincial Government to attend in an advisory capacity the Geneva conference on labor questions, will sail for Europe next Monday. Mr. Rollo will not attend as a delegate, as those are named by the Federal Government. The Geneva meeting opens on October 25.

The Man Who Said: "The proof of the pudding is in the eating"— was only half through

He started a good pudding-proof, but he didn't finish it.

There's a lot of trouble in the world from puddings that taste good but don't do good.

They "eat" well, but that ends the recommendation.

Sanitariums are full of pudding-eaters who stopped the test at taste and forgot to inquire whether their food gave the body what it needed—until the body rebelled.

Grape-Nuts is a food that tastes good and does good. The proof of Grape-Nuts begins in the eating and goes on through the splendid service which Grape-Nuts renders as a real food. Grape-Nuts is the perfected goodness of wheat and malted barley—delicious to taste, easy to digest, and exceptionally rich in nourishment for body and brain.

REDUCE CHARGE TO MANSLAUGHTER

John Warlow at Border Cities Sentenced to 15 Years

JURY OUT THREE HOURS

Mr. Justice Logie Warns Against Any Demonstration

WINDSOR, Oct. 11.—The jury, in the trial of John Warlow, charged with murdering his wife, after more than three hours' deliberation on the evidence, reduced the charge to manslaughter a few minutes before midnight. Mr. Justice Logie, after warning the public against any demonstration, sentenced the prisoner to 15 years' imprisonment. He added that he believed the verdict to be in accordanc with the evidence. Warlow was first charged with murdering his wife, Mrs. Louisa Warlow, in Walkerville, on the night of March 19. The case went to the jury at 8.20 p.m.

A vivid account of the manner in which Mrs. Warlow met her death on Ottawa street, was given by Mrs. Emma Tierney during the trial.

AN ARGUMENT.

On the night of the shooting, Warlow was seen to come from across the street and join his wife, the two walking toward her home, Mrs. Tierney testified. They seemed to be having an argument. Mrs. Warlow called to her: "John is saying terrible things about me!" witness testified.

Witness said that she went down off the porch and took hold of Mrs. Warlow's arm, saying to Warlow: "Leave this little trouble over until Monday and leave her alone to-night."

"No you don't," Warlow said, the witness stated.

"I saw a flash and I heard a noise and Mrs. Warlow fell off my arm," said Mrs. Tierney. "I heard another shot and I saw Warlow in a sitting posture on the lawn."

QUARRELS FREQUENT.

James Clegg, Walkerville baker, where Mrs. Warlow was employed, and brother-in-law of the prisoner, testified that in November, 1920, friction developed between Mr. and Mrs. Warlow and quarrels were frequent, he said. In January, 1921, the two agreed to separate. Mrs. Warlow going to live with Mrs. Tierney.

About 10 days before the shooting, Clegg said, Warlow showed him a revolver and said that he was carrying it because Norman Warlow, his cousin, was carrying one.

At 5.30 p.m. an adjournment was taken for an hour, court reassembling sharp at 6.30 o'clock.

THE DEFENSE.

Two witnesses were called by the defense in an effort to show that the conduct of Mrs. Warlow had provoked the crime. It was shown that in 1913 she had left her husband and run away with another man and also that she had spent at least one evening with Norman Warlow. In each instance her husband had taken her back upon her promise of future good behavior.

Justice Logie's charge to the jury was brief. He explained that if, in the opinion of the jury, the accused had sufficient provocation for the act that the charge might be reduced to one of manslaughter. He also pointed out the difference between first and second degree murder.

An attempt by J. H. Rodd, K.C., counsel for the prisoner, to introduce the "unwritten law" plea met with no encouragement from the court, who declared that "there is no such a law in Canada."

Throughout the proceedings Warlow was cool, showing little interest in much of the cross-examination. After the jury had retired, however, he fidgeted nervously for some time in his seat in the prisoner's dock, watching intently the door of the jury room.

I. L. P. TO LOSE LONDON BRANCH, IS THREAT

E. A. Pocock Says Organization Must Cease Attacks on Canadian Body.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—If officials of the Independent Labor party continue their attacks on the Canadian Labor party the London branch of the I. L. P. will sever its connection with the organization, according to E. A. Pocock, of London, a prominent officer of the party in that city. This was Mr. Pocock's reply to the statement of Joseph Marks, vice-president of the Independent Labor party, made at the meeting of the local district Trades and Labor Council. Mr. Marks declared the I. L. P. would resent the domination of the Canadian Labor party, whose officials had announced their intention of taking control of the campaign of the Labor candidates during the federal election.

"If Mr. Marks continues his attacks he will find that the I. L. P. will lose its London branch, which will join the Canadian Labor party," said Mr. Pocock. "In Hamilton there is the same feeling on the matter."

FALL OF 54 FEET IS FATAL TO BRANTFORDITE

John Kerr Expires Months After Drop Into Well.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 11.—(Special to The Free Press).—Injuries received some months ago finally proved fatal to John Kerr, 39 Usher street. In January last he was fixing a pump when the platform gave way and he dropped 54 feet, hitting a crossbar just above the water level. He was rescued at considerable risk by Capt. Kingswell, of the fire department, who tied a short ladder to the aged man. While he seemed to regain strength, he never fully recovered from the fall and exposure, and death finally resulted.

HYMN WRITER'S ESTATE ESTIMATED AT $300,000

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Edwin O. Excell, song writer, evangelist and associate of Dwight L. Moody and Ira D. Sankey, left an estate of $300,000, according to an inventory filed in probate court today. Mr. Excell died on June 10. The estate includes copyrights of many of his famous hymns.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES.

CORUNNA, Oct. 11.—Rev. F. G. Newton, rector of St. John's Church, Sarnia, preached two most interesting and inspiring sermons at the harvest thanksgiving service in Christ Church on Sunday.

PURVIS OPPOSES TRUAX IN BRUCE

If He Accepts Liberal-Conservative Nomination.

IS PROMINENT MAN

Meeting Predicts Success If He Should Enter Field.

WALKERTON, Oct. 11.—(By Staff Reporter).—South Bruce Liberal-Conservatives this afternoon tendered the federal nomination to John Purvis, of Holyrood, and there were many expressions of opinion to the effect that the Government forces would carry the riding in the forthcoming election.

Mr. Purvis acknowledged with feeling the cordial spirit of support shown by the convention, but considered that a candidate was entitled to definite assurance as to his chances in a contest, and doubted if the riding had been canvassed thoroughly enough to ascertain the real situation. The convention therefore agreed that he should have a week to consider the matter. If he decided to run he has the party behind him. If otherwise, a new convention will be called.

The nominee is an exceptionally well-known auctioneer and drover, and was regarded as the probable candidate in 1917 had not the parties agreed upon Mr. McNab, of this town, as a Unionist. He is regarded as the logical choice at this time, and also as a winning candidate. R. E. Truax was recently renominated by the Liberals. The Farmers' party has had Walter Findlay in the field for some time. Others proposed were ex-Warden W. H. Brown, of Chesley; Geo. McCallum, ex-reeve of Brant; Dr. G. S. Fowler, Teeswater; W. D. Cargill, of Cargill, and Moorhouse Mitchell, of Lucknow. Messrs. McCallum and Cargill were not present, and the others in withdrawing urged that Mr. Purvis be the choice.

SUPPORT NATIONAL POLICY.

"We, as the people, cannot afford to get away from the National Policy," said Mr. Brown. "It means safety, we believe, in that which we advocate, and that is why I consider it an honor to be proposed here. I hope that Mr. Purvis will allow his name to stand."

Dr. Fowler saw a good fighting chance to win South Bruce. "We are up against the same campaign as in 1911," he said, "and as on that occasion you cannot at this early stage judge the feeling of the people. I know the odds and the difficulty, and I be- vative candidate will win even in South Bruce."

Mr. Mitchell showed by some historic examples that the initiative and recall plan of the Farmers' party is far from new. He commented on a statement by Miss McPhail, candidate in Southeast Grey, that candidates of the U. F. O. should have backbone of reinforced steel.

"No doubt she meant reinforced concrete," he said. "Since they have to sign their resignations before they go to Ottawa I would describe them as flesh worms, which have neither backbone nor head to bother them in the slightest."

SEEKS SUPPORT.

"Knowing that those present are so friendly it would be a hardship on my part to refuse a nomination," said Mr. Purvis, "but I do not think it wise for anybody to take it without some assurance that he will be elected. I think it is a duty we owe the Meighen Government, however, that somebody in South Bruce should contest this riding."

Col. Hugh Clark, nominated yesterday in North Bruce, spoke briefly, while those proposed as candidates were in conference.

"There was some reason for voting for reciprocity in 1911," he said, "for if they gave up their birthright they were at least sure of the mess of pottage, but to-day the Fordney tariff prevents our farm products from going into the United States, and yet here is Mr. Crerar and his party pledged to put all these farm products on the free list in Canada, and Mackenzie King with a policy almost a facsimile. It is bad enough to have the American market closed to you, but when you are asked by your alleged friends to open your doors to the United States I think it is an insult. Mr. Meighen is pledged to protection for the farmers as well as the manufacturers, and I doubt if the manufacturer needs it lately as badly as the farmer. Western radicals framed the Liberal policy and now they are trying to lose it. Last year we bought twice as much from the United States as we sold to that country, and now as a result of the Fordney bill we are selling much less, with the consequence that the exchange situation will be worse. I don't know but an increase on the tariff in a great many cases, where it would not work disadvantage to the consumer, would be a very good thing for the purpose of righting the exchange situation."

D. ROBERTSON IN CHAIR.

David Robertson, of Walkerton, presided at the meeting in the town hall, which was well attended and representative. Organization was undertaken and new officers chosen as follows:

President, W. C. Brown, Chesley; secretary, David G. Leitch, Chesley. Vice-presidents of municipalities: Huron, D. Munn; Kinloss, Foster Moffatt; Lucknow, Dr. Spence; Culross, Thomas McPherson; Teeswater, George Hasenflug; Carrick, Thomas Jasper; Mildmay, Dr. L. Doering; Brant, Sydney Parker; Greenock, David Finkerton; Elderslie, James Lewis; Chesley, John Krug; Paisley, George Craig; Walkerton, Frank Walker. A number of these officers expressed their views on federal issues.

Mr. Moffatt, of Kinloss, said: "I am a farmer, but I am not in sympathy with the class of government we are likely to have if we get a farmer government. I believe in their party being represented, but I do not think it right that the farmers should rule the country and nobody else have any say. I think there is a fighting chance in South Bruce for a Conservative."

LIKE RED MICHAEL.

"I am of the opinion of Red Michael," said Dr. Spence of Lucknow. "He has been a clever man in the House, but he does not like class legislation nor the Progressive movement, and no more do I. It is not good for the country, and unless the National Liberal and Conservative party carries this election they will only have to go to the country again. As far as South Bruce is concerned we are not going to sit down and let them run over us. We have a party that is clean. We have had no scandals in spite of all the money handled during the war years, and they haven't a settled policy as we have. The Progressive party wants the tariff barriers thrown down, but we have no other means of raising the necessary revenue."

"The best destinies of this country lies in the hands of the Liberal-Conservative party," said Dr. Fowler. "It is the only party that has a definite united policy, one that has held for more than 40 years, and that I hope will continue for the next 100. A prominent member of the U. F. O. said to me: 'The United States has been getting along under protection for years and has prospered, and what is good for the United States should be good for Canada. I believe in protection. My family were Liberals till '78 and went through the years before protection. It was for protection we changed, and it is for that policy I stand to-day. There will be a big silent vote in this election, and I believe the most of it will go in support of Arthur Meighen, because I find nearly everybody speaks favorably of him, and there are very few saying much about Mackenzie King or Crerar."

"I believe that the cause for which our party stands is a cause that recommends itself to the people," said W. H. Brown, of Chesley, "and is sufficient for us as a people to enter into a campaign and fight a good fight for a worthy cause."

Senator James Donnelly said: "I have attended conventions in South Bruce that were not as good as this and yet we won the election.

News of the Federal Campaign

Ontario Tour of Crerar Is Arranged—B. Fancher Chosen By East Lambton Farmers—Oxford Convention To-Day.

H. B. MORPHY IN NORTH PERTH.

MILVERTON, Oct. 12.—(By Staff Reporter.)—At a largely-attended and most enthusiastic convention of the supporters of the National Liberal and Conservative party in North Perth, held here this afternoon, H. B. Morphy, K. C., was unanimously chosen as the candidate of the party in this riding. The convention is particularly well attended, every district in the riding being represented.

There will be a three-cornered fight in North Perth. W. A. Amos has been selected as the standard-bearer of the Labor-Farmer party, while Dr. Rankin will be in the field for the Liberals. All signs point to a sweeping victory for Mr. Morphy.

BUCHANAN AS LABOR MAN.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Oct. 12.—W. A. Buchanan, who has been federal member for the Lethbridge constituency for the past 10 years, to-day announced himself as an independent labor candidate in the coming general election. In a statement to the electors Mr. Buchanan states that his announced intention to retire at the end of his term in Parliament has been reconsidered at the request of many who are anxious to retain his services at Ottawa during the next few years, when many matters relating to the development of irrigation in Southern Alberta will be to the fore, arising out of the recent decision of the international joint commission on the St. Mary and Milk River waterways.

Hon. J. A. MacLean, former minister of public works in the Provincial Government, has also announced that he would not be a candidate for any party in any constituency in the coming elections.

TO OPPOSE R. B. BENNETT.

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 12.—Joseph T. Shaw, local barrister, has announced his candidature as an independent in opposition to R. B. Bennett, K. C., minister of justice, in the West Calgary federal riding. Mr. Shaw already has the approval of the farmers of the riding and is likely to receive the support of the labor party as well.

MANITOBA FARMER NAMED.

CARMAN, Man., Oct. 12. — William Lavoie, Holland, Man., was yesterday nominated as Progressive candidate in the federal constituency of Macdonald.

ARE DISCOUNTING U. F. O.-I. L. P. MAN.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 11. — Brantford riding is now well aligned, with every indication that there will be three men in the field. Possibility of a fourth would seem to have disappeared, although the Brantford Labor party, as distinct from the Brantford branch of the Independent Labor Party of Ontario, has not yet taken definite action. Nevertheless, M. M. MacBride, M. L. A., has definitely announced that he is not in the field, and Earl Biggar, farmer, who was tentatively nominated at the last open gathering of the Labor men under the MacBride banner, has announced that he is considering running in Brant, the rural riding. There is no other Parliamentary possibility in sight for the MacBride Labor party.

The nomination of W. G. Raymond, postmaster, by the Liberals on Saturday, was hailed with approval by local Liberals, who believe that he will be the strongest possible candidate against W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., who is expected to be the Conservative nominee, although the convention will not be held until next week. Mr. Raymond is an outstanding orator, a prominent figure in local politics in the days when they permeated even municipal affairs, though lost to sight save in a public sense since he was appointed postmaster. He has been in demand for his forensic abilities in many public functions not connected with politics, and has spoken much both at home and throughout the province. Nor was he lost to sight during his term as postmaster, for the office brought him constantly in touch with the general public. He won by a three-to-one vote over W. Ross Macdonald, a young barrister, who has already made his mark. Macdonald had previously been appointed by local returned men and asked to run as a war veterans' candidate. He had promised consideration, but to the Liberal convention after Mr. Raymond won he stated that he would be behind Mr. Raymond to the finish, and that a victory.

FOR FREE TRADE.

The third candidate in the ring is A. W. Burt, nominee of the U. F. O.-Brantford I. L. P. (the local branch of the Ontario Labor party). He is out on the U. F. O. platform, including free trade. Thus there are now in Brantford riding three candidates, with three varieties of fiscal policy. Mr. Burt has come out for free trade. Mr. W. G. Raymond stated that, if elected, he would support the Laurier-Fielding tariff, and would not lend any assistance to anything which would injure Brantford industries. He distinctly declared himself as against free trade, believing that even the farmers did not want it. W. F. Cockshutt, M. P., is well known as a protectionist, and has been called, at Ottawa, in time past, "the high priest of protection."

It is significant that not one of the three local candidates is a lawyer, contrary to the general rule. Mr. Raymond is local postmaster, and was formerly connected with a local music store. Mr. Cockshutt is listed as a manufacturers' agent, but perhaps could as well qualify as a "gentleman" under the law. He has no connection with the Cockshutt Plow Company, though general opinion be to the contrary. Mr. A. W. Burt, was for 25 years principal of the local Collegiate Institute, retiring from the past two years ago to that of head of the moderns department to enable him to have greater leisure and to enable him to enter the political field.

BETWEEN PROTECTIONISTS.

Local Liberals and Conservatives alike are agreed that the fight will be one between the two protectionists, high and low, with the U. F. O.-I. L. P. man discounted. It is pointed out that the MacBride Labor party is strongly protectionist, and that with this element free to vote it would certainly not be for Mr. Burt, since the latter's Labor party is split from the other Labor party and is numerically outnumbered greatly. With the women's vote loose, with Labor split but opposed to Burt, the fight is between Cockshutt and Raymond, with the advantage with the former since he holds the seat now, and has the weight of the Government behind him. To discount this, Mr. Raymond is very popular, has a widespread cricle of real friends on both sides of politics and, while suffering from poor eyesight, has overcome many obstacles on this account and has sympathy as well as friendship. It looks like a rattling good fight in this riding.

The situation in Brant is unchanged. W. C. Good, during the week, was given the U. F. O. nomination as expected. He is an author, a former school teacher and lecturer at the O. A. C., Guelph, a farmer and one of the highest in rank of the U. F. O. leaders. Senator Fisher declares that there will be a Conservative in the field, but action has not yet been taken to call a convention. John Harold, Liberal-Unionist, failing to secure joint Liberal and Conservative support against the U. F. O. candidate, has retired from the field. The Liberals have been inactive otherwise. There is a possibility that Earl Biggar, a young farmer, hitherto of Liberal connections, but latterly active in the Independent Labor party (MacBride element), may run against Good. Mr. MacBride himself has declared that he will use every means to defeat Good, except that of running against himself, but he will campaign against him throughout the riding.

WILL ENDORSE CANDIDATE.

The local veterans waited on W. Ross Macdonald, himself a veteran, and asked him to run, but when he contested the Liberal nomination and failed he gave assurance that he was behind the Liberal nominee. The G. W. V. A. will not put up a candidate, but is prepared to endorse one. It is not beyond the bounds of probability that the veterans, as a group of individuals, not as an organization, may put up a candidate, whom the organization would then be able to endorse. The executive met on Saturday night, but left this matter in abeyance.

WEST LAMBTON.

SARNIA, Oct. 11.—With the announcement to-day that F. F. Pardee will allow his name to be submitted to the Liberal convention on the 18th and will accept the nomination, if offered, the fight in West Lambton will assuredly be a three-cornered one, with the candidates, in all probability R. V. Leseuer, Conservative; F. F. Pardee, Liberal, and Robert White, free trade Farmer.

Next week will see a line-up of the forces, as the Liberal convention to nominate Mr. Pardee will be held on the 18th, and the Conservative convention on the 20th. It has been decided to have the Conservative rally in the Imperial Theater on the night of the 20th, when Premier Meighen will be in Sarnia.

The vote in West Lambton, approximates 20,000 names, with half this number women, and a special effort is being made by Conservatives to canvass this section of the voters thoroughly.

At the meeting of the county executives last night Mrs. George Taylor, of Sarnia, and Mrs. Johnstone, of Courtright, were present, and it was decided to bring into the county a prominent lady speaker to take part in the campaign.

WILL RELEASE CITY LABORERS ON SATURDAY

Men Who Are Bona Fide Londoners Will Be Re-engaged on Winter Basis.

That on Saturday next all outside city employes will be discharged, only to be re-engaged on the winter basis will be a question to come before No. 1 committee at a meeting to-morrow, but it is said that all arrangements have been made for carrying out the plan on Saturday, the Council having approved it.

According to Ald. Watkinson, only those who are bona fide Londoners will be engaged again, with a preference of the heads of families. He pointed out that there was no idea of making any reductions in wages, but there may be a possibility that men be paid according to their ability and standing.

CITY PUBLIC SCHOOL SPORTS ARE POSTPONED

Owing to the condition of the track in Queen's Park, which is unfit for racing, the public school sports have been postponed until the afternoon of Friday, October 21. The sports were to have been held this afternoon, but the classes will be continued as usual now on account of the change. Chairman of the Board Coleridge and Chairman Smith, of No. 1 committee, have given their consent to the change in the date.

COUZENS INDICATED BY EARLY RETURNS

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—Returns from 84 precincts out of 573 in to-day's primary election give James Couzens, for the mayoralty, a plurality of 378 votes over Daniel Smith, his closest opponent. The present City Council is also indicated by figures up to midnight.

WORKMAN FATALLY CRUSHED.

HAMILTON, Oct. 11.—John Ogden was crushed to death at the Gartshore Thompson Foundry to-day when a heavy pipe on a crane fell and pinned him beneath it. Chief Coroner Rennie has ordered an inquest.

FIND TRUE BILLS AGAINST "DIPS"

Alleged Dominion Day Pickpockets Indicted by Elgin Grand Jury

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 11.—(By Staff Reporter)—True bills were returned by the grand jury in the two charges of pickpocketing against James Conway, Toronto, and Frank Clarke, Detroit, two men who were arrested by ex-Chief Harry Phillips, of Port Stanley, and Chief Hammersly, of the London & Port Stanley Railway, at Port Stanley on July 1, on charges of stealing pocketbooks from a London visitor to the lakeside, and a Vienna school-teacher. The crown attorney is alleged to have a rather lengthy record of the men's past history from Toledo and Detroit police departments, which will be placed before the jury.

Governor Luton reports that the prisoners are exceedingly nervous over their case, and spent last night and this morning walking the floor of their cells. They are being defended by Barristers C. St. Clair Leitch, K. C., and C. B. McClurg.

The civil suit, which will be completed in the morning, is a contest over the last will and testament of Charles Smith, of Southwold, who died in January last, leaving an estate of $50,000. His nephew, Hiram Smith, and Mrs. Smith are the principal beneficiaries, and it is alleged that the will is not in accordance with the Ontario Wills Act. No fewer than four local law firms are involved in the case, representing the various plaintiffs and defendants.

HOUSING ENTERPRISE BEING WOUND UP

Province Not Likely to Require Any More Money From Federal Government.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—(Special to The Free Press).—Although it was recently intimated at Ottawa that $2,000,000 or more of federal money, not taken up by the various provinces under the housing scheme, was available for use in Ontario, if the Provincial Government wanted to apply for it, there is little likelihood of the Drury Government making the request. Interest in municipal housing seems to have died a natural death and the organization built up under J. A. Ellis, director of the bureau of municipal affairs, is gradually being disbanded and the enterprise wound up. Some work is still being done by municipalities, chief in the Windsor district, but most of it is with funds raised on municipal bonds guaranteed by the province.

URGES COMMON SENSE.

SIMCOE, Ont., Oct. 12.—The first meeting of the Canadian Club for the season was held last evening in the parish hall and was addressed by Lieut.-Col. John A. Cooper, of Toronto, on "Canada To-morrow." The speaker pleaded for common sense and toleration in social legislation, for greater private and public frugality and for a deeper sense of citizenship.

MANY REASONS TO UNITE VETERANS

Local G.W.V.A. Approves Plan for One Big Organization

NOT OUT FOR POLITICS

But Would Make the New Organization Influential

"As a political party returned soldiers would be absolutely lost within a brief space of time, but if they all agree to unite in one big organization they will be enabled to exert a real political power by being in a position to dictate to the ruling government."

From the applause which greeted this statement of Dr. J. C. Wilson at the meeting of the G. W. V. A. last night the veterans of this city hold the same opinion as the ex-president of the association. Not only was the feeling of the meeting in accord with the proposals of amalgamation as made by four prominent speakers, but it contradicted the general impression that the soldiers wish either to be a political party or ally themselves with any other faction in the coming elections.

URGES UNITY.

Robert Harrison, member of the provincial command, was one of the speakers on the amalgamation question, and he strongly urged unity. Dr. Wilson, Dr. Clifford Reason and W. G. Coles, who subsequently spoke, all agreed with him that ex-service men must get together, and just as soon as possible. It was pointed out that the Port Arthur convention, to be held next week, may be the deciding meeting, and accordingly two delegates, F. Ireland and Secretary Herbert Paulger, were unanimously elected to attend.

Dr. Wilson summed up the situation by explaining that the members of the G. W. V. A. would not sever their relations with their association unless they had the assurance that it was absolutely necessary and that the organization to which they would transfer their allegiance would be headed by men of calibre and not by a group of dissenters from the G. W. V. A. who were looking for soft jobs and easy money by starting a new organization. The one big organization, he said, should be not a political party, but a political power that could make its influence felt on the controlling Government.

GIVES MANY REASONS.

Referring to amalgamation as the vital issue of the day, Mr. Harrison, who is a London old boy, said that unity was necessary for the sake of the crippled soldiers who were not sufficiently re-established, for the sake of the widows, orphans and and other dependants of service men and for the sake of the comrades who never returned from France.

Canada's Faith in the League of Nations

Speaking recently as representative of Canada at the second Assembly of the League of Nations, the Rt. Hon. C. J. Doherty, expressed a deep faith in the league's aims. Had he done otherwise he would have been no true representative of this Dominion at that assembly. Canada as a whole is heart and hand for the league.

The latest proof that Canadians wish to support the League of Nations is the recent establishment of a League of Nations Society of Canada. A society on whose executive one finds the names of men who have devoted large portions of their lives in the service of their country; men whose co-operation is needed to carry great measures through because they are representative men; men whose public and private activities ever have been undertaken with the view of higher service.

The acting executive is headed by Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden as president; vice-presidents, Hon. Newton Rowell and Hon. H. S. Beland. In addition to other usual officials of an executive, there are committees representative of each province. This composite original society for all Canada will be aided by auxilliary branch societies such as the one found in Toronto.

Sir Robert Borden, speaking of the need for this society and its prime object, said that the aim of the League of Nations Society, in Canada, is to influence for peace those people whose hearts were touched by the unspeakable horrors of war and to induce them to do all in their power to prevent further war. Sir Robert reminded the audience addressed that Canadians put their whole hearts, souls and strength into the winning of the late war, he did not think they would be justified until they had put their whole hearts, souls and strength into an effort to prevent other wars.

It is with this ultimate object that the society has been founded in Canada.

The assembly at which the Rt. Hon. Mr. Doherty pronounced Canada's faith in the league must have been a picturesque as well as a notable audience. An eyewitness, a French correspondent, describes it, in part, as follows:

"The crowd lined up in order and silence until the diplomats entered convocation rooms.

"The great Reformation Hall, a vast hall, austere in form and decorations, filled quickly. The central platform, on which a dais had been surmounted, was draped in gay colors and took on an exotic air which was in keeping with the international character of the assembly.

"On the floor of the house, the desks of the nations stand arranged in alphabetical order. Are the men who occupy them white-headed colleagues or the young disciples of a new religion?

"In a corner—there is Belgium to the fore as at the begginning of the war.

"There, too, are the Latin and German stock peoples. There France and Roumania. There the representatives of the yellow races as if sculptured in ivory. Their immobile faces are lightened only by an impassive smile such as one sees on the lips of rare buddhas. There, too, Indian beturbaned white and gray projects a dream atmosphere over the assembly.

"The secretariat, hedged in behind the tribunal, is in reality the secret fluid, the central organism, the brain of the gathering.

"His Excellency Wellington Koo made the opening address. His hands behind his back, standing there, young and alert, keen, his deep ivory skin aglow—his air was one of dignity and nobility.

"Over there His Excellency Gastro da Cunha, the great Brazilian, so nearly elected president. Cunha had within a few votes as many as those balloted for Monsieur H. A. Van Kanebeek.

"Leon Bourgeois rises. His limpid eloquence brings harmony to the assembly, a moment or two ago a little clamorous.

"Look here! Viviani the popular is now speaking. There is Nansen—returned from Russia—shaking hands with Gustave Ador, the grand modern Swiss figure. And Branting, with hair so straight, with thoughtful brow. And Balfour, distinguished, calm, who follows with characteristic attention the remarks of each diplomat in turn.

"It seems as if a benediction touches one as one assists at this assembly, so much more numerous than last year, and of which already great demands are made because of its desire to establish an 'entente universalle!' No religion is founded without faith!"

Is there not an aspiration, a high hope in that telling last phrase?

Much faith already has been placed in the League of Nations, and will not faith be added to faith in this marvelous attempt to establish a universal entente?

Canada already has made her pronouncement.

A Parliament of New Faces

No matter how the voting goes this coming election it is very evident that there will be a Parliament with almost entirely new faces. Of the candidates so far nominated only four ever sat in the House of Commons before 1900. They are Hon. Wm. Smith, South Ontario; W. F. Maclean, South York; Hon Rodolphe Lemieaux and Hon. W. S. Fielding. With Sir George Foster and Hon. Dr. Reid out of the fight Hon. Mr. Smith is easily the veteran of Parliament. He was first elected in 1884. He has probably fought more elections than any man in Canada. Mr. Maclean was first returned at a by-election in 1891 and has sat continuously since for South York. Mr. Lemieux entered Parliament in 1896 and Mr. Fielding a few months later, when he accepted a portfolio in the Laurier Cabinet.

From coast to coast the veterans have been dropping out and the new Parliament, no matter who is successful, will be largely composed of new men. Among those not seeking re-election is Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Speaker of the House of Commons. He will be a real loss to Parliament and to public life. Hon. Mr. Rhodes is without question one of the best Speakers the Canadian Parliament ever had. Firm, dignified, calm, unperturable, with a thorough knowledge of Parliamentary rules, regulations and precedents, he upheld the best traditions of the high office.

On many occasions there has been a move to have the Speaker hold the office permanently, no matter what party was in power. The suggestion was mooted by Sir Robert Borden to Sir Wilfrid Laurier before the 1917 election. Sir Robert proposed that the Deputy Speaker in such a case should be selected from the Opposition benches. However, there was already a Liberal candidate in the field against Mr. Rhodes and Sir Wilfrid did not feel he could call him off and the question was dropped.

Is Mr. King Ignorant or Unscrupulous?

A correspondent of The Edmonton Journal calls attention to the rather fragile basis Hon. Mackenzie King has for certain of his historic prejudices, in the following caustic communication:

I notice that Mr. Mackenzie King, in alluding to Sir Robert Walpole's famous dictum, "every man has his price," had the supreme ill-taste to imply that the members of the present Government were the lineal descendants of that famous archmaster of bribery and corruption.

Many years ago, when I lived in England and was an interested student of history, I was under the impression that Walpole was the leader of the Liberals (Whigs) under the second of the Hanoverian Georges, and that both George I. and II. hated the Tories, who were inclined to coquette with the Stuarts.

Of course, I may be in error—although I don not think so—as I did not bring any works of reference over with me, but I think it ought to be worth while to look the matter up.

If I am correct, Mr. Mackenzie King is either too ignorant or too unscrupulous to lead a great crusade

Mr. King is fond of applying the outworn old term "Tory" to the National Liberal-Conservative party, of which the Premier of Canada is the distinguished leader. How badly, then, has he mixed his references up when, further, he castigates that party as "lineal descendants" of the man who from the year 1712 to the year 1742 led the "Whig" (or Liberal) party in England through a policy of activity in the matter of gaining an ascendency in the House of Commons, of which the historian, Green, says: "The wealth of the Whig houses was lavishly spent in securing a monopoly of the small and corrupt constituencies which made up a large part of the borough representation; while it was spent yet more unscrupulously in Parliamentary representation.

Time and again the leader of the Opposition has been courteously referred by the press of Canada to English political history, to the origin of English political terms, in order that he might assure himself and reassure the country in the matter of his actual knowledge of the meaning of the word "Tory" as a political appellation.

Now, however, Mr. King has convicted himself out of his own mouth. If he knows so little about "Toryism" as to call the National Liberal and Conservative party a "Tory" party and afterwards nominate the members of that party "lineal descendente" of Robert Walpole, then, surely, the correspondent of The Edmonton Journal is not far wrong when he says "Mr. King is either too ignorant or too unscrupulous to lead a great crusade."

Why Only One Group Party?

Speaking on the dangers of group government during the third of his Marfleet lectures at the University of Toronto, Sir Robert Borden pointed out the absolute failure of the idea as it is now put into practice in Poland. In Poland there are at this time 13 groups in the Government. Each one of these, Sir Robert declared, is open to party intrigue, ready to traffic in votes for some little triumph to be gained in the interest of its members. Each, therefore, is working not for the good of the country at large, but in the interests of a section of the community.

The Agrarian party in Canada is a case in point. Here we have rank sectionalism—the North West Group. Here, through the leadership of a United States farmer (Wood), we have a demand for absolute class control of the tariff policy of a nation, more than half of the population of which would be ruined under the policy that class proposes.

And if the Agrarian party, why not other parties? The farmers have set the ball rolling. Should they succeed other groups might very easily have a similar ambition. Someone suggests the following as Canada's 13:

Farmers' Party.
Retailers' Party.
Wholesalers' Party.
Lawyers Party.
Doctors' Party.
Preachers' Party.
Lumbermen's Party.
Fishermen's Party.
Insurance Party.
Bankers' Party.
Mothers' Party.
Bachelors' Party.
Old Maids' Party.

But we could go on dividing and subdividing the morphological units of the body politic until the results stretched out to the crack of doom.

Yet why worry? The combination of the grain business with politics in Alberta is triumphant—so let business be business in the rest of the country.

And if this is not for the good of the country at large let the country go hang.

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Something on the doorstep" is the way the Premier describes the railway burden left as a legacy from the Liberal party to the Canadian people.

Counting chickens "after" they are hatched isn't a sure sign of possession, either, if we are to credit that wholesale chicken thieving out in Paisley.

Narrow sectionalism on the one hand, and extreme theoretical claims on the other, have made a pretty "Donnybrook" of Ireland. A wink is as good as a nod, Canada.

The "poverty" of the ex-Kaiser at Doorn amounts to one million two hundred and fifty thousand dollars, received from the Prussian treasury since the revolution.

The Third Column

CERTAINTIES.

There is so much that I am not sure of.
And certain that I now possess,
That all the doubt men talk about
Cannot disturb my happiness;
I know that as the days go by
The morning sun shall light my way,
And underneath a lovely sky
My children shall in safety play.

When men with sad and gloomy faces
Picture the miseries of life,
And wonder why, since they must die,
They came into this vale of strife,
I count the splendors that are mine—
The beauty of my youngster's smile,
The happy hours with friendships fine
And say the care is all worth while.

"Is it of use," the cynic mutters,
"To live a few brief years, and then Pass out from care, to none knows where,
Or shall he ever live again?"
With love and laughter all about,
And beauty of the field and wood,
In spite of every dread and doubt
And every pain to live is good.

RECONSTRUCTION — OF MEN AND WOMEN.

Reconstruction is a very big word—full of meaning. To reconstruct is really to begin all over again and make something new out of that which has been destroyed or worn away.

We hear this appeal on every hand, reconstruction—of finance, of government, of industries, and of almost every phase of activity.

But the greatest and most important reconstruction process must be of men and women. Get a man to think right and he will work and produce right.

I watched a workman the other day. Only about five minutes more and his job of many days would be finished. But it was 5 o'clock—so the tools all dropped and the unfinished work remained. When he took up his work in the morning, I noted that it took this same workman about half an hour just to get his tools and materials ready to complete the task he had left the night before.

What is needed in this workaday world is that every man, woman and child shall take PRIDE in the thing they do—and that they do it as well as it can be done.

On every hand I hear employers complaining of the fact that they cannot get GOOD workmen—those who do not have to be watched. This seems to be a universal condition—with millions out of work as well!

Reconstruct men and women and the world will take care of itself.

Reconstruct your heart and your thinking and your acts will stand out like the lonely peaks of towering mountains secure above storms and stress.

A man must feel right in his Throne Room if he would invite the outside passersby to pause about his doorstep.

And, after all, isn't it worth while to feel that no one need follow you to patch up that which you have neglected or done in an inefficient style?
—By George Matthew Adams.

THE POORHOUSE WAY.

The price of things is higher than it should rightly be, and oft we hear the buyer exclaiming, "Hully chee!" They say that hides are cheaper—so cheap the growers lose; but oh, the weary weeper who buys a pair of shoes! We cannot scrape together the coin to buy a pair of shoes of honest leather, such as we used to wear; and so in shoes of paper, for which we roundly pay, all drearily we caper along the poorhouse way. Oh, why are things of leather still priced to break the heart, when hide of steer and wether are cheap, in every mart? And cotton has been selling so ruinaously low we heard the growers yelling and wailing in their woe. But goods composed of cotton, the things we had to buy, as you have not forgotten, were always beastly high. Conditions are not cheering, to one who's spent his wad; the hogs are profiteering, the swine are still abroad. Reduced are pins and buckles, and carpet tacks and nails, but when I'd buy brass knuckles the war price still prevails. Silk shirts, of blazing splendors, are lower than of yore, but when Id buy suspenders, they're dearer than before. Oh, many things seem rotten, and few seem good and gay, as, in my shoes of cotton, I tread the poorhouse way.

HON. MR. BAXTER A DEBATER.

While our report of the Hon. J. B. M. Baxter's address at Digby last night is necessarily somewhat curtailed on account of the late hour of its arrival here, enough of it is published to show very plainly that Premier Meighen made no mistake when in looking for a colleague possessing some degree of debating ability, he chose Mr. Baxter to represent New Brunswick in the Dominion Cabinet. His style may not be of that cold, incisive reasoning quality that is such a noticeable characteristic of Mr. Meighen, but it is of the kind that appeals to the public fancy and leaves an impression that the less sparkling, though equally decisive, utterances of the premier perhaps do not. Many years' practice of his profession have made him not only a finished speaker, but have given him the faculty of being able quickly to marshal all his facts in such a way as to permit them to be used to the most effective advantage. If all Premier Meighen's new additions to his Cabinet can be rated in Mr. Baxter's class, the former is to be heartily congratulated upon his good fortune in securing their assistance.—St. John Standard.

A BOLD EXPERIMENT IN PUBLIC CONTROL RAILWAYS

BY ROBERT DONALD, LONDON, ENGLAND, CHRONICLE, AND CHAIRMAN OF THE EMPIRE PRESS UNION

The empire editors in their tour across Canada and back were greatly impressed with the efficiency of the railroad system which the Dominion possesses. Railways play a much larger part in national life in Canada than in almost any other country. The federation of the Dominion was founded on railways. Without lateral lines of communication Canada would not be a united territory. The railways are vital to national existence. The British public takes a keen interest in Canadian National Railways because they represent a large expansion in state ownership, and also because of the financial considerations involved.

With the recent transfer of the Grand Trunk system the Canadian Government now possesses the greatest state-owned or controlled railway system in the world, and not only railways but the allied business of shipping, parcels, express, telegraph service and hotels.

The roads now controlled by the Dominion Government have a total mileage of 22,375 miles. They were built chiefly by British money, and the securities have the Canadian Government behind them.

STATE OWNERSHIP IS NOT NEW.

State ownership of railways is no new thing in Canada. It began with the federation of the provinces. The eastern lines—the Intercolonial and Prince Edward Island railways—have always been in the hands of the Government. Other lines linking up the Maritime Provinces with Winnipeg were built by the Government. The Canadian Northern Railway System passed under Government control in 1918 when the Government became practically the sole shareholder. The Grand Trunk Pacific to Prince Rupert followed, and finally the Grand Trunk Railway, with a mileage of 3,742 miles in Central Canada and 1,888 miles in the United States, which, with subsidiary lines, completes the National Railway System.

Nationalization has been brought about through an emergency which had to be faced in the interests of national development and credit. The railways which are now in the Government system were unable, owing to causes beyond their control, to keep going. There was only one alternative to the Government policy; the company would have gone into liquidation, and been reconstructed, as almost every road in the United States has been, with the result that the interests of the original stockholders would have been submerged. Another thing would have happened: large sections of the roads would have been shut down and the services curtailed. But railways in a new country are a vital factor in national life. The Government could not stand aside and see new regions closed out from the avenues of communication. There can be no progress without railways. What has happened in Canada is that, through the ambitions of politicians and the optimism of railway builders the railways have got ahead of the population. The opening up of new areas in the West has been checked by the war. The people did not come as expected, settlement has been delayed. The Government had to take a national view: to regard railways as vital elements in developing the national estate, to preserve their existence, and wait for the coming of the settler and the growth of business. In the meantime the Government could link up all the systems under its control and effect economies and other advantages through unified management. There is a loss to be borne as a contribution towards national development, but that loss will diminish year by year.

A BIG EXPERIMENT.

The Canadian Government is managing the biggest experiment in state ownership on new lines. It is grafting on to a state-owned system the characteristics of private commercial management. It has taken the management of the railways entirely out of politics and has set up a purely business organization. There is a National Railway board under a president, with vice-presidents and directors, just as in a private corporation. They have full powers for the management of the undertaking. The Government concerns itself with policy only and leaves the board to run the undertaking on business lines. The board, instead of representing a body of shareholders, represents the whole Canadian people.

Under the same direction as the railways is the Canadian Government merchant marine. Canada went into the shipping business as a war measure to co-operate with British shipping. The experience gained brought home to the Government the need for a national merchant service as a means of pushing foreign trade in times of peace. The Government ordered 63 vessels to be built in Canadian shipyards, thereby creating a new national industry. About 50 of these ships have been delivered, and before the end of the year the whole fleet, representing a total of over 380,000 tons, will be carrying Canadian products along all the great trade routes of the world.

The operation of these ships between Canada and all parts of the world opens up avenues for new activity on the part of the Canadian business men, and which cannot but result in immensely increasing Canada's export and import trade.

RUN IN CO-OPERATION.

The ships being managed by the National Railway board are run in co-operation with the National Railways, thus bringing to the National Railways both Atlantic and Pacific Ocean traffic which formerly sought other routes.

In acquiring the securities of the railway companies which it controls what sort of a bargain did the state make and what is the immediate future of its undertaking likely to be? While the railways were built prematurely, they were built well. The road beds are good and large sums have been spent in recent years bringing the national lines up to the highest maintenance standard. The equipment and rolling stock will bear comparison with the best on any other railway system. A large number of the new passenger trains are of steel construction. One of the special trains placed at the disposal of the visiting editors to Canada was all steel construction, and was a model of luxury and comfort. Important main line trains are composed entirely of steel framed cars. The state has made a good bargain in regard to the railway property it has acquired; all it wants is enough business to cover operative expenses and fixed charges.

The gross earnings are larger than at any time in the previous history of the companies concerned, but, owing to causes beyond their control, i. e., the greater increase in the operating expenses as a result of the abnormal conditions created by the war, the net earnings have shown a deficit which, with the continued expansion of the system, will automatically disappear upon a return to more normal conditions.

SUBSIDIARY SCHEMES.

Important subsidiary schemes are operated in conjunction with the railways. The system operates its own sleeping and dining cars and manages a chain of hotels, some of them new, all of them first-class. The Chateau Laurier at Ottawa is a famous hostelry, and the new Fort Garry Hotel at Winnipeg is the last word in hotel construction in Canada. With the railways also goes an express parcels service and a vast system of telegraph lines, including those formerly belonging to the Great North Western Telegraph Company, with a valuable cable and telegraph connection with the Western Union. The National Railways have also installed a magnificent series of grain elevators at the ports on the Great Lakes and in Northwestern cities.

What are the prospects of profitable operation and what policy will the state follow? The state could not adopt the drastic policy of closing down the unprofitable sections of the system. The people served by those sections will fight against the curtailment of the existing facilities. Nothing will be scrapped except what is simply duplication.

NO SHORT CUTS.

The directors of the National Railways cannot take that short cut to profitable working. Improvements have been made in the services and economies in the working of the system as a united enterprise which serves the nine provinces of Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The state system could handle double the traffic which it now carries. Every year will see an improvement in operating results, but the road to success is bound up with the prosperity of the Dominion. When another period of industrial and commercial expansion comes the transportation facilities will be ready to meet all demands. Traffic will further increase as the great natural resources of Canada are developed. The National Railways, kept clear of political influence, and if continued to be run on sound business lines, are one of the Dominion's greatest assets. Their prosperity is bound up with the future of the Dominion, and no one can put a limit on its expansion either in agricultural development or in commercial progress.

THE CHILD IN THE FIELD.

On fat unsteady legs he ran,
A podgy wooly-coated man,
Humming a happy little song
Most endlessly content and long.

One seemed he with the grass and trees,
The flowers and horses, cows and bees,
The scuttling rabbits, birds on wings,
And all earth's jolly growing things.
—Punch.

A PITY.

Mr. Fripp, of Ottawa, is mad because Hon. T. W. Crothers was appointed to the Senate. Fripp thinks he is better entitled to the honor and indemnity than Crothers is. It is a pity that one cannot always compel others to accept one's own estimate of one's own worth and to recognize the superiority of one's claims.—Hamilton Herald.

PUBLIC INFORMATION

Editor Free Press: Your article under the heading "Why not read Hansard?" in your issue of Satnrday, the 8th, is timely. No doubt there is a great ignorance of what goes on in the House; of what legislation is placed upon the statute books; and of who supports and who opposes it. So used to the process have we become that the great mass of the electorate seems to regard public ignorance in this respect as justifiable.

Yet in the resolution put forward by the Varna branch of the U. F. O., demanding that the elected candidate of the party make a weekly report of his own (and the general) attitude on public issues, and legislation enacted, shows that we are not all satisfied to remain in ignorance. There are too many issues dealt with in our Legislatures—these issues affecting most of us at some point — to continue our policy of ignorance with advantage to the general public.

At the moment it is a question of vital importance to the Dominion of Canada that the policy of protection be maintained; but there are other issues of equal importance. It is possible for a candidate to be a strong supporter of free trade or protection; but as a member in Parliament use Canadian affairs to their own advantage and to that of their immediate friends. That, I submit, is not the thing that most Canadians want. There is nothing like publicity to put a stop to legislation that is dishonest and hurtful. We know how apt any man is to support in the House any legislation that is helpful to his own particular interests; no matter how that same legislation may affect the public. Unfortunately there are yet some men who fail to ask the question: "How will this bill, if passed, affect those who in any way may be affected by it?" Far more apt are they to adopt the attitude of one now famous for its utterance, who remarked upon an important occasion: "The public be damned."

The public press could help very much to relieve the ignorance were it to print a list of the bills passed into law and placed upon the statute books weekly. From that list further information could be secured by those anxious to know. It is safe to say that in the first place publicity is an excellent check and that, with the members directly faced with such publicity, some legislation which has been placed upon the statute books would not be there. In the second: What Canadians seem to need most is the thing of which they are kept most in ignorance, that is, a knowledge of the laws as placed down upon the statute books by the men who are paid with public money for protecting the public against the special interests.

PIERROT'S DAUGHTER.

My father danced a merry dance at every country fair,
My mother leaped through paper hoops
he held up in the air.

They tramped along the country roads with songs upon their lips,
And twenty curious, agile tricks of toes and fingertips.

Oh, they slept soundly under stars or under a hedge in rain,
And kissed each other when they woke and easily slept again.

I was born in a clover bed with no one but a bee
To croon my earliest lullaby and tell the world of me.

I was swung on a willow bough and heaven was the bowl
From which the spring rain christened me to save my dancer's soul.

Now I have seen my mother die, and flowers wilt by the road—
My father's feet go heavily, as though he bore a load.

But I can dart like dragonflies that spin
a reel in the sun,
And curl up like a caterpillar in a ditch
when day is done.

But I do not sing as my mother sang to my father standing there,
For daughter's love is sad love and sharply edged with care.

Sometimes I've looked at country boys that come to play at the fair,
And wondered if I could rest at home with any that I saw there.

I've thought they might be strong enough to hold my body fast,
But the stay-at-home who married me would kiss the wind at last.

To-day I saw a juggler throw bright balls with puzzling grace,
But it was not the tricks he knew that kept my eyes on his face.

It was a word that once Eve heard though its letters never appear,
The sons of Adam are saying it yet and daughters of Eve still hear.

My father held the hoop and I ran, and then as I leaped through
I caught the juggler's eyes and I sang the song my mother knew.

A happy prelude to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Luta Laymon, which takes place to-day, was the informal dinner at which Mrs. James Laymon entertained last night at her home on Waterloo street in honor of the Durst-Laymon bridal party. Covers were laid for eight at a table charmingly arranged with bowls of glowing marigolds. The guests included Miss Laymon and Mrs. Robert Durst, Miss Madeline Sutherland and Mr. Harold Thorne, the bridesmaid and groomsman of to-day's wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hodgins.

Weddings

Field-Matheson.

A charming fall wedding took place on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dunseith, Downie Township, when Miss Gertrude Isabel Matheson, of Stratford, became the bride of Mr. James V. Field, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Field, of Tavistock, Rev. Dr. Martin officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked charming in her navy serge suit with picture hat of gray duvetyn and carrying a bouquet of Ophelia roses. Miss Helen Field, sister of the groom, played the wedding march, and during the signing of the register Miss A. Kruspe and Mrs. Zimmerman sang an attractive duet. Mr. and Mrs. Field are spending their honeymoon in Toronto, Montreal and Quebec, and will later reside in Tavistock.

Golden Wedding Day Of London Bridal Pair

On the 11th day of October, in the year 1871, there were married in the Village of Lowville, Halton County, Susannah King and Jeremiah Baxter Coulson.

Yesterday, in a pretty cottage home on Horton street, in this city, the bride and groom of 50 years ago, surrounded by their children and grandchildren, celebrated very happily the golden anniversary of that wedding day.

Mr. and Mrs. Coulson, in spite of the 50 years that have gone by, bringing their share of cloud and sunshine, are of the stuff that pioneers are made of, and the little "golden" bride has pink cheeks and smooth dark hair that many a bride of to-day might envy. The groom, though in his 74th years, is taller of stature, broader of shoulder than the tallest and broadest of his sons, who with the four daughters of the house still living from the family of 10, gathered yesterday to do honor to their parents.

MUSKOKA PIONEER.

A farmer by calling, it is 49 years since Mr. Coulson took his bride into what was then the wilds of Muskoka, west of Huntsville, where, in place of the pleasant affluence of the fashionable summer resorts of to-day, they found a rocky wilderness in which the tilling of the soil was no light task, the recovery of 60 acres of fertile land a real achievement.

The Ontario bride and groom set up their little home a mile away in the bush from the nearest neighbor, beginning their agricultural work with the first team of horses in that district. Since that time Mr. and Mrs. Coulson have, as they themselves put it, "rambled," taking up farming in Simcoe County, where the Village of Baxter bears Mr. Coulson's second name, and later moving to West Zorra, also to engage in farm work. Prior to moving to London two years ago, Mr. Coulson engaged for six years as a traveling salesman for an American firm.

Besides the sons and daughters, many of them well-known residents of this district, who yesterday joined in the golden wedding celebration, the event was uniquely honored by the presence of the groomsman of 50 years ago, Mr. John King, of Campbellville, a brother of the bride.

The bridesmaid, now Mrs. Holt, of Collingwood, is also living, but was unable to attend the anniversary celebration, while the officiating clergyman, Rev. Mr. Tremaine, of Halton County, died many years ago.

GIFTS AND GREETINGS.

Presents by the dozen for the bride and groom, including shining gold pieces and many letters and messages of greeting, poured yesterday into the Horton street house, where a family dinner was a feature of the day, and where a group of curly-haired, blue-eyed "grand-babies" gathered solemnly amidst the russet and gold of autumn garden to have their "pictures taken" with grandfather and grandmother.

Those present at the reunion included the four daughters of the family, Mrs. Marshall Scott and Mr. Scott, of Penetang, with her husband; Mrs. Edwin Vint, of Frome, Ont., with her husband; Miss Martha Coulson and Miss Coulson, of this city; two sons, T. M. Coulson and Mrs. Coulson, of Embro, and J. E. M. Coulson, of this city. Other relatives present were: Mr. Benjamin Hancock, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. McCall, of Embro; Mr. and Mrs. A. Rennie, of this city, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Coulson, also of this city.

ST. JAMES' Y. P.

A humorous address, sketching a day in a student's life on a Western mission field, was cleverly presented by Mrs. Neil Miller at this week's meeting of the Young People's Society of New St. James' Presbyterian Church. Other features of an attractive program included a song by Miss Marie Forbes, reading by Miss Ruth Tanner and a song by the intermediate girls' quartet. A game closed a pleasant evening over which Mr. James Gorwill presided, the members evincing keen interest in the competition for a larger membership at present under way.

DUNDAS CENTER W. M. S.

Mrs. (Dr.) Weekes, Waterloo street, was the hostess at this week's meeting of the W. M. S. of Dundas Center Methodist Church, when a delightful address from Mrs. Gordon Wright, branch president, was a feature of the afternoon. Mrs. Wright dealt particularly with the findings of the recent Dominion board meeting held in Toronto. Rev. John Garbutt was also present at the meeting, warmly welcomed by the members, who greatly enjoyed his Bible reading and inspirational address. A solo by Miss Louise McCullough was a pleasant event of the social hour, during which the hostess served afternoon tea.

LODGE VISITED.

Victoria Rebecca Lodge were visitors this week at the Dorchester lodge meeting, putting on the Rebecca degree. Speeches were made during the evening by D. D. G. P. Sister MacRoberts, D. D. G. M. Brother MacRoberts, Noble Grand Sister Burridge, Vice-Grand Sister Malone, and Past Noble Grand Sister Scott. Particularly enjoyable was the address by Degree Captain Brother Shaw, who gave a most attractive little talk. The visitors returned to town by motor, following a dainty supper.

HYATT AVENUE L. A.

The Ladies' Aid of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church have arranged special thanksgiving services to take place at the church on Sunday next, when the speakers will be Mrs. Ida Harrison, of this city, at the morning service, and Rev. Gordon Butt, of Kintore, in the evening. Arrangements for the services were made at a recent meeting of the Ladies' Aid, at which a record attendance was noted, and secretarial and financial reports showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. The members also talked over plans for a big bazaar, which they purpose holding in the near future. Mrs. A. E. Tutt presided.

KOMOKA GIRLS' CLUB.

The Komoka Girls' Club were recently entertained very delightfully at the home of the Misses Leila and Pearl McKinlay. The topic for the evening, "Canadian Authors and Their Works," was splendidly taken by Miss Ella Brown, and The Komoka Breeze was read by the editor, Miss Norma Scott. Music was furnished by the Misses McKinlay and Luce. The next meeting on October 18 will be at the home of Miss Mary McDougall.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

She went to the window again and looked out into the sunshine. She would love to race miles and miles round the lanes with Laxton in the gray torpedo-shaped car. She wished. . . Suddenly she raised herself from her leaning position on the sill; she shut the window with a little slam.

"I shan't go," she said aloud.

She went downstairs determinedly; she looked in at the dining-room, but there was nobody there; she looked in at her father's study. Mr. Ackroyd was lying back in his favorite armchair; there was a handkerchief over his face and he was snoring unmusically.

Norah smiled and closed the door softly.

She felt restless; she wondered where Rodney was; she wished he would come and make up her mind for her by telling her that he was ready to go out.

She walked to the front door. As she did so Rodney came down the stairs behind her.

"Are you very anxious to go for a walk?" he asked hesitatingly.

She half-turned.

"Not very—but you asked me."

"I know; but there's some writing I ought to do. If you don't mind, we can go later."

"I don't mind at all." There was a note of relief in her voice, though she tried hard to keep it out.

Rodney looked at her rather wistfully; he ran his fingers through his unlovely shock of red hair.

"What are you going to do then?" he asked.

"Do!" Nothing—read or something."

"Oh!"

He waited a moment, then turned and went slowly back up the stairs.

Norah stayed where she was. She was conscious of a little thrill of excitement. Perhaps Rodeny had decided for her, after all; perhaps this was fate, this sudden refusal on his part to go out with her.

"But I shan't go with Mr. Laxton, anyway," she told herself.

She went back up to her room. The clock on the shelf pointed to ten minutes to three. She glanced towards the window and away again. She wandered about the room restlessly.

When she reached the wardrobe she opened it and took out a new hat.

She tried it on almost guiltily and took it off again.

Five minutes to three. . .

He would be coming along the road soon if he were a punctual man; any moment she might hear the sound of his horn and see a little cloud of gray dust about the hedge.

If she stayed in she would not be able to settle to anything, and it was such a lovely afternoon.

She opened the window again. The warm spring sunshine beat invitingly on her face. Out in the garden the birds were singing.

Far away in the distance down the high road she heard the faint deep sound of a motor horn.

The color flooded her face. She half drew back.

There was a little silence; then it was repeated—nearer this time.

She could hear the swift-running engine now and suddenly a wave of recklessness swept through her.

After all, why shouldn't she go?

Nobody else wanted her; even Rodney had put her off when she had been quite willing to go out with him instead.

She caught up the new hat from the bed; she found her coat and her gloves; she stuffed a gray motor veil into a pocket and crept softly downstairs.

Friday, lying half asleep in the hall, started up joyously; he was always game for a walk; he began to bark his delight.

Norah caught him by the collar.

"Be quiet, you bad dog." She dragged him into the dining-room. "Stay there, Friday— I can't take you."

From his room upstairs Rodney heard her voice and he raised his head from his papers to listen.

"Lie down, Friday. . . .you can't come."

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, A.M., M.D.

INFLUENZA.

Influenza or grip is an epidemic disease which extends with extraordinary rapidity. It is likely to "get" some 40 per cent. of the population in visits, and to be epidemic from six to eight weeks. Its specific germ, without which, of course, its existence were impossible, is the Bacillus Influenzae. "Cold in the head" (coryza) pains all over, "in the bones" chills and fever; suffering oftentimes severe enough to prostrate are the distinctive features.

In the respiratory (the most common) form of the grip; the eyes are watery and inflamed; the handkerchief is—or ought to be—in constant requisition to keep the germ from others as it is sneezed, coughed or spat out. Sore throat, bronchitis, pain in the chest and profuse perspiration, are in evidence. Or the digestive apparatus may suffer most; nausea, vomiting, collapse, colic, jaundice perhaps, debility, invariably.

Or the nervous symptoms may be most manifest; intense headache and backache, pain in the eyes, a racing pulse, inflammation of particular nerves, depressed spirits and a profound prostration. The suffering may be so great that the diagnosis of meningitis may be made.

Or there will be the fourth, the peculiarly febrile form, in which the temperature may go up to the dangerous height of 105 degrees; this febrile form has to be differentiated from typhoid fever. Complications of grip heart and kidney disease, middle ear disease and mastoid abscess have to be feared; also pleurisy and pneumonia, and, in young children, broncho-pneumonia. Too often also grip leaves in its train chronic ill-health, a wobbly heart and a pathetic listness in erstwhile strong and virile men, and many a case of latent tuberculosis has thus become no longer dormant. Influenza does not defer to climate, wind or weather. Cases are, however, more frequent in the winter months.

Questions and Answers.

Lately my ankles have become swollen, not so much all around the ankles as just directly behind the ankle bone, or rather to the one side of this bone. During the night the swelling becomes less and while I do not suffer extreme pain my feet and ankles ache dreadfully, my left ankle being the worst, the ache extending up to the knee.

Answer.—I have received several letters to the above effect. Either the heart, the iver or the kidneys are concerned, probably all three. When the swelling begins under the eyes the kidneys are likely to be principally affected; when the feet swell first we have to think of the heart. In any event nothing grave needs to be feared, if you are wise in time and get thoroughly examined.

PARIS (By Mail).—The rainbow's the limit for misses' dance frocks this season. Luscious candy pink most nearly describes the fluttery chiffon frock illustrated here, one of a large for a miss 18 to 20.

This collection laid great stress on chiffon with soft treatments of panels and petals, most effective when combined in two or more harmonizing shades, such as rose, mauve and palest yellow. Vivid shades of red and orange, however, seemed to be favored. Many of the chiffon models also featured novelty girdles in metal or beads, large cabochons, ornamental buckles and slides unmistakably French in origin.

Taffeta frocks, too, were included in high colors, very picturesque in draped bouffant effects, or saucy-looking hooped models, with puffy sleeves and garlands of French flowers.

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE TALE OF LADYBUG.

FIRE! FIRE!

The whole countryside was dry. It hadn't rained for weeks. The grass was turning brown. The water in the river was low, and Broad Brook was no more than a narrow trickle. Every morning the sun rose streaming hot, to beat down upon Pleasant Valley all day long until it sank — a round, red ball — behind Blue Mountain each night.

At last, one afternoon, Farmer Green and the hired man started for the woods on a run. They had seen a wisp of smoke curling up from the tree tops. And they knew what that meant. The woods were on fire.

There was a high wind that day. And if they hadn't worked lively there's no telling how far the fire would have spread. As it was, glowing bits came sailing down from the hill and settled in the valley. But luckily they did no damage. At least, no other fire had started anywhere when the men came home from the woods and said that all was safe again.

Some of the small folk that lived in the fields knew what was going on. But Mrs. Ladybug never guessed that there had been a fire. She was so busy, working among the apple trees, that she hadn't noticed any unusual stir. And no one took the trouble to tell her about it.

Everyone had put thoughts of fire out of his mind when along toward evening a loud clanging rang out upon the air.

"What's that?" people asked one another.

And all at once somebody shouted: "It's Mrs. Ladybug's dinner bell!"

"We'll help you!" her friends all cried.

Far and wide through orchard, garden and meadow the neighbors took up the cry. "Fire! Fire! Mrs. Ladybug's ringing the alarm! Her house is on fire!"

Back and forth they hurried, trying to find Mrs. Ladybug.

"At last ——" they told one another— "at last we're going to find out where her house is.

And they did. At least, they soon discovered Mrs. Ladybug standing beside a blazing dwelling near the pasture fence. With all her hands (and she had several!) she was ringing her bell furiously.

"We'll help you!" her friends all cried. "Don't worry, Mrs. Ladybug! We'll have the fire out soon. Be calm."

But there was nothing they could do. The fire raged so fiercely that they could not get near enough to it to fight it, and before long it had burned itself out. There was nothing left of the house but ashes.

"What a pity!" said Mrs. Ladybug's neighbors. It was a fine, big house."

And then some one cried: "What about the children? Where are they?"

Nobody knew. If Mrs. Ladybug did, she was too overcome to speak.

People looked very solemn. They hoped her children hadn't burned.

And then — then Mr. Meadow Mouse came running up all out of breath.

"Sakes alive!" he screamed. "My house is ruined. I wouldn't have had this happen for anything. But it doesn't matter, for I can easily build another."

Mrs. Ladybug's neighbors crowded about her, all asking the same question.

"Wasn't this your house?" they demanded.

"No," she admitted. "No, it wasn't." And then she made an astounding confession. "I've never owned a house," she said. "I've never had one in my life. I can't have a house. I couldn't get one that was big enough.

"I have so many children that I don't know what to do," said little Mrs. Ladybug.

ANXIOUS.

"Dear, do you remember where you were in 1910?" asked the bride of a few months.

"No, dear; I don't remember exactly," replied the young husband. "Why do you ask?"

"Why, I was reading to-day in the paper that in 1910 one person in every 800 in Britain was in prison."—Edinburgh Scotsman.

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my left side that I could not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, holding to my side. I doctored with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me."—Mrs. MARGARET MCCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois.

Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness,—and every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

CANADIAN CLUB HAS WIDE WORLD OUTLOOK

Mrs. J. E. Leonard Presents Splendid Resume of Winnipeg Conference to Women's Club

Mrs. F. E. Leonard, president of the Woman's Canadian Club, yesterday afternoon sounded a note of patriotism, democracy and world interest in her comprehensive resume to the members of her club of the deliberations of the convention of Canadian clubs held this fall in Winnipeg.

"If I could only impart to you some idea of the depth and profundidty of the conference my going would not have been in vain," Mrs. Leonard said, concluding her address, in which she covered in a delightful fashion the outstanding points of the great convention.

Quoting from the address of Col. McCullogh, of Hamilton, founder of the Canadian clubs, Mrs. Leonard said: "God has given Canada a great body, it for her sons and her daughters to make for her a beautiful soul." The president pointed out that the spirit of the meeting was in favor of the establishment of a world viewpoint, the thrusting into the background of the individual club need for the greater need of the community, the Dominion and the world.

OLD LONDON CLUB

"The formation of Canadian clubs in New York, in Old London, and very soon in Paris, is another evidence of the value of these organizations in the solving of international problems," Mrs. Leonard said, and the stand of the convention was for the promotion of a stronger sympathy between the nations and particularly the English-speaking nations of the world.

The speaker referred to the generous and charming entertainment provided by the Western hostess and hostsses for the delegates, and spoke with enthusiasm of the presence of so many former Londoners now largely connected with Western affairs, beginning with Mayor Parnell, of Winnipeg.

"Eyestrain causes headaches. See F. Steele, Optician, 210 Dundas street." f

The discussion on Dominion Day celebration was introduced by a delegate from the London Men's Canadian Club, Mrs. Leonard said, "and it was obvious that our lead in this direction will be followed among the other clubs.

During a brief business discussion following Mrs. Leonard's address the question of a membership drive, mooted by the executive, was introduced by Miss Yeates, who suggested that each member try to personally interest three other London women in the club activities.

MORE MEMBERS NEEDED

"We need more than three or four or even 500 members," Miss Yeates said. "Let us have a thousand, and we may be able to be more adequately uphold that Canadian Club ideal, the development of a sound, honest public opinion. We might even be able with a really worth while membership to solve our ever-present problem of a suitable meeting place.

The president announced a pleasing program of speakers for the near future, including Miss Sime, the charming English authoress who will address the club on Saturday, and Mr. Arthur Stringer, the Canadian author and poet, who has promised to address a little later in the season.

The executive has also approached His Excellency Baron Byng with a request for an address, which it is hoped Lord Byng will give if he visits London this winter. General Sir Arthur Currie is also a probable speaker of the winter, and nearer at hand the executive hopes to present Mrs. Nellie L. McClung during the autumn months.

DICKERSON PRAISES LONDON CHAMPIONS

Mint Prexy Arranges Movie and Baseball Stars for Pictures at Game

President George H. Maines, of the M. and O. League, determined not to let 500 baseball writers, attending the World's Series at New York, get by without contributing his bit, wired The London Free Press the following exclusive story last night:

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—More curve balls were used in to-day's Giant victory than have been seen in all the games played during the present series, and the reason is credited to McGraw's board of strategy, who doped out that the junior major league had been using the fast ball most of the time this season and getting by with it. Jess Barnes, the elongated Giant pitcher, who looks like the best Giant bet so far, fanned ten Yanks, and his curve broke beautifully for him.

It was a distinct McGraw victory, with most of the game directed from the bench by "Muggsy" himself. It was a scream to see the right-handed Giant hitters take a swing at a ball, miss it and turn to get orders from the "boss"; unless the count was three and two every Giant batter watched his dugout for instructions.

Fewster, lightweight outfielder, who substituted for Ruth, is a game boy. He has a silver plate in his skull, the result of being hit by a pitched ball a year ago. He refuses to wear any protection, knowing another such blow will finish him. He got a home run with one on and ran a half mile in three seconds when he got Young's foul in left.

GEORGE "WORKING" MOVIES.

The Michigan-Ontario League was busy as usual, and to-day had Mae Murray, famous film star, in tow, taking her and Babe Ruth, who was in civkian clothes; Nick Altrock, comedian, and hit of the series; Hughey Jennings and Cosey Dolan together for several pictures, much to the delight of the camera man. Altrock smiled when Miss Murray. Ruth and he were shot at. The crowd thought Nick was crying, and gave the trio a great hand as they crossed the field to the box, where Judge Landis sat. The judge took a seat next to Miss Murray, much to the discomfiture of Altrock.

TAKING SIXTH GAME AND EVEN SERIES

Mays Goes In To Stop Giants

Douglas Will Probably Oppose "Tunnel Delivery" Artist

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The probable batteries for to-morrow's game, the seventh of the series, are Douglas and Snyder for the Giants, and Mays and Schang for the Yankees.

Babe Ruth reconciled himself to-night to watching the rest of the world's series from a seat in the grand stand.

Manager Huggins still clings to a forlorn hope that the Babe's arm will heal sufficiently to allow him to make another appearance in uniform before the end of the series. But Mrs. Ruth and his physician have said, "Not a chance."

Dr. George King said to-night that while the swelling in the Bambino's arm had subsided somewhat the abscess was draining, and the glands under his arm were still oversswollen. Even if his condition should change rapidly for the better, Dr. King said, it would be dangerous for him to play again in the series because of the possibility of doing himself further injury.

Seventh game to-day.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Forcing the issue with the Yankees by powerful work with the stick, the Giants evened the world's series count to-day, taking the sixth game by the score of 8 to 5. Each club has now won three games, and if the course of the struggle so far is anything to judge by the battle bids fair to go the limit of nine encounters, with a great contest on the last day for the final honors.

To-day's game at the Polo Grounds, played in mild autumn weather to a crowd of some 34,000 spectators, took on for a couple of innings the aspect of a battle of home-run hitters. Meanwhile, up in the stand, his damaged arm in a sling, unable to play, sat "Babe" Ruth, a pathetic figure of baffled determination.

Three home runs were scored early in the game. "Babe" Ruth's own substitute, the slim and snappy "Chick" Fewster, lifted the ball into the left field bleachers, with a man aboard in the Yankees' second inning, putting his club on the happy side of a two-run margin after the home runs of Giant sluggers. Emil Meusel and Frank Snyder, had cancelled a three-run advantage which the American Leaguers had acquired in the first inning.

GIANTS EARN VICTORY.

The game ultimately and most deservedly went to the Giants through a thunderous descent upon Pitcher Bob Shawkey in the fourth inning, which netted four runs and gave "Jess" Barnes a commanding margin upon which to pitch a game of consummate skill for the remaining innings he occupied the mound. Barnes was Manager McGraw's second choice. "Jess" didn't start the game. Fred Toney did that. Three runs had gone across the plate on a bit of snappy consecutive hitting by the Yanks when he was removed. Barnes prevented further scoring in that inn ng, but in the second a single, followed by Fewster's homer, added two runs to the Yankees' total.

STRIKES 'EM ALL OUT.

The Yankee scoring stopped right there, however, Barnes being their master all the rest of the way. Jess struck out no less than 10 of them. Every regular on the Yankee team was fanned by Barnes at least once, and Aaron Ward struck out twice. It was Barnes' second victory of the series.

Manager Miller Huggins' first selection, Harry Harper, the Yankees' only off-side twirler, lasted a little longer than Toney, but nothing to boast about. Harper got by the first inn ng creditably, but collapsed in the second, giving away a three-run lead which his teammates had supplied him. Rather, it might be said, the hard-hitting Giants took the lead away by main force with the circuit drives of Meusel and Snyder. Meusel's four-bagger came with one man on the bases and Snyder's followed with but an out intervening. Shawkey went in after another National League batsman, Barnes, had tapped Harper for a single, and worked through until Frank Baker was put in to bat for him in the eighth.

Shawkey took up the pitching burden with the score a tie, and after he had retired the Giants was speedily given a two-run lead by virtue of his own single and Fewster's homer. Like Harper, however, he was unable to hold the Yankee advantage. After blanking the Giants in the third, he was found for four hits and four runs in the fourth inning, while two hits and a pass in the sixth netted the Giants an additional tally.

This was plenty for the National Leaguers to win with, given such work in the box as Barnes was supplying.

FEWSTER NO ALIBI.

Fewster's work for the Yankees in Ruth's place was such that no Yankee fan was heard making the "Babe's" absence an excuse for the defeat. The spry Baltimorean covered lots of ground in the field, pulling off, for one thing, a rattling catch of a foul fly close to the bleachers, besides inserting his homer into the proceedings.

The Yanks got away to a flying start in the first inning. Fewster drew a base on balls, watched Peckinpaugh foul out, and went to second on Miller's single to short. Bob Meusel shot a single to center, on which Fewster scored, Miller taking second. Pipp grounded out, and Ward scored Miller and Meusel on a clean single to center, McNally flying out to Young.

The Giants had no trouble in matching the Yanks three runs in the second. As with the Yanks, a base on balls paved the way. It went to Kelly, who trotted home when "Irish" Meusel poled a home run into the right field stand. Rawlings flied to Miller and Snyder lifted a circuit drive into the left field bleacher seats, tying the score. Barnes singled and Shawkey relieved Harper on the mound. Burns, the first man to face Shawkey, faced a single to right, Bancroft struck out, and Frisch flied to Meusel.

In the Yankee half of the second they forged ahead on Shawkey's single and Fewster's four-baser into the left field bleachers. That ended the Yanks' scoring for the day. No Yankee got farther than second during the remainder of the game.

WIN IT RIGHT HERE.

The McGraw men, in winning the game in the fourth, made four runs on four hits, a sacrifice, a steal and an error by McNally. The bases were quickly loaded on Snyder's and Barnes' singles, Burns' sacrifice, on which McNally's poor throw to first landed him safe. Snyder and Barnes rushed home on Bancroft's single to left. Bancroft was forced at second by Frisch, Burns scoring. Frisch stole second, Young striking out and Frisch scored on Kelly's single to right. Kelly tried to steal, but was thrown out by Schang.

The Giants added a run in the sixth inning. Captain Bancroft singled to left, went to second when Frisch walked, and was thrown out trying to steal third as Young fannec. Frisch went to second on the play at third. He scored from there a moment later when Kelly rapped a single to center. "Irish" Meusel ended the inning by flying out.

After that only two Giants saw first base, both getting there on singles in the ninth off Piercy. One of them, Young, was thrown out trying to steal.

FINANCES MOUNTING.

With two more games to be played new financial records are certain to be made in the present world's series struggle between the Yankees and Giants. To-day 34,283 spectators paid $112,234. This gives a total attendance of 208,063 for six games and a total gate of $685,807, which is within $36,607 of the record total for the full eight-game series between Cincinnati and Chicago in 1919.

Now that the players have ceased to share in the profits of the series the club owners' divisions are mounting rapidly, the aggregate share for six games being $290,413.72. The club owners' share to-day was $95,398.90, and that of the advisory board $16,835.10, making a grand total to date of $102,871.05 for the latter.

Bowling Tourney At Brantford For 1922 on July 11

BRANTFORD, Oct. 11.—A very enthusiastic meeting of representatives from the city bowling clubs was held last evening at the Brantford c ub, and, after considerable discussion, it was decided to hold a monster open tournament in this city next year, to begin on the second Monday in July. The following officers will guide the destinies of the tournament for the first year: President, T. McPhail; vice-president, E. C. Tench; secretary-treasurer, I. Newsome. Executive committee—H. B. Beckett, J. W. Shepperson, A. Ames, W. H. Inglis, A. A. Lister, R. C. Burns, D. Adams and W. F. Paterson.

There are 30 greens available for the play here and trophies will be hung up.

Collegiate Relay Team Is Named

Gorman, Wilson, Lawrence and Wanless Will Make Some One Hustle

The London Collegiate Institute relay team, which will represent the L. C. I. at the triangular relay race, to be held on Friday afternoon at the Western University field day sports, has been selected. P. Gorman, C. Wilson, A. Lawrence and W. Wanless will be the runners, with Tambling or Hunter as substitutes.

The Collegiate rugby team will hold an important workout at Tecumseh Park to-day, when the players will be chosen to participate in the game at St. Thomas to-morrow.

Fishermen Forget Fishing To Race Their Schooners

Elsie, the Biggest of Five, Will Lash in Winds to Qualify as Defender

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 11.—The fisheries were forgotten in this fishing port to-night and talk was all of to-morrow's ocean race of schooners for the championship of the New England fleet and the right to represent it in the forthcoming international series at Halifax, N.S. The Gloucester Esperanto, winner over the Canadian Delawanna a year ago, having gone down last spring, was the pick as the defender of the trophy she won. Five vessels, fishermen all, sought the honor of defence. Interest lay largely in the Elsie, largest of the lot, with the best records for runs to the bank and back, at the command to-morrow of Marty Walsh, who was skipper of the Esperanto.

In light airs to-day, the Elsie slipped through the water in a trial spin in a manner Captain Marty said was altogether satisfactory. The race will be boat for boat without handicap or time allowances. There are wide differences between the vessels, however, as shown by the following descriptions:

	Tonnage	Length	Breadth	Depth	Age
Arthur James	135	103.4	24.8	10.6	16

Motor Cycle Races Next Saturday

All the Stars Will Be Here as for Original Program

Alderman George Wenige announced last night that the postponed motor cycle races will be held at Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon.

Not one single entry has been withdrawn and all the famous motor cycle riders from Toronto and other Canadian cities will be here to compete in the eight events.

The three motor cycle races will be held. A handsome trophy will be given to the winner of the one-mile race, as an emblem of the city championship.

If the meet on Saturday is well attended, it is planned by the committee in charge to hold similar affairs here during the year.

Dr. Ross, of Brussels, Wins Free Press Trophy

Defeats Dr. Tisdale, of Delhi, in Challenge Match After Disposing of J. G. Boucher in the Tourney Final

Dr. J. V. Ross, Brussels, won The London Free Press trophy, and incidentally the men's singles tennis championship of Western Ontario, when he defeated Dr. Tisdale, of Delhi, in the challenge match staged at Hon. C. S. Hyman's court yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Ross won from J. G. Boucher, of London, in the finals of the Western Ontario tennis tournament, and qualified thereby to meet Dr. Tisdale, who has been the holder of the trophy since 1915.

It was a decisive victory for Dr. Ross, as he captured three out of four sets from Dr. Tisdale. The entire four sets ended by the score of 6-4. Dr. Tisdale was successful in winning the first set, but the next three were won by the Brussels player, formerly of Toronto University.

The new tennis champion, who is in the twenties, outplayed Dr. Tisdale, who has had many more years' experience at the game. Ross won in great form and was persistent.

The Brussels star had a keen eye and exhibited unusual ability in serving. His style was superior to anything disclosed in the tourney this year, and made plays which appeared impossible. The gallery applauded Dr. Ross frequently.

Dr. Tisdale, although defeated, is a sportsman of high caliber, and all through the contest complimented Ross on his playing. The former champion realized that Ross had the edge on him and was glad to credit his opponent with the honor.

In the third set Dr. Tisdale threatened to come back and take the lead. Ross was leading by three games while Tisdale went scoreless. The ex-tennis champion then won three consecutive games and the set finished with the score of 6-4.

ROSS GOOD NEAR NET.

Ross played close to the net and Tisdale credits this to be partly responsible for the winner's success. Frequently plays which appeared to be difficult to handle were made by Ross with little or no exertion.

Tisdale was unfortunate in serving and his opponent gained many points on inferior plays.

The last set was a thrilling affair and contained more close plays than the other three combined. The two players gave the best they had and endeavored to outplay each other.

Unfavorable conditions existed, as the day was broken by showers of rain, and after the third set had been staged play was suspended for more than one hour owing to the storm. The concrete court was wet, and for this reason the play was not as speedy as it would have been otherwise.

ROSS DEFEATS BOUCHER.

In the final men's singles, which was the qualifying round for the challenge match, Ross defeated Boucher, of London, by the score of 2-6 in the first set. The Londoner won the second by the score of 6-4, but lost the third by 3-10.

J. G. Boucher needed only to win the championship yesterday to have made The London Free Press trophy his permanent property. The cup was awarded for competition in 1913 and was won by J. C. Boucher for two successive years. In 1915 Dr. Tisdale became champion, and play was suspended in 1916, 1917, 1918, 1919 and 1920.

Boucher and Fenton, of London, will play Curry and Hara, of St. Catharines, to-day for the mens' doubles title of Western Ontario and the Duffield trophies.

TISSY FAVORITE FOR TO-DAY'S CESAREWITCH

LONDON, Oct. 11.—The Cesarewitch, greatest of autumn handicaps, will be run over 2¼ miles at Newmarket to-morrow. According to the latest published figures, Tissy will be the public's choice when the horses go to the post, with quoted odds of 9 to 2 against. Devises and Harrier share second choice in the public's fancy, with quotations of 17 to 2 against. It is expected that 18 horses will start.

Alerts to Elect Hockey Officials

Gather to Organize Another Intermediate O.H.A. Team on Saturday

A meeting of the Alert Club members will be held over the week-end for the purpose of making plans for the hockey season. The Alerts have already expressed their intentions of again entering an intermediate hockey team in the O. H. A. series.

Many of last year's players are residing in the city and will put in an appearance when the hockey season commences, and, according to reports, there is some valuable new material about the city.

The Alerts successfully conducted the intermediates last year and jumped into the field when it appeared as if London was going to be minus a hockey team.

Officers will be elected for the ensuing year at the coming meeting and plans made for the winter pastime.

WILL SUPPORT MEIGHEN.

GLACE BAY, N.S., Oct. 11.—The Glace Bay Gazette, for 20 years a supporter of the Liberal party, both in the federal and provincial fields, announces that it will support Premier Meighen's Government in the present campaign.

J. SPALDING DEFEATS OLIVER IN GOLF FINAL

GALT, Oct. 11.—For the fourth time Jimmie Spalding is champion of Waterloo County Golf and Country Club. In the second half of the final match Spalding overcame the lead of Oliver, his younger opponent. Oliver was two up on the first 18 holes and retained his lead in the first round of the second flight, but in the last time round lost three holes in succession, and a miss at the 34th lost him the title. Oliver, known in hockey and baseball circles as "Speedy," is one of the most promising young players of local clubs and is looked upon as the coming champion.

B. C. SEEKS APPLE MARKET ON PRAIRIES

Shipments From Okanagan Valley, However, Have Not Been Large.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 11.—British Columbia apple growers, through their own organizations, have started a drive for the apple business of the Prairie Provinces.

Besides special sales forces and supporting arrangements, the growers have started out to plaster every store from the Rockies east with color lithographed wall cards, showing pictures of lucious fruit and an impressionistic glimpse of the orchards from which they come.

SHIPMENTS NOT LARGE.

VERNON, B. C., Oct. 11.—Shipments of apples from the Okanagan to the Prairies so far as much below the average this season, in spite of the fact that that district has the biggest crop in history. This was revealed yesterday by the report of the British Columbia Traffic and Credit Association. A record quantity of apples has been shipped to Eastern Canada, Eastern United States points and Europe this season, however, chiefly owing to a short crop in the East. This week will see the peak of the apple movement reported. Only 25 per cent. of the apple crop remains on the trees. This year's total shipment exceeds by 1,000 cars the shipment of 1919, the previous big crop year.

Select Western Team To-Day To Oppose St. Mikes

Regulars Will Then Be Drilled Diligently for Opening Struggle Saturday

The regulars who will play on the Western University rugby squad in the Intermediate interscholastic series will be chosen to-day by Coach M. L. Blake. Owing to the rain the practice yesterday was suspended.

Several of the players who have been listed with the Western "U" for the first time, and who are rookies, may be given permonent positions on the team. It appears as if some of these boys are in better condition than more experienced players and for this reason are valuable.

Substitutes will be used frequently in the opening match here on Saturday afternoon with St. Michael's College squad. Western has several good tacklers, who are expected to figure largely in the games this season.

The remainder of the time this week will be devoted to the regulars who are chosen as some time will be required to get the boys working together.

The indoor athletic classes will not be commenced at the university gymnasium until after the rugby season has been closed.

Wrestling and boxing classes will be conducted among the Western students this winter and will be under way shortly.

Nat Ray Wins 2.05 Pace With Jimmy McKerron

Lexington Circuit Feature Yesterday Goes to Canadian After Falling Down

LEXINGTON, Oct. 11.—Jimmy McKerron, bay gelding by Jack McKerron, demonstrated at the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association track this afternoon that it is possible for a horse to "fall down, and win". The speedy gelding captured the Phoenix Hotel stake, feature of a good program, after an accident in the second heat, in which Jimmy McKerron and Edna Early went down. Jimmy McKerron finished fifth in the first heat after a bad break caused him to lose the lead in the stretch, the heat going to Jim B., the Western "cyclone". In the second heat Jimmy McKerron and Edna Early hooked up in a thrilling drive down the stretch. The gelding fell, and Edna Early's foot caught in the sulky wheel. Roy Grattan went on and won the heat, but Jimmy McKerron was given fifth place, the judges deciding that the accident was unavoidable. Edna Early received several slight cuts and was withdrawn. The last two heats went to Jimmy McKerron in easy fashion. The summaries:

TORONTO'S HARBOR TO COST $37,000,000

Toronto's Harbor Commission Will Have to Finance $21,000,000 of This.

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—After an inspection of Toronto harbor development work to-day by city and county officials, Chairman R. Hope Smith, of the harbor commission, addressing the party at luncheon, said that in the completed work the board would have an asset worth $21000,000, which would double, treble and quadruple in value before many years. Toronto would then have the finest harbor on the Great Lakes, and, besides the new harbor and industrial lands, Toronto would have 900 acres of new park property at a cost of not more than $30 a foot.

The cost of the entire harbor development scheme is about $37,000,000, including the Dominion Government work, which cost $10,000,000. The city is paying $6,000,000, leaving $21,000,000 for the harbor commission to finance. More than half of the expenditure has already been made.

SYNOD SUPPORTS LAMBETH APPEAL

Favorable, But Not Bound Hand and Foot, to Union

NO HASTY ACTION TAKEN

Attitude Toward Union Idea Definitely Established

HAMILTON, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press Dispatch)—Following the conclusion of another series of addresses on the union question at to-night's session the feeling among the delegates to the lower house of the general synod indicated that acceptance by that body of the Lambeth appeal as a basis for negotiations looking towards union with other communions is practically certain. This does not mean that the synod is willing to commit itself to union, it being quite evident that the members themselves are not agreed as to the concessions the Church of England can make to other bodies. The present attitued of the delegates is one which says: "In supporting the Lambeth pronouncement we are not signing any contract. We are merely indicating our willingness to open negotiations on the basis it suggests."

That interpretation was made clear to-night in a forceful address by Rev. Principal Vance, of Vancouver.

"We are not asked to sign a contract binding us hand and foot," he declared." We are asked to accept this appeal which holds out a comprehensive vision of a united church. If it was to sign a contract I would not vote for it."

That coming from an acknowledged low churchman did much to allay any fear among the high church members that the action which the synod is likely to take was in any sense hasty.

DEBATE ON AGAIN TO-DAY

The union debate adjourned again at the close of to-night's sitting to continue to-morrow morning. It is generally expected that a vote of the clause of the bishops' message accepting the Lambeth appeal will be reached during the day.

Postponement of consideration by the synod of the Lambeth resolutions on industrial problems was one of the features of the action taken by the joint houses on the report of the Social Service Council of the Church of England. On motion of Rt. Rev. E. J. Bidwell, bishop of Ontario, the two houses substituted a general resolution indorsing the action of the council in investigating industrial problems for the recommendations submitted by the council calling for a definite pronouncement of opinion.

That portion of the report to which special reference was made by the bishops as likely to cause marked divergence of opinion and thus start a debate which would last longer than the time which could be devoted to the discussion, asked that the synod recognize "an outstanding and pressing duty of the church is to convince its members of the necessity of nothing less than a fundamental change in the spirit and working of our economic life. This change can only be effected by the acceptance as the basis of industrial relations, the principle of co-operation in service for the common good in place of unrestricted competition for private or sectional advantage."

AVOID COMPARISONS.

In opening his address on union at the evening session Principal Vance objected to the fact that previous speakers had referred to the reception the Lambeth appeal had met with in other communions. The duty of the Church of England as he saw it was to do what it thought was right no matter what others said about the appeal. If Anglicans thought the appeal held up a vision of a united church that was adequate, then they should support it. He was utterly opposed to that attitude which said: "Others do not accept what we have said; we will not go any further."

With his high church brethren he regarded the Episcopacy as a necessity for the Anglican Church. "We cannot, while preserving the integrity of our church give it up. The Anglican church would be split in twain if we did not retain it." But he did not regard the Episcopacy as essential for the whole church of Christ.

The question which the synod must decide was whether the Anglican church was going to commit itself to a policy of co-operation looking towards service for all the community, or was going to commit itself to efficient service for Anglicans only. It was not a question of which church was to prevail, but that the church of Jesus Christ should prevail.

Rev. R. M. Little, of Montreal, who opened the debate, emphasized conditional ordination as essential to any basis of union. He, for his part, was quite willing to accept conditional ordination from other bodies. Canon Horsey, of Montreal, emphasized the success of Montreal conferences as indicating the chances of success for the union movement.

'SEMI-READY WEEK AN INSTITUTION OF MATURE AGE

A Quarter Century Has Elapsed Since the Physique Type System of Tailoring Was Originated.

With the advent of "Semi-ready Week" at Leo Watson's Semi-ready store on Dundas street, the originators of the "Semi-ready" physique type system of tailoring will have completed their twenty-fifth or silver anniversary in business.

Few can recall the name of anyone in the wholesale clothing business before that time. For a full quarter-century Semi-ready tailoring has held the stage, and so well known have their garments become that many people think the term "Semi-ready" has a secondary meaning instead of being, as it is, the product of one big tailoring house in Canada, with a branch in England.

"Semi-readly" succeeded from the first, for it was a tailoring system that saved men both time and money and gave them precisely what they wanted—good clothes, quickly fitted, at a fair price based on the economy and efficiency of a wholesale system.

The slender and the stout man can be as well fitted as the average man. The erect man requires a different shoulder design to the stooping figure.

The tall, stout man can get just what he wants as well as the short and corpulent figure.

The patterns of each style or design are made for seven distinct and different physique types.

"Semi-ready Week" calls for a call from the man who knows that quality and style do not mean a staggering price when the Semi-ready label is in the pocket. It is the trade-mark that means the grade mark, and they show to-day's goods at to-day's prices.—Advt.

ONTARIO WILL BE CENTER OF FEDERAL FIGHT

Battle for Eighty-Two Seats in This Province Will Likely Decide the Issue

OTTAWA, Oct. 11. — (Canadian Press Despatch.)—Ontario will be the central battle ground of the whole election campaign. Organizers of the three main parties—the Government, the Liberal and the National Progressives—all agree that it is in the fight for the 82 seats in Ontario that success or defeat will chiefly lie; and as day by day reports of nominating conventions come to hand this fact becomes increasingly evident. The Government and the Liberal opposition are expected, with the exception of a few seats perhaps, to divide the Maritime Provinces. In these three provinces only four Progressive candidates have so far been officially selected. In Quebec a heavy Liberal majority is conceded. There is but one Progressive chosen.

In the prairies it is obvious that the fight will lie between the Government and the Progressives. Over the Rockies the Liberals form the chief opposition to the Government.

Next week the prime minister and Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, will begin their campaign tours of the Province of Ontario. The week following, Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, is expected to join in the struggle for Ontario.

VALLEY OF PURE IRON ON LAKE ATHABASKA

Edmonton Residents Make Most Valuable Mineral Discovery.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 11.—A whole valley of almost pure iron lying on the shores of Lake Athabaska, with deep water right to the claims, has been discovered in the north by Norman C. Butterfield and his son, E. A. Butterfield, who for 16 years have been residents of the Edmonton district. First details of the discovery are reported in The Edmonton Bulletin this evening.

Analysis of the claim shows that it is 64.36 per cent. pure iron; 150,000,000 tons have been measured off, while 5,000,000 tons in the shape of loose blocks are lying on the surface of the ground close to the lake, ready for shipping without any mining operations being necessary.

BURIED AT ST. THOMAS.—The remains of Mrs. Lena Smith, who died in Victoria Hospital on Sunday night following a short illness, were forwarded to her home in St. Thomas by L. & P. S. R. this afternoon at 1.20. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon.

A farmer in search of help was forced to return alone from St. Thomas, although he found a number of unemployed there. Those who refuse under such circumstances should be required to go hungry for a while. — Hamilton Spectator.

BOLDNESS GAINS SUPPORT

Railmen Like His Firm Stand on Intercolonial Issue

MONCTON, N.B., Oct. 11.—(Special to The Free Press).—The prime minister completed his Prince Edward Island campaign this afternoon, and tonight addressed a large mass meeting in this, the greatest railway center on the intercolonial. He held four large meetings in Prince Edward Island, one at Georgetown, two at Charlottetown and one at Summerside. The Government forces were already well organized when he reached the island, and his meetings have so added to the enthusiasm that his supporters are figuring on winning the four seats where now they are equally divided between the two parties. Both parties have their candidates in the field in every constituency, and a Farmer is also seeking election in Princes, with the prospects of another Farmer entering the fight in Kings.

The candidates nominated are:

Princes—Government, James A. McNeil; Liberal, A. McLean; Farmer, Horace Wright.

Queens—Government, Donald McKinnon and John Myers; Liberal, D. A. McKinnon and J. E. Sinclair. The Government is claiming both seats, while the Liberals concede the election of John Myers.

Kings—Government, J. McIsaac; Liberal, J. J. Hughes. Both sides claim this seat. It will be a close contest. The Government should carry at least three of the four constituencies in the Island, a gain of two on a division, and they have good prospects of making a clean sweep. So impaired are the Liberal chances that Hon. Mackenzie King is holding five meetings in Princes and is seeking to induce the Farmer to retire.

The Liberal leader is having a leisurely trip in the island, having been there a week. He appears to be marking time in the Maritime Provinces to abbreviate his Ontario tour and to escape visiting the prairies. In a week the prime minister visited twice as many constituencies, delivered twice as many addresses as the Liberal leader did in two weeks.

The prime minister's wonderful campaign is electrifying his party and winning him over increasing popularity in the Martime Provinces. The intercolonial control is a burning issue and the prime minister has squarely and frankly faced it in every industrial and railway center. He has bodly accepted complete responsibility for the form of administration, has refused intercolonial autonomy in the national system and has refused any commitments for further immediate expenditure. He has told his audiences and many of them with a majority of railroad men that if they want a return to the old system of political management and political patronage they had better vote for someone else as he will not be a party to such a retrograde policy. Even in boldly refusing the cherished desire of many he is rallying them to his vanguard. His boldness and frankness have impressed the railway men and where two weeks ago they were openly condemning him now they are flocking to his standard in the hundreds.

NEW DEPUTY MINISTER OF LABOR IN ONTARIO

James H. H. Ballantyne, of Toronto, is Appointed to the Position

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—James H. H. Ballantyne, of this city, was appointed to-day as deputy minister of labor for the Province of Ontario. He will assume his duties next Monday at a salary of $4,200 per annum. Mr. Ballantyne has for the past four years been connected with the London Guarantee and Accident Company of Toronto, as claims adjuster. He has also occupied prominent positions in labor circles.

Genuine!

WHEN it comes to settling vexing questions finally and in brief phrases, our old friend the dictionary is often of greatest service. Of the work "GENUINE", for instance, the first comment of such an authority as the "Standard" is this: "Genuine—OF THE ORIGINAL OR TRUE STOCK".

Well over thirty years ago, the process of gripping brush bristles everlastingly in hard vulcanized rubber was originated by the proprietors of Rubberset Company.

Then followed the adoption of the trade name RUBBERSET and of the practise of imprinting it plainly and permanently upon every brush so made, to distinguish it among all brushes throughout the world as the product of Rubberset Company.

These original processes—widely imitated but never successfully duplicated or surpassed—are to this day practised in absolute faithfulness in the factories of the originators, and to the brushes so made is affixed FOR YOUR PROTECTION the old original trade name.

"GENUINE" RUBBERSETS, then—"of the ORIGINAL or TRUE stock"—can be none other than those brushes produced in our factories and bearing no trade name other than that most famous of all brush trade names—RUBBERSET.

Insist upon seeing it, as illustrated herewith, upon every brush you buy.

SUTHERLAND IS OXFORD CHOICE

South Constituency Renominates Late M. P.

FOR SEVENTH TIME

Nominee Praises Premier and Tariff Policy.

MOUNT ELGIN, Oct. 11.—Donald Sutherland, late M. P., was unanimously chosen to represent the Liberal-Conservatives of the riding of South Oxford at a largely attended convention held here to-day. There was a large representation of women.

The candidate said that he had received the South Oxford nomination on seven different occasions to date, and on each occasion he had been given this unanimously, a fact which he appreciated. Mr. Sutherland said that while he had allied himself politically with the Liberal-Conservatives he had always held to the dictates of his conscience. There had been questions arise in the House from time to time with which he did not agree, even though they were fostered by his own colleagues. It was hard to do, but one always had the approval of his own conscience.

PRAISE FOR PREMIER.

Referring to Hon. Mr. Meighen, Mr. Sutherland styled him the best equipped man to head the Government of the Dominion of Canada. He filled every need and represented every faction. He was born and raised on a farm, and therefore could not be held to be ignorant of the needs of the farmer. He had attended the schools of Western Ontario and the colleges of the East. He had lived for a long term in the West and knew the West and its needs.

"He has a fiscal policy that Canada needs in this important hour of the country's existence, and he will maintain that policy and is advocating it the same in one province as in another at the present time, while Mr. King has one policy in Quebec, another in Ontario and still another for the West," said Mr. Sutherland.

Hon. Hugh. Guthrie, minister of militia and defense, said that to take away the tariff at the present time would rob Canada of a sum amounting to $135,000,000

"What would we do with our debts if it were not for this revenue that the tariff is bringing in?" he asked. "I believe that reasonable protection must be given the industries of Canada. True, some of the industries of Canada have their head offices in the United States. They are here for the prime purpose of evading the tariff. If we were to take away that tariff how long do you suppose they would remain in their home cities across the lines. We are glad to have them, however, and we want to keep them. By keeping the tariff wall where it is we may keep them."

GOES AFTER U. G. G.

The speaker said that he had some time ago been taken to task for a statement he had made concerning the grain growers in the West, an organization which he believed to be closely allied with the agrarian movement out there. In turn the agrarian movement was pro-American, as hed been shown on numerous occasions. He had stated one time that the gain growers were not patriotic.

"They are a big association and I venture to say that their annual turnover will nearly equal that of the Eaton Company," he stated. Many of the gas engines, cream separators and other articles listed in their catalogue were American goods, bearing the trade-mark of the U. G. G.

"I was taken to task about that question," said Mr. Guthrie, "but is was proven in sworn statements later that I had been right in all that I charged. Crerar and his agrarians out there will be the formidable contestants in the coming election. I feel that they will be a force to be reckoned with, and yet they ask us to take away the tariff wall to the detriment of our own industries and the betterment of American ones."

Mr. Guthrie said that in spite of the fact that Mr. Mackenzie King was parading the country at the present time as the supposed leader of the Liberal party, such should not be taken for granted, as there could hardly be said to be a Liberal party.

"It is true that he has 10 seats, but as against these there are also 10 seats of the Liberals sitting in line with Premier Meighen. He might have some following in Quebec, but outside of that it can only be said that he is the leader of the remnants of the Liberal party."

Miss A. H. Clayton, of Listowel, spoke briefly to the gathering in general, exhorting all, and the ladies in particular, to look well to the importance of understanding the franchise and using it properly when the time came.

Officers were elected for the entire riding. The president is George Hollier, Tillsonburg, and the secretary-treasurer R. J. Kelly.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2.

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make 16 ounces—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

ALL KITCHENER WARDS SHOW POPULATION LESS

KITCHENER, Oct. 11.—Contrary to expectations, the population of the City of Kitchener is not 23,000, but 22,717, according to the figures announced by Assessment Commissioner Martin Huenergard this morning. It was expected that the west ward would show an increase to partially offset the decrease in the other four wards of the city, but release of the figures shows that the west ward has a decrease amounting to 76. All wards thus show a decrease, making a total loss of 310 from last year. Even at that the figure is over 1,000 greater than the Dominion census of 21,651.

Save Clothes by Taking the Rub out of Wash Day

Your Laundress MIRACLE Washing Cream

Washes Clothes Clean Without Rubbing

FORGET everything you ever heard about washing compounds, tablets, fluids or flakes. There has never been anything like "MIR-A-CLE" WASHING CREAM before.

"MIR-A-CLE" WASHING CREAM, if used as per directions, doubles and trebles the efficiency of soap and, furthermore, in the rinsing "MIR-A-CLE" has the wonderful faculty of making all the soap come out of the clothes, leaving them with a new whiteness that will simply delight you on the very first trial.

So little "MIR-A-CLE" is required that it will cost you less than 5 cents a wash to get your clothes whiter and cleaner than you ever had them before.

Ask your grocer to send you a bottle of "MIR-A-CLE" with your next order, and be sure to let it help you with your next wash.

A small bottle retails for 15 cents. The larger, 50-cent size, is more economical to buy once you are convinced that "MIR-A-CLE" WASHING CREAM is the best wash day help you ever had.

DR. SINCLAIR IS LIBERALS' CHOICE

East Elgin Representative to Give Answer in Ten Days

CONVENTION AT AYLMER

U. F. O. Called "Great Web of Inconsistencies"

AYLMER, Oct. 11.—(By Staff Reporter.)—That the United Farmers of Ontario as a political organization are nothing more than a "great web of inconsistencies" and just the kind of class movement that J. J. Morrison, the apparent "guiding light" of the party, is continually urging the people of Canada to guard against, and that in order to become a member or supporter it was absolutely essential, not only to renounce the rights of citizenship and free speech, but to become nothing more than a mere voting machine in the hands of those higher up, was the opinion expressed by Dr. F. H. Miller, a well-known local Liberal, in the course of a stirring address at the Liberal convention here this afternoon. Dr. Miller went interestingly into the history of the organization and traced its birth from the uprising early in 1918, when the farmers protested against the alleged traitorous acts of Hon. T. A. Crerar, then minister of agriculture, in having promised the farmers exemption for their sons from conscription. They had organized for the sole purpose of defeating this man, whom they termed a traitor, yet to-day were lauding him to the skies as their leader.

DR. SINCLAIR NAMED.

The convention was not as largely attended as it might have been under favorable weather conditions, but the gathering of delegates was a representative one, and five minutes after the opening of the meeting Dr. Colin Sinclair, of Aylmer, a former candidate of the party and a veteran campaigner, was tendered the nomination on motion of Daniel McIntyre, of Yarmouth, and Dr. Miller, of Aylmer. A resolution by J. C. Dance, ex-M. L. A., of Kingsmill, that the nomination be made unanimous was adopted by a standing vote and Dr. Sinclair was called to the platform.

At the conclusion of a brief address the doctor asked that he be given 10 days to think the matter over and discuss it with his family. This was granted with but one dissenting vote, that of Walter C. Lewis, but even he expressed satisfaction at the close of the meeting. The doctor has promised to give a definite answer as to what he proposes to do by October 21.

In his opening remarks Dr. Sinclair declared that the approaching campaign would be held under exceptionally peculiar circumstances. An appeal had been made by the Meighen Government by reason of its having become decidedly unpopular. There were to be, as far as could be learned, three parties represented in the campaign and the fight would be a lively one.

The name "National Liberal and Conservative Association" had been misappropriated by the Government, he said. It had first been known as the "Conservative" party; later the "Liberal Conservative" and now the National touch had been added. There was no reasonable excuse for the adoption of this title, as no conference between the great Liberal and Conservative parties had ever been held so as to make that union possible.

RUN-DOWN, NERVOUS? Weak Women can Find the Help They Need

St. Thomas, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a grand medicine for women who are at all nervous, weak or run-down, or who suffer with womanly ailments. I have not only taken it myself and been greatly benefited but I have known of many others who have been benefited, and in no case have I ever heard one word of condemnation against Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, but always praise."—Mrs. Sarah Burke, 103 Scott St.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes women happy by making them healthy. A great many women in every part of Canada owe their good health of today to this famous Prescription.

JUDGE PUTS TENANTS OUT, THEN SUPPLIES LIST OF PLACES TO RENT

CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Judge Bernard P. Barasa, in the renters court, has added another department to his usual activities of adjudicating disputes between landlords and tenants. When he announced a decision yesterday dispossessing Leslie Pickens in favor of another tenant, he presented the homeless man with a list of vacant apartments of various classes in all parts of the city. The Chicago and Cook County Real Estate Boards furnish the judge with a daily list of dwellings vacant so that in case he has to dispossess a tenant he is able to give him instant information where to move.

NAMED DIRECTOR OF CANADIAN OBSERVER

SARNIA, Oct. 11.—A. D. McKenzie, Sarnia, has been elected a director of The Canadian Observer, Limited, and becomes vice-president and business manager of the paper, having acquired a substantial interest in the company. Mr. McKenzie was a director of the company prior to its sale to Messrs. Hurston and Holmes. He has now decided to continue his connection. Mr. McKenzie has made a signal success of his newspaper work and has had some years of experience in the business management of some of the best papers in Canada, coming to Sarnia from St. Thomas.

WEST MIDDLESEX N.L.C. AT STRATHROY OCTOBER 20

STRATHROY, Oct. 11.—Supporters of the Meighen Government will meet in convention at the Lyceum Theater here on Thursday afternoon, October 20, to discuss public issues, for organization, election of officers and to select a candidate for the riding of West Middlesex.

It is expected that Premier Meighen will be here and deliver an address. The executive is busy trying to get in touch with him and have him stop off here on his way to Sarnia, where he speaks at night.

Many names are mentioned for candidates, some who have had experience in political affairs and some who are new in the political arena. Among those mentioned are George Elliott, ex-M. P., of Parkhill; Dr. W. H. Woods, of Mount Brydges; John Stewart, of East Williams; Ed DeGex, of Metcalfe; George Lewis, of Strathroy, and Ex-Reeve Arthur J. Wright, of Glencoe.

DETROIT BLAST KILLS ONE.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 11.—One person is known to have been killed and two were injured seriously to-night by an explosion that wrecked a wholesale grocery on St. Aubien avenue. Police began a search of the debris in the belief that some of the occupants of apartments in the upper floor might have perished. Joseph Caruso, proprietor of the grocery, was unable to explain the explosions or give the police a clue. The "black hand" squad was assigned to make an investigation.

LIVE HOGS $8.75 HUNDRED POUNDS

Imported Potatoes Sell For Less Than Home-Grown.

A shipment of live hogs was made from the local market on Wednesday at $8.75 a hundredweight.

One load of old oats was offered and sold for $2 a hundredweight. New oats are scarce on the local market this year and what are offered are of very poor quality. The crop this year in this district was light.

One load of hay was offered. It was a choice quality and brought the top price of $20 a ton.

Potatoes are a slow sale. Several carloads have been shipped in and are selling at a lower price than home-grown.

THE WOOL MARKET.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—Low medium, low common and coarse staple wools are difficult to move, and large supplies available on all the markets of the world. It is intimated that large quantities of cross-bred wools will be offered in Britain during the next three or four months. Some doubt is expressed as to how her recent advances will be maintained. On the other hand, with more machinery operating and with a relatively small supply being offered of the finer grums and the merinos it is expected that recent advances will be maintained in finer wools. Business in Canadian wools continues brisk, with prices running from 19c to 20c for fine medium wools and from 9c to 10c for coarse wools.

INTERFERED WITH CRACK SCHOONER RACE

Eligible Mayflower, Fish-Laden, on Hand to Participate.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—Fog, off the fisherman at his work on the banks, came in from the sea to spoil the sport to-day. When it came time for the five crack schooners entered for the ocean race to select a defender for the international fishing vessel trophy to move off from their docks, the vapors were thick and there appeared little prospect of racing conditions. The wind was light from the east.

Later it filtered through the fog that the schooner Mayflower, originally named the Defender, then ruled out, was in the harbor. Fresh from the banks, with a catch of fish aboard, it was reported that she came to race it out with the fishermen that were scraped and prepared for the ocean. The committee in charge heard the report and considered what steps should be taken to stop the race.

The close race is expected between the Elmer, under the command of Capt. Marty Welsh, who won with the Esperanto last year; the Arthur James, the Helen G. Silve the Ralph Brown, managed exclusively by Portuguese, and the Henry-P. Manta.

FINANCIAL.

MONTREAL STOCKS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—National Breweries featured the early trading on the local stock exchange this morning. This issue was very active and during the first half hour a great quantity of shares changed hands, while the value of the stock rose ½ point, to 54¾. Atlantic Sugar was unchanged, at 29½. Laurentide was strong and advanced a point, to 72, from its yesterday's closing quotation.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Although trading on the local stock exchange this morning embraced a wide area the aggregate sales was not large. Quebec Railway, on its first appearance in a week, sold at 25½, a point above the last sale. Abitibi Paper, at 32, was also up a point. These two were the most active of the listed stocks. In the unlisted section Dominion Glass was quite active, with over 200 shares changing hands. This is the first sale in this stock for nearly a month, with sales put through at 56 on September 15.

McGILL TO-DAY CONFERS DEGREES ON NOTED MEN

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—An unusual assemblage of distinguished Canadians will congregate in Montreal to-day at the McGill centenary to do honor to the memory of a distinguished Canadian of the past, James McGill; to shed glory on their alma mater, McGill University, and to renew friendships and acquaintances that have lapsed through time and distance. Among Canadians who will receive the degree of LL. D. are: Prof. Gordon Laing, of the University of Chicago; Dr. C. W. Colby, formerly professor of history at McGill; Prof. William Scott Ferguson, of Harvard; Dr. R. R. McKechnie, a prominent physician of Vancouver; Dr. R. Tait McKenzie, of Philadelphia; Prof. J. Alexander McPhail, of Queen's University; Dr. F. H. Mewburn, soldier and physician, of Calgary; the Rt. Rev. J. A. Newnham, ex-bishop of Saskatchewan; Dr. Casey Wood, one of America's most noted ornithologists; the Rt. Rev. J. F. Sweeney, Bishop of Toronto, and Prof. Le Rostignol, dean of the University of Nebraska and an economist of distinction.

EVERY VOTER MAY HAVE TO 'SIGN UP'

General Registration If 1920 Municipal List Not Used.

GIVE DECISION SOON

Registration Clerks' Appointments Already Being Made.

A new registration of the voters of the city for feedral polling purposes may be made. This will be done if the municipal list of 1920 is not used as the basis for a new list. Returning Officer W. C. Fitzgerald stated to-day that it has not yet been decided which method will be used. Teh whole situation will be considered carefully and an announcement will be made in the course of a few days. Mr. Fitzgerald did not intimate which method of listing the voters eligible to cast their ballots in the coming elections would be used.

If it is decided to compile entirely new lists every British subject over 21 years of age will be compelled to register in order to secure a vote. If the 1920 municipal lists are utilized as the basis for this election only approximately 8,000 names will be added by registration. But everey person who voted as a tenant or as an income tax payer in that election should see that his name has not been left off inadvertently.

For the purposes of registration the city will be divided into 14 districts. Each will be in charge of a clerk. These clerks will be named shortly. Alfred Burwell has already been named and other appointments will be made public in a few days.

The registration will not commence until near the latter part of October in any event. Every person who is entitled to vote will be give nsufficient time to have his or her name placed on the lists which will be compiled.

STEALS COAT AND GLOVES FROM HALL

Bold Thieves Enter Hallway of Talbot Street Residence—Stolen Cars Still Keep Police Busy.

A bold thief entered the home of Wm. Spooner, of Talbot street, early this morning and picked out a ladies' green tweed, belted coat hanging in the hallway and made off with it. The sneak thief obtained a pair of gloves as well to to with the coat. The gloves were in the pocket of the garment.

The police last night found an automobile belonging to William Dixon, of Ailsa Craig, abandoned in South London. The car was stolen from the market, the owner leaving at there about 1 o'clock in the afternoon.

Herbert Davidson, of Mt. Brydges had a new car, with license No. 177-922, stolen from his home last night. The police have been notified.

Sudden Death

of the House for a large number of Canadian and American papers. He removed from Otawa to Philadelphia, where he became a desk man on The Evening Ledger. Last spring, however, he returned to Ottawa, and for the past few months had been a member of the staff of The Detroit News, which position he relinquished a short time ago on account of ill health, which, however, was not believed to be of a serious nature.

On Friday last the deceased was ordered to St. Joseph's Hospital by his physician, Dr. Banghart, and death came this morning as a shock to his hundreds of friends in the city.

ONCE NOTED ATHLETE.

"Harry" was a member and official in many organizations while in the city. He was a member of Kilwinning Lodge, A. F. & A. M., former vice-president of the Irish Benevolent Society, past president of the Canadian Club and a past member of the London branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission.

The deceased was a Liberal in politics and at one time was barely defeated as nominee for the Liberal party for the Dominion House. At the time of his nomination he was local organizer for the party.

As wel as an outstanding journalist, the deceased was also a prominent athlete in his early days and was one of the fastest sprinters in this part of the country. He made a name for himself as an athlete while at Toronto University and later throughout Western Ontario.

The late newspaper man will be taken to Ottawa for burial, where the funeral will probably be held on Friday. The funeral arrangements in London will probably be in charge of the Masons.

Beside his wife, Helen Fowler, the deceased leaves one brother, Norman Fowler, of Dundas, Ontario.

G. T. R. EMPLOYEE LOSES RIGHT EYE

Alec Menzies, an employee of the Grand Trunk carshops, and residing at 146 Hill street, had his eye removed at Victoria Hospital about noon to-day from the result of injuries received while working under a steel car in the shops this morning about 11.30.

Mr. Menzies was using a chisel when, in some manner, it slipped and rebounded, striking him in the right eye and cutting the lid open about three-quarters of an inch long.

Dr. Clegg, G. T. R. physician, was called and had the injured man removed to Victoria Hospital, where it was found necessary to remove the optic.

NOTABLES PAY HONOR TO MEMORY OF Y. M. C. A. HEAD

London Observes Centenary of Birth of Sir George Williams.

LODNNO, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The centenary of the birth of the late Sir George Williams, to whom the Young Men's Christian Association owes much of its inaugural development, has been celebrated by that organization throughout Britain. There was a short memorial service at the graveside in the crypt of St. Paul's, followed by a public meeting at the Guildhall, at which messages were read from the King, Premier Lloyd George and other prominent men. All the overseas dominions were represented at the celebrations.

HOUSING AND PUBLIC WORKS MAY BE REMEDY FOR THE UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Labor's program for dealing with unemployment was submitted by a deputation at a meeting with Mr. Lloyd George and the Cabinet's unemployment committee to-night. The program, which has been somewhat revised since it originally was formulated, lays stress on the necessity for a comprehensive housing policy and the financing of public works by the Government instead of by communities.

The prime minister did not indicate the Government's scheme, saying he would probably wish to see the deputation again to discuss the proposals.

BLAME ALDERMEN FOR $60,000 LOSS

Wenige Says Gas Committee Ignored Legal Advice.

"BROKE CIVIC FAITH"

Alderman Sacrifices Parties to "Service Charge."

"It is of no material difference whether the gas committee of the Council of last year requested the City Gas Company to impose the service charges, as the company stated on its bills, or not," commented Ald. Wenige to-day. "But the truth of the situation is that the committee did not keep faith with the public, or it would have taken the trouble to secure legal opinion on the power of the company to impose such charges. If that had been done the citizens of London would have been saved $60,000. It is certain that the city solicitor would have given his opinion that the company had no legal right to collect the additional money. If the committee which was appointed by the Council to look into the gas situation had done this there would have been a different story to-day.

"It looks as if someone wanted to assist the company to put one over on the citizens," continued Ald. Wenige. "Certainly the aldermen should know that their first duty is to protect the general public. That fact was evidently forgotten in dealing with the question of service charges."

City News

HOSPITAL PATIENTS AT THEATER. —Westminster Hospital staff, nurses and patients attended the matinee performance of "French Leave" at the Grand this afternoon as guests of the theater management.

FUNERAL OF ALBERT LUCE. — The funeral of Albert Luce, who died of injuries inflicted on Monday when he was struck by a train at Komoka, will be held from the family residence, 8 Orchard street, on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Services will be commenced at 2.30.

HIT BULLET, MAY LOSE EYE. — Frank Jackson, a 17-year-old youth, residing at 153 Wilson avenue, struck a bullet with a hammer about 1 o'clock this afternoon with the result that it exploded and the shot penetrated his right eye. The lad was removed to Victoria Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Septimus Thompson. It was believed, up until press time, that he would lose the sight.

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTION.—The decision to give an additional contribution of $75 to the children's hospital, making a total gift of $225, from the Wortley Road Mothers' Club, was reached at last evening's meeting of the club, over which Mrs. William Richmond presided. Mrs. John Rose, the speaker of the evening, addressed the club on co-operation between parents and children, adding an appeal to the club members to attend as many as possible of the meetings arranged by the citizenship committee for educative purposes in connection with the coming federal and municipal elections. A solo by Miss Nettie Jones and readings by Miss Reta Johnson made an acceptable program during the supper hour.

PORT STANLEY LAWSUIT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

Appeal Dismissed in Action of Kerrigan Vs. Harrison.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Special to Free Press.) — The Supreme Court yesterday dismissed the appeal in the Port Stanley law suit of Kerrigan vs. Harrison. The judgment was unanimous.

The case hinged upon the interpretation of an agreement for the upkeep of certain roads and bridges leading to Kerrigan's property in Port Stanley. It was claimed that by virtue of a covenant Harrison was bound to do this. At the trial Kerrigan won, but his judgment was reserved by the appellate division at Toronto. Kerrigan then appealed to the Supreme Court here, which has now dismissed the appeal and confirmed the judgment at Toronto.

WILL PARTICIPATE IN FAR EAST CONFERENCE

Approaching Belgian Election Will Prevent Members of That Government Attending Washington Conference.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 12.—The Dutch foreign office has informed the Associated Press that the Dutch Government was certain to accept the invitation of the United States Government to send representatives to participate in discussions on Far Eastern questions at the forthcoming Washington conference.

Assurances were given that Holland feels no disappointment over not having been invited to participate in the discussions relative to limitation of armaments.

The Belgian Cabinet has decided that no member of the Belgian Government can go to Washington to attend the approaching conference owing to the campaign for the November elections. Therefore no Cabinet minister will be present at the opening of the sessions.

Baron Emil De Cartier De Marchinne, the ambassador in Washington, who has been named as one of the Belgian delegates, will have as aides certain prominent men versed in Chinese affairs.

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION SHOWS AN IMPROVEMENT

OTTAWA, Oct. 12. — The employment situation in Canada registered an improvement. Returns issued by the employment service, department of labor, to-day, show that the two-week period ended September 10, the volume of employment reported by employers showed expansion, the index number standing at 89.6 as compared with 88.7 in the preceding fortnight. Since the beginning of April in fact, employment has shown a slight upward tendency, although in volume it still continues on the midwinter level.

100 APPLICANTS AFTER GOVERNOR CARTER'S JOB

Many Write to Toronto For Jail Governorship.

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Over a hundred applications have been received to date for the governorship of the Middlesex County jail at London. James Carter, whose resignation was accepted following the escape of the Murrell brothers, is being permitted to retain his office until the end of the month, in order to allow him to complete his 17 years of public service. With his retirement, it is probable that a complete reorganization of the staff will be made.

At Woodstock jail a new temporary staff is now in charge. The sheriff is acting as jailer pending a new appointment, which is expected shortly.

BANANA BELT WEATHER COMES TO KENT COUNTY

CHATHAM, Oct. 12.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The wonderful fertility of the Kent soil and the advantage which the people of this community enjoy in the matter of seasons is shown by the experience of James Clements, 18 Maple street, who has an apple tree in blossom and who has also been enjoying green beans from his garden during the last two or three days.

The beans were grown from the seeds of the first crop failing in the ground, and the plants do not seem to have been affected by the recent frosts.

IRISH ARMY IS OBSTACLE NOW

Objection To Republican Recruiting During Peace Talks.

AGREE TO LIMIT FORCES

Also Decide That Neither Party Shall Do Recruiting.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Premier Lloyd George laid before a full meeting of the British Cabinet Council meeting to-day the subjects discussed at yesterday's conference between representatives of the Irish republican party and a committee of Cabinet officers. A recess of one day was taken by the men considering Irish affairs, who will meet tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock to resume their consideration of some means by which the Irish problem can be adjusted.

Little was made public regarding the details of the two meetings held by the conferees yesterday, but there was some intimation that objection was made by the Cabinet officials present to the recruiting of men for the Irish republican "army." It was pointed out that several thousand men have been added to the ranks of the military forces under direction of the Dail Eireann and it seemed probable that some step would be taken to secure an agreement by which neither party would increase its armed forces during the present negotiations.

TO AVOID BREACHES.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The British and Sinn Fein delegates, pending resumption of the Irish conference to-morrow, were to-day considering the question of alleged breaches of the truce in Ireland and endeavoring to devise means by which they might be avoided during the negotiations looking to a settlement of the future of Ireland.

This was the first difficulty faced by the conferees, the assumption by the Dail Eireann of the functions of government in Ireland having caused much irritation here. Actual outbursts or conflicts with the crown forces are regarded as less serious than the virtual ousting of the British authorities by the Sinn Fein courts and police, as the crown forces cannot, without breaking the truce, take active measures against this policy on the part of the Sinn Fein. Under the terms of the truce the crown forces must not carry arms, which the British Government alleges the Sinn Feiners do.

Eamonn J. Duggan, who acted as chief liason officer in Ireland, is acting for the Sinn Fein in this matter, and A. W. Cope, assistant undersecretary for Ireland, who originally signed the truce, has come to London from Dublin to advise the Government's representatives.

The Sinn Fein, which has carried out religiously its agreements regarding publication of the proceedings in the conference, complained this morning that there had been leaks on the Government side, and said this was another matter which they shall demand remedied.

FORT NORMAN OIL NOT IMPRESSIVE

Ottawa Experts Return After Investigating Field.

NOT ENTHUSIASTIC

Say Production In Large Quantities Not In Evidence.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12. — (Special to The Free Press.) — Officials of the mines branch, who have been summering at Fort Norman and investigating the oil bearing possibilities of that field have returned to Ottawa not overly impressed with the outlook. They state that there is oil in the locality unquestionably and that much of the field has not as yet been thoroughly explored, but production in large quantities is not in evidence. While one gusher was struck and poured forth in great volume for a while, the run has now fallen down to a few barrels a day. Another boring has struck oil at 1,500 feet, but only in small quantities. Several prospects are being exploited with rather indifferent results.

The officers are not condemning the field nor denying its possibilities, but, on the basis of what has been discovered so far, they are not at all enthusiastic, especially in view of the isolation of the territory and transportation and other difficulties.

VERDICT OF ACQUITTAL FOR MARION M'ARDLE

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—Marian McArdle, 20-year-old daughter of Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber, was found not guilty of complicity in the murder plot of Daniel Kaber, her stepfather, by a jury to-day. Miss McArdle was permitted to leave the courtroom, a free girl, immediately after the jury reported. The jury of nine men and three women had the case under deliberation since late yesterday afternoon.

The jury reported an agreement shortly before noon, after being out 19 hours. When they failed to agree on a verdict late last night they were locked up in a hotel and resumed deliberations of the case at 8.30 o'clock this morning.

Eight ballots were taken, the three women members of the jury standing solidly for acquittal throughout.

MRS. ELLIATT DEAD. — Sarah Elliatt died at Victoria Hospital today. A native of London Township, she lived in the district all her life and was highly esteemed. Besides her husband, Alexander, she is survived by three sons, Gordon, of Saskatchewan; Athol and Clifford, of London Township, and two daughters, Annie, at home, and Mrs. C. Salmon, of Nissouri Township. She was a valued member of Bryanston Methodist Church. The funeral will take place from her home, lot 12, concession 6, London Township, on Friday.

MORE ALTERATION OF L. C. I. PLANS

Department Wants Two Doors In Classrooms.

INSPECTOR ROGERS HERE

Had Conference On Matter With Trustee Langford.

Trustees of the London Board of Education are of the opinion that if the new Collegiate Institute is not finished soon, the provincial department of education may make so many minor changes that a new school will have to be built.

The departent not only insisted that the new high school should be a unit school, that it have so many acres of playgrounds, and that further high schools be proceeded with at the earliest opportunity, they now demand changes in the interior layout of the building, which is rapidly nearing completion, and it is understood that the trustees are not exactly pleased.

The latest demand is that all classrooms have two doors instead of the ordinary one. No concrete reason is given for this beyond the slight gain of time in emptying a classroom.

This demand means that provision made for classroom cupboards will have to be revised, in which the cupboards will disappear.

High School Inspector Rogers was in the city yesterday and had a conference with Chairman A. A. Langford, of the Collegiate committee. What decision was arrived at is not known. Mr. Langford is out of the city to-day.

Trustees

used the buildings the others would demand the same rights. Well, I would be the first one to advocate opening the schools to the other side to discuss the questions. The issues are so clear that there is no fear of the results if the issues are put up to the voters clearly. In any event, our opponents in this campaign should certainly have the use of the schools at any time when they are not otherwise being used. The trustees have shown little grasp of the whole situation in taking the stand they did."

Mr. Glass further called attention to the fact that while the schools are costing the ratepayers no small sum annually they are being used not more than half the time. Approximately 180 days out of the year they are in use. The remainder of the time they are idle. Instead of the board seeing the wisdom of opening them up for community centers the trustees are closing their eyes to the situation. Other cities have decided that the schools cannot be used too much after hours by the public. In fact, the citizens are encouraged to make the school buildings a sort of community club. Such action tends to make for a better citizenship.

While the trustees are quite decided that the schools now should not be used for political meetings such was not their opinion last year. It is common knowledge that several of the aspirants for seats on the Board of Education used the schools for their own purposes during the last municipal election campaign. Possibly they think the questions before the public then were of greater importance than those which are now the issue of the Federal campaign. At any rate, they have decided that the city schools shall not be available for any discussion of the questions that mean so much to the Dominion. It is surely conceded that no phase of education is of much greater importance than instruction in the issues that will make or mar the future of the Dominion, accordingly as they are accepted or rejected by the electors.

MAYOR SPEAKS OUT.

Mayor Little asserts that the schools are not used as much as they should be for the good of the community. In this connection he intimates that the trustees are absolutely wrong in refusing the use of the buildings for any legitimate purpose.

"Any responsible party should have the use of the schools at reasonable hours," said the mayor. "I appreciate the fact that it costs something to open the buildings in the evening, but the Board should decide what is a just charge for this, and any reputable persons should be allowed their use on payment of such sums. But the board should make arrangements to pay the janitors a stated wage. The persons renting the schools should not be taxed for this apart from the rental of the buildings.

"The one main criticism that may be directed against the schools and the churches might be included in this also, is that they are not open to the public enough," said the mayor in conclusion. "Both should be made sort of community centers where the residents could gather to discuss questions of moment or for social purposes."

Forging Ahead

Alone practically among industries, deflation has worked to the benefit of Water Power Companies.

Their business is on a cash basis, there were no inventories to write down, no labour troubles or transportation problems, no price adjustments to make. The result has been that costs of operation have decreased, while earnings are showing a steady increase.

A study of Hydro-Electric companies convinces us that their securities represent one of the most desirable forms of investment.

THIS FAN THREW AWAY GOOD MONEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 12. — Chick Fewster received a shock yesterday, when the ball he hit into the bleachers for a home run was returned to him after the game by the fan who caught it. To return a baseball at the Polo Grounds is most unconventional, particularly one with the souvenir value of a world series homer. Fewster autographed another ball and exchanged it for the returned one. The rooter said his friends would not know the difference.

NEW LT-GOVERNOR WILL VISIT CITY

Col. Harry Cockshutt to Come to London on November 4

WILL RECEIVE WELCOME

C. of C. Directors to Unite With Council for This

Ontario's new lieutenant-governor will make his first official visit to London on November 4 and the members of the Chamber of Commerce and City Council will unite to fittingly welcome him to the metropolis of Western Ontario. This was decided at the meeting of the directors of the chamber, held yesterday afternoon.

Lloyd Houlding, of the Y. M. C. A., was in attendance and told what the Y. M. C. A. boys had done in connection with the Fire Prevention week. They had assisted in the distributing of literature and advertising matter. The teachers in the city schools are now supposed to carry on under the authority contained in the letter from Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education. The annual meeting of the Ontario Fire Prevention League will be held in Toronto on the 18th. Representatives from the London branch will attend.

GUELPH FOLLOWS SUIT.

The directors were advised that the Guelph Chamber of Commerce had followed the lead of the London Chamber for legislation to protect investors.

The matter of the Springbank dam was considered and the directors pronounced themselves as strongly in favor of the proposition. A vote of the members of the chamber, which was started on Friday, shows to date something like 200 votes in favor of the dam and not more than 19 opposed.

The chamber will be represented at the meeting of the Canadian Deep Waterways Association, which will meet in Toronto on November 1 and 2.

A committee representing the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, Canadian and Ad. clubs and Chamber of Commerce will be called to meet the chairman of the hospital commission to consider the financial situation.

THINK FRENCH COURSE ON DISARMAMENT RIGHT

Paris Temps Says It Is Only Way Problem Can Be Settled.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—The Temps, commenting on the speech delivered on Sunday at St. Nazaire by Aristide Briand, the French premier, outlining the Government's foreign policy, and in which he declared that France must remain armed as long as her security has not been assured, says: "M. Briand was quite right in saying that France may play a great role at the Washington conference. Peaceful, even more so than any other nation, because she knows what war, even victoriously waged, costs, France is disposed to join in all efforts to decrease the military expenditures which are weighing heavily upon nations.

"But France will not disarm until her security is definitely assured. She will not consent to reduce her [illegible] of defense until she is certain [illegible] no nation henceforth can men[illegible] her rights, dignity or existence. I[illegible] these lines that the solidarity [illegible] the allied and associated powers ca[illegible] effective; along those lines on[illegible] a solution of the disarmament [illegible] may be securely arranged."

SPANIARDS BEAT MOORS IN EXTENSIVE SKIRMISH

MADRID, Oct. 11.—Spanish troops fighting in Morocco have defeated rebellious Moorish tribesmen in an important struggle near Gourougou, but were compelled to beat off several efforts by the Moroccans to outflank them. Abd-Vel-Krin, commander of the Moors, led strong enemy detachments which moved along the flanks with the intention of cutting off Gen. Sanjurgo's column, but the move was detected in time and the tribesmen were compelled to abandon the struggle, after they had suffered very severe losses

The Spanish soldiers engaged in the fight did not hold the positions they had taken, it is indicated in an official report issued here. When they returned to their own lines, however, they were not harassed as usual by the Moors. A number of native cantonments at Gourougou were burned by the Spanish before they left the scene of the fight.

UNABLE TO FIND PLACE FOR ITALIAN DELEGATES

ROME, Oct. 11.—Government officials are finding much difficulty in providing transportation for the Italian delegation to the coming conference at Washington. They have requested that the sailing date of the liner Dante Alighieri be advanced so that berths for the delegates may be secured, but the company owning the vessel has replied that every berth is already taken.

The company has informed the Government that unless a requisition is made of the entire ship the directors must fulfill the unertakings they have already made in booking passages aboard the steamer.

PUBLIC COURT IN DUBLIN

Cases of Milk Adulteration Heard by "Republican" Officers.

DUBLIN, Oct. 11.—The "Republican district court" to-day for the first time held public sessions in Dublin. Five young men presided and solicitors in the high court of justice of Ireland, who also plead in the ordinary courts, attended the sessions.

Many cases were heard, including several brought by the public health authorities for milk adulteration. The defendants were fined and warned not to repeat their offenses.

Umpires: Chill at plate, Rigler at first, Moriarity at second, Quigley at third.

POLO GROUNDS, New York, Oct. 13.—The eighth game of the world's baseball series being staged here before another capacity crowd found Waite Hoyt carrying the hope of the Yankees on the mound, while Artie Nehf proved his worthy opponent.

The Yankee infield wobbled simultaneously with Hoyt, who walked two batters in the first inning. With one out Bancroft drew a base on balls; Frisch fouled out to Pipp and Bancroft raced home when Kelly's bounder leaked through Peckinpaugh.

Nehf then succeeded in holding the Yankees and the game continued to be a pitchers' battle.

The Yankees filled the bases with two out in the fourth inning on singles by Pipp and Ward, when Baker drew four wide balls, but Wally Schang flew out on a high fly.

George Burns missed getting a home run when his liner missed being fair by a foot into the left field bleachers.

People who believe in the existence of fate and the finger of destiny which compose the battery of the gods, came right out to-day and said the Giants were sure to win the championship. They declared that the "break" looked for in every sporting test to point to the ultimate winner came yesterday and indicated that the goose of the Yankees was in the ice box and soon would be cooked.

Fate picked out the seventh inning to do the Yankees a mean trick. There is a cult of fans and writers which eternally holds the seventh to be the inning when such things almost always transpire, and that they usually rebound to the greater glory of the home team. The Giants were the home team yesterday. They wore white uniforms, while the Yankees made believe they were out in the country, and had on their dark or working clothes.

EVER HEAR THIS BEFORE?

The aforementioned cult joined the "I told you so!" club last night. They had seen Mays and Douglas battling along evenly into the seventh inning when with two men gone, Rawlings got to first on a hard roller that Ward muffed.

"Well, there's the break," one heard folks all around remarking, while Ward was thinking unkind things of his luck; and, sure enough, the break had come. Before one could say Jack Robinson, more than half a dozen times, this Rawlings person crossed the plate with the run that won the game. He had been sent around the bases by Snyder's two-base wallow into center field that Miller and Fewster had a hard time picking out of the grass.

McGRAW HAS EDGE.

"We've finally got the edge on them," said Manager McGraw to-day. "We're going right in there this afternoon and finish it up. I've got four pitchers ready and my men have confidence in every one of them."

Miller Huggins talked with an air none less confident. The Yankees, he said, would be behind Waite Hoyt, sure, and then they would win the ninth game and live happy ever after. Huggins was profuse in praising the pitching of Mays in yesterday's game.

The Giants won the 1921 world's professional championship, it being their second under the management of John J. McGraw, who won the honors in five games with Philadelphia in 1905.

P. E. ISLAND CELEBRATION.

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I., Oct. 13.—The centenary celebration of the Presbytery of Prince Edward Island was held yesterday at Lot 16 and Summerside churches, with 15 representative Presbyterian ministers and elders from different parts of the province present, in addition to hundreds of other people.

LONDON TO HAVE NEW HYDRO LINE

Fourth Connection To Be Established To Niagara Falls.

COMES VIA ST. THOMAS

New Line Should Minimize Service Interruption.

London will soon have a fourth hydro line to Niagara Falls and a third system of hydro-wire towers connecting London by a southerly route to the new Chippewa-Queenston plant.

There are at present two such lines carrying electric energy to London. One comes in by way of St. Marys, Stratford and Galt; the other comes by way of Brantford, Woodstock and Ingersoll. The third power line development will come into London by the southern route, through Aylmer and St. Thomas.

This new power avenue, the Utilities manager stated to-day, will minimize interruption of service on account of occasional line trouble. Even if two of the systems should be put out of commission at once the remaining line could take care of London's power requirements.

Veterans' Support Pledged For Union

Western Ontario G. W. V. A. Commands So Instruct Their Delegates.

PROXIES HELD BY THE LONDON DELEGATES

Important Decision Will Be Made At Port Arthur Convention.

Western Ontario will vote almost solidly at the annual convention of the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A. in Port Arthur next week for any satisfactory proposition by which amalgamation of the Canadian veterans' organizations may be attained. This belief of local officials is prompted by the fact that other commands in the district hold the same views as were expressed at the last meeting of the London Command and that they will give their proxies to the two delegates who have been appointed to represent this city at the convention.

The great majority of the branches of the association in Western Ontario are not in a financial position to warrant their sending a delegate to the important meeting in Port Arthur, but if they so desire they may grant proxies to Secretary Herbert Paulger and F. Ireland, the representatives of the Forest City branch. It is well-known that there is a strong sentiment in this section of the province for amalgamation, so that the smaller branches are quite likely to hand over their proxies to the delegates who are empowered to vote for union.

It had been the original intention of the local members or the executive, at any rate, to send but one representative to the convention, in view of the cost of the trip, which will amount at least to $100. Such importance, however, is attached to the meeting that it was finally unanimously agreed to send the two nominees and for the members to bear the cost of sending the second through voluntary subscriptions. There is every prospect of a momentous decision with reference to unity among returned soldiers being made at the coming convention.

At the Dominion convention the two local delegates are given certain discretionary powers with reference to voting on the amalgamation questions but have been enjoined to vote for any proposition that would bring about unity with the assurance that no new organization will come into being. The Canadian Legion plan is opposed as not being responsible enough, but an agreement with the A. and N. W. and G. A. U. V. is advocated.

HALF MILLION DOLLAR GIRLS' COLLEGE TO BE BUILT HERE SOON

Work On Brescia Hall To Start When Construction of Western "U" Begins.

FORTY-ACRE SITE NEAR UNIVERSITY PURCHASED

First of Roman Catholic Institutions In Big Educational Plan.

Concurrently with the opening of the new Western University, which, it is confidently expected, will be in October, 1922, Brescia Hall, the new half-million-dollar Catholic girls' university college, affiliated with the Western, will be opened. This was announced to-day by the sisters in charge of the girls' college, which is now located in the T. G. Whiskard property on Wellington street. Work on the new building will be commenced at the same time that a start is made on actual construction by the Western authorities.

A site has been secured across from the new university grounds. Forty acres of land on a rise of ground overlooking the river and commanding a good view to the west also has been held for this purpose. It is planned to erect a college and dormitory that will provide ample accommodation for the needs of the hundreds of students who will wish to continue their education there. The grounds will be carefully laid out for recreation purposes.

The buildings themselves will be of a substantial type in which stone will be used plentifully. The architecture also will be of the most approved design for this class of construction.

This is only the first unit of a large building program which Bishop Fallon has had in view for some time. The master plan calls for an expenditure of at least $2,000,000 in buildings and grounds for the various schools and colleges which will be erected in London within the next year or so. It is expected that the other buildings will be commenced soon after the start has been made on Brescia Hall.

German Marks Touch New Low

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—German exchange to-day dropped to the lowest quotation in its history, 70½c for 100 marks. The previous low record, made last week, was 78c, after which the price rallied to more than 82.

To-day's demoralization, which extended to other foreign exchanges, included British and French remittances, was attributed to more acute political conditions in Germany, growing out of the Upper Silesian situation.

Unsettlement in the foreign exchange market was precipitated by the extreme weakness of German marks, which fell to a new low record.

OPPOSED TO FEES FOR CONSTABLES

Elgin Grand Jury Comments Upon Increasing Crime.

SAYS FEES TO BLAME

Cites Officers Who Doubted If They Would Be Paid.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—(By Staff Reporter.)—That the criminal docket at the fall assizes was no indication of the amount of serious crime in Elgin County was the gist of the presentment of the grand jury to Justice Masten here this morning. At the opening of the court his lordship, in addressing the grand jury, referred to the small number of criminal cases as an indication that the county was free of serious crime. The grand jury declared that there had been most serious crimes in the county but that the perpetrators had gone unpunished.

The grand jury laid the blame for the lack of success in rounding up those who had been terrorizing the district by house and highway robberies on the fee system of paying the county constabulary.

The presentment brought to the attention of the court that in addition to numbers of highway and house robberies there had also be a heinous crime committed in Port Stanley, for which no one had been brought to book.

It was recommended in the report that the fee system of paying county constables be abolished and that a more suitable general system of county officers be established. The report went on to say that members of the jury were personally aware of cases in which county constables under the present system had refused to act in cases because they were not sure that they would receive pay for their work.

In reply to the presentment his lordship intimated that he would have copies of the report prepared and forwarded to the proper authorities.

LLOYD GEORGE PREPARING FOR VISIT TO WASHINGTON

LONDON, Oct. 13. — Prime Minister Lloyd George is preparing to go to Washington to attend the impending conference on limitation of amraments and Far Eastern questions, and it is understood that unless unforeseen difficulties arise, he will be there for the opening session.

FISHERMEN START OUT ON OCEAN RACE

Weather Conditions Perfect as Fleet Sea Birds Wing Away.

COURSE OFF GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 13.—The racing members of Gloucester's fishing fleet, five schooners competing for the United States championship and international cup defense honors, sailed out of Gloucester again to-day for the ocean rcae, which was postponed yesterday. Instead of a fog and lack of wind which had inforced the delay it was a day of perfect conditions, with a snappy westerly breeze blowing off the land. Skippers of the [illegible] and the little vessels of the fleet, the Elsie and the Philip P. Manta, said the conditions were entirely to their liking.

LONDON UNEMPLOYED SEE LLOYD GEORGE AFTER FIGHT WITH PLATOONS OF POLICE

Demonstration Biggest of Its Kind Ever Staged In British Metropolis.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—Thousands of England's unemployed assembled on the embankment this afternoon for the purpose of accompanying a deputation to Premier Lloyd George's official residence in Downing street to demand work or maintenance at trade union rates of wages and uniform scales of relief.

The deputation was allowed to proceed to its destination and was admitted to the premier's residence.

SINN FEIN UNMOLESTED.

There was no attempt on the part of the police to interfere with Sinn Fein sympathizers, who, as usual, gathered in Whitehall awaiting the arrival of the Dail Eireann delegates on their way to the conference. They were to-day wearing the Sinn Fein colors as usual and were carrying Sinn Fein flags and banners. Women were largely in the majority, and, owing to the delay in the approach of the Sinn Fein representatives, they remained standing along the sidewalks and were the object of curious observance from those who had come to that part of the city in anticipation of a clash between the police and persons engaged in the demonstration of the unemployed. Gatherings along the street were broken up by the police. Scotland Yard was all activity this forenoon and was prepared for any eventuality.

CLASH WITH POLICE.

It was the biggest demonstrazion of its kind ever seen in London and police arrangements to cope with it had been made on a similar scale. Trafalgar Square, where the leaders hoped to hold a meeting was surrounded by police two rows deep, while mounted police had been stationed throughout the vicinity to break up processions and gatherings. Other police were assigned to guard banks, jewelry shops, law courts and other places liable to attack.

Mounted and foot police took charge of the main procession, composed of men from all parts of London, who had met on the embankment and cleverly turned the marchers up Aldwych and Kingsway into Oxford street—well away from the points they desired to reach. The paraders were practically surrounded by police coming in from all points of the compass, and when the unemployed tried to break through the police lines at Piccadilly Circus the mounted men drew their batons.

The situation there was a difficult one, but for the time being the police held the upper hand and the procession was headed away from Trafalgar Square towards Hyde Park.

Clashes occurred between the police and the unemployed at Cambridge Circus, which is one route towards Piccadilly Circus and Trafalgar Square.

One police official said there were 14,000 men on duty in the West End this afternoon, reserves having been called in from all parts of the metropolis, while arrangements were made to transport them quickly to any danger points.

The marchers carried banners, prominent among them being one on which was written in large letters, "Bread or Revolution!"

Clergymen May Serve In Other Pulpits

Anglican Synod's Action May Permit Presbyterian To Serve As Parish Rector.

MUTUAL ORDINATION SOLVES UNION PROBLEM

Rev. J. L. Armitage Believes Practical Church Union Now Close At Hand.

The decision of the Anglican General Synod at Hamilton yesterday to concur with the Lambeth appeal for church unity has farther reaching effects than is generally supposed. Rev. W. L. Armitage to-day explained that if the Anglicans of this district agreed with the members of any other Protestant denomination to have a union of the district churches that it could be brought about within a short space of time.

By mutual ordination of the ministry of any two denominations unity along broad lines would be attained. Should an agreement be reached between the Anglicans and Presbyterians, for instance, the London Presbytery would commission all Anglican ministers to preach from Presbyterian pulpits, while the Bishop of Huron would ordain the Presbyterian clergy to preach in Anglican pulpits.

Forms of service would be approximately the same as they are at the present time. Though the two denominations (any two that agree to union) would be a united communion, the different churches would conduct the form of services customary to a particular congregation. In time it is believed that the forms would be modified so as to become almost identical.

"All that is necessary is that the Anglican church of any section of the province should agree with the official ministerial body of another church to accept the interchange of ministry," pointed out Mr. Armitage. "Prior to the Lambeth appeal for unity and its acceptance at Hamilton by the general synod yesterday our church required that before a minister be eligible to preach from our pulpits he must be ordained by the bishops. By mutual ordination, however, there would be a complete interchange of pulpits and a union of the denominations concerned."

Since the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational are the three denominations already committed to union it is likely that they will be the first to take advantage of the synod's momentous decision yesterday.

IRISH PARLEY SHORT AND SWEET

Met For Half An Hour Without Definite Result.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The members of the British Cabinet and the Sinn Fein leaders, conferring here to-day in an endeavor to settle the future of Ireland, adjourned at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, after having been in session only an hour and a half.

Arthur Griffith, Sinn Fein head of the Irish delegation, was asked by the correspondent: "When are you coming back?"

Michael Collins, Sinn Fein minister of finance, and commander-in-chief of the Irish republican "army," interjected: "We are not coming back."

Mr. Griffith then answered: "We are coming back at 11 o'clock to-morrow."

The conference was resumed in the Cabinet room of the prime minister's official residence, in Downing street, at noon to-day, an hour later than the time originally set for the meeting.

An official statement given out by a secretary of Mr. Lloyd George said that the opening of the sitting had been postponed an hour to enable the members of the Cabinet to have a preliminary conversation. It was gathered, however, that the proposed march of unemployed in Downing street to interview Mr. Lloyd George had something to do with the delay, as the commissioner of police was with the Cabinet members at the time originally arranged for the conference.

SYMPATHIZERS KNEEL IN STREETS

Sinn Fein sympathizers gave The Dail delegates a noisy welcome as they entered Downing street promptly on the stroke of noon, and proceeded to recite the Rosary, kneeling in the street.

The first subject for discussion by the conferees to-day was breaches of the truce in Ireland, including instances of kidnapping by the Sinn Fein. Although the British Goverment, since the truce, has not arrested anyone in Ireland for political offenses, there have been several cases of kidnapping by the Sinn Fein, those kidnapped including a legal official. It is expected here that the kidnapped men will be released, although the Sinn Fein claims most of them were offenders against the ordinary law.

On their part the Sinn Feiners are endeavoring to secure better treatment for 3,500 of their number in internment. They do not demand the release of the internes, the Sinn Fein publicity department saying their claim is only for prisoner of war treatment of those interned, improved medical assistance for the sick, and for paroles in cases of illness in the men's families. A. W. Cope, assistant undersecretary for Ireland, who came here from Dublin to advise the Cabinet members, was consulted by them regarding this at the previous conference.

In reply to the Sinn Feih protest against publication of the proceedings of the conference beyond what is contained in the agreed communique the Government has promised to institute an inquiry. It is not expected, however, that secrecy can be maintained when the House of Commons goes into session next week. An official bulletin says the Irish conference adjourned until 11 o'clock on Friday morning.

TEACH ALL CHILDREN TO SPEAK FRENCH

Would Draw Two Peoples Together, Says Veteran Teacher Alex. MacQueen.

ANNUAL SESSION OF SCHOOL TEACHERS OPEN

Installing Habits of Carefulness In Children Means Much In Later Years.

"Parley vous francais, mes enfants?"

"Mais oui, monsieur l'inspector."

A little chat in French may be quite "au fait" when the inspector calls around to visit public school pupils, if the proposals of Alex. MacQueen, veteran principal of Ryerson School, meet with favor. Mr. MacQueen, who is president of the London Teachers' Association, in his address at the opening session of that body, in the Normal School this morning, advocated teaching of conversational French, not only in the higher grades, but all grades of the public schools.

"French is a recognized language of our country, along with English," he said, "and I think if we would consider teaching this it would tend to draw out two peoples closer together. It would tend in some measure to break down the barrier between us."

President MacQueen recalled an experiment of his own, when a class adopted with enthusiasm a suggestion that ordinary conversation of the classroom, both by teacher and pupils, be carried on in French. The children bought small books, "French At a Glance," and in a short time were using phrases which were beyond his own knowledge of the language.

Inspector Greer, with his report on the work of the city schools, read also a letter from Senior Inspector C. B. Edwards, who had decided to rest up instead of attending the sessions. Mr. Edwards offered a number of suggestions and urged that teachers become familiar with the regulations of the department of education and the local board.

"No not rely too much on the generosity and imagination of our good friends the newspapers. Opinions formed by careful and conscientious study of the facts, without prejudice, lead to conclusions of real value."

SUPPLEMENTARY READING.

Inspector Greer devoted some attention to the matter of supplementary reading.

"Extensive or supplementary reading is not to be carried out in the same way as intensive reading," he said. "We want the main facts, so that the pupils may carry with them the main thoughts and an appreciation of the book as a whole, and not so much its details. It should be pleasant and desirable and give the pupil an idea of the difference between good literature and poor literature. The pupils should be permitted to take the books home if they are interested.

"My experience has been that where I found pupils who had gone through the first half of their public school work in the old country, they were better readers than the other pupils of our schools. They had more supplementary reading at an earlier age, and consequently, have a better grasp of English at that age."

"I think we teachers can do a great deal to overcome the habit of carelessness, if we insist upon care with work books and exercise books. I think the eraser should be almost abolished. It is practically illegal in the business world, and a single line drawn through an error will show that it is not intended to count. If you can inculcate habits of carefulness in school, the children will be more careful in the home and when they go into business life, and will keep things in order without being told."

CARELESSNESS IS CAUSE.

Principal Wallis, Simcoe Street—"Sometimes carelessness is due to the teachers' example."

Inspector Greer—"Yes, the blackboard work ought to be a good example

MAJOR CRONYN TO HEAD CAN. CLUB

Election To Presidency To-Night Is Conceded.

ANNUAL BANQUET

Brilliant Function Will Mark Successful Year's Work.

Major Hume Cronyn, M. P., will be chosen president of the Canadian Club at its electoral dinner to-night, officers of that organization informed The Free Press to-day. Mr. Cronyn served as first vice-president of the club during the current year, and automatically, in this particular instance, steps into the club's chief executive position to-night. He succeeds Robert Greene, president of Greene-Swift & Co., who retires to-night.

In addition to the annual election of officers and the annual dinner, the Canadian Club has arranged an interesting program to mark the ending of one of its most successful years. The organization has been in the forefront of many civic efforts towards greater community happiness and plans, members state, greater things during the coming year.

CO-ORDINATION OF CHILD WELFARE ORGANIZATIONS NEEDED FOR EFFICIENCY

Proposal For Amalgamation Will Probably Be Discussed Soon. Four Societies Are Now Acting.

Co-ordination of the different child welfare organizations in the province is a proposal that will probably be fully discussed and acted upon within the coming few months. Dr. H. W. Hill, of the Institute of Public Health, is of the opinion that the matter should be seriously considered by the Soldiers' Aid Commission, the Children's Aid Society, the Child Welfare Association and the special committee of the Social Service Council. He further intimated that it might be discussed at the executive meeting of the local Child Welfare organization to-morrow.

Dr. Hill is entirely unprejudiced in connection with the proposed merger, but pointed out that if it was found to be in the interests of efficiency that it should be brought about. It was possible that a central organization might be an economic and administrative success, but at the same time there was the danger of too much concentration, which had proved to be unsatisfactory when carried out to the extreme.

There should be the greatest amount of co-operation between the different organizations that are vitally interested in child welfare," said the director of the institute. "The question is how this co-operation can best be attained. A huge provincial merger might prove to be unwieldly, whereas the administration broken up into the same units as now, with the addition of a central executive, might be the best solution.

"I would very much like to see the proposition come up, as there would be many arguments that could be advanced both pro and con," added the doctor. "If co-ordination was of definite advantage, then it would be carried out with unanimity. Of course, the different organizations have each special functions. For instance, the Children's Aid Society looks after not so much the physical welfare of the children as their legal status."

It is understood that there is a movement on foot to have the question of co-ordination discussed both from the provincial and logical standpoint. Meetings for mutual consideration of the problem will be called shortly, it is believed.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 13.—Rose finding it a mighty fine morning with the bluest skies possible and our streets wonderful with autumn foliage. Passing on the way to my office two noble horses being exercised by a fireman. The finest looking horses in this city methinks and our mutual admiration do begin a friendship, for we speak to each other to-day for the first time. He sitting high on his black horse and I on my velocipede.

The news to-day is that the Anglican church synod votes unanimously for church union bating one vote, that our aldermen distinguish themselves in backing our Western University to the amount of £50,000. It is also cabled us that Senator Knox is dead as Washington, thus marking the passing of another of Col. Roosevelt's great cabinet. As sober, learned, legal-minded man as ever was in the world.

The news is that the maids to our Western University do start a great warring and battling to the school of classical arts, making freshmen women come to lectures all arrayed with their smocks hind part backward and their hair done in pigtails like Chinamen. Which is a fine thing for this college in that class spirit is bred gloriously and the whole school helped mightily. And never do I see college students at their pranks and devilment but I think of my own business college and how we dance around fires at night like young Indians, meanwhile yelling our yells and swinging imaginary tomahawks.

Word from Inspector Kelly, our inspector of poor children, how a boy with St. Vitus, his dance, is sent to the reform prison. Which is but another indictment against the courts of our land that are dealing with children in a way that would have made God's Fair Son to utterly discountenance them. For He that said "Suffer little children to come unto Me" will not hold US guiltless at the last day, and we should have sermons in our churches, if there be men with courage, on the text: "Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy!"

Herewith a story on me that is worthy of great note, in that is shows what influence our Y. M. C. A. Christian youths' association is having on the boys of our city. To which organization my nephew belongs and think little of it except that it cost me money that I might as well devote to purchasing a Turkish pipe which I have had in mind for a long time. But this week comes a notable fine comedy show to the city and mean to take him, along with my silly wife, on Monday night. But he refuses because of some business at this red triangle. So I send my wife and my Aunt Mary. Then last night, it being the last night of the show, decide to take him, but again he refuses, saying that this association has a weekly supper for his group. Yet he loves shows almost as well as I do, so methinks this association is achieving a miracle.

The news is that the State of Nebraska, in the Union States, elects a poet laureate, the first on this continent. It is understood, however, that the graduates of McGill University who were born and live in the Union States, and who return for their university's centennial singing: "Sing a song of sixpence, pockets full of rye; four and twenty Yankees feeling awful dry," have no idea of competing for the Nebraska title.

A mighty boring man goes out to spend the week-end with my couzens in the country, he coming from Maryland with letters of introduction. So on Monday night he tells my couzens' black man that he is leaving early in the morning, saying: "Be sure to wake me in time for that early train, Remus." "Yassuh, yassuh," Remus replies, "I'll shore do that. Why missus tole me that I'd shorely be fired if I failed to get you off on dat early mawnin' train!" Which is ridiculous.

On our street there is a mighty musical family, the wife being a violinist, the two daughters pianists and the young man son a noble cornettist. Which excites the admiration of Rev. Mr. Toorie, who calls on the father of these musicians. "And what do your be?" asks the minister of the father, thinking to find some super musician, playing the bass drum possibly. "I," responds the father, "am only a pessimist!" Which is strange.

Out to a meeting of our healthy board on Tuesday and more convinced than ever that we shall never have a guarantee of not eating rotted meat in this city until these healthy board members be elected by the people. For the sanitary inspector reports that he finds a wholesale butcher shop grinding up 100 pounds of meat for sausage and it is so bad that he seizes it and pours coal oil on it. "As it was their first offense," the board determines "there will be no prosecution." There should have been no hesitancy even with a retail butcher by this board of healthiness, but with a wholesaler the thing is an utter ignoring of common decency. These grinders of decayed meat should be brought into court and their names published broadcast!

So-called "contagious humor" is sometimes the kind that makes you sick.

Col. Van Shuten to our Admiralty Club and his coming reminds us that there were once prison camps where our soldiers were prisoned and otherwise ill-treated by the Germans. This colonel telling how his nephew is captured and he sends him many parcels what with the Huns starving the prisoners in the highest way possible. One parcel containing a leather jacket 'gainst the cold. So after the armistice the young man returns and the colonel questions him about these parcels. "How did you like that leathern jacket?" he asks. "Fine," replies the ex-prisoner. "It was the best leather I ate during the whole time!"

A teacher at our neighborhood school rebukes a pupil for coming to school with a mighty dirty face. "I can tell what you had for breakfast this morning," she says to him. "What was it?" asks the boy curiously. "Eggs!" replies his teacher. "Wrong," the boy shouts triumphantly, "that was yesterday!"

OPEN SCHOOLS TO PUBLIC MEETINGS

Dr. H. A. Stevenson Taking Matter Up With Hon. R. H. Grant.

THROW THE DOORS OPEN

For Political Meetings and All Other Community Work.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. L. A., is a champion of the use of the public schools of the city for meeting places for the discussion of public issues during election campaigns. He is not content with the decision of the local school board refusing permission of the use of the buildings by candidates in the federal campaign and is taking the matter up with Hon. R. H. Grant, minister of education, to-day.

The provincial member expressed the opinion this morning that the local board could be compelled to allow the use of the schools for public meetings for the discussion of public questions and as community centers. He pointed out that Dr. Grant was strongly in favor of having the schools used as community centers and believed that an order-in-council might be passed providing for the use of the schools for public gatherings.

Dr. Stevenson pointed out that while he was mayor of the city the matter of the use of the schools for public meetings was fought out with the school board and finally the board agreed to the use of them.

J. H. FOWLER WILL BE INTERRED AT OTTAWA

Services Held Here Before Final Journey of Well-Known Journalist.

Funeral services for John Henry ("Harry") Fowler, whose unexpected death at St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday morning removed a brilliant figure from Canadian journalism, were held this afternoon at 4.30 o'clock at the funeral parlors of George Logan & Sons, Richmond street. Rev. A. A. Bice, a close friend of "Harry," conducted the services, which were attended by many friends, numbering among them many of London's most prominent citizens.

The body is being sent to Ottawa for interment and will leave to-night on the 7 o'clock C. P. R. train, arriving in the capital at 8 o'clock to-morrow. Funeral service and burial will be held in Ottawa to-morrow. The remains will be met at the capital by George Buskard, secretary to Premier Meighen, and members of the press gallery.

In addition to members of the City Council who attended the funeral services there were representatives from a number of organizations of which the deceased had been a member, including the Canadian Club and the Irish Benevolent Society. The Masons were represented by prominent members of the order who acted as honorary pallbearers.

In addition to the pallbearers from the Masonic order the following acted as honorary pallbearers: Mayor Little, Arthur Ford, Harry Muir, Philip Pocock, Edward Carty and Arthur Carty. The honorary pallbearers from the Masons were: J. S. Barnard, T. A. Baker, N. S. Welsh, George Copeland, E. W. M. Flock and Thomas Coleridge.

FIRST FROST OF YEAR ARRIVED LAST NIGHT

Snow Made First Appearance About a Week Ago.

London experienced it first frost last night, when the mercury dropped one degree below freezing. The frost followed close on the heels of more than a week of rains which have acted as a door to keep Jack Frost out of the city and district.

Early morning risers in London to-day could see pictures of empty coalbins and Christmas stockings obligingly painted by the genial frost king on the lawns about the city.

The first frost is evidently an indication of warmer weather for a few days, as the weather probabilities announce a little higher temperature.

The first snow fell about a week ago and yesterday the city had its second taste of the winter cover. On Tuesday the city had a touch also of frozen rain when a hailstorm of some 15 minutes' duration hit the city.

WILL NOT "FIRE" MARRIED WOMEN

Wenige Brings Matter Up In Committee.

ALDERMEN ARE SATISFIED

Question Passed Over Without Discussion.

London will not follow the example set by other cities in assisting to relieve the unemployment situation by placing a ban on married women holding civic positions. This question was brought up at No. 1 committee yesterday afternoon by Ald. Wenige, who asked if there are any married women holding municipal positions in London, but no action was taken.

"With so many heads of families in this city out of work, we should see that married women whose husbands are also working are not on the civic pay roll," said Ald. Wenige. "I have heard several times recently that there are several cases in this hall now. If so, we should do something about it."

"That's good stuff," commented Ald. Cameron Wilson. "Heads of families should not be walking around doing nothing while women and their husbands are holding good situations."

"There is only one such instance in the city hall, and as long as she does her work well she will not be discharged," asserted Mayor Little.

Acting Chairman Ald. Watt and Ald. Harley, the two other members of the committee present, made no comment and the question was dropped without further discussion.

INDORSE RESOLUTION OF LOCAL C. OF C.

Kitchener Board of Trade To Join In Urging Legislation For Protection Of Investors.

The Kitchener Board of Trade has indorsed the resolution passed by the London Chamber of Commerce asking the Provincial Government for legislation for the protection of investors against valueless stock. Several Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce have signified their intention of lending support in the campaign, including Windsor, Guelph, Stratford and Chatham. It is expected that Sarnia will also lend support to the proposal.

The matter is not being pressed by the local Chamber of Commerce, but is being brought to the attention of similar bodies with the purpose of getting united support when it is brought to the attention of the Government.

It is the intention to have it included in the agenda of business to be taken up at the meeting of the United Boards of Trade to be held in Woodstock in November. It is expected that the matter will be in shape to bring it before the Government at the next session.

REV. W. J. ASHTON IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Popular Minister Is Forced to Give Up Pastorate at St. Thomas.

Rev. W. J. Ashton has been obliged to give up his pastorate at Grace Methodist Church, St. Thomas, and is at present seriously ill in Gravenhurst Sanatorium. For four years Mr. Ashton was the minister at Wellington Street Church, this city, and also president of the district meeting, during which time he made a host of friends in London and vicinity.

More than a year ago Mr. Ashton became sick and was confined to his home for several weeks. In the spring, however, he recovered sufficiently to resume his pulpit and to accept the invitation which came to him to go to Grace Church, St. Thomas, his four-year term having been completed.

Mrs. Ashton is also in poor health, but her affliction is not regarded as serious as that of her husband, whose complete recovery is doubtful.

FATHER SULLIVAN IS HONORED BY K. OF C.

Former Londoner Presented With Substantial Purse on Eve of Leaving For Chatham.

At the regular meeting of Sarnia Council, Knights of Columbus, held on Tuesday evening, the members presented Father Sullivan, formerly of London, who is leaving shortly for Chatham, with a substantial purse, as a token of their esteem and well wishes. The presentation was made by J. R. Donahue on behalf of the council and in his presentation address Mr. Donahue expressed regret at the departure of the guest of honor and eulogized his work. Addresses were also made by E. LeBel and Grand Knight C. J. Driscoll. An impromptu musical entertainment was also carried out by I. R. Fleming, Bert Allaire, M. O'Brien, P. Bohannon and others.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO CARRY LONDON FANS

London C. I. Pupils Will Attend Feld Day at St. Thomas.

London Collegiate Institute pupils plan to visit St. Thomas to-day in a body to witness the St. Thomas L. C. I. field day sports. The L. C. I. field day entertainment committee has arranged for a special train, which will leave the L. & P. S. depot at 1.20 p.m., and return at 8.35 p.m. Principal Mooney states that many members of the teaching staff will attend.

LONDON TECH. AND ART TO TEACH TELEGRAPHY

Will Form Part of Commercial School's Curriculum.

Young men and women desiring to enter the highly lucrative fields of commercial or railway telegraphy will be given an opportunity for training in London early in the new year. The London Technical and Art School is now preparing to give telegraphy as a part of its commercial school curriculum.

"We have recognized the need of giving instruction in telegraphy for some time past," Principal Beal stated to-day, "and we are now almost in a position to organize classes. Plans are now under way for additional accommodation which will permit our initiating this work."

The new course in telegraphy will combine with the standard commercial course in typewriting, English and commercial forms. It is expected that an instructor from Toronto will be secured.

P. E. ISLAND CELEBRATION.

SUMMERSIDE, P. E. I., Oct. 13.—The centenary celebration of the Presbytery of Prince Edward Island was held yesterday at Lot 16 and Summerside churches, with 15 representative Presbyterian ministers and elders from different parts of the province present, in addition to hundreds of other people.

MANY KILLED AND INJURED IN SPANISH TRAIN WRECK

BADAJOZ, Spain, Oct. 13.—Many persons have been killed or injured in a wreck of a mail train near Merida. The train was derailed by a washout caused by heavy rains, and a mail car and a passenger coach were telescoped. A relief train has been dispatched to the scene of the disaster.

F. G. JEWELL IS NAMED AUDITOR

Appointed To Investigate City Gas Company's Books.

SEEK REBATE BASIS

Ontario Railway Board Orders Immediate Audit.

The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board, that was yesterday asked by representatives of the City Council to order an audit of the City Gas Company's books, with a view to a possible rebate of 10 cents on every thousand cubic feet used by citizens of London since last May, refused the city's suggestion that an auditor of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission be appointed, on London's behalf, to carry out the inspection of the local gas corporation's books. This action was taken, Ald. F. R. Watkinson, chairman of the finance committee, states, on the direct [illegible] of the City Gas Company representatives.

[illegible] A. Wilson's suggestion the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board then appointed F. G. Jewell, special city auditor, and the audit will proceed at once.

Mr. Jewell, however, has not been officially notified of his appointment and no statement as to whether he would serve or not could be secured today. It is believed, though, that Mr. Jewell will act in behalf of the city.

OPPOSE COMPETITION.

Mr. Watkinson expressed indignation that the Ontario Railway Board should refuse to appoint an auditor from the Hydro-Electric Commission, as suggested by the City Council.

"The gas company complained," he stated, "when the suggestion was made, that the Hydro Commission was in competition with them and hence they wanted someone else appointed. The action of the railway board in acceding to their request is to cast doubt directly on the hydro auditors.

"The point that the Hydro Commission is in competition with the City Gas Company is also absurd. The Hydro Commission is a body peculiarly representing the municipalities of Ontario and the millions of citizens' money invested in their power holdings and developments makes any suggestion of competition appear very far-fetched.

"We were fortunate, however, in having Mr. Jewell appointed, although he will not have the comparative statistics available for reference that a Hydro Commission auditor would."

City News

FIELD DAY SPORTS. — Field day sports for the London Technical and Art School began at 2 p.m. to-day. The students marched out to Queen's Park led by the 7th Regiment band.

DEBENTURES MAY NOT BE ISSUED—City Clerk Baker stated his belief to-day that the city will find it impossible to issue $300,000 of debentures for the new nurses' home at Victoria Hospital.

FUNERAL AT PORT DOVER.—The remains of Alfred L. Blake, who died in Westminster Hospital on Tuesday, were forwarded to Port Dover this morning at 9 o'clock by the G. T. R. for interment in Port Dover Cemetery.

PRESIDENT OF G. T. R. GOES TO CHICAGO.—Howard G. Kelley, president of the Grand Trunk, passed through the city to-day at noon on his way to Chicago to attend a conference of the officials of American lines to be held to-morrow.

HONORED BY ORANGE LODGE—The district Orange Lodge at its meeting in Orange Hall, on Market Square, last night presented Secretary George Keyes with a case of pipes as a mark of the district organization's appreciation.

NO FAIR WAGE CLAUSE—Secretary Tanner, of the board of education, reports that he has carefully searched the board of education minutes for several years past and is unable to find any record of a fair wage clause being compulsory.

CAR DERAILED. — A defective switch near the corner of Wellington and Horton streets last night disrupted the service of the Oxford line for several hours by reason of derailments. The first derailment occurred shortly after 6.30 o'clock and a second car left the tracks about the time that the first derailed car was pulled back in the track.

BRIEF COURT SESSION.—There were a long list of names on the police court blotter this morning, but not a person appeared in court during Deputy Magistrate Bartlett's brief occupation of the bench. All of the cases were summons cases and the majority of those charged with offenses against the Motor Vehicles Act and city by-laws paid their fine before court opened.

HALE STREET MOTHERS' CLUB.—The Hale Street Mothers' Club held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening. Rev. Mr. Hosie was the speaker. He pointed out that the welfare of a community and nation depended on the home and the mothers. Several songs were rendered by Miss Pearl Poad, which were enjoyed by all present.

ROAD CLOSED.—The Proof Line road, the northern extension of Richmond street, is closed between the fourth and sixth concessions of London Township, owing to the construction of culverts. Motorists going north, officials of the Motor Club state, may use Adelaide street in going north as far as the seventh concession, where they may enter the Proof Line road again.

WILL DELAY WORK—Manager E. V. Buchanan stated to-day that the Council's action in refusing to approve of electrical debentures asked by the Public Utilities Commission will mean that the $100,000 hydro surplus will not be available for putting downtown overhead wires underground and the extension of the present street lighting system.

ELECT BOARD MEMBERS—In view of the board of health's refusal to take action against a wholesale butcher who was discovered turning putrescent meat into sausage, Ald. Wenige to-day stated that he intended asking the Council to adopt a resolution calling on the Legislature for permission to elect members of the board of health not appointed by the Public Health Act.

OTTAWA FOOTBALL STAR IS SERIOUSLY INJURED

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—Dismay filled the camp of the Ottawa rugby team last night when the announcement was made that Walter Gilbooley, stut flying wing of last season's Argos, and the man on whom so much depended for the Senators in the championship hunt, would be out of the game on Saturday, if not for the season. Walter sustained an injury to his neck last week and was unable to line up against the Tigers here, but it was expected that he would be around to invade the Bengal lair on Saturday. However, announcement was made by the club physician last night that should Gil take a chance and play in Hamilton and have the misfortune to sustain more injury he would be done for good, so it was decided to banish him for this important struggle in the hope that the injured part may yield to treatment and enable him to take part later on.

DUMPING CHARGE COMES UP AGAIN

Widow Signs Statement To That Effect.

START CIVIC PROBE

Facts Laid Before Finance Committee of Council.

Charges that dependents and pensioners of other municipalities are being dumped on London will be substantiated, Ald. F. R. Watkinson, chairman of the finance committee, believes, at the next session of that board. An investigation will probably be ordered, which will likely bring the need for revised legislation with regard to municipal responsibility for indigents to the attention of the Governmental departments concerned.

Mr. Watkinson learned to-day that a statement, signed by a widow, will come up at the next session of the finance committee, in which it is charged that she was formerly in receipt of a mother's pension from the City of Toronto, where her husband died and where she lived until quite recently.

She left Toronto and came to London, the statement sets forth, because her own mother is living in London, and also on the suggestion of the assistant secretary of the mother's pension board in Toronto. That official informed her, she stated, that if she moved to London her full pension would be paid until such time as she had established London residence and thus became a charge on the local pensions board.

These revelations came out through the fact, it is understood, that the Toronto office failed to keep their part of the agreement and she made a complaint to the London department concerned.

FACTS CAME OUT.

The widow's mother also lives in London and it was because of her desire to live with her mother that she first asked the advice of the Toronto board.

Other cases will be presented to the finance committee of alleged "dumping" and Mr. Watkinson states that he will ask a full investigation of the matter, although it is believed by aldermen that the city can do nothing except protest to the Provincial Legislature.

"The only apparent solution," it was pointed out by the chairman, "is to make each municipality responsible for its pensionable or indigent citizens. At any event, a term of years should be taken as establishing permanent citizenship so far as municipal payments for the upkeep of indigents or the payment of pensions is concerned."

SYNOD NOW GETS DOWN TO ROUTINE BUSINESS

Women's Place In Church Day's Only Live Topic.

HAMILTON, Oct. 13.—The great matter of accepting the Lambeth appeal having been disposed of, the general synod this morning got down to routine business, and the dispatch with which business is being rushed through indicated that the synod will have ended its sessions by the end of this week as planned.

This morning the topic that is likely to evoke most spirited discussion is women's place in the church.

The new canon on beneficiary funds will also be a subject around which much interest will center.

The report of the executive committee of the general synod will be taken up during the day. Rev. R. B. Waterman, of Carp, raised objection to the resolution making a rearrangement of representation at the general synod from the dioceses, declaring that the rural dioceses were not getting a square deal. He cited the Presbyterian general assembly as having a fairer system. However, the resolution carried. Dean Owen, of Hamilton, and Thomas Mortimer, Toronto, were appointed a committee to confer with the upper house church congress. Archdeacon Paterson Smyth, Montreal; Very Rev. Dean Lloyd, Halifax, and Chancellor Davidson were appointed a delegation to the American Church.

LABOR PARTIES UNITE.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—Affiliation of the Dominion Labor party with the Manitoba section of the Canadian Labor party was effected last night. Recommendation was made that nomination of candidates be carried out at a mass meeting of the rank and file of the party.

RELATIVES FAIL TO BREAK WILL

VALUED AT $65,000.

Will Made But 48 Hours Before Principal's Death.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13. — (By Staff Reporter.) — Charles Smith, of Elgin County, who died on January 4, 1920, left an estate valued at some $65,000 to Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith, who were not related to him in any way. The will was made by the deceased some 48 hours before his death and relatives contested the validity of the will.

Justice Masten gave a judgment in favor of the beneficiaries, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Smith, at the sitting of the assize court, here, this morning. The estate comprised some $25,000 in cash and $40,000 in mortgages.

[illegible] and Frank Clark, who are accused of picking pockets on the [illegible] Railway on July 1, last, are before the court this afternoon. A true bill was brought in against the men by the grand jury on Tuesday.

BOYS' WORK BOARD MAPS OUT PROGRAM

Many Activities Planned For Coming Year Among C. S. E. T. Groups.

The fall and winter program of the London C. S. E. T. groups has been prepared and is available to the Tuxis boys and Trail Rangers in pamphlet form. Activities of various sorts are planned for very week from now until the end of next May by the London Boys' Work Board, which represents all the Protestant denominations, the religious educational council and the Y. M. C. A.

October is classed as "getting-up month," and is featured by the organizing of the various church groups and providing leadership for them. Initiation of new candidates is also on the program, as well as Halloween party and mid-week suppers and social gatherings. Other months are November: "Stick to School Month;" December: "Service Month;" January, "Health Month;" February, "Home Month;" March, "Boy and Church Month;" April, "World Service Month;" May: "Close to Nature Month;' June: "Out-of-Doors Month," and July and August: "Camping Months."

An oratorical contest will be planned in the month of November, and a mother-and-son week will be held. Many talks on vocations, the value of university education and hobbies will be given. In December there will be a Chamber of Commerce week and civic government will be studied. In January there will be winter sports inaugurated and instruction given on sex education and first aid. February will be marked especially by one of the popular father-and-son weeks.

ONE CLAIMANT WANTED ALL CASH IN FIRE FUND

Aylmer's Fire Relief Is $31,000 — One Claim Is Thousand More.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—A total of $31,000 was contributed from various sources, including the Ottawa and Hull city councils and Quebec Provincial Government, which accounted for $12,000 towards the fund which was opened for the relief of the sufferers in the disastrous conflagration which destroyed the greater part of the Town of Aylmer, Que., some time ago.

Mayor Nash stated that a large number of fire claims had been filed with the committee, including one of $32,000, or a thousand dollars more than the total amount subscribed to the relief fund.

SOLYARD BRUSH WORKS AT PRESTON BURNED

Loss in Early Morning Fire Estimated Between $25,000 and $30,000.

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 13.—Salyard Brush Works, in the Town of Preston, near here, was badly damaged by fire at an early hour this morning. The firm is one of the few concerns manufacturing hockey sticks. The stock and buildings are badly damaged. The loss, which is partially covered by insurance, is estimated at between $25,000 and $30,000.

RUSSIA TO USE PASSPORTS AS PRODUCERS OF REVENUE

MOSCOW, Oct. 13.—Anticipating a large number of visitors from foreign countries, Russia has discontinued free vises of passports and as a revenue measure the entry passport vise by Soviet representatives abroad will cost 15 gold roubles. The fee for exit for one passing through Russian territory is 150,000 Soviet roubles, except in the case of diplomats, war prisoners or refugees. Russians making their exit or entry into that country must pay a total of 400,000 roubles.

ALDERMEN BACK QUARTER MILLION AID TO UNIVERSITY

Vision of Aedquate Seat of Learning for Western Ontario Nearer as Result of Committee's Action

CONSTRUCTION LIKELY TO BEGIN AT ONCE

If Ratepayers Pass By-Law Western Authorities Will Make a Start in December

Approving the request for a debenture issue of $250,000 made by the governors of Western University, No. 1 committee of London City Council yesterday afternoon took the first steps toward making the vision of a new million-dollar university for Western Ontario an actuality within the next year. The committee recommended to the Council that the necessary by-law be prepared and submitted, with the full support of the Council, to the ratepayers in the December municipal elections.

This will mean that construction work on the new buildings will be commenced within a few weeks. Mayor Little stated that by October, 1922, several of the new buildings should be ready for the students. If the ratepayers pass the by-law, as is generally expected, the university authorities will make a start on the work in December.

THE GOVERNMENT GRANT.

Ex-Mayor C. R. Somerville appeared before the committee to place the claims of the Western for consideration. He pointed out that the Provincial Government had increased the grant for maintenance from $65,000 a year to $200,000, and this in turn will be automatically boosted to $250,000 annually in a short time. The Government had also voted $800,000 towards the erection of the arts and sciences buildings and a library. This was conditional on the university authorities constructing the dormitories, gymnasium, a bridge connecting the grounds with Richmond street and other necessary buildings. This will entail an expense on the board of approximately $500,000.

Mr. Somerville explained that if the city will provide half of this the remainder can be secured. Middlesex County has promised $100,000 towards this fund. The grant of $100,000 made for the erection of the medical school was a good investment, he thought. The present request would prove as good an investment for the city.

HASTE IS ESSENTIAL.

It is absolutely necessary to carry out the building program at once, he asserted. The number of students this year is well over 700 and larger accommodation must be provided. The new buildings will take care of 2,000 students.

There was no discussion on this question. The members of the committee agreed that the request should be sent on through the Council to the ratepayers.

The total outlay to be made within the next year does not represent the final sum which will be expended on university buildings in London. Rather, this is merely a good start and the work will be continued as the number of pupils demand. While the new Western for the present is referred to as the million-dollar university, in the not far distant future it will be more accurate to call it the two-million-dollar one. Those who have taken such an interest in it to bring about the purchase of new grounds and erection of the buildings have a vision that its growth from this period on will be more rapid than even the most optimistic can believe possible.

SITE PURCHASED.

The site of the new university was purchased some years ago. Lying west of the river, immediately north of the city, it will be necessary to construct a bridge connecting the grounds with Richmond street. This will be done with part of the money which the city will grant this year. The remainder of the $250,000 will be used to erect dormitories and other similar buildings. The Government grant of $800,000 will be devoted to the construction of the main classrooms, including the arts and science buildings. The plans are all practically complete..

Commenting on the whole proposition, Mayor Little expressed the opinion that the ratepayers of the city will give an overwhelming majority in favor of the granting of the debenture issue. He points out that London must do something to assist the university in its building program. The provincial grant was made conditionally on the city doing its share in this work. But his worship has absolutely no doubt of the outcome of the vote on December 5, when the by-law authorizing the expenditure of $250,000 for university construction will be placed before the ratepayers.

Potato Crop Better Than First Reported

When the final harvest of potatoes is in we will find that there will be a fairly good supply, but none too many, and it is advisable to put in your supply as soon as possible. It is always a good idea to buy a little ahead of time in every line, more especially in diamonds. Buy now for Christmas perfect blue-white diamonds from John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy." Gifts that last.—Advt.

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION SHOWS AN IMPROVEMENT

OTTAWA, Oct. 12. — The employment situation in Canada registered an improvement. Returns issued by the employment service, department of labor, to-day, show that the two-week period ended September 10, the volume of employment reported by employers showed expansion, the index number standing at 89.6 as compared with 88.7 in the preceding fortnight. Since the beginning of April in fact, employment has shown a slight upward tendency, although in volume it still continues on the midwinter level.

More People Wearing Glasses

The reason of this is that people are taking more care of their eyes now, the amount of headaches is very considerably decreased and many more serious eye troubles are averted. Mr. F. Steele, of 210 Dundas street, is devoting the whole of his time to sight-testing and spectacle-fitting. His examining room has all the latest equipment for exact eye examination, and his workshop is fitted with the latest machinery for turning out lenses and spectacles quickly and accurately.—Advt.

HINDUS WHOLE LIFE IS MARKEDLY RELIGIOUS

Baptist Missionary Tells of Work Done By Church in India.

The Women's Missionary Circle, of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, held their annual thanksgiving meeting last night in the church hall, read the reports for the year and discussed other general business matters.

Miss Anna Cockrill, soprano soloist of the church, delighted the audience with several well-rendered selections.

Rev. M. L. Orchard, of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board, was the speaker of the evening. He has just returned from India and relates a very interesting story of India and her people.

He stated that India was about half the size of Canada, with a population of approximately 40,000,000 people, and with accommodation for another 100,000,000. To-day, the country is the largest producer and exporter of rice and comes next to the United States in the supply of wheat and cotton. It also has the complete monopoly of the jute trade.

In religious circles, he stated, they have no equals anywhere. The whole life of a Hindu, from the time he is born until after his death, is taken up with religion.

The Baptist missions take in only a small portion of the territory of India, merely a strip of land 400 miles long by 60 miles wide, but, he added, this area was entirely taken up by Indians of the Baptist faith. The people here number about 5,000,000. In other parts of the country it is the same way with other denominations, the whole area, wherever there are missionaries, are inclined to follow that particular religion. The Baptists have 76 churches, with 14,000 church members. One high school alone accommodates 1,000 boys, and more students are available if they had the room.

They also have seven hospitals, eight dispensaries and two leper asylums, which were filled to capacity last year.

The number of baptisms has increased in the last three years from 800 a year to 2,000 and is rapidly going ahead.

The people are eager to hear the Gospel preached to them and each year there are more and more followers of Christ.

This is true with all other denominations in India in spite of the critical situation on hand.

Ghandi, an Indian leader, wanted the people who were serving the British Government in any capacity whatever to withdraw from office and serve instead with the native Government. They also wanted all pupils going to schools which were governed by British teachers to stop, and for members who were working for concerns which were capitalized by British money to work for themselves.

"For the Hindus to become Christians," he stated, "they must break the caste under which they are born. For instance, if a Hindu is born as a street cleaner he must follow out that particular occupation all his life, or if a beggar he must likewise become a beggar, and the same applies to all his children. There are at least five and one-half million beggars in the country. The same applies to criminals and that is the reason the Government is having so much trouble with the natives. If they break through that caste, which surrounds them from birth, they are breaking their religion and according to their belief they will go to hell when they die."

The meeting was followed by a social evening. The chairman of the meeting was Mrs. B. E. McDermid, president of the Women's Missionary Circle.

LOCAL SIGNAL CORPS PREPARING FOR EXAMS

Unit Lectured on New Procedure of Signaling at Meeting Last Night.

With but two weeks remaining before the annual classification tests, conducted by the department of militia, No. 1 Company, Canadian Corps of Signals, is speeding up training.

Quartermaster-Sergeant J. Steele, the permanent force N.C.O. allotted to M. D. No. 1 for instruction purposes, has returned from a course in signaling held at Ottawa, and at the regular weekly parade last night lectured the local unit on army signal forms and the new procedure in signaling.

Signal courses of six weeks' duration are being arranged for the various sections of the company, at which Q. M. S. Steele will instruct. It is expected that a course for the St. Thomas section will be authorized by headquarters to commence next month. The course for the local section is being planned for January.

DEGREE TEAM ELECTS

Annual Meeting of I.O.O.F. Staff Held Last Night and Successful Year Reported.

The London second degree staff, I. O. O. F., held their annual business meeting last night and elected officers for the ensuing year. The captain, H. Clements, gave a brief report of the season's work, which evidenced one of the most successful years in the history of the organization in London.

The following officers were named: Honorary president, W. G. R. Bartram, grand warden of Ontario; president, W. A. McRoberts, D. D. G. M.; vice-president, J. Coutts, P. G.; secretary, H. S. Crowe; treasurer, E. Fishleigh; Captain, H. Clements; committee on management, Bros. M. Hessenour, E. Joyce, D. Black, W. Cosely, J. Carter; property committee, N. Patterson, W. Garfatt, G. Dando.

A large representation of members of the various city lodges were present, and indications point to a successful season for this degree team, with several visits to outside points.

CHANCELLOR FREES POPLAR COUNCILORS

Explanation of Refusal to Pay Tax Leads to Release.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Viscount Birkenhead, lord chancellor, to-day ordered the release from Brixton prison of the councillors of the Borough of Poplar, whose recent arrest grew out of a refusal to comply with custom tax provisions of the London County Council.

The councillors were released after they had signified a desire to get together to endeavor to solve Poplar's financial difficulties. They disclaimed any desire to treat the high court disrespectfully by their refusal to comply with its order to raise the tax rates in accordance with the London City Council's ruling.

SCHOONER IS WRECKED.

SOUTHWEST HARBOR, Maine, Oct. 12.—The two-masted schooner Seth Heyman, of Machias, was wrecked today on Baker's Island in a fog, while bound light from Machias to Blue Hill. Captain Matthews and his crew of two men reached shore safely.

TROTZKY, THE BUTCHER, CHANGES HIS NAME

No Relation to Russian Namesake, But Had to Suffer Anyway.

PASSAIC, N.J., Oct. 12.—The name of Trotzky is a handicap no United States citizen should be compelled to labor under, County Judge Watson said today. He permitted Benjamin Trotzky to change his name to Benjamin Travers.

"I have been fighting against the name of Trotzky ever since that fool in Europe started things," the applicant—a butcher—told Judge Watson. "Customers come to my place of business, look at my window and then pass on because of the name. I have been referred to as a relative of that man, and I'm sick and tired of it and want it changed.'"

PETROLEA GRADUATION. — Dr. H. W. Hill will address the graduating class of nurses at the Charlotte Eleanor Englehart Hospital, Petrolea, next Wednesday evening.

UTILITIES' PLEA COOLLY RECEIVED

Request for $250,000 Referred Back to Commission

WHAT ABOUT $100,000?

No. 1 Committee Discusses Appeals for Debentures

The request of the Public Utilities Commission for a debenture issue of $250,000 for waterworks and electrical extensions was referred back to that body by No. 1 committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon and the commission was asked to state what it proposes to do with the $100,000 which stands to its credit in Toronto.

The debenture issue of $300,000 for the erection of the proposed new nurses' home was approved and that for $150,000 for the construction of a dam at Springbank was laid over for further consideration. City Clerk Baker explained that the next meeting will be time enough to decide on these even if they are to be placed in the City of London bill.

PLEA FOR NURSES

Chairman Gartshore, of the Hospital Trust, appeared on behalf of the nurses' home. He pointed out the need for such a building. It is essential that accommodation be provided for 200 nurses in the immediate future. In addition to this the present nurses' home is needed for extra rooms for the hospital patients.

The Chamber of Commerce, in a communication, urged that the necessary money for the construction of the Springbank dam be provided. It was pointed out that the Public Utilities Commission has agreed to take care of the interest and sinking fund for the $150,000 debenture issue out of the parks rate.

Ald. Watt, acting chairman, asserted that he had been a consistent advocate of the dam, but he had been as consistently opposed by the Utilities Commission.

Ald. Harley pointed out that it would not be necessary to vote on this question. The debentures could be authorized through the City of London bill.

"Yes, those fellows in Toronto will approve anything," submitted Ald. Watt. "This town is becoming nearly bankrupt. It is time to call a halt on something. I am decidedly in favor of erecting the dam, but I want it to be something more than a pond to puddle in without any power development.

THE WATER SUPPLY

"That Utilities Commission is also putting down a lot of holes and tapping every sinkhole and cesspool in the city to get drinking water," continued the acting chairman. "The city seems to be on a money-spending rage that is hard to check."

Ald. Wenige agreed with Ald. Watt in many of his contentions.

An invitation from the children's hospital committee to attend the unveiling of the corner stone by Lieutenant-Governor Cockshutt on November 4 was accepted. It was also decided that Chairman Watkinson should look after the details of the entertainment of the lieutenant-governor and party while in the city.

Secretary Gordon Philip, of the Chamber of Commerce, will co-operate in any arrangements to be made.

The use of the city hall for the federal nominations on November 22 was granted.

NOMINATIONS

City Clerk Baker was authorized to arrange for the municipal nominations, to be held on November 21, in the usual order. Nominations for the Hospital Trust and mayoralty contest will be held at 10 o'clock a.m., for Board of Education at 12, in the city hall, and for aldermen at 7.30 in the evening in the four wards. Arrangements for taking the railway men's vote on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday preceding the regular polling day will be made.

The committee authorized the placing of two street lights on Dundas street east, where the county and city are on either side of the street. G. A. Burdick asked for this and pointed out that $250 had been expended by himself and others to have the lines extended that the street lights might be placed there.

Harry Banahan, president of the Retail Grocers' Association, and H. Pierce asked that information be given their association regarding the control of huckstering on the market. Market Clerk Maker pointed out that the present by-law prevents any purchases being made on the market for the purposes of resale there, but there is nothing to prevent any person purchasing from the producers outside of the market square and then selling this in competition with the farmers and others who attend the market.

They were assured that this information will be sent them. The committee also appointed Chairman Watkinson with City Clerk Baker and Market Clerk Maker to devise some plan of preventing huckstering on the market in any form.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR KIWANIAN DANCE

Special Program Prepared for Big Affair at the Winter Garden To-Night

Everything is in readiness for the Kiwanis Club dance at the Winter Garden to-night, which will undoubtedly be one of the biggest feature dances of the season. A special program has been provided by the committee in charge, which forecasts a jolly time.

Col. Rev. W. M. Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., pastor of First Presbyterian Church, will be the speaker at the Kiwanian Club luncheon in the Tecumseh House at noon to-morrow. Mr. Beattie was formerly head of the chaplain's service overseas and is a speaker of outstanding ability.

THE LATE CHAS. PRIDDIS.

The interment of the late Charles Priddis, formerly of this city, whose death occurred recently in Calgary, took place on Monday in the Priddis family vault at Woodland, following the arrival of the G. T. R. train from the West. Services for the late Mr. Priddis were held at his home in Calgary, and Mr. James Priddis, of this city, brother of the deceased, and Mr. Roy Cairncross, accompanied the remains to Woodland Cemetery.

KING GIVES SAME REPLY ON TARIFF

Sticks to 1919 Platform, "But Is Willing to Be Guided"

DISCLAIMS THE ISSUE

Not Between Protection and Free Trade, He Declares

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I., Oct. 12.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—"I deny absolutely that the issue is between protection and free trade, as Mr. Meighen claims," said Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, in an address here this evening. Continuing, he said:

"We stand for a tariff, but one that will protect the interests of producers and consumers in Canada and not a few privileged interests."

The Liberal leader dealt with the demand of the premier that he (Mr. King) state where he stood on the Liberal platform.

"I'll give the answer I gave to the 1919 Liberal convention," Mr. King asserted. "I said then, as the leader of the party I expected to have the counsel of the outstanding men of the party, and be guided by their counsel and advice, but that I considered this platform a chart to guide me aright, and with the collective guidance of the best possible minds in the Liberal party as a compass, would seek to guide thic country aright. I did not intend to dictate or decide alone. I was not bull-headed. I am not trying to escape any responsibility, but I am going to accept it like a wise man, and not like a fool. The platform was laid down as a guiding chart. It stood primarily for two things: the tariff revision to reduce the cost of production, and to reduce the costs of necessaries of life.

"In the spirit of the law it must be accepted," Mr. King asserted. "'The letter killeth but the spirit giveth life'. The people are not the kind of fools Mr. Meighen appears to think they are," said Mr. King. "He talks of truth; I am willing to let the people judge as to who is telling the truth in this campaign."

REGRETS DISUNION.

The Government, Mr. King said, was going into this fight with powerful weapons. It controlled the election machinery and had drafted the Election Act. It controlled patronage on a vast scale and had behind it strong and wealthy interests against this party, said Mr. King. There were the Liberals and also the Farmers, Labor men, Great War Veterans and the women. But while the Government forces had unity on their side the others were not pulling together, though all were seeking practically the same objects. The women and soldiers supported the candidates who sought the same things as themselves. Labor men and farmers in some quarters were running their own group candidates.

A. R. McMaster, of Brome, Que., compared the Meighen Government with an accused forger, whose string af aliases condemned him almost before he was tried. The present name of the Meighen party was just a camouflage, Mr. McMaster asserted.

Dealing with Mr. Meighen's claim of a lower average tariff, Mr. McMaster said this was but a matter of juggling figures. The Government had placed a duty on goods previously free, and thus brought the whole average duty down.

"A duty of five per cent. on 20 article previously free," said Mr. McMaster, "would reduce the average if taken with other articles of 20 or 30 per cent."

This was Mr. King's final meeting in Prince Edward Island.

SAYS PACIFIC'S SAFETY SUREST PEACE FACTOR

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Oct. 13. — Amicable arrangements for the safeguarding of the peace in the Pacific at the conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions to be held in Washington will be the "surest factor in the peace of the world," declared Premier W. F. Massey yesterday. He added that New Zealand was fortunate in being able to send Sir John W. Salmon, a recognized authority on constitutional law, as her representative at the conference.

FAVOR PUBLICITY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The United States delegates to the armament conference at their initial meeting to-day were understood to have discussed the feasibility of admitting the press to all full sessions of the conference and to have assumed a favorable attitude toward the proposition.

ONE GOOD TURN DESERVES ANOTHER, SAYS THIS WHEEL

BRANTFORD, Oct. 12.—A wheel off the automobile stolen from Wm. Chiswell, of Hamilton, a couple of days ago, displayed almost human intelligence in trying to apprise a farmer on the Brantford-Hamilton highway of the fact that it belonged to a stolen and wrecked car.

The thieves were in such a hurry in making their getaway that they crashed into a stone wall in making a turn en route to this city. The axel of one front wheel snapped off and the wheel rolled across the lawn in front of a house, up on the veranda and knocked at the farmer's front door.

The farmer came in answer to the knock and he arrived in time to see shadowy forms beside the auto. They disappeared on his appearance and the police were notified. Mr. Chiswell had his automobile returned to him.

SHIELDS TO OPEN COUNTER-ATTACK

Will Tell the Inside Story of Jarvis Street Church Row

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Rev. Dr. Thomas Shields, pastor of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, goaded into reprisal by the action of former deacons of the church in carrying the faction fight to the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec, which opens in St. Thomas on Friday, announced to-night that he was preparing to launch a counter-attack of a genuinely sensational character. On address, the title of which will be the "Inside of the Cup," and Dr. Shields said to-night that he was in a position to make even more striking disclosures as to the inner affairs at Jarvis Street than Winston Churchill did in his well-known book of that name. The phrase is taken from Matthew 23rd, 25th and 26th verses, which reads as follows:

"Woe unto yet, scribes and pharisees, hypocrites! for ye make clean the outside of the cup and the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess. Though blind, pharisee, cleanse first that which is within the cup and the plotter, that the outside of them may be clean also."

Dr. Shields' statement in part follows: "In view of the letter appearing in an evening paper signed by 10 ex-deacons of Jarvis Street Church, who were relieved of office by vote of the church on September 21, and which is reported to have been mailed to the ministers of denominations outside the city, I announced that I would deliver an address on the 'Inside of the Cup,' in which I would at last lift the veil and publish to all the world the inside story in detail of recent events in Jarvis Street Church.

"In the interests of truth it is absolutely necessary that the facts should now be known, especially as my opponents have appealed to the ministers of the convention."

TO EMPLOY AIRPLANES IN NORTH POLE HUNT

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 12. — Capt. Ronald Amundsen, discoverer of the South Pole and conqueror of the Northeast Passage, will use airplanes in an effort to reach the North Pole, if present plans for drifting past the top of the world prove impracticable, H. H. Hammer, his representative here, announced yesterday. Capt. Amundsen has already obtained the services of two Norwegian aviators.

The explorer's original plans for the expedition, which is operating under the auspices of the Norwegian Government, called for a five years' drift with the Arctic ice pack. His ship, the Maud, left Norway more than two years ago, but last year lost a propeller in the ice off the Northeastern Siberian coast and was brought to Seattle for repairs.

Mr. Hammer said the decision to use the planes did not alter Capt. Amundsen's plans for drifting with the polar ice pack.

ARE DISAPPOINTED.

ST. MARYS, Oct. 12.—There was much disappointment in town this morning when it was learned that the Rev. Duncan Foster, of Simcoe, had declined the invitation to become pastor of the Widder Street Presbyterian Church, St. Marys.

N.L.C. CLUB FOR ST. MARYS LADIES

Miss Minnie Graham Is Elected President

DR. M. STEELE THE SPEAKER

Deals With Legislation Affecting the Women

ST. MARYS, Oct. 12.—A Women's National Liberal and Conservative Club was organized in town last night, following an able address in the town hall by Dr. M. Steele, the N. L. C. candidate for South Perth. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Brandon.

Dr. Steele dealt largely with legislation more directly affecting the women of the land. He went very thoroughly into the question of immigration, showing that the country had but two methods of increasing its population, its native born and the introduction of foreigners. He pointed out the alarming death rate among children under one year and drew the attention of his audience to the fact that the present Government was the first Canadian Government to take steps toward saving its home born. He also dealt with the tariff and a number of other questions.

At the close of the meeting a women's club was organized with the following officers: President, Miss Minnie Graham; first vice-president, Mrs. (Dr.) Sparks; second vice-president, Mrs. Brewer; secretary, Miss Stafford; treasurer, Miss Lawrie.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas.

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and six per cent. common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. P. Johnson, 246 Craig street west, Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.—Advt. *11

U. S.-CANADA BRIDGE DIRECTORATE FORMED

Transit Company Organized to Build International Structure.

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Organization of the Transit Company for construction of the United States-Canada bridge from Detroit to Windsor was started with election of officers in a meeting held this afternoon in the Board of Commerce.

The formal organization will re represented by two separate directorates with identical membership, Canadian and United States citizens. The American officers elected to-day are: Wm. B. Gregory, president; Hiram H. Walker, vice-president; C. F. Fowler, vice-president and secretary; J. W. Austin, treasurer. Canadian officers are: W. J. Pulling, president; C. S. King, vice-president; C. F. Fowler, secretary and treasurer. Other directors are: A. A. Templeton, J. O. Murfin, C. F. VanDusen, A. F. Healy and J. O. Reaume.

The officers are authorized to apply for authority to sell securities and contract with a security sales company for their sale.

TOWING FREIGHTER IN.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—Adrift in the North Atlantic with her rudder stock broken, the Montreal freighter Otta is now being towed by the Canadian Government merchant marine freighter Canadian Trooper, and a wireless message received to-day indicated that their positions were about four hundred miles east of Belle Isle. Unfavorable weather is being met with and the Government ship is towing the Otta to St. Johns, Newfoundland. It will take a week to make the port and the salvage bill will be heavy.

HOLDS DECISION IN WILL CASE

Attempt Made to Break Will of Charles Smith

$50,000 SUM INVOLVED

Pickpocket Case at St. Thomas Proceeds To-Day

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 12.—(By Staff Reporter).—Judgment was reserved by Justice Masten in the will case of the late Charles Smith, of Southwold. The amount involved in the will was $50,000, and it mas alleged by the plaintiffs that the late Charles Smith, who died last January, had made the will only a few days before his death and that he was not capable of making a will at the time, and that the will was not drawn in accordance with the Ontario Wills Act. Four local legal firms were involved in the case, and J. S. Robertson, local lawyer who made the will, was one of the defendants. Other members of the deceased's family who were not included in the will were the instigators of the action.

The criminal case of Rex vs. James Conway and Frank Clarke, who are charged with pocket-picking at Port Stanley and St. Thomas on July 1, was opened this afternoon before a jury. Crown Attorney McCrimmon is prosecuting and C. St. Clair Leitch is defending the prisoners. Both men appeared in court this afternoon and will be tried together.

The case will continue in the morning. The greater part of this afternoon was taken up with selecting a jury.

RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT.

A committee from the local G. W. V. A. will meet the City Council shortly to discuss with them the question of carrying out some of the local improvement work during the winter so as to relieve unemployment as much as possible. A meeting was held last night at which a committee, with W. G. Whitworth as chairman, was named to meet the Council.

Another scheme is under way here to relieve suffering families who are affected by the unemployment situation. It is proposed to ask for a voluntary contribution of $1 per week from those who are able to afford such a donation, the money to be handed to the city treasurer and placed with a fund provided by the city. Needy families would be aided from this fund during the winter months.

Ald. W. Stokes and Commissioner W. I. Sanderson have already donated toward the fund and will assist in every way possible to get the scheme under way, it is stated.

Edward Gall, formerly of St. George street, city, died in Toronto this week after a brief illness. While in the city Mr. Gall was well known and very highly respected.

DISCUSS ASSESSMENT.

Stanley S. Mills, of Toronto, of the M.C.R. legal firm, spent a good part of this afternoon with the finance committee of the City Council discussing the Michigan Central's assessment. A definite announcement as to the result of the conference will be made in the course of a few days.

A couple of local youths loaned their bicycles to some boy friends the other night. The boys and the bicycles disappeared and the police are now asked to make a search for the missing machines.

Summonses were issued by County Magistrate Hunt to-day for several Aylmer residents, who are charged with violating the O.T.A. It is alleged they received a large consignment of liquor recently and that the wet goods have since mysteriously disappeared.

The owners claim that the liquor was stolen.

WARNING ISSUED.

Chief Armstrong, of the local force, is issuing warnings to drivers of commercial motor trucks. He states that, while it is not generally known, it is necessary for every commercial car to carry a mirror, in order to see traffic approaching from the rear and avoid accidents.

A local motorist left his car a little too far from the curb the other day and he was summoned. In court to-day he declared that there was a bicycle in the way and he could not get any nearer to the walk. He was fined $5.

J. A. Taylor has been elected head of the newly-organized Canadian Club. Other officers elected were: A. W. Baines, F. E. Bennett, vice-presidents, and C. C. Trull, secretary. An organization meeting will be held at the city hall on Tuesday at 4.30 p. m.

CAMPAIGN EXECUTIVE.

Frank Harding, of the Harding Company has been chosen chairman of the general campaign in connection with the reorganization of the local Board of Trade and its transformation into a Chamber of Commerce. A representative executive of local business men, which includes the following was chosen at a meeting to-day to conduct the ca mpaign. Rev. J. W. J. Andrew, rector of Trinity Church; rector Trinity Church; C. S. Butler, wholesale and commission merchant; L. H. Dingham, president of St. Thomas Times-Journal; C. V. Gibson, head of the Canadian business of Armand and president of the Kiwanis Club; C. Stanley Gilbert, Canada Iron Foundries; J. H. Gould, merchant; R. W. Kidner, Monarch Knitting Company; Frank A. Lemon, druggist; Charles Montgomery, master mechanic of the Pere Marquette; W. H. Moody, St. Thomas Packing Company; A. E. Ponsford, contractor; Charles E. Raven, merchant; James T. Stewart, St. Thomas Metal Signs; W. F. Thomas, Canada Wood Products Company, and E. A. Horton and George Geddes, president and vice-president respectively, of the presnt Board of Trad, ex-officio. Mr. Gould was chosen secretary of the committee.

BUCHANAN AS LABOR MAN.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Oct. 12.—W. A. Buchanan, who has been federal member for the Lethbridge constituency for the past 10 years, to-day announced himself as an independent labor candidate in the coming general election. In a statement to the electors Mr. Buchanan states that his announced intention to retire at the end of his term in Parliament has been reconsidered at the request of many who are anxious to retain his services at Ottawa during the next few years, when many matters relating to the development of irrigation in Southern Alberta will be to the fore, arising out of the recent decision of the international joint commission on the St. Mary and Milk River waterways.

Hon. J. A. MacLean, former minister of public works in the Provincial Government, has also announced that he would not be a candidate for any party in any constituency in the coming elections.

JUST WANTED TO BE SURE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—At a meeting of the executive of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to-day telephone rates were discussed and the executive reiterated their position that they were not opposed to an increase in telephone rates as asked by the Bell Telephone Company, but first wished to have assurance that the increases were justified and necessary for the proper carrying on of the telephone service.

Do You Look Forward To a Good Night's Rest?

Do you regularly anticipate a refreshing sleep? Or do you dread going to bed, only to stare, sleepless, at the walls? The difference between sleeping and staring is simply a matter of nerves.

When your nervous system is in a sound condition, you are certain to sleep well. But when your nerves are worn out and beyond your control, your rest is broken and your awakening leaves you languid and irritable.

Doctors know that much of the nerve disorders result from tea and coffee drinking. The drugs in these drinks over-stimulate, often causing the serious ills which result from disturbing the regular bodily functions. It is for your health's sake that many doctors now say you should quit tea and coffee. Drink Postum, the delicious meal-time beverage instead! In flavor it is rich and satisfying.

Postum is fundamentally a nerve strengthener because it lets you get sound, restful sleep. Postum is a skilfully-made cereal beverage, and the secret of its popularity is its protection to health and its delicious flavor.

Ask your grocer for Postum. Drink this hot, refreshing beverage in place of tea or coffee for 10 days and see what a wonderful difference it will make in the way you feel.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

TROUBLE SURE, SAYS GERMANY

Silesian Settlement Considered Flagrant Injustice by Berlin Cabinet

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—An official communication issued this evening says:

"At to-day's sitting of the Cabinet the chancellor voiced the general indignation of the country at the reports, which are not denied, that the council of the League of Nations has decided the fate of Silesia on lines which do not correspond either with the results of the plebiscite or the economic needs of the country.

"The chancellor said that if the reports were correct German towns, with all the fruits of German labor and German intelligence, would be separated from the empire and placed under foreign domination. Such separation would be considered as flagrant injustice, not only by a majority of the population of Upper Silesia, but also by the whole German nation. It was not a pacific development and trouble would inevitably result from it. It would cause a deep wound in Germany's economic body.

"The chancellor added that if the decision was really such as reported a new situation would be created which would prejudice conditions under which the present Government has assumed conduct of the affairs of the empire.

"The Cabinet can only come to a final decision when it is officially notified of the verdict of the supreme council. The chancellor's declaration is made in the name of the whole Cabinet."

TRIAL OF BULGARIANS OPENS IN THEATER

War Criminals in Many Cases Face the Death Penalty.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 12.—The trial of Bulgarians, accused of war crimes, opened to-day in a theater here which had been specially fitted up for the occasion. The courtroom was crowedd to capacity. The accused men include ten former Cabinet ministers and three generals. They are charged with high treason in favor of Germany and misappropriation of public funds. The public prosecutor is demanding the death penalty for most of the defendants.

Statesmen and diplomats, to the number of 190, have been subpoenaed as witnesses. The judges, who were elected by the people, are simple peasants. They sit on the bench dressed in their picturesque national costumes.

OLD-TIME DINNER TO MARK THANKSGIVING

PORT STANLEY, Oct. 12.—At a meeting last night of the Christ Church Ladies' Guild it was decided to hold an old-time Thanksgiving dinner and concert in the town hall on Thanksgiving Day.

Many will be glad to learn of the revival of these old-time annual gatherings, and this one promises to be one of exceptional interest. Several talented artists have already promised to assist.

It was also decided to hold a church bazaar and tea sale on Wednesday, December 7.

Poppy Day, the day when Canada will commemorate the winning of the war, will be very much marked in Port Stanley.

The local G. W. V. A. has ordered a supply of silk replicas of the poppy, also poppy wreaths, made by the women and children of the war area of France, which will be offered for sale by the I. O. D. E.

THIEVES TAKE LIKING TO PORT DOVER HOME

PORT DOVER, Oct. 12. — The residence of J. H. Young was entered on the night of October 1 and the marauders managed to secure a considerable sum of money in addition to the small portable articles which they fancied and carried off. The same gentry, or others bound on a similar errand, tried the same game the following night, but decamped owing to hearing a slight noise. This residence was again visited on the night of October 6, but nothing of value was secured by the visitors, who did not succeed in gaining admission before their presence was detected. The modus operandi employed in the several cases which have occured in the village lately all bear a striking similarity, and it would seem as if the various cases of housebreaking are all the work of the same parties.

While workmen were busy digging a drain from the cellar of the older portion of the Dominion Hotel on Tuesday of this week they came upon a wooden box drain running down Main street, which was in an excellent state of preservation. Where the drain commences is but a matter of conjucture, but the likelihood is that the discharge end is in the vicinity of the marshes some three blocks down the street.

At an early hour on Monday the large barn and the smaller horse barn belonging to D. Ward, who resides about five miles east of the village were totally destroyed by fire. Fortunately Mr. Ward had his grain all marketed or his loss would have been considerably heavier than it is. The origin of the fire is unknown.

WIDE RANGE IN POTATO PRICES

Crop Is Now Finding Its Way to Ontario Market

BRING $1 TO $2 PER BAG

Live Stock in Good Condition, But Prices Low

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—The following is a summary of reports made by the agricultural representatives to the Ontario department of agriculture:

Recent rains are welcomed in crop reports from all sections of the province. They will enable fall plowing, which had in some sections been held up, to be completed, and will give new life to the fall pastures and new growth to fall wheat. In some sections, such as the Niagara peninsula, the rains of the latter part of the week have been welcome because they broke a drought which has been continuous for several months. Eastern Ontario counties likewise report heaviest rains since the spring.

On the whole farm work is well advanced for the season, and it is noted that farmers have now time to give attention to the improvement of their premises. From such widely separated counties as Huron in the west and Lennox and Addington in the east, come reports of increased attention to the matter of drainage. Farmers are securing a supply of tile, and are also devoting attention to repairing fences and work of this character.

LIVE STOCK.

Live stock is reported in very good condition, but markets are still quiet. "Any amount of fair stock (cattle) can be picked up at four cents to five cents a pound, and although prices are low, few are stocking for winter feeding" is the report from Brant, which also expresses conditions in many other sections. In some cases farmers are buying for wintering and speculation, but they have difficulty in determining what price they can offer to get out even in the spring.

A good deal of fowl has been shipped through local egg circles in Eastern Ontario and sold on a graded basis with good satisfaction to the members.

Fall wheat acreages are reported to be somewhat in excess of last year, but the Hessian fly has put in an appearance in Western Ontario, and one or two fields of wheat have had to be plowed up.

In the dairy districts the milk flow is being well maintained, but there has been a drop in the price of cheese. Recent prices have been only 14½c to 14¾c per pound, a drop of approximately two cents in a week.

Turnips and mangels are now being gathered, and there are many reports to the effect that turnips are badly infested with aphids, but mangels will be a fair crop.

POTATO PRICES.

The potato crop is now finding its way to the market, and a wide range of prices is reported. In Dufferin and Simcoe counties prices of $1 to $1.10 per bag are noted, while in Lennox and Frontenac, in Eastern Ontario, they are being marketed at $2 to $2.50 per bag.

From New Ontario come reports of increased interest in silage on the part of farmers. In Manitoulin a number of new silos are being built as the corn crop has been exceptionally good, and farmers with silos have plenty of feed for their stock. In Temiskaming considerably more silage than usual has been stored, and it is predicted that next year will show much activity in the erection of silos and the production of silage crops. In Kenora two new silos have gone up this year, and have been filled during the past week with sunflowers. This crop is cut in the field with an ordinary corn binder and put in the silo the same as corn. Even in a dry year such as the past season the average yield of sunflowers will be about 25 tons to the acre.

CHURCHILL SAYS IT'S TIME TO TAKE FORWARD STEP IN IMPERIAL DEVELOPMENT

Secretary for the Colonies Declares Trade Within Empire Is Always Possible When Other Nations Hold Back

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable).—"Great Britain must trade with the whole world, but if foreign nations cannot, or do not choose to trade with us, on a sufficient scale, it is time to make a long march forward on the path of imperial development."

This assertion was made this afternoon by Winston Spencer Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies, in an address at the Mansion House, where a meeting was held in furtherance of the project of a British Empire Exhibition in 1923.

The Prince of Wales also spoke at the meeting, and urged that in order to provide employment for the needy, work on the exhibition be begun immediately.

Mr. Churchill declared that the fact that Great Britain had to purchase four-fifths of her food and similar proportions of raw materials abroad showed the vital necessity of extending the empire's trade.

"If things go as they are now," declared Mr. Churchill, "it will become increasingly difficult for us to purchase what is needed from the United States or elsewhere."

Great Britain, Mr. Churchill continued, has never been bankrupt. "She will always find," he said, "a pathway open for the safety and glory of the British race. There is at this moment open to us, not only in the East, but in the West, and in all quarters of the globe, a splendid prospect in unlimited potentialities for a world-wide empire."

He said he was not advocating trade within the empire to the exclusion of trade outside, as that would be impossible. In conclusion, he said he believed the trade depression had passed its worst point.

REMANDED FOR TRIAL ON ATTEMPTED THEFT

Windsor Policeman, Who Shot Alexander Depres, is Exonerated By Coroner's Jury.

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—Alexander Depres, 1634 Howard avenue, was shot and killed by Patrolman J. F. Bower, of Windsor police force, a coroner's jury decided after a session that lasted until nearly midnight last night. The patrolman was exonerated by the jury.

William Gerard, who came to Hotel Dieu with a bullet wound in his leg at the same time Depres was brought in, has recovered sufficiently to leave the hospital, and was arraigned before Magistrate Gundy to-day on a charge of attempting to break and enter the drug store of W. O. Austin, 509 Wyandotte street east. He was remanded seven days for trial. He is a cousin of Depres.

Patrolman Bower found the men attempting to enter the rear door of the drug store Sunday night. They started to attack him and he drew his gun and fired. The mens' appearances tallied with the description of the pair who came to the hospital badly wounded.

On the report made immediately after the shooting Bower said he fired two shots. Chief Thompson later said that Bower had emptied his pistol. Depres had two bullet wounds in his body and Gerard one in his leg.

GOLDEN JUBILEE OF AILSA CRAIG CHURCH

AILSA CRAIG, Oct. 12.—Splendid services marked the celebration of the golden jubilee of the Baptist church here on Sunday. The church was beautifully decorated in autumn colors. Musical selections were provided by a male quartet and Mr. Webster, soloist, of London.

Rev. W. F. Spidell, a much-loved and former pastor, filled the pulpit and preached two splendid and inspiring sermons. On Monday evening a thanksgiving service was held, in which a history of the founding of the church was given by Rev. Mr. MacCormack, present pastor, after which a choice program of addresses and solos, intermingled with messages of greetings from former pastors of the church, was given. Many of the former members of the church were present from Hamilton, Toronto and London. On Thursday the jubilee closes with an entertainment and supper, given by the ladies of the church.

A large shipment of cattle has left here for Liverpool, 116 head all together. These were shipped by McAlpine & Sons, Wm. Ross and Alex. McDonald. S. G. McKay has taken a trip to the old country in charge of this shipment.

STRATFORD DISTRICT TEACHERS MEET TO-DAY

STRATFORD, Oct. 12.—The next two days will be interesting ones for the teachers of the city and county. The annual meeting of the institute is to be held at the Collegiate. The sessions open on Thursday morning, when Mayor Gregory is slated to welcome the teachers, and the president, W. L. Sprung, to give his address.

One of the features of the afternoon program on Thursday is a paper by Miss E. M. Saunders, one of the local British exchange teachers, on the educational problems of the old country. The evening session will take the form of educational motion pictures.

Friday morning's program includes an address on "School Fair Work," by M. C. McPhail, a demonstration of singing games for little tots by Miss E. M. Cottle, an address by Prof. J. Dearness, M. A., and a series of grade meetings.

The closing session will include the election of officers and addresses by the county inspectors.

HOPE TO STRIKE OIL IN HARWICH

Well Being Sunk on John Collins' Farm

MUCH GROUND IS LEASED

Former Chatham Man Reported Drowned in West

CHATHAM, Oct. 12.—As a result of oil investigations made by E. P. Rowe, of Toronto, W. J. Hussey, of Petrolea, has commenced operations and a well is being sunk on the farm of John Collins, River road, Harwich. According to Mr. Hussey the derrick has been completed and drilling to the extent of 50 feet has been reached. He claims that the prospects are excellent and a big strike would not come as a surprise to the promoters interested.

There have been a few oil activities in Harwich Township prior to the recent investigations, but all proved to be more or less of the "wildcat" variety. The recent investigations, however, have proven to be so satisfactory to promoters that over 900 acres of land has been leased in that immediate vicinity.

According to informants who are well acquainted with the lands in the vicinity of the Collins farm, it is claimed that not only are they rich in rock water springs, but at times oil in small quantities has been seen floating on the surface of the water.

Should E. P. Rowe's activities be successful throughout this township there is no doubt that in a short time Harwich would be placed on a par with Dover, as already, even at this early stage of development, the interest of a number of prominent oil men has been aroused.

DROWNED IN WEST.

Word has been received in this city of the death, near Calgary, of William A. Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Stevens, of Chatham. The details of the death are very meager. A telegram from Doug. Stevens, of Winnipeg, a brother, states that William was drowned while duck shooting. Another telegram from Mrs. Stevens, of Calgary, states that William had been missing since Friday and it is feared that he was drowned. His clothing and automobile were found near Lake Chestermere, near Calgary. It is now believed that he was duck shooting and took off his clothes to go into the water after duck he had shot, which is a common custom among duck hunters in the West.

William A. Stevens was born in this city and received his public and high school education here. At one time he was the secretary-treasurer of the Kent Mills, of this city, but has been employed lately by the firm of Niblock & Tull, grain merchants of Calgary.

WITHOUT HEAT.

Prospects for the operation of the Chatham steam heating plant this year are still very dark. To-day at noon there was very little hope that the company would be in business this year, according to the officials interviewed. U. M. Fell, of Tonawanda, N. Y., who has been in the city conferring with the heat users in an attempt to get sufficient money subscribed to warrant the operation of the plant this year, left for his home this morning, with nothing definite accomplished. It looks as if some other means of heating the buildings of the city will have to be devised.

The committee of heat patrons who have been trying to secure contracts during the past few days have worked hard, but they still are short a considerable amount, with little prospect of raising it. It is believed, however, that the efforts to induce the consumers to sign up at the increased rate will be continued, and something more hopeful may be reported in a few days.

CARS NOT OWNED.

Something like 1,900 lien notes are being held throughout the county against purchasers of motor cars this year, according to approximate figures obtained to-day from Capt. D. E. Douglas, clerk of the county court. This represents a very large sum, an estimate of which is difficult to arrive at just at this time. Recently a count of motor car licenses issued for Kent County this year by Bert F. Brown showed that there were at the present time some 8,200 motor vehicles in the county.

Father Gnam, of Ingersoll, newly appointed pastor of St. Joseph's Church, is expected to arrive in Chatham tomorrow to take over his new work. His assistant pastor, Father Morris Sullivan, is also expected here tomorrow. The present assistant pastor of St. Joseph's, Father Leo Power, is going to Sarnia.

THIEVES ARE BUSY.

On Saturday or Sunday the factory office at the Canadian Fertilizer plant, in Harwich Township, just on the outskirts of the city, was broken into and several articles taken, according to a report received to-day from officials of the company by High Constable George Peters. A battery tester, a time book and other minor articles are missing. The thieves gained an entrance to the office by breaking a window, climbing in and thus opening the Yale lock from the inside.

John Jeff, of Dresden, has reported to High County Constable George Peters that some time during the night of Monday thieves entered his home and took away a large quantity of valuable goods. Among the articles missing are Victory bonds to the amount of $3,000, $1,000 of which was in registered bonds.

DISCUSS GAS SITUATION.

Colonel Harkness, provincial gas commissioner, has requested Mayor Brisco to have a general conference with all the manufacturers of the city who are at present using natural gas for manufacturing purposes—which includes the bakers—regarding the use of natural gas this winter.

The commissioner intimates that where gas is now being used for industrial purposes, and where the amount of gas used is not excessive, and where it would cost a great deal of money to change over plants to use other fuel, it is quite possible that permission may be secured to continue the use of gas.

It is stated that in some instances certain manufacturers, rather than change over to other fuel, will close down certain departments in their plants and thus throw men out of work. It is felt that this is not a desirable thing in view of the prospect of a hard winter ahead in some localities.

As a result of this intimation Mayor Brisco is calling a meeting of the manufacturers to-morrow evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, and if there are enough interested in the matter a conference with the commissioner will be arranged at a future date. In order for such an arrangement to go through, it is stated, the manufacturers will have to agree to cut down the consumption of gas to the very lowest figure.

Mayor Brisco will investigate, through the local hydro board, the possibility of securing a special heating concession for the users of hydro in this city.

MOVES TO FARM, BARN IS BURNED

Brantford Man Suffers a Discouraging Loss

OPEN NEW HIGHWAY

Plans to Be Considered at Meeting on Friday

BRANTFORD, Oct. 12.—William Holland, until yesterday a resident of Rawdon street, suffered a discouraging and severe loss when his new barn and the contents were destroyed by fire early this morning. Mr. Holland just moved to his new possession yesterday and the first night on the place fire wiped out his barn. The building is a total loss, the implements were destroyed and one pig was burned. No insurance had been placed on the property.

It was about 4 a. m. when Mr. Holland was awakened and saw the flames. In a short time he was given assistance by the neighbors and they succeeded in rescuing a pen of about 40 pigs. Mr. Holland went in and out of the flames himself, carrying out the frightened animals and he got them all except one. Nine of them were little ones. A horse and a cow were also saved.

The house has been unoccupied since last spring, when the owner left it and rented the barn and fields to John Davis. Mr. Davis had recently moved away and Mr. Holland took possession yesterday. No trace of any cause for the fire has been found. It broke out in the hay over the driving shed, but whether it was the result of spontaneous combustion or not is not clear. The crop in the barn was valued at about $300.

HIGHWAY PROGRAM.

The program of the formal opening of the Brantford-Hamilton provincial highway is to be decided upon at a meeting of all of the various organizations interested, which is to be held at the city hall on Friday at 3 p. m., according to Ald. W. H. Ballantyne, who is acting for the city in the matter.

Complete arrangements will probably be taken up immediately after the meeting. Ald. Ballantyne has issued a call for representatives of the board of works committee of the City Council, and as well the County Council, the Kiwanis, the Brantford and Brant County Motor clubs, the Chamber of Commerce and other bodies interested, to meet for the conference.

Albert Fairweather, charged with bigamy, appeared in the police court to-day and his case was laid over. He will be examined by two doctors. It is alleged that he married a woman who has been living in the United States as well as a Canadian wife.

A charge against William McCartney was dropped upon the payment of court costs. McCartney was charged with false pretences in connection with a land deal, but the matter was arranged with the complainant.

WILLIAMS IS TRIED.

MILTON, Oct. 12.—Norman Williams, who was arrested at Mount Hope, near Brantford, a week ago on suspicion of having brutally beaten Alexander Lees into a state of unconsciousness and robbing him of his pay envelope at Milton Pressed Brick Works, was tried here to-day on the charge and convicted. He will be sentenced later.

A Policy for Every Candidate

With a platform which has apparently been abandoned and with a leader who gives no leadership the political fight, as far as the Liberals is concerned, is rapidly drifting into a case of every man for himself. Scarcely any two Liberal candidates have the same platform. In the West and in rural ridings the Liberals are for free agricultural implements; in Brantford and in city ridings they are opposed to the abolition of the tariff. Some Liberal candidates are free traders, others out and out protectionists, others tariff for revenue only.

In some ridings the Liberals propose an amalgamation with the Farmers. The Toronto Globe is continually urging such action. The Regina Leader in a recent editorial emphasizes the similarity in policies of the platforms of the Liberals and Farmers and urges a union of candidates in the West. On the other hand, in Quebec the French Liberal leaders denounce the Farmers and their platform. Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux in a recent speech declared:

"I have read Mr. Crerar's address at Brandon, and it is a frank statement of adherence to a platform which is impossible of application in Canada without dire results to Canadian prosperity. Free trade sounds well in theory, but we are not dealing with theories. Conditions are such that it is unthinkable that theories should replace sound experience. This, of all times, is no time for experiment, and particularly an experiment in class governments."

Is it any wonder that Liberal papers are deserting Hon. Mr. King, that there is difficulty securing Liberal candidates, and that there is no enthusiasm for the Liberal cause.

The people want to know definitely for what they are voting. In the case of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen there is no doubt. He has a clear-cut platform upon which he stands four-square. As for Mr. Crerar, there is also no question as to his position. He is absolutely opposed to the principle of protection and stands fearlessly by his platform. But Mr. King will neither accept nor repudiate his platform and his candidates have as many different policies as the colors in Joseph's coat.

The Wrong Method of Selection

The press is widely commenting upon the inability of the Civil Service Commission to secure suitable candidates for positions in Canada's trade commission department. The commission advertised for four junior trade commissioners for Canada. The commissioners were to be selected by competitive examination. Wide publicity was given to the appointments. They were advertised in The Canada Gazette, notices were posted in all post offices, the universities and other educational institutions were circularized. The positions are attractive ones, and yet only 75 candidates made application and but 69 took the written examination.

Wm. Faran, secretary of the Civil Service Commission, in a letter to the director of Canada's commercial intelligence service, caustically comments on the lack of applicants and the character of their examinations. He says:

"The greatest disappointment lies in the remarkably small number who qualified as eligible for appointment. Only sufficient were secured to fill the four vacancies, whereas it had been hoped to establish an eligible list from which future appointments could be made. As it is, another competition will have to be held. The written papers displayed a very low average of general knowledge. In setting the papers it was determined to wholly avoid academic lines. The requirements of the position were considered closely and the examination confined to a test of general knowledge, such as any man between the ages of 21 and 30 with the equivalent of a university degree and some experience in business, should possess; in short, such knowledge of Canadian trade and commerce, exports and imports, exchange and business as the intelligent man who keeps closely in touch with current events and news acquires without effort, and such matters as might arise in daily discussion, and treated almost daily by the press, with such information regarding Canadian manufactures and products as should be within the ken of any young man who has passed through high school.

"The papers as a whole showed a really lamentable ignorance on these subjects, and yet each of the competitors was either a university graduate or considered himself to possess education equivalent thereto. It would appear that education in Canada, on which we are wont to pride ourselves, does not as yet fully equip the individual with that general knowledge so necessary to success in the commercial world. Can it be that our universities and other educational bodies are limiting their efforts to turning out men trained for the one profession or occupation only, with viewpoint narrowed to that alone, with minds unaccustomed to absorb general knowledge? Or is it that the Canadian, on the so-called completion of his education, once entered into business, so concentrates on his own particular line that he does not interest himself in anything else? Perhaps the truth lies halfway between these two hypotheses. At all events it is evident that in the higher education little attention is paid to affairs of Canadian trade and commerce, or to encouraging the acquisition of general knowledge of the outside world."

The Canadian trade service opens splendid opportunities for ambitious youths. At the present time there are some 19 trade commissioner offices scattered over various parts of the world, one in the United States of America, five in the British Isles, four in Europe, two in the West Indies, two in South America, and one each in Japan, China, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. Three additional offices at Kingston, Jamaica, Calcutta and Singapore will be opened before the end of the year, and it is probable that if Canada's export trade continues to expand in the future as it has in the past, still more offices will be required in those portions of the globe not yet covered.

In the opinion of The Free Press the fault lies not with the universities and technical schools or with the Canadian youths, but with the method of selection. Would any business house which was looking for young men to represent them in various parts of the world make their selections by a system of examination? The best and most likely men, as in this case, would not try an examination. The men should be sought and carefully selected on the strength of their educational qualifications, their past record, their ability to meet the public and their references. A method of set examinations is no way to choose the best men to represent Canada throughout the world.

Explanations in Order

The Brantford Expositor wants an explanation from The London Advertiser as to why it assures the electors that agricultural implements will not be placed on the free list if the Liberals are returned to power. The Brantford Expositor has left the Liberal party on this issue.

The Liberal party in 1919 adopted a platform which contained a plank calling for free agricultural implements. A pledge was solemnly added that this policy would be put into legislative effect. In addition, Hon. Mackenzie King only a year ago stated in the House that he would "stand or fall by this platform." Mr. King at no time since has stated that this promise will not be implemented. In addition, the Liberals in the West in their plea for votes are making the most of this plank.

Is it any wonder that The Expositor asks The Advertiser for its authority for the statement that agricultural implements will not be placed on the free list? If The Advertiser has an assurance to this effect from Mr. King it owes it to the electors to make it public. The Expositor puts it up to our contemporary as follows:

"Our contemporary evidently has little faith in the sincerity of the party which it so ardently supports. It is fully aware that the Liberal platform calls for the abolition of the duty on agricultural implements; that Leader King stated in the House of Commons in the session of 1920 that he would stand or fall on this platform, and that the platform itself pledges the party to 'implement by legislation the provisions of this resolution when returned to power.' In the face of such declaration, how can The Expositor know that if the Liberals are returned to power the duties on agricultural implements will not be wiped off, even should Mr. Fielding be again finance minister? Perhaps The Advertiser can explain."

The Advertiser, of all papers, should expect Mr King to stand by his platform, because on October 3 it editorially declared:

"The old idea of politics was that a government set up its policy and was ready to stand or fall by it. There was something far more definite in that method than in the political merry-go-round on which this country is traveling to-day."

The only political merry-go-round in politics to-day is Hon. Mackenzie King. Mr. Meighen and Mr. Crerar have platforms upon which they stand, but Mr. King is gayly dodging his platform. If the platform calling for free agricultural implements is to be put into effect, then The Brantford Expositor is right in its attitude. If the platform is not to be put into effect, then Mr. King stands self-condemned by The Advertiser itself as a political humbug.

Liberal Papers Desert King

One by one the Liberal papers are deserting Hon. Mackenzie King. The Kingston Whig, the oldest Liberal paper in Ontario, will follow an independent course. The Brantford Expositor cannot accept the Liberal platform, which calls for free agricultural implements, and for the first time in its history has withdrawn its support. The Manitoba Free Press, the most powerful Liberal organ in Western Canada, is backing Hon. T. A. Crerar.

Now The Glace Bay Gazette, Glace Bay, N. S., is following the example of these papers and has announced that it will support Premier Meighen. The Gazette takes the view that protection is the only policy that can safely be adopted as regards coal and steel, and it would, therefore, be inconsistent, it argues, to take any other attitude with reference to Canadian industry as a whole. Consequently The Gazette feels obliged to support Premier Meighen.

Before the campaign is over Hon. Mackenzie King may find himself in glorious isolation in the Province of Quebec.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A country rises no higher than the general average of its intelligence.

The steppes don't seem to be leading Russia up the ladder of success.

Ontario is interested in the farmer's son, not The Farmers' Sun; the former is generally intelligent.

It is natural that a log-rolling group like the U. F. A. should have considerable Wood in it.

They are calling Red Michael a "political comedian." Anyway, he staged a surprise.

"A dead lion is better than a live ass"—witness the Lemieux banquet, at which the only Liberal leader lauded, was the dead leader, Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The old motto, "up horn down corn," is not verified this year, since the 1921 dollar will buy more copper, coffee, hides, cattle and corn than the 1913 dollar would buy.

Lloyd George divided his recent holiday between a physician, a surgeon, a dentist and Eamonn De Valera. "Business as usual" must be a relief for the British premier.

The Liberals of Alberta have come out with the statement that the real opponent of the Liberal party is not the Government, but the Farmers' party. How the scene is changed from the day when Mr. King sought to make his unholy alliance with the so-called "Progressives."

The Third Column

BULB PLANTING TIME.

Last night he said the dead were dead
And scoffed my faith to scorn,
I found him at a tulip bed
When I passed by at morn.

"Oho!" said I, "the frost is near
And mist is on the hills,
And yet I find you planting here
Tulips and daffodils."

"'Tis time to plant them now," he said,
"If they shall bloom in Spring."
"But every bulb," said I, "seems dead
And such an ugly thing."

"The pulse of life I cannot feel,
The skin is dried and brown.
Now look!" a bulb beneath my heel
I crushed and trampled down.

In anger then he said to me:
"You've killed a lovely thing;
A scarlet blossom that would be
Some morning in the Spring."

"Last night a greater sin was thine,"
To him I slowly said,
"You trampled on the dead of mine
And told me they are dead."

—Edgar A. Guest.

BURDENS

It is an inspiring thing to see a boy giving a "lift" to an elderly man or woman. And the writer is one who likes to see the father carry the baby.

The right distribution of burden carrying, when it comes to the physical side, is a problem that should be taken up and handled with common sense. The strong should always be ready to help the weak.

But the most difficult burdens in the world to carry are those of the mind and heart. You who carry worry or trouble are unfortunate indeed. Most people carry all too much of each unnecessarily. For the majority of worries and troubles are in the mind — borrowed.

The man or woman of three score and ten smiles at the mental burdens of the middle aged, as the middle aged smile at those of the youth.

The fact is that the mind was built for a different purpose than that of carrying dead weight and packs of poison.

There are certain legitimate burdens, however, which we must all hear and help others to bear—burdens of responsibility and just power. For unless we have right burdens to carry and the desire to apportion our strength for the benefit of others, we become spiritual weaklings, unworthy of our privileges.

We must go to others and tell them that we want to carry their burdens for a little while, so that they may rest and become more fit to go on their way. In this way both you and they are benefited. You give the opportunity for renewed strength to the one relieved, and in return your own powers are strengthened.

If you are troubled and can go to someone in whom you have confidence and "tell all" you are immediately lightened in heart and the dust and confusion of travel is cleared away.

People with nothing to do — nothing to carry — are not good for the world.

The other day I saw thousands of idle men lounging in a park in a big city. They were men out of work. If I had been mayor of that city I should have arranged to put every one of those men to some useful work — if nothing more than cleaning up dirty parts of the city. And I would have asked the prosperous citizens of the city to foot the bill.

There is plenty of work to do to put every idle man to work. It is unfortunate that every man is not taught early to want to work so much that he would never be without it.

Society has its burdens to carry — and every one of us has his responsibility to those who make up the whole.

—George Matthew Adams

THE AUTO TRIP.

When starting on an auto trip, be sure your tires are good, and see that all your spark plugs zip, with pep, beneath the hood. Have ample small change in your pouch, a basketfful of lunch; and oh, be doubly sure no grouch is going with the bunch. Be sure the crank case has its oil, the best that you can buy; it's wrong to make a motor toil with all its bearings dry; your extra tire should be supplied with eighty pounds of air, and if a sorehead wants a ride, say, "No—the walking's fair." You may be fixed for every chance that motoring can spring, be fixed to ride in circumstance, as happy as a king; but if a grouch is in the crowd, your glee will fade away, your weary head will soon be bowed in trouble and dismay. For if a puncture stops your bus, as punctures sometimes do, the grouch will make a mighty fuss, and many rags he'll chew. And if perchance you lose your way, when night is coming on, the grouch will wring his hands and bray, and keep it up till dawn. And if the rain begins to fall from black clouds overhead, the spineless grouch will whine and bawl until you wish him dead. You and your manly friends might smile when divers things go wrong, enjoying every outdoor mile, if Grouch were not along; you take him at a frightful cost when on a trip you go, for he is like the bitter frost that blights all things that grow.

MUST BE A TEMPTATION.

A man went into a drug store recently. He was a man who does not mind a joke against himself, but though he was well known to the druggist, the latter refused to supply him with poison.

"But, rubbish!" remonstrated the customer. "You know me well!"

"Sorry, sir," persisted the druggist, "but I cannot give you poison without a prescription."

"Why," said the customear, "do I look like a man who would kill himself?"

"I don't know," said the druggist, "but if I looked like you, I should be tempted!"—Houston Post.

Graphic Picture Of Anglican Synod

BY CLERICK

The General Synod has now got fairly on with its own business. For days it has subjected its household to a thorough "going over." Missions at home and abroad; education, both secular and sacred; the laws for local and general use—all have taken both time and labor. Now, however, the gates are flung open and both the issues of the present, affecting all Christians, and the products of history from all the great ecclesiastical eras, are before the court. What has been talked about for months is at hand. The synod is on its tip-toe of interest. Church union is the way it is stated on the street, but more correctly—the Lambeth appeal to all Christians is under consideration.

For four hours the lower house was a scene both memorable and exciting. The uppre house had already spoken on the subject in the charge of the primate. It was distinctly stated that the Lambeth council enacted no laws, but is authoritative only an "an utterance" given out by such a powerful body as the 252 bishops of Lambeth. The General Synod has now the matter before it for its own judgment, the only recommendation of the bishops being that the same spirit of prayer attend the consideration, and that at least a committee of bishops, presbyters and laymen be appointed to meet with accredited committees from other churches and report at the next meeting of the General Synod.

What takes place in the upper house in debate, of course, is not known. But much is said in the religious press and elsewhere about the "nineteen Canadian bishops" having been at the Lambeth council and therefore parties to the appeal as sent out. The synod, it is held, should not discuss what they agreed upon, but take as a starting point their scheme of reunion and endeavor in a practical way to carry it out. Just as strongly expressed is the opposite view which gives the upper house sharp criticism. They are charged with having "no champion of Catholic orders." On the contrary, it is said, they have been so lenient that no "reprimand has been chronicled" to any clergyman for breaking the rules of the ordinal. However provocative this is of Episcopal authority, the upper house has kept its own counsel and the members thereof look like a happy family.

The representative clergy and laity in the lower house, in spite of varied opinions, are sitting together with no grouping of parties as in a free parliament. Happily the partisan spirit has not cut so deeply. It is neither geographical nor any thing else that can be easily defined. There is just a lot of bouted up theology and ecclesiology which is ready to explode. For the first half hour the "authority" of Lambeth was discussed. Canon Scott, Quebec, the poet-imperialist-soldier, proved that he had no fear of the bishops when he charged that the upper house had left the impression that the said council in Lambeth had given out decisions which are to be taken without question by the synod. Archdeacon Graham, a vigorous young clergyman from Nelson, B. C., was equally severe on such an interpretation. Chancellor Worrell moved that the preamble of the message from the upper house be not concurred in, but a change suggested to clear up the ambiguity complained of.

The storm center in the next hour had in mind the action of some Montreal clergymen, together with Presbyterians, in regard to a practical reunion of the church. Professor Abbott-Smith, professor of Old and New Testament literature in the college there, explained that the Anglicans in the said conference had not agreed unanimously with the scheme proposed. They felt along with Bishop Gore, of England, whom they consulted, that it went beyond the terms of the Lambeth appeal and would, if carried, out-take the Church of England over the precipice. The Montreal plan was one of pure equality, giving commissions to each other.

Dr. Paterson-Smyth, the well-known rector of St. George's, Montreal, a prize scholar of Trinity College, Dublin, who has written many theological works, one on the reunion of Christendom, contended that the Presbyterian members of the Montreal conference were among the "most cultured" of that denomination, not the bigoted people with whom little need be expected. Further he urged, very earnestly, because he is a big, glowing figure in the synod, that the conference had only broken the ice; that its decisions should not be criticized too literally, but rather all endeavor to see the possibilities which are sure to come out of such fraternal meetings. Dr. Dyson Hague, the son of a Montreal banker, a broad and able scholar and writer, having served both in St. Paul's, Halifax, one of the largest churches in the East, and in Cronyn Memorial, of London, made an eloquent speech. He pointed out that the drift of the argument of some members was to insist upon the policy of absorbing the free churches. That had been the fatal policy of the past, something which the Lambeth bishops had risen above. The synod should come out upon the same high ground of Christian charity.

It was significant that both of the laymen who spoke, Chancellor Kirwin Martin, Hamilton, and Mr. E. J. Fream, Calgary, were both sympathetic with the Lambeth appeal. The former argued that Anglicans should meet their separated brethren and show them the necessity of retaining episcopacy, which he thought they would eventually admit. The latter has the Western spirit of broad-minded co-operation leading to union. His Hon. Justice Ermatinger, St. Thomas, dropped a good suggestion, which many debaters require. He protested against members of the synod speaking for Baptists or any other denomination. "That is mere heresy. They can speak for themselves," he declared. The discussion has been not so much on the merits of the case, as upon what is inevitable when such an ambiguous resolution, or one capable of such varied interpretations as the famous deliverance from Lambeth. What is involved in "ordination with conditions" and the meaning of "commission." What the great bishops did not make plain the General Synod is not going to agree upon without a fight.

KNOW YOUR NEIGHBOR

It was little short of an inspiration that prompted the convention of the Kiwanis clubs last summer to arrange for a Canadian week in this country and a United States week in Canada. Speakers from each country are to address public meetings in the other.

This will be especially good for the United States, because we know too little about Canada, and Canada is so good a neighbor that we want to be on intimate terms. There are probably no two countries in the world that have more in common. Literally and figuratively we speak the same language. We are developing along the same lines. Canada to-day is trying to solve the same questions that perplex us—taxation, tariff, farm marketing, public ownership, railroads, unemployment and even prohibition. We can learn from each other and help each other in the solution of these questions.

Americans do not realize the stage of development Canada has reached. She has grown up. She has a right to resent any attempts to patronize her. The Canadian had something to go on who said enthusiastically: "The last century was the century of the greatness of the United States; this century is the century of the greatness of Canada." Canada has the resources and the energy, the will and the ability to make this true, but there is in it no menace to the progress of the United States. Canada and the United States will grow faster and stronger as friends than as rivals. That is the way they will grow if they understand each other. And the Kiwanis clubs' idea will be a great help in promoting that understanding—Milwaukee Journal.

SERVICE.

There is no path but service! None may climb
By easier ascent to life's destiny.
The way that leaves the mist-bound plains of time
For the clear hills of vast eternity,
Runs ever steeply upward. Height by height,
The road lies ever upward to the light.

And lo! this strange adventure doth appear,
That he, who most of loving labor spends
To help his fellows, finds his own path bear
Not the less steeply; but, on him descends
New strength to walk the pathway up and on
To the great, cloudless hills of God, and dawn.

No path but service! Where the Master trod,
We, too, must tread. His love hath marked the trail.
Nor aims, nor creed can pave the way to God,
Nor wealth can purchase rights within the vail.
He, only crowned with life eternal, lives
Who, to his fellowmen God's service gives.

ORGANIZE N.L.C. IN LONDON TP.

Enthusiastic Meeting Is Held at Arva

TWO EXECUTIVES NAMED

S. Frank Glass Tells of Need of Protective Policy

ARVA, Oct. 12.—Organization of the National Liberal and Conservative party got away to a good start in London Township to-night at a well-attended meeting here. The meeting was enthusiastic regarding the outlook in the township in the coming fight, and the meeting elected an executive and conveners for each of the polling subdivisions for the purpose of choosing delegates for the East Middlesex convention, which will be held in London in a short time to choose a candidate for the December election.

S. Frank Glass, member of the late Government, was the principal speaker. He pointed out in his opening remarks that as a result of party inactivities during the prosecution of the war, political organizations had been allowed to break up. The object of the meeting was for reorganization of the National Liberal and Conservative party.

Touching on the issues of the coming fight, Mr. Glass, speaking of the tariff, questioned the wisdom of knocking down the structure which had been built up during the past 43 years under the national protective policy. He declared that the industries of Canada could not hope to stack up against the industries of Germany, for instance, with the mark at a value of less than one cent, without protection. Canada should continue to build on the foundation so ably laid by Sir John A. Macdonald in 1878. The speaker contended that there was more need of retaining the protective policy at the present time than at any other previous period in the history of Canada.

AN IMPOSITION.

The contention of the Progressives that the exodus from the farms was due to the protective tariff, Mr. Glass declared was an attempt to impose on the credulity of the electors. He pointed out that in England, which had been almost a pure free trade country until recently, the farm population was only 12 per cent. of the total population.

Mr. Glass took a rap at the tactics of the Liberals in Quebec, who were breeding race hatred by their slogan of "Remember 1917; now's your hour for revenge." He declared that it was because of W. L. Mackenzie King's opposition to the Military Service Act that Quebec Liberal leaders had taken him to their bosom.

In view of the fact that London Township is the largest in the county it was divided into two sections, the Proof Line road being the dividing line, and individual executives were elected, namely, the east and west sides.

East side — President, ex-Warden James J. Robson; vice-president, T. H. Needham; secretary, Bart Powell.

West side — President, Alexander Freeborn, brother of John Freeborn, U. F. O. member in the Legislature; vice-president, W. E. Noyes; secretary, M. Robson.

Conveners of the 18 subdivisions—Fred Fuller, Harold Willoughby, John Long, F. Clapworthy, Thomas Gibson, Robert Dengate, ex-Warden Thomas Clarke, W. Bacon, W. Freele, E. McRoberts, David Ashworthy, Edward McNabb, William Golding, F. Logan, W. Trott, Richard Oak and Harry Tozer.

LONGER POLLING DAY

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—The Windsor and Walkerville city councils have been requested by William K. Kennedy, late M. P. for North Essex, to take advantage of a clause in the amended Election Act, by which polling booths here may be opened two hours earlier than in inland constituencies. The change in the act has been made to allow Canadians who work in the United States to poll their votes at the elections on December 5 before leaving for work.

Catarrh Of the Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," Says Physician; Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion; How to Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour, burning stomach, frequent vomiting, rumbling in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion, when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach, while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucous and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover, the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of magnesia, milks, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.—Advt.

GODERICH PLANNING A FITTING WELCOME TO PREMIER MEIGHEN

GODERICH, Oct. 12.—(Special to the Free Press.)—Plans are under way to tender a royal welcome to Premier Meighen on his arrival here on Wednesday night of next week. A public meeting is being held for all citizens on Friday night to consider just what steps will be taken. As the prime minister is to address a meeting in Clinton in the afternoon, no definite form of reception can be adopted until it is ascertained when he will arrive here. Providing he arrives here in the latter part of the afternoon the town will, in all probability, tender a civic welcome and possibly a banquet, as well as a drive around the town if fine weather prevails. As this is the first visit of Premier Meighen to Goderich and also the first time that Canada's Premier has visited here since Sir John A. Macdonald's time, citizens are agreed that a fitting reception should be tendered. The National Liberal and Conservative Association has secured the rink and arrangements will be made to have a seating capacity for the audience that is sure to be on hand.

MUST PLACARD ALL BULL BEEF

By-Law to Be Enforced, Says Woodstock Clerk

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 12.—In future all bull beef offered for sale on the city market will be so designated by placards which will be attached to the offerings for the information of the buying public.

This is the decision of Market Inspector Brink, who states that since fairly good beef can now be purchased throughout the country at four and one half cents per pound on the hoof, there is no reason why meat from small or undeveloped animals should be offered for sale on the local market. The city by-law governing the sale of bull beef has been in existance for many years but for some considerable time has not been enforced.

TO RENT HOUSES.

The local housing commission has decided to rent seventeen houses built a year ago and which still remain unsold. Prospective buyers will be given preference and on May next will have the opportunity of buying the houses. The amount paid in rent will then be deducted from the purchase price. These houses were erected under the housing plan and only three of them are tenanted at present.

Will A. Stevens, of Calgary, brother of Dr. J. M. Stevens, of this city, has been drowned, advices reaching here state to-day. The unfortunate man was drowned while out duck shooting near Calgary. The body had not been recovered at the time of sending the information.

W. P. TELFORD NAMED BY NORTH GREY LIBS.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 12.—W. P. Telford Jr., a prominent lawyer in Owen Sound, was the unanimous choice of the North Grey Liberals in convention at Meaford this afternoon. Only one other name was proposed, that of E. J. Cooper, hardware merchant in Owen Sound. He withdrew and Mr. Telford asked that he be given until October 24 to consider the matter. He is a former partner of the late Hon. A. G. McKay.

F. P. Pardee addressed the meeting, attacking the Government on its expenditure and also on its railway policy. Mrs. Buchanan, of Ravenna, suggested that the Liberals and U.F.O. should make a united effort to defeat the Conservatives' candidate.

MONTREAL BODY AGAIN CONDEMNS ST. LAWRENCE PLAN; LIKES GEORGIAN

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—The Chamber of Commerce to-day placed itself on record as upholding the opposition already voiced by the shipping federation to the St. Lawrence canalization and power scheme on the occasion of the visit of the International Waterways commission to this city some months ago, and once more indorsed the Georgian Bay Canal project. The point of view of the shipping federation was laid before the Chamber of Commerce by Thomas Robb, manager of the shipping federation.

PAYS DEAR FOR RIDE.

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—James Ceining, of Detroit, was fined $50 here to-day for attempting to steal a ride on a passenger train to Detroit from Kenilworth race track. The police said Ceining had refused to pay his fare and had caused a disturbance when the conductor tried to put him off the train. The defendant first pleaded not guilty, and then changed his plea after being remanded for eight days. A companion, John Moore, was fined $10.

CUT LABORERS' PAY.

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—Walkerville Council has decided to reduce the minimum wage of town laborers from 50 to 40 cents an hour. This action the Council felt in line with falling wages and prices. The request of the G.W.V.A. to have the old police headquarters turned over to them for the coming winter has been favorably considered but referred to a committee.

10 YEARS AND 30 LASHES FOR GRANT

Amherstburg Man Sentenced by Justice Logie

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—Ten years in Kingston penitentiary, with 30 lashes with the "cat," was the sentence imposed by Justice Logie in Sandwich this evening upon James Grant, 23 years old, of Amherstburg, for an assault upon a 10-year-old Amherstburg girl. The jury's verdict contained a recommendation for mercy and this, the court said, was all that saved the accused from imposition of the maximum penalty of death.

Grant was arrested on March 17, the day after the assault was committed. He offered as an excuse for his act that he is still suffering from effects of wounds received in service and was not responsible. The lashes, the court ordered, to be administered 10 at a time.

MAY BE FATALLY HURT.

Mrs. Myrtle Mezner, of Detroit, was seriously injured this morning, when an automobile which she was driving plunged 15 feet into "Little River" drain, Riverside, seven miles east of Windsor.

With Mrs. Mezner were Mrs. Helen Lattimer, also of Detroit, and Frank Dennis, 36 Campbell avenue, Windsor. They were taken to Hotel Dieu. Mrs. Mezner may not live. She was pinned under the car in five feet of water. By breaking through the door of the automobile with an axe, Arthur Lesperance, Riverside resident, was able to rescue her. Mrs. Lattimer and Dennis suffered abrasions.

When the car skidded from the road Mrs. Mezner was turning off to avoid collision with another machine.

FORGERY CHARGE.

Ross Morton, Toronto, is under arrest here on a charge of forging a check for $24 on the Windsor branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada. He will be arraigned to-morrow morning.

Abraham Bennereff furniture dealer, has been missing from his home, 736 East Wyandotte street, since Sunday evening, when he left to visit friends in Detroit.

Charged with criminal negligence, Maurice Marks, 126 East Eastpitt street, failed to appear in the police court to-day, and Magistrate Gundy issued a bench warrant for his arrest. Marks, who, police say, has fled from Canada, was driving an automobile that knocked down and injured J. A. Wight.

REV. FATHER J. K. GNAM IS HONORED AT INGERSOLL

INGERSOLL, Oct. 12.—In view of his departure from Ingersoll to St. Joseph's parish, Chatham, Rev. Father J. K. Gnam was last night presented with two purses, one from the congregation in general and one from the ladies. This afternoon school children also presented him with a purse. Father Gnam has been pastor of Sacred Heart Church here for 11 years, and since coming has entirely transformed the church property, as well as having erected a new convent, parish hall and school. The property is left free of debt.

TO SEE FRENCH TRAIN.

STRATFORD, Oct. 12.—The industrial committee of the City Council met last night to arrange some details about the reception of the French mission with the French sample train when it arrives on Monday. It was decided to join with the Chamber of Commerce in extending a welcome to the visitors and also to get a booklet with some information about the industries of Stratford, printed in French, which will be distributed at the banquet at the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night.

NAMED MANAGER

WINDSOR, Oct. 12.—Appointment of W. T. Carthew, of Stamford, as manager of Walkerville branch of the Imperial Bank of Canada was announced to-day.

BROKEN TRUCE TO BE FIRST CONCERN

Discussion of Disorders to Precede Irish Peace Effort

SMUTS' ADVICE FOLLOWED

British Appoint Secretary in Sympathy With His Views

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—When the Irish conference resumes its sessions at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning it probably will first deal with the question of alleged breaches of the truce, which have been the subject of conversations to-day between various members of the British and Irish delegations.

It is agreed among the delegates, it was understood to-night, that breaches have arisen on both sides, Dublin Castle having produced a list of such occurrences, which was compared with a list published by the Irish Bulletin of breaches of the truce by auxiliaries, the police and the military.

In the recent killings at Galway and shootings resultant from an Irish republican dance, it was conceded that both Sinn Feiners and crown officers violated the truce by carrying arms.

The Irish representatives, while expressing anxiety for accord regarding the truce, expressed disfavor of any extension of the original terms of the truce signed at general headquarters in Dublin. It is understood that they are unwilling to bind themselves to discontinue any activities not covered at that time. Since, however, many of these activities were possible only through the possession of arms, a stricter regard for prohibition against carrying arms by either side would meet all Government requirements.

To-day's conversations, in which Eamonn J. Duggan, Sir Hamar Greenwood, Michael Collins, Sir Laming Worthington-Evans, Gen. Macready and Robert C. Barton participated, were quite friendly and harmonious, as were yesterday's discussions in conference.

The question of the release of persons in internment camps has not yet been reached, and probably the Irish delegates will not mention it for the present. The invitation to Ulster to send representatives to attend the current sessions likewise is awaiting a more opportune moment.

FOLLOW SMUTS' ADVICE.

The appointment to-day of Lionel Curtis as one of the chief secretaries on the Government side, having a position similar to that of John Chartres on the Irish side, was taken to indicate that the Government approach toward a settlement will follow the lines indicated by Gen. Jan Christian Smuts, the South African premier. Mr. Curtis, who is considered a great authority on the Imperial Federation, took a prominent part in the framing of the South African constitution. He has spent much time in Ireland, his wife being an Irish woman. His joint secretary, Thomas Jones, had experience in Ireland as a professor of economics at Queen's University at Belfast. These two, with Erskine Childers and Mr. Chartres, both of whom served the British with distinction during the war, will be present at all sessions of the conference.

CORK LORD MAYOR WANTS PRISONERS RELEASED

CORK, Oct. 12.—Lord Mayor O'Callaghan, speaking to-day at a meeting of the Cork harbor board, moved the following resolution:

"We insist that Mr. Lloyd George's protestations of a sincere desire for peace between Ireland and Great Britain cannot be accepted while his Government retains in prison and internment camps hundreds of tried Irishmen."

P. B. O'Brien, in seconding the motion, said that the Irish heirarchy had called upon the British Cabinet to release these men for the sake of peace.

NAMED IN WELLINGTON

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE, minister of militia and defense, nominated yesterday at Guelph as Government candidate by a convention representative of all parties and creeds.

SOUTH OXFORD U. F. O.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 12.—The executive of the South Oxford U. F. O. having decided to allow proportional representation of delegates at their convention in Mount Elgin on October 25, called a citizen's meeting in the Council chamber last night. About 75 persons turned out and listened to addresses from A. T. Walker, M.P.P., Mrs. Staples, of Ingersoll, Mr. Lethbridge, M.P.P., of Middlesex, and others, and prospects are evident that an organization will be formed in the town.

SENATOR KNOX DIES SUDDENLY IN WASHINGTON

Former United States Secretary of State Succumbs Day After Return From England

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 12.—Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, formerly secretary of state, died at his home here to-night after a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. Knox was on his way to the dining-room at 6.15 o'clock when he suffered the stroke. He died fifteen minutes later without regaining consciousness.

Senator and Mrs. Knox returned from England only yesterday, where they had spent a vacation during the recent recess of Congress, touring by automobile. The trip seemed to have benefitted the senator, and he had given no indications of failing health.

Mrs. Knox and the senator's secretary, F. W. Martin, were near the senator when he was stricken and summoned aid, but it was futile.

NAME DELEGATES TO LONDON CONVENTION

MAPLETON, Oct. 12.—The Kingsmill and Mapleton Women's Institute met with Mrs. A. Bray on Friday. Papers were read by Mrs. M. Bray and Mrs. John O'Bray. Community singing was enjoyed by all. Mrs. A. Moore was appointed delegates for the London convention, on November 1, 2 and 3.

CANADIAN FREIGHTER LAUNCHED.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 13.—The last of the Government marine freighters on the ways at Vancouver was launched yesterday, when the Canadian Freighter took the water, after appropriate ceremonies, at Coughland's yards. Mrs. W. A. Wallace performed the christening ceremony.

Ideal Standard For Home And Business Life To Be Raised By Y.W.C.A. Industrial Federation

Girls to Meet Fortnightly in Open Forum to Discuss the Art of Homemaking and the Development of a Perfect Business Code

The establishment of a right standard for home life and for the business world, and, eventually, the drafting of a budget of home expenses, will be the result of the fortnightly conferences of the Y. W. C. A. Federation of Industrial clubs, meeting this evening for the first time in open forum for the discussion of some of the problems of the industrial woman worker.

Although the individual clubs meet wekely for recreation and education, these fortnightly gatherings of the whole federation are a new departure, and it is expected that under chosen leaderships the discussions will prove of great benefit to the members and to the community.

An interesting outcome of the findings of the club girls on many questions will be the record of the federation, to be called "The Mirror," in which will be recorded the standards of life determined upon by the members after due thought.

That the industrial girl of to-day is to be the homemaker of to-morrow was the thought uppermost in the mind of the federation leaders when they planned to open their winter program with a course in homemaking. This great art of womanhood will be discussed from all viewpoints, to-night and at several subsequent meetings, and the standard adopted by the club girls will be duly posted in "The Mirror."

PRESIDENT TO SPEAK.

Following a little address from the Y. W. C. A. president, Mrs. C. B. King, in which she will uphold the dignity of the home and its great place in the work toward the future well-being of the world, the girls will meet in open forum, various phases of the question being presented by the federation president, Miss Ruth Lucas, and other leaders.

Such points will be considered as "Love the Foundation of the Home," "Starting a New Home," "Respect and Service the Real Meaning of Love," "Can Any Man and Woman Start a Real Home?" "If All Men Are Not Good Husbands, How to Choose," "Standards of Health, Morals and Disposition Which Must Be Adopted," etc.

The matter of finances will be introduced by another speaker, some of the following heads being used to develop the question of the financial basis necessary to the establishment of a home: "Must a man have money to marry; if not, must he be in a position to make money?" "Is it advisable to start housekeeping with mother?" "Is it advisable for a wife to continue at her old employment after marriage?" "Can a humble home be a happy one?" "Has every child a right to be well born, and who is responsible?"

A FINANCIAL BURGET.

That the developent of ideal standards along these lines will take many hours of discussion is the opinion of leaders in the movement, who yet expect to see some valuable data gathered from the deliberations of the club members. Business standards will be considered later in the season, and the federation hopes, after a careful consideration of the financial problems, both of the industrial worker and the industrial home, to formulate a budget of personal expenses which they believe will be fairer than similar budgets already made up.

"That the happiest feature of the proposed program is the growth of a homemaking ideal among the girls of the industrial world," is the opinion of Mrs. John Crawford, who as extension secretary of the London Y. W. C. A. is behind the present movement. "The uplift of the status of the industrial girl is sure to result from the present measures adopted for a continued education," Mrs. Crawford declared to The Free Press yesterday, "and the idea of that is not to take away the industrial worker from her industry, but rather to make that industry a profession, to the development of which she will be glad to bring her quickened intellect and increased knowledge."

ART OF HOMEMAKING.

"The other side of the question in homemaking, and we purpose to find out in our girls' forum just how much the average industrial girl knows about this topic, and how much she can learn in anticipation of her own entry into the greatest profession of womanhood," Mrs. Crawford said. "We are going to look at it from all sides, including the health and financial viewpoints, and to help develop the real old-fashioned home ideal we are including in our of standards gems of verse, which cannot but uplift the industrial girl of the future, for whom, after all, we are preparing our life standards."

"The girls themselves," Mrs. Crawford said, "felt that they had summed up their ideal of attainment when they entered in our mirror of standard these words:

"Hase thou sounded the depths of yonder sea?
Or counted the sands that under it be?
Hast thou measured the height of heaven above?
Then mayest thou mete out a mother's love."

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS (By Mail).—Fashion has agreed on retaining the over-blouse. Lace and beaded blouses were the predominating feature in the window of a smart shop, bisque color being favored in the lace models, with underbodices of satin in a vivid color. This is quite the newest note in blousedom. Another novelty was the combination of beads with silk fringe trimming, developed in a flattering shade of orchid, beading and fringe in self-color. This model is illustrated at the top of the sketch.

The other model in the sketch illustrates the popularity of the semi-tailored model to wear for sports or with the tailleur. A heavy quality of crepe de chine is used for this model, with black cire satin ribbon for the long tie.

Miss Bertha Hodge, who leaves during the first week of November for her mission field in Honan, China, was last evening the guest of the W. M. S. of the First Presbyterian Church at a delightful social evening arranged in her honor. During the evening Miss Hodge was presented with three attractive gifts from the W. M. S., a life membership pin, a thermos bottle in a handsome leather case, and an emergency surgical kit. Mrs. W. J. Knox presented the gifts on behalf of the society, who were charmed with a brief speech from Miss Hodge in reply. Another short address was made during the evening by Rev. Dr. Beattie, who was a welcome guest. A charming solo by Mrs. Rupert Crouch and a violin selection by Walter Rennie added a bright bit of music to the affair, of which the presentation of the annual thank-offering was a feature.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

He heard the shrill, excited barking die down disappointedly. Why shouldn't she take the dog, he wondered. As a rule she never stirred without him. Even if she went in the car Friday was sure to be with her, sitting up like a sentinel at her side. He heard the shutting of the front door; heard Friday scratching frantically to get out; heard his pitiful whining.

Rodney listened for a moment, then he rose to his feet so hurriedly that he knocked his chair over; he went quickly to the window.

There was a sudden suspicion in his mind; where could Norah be going?

He opened the window noiselessly and leaned out.

There was no car in the drive; he waited—then he saw her running down the lane, tying the gray motor veil over her hat as she went. The light gauzy ends were flying in the breeze; presently she disappeared round the bend.

Rodney's heart was thumping uncomfortably; he could see no more from this window; he turned impulsively and ran into the next room, from which one had a view of the high road as well as the lane.

As he looked a low, torpedo-shaped car came slowly round the bend and rapidly gathering speed, disappeared in a little haze of dust.

CHAPTER V.

"Of course," said Norah, "I know I ought not really to have come, but . . . . ." She looked up, smiling dubiously, into the face of the black sheep.

They were half a mile away from The Poplars now, and whirling along through the afternoon sunshine.

The first moments of awkwardness had not yet passed; moments of awkwardness for Norah only, in all probability, as George Laxton seemed thoroughly undisturbed and at his ease.

When the girl had reached the end of the lane she had found him sitting on a gate a few feet away from the car, calmly smoking a cigarette; when he saw her he clambered leisurely down.

"Are you running away from anybody," he asked whimsically, "that you are in such a desperate hurry?"

"No, I'm not," she retorted rather sharply. "Only I hate keeping people waiting, and as I said I would come, here I am."

"I am very grateful," he said.

She looked at him suspiciously.

"I never know whether you are laughing at me or whether you are in earnest," she said.

"I am certainly not laughing at you," he answered.

But somehow in her heart she had not felt quite happy; it was that little feeling of disquietude that prompted her next remark—

"Of course, I know I ought not really to have come."

The black sheep was looking straight ahead of him.

"Why not?" he asked, without turning his head.

Norah shook her head. "I don't know, but—do you think I ought to have come?" she demanded impulsively.

He now looked down at her. "I think charming people should do everything in the world they want to do," he said.

He had made similar speeches scores of times, and he thought he knew to a wearisome degree just how such a speech would be taken; a little simper, a conscious blush, and a swift lowering of eyelids.

But Norah was a disappointment, inasmuch as she did none of these things. Her eyes met his quite frankly and steadily.

"What a silly thing to say," she said calmly.

The black sheep was taken aback. "What ought I to have said, then?" he asked with a touch of exasperation.

"You ought to have said just what you think, of course," she told him. "And I should like to know what you really do think."

"About what?" he asked.

"About what I have just asked you."

"I am afraid I have forgotten what it was," he admitted.

As a matter of fact he had. It is difficult to appear interested when the girl beside you is the wrong girl and when you are wishing with all your heart and soul that she could be somebody else.

"I asked you if you thought it was wrong of me to have come out with you?" Norah repeated.

"Wrong!" The black sheep knitted his brows. It was not often he was asked to decide anything for anybody. After a moment—

"I think the worst anybody could say about it is that it is a little—just a little—unconventional, perhaps," he said diffidently.

Norah sat up rather stiffly; there was a faint flush in her cheeks. "Yes," she said presently, "I suppose it is." She waited a moment then, "How horrid!" she said.

Laxton laughed. "It is not in the least what I think myself, please remember that," he said quickly. "I am only too grateful to you for having taken pity on me. I loathe my own company. I could no more go for a 10-mile walk alone than I could fly; I could no more spend an evening heaped up in an armchair with nobody to talk to than—than—well, than anything," he finished rather lamely. "That's why I'm going to fill Barton Manor with people till it's let. I've got to live here till then—or, at least, I've got nowhere else to live—and so I'm going to fill the old barn."

Weddings

Durst-Laymon.

A quiet though very charming wedding was that which took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Andrew's Church, when Rev. D. C. MacGregor officiated at the marriage of Luta Leonice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Laymon, of this city, to Robert Durst, son of Mrs. Durst and the late Adam Durst, also of this city. The church was effectively decorated with palms, ferns and tall jars of yellow mums, quaint knots of marigolds tied with fluffy bows of yellow tulle marking the guest pews, and catching the glint of afternoon sunlight that filled the church during the service. Mr. Charles Wheeler, at the organ, played the bridal music, playing very softly throughout the service, and at the signing of the register Mrs. Wilson Hodgins sang Sanderson's "All Joy Be Thine" in delightful voice. The bride was given in marriage by her father, and looked very smart in her navy blue tailored suit, with embroidery of bugle beds, worn over a pretty blouse of white georgette and lace. A hat of brown-shaded feathers, and a corsage of sunset roses and orchids completed her costume. Miss Madeline Sutherland, as the bridesmaid, wore a charming gown of navy blue taffeta with shawl collar and inset panels of gray crepe, wide brimmed gray hat, gray shoes and gloves and a corsage bouquet of Russell roses. She carried also the groom's gift, a dainty vanity case of gold. Mr. Harold Thorne was the best man, receiving as his souvenir of the wedding gold cuff links. Cuff links were also presented to the organist, and to the soloist the groom gave a gold vanity case. Mrs. Hodgins wore a graceful gown of blue-beaded Canton crepe, black picture hat and corsage of Richmond roses. Following the wedding a reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, Waterloo street, where golden mums, marigolds and mauve-colored zinnias made a glow of color. Mrs. Layon, who with her husband and Mrs. Durst received with the bride and groom, wore a French blue taffeta gown, embroidered in gold, large black hat and corsage of Russell roses. Mrs. Durst was handsomely gowned in black satin with becoming black hat.

Buffet refreshments were served in the dining-room, where the bride's table was done in sunset roses, and in the late afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durst left to spend their honeymoon in Detroit, Toledo, Cincinnati and Cleveland, the bride donning for traveling a handsome wrap of seal and fitch fur, with muff to match. Returning, they will reside in London. Among the relatives present were Mrs. John Diprose, wearing a brown satin gown and brown hat; Mrs. Cummings, in an all-black costume; Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brickenden. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Loukes, of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Burwell, of St. Thomas. The bride is one of London's outstanding vocalists, her magnificent contralto voice winning for her more than local acclaim, and many admirers of her delightful art are charmed to know that she will remain in this city.

Parry-Harper.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of Ascension, Kinlough, on Saturday, October 8, when Beatrice Audrey Harper, daughter of Mr. Wm. Harper, of Parkdale, Toronto, and niece of Mrs. John Hodgins, of Kinlough, became the bride of Mr. Sidney Ormand Parry, of Detroit, son of Mr. Alfred Parry, London, England. The ceremony was performed by the rector, Rev. F. L. Lewin. About 100 people gathered in the church to witness the event. The bride looked charming in her gown of embroidered brown silk ninon, trimmed with fawn silk, and a girdle of brown silk-fringed satin and hat to match. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses. She entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus, played by Mrs. Montgomery, of Kincardine. Her attendant was Miss Mary Craig-Harper, who was gowned in black silk crepe de chine with picture hat to match. Mr. George Hoffman, of Detroit, was best man. The guests numbered about 50. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hodgins, where Mr. and Mrs. Parry received them under an archway of greenery, and where the numerous and costly gifts were displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Parry intend to reside in Detroit after a few weeks' visit in Kincardine Township.

Underhill-MacDonald

The marriage of Miss Anne MacDonald, of Ottawa, to Richard Underhill, of East Oxford, took place very quietly at the Ridout Street Methodist parsonage on Saturday, October 8, Rev. J. A. Agnew officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Underhill will reside in Woodstock.

Beatson-Atkinson.

A charming wedding took place on Wednesday afternoon, October 5, at 2 o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Atkinson, of Lucan, when their daughter, Ida, became the bride of Mr. Joseph E. Beatson, of Granton. The groom awaited the bride under an arch of evergreens, profusely decorated with ferns and autumn flowers.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, entered the drawing-groom as the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was played by Miss Vera Atkinson, sister of the bride. Rev. C. O. Pherrill, of Kirkton, officiated.

The bride wore a lovely gown of ivory satin with georgette panels, trimmed with pearls, and carried a bouquet of sunburst roses. Little Miss Willa Beatson, of Granton, niece of the groom, made a dainty flower girl in a pretty frock of pink silk and carrying a basket of sweet peas. During the signing of the register Mrs. Gambril, of Exeter, sang "Because." The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome pendant with pearl setting and diamond clasp, to the flower girl a dainty ring and to the pianist a beautiful gold brooch with pearl setting.

After the ceremony and congratulations were over, a wedding luncheon was served, the tables and dining-room artistically carrying out a color scheme of pink and white.

The bride received many handsome and useful presents, among them a silver tea service with marble tray and several substantial checks.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Beatson left by motor for Toronto, Niagara Falls and points east, the bride traveling in a navy tricotine suit with panne velvet hat to match and opossum fur choker.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Granton.

CONCERT AT HOME.

A pleasant concert was arranged on Tuesday evening at the Victoria Home, Grand avenue, when Mrs. Joseph Brown kindly arranged an attractive program for the benefit of the nurses and patients. Those assisting were Mrs. Phillippo, Mrs. Fair, Mrs. King, the Misses Margaret and Beth MacGregor, Miss Gladys Brown, and the male quartet of Colborne Street Methodist Church, with Miss Rapsen at the piano. Bagpipe selections were an additional feature that was greatly enjoyed.

DRAMA LEAGUE.

Following the presentation of Sir James Barrie's play, "Rosalind," at the Ryerson School on Monday evening next, the London Drama League will present a second play in St. Peter's Hall, on November 14, when a small cast will present "In Honor Bound" by Sidney Grundy. To cap the early part of the season will come the production of "The Duke of Killicrankie," on December 12 and 13, while still further interesting events are promised for the New Year.

Cradle Roll Party

Members of the cradle roll and infant class, of the First Presbyterian Church, gathered yesterday afternoon in the Sunday school for a jolly tea party, at which Miss Bertha Hodge was the special guest, and to which all the babies brought their mothers. Mrs. George Gillespie received all the guests, little and big, and Rev. Dr. Beattie was there, too, with a word of welcome for everybody. An event of the afternoon was the presentation of some lovely little gifts to Miss Hodge for the little Chinese children away off in Honan, and these Miss Hodge promised, in a charming little speech, to convey with the greeting of the cradle roll kiddies to the Chinese babies when she returns next month. A little talk from Mrs. Stapleton, of the London Child Welfare staff, interested the mothers, who were later entertained at tea. Assisting were Mrs. Arthur Miller, Mrs. Watson, Miss Bradshaw and Miss Simpson, cradle roll superintendents, and Miss Gertrude Bapty, superintendent of the primary department.

ENGLISH VISITOR THINKS RYERSON SCHOOL FINE

A recent interesting visitor to the city was Miss Sawyer, a teacher from the English schools, who was a week-end guest with friends in South London. Miss Sawyer, who left the city yesterday, and who is sailing for England at the first of the month, has visited a number of the Canadian city and rural schools during her stay in this country, and has some interesting comparisons to make. Visiting Ryerson School while in London, the charming English lady was warm in her praise of that excellent institution, though she found the rural schools of the province, with their very youthful teachers, rather a perplexing problem, and one she declared could not exist in England, where the junior teachers are very carefully supervised. Miss Sawyer was a welcome guest of the Froebel Society during their session this week, delighting the members with her informal talk on the English board schools.

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE TALE OF LADYBUG.

PLANS FOR WINTER.

It was almost fall. The nights—and some of the days—were chilly. Those that had spent the whole summer out of doors began to think about where they should pass the winter. Yet everybody was amazed by the news that Mrs. Ladybug spread broadcast. She said that she expected soon to go into winter quarters.

"Humph!" cried Daddy Longlegs' wife when she heard what Mrs. Ladybug was saying. "She never had any quarters, so far as anyone knows. Mrs. Ladybug hasn't been able to tear herself away from the orchard long enough to live anywhere except in the apple trees."

It was plain that Daddy Longlegs' wife didn't believe what Mrs. Ladybug was telling her neighbors. And there were many more folk that agreed with her.

Little Mrs. Ladybug smiled a knowing smile when she heard what her friends thought.

"They'll see! They'll see!" she said. "I'm going to spend the winter in the biggest and finest house on this farm."

That was all she would tell. She wouldn't breathe another word about her plans. And, naturally, everyone became very curious. There wasn't a soul that wasn't agog to know what Mrs. Ladybug intended to do.

The neighbors asked her, begged her, teased her—some even threatened her. But she declined to answer. She said that if she told where she expected to pass the cold months everybody would want to go to the same place and maybe there wouldn't be any room left for her.

Perhaps some of her friends had intended to follow her into her winter quarters. Anyhow, many of them looked guilty when she made that remark. And a few of them looked angry and declared that Mrs. Ladybug was selfish.

"If the house is as big as she claims it is it ought to hold a few extra guests without being crowded," they grumbled.

"Guests," said Mrs. Ladybug, "guests should always wait for an invitation."

"Have you had one?" Buster Bumblebee asked her.

Mrs. Ladybug did not answer his question. Most people thought Buster Bumblebee a stupid fellow. Many people paid little heed to him. Yet, strange to say, he often hit the nail on the head, so to speak. And this time he made Mrs. Ladybug somewhat uncomfortable. She had had no invitation to spend the winter in the fine, big house. But she didn't care to have her neighbors know that.

"There's just one thing to do," Buster Bumblebee decided. "I'll ask the Carpenter Bee if he's building a house for her."

So he went to the big poplar by the brook, where the Carpenter Bee lived. And that mild person himself—sawdust-covered as usual—answered Buster's knock at his door.

"Are you building a house for Mrs. Ladybug?" Buster Bumblebee inquired.

"No," said the Carpenter. "We couldn't agree. She wanted me to work 12 hours a day; and I wanted to work 24. I told her I must have some time to rest. But she couldn't see things as I did."

Buster Bumblebee was puzzled.

"I don't understand," he said.

The Carpenter kindly made matters clear to him.

"I rest only when I'm working," he explained.

ARTS '23 ELECTS.

Officers for Arts '23 at Western University were recently elected at a brief business meeting that ended up with a jolly impromptu dance and supper. The president for the year is Mr. William Beamer, and the executive includes Miss Christine Dawson, vice-president; Miss Helen McIntosh, secretary; Mr. Douglas McWilliams, treasurer, and Mr. Beverley Baker, poet-laureate. Mr. Cecil Wright was named representative to the literary society, and Miss Helen Davey and Mr. Jack Dockstader to the students' council.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

TO SEEK RELIEF IN EMIGRATION

British Authorities Discuss New Plan to Aid Jobless

TO CONSULT DOMINIONS

Another Suggestion Is for Unemployment Insurance

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Emigration and overseas settlement within the empire are said to be among the proposals being considered by the Government for the relief of unemployment. This probably would involve Government grants to assist the emigrants, it was said in authoritative quarters here to-day.

Consultation with the Dominion governments would be necessary, however, before it could be known how the plan would work out, it was explained. Alteration and extension of an export credit scheme is regarded as almost certain to be included in the Government's final proposals. Financial proposals would probably be placed before the House of Commons, relating to grants to local authorities in connection with loans for public improvement and other measures for relief

Another suggestion is for a new system of unemployment insurance, under which a fund would be provided by equal contributions of, say, two pence weekly from employers, employees and the state, but this project would apply only to insured persons. It is expected some plan will have been formulated by the end of the week.

The Prince of Wales, speaking at a meeting in the Mansion House here this afternoon, to further the project of a British Empire exhibition there in 1923, urged that in order to provide employment for the needy work on the exhibition be begun immediately. He asked for a guarantee of £1,000,000 from the banking, industrial and commercial interests of the country, who would be benefited by the exhibition.

FARROW'S COLLEAGUES ON LOAN BOARD NAMED

W. B. Roadhouse and T. R. Jennings Named to Agricultural Development Body.

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—The Drury Government has now completed the agricultural development board by apointing W. B. Roadhouse deputy minister of agriculture, and T. R. Jennings provincial assistant auditor, to be the colleagues of A. G. Farrow, the chairman and executive head.

The main work of the board is "to promote agricultural development by means of loans and in such manner as the board may deem advisable." The board can get money for loans by selling its own debentures, guaranteed by the province, up to a half-million dollars, by issuing debentures, or by borrowing savings deposits in branch offices of the provincial treasury.

Long term loans are limited to British subjects who have had three years' experience on the farm, and been as long resident in Ontario.

A SIMPLE DRESS STYLE.

Pattern 3661 was used for this model. It is cut in four sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size would require 2¾ yards of 36-inch material.

For a slender girl this is an ideal design. Bordered or embroidered materials, crepe lawn, dimity, pongee and linen, also gabardine and taffeta may be used for its development. Smocking, shirring or stitching will form a suitable decoration.

New Ladies' Store For London

Hudson's Fashion Shoppe Will Open At 203 Dundas Street on Saturday, October 15.

London women who have been in the habit of paying high prices for their coats, suits and dresses will welcome the opening of Hudson's Fashion Shoppe next Saturday at 203 Dundas street, where they will be able to obtain garments tailored in the very latest New York and Paris modes without the additional duty and custom charges to pay.

This new ladies' and misses' shop, owned by one of the largest makers of ladies' garments in Toronto, will be able to offer much greater values than London women have been able to obtain, because all the stock will be sold direct from maker to wearer at prices entirely free from any middlemen's and intervening profits. All garments will be tailored in the makers' own shops and sold at prices at least 25 to 35 per cent. lower than would be possible if the regular retailers' profits were added.

A very cordial invitation is extended to every woman to be present at the opening of Hudson's Fashion Shoppe next Saturday, where there will be exhibited a magnificent assortment of the newest fall modes in coats, suits and dresses, in sizes and styles to fit everyone. Special introductory prices will prevail on many lines on the opening day, although no one need feel under any obligation to buy because they come to look. Patrons are specially requested to be on hand early. Doors open at 8.30.—Advt.

WANT CITY PRINTING DONE BY UNION MEN

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—The Toronto job printers, who have been on strike since June, waited on the Board of Control to-day and registered a protest against city printing being done by strike-breakers. They also protested against the proposal to cut the wage scale of unskilled laborers in the employ of the city from 60 cents an hour. The board promised to interview the city clerk regarding the charge that strike-breakers were getting civic work.

Of Course You Admire Beauty

And If Your Face Is Spotted With Pimples and Such Blemishes Get a Box of Stuart's Calcium Wafers To-Day.

All girls realize that to-day they are living in an age of beauty. A clean, velvety skin is a sure stepping stone to success. Unsightly faces, filled with pimples, discolorations, blackheads, etc., are out of tune, they are a discord and are nothing but unhealthy faces due to impurities. Cleanse the system and the facial blemishes disappear.

Stuart's Calcium Wafers show their influence on the skin where they improve and clear the blood. And you'll never have a good complexion until the blood is improved.

No matter how bad your complexion is, Stuart's Calcium Wafers will work wonders with it. You can get these little wonder wafers at your druggist's for 60 cents a package.—Advt.

Curling Hair Like This Promotes Its Health.

For those whose hair is straight and lank nothing better could be recommended than the slimerine method. This insures a beautiful curliness, which is perfectly natural in appearance, and the health of the hair is not affected as where the heated iron is used. A few ounces of liquid slimerine—which, of course, can be had at any drug store—lasts a long time, so it is quite economical to use. It is pleasant to use, too, being neither sticky nor greasy, and is easily applied with a clean toothbrush. The hair should be moistened the full length before doing it up. The pretty wavy effect in evidence in three hours is surprising to those who try this simple method the first time. The liquid also serves as an excellent dressing, giving the hair a delightful gloss. —Advt.

OPPOSE SHIELDS FOR PRESIDENT

Baptists Who Left Church Issue Public Statement

TELL OF MANY QUARRELS

Conflict Will Be Carried to St. Thomas Convention

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—There are some indications that the quarrel between Dr. T. T. Shields, of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, Toronto, and a section of his congregation will be continued in the convention of the Baptist church in Ontario and Quebec, which opens in St. Thomas on Friday. Believing that Dr. Shields intends to run for the presidency of the convention the members of the Toronto church who withdrew after their unsuccessful attempt to oust the pastor, have sent broadcast a letter explaining the trouble. The letter accuses Dr. Shields of making all kinds of misleading statements and says:

"The issue of Jarvis Street Church is not a spiritual one. It does not in any way concern doctrinal issues. It is purely a personal one. Dr. Shields' ways do not appeal to a quiet, peace-loving people such as we are. He is a fighter all the time. He has quarreled with his two church clerks, with his associate, Rev. B. W. Merrill, to whom he hardly spoke civily for several months before his retirement, with his organist and choirmaster, with his choir and with 13 out of 18 of his deacons. Two of his deacons, Dr. D. E. Thompson, K. C., and J. G. Scott, K. C., men known and loved wherever the Baptist cause is known in this land and on the mission fields, not able to stand the perpetual brow-beating and bickerings, withdrew, as did also a goodly number of others who, from time to time, had become discouraged with the situation."

WHAT THE THINKERS HAVE THOUGHT ABOUT MARRIAGE.

Yesterday, when I was looking through my quotation files for something, it seemed to me that almost every other quotation concerned the greatest of human relations. And since 90 per cent. of my readers are married, or have good chance of being some time, I thought they would be interested to know what some wise folks say about marriage.

"Whenever a woman has captivated a man with a lifelong fascination the secret has been that he never exhausted her, that she has been not one but a thousand."—Ellen Key.

"Men get and forget; women give and forget."

"He wondered afterward, the sweetness and the melody were so amazing to him, if they had come out of Mary Neale's unlettered marriage song. He had seen her as a bride, he remembered the rapt, misty look she turned toward Neale, who, having got her, bent his mind to earning the place he coveted, denying her the bread of life. Was Hugh (her son) singing his mother's marriage song and accomplishing on of those divine compensations whereby our bitter waste springs up in largess? —Alice Brown.

Some women when they marry are not content to be the sweetheart and wife, but must also take the place of mother and sisters, too. But let her remember, the woman who closes a man's heart against those of his own blood, that some day the one door she has left open will surely slam in her face."—Cardinal Newman.

"There's one thing that is essential in marriage and that's patience with each other. Marriage is a perpetual concession, surrender—it's an everlasting giving up; that's the divine thing about it."—William Dean Howells.

"Anything that's felt by decent men in love is felt just as truly though not always so strongly by women in love. And if a woman doesn't feel that answer in her heart as to what he feels, why then he's no mate for her. Anything's better for her than going on. Sensual feeling isn't wrong in itself. It's in the world because we have bodies as well as minds. It's like the root of a plant, but it ought not to be a very big part of the plant. It's one of the responsibilities of men and women to help each other to meet on a high plane and on the whole—health's the rule of the world—that's the way the larger number of husbands and wives, imperfect as they are, do live together."—Dorothy Canfield.

"There are storms in every home where there's husband and wife that seem, while they be going on, so terribly tragic that you'd think neither the man nor the women would ever be the same after. They say things and do things and even think things that you'd fear must wreck the home for evermore. Yet the human character in marriage be such an elastic thing and bends such a lot afore it will break, that you'll find after the storm goes over and you be looking about for the wreckage, that married pair will bob up again all trim and taut and no sign of the fearful tempest. 'Tis a daily miracle the world over. In fact, if it's real love 'twill outlast almost any gale that can come against it."—Eden Phillpotts.

"Nay, you will be wisely glad that you retain a sense of blemishes, for the faults of married people continually spur up each of them, hour by hour, to do better, and to meet and love on a higher ground. And ever between the failures, there will come glimpses of kind virtues to encourage and console." —Stevenson.

THE CHILD'S FOOD—I.

The child, from 18 to 24 months, should be fed as follows:

Four meals daily: 7 a. m., cornmeal, hominy, oatmeal, with butter and sugar or milk; or milk and sugar or butter and salt. A soft boiled egg every two or three days. Minced chicken on toast occasionally. A drink of milk. Bran biscuit and butter or stale bread and butter. When egg or minced chicken are given, cereal in smaller proportion or cut out. 9 a. m., the juice of an orange; 11 a. m., rare beef, minced or scraped; the heart of a chop finely cut. Minced chicken, baked potato, spinach, asparagus, squash, strained or stewed tomatoes, stewed carrots, mashed cauliflower. Baked apple or apple sauce, stewed prunes. Stale bread and butter. Sample dinner: Lamb chop, baked potato, stewed carrots, baked apple, stale bread and butter. After the 21st month well-cooked string beans may be given. 2.30 p. m., chicken, beef or mutton broth with rice or with stale bread broken into the broth. Custard cornstarch, plaint rice pudding or junket. Bran biscuit and butter, or stale bread and butter. 6 p. m., farina or cream of wheat (each cooked two hours) from one to three tablespoonsful with milk and sugar or butter and sugar or butter and salt. Drink of milk or malted milk or weak cocoa. Zweiback or stale bread and butter. Wheatsworth biscuit. After 18 months many children will have better appetite and thrive more on three full meals a day at 7 a. m., 12 o'clock and 5.30 p. m. At about 3 p. m. a cup of broth and a cracker or toast, or a drink of milk may be given if it does not take away the appetite for the evening meal. The oatmeal and hominy above mentioned should each be cooked four hours the day before they are used. The cereal should then be of the consistence of this paste. This is strained through a colander and should form on cooling a jelly-like mass.

During the second year three square meals and a little extra, as follows:

Breakfast, 7-8 o'clock. Oatmeal, hominy, cracked wheat (each cooked four hours the day before they are used) served with milk and sugar or butter and sugar. A soft boiled egg, hashed chicken. Stale bread and butter. A drink of milk. At 10 a. m. the juice of one orange may be given. Dinner, 12 o'clock. Strained soups and broths, rare beekstead, rare roast beef, poultry, fish. Baked potatoes, peas, string beans, squash, mashed cauliflower, mashed peas, strained stewed tomatoes, stewed carrots, spinach, asparagus tips. Bread and butter. For dessert, plain rice or plain bread pudding, stewed prunes, baked or stewed apple, junket custard or cornstarch. Supper, 5.30 to 6 o'clock. Farina, cream of wheat, wheatena (each cooked two hours), from one to three tablespoonsful, served with milk and sugar or butter and sugar. A drink of milk, Zweiback or stale bread and butter. Twice a week custard cornstarch or junket may be given. Occasionally malted milk or weak cocoa.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

A SERPENTINE CREPE LUNCHEON SET.

Several of my readers have written to ask me to print an occasional needlework article. So in the future I will comply with this request.

To-day I will describe one of the new serpentine crepe luncheon sets that are "all the rage." These are dainty and yet are a wonderful help to a busy housekeeper because they require no ironing after washing.

This set consists of a centerpiece and six doilies (you can also make six napkins, if you wish, in the same way, only making them a little smaller than the doilies.) White serpentine crepe comes 30 inches wide, so the centerpiece is 30 by 30 inches square and the doilies are 15 inches square (two can be gotten out of the width of the material). You will need 2⅜ yards for this set (30 inches the length of the material for the centerpiece and 15 more inches the length of the material for each for the three pain of doilies). This cotton crepe costs anywhere from 29 cents to 32 cents a yard, according to the locality in which it is bought.

Besides this material you will need about six skeins of either mercerized silk or real silk floss of various colors, and one of the "transfer designs" gotten out by pattern firms. These transfer patterns come in flower designs, butterfly designs and in hosts of other designs; they are stamped on the material by placing the pattern ink-side down on the crepe and running a moderately warm iron over the pattern paper. You will want a small design in one corner of each of the six doilies and a slightly larger design in one corner of the centerpiece (both large and small repetitions of the same design come on these patterns).

After buying your crepe material, however, the first step is not to stamp it; the first step, after cutting it into the centerpiece and six doilies, is to fringe these squares. The fringe runs all around each square and is about three-quarters of an inch deep. Do the fringing with a pin. The selvage edge must be cut off to allow fringing. Although the fringe of this luncheon set does not fray out—even after many launderings—nevertheless many women prefer to guard against fraying by overhanding the material in white floss, or fine white cotton thread, just at the top of the fringe.

Now that you have your centerpiece and six doilies fringed, you can go to work stamping them. Then comes the last step, embroidering them. If you have chosen a butterfly pattern I would advise you to make the circle inside the wings yellow and the border of the wings a different color with each napkin; in this way the yellow spots represent the golden spots on a real butterfly's wings, and yet the other colors (lavender, blue, old rose, etc.,) may be introduced on the different doilies with the gold note the only thing to make them similar.

JUGO-SLAVS REAFFIRM STATUS OF ALEXANDER AS COUNTRY'S RULER

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The Jugo-Slav legation to-day reaffirmed the status of King Alexander as the ruler of Jugo-Slavia, in succession to the late King Peter, and made formal denial of reports that Alexander had abdicated or would renounce the throne. The official statement says the king "does not think of abdicating in favor of his brother George." Many conflicting reports as to the real cause of Alexander's long stay in Paris have been current. One of these is to the effect that he is devoted to a young French woman, who would not be acceptable as queen of the Jugo-Slavs. Another version is that this acquaintance, although pursued earnestly up to a few days ago, has been abandoned and that political considerations are causing Alexander to hesitate as to which course ought to be taken.

What Canada's Mothers know about the Baby's Sleep

IT'S the rare mother who has not built a definite program for Baby's sleep out of the facts presented by Simmons Limited.

The jar and noise of the unsteady or creaky bed are even more injurious to the sensitive nervous system of a child than to an adult.

Regular sleeping habits—the long hours of deep, health-building slumber—are possible only when the crib invites perfect relaxation of nerve and repose of muscle.

Make a Simmons dealer prove to you how much better a Simmons Crib is than an ordinary crib—and what it promises for the wholesome tone of Baby's nervous system.

Woodstock College Plays London Tech To-Morrow

Technical School Team Anxious to Redeem Itself Against Baptists

Woodstock College rugby team will oppose the London Technical School aggregation at Queen's Park to-morrow in an Oxford and Middlesex Rugby Union fixture.

The College students trimmed the "Tecs" by the score of 11 to 1 at Woodstock a week ago and the Londoners threaten to return the compliment when they get the Woodstock squad at Queen's Park.

Coach Fisher has given the boys several new pointers and the "Tec" plays have adopted new signals. They are confident of winning to-morrow's game, and assure the spectators that they will provide a good class of interscholastic rugby.

Miss Collett in Another Match Beats Miss Leitch

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 12.—Miss Cecil Leitch, British, French and Canadian women's golf champion, was defeated to-day in the first round of match play for the Berthellyn cup at the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, by Miss Glenna Collett, Providence, R.I., one up.

Miss Collett outdrove Miss Leitch at nearly every hole and her iron shots were more accurate. Miss Edith Leitch, sister of Miss Cecil, also was eliminated in the first round, being defeated by Mrs. W. A. Gavin, of New York, three up and one to play.

Collegiate Squad Goes To St. Thomas This Afternoon

Annual Intercollegiate Games on Tapis; Rugby Features

Athletes from the London Collegiate Institute will invade St. Thomas to-day, endeavoring to capture the intercity honors. The event of the day is St. Thomas Collegiate Institute's field day sports and three London teams will oppose the representatives of the Railway City in the interscholastic competitions.

The annual rugby clash will be the feature of the program. The London lads are prepared to meet the heavy St. Thomas squad and a battle royal will take place on the gridiron.

The London Collegiate students are of the opinion that London has the best rugby team this season in years and are optimistic regarding the outcome of the rugby game.

Coach A. T. Taylor had the high school boys out for a final practice at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon and the signals were rehearsed for the last time.

The London girls will meet St. Thomas team, and a girls' softball game will be played between teams from the two schools.

London will send a large representation of rooters to St. Thomas to support the three teams, and it is believed by the students that they will return to London to-night with three victories.

Publishing of Odds in U.S. To Be Restricted

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Transmission through the mails of newspapers publishing betting odds on horse races, prize fights and "other contests of speed, strength or skill" would be prohibited under a bill passed to-day without a roll call by the House. Senate concurrence is needed before the measure can become a law.

YOUTI WINS IN CESAREWITCH

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The Cesarewitch, the greatest of the autumn handicaps, and which with the Cambridgeshire, run a fortnight hence, makes so popular a betting "double," was run off to-day at the Newmarket second October meeting over 2¼ miles, resulting in the victory of Mrs. Burnley's four-year-old bay colt Youti, by Santoi out of She, carrying 107 pounds, who, though not one of the favorites, was well backed to win. Mrs. Fred. Hardy's Charleville, carrying 112 pounds, was second, and Lord Derby's Harrier, 116 pounds, third. Seventeen ran, among the unplaced being the favorite, Tishy. Jellis had the winning mount.

Youti, the winner, was quoted 100 to 8; Charleville was 16 to 1 and Harrier 6 to 1.

In a fast run race the field kept fairly close together for one and one-half miles, when Caltrop took the lead from Devises, Youti, Chator and Charleville. At a quarter of a mile from home Youti went to the front and won easily.

The Cesarewitch stakes, named originally after the then heir to the Russian throne has been run continuously since 1839. The race is worth about $7,500 to the winner, and is one of the most coveted trophies of the turf. Many horses famous in turf history, including Derby winners, have run in this race, but the course is long and hard, and it takes a real stayer to win. On the other hand, its twin race, the Cambridgeshire, established in the same year and run off on October 26 next, is a sprinters' race of a mile and a furlong, and brings out the fastest horses in training.

"Y" ATHLETES WORK TO MAKE RELAY TEAM

The Y. M. C. A. relay team, which will participate in the triangular relay race at the Western University field sports to-morrow, will be selected today by David Allan, physical director of the local "Y."

Noonday workouts have been held by the boys during the past week and from all indications the "Y" team members are in the best of condition.

Arnold Bennett, I. McMillan, E. C. Horior, J. Lightfoot and Walter Dutton will try for places on the "Y" team. These boys have all been prominent in athletics and should set a fast pace for the other relay team members to follow.

DOUGLAS AGAIN TURNS YANKEES BACK

(Frank Snyder's Double Ends Deadlock In the Seventh Inning)

WHILE GIANTS HIT MAYS OPPORTUNELY

"Shuffling Phil" Keeps Eight Bingles to Huggins' Batters Scattered for One Run, While His Mates Stand Back of Him With Air-Tight Support; Mays Gave Only Six Hits, Two in the Fourth and the Break Came When Ward Fumbled Rawlings' Roller in the Seventh, Followed by Snyder's Timely Two-Bagger

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Frank Snyder, the Giants' bulky catcher, shot one of Carl Mays' underhand twisters into left center field for a two-base hit in the seventh inning at the Polo Grounds this afternoon and thereby sent home the tally that won the seventh game of the world's series for the New York National League champions.

The Giants, by winning this contest from the Yanks, two runs to one, went for the first time into the lead in the world's championship race, making the count stand:

	W.	L.	P.C.
Nationals	4	3	.571
Americans	3	4	.429

The McGrawmen need but one more victory to give them the series and the big end of the money. If the Yanks win to-morrow and a ninth game is necessary the Giants will be the home team, the Yankees batting first. This was decided in the clubhouse at the Polo Grounds late this afternoon, Commissioner Landis tossing a coin and President Stoneham, of the Giants, called the turn.

To-day's game, probably the best played and certainly the snappiest and tensest of the series, was one worthy of the two pennant-winning clubs. It was witnessed by a holiday crowd of 36,503 persons, a crowd which was by all odds the most demonstrative of all the great throngs which have gathered for these games. It seemed almost as if the roar that greeted "Chick" Fewster, the Yankee lead-off man, again substituting for the disabled "Babe" Ruth, when he stepped to the plate in the first inning, was continued without pause until Phil Douglas, of the Giants, tossed out Wally Schang for the last out in the ninth inning. One side or the other of the partizanly-divided crowd either found occasion to cheer or took the occasion regardless.

THIRD TIME TO MEET.

Once more, and for the third time, it was a case of Douglas against Mays, and for the second time the verdict went to Douglas. "Shufflin'" Phil pitched masterful ball, settling down after a somewhat uncertain time of it for the first two innings, in the second of which the Yankees scored their only tally, and either turning the American Leaguers back in order or skillfully foiling their valiant attempts to put another run across the plate. He was aided by wonderful support by his Giant teammates, not a fielding misplay being made on the Nationals' side.

On the other hand, Carl Mays, while the loser, has to be given credit for an equally notable, if less successful, performance on the mound. The blonde Missourian was steadier than Douglas, not issuing a pass and allowing but six hits to eight for his opponent. But for a slip, most unfortunate for Mays, on the part of Ward in the seventh inning the game might easily have gone into extra innings with the score tied, one to one. The Yankee second baseman's error proved the real "break" in the game, putting on base the runner who has been notably busy around second base all through the series, this time let a grounder by Rawlings get away from him after two Giants had been retired in the seventh inning. Aaron recovered the ball and made a quick throw to Pipp, but was just too late.

SNYDER HITS FIRST BALL.

The play on Rawlings, cleanly made, of course would have retired the side. But Ward's bobble provided an opening of which the Giants were quick to take advantage. Frank Snyder lumbered confidently up to the plate and smote the first ball pitched to him into right field for two bases. Rawlings winged his way around the bases as Miller and Fewster scrambled for the ball, but before it could be relayed in Rawlings was across the plate with what proved to be the winning counter.

The Giant rooters knew no limit in their enthusiasm and it was minutes before the noise and roars subsided as Mays put on steam and fanned Douglas for the third out.

The game was from the very start a nip-and-tuck affair. The second man up on each team, Peckinpaugh for the Yanks, and Bancroft for the Giants, hit for two bases in the first inning, but both were left marooned on the bases.

Then in the second the Yanks broke the ice and sent a run across. Pipp, the first man up, slashed a double to left. Ward then stepped in and with a neat sacrifice advanced the lanky first sacker to third. Mike McNally, next up, proved the right man in the right spot. With the infield drawn in he singled sharply to right and Pipp tallied.

RAWLINGS SAVES SITUATION.

Wally Schang forced McNally at second, but Mays, a powerful hitter, met one of Douglas' offerings squarely and sent it shooting on a line in the direction of right field. Rawlings, however, gathered himself together, leaped high into the air and hauled down the ball with one hand, his great catch retiring the side. Neither side scored in the third, but in the fourth the Giants tied it up. With one out Young got an infield hit off Ward's glove and stole second as Kelly fanned. "Irish" Meusel then lined a neat single to center, which brought Young home with the tying run.

The count remained in its tightly knotted state until the seventh, with its fatal break for the Yanks and the Giants' winning tally.

BAKER HORNS IN.

McNally, whose hit brought in the Yanks' only run, injured his right shoulder in sliding for second base when he was forced there in the second inning. When the Yanks took their place in the field in the third inning Frank Baker, the veteran third sacker, took up the duty of guarding the "hot corner." Baker, with little to do in the field, got into the limelight twice on the offensive. The Yankees had been able to do nothing effective with Douglas after the second, but threatened seriously with two men out in the seventh, Baker contributing a hit here which Schang followed by another safety. Both men were left, however, when Mays grounded out.

In the final inning, with the Yankees needing one run to tie, the first two men were easy outs. The last chance lay with Baker. Frank, as he stepped to the plate, glanced over at the right field stands, where in former years home run hits had badly damaged or ruined Giant chances for a world's championship, and he seemed to be gauging the distance. And then he hit the ball. It was a hard blow, but not of the home-run variety. It shot through Kelly at first for a single.

THE GAME WAS OVER.

Hope, though faint, sprang anew in the Yanks' breasts. Al Devormer, fleet of foot, was put into action to run for Baker. It was up to Wally Schang, but the plucky backstop, though he tried hard, did not have the necessary hit in his system. He fouled off one and then hit to Douglas and the game was over.

LOUISVILLE AND BALTIMORE BEGIN SERIES AGAIN TO-DAY

BALTIMORE, Oct. 12.—The struggle for the minor league baseball supremacy will be renewed here to-morrow afternoon between the Baltimore Orioles, three times champions of the International League, and the Louisville Colonels, 1921 pennant winners of the American Association.

Each side has won two of the four games played at Louisville. Clear and cool weather is indicated, and in view of the heavy advance sale of seats a big attendance is expected.

Jack Ogden, who pitched the two winning games at Louisville for Baltimore, is Manager Dunn's selection for to-morrow's mound work, and it is thought that either the veteran left-hander, Nick Cullop, or Ben Tincup will go to the box for the Colonels.

Hockey League Of M.A.A.A. To Meet To-Night

Norman Graham, Now Vice-President of Parent Body, Will Resign as Hockey Prexy

The Manufacturers' Hockey League will be reorganized for the coming winter at a meeting of the representatives of the London Manufacturers' Amateur Athletic Association, to be held at Briscoe's store, 258 Dundas street, at 8.15 o'clock to-night.

Norman Graham, who has been president of the league for the past year, will tender his resignation, as he has been appointed second vice-president of the L. M. A. A. A., which is the parent body and can not serve in the two capacities.

The officers will be elected for the year and other matters of importance will be discussed. All the teams who were members of the league last year are requested to send representatives at the meeting to-night and any new concerns wishing to participate in the winter pastime will also be at liberty to have delegates at the gathering.

"Champions By Night"—McGraw

Irish Leader of Giants Greatly Disappointed To-Night If This Not True

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The probable batteries for to-morrow are: For the Giants, Nehf or Barnes and Snyder. For the Yankees, Hoyt and Schang.

"If the Giants are not world champions by sundown to-morrow I will be greatly disappointed," Manager McGraw declared to-night.

"Just which one of my pitchers I will work in the eighth game to-morrow I do not know now. Jess Barnes is very anxious to get another crack at the Yankees and has asked me to let him pitch to-morrow's game. I also have Arthur Nehf, Fred Toney and Slim Sallee."

TENNIS CHALLENGE MATCH POSTPONED

The challenge tennis match between Hara and Curry, of St. Catharines, and Boucher and Fenton, of London, for the men's doubles championship of Western Ontario, which was scheduled for this afternoon, has been postponed until Saturday.

HAMILTON SOFT BALL TITLE.

KITCHENER, Oct. 12.—The T. H & B. soft ball team, of Hamilton, maintained their right to the Ontario championship by defeating the Kaufman Rubber Company team, champions of the Twin City E. League, in the second game of the home-and-home games here to-day by and 8-to-4 score. Weston's pitching was a feature for the winners, while the fielding of Weber, for the locals, did much to keep down the score. In the game at Hamilton Kaufmans suffered a 15-to-0 shut-out.

THISTLE CLUB EUCHER.

The members of the Thistle Club are looking forward to Friday evening's eucher. The cosy, well-lighted club room is an ideal place to spend an evening, and plenty of good fellows insure a great time. The fall series opened last Friday and already many more members have expressed their intention of being present this week. As well as the evening's contest, the season's average and lone hand championships are creating a strong rivalry.

Last week's leaders must look to their laurels. Come early to insure a place, as room is limited at 8 o'clock.

Entries Close For Basket Ball At Y. To-Night

Leagues Will Be Composed of Two Series, Giving All Hands a Chance

Entries for the City Basket Ball League will close with Secretary Allan, of the Y. M. C. A., to-night and the teams will then be chosen and the schedule drafted for the season.

The series will open at the "Y" a week from to-night, with three games being staged. This program will be continued throughout the winter months.

Two groups will comprise the league. The first section will contain more experienced basket ballers, while the second one will furnish the material for the junior O. A. B. A. team.

Adequate accommodation for several hundred spectators has been provided at the new Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, where the games will be played.

Babe Ruth To Manage Yanks

Story Leaks Out That Huggins' Sojourn as Leader Ends With Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—For the second time in the history of a world's series the doom of the manager of one of the contending teams has been sealed.

Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, was officially told last week that his services would not be needed after the series was disposed of.

This information was given the writer by one well in the "know" in inside baseball here.

George Herman Ruth, who, as Bambino, King of Swat, is more or less well known to the nation, is slated as a possible successor to Huggins.

The placing of Huggins on the managerial skidway is similar to the action taken in the case of Jake Stahl, former manager of the Boston Red Sox.

Stahl's death knell as leader of the bean town outfit was sounded during the 1912 world's series with the Giants, but for a different reason than that appertaining to the release of Huggins.

It is the consensus of opinion that Huggins has failed flatly as a manager of the Yankees, even though the team came through to victory in the American League.

It was not the guidance of the Miller that carried the Yanks over the top, but only the sheer power exerted on its own initiative. Just what Huggins will do is uncertain. There is a possibility, however, that he will next season be seen in the National instead of the American League with St. Louis as his stamping ground.

WINTER SPORTS.

Days spent in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests, where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glistening crystals, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the icy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cozy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoticed—but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory of Algonquin Park. The Grand Trunk has decided to keep open the Highland Inn, the largest of the park hotels, for the winter season, from December 15, 1921, to March 15, 1922. A handsomely illustrated booklet has been issued and a free copy may be had on application to Grand Trunk agents, or to the Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont. Make your reservations early, as accommodation is limited.—Advt. xJ13l

Grey Worthy Is Winner In Trot

Defeats Periscope and Peter Coley at Lexington Yesterday

LEXINGTON, Oct. 12.—Grey Worthy, owned by Sanford Small, of Boston, added another victory to his already long and notable string at the Kentucky Trotting and Horse Breeders' Association track here this afternoon when he defeated Periscope, Peter Coley and Sister Bertha in straight heats, capturing the Castlton for a $2,000 purse, feature of the program.

The 2.13 pace, the fourth race on the program, resulted in a bitter four-heat struggle, in which Queen Abbe, after finishing second in the first two heats, came back and captured the third and fourth heats. The first heat went to Tony Mac, while Abbe Dale got the decision in the second.

The other events on the program, the Tennessee, for three-year-old pacers, and the 2.08 trot, went to Pelmar and Peter Daw, making it double on the meeting for the latter. Both won their races in straight heats.

The summaries:

TENNIS DOUBLES MATCH FOR WESTERN ONTARIO TITLE BETWEEN LONDON AND ST. CATHARINES

Capt. Fenton and J. G. Boucher, of this city, will play Messrs. Hara and Currey, of St. Catharines, on Saturday afternoon in the challenge tennis match for the men's doubles title of Western Ontario. Arrangements had been made for the players to meet yesterday, but owing to the unfavorable weather conditions the St. Catharines players decided to postpone the trip until Saturday.

Plans are also under way to stage the ladies' single final games on Saturday. The matches will be played on the grass courts at the London Hunt and Country Club, if weather permits, and in the event of rain the games will be played on concrete courts.

WESTERN U. WITHHOLDS FOOTBALL CASTE TO OPPOSE ST. MIKES HERE SATURDAY

Gridiron Pastime Takes New Lease of Life When "Seconds" Organize to Play Sarnia Collegiate Next Week

Coach Blake, of the Western University, has decided not to make known the Western line-up for Saturday until after to-day, as several changes may be made on the team. It is certain that Traynor and Cline will be on the team to oppose St. Michael's College squad in the opening intermediate intercollegiate game.

LEBELL, STAR, COMING.

Coach Troy, of St. Michael's College, has sent information to this city to the effect that the Toronto team is working hard and intends defeating the Londoners in the first contest. Labell, the fast right half player, who was with the Toronto team here a year ago, will return, while Caron, Dillon and Ford, also members of St. Mike's team last year, will be on the line-up Saturday.

The Western boys will work out again to-night and this will be the final practice before the match as the inter-year field sports are to be held to-morrow at Queen's Park.

Albert Brown, of the Hamilton Tigers, will referee the game.

The following will be the line-up for St. Michael's College on Saturday: Ford, flying wing; McKeon, left half; Lebell, right half; Forner, center half; Brown or Kennedy, quarter; Dore, center; Mahon or Lynch, inside; Hitchcox, inside; Caron, middle; Burt, middle; Dillon, outside; McKeon, outside.

SECONDS AFTER SARNIA.

The Western University seconds were organized at Tecumseh Park yesterday and plans are now under way to have the "scrubs" take a trip to Sarnia next week and stage an exhibition match with Sarnia Collegiate team.

Gordon Screaton was named as captain of the seconds, and a practice match was played between the Western firsts and seconds. The firsts won out, but the seconds gave them a tussle and several speedy football players are included on the scrub team.

Frank Snyder, Giant catcher, who is playing gilt-edged ball in the world series. His base hit won the game yesterday.

LADIES' HOCKEY FOR PRESTON ASSURED

PRESTON, Oct. 12.—Preston will have a ladies' hockey league this winter. Four teams are ready to enter as soon as a meeting is called. Preston ladies are also ready to enter the trolley league if same is organized. There is a movement on foot to have a ladies' hockey league, to consist of teams from Brantford, Paris, Galt, Hespeler, Kitchener and Preston. A meeting will be held within the next few days to discuss the possibilities of a ladies' hockey league being organized.

CUP FOR SEAFORTH GOLFERS.

SEAFORTH, Oct. 12.—The Seaforth Golf and Country Club has been presented with a very handsome sterling silver cup, 17½ inches high and mounted on a mahogany base and ornamented with buck horns, for the annual handicap competition, by Mr. Ralph E. Cresswell, of Seaforth.

World's Series Receipts Exceed All Past Records

$82,327 More Already Than in Chicago-Cincinnati Clash With More to Come

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—A new world's series record for receipts was made to-day when the grand total to date reached $807,781. This is $82,367 more than the previous high mark made in the series between the Cincinnati Nationals and the Chicago Americans in 1919.

Should the Yankees win to-morrow's game and force the series into the ninth and final game, the total receipts undoubtedly will pass the million dollar mark. As the receipts stand to-night the total for the seven games is almost twelve times the aggregate collected in the 1905 series between the Giants and Philadelphia Athletics, the first series played under the rules of the national commission.

Another capacity crowd witnessed to-day's game. The official attendance was given as 36,503, and the gate receipts $118,974. Of this sum the advisory board, which succeeded the national commission, appropriates $17,846.10, while the balance goes to the club-owners. The attendance and gate receipts fell a trifle short of Friday's record for the series, there being six paid admissions less and a difference of $33, the third game having attracted 36,509 spectators, who paid $119,007 to see the Giants score their initial victory over the Yankees.

Petrolea Juniors Blank Sarnia Collegiate Squad

Oil Town Again Produces a Rugby Squad, Though Youthful, Who Will Bear Watching

PETROLEA, Oct. 12.—The Petrolea junior O. R. F. U. team this afternoon defeated the fast-going and much-touted junior team from Sarnia in the second game of the series by a score of 3-6.

The Hard Oil kids, under the brainy generalship of their diminutive quarter back, Len Wilson, proved themselves superior to their opponents in every department. The heavy Sarnia line was helpless against the combined onslaught of the Green and White line, while on the back division Keck, McLear, Collins and Dennis outplayed and outshone the Sarnia backs. Perry was the only Sarnia man to live up to his press notices and he is a star always.

The Hard Oils are still seven points down on Sarnia, but hope to overcome this lead in their next two games with the Tunnel Town squad.

That Petrolea is still a rugby town was proven by the large crowd of spectators who braved the elements to see the game. The crowd went home well satisfied that once more the Oil Town has a junior team that will take a lot of beating. The team, under the careful guidance of Lew Gleason, the veteran half back, is rapidly improving, like a well-oiled machine. Teams:

"SEMI-READY WEEK" AT LEO WATSON'S SEMI-READY SHOP

Exposition of the Wonderfitting Physique Type System Exemplified In Genuine Semi-ready Clothes

Commencing on Monday next, at R. Leo Watson's Semi-ready store on Dundas street, will be conducted a Fashion and Fitting Exposition of the Semi-ready tailoring system. He will be aided by members of the Semi-ready staff from Montreal, who bring with them a complete and comprehensive exhibition of garments to fit every man of every physical type—a large stock of suits and overcoats such as few stores can afford to carry.

There will be suits for everybody—including the Goliaths among men.

The display will not be confined to the higher-priced materials, but will include pure woolens at $25 and $30, where will be British navy blue serges of pure wool at the latter figure.

It will be proven beyond a doubt that there is no man who cannot be perfectly fitted in a Semi-ready shop.

It will also be demonstrated that with quality of work and material taken into account, no manufacturer or merchant can offer such splendid values in suits or overcoats.

During the whole period of soaring prices the Semi-ready tailors stuck to their policy of putting the price in the pocket, a price based on the cost of the cloth. No man or merchant could possibly profiteer with Semi-ready clothes.

Leo Watson says "We are showing today's new suits at to-day's new prices."—Advt.

JOCKEY FATALLY INJURED.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 12.—Jockey Frank Coretto, of New Orleans, suffered fatal injuries during a race on the opening day of the fall meeting at Churchill Downs here to-day. Coretto's mount was caught in a jam with seven other horses and stumbled and fell with his rider. Coretto was taken unconscious to the track hospital, where he died. His skull was fractured.

Coretto was about 20 years old and was under contract to ride for Moses Goldblatt, of Cincinnati.

BABE RUTH TO STAY IN STAND

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—"Babe" Ruth's arm is improving steadily, his personal physician, Dr. Geo. King, said to-night, but the chances of his playing ball again this season are as remote as they were two days ago. So Ruth will continue to occupy his seat among the spectators at the world's series.

FOG INTERFERED WITH CRACK SCHOONER RACE

Ineligible Mayflower, Fish-Laden, on Hand to Participate.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 12.—Fog, bane of the fisherman at his work on the banks, came in from the sea to spoil his sport to-day. When it came time for the five crack schooners entered for the ocean race to select a defender for the international fishing vessel trophy to shove off from their docks, the vapors were thick and there appeared little prospect of racing conditions. The wind was light from the east.

Word filtered through the fog that the schooner Mayflower, originally named as defender, then ruled out, was in the outer harbor. Fresh from the banks, with a catch of fish aboard, it was reported that she came to race it out with the fishermen that were scraped and trimmed for the ocean. The committee in charge heard the report and considered what steps should be taken to stop her.

A close race is expected between the Elsie, under the command of Capt. Marty Welsh, who won with the Esperano last year; the Arthur James, the Elsie G. Silve the Ralph Brown, manned exclusively by Portuguese, and the Philip P. Manta.

STEWARDS SUSPEND LYKE AND GARNER

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 12.—Two widely-known jockeys, L. Lyke and M. Garner were suspended for the remainder of the season by the stewards at Churchill Downs to-day for rough riding. Lyke is under contract to E. R. Bradley, and Garner to former United States Senator Johnson N. Camden.

NEWMARKET, Oct. 12.—The Czarawitch race, held to-day, resulted as follows: Youtoi, 100 to 8, 1; Charleville, 16 to 1, 2; Harrier, 6 to 1, 3. There were 17 starters.

Joie Ray Fails To Lower Mark

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Joie Ray, of the Illinois Athletic Club, of Chicago, failed to-day in his attempt to lower the mile record, owing, perhaps, to the poor condition of the track. He did the distance in 4.35 3-5. A stiff wind was blowing down the track which impeded the runner in the back stretch. Ray was paced by four Toronto runners. He received a great reception from the spectators for his splendid showing under adverse conditions. The run was staged as a feature of the 19th annual field day of the University of Toronto.

PLAN SURPLUS FOR CRUCIAL SESSION

Drury Government Anxious to Show Margin Before Going to Country

MAY DO SO NEXT JUNE

Little Doubt Coming Session Will Be Last for Legislature

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Alarmed by the criticism throughout the province of its first full year's record of expenditure, the Drury Government has been strenuously at work in an endeavor to present a more favorable balance sheet to the House at the next session of the Legislature. As a result, it is stated, the provincial treasurer will be able to announce a surplus in his next budget address. The close of the provincial year is still three weeks away, but Hon. Mr. Smith's colleagues have been given to understand that he will have a substantial margin, somewhere in the neighborhood of $500,000, to show when the accountants get through with their work.

IMPROVEMENT EXPLAINED

The improvement from the figures of last year, which showed a deficit of nearly $1,000,000, is said to be due to both increased revenues and decreased expenditures, the various departments having been called upon to cut down on their spending.

The fact that the Drury Government will be able to snow a better financial statement next session fortifies the members of the Cabinet in refusing to listen to the siren voice of farmer politicians, who have been urging them to take advantage of the situation should the U. F. O. do particularly well in the federal election and go to the country as soon thereafter as possible.

"I would never consent to that for a moment," a minister stated to-night. Such a course would not be justified unless we believed we had lost the confidence of the people, and I don't believe we have."

ELECTION IMMINENT

Members of the Government, however, feel that an election next summer, which would give them about three years in office, the customary period in provincial affairs, would not be open to criticism and it is not unlikely that an appeal to the people will be made in June, or, failing that, in the early fall. There is little doubt that the coming session will be the last one before dissolution.

MAY NOT HAVE ARENA READY FOR THE SHOW

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Owing to delay in completing and installing a heating system in the new million dollar live stock arena at the exhibition grounds it may be necessary to call off the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair, which is billed to open on November 16.

President W. A. Dryden, of the Winter Fair Association, wrote to the mayor a few days ago notifying him that the association would hold the city responsible for losses sustained in consequence of the failure to have the building ready.

TIMMINS, Oct. 12.—While working on a subcontract of the town waterworks Adrien Savage, aged 17, was caught yesterday in a cave-in and smothered to death.

H. B. MORPHY, K.C. SURE IN N. PERTH

Enthusiastically Renominated By Government Forces.

IS POPULAR IN RIDING

Former Liberals To Support Party of Premier Meighen.

MILVERTON, Oct. 12. — (By Staff Reporter.) — North Perth constituents of H. B. Morphy, K.C., of Listowel, this afternoon elected him as their representative in the 14th Parliament of Canada. There is a little formality to be gone through on December 6, and some work to be done meanwhile, but the ultimate result is considered all settled.

Aside from the presence of a number of Liberal Unionists who are continuing in support of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and his policy, the striking feature of to-day's convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party was the spirit of unanimity and cordiality with which the late member was tendered the nomination again. Speaker after speaker, from all parts of the riding, expressed in varying terms a conviction that Mr. Morphy, during the past ten years, has ably represented all classes of people in his constituency.

"We want a man big enough to represent the whole constituency, whether they vote with us or against us," said J. J. Mason, of Stratford, "and Mr. Morphy is the man to do that."

ONE NAME ONLY.

The nomination proceedings were exceedingly brief. H. B. Morphy, K.C., was proposed by Thomas George Nelson, Wallace Township, farmer, with Miss A. C. Clayton, of Listowel, as seconder. Mrs. Rennie, of Listowel, moved that the nominations close. The president-elect, Hugh Richmond, of Atwood, declared Mr. Morphy the unanimous choice, and the convention sealed it by singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow." Then they put on a finishing touch by three hearty cheers and a tiger. It would probably not be going too far to venture the assertion that Mr. Morphy enjoys a certain degree of popularity in North Perth.

Willian Preston, of Stratford, a Liberal, who was president of the Unionist organization for the riding in the campaign of 1917, conducted the election of officers, afterwards relinquishing the chair to Mr. Richmond.

"I do not think any of us, Liberal or Conservative, can possibly regret the action which we as individuals may have taken in parting from the old party lines and uniting under one banner of Union Government," said Mr. Preston, "to see that Canada did her share in carrying on the war to a successful finish. (Applause.) There is nothing in my life that I am more proud of than the part I took in the election four years ago. (Applause.) The results of that election, so far as the Government was concerned, justified the action of the supporters of Union Government. The Conscription Act was enforced and Canada rallied to the support of the men at the front, and on the conclusion of the war wound up with a world-wide name for standing behind the empire.

"We now have the National Liberal and Conservative Government, under the very able leadership of Premier Meighen, an old Perth County boy. He has ably demonstrated his qualities by carrying the war into the enemy's camp on any issue they attempted to raise, to such an extent that the platform created by the Liberal convention in Ottawa is practically a scrap of paper.

MR. MORPHY'S TRIBUTE.

Mr. Morphy also paid a tribute to Mr. Preston's work.

"He, with many other Liberals," he said, "stood out in the great crisis that came to this country, left his party friends of a lifetime and joined forces along with many other Liberals in fighting the greatest issue Canada ever had presented to her. It was not by lending his name in a fight that was apathetic, but he gave all the energy he possessed, and it was a good deal. I personally want to thank him and those gentlemen like him who stood out in the crisis of the country's need. That election was fought and won by the manhood of the empire, backed up, if not superseded, by the womanhood of the empire. The hearts of the whole British people were in that fight, and when we find men separating themselves from old party lines we must pay a tribute to them. (Applause.)

A BATTLE OF FARMERS

After addressing the ladies on the importance of exercising the franchise, Mr. Morphy dealt with the Opposition platforms.

"Ask anybody attending a Mackenzie King meeting if they are satisfied with their leader," he said. "Even The Globe ignores him. Any reasoning, unless overwhelming, must be the weaker on his account. Mr. Crerar is more dangerous; he is farther away. He has a policy suited to the West, a policy to enhance the value of Western lands and the prosperity of Western people at the expense of Eastern Canadians, whether farmer, merchant, laborer or anybody else. This, I repeat, is a battle between the Ontario farmer, to preserve his home market, against the Western farmer, who does not care about the home market so long as he gets the tariff reduced and gets into a position to make himself more wealthy.

"The people know where Mr. Meighen stands, but they do not know where the other leaders stand. If Crerar becomes boss, look out for your prosperity in Eastern Canada. Sir Richard Cartwright was a greater man than Crerar. He fought this issue in '78. The people arose and asked for moderate protection, and that has been continued ever since. Sir Wilfrid got in on the opposite policy, but he turned around and adhered to Sir John A. Macdonald's National Policy. Liberals may say, 'that is all right for us,' but is it? It is an abstractism, but really, if a people submit to being hoodwinked by men like Mr. King, they deserve to suffer in their pockets, in their farms and factories, and so I say to you here to-day, this is a serious situation that confronts you.

CLAIMS INDEPENDENCE.

"As your candidate, while once more thanking you for the confidence reposed in me, I want to tell you where I stand. I have been in the House pretty independent, in spots. I have voted against the Government on many occasions upon things that did not appeal to me, though not big issues. I want to reserve to myself, if elected, the right of independence. I want this convention to accept that from me. (Hear, hear, and applause.) There is one thing I do not want any reservation about, and want it understood distinctly here that so long as Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen stands with his flag of moderate protection to the farmer, native industry and workingmen, I want no reservation, because I am body and soul, heart and hand, behind it until the end of this campaign, and there will be no uncertain sound from me. I hope that, as in the past I have been representative of all classes and callings, I will continue to be that."

MEANS ABSORPTION.

"If the United States is allowed to dump its products in here it will soon mean economic supremacy," said Miss A. C. Clayton of Listowel, "and that means national supremacy and absorption. The Liberals, meeting in this hall last week, talked about waving the old flag. There is nothing we are prouder of; it is the emblem of liberty, and we feel the future of our country is at stake. Are we going to lose through economic follies all that our boys fought for and won? Men all over Canada know that Arthur Meighen is a man to be trusted. He has a definite, clear-cut policy. His life dream is to make this Dominion a great and glorious united Canada. Our candidate has proven a wonderful worker during the past most trying years, and no man, woman or child in the riding has a word against him. See that you roll up for his a bigger majority than in 1917. (Applause).

Mrs. Rennie, of Listowel, said: "When you hear them deprecating the flag-waving of last campaign, it is almost more than the mothers of the boys can stand. We may be glad it was waved, and waved to victory, and that it is still flying. A great many women voters are rather undecide about politics. I am a farmer's daughter, and was brought up in a Conservative home, but I have a good, staunch Liberal husband."

The chairman: "Have you no influence over him?"

Mrs. Rennie: "Wait and see. I have had experience under every policy they are bringing up at this election, and if you can find a better platform than that of the Liberal and Conservative party I wish you would show it to me."

Dr. James M. Moore, of Listowel, pointed out that Hon. F. C. Biggs, at Arthur, defending his roads policy, had incidentally brought out an excellent argument for protection. The highways, the minister explained, were being laid in expectation of a big tourist traffic from the United States, which would mean the expenditure in Canada of some $50,000,000 a year, largely on food, "and there is a market for you farmers, right at your door."

A FARMER'S VIEW.

John G. Hamilton, of Milverton, said: "This election should arouse the Canadian people to take a resolute stand for their own interests. A triumph of the present Government at the polls will set this country going on a greater career of prosperity. Being a farmer myself I am naturally in sympathy with the farmer. I operate the farm on which I was born, over 50 years ago, in the Township of Mornington, but I am opposed to class government, for this reason: I feel it is not to the best interests of our country or the riding in which we live. For more than half a century the Government has been in the hands of a Parliament constituted in accordance with the genuine principles of democracy. It represented the people and has known nothing of class. If we allow class government to enter we will have one of the most odious forms of oligarchy. We have one of the most odious forms in the province now, and I ask you if that has been a success. While we are recovering from the blasting influences of the war we want unity and co-operation of the people of all classes. As a farmer I am perfectly satisfied to leave the government of the country in the hands of the National Liberal and Conservative party and to vote for Mr. Morphy, who has been behind every worthy cause for the good of the country and of North Perth."

On motion of Mrs. J. G. Hamilton and Andrew Wilhelm the convention approved the following resolution: "That this convention place on record its unswerving faith and belief in the National Liberal and Conservative Government and its courageous leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, in their fight for the prosperity of the whole people of Canada, without regard to class or occupation."

OFFICERS ELECTED

The new slate of officers is as follows: President, Hugh Richmond, of Elma; vice-president, William Bell, of Atwood; secretary, B. L. H. Bamford, of Listowel; treasurer, Thomas E. Henry, of Stratford; chairmen of municipalities: Stratford, H. W. Strudeley; North Easthope, Andrew Wilhelm; Ellice, D. A. Dempsey; Mornington, William Rutherford; Milverton, George Gunther; Elma, Andrew Sweaton; Wallace, George McKnight; Listowel, R. T. Kemp.

The meeting closed with cheers for the King and Premier Meighen.

CLAIM TWO MAIL BANDITS CAUGHT

Detroit Police Hold Pair for Wayne Street Affair

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—(Special to the Free Press.)—Two participants in the holdup last Friday night of a Royal Canadian mail wagon in Lower Wayne street were in custody to-night, police declared.

Detective Lieutenant McPherson, chief of the black hand squad, said one of the men had confessed. It was on this prisoner's information that the second man was arrested.

McPherson expects to recover the loot. The two held are Joseph Colombo, 27, charged with robbery, armed, and Paul Licari, 30, held for federal authorities.

Police say Colombo was the driver of one of the two automobiles used by the bandits, who blocked the mail wagon driver between Congress street and Larned street west, forced him into an alley and removed 26 mail pouches from his wagon.

BALFOUR WILL HEAD BRITISH DELEGATES

Acceptance is Said to Be Result of Pressure After Refusal.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Arthur J. Balfour probably will head the British delegation to the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern affairs, it was understood in an authoritative quarter to-night. His tentative acceptance was said to have been the result of pressure brought to bear upon him to alter his previously expressed decision not to attend.

It has been definitely decided that Lord Lee, of Fareham, will sail for America on October 26, on the steamship Olympic.

No official announcement has as yet been made regarding the delegation.

The rumor persists that Mr. Lloyd George may reconsider his decision not to go and sail at the last minute.

HARRISON NOMINATED AT NORTH BAY CONVENTION

NORTH BAY, Ont., Oct. 12.—Charles R. Harrison, who represented Nipissing in the last House of Commons, was again nominated this afternoon as the Conservative candidate in the forthcoming general election. A speech was delivered by Hon. Dr. H. J. Manion, the new minister of soldiers' civic reestablishment, who declared that although formerly a life-long Liberal, he had taken office under Premier Meighen because the "platform" of the present premier "contains nothing that a Liberal, other than the free trade element, cannot indorse."

METHODISTS CELEBRATE.

FORDWICH, Oct. 12. — Sunday and Monday were big days for the Methodist congregation in this town. On Sunday they held their annual anniversary services, led by Rev. A. A. Holmes, of Wroxeter, and recently arrived from Newfoundland. The Presbyterian congregation withdrew its services for the day, and Mr. Holmes was greeted with overwhelming crowds. On Monday evening the Willing Workers organization entertained their friends to a fowl supper in the church basement, and a splendid entertainment in the church auditorium afterwards. The concert consisted of solos, recitations, speeches by the local clergymen and a splendid address by Mr. Holmes.

H. C. M'KILLOP W. ELGIN'S CHOICE

Warden Nominated At N. L. C. Convention At Dutton.

URGES PROTECTION

Unanimous Choice Made In Open Convention.

DUTTON, Oct. 12.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Hugh C. McKillop, reeve of West Lorne and warden of Elgin County, was to-day chosen at one of the most enthusiastic conventions in the history of the riding to represent the National Liberal Conservative party in West Elgin in the approaching federal election. The town hall was well filled long before the opening hour of the convention and many of those present had traveled a considerable distance in order to take part in the selection of a candidate.

Four were nominated, but when a vote was taken the contest lay between Mr. McKillop and W. W. Scott, well-known St. Thomas railway man. As soon as Mr. McKillop had been declared elected Mr. Scott asked that the selection be made unanimous. An enthusiastic burst of applause greeted Mr. McKillop's appearance on the platform, at the conclusion of which Chairman J. McAlpine officially extended the nomination to Mr. McKillop, declaring at the same time: "God bless you, my boy; you'll win without doubt."

Others nominated were Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid, former minister of public works in the Hearst Cabinet, and A. E. Ponsford, of St. Thomas. Both declared that they considered the nomination complimentary and they intended to leave the position in better hands. Mr. Scott and Mr. McKillop in brief speeches declared that they purposed allowing their names to go to the convention, but each promised his hearty support to the elected nominee.

REAL OPEN CONVENTION.

The convention was unique in many ways. It was the first time in many years that voting was not confined to delegates only. The chairman in announcing that the convention would be an open one declared that the voter required no qualifications in order to participate in the selection of a candidate. His conscience would be his only guide.

In the election of officers J. McAlpine, of Dunwich, was returned by acclamation to the presidency, while Charles B. McClurg, one of St. Thomas' youngest members of the legal profession, was named as secretary, to replace A. A. Ingram, of St. Thomas, who was unable to look after the duties. George Warney was named as treasurer. In view of the entry of the ladies into political life Mrs. Ralph Reeves, of St. Thomas, was chosen as the first vice-president ever named to the West Elgin National Liberal Conservative Association. Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid declared in moving the election of a lady vice-president that, as the ladies had entered the field, they had a right to hold executive office.

The following district chairmen were named: Bert Sharpe, chairman, St. Thomas; Alex. Patton, West Lorne; Massey Barnes, Rodney; Donald McLean, West Aldborough; Mack McKillop, East Aldborough; A. E. Roberts, Dutton; Herb. Hales, Dunwich; James Gunning, Talbotville, Southwold. Each chairman will name conveners for the polling subdivisions.

On his selection as candidate Mr. McKillop declared that the honor conferred upon him was so great and such a surprise that he could not find words to adequately express his feelings. He had not come prepared to deliver a speech, he said, but he would give the electors a chance to hear him at some later date. He admitted that he had been approached by a large number of friends and urged to accept the candidature, but he said he had never aspired to political honors and it was not until his friends became persistent that he finally decided to at least allow his name to go before the convention.

PROUD OF PARTY.

"I will do all in my power to bring success to your party," he declared. "There is no reason why we can't win in West Elgin and I am proud to be a candidate in support of a man like Hon. Arthur Meighen, our premier. In our leader we have one of the best men Canada has ever produced.

"I have little to say on public questions at present. We know, however, that Canada needs protection for her industries. In this country of ours we have the makings of one of the greatest nations in the world and we must see to it that our industrial development is looked after."

In a brief address Albert E. Ponsford of St. Thomas, an old campaigner, declared that he was with the new candidate to the night of election day. He stated that he had never known a time when things looked brighter for the National Liberal and Conservative party and he looked forward to seeing the election of a Mr. McKillop from West Elgin.

Dr. Michael Steele, of South Perth, in an interesting and enthusiastic address outlined the principal aims and objects of the new National Liberal and Conservative party. There never was a time when the party had more to fight for, or a better leader to give their support to than in the presen campaign. He extended congratulations to the newly chosen nominee and expressed the opinion that the climax to the event to-day would come on December 6 when Mr. McKillop would be declared elected by a good majority.

There had of late been a great deal of pessimism in political life. Both parties had united in supporting the Government for the purpose of bringing the war to a successful conclusion and putting their energy into the war they had forgotten about organization for elections. Two years ago this had been very strikingly proven in the unfortunate result that came from the provincial campaign. The farmers had been organizing and were prepared.

GOOD-BYE, PESSIMISM

"To-day, however, that feeling of pessimism is fast disappearing," declared the speaker. "I know whereof I speak, and I can tell you ladies and gentlemen that the old spirit is taking its place. The old desire for success is taking hold and when the people of Canada realize that perhaps the future existence of our Canada is at stake they will very soon rally to the support of the one party that stands for all races, creeds and political faith, which is to be found in the one led by our leader, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen." (Applause.)

"The war had brought about great changes, but no country was in a better condition socially than Canada, said the speaker. Even Canada, however, faces problems that required much careful thought, in this respect the speaker declared that he was pleased to know that her Parliamentary representatives would be aided by the ladies, not only by their support but by their careful thought. Much depended on the solution of these problems, said the speaker.

It was impossible to have a union of all the people, but in the new National Liberal and Conservative party, the doctor expressed the belief that Hon. Arthur Meighen had the support of the best elements of both the old Liberal and Conservative forces. The man who belonged to the old Conservative party was not giving anything up when he adopted the new title, he said, because in the opinion of thousands of both Liberals and Conservatives the new party was supported by the best of both classes, all working in the interests of Canada's welfare and the continued prosperity of her industrial and national life.

The great question under discussion at the present time was the fiscal policy of Canada. Mackenzie King and his followers had declared that Hon. Arthur Meighen was not fair in bringing the tariff into the campaign. In reality, however, the question was introduced first by the Farmer party. Even during the war the Farmers' party of the West had declared that protection must be removed. The Liberals later, at a convention, had named certain things that should be placed on the free list, and recommended a downward revision of the tariff. They had as yet found nothing to take the place of the tariff as a revenue producer. Hon. T. A. Crerar had mentioned the land tax question, but he asked the farmers present if they were inclined to favor this mode of obtaining revenue to meet Canada's expenditures.

READ U. F. PLATFORM.

Speaking of the Farmers' platform, Dr. Steele declared that it would be wise for every farmer interested in the election to read the platform as it stands at present. He said that there were many planks contained in it that he felt sure the farmers of Ontario had never favored and never would support. In reality it was a Western platform based on the needs of a few in the Western Provinces. Taking it all through, however, he said the party headed by Hon. T. A. Crerar really advocated free trade.

As for the Liberals it was more difficult to decide just what they did want. Mackenzie King had a different platform almost every time he spoke. It was adopted to meet the requirements of the hour.

On the other hand, the Government platform provided protection for the working man, protection for Canada's industries. The United States recently adopted a tariff bill known as the Fordney measure, that placed even greater restrictions on the importation of Canadian-made goods, and in the face of this the Farmers and Mackenzie King were advocating the removal of all protection in Canada.

There had been much talk of the tariff causing rural depopulation. The speaker went at length into this question, showing that in various states in the union where farm implements were sold without duty there were hundreds of farms unused, as the occupants had discovered that they could not make a success on the land. The farmer in Canada only paid at the outside some $30 or $40 per annum in duty on his implements, he said, and Canada's farmers were not suffering from the duty on farm machinery.

Then again there were the American manufacturers who had found it necessary to come to Canada and establish branch factories, owing to the presence of the tariff. They were, as it were, stepping over Canada's tariff wall. Would it be wise to remove that wall and allow them to ship their goods in and give employment to Americans in their manufacture?

Referring to some recent addresses of Liberal followers the speaker declared that much had been said about Canada's immense war debt. If anyone wanted to criticize the war debt the speaker declared that they should pay a visit to the Kaiser, as he was responsible for that debt, and no right-thinking person would say that it was not absolutely unavoidable.

"Let us forget such petty matters and work in the interests of a better Canada," declared the speaker in conclusion.

The Oneida fair, which was scheduled to be held to-day and Friday, has been postponed till October 25 and 26.

Dyspepsia Is Man's Nemesis

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Have Turned Many a Grouch Into a Regular Good Fellow Again —Try Them.

Indigestion makes people feel homeless, despairing, despondent and blue all over. It is only temporary, 'tis true, but while it lasts it's awful. Wise people keep a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets handy to prevent these attacks or relieve them when they come. And such people eat what they like—pie, cheese, sausage, griddle cakes, pork and beans and other such supposedly indigestibles — without suffering from the acid, sour, belching, gassy stomach due to dyspepsia. These tablets give the alkaline effect to thus sweeten the stomach and make it comfortable. Try them if you are subject to indigestion. You will find them on sale at all drug stores at 60 cents a box.—Advt.

You Just Know You're All Right After a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet

FIRE PREVENTION

All This Week

Let's All Get Together and Make London Safe from Fire

Don't just say, "Oh, this is fire prevention week," and let it go at that, but take it upon yourself to see that your home which shelters your dear ones is fireproof. Remember, your babies can't run from fire.

IT'S UP TO YOU!

Get busy to-day, clean up the rubbish, go through the attic, inspect your furnace or stovepipes, make your home safe from fire.

DON'TS For Fire Prevention

Don't allow children to play with matches.

Don't throw away lighted matches cigars or cigarettes; after using it, make it a habit to break the match in two.

Don't go into dark closets, bedrooms or cellars, using matches or candles to light your way.

Don't use kerosene or gasoline in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.

Don't fill any lamp or stove with gasoline or coal oil while they are lighted. Keep the burners of all lamps and stoves thoroughly clean. Fill them during the day time.

Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels. Keep ashes away from boards. Hot ashes will take fire by themselves, as frequently they have small bits of coal mixed in with them.

Don't accumulate rubbish in premises, cellars or workshops, and don't deposit such materials in boxes or barrels unless it is to be removed at once; while awaiting removal, keep such material in covered metal receptacles.

Don't use candles on Christmas trees.

Don't keep matches in anything but a closed metal receptacle. Use safety matches.

Don't have storage closets under stairways. Fires in these places cut off your main exit.

Don't store oils, paints, grease or fats in the house. Keep them outside if possible. If you must have such things on hand, put them in a metal box with a lid on it.

Don't put in the ash barrel such articles as greasy paper, oily rage or waste which has been used to wipe machinery. Such articles may cause fires. Burn these things immediately after use.

Don't neglect to have the chimney flue cleaned once a year.

Don't have lace curtains in vicinity of gas jets.

Don't leave holes in the flooring, walls or ceiling. These enable fires to travel throughout the building when once started.

Don't use celluloid or similar substances near any flame, gaslight or match. They are dangerously inflammable and likely to cause fatal fires.

Don't have short gas brackets or place them close to woodwork or near curtains. Every gas jet should be protected by a glass globe or wire cage. Swinging or folding brackets are never safe.

Don't pour gasoline or naptha down the drain. Pour it on the ground if you must get rid of it. One pint of gasoline, naptha or benzine makes two hundred feet of explosive vapor. One gallon of gasoline has substantially the power equal to 83 pounds of dynamite.

Don't set kitchen or heating stoves close to woodwork. Put a metal shield behind the stove. Leave a little air space behind the shield. Bright tin is the best protector if not placed right up against the woodwork.

Don't use small gas stoves on wooden tables. Place metal protector under them. Be careful in using gas stoves, especially in lighting the oven, and if the meat or grease take fire, shut off the gas and throw salt, not water, on the flames.

Don't look for a gas leak with a lighted match or candle. You might suddenly find it—to your sorrow.

Don't leave doors of heaters or kitchen stovès open unless you provide a wire screen to catch live coals which may drop out, and be sure that the floor and woodwork are protected by metal plates.

Don't tamper with or extend electric wires; employ an electrician.

Don't keep gasoline other than in airtight metal cans painted red.

Don't fail to warn children of the dangerous bonfire.

CAREFULNESS WOULD PREVENT SUCH TRAGEDIES!

TWO DIE IN FIRE, OTHERS HURT.

Man and Child Suffer From Exposure When Home Is Burned.

SASKATOON.—Mrs. Red —— and an infant child were burned to death when fire destroyed their farm near Molfort. Mr. —— and one other child may die of exposure, as they were driven into the night, in a temperature of 30 below zero, in their night clothes.

GASOLINE STOVE EXPLODES. 15 Buildings Destroyed.

QUEBEC.—Fire started by a boy lighting a gasoline stove, which exploded, did damage estimated at $175 000 at Sayabec this morning. Fifteen buildings were destroyed, including the Do'l Hotel, Banque Provinciale, several stores and houses.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS FACTORY AT HARRISTON.

HARRISTON.—As a result of the electric storm which passed over here last night, the furniture factory lies in ruins this morning, it having been struck by lightning and destroyed. Fifty skilled mechanics are out of employment as a result of the fire.

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION CAUSES FURIOUS FIRE.

WINDSOR.—Fired by spontaneous combustion, the waste oil and gasoline dump of —— this afternoon burned for more than four hours before the fire department had it under control.

LITTLE CANDLE KINDLES GREAT FLAME.

A tank containing 7,000 gallons of oil caught fire this morning at the —— Company's plant and was destroyed in a spectacular blaze, the flames shooting high into the air. A workman who was filling the tank used a candle for light and the fumes caught fire.

LIGHTNING KILLS FARMER IN MOW.

Dead When Taken From Burning Barn in Marmora Township.

BELLEVILLE.— ——, of Mormora Township, was struck dead in the mow of his barn during an electric storm which passed over that district early last evening. The barn was entirely destroyed, and sparks carried fire to the farmhouse, which became a total loss.

A WOMAN'S MISTAKE KILLS SELF AND BABE.

OWEN SOUND. — After lingering in agony for nine days, Mrs. William ——, of Derby Township, died at the general hospital this morning of burns caused by an explosion of gasoline. On the evening of December 19 she went to fill a lamp, and by mistake picked up a can of gasoline which had been left in the shed by men who had been running a sawing machine. She was close to the kitchen stove and the fumes caught fire, causing an explosion that enveloped the whole room in flames. Catching her 15-months-old daughter from its cradle she rushed out and rolled it in the snow, but before the flannels were extinguished she and the child were horribly burned. The little one died the next morning, and from the first but little hope was entertained for her recovery.

BOY SAVES FOUR CHILDREN—GASOLINE LAMP EXPLODES.

EDMONTON, Alta.—Clifford —— is the hero of Ross Flats to-day. Left alone in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles ——, 101st street, the boy succeeded in saving his four younger brothers and sisters from a terrible fate, when a gasoline lamp exploded on Friday evening and the frame house went up in smoke.

BURNED TO DEATH.

PARRSBORO, N. S.—Hubert —— died this afternoon of burns he received when he attempted to light the fire in the kitchen stove with oil.

TWO WOMEN SMOTHERED.

Fatal Fire Caused by Explosion of Coal Oil Stove.

FORT WILLIAM.—Mrs. Alex. ——, and a neighbor, Mrs. Peter ——, were smothered to death in a fire last night. The fire was caused by the explosion of a coal oil stove.

SUFFOCATED IN GARAGE.

Going to the garage for her husband early this morning, Mrs. Fred. ——, of 18 Cornish road, found him dead. Fred. —— had gone to the garage to do some repairs. Fumes from the gasoline while the engine was running, it is believed, caused death. He was lying beside the car.

Girl Rubs Gloves Into Flames and Dies as Result of Burns.

CHICAGO.—Boy Scouts and Indians rub two pieces of wood together briskly and obtain fire. Miss Cecella —— rubbed her kid gloves so vigorously that she obtained the same results from gasoline. But the fire killed her.

Her face, arms and body were so badly burned that surgeons could not save her. She had also inhaled enough of the fumes to affect her lungs seriously.

GASOLINE BURNED CHILD.

GUELPH.—Beatrice —— died early this morning from the effects of being burned by gasoline last night. She was standing by while her uncle poured gasoline into his motor cycle. The machine being hot there was an explosion of gasoline, which enveloped the child.

Helen Liktor, aged three, of Pueblo, ——, died of burns received while playing at a neighbor's home, whose child had some matches. Now the Liktors are suing the neighbors for $5,000, claiming negligence in allowing matches to be placed where children could get them.

Control of Fire Waste Can Only Come As the Result Of United Effort of Everyone

Careful Study of Existing Laws and Campaign for Enactment of New Legislation Are Suggested

Fire prevention is a question that vitally interests, not only every Canadian man, woman and child, but every citizen of every country. Canada, however, is the more interested because Canada has the greatest fire loss per capita of any country in the world and is yearly losing not only valuable lives, but millions of dollars worth of property, including the valuable natural resources.

It is estimated that an army of 20,000 persons yearly lose their lives from fire on the North American continent, and statistics show that over 9,000 fires occur yearly in the home of Ontario people, involving not only loss of life, but a huge financial loss. For the continent the total fire loss per year is placed at the appalling figure of $350,000,000 annually.

The first consideration in fire protection is the safety of the community, since if a fire occurs in a community not only one's home is in danger, but those of many people. The first need in the protection of the community is an educational campaign through which there may be brought to the minds of the people the appalling disasters which have occurred and will occur if steps are not taken to prevent them. Continued repetition of these campaigns and warnings will ultimately result in the formation of good habits. Many fires are due to the carelessness and selfishness, if not the criminal negligence of property owners in the towns and cities. Control of Canadian fire waste can only come down through careful study of the existing laws on each province, city and town, followed by the enactment and enforcement of proper legislation to correct bad conditions.

In the prevention of fire in the home, cleanliness of the house and surroundings is the most potent factor in preventing fires. Useless articles which accumulate and are disposed of during the spring or fall house cleaning should be kept down to a minimum. Care should be taken to see that no matches remain in old clothes which have been stored away.

Only safe matches should be kept about a house and they should by all means be kept away from children. The careless throwing away of a match not extinct by smokers and others should be regarded as a criminal offense. Other bad habits which are often responsible for fires are throwing hot ashes into wooden receptacles, using coal oil to start fires, filling oil lamps at night, leaving chimneys and stovepipes too long without cleaning and leaving lighted lanterns in dangerous places. Persons indulging in such practices should be forcibly impressed with the fact that they are flirting with fire.

Special precaution should be taken against the hazard of fire in factories as the loss of these means loss of livelihood to a good many people. Very often a fire in a factory effects a whole community and much hardship and suffering result by reason of the men thus thrown out of work. Here the greatest cleanliness should prevail, especially should there be no accumulation of oily waste, for spontaneous combustion from such causes have been known to occur frequently. Care should be taken to get rid of dust, more especially in grain elevators and flour mills, where fearful explosions caused by the oxidization of such dust are not infrequent. Chemical works and explosive factories should be far removed from a congested area in order to reduce to a minimum the danger in case a fire should break out.

The business district, usually the most congested district in any urban center, possesses peculiar hazards. Irregular roof lines for instance are a great danger in case of fire. Every building should be as fireproof as possible.

The forests of Canada are being depleted at an alarming rate. Settlers cannot escape the responsibility for forest fires for in clearing up land they often build huge fires, which work their way underground and then suddenly burst out in an entirely different locality. Careless campers have also been responsible for huge forest conflagrations by not properly extinguishing their fires or by dropping a lighted match amongst the dry timber.

DONT'S FOR FIRE PREVENTION.

Don't allow children to play with matches.

Don't throw away lighted matches, cigars or cigarettes; after using it make it a habit to break the match in two and put out the cigar or cigarette.

Don't go into dark closets, bedrooms or cellars using matches or candles to light your way.

Don't use kerosene or gasoline in lighting fires or to quicken a slow fire—it may result in death.

Don't use gasoline or benzine to clean clothing near an open flame, light or fire.

Don't fill any lamp or stove with gasoline, or coal oil while they are lighted. Keep the burners of all lamps and stoves thoroughly clean. Fill them during the day time.

Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels. Keep ashes away from boards. Hot ashes will take fire by themselves, as frequently they have small bits of coal mixed with them.

Don't accumulate rubbish in premises, cellars or workshops, and don't deposit such materials in boxes or barrels unless it is to be removed at once; while awaiting removal keep such material in covered metal receptacles.

Don't use candles on Christmas trees.

Don't keep matches in anything but a closed metal receptacle. Use safety matches.

Don't have storage closets under stairways. Fires in these places cut off your main exit.

Don't store oils, paints, grease or fats in the house. Keep them outside if possible. If you must have such things on hand, put them in a metal box with a lid on it.

Don't put in the ash barrel such articles as greasy paper, oily rags or waste which has been used to wipe machinery. Such articles may cause fires. Burn these things immediately after use.

Don't neglect to have the chimney flue cleaned once a year.

Don't have lace curtains in vicinity of gas jets.

Don't leave holes in the flooring, walls or ceiling. These enable fires to travel throughout the building when once started.

Don't use celluloid or similar substances near any flame, gaslight or match. They are dangerously inflammable and likely to cause fatal fires.

Don't have short gas brackets or place them close to woodwork or near curtains. Every gas jet should be protected by a glass globe or wire cage. Swinging or folding brackets are never safe.

Don't pour gasoline or naphtha down the drain. Pour it on the ground if you must get rid of it. One pint of gasoline, naphtha or benzine makes 200 feet of explosive vapor. One gallon of gasoline has substantially the power equal to 83 pounds of dynamite.

Don't set kitchen or heating stoves close to woodwork. Put a metal shield behind the stove. Leave a little air space behind the shield. Bright tin is the best protector if not placed right up against the woodwork.

Don't use small gas stoves on wooden tables. Place metal protector under them. Be careful in using gas stoves, especially in lighting the oven and, if the meat or grease take fire, shut off the gas and throw salt, not water, on the flames.

Don't look for a gas leak with a lighted match or candle. You might suddenly find it—to your sorrow.

Don't leave doors of heaters or kitchen stoves open unless you provide a wire screen to catch live coals which may drop out, and be sure that the floor and woodwork are protected by metal plates.

Don't tamper with or extend electric wires; employ an electrician.

Don't keep gasoline other than in airtight metal cans painted red.

Don't fail to warn children of the dangerous bonfire.

INTERRUPTS BURGLAR, IS BOUND AND GAGGED

DETROIT, Oct. 12.—Bound and gagged, Miss Helen Henkel, 23, looked on helplessly this afternoon while her assailant, a burglar she had discovered at work, continued ransacking her apartment at 641 Brainard street.

She was subdued by the burglar only after a fight. He tied her hands and feet behind her, stuffed her in a sack, and then coolly gathered $250 worth of jewelry, removed $15 from her handbag and departed.

Half an hour later an apartment mate of Miss Henkel returned home from work and released her.

STOP THE FIRE

BEFORE IT BECOMES A DISASTER. DON'T WAIT FOR THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.

Ten minutes' handicap may turn an incipient blaze into an uncontrollable conflagration. Seventy-five per cent. of all fires are extinguished by chemicals, and more by hand chemical extinguishers than by any other means. With a "Pyrene" Extinguisher you can throw a gaseous, fire-killing stream fifty feet. It will seek out fires between walls and floors and places otherwise inaccessible. It has many times the extinguishing power of water and will instantly snuff out fires that water has no effect upon, such as burning oil, gasoline, kerosene, paints, etc. Every home, office and factory should be equipped with "PYRENE" Fire Extinguishers.

EGGS ADVANCE 5 CENTS DOZEN

Live Hogs Firmer In Price On the Local Market.

There was a fairly good local market on Thursday, with little change recorded in prices. The ground is too wet for farmers to do any plowing or other work on the land, and as a result many are coming to market. An abundance of hay was offered on Wednesday, but there was a poor demand, with a drop in price to $16 and $18.50 a ton.

Live hogs took a jump in price and are now selling at $9.25 a cwt.

Wheat has been scarce on the local market since the decrease in price. At present millers are paying $1.10 to $1.15 per bushel. Four loads were sold on Wednesday's market.

There is no change recorded in the price of vegetables. The season for tomatoes is over, but despite this fact one farmer, residing near Ingersoll, appeared on the local market on Wednesday with a large load. They were of choice quality and by 10 a. m. only a few baskets were left. They brought 50c a basket.

Eggs advanced five cents a dozen. They are now selling at 48c by the crate, 50c for baskets and from 52c to 55c retail. Butter remains steady at from 42c to 45c for pound rolls and 40c wholesale.

Grapes and pears are still being offered on the local market, grapes bringing from 60c to 70c, and pears selling at 80c for 11-quart baskets.

Potatoes were plentiful on Wednesday at $1.50 a bushel and from $2 to $2.50 a bag.

FLAT PAPER TRADE IMPROVING.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—That there was an improved outlook for the Canadian flat paper trade was the opinion expressed yesterday at the opening of the fourth annual convention of the Canadian Paper Trade Association, which is being held here, including the wholesale dealers and jobbers in all papers, except newsprint, which is considered in a class by itself. It was pointed out that the paper trade had come through the period of depression without demoralization and that probably now rock bottom prices had been reached, with the prospect that for the future there would be a better demand and increased prices, which would mean renewed prosperity for the paper business in Canada.

MARKS DROP AGAIN.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—German marks fell heavily in the stock exchange here this morning, dropping to 5.40 to the pound sterling. This was the lowest price on record. The fall in the value of the mark was attributed to the report relative to the decision of the council of the League of Nations regarding Silesia.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Resumption of trading in the stock market after the holiday showed no material alterations from recent irregular tendencies. Domestic issues of the several speculative varieties continued to feature the constructive side at fractional gains, but Mexican and European oils were heavy. Royal Dutch losing 1½. Firmness was shown by minor rails and metals, but food specialties, notably American Sugar and South Porto Rico Sugar showed further weakness.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Material declines took place in the wheat market to-day, largely as a consequence of price breaks yesterday in the northwest when the Chicago exchange was closed. A bearish construction that in some quarters was put upon remarks by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace tended also to depress values. Furthermore, a new low price record for German marks was generally regarded as a handicap on grain values. Wheat opened 1¼c to 2¼c lower, scored a moderate rally and then sagged again.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat. Corn, after starting ¾c to 2c lower, underwent a slight additional sag. Initial prices for oats were ¼c to ⅝c down and there were other losses later.

With hog values on the down grade, provisions lacked support.

UNDERWOOD FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

Large Crowd Attracted Despite Weather Conditions

LIVE STOCK A FEATURE

CARGILL, Oct. 12.—The Underwood Fall Fair, which was held yesterday, and which is the last fall fair to be held in Bruce this season, was favored with a large attendance despite unfavorable weather, and was in every way a success.

The horse ring was the main attraction. The exhibits of live stock were exceptionally good. There were more animals shown than since the early years of the fair.

Space in the building was more fully occupied in every department, except fruit, for a number of years. Field roots shown were large and of good quality, and so were the vegetables. There were only a few samples of grain. The horticultural wing was well filled and was a beautiful section of the inside show.

The ladies' department contained a greater array of exhibits than in 1920, and the cooks of the district fairly overcrowded the usual space alloted to them.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD AT TILBURY

TILBURY, Oct. 12.—Anniversary services were held in the Methodist church on Sunday, the pastor, Rev. Geo. Kersey, occupying the pulpit at both services. A visitor in town, Rev. J. W. Richards, of Blairsville, Pa., assisted in the Scripture readings and prayers.

On Monday evening the entertainment took the form of a pie social, at which an interesting literary and musical program was dispensed.

With favorable weather the pavement on Canal street, from the easterly to the westerly limits of the town, will be completed in about 10 days. The section east of Queen street, which is part of the provincial highway, has been completed and it will be thrown open for public travel in two weeks.

Sunday next will be observed as children's Sunday in St. Andrew's Anglican Church. The musical part of the service will be furnished entirely by the children.

There will be a meeting of the young people of St. Andrew's Church on Friday evening for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Anglican Young People's Association.

ILL BUT SHORT TIME.

WALKERTON, Oct. 12.—Mrs. Walter Jasper, a well-known Walkerton lady, passed away at her home on Jackson street at an early hour this morning, following a brief illness. The deceased was in her 58th year. The late Mrs. Jasper was a native of Carrick Township and spent most of her life there. She was a prominent member of the Walkerton Methodist Church. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, Harold, who is in the West, and three daughters, Mrs. Robert Long, of Brant; Mrs. E. D. Bonnell, of Owen Sound, and Miss Hazel, of Walkerton. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

SYNOD ALMOST A UNIT FOR UNION

One Solitary Vote Registered Against Plan.

EPOCH - MAKING CHARGE

Committee To Confer With Other Denominations.

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—With a solitary dissenting vote the lower house of the Anglican General Synod late this afternoon concurred with the bishops in their acceptance of the Lambeth appeal on unity, and agreed to appoint a joint committee to confer with other churches on church union. The vote came only after a debate extending over portions of three days, and was remarkable for its near approach to unanimity. By this action the Church of England in Canada for the first time officially signified its willingness to consult with other denominations as to the possibility of coming to some agreement that may make union possible.

The practical disappearance of all opposition to the sanctioning of a step which marks the epoch-making change in the traditional attitude of the Anglican church was not the least notable feature of a debate and a decision that will be regarded as momentous in the ecclesiastical history of Canada.

THE STAND TAKEN.

The two resolutions which received the concurrence of the lower house, read as follows:

"1. The upper house of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada welcomes and adopts the appeal to all Christian peoples contained in resolution No. 9 of Lambeth Conference.

"2. The upper house accepts the resolution No. 9 of the Lambeth Conference as follows: 'The conference recommends to the authorities of the Church of England that they should, in such ways and at such times as they think best, formally invite the authorities of other churches within their areas to confer with them concerning the possibility of taking definite steps to cooperate in a common endeavor, on the lines set forth in the above appeal, to restore the unity of the Church of Christ.'

"The upper house recommends that all formal invitations to the authorities of other churches within the Dominion of Canada, and all conferences that may result therefrom, be in charge of a special joint committee, to be appointed for this purpose at this session of the general synod."

As the afternoon debate drew to a close feeling in the house grew tense. Cries of "question" greeted members of the laity who rose to speak, and it was only on the prolocutor pointing out that practically all the speakers had been drawn from the clergy that the debate was prolonged. On the conclusion of an eloquent address by Hon. Richard Harcourt, of Welland, cries of "vote" became insistent. With the house in deep silence the prolocutor led in the Lord's Prayer. The putting of the question was greeted with a roar of "ayes," followed by a few almost inaudible "noes."

SING THE DOXOLOGY.

With the call for a standing vote, the house rose to its feet and joined in the Doxology. The psychological effect of the moment was too much for one or two dissenters in the rear of the house, who rose as the words of the Doxology rolled out in ever-increasing strength.

On the prolocutor calling for the negative vote, Dean E. R. Bartlett, of New Westminster, B. C., rose to his feet and faced the synod, a lone last ditcher.

DISPITE ON COMMUNION.

The main motions of the bishops' message disposed of, a situation developed which threatened an extended debate on the question of members of an Anglican church taking communion with other bodies. As it was, it was not till after two hours of proposals and counterproposals at the evening session that the house on a majority vote finally concurred in that portion of the message, which states: "In accordance with the principle of church order set forth in the preface to the ordinal attached to the Book of Common Prayer, it (the upper house) cannot approve the celebration in Anglican churches of holy communion by ministers who have not been episcopally ordained, and that it should be regarded as the general rule of the church that Anglican communicants should receive holy communion only at the hands of ministers of their own church or of churches in communion therewith."

On the introduction of a motion of concurrence by Principal Wells, of Winnipeg, an amendment was introduced by Dr. Lansing Lewis, of Montreal, to delete the latter portion of the clause. A second amendment was then introduced by Archdeacon Cody, of Toronto, seconded by Rev. Dr. R. J. Renison, Hamilton moving nonconcurrence on the ground that the clause dealt with matters of Episcopal administration and might properly be left to the bishops themselves.

"I earnestly plead with this house not to go into the details of Episcopal administration," declared Archdeacon Cody. "Let us go full steam ahead on the main issue. We have adopted the Lambeth appeal. In God's name let us go ahead without getting into innumerable entanglements on its application."

Dr. Renison stated that the clauses referred to contentious matter which would endanger the unanimity of the house and that, therefore, the best thing to be done was to leave the whole matter to the bishops.

"Dr. Cody's motion is very unfortunate," declared Chancellor Kirwan Martin, of Hamilton. "Action on the Lambeth appeal would have been very different had not the members of the house felt that the safeguards in the message of the bishops were to be adopted. If they were not adopted the result would be discord and doubt in the minds of church members."

When the question of church union was taken up before the morning adjournment, Judge Ermantinger, of St. Thomas, did not think further discussion was necessary on the floor of the house. In fact, he felt that further talk would only prove a stumbling block.

In the absence of Dr. Cody, of Toronto, who was to have spoken, Rev. Dr. Seager, one of the provosts of Trinity, gave an address.

"The time has come when the lower house must make a decision on the question as embodied in the Lambeth appeal, sent from the upper house," he said. "We must say 'yes' or 'no'."

He stated that the lower house should concur absolutely with the upper house in the acceptance of the appeal.

PRINCIPLE RIGHT.

Rev. Archdeacon Armitage, of Halifax, believed that no matter what the lower house thought of the appeal, as a whole, there was no doubt but that the principles involved were true to the faith of the church. He paid high tribute to other Protestant denominations with which union was contemplated.

Rev. Mr. Armitage wished there were some Anglican clergymen who possessed the faith and courage of the old pioneer Methodist ministers.

The system under which the church pension fund in the Episcopal Church in the United States is worked out was outlined by Monell Sayer, executive vice-president of that organization in New York. Modern business methods being brought into use was responsible for the successes attained. In the United States at present 99 per cent. of parishes were contributing to the fund.

At the conclusion of the address, Rev. Dr. Seager presented a motion to the effect that a permanent committee on pensions be instructed to take up the consideration of a basis for a Dominion-wide pension fund to consult with diocesan authorities and report the finding to the general synod. This was unanimously carried.

An impressive ceremony was held when the delegates of the lower house stood for one minute in silent prayer for the success of the conference being held in London on the pacification of Ireland. Rev. J. P. Llwyd led in prayer.

SIX MEN WORKED ELIE BANK HOLD-UP

Five Actual Participants Surrender, Sixth Still Free.

STOLE $40,000 IN BOLD COUP

Chloroformed Girl Clerks, But Couldn't Make Get Away.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—Six men were implicated in the robbery of the Bank of Hochelaga at Elie on Wednesday afternoon, according to latest information. The bandits, in order to seize an automobile to commit the robbery, hired a touring car from W. J. Bray, Winnipeg.

Bray picked the men up at the West Hotel and, according to his statement, was to take them to White Plains to look for work. When west of Headingly, on the south side of the river, one of them turned suddenly on him, thrust a revolver into his side and ordered him to stop the car. This he did. He then was ordered to get out, was bound hand and foot and laid in the bushes, one of the party mounting guard over him. Meantime he was relieved of his watch and chain and $3, all the money he had on him.

The others continued in the car. About one-half hour later the man who was guarding Bray loosed his bonds and set him free. He told him that instead of going to do carpentering work the party were going to rob the bank at Elie. With this in mind, Bray determined to get to Elie as fast as possible and endeavor to prevent the hold-up. He ran to the railway tracks, close by, flagged on oncoming freight train and rode to Elie.

The robbery had taken place. Thereafter Bray joined the pursuers. He recovered his car, which had broke down through a break in the radiator.

The sixth man, who guarded Bray, is still at liberty.

COULDN'T GET AWAY.

The Bank of Hochelaga at Elie, 30 miles west of here, was robbed of between $40,000 and $60,000 by five heavily-armed bandits, who escaped towards Winnipeg in a motor car. The robbers held up the manager of the branch and his two clerks, both girls, and chloroformed them to permit of an easy escape. All three will recover. The bandits were later captured.

The safe was rifled and the bandits succeeded in getting out of town before the alarm was given. The provincial police were notified in a few minutes and officers sent out in all directions. Two miles and a half from Elie the bandits' car broke down and by that time the villagers were in pursuit. The bandits took to their heels through the countryside, carrying two big satchels filled with bank notes.

The bandits were captured about 5 o'clock after being surrounded in a haystack four miles from the scene of the robbery.

The men gave their names as Henry Quackenbush, James Redding, Sydney Roberts, George J. Adams and Clarence W. Adams.

No shots were fired in effecting the capture of the men, according to the police department. It was stated at the inspector's office that they "got scared and threw their rifles away."

MINE WORKERS SUSPEND KANSAS DISTRICT LODGE

Row in Headquarters of Miners' Union Reaches Acute Stage.

PITTSBURGH, Kan., Oct. 13. — The Kansas district of the United Mine Workers of America has been suspended by John L. Lewis, international president, it was announced to-day. Alexander Howat and all other district officers are summarily removed, and George L. Peck, until the district's suspension the international board member, has been appointed acting president of a provisional district.

"All loyal miners of the district will recognize the provisional district officials," Lewis declares in a message announcing the suspension.

Peck, in a statement this morning, declares that the miners must go back to work at once. He announced that he would take charge of the district headquarters to-day. With Peck is named Thomas Harvey, suspended secretary-treasurer of the Kansas district, as provisional secretary-treasurer. Harvey has been opposed to Howat in the Kansas union affairs.

Peck and Harvey are ordered to take charge of the headquar

GUTHRIE NAMED IN WELLINGTON

Minister of Militia Numbers All Parties Among Supporters

NOMINATION UNANIMOUS

Opposed by Three Other Candidates in the Riding

GUELPH, Oct. 12—(Special to the Free Press.)—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, was nominated as the candidate of the National Liberal and Conservative party in South Wellington at an enthusiastic meeting which packed the city hall this afternoon. All classes of the community were represented in the gathering, and the presence of many Liberals evidenced the drift towards supporting the Meighen Government as well as the fact that Mr. Guthrie is backed by many of his old time supporters in this election.

No other candidate was even mentioned, and at the close of an eloquent, well reasoned review of public affairs the nomination of Hugh Guthrie was moved by Lieut.-Col. R. T. Pritchard, of Elora, seconded by Dr. A. T. Hobbs, of Guelph, who declared he was a Liberal and not ashamed to own it, and was behind the Minister of Militia. The nomination was greeted with great cheers and carried unanimously, Mr. Guthrie making a few well chosen remarks.

THREE OTHERS IN FIELD.

There are three other candidates in the field in the riding, Mr. Jas Singer for the Farmer-LLP. party; Mr. S. Carter for the MacKenzie King Liberals and Mr. J. A. Oakes as a straight Liberal in opposition particularly to Mr. Carter. It is worthy of note that when the question of endorsing Mr. Singer's nomination came before the Trades and Labor Council last night it was laid over until that gentleman agrees to support the eight-hour day on the farm as well as in the city.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie's speech to-day was an admirable summing up of the Government's record and a review of the formation of union government and the big questions it had to deal with. He characterized the farmers' movement as a selfish and class one, declaring that if they were given the reins of power it would be a disastrous thing for the Dominion. Dealing with the fiscal question, Mr. Guthrie declared that Hon. MacKenzie King avoided some of the things mentioned in the West when he came to Ontario. The Liberal and Farmer platforms were almost the same as regards tariff, but they differ widely from the fiscal policy of the National Liberal and Conservative party, which policy has built up industrial Canada as it is to-day..

UNABLE TO ALTER PREMIER'S TOUR

Arrangements All Made for 22 Speeches in Ontario

Mr. Meighen Twice as Busy as Rival in the East

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Deepite the fact that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's Ontario itinerary calls for 22 speeches within a fortnight, requests are pouring in upon Government headquarters for the prime minister's appearance at nearly every point of importance between Ottawa and Port Arthur. The itinerary, however, can neither be enlarged nor altered. Owing to the strenuous campaign which Mr. Meighen has carried on in the Maritime Provinces his voice is reported to be showing signs of strain, and Government headquarters state that any enlargement of his speaking engagements in Ontario would be unfair and dangerous. Mr. Meighen, it is said, has delivered twice as many speeches in the East as has Mr. King.

In his Ontario tour Mr. Meighen will be accompanied in turns by Hon. J. A. Stewart, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Hon. R. R. Bennett and Hon. R. J. Manion. One of the French-Canadian ministers may also accompany him.

DR. CHAMBERS FOUND ALIVE IN NORTH WOODS

Former Chemistry Professor at Toronto Varsity Discovered After Long Search

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 12.—Dr. Graham ("Foxy") Chambers has been found alive.

Two Indians, members of a big search party, found the missing man at Deer Lake, about 22 miles from Atikokan. He was in a very weak condition.

Dr. Chambers was reported lost in the woods at Atikokan, 142 miles west of Fort William. He was last heard of on September 29, prior to search being instigated. The doctor is a former chemistry professor at Toronto University.

On September 29 Dr. Chambers, with his nephew, started out on a tramp to Eye Lake, 1½ miles from Clearwater Lake, over a good trail. Before reaching Eye Lake the nephew decided to turn back to camp, but Dr. Chambers said that he would keep on

MUST HAVE AID OF U. S. TO SETTLE PACIFIC

Viscount Grey Says Washington Conference Will Do Work Akin to League.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Viscount Grey, the former secretary of state for foreign affairs, speaking at Alnwyck to-night, said that the Pacific question could not be settled without the United States, and that the Washington conference would do work similar to that of the League of Nations.

Viscount Grey believed the United States Government was absolutely sincere and sought no national advantage other than the universal advantage of a Pacific settlement and a diminution of armaments. He hoped that the other nations would go to Washington in the same spirit, laying cards on the table and trusting each other.

"If that is the spirit of the conference," he concluded, "it will realize results as no other conference realized before."

LOWER TENDER GOT THE TIMBER

Evidence at Inquiry in Toronto Explains the Reason

McCREARY HAD WITHDRAWN

Was Paid $1,000 by Wilbert Cochrane, of Sudbury

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Some light was thrown at the Riddell-Latchford timber probe to-day on the transaction relating to the withdrawal of the James McCreary tender for timber with the consent of the Ontario department of lands and forests, leaving the way open for the Spanish River Pulp and Paper Company, whose tender was $50,000 lower than the McCreary tender. The transaction related to the timber in the townships of Groves and St. Louis.

James McCreary, a lumberman of Sudbury, testified that he received $1,000 from Wilbert Cochrane, of Sudbury, to withdraw his tender. He said: "I met Cochrane at the Queen's Hotel after I had been up to the department, and he told me he had heard I was going to withdraw my tender. Jokingly, I said I might if he would pay me my expenses. He asked how much, and I said about $1,000. He said he would fix that up."

Continuing his evidence, Mr. McCreary said Cochrane had given him logs instead of cash. He also admitted that his "expenses" consisted merely of his train fare and hotel bill, a matter of about $60. The remainder of the $1,000 was profit.

It was further revealed that the Spanish River Company, whose tender was accepted instead of McCreary's, had given Cochrane the white pine in St. Louis Township.

Justice Latchford commented as follows:

ARGUES WITH COUNSEL.

"The Spanish River Company's tender, $50,000 lower, was accepted, and within a few hours after McCreary applies to withdraw his tender he gets a reward of $1,000 for doing so, and the man who pays him that gets the pine on one of the townships from the Spanish River Company."

Col. T. A. Gibson, for the Spanish River Company, and G .Howard Ferguson, who was Ontario minister of lands and forests during the period under inquiry, arose together to protest at his lordship's summing up.

"I know how tenders have been manipulated," came back Judge Latchford.

Mr. Ferguson: "Do you mean during your own regime as minister, or during mine? You have been making political speeches and objecting to my doing so. The whole object has been to get something on me."

Judge Latchford: "I resent that statement."

Shirley Denison, K. C., counsel for the crown, then denied the statement made by Mr. Ferguson at yesterday's sitting that he had used timber probe material to make political briefs for the attorney-general. He also declared that some of his papers had been either stolen or tampered with, and Mr. Ferguson's remarks gave evidence of a knowledge of these papers.

"That is a gratuitous piece of insolence, and there is not a tittle of foundation for it," came back Mr. Ferguson.

FIND A TOBACCO MART IN EUROPE

Canadian Association Holds Annual Meeting

DEVELOPMENT IS RAPID

Business to Be Greatest Asset Farmers Have

KINGSVILLE, Oct. 12.—(Special to The Free Press).—The Canadian Co-operative Tobacco Association held its first annual meeting here this afternoon. About 400 representatives were present, growers being here from Pelee Island, Main Shore and Amherstburg to Simcoe.

The manager, John Coghill, in his address, urged the stockholders to stick to the company. He said when they had become members they had only started to co-operate, and no co-operative concern can thrive unless the members pull together. The board of directors had a hard time to get along during the year. Any company just starting would meet with difficulties during its first year, but they had done good work; had built up a business and had enlarged the plant with a view to permanency. It had cost considerable money to do this in addition to establishing offices in Belgium, England and Montreal, and now the company was in a fair way to serve the farmers with less expense during the coming years. All this had been accomplished at the end of one year. He said that the salesmen could not go over to Europe and sell two or three million pounds of tobacco when he was not sure he would be able to deliver the goods.

A GREAT ASSET.

"Put all the tobacco in your own company," he advised; "do not sell to outsiders, because they advance the price.

"We have done in one year what business men and bankers said we could not do," said Mr. Holmes, the salesman, "notwithstanding the crop last year was about the poorest yet. We have established a business in Europe that will prove to be the greatest asset the farmers have."

He knew the opposition had their eye on the company. Only a year ago the trade laughed at the idea of the farmers controlling the market, but today they were waiting for the farmers to establish the price before they made an offer or bought a pound.

The association had procured 7,000,000 pounds of tobacco during the year. Many of the growers had realized about 35 per cent. on their crop, and burley growers in a short time would pay for their crop.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.

The board of directors was the subject of much controversy, some claiming that district representation was not considered, but as a compliment to the board, when the ballots were counted, they were re-elected by a vote of about 90 per cent. of the stockholders present. The board: John Coghill, Kingsville; Roderick McDonald, Muirkirk; Sandy James, Rodney; Mr. Patterson, St. Thomas; Geo. Wiper, Leamington; A. C. Quick, Cottam, and Wm. Lawson, Pelee Island.

HOSPITAL OVERCROWDED.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 12.—At the annual meeting of the Brantford General Hospital it was shown that during the past 12 months 2,775 patients were cared for, maintenance expenditure being $106,727.37 and capital expenditure $3,710. The average stay of patients was 15½ days and the total stay was 42,954 days. Of the 2,775 patients 807 were from the city, 1,132 males and 1,643 females. The accommodation is much overcrowded

LEAGUE FINISHES BIGGEST JOB YET

Reaches Decision on Vexed Problem Regarding Upper Silesia

INVOLVES NEW FRONTIER

Rolls Away One of the Dark Clouds Hovering Over Europe

GENEVA, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The council of the League of Nations has reached a final decision on the Upper Silesian question and has thereby accomplished the greatest task yet set for its determination with greater dispatch than many expected.

The solution reached by the council involves a new frontier line, together with certain measures providing for guarantees against the dislocation of existing economic conditions.

The members of the council are confident that this solution is the only possible one and that it will at the same time roll away one of the dark clouds hovering over Europe and firmly establish the prestige of the League of Nations.

The text of the decision will be published simultaneously at Paris, London, Rome and Geneva as soon as notified to the Berlin and Warsaw governments.

A courier left for Paris to-night conveying the document to M. Briand, president of the supreme council.

STATEMENT ISSUED

A statement issued by the league to-night says that, confronted by the extreme difficulty of conciliating the ethnical and economic elements of the question, the council first of all charged a committee, composed of Belgian, Brazilian, Chinese and Spanish delegates, with the study of the problem. The committee reached the conclusion that a frontier drawn either in accordance with the plebiscite of the economic conditions, without other stipulations, was bound to have unfortunate results.

GRISSEL PRIZE GOES FOR A MOORING MAST

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Canadian Press Cable)—In regard to the lengthy discussions at the recent imperial conference in regard to the development of airships, it is interesting to note that the Royal Institution of British Architects has decided to award the Grissel prize this year for the best design of a mooring mast. The air ministry has exhibited much interest in the competitions and has offered to nominate an expert to assist the prize committee.

Mrs. Rose M. Brown Gained 20 Pounds In Four Weeks Time

Declares It's Simply Astonishing to See the Wonderful Benefits She Has Derived From Tanlac—Says Terrible Headaches Have Disappeared.

MRS. ROSE M. BROWN.

"It sounds unreasonable, but I have actually gained 20 pounds in less than a month's time by taking Tanlac, and the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of this medicine is simply astonishing," said Mrs. Rose M. Brown, 111 Third street, Manchester, N. H.

"Why, I am so happy to be relieved of my troubles I can really never praise this medicine enough. Up to the time I began taking Tanlac, I suffered for something over two years with a very bad form of stomach trouble.

"My appetite was so poor I could scarcely eat a thing. My stomach would be so badly bloated with gas sometimes I was almost afraid to go to bed for fear I would actually smother. I felt tired and worn out most of the time and became terribly discouraged over my condition. I often had such violent headaches I was unable to be out of bed for two or three days at a stretch.

"Four bottles of Tanlac completely restored my health and anyone can see at a glance the wonderful change that has taken place in my condition. I have a splendid appetite now and the stomach trouble has entirely disappeared. I can eat just anything I want without ever feeling a sign of indigestion. The best of all, I am never bothered any more with headaches and this was the greatest relief of all. I want to tell everybody what this medicine has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by leading druggists everywhere.

LEAGUE BACKS UP ATTORNEY-GENERAL

STRATFORD, Oct. 12.—At the 25th annual convention of the Stratford district of the Epworth League, held here, the following resolutions were adopted:

"That we express our appreciation of Attorney-General Raney's stand on race track gambling and other law enforcement, and pledge our support to him in carrying out this policy.

"That inasmuch as there is such a prevalence of profanity in modern fiction, we voice our disapproval of the flippant taking of the name of God vain, and urge upon our young pe the need of reading clean, wholes literature."

Your Body Needs these Mineral Salts

The Economy of Wincarnis

The ingredients in Wincarnis are highly concentrated. The prescribed dose is one to two tablespoonfuls (not wineglassfuls as in the former preparation.)

The New Wincarnis therefore, will go further and be found more economical than other tonics, so-called, requiring a much larger dose.

It needs Iron and Manganese for enriching the blood.

It needs Phosphorus for Brain and Nerves.

It needs Calcium, Sodium and Potassium because these Phosphates are essential for Bone and Tissue-Building.

BUT, alas, your system is using up these mineral salts more quickly than your food and rest is restoring them. You must supply the deficiency. How? Through WINCARNIS, which contains them all in scientific proportions—and which, with the extracts of Malt and Beef and Wine,—forms a tonic which has no equal in the world.

Wincarnis Will Give You New Health and Strength

It is a Tonic, Restorative and Blood-builder all in one. That is why it promotes new strength, new blood, new nerve force. It builds up — it tones up — it strengthens.

Doctors recommend WINCARNIS. Thousands of people the world over testify to its wonderful results.

YOU try it. Buy a bottle to-day. At all druggists. Price $1.50 for 16-oz. bottle.

POLICE CHIEF SUED BY LAWYER FOR RECOVERY OF PRISONER'S MONEY

Man Sentenced For Fraud Had $25 On Him When Arrested.

INTERESTING CASE TO BE HEARD ON OCTOBER 21

Chief Refuses Payment On the Ground Money Was Illegally Obtained.

Chief of Police Robert Birrell is the defendant in an action which is being brought in the first division court by J. M. Donahue, a local barrister. The claim is for $25 which the plaintiff claims the chief refused to surrender on an order from the owner of the money, who was sentenced to five years on several charges of fraud.

In the statement of claim the plaintiff declares that he presented an order to Chief Birrell on September 22, signed by one Graham, and that the defendant refused payment of the amount of the order, $25.

It is said that the chief refused payment of the $25 on the grounds that the money had probably been obtained illegally by Graham and that in this case it did not belong to the prisoner.

UNUSUAL CASE.

The case is a most unusual one and is attracting some attention. It will probably come up for trial before Judge Joseph Judd on Friday, October 21.

A Canadian version of the Public Defenders' Act may be introduced at the next session of the Ontario Legislature as a direct result of a suit entered by Attorney J. M. Donahue against Chief of Police Birrell.

Mr. Donahue pointed out that he was not after the money, but that he wished to have it made a matter of record how the interests of prisoners are being disregarded under the existing system of prosecution whereby any lawyer may be appointed to defend a person charged with crimes who has not the means to hire counsel, but the lawyer so appointed receives no payment whatever. Crown attorneys, on the other hand, have a direct pecuniary interest in securing conviction, Mr. Donahue alleges.

MAY SELECT LAWYER.

The British Public Defenders' Act gives a prisoner charged with crime, who hasn't the money to pay a lawyer's fee, the right to select his own lawyer from a list which includes both distinguished and unknown names, and the state pays the lawyer so selected for conducting the defense.

Another version of the public defenders' act is in force in the American State of California, where the public defender is a state appointee ranking with the prosecuting attorney. And while the state supported prosecuting attorney works for conviction, the public defender works just as hard for acquittal in cases where pauper prisoners are on trial for crimes.

"The adoption of a public defenders' act in Ontario has been recommended by the crown commission investigating the crown attorney's offices," Mr. Donahue stated, "and that recommendation should be translated into law if the ideal of British justice is to be preserved amongst us."

CHILD'S HANDS CUT OFF; JURY AWARDS $60,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Sixty thousand dollars, said to be the largest sum ever awarded by a jury in this state as damages for injuries to a child, was the verdict returned yesterday in favor of eight-year-old Rose Cattani against the American Railway Express Company. An automobile hired by the defendant cut off the little girl's hands while she was at play on the sidewalk in West 49th street, September 8, 1920.

VITAL MATTERS NOT REACHED YET

Irish Parley Discusses Breaches of Treaty At Outset.

ALSO DOMINION STATUS

Utmost Secrecy Is Maintained As To Sessions.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The conference of Sinn Fein leaders and members of the British Cabinet convened at 11 o'clock this morning in Mr. Lloyd George's official residence, No. 10 Downing street, with the view of reaching an agreement as to a basis for settlement of the Irish question, and adjourned at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon until 3.30 p. m. on Monday.

The utmost secrecy has been observed by both parties involved in the negotiations and little information has been gained by the public regarding the subjects under discussion in the meetings already held. It was understood, however, that violations of the truce in Ireland had been considered and that financial arrangements between Ireland and Great Britain in case the Government's offer of dominion status should be accepted had been taken up.

There seemed to be considerable optimism in both the Sinn Fein and British circles here over the continuance of the conference, but it was recognized that the vital matters at issue had not as yet come before the negotiators.

NO HITCH THUS FAR.

While the conference was in session to-day, Desmond Fitzgerald, Sinn Fein minister of propaganda, said that no hitch in the negotiations thus far had occurred and that the Sinn Fein delegates anticipated prolonged proceedings.

All the Irish representatives are members of the committees to which special subjects have been submitted and these committees have been conferring with different members of the British Cabinet and Government experts. A general agreement, except on some points of detail, has been reached on the truce question by the committee dealing with it.

Commandant Barry, the Irish republican liason officer for Munster, where a great deal of friction has occurred, has been summoned to London for consultation with the Sinn Fein delegates.

The Sinn Fein representatives have formulated complaints as to conditions in the internment camps, especially that on Spike Island, in Cork harbor, where allegations of harsh treatment have been made against the British troops. These complaints have been referred to Gen. Sir Neville MacCready, commander of the British forces in Ireland, who is investigating them.

BANDIT SUSPECT SAYS HE IS FROM NORFOLK

D. L. Efler, Held For Manitoba Affair, Gives Waterford as Address.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 14.—D. L. Efler, alias H. King, alias "The Kid," was yesterday arrested in connection with the sensational robbery at Elie, Manitoba, where five men on Wednesday held up the Banque De Hochelaga and carried away about $1,000. He gave his address as Waterford, Ont. The police believe he is the man who stood guard over W. J. Bray, the chauffeur, whose car was used to make the journey to Elie.

The other five participants were arrested two hours after the robbery.

BANK ROBBER FAILS ONE DAY, SUCCEEDS NEXT

Gets $2,000 From Branch of Union Bank In Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—The gunman who yesterday was foiled in an attempt to rob the Bank of Hamilton, robbed the Union Bank at the corner of Locke and Main streets to-day.

He said: "They got me yesterday, but they won't get me to-day," and, covering the clerks with a gun, grabbed $2,000 and made his escape.

SUGGEST PLAN OF RATIONING WORK

Manchester Chamber of Commerce Memorializes Lloyd George.

BANKS TOO CAUTIOUS

Nothing In the Nature of Inflation Should Be Permitted.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—After a long discussion of the unemployment problems of England The Manchester Chamber of Commerce has suggested that the Government inforce a system of rationing of work so as to spread it among the greatest number of workers.

The chamber has also memorialized the premier, remarking on the distinct improvement noticeable in the textile trade and urging the cancellation entirely or partially of the inter-allied war indebtedness, in order to maintain this.

It was further declared by this important mercantile organization, while generally admitting the importance of a wise and reasonable policy being maintained by the banks, it was felt that the caution was being carried in some directions to a greater degree than events justified. It was thought that nothing in the nature of further inflation should be permitted.

City Clerk And King Seconds In Fight

Incident Occurred At Westminster When Both Were College Boys.

CITY OFFICIAL WAS FEATHERWEIGHT CHAMP.

Victor Was Given Sovereign and Loser Got Half of This Amount.

King George of Great Britain and City Clerk Baker once together acted as seconds of a college street fight between two undergraduates in old England. The story came out as a result of Rev. Dr. Beattie's anecdotes at the Canadian Club last night on the human side of royalty.

The incident occurred at Westminster, Mr. Baker stated, when the present city clerk was a student. The King was then plain Prince George—the sailor prince.

A party of Westminster students, including Mr. Baker, were walking down Victoria street, near the college, when they ran across two youngsters fighting. A ring was formed and Prince George, who came up while the ring was forming, and Mr. Baker, were selected to act as seconds.

"I was the featherweight champion then," said Mr. Baker, with just a touch of pride, "so there was reason for my selection. I don't recall, though, how the prince was selected. No one knew who he was. The fight went on and we both encouraged our principals and saw that the fight was on proper lines. After is was over the prince left, giving the victor a crown and the loser half a crown. A 'bobby' who had come up during the mill informed us that the generous second was none other than Prince George of England, who is now our King."

RAIL EXECUTIVES TO REDUCE RATES

To Cut Charges In Proportion To Future Wage Reductions.

STRIKE IS UNLIKELY

Men Do Not Want To Quit Work, Says Lee.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Confronted by a possible railroad strike over wage reductions and insistent demands from shippers for lower freight rates, railway executives, meeting here to-day, discussed a proposal to reduce transportation charges in proportion to future wage reductions.

The railway executives, it is reported, also will consider a proposal to seek an amendment to the transportation act transferring to the Interstate Commerce Commission the wage-adjusting authority now vested in the railway labor board. The railway executives declined to indicate what definite steps were under discussion for proposing further wage reductions, which under the plans would be necessary before shippers could expect freight reductions.

STAVED OFF BANKRUPTCY

The July wage reduction of 12 per cent. ordered by the railway labor board, the executives declared, merely staved off bankruptcy for many roads.

The strike vote of the brotherhoods and shop crafts resulting from this wage cut, it was declared by the executives, was but a farce to ward off any further wage reductions. Some of the union leaders admitted that the vote did not mean a general walkout of the railroad employees, although it was reported that October 30 had been tentatively agreed upon by the union heads for sectional strikes of the employees if strikes were finally decided upon.

"The men do not want to quit work," said W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. "The officers of the various unions don't want to declare a walkout because they know such action would be foolhardy."

An opportunity to present the employees' claims to the conference of executives was asked in a message to T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the conference, it was said, and several of the union chiefs were still in the city awaiting results of the executives' meeting.

AMEND PIECEWORK RULE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—The United States Railroad Labor Board to-day authorized the railroads to open negotiations with the unions for the restoration of piecework, barred by rule one of the shop crafts' national agreement, entered into under the former railroad administration.

ACCEPT $1,000 FINE FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Oklahoma District Court Sets Precedent For Procedure.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 14. — Legal procedure, said by local attorneys to set a precedent, was recorded here when a jury in the district court, which had heard evidence against Napoleon Bulon Buffalo Head, wealthy Indian, charged with killing his wife, returned a verdict of guilty of manslaughter and accepted a fine of $1,000. The jury is understood to have stood originally 10 to 2 for acquittal. Unable after several votes to agree, the fine was accepted as a compromise, according to jurors.

CREW ESCAPES WHEN VESSEL IS SEIZED

SYDNEY, N. S., Oct. 14.—Cape Breton police to-day are searching for the crew of the American schooner Vagrant, who deserted their vessel when it was seized by Capt. Bragg, a preventive officer, at Gabarus Harbor. The schooner had been towed to Louisburg by the cutter Restless and $15,000 worth of liquor on board will be held in a bonded warehouse here. The liquor is reported to be the property of a Boston man, who sailed with the crew of the Vagrant.

Civic Heads Declare University Campaign Of Supreme Importance

Building Up of Western the Greatest Task That Confronts London, Say Mayor and Members of Board of Governors.

APPROVAL OF NECESSARY BY-LAW IS URGED AS FORWARD STEP FOR CITY

That the completion of the plan of expansion for the Western University, which has been under consideration for a number of years and which will be commenced in earnest in a few weeks, will be of more importance to London than any other one event in the city's history, is the general opinion expressed in civic circles to-day. Mayor Little points out that the citizens could not do anything that would give the city such a boost on the forward march towards a position of outstanding importance on this continent as would the approval of the expenditure of $250,000 on university construction this year.

Philip Pocock, a member of the board of governors of the Western University, expressed the same opinion. He pointed out that if the ratepayers could only realize what this move will mean in the near future they would not hesitate for one moment to approve the necessary by-law.

In this connection it is noted that within the next year or so practically $2,000,000 will be extended on university buildings alone, and the annual maintenance charges thereafter will be at least $1,000,000. Included in the general educational outlook for London is a $500,000 Roman Catholic girls' university college, which is to be built concurrently with the Western.

CAMPAIGN WILL GROW.

Then within the next five years this building campaign more than probably will be increased to $4,000,000, including the various schools that will be erected by the Catholics, which will be affiliated more or less with Western.

Mayor Little asserts that the university question is the one thing of supreme importance to London at this time. There are other matters engaging the attention of the aldermen now, but all those fade into comparative insignificance in the light of the needs of the university. To fail in taking advantage of the golden opportunity that is offered London in connection with university expansion would be a blow to the city from which it would not recover in many years. As important as factories are to a growing community, the new university will be of more value to London than would five new industries, it is asserted.

DATE GROWTH FROM 1922.

It does not need any special vision to see that the London of the future will date its rapid growth from the year 1922, when the new university is first opened. It is predicted that within but a few years the population of the city will be nearly doubled.

In fact, it is the general opinion, as expressed to-day, that within a short time London will be recognized as one of the first cities of Canada. An educational center is always an important community, and as such holds a high position in the cities of the continent, it is pointed out.

1,000 REQUEST WILSON TO RUN

Popular Alderman Backed By Soldiers and Labor.

FOR CHAIR OF MAYOR

Decision Will Be Made After Careful Consideration.

Petitions from over a thousand voters of the city urging him to allow his name to be submitted in the coming mayoralty contest have been presented to Ald. Cameron Wilson. He is considering the situation and promised to give an answer within a few days. Prominent business men, labor representatives and returned soldiers have signed these petitions in large numbers and many are backing this up by their personal solicitations in an effort to have Ald. Wilson enter the race.

His many friends point out that since entering the Council two years ago Ald. Wilson has given a good account of himself. While he has not accepted the chairmanship of either of the standing committees he has done excellent work as chairman of several other important subcommittees of the Council. At present he is actively engaged, as chairman of the unemployment committee, in arranging to take care of the situation during the coming winter.

CAREFUL CONSIDERATION.

Ald. Wilson has promised his friends that he will give the matter his careful consideration. While he has had no time yet to inquire into all phases of the question and cannot give his answer at once, it is confidently hoped that he will accede to the request of his friends and will allow his name to go before the electors in the race for the mayor's chair.

TO HONOR LATE SENATOR.

TROUBLE BREWING AT L. S. R. BARNS

Men Not Satisfied With Hours and Protest.

ATTEMPT DIVISION

Railway Management Strives To Split Employees' Groups.

A little trouble is again brewing between the London Street Railway Company and its employees. The latest difficulty has arisen out of the new schedule which was recently put into effect, and it concerns the barn men particularly. The men who work in the barns are not too well satisfied with the hours they are now working. The executive committee of the union waited on the management recently with a view to having the matter straightened out, but nothing definite has yet been accomplished.

It is understood that the company has suggested a committee of the barn men be named to deal with the situation. The officials intimated that they would be willing to meet such a committee. But the executive committee will not agree to such a proposition. It is pointed out that it would not be feasible to have two committees, with a consequent division of power. All negotiations must be carried out through the one executive head, the men say.

So far as can be learned the management of the company and the present executive committee are not any too friendly as the result of the charges which have been made by the committee regarding the alleged "mismanagement" of the road. The case was taken to President Currie by the members of the executive, but nothing further has been done with it.

However, it is believed that the present difference regarding the barn men will be amicably settled in the near future.

WORKMEN PINNED DOWN BY BEAMS

Steel Girders Crash On Five Men At Windsor.

TWO SERIOUSLY HURT

Seven Steel Beams Go Down Like Row of Pins.

WINDSOR, Oct. 14 — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Five workmen were injured, two seriously, when seven steel beams crashed down on them at the new Ouellette Market, a few minutes after 10 o'clock this morning. Four are at Hotel Dieu.

The injured are: H. C. Holdis, Detroit, superintendent of the works for the Windsor Construction Company, Ltd.; Charles Ford, Windsor; John Bain, Walkerville; Charles Miller, Ford, Ont.; William Muichleson, Windsor. Holdis and Ford were seriously injured and their condition is said to be dangerous.

Just what caused the beams to fall is a mystery. About 10 men were engaged as usual in the work of constructing the new market when a steel beam at the west end of the structure creaked. The three-inch plank which was used as a brace suddenly fell forward and the beam fell to the ground. No workmen were engaged at this end of the building, but almost simultaneously the falling plank struck a forward beam, knocking it to the ground. Each of the seven beams was knock down in this manner, the workmen having but little chance to escape from the crashing structure.

The five men were all struck by the framework, each beam weighing thousands of pounds. Less than half a dozen workmen who miraculously escaped injury were powerless to remove their unfortunate comrades from beneath the beams. They secured horses and a block and tackle to move them.

RETIRE MEN ON MENTAL NOT PHYSICAL AGE IS FUTURE POSSIBILITY

Rudolph Pinter, M. A., Ph. D., of Columbia University, Advocates New System.

TEACHERS ELECT OFFICERS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

Teaching of Religion In Schools Is Approved By the Association.

Mental age and not physical age may in future be the determining factor in the retirement or dismissal of men from business activities. A man's ability to successfully emerge from a series of mental gymnastics such as modern school children undergo may yet have a greater influence with the "boss" than valued services extending over a period of many years.

All this is forecasted in the address, "The Use of Combined Mental and Educational Tests," given to the London Teachers' Association to-day by Rudolph Pinter, M. A., Ph. D., professor of educational psychology, Teachers' College, Columbia University. Psychologists, he pointed out, are exploring into the realm of business and may soon evolve an invaluable system that will grade the mental caliber of men which a firm employs.

Not only for employees, but for employers and men at the helm of business, will this system be of assistance, it was explained. When a man feels that he is losing his grip on business and that his efficiency is decreasing all that is necessary is for him to submit himself to a mental examination, the results of which will tell him the plain, unvarnished truth. The tests will also indicate facts which even a family physician would scarcely have the temerity to point out.

TESTS GOOD FOR ALL.

Professor Pinter declared that he knew of a prominent man in the States who controlled vast interests and who considered a practical system such as outlined worth at least $100,000 to his business. The dullards, who might be "getting away with something," would be weeded out or placed in categories where the remuneration was not so great, while opportunities would be found for the man who was mentally alert, but who was marking time in a subordinate position.

Mental tests, said the professor, were just as good for adults as they had been proved to be for children. After the age of 20 the average person did not grow intellectually, but merely accumulated knowledge. His native capacity for work was developed principally during the earlier years, so that it was possible to set up standards for the measurement of this mental age through similar tests as those given in the public schools to-day. The mental gymnastics were not all of the rudimentary nature, because examinations could be set that not even professors and other intellectual giants could master entirely.

INCREASE EFFICIENCY.

Regarding the measurement movement which had been developed in recent years for school children, the professor stated that when carried out with common sense it would result in increased efficiency for individuals, for classes and for schools. The bright student was stimulated and given chances to advance, while the stupid one was not given educational indigestion by having advanced studies thrust on him.

Heterogeneous groups were replaced by homogeneous classes and the teacher was able to educate minds which were all of practically the same caliber. Mental make-up varied so tremendously that all children cannot be made to go at the same rate. The bright student should not be retarded and the mentally abnormal should not be prodded.

The measurement movement, said the speaker, was divided into two types, the educational and the mental. The educational tests enabled a teacher by aid of a definite measurement factor to determine the intellectual advancement made by students in the ordinary subjects of the school curriculum. They were not intended to supplant the other

FORESEES TIME WHEN MAN WILL BE STATIONARY

LONDON, Oct. 14.—According to Dr. H. Gervis, a well-known Brighton surgeon, the prevalence of varicose veins and many other human afflictions is the result of man walking upright instead of going on all fours, as it was originally intended he should. The doctor says further: "I imagine we shall reach the stage when we shall become mere stationary beings, conveyed wherever we wish to go by mechanical means." This will be the lazy era.

MANY IN FIELD FOR CITY HONORS

20,000 Voters Eligible For Aldermanic Fight.

NOMINATE IN 39 DAYS

Formation of Women's Council Being Mooted.

Nominations for civic offices are now only 39 days away and this year nominations will be a different matter than hitherto. For instead of selecting aldermen from a few thousand electors qualified to hold such office, the door is now thrown open to any of the twenty odd thousand citizens listed on the 1921 voters' list. There are some 5,000 women eligible for aldermanic honors or even for election to the mayoralty.

This change is expected to result in the greatest list of nominations since the day when London was officially declared a city. For, it is pointed out, nominations may now be made either in compliment or revenge. The nominating of some retiring citizen who prefers to blush unseen and unheard in the municipal political garden would, it is believed, be nothing short of torture. Complimentary nominations may be used by the experienced candidates as a means of getting extra votes. The aldermen from ward five, for instance, could nominate all his opponents and on their names appearing in the list would immediately conclude that the aldermanic diplomat was not such a bad fellow after all and "let's re-elect him."

The formation of a woman's council in London is being talked of in feminine political circles. Such an organization would be, if carried out as in other cities, a central representative federation of all women's organizations in the city. This body might include home and school clubs, women's social clubs, women teachers' federations and other organizations made up entirely of women.

The woman's council would exert a profound influence on municipal affairs even its worst critics state, and it would pave the way for the entry of women into the municipal electoral field.

KIWANIS CLUB CHEERS J. B. HAY TO ECHO

Rev. Dr. Beattie Gives Interesting Address — Report On Club Dance.

The Kiwanis Club, at its noonday meeting to-day, gave J. B. Hay an enthusiastic reception. He was carried into the dining-hall of the Tecumseh Hotel and every member of the club shook hands with him and congratulated him on his new appointment. He was assured by the president, A. J. Mitchell, that every member of the London club would be back of him this coming year in making Kiwanis a success through the provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

The speaker of the day was Rev. Dr. Beattie, the new pastor of First Presbyterian Church, who was chaplain-general of the Canadian forces overseas. He told a series of amusing stories to emphasize the spirit of the Canadian troops, their self-sacrifice and the influence upon them of sentiment.

A report was given on the result of the dance held at the Winter Gardens on Thursday night. The net proceeds will be $375, which will be devoted to the work of the club to the underprivileged boys of London.

WITNESS IN MURDER CASE ON HUNGER STRIKE

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Stanislaus Tomachuk, detained as a witness in connection with the murder of Onofre Batura and his wife, found brutally clubbed to death last Friday in Lachine, has refused to eat since Sunday and still persists in refusing food. Told by the police chief of Lachine that he would die if he did not eat, Tomachuk replied: "I want to die. I want to go and see my God." He is very nervous and continually paces his cell.

Missing Society Woman Is Found Shivering In Woods; Soon In the Hands of Friends

Miss Pamela Beckett, of Old London, Discovered In Helpless Condition In Cuffley Woods

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Mystery still surrounds the case of Miss Pamela Beckett, a young society woman of this city, who was discovered yesterday almost helpless in Cuffley Woods, after she had been missing for three days. It seems that she wandered for nearly 20 miles before being found and it appears that she was trying to reach a house in Barnet, where until about a year ago her family lived. She was within four miles of Barnet when discovered.

A motor cyclist named Hughes had dismounted from his machine and was walking through Cuffley Woods in search of berries when he saw the girl lying on the ground, shivering. He had not seen late newspapers and was unaware of the girl's identity, but it being evident she was very ill, he offered assistance. She replied she was "all right," and said she wished only to be left alone. A local resident happened along and he and Hughes renewed the proffer of help, declaring they must tell the police if it was refused, as it was obvious she was unfit to be left alone. She seemed unconcerned and repeated her wish not to be disturbed. After 20 minutes they succeeded in persuading her to take a seat in Hughes' sidecar and she was taken to a local inn, where she was placed in charge of the landlady.

When questioned further the girl said she had eaten nothing since she had left her home on Monday afternoon and had been walking about ever since. She refused to tell where she had been and, although she said her name was Beckett, she declined to say where she lived or to allow word to be sent to friends. Later Hughes learned of the girl's disappearance from the afternoon papers and communicated with the police, and her relatives brought her home.

SEPTEMBER FIGURES SHOW CANADIAN TRADE DECLINE

Drop of $92,000,000 In Total Figures Reported At Ottawa For Last Month.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—During September, as compared with September a year ago, the total value of Canadian trade declined over $92,000,000. For the six months ending September, in comparison with the corresponding period of the previous year, the decline was over half a billion dollars. For the month of September in the two years the figures are:

	September, 1920.	September, 1920.
Merchandise entered for consumption	$115,121,588	$ 59,721,602

POOR IN THIS WORLD'S GOODS BUT RICH IN THE LOVE OF A TINY NAMELESS BABE

Man and Wife Proudly Ask For Birth Record of Little One Born Under Bar Sinister.

The significance of the parable of the camel and the needle's eye was illustrated at the City Hall to-day. Again was it proved that Charity is a child of Poverty and dwells ever in hovels. Her distant relative, Philanthropy, may dwell in marble halls and ride in limousines, but men turn from her as she rides in state.

A man and wife appeared before the statistics clerk's desk early to-day. The man, who owns a little truck garden west of the city, bore a wee babe in his arms wrapped lovingly in white blankets against October's morning chill and also because the little one in his arms is held by a slender thread only from the land of blessed babies.

"I want to get a record of the baby's birth," he said. "Don't you know?" said the amazed clerk. "No," explained the man, simply. "This is my adopted child. I need the date of birth to make out a proper record."

WANTED LOVE OF BABY.

"Yes," the foster mother explained, "I lost my baby this summer and we adopted this one. I wanted a baby, you see."

She also told how the little one had been brought into a sad world under the bar sinister. The ignorant little unmarried mother didn't know how to care for it. Laudanum had been used to quiet it, she said. "When I got the baby," the woman stated, "it was blue about the lips." Malnutrition and dope.

"It's doing fine now," she pointed out, lifting unbelievably tiny hands. "I think we will be able to raise it."

"Can you beat that?" said a banker who overheard the conversation. "Here are these people with one little boy about ready for school, as poor as poverty, but their hearts are big enough to take in this little waif. Yet there are rich people who lavish their affections on a dog!"

MUST EXPLAIN LOSS OF WHISKY

NOT STOLEN, IS CLAIM

Police Suspicious and Court Action Follows.

The mystery that Charles Matthews will be asked to explain to the police magistrate on Monday is "how can 20 cases of whisky disappear from a man's home within three days unless it was sold, always providing that it was not stolen?"

On an appearance before the court on September 16, on a charge of O. T. A. violation, Matthews said he made it a habit to keep liquor in the house. He has purchased 25 cases, he said, and of that quantity still had 20. Three days later the authorities obtained a search warrant and went to look for the 20 cases. It had disappeared, and as Matthews did not allege that he had been the victim of robbers he will now be asked where it went to.

He was arraigned in court this morning, and at the request of his counsel, W. R. Meredith and Albert M. Judd, the case was adjourned until Monday.

OPEN SCHOOLS FOR MEETINGS

Belong To Public, Says Trustee Rowe.

NO RIGHT TO REFUSE

Trustee Thomas Rowe takes issue with his colleagues on the question of allowing the schools to be used for discussion of questions concerning the country. While he does not wish to criticise them too strongly, he thinks the members of No. 1 committee of the board took the wrong attitude in refusing the use of Pottersburg School for a public meeting recently.

"The schools belong to the public, and while they are primarily for use in the instruction of the boys and girls, they should be open to any number of citizens at reasonable times," said Mr. Rowe. "We, as custodians of the buildings, have no right to refuse any request made by the public for the holding of meetings of interest to the community. On the other hand, we should see that the schools are used to the greatest possible extent. If we do not accomplish this we have failed in our duty to the public."

In his inaugural address, made when he accepted the chairmanship of the Board of Education, Mr. Rowe urged that the schools should be used as community centers. Only in this way could they be made to serve the public as it is reasonable to expect they should. But Chairman Coleridge, of the board, and the members of No. 1 committee apparently take the view that the schools should not be used outside of the regular teaching periods, which total not more than 180 days in the year. They are not to be used by the public that can secure no other convenient hall in which the public questions of the day can be discussed.

SAYS WESTERN FARMERS HAVE BIT IN TEETH

Clair Jarvis, head council commander of the Woodmen of the World in Canada, has just returned from the Canadian West and in an interview to-day stated that the West, so far as either political party was concerned, was already married to the agrarian movement. "They have taken the bit in their teeth," he stated, "and are beyond reasoning with."

Mr. Jarvis went to Western Canada, on his official lodge duties and participated in the opening of a new Woodman camp in Fort William. That camp is now one of the strongest fraternal bodies in the West.

"Fort William and Port Arthur," he stated, "are comparatively prosperous. There is not so much unemployment there as in other Western cities and I believe they have a wonderful future ahead of them. Particularly so if the talked-of St. Lawrence development scheme goes through."

The local executive council of the Woodmen in London will meet next Wednesday night to discuss plans for the Woodmen's war memorial that will be erected next year, funds for which have already been collected.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 14.—Rose betimes with all the news being how the New York Giants do win this world series of base and ball. Which excites a friend to write me as follows: "Dear Doc. Pep: This base and ball game was once again where the 'Yankees' did not win the fight!" Which is a mighty pertinent comment and for myself pleased beyond anything that these Giants win owing to the names of them and also that we have a pool on the game, which I win, my number being "one," and never in the world imagined that I would be lucky on it. And a peculiar thing is how they have an umpire named Chill at the plate, which methinks was a cold service.

If there be no mental reservations or otherwise to the action of the Anglican Church Synod in the matter of uniting churches—and there is no reason for suspecting such—then this church has done the greatest thing for the bringing of humanity nearer to God than any other on this continent. For on the day when we lay the demon of creed in the graveyard of other prejudices and vice we have outgrown, then on that day Christianity marches forward as a disciplined battalion again and not as a mob.

Methinks eyes are the most beautiful things on the earth when they be beautiful. The sweetness of eyes like the purple heart-ease flower shot through with little silver threads of joy meanwhile concealing in their depths a shy surrender and a bashful adoration. Or eyes of brown, like topazes seen inside an ancient cathedral. Sober eyes of gray looking the whole world quite pensively in the face, or the steel fires of Viking-blue eyes in the heat of battle. And above all that color which is beyond describing, which dwells in the eyes of mothers holding babes in their arms, and the look of a maid dreaming of her lover.

A new telephone maid to our phone instrument machine, which connects all our offices for talking now and then. So presently she calls our chief of management, saying: "I refuse to work here any longer!" "And why so?" asks the chief. "Because of the things said over it by hounds of news!" "Oh, that's all right," he replies, "you can't expect to work around electricity and not get shocked!"

A correspondent sends me in a good story which is so old that it is now new again, what with people home-brewing their liquors and other secret actions. "A man charged with booted-legging appears before a magistrate," says my correspondent. "What might your name be?" asks the judge. "Johshua," says the man. "Ah," replies his honor with a silly smirk, "the man that made the sun stand still? "No I beant," replies the man, "I only made the moon shine!"

Which reminds me how last night I be awakened on towards day by some zaney ringing at my door bell. So up finally in the middle of the night and to answer it. "Let me in, Jhames!" this caller states. "I am to be the Queen of zhe May to-morrow (hic)." So I yell at him: "You have the wrong house, you drunken varlet, begone!" But he leers at me saying: "Not zhe wrong house a-tall, you're in the wrong street yourself!" So comes a policeman and induces him to go on his ramble towards his real home. Which contents me.

At dinner last night we be startled half out of our wits by a hen chicken jumping up to our dining-room window and pounding on the glass in the highest way. It being a white hen chicken and after driving it away it comes again and all of us to turn pale to our gills bating nephew, for we Pepyses have always held that any peculiar actions of animals or fowls to be portent of some notable event that will come to us. Which when my Great Uncle Zerubabel Pepys dies of eating too much haggis one time, three days before his death the family cat do bring in kittens one morning from the barn and one of them is spotted like a leopard. Which kitten, as soon as Uncle Zerababel dies, do give one awful squawk and dies also. Which was mighty strange.

Comes a man to a local bank yesterday and asks them to renew his bond for purchases of butter, cheese and eggs. But the bank, after considering the matter, refuses utterly to renew this note and the man near faints. But he suddenly takes a grip on himself, asking the manager: "Were you ever in the cheese and dairy business?" "Never in my life," says the manager proudly. "I thank St. George that I be a financial man." "Well you may never have been in the cheese business," replies the bondmaker, "but you are in it now!" So he goes out leaving his note on the desk.

Out to the Canadian Club last night and to hear Rev. Dr. Beattie speak to them. His speech dealing chiefly with how the King do grow more beloved to this empire each day and especially how during the warr he goes to a hospital and sees a colored Canadian soldier lying with no hands and no feet and he weeps over him like a father, saying: "My God, my God." And it is such tales as this that we need to be told, and not these memoirs of senile men on the secrets of their dead sovereigns. And after hearing this anecdote told by the former chaplain-general of our troops methinks we do sing "God Save the King" better than at most other times.

Word from Montreal that they make Lord Byng a doctor of laws and he immediately tells them that he has no Latin hardly, never going any further than Henry's First Book. "Which," his excellency observes dryly, "I know not if this Henry ever wrote a second book or who he was." A better title for my Lord Baron of Vimy would be Doctor of Wit.

GRANT TO STAND TRIAL FOR THEFT

Alleged To Have Stolen Auto From Park.

BAIL FOR LANGRIDGE

Harold Greason Is Honorably Discharged By Court.

The theft of Charles Bond's automobile from Springbank Park in June last, upon which the city police have been working ever since, was aired at some length in police court this morning when Harold Greason and George Grant were arraigned charged with the theft of the car and Charles Langridge was charged with being an accessory after the fact. Greason was speedily freed, however, as the crown attorney withdrew the charge against him and he was honorably discharged. George Grant was committed to stand his trial and Langridge, the chief witness against him, was allowed out on bail on his own recognizance to appear when called upon and answer the charge of being an accessory after the fact.

Charles Bond, the owner of the car, was the first witness. He said he drove his car from the city to Springbank Park on the evening of June 16. At the park he left the car near the pavilion and went for a short walk. When he returned the car had vanished. Some weeks later he was taken by police officers to Langridge's farm on the sixth concession, and in the bush back of the farm he saw and identified parts of his car. The car had been burned, but a carrier which he had put on himself was sufficiently preserved to enable witness to swear it was his.

NUMBER TAMPERED WITH.

To Mr. Henderson, who appeared for Grant, witness said the serial number of his car was 98,532. The numbers had been partially chiseled off, but "32" remained. He was positive that the debris and at least some of the parts which he saw in Langridge's woods came from his car.

Charles Langridge, of the sixth concession, said that his brother, George, in company with Grant, came to his place on the sixth concession with a car. They said they had come to fix it up and put it in his barn. Later he heard that his brother and Grant had been arrested for stealing a car. He then took the car they left in his barn to the woods back of his place and burned it.

Mrs. Charles Langridge told a very confusing story. At first she knew nothing about any car, but after the crown attorney reminded her that she told a different story to the police her memory improved and she remembered having seen Grant and George Langridge carrying the top of a car out of the barn and putting it in the car in which they were driving. After George Langridge had been arrested she left the sixth concession and came to live in the city. She declared she did not know that her husband had burned the car.

This concluded the crown case and the defense did not submit evidence. Grant was then committed for trial, while Charles Langridge was admitted to his personal bail on a charge of being accessory after the fact.

COMING YEAR WILL SEE CITY ENTER PROSPERITY PERIOD NEVER BEFORE EXPERIENCED

Prominent Contractor Predicts Much Building Will Start In Few Months.

January and February of 1922 will see the beginning of London's greatest expansion, was the opinion expressed by John Putherbough, contractor, to The Free Press to-day. Indications are not lacking, he pointed out, that with the coming in of the new year and the settling of the Dominion's political questions, that London will enter a period of development such as the city has never experienced before.

He pointed out that well on to two million dollars of construction might be started in the first two months of 1922, insofar as the weather permits. Tenders would at least be called on proposed construction in order that the work might be gone ahead with as early in the spring as possible.

Builders and contractors generally feel that London will be one of the chief beneficiaries of the coming era of prosperity. For while London has suffered but slightly in business depression, the city will benefit to the fullest possible extent from the coming upward swing of good times era. London will have the added advantage of starting from the level of mere slack times, while many other cities will have to regain much lost ground before joining the march of business and industrial progress.

London's building record is considered one of the surest records of its rock foundation stability. To-day the city building inspector reports that only $20,000 more permits need to be issued before the record of 1920 is passed. The year's building record stands to-day at $2,126,000.

URGENT APPEAL FROM SHANTYMEN'S C. A.

Objective in London $1,500—Money is Badly Needed for Splendid Work.

The Shantymen's Christian Association has been making its annual appeal in London. The sum so far collected amounts to $330. Mr. Joplin has just returned from Toronto, where he has been in conference with the executive and learns that the number of missionaries required in the camps will be larger than first expected. This will mean increased expense. It is hoped to put a staff of 30 men into Ontario this winter. Splendid testimony was given to the value of the work in this city by a returned soldier to a local physician. The returned soldier said: "Had it not been for the work of the Shantymen's missionaries he might have been a criminal instead of a good citizen." A young man in Toronto told a minister that as a result of meeting the Shantymen's missionaries in British Columbia the whole trend of his life had been changed and he was entering a college to study for the ministry. Mr. Joplin will be glad to hear from as many people as possible, as he would like to make up $1,500 for the City or London. Contributions will be thankfully received. Address Rev. Thomas Joplin, care Y. M. C. A., London, Ont.

ST. THOMAS WOMEN VISITORS TO CITY

Women's Missionary Society Guests of Wellington Street Church Organization.

A very pleasant afternoon was spent by 45 members of the Women's Missionary Society of the Grace Methodist Church, St. Thomas, on the occasion of a fraternal visit to other members of the society at Wellington Street Methodist Church, this city. Mrs. Fred. Baynard, president of the women's activities of the Grace Church, presided at the meeting and was introduced by Mrs. Joseph Holliday, president of the women's department of the Wellington Street Church. The directors were Mrs. Thos. Finley, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Barrett.

A solo was rendered by Mrs. Longhurst and a duet by Mrs. H. B. Stevenson and Mrs. W. B. Armstrong. Mrs. C. W. Busby gave an interesting synopsis of "China's New Day," and Mrs. Bradley spoke on the need of workers in the ladies' auxiliary. Mrs. W. A. Adams gave several well-rendered selections on the piano.

Following the meeting a social hour was held in the sunday schoolroom and lunch was served by the hostesses.

MOTHERS DEMAND ELIMINATION OF MUD

Claim Children At Knollwood Park School Wade Through Water.

Indignant because their children "wade to school through a pond of mud and water," the Knollwood Park Mothers' Club, at their meeting last evening, determined to again demand that the Board of Education install an adequate drainage system in the school grounds, or at least fill in the hollow land surrounding the school with sufficient cinders or other material to insure a measure of dryness.

The mothers declare that while the school building is in excellent shape the grounds are untouched, and though an appeal went from the club to the Board of Education last spring, no action has yet been taken. Recess periods are spent, according to the club members, on the porches and verandas of the school, and wet feet and muddy garments are a common condition among the pupils since the fall weather set in.

Realizing that the ground about the school is of a peculiarly swamp variety, the mothers are firm in their determination to forestall worse difficulties next spring by a second very strong appeal to the board to at once take steps to rectify present conditions.

Items of club business on last night's program included arrangements for a December bazaar, by which the club will raise funds for the Children's Hospital. A solo by Mrs. Balch, accompanied by Mrs. Greenslade, was greatly enjoyed. For the next meeting the president, Mrs. Short, announced Mrs. John Rose, union club president, as the speaker.

A thorough examination by F. Steele, optician, 210 Dundas street, will settle any doubt regarding your eyes. f

BURNHAM SAYS PAPERS IN LONDON ARE NOT MAKING ANY PROFIT

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Lord Burnham, prominent newspaper proprietor, who was chairman of the imperial press conference in Canada in 1920, while speaking here at the industrial conference, declared that not a single London newspaper was making a profit at present. Further, he said that not a single paper mill was producing a profit. Lord Burnham, who is a landed proprietor of considerable wealth, said that 15 shillings in every pound of his income was required to pay his taxes.

MASTER PLAN OF CITY UNDER WAY

Area Divided Into Several Zones.

DATA BEING SECURED

Delegates Going To Town Planning Conference.

London's master plan, the map that will guide the future expansion and development of the city for the coming century, is now well under way, it was announced to-day. The master map is being prepared by City Engineer Brazier and staff, with the co-operation and advice of Thomas Adams, Dominion town-planning expert, who is now London's special town-planning engineer.

This master plan divides the city into four major zones, and these zones are further subdivided. One zone is for major manufacturing plants; another demarks the limits of the wholesale district and indicates the probable extension of the retail section; a third zone is for purely residential purposes, which includes South London across the Thames. This district, it is understood, will never become a manufacturing area, so far as can be foreseen at present.

STUDY FOR FUTURE.

In the meantime the city engineer's staff is making a series of studies dealing with special town-planning points. The extension of sewers, fire protection, parks, new roads and bridge approaches are being laid out with a view to the future.

The committee itself is securing all the data possible on its powers under existing legislation rather than confining its efforts to securing larger powers through the Ontario Assembly.

There will be a meeting of the Ontario Town Planning and Housing Association in Toronto on October 31 and November 1. The City Council, town planning committee and the Chamber of Commerce will send delegates. The main topic of discussion will be on "Accomplishment under existing town planning and housing legislation."

LATTER DAY SAINTS PLAN BIG REUNION

Growing Congregation Laying Plans Now for Annual Celebration.

Officials of the Latter Day Saints' Church in East London have been busy for the last few weeks preparing a program for the holding of a large reunion of church members of the London district at Wonderland for 10 days, either in July or August, 1922.

One hundred tents will be erected for the accommodation of visitors and members wishing to camp there for a few days, as well as several large marquees, in which church service and meetings will be held.

There will be several separate departments in the camp, among which will be a woman's department, Boy Scout, Girl Guides, First Aid, religious activities, sports and recreation, and Canadian Efficiency for the boys.

Mr. Frank Gray, one of the officials of the church, stated that they have held reunions like this before at Port Colborne and Erie Beach, but were never successful in obtaining a suitable location in or around London for their work.

Arrangements, however, were made with E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the Public Utilities, and for a nominal fee the grounds will be rented to the church for their use.

A large marquee will be erected for a dining hall and refreshments may be purchased by the visitors to the camp or by the local citizens who camp there during the summer months.

HUME CRONYN NEW PRESIDENT

Succeeds Robert Greene as Head of Canadian Club

COL. LEONARD FIRST VICE

Dr. Beattie and Dr. Sparling Speakers at Annual Banquet

Maor Hume Cronyn was elected president of the Canadian Club for the coming year at last night's annual meeting and banquet of that organization, succeeding Robert Green, who has served as president for two years and now becomes immediate past president. Lieut.-Col. I. Leonard was elected first vice-president, and G. F. Copeland resigned from the secretary-treasureship after seven years' service. Other positions are filled with the same officers as served during the past year.

The banquet was marked by brilliant addresses from Rev. Dr. Beattie, of the First Presbyterian Church, and Rev. Dr. Sparling, of First Methodist Church. Both laid emphasis upon Canada's war-born sense of oneness with the British Empire, and both, from recent experiences, told of the growing pan-imperial love and admiration for the King and the King's first minister, David Lloyd George.

STORIES OF THE KING.

Dr. Beattie, who served as the chief of Canadian chaplain services during the war, made an historical epigram in saying: "England has two great Georges—Lloyd George and King George. No Canadian Club can fail of loving both of these men.

"The King did a magnificent work during the war in a very human way. He was undoubtedly the hardest worked man in Great Britain during the war with the exception of Lloyd George."

He told two anecdotes of the King which dissassociate him from the majesty of the throne but clothe him in the royal garments of British fellowship. Dr. Beattie belonged to a Canadian Club in London of about 18 members. The King visited them one night and was told that a great munitions plant was threatened with a strike. "I will go up and speak to them," the King said.

His official advisers protested, but the trip was undertaken. "His majesty entered the yard of that factory," Dr. Beattie stated, "and he was received by the workers in cold silence. But the King gathered them about him and asked their troubles. 'Tell me man to man,' the King asked, 'what your complaints are.' One man, taken by surprise, could think of no real grievance, and blurted out: 'We beant have enough beer!' When the King left that factory he went with a spontaneous ovation ringing in his ears. He had won their admiration and their love.

WHEN THE KING WEPT.

"Another time he visited a Canadian hospital and, going from bed to bed, he asked a colored patient: 'And what have the Huns done to you, son?' The boy kicked his bed clothes aside and held up four handless, footless stumps. 'This!' the wounded soldier said.

"And the King bowed over the foot of the bed and wept, saying: 'My God, my God!' And that day the King of this empire took part in a coronation and his crown jewels were tears more precious than the jewels that are guarded day and night in the Tower of London.

Dr. Beattie also paid a tribute to the love and hospitality of the British people towards the Canadian troops. How a North of England hospital, where a Canadian soldier came occasionelly, always purchased flowers to put on the coffins of Canadians dying far away from home and loved ones. Of the little thatched cottage outside Orpington military hospital where every Canadian funeral cortege halted so that an ancient "granny" might hobble out to place a little bunch of English posies on the coffin of "some Canadian mother's boy."

He also paid a stirring tribute to the men and women of Canada that kept the home trenches so magnificently How the women knitted and sewed and sent comforts to Canadian troops, of men barred by age or other reasons from the battlefields, who put the Victory Loan over. "We thank you, gentlemen, I speak as a soldier, for the way you backed us up."

DE VALERA NOT IRISH.

Dr. Sparling, who was in England this summer attending a world Methodist conference, spoke in lighter vein, but in referring to pertinent imperial problems struck a deep note of considered optimism.

He pointed out, in referring to the Irish question, that Ireland was led by De Valera and he thought this strange. "He is only an adventurer," he stated; "he is not even an Irishman.

Hearty votes of thanks were tendered both speakers. The toast to the press was introduced by Secretary Copeland, who was also given an ovation and was told that he couldn't resign. The actual toast to the Fourth Estate was proposed by G. R. Taggart, United States consul in London.

A standing toast was drunk to the retiring president, Robert Greene, and the club members joined in singing, "For he's a jolly good fellow."

MR. GREENE'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Greene's executive address was as follows:

"At this the second annual meeting at which it is my privilege to preside, I desire to express my appreciation of the honor you have done me, and the sympathetic support I have had from the members of the club.

"We have had all good speakers at our meetings, many of them distinguished, holding high places in this and other countries. When we consider the activities of the various other clubs who meet at the Tecumseh House, we think we have fared fairly well, and that a good season has been ours. A good feeling has prevailed at every gathering, and a spirit of good Canadianism has been developed; and when I say good Canadianism I think of the Cahadianism that has enabled us to live in peace with our neighbor during 100 years, and that that peace has been possible because of the good system of government on both sides of the line, and the fostering of our mother Government across the sea. In each case the governments are answerable to the people, and democracies have been vindicated. Press dispatches from the Pacific Coast inform us that 10,000 Americans and Canadians met on September 5 to dedicate by impressive ceremonies a massive concrete portal of peace; this is an important step in the right direction, and will be a permanent memorial of the fact that United States and Canada can live, and have lived, peaceably together during 100 years, adjusting their difficulties in a common sense way, and in accord with a true spirit of determination to maintain peace and good-will between these two great countries. Notwithstanding the fact that our neighbors and ourselves are a peace-loving people, it has been demonstrated that they could work and fight and die for a common cause and for humanity, and that in the Great War a record has been made of valor and self-sacrifice that seldom falls to the lot of a nation or nations, having had no part in creating or causing the difficulty that brought on the war.

"I hope the Canadian Club will continue to develop that true spirit of patriotism which makes for peace and good-will rather than for hatred and war, and that when we do hoist our flags and waive them in the breeze that they shall not be hoisted or waived in arrogance, but rather to manifest the spirit and determination which has so far characterized the Canadian people in the maintenance of peace with our neighbors to the south.

"Again I thank you for the privilege and honor of being your president for two years, the last being extended time leading to the date at which your new president could take office, and I can assure the honored gentleman that he will have good co-operation in carrying on the work of this club, which is an active part of a great organization, existing for the purpose of developing that which is noblest and best in thought and act in our fair Dominion."

FIELD OFFICERS ON STAFF TOUR

Carry Out Tactical Scheme Near Strathroy

MOUNT BRYDGES TO-DAY

Work of Day Discussed at "Pow-Wow" in London

Field officers of militia units in London district held a successful staff tour near Strathroy yesterday, some 60 or 70 from all arms of the service participating in the first exercise of the kind here since the war. The party lunched at Strathroy, and last evening, at the armories here, Brig-Gen. H. A. Panet, D. O. C.; Major D. J. Corrigal, G. S. O., Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, O. C. 7th Brigade, C. F. A., and other staff officers discussed the day's work at the customary "pow-wow."

As outlined in The Free Press a few days ago, the tactical scheme was based on an advance of the enemy (Blue Division) from the neighborhood of Watford, on a front running to the Sydenham River. The 3rd Infantry Brigade, comprising battalions from Essex, Kent, Elgin and Lambton, constituted the defensive force, and was represented by "syndicates" of officers, each with a part of the scheme to carry out. Col. H. F. Bock, D. S. O., of M. D. 2, was in charge of the cavalry and artillery.

The defensive force was to establish a line running between Napperton and the Sydenham, and outposts were thrown out. It was virtually a rear-guard action, and the effectiveness of the dispositions made by the officers concerned was duly commented upon at the subsequent conference.

An exercise will be carried out today, near Mount Brydges. The officers are to rendezvous at the G. T. R. station there at 10.30. They will have lunch at the village, and in the afternoon take part in a billeting and bivouacking scheme.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against Kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead, your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Advt.

Canadian Club Pays Tribute to Late Harry Fowler

DEATH A GREAT LOSS

Resolution of Regret Passed at Annual Meeting

At last night's annual meeting of the Canadian Club the memory of J. Harry Fowler, a past president of the club and national journalistic figure, who died in St. Joseph's Hospital on Wednesday morning, was honored by a rising vote in which old friends silently expressed their grief at a personal loss and sympathy with the bereaved widow and other relatives.

The resolution of regret was moved by Fred Landon and seconded by A. R. Ford. Mr. Landon, in moving the resolution, stated that Mr. Fowler was a past president of the Canadian Club and a personal friend of practically every member present. "I feel," he stated, "that Harry Fowler would have been the last to desire that we wear long faces as an expression of our regret at his passing. His was a merry heart and as the proverb says 'a merry heart is like medicine.'

"I feel, therefore, that it would not be unseemly to relate an incident illustrating his good humor and also giving an interesting sidelight on his character. When he was a reporter on The Free Press typewriters were not as plentiful as they are to-day. Harry, as did many other reporters, wrote his copy in longhand. His writing was a continual puzzle to printers and editors alike, and when this peculiarity was mentioned to him at anytime, he laughed it aside by explaining that it was due to his Hebrew scholarship.

HONORS AT COLLEGE.

"That joke had a serious side, however. For at Victoria College, where our past president studied, there was one student that sought to excel in every class. One year more jovial undergraduates determined to compete with him in various studies, each of the conspirators agreeing to concentrate on one subject. Fowler drew Hebrew, and at the end of the year at convocation his name was read out as leading the school in the subject he selected. He received the prize for that display of scholastic excellence, consisting of three leather-bound volumes of 'History, Prophecy and the Monuments.' Those books are now on the shelves of Western University library.

Harry Fowler was kindly, good-hearted, a lover of children and children loved him. Which, because of children's almost Godlike ability to discriminate between good and evil in men, was a significant feature of his life and character."

A. R. Ford, editor of The Free Press, who was associated with Mr. Fowler in the Press Gallery of Parliament, seconded Mr. Landon's resolution of regret.

THE RESOLUTION.

The resolution, which will be spread on the minutes of the Canadian Club, follows:

"That the Canadian Club, of London, in annual session assembled, has learned with deepest regret of the sudden death of its past president, Mr. J. Harry Fowler.

"During the time that Mr. Fowler was a citizen of London he was an active working member of the Canadian Club. He held various offices and became president in 1917. To the work of the club during his presidential year he gave the fullest measure of service, and was earnest in his belief that the Canadian Club movement had a definite task to perform in moulding the thought and insuring the unity of this young country.

"Genial in disposition, gentle as a woman in his acts of kindness, good comrade, truest of friends, broad-minded citizen and loyal Canadian, his death is a loss to all with whom he was associated.

"To his widow and to the relatives this club would tender its deepest sympathy, recalling the happy and the useful life of our friend as a rich heritage that he has left behind him."

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every members of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advt.

PLAYGROUNDS ON RACE TRACK AREA

Citizens Suggest Use For Vacant Site.

PROVIDE FOR RECREATION

Play Centers Needed For the City's Youth.

It is suggested by a well-known business man of East London that suitable playgrounds could be erected in the large ring inside the fair grounds, where the horses are judged.

The matter will be sifted out thoroughly by various business men in the East End and if suitable arrangements can be completed will be presented before the directors of the fair board and members of the Playground Association at some future date.

"The playgrounds of the city," he stated, "are going to play a large part in the education of our younger generation and, if we are going to put London on the map, as it should be, we will have to look after the interests of our future citizens as well as the older population."

"If we get this playground problem all fixed up and are allowed to open up a grounds in the fair grounds, we will go about it in the right spirit and commence work on its right away. What we need to make the affair a success is to build a large hockey arena, swimming pool, athletic grounds and other fixtures for the enjoyment and education of our younger generation in clean and manly sports.

Master Creator of Characters Who Live

HALF a century has passed since Charles Dickens forever laid aside his pen over the unfinished manuscript of "Edwin Drood." Yet Dickens is enshrined in the hearts of every book lover; his characters live with us in our daily lives; and his works are published, re-published and published again, putting to shame the so-called "best sellers," whose frothy fame is quickly dimmed by the radiance of the Master Creator of Characters Who Live. More than a quarter of a century ago, L. E. Waterman introduced to lovers of easy, smooth, continuous writing

Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen

To this invention of L. E. Waterman, as to the immortal works of Charles Dickens, the passing years have brought increasing popularity.

In character, convenience and efficiency, Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen stands supreme. Ephemeral improvements and vaunted best-sellers but accentuate the lasting superiority and satisfaction of using the Waterman's Ideal.

There is a Waterman's Ideal Fountain Pen to suit every hand and every individual character of hand-writing. Three types—including self-filler—

Overcoats and Suits

We take much pride in showing the magnificent array of Overcoats and Suits for fall and winter, 1921. The greatest attractions are not the prices, although they are marked much lower than have been shown for many seasons, making a saving for you of from one-third to one-half, but the models and the cloths are exceptionally fine.

In Overcoats you will be shown soft fleecy finish Scotch cloths with plaid backs and satin shield lined; rich English meltons with camel-hair linings; and in Suits the finest of imported pure wool serges, worsteds and tweeds. The models in Overcoats or Suits are most attractive, and are made suitable for men of all ages and builds. Every garment is backed with the Dowler guarantee of "Satisfaction or Money Refunded."

also $42.50

Such famous makers as Society Brand and Twentieth Century, etc., have contributed to this wonderful selection of Highest-Grade Overcoats and Suits procurable. Remember, cloth alone does not make a garment if the fit and style are not there. These Overcoats and Suits will make a special appeal to the young fellows who want snappy models at a moderate price, and they will receive more than they expect in quality, fit and style.

and $32.50

Possibly this will be one of the most popular ranges of Overcoats and Suits. Especially to business men would we recommend them. In Overcoats you will be shown Ulsters, Ulsterettes, Greatcoats, Slip-ons, etc., and in Suits the staple two and three-button styles, also shorts, stouts and longs. Then, again, you will appreciate the cloths. All of them consists of British imported fabrics. See our windows for display.

Neckwear $1.25

A typical Dowler bargain in Men's Neckwear. Former values to $2.00. See them.

THE SKIN GAME

Galsworthy's Masterpiece the Best Acting of the New Season.

"What is gentility good for if it cannot stand the fire?" What indeed? The end of the play finds Hornblow wounded in his pride, in his heart and in his estate, but it finds, also, Hillcrist wounded in even deeper things—wounded in his self-reverence, his self-knowledge, his self-control. The two enemies face each other over the "golden rule," which lies shattered between them. And who is the victor, who the vanquished after the fight is done it would be difficult to determine.

In "The Skin Game," presented by William A. Brady in association with Reandean, Limited, of London, at the Grand last evening, John Galsworthy has posed a most difficult problem. Hornblow, a self-made man, comes in to the neighborhood of Squire Hillcrist, living on his Elizabethan estate in a remote country district in England. He buys some valuable clay-lands of Hillcrist on a "gentleman's agreement" that certain poor cottagers, who pass into his tenantry with the deal, shall not be disturbed. Not being a gentleman, he does not keep his agreement when, in process of extending his "works" the property on which the cottages stand becomes necessary. The Jacknans, tenants of 30 years, are driven off, and that starts the trouble between Hornblow and Hillcrist.

From the material, from the obvious point of view, the conflict presented by the drama is the conflict between those who have long since arrived and those who are just arriving—the conflict between the "county families" and the newly-rich; between self-reliant, self-opinionated "blue blood" and the gold-smudged fingers of the modern Midas defiling with his commonplace ideas all that blue blood looks upon as beautiful and sacred.

From the interior and spiritual point of view, the conflict is much deeper and more general

The breaking of the "golden rule" needs no special case or set of circumstances or characters even for its exemplification. Hornblow and Hillcrest might have been any other persons in the wide world, under any other given conditions. We all break the "golden rule" constantly and flagrantly. The question the play propounds is this: "What good is an age-old name, education, long leisure for the development of sensibilities and a love for the amenities of life; what use, even, is education if, when the time comes, we show ourselves no gentler, no more sympathetic, no finer in our feelings for the other man's feelings, than does the man who is uneducated and upon whose hitherto hard-working life the amenities of good society have never shone? In a word, "what is gentility good for if it cannot stand the fire?"

Hornblow put up a "skin game" on Hillcrist. He broke his word to him in the matter of his tenants. He bought land for factory purposes on the very outskirts of his estate. He bought and bought until he drew a circle of belching chimneys and screaming dredges all round the beloved home of the Hillcrists—their home for hundreds of years.

Hornblow was wrong. No play, however, was ever written that could prove "two wrongs make a right." So when Hillcrist, reluctantly enough, connives at Mrs. Hillcrist's using a disgraceful secret she has learned concerning Hornblow's son's wife, as a lever with which to make Hornblow sell back the land he has acquired for his newest factory—a factory with the smokestacks of which he intends to block Hillcrist's favorite view, we realize that the skin game has become a skin game all round. Hornblow is a bully and a braggart, but even Hornblow can call Hillcrist "hypocrite" to his face and receive no challenge. Our sympathies are drawn more to the refined, admirable, would-be-scrupulous Hillcrist. For all that, if we are honest we cannot but acknowledge that dishonors are even.

Moreover, this serious and realistic play inevitably must turn the eyes of every spectator in on his own soul, there to see 'such black and grained spots as will not leave their touch." Who is there that at some time has not been ostentatious and vainglorious with Hornblow? Who that has not been moraly self-satisfied and top-lofty with Hillcrist? Above all, who has not broken the golden rule?

"The Skin Game" is cutting in its irony, moving in its pathos, realistic in its character drawing, skillfully constructed and admirably written. Its fine lines came over the footlights tense, clear-cut, epigramatic; every line with its meaning and a meaning for every line. No such close dramatic writing has for many a year been heard upon our stage.

The company presenting Galsworthy's masterpiece last evening is in every way fitted to handle the theme.

Matthew Boulton, as Hornblow, portrayed a rugged character, further hardened in the kiln of life, with perfect verisimilitude. His North Country accent, his stolid physique, his rough manners, his blunt speeches, his pride in himself and in his performance, a pride almost religious in its intensity, are all admirably rendered. The human touch, too, Hornblow's better nature occasionally peeping out; things Mr. Boulton indicates by sudden little softnesses of the eye and half-tender clingings of the workworn hands all this is intensely appealing. On the whole a very serious and noble effort at the projection of a complicated and not easily dismissed character. We shall not soon forget Hornblow.

Miss Audrey Cameron gives a thoughtful and intensely modern interpretation of the role of Jill Hillcrist, rebellious understanding and sick of the skin game from start to finish. For so young a woman her work could not fail to impress, indeed, to give one "pause."

The Hillcrist of Reginald Dance is refined and appealing, very suggestive of the conflict which tears a good man and in every conventional sense of the term, a "gentleman," literaly asunder.

Aileen Wyse, as Mrs. Hillcrist, is immovable in her pride of place, utterly oblivious of the feelings of others; one who, as Hornblow says, has never come up against the "realities" of life and who has galvanized in her own good fortune a sympathetic interpretation of an unsympathetic role, the accomplishment of which is eternally to the player's credit.

The Chloe of Stephanie d'Este is very rightly conceived and very pathetically and yet realistically rendered.

Arthur C. Crosby, as Dawker, gives an absolute characterization, original, not typical, of what the agent on a large English estate very well might be.

The minor characters, of whom there are a large number, are all admirably fitted in to what is in every sense of the word a fine ensemble.

Scenery cleverly painted and stage correctly set, costumes suited to the scene and the hour—the emphasis being otherwhere.

To those who enjoy good acting and a sincere, dramatic and well-written play I commend "The Skin Game" as one of the very best. The performance will be repeated to-night and to-morrow afternoon and evening. If you would enjoy a rare treat you cannot afford to miss it. FANFAN.

A thorough examination by F. Steele, optician, 210 Dundas street, will settle any doubt regarding your eyes. f

GLAD IT WASN'T MORE.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 13.—Two unknown men forced an entrance into the laundry of Soo Bros. late last night and decamped with the sum of $15. The celestials made no attempt to offer any resistance, merely telling their visitors to "take money and get."

At the Theaters

AT THE ALLEN

A delightful story of "repentant snobbery" is "General Post," feature attraction at the Allen Theater for the remainder of the present week. This picture is a big special British production and there is an attractiveness in the scenes which get away from the sameness of the scenes in the American offerings.

The picture tells the story of Betty Broughton, daughter of Sir Dennys Broughton, a wealthy aristocrat who worshipped the family tree as did also his son, Alec. There was a large strain of the democrat in Betty, however, and she fell in love with a tailor, Edward Smith. He was a courteous, manly young fellow, but an outcast in the eyes of Betty's family.

Then the war broke out and Edward Smith enlisted, as did also Sir Dennys Broughton, who went to France as a private. For valorous service Smith received a commission and it turns out that young Broughton and Smith, who has risen to the rank of colonel, come home together, the latter being Broughton's commanding officer. This changes the attitude of the aristocratic family and all turns out happily.

A Toonerville Trolley comedy, "The Skipper's Flirtation" takes care of the comedy end of the program in fine shape. The Allen news pictorial completes the picture program, which is well worth while. Beatrice O'Leary, "The Century Girl" with some fine vocal numbers, is an added attraction and a special program by the Allen concert orchestra adds zest to the entire program.

THE PATRICIA.

Another of the famous stories of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police with the dashing "Buck" Jones, is offered in "Get Your Man," feature attraction at the Patricia for the last half of the week. The story is from the pen of Alan Sullivan, and so cleverly has been the casting of characters that the author might almost have had the company in mind when he wrote the tale.

Disappointment in a love affair prompts Jock MacTier ("Buck" Jones) to leave his Scotch home and seek forgetfulness in other fields. He comes to Canada and joins the Mounted Police. Here he crosses the trail of his successful rival and the adventures pile up fast. The outcome of a new love affair and determination of the "Mountie" to get his man round out a gripping story which is powerfully dramatic.

Kelly and Mackie present a vaudeville turn that is worthy of special mention. A Century comedy, "Stealin' Home," with Harry Sweet, is a screaming baseball comedy, which goes to make up a nicely balanced program, which will be repeated at the Patricia for the remainder of the week.

AT LOEW'S.

"Extravagance," with the pretty, petite May Allison, one of the famous Torchy comedies, and three good vaudeville acts, make a splendidly balanced program for the last half of the week at Loew's Theater. Large audiences at the opening performances on Thursday showed marked appreciation of the entire program.

The feature offering, "Extravagance," has one feature which marks it as a picture well worth seeing and that is its decided departure from the usual run. It is different and for this reason only has a decided appeal. Of course the theme is the extravagance of a woman and the extravagant one is played by May Allison.

Some of the scenes in "Extravagance" are handsome and show not only some fine examples of the photographer's art but a remarkable completeness in detail.

Like all the Torchy comedies this latest release is a "scream" from start to finish. The vaudeville acts, Ralph Whitehead, James Kendall and Jim and Irene Marlyn, predominate in comedy and music. The usual Loew's pictorial of current events completes a good program which should attract large audiences for Friday and Saturday, matinee and night.

DOUBLE MURDER NEAR POLICE H. Q.

Mystery Added To Violence In New York Bootleggers' War.

ONE VICTIM WEALTHY

Second Is Innocent Bystander Slain By Stray Bullet.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. — A double killing within pistol shot of police headquarters was added yesterday to the long list of violent deaths in the Lower East Side's bootleggers' war.

Joseph Veserti, alias Joe Peppe, who the police said had amassed a fortune, ventured forth in his motor car without his $100 a week bodyguard and as he entered a Broome street cafe was riddled with bullets. Dying, he returned the fire, one of the shots killing Louis Rango, an innocent bystander, who was reading a newspaper at a table in the cafe and having his shoes shined.

The shooting brought a swarm of detectives out of police headquarters, but the assassins had vanished. Veserti was a familiar character to the police. He often told his friends, they said, that it was only a matter of time when his foes would get him. A week ago, the police said, Veserti was arraigned on a charge of homicide in connection with the killing of Joseph Lagumina. Witnesses failed to identify him and he was discharged. He had been arrested frequently for automobile speeding. One of the men suspected of having killed Lagumina since has been killed, detectives said.

A PREVIOUS OFFENDER

Veserti was said to have served five years of a seven-year term in prison for manskaughter, having been paroled.

Detective-Sergt. Fiaschetti was examing witnesses in the cafe after the shooting when the telephone rang. He answered it and a voice said: "It that you, Tom?"

The detective said yes. Then he was asked: "Is he dead?"

The detective replied in the affirmative and asked where his questioner was talking from. He told the sleuth: "Degraw and Court streets, Brooklyn."

"Wait there," the detective said. "I'll be right over."

Fiaschetti and two of his men dashed over to Brooklyn and found Annibbile Stilo waiting for them. He carried an automatic pistol. The prisoner was questioned for several hours at police headquarters, but denied all knowledge of the killing. He was locked up.

OPEN SEASONS FOR HUNTING.

In Ontario the season for big game hunting is now on and from October 1 to November 30 moose, deer or caribou can be taken north of the main line of the Canadian National Railways (formerly the Grand Trunk Pacific) from Quebec to the Manitoba boundary. RAIL BOARD DECISION ROBS NIAGARA FALLS OF THIRD OF REVENUE

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 14. — The decision of the Ontario Railway Board yesterday, granting the appeal of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario against the assessment of the Ontario Power Company was a severe shock locally, as it will have the effect of cutting the taxes received from the Ontario Power Company from $100,000 down to a few hundred. In fact, it wipes out between a third and a quarter of the town's entire revenue. The assessment of $2,749,000 is reduced by $2,666,625. The town will carry the case to the appellate division of the Supreme Court and, if necessary, to a higher court.

The appeal was from a decision of the county judge given some months ago, holding the Ontario Power Company to be liable for taxation. Under the Hydro-Electric Act the property of the Hydro-Electric Commission is taxable only upon the land value, and the point in the dispute between the Hydro and the City of Niagara Falls was the legal one as to whether the Ontario Power Company was controlled by the Hydro within the meaning of the statute. The Hydro Commission maintained that, while the Ontario Power Company retained its identity as a company, it was part and parcel of the Hydro system and as such was exempt from taxation of its buildings.

LIBERAL NOMINATED.

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Clement Robitaille was yesterday nominated as Liberal candidate for the constituency of Maisonneuve in the Federal House.

SUGGESTS WHOLE FOREST PROTECTION BE UNDER CANADIAN AIR BOARD

OTTAWA, Oct. 14. — The value of the airpane in forest fire protection work and the need for greater activity along these lines were emphasized by Ellwood Wilson, M.C., manager forestry division, Laurentide Company, Limited, Grand Mere, Que., who spoke before the Engineering Institute of Canada in the Chateau Laurier yesterday. No development of recent years had rendered such aid to the work of the forestry engineer as had the airplane, and Mr. Wilson wished to express his appreciation of the work done by the air board in this regard.

The work of the air board in the interest of forest fire protection and forest fire patrol duty had changed the whole situation.

Mr. Wilson suggested that the whole work of forest patrol and forest fire prevention should be taken over by the aid board. The provinces, particularly Ontario and Quebec, were not spending enough on their forests in proportion to the amount they received from this source of revenue, said the speaker. Ontario received about $3,000,000 revenue annually from its forests, and most of this amount came from capital account, which was not being replenished and would be expended some day.

The speaker drew a rosy picture of the future pulp industry of Canada, which was menaced by forest fires.

TRAIN SERVICE RESUMES

SAULT STE MARIE, Ont., Oct. 14. — The Canadian Pacific resumed train service over the St. Marys River yesterday after the south leaf of the jack-knife bridge had been lowered.

Aid for Western University

The London City Council is to be commended for its decision to ask the ratepayers to vote on a grant of $250,000 for Western University. London's institution of higher learning has reached the stage where expansion is absolutely necessary. This year the university has over 700 students in arts. With present accommodation and facilities, this is more than can be properly provided for; unless new buildings are immediately secured the attendance will have to be limited and the usefulness of the university to London and the whole of Western Ontario seriously curtailed.

Western University is now officially recognized by the Provincial Government and is assured of permanent support by the authorities at Toronto. Last year the annual grant for maintenance was increased from $80,000 to $200,000. In addition, the Government has agreed to vote $500,000 for the erection of new buildings. This is conditional on the expenditure by the university of a large amount for dormitories, gymnasium, etc. The provincial grant can only be secured by the people of London showing confidence in their own institution.

The value of Western University to the City of London and the 14 counties which comprise the Western Ontario peninsula is self-evident. The usefulness of the institution so impressed the royal commission which sat last year that the members brought in an unanimous report recommending state aid. The university to-day is so hampered by poor buildings and lack of equipment that the authorities only carry on with the greatest difficulty. The Free Press has no hesitation in supporting the proposed vote and hopes that the ratepayers will ratify it.

The City Council, now that it has endorsed the university grant, should carefully scrutinize all further money votes this year. The present is no time for rushing into heavy expenditures and the ratepayers are in no mood to support them. If numerous money by-laws are submitted to the people all may be beaten.

Use the Schools

The school board should reconsider its decision not to allow the use of the public schools for political meetings. In many parts of the city there are no halls of any kind available and with the schools closed it means that the ratepayers are barred from hearing the issues of the day discussed. There is a growing tendency to use the schools as community centers, and for what better community use could they be devoted than discussion of the question as to how and by whom we are to be governed during the next five years.

If the schools are not to be used for this purpose, then steps should be taken to provide community halls for different sections of the city. London is sadly lacking in small and large auditoriums to hold public meetings, musicales, lectures, plays and conventions. A large central auditorium is badly needed, but in the meantime for the smaller meetings the schools should be used.

However, the school board should not be asked to open the schools without being reimbursed. There should be a reasonable rental for political gatherings or meetings of a similar character, sufficient to cover the cost of light, janitor, etc.

Quebec, an Element of Canadian Union

Sitting, one summer evening, on a bench of the station platform in a little town in the Laurentian Hills, Quebec, the writer, quite suddenly, found himself in conversation with a stranger.

The stranger, as it later appeared, was an official of the Canadian Pacific Railway out of Montreal.

Talk developed the fact that the two, in all probability, were the only English-speaking persons in the place. Some 'voici ma malle:" Some "E-st-ce le train direct pour Quebec?" Some "bon soir," "au revoir!" "adieu," or other phrase, impressed the idea upon them.

The writer told his chance companion how, a few moments earlier, down at the post office he had tried to buy a stamp in English and could not. The C. P. R. man replied that since leaving Montreal, three days before, he had been unable to get one word across in his native tongue.

In a similar small town in Ontario, of course, one would find a similar lack of the use and the understanding of French. The disease is common to the country.

And yet, as the C. P. R. man expressed it: "Here we are all under one sky and one flag in, geographically speaking, one of the biggest countries on earth, with a chance to become the greatest empire that ever happened; and we are permitting so simple a matter as the study of a language to divide us and keep us from knowing each other."

One can't know a man if one doesn't know the meaning of his words. Words are thoughts materialized. To get to spirit one has to pass through matter.

Johnny Canuck on one side of the Ottawa River, and Johnny Canuck on the other. Both have the same interests to serve in the same country. And yet both are continually getting mixed up over things because the plain people of the two have to look at each other and remain dumb. Isn't it a miserable shame the way we allow such potential things as words to bar the path the two Johnnies might so easily take to each other's hearts?

In Quebec, right in the heart of us, the people of Canada have a vast region concerning which the rest of Canada knows little more than they knew before the war about France or Belgium.

Quebec, in its turn knows, practically speaking, as little about the rest of Canada.

In almost every family in Ontario one meets with the fact that there is a member of the family in Detroit, St. Paul, New York, or where not! Almost never does one hear that a member of the family has gone down to 'spy out the land" in Quebec. Almost never, on the other hand, does a Quebecer come to seek his fortune and make his home in Ontario.

When, therefore, the time comes to exercise a vote on a question concerning the whole country, not a party interest, not a local interest, but a national interest; what mutual experiences have Johnny Canuck on one side of the Ottawa River and Johnny Canuck on the other to draw upon, what friendship wherewith to mitigate the criticisms of each other, what lesson out of the past or the present to cite for each other's example and benefit?

For a quarter of a century The Free Press has been preaching against the snares of theological sectarianism and racial ill-will spread by politicians and theologians in the eyes of our people. For twenty-five years it has been proposing plans for the study of the two languages; for exchange of courtesies in the matter of increased knowledge of the cities, the libraries, the art collections, the industries, the farms, the scenery the people of Quebec on the part of the people of the rest of Canada; and of the language, the achievements and the people of the rest of Canada on the part of the people of Quebec.

But no. Nobody would listen. And here we are, to-day, Quebec and Ontario, to cite the two provinces which see most clearly the need of a tariff that will stabilize the economic situation of the country, and yet . . .

The "and yet" stands for a query as to whether the aforementioned theological sectarianism and racial ill-will our mutual ignorance has permitted, may not now divide us on this important provincial, as it is also important national question?

You may say it is too late. It is never too late. Despite the danger and the disappointment of to-day, there is still to-morrow. No matter what happens in the immediate future, there are yet great things and ever greater things ahead. Of these none is greater than the humanistic task of unifying the racial elements and interests that go to the making of the nationhood of Canada.

Enlighten the Electors

Hon. T. A. Crerar, Premier Drury and J. J. Morrison are to tour Ontario in the interests of the third party. When they appear on the platform together they might make some explanations and clear up some confused points for the electors of Ontario. Mr. Crerar always calls the party he leads the National Progressive party and appeals to all classes of the community for support. Mr. Morrison, on the other hand, went to great pains at Strathroy last Saturday to explain that the name is not the Progressive party and repudiated the cognomen. He is all for class party. The people have a right to know just for what they are voting.

Again, Premier Drury bitterly denounces on every platform Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen for the legislation passed last session appointing a board to control the waters of the Lake of the Woods. Yet Mr. Crerar voted for and supported by a strong speech this very legislation. Mr. Crerar might enlighten Mr. Drury as to his vote and explain to him why Mr. Meighen was right in passing the bill.

Protection Means Population

Despite the walls of Hon. Mr. Crerar anent what he calls the "slump" in the population of Canada brought about by the policy of Protection, latest returns show that during the last decade Canada LED THE WORLD in the proportional development of her population, with a greater percentage of increase in her population than any other country, young or old—22½ per cent. greater than any other.

By some process of calculation known only to himself, Mr. Crerar tried to make out that the 1921 census returns should read 10,140,000, whereas they would read a bare 8,500,000.

The leader of the Progressives asked: "Where are the lost 1,500,000?"

An analysis of the figures submitted by Mr. Crerar showed him, first of all, to be a round million out just in his addition. There remained, then, according to the estimate upon which he was working, 500,000, in general numbers, less of a population than Canada had a right to expect.

Going into that 500,000 very carefully, The Free Press proved at the time that the loss, far from being due to Protection, as Mr. Crerar claimed, was occasioned because a good 4,000,000 of the people who might have been Canada's went down in the war—so many lost through actual death and so many by potential birth loss: 400,000 all told.

It now develops that the census estimate, in place of being 8,500,000, as Mr. Crerar affirmed, is in fact 8,835,102, or 335,102 greater than Mr. Crerar put it when he decided to juggle with estimates for purposes connected with his policy.

To turn back the leaf of history. In 1871 Canada's population was 3,687,257. Then, according to the latest return: For the period of 50 years, or almost ever since Protection came into force (1873), an increase has occurred in the population of this country of almost 140 per cent.

This looks as though Protection means population as well as a good many other pleasant things.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The worst enemy of boom times is the boomerang.

The survival of the fittest has nothing on the survival of the fetich.

Talk about disillusionment, but isn't the very earth itself a giant with feet of clay?

A laboced and yet a capital joke, all this talk about the enmity between capital and labor.

Religious instruction in the home would put an end to most of the demand for religious instruction in the school—it wouldn't be necessary.

The Third Column

IF I WERE RICH.

"If I were rich," said my Uncle Jim,
And many a lesson I've learned from him,
"I'd spend a part of my golden pool
Sending a few poor boys to school;
And never could folly lay me flat
Or ruin my future for doin' that.

"If I were rich, with a heap of gold
I'd warm a few houses that now are cold,
I'd give away what I didn't need
Buy books for some invalid to read,
Or scatter a little happiness
An' that wouldn't ruin my life, I guess."

"If I were rich I would keep away
From the scarlet haunts where the lights are gay;
An' where some buy shame I would try to buy
A grateful look in a mother's eye.
With the extra coin which I had to spend
Somehow I'd willingly play the friend.

"A fool is he," said my Uncle Jim,
"Who lets his money bring shame to him.
He can scatter it here in a thousand ways
Which would bring him glory an' words of praise,
An' his gold, if only he understood,
Is his greatest chance for the greatest good."

—Edgar A. Guest.

LOST THINGS.

Not very many of us appreciate in proper proportion the many things which make up our happiness.

Nor do we realize the importance of the contributing elements to our success in life until they begin to leave us and motion, as they go, that we are being left poorer and weaker.

We are inclined to pay little attention to our health so long as we have no discomfort and no pains. Nature is very patient. Our bodies were made to bear great abuse. And Opportunity is a most patient fellow, camping on our doorstep for years before he gets discouraged enough to leave us.

But when that is lost which ought rightfully to be ours for a long time we open our eyes and call in vain.

Be kind to your body. Have an inward reverence for all its marvelous powers. And how it will repay you—how strong will you face every great call made upon you.

I believe in expression of appreciation to people while they are able to be made happy by it. Give your flowers while you may see the smiles reflected from them.

A gentleman told me to-day of a man whose wife had gone from him and he was so grieved that he went to a florist and wanted the most expensive flowers placed about the silent grave where she rested. But he knew so little about flowers that he didn't know what kind to order—for, said he: "I never gave her any flowers while she lived and I have no idea what she liked."

Find out what will make the world happier and better by giving it something!

If you do not use the talents that are given you they will wither and die. Or more alert ones than you will see them idle in your lap and will take them from you.

Of all lost things, Time is probably the most to be regretted—unless you have squeezed every last ounce of value from its golden minutes.

And lost opportunities—they never come back in the same form or with the same appeal.

Be kind and generous and helpful to-day. Do the best you know to-day. Wait upon no man or event. Give while you have something to give. Save that you may have to give.

But do not spend any time in regretting the lost things. Make up for their loss by planting new things in their places. —George Matthew Adams.

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK.

Yestidday I found a old medicine bottle with the label on it saying Poison in big red letters, me thinking, G, wouldent pop feel funny if he jest gargled and then looked at the bottle and saw this label on it.

Being a ideer, and I took the label off the bottle and smeared some paste on it and stuck it on the outside of pops gargle bottle in the medicine chest, and this morning before brekfist I heard pop making gargle noises, and I quick ran in the bath room to watch him, and he was gargeling and still holding the gargle bottle in his hand, me saying, G pop, you gargle musical.

Wich pop started to choak and some of the gargle blew out and pop swollowed wat dident, and he kepp on choaking a wile and then he sed. You mussent say enything to make me laff wen Im gargeling thats nuthing to do, dont do that agen, you made me swallo some of that stuff.

Wich jest then he looked at the bottle and saw the poison thing on it, saying, Grate heavens, Ive got the rong bottle. Ive swallowed poison, Ive swallowed poison.

No you havent, pop, no you havent, you ony think you have, I sed.

Wat do you know about it, I feel queer alreddy. Im going to call up the doctor, wat the dooce is his number, every minnit counts in a case like this, sed pop. And he started to run out of the bath room like somebody in a fearse hurry, saying, I feel mitey funny. Me quick grabbing his leg and saying, No you dont, pop, you dont feel funny, you ony think you do.

Leeve go, do you realize my life is at stake, do you wunt to kill me? sed pop. And he gave me a fearse crack and nocked me loose and keep on running to the telefone and I yelled, Hey pop, that wasent enything, I stuck that label on jest for fun.

The rest being too sad to repeet.

THE PERFECT MATCH.

Feminine consumption of imported cigars greatly increased.—Headline.

When Albert sought my heart to storm,
I felt my maiden pulses flutter;
Heroic in his uniform,
The "Yes" almost to utter.
But when I found him take to cigarretting,
I said no, firmly, but with some regretting.

Next Thomas came, a millionaire,
Blunt and direct, yet not unpleasing.
He swore to smooth my every care
And all the wheels of life be greasing.
But he to Pittsburg stogies was addicted,
And how could I accept one so afflicted?

Then Frederick, debonair and gay,
Gained as by magic my affection.
But when his brand I bade him say—
How poignant is the recollection?—
He blushed and held his head like any flapper—
"Domestic filler and Sumatra wrapper."

And so I have foresworn romance.
Bill is baldheaded, fat and forty,
He cannot golf or drive or dance;
His taste in clothes is much too sporty.
Bill is not perfect—ah! but his perfecto!
My story's ended. I'm his bride-elect, oh!

Books

Hellen of the Old House, by Harold Bell Wright; Toronto, The Ryerson Press, pp 362, price $2 net.

Mr. Wright has written such familiar and readable stories as: "The Shepherd of the Hills," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," etc. The book under review is divided into four parts, which group the movement of the story into co-ordinated sections much as a battalion is divided into companies for the sake of organization and operation. Here are the titles: 'The Interpreter,' 'The Two Hellens,' 'The Strike, and 'The Old House.' The volume is well bound and printed, and the type is clear and accurate.

The scene is set in Millsburgh, a typical American manufacturing town. The largest mill is owned by Adam Ward, while McIver, Hellen's lover, owns a smaller one. Ward has prospered, and Hellen has been brought up in ease and luxury. But she has not discovered the jewel of happiness. To whom shall she reveal her unrest of soul, but to the Interpreter, who is the saintly worker among men and has the key of knowledge? If revelation is given in human form, he is that revelation. From him she learns that there are really two Hellens, the one proud and indifferent to the welfare of others, the Hellen of the house on the hill; the other simple and great-hearted, the first Hellen as found in the humble home of her youth. The burden of the book is the way by which the assumed Hellen comes to be crucified, and the real Hellen, mistress of golden deeds, attains her sainthood. In this history the author involves a wonderful company of character.

The influences which help to harden and eventually serve to break the crust of selfishness in her life fall into four groups. There is, first of all, the contradiction at home. Her father enriched himself by robbing his fellow-workman, Peter Martin, of the patent. More and more he becomes mentally unbalanced, and raves about his certain possession of the mill and his legal claim to the patent. His son, John, and Charlie Martin enlist in the army, serve overseas, and come safely back, the one still a private and the other a captain. In the war John has learned the 'us of "I" and "me" 'and the lesson changes his whole view of the relations of capital and labor. Captain Charlie has learned, too, and becomes the safe guide and head of the labor union. How pathetic the elder Ward is as he keeps asking whether there is a hell or not, and as he keeps boasting he will not go there for he has tied God up. And how? He has tried to undo the wrong of the rape of the patent by willing Peter Martin a half-interest in the mill. In all this tragedy Hellen's mother pursues a patient, helpless sort of way. Hellen admires her brother, John, though she does not understand him, for his ways are not her ways—not her father's.

The other influences are as contrary and as poignant. McIver represents unmitigated selfishness. When his men threaten to strike he hardens his heart, and boasts that he will drive them back to work at the point of the bayonet or by starvation. A guardian angel with an unknown name prevents Hellen from accepting him, save once, after she has seen some of the underworld of misery caused by the strike, when she offers to become his wife if he will make an end of what suffering he can. Because he is the man he is he refuses. Another influence is the discovery of the poverty and agony in hovels by the city streets, and the utter indifference and ignorance of the wealthy and powerful classes. In watching by the bedside of little starving Maggie, Hellen discovers the hid treasure in her own life—the latent motherhood of love and sympathy. The last influence is the Interpreter. Made perfect through suffering, he is the man to inspire and guide. He is the seer who penetrates through the accumulated rubbish, who lays bare the real self which has become sicklied o'er with many things.

* * *

John marries Mary Martin, and Hellen and her mother return to the old house to live a parable of the reapproachment of capital and labor, which is necessary if the day of peace is to come. It is only by such a wedlock that Vodel, the man with the red flag, can be defeated. The book belongs to the present time, and with certain touch deals with one of the most vital problems that society has to face. The picture, the wrong and the solution are as universal as employment. We have had war stories in plenty. This is a story of the search for peace and a protest against other "frightfulness" in the heart of the nations. This is a book to be read and pondered over. It is an answer to Sheldon's question given in the city of mills.

The Snowshoe Trail, by Edison Marshall; Toronto, The Ryerson Press; pp 324, price $2.

Are you in search of a lovely story of heroism, with the tang of the North in it, and with the ways of nature and of animals and of woodmen and, above all, with the ways of women in it? Well, here it is. The author is an American, but the story is set in the Selkirks. There is such a picture of the North in it as one will not lightly forget. Virginia Tremont has not heard of her lover, Harold Loundsbury, for six years. She has been true to him all the while, and sets out with he uncle to find him. They get a guide, Bronson, at Bradleyburg, and push on to Clearwater. After many experiences Loundsbury is found—and so is the mine Bronson has long sought for. The long-lost lover proves to be a "sqaw man" and a degenerate. Bronson, on the other hand, proves himself a prince in a prospector's robe. In the end Loundsbury is captured and charged with attempt to murder, and Virginia and Bronson are happily married. The story if happily free from the corrupt methods of modern fiction. It is so full of the thrill of courage, duty and love that its plot will linger with the reader. And it has moral too. Witness Loundsbury, who made a complete descent into paganism, or Virginia's loyalty which blossomed into heroism. Such, and so rapid, is the descent or the ascent of man.

Quill's Window, by George Bar McCutcheon; The Ryerson Press, pp 334, price $2.

The scene of this book is set in the Hoosier country. First we get the history of the Windom family, and the superstitions which are wreathed about Quill's window. Then follows the narrative which has to do with Courtney Thane, who makes himself out to be a war veteran in search of health. He accomplishes the ruin of Rosabel Vick, for which he is run down and shot by her brother. He almost wins Alix Windom, a lone woman of fine character and strong personality. Blythe, brother of Alix's friend, discovers Thane's imposture. In the end Alix weds David Strong, friend of her childhood and against whom she has tried long enough to steel her heart.

The book will serve a good purpose if it warns young people of the danger of the attractive stranger, who is too often a wolf in sheep's clothing. Fine words and fine manners do not make fine people any more than fine feathers make fine birds. The plot is simple, perhaps it is ingenious. The garments which cover the framework are not precious garments. The gossipy village life is typical of the Middle West. The book has no outstanding passages. The talk is common talk.

THE OVERWORKED BANQUET.

The public banquet, with its series of uninteresting speeches, is not unknown in England and in France, but it is not so overworked there as it is with us. In every city that Marshal Foch visits he will be expected to attend a banquet, make a speech, and shake hands with a thousand or more people. There will be formal toasts: The President of the United States, The President of France, and Marshal Foch. Someone must respond to each toast, and the governor and the mayor would feel slighted if not given an opportunity to speak. Such a program may not be fatiguing for a single night, but think of having to endure it for two months, with almost all the speeches in a language that is not your own tongue! Marshal Foch is a hero. He deserves our admiration and our sympathy.—Boston Commercial Bulletin.

THE SOLICITOR-GENERAL.

The appointment of Mr. Fauteaux to the position of solicitor-general gives the French-Canadians four members of the administration, with three in the Cabinet. Mr. Meighen has given the Province of Quebec ample opportunity to recover its share of influence in case his Government is sustained. The reply may be the same as that given to Sir Robert Borden four years ago, but the premier can not be accused of excluding the province of the French-speaking people from the council. He is also justified in expecting his colleagues to make a vigorous campaign throughout the whole province and to see that there are not 12 Liberal elections by acclamation, and eight others with less than 200 Government votes, as happened in 1917.—Vancouver Province.

G. W. V. A. PLAN TO TACKLE PROBLEMS

Unemployment and Immigration Are On the Agenda.

ALSO TO DISCUSS UNION

Proposal To Join Veteran Bodies Will Be Brought Up.

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(By Canadian Press.)—Matters of importance to every returned soldier and to the people at large will be dealt with at the fifth annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association, which will be held in Port Arthur, Ont., on October 17 to 22. Resolutions will be brought forward dealing with unemployment, re-establishment, housing, pensions, immigration, returned soldiers' insurance, disarmament, British Empire Service League, adjustment of exchange on overseas pay, business credits for ex-service men, federation of veterans' organizations and the formation of an organization of veterans' sons and daughters.

DR. HERMES, German food minister, who, it is expected, will be sent to Washington as German ambassador. He is a member of the Center party.

Believing unemployment to be the most pressing national problem of the day, the G. W. V. A. convention will appoint a special committee, composed of one member from each province, to prepare resolutions with regard to unemployment among ex-service men. A solution of the unemployment situation, Dominion Command officials say, will occupy a considerable part of the time of the convention. Points discussed will include state unemployment insurance, proper distribution of labor through the Employment Service Council of Canada, municipal, federal and Provincial Governments to require all contractors to employ at least 25 per cent. ex-service men, the immediate establishment of provincial and local advisory councils to the unemployment services and cheaper railway rates for ex-service men traveling to a place of appointment.

The subject of re-establishment will bring forth resolutions looking toward the more complete establishment of soldiers. These resolutions will set forth that the G. W. V. A. will not regard re-establishment as complete until all ex-service men have been placed, as far as possible, in the economic position which they would have obtained but for war service. The discussion of re-establishment resolutions will include pensions, land settlement, insurance and the adjustment of overseas pay, together with pensions to widows and orphans. It is likely that the Dominion Command will be instructed to again press for a committee on re-establishment at the next session of Parliament.

AMALGAMATION.

The discussion on the amalgamation of all soldiers' organizations will be fraught with importance to all returned men. The G. W. V. A. has issued invitations to all soldier organizations to have fraternal delegates present, and as this invitation has been accepted by a majority of the other associations, a full and complete statement of the situation will probably be brought down, together with definite plans for amalgamation. The associations to which invitations have been extended include: His Majesty's Army and Navy Veterans, Toronto; Originals' Club, Hamilton; Originals' Club, Toronto; Grand Army of United Veterans, Toronto; Army and Navy Veterans of Canada; Imperial Veterans in Canada; Winnipeg; Provisional Committee of Canadian Legion; Toronto; Amputations' Association of the Great War; Comrades of the Great War and the Veterans of France.

An important section of the amalgamation resolutions will deal with the British Empire Service League, recently formed at the empire conference of veterans in Cape Town, South Africa. R. B. Maxwell, G. W. V. A. president, represented the G. W. V. A. at this conference, and it is predicted that his report will go far toward showing the advantage of amalgamation in Canada. Discussion of the probability of the formation of a league between all the soldier organizations of the allied nations will be enhanced in value by the presence of fraternal delegates from the American Legion.

It is expected that under the heading of housing the convention will advance resolutions looking toward amendments to existing housing legislation with a view to securing a wider application of the act. It is also probable that the convention will instruct the Dominion Command to approach the next Parliament for the approval of larger housing loans. Immigration will bring forth discussion principally on the relations between immigration and unemployment and a resolution may be brought forward urging a careful selection of the types of intending immigrants.

DISARMAMENT.

It is indicated that the resolutions on disarmament will be along the lines of those approved by the British Empire Service League at its meeting in South Africa and will call for adequate defense of the empire, but with the understanding that armaments will not be built up for offensive purposes. It is believed that one of the mottoes of the British Empire Service League, "Defense, not offense," will be adopted.

One of the features of the convention will be the discussion of the feasibility, and probably the building up of the ground work, for the formation of an organization of veterans' sons and daughters. The project has been under discussion in the various local branches for some time and it is expected that the Port Arthur convention will place its approval on the proposal.

The Port Arthur convention has been called the "Soldiers' Parliament," and Dominion Command officials express the opinion that it will fully live up to its name.

It is interesting to note that one of the documents prepared for the convention contains the following affirmation of loyalty:

"We desire to reaffirm our unswerving loyalty to King and country, and, while we deplore the existence of many conditions political, religious, racial and social, which are harmful and pernicious, we also realize that lasting betterment can only be obtained by the free expression of the people's will, given in a constitutional way. Therefore we dedicate ourselves to the elimination of such unjust conditions and pledge ourselves to lawful and orderly procedure."

Dealing with political affiliations, the document says:

"While, as an association, we recognize no political affiliations of any kind, we yet urge upon our membership an intelligent interest in all political matters and commend to their support such of our comrades as may from time to time present themselves for political honors, provided always that such candidate pledge himself or herself to the support of just legislation, whether originating within or without the party to which he or she may be attached."

HOUSEHOLD COOKING

Personal

Mrs. Leonard Tait, Queen's avenue, was a visitor this week at Grand Bend.

Mrs. E. S. Little, Wellington street, returns to-night from Toronto, where she has spent the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rigsby, of Toronto, are guests with the former's sister, Mrs. Frank White, and Mr. White, King street.

Mrs. Frank Forristal, Wellington street, is entertaining the Senator Coffey Chapter, I. O. D. E., at her home this afternoon.

Mrs. Wyatt and Mrs. Underhill are the conveners of the euchre party at which Trinity Chapter, O. E. S., are entertaining on Monday evening next.

Rev. Dr. D. L. McCrae and Mrs. McCrae left last week to visit their sons, Rev. J. D. McCrae, in Almonte, and Mr. G. Leslie McCrae, in Montreal.

Mrs. Thomas Mortimore was the hostess of two small but much-enjoyed bridge parties on Wednesday afternoon and Thursday evening of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles White and family, Dundas street, returned last night from their country home in London Township, where they have spent the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heard, who have spent the summer in Bayfield, are returning to London next week and will be at their home on Adelaide street for the winter.

Miss Sawyer, of Watford, England, who has been a guest with Mrs. F. Saunders, Emery street, has left for Brantford, where she will make a brief visit before returning to England.

Mrs. (Dr.) F. R. Clegg and small son, Robert, of South London, have arrived in England and will spend the winter with the former's mother, Mrs. Lewis, at Llanhilleth, Mons, South Wales.

The engagement is announced of Edna U. Neely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Neely, of this city, to Mr. J. McIntyre Willis, also of London, the marriage to take place on October 25.

Mrs. S. M. Tolhurst, 70, Thornton avenue, has left to spend the winter with her son, Mr. Charles E. Tolhurst, in San Antonio, Texas, and with her daughter, Mrs. James Coleman, in Sutherland, Florida.

Interesting newcomers to town are Mrs. J. D. Anderson and Mrs. Bawden, of Chicago, mother and sister of Mrs. J. S. Ashplant, of this city. Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. Bawden purpose making their home in London for the future, and are at present with Mr. and Mrs. Ashplant on Queen's avenue.

Mrs. Herbert Nicholls, Wharncliffe road, was yesterday the hostess of a delightful afternoon bridge of five tables, when she was assisted by Mrs. William Nicholls and Miss Dorothy Nicholls. Mrs. Nicholls is entertaining again at bridge this evening, and will give another party later in the season.

The third round of the ladies' golf championship series concluded yesterday, with Mrs. George Little winning from Mrs. John Wishart; Miss Joe Belton from Mrs. Hunter; Mrs. Ronald Harris from Mrs. Hadley Williams, and Mrs. Frank Spry from Mrs. Allen McLean. Semi-finals will be played this week.

His Honor Col. Harry Cockshutt, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, will be the guest of the Men's Canadian Club at a luncheon to be given on November 4. Mrs. Cockshutt, who is coming to London with his honor, will that day be the guest of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., at a luncheon at the Hunt Club, where representatives of all organizations connected with the children's hospital committee will be asked to meet the interesting visitor.

The tea arranged yesterday afternoon in the arts room at the Western University in honor of the girls of the freshman year was a happy finale to the serious and rather alarming business of initiation, conducted earlier in the afternoon at the Oxford street gym. The sophs made charming hostesses, and the group of freshettes were warmly welcomed and treated right royally to make up for earlier discomforts. Miss Helen Patterson was in charge of the tea table, which was charming with its pretty runner of deep rose color, on which rested a bowl of pink roses, flanked by many rosy candles.

Mrs. Robert Heard, of this city, was recently an assistant at a charming Goderich reception, when Mrs. C. A. Reid received for the first time since her marriage. The bride welcomed her many guests in a lovely gown of shell pink satin, embroidered in crystal beads, and was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Frank Martin. In the tearoom, over which Mrs. Heard presided, Ophelia roses in silver baskets made charming decorations. Mrs. Heard was assisted in the dining-room by Miss Gladys Tilley, of Stratford, and Miss Dorothy Whitely, of Brooklyn, N. Y., while Mrs. St. George Rice cut the ices. Ushering to the tearoom was Mrs. Carfrae Dunlop, and Miss Ruth Martin was a pretty door attendant. Autumn flowers in a pleasant mass of colors were effectively arranged in the music room and in the living-room, where Mrs. Reid received.

Weddings

Tatchell-Johnston.

At St. James' Church, Stratford, on Monday, October 10, the marriage of Dorothy Annie Johnston, of Walthamstowe, Essex County, England, to Leonard William Tatchell, of Mornington Township, was quietly solemnized. Rev Canon William Cluff officiated.

Arnold-Sharpe.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage, Appin, Ont., by Rev. M. C. Parr, on Wednesday, October 5 when Edna Pearl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Sharpe, Bickford, Ont., was married to W. C. Arnold, of Windsor. The bride wore a traveling suit of navy blue and was unattended. Mr. and Mrs Arnold left by motor for a trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto, and on their return will reside in Windsor.

Hirt-Henry.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at high noon on Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Silcox, 507 Baby street, Sandwich, when Neta Marie, daughter of Mr. Cyrus Henry, of Appin, became the bride of Mr. Rudolph Hirt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Hirt, of Detroit, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin. The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's bridal chorus, played by Miss Peggy Hirt, sister of the groom, and took her place beneath an arch of autumn foliage. She looked charming in a gown of white crepe, trimmed with sequin and pearls, and wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms, and the groom's gift, a diamond necklace, and carried a shower boquet of baby mums and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Inez Henry, who wore a gown of pale green organdie and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses. The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Arthur Hirt. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the dining-room, where the color scheme was pink and white. The Misses Meryle Anderson, Hazel Collins and Margaret McLeish, girl friends of the bride, assisted. Mr. and Mrs. Hirt left on a motor trip to the White Mountains and the Southern States, the bride wearing a suit of brown duvetyn, with hat to match. On their return they will reside in Detroit.

CENTENNIAL W. M. S.

"Canada's Share in World Tasks," the Methodist mission study book of the year, is affording an interesting half hour's discussion at a number of the W. M. S. meetings in the various churches. At the Centennial Methodist Church Mrs. Thompson gave a splendid outline of the book at this week's meeting of the society, over which Mrs. Paul presided. The program, arranged by Mrs. Pirie's group, included songs by Miss Mossop and Mrs. Manzies, accompanied by Mrs. William Taylor, and the Bible reading was taken by Mrs. Watkins. A social chat over the teacups concluded a most successful gathering, at which a large attendance was recorded.

KNOX CHURCH W. M. S.

Dr. Murdock MacKenzie, pioneer missionary of North Honan, China, and one of the oldest and strongest missionaries of the Presbyterian church, will be the speaker at the annual thank-offering meeting of the W. M. S. of Knox Church, which has been arranged to take place on Tuesday evening next, October 18. Dr. MacKenzie, who, with his wife, has spent 30 years in the Honan mission field, has been untiring in his efforts for that mission, even during his furloughs. While on his last leave Dr. MacKenzie was moderator of the general assembly. It is expected that a large number of church members will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing so distinguished a speaker.

HIGH SCHOOL CLUB.

The first meeting for the season of the High School Girls' Club, which took place this week, proved to be a very happy reunion of members, as well as a warm welcome to the newcomers. A history of the four years of the club life, presented by the Misses Margaret Howe, Margaret Mitchell, Ruth Tanner and Madeline Roddick, was most interesting to the new members, who were also instructed in the art of the ballot in anticipation of the formal election of officers to take place next week.

CATHEDRAL G. F. S.

Three groups of St. Paul's Cathedral Girls' Friendly Society members, seniors, juniors and Guides, met recently in Cronyn Hall for a very jolly supper. Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, gave the girls an interesting address on "Why We Believe in the G. F. S.," and later there was a discussion of the winter program which is to include some definite missionary undertaking and a bazaar during the Christmas season.

ARTS '22 ELECTS.

The election of officers for Arts '22 took place at the university on Wednesday evening, with the following results: President Mr. George Wainwright; vice-president, Miss Rose Sanders; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Chris Chapman; vice-president literary society, Miss Shirley White; representative to literary society, Miss Mary Granger. Nominations were also made as follows: Prefect for students' council, Mr. Ted McMahon; sub-prefect, Miss Lois Black; representative from year, Mr. Fred James.

RIDOUT STREET L. A.

The Ladies' Aid, of the Ridout Street Methodist Church, met this week with an attendance that proved the work at the fair booth to be an advantage, not only financially, but also in increased membership and interest.

After the usual reports were read the most important business was the planning of a rummage sale on October 21, and a bazaar, to be held on December 2.

The meeting was followed by a social half-hour over the teacups, with Mrs. E. M. Russell presiding.

UNITED HOSPITAL AIDS MEETING HERE TO-DAY

Visits to Children's Hospital and Medical School Included in Program

Visits of inspection to the Memorial Children's Hospital, and to the Medical School, and an address from Dr. H. W. Hill, of the London Institute of Public Health, are important items on the program for the annual meeting of the United Hospital Aids of Ontario, taking place here to-day.

Representatives, to the number of nearly 50, from these societies, all actively engaged in work of some nature in behalf of their local hospitals, are in the city, and a luncheon has been arranged in their honor at the Cafe De Luxe, where Dr. Hill gives his address on child welfare work in general, and the London Children's Hospital in particular.

The afternoon program, at the King Street Y. W. C. A., includes reports from all these aids, with Mrs. A. E. Horton, of St. Thomas, presiding, and Mrs. Stuart, also of St. Thomas, as secretary.

NINE GRADUATES TAKE FULL TIME COURSE IN PUBLIC HEALTH NURSING

Nine graduate nurses are at the present time taking the full course in public health nursing at Western University under the London Institute of Public Health. In addition to these full-time students, eight other graduates are taking part-time courses in the theoretical side of the work.

An important feature of the course is the practical field work, in which the nurses receive very thorough grounding under the various public health organizations of the city. For several weeks at a time the nurses will engage at certain periods in field work under the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Child Welfare Association and the Social Service Council, and also under the public school, T. B., industrial and infectious nursing staffs of the city.

The system is an excellent one and will, without doubt, grow in favor as time goes on," said Miss Bertha Smith, head of the Child Welfare Nursing staff, in talking over the work of her department with The Free Press. "In this particular line of work alone the nurses will get practical training for five weeks, in clinical work and in visiting. We take them two at a time, and very soon they are able, in return for our teaching, to relieve us of the responsibility, which is most satisfactory, as three of our staff of four are themselves taking part-time lectures in public health theory."

With the steady increase in the importance of public health nursing as a profession, the courses grow in interest, and much enthusiasm is evidenced on the part of the nurses for the work they have undertaken.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

Norah gave a little protesting cry. "Oh, how can you call it that? It's just the most beautiful place I've ever seen. I only wish it were mine?"

There was a little silence, then the black sheep laughed mirthlessly.

"Do you?" he said. "Perhaps I wish the same."

He glanced at her quickly to see the effect of his words, but apparently they had conveyed nothing of any importance to her.

"Perhaps some day you will be able to live there," she told him kindly. "Perhaps a fairy godmother will turn up. Things do happen like that, you know, don't they. I wish it could for you. Laurie would just love Barton Manor, I know."

A swift streak of color tinged Laxton's face. His hands tightened their grip of the wheel.

"What do you mean?" he asked sharply.

She looked at him in surprise. "Only that I heard you were engaged to Laurie Fenton," she said, faintly embarrassed. "Isn't it true? I'm glad—I mean I'm sorry. Oh, dear! I don't know what I do mean."

She was flushed and distressed, but the man beside her kept his eyes steadily averted.

He drove some little way in silence; then—

"I'm not engaged to anybody," he said shortly.

They were driving down a gently sloping road now, with high hedges on either side, and tall trees, whose long arms met in an archway overhead. The blue sky was faintly visible through the new spring leaves, but later on the fully budded branches would make a shady canopy.

"Isn't it beautiful?" Norah asked enthusiastically.

She looked at Laxton eagerly. She expected to find him lost in admiration of the country in its dainty spring dress; but apparently his thoughts were elsewhere, as he roused himself with a little start and an obvious effort to answer her.

"Very pretty," he said absently.

Norah was disappointed.

"I am afraid you spoke the truth when you told me that you didn't like the country," she said.

"I'm afraid I did," he admitted. "I'm a Goth, I know; but give me London every time. There's something about it——" He laughed rather self-consciously. "When I was abroad," he went on abruptly, "I used to dream about England; not in the least in the romantic sort of way fellows in books do—about the white cliffs and country lanes, and all that sort of stuff; but just London, the noise of the omnibuses and the taxicabs and the newspaper boys, and the theaters; its—but I can't make you understand."

"I think I do understand," she told him. "You think about London in the same sort of way as some people think of the sea, don't you?"

He laughed rather self-consciously. "Something like that, perhaps."

"And were you abroad very long?"

"Long enough—two or three years. I couldn't come back, you see, or I should have done."

"What do you mean—couldn't come back?"

He colored a little: "Well, daren't, then, if you like to put it that way. There were a nice little crowd of creditors waiting to seize me if I dared to set foot in London. One chap in particular! Old Devil!"

There was a sort of surly defiance in his voice. He looked at the girl beside him and quickly away again.

"So, you see, the stories you've been told about me are more or less true," he went on carelessly. "I am up to my eyes in debt, and I have got a rotten name. I shouldn't be here now, only the brutes I owe money to know that Barton Manor is worth a tidy bit. When that's sold they'll come down on me like a pack of wolves and fight for the bones."

"What a shame!"

"Oh, no, it isn't! I've let some of 'em in badly. I'm not at all a figure of romance, I assure you, Miss Ackroyd; and if I'm not quite so bad as people make out it's more luck than anything else."

She was silent for a moment.

"I think perhaps you rather like to make out that you're a black sheep, don't you?" she suggested. "Perhaps people have talked about you at one time when you didn't deserve it, and it made you hard and angry, and so now you think you'll be reckless and give them something to talk about."

She was looking at Laxton with sympathetic eyes. She felt somehow very sorry for him; the motherliness that is in the heart of every good woman stirred a little at the defiance of his eyes and the hard unhappiness of his voice.

A little muscle in his thin face jerked convulsively for a moment. "That's a kind way to put it," he said constrainedly. "That's the kindest thing any one has said to me for a long time."

Norah flushed. "I think it's true," she answered.

Laxton shook his head.

"You'd find it a hard job to get anybody to agree with you. My uncle—old Snowden, who had Barton Manor before me, you know—was firmly convinced that I was the greatest scamp unhanged. If he hadn't died before he had time to alter his will Barton Manor would never have come to me. As it is, I am the next of kin, and so it couldn't be helped. He didn't leave me a penny with it, you know; I haven't a shilling in the world except about a couple of hundred a year, which was my mother's and which he couldn't touch. He hated my father and he hated me, and there you have the whole thing in a nutshell."

(To Be Continued.)

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, A.M., M.D.

THE CHILD'S FOOD—II.

With three meals a child has a better appetite, much better digestion and thrives far better in consequence than those children whose stomachs are constantly working overtime. Yet some specially delicate children cannot do without a luncheon at 3 or 3.30; then a glass of milk and a biscuit or a cup of broth and Zwelback are right. Or a child may at this time relish instead a scraped raw apple or a pear; this is particularly judicious for constipated children. Children recovering from serious illness will require, according to the doctor's directions, more frequent feeding. In general good foods for children are: Cane sugar, cream, fruit pulp mashed vegetables, clear soups, puree of vegetable, fish, oysters, lamb, veal, gelatin, beef, turkey, mutton, chicken, squab, beans, oatmeal, graham flour, Boston crackers, peas, graham bread, cornmeal, wheat bread, barley, maccaroni, arrowroot, sago, dates, tapioca, molasses, figs, corn, green peas, spinach, stewed fruits, string beans, onions, peaches, pears, tomatoes, cranberries, chocolate, bacon fat, cocoa.

Here are forbidden foods for the nursery: Ham, sausage, pork, salt fish, dried beef, corned beef, goose, duck, broiled or stewed kidneys, liver and bacon, stewed liver, gravies, except dish gravy, baked tomatoes, pickled beets, fried potatoes, carrots, pastries, griddle cakes, fresh bread, meat or fruit pies, rich cakes, hot biscuit, meat stews, fruits, tea, coffee, liquors (unless indicated by the doctor).

Questions and Answers.

My married sister (aged 29) has been suffering for some time past from some internal trouble, and is so ill at times that she is laid up for a day or two when the attacks occur. She has visited two doctors, and both inform her that an operation is necessary. We have known several who have been operated on for the same complaint. These have either died shortly afterward or have never been well again and have required repeated operations. I am, therefore, appealing to you for further advice. Do you know of anything that might be done to improve my sister's condition without an operation? I am afraid that if something is not done she might have a fatal attack, and sometimes her breath and voice are greatly impeded.

Answer—You see, my friend, the crux of the situation lies in your last sentence. If something is not done the disease might be fatal. It is imperative that the surgeon does a "laparotomy" (opens the abdomen). Then he can view the organs involved and remove whatever is diseased, perhaps not all of the organs. But he must be permitted to be thorough else there may be repeated operations such as you rightly dread. People rarely die as the result of the operation itself. Nothing will take the place of an operation for the disease you mention.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

TWO GOOD DINNER MENUS.

Your family will enjoy the following dinner menus:

Ham Loaf — Macaroni Ramekins
String Beans
Coffee — New Baked Apples

Ham Loaf: Put 1 pound of ham through the meat chopper, including fat, and add 1 cup each of bread crumbs and boiling water, and 2 beaten eggs. Season with ½ teaspoon of dry mustard and a pinch of paprika. Mix well, then turn into a buttered bread pan to bake in a slow oven for 2 hours. Serve sliced, either hot or cold.

Macaroni Ramekins: (Macaroni in the dinner menu takes the place of potatoes). Put into the top of a double boiler 1½ tablespoons of butter and 2 tablespoons of flour; mix well and when smooth add 1 cup of rich, sweet milk and let cook until thickened. Add 5 tablespoons of grated or finely chopped cheese and 1 cup of boiled macaroni broken into short lengths. Remove from range as soon as the cheese is dissolved and season with salt and pepper to suit individual taste. Let cool, then stir in 3 well-beaten eggs and turn the mixture into small, buttered ramekins; place these ramekins in a large shallow pan containing enough hot water to come half way up the sides of the little baking dishes, and let bake in a moderate oven until set. Serve hot, either in or out of the moulds. These are delicious.

New Baked Apples: Core 6 apples stuff the centers with a mixture of dry bread crumbs, brown sugar, cinnamon and bits of butter. Place these apples in shallow baking dish and pour over them the following hot sauce: Boil together for a minute 1½ cups of water, 1 cup of dark brown sugar and 1-3 teaspoon salt. After putting this sauce on, bake in a slow oven till the apples are tender.

Italian Veal
Rice Croquettes
Beets
Coffee — Apple Pie

Italian Veal: Buy 2 pounds of lean veal and roast this in a moderate oven until only half cooked (it should be roasted enough to slice easily). Remove it from the oven, slice it thinly and cut the slices into smaller pieces (each piece should be 2x2 inches square—or thereabouts). Now saute these pieces in a hot frying pan with a very little grease until they begin to curl up slightly. Then add the liquor from the pan in which the meat was roasted, and enough boiling water to cover the veal slices. Put into the pan also 4 peppers which have been cut into pieces the same size as the veal pieces (seeds discarded). Let all simmer for 1 hour. Then add salt and pepper to suit taste. A few minutes before serving add 1 cup of hot tomato juice; thicken the gravy slightly with a little flour-and-water paste. Turn the veal and pepper pieces out on to a meat platter, pour the gravy over them, and serve very hot. (This dish may also be made from left-over cold roast veal simmered with peppers for 1 hour, as above described. In this case 1 cup of cold left-over gravy must be used.)

It will be noted that no potatoes appear in this menu, also. For rice is another potato substitute and, if rightly cooked, it is just as delicious—and more economical.

A NEW SONG.

The world waits for a new song,
A glad song—a true song—
A song without the semblance of a tear;
Full of hilltops and the heather
In a day of summer weather,
And a comrade who is infinitely near.

The world waits for a joy song,
A girl song, a boy song—
A song that arrows upward like a lark,
Till the sky is torn asunder,
As with lightning after thunder,
And a sword of sunrise drives away the dark.

O come and sing a day song,
A hill song, a way song—
A song to heal the halt and blind and dumb,
Till they rise to follow after
The wild music of our laughter,
And their glad feet make the murmur of a drum!

—Robert Norwood.

PARIS (By Mail).—The sleeve is an interesting detail on one of those talented costumes that look like coats but are really one-piece dresses. Note, too, the unusual line taken by the yoke, and the trim effect of the front accomplished by the deep darts on the bodice. This model was shown in navy blue tricotine, with black and white striped silk for the facing of revers and sleeves.

With this fur neckpiece, this type of dress provides that exceedingly trim effect so much liked for street wear, good throughout the fall and winter for all-around service.

TO WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

This Woman's Letter Tells You How To Pass The Crisis Safely.

Lascelles, P.Q.—"During the Change of Life I felt so weak and run down I could hardly do my work. The perspiration would pour over my face so that I couldn't see what I was doing. We live on a farm, so there is lots to do, but many who felt as I did would have been in bed. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it did me a world of good. I tried other remedies but I put Vegetable Compound ahead of them all, and I tell every one I know how much good it has done me."—Mrs. DUNCAN BROWN, Lascelles, Prov. Quebec.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ear, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness should be heeded by middle-aged women, and let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carry them safely through this crisis as it did Mrs. Brown.

You are invited to write for free advice

No other medicine has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Women may receive free and helpful advice by writing the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

How You Can Remove Every Trace of Hair

(Toilet Talks)

A stiff paste made with some powdered delatone and water and spread on a hairy surface about 2 minutes will, when removed, take every trace of hair with it. The skin should then be washed to free it from the remaining delatone. No harm can result from this treatment, but be sure it is delatone you get and you will not be disappointed. Mix fresh as wanted.—Advt.

Best Treatment for All Complexion Ills

If the skin be colorless, sallow, muddy, over-red, if it be rough, blotchy, pimply or freckled, there's nothing that will so surely overcome the condition as ordinary mercolized wax. It literally takes off a bad complexion—absorbs the dead and near-dead particles of surface skin, so gently, gradually, you experience no inconvenience at all. A new complexion is then in evidence, one so clear, spotless, delicately soft and beautiful, you look years younger. One ounce of this wax, procurable at any drug store, will rejuvenate even the worst complexion. It is smeared on like cold cream before retiring and removed mornings with warm water. The mercolized wax habit is a healthier and more economical one than the cosmetic habit.

If the skin be wrinkled or flabby, bathe it daily in a solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint of witch hazel. This acts immediately, affecting even the deepest wrinkles.—Advt.

The Iron Food for Vitality

True vigor and vitality depend on the iron in the blood

Real Raisin Pie

—you don't know it, unless you've tasted this one. Try the recipe and see

WHEN made correctly—it is easy—Raisin Pie rules in its own right as the Pie Supreme — man's favorite food-dessert.

Do you use a recipe like this one—have you ever tasted raisin pie made exactly in this way?

If not, you're unfamiliar with real raisin pie — the flavory, energy-producing dessert that furnishes the blood with food-iron and helps to keep vitality up to par.

You need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital.

A million workers probably are refreshed daily by the digestible, quick-acting nourishment and vitalizing iron of raisin pie.

Whether you work indoors or out, you need this vitality.

Raisin Pie

Men are quickly refreshed at night by a dessert like this

2 cups Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins
2 cups water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 tablespoon sugar

Wash the raisins, put in saucepan with 1 cup cold water and bring slowly to a boil. Add sugar, salt and corn starch which has been mixed with 1 cup cold water. Boil 3 minutes; add lemon juice. Pour in pie tin which has been lined with crust, while hot cover; brush top with cold milk and bake in moderate oven until brown.

All measurements for this recipe are level.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins, made from California's finest table grapes—American raisins, processed and packed immaculately in a great modern California plant.

Seeded (seeds removed); Seedless (grown without seeds); Clusters (on the stem). Also a fine, ever-ready dessert.

Raisins are cheaper by thirty per cent than formerly. See that you get plenty in your foods.

FAVOR TEACHING FROM THE BIBLE

London School Teachers Discuss Religious Education

TAUGHT INDIRECTLY NOW

School of Greater Importance Than the Church.

Religious education in the public schools as a means of overcoming the materialistic tendencies of the age and of raising the moral standards of the future citizens was strongly advocated by A. D. Hone, principal of the Technical School, in an address before London Teachers' Association yesterday afternoon. His views, while not shared by all the speakers on the timely subject, will doubtless be considered by a committee appointed to draft a resolution for submission to the convention to-day.

Three well-attended meetings of the association were held yesterday and the reports and addresses were all of practical value to the teachers of the city. Alex MacQueen, president of the association, made a plea in the morning for the teaching of conversational French to the pupils of the public schools. The new high school curriculum was the other important matter besides religious education discussed in the afternoon, while the evening was devoted to an address on "Our Mother Tongue and Some of Its Ways," by Professor James A. Spencely, of Western University.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHERS.

Rev. W. L. Armitage paid a tribute to the teaching profession in remarks on the question of religious education in the schools. The point which he stressed was that it was the teaching of the Bible and not of religion that was wanted in the schools and that the aim of the teachers should be to inculcate the great truths and morals of the Bible into the minds of the children.

"The training and influence of the public school teacher in the Province of Ontario has been excellent," said the minister. "Without it our citizenship would not be at as high a standard as it is to-day. Our ideals have not been realized yet, however, as there are many sections of the province where the communities are morally degrading and the teachers of little influence. The church has not failed in its task, because it has not the children for as long a time as the public schools. As for ministers availing themselves of the opportunity to give instruction after four. I don't want my own or any other children kept in after 4 o'clock, but I do want a definite place during school hours for the study of the Book of Books."

Mr. Hone agreed with the minister that there were "awful moral conditions existing in some communities," and that the religious ignorance of many children was abysmal. Despite a general impression to the contrary, he believed that the great truths of the Bible could be understood by the child as well as by the average adult. The Christian religion, he said, was a child's religion and should have a definite place in the child's studies.

"It is necessary for us to overcome the materialistic times in which we are living," said the principal. "There never was a time when there was such a wave of crime sweeping over the world, and the lack of religious instruction in the schools is partly responsible for this situation. While we don't develop moral character, we will have to continue to keep everything under lock and key and be suspicious of everyone's honesty.

SUGGESTS CONFERENCE.

"Religious education is a big question and one that should be made a national question. We ought to have a conference of all religious denominations, including the Roman Catholic, in the province, and I believe that by exemplifying the proper degree of co-operation that we would be able to agree on a curriculum. Denominational teachings are only a theoretical objection as no teachers would proselytize, in my opinion, the children placed in their care."

E. H. McKone was of the opinion that the school was greater in importance than even the church or the home to-day, and that upon it fell the work of making civilization what it ought to be. His remark that "we can do the work better than the church itself" caused a laughing ripple of unbelief, but he maintained that by taking the work in hand locally without outside help, that the best results would be obtained. The principal wanted no curriculum "thrust on" the schools of the city by the department of education.

Miss E. A. Knott, secretary of the association, gave it as her view that the proposed religious education in the schools was necessary to combat the invasion of Mohommedans and other non-Christian sects. She believed that the department of education should be memoralized to set aside a regular period for study of the Bible.

Ed. E. Reid, who gave the address on the subject which paved the way for the subsequent discussion, advocated the preparation of lists of memorization passages which should be committed to memory in the public schools. He deplored the loss of purity of speech and believed that by committing to heart the extracts from the Bible that this tendency could be corrected.

CRITICIZES MEMORY PLAN

F. Newhouse, who followed Mr. Reid contended that the commitment to memory of passages from the Bible was contrary to all pedagogy and that if the same system were advanced in other studies that we would be considered "back numbers." In his remarks he showed that a knowledge of the Bible was gained indirectly through the stories in the public school readers, in the histories, in art, and even in spelling and that the introduction of further teachings would only bring up doctrinal quicksands that would engulf the teachers.

"In spitet of the progress which we have made in the direction of church union we have only to touch upon a few doctrines to find trouble," said Mr. Newhouse. "All that the child can absorb is a child's religion, and otherwise he will become a religious dyspeptic. A child might have a soul as pure as an angel and yet not have the least knowledge of the Bible. The great bulk of children are religiously inclined and are morally head and shoulders above what we were when we were children.

Principal Mooney, of the Collegiate, declared that never in history had a piece of legislation been passed that was of grater assistance to the teaching profession and the students alike than the measure which modified the curricula for high school students. Successive additions, he said, had been made to the curricula until it had got to the almost unbearable, and there was nothing but a contiuous procession of studies that confronted the young mind.

Students were in a race and hurry to fill the mental tasks before the legislation came into force. There was no break in the troublesome continuation of one subject to another and it was little wonder that the pupils either did not keep up in their studiees or became ill through the great amount of them. The legislation was an earnest effort on the part of the department of education to relieve the stress under which students were working by reducing the number of subjects that were essential.

Miss L. Gahan in the afternoon explained the use of the teachers' library cards, while in the evening an address by Prof. Spencley, of Western University, gave many interesting sidelights on the origin and evolution of the English language. The report on the trip to New Ontario was made prior to this address by Mr. MacQueen and Miss Hislop.

LOCKJAW DEVELOPS AS RESULT OF NAIL WOUND

SOMBRA, Oct. 13.—George Salisbury, cement worker, is seriously ill with lockjaw at the home of his brother, Jack Salisbury, here. The young man got a rusty nail in his foot while at work laying a sidewalk, and blood poisoning developed.

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE TALE OF LADYBUG.

MRS. LADYBUG LEAVES

The Carpenter Bee, who lived in the big poplar by the brook, wasn't building a house for Mrs. Ladybug. That skillful woodworker hadn't been able to agree with her — so he told Buster Bumblebee. Furthermore, he knew nothing of Mrs. Ladybug's present plans as to where she was going to spend the winter.

Nor did anybody else. It was all a great mystery. And Mrs. Ladybug seemed to enjoy it far more than her neighbors did. She was the only person that could have solved it for them. And she wouldn't.

22.
But Daddy Longlegs saw her

At the same time she took delight in talking about her winter quarters, as she called the place where she intended to live during the cold weather.

"It will be cozy and warm there," she often remarked to her callers, of whom she had huge numbers. For there was scarcely a person in the orchard or the garden that didn't burn with curiosity to know more about the fine, big house into which Mrs. Ladybug expected to move.

"My winter quarters will be windproof," Mrs. Ladybug told them. And that speech set them all to guessing again.

Almost everybody said then that she was going to live underground.

"I shall not feel a drop of rain—not even during the January thaw," Mrs. Ladybug went on.

And then everybody had to begin guessing all over again; for raindrops are sure to trickle into an underground house during a warm spell.

"You're going to live in a pumpkin!" cried Buster Bumblebee.

And all the neighbors — even Mrs. Ladybug herself—laughed when they heard that.

Buster knew of an old tune called "The Bumblebee in the Pumpkin," and he cried with some heat that he could think of no reason why there shouldn't be "A Ladybug in a Pumpkin."

"I told you my house was big—the biggest one on the farm," Mrs. Ladybug reminded him.

"Ah!" Chirpy Cricket exclaimed. "Now I know! You're going to live in the haystack. A haystack is cozy and warm; it's windproof; it sheds water; and there's nothing bigger anywhere."

It really seemed as if Chirpy Cricket had solved the great mystery.

"He's guessed the riddle!" people said. "You might as well admit now, Mrs. Ladybug, that you're going to spend the winter in Farmer Green's haystack."

But Mrs. Ladybug dashed their hopes.

"You're wrong," she told her friends. "And if to-night's as nippy as last night was, perhaps you will find out to-morrow where I'm going. For I don't care to freeze my toes here in the orchard."

That night it was colder than ever. And the next day Mrs. Ladybug went all around the orchard and the garden bidding people good-by.

Still she wouldn't tell where she was going. And if Daddy Longlegs hadn't happened to stroll around the cherry tree outside Farmer Green's chamber window that afternoon, nobody would have known where Mrs. Ladybug went. But Daddy Longlegs saw her. And he hastened to spread the news.

Mrs. Ladybug has gone to spend the winter in the farmhouse!"

BANK MANAGER REPELS BANDIT

E. W. Pottinger Exchanges Shots With Hold-Up Man

GUN FIGHT AT HAMILTON

Would-Be Robber Obtains No Money, But Escapes

HAMILTON, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—After a gun fight lasting for several minutes E. W. Pottinger, manager of the branch of the Bank of Hamilton, Sanford avenue and King street, beat off a lone robber who had attempted to rob the bank. Shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon a man stepped into the bank, which is a new branch, and ordered the teller to throw up his hands. H. L. Groat, the teller, was about to comply when Mr. Pottinger, who was in the rear of the bank, opened fire on the bandit. His fire was returned without any effect, although the bandit emptied his gun in the direction of the manager, who also failed to hit his mark. The man then ran out of the bank with the smoking revolver in his hand and made off in a northerly direction towards the foreign district.

The police and motor cycle squads were notified and are scouring the city for the would-be bandit, of whom they have a good description. The bank did not lose anything.

PARIS RATEPAYERS O. K. PARK PURCHASE

Modern $25,000 Rink Is Planned to Replace Building Recently Burned.

PARIS, Oct. 13.—(Special to The Free Press).—The citizens to-day polled a large vote in favor of the purchase of the Agricultural Park by the corporation. The place is central, and will be a general playground for athletic sports, etc.

Paris rink was destroyed by fire last January, and down the north side of the grounds will be erected at once a modern rink 210x190 feet, valued at $25,000. This will give employent to a number of men and the building erected by the Alabastine Company, a local firm. The vote polled was 456 for the by-law and 83 against.

ARBUCKLE ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13. — Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle entered a plea here to-day of not guilty to the charge of manslaughter filed against him in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe. Arbuckle's trial was set for November 7.

IT PAYS TO MOVE.

SARNIA, Oct. 13.—Efforts of the police to keep the sidewalks clear from loafers who congregate on busy evenings on the sidewalk's edge caused the arrest on Saturday last of Clarence Dionne, who refused to move when ordered. In to-day's police court he was fined $5 and costs of $4.50. The defence pleaded that he was unable to move on account of the crowd, but the magistrate thought differently.

TO NAME HALFORD TO COMPESATION BOARD

Hamilton Labor Man, Acting President Trades Congress, to Fill $7,500 Vacancy.

TORONTO, Oct. 13. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Although the Government, according to Premier Drury, has not yet appointed H. J. Halford, of Hamilton, as vice-chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board, it is stated that the Cabinet has decided upon him as the new member of the board and that the appointment will probably be made early next week.

Mr. Halford, during the absence of President Tom Moore, of the Dominion Trades Congress, is acting president of the congress. He is international vice-president of the barbers' union and a member of the Hamilton musicians' local, and also an ex-controller of Hamilton. He succeeds on the board the late Alex. Wright, of Toronto, who died nearly three years ago. Mr. Halford's salary will be $7,500 a year. For years Mr. Halford has been a master barber in Hamilton.

GASOLINE PRICE IS BOOSTED AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, Oct. 13.—An increase in the price of gasoline was announced locally this morning. The price is now 37c per gallon, the former price being 35½c (including tax).

The Market and Hall Committee decided to recommend to the City Council that the request of the butchers for permission to sell meat on the market any day in the week be granted.

A new three-manual pipe organ is being erected in Memorial Baptist Church and will be played for the first time on Sunday, October 23. The day will be a special one, when the pastor, the Rev. H. Campbell Plant, will preach appropriate sermons, and the choir will render special music.

LOSES EYE AS RESULT OF STRIKING MOTOR CAR

INGERSOLL, Oct. 13.—Ewart Moon, a local insurance agent, was rushed to Victoria Hospital in London to-day, where his right eye was removed following a mishap which occurred shortly before noon. Moon was riding a bicycle on King street west. Taking out his book to see where his next stop was, he failed to see a car standing at the roadside. He collided with this, and in the impact his eyeglasses were smashed, the glass entering the right eye and lacerating it badly.

500 DELEGATES AT CONVENTION

Baptists of Ontario and Quebec to Meet at St. Thomas

SESSIONS FOR EIGHT DAYS

Question of Moving University to Hamilton

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—(By Staff Reporter)—One of the most important conventions of an ecclesiastical nature ever held in this city will open here tomorrow afternoon at Center Street Baptist Church, when upwards of 500 delegates will be present to participate in the 33rd annual gathering of the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec. The congregation of the local church has been very busy during the past few weeks preparing for the big event, and expect among the delegates some of the most prominent laymen and clergy in the two provinces. The convention will continue for eight days, with special services next Sunday.

One of the chief items will be a report, to be submitted next Wednesday afternoon, of the board of governors of McMaster University Senate, Toronto. The question of whether the university will be removed to Hamilton or not will be one matter to be decided in this report.

The convention meets under the presidency of S. J. Moore, of Toronto, one of Canada's best-known financiers, and among those who will attend will be Chancellor McCrimmon, M.A., LL.D., of McMaster University, and Rev. W. J. McKay, B.D., LL.D., editor and manager of The Canadian Baptist.

GEO. VANDECAR DEAD.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 13.—George Washington Vandecar, a life-long and well-known resident of Oxford County, died on Wednesday evening at his home here in his 88th year. Mr. Vandecar was born on the 11th line of East Zorra, and had spent 40 years in Woodstock. For four terms he served the city as alderman. He belonged to the Masonic Order and was Presbyterian in religion. He was twice married, and he is survived by his widow and one son, J. B. Vandecar, of Kingsport, Tenn.; also there is a sister, Mrs. C. Garbutt, and a brother, S. W. Vandecar, Woodstock.

SYNOD APPOINTS UNION COMMITTEE

Represents All Shades of Opinion In Recent Debate.

ACTION FOR PENSIONS

Scheme of Annuities For Anglican Clergy Proposed.

HAMILTON, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—The lower house of the Anglican General Synod to-night followed up its acceptance of the Lambeth appeal by appointing its section of the joint union committee, which is to arrange for conferences with other communions in Canada on the question of church union. The committee is composed of 54 members, and is regarded as being fully representative of the various shades of opinion expressed in the recent union debate. With an equal representation of clergy and laity, it is made of two representatives from each of the 19 dioceses and four from each of the ecclesiastical provinces. It is expected that the names of those bishops who will act on the committee as representatives of the upper house will be announced to-morrow.

ON THE COMMITTEE.

Selected by a special nominating committee of five clergymen and five laymen, appointed early in the day, the lower house representatives on the union committee are as follows:

Nova Scotia—Very Rev. J. P. D. Lloyd, A. B. Wiswell.

Quebec—Very Rev. H. H. Bedford Jones, Chancellor R. Campbell.

Fredericton—Very Rev. Dean Neales, Chancellor M. G. Teed.

Montreal—Rev. Professor Abbott Smith, Chancellor L. H. Davidson.

Ruperts' Land—Rev. Canon Loucks, Chancellor Macray.

Moosonee—Ven. Archdeacon Woodall, G. B. Nicholson.

Saskatchewan — Ven. Archdeacon Dwedney, H. G. Dawson.

Qu'Appelle—Ven. Archdeacon Dobie, Mr. Justice Bigelow.

Calgary—Ven. Archdeacon Hayes, E. J. Fream.

Edmonton—Rev. Canon Ingram Johnston, Chancellor F. Ford.

Toronto — Ven. Archdeacon Cody, Chancellor J. A. Worrell.

Huron—Rev. Principal C. C. Waller, Colonel E. S. Wigle.

Ontario—Rev. Canon W. G. Fitzgerald, Judge Reynolds.

Algoma—Rev. Canon Burt, Chancellor Boyce.

Niagara—Very Rev. Dean Owen, G. C. Coopley.

Ottawa—Rev. Canon Elliott, Chancellor F. H. Gisborne.

British Columbia—Rev. H. T. Archbald, R. Ross Sutherland.

New Westminster—Ven. Archdeacon Heathcote, F. L. Beecher.

Kootenay—Ven. Archdeacon Graham, F. Richardson.

The following represent the four ecclesiastical provinces:

Canada—Ven. Archdeacon Armitage, Rev. W. H. Davidson, Hon. Chief Justice Harris, John Hamilton.

Rupert's Land—Ven. Archdeacon McElheran, Ven. Archdeacon Thomas, C. P. Coleman, J. B. Leadley Brown.

Ontario—Rev. Provost Seager, Rev. Dyson Hague, Mr. Justice Hodgins, P. J. Bell.

British Columbia—Rev. C. H. Shortt, Rev. Principal Vance, Mr. Chancellor Hamilton, John Harvey.

PENSIONS FOR CLERGY.

Definite action looking towards the inauguration of a Dominion-wide pension scheme for the clergy of the Church of England in Canada was taken at this afternoon's session when the lower house approved a temporary scheme which will provide for the payment of annuities to superannuated ministers and their widows and children in those dioceses where no adequate pensioning system is now in force. Payments are to be made out of the income from the $750,000 raised for the establishment of a pension system by the Anglican Forward Movement.

Under the provisions of the canon authorizing the establishment of the general synod pension fund, clergymen who are superannuated with a minimum of 10 years' service will receive an annuity of $400, with an additional $10 for every year of service over 10 years, the aggregate not to exceed $700 per annum. A widow is to be paid $400 per annum and $40 per annum for each child not over 18 years of age. Provision is made for temporary superannuation, and 70 is set as the age at which a minister may retire.

The scheme also provides for the equalization of the pensions scheme for the whole Canadian Anglican Church on an actual basis.

After having taken the all-important step towards church union, the Anglican General Synod this morning got down to other business, a considerable amount of which still remains to be disposed of before Saturday. The attendance this morning was much slimmer.

The constitution was amended to permit of thancellors representing their diocese irrespective of residence.

ANNUAL ASSESSMENTS.

On motion of R. W. Allan, of Toronto, the synod approved of placing the assessments on the diocese for the expenses of the synod on an annual instead of a triennial basis as at present.

Dr. Allan Seager, provost of Trinity, moved that a committee of ten, five from the clergy and five from the laity, be appointed by a prolocutor and Chancellor Worrell, of Toronto, as a nominating committee to appoint a committee, who shall confer with other communions, re church union.

Canon Scott thought that each diocese should be linked up with the conference committee.

Dr. Renison suggested that the committee be large enough to divide, according to provinces, for some of the meetings should be considered.

This resolution was adopted.

Canon Scott, the poet of the church, criticized some of the errors which were now, he charged, defacing the hymns, and he wanted a committee appointed to rectify these errors and thus preserve the literary quality of the hymns.

Rev. Principal Vance questioned the submission of a report on doctrine worship and discipline, of which the Bishop of Ontario is convener, when the committee held no meeting and did not know what its duties were.

C. S. Scott urged that a great discourtesy would be done Bishop Bidwell if the synod refused to receive his report.

After spirited discussion the lower house finally agreed to accept the report as a message from the house of bishops.

UNITY IN DOCTRINE.

For the purpose of creating greater unity in the Church of England, Ven. Archdeacon Ingles, Toronto, presented a resolution asking for a round table conference between representatives of the two great schools of thought in the church, six from each school, with a view to coming to a common agreement.

"As an examining chaplain I have found just as bad doctrine in one school as the other, and just as good doctrine in one as in the other," the speaker said.

He regretted having to deal with the subject, but in the interest of unity it should be done. Rev. Principal Waller, who remarked that he did not belong to any particular school of thought, seconded the motion.

Rev. W. Judd, of Windsor, said the two schools were steadily coming closer together, and he could not see the advantage of the proposed conference.

After some discussion Archdeacon Ingles withdrew his motion.

"Unity in essentials, variety in non-essentials—and out of all, unity," was the prolocutor's description of the church's stand.

THE COMMITTEE.

The personnel of the nominating committee to confer on the appointment of delegates to discuss church union with the other communions as announced later in the day by the prolocutor is as follows: Ven. Archdeacon Cody, Toronto; Rev. W. H. Davidson, Montreal; Rev. Canon H. P. Plumptree, Toronto; Ven. Archdeacon Heathcote, Vancouver; Ven. Archdeacon Vroom, Windsor, N.S.; Dr. L. H. Davidson, Montreal; L. A. Hamilton, Toronto; G. B. Coleman, Brandon; E. J. Fream, Calgary; and F. H. Gisborne, Ottawa.

Dissatisfaction with the present scale of pensions for returned soldiers was expressed by Canon F. G. Scott, of Quebec, who introduced the following notice of motion:

"That this synod desires to express its conviction that the scale of pensions adopted by the Canadian Government for disabled soldiers, especially in the case of those suffering from facial disfigurement, is totally inadequate."

"SPASMODIC" ACTIONS.

Considerable opposition was raised to the adoption of the report of the committee on doctrine, worship and discipline, which among many other things deprecated "spasmodic and irregular actions such as the invitation of non-Episcopally ordained clergymen to preach in our churches."

On its being pointed out that the bishops had sent down a message approving the report, the message was concurred in, with a small minority dissenting.

FOOD SHORTAGE IN PUEBLA.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 14.—Conditions in the City of Puebla are reported as becoming more acute, there being a great shortage of foodstuffs because of the concerted protests against the excessive taxation law recently enacted by the State Legislature. Newspapers in that city suspended publication yesterday as a result of a shortage of news print paper.

FANS AT SERIES PAID $900,233

Gate Receipts For Eight Games Break All Records.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—The 1921 world's series, ended to-day, set new financial and attendance records for future championship contests to shoot at. The total paid attendance for the eight games which were required to produce a winner, reached $900,233, contributed by 269,976 spectators.

This was $177,819 more than the best previous gate collected during the 1919 series between Cincinnati and Chicago, when $722,414 was paid by the fans of the two cities during the eight games of that year. The attendance in the series just closed was also 18,075 greater than the eight gatherings which witnessed the memorable Giants-Boston Americans play in 1912, when the total count of that post-season classic registered 251,901, which had stood as a record for nine years.

As a result of the enormous gate receipts all those to participate in the sharing of the funds will receive more than any of their predecessors in similar positions.

PLAYERS' SHARE.

The Giant players, as winners, collect 60 per cent of 75 per cent. of the players' share of the receipts for the first five games, amounting to $131,635, which, divided among 25 eligible men, gives approximately $5,265 to each. The Yankee players will divide $87,756, which will give each about $3,500. Under the plan of distributing 25 per cent. among the club players finishing second and third in both major leagues, the Cleveland Americans and the Pittsburg Nations will divide $43,878.34 equally, while the two St. Louis teams, as third place clubs, share $29,252.22.

The magnates also come in for a record division of the gate money. The advisory board, which succeeded the National commission in the reorganization of professional baseball, will take its 15 per cent. share, $135,034.95. The club owners' share will amount to $472,675.83. This latter sum exceeds by $82,553 the best previous club owners' share, made during the 1919 series, when $369,822 was divided.

WHAT LEAGUES GET.

The owners of the two local clubs, however, are not permitted to retain and divide equally the close to half a million dollars which appear at first sight to be theirs. The rules governing the financial affairs of the world's series specifically provide that 50 per cent. of each club's share for the first seven games shall be paid into their respective league treasuries, and that in case an eighth game is necessary, as was the case to-day, then 75 per cent. of the clubs' share of receipts for that game must go to the league treasuries.

IN THE CONTEST.

GUELPH, Oct. 13.—Governor John McNab, of the Wellington county jail, has entered the provincial contest among jail governors for the honor of feeding county prisoners at the lowest cost. Mr. McNab gave out his annual report to-day.

DR. CHAMBERS VERY WEAK

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 15. — Dr. Graham Chambers, of Toronto, found yesterday 15 miles from Atikokan, after being lost 15 days in the woods, is in a very weakened condition, according to reports from officials of the Canadian National Railways. A special train will take Dr. Chambers from Atikokan to Fort Frances this afternoon.

Attractive Furniture Opportunities For Every Home and Room

Two Specials For the Dining-Room

Fumed Oak Dining-Room Suite

$115.00

Buffet, extension table and six chairs, built from selected oak, comprise this suite, and really it is the best value we have ever been able to offer in a high-grade Dining-Room Suite. Not only is the price low, but you can have this suite delivered to your home on our club plan without any extra charge.

Odd China Cabinets

$39.50

Mostly in fumed oak, although there are one or two in gum walnut, excellent designs, including the more popular period motifs, single and double panel glass doors, and even at this low price we will extend the privileges of our club plan without any additional charge.

Two Specials For the Bedroom

Brass Bed, Spring and Mattress

$34.50

This price is little more than the real value of the Brass Bed alone. The Spring is an all-steel Simmons link fabric Spring, and the Mattress is an all-white layer felt covered in a good quality art tick. An initial payment of $8.00 delivers this complete outfit to your home, while $2.00 per week takes care of the balance.

Ivory Bedroom Suite

$169.50

This suite consists of a large dresser, chiffonier, dressing-table, double-sized bed and rocker, and at our special price is a bargain you should not miss, the regular price being $202.00, yet even at this exceedingly low price we are willing to give you the advantages of our club plan. A few dollars down delivers this beautiful suite to your home, while the balance is paid at the rate of $4.00 every week.

Two Specials For the Living-Room

Oak Library Table

$18.75

These are 25 x 38-inch Tables, fitted with drawer, and bookshelf at either end; only the best of plain oak has gone into their construction, so that they are real value at this price. Your choice of fumed or golden finish. Special club terms—$5.00 first payment and $2.00 weekly.

3-Piece Chesterfield Suite

$120.00

Here is a Chesterfield Suite at a price that everyone can afford, particularly when we extend all the privileges of our convenient club plan, without any extra cost. All that is necessary to have this suite delivered to your home is a first payment of $25.00, the balance being paid weekly in small, easy payments.

Two Specials For the Kitchen

Home Washing Machine

$21.00

A high-speed nonfriction Machine, with cut, not stamped, gears. It is so easy to operate that a child can run it without any effort. Ordinarily this machine is marked to sell at $32.00, but we are not making any extra charge on our price of $21, should you wish to purchase it on our club plan; $5.00 delivers it to your home, $2.00 weekly pays the balance.

Golden Oak Kitchen Cabinet

$68.75

No housewife should be without her Kitchen Cabinet, it does not take much money, only $10.00 down and $2.00 weekly, for her to enjoy all the benefits that are derived from the use of one of these handiest of all kitchen aids. The saving in food, time and labor alone pays for the Cabinet in a short time. Come in and have us demonstrate these Cabinets to you.

Two Specials In Cool Weather Necessities

Large Size Flannelette Blankets

$2.95 pair

These are all first quality (we do not handle seconds), either gray or white to choose from, full 12-4 size.

60x72-inch and 72x72-inch Comforters

$2.95

All-white cotton filling, silkoline coverings, in a host of patterns and colorings. Don't miss this opportunity to stock up for the winter months with these warm Comforters at this low price.

Two Seasonable Specials

McClary Coal Range

$59.00

A Range that is guaranteed to bake perfectly, and in a size that is suitable for the average kitchen, nickel trimmed. $5.00 will deliver this Range to your home, while only $2 weekly takes care of the balance.

Quebec Heaters

$21.50

The Heater that gives the greatest heat, on the smallest fuel consumption. These are the latest type, fitted with roller grates; full nickel trimmings. Only $4.00 as a first payment delivers this Heater to your home, the balance being paid at the rate of $2.00 weekly.

Worthy of Special Mention

McClary's Simplex Combination Range

The Simplex is three ranges in one; it burns coal, wood or gas. There is nothing to take out, nothing to put in, in changing the oven from coal to gas a twist of the wrist is all that is necessary.

You must come to our store to see the many other remarkable features of the Simplex—the Range that saves space, labor, fuel and food.

EAST LONDON IS FORGING AHEAD

Distinct Business Center Growing In Every Direction.

PROGRESSIVE MERCHANTS

Many Fine Structures Speak of Section's Development.

A casual visitor to East London, who has been out of the city or has, for some reason, not been to the East End territory for some time, will notice many great changes.

During the last few years this district has assumed a very business-like aspect and is all the time adding to its laurels. Around Hamilton road and Rectory street, which a few short years ago was practically unknown and had a very countrified appearance, owing to its muddy roads and small business places, this territory has added considerably to its business section and now one can go out and purchase anything necessary for the comforts of the household without having to go down town.

In fact, every kind of a store is now in operation in this section, with the exception of a jewelry store and an undertaking establishment, and the residents of this part have no use for the latter concern, as they are rapidly coming to life, knowing that their efforts are needed in the building up of a "town of their own."

Building figures of 1921 show that there is a large increase over the last several years in this section and people from all over the district and from other parts of the city are rapidly awakening to the fact that "out east" appears to be the coming residential and business section of London.

To meet the demands of the ever-increasing population of East London it was found necessary for the street railway to extend their rails on the Oxford car line on Hamilton road nearly half a mile for the convenience of the early settlers, and, while it may be only idle gossip, there is some talk of petitioning the company to lay rails along one of the connecting streets between Hamilton road and Dundas street, so as to save prospective passengers from long-distance walks to either the Oxford or Dundas car lines.

Pottersburg is also showing that it is still "on the map," although it has a territory all to itself. One of the business men of this section stated that building figures during the last few months were greatly in excess of the same period for the last few years and were still going strong.

It was planned some time ago to build a new Methodist church in this part of the city and, evidence of the realization coming true is shown by a gang of men busily engaged on the work of putting in the foundation for the building.

REVERSE CARS FOR NORTH END TRADE

Local business men in East London state that they are preparing a petition to present to the London Street Railway to see what action can be taken to have the North Belt cars reversed and run the opposite way to which they are running now.

They claim that the way they are running at present many of the North End citizens who formely dealt at the stores in East London are now transferring their trade to merchants of the downtown area and taking away the trade from where it rightfully belongs.

The petition will be prepared and possibly presented at the next meeting of the street railway board of directors.

S. A. C. TO CLOSE

BRANTFORD, Oct. 13.—George MacDonald, secretary of the Brantford branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, announced to-day that the local office would close at the end of this year, and that the work of the commission would be handled in the future through the district headquarters in Hamilton.

SEND IN YOUR EAST END NEWS

Commencing with this issue The Free Press will run a page devoted to the interests of the citizens of East London every Friday.

Owing to the large territory the reporter will be unable to call on all residents and, in order to give everyone in the East End territority a chance to have their own personal news and views of any description pertaining to social events, sports or otherwise, it will be greatly appreciated if they would call the East London reporter at 5200 or 6735-J.

MIRACULOUS EVENT OCCURS IN EAST LONDON

Citizens Tell Marvel to Each Other With Bated Breath—Learned Societies May Investigate.

Great and glorious excitement prevailed among numerous citizens of East London last night and smiling countenances were to be seen on every side.

Even those who had got up on the wrong side of the bed that morning or had their coffee made not just right, were noticed with a broad grin on their faces which stretched from ear to ear.

Neighbors who, for the past several years, hadn't been on speaking terms with each other, on account of their chickens tearing up the gardens each and every spring, or whose small boys were constantly at war with one another, could be seen stretching their necks over the back fences "swapping" the good news to one another.

The corner grocery stores and butcher, who were in danger of closing their doors on account of the slack season, were the scenes of many interested conversations and proprietors of these small business concerns stated that they had never done so much business in years, up until the time this great event had happened.

Telephone wires were kept hot and some of the girls down at central were kept busy at the switchboard plugging, with both arms working overtime, so great was the number of calls sent in the morning after the great happening of the previous night.

Some of the sages of the East End went around with an "I told you so" expression on their countenances, and stated that they had been waiting for quite a number of years for this occurrence to take place as they were warned by an inner voice that some day, when they at least expected it, it was sure to happen, and it did.

An Ottaway street car was on time.

TO PROTEST DRAINAGE OF EAST END STREETS

Citizens Up in Arms Over Flooding of Yards and Gardens.

Residents of East London around Eva street area are up in arms against the City Council and a petition is being prepared for circulation to see what action can be taken regarding the surface water of Dundas street pouring into their back yards. During the summer months, after any heavy rainfall, the back yards and gardens of citizens residing on property adjacent to King street north, and Eva street east, were flooded with water and their gardens destroyed.

The petition will be taken from door to door in that area for signature and presented before the City Council to see what action will be taken to prevent any further recurrences next year.

WILL LOCATE IN CITY.

W. J. Ruth, who was connected with the Pere Marquette Railway in St. Thomas for some time previous to the war, and afterwards left to conduct a real estate business in Vancouver up until the war commenced and taking up the work of cruising on the coast of British Columbia and getting logs of red cedar for the Government with which to make airplanes, arrived in the city a few days ago on a visit to his brother, Harry Ruth, and family, at 356 Princess avenue. He will be connected with Ruth's ice cream and candy establishment in East London.

METHODIST FUNDS WELL SUPPORTED

Dr. Chown Comments on Generosity of Membership

MARVELOUS ELASTICITY.

Over $3,758,584 Paid in on National Campaign

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.) — "The elasticity of our people in giving is marvelous," asserted Rev. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist church, in commenting on the contributions of Canadian Methodism to missions and current revenue when the General Conference special committee met in the Metropolitan Church this evening. Even the more or less evident depression of the last year or so in business and industrial circles does not seem greatly to have affected the churches' contributions.

The report on the national campaign shows a total of $3,758,584 paid in already," said Dr. Chown. "That is 76 per cent. of what was promised. Up to October 11 out of this fund $1,314,000 had been paid to the mission fund, a like amount to the superannuation fund and $657,000 to the Educational Society."

For the last year the current income for missions, outside the national campaign, was $1,092,811, while the Woman's Missionary Society total was $476,103, making a total for the year for missions of $1,568,914. With the amount already paid over to the mission rooms from the national campaign funds this makes a total of almost $3,000,000 raised by Methodists in Canada and Newfoundland in the last year or so for missionary enterprises.

The church union negotiations were under discussion in the committee this afternoon, which met in closed session.

With this license the club is now preparing to do a lot of relay work among wireless stations throughout Ontario and the United States.

M'GILL HONORS BYNG, OF VIMY

Governor-General One of 55 to Receive Degree

FUNCTION AT MONTREAL

New Chancellor Warns Against "Cast Iron" Curriculum

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Before several thousand graduates, gathered in St. James' Methodist Church, 55 honorary degrees were conferred on noted men from Canada and the United States this afternoon in connection with McGill's centennial celebration. On the rostrum were the governor-general, Lord Byng of Vimy; Sir Arthur Currie, principal of the university; Hon. A. L. Taschereau, premier of Quebec; Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to Washington; President Angell, of Yale University, and E. W. Beatty, recently appointed chancellor of McGill. The governor-general was the first to receive a degree.

MUST GO TO PEOPLE.

In the course of his inaugural address as chancellor of McGill University, E. W. Beatty, K. C., warned his audience that there is one especial danger that every university should fight against to-day, namely, lest it should lose touch with the life and intellectual needs of the people. He said that the university and the people are like Mahomet and the mountain. If the people will not come to the university the university must come to the people.

Another danger, Mr. Beatty pointed out, which a university must guard against was that of becoming encrusted in tradition and precedent, of being strangled by a cast iron curriculum. In a country of such rapid development as Canada, the university must be prepared to meet new conditions and to open and keep open avenues for all those seeking to obtain higher education.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store, all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Advt.

W. S. MIDDLEBORO QUITS POLITICS

Will Not Be a Candidate in North Grey

MEMBER FOR 13 YEARS

Has Been Chief Government Whip Since 1911

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 13.—(Special to The Free Press.)—W. S. Middleboro, late M. P., who has represented North Grey in the House of Commons for the last 11 years, will retire from the political arena and will not allow his name to go before the Conservative convention next Wednesday.

This announcement is contained in a letter written by Mr. Middleboro to T. W. Thompson, president of the National Liberal and Conservative Association of North Grey. The news of Mr. Middleboro's retirement came as a genuine surprise. It is not known what his plans are, but it is understood that he will retire from public life.

In 1908 Mr. Middleboro was first elected to Parliament, defeating W. P. Telford, father of the prospective Liberal candidate. In 1911 he defeated the late F. W. Harrison, and in 1917 won from Dr. Danard. He was made chief Conservative whip in 1911 and has held that position ever since. He was a member of the committee that conducted the army shoe investigation during the war. Mr. Middleboro was mayor of Owen Sound in 1905 and served in the Council for several years.

WEST ELGIN LIBERALS RALLY AT ST. THOMAS

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13. — (By Staff Reporter.) — A rally which opens a series of meetings to be held throughout the district, was staged at the local clubrooms of the West Elgin Liberal Association to-night. Daniel W. Markham, of Toronto, a former St. Thomas lawyer, Col. A. T. Thompson, Cayuga, Daniel McIntyre, Yarmouth, and William Tolmie, the candidate for West Elgin, were the speakers. A fair sized crowd attended to hear the addresses.

Col. Thompson, in his remarks, declared, in referring to what he termed "Canada's enormous national debt," that the Parliament of Canada had got so used to dealing with war incomes that to-day they found themselves with a champagne thirst and only a plain two per cent. beer income.

SEEK AID OF LABOR.

WINDSOR, Oct. 13.—Members of the Windsor Trades and Labor Congress met to-night to consider a communication from the executive committee of the North Essex Liberal-Conservative Association, in which organized labor is asked to co-operate with the Government party in choosing a candidate to contest the constituency against W. C. Kennedy, Liberal. The meeting was held behind closed doors, but it is understood the Labor men agreed to attend a joint conference to be held shortly, when the matter will be further discussed.

PROBE WINDSOR CHARGES TO-NIGHT

Chief of Police Thompson Accused by Alderman

IRREGULARITIES ALLEGED

Windsor Woman Puts Attacker to Flight

WINDSOR, Oct. 13.—Charges made by Ald. Mitchell against Chief of Police Thompson will be investigated to-morrow night at a special meeting of the police commission. Chief Thompson is accused of releasing liquor seized during a raid on an alleged disorderly house without an order of the court. Other irregularities are alleged. The commission is composed of Police Magistrate Gundy, chairman; County Judge Coughlin and Mayor Wilson.

An unidentified man, who followed Mrs. Emma Welsh, 468 Glengarry avenue, from the ferry dock to within a few blocks of her home late last night got more than he bargained for when he seized her arm as she was within a few hundred yards of police headquarters. Instead of screaming, Mrs. Welsh, who is an electric welder in a Detroit factory, and possesses the strength of a man, swung on the stranger with both fists, striking him in the face. He turned and fled, she reported to the police. Mrs. Welsh admitted to feeling "slightly nervous" when she found the man following her, she says, but the nervousness disappeared when she found she was about to be attacked.

SUFFERS FATAL BURNS WHILE POLISHING STOVE

Mrs. Harry Greer, Dreham, Mixes Turpentine With Polish, and Fire Occurs.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press).—Mrs. Harry Greer, of Dereham Township, died last night as a result of burns suffered while polishing a stove. She was using a liquid polish, and thinned it with turpentine, which caught fire a few moments later. Her clothing became ignited, and before the flames could be extinguished she was terribly burned about the body. Deceased was in her 39th year, and is survived by her husband and one daughter.

MANITOBA MAY REJECT BIDS FOR BOND ISSUE

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The Provincial Government may reject all bids received to-day for the $3,000,000 twenty-year six per cent. bond issue. After receiving 16 bids, Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer, said the offers were extremely disappointing, and announced it was possible the province may decide to wait until the market is in a more favorable condition before selling the issue. Bids were called for payable in Canada and payable in New York as well as Canada. The highest Canadian bid was 97.341 and the highest American bid was 105.4306.

TORONTO'S DEATH RATE

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—The number of deaths during September in Toronto was 492 or 11.5 per 1,000 of population, as compared with 502 or 11.9 per 1,000 for the same month last year.

1921 WORLD'S SERIES.

	W.	L.	P.C.
New York Nationals (Giants)	5	3	.625
New York Americans (Yankees)	3	5	.375

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—World's champions, 1921—the New York National League Baseball Club.

The Giants won this title, which will be theirs for the next year, by defeating the Yankees in the eighth game of the world's series at the Polo Grounds to-day. The American League champions died fighting hard in a classic twirling duel between their pitching ace, Waite Hoyt, and Art Nehf, the Giants' star left-hander. However, they lacked the necessary punch to win, the National League team taking the game by the score of 1 to 0 and the series five games to three.

The Giants' victory gives Manager John J. McGraw his second world's championship team. The New York Nationals, seven times National League pennant winners under McGraw, captured the world's title in a clash with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics in 1905, but although winning the bunting five times since they have been baffled until this year in their hunt for world's honors, twice bowing to the Athletics, once to the Red Sox and once to the White Sox in titular combats.

GAME UPHILL SCRAPPERS.

This year, with a National League entrant that had shown its high class by coming from behind at the end of the season and beating the Pittsburg Pirates to the wire, the world's series told a different story. After losing the first two games of the world's series the Giants gamely came back speedily, evening up the series and then after losing one contest, pushed through with three straight victories to capture the series. Except for to-day's game they came from behind to win each game.

SUPERIOR HURLING.

As for the underlying reason for the success of the McGrawmen the experts may differ, but there seems little cause to doubt that the most widely propounded opinion will be that it was because of a preponderance of high-class pitching ability. The series showed but two of Manager Miller Huggins' twirlers capable of pitching winning ball—Mays and Hoyt—while the Giants put forward a trio of master workmen in Douglas, Barnes and Nehf.

Outhit by the Giants in nearly every game, and by many points in the series as a whole, the Yankees none the less made a hard fight of it by their smartness in manufacturing runs out of scant material and the superb work done by Mays and Hoyt in six of the eight battles. Their championship craft went down with flag flying and to-night their loyal supporters were tempering their condolences over the loss of the series with congratulations upon the showing the Yankee players had made in the first world's title series a New York American League team had ever earned the right to compete.

FOUR HITS OFF CRAFTY NEHF.

As for the final and decisive game of the series, the winning of it was due to the superb pitching of Nehf against a moundsman to whom he had twice lost the decision earlier in the series. Allowing the Yankees but four hits, none of them better than singles, and three of them coming with two men out, the crafty southpaw again and again turned the American Leaguers back in order or baffled their determined efforts to put across the solitary run they were struggling for all through the contest.

Hardly a whit less creditable was the performance of Hoyt, the Yankee youngster, who twice before in this series had taken Nehf's measure in close battles. Hoyt was in trouble in several innings, but except in the fatal first, when the Giants scored their only tally on two bases on balls and an error, he worked himself out brilliantly, once with a fine running catch by Fewster to help along. Toward the end he was going stronger than ever, retiring the Giants in order in the eighth and ninth.

The game, won by the Giants in the first inning, was probably saved for them in the ninth by as brilliant a fielding performance as has been seen on the diamond in many a day.

RAWLINGS' GREAT PLAY.

One Yankee had been retired in the final frame. This one was "Babe" Ruth, again in uniform, but confining his activities heretofore in the game to the coaching lines. The Yankee fans, who had been for eight innings watching that one lonely tally of the Giants loom larger and larger, picked up hope and cheered wildly as the Bambino stepped to the plate to bat for Wally Pipp. The home-run king made a valiant try, but his injured arm had taken the power from his swing and the best he could do with Nehf's puzzling delivery was to ground weakly to Kelly.

Aaron Ward was more fortunate. He waited out Nehf, who had been somewhat wild for several innings, and finally walked. Frank Baker, again in the line-up in place of the injured McNally, came next. With the count three and two he met one of Nehf's offerings squarely. It shot towards right field, skimming the ground far to the left of John Rawlings. The rap looked like a sure hit, and, with Ward legging it for third, promised to put the Yankees in a favorable scoring position if it got by. But it did not pass. Throwing himself at the skimming sphere, Rawlings, amid an amazed gasp from the crowd, reached out and clung to it with his left hand and rolling over and transferring the ball to his right hand, Rawlings made the throw to Kelly at first while still on the ground, getting Baker by several feet. It was then Kelly's turn, and with a lightning-like and perfectly accurate throw he shot the ball across the diamond into the hands of Third Baseman Frank Frisch. A cloud of dust flew up over third as Ward slid into the bag. From the midst of it Umpire Quigley's form emerged, his right arm flung forth, motioning the runner out. The double play had been completed, the third Yankee of the inning had been retired, the game was over and the Giants had won it and the world's series.

GET RUN WITHOUT HIT.

The Giants' winning run in the first was scored without the aid of a hit. With Burns disposed of at first as Baker fielded his grounder to Pipp, Bancroft walked on five pitched balls. He held first while Frisch was fouling out to Pipp, and went to second as Hoyt, with the count two and three, walked Young. There was a sharp protest by Hoyt on the fourth ball, with which the young twirler insisted he had "cut the plate." Whatever difference of opinion there might have been on this point Umpire Chill's decision naturally went. With Bancroft on second Kelly sent what looked like an easy grounder to Peckinpaugh. With the third out in sight, however, "Peck" let the ball get through him and Bancroft, starting from second as the ball was hit, scored easily before it could be retrieved.

RAWLINGS STARS AT BAT.

Rawlings, besides making the most spectacular fielding play of the day, led his side at bat with two smashing doubles and a single. None of these, however, influenced the result.

The game was played before the smallest crowd of the series. The morning was cloudy and raw, although the skies cleared away early in the afternoon and the atmosphere warmed up somewhat. There was tumult and shouting aplenty all through the contest and a last, overpowering, exultant yell from the Giant supporters as the final dazzling play was flashed and the game and the series ended.

The hitting battle of the Meusel brothers, in which the price of a family Thanksgiving dinner was at stake, was won by Emil, of the Giants. Emil's batting average for the series was .345 and that of Bob, .200. In 29 times at bat Emil scored four runs and made 10 hits for a total of 17 bases. Bob, in 30 trips to the plate, scored three runs and made six hits for a total of eight bases. Each stole one base.

Felicitations And Tears Mingle As Giants Land Title

McGraw, Nervous and Excited, Is Swamped With Admirers and Hoyt Is Seen in Tears

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—"I have the greatest baseball club in the world," declared John J. McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, a few moments after his team had won the world's baseball classic this afternoon.

"And unquestionably the gamest," he added.

Miller Huggins, leader of the vanquished, declared his men had no alibi to offer and gave the Giants full credit for their triumph. "It was a wonderful series," he remarked, "but the Yankees simply were unable to do any consecutive hitting."

McGraw, nervous with excitement, was swamped by admirers as he left the clubhouse. Artie Nehf, the pitcher, who led the Giants to their final victory, shed his uniform as calmly as though it were an ordinary day in his life. His only comment was that of gladness that he could now go home.

A few yards away—across the little backyard of the Polo Grounds, where the clubhouses are located—tears were dropping down the boyish cheeks of Waite Hoyt, the pitcher who twice defeated the Giants, and upon whose shoulders was placed the burden of stopping their rush to-day. He stopped their rush, but a comrade failed him in a critical moment and the glory of having his name upon the honor roll of pitchers who have won three games in a titular series was denied him.

Both managers agreed it was the greatest world's series ever played. And so did the president of the National League, John A. Heydler, who tossed his presidential dignity to the winds when the Giants closed the series with a dazzling double play.

"Hurrah for the Nationals!" he shouted, waving his arms. "We've been waiting 17 years to see the Giants at the top of the ladder," Mr. Heydler said. "I do not know how to express my happiness. The old National League is ahead again after a bitter fight, in which they proved game to the core."

WEBB WINS GUELPH COLLEGIATE X-COUNTY

GUELPH, Oct. 13.—The annual cross-country run in connection with the Collegiate Institute sports was run this afternoon over a three-mile course and was won by Harold Webbe, the senior champion of the school, in 18.45 minutes, which was just a few seconds under the record. He ran a good race all the way and finished strong. The next five to finish were: L. James, D. Sanbers, A. Bush, R. Mann and R. Lang. The annual field day sports in connection with the O. A. C. will be held on the college campus to-morrow.

BALTIMORE GOES TO FRONT IN SERIES

INTERLEAGUE SERIES.

	W.	L.	P.C.
Baltimore (I.L.)	3	2	.600
Louisville (A.A.)	2	3	.400

BALTIMORE, Oct. 13. — Baltimore went to the front this afternoon in its post-season series with Louisville by winning the fifth game, 10 to 5, the series now standing 3 to 2 in favor of the Orioles. Bunching its hits, the International League champions had rather easy sailing toward the latter part of the game, especially as Ogden, who went the entire route for Baltimore, showed better form toward the close.

Nick Cullup, the star left-hander of the Louisville squad, who won the opening contest of the series in handy fashion, was rather easy for the Orioles and they drove him from the mound in the fourth innings. The score:

Louisville	001	030	100	5	10	2
Baltimore	000	405	01x	10	14	0

Cullup, Sanders, Koob, Wright and Meyer; Ogden and Egan.

SEAFORTH HIGH FIELD DAY.

SEAFORTH, Oct. 13.—The S. C. I. annual field day was held here on Tuesday. Despite the unfavorable weather the day was quite a success. In basket ball the S. C. I. girls won a well-contested match from the Clinton Collegiate by the score of 22 to 18. The boys' senior medal was won by Frank Codmore, boys' junior by Eric Edwards, and the girls' medal was won by Miss Gladys McPhee. Hector Hays won the fountain pen donated by Principal Ross for the highest number of points outside of the medalist.

TECHNICAL INSTITUTE FIELD DAY BRINGS OUT TALENT

The annual field day sports of the Technical Institute students was held yesterday at the Queen's Park track and, while the atmosphere was chilly, a bright sun shone and, with the track just a bit springy, some very excellent records were made.

Jack Appleford won the senior individual championship and B. Salovensky took the intermediate title, while F. Skeggs landed the junior laurels.

Lucille Scott won the senior girls' championship with an aggregate of 10 points, while Lenore Henry, with 14 points to her credit, landed first honors among the junior girls.

The football squad will play the Woodstock College here this afternoon at Tecumseh Park, in a return Oxford and Middlesex interscholastic fixture. The morning was devoted to the competitions among the senior and junior girls, and the phenomenal skill and athletic prowess of Lenore Harris, a husky maiden, was the feature of the morning events.

Elect W.A. Paterson President Of Hockey League

London Manufacturers' A.A.A. Ready for Winter Pastime; Six Teams Already Entered

William A. Paterson, formerly vice-president of the Manufacturers' Hockey League, was elected president at a meeting held at Brisco's store last evening. Norman Graham tendered his resignation, stating that he was unable to hold office in the L.M.A.A.A. and also the hockey league.

P. E. Suddick was chosen as secretary-treasurer. Mr. Suddick held a similar position in the Manufacturers' Baseball League this season, and made many friends.

Jack Allan, of the McClary Manufacturing Company, was named vice-president, and R. M. Brisco was returned to the office of publicity agent.

SIX TEAMS ENTERED.

Six clubs have already signified their intentions of joining the Manufacturers' Hockey League this coming winter and it is believed that more will be admitted during the next few days. The clubs are: Civil Service, Scott-Chamberlain, D. S. Perrins, Bell Telephone, Grand Trunk and H. J. Jones & Sons.

The Manufacturers' Hockey League, although affiliated with the L.M.A.A.A., will carry on as they have been in the past. It is planned to make the coming winter the best in the history of the organization.

Meetings of the league officials will be held every 10 days from now until the season opens, and the secretary will be glad to hear from any new manufacturing concerns wishing to join the hockey league.

INVITE ARCHDEACON CARLISLE.

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—The Venerable Archdeacon Arthur Carlisle, rector of All Saints Church, Windsor, Ontario, has been definitely offered the vacant rectorship of Christ Church Cathedral, Montreal. This announcement was made to-day by Bishop Farthing, who had behind him the unanimous recommendation of the select vestry.

Western U. Holds Track Athletics This Afternoon

Annual Field Day Begins at 2 o'Clock at Queen's Park Track

Western University will to-day hold the annual interclass field sports at Queen's Park, commencing at 2 o'clock and continuing until 5 o'clock.

Physical Director Blake, of the Western "U.," announced that he has received many entries for the various events. Over 15 numbers are on the program for the day, including 120, 440, 880 yards and mile runs, hop, step and jump, running broad jump, standing broad jump, pole vault and shot put.

The feature attraction of the day will be the triangular relay race between teams from the Western "U.," Y. M. C. A. and Collegiate Institute.

HANOVER LOSES THIS.

HANOVER, Oct. 13.—St. Catherines beat Hanover by the close score of 2 to 1 here yesterday in the first of the home-and-home games for the junior lacrosse championship.

London Collegiate Girls Win At St. Thomas, But Boys Lose In Football

Basket Ball and Soft Baseball Games Are Easy Victories for Fair Ones; St. Thomas Rugby Twelve Smother Locals by 30-1

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—(By Staff Reporter).—London Collegiate Institute athletic team won two of the three intercity competitions at the St. Thomas Collegiate sports day held at the Athletic Park this afternoon.

The girls from London were successful in winning the basket ball and baseball games, but the boys fell down in the rugby match. The final result of the game was 30 to 1.

The Forest City girls had their revenge by defeating the locals by the score of 17 to 1, and the London basket ball team had a victory, the score being 10 to 3.

A. T. Taylor's squad of rugby players from the L. C. I. were completely outclassed by the St. Thomas boys, and the home team broke through the London line at will. The Londoners were not altogether satisfied with the decisions of Referee Baldwin, which they frequently disputed.

The Londoners were satisfied to take two victories and suffer one defeat, although their original intention was to make a clean sweep of the series.

The London coach announced that he would take the Forest City boys out on the gridiron immediately and try and whip them into shape so they will be prepared to meet the Railroad City squad at Tecumseh Park on October 23.

500 LONDONERS SEE SPORTS.

More than 500 London students arrived at St. Thomas in special London & Port Stanley Railway cars. The representation was so large, owing to the fact that the L. C. I. students were given a holiday, as the teachers' convention is being held.

At the beginning of the rugby game the Londoners fumbled the ball, and Moody, of St. Thomas, picked up the pigskin and crossed the line for a touch. It was successfully converted. A rouge was later scored by St. Thomas, and the first quarter ended by the score of 7 to 0.

In the second half of the match the St. Thomas boys looked even better than in the first and the teamwork was responsible for the victory. The Railway City squad has been working hard for the intercity series, and the result of constant practice was visible. Three touchdowns were made in the last half, two of which were converted. Another touchdown was scored, but the play was made from an off-side pass.

PLEASED WITH OUTCOME.

St. Thomas Collegiate students were pleased that they were able to trim London again and retain the rugby honors for another year. The St. Thomas team was much more superior and speedy plays were constantly made. The London girls can play soft ball, and in the first inning of the game looked like the London Tecumsehs. Ten runs were scored by the girl players in the first frame, and they continued scoring until they made 17. The home girls were held to a few scattered hits, and were only successful in scoring one run. Miss Miller was the star hurler for the L. C. I.

London's girls' basket ball team defeated St. Thomas by the score of 10 to 3, in a thrilling and exciting basket ball game. Accurate shooting and fast playing featured throughout the game. Sterling Westland was the individual star, making several baskets.

MOST SUCCESSFUL.

The sports were the most successful conducted in years, according to the members of the athletic advisory board of St. Thomas Collegiate Institute. The executive adopted a similar program to that introduced in London, and decided to have the intercity competitions and the track sports on separate days.

Over 1,500 school children and adults attended the sports, and the weather was ideal. In spite of the heavy rains the field was well dried.

The tennis tournament between the London and St. Thomas students was postponed as the cinder courts were not in the best condition. The teams:

Hillcrests Play In Guelph Saturday

Return Game at Toronto Week Later; Leafs Hold Good Work-Out

GUELPH, Oct. 13.—After many changes in dates owing to bad weather and inability to secure grounds the O. B. A. A. has finally made arrangements to play the first of the home-and-home games between the Hillcrests, of Toronto, and the Guelph Maple Leafs in this city on Saturday afternoon. Word was received by Secretary Dulmage this afternoon to the effect that the Scarboro Beach grounds were unavailable and that the first game would have to be played here. There were two football games scheduled to be played on the local grounds, but one was postponed until later in the season, while the game between the Galt and Guelph Collegiates was arranged to be played in the morning, thus leaving the grounds open for the ball game. The Leafs held their final practice this afternoon and every man showed up in good condition. The infield worked like a machine and both the pitchers warmed up good. Freddy Whetstone, the Leafs' leading pitcher, worked out his sore arm and it appeared to be all right.

ADHERING TO A FIXED POLICY OF PRICE VALUE

"Semi-ready Week" At the Semi-ready Store More Than a Domonstration of Fashions For Men—Values and Types.

Every Semi-ready suit or overcoat, to be genuine, must have the price label in the pocket—that is the proof of the Semi-ready store, and it is the only way to protect oneself against the unworthy imitator.

Were men able to tell on sight and by feel the worth of a garment, inside and out, a sign of quality would not be necessary. But where quality can be stolen, subtracted or simulated, as in clothing, it is desirable to have some seal.

All through the period of soaring prices the Semi-ready Company stood by their policy of a fixed label price based on the cost of the cloth in each garment.

No amount of protest from outside sources could affect or change this policy, and it was a factor in keeping prices normal and preventing profiteering.

"Semi-Ready Week," beginning on Monday, will be more than just a display of men's fashions.

It will demonstrate how and why the Semi-ready physique type system of tailoring has prevailed. It will show why the number of customers has steadily grown with the wider knowledge of what constitutes quality and good values in clothes.

"Semi-Ready Week" at Leo Watson's store on Dundas street will be a real exposition of modern tailoring for men. —Advt.

Mares Make It Two Straight

Jeanette Rankin and Klio Win Their Second Events at Lexington

LEXINGTON, Oct. 13.—Jeanette Rankin, owned by George E. Dudley, of Youngstown, Ohio, made it a double on the Lexington Grand Circuit meeting here this afternoon when she accounted for the Ashland 2.11 trot in straight heats, beating her field by a comfortable margin in both miles. E. Colorado was her closest contender, finishing second to the chestnut daughter of San Francisco and Rosina Bellini in the two heats with Emma Harvester third. The winner trotted the two heats in 2.05 and 2.05¼.

Klio bay mare, by Peter The Great, and Axward Belle, driven by Pitman, also made it a double on the meeting when she captured the 2.17 trot, a split-heat affair, after losing the first heat to Alma Todd. Alma Todd got second money in this event and Bessie Worthy was placed third in the summaries.

DR. MADDEN WINS

MT. CLEMENS, Oct. 13.—After a three-day wait for the weather to clear the Michigan "short shippers" got off this afternoon to a fair start with a card of three races, all of which were well filled. The feature was the first race, the 2.24 pace, in which 11 faced the flag. Dr. Madden, with McLaughlin up, was by far the best, winning in straight heats. Considering the coo wind that blew across the course all afternoon the time, 2.17¼, was considered good. Summaries:

WEAK FROM EXPOSURE

Toronto Man Tells Story of Wandering In Woods.

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 13.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Lying on an improvised stretcher, strapped to the bow of a motor launch, Dr. Graham Chambers, of Toronto, lost in the woods of Atikokan since September 29, arrived at Atikokan at 5.50 o'clock this afternoon. He was strong enough to grant a short interview, although Dr. C. P. Fitzpatrick forbade him to talk too much.

"Did you have anything to eat since September 29?" was the first question asked him.

"No," replied Dr. Chambers. "I did not shoot any partridge because I hadn't any matches and couldn't eat them raw. I feel fine, though, and I had my first meal to-day—bread and tea and a little partridge broth."

Dr. Chambers' only complaint was the condition of his feet, which, he said, were terribly blistered and appeared like trench feet. He said that he had tramped through the bush the first day and then, knowing that he was lost, did not move around much, as he knew it would be easier for the searchers to find him if he did not go too deeply into the bush.

CRAWLED UNDER LOG

"I was foolishly dressed for the bush," said Dr. Chambers. "When I started out I had summer underwear on and a white shirt, but I had one good warm piece of clothing, a sweater coat. The first night in the bush I picked out some wild hay and packed it against my chest. When it rained I crawled under a great log and packed up the sides with sticks and moss. I am just a little sore about the body from lying on some stones."

Several days ago, Dr. Chambers said, he had been greatly cheered by seeing an airplane circling over the bush. He had got to a small open space and waved his hat, but the aviator had not seen him. Here Dr. Chambers' story was broken by Dr. Fitzpatrick ordering him to stop talking as he feared it would be exhausting.

The trip from Deer Lake was made over some of the roughest of the north country. The distance from Deer Lake to Atikokan is 18 miles and nearly five miles of this had to be portaged. Dr. Chambers was carried on a stretcher over the portages.

FOUND BY INDIANS

ATIKOKAN, Ont., Oct. 13.—Sitting under a pine tree with a portion of a dead partridge in his hands and smiling up at his discoverers, Dr. Graham Chambers, of Toronto, whom the back woods of Atikokan claimed as its captive since September 29, was found on Wednesday at 1.30 o'clock by John and Jim Keptie, two Indian guides.

The place where the doctor was found is reckoned to be about 20 miles northwest of Atikokan and near the edge of Clearwater Lake. From accounts brought into Atikokan last night by some of those who were with the search party the doctor is in fairly good condition, considering the harrowing experience through which he has passed during the last two weeks. Some of those who have already seen him and who knew him before he became separated from civilization claim his features have not altered to any great extent and that with rest and care he will not experience any great danger from a relapse should one occur.

LONG SEARCH ENDS.

The manner in which he was finally located in described briefly by Kenneth Campbell, a provincial officer, who saw him last evening. Sixteen men left Russell's Camp on Wednesday, determined to find the doctor, dead or alive. They had, up to that time, narrowed the radius in which they thought he was to a distance of five miles. They started to close in on it yesterday about 10 o'clock and at 1.30 o'clock the prearranged signal of four rifle shots rang out through the forest, letting the other searchers know that the man hunt was at an end.

When the two Indian brothers came upon the doctor he smiled up at them and said simply: "I guess I shall get something to eat now, and then I'll walk home with you."

Dr. Chambers, it is said, is considerably weakened, more from exposure than lack of food. He had with him a .22 calibre rifle, but apparently no matches. No fires were discovered by the searchers. It is believed he existed on raw wild fowl. After the finding of the doctor and deciding his condition was not strong enough to make the journey to Atikokan by nightfall, it was postponed until this morning, when a start was made by canoe.

SPECIAL TRAIN ORDERED.

It will take several hours to make the trip, which includes two and a half miles portage and, therefore, it will be late this afternoon before he can be placed aboard the special train which has been ordered to take him to Fort Frances, where his wife awaits him.

When found the doctor was wearing the usual military Bedford cord trousers of strong texture, a pair of leather boots with rubber studs on the soles, and a heavy woolen sweater. The rubber studs in his shoes played a big part in his ultimate discovery, and it is probably to these that the doctor owes his life. The studs made distinct impressions in the ground, and although rain had fallen the marks were not entirely obliterated.

INSTANTLY KILLED BY FALLING COAL

Sandwich Workman Meets Death While Unloading Coal Boat.

WINDSOR, Oct. 13.—Thos. Strudwick, Sandwich, was instantly killed to-day when a "clam bucket" used for unloading coal crashed down on his head in the hold of the steamer Alaska, which was moored at the Mullen Coal Company's dock, Sandwich. An inquest into circumstances surrounding the tragedy was opened by Coroner Labelle this morning. After the body was viewed by the jury the investigation was adjourned for hearing of evidence until Friday evening in Sandwich.

Strudwick resided with his parents and was unmarried.

SHOULD USE REAL STUFF.

SARNIA, Oct. 13.—Numerous cases of intoxication from drinking Florida water and essence of lemon have come to the attention of the police lately, and to-day a fine of $10 and costs was imposed on John Reilly for intoxication due to too much lemon essence. Chief Lannin expressed his intention of making an example of the vendors of this species of kick.

Perjury Charges Hinted at in Riddolls' Trial

BRANTFORD, Oct. 13.—In the case against Alfred Riddolls on a charge of selling liquor to-day witnesses declared that last night, J. H. Spence, collector of customs, had pointed a revolver at the head of a man named Dutton and declared he would like to blow his head off. It was stated this evening that a charge would be laid against Mr. Spence. On the charge against Riddolls, Magistrate Livingston reserved judgment. Perjury charges may follow the evidence of some witnesses who told a different story to-day to what they had previously told.

A plea for the single tax was made by J. Z. White, of Chicago, in an address to the Rotary Club to-day. He declared that upon the single tax depended many of the solutions of modern social troubles.

The Hamilton Conference Lay Delegates' Association met here to-day, with a goodly attendance at the three sessions, in the Wellington Street Methodist Church. The addresses included: "The Church Problems From a Layman's Standpoint," H. E. Plewman, Hamilton; "The Place of Missions," Rev. K. J. Beaton, China; "The Place of Evangelism," Rev. Hugh Dobson, field secretary; "Membership Increase to Five Thousand," by Rev. E. Shephard, Thorold; "Evangelism in West China," Rev. K. J. Beaton, and "Progressive Christianity," by Rev. Hugh Dobson.

SAYS HE HAS PAID $96,000 IN FINES

Windsor Man Now Gets Five Years For Bribery Attempt.

WINDSOR, Oct. 13.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Cecil Smith, bootlegger and former taxi driver, admitted to-day to Mr. Justice Logie at Sandwich that he has paid out $96,000 in fines and for liquor that was later confiscated since the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act, five years ago. In spite of the tremendous outlay he is still "comfortably" ahead of the liquor game," he boasted.

Smith lives on Sunset avenue, in Sandwich. He was tried at the assizes for attempted bribery to-day and, being found gulity, was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. It is charged that on February 28 last he was receiving a carload of illegal liquor when interrupted by William Allen, county constable. Smith inquired of Allen how he "would like to take a walk for $2,000."

SAYS AGENTS BRIBED

During the hearing the respondent testified also that it was the custom among bootleggers to pay Windsor express agents $5 a case for every case of liquor they permitted to be removed from trains without notifying the license inspector.

Throughout the trial Smith evinced the utmost frankness in speaking of his "business." He insisted that, although he had dealt in hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of liquor, he never disposed of any of it in Ontario, but shipped it all to United Sttaes points.

WILL APPEAL CASE

His first deal in liquor was in 1919, he said, when he sold two bottles of whisky and made a profit of $3 on each bottle. Questioned by the court as to whether he was a bootlegger, Smith replied that he did not so designate himself, but "other people do."

After sentence had been passed counsel for Smith announced that an appeal would be taken. Meanwhile Smith will stay in Sandwich jail.

APPROVE PLAN TO COMBINE THREE SYNODS

Presbyterian Synod of Montreal and Ottawa to Confer With Ontario Bodies

OTTAWA, Oct. 13.—Encouragewas given by the Synod of Montreal and Ottawa at its closing sederunt in Chalmers Church this afternoon to the proposed amalgamation of the three synods of Quebec and Ontario. The synod was unanimous in its approval of a union with the synods of Hamilton and London and Toronto and Kingston. The opinion was generally expressed that it would make the synod a more important court of the church, and would tend to relieve the general assembly of certain work. Rev. R. M. Hamilton, of Brockville, and Rev. J. R. MacLeod, were appointed to confer with the representatives of the two Western synods, with a view of seeking the amalgamation from the general assembly.

Unanimous approval was expressed in a mixed marriage resolution introduced by Rev. A. H. Scott, of Perth, voicing gratification at the decision of the Privy Council in the Tremblay-Despatie case, making illegal the annulment of mixed marriages by qualified ministers and officials between Catholics and Protestants.

W.O.R. VS. G.T.R. FOOTBALL AT CARLING HEIGHTS

On Saturday at Carling Heights the W. O. R. and G. T. R. teams will battle for the right to enter the semi-finals of the cup.

These two teams are both very considerably strengthened, the G. T. R. having imported the pick of St. Thomas and the W. O. R. being reinforced by some of the best players in the city.

The following team has been selected to represent the W. O. R., and the kick-off will be at 3 o'clock sharp: Fuller, goal; Wilson, Crinnan, backs; Whitelaw, Potter (captain), halfbacks; Broomhead, Taylor, Gellatly, Potter, McFarlane, Angus, forwards; Widdicombe, Taverner, spares.

BIRR W. I. MEETS.

BIRR, Oct. 13.—The October meeting of the Birr W. I. was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hardy. The president, Mrs. J. Walls, occupied the chair. Roll call was answered by suggestions for the good of the institute. Rev. Mr. Vance, of Ilderton, gave a very interesting talk relating to his tour through the war zone. Miss Avice Scott read one of Pauline Johnston's legends of Vancouver, entitled "The Lost Salmon Run." Miss Irene Walls favored the audience with some very charming music. Final arrangements were made for the naming of the cot that the institute is endowing.

St. Marys Alerts Tackle Seniors

O.A.L.A. Intermediate Title Holders Want More Laurels To-Morrow

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—The last game of the local lacrosse season will be played at Scarboro' Beach on Saturday, when the Alerts, of St. Marys, champions of the O. A. L. A. intermediate series, will endeavor to show the fans that the style of lacrosse in the intermediate ranks is of as high a caliber as that of the senior series. They tackle Riversides, the senior "champs" who, fresh from the victory over Toronto-St. Simon's of last week, will rule favorites. The talent, however, must not underrate this St. Marys crew, as they have been playing together for several seasons, are supplied with a star goal-tender, likewise two goal-getters in "Billie" Lavelle and Cowan, who have been tallying all season against some of the best defense men in the game. They have a snappy passing game all their own, while the field waste no time in fielding the ball in close to the nets.

The new intermediate champions have a host of followers in Toronto who will pourney to Scarboro' on Saturday to cheer their favorites to victory. Twelve-man lacrosse will be played this week, while in the return at St. Marys on Wednesday the ten-man style will hold forth. These two games should bring to a close a mighty successful season. Lat year the intermediates found the senior birds easy picking. Will history repeat?

Hanover and St. Catherines close the season across the lake on Saturday, when the final game in the junior championship race will be played. The Alerts, winner of City League, have been holding their own in the O. A. L. A. and hope to bring home the bacon, duplicating the feat of last season of the all-star Young Athletics.

FREED OF MANSLAUGHTER

HAMILTON, Oct. 13. — Thomas Houston, Toronto, tried here on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death on the highway last August og Gerald O'Flaherty, who was killed in an automobile accident, was acquitted to-day. Chief Justice Mulock had charge and strongly favored the defendant and approved of the jury's verdict and also remarked that during the trial he had felt inclined on two or three occasions to dismiss the charge. Houston was visibly affected and shook hands with the jurors after receiving the verdict.

Hay was the feature of a small local market to-day, being about the only farm produce offered. Three loads were sold at $17 to $19 a ton.

Dry onions are being offered at $2.50 a bushel. A few pickling onions were in evidence, but the season is nearly ended. They are selling for from 15c to 20c a quart.

One load of old oats was offered on the market to-day and sold for $2 a hundredweight. Another load of new oats brought $1.30.

Wheat took another drop in price and is now selling for $1 to $1.10 a bushel, down from $1.66 to $1.83 a hundredweight.

Carloads of potatoes are being shipped in from the Northwest and are selling for $1.75 a bag wholesale. Local dealers are asking from $2 to $2.25 a bag.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Wheat prices tended to sag to-day in the absence of aggressive buying. Selling, however, was only a scattered sort and the market held within narrow limits. Too large a warehouse supply of all grain was held of as the chief bearish factor. Closing quotations, which varied from unchanged to ¾c lower, were followed by small changes, averaging a little below yesterday's finish.

Lack of burning corn for fuel gave corrective strength to the corn market. After opening ¼c to ⅜c higher, the market declined somewhat, but then rallied again.

Oats were steadier by the action of wheat, starting unchanged to ¼c off, and then keeping near to the initial range. Provisions lacked support, despite an advance in the value of hogs.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: Oils continued to be the center of attraction at the opening of to-day's stock market, the foreign group being subjected to further liquidation. Royal Dutch lost 1½ points, and Pan-American Petroleum and General Asphalt also were heavy. United States Steel reacted only slightly, but Bethlehem and Crucible Steels, as well as American Sugar, Ajax Rubber, Bosch Magneto and Virginia-Carolina Chemical lost substantial fractions. National Lead, American Linseed, preferred, and Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke featured the few strong shares.

LISTS COMPLETE AT END OF WEEK

City Clerk Has Provincial Voters Lined Up.

9,000 WOMEN CAN VOTE

Advises Careful Investigation of Dual Lists.

London's provincial voters' list, the first ever prepared by the city clerk, will be completed by the end of the week and the total number of citizens entitled to vote in the next provincial election will approximate well over 25,000 names, it is understood. At least 9,000 women will be shown as entitled to the franchise of Ontario.

In this connection City Clerk Baker states that every citizen should assure himself by personal examination just where he is entitled to vote. Income tax law is making a considerable difference. For citizens assessed for income to an amount sufficient for the municipal franchise must vote, unless otherwise provided for, where that income is actually received. A citizen boarding in ward four, but in receipt of an income from Perrin's, for instance, would be a ward two voter for municipal purposes. But for the coming provincial election, sometime in 1923, he would have to vote in ward four for a member of the Provincial House.

These and several other points, Mr. Baker pointed out, should be carefully investigated by citizens. "No one should take anything for granted under the new dual voters' list arrangement which serves for city and provincial purposes. Personal examination will alone set things right."

examinations but to set universal standards.

INTELLECTUAL TESTS.

By the introduction of intellectual tests the teacher was enabled to understand more clearly the raw material, that is the children's minds, with which she is dealing. They were not meant to merely segregate the mentally subnormal or the feeble minded, but to obtain definite samples of the child's mental furniture and know whether it is being kept back or pushed too hard in its studies. From it developed the group intellectual tests by which the mental age was determined by taking the average mental abilities of children at different ages.

The combination of the education with the mental tests was necessary to make the most of the raw material. Charts were shown on the screen which indicated the scores made by certain classes under the two types of tests and the advancement which should be made in some cases where the mental tests averaged higher than the educational. That a child ought to be able to do was clearly shown by the charts which the professor showed. The charts included those for teacher, principal and inspector so as to summarize the standings of students, classes and schools.

Considerable discussion followed the interesting address by Mr. Pinter, who answered at length the various questions fired by inquisitive or unconvinced teachers.

F. J. Newhouse was elected and installed as president of the London Teachers' Association at the concluding session of that body this afternoon. The other officers for the incoming year are: Past president, Alex. McQueen; vice-president, James G. McEachern; secretary-treasurer, Miss E. A. Knott; executive committee consists of the officers and Miss E. McCallum and Messrs. T. W. Oates, R. G. Fowler, Inspector C. B. Edwards, V. K. Greer and J. F. Sullivan; librarians, D. Knight and Miss F. McDowell; auditors, J. Campbell and Mrs. E. M. Johnstone.

UNUSUAL ACTION IS SETTLED AT LAST

Road Was to Have Been Kept In Condition, But Lake Washed It Away.

An unusual action regarding the maintenance of a right-of-way under a conveyance of lands, which has been in litigation for some three years, has finally been settled by a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, to which it had been appealed. The judgment of the Court of Appeal for Ontario, in which it was held that Mrs. Harrison was not compelled under her conveyance to Mrs. James Kerrigan to maintain the road known as "Harrison Place," was sustained.

It appeared that the right-of-way in question formerly ran parallel to the shore of a lake. In 1917 and the spring of 1918 the lake carried away the road, which ran along a high and almost perpendicular cliff. Mrs. Kerrigan claimed that Mrs. Harrison was obliged to keep the road in repair notwithstanding the actions of the lake or in the alternative to pay damages for the loss of the road to Mrs. Kerrigan's cottage.

The Supreme Court of Canada held that Mrs. Harrison was not compelled to maintain the road against the sudden and uncontrolled actions of the lake.

J. M. McEvoy, K. C., acted for Mrs. Harrison and Gibbons, Harper & Braden for Mrs. Kerrigan.

SIMS SILENT NOW.

Refuses Invitation to Armistice Dinner In New York.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Rear-Admiral Sims has declined an invitation to speak at the Armistice Day dinner of the New York Chapter of the Military Order of the World War. Officers of the chapter to-day attributed the refusal to the reprimand he received for his speech in England in reference to Sinn Feiners. This officer quoted the admiral as writing to the chapter: "A year from now, when I am on the retired list, I can say what I feel like and then I'll be glad to talk to you."

THOUSANDS OF BODIES ARE STILL UNIDENTIFIED

LONDON, Oct. 14. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — Sir William Beach Thomas, war correspondent of The Daily Mail, telegraphing to that paper after a tour of the battlefields in France and Flanders, says that on the official announcement of the withdrawal of the British army from France the policy of searching for lost graves and bodies is definitely abandoned.

The correspondent says that many thousands of bodies still lie unidentified and he urges the authorities to follow the example of France and Belgium and offer a small reward for each body found to groups of workmen who are engaged in the work of reconstruction and in clearing buildings, fields and woods.

UNITED HOSPITAL AIDS MEET HERE

Hear Address On Children's Hospital By Dr. Hill.

AT NOON LUNCHEON

Delegates Present From Various Parts of Ontario.

"This is the century of the child, demonstrated in the enormous amount of attention concentrated on every stage of child development," declared Dr. H. W. Hill, of the Institute of Public Health, in an address on the Memorial Children's Hospital, presented to the United Hospital Aids of Ontario at their annual meeting here to-day.

Dr. Hill, who spoke to some 50 delegates from all parts of the province at the luncheon in the Cafe De Luxe, which opened the annual session, declared that the imperative need for a memorial to the Canadian men overseas, that would be closer to the hearts of the people than any tablet of brass or bronze, was the foundation ideal of the Memorial Children's Hospital, now nearing completion in this city.

"An interesting report has shown us that in the United States the native stock has been cut off by too great immigration," Dr. Hill said. "We must prevent that happening here and one of the first steps is a hospital such as this, where defects as well as sickness may be cured, and which will meet the needs of the district as well as the city."

The speaker paid a glowing tribute to Lieut.-Col. Gartshore, who, he declared, was behind the whole splendid organization of Victoria Hospital and the London Medical School, the best, if not the largest, in the Dominion. "With such men as Col. Gartshore behind the children's hospital movement success is guaranteed," he said.

BENEFIT TO RACE.

The great development of London as a medical center was yet another cause underlying the necessity for a children's hospital here, Dr. Hill stated. He added that the findings of the war examinations, showing such a percentage of young Canadian manhood to be unfit for actual campaigning, was alone an adequate reason for the establishment of an institution that, in benefiting the children, would ultimately benefit the race.

The delegates, representing hospital aid organizations in all parts of Ontario, were met with motor upon their arrival in the city this morning and taken for a tour of inspection through the children's hospital, which was the subject of many admiring comments, one delegate referring with appreciation to the "great faith" of the London ladies in undertaking and bringing so nearly to completion such a splendid institution. A number of the delegates also visited the medical school.

Following luncheon the afternoon session at the Y. W. C. A. was occupied with the presentation of comprehensive reports on the work done for the hospitals in the various Ontario centers. Mrs. A. E. Horton, of St. Thomas, was the presiding officer.

DELEGATES REGISTERING.

Among the delegates registered at noon to-day were: Miss Daisy Burton, Walkerton; Mrs. W. K. White, Mrs. W. M. Wilkinson, Mrs. A. E. Davidson, Miss E. Hood and Miss F. Sharpe, Woodstock; Mrs. A. J. Elliott, Miss Myrtle Meek, Mrs. J. K. Calder, Mrs. Gillis Ramsay, Mrs. W. R. Veale, Mrs. W. A. Sudworth, Mrs. V. Meek, Mrs. B. P. Dunn, Mrs. O. E. Robinson, Mrs. M. Robinson and Mrs. Stoneman, Ingersoll; Mrs. D. R. McPhail and Mrs. F. Colwel, Kincardine; Mrs. T. D. Reville, Mrs. T. S. Wade, Miss Mary Cofter, Mrs. J. J. Hurley and Mrs. J. H. A. Agnew, Brantford; Mrs. E. P. Coleman and Mrs. C. B. Van Allen, Hamilton; Mrs. Manson Campbell, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. J. B. Smith and Mrs. A. A. Hicks, Chatham; Mrs. W. McIntosh and Mrs. C. Thomas and Mrs. Glennie Wilson.

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL OPENS NOVEMBER 28

Course Will Run for Three Months, Covering Every Phase of Farm Work.

The date for the opening of the agricultural school at Strathroy this winter, the first of its kind in the Province of Ontario, has been set for Monday, November 28 it was announced this morning by R. A. Finn, district representative of the department of agriculture.

The course, which is being put on under the direction of the department of agriculture, will be of three months' duration, and will provide classes for farmers and farmers' sons and daughters. For the farmers and farmers-to-be there will be classes which will cover practically every phase of general farm work, and for the women the classes will be general instruction in domestic science and home-making.

The program of work is as yet far from complete, but there will be a large number of demonstrators and lecturers in the various sections of farming and home-making. The course will occupy three full months and will be continuous five days a week, with the exception of a short interval at the holiday season Christmas and New Years.

A good many inquiries regarding the course have been coming to the district office of the department of agriculture from the surrounding district. The classes will be open to any who wish to take the course, whether they reside in Middlesex or not.

GOV'T SUPPORTERS PLAN ORGANIZATION

Ealing, Chesley and Pottersburg to Hold Meeting in East London To-Night.

Organization of the supporters of the Meighen Government in Ealing, Chelsea Green, Pottersburg and Knollwood Park districts will be effected to-night at a public meeting to be held in the hall, formerly Egerton Strett Baptist Church, formerly Egerton Strett Baptist Church, road. S. Frank Glass, M. P. for East Middlesex, and other prominent men in the National Liberal-Conservative ranks will address the meeting. It is anticipated that a large representation of the voters in these sections will be in attendance. The ladies are invited to attend and take part in the discussion and the plans for organization. The chair will be taken at 8 o'clock.

FUNERAL AT WATFORD.—The remains of Mrs. Rachael Birchard, who died in the city last evening, were forwarded to Watford this afternoon at 4.40 by the G. T. R. The funeral will take place on Sunday.

City News

STILL HOPEFUL. — Ald. W. A. Wilson is still hopeful of securing concessions from the City Gas Company and Progressive Oil & Gas Company with regard to the use of natural gas in London. He has written them asking for a final conference, but so far has received no answer.

SUING FOR $2,333. — MacPherson & Perrin, acting for the International Harvester Company, have issued a writ in the Supreme Soprt of Ontario against W. J. Ball and G. W. Merrill, of Petrolea, for the sum of $2,333, which they claim is due their clients as the balance on the price of a motor truck sold to the defendants.

JAIL FOR SEVEN DAYS. — Owing to a witness called by the defendant in a case of reckless driving heard in police court this morning telling the truth as he saw it, the defendant was sentenced to seven days in jail for reckless driving on a city thoroughfare. When arrested, it was proved, the driver was in an intoxicated condition and was making his car fox-trot.

TOM WALSH IN COLLISION.—T. E. Walsh, who is connected with the Federal Advertising Agency, had a narrow escape from sustaining serious injuries, when an auto in which he was riding in Stratford yesterday afternoon side-swiped a truck, giving the driver and himself a severe shaking up. Mr. Walsh received a bruised right shoulder and arm from the result of the collision.

VETERAN DEAD.—The death of James Tolemey, a patient at Westminster Hospital, took place this morning. The funeral will be held on Monday morning at 8 o'clock from the undertaking parlors of George Logan & Sons to St. Mary's Church, where requiem high mass will be celebrated by Rev. Father Dignan at 8.30. Interment will be made in the soldiers' plot in St. Peter's Cemetery.

BURIAL AT RODNEY.—The remains of John McIntyre, who died in this city on Thursday, were taken from the funeral home of A. L. Oatman to the L. & P. S. R., from where they were forwarded to Rodney for interment. The deceased is survived by three sisters, one in St. Thomas and two in Rodney. He was in his 86th year and up until his illness for some time conducted a contracting and building establishment in St. Thomas. The funeral will be held to Rodney Cemetery this afternoon.

BANQUET FOR ATHLETES.—Following the sports at St. Thomas yesterday the London athletic associations were entertained at a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. by the St. Thomas boys' and girls' associations. An address from Principal W. H. T. Mooney was followed by brief after-dinner speeches from Olga Miller, captain of the girls' baseball team; Isabel Duncan, captain of the basket ball team, and George Sessions, rugby captain. The London associations will entertain the St. Thomas players at dinner following the sports in this city on October 25.

CLAYTON FREY IN CITY. — Clayton Frey, agricultural representative for Haldimand County with headquarters at Cayuga, is in the city to-day. He returned yesterday to give R. A. Finn, the Middlesex representative, some assistance with the Mount Brydges school fair. Mr. Frey was appointed as representative to the Haldimand office to succeed Mr. W. H. Smith, who was transferred to the Kent County office. The newly appointed representative was an able assistant in the Middlesex office during the heavy work of the summer months.

A DAY'S NEWS OF BRUCE AND HURON

FORMER RESIDENT OF WINGHAM IS DEAD

WINGHAM, Oct. 13.—Word has been received here of the death in Pasadena, Cal., of Mrs. Theo. Hall, a former well-known and highly respected resident of this town, in her 75th year. Had Mrs. Hall lived three days longer Mr. Hall and she would have celebrated the 53rd anniversary of their wedding. Besides her husband she is survived by four sons and two daughters. While they resided in Wingham Mr. Hall was editor of The Wingham Advance.

Fred Eaton, of Lucknow, has sold his marble and granite business to Robt. Spotton, of Wingham, who will conduct it in conjunction with his business of a similar nature in town.

A few small figures in clay attracted considerable attention at the Lucknow Fall Fair. They were made by Mrs. Henry Mathers, wife of the reeve of Kinloss, and the clay was found on their farm. The work was good.

Nurse Verna MacDonald entertained a number of sister nurses and their friends at her home, Francis street, on Thursday evening.

IN MEMORIAM

GARLEY—In loving memory of a dear friend Sid., who passed away three years ago to-day.

We cannot say, and we will not say
That he is dead; he is just away—
Always a smile and a welcome for all,
He has wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.

f —Inserted by E. and W. Askew.

GARLEY—In loving memory of our dear son, Sydney, who died three years ago to-day, aged 31 years.

The rolling stream of time rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the smiles, the love, the voice
Of one we loved so dear.

—From his Loving Mother, Father, Brothers, Sister. f

GARLEY—In fond memory of our dear brother, Sid, who died three years ago to-day, aged 31 years.

Our loved one sleeps, but not forever,
There will be a glorious dawn;
We shall meet to part no, never,
On that resurrection morn.

—From his Loving Sister and Brother-in-law, George and Evelyn. f

STEELS—In loving memory of my dear husband and father, who died two years ago.

Oh, he has reached the shining shore
And he will never suffer more,
And his pain and grief are o'er.

f —His Wife and Children.

TREADGOLD—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Charles W. Treadgold, who passed away October 14, 1920:

How cheering the thought of meeting some day
In that blest land, which is not far away;
The haven where father is safely at rest,
And where all may unite in the home of the blest.

f —Loving Wife and Family.

YOUNG—In loving memory of our dear mother, Sophia Hall, who died three years ago to-day, October 14, 1918.

Our Father in his wisdom called
The boon his love had given,
And, though in earth the body lies,
The soul is safe in heaven.

f Daughter and Son-in-Law.

THREE YEARS FOR PICKING POCKETS

Sentence Handed Out To Conway and Clarke

ROBBED LONDON MAN

Vienna School Teacher and Parkhill Resident Victims

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 13.—(By Staff Reporter)—Three years on each charge, the sentences to run concurrently, is the penalty that William Conway and George Clarke, alleged to be natives of Toledo, must pay for a couple of pickpocket escapades staged in this city and at Port Stanley on July 1. The men, it was alleged in the evidence, took advantage of the large crowds and removed $237 from the hip pocket of Alfred Mark, of Parkhill, a Vienna schoolteacher, and $67 from Leslie Thompson, of London,a painter. Both the victims were on their way to celebrate the holiday, the latter being robbed while purchasing tickets to go via the incline railway, at Port Stanley, to Fraser Heights.

The men, who were termed by Crown Attorney McCrimmon as "relentless vultures," pleaded not guilty to both charges. On the first, after a hearing lasting part of yesterday and the greater part of to-day, they were found guilty by a jury after an hour's deliberation. On the second charge, acting on the advice of their counsel, C. St. Clair Leitch, K. C., and Andrew Grant, they pleaded guilty and asked the leniency of the court.

Justice Masten declared, in sentencing them, that the verdict of the jury coincided with his views of the case, and commended them for pleading guilty to the second charge. Without any remarks he announced that sentence would be three years in prison.

PERFECTLY SATISFIED.

The prisoners took their sentence with apparent pleasure, and on their way to the jail both men expressed complete satisfaction at the term imposed. They admitted that they anticipated a much stiffer term.

An attempt was made to prove an alibi in the case of one man. According to the evidence of Alfred Mark, the complainant, who lost $200 at the Talbot street depot of the L. & P. S. R. here, showed that Conway and Clarke had both had a hand in the removal of the pocketbook. The one tripped him as he was boarding the train at 2.15 in the afternoon, while the other reached into his pocket in the scuffle and extracted the wallet. He gave chase, but did not see them again until they were locked up.

Conway, however, produced a ticket stub for passage from St. Thomas to Windsor. This was identified by an auditor from Detroit as the return half of a ticket purchased in Windsor and collected by a conductor on train No. 30, which left Windsor at 2.15 on the same day. Counsel for the accused contended that if Conway had been on that train he could not have reached St. Thomas until 4.35, and consequently could not be at the L. & P. S. R. depot at 2.15.

The judge, however, in summing up, declared that there had been visitors in the jail and there were many ways in which this ticket stub could have reached Conway.

HAVE PREVIOUS RECORDS.

The accused men were arrested on the afternoon of July 1 by Detective William Hammersly, of the L. & P. S. R., and Chief Harry Phillips, of Port Stanley. They were identified by Leslie Thompson, of London, as the men who had picked his pocket, and later when brought to the county jail were recognized by Alfred Mark as the men who had accosted him. Despite objections their pictures were taken and finger-prints obtained by Detective Hammersly and after several weeks reports were received from Toledo, Ohio; Detroit, Mich., and a number of other American centers, showing that the men had a bad previous record and had served several terms for petty larceny.

A public meeting in the interests of the reorganization of the local Board of Trade into a Chamber of Commerce is to be held in the city hall next Monday evening. It will take the form of a lively smoking concert of the old style and addresses will be delivered by M. M. Maxwell, of the St. Catharines Chamber of Commerce; Gordon Philip, of the London organization, and Robert A. Crosby, of Toronto. A number of local speakers will also deliver addresses. The object of the gathering is to promote a "get-together feeling" among the citizens of St. Thomas and prepare for the membership campaign about to be inaugurated.

The question of who will be given the nomination at the convention of the I. L. P.-U. F. O., to be held here on Saturday night next, is causing considerable discussion locally. Those who claim to be in the "know" state that it will go to either ex-Ald. Lane or Albert Roberts, ex-school trustee and a member of the water board. The special ballot for railway men to vote on the selection of a candidate opened to-night and will continue each night until Saturday.

INVESTIGATE FIRE.

The blaze that occurred in the block at the extreme west end of Talbot street is declared by Fire Chief Henderson and his men to be one of the most suspicious in years and an investigation as to its origin will be made. The block is owned by Locke & McLachlin, but was rented to some people who are not now in the city. A stranger was seen leaving the place yesterday afternoon, it is stated, and strong suspicions of incendiarism are aroused. Developments are expected.

A thorough examination by F. Steele, optician, 210 Dundas street, will settle any doubt regarding your eyes. f

UNVEIL EAST NISSOURI MONUMENT ON MONDAY

KINTORE, Oct. 13.—The soldiers' monument, erected by the Township of East Nissouri, will be unveiled here on Monday, it was announced to-day. The ceremony will take place at 2 o'clock. A special program has been arranged for the occasion. Prominent speakers have been secured and, in addition, a military band will be in attendance.

POWDER PLANT WORKER SUFFERS FATAL BURNS

WINDSOR, Oct. 13.—(Special to The Free Press.)—John Broad, 35 years old, who was burned early this morning when fire destroyed a section of the Burroughs powder plant, two miles outside of Amherstburg, died two hours later.

The fire started from an undetermined cause when Broad picked up a powder container to loan on to a truck. The flames enveloped him and before other employees arrived he had suffered fatal burns. The fire was extinguished after the loading shed had been destroyed. Dr. F. Park, coroner, has ruled an inquest unnecessary.

IMMEDIATE STRIKE ON SOME U. S. LINES BELIEVED PROBABLE

Walk-Out Under Consideration Following Conference of Labor and Executives

PLAN FOR FURTHER WAGE CUT RESPONSIBLE

Shop Men and Maintenance-of-Way Men Have Already Balloted

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Leaders of the railroad brotherhoods assembled here to-day to consider the challenge of the railway executive in proposing a further wage reduction of approximately 10 per cent., in the face of the strike vote just authorized by the railway men because of the 12 per cent. reduction of last July.

The brotherhood chiefs indicated that an immediate walkout—at least on some roads—was under consideration, following yesterday's conference of the railway men's leaders with the executive, after the executives had announced they would apply to the Railroad Labor Board for a wage reduction.

President Samuel M. Felton, of the Chicago Great Western, said the proposed reduction would effect a saving of $300,000,000 annually and that approximately 2,000,000 men would be affected.

Immediately after the conference with the brotherhood chiefs, when the executive wage decision was read to the employees' leaders, the executives left for their homes, indicating their decision was final.

The shop men and maintenance-of-way men had voted to strike before the brotherhoods' ballots was completed.

LETS ON STRIKE.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Late to-night Mr. Lee, head of the B. R. T., said that the district chairmen of the unions would receive their final instructions to-morrow as to whether there would be a strike. Asked point blank if a strike would be ordered, he said:

"I will not say definitely, but were a betting man, I would place my money that there will be a strike."

"Regardless of what action is taken the final decision is only a matter of the rising and setting of a few suns. The district chairmen will receive their final orders to-morrow and then will go home. My chairmen already have been sent home and will receive their orders by mail."

Asked concerning the reports that a strike, effective on October 30, had been decided upon, Mr. Lee replied:

"I won't answer that definitely, but if someone has told you that they have hit a lot of nails on the head—perhaps they are not exactly right, but they are driving close."

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Representatives of United States railroads to-day, after announcing that they cannot reduce freight rates at present without going into bankruptcy, and that they would immediately seek a further reduction in employees' wages from the United States Railroad Labor Board, went into futile conference with union leaders in an effort to reach an amicable settlement of wage difficulties, which at times threatened to tie up the transportation system of the country.

At the conference union leaders asked reconsideration of their request of last July that a 12½ per cent. wage reduction granted by the labor board be not put into effect immediately; that no further wage reductions be sought at present, and that no change be made in the overtime pay rate. This request was refused and the rail heads presented their statement announcing the proposal to seek new reductions and not to restore the rates until further reductions were granted.

The labor leaders left the conference immediately and few of them would discuss its proceedings or predict the results.

PASS ON FUTURE CUT.

The executives announced, however, that the proposal to pass future wage reductions on to the public by applying to the Interstate Commerce Commission for a reduction in freight and passenger rates had been accepted and that all future wage reductions would be met by a corresponding rate reduction.

The conference was begun at the suggestion of the union leaders, their invitation for a meeting being accepted by the rail heads following the announcement concerning freight rates. When the meeting started, the committee appointed by the Association of Railway Executives declared that they believed it would settle most of the immediate difficulties between the carriers and their employees.

The union leaders were backward about discussing the meeting although one indicated that its purpose might be almost nullified by the announcement that a further wage reduction would be fight.

STRIKE THREATENED.

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, said that since the union men already had authorized their leaders to call a strike rather than accept the recent 12½ per cent wage cut, I do not see how the roads can have the nerve to suggest another cut."

John D. Loosens Up Again, Gives Away 20 Cents

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 15.—John D. Rockefeller, on Friday, Crossing on the Nynck-Tarrytown ferry, he applauded vigorously a little girl in a neighboring motor car, who was moved to sing a few lively airs to the accompaniment of the craft's musicians. Then he gave his chauffeur two new dimes to present to the singer with his compliments.

The little girl confided to her parents that she intended to wear on a ribbon round her neck the coins coming from the world's richest man.

FRENCH TRAIN TO BE HERE OCT. 20

Consist of Thirteen Canadian National Coaches

TO BE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Count Raoul D'Armand to Charge of Exhibit

The French Government manufacturers and trade exhibit train will arrive in London on Thursday, October 20, and will be parked between Waterloo and Wellington streets, on the L. & P. S. tracks, where the train of H. R. H. the Prince of Wales was stationed during his visit to London in 1919. The train, consisting of 13 Canadian National coaches, will be under the supervision of Count Raoul D'Arnaud and six other members of the French Republic Trade Commission.

The train and exhibits will be open to the general public from 2 p. m. to 5.30 p. m. on Thursday and from 7.30 to 9.30 in the evening of that day. For the City Council and business men generally who may desire to purchase goods from France through officials of the traveling exhibition, the train will be open from 10.30 a. m. on Thursday until 12.30 p. m.

LUNCHEON ON THURSDAY.

Count D'Arnaud and staff will be entertained at luncheon on Thursday by a joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club. President John Bridge, of the Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. Routledge, head of the Lions Club, have made arrangements for the joint luncheon session.

Arrangements have been made by the Alliance Francaise, of which Mrs. C. R. Somerville is president, to welcome the distinguished party from the French Republic on behalf of the civic organization whose purpose is to stimulate greater friendship between the Dominion and France.

The exhibits on the train, Secretary Philip, of the Chamber of Commerce, points out, cover the whole range of French manufactures which do not conflict with Canadian industrial products. Being French, the exhibits will not only be interesting from the utilitarian standpoint, they will alike interest the captain of industry and the lady who loves beautiful things in her home.

Next year the Canadian Government will send a Dominion exhibition train to France.

HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL THREATENS TO BLAZE NEW FREE TRADE TRAIL

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 15.—"If the Liberal party is returned to power and it does not get far enough with regard to free trade I will go to Ottawa and blaze a free trade path myself, if elected," was one of the declarations of Hon. Duncan Marshall, former minister of agriculture for Alberta, in a speech in which he accepted the nomination of the Liberals of East Calgary Federal riding. Mr. Marshall proposed the immediate cutting of the duties on British goods in half and a policy which would lead directly towards free trade.

MODERATE EARTHQUAKE RECORDED AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—An earthquake of moderate intensity, but lasting two and a half hours, was recorded on the seismograph at the United States Government weather bureau early to-day. The center of the disturbance was 2,865 miles southwest of Chicago, probably in the Pacific Ocean, according to the bureau.

The first tremor was recorded at 12.27 a. m., the maximum strength at 12.45 a. m., and the final tremor at 3 a. m.

Blue Tickets Not Handed Out At The City Hall

Much Heralded Wholesale Discharge of Employees Does Not Materialize

CITY ENGINEER DOESN'T POSSESS COLORED CARDS

Ald. Watkinson's Announcement Passes Unheeded and All Men on Job as Usual

The Ides of October have arrived and are here, but, despite the threats of City Council senators, not a single dog-gone blue ticket has been issued, passed out, or otherwise dropped on the unsuspecting noncitizen city worker. The 15th of the month in the Roman calendar was called the Ides of that month or thereabouts. But not since the soothsayer annoyed J. Caesar on his morning automobile ride down to his office in the Forum Building by crying: "Caesar, the Ides of March have come!" has this sinister date achieved such wide publicity as after Ald. F. R. Watkinson's announcement that there would be wholesale and retail firing on October 15.

City Engineer Brazier stated to-day that no "blue tickets" were being issued and that, in fact, he didn't have such a thing in his office.

TENTATIVE PLAN FOR TRAINING

Classes for Instruction of Sunday School Teachers

CENTRAL MEETING PLACE

Approval of City Churches Is Asked

The London Religious Education Council has adopted a normal course, as outlined recently in The Free Press, for training Sunday school teachers and other religious leaders. Secretary E. J. Jenkins announced to-day that copies of the tentative program will be forwarded to every Protestant church in the city next week and, if adopted by them, will result in the immediate formation of classes.

Lack of competent leadership in all the church organizations has prompted the scheme of the council, which aims to provide instructors and leaders through courses which will be held each fall and winter. Students will include those who are already teachers, as well as those who are not actively connected with any work, and their training will be not only academic, but along physical culture lines.

MEET TWICE A WEEK.

Two periods a week are suggested in the schedule drawn up by the Religious Education Council. On Sunday afternoon a study course will be taken up in each Sunday school group in place of the regular lesson. Texts are either the "Program of Christianity," by F. K. Sanders, or "The Meaning of Service," by H. E. Fordick. This study can be taken, of course, only by those who are not engaged in the teaching of classes.

A central meeting place, such as the Y. M. C. A., is suggested for the week-day session, which will be open to present and prospective teachers. With representation from every Sunday school in this session there ought to be at least 75 in attendance. During the first part of the evening the students would be divided into the following groups: Beginners, junior, primary, Young People's, C. S. E. T. and adult. From 9.15 to 9.45 the groups would be united in the study of "The Pupil," by L. A. Weigle, under some instructor, to be appointed. After 9.45 there would be instruction in group games and other recreational activities for those who were leaders in boys' or girls' groups.

LOAN IS EXTENDED.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—France has succeeded in securing an extension of two years of her loan of 50,000,000 yen from Japan, it is announced by The Journal. The loan would mature on November 15.

AMENDED HOUSING LAWS IN PROSPECT

Municipalities to Send Representatives to Big Conference at Toronto

TOWN PLANNING WILL ALSO BE CONSIDERED

Two Related Subjects to Be Discussed With View to Legislation

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.) — The second town planning and housing conference for Ontario will be held in the city hall, Toronto, on Monday and Tuesday, October 31 and November 1. It is expected that at least 200 delegates will assemble representing municipal Councils, Boards of Trade, trades councils, manufactureres' associations, great war veterans, housing commissions, town planning commissions, architectural, town planning and engineering associations, local councils of women, Daughters of the Empire chapters, and social service and educational organizations.

The conference has been called by the Town Planning and Housing Association of Ontario. The name indicates the close relation between town planning and housing. They are inseparable. Both association and conference are the result of the spreading conviction that town planning offers the only solution for many pressing municipal problems and that the improvement of housing conditions is fundamental alike to social progress and industrial peace. The purpose of the coming conference is to focus the best thought of the province on these subjects and thereby create informed public opinion and inspire progressive legislation.

THE PROGRAM

Lieut.-Governor Cockshutt will formally open the conference in the Council chamber of the city hall, and the delegates will be welcomed by Mayor T. L. Church. The address of the president, Mr. J. P. Hynes, and the appointment of conference committees will complete the program for the first session. This will be followed by a luncheon at the King Edward Hotel, at which brief reports will be made of town planning activities throughout the province. At the afternoon session Mr. N. Cauchon, chairman of the Ottawa Town Planning Association, will address the conference on the present status of town planning in Ontario.

The general discussion to follow, it is expected, will result in the adoption of resolutions outlining the Government proposals for amending the existing town planning legislation. The evening session will be a public meeting to deal with housing and will be addressed by Dr. Hastings, medical health officer of Toronto, and one other.

HOUSING PLANS

Housing will occupy the attention of the conference at the morning session of the second day. There will be a review of what has been accomplished by the general and provincial loans and a general discussion of the effect on housing improvement. Mr. W. S. B. Armstrong will put forward a plan for municipal housing under the existing Ontario act passed in 1912, entitled "An act to improve housing accommodation in cities and towns." The discussion of the subject will be led by a representative of organized labor. The conference luncheon on that day at the King Edward Hotel will be presided over by Mayor F. H. Plant, of Ottawa. Premier Drury has been invited to address the gathering.

At the afternoon session Dr. H. L. Britton, director of the bureau of municipal research, will speak on a town department for cities. Following the discussion of the address will be the annual business meeting and the election of officers. That will conclude the conference.

PREDICTS POLITICAL ABSORPTION BY U. S. A.

NOKOMOS, Sask., Oct. 15.—Norman P. Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, addressing a convention here, predicted that there will be two issues before the country in the next 10 years, financial bankruptcy or political absorption by the United States. "If Premier Meighen continues to meet these problems with his continued program of high protection, you will be faced with either one of these issues," he declared, "and the only solution is for the Progressive movement to sweep this country from one end to the other on December 6."

TRICK AND ROSS GET MORE TRICKS

Albert M. Trick led the eucher players in number of points scored last evening at the Thistle Club weekly Friday night tournament, while James C. Ross was runner-up. A capacity crowd took part and the card punchers were busy puncturing holes for lone hands.

WINNERS AT WESTERN FIELD SPORTS

Quartet of Mayoralty Candidates Loom Up Ready For the Fray

Ald. Wenige and Ald. Harley Definitely Announce Intentions; Others Busily at Work on Platforms

A four-cornered fight for the mayor's chair is a probability that is looming up now. Ald. Wenige and Harley have already definitely announced their intentions of entering the race. Ald. Cameron Wilson is considering the requests of his friends in this connection and it is expected he will be a candidate, and Ald. Childs is also considering the advisability of acceding to the promptings of his friends who want him to take a chance this year. He stated to-day in reply to a question that he would make a definite announcement shortly.

With four in the field for the chief magistrate's position the municipal elections this year should command the attention of the electors even in view of the Federal polling which takes place on December 6. None of the mayoralty candidates has as yet made his platform public, with the exception of Ald. Wenige, who is basing his fight on what he terms a business administration. The other three are now gathering the planks together with which to build a structure which they hope will carry them to the chair this year.

Each one of the four has his own particular backers. Some may have a more solid backing than the others, but all will have one corner of the city solidly behind them, no doubt. On the other hand, it is not at all likely that any organization such as was behind Mayor Little last year will be lined up in this campaign. The organization last year was composed principally of the business men of the city. But it is not expected that such an organization could be gathered to back any one of the present candidates to the exclusion of the others.

On the other hand, the soldier and labor organizations are quite likely to indorse one of the candidates. Labor is not planning to place a direct representataive in the field this year, but the labor men feel that they should line up with some one of the four who will likely run. Which one will secure the indorsation of the soldier and labor bodies is not yet definitely known.

At any rate, the coming contest is more than likely to prove of much interest. Each one of the contestants is certain to adopt some outstanding policy that will be well discussed at the various meetings which will be held during the campaign. Naturally, the Federal campaign will take first place, but the municipal questions will not be at all forgotten with four such men in the field.

VAGUE STORY SAYS LUDENDORFF SLAIN

Rumor of Assassination Reaches Paris From Germany.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Rumors were in circulation here this morning to the effect that General Ludendorf had been assassinated in Germany. Inquiry by the Havas agency at the German embassy here elicited the statement that no such reports have been received by officials in Berlin. The stories in circulation here were vague and the general belief is that they are entirely without foundation.

HERDS WITH CLEAN BILL.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Up to the first of October 36 herds of pure-bred cattle had been fully accredited in Canada as having a clean bill of health so far as tuberculosis is concerned, according to a statement issued by Dr. Frederick Torrance, veterinary director-general.

College Girl Health Model, Doctor Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The college girl was proclaimed on Friday to be the "Twentieth Century Superwoman" by Dr. Eugene Lyman Fisk, director of the Life Extension Institute, of New York, and one of the best known health authorities in the country. Dr. Fisk declared her to be the nation's "health model."

According to the famous expert, latest statistics show college women to have the lowest mortality rate. College men grade high physically on the average, but not so high as the college girl, Dr. Fisk declared.

ESSEX MAN DIES FROM INJURIES

Two Others in Sandwich Jail Following Accident Early To-Day

ESSEX, Oct. 15. — James Campbell, aged 38, died in Hotel Dieu, Windsor, about 4 o'clock this morning as the result of being hurled through the windshield of an automobile near Sandwich in an accident a few hours before.

Arthur Campbell, a brother, and a brother-in-law, A. Wolf, are in Sandwich jail in connection with the affair, details of which are lacking.

PLAN OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY

Tentative Program Is Now Under Consideration

BIG PARADE INCLUDED

Chamber of Commerce Will Probably Take Active Part

Monday, November 7, Armistice and Thanksgiving Day, will probably be fittingly observed again by London under similar plans to those carried out last year under the auspices of the London Chamber of Commerce and veteran organizations.

Col. W. G. Coles, president of the G. W. V. A., stated to-day that the matter would come up for immediate consideration as soon as the G. W. V. A. delegates have returned from the Port Arthur convention.

Col. C. M. R. Graham, under whose leadership last year's celebration was carried out to such a successful conclusion, states that the coming Armistice Day should be just as enthusiastically celebrated and new features added through the wider participation of additional civic bodies.

TENTATIVE PROGRAM

The tentative program, as already outlined, includes a monster parade during the day, which may be staged under the Chamber of Commerce. Floats emphasizing the patriotic appeal of the day and the ever-pertinent "made-in-Canada" theme would be a major interest. Plans also include a decorated car section with prizes for the best decorated automobile.

The evening will be turned over to the veterans, permanent and local militia units, patriotic societies, and university and school cadet organizations. Fireworks may be used again with many added features.

Citizens generally will wear red poppies on Armistice Day. These flowers of Flanders will probably be offered for sale in behalf of the new Children's Hospital.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH

WINDSOR, Oct. 15.—"Accidental death" was the conclusion of the coroner's jury at Sandwich town hall investigating the death of Thomas Strudwick, aged 21, of Sandwich, killed when a "clan bucket" used for unloading coal crashed down on his head in the hold of the steamer Alaska.

70 WIDOWS WILL RECEIVE PENSION

Number to Be Increased by Eight Shortly

REFUTE DUMPING CHARGE

Mothers' Pension Board Ready for Council "Exposure"

Sixteen applications were dealt with by the local Mothers' Allowance Board at its bi-minthly meeting yesterday afternoon. Six of these were recommended to the central commission, so that the number that are entitled to receive pensions in this city will be increased to 70 within a few days.

Most of the applications considered yesterday were made under the newly-enacted provisions of the Mothers' Allowance Act, but there appears to be considerable misconception regarding the modification because only three out of the eight were recommended by the board. There was a large number of applications under the original act, too, but only three of these were approved.

Chairman T. D. McCullough is of the belief that the last two meetings of the board have dealt with the majority of fall cases. Two were recommended at the previous meeting and six yesterday, so that the total is only eight. This is regarded as smaller than expected, but will be satisfactory to the ratepayers of the city, who have to bear one-half the cost of each pension.

It is believed that the charges of dumping widows on the city will be refuted by the local board if they are ever aired in the City Council. Previous accusations have been answered, so that little difficulty is expected in dealing with the latest instance where the city is said to have been made the "goat."

TWO RURAL DEANERIES TO MEET WEDNESDAY

On Wednesday next the Rural Deaneries of East Middlesex, and the Deanery Woman's Auxiliaries will hold their annual meeting in All Saints' Church. This is the first time the fall sessions of the Deaneries have been held jointly. This plan was decided on at the spring meeting.

On Tuesday evening the East Middlesex Deanery will hold a special business meeting in All Saints Church at 8 o'clock, but the meeting proper of the two Deaneries will not open until 9.30 Wednesday morning. Prominent speakers will address the meeting and the large program that has been prepared forecasts an interesting session.

The session will open with holy communion, and an address will be given by Rev. Prof. Anderson. An hour later N. F. Wilmot, superintendent of St. John's Sunday School, this city, will give an address on "The Sunday School." This will be followed by a joint business meeting of the Women's Auxiliaries. At 11.30 Rev. Prof. Anderson will give an address on "Devotional Outlines," and at 12 o'clock Rev. Denny Bright will speak on "The Church Work."

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock with an address on "A.Y.P.A., by Capt. (Rev.) E. Appleyard, of St. Paul's Church, Woodstock. Ven. Archdeacon Graham, of Nelson, B.C., will give an address on "The Church in the West." The afternoon meeting will close with an address from Rev. (Dr.) Gould, of Toronto, general secretary of the M.S.C.C.

In the evening a public meeting will be held in the church, and will be addressed by Ven. Archdeacon Graham and Rev. (Dr.) Gould.

EVENING SCHOOL CLASSES TO BE FREE

Not Even Nominal Charge for Those Who Have Little Money

PARENTS' ASSESSMENT WILL BE CONSIDERED

Accommodation Being Provided for Adolescents Who Left Public School

Free night school education for those unable to pay for it is the latest development of the work of the technical and commercial advisory committee of the technical and art high school, of which Trustee Thomas Rowe is chairman. Secretary Tanner to-day announced that in future evening classes at the Technical School are open, without even the nominal charge hitherto imposed, to poor pupils. At as Western University, the actual assessment of the parents of children applying for remission of fees will be taken into consideration.

This step marks the opening of a new educational field in London in which the last barrier to the efforts of poor but ambitious young men and women is removed. London, from kindergarten through university, has not only made education easy to acquire, but has taken every class of society into consideration. "A young man or woman in Londno in the future," industrial committee members state, "cannot blame anything else but their own lack of initiative if they fail in securing a good education.

Accommodation is also provided now for adolescents who left public school without completing the course. Evening classes are being organized for these, Mr. Tanner states, which will accommodate a maximum of 300. These classes are particularly for students that failed of reaching the sixth grade in the public school, or left the public schools at any grade short of high school entrance.

This action comes as the direct result of a report made by Dr. George Weir, school attendance officer, on the fact that there were more than 100 young people for whom work permits had been issued under the adolescent act that had never reached the sixth grade of the public schools. The technical school committee has taken immediate steps towards solving the problem.

A recommendation may be moved at the next session of the Board of Education that no child under 16 shall be issued a work permit who does not agree to take night school work of some sort.

MAY SHELVE DAM TO HELP WESTERN

C. of C. Likely to Take Another Vote on Matter

STAND OVER FOR YEAR

Expected Second Plebiscite Would Oppose Action Now

In view of the urgent necessity for assisting the Western University at this, the crucial period in its history, the Chamber of Commerce will probably take another plebiscite on the question of the erection of Springbank dam. It is pointed out that when the first vote, in which the members gave an overwhelming majority in favor of the dam, there was no thought of the university asking for any financial assistance from the city. The developmenis of the last few days have made it desirable that the members be given a second chance to express their opinions in connection with the river improvement scheme. Arrangements for taking the vote will likely be made in a few days. Managing Secretary Philip, of the C. of C., stated that it is only fair to the membership to place the facts clearly before them again and ask for another expression.

It is expected that the second vote will be opposed to issuing any debentures this year for the construction of the dam. Many members of the C. of C. have individually expressed the opinion that had they known of the university situation they would have voted against the dam now. They point out that this can stand over for a year without any great loss to the city, but it is vitally important that the Western be given aid at this time. In fact it is the general opinion in civic creles that the citizens should be asked to concentrate on the university question at this time to the exclusion of all other large issues.

BRITISH JOURNALS FAVOR CLOSE ACCORD WITH U.S.A.

Approve Financial Appeal for Sulgrave Institute and Foresee Result of Lloyd George's Visit

LONDON, Oct. 15. — Discussions of relations existing between the United States and Great Britain filled much space in to-day's papers. Aside from references to the probable visit Prime Minister Lloyd George to Washington and arrangements for Monday's ceremony in Westminster Abbey, there is printed a long appeal from prominent persons interested in the Sulgrave Institution asking the public immediately to raise £50,000. This institution has been working to bring about closer relations between Great Britain and the United States and sponsored the work of restoring the ancesteral home of George Washington, which was recently rededicated.

Commenting upon the appeal, The London Times remarks: "Though the moment may seem inopportune for an attempt to raise money, the importance of the object of the appeal forbids the withholding of support for the great work of the institution is doing—a work of the fullest support which the patriotic munificence of both countries can give."

Mr. Lloyd George's proposed visit to the United States was commented upon by The Daily Chronicle, which remarked his departure would be dependent upon the Irish conference. It added: "The Irish question is the key to all politics, in the sense that if it is susceptible of solution so are all other problems. We can imagine no better overture to the Washington conference than the good news about Ireland."

Puff Ball Found At Beach Park 31 Feet In Diameter

BEECH PARK, Oct. 15.—(By Staff Reporter)—Abe Werner, Peter Swick, Ed. Henshaw and Bill Spivins arrived home to-day from New York, where they spent the past 10 days sightseeing and incidentally attending the world's baseball series. Swick has a carbunkle on the back of his neck, acquired in the big town, Spivins declares, from trying to find out what kind of roofing they use on the tall buildings on Broadway.

When the quartet reached the square in front of the town hall this morning they thought they were back in New York where everything is large, for, rising majestically from the lawn was a puff ball 31 feet in circumference and perfectly round. Henshaw, whose eyes were a trifle strained from watching the latest fashions in New York, thought that the soldiers' monument which has been subscribed for had been put in position during their absence.

The puff ball was found on the farm of Bill Northern and was rolled into town by a gang of boys during the night as a joke. Just what to do with this edible mountain of the mushroom family is worrying Beech Park reidents. It weighs 500 pounds and would feed the community for a week.

Ed. Werner wants to use it for a garage but Peter Swick insists that it be sent up to London and used for a city hall.

Postponement of Parley On Irish Affairs Attributed To "Passion For Week-Ending"

No Political Significance Attached to the Delay, According to Sinn Fein Delegates

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The adjournment of the Irish conference until next Monday afternoon had no political significance, it is understood. The postponement of the sittings of the conference, which aims at a solution of the Irish question, was attributed by the Sinn Fein delegates to the "Englishmen's passion for week-ending."

Some of the Irish delegates are taking advantage of the interval to visit Ireland in order to deal with what was described by the Sinn Fein publicity department as important departmental business. They will return on Sunday night, in ample time to attend the resumed session.

Considerable currency was given here to-day to a sensational report of the ordering of uniforms for the "Irish Republican Army" and the formation of a company to come to London to escort the Dail delegation back to Ireland upon the conclusion of peace.

The story, however, was ridiculed by Sinn Fein leaders, who say no uniforming of the army is going on and that there is no question of any detachment coming to London at any time.

Since the truce there has been no interference by the military with the Irish "republican army," uniformed or not, and its existence has been officially recognized for truce purposes with the co-operation of liaison officers of the Irish "republican army" and the British army.

PAVED HIGHWAYS FOR MIDDLESEX

Dr. Stevenson, M.L.A., Would Have All Roads Permanent

URGES CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

Make District Richest in All Canada

Middlesex County may soon be filled with a network of paved highways leading to London if plans outlined by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M.L.A., to The Free Press, are carried out. Part of the plan is already accomplished, other sections are under way and to-day Dr. Stevenson states that he is bringing every influence possible to bear on the Provincial Government in securing the completion of the remainder.

The London member also pointed out that London and Middlesex County should get together on a good roads policy and be prepared to issue bonds to the limit of their resources to have this vision of a county highway system realized. "We shouldn't depend on provincial aid alone," he stated, "both the city and county should grasp their present opportunity for making Middlesex County the richest rural section in Ontario. Good roads will do it. Not mere better roads, but paved highways such as now connect London and Lambeth. The province will help and is helping, but with joint action on the part of London and Middlesex the program can be set ahead 10 years and London and Middlesex's future prosperity definitely assured."

OFFICIALLY OPENED

He then pointed out what the province is doing with regard to good roads in Middlesex. "The London and Lambeth highway will be officially opened to-day," he stated. "The paved highway to Thamesford is under construction. An experiment is being carried out on that section which may cut paving costs one half. This is the mixing of gravel and asphalt in the quarry, thus reducing two operations to one.

"I am assured by the department of highways that we will get a road to Lucan next year and that the Lambeth road will be extended towards St. Thomas.

"The time is ripe, though, for a big county-city effort towards networking old Middlesex with paved roads. Roads that will make the whole county practically a suburb of London. We would have to build new theaters to take care of the crowds of Middlesex County people that would come into town in the evening for a show.".

Mr. Stevenson's plans outlined suggest the spending of a million dollars a year for the next five years in county highway development. Part of that sum would be met by the city, part by the county and part by the adjoining farm property owners, and finally, but not the least, by substantial subsidies from the provincial treasury. There would be no unbearable burden on any section of the community. And Dr. Stevenson believes that unparalleled prosperity would come to London and Middlesex over highways and made ready for future development.

USED CAR OWNERS OUTNUMBER NEW BUYERS 20 TO 1

Says J. C. Beemer, of Beemer & Co., Limited

"Secondhand" Only Refers to Ownership, Not Condition

Every automobile that passed your home to-day is a used car, and you will be just as satisfied as the most enthusiastically satisfied of those drivers if you buy your used car from us.

Not only satisfied, but you'll be proud. When you tell your friends where you bought it, you won't have to apologize for buying it from us. Just answer Beemer & Co., Limited—and that settles it.

"Secondhand" only refers to its ownership and implies nothing as to its condition, but when you say "Beemer & Co., Limited," your friends will know it's a good car. It's "thirdhand" in fact—"secondhand" with us, "thirdhand" with you. And because it's passed through our hands, you'll deserve to be proud. Its pedigree is established.

Pride of ownership is the greatest joy of motoring. To be obliged to tell your friends that you dragged the car off some vacant lot or bought it "for a song" from some stranger takes the edge off your keen sense of pride.

If you buy it from some sidewalk vendor, who speaks one word for the car and two words for his commission, you'll still be in doubt, and when something happens, when you're out with friends, you'll apologize for your judgment.

But if you buy a used Reo from us you'll say, "Never mind, Beemer & Co. are behind it. They are reliable people."

You will not pay us more than it is worth—you won't pay a long bonus to buy it on time—and we will see to it that you won't go broke running it. We don't sell that kind.—Beemer & Co.

AUTOS NOW SHY AT VICTORIA PARK

Few Wend Their Way Through City's Breathing Spot.

The Public Utilities Commission, without exactly intending it, have closed Victoria Park to vehicular traffic, General Manager Buchanan stated to-day. Incidentally, the city solicitor is credited with a legal triumph in that the by-law framed by him meets the City Council's desire for a closed park, but at the same time leaves the beauty spot at least technically open.

Signs have been posted at all entrances to the park which, Mr. Buchanan states, effectually bars vehicular traffic. The "keep to the right" rule is the little joker in the by-law which closes Victoria just as effectually as if strict orders had been issued that "Tin Lizzies et al shall not pass!"

At the same time the park may be inspected by those casually desiring to see the flower beds by motor. This concession will be of value to invalids, it is believed, and constitute no menace to children at play.

It may also be pointed out that very few cars have made the grand tour of the flower beds. During the past week since the signs and penalties were posted only one car has been through the park.

PERSHING GOING TO LONDON ON SUNDAY

PARIS, Oct. 15. — Gen. John J. Pershing will leave on a special car for London on Sunday afternoon for the purpose of participating in the ceremony of presenting the congressional medal of honor to Great Britain's unknown warrior.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 15. Up pretty betimes and bathe myself with cold water, a thing I have not done for some time, owing to my influenza distemper and my chirurgeon advising me to use warm water. Which some hot water is responsible for most of our ills both physical and spiritual. For if all children were taught to delight in the tingling shock of water that has never seen a heating plant, methinks we would be better in health and there would be no cowards whatever. Which is one reason for the continued ascendancy of the British Empire. The English part of it, no matter where they go, North Pole or elsewhere, do take their cold baths and put on dress clothes for dinner. Which makes them feel so self-righteous and virtuous that they radiate these virtues, making plain, ignorant natives to believe in them, whether they have it or no. The Scotchmen also achieving the same effect with more affection by wearing kilts and vowing that they love their creosote tasting whisky.

The news is that our city clerk do at one time be a joint second with the King in a student fight. This because the city clerk is a featherweight champion of Wales or some such place. And it is the strangest thing how these Welsh people hobnob with all sorts of royalty the world over. Reminding he how I play with a Weishman not long since at poe-ker and methinks in the way he handles the kings and queens that he is no less than a grand duke in disguise himself. Which vexes me ($3.12).

Word from the association of teachers that men are likely, in the future, to be retired because of their mental and not their physical age. And if this plan goes into effect there will be the greatest retiring that ever was in the world, according to my wife, who holds that most men are hardly more than babes in mentality at the best, in which my Aunt Mary supports her, being a woman. But on some fair day in the future men and women both will be given high positions or retired depending alone on their honesty. For the number of highway robberies now being committed under color of law is enough to make a sober, honest man his hint to the penitentiaries for the purpose of associating with relatively righteous people.

Professor Stellum to our Admiralty Club last night and holds forth on the moon at some length. Pointing out that satellite of ours is the chief cause of sea tides and also for the tying of nuptial knots. "And do you think," asks Commodore Potts, "that this moon was one time inhabited?" "I do," the professor replies, "and undoubtedly by a great race of people. But I agree with a writer to the newspapers that the things we see on it now give evidence that it has been through a long, hard spell of free trade and came out loser!"

A fine thing is how how all ranks of citizens do rally to the support of our university, which now needs £50,000 for to go ahead as it should. And while we see our hopes fo a dam to the river dwindling away in the highest way, we be glad to relinquish this hope of civic happiness for the upbuilding of a college that will be a lighthouse for youth in this section of Ontario, guiding them away from the rocks of ignorance into the fair channel of opportunities rightly taken, and beyond the sea of life with ports of success and happiness for their final anchorage.

Word from Toronto how Rev. Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of New York, says: "I was once a good deal of a Socialist, and some of my friends thought I was a good deal of an ass—they were right!" A sturdy confession, good for his and our souls. The doctor no doubt learning that a Christian does not need to be a Socialist unless he would be a less thing. Christ was an absolute monarchist—witness his "render unto Caesar speech"—yet He was a brother to the whole world.

A strange thing is how there has been no report of trumpeters and buglers being murdered since the warr. Yet during that notable battling and killing methinks high threats were made against the whole army of them, which, if carried out, would have added greatly to our list of casualties. We change with years. The hates of yesterday being forgotten utterly, and anger cools with the cooling of the blood. First the Germans are forgiven, now the buglers, and methinks in a few years it will be safe for the wives of former veterans to serve so-called canned corn beef for wash day dinners.

Which reminds me of a good tale that Rev. Mr. Toorie tells at our club on a certain notable bishop who is a fine speaker, but woefully absent-minded. This bishop getting on the Huron & Bruce for to take a journey. Presently comes the conductor and the bishop unable to find his ticket anywhere. The conductor smiles at him, knowing his failing, and says: "That will be all right, your right reverence, even if you don't find it." "Thanks," the bishop replies, "but it is important that I do find it so I may know where I am going."

Another good story is how friends motoring from New York drop in for a short visit on people living in an apartment. Their particular object being a desire to see their friends' four-year-old daughter. Which daughter is mighty rumpled and dirty when they come, and the mother tells her cook woman to take emergency measures. "Take," she says, "Teresa into the bathroom and make her presentable as quickly as possible!" So she goes out to entertain her visitors. And presently through the small flat is heard the treble pipe of a childish voice, "Now, Thelma, company or no company, I won't have my face washed with spit!"

We conservative tories have for a long time cried out upon paternalism of all sorts, holding it to be the canker of a Government and the beginning of national degeneracy. But my grandfather points out a new evil threatening our land, which evil is materialism. "This materialism," he says, "is but distantly connected to that holiest of human services—motherhood. It is the poking and prying of many people that are mothers by proxy only. People that would raise all daughters to be spinsters' children and sons to be Little Lord Fauntleroys. Such materialism accounts for this crying out for curfew laws on children, the silly censoring of moveable pictures, while vaudevillians say what they please almost."

COST $1,000 TO PROSECUTE DIPS

Clarke and Conway Removed From Elgin Jail

BOTH IN GOOD HEALTH

Conway Asks That His Mother Be Notified

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Sentenced last night to three years in Kingston, on charges of pocket-picking, George Clarke and William Conway were to-day removed from the Elgin County jail to the penitentiary by Detectives New Chute, of Lakeview, and Walter Wardell, of Middlemarch. The prisoners left the city late this evening on the first lap of the journey. They were examined this morning at the county jail and declared by the jail physician, Dr. Kains, to be in perfect health. George Clarke, who also signed his name as George Woods at one time, gives his age as 38 years, and Conway claims to be 60. The latter asked that his mother be notified in Williamsville, N. Y. Clarke gave no instructions regarding his relatives.

According to B. B. Graham, county treasurer, it has cost Elgin County just $1,000 to complete the cases of the two alleged "dips."

The sergeants of the Elgin Regiment staged a very successful dance at the armories to-night. The floor was in fine shape and the decorations were very pleasing. A large number attended the affair.

The case of Fred J. Young, local representative of The London Free Press, charged with criminal libel, was again adjourned to-day owing to the illness of Crown Attorney McCrimmon. The adjournment is for one week.

CHIEF THOMPSON IS EXONERATED

Charges Against Windsor Police Head Fail

WINDSOR, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press)—After a session lasting until nearly midnight the Windsor police commission to-night announced that Chief of Police Daniel Thompson, charged by Ald. Frank Mitchell with "certain irregularities in connection with his official duties," had been completely exonerated. The allegations of Mitchell, the commission decided, had been utterly disproven as the result of the investigation. A complete report in writing will be made to the City Council soon, it was announced.

When asked to take the stand and repeat his charges Mitchell refused to do so, although challenged by R. L. Brackin, K. C., counsel for Chief Thompson, to make good any of his allegations of misconduct.

Several witnesses were called, but the evidence of none of these served to throw any light on the matter from the accuser's viewpoint, and the investigation, which had been heralded as full of "startling disclosures," flattened out completely. There was not a single "startling disclosure."

Counsel for Chief Thompson termed Mitchell "a petty grafter" among other things, and "dared" him to go on with the case. The hearing was open to the public and was largely attended.

GUARDED LIQUOR WITH SIX-SHOOTER

Citizen Afraid Valuable Cargo Might Be Stolen

ENGAGED REGULAR GUARD

Holidays Pass and Hootch Still Safe

"Qualified guardian of hootch. Is at liberty to accept immediate employment. Best of references."

Were it not for the innate modesty of a certain Londoner, the foregoing might now be appearing in the "Positions Wanted" columns of the daily press. Six months' experience in one of the best homes of the city commend him as one of the most efficient "hootch hounds" in the city. Moreover, he is strictly teetotal himself.

His latest occupation originated when a prominent citizen was about to leave on his summer vacation. During the winter and spring the citizen had installed an expensive irrigation system in his basement, and his fear that it might be tapped in his absence led to the employment of the most temperate man he could find.

ARMED WITH SIX-SHOOTER.

It is a matter of history that his first attempt to secure a guardian almost exhausted his patience and his supply of ambrosial nectar. Two men who had crossed their hearts that they had touched nary a drop in their life were discharged for drunkenness. Then came Herbert, a mild-mannered man, who admitted that he could wield a six-shooter in a way that would instill fear in the worst thief in the countryside.

He was given a try-out and found not wanting by his new employer. So it transpired that the latter gentleman left home, confident that only across the dead body of his new employee would his private stock be carried off. For six months the custodian guarded the booze as a tiger might guard its young. Not for a moment in the 24 hours of each day did he leave his sentry box or have his gun out of sight.

But now the man of the house has returned and poor Herbert is out of a job, and apparently no person wants to him, efficient as he has proved himself to be. To-day he is one of the newest recruits for the army of unemployed and may soon be forced to pawn his six-shooter for a decent meal.

CHARGED WITH MURDER

MONTREAL, Oct. 14. — Stanislas Tomachuk to-day was charged by a coroner's jury with the murder of Ononfre Batura and his wife last Friday in Lachine, who were found with their heads battered in by some blunt instrument. Tomachuk, who is on a hunger strike and is exceedingly weak, made no comment when later in the day he was arraigned on the charge before Judge Leet. He was remanded until October 21 for hearing.

CHILD KILED BY CAR

AURORA, Ont., Oct. 14. — Dorothy Rose, aged 8 years, daughter of William Rose, died this morning of injuries yesterday afternoon when she was struck by an automobile driven by Holmes Bourque, of Ford City.

To Relieve Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness And Head Noises

Persons suffering from catarrhal deafness, or who are growing hard of hearing and have head noises will be glad to know that this distressing affliction can usually be successfully treated at home by an internal medicine that in many instances has effected complete relief after other treatments have failed. Sufferers who could scarcely hear have had their hearing restored to such an extent that the tick of a watch was plainly audible seven or eight inches away from either ear. Therefore, if you know of someone who is troubled with head noises or catarrhal deafness, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you may have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. The prescription can be prepared at home and is made as follows:

Secure from your druggist 1 oz. Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

Parmint is used in this way not only to reduce by tonic action the inflammation and swelling in the eustachian tubes, and thus to equalize the air pressure on the drums, but to correct any excess of secretions in the middle ear, and the results it gives are nearly always quick and effective.

Every person who has catarrh in any form, or distressing rumbling, hissing sounds in their ears, should give this recipe a trial.—Advt.

Orient Champions Honored By Club

Players and Members Have Big Time at "Baseball Night"

The Orient Club baseball team members, champions of the Interclub League, were honored by the club members at a "baseball night," held in the clubrooms last evening. The affair was the most successful of its kind ever conducted by the club and more than 150 persons were in attendance.

Charles Martin, of the firm of Martin-Lyon Fuel Company, donors of the Interclub trophy, was present and presented the cup to President Erskine, of the Orients. The executive head replied in a suitable manner.

Ted Braund, the manager of the Orient baseball team, was congratulated upon providing a winning team. All the members received a miniature cup, with their names inscribed.

A musical program was presented by "Dago" Henry, "Siz" Hamilton, R. Sage, F. Tucker and Fred Refoir. "Siz" Hunt's "The Goofus Bird" was one of the features of the night, and Fred Refoir, disguised as "Razor Jim," also provided numerous laughs.

Representatives from the Manhattan Club and also the Alert Club were the guests of the Orients and many of the honorary members of the club were in attendance.

The following committee members were in charge of the affair: George Erskine, J. Fraser, H. J. Hamilton, H. Down, J. Burgess, H. Gillies and T. Braund.

BUILDING PERMITS. — October's building permits to-day stand at $87,690, and the year's total is $2,132,335. Thomas Parker is building a stucco cottage on Beaconsfield avenue to cost $4,200; R. S. Edgecombe is erecting a brick garage on York street to cost $3,100.

AT FIRST CHURCH—Rev. Dr. Sparling, pastor, will preach on Sunday morning on "The Church and the Kingdom of God," and in the evening on "Not Disobedient to the Heavenly Vision." The Brotherhood at 10 o'clock will have discussion on the Friday night meeting of the Methodist council regarding an ecclesiastical census of the city.

SUING FOR $1,058.32.—M. P. McDonagh, acting for Elizabeth V. Abell, has issued a writ in the supreme court here against Edward Dent and Frederick W. Raymond for $1,058.32, which the plaintiff claims is due her upon the purchase money of certain lands on Craig street. The plaintiff claims a lien upon the lands and the right to inforce the lien by sale of the lands.

LIGHT POLICE COURT.—There were only three names on the police court blotter this morning. It was the lightest session of the court for several weeks. A drunk decided not to argue the case and paid the usual $10 and costs before court convened. An alleged infraction of the health act and of the city parking by-law completed the cases set down for the Saturday sitting.

ANGLICANS TO CONSULT OTHERS

Negotiating Committee on Union Gets Instructions

SYNOD IS LAST COURT

Proposals Will Be Finally Passed Upon There

HAMILTON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Procedure to be followed by the new joint union committee of the Church of England in Canada in its negotiations with other church bodies was decided upon to-day by the General Synod. The representation of the lower house has been increased, the bishops have been authorized on the ground that the main committee was too unwieldy to permit of the easy exercise of its duties. Following a protest raised by delegates from the outlying northwestern dioceses 11 additional members were appointed to represent the dioceses of Yukon, MacKenzie River, Keewatin, Athabasca, Caledonia and Caribou. As the committee now stands it consists of 88 members, four archbishops, 19 bishops, 33 clergy and 32 laymen.

SYNOD'S INSTRUCTIONS.

In a message, which was concurred in by the lower house this afternoon, the bishops state that they consider the committee should be a large and fully representative one, acting through an executive. The duties of the latter are outlined as follows:

"And, further, this house charges the executive with the duty of carrying on official negotiations with any other committee appointed officially to confer with the Church of England in Canada upon the subject of reunion, upon lines that are in harmony with the principles of the Lambeth appeal and resolutions as adopted by this General Synod, of reporting from time to time a synopsis of its proceedings to all members of the committee and to report in full to a meeting or meetings of the whole committee before any final decisions are adopted or any report presented to the General Synod."

The 11 additional members appointed by the lower house to represent the outlying dioceses are as follows: Ven. Archdeacon White, Chancellor A. U. G. Bury, Athabasca; Ven. Archdeacon Whittaker, MacKenzie River; Rev. Canon Lofthouse, J. A. Kenney, Keewatin; Rev. A. J. Davis, Chief Justice Mathers, Yukon; Rev. Canon Rix, R. L. McIntosh, Caledonia; Ven. Archdeacon Pugh and G. S. Holt, Caribou.

SECULAR EMPLOYMENT.

That a clergyman should not lose his orders for a temporary indiscretion without very great consideration, was the plea of Rev. Dr. Renison at this morning's session of the synod, re the canon on the abandonment of the ministry, or the communion of the church.

Dr. Renison moved for the striking out of the clause, which set forth that a clergyman, without availing himself of the provisions of a certain canon shall engage in secular employment without the written consent of the bishop of the diocese, and who shall cease to exercise his functions under the license of his bishop, renounces the ministry.

E. J. Fream, a Western layman, stood firm for the retention of the clause, pointing out that through the West clergymen, who had forsaken the ministry, used the fact of their consecration as a sort of side line to help them sell merchandise for which they were agents.

SHORTAGE OF WESTERN COAL IS POSSIBLE

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—Analysis of the coal situation in the Western Provinces by F. E. Harrison, Calgary, an official of the federal department of labor, indicates the possibility of a serious shortage in the available supply of coal during the coming winter, according to a statement contained in the forthcoming issue of The Labor Gazette.

It is claimed by the operators in the Western mining districts that no permanent reduction can be made in the price of coal until the expiration of the present wage agreement on March 31, 1922.

DEAFNESS BOOK FREE

METHOD OF HOME TREATMENT EXPLAINED.

An exceedingly interesting new book that tells about Deafness and how it can be treated right in your own home is being given away absolutely free of charge by its author, an Ear Specialist, favorably known for his Method of Home Treatment for Ear Troubles.

This book should be read with interest by every one with failing hearing, for it contains information in regard to a Method of treating Deafness at Home, without any pain, absence from your daily work, or inconvenience.

Deafness Specialist Sproule (Graduate in Medicine and Surgery, Dublin University, Ireland, formerly Surgeon British Royal Mail Navy Service) who wrote the book, has for thirty-five years been studying and treating Deafness. The hearty sympathy and friendliness which he and his co-workers feel for all sufferers from this affliction, is clearly expressed in its pages.

From cover to cover this excellent book is full of help and knowledge that many deaf persons need. It explains about the formation of the ear, why the deaf cannot hear, some of the diseases that cause Deafness, and the reasons for ringing, buzzing noises in the head and ears. It shows just how the passages of the ear get all blocked up and how the delicate inside parts get out of order. Best of all, however, it points out how Deafness and Head Noises can be treated at home by this method.

If you are deaf—if your hearing is failing, or if you suffer from head or ear noises, don't make the mistake of neglecting such troubles.

WRITE FOR THIS BOOK TO-DAY

And read it through carefully from beginning to end. It will give you, without any expense whatever, some information you should have at once in regard to Deafness. Remember, this book is yours, just for the asking, and it's well worth asking for. All you need to do is to write your full name and address plainly on the dotted lines, cut out the free Coupon and mail to

NEWLY NAMED JUDGE FORMER LONDON MAN

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—John Tytler, K. C., whose appointment to a junior judgeship in York County is announced from Ottawa, has been for 35 years a citizen of Toronto and for a considerable portion of the time senior member of the law firm of Tytler & Tytler. His appointment, it is understood, is the first of two additions to be made. Four judges—Judge Coatesworth, Judge Denton, Judge Morrison and Judge Widdifield—have been doing the work of the county court, but the number is to be raised to six, because of the present work. Mr. Tytler originally is from London, Ont.

PLANS SOON FOR TECH EXTENSION

Subcommittee Named to Decide on Architect

ASK TENDERS THIS YEAR

Auditorium, Gymnasium, West Wing Extension

The technical and commercial advisory committee of the London Technical and Arts High School met last night in special session to discuss plans for extending the school, which include the building of an auditorium and gymnasium and the extension of the west wing to provide more academic classrooms.

The committee decided to go ahead with preliminary plans and will first determine whether the proposed work can be best carried out by the Board of Education architect or by securing outside architectural advice.

A subcommittee, consisting of Chairman Thomas Rowe, Trustee Hayman, A. E. Silverwood and Principal H. B. Neal, was appointed to go into the matter. The subcommittee will report back to the parent body within a few days.

In any event it is expected that plans and specifications for the additions will be prepared within a month and that tenders will be called before the expiration of the year.

ONLY ONE CHANCE TO SECURE HEAT

Immediate Action Must Be Taken by Chatham Men

LIVELY ROW AT BLENHEIM

Wife, Mother-in-Law, Chief of Police Nursing Wounds

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—Only immediate action on the part of the heat consumers in signing up for contracts at an increased rate can insure the operation of the steam heating plant this year, according to a statement issued to-day by J. G. Kerr, one of the directors of the company. Mr. Kerr states that the consumers were warned in plenty of time to make arrangements for heat this year, and that the position of the directors is definite. He also states that the company is willing to hand over the plant to any man or set of men who wish to tackle the proposition. To-day it would not seem as if the company and the consumers were any nearer a solution of the heat problem in Chatham.

The Kent Motor Club, of this city, is contemplating another campaign for membership, and the plans will be further discussed at the next meeting of the club. It is intended to make it one of the strongest clubs in the country.

A REGULAR BATTLE.

As a result of a row in Blenheim last night Maxwell McLeod, of that place, has six charges laid against him, and his wife and his mother-in-law and the Blenheim chief of police are all nursing wounds inflicted, it is alleged, by McLeod. The mother-in-law is about 70 years of age. McLeod is now charged with assault and with having liquor. He came up in the Blenheim police court and was remanded to jail for a week.

The representatives of Marwick Mitchell & Co., auditors, arrived in the city to-day for the purpose of completing the audit of the books of the Union Gas Company. This is the audit which the Ontario Government promised to complete for the Municipal Gas Consumers' Association.

Rev. Father J. V. Gnam has arrived from Engersoll to take over his new pastorate at St. Joseph's Church, in Chatham. He has left Ingersoll after 11 years' pastorate there.

A GREAT IMPROVEMENT.

Fire prevention week in Chatham is proving to be a big success this year. Special efforts are being taken to induce citizens to clean up their premises and to take ordinary precautions against the starting of fires. Fire Chief Pritchard announces that already there has been a great improvement in the city. The garbage collectors have had their duties greatly increased, and the literature which has been distributed throughout the city is of a kind to make people more careful in this regard.

The following telegram, which has been received from Mrs. Will A. Stevens, of Calgary, gives some information which throws light upon the death of her husband, recorded in the press a few days ago:

"Will went duck shooting to Chertermore Lake on Friday afternoon, expecting to return the same evening. I became alarmed on Saturday and phoned friends and the office. The search commenced on Sunday and was kept up all day and night until Tuesday. The police, mounties and friends covered the province but could not find the car. On Tuesday night a man phoned Mr. Dunbar, saying the car was out at Chertermore Lake with clothes and gun. Will always swam for ducks. The lake was dragged all day and night, and was dynamited at night. The body has not yet been recovered. The water is black and weedy."

The telegram was received by Harry Stevens, of this city, brother of the unfortunate man, and was sent from Calgary yesterday.

NELSON DAUPHIN DEAD.

Death removed one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of the county late yesterday afternoon, in the person of Nelson Dauphin, aged 75 years, who passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Richard Moore, 211 St. Clair street.

The late Mr. Dauphin had been in failing health during the past year and death was not altogether unexpected, but came as a severe blow to surviving relatives and friends. For the greater part of his life the deceased had been a successful farmer of the River road, Tilbury, and had many friends by his friendly manner and pleasing personality. He was a devout member of St. Joseph's Church.

Surviving, besides his widow, are four daughters, Mrs. C. F. Ouellette, Walkerburg; Mrs. Wilfrid Charbonneau, Hailebury; Mrs. Richard Moore and Mrs. Lawrence Putman, city; two sons, Sylvester, of Detroit, and Stanley, at home. One sister, Mrs. Homer Des Jardine, of Dover, also survives.

The funeral will be held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Moore, St. Clair street, on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, to St. Joseph's Church at 9.30. Interment will be made in St. Anthony's Cemetery.

At the instigation of Mayor Brisco, a meeting of the manufacturers of the city who are interested in the use of natural gas for industrial purposes, was held last evening in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. There were about 15 manufacturers present and it was decided to ask Gas Commissioner Harkness to come to the city to conduct an investigation of local conditions.

It has been intimated to Mayor Brisco that in special cases the commissioner is willing to allow gas in small quantities to be used for industrial purposes, and there are a large number of the local manufacturers who are interested in the announcement. These concessions will only be given in cases where they are absolutely necessary to keep factories in operation and thus provide work for the men of the city. No permission will be given for gas to be used under boilers, but it may be possible to use it in small stoves and furnaces, and for providing heat for welding and the sharpening of tools.

TELL CONVENTION OF CHURCH WAR

Rev. T. T. Shields to Give Facts at St. Thomas Next Week

UNIVERSITY IS ATTACKED

Says Professor Worked to Destroy Baptist Fundamentals

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—Having announced that he would tell to-night the inside history of his war with a portion of his congregation, Rev. T. T. Shields, of Jarvis Street Baptist Church, drew almost a record congregation, but the sensation that many had anticipated did not materialize. Mr. Shields spoke for about three hours and reviewed some phases of the trouble already made public, emphasizing chiefly his contention that his preaching against worldliness had offended many of his flock. He announced, however, that he would present the whole matter for the consideration of the Baptist convention in St. Thomas next week.

Mr. Shields broke new ground, however, in his attack to-night on McMaster University. The early history of this institution, he said, had been most creditable. But in time there was introduced a new element in the form of a professor, namely I. G. Massey, whose teaching and influence had worked to destroy the very foundations of the Baptist denomination.

The movement of modernism, he declared, had gained followers among the younger students or among those "superficial and shallow creatures who are the most easy to influence" until "self-satisfied modern theologians" had done much to thwart the advance of the denomination.

WINDSOR CLUB HAS SURPLUS OF $25,118

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A total of $4,363,057 was wagered at the August meeting of the Windsor Jockey Club, according to returns which have been made to the provincial treasurer. Of the total amount wagered the rake-off by the Windsor Jockey Club is three per cent. On the operations end the track accordingly showed a profit of $25,118.08, this being the surplus of receipts over and above expenditures.

DRURY SIGNED ORDER, BUT DIDN'T KNOW IT

Premier Makes Halford Appointment and Announces That it Was Deferred.

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press).—If Premier Drury signed checks the way he apparently signs orders-in-council, poverty would be soon staring him in the face. On Thursday evening Mr. Drury informed The Free Press that the appointment of Mr. Halford, of Hamilton, as a member of the Workmen's Compensation Board, had not been passed by council, though it was intimated that it would be made early next week. But to-day it was admitted that not only had council passed the Halford appointment on Thursday, but that Mr. Drury had actually signed the order-in-council himself. The only explanation offered by the premier's office, Mr. Drury being home at Crown Hill, was that probably Mr. Drury was out of council when the order was passed, and had signed the order among a number of others without looking at it.

WARDEN WALLACE TO RUN IN WEST YORK

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The Telegram this evening prints a story from Woodbridge to the effect that Len. Wallace, warden of York County and brother of the late Tom Wallace, M. P. for West York, will run as an Independent Conservative candidate in West York. Len. Wallace was a candidate for the regular Conservative nomination, held on September 3, but he was nosed out by A. J. Anderson, a West Toronto lawyer and former Liberal. Some of the Wallace followers charged that the convention had been "packed" by the Anderson group and they left the meeting before the vote was taken.

A committee of Conservatives announced Mr. Wallace's candidacy.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup
Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a 16-oz bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

In the Nation's Service

The Life Insurance Companies believe in Canada's future. They are assisting in the building of that future. They have loaned to the Governments and municipalities throughout the country one-half of their entire assets, or approximately three hundred million dollars.

This money is building schools, roads, drains, sewers, bridges, public buildings; providing hospitals, asylums, welfare institutions; establishing justice, law and order, and defraying the cost of the war and of carrying on the Government.

When thinking of your life insurance you can do so with pride and satisfaction, because it "serves as it waits." While protecting your family and your business interests, it is working for a better Canada.

BANQUET TO PERSHING PLANNED FOR MONDAY

British to Extend Courtesies to United States General Who Comes on Mission.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—A Government banquet on Monday night, at which Sir Laming Worthington Evans, war secretary, will preside, will be among the courtesies tendered Gen. Pershing when he comes to London to decorate the grave of the "unknown British warrior" in Westminster Abbey on Monday morning.

Gen. Pershing will arrive at Folkestone on Sunday night, where a British general will meet and escort him to London.

Gen. Pershing will stay in the United States embassy here during his visit and will return to Paris on Tuesday morning. The British authorities have not as yet been informed as to whether United States troops will accompany Gen. Pershing.

An impressive ceremony has been arranged to take place in Westminster Abbey at 11.30 o'clock on Monday morning.

Formosan Belles Want a Change in National Custom

INSIST ON OWN CHOICE

Educated Girl Will Bring From $750 to $1,000

TAIWAN, Formosa, Oct. 14.—The world movement for woman's emancipation has struck Fosmosa at a time when the high cost of wives is being felt severely. The women, who are mostly of the Chinese race, are demanding the abolition of the system of engagement money which is paid by their suitors when the marriage contract is made declaring that the payment of money to their parents is an insult to their dignity and position as free-born women.

A young woman of education, a graduate from a girls' school, commands as much as 1,500 to 2,000 yen ($750 to $1,000) as engagement money, and such a sum is a very desirable addition to the family fortune these days. But these girls refuse to consider themselves live stock and decline marriage without personal consent and with a bridegroom of decent appearance and efficient education.

Most Formosan marriages are arranged on the basis of the engagement money and the bride-to-be has little to say about the matter

There are young women who insist that the trouble with engagement money is that it is too high and desirable suitors are often kept away because they cannot pay the price demanded. There is much in this argument which appeals to Formosan women and a certain number of the less modern women are demanding that engagement money be radically reduced to a point where matrimony will be easier of accomplishment for them.

The Formosans are polygamists. But the modern tendency is to remain satisfied with only one wife. And it is said that if engagement money does not decrease soon the habit of plural marriages will decrease, too, because very few men can afford to purchase more than one wife at the present high prices

FORGED LETTERS FROM RUSSIA INDUCED MEN TO LEAVE COLONIES

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—How the Bolsheviki forged letters to settlers in the British dominions inducing them to go to Russia, is narrated by a number of Dominion refugees who have returned to England. One of these, Henry Buxman, of Winnipeg, stated that letters received by him set forth that Russia was a land flowing with milk and honey. He went to Russia, thinking to make good, but found the letters were forgeries. Letters to his friends had been stopped on the borders of Russia by the Bolsheviki and rewritten.

WHOLE BOATLOAD OF MISSIONARIES TO GO TO INDIA FOR THE ARMY

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Salvation Army has chartered a special vessel as a transport to convey its next expedition of missionaries to India. This party of missionaries will be the largest the Army has ever sent to India. The ship will sail under the British Salvation Army flag.

DR. CHAMBERS FOUND BY FOUR DRUGGISTS

FORT WILLIAM, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Four Ft. William druggists, A. H. Griffis, W. J. Wood, F. Spence and J. B. Hardy, claim to have been the first to discover Dr. Graham Chambers on Wednesday afternoon, leaning against an improvised teepe made of one log leaning against another. He had become so weak that he had to crawl on hands and knees to the lake front, where he kept himself alive by sucking water through a reed, as he lay on his side by the water's edge. He had a partridge which he had shot, but had not been able to bring himself to eat it raw.

The search for Dr. Chambers is estimated to have cost about $2,000, and 15 persons were engaged in it from first to last.

BUSINESS IS GOOD, SAYS MR. T. H. YULL

President of Federal Advertising Agency Says Conditions Improving; Opens New Branch.

In announcing the opening of an office of the Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, in Hamilton, Ont., Mr. T. H. Yull, president of the company, states that in his opinion this expansion merely anticipates the general prosperity which will shortly return throughout Canada.

"Advertising," he says, "usually feels the impetus of bettering conditions months in advance of general business, and if the recent increase in our business is taken as an indication the Dominion will soon witness a remarkable reversion to the prosperity which is its normal possession.'

The Federal Advertising Agency, Limited, is one of the newer Canadian agencies and has had a rapid growth. It has recently doubled its floor space in the London office, installed its own private telephone switchboard and separate offices for its executive, fitted with every convenience for the dispatch of modern business.

Founded in 1915, the business conducted alone by Mr. Yull in the first few months, now employs a large staff of men and women, including an art department, copy writers, space-buying experts, merchandising men and others serving some 40 clients in many different lines of endeavor.

The new Hamilton office will be located in the Landed Banking and Loan Building, and will be in charge of Mr. S. P. Westaway, who left the Standard Oil Company to join the Federal forces. Mr. Westaway is a man of long advertising and merchandising experience, whose knowledge of administering very large appropriations over extensive territory will prove extremely valuable to present and future clients of the agency.

Other executives of the Federal Advertising Agency are Mr. T. E. Walsh, recently made secretary of the company, and who has been with the firm for two years. Mr. Walsh's wide experience in newspaper work both in Canada and the United States enables him to render unusual service to clients.

Mr. Vincent G. Perry, the well-known short story writer—has charge of the copy department and is a strong link in the service chain of the agency.

Mr. George Yull, in charge of production and forwarding, keeps that important department moving smoothly and efficiently. Mr. Wilfred F. Slack, who handles the art department, is responsible for the strong pictorial appeal in Federal copy and is a competent artist in every technique known to modern commercial illustrating.

The Federal people are on the right track in rendering unusual service to clients, having in mind the eternal truth of the well-known Rotarian adage—"He profits most who serves best.'

1,200 GIRLS AND WOMEN WOULD BE MISSIONARIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—More than 1,200 girls and women recently have applied for appointments as foreign missionaries, according to Miss Mabelle Rae McVeigh, candidate secretary of the Woman's American Baptist Foreign Mission Society. Ages of applicants, Miss McVeigh said, range from 14 to 45.

"Probably one reason for the astonishing increase in the number of applicants,' 'Miss McVeigh said, "is the fact that the war has made the world seem smaller, so that foreign lands no longer seem as distant as they formerly did."

MAY LET BRIAND GO.

PARIS, Oct. 14.—The announcement in London that Mr. Lloyd George intends to be present at the Washington conference on limitations of armaments and Far Eastern questions is regarded in political circles here as weakening the opposition to Premier Briand's absence from France on that occasion, although several members of the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies are said to be opposed to his going.

FREIGHT CARS IDLE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—Idle freight cars on United States railroads numbered 375,370 on October 1; 39,328 less than on September 23, and materially less than on any recent reporting date, according to a report to-day by the Association of Railway Executives. Of the total surplus cars 202,050 were in need of repair.

FOUND NOT GUILTY.

WINDSOR, Oct. 14.—Harsin Dyshlwy, a Russian, of Ford, on trial at Sandwich for attempting to shoot Mrs. Rose Samlovich and Sam Swan, in May last, was declared not guilty by a jury this afternoon.

Dyshlwn was found in the Swan home in a badly battered condition, with two pistols in his possession, following a fight in which Mrs. Samlovitch and Swan opposed Dyshlwy. Witnesses said Dyshlwy had been living with the woman as her husband in Toronto, but she left him and went to live with Swan when Dyshlwy was imprisoned on a liquor charge.

BRANTFORD LABOR.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 14.—Several prospective nominees for the December election came before a meeting of the Brantford Labor party to-night. Earl Biggar, indorsed two weeks ago, was not present, and has not given a decided answer to the Labor party's offer. M. M. MacBride, M.P.P., has also been offered the nomination, but it was decided that a public meeting be held shortly to complete arrangements for the federal fight.

BAPTISTS OPEN BIG CONVENTION

Intercessional Services Feature of First Day

EXPECT 700 DELEGATES

Many Interesting Subjects to Be Considered

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—(By Staff Reporter)—If the opening ceremonies and early registration can be taken as a criterion, then the 33rd annual convention of the Ontalo-Quebec Baptists, being held in Center Street Church here, has every promise of being the most important ecclesiastical gathering, not only in the history of the city, but the Baptist church. The greater part of to-day was given over to registration of delegates, and the committee in charge have a huge task on their hands, but although the attendance is expected to be much larger than was at first anticipated, it is not expected that much difficulty will be experienced in billeting the visitors. It is expected that by Sunday next all the delegates will be in attendance. Special services in all city churches will feature the Sabbath day part of the gathering, while the real business sessions will begin on Monday morning.

In view of the fact that Center Street Church may be too small for the accommodation of the large number of delegates expected, Knox Presbyterian Church congregation have very kindly offered the use of the church parlors for the more important executive gatherings. The convention is to last eight days and a number of important questions will be considered during that time.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

To-day's gathering opened with an intercessional service at 2 o'clock, after which an interesting address was delivered by Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, M.A., D.D., of Montreal, who has the distinction of having attended the last convention held in this city some 27 years ago. The speaker declared, in his opening remarks this afternoon, that God demands that His servants, and those who would preach His doctrine, make their deeds as noble as their doctrine. A large portion of the world to-day was inclined to make light of God's morality, but God would not be satisfied with a mere sham. He would not be satisfied with a people who merely "seemed" to worship Him.

"My life must be as good as my beliefs, and I must put into practice the very doctrine that I teach or my teachings are worthless," declared the speaker. "And let me tell you, friends, I can write a good deal more after those words: 'I believe' than I could when last in this city some 27 years ago. I know Christ better now than I did then."

A song service, followed by intercession, and a brief address by S. J. Moore, of Toron closed the evening gathering to-night, which was attended by one of the largest congregations on record. The convention continues to-morrow morning at 9.15, when Rev. O. C. S. Wallace will again deliver an address, which will be followed by an intercessional service; adjournment for luncheon, and a conference and intercession in the afternoon. There will be no evening meeting to-morrow.

CONVENTION SERMON.

On Sunday the convention sermon will be delivered at the morning service at Center Street Church by Rev. W. T. Graham, D.D., of Toronto, his subject being "The Baptist Position From the Viewpoint of the Baptistery." In the afternoon addresses will be delivered to the young people by Rev. George W. McDaniel and Professor Frederick Tracy, Ph.D., Toronto, on "Religious Education for the Young People." Rev. George W. McDaniel will preach at the evening service.

On Monday Rev. N. S. McKechnie will have charge of the opening exercises. New pastors in the district will be introduced to the conference and an address on "The Minister's Inner Life" will be delivered by Rev. A. Carr, of Brantford.

Delegates are arriving from all parts of the two provinces, while a large number of interested visitors from other parts of the Dominion and the United States are arriving to participate in the meetings and join in what promises to be one of the biggest conventions in history. Rev. J. R. Turnbull, pastor of Center Street Church, declared to-night that he expected about 700 delegates to attend the gathering. Early predictions placed the number at 500.

TWO HURT WHEN SCAFFOLD GIVES WAY

HENSALL, Oct. 14.—The continued wet weather has delayed outside work very much and both farmers and villagers are longing for some fine dry weather to get in roots and garden stuff.

Tuesday Dr. Peck received an emergency call, which he responded to in record time, traveling at the rate of a mile a minute. His brother, Bert, of the Township of Stanley, about 12 miles from here, was having a 40-feet high silo built and was working on it with a couple of other men at a height of 30 feet when, owing to the wet weather, the scafford slipped from its bearings causing Mr. Peck and Harold Bell, who was working with him, to fall heavily to the ground. Mr. Peck received injury to his chest as well as having some ribs broken and his face scratched, while Mr. Bell had his arm broken and other minor injuries. Dr. Peck, accompanied by Miss Dora Sheritt, trained nurse, gave the injured every attention.

A field day for the high school students will be held on the park or recreation grounds here on Friday, October 21, and promises to be quite an interesting event in the way of sports and games and for which a number of prizes are being provided.

Anniversary services of the Hensall Methodist Church will be held on Sunday, October 16, at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Rev. G. Clifton, B.A., of Lucan, will have charge of the services and special music will be rendered by the choir. There will be no service at Chiselhurst on Sunday on account of the anniversary services at Hensall.

LODGE INSTITUTED

STRATFORD, Oct. 14.—A lodge of the Loyal Order of Moose has been instituted and upwards of 40 candidates initiated. A degree team, from Toronto, assisted by several members of the Kitchener Lodge, conferred the work in an excellent manner.

Following the initiatory degree the following officers were elected and duly installed: Past dictator, W. S. Carter; dictator, L. J. Long; vice-dictator, R. F. Carson; prelate, E. W. Tobin; secretary, B. C. Hunt; treasurer, W. F. Nickel; sergeant-at-arms, Lorne Ubelacker; inner guard, W. Donaldson; outer guard, E. W. Kneitl; trustees, C. A. Moore, S. R. McConkey, L. E. Doherty; orator, W. Reynolds.

OFFICERS ELECTED

WARDSVILLE, Oct. 14.—The A.Y.P.A. of the Anglican church, reorganized this work with officers as follows: President, A. Skidd; vice-president, Howard Willis; secretary, Miss Ara Weer; treasurer, James O'Hara; program committee, Mrs. Henderson and Miss Blott.

PUBLISHERS DISCUSS NEWSPAPER BUSINESS

PALMERSTON, Oct. 14.—About 50 publishers of weekly newspapers met here to-day at one of the most enthusiastic conventions ever held in Western Ontario. The publishers represented the counties of Bruce, Huron, Dufferin, Grey, Perth, Waterloo, Wellington and Wentworth.

Various topics relating to publishing a weekly newspaper were discussed. The $2 subscription rate was a subject which called forth long discussion. J. C. Templin, of The Fergus News Record, president of the Wellington County Publishers' Association, was chairman of the convention. D. Roy Sales, manager of the C.W.N.A., gave an interesting address on the cost system. Those present were Messrs. Hunter, Kircardine; McKenzie, Lucknow; Johnston, Mildmay; McKenzie, Paisley; Short, Southampton; Brown, Teeswater; VanDusen, Tara; Lorne Eedy, Walkerton Telescope; J. Wesley, Walkerton Herald; Logan, Wiarton; W. Logan Craig, Grand Valley; B. McQuire, Orangeville; Claridge, Shelbourne; Londonsborough, Shelbourne; McIntyre, Dundas; Widmeyer, Ayton, Irwin, Durham Chronicle; Rammage, Durham Review; Kerr, Brussels; McQuarry, Goderich; Vanatter, Goderich; Smith, Wingham Advance; Colgate, Wingham Times; Blatchford, Listowel; McBeth, Milverton; Hudson, Hespeler, Rafter, Arthur; Aitchinson, Clifford; Mills, Elora; Templin, Fergus; Wright, Mount Forest; Shibley, Palmerston; Moore, Dundas.

GALT'S POPULATION IS DECLARED TO BE 13,332

GALT, Oct. 14.—Assessor Jesse Welland to-day completed his returns for 1921, which show the city's population at 13,332 mark, an increase of 240 over 1920, with every ward figuring in the increase. Census returns made public on August 17 gave Galt's population on June 1 as 13,210. There are no empty houses in Galt, in fact, accommodation is so scarce that many houses shelter two families, and some even three and four.

The city's total assessment has now reached $12,874,385, while the total taxable assessment is $10,822,020. All items of importance in the assessor's returns show increases.

ALIENISTS FOR MRS. BRICKEL.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 14.—Attorneys for Mrs. Mary Brickel, 69, under indictment for first degree murder in connection with the death of Daniel Kaber, whose case is set for October 31, have applied to the county commissioner for funds to employ alienists to examine into the woman's sanity. She is the mother of Mrs. Eva Katherine Kaber.

MATCH COMPANIES PLAN NEW CANADIAN FACTORY

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The Maguire, Patterson & Palmer Co., of Canada, which manufactured matches in England, Ireland and Canada, and the Diamond Match Company, of the United States, together with Bryant & May, Limited, of Great Britain and the British Colonies, have joined with prominent Canadian capitalists and match makers in the foundation of a new Canadian match company. The site of the new factory is at Pembroke, Ont.

REV. J. C. ROBINSON IS INDUCTED AT WYOMING

WYOMING, Oct. 14.—A large attendance of the Wyoming and Plympton town line attended the induction service of their pastor, Rev. J. C. Robinson, of Tiverton, at the Presbyterian church yesterday. Rev. M. Hall, Sarnia, the moderator, presided. Addresses were delivered by visiting clergy after which lunch was served.

VICIOUS PESTS

WHEATLEY, Oct. 14.—Rats continue to be very troublesome in town in spite of traps and poison. While asleep one night this week a child was quite badly bitten on the ear and toe by a rat. Very few basements but what have had rats and mice this fall.

HECLA PIPELESS FURNACE

At Last! Modern Laundry Service ---At a Price for Every Purse

This is the most important announcement ever made by THE PARISIAN LAUNDRY---in many ways the most important ever addressed to local housewives. At last every home in London can afford the services of a modern sanitary, efficient laundry. Think what this means! Washing in the homes of those of moderate means as well as those of the well-to-do, will become a thing of the past. The messy washerwoman, interfering with the general routine, getting in everybody's way, and gayly eating you out of house and home, will now go and, along with her, the new-fangled devices that need constant "nursing" and increase the already too high gas and electric bills. Under this new Parisian Plan a vast majority of the 14,000 homes in London can now afford the "luxury" of laundry service and yet save money.

Study the Following Plans for Family Service

FINISHED FAMILY WASHING
Entire family washing finished ready to wear (no starch). Minimum charge, 10 POUNDS..... $1.50
Excess wearing apparel, finished, 15c per lb.; flat, 9c per lb.

SEMI-FINISH FAMILY WASHING
Flat work all ironed. Pieces that require starch we starch, balance folded neatly. Minimum charge, 10 POUNDS FOR..... $1.00
Excess, 9c per pound.

ECONOMY WASH
Entire family washing, all machine ironed (no starch). Minimum charge, 15 POUNDS..... $1.50
Excess, 9c per pound.

FAMILY FLAT WORK
Bed linen, table linen and all flat pieces. Minimum charge, 10 pounds for..... $1.00
Excess, 9c per pound.

WET WASH FAMILY SERVICE

80% of the moisture extracted and returned to you to dry and finish.

We have been requested to give the public this service. We are nowprepared to give it to you.....15 pounds for 75c
Excess.....5c per lb.

Under our Wet Wash Plan we cannot handle silks, fine flannels, wool or embroidered articles, nor colors that you know will run or fade. This work must be sent to us in bags, for which a charge of 50 cents is made, and which we refund you on the return of the bag.

Starched Collars, Pleated and Stiff Bosom Shirts are not accepted under the above plans, but are charged on our regular service.

The minimum charges that have been placed on all the above different services are based on each family washing being washed and handled separately and distinctly cleansed in gently revolving cylinders through creamy suds, and gallons and gallons of soft water.

THERE ARE NO MARKS OF ANY KIND PLACED ON YOUR WASHING

A SUPERIOR SERVICE AT A REASONABLE PRICE FOR EVERYONE

All bundles must be accompanied by customer's lists, otherwise our count must be accepted

We are primarily a laundry executing in the very best fashion all the so-called standard laundry services in addition to conducting Dry Cleaning, Dyeing and Rug Cleaning. Departments excelled by none. Somehow and some way The Parisian Laundry should be your laundry. One of our service wagons is in your neighborhood regularly, and we hope soon to make your acquaintance.

A Lawless World

It is said that the late Prince Bismarck some time before his death asserted that the modern European civilization existed over a volcano and that no one could predict the moment when the eruption would take place. Years before that volcano burst into action in the world war every prime minister of Europe had practically affirmed the truth of Bismarck's words. The volcano certainly erupted, and has buried, for the time being at least, many noble things in our civilization as well as some things ignoble. One of the things temporarily buried is the spirit of obedience to law. We are suffering to-day an unprecedented revolt against the spirit of authority. In a large measure, at least, we are living in a lawless world.

In a most informing speech recently delivered before the American Bar Association the Solicitor-General of the United States gave facts and figures which are most convincing, and what applies to the country to the south applies in a more or less degree to other countries. He points out that criminal indictments have increased from 9,503 in the year 1912 to over 70,000 in the year 1921. The increase is not all due to the prohibitory laws by any means. Only 30,000 of the 70,000 are due to the prohibitory laws. He also points out that losses sustained by casualty companies due to burglary have grown from $886,000 in 1914 to $10,000,000 in 1920. So bold and frequent have been train robberies that the international expresses in Europe are run under military guard. This dire disrespect for law is not confined to autocratic countries, but is as rampant among the great democratic peoples of the earth. Another sentence of the solicitor-general's speech reads: "The streets of our cities, once reasonably secure from crimes of violence, have now become the field of operations for the footpad and the highwayman. The days of Dick Turpin and Jack Shepherd have returned, with this serious difference that the Turpins and Shepherds of our day are not dependent upon the horse, but have the powerful automobile to facilitate their crimes and make sure their escape."

In seeking the cause for such a spirit of lawlessness it is very easy for people to dismiss it by saying: "It is but the reaction of the Great War." That is not a sufficient answer. The real causes go even beyond that. In fact, much of the spirit that brought on the war is responsible for the people now treating the laws of the land as though they were "scraps of paper." For years there has been a propaganda advocating the overthrow of constituted authority, until a mass of people have come to argue: "Why should we respect law when we are told continually by hundreds of orators periodicals that 'the interests' make the laws?" People have been shouting about their rights and forgetting their duties.

There are other causes breeding a spirit of contempt for law. They are found in the laxity in administration on the part of those in authority, and a sickly sentimental sympathy evidenced by the people toward criminals who come under the condemnation of the law. Law will always be brought into contempt unless the state is most diligent in seeing that laws are enforced. When they take more interest in law enforcement than to laugh and joke over the schemes concocted to break the law what can we expect but a growth of the spirit of lawlessness. It is not too much to add that certain picture films have added to this deplorable spirit of challenge to authorty. Pictures that are constantly featuring the pistol, the safe-cracker, the highwayman and the taking of human life, are bound to sow seeds in young lives that will result, and in a measure have already issued, in a sad harvest.

Wherein can we find a cure for this lawless spirit When a Roumanian statesman was asked the question at the Paris peace conference as to what would be the future of civilization, replied: "Judged by the light of reason there is but little hope, but I have faith in man's inextinguishable impulse to live." Another national leader declares that we must more diligently teach our people to respect constitutional authority. It has also been suggested that if the people of the world could only get back to work, much of the present lawlessness would cease. Work is undoubtedly one of the greatest moral forces in the world. The integrity of our law courts must be maintained, and partiality must not be tolerated in our courts of justice. One of the greatest cures for the present condition can be found in cultivating a new spirit in the modern home life. Discipline in the home is essential. If children can be wisely taught a respect for law and to reverence parental authority in the home, they will more easily adjust themselves to the constituted authority of the state. The youth must be taught that after all the laws of the land, like the laws of a well-regulated home, are for the good of all concerned. The writer of the Proverbs spoke vital words that touch of this very matter when he said: "The rod and reproof give wisdom; but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame. Correct thy son and he shall give thee rest; yea he shall give delight unto thy soul. Where there is no vision the people perish; but he that keepeth the law, happy is he."

The Tyrol Separatist Movement

Since 1914 the map of Europe has undergone so many changes that one even yet hesitates to buy the new brand or the brand new kind, lest other change be on the way.

Among the changes that might eventuate is the mooted transference of the Austrian Tyrol to Germany.

The main cause that has led the Tyrolese to proclaim independence of Austria is the bankruptcy of Vienna. The people in the Tyrol have found it difficult to "carry on" since the war by themselves, and now that there is no hope of help for them from the once flourishing Austrian treasury they are much disposed to seek union with Germany, as Germany's rehabilitation has gone forward so much more quickly than Austria's could possibly have done.

The fusion talked of, however, has its disadvantages for Germany. First, it violates the provisions of the treaty of Paris, and, second, it is opposed to the attitude of the entente powers. So, although possession of the Tyrol would be advantageous on one hand, bringing Germany its wine industries, its fruits, grains, pastures, cattle, silkworms; its cultivated forests and the thousands of travelers who visit the province for the sake of the romantic Alpine scenery—making as a total a large and generous gift—the proposition must give the republic pause.

The governments at Munich and Berlin have been notified of the desire of the Tyrolese, and a propaganda bureau recently was opened at Berlin.

The movement is of a reactionary, militaristic and a monarchial character, therefore will bear heavily, if allowed to continue, on the existing republican regime.

The questions that suggest themselves are: What will the allies, interested in such a movement, have to say about it? What will Germany attempt to do?

There is another problem the solution of which will no doubt be handed over to the League of Nations for settlement. If the league carries it through as the Silesian question has gone, there will be one more added reason of congratulation for the existence of the world peace institution.

As far as the Tyrolese themselves are concerned, to the outside world it looks rather like deserting the sinking ship. The desire to link with Germany to them may seem the only way out, onlookers are not inspired by the amount of fidelity and self-reliance shown by these mountaineers!!

"A Step Toward National Suicide"

Two prominent Alberta members of the Farmers' party, Dr. Michael Clark, M. P. for Red Deer, and Joshua Fletcher, president of the Grand Prairie District Association, have resigned recently as a protest against the methods and the views of H. W. Wood, the president of the United Farmers of Alberta. Mr. Wood, who came from Missouri, has evidently introduced "boss" rule in Alberta of a character which such good Canadians as Dr. Clark and Mr. Fletcher, believers in the British governmental system, are unable to accept. They believe that if Mr. Wood's views prevail it would be dangerous to our institutions. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen has been denounced in the most violent language for having referred to a certain element supporting the Farmers' party as "wreckers," but Mr. Meighen's language is mild compared with the statements by Dr. Clark and Mr. Fletcher, who have been brought into close contact with Mr. Wood and know his methods and his ideas.

Mr. Fletcher, in a letter to the secretary of the Grand Prairie Association, handing in his resignation, declares in the strongest terms that if Mr. Wood's views prevail "it would be one dangerous step towards national suicide," and calls on all Canadians to help "stamp out this system as we would deal with a dread disease." Mr. Fletcher points out that he is talking as an All-Canadian. He says in part:

"For 17 years I have given this work of organization a true and loyal service and I still think that there is hope for our people, but I am offering my resignation at this time as an emphatic protest against the administration of President H. W. Wood and against the policy which he dictates. At one time I was disposed to tender this resignation in the early summer, but preferred to see the provincial elections over and later to see Mr. Kennedy safely elected. I have the utmost confidence in the personal qualities of Mr. Kennedy, so I also wished to see what place would be given him in Edmonton before otherwise taking the people's attention.

"I CONSIDER THE ONE-MAN POWER POLICY OF OUR PROVINCIAL PRESIDENT IN ITS EFFECT ON THE U. F. A. AS INJURIOUS AND DESTRUCTIVE. IN OUR PROVINCIAL MATTERS I AM SURE IT WILL PROVE DECEPTIVE, DISAPPOINTING AND COSTLY, AND IN OUR FEDERAL OR NATIONAL AFFAIRS IT WOULD BE ONE DANGEROUS STEP TOWARD NATIONAL SUICIDE.

"We must stamp out this system as we would deal with a dread disease and we have a right to expect assistance of all people who respect Canadian institutions.

"Be kind enough to promptly accept this, my resignation, that I may be more free to discuss some of the problems which now confront our people and press for solution."

Mr. Wood is the leader of the Agrarian party in Alberta. Not only is he the boss in Alberta, but he is the dominating influence in the West. In Ontario Mr. J. J. Morrison has the same ideas as to government. The letter of Mr. Fletcher should be carefully pondered by every Ontario elector. Mr. Wood and Mr. Morrison would wipe out the British system of responsible government and substitute a brand new method of their own. Do the electors of Ontario want an experiment in government which Mr. Fletcher describes as a "step towards national suicide."

NOTE AND COMMENT

"Sleeves are to be wide." The better for laughing into, my dear.

One good turn deserves another, so it is said. What about the other kind?

The Winnipeg Tribune remarks pithily: "The German mark is almost erased!"

Slings and arrows destroyed the peace of the ancient world, bullets and bombs of the modern.

Old party lines are all very well so long as they don't pinion and shackle you.

You can make a political platform out of a "scrap of paper," but the trouble is to stand on it.

Poland has been detected in spending "ten times her income." The same thing may be said of many of our owners of flivers.

The Third Column

THE BEST ARE BACK.

It was easy in the old days and the bitter days to shirk—
The best of all the nation had been called away from work—
We could hold our various places with indifferent service then,
But to-day the war is over and our best is back again.

We had little competition with our soldier boys away;
The sloufhful and the lazy could command a master's pay,
But the idler's days are over, we are done with methods slack,
For the finest of the country and the best we have are back.

They who fought to save the nation have returned to do its work;
There's a good man and a true man now to crowd out every shirk.
Oh, I don't know how to say it but it seems to me somehow
That it's up to every one of us to start to hustle now.

We must bend our backs to labor and the pleasures we must shun,
We must give the best that's in us to the duties to be done,
Now the test is one of merit as it used to be of yore
And it's goodbye to the loafers for our best is home once more.

—Edgar A. Guest.

THE MELLOWING YEARS.

It is difficult to talk to youth—it is too restless, grasping more than it can understand. But with accumulated years comes a closer inspection of the vital affairs of life and living.

As we grow older we become more tolerant, seeing more that we can understand and learning the art of quicker forgiving.

Nature screens us with her wisdom, and shows to us that her sunsets are far more gorgeous than her sun-risings. Each day mellows us and makes us more livable human beings for the benefit of those about us.

The more we love our friends, the less we see in them to find fault with and to criticize. The closer we get to them in helpfulness and understanding, the finer they appear. For, after all, the things we criticize in others are but plainer pictures of the same failings in our selves. And it works both ways—we are attracted to those whose beauty and strength of character reflects light upon the same qualities in us.

One of the most beautiful friends I have is an actor. Recently one of the most remarkable tributes ever paid to any man was paid to him as he left the scene of his triumphs in one city, to go to another. A hundred thousand people paraded him to the railroad station.

But this is the significant thing. In talking it over calmly, he said thus: "I am not nearly as great as they think I am!"

Thus it was that my friend, whose hair is white like the frosts of November, testified to a greatness vaster and finer than any that could be accorded him.

It is this which the years give — mellowness and sweetness.

I have been loving the fall of the leaves that keep talking about the end of summer and all its maturities. But from the bare twigs I can see more than the absence of beauty. I see the promise of newer life, and perhaps lovelier beauty when the winter shall have passed and spring shall have come again.

Can human life be less important or less sure than that of Nature?

Do we not live to die—to live again?

—George Matthew Adams.

ENTERPRISE.

A week ago I chanced to say to Ebenezer Jones, "I'll buy myself a nice coupe when I can spare the bones." It was an idle, thoughtless speech as wheeze, to all intents; I had no thought that it would reach the ears of passing gents. But when I reached my dwelling place, nine salesmen waited there, each with a glad and beaming face, and eloquence to spare. Along the curb their cars were parked, nine wagons fair to see; and as one man these gents remarked, "Come, take a drive with me." And all the long, long sunny day car dealers worked my phone, and each one had a grand coupe I really ought to own. And I grew wobbly in the knees, and my despair was tense, for salesmen roosted in the trees and sat upon the fence; they lifted up the window sash, and said, with nerve sublime, "In case you cannot spare the cash, we'll sell a car on time." By mail they flooded me with bunk, instructed me by wire, that I could trade in any junk, my shotgun or my lyre. For days they came upon the jump, each with his fetching yarn; they got me when I went to pump, they ragged me in the barn. Hereafter when I've things to tell, all by myself I'll go, and whisper them down in a well—the deepest one I know.

Bill Boram: A Tale Of Canadian Fisher Folk In Canadian Waters

By ROBERT NORWOOD.

A new book from the pen of Robert Norwood is always of paramount interest to London and to Londoners.

This, for the reason that in a sense the poet is and must remain—a Londoner. He has walked our streets, sat at our tables, talked from our platforms, preached from our pulpits, visited our sick, and loved our people. The things that are London have entered into and have influenced his thinking. In return London has drawn treasure from his power, his philosophy and his personality. That personality, philosophy and power are precipitated in his books. Hence the value of these works to London.

The new book, from the press of George Doran & Co., New York, is "Bill Boram," a tale of the Canadian Atlantic coast and coast waters; in particular, the tale of the skipper of the schooner Lottie S.—the "bad man" of The Cove, Bill Boram.

Bill comes on the scene in the following full-length and full-blooded portrait:

"In stature Bill was short and thick. His face
Was not unlike old Aaron Conrad's bull—
The ugliest and the meanest brute I know—
A tangle of red hair above two eyes,
Like balls of polished bronze that seemed to glow
With hot hell fire. Bill's tongue was very wise
In all the art of antique blasphemy;
Art that was old ere out of towered Tyre,
Great merchant triremes pushed their prows to sea.
Bill often boasted, 'Cuss? I kin cuss higher
Than Pa'son Baylock aims to p'int a prayer;
Cuss? I c'n cuss the devil out o' hell!'
Bill's whiskers were a fiery fringe of hair
That from his jutting jaws and square chin fell
In curling fury halfway down his breast—
Yet there was virtue in the strength he had
And cunning, too—"

The strength and the cunning of Bill Boram were all directed toward making him The Cove's best fisher. Always away before the rest of the boats, the Lottie S. invariably tripped her anchor before her sister ships made for port, with Bill blaspheming:

"May God damn this ship
An' every bastard sailor, if we's short
O' half a quintal o' the customed catch
When we discharges cargo at The Belle . . .
Tarp line there, you lubbers, on the hatch . . .
Tops'ls . . . Now let her drive to home or hell!"

The setting of the story is truly Canadian. Those who know the physical conformation of the coast of Nova Scotia and Great Breton Island, rocky, elevated and with great indentations for convenient harbors, will not have much difficulty in recognizing "The Cove." It might be that Broad Cove is the prototype of Mr. Norwood's locale, or it might be Vogler's Cove, or Peggy's Cove; all veritable harbors of the "Peninsula Province." I fancy, rather, that it is Mill Cove, just off Mahone Bay, near New Ross, the poets' birthplace, in Lunenburg County, with which rock-battlemented waters so much of his boyhood's life was associated. Be this as it may, the landscape and waterscape of "The Cove" are vivid enough to be an authentic bit of scenery:

"The Cove lies partly land-locked from the sea,
Its arms enclose a huddle of white homes,
Red-roofed above its shacks and wharves.

"An island lifts its head
Midway between the shores that curve to form
A nearly oval habor . . . quarter mile
At widest point . . . where, safe from any storm,
A score of schooners, in the noisy while,
Of their unloading cargoes of the catch
Tug at their anchors—

"Where the deep cove ends
In shoals of cobble-stones—worn till they match—
A brown brook shallows, deepens, narrows, bends,
Tumultuous among the alders till,
Far back, it turns the wheel that grinds the grist
In Cyrus Jodfrey's hopper.

"On the hill
A steeple lifts the brave appeal of Christ."

Among such surroundings, a community of Dutch and English stock. The women short-skirted and red-shawled, like other fishermen's wives, eternally clicking their needles at gray knitting:

"They can bake, weave, hem,
Bare husky babies to the lads they love—

Those "lads" in the meanwhile are short, broad-shouldered, "with diapason voices of the sea," much given to MacDonald's "cut," to brown and bitter Demarara rum and to the rough-humored blasphemy that cuts their talk "like sudden saw-toothed reefs at ebb and flow of tide." A pagan lot, so "pagan" the creed-proof parson of the place spends a good deal of his time wondering how their souls "can ever get to heaven."

To complete the picture, take a look at the fish house, "The Belle Mahone," with its brown, wide-running door that opens on the wharf; that wharf a wilderness of extra spars, rope, riggings, cod lines for the cranky green-hulled schooner, Lottie S.

A fish house, at its best's a fearsome thing—
All smells and slop of ancient, oily brine,
With bulk of barrels for the seasoning
Of green cod.

. . . 'Tis a place
For nastiness of evil ways and words,
When men are drunk and on them the disgrace
Of our ancestral beasthood falls like birds
Of carrion, squawking as their razor beaks
Tear at dead eyes.

In the great loft of "The Belle Mahone," which ran low above the barrels, Bill Boram entertained his friends with gambling bouts and rum and bloody quarrels. Sometimes there are worse things—"things that must be passed by with veiled or with averted face"—wild orgies these, at which Kate Coolin, a harlot of the place, and her crew of derelicts assist to their own and Bill's damnation. At length among the "Covers" it was common talk that "drink and hellery had done for Bill."

Not all was darkness, however, in Bill's life, nor in his heart. The thick-set fisherman with the fiery beard had a home and that home had a garden.

Bill went his evil ways, and only turned
Aside from them when it was time for spraying
Tea roses and the lovely like that yearned
For fellowship even from this man of sir..

"The only time I ever says a prayer," Bill used to say, "is when the buds begin.

. . . 'Sa truth I tells you, fellers, I gets pale
At smells and sights o' flowers, from a pain
That starts inside me . . . But oh hell! I say,
Come on, you stinkin' sculpins, have a drink—

So was he half saved. So did he slide backward into the hell his weakness made for him.

The story of Bill Boram is told in narrative verse by Parson Blaylock's vagrant son, to while the time away during the cruise of the Flying Scud, a whaler in which he has shipped as mate—"from Port o' Caledon, within the circle of the Polar Star." Tom Blaylock writes to escape the monotony of the long Northern nights and the same time to clarify his thinking on "those things which pertain to the Kingdom of God."

Other characters are Kate Coolin, whom the author describes as "a type of the lure of sex which damns because it is possessive;" Bobby Fox, the sage of the Cove, one of those men occasionally met with among humble folk, a thinker, a student and very wise. For him and for his kind the poet gives thanks to God. Further, there are Sam Publicover, rough, uncouth, yet with a feeling for beauty that makes his homely speech melodious; the "She Weasel," Sam's sister—"whose type," to again quote the author, "belongs to every community and represents the only personal devil it has been our misfortune to know, if malice is the only sin, and we think that it is;" Johnny Deal, a blind fiddler, and Oram Hiltz, mate of the Lottie S., with his moments of illumination, but "mainly baffled by the mystery of Bill's adventure into the infinite—through his loss of beauty."

We have, too, the Cov'ers, the crew of the Lottie S., Bill's cow, Molly; flowers, birds and the Spirit who clothes Himself in the "Light of setting suns."

Finally, there is George Conrad, the Lottie's cook, and Bill's loyal henchman, "the type of that Love which overcomes the world and gives its possessor the key to the Kingdom of God." And about the saving love of George for Bill the story circles.

How Bill won to redemption through the blow with which he felled George Conrad to the earth and then shuddered over him, when Conrad fallen at his feet:

"Tried to creep
Closer to Bill, with hurt love in his eyes,
Eyes that were wet blue harebells when the mist
Rolls back from summer gardens—and to me
They were the rebuking gaze of Christ
Turned on the swearing sinner."

This Mr. Norwood tells in some of the most illuminating poetry he has written:

. . . Bill's face went white.
He stood above George Conrad, each great fist
Pale on the knuckles. In the yellow light
Of swaying lanterns something seemed to stand
Beside him; something that had haunting eyes
Like Conrad's; something with a wounded hand
A smitten mouth; something that pain made wise.
Bill could not see, but well I know he felt
That bleeding passion . . . Suddenly he bowed
His body, then in presence of us all he knelt
At Conrad's side. He shuddered as a shroud
Plucked by the wind shudders, and then he spoke:
"God damn the feet that steps upon a flower,
The fingers that has ever blossom broke!
God damn to torment of hell's hottest hour,
Me for a traitor! . . . Men, I have betrayed
Beauty! . . . Look at his eyes!"
Yet even in that hour Beauty has saved Bill Boram.
Out of the brute there broke the sudden flame,
As red wheat poppies burst between the clod.

* * *

The rest of the story is given up to the transfiguration of the Cove and the Covers, wrought primarily by the incarnation of this soul of Beauty in one of their number. All succumb save She Weasel, Parson Blaylock and Kate Coolin. And in the end even these, says Parson Blaylock's vagrant son.

. . . Who hold
Bill crazy, George a fool, will come to see
What I have found through thinking: Smelted gold
Out of the quartz of Nature is the Christ
Who stands at red door of the heart and knocks
What time the lilacs in their purple mist,
Mark April from the month of hollyhocks.

Mr. Norwood, as is well known, has a mastery of the English language. It is not so much that the poet has what Dryden calls a "magazine of words," but that he has a compelling instinct for the sounds of words—the art to manage them with due regard to the music say, of their vowels, which are more sonorous and which more soft and sweet; the gift of disposing such sounds so that his stanza is not only built up from the architectural point of view but that its tone color is equally as eloquent, which thing is possible only when each sound, as here, is an echo of its sense. Such a gift is especially to be desired in a narrative poem like Bill Boram. It, as one might say, is the "minstrel" quality so necessary to such a work. The figure of the ancient Harper has passed away, but the sound of his harp remains—it has entered into the very verse itself so that it goes singing as great verse only can—without accompaniment.

The content of Bill Boram expresses then, the poet's sense of the oneness of life, the immortality of life. His realization that though, like Bill's tubers, humanity is "planted deep," yet, like them again, humanity

"Tunnels
Up'ards to meet the light, sartin that some Place waits for it."

The form in which he clothes his message is the reward of his intense interest in poetic form; of his incessant curiosity, of his honest labor.

Bill Boram will win for its author an added fame.

THE PAPINEAU CHATEAU.

Question.—Would you kindly tell me a few facts about the Papineau Castle at Montebello? INTERESTED.

Answer.—The fine old tree-shaded chateau at Montebello, Que., on the banks of the Ottawa River, was the home of the famous Louis Joseph Papineau (1786-1871), who was the leader in Lower Canada of the rebellion of 1837. Papineau lived in Montebello after his return from banishment and after his final retirement from public life, 1854, spent the remainder of his life in scholarly seclusion in and around his chateau.

The National Crisis

"My appeal is to the whole people; to every man and woman who wants to do right by this country; to everyone who breathes the spirit of our fathers who founded this British Dominion."

Arthur Meighen

THE Election to be held on December 6th will be the most momentous in Canadian history; for as men and women vote will depend the economic stability, the political stability and, indeed, the national stability of this country.

Today we find group striving against group, class against class, the industrial and financial structure of the country assailed by false and unsound doctrines and theories, while our great neighbour to the south has adopted a trade exclusion policy directed against Canada's vast agricultural interests.

The currencies of nearly every country in the world are depreciated. The Canadian dollar in the United States is subject to a heavy discount causing a loss of over one hundred million dollars in exchange annually.

Europe is overwhelmed with war debts—unemployment is acute—and the restoration to pre-war conditions is slow.

While Canada is in a much more favorable condition than many countries, yet there is evidence of stagnation, instability, unemployment and lack of confidence.

Taxes are heavy because of the country's efforts in the Great War, but have become burdensome on account of the misconceived policies and blunders of Governments that directed Canada's affairs prior to 1911.

These conditions are largely the direct aftermath of the war, but they must be dealt with fearlessly and constructively. This is no time to consider experimental changes, or the theories of visionaries.

This is no time for Crerar and his Free Trade Policy.

This is no time for King and his wobbling "charted" policies, varying with each provincial boundary.

It is the time to cling to orderly, stable Government in the interest of all the people; to be guided by the experience of the past proceeding upon lines that have been proven sound.

It is the time to place the destinies of Canada again in the hands of a Government led by a sane, courageous Canadian who has safely brought the country through the trying years of reconstruction, and upon whom we can rely to retain and initiate policies in the interest, not of a group or class but of all the people.

It is the time to support Arthur Meighen and his Candidates.

Meighen will lead us through

BABY BEGLEY.

"It was the Virol saved her Life."

40, Java Street, Ottawa, 21/9/20.
Dear Sirs,

I want to tell about my baby Doris Mabel. She weighed 5½ lbs. when born and appeared healthy then, but began to waste away, and was so poorly that she had to be carried about on a pillow and no food would agree with her.

At the age of two months the nurse advised VIROL added to the feeding; she then weighed 5 lbs. and after a few days she began to improve. The VIROL was continued and she steadily gained until at nine months she weighed 17 lbs. The nurse at the Health Station said she had very little hope of the baby living, and we are sure it was the VIROL saved her life. I am enclosing her photo taken at the age of one year and eight months, weighing 22 lbs., and you can use it if you wish as I am so grateful to your VIROL.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) (Mrs.) W. J. BEGLEY.

Virol is used in large quantities in more than 2,800 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilizing of milk; it is also a bone and tissue building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

Great Work Done For Hospitals By United Aids of Ontario; Big Financial Achievements Noted

Enthusiastic Reports From Twenty-One Societies Heard at Annual Convention in This City Yesterday

The adoption of a constitution for the Ontario United Hospital Aids was one of the main items of business transacted at yesterday's annual meeting of these societies, which took place in the Y. W. C. A., King street, and at which more than 50 delegates were present. As a result of one clause of the constitution the president and secretary of the entertaining society become automotically the president and secretary of the amalgamated organizations for the ensuing year, a ruling which places Mrs. A. H. Smith, of this city, in the chair for next year's convention, with Mrs. F. J. Greenaway as her secretary.

Reports from 21 auxiliaries were received at yesterday's session, over which Mrs. A. E. Horton, of St. Thomas, presided, and at which Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. P. P., made a brief opening speech. Dr. Stevenson declared himself as personally keenly interested in hospital welfare, both as a medical man and as a member of Parliament, and had some interesting suggestions to give for possible improvements. Of these, one of the most outstanding was the establishment of a three months' course for nursery maids in connection with the regular hospital course, a scheme which Dr. Stevenson was confident would be introduced shortly at Victoria Hospital, as has already been done at the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto.

EXCHANGE OF NURSES.

Other suggestions were for the admission of nurses to the regular training course while living at home, thus relieving the difficulties of accommodation; the exchange of nurses between the city hospitals, and similar institutions in smaller centers, during the last six months of their course, and the appointment of an X-ray specialist, to be paid by the Government, who would visit at regular intervals the smaller hospitals of the province to give special treatment as adequate as that received in the large centers. All of these undertakings Dr. Stevenson was satisfied would be favorably considered by the Government.

The presentation of reports and the exchange of ideas provided a pleasant afternoon for the delegates, who heard (and gave) stirring accounts of great things accomplished for the hospitals of the province.

Strathroy Hospital Aid, with accommodation for 30 patients, supply everything from "pins to blankets," has raised $1,003 since last spring by showers, plays and a Florence Nightingale Day collection.

The proud honor of lending a generous sum of money to the Hospital Trust fell to the Woodstock Aid, who last year raised over $11,000 towards the new wing they are erecting in connection with their present hospital.

LENDS MONEY TO TRUST.

The Chatham Hospital Aid were also privileged to lend no less a sum than $12,000 to their Hospital Trust, and in addition have the splendid record of having raised $7,000 from a "made-in-Canada" week this year. A new wing, now being built, will make the Chatham Hospital accommodation in all 100 patients, and towards the expense of this work the aid have worked. A grant of $15,000 from the County Council was recently made to the hospital building fund, following an appeal from the Ladies' Society, a generous grant from the city having also been lately received. In Chatham also, the Heather Club has carried on an interesting branch work, the latest achievement being the outfitting of the hospital nursery.

A farm, with vegetables, fruit, chickens and cows, was the proud boast of the Kincardine delegate, who told, amid much laughter, of the excellent banquet provided by the aid for the County Council, with the result that the annual grant was raised from $1,500 to $2,600. Patients to the number of 270 were accommodated at the Kincardine Hospital during the year, and a new wing is being added by Mr. Ross Robertson, as a memorial to his mother.

At Petrolea, the delegate reported, the hospital is a gift, and the Aid members have been chiefly occupied in raising funds for supplies, having raised $285.75 since the first of the year.

FURNISHED NURSES' HOME.

In Brantford the Aid secured $4,500 in a tag day this summer, and have recently completed the furnishing of the nurses' home, built by the Aid at a cost of $50,000, an achievement which made the Brantford delegates object strenuously to being classed in Dr. Stevenson's address as one of the "smaller centers midway between Hamilton and London." Donations from the school children were found an interesting innovation in Brantford, where a junior Aid has done valuable work in supplying all the linen for the maternity ward.

The St. Thomas Aid reported a record membership of 1,200, and the receipt of 1,600 jars of fruit as a result of this year's "jam shower."

A $80,000 maternity hospital was reported as the objective of the Galt Auxiliary for the next year or two, and in the meantime the hospital aid tearoom has netted $915 in six months, and a "mile of coppers" scheme brought in $315. A surgical mannequin was recently presented to the hospital.

For the Ingersoll Hospital, with its 30 beds, the local Aid raised $1,000 in the past year, and supplied all linen and bedding, adding a sterilizer as a donation, while Walkerton reported a garden as one of their best undertakings for their county hospital, in which the wards have been furnished by the Bruce County towns.

Hamilton Aid was reported as still in its infancy, having officially organized only six months ago, and the making of surgical dressings has been the chief work, though a sum of $145 was cleared at the only venture, a bridge party last spring. In 13 months 9,000 yards of gauze were made into dressings.

DECORATED SUNROOMS.

The artistic redecoration of their hospital sunrooms was reported as an achievement of the Guelph Hospital Aid, who are also assisting in the establishment of a laboratory in connection with the hospital.

Further interesting reports were received from the Kitchener Aid, who furnish all supplies, from the Waterloo branch; from Welland, where a home for 22 nurses has been completely furnished and decorated, and from St. Catherines and Niagara Falls, who furnished reports by mail

For the Memorial Children's Hospital, in this city, Mrs. F. J. Greenaway reported $180,000 guaranteed of the $282,000 required for the completion of the hospital, the present total including many generous endowments.

Invitations for the Hospital Aids' convention of 1922 were received from Petrolea and Guelph, the former town waiving its claim in favor Guelph, where the convention will be held next October.

Previous to the convention proper the delegates were the guests of the London Children's Hospital committee for lunch, when they were addressed by Dr. H. W. Hill, and also visited the children's hospital and the Medical School during the morning.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

Norah looked puzzled. "But you can't keep a car like this on 200 a year, surely!" she said impulsively. "Can you?"

He laughed outright at that. "I'm afraid I don't," he said. "I bought this out of a lucky deal, and I've kept it up ever since on borrowed money. I am afraid even you would be unable to find any more kind excuses for me if I told you the appalling amount of money I owe to Scrooge & Company."

"Scrooge & Company?"

"That isn't their name really—they trade under a highly respectable one—but they are money-lenders, or, in other words, daylight robbers who get hold of fools like me and never let go till they've sucked 'em dry."

He looked down at her with a faint smile. "I really don't know why I am boring you with all this about myself," he said apologetically. "You won't want to come out with me any more, will you?"

"I am not bored."

"And you are not going to answer the last part of the question, eh?"

"What do you mean?"

"I said you will not want to come out with me any more."

She looked up at him; her eyes met his very frankly.

"I should like to come—if you ask me," she said. "But I have a little runabout car of my own, you know; you must let me take you in that sometimes. Oh——" she broke off with a little strangled cry. A big touring car had swung round the bend in the road without warning of any kind. For a moment it looked as if it must crash right over them. Norah hid her eyes.

It all happened so quickly; the danger was present and past in a flash of time, during which Laxton wrenched at the wheel, turning the little car violently half into the bank, and the bigger car was brought to a grinding standstill almost on top of it. Laxton turned and began swearing angrily, then suddenly he broke off, meeting the eyes of a girl who had half-risen in her seat and was looking at him with frightened eyes; it was Laurie Fenton.

CHAPTER VI.

Womanlike, Laurie was the first to recover herself; she laughed lightly and leaning over the side of the big car, held a daintily gloved hand to the black sheep.

The small gray torpedo-car was huddled up anyhow, half up on the bank.

"We might have had a terrible smash," Laurie was saying affectedly. "How did you manage to get out of the way, George? . . . . and— how strange we should meet on the road like this! We're not anywhere near Lumsden, are we?"

"Yes—no; I don't know." Laxton was white and incoherent; he took off his cap and flung it down on the seat; he passed an agitated hand through his rough hair. After a moment he opened the low door of the car and stepped out into the roadway; for the first time he remembered Norah; he turned to her apologetically, she looked very pale.

"You were frightened; I am sorry—we had a narrow escape. You know Miss Fenton, I think."

Laurie Fenton gave a little shrill scream of amazement.

"Why, it's Norah! Dear little North! I positively must come and speak to you."

She left her seat with Laxton's assistance and went across to where Norah was sitting; she kissed her effusively.

"I saw you the other day on the station—did George tell you? I've thought about you ever since; I had no idea you lived anywhere near here. We haven't met for years, have we?"

"No," said Norah. She felt tongue-tied and unhappy. "I hope you are quite well," she added lamely.

She had not returned the elder girl's kiss.

Laurie glanced up at the black sheep standing silently beside her; he looked rather grim.

"I haven't been well," she said plaintively. "But I mustn't complain. Fancy you two knowing one another! I am surprised."

"I told you that I knew Miss Ackroyd," Laxton said, rather shortly. He walked away and began to talk to the chauffeur of the big car. The man was pale and scared. He apologized humbly for his carelessness. They had not met a cart or a car for ten miles, he said, agitatedly. He had no idea.

Laxton cut him short. There was no harm done, he said, but he had better be more careful in future.

He went back to the two girls.

Norah had not left her seat, but Laxton had no eyes for her. His heart was pounding against his ribs. He was cursing his luck that he was not alone. Now he would not have the smallest chance of a word with Laurie.

"I'm just telling Norah that she must ask me to come and see her," she said, looking up at him. "I simply love meeting old friends. Now, you won't forget, will you, Norah?"

"Of course I'll ask you, if you would really like to come; but we don't live in a grand house at all," Norah said rather constrainedly. "Nothing like Barton Manor, I mean," she added.

She was remembering resentfully that this girl had been one of those who had snubbed her at school; who had looked down on her and called her father common.

Laurie sighed sentimentally. "Dear Barton Manor! There never could be another place like that—could there, George?"

Laxton did not answer.

GROVE W. M. S.

Miss Maylard, Croyden Place, was the gracious hostess at the regular monthly meeting of the W. M. S., of the Grove church, when an exceptionally interesting address was given by Mrs. Cottam, corresponding secretary of the London branch. Mrs. Cottam described vividly the conditions now prevalent in China, showing the great necessity for more missionaries there. She further interested her audience by relating details regarding the life and work of a few of the brave workers in the foreign field. Her address closed with an urgent appeal for increased membership. An enjoyable solo was given by Mrs. Yake, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mildred Yake, who also acted as organist. After the meeting a pleasant social hour was spent, during which the hostess served afternoon tea, the young girls of the mission band assisting.

W. M. S. BANQUET.

The W. M. S. of Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church and the Woman's Auxiliary of All Saints' were the special guests of the Hyatt Avenue Methodist W. M. S. at a most successful banquet put on at the Sunday school on Thursday evening. Mrs. W. G. Young, district superintendent, was the principal speaker, and a delightful musical program included duets by Rev. Johnson McCormick and Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. Hulbert and Miss Davis, and Miss Slyford and Mrs. Mood. Brief, but interesting addresses were given by Mrs. A. A. Bice and Mrs. M. F. Cree, Mrs. George McKinley, the former president of Hyatt Avenue Ladies' Aid, was a most welcome visitor to the gathering, over which Miss McLellan presided. Supper arrangements were in the hands of Mrs. Small and Mrs. Topham arranged the program.

ADD CRISP, SPICY DIALOGUE, SEASON WITH WIT AND STIR UNTIL HAPPY ENDING COMES

Tried Out Established Recipe For Making Popular Play Used In Producing "Main Street." Review of New Productions.

BY BEN DEACON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The tried and established recipe for making a popular play is this: Take a plot (a fresh plot is desirable, but if no fresh plot can be obtained a warmed-over plot will do), add equal proportions of crisp, spicy dialogue, local color and characterization, season with wit and a dash of surprise, stir until it reaches a happy ending and serve garnished with publicity.

Harvey O'Higgins and Harriet Ford in cooking up a play out of "Main Street" had to search through the dramatic cook book for a new recipe. They had all other materials in abundance, but no plot. "Main Street" is as plotless as a musical comedy. One closes the book with the feeling that Sinclair Lewis has cheated. He has lured the reader through a mass of detail by remarkable ability to make trite things interesting, has led him, hope full and expectant, down numerous blind trails, and then in the end has left him nowhere in particular. As he slowly recovers from his word jag, the reader realizes that nothing very serious has happened to Carol Kennicott, and nothing that would be worth a stickfull of type in any newspaper has occurred to Gopher Prairie. Carol has been left in the same exasperating state of vague dissatisfaction and indecision and the Gopherites are untamed and unchanged.

Here is mighty slim material for a play. Quite evidently the chief labor of the adapters was to weave the scattered incidents of the book into a definite story which would hold the interest of the audience throughout an evening. They have been successful. How they have accomplished the feat will probably be the point of chief interest to those who have read the book. Those who have not read the book will not likely be very interested in the play anyway and can skip on down the column to this week's new shows and other liveller matters.

The first act gives us a view of Main street scenically depicted very much as the author of the book describes it, though possibly with less attention to detail. An attempt is made to convey to the audience an idea of the trivialities of Gopher Prairie life through the opening dialogue between Sam Clark and Dave Dyer, which consists of an apparently interminable reiteration of the fact that it is a warm day. Carol's arrival with Kennicott and their welcome by the town's leading citizens serve to introduce many of the characters of the book, though a few of the most interesting and picturesque, notably Raymie Wutherspoon and the Widow Bogart, have failed to emerge from between the covers. This scene also serves to indicate Carol's immediate distaste for some of the Gopher Prairie creeds and customs. Here we get the first indication of the stage story which the dramatists have evolved from the more or less disconnected episodes of the book. Maud Dyer, whose chief interest in Kennicott was merely a passing incident in the book, is made to suffer from a life-long infatuation for the doctor in the play, and her love and her jealousy of Carol are indicated in this opening scene. The youthful, romantic tailor of the book becomes Erik Valborg, a good looking and no less romantic electrician in the play. In the first act Carol's immediate realization that he is different from his fellow citizens and her interest in him are made apparent.

The first scene of the second act is laid in the Kennicott living-room during a party at which the leading Gopherites are present and are enjoying themselves in their peculiar Gopheritic way. The incident of Carol's dramatic venture is here introduced in the form of a scene from a classic play which Carol and Erik

Miss Marie Lohr, the famous English actress, who will play at the Grand on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday the revival of Sardou's "Fedora" and the comedy "The Marion- ettes"

the visit to London of Miss Marie Lohr, the celebrated English actress who comes to the Grand on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday next, in a sumptuous revival of the great Sardou play, "Fedora" and the sparking comedy "The Marionettes."

There are very few actresses of Miss Marie Lohr's reputation and popularity who would deliberately choose a tragic role in which to make a transatlantic debut. But this brilliant artiste, who enjoys a reputation second to none in the British metropolis to-day as an actress of versatility and resource, has deliberately selected Victorien Sardou's great tragedy of "Fedora" in which to introduce herself here. Her justification lies in the emphatic success she scored in the title role at the Globe Theater in London and has duplicated in Montreal, in Ottawa and in Toronto.

In "Fedora" Sardou tells a thrilling story of a young and lovely Russian countess caught in the mesh of relentless fate, who finally falls a victim to her own passionate but mistaken loyalty to the memory of a brutal man. The Countess Olga is a woman of primitive passions and emotions, swift to love and to hate, most splendid when standing at bay, defiant and heroic. Sardou has built up a climax which is probably without any superior in modern drama, alike for its thrilling qualities and its intense emotional sweep.

Miss Lohr will be supported by her entire London company direct from the Globe Theater, in London. Herbert Marshall, one of the heroes of the war, who, despite the loss of one leg, strides through the play with astounding authority and deceptive ease, will be seen as the chivalrous young Russian; Mr. Herbert Ross as the suave French diplomat, and Miss Helen Haye, one of Miss Lohr's most accomplished ladies, in a minor role which still serves to reveal her fine artistry.

Miss Lohr is following in the footsteps of several of the greatest actresses of our time in essaying this role. Bernhardt, Duse, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Fanny Davenport—to name only four—have all played it, and all have achieved distinctive success therein.

FRANK FAY IS BANKRUPT.

Frank Fay, who is now appearing at Healey's Golden Glades, New York, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, in which he stated that his liabilities amounted to $19,700 and that he had no assets. Fay gave his address at 188 West Forty-Eighth street.

Among the creditors mentioned in the petion and the amounts due them are: Frances Fay (Frances White), who on August 29, 1917, was awarded a judgment of $2,556 against Fay; Louis Fabian Bachrach, $116; Donald D. Parker, $509; Gladys Bachman Fay, $800; John Merkyl, $400; Frank Burbeck, $400; Harlette Keys, $450; Tom Chemeli, $250; Jack Lipschitz, $250; Jim Towney and Jack Kennedy, of 141 West Forth-Seventh street, $350, and Helen Bedeni, $1,575, amount of a judgment obtained against Fay.

THOMAS MEIGHAN in "The Conquest of Canaan" coming to Loew's on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

VARIETY BILL AT GRAND NEXT WEEK

Picture Program For Two Days, Then Big Stage Production—Walter Hampden Coming Last Week of October.

On Monday the Grand will return to pictures for two days, presenting a big double bill at bargain prices. Harold Lloyd, always a favorite with London screen fans, will appear in his latest release, "Among Those Present," which is said to be a funnier production than either "High and Dizzy," or "Now and Never," both of which are familiar to local picture patrons. The Lloyd picture in itself would constitute a strong bill, but as a special attraction the Grand management has added that dainty star, Corinne Griffith, known to fame as the best dressed woman in pictures. Miss Griffith's vehicle on this occasion is "Moral Fiber," a wonderful society drama in which the star has an opportunity to display her versatility by appearing first as a 14-year-old girl and later as a grown woman. "Moral Fiber," is one of the strongest screen dramas ever filmed and it is presented by a company well calculated to do it full justice. In addition to these features there will be a special news reel and a scenic. Among the events pictured in the news reel is the landing at Quebec of Miss Marie Lohr, the famous English actress, who is now making a special tour of Canada under arrangements with Transcanada Theaters, Limited, and who will appear at the Grand on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week with Saturday matinee, in a sumptuous revival of Sadou's Fedora and the sprightly comedy, "The Marionettes."

A WELCOME ANNOUNCEMENT.

It is a welcome announcement to lovers of the Shakespearean drama that we are to have a brief season of Walter Hampden, unquestionably the finest delineator of Shakespearean characters now appearing on the American stage. When Mr. Hampden was in London on the last occasion he scored a distinct hit and this time has a company, if anything, superior to that which supported him on his previous visit. All his productions are staged and mounted with full attention to detail and with an artistic preservation of the Shakespearean atmosphere. Mr. Hampden's repertoire in London will include "The Merchant of Venice," in which he plays his wonderful Shylock; "Hamlet," "The Taming of the Shrew," and "Romeo and Juliet." Already there is great interest in the engagement and seats are in demand.

MOVIE STAR WITHOUT A DIRECTOR SOMETIMES LIKE SHIP WITHOUT A RUDDER

She May Be Great Actress But She'll Fail by Herself; Some Interesting Happenings in "Shooting" a Scene for Big Production

BY C. R. L.

The other evening I saw a young lady do as pretty a piece of acting as ever was seen on the screen.

She was winsome and whimsical—light, airy, charming—yet all the while one sensed the power of character that later showed itself in a big climax. It was real acting.

Yet, I happened, some time ago, to be present at the first rehearsals and the "shooting" of some of the scenes in this play.

I am going to admit, at once, that the girl is one of our best actresses. She has brains. She has talent. But without the director who staged the play, she would have been a detriment to it.

In order to get one short scene of a few score feet, the director worked with her for nearly two hours.

You see, it's this way:

The director lives with his story for many weeks before he begins to rehearse—or even to get his cast together.

He visualizes his scenic effects.

He feels the shades of emotion that his players must "register" throughout the story.

PLANS SLOWLY.

He plans slowly, bit by bit, the structure of his whole production, as a mental panorama.

So, by the time rehearsals come, he knows definitely just what each movement, each grouping, each facial effect should be.

He must make his players feel their parts as he feels them—see his scenes as his mind has pictured them.

The girl I mentioned had done fine work in a popular production.

The director saw her as the "type" he wanted for his heroine in this one.

The whimsical parts she just "walked right through"—but when the emotional climaxes came, she fell down hard.

The director began to work on her.

"Imagine," he told her, "that you are a girl brought up within the strict boundaries of a certain religion. Your church, your traditions, your family influences are all against the idea of marrying outside of this religion. But you love a man of another faith. You fear to go against the influences behind you—you fear to lose the man.

SHE MUST DECIDE.

"The moment has come for you to decide. Here stands your father, whom you love. Here stands the man you want to marry. His arms are outstretched to you. Your father, bigoted, yet your father, will have no more to do with you—and you are very young, never faced before with the necessity of making an important decision. You have never shown strength of character before—you must now. Go to it!"

The actress had studied her part intelligently—but she couldn't quite "feel" this moment.

She rehearsed it now.

She started right—

But she got "mawkish" and "weepy"—which wasn't what the director wanted of her at all.

They went over it time and again.

The director took her place.

He acted for her.

She tried to imitate him.

It went a little better.

The director acted again—

But when she "went to it" conviction was lacking.

TRIES NEW TACK.

So he tried a new tactic.

He walked out of the studio and 15 minutes later came back with another actress.

"Now, Louise," he said ('twasn't her real name), "if you can't do this right I'm going to retake the other scenes and star Gertrude (not her real name, either) in this play. Show up—or quit."

Our little friend got white. She quivered with rage.

"Well," she hissed, "I'll show you that you can't put a ham in my place. Get busy, and get this!"

Whereat, she walked right into the center of the room and did her little piece like a lady.

"You gotta work 'em up," whispered the director to me.

"That's fine," he shouted to the actress.

"Lights! Shoot! Bully!"

And the big scene was "took."

Players may be great—but without right direction they'd be like rudderless ships.

IDEAL LOVERS IN THE FILM "PLAY SQUARE"

Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker Coming to the Patricia on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Love is not unlikely to be blind on the motion picture screen as elsewhere. In other words, discriminating patrons are sometimes puzzled to know why two lovers in a picture should be lovers. As a rule this condition is due to an error in the casting of the play.

Ideal lovers—that is, convincing as to youth, equally attractive in personality and manner and equally endowed with dramatic talent—appear to have been found in Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker. Evidence of this is seen in the picture "Play Square," to be shown at the Patricia next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The scenes in which this romance progresses depend chiefly for success upon the fact that the youthful pair are ideally fitted to play the lovers — the dainty, pretty, appealing Edna and the [illegible] manly, sturdy Johnnie. They lend a charm to the picture which makes it a delightful entertainment.

Across the Continent Without Crossing the Doorstep

According to experiments made by the conference of Vocational Workers in Montgomery, Ala., the average housewife walks two miles a day in preparing meals—that is over the stove-sink-pantry-table route.

She walks fourteen miles a week, 728 miles a year.

Add to that the miles travelled, sweeping, dusting, answering door bells and phone calls and it is estimated that the housewife crosses the continent every year without crossing the threshold.

The miles walked in the kitchen can be cut in half with a Knechtel Kitchen Cabinet. It removes the necessity of running to the pantry for one thing, to the cupboard for another and back to the table. Everything necessary for baking is arranged compactly, neatly and handily before you. Materials, measures, dishes, etc., are right at your finger tips.

You can work better, more economically, more quickly and save a great deal of energy with a Knechtel Cabinet.

Booklet C is yours for the asking. The illustrations and description are prepared to answer all your questions and tell you of the many exclusive features of the Knechtel Kitchen Cabinet.

GRIPPING STORY AT THE ALLEN MONDAY

"Reputation," Starring Priscillia Dean, Stuart Paton's Tremendous Drama of Woman Against Woman.

"Reputation," Stuart Paton's tremendous drama of woman against woman, starring Priscilla Dean, will be the feature attraction at the Allen on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Never in the history of stage or screen has a production of such dramatic appeal been offered to the public. "Reputation" is made up of contrast—drastic contrasts which carry a thrill with every rapid change from character to character, locale to locale, and incident to incident. As the story opens, Priscilla Dean is seen as a worldly actress in a country village—the first contrast. Then comes her European tour, where she is feted at magnificent banquets, dazzling in profligacy. In contrast to this is shown the man she has discarded, a friendless, pitiful wreck, wandering in the reeking alleys of Limehouse, the sewer through which the human filth of the world is kept away from the discerning nostrils of London toward the traceless gray immensity of the sea. Then, when dissipation has marred her beauty, the woman is shown an outcast in the slums of New York, while her daughter is seen in dignified elegance and comfort, taking the place on the stage and impersonating her own mother.

On the same program with "Reputation" will be shown a "Snub" Pollard comedy, "The Chink," Allen World News, Allen Educational film and special musical program by the Allen Concert Orchestra.

"The Golden Snare," adapted from James Oliver Curwood's thrilling story of the same name, the feature attraction at the Allen on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week, is a worthy successor to those great motion picture successes, "The River's End" and "Nomads of the North," also filmed from the works of the same author. The irresistible appeal of the great North country, about which Curwood writes, permeates "The Golden Snare" just as it did its predecessors. It is a story of gripping mystery, thrilling adventure and a great love born out of the wilderness. It starts with the search by an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police for Bram Johnston, the "Loup Garou" man of the Arctic barrens, wanted for murder. It results in the discovery of a golden-haired beauty, whose mysterious presence in those frozen wastes remains unexplained until Bram Johnson gives his life for her. It ends—well, it is a wonderful story.

In addition to "The Golden Snare" will be shown a Christie comedy, "Man vs. Woman;" Allen World News, final episode of "The Hope Diamond Mystery."

present to the amazement and bewilderment of the Gopherites. Finally, when Erik makes a slip of the tongue, they indulge in loud and prolonged laughter, which ends Carol's brief effort to bestow intellectual uplift upon them, and brings the party to a sudden close. In the next scene, in the Kennicott bedroom, the episode of the operation performed in a lonely farmhouse is skilfully suggested through a telephone call which summons the doctor out 15 miles through a blizzard and which comes at the end of an acrimonious quarrel in which Carol has unloaded her griefs and grievances upon her husband and he in turn has warned her that she is displaying too keen interest in Erik.

The third act shows us the Kennicott living-room after it has been artistically decorated by Carol so that to Cy Bogart it looks "just like a Chinese chop suey joint." Here Carol discovers her husband's commercialism and his disregard for the ethics of his profession. On a sudden impulse she starts off for an impromptu picnic with Erik, planning to "walk right down Main street" with him to give the gossips something to talk about. Her return late in the evening is followed by a violent quarrel and her decision to leave Gopher Prairie.

The final act also takes place in the Kennicott living-room. Carol has been away in Washington for a year, and Maud Dyer, who has meanwhile become a widow, has been "running in" to look after the doctor, but the disorder of the room indicates that her efforts have not amounted to a great deal. Here follows a scene which is not in the book, in which Maud pleads with Kennicott to divorce Carol and marry her and Kennicott announces that he still loves Carol. This is followed by Carol's unexpected return, to be welcomed with open arms by the doctor. She declares that she will not give up the struggle to emancipate Gopher Prairie from its uncouth state, but confides that she has learned a new and wiser way of going about the task.

When the dramatized "Main Street" reaches town by all means see it, but if you happen to be one of the few that have so far avoided reading the book, by all means read the book first.

"The Wren," a new comedy by Booth Tarkington, had its premiere at the Gaiety Theater. It is all about a young girl who simply can't help mothering and managing all the people around her. She assumes charge of the affairs of a young painter who has become entangled with a sumptuous young matron. How she routs the latter and gains the desirable young gentleman herself is told in a delightful stage story that is full of rich humor and has a number of ingenious situations. Helen Hayes is the star.

"Ambush," a play by Arthur Richman, was given at the Garrick under the auspices of the Theater Guild. It is after the style of Ibsen in its general tone and atmosphere, and deals with the struggle between a wayward daughter and a rather futile father, who finally meets, and acknowledges, defeat when he is forced to accept employment at the hands of one of his daughter's lovers.

CLEVER COMEDY AT THE MAJESTIC THEATER

William A. Grew Players to Present "A Naughty Wife," a Story of Laughs, Thrills and Pathos.

And now for the treat of the season at the Majestic Theater all next week, when the Wm. A. Grew Players present to theatergoers a comedy full of laughs, thrills, pathos and humor, entitled "A Naughty Wife."

"A Naughty Wife" is a comedy in three acts, by Fred. Jackson and Edgar Selwyn, and is an every-day story of life as it is lived by the upper classes of the larger cities. The authors have handled their characters skilfully, and it is an assured fact that the Wm. A. Grew Players will bring forth the interesting points in a way that will prove a treat to all who see it.

Briefly, the story is that of the novelist, Hillary Farrington, so wrapped up in his work of writing stories that he spends much of his time locked up in his study or at his Long Island bungalow. He has a beautiful and petted wife, who imagines herself neglected and seeks elsewhere for company and consolation. A young philanderer, Darel McKnight, who makes a specialty of sympathizing with just such women as the wives of busy novelists, business men etc., comes upon the scene and endeavors to dispel the fair lady's disappointment and fill in the void made by the absence of the busy husband.

An unusual undertaking was carried out by the management of the Majestic in presenting to each patron an envelope containing a dividend from the management. The idea was entitled: "Pay Day," and created much surprise and amusement, and at the same time proved remunerative to many, who on opening their envelopes handed them by the ushers found in some instances a crisp bill nestling there. This popular procedure will be carried out every night next week, with the exception of Monday.

Scene from "Reputation, an elaborate production costing over $200,000, at the Allen on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday next week.

In The Grip Of A Man's Hand—

You Find Strength or Weakness—

What Does Your Grip Show?

Have you the firm, forceful power of a man whose blood is rich in iron—the kind that inspires confidence and wins success—or have you the feeble, hesitating clasp of a weakling, whose blood needs iron? Nuxated Iron builds strong, keen, red-blooded men and women.

If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to start taking Nuxated Iron to-day and watch its strength-giving, upbuilding effect. In two weeks' time see for yourself what sort of a change has taken place in the grip of your hand and the amount of strength and endurance you possess.

SOCIETY FOLKS SEEN IN BIG MOB SCENES

Starring Thomas Meighan at Loew's Theater Next Monday Tuesday and Wednesday.

A cast of "extra" people worth $75,000, at the $5 a day rate for mob supernumeraries, will be seen in the Paramount picture, "The Conquest of Canaan," starring Thomas Meighan, which will be shown at Loew's Theater next Monday. This cast was composed of more than 6,000 of the best citizens of Asheville, N. C., who volunteered to work in the picture. They were not ordinary extras—they worked for the fun of it. And the way they followed the instruction of R. William Neill, director of the picture, was remarkable.

For the residents of the town the stay of the Paramount company was like carnival week. Everybody jumped into the spirit of the occasion. It was fun, not work for them. The society of the town mixed with the "other half" and made one of the finest mobs that has been used in Paramount pictures in some time.

In addition to "The Conquest of Canaan" the program will include "The Hall Room Boys," comedy; Loew's Screen Pictorial; vaudeville, and Loew's orchestra, under the direction of Jos. Turi.

The announcement that Viola Dana will be seen in a new picture, "Puppets of Fate," at Loew's Theater on Thursday, for three days, will be glad news to the many admirers of this charming little screen star.

Especially will they be pleased to know that in this picture the magnetic little actress displays hitherto uncalled-for powers.

For her supporting cast Miss Dana has Frank McDonald, Jackie Saunders, Fred Kelsey, Thomas Rickettts and Edward Kennedy.

LOEW'S BUFFALO OPENS ON OCTOBER 17.

Marcus Loew will add another theater to his chain on October 17, when the new State Theater in Buffalo will be opened. The new house will play a policy of five vaudeville acts and feature films, doing three shows a day. Each show will be booked into the house for a full week stand, instead of changing programs on Monday and Thursdays, as is done in the majority of Loew houses. The house, which seats 3,000, will be managed by Al. Beckerich.

is only one of the many hundreds of wonderful Fur bargains which you will find described in the HALLAM 1922 Fur Fashion Book. This book has been the standard family Fur Fashion Guide for years, and will be sent to you

FREE

It gives advance information on fur styles, and contains nearly 300 illustrations of up-to-date fur sets and fur coats. There is no other book printed, nor any store that can show you such a selection of fur sets as are contained in HALLAM'S Fur Fashion Book. Illustrations are mostly photographs of living people wearing the furs, thereby producing the most natural results. No illustrations, however, can possibly show the wonderful beauty and quality of Hallam furs.

Hallam Furs

Less than Half Price

You can obtain Hallam furs this year at less than half the price that they were sold at last year. This is due partly to the drop in the price of raw skins, and to the fact that, as usual, I bought our furs at the very lowest ebb in the prices.

BUY Hallam FURS BY MAIL

"Direct from Trapper to Wearer"

It doesn't matter where you live in Canada, so long as His Majesty's mail will reach you, you can wear the latest styles and highest quality in fur coats or sets. Simply order by mail from Hallam. The price is the same to everybody—everywhere. I pay all delivery charges.

All Hallam Fur garments are high quality and wonderful value for the money—you can obtain them from me direct by mail at much lower prices than any furs elsewhere of the same quality. Every Hallam Fur garment is guaranteed.

Why I Can Sell at Such Low Prices

In the first place, I buy the skins direct from the Trappers and Indians for cash, and am the largest cash buyer of furs in Canada. Then, I sell direct to you for cash. This method saves you the various middlemen's profits, the fur dealer, the wholesaler, retailer, high store rent, sales clerks' salaries, bad accounts, etc.

Another big advantage is you can see the furs in your own home, and can examine them at your leisure without being influenced by anxious sales clerks.

If HALLAM furs do not please you in any way, you can simply send them back at my expense, and I will cheerfully return your money—you are not out one single cent.

You can be sure of satisfaction when you buy by mail from me. This is my guarantee.

DOES EDUCATION UNFIT FOR WORK?

Where Does the Young College Man Figure in Modern Industry?

IS THERE TOO MUCH SPORT?

Is Man of Culture Inclined to Look for Short Cuts?

The following thoughtfful and well-reasoned article upon "Education and Work" is taken from the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, of New York:

In an opening address at Union College, Dr. Charles A. Richmond, president, is quoted as saying: "However men may differ as to specific remedies for the present disorders, all men of sense agree at one point, and that is the necessity of getting back to work. In the four weeks of the war the fruits of the work of millions of men for many years has been destroyed. It is gone, and no amount of economic juggling will bring it back. If the prosperity of the world is to be restored it will be because we are all willing to work harder and to put more of ourselves into our work." And to this statement the speaker adds a particularization as follows: "The idea that in coming to college a boy is postponing his life work for four years while he floats down the stream of time untroubled by the hard realities that other young men of his own age have to face is not at all our idea of what a college means."

Inspired by these statements a severe analyst might ask—are we not as a people enamored too much by "athletics" throughout our educational course? Would not work be dignified and production increased if "needed exercise" were obtained in some useful employment outside of hours, rather than in mere games of skill? How often we read in the "biographies of great men"—"he worked his way through college!" And yet, considering the fact that the environment in which we live is to a large extent already made for us on our advent into active life, we must deem the query as somewhat captious. The sons of rich men who do not have to work their way through college also make successes of life. Nor can such odd work hours be made always to fit into our economic field. The comment of the education goes deeper than this reasoning might imply. And it does touch a vital spot in our present everyday affairs.

We read the League of Nations has given up consideration of disarmament because the world is not now ready for it—that disarmament cannot come until it is demanded by a public sentiment strong enough to maintain it if and when ordered. In a word the spirit of peace is not now strong enough. On a parallel plane, may we not ask, is the spirit of work for work's sake strong enough to settle our labor problems? And do our colleges take sufficient note of this? Do we all seek too much the easiest way in life? Are we impressed with the potency of the feeling that no matter how much we know, or have, our duty lies still in work? Do we really measure up to the truth that common labor is as necessary and useful as skilled labor? And do we rise above wage measurements in what we do? As we say—an iron environment surrounds us, and it is as natural growth. We have not abolished common labor and never will—only the theorists attempt it. Into this environment we are thrust when life really begins for us. Shall our aim be to escape all the "drudgery"? This requires definition. Can there be any greater drudgery than that of the office man, at his desk, even though he be an executive? Can there be any greater burden than the care of property, than the constant vigil which alone makes the plant a going concern?

If common labor could rise to the spirit of work for work's sake as the dignified duty of every man as he makes the most and best of his individual opportunities; if the skilled laborer and executive could descend in spirit to the plane that recognizes the inherent worth of all work to society; would we not come nearer to a basis of settlement? It is a difficult matter to discuss. We have spoken of a fixed environment—private ownership of property and pursuits ready-made and established for us, as elements of the example. These the individual cannot change and, as we think, should not. And one of the urgent necessities of life is to fit itself into this environment. And while each is necessary to the whole plan under which we live, a common recognition of the dignity and worth of work for work's sake would bring our growing "classes" closer together. And the spirit would be ripe for the adjustment of differences and disputes. This "spirit" cannot come while society as a whole is the victim of what is known as "unionization," a segregation into units that war with each other.

It is not so much a question, then, as to whether the college-bred man is more successful in business than his less fortunate brother as it is a question as to whether the educational process unfits him for a proper sympathy for his fellows, whether it inculcates a desire for the easiest way through the power of wealth rather than through the hard work, whatever form it may take, which realizing responsibility acts upon it. The business environment is, of course, subject to change, and is changing all the time—but it will always embody work, skilled and unskilled. Out of the changing whole—a changing, advancing, civilization! Every invention lessens the "drudgery," expands the field of opportunity—but only the fool believes there will come a time when man may live without work. And this work-a-day world is the environment that can never change. So that the educational ideal must prefigure ever the presence and not the absence of work. And work here must be defined as actual production in the ways, means and products of life, regardless in spirit of kind or station. Here is the common meeting ground for employer and employee. And here in the excess of the spirit will be found the fusing of those differences which are unavoidable, and without which ambition and emulation would fade into sloth and indifference. Not a change in the natural conditions inherent in the nature of things, but a change in the spirit which energizes, infuses and harmonizes all we do and are!

CANADIAN YOUNG MEN CAN SERVE THEIR COUNTRY BY JOINING TRADE SERVICE

Disappointing Result of Competition For Junior Commissionerships.

MANY OPPORTUNITIES FOR CANADIAN TRADE

Belgium Now Offers Particularly Good Field For Canadian Products.

The weekly bulletin of the Commercial Intelligence Service carries an article from the pen of Mr. H. R. Poussette, director of the service, in which he directs attention to the university results of the last examination for junior trade commissioner held in May, as shown in a letter on the subject from the secretary of the civil service commission. As a result of the examination it had been hoped to establish an eligible list from which future appointments could be made, but of 69 candidates who sat only four qualified as eligible for appointment—just sufficient to fill the vacancies—and another examination will require to be held. The written papers—confined to a test of general knowledge, such as any man between the ages of 21 and 30, with the equivalent of a university degree and some experience in business, should possess—displayed a very low average in general knowledge. It would appear that education in Canada, on which we are wont to pride ourselves, does not as yet fully equip the individual with that general knowledge so necessary to success in the commercial world. The questions set were such that no inside knowledge of the Commercial Intelligence Service of Canada was requisite, with perhaps one exception: "What are the functions of the Commercial Intelligence Service of Canada?" Judging from many of the answers the candidates had no ideas as to what the service was which they proposed to enter and could formulate none.

J. W. Rose, Canadian trade commissioner at Shanghai, cables that owing to wheat crop shortage wheat and flour is in demand.

ITALIAN INDUSTRIAL AND FINANCIAL SITUATION.

W. McL. Clarke, trade commissioner in Milan, notes as encouraging features in the Italian situation an improved politico-social condition, a very marked reduction in the number of strikes, an increasing investment of capital, a rising tone in the share market, a notable improvement in public finance, a considerable withdrawal of paper currency, an upward tendency in the exchange, a continued heavy tourist traffic, and a bumper wheat crop for this harvest. The most significant feature of the most recent trade returns is the reassertion of Germany's commercial pressure in supplying Italian imports. The three principal sources from which Italy drew her imports in the January to May period were the United States, Great Britain and Germany, in the order named. But whereas American imports increased 20 per cent. over those of the corresponding period of last year, and whereas English imports fell 41 per cent. German imports increased 107 per cent.

IMPROVED INDUSTRIAL SITUATION IN BELGIUM.

A. S. Bleakney, trade commissioner in Brussels, writes that a substantial improvement has taken place in the general commercial and industrial situation in Belgium. The metallurgical industry, the cotton trade, show great improvement, a better tone is noted on the financial bourse, as well as in the diamond and glass industries.

There is at present a strong demand for Canadian canned goods in Belgium. This includes canned salmon (pinks and chums), canned fruits, pears, apricots, canned and fresh apples, corned beef and meats, condensed milk, honey, cheese, butter, eggs and generally all food products, and the tendency is towards higher prices.

A. S. Bleakney, trade commissioner in Brussels, reports that whereas last year the flax market in Belgium was very bad, owing to an over large area being devoted to flax, with consequent low prices, the reaction has resulted in a crop, followed by a bad harvest, and the smaller area being seeded for this year's conditions necessary for active trading have thus arisen. Canadian flax sold at a very good figure last year and was well spoken of, and there should be an opening here this year for larger quantities. There are also openings for Canadian flour, oilcake, macaroni, compressed hay and hand tools and garden implements.

J. E. Ry, trade commissioner in Manchester, notes market possibilities for Canadian manufacturers who can turn out animals on wheels, with a good iron frame and well-finished wheels, and a good "sleeping doll."

NAVAL WORKSHOPS IN BERLIN REOPEN

But Now They Are Peace-Time Factories.

CLOSED BY TREATY

Commencement of Work Means Jobs For Unemployed.

BERLIN, Oct. 14.—The principal former military and naval work shops of the German Government which were closed in 1919 in accordance with the treaty of Versailles, have been reopened as "peace-time factories" and are producing goods more adapted to usages of peace than war.

Two hundred thousand workmen, thrown out of employment by the closing of the shops, have been re-employed.

Among the larger factories converted from military to commercial pursuits were the artillery workshops, ammunition, gunpowder and fireworks laboratories at Aberg, Dachau, Cassel, Erfurt, Ingolstadt, Lippstadt, Munich, Siegburg, Spandau and Wolfgang, near Hanau, as well as the navy yards and naval torpedo shops at Friedrichsort, Kiel and Ruestringen.

These factories are operating virtually full time, producing foundry products, castings and wrought iron, stamped and drawn pieces, all sorts of machinery, railroad supplies, motors, motor cycles, hand and machine tools, pneumatic tools, electrical utensils, ship machinery, motor and sailing boats, agricultural implements, furniture, locomotives, railroad cars, automobiles and auto trucks.

The work of transforming the war factories to commercial usages, undertaken by the Government with the permission of the council of ambassadors, was assigned to a stock company, shares of which were taken by the Government, the board of control being composed of Government officials and representative financiers and industrialists.

German demands are accounting for most of the output of these factories, but surplus products are finding a ready outside market, particularly in the Scandinavian countries, where the high price of money, as against the German mark, adds to the attractiveness of purchases of German wares. German-made automobiles are especially in demand by foreign dealers.

The manufacturers of farm machinery and railroad equipment are looking to Russia as a chief consumer as soon as conditions in that country have been stabilized, and already hundreds of representatives of German exporting firms have gone into the Soviet Republic to study the situation and prepare for a commercial offensive, in which the British are expected to be the most alert competitors.

GASOLINE UP A NOTCH.

Increase of a Cent Announced By the Standard Oil Company.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The Standard Oil Company, of New York, has announced an increase in the price of gasoline of one cent a gallon, making the wholesale tank wagon price 25 cents. The price of kerosene also was increased from 14 to 15c a gallon wholesale.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 14.—Purchasing agencies to-day announced an advance in quotations on various grades of crude oil. The new price for Pennsylvania crude is $3.25.

HYDRO ENGINEERS YOUNG, BUT GOOD

Paternal Note In Sutherland Report On Hydro Radials.

YOUNG MEN MAKING GOOD

Doubts of Investigators Do Not Influence Those Who Know.

BY J. E. MIDDLETON.

There was a note of paternalism in the majority report of the Sutherland Commission on hydro radials; a tacit suggestion that the engineers of the Hydro-Electric Commission were young and tender and not to be trusted with such an intricate and grown-up task as the construction and operation of an electric railway.

Yet the engineering department is already operating at a profit the Sandwich, Windsor & Amherstburg line. Two years ago the Detroit United officials declared that if the wages of the carmen on this branch were raised the revenue would be short of the necessary expenditure by at least $5,000. The road was purchased by the municipalities interested and handed over to the "Hydro" for operation. Immediately the wage increase was granted, yet at the end of the year the balance was on the right side of the ledger.

Engineers of the Hydro-Electric Commission directed the reconstruction electrification and equipment of the London & Port Stanley Railway, the pride of London people and the most efficient electric railway on the continent. The chief of the railway department of the "Hydro" has had valuable experience in New England, and one of his able assistants was in charge of the Niagara & St. Catharines when it was progressing from indigence to prosperity.

These engineers may be young, but they are not to be considered justly as either tender or green. The men who are constructing the Chippawa-Queenston power plant are young, but they are making a good job of it. The design was not determined until after the most laborious and exhaustive mathematical calculations had been made. The construction was not begun until the design was scientifically tested in every particular.

The engineering offices of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission are a nest of young Canadian technicians, thoroughly equipped professionally and full of that energy and initiative which are necessary in these times to keep step with the progress of applied science.

What they have done, with the approval and support of the commission, is a matter of record. By their labor the hydro-electric system of Ontario has become a notable organization and the most remarkable example of successful co-operation in the world. They are not clumsy enthusiasts or incompetent visionaries, but cautious, toughened men of action, with brains enough to prepare a scheme of estimates on any modern engineering proposition, and with backbone enough to stand behind that scheme and give reasons for their opinions.

It is not surprising that the municipal representatives of the Hydro Radial Association, who know the quality of the "Hydro" staff, are unmoved by the doubt and questioning of the Sutherland Commission.

ONTARIO ENFORCING FISH AND GAME LAWS

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—The Ontario department of game and fisheries has just concluded a legal campaign throughout the province calculated to stimulate respect for the act covering all matters pertaining to fish and game, and particularly that part which renders it compulsory for every dealer in raw furs to make monthly returns to the department.

Some 20 cases were brought before the court in various parts of the country and as many convictions registered. The act provides a fine of from $5 to $300 for a conviction or failure to make returns and the imposition of a fine automatically cancels the license. As a result of the department's action fines averaging around $20 or $25 have been imposed and some 20 dealers are busy explaining their future good intentions if their licenses are renewed. The department states that the aid of the courts was resorted to only after constant reminders had failed to produce the desired effect.

PLANNING BENEFIT FOR BRITISH UNEMPLOYED

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Unemployed British men and women in New York will be given a relief through the proceeds of a benefit to be given by the United British Relief Committee at the New Amsterdam Theater, Sunday, October 23. British and Canadian clubs and societies in New York are affiliated in the committee.

Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador, and Lady Geddes will be in attendance. Sir Harry Lauder will speak. Prominent Broadway stars will furnish the entertainment.

Prosperity of Canada Depends on Protection

MR. GLASS' MEETING

Executive for Annexed Districts Is Organized

"We can't afford to sacrifice Canadian labor on the altar of the half-[illegible] of Western farmers, under the leadership of Hon. T. A. Crerar," declared S. Frank Glass, late M. P., in addressing an organization meeting of National Liberal and Conservative supporters from the annexed districts of the city held in the old Baptist church on Egerton street last night.

An executive for the annexed districts which are included in the riding of East Middlesex, consisting of Ealing, Pottersburg, Chelsea Green and Knollwood Park, was elected and conveners for each of the polling subdivisions chosen. The executive from the annexed districts will form part of the riding executive which will meet in the city this afternoon to set the date for the East Middlesex National Liberal and Conservative convention.

The executive of the annexed districts is: President, John L. White, Pottersburg; vice-president, John Mills, Ealing; secretary, Rev. William H. Cooper. The conveners are as follows: Chelsea Green, S. W. Haynes; Ealing, Dan Joyes and H. Staffell; Pottersburg, John England and John L. White; Knollwood Park, Capt. J. C. Fletcher.

At the conclusion of the organization work Mr. Glass addressed the meeting briefly, touching principally on the tariff issue in the coming fight. He declared in his opening remarks that there had never been an election in the history of the Dominion of Canada in which the result was of greater interest to the masses of the people and especially to the workers than the forthcoming contest. He pointed out that the prosperity of the country was at stake in the attempt to change the national policy on which the country had made unparalleled strides during the past 43 years since its inception by Sir John A. Macdonald.

The speaker declared that the prosperity was challenged by a force which had risen in Western Canada, of which one strong faction was compsed of immigrants from the United States who had sold high priced lands in the United States and bought rich, fertile tracts in the Canadian Western at much cheaper prices. They appeared to be sympathetic in the country to the south from which they had come, and, although the farmers of the United States were supporting a protective tariff for their own industry, as well as for the manufacturing industry, these men when they settled in Canada became advocates of free trade.

"One can almost see an effort on the part of the former Americans to promote reciprocity or even annexation with the United States," Mr. Glass declared.

Free trade was a menace to the prosperity of Canada and the maintenance of a high standard of living, Mr. Glass declared. In this connection he pointed to the menace of the Oriental trade with its cheap labor if the tariff walls were to be removed as the farmers wished them to be.

Canadian industries would be unable to compete with the highly organized and specialized industries of the United States were the tariff removed, according to Mr. Glass. He pointed to the Ford plant at Ford, Ontario, and asked his audience how long that plant would be likely to run if it were possible to bring the product in free from the immense Detroit factory.

He touched briefly also on the changed attitude of Great Britain on the matter of protection. He pointed out that a high tariff had already been placed on a good many manufactured articles, and the Board of Trade had been given the power to put others on the protective list, where it was shown that they could be manufactured more cheaply in foreign countries to compete in the British market.

School Teachers to Ask Approval of Trustees

FOR NEW STUDY PLAN

Board Has Power to Authorize Such Education

The London Teachers' Association yesterday instructed its newly elected executive to draw up a suitable list of selections from the Bible that can be used in the public schools of the city. The teachers were almost unanimously in favor of Sadptural teachings being given a definite place in the school curriculum and decided to urge the London Board of Education to approve the executive's choice of selections.

Friday afternoon was the concluding session of the two-day convention of the association and at it F. J. Newhouse was elected president and with a new executive was installed in office. Rudolph Pinter, M. A., Ph. D., professor of educational psychology of Columbia University, gave two addresses in the morning and afternoon, his first containing suggestions for the extention of mental tests to business and his second dealing specifically with "The Bright Child," and the provision that should be made for him. Considerable discussion followed both of these addresses.

BOARD HAS POWERS

Some objection was taken to including memory work in the schools in connection with religious study, it being pointed out that "parrot" education was not the best. There was almost complete unanimity, however, when the motion drawn up by a special committee was put to a vote. The executive was empowered to prepare a schedule of the simpler passages from the Bible and to have this schedule approved by the Board of Education prior to being used in all the public schools of the city. It was explained that it was needless securing provincial legislation as the local board has sufficient power granted to it already to allow for religious education.

PARISH HONORS FATHER DIGNAN

Farewell Gathering Is Held at St. Mary's Church

BISHOP FALLON SPEAKER

Rev. Father Hubert Dignan, who for the past three years, has officiated at the St. Mary's parish of this city, was last night tendered a farewell ceremony by the people of the parish pending his departure for Chatham, where he will officially open and officiate at the new parish of the Blessed Sacrament.

The high esteem in which Father Dignan was held was evidenced by the crowd which filled the hall of St. Mary's Church. Father Dignan was a great favorite of the young people of the parish, as well as of those older.

A fitting address was read by Joseph Fevler on behalf of the congregation. Father Dignan, in his reply, expressed his great sorrow at leaving this city, where he has made his home during during all his life, as have his ancestors from as far back as the year 1870. His grandfather was one of the first to be baptized in this community. He also expressed his appreciation for the co-operation given him by the members of the congregation in his dispensing of the Lord's word, and although he was leaving this parish it was to open up another field for the furtherance of God's kingdom.

BISHOP FALLON

His Lordship Bishop Fallon was present and gave a fitting address, in which he congratulated Father Dignan on his being chosen for the first pastor of the new parish.

Miss Conroy read an address tendered on behalf of the school children. Besides this a purse of $400 was presented by James Murray on behalf of the congregation.

After the usual ceremony a social evening was held. The Imperial Orchestra, under the direction of Harold Payne, organist of St. Mary's Church, rendered music which was enjoyed by all. Several solos were given by Miss Dorothy Styles and together with several dances, given by Teressa Cooper, rounded out a good program. A fitting climax to the musical program was the hymn "Sweet Saviour Bless Us 'E'er We Go," sung by the school children.

PREMIER AND MR. KING IN MONCTON TOGETHER

MONCTON, N.B., Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—For the first time in their tour of the Maritime Provinces the two party leaders, Hon Arthur Meighen, the prime minister, and Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, came together in Moncton today. The premier and his party had returned from St. John en route to Chatham and Newcastle, while Mr. King and his party had not yet left Moncton for Sussex, when the premier's car pulled in.

They were both in the city practically the whole morning. The premier's train left at 2 o'clock this afternoon and that of the Liberal leader at 2.30.

The prime minister returns to Ottawa to-morrow night at midnight, while Mr. King will not arrive there before Wednesday of next week.

SUBTREASURY BANKS FOR COUNTY CENTERS

Hon. Peter Smith Looks for Deposits From Western Ontario Farmers

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Hon. Peter Smith stated to-day that in working out the Government's scheme of establishing subtreasury branches for receiving deposits from the public for Government use he would commence with branches in the cities.

"We will have a branch in Toronto and other of the larger centers," said Hon. Mr. Smith, "but I believe that places like Guelph, Stratford and Woodstock, which are the center of a thriving agricultural district and into which the farmers come more largely and regularly than into Toronto, will give us the best returns."

DEFER VERDICT IN LUCE INQUEST

Jurymen to Hear Evidence of Komoka Section Foreman

TRAIN CREW TESTIFY

No. 110 Was Traveling East on Westbound Track

The inquest into the death of Albert Luce, 8 Orchard street, who died on Monday night in Victoria Hospital from injuries received when was struck by passenger train No. 110 a short distance west of Komoka, was last night adjourned until Tuesday night at 7.30, owing to insufficient evidence.

Edmund Jarvis, of Sarnia, fireman on the train, stated that the deceased was about 50 yards ahead of the engine when he first noticed him, that the accident occurred about half a mile west of Komoka and when traveling in an easterly direction. As soon as he noticed the man he called to the engineer and blew the whistle. The engineer immediately applied the brakes. The fireman and engineer statd that the bell, an automatic affair, was ringing all the time. The accident happened about 3.18 in the afternoon.

He stated that the train was traveling east on the westbound track, owing to some repairs being done to the culvert near this point.

Dr. Edwin Seaborn, who attended the man, stated that he had received several slight external injuries and had also received a ruptured lung, ruptured vessel of the heart and a ruptured stomach, any of which would have caused death.

TRAVELING SLOWLY.

George Tuskey, the engineer, stated that they were traveling about 10 or 15 miles an hour when the accident happened, as they had slowed up while passing over the bridge and when he noticed the man the train was on a curve and he thought that the deceased was about to get off the track. When neither the fireman nor himself had seen the man get off the track they came to the conclusion that he had been struck and the fireman stated that he had looked out and had seen the man lying on the ground near the end of the train.

Thomas Parker, conductor; Edward Dibbs, brakeman, and William Rogers, baggageman, were unaware of the accident until the train had come to a stop and they had made an investigation.

A verdict was deferred until the section foreman, Leonard Stillson, of Komoka, could be brought in to give his evidence as to whether the man had been warned that the trains were to pass over the westbound track when going in an easterly direction.

The inquest was adjourned until Tuesday night in the police station at 7.30 p.m.

More Months and More Miles

Some motor-car owners figure battery life by miles—others by months—of service. Both are suited with the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery.

Willard Threaded Rubber Insulation is the secret of the "most miles of uninterrupted service per dollar" of this battery. As its name implies it is made of rubber and threads—rubber to insulate the plates, threads to make the rubber porous. It puts extra strength at a point where many batteries are weak. It puts an end to reinsulation worry and expense. It lasts the life of the plates.

You can get the extra months and miles of battery service only by buying the Willard Threaded Rubber Battery. You can recognize it immediately by the Thread-Rubber Trade-Mark, stamped in red on the side of the battery case.

Coal Selling In London At Only One Dollar More Than The Bostonians Pay

Boston coal dealers this week announced an increase of 50 cents per ton on nut and stove coal and 25 cents per to on other sizes. With the announcement of the increase, which brings stove and nut coal to sell at $15.50 per ton and furnace and egg to the consumer at $15.25 per ton, Boston dealers express the opinion that the new prices will be the schedule for the winter months. A represenitative coal man said the increase is a natural one, due to the steady increase of 10 cents per month in the wholesale rate to the retailers since last May. London dealers are selling at $16 and $16.50 per ton.

While no definite plan was formulated at the recent conference in Boston of the legal officers of New York and the New England States relative to the new Pennsylvania coal tax, it is considered not at all unlikely that action may be started on behalf of the several states to test the constitutionality of the law in the United States Supreme Court. The conference, which was held privately, was attended by Attorney-General Charles D. Newton, of New York; Attorney-General Oscar L. Young, of New Hampshire; Attorney-General C. F. Archibald, of Vermont; Attorney-General Ransford W. Shaw, of Maine; Deputy Atorney-General C. T. Dawes, of New York; Fuel Administrator Eugene C. Hultman, of this state; William S. Hyde, commissioner of labor and factory inspection of Connecticut, representing the attorney-general of that state, and Attorney-General J. Weston Allen, of this state, accompanied by Assistant Attorney-General Alexander Lincoln and Edwin H. Abbot, jr.

In 1913 Pennsylvania passed similar legislation to the bill now under protest, which was declared to be unconstitutional a year later in the state courts. The coal producers meantime, however, began to pay the tax into the state treasury, although protesting its legality. The tax was passed on to the consumers. When the law was found to be unconstitutional a rebate was made to the companies. This rebate was then made by the companies to large consumers, but there was no way of rebating the small customer.

Operators and Miners Are Opposing Mine Cave Bill

WILKES-BARRE, Oct. 14.—Anthracite coal operators are being given the support of an unexpected ally in their fight against the Kohler-Fowler mine cave bill. The United Mine workers, through some of their leaders in district No. 1 of the hard coal fields, are joining with the coal interests in opposing a bill, which, they say, is imposing added hardship on the coal industry. The offer of support came voluntarily from the miners' union. It was addressed to the Glen Alden Coal Company, which has been compelled to close six of its collieries in Scranton and vicinity because future mining might have meant a violation of the new Pennsylvania law.

COMPANY GIVEN IMMUNITY.

President William J. Brennan, of the union, and other leaders met with the representatives of the committee for the purpose of arranging terms on which the mines might be reopened. The miners' officers said that while their interest in the matter is directed primarily toward giving 5,000 idle miners employment, they were also concerned in the walfare of the anthracite industry. When the mines closed that number of men were thrown out of work.

After conferring with company officials the miners' committee went to the mayor and councilmen of Scranton and asked that the Glen Alden be given official immunity from prosecution under the law if the mines were reopened. This immunity is to be given, the miners state, provided the company will repair whatever surface damage results. The Glen Alden has guaranteed all such repairs.

The action of the miners is considered the biggest blow that has yet been struck at the Kohler-Fowler bill. Their sentiment is widespread among men in the mines and it is expected to have a vast influence in eventually bringing the matter to a point where the Supreme Court will declare the law unconstitutional.

W. AUSTRALIA'S OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Expected to Flourish With Development of Railways.

MUCH POTENTIAL WEALTH.

Great Possibilities in Agriculture and Minerals.

PERTH, W. Australia, Oct. 14.—The importance of agriculture to a new country can hardly be exaggerated, and the successful development of this primary industry represents the progress of a community. The war, of course, was a great stimulus to agriculture the world over, and even in England, where the movement was more and more a "return to the land."

Western Australia, the least developed and explored of the six states of the Commonwealth, is yet, in extent, the greatest of all, and embraces no less than 624,538,800 acres, compared with the meager area of 32,590,400 acres which comprises England and Wales.

The comparative backwardness of the western state compared with those in the east is explained partially, at any rate, by geographical factors, for until the Transcontinental Railway was opened Western Australia was completely isolated from the rest of the continent except by sea. The railway has made a big difference and the outlook for the west is bright.

The department of agriculture is well to the fore in Western Australia in regard to up-to-date development, more especially concerning agricultural education, and an interesting statement in this connection was made recently by the minister for agriculture.

IN TOUCH WITH FARMERS.

His object, he explained, had been to try to link up the technical officers of the department with the bank inspectors and farmers' associations, so that, in addition to reaching the farmers directly, touch could be secured by other methods. He hoped, too, to reach the farmers' children through the school clubs organized by the education department, as well as directly. He went on to state that he had taken a review of the technical officers already in the department, together with the functions which they were filling—and which he desired them to fill.

Consequent upon that he had decided to augment the technical staff by the appointment of three assistant agricultural advisers who would act as assistants to the specialists already in the department. One of those assistants would devote himself entirely to dairy work and would follow up the work which the dairy expert carried out at factories, so that this assistant would visit farmers whom the factory results indicated were in most need of advice and give it to them. The other assistants would devote most of their attention to the northern and southern portions of the southwest division of the state. Directly, and through the agricultural bank inspectors, they would be in almost constant touch with the farming community in their respective areas. In accordance with modern practice these men would have received a sound training in the science of agriculture and would be required to specialize in their particular lines. If available, men who had received their training at the local university would be given preference, as it had been decided to correlate the work of the university with that of the department.

AGRICULTURAL CADETS.

In addition to these advisers it was intended to appoint a number of agricultural cadets in order that thoroughly trained technical officers would be available to meet the development of agriculture in the state and the consequent expansion of the department of agriculture. Those cadets would also be available to assist the present technical officers. It was intended that the terms of engagement should be sufficiently liberal to attract the best of our youths for that purpose. They would be selected not only because of academic attainments, but because of other personal characteristics which would insure that they would be the right type for their important mission in life. Because academic attainments were not the only test country lads would have the same opportunities as city lads. The young men selected would be afforded an opportunity of taking either the degree or the diploma course at the university, but prior to taking that they would be required to do one year's practical work on a farm, orchard, or butter or bacon factory. During that time they would be required to show that they were industrious, energetic, earnest, tactful, and had a taste for their future calling.

"I have decided upon this phase of reorganization," continued Mr. Maley, "because, just as the education department requires to insure that its teachers are trained, so does the department of agriculture require to see that its officers, who are to impart the latest knowledge to the agricultural community, have been trained in the natural sciences underlying the practice of agriculture. For example, it is not sufficient that a dairy specialist nowadays should be familiar only with the art of butter making. He must also be up-to-date and able to hold his place with similar officers in other parts of the world, and, to do this, he must have studied the natural sciences underlying his art. Unless steps are taken to insure that our future officers receive proper training the department can never hope to fill its proper function in the agricultural community. It is anticipated that the savings which will be effected in other directions, particularly the transfer and reduction of the accounts staff, will be such as will enable us to carry out this new and increased departure without great, if any, increase on previous expenditure."

LATENT WEALTH.

The latent wealth in the far northwest of Western Australia, pastoral, agricultural and mineral, is, up to the present, practically untapped, and surveys made by men of the soundest judgment show that the thorough development of this vast, rich area would pay many times over in results for any capital outlay. The lack of any adequate, and in some isolated parts, any system at all of railways is felt more acutely in the northwest than in any territory of the Commonwealth, though the crying need throughout the continent is for a bold railway policy which would build railways running out into the wilderness. A broad-minded policy like this would result in the vanishing of the wilderness, and the many desert places would yield abundantly under the stimulus of greatly increased railway facilities.

This railway development will come at last in Western Australia, though the capital expenditure, if construction is to be on an adequate scale, is at the present time quite prohibitive. When this development does come, however, it will not be surprising if the "far west" becomes the most flourishing and important of the states, as she is the largest.

TO FORCE CUT IN U. S. RAIL RATES

Public Sentiment Strong on Subject, Say Congressmen

TO BE LIVE QUESTION

Congress May Act If Commerce Board Refuses

WASHINGTON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Railroad rates in the United States are going to be forced downward. This is the conclusion of the best informed members of Congress who have been watching the railroad situation keenly and who at the same time, in the course of the recent recess of both Houses, have been visiting home states and have been feeling the pulse of public sentiment. The reports brought back to Washington by members of both Houses as to the bitterness of the farmers and shippers generally against high freight rates of the railroads are striking in their unanimity.

Senator Cummins, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Commission, predicts rates, especially agricultural rates, will be forced downward. The roads themselves are taking steps toward some reductions. The Interstate Commerce Commission has before it a proceeding to bring about reductions on grain, grain products and hay. There is talk in Congress that if the commission does not lower rates Congress may step in and exercise the authority it undoubtedly has to lower rates itself.

BETTER SERVICE IN CANADA.

Talk about Congress is also that in keeping rates high as they have the roads have pursued a short-sighted policy and have aroused needless public opinion against them without adding to their receipts from traffic. One result of the public feeling on the subject has been to arouse increased Government ownership talk. Among farmers and farmers' organizations there is a noticeable feeling that the Canadian roads are serving their agricultural constituents much more intelligently than those of the United States. The strong and growing pressure for waterway improvement, for such projects as the one via the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence and the one of great development of barge traffic on the Mississippi, as well as free tolls through the Panama Canal and the building up of United States shipping for the coast trade through the canal—such pressure is greatly strengthened by the antagonism to the present level of freight rates.

Predictions are freely made that the railroad question, including the rate question, will be much in the limelight in Congress this fall and winter. The fight begun in the Senate by the agricultural "bloc" against any tax on transportation is an indication of the situation.

The recent report of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the consolidation of the United States railroads into a score of systems, thus simplifying the present management, is bound to attract much notice. While there will be opposition to some features of it, it is an interesting fact that the Interstate Commerce Commission has been advised there is marked railroad support for it. There is no reason to doubt the railroads of the United States will undergo a gradual process of consolidation, the weaker roads being swallowed up by the stronger.

MODEL FLAT PART OF THE DOMESTIC SCIENCE EQUIPMENT IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—On the assumption that most girl pupils some day will marry and make their homes in small city apartments, public schools here are being equipped to teach them how to keep house economically and efficiently under those conditions.

Part of the equipment of the domestic science department of each of the new standard school buildings opened this year is a model flat, filling the space of one ordinary schoolroom and including a kitchen, living-room, dining-room, hall, bedroom and bath.

Adjoining the model flat is a large cooking room and three small kitchens, separated by railings, the entire unit providing for the instruction of 40 pupils at once.

Letters to the Editor

A Defense of Theosophy

Editor Free Press. May I have space to comment upon the sermon given by the Right. Rev. Bishop Williams in St. Thomas on Sunday, September 25, as reported in the issue of the St. Thomas Times-Journal of the following day?

My purpose in writing is to attempt to correct misconceptions which may have arisen in the minds of some, as the result of the denouncements made by his lordship from time to time. I would not base a letter of this nature on a newspaper report, were it not that I have myself heard him make similar statements from the pulpit in St. Paul's Cathedral and therefore have no reason to believe that on this occasion he was reported incorrectly.

I quote a portion of the reported sermon, which contains three very definite charges. "(1) It (theosophy) is utterly contrary to the teachings of Jesus Christ, (2) all movements of that kind deny the divinity of Jesus Christ, and without belief in Christ's divinity there can be no true Christianity. (3) The whole structure of theosophy is cradled in fraud, falsehood and immorality."

On the first charge one can only say that if his lordship meant that theosophy is contrary to present-day presentations of Christ's teachings his statement was substantially correct. But that which Christ taught and the interpretations the church of to-day puts on His teaching may very conceivably be two entirely different things. Do away with the creeds, theological dogma, and doctrines with which Christianity has adorned itself and we find little in Christ's teachings that is not contained in the ideas of brotherly love between man and man and perfect justice between God and man. With such ideas theosophy in no way conflicts.

If there may be any possible ambiguity in the first charge there can be none in the second. The implication is that theosophy with other kindred systems of thought denies the divinity of Jesus Christ. This is either an intentional or an ignorant misrepresentation. Theosophy in no way denies this, it does not attempt to belittle the Christian conception of Christ's divinity, it merely raises the concept of man out of the mire of superstition and irrationalism wherein the church has held it so long. The theosophical teaching is that man being the son of God is himself divine. If the first two words of our Lord's Prayer mean anything at all, they mean this. The difference between Christ and man is a difference of degree and not of kind. He is divine in actuality; we are divine in potentiality. If the ideal of love, wisdom and power held up to us in the life of Christ is altogether beyond the attainment of man, then, to use St. Paul's words when dealing with this same subject, "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." The misconception that theosophy denies the divinity of Christ is a common one and it is regrettable that his lordship was not better informed.

In passing it is interesting to note that the bishop says: "Without belief in Christ's divinity there can be no true Christianity." Is the test of true Christianity in belief then, rather than in the manner of life? One often wonders if this is not true of modern Christianity, and his lordship lends support to this idea when he says: "Christianity itself is a bundle of beliefs — prepared for us by Jesus Christ in His teaching." If this is in any sense true, it is here that Christianity and theosophy differ widely. The one purpose behind all theosophical knowledge is to enable its possessor to lead a more Christian life—I use the word Christian advisedly. The mere belief in theosophical theories does not make the holder a true theosophist. Is it the existence of this difference between theosophy and modern Christianity, which prompted the committee appointed to report on theosophy to the Lambeth conference of bishops to state that "the attraction of theosophy for many thoughtful Christian minds lies largely in its presentation of Christian faith and life as a quest?" In employing the word thoughtful the committee showed rare appreciation for the fitness of words, it is only thoughtful people who are attracted towards theosophy and that it should attract Christian people of this class does not auger well for the current presentation of Christianity.

The third charge laid against theosophy is that "the whole structure of theosophy is cradled in fraud, falsehood and immorality." The Toronto Globe reported this statement as "the whole theosophical thought, etc." It is therefore difficult to know exactly what his lordship had in mind when he made these general statements. It is hardly necessary to point out that such charges as are indicated by these statements are without foundation in fact, and cannot be substantiated. Even were very true, surely it is patent to every thinking person that the criterion of any theory is truth, and of any system of teachings is in the life it inspires its adherents to live, and neither theory nor teaching is in any way affected by the source from which it comes.

The object for which the society was formed is:

1. To form a nucleus of the universal brotherhood of humanity without distinction of race, creed, sex, caste or color.
2. To encourage the study of comparative religion, philosophy and science.
3. To investigate unexplained laws of nature and the powers latent in man.

In the report of the above-mentioned committee is to be found the following statement. "The committee recognize frankly that there is nothing in the Christian faith which precludes sympathy with the pursuit of the three stated objects of the Theosophical Society."

The society does not proselytize, it merely stands ready to supply a rational and practical explanation of the meanings of life to those who feel the need of it. This the church signally fails to do and herein lies the special danger of theosophy to organized Christianity.

What is the purpose behind these violent arraignments? Perhaps it is contained in the bishop's words: "These (Christian Science and Theosophy) are the most dangerous theories that are abroad to-day and the most necessary to avoid." Dangerous to whom, and in what sense? Since the day is admittedly past when man, like an infant, allowed himself to be fed intellectually by some exterior imposed authority, we can see that these two are dangerous only to irrational and dogmatic Christianity. The Lambeth committee perhaps sensed this danger when they said in their report. "x x x we must admit that different schools of thought within the church are alike in danger in falling into a stereotyped line of teaching, into a narrow dogmatism and traditionalism forgetful of the needs of such souls as are deeply conscious of the mystery into which all known truths shade off and of the fascinating and perplexing questions on which Bible and creed alike leave speculation free. x x x like Clement and Origen we may claim all life and learning as food for thought, developing what might be called a true Christian theosophy, embracing the spiritual experience of poets, saints and mystics, and reverently speculating beyond the borders of revelation, so long as we hold fast to the historic facts of the creed and to the sacramental communion of the church.

Again in the Encyclical letter covering the whole deliberations of the conference we find the following: "On the other hand, it must not be forgotten that these movements (Spiritualism, Christian Science and Theosophy) are very highly symptoms and results of reaction against materialistic views of life. We cannot but sympathize with persons who seek a refuge from the pressure of materialism. It is the part of the church to afford such a refuge, and, if it fails to do so, there is something wrong with its own life." The question therefore presents itself: Does the church afford such a refuge, moreover a refuge wherein the refugee may develop anything which may be called a true Christian theosophy, embracing the spiritual experience of poets, saints and mystics, and reverently speculating beyond the borders of revelation? We earnestly believe that such is one of the outstanding imperative needs of the church to-day, and in the degree in which it fails or succeeds to establish an office, may be measured the future usefulness and life of the church. We can conceive that the formation of such a center within the church would forever remove the difficulties which surround such questions as church union and the the relation of the church to outside movements, if it did not indeed remove altogether the cause which gives rise to such movements.

The Theosophical Society is in no sense adverse to intelligent criticism of either theosophy or the society, on the contrary it ardently welcomes it, but it does not resent, and probably not without justification, abusive misrepresentation. It has been the latter rather than the former which has characterized Bishop Williams' pronouncements on these subjects, and in so doing he has shown a deplorable lack of knowledge on the subject on which he was speaking. Had he made the study of the subject that would have been waranted by the statements he made, we feel satisfied that he would have refrained from such broad and sweeping charges, not on account of any possibility of his having become reconciled to our beliefs, but because a study would have perhaps disclosed to him the eminent Christian spirit which underlies one of the most elementary of theosophical teachings, namely charitable tolerance towards the beliefs of others, which seemingly his own faith has failed to reveal to him.

I wish to apologize, Mr. Editor, for having presumed upon your patience and generosity to this extent. My excuse is that for some time past, the cause which we espouse has been the subject of attacks of unwarranted malice and we feel that in justice to all concerned the public should be given at least the opportunity of hearing the truth on these matters.

R. H. CRONYN,
President the Theosophical Society,
London.

London, Ont., October 13, 1921.

NOTE—The report above referred to and from which various extracts have been quoted is the report of the committee composed of 37 bishops appointed to consider the report upon the Christian faith in relation to (a) spiritualism, (b) Christian science, and (c) theosophy. This committee was appointed by the conference of bishops of the Anglican communion held at Lambeth Palace, July and August, 1920. The report is contained in the encyclical letter with resolutions and reports of this body. The conference consisted of 252 archbishops and bishops from all parts of the world.

In making the above extracts it has not been the intention to give the false impression that the report of the committee on theosophy was as a whole favorable towards theosophy.

CRITICS OF THE PARTY SYSTEM REBUKED.

Editor Free Press: I.—Owing to the rather unusual interest shown by the rural population in the matters of government, I think it would not be out of place to give, through your columns, a treatise upon the House of Commons. In so doing I trust I shall do no injustice to those who are condemning the party system as handed down to us by our forefathers as the best workable system consistent with the national defects and merits of the race of which we are proud to belong.

(a) The House of Commons is an electoral chamber. It is the assembly that chooses our executive; but because the House of Commons has the power of dismissal in addition to the power of election, its relations to the premier are incessant.

(b) It is the office of the House of Commons to express the mind of the Canadian people on all matters which come before it.

(c) It ought to teach the nation what it does not know.

(d) To lay all grievances and complaints before the people of the country at such times as it thinks necessary.

(e) Finally, it has this function of legislation: The function of law-making, financial and otherwise.

II.—How does the House of Commons become able to govern at all?

(a) Of all odd forms of government the oddest is government by a public meeting.

(b It is a saying in England, a big meeting never does anything, and yet we are governed by the House of Commons—a big meeting.

(c) The principle of Parliament is obedience to leaders; the penalty of not doing so is the penalty of dissolution. If everyone does as he thinks is right there will be 235 amendments to every motion, and none of them will be carried or the motion, either.

The House of Commons governs because it is an organized body. It must possess organization, and that organization must be party organization.

III.—Now, as for party organization:

(a) The House of Commons lives in a state of perpetual potential choice. At any moment it can choose a leader and dismiss a leader, and therefore party is inherent in it.

(b) Party obedience is enjoined because the premier can coerce, by a threat, to dissolve Parliament.

(c) The party's maintenance of power is thus dependent upon obedience of its members.

(d) Efficiency in an assembly requires a solid mass of steady votes and these are collected by a deferential attachment to particular men or the principles represented by these men, and they are maintained by fear of these men.

(e) Party organization as a basis of efficiency, is permanently so because it is not composed of warm partisans. The best way to lead party members is to effect a studied moderation.

(f) There may be several courses of action, but the one decided upon is the one which meets the approval rather of the average opinion of the members. Nor are the leaders of the House of Commons eager to carry party conclusions too far. They are in contact with reality; promises, when in opposition, differ materially from courses of action when in power.

(g) The House of Commons as a public body, to be workable must not alone possess organization, but must also possess independence. The constituencies must leave it alone.

Constituencies created by geological divisions, while not a perfect system, is the best system yet devised consistent with the moderation of Parliament.

IV.—Does the House of Commons govern well? Who is the judge?—Canadian people.

(a) Does it elect a ministry well? A perfect Government is one which decides perfectly. According to vote of the country? Tried by this rule the House of Commons does its appointing well. It chooses rulers as we wish rulers to be chosen.

V.—Does it legislate well? I think Parliament passes laws as the people wish them passed.

VI.—Does it perform its expressive function well? Similarly and subject to some exceptions it expresses the nation's opinions in words well when it happens that words, not laws, are wanted.

VII.—Does it perform its teaching function well? The teaching function of Parliament's task is done worst. The greatest teacher of all must be the prime minister. He has an influence for giving great tone to the discussion or a mean tone, which no other man has.

In conclusion it is quite evident that party system is the best workable system yet devised. What party system must have is a strong, capable prime minister and a strong following, so that the best interests of the nation can be looked afer in a business-like way, and that the interest of not one class, but all classes, can be served. The safest rule for the voter to go by is to choose the strongest leader, the best policy and the candidate who pledges himself to support that sane leader and a tried policy.

It is plain to all that what Canada needs is a definite policy, carried out by a strong leader.

"O'er modes of government let fools contest,
That form that's best administered is best."

"Fruit-a-tives" Corrects It.

It is generally recognized among the medical profession that Constipation or Insufficient Action of the Bowels, produces more disease than any other one cause. Constipation is responsible for at least 90 per cent. of the disease in the world to-day—because Constipation is responsible for the Indigestion and Dyspepsia—the nervousness, Insomnia and Rheumatism—the Eczema and other skin troubles—the Headaches and Backaches.

Why is this?.

As you know, it is the duty of the bowels to carry off the waste matter in the system. If the bowel muscles are weak or the liver inactive, then this waste matter remains in the body and poisons the blood. As a result, every organ in the body is poisoned by this waste.

"Fruit-a-tives" has been wonderfully successful in relieving Stomach Troubles, Nervous Troubles, Liver Troubles, Kidney Troubles, Skin Troubles and Blood Troubles, because "Fruit-a-tives" positively and emphatically relieves Constipation.

"Fruit-a-tives" will always relieve Constipation, even though the trouble has been chronic for ten, fifteen and twenty years. Thousands of grateful users proclaim "Fruit-a-tives" the greatest remedy for Constipation that the world has ever known.

The World's Greatest Tonic —the New WINCARNIS

A scientific medical preparation that contains powerful mineral restoratives necessary to the human body.

Glycerophosphates of Calcium, Potassium, Sodium in combination with Iron and Manganese and Beef and Malt Extracts with Red Wine.

The Economy of Wincarnis

The ingredients in Wincarnis are highly concentrated. The prescribed dose is one to two tablespoonfuls, (not wineglassfuls as in the former preparation.)

The New Wincarnis, therefore, will go further, and be found more economical than other tonics, so-called, requiring a much larger dose.

THESE are the very mineral elements so necessary in proper degree in the human body. But thousands and thousands of people are unable to properly absorb from their food an adequate quantity of the mineral salts so necessary to health, strength and vitality, and the result is Weakness, Lassitude, Nervousness and general Run Down condition.

Even people who are not conscious of being really ill are suffering from not getting proper nutrition from their food and are not rebuilding wasted tissues of body and brain—Women who are soon tired with little exertion—Business men whose nerves are shaky—Stenographers and clerks who lack vitality and ambition—are deficient in these vital elements of body and brain.

It is here where lies the wonderful value of WINCARNIS, for it presents the elements of Calcium, Iron, Manganese, Phosphorus, Sodium, in such form that they can be readily absorbed into the system. So that if you are not 100% efficient in health—if you are weak—if you tire quickly—if your nerves are shaky—if you feel run down—your body needs the re-vitalizing elements contained in WINCARNIS.

You Need WINCARNIS

WINCARNIS will supply you with the very elements necessary to enable you to reconstruct exhausted energy, replace your lost vitality, enrich your impoverished blood—strengthen your nerves —rebuild the wasted tissues of body and brain.

YOU try it. Buy a bottle to-day. At all druggists. Price $1.50 for 16-oz. bottle.

Letters from Many Lands Tell of Wonderful Results

SUCH is the ever-growing reputation of Gin Pills, that not only do letters come to us in one continual stream from all parts of Canada, proving their efficacy, but people in other lands write to tell of wonderful benefits derived from their use.

Look To YOUR Kidneys

If you suffer from headaches, pains in the sides or back, dizziness, lassitude, or brick dust deposits, it is clear the kidneys are not properly throwing off poisonous secretions.

To avoid such serious ailments as rheumatism, sciatica, lumbago and stone in the bladder, the kidneys must be restored to normal action and the blood stream cleansed.

Gin Pills regulate the kidneys, allay inflammation and bring permanent relief.

I am writing a short testimonial for the public to read, telling them of the great cure I received from your great Gin Pills.
When I started to take this remedy, my health was practically ruined, and I could not bend my back to stoop and take anything from the ground, without pains in my back. I thought that I would not be able to do my work any more, but with the kind aid of your pills, I was able to do my work once more. I advise any person who is troubled with this disease to take Gin Pills. They are worth their weight in gold.

I was several times advised by medical doctors here to go "outside" and have an operation performed for gravel. Several of my friends here recommended Gin Pills to me. I have used Gin Pills ever since, and they have completely cured me, and have also cured my wife of a very painful back. I cannot too highly recommend Gin Pills to the public in general.

When I sent for the last box I was all crippled up with rheumatism, and my face was so badly swollen that I could hardly see out of my eyes, but after taking about six of the pills I felt some better, and after a few days I had no more pain and am sure they are a very good pill. I have recommended them to some of my friends. I never intend to be without them.

I was a clerk in a store in Jamaica, but had to give up my position on account of kidney trouble. I purchased one box of Gin Pills from a local druggist, and before it was all finished I was entirely better and able to return to my work. I recommended them to a friend who was also in a similar condition, and he tried them, with the same good results.
I may tell you I tried many remedies in Jamaica before I got your Gin Pills. I can without the slightest hesitation recommend them to anyone, as I know what they have done for me.

I was at work at Montreal about ten years ago, and was taken with pains in the back. I was recommended to take Gin Pills. I was only at Montreal six months when I came back home again. I had very great relief from the Pills and have recommended them to hundreds of people in different parts of England and Scotland, and I have given a great lot of Gin Pills away to people who have been troubled with their back.
Wm. Osboud, of Selly Oak, Birmingham, suffered for a long time with rheumatism and swollen feet. I gave him twelve pills and he felt so much relieved that he asked me to get him three boxes, and for the last twelve months he has never felt any more pains. I got some of your pills for another man, who was suffering with sciatica, and he is now well. Scores more people I have introduced your Pills to have sent for more and state that they will never be without them. I have just sent for three boxes for people I have recommended them to.
Thanking you and your Pills for the relief they have given me and scores that I have recommended them to.

"Do Your Christmas Shopping Now and Avoid Disappointment Later On."

CHRISTMAS is just nine weeks away and ones' thoughts already turn to gifts for dear friends far and near, and to-day the Free Press presents a page of progressive dealers, whose thoughts, ever for their clientele, advise an early purchase of gifts while stocks are at their best and the matter of choosing one of keen pleasure rather than a last minute rush just a few days before the day of Days—Christmas, when stocks are depleted and selection and satisfaction laborious effort.

A small initial payment at any of these representative stores will assure you of complete satisfaction with your purchase and at the same time assure you of not being disappointed later on. You can choose a lasting gift of jewelry from John A. Nash, who boasts a stock of a thousand and one articles, any one of which would make a suitable gift. A jewelry shop is not necessarily a high-priced store, as evidenced in the announcement wherein some two hundred articles can be selected, and all under five dollars.

The Bicycle & Motor Sales Company advises the purchase of a bicycle for "that" boy, coupon being attached which is good for one dollar on the purchase of a Red Bird bicycle. Nothing more appropriate than one's photo for a suitable yuletide gift, and Gleason, the photographer, announces a fifteen per cent. reduction on all sittings arranged the coming week, thus assuring quality work and satisfaction rather than last-minute work, which invariably results in dissatisfaction.

Thomas' advises a gift of furniture, and just now, while furniture and home furnishing stocks are complete, the suggestion is one that will appeal to a host of readers. J. P. Finnegan advises the purchase of a Beatty White Cap washer and wringer as the gift supreme for "her," and with mighty easy terms of payment this opportunity will result in many a London housewife being made the proud recipient of a washer for Christmas. Beemer & Company present a novel suggestion in a five-passenger Reo sedan, and a gift to be thoroughly appreciated by the happy recipient. Imagine the surprise and delight at the home where this dandy car drives up in front of on Christmas Eve.

Furs are a necessity during Canada's cold, wintry days, and the Artistic Ladies' Wear Company advises selection now, when a most elaborate stock of quality fur coats and scarfs await your inspection. A small deposit now and your purchase is secure until wanted. While talking Christmas may seem a little premature, it's just around the corner, and the early shopper is the satisfied shopper. A word to the wise is sufficient. Resolve to-day to jot down a list of your friends and start in making your purchases from this page of progressive dealers, whose Chistmas Cubs offer exceptional and timely gift suggestions.

"Gifts That Last"

There is no gift more joyously received, more treasured for its beauty than Jewelry.

TIMES APPROVES HARDING'S STAND

Wants Something Practical From Washington Parley.

NO AIMS AT UTOPIA

Manifesto By Navy League Is Called Inconsequential.

LONDON, Oct. 14. — The London Times, in an editorial this morning, designates as "the wise words of a practical statesman" President Harding's statement that what he wants at the Washington conference is "something practicable that there is a chance to accomplish," repeating also his assertion that the desirability of universal disarmament at this time might well be questioned.

"We commend them," adds The Times "to the mediation of all who fancy that this imperfect world cannot be effectively policed unless the policeman continues to carry his 'big stick.'"

The paper declared that it is encouraging that the United States "does not aim at utopian ideals such as appear to be suggested in the curious, inconsequential manifesto from the British Navy League, which it publishes in another column. This manifesto was submitted to The Times by officials of the Navy League as a memorandum adopted by the organization's executive committee. The memorandum, discussing the Washington conference, says: "The principal problem, the limitation of naval armaments, treated purely as a material one, does not appear possible of satisfactory solution of these lines, for we are forced to the conclusion that it is not a material problem at all, but a moral one."

COMPLAIN OF SHIPPING.

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Speaking at the annual meeting of the Colonial Bank, the chairman, C. F. Wood, complained of the luck of adequate shipping facilities to the West Indies. He considered that the present time, when abundant shipping was lying idle, was appropriate for reconsidering the question of a subsidized service.

CUT ARMIES IN TWO, SAY WOMEN

Harding Gets Real Suggestion From Correspondent.

MORE SUGGESTIONS LATER

Speaker For Citizens' Disarmament Committee Writes.

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—Another chapter of the correspondence between President Harding and Miss Ella L. Fried concerning the coming conference on limitations of armament was made public to-day by "Miss Freed," who added that the president had misread her name, which really is Miss Ella L. Fried.

The United States president made public on Wednesday a letter, in response to one from her, in which he gave his first extended public outline of what he hoped to see achieved at the conference.

Miss Fried said she had written a reply urging him to propose a reduction by one-half of present armaments. The letter read: "I asked you what you meant by 'reasonable limitation.' You say you mean 'something practicable.' That is exactly the same thing you said before in other words. Synonyms are not definitions.

"Permit me to ask you whether you consider a reduction of the world's military burdens by one-half reasonable or practicable? If every one of the nations at the conference agrees to reduce its armament one-half their relative strength would remain as great as before. That is clear, I hope. "Then why not suggest one-half reduction? When that has been done, the women of the world will furnish you further suggestions as to what is reasonable and practicable."

Miss Fried, aged 23, lives in Pittsburg. She has been serving as a speaker for the citizens' disarmament committee.

JAPAN INCLINED TO IGNORE CHINESE NOTE

PEKIN, Oct. 14. — Japan is inclined to ignore the Chinese note rejecting her proposals relative to negotiations involving the Shantung question, according to most reliable information here. This would leave the position of Japan as it was following the presentation of the Tokio memorandum by M. Obata, Japanese minister here, in September.

It is declared that Japan expects China will attempt to bring the Shantung problem before the Washington conference, but Tokio is relying upon the solid support of the signatories to the Versailles treaty in opposing such a move, because if China's claims were recognized, it is asserted, other non-signatory nations would be encouraged to protest against clauses distasteful to them and thuse the treaty might be invalidated. Japan expects her stand in this matter will leave Shantung open to future direct negotiations with China.

BOLSHEVIK RUSSIA IN ROLE OF MEDIATOR

PEKING, Oct. 14.—Bolshevik Russia intends to offer its mediation between China and the Mongolian republic in an effort to establish amicable relations, it is asserted in a statement issued by the Rosta News Agency, the official Soviet organ in Peking. The agency makes public a note addressed to the Mongolian revolutionary government now controlling outer Mongolia, under the military auspices of the Soviet administration in Moscow, urging the necessity of re-establishing peaceful business relations between Mongolia and China.

NORMAND EXPLAINS POSITION IN CABINET

So That President of Council Might Be French-Canadian Subject.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Oct. 14.—"There is only one big reason why I accepted the position of president of the council in Premier Meighen's Cabinet, and this important reason is that while the prime minister of Canada will be an English-speaking citizen, the president of that minister's council will be a French-Canadian subject. This promise has been made to me by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen."

This declaration from the Hon. L. P. Normand, president of the council in the Meighen Cabinet, was made at the first meeting the new minister held here last night at the city hall.

Hon. Dr. Normand announced that the prime minister would come to Three Rivers in a month or so and would then repeat the declaration he made in Sherbrooke, Toronto and Montreal, that nobody could reproach him with having in any of his speeches in the House of Commons said a single word against the sentiment of the French-speaking and Catholic Province of Quebec. The minister declared that protection was the only suitable policy for the industrial center of Three Rivers and the St. Maurice valley.

DELEGATE TO SOCIALIST CONGRESS IS ATTACKED

LONDON, Oct. 14. — Menotti Serrati, delegate to the eighteenth Italian Socialist congress in session in Milan, on leaving the congress last midnight was attacked by a man with a cane, says a Central News dispatch from Rome today. A large crowd encouraged Serrati's assailant and other Socialist delegates rushed out and joined in a general melee. Police intervened and the crowd was broken up. The dispatch says the attackers were followed by Socialists, who fired revolvers, injuring several persons.

TWO SETS OF OFFICIALS ACTING FOR UNIONS IN KANSAS FIELD

PITTSBURG, Oct. 14. — With two sets of union officials functioning in the Kansas coal fields as a result of an order by John L. Lewis, president of the international union, suspending members of the Alexander M. Howat administration and creating a provisional organization to take charge of affairs, interest in the situation to-day centered about a mass meeting of miners at Franklin, at which it was understood a permanent program would be determined.

The suspended officials so far have declined to permit George Peck, local member of the international board, and Thomas Harvey, designated by President Lewis as acting president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the district, to take charge.

WANT ROUMANIA NEUTRAL

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 14. — The Turkish Nationalists are much alarmed over rumors that there is to be military co-operation between the Greeks and Roumanians in Thrace. They have requested the Moscow Government to bring pressure on Roumania to maintain neutrality in the Greeco-Turkish conflict.

An Exhibit of Studebaker Enclosed Models

OCTOBER SEVENTEENTH TO TWENTY-SECOND

IN the new line of enclosed cars of all types and models now on exhibition in our show rooms, Studebaker presents an assemblage of closed bodies that represent the finest examples of the coach builder's art. They are all the more remarkable because of the low prices at which they are offered.

¶ There is an irresistible appeal, in these models, to the eye that considers beauty of line, finish and appointment—and an equally strong appeal to the mind that considers mechanical details. Studebaker's infinite capacity for taking pains is expressed in the various body designs. Studebaker's well known engineering genius is shown in the several types of chassis.

¶ You are invited to view this exhibit during Studebaker Closed Car Week, October Seventeenth to Twenty-second.

GHOSTLY SILENCE AWED WRECKERS

Thrilling Tale How Old Bennett's Dam Attacked.

PIONEERING IN HURON

Contract Fulfilled, Defender of Mill Suddenly Vanished.

By Annie Fulford.

This is the story of the end of Bennett's dam, as old John McVeigh was fond of telling it to his grandsons. Old age had not spoiled his memory nor his enjoyment in recalling early settler days in Huron County. The site of the dam was about a mile and a half below what is now Grand Bend, but in those early days not even the fishing village had grown up. There is scarcely a trace of the green banks that marked the ends of the big dam, for years afterwards its remains were washed away by the released waters.

"There was no two ways about it—the dam wuz floodin' good land that the settlers wanted and destroyin' good timber they needed—and the dam must go. It wuzn't as if the mill wuz any use to the settlers, either, fur when anyone axed Bennett to saw any lumber fur him, Bennett just flourished his contrac' in his face, as one might say, and said he worked fur the Gover'ment and 'twould break his contrac' to saw fur anyone else—Gover'ment money ware sure and a lot more uv such twaddle. We wanted the land and we wanted the lumber; more and more settlers came crowdin' in from the front of the township and talkin' grew loud, but some said the dam bein' gone wouldn't drain the land anyway, fur 'twuz too level. Others said 'twould help a lot and some wuz hot foot fur the hull thing to be knocked out in short order. Some wanted to buy, but Bennett wouldn't sell, and there we wuz at a standstill.

A BAD MESS.

"At last me and old Daddy Dean and Jim Hodges wuz appinted to go and see a lawyer about it, and what he said we all agreed to do, though some hotheads wanted to go uv a dark night and spile the dam, thinkin' that would drive Bennett out, but others said 'twould be a bad mess if he showed fight, and none uv us knowed how much law he could bring against anyone that meddled with him, so at last it wuz settled to abide by the lawyar's word. Well, us three went to town and hunted up what wuz said to be the leadin' light in the law and put the case to him. After considerable talkin' he told us we could just do nothin' to Bennett and his precious dam by law. Accordin' to his contrac' the Gover'ment reely gave him a pension, and he could make them pay fur the lumber, whether 'twaz wanted in the town or not, as long as there was a tree to cut. But—he went on to say—if the settlers went in a mass and destroyed the dam, he was positive there would be nothin' done fur Bennett in punishin' or the like, but every man uv age in the settlement that wuz affected by the dam floodin' the land wuz to be present, sort of standin' in the same row, or back to back, in a scrimmage, everyone in and no hangin' back.

EVERYBODY TO CHEER.

"Well, we went home with this advice, and word wuz sent to all hands to meet on a set day at Daddy Dean's and start together for the dam. Men wuz appinted to hit the fust axe blow and all hands wuz to cheer them on, talkin' the same blame as them. But fur some reason or 'nother five or six men wuz missin' that day—some young fellers that wuz sweet on Bennett's daughter, Mary, as purty a maid as ever walked on shoe leather, and one that everyone liked. I s'pose they didn't like to do anything to annoy her dad, even if everyone knew she wuz to marry Joe Gilsen in a few weeks, and some that hung back wuz just nat'ral windbags and went empty when work wuz on. There wuz a lively time at that meetin' The hot heads wuz bound to go on, and 'twuz all us older ones could do to keep them in bounds, but fin'lly we got them to wait and set another day in a week's time and promised faithful the missin' ones should come or be run out uv the settlement.

"Things wuz quiet. The day uv the second meetin' came and Daddy Dean and Jim and me counted heads, and, sure enough, all hands wuz there, some with ox teams and some with horses, some with both axes and guns and some with axes and crowbars and anything they thought would be uv use; and we set out fur Bennett's dam. There wuz some cur'us feelin's in that crowd. Some wuz plain scart, both uv law and uv bein' hurt if it came to blows, and none uv us knowed but what 'twould be a fight, and that last prospec' tickled some young fellers, always ready fur a scrap. Some that wuz worst scairt tried to hide it by keepin' up a noise; some just as bad scairt kept quiet. None of us knowed just what to expect, fur, as Jim Hodges said: 'You can't tell by the looks uv a frog how fur he can jump,' and we all knowed Bennett was no coward, and the more you think uv it the more onreasonable it looked that he'd let the place be destroyed and make no fight over it; but whatever our feelin's wuz, we wuz all determined, now we'd started, we'd see the thing through to a finish.

A GHOSTLY SILENCE.

"We wuz all so noisy and excited on that march that no one noticed till we wuz plumb in the clearin' that the mill wuzn't runnin'. I guess we all sensed it at once and came to a sudden stop, and them that wuzn't scairt before wuz uneasy now, fur here was a puzzle. We knowed that Bennett had heerd what wuz afoot; wuz him and his mill hands, and mebbe some hired Nnjuns, waitin' in the saw mill ready to shoot anyone that begun breakin' the dam? We talked fur some few minutes and the scairt ones wuz fur goin' home, but Daddy Dean says, 'No; come on, John,' to me 'I'm goin' to see the ins and outs of this. Nobody'll kill old men like me and you.' The others agreed to wait and we went on across the clearin'. Not a sound anywhere. We got plumb to the door and saw no one; went inside, and everything wuz still; the old, upright saw wuz standin' halfways through a log, the heap of sawdust still layin' there. We looked rund kind uv sheepish and feelin' queer when we spied a piece uv paper — the tough, brown kind (I'll never forget the looks uv it) fastened to that same big log, and on it was writ in good big letters: 'Go ahead, friends, and welcome. My contrac' expired to-day at noon and the place is yours.' Daddy Dean and me just took one look at each other and shouted and laughed till we wuz helpless, when the others came crowdin' in around, hearin' us so tickled. We felt some considerable flat, but everyone wuz relieved, just the same, over not having a fight to destroy the dam.

WHAT HE MEANT.

"We found out afterwards what he meant by his contrac' bein' out that day noon, and 'twuzn't his Gover'ment contrac' he meant. Seems the reason they came to the pinery at all wuz because his wife had consumption and the doctor said 'twould help her to be in the pine woods—they allers allowed she lived two years longer because of the move, and she made him promise to keep their girl their till she was 18 anyway, to save her from danger of that same disease, and Mary wuz 18 at noon that day uv our march. Since she wuz to marry Joe Gilsen and live here, her father allowed he'd not make her any enemies, or, as he told me years after, he'd have fought us to a finish, but I didn't believe him—Mary wouldn't have let him.

"Anyway, that is how the thing happened long before you were born."

SARNIA END OF 1,000-MILE PIPE

Oil For Imperial Company Brought In This Manner.

SARNIA, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Sarnia, the Imperial City, with a population of 15,000 people, may be said to live, move and have its being through the Imperial Oil Company, whose works are situated on 160 acres of land within the city's limits, and which employs, in normal times, approximately 1,500 persons.

Few people realize the enormous quantities of materials handled by this company, in connection with its Sarnia plant, nor the facilities which are a part of it.

The crude oil is brought to this city through pipes which are over 1,000 miles in length, and a vast quantity, amounting to some 3,500,000 barrels, arrives here every year by this route. Out of this great quantity of crude oil the Imperial Company manufactures all grades of gasoline, illuminating oil, lubricating oil, greases, candles, fuel oils, etc. The crude oil is pumped into the stills, out of which they get a lot of distillates, and from these comes the refined article, for which, in normal times, a ready market is always found.

PIPED FROM U. S. A.

About 160 miles of this great length of pipe line is owned by the Imperial Pipe Line Company, reaching from Cygnet, Ohio, at which point the Imperial Pipe Line Company connects with the main trunk pipe lines of the United States, and which requires for its upkeep and repair a small army of employees. The Sarnia plant has its own water pumping system, capable of pumping upwards of 25,000,000 gallons of water a day, and used principally for condensing purposes. Besides this there are facilities for handling electric current, although hydro power is used almost entirely at the present time. The fuel requirements to operate this plant, whether oil or coal, is equivalent to about 200,000 tons of coal a year. The greatest quantity of gasoline and fuel oil refined at Sarnia is shipped out in bulk steamers during the navigation season, when the distributing stations at various points are stocked up with products in sufficient quantity to carry them through the winter months.

VITAL TO SARNIA.

With such a plant as this within its confines it is not an exaggeration to say that the Imperial Oil Company is vital to Sarnia. With 1,500 persons earning their livelihood directly from the company, in wages, it may safely be said that 6,000 more are supported, just as directly, by the wages of its employees. And indirectly, the merchants of Sarnia are supported by the company, because they daily supply this army of employees and their families with food and clothing and the necessaries of life. Thus Sarnia and the Imperial Oil Company are one and the same, the one proud of the development of its infant industry, which grew from two chimneys and a shed to its present giant proportions, and the other proud of its employees, all Sarnians, amongst whom has always existed a splendid spirit of co-operation which has gone so far in bringing this industry to its present high state of efficiency and production.

GAS CONSUMERS' ASSN. IS ACTIVE

Has Fought For Two Years Against Increased Rates.

BRISCO IS THE PRESIDENT

Mayor of Chatham Says Good Work Has Been Done.

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The Municipal Gas Consumers' Association was formed in Kent County and extended over the whole of Western Ontario, for the purpose of assisting the consumers of gas in their fight against increased rates demanded by the producing and distributing companies. The association has been in existence for two years and they have been very active during that time, waiting upon the Government and conducting negotiations with the producing companies.

The Consumers' Association was brought into being about the time the Union Gas Company endeavored to cut off the services of the municipalities who refused to grant the increased rate. At that time they appealed direct to the Government and were successful in getting an order from the Government that no service should be cut off until the Government conducted a survey of the gas field and made an audit of the Union Company's books.

Since then the association has been chiefly concerned in the audit of the books and the survey of the field, and in each of these respects the Government has not satisfied their demands. Samuel S. Wyer, of Columbus, Ohio, was appointed to make a survey of the field and the association appointed a representative to assist in that survey and to represent them in the whole matter. That representative, who was J. W. Aitken, of this city, expressed himself as dissatisfied with the manner in which the survey was conducted, and so reported to the association. He prepared an independent report on the survey, which in several instances was at variance with the report of the expert engaged by the Government for the purposes of the survey.

TAKEN INTO CONFIDENCE.

At the time the Gas Act of 1921 was passed, the association was taken into the confidence of the Government and they were asked to pass upon the natural gas bill before it passed the House. It is claimed that this bill met with the approval of the association at the time and it was through their recommendation that Drainage Referee George H. Henderson was appointed gas referee. Since the act has been put into effect, however, the association have expressed their dissatisfaction with the working of the bill and the manner in which Mr. Henderson has carried out his part of the duties imposed upon him in the bill. A hearing was held in the city at which certain rates were struck by the referee, which were considered too high. Special complaint was made against the service charge of a dollar a month during the summer months which was granted to the gas companies.

As a result of the energies of the association another hearing was held in this city and the gas referee promised to give the question further consideration and intimated that the service charge of a dollar a month might be withdrawn or reduced.

Mayor Brisco, of this city, is the president of the association and one of its strongest boosters, notwithstanding the fact that at the last meeting of the City Council there was an attempt made to withdraw Chatham's name from the list of members. This matter will be settled at the next meeting of the Chatham City Council.

Mayor Brisco points out that the association has done excellent work in boosting the consumers' interests. In the first instance the companies were asking for a rate of 76 cents for their gas. As a direct result of the work of the association this rate has been reduced to 45 cents and the association are determined that it will be still further reduced.

"The work of the association has been a success," said Mayor Brisco its president, "and there is still important work ahead."

TILBURY ASHAMED OF 40-YEAR-OLD "RELIC"

TILBURY, Oct. 14.—The Tilbury Times of this week says, very pertinently: "The condition of the M. C. R. depot here is a disgrace to an otherwise progressive and live railway town. Surely the railway company must be aware of the fact that the office is still lighted with kerosene lamps, while the unlighted waiting room at nights is as dark as the inside of an infidel—although occasionally lighted by an old smoky stove. But the climax is reached in the toilets—old rough-board affairs, exposed to the open elements and impossible of description without resorting to indecent language, and which should have long ago been condemned by the board of health.

"While the town is this year spending $100,000 in paving and water works, and has up-to-date electric light and natural gas systems, this 40-year-old M. C. R. relic has neither water, electric light, paving nor gas, and then this foreign management will point with pride to the hundreds of millions spent in depots at Detroit and other points.

With the largest freight and passenger business of any point between St. Thomas and Windsor, Tilbury has the worst conditions on the line—conditions which no self-respecting Michigan town would submit to 24 hours, and which would require the pen of a Sinclair Lewis to describe."

FREAK VEGETABLES ARE REPORTED FROM PERTH

STRATFORD, Oct. 14.—This has been an unusual year in the vegetable kingdom. Fresh proof of this is furnished by Mr. R. Wilton, 90 Earl street, a well-known market gardener. With a long experience in gardening Mr. Wilton finds himself unable to account for the fact that his carrot crop is half parsnips. This morning a reporter was shown several carrots with parsnip tops, and, more than that, the queer freaks had gone to seed the first season, instead of the second as is customary. A third strange feature of the freaks is that in the rows Mr. Wilton found that invariably an ordinary carrot was followed by a freak, or else two good carrots came next to two "parsnip-carrots." A number of the vegetables are of purple in color—still another freak characteristic.

BEET HARVEST IN KENT IS LARGE

About 200,000 Tons Taken From 20,000 Acres.

CHATHAM, Oct. 14.—(Special to The Free Press).—The sugar beet harvest in Kent County has been a most successful and satisfactory one, according to the reports which are received from the rural districts. The acreage this year has not been as heavy as some of the former seasons, for special reasons which were governed by the unmanufacture of sugar from the beet root.

At the opening of the season, when it was impossible to tell where the price of sugar would go, the company announced that they would accept this year only 20,000 acres of beets. It was settled condition of the sugar market. Practically all of the beets grown in Kent County are delivered to the Wallaceburg and Chatham factories of the Dominion Sugar Company, and this year the company has pursued a very conservative policy in the matter of the not very long before this acreage was fully taken up, and the taking of contracts was discontinued. Long after the company had received its full quota of acreage they received offers from farmers to grow the crop, and if they had desired, there is no doubt they could have secured fully twice the acreage they contracted for.

From this 20,000 acres of beets it is estimated that the tonnage delivered to the factory will be fully 200,000 of beets. These beets are already being delivered, and Manager Houson, of the Dominion Company, states that the deliveries are sufficient to keep both factories in operation, and he contemplates that there will be no delays until the beet run is completed.

The farmers are reported to be perfectly satisfied with the results of their labors, and beet growing, which has become one of the staple industries on the farms of Kent promises to retain its popularity in future years.

How I Make $18 to $20 a Week -Right at Home—Without "Going to Work"

"I have now given up all idea of going back into an office to work," writes Miss Cummings. "I often wonder why more girls do not stay at home and do this pleasant, profitable work instead of going to business." Read Miss Cummings' remarkable story in her own words.

By AMY D. CUMMINGS

As the train slowed down and stopped at our little country station, I found that I lacked my usual happiness in coming home.

I loathed myself for every getting sick and having to give up my business position in the city.

Two years' work in an office had changed me, and when I got home everyone said, "Why Amy, how thin you are!"

My purse was thin too, but I didn't care—at least I tried to make myself believe I didn't.

Country air and rest soon did their work—built me up and made me well and strong again—but my purse was still very empty. It was necessary for me to earn money, for my father is a farmer and the prices of farm products had dropped very slow, leaving other prices still soaring.

I was entertaining very serious intentions of returning to the city and getting another office position.

Then, on coming in one day, I found my mother all smiles. She was absorbed in a magazine article, and as I entered the room she read these words aloud, "How I make money at home."

"By hunting eggs and milking cows," I answered flippantly.

She only smiled and said, "Read this, Amy!"

I took the magazine and read the page. It gave the experience of a woman whose husband's income was insufficient. She felt she just had to make extra money, but could not leave her home and children to work outside. Finally, she heard of a hand-knitting machine called the "Auto Knitter." The company that manufactured it offered to make a contract with each owner of a machine to pay for the woolen socks made with it—and to replace the yarn. The rest of the article told how the "Auto Knitter" helped this woman to make the money she needed.

Well, this sounded as good to me as it had to mother, and the result was that we wrote to the Auto Knitter Hosiery Company for the particulars, and later secured one of the hand-knitting machines.

"The Auto Knitter" justifies the saying, "good goods are done up in small parcels," for it is small and light, easy to clamp on any table and equally easy to run. Many of our neighbors soon called to see it and the "Auto Knitter" was quite the topic of conversation for a while.

When we had learned to run the machine, and people saw the splendid socks it made, two or three of our friends began to seriously consider getting Auto Knitters themselves.

The company is always ready to accept and pay for socks made according to their directions, and their wage checques come back very promptly, together with the replacement yarn.

I have now given up all idea of going back into a city office to work, for I am making from eighteen to twenty dollars a week with the Auto Knitter, and I do it without leaving the protection of my home. I have earned all my Spring clothes, and a very coveted wrist watch too. Besides I have a fund that is to pay for a trip this summer.

I often wonder why more girls do not stay at home and do this pleasant profitable work instead of going to business. Some girls think, of course, that there is no fun in the country. This idea is largely based on the fact that milking cows and other farm work doesn't appeal very strongly to most girls. At least it didn't to me.

But give those same girls a way to make money and have nice clothes, minus the slavish work, and they would probably think the same as I do—that a home in the country is the best place in the world.

It takes me ten minutes to make a sock, on the average, and my younger sister can knit with the machine almost as well as I can.

Mamma has never regretted getting the Auto Knitter for me, and I am delighted to have this way of making money at home, for now I am my own manager.

Instead of more than half my wages going for board and carfare, as they used to in the city, I have the cash I make for home comforts and many other things that I have long wished for. Mamma is writing too. She wants to tell you what she thinks of the Auto Knitter.

Amy D. Cummings, Ontario.

The following letter was received from Miss Cummings' mother. It gives additional interesting news about what the Auto Knitter means to this Ontario farm home.

* * *

This is certainly a strenuous time we are living in, especially for those who have daughters who are obliged to enter city life to earn their own living in business offices, factories, or stores — at salaries of $10.00 to $15.00 a week. Out of this a girl has to pay $8.00 a week for board and $2.00 for carfare. The old saying, "working life out to keep life in" surely came true in the experience of our girl in business, and to make matters worse, she contracted the "flu." This left her rundown in health and she was obliged to come home in the fall for a rest.

How we longed for a way to keep our dear girl at home with us all the time.

Finally, as my daughter has written, we found out about the "Auto Knitter" and the company's offer to buy socks made on the machine.

We sent for one and our girl was very much pleased with it. With the aid of the splendid instruction book she could knit a pair of socks in an hour the next day after receiving the machine. Of course practice made her more speedy, for now she finds no difficulty in making a pair in twenty minutes.

This means an average of $3.00 a day, or $18.00 to $20.00 a week, and that by only working the same hours as required in a city business office.

Instead of paying out all her money for board she can dress nicely, and take her holidays when she wishes. Besides earning clothes, our former business girl and her sister have helped to make the home more beautiful by adding some new articles of furniture, a new rug for the parlor and new window hangings.

Our girls tell their papa they are planning on having a moist air pipeless furnace installed in our home this coming winter—and that the Auto Knitter will pay for it.

My husband says a knitting machine like the "Auto Knitter" is more necessary in a home than a sewing machine —and we all know what a sewing machine means to a family.

Just to think—the only expense we had was for the machine and the first supply of yarn, as the company replaces the yarn each time we send them socks. In addition, they pay express charges when we send 10 dozen pairs of socks at a time. We consider the "Auto Knitter" a good investment and a boon—for it keeps our girls at home.

Our own town merchants highly appreciate the work the Auto Knitter does, and we have received several good orders to fill for their winter trade.

Mrs. W. E. Cummings, Ontario.

How You Too Can Make Money At Home

Miss Cummings' experience, which you have just read in her own words, is only one of many. She has been one of our most successful AutoKnitter workers, for she gives regular business hours to the work, but we have hundreds and hundreds of letters from other women, and men too, telling of their success in varying degrees, according to the time devoted to the work, and how they made the extra money they needed—without leaving their homes or neglecting their families. So why shouldn't you do it too?

The Auto Knitter Hosiery Company has helped to solve the "extra money problem" for home women because it offers steady, regular, well-paid home work. There is no expense for materials after the first. There are no strings tied to the Wage Agreement: it is a straight, out-and-out offer at a fixed wage, on a piece-work basis—a good pay for your services.

The Auto Knitter comes to you with a sock already started in it, and a complete instruction book that makes everything plain. You will find the work fascinating and it will enable you to have many of the pretty things to wear and the new things for the home that you have wanted, besides supplying money for other purposes.

FARMERS OUT AT PLOW PRACTICE

Combine Work and Pleasure In Anticipation of Matches.

INDIANS WILL COMPETE

Sheep-Worrying Still Cause of Complaint In Brant.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 14.—The thorough drenching which this district received over last week-end was welcomed by the farmers, for it was greatly needed. The dry state of the land has hindered fall plowing to a considerable extent, and the rains, while to the city man more than copious, were not more than needed to this end. Many of the district farmers are out plowing for practice as well as for work, for the county fall plowing match isn't far off; and, following that, the provincial plowing match comes off at Woodstock, and there will be many entrants from Brant, particularly from the reserve, for the Indians consider plowing a fine art and have won many competitions in open matches. Incidentally it may be noted that the fall plowing season opened this year much ahead of usual and, except on the dry lands, the work was much in advance of the average.

Apple picking, potato and root harvesting are taking up much time these days, when plowing is not being done. Early apples were practically a failure, and so were early potatoes. The latter varieties of each were much better than expected and served to keep down the price to the city consumers. But quality, in the case of apples, is much lower than usual. The exhibits at the district fall fairs was sufficient proof of this if more proof were needed than the showing on the market here.

The Brant County Seed Fair will be held as usual next spring. The Brantford Township Council made a grant of $100 to help the fair along. Last spring was the first one held in Brant, and it proved very successful.

Sheep-worrying dogs are still a pest in Brantford Township. At the last meeting of the Township Council the account of A. E. Reeder for $20 for four sheep killed by dogs was paid. The account this year has been very heavy.

The Indian school fair, held on the Six Nations Reserve during the past week, was more successful than ever, with entries the largest ever recorded. Among the exhibits were five colts, 40 crates of barred rocks from eggs supplied by the department of Indian affairs, and a large number of calves, all grown by the youngsters. The Indian farmers of to-day will be hard put to keep up with the rising generation.

MANITOBA BUTTER EXHIBITED OVERSEAS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 15.—An exhibit of four 56-pound boxes of Manitoba butter is now on the way to the British Dairy Farmers' Association show, which opens in London, England, on October 18. It was made by the Crescent Pure Milk Company, of Winnipeg, and the Shoal Lake Creamery Company, of Shoal Lake, Man. Both these concerns have won many prizes at Canadian and American exhibitions.

A publicity campaign, under the direction of the provincial dairy commissioner's department, will be launched in England, where an extensixe advertising plan will be followed and posters used to advertise the fact that the butter was produced in Manitoba.

"Manitoba has developed its dairy industry to the point of exporting between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 pounds of butter annually," Hon. George H. Malcolm, Minister of agriculture, asserts, "and the province should use all legitimate means to secure publicity abroad for the excellent quality of Manitoba butter."

After the exhibition the butter will be presented to the Canadian Hospital for Invalid Soldiers.

PEGGY WADSON.

How do you keep your cooking recipes, Mrs. Housewife? Are they bunched loosely in an envelope, where you have to sort over the whole pile whenever you want one? Or do you slip 'em in between the pages of your cook book, where they are never findable and liable to fly out and hide just when you're in a hurry? It's not to be supposed for a minute, now, that you have a regular filing system and can find any given recipe almost in the dark. But that is what we shall have to do if we are to be up-to-date housewives, according to Agnes Athol, writing in this month's issue of Pictorial Review. I thought her scheme very practical and interesting, so am passing it on to you today. She says: "A cook book, such as my mother used to keep, was, I suppose, an extinct method of wasting time peculiar to a bygone generation. But I have been perfectly amazed at the number of hardworking housekeepers who are clinging to their old, dog-eared blank books—you know the kind I mean—with recipes hastily scratched in on both sides of the pages, and newspaper clippings pasted here and there, or, more often, waiting to be pasted in, along with baking powder booklets and the recipe from the raisin box. Every time anyone took down the alleged cook book most of this miscellany fell out. There would be a particular pet recipe for chocolate frosting or eggless muffins written on half a sheet of note paper, almost illegible from much greasy handling, which somehow could never be located until the whole book had been thumbed through.

"I know I'm slow finding mother's rule," one of my friends responded when I stood ready to make the gingerbread for her, "but it's so much better than anything in the cook books. Everything in this old book is extra good because it has been personally recommended by someone." Which was very true, as I had reason to know. But in the minutes my friend wasted many times over, hunting for elusive directions, she could have copied the recipes neatly on cards and put them together in good order, accessible to anyone.

"But, my dear," she objected when I suggested converting her cook book to a card system, "it would take ages and ages, and lots of them I've never tried out. I don't really know whether they're good or not. It would be a waste of time to copy them." It would. It had been a waste of time to accumulate them and not use them, or only to pass them over whenever she wanted to do some baking. "The ones you really want could be pasted right on cards." I ventured. "You ought to take an evening some time and fix them up. The rest should be thrown away. . ." I had been looking over the book as I talked, wondering what she could possibly want with cakes taking 10 eggs, of which there seemed to be a variety. "But I don't like cards much, anyway," was her final protest. "I know the book's falling to pieces, but I don't want to part with it. I have a special feeling about the old recipes just as they are. I can't think of any other good way to keep them. . . ." "Well, then, why don't you use a regular letter size office file, with a folder for each kind of cooking—bread, cakes, eggs, puddings and so on?

"Do you practice what you preach?" suddenly demanded my friend, with the belligerent eye of one still unconvinces.

"I certainly do," I laughed. "It's so extensive now that it takes two drawers in an office filing cabinet."

"I believe you've converted me," my friend confessed somewhat reluctantly. "But you'll have to start me off right."

We didn't wait to buy folders. A quantity of carboard that had come in laundered shirts were found, saved for a possible rainy day amusement for the children. These were creased, not quite in the middle, so that the back was an inch higher than the front to serve for an indexing place. A convenient flat box was found to keep the file in. As I thought the regular cards that come for the purpose would be more durable and uniform than homemade ones, we did not plan to work on the entire card catalogue of tested recipes, but by cutting some heavy note paper—the backs of wedding invitations—into pieces three by five inches, we made a start and got rid of the previously unsorted newspaper clippings. I wanted to be sure that my convert made a real beginning.

Meantime, "mother's" gingerbread had been slowly getting itself cooked, and after I tasted a piece I slipped out to the kitchen with a borrowed card to copy the recipe.

A correspondent writes to ask if I think a "Hard Times" party would be suitable to hold on Halloween. Yes, indeed, I should think the two would combine very nicely and should insure an evening of rollicking merriment. The rooms could be decorated for the event with brightly-colored leaves, cheery apples, and, of course, the grotesque Jack-o'-lanterns that seem singularly appropriate to All Hallows' Eve festivities. If the guests come masked, there is, of course, half an hour or so devoted to guessing identities. Unmasking could follow, then "a grand march" or promenade for the purpose of exhibiting the charming (?) costumes to best advantage. The remainder of the evening could be spent in Halloween games, with a "hard times" Halloween luncheon as a wind-up. Some games appropriate to Halloween will be discussed in next week's column. For the lunch I would suggest gingerbread or doughnuts, apple pie, coffee and peanuts. Or how about "hot dogs," pumpkin pie and coffee? Serve refreshments on wooden or paper plates with large porcelain cups for the coffee. A big "Jack" filled with grapes and apples makes a suitable centerpiece.

A taffy pull would seem singularly appropriate for part of the entertainment on such an evening. No one would be afraid of spoiling their clothes, at any rate! Invitations for the affair should be written on ordinary brown paper adorned with black cats or witches' heads, to introduce the Halloween note.

Did you know—

That in Norway the personal work in the home, which is generally performed by the wife, is considered (logically) a contribution to the common support of the household, just as much as money?

That in Norway, Sweden and Denmark the sickening and sordid details of divorce trials are not published abroad in the newspapers, but such affairs are conducted in court behind closed doors?

That the husband cannot pawn, sell or otherwise dispose of furniture or any property belonging to one or both of the parties without the consent of the other?

That in Norway, while the illegitimate child usually remains with its mother, the father is required to contribute to its support until the sixteenth year, and longer if the court so orders?

That the Scandinavian countries were practically the first in the world to enfranchise women equally with men?

We on this continent take it for granted that we are a very up-to-date lot of people. Yet, does it not appear that our European friends can teach us many things.

SEEDS FOR REFORESTATION.

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 14.—Seed from fir cones will be extracted in a large plant now being erected here for that purpose. The seeds will be used in a great reforestation scheme in the British Isles. The Dominion department of public works has erected a three-story building to house the plant and the machinery is being installed. Fir and hemlock cones will be gathered in all parts of the province and threshed out at the plant here. The industry will be operated by the forest service.

SMALL FAIR IS USEFUL AFFAIR

Brings City Man In Touch With the Rural Districts.

INGERSOLL AN EXAMPLE

Fine Display of Holsteins Worth-While Feature There.

INGERSOLL, Oct 14.—The majority of the small fall fairs are over for the present year. For the most part those in Western Ontario have had good weather, good crowds, and better exhibits than those of past years. It has been argued that the day of the small fair is waning—that it serves no purpose other than that of bringing the people together in a sort of holiday sense.

It has also been argued that right there is where the small fall fair is serving a purpose which is needed at the present time more than it has ever been needed before. If the fall fairs can be made to bring the people of the villages, towns, cities and farms together on a common ground of pleasure and friendly competition, it can only be expected that friendship is to be cemented to a certain degree. During the past seven or eight years — more particularly since the outbreak of the war and the consequent price upheavals of both the commodities of the farm and the factory—the people have become separated. They have been roaming over a vast no man's land of selfishness and narrow vision. The fall fairs, if properly conducted and with the right incentive behind them, can be made to do a big work in bringing the various elements of the county or the community back together. This would, as well as cementing a certain bond of friendship between farmer and urbanite, also serve to improve business methods for both factions. There would arise a better bond of understanding from the other fellows' viewpoint.

HOW IT WORKS.

Ingersoll fair this year illustrated this point to a marked degree. It rained for a goodly portion of the day, yet a larger crowd than any recent years was on hand. In addition to this, there was also a better display of Holstein cattle than ever in the history of the fair. Judge A. E. Hulet, of Norwich, stated that never in all his experience with Holstein cattle had he judged as fine a class as that exhibited at Ingeroll this year. The word of Mr. Hulet means a good deal, for he has bred Holsteins with but one idea—to secure them as true to type and as productive as modern methods could make them. His farm at Norwich to-day contains some of Oxford's best, and many splendid specimens are shipped from there to all parts of the continent.

There was a reason for the increased number and the improved quality this year. One of the directors of the fair insisted that some special inducement should be offered to Holstein breeders —something that would bring a better grade and a greater number of them. Consequently more cattle came—more breeders brought them, and there was a more marked spirit of co-operation all around. Farmers for many miles around saw those cattle and went home with the feeling that they had learned something of what was going on in their midst.

FOR HORSES ALSO.

Because of the success which attended the efforts with cattle this year it is now argued that the same can be done with the horses. With prizes worth while and specials to induce a greater interest more horses can be brought here next year. Old timers say that the horse in the show ring is beginning to come back into its own to a certain extent. The horses this year at most fairs were said to have been of a better quality. They can be still greatly improved, and the one best way in which to bring this about is to induce breeders to enter them in open competition. In this way the breeders get together, they exchange ideas that are helpful and they interest others who may have only a passing interest in good horse flesh.

BRING ALL TOGETHER.

If the small fairs are to be a greater success than they have ever been before they must be made more a community matter. They should be made institutions of country-wide import, and only by the earnest co-operation of town and country residents can this be done. It has been pointed out that the fair is more of interest to the farmer than the town man. That is true. The farmer has more to exhibit, more to learn and more to gain than the town fellow. If the Holstein breeders of Oxford were to get together and each member throw a five dollar bill into a common fund to be used for special prizes for the best fair in the district, it would be hard to estimate the advantages that would follow in the wake of the action. If the horse breeders in the districts of good horses would do the same thing there could be no proper estimate made of the increased interest that would follow and the inspiration that would be given to young farmers in trying to better the blood of their animals.

CUT OUT THE GAMBLER.

Raney is doing a good work in cutting out the gamblers, many believe. They may add a little romantic color to the piebald barkers that infest the fair grounds throughout Western Ontario. They may even add a little interest for some, but on the whole about all the good they do is to add their little concession fee to the funds of the fair board and take away many times the amount from those who cannot afford to contribute to them. Many parents of stern discipline do feel free in allowing their children to attend the fairs on this very account. An innocently contributed 10 cents here and there in some game of chance is liable to have its bad effect on some, while it would not bother others. On the whole, however, it is felt that the fairs are better without these foragers of the public pocket.

If the young people can be trained to look upon a fair as a place in which to learn something—as a place in which to get some form of inspiration to attempt things, then the fair is answering one good purpose If the fair can be made a place wherein the people of the farm and the factory can meet and exchange ideas, it will be fulfilling a great purpose. The fair as it exists to-day is merely the ground work for something better that can be made to take its place. It is the foundation for community understanding, betterment and co-operation.

FIRST FROST TOO LATE TO HURT TOBACCO

BLENHEIM, Oct. 13.—South Kent had its first frost of the season last night, when there was a decided white frost. However, there was nothing to be harmed, and the season is noteworthy because of the fact that every pound of tobacco in the tobacco belt was hanging in the barns before frost came, and a large proportion of it is well on the way to being cured. There never has been so good a season for the weed, and though the acreage was largely decreased the yield was good and the quality the best ever grown here. The growers are now anxious as to what the price will be, but it is not expected that any offers will be made until the end of the year.

BRITISH FARMING CHANGES RAPIDLY

Agriculturalists See the Profit In Potato Crops.

TAMWORTH, Oct. 14.—The preliminary official returns, giving details of the acreage farmed and of the live stock maintained in England and Wales in 1921, which have recently been published, are of particular interest in view of the rapid changes which British agriculture is undergoing at the present time. The repeal of the Agriculture Act, with its accompanying problems of labor and cereal farming, and the discussion of matters in connection with the cattle trade, have been the prominent agricultural features of the year. Speaking generally, this year's figures indicate a more satisfactory state of affairs than had been anticipated.

As expected, the outstanding feature of the returns is the increased acreage of land laid down to grass. Most farm crops—with the notable exception of wheat — show a general decrease in acreage. Having regard to the continued high price of labor, however, the percentage increase of grassland is smaller than was anticipated in many quarters. The increase of 193,000 acres in the area under wheat is exceedingly satisfactory; to a large extent, the prospect of the guaranteed price has been responsible for this pleasing return, which, however, is likely to show a considerable diminution next year as a result of the repeal of the Agriculture Act.

DECREASE IN OATS.

In view of the fact that oats, in addition to wheat, were included in the schedule of guaranteed prices, it is somewhat surprising that the area grown this year shows a decrease of 127,000 acres. Some indication, however, of the probable effect of the total cessation of control is provided by the fact that barley—the price of which was in no way guaranteed—shows a drop of over 200,000 acres. Of the other arable crops, with the exception of potatoes and sugar beet, the decrease in the acreage is roughly proportionate to the increase in the grassland area.

The increase of nearly 13,000 acres in land growing potatoes tends to emphasize the fact that farmers are realising how remunerative this crop may prove when adequately cultivated and fertilized. The sugar beet acreage is more than double that of 1920. In this connection it becomes increasingly evident that this crop may be raised perfectly satisfactorily in Great Britain—the most urgent need being the establishment of sugar-refining factories. In the present depressed state of British commerce, it must be expected that this development will be slow, but there appears to be little doubt that, in the future, the British farmer will find sugar beet cultivation a most profitable branch of his work.

The returns for live stock are distinctly promising. With the exception of cattle (where the decrease is more nominal than real), all classes of farm animals show an increase on the numbers kept in 1920. It is clear that, with the end of official control, the agriculturist must specialize in those branches of tractor in cultivation operations, the number of horses kept for agricultural purposes has increased by over 33,000. British cattle show a slight falling off in total numbers, but calves and young beasts indicate a marked increase. Last season there was a considerable drop in the number of young cattle, which provides the main cause for the scarcity of two-year cattle for this year. The increase of over 200,000 calves in this year's returns gives every promise of the figures for 1922 showing a considerable advance.

MOTOR TRACTOR AND HORSES.

In spite of the wide use of the motor farming which are found to be most economically sound in view of the climatic conditions of Great Britain.

The depleted state of British herds a year ago has been used as an argument in support of the removal of the embargo on the importation of live cattle into Great Britain. The official returns for this year undoubtedly tend to support the opinion of agriculturists, who maintain that the shortage of cattle in Great Britain is merely temporary. Sheep show a marked increase in numbers. In view of the fact that for several years past the flocks have been declining steadily, this year's returns are all the more pleasing. As was generally expected, the number of pigs kept shows a large increase.

FEWER HORSES SHOWN ON ONTARIO FARMS

Little change has occurred in the live stock population of Ontario during the past year, according to figures compiled by the statistics and publications branch of the Ontario department of agriculture, co-operating with the Dominion bureau of statistics.

There are fewer stallions and colts, but more mares and geldings, more bulls, milch cows and steers, but less calves, considerably less sheep and swine, but more poultry than were reported in 1920.

BORER IN WELLINGTON.

Several Fields So Badly Hit As To Be Worthless.

The European corn borer, which has infested the corn crop of Ontario, has been found in Wellington County, about 12 miles north of Guelph. Prof. Lawson Caesar, provincial entomologist, who has been making an extensive study of the insect, and who has just returned from a conference of the leading entomologists of the United States and Canada, held in Sandusky, Ohio, to determine ways and means for the eradication of the pest, stated it has already destroyed several fields of sweet corn and several of flint corn this year, the cobs being so badly infested that it was impossible to shell them. The stalks of the flint corn were so badly infected that the crop was lying flat on the ground.

The borer, which was introduced into Canada some nine or ten years ago, supposedly in broom corn shipped from Austria to the broom factory in St. Thomas, has steadily spread throughout the province till the entire corn growing area of old Ontario has become infected and the growers in the vicinity of St. Thomas and Port Stanley are going out of the sweet corn industry till the ravages of the pets have abated. Many of the canning factories have already closed down their corn canning work for the season. In the badly infested areas as many as 250,000 insects have been found in a single acre of corn.

It has been found in every county along the northern shore of Lake Erie and the counties just north of these, being Middlesex, Oxford, Brant, Waterloo, Wellington, Huron, York and Lincoln. In many of these counties it is not regarded as a serious pest, and it is not likely to cause any serious loss where corn is grown for ensilage only, as the heating of the corn in the silo during the process of fermentation will kill all the grubs.

The borer is about one inch in length, pale brown in color and having a brown head. It will attack any part of the corn plant, being found in the ear, stock and stubble. Much of the damage caused by it is the result of fungus growth and rot which gains a foothold in its burrows.

We Finance Farmers

IMPROVED machinery is solving the labor problem on many Canadian farms.

A Bank Loan has, in part, the same relation to farm activities as the use of modern machinery, as the latter enables you to work from two to three times the amount of land formerly cultivated, and a Bank Loan will furnish you the capital to operate the extra land.

If you feel that a Bank Loan will permit you to increase your farming operations, we will be pleased to discuss your plans with you. If they are sound, we are prepared to assist you.

Western U. Holds Field Day; Play St. Mikes To-Day; Rugby Schedule

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

ST. MIKES PLAY WESTERN HERE THIS AFTERNOON

First Intercollegiate Game of Season Finds University Team, Made Up of Last Year's Veterans, Ready to Prove They Can Play Football

While the Western squad has not Toronto will play the Western University in the first game of the season in the international section of the Intercollegiate Union this afternoon at Tecumseh Park. The game commences at 3 o'clock with Albert Brown, of the Hamilton Tigers, and George Little, of this city, officiating.

The curtain raiser should provide some bang-up football as the teams will take the field with practically the same players intact as those who clashed in the stirring gridiron arguments of the past season.

While the Westren squad has not been working together as a unit for much more than a week it is thought that the brief time sufficed to reacquaint the players with the signals and the new rules, as a majority of them were in training during most of the holidays. The players were in excellent spirits and in good condition to give a good account of themselves this afternoon after the light workout last night.

Western's first team has undergone radical changes since the early part of the season and every man on the team is going to try and prove a contention. Buster Reid and A. T. Taylor have been coaching them and it would not be surprising to see the team dish up a good brand of autumn pastiming under the new arrangement.

LeBell will do the booting for St. Mikes as usual. He is not a stranger to London rugby followers, as he held that berth down nicely for years, while a member of the Sarnia Collegiate team. Traynor is back at Western and will do chip unting again. The probable line-ups are:

Tennis Doubles Title Match On This Afternoon

The challenge match for the Duffield trophies and the men's doubles tennis championship of Western Ontario will be played at the London Hunt and Country Club courts this afternoon between Messrs. L. D. Hara and Dr. Currey, of St. Catharines, present holders of the cup, and J. G. Boucher and Capt. Fenton, London, who won the final event in the Western Ontario tennis tournament.

The ladies' singles will be continued to-day and the finals of the ladies' singles and mixed doubles will be completed in the early part of next week.

The challenge match to-day promises to be one of the greatest tennis matches staged here this season. Messrs. Hara and Currey are well-known tennis players and Messrs. Boucher and Fenton are prominent in tennis circles in London.

A large gallery is expected at to-day's game and, providing that rain does not interfere, the games will be played on the grass courts at the London Hunt and Country Club.

DELL UNKO LOSES AT MOUNT CLEMENS

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 14.—Fifteen horses faced the starter's flag in the 2.18 pace of the Michigan "short shippers," meeting here this afternoon, and although the pace set was a snappy one every horse stayed in to the finish. Dundee Lad won the event in straight heats, with Rex De Forest the runner-up in each of the three heats. Alta Coast had a walk-away in the 2.10 trot, winning in straight heats. The weather was clear and bright, but the wind was chilly. Summaries:

ST. THOMAS GOLFERS DEFEAT CHATHAM

CHATHAM, Oct. 14. — Ten of the members of the Chatham Golf Club went to St. Thomas yesterday, where they engaged in a tournament with the members of the Elgin Golf Club. Those who took in the trip were Messrs. J. C. Kerr, Dr. C. B. Oliver, T. E. Cottier, Dr. Neil Smith, Stewart Campbell, Donald Rispin, Alf Stewart, Walter Watts, Lloyd Halliday and R. T. Gray.

The Chathamites were met by the St. Thomas club and royally entertained during their visit. They were treated to luncheon at the Grand Central Hotel, and after 18 holes of golf were given a dinner by the club. The locals fared badly in the play, only three of them, Alf Stewart, Walter Watts and R. T. Gray winning their games. The arrangements for the reception and entertainment were made by Capt. R. M. Anderson, of the Elgin club.

FIELD'S GOLDEN CORN WINS PARK PLATE

LONDON, Oct. 14.—(By Canadian Press)—The Middle Park plate for two years, run over the Bretby stakes course at Newmarket, was won to-day by Marshal Field's filly, Golden Corn, an overwhelming favorite at 7 to 2 on. Polyhister, at 11 to 2 against, finished second, three-quarters of a length behind the winner. Flaming Orb, at 10 to 1 against, was third. Five horses started.

The Middle Park plate, together with the Dewhurst plate, a fortnight hence, are considered the final and most conclusive tests of two-year-old form and the winner of one or the other of these races is generally established as the winter Derby favorite.

One hundred and forty-seven entries were received for the Middle Park stakes when the list was closed on November 3 last. The stakes are 30 sovereigns each, with 1,000 sovereigns added.

TED LEWIS DEFEATS JOHNNY BASHAM

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Ted ("Kid") Lewis, middleweight champion of England, to-night defeated John Basham in the 12th round of what was to have been a 20-round bout. The fight was for the championship.

Basham's seconds ended the terrific punishment which Lewis was inflicting on him by tossing a towel into the ring in acknowledgement of defeat. Lewis outclassed Basham from the start. The challenger received a badly battered ear, from which the blood flowed freely. In the 11th round a right to the jaw sent him down for the count of nine, the gong saving him.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS' FIELD DAY AT QUEENS PARK FRIDAY NEXT

Boys and Girls Grouped Into Classes According to Weight and Age

Dr. Frank Bryant, chairman of the schools' field day, which will be held next Friday afternoon at Queen's Park, has announced that an attractive program of sports has been arranged for the day and hundreds of students are expected to participate in the various events.

The pupils will be divided according to weight, instead of age, which has been the case in the past. There will be events for the 60, 70, 80, 90 and 100-pound classes, including two dashes, standing broad jump, running broad jump, hop, step and jump and high jump.

A relay race, which will be open to all schools of the city, will be run off. Teams composed of four runners will be entered and each boy will cover one-eighth of a mile.

Throwing the baseball will be one of the feature events for the girls and they will also take part in other numbers.

The committee in charge are planning to make the coming sports the greatest since the schools commenced holding sports of this kind.

The following committee has been appointed to carry out the sports: Dr. Frank Bryant, chairman; J. M. Campbell, Boyle Memorial, secretary; B. Galpin, Ryerson School; M. Garritt, Ealing; R. G. Fowler, Riverview, and G. A. Wheable, Empress Avenue.

FRANK MORROW WINS FALL GOLF HANDICAP

Wins Hobbs Trophy by Victory Over A. Mitchell at London Country Club

Frank Morrow won the fall handicap championship at the London Hunt and Country Club, and also the Hobbs trophy, by defeating A. Mitchell in the final event. Mr. Morrow is an amateur golfer, having completed his first year at the game and succeeded in reaching the final stage.

Geo. T. Brown will meet F. Gordon in the final event for the Rolph cup, emblematic of the club championship, on the links this afternoon. This is the final tournament game of the season.

The two tournaments, namely the Hobbs and the Rolph, opened on September 7 with many entries.

George T. Brown is the present holder of the Rolph cup, and will defend it to-day. Major A. T. Mortimer, last year won the Hobbs trophy.

Sanardo Again Beats Hal Mahone

San Francisco Gelding Takes Two Out of Three Heats in 2.01 Pace

LEXINGTON, Oct. 14.—The 49th annual meeting of the Kentucky Trotting Horse Breeders' Association came to a close this afternoon with the 2.05 trot and the 2.01 pace as features. Each race proved a good contest, Jane The Great winning the trot after losing the first heat to Kilo Watts and Sanardo capturing the pace, after finishing third in the second heat, won by Hal Mahone.

The 2.01 pace was a desperately fought race. Sanardo went to the front at the first quarter pole in the opening heat and led all the way, winning in 2.01¼.

In the second heat Sanardo again went into the lead, but Hal Mahone passed the little son of San Francisco half way down the stretch and Sir Roch also collared the winner of the first heat before the field reached the wire. In the third heat Sanardo outfinished Hal Mahone by a nose in a thrilling stretch drive.

Woodstock Fails To Appear Here

Woodstock College's rugby team disappointed the London Technical School squad yesterday afternoon by their nonappearance for the scheduled Oxford and Middlesex interscholastic game. The Tech team waited around until 5 o'clock and then brushed through a brief workout against the Western University aggregation at Tecumseh Park.

Western's big team was too ponderous for the little Tech twelve, who made it interesting for but a few moments, though the university had but little opposition for the brief workout, during which time they scored 16 points. Three touchdowns and a deadline kick were responsible.

VISIT OUR SHOP 'SEMI-READY WEEK' FOR STYLE VIEW

No Man Will Be Urged To Buy—Exposition of Styles of the Physique Type System of Tailoring.

"To begin on Monday, and to continue all week, there will be a complete and comprehensive display of all the new styles in Semi-ready clothes, and particularly of all the physique types which are exclusive to this system," said Leo Watson, of the Semi-ready store.

"We wish to emphasize the fact that this is not a selling exposition, though any caller may make a selection if he wishes.

"It is an exhibition display of several hundred suits direct from the Semi-ready designers—a well-prepared exhibit of just what the correct styles for the season are, and particularly a demonstration of the physique type system, and the certainty that each and every man can be perfectly fitted in a semi-ready tailored suit or overcoat.

"The garments on view arrive on Monday morning, and the display will begin after 12 o'clock. We want every man to feel free to come and see, and to know that he is under no obligation to buy, even though we have the full permission of the Semi-ready Company to dispose of or set aside any model which may strike the fancy of any caller."

"To-day's goods at to-day's prices" is one of the features of the exhibit.—Advt.

SUFFERS SLIGHT INJURY WHEN CAR TURNS OVER

Automobiles Collide at Corner of King and Wellington Streets.

John L. Crook, 290 Grey street, narrowly escaped serious injury when an automobile in which he was riding turned over at the corner of King and Wellington streets about 7 o'clock last night. His car collided with a machine driven by R. C. Griffith, R. R. No. 8, London. Apart from a severe shaking up Mr. Crook escaped injury.

Crook was traveling east on King street, when Griffith, who was going north on Wellington, met at the corner at the same instant. Both men tried to avert a collision, but their rear wheels locked, and as a result the Crook car turned turtle. The machines were slightly damaged.

MERRIMENT REIGNED AND GIFTS RAINED

WHEATLEY, Oct. 14.— A shower, accompanied by flashes of wit and the thundrous noise of jolly people out for a good time, broke Thursday evening at the home of T. F. Eppiett, when Mr. and Mrs. Grant Brown were deluged with cut glass, silver, china and many beautiful gifts; merriment reigned for hours. A dainty lunch was served and after many good wishes for the future happiness of the bride and groom the young people said good night.

ASKIN STREET BOYS AID BUILDING FUND

The Hawks Club of 30 boys, aided by the Ladies' Aid, held a very sucessful rummage sale yesterday, realizing $112. The Hawks intend giving their share toward the fund being raised to build a very much needed enlargement to the Sunday school and also a big recreation hall and gymnasium. Mr. Arthur Honwood is the teacher of this class of ambitious boys.

MRS. SAUNDERS DIES

The death occurred suddenly in Victoria Hospital last night of Mrs. Louis Octavia Saunders, wife of Thomas Saunders, 156 William street. Deceased had been a resident of this city for the past 30 years and her sudden death will be regretted by a host of friends. She was a member of Wellington Street Methodist Church.

Besides her husband she is survived by one son, S. G. Saunders, of Detroit; two brothers, M. Quinn, of Glen Ray, and George, of Ypsilanti, Mich.; three sisters, Mrs. Pettit, of Dorchester; Mrs. Pettit, of Dutton, and Mrs. G. Lilbourn, of California.

The funeral will be held from her late residence on Monday afternoon. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

WARDSVILLE, Oct. 14.—Mrs. Mary O'Hara, mother of Mr. A. B. O'Hara, died at her daughter's, Mrs. O'Leary's, Port Lambton, and was buried in Wardsville. She was 88 years of age and lived in the village many years.

FIFTY FAST MILES ON MOTOR CYCLE CARD TO-DAY

Big Crowd Will Be Attracted to Queen's Park This Afternoon; Events Start at 2 o'Clock

Motor cycle riders from all parts of the province will cover more than 50 miles on the Queen's Park track at the races, to be held this afternoon commencing at 2 o'clock sharp, and continuing until 5 o'clock.

The speed merchants arrived in London last night and will be out to look over the track early to-day. Ald. Geo. Wenige states that the track is in fine shape and it is expected that some speed records will be broken to-day.

Eight motor cycle races are included on the program. The bill is evenly divided for professionals and amateurs.

Thirty boys have entered the bicycle race for boys under 14 years, and a one-mile bicycle race will be held for the city championship. A two-mile bicycle open race is also included on the program.

It has been stated that if the affair to-day is a success that similar meets will be held here during the year, and London will be made the center of Western Ontario for motor cycle races.

UNCLE SAM GETS $90,023 IN SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 14.—The world's series netted Uncle Sam a handsome profit, but not so much as the Dempsey-Carpentier fight.

Frank K. Bowers, collector of internal revenue, announced to-night that the tax collected on the eight world's series games amounted to $90,023. The fight brought in taxes of $158,994.77, he said.

Twelve field inspectors of the revenue department kept tally on the attendance at the ball games and checked off the sales of tickets with the baseball managements.

Kenneth Aitkey Woodstock High's Best Athlete

Allan Sutton Wins Intermediate and D. Riddell Junior Champ; Jean Ure Keeps Title

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 14.—The annual field day of Woodstock Collegiate was held at Victoria Park to-day and it proved to be the most successful in history. The weather was ideal, the entries were large and competition was keen. The boys' events provided some real sport. The championships were decided only after the closest of struggles. The senior championship went to Kenneth Aitkey, whose showing throughout was most creditable. The intermediate title went to Allan Sutton, who also acquitted himself well, and the junior champion was D. A. Riddell.

JEAN URE'S TITLE.

The championship in the senior class in the girls' program went to Miss Jean Ure, who won the title for the second time, she having won it last year.

The girls' tennis titles were also decided. In the senior doubles Wilda Sutherland and Helen Jacques defeated Jean Ure and Hazel Smith, 6-1 and 6-1. In the junior doubles Gwen Snell and Lillian Green won from Francis Dent and Helen Haylow, 6-2 and 6-2. In the senior singles, Wilda Sutherland triumphed over Barbara Adams. The junior singles was won by Gwen Snell, who defeated Rose Anderson.

DENEF WINS HIGH SCHOOL FIELD DAY

WALKERTON, Aug. 14.—W. Denef won the senior individual championship at the Walkerton High School sports, held at the athletic field to-day. A. Campbell and M. Fortune were tied for the junior championship.

Sixteen events for the girls and 19 for the boys were run off and the sports were the most successful in years.

MOVEMENT TO GET BOYS TO ENTER CHURCH WORK

Meeting of Men's Methodist Council Held Last Night Was Largely Attended.

A meeting of the Men's Methodist Council, held in Dundas Center Methodist Church last night, was attended by over 50 representatives of the various Methodist churches, when the object of launching a movement to get young men and boys to enter actively into church work was thoroughly discussed. It was decided that the matter be laid over for a time, when a date will be set for the starting of the mevement.

It is the intention of the Methodist churches to get young men and boys interested in the various branches of the church work, and individually to take an active part in some department. An interesting program will be prepared to influence the boys to attend church and Sunday school, and in this way create a better environment for boys.

MOTOR CLUB PLANS MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A drive for members for the London Motor Club, which will commence within a few days, is expected to greatly increase the membership of the organization. At the present time there are about 900 automobile enthusiasts in the city who are members of the club. The officials feel that too few are taking advantage of the facilities of the organization in view of the fact that there are some 4,000 motor cars in London.

SOCCER GROUP WINNERS IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO MEET

The Public School Football League group games will be completed during the next week and the group winners will then meet in the final series for the public school championship.

It is expected that the winner will be determined within the next two weeks. The group games have been most successful and the schoolboys have taken great interest in the football matches.

In the event that two of the group leaders win an equal number of games in the play-off series a final event between the two teams will then be staged.

SOCCER SEMI-FINAL

The McCutcheon cup series for the city soccer championship will commence today at Carling's Heights. The Western Ontario Regiment and the Grand Trunk Railway eleven.

The Public Utilities' soccer team won the cup last year and will defend it again this season.

The kickoff will be made at 3 o'clock this afternoon and the following team will represent the G. T. R.: Knowles, goal; Latham and Allman, backs; Green, Ganny, Russell, half-backs; Lavery, Jacques, Currie, Bronston and Hill, forwards; Birchall, Evans, Milligan and Brewer, spares.

PREMIER WILL TOUR QUEBEC IN NOVEMBER

Itinerary Is to Include Two More Meetings in Montreal, Gazette Says

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen will tour the Province of Quebec from November 4 to November 9, The Montreal Gazette states in its news columns. The itinerary, says this paper, has not yet been definitely laid out, but it is known that the premier will deliver two more speeches in Montreal.

There is much interest in political circles here at the announcement that Henri Bourassa, Nationalist leader, will give an address on present-day politics at the Monument Nationale next Wednesday. It is understood that Mr. Bourassa has become a candidate in La Belle County at the forthcoming federal elections. He represented the county for a number of years as a Liberal at Ottawa, prior to his break with Sir Wilfrid Laurier over the participation of Canada in the South African War.

SUE SHEVLIN-CLARK COMPANY FOR $250,000

TORONTO, Oct. 14.—One item for which the attorney-general and the Minister of Lands and Forests sues the Shevlin Clark Company is $250,000 damages for pine alleged to have been wrongfully cut on timber berths 45 and 49, Quetico Forest Reserve. The crown also seeks payment for all timber cut or to be cut hereafter on these berths at the fair value of timber on August 30 1919, the date on which the license was issued.

The Shevlin company denies that it owes anything to the Government and states that it was carrying on, at the request of the crown officers, a practical test for the removal of "slash" or debris left after lumbering operations.

Pleadings have been completed and the case is ready for trial.

Individual Track Title At Western U. To Lloyd Rice

Y.M.C.A. Team Wins Mile Relay in 3.58, With Collegiate Second and W. U. Third; Field Day at Queen's Park Slimly Attended

Lloyd W. Rice won the individual championship at the Western University track athletic meet, held at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon, and also the University shield, which is donated by the directorate.

The entry list was rather abbreviated, but the athletes who were entered competed keenly. Several fast races were run, but none of the records set in previous years were broken. The attendance was small.

The triagular relay race between the Y.M.C.A., Western University and the Collegiate Institute was the feature event of the day. The Y.M.C.A. team won the race by several rods, making the mile in three minutes and 58 seconds, and the Collegiate followed, with the University squad third.

E. C. Horlor and Walter Dutton ran 220 yards in the relay race, Jack Lightfoot hiked a quarter and Arnold Bennett finished the last half. Bennett was suffering from an injured foot, but in spite of this outran his competitor.

K. Hunter, C. Wilson, W. Wanless and R. Ardiel were members of the Collegiate team, and L. Rice, Lamont, T. H. James and D. C. Stephens represented Western "U".

The Meds four won the interclass half mile relay race, Barnby, Lookwood and McLean comprised the winning team.

Rice beat out Gilliland by a few feet in the 100-yard dash.

Summary:

100-yard dash—L. Rice, Gilliland, Barnby. Time .11 3-5.

12-pound shot put—McLaren, Graham, James.

G. HENDRICHS WINS O.A.C. TRACK TITLE

GUELPH, Oct. 14.—One of the largest crowds that ever gathered at an outdoor sport meet at the O. A. C. took in the 29th annual field day to-day.

Only one record was broken during the entire day, this honor going to R. F. Waugh, of year '22, who smashed his own record in the pole vault by clearing at a height of 10 feet 2 inches.

The feature event of the sports was the three-mile run, which was won by F. Moran, '24, after a hard race against F. Carson.

The college shield for grand champion, donated by the O. A. C., was captured by G. Hinrichs by carrying off all the firsts in the sprints.

COLLEGIATE TEAM TO HAVE NEW UNIFORMS

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Representatives of the local Collegiate rugby team approached the Kiwanis Club yesterday with a view to enlisting their support in improving the grounds at the athletic park and encouraging the game in this city. The Kikanians, headed by President Chas. Gibson, immediately set to work to make what improvements were necessary at the grounds. To-night the same members of the Kiwanis Club appeared before the Board of Education with a request that suits be purchased for the entire team. Without any discussion the board members voted unanimously in favor of the recommendation.

Secretary R. J. Newton notified the board that the janitor of Allendale School objected to having to remain on duty until after 11 o'clock on mothers' club meeting nights. Trustee Mrs. McCulley said that this should not be necessary as all other clubs have made arrangements with the janitor for any extra work. The secretary was instructed to write the Allendale club informing the secretary to see that the janitor is remunerated for extra work.

A further meeting in connection with the reorganization of the local Chamber of Commerce was held to-night. Arrangements were made to hold a get-together meeting in the near future.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—10.30 a. m.—The entire railway division was under pressure at the opening of to-day's stock market. Latest developments in the transportation situation, indicating marked differences between executives and operatives, effected losses ranging from fractions to one point in all the prominent rails. These include Northern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwestern, Illinois Central, Reading, and Chesapeake & Ohio. Steels and equipments were sympathetically affected. The only exception was Gulf States Steel, which rose two points. Oils, particularly the Mexican group, were firm. A new low record for German exchange was without effect on the remainder of the foreign exchange market.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(Wall Street.)—Dealings in stocks last week were preponderantly professional, but the market's uncertain trend indicated further divergence of opinion or sentiment among traders.

Oils contributed the largest share to the moderate transactions, especially low-grade domestic issues. These derived their support mainly from pools, whose operations were accelerated by the higher prices prevailing for crude and refined oil products.

Foreign oils were mixed, the European group losing ground on selling, attributed to home interests, while Mexicans continued to be influenced by conflicting reports respecting conditions across the Rio Grande.

Transportations were adversely affected by the labor situation and failure of Congress to hasten remedial legislation. Equipments, steels, motors and the numerous specialties dependent on those industries reacted on less favorable trade advices.

Crop movements at Western and Southern centers, together with heavy local payments, diminished the supply of funds at this city. Profit-taking by speculative interests detracted from the strength of Liberty issues, but the recent excellent investment demand was maintained, new underwritings finding a ready market.

WHOLESALE FRUIT.

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—White & Co. report the following wholesale prices on fruit and vegetables: Grapes, 55c to 65c; apples, $3.50 to $7.50 a barrel; tomatoes, 55c to 65c; potatoes, $1.75; green peppers, 30c to 35c; red peppers, 50c to 60c; red peppers, 50c to 60c; celery, 25c to 75c per dozen; pears, 35c to 75c a basket; onions, $4 to $4.25 a bag.

SEEDS.

CHICAGO, Oct. 14.—Timothy seed, $4.25 to $4.75. Clover seed, $12 to $18.

LEAVES MISSING FROM JOURNAL

Interesting Evidence at Trial of Two Brenner Brothers

NO RECORD OF CHECKS

Hearing of Toronto Men Adjourned a Week

TORONTO, Oct. 15.—Facing a total of 18 charges of conspiracy to defraud the public and the N. Brenner Company, Limited, theft of $700.00, and of falsifying brooks and records, Nathan Brenner, Meyer Brenner and their bookkeeper, Gordon Blackford, appeared in police court for preliminary hearing yesterday. The N. Brenner Company, Limited, metal dealers, assigned some months ago and, following investigations made by the assignee, Osler Wade, the charges were made. The 18 charges were group into three—theft, conspiracy and falsifying of books and records. K. Julian Rahlson, manager of the Nassau Smelting Company, of New York, said the Brenner Company still owed his firm $20,000. Mr. Wade put in a great bundle of checks of the Brenner Company. Several checks were produced, payable to N. Brenner Company, Limited, and it was testified no record was found of them in either credit or debit books of the company, nor in the bank journal. Mr. Wade testified that the leaves of the bank journal from March 10 to April 20, 1920, were missing, having apparently been removed. One check, made payable to the order of N. Brenner Company, Limited, and signed by H. P. Winter, of New York, was indorsed on the back: "Pay Mr. Brenner."

No record was found in the company's books of a check drawn by the Brenner Company, Limited, on any bank in favor of the Bank of Toronto for $13,848.33; neither was any record found in the books of similar checks. Leaves of the bank journal for the dates in question were missing. Vouchers and checks relating to transactions between the company and Charles S. Trench & Co., and other companies, were found, but there were no corresponding records in any of the company's books. The hearing was adjourned for a week.

WRONG TO BLAME THE GOVERNMENT

Unemployment World-Wide and Canada Not Hard Hit

THIS WINTER THE WORST

NEWCASTLE, N. B., Oct. 14. — Rt. Hon. A. Meighen closed his Maritime Province campaign with two meetings at Newcastle and Chatham to-night. He spoke first at the latter place and, dealing with the question of unemployment, said it was the function of the Government to see, insofar as possible that those who were willing to work could get work. But was the Government to blame for the situation? Unemployment was world-wide and here in Canada we had the least of any industrial country. Conditions were much worse in Great Britain and the United States. The half of the civilized world could not buy at all. Poverty and starvation were stalking abroad in Europe and there must be something done for the rehabilitation of the countries before the commercial demand from them could be resumed.

Consequently, the demand on Canadian industries was not sufficient to keep them working to capacity. It was impossible for the Government to start works all over the country in order to relieve unemployment. The Government had asked railways to accelerate orders and had promised to stand behind them and assist with capital. But unemployment must be dealt with locally and the Government could only assist. Insofar as unemployment affected the returned men who had been partially or wholly disabled, the Government took upon its own shoulders this responsibility and would provide such assistance as was necessary to relieve these men. Conditions were improving and this winter would be the worst we had to face.

Mr. Meighen characterized the Liberal criticism that he had seized the reins of power in much the same manner as Lenine and Trotzky as rubbish.

Results of Past Elections In the Maritime Provinces

HALIFAX, Oct. 15.—(By Canadian Press.)—Generally as Nova Scotia has voted in general elections so has the country as a whole voted. On only one occasion, that of the first general election in 1867, when resentment against confederation dominated the political situation in the East, has Nova Scotia returned a majority of its members in opposition to the Government of the day. Of the remaining 12 general elections Canada's eastern-most province sent back a majority in support of the Government on 10 occasions, and in the "doubtful years" of 1896 and 1911, when Governments were overthrown, recorded the changing sentiment of the country by declining to commit herself either one way or the other and returned an equal number of Liberals and Conservatives.

Disregarding the election of 1917, when a number of Liberals, pledged to support the Unionist Government of Sir Robert Borden, were elected, Nova Scotia Scotia has returned a total of 132 Liberals and 107 Conservatives to Parliament since confederation in 1867. The Liberals carried a majority of the seats in five general elections, those of 1867, 1874, 1901, 1904 and 1908, and the Conservatives a majority in like number, those of 1872, 1878, 1882, 1888, 1891. In the general elections of 1896 and 1911 there was an even split as between the two parties. The Conservative high water mark was reached in 1882, when the Government of the day carried 15 seats of a total of 21, and the Liberals piled up their greatest majority in 1904 when they made a clean sweep of the 18 seats filled by Nova Scotia in that year. The figures for Nova Scotia are as follows:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1867	3	16	1891	16	5
1872	11	10	1896	10	10
1874	4	17	1901	5	15
1878	14	7	1904	0	18
1882	15	6	1908	6	12
1888	14	7	1911	9	9

NEW BRUNSWICK RECORD.

New Brunswick's record from 1867 to 1911 inclusive shows that in all 79 Conservatives were returned to Ottawa as against 89 Liberals, the Liberals securing a majority of the seats in nine general elections, those of 1867, 1872, 1874, 1878, 1896, 1901, 1904, 1908 and 1911, and the Conservatives securing a majority of the seats in three general elections, those of 1882, 1888 and 1891. The largest majority of the seats won by the Conservatives was in 1891 when the Government of Sir John A. MacDonald took 13 of the 16 ridings contested on that occasion, and the largest majority of seats won by the Liberals was in 1908 when Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Government came out of New Brunswick with 11 seats to their credit as against two won by the Conservatives. New Brunswick has not proved as good a barometer as has Nova Scotia, having returned a majority in opposition to the Government of the day on four occasions. The detailed figures for New Brunswick follow:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1867	7	8	1891	13	3
1872	7	9	1896	5	9
1874	5	11	1901	5	9
1878	5	11	1904	5	8
1882	10	6	1908	2	11
1887	10	6	1911	5	8

PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND RESULT.

Prince Edward Island, on the whole, has dealt fairly equably with the two great political parties, having returned in all 22 Conservatives as against 30 Liberals. The Liberals carried a majority of the seats in five general elections, those of 1874 (the first year in which the island voted in a general election), 1888, 1891, 1901 and 1908; the Conservatives carried the day in four general elections, those of 1878, 1882, 1896, 1904. In 1911 there was an even break, with both parties taking two seats. The Conservatives got their greatest majority out of the island in 1878 when they carried five of the six seats contested in that year, and the Liberals made a clean sweep of six seats on two occasions, in the general elections of 1874 and 1888. In five out of 10 elections Prince Edward Island returned a majority supporting the Government of the day, while in four contests a majority in opposition to the Government was returned. The figures are:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1874	0	6	1896	3	2
1878	5	1	1901	2	3
1882	4	2	1904	3	1
1887	0	6	1908	1	3
1891	2	4	1911	2	2

RECAPITULATION.

Regarding the Maritime Provinces as a unit a recapitulation of the above figures shows that in all 251 Liberals were elected as against 208 Conservatives in the 12 general elections contested between 1867 and 1911 inclusive. The Liberals took a majority of the seats in eight appeals to the people, those of 1867, 1872, 1874, 1896, 1901, 1904, 1908 and 1911, the Conservatives securing a majority in the four general elections of 1878, 1882, 1888 and 1891. The Liberals took their greatest following out of the Maritimes in 1874 when they secured a majority of 25 seats, and the Conservatives won their greatest majority of 19 seats in the general election of 1891. In the 12 general elections under review the Maritimes returned a majority in support of the Government on nine occasions and a majority in opposition to the Government on three occasions. The figures are:

Year.	Con.	Lib.	Year.	Con.	Lib.
1867	10	24	1891	31	12
1872	18	19	1896	18	21
1874	9	34	1901	12	27
1878	24	19	1904	8	27

DENY U. S. PLANES USED FOR LIQUOR

Capt. Kells, Intelligence Officer, Makes an Investigation

FURTHER PROBE COMING

Suspicion of Air Smuggling Route Not Confirmed

DETROIT, Oct. 14. — Denial that United States army airplanes had been used for smuggling liquor across the Canadian border was made here to-night by Capt. C. H. Kells, intelligence officer at Fort Wayne, who recently investigated the destruction of an army plane on Canadian soil. The airplane, Capt. Kells reported, made a forced landing near Sunnyside, Ontario, on August 20, and the pilot, Lieut. James Hutchinson, was injured. Later the motor was stolen from the machine and the inflammable parts burned.

Capt. Kells, whose report was of a preliminary nature, recommended that the investigation be carried further by an inspector with competent authority to bring about the arrest of persons who stole the motor.

The plane landed in a district where rum-runners operated extensively some months ago. Following the accident residents declared frequent landings of airplanes from the United States had aroused their suspicions that the machines were engaged in smuggling whisky.

These reports never have been confirmed and Capt. Kells to-night said his investigations disclosed no connection between the mishap to the army plane and the illicit liquor traffic.

THE REGULATIONS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—The past summer has seen for the first time international flying to any perceptible extent between Canada and the United States, under definite federal regulations in accordance with the terms of the international air convention held in Paris, in connection with the peace conference. Only American pilots with military or naval certificates are admissible to Canada at present since the United States has not yet made arrangements for certificating commercial pilots.

Flying boats from New York to Cleveland and Detroit took a course via Montreal, Belleville and Toronto. They had to report "in" at a customs air harbor upon entering Canadian territory and report "out" at a customs air harbor prior to crossing back into the United States. Permission was also given for a flight from California along the western coast of Canada to Alaska and Siberia.

U. S. RAILWAY STRIKE WOULD AFFECT CANADA

Local Union Men Have Received No Intimation of Joint Action Yet.

While it is not yet known just what effect the threatened strike on the American lines would have on the Canadian lines, Joseph Corbett, local union representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, stated this morning that it would ultimately be felt on this side if the proposed action was carried out.

"We have learned nothing definite here," he added, "and, although I don't think the proposition will have much effect on the local situation, I can't say anything definite."

He stated that the matter of the Canadian National Express was left in abeyance, like the proposition of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees. There was nothing really done at the conference in Montreal, he asserted, except that the conciliation board recommended that they carry on the same way for the time being.

TRIBESMEN SLAY 400.

MADRID, Oct. 15.—Spanish forces in Morocco who are engaged in the offensive against the Moors have collected the bodies of 400 soldiers who were slain by the tribesmen during the massacre that followed the defeat of the Spanish forces last August.

CITY NEWS

BICYCLE STOLEN. — Mrs. W. S. Robins, 37 Victor street, informed the police to-day of the theft of a bicycle from in front of St. James' Anglican Church. The wheel was enameled a light gray.

ENTER ACTION FOR $3,026. — Ivey, Elliott & Ivey, acting for John C. Green & Co., Limited Toronto, has issued a writ in the Supreme Court against Harry Russell, of Hamilton, for $3,026, which the plaintiffs claim is due them as the unpaid balance of the purchase price of goods sold and delivered by the plaintiffs to the defendant.

APPLES AND BLOSSOMS.—J. Cassidy, of Byron, while picking apples off one of his trees yesterday noticed several fine blooms on the same tree. He brought an excellent specimen of the bloom to The Free Press office to verify his statement. This is evidently a good sign of a mild winter, as a few days ago another reader of The Free Press called up and stated that he was picking a second growth of red raspberries and had counted 12 berries on one branch.

DEATH OF ALVINSTON LADY.—The death of Mrs. Mary Agnes Spearman, of Alvinston, took place at St. Joseph's Hospital on Friday night following a lingering illness. Her husband, a retired farmer, predeceased her three weeks ago. She is survived by one son, James, of Oil City, and one daughter, of Alvinston. The remains were forwarded to Alvinston via L. & P.S.R. this afternoon at 2.20 for interment in Alvinston Cemetery.

LEFT FOR NEW YORK.—T. H. McKnight, who has been directing the Grew players at the Majestic Theater since the organization of the local stock company, left for New York yesterday, where he will direct "Just Suppose," and Edward H. Robbins' play, which will shortly go on a Canadian tour and will be presented here. Edward H. Robbins is the owner of the Robbins' players that have played for the past seven years in the Royal Alexandra at Toronto.

ASKS RETURN OF MONEY—Minnie V. Walker, of this city, has commenced an action in the county court against the Ruggles Motor Truck Company, Limited, to recover $750 which the plaintiff claims was the amount paid by her to the defendants with an application for 15 shares of common stock at $50 a share and which subscription was withdrawn before allotment of stock was made. The plaintiff asks that the subscription be rescinded on the ground that it was obtained by fraud and misrepresentation. In the alternative the plaintiff asks damages for alleged fraud and misrepresentation.

MARKET PROTECTION THE ONLY ISSUE

R. B. Bennett Launches Campaign in Calgary With This Assertion

CALGARY, Alta., Oct. 15.—"The real issue in this election is whether or not, by the use of the tariff, the only economic weapon at our disposal, we shall, in self-defense, protect our markets for our own people and develop our great resources or give free trade, afford employment for the welfare of the foreign countries, reduce the value of the already depreciated dollar and add to the unemployment in the Dominion."

With these words Hon. R. B. Bennett, minister of justice, launched the Government campaign in Calgary last night at a meeting in the pavilion. Mr. Bennett attacked the principle of group government and defended the policy of protection.

He contended that industry and agriculture must both be made to prosper in Canada. The things essential to progress were natural resources, power, steam or hydro-electric, capital, distribution facilities and markets.

LIFT OIL EMBARGO

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 15. — Officials of the State of Vera Cruz have lifted the embargo they placed on the properties of the Aguila Oil Company last Saturday, following legal proceedings brought by the firm, a British corporation. The embargo was ordered as a security for back taxes to[illegible]000,000 pesos, which it was a[illegible] not been paid.

LABOR HAS THE PICK OF THREE

I.L.P. Convention to Be Held at St. Thomas To-Night

TO CHOOSE EX-ALD. LANE

Campaign in West Elgin Is Warming Up

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 14.—(By Staff Reporter.)—When a vote is taken to-morrow night at the Independent Labor convention at the city hall there will only be three candidates to choose from. Ald. William Stokes and Commissioner Sanderson have definitely retired from the field and will not seek the nomination. This was officially announced here to-day following a meeting of the party held last night. Short addresses by the prospective nominees will likely be permitted at to-morrow night's gathering, which promises to be an interesting one. Rumors are current to-day to the effect that ex-Ald. John Lane is to get the convention. This is believed to be possible, in view of the fact that he has brought into the association something like 150 new members during the past week. All these new supporters are expected to give their attendance and vote for ex-Ald. Lane.

There are others, however, who predict that the nomination will go either to ex-Ald. A. E. Hookway or Albert Roberts, and many are favoring the latter, who received such a fine reception at the convention a couple of weeks ago.

The report published locally that, according to the advance poll at the I. L. P. hall, John Lane was getting the lead is looked upon as somewhat of a joke in the clubrooms last night and railway men and others who are not able to be in the city on Saturday are being allowed to vote. The ballot is a secret one and only a very small number have so far taken advantage of the advance poll, so that there is not the slightest possibility of basing a prediction on the few votes cast in this way.

IS WARMING UP.

The election campaign in West Elgin is rapidly warming up and St. Thomas and vicinity will in the course of a few days be the scene of some rousing election gatherings of the old-time variety. The Government campaign here will likely start in real earnest with the visit of Hon. Arthur Meighen on October 22. It is likely that this meeting, which is to be held on a Saturday night, will be held in the Engineers' Hall.

Warden Hugh C. McKillop, candidate of the National Liberal and Conservative party, was in the city to-day and began arranging for clubrooms and other preliminary steps in the campaign. In conversation with The Free Press Mr. McKillop stated that he had as yet made no definite plans, but would make an announcement early next week. The clubrooms and headquarters of the party for West Elgin will likely be at the old Y. M. C. A., opposite the city hall.

While a prediction at the present time with any degree of accuracy is almost impossible there are many former U. F. O. supporters who will, it is understood, rally to the support of the National Liberal and Conservative party. The object of a good majority of the farmers, according to reports, is to overthrow definitely the new group movement inaugurated by the U. F. O. and I. L. P.

It is well known that many who attended the convention of the party at Dutton last Tuesday were not with the Conservatives in the 1920 provincial campaign and this is taken as an indication of the feeling locally.

IN EAST ELGIN.

The East Elgin campaign is also warming up and next Tuesday will see a candidate for both the Liberals and Conservatives in the field. There is a persistent rumor going the rounds to the effect that a suitable man is already available to carry the nomination of both the Liberals and Conservative parties in East Elgin. Should this arrangement be brought about, then Dr. Colin Sinclair, the present nominee, will drop out of the running and both Liberals and Conservatives will get behind the independent candidate, with a view to defeating the U. F. O.

It is a well-known fact that were the East Elgin fight reduced to a two-man battle the United Farmer candidate would not have a very great opportunity; in fact, his defeat is looked upon as almost a certainty.

PAY LAST HONORS TO LATE SENATOR KNOX

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—The body of Senator Philander C. Knox, who died suddenly on Wednesday night in Washington, arrived here late last night. It was accompanied by his widow and other members of the family.

The coffin, of plain black design, with silver side bars, was ornamented with a single wreath of rosebuds, the tribute of President and Mrs. Harding. Several hundred persons, the men with uncovered heads, were at the station when the train drew in.

The body was taken by motor hearse to Valley Forge, the country home of Senator Knox, where funeral services will be held to-morrow.

PLEADS FOR BRITISHERS

Says Remedy Is to "Pump in the Whites"

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—F. C. Wade, agent-general for British Columbia, has written to the press emphasizing the urgent need for redistribution of the population of the empire. He points out that Australia and Canada at the present time support less than three persons to the square mile, as against 618 to the square mile in England and Wales. Mr. Wade suggests that Canada's position is more precarious than that of Australia. He points out that the "same
