Viewpoint of Baptists On Church Union

Pastor of Talbot Street Church Explains Difficulties In Way of Unity.

By T. S. ROY

No Baptist can speak for any other Baptist, for we are an independent folk. Necessarily, therefore, what follows will be the writer's opinion only of the Baptist position in regard to church union. It may, however, be considered a fair statement of the consensus of Baptist opinion.

Let it be said at the outset that on the basis of anything that has so far appeared it is absolutely impossible for Baptists to think of church union. We have so much that is imbedded in the very life of the denomination that apparently would have to be sacrificed as the price of union that the matter is hopeless.

Take the question of infant baptism, not the form, but the time. It is unthinkable that Baptists should ever accept that as a condition of union. It is reminiscent of the day when such baptism was essential to the salvation of the infant (still held by the Roman Catholic church, at least) and is suggestive of a magic that has no place in the Christian system.

WANT DEMOCRACY.

In our form of church government we are at one with some of the other denominations, notably the Congregationalists and the Disciples. Baptists would have some difficulty in giving up the independence of the local church. The whole trend of our modern life is toward democracy. Giving up our democratic church government, which, by the way, we believe to be nearest the New Testament idea of church government, would be like taking a step backwards.

On the question of the Lambeth appeal for union, in common with all other of the great denominations we object to the requirement of reordination. We do not ask of an Anglican clergyman that he receive a form of commission at our hands that will enable him to discharge all of the functions of a minister in our denomination. We accept the validity of his ordination in toto. Few ministers of other denominations will acknowledge the inferiority of their own denomination or question the validity of their own ordination by submitting to reordination at the hands of a bishop.

On the subject of our form of baptism, namely, immersion, it may be said that this was held during the stormy years when other scholars contended with ours as to the historicity of immersion. To-day, when leading scholars of all denominations, including the Roman Catholic, acknowledge that immersion was the original method of baptism, it is hardly likely that we will surrender it.

CHURCH INDEPENDENCE.

We have lived to see some of our fundamental principles incorporated into all denominations. Liberty of conscience—the inherent right of every man to his own belief, which at one time was held by Baptists against the world, is to-day acknowledged by all Protestants. Regenerate church membership has virtually been accepted by all, and infant baptism is not a "saving" ordinance, but just a dedication of the child. The independence of the local church is practically established by all in spite of their theories of church government. Our witness for these things has, therefore, not been lost. We seek the broadest sort of co-operation with our brethren of other denominations and seek only to be allowed to work out our life as we have the light, looking toward the day when the religion of the Spirit will be the spirit of all our religion.

THE BOY IN RELATION TO THE CHURCH

By L. M. Houlding, Secretary of Boys' Work Board.

"The church is a dynamo for charging human wills."

The church spires shadow thousands of boys in the City of London. Do they cover them? Some churches have a high percentage of 'teen age boy attendance and some very low; where one has 60 per cent. another will have 20 per cent.

We ask ourselves the question: Why should this be? How often do they attend the church services and the Sunday school?

Roosevelt once said: "If we are going to do anything for the men of to-morrow we must begin before they are men."

Has your church ever made a survey of your potential boy life? How many boys have you? Are they attending your church? Your Sunday school? What religious education are they getting? If every church in London were to make a study of its boy life the results in most cases would cry out for an immediate action.

We watch each boy closely until he is 12 and then he slips quietly out into the shadows of our churches until he becomes a young man. Thousands of dollars are then spent annually to recover him, when, in so many cases, it is too late.

The boys' loyalty to the Church of Christ will depend largely on the church's ability to supply a leadership which will satisfy the social, educational and physical side of his being. He is by nature religious and we must give him an opportunity to express his religion through natural channels.

London has many churches which have grappled with the boy problem and are reaping to-day a new spiritual awakening because of the rich, red blood flowing through its veins.

If the church, as it stands by the side of the way, closed all week to the boy, had ears as the gang goes by it would hear the boys say: "Give us a chance."

The churches of Canada hold in their program of boys' work the answer to this great present-day problem. Will they dare a great venture, for the sake of the kingdom, into the realm of the boy life? Will they accept the challenge of the boyhood now within their reach? What is your share to help in this great enterprise?

Say not ye. There are yet four months, and then cometh the harvest? behold. I say unto you, Lift up your eyes and look on the fields, that they are white and already unto harvest. — John 4:35.

Business dispatched is business well done, but business hurried is business ill done.—Bulwer-Lytton.

A WORTH-WHILE THOUGHT FROM A LONDON PULPIT

From the sermon, "The Greatest Builders In the World," to be delivered by the Rev. A. E. M. Thomson to-morrow evening.

Law is not a scrap of paper.

Law is the order of the universe, as directed by God. God has said that life shall persist in the world on certain principles, and life shall cease from the world if these principles are violated. These principles are law. We are a great law-making nation. We will soon elect a new set of men to make more laws. Any law made that does not harmonize with the order of God in the premises will fail, and ought to fail. The understanding of God's law is what men need when they start in to make legislation for us humans. Law is not "made." Law is. It behooves us not to prate so much about making laws, but rather to discover, in any particular case, what the law is, as God has made it. In this way alone can we avoid pain and punishment.

We violate the law of God when we become drunken, individually, or as a nation, and sure punishment follows, as day follows the night.

We violate God's law when we destroy His Sabbath or partially destroy it. This law is written into man's nature as it is, also into God's law.

We violate God's law when we are impure, when we destroy children's lives in factories, when we expose our youth to the danger of pitfalls on every hand, when we put before them wrong ideals of life and living, and thus poison their minds. We are doing these things and we will pay the price as sure as we reap what we sow.

The lion in the jungle, the flower in the field, the planet in its orbet obeys the law of its being. They do not make law. They obey it. We cannot "make" law. We must "obey" it or perish.

International Sunday School Lesson
'What the World Lives By'

BY WM. T. ELLIS.

The International Sunday School Lesson for October 16 is: "Paul Writes to the Christians at Corinth." 1 Cor., xiii, 1-13.

What the unvocal bulk of people think is really the ultimate measure of life. The world lives by the ideals of ordinary folk. Statecraft never gets very far ahead of popular convictions, nor long lags very far behind them. That is why even the most eminent of Old World officials are glad to speak or write for the press of this Western world; they know that public opinion is the crowned king of the new day. Behind all the viciousness of propaganda to the power of which the war introduced us, lies this conviction that the mind of the masses is the court of last resort in the world.

Therefore we must rate, as above, the deliberations of Parliaments and Congresses and Legislatures, the influences which shape common thought, such as the daily newspaper, the public school, the pulpit, the Sunday school, the Chautauqua and lyceum system and the major fraternal orders. Frankly one reason why some strong men give the very essence of their lives to the Sunday school is the conviction that to shape the standards of these oncoming millions of youth is the most fundamental way of serving the world. It is no small responsibility that rests upon those men and women who select and write and teach Sunday school lessons.

Farther back, and more potent in influence, of course, are the writings which are the basis of the weekly school members, and of hundreds of thousands of sermons, and of books and articles and teaching and conversation beyond all computation.

When that versatile and amazing man, Paul of Tarsus, the first Christian missionary, wrote his letters to the converts in his new churches, he little dreamed that he was determining the standards of thought and life for countless tens of millions of Christians who were to follow, many of them in lands of whose very existence he had no knowledge. We are obliged to tarry here for a brief consideration of the unique personality of this peerless letter writer. What Dr. James Stalker says in his "Life of St. Paul" is better worth reading than anything I can pen:

TRAVELER-AUTHOR-THINKER.

"Overpowering as is the impression of the remarkableness of this man produced by following him as we have been doing, as he hurries from province to province, from continent to continent, over land and sea, in pursuit of the object to which he was devoted, this impression is immensely deepened when we remember that he was at the same time the greatest thinker of his ag, if not of any age, and, in the midst of his outward labors, was producing writings which have ever since been among the mightiest forces of the world, and are still growing in their influence. In this respect he rises above all other evangelists and missionaries.

"Some of them may have approached him in certain respects—Xavier or Livingstone in the world-conquering instinct, St. Bernard or Whitefield in earnestness and activity. But few of these men add a single new idea to the world's stock of beliefs, whereas Paul, while at least equaling them in their own special line, gave to mankind a new world of thought. If his Epistles could perish the loss to literature would be the greatest possible with only one exception—that of the Gospels which record the life, the savings and the death of our Lord. They have quickened the mind of the church as no other writings have done, and scattered in the soil of the world hundreds of seeds whose fruit is now the general possession of mankind.

"Out of them have been brought the watchwords of progress in every reformation which the church has experienced. When Luther awoke Europe from the slumber of centuries, it was a word of Paul which he uttered with his mighty voice.

"Yet in penning his Epistles, Paul may himself have had little idea of the part they were to play in the future. They were drawn out of him simply by the exigencies of his work. In the truest sense of the word they were letters, written to meet particular occasions, not formal writings, carefully designed and executed with a view to fame or to futurity. Letters of the right kind are, before everything else, products of the heart; and it was the eager heart of Paul, yearning for the weal of his spiritual children, or alarmed by the dangers to which they were exposed, that produced all his writings. They were part of his day's work. Just as he flew over sea and land to revisit his converts, or sent Timothy or Titus to carry them his counsels and bring news of how they fared, so, when these means were not available, he would send a letter with the same design."

A WAR-TIME REVELATION.

A scientist recently was quoted as declaring that only seven per cent. of the population of civilized lands do any real thinking; the rest are intellectual incapables. Such a remark puts the scientist outside of his own seven per cent. For before all our eyes stands the great revelation of the war, that the plain people of earth, even those who are heirs to centuries of ignorance and benightedness, have been able to grasp those lofty conceptions of life and civilization which were expressed in the allied war aims.

This possibility, of the lowliest being able to understand the highest, underlies the present world ferment. Indeed, there are illiterate peasants by the myriad in Europe and Asia who seem to have a clearer comprehension of the profundities released by the war than apparently have some professional statesmen. It may be questioned whether any public teacher of principles of life and conduct is ever 'over the heads of the people;" he may be unable to present his subject clearly, but the fault is with himself, and not with his hearers. Usually it is the general public, the aggregation of use plain folks, who get the first and firmest grasp of the new ideas which master mankind.

"Into this profound and practical truth we are led by a study of the Letters of St. Paul. They are concededly, in parts, the loftiest flights of the intellectual powers of man. Their speculative philosophy soars higher than that of any of the great utterances of the world's long array of wise men. Yet these epistles were written to groups of ex-pagans, many of whom were slaves! In this particular Letter of the Corinthians we find heavenly sublimities set forth to dwellers amid the degradation of heathenism at its worst. And Paul expected them to understand what he wrote. They did, too, and by this comprehension of divine truth they were made strong to conquer the world. To every teacher and preacher and writer Paul's message is "Give of your best to all." For every public utterance that is too profound for its audience there are a thousand that are too thin. Nowadays, especially, in a newly-awake world, the need and demand is for a more exalted presentation of the things by which men live.

"THE GREATEST THING IN THE WORLD."

Dr. Slosson writes of science more readibly than novelists write of romance. To be able to popularize the profundities is a great gift. The Apostle Paul had it. Most minds are either too thick or too thin, as they attempt to portray the divine quality of love, yet Paul set it forth, in one of his letters to a handful of squabbling saints, freshly out of idolatry, so that the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, which is the present Sunday school lessons, is one of the world's finest literary treasures. Henry Drummond was such a living exposition of this passage that many of us have made pilgrimage to his grave in Scotland. His little essay, "The Greatest Thing in the World," was one of the great literary productions of the past generation; it should be read by every student of this lesson, for its effect upon character is mighty. Here is the Pauline passage upon which it was based:

"If I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, but have not love, I am become sounding brass, or a clanging cymbal. And if I have the gift of prophecy, and know all mysteries and all knowledge; and if I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing. And if I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and if I give my body to be burned, but have not love, it profiteth me nothing. Love suffereth long, and is kind; love envieth not; love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not its own, and is not provoked, taketh no account of evil; rejoiceth not in unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth; beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things. Love never falleth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall be done away; whether they shall be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall be done away. For we know in part, and we prophecy in part; but when that which is perfect is come, that which is in part shall be done away. When I was a child I spake as a child, I felt as a child, I thought as a child; now that I am become a man, I have put away childish things. For now we see in a mirror, darkly; but then face to face; now I know in part; but then shall I know fully even as also I was fully known. But now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love."

R.E. Council To Hold Big Convention

Western Ontario Sunday School Workers Meet In Brantford On October 25.

For three days, October 25, 26 and 27, Brantford will be the center for all Western Ontario Sunday school enthusiasts.

Marion Lawrance, a man whose name suggests the last word in organized Sunday school work the world over, will be present, and will deliver four addresses on "The Ten Commandments for the Sunday School Teacher;" "Missions in the Sunday School;" "The Relation of the Home to the Sunday School;" "The Challenge of the Sunday School."

Prof. Fred. Langford, of Victoria University, will deliver three addresses on "Educational Evangelism, Its Meaning, Its Agencies, Its Methods."

Supporting these two leaders in the various sessions will be Rev. Dr. George T. Webb, general superintendent of the Baptist Sunday School Board; Rev. F. Langford, general secretary of the Methodist Sunday School Board, and Rev. C. A. Myers, joint secretary of the Presbyterian Sabbath School Board. Mrs. F. E. Bullock, children's division specialist from Dayton, Ohio, will assist in the children's division section. Along with these leaders will be the full staff of the Ontario Religious Education Council, bringing expert leadership in every department of Sunday school work.

The theme of the convention will be "Educational Evangelism." An attempt will be made to study the religious needs of the various age groups of childhood and youth, and to point out the best way of meeting these needs.

Brantford is preparing to entertain the delegates with their well-known hospitality.

AN APPRECIATION OF COL. BEATTIE

By "BARNABUS"

A community will speedily appraise Col. the Rev. William Beattie as a preacher and a theologian, but it requires the intimacy of touch to estimate the human and manly qualities which have given him the place of eminence he to-day occupies.

Those who have known him longest and most intimately know that his big frame houses a warm and brotherly heart. He has a genius for friendship born of a sympathetic insight into human nature. This, above all, made him the friend and idol of the boys "over there."

All through the stressful years whether as companion of the boys of his battalion as their beloved padre or as chief director of the Canadian Chaplain Services, he was the big human friend of the boys in the trenches and a comforter of thousands of bereaved at home.

We know that Col. Beattie will make a large place for himself in this city and community.

SIDELIGHTS ON CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Although the Baptist convention for Ontario and Quebec opened on Friday the greater percentage of the lay delegates from this city will not attend the sessions in St. Thomas until Monday. Each church is expected to send its pastor and a large representation of its laity, so that London will swell the number of delegates in the Railroad City next week by two or three-score. Special services are being conducted in the St. Thomas churches to-morrow and the business of the convention will require sessions up to and including Friday of next week. Local Baptists are expressing considerable interest in the fact that the Rev. T. T. Shields' controversy is coming up at the meeting. This minister was once at Adelaide Street Church and has attracted attention to himself in his differences with his congregation in Toronto.

Joint meetings of the Presbyterian and Methodist ministry of the city will probably be arranged within the next few days. Committees from the two ministerial associations have been appointed to confer with a view to calling meetings that will discuss the mutual problems of Methodists and Presbyterians. It is the belief that much can be done in this way to expedite organic church union.

Ridout Street Methodist Church is to-morrow celebrating the anniversary of the erection of the present edifice. Rev. George Watts, of Wellington Street Church, and Principal Dobson, of Alma College, will be the speakers at the morning and evening services. The church was built in 1914, through the generosity of prominent Methodists throughout the city and through funds realized by the old Ridout Mission, which existed before that time. With the growth of the district in that part of the city the congregation has experienced a wonderful growth in membership and is one of the strongest outposts of Methodism in the city. Rev. J. A. Agnew is the pastor.

Inspired by Ralph Connor's (Dr. C. W. Gordon) able address before the last meeting of the London Presbytery, the Presbyterian clergy and laymen are intending to launch a forward movement in the city that will awaken new interest in the church and what it stands for.

The choir of First Methodist Church will not be surpliced for some time, although the music committee of the church has discussed the matter on numerous occasions. Difference of opinion exists as to whether the gowns should be white, such as are worn in the Anglican churches, or black, to conform with the custom of other Methodist churches. Moreover, there is certain opposition to any change at all.

Miss Marion Gibbings, a talented soloist of Clinton, will next Sunday join the choir of Wellington Street Methodist Church.

Friday's meeting of the London Metho-dist Council marks the beginning of one of the big forward movements in the city. A series of meetings such as was held yesterday will follow this winter with a view to getting nonchurch-goers back to the church and interesting them in some activity.

HELP SOUTHERN ALBERTA.

EDMONTON, Oct. 14.—Alberta farmers and stockmen in the central and northern sections may be extended an invitation by the Provincial Government to help their less fortunate brothers in the south of the province. Recently a number of Stettler citizens offered two carloads of cattle for the needy settlers in the southern portion of the province, and this offer has suggested to the Government that others may be willing to follow suit. The plan under consideration is that the beef so contributed would be slaughtered under Government control, put in storage and given out during the winter in cases of actual need.

AT ST. ANDREWS.—At 10 a. m. to-morrow St. Andrew's Brotherhood will meet for the first time this fall and will be addressed by Rev. D. C. MacGregor. The Young People will also hold their first Sunday evening meeting at the close of the evening service. This will be followed by a social hour. Last year many strangers in the city took advantage of these meetings and greatly appreciated the opportunity to get acquainted with the people of the church. The Young People desire to render a similar service this year.

Give me, Lord, eyes to behold the truth;
A seeing sense, that knows the eternal right
A heart with pity filled, and gentlest ruth;
A manly faith that makes all darkness light.
—Theodore Parker.

ASK CURFEW LAW FOR BRANTFORD

Board of Education to Send Request to Council

CHILDREN LOSE SLEEP

Dangerous to Health and Welfare, Is Report

BRANTFORD, Oct. 14.—The Board of Education will request the City Council to enforce the curfew bell law. Children in this city were not securing sufficient rest. Such laxity was being found dangerous to their health and welfare, it was officially reported.

Inspector Albert H. Leake, of the department of education, dealing with the manual training classes at the Collegiate, reports that, although the department has made a very good start, the Board of Education should take seriously into consideration the question of providing satisfactory accommodation.

Owing to the congested attendance the work is now being carried on under conditions which will not allow the ability of the teacher full play nor permit of the best work being done by the boys. There are now 254 pupils enrolled. Last January the people voted down a by-law for a technical school.

A PURSE OF GOLD

A purse of gold was presented to P. W. McInnes by the session of Alexandra Presbyterian Church. He leaves shortly for Western mission fields.

Preparations for the formal opening of the Brantford-Hamilton provincial highway, on October 20, were completed at a joint city and county council committee meeting this afternoon. A luncheon will be served and Hon. F. C. Biggs will be on hand.

About 100 members of Brant Lodge, A., F. & A. M., to-night visited Acacia Lodge at Hamilton. Special cars conveyed the party. On arrival at Hamilton the party were met by a delegation from Acacia Lodge and proceeded to the Masonic Temple, where the visitors were entertained at a banquet, returning home late at night.

WINTER SPORTS.

Days spent in snowshoe tramps through primitive forests, where every leaf and bough bears its weight of glittering crystals, in the breathless flight of the toboggan or ski, and in the ring of steel against the icy covering of some lake, together with evenings spent in social converse in the cozy warmth of an old-fashioned log fire—these slip away unnoticed—but those who have once experienced them return to their avocations with renewed energies, with hardened muscles, and a grateful memory of Algonquin Park. The Grand Trunk has decided to keep open the High and Inn, the largest of the park hotels, for the winter season, from December 15, 1921, to March 15, 1922. A handsomely illustrated booklet has been issued and a free copy may be had on application to Grand Trunk agents, or to the Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park Station, Ont. Make your reservations early, as accommodation is limited.—Advt. xJ131

LONDONER HURT IN DERAILMENT

G.T.R. Conductor Drake in Accident Near Chesley

BAGGAGEMAN INJURED

All the Passengers on Train Escape

STRATFORD, Oct. 14.—The engine tender, the baggage car, mail car and two coaches of the G. T. R. train, due to arrive here from Owen Sound at 9.55 this morning, were derailed at 6.58 o'clock about one and a quarter miles north of Chesley. None of the passengers were hurt, but Conductor Drake and the baggage man were slightly injured. The cause of the accident is not yet known. When the accident occurred the train was traveling at about 20 miles an hour. All the derailed cars remained upright. A special train was sent up from Stratford to the scene of the derailment and the passengers were transferred to it and arrived here about noon. The train from Owen Sound is scheduled to leave here for London at 10.15 and to accommodate the travelers bound for southwestern points a special train was made up here and left at 10.15.

Mr. Dewar, of Stratford, was the engineer and Conductor Drake, of London, was in charge of the train.

PLANS FOR WALKOUT OF MILLION RAILMEN BEING MADE IN U.S.A.

Second Division Roads, Chiefly In the East, Will Stage Strike On November 1.

FIRST DIVISION WILL WALKOUT OCTOBER 30

Last Minute Effort To Avert Such Action Is Declared To Be Impossible.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Canadian Press Dispatch).—The second group of railroads in the big five brotherhoods will follow the example of the first group and will stage a walk-out. It become known to-day. These roads include the New York, New Haven & Hartford, and the Delaware & Hudson.

Like the first group the walkout on the second division of roads will affect every section of the country, but hits the East hardest, a section of the country left practically untouched on the first day. The second group walkout will comm at 6 a.m., local standard time, November 1.

PLANS GO FORWARD.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—First conferences on plans for carrying forward the general railroad strike were begun here to-day. Warren S. Stone president of the Brotherhood of Engineers, was conferring with the vice-presidents of that organization who are to be in direct charge of the strike within their various districts. Mr. Stone was expected to issue a statement at the conclusion of the conference.

With W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, already on the job directing plans for the walk-out of members of his organization, Mr. Stone conferring with his immediate subordinates, the three leaders of the other big five transportation organizations are expected to arrive during the day for the general conference of the big five leaders on Tuesday.

BEGINS OCTOBER 30.

Besides perfecting plans for carrying on the strike which is scheduled to begin at 6 a. m. on Sunday, October 30, on a group of roads affecting mainly the Central West, West and Southwest of the United States, it is also expected the big five leaders will discuss the plan for ending the strike which has been proposed by the public group of the railroad labor board—to transfer the 12 per cent. wage reduction which became effective on July 1 immediately into decreased freight rates that would be passed down to the public.

How the leaders may view such a proposition is unknown, but should some pledge be forthcoming that no further wage reduction would be sought by the carriers now or at least until the present cut has been reflected in reducing freight rates and living conditions generally have been stabilized, it is believed not to be beyond the realm of possibility that the big five transportation leaders might give consideration to the plan. It is known that some of them counselled for acceptance of the July wage cut and beleved firmly that a strike would be averted until the carriers announced they intended to seek a further wage reduction of 10 per cent.

MILEAGE AFFECTED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Figures collected by railroad men to-day give some idea of the magnitude of the threatened railroad strike. The United States railway system now facing a strike is three times larger than the British system which recently was the scene of the world's last great railway strike.

Two years ago the operating revenues of the United States railroads stood at $4,184,000,000 and operating expenses in to $4,419,000,000. The average number of miles operated was 233,991. The number of revenue passengers carried in the first half of last year was 597,266,000, and freight tonnage handled in this period amounted to 1,031,645,138 tons. Railway employees two years ago numbered 1,977,616. The largest of the roads listed in group one of the railroads is the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, which has a trackage of 10,661 miles and runs through most of the states in the northern tier between Chicago and the Pacific Coast. The Chicago and Northwestern, covering the central and North Central States, is the second largest, its mileage totaling 8,155.

The Southern Pacific has a larger mileage than either of the above roads, but part of their line runs into Mexico and it is not yet known whether the strike will affect that country.

UNIONS OPPOSED.

While heads of the big four brotherhoods and of the Switchmen's Union prepared to meet in Cleveland to-morrow to complete plans for the rail strike which they have called for October 30, union chiefs to-day said that leaders of some of the 11 other railroad leader organizations still were opposing a walk-out and would attempt to keep their men from joining with the five organizations which have definitely committed themselves to a strike. The

Strike Would Not Include Canadian Lines

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—President A. R. Mosher, of the brotherhood of railway employees, stated last night that the railway strike would not affect Canadian lines. Canadian locals of the international unions would not necessarily have to go on strike. Calvin Lawrence, legislative representative of the brotherhood of railway engineers, also stated last night that the railways in Canada were not affected by the strike vote of American roads. In several cases in Canada different brotherhoods had asked for and had appointed boards of conciliation, which were now functioning.

STRIKE UNLIKELY HERE

Not So Serious As Many Think, Says Local Official.

It is not thought in local railway circles that the proposed railway strike on the American lines will have a big effect on the Canadian side, although for some time back the local men have been warned to prepare for any such occurrence by laying in a large supply of all lines of provisions and saving every cent they can get hold of so that if anything out of the ordinary should happen they will have something to fall back on.

The American Government has until the end of October in which to settle the proposed strike by acceding to the terms demanded by the union officials and men and, as one local union employee stated, "if they don't come across one of the biggest walk-outs in the history of the railroads will be staged."

One of the local union representatives stated that they had received no word from the Chicago headquarters yet and nothing definite could be said at present. He stated that the work was being carried out the same as usual and there was no cause for anyone to worry until the proper time arrived. He did not think that the problem was as serious as the public believed.

Strike Situation Seen At a Glance

REASONS FOR STRIKE.

Determination of the railroad executives to request another wage cut. This amounts to 10 per cent., and would bring wages back to same level as prevailed prior to July 20, 1920.

STEPS TO PREVENT IT.

President Harding, assuming active leadership in the struggle, has designated the three members of the United States Railway Labor Board and the membership of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enter into a conference with the object of working out an equitable adjustment.

TIME OF STRIKE.

Brotherhood leaders set October 30 as the day for the walkout.

WORKERS INVOLVED.

Number of men who will be affected, 2,034,214. More than 400,000 of these are members of the four brotherhoods. The remainder are also organized and affiliated with the major bodies.

THIEVES ENTER HOME; GET WATCH AND CHAIN

Money and Other Jewelry Overlooked at Residence of Geo. Yull.

The residence of George Yull, 232 Hill street, was entered some time after 10.30 on Sunday night and a gold watch and chain belonging to his wife were stolen from clothing hanging in the hall.

Mr. Yull stated this morning that the thief had gained entrance by removing a screen in the window and crawling through.

A sum of money and several pieces of jewelry in the living-room were overlooked by the intruder.

Wedding Bells Are Muffled In City

Why Do Young Men Refuse To Pop the Important Question.

MANY GAY AND GRAVE REASONS ARE GIVEN

Matter May Be Taken Up By Rev. J. A. Agnew and Remedy Suggested.

"Why not get married?"

This is not the title of a movie drama. It was the leading question of a census taken during the past two weeks amongst young unmarried men and women of London, and the answers received range all the way from the tragic to the humorous and farsical. But the statistics gathered show that the major reason why young people are not marrying with the glad abandon of former years is purely economic.

Here are some of the men's reasons for not marrying: "Not enough salary;" "Not sure of my job;" "Marriage is a lottery; I never was a gambler;" "Why marry when you can board out?" "What a hope, my bank account stands at the zero hour;" "Lead me to a girl;" "Picture me as a proud papa on $25 a week."

The young women proved more reluctant. Romance entered into a lot of their answers: "Haven't met Mr. Right yet, but you look sorta familiar;" "No wedding bells for little Mabel. I might lose my job;" "I detest cooking;" "Do they still grow rose-covered cottages?" "Nobody's asked me;" "I am waiting for a millionaire;" "Nix, kid, I love to dance too well." The answer—"Nobody's asked me"—should be ruled out. The inquiring reporter would have asked her himself if it wasn't for the laws against bigamy—and the high cost of living.

But the whole census proved one thing beyond peradventure, certainly beyond that greatest of adventures, which is that the men are afraid, just plain scared. Not enough salary, prospects none too rosy, and the dread of becoming one of those "poor dubs" that have to turn their pay checks over every Saturday night and fight like sixty for tobacco money.

Meanwhile the total of marriages on a basis of population steadily declines. Many believe that the time is not only ripe for starting something, but that the future of the nation is endangered if the bacheior-spinster crop continues to grow.

The churches may take the matter up. Rev. J. A. Agnew, head of the London Methodist Conference, in an interview to-day, stated that the churches had a big field there which has so far not been touched. He stated that he has plans in mind and would make announcements later. He may bring the matter to the attention of the London Ministerial Alliance.

It is believed that united action by churches could stimulate marriages to a remarkable extent. Show employers the duty of raising salaries automatically when their employees took the matrimonial vow. The province and Dominion might grant bonuses or special low rate sickness and unemployment insurance, the city might aid in home building, tax reduction on the size of the growing family and merchants might co-operate in the matter of house furnishings. Anyway something has been begun.

ADVANCE PLAN TO STOP STRIKES

U. S. Labor Board Suggests Immediate Freight Cuts.

WOULD DELAY STRIKE ORDER

Suggest Withdrawing Requests For Wage Decreases.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Official Washington's interest in the impending United States railway strike centered to-day in the reaction of railway executives and labor leaders to the proposal of the public group of the railway labor board, of "one feasible plan" to prevent the tie-up of the country's transportation system. In brief the board proposed:

1—That the railroads immediately put into effect freight reductions equivalent to the wage reductions authorized last July.

2—That requests for further wage decreases be withdrawn.

3—That the employees withdraw their strike order pending action of the board upon any request for further reduction which the carriers might file.

Federal action in connection with the strike had been confined up to to-day to the conferences arranged by President Harding between the public group of the labor board and the Interstate Commerce Commission the impression being that the president intended to leave the matter temporarily in the hands of the two agencies created by law to supervise railroad transportation.

CALLS IT UNFEASIBLE.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 17.—The proposal of the public group of the railroad labor board to reduce freight rates to prevent a railroad strike would not prove feasible, Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Railroad Engineers, declared to-day.

"The suggestion cannot be worked out," Mr. Stone said. "By the time the reduction got to the consumer it would not amount to one-half of one per cent. The middleman would absorb all of the difference."

W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, would make no direct statement to-day on the feasibility of the plan.

"Our understanding was that the wage reduction of last July would be passed on to the public," Mr. Lee said.

BRITAIN DEPORTS CHINESE.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Fifty Chinese from different towns in the North of England have been deported at Liverpool. Many had spent considerable sums to enable their being smuggled into the United Kingdom.

ALLIANCE SUPPORTS COURT FOR JUVENILES

Ministers Will Probably Press City Council For Action In Matter.

FAVOR BY-LAW TO GIVE WESTERN "U" $25,000

Provincial Grant of $800,000 Will Come When Citizens Do Their Share.

The Ministerial Alliance to-day pledged its support to the establishment of a juvenile court in the city and to the consummation of the building program of Western University. From the addresses made on the two projects it is evident that the leverage of the pulpit will be used to have the City Council form a court for delinquents and to have the citizens vote the $250,000 debentures necessary to start work on the arts building next spring.

Dean Tucker explained that a new building for Western University was absolutely imperative and should be erected as soon as possible to care for the ever-growing body of students from Western Ontario which are coming to the city. There was no room for all of the pupils and this fact had prompted the authorities of Western University to decide a few days ago on an extensive building program, the first step in which was the building of the arts school next spring.

"The Provincial Government voted $800,000 to the building program, but to date not fulfilled their promise," said the dean. "The committee, therefore, decided that if the City of London showed their practical sympathy with the plan by subscribing the first $250,000, the provincial grant would be received in due time. What is now necessary is to educate the citizenry as to their responsibility in approving the debentures of this sum in the by-law that will be submitted to them."

SUPPORT IS NECESSARY.

A brief resume of the finances of Western University was given. The university had $300,000 at its disposal and this, together with the provincial and civic grant would assure the authorities of $1,350,000 to begin building with next spring. But the building was contingent in a great degree on whether or not the citizens rallied to the support of the premier college for Western Ontario and voted the necessary funds. He solicited the moral and personal support of every minister of the city in this educational campaign that it might be placed on a solid foundation for the future.

Canon G. B. Sage, a lecturer at the Western, stated that the average person had no conception of the conditions which prevailed at the school. Even with the augmentation of room over last year there was still far too little room for the pupils and the problem was becoming more acute every year. The university could not go on as before so that the only reasonable course open is to commence the building of the arts building at the earliest moment.

The City Council came in for some rather warm criticism for the manner in which they had shelved or pigeonholed the juvenile court proposals. Jared Vining, who outlined the need and history of juvenile courts, precipitated a discussion in which the aldermen were blamed for side-tracking a matter which was of the utmost importance and which contained the only solution for the problem of delinquency.

"I fail to understand the mysteries of the City Council or the mentality of the men that compose it when they shelve for apparently financial reasons the inception of a court in this city," said the Rev. D. C. MacGregor. "It is almost unbelievable that the men who have been elected to hold such responsible civic positions should oppose a plan which aims to accomplish such humane purposes. It is not an experiment to-day and I think if we revived the matter and pressed it further that our city fathers might possibly see some light."

FORWARD RESOLUTION.

It was decided finally to forward a resolution to the Special Service Council and to the City Council urging that the court be formed as soon as possible. It was also agreed that the ministers should exert such an influence through their congregations as to bring about the fruition of the plans.

Mr. Vining doubted if anything would come of the juvenile court unless it were pushed for. The need of a court was not debatable in his opinion, but its establishment was essential if the criminal classes be denied to recruit from the field of the delinquent children. If reformative and corrective methods were used in place of punitive methods then there would be less crime in the future and society would be protected from its greatest menace.

It was pointed out that not a small proportion of the taxes went to pay for the incarceration of the anti-social element. Nations and communities lost the assets of the people who were imprisoned so that the economic condition of the country was seriously affected by crime or delinquency.

ULSTER REALIZES NEW TERMS NEEDED

Conference Approaches Critical Stage; Craig May Visit London

LONDON, Oct. 17. — The conference between Sinn Fein leaders and representatives of the British Government to-day entered upon the critical stage, as the question of Ulster's relation to the conservations is likely to be approached before the end of the week.

The address of Sir James Craig the Ulster premier, in Belfast last Sunday was considered by both sides here to indicate that he realizes Ulster must consider new terms. It is expected that he may be summoned to London this week.

A Dublin Castle official, it was announced to-day, has gone to Cork to arrange for friendly co-operation between the Sinn Fein liaison officer and the police for stricter observance of the truce.

No Right To Surrender Money of Prisoner

Chief Burrell Explains Why He Refused To Give Lawyer Funds.

MAGISTRATE ONLY CAN DISPOSE OF PROPERTY

Twenty-Five Dollars In Dispute Has Been Turned Over To Bank.

That he had no authority to surrender the money taken from William Graham, a prisoner charged with fraud and later sentenced to five years, was the contention of Chief of Police Robert Birrell when questioned this morning regarding the action brought against him in the first division court by J. M. Donahue, a local barrister and Graham's counsel. It appears that Chief Birrell refused to turn over some $25 to Mr. Donahue on an order from Graham.

Chief Birrell stated that goods taken from prisoners brought to the jail could only be disposed of on order from the magistrate. He pointed out that in any case he did not have the goods, as they were in charge either of the detective department or of the desk sergeant, who were custodians of the articles and money found on prisoners until the cases had been disposed of. Where a prisoner was found guilty the magistrate's order was necessary to release money and other belongings.

BANK HAS MONEY.

In connection with the $25 for which Mr. Donahue had an order from Graham, Chief Birrell stated that the money had been turned over to the Molsons Bank on order of the magistrate. The bank was one of the parties against wom Graham had committed fraud.

The chief had no comment to make on Mr. Donahue's contention that there should be legislation in Canada similar to the Public Defenders' Act, under which prisoners would have the privilege of a public defender in cases where they were not in a position to provide counsel for themselves. He pointed out that the higher courts had power to appoint counsel for prisoners when they were not in a position to arrange the matter for themselves.

The chief smiled when the case against him was referred to and admitted that he "had forgotten it." The action will like be heard before Judge Judd on October 21.

SYNOD MEETS IN LONDON IN 1924

Anglicans of Dominion Pick Forest City For Gathering.

UNION MAY INTERVENE

But There Will Still Be Important Anglican Problems.

Unless organic union with other denominations is consummated in the meantime the triennial convention of the General Synod of the Anglican Church in Canada will be held in this city in 1924. This is one of the most important church courts in the Dominion and London is fortunate in being selected as the convention city for such a large and distinguished gathering of laymen and clergy as attends the triennial session.

To the enterprise of Dean Tucker, rector of St. Paul's Cathedral, is due the thanks for London being chosen in preference to many other cities which desired the synod. At Saturday's concluding meeting of the synod in Hamilton he moved and Bishop Williams of Huron seconded that the delegates convene in three years' time in the Forest City.

There is some doubt in the minds of the clergy whether the Anglican Church will be a separate denomination within three years' time, as the progress that has been made in the direction of unity has been most marked this year. However, it is believed that there will still be problems of interest to the Episcopacy of the Anglican Church that will require a separate meeting to deal with and there is every indication that the meeting in London will be most important.

WITHDRAW REQUEST FOR GRANT OF $300,000

Boards Are Giving Clear Field To Western University Fund Debentures.

HOSPITAL TRUST DEFERS BUILDING NURSES' HOME

Money For Springbank Dam Will Not Be Asked For This Year.

Western University's request for a civic grant of $250,000 will probably be the only money by-law to go before the ratepayers of London at the coming civic election, payments on which to be met out of the general tax rate. The proposed $150,000 issue for the rebuilding of the Springbank dam has been laid over by the Chamber of Commerce committee investigating the plan, and to-day Chairman James Gray, of the Hospital Trust, stated that the proposed vote of $300,000 to build a nurses' home as a section of the Victoria Hospital and medical school group of buildings will be withdrawn from the list of money by-laws requiring a vote of the electors.

"Western's grant," Mr. Gray stated, "must go through. We, the hospital trust, felt that as much as we need a new nurses' home we should not at this time endanger the securing of popular approval for the Western University vote. In fact, all other debenture issues should be laid aside at the coming election in order that citizens may consider only the one proposal, the approval of which is vital to the future of our Western Ontario university."

UTILITIES DEBENTURES.

Mr. Gray's statement means that at to-night's session of the City Council the aldermen will have to take action only upon the Western University grant and the proposed debenture issue for the electrical and water works departments of the Public Utilities Commission. The latter proposed debenture issue is not a charge against the general tax rate, as the repayment and other charges for such issues are met out of revenue. The Western University grant, so far as is known now, will be the only tax rate affecting debenture vote to go before London citizens on December 5.

The decision of the Hospital Trust and the Chamber of Commerce with regard to withdrawing debentures was warmly commended by United States Consul G. R. Taggart to-day, who asserted that it was one of the finest expressions of civic spirit that he had ever heard of.

With all sections of the community backing up the Western "U." extension plans it is certain that the debenture vote will carry by an overwhelming majority. Even had it been included in a long list of proposed debenture issues requiring a civic vote it is believed that the proposal would carry. Making it the one debenture proposal at the coming election merely gives added assurance and permits the university governors to get their building plan under way at the earliest possible moment, it is stated.

NO BETTER INVESTMENT.

Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Brown, executive secretary of the university, to-day presented the matter from a business standpoint. "Purely as an investment," he stated, "London could do no better than grant Western the $250,000 requested. For London will get in one year a million dollar plant for the money granted, the city's population will increase, property values will be augmented, and our whole city will secure additional prestige.

"That, however, is merely the business side of the question. Making London a first-class university town will bring incalculable benefits, not only to London, but to all Western Ontario."

Oh, Muvver, Why Don't They Put On the Fillum?

"Bobby" is a little kiddie who lives somewhere in the vicinity of Victoria Park. He is four years of age and is as fine a looking laddie as a person would find in a day's journey.

Yesterday Bobbie went to church for the first time and sat demurely in the family pew. First came the opening song invocation, then a prayer, an anthem by the choir, the collection, Scripture reading, another prayer, a solo and finally the preacher read his text and began to preach. Bobby's curly head began to droop and presently he fell asleep.

The preached grew eloquent and hit the desk a resounding blow. Bobby opened sleepy eyes and listened a while, and then, with a high childish treble, loud enough for the whole church to hear, he inquired: "Oh, muvver, why don't they put on the fillum?"

ASK INDORSATION OF 85-CENT GAS

Special Committee Again Wrestles With Question.

FAVOR VOTE OF PEOPLE

No Reduction In Price Offered By Companies.

As a result of the special meeting of the gas committee held to-day another effort will be made to have the City Council indorse the 85-cent rate for natural gas. Whether the Council will do this or not is not definitely known, but it is the consensus of opinion among the aldermen that the price should not be agreed to unless the electors have had a chance to express their opinion at the polls. The committee was not at all unanimous in its approval of Ald. Bridge's motion, which recommended that an agreement be entered into with the City Gas Company to supply natural gas on the 85-cent basis to continue until the expiration of the present contract, which regulates the price of artificial gas in May of next year.

Mayor Little added a clause to the resolution demanding that in the event of any reduction being made in the price of artificial gas by the Legislature next year the proper proportion of this reduction which should be applied to the cost of distribution should be accurately determined and the natural gas price should be lowered accordingly. Ald. Watt and Wenige opposed the resolution and other members of the committee were neutral, so far as the

PACIFIC FLEET IF PARLEY FAILS

Britain and Dominion Premiers Said to Have Agreed.

REVERSES FISHER POLICY

All British Ships Would No Longer Be In Home Waters.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Daily Express understands that the British and Dominion Governments agreed during the imperial conference of premiers that if the Washington conference on disarmament fails to result in an understanding regarding the Pacific it may be necessary to establish a new and powerful Far Eastern fleet composed of battle cruisers, destroyers and submarines, whose strategic headquarters would be at Singapore.

The Daily Express adds that if this fleet comes into existence it will be the joint concern of the dominions and the mother country and constitute a reversal of Lord Fisher's policy of concentrating all British ships in home waters.

WILL RECIPROCATE.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The British Government to-day decided to award the Victoria Cross, the highest British award, to the United States "unknown warrior."

CRERAR ARGUES TARIFF IS THE ISSUE

Removal of All Protection the Ultimate Aim of His Party, He Stated.

MUST DO IT GRADUALLY, HE SAYS IN MANIFESTO

Leader of Progressives Issues Statement On the Issues of the Election.

TORONTO, Oct. 17. (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Hon. T. Crerar, leader of the Nation Progressive Party, to-day issued an address "To the People of Canada," dealing with the issues of the present general election campaign.

"The tariff is an issue, a very important issue," says Mr. Crerar "But the supreme issue to-day is whether our Government is to be free or fettered, and whether legislation in the future shall be for the few or the many."

The policy of the Progressives, it is stated, is frankly based on the principle of first developing the natural wealth of the country, and if the industries based on agriculture, mines and forests were thriving and prosperous, it is held that the manufacturing industries would share in the expansion.

FREE TRADE THE GOAL

"Our goal," states Mr. Crerar, "is the ultimate elimination of the principle of protection in our fiscal policy. But we recognize that changes must be brought about in a manner that will give a fair opportunity to Canadian industries now enjoying protection to adjust themselves to them." The Progressives would remove the duty on agricultural implements, mining and sawmill machinery and essential foods, and "a substantial reduction in the general tariff should be made. For revenue the Progressives would rely mainly on direct taxation, levied on the basis of ability to pay.

The address discusses the general question of good government, the significance of the Progressive movement, the financing of elections, the railway problem, immigration and colonization and other issues of the contest. Mr. Crerar's manifesto in full follows:

"To the People of Canada:

"We who live in Canada are fortunate in that we live under a form of government by which the people say who shall make their laws and administer their affairs. In a few weeks you will be called upon to discharge this duty. You will consider the state of our national affairs and will decide the course they shall take. At no time in the 54 years that Canada has been a Confederation have our national problems been so momentous or difficult as to-day. The temper in which we approach them, the singleness of mind with which we attack them, the honesty with which we judge them, mean much for the future of our country.

INTEREST THE PEOPLE

"It is therefore a matter of supreme importance that the people take an interest in government. Not a fleeting academic interest, but an active, intelligent continuing interest, an interest based on the consideration of the national good and of the national good alone. To an alarming degree the belief has grown and prevails that the agent of government has been used for the furthering of personal, or section, or class interests, and that special interests have been able to influence legislation to their own gain, at the expense of the public weal.

"In this election a new party makes its appeal to the Canadian people. It began in a humble way among the agricultural portion of our people. Every aspiration for purer government, every protest against public wrong in high places, has its origin in small beginnings. If there is good in it, if its spirit is right and true it will grow and the proof of its justice lies in the strength it attracts to itself. No one who has studied closely the Farmers' movement, so-called, in Canada but will admit it has imperfections. But no one who studies it and is honest will deny that it embodies an inspiration for purity in government, for higher standards of public morality and for the sweeping away of special privileges in all its forms. From a small beginning it has spread over almost the entire country, attracting to itself support from all classes and sections of our people. The tendency of political parties is towards

MEDAL OF HONOR, VOTED BY U.S. CONGRESS, LAID ON TOMB OF BRITAIN'S UNKNOWN WARRIOR

George Harvey Makes Official Presentation, Gen. Pershing Bestows Medal — Retaliation With V. C. Mooted.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Upon the simply inscribed slab in Westminster Abbey which marks the tomb of Great Britain's "unknown warrior" was laid to-day the highest decoration within the gift of the people of the United States. It was the medal of honor, voted by the United States Congress in reaffirmation of the comradeship which united the United States and Great Britain in the war.

The official presentation was made by George Harvey, United states ambassador to the Court of St. James, who delivered a brief address as the representative of the United States Government and of President Harding. The act of bestowing the medal was performed by General John J. Pershing, commander of the United States armies in France during the great struggle.

Simplicity marked the presentation and bestowal of the medal, there being only a brief choral service preceding these ceremonies, which were witnessed by a distinguished assembly. Included in the group in the nave of the historic abbey were the Duke of Connaught, representing King George, members of the British Cabinet, heads of Government departments and attaches of the United States embassy, whose presence testified to the significance of the event. The transepts and the choir of the ancient edifice were filled, there being 1,200 visitors admitted to witness the scene.

Seated in the nave of the abbey during the ceremony were Field Marshals Haig, French, Allenby, Robertson and Wilson, Cavan and many other British chieftains.

London newspapers this morning printed editorials which were warmly appreciative of the United States tribute to Great Britain's victims of war.

"Whatever were the blunders of officialdom regarding the arrangements for receiving the American gift," declared The Daily News, "there must be no sequel to them. England must honor in the same signal fashion the American dead with the greatest honor within our power to give. Any other decoration than the Victoria Cross would be painfully out of place. Although it may be a breach of precedent to bestow the cross upon a foreigner, we broke many precedents during the war in the prosecution of our hates. May we not break one in the ratification of friendship and good will?"

Organized Veterans In Canada Step Closer To Unification; Leaders Adopt Plan Of Action

Port Arthur Session Decides That Governing Bodies Should Reconsider Amalgamation and Report At New Parley.

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—After an almost continuous session lasting from 1.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon until 2.15 a. m. today a conference of representatives of ex-service men's organizations in Canada unanimously adopted measures which have as a basis the unification of all organized veterans in Canada.

It was resolved that the governing bodies of the five organizations report be requested to render the earliest possible decision as to whether the unity desired should be attempted by: (a) amalgamation and affiliations; (b) federation as may be mutually agreed upon with a view to amalgamation and affiliation.

It was also resolved that all organizations be requested to appoint two representatives empowered to participate at a conference immediately following the decisions requested from the organizations with the object of finally inaugurating whatever plan of unification may then be found feasible and that permission be obtained to perpetuate the conference as at present constituted in order to provide a medium for amicable negotiations.

In the event of these two clauses failing of adoption by the organizations concerned they will, as an alternative, propose some scheme which may result in federation. Those present at the unification conference were: Great War Veterans' Association, President R. B. Maxwell and C. G. MacNeil, Do-

BUILDING RECORD FOR YEAR NOW STANDS AT MORE THAN 2 MILLION

Passes Total For Last Year and Within $309,000 of Record For 1919.

London's 1921 building record forged ahead of the grand total for 1920 on Saturday. There are two and a half months yet left in which the present year may eclipse the building total of 1919 and thus establish a new high record of construction in London. The year's total stands to-day at $2,146,340, as compared with the 1920 total of $2,146,305. There remains only $309,000 to be written before 1921 will have taken the first place amongsct London's big building years.

Inspector Piper also commented on the fact that London entered the class of cities spending two millions a year for new buildings in 1919 and despite post-war business depression that record has been consistently maintained.

Larger permits issued on Saturday include one to the London Pure Milk Company for the erection of a two-story brick and concrete addition on Dundas street to cost $12,000. Watt & Blackwell are the architects and the construction will be carried out by John Putherbough.

Special interest attaches to a permit issued M. Doyle, who is changing a brick stable on Maitland street into a one and half story brick-veneer residence. The cost of this work is stated at $1,000.

Thomas Parker is building a one-story stucco cottage on Beaconsfield avenue to cost $4,200. W. M. Westcott is the contractor.

MAKE CHURCHES MORE ATTRACTIVE

Special Committee Reports On Religious Education.

SECURING MORE DATA

Provision Must Be Made For Boys and Girls.

In the report of a special committee of the Askin Street Methodist Brotherhood yesterday morning on the subject of religious education, a development in the field of making district churches of the widest possible influence in the training and recreational interests of Christian youth was initiated. The committee will meet again on Thursday night to make final recommendation to the quarterly board of the Askin Street Church.

In the meantime the fullest data will be secured with regard to the number of children in the Askin Street Sunday School and how the nights of each week might be allotted for recreation, gymnastic practice, group suppers and devotional exercises.

MORE BUILDINGS NEEDED

This statistical summary will show clearly just what the church needs in the way of additional Sunday school building, it is understood. A gymnasium will be built, additional class and recreations rooms are also included, and provision may be made for either immediate or future construction of a swimming pool.

Under the plan now outlined, each week day night will be seen groups of Askin Street boys and girls engaged in some form of recreation activity which will link them closer to their Sunday school and church. The program outlined, it is stated, takes equal note of the group needs of both boys and girls. Neither of the sexes will be given superior opportunities for church directed recreation, but both will stand on an equal footing.

minion secretary; Grand Army of United Veterans, G. R. McNichol, Dominion president, and J. S. Marsh, Dominion secretary; proposed Canadian League, J. H. Craig and A. M. Hunter; Army and Navy Veterans, Major F. G. Taylor and A. H. A. Jones; Imperial Veterans, W. A. Vaughan and J. Berg.

The clauses which are the foundation of probable unification were framed, according to an official statement, after it was found impossible to reach an immediate and authoritative decision as to the procedure by which unity would be accomplished without reference to the governing bodies of the organizations participating. It was believed possible to achieve immediate and effective co-operation in the interests of ex-service men and women pending the adjustment of business details, but there appeared to be some uncertainty as to whether complete amalgamation would be impracticable or whether a federation of the various organizations should first be established.

MAJOR TAYLOR CHAIRMAN.

Major F. G. Taylor, D. S. O., Portage La Prairie, of the A. & N. V., was unanimously chosen as chairman. Briefly analyzed the A. & N. V. representatives stated that their association had already passed resolutions in favor of co-ordination of veteran organizations, but there remained a section of opinion which was not favorable to sinking their identity.

The G. A. U. V. officials stated that their dominion convention had passed a resolution strongly indorsing amalgamation.

It was definitely laid down that the G. A. U. V. was nonpartisan and nonsectarian. The representatives of the G. W. V. A. emphasized that the organization had always sought some form of unity and had made advances on several occasions. There was a distinct division of opinion among the membership on the subject of the best course to pursue and the decision would necessarily have to come from the dominion convention, which opens here to-day. The G. W. V. A. officers expressed the opinion that amalgamation was not possible until the unanimous opinion of the great majority of ex-service men had been secured.

The representatives of the Canadian Legion stated that their organization had been brought into being in an endeavor to point a way to the solving of difficulties which were preventing the fusion of existing organizations. The opportune moment for action was here.

McGILL CENTENNIAL ENDS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—McGill centennial celebrations came to a close yesterday with religious service at St. James' Methodist Church, Rev. George C. Pidgeon, of Toronto, being the preacher. He pointed out in connection with the university's attitude to religion that the director of the Student Christian Association reported much progress made by that body within the past two years.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 16 (Lord's Day.)—Rose after dreaming that an Indian is about to about me and to thank heaven that this Indian is no more than a dream. It being the strangest thing possible how the quietest tempered men in the world do lead double lives when they are asleep. Shooting at and being shot in the highest manner, yet in daytime they are like to be vegetarians or else belong to some club for individual and world pacifism. Which reminds of a man I know that belongs to an anti-vice organization, yet his dreams at night would put one of Master M. Sennet's moveable pictures to shame such is the procession of beauty that passes on the screen of sleeping fancy.

Out to the shows last night, reserving seats beforehand by the phone instrument. But in so doing get pretty hott at the man that answers. He not answering the phone instrument until our operator near rings her head off and then doing it the most bored in the world. Not answering the name of the theater when he answers finally, thus making me inquire after him whether I have the right number or no. And so bored is he about my requests that I near hang up on him and his seats. Which shows how prosperity do ever go to the heads of zaneys!

Nephew out to the shows by himself last night and at his theater they distribute money during the play and the rogue gets eight shilling ($2) back, which makes him near frantic with joy. And when I point out to him that 'twas my money that bought him his seat and the eight shillings should come to me, he smiles mighty sarcastic, observing that my point is ill taken. "It was my superior good fortune," he says, "and the money belongs to me by all laws. Yet if you would rob a little child of his winnings?" So I leave in disgust.

And speaking of plays and theaters, the best news is how Master Hampden is to come to us soon and present plays from one W. Shakespeare, giving "Hamlet" and the "Taming of the Shrew." Which latter mean to take my wife to, but St. George knows Shakespeare himself would not have tamed her. Also "The Merchant of Venice," which we that have seen it before would like to see turned into "Macbeth," which grandfather remarks, looking over my shoulder as I write, is an impossible thing. "Macbeth being a Scotchman, you know," he observes. And finally the supreme love story of the world, the Capulet and the Montague. And why in memory of St. George we have no more school Shakespearean plays is beyond me. Our children should be as familiar with Shakespeare by the time they graduate as they are with their multiplication tables, probably more so. If we cannot teach both Bible and Shakespeare in the schools, let us have Shakespeare.

Aunt Mary somewhat ailing lately and so argue with her to go see our family chirurgeon, which she is mighty reluctant about. "I dislike running to chirurgeons," she says, "above all things else. Being fearful that they will make out my case worse than it is!" "Which is pure superstition," I tell her, "you should trust the chirurgeons, most of them being our best friends. They bring us into the world—" "And they hurry us out," she replies sharply, "they hurry us out!" Which is ridiculous.

The news from Washington in the Union States is that they unveil a bronze monument to the 400,000 horses and mules that served in their part of the late warr. Of which number over 70,000 gave their lives, I suppose, to make the world safe for anti-vivisection. A fine sentiment fittingly expressed which do appeal to my cavalry-trained soul. Knowing personally that our horses were heroes and heroines beyond expression, patient in all conditions, brave in danger, dying nobly. Those that would picture a heaven without horses and dogs have little appreciation of the goodness of God and the final results may show more horses and dogs in the happy country than men.

At the same time we cannot fail of remarking that the world hopes that this bronze tablet does not refer in any way to the plain asses that served in the war. Mostly in departmental offices!

Most grievously troubled lately by a lameness to my left knee and know not whether it be a rheumatism or a slipped bone from striving to teach my Couzen Juliana to skate last winter. Which if it grow on me can vision myself going about with a crutch pretty noble and pitiful. Which reminds me of one of my boyhood dreams which comes to all boys at some time. A dream of suffering and martyrdom. My particular fancy being at the time that I would get a severe injury at playing basket ball and forthwith go about forever after on ebony crutches with silver mountings. The meanwhile forging ahead in the highest way in a business sense and finally president of a steam coach road, with my crutch more powerful than a king's scepter. But abandon this ideal for a great dive into student socialism with a yearning for the uplift of the proleteriat. This proleteriat to be uniformly grateful, bathing itself at least once a day, and raising universally beautiful families.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO THEFT OF AUTO

George Grant Appears Before Judge Talbot Macbeth—Asks Trial By Jury.

George Grant, who is charged with stealing an automobile belonging to Charles Bond from Springbank Park on June 16 last, pleaded not guilty when he appeared before Judge Talbot Macbeth this morning. He elected trial by jury and the evidence will be taken on Monday morning next.

Grant appeared before Magistrate Bartlett on October 14, for preliminary hearing, and was sent for trial. The young man, who is 19 years of age, was acquitted on the charge of stealing an automobile several months ago. One of the men was sentenced for the theft of a car from Springbank, but Grant and others who were charged were acquitted.

NEW FINANCE PLAN SUGGESTED

Dollar a Home For Children's Aid Society.

VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS

Matter Up At Next Meeting of Society.

Financing of the Children's Aid Society will probably be put on a new basis at the next meeting of that organization as regards the Wharncliffe Shelter, where some 40 children are being constantly cared for pending their being placed in foster homes. The treasurer of the society stated to-day that he would present a scheme for financing the shelter, which, it is believed, will make it independent of the annual united welfare campaign.

This plan, as outlined by the treasurer, is to ask citizens to levy a voluntary orphan support tax of $1 for each household a year. Of course, many would pay more than $1 a year, the treasurer believes, but the plan advanced is to have at least $1 for the support of the unfortunate children at the Wharncliffe road shelter paid from every home in the city each year.

PERMANENT ENDOWMENT.

The plan, if approved by the Children's Aid Society, will probably be turned over permanently to the Commercial Travelers' Association, who, as a body, may act as voluntary tax collectors. Each member taking part in the plan would be assigned a section of the city, for which he would be responsible. They would interview their "constituents," enter pledges in the society's books and see to periodical collections. Incidentally, it is proposed, the membership of the society would be increased by several thousands, as a dollar a year is the present membership fee.

D. H. McDermid, president of the society, is also backing a plan for establishing a permanent endowment for the home. He is asking that citizens generally remember the shelter children in their wills. A small percentage of estates left by Londoners would in a few years put the society's work on a firm footing, it is believed.

The voluntary contribution plan would also aid Mr. McDermid's scheme, the treasurer stated, in that citizens would be brought into closer touch with the society's needs.

LIFE BEYOND GRAVE FOR THOSE WHO OBEY LAW

Elder George Harrington, Former Londoner, Preaches on Mission of Jesus Christ.

Elder George Harrington, a former Londoner, occupied the pulpit of the Latter Day Saints' Church last evening.

Speaking on the mission of Jesus Christ, he said that to be a citizen in the Kingdom of God was the greatest thing in a man's life and at this age, with uncertainties of life and the spiritual maze that exists in the world, it is very hard for an individual to extradite himself, and with an explicate faith, trust in the promises of God. But Jesus came with a message and in that message came the assurance that there really exists a life hereafter. We must believe in the Bible and be prepared to accept the testimony of the witnesses in that book that God really exists. We can know for ourselves that there is a life beyond the grave, but the knowledge can only come to those who are willing to be obedient to the law that entitles them to that information, which is the Gospel of Jesus Christ. You may believe in the life herafter, but do you know Christ's promise to the human family is: "He that doeth the Will of the Father shall know of the distrine." Do you want to know? Then obey and keep the commandments, work out your salvation with fear and trembling; search the Scripture. Apostle James tells us if any man lack wisdom let him ask of God, who giveth to all men liberally. Let us be obedient to the Commandments and then Jesus will verify His promises to us, and we will have the full assurance that God really exists and Jesus Christ is Saviour of the World.

INDORSE COLLECTIVE BUYING AND MARKETING

Co-operative Organizations and Farmers' Clubs of Middlesex Meet Here.

A meeting of representatives of 12 co-operative organizations and farmers' clubs in Middlesex engaged in co-operative dealing was held in the county building, London, on Saturday afternoon last to consider the possibility of devising means of collectively operating their purchasing and marketing power. George Bogue, U. F. O. director for East Middlesex, occupied the chair, Frank Adams acting as secretary.

W. C. Good, B. A., Paris, and George Keen, Brantford, president and general secretary respectively of the Co-operative Union of Canada, were in attendance on invitation and addressed the meeting. Mr. Good dealt at length with the different types of co-operative distributive and marketing organizations and reviewed the success which had been achieved and the difficulties which had to be surmounted. Mr. Keen urged that associated action in buying and selling should make it easier to meet local competition and effect economies in price for the members. The advantages gained by each unit through collective action would in their turn foster patronage and increase trade volume which would further increase the benefits accruing to the individual members. He outlined the scheme whereby collective activities on behalf of independent units could be democratically organized, controlled and directed and efficiently conducted at little additional expense. Considerable discussion ensued and eventually it was unanimously resolved that the meeting endorsed the principle of collective buying and marketing and that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter further and report upon a scheme for applying the same.

THEOSOPHICAL SOCIETY.

Mystical Writings of Fiona McLeod Subject of Address by Miss Topley Thomas.

The mystical writings of Fiona McLeod were the subject of a most interesting address by Miss Topley Thomas at the meeting of the Theosophical Society on Sunday night. Fiona McLeod was a pseudonym of William Sharp, who belonged to the group of poets headed by W. B. Yeats and later Whitman. He was a writer and biographer of no mean standing and was thoroughly conversant with the folk-lore of the Highland and in extensive travels absorbed the emotional life of the people with whom he came in contact. The Fiona McLeod stories, stamped with a new strange personality, began to appear about 1890 and the author remained unknown until the death of William Sharp in 1905. The speaker gave the opinion that the radical change in the writings of William Sharp, under the pen name of Fiona McLeod, were attributable to a distinct mental experience on the part of the writer. Miss Thomas gave extracts from the writings of Fiona McLeod, concluding with "The Last Supper," a legendary morality.

CONVENTIONS TO DEAL WITH UNION

Amalgamation Possibilities Known In Two Weeks.

LONDON IS INTERESTED

Plan For Canteen Funds Disposition Is Announced.

By the end of next week it will be known how near the veteran organizations of Canada are to complete unity. Local officials predict that the G. W. V. A., in annual Dominion convention at Port Arthur this week, will formulate a basis for amalgamation that will be considered, and possibly approved, by the Army and Navy Veterans, who open their annual gathering in Toronto next Monday. These are conceded to be the two largest soldier bodies in the country and their acceptance or rejection of union proposals mean much to the future of organized veterans.

That London is vitally interested in the matter is evidenced by the fact that the G. W. V. A. has sent two delegates, F. Ireland and Secretary H. Paulger, to the Port Arthur convention and the intimation that the London Army and Navy Veterans at their regular meeting on Tuesday will select two of their number to represent the local command at the big meeting of the association in Toronto. Comrade H. A. A. Jones, of Winnipeg, is representing the A. and N. V. at the G. W. V. A. convention and will be in a position to outline to his comrades what concessions the G. W. V. A. will make to bring about unity.

CANTEEN FUNDS.

One of the most pleasing announcements that has been made to the soldier organizations is the plan for the disposition of the canteen funds of the Dominion, which approximate $2,000,000. The local commands have received notification that a certain percentage of this large sum will be allotted the headquarters of the different soldier bodies, according to their enrollment. The money will not be available to the different branches, but must be extended to individual ex-service men for relief purposes.

For some time the canteen money has been a fruitful subject of discussion among returned soldiers, who claimed that it was due them. The Government admitted this fact, but has been unable up to now to devise any reasonable way of allotting the money until this fall, when the need of it for relief work among the veterans was very great. A committee, composed of all benefiting organizations, will be responsible for the expenditure from the fund.

DEATH BY HANGING FOR CHINAMAN WHO KILLED FIVE OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

QUEBEC, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Chow Tong will be hanged at 7 o'clock on the morning of December 16 for the murder of five of his countrymen on board the coal vessel, Maskinonge, on the morning of August 27 last. The Chinaman's trial came to an end when the jury returned a verdict of "guilty" on Saturday night after a session that had lasted from all afternoon. The jury coupled with their verdict a recommendation for mercy. Chow Tong heard the verdict, which was translated into his own language by the interpreter, with tears streaming from his eyes.

WINDSOR, Oct. 17.—Stabbed twice in the breast by three hold-up men, Felix Desjarlais, an employee of the Ford Motor Company, staved them off, empty-handed, at the rear of his home late on Saturday night. Desjarlais ran all the way to police headquarters to report the occurrence. His wounds were bleeding badly.

VANISHING BOOZE WAS GIVEN AWAY

Crown Fails In Action Against Isaac Matthews.

FINED $500 IN AUGUST

Told Friends To Help Themselves To 25 Cases.

The crown this morning failed to make out a case against Isaac Matthews, who was brought to court to show what disposition he had made of 20 cases of liquor which he swore he had in his house on August, when he was fined $500 for selling liquor contrary to the Ontario Temperance Act.

On August 16 Mr. Matthews was found guilty of selling a bottle of whisky and was fined $500 and costs. During his testimony he told the court that he had 20 cases of liquor at his house, 261 Clarence street. Three days later License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside, in company with Inspector Lucas, visited Mr. Matthews' house, but found that the 25 cases of liquor had vanished, although they found some 28 empty liquor cases.

There was a battle royal between opposing counsel at the hearing this morning. The crown contended that because the liquor had not been found at the house that it had either been sold or had been removed to a place other than the accused's private dwelling. This was opposed by W. R. Meredith, acting for Matthews, who contended that there were plenty of ways in which the liquor might have been removed without violation of the act. It was pointed out also that after August 16 the accused had no right to have liquor in the house.

GAVE IT AWAY.

When the defense announced that they would put in no evidence, the crown called the defendant. Mr. Matthews swore than he had given the liquor away and that it had been removed by friends while his case was in progress on August 16. He gave the court the names of Solovinski and Goldstein as two of his friends who had taken some of the liquor. He had told a number of his friends to help themselves to the whisky. He was not sure just who had obtained the liquor or how much each of them had obtained. He thought Solovinski and Goldstein had each taken about five cases. He denied that the money for paying his fine in August had come from the sale of the 25 cases of whisky.

CLUB BAG PRESENTED TO REV. GEO. PUGSLEY

Military Patients at Byron Sanatorium Pay Tribute to Popular Chaplain.

A large number of the military patients at Byron Sanatorium gathered in the hall of the institution yesterday morning and at the conclusion of divine service presented to their chaplain, Rev. George Pugsley, a splendid leather club bag.

Mr. Thompson, in making the presentation, said that they could not let Mr. Pugsley go without letting him know how deeply he had been appreciated. His work had been directed by the true spirit of love and he had not only gained the respect, but the affection of every patient. His untiring efforts had been directed for the welfare of the boys and he would be greatly missed. In the name of all he wished the chaplain the greatest success in his new sphere of work.

Rev. Mr. Pugsley, in returning thanks, spoke of his work and the many fine fellows he had been brought in contact with. The experience would never be effaced and although the official connection be severed he would be amongst them occasionally. He deeply appreciated their kind tribute, which would remind him of many happy associations.

MR. DONAHUE EXPLAINS.

Editor Free Press: In a conversation with your reporter, published in Friday's issue, my impression was stated to have been that crown attorneys had a special pecuniary interest in securing conviction. This is not the case. The crown attorney's fee is the same whether upon conviction or acquittal. In theory the crown attorney is expected to look after the interest of the accused as well as the case for the crown. I have always maintained that in practice this system does not adequately protect the interest of persons accused of serious offenses. In such cases provision should be made for the payment of special counsel to look after the interest of the accused. Please correct my previous statement, which was given in the best of good faith. Yours truly.

J. W. DONAHUE.

Why Stay Fat? You Can Reduce

Te answer of most fat people is that it is too hard, too troublesome and too dangerous to force the weight down. Marmola Prescription Tablets overcome all these difficulties. They are absolutely harmless, entail no dieting or exercise, and have the added advantage of cheapness. A case is sold at one dollar by all druggists the world over, or send the price direct to the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich. Now that you know this, you have no excuse for being fat, but can reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet or fear of bad effects.—Advt.

WARSAW, Oct. 17.—M. Tronkiewitz, secretary of the Polish repatriation commission now in Moscow, has been murdered in that city, it is announced in dispatches received here.

Making History.

INFANT MORTALITY in past ages has been something frightful, something almost beyond belief, and even today it occupies the time and the mind of leading physicians in all countries. The death rate among infants is being gradually reduced through new methods of hygiene, new preventatives and new remedies for infants. This reduction in the death rate has NOT been accomplished by adapting the precautions taken and remedies used by adults. Rather has it been to keep clear of the old methods, and choose after long research the precautions and remedies specifically applicable to infants.

This being so, is it necessary for us to caution mothers against trying to give her baby relief with a remedy that she would use for herself? Will she remember that Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for infants and children?

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Of Course You Love Your Baby.

You love it because of its very helplessness, because it can't tell you what is the matter when it feels bad. It can only cry and look to you for help. But the more you love baby, the more you want to help baby, the more you ought to realize what a wonderful remedy Fletcher's Castoria is. It has been used for babies' ailments for over thirty years.

An experienced doctor discovered Fletcher's Castoria especially for babies' use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Doctors who know what is safe and best for babies have only good to say of it.

Don't neglect your baby. Get a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria and give baby a few doses of it. See how the little one smiles at you as if trying to thank you for helping it. Soon you will learn to depend on Fletcher's Castoria, made just for Infants and Children, and of course you would not think of using anything for them that was not prepared especially for Infants and Children. So keep it in the house.

10 Years' Sufferer from Ulcerated Legs.

Our portrait is of Mr. O. E. KNIGHT, of 56, Allcroft Road, Kentish Town, London, N.W.5, England, who writes:—

"I have pleasure in writing to let you know how I came to be rid of very bad Ulcerated Legs from which I suffered for 10 years, getting no rest at nights with the pain. Four years ago I was sent to an infirmary, but was discharged. Lately I was recommended to try your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and after 5 weeks' treatment it has healed my legs wonderfully, especially considering the long time I have to be standing. For any case like mine I shall always be pleased to recommend Clarke's Blood Mixture, as I know what pain a bad leg gives—you may use this testimonial to your best advantage."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions, ointments, &c., can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, the true cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities. That is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take and free from injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores. Ask for and see that you get

THIEVES ENTER GARAGE

Automobile Stolen on Saturday Night Recovered in London Township.

Thieves on Saturday night, between 10 and 11 o'clock, entered the garage of Mr. Struthers, Wellington street, and took his touring car. The garage was locked at the time and the culprits had little difficulty in securing the automobile.

The police were notified, and after a thorough search discovered the car on the 5th concession of London Township, near Adelaide street. The machine was in perfect condition, the tires apparently having just taken "joy ride" and abandoned it.

BRITISH WOMAN AGENT KILLED AT EDMONTON

EDMONTON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Miss Ida McGill, sent to Canada by the British Government to investigate and report on the conditions under which British settlers are living on homesteads in the west, was knocked down and run over by an automobile at 7 o'clock on Friday evening. She died at 11.30 o'clock in the General Hospital. Bert Warner, owner and driver of the car, is held, pending an investigation.

SUING FOR $1,058.32.—M. P. McCaugh, acting for Elizabeth V. Abell, has issued a writ in the supreme court against Edward Dent and Frederick W. Raymond for $1,058.32, which the plaintiff claims is due her upon the purchase money of certain lands on Craig street. The plaintiff claims a lien upon the lands and the right to enforce the lien by sale of the lands.

FATALLY BURNED BY ACID.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—William Pierce, while working at the plant of the Pedlar People here yesterday, missed his footing on a scaffold and fell into a tank of acid and was so badly burned that he died a few hours later. He was 63 years of age.

HISTORICAL TREND TRACED IN NOVEL

Evolution of Women From Age of Chivalry Portrayed in Fiction

A MAN'S HEROINE

Miss Sime, English Authoress, Speaks to Women's Canadian Club

That the novel plays an important part in the world's literature in throwing a singularly clear light on the historical conditions of its period, is the opinion of Miss J. G. Sime, of Montreal, who on Saturday afternoon addressed the Women's Canadian Club on "Women in Men's Fiction."

Miss Sime, who proved to be a very charming and colorful speaker, is herself an authoress of considerable note, both in England and Canada, and her clever sketches of the heroines of literature delighted a record audience of club members.

"We love the women in literature, because we see ourselves over and over again portrayed," Miss Sime said, "and though we are divided between amazement at the penetration of the masculine mind in so aptly picturing feminine characters, and indignation at his stupidity in some of his portrayals, the novel plays to our imagination the same part that a healthy meal plays to our bodies."

No man, in Miss Sime's opinion, could ever know woman through and through, nor could a woman ever reach a full knowledge of masculine character. "If this were possible, it would raise the veil that has for all time hung between the sexes and that would be indeed a pity," she said.

THE PEDESTAL WOMAN.

The speaker traced in a fascinating manner the evolution of the feminine character from that long-ago period, somewhere near the end of the 11th century, when womanhood suddenly dawned upon man from a different viewpoint; where formerly he had seen her physically, he now saw her as a separate entity, weaker than himself, and, as such, deserving of all tenderness and consideration. So evolved the age of chivalry, which in life and in literature flourished strongly for nearly 700 years. Women were placed upon a pedestal, enshrined as of a superior spiritual quality, and from the ideals of that period have sprung the little conventions of to-day by which certain courtesies are still extended to women.

Miss Sime gave a very lucid and picturesque account of the development of the feminine character in fiction, the wives and the mothers and the Helens of literature, who first came into being in the novels of Fielding and Richardson towards the close of the 18th century.

RICHARDSON'S HEROINES.

"Those were the days of heroines who turned pale and fainted and burst into tears," Miss Sime said. "We follow the unvarying virtue of Richardson's Pamela through an immense volume of writing till we reach the reward of that virtue, an offer of marriage from a man whom no real woman of to-day would so much as look at. And yet here is a virtuous heroine, accepting him and his acres and acres of wild oats, with a meek 'Indeed, Mr. Jones, it rests with you to name the day.' It is a far cry from Pamela to the widow of Sir Isaac Harman in one the Wells novels, who receives an offer of marriage with the words, 'Marry, why, I am just free.'"

Vividly the speaker touched on the writings of Dickens and Thackeray and Goldsmith, with their immortal women, declaring Thackeray to have reached more nearly the heart of womankind in his works than any other man. "He never made a mistake about a woman's heart, and he never bothered about her head," she explained.

The evolution of womanhood, Miss Sime believed, began in that latter part of the 18th century, and she referred particularly to the writings of Mary Wollstonecraft, who ventured in her books to demand for women equal educational rights with men. "She did not get it, and she was ostracized for the attempt," Miss Sime said.

MODERN WRITERS.

Through the works of Charles Reid, George Meredith, Thomas Hardy ("the greatest friend of women in the literary world") and Henry James, down to a still more recent period, with Kipling and Bennett and Wells, Miss Sime traced very clearly the trend of the times, shown in the increasing independence of the heroines, and, she admitted, their somewhat less appealing characteristics. "I find the women of to-day, the women of Walpole and Swinnerton and Sinclair Lewis, stand for a theory which is more clearly remembered than the woman herself when the book is done," the speaker said, but this phase, too, will pass. We have had the purely romantic figure of womanhood, the symbol of the home, the lady of the chimney corner, but her exquisiteness has grown a little narrow, the home has grown a bit stuffy, and not until it is built anew, high and airy, and full of fine ideals, will men and women be content to enter it together again. Perhaps by that time people will be so occupied with living that they will not have time for either the writing of books or the reading of them."

Miss Sime was introduced to the club by the president, Mrs. F. E. Leonard.

OBLIGATIONS TO GOD HAVE NEVER CHANGED

Rev. Father Brady, at St. Marys Church, Points Out the Duty to Worship

"Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that are God's," was the inspiring sermon delivered by Rev. Father Brady at St. Mary's Church yesterday morning.

He stated that God took this momentous occasion when He said these words to the Jews to instill in their minds the great obligation that was theirs in their heavenly and earthly duties and that the duties of the Jews were much the same as the citizens of this country to-day.

He asserted that times in this regard had not changed a particular, and that the duties of the citizens remained the same. To render their foremost help and assistance in government matters, municipal affairs, taxes and other things, but not to forget that there was still a God as there was in the olden days and certain things were still to be rendered to Him.

Commencing this week in St. Mary's auditorium, a social evening will be held every Tuesday night and the young people of the parish were asked to set this night aside as a get-together night.

Father Brady thanked the congregation for turning out in such large numbers to honor Father Dignan on the occasion of the farewell social tendered him last Friday night in St. Mary's auditorium.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON UNUSALLY ATTRACTIVE

Satellite Almost Totally Eclipsed Last Night; Was at Its Height at 6 o'Clock.

An eclipse of the moon, visible throughout Canada, occurred last night and was unusually attractive. At 6 o'clock the eclipse was at its height, when the shadow covered almost nine-tenths of the satellite, and by 7.45 the shadow had completely moved off. This is the second eclipse of the moon this year, the other having occurred on April 21 and was a total eclipse.

Few may have seen the eclipse, it being so early in the evening, but weather conditions made it an attractive object. The moon arose under eclipse, visible to the naked eye, at 5.30. In view of the fact that it was early in the evening and the moon was low in the sky and with such a clear sky made it an unusual opportunity to witness the phenomena.

EAST MIDDLESEX CONVENTION 29TH

Liberal-Conservatives to Bring Out Candidate

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

James L. Robson Heads New Executive Committee

A nominating convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party in East Middlesex will be held at the Masonic Temple here on Saturday afternoon, October 29, at 1.30 o'clock. The date was set by the new executive at a meeting held on Saturday afternoon. Four delegates from each subdivision will be allowed. Subdivisions where there is a double poll will be entitled to double representation. It is the desire of the executive that a proportion of ladies be named as delegates by the subdivision meetings.

A. K. Hodgins, of Lucan, presided at the meeting, and election of officers resulted as follows: President, James L. Robson, London Township; first vice-president, William Boler, Byron; second vice-president, John L. White, London Junction; secretary, W. C. Fitzgerald, London; treasurer, Frank O'Neil, Dorchester; auditors, T. W. Needham, Bryanston, and R. G. Rose, Glanworth.

TO DRAFT CONSTITUTION.

A special committee, consisting of the president, vice-presidents and secretary, was appointed to draft a new constitution, which will be submitted to the annual meeting, to be held at a date to be fixed by the same committee.

The secretary will mail to-day notices for the calling of meetings in the different subdivisions, and it is hoped that the delegates selected may be reported by the end of the week.

Much enthusiasm was shown at the meeting, and there was a feeling of confidence that, with a good organization in hand, the campaign is well under way to a successful result.

RENT GARFIELD AVENUE HOUSES FOR $42.50

The London Housing Commission at a special meeting on Saturday night decided to rent houses on Garfield avenue for $42.50 the month. This reduction is expected to have the dwellings there owned by the city occupied within a fortnight. Similar houses in the city are being rented for $50 to $60 the month. Under the rental system the tenant may also take steps towards purchasing the properties.

THIEVES TAKE CAR.—An automobile owned by George Wright, 520 Dundas street, was stolen from his back yard about 11 o'clock last night and up to an early hour this morning was still missing. The machine bore license No. 62-872.

TWO ROOF FIRES.—Roof fires were in vogue yesterday afternoon, the department making two runs between 2 and 3 o'clock. The first was made to the home of M. McLeod, 606 Central avenue, and the second to the home of P. Shaw, 774 Hellmuth avenue. Both fires originated from a spark from a chimney. About $10 damage was done in each case.

ANNIVERSARY AT RIDOUT STREET

Methodist Congregation Celebrates Church's Seventh Year

COLLECTION OVER $400

Rev. G. T. Watts and Principal Dobson Special Preachers

The Sabbatical year of Ridout Street Methodist Church was observed yesterday by two enthusiastic major services and by entirely successful brotherhood meeting and Sunday School. The church was beautifully decorated in honor of its seven years' history with autumn chysanthemums, ferns, palms and fall foliage.

The choir gave peculiarly appropriate programs, and distinguished Methodist ministers filled the pulpit in the morning and evening. The anniversary services were under the direction of Rev. J. A. Agnew, head of the London Methodist Conference, and pastor of Ridout Street Church.

This youngest and in many ways most virile of city churches again went over a financial objective set for it with the spirit of a thoroughbred hunter. The pastor asked $400 yesterday as a payment on a special church debt and the totals showed that much more than $400 had been contributed.

THE BROTHERHOOD.

At the brotherhood meeting Maitland Muma gave a stirring address on the subject of character building. Ridout street brotherhood meetings are growing in interest and attendance.

At the morning service Rev. George T. Watts, B.D., pastor of the Wellington Street Church, spoke on "The Land of Beginning Again." The parable of the Prodigal Son was used for the subject text and its eternal inspiration to tempted humanity was beautifully developed.

At the evening service, Rev. Perry S. Dobson, M.A., B.D., principal of Alma College, St. Thomas, took the call of Moses as his subject, where the Angel of the Lord bade him take off his sandals because of the holiness of the ground on which he stood, ground made holy by the presence of the Almighty.

"All ground is holy ground," Mr. Dobson stated. "Home ground, office ground, shop ground. We are always in God's presence." He called Christians to adopt that attitude, to mold their lives as if they stood constantly in the presence of the King.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM GODERICH JAIL

GODERICH, Oct. 15.—(Special to the Free Press.)—A man named Richards, who was on ten days' remand in the county jail here, escaped from the jail yard late yesterday afternoon while the jailer was absent for a few minutes. Although vigorous search has been made, the man has not been found. It is reported he got some food at a farmhouse on the Bayfield road. He was dressed in regulation prison garb. It is some years since a prisoner succeeded in getting away here, although a number have made attempts.

AUTOMOBILES CRASH, DRIVERS ARE ARRESTED

BRANTFORD, Oct. 16.—A car, owned and driven by Frank Sabesti, Preston, smashed into one owned by J. Liszgus, Brantford, on Lorne Crescent this afternoon. Both cars were damaged and Sabesti was arrested for reckless driving. James Liszgus, who was talking very freely after the accident, was also arrested.

SCHOOL OFFICIAL GUEST OF HONOR

Farewell to G. P. Armstrong at Belmont, Mass.

BELMONT, Mass., Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press.)—George P. Armstrong, superintendent of schools in Belmont for 24 years, who recently announced his intention of retiring, was the guest at a farewell reception in Belmont High School Hall last evening. More than 300 residents attended and addresses were made by the town officials.

Superintendent Armstrong is a native of Woodstock, Ont., and is a graduate of the Normal School, Randolph, Vt., and the Oswego Normal School. He took post-graduate work at Cornell and was awarded an A. B. degree from Harvard University. Before coming to Belmont he taught at Madison, N. Y., and in Normal schools for colored people in Mississippi and Alabama. He is to be succeeded by Frank A. Scott, principal of the Belmont High School, whose place will be filled by Sanford B. Comery, at present instructor in physics, chemistry and science at the school.

Mr. Armstrong leaves this week with Mrs. Armstrong for Ontario, where they will live.

At Last! Modern Laundry Service ---At a Price for Every Purse

This is the most important announcement ever made by THE PARISIAN LAUNDRY---in many ways the most important ever addressed to local housewives. At last every home in London can afford the services of a modern sanitary, efficient laundry. Think what this means! Washing in the homes of those of moderate means as well as those of the well-to-do, will become a thing of the past. The messy washerwoman, interfering with the general routine, getting in everybody's way, and gayly eating you out of house and home, will now go and, along with her, the new-fangled devices that need constant "nursing" and increase the already too high gas and electric bills. Under this new Parisian Plan a vast majority of the 14,000 homes in London can now afford the "luxury" of laundry service and yet save money.

Study the Following Plans for Family Service

FINISHED FAMILY WASHING

Entire family washing finished ready to wear (no starch). Minimum charge, 10 POUNDS $1.50

Excess wearing apparel, finished, 15c per lb.; flat, 9c per lb.

ECONOMY WASH

Entire family washing, all machine ironed (no starch). Minimum charge, 15 POUNDS $1.50

Excess, 9c per pound.

SEMI-FINISH FAMILY WASHING

Flat work all ironed. Pieces that require starch we starch, balance folded neatly. Minimum charge, 10 POUNDS FOR $1.00

Excess, 9c per pound.

FAMILY FLAT WORK

Bed linen, table linen and all flat pieces. Minimum charge, 10 pounds for $1.00

Excess, 9c per pound.

WET WASH FAMILY SERVICE

80% of the moisture extracted and returned to you to dry and finish.

We have been requested to give the public this service. We are nowprepared to give it to you . . . . . 15 pounds for 75c

Excess . . . . . 5c per lb.

Under our Wet Wash Plan we cannot handle silks, fine flannels, wool or embroidered articles, nor colors that you know will run or fade. This work must be sent to us in bags, for which a charge of 50 cents is made, and which we refund you on the return of the bag.

Starched Collars, Pleated and Stiff Bosom Shirts are not accepted under the above plans, but are charged on our regular service.

The minimum charges that have been placed on all the above different services are based on each family washing being washed and handled separately and distinctly cleansed in gently revolving cylinders through creamy suds, and gallons and gallons of soft water.

THERE ARE NO MARKS OF ANY KIND PLACED ON YOUR WASHING

A SUPERIOR SERVICE AT A RE ASONABLE PRICE FOR EVERYONE

All bundles must be accompanied by customer's lists, otherwise our count must be accepted

We are primarily a laundry executing in the very best fashion all the so-called standard laundry services in addition to conducting Dry Cleaning, Dyeing and Rug Cleaning. Departments excelled by none. Somehow and some way The Parisian Laundry should be your laundry. One of our service wagons is in your neighborhood regularly, and we hope soon to make your acquaintance.

CANADA'S PUBLIC MEN STAND HIGH

Dean Tucker Urges Elimination of Party Motives

RESOLUTION AT SYNOD

Next Assembly, in 1924, Will Be Held in London

HAMILTON, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A very small percentage of the delegates who saw the opening of the General Synod were present at to-day's sittings, only 37 out of 250 attending this morning's session.

A motion by Canon S. W. B. Broughall, of St. Catharines, provided that, in view of the fact that the General Synod is not officially informed as to the work and needs of the educational institutions carried on under the auspices of the church, a commission be appointed by his grace to supply to the next General Synod information as to the number of such schools for boys and girls, their courses of religious study, the number of women's colleges and theological colleges and all other particulars concerning them.

Rev. Principal Vance, of Vancouver, opposed the motion, stating that there were no such schools directly under the Church of England.

Ven. Archdeacon Armitage, of Halifax, urged the mover of the motion to make it noncontentious.

Dr. Renison stated that the church boarding schools in Canada were of incalculable value and they were under the auspices of the church. He deprecated the suggestion that the general board of religious education was the proper body to deal with the matter. He was supported by Dr. Seager, provost of Trinity, who did not think the G. B. R. E., the one to make the unofficial approach, which he considered the appropriate action. Those in favor of having this board deal with the matter, however, won the day.

"LAWLESS CLERGY."

A motion by Principal Waller, of London, regarding disciplining the clergy for neglect to observe the rubrics, aroused a flicker of interest.

"I recognize the lawlessness of the clergy—a great many laymen do," observed J. H. McGill, M. A., a Vancouver layman. "A great deal of the curse dissension to-day comes of uniformity acts; and I would urge that this resolution be allowed to stand over as unfinished business." This motion carried.

The Dean of Huron was one of those who opposed the disciplining of the clergy, declaring that they were being hemmed in by legislation.

Rev. Principal Vance also cautioned strongly against such a contentious matter being taken up at this late hour.

CANADA'S PUBLIC MEN.

Dean Tucker, of London, had something to say about the public men of Canada and he moved a resolution, urging electors to exercise their franchise for the benefit of the nation and not from mere personal, mercenary or party motives. That there be no personalities and the usual unworthy accompaniments of political contests and that the franchise be exercised in a spirit of love were abjurations made by him.

"I do not believe that public men anywhere stand higher than do those of Canada—of course there are exceptions to the rule," he said.

"Perhaps, sometime, some great Lambeth appeal may arise and bring about unity here," he commented.

Because Chancellor Worrell pointed out that implications might be taken from the resolution it was withdrawn.

The synod decided to meet during the early fall of 1924 in London. Ont. The only other city mentioned was Montreal.

Your wife's salary—what is it?

WE ask the question to emphasize the fact that wives do not get salaries: they just work for their board and clothes. They can't lay aside anything for times of sickness or old age. Their husbands are supposed to do that for them.

It is selfish of a man not to make provision for his wife in the event of his death. To be sure the law gives her a definite portion of his estate; but supposing he leaves no estate? Business risks, bad investments, hard times, luxuries—these may eat up the estate and leave her penniless.

An Imperial Life policy will provide the one definite, sure and easily obtained provision for your wife; and she deserves something definite and sure—doesn't she?

To-day—while you are insurable—ask us to send you our free booklet "The Creation of an Estate." It explains how you can in this way make provision for your family if you die, or for your own old age.

ESSEX MAN DIES IN MOTOR CRASH

James Campbell Victim of Collision at Sandwich

INVESTIGATION HELD

Joseph Wolf, Member of Party, Held for Manslaughter

WINDSOR, Oct. 15. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Thrown through the windshield of a car in which he was riding, James Campbell, aged 45, of Essex, was almost instantly killed early this morning on Sandwich street, near Prince road, Sandwich. The car, which was being driven by Joseph Wolf, a brother-in-law of the deceased, crashed into a touring car parked on the curb. The impact was severe, but Campbell was the only one thrown out of the car. The driver escaped injury as well as two occupants of the rear seat, Otto Campbell, a brother of the dead man, and Joseph Harrison, also of Essex.

According to statements made by the occupants to the Sandwich police, the parked care was not protected by lights. Police state that this car is owned by Harold Smith, of Windsor. An inquest has been ordered.

WOLF IS HELD.

Following an investigation Magistrate Gundy ordered Joseph Wolf held for manslaughter. Otto Campbell, a brother of the victim, and Joseph Harrison, both of Essex, who were passengers in the car with Wolf, were held on $1,000 bail each as material witnesses. Wolf was released on Saturday afternoon after he had put up cash bail of $30,000.

HUMAN SOUL EXPANDS AS PLANT IN NATURE

Rev. Quintin Warner, at Cronyn Memorial Harvest Home, Tells of "Crown of Life."

The complete analogy between human life and the rest of nature in the eyes of God was the point stressed by Rev. Quintin Warner in his morning sermon at Cronyn Memorial Church on Sunday on the occason of the annal harvest thanksgiving services. In his opening remarks the rector declared that if there was one thing more than another which Jesus Christ had made perfectly clear it was the complete analogy with which God deals with all creation.

Yet, despite this clearness, Mr. Warner declared there were bodies of people springing up who looked for some tremendous revolution to come to all. This was a fallacy. The soul of a human must grow and expand, even as a plant makes growth.

At the morning service the rector dealt with this as it touched the individual and at the evening service he showed how it applied to group life. At both services he showed the conditions under which the crown might be obtained by both the individual and groups.

The simple principles of Christ were made to lead to the crown which God wants placed on the individual life, the rector declared. He expected trust and confidence and honest toil.

The crown of individual life was the reward of work for God and not for the individual. There was just as distinct a development in the human as in the plant. The only possible freedom of the individual was in service. No one could have a free will until he had adopted positively as his will the will of God. If there was a desire to go the wrong path there was something the matter with the will, the pastor declared. The strength of a free will lies in being able to follow unwaveringly the will of God.

The crown of life is a gift of God, declared Mr. Warner. The reason infants are taken into fellowship through baptism is that they are thought of as ideal subjects. Nothing has taken place in them to prevent God coming to than developing body. It wasn't as if there was all that rubbish called sin to be cleared away, which proved in most cases a great effort in later life.

As in nature the winter was necessary in the human life. Spring was the inspiration which opened a life to God. The best things in life were accompanied by pain.

The crown of life was not intended to be used as an ornament, declared the speaker. It was intended for use. As in nature the best of the harvest was used for seed for another harvest. The only reason that the plant was the same this year as last year was because God so willed it. He makes the things of to-day just as the things of yesterday and the best should be used for the sake of the future. The crown of life was valueless unless it was used for others.

E.W.B. SNYDER, KITCHENER, DIES

One of First to Advocate Development of Hydro

PIONEER FLOUR MILLER

Served in Legislature From 1881 Until 1894

KITCHENER, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Elias W. B. Snider, one of the best known business men of Canada and a member of the Legislature for 13 years, passed away at his residence here last evening after an illness of a few weeks. The deceased was in his eightieth year, having been born on June 29, 1842.

He was one of the pioneer millers of this county, taking possession of the German mills in 1865 after the death of his father. In 1871 he purchased the St. Jacobs mill, which he operated until about five years ago, disposing of it to his son. He also was interested in flour mills in New Dundee and this city. The roller system of making flour was inaugurated in this county by Mr. Snider. The deceased was also connected at the time of his death with the Waterloo Manufacturing Company, makers of threshing machines, and was president of the Anthes Manufacturing Company, of Toronto.

The late Mr. Snider was a member of the Legislature from 1881 until 1894, when he declined renomination. In 1896 he was the Liberal candidate for the Federal House, being defeated by the late J. E. Seagram.

A FAMOUS SPEECH.

In 1902, at a Board of Trade banquet in Waterloo, he advocated taking steps to investigate the possibility of developing power at Niagara Falls for the benefit of Western Ontario, and the Ontario Municipal Power Commission was formed shortly after, of which he was a member for some years. Mr. Snider was one of the pioneers of the hydro power scheme and had always been greatly interested in its development.

The deceased is survived by six sons and four daughters, all by his first marriage to Nancy Weber, who passed away in 1913. He was married to Miss Helen Shoemaker in 1915, who also survives. The funeral takes place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

FIRE IMPERILLED ELECTION PAPERS

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Had the fire brigade of Ottawa not done a good piece of work on Saturday afternoon there might not have been any election on December 6. Fire broke out in the department of the director-general of elections, where are stored all the election papers and documents, which represent a year's printing. Fortunately it was checked in time and confined to one room with small damage. Had it not been, the papers would have been destroyed with no possibility of replacing them by December 6.

THREE YEARS FOR TWO IN BRANDY THEFT CASE

GALT, Oct. 15.—(Special to The Free Press).—Three years each in Kingston penitentiary was the sentence handed out on Saturday by Magistrate Blake to Arthur Barley and Wm. Dickson, who pleaded guilty to having stolen five cases of brandy and selling it to a Preston man. The latter was fined $500.

DELEGATE NAMED.

THORNDALE, Oct. 16.—Miss Elizabeth Vining has been appointed delegate to the annual convention of the Women's Institute, which will be held in London in November.

Rail Strike Would Also Hit City on Foodstuffs

FLEET OF TRUCKS READY

Thousand Lying Idle Could Be Put Into Service

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press).—A railroad strike, halting traffic on the 10 railroads that serve Detroit, would find the city with but two weeks' supply of coal, and only sufficient meat and other necessaries to last one week, it is estimated by dealers and city officials.

To offset this there are more than 1,000 motor trucks lying idle in the city that could be pressed into service to bring in supplies.

No milk shortage would result from a railroad strike, as most of this product is brought into the city by electric cars and motor trucks. A large supply of dairy products and eggs also is stored in cold storage warehouses that would last several weeks or even months.

Practically all the city's supply of meats and much of farm produce is brought by train and stored in warehouses near the tracks. In the case of fresh fruits, there is never more than two days' supply on hand. No storage arrangements are made for these products; they are sold directly from the cars.

HARRIS IN EAST TORONTO.

RONTO Oct. 16.—Thomas Foster, er for East Toronto, in the last ment, lost out in his campaign nomination at the Conservative ntion on Saturday, the plum going oe" Harris, a youthful but active member of the party. Of the 400 votes cast Mr. Harris received a majority of 107. Mr. Foster took his defeat in good spirit and was the first to congratulate Mr. Harris. On his motion the choice was made unanimous.

IN NORTH WATERLOO.

KITCHENER, Oct. 16.—The federal election campaign in North Waterloo will be short and lively, according to the views expressed by the supporters of the various parties which will place candidates in the field. Only one candidate, Dr. J. E. Hett, the nominee of the Labor-Farmer party, has been formally nominated by a convention of his supporters. It is generally understood that two additional candidates will be in the field, including Dr. Euler, ex-M.P., who is an Independent Liberal, and the nominee of the supporters of the tariff platform of the Meighen Government.

The convention of the Independent Liberals of North Waterloo has been called for Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, to nominate the candidate for the Federal House. Hon. Chas. Murphy, of Ottawa, will be one of the speakers. The convention is open to all electors opposed to the Meighen Government.

W. M. Weichel, who defeated Hon. W. L. M. King in 1911, is being urged by hundreds of his supporters to be a candidate, and it is generally conceded that he will give his consent when he receives the nomination at a covention to be called before the end of the month.

WANTS TO BE CANDIDATE.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 16.—When the U. F. O. convention takes place in Mt. Elgin on October 25, M. M. Kneale, of East Oxford, will seek the U. F. O. nomination, it is stated here. Mr. Kneale is definitely in the field. M. L. Haley, a well-known farmer and Holstein breeder, is another man whose name is being mentioned as one who seeks the nomination, and a close contest between these two men promises to be one of the features of the convention.

N. L. C. AT STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Oct. 16.—The campaign of the supporters of the Meighen Government was enthusiastically launched on Saturday night at the opening of the committee room by the candidate, H. B. Morphy, who delivered a vigorous speech. Officers were elected as follows: President, Col. J. L. Young, M. C.; vice-president, W. Childey; secretary, Alex. Abraham. Executive — D. M. Ferguson, C. McIlhargey, D. M. Wright, Mrs. H. W. Davis, Mrs. S. R. McConkey, J. J. Mason, J. C. Makins, Henry Paull and W. Preston, and power to add three more members to appoint a treasurer and an organizer, and to assist the ladies organize their section of the association in the very near future.

NORTH ESSEX LIBERALS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 16.—William C. Kennedy, Liberal member of Parliament for North Essex since 1917, when he defeated E. S. Wigle, Conservative, on Saturday afternoon again was chosen standard bearer for his party. Lieut.-Col. W. L. McGregor, president, and Edward Tellier, of Tilbury North, former warden of Essex County, moved the nomination of the member. No other names were offered and Chairman C. H. Montrevil declared the nomination unanimous.

Mr. Kennedy told the convention that the Conservatives are certain to have a candidate to oppose him. Talk of a cleavage in the ranks of the Government party, he said, was mere propaganda to restrain his supporters from any great activity. Within the next three weeks more than 5,000 women are expected to register in the constituency for the election on December 6.

ALL MAKE SPEECHES

Mr. Kennedy said the convention was characterized by remarkable unanimity, which may have been accounted for by the fact that it was an "open" affair and that many ladies attended.

Among those on the platform when Chairman Montrevil, president of the North Essex Liberal Association, called the convention to order were: W. J. McKee, ex-M.P.P.; A. McNee, F. B. Davis, Gaspard Pacaud and Major J. C. Tolmie, late M. P.

All of these made short speeches, urging the delegates to remain loyal to the cause and not to be influenced by the "bill board and poster campaign," which they declared the Conservatives are about to launch.

Mr. Kennedy's address was largely in the nature of a criticism of the Meighen Government for the way in which it had conducted the affairs of the country. Major Tolmie told the delegates that the Union Government was chosen "for the term of the war and should have quit long ago."

CALLED WHEN TO CHEER

Gaspard Pacaud's address was delivered in French and the delegates cheered every time he turned and pointed his finger at a picture of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

NORTH OXFORD LIBERALS

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 16.—The North Oxford Liberal Association's mass meeting held here on Saturday attracted an audience of probably 200. The meeting was held to choose a candidate to represent the interests of the Liberals of the riding in the federal elections and Dr. D. J. Sinclair, of this city, was the choice of the convention.

It was stated before the meeting that friends of Dr. Ross, of Embro, had intended putting his name before the meeting, but if this was the case their intentions did not materialize.

The meeting had been well advertised and G. N. Gordon, of Peterboro, was secured as the headliner of what was expected to be an old-time rousing rally of the Liberals of North Oxford. "The meeting that had been the bulwark of Liberalism for over 50 years," as one speaker stated. The smallness of the crowd the speaker attributed to many political meetings the last few days.

ELGIN LABOR DIVIDES.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 16.—By Staff Reporter).—The war cloud that has been hovering over the local Independent Labor party for many weeks burst with all its fury last night, when at a convention of that party that packed the City Council chamber to the doors, Alfred E. Hookway, a Michigan Central Railway conductor and a former Liberal champion, was named as candidate for the approaching federal election. Ex-Ald. John Lane, the official nominee of the party since 1919, and defeated last night on the second ballot, immediately took the floor and declared rather hotly that as the delegates of Labor had handed over their convention to the Liberal party, he would begin at once to organize a new Labor party with the real interests of labor, and not selfish ambitions, at heart. This almost brought a riot. Yells, hisses and groans drowned the speaker for a time, but when they had subsided for a moment Mr. Lane advised the convention, in a most dramatic manner, that he had not as yet resigned as the joint U.F.O.-I.L.P. candidate, and that he would seek election on this ticket regardless of what had happened. The climax came, however, when Albert Roberts, another defeated candidate, who dropped out on the first ballot, took the floor and declared that it had been hand-picked, and that he did not consider Mr. Hookway the rightly chosen candidate of the party.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

A challenge from Mr. Hookway, that he would be quite ready to go before a new convention in order to satisfy his friends, whom he accused of playing into the hands of "our opponents," was taken up by John Burton, himself a former candidate for Liberal honors, but at present a United Farmer supporter, who declared that the convention should be held in a much smaller hall, and that both Farmers and Labor should have a say in the selection. The crowd had by this time pretty well dispersed, but a more rowdy meeting has perhaps never been staged in this city, and developments are looked for at any time. It is practically certain that a large section of the Farmers will leave the I.L.P. as a result of last night's meeting, while John Lane has emphatically announced that he will be a candidate for both U.F.O. and Labor, and Mr. Hookway is apparently recognized only as the candidate of St. Thomas Labor men.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson and E. A. Pocock, of London, were present, and gave brief addresses. Dr. Stevenson thought that it was hardly fair for the Labor men to air their grievances in public. He expressed the opinion that the press might be excluded as in other party gatherings. Success for a candidate representing Labor, he said, was assured. The cause would bring victory regardless of the candidate. At all events the break in the Labor ranks has taken place, and the result is something that remains to be seen.

BOURASSA NAMES CANDIDATE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—Henri Bourassa will be an independent candidate in Labelle County, according to an announcement he made in Papineauville this morning. He will oppose H. A. Fortier, who has been a member for Labelle County since 1917.

Mr. Bourassa told the electors that he was not fettered by any political ties and frankly asserted that he had no patience for either the Conservative or Liberal parties.

MARITIME RIDINGS ASSURED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—(Special to the Free Press.) — Right Hon. Arthur Meighen arrived home from the Maritime Provinces last night after addressing 45 meetings and, despite all this exertion, he is in splendid fettle. Mr. Meighen is confident of dividing the lower province representation. Some extravagant claims are being made by J. J. Morrison apropos of winning 12 seats down there. As a matter of fact the farmers will not have 12 candidates all told. They have no chance in Nova Scotia or Prince Edward Island, but in New Brunswick may pick up a seat or two.

KING-CRERAR ENTENTE.

It is announced that Mackenzie King is to speak at Winnipeg but no itinerary of the prairies is set forth. This is taken as fresh evidence of a tacit understanding between Crerar and King for the apportionment of territory in which they will not combat each other.

While it would seem extravagant to say, as some do, that the Government will come out of the West with a majority, there is good reason to expect that it will at least divide the seats west of the lakes. In Marquette, Mr. Crerar is threatened with defeat, especially if a Liberal stays in the field. in which event the Agrarian will not be the only leaderless party. Crerar's opponent is likely to be General Dyer, a very strong man.

The Government Shipbuilding Policy

Hon. Mackenzie King and the Liberal platform orators have been devoting considerable attention to the Government's merchant marine policy. Mr. King has been blindly denouncing the shipbuilding operations of the administration. As in the case of his attitude on the tariff and the railway question there is an absolute absence of candor and fairness. What are the facts?

The Government's shipbuilding policy was announced to Parliament on April 4, 1918. At that time the war was at its most critical state and losses throughout the world in shipping tonnage from the submarine menace were grave. The end of the war was not in sight and the German forces had broken through lines on the west front which had been deemed impregnable. It was the darkest days of the whole war. The Government decided to enter upon a program of shipbuilding as a war measure in the national interest. Canada's steel shipbuilding yards had been turning out ships for the British Government; the Canadian Government was financing the project. It was felt that it was better policy to have the ships built under Canadian register, for the benefit of the Canadian people and in the interests of Canadian trade and commerce.

Three strong reasons were advanced for the Government policy:

1. The imperative need of providing shipping to make up the immense losses from the destruction of the German submarines.

2. The value of having a Government-owned merchant marine to co-operate with the Government system of railways. Having this vast system of national railways the ministry felt it was good policy to construst public-owned ships to carry this trade.

3. The need of developing the Canadian merchant marine flying the Canadian flag to open up new trade routes for Canadian commerce.

The Government's policy received the unanimous approval of the House. On the day it was announced Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux made the following statement:

"I congratulate my honorable friend (the Minister of Marine), and I hope he will stimulate naval construction in Canada. By doing so he will prove himself to be a staunch friend of the British Empire and of his own country. Lloyd George, Mr. Bonar Law, the President of the United States and M. Tardieu, who represents the French Government at Washington during the war, have united in the statement that what the allies need most is the present emergency is food, munitions and ships. Now, by giving ships for the transportation of food, and not only of food, but of men and munitions, my honorable friend is doing yeoman work in the cause which is dear to every one of us.

"He may rest assured that he will receive from this side of the House a unanimous support, because we stand for the construction of ships in Canada.

"With the natural resources we possess, and the technical knowledge we have acquired, and with the strong Canadian feeling which exists in this country, there is no reason why we should not set out to capture once more the blue ribbon of the Atlantic."

In the course of the same debate Hon. W. S. Fielding also approved the policy in the following terms:

"I think the Government should be congratulated upon giving their attention just now to steel shipbuilding. As I happen to know something of the formation of the Dominion Steel Company, and as I was in some measure identified in a modest degree some years ago with the creation of this splendid industry in Cape Breton, I take a particular pleasure in hearing the minister make the announcement that he is arranging to make a contract with the Dominion Steel Company whereby the steel plates will be made in the works at Sydney."

At this time there was no Farmers' party in the House, but Hon. T. A. Crerar, now leader of the Agrarians, was then a member of the Cabinet and evidently indorsed the decision of the Government. As a result of the approval of Parliament contracts for a large number of ships were let, the Government's program calling for 63 vessels. When the armistice came the Government was faced with the question of continuing this policy or of abandoning it. At that time it was feared there would be a great deal of unemployment, and there was an overwhelming demand that the Government should complete its program, particularly as there was then a world shortage of freighters. In the spring of 1919, when the Government asked the Parliament for a continuance of its program, there was again no protest and the Opposition placed its seal of approval on the policy. Speaking on May 8, 1919, Mr. Lemieux said:

"I sincerely approve of the policy of any government which will promote our shipbuilding and improve our transportation facilities. The moment war ceased, the moment we came to peace activities, it is only common sense that Canada should take control of these shipyards, and build her own ships with her own men and her own money with a view to improving her shipping and transportation facilities."

No new contracts were let after 1919.

Up to this time the Government's policy had the indorsement of the Opposition. It was not until there came a drop in ocean freight rates and freighters throughout the world started losing money that the Opposition began to protest. In other words, as long as the policy was popular it had the approval of the Liberals, but when there showed signs of possible unpopularity these same Liberal orators described the Government mercantile marine policy as ill-conceived and badly executed. The Liberal party shares responsibility for the adoption of the mercantile marine program, and for them now to condemn this program is contemptible and unfair.

If Canada had a record of scandal, graft and corruption in connection with the construction of its ships, such as surrounds the United States Shipbuilding Board, it would be a different matter, but not a solitary charge of any kind has been launched against the administration on this score. As a matter of fact, the average cost of construction of the Canadian vessels was $191.95 for deadweight ton, while the average cost by the United States Shipbuilding Board was $215. To-day Canada has a public-owned merchant marine, operating in connection with the Canadian National Railway. They have carried Canada's flag on the seven seas, and they are now sailing from Canada to Great Britain, the West Indies, South America, Java, India, Australia and New Zealand. If there is any one policy of the Government of which it has reason to be proud, it is its shipbuilding program, and Hon. Mackenzie King is not increasing his prestige by his picayune attacks

A Successful Land Scheme

An Ottawa dispatch gives the encouraging news that out of $199,669 due from loans to the Soldiers' Settlement Board last year, $180,367 was repaid. Out of the 25,000 odd soldiers placed on the land by the board only 105 have been listed as failures. This is an astonishing record and speaks volumes for the pluck, perseverance and integrity of the Canadian veterans.

The Soldiers' Settlement plan has been a remarkable success. Canada is the only belligerent country which has successfully carried out such a scheme. The United States Congress considered such a policy, but made no progress. The Australian and New Zealand programs have not been a success.

Not only has the Government loaned money at low rates to the veterans to get started on the land, but the settlers have been given every possible aid through the agricultural experts employed by the Settlement Board. There has also been a home touch, which has brought friendly aid and encouragement to the wives of the settlers. Nearly 115 free short courses have been held in home economics, etc., to 3,800 women.

To the country at large, the placing of this number of men on the land is of inestimable value. The worth of the board's supervision service is to be seen at its best in the Indian reserve community settlements, such as the Piapot Reserve, near Regina, Sask., Poorman's Reserve, near Saskatoon, Sask., and the Bobtail Reserve, near Ponoka, Alta. The board took over a number of areas of uncultivated land (formerly Indian reserves, grazing leases, Doukhobor lands and Hudson Bay lands) which had been lying practically idle. These reserves approximated 200,000 acres in extent. They were divided into farm units and disposed of by ballot to returned men at a price covering the cost of the land to the Government. In less than 15 months large areas of raw land have been brought under cultivation, and this year soldier settlers have in these settlements an average of more than 50 acres each of wheat, clean, breast-high grain, that will in most cases put them on their feet. Several settlers have more than 100 acres of such wheat crop.

On the Poorman's Reserve (formerly Indian), near Saskatoon, which was taken over last year by the board, and comprises about 3,320 acres, there are 27 farm units averaging 308 acres each.

The average price paid by the settlers was $11.25 per acre. Remarkable progress has been made on this reserve, and a low estimate of the value of the land to these settlers to-day is $25 per acre, which would mean that there has been an increase in land value alone of approximately $4,000 per settler. The land was uncultivated, except for a few odd patches, when it was sold by the Indians to the Government. Fifteen of the 27 settlers broke some land last year and 12 others only commenced operations this spring. There are 593 acres of wheat among the 15 settlers who broke ground last year, or an average of 40 acres each. The 27 settlers have broken an average of 43 acres each, or 1,152 acres altogether. All the settlers have buildings, and 20 per cent. of the land is under cultivation already. Similar results are being obtained on many of the other settlements which have recently come under this scheme.

The Third Column

DUTY.

Whatever be my duty through the day
Grant me to meet it calmly, unafraid;
To turn from pleasures and the cooling shade
Where I perhaps prefer a while to stay;
Let me from comforts boldly walk away,
Nor ask the hour for service to be stayed;
By grim temptation let me be unswayed
And give myself to labor when I may.

When I am summoned to the fields of strife
I would not wait till others urge me on,
Nor grudge its cost in pleasure, but as one
Who is content to meet the needs of life,
Though I forsake all that I treasure most Let duty find me, ready, at my post.

VACANCY.

In Lecky's "Map of Life" I found this sentence: "Pleasure is a jewel which will only retain its luster when it is in a setting of work, and a vacant life is one of the worst pains, though the islands of leisure that stud a crowded, well-occupied life may be among the things to which we look back with the greatest delight."

There is something very forbidding about a vacant lot, a vacant room—or a vacant mind.

The vacant house deteriorates. The machine that is left idle attracts rust and decay. Only used things last.

Filled things and places are in themselves suggestions of readiness and service.

But vacancy of life is seeped with trouble and tragedy. Go where you will and you will find it eating away the good from the soul of him who has it—and at the same time spreading its tentacles to reach other lives.

Work, on the other hand, is a stimulus and the more work you do, the more you will want to do. Each day will seem all too short, and life itself so very brief in which to get done the tasks most desired.

We all drift a great deal. And the further we get from our original aims and intentions, the more does our incentive lag and stagnate. And with incentive and interest gone, vacancy takes control.

Achievement comes only through attempting. If we do nothing but float fanciful and highly colored dreams about our eyes, deeds will continue to sleep and their birth into the arms of thrilling events will remain only a speculation.

Innate temperament has much to do with us all. But with a will to train and rear, even the humblest and least favored may hope to rise high and earn credit and be ladened with honor.

Despondency and dire discouragement may both be muffled. So that when real calamities do meet us at the door, we may smile in their faces while our disciplined forces keep us calm and full of iron and courage.

Try to build in the vacancy in your life—so that you may walk on, in confidence.

—By George Matthew Adams.

THE MODERN GIRL.

The other day while chasing along the thoroughfare, my old bus blew a casing, and I was standed there. I heaved a sigh abysmal, and started to perspire, and life seemed bleak and dismal—I hate to change a tire. For I am old and cheesey, my hinges groan and crack, my ancient lungs are wheesy, and cricks are in my back. With rusty jack I wallowed upon the baking soil, and, toiling there, I swallowed about a quart of oil. Then on her motor cycle up came Jemima Blair; "Well, in the name of Michael," she said, "you've grief to spare! Your clothes you're disarranging, your whiskers are on fire; you are not built for changing a non-skid rubber tire. Go, rest—for rest is bracing—beneath yon sycamore, and I will change the casing, so don't swear any more." And I had said his maiden was frivolous and vain, a modern female laden with isms most insane. Because she was athletic, and wore a mannish hat, I'd said it was pathetic to see a girl like that. Because she rode her pony, one leg on either side, I'd said she was too phony to be a good youth's bride. "I will not let you wrestle," I said, "with my old scow; man is the stronger vessel, in theory, anyhow. But since you've made the offer, I doff my hat to you, and I'm the champeen doffer when great souls are in view."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK.

Pop played tennis with Mr. Jones to-day, coming home looking as if he felt grate, saying, Well, I beet Jones to-day, he was playing at the top of his form, but I beet him.

Good for you, I think Ill drop in at the Joneses after suppir and tell Mrs. Jones about it, sed ma, how did you happin to beet him?

Happin to? sed pop, I dident happin to, I beet him by superior playing, he was good, but I was better, thats the hole story.

And he mentioned it some more wile we was eating suppir and he kepp on mentioning it after suppir and all of a sudin the bell rang and it was Mr. Jones wawking with a cane on account of something being the matter with one foot, saying to pop, Well Potts it dont look as if Id be able to get out to play to-morro, I can hardly move on this foot and I haff to move a little bit, even to beet you, haw haw.

O I dont know, you played a pritty good game this afternoon, considering, sed pop.

Yes, considering that a 3 munths old baby could of beet me, sed Mr. Jones, I had a sprained ankle and a severe cold, and not ony that but I had to play with my left hand because my rite rist went back on me, and to make matters worse 3 strings broak in my rackit as soon as we started to play. Not that I wish to take away from your glory or enything but facks are facks weather they come from East or West, as Kipling says.

And he went home agen, and ma sed, I dont think Ill drop in and see Mrs. Jones after all.

I never asked you to, Im sure, sed pop.

And he opened the paper and stayed behind it and ma started to darn holes out of socks, saying every once in a wile, Broken rist, no wonder, broken leg, no wonder, enybody could beet a crippie, no wonder. Pop not saying enything.

LOVERS.

As I went up and he came down, my little six-year boy,
Upon the stairs we met, and kissed, I and my tender joy.
Oh! fond and true, as lovers do, we kissed and clasped and parted,
And I went up and he went down, refreshed and happy-hearted.

What need was there for any words, his face against my face?
And in the silence heart to heart, spoke for a little space
Of tender things, and thoughts on wings, and secrets none discovers;
And I went up and he went down, a pair of happy lovers.

The Political Arena

Whoever is premier he will be a Presbyterian. Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. T. A. Crerar are all members of the same church. They were also all born in Ontario and are within two years of each other in age. Mr. Meighen was born June 16, 1874; Mr. King on December 17, 1874, and Mr. Crerar June 17, 1876.

The Calgary Herald plainly replies to the attempt of the Liberals of Quebec to make the issue one of revenge upon the Government for its conscription policy. The Herald, discussing the premier's manifesto, says:

"The prime minister takes up the gauntlet thrown down by that party in its only stronghold, the Province of Quebec. When he asks to be judged by the achievements of the war years, as well as by those of the constructive period that has since intervened, he gives his answer to the Lapointes, the Cannons, the Bureaus and to the Liberal press of that province, all of whom have been proclaiming that the first issue in this election, as far as Quebec is concerned, is to punish Meighen for inflicting the indignity of conscription upon their people.

"Quebec Liberals are within their rights when they decide to judge both Government and premier on the single matter of conscription. But the people of the balance of the Dominion also have the right to express their opinion of the course taken on that question and to decide whether Premier Meighen is to be made the victim of Quebec's vengeance because he dared to bring in and inforce a conscription measure at a critical time in the progress of the war."

The Edmonton Journal, discussing the manifesto, expresses approval of the straightforward stand of the prime minister. The Journal says:

"Premier Meighen has issued his manifesto and in it has once more stated the main question upon which the Dominion election is to be held. It is precisely as he has stated it before.

"Mr. Meighen makes no secret of his fear that a free trade policy would put Canada at the mercy of its big neighbor to the south. In place of the self-reliance that has obtained hitherto there would be greatly increased competition from the United States and Canadian industrial centers would inevitably suffer.

"The premier's manifesto is a plain, straight, clear-cut call to the electorate to resist the effort to overturn the tried and tested national policy and by voting confidence in it to settle present uncertainties and pave the way for a renewal of Dominion-wide activity."

There is more than the riding of West Lambton where the Farmers and the Labor party are having difficulty in uniting. In several Western ridings union has been found impossible. The Medicine Hat News writes:

"In Macleod riding, on Friday, P. M. Christopher, Labor M. L. A. of Rocky Mountain, went after the Farmer movement 'somethin' scandalous,' claiming that, in the final analysis, it was an offshoot of the autocratic government by the capitalistic class. He plainly intimated that Labor would place a candidate in the field in opposition to the U. F. A. nominee.

"Lethbridge Labor men will also nominate a candidate, whether the U. F. A. does or not.

"Differing so widely in certain fundamental principles of policy, the wonder is, not that the Farmer and Labor movements are about to separate, but that they ever arranged to co-operate."

The Manitoba Free Press wants to know if Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is speaking for the Liberal party in his denunciation of public ownership and of the tariff views of Mr. Crerar. The Free Press says:

"When Mr. King was touring the West last year he said, upon every platform, that there was no essential difference between the tariff policy of the Liberals and the tariff policy of the National Progressives. He used that as an argument for co-operation, and even fusion between the two parties. Was Mr. King sincere in the expression of these views? If so, what does he think of Mr. Lemieux's denunciation of the tariff views of Mr. Crerar? And having these thoughts will he express them? Or will he, as in the case of the Shaughnessy railway plan, appear, by his silence, to be in agreement with Mr. Lemieux?"

MEANING OF "MANITOBA."

Question.—Am I correct in saying that "Manitoba" is really two words, Mani-Tobah, God of the Mountains? M.

Answer.—The name "Manitoba" sprang from the union of two Indian words, "Manito" (the great spirit), and "Waba" (the "narrows" of the lake). This straight of Lake Manitoba was a sacred place to the Crees and Saulteaux who called them "Manito-Waba," or the "Great Spirit's Narrows."

RAJAH AND MAHARAJAH.

Question.—1. Please inform me whether a rajah is senior or junior to a maharajah? 2. And also what is the order of seniority of the British nobility. Is the following correct: Duke, earl, viscount, baron, lord, honorable? C. D. W.

Answer.—1. In India a maharajah is greater than a rajah. Rajah is the Hindu title for a chief or prince; maha is great or powerful; so that a maharajah is a great prince. 2. Duke, marquis, earl, viscount, baron.

SOUTH AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS.

Question.—Please give me list of newspapers published in Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. BUSINESS.

Answer.—In Buenos Ayres, Argentine Republic, dailies: Argentina, Buenos Ayres Herald, Correo Espanol, Diario, Nacion, Prensa, Razon, Standard, Tribuna, Vox de la Iglesia. In Rio Janeiro, Brazil, dailies: A Noticia, Correio de Manha, Etoile du Sind (French), Gazeta de Noticias, Jornal do Brazil, Jornal do Commercio, O' Paiz, Tribuna.

"ALL RIGHT," NOT "ALRIGHT."

Question.—Is the word "alright" an accepted and recognized word for use in ordinary business correspondence? J. P. S.

Answer.—No. "All right" is the only form of the expression to use. There is no warrant at all for the use of "alright."

PEOPLE THE VACANT ACRES.

More and more the people of all Canada are beginning to realize that settlers must be induced to fill up the vacant acres of Western Canada. Prosperity depends upon this being accomplished without much more delay. Governments will have to understand, too, that since this is the will of the people, something more than two per cent. of Canada's revenue must be devoted toward helping, instructing and encouraging Canadian farmers.—Vancouver Sun.

NO LICENSE NEEDED.

Editor Free Press: I am writing to you for some information. Can I buy eggs, butter and poultry from neighbors, to sell for my own gain, without a license? If I need one, would the one do for all three, or would I need a separate license for each? Where would I apply for it, and what would it cost for same? A READER.

Answer—Regulations differ in each municipality, but as far as The Free Press is aware, you will require no license.

SPRINGBANK DAM.

Editor Free Press: I see that Ald. Watt is "fathering" the rebuilding of the above at the expense of the already overburdened taxpayer, but I sincerly hope that if the said taxpayers have any voice in the matter that they will again turn the scheme down.

The city incurred a great expense in building the breakwater in West London, to prevent that district from being flooded, and now that we have been immune from flooding since the dam gave way, it is proposed to rebuild the dam an put the citizens to more expense an inconvnience through the flood waters being held back.

Of course, it would be nice if we had a decent river for motor launches and boats, but not with the river bed in its present condition, with gravel hills, vegetation and old tree trunks.

I say d—— the dam, but not until the Board of Education has ceased to "milk" the taxpayer for elaborate and ornate additions to our public schools, and those responsible have ceased experimenting in boring in search of oil, gas and water, and for which the taxpayer has to foot the bill.

ASSESSMENT AND TAXES.

Editor Free Press: Kindly permit me to amplify the former article on this subject, as discussion shows plainly that few have thought the matter out as I have had time to do, as well as the inclination. One of my friends expressed the thought that the result would be to increase the total tax burden; this is erroneous. I did not suggest that the value of property, set by the owner, should be the assessed value which may be any fraction of the real value, and special rates may be made for good reasons even on that fraction; the essential feature of the plan is to secure a just and fair basis for all these rates from the value to the owner. Even if the owner's value is made the assessed value the total tax need not be more. I think that the total value of London property would then be at least 50 per cent. of an increase of the present amount and that the financial securities might have a greater value than at present, but a property assessed at $3,000, with a rate of 20 mills, would call for the same exact amount of cash as one assessed at $2,000, with a rate of 30 mills. The total taxation is fixed by the amount of cash needed and the calculation is based on amount of assessment, which is only one factor, the rate being equally an item and, in fact, the item that can be regulated to suit the electors that attend to their affairs intelligently; the true value is beyond our control to a great extent, but we can control the fraction used for our purpose of taxation. I repeat, the essential aim of the plan is to get a just basis from the value to the owner as checked by the opinion of our fellow citizens who would quickly snap up a property undervalued by the owner in order to evade taxation, and yet is an essential feature of the plan that the owner must legally agree to transfer the title if the value is legal tender is properly made by a person, which legally includes a corporation, that can legally hold the title, with a fair time provided to redeem it if there is any reason for a desire to do so. It would be unfair to oppress the owner just as much so as it is for an owner to be a tax-dodger now. "Let justice be done although the heavens fall." I notice an error in original article. "Fire and flood" should be followed by "protection," to read correctly. As it stands in the article they are said to be necessary, which is folly, but protection is so and was intended. Error was overlooked in original copy. Yours respectfully, JAMES W. EASTON.

DO YOU know that here in Canada there are thousands of people strongly prejudiced in favor of imported toilet goods? Largely because they have never been persuaded to try those made in Canada.

In this coast-to-coast campaign we are demonstrating to the people of every city in the wide Dominion the fact that Canadian chemists, perfumers and workers, can produce toilet goods equal in quality to the highest-priced products sold under foreign labels.

This week we have brought the proof to this district with the co-operation of the druggists listed here. These druggists have agreed to sell Corson's Toilet Requisites this week on the money-back-if-not-satisfied plan. Will you not try these Canadian-made products at our risk; compare them with the finest importations, and if you are not more than pleased, take them back and the druggist will refund your money without question.

FREE!

To make this proposal still more interesting, the druggist will present you with a dainty frosted bottle of the fascinating "KARESSA" Perfume, provided your purchase of CORSON TOILETRIES amounts to 50c or more.

100% Canadian

Ours is the only completely Canadian-owned house exclusively engaged in making and marketing perfumes and toilet requisites in a national way.

Not only are all Corson products Canadian made, but we have for several years used only Canadian-made containers.

Every bottle, every talcum tin, every tooth paste tube and carton, every opal cream jar and its aluminum cover is made in some Canadian workshop, and its making provides some fellow-Canadian with the means to buy his daily bread. We have learned from experience that the handiwork of Canadians on such articles equals the best of imported goods.

A CANADA - WIDE MOVEMENT TO MAKE CANADIANS RECOGNIZE QUALITY IN CANADIAN - MADE TOILETRIES.

We plan to carry this movement from Halifax to Vancouver. We have already had a CORSON MADE-IN-CANADA WEEK in Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Brantford, Sault Ste. Marie and Winnipeg.

In each of these cities it met with widespread public support. Now it is your turn. Will you help us make a big success of CORSON WEEK IN LONDON AND DISTRICT?

Mrs. Hubert Ashplant, King street, is entertaining the provincial executive of the W.C.T.U. at high tea at her home this evening preceding the first session of the executive in preparation for the convention, which opens in this city to-morrow. Officers, county presidents and department superintendents to the number of 35 will be included among Mrs. Ashplant's guests.

Weddings

Trace-MacNeill.

The marriage of Mabel Anna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacNeill, of 560 Central avenue, to George Henry Trace, Queen's avenue, was quietly solemnized at the bride's home on Saturday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock, Rev. G. A. Leichliter officiating. Masses of ferns and palms and many bowls of glowing yellow mums made the drawing-room most attractive for the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. She wore a tailored suit of navy tricotine and chic hat of Harding blue duvetyn, with ostrich feathers and wore a corsage of Ophelia roses. The groom's gift was a handsome seal coat. Miss Arleans Zavitz, a cousin of the bride from Ailsa Craig, played the wedding march and the bride and the groom were unattended. A very informal reception for immediate relatives followed the ceremony, pink roses forming the pretty decorations in the dining-room, where buffet refreshments were served. Miss MacNeill, mother of the bride, wore a graceful gown of black charmeuse. In the early evening Mr. and Mrs. Trace left to spend their honeymoon in Buffalo and New York and will later reside in London. Out-of-town guests for the wedding included the bride's brother, Mr. L. H. MacNeill, of Sarnia, with Mrs. MacNeill; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Riley, of Windsor, the latter a sister of the bride, and Miss Nook Jackson, of Toronto.

ABERDEEN CLUB GIFT.

The Aberdeen Mothers' Club has decided to make a further donation of $50 to the Memorial Children's Hospital, making in all a subscription of $185. To raise funds for this final contribution the club members are putting on a bazaar during the late fall season.

CHELSEA GUIDES.

The Girl Guides, of Chelsea Green Presbyterian Church, opened their season last week with a jolly supper party at which Miss Helen d'Avignon, staff captain, was a guest of honor. The Chelsea Girl Guides have just completed their share in an energetic church clean-up, the sturdy Guides very literally going down on their knees to scour the church floors.

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Owen Sound, Ont.—"I suffered for ten years with female organic trouble, neuralgia and indigestion, and was weak and had such bad pains I could hardly walk or stand up at times. When I would sweep I would have to go and lie down. I could not sleep at night, and would wander around the house half the time. I tried everything but nothing did me any good, and the last doctor I had told me he never expected me to be on my feet again or able to do a day's work. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband said I should try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I thank God I did, for it relieved me, and I am now well and strong. I think there is no remedy like the Vegetable Compound for anyone who has my troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. You can publish my letter for the benefit of those I can't reach."—Mrs. HENRY A. MITCHELL, 1767 7th Ave., East, Owen Sound, Ont.

STUDY OF THE NOVEL AT UNIVERSITY CLUB

Interesting Papers Introduce Season's Program at First Meeting on Saturday

Beginning what promises to be a most interesting program for the season, "The Study of the Novel," the University Women's Club on Saturday evening heard two delightful papers on "The History of the Novel," presented by Mrs. M. E. Allbright and Miss Weir.

Miss Weir sketched in a most interesting fashion the eighteenth century beginnings of the novel as a factor in literature, referring to the works of Defoe, Swift, Fielding and Smollett, creators of the novel of sentiment.

In Mrs. Allbright's paper, the introduction of the novel of theory, by William Godwin, was pointed out, reference also being made to Godwin's successors, Mrs. Inchbold, in "Nature and Art," and Brooks, author of "The Fool of Quality."

The novel of terror, dealing with scenes of horror, and with the supernatural, began, Mrs. Allbright stated, with Horace Walpole's "Castle of Otranto," which sounded one of the earliest notes of romanticism in fiction. The speaker quoted also from the works of Miss Clara Reeve, Mrs. Radcliffe (creator of "The Mysteries of Udolphe") and others, outlining the principles of novel building in general and demonstrating her points by a synopsis of one or two outstanding examples.

The club members are to continue the study of the novel through subsequent meetings, the program placing one of the most noted novelists as the subject for each month's discussion.

With Miss McPherson presiding in the absence of the president, Miss Helen Grange, some constitutional details were considered, and several new members were warmly welcomed. Supper in the arts building at the university concluded the meeting.

LOBO W. I.

The Hyde Park Women's Institute is to be the guest of the Lobo Institute at this week's meeting, which is to take place in the Lobo town hall on Wednesday afternoon. An especially attractive program has been prepared for this meeting, which will conclude with a social hour and tea.

NORTON W. I.

A successful bazaar was held in Hope S. School, 1st concession, Westminster, on Friday, October 14, formally opened by Rev. R. D. Mess, of St. David's Anglican Church. A most interesting concert was given by the members of the Junior Red Cross Auxiliary, one of the items being a play by seven girls, illustrating the care of infants and the necessity of fresh air and good food.

The evening concert was in charge of Mr. A. Dengate. Interesting selections, piano and whistling solos, were rendered in a delightful fashion by the Misses A. Dunham, M. McPherson and Mary Dengate and Messrs Curnoe, Ollson and Dengate.

The school was filled to capacity and the various booths drove a thriving trade. The refreshments, always a feature with the ladies of the institute, were greatly enjoyed by the many visitors. The proceeds amounted to $90.

PROVINCIAL GIRL GUIDES ASK FOR GRANT FROM ONTARIO LEGISLATURE

The executive of the Ontario Provincial Girl Guides, of which Mrs. F. P. Betts, of this city, is commissioner, has recently approached the Ontario premier and Minister of Education for a grant for the carrying on of this important work in the province. The delegation were favorably received and the executive is hopeful of the result.

Further organization of the province through the appointment of district commissioners, was considered by the executive who met this week in Toronto, but definite steps will be left until the next quarterly meeting, to take place in Hamilton.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—Even in a season rich with embroideries and a thousand little ingenuites of elaboration in trimmings, it is still possible to find clothes whose greatest charm is simplicity and whose greatest distinction lies in the beauty of the material and coloring.

Yet the model in the sketch is not without its originality. Made of broadcloth, which some women like very much, in a rich golden tan that is a favorite this season, it contrives to introduce a contrasting color through an interesting lattice work arrangement in the front and sleeves. This effect is accomplished with bands of self-material, with an underlay of clear green satin. The pattern is cut on chemise lines, drawn in gracefully at the waist with an attractive metal belt.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

Very few of us ever have had a chance to see "Bighorn," the mountain sheep. For he lives up in the mountains, so high that the tops of the mountains are in the clouds and are covered with snow. Just like any other sheep, he has hoofs, but they are the kind that never slip. He delights to bound along the edges of great cliffs where it is almost impossible for man to follow him.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

Laurie kissed Norah again; she called her a dear thing, and assured her that they would meet again soon before she went back to her own car.

Laxton followed her. "Where are you going?" he asked brusquely.

He leaned his arm on the low door and looked at her with burning eyes; his back was turned to Norah, and she could not see his face at all.

Laurie flushed and bit a lip. "We are staying with Ryan Hewett, mother and I. You knew he had a house in the country—a little dead-and-alive place called Didsbury." She raised her eyes with disconcerting suddenness to his pale face. "It isn't a patch on Barton Manor, George," she said in a whisper.

He laughed shortly, and the next moment the big car that bore Ryan Hewett's pretentious crest on both its enamelled doors had whirled away in a cloud of dust.

Laxton climbed back beside Norah. "We might have had a nasty smash," he said laconically.

"Yes."

"I am sorry if you were frightened."

"I was not very frightened."

Neither of them spoke for some minutes.

"Do you know a place called Didsbury round here?" Laxton asked then. "It's only a village."

"Yes, I know it very well; it's about 10 miles from home."

"Miss Fenton is staying there."

"Yes, she told me."

Norah's voice sounded a little faint somehow. The black sheep turned his head sharply.

"What's the matter? I—Good God—"

He brought the car to a grinding standstill. Norah was leaning back against the cushions. She was white to the lips; she looked as if she were going to faint, but tried to smile.

"It's all right, but—I think I've hurt my arm. . . It was when the car went into the bank—I think my hand must have been over the side. . . . I can't remember. Oh, please don't look so frightened! It isn't anything much. . ."

She gave a little stifled cry of pain as he lifted her left hand; it was lying helplessly in her lap.

There was a second of silence, then Laxton laid the injured hand down very gently. There was a queer look in his reckless eyes.

"By Jove! You've got some grit," he said slowly. "To sit there and never cry out or say a word. . . . It's a sprain—a bad one, too, I'm afraid. . . I can't tell you how sorry I am."

He was hunting in a box under the seat. He brought out a little bundle of first-aid appliances.

"You must let me do it up for you. . . . I won't hurt you, but if it's not done it will be ever so much worse. . . . . I'm afraid I shall have to cut your sleeve."

"It undoes at the wrist—you can turn it back. . . . Oh!" she caught back a little cry of pain.

Laxton flushed.

"I'm sorry. I'm such a clumsy brute!" His big fingers tried again very gently. Presently he managed to turn the sleeve back a few inches.

He looked down at the swollen, fast-blackening wrist.

"Poor little girl!" he said remorsefully.

Norah bit her lip. She blinked furiously to keep back the tears that would rush to her eyes.

"If you say things like that I shall cry," she warned him shakily. "And then what will you do?"

"Cry, too, I believe," he said whimsically. "I shall never forgive myself—it is all my fault."

"It isn't—the other car was to blame. They had no right to drive so quickly in lanes like this."

"You told me that the first day I spoke to you."

He was bandaging her wrist skilfully now. His big fingers worked surprisingly quickly. Norah set her teeth and gripped the side of the car with her right hand. Every touch was exquisite agony, but she would rather die than let him know it, she told herself fiercely.

He paused a moment and glanced at her.

"Very bad?" he asked sympathetically.

She nodded. "It is rather."

"It's nearly over now. I'll make you a sling out of my handkerchief—it's an extra large one, fortunately. You'll have to go to a doctor when we get back."

FLOATING KIDNEYS.

Glenard's Disease is a drooping from its attachments of one or all of the abdominal organs. Certain of the organs are floating kidneys, which are today considered. To-morrow I will mention some exercises for Glenard's disease.

Movable, floating, displaced or wandering kidney results: From absorption of the most of the fat which never, however, entirely disappears from around the kidney; from unusual length of the blood vessels which go to and from that organ; from relaxation of the abdominal walls; tight lacing; a blow in the region of the kidney; excessive weight of that organ; the pressure of neighboring tumors and the traction of hernias. It is usually found in women. There may be no symptoms or there may be heavy, dragging pains in the abdomen, aggravated by the erect posture, various stomach and intestinal symptoms, hysteria, sometimes downright melancholia and the evidence to the examining doctor of the kidneys being in an abnormal position. The employment of an abdominal binder or of pads especially constructed help in many cases. But for a floating kidney, which causes a great deal of suffering, operation is best. And in the hands of a master surgeon this is not dangerous. In most cases this operation, by which the organ is sutured in its place, is successful, and there is no other real cure.

Questions and Answers.

My granddaughter, 2 years old, is often constipated. She has been given so much castor oil that she throws it up, and we can hardly get her to take it.

Answer.—A habit of stool must be formed. The best time is after breakfast. For a few days only, until the habit is well started, a suppository or a soapsuds enema may be used. Many children suffering from constipation will be entirely relieved by diet. Avoid dried bread, toast and sweiback while the difficulty lasts. And give potatoes only twice a week, or substitute two green vegetables for the mid-day meal. Don't give milk in large amounts; from 12 to 16 ounces a day is enough. Malted milk is laxative to most children and may be used once daily, replacing cow's milk. Give stewed fruits freely. Raw fruits—apples, pears, grapes, bananas—may be given. Between 3 and 4 in the afternoon is the best time to give fruit for a child's constipation. Whole wheat bread and wheatsworth are right. If necessary, olive oil or aromatic liquid albolene, one or two tablespoonfuls, may be given daily. No child should ever retire for the night without having had a stool some time during the day.

A PRETTY AND POPULAR SKIRT.

Pattern 3695 was used to make this model. It is cut in six sizes: 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 34 inches waist measure. A 28-inch size will require 3¼ yards of 44-inch material. The width at the foot is 2¾ yards.

Crepe de chine, soft satin, taffeta, crepe, handkerchief linen, organdy, dotted swiss, chambrey, pongee, poplin and silk duvetyn could be used for this design.

TWO IN A GARDEN

Jimmy Rabbit was enjoying a few nibbles at one of Farmer Green's cabbages. He hadn't noticed that there was anybody but himself in the garden. So it startled him to hear a shrill voice cry, "Get out of our garden!"

Jimmy Rabbit jumped. But he didn't jump far, for he soon saw that it was only Henrietta Hen speaking to him.

"Why should I get out of our garden?" Jimmy Rabbit inquired mildly.

"I should have said Farmer Green's Garden," said Henrietta Hen.

"Thank you very much for the warning; but I don't think we need go away just yet — if old dog Spot isn't around," said Jimmy Rabbit. "I don't believe there's any danger.

"You don't understand, Henrietta Hen cried. "I ordered you out of the garden."

"You ordered me?" said Jimmy Rabbit, acting as if he were astonished.

"Yes!" Henrietta declared. "And I'd like to know when you're going to obey me."

"It's easy to answer that," Jimmy Rabbit replied. "I'm going away as soon as I've finished by luncheon." Nobody could have been more pleasant than he. Yet Henrietta Hen seemed determined to be disagreeable.

"I don't see your lunch basket," she sniffed, looking all around.

"No," he replied, "I forgot it. I meant

"Get out of our garden!" Jimmy Rabbit jumped.

to bring one with me and carry a cabbage-head home in it."

Henrietta Hen spoke as if she were very peevish.

"You've no right," she said, "to take one of the cabbages away with you."

"I'm not going to," Jimmy Rabbit explained.

"You were nibbling at one when I first noticed you," Henrietta Hen insisted.

"Was I?" he gasped. "Are you sure you're not mistaken? Are you sure you weren't pecking at a cabbage-leaf yourself?"

Now, the truth of the matter was that Henrietta had herself come to the garden to eat cabbage. Really she was no better than he was. But somehow Henrietta Hen never could believe that she was in the wrong.

"You're impertinent," she told Jimmy Rabbit in her severest tone. "You know very well that Farmer Green raises cabbages for home use only."

"Well," said Jimmy Rabbit, "I'll make myself at home here, then." And turning a cold shoulder on Henrietta Hen he began nibbling at a cabbage-leaf once more.

Henrietta felt quite helpless. Somehow nothing she could say to the intruder seemed to have the slightest effect on him. And he appeared to be enjoying his luncheon so thoroughly that it made Henrietta Hen very hungry just to see him eat. In spite of herself she couldn't resist joining him at luncheon.

"Ah!" he exclaimed between mouthfuls, "I see you're making yourself at home, too."

Henrietta Hen tried to look very dignified. She pecked at the cabbage in an absent-minded fashion, pretending that it was no treat to her. As a matter of fact, she had been trying to get a taste of cabbage for a long while. And this was the first time she had managed to crawl through the garden fence. "One has to eat something," she murmured.

Jimmy Rabbit smiled slyly. Henrietta Hen couldn't deceive him. He knew that she was as fond of cabbage as he was himself.

"Did you ever hear it said," he asked her suddenly, "that eating too much cabbage causes long ears?"

COMPENSATIONS FOR GROWING OLDER

When I was a child, like all children, I was in a hurry to grow up. I longed to reach what I considered the prime of life as represented by an elder sister, who was just 20. On the other hand, I did not so much fancy the idea of going on and becoming an elderly person of 35 or 40. I imagined people of that age as living colorless lives with nothing to look forward to except the doddering old age represented by 50 or 60.

How awful it must be to know that your youth is behind you and to have nothing to look forward to. I used to think!

If someone had said to me then: "But think how much they have to look back on" I should have thought that an absurd substitution. As if looking back upon things could really be any satisfaction.

The other day I went into a restaurant where I had not been for many years. As I waited for my order I found myself remembering the last time I had been there. I could remember just what table I sat at, a table for two at the left of the entrance. My companion was a woman whom I had known in college, had fallen out of touch with, had met for this luncheon, and have not seen since. But the thing which made my memories so absorbing was the thought of all the water that had flowed under the bridge since that last meeting. At that meeting that woman had spoken to me of a man whom she admired. He was a married man, it did not seem probable then that the admiration would have an sequence. But since that day his wife has died and my companion has married him.

From the consideration of the vast change in her life the years between have brought, my mind flew to another classmate, who at that time was drudging away at an ill-paid job in a bank, with no future ahead of her. Shortly after that she met a young business man who was just at the beginning of what was to be a most successful career, she married him, her life now is full of color, travel and luxury.

Then other figures came into the tapestry, this girl's older sister who at that time was so happily and prosperously married that she was the envy of many but who has since passed through unspeakable misery ending in the divorce courts; a friend I met through her and did not even know at the time who has become one of the strongest factors in my friendship life; another friend to whom I wrote about the luncheon, who has recently died.

I suppose I could fill pages with the details of the tapestry that unwound itself before me as I sat thinking of the water that had flowed under the bridge since I last sat in that restaurant.

There was some sadness in the memories, some sweetness and an infinite sense of richness.

Perhaps as we grow older there is so much sadness that one does not care so much for unrolling the tapestry. And yet I doubt it for it seems to me that the older people grow the more pleasure they take in their memories.

Surely the sense of richness, of background, is one of the compensations of growing older. And don't you, who are growing older along with me, find it a very real and vital compensation?

To be sure one could never make youth believe that this looking back on things is anything but the palest satisfaction. And very likely it would not be to youth. But what youth does not understand is that not only does life give one different gifts as the years go by, but it also gives one the capacity to enjoy different gifts.

Varsity Ties Game On McGill In Last Half

Each Team Scores Four Points in First Clash of Season

MONTREAL, Oct. 14.—Undergraduates of McGill on Saturday just failed to add the crowning touch to the festivities and celebrations which had been arranged to mark the centennial reunion. The opportunity was within grasp at the Molson stadium but the willing hands were just short of their mission and instead of a victory over Toronto in the intercollegiate rugby series McGill had to be content with a draw, red and white and blue and white each having four points on the score board when the whistle tooted for the final call of time.

The rules provide for a continuation of play, providing that the captains agree. McGill decided to allow the matter to rest and declined to play out the tie. Neither team displayed the same dash and vim as last season's representatives. Toronto has lost more players than has McGill, but the latter just lacked that bit of surplus energy which we are pleased to term "punch." McGill for three-quarters of the journey was stronger on the line. The backfields were of equal merits, but Toronto excelled on the wings, with the result that on an exchange of punts the local men were frequently downed without having advanced.

FIRST QUARTER

McGill, who won the toss and elected to play with the sun and wind behind them, began the game with a rush. They forced a touch in goal after one minute and 10 seconds of play. The Varsity machine could not settle down, and the Red and White wings plowed through for gains on several occasions. The ball got loose when Snyder kicked up a high one, Anderson finally securing. Shortly after the Snyder was hurt in the melee and men trying to grab the ball, Snyder, a moment later, tried another run and was smothered just outside his line by four of the McGill line. On the first down he booted up field. An exchange of punts then ensued, in which Varsity lost.

Taylor was knocked out and had to be carried off the field. McGill lost an advantageous position by offset interference, but a lusty punt by Flanagan and some fine running down under the ball by his wings forced Varsity to scrimmage 20 yards out from their line. Hobbs kicked at once, but Flanagan booted back. Varsity's position was rendered distinctly dangerous when they were penalized for offside. Snyder made an end run and dodged obliquely across the field for 40 yards. The run saved what looked like a sure score by McGill.

Varsity settled down after this. The quarter was played without further scoring. First quarter—McGill 1, Varsity 0.

SECOND QUARTER

Within a minute of the turn round McGill had forced Varsity back on their own 10-yard line by punts. Taylor, who had resumed playing, remained steady under the bombardment and returned the punts. Disaster nearly came to Varsity when Snyder fumbled behind his posts. He made a spectacular recovery and ran out 30 yards, Ambridge was laid out when he tackled him. Winding the kicking game was not getting them much, the McGill team tried backing for awhile. They bucked for yards twice around mid-field. A kick by Flanagan into touch forced Varsity back on their 10-yard line. Snyder booted up field and the scrimmage was again in mid-field. McGill bucked for their yards thrice again. The backs took McGill right up under Varsity's goal posts and after two unsuccessful attempts to go over Flanagan dropped a goal. Score—McGill 4, Varsity 0.

Varsity got possession of the ball and staged an offensive. A good run by Snyder took them into McGill territory, and a fumble by Phillpot of a punt took the play to McGill's 20-yard line. McGill's line tightened up in front of Flanagan, who booted out to mid-field, where Taylor fumbled the ball going into touch. McGill were bucking up field when the half-time whistle blew. Score—McGill 4, Varsity 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

On resuming play the game went immediately into Varsity's territory. Phillpot let the visitors out of a tight box by dropping a punt in mid-field. He redeemed himself a moment later when Snyder kicked to him behind the line. He dodged a couple of tackles and just got out.

Varsity kept up the kicking game and saw Anderson was caught behind his own line a rouge. Varsity made their way through a nervy hurdling plunge by Duncan. They repeated on the next down. The McGill rooters' chorus yelled to their players to hold the Varsity line. Snyder kicked to Phillpot and he was downed near his line. An anxious time for McGill was temporarily relieved when Varsity was offside and lost 15 yards.

A narrow escape put pep into the McGill team, because they played out of the quarter brilliantly, and once again near the Varsity line when the whistle blew.

Third quarter time score—McGill 4, Varsity 2.

FOURTH QUARTER.

A punting duel ensued between Snyder and Flanagan. The Varsity player was trying desperately to get points. McGill was soon in a desperate position as a result of an offside. Snyder forced a point from McGill when Phillpot was crowned for a rouge. The McGill team looked tired. The Varsity halves were spurred by their supporters to return every kick and yet further tire out the McGill team.

Snyder put another kick over the McGill line, and Anderson ran fifteen yards and just dragged himself clear. Flanagan was laid out. Snyder kicked again, but this time Phillpot was unable to run it out.

Carroll was put in Flanagan's place to kick and Somerville relieved Snyder in the punting for Varsity. Carroll put life into the McGill backs. His kick also gave him support. McGill were making a great effort.

Referee—Major Macaulay; umpire—F. Brownfield.

Head linesman—"Dud" Ross; judge of play—F. G. Holt, R.M.C.

RUTH DISOBEYS LANDIS' ORDER

BUFFALO, Oct. 16. — Disregarding orders of Judge K. M. Landis, National Baseball Commissioner, "Babe" Ruth, home-run star of the New York Yankees, to-day took part in an exhibition game against the Polish Nationals, of Buffalo. Bob Meusel and Bill Piercy, also of the Yankees, took part in the game. Carl Mays and Wally Shang, who had been scheduled to take part in the contest, withdrew after Judge Landis' order. The remainder of Ruth's team was recruited from Buffalo players.

Ruth's team won the game by a score of 4 to 2. Several thousand persons saw the contest and cheered Ruth each time he came to bat. He made one home-run.

"I still think I am in the right and Judge Landis is in the wrong," said Ruth after the game. "He had no right to bar us from participating in a post-season exhibition game. We think that our action was for the best interests of baseball."

Toronto Defeats St. Marys, 11 To 5

Senior O.A.L.A. Champions Too Strong for Intermediate Title Holders

SCARBORO BEACH, Oct. 15.—Those who thought that Riversides would make a light lunch of St. Marys were right. They won the first of the home and home games by a score of 11 to 5 this afternoon. The weighty Riversides team simply crushed their light opponents by heavy pounding and then had it all their own way. The Riversides had the ball most of the time and looked good for a dozen more if they had needed them. The teams:

The lineup of the teams:—

St. Marys—Goal, Stephens; point, Yates; cover point, Albert; 1st defence, Wilson; 2nd defence, Hetchek; 3rd defence, Teur; center, Stricker; 3rd home, L. Lavelle; 2nd home, Smith; 1st home, Cowan; outside home, W. Lavelle; inside home, Newman; spares, Sinclair and Wilson.

Riversides—Goal, Sutherland; point, Core; cover point, E. Sullivan; 1st defence, McLean; 2nd defence, Chandler; 3rd defence, O'Rouke; center, Bennett; 3rd home McGregor; 2nd home, J. Sullivan; 1st home, Keith; outside home, Starling; inside home, Littlefair; spares, Robertson and Mulroy.

ST. MARY'S THREATEN.

The fast St. Mary's home surprised everybody, who thought that the Riversides would walk away from them. They kept the opposing defence in trouble all the time, but their own defence lacked cohesion. The Riversides home got through a number of times because they were not covered with sufficient care. St. Mary's got their goals in quick succession when Riversides were playing two men short.

First quarter score—Riversides 3, St. Mary's 2.

SECOND QUARTER.

A whole lot of deliberate dirty work on the part of Chandler, who was determined to slow up the fast St. Mary's home, featured this period. He should have received several penalties before Kinder finally called him. The heavy tatics of the Riversides did stop the visitors, who became much less aggressive. They could not score, even when three of the choppers were off. Riversides got two by combination, and St. Mary's beat Sutherland with a long shot.

Second quarter score—Riversides 5, St. Mary's 3.

THIRD QUARTER.

The Riversides had thoroughly subdued the St. Mary's home by the hammering administered to them and the next period was all Toronto. The goals came in regular rotation and St. Mary's were staying well out in the field instead of trying the sparkling attacks of the early period. The only time that St. Mary's got through they scored.

Third quarter score—Riversides 8, St. Mary's 4.

FOURTH QUARTER.

The Riversides started in to rub it in and were down around the St. Mary's goal all the time. It was merely a question of the size of the score. The ball seldom travelled past half way, although Billy Lavelle did put in another by a rush down the field. Game over. Riversides 11. St. Mary's 5.

George T. Brown Retains Rolph Cup And Club Title

Veteran Golfer Wins in Final From F. Gordon on Saturday

George T. Brown sucessfully defended the Rolph cup, emblematic of the club championship, by defeating F. Gordon at the London Hunt and Country Club links on Saturday afternoon.

A large gallery witnessed the final match, which commenced shortly after 2 o'clock. Mr. Brown played a more superior game and finished four up with three to go.

The Rolph cup games were commenced in the early part of September, and many of London's leading golfers were entered. The tourney was conducted on the elimination plan, and Mr. Brown and Mr. Gordon were successful in defeating all their opponents in the preliminaries.

The final of the Rolph cup series marked the closing of the tournaments at the London Hunt and Country Club. Friendly matches, however, will be continued as long as weather conditions are favorable.

Miss Joe Belton and Mrs. Mabel Spry will meet in the final for the president's trophy this afternoon at the Kennel links.

Blue Nose Wins Fisherman's Race

Agreed That Lunenburg Vessel Is Fast Boat and Best for Race With Elsie

HALIFAX, Oct. 16.—The Lunenburg schooner Blue Nose, Captain Angus Walters, built as a challenger for the international fishermen's trophy, won by the Gloucester schooner Esperanto last year, from the design of W. J. Roue, prominent Halifax yachtsman, showed her heels yesterday to the best that Nova Scotia could offer in the first race of the series to decide the championship of the Canadian Atlantic fleet.

The Shelburne-built schooner Canadia, Captain Joseph Conrad, was upwards of four minutes astern at the finish line, while the Alcalia trailed the winner by upwards of seven minutes.

The Delewana, winner of last year's Nova Scotia elimination series, followed closely in fourth position, while the rest of the entrants, made up of the Independence Donald Cook, Uda Corkum and J. Duffy, finished in the order named. To-morrow a second race will be held and on the basis of the showing made by the various schooners in the two races a selection will be made of the challenger for the international race.

To-night Halifax was agreed that the Blue Nose is a fast boat and that she will stand a lot of beating from the Gloucesterman, Elsie.

W.O.R. WINS RIFLE MATCH WITH R.C.R.

A rifle match between the W. O. R. and R. C. R. teams was held at the Cove ranges on Saturday afternoon, and was a keenly contested affair. The match was staged over the 200, 300 and 500-yard ranges, with seven shots at each range and one convertible sighter. At 200 yards honors were about equally divided, with the W. O. R. slightly in the lead by four points. At the longer ranges, however, the W. O. R. riflemen demonstrated superior marksmanship, and eventually won the match by 56 points.

For the winners, Pte. C. W. Morgan made the remarkable score of 97 out of a possible 105 points, 14 of his shots being bulls-eyes. Sergt. O'Connor was high man for the R. C. R., with the fine score of 94 points. Complete scores were as follows:

W.O.R. FOOTBALL TEAM BEATS G.T.R.

The Western Ontario Regiment football team defeated the Grand Trunk eleven by the score of 1 to 0 in the first round of the McCutcheon cup series, played at Carling Heights on Saturday afternoon.

The result was a great surprise to the Grand Trunk followers. The W. O. R. deserved its victory, as the whole team played good football.

The winning goal was scored by Taylor in the second half of the game on a combination play by the entire forward line.

By defeating the Grand Trunk the Western Ontario Regiment quaified to meet the R. C. R. in the semi-finals.

ELIMINATE RANGERS.

GALT, Oct. 15.—Kitchener Rangers, who have been tied with the G. A. A. A. team in the race for Mac and Casey cup, received an unexpected setback here on Saturday, when they were decisively trimmed by Galt's second team, Craigie Leas Independents 5 to 1. The Rangers defeated the same team a week ago in Kitchener, 6 to 1.

St. Kitts Pair Retain Doubles Championship

L. H. Hara and Dr. Currey Win Challenge Event From Capt. Fenton and J. G. Boucher at Country Club Courts

Capt. Fenton and J. G. Boucher, of this city, were defeated by Messrs. L. D. Hara and Dr. Currey, of St. Catharines, in the challenge match for the Duffield trophies and the men's doubles tennis championship of Western Ontario. By defeating the Londoners the St. Catharines players retain the cups for another year.

The games were played on the grass courts at the London Hunt and Country Club on Saturday afternoon and the courts were in fine shape. The weather was ideal for a match of this kind and the St. Catharines men put forth every possible effort in order to carry away the honors.

The visitors won the first match by the score of 6 to 3 and lost the next, 3 to 6. The third set was won by Hara and Currey by the score of 6 to 3, and Boucher and Fenton won the fourth, 6 to 2. The Londoners fell three games short on the deciding set, which finished 6 to 3.

Five matches were played in the ladies' singles and the final will be staged on Tuesday. The mixed doubles final will be played to-day. Miss Spence and Taggart will meet Miss McKenzie and Ferguson, and Miss McFarlane and Walker will oppose Miss McCausland and Willan.

In the ladies' singles Miss Boughner won from Miss Gillespie, 6-2 6-2.

Miss Wooley defeated Miss McLean, 6-0, 6-4.

Miss McFarlane won from Miss Fiddall, 6-0, 6-2.

Miss Millar won from Mrs. Balders, 6-4, 6-4.

Miss Miller defeated Miss Spence, 6-4, 6-4.

Hillcrests Trim Guelph Leafs

Toronto Senior Baseball Finalists Defeat Home Team 16 to 5

GUELPH, Oct. 16.—The Guelph Maple Leafs, senior amateur baseball champions of Western Ontario, and aspirants for the Ontario title, suffered their worst defeat of the season this afternoon when in the first of home-and-home games O.B.A.A. finals, they were trounced by the Hilcrests, of Toronto, by a count of 16 to 5. "Cannon Ball" Ed Scott, the giant ball artist, who performed on the mound for the visitors, gave a remarkable exhibition of twirling his shots proving a puzzle to the Leafs.

A mamoth four clout by C. Irwin, of the Hillcrests, in the fifth inning and spectacular one-hand stabs of line drives by Lindsay and Little, Guelph infielders, featured the contest. The return game will be played in Toronto on Wednesday. Score.

St. Brigids Win From Torontos

Ottawa Twelve Revenged for Their Defeat at Hands of Parkdale

OTTAWA, Oct. 16.—St. Brigids, of Ottawa, revenged their defeat at the hands of the Parkdale paddlers two weeks ago when they defeated the Toronto R. A. A. here on Saturday at Lansdowne Park in an Ontario Rugby Football Union fixture by a score of 22 to 7.

For three periods the Torontos held their own and although outscored were in the game all the time and were at all times dangerous. In the fourth period, however, the local Irishmen attained the zenith of their play and ran wild through the defense of their opponents. Charlie Connell, well-known all-around athlete of the locals, seemed irresistible in attack, while the booting of Touhey forced Torontos on the defensive, and the all-around play of Joe Miller, the other half, left nothing to be desired.

LOUISVILLE DEFEATS BALTIMORE ORIOLES

BALTIMORE, Oct. 16.—Louisville forged to the front in its post-season brush with Baltimore when it came through victorious this afternoon to the tune of 7 to 6 in a game that was replete with thrills almost from start to finish. As it now stands Louisville has four victories to its credit with the Orioles chalking up three. Louisville now needs but one more game to wind up the series while the Orioles must take two in order to win.

The largest crowd of the series, either here or in Louisville, was on hand. The official attendance was 12,545, and the receipts $16,084.35. Score:

Baltimore	001	000	500—	6	10	1
Louisville	001	501	000—	7	12	0

Ogden, Thomas, Frank and Styles; Wright, Cullop, Tincup and Meyer, Kocher.

VARSITY BEATS AGGIES.

GUELPH, Oct. 15.—O. A. C. lost the opening game in the Intercollegiate Intermediate League at the college campus this afternoon to Varsity by the close score of 8 to 7. The Aggies led for three-quarters of the game and had Varsity 6 to 1 at half time. The university team came strong in the final half, however, and won out by one point.

As a curtain-raiser to the intermediate game O. A. C. second game played a junior intercollegiate fixture with McMaster, and the Aggies were beaten 7 to 1.

MANHATTANS WANT JUNIOR HOCKEYISTS AT Y. TOMORROW

The Manhattan Club will hold a meeting of all junior players and persons interested in junior hockey at the Y. M. C. A. building to-morrow evening at 7.45 o'clock.

The object of the meeting is to discuss plans for the coming season and prepare for pre-season training. The Manhattans have entered a team in the junior O. H. A. series, and, according to the executive members, will endeavor to provide fast hockey.

All players who are eligible to play junior hockey this coming winter will be welcomed, and Tommy Munro, coach of the Manhattan juniors; Goldie Prodger and other hockey men will be present. It is planned to commence preseason training as soon as possible.

London Collegiate Plays Wednesday

Will Meet Woodstock Collegiate in Oxford-Middlesex Union Fixture

The London Collegiate rugby players will play their second game in the Oxford and Middlesex Rugby Union on Wednesday afternoon, when they will meet Woodstock Collegiate squad at Tecumseh Park.

Coach A. T. Taylor will be out with his players to-night for a heavy practice and to-morrow afternoon the L. C. I. boys will rehearse their signals.

It is expected that the team will be switched somewhat for the next game and although St. Thomas trimmed the Londoners in an exhibition match the Collegiate students are not downhearted, but confident of winning from Woodstock.

George Sessions, who had his knee dislocated two weeks ago, is recovering and will be out with the team on Wednesday.

Tigers And Argos Win In Big Four

Hamilton Noses Out Ottawa in Last Period and Toronto Swamps Montreal

BIG FOUR STANDING.

	W.	L.	For	Agst.
Toronto	3	0	109	9
Ottawa	2	1	41	25
Hamilton	1	2	24	43
Montreal	0	3	10	102

TORONTO, Oct. 15. — Argos had no difficulty in remaining at the top of the Interprovincial standing this afternoon when they took the weak Montreal team into camp by the score of 42 to 0—two points more than they secured in the game last Saturday, and Montreal's total of the day being diminished by five points. The Scullers were far superior and did not by and means give the best exhibition that they could have, had they been pressed. Only once during the entire game did Montreal have possession in the Argonauts' territory, that being in the third quarter, when they advanced over thirty yards on three downs, but lost the advantage when Mills tackled Conacher before he caught the ball. Argos' fast following up and hard tackling played a big part in the one-sided score as the Montreal halves showed some hesitation to take the kicks and were frequently laid out in the tackles. Several of the Scullers' touches came as a result of fumbles by the Montreal backs. There was no particular outstanding star for the Argos, all the players used in the game going good work. The backs played good football all through. At times there were sloppy passes, but toward the end the halves and linemen combined and made many snappy dashes.

Close Call for Tigers

HAMILTON, Oct. 16.—Tigers broke into the victory column for the first time since the interprovincial rugby football season opened, when they defeated Ottawa here yesterday by a score of 15 to 13 in a game which was marked by a great deal of loose play, and which saw the majority of the points on both sides scored more through flukes than by good play. The day was ideal for football, the field being hard and fast, and the breeze not strong enough greatly to favor the team playing with it. The back division saved the day for the Tigers, for on the line the visitors had a margin which was very marked at times, but McKelvey, Crocker and Elford regained by runs, all the ground that the Ottawas gained through their line-plunging ability.

It was one of those listless games which failed to get a cheer from the large crowd present until the last quarter, when the score was very close and the loose manner in which both teams were playing left the result in doubt.

Joe Smith and Tubman did some good work behind the Ottawa line, but they failed to show anything in the way of individual or combined runs that the Tiger halves did.

Wallaeau, at quarter, shared the honors of the visitors' spotlight with "Big" Baker, whose plunges tore holes in the Tiger line time after time.

Galt Wins Close Game Of Rugby

Defeats St Jerome's College by 10 to 8 inn Intermediate O.R.F.U. Fixture

KITCHENER, Oct. 16.—Galt intermediates defeated St. Jerome's College, of this city, in a league fixture on Saturday afternoon, 10 to 8. Scott, of the visitors, was the outstanding figure of the afternoon. St. Jerome's tallied first with a try in the first five minutes. Galt tying it up three minutes later and adding another point before the period closed. The Irishmen again took the lead in the second quarter by adding two points. In the third each team scored a point, and in the final quarter Galt came from behind and by a whirlwind finish added three points. The teams were:

St. Jerome's—Brick, flying wing; Harrington, r. h.; Soullere, c. h.; Ryan, l. h.; Patrilack, snap; Farrell quarter; Furlong, r. i.; Breen, l. i.; Wingle, r. m.; McBride, l. m.; Vanstone, r. o.; Sweeney, l. o.; subs, Montague, Sloan, Finnecane, Canay and Brunck.

Galt—Gaston, flying wing; Kinsman, r. h.; Todd c. h.; Barker, l. h.; Shuttleworth, snap; Ketchie, quarter; Webster, r. i.; Tomlinson, l. i.; Hilker r. m.; Clare, l. m.; Goldie, r. o.; Scott, l. o.

Referee—Duckland. Umpire—Hamilton.

HOLD-UP MEN GET $2,600

MONTREAL, Oct. 14. — Three bandits held up H. A. Letourneau, well known in Montreal racing circles, and robbed him of money and jewels to the amount of $2,600 in the entrance of the Excelsior Apartments, 2160 Park avenue, on Thursday night. The men, who got clear away after the robbery, are thought to be race track followers who got to know Mr. Letourneau around the local tracks.

MANY THRILLS IN MOTOR CYCLE RACES

O'Donnell, Canadian Champion, Takes Two Out of Three Professional Events; G. Davis Wins Mile Bike Race and W. Simpson Two Mile

Arnold O'Donnell, Toronto champion motor cycle rider of Canada, won two of the three professional races at the motor cycle meet held at Queen's Park on Saturday afternoon. O'Donnell was nosed out of the 10-mile race by Wilfred Dalimore, also of Toronto, who finished a few feet ahead of the star. When finishing the last lap O'Donnell crashed into the fence, but escaped injuries by jumping from his machine.

Nearly 1,000 spectators were present at the races and were pleased with the showing made by the gas bike artists, and also by the bicycle riders.

Edward Friend, Toronto, won the honors in the amateur motor cycle class, finishing first twice and second an equal number of times.

MANY THRILLS.

The riders provided numerous thrills, as there was a tight finish in nearly every race. The local riders were among the winners, as Clements finished third three times and Hay figured in the second and third money.

R. Hart, Chatham, won the half-mile bicycle race for boys under 14 years. This race was keenly contested and the entry was large.

G. Davies was awarded the city championship by winning the one-mile race. Walter Simpson took the lead at the start and held it until the last lap had been nearly finished, when Davies jumped in front to win out.

Walter Simpson won the two-mile open bicycle race, making this distance in 5 minutes and 26 seconds. The results:

MOTOR CYCLE RACES (PROFESSIONAL).

St. Michael's College Wins From Western University

Intercollegiate Fixture Goes to Visiting Team Here on Saturday by 15 to 1

St. Michael's College team, Toronto, proved vastly superior to Western University's twelve in the first Intercollegiate match of the season in the intermediate series at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon, when it romped off with 15-to-1 victory. The period scores were 7-0, 1-0, 8-0, 0-0.

Quite a large number of fans witnessed the hopelessness of the Western squad, who apparently lacked the sort of condition and drilling that made the superiority of the St. Mikes so noticeable. Western's aggressiveness consisted mostly of line plunging, which proved practically futile in most instances, except on perhaps three or four occasions when they made their yards. Long, wide passes were seldom attempted despite the fact that the longest run of the afternoon was earned in this manner when Traynor passed to Cline in the third quarter for a 40-yard sprint. They failed to take advantage of more of this sort of attack. Western made the mistake of trying to plunge across the St. Mike goal line with the score 7 to 0 against at start of the second period, instead of trying an end run. Had Western crossed the line at this stage of the game with but a yard to go the ultimate outcome might have easily been altered.

LEBEL ST. MIKES STAR

St. Mikes line proved the holding kind of sturdy athlete, but their chief asset turned up in little Le Bel, the tiny center halfback. Le Bel scored two touchdowns and then converted both himself in addition to gaining most of the ground for the St. Mikes. He proved a most artful sort of dodger and though he does not weigh much more than 150 usually pranced through the Western tacklers, leaving them strewn all over the ground in his wake. Western tried every means to stop him and threw everything they had at him, accepting only the water bucket. But their efforts were for naught. St. Mikes seemed quite capable in stopping most of the Western attackers, with more or less ease and it looked as though Western wore handies for that purpose on their togs. Cline's sweater was nearly torn off him whenever he tried to gain ground, but the garment, with its yarn stretched like elastic, eventually brought him to earth.

The contest was no pink tea affair. Several mix-ups occurred and the officials had a stream of athletes going back and forth from penalties while numerous delays were occasioned by injuries.

FIRST PERIOD

Play was confined to the midfield while an exchange of punts opened the first quarter. Cline brought through for a short gain, followed by St. Mikes gaining their yards on a plunge. On the third down McKeon punted beautifully and a fumble by Cline gave St. Mikes possession of the ball with but half a yard to go. An end run by LeBel broke the scoreless contest in a few moments. He converted it and the score stood 6 to 0. LeBel ran the kick-off by Traynor, but a forward lost the ball for the visitors. Cline then missed a high pass from Traynor and St. Mikes again secured possession. McKeon kicked to Cline behind the line and after several attempts to pick up the ball failed, Cline kicked it into an auto for St. Mike's seventh point. After play resumed Western gained 25 yards and in addition to St. Mikes been penalized put Western near St. Mike's line. The period ended St. Mikes 7, Western 0.

SECOND PERIOD

Westen had the ball 10 yards from the scoring zone when a fumble by Former put them within two yards of the St. Mikes goal. Three bucks lost them the ball. Play proceeded and Western never got another chance as game soon found the St. Mikes staging a progressive and effective lot of football 20 yards from Western's line. Traynor returned a kick, saving a point, but McKeon returned it a moment later, Dillon getting Traynor for a point on a rouge. Just before the period ended Cline, with one boot off, ran for a 30-yard gain.

Western had St. Mikes on their 15-yard line after the kick-off. But St. Mikes fought them back into their territory, only to have Cline tear off his long 40-yard run. Traynor then gave Western its lone point on a deadline kick. LeBel rambled through everybody for 30 yards and a series of plunges found Western tackling to better davantage. LeBel ran out a punt from Traynor, dodging beautifully and saving a rouge. St. Mikes then gained much ground by basket ball tactics and McKeon's punt to Cline and his pass to Traynor found the latter downed for St. Mike's ninth point. St. Mikes held Western in their end and a fine run by LeBel through a broken field gave St. Mikes another touchdown, which LeBel also converted for their last points. Traynor was carried off after stopping three St. Mikes just before the period ended with the count, St. Mikes 15, Western 1.

LAST PERIOD LAGS

Cline's sweater was noticeably adopted for hanging on, in the last period, like the straps in a crowded street car. The last 15 minutes of play was broken up by many stops as the stalwarts were visibly winded. Western had St. Mikes on their own yard line, but shifty generalship of Le Bel soon kept the Toronto Collegians from any difficulty.

The teams:

St. Michael's College: Ford, flying wing; McKeon, Le Bel and Former, halves; Brown, quarter; Dore, center; Lynch, Hitchcox, insides; Caron, Burt, middles; Dillon, McKeon, outsides; spares, Mahon and Kennedy.

Western University: Heard, flying wing; Lindsay, Cline and Traynor, halves; McMahon, quarter; Callaghan, center; Fisher, Farrott, insides; Cowley, Sifton, middles; Dundas, Dingle, outsides; Willams, Lewis, Simpson spares.

Referee, A. Brown, Hamilton Tigers. Umpire: G. Little, London.

MANY MEDALS FOR LONDON MARKSMEN

September was another good month for competition in the Winchester Junior Rifle Corps matches. Ten hundred and ninety-three boys and girls won medals during the month, of which seven were instructors. Nine won expert medals, 122 won sharpshooters' medals, 116 won the "possible" bars, 316 won marksmen medals, and 523 won pro-marksmen medals. This makes a total of 12,312 medals that have been won by boys and girls this year.

The Winchester Junior Rifle Corps now has a membership of more than 100,000 boys and girls under the age of 18. Under capable instructors these boys and girls are taught the value of outdoor life, and this instruction is of untold value to them in later years. Among the winners were:

R. Buch, 732 Elias street, London.
R. Vichalls, 638 Levord street, London.
Louis Nye, 889 Lorne avenue, London.
T. Russell, 717 Central avenue, London.
J. G. Dey, 554 Adelaide street, London.
L. Fitzgerald, 707 Elias street, London.
W Begg, 800 King street, London.
Charles Adams, 367 Ontario street, London.
A. Robert, R. R. No. 4, London.
B. Nichells, 367 Ontario street, London.
I. MacMilbin, 367 Ontario street, London.
D. McKlim, 232 Forsythe street, Sarnia.
L. Yorke, 624 Princess avenue, London.
D. Chapman, 268 Piccadilly street, London.

MAY DIE OF STAB WOUNDS.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—Basil Dale, aged 28, of this city, was probably fatally injured on Saturday night when he was stabbed several times in the abdomen by an unknown assailant. The man was found lying in a lane and was removed to the Western Hospital, where his recovery is regarded as doubtful. From eyewitnesses the police learned that a man and a woman fled hurriedly from the lane immediately after the stabbing affair.

THROUGH SPORTS LENS

St. Michaels rugby team gave the Western "U" a real trimming at Tecumseh Park on Saturday. The Londoners were not in condition and did not make the brainy plays which the visitors worked throughout the contest.

Label, center half, and Ford, flywing for St. Michaels, were here last season with St. Mikes rubgy team. If these two lads were among the Western "U" rank and file the London squad would look much stronger.

Arnold O'Donnell, Toronto, who rode in the 10-mile motor cycle race at the fair grounds on Saturday, had a narrow escape from being injured when he crashed into the fence at the finish. O'Donnell was game and made the sharp turns without fear.

Wilfred Dallimore, who also hails from the Queen City, made 10 miles in 12 minutes and 5 seconds. Wilfred was loosing no time.

Ladel, who was the star player on St. Mikes team on Saturday, is a former Sarnia lad. Ford comes from Hamilton, and Kennedy and Bart are Stratford boys.

Alderman George Wenige will conduct another motor cycle meet in London before many weeks. The meet on Saturday was sort of a "feeler" to find out how the London sport followers would support the speeders.

The Alerts have decided to enter an intermediate and junior team in the O. H. A. this winter. If this is the case, London will have two junior aggregations, as the Manhattans filed their application with Secretary William Hewitt, of the O. H. A., some weeks ago.

Woodstock College rugby players have given explanation for not putting in an appearance on Friday afternoon to play the London Rugby Union fixture. At the last minute the conveyance in which the Woodstock boys were to go to London failed them and they were stranded. The game has been forfeited.

Buster Reid Takes Over Western Squad To-Day

Returns To London After Coaching McGill Graduates—Workout At Park This Afternoon

At a meeting of the members of the Western University rugby team held on Saturday night it was decided to place the team in charge of Lieut.-Col. Eric ("Buster") Reid.

"Buster" Reid has been in Montreal the past week coaching the McGill graduates who played the undergraduates. He returned to London to-day and will be out with the team for a workout this afternoon.

Toronto Varsity will play Western University here on Saturday next and efforts will be made to have the team strengthened by this date.

The Western rugby players will be out for practice every day this week and it is expected that Reid will have many new plays to teach the Londoners, having seen the big four teams perform.

The Western players, although defeated by St. Michaels, are not downhearted, but believe that their coach will pull them out of the rut and that they will have a team on the gridiron within the next week which will be able to compete against the other intermediate interscholastic squads.

LADIES' BASKET BALL LEAGUE ORGANIZES

At the annual meeting of the London Ladies' Basket Ball League the following officers were elected:

Honorary president, Mayor E. S. Little; president, Tearsa Mohan; vice-president, Marjorie Alford; secretary, Queenie Harris; treasurer, Birdie Spettigue; business manager, Billie Graves; reporter, Rose Collins; advisory board, Carrie M. Blackwell and Edna M. Holland, former president and business manager.

E. V. Buchanan, of the Public Utilities Board, announced that the East End Community Hall will be ready for games this week and it is expected that it will be utilized every night in the week.

The Shamrocks, champions of the Ontario League, have decided to withdraw from the City League to allow other teams a better opportunity of winning the Mayor Little trophy.

R. P. DAY HIGH GUN AT SPRINGWOOD CLUB

The Springwood Gun Club held a weekly shoot on Saturday afternoon. The weather was ideal and some good scores made. R. P. Day turned in the high score, breaking 48 out of 50. Following is the result of a 50-bird event:

R. P. Day	25	23	48

A DAY'S NEWS OF BRUCE AND HURON

TO MAKE MONUMENT COMMUNITY MEMORIAL

PAISLEY, Oct. 16.—Paisley soldiers' memorial committee held a meeting at which it was decided to defer completion oof the soldiers' monument out of deference to the desire of the people of the surrounding country to have the names of fallen soldiers whose homes had been near Paisley inscribed on the monument along with the Paisley list. As there are no names yet carved on the monument already ordered and partially finished it is not too late to make it a community monument instead of a strictly Paisley one. At the meeting S. F. Ballahey tendered his resignation as chairman to allow the reeve to take the position, the funds of the committee now being in the hands of the municipality. The resignation was accepted and Reeve Forrester assumed the duties.

GIRLS AT WALKERTON CHOOSE NEW OFFICERS

WALKERTON, Oct. 16.—The Walkerton branch of the Canadian Girls in Training held their annual organization meeting on Friday, the following officers being chosen for the coming year: Leaders, Mrs. Rowand and Mrs. Hibbert; first vice-president, Clara Kerney; second vice-president, Kathleen Pye; secretary, Janet Kenny; treasurer, Vera Anderson; supervisor of class "A" intermediate girls, Miss E. Nesbitt; leaders, Mildred Royce and Gladys McCarter; supervisor of class "B" intermediate girls, Mrs. (Rev.) Burgess; leaders, Marguerite Bell and Ella Aitken.

SUCCESSFUL SUPPER.

EXETER, Oct. 16.—A most successful fowl supper was held in the Dome Rink on Friday under the auspices of the Trivitt Memorial Church. There was a very large attendance and the proceeds amounted to about $325. The Girls' Auxiliary of the Trivitt Memorial Church has undertaken the distribution and sale of red poppies on Armistice Day.

SEAFORTH RESIDENT DEAD.

SEAFORTH, Oct. 16. — The death occurred, after a protracted illness, at his residence on Chalk street, of John J. Hurley, who had been an esteemed resident of the town for five years. Deceased was a member of the St. James Roman Catholic Church. He is survived by a widow.

LADY MACDONALD'S WILL.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The estate of Lady Macdonald, widow of Sir John A. Macdonald, Canadian premier, has been probated. She left property in the United Kingdom amounting to £412.

MILL AND WHEAT PREY TO FLAMES

Loss To Dresden Firm Estimated At $75,000.

DRESDEN, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press)—The Lawrence & Wakefield flour mill, with 10,000 bushels of wheat in the elevator, was completely destroyed by fire, which broke out about 2 o'clock this morning. The loss amounts to $75,000. It is well covered by insurance. The origin of the fire has not yet been determined.

The flames, which were first noticed near the front of the second story, gained such headway that by the time the firemen arrived the whole interior of the building was a seething furnace. Residents, roused by the stir which was created, turned out and willingly helped the fire-fighters. Great tongues of fire shot skywards and set at naught the efforts directed to bring them under control.

POWER INTERRUPTED.

Confusion was heightened when the town's lighting system gave out. Hydro wires running into the mill were burned off. As a result the street lights were interrupted and the pump at the station, which forces water into the tank and aids in cases of fire, ceased operating. It was half an hour before the auxiliary gas engine could be brought into service, and in the meantime the work of fighting the fire was hampered.

The whole effect was spectacular. By the aid of the glare from the burning mill and the rays of the moon the workers continued as best they could. Three streams of water were poured into the structure, but the work of destruction continued. With but little warning one of the side walls of the three-story brick building collapsed with a terrific crash. Fortunately none of the firemen or citizens were near enough to be caught by the falling material.

CLOSED AT MIDNIGHT.

The mill had been running night and day, and only at midnight on Saturday had closed down for Sunday. When the workmen left everything appeared to be in order. One theory advanced to-day is that an overheated bearing on one of the machines caused the fire, and there are some who say that the cause was a cigarette butt.

DEWART SAID TO HAVE RESIGNED LEADERSHIP

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press.)—It is understood here tonight that H. Hartley Dewart, member of the Legislature for Southwest Toronto, has resigned the leadership of the Liberal party in Ontario. Mr. Dewart, it is believed, came to a definite decision in the matter as a result of pressure, to which he has been subjected for some time, and his action is not exactly a surprise. About a week ago the announcement was made here, apparently not without authority, that Mr. Dewart would quit the leadership almost at once.

Members of the Liberal executive of the province are to meet in this city on Wednesday, and it is understood the most important item of business will be consideration of the question of leadership. In this connection it is noted that the West Lambton Liberals are to nominate a candidate for the federal House on Tuesday. Fred Pardee, late M. P., who has been prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Dewart, definitely states that he will stand for re-election in West Lambton if he is chosen in convention. He has not made a statement in connection with the provincial leadership.

In resigning the party leadership Mr. Dewart does not quit the ranks of the Liberals and has no intention of resigning his seat.

LOOKS FOR CROP FROM AN OCTOBER SOWING

CLANDEBOYE, Oct. 16.—E Bice is conducting an experiment that will be watched with much interest by the farmers here. He planted fall wheat on a piece of corn stubble during the first week in October. The mild weather makes him hopeful of a crop.

A newly hatched tomato Sphinx moth, perfect in size and coloring, was found in a local potatoe patch when the tubers were being picked up.

DR. REID NAMED BY BRANT N. L. C.

St. George Man Placed In Field Against W. C. Good.

PARIS, Ont., Oct. 15.—(By Staff Reporter).—Backed by the Liberal-Conservatives of Brant, as well as a large following of the farmers of the county, Dr. W. H. Reid, of St. George, will oppose William Good, Agrarian candidate, in the federal election. His unanimous selection as standard-bearer was the feature of a spirited meeting in the town hall here to-day, and his victory on December 6 was predicted by many speakers, including J. E. Brethour, of Burford, one of the leading live stock dealers of the Dominion, and F. Stewart Scott, late M. P. for South Waterloo.

"The Agrarian party is a great party," said Mr. Brethour, "but from the motive of selfishness it is endeavoring to tear down, disrupt and break up the Government of the country. As a farmer and as a citizen of the country I know that this party is not loyal to the citizenship of Canada, and places personal advantage ahead of the interests of the country at large. What we need to-day is men with broader viewpoints who will work for Canada first, last and always, and not for class alone.

U. F. O. FOR FREE TRADE.

"In Toronto I heard the U. F. O. leaders advocating free trade, and I became convinced from the expression of their views that they don't care for the country as a whole, but wish only to foster their personal wants," continued Mr. Brethour. "Compare their view with that of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, who has stood by his guns through thick and thin, and is never of one opinion today and a different one to-morrow. He is supported by men of high caliber, all of whom are out for Canada first. It is noticeable that all parties are beginning to climb on the tariff platform, and stand out, like the Union Government, against narrow party lines."

A fair and equitable tariff was among the principles enunciated by Dr. Reid in allowing his name to stand. The industries of Canada need to be protected by the tariff wall while the country was confronted with a great peril in the class rule which was being threatened. All classes, he said, should have a voice in the Government and know how the money which they pay in taxes is spent.

"A protective tariff is absolutely necessary for progress and for economical security," said the doctor. "If too high it is, of course, bad for business, but a fair and equitable tariff is needed to protect the industries of Canada from the encroachment of other countries, where labor is cheap, markets are larger and capital is greater. The Germans have the advantage of cheap labor, while the manufacturers in the States by the expedient of specialization are able to develop big markets and ruin smaller businesses such as established in Canada. It is not necessary to put the wall higher than the cost of the commodity, plus a fair profit, but a fair tariff is essential if we are to protect our industries."

The candidate stated that class government was against all Anglo-Saxon ideals and that it was not tolerated in Great Britain, Australia nor New Zealand, but was permitted in Poland, Russia and similar countries. It was pointed out that the Polacks now have 18 classes, each striving for a say in the Government and where no one of them had the nationalistic viewpoint. Class partyism was a peril to this country that should be killed. The U. F. O. was a good movement, but it sounded its death knell when it entered politics, as it granted selfish privileges.

"The fact that Billy Good, one of the chief whips of the farmer organization, is the candidate whom we shall fight in this riding, need not debar us from success," said Dr. Reid in conclusion. I have no doubt that we shall win the greater part of the Liberal party and, with the support of the farmers, that we shall be victorious."

This view was shared by Mr. Brethour, who pointed out that the candidate had the interests of the farmers at heart.

Stewart Scott, late M. P., in an able manner pointed out the necessity for the Meighen administration being sustained by the country. After defending the Government's policy in taking over the railways he predicted that it would yet be a financial success. In urging the protection of the tariff he pointed out that Canada stood to lose the 600 branches of American firms established in this country because of the tariff if free trade prevailed.

METHODISM READY FOR ACTION ON UNION

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A plea for intimate and sympathetic consideration of the question of church union, untrammeled by pre-established ideas, is expressed in the resolution passed by the general conference of the Methodist Church. This resolution expresses the conviction of an influential committee of the Methodist Church toward the "Lambeth appeal" of the Church of England and indicates that so far as Methodism is concerned the way is open for definite action toward a more inclusive union than that now pending between the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregationalist churches.

LAD ACCIDENTALLY SHOT HUNTING NEAR LISTOWEL

LISTOWEL, Oct. 16.—Tragedy stalked into the midst of a throng of merry, laughing, care-free school boys at Atwood, about five miles from this town, on Saturday afternoon, when by the accidental discharge of a shotgun, John Thompson, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, was almost instantly killed.

Medical aid was at once summoned, but the lad died about half an hour later, without regaining consciousness. Dr. Weir, of Atwood, coroner for the district, after investigating the accident, decided that the tragic end to the lad's afternoon of fun was purely accidental and that it was not necessary to hold an inquest.

GERMAN MARKS NEAR HALF CENT IN VALUE

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—German marks, continuing to make new low records, were approaching ½c each in value to-day. Preliminary quotations varied from .54c to .55c. The week-end decline was perhaps the largest of any recent change in the mark's quotations, Saturday's closing price being 0.6628c.

CHURCH UNION IS NOT FOR BAPTISTS

Individuality Would Be Lost, Says Rev. W. T. Graham

SPEAKS AT ST. THOMAS

In Connection With the Ontario-Quebec Convention

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 16.—(By Staff Reporter).—That the mission of the Baptists is to bring home to every man and woman his or her individual responsibility to God, and that this alone represented the true spirit of Christ as shown in the New Testament, was the statement of Rev. W. T. Graham, of Toronto, at Center Street Baptist Church this morning, in the course of a stirring sermon to delegates in attendance at the 33rd annual convention of the Ontario-Quebec Baptists.

The speaker in a striking manner compared the Baptist religion and beliefs with those of other denominations, and declared that under existing conditions the people of the Baptist church would not be able to adopt church union. It was impossible on the face of it, he said, for if church union came into existence Baptists, through the individuality of their religious belief, would find it absolutely necessary to go out and form a church of their own, and the Baptists would again make their appearance.

The subject chosen by Rev. Dr. Graham for his convention sermon was: "The Baptist Position From the Viewpoint of the Baptistry."

NO SACRED ORNAMENTS.

In opening, he stated that Baptists were not sacramentorous. They did not believe in any sacred ornaments, neither did they believe in the possibility of transmitting God's blessing by physical ordinance. The Roman Catholic, he said, believed that his priest had the key to the realms of peace, and only those to whom they opened the door by expensive masses, could be permitted to enter. They could also follow them into the world to come with their influences, and cause their spirits to be sent on into purgatory. They could be extricated therefrom only by the masses, prayers and amount of money available from their relatives. The idea of the Baptist was entirely opposite to this. Every man or woman, whether immmersed at baptism or not, who accepted the Lord Jesus, could be saved.

Referring to creeds and confessions, the speaker declared that the Baptist had a creed based on the New Testament, but it was not binding on anybody. The ordinance of baptism was very important. It had been said that it was only a matter of water, but Christ gave the ordinance of baptism for a purpose. There were no sponsors, no godmothers, the man or woman, in baptism, to the Baptist church, took the entire responsibility on his own shoulders. This indicated individuality. One of the elements that had brought the downfall of Rome and Greece was the omission to consider individuals. It was Jesus Christ who placed such a great value on individuality.

DEPEND ON MANHOOD.

Some of the Saviour's greatest statements had been spoken to individuals, and likewise the mission of the Baptist church was to bring home to man and woman, his or her personal and individual responsibility to God. Every being came to the Baptist church on his or her own confession, and was introduced to Christ on his or her own faith and regeneration.

Another consideration was manhood and womanhood. A church did not depend on its financial standing or large congregation so much as its manhood and womanhood. In the same way a nation depended on its manhood. If individuality could only be brought into the affairs of Canada to a greater extent, the speaker declared, it would soon become one of the greatest nations in the world.

There were those who would undermine the faith, who would say: "You have a dead Christ." It has been said, and rightly too, that the death of Christ was perhaps the greatest doctrine in the New Testament. This was a symbol, just as the resurrection. His people were saved by his death and not by His teachings. He undertook to expiate the sins of all the world on the cross at Calvary.

Symbols were, said the speaker, an expression of thought. All thoughts were expressed by symbols, even to letter writing.

SOME CRITICISM.

The speaker referred briefly to the Roman Catholic doctrine and beliefs. He denounced the placing of a wafer on the tongue of a dying person while the priest drank the wine. He did not want it said that he was saying unpleasant things about any religion, he was merely demonstrating the great difference between two great beliefs, he said.

The Baptistry stood for many things, but it specialized on individuality. That was one of the reasons why the church had always opposed teaching of religion in the schools. The state, they held, was not qualified to teach religion, but, apart from that, what religion would they teach? As a Baptist it would not be possible to impose the Baptist faith, and it would not be possible for a Baptist on the other hand to suggest any other belief.

This afternoon addresses were delivered by Prof. Frederick Tracy, of Toronto, and Rev. G. W. McDaniel, of Richmond, Va. The latter also preached at to-night's service. The church was packed on each occasion.

DEVOTIONAL SERVICE.

To-morrow afternoon will open with a devotional service, after which new pastors will be introduced. Then will come the first business session of the convention.

Rev. J. Carr, of Brantford, will also give an address in the afternoon. In the evening Rev. J. R. Turnbull will conduct a devotional service, after which the report of the executive committee will be presented. The president will give his annual address.

Rev. T. T. Shields, of Toronto, is expected here to-morrow afternoon.

ALDERMAN MITCHELL SUBMITS RESIGNATION

Sequel to Failure of Charges Brought Against Police Chief Thompson.

WINDSOR, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Following his failure to prove charges of irregularities against Chief of Police Daniel Thompson, at a hearing before the Windsor Police Commission, when serious aspersions were cast upon his character and record by R. L. Brackin, K.C., who defended the chief, Ald. F. J. Mitchell placed his resignation from the City Council in the hands of the city clerk this morning. It will be submitted to the Council at its next meeting, October 24, and if accepted, William Wheeler, runner-up in the January elections, will be appointed to the aldermanic board.

In announcing its decision the police commission unanimously agreed that not only had Ald. Mitchell failed to prove his charges against the chief of police, but that they were absolutely disproved.

CRERAR WILL ISSUE MANIFESTO TO-DAY

Begins Ontario Tour Planned By U. F. O.; Drury and Morrison to Speak.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—The heavy artillery of both the Government and the Progressive forces will be turned loose in Ontario this week. Premier Meighen opens a two weeks' campaign with meetings in Spencerville and Brockville on Tuesday, and Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, will fire the opening shot of his Eastern tour at Brampton tomorrow night.

Mr. Crerar, who arrived from the West to-day, will, in his Ontario tour, carry out a program prepared by the U. F. O. and either Premier Drury, of Ontario, or Secretary J. J. Morrison, of the U. F. O., is likely to speak from the same platform with the leader at all the meetings. Both Mr. Drury and Mr. Morrison will be on the platform at the opening meeting at Brampton.

Before leaving Winnipeg the agrarian leader had prepared his manifesto to the electors and this will be issued to the public to-morrow. It will deal with the outstanding issues now before the country as the Progressives view them.

In a brief statement of his policy, when interviewed on his arrival today, Mr. Crerar said the Progressive platform was opposed to the principle of protection, as it operated to make the rich richer and the poor poorer. The real purpose of the Progressive movement was to lessen the cost of living and make life easier for the many.

COL. C. W. BELTON RETIRED TO PENSION

HUNTERS MISSING MAY BE DROWNED

Upturned Canoe Found Near Farquier, on C.N.R.

SEEN LAST ON TUESDAY

Victor Geyssons and Eric Douglas Believed Lost

COCHRANE, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Two hunters, Victor Geyssons and Eric Douglas Nicholson, are missing and are believed to have been drowned in Groundhog River, about 40 miles west of Cochrane. An upturned canoe was found two miles up from Fauquier, on the C. N. R., with paddles and rifles missing. It is believed the canoe upset in the rapids five miles up the river from Fauquier, and drifted down to the spot where found.

The last seen of the hunters was on Tuesday last, when they called at Fauquier to pick up Oliver Hagen, of Ottawa. Hagen arrived after they had started the return trip to the camp, about 18 miles up the river. Hagen went to the camp on Thursday after the empty canoe was found, but no trace of the hunters was found. He brought word to Cochrane on Saturday. Geyssons is an old country Frenchman, residing at Gloucester street, Ottawa. Nicholson is from Shelburne County, Nova Scotia. Both are about 25 years old. They left Fauquier on October 9 on a fortnight's hunting trip and made camp up the river.

BOTHWELL LAD OF TEN WEDS, POLICE INFORMED

CHATHAM, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press.)—W. J. McMaster, of Bothwell, has reported to the county police that his 10-year-old son has left home and has married a girl by the name of Gertie Bowerman. He stated that the two went on Thursday to Thamesville, where his son swore that he was 18 years of age. They have been living together in Wallaceburg at the home of the bride. The police will investigate the case.

REFERRED BACK TO CANADA

BRANTFORD, Oct. 16.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The British Government has referred to the Canadian Government the petition of the Six Nations Indians in regard to their treaty and other rights within the reserve here. Secretary A. R. Hill, of the Six Nations Council, has received through the department of Indian affairs notice that this action had been taken.

DEMONSTRATION OF LONDON IRISH

Belfast Men Tell of Expulsion From Shipyards

CASUALTIES AT BELFAST

Tyrone Farmer Carried Off by Armed Men

LONDON, Oct. 16.—There was an Irish demonstration this afternoon in Trafalgar Square, organized by a deputation of workers expelled last year from the Belfast shipyards. None of the Sinn Fein leaders were present. The speakers alleged that 2,000 Protestants were forced by Orangemen to quit work and that none of them had been reemployed.

Next Sunday the Irish of London will hold a demonstration in Trafalgar Square on the anniversary of the death on hunger strike of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork.

FARMER KIDNAPPED.

BELFAST, Oct. 16.—Patrick Shields, a farmer in Castleburg, County Tyrone, was seized by four armed men last week during the night prior to the hearing of a civil action in which he was plaintiff. He was carried off blindfolded and detained for several days and then liberated. It is alleged that he had refused to submit his case for action to a "republican court," desiring to have the case tried before the regularly established courts.

FIRING IN BELFAST.

BELFAST, Oct. 16.—There was a burst of firing in the North Queen street area last night, a man and a girl being wounded. Later a bomb was thrown, two policemen narrowly escaping injury. The body of a man found on the Lagan River bank is believed to be that of a victim of a hold-up gang.

DE VALERA APPROVES.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — Eamonn De Valera, the Irish republican leader, who daily receives a long report by courier of the proceedings of the negotiations between the members of the British Cabinet and the Sinn Fein representatives in London, has expressed his approval of their course thus far.

Both at the Irish office and Sinn Fein headquarters here it was said to-day that the serious problems of the conference had not yet been reached. Only the preliminaries and the alleged breaches of the truce have been discussed, it was stated.

CRAIG TO PARTICIPATE.

BELFAST, Oct. 15.—Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, in an address here to-day dealing with the Irish conference in progress in London, and with Ulster's position regarding it made remarks which were regarded as a strong intimation that he expects to participate in the peace negotiations.

WILHELM "FIRES" CHIEF GARDENER, TAKES OVER JOB

DOORN, Holland, Oct. 15.—(Associated Press Cable)—The slump in the German mark is beginning to affect the former German emperor, who is endeavoring to combat the prevailing unfavorable financial condition by reducing his household and taking other radical measures to economize. To-day 10 members of his staff were dismissed, including the chief gardener, whose place has been taken by William himself.

Gardening now has become a hobby with the former emperor, who appears to have tired of sawing and chopping wood.

BELLEY EXPECTS 30 VICTORIES IN QUEBEC

Predicts That Harping on Issue of Conscription Will Not Help Liberals.

QUEBEC, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—At the Conservative convention held at Levis last night, Gedeon Gravet, lumber merchant, of St. Romanald d'Etchemin, was unanimously chosen as Conservative standard bearer for Levis County.

Following the convention there was a meeting held in the drill hall at Levis, which was addressed by Hon. L. G. Belley, postmaster-general. Hon. L. P. Normand, president of the Privy Council, and others.

Hon. Mr. Belley predicted the defeat of the Liberal party and the election of 30 Conservative candidates in the Province of Quebec. He said that the Liberals were riding the hobby-horse of conscription and expected to maintain the Quebec "bloc" by harping on that issue for which they were as responsible as was Sir Robert Borden, for they had all voted against the Barette motion and had unanimously voted the subsidies to put conscription into effect.

G. T. R. MUST ERECT BRIDGE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 15.—By a judgment of the railway commission, issued today, the application of the City of Hamilton for an order to compel the Grand Trunk Railway to erect a bridge over the "Y" at Burlington Heights has been approved. The railway company will be responsible for the cost of the bridge and the City of Hamilton will meet the cost of whatever surfacing may be required.

NAME COCKSHUTT FOR BRANTFORD

Tariff Is Vital To City's Industries, Says Nominee.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press)—Although there were many complimentary nominations, W. F. Cockshutt, late M. P., was unanimously chosen last evening by the Liberal-Conservatives, of Brantford riding, as their standard-bearer again in the coming federal elections.

Mr. Cockshutt was first nominated 35 years ago, and six times had previously received the nomination of the Conservative party. Since 1911 he has continuously represented this riding, and previously had served one term by his defeat of C. B. Heyd. The nomination gathering was one of the largest ever held by the local Conservative party, a feature being the presence of a large number of ladies, the delegates from the wards and rural subdivisions being equally divided between the men and the women.

W. F. Cockshutt expressed the hope that for the good of Canada there would be no group government, and that the two-party system would be retained as best under the British Parliamentary system. With regard to the rumors that Mr. Raymond, Liberal candidate, would lose his pension because of his retirement to enter the political field, he had written to Ottawa, stating that he felt that Mr. Raymond should receive whatever pension was due him, and that his candidature should not affect his position.

VITAY TO BRANTFORD.

He dwelt largely in his following remarks on the question of tariff, which was the vital one so far as Brantford was concerned. For over 40 years Canada has had a protective policy, and he traced the growth of local industries under that policy. Brantford had more to lose than any other city in Canada if free trade were adopted, for grass would grow in the streets. The Meighen Government alone stood for protection, and they should not be beguiled while the platforms of the other parties called for free trade. The tariff on agricultural implements was down to bone, and lower than it was under the late Laurier Government. He did not call for high tariffs, but he did believe in protection sufficient to give the home manufacturer a fair control of the home market.

FIFTEEN FACTORIES KILLED.

"The London Advertiser has cited the local binder twine factory, a plant of which Brantford was very proud, as the result of free trade. If anyone asks about that, ask them where the other 16 binder twine companies, which are dead now, but which were in existence before twine was put on the free list. The local existed in spite of free trade, but all other Canadian plants have been killed."

The free trade policy meant the factories shut down and the farmers could be the losers. It was no time to lower the tariff when the United States had just shut out $2,000,000,000 of Canadian farm products from the United States markets. But the farmers of the West for 15 years had been calling for free trade in spite of the fact that eight per cent. of Canada's farm products were consumed by the home market. They did not care if the cities were shut down so long as they pulled down the tariff bills.

GRANTS STATED CASE.

HAMILTON, Oct. 15. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—Chief Justice Mulock to-day granted a stated case on behalf of Wilfrid Meharg, the young man convicted of murdering Dr. Whitworth, of Binbrook. Counsel for the defense raised a number of points, which will be argued before the Appellate Court.

ARREST LAST OF GANG.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—With the arrest on Saturday night of Michael McMahon, of this city, the police claim to have the last of a gang of four who are alleged to have netted thousands of dollars in various towns and cities throughout the province by passing worthless army pay checks. McMahon is held on a charge of fraud. His three alleged confederates are all serving sentences ranging from two to five years in the penitentiary.

TROUBLE IN BELFAST.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Messages from Belfast continue to report desultory firing in the streets. An official communique reports two minor affairs to-day and a Protestant was wounded. Order was restored by the arrival of the crown forces, the communique adds. A number of threatening letters have been served on Protestants, giving them 48 hours to quit their homes or be bombed.

You Need More Than A Laxative

To correct constipation, all organs of digestion and elimination should be helped. Try NR and see how much better you feel.

NR Today—Keeps the Doctor Away

To live and be healthy, your body mechanism must properly digest your food, extract all the nourishment from it and promptly throw off the waste that is left. This is accomplished by the processes of digestion, assimilation and elimination—the work of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

The failure of any of the vital organs to do its work properly affects the action of all the others. A forced bowel movement does not help constipation; it only relieves for a few hours the condition that constipation brings about.

Now if you are used to taking so-called laxative pills, oil, purges and the like, you know mighty well you've got to be taking them all the time. Moreover, if you stick to any one laxative, you've got to be increasing the dose all the time. That can do you a lot of harm.

Stop dosing yourself with such things just long enough to give Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) a trial, and let the results show the difference. NR Tablets are not mere bowel movers, their purpose is to correct the condition that induces constipation and give you real, genuine, lasting benefit; to improve your digestion and assimilation, give you a good hearty appetite, regulate your liver and bowels, tone up kidney action and give your poison-clogged body a good cleaning out.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is not harsh; it is mild, easy, pleasant in action; no griping or pain ever follows its use; but it is thorough and sure. By its action on the digestive organs it promotes assimilation, which means extraction of full nourishment from your food and thereby gives you new strength, energy, better blood, better appetite. By toning, not stirring your lazy liver, NR sends bile into the intestines, improving intestinal digestion. Lastly, by gently encouraging more vigorous bowel and kidney action, NR drives poisonous impurities out of and cleans up your body.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and just see how much better you feel in every way. Get a 25c box today and take one each night for a week. You'll say you never felt better in your life. NR is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(Wall street, 10.30 a. m.)—Latest phases of the railway situation provoked heavy selling and concurrent weakness in the stock market at the outset of to-day's trading. Within the first 15 minutes prominent railroad shares sustained losses of one to two points and some others suffered greater declines. Losses of one to three points were registered by oils, Mexican Petroleum excepted, and equipments, steels, coppers and food specialties were lower by 1 to 1½ points. Transcontinentals and grangers bore the brunt of the movement against.

1.30 p. m.—Call money broke to four per cent. as a result of further large gold arrivals and the heavy liquidation in stocks. Speculative pressure, however, was unrelieved in the stock market, with the oils and equipments extending their forenoon losses decidedly.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—C. P. R. continued to sag on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning. After opening at 121, a full point below Saturday's close, it fell to 120, in fairly active dealings, but rallied to 120½ at the close. The strike call issued in the United States is the cause attributed for the weakness of C. P. R. here. Trading was exceedingly quiet throughout the remainder of the list, with prices of Victory bonds unchanged.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — There was a bearish influence on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, several of the leaders suffering a decline. Holly reached its lowest figure for a considerable period when it closed at 738 on a small block and McIntyre was steady. Dome Mines was also on the down grade and closed at noon at 1940. The other leaders were absent. Kirkland Lake came back at 35 and Gold Reef showed to 2¼ with sale of 21,000 shares. Total sales were 44,360.

LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—Cattle receipts, 4,100. The receipts of cattle for sale are fairly light, but in addition there are nearly 800 cattle in the yard from the West billed to one of the packers. All packers have received Western cattle over the week-end. Trade opened a little slow but prices looking about steady. Good heavy steers are scarce and up till noon there was no export buying. Best butcher cattle are selling at 5¾c to 6¼c. Stocker and feeder buying has not yet started. Milch cows and springers are a little draggy.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 17.—Material setbacks in the price of wheat took place to-day owing, more or less, to threatened general strike of railroad employees. A new low record for German marks tended also to depress wheat values, inasmuch as imports for German millers would perhaps be thereby further restricted. In addition uncertainty continued as to what might be shown by the United States Government report on farm reserves. Opening quotations, which varied from ½c to 2½c lower, were followed by slight supplemental losses and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. After opening ½c to ¼c lower the corn market continued to sag.

Oats started a shade to ¼c to ¼c off and then dropped a little more.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift provisions.

voting was concerned. Chairman Ald. W. A. Wilson declared the resolution had a sufficient majority to carry.

WANT 85 CENTS.

In stating the object of calling the special meeting, Chairman Wilson pointed out that he had written to the two gas companies concerned and to Referee Henderson in an effort to have the question straightened out. Replies from these parties were read by City Clerk Baker.

The Progressive Oil and Gas Company stated that if the Council would pass a resolution agreeing to pay 85 cents for the gas everything possible would be done to insure the city getting the product of the wells on the Saul property. Secretary Snively, in the communication, pointed out that other negotiations are under way but London would get the gas if it agreed to the above rate, unless another agreement is entered into for the sale of the gas elsewhere before the City Council takes action. Passing reference is made to Ald. W. A. Wilson in the letter, and the secretary also intimates that the reports concerning the quantity of the gas in the field at Crumlin, which have been carried in the press at different times, are in the hands of legal advisers now for consideration.

PRAISE FOR W. A. WILSON

Referring to Ald. Wilson, the writer of the letter states: "Mr. Wilson, it is really too bad that the ratepayers of your city do not know the splendid work done by you in trying to get this matter closed for to get them cheaper fuel. If they did, I know in December next municipal elections you would head the polls, just what you are entitled to."

The City Gas Company emphatically stated that the only hope the city has in securing 65 cent natural gas is to induce the Progressive Gas & Oil Company to lower its price from 50 to 30 cents for the product at the city limits. The city company will not reduce its distribution charge of 35 cents.

"Chairman Wilson wanted to close the contract at 85 cents. It would be too bad to lose the gas entirely, he thought.

"Ald. Watt objected that this price is too high. It was the general opinion that the city company is standing in its own light by refusing to lower the charge for distributing the gas.

DOUBTS OF QUANTITY

Philip Pocock argued the city should not object to paying this price for pure natural gas when other municipalities are charged 75 and 85 cents per thousand for sulphur gas. The pure gas, which London can get, is worth more than the other. The 85 cent rate would be a fair one even for a two-year period, he held.

Ald. Watt queried how Gas Referee Henderson arrived at his conclusion that there would be a loss of 250,000 feet between the wells and the city.

"I do not want to knock the Progressive Gas & Oil Company, but I have very grave doubts whether there is any great quantity of gas there," replied Mr. Pocock. "I do not want to say too much about it, but I am convinced that the field is not at all too promising."

Mr. Pocock further pointed out that the city is taking no risk in this matter at all. If the gas is not there the citizens will not be at a loss because they are not asked to pay any of the cost of piping the product to the city.

Ald. Harley, who is not a member of the committee, objected that the City Gas Company is asking more than the recognized third of the entire cost of gas for distributing the product. He pointed out that in accord with the usual practice of unwritten law the distribution should only cost 25 cents a thousand when the price of gas at the city limits is 50 cents.

REVENUE OF $122,000

Mr. Pocock agreed that the 35-cent charge seems high.

Mayor Little argued that under this higher rate the city company will have a revenue of only $122,500 for distribution of 1,000,000 feet daily. If the city secures 500,000 feet of the natural product the company's distribution revenue will fall below this $122,000 mark, said the mayor. According to Manager Buchanan, of the Utilities Commission, the company should have approximately $125,000 to cover its distribution costs.

There was considerable discussion with reference to whether the City Gas Company would care to accept the short-term offer. It was pointed out that both companies would be under the jurisdiction of the gas referee, and it was questioned whether the city company would care to have its rates adjusted in such a short period.

It was pointed out by Mr. Buchanan that the company should have no fear of the gas referee if, as it claims, the costs for distribution cannot be lowered.

The committee finally decided that the whole question should go to the Council to-night with the recommendation that an agreement be made at 85 cents until next May.

RULE REV. SHIELDS CONTROVERSY OUT

Resolution Passed By Talbot Street Church.

ONLY CREATE DISCORD

President Moore Will Make Decision Known Tuesday.

Acting on the advice contained in a resolution passed by the Talbot Street Baptist Church, it is probable that the Shields' controversy will be ruled out of order at the Baptist convention for Ontario and Quebec. This belief is strengthened by the fact that the convention has no jurisdiction over the local church and any discussion over the matter would perhaps be thereby further restricted. In addition uncertainty continued as to what might be shown by the United States Government report on farm reserves. Opening quotations, which varied from ½c to 2½c lower, were followed by slight supplemental losses and then something of a reaction.

Corn and oats were easier with wheat. After opening ½c to ¼c lower the corn market continued to sag.

Oats started a shade to ¼c to ¼c off and then dropped a little more.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to lift provisions.

The congregation of Talbot Street Church yesterday passed the following resolution, which was forwarded to the different pastors of local churches in outside cities: "We unanimously resolve that the Jarvis Street controversy be not introduced at the annual convention." The telegram added: "If agreeable, instruct delegates and notify neighboring churches."

WANT COITROVERSY ENDED.

It is known that Dr. W. T. Shields, the principal figure in the controversy, intends to bring the matter up at the convention and that if he does the secessionists from his church, who oppose his policy, will bring to light their side of the case. Dr. Shields, who is pastor of Jarvis Street Church, Toronto, has been embroiled in a continual feud with a large section of his parishioners who do not share his doctrinal views.

London is particularly interested in the controversy because Dr. Shields was once pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church and is, accordingly, well known to a large number of citizens. This is one of the reasons for the resolution passed by the Talbot Street Church, who believe that as no good can be done by arguing the matter, the least said about it at the convention the better.

One of the main arguments in favor of precluding any discussion on the question is that since the local churches are independent the reopening of the controversy would only make for discord and leave less time for the discussion of matters more important to the delegates who have come hundreds of miles to the convention. President S. J. Moore will probably make known his stand on the matter to-day or to-morrow.

ANNUAL W. C. T. U. CONVENTION HERE

Consider Plans For Rigid Enforcement of Liquor Laws.

PROVINCIAL BRANCH

Conference To-Morrow Will Be Largest Ever Held.

The bringing of pressure to bear on the Provincial and Dominion Governments with regard to a more rigid enforcement of existing prohibition laws will be one of the chief concerns of the provincial convention of the W. C. T. U., which meets in London to-morrow. Resolutions have already been prepared calling for the abolition of federal liquor exportation permits and the carrying of Ontario physicians' recommendations, that permits be limited to eight ounces.

Prominent local officials of the W. C. T. U., in interview granted to-day, pointed out that the laxity of the laws governing the export of liquors, particularly to the United States, is causing a situation of considerable gravity, which may lead eventually to serious trouble with the neighboring republic. "They are literally a permission to Canadian citizens to violate the laws of a friendly nation," Mrs. May R. Thornley stated to-day.

The W. C. T. U. resolutions committee, which will make a report to probably the largest gathering of temperance advocates ever held in London to-morrow, will also demand rigid restriction of the issue of medical liquor permits. At present, the resolution will point out, the law permits the issue of 40-ounce prescriptions, while the United States law permits the issue of 16 ounces only in a 10-day period, and no one physician may issue more than 100 permits in three months.

The convention of the W. C. T. U., to open here to-morrow, will mark the 44th year of the organization's history. It will be largely attended by delegates from all over Ontario, with visitors from neighboring provinces. The convention will be welcomed by local civic and religious organizations.

START REGISTRATION ON MONDAY, OCTOBER 13

No Definite Decision Yet As To What Lists Will Be Used Locally.

Registration of London voters will commence on Monday, October 31, and will continue for six days, it is announced. As yet no definite decision has been reached regarding what lists will be used locally as the basis for the federal lists. But an announcement made by Judge Coatsworth in Toronto to-day to the effect that the lists prepared in 1920 and finally revised by the county judge in December, 1920, together with part three of the list prepared by the municipal clerks this year could be used as the basis for the present registration, is looked upon as an indication that it will not be necessary to prepare an entire new list this time.

ALLEGES TERRIBLE CRUELTY. — Russell Clinton was arrested on Saturday by George Tustin, inspector of the London Humane Society, charged with cruelty to a horse. The inspector alleges that Clinton beat the horse over the head with a blunt hatchet. He will come up on Tuesday morning before Squires Chittick and Robson. He is at present out on bail of $100.

MR HARRY LEWIS VERY ILL.—At Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday the pastor, Rev. John Garbutt, made special mention of the serious illness of Mr. Harry Lewis, who is very low at his home on Queen's avenue. Mr. Lewis has been ill for some months, having taken ill while at Miami, Florida, last winter. Rev. Mr. Jocklin, of the Shantymen's Christian Association, made an appeal at the evening service in aid of his mission. The pastor of the church made reference to the spread of community work throughout the Methodist churches in the city. The musical services of the day were of a special nature and much credit is due to the splendid efforts of choir and soloists. A special violin duet at the evening service was a feature.

NO ECONOMY AT EXPENSE OF VETS

This Is Ultimatum of President Maxwell At G. W. A. Convention.

DISCUSSES UNEMPLOYMENT

Thinks It Will Get Worse Instead of Better.

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—For the fourth time since its formation in Winnipeg in 1917 the annual Dominion convention of the Great War Veterans' Association assembled in the armories here this morning. Unlike previous gatherings of this "Soldiers' Parliament" the delegates, numbering about 250, will be called upon to deal not only with matters of organization and national importance, but also international subjects, among which were included disarmament and co-operation with ex-service men's organizations in other countries.

IMPORTANT PROBLEMS.

Housing, business credits for ex-service men, unemployment and adjustment of exchange on overseas pay are among the subjects on the agenda. The two former, it is claimed, are the only resolutions of 20 adopted at the Toronto convention in 1918 to which the attention of the Federal Government has not been given.

The delegates at this year's convention represent directly or by proxy about 800 branches and approximately 160,000 members.

Registration of delegates, the formal opening of the convention, presentation of the credentials committee's reports and the appointment of standing committees occupied this morning. A civic welcome, introduction of fraternal delegates and the president's address are scheduled for the afternoon, with a civic banquet in the evening.

Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, and Major-General D. M. Hogarth, C. M. G., D. S. O., together with the mayors of the twin cities and local G. W. V. A. officials, will participate in the civic welcome.

PRESIDENTIAL ADDRESS.

In his presidential address, R. B. Maxwell made an appeal to all ex-service men to make a study of the economic system and to discard all antiquated and musty theories. "Do not be afraid to throw overboard everything which you discover to be applicable to the days preceding our present mushroom industrial system, and which are totally inadequate to deal with present and future problems," he urged.

Mr. Maxwell's address throughout was an argument for sane and constitutional progress based on constructive lines. The law of the jungle, he said, must not be permitted to prevail against human thought, the advancement of liberty or the fraternity of nations. "When the real causes of war are laid bare the change from wrong thought to right thought will be made automatically without any revolution save a mental one," he declared. No one was to blame for conditions as they existed to-day. The condition was the fault of an inferior system of distribution, which if persisted in would clog the wheels of industry and progress. Improvements would have to be inaugurated before any real progress could be made. It was not beyond the bonds of human thought to devise logical and practical methods to insure success.

THE HOME SHORTAGE.

Dealing with the shortage of houses, Mr. Maxwell declared that the Dominion Command of the G. W. V. A. had promulgated a scheme which was constructive in every sense of the word. This scheme was practically assured of Parliamentary support, but was impossible of realization owing to the fact that money was not available. If these suggestions had been acceded to the present unemployment peril would have been avoided.

Only one reference to the political situation was made during the address and that was when Mr. Maxwell declared that the G. W. V. A. would strenuously oppose any system of national retrenchment, advocated by any party seeking election, until that party gave sufficient assurances that the retrenchment would not affect pensions or any regulation now in force for the benefit of ex-service men or their dependents.

The unemployment situation, Mr. Maxwell believed, would become worse instead of better. Ex-service men had suffered more from lack of employment than others. Mr. Maxwell had stated in 1917 that the men who reaction until a protest arises instinctively from the people against such reaction. The new political movement in Canada is such a protest, and further is essentially a movement of liberalism—not in the sense of a party name, but in the Liberal and true sense of the word—that seeks to sweep away abuses in government and to provide policies that will meet the needs of the people. It is to all those throughout the broad expanse of Canada who desire to see purity in the government of this country restored, who desire to see public morality supplant public corruption, who desire to sweep away the abuse of the function of government for the advancement of the interest of the privileged few.

"In nothing is the spirit of the Progressive movement more clearly revealed than in the matter of financing election expenses. Legitimate election expenses form a necessary part of the business of electing a new Parliament. It is a fact beyond dispute that in the past campaign funds, running often into millions of dollars, have been provided by the managers of the old parties and distributed amongst constituencies for the purpose of meeting not only legitimate expenses but for use in other ways, corrup and altogether indefensible. These campaign funds have been provided by railway promoters, by manufacturers or by other interests which were actuated, not by any desire whatever for the public welfare, but solely by the sordid hope of getting benefits in the way of legislation and by administrative favoritism from the party they assisted in returning to power. The member of Parliament elected under this system was not a free agent. He was expected to stand by his party through thick and thin.

"I ask you to contrast this sordid spirit, these selfish corrupting influences, with the method followed by those who are taking part in the new political movement in Canada. We are free men and we want a free Parliament, and to that end scores of thousands of voters throughout Canada are providing the funds necessary to carry on the election campaign. This is the business of the people. This is as it should be. I ask all good Canadians who want to see their country prosper, who desire to see decency in public life and public administration, which is the better method? To which will you give your adherence? The prime minister says the tariff is the only issue. The tariff is an issue, a very important issue, but the supreme issue to-day is whether our Government is to be free or fettered, and whether legislation in the future shall be for the few or for the many.

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

"The Progressive movement recognizes that while we need a new moral atmosphere in politics, any Government has to meet vast problems or practical administration. A new Government, then, must bring to its work not only a measure of ideals but, as well, sound practical business judgment, and high administrative capacity. But to the end that we may develop this country wisely and handle our resources in the most efficient way to add to our national wealth, the National Progressives have certain definite constructive policies upon which they invite the judgment of the Canadian people. In this connection we place in the front rank the fiscal and trade policy of this country. In any survey of Canada's position to-day all are agreed that our financial condition is serious. The way ahead looks dark. It becomes then a question of paramount importance how we can best develop the assets of Canada, so as most speedily to get back to solid ground and be relieved of our anxieties.

"For over 40 years we have had a fiscal policy based on the principle of protection. Those who advocate it to-day and would continue it, endeavor to frighten the people by the bogey of evils to follow if it is removed or even in any degree modified. What is the purpose of a protective tariff? The answer is "To exclude foreign goods in order that the home manufacturer may have an advantage in the home market.' It thus interferes with the naturally profitable interchange of goods."

It is a fact, accepted even by the most convinced protectionists, that a nation can only grow rich by trade with the world. It is a well-known truth, also, that trade cannot be one-sided. If we are to sell we must buy; and if, by the operation of high tariffs, trade is made difficult, to that extent is the development of wealth restricted. The effect of the policy of protection in Canada has been to build up a few large cities through manufactures, much of the raw material of which has to be imported into the country. Among the reasons urged in favor of this policy is that the Canadian farmer is prosperous by reason of the home markets thus provided him. But has it done this? The verdict of stern facts is against it. After 40 years of protection in Canada there is no one who knows anything whatever of our economic situation, but realizes this fact—that agriculture was never in so difficult or precarious a position as to-day. It has been said that agriculture is the foundation of our prosperity. Since this is undoubtedly true what is the sense of maintaining a fiscal policy that places handicaps, often severe, on the development of this national and natural industry of Canada. Where does the source of our national wealth lie? It lies in the development of our fertile lands, our forests, our mines and our fisheries. It does not lie in importing raw material and turning it into manufactured goods under high protection.

Our policy, then, is frankly based on the principle of first developing the natural wealth of the country. We would make the tariff burden on the farmer and on the working man as light as possible—not in the sense of any favor to them, but for the reason solely of encouraging the development of our agriculture, our mines and our forests. If we can double or treble the production from these sources in the next 10 years we will save the situation and solve our problems. It follows that if these great natural industries are thriving and prosperous the manufacturing industries will share in the expansion, because all the facts of the case furnish convincing evidence that Canada's prosperity rests not primarily in the creation of large cities, but in the development of a sturdy, industrious and contented agricultural population. To the end that our agricultural resources may be developed in the fullest degree possible, we propose removing the duty from agricultural implements, and also from much of mining and saw mill machinery for the encouragement of these industries. To lessen the cost of living, a substantial reduction in the general tariff should be made, and especially upon those things that come within the category of the necessities of life. Essential foods we shall also place on the free list; and I would invite the attention of the Canadian people to this when our opponents, by misrepresentation accuse the farmers of Canada with seeking only selfish legislation. We believe that in this way the wealth of Canada can best be developed, the area of prosperity can best be enlarged and the general happiness of all the people best promoted.

But our opponents say: "If you do this, where will you get the revenue to run the country?" Let us look at this thing squarely. A tariff that is put on goods for protective purposes is not intended primarily to produce revenue. In other words the tariff can be framed for revenue and not for protection, and thus by wise adjustments and modifications it can still be used to produce a very substantial revenue. In the main, however, as far as our revenues are concerned, we must rely on direct taxation, and the taxes imposed must be levied in accordance with sound principles of taxation. Taxes must be levied on the basis of ability to pay. Under the indirect method of raising revenue, through customs tariff, the man least able to pay very often pays the most.

ECONOMY AND WIDER MARKETS.

Drastic economy in public administration must be introduced and carried through, and no sentiment, public or private, should be permitted to stand in the way of this. In other words, we, as a nation, must do what a private individual who gets into financial difficulties does. We must economize, we must work and we must save. We must shape our public policies to give the greatest encouragement possible to the development of our natural resources, exporting the surplus products of these to other lands who are less favored in this respect than we are. We should make every effort possible for the extension of markets for these products. We are suffering to-day from a short-sighted policy that rejected reciprocity in 1911. I would direct the attention of the Canadian farmer and the attention of the Canadian people who are dependent for their prosperity upon the prosperity of the farmer, to the fact that the same selfish interests that refused the beneficent reciprocity arrangement of 1911, are behind the present Government with all their old vigor and strength.

TRADE WITH UNITED STATES.

Markets for Canadian products must be found, and when we come to a consideration of this without doubt the great country to the south of us comes to mind. It is true that to-day the United States has put restrictions against trade with Canada. It is a mistake to think that this has been done in a spir

SOLDIER NAMED FOR NORTH GREY

Major Rutherford Chosen at Owen Sound Convention

FARMER - LABOR - SOLDIER

Miss McPhail Attacks Both Conservatives and Liberals

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 16. — Major Thomas Rutherford, of Leith, Sydenham Township, was the choice of the convention of the U.F.O.-Labor-Soldier organizations, which was held here on Saturday. There were delegates from almost every polling subdivision in the riding. Major Rutherford won the convention from Donald Palmer, of St. Vincent Township by a vote of 403 to 16. In all there were 15 candidates nominated. All but Major Rutherford and Mr. Palmer withdrew.

The candidate, Major Rutherford, is a returned soldier, having gone overseas with the 147th Grey Battalion and, while in France served with the 4th C. M. R., at present he commands "B" Company in the Grey County Regiment, and is a member of the Widows' Allowance Board for this county. He has been identified with several successful Labor Day celebrations here, and is a member of the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

THESE WITHDREW.

G. A. Bothwell, J. J. Carson, K. D. Carruthers, N. J. Rennie, Ald. J. F. Thompson, J. F. Eaton, D. A. Shore, T. Tuckwood, Dr. Porterfield, Wm. Farmer, J. Tyson, R. R. Elliott and John Adams were nominated, but withdrew. All nominees were given an opportunity to express themselves and, after all but Major Rutherford and Donald Palmer had withdrawn, the ballots were marked.

While these were being counted a resolution of confidence in the Drury Government was passed, and addresses were given by Hon. D. Carmichael.

Major Rutherford thanked the convention for the honor they did him, and asked that all supporters of the party get down to the business of electing the candidate they had chosen. A short address was given by William Varley, a Labor representative, and this was followed by a lengthy speech by South Grey's woman candidate, Miss McPhail, who was an unexpected arrival.

CHILD KILLED BY TRUCK.

TORONTO, Oct. 16.—A four-year-old child, Norma Newton, died yesterday of injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck driven by Fred. G. Holland. Holland was held blameless.

MOTHER OF LONDON PASTOR IS DEAD

Mrs. N. S. McKechnie, Wife of Vice-Principal of Woodstock College, Dies Suddenly.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 16. — Charlotte Haines, wife of Dr. N. S. McKechnie, vice-principal of Woodstock College, died suddenly on Saturday evening. The deceased had been in failing health for some time, but her demise was unexpected. It occurred while her husband was lying at death's door, suffering from the effects of a cerebral hemorrhage, which occurred slightly over a week ago. Dr. McKechnie's condition at the present time is most serious. Mrs. McKechnie was 74 years of age. She was born in Cheltenham, Ontario, but for 41 years had resided with her husband in the city. During all that time Dr. McKechnie has been on the staff of Woodstock College. Mrs. McKechnie was very well known. She was a member of First Baptist Church. She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. R. R. McKay, Sarnia, and Mrs. S. R. Tarr, of Toronto, and two sons, Fred. H., of Montreal and Rev. N. S. McKechnie, of Askin Street Church, London. The funeral will be held here to-morrow and the remains will be taken to Cheltenham for interment on Tuesday morning.

SPECIAL SERVICES AT CHURCHES AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, Oct. 16.—Rev. Prof. Frank Anderson, M.A., of Huron College, London, was the speaker to-day at the special children's day services at St. James' Church. The morning sermon was preached by the curate of St. James, Rev. M. C. Davies, and in the afternoon the London speaker gave an informative address to a mass meeting of children and parents. Prof. Anderson also preached in the evening.

For the annual harvest home thanksgiving services at Trinity Church to-day the preacher was the Rev. J. W. Hibbert, of Essex, president of the London Methodist Conference. Special music and harvest decorations added to the brightness of the services, and on Monday night there will be a thanksgiving supper served.

The Rev. H. A. Kelleman, of Chesley, was the preacher to-day at the Centennial Evangelical Church on the occasion of rally day.

WINDSOR, Oct. 16.—Accidental discharge of a shotgun, due to a kick of his boot, resulted in the amputation of the left arm of Lawrence Laforet, aged 20, Sandwich, at Hotel Dieu yesterday. When the accident occurred the youth and his uncle, Frank Laforet, were en route in a boat to one of the river islands on a shooting expedition.

A. B. M'COIG AS INDEPENDENT LIB.

Named at Convention of Kent Liberals

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Pass No Resolutions of Confidence on King or Dewart

CHATHAM, Oct. 16.—A. B. McColg, late M. P., was selected as the choice of the Liberals of Kent to contest the coming federal election. His was the only name placed in nomination at the convention, held in the I. O. O. F. auditorium yesterday afternoon.

There was a good attendance at the meeting, which was presided over by John A. Walker, K. C. Mr. McColg accepted the nomination provided he would be allowed to run as an Independent Liberal, which permission was granted to him in a resolution passed by the convention.

Others who delivered addresses were F. F. Hinnegan, of Wallaceburg; Mr. Riseborough, of this city, and R. L. Brackin, M. P. P.

The only resolution passed at the convention was the one granting a full measure of independence to Mr. McColg. No resolutions of confidence were passed to W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, nor to Hartley Dewart, Liberal leader in Ontario. J. R. Newkirk the secretary of the association, stated last night that this was an oversight.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

Officers of the association were elected as follows: President, John A. Walker, K. C.; vice-president, F. F. Hinnegan, of Wallaceburg; secretary-treasurer, J. R. Newkirk, of Chatham, and the executive committee, Misses Farquharson, Francis Martin, Jean McDonald, Sayer E. Blue, Mesdames Robert Hornall, James Brady Mead, A. Lamarsh, A. B. McColg and D. A. Gordon, and Messrs. Burk, of Raleigh; Lamarsh, of Wheatley; George Creiger, of Dover; Ed. Odette, of Tilbury Town; Duncan Graham, of Orford; W. E. Galbraith, of Ridgetown; John Peasance, of Chatham; Matt Rankin, of Dover; John Zavitz, of Wallaceburg; R. L. Gosnell, of Blenheim; John Miller, of Blenheim, J. B. Stephens, of Chatham; W. Robertson Romney, Isaac Arnold, Wallaceburg, and Alex. Kehoe, of Chatham.

WEEKLY HIGH COURT

Chief Justice Meredith Disposes of Half Dozen Actions.

Motions for attachment and commitment against persons who had failed to obey court order marked the weekly sitting of the high court, presided over by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith at the courthouse on Saturday morning.

Re Premier Langmuir Mines, Limited: Motion for attachment against certain directors of the mine company for contempt of court in refusing to be sworn and examined, stand one week by consent of parties. S. Weir spoke for all parties.

Re Freda Bover: Motion for declaration that a certain mortgage has been paid off and discharged pursuant to the report made by the local master at London. It appears that the mortgage money was paid to a loan company, who had previously reassigned the mortgage to Freda Bover, and the latter cannot be found. The court held that a sufficient effort to find Freda Bover had not been made; that the report was not full enough and did not show all the facts; that further material was necessary. No order was made. S. Weir appeared for the motion.

Fuller vs. The Thames Quarry Company: Motion to commit to jail for breach of an injunction order regarding the operation of a quarry mill. The matter stands by consent for two weeks. A. Brickenden appeared for the motion and J. M. McEvoy, K. C., for the defendants.

Edison Canadian Company vs. Imperial Bank of Canada: Motion for an injunction. No one spoke to the motion and the court directs that the motion has lapsed.

Spieran vs. Spieran: Order made giving the plaintiff permission to examine the assignee of a mortgage. If the examination is not proceeded with in two weeks the motion is dismissed with costs of the day. W. R. Meredith for the motion; W. M. Sinclair, Brussels, for the assignee of the mortgage in question.

Kennedy and Kennedy: Order made under the Vendors' and Purchasers' Act confirming report of the local master at London which finds that the vendor has a good title to lands in London Township by possession. R. G. Fisher for the vendor and G. Tennent for the purchaser.

Thomas Smith estate: Order made confirming the report of the local master at London, on behalf of the committee of the estate, directing certain repairs to real estate and for maintenance. The parties agreed upon a slight amendment to the report. R. G. Fisher appeared for the motion and W. R. Meredith for the public trustee.

GASOLINE PRICES UP TWO CENTS IN DETROIT

DETROIT, Oct. 16.—(Special to The Free Press)—Gasoline went up two cents a gallon here yesterday. Standard Oil Company officers said the increase had been made to bring the price back to normal, two cuts of one cent each having been made during the last two months.

All refining companies made the two-cent increase, and retail dealers raised the same amount.

The new price is 20.90 cents, and the 235 members of the Retail Gasoline and Accessory Dealers' Association are selling for 21.9 cents.

The price of gasoline locally has increased two cents on the gallon and the predominating price will be 37 cents. Gas stations that have had a large supply on hand have not as yet raised the price, but it will likely be in vogue at every garage and station to-day.

HEALING CREAM STOPS CATARRH

Clogged Air Passages Open At Once —Nostrils Cleared

If your nostrils are clogged and your head stuffed because of catarrh or a cold, get Ely's Cream Balm at any drug store. Apply a little of this pure, antiseptic, germ-destroying cream into your nostrils and let it penetrate through every air passage of your head and membranes. Instant relief.

How good it feels. Your head is clear. Your nostrils are open. You breathe freely. No more hawking or snuffling. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up, choked up and miserable. Relief is sure. —Adv.

BUILD SCHOOL ON LONDON'S PLAN

St. Thomas to Consider Arrangements for Technical Building

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 16.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The question of erecting a technical school here, on the same plan as the one in London, but on a smaller scale, suitable to the needs of St. Thomas, will be thoroughly discussed at a meeting here next Friday night at the city hall. The City Council, members of the Kiwanis Club and other organizations will be invited to attend. Dr. Merchant of Toronto, will address the meeting and outline the plans for the new school.

John A. Wallace, for some time manager of the Dominion Bank's East End branch here, has been transferred to Wingham and will be succeeded here by J. C. Fraser, formerly of London. The change takes effect next week.

A couple of hoboes at the local M. C. R. depot caused some excitement yesterday morning. The officials thought that they were the much-wanted Murrell brothers. Investigation, however, proved this to be entirely wrong. The men were just "bumming" a ride. They were assisted financially and sent on their way.

FRANK K. KNOWLES, OF GUELPH, PASSES AWAY

GUELPH, Oct. 16. — Frank K. Knowles, assistant superintendent of the hardware department of the Taylor-Forbes Company and prominent Guelph lodge man, died at his home here to-night, following a short illness. Mr. Knowles was an officer of Guelph Lodge, A., F. & A. M., Royal Arch Masons, and the Canadian Order of Foresters. He was a native of Galt and is survived by his widow and one son.

CHINAMAN RUNS AMUCK, FELLS COP, IS SHOT

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Sightseers in Chinatown got an extra thrill early to-day when a Chinese ran amuck in Pell street with a cleaver and razor.

Patrolman Blackmore, who attempted to disarm him, was felled by a blow from the cleaver. He shot the infuriated man through the head as the latter advanced branishing his razor. The Chinese, whose name was given as Chang Yee, probably will die. Patrolman Blackmore was saved from serious injury by his shield which defected the cleaver blow aimed at his heart.

Miss Marie Novello, accompanied by the Royal Artillery String Band, at the London Palladium.

Miss MARIE NOVELLO,
The Brilliant Pianiste, writes:

"I consider Phosferine one of my best friends. It is the best cure I know for the weariness and depression which at times overcome all who work in an artistic profession. I find that it is free from the defects of so many things of the same kind which leave one less fit when their immediate effects have worn off. Since I have taken Phosferine, the usual symptoms—Sleeplessness, Neuralgia, loss of appetite, and other troubles that invariably assail an overtaxed system—have been completely removed, and it gives me a reserve of nervous energy that enables me to meet with confidence the most exacting calls upon my strength. I find there is no better protection than Phosferine against those nerve disorders which mar one's appearance. Whenever I have any specially hard work in front of me, I never fail to take a course of Phosferine, as only by its aid am I able to withstand the great nervous strain which my professional work necessarily entails, and it has never failed me."—10, Cecil House, High Street, Marylebone, London, England.

This celebrated and beautiful young pianiste is certain her uninterrupted career of success is due to the great reserve of nerve force assured her by the use of Phosferine. Phosferine ensured all the nervous vitality needed to both withstand the fatigue and strain of her brilliant musical recitals, and also safeguard and enhance those physical charms which give her such exceptional personal distinction.

When you require the Best Tonic Medicine, see that you get

BURIED ON SATURDAY.

SEAFORTH, Oct. 16.—The funeral of William Broadfoot, a well known and respected resident of Tuckersmith Township, who passed away at his home on Friday, at the age of 78 years after a brief illness, took place from his late residence on Saturday to the Harpushey Cemetery. Mr. Broadfoot was engaged in the grain business for a number of years in Clinton, after which he went to reside on his farm in Tuckersmith.

HOME DESTROYED.

ALLENFORD, Oct. 16.—About noon on Thursday fire totally destroyed the home and most of the contents of Mrs. Samuel Currie, of Amabel. Just how the fire originated is uncertain, but it is thought to have been caused by overheated pipes. Part of the furniture was saved, and the loss is only partially covered by insurance.

RIBBONERS ASSERT WHITE SLAVERY IS BECOMING SERIOUS

Provincial W. C. T. U. Convention Advocates Honest Facing of This Problem In Canada.

JAIL PROBLEM NOT SO GREAT SINCE DRY LAWS

Prison and Police Committee Reports—Mrs. Hattie Stevens To Retire As President.

The Ontario Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union, in session in this city to-day for their 44th annual convention, went on record as fully aware of the great and increasing growth of the white slave traffic in this country and strongly advocated a more honest facing of this world problem, through the education of the mothers of Canada to the dangers of the traffic.

With the provincial president, Mrs. Hattie Stevens, of Toronto, in the chair, at St. Andrew's Hall, and an attendance of nearly 400 delegates, marking the opening of the largest convention in the history of the Ontario union, a number of departmental reports were waived in favor of a prolonged discussion on the white slave problem, introduced by the report on the travelers' aid department presented by Dr. Sara Detwiler, of Kitchener, provincial, Dominion nad world superintendent of this department.

Dr. Detwiler pointed out that 68,000 girls had disappeared in the United States during the year 1919, and urged upon the women of the Dominion the necessity for a determined effort to arrest a similar condition growing up in Canada.

SAVES MANY GIRLS.

"Our travelers' aid department, which has given assistance to 41,000 travelers in the province during the past year, has literally snatched some of our girls away from those lepers of society, the purveyors of this traffic," Dr. Detwiler said.

It was pointed out that the rural communities are by no means free from this scourge of modern times.

Mrs. Stevens: "It is the country girls, with their rosy cheeks and their trusting hearts that are the chief prey, either in their own districts or when they reach city life, perhaps for the first time, and it is here that the travelers' aid can help."

Dr. Detwiler: "There are, I know, so-called boarding houses in Toronto that are actually places of prostitution."

The superintendent stated that an appalling number of cases had been brought to her notice of the disappearance of young girls who were never heard of again. "Many of these disappearances take place while the girl is on a journey," she said.

Reporting statistically for her department, Dr. Detwiler told of the various branches of service that the travelers' aid follows, in addition to the actual directing of travelers. Following up, finding missing friends, suitable employment, safe lodging and often in the case of the immigrant, church connection, are included in the work of the department, which is carried on regularly in the leading railway centers of the province.

MORE SUPPORT NEEDED.

A resolution referring the matter of increased and more systematic support of this department to the plan of works committee was the immediate result of the discussion.

A recommendation that some Government remuneration be made to the families of men in prison, to relieve the great privation often experienced under these circumstances, will be brought in later in the week by the resolution committee as a result of the report on prison and police, presented by Mrs. Jones, of Toronto. Mrs. Jones attributed the smallness of her report to the immediate effect of referendum legislation and outlined briefly the evangelistic and social work carried on by the department among the comparatively few prisoners in the county and city prisons.

Mrs. Lean, of Ottawa, founder of the prison reform department and the successful fosterer of much worthwhile legislation in this respect, was also a speaker to this question.

PLEDGE SIGNING.

From the report of the Little White Ribboners, the cradle roll of the union, the superintendent, Mrs. F. L. Thurston, of Hamilton, led a discussion on the value of persuading young parents and particularly prospective mothers to sign the pledge, promising that no alcohol shall be given to their children

Borden Among Official Envoys To Washington

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Official announcement that Canada will be represented at the Washington disarmament conference was contained in a statement by Prime Minister Lloyd George in the House of Commons to-day. The list of British Empire delegates made public by the prime minister contained the name of Sir Robert L. Borden, representing Canada.

CRERAR TO FOLLOW MEIGHEN TO HURON

Andrew Hicks, M. L. A., In Charge of Progressive's Program.

INTERESTING SITUATION

Government Leader Speaks At Goderich On Wednesday.

Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressive party, comes within a day of clashing with Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, leader of the Government forces, in his tour of Western Ontario. The premier speaks at Goderich and Clinton to-morrow, and the following day the Farmers' leader addresses meetings at Seaforth and Wingham. Thus in two days the four towns of Huron County will be visited by national political leaders. Andrew Hicks, M.L.A., for South Huron, and U. F. O. whip in Ontario, announced this morning that while he is in charge of Mr. Crerar's tour of Western Ontario, the only definite dates which he could give were Seaforth and Wingham. The Western leader will speak at Wingham at 2 o'clock and at Seaforth at 8 in the evening.

Mr. Hicks took a train for Toronto this morning. He told a Free Press reporter that he would be more familiar with Mr. Crerar's itinerary on his return to-night.

"Will you be taking the platform yourself, Mr. Hicks?" he was asked.

"I suppose so, with Crerar," he replied.

"After Mr. Crerar's speech at Brampton and the issuance of his manifesto he will hardly have anything startlingly new to say on his tour?"

"Well, I haven't read his manifesto yet," said Mr. Hicks. The U. F. O. whip had no comment to make on the fact that Mr. Crerar appears to-day on the same platform at Simcoe with J. J. Morrison, whose ideas on the existence of a Progressive party hardly jibe with those of the Westerner.

"What Ontario speakers will accompany Mr. Crerar to Huron County?" the reporter asked.

"Premier Drury may go with him. I don't know."

Dates announced a couple of weeks ago schedule Hon. Mr. Crerar for Woodstock to-morrow and Mount Forest on Friday.

STRIVE TO PREVENT RAILWAY WALKOUT

U. S. Labor Board Summons Big Five Chiefs To Conference In Chicago.

UNION MEN POSTPONE PARLEY AT CLEVELAND

Jewell, of A. F. of L., Hopeful That Strike May Yet Be Averted.

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Telegrams summoninig the chiefs of the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union to a conference with the United States Railroad Labor Board in an endeavor to forestall an actual walkout on the United States railroads were dispatched to the labor leaders to-day.

The conference was called for 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon, at the Labor Board headquarters here.

All of the members of the board are in the city, except the public group, which has been in conference with President Harding and the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington. The public members will reach Chicago late to-day.

No outline of what the conference would discuss was announced, but it was said that new proposals would be presented to the labor men in an effort to prevent an actual cessation of work on the roads.

A scheduled meeting at Cleveland today of the "Big Five" transportation brotherhoods was canceled this morning when the five executives were requested by the Railroad Labor Board to meet with the board here on Thursday morning. Warren S. Stone, president of the

C.B.R.E. CHAIRMAN GONE TO CONFER

John E. Chick To Discuss Cut In Railway Men's Pay.

MEET CONCILIATION BOARD

Hear Evidence of Officials and Employees.

John Edward Chick, local chairman of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and member of the grievance committee, left to-day for Montreal, where he will appear before the board of conciliation on behalf of the railwaymen.

Immediately after the 12 per cent. reduction was enforced on Canadian lines, A. R. Mosher, Ottawa, grand president of the C. B. R. E., and other officials requested that a conciliation board be appointed to reconsider the reduction and see if matters could not be readjusted.

A representative was chosen by the railways and also one by the employees. The two conciliation board members have elected their chairman and are now prepared to hear the evidence of the railway officials and employees.

GRIEVANCE COMMITTEE.

Mr. Chick is the sole representative from this section of Ontario. He will be accompanied by Toronto delegates, and A. R. Mosher, Ottawa, will also appear with the other members of the grievance committee.

The Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees has two divisions in this city, and many of the members are of the opinion that the tentative wage reduction placed in effect in Canada was not altogether necessary. Others believe that the decrease in pay could have been directed in a more suitable manner.

The various phases of the wage reduction questions will be discussed by the grievance committee and the conciliation board members.

Minimum Wage Scale For Girls In Factories Set At $8 To $11.50 Per Week

About Fifty Cents a Week Lowe r For Towns and Smaller Cities. Half Dollar More For Girls Who Work In Stores—Scale Will Be Legalized In Few Weeks' Time.

The proposed minimum wage scale for factories in London, Hamilton and Ottawa runs from $8 per week for young inexperienced girls to $11.50 for experienced women. This scale, which will probably become legalized within a short time, is about 50 cents a week lower for smaller cities and 50 cents a week higher for Toronto, it being believed that living costs vary in proportion to the size of the center.

T. W. McFarland, manager of the D. S. Perrin Company, who was a member of the board which decided the scale, explained to The Free Press today that $11.50 was the weekly wage upon which it was decided that a girl could live comfortably if employed in a factory. It was also explained that the lower amounts than this sum are only paid during the apprenticeship period and that after 18 months any girl, no matter what age, was considered an experienced adult and therefore entitled to the $11.50 wage.

"A girl who shows any ability whatever is soon placed on piece work after she comes into a factory," said Mr. McFarland. "There it is possible for her if she displays any industry to make $15 to $20 a week and not be confined to any minimum. They do more work and are therefore entitled to more money. It often happens that girls after six months' experience start in on piece work and earn as much as $15."

SCALE SATISFACTORY.

The general impression among the industries and factories of the city seems to be that the new scale is quite satisfactory. While the wage is 50 cents lower than that set for clerks in stores it is explained that the girls in industries do not need to dress as well as for business. Comparatively few girls are making less than the $11.50 minimum which has been set, it is said.

The orders which have been approved are:

Minimum wage: No experienced female employee of 18 years or over shall be paid less per week than $11.50.

Inexperienced adults: Not less per week than $9.50 for the first six months and $10.50 for the second six months; after this period she shall be considered an experienced employee.

Young girls: Not less, per week, than $8 for the first six months; $9 for the second six months; after which period of 18 months she shall be considered an experienced adult and receive full minimum.

In no case shall any employee of 18 years or over be paid less than the rates fixed for inexperienced adults. At least 80 per cent. of the piece workers in any establishment shall receive wages at above the prescribed rates. No deduction below the minimum wage line for absence shall exceed the value of the time lost, reckoned in proportion to the normal working hours in vogue in the establishment.

LAY PLANS FOR W. U. BUILDING

Board of Governors Take First Steps On Wednesday.

HAVE CLEAR FIELD NOW

One Debenture Issue Only Before Citizens.

Western University board of governors will meet on Wednesday afternoon for what is expected to be an epochal meeting. For with the heads of civic boards withdrawing all requests for votes on debenture issues, thus allowing the university grant a clear field, the governors may decide to take immediate steps towards beginning the construction of new university buildings. And while much preliminary work has been done, it is believed that several months' time has been gained through the Council's action last night in making the university grant the sole debenture issue to come before citizens on December 5.

The governors will also decide on the coming formal opening of the new medical school. Invitations will be extended to distinguished guests, citizens throughout Canada, and other details of the proposed program approved.

It is certain that Western University will hold a special convocation at the time of the medical school's formal opening when honorary degrees will be conferred.

Resolutions of regret at the death of Lady Beck will also be presented to the governors and passed.

HYDRO MAIL CARRIER MURDERED IN NORTH

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 18. — F. B. Benton, a mail carrier for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, at Cameron Falls, was found dead yesterday afternoon in a lonely shack two miles from Cameron Falls. He had been shot through the head. A mail sack was found a short distance away. It had been rifled and the contents were strewn about, but officers of the Hydro state that no valuables were contained in the sack. Benton, it is suspected, was murdered as he was on his way from Hydro to Nipigon on the main line. Benton was formerly a solicitor in London, England, and had given up his practice to come to Canada. He had only been working at Cameron Falls for a short time.

COURT DECLARES DRY LAWS VALID

Gold Seal Case Against Dominion Express Co. Decided.

C. T. A. IS CONSTITUTIONAL

Last-Minute Legislation M Plea In Vain.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—The case of Gold Seal vs. Dominion Express was dismissed by the Supreme Court of Canada to-day, costs to be paid by the Dominion Express Company. This means that prohibition laws brought into force in six of the Canadian provinces under the Canada Temperance Act are held constitutional.

The costs of the appellant throughout, however, are ordered to be paid by the Dominion Express Company.

But for legislation passed toward the end of last session, providing against possible defects in the Canada Temperance Act, the appeal would have been successful, according to prominent legal men here.

In his summary, Justice Duff concurs with the majority judgment of the Appellate Court of Alberta that the prohibition brought into effect by the act of 1919 was not vitiated by reason of the failure of the proclamation to name a specific day of the month on which prohibition should come into force.

Regarding the question as to whether the statute of 1921 is intra vires of Parliament, his lordship says that the act of 1921, with the exception of the provision as to costs, is in form an interpretation of the act of 1919.

Justice Idington, dissenting, holds that each of the referendum pollings taken in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba was void by reason of nonobservance of imperative conditions required by statute to make such voting effective, and that the civil rights acquired ap appellant under such circumstances cannot be taken away by the retrospective enactment of Parliament.

RT. HON. ARTHUR MEIGHEN VISITS LONDON SATURDAY

Right Hon. Arthur Meighen will pay a visit to London on Saturday afternoon, but will probably not see anything of the city except the station platform. He arrives from the east on a Grand Trunk train at 2.15, and will leave again within a few minutes for St. Thomas, either by train or motor car. He speaks in the Railway City in the evening. His plans for Sunday are uncertain, but wherever he is he will enjoy a well-earned rest. His itinerary this week includes Goderich, Clinton Sarnia, Stratford, St. Marys and St. Thomas, with possible impromptu meetings in between.

ATTEND SCHOOL OR BAR ON WORK

Children Under 16 Must Continue Studies If Working In the Daytime.

SUPPORTS OBJECTIVE OF ADOLESCENT ACT

Decision of Board of Education Will Augment Night School Classes.

No child under 16 years of age who has not completed the public school course will be permitted to secure employment without agreeing to become a regular pupil of the night classes maintained by the Board of Education at the London Technical School. This announcement was made by Secretary Tanner, of the board of trustees, to-day. It is also understood that in the fall of 1922, when the adolescent act will be extended to take in young people between the ages of 16 and 18, that no work permits will be issued without the holders of such permits taking evening class work.

The decision made by the Board of Education in the matter is considered of far-reaching importance. It means that the work permit will not be allowed, in London, to negative the provisions of the adolescent school attendance act, and that London children will be compelled to continue their studies, either by day or night school, until they are 18 years of age.

The average of civic intelligence is expected to double within the next 10 years. At present the average intelligence of citizens throughout Ontario is, according to official statisticians, no higher than the fourth book. The London development of the compulsory education laws promises a general advance such as has never been seen in the world before. The Londoner of 1931, it is predicted, will be able to stand any mentality test for classification as being intellectually superior.

There are at present 380 children to whom work or home permits have been issued under the adolescent act. All of these, however, will soon be enrolled in evening classes, and the coming year will see even larger numbers taking night studies in order that they may be permitted to work during the day.

COMPANY WILL NOT USE NATURAL GAS UNLESS TURNED IN MAINS

Three and Half Miles of Pipe Stand Between City and Agreement.

EXPENSE WOULD BE TOO GREAT FOR COMPANY

Unless Aldermen Permit Turning Natural Gas Directly In Lines Deal All Off.

While the City Council has agreed to sign an agreement with the City Gas Company to supply natural gas to London at 85 cents per thousand feet it is not at all likely that this agreement will be completed. It was understood by the special gas committee that the city company would pipe the gas from the city limits to the Horton street plant as part of its contract in the distribution of the gas. But President Colin Duffield to-day denied that his company would undertake any such contract. Thus it is believed that the negotiations will be broken off again, unless the committee and the Council will permit the gas to be turned into the mains at the easterly city limits.

EXPENSE LARGE

"When we made that offer to the special committee we were assured that the gas would be turned into our mains," said Mr. Duffield. "First it was agreed that the gas could be mixed at the city limits, but later the committee decided that the natural product should be carried to the Horton street plant for mixing.

"That will mean the laying of three and a half miles of pipe line in the city," continued Mr. Duffield. "Regardless of the idea of the committee as to who should do this work within the city, you may be sure that the City Gas Company cannot undertake it. If the Progressive Gas & Oil Company is willing to pipe the gas right to our mains we will undertake to distribute it. We will take the gas at any point the other company cares to deliver it, but under no consideration could we pipe it from the city limits to our central plant and then distribute it for 35 cents a thousand feet. It is unreasonable to ask that of us.

MIX AT CITY LIMITS

"I cannot see why the original suggestion of mixing the gas at the city limits cannot be carried out," said Mr. Duffield further. "That was what we based our charge of 35 cents on and that is the best plan for the present, at any rate. Then, at the end of the proposed term we would all have a better knowledge of the whole situation. At any rate, we will not bear the cost of any portion of the pipe line."

Chairman Ald. W. A. Wilson, of the special gas committee, declares that the city company agreed to lay the pipe line from the city limits to the Horton street plant. This is the view held by the committee in general also. But Mayor Little stated to-day that he knew the city company would not undertake this work. He also intimated that the Progressive Gas Company will not deliver the gas to the Horton street works on a short term contract such as was approved by the Council last night.

ADOPT AGREEMENT

A recommendation urging that the Council accept the 85 cent rate was presented by the special gas committee last night and the Council adopted it on a vote of seven to four. Alds. Watkinson, Wenige, Drake and Watt opposed it.

Alds. Harley, Bridge, W. A. Wilson, Childs, Ashton, Boss and Brighton supported it.

The recommendation provided that the contract be made with the City Gas Company to continue until May 25, 1922, and that any revision in the price of artificial gas thereafter by the Legislature be followed by a corresponding change in charges made for the natural product.

Greeks Broke; Must Have Aid To Fight Turks

PARIS, Oct. 18.—The forthcoming visit of Premier Gounaris to Paris and London is taken in influential circles here as a recognition that Greece can no longer carry on the Turkish campaign.

Neither nation under the circumstances is able to contribute to such a scheme, and it is predicted here that Athens will see either a change in Government, with Venizelos replacing the Gounaris element, or the abdication of King Constantine, should Premier Briand refuse financial support.

BANDITS VISIT BANK; GET $3,000

Daylight Hold-Up At College Street Branch, Toronto.

GUNS USED IN ESCAPE

Five Foreigners Made Quick Job and Clean Get-Away.

TORONTO, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Five armed bank bandits, foreigners, held up the branch of the Bank of Hamilton, College and Ossington avenue, just after noon today, robbed the teller's cage of $3,000 in cash and escaped, after a thrilling gun fight, in a high-powered car.

In the bank at the time were E. A. Warren, manager, who was in his office with A. E. Gray, of Rusholme road, a client; Miss V. K. Harris, a young woman teller, on duty; J. C. Owen, on ledgers; Percy Phillips, junior ledger keeper, and Miss Stella Bell, who were eating their lunch in a room in the rear of the banking room.

The bandits made a quick job of it.

Four of them filed singly into the bank. One man pushed open Manager Warren's office door, where he found Mr. Warren sitting with Mr. Grey.

"Arms up, and down on the floor, quick!" ordered the robber, flourishing a gun. Caught off their guard, Mr. Warren and Mr. Grey were forced to lie down on the floor.

MISSED BONDS.

In sight of the robber, on Mr. Warren's desk, were $2,000 in bearer bonds. The robber did not see them and he left them there

While he stood guard over Mr. Warren and Mr. Grey, three other men ran down the front office outside of the railing. One man, coming to the paying cage where Miss Harris was working, pushed a gun through the wicket and ordered her to keep quiet and lie down on the floor. She had no time to reach for her gun in a lower drawer and, with the bandit threatening her life, she lay down. The other two robbers hurdled the railing with amazing speed and climbed over the desks. One ran into the cage and, opening Miss Harris' till, swept up the loose bills and silver, cleaned off the side counter into the cage and brushed the money into a black hand bag. He also took a revolver. The other bandit stood guard over Mr. Owens, who had been working on the ledger and who was also forced to lie down on the floor.

FIRE AT ROBBERS.

At a signal shouted in a foreign tongue the robbers withdrew from the bank. As the bandit who stood over Warren and Grey ran out, Mr. Warren jumped up and opening his desk drawer took out his loaded gun and dashed out of the bank, firing at the robbers as they dashed down Ossington avenue. The bandits did not return the fire.

The robbers had left their motor car standing at a nearby corner with the engine running at top speed. They ran down the street shouting excitedly and giving orders to the driver at the wheel who started the car moving. The men jumped into the automobile as it gathered speed and in a few minutes were racing west at a terrific speed. They turned south running over the sidewalk and lawns, damaging the car and mudguards. They went south to Dundas and west on Dundas street toward Hamilton.

London police received word here early this afternoon of the robbery and are keeping a look-out for a green Hupmobile, in which the men are believed to have escaped. According to the word received by the police the men appeared to all be foreigners and were all wearing caps.

FINED $500 FOR SELLING

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter.) — An Alymer man appeared before Magistrate Hunt last night and was fined $500 and costs for selling liquor contrary to the O. T. A. The information was laid by License Inspector Ross, of St. Thomas. The man made the plea that he was unable to do any kind of work to provide for his wife and family.

WENIGE'S CHARGES NOW IN WRITING

Allegations Hanging Fire For Several Months.

COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE

Eight Typed Pages of Alleged Inefficiency.

Ald. Wenige has at last presented his charges against the engineering department of the city. He claims that "gross inefficiency" in that department is causing the ratepayers a waste of large sums of money annually. The charges were presented to the Council last night, but on the ruling of Mayor Little they were not dealt with. A committee, consisting of Aldermen Bridge, Harley and J. Cameron Wilson from No. 1 committee, and Aldermen Childs, Drake and Ashton from No. 2, was appointed to consider the charges. Ald. Wenige wished to read them to the Council, but the mayor held that this could not be done unless the Council consented on a two-thirds vote. The members of the committee will be presented with copies of the charges, and a meeting will be called

BRYCE SAYS PEOPLE OF U. S. FEAR AGGRESSION BY JAPS, BACKED BY BRITISH TREATY

Note of Uneasiness Over Possibility That Washington Conference May Come To Naught.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The people of the United States are apprehensive of Japanese aggression, says Viscount James Bryce, former British ambassador at Washington, in an article printed in to-day's London Times, in which he reviews the popular United States attitude toward the conference on the limitation of armaments, as he observed it during his recent visit to the United States. He declares the United States people hold the opinion that the Anglo-Japanese treaty encourages Japan to take an aggressive attitude.

Viscount Bryce deprecates the fear of the Japanese and says, among other things, that the Japanese in California are not numerous enough to be a danger, although they are clannish and progressive.

IRRITATION KEPT UP.

"Californians," he goes on, "have the same sort of dislike for them which the rougher part of the wage-earning class everywhere has for strangers who, while competing for work, are dissimilar in habits and aspect. The irritation against the Japanese is assiduously fostered and diffused by the meaner organs of the press and it receives some support from its association with the fear of the so-called yellow races which was encouraged by the former kaiser. Some United States writers have even warned California to beware of a Japanese invasion, although everyone might at this time and day be expected to know what would befall a fleet and army arriving on a hostile coast after a voyage of many thousands of miles, occupying more than three weeks."

The writer says that nine out of ten people in the United States seem to believe Great Britain is the exclusive ally of Japan and that the Anglo-Japanese treaty makes the Tokio Government think it has a free hand to adopt policies of agression upon which it would otherwise fear to embark.

THE WRONG IMPRESSION.

"Explanations do not seem likely to remove this impression from the American mind," he continues, "even when Englishmen point out that their own interests in China are identical with those of America and that Japanese ascendency in Manchuria would be as injurious to Great Britain as to the United States."

The article throughout is appreciative of the United States' popular attitude toward the conference on limitation of armaments, but there is a note of uneasiness over the possibility that the conference will not be able to do all that is expected.

WOODSTOCK TO ADVANCE A CLAIM FOR McMASTER

WOODSTOCK, Ont. 18.—The claims of Woodstock that McMaster University should be established here in case it is decided to remove the institution from Toronto will be placed before the Baptist convention at St. Thomas to-morrow by a representative committee appointed at a mass meeting of local citizens. The whole scheme, based partly on the fact that it was the original intention of Senator McMaster, founder of the university and of those associated with him in the promotion of Baptist educational interests, that the university should be developed in Woodstock. In addition there is the fact that Woodstock is already connected with the college belonging to the denomination, which has sufficient grounds for all the buildings necessary for a complete university.

SEND WIRELESS MESSAGES TO U. S. AND CANADIAN POINTS FREE OF CHARGE

Y. M. C. A. Radio Club Ready For Business On Saturday.

3 Q. R. getting Q. R. V.

These symbols convey little to the average citizen, but to a wireless man it means that the Y. M. C. A. Radio Club is getting ready for business and that next Saturday it will inaugurate a service with hundreds of points in Canada and the States absolutely free of all charge to Londoners.

Expert operators will take any message at their headquarters in the "Y." and send them to their proper destination without one cent of charge to the senders. A list of all the stations in the different parts of the country that can be reached by the local club has been prepared and shows that communication can readily be established with scores of points in Ontario and not an inconsiderable number in other provinces and the States.

Last winter witnessed the inauguration of the local club and saw the affiliation of all the local enthusiasts who had hitherto been conducting separate services of their own. The movement has grown by leaps and bounds since that time and now has a large enrollment of both experienced and inexperienced operators. The latter are being given instruction twice a week and are busily learning the codes and the mysteries of the wireless itself.

REJECT COMMERCIALISM.

It had been at first decided that the hobby should be commercialized and yield substantial profits to the members. This policy has since been rejected and as a result the service will be extended gratis to all citizens who wish to avail themselves of it. Not for some time at least will there be any attempt to charge for the work which the telegraphers are doing.

The aerial has not been utilized during the summer months, but is almost ready for use once more. It is expected that by next Saturday, October 22, it will be in shape to make some preliminary tests and that the following week the service will be in full operation. The club will not only handle traffic to and from London, but act as a relay station for messages for more distant points.

310 STUDENTS IN HEALTH CLASSES

Thirty-One Qualifying For Public Health Positions.

ENROLLMENT DOUBLED

Business Men and Women Form Greatest Number of Class.

Public health classes being conducted as an extension course of Western University now have an enrollment of 310 students, Dr. H. W. Hill, director of the institute, stated to-day. This registration is particularly gratifying to the authorities who inaugurated the course, as the number is double that of a year ago and double the total enrollment of medical students of all years.

Perhaps the most significant fact is that the greater number of students are drawn from the citizens, who are actively engaged in business and are not attending any other school. Only 74 out of the 310 are from the university and the other 236 are men and women who are taking the course either to prepare them for a professional career of to enable them to have a more intelligent understanding of anatomy and the prevention and treatment of common ailments.

PROFESSIONAL COURSE

Thirty-one students, the majority of whom are women, are taking the professional course which qualifies them in two years to take public health positions. This is a wide field of endeavor and an increasing number of men and women are taking advantage of the courses at the Institute of Public Health to qualify themselves for this comparatively new profession. Only 12 were enrolled for the complete course last year.

The two lectures given in connection with the course which are proving the most attractive to the average citizen are: Sociology, by Col. W. J. Brown, at 4 p.m. each Monday, and Public health, by Dr. H. W. Hill, at 4.30 each Friday. The majority of students enrolled take in these two lectures and the turnout is well up to the registration. Nurses have found the course particularly attractive as it gives them an academical knowledge, which is invaluable to them while in training or actually practicing.

City News

UNION LODGE GOING TO DETROIT. — Forty members of Union Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will visit Detroit to-morrow, where they will be the guests of an American lodge. The Londoners will make their departure on the 11.50 o'clock Grand Trunk train to-morrow morning and will return to this city in a special car on the midnight passenger train.

LANDS EIGHT-POUND PIKE. — J. Miller, who resides on Albert street, while fishing near Dexter's mill, on Tuesday morning landed a pike some 30 inches in length. On taking it to the store of John Wilson, on the corner of Albert and Richmond streets, it was found that the fish tipped the scales at eight pounds. In his excitement in trying to land the fish the fisherman was not content in trusting his line, but waded in after it, as a result of which a perfectly good suit of clothes was damaged.

B. C. GROWS MORE APPLES THAN OUR OWN PROVINCE

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. — The commercial production of apples in British Columbia, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia this year has been excellent, while in other apple-producing provinces the crop has not been nearly so favorable. According to an estimate issued by the department of agriculture, the crop in British Columbia is 1,009,000 barrels (3,027,000 boxes) or 100 per cent. in excess of last year. New Brunswick's estimate is 33,000 barrels, or 10 per cent. above last year. Nova Scotia's production is 10 to 15 per cent. better than last year, amounting to 1,300,000 barrels. Ontario's total crop will reach 60 per cent. of last year, or approximately 900,000 barrels. Eastern Ontario, 70 per cent. of last year's crop. Spies heavy. Western Ontario, 45 per cent. of last year's crop; considerable scab, with a high percentage of lower grades. Quebec's crop represents only 35 to 40 per cent. of that of last year, or approximately 65,200 barrels; color and [illegible]

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 18—Speaking of home buying and such like investments am reminded of our story yesterday of why young people do not marry, and also that Rev. Mr. Agnew plans to do something about it as a new field for church effort. And it is high time that both church and state united to induce matrimony amongst people. For it is a shame that we continually import alien immigrants into our land with their isms and prejudices when we might import citizens direct from heaven and all ready to be moulded into our national way of thinking.

The news is that Rev. Master MacGregor, at the weekly meeting of preaching men, do go after the aldermen in the highest way possible for their shelving action on a juvenile court. He pointing out that he fails to understand the mentality of this Council or their lack of it. In which all sober citizens will concur. Praying God for more outspoken men like this minister who will cry out upon conditions that makes the fact of one's being a silly boy almost a crime in itself. But let some corporation get away with £10,000 or £20,000 and naught is heard about it.

News also that the women's temperance union do meet here to-day in full strength and they come prepared to battle 'gainst export of liquors (a good thing, for why should we sell the Yang-kees that which we ourselves cannot buy?), and also for the limitation of permits by chirurgeons everywhere. And again our sacred liberties be invaded in the worst way. We who hold liquor the greatest medicine in the world already shake seeing our last hope fading before the onslaughts of the white ribbon forces. But there is some consolation. For as long as they fight liquors methinks they will leave our tobacco alone. All of us knowing that our smoking days are numbered so far as this world is concerned, but would put off the evil hour as far as possible.

Yet it is a strange thing that the women who have carried the white ribbon for all these years have never yet shown a white feather.

The finest evidence of true public spiritedness in that Master James Gray of the Hospital Trust do withdraw that board's request for debentures to build a home for nurses. Doing it, he says, in order that our university grant may be the only money issue before the people. And with other board's action thereto, the proposal is now assured of the highest success possible. And meanwhile some of our richer citizens might take a lesson from this action. For if they aid at this time their names become illustrious to future generations; otherwise future visitors to our cemeteries will see high monuments and ask: "Who lies buried there?" And the guides will say: "One Master Kreesus, he was mighty rich!" "And how much did he take with him?" the visitor may pertinently inquire.

A great meeting of our gassing committee yesterday, the chief item of which is a letter from the natural gassing company in which Master W. A. Wilson is praised beyond anything for his unselfish efforts for the poor gas payers. They holding that he should head the polls by the highest majority that ever was in the world. Which suddenly reminds me of a humorous thing told me as being recorded of an ancient Roman dictator. Which dictator, at the annual election of generals, sends word to an enemy of his that he is on no account to offer himself for election on pain of this dictator's wrath. But the candidate carries his stomach high and replies: "I shall not only offer for election, but I shall head the polls!" Whereat the dictator sends him a simple message: "You shall, Jove willing!" And on the morning of election the head of this would-be general is found on the topp of the voting box of the legions! I think Tacitus it was who told this tale.

All the talk at our club is how our aldermen, seven of them, vote for getting naturalized gass at the prices the corporations offer, which is at least 20 cents higher than is paid elsewhere for such products. The most silly, ridiculous action that this Council has ever taken almost.

Out to Springbank Park yesterday afternoon and methinks all lovers of perfect beauty should go also to see the wonder of the trees there. This evanescent loveliness like the face of a saint dying which reflects the wonder of celestial gates opening before them. Methinks that if I were a preacher, and next Lord's Day fine with sun, I would announce my morning services in the park. The worshippers could not help feeling the presence of God all about them.

COMMERCIAL LAW IS POPULAR AT WESTERN

Further Special Lectures Are Desirable —Regular Night Course Will Probably Develop.

Frank Curran, lecturer in commercial law at Western University, to-day announced that the night classes, organized in that subject, are growing from week to week, that there is an insistent demand for further special lectures, all of which leads up to the early establishment of a regular night university course in connection with Western through which students may secure degrees.

The tuition fees for the lectures are exceedingly low, and the more who attend the classes the lower the fees will be. Full credit is given for work done in the night classes this year towards the securing of bachelor of art degrees in commerce and finance.

Western University is the first Canadian University to inaugurate a course of evening lectures for the benefit of men and women who work in the day, but who desire to take up university work.

Dean Fox issues a call for popular support in the matter, for whether London will be the first Canadian city to offer university degrees by night work or night classes depends entirely upon London citizens.

It is suggested that some civic organization should get behind the work by giving it public indorsation, asking its members to act as night university boosters, and asking employer-members to encourage members of their staffs to take up the work. If 50 students apply for the complete night course in commerce and finance, the university night school will be on a firm foundation and complete organization may be effected.

This would involve, it is pointed out, the issue of a special catalogue, securing of special lecture rooms and the appointment of a night school dean.

FRENCH TRAIN TO ARRIVE THURSDAY

Every Industry Represented Except Wine Making.

EIGHT EXHIBIT COACHES

Will Be On L. & P. S. R. Siding, Bathurst Street.

The French exhibition train which is touring Canada passed through London early this morning en route to Chatham, where it will be exhibited to-day, and to-morrow it will visit Windsor.

Citizens and businessmen of London will have an opportunity to view the train on Thursday. It will reach London on Thursday morning at 4, and will be placed on the L. & P. S. R. siding on Bathurst street. The train will make its departure from London on Thursday night at 11 o'clock, and will be at Woodstock the following day.

The Canadian National Railways exhibition train, which was on exhibition at the Western Fair, is to make a complete tour of Western Ontario, but will not visit London again.

Members of the London Chamber of Commerce and other organizations are planning to visit the French train on Thursday with the view of developing trade between France and Canada.

The made-in-France exhibition train consists of 13 coaches, eight of which are exhibit cars. The first, called "La Pensee Francaise" (the French Thought), contains a collection of artistic, literary and scientific treasures of France, including war relics.

Another coach has exhibits of travel, photography, colonial products, etc. Of exceptional interest to the weaker sex is the car known as "La Mode," where the very latest of Paris fashions in gowns, dresses, hats, lace and other women's wearing apparel is shown. The glove department and the perfumery exhibits are said to be the finest ever shown in this country.

Particularly interesting is the fancy shoe department, showing the latest novelties in women's shoes.

The two exhibits, however, which are most outstanding are the silks and the jewelry sections. Probably never has a more dazzling collection of Lyons silks been shown in Canada, while the jewelry has been much admired for the artistic and highly delicate workmanship.

Besides these articles are such exhibits as leather wares, chemical products, surgical instruments, drugs, electrical appliances, brushes, toys, agricultural, horticultural and alimentary products.

One car contains decorative arts, bronzes, cutlery, watches, clocks, etc.

Every French industry, with the exception of wine manufacture, is represented on this train. A point to be observed is the unusually attractive way of displaying the goods in which the French excel.

HIT HORSE ON HEAD WITH BLUNT AXE

Russell Clinton Fined $5 for Cruelty to Animals.

"One of the worst cases of cruelty to animals in the City of London," to quote George Tustin, inspector of the London Humane Society, was tried by Squires Chittick and Robson this morning in the county court.

The prisoner, Russell Clinton, was arrested by the inspector on a charge of ill-treatment to dumb animals, and the evidence given this morning by the inspector and a veterinary surgeon went to show that he had struck the horse over the head with a blunt axe and afterwards partly cut its head off and left it to spffer for nearly three-quarters of an hour before it died.

The minimum fine of $5 and costs or two months' imprisonment was imposed on the prisoner.

OBITUARY

FUNERAL OF MRS. PORTE. — The funeral of Mrs. Mary E. Porte, daughter of the late Alexander Johnston and widow of Capt. A. W. Porte, who died on Sunday, was held from the family residence, 297 Wolfe street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Drew at 2.30. The late Mrs. Porte is survived by four sons: Gilbert, of Victoria, B. C.; Nelson, of London, Eng.; Barry, of Montreal, and Edgar, of this city. Two daughters, Misses Lulu and Amy, at home, and two brothers, Charles E. Johnston, of Niagara Falls, and Edward Johnston, of this city, also survive.

BURIAL AT WOODLAND. — The funeral of Edwin Jay, of Point Edward, who died in this city on Monday, following a short illness, was held from the funeral parlors of A. L. Oatman this afternoon at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. Services were conducted by Rev. Canon G. Sage, of St. George's Anglican Church, at 2.30.

LONELY BO GRACES PRISONERS' BOX

Little Grist For Carling Street Justice Mill.

AUTOISTS CONTRIBUTE

Long List of Motorists Settle Out of Court.

Autoists who travel too fast and others who forget to trim their lamps before going to see Theda Bara in "The Fatal Kiss," are providing the excitement at the police court these days.

One youngster, Phil by name, was the lonely occupant of the prisoner's box at Carling street mill this morning. However, he did not fare badly. He obtained a free ride to London via a comfortable sidedoor pullman during the early hours of last night and then had the privilege of finishing his rest in the Carling street hostel.

Phil was picked up by Constable Hughes, of the Grand Trunk, in the early hours of the morning as he descended daintily from his private car in the railway yards. He told the court this morning that his home was in Toronto, but that he had been working on the "Detroit 111" plying between Detroit and Buffalo. He admitted that he had folks in the Queen City, but although he only possessed some $1.15, he did not wish to ask his family for help as he had started out to make his own way in the world.

Deputy Magistrate Bartlett asked the lad if he would get out of town at once if he were allowed to go, and he promised with alacrity. He took the air with a smile of pleasure.

The majority of the long list of motorists whose names appeared on the police court blotter settled up before his worship mounted to the bench. Only two defendants ventured to doubt the accuracy of policemen's stop watches or eyesight and both failed to satisfy the court that the police were wrong.

One hubby was summoned for breach of the Wives' Maintenance Act, but the family breach had evidently been closed before court opened and the case was withdrawn. Friend husband had evidently "brought home the bacon" in time to mend the breach before the family squabble was aired on the police court line.

POSTAL DEPARTMENT GIVES PACKING HINTS

Those Shipping By Parcel Post Are Advised As To How Articles Should Be Packed.

In a bulletin issued by the post office department methods of packing various articles for mailing by parcel post are brought to the attention of those using the mails for the transportation of merchandise.

In the transportation of heavy articles of a fragile nature, such as chinaware, glass, pottery, cameras, field glasses, scientific instruments, clocks, watches and musical instruments, the articles should be surrounded with excelsior or other shock absorbent material packed in well-made wooden boxes and labeled "fragile with care." Light fragile articles should be packed in double-faced corrugated cardboard containers and marked "fragile."

Hats, millinery and similar articles should be packed in rigid boxes of wood or other material, or in leather-board boxes with the lid extending about two-thirds of the depth of the box. Such packages should also be marked "fragile."

Pictures, drawings, paintings and maps should be well protected front and back with soft packing between the corners of the frame and the boards, but not so as o press the glass. Canes, fishing rods, golf sticks, umbrellas and similar articles should be protected by two stout pieces of wood each a little longer and a little wider than the article to be protected. Sharp or pointed tools must have the points or edges so protected that they cannot cut through their coverings.

Powders and all pulverized dry substances may be enclosed in cases of wood, metal, papier mache or such materials, but in such a manner as to prevent the escape of the contents. They may also be sent in the same way as liquids and oils, in glass bottles, hermetically sealed, each box being placed in a special box of wood or of strong corrugated cardboard containing sawdust, cotton or sponge material which would absorb the liquid in case of breakage.

Butter, lard, grease and such liquefiable substances must be packed in strong leakproof containers and marked "keep from the heat." Fish, game, meat and vegetables should be well packed and marked "perishable."

FLAGS OF CITY AT HALF MAST

Death of Lady Beck Loss of Community.

EXPRESSIONS OF REGRET

Civic Bodies To Be Represented At Funeral.

Flags at the city hall and at all of London's schools are flying at half-staff to-day as a token of the civic sense of loss at the death of Lady Beck.

Several civic bodies met in special session to-day to pass resolutions of regret at the passing of the distinguished London lady. The Public Utilities Commission and the London Railway Commission met in joint session at noon and spread resolutions expressing their official regret and condolence with Sir Adam Beck.

The Hospital Trust will meet at Victoria Hospital this afternoon in a special session to record that board's feeling of loss.

An emergency meeting of the London Health Association was held to-day and in view of Lady Beck's sustined interest in the care of tubercular victims their resolution is particularly appropriate.

FAITHFUL SERVICE.

"Be it resolved," the London Health Association's resolution states, "that this association, mindful of the faithful and devoted services rendered by Lady Beck to this association, in a large measure making possible the formation of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, of the whole-souled and intimate personal interest at all times taken in every phase of the development of the work of the institution and of many sacrifices endured and kindly acts done to make life brighter and happier for the patients, desires to place on record its sense of profound loss in the untimely death of Lady Beck, and its appreciation of the work which she accomplished for the benefit of the sanatorium, and its deepest sympathy to its president, Sir Adam Beck, and to his daughter in their overwhelming bereavement."

The City Council, London Railway Commission, the London Health Association, Public Utilities Commission, Hospital Trust, board of governors of Western University and other public bodies of London are planning to attend the funeral of Lady Beck, which will be held in Hamilton on Wednesday. Mayor Little has arranged for a special train to leave the G. T. R. station at 8.30 a. m. Tickets can be purchased on this train. These will be good to return on the train leaving Hamilton at 2.57 p. m. It is expected that there will be 50 public representatives of the various boards who will attend the funeral, as well as many other citizens.

BRILLIANT AFFAIR

BUFFALO, Oct. 18. — The most brilliant opening in the history of the Loew Theaters, outside of New York City, was that which took place on Monday, when Marcus Loew threw open the doors of the State Theater. He came to Buffalo with a delegation of 20 motion picture stars in two private cars. It created such a sensation in the center of the city that it looked like a holiday. Mayor Buck, members of the city government, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Buffalo Women's, Press and Film clubs all combined to entertain the stars and vied with each other in hospitality.

MAY VOTE ON PASTEURIZATION

Board of Health Seeks Power To Act.

GUARANTEE MILK PURITY

Guard Children From Possibility of Tuberculosis.

Pasteurization of milk may be an issue at the coming civic election at the instance of the London Board of Health, of which Dr. O. L. Cunningham is chairman. Whether the question is to be put to a vote of citizens or not depends largely upon a report to be made by C. S. Tamlin, dairy inspector, within the next few days.

This referendum may be used as a sort of strategic reserve in the board's dealings with the pure milk situation in London. Absolute pasteurization might not be inforced until all other efforts had failed at guaranteeing the quality of milk offered for sale in the city.

Report of milk examinations made during the past month shows many samples of milk submitted with bacteria counts ranging between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 to the cubic centimeter. Each drop of impure milk, it is stated, is literally alive with microscopic life carrying the germs of many deadly diseases.

WAIT REPORT.

Tuberculosis, it is now believed, attacks practically every person at some stage of their life. No child but for a time fights a battle with invading tubercle bacilli. Some conquer the incipient attack, others declare an armistice which may break out into a final hectic battle later in life, but many children are sacrificed through the public indifference, it is stated, to the question of pure milk.

The Board of Health is now framing by-laws which will make it compulsory that all milk sold in London be either from tubercular free herds or pasteurized. Tentative approval has been secured from the Provincial Board of Health to the proposed regulations.

The matter of securing a popular vote on the matter is yet to be decided. If Dr. Tamlin considers such a step necessary, Chairman Cunningham pointed out, citizens will be asked to take a definite stand on pure milk for London's children.

TRUE WORSHIP EXPRESSED IN SPIRITUAL LIVING

Clear Exposition of Christian Science Given by Willis F. Gross, C. S. B.

It was a clear exposition of the teachings of Christian Science which was given at the Christian Science Church here last night by Willis F. Gross, C. S. B., member of the board of lectureship of the Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston. Mr. Gross spoke on "Christian Science, the True Import of the Word," to a largely attended meeting.

The speaker declared that the advent of Christianity was the greatest spiritual awakening which the world has ever seen. Christianity, as taught and demonstrated by its founder, Jesus Christ, is a purely spiritual religion, the speaker declared. He contended that true worship was expressed in spiritual living and not in the observance of rites and ceremonies. So long as the followers of Jesus were able to prove their faith in healing sickness and destroying sin, Christianity was maintained in its purity, but when these works were no longer in evidence the spiritual import of the Gospel was lost.

The greatest spiritual awakening in recent centuries began with the discovery of Christian Science in 1866, the speaker declared. This awakening was increasing in strength and momentum every passing year. The light had never waned and there had never been a time when there was the slightest evidence of decreasing interest in this new-old teaching of the Christ.

Mr. Gross pointed out that Jesus was opposed by the religionists of His day not because He taught the law and the prophets, but because He proved that the truth revealed in law and prophecy could heal the sick and reform the sinner.

Referring to the contention of opponents of Christian Science that the healing works were accomplished as a result of mesmerism, the speaker declared that such utterances were utterly devoid of intelligence or truth. Spiritual understanding revealed the great difference between Christian Science and hypnotic control. The latter worked from a material basis, while Christian Science healed through the understanding of the oneness of mind and God and the nothingness of any other supposed power or intelligence. The basis of Christian Science teaching and demonstration was the first commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." Obedience to this command robbed the belief in mesmerism of any seeming power or influence, either for good or for evil.

ART GALLERY AND MUSEUM PLANNED

Splendid Civic Venture Laid Before Mayor.

BEAUTY AND KNOWLEDGE

Would Permit Securing of Loaned Exhibits.

Mayor Little was lately approached by a prominent citizen who is deeply interested in the subject of art, with a view to launching plans for a civic art gallery and museum of local history. It is expected that developments in that regard will be made public within a few days.

Plans suggested are for the securing of one of several larger buildings near the center of the city, which might serve for the civic art gallery and museum.

Those back of the plan point out that London is not yet rich enough to fill such a gallery with fine pictures, but several rooms could be devoted to really creditable copies of the world-famous masterpieces for the benefit of school children, other rooms would be used for local exhibitions and there would also be a gallery of national art, which would be built up from year to year.

But the owning of a fireproof civic art gallery would make it possible to secure loan exhibits from the greater Canadian and American art galleries. Such pictures would be hung for a week or longer and thus give citizens an ever-changing list of exhibitions, which would make for the development of greater civic beauty-consciousness.

Other rooms would be devoted to local historical exhibits. The valuable finds in the site of ancient Indian villages near London would be of peculiar interest. Civic documents, maps and records could also be placed on exhibition with the surety of ever-growing popular interest.

LADY BECK'S LIFE FULL OF SERVICE

London City Council Pays Tribute to Her Work

ENERGY AND LEADERSHIP

Resolution of Appreciation Spread Upon Minutes

While the death of Lady Beck came as a shock to a host of friends in London who knew her so well, no body of citizens could have been more deeply touched than was the City Council. Every member of that body had been in close touch with one or more of her many activities, and all sincerely regretted her death. A resolution of condolence to Sir Adam and Miss Marion Beck, moved by Mayor Little and Ald. Bridge, was passed last night, the aldermen standing in silence for a few moments.

"Every member of this Council, as well as every citizen of London, was greatly shocked to hear of the death of Lady Beck," said Mayor Little in moving the following resolution. "Lady Beck has taken a prominent part in the life of London, both in her own particular activities and in the assistance and encouragement she gave to Sir Adam Beck in the work he has done for Western Ontario".

THE RESOLUTION.

Following is the resolution:

"That the mayor and corporation of the City of London have learned with the most profound regret of the untimely death of Lady Beck.

"Lady Beck's life has been, for many years, so intimately associated with the life of the city, touching it in so many ways, that her death removed one whose place in the love and esteem of her fellow citizens must be regarded as almost unique.

"She took an active interest in the early development of the Red Cross movement in London, an interest which increased intensely on the outbreak of the Great War when the women of London set themselves to the task of succoring the wounded and sick overseas.

"How well that task was planned, how well directed, how well carried out posterity will review with pride, and will place a wreath of honor upon the memory of Lady Beck, whose energy and leadership did so much to bring that task through to completion.

"Lady Beck's name will ever be associated with that of her husband in the foundation of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, to-day one of the leading institutions of healing in Western Ontario. In the interests of that work her time and her money were given freely, the nurses' home being a special benefaction that rounded out the facilities for restoring health to suffering men and women.

"Lady Beck's varied efforts on behalf of her fellow men and women cannot be enumerated. Her hand and heart were ready to do good wherever opportunity offered, and many were the good works done, of which even those about her knew but little. With her, life was but the space of time alloted to service, and she aimed to make all the hours golden.

GIFT OF SONG.

"London citizens will look back, too, with tender memories to the years in the past when to the generous gifts of her time and money Lady Beck added, as well as of her gift of song, to the benefit of her fellow citizens.

"London can never be unmindful of the stimulus and encouragement which Lady Beck gave to her husband, Sir Adam Beck, in the carrying through of the great public enterprises in which he was engaged. Her helpful advice, her steadfast support, had no small part in making possible the realization of those ideas which have meant so much to this province.

"To Sir Adam Beck and Miss Marion Beck we extend our deepest sympathy in the hour of their bereavement.

"And further, that the Council spread upon its minutes this, their appreciation of the loss that has been sustained in the death of Lady Beck."

A resolution of condolence with Sir Adam and Miss Marion Beck was passed at the quarterly meeting of the Union Mothers' Club last evening.

TORONTO'S SYMPATHY.

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—Mayor Church ordered all civic flags at half-mast on learning of the death of Lady Beck.

"I feel very sorry for Sir Adam in the loss of his splendid wife, Lady Beck," said Mayor Church this afternoon. "She was one of Canada's leading war and patriotic workers, and was one of the heads of the Canadian Red Cross. Her social, church, and especially her hospital work, in London, cannot be too highly spoken of.

"We shall never be able to repay Sir Adam for his splendid service for Toronto, and I am sure I voice the deepest sympathy of all our citizens with him and his daughter, Miss Marion Beck, in their irreparable loss."

GALT EXTENDS SYMPATHY.

GALT, Oct. 17.—The City Council tonight authorized Mayor Charlton to convey to Sir Adam Beck the sympathy of Galt in his bereavement.

The Late Lady Beck

Wife of Hydro Chairman, and Noted Worker in Charitable and Patriotic Organizations Who Di... Toronto General Hospital Yesterday.

DEATH OF LADY BECK ENDS CAREER OF BENEVOLENCE

Name Had Long Been Associated With Patriotic and Charitable Work for London and Western Ontario; Alexandra Sanatorium Her Memorial

The death of Lady Lilian Beck, wife of Col. Sir Adam Beck, K. B., LL.D., of this city, occurred yesterday at the Toronto General Hospital following an operation.

Lady Beck, who was in her 43rd year, was admitted to the Toronto hospital a week ago and was believed to be recovering favorably from her operation up to yesterday morning, when her condition became serious. Sir Adam Beck and their daughter, Miss Marion Beck, were with her at her death, which occurred at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Lady Beck's final illness was a repetition of an attack a year or two ago, for which she underwent a successful operation in an English nursing home. Returning to Canada this fall she was thought to be in better health than at any time during the past few years. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Miss Marion Beck; a half sister, Mrs. Gallagher, in California, and two half brothers, Major Harry Crerar, of Ottawa, and Mr. Alistair Crerar, of Toronto.

FUNERAL AT HAMILTON

Interment will be made at Hamilton, following a private service in Christ Church Cathedral, on Wednesday.

The late Lady Beck was formerly Miss Lilian Ottaway, daughter of the late C. J. Ottaway, an English barrister, whose wife was Miss Marion Stinson, afterwards Mrs. P. D. Crerar, of Hamilton. Her girlhood was spent chiefly abroad and she was educated in Brussels, spending her vacations in London, England, at the home of her uncle and aunt, Sir John Bridge, noted Bow street magistrate. Her marriage took place at the age of 20 and with her husband she took possession of "Headley," one of the loveliest old homes in the city. One child only was born to them, Miss Marion Beck, who has recently returned from Paris, where she has been developing an exceptoinal vocal gift under the finest masters.

With her husband Lady Beck was presented at court in 1909, but, though possessed of all the attributes of a social leader, her chief interest lay along lines of charitable and patriotic work, in which she held a foremost place among the women of the Dominion. Her offices have included membership on the Dominion Board of the Canadian Red Cross, presidency of the London Red Cross Society during the years of the war, and later the honorary presidency of that society; presidency of the ladies' advisory board of the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium, the honorary presidency of the London Women's Canadian Club and an advisory office on the Women's Sanatorium Aid.

SANATORIUM WORK

A woman of marked executive ability as well as of great personal charm, Lady Beck's achievements in connection with the Queen Alexandra Sanatorium were of outstanding importance. The initial mover in the undertaking, it was through her untiring efforts that the present splendidly equipped civilian building was furnished some 10 or 12 years ago and later, through the Red Cross Society, she undertook the furnishing of the military part of the institution.

The preventorium at Byron is also traceable to Lady Beck's enthusiasm, a similar institution in Hamilton claiming her mother, the late Mrs. Crerar, as founder and organizer, in memory of the husband and father who died of tubercular trouble before the birth of his only daughter.

In the subsequent "rose days," by which splendid sums were raised through public collection for the sanatorium work, Lady Beck was also a prime mover, having in her personal charge the obtaining of the thousands of roses used on those occasions.

In connection with the sanatorium, the nurses' home, fully equipped and furnished, stands as a memorial to the generosity of Lady Beck and her husband, who erected the handsome building as a thank-offering for the recovery of their only child, Miss Marion Beck, from a serious illness.

Elected to the presidency of the London Red Cross Society in August of 1914, while in Muskoka recovering from an injury caused by a fall from her horse, Lady Beck returned to London to take over the command of one of the most successful organizations in the history of the city and for four years worked with hands and brain to carry on this great branch of war service.

JUDGE OF HORSES

As the chief recreation of a busy life spent in good deeds Lady Beck turned to her horses, and Headley contains many trophies won by herself, her husband and of late by their little daughter in the equestrian world. A noted judge of horses, Lady Beck acted in this capacity at the New York horse show on several occasions and won many prizes for her horses in the great shows of Canada and the United States. For several successive years at the international horse show, Olympia, London, England, Canada was represented by home-bred horses owned by Sir Adam and Lady Beck.

Possessor of a magnificent contralto voice, Lady Beck was most generous in her assistance in musical affairs, particularly in church work, and was for some time a soloist at St. Paul's Cathedral, of which church she was a strong supporter.

Co-workers with the late Lady Beck in various undertakings pay a warm tribute to her ability and to her personal gifts.

"She was a lovely woman to work with," a prominent worker of the London Red Cross Society, said yesterday. "She never asked anyone to do anything that she would not do herself. Her whole life was one of sacrifice for others; she has spent herself in giving."

"She was a wonderful woman," was the tribute paid by another fellow-worker and a lifelong friend; "London and Canada will not soon see her like again."

HEARING POSTPONED

Out of respect to Sir Adam's bereavement the Toronto Railway arbitration board, negotiating between the City of Toronto and the Toronto Street Railway Company, has postponed its deliberations until after the funeral, following a formal resolution to this effect at last night's meeting. Civic recognition of Lady Beck's death will probably be made in this city and the various women's societies of the city are arranging special tributes in memory of their honored leader.

MISTRESS OF HEADLEY BELOVED IN LONDON

The home of the Becks, "Headley," has entertained many distinguished guests, and Lady Beck was always known as a charming and gracious hostess. In appearance she was reverse of a horsewoman, being small, dainty and extremely lovely in appearance. A tale was once told of a small boy in a public school in London being asked to define the word "beautiful." His prompt reply was "Lady Beck." In this way was she known and beloved in her home city.

ACCEPT OFFER OF TRAINING COURSE

Co-Operative Council Approves Plan of R.E.C.

MISS TROTTER SPEAKER

Mrs. W. L. Armitage Is Re-Elected President

King Street Presbyterian Church was the scene of an interesting gathering last evening, when the Co-Operative Council met for its annual meeting. Representatives from all denominations were present, numbering about 50, who sat down to a supper served by the Canadian Girls in Training of that church. After the supper the meeting was opened with prayer, followed by the minutes and the reports of the various officers.

Mrs. W. L. Armitage, the president, was in the chair and was re-elected for the coming year. The other officers include Miss Bessie McCamus, first vice-president; Miss Hilda Keene, second vice-president; Miss Helen d'Airgnon, secretary, and Miss Winnifred Freeman, treasurer.

After the election of officers the secretary made an announcement of the provincial convention to be held in Brantford on October 25 to 27. Mrs. W. L. Armitage was chosen to represent the local council at this convention.

TEACHERS' TRAINING

The suggestion of the Religious Educational Council that a course of training for teachers for boys, girls and primary work, extending over a course of six weeks, was accepted; also the offer of the use of the university gymnasium for the 'teen age girls for one evening a week.

An interesting feature of the evening was the talk by Miss Marjorie Trotter, of Toronto, secretary of girls' work of the Baptist church in Canada. Miss Trotter wished to have the leaders realize the vital importance of the work they are engaged in and pointed out the danger of allowing it to become commonplace. Every girl at the adolescent age is fashioning a garment of womanhood on which the whole of her future life depends. Four very important influences at this time should be the guiding powers, namely, the home, church, school and community. It is the work of these factors to see that sin, ignorance and prejudice do not dwarf her life, for the girl does not understand herself and must be guided. Girls long for an ideal and the C. G. I. T. has for its aim the placing of this ideal before the girls, which is the life of Jesus Christ.

A vote of thanks was given to the girls who had so efficiently served the visitors.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at almost any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advt.

EXAMINE PAVING ON PICCADILLY

Council Will Obtain Expert Opinion Next Year

ANSWER TO RATEPAYERS

Something Wrong With Surface, Is Complaint

Declaring that the pavement laid in front of their premises is defective, and asking that they be guaranteed against any additional expenditure for repairs, Piccadilly ratepayers waited on the Council in a body last night. After considerable discussion the Council, on motion of Ald. Cameron Wilson, decided that the matter should be laid over for the present, and that before the first installment of taxes is due next year an expert be engaged to examine the pavement to determine its condition, and that if not up to the standard then it shall be resurfaced at the general expense of the city. A petition signed by approximately 80 property owners was presented.

NOT SATISFACTORY.

Irum Collins pointed out that the ratepayers were willing to pay for a good pavement despite the fact that they were opposed to laying the pavement in the first place. The work was done on a two-thirds vote of the Council. But the present pavement is not at all satisfactory, he insisted, and he urged that the Council take the necessary steps to protect the residents of that street.

Ald. Ashton inquired whether the "ironing out" process had made any improvement. The city engineer was quoted as saying that the traffic would smooth the surface so that it would be perfectly good.

Mr. Collins argued that the ironing out had apparently made it worse. The engineer was simply bluffing when he stated that the surface would be smoothed out by the traffic, thought Mr. Collins.

"You will see next summer that it will iron out," contended Ald. Boss.

Ex-Mayor Somerville was requested to give his view of the pavement by one of the other delegates.

"I do not pretend to know what is wrong with it nor what must be done to remedy the defects," said Mr. Somerville. "But there is something wrong, that is certain. There are spots in the top covering that seem to be rotten. The people are entitled to a good pavement when they pay for it. It is for the Council to say whether the question should be laid over for a year to determine what should be done. But until that time the citizens should not be asked to pay for it.

"The engineer assures us it will be all right next year, after the traffic irons out the spots," suggested Ald. Childs.

DEFER PAYMENT

"The ratepayers should not be asked to pay for it until then," responded Mr. Somerville. "There is no doubt that it is not nearly as good as the Waterloo pavement."

Ald. Harley thought the Council should place itself on record that the pavement will be made right. The ratepayers should be protected.

Dr. C. O. E. Smith objected that the residents wanted something definite. He suggested that if the pavement is no worse in five years than the Waterloo street pavement they would be quite satisfied, but otherwise they should have a new surface on it.

Mr. Somerville argued that the aldermen would not accept a pair of patched trousers for new ones. On the same line of reasoning they had no right to expect the ratepayers to pay for a patched pavement when they should have a good one.

Ald. W. A. Wilson did not blame the ratepayers for objecting. The Council is prepared to rectify any faults, he intimated.

Ald. Childs thought it should be resurfaced next year, if it were not satisfactory in that time.

A vote of condolence was moved to Mrs. J. H. Fowler on the death of Mr. Fowler, who was a newspaper man, well-known to the members of the Council.

ENDS RECIPROCITY IN INCOME TAXATION

WINDSOR, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press).—The recent revision of the income tax by the United States, raising a married man's exemption to $2,500 and his exemption for each dependent to $400, has thrown out of order the reciprocal arrangement existing with Canada. Previous to this revision the laws on either side of the river were the same, and people living on one side and working on the other, paid their tax on one side and showed a receipt to the officials on the other. This arrangement must now be changed. The Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to see how conditions may be remedied.

ANTICIPATE BREAK IN PRICES OF MATERIAL

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The national town planning council declares that the present position of the building world will within a few weeks bring a break in prices of building material and labor. It is anticipated that by the middle of next year 200,000 houses will have been built by local authorities in the United Kingdom.

WESTERN BY-LAW PASSES COUNCIL

Aldermen Approve Debenture Issue of $250,000

FOR UNIVERSITY AID

Measure Will Be Submitted at Municipal Election

Without a dissenting vote the City Council last night approved a debenture issue of $250,000 in aid of the Western University building program, and gave the necessary by-law a first and second reading that it may be submitted to the ratepayers in the municipal elections. It is confidently expected that the citizens will see the necessity for assisting the university at this time, and will authorize the expenditure by a large majority.

Chairman A. T. Little, of the board of governors, addressed the Council on behalf of the university. He referred to the situation in general and urged that it is imperative for the constructon work to commence early next year.

"We are badly handcapped now," said Mr. Little. "Our accommodation is so limited that it is almost impossible to carry on with any degree of success. Some of the classes are held in one end of the city in the old medical school, while the rest are housed in the north in the university buildings. We cannot get along for any length of time in this way."

MIDDLESEX TO HELP.

Mr. Little further explained that the County of Middlesex has promised $100,000 on condition that the work be started next year. In addition the Government of Ontario has promised aid to the extent of $800,000. The entire project will entail an expense for buildings and for the construction of the necessary bridge of $2,225,000. With the grant from the city and other grants the board will have about $1,250,000. The balance of the money will be raised by private subscription, Mr. Little stated.

"Last year the city gave $100,000 towards the erection of the new Medical School," explained Mr. Little. "You will agree that the money has even now given good returns.

We have a building there which, with the equipment, is worth at least $450,000. It is a credit to the city, to the university and to Western Ontario. Any money granted towards the erection of the arts and science and other buildings will bring you as large returns.

"There are two reasons for making this request to-night," said Mr. Little, further. "The city will receive a benefit in an educational sense and then the expansion of the university will be of financial advantage also. More than $700,000 is annually expended in London by the student body, directly and indirectly. The fees and the grant for maintenance from the Ontario Government are all spent within the city. The maintenance grant will be increased in a year or so, and it is expected that the grant for capital expenditure from the Legislature will also be augmented from time to time as the necessity arises.

A MODEST GRANT.

"We must do something this year," continued Mr. Little. "We are asking the city for only a modest sum when we request $250,000. Certainly the money will be repaid many times over in direct benefits that will accrue to London and Western Ontario because of the Western University."

C. R. Somerville pointed out that other large building programs are waiting on the commencement of the university extension.

"The Catholics have bought property adjoining the new university site," said Mr. Somerville, "and they are planning to erect large buildings there. In addition they are intending to erect some large educational bufidings in the city. But these will not be commenced until a start is made on the arts and science buildings. They have $1,000,000 on hand for this purpose, and I am assured by the bishop that he is ready to start his building program as soon as we make a commencement on ours."

There was no discussion among the aldermen. They were well assured of the worthiness of the cause and they unanimously supported the request.

MOTHERS' CLUBS AS CO-OPERATIVE FACTOR

Teachers and Club Members Should Meet for Discussion, Says Inspector Greer.

At the quarterly meeting of the Union Mothers' Club, held in Lord Roberts School last evening, V. K. Greer, assistant inspector of public schools, gave a most interesting and educative address on co-operation between the home and school.

Mr. Greer stated that mothers' clubs have figured tremendously in bringing about co-operation between the home and school, and that the members of the clubs should discuss matters and broaden out their ideas. He favored the teachers and mothers meeting frequently and talking over matters.

Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. P. P., told of a plan of the Ontario Government to make the public schools of Ontario community centers. The member favored using the schools when at all possible.

It was decided by the women to attend the mass meeting to be held in the Masonic Temple on October 24, when C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate for London and C. C. Ferguson will speak. The mothers will also attend the meeting of the Conservatives as soon as the party names its candidate.

The next meeting of the executive committee will be held on the fourth Monday in November at the Technical School.

Mrs. John Gemmell, London delegate at the home and school convention in Toronto, submitted a report, in which she told of the grant of $2,000 made by the Government for the upkeep of the organization. Miss A. T. Courtice, Toronto is the general organizer.

Mrs. Wortman and Mrs. Knatt rendered vocal numbers, which were greatly enjoyed.

At the Theaters

AT THE GRAND.

Harold Lloyd in a screamingly funny comedy and Corinne Griffith in a super society drama are the two stars who delighted matinee and evening crowds at the Grand Theater yesterday. To-day will be the last opportunity for seeing these stars in these vehicles and the rest of the program, which includes special music and a News Pictorial, depicting the arrival at Quebec of Miss Marie Lohr, who appears in person at the Grand on Wednesday.

Picture-goers were treated to a surprise and given an ideal form of entertainment in "Moral Fibre," in which Miss Griffith appears. They also had the opportunity of seeing the inimitable and bespectacled Harold Lloyd at his best in "Among Those Present."

"Moral Fibre" is different from the average run of films. It is a story of contrasts. In the early part the star appears as a 14-year-old girl, and in this Miss Griffith does exceptionally fine work. She jumps, crawls about the floor and does many other things which might be expected of an unsophisticated country lassie. When the great sorrow comes into her life and she plans revenge she does an exceptionally fine piece of work. She actually lives the scene and from that point on Miss Griffith's work rises to new heights.

Halfway through the production she is afforded ample opportunity to wear many splendid gowns, for which she has won wide reputation.

There are touches of pathos, love, humor, adventure and great emotion throughout the production. In fact it is a well balanced story and one which will keep the audience in suspense until the final close-out.

An exceptionally large cast is required to enact the story and as the action shifts about frequently an exceptionally large number of sets and locations are used. Webster Campbell, who directed the production, deserves commendation for the artistic arrangement of each picture. He shows the touch of an artist in every scene and under his direction the players act true to life, giving an unusually fine performance.

AT THE PATRICIA.

One of the most inspiring and fascinating screen stories that has graced the local screen here this season was unfolded at the Patricia Theater yesterday. The occasion was the presentation for the first time in the city of "Play Square," a William Fox photoplay, for the success of which Edna Murphy and Johnnie Walker are jointly responsible. Tom Brantford has a fine collection of laughs in his little act and the comedy and Western drama pictures are well worth seeing.

Edna Murphy, a winsome young star of more than ordinary appeal, appears as the heroine of the story and invests the part of a small town merchant's daughter with exceptional charm and distinction. Johnnie Walker, who costars with Miss Murphy in the picture, is ideally cast in the part of a young man who, through the lack of knowledge of life in a big city, is lead to cast his lot with evil companions—eventually regenerating himself and rising above the forces that sought to destroy him. Walker is of the manly yet boyish type of screen hero and his youthful charm and striking personality support very marked dramatic talent.

The story of "Play Square" is laid both in city and village. The earlier scenes show the boy engulfed in criminal association and later reveal his efforts to adhere to the better life, to which his love for mother and sweetheart inspire him. It shows finally his triumph over both temptation and impending exposure of his past.

"Play Square" made a great hit with yesterday's audiences.

AT THE ALLEN.

The large audiences which yesterday viewed "Reputation," the special picture now showing at the Allen, pronounce it to be one of the best films that have come to London. A lively plot with sumptuous settings for backgrounds makes the story of particular interest, while the work of Priscilla Dean, the Universal star, calls for nothing save admiration. A new pictorial, together with a comedy and appealing selections from the Allen concert orchestra make the entire program an attractive one.

In "Reputation" Priscilla Dean establishes clear title to be ranked with the greatest of cinema stars. She has often before charmed audiences with her volatile characterizations. In "Reputation" she plays a dual role, and by clever photography she is often seen acting scenes with herself. The two characters are so widely different, in spite of the fact that they are mother and daughter, that one can scarcely credit the fact that they are both played by the one Priscilla Dean.

"Reputation" is the story of a wilful girl and her child, deserted when a mere babe, and raised in a county institution. The mother wins success on the stage, becomes the favorite of Europe, and then plunges into a sea of dissipation. The daughter inherits her mother's talents, but with a charm and purity of heart entirely her own. How these two, ignorant of each other's identity, are brought together in one of the most poignant tragedies ever conceived, gives the play its climatic crash.

AT LOEW'S.

"The Conquest of Canaan," one of the few spectacular pictures which have a real appeal to the average movie fan, was shown for the first time at Loew's yesterday and, judging by its enthusiastic reception by the large audiences, it will be a big drawing card for to-day and to-morrow. The remainder of the film bill and the vaudeville are well up to the standard set by this popular theater.

The story was written by a master of human fiction, Booth Tarkington, and reflects life as it actually is in a small Western town where prejudices hold a sway, and where dame gossip is continually stirring up trouble. The story deals primarily with the events which transpire when a fledgling of a lawyer sets up his single in the town and attempts to reform it to his standards. Thousands of people are shown in some of the big scenes of this super-production. A comedy and a news pictorial fill out the picture bill.

One of the unique acts of the day is that produced by Gordon Duo. Robinson and Pierce utter a timely lament on the advent of prohibition and the passing of the saloons, while Canton's Minstrels prove themselves expert in the production of harmony.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

A charming version of the eternal triangle, with "The Naughty Wife" at the base of it, satisfied a full house at the Majestic Theater last night and will doubtless attract capacity audiences throughout the remainder of the week. Abounding with rich humor and comical situations the play is one of the most entertaining offerings which the players have yet presented and is deserving of the patronage of London theatergoers.

Robert Hyman is 100 per cent. excellent as Hilray Farrington, a novelist, who is more absorbed in his books than in his pretty wife, who pines for affection, and lots of it. From the many complications which develop in his scheme to cure his wife from her eloping propensities he extracts the maximum number of laughs. In fact he bears the brunt of the acting throughout the production and bears it in a most acceptable manner.

Virginia Mann, the wife who cannot live without a continual demonstration of love from her husband, also fulfills her part in an appreciative way. It falls to her lot to betray the various emotions which a wife would experience in going through an elopement that had all the color and life of romance extracted from it by an interfering husband.

An ideal philanderer is Rickey Secrest in his interpretation of Darrell McKnight, whose specialty is married women and whose chief accomplishment appears to be making love divinely. He, as well as the wife, has to evidence changing emotions when he finds that his affair which promised so well is reduced to threadbare prosaism.

Vivacious Gertrude Gustin is well cast as the widow in love with the male heart-bresker. Other parts are equally well supported by the remainder of the personnel. The Majestic orchestra, under the leadership of Jack Cortese, enlivens the entire acts with several selections.

Gas In Stomach Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia To Overcome Troubles, Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion.

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.—Advt.

The Story of 3 Underwear Trade Marks

THE institution now known as The Dods Knitting Company, Limited, was founded more than fifty years ago.

Millions of Dods-Knit undergarments have been worn by Canadians since then.

The Dods-Knit trade mark is familiar to the trade and the public—especially to outdoor workers with whom the warm, comfortable Dods Elastic Knit, Dods Scotch Knit and Dods Merino Lines are exceedingly popular.

Another well-known line of underwear is "Beaver" Fleece, made by the Beaver Knitting Mills, Limited, of Alton, Ontario, which is also controlled by The Dods Knitting Company, Limited. The Beaver Fleece trade mark is known from coast to coast.

FLEECE

For reasons of trade policy, these two old familiar trade marks have been combined into one new trade mark.

The New Trade Mark

This new trade mark will be stamped across the garments of both the Dods Knit and Beaver Fleece lines.

To distinguish one line from another, the word "Elastic" will be printed under the trade mark on all Dods Elastic Knit garments.

Similarly, the words "Scotch", "Merino" and "Fleece" will be used under the trade mark on each of these lines.

As the decision to use the new trade mark was only reached recently, there are large stocks of Dods-Knit lines and Beaver Fleece garments in the dealer's hands.

No matter whether you purchase garments bearing the old trade marks or the new, you will be assured of getting all the quality, warmth and comfort that have made these lines so popular with men, women and boys for many years.

SERVICE NEED OF WORLD TO-DAY

Mr. Allen, of Toronto, Speaks at St. Paul's Club

USE "WASTE MATERIAL"

One Hundred Men Attend Association Meeting

One of the most successful meetings of the year was that held by the members of the Men's Association, of St. Paul's Cathedral, in Cronyn Hall last night. A bountiful supper, prepared and served by the members of the Girls' Friendly Society, was enjoyed by the members, after which a sing-song by the members and a solo by Mr. Carson were enjoyed.

One hundred men of the congregation turned out to the meeting and several members spoke on the subject: "How to Make the Meetings Successful."

The special speaker of the evening was Mr. Allin, a prominent church worker from the Diocese of Toronto. He stated that he attended a meeting of the Rotary Club and he was more than delighted with the way in which the members all over the United States and Canada banded together to show service to their fellow-men.

SERVICE NEEDED.

"The thing needed to-day," he stated, "is service among our fellow men. At the Rotary Club luncheon the speakers outlined what they were doing to assist the boys of the country in preventing them from assuming the positions of 'waste material.' I don't mean that they are useless," he added, "when I say 'waste material,' but I mean good material, which is not being put to some use, and which is naturally going to waste much the same as the garbage, rags and other things which formerly went to waste before a use was found for them. These were always looked upon as valueless until the war came upon us, and then people began to get busy to save and invent further ways of using otherwise worthless articles. We want to get busy the same way, with the exception, that we apply it to our coming men of the country, our boys of the present day.

Speaking on the prosperity of the commercial world he said: "The fundamentals are 'honesty, integrity, faith and vision and industry.' We have to have all four of these things," he stated, "to be successful men in the business world. A large percentage of the successful men in the business world of to-day are the sons of the poor clergy and laboring men, and the only way in which they gained this great place was by honesty and industry. We must have these things above all others. The boys must be taught to work, as this is one of the potent factors in the development of manhood. Another thing we must have," he added, "is co-operation. No man can live or work by himself. There must be fellowship, and they must work one with another and one for another. They must trust in one another also. We learned this lesson also in the war. And," he concluded, "we must follow and believe in the word of Christ. No one will ever get anywhere if they haven't the assistance of Christ."

GET NEW MEMBERS.

Colonel Brown said he felt there was a place in the church for men's association. He stated that there were a great many men in the city who attend church casually and never come to the meetings of the association. In order to make it successful he pointed out that it was necessary to get these men to become members. The organization could render a great deal of help to the needy people of the city, and also get after the men who have no particular church to attend. Citizenship should be the topic of their meetings, he stated, in order to create more enthusiasm among the male residents of the city.

Major Lawless stated that the church was too easy going with the congregation. "We want to get after the men," he stated, "and bring new members into the association. There are plenty of business men in the city who are not aware of our existence. Get them acquainted with us, or, better still, let us get acquainted with them, and the rest will follow in order. I hope to see a few of these men present at our next meeting."

HELP OTHERS.

"There is no question whatever," stated Professor Anderson, "but what this organization can get together in a more business-like manner, get all of the male congregation in the ranks of the association and do good for them, and they in turn can do good for someone else."

Dean Tucker asked the members to do something for the Sunday school children, with the result that it was decided to get as many men as possible to bring around their automobiles next Saturday afternoon and give the children from one of the classes a ride through the city and surrounding territory.

HERDS FREE OF DISEASE

OTTAWA, Oct. 18. — Up to the first of October 36 herds of pure bred cattle in Canada had been given a clean bill of health as far as tuberculosis is concerned, according to a statement issued by Dr. Fred. Torrance, veterinary director general. These herds are distributed in all the provinces except Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Alberta. The Jersey, Ayrshire, Holstein, Shorthorn and Aberdeen-Angus breeds are all represented, but the dairy breeds strongly predominate.

It is claimed that the accuracy of the tuberculin test in diagnosing the disease is abundantly confirmed in these tests. Even where the presence of tuberculosis is indistinguishable by a careful examination, the presence of the disease is proved by the inoculation of guinea pigs with suspicious material taken from the bodies of reacting animals.

SEND THEIR SYMPATHY.—The following resolution was sent to the Rev. N. S. McKechnie by the Ministerial Alliance at its morning session on Monday: "We send you the assurance of our deepest sympathy in your bereavement and our earnest prayers on your behalf."

DRAMA LEAGUE IN "ROSALIND"

London Players Present Sketch by Barrie

A happy beginning to a season of interest in the world of plays was the clever presentation of Sir James Barrie's "Rosalind," under the auspices of the London Drama League last evening.

The talented trio of players drew a large audience to the Ryerson School, where the little drama was delightfully produced under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Brickenden.

To Miss Ella Moote, surely a very promising star in the amateur firmament, belong the laurels of the evening. Miss Moote played the dual role of Beatrice Page, the brilliant Monte Carlo actress, and the mother of that same actress, with verve and charm. Displaying a marked appreciation of the subtleties of Barrie's conception, those delicate points midway between laughter and tears, Miss Moote played, gave a sustained and finished performance, of which her clear and delicate diction found no small part.

Supporting Miss Moote, Mr. Arthur Brickenden proved himself singularly happy in his role of Charles Roche, boyish adorer at the feet of his liege lady. Mr. Brickenden gave his part a sincere and convincing interpretation.

Completing the cast, Miss Childs played an acceptable role as the kindly curious lodger, and at the same time, considerable aptitude for a character part.

The play is a delicate little sketch of the secret life of a successful stage beauty, who "makes-believe" middle age to get a foretaste of the real thing, as, in wadded dressing gown and many curl-papers, she dawns amazingly on her would-be swain. So subtle is the denouement, that the audience is left as pleasantly puzzled as the handsome hero over the real identity of the fair Beatrice, alias Rosalind, the beloved of the playgoing world.

A preliminary program, over which Col. Frank Ware presided, included vocal solos by Lieut.-Col. Lyne-Evans, and violin numbers by Marcus Adeney, of Toronto.

BILL MOORE'S PARROT SINGS GRAND OPERA

Makes Pretty Good Fist of It With Only Phonograph For Teacher.

Galli-Curci has a rival in London whose rendition of that famous opera singer's wonderful "Oh, hear the Gentle Lark" on Richmond street yesterday attracted the attention of hundreds. The "rival" to whom the personal relative pronoun is applied in the first sentence is a parrot. The parrot belongs to London's own William ("Bill") Moore, whose chief hobby is making other people happy.

The parrot was placed early this October morning in the window facing Richmond street of Mr. Moore's apartment in the People's Loan building. And the combination of sun, autumn mist and general good will towards the world made this operatic "polly" burst forth in song. Not the squawks one usually hears when a parrot is happy, but a real song with words, and what is more, grand opera. Polly's voice was slightly metallic because her only teacher is the gramophone of the Acadian Club. Nevertheless, she sang the well-known Galli-Curci special with admirable rhythm, considerable artistic expression and undoubtedly much personal satisfaction.

WEST WILL SOON BE BUYING MORE HEAVILY

W. R. Yendall, Back From Business Trip, Tells Rotary Club of Conditions.

A short resume of business conditions as he found them in Western Canada, was given by W. R. Yendall, president of the Rotary Club, at the noon luncheon yesterday. Mr. Yendall has just returned from a trip through the West, and struck an optimistic note regarding the outlook for improved trade conditions. He stated that stocks were becoming depleted, and expressed the opinion that buying on a more extensive scale would have to commence in the very near future.

The president touched on the live-wire Rotary clubs throughout the Western cities, and expressed the opinion that the Rotary organization was of inestimative value to the national life. He declared that the people as a whole respect Rotary ideals, and he pointed out that the more members were imbued with the Rotary spirit the more they would be able to help themselves and others.

The luncheon was unique in that the table service was all of enamel ware. It was a "McClary" luncheon, and everything in the way of dishes and cutlery was supplied by the McClary Manufacturing Company.

John Gunn gave a short illustrated talk on the "Romance of Fire," commencing with volcanoes and ending up with the electric stove.

R. K. McIntosh, who is leaving London to become general manager of the Postum Cereal Company, Toronto, said "au revoir" to his fellow Rotarians here.

The constant aim of the Dowler Stores is to give the best service possible. If for any reason your purchase has not been satisfactory, your money will be cheerfully refunded.

And Now, Men, As To Overcoats---

What Do You Expect From Your Clothier?

More and more each season men have turned to the Dowler Stores to receive the "standard" in wearing apparel. And more and more each season their expectations have been realized in the style headquarters. Just now is Overcoat time, and we would draw to your attention the exceptional range of Overcoats that we are displaying.

The styles are distinctly English in cut and draping and are of the latest and most authentic design. The woolens are of exceptional quality, the finest products of the looms of the leading mills of Scotland, such as Aberdeen, Perth and Galashiels. The patterns are widely varied and of unusual character. Many of them are exclusively with this house and are unlike any that will be shown in America this season. The tailoring and trimmings are executed to conform to the most exacting standards. Prices are based on present conditions and are unusually attractive for merchandise of so high a quality.

A REMARKABLE OFFERING OF Winter Overcoats

Chesterfields
Raglans
Ulsters

$29.50

Ulsterettes
Greatcoats
Body-Fitters

Some men have put off buying an Overcoat not only for a season, but for two or three years, until Overcoats had shown a substantial decrease. These men can now select from this range and know they are receiving values which are even greater than present-day low-level prices warrant. They come in choice Scotch and English fabrics of virgin wool, imported for the Dowler Stores, and made up to our own exacting specifications. The models are most attractive, as a glance at our windows will prove; designed in loose-fitting or belted styles, with and without convertible collars; also pure wool English melton serge, lined throughout, in single or double-breasted styles, and in a medium or dark shade. We invite comparison on these $29.50 Coats, as there are dozens with former values to $50.00. See our windows for display.

"Hear the Story the Dowler Windows Tell"

Our advertisements appearing in this paper week after week simply mirror the merchandise on display in our windows. Space does not permit us to describe the great number of Coats shown at this style headquarters, and we have only chosen a few of the most popular lines to describe. However, we also recommend those shown at $23.75, $33.75, $42.50, $48.50 and $55.00

About 200 Coats --at-- $32.50

We take pardonable pride in offering such magnificent Coats as the range assembled at this price, to the men of Western Ontario. Our connection with twelve of Canada's largest clothing manufacturers, making for three hundred and fifty leading men's wear houses, enables us to receive special concessions, unobtainable by firms of one-store purchasing power.

Once again let us impress upon you the fact that no matter what your age or build, you will find a satisfactory model at the DOWLER STORES. You will be asked $40.00 for Coats such as these elsewhere, but the DOWLER price is $32.50

Coats Formerly Priced At $75, Now $38.75

Dozens of Models Hundreds of Coats.

Don't miss this opportunity, men, of choosing an Overcoat at a saving in price not seen in many seasons. Represented in the assortment are rich English meltons in a dark gray shade. They have a two-way notch collar, a half-belt across the back, and most important of all are fully lined with camel hair fleece. Besides this there is a satin overlining extending to the waist. These should especially appeal to business or professional men who spend much time out doors.

Then, again, there are fleecy-finish Scotch cloths with plaid backs and half lined. They are made in the full-fitting set-in sleeve style with a convertible collar, or in the ulster style with belt. Many of them also come in a staple Chesterfield style, so that men of all types and ages can easily receive a suitable model.

High Quality Coats $45.00

Especially to young men do we wish to introduce the exceptional range being shown at $45.00. Firms of national repute, such as Society Brand, Twentieth Century, etc., contribute to the assortment at this price. This in itself insures you of buying a Coat with the highest grade tailoring possible. The first display of these Coats in our windows brought crowds of men to our store. Men who like to wear good Overcoats and who want to buy them at a distinct advantage, will certainly choose from these. There are Coats formerly priced as high as $85.00. WATCH OUR WINDOWS.

A Danger Warning —Bleeding Gums

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

Lady Beck Is Dead

London will accept the news of the death of Lady Beck as a civic sorrow.

London remembers Lady Beck as the charming Lillian Ottaway, of Hamilton, who, during one of her visits to this city met Sir Adam, then Mr. Adam Beck, popular society man, business man, horseman and potential statesman—a meeting which eventually culminated in their marriage.

Recalling those days, London recalls the gracious hostess, the singer always willing to lend her talents in a good cause, the accomplished horsewoman, lover of horses and of equine sports in general.

The late Lady Beck was the posthumous daughter of the famous English cricketer, Ottaway, and of Miss Marion Stinson, of the Stinson family of Hamilton, who was later the distinguished Mrs. P. D. Crerar, so well known in the social, intellectual and philanthropic circles of that city. She was educated in England, where she lived for the most part until her early womanhood, with her father's people.

Th public activities of Lady Beck, in London, may be said to have begun with the formation of the London Health Association, a society, one of whose chief objects was the inauguration and building of the Alexandra Sanatorium, at Byron. Of that association Sir Adam Beck was president, while Lady Beck was president of the affiliated Women's Auxiliary.

Those who recall the activities of the London Health Association recall the great "made-in-London" fair, held under its auspices, some twelve of thirteen years ago, in the armories. Lady Beck was the general convener of the fair, as also the moving spirit in what has ever been held to be the largest and most successful thing of its kind set on foot in this city. But the "made-in-London" was one only of the many kindred efforts at that time made toward the financing of the sanatorium, of which Lady Beck was the author and promoter. Her heart was set upon an up-to-date hospital on the banks of the Thames at Byron, and she never ceased in her efforts until that hospital was an accomplished fact.

When the war broke out, the wife of the then member for London and Minister for Power, became president of the London Branch of the Red Cross Society. That organization she led to such heights of accomplishment that it was acknowledged to be one of the banner tranches of the Society in Canada.

Those who have worked with Lady Beck in these, as in the many other activities in which she engaged in the interest of London and of the country at large, proclaim her a leader, exacting with all in the performance of their self-appointed duty, but most of all exacting with herself. She never asked anyone to do what she could not or would not do. Down at Byron Lady Beck has scrubbed, cleaned, painted, washed windows, moved furniture, overlooked the commissariat; done anything and everything to save money for the great cause. In the Red Cross she buoyed up her executive with her presence; she left nothing undone that the Red Cross could do to further the comfort of our soldiers and the winning of the war.

To the objects to which she was devoted Lady Beck gave her energy, she gave her strength, and she gave her money. In a sense the Alexandra Sanatorium is her best memorial—the wounded of France and Flanders her most sincere mourners.

The Free Press extends deep sympathy to Sir Adam Beck and Miss Marion Beck in their great bereavement.

Mr. Crerar's Manifesto

Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Agrarian party, has issued his manifesto to the electors. Between the party led by himself and that headed by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen the people of Canada will have no difficulty in deciding how they want to vote. Mr. Meighen believes in the principle of moderate protection. is convinced that the adoption of any other policy would be disastrous to the industries of Canada, agriculture as well as manufacturing. Mr. Crerar, on the other hand, is as strongly opposed to the whole principle of protection and the goal of his party is its complete elimination. He says in his manifesto:

"What, then, are our proposals? Our goal is the ultimate elimination of the principle of protection in our fiscal policy. But we recognize that changes must be brought about in a manner that will give a fair opportunity to Canadian industries now enjoying protection to adjust themselves to them. To the end that our agricultural resources may be developed in the fullest degree possible, we propose removing the duty from agricultural implements, and also from much of mining and sawmill machinery for the encouragement of these industries. To lessen the cost of living, a substantial reduction in the general tariff should be made, and especially upon those things that come within the category of the necessities of life. Essential foods we shall also place on the free list, and I would invite the attention of the Canadian people to this, when our opponents, by misrepresentation, accuse the farmers of Canada with seeking only selfish legislation."

While Mr. Crerar makes it clear he is unalterably opposed to the principle of protection he hedges somewhat in the platform of his party on which it has been announced the party still stands. This platform has an even wider free list. It proposes to place all foodstuffs on the free list and adds the following to be admitted free:

"Agricultural implements, farm and household machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, gasoline, illuminating fuel and lubricating oils, likewise all raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture." It can be taken for granted, unless Mr. Crerar states to the contrary, that this whole platform is to be put into legislative effect.

No matter what Mr. Crerar may say, the issue between himself and the present Government is the issue of protection vs. free trade. The farmers of Ontario in voting for a candidate supporting Mr. Crerar are putting in power a party which proposes to place "all foodstuffs" on the free list. The American market at the present time is barred from the Canadian farmer. Does the Canadian farmer want to face the wholesale competition of American butter, eggs, vegetables, fruit, etc.? What would become of the small fruit industry of Niagara, the tobacco industry of Essex County or the market gardeners of the province? In addition, if half the factories of Ontario were closed or ruined, what would become of the home markets for the Ontario famer. The issue between these two parties is clear. Do the people of Ontario want a departure from the policy which for 40 years has made Canada prosperous, or do they want to put in power a party which proposes the complete elimination of this principle? Any man who believes in protection as the best policy for Canada must support Mr. Meighen. Any voter who honestly thinks that the whole principle of protection is wrong and that Canada would be a better and more prosperous country with protection eliminated should vote for Mr. Crerar and his candidates.

As for poor Mr. King, as he refuses to say whether or not he stands by his political platform, and as it is impossible to pin him down to any policy, he is being rapidly eliminated as a political factor. The fight is between the Agrarians and the Goverment, standing respectively for the elimination of protection and the principle of protection.

Again Keep an Eye on Germany

Ever since Armistice Day the allies have been aware that it is necessary to keep an eye on Germany. The interallied council which laid down the peace terms tried its best to let Germany live and at the same time see to it that the enemy fulfilled the obligations laid upon her. Despite vigilance and terms she already has succeeded in eluding parts of her undertaking and would not have carried out her agreements had she not been pulled up severely on several occasions.

Despite the warnings given her there have been serious defaults again but recently. Now news comes from Belgium that German officers, in the occupied territory around Crefeld, have been arrested for plotting a military coup. The number of officers involved is 32, including Gen. von Martens, a number of colonels and other staff members.

The affair would not have been considered so serious had it not synchronized with the finding by the allied authorities of six heavy guns in East Prussia. The guns were kept ostensibly for defense in this exposed region, which was said to have been threatened by the Poles and Bolsheviki, but, in reality, were secreted for revolutionary purposes.

The present Government comes in for censure; it has failed to be on the alert for just such demonstrations and for being under suspicion of laxity in controlling the force which could, if left unchecked, help bring about just those complications it is bound under to forefend against.

As in both cases the men implicated are of the junker class one can recognize the necessity of making Germany control their plans and of thwarting cooperation of the militaristic and monarchial reactionaries.

Canada's Example

Opposition orators are angling for the votes of the soldiers by condemning the Meighen Government for having neglected the veteran. It is passing strange that these attacks largely come from anti-conscriptionists, who showed no interest in the welfare of the soldier at the front in 1917. There may be individual cases of hardship and even injustice, but taken as a whole no belligerent nation has treated her returned men as generously or has had as splendid a constructive policy in restoring them to civil life as Canada.

In the United States the Dominion is being pointed to as an example. As an instance of what Americans think of Canada's program, Leslie's Magazine, October 8, contains a striking article by William Slavens McNutt on "What Canada is Doing For Her War Veterans." The article describes the soldier land settlement scheme and also outlines briefly the work of soldier re-establishment, including vocational training, pensions, gratuities, insurance, etc. Commenting on what Canada has done, Leslie's says editorially:

"Canada's example. — To readers who are familiar with Uncle Sam's sins of omission and commission in his treatment of ex-service men, the account of what Canada is doing for the survivors of her heroic army, set down by Mr. McNutt in this issue, will prove highly interesting and enlightening.

"The keynote of the Canadian program is self-help—the provision of opportunities by which the Canadian soldier, or his widow, can become as useful and honored a citizen in peace as in war, an asset instead of a liability. It is a program that has already stood the test of time, as compared with our own, which, so far as it exists at all, is still in a tentative stage. It is one which we, with greater singleness of purpose and less politics, might have adopted in its essentials with equal success.

"Now, when maybe half a million of the men who served us are out of jobs, when thousands of those who were wounded in our behalf are suffering from neglect, it will do us no harm to regard with humble gaze the wiser, more generous, more efficient course of our neighbor and ally to the north."

OCTOBER.

October and the crimsoned trees,
The smell of smoke upon the breeze;
The morning mist and autumn's chill,
The brown of death upon the hill—
And yet a sense of loveliness
Which pen or brush cannot express.

A strange, mysterious calm which seems
The canvass of a thousand dreams;
The calm of duty nobly done,
The peace of battles truly won,
The joy with which all hearts are thrilled,
A sense of promises fulfilled.

Beyond October winter waits
To pile its snow before the gates;
What men call death shall hurl its stroke
Alike at plant or giant oak,
And yet beneath the snowdrifts deep
We know the violets merely sleep.

Mankind has its October, too,
When little more there is to do,
And we may claim the sweet content
Of strength that has been nobly spent,
And yet we fear, when comes the snow,
There is no spring where we shall go.

October with its lovely breath
Voices the cry: There is no death!
Men read it in a thousand ways,
We see beyond the mist and haze
Which shroud the hills and valleys deep
That all shall wake who fall asleep.

PEACE.

I once read that over the bed of the great Gladstone hung these words: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect Peace whose mind is staid on Thee."

I have always noted the most peaceful people are those who live within a wrapping of devout religious conviction, feeling that there really does exist an all-wise Father, who pays attention to the humblest request—who not only "notes the sparrow's fall," but whose yes follow every sincere effort on the part of people.

To those to whom peace is sweet comes a broadly developed understanding. And it is only through perfect understanding that we are led to rise above our petty selves—to walk through the paths of tolerance and to enter into the inheritance of real character wealth.

If you are at peace with yourself you cannot enter into any quarrel with the world.

With peace comes control, an abiding sense of contentment and clearer vision. You will think better when you are at peace with yourself and with other people. A nation thrives and strides forward in times of peace—when its work is to furnish benefits to as large a number as possible.

To entertain peace within one's heart is to prepare the way for seeing good beyond that which is bad and right beyond wrong.

You cannot barter for peace—it must be accepted.

And it isn't a manufactured product either. Peace always stays around, waiting to serve someone.

It is impossible to be happy without peace in the mind and heart. For irritations and worries are foreign folks that come disguised and not caring for peace in any form or manner.

I have in mind a man who is a tremendous force in the world. He works from rise to fall of sun—and yet he never appears ruffled. There is a substance of fine peace about him. I saw him recently and I contrasted his looks and manner with those of a dozen years ago—and little change showed from the wear and tear of the years.

"Never mind" is a good motto. "It really doesn't matter" is another. "Forget it" is well worth hanging in one's mind-room.

This is to wish you a peaceful day!

—George Matthew Adams.

NEWLY RICH.

Charles Cheeseman walked for many years along a path obscure; he humbly whacked a span of steers, for he was beastly poor. Dame Fortune watched him as he hewed and plowed and dug his patch, and in a vain and freakish mood she made him beastly rich. Our hero straightway started in to paint the country red, to sample every brand of sin, and knock the statutes dead. If any course seemed safe and sane, he dodged it right away, and pikers followed in his train, and cheered him night and day. The meanest trick Dame Fortune knows she sprung upon this guy; the starkest man among his foes no such a trick would try. It is as though you took a swine from some cheap hoglot near, and placed on it some antlers fine, and christened it a deer. And if the pig, inspired by hope of endless fun and fame, believes itself an antelope, Dame Fortune is to blame. And Charlie Cheeseman lapped up ale, and waded deep in slime, until one day he went to jail charged with a horrid crime. Now all the moralists advance and take him for a text, explaining that his name is Pance in this world or the next. They swat this votary of fun, they roar, from coast to coast, but old Dame Fortune is the one who ought to get the roast.

OUT OF U. F. A. EXECUTIVE.

CALGARY, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Premier Greenfield's resignation from the executive of the United Farmers of Alberta took effect Saturday, when the executive met here. His resignation has been in since he took charge of the Governments affairs in August.

A FAMOUS CHILDREN'S JUDGE

Anyone who is familiar with the history and achievements of the juvenile court in America must know that the success of that institution depends almost entirely on the character, personality and motives of the judge and the probation officers. The corrective power of personal influence, sympathy and intelligence has to be substituted for the legal method of dealing with crimes and misdemeanors.

The United States has produced many famous juvenile judges, none more so than Judge Lindsay, whose fame as a children's judge is now world-wide. It is said that on one occasion a most incorrigible little imp was brought before him, a boy who defied his parents, the police, and the whole world to reform him. Judge Lindsay took the lad into his private office and calling him by his Christian name, asked him a few simple questions. Suddenly the hardened little sinner, that nothing had ever been known to move, burst into tears and poured out fervent promises of reform. History records that in this and nearly all other cases which came under Judge Lindsay's supervision reform actually followed.

What was the secret of the judge's influence, which many have considered almost miraculous? I may be wrong, but I fancy that Lindsay reached that boy's heart because the kid took one look at him and knew instinctively that he "cared." He had never met up with anything like that before. He had only met philanthropists who pretended to care. But this man evidently cared for him, the original and only genuine Bill Jones, and not for some interesting psychological specimen of mental and moral aberration. Moreover, the judge evidently appreciated the insoluble problems which perplexed Billie's young life, and felt sorry for him.

We are apt to ascribe the phenomenal success of such men as Lindsay to tricks and camouflage. So his enemies speak of Lloyd George. But those who know him think differently. It is said that the secret of Lloyd George's ascendancy in the present King's favor is an incident which happened when King Edward lay dying. Many of the great people in the land, including princes, dukes and ambassadors, had filed in and either personally or by proxy expressed their condolencies in well-chosen phrases.

At last Lloyd George was admitted to the bedchamber and spoke a few words to his old friend, the King.

"Mr. Lloyd George," the King is reported to have said, "you are the first man to speak to me one human word!"

So it was that Jesus exclaimed when jostled by a mighty crowd, "Who is it that touched Me?"

It seems to the present writer that the one thing that will solve the problem of juvenile delinquency is just that "one human word" referred to by the dying king. A word which can only be spoken by the intelligent and loving man or woman who recognizes in each foolish, erring child a brother, and not an outcast to be "cast out." A word, which in some slight measure may reflect that redeeming love, which even the agonies of a slow torture could not extinguish, and which inspired the message heard by the dying thief: "This day you shall be with Me in paradise."

All mere sickly sentiment is useless, and worse than useless, to reform. Unintelligent love, even in parents, produces the opposite effect.

But we need the friendly human word and the human, not the official hand, stretched forth to help. A juvenile court with the right personnel is a long step in the right direction; and, in the sight of God, a city's fairest jewel.

"PERSEUS."

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

ASSESSMENTS AND TAXES, LAST CALL.

Editor Free Press: There has always been one criticism of the plan that I suggested recently to our fellow citizens which was forceful and rational and for which until to-day I had no solution that seemed satisfactory. But now I think the question is solved so simply that I feel somewhat foolish not to have realized it before.

The criticism was: Is it just to force an owner that has a home to put an excessive value on that home to avoid selling it at the valuation of a fair market value? My best answer has been that it was really worth more to that owner than a fair market value. The solution is this way; a decent home is very desirable to any community and should be made as easy for the owner as is possible, therefore when an owner files the claim to possession and makes the valuation called for under my plan the right must also be given to file a claim that the property is used as a home by the owner and if it still is so used when the taxes are payable a discount should be allowed to the owner as a home-maker, the amount might well be 10 per cent. of the regular taxation. This will allow the owner to place a price that is 11 per cent. more than the fair market value on the property and still come out exactly even with owners of property not used as a home, and if 10 per cent. proves too little it can be raised higher still, but probably that will be sufficient for the purpose. Churches and other property used for nonprofit making but desirable purposes might well be exempted up to a reasonable amount, but those that have cash to make a display with should also pay some taxes. The case of a tenant home-maker might also be met by permission to file a claim for the home discount on the taxes and if still a home-maker when taxes were paid in be entitled to the allowance, inasmuch as the tenant has paid the taxes as a part of the rental and a tenant's home is just as desirable as an owner's home, but probably in this case the matter would be too complicated to work out easily and satisfactorily. Finis. Yours respectfully,

JAMES W. EASTON.

SMUTS CANNOT ATTEND.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—A Reuter dispatch from Cape Town states that it is now definitely announced in that city that owing to Premier Smuts' preoccupation with the situation in South Africa there is no possibility of his attending the disarmament conference at Washington, although inducements had not been lacking.

MENNONITE COLONY WINS.

REGINA, Oct. 17.—The first decision of any of the points raised in dispute and forming part of the Mennonite land action was handed down on Saturday by Mr. Justice MacDonald. The decision dismissed the application made by the Mennonite Land Sales Company for specific performance of an agreement whereby the trustees of the Mennonite colony were to deliver to the plaintiff one-fifth of the crop grown on the Mennonite reserve this year.

Digest of Canadian Editorial Opinion

The St. John Standard, discussing Hon. T. A. Crerar's speech in Brandon, says:

"Mr. Crerar is very anxious to know where the Meighen party is getting its campaign funds from. The answer is that he is getting them as Mr. Crerar's party is getting them, from those who approve of his policies. There is just this difference, however, that when the farmer makes a contribution, which he does more or less under compulsion, for collectors have made a practice of going round and systematically visiting every farmhouse in all the Western constituencies, he does not contribute his dollars either to an admitted political organization, which would be responsible for the security and the expenditure of the fund collected, nor is he offering his money for the support of any defined political candidate, nominated by his kind in political thought and ambition. The farmer is contributing his money to swell a general fund to be expended in advancing the economic interests of one class.

"Farmers may, perhaps, maintain that they have the right to do with their dollars as they may think fit. They are justified in subscribing to a general fund which has for its only and avowed purpose pitting the narrow personal and monetary interests of one class and one strictly defined class against the political welfare of the rest of the population."

The Kingston Standard, after quoting a passage from a speech of Mr. Lemieux's, in which he criticizes Mr. Crerar, says:

"From this we learn that this leading political light of Quebec is not only opposed to Crerar and his party and against any attempt at group government, but he is opposed to free trade and looks upon any movement in this direction as a serious menace to the Dominion of Canada. This is the attitude of Mr. Meighen and his Government. This is the battle cry in the present campaign, and on this issue Mr. Meighen declares, depends the safety, security and prosperity of the Dominion of Canada."

In a further editorial the same paper remarks:

"The agrarian movement had its origin in the prairie country of the West. It is now a distinct political force with a definite policy, an avowed free trade goal, an accredited leader, who is not a farmer and the alluring name, People's Progressive Party. Back of it all we have the Grain Growers' Association and later the Grain Growers' Grain Company of the West, with Hon. T. A. Crerar as its $15,000 a year president, Mr. Rice Jones as its $13,000 a year general manager, and Mr. Murray as its $11,000 a year Winnipeg manager, with hundreds of others in official positions drawing salaries of from $2,000 to $5,000 or more a year."

"Is it any wonder that Dr. Michael Clark, member for Red Deer, parted company, with his former leader, Mr. Crerar, and disavowed the dictation of the Yankee radical, Wood? Is it any wonder that Western members of Parliament urged an investigation into the whole grain business? Is it any wonder that President Crerar with the sworn testimony before him of his general manager, Mr. Rice Jones, that one-third of his company's profits were in averages improperly taken from the farmer, obtained a court injunction to prevent investigation.

Mr. Crerar's company handles everything the farmer out West buys or sells, and in such a way as to call from Mr. Crerar's erstwhile lieutenant the biting charge of 'farming the farmers.'"

The Quebec Chronicle: "The most surprising, and certainly the most significant, feature of the present political campaign a s it develops is that Hon. T. A. Crerar, no more than Hon. Mr. King, dares to pronounce himself openly and unequivocally upon the tariff issue.

"In his opening address at Brandon, which might be presumed to sound the keynote of the Progressive Party's policy, Mr. Crerar sated that "protection, as known in Canada, had no doubt added certain industries to Canada.

"The first assertion of the Progressive leader is ambiguous, since we are left to decide for ourselves whether it is a gross misrepresentation of the facts that we will have free trade in the country if the Progressives come into power, or that everything will go to the bow-wows as a result of free trade. The second assertion is highly discreditable, for Mr. Crerar places on record as his position and that of his party that, for some years to come at least, they will resort to a principle which they regard as unsound and immoral in order to raise money to carry on the Government.

"Mr. Crearer sneers at the prime minister, but we submit that there is infinitely more hope and leadership in the plain utterances of the latter, as there is infinitely greater honesty and courage, than in the clumsy opportunism that animates the two Opposition groups. The electors of the country should have no difficulty in making their choice."

The Nanaimo Herald: "There is one thing to be said for the Hon. T. A. Crerar's speech at Brandon, and that is that he stood to his guns on the tariff question. The farmers, he said, stand opposed to the principle of protection as being neither sound economically nor right morally. If this is the policy of the farmer's party, then, indeed, it must be admitted that they have struck a new note in public life. There is room for question as to the economic soundness of protection, but, up to the present, there has not been very much argument about its morality.

"Crerar declares that there is the shadow of big business behind the Meighen administration. Is big business a crime? Can any country get along without big business? Why a policy to encourage immigration and increase the population of Canada if there is to be no big business?"

The Port Arthur News-Chronicle writes: "The political clan to which Mr. Taschereau belongs imagined that they had all of Quebec scared to hook up with the Meighen Government. The gentlemen who took their courage in hand and defied the Quebec political autocracy are as outstanding figures in their own home towns as any men in the whole province. It was not to be looked for that Mr. Taschereau or Mr. Lemieux, or Mr. Cannon or any of those gentlemen who have been crying for revenge would enter the Meighen Cabinet. No matter how badly they want to be in office they could not allow themselves to go that far, and so Mr. Meighen was placed in the position of taking the best he could get, and it is generally agreed among those who know the gentlemen selected that he did as good a job as any other man could, not even excepting Mr. King.

"And talking about selections, the whole personnel of the new Cabinet is about as attractive as any man could have brought together. Each of the ministers has strength in his own constituency. Each has some qualifications for the position to which he has been called aside from the fact that he is a lawyer or doctor or the member of some of the professions.

"Criticism offered by Mr. Taschereau and Mr. King to the selection made by Mr. Meighen is abundant proof that he chose well and took on strength."

The Sydney Post: "One of the many subsidiary advantages of a sound fiscal policy, such as Canada has had for 40 years, is that the protection to Canadian producers such a policy involves, has led many American manufacturers to establish works in Canada.

"As compared with purely Canadian enterprises, some of the profits of these concerns go to shareholders in the United States, but all the profits, even if these companies have no Canadian shareholders, are of little importance compared with what is paid out in Canada for wages, salaries and materials.

"Another advantage of our having an industrial development of some very considerable importance is seen in the fact that Canada is recognized for a variety of reasons as a good center for foreign trade."

The Victoria Colonist: "Mr. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Farmers' Party, has opened his election campaign at Brandon and has set out to show that protection of Canadian industries has not resulted in prosperity. The arguments in this regard which he has advanced are peculiarly unfair, inasmuch as he does not take into account the fact that the past decade has been marked by a war of over four years' duration, in which Canada was an active participant, and in which her manhood and her economic vitality sustained serious losses.

"If the criterion of a country's prosperity is the mass of humans which it contains, then Mr. Crerar might have some justification for his plea, but we hold that prosperity is determined by the productive capabilities of a population no matter how small.

"Mr. Crerar's population argument fails to the ground in the face of trade figures and the industrial development of the people. It is refuted by the unparalleled prosperity which the farmers of the Prairie Provinces have enjoyed during recent years, a prosperity which in the aggregate has made them the wealthiest portion of the population, but that portion which, in proportion, contributes least to the federal exchequer."

THE LAY OF A LOST APPENDIX.

Alas! Bereft am I of almost all
I prized the most of this my earthly frame,
Altho' to outward vision carefully concealed
And none to know of why or whence thou came.

For years thy presence I had never recked,
But oh, the charms upon the fateful day
When ominous feelings in my lower breast
Allowed me scope to Homerise thy lay.

No more could hectoring friends in mystic tone,
Their great advantage prate to my dull ear,
For I had now a mystery all my own
And I repaid with interest full and dear.

Foolish was I to have been so beguiled
To trust myself to these ungentle hands,
For they have ravished thee with fearsome knife
And left me moaning as the sea on sands.

No more can I a weirdsome tale unfold,
Of frightful struggles in the stilly night
With toothsome agonies oftimes retold
To friends unable to escape their plight.

Alas! they dumped me on a table here,
And I was quite unconscious of the scene,
Of horrors, which must surely have occurred,
Which leaves me speechless on the might-have-been.

St. Charles-Fresh Country Milk
At Your Grocers

New ways to make tempting dishes. Send for your copy. It is free.

Borden's ST. CHARLES is an every-day, all purpose milk, supplied by grocers everywhere. Keep a supply in the pantry, for use as desired. It is put up in four sizes, "a size for every need."

ST. CHARLES milk is sterilized and then put up in individual containers, tightly sealed to preserve its sunshine freshness. "The cream is left in," but over 60% of the moisture is left out, through evaporation, which doubles its richness. It promotes economy also, for it contains more butter fat, which means you need less butter in cooking.

For cooking or table use—be sure to specify ST. CHARLES "with the cream left in." It is so much better than ordinary milk. A plain cake becomes more delicious, creamed fish and meats reveal new delights. For every purpose it is far the best.

Right near you is a Borden milk-man your grocer. Phone your order TO-DAY!

MADE IN CANADA

AIMS TO SWEEP THE TARIFF AWAY

Crerar Says Change Would Not Be Made All At Once.

SPEAKS AT BRAMPTON

Goes Over Ground Covered By His Manifesto.

BRAMPTON, Oct. 17.—The issue, emphatically declared Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, opening his Ontario campaign here to-night, is not a straight issue between protection and free trade. "That issue exists nowhere except in the imagination of those who want to create a wrong impression."

Progressives argued that the basis on which the Canadian tariff rests should be changed. "But we are not going to wipe the tariff out," he added. "Don't be afraid of that. But we recognize that industries built up under a protective system would suffer if the tariff were swept out at once."

Mr. Crerar spoke to a crowded hall and to a large overflow meeting. He was accompanied on the platform by Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario; Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture for Ontario, and J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario.

When the chairman called Mr. Crerar's name the crowd arose en masse, singing "O Canada." In the course of his speech Mr. Crerar passed over ground made familiar by his manifesto, intimating that at further Ontario meetings he would take occasion to develop his argument. He pressed the point that the Government had so far failed to reply to his Brandon challenge to give the source of their campaign funds. "I repeat," he insisted, "where is the money coming from?"

Bert Taylor, Progressive candidate in Peel County, declared that he had signed no "recall resignation." I do not," he said, "believe in the principle of a signed resignation left in the hands of a committee at home."

Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture for Ontario, claimed that the Progressive party stood for the breaking down and smashing up of the old party machine—the machine that was now creaking and groaning and missing fire in the City of Toronto. The Progressive party stood for the building up of a British dominion in Canada and the breaking down of class government.

"The time is at hand" he added, "when we shall all have to realize that the great dominant industry of Canada is agriculture and we shall have to allow that idea to permeate our government."

OCEANS OF MONEY.

Mr. Doherty predicted a whirlwind campaign in Ontario to stampede farmers into voting against their own party. Thousands upon thousands of dollars would be spent. "Tell me," exclaimed Mr. Doherty, "who is paying the shot and I will tell you who will run the country if the Government wins."

Hon. E. C. Drury, premier of Ontario, said never had any movement been so maligned as the Progressive movement. Yet, through a most difficult period, the present Ontario Government though consisting of men unskilled in politics, had stood and concluded its business satisfactorily. The Ontario Government had been criticized for increased expenditure, but every dollar spent in increased expenditure had brought increased service.

"The condition of the Dominion is serious," Mr. Drury proceeded. "It demands good business ability. It demands men who will develop industry normally and not in a hothouse factory. But above all, it demands men who belong, heart and soul, to the people and not to some hidden force behind it."

J. J. Morrison, secretary of the United Farmers of Ontario, charged that Premier Meighen had slandered the farmers of Canada. "If you put in a government which does not represent the common people of this country," queried Mr. Morrison, "what hope is there for it?"

NOT ALL FARMERS.

The meeting had been in progress for nearly two hours before Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, was called to speak. He referred at the outset to Premier Meighen's claim that the Government was entitled to credit for the conferring of the suffrage on women. As a matter of fact, the great farmers' organization first pushed that great reform forward and it was the Union Government which submitted it to Parliament. The Progressive movement rose among the farming classes, but had attracted to it thousands and thousands outside of agriculture. The time minister had referred to the Progressive party as the Wood-Crerar party. It would be just as sensible to describe it as the Wood-Crerar-Drury-Morrison party. Why was the prime minister using such a designation? It was because he sought to draw the attention of the people of the country aside issues and away from the misdeeds of his Government.

A recently appointed member of the Meighen Government was reported to have said that three vacant judgeships were to be given to Conservatives.

"That," said Mr. Crerar, "is the sort of thing we want to get away from in our system of government."

"CORRUPTING INFLUENCES."

The prime minister claimed that the tariff was the only issue before the people. "I am ready to discuss the tariff at any time," Mr. Crerar proceeded, "but it is not the only issue. There remains the vital issue whether the Government shall be free from corrupting influences that have operated on it in the past.

"In the City of Brandon a week ago," Mr. Crerar declared, "I challenged the Government to give the source of its campaign funds. I have had no reply up to the present. I know that the plans are laid for the expenditure of large sums of money. Again I ask, where is the money coming from? Are the 'interests' putting up the money to secure the election of men who will be subservient to their bidding?"

Mr. Crerar returned to the tariff. "The prime minister states," he said "that the issue is one of protection versus free trade. That issue exists nowhere except in the imagination of those who want to try to create a wrong impression throughout the whole Dominion of Canada. The question is not of a straight issue between protection and free trade. The question is whether or not the tariff we have had for 40 years, based on the principle of protection, is the soundest and best tariff for Canada at the present time."

There was never a time when the people of Canada needed so much to focus their attention on the problems of government. There were the problems of post-war obligations, the problems of taxation. Vast sums would have to be raised to meet the needs of the future. Were these not the questions which should be discussed, rather than "the miserable, small, petty, personal things?"

There was, too, the question of railways.

"They are the question," said Mr. Crerar, "which I hope to discuss before the people of Ontario."

AGAINST PROTECTIVE PRINCIPLE.

The proposals of the Progressive party in respect to the tariff, Mr. Crerar pursued, were that the whole basis on which Canadian tariff had been built in the past should be changed. "We are not going to wipe the tariff out." Mr. Crerar added. "Don't be afraid of that. We have as our goal the ultimate elimination of protection as a principle. But we recognize that industries have been built up under a protective tariff, and that they would suffer if the tariff were swept away at once."

No one in his senses would fail to take cognizance of the way in which industries had been built up, said Mr. Crerar. But Canada's fiscal policy should be shaped so as to develop the natural resources of the farm, the forest and the mine.

"Let us forget appeals to racial and religious prejudice," Mr. Crerar concluded. "They are the meanest and most miserable of all appeals, and let us as honest men face the great problems before us, using the best judgment the Almighty gave us."

READY TO CO-OPERATE WITH MUNICIPALITIES

Premier Drury Intimates That Government Will Assist in Providing Employment.

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Before leaving the Parliament buildings to-day for the U. F. O. meeting at Brampton Premier Drury stated that the Provincial Government was prepared to do everything possible within reason to assist in alleviating the effects of unemployment in the province.

"I personally do not approve the 'dole' system," stated the premier. "However, where we think that municipalities are actually trying to do something and are not imposing upon us, we will assist them in every way."

From this it may be inferred that the local Government will co-operate with Federal and municipal authorities in carrying on such public work projects as may reasonably be proceeded with on the basis of an equitable sharing of the disbursements entailed.

SEEK TO ESTABLISH RIGHT OF GUY STILLMAN TO PART OF $37,393,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—John E. Mack, guardian of Guy Stillman, yesterday brought legal proceedings to establish the child's right to a share in the trust funds totalling $37,393,000 established by his grandfather for his five children. This action was taken in connection with the divorce brought by James A. Stillman, millionaire banker, against his wife, in which the child's legitimacy is questioned.

ILDERTON FARMERS HARVEST ROOT CROP

ILDERTON, Oct. 17.—The farmers are hoping that the present fine spell of weather will hold until the work is done. Many are now busy pulling up the root crop and reports promise a good crop of mangels, but turnips are not so good. Some fields show signs of disease or injury from insects, as the tops are dead. Fall wheat fields look well and pasture better than for some years. The fruit growers report a very light crop and mostly of low grade. The Ilderton F. G. A. has an order for two cars from an American firm, price $5, $4.50 and $4 for No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3, but will probably only be able to load one car. Usually the output is 10 to 12 cars and up, but the frosts in spring caused some varieties to be a total blank.

WORLD WARS OVER

Sir George Foster Says War Cannot Be Permitted Nor Afforded.

MONTREAL, Oct. 18.—"We have, I believe, lived through the last world war," declared Sir George Foster, former minister of trade and commerce, speaking before the Montreal Women's Club yesterday afternoon. It could neither be permitted nor afforded, he said.

The forthcoming Washington conference on limitation of armaments would, in his opinion, mark the greatest step that had ever been chronicled if it succeeded, and if it failed it would mark disappointment and retrogression.

READY FOR CONVENTION.

STRATHROY, Oct. 17.—At an enthusiastic rally of the National Liberals and Conservatives here to-night 36 delegates, men and women, were selected to attend the convention, which will be held here on Thursday afternoon. Addresses were given by ex-Mayor J. W. Cameron, George Lewis and David Ivor. President Stevenson announced that he had received many communications from points in the riding and a splendid convention on Thursday was assured.

LOCKJAW VICTIM IMPROVES.

SOMBRA, Oct. 17.—George Salisbury, the young man who is ill with lockjaw as a result of getting a rusty nail in his foot, is improving and hopes are held out for his recovery.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

KITCHENER, Oct. 17.—Waterloo traffic police rounded up 20 motorists over the week-end for violations of traffic regulations. This is a record-breaker for Waterloo.

LASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the day's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can easily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used by generations to clean and stimulate lazy kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this. If you keep up the water drinking, and doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

News of the Federal Campaign

Elgin Laborites Split When Hookway Gets Nomination—Many Maritime Ridings Assured to Government.

CANDIDATES NAMED

NORFOLK—William Sutton, N. L. C.
VICTORIA—James B. Begg, Liberal
PETERBORO E.—J. A. Sexsmith, N. L. C.

A batch of nominating conventions called for this week will pretty well complete the field in Western Ontario in regard to the federal election contest. As shown by the list appended, three-cornered contests will be the rule in a majority of constituencies, as the United Farmers or the Independent Labor party have candidates in a score of the 28 seats comprised in the Western Ontario group.

Twenty-one of these ridings were represented in the 13th Parliament by Liberal-Conservative or Unionist members, and seven by Opposition members, only one of whom was a United Farmer candidate—S. S. McDermand, elected in the East Elgin by-election.

South Oxford Liberals held a convention and offered the candidacy to Mayor Dean, of Tillsonburg, who has not yet accepted. The candidacy of John Purvis, brought out by a National Liberal and Conservative convention in South Bruce, is also conditional on his definite acceptance in a few days. Duncan C. Ross, sitting member for West Middlesex, may be regarded as the Liberal candidate in that riding.

CONVENTIONS TO-DAY.

To-day will see no less than five nominating conventions in the district. East Elgin Liberal-Conservatives meet at Aylmer and are expected to renominate J. L. Stansell, of Straffordville. North Bruce Liberals meet at Tara, West Lambton Liberals at Sarnia, and Southeast Grey Liberals at Durham. South Essex United Farmers are meeting today and are expected to bring out a man to oppose Warden Scratch, N. L. C., and Hon. G. P. Graham, long in the field as Liberal candidate.

On Wednesday East Lambton Liberal-Conservatives are to hold their convention at Alvinston, when J. E. Armstrong, late M. P., will no doubt be the choice again. Considerable interest attaches to the convention of the party in North Grey, at Owen Sound to-day, W. S. Middleboro having within the past few days announced his retirement from politics.

Following is the list of Western Ontario candidates actually nominated:

THE FIELD.

BRANT—Dr. W. H. Reid, National Liberal-Conservative; W. C. Good, United Farmers.
BRANTFORD—W. F. Cockshutt, N. L. C.; W. G. Raymond, Liberal; A. W. Burt, I. L. P.
BRUCE (North)—Col. Hugh Clark, N. L. C.; R. E. Stacey, U. F.
BRUCE (South)—John Purvis, N. L. C.; R. E. Truax, Liberal; J. W. Findley, U. F.
ELGIN (East)—S. S. McDermand, U.F.
ELGIN (West)—Hugh McKillop, N. L. C.; William Tolmie, Liberal; A. E. Hookway, I. L. P.; John Lane, Independent Labor.
ESSEX (North)—W. C. Kennedy, Liberal.
ESSEX (South)—Eugene Scratch, N. L. C.; Hon. G. P. Graham, Liberal.
GREY (North)—W. P. Telford, jr., Liberal; Major Thomas Rutherford, Soldier-Farmer-Labor.
GREY (Southeast)—R. J. Ball, N. L. C.; Miss Agnes McPhail, U. F.
HALDIMAND—F. R. Lalor, N. L. C.; S. A. Beck, U. F.
HURON (North)—George Spotton, N. L. C.; J. Fraser, Liberal; J. W. King, U. F.
HURON (South)—J. J. Merner, N. L. C.; Thomas McMillan, Liberal; William Black, U. F.
KENT—A. B. McCoig, Independent Liberal.
LAMBTON (East)—R. W. Fansher, U. F.
LAMBTON (West)—R. J. White, U. F.
LONDON—C. R. Somerville, Liberal.
MIDDLESEX (East)—Arch. Hodgins, U. F.
MIDDLESEX (West)—J. D. Drummond, U. P.
NORFOLK—William Sutton, N. L. C.; J. A. Wallace, U. F.
OXFORD (North)—E. W. Nesbitte, N. L. C.; Dr. D. J. Sinclair, Liberal; J. H. LeBico, U. F.
OXFORD (South)—Donald Sutherland, N. L. C.
PERTH (North)—H. B. Morphy, N. L. C.; Dr. J. P. Rankin, Liberal; W. A. Amos, Farmer-Labor.
PERTH (South)—Dr. M. Steele, N. L. C.; Wm. Forrester, Liberal; Robert Berry, U. F.
WATERLOO (North)—Dr. E. J. Hett, Labor.
WATERLOO (South)—F. S. Scott, N. L. C.; William Elliott, U. F.
WELLINGTON (North) — W. A. Clarke, N. L. C.; J. C. Pritchard, U. F.
WELLINGTON (South)—Hon. Hugh Guthrie, N. L. C.; S. Carter, Independent Liberal; James Singer, U. F.; J. Oakes, Independent Labor.

N. L. C. AT ALVINSTON.

ALVINSTON, Oct. 17.—The National Liberal and Conservative Association of Alvinston has issued a call for a meeting in the town hall on Wednesday afternoon.

KENT U. F. O.

CHATHAM, Oct. 17.—The U. F. O. of Kent will hold a convention in this city on Saturday next, when it is expected a candidate will be placed in the field. Several names have been mentioned for the position, and at least two of the proposed men have signified their willingness to accept. These are James C. McGuigan, of Cedar Springs, and A. McDiarmid, of Ridgetown. Other names mentioned in connection with the position are Sam Montgomery, of Dover; A. S. Maynard, of Harwich; Harry French, of Dresden, and E. W. Hardey, of Kent Bridge.

DECIDE BY WEDNESDAY.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 17.—Mayor M. G. Dean, who received the Liberal nomination a few days ago and who reserved his dicision on account of pressing business duties as to whether he would stand or not, will give his decion to the executive on Wednesday. Since nomination day his worship has been urgently requested to carry the Liberal banner from farmers and business men all over the riding.

NORTH BRUCE LIBERALS.

PORT ELGIN, Oct. 17.—The Liberal convention will be held in Tara on Tuesday for the purpose of nominating a candidate to contest North Bruce against Col. Hugh Clark, the Conservative nominee, and R. Steacy, the U. F. O. nominee.

At present there are very few aspirants for the position. Alex. McCannell, Saugeen, would accept the nomination. P. A. Malcomson, Kincardine, is also said to be an aspirant. However, the party leaders would like to see James Malcolm, Kincardine, enter the field, as they believe he would stand the best chance. Failing to get him the next choice is J. J. Hunter. He has been approached and was in Port Elgin a few days ago and held a long consultation with a number of the party. What the outcome was has not been divulged. It is possible Mr. Hunter would interfere with another prospect which is being put forward by Southampton people. They want Major Holmie, M. P. P., Windsor, and the major is said to be considering the offer. He is to be at the Tara convention and it is said has the strong backing of C. M. Bowman, former M. P. P. of the riding.

Just how the electors would relish an outsider remains to be seen, but the major will have to have strong assurance of a win before he goes up against Hugh Clark. Gideon Kastner, Wiarton, would be a strong man, but he has given no intimation that he would accept the nomination if he received it.

The old-line parties are finding many U. F. O. men who are drifting back to former affiliations and the activity of the U. F. O. is not as strenuous as it was in the provincial election.

IS NOT TO DROP OUT.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 17.—(By Staff Reporter)—William Tolmie, ex-reeve of Aldborough, and Liberal candidate in the approaching election contest, denies a rumor in circulation on Saturday to the effect that he would drop out of the field for A. E. Hookway was named as I. P. U. F. O. candidate. It matters little to him, he says, who is elected he will continue in the field.

Mayor Dinkman is being indorsed by petitions, which will be presented asking that he allow his name to stand for re-election for 1922. The mayor has as yet made no statement regarding his position, but apparently the citizens are determined to keep him on the job. At least three petitions are said to be in circulation, one of them in the hands of a party of ladies.

WEST LAMBTON PREPARES.

SARNIA, Oct. 17.—With two conventions and two big ratifying rallies to be held this week in Sarnia directors of West Lambton are to have a real week of excitement. To-morrow afternoon the Liberals will hold their convention at 2 o'clock in the city hall when it is expected that F. F. Pardee will receive and accept the nomination of the party for West Lambton. Addresses will be delivered by F. F. Pardee and W. C. Kennedy and others.

On Thursday at 2.30 p. m. the National Liberal and Conservatives hold their convention at the same place, when the nomination will be tendered to R. V. Le Sueur, and it is confidently expected that he will accept. In the evening two big mass meetings will be held by the Conservatives, when Premier Meighen and Hon. G. D. Robertson will be the special attractions. It is expected that these meetings will excel any other political meetings ever held in the county, in view of the fact that public interest in this contest is greater than at any other election ever held in West Lambton.

FOR FREE TRADE.

To-day R. J. White issued his manifesto to the electors, setting forth his platform. In one part he says: "I believe that reciprocal free trade with the United States is the proper policy." He submits himself to the recall and indorses proportional representation, is opposed to tariff for revenue and believes in public ownership of the National Railways.

With the three candidates practically in the field and definite organization work well advanced there is no doubt that the sentiment of the electorate of the city is strongly for the Conservative candidate and his policies, and though in some quarters there is talk of independent action by the Labor party there is little chance of a candidate being put in the field and the great bulk of this vote will poll solidly for the Conservative candidate.

In the rural sections many of the old-line farmers are out of sympathy with the Progressive candidate and support is being tendered the Conservative party from this source, which, a year ago was opposed most strongly to the provincial Conservative candidate.

To-morrow's Liberal convention may see a split in the party, with Dr. Morrison leading the radical wing of the Liberal party for his defection to the Unionists in 1917. It is, however, generally conceded that Mr. Pardee will be the choice.

TO DECIDE POLICY.

The Trades and Labor Council meets to-morrow night, when it is expected that definite steps will be taken to adopt a political policy for the local campaign. Since the defection of this element from the Farmers there has been some speculations as to the platform which will get the support of the local Labor party, and the possibility of running a candidate on an independent ticket has been spoken of.

W.C.T.U. BOARD NAMES CONVENERS

Business Meeting in Readiness for Convention

Forty members of the executive board of the provincial W. C. T. U. were present last evening at a preliminary business meeting in preparation for the 44th annual convention of the Provincial Union, which opened in St. Andrew's Church here this morning.

Following a reception at which Mrs. Hubert Ashplant, president of the local W. C. T. U., was the hostess, the board met with Mrs. Stevens, of Toronto, presiding, to discuss the program for the four-day session of the convention and for the appointment of committees.

The presidential address is to be a feature of this afternoon's session, and this evening Rev. F. B. Watters, a prominent Toronto social service worker, will be the speaker at Dundas Center Church.

THE CONVENERS.

INVITE LABOR TO HELP

INGERSOLL, Oct. 17.—At a meeting in the town hall to-night the U. F. O. of South Oxford extended an invitation to Ingersoll Labor to unite with them at the convention to be held at Mount Elgin on October 25 and help chose a candidate to contest the Federal election. Following discussion steps were taken to organize here and later an answer will be given the Farmers.

M. H. Staples, of the Central U. F. O., Toronto, was the chief speaker. He traced the history of the Farmers' organization and during his remarks on the tariff question said the U. F. O. was not out to kill industry, but sought a square deal for all.

E. T. Rodwell, of Burgessville, presided. A. T. Walker, M. P. P., South Oxford, and M. Kneal also spoke.

H. C. HOCKEN NOMINATED.

TORONTO, Oct. 17. — The Conservatives of the federal riding of West Toronto to-night renominated H. C. Hocken, member of the last Parliament, as their candidate in the approaching federal election. There were only three nominations, Mr. Hocken, Dr. Caroline Brown and Mr. W. B. Graham.

The California Limited caters to highest class travel

The Navajo, The Missionary, The Scout carry tourist and standard sleepers

Never have you traveled on a finer train than the California Limited. The same steward "all the way" in Fred Harvey dining car. A Pullman to Grand Canyon rim.

The Navajo makes fast time to California. So does the Missionary, which also has Pullman for the Canyon. The Scout's schedule is a little slower. All three carry tourist and standard sleepers. Chair cars, too. You get off the train three times a day beyond Kansas City, and enjoy Fred Harvey dollar meals served in dining rooms at artistic station hotels. Most travelers like this plan.

Stop two days at Grand Canyon National Park on your way. The trails to the river are open all winter; it's summer down below. El Tovar, on the rim, is managed by Fred Harvey and never closes.

Write, 'phone or call and let me help plan your California trip. Ask for "California Picture Book:" something unique in travel publications, contains bird's eye map of state in color.

Miss Mowat, Charlotte street, was recently the hostess of a very happy party arranged in honor of the bride-elect, Miss Winnifred Colbert, by a number of her girl friends. A pretty event of the evening was the appearance of an adorable kewpie, impersonated by little Jean Roberts, who brought to the bride-to-be a small express cart laden with ribbon decked baskets. These upon examination were found to contain a generous variety of groceries, sufficient to stock the larder of the bride's new home for many a day. Music, games and a dainty supper concluded the affair.

A delightful evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Ramsay, 20 Erie avenue, when the members of the Erie Avenue Club were entertained at cards. Halloween decorations lent an added beauty and charm to the party, while scores of candles and illuminated pumpkins produced a novel lighting effect. The occasion was the first of many social events which will be given by the different club members during the coming months. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jarmain, Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wenige, Miss Ramsay, the Misses Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Nugent, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Archer, Dr. George Ramsay, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McMurray, Mr. and Mrs. Kenerson and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Deacon.

Miss Viola Batten, of Lambeth, one of the popular October brides, was recently entertained at two showers arranged in her honor. On Friday evening a group of friends gathered at the home of Mrs. Joseph Rennison, in Glanworth, to present the bride-to-be with a fascinating array of gifts, including many lovely bits of china and cut glass. The party concluded with supper and an informal dance. On Saturday evening Miss Batten was the guest of the members of Lambeth Trinity Church congregation, meeting at the home of Mrs. Elmore Routledge. A pretty feature of the evening was the showering of the guest of honor with a gay deluge of confetti, falling from a snowy wedding bell, and later the surprised bride-electdiscovered a great number of lovely gifts laid at her feet.

A charming reception of interest to many friends of the hostess in this city took place last week in Winnipeg, when Mrs. Archibald Hunt (formerly Miss Marjorie Struthers, of London), received for the first time since her arrival in Winnipeg. Mrs. Hunt, who looked very sweet in her graceful frock of dove canton crepe, heavily beaded, was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. E. R. C. Struthers, of this city, who wore a handsome black and white costume. Roses and asters made the pretty rooms most attractive, masses of Ophelia roses and asparagus fern, in a silver basket, centering the tea table, over which Mrs. Louis Redmond and Mrs. Garth Morse presided. Assisting in the tearoom were Mrs. Brooke, Miss Hilda Hamilton, Miss Marjorie Carruthers, Miss Marjorie Waugh and the Misses Miriam and Kate Rowley.

A delightful social affair was the shower arranged in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sifton, at their home near Thamesford, where a number of their friends presented them with some handsome gifts. The presentation was made in a charming fashion, in a basket gaily decked with wedding bells and fluttering white streamers, a miniature bride and groom adding a pretty touch. An attractive musical program was arranged, with Rev. Mr. Baker as chairman, Mrs. H. T. Reason, Miss Lillian Johnson and Miss Leona Murphy, of this city, assisting. Nearly 100 guests were present to give a warm greeting to the bride and groom, who have recently taken up farming in the Thamesford neighborhood. Mr. Sifton is a grandson of Sir Clifford Sifton and his bride, a very charming girl, was formerly Miss Adeline Ball, of Toronto. Much of the success of the happy event is due to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith, Mr. Oliver Smith and Mr. Payne, who had the arrangements in hand.

Y.M.C.A. AUXILIARY VOTES TO SUPPORT HOME INDUSTRIES

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. at their meeting yesterday passed a resolution in support of the patronage of home manufactures, both as a patriotic measure and as a means towards lessening the present conditions of unemployment.

The resolution followed an interested discussion, introduced by the reading of a letter from the recently organized Women's Bureau of Information in Ottawa, urging upon the society, collectively and individually, the importance of this matter.

With Mrs. A. MacTavish presiding, reports were received from the supper committees, showing the regular weekly program of suppers to have been most satisfactorily carried out.

EXPERIENCE OF NEW YORK WOMAN

Mrs. Lehman Had Spffered Ten Years From Indigestion—In Splendid Health Now.

"I suffered for 10 years from nervous indigestion. I had no appetite and always felt miserable. I was in such a serious condition I thought my time for this world was getting short. My food didn't seem to nourish me at all and I only weighed 85 pounds.

"After taking Tanlac I now weigh 108 and am gaining every day. Oh! there is such a wonderful change now. Tanlac relieved my troubles so quickly it surprised me. My appetite is splendid. I have plenty of strength and feel better than I have in years. I wouldn't take one thousand dollars for what Tanlac did for me."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Clara Lehman, Bristol Hotel, Rochester, N. Y.

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by Liggett's Drug Stores and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

He was thinking what a scene almost any other girl in the world would have made. He was full of admiration for her pluck.

"You're almost as good as a doctor," Norah told him shakily. "Where did you learn bandaging?"

"When I was abroad; it came in useful there. What doctor do you go to—Bethune?"

"Yes."

"Yes; I like him awfully. . . . Oh!" The tears came now, though she wiped them away furiously with her uninjured hand. They came faster and faster.

"That's the worst," said the black sheep. "I had to pull it tight or it wouldn't have been any good."

He finished his bandage and consididerately turned his back on her, folding his handkerchief into a sling.

Presently, "I'm all right now," Norah said. "I'm sorry I was such a baby."

"You're pluckier than many men I've known," he told her.

He slipped his handkerchief about her bandaged arm and knotted it round her neck.

"Comfortable?" he asked. "Sure it's not too tight?"

"Quite sure." She looked up at him with an April smile.

"Now you never will come out with me again," he said, "will you?"

She laughed a little.

"I will if you ask me," she answered.

But she was wondering with dismay what she would say when she got home. How she could explain a badly sprained wrist and a bandage. She thought hopefully that she might manage to hide it. After all, it was her left arm, and if she were very careful, perhaps nobody would notice it.

But the sprain ached intolerably. Slowly though Laxton drove on the homeward way, every movement and jolt of the car was torture. Once or twice she felt almost sick with pain.

When they were a mile from Lumsden she asked him to stop.

"I'd rather walk home, if you don't mind," she said.

"The car shakes you? Let me drive slower. . . . I know you must be in horrible pain."

"No; it isn't that—but. . . . . Oh, Mr. Laxton, will you think it very horrid of me if I say that I don't want them at home to know that I've been with you this afternoon? It isn't that I mind what they say in the least, but father—" She broke off in distress.

"You mean that your father will be more down on me than ever?" he finished for her.

"Yes, and . . . and I don't want him to be."

Their eyes met, and suddenly the black sheep bent his head and kissed her bandaged wrist—kissed it so gently that she hardly felt the touch of his lips.

"Thank you," he said.

Then he laughed ruefully. "And the wrist—how will you explain that?"

She shook her head. "I don't know. Perhaps they won't notice, or perhaps I will just tell Dr. Bethune; he'll understand—he understands everything."

Laxton looked undecided. "I think I ought to come to the house with you and explain," he said. "I don't want your father to think I'm afraid of him. It's far better to tell him straight out what happened. He may hear through somebody else and then things will be worse than ever. Let me come home with you and tell him."

But Norah shook her head. "I'd ever so much rather you didn't," she said earnestly. "You don't know how furious he would be. He—he'd move heaven and earth to prevent me ever seeing you again," she added, laughing faintly.

Laxton looked away from her down the road.

"Does that mean that you are going to be kind and let me see you again?" he asked.

She did not answer.

"Does it?" he urged softly. Norah had never heard just that intonation in a man's voice before. She felt as if something had stirred gently against her heart. She was too ignorant of the world and its ways to know that she was but being used as a pawn in a game of which Laxton knew every move by heart. She was too honest and unaffected to think it worth while to conceal the fact that she liked this man, and that she wanted to see him again, many times.

Her gray eyes were like stars as she looked at him; a little smile quivered over her pale face for an instant.

"Of course, I want to see you again," she said softly.

CHAPTER VII.

Rodney Ackroyd had spent a miserable afternoon. If he had never seen Laxton's gray car vanishing round the bend of the road intuition would have told him where Norah had gone.

For the first time in his life he was miserably jealous. He had always known that she did not care for him in the way he wished her to; but that she should care for any other man enough to think it worth while to steal out of the house without telling anyone where she was going struck him to the heart.

He left his letters unwritten. He felt unable to settle to anything.

Half a dozen times he felt that he must go and tell Mr. Ackroyd, and see that an end was put to this acquaintance with Laxton once and for all; but somehow he hesitated to do so. Mr. Ackroyd was already annoyed with Norah, and Rodney rightly guessed what a towering rage he would be in if he knew that she had been out with the black sheep again that afternoon.

In his silent, ineloquent way, Rodney adored Norah. He would have given his life for her gladly; his was that blind, unreasoning kind of worship that so seldom meets with the return it deserves.

Weddings

Watts-Jones—Ball.

A marriage of interest to many Londoners was recently solemnized in Victoria, B. C., when Miss Alice Frances Priscilla Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Keppel Ball, formerly of Vancouver, B. C., Passadena, Cal., and of London, Ont., was married to Captain Alan Chester Watts-Jones, only son of the late Captain W. A. Watts-Jones of the "Ancient House," Neeley, Essex, England, and nephew and direct heir to the Marquess Conyngham, bearer of one of the oldest titles in the British aristocracy. Captain and Mrs. Watts-Jones will live in England.

Ruehle-Ryckman.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ryckman, 15 Kitchener avenue, on Saturday afternoon, when their daughter, Frieda, was united in marriage by a double ring ceremony to Mr. Robert Ruehle, of Detroit, Mich., Rev. A. C. Bingham officiating. The bride was charmingly gowned in white charmeuse satin and carried a shower bouquet of pink Ophelia roses. She entered the drawing-room with her father to the strains of the bridal chorus played by Miss Yettie Blinkhorn. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Ryckman, of Brantford, who was attractively attired in a dress of Alice blue charmeuse satin and carried a bouquet of Columbia roses. Mr. Ralph Ruehle, of Detroit, Mich., brother of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony they sat down to a dainty wedding repast. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruehle, of Detroit; Mrs. Nichols, also of Detroit, and Mrs. Plumridge and son, of Brantford. The groom's gift to the bride was a brooch set with pearls; to the bridesmaid a ring; to the groomsman a set of initialed cuff links, and to the pianist a cameo barpin. After an extended honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Ruehle will reside in Detroit.

VISIONS.

I wonder if you can tell me of anything to relieve my husband of visions coming to him at night when he wants to sleep? They are generally of ugly faces, heads and so on, laughing and jeering and making noises that he sees at night. He tries to get away from the sight by squeezing his eyes tight shut, but they come again and again, and when they at last disappear his head feels full and queer; then that also prevents him from sleeping. He is getting on in years, between 70 and 80.

Answer.—In order for all the organs to work properly pure blood must circulate through the body. The brain is an organ, the same as any other. It secretes thought just as the liver secretes bile; when the blood becomes impure by reason of eating late at night, or by excessive use of tea, coffee and the like, the brain thus nourished by this impure blood is going to act badly. Then the sufferer sees things which don't exist, except in "the mind's eye," as Hamlet observed. That is, he has hallucinations. The remedy is for the blood to become thoroughly purified. Some doctor must advise you as to this.

Questions and Answers.

Is there a place where I could gain a few inches in height, as I would like very much to take an examination in a few months. Where can I get a brace for my shoulder, as I walk with my head forward and I would like to get something to straighten myself up?

Answer.—The Good Book says: "Can one by taking thought add one cubit to his stature?" Still by regular exercise, say in a Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, a round-shouldered party can, if not in a few months, certainly in a year or two, add an inch or two to his height. Or why don't you join the militia? Better than any artficial straitener is exercise and the leading of the hygienic life (information mailed you).

I was rejected in the army for hypertrophy of the heart. I had diphtheria 10 years ago, but never was sick a day since then. It never seems to bother me as to pains. Would you please explain this subject to me and frankly tell me if there is any help for same than treatments by a good physician? I would like to carry life insurance, but am in doubt about being accepted on that account.

Answer.—Your heart was no doubt affected by the toxin (poison) of the diphtheria. So long as you do not overta, are not short-winded, have no pain along the ribs on the right side, and your feet do not swell, you will be safe, if you lead the hygienic life (information mailed you). Plenty of people going around the same as the rest of us with hypertrophied hearts. Don't worry, except as above.

CITIZEN'S COMMITTEE TO DISCUSS CANDIDATES

Many Names to Be Suggested by Women's Societies at To-Day's Meeting

A number of nominees for civic honors, chiefly for the Board of Education, will be suggested at this afternoon's meeting of the women's citizenship committee. It is understood that several of the women's organizations of the city are prepared with suggestions along these lines, and the nominations will be made by the representatives of these societies to-day.

Officers of the committee declined yesterday to make any statement as to these forthcoming nominations, but it is known that the names must be submitted to the committee and through the committee to the subcommittee of the Local Council of Women for indorsation, which will mean the united support of the Local Council.

It is believed that the names suggested will not be by any means confined to the fair sex, but that the women in the city organizations have been giving careful thought to the presentation of candidates particularly fitted to hold office.

PARIS (By Mail.) — Whether your autumn hat is a trig little round affair or one of those swagger broad brimmed models considered so smart this season, you can make it a more important part of your costume by repeating its color in the girdle of your frock and in the hand bag. In Paris they are doing this very little thing and doing it charmingly. In the sketch I illustrate a set combining hat, belt and purse and from a shop in the Avenue de l'Opera, and this particular set is very new, for the purse, belt and band around the turban are crocheted. Scarlet wool is used, kid leather in the same color forming the soft crown of the turban with its gorgeous poppy. The leather is also used to bind the edges of belt and bag.

In another shop this same fancy found expression in black and gold, a large black velvet hat, with floppy brim faced in gold cloth, having as companions a belt and bag of the gold cloth ornamented with lozenges of black velvet. "For a black afternoon frock," the madame suggested

EARS—SHORT OR LONG.

Henrietta Hen's heart began to thump. She dropped a bit of the cabbage out of her bill, letting it fall as if it burned her. And usually she was very careful as to her table manners.

"Goodness!" she said to Jimmy Rabbit, who was busily munching cabbage in Farmer Green's garden. "You frightened me!"

He had just asked her this strange question: "Did you ever hear it said that eating too much cabbage causes long ears?" And Henrietta Hen didn't want long ears. She knew they would be sure to spoil her beauty.

Jimmy Rabbit had no time to say anything more to Henrietta Hen. Although he had not finished his luncheon he left the garden suddenly—and in great haste. For old dog Spot began barking just beyond the fence, and Jimmy Rabbit always wanted to get as far from that sound as he could.

When Spot scurried into the cabbage patch a little later Henrietta Hen called to him:

"What is it?" he asked her impatiently. "I'm in a great hurry; I don't like to stop."

"This is a very important matter," said Henrietta Hen. "Do you like cabbage?" she demanded.

"Cabbage?" he repeated after her as a puzzled look came over his face.

"You needn't act so surprised," Henrietta told him coldly. "You didn't come running into the garden for nothing. And I have reason to believe that you intended to eat some of Farmer Green's cabbages."

"What's your reason?" old Spot inquired.

"You have long ears," said Henrietta Hen.

"Nonsense!" cried Spot. "What a person eats doesn't make his ears either long or short."

"Are you sure of that?" Henrietta Hen wanted to know.

"I've never eaten cabbage in all my life," he declared.

"Perhaps," she said, "if you had eaten it your ears would have grown twice as long as they are now."

He shook his head. "I don't think so," he muttered.

"There's only one way to find out," Henrietta Hen announced. "Eat a lot of cabbage—all you can! And we'll soon

14
"Of course he was," said Spot—and none too pleasantly.

see whether your ears are growing longer."

But old dog Spot refused flatly to do anything of the sort. He said that his ears suited him quite well just as they were.

"What!" cried Henrietta. "Wouldn't you eat cabbage to oblige a lady?"

Old Spot said he was sorry, but he had no liking for cabbage.

"How can you tell if you've never tasted it?" she asked.

He made no answer to that question. Instead, he asked her one of his own.

"Would you like long ears?" he inquired.

"Certainly not," she cried.

"How can you tell if you've never tried wearing any?" he demanded.

"Don't be stupid!" she snapped. "None of my family wears ears that can be seen. What a sight I'd be with long ears! Ears are very ugly things, and I only hope that I haven't eaten so much cabbage that mine will begin to grow. Do you suppose they'd hang down like yours or stick up like Jimmy Rabbit's? He didn't say anything about that.

Old dog Spot let out a howl.

"Jimmy Rabbit!" he growled. "Was he talking with you just before I arrived?"

"Yes!" said Henrietta. "It was he that asked me if I had ever heard that eating cabbage made a person's ears grow."

"I might have known that it was that young Rabbit who put such a silly notion into your head," Spot grumbled. "If you hadn't stopped me I'd have stopped him by this time. But it's too late now."

"You don't suppose he was joking, do you?" Henrietta inquired.

"Of course he was," said Spot—and none too pleasantly.

"Well," Henrietta mused as she pecked at a cabbage leaf, "I must say that I think the joke's on you."

KITCHENER SHOPPERS BUSY DODGING BULLETS

Rifles, in Pool Room on King Street, Are Accidentally Discharged.

KITCHENER, Oct. 17.—Bullets flying into King street here on Saturday night during the shopping hour caused considerable excitement and incidentally a number of ladies directly in front of the fusillade narrowly escaped injury and possible death. In some manner, which the local police fail to explain, rifles in Arnold Brothers' pool room were accidentally discharged. No arrests followed.

SCANDRETT STORE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Loss Estimated at $5,000 in Blaze of Unkonwn Origin

STARTED NEAR ELEVATOR

Wilfrid Westiell, Nine Years Old, First to Notice Fire

Fire of an undetermined origin broke out in Scandrett Bros.' grocery store, 175 Dundas street, at five minutes to 7 o'clock last night. The loss is estimated at $5,000, which is fully covered by insurance.

BOY GIVES ALARM.

The fire was first noticed by Wilfred Westiell, nine years old, who resides over the Detroit Photo Studio, Richmond street, and the smoke was then pouring through the roof of the building, near the skylight, which is in the center of the store.

When the lad noticed the fire he ran to P. C. Percy Last, who was directing traffic on the corner of Dundas and Richmond streets, and notified him of the fire. The officer went to the fire box on the corner and turned the key, but the box was out of order and Sergt. William Middaugh ran to the street railway phone, on the corner, where the alarm was sent in. In view of the confusion in getting the fire hall no time was lost by the officers. To the lad is due no little praise for his quick work, which likely saved the building from serious loss.

STARTS ON THIRD FLOOR.

The blaze started on the third floor in a pile of rubbish, composed of a number of crates and baskets, that was near the elevator shaft at the rear of the store. Four lines of hose were directed on the fire, two from the rear and two from the front of the store. The building itself was little, if any, damaged. The blaze was confined to the third floor and caused considerable smoke. The firemen put tarpaulins over goods on the ground floor and thus saved the stock from any damage. The bulk of the stock, which was water-soaked, is not totally damaged.

Firemen, under the able direction of Capt. John Scott, who was in charge, are deserving of credit for the manner in which they kept the blaze from spreading through the store. They encountered some difficulty on account of the dense smoke.

Scott's bookstore, at 173 Dundas street, and Betty Brown's candy store on the east side of Scandrett's, suffered no damage.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur, It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular, because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft luster and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.—Advt.

BRITISH PLATE WORKS, IRON MILLS, RESUME

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable). — The northwest coast steel manufacturers have made a drastic cut of 70s per ton in the price of ship plates, which are now 10 guineas per ton, compared with £24 10s at the beginning of this year. The manufacturers declare that they are not merely sacrificing profits, but are incurring big losses in order to encourage trade.

Further evidence of the revival of industry in Great Britain is seen in the resumption of manufactures by two more iron works in the Cleveland district after six months of idleness. More Welsh tinplate mills resumed work today, chiefly to fulfill foreign orders. Increasing numbers of men are finding employment in Swansea.

DRESSES WE HAVE LOVED

It is said that practically every adult person could write one good story of the thing that has meant the most in his life, because practically every person has had some great moment in his life, and when we write straight from the heart and experience we write something worth reading.

So true is this that the editor of a big magazine once told me that he never had any great faith in a new author until he had written several stories because the first, and perhaps the first two or three might be this writing out of his own personal experience, and until he had proved he could do more than that he had not proved himself a writer.

That second paragraph wanders a bit from what I started to say, namely, that I feel sure every woman could write something worth reading on "Dresses I have loved."

My old great aunt used to be very much displeased when I said: "I love coffee ice cream." "You love your mother and you like food," she would assure me rigidly.

I suppose she would be equally shocked — perhaps even more so for she was of Puritan stock — to hear me speak of loving dresses, and yet I insist on that verb.

For when a group of us women (note that, please, you unknown Letter Friend who addressed your letter "Miss, Mrs. or Mr. Cameron") fell to talking on the subject of gowns that have been dear to us the other evening, I insist that I saw a glow of genuine affection on the face of more than one woman.

While we do not subscribe to the irreverent exaggertion of the woman who said "There is a comfort in being well dressed that religion cannot give," we know that she meant it.

To put on a gown that is lovely in itself, that is smart, and that becomes you, is one of the most gratifying experiences life has to offer a woman.

Such a gown, giving her faith in herself, will often change her whole reaction to the people around her, make her elegant and graceful where she has been awkward, well-poised where she has been diffident, even witty where she has been dull.

Think back to some of the dresses you have loved and some of the good times you have had in them. In fancy, I can see your lips curve in the half smile that pleasant memories always bring to our lips.

That is one reason why patchwork quilts meant so much to our grandmothers. They were not only quilts but they were lovely and useful memorabilia books of their good times.

Wouldn't you love to see them come back into vogue again? The old patchwork quilt and the old photograph album are two of the things I hope to see come back into use before I die.

A NEW AND POPULAR WAIST STYLE.

Patern 3709 was used for this pleasing model. It is cut in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require three yards of 36-inch material.

Satin, canton crepe, taffeta, duvetyn, tricolette, serge, velveteen and combinations of material may be used for this design. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or elbow length.

Efficient Housekeeping
BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

GUEST SUPPERS FROM LEFT-OVERS.

The housekeeper-hostess need feel no apology in placing food left-overs before a guest if they be prepared in some such dainty way as in the following supper menus:

Fish Cutlets.
Pickled Onions. Vegetable Salad.
Tea. Muffins.
Lemon Tarts.

Fish Cutlets. Chop fine the remnants of cold fish, seasoning to suit taste with salt and pepper; add just enough cream sauce to moisten slightly. (The mixture should be quite thick.) Now heat it in the upper part of a double boiler, after measuring. When it is hot add 1 egg yolk for every cup and a half of the fish. Let cook only a few minutes after adding the egg yolks. Turn out on to a platter to cool mixed with two tablespoons of chopped parsley. When quite cold, form into small cutlets, roll these in bread crumbs, dip them in egg, then roll them in bread crumbs again. Cook in deep, hot fat by means of a frying basket. When a rich brown, drain on crumpled brown paper a moment, and serve with a slice of lemon.

Chicken Mold in Aspic.
Olives. Hot Stuffed Baked Tomatoes.
Cocoa. Rice Gems.
Prune Whip.

Chicken Mold in Aspic: Break two cups of cold, left-over chicken into small pieces (or use the contents of one can of boned chicken) and set it aside. Prepare a jelly from one cup of vegetable stock strained (canned vegetable soup may be used if desired), 1 cup of sirup drained from a jar of sweet pickles, a dash of salt, pepper and celery salt, and one rounding tablespoon of granulated gelatine softened in ¼ cup of cold water; heat this mixture until the gelatine is dissolved, set it aside till it begins to stiffen (you can tell when this stage is reached by the way it clings to the edge of the bowl when the bowl is tipped slightly) then stir in the chicken, 1 sliced hard-boiled egg, a few bits of parsley and ½ cup of sliced, drained sweet pickles. Chill on ice in a square mold which has been rinsed out with cold water before the gelatine mixture is put into it.

Brazilian Stuffed Peppers.
Rice-Cheese Ramekins.
Coffee. Cornbread.
Apple Tarts.

Brazilian Stuffed Peppers: Split six large green peppers down one side, remove seeds and stem, and simmer in boiling water for 1 hour. Then place flat in a meat pan and heap on the two spread halves a mixture made of 1 cup of cold, left-over, cooked meat put through the food chopper with 8 stuffed olives and 2 thick slices of bread then seasoned to taste with salt and pepper and moistened slightly with hot water. Heap this stuffing high on each flatly-spread pepper and place a piece of raw bacon over each (this not only gives a delicious flavor but helps to hold the stuffing on the peppers—and incidentally, to give an appetizing appearance to the dish when served. Pour a little hot water in the pan. Bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes, then slip the pan under a top-over flame or grill so that the bacon with brown crisply. Serve very hot.

H. E. JONES MISSING SINCE THURSDAY LAST

Family Very Anxious and Send Pathetic Appeal—Missing Man Was in a Nervous State Lately.

H. E. Jones, a citizen of Manor Park, dissapeared from his home last Thursday, and his family is exceedingly anxious. A pathetic appeal was sent to the Manor Park postmaster to-day addressed to H. E. Jones, which stated: "Minnie and Frances are alone, I have serious news for you. Your trusty friend, Retroniere."

Mr. Jones has been in nervous condition for some time past, acquaintances state, and any information as to his whereabouts would be appreciated by his much worried family.

TUBERCULAR PATIENTS DISCUSS GRIEVANCES

WINNIPEG, Oct. 17. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—Creation of a national organization to care more efficiently for the interests of 10,000 military tubercular patients in Canadian sanatoriums, increased pensions to meet their financial requirements and initiation of a public campaign to disprove a prevailing notion that tubercular men are to be avoided, are the main problems that will be handled by delegates attending the first annual convention of tubercular men, which opened here this afternoon. About a dozen delegates are in attendance, representing military sanatoriums at Kentville, N. S.; St. Agathe, Que.; Kingston, Hamilton, London, Ont.; Ninette, Man.; Fort Qu'Appelle, Sask.; Calgary and Tranquille, B. C.

SMITH ENGAGES LAWYER TO SEEK HIS RELEASE

KINGSTON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Cecil Smith, the Windsor "bootlegger," arrived at the penitentiary this morning to do five years for attempted bribery. Before entering the institution Smith engaged a local lawyer to work on his case in conjunction with his lawyers at Windsor, seeking his release.

DR. PROCTOR RESIGNS AS HEAD OF FREEPORT

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 17.—Dr. Proctor, director of the Freeport Tuberculosis Sanatorium, announced his resignation as head of the institution to-day. Dr. Proctor has been in charge since the hospital was opened by the army medical board shortly after the beginning of the war.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Homemade Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it with a homemade mixture.

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and ¼-ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Advt.

Good Health for Good Results

Keep Efficient by Keeping Well

This Letter Will Tell You How

Plunkett, Sask.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness. I had pains in the back and bearing-down pains in the abdomen and was in a general run-down condition. I could not sleep, rest or work and was quite unfit to do even slight household tasks. A friend told me about your Vegetable Compound and I in my turn truly recommend it, as my severe symptoms vanished and I am better in every way. I do my own work, look after my children and see to chickens, a cow and my garden. I also recommend it for young girls who are weak and rundown as my 16 year old daughter has taken it and is quite her own gay self again."—MRS FRED. WILEY, Plunkett, Sask.

This letter is but one of a great number received every year from women, young and old, and from almost every walk of life. These letters testify to the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Wiley suffered mentally as well as physically, because her home and her children demanded the care and attention which she was unable to give because of her wretched health. Finally she tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and in this letter tells what it did for her.

The Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and can be taken in safety by any woman. Your livelihood depends on your health. So try

Knock Teacher Cold

ILDERTON, Oct. 15.—The annual "field day" of the three district continuation schools was held at Ailsa Craig on Friday on the school grounds. A full quota from each school was present, 40 from Coldstream, 30 from Ilderton and the full school from the home town. The weather was ideal and quite a large crowd of spectators were present and enjoyed the long list of sports put on by the schools.

Two indoor baseball games—Coldstream vs. Ailsa Craig, at 1 o'clock; score 37 to 7 in favor of coldstream. Ilderton vs. Ailsa Craig; score, 12 to 11 in favor of Ilderton.

Basket ball—Ailsa Craig vs. Coldstream; score, 17 to 8 in favor of Ailsa Craig. Ailsa Craig vs. Ederton; score, 25 to 7 in favor of Ailsa Craig.

During the ball game Mr. Bell, principal of Ailsa Craig School, and pitcher for the team, was stunned by colliding with another player, and was unconscious for some time, but recovered so as to be around later in the afternoon. Summary:

Senior running jump—Clifton McLean, Coldstream; Bert Keene, Ailsa Craig. The measure was 16 feet, 11 inches.

Junior running jump—Robert Muma, Ronald Cutter, Coldstream.

Senior high jump—Clifton McLean, Bert Keene.

Junior high jump—Robert Muma, Court Carmichael, Coldstream.

Senior hop, step and jump—Clifton McLean, Bert Keene.

The pole vault was very hotly contested, and after nearly a half hour's work was won by Bert Keene, who was closely pressed by John Fletcher and Chester Brown.

100-yard dash, senior—Clifton McLean, Bert Keene.

100-yard dash, junior—Robert Muma, Douglas Campbell.

The relay race was won by Coldstream, second Ailsa Craig. The girls' relay, Ailsa Craig; second, Coldstream. 100-yard dash for girls, Colena Ferguson, Coldstream. Throwing baseball, Annie Robson. Throwing basket ball, Lottie McVicar, Frances Coverhill. Stump speeches by teachers, 1st, Elsie Cuverhill, Ilderton principal; 2nd, Mr. Bell, Ailsa Craig principal.

Ailsa Craig, as hosts, put up a splendid supper for all the visitors.

The next field day will probably be held at Memorial Park, Poplar Hill.

AYLMER HIGH CHAMPIONS.

AYLMER, Oct. 17.—The annual field day of the Aylmer High and Public Schools was held on Friday on the playgrounds, and an excellent half day's sport was witnessed by a large crowd.

Senior championship, boys—Russell Penhale.

Junior championship, boys—Crawford Johnson.

Senior championship, girls—Jean McKnight.

Junior championship, girls—Mabel Miller.

TOURNEY TO-MORROW.

St. Matthew's Bowling Club will hold a rink tournament on Wednesday afternoon at 1.30 on the green of St. Mark's Club at East London.

Three 10-end games will be played. Entries may be phoned to Secretary. Phone Nos. 3598-W. or 7481.

First 18 entries received will take part.

SARNIA HOUSE ENTERED.

SARNIA, Oct. 17.—Burglars entered the residence of N. W. Pollard, Bright street, at an early hour this morning and removed a small quantity of goods. Entrance was made by breaking a basement window. The loss was reported to the police but no trace of the robber or goods has been found.

LONDON WANTS ANNUAL MEETING OF MINT LEAGUE HELD HERE IN THREE WEEKS

Baseball Solons Have Not Met in London Since January, 1920; Many Matters Should Be Disposed of Before National Association Convenes at Buffalo on December 5

PINTO.

President W. H. Heard, of the London Michigan-Ontario Baseball League Club, has written to seven club presidents, asking them to request President G. H. Maines to call the annual meeting within the next three weeks, and at the same time pointed out the fact that the logical place to hold the confab is London. Every city in the league, with the possible exception of Saginaw, Mich., has been favored with a league conference since the annual meeting of January 1920, was held at the Tecumseh House here. With Michigan cities being favored for the last three gatherings, London has the first claim on the next meeting, which should be held in Ontario.

There are innumerable matters to be disposed of, all of which should be dealt with before the annual meeting of the National Association takes place at Buffalo during the week of December 5.

While here President Sexton, of the National Association, stated that it would be advisable for all club owners to refrain from signing up players for 1922, as he thought that drastic cuts would be made to all the salary limits which were set at the last annual meeting.

The limit on class "B" League for the past season was $3,200.

President Heard received the signed contract of an outfielder by the name of Leonard Haase, of Blue Island, Ill., who was signed up by Manager Wetzel.

The reserve list of the London club, filed on September 10 last, included the following players: R. Donnelly, W. Kuhn, Frank Emmer, W. Shay, G. Stutz, L. J. Crichlow, E. E. Calbert, F. Herbst, Fowlkes, Curry, J. Briger, O. Delotele, G. Carmen, L. Pinto, Lampson, J. Stack, A. Dixon, Fleischman, Webber and W. Hilliyer.

Pitcher Lerton Pinto has been sold to the Philadelphia Nationals since the list was filed, and additional names will be added before the final reserve list is promulgated.

WOODSTOCK HIGH PLAYS LONDON HERE TO-MORROW

Coach Taylor to Select Team To-Day; "Buster" Reid Takes Western U. Twelve in Hand To-Day

The London Collegiate squad, which will oppose Woodstock Collegiate in an interscholastic fixture here to-morrow afternoon, will be chosen by Coach A. T. Taylor.

The boys put in two hours at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon and will be out for a full practice this afternoon.

From present indications there may be a few changes in the team, but this will be definitely decided upon after the workout.

Western University rugby team is preparing to meet Toronto Varsity here on Saturday. Lieut.-Col. Eric (Buster) Reid will be out with the boys this afternoon and the Londoners will try and make a better showing than they did against St. Michaels here last Saturday.

ST. THOMAS WINS AGAIN.

St. Thomas Collegiate Institute won their first O.R.F.U. junior game of the season from Woodstock College on Saturday by 31 to 0, at St. Thomas. Despite the one-sided score, the game was featured with good playing on both teams. Woodstock's line held well at first, but in the later stages gave way to the onslaught of the locals. St. Thomas' running plays netted them many yards. Only once did the Collegiate team fail to secure their yards on three downs, although they frequently gave Woodstock yards on offside plays.

Fulton, last year's quarterback for Woodstock College, and now with the locals, made the first touchdown on a line plunge. Jones also figured largely in the scoring. Galloway, a member of the W. O. track team, which won in Baltimore last year, and Woodstock's speediest man, had to retire early in the game on account of an injured leg. The locals play the return game next Saturday at Woodstock, and will go to London for a return game on Tuesday, October 25.

St. Marys Team Hopes to Overcome Toronto's Lead

Contend That Riversides Would Not Play Last Saturday Unless Querrie Refereed

A St. Marys lacrosse fan, in a letter to the sporting department of The Free Press, states that the Toronto Riversides, senior Ontario lacrosse champions, would not play St. Marys, intermediate lacrosse champions, last Saturday unless Charles Querrie refereed the game. St. Marys was not allowed to name a goal judge.

St. Marys followers feel that Querrie, who figured prominently in a game at St. Marys last summer with Orangeville, gave the St. Marys a "raw deal," but they are confident that they can overcome the nine-goal lead in Wednesday's game.

WANT ONLY FAIRPLAY.

ST. MARYS, Oct. 17.—President Leonard Smith, of the O.A.L.A., sent a telegram here to-day stating that Riversides objected to Allen Kinder as referee for the game here on Wednesday. In reply St. Marys has forwarded the following message:

"Agreement must be carried out (Kinder as referee and Doyle as judge of play), or we claim senior championship." The senior champions, also the O.A.L.A. executive, are very doubtful as to the Riversides' chances for winning the title, and are trying to sidestep the game here on Wednesday. All St. Marys want is fair play with no favors, and that agreement, signed last week by President Smith, be carried out. The intermediate champions will not tolerate or submit to any trickery on the part of the O.A.L.A. or the Riversides in the final championship game for the senior title.

BRANTFORD GOLF TITLES

BRANTFORD, Oct. 17.—Club championships for the year at the Brantford Golf Club are announced as follows: Mrs. Frank Leeming won over Miss Bishop; Lyons and Truss defeated Large and Webling in the foursomes; Iden, champion, lived up to his name by defeating Eddie Gould, while Hilton McKay defeated C. J. Watt. These have yet to play off for the club championship.

MOTOR CYCLE TO VIE THANKSGIVING DAY AGAIN HERE

Ald. George Wenige announced yesterday that another motor cycle meet will be held here on Thanksgiving Day. The committee in charge will draft the program within the next few days and it is likely that a bill similar to that presented on Saturday will be presented.

Although the gate receipts were not overly encouraging on Saturday the committee members believe that the next meet will be better attended.

O'Donnell, Dalimore, Friend, Thompson and other motor cycle riders will return for the next meet.

Ruth Again Defies Judge Landis

Babino and Two Other Yanks Play Exhibition at Elmira Yesterday

ELMIRA, N.Y., Oct. 17.—Babe Ruth, batting star of the New York American League, together with Bob Meusel, outfielder, and Pitcher Piercey, played their scheduled game with a local club this afternoon, the visitors winning, 6 to 0. In interviews granted to local sport writers, Ruth repeated his defiance of Commissioner Landis' ruling that the "barnstorming" expedition was contrary to the contract of the players with the National Baseball Commission.

WHO IS BIGGEST MAN?

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Babe Ruth has precipitated what Federal Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, described as a test to determine "who is the biggest man in baseball, the commissioner or the player who makes the most home runs."

Ruth, with Bob Meusel and Bill Piercey, of the Yankees, played in an exhibition baseball game at Buffalo yesterday, in defiance of a formal warning from Judge Landis that the rule prohibiting world's series contendants from appearing in exhibition games prior to the opening of the next big league season would be enforced. Ruth, moreover, announced that he would play again to-day in a game scheduled at Elmira, N.Y.

"I still think I am right and Judge Landis is wrong," Ruth said. "I see no reason why this rule should be invoked against us when Sisler of St. Louis, and others who shared in the world series money, are playing exhibition games unmolested by Judge Landis."

The commissioner was on his way to Chicago to-day, having left New York late yesterday before word was received that Ruth had taken part in the game. He refused to indicate what action he would take in the event Ruth played, further than to say that he would regard the case as a direct challenge to his authority.

OWNERS REGRET VIOLATIONS

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Regret that some Yankee players had violated the rule prohibiting world series contestants from appearing in post-season exhibition games, was expressed in a statement issued to-night by Col. Jacob Ruppert, and Col. Huston, of the New York Americans.

Asserting that the rule had been violated so definitely that Baseball Commissioner Landis had no alternative but to meet the situation firmly, the statement continues:

"This rule appears to be unjust in many respects, but as long as it exists it should be obeyed. The players made the mistake in not petitioning for a modification of the rule."

DEFERS TAKING ACTION AGAINST "BABE" RUTH.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—No immediate action in the case of Babe Ruth will be taken by Judge K. M. Landis, the baseball commissioner said upon his arrival here to-day from New York. He has a number of questions to attend to before the matter of the great swatter's defiance of his order concerning exhibition games, the judge said.

"In the meanwhile," said the judge, "law-abiding baseball players need have no fear that the law will not be enforced. The law of gravitation still is in force, and what goes up is bound to come down."

Manhattans' Entry To Junior O.H.A. Series, Made Month Ago, Will Stand

Club Here Has No Intention of Withdrawing Because Another Team Is to Be Entered in Same Series in London

The Manhattans have no intention of withdrawing the junior O. H. A. team from the field, according to the executive members, as they filed their application with secretary Hewitt over one month ago, and plans are now under way to place a strong team on the ice this coming winter.

A hockey war may be raged as a result of the Alerts deciding to enter two teams in the O.H.A. series this year, one an intermediate and the other a junior.

London was without a junior aggregation last year and the Manhattans decided early in the spring to take some action, and see that a junior team was placed in the O. H. A. series this coming winter. The executive was named and other plans made.

The prediction that the Manhattans will withdraw from the field in favor of the Alerts is not likely to mature, as the Manhattans see no reason why they should withdraw their team. If the Alerts had operated both teams last season, the Manhattans would have never invaded the field, but, considering that their entry was the first filed, they are there to stay, according to the officers of the Manhattan Hockey Club.

ROOM FOR TWO TEAMS.

A hockey war will not be welcomed by the Manhattans, as the Alerts have been invited to co-operate with the Manhattans to see if matters can be adjusted, and have harmony existing between the two clubs.

The Manhattans are holding a meeting of juniors, eligible to play hockey, at the Y. M. C. A. this evening.

WICHITA SHERIFF ARRESTS BOTH BOXERS

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 17.—The boxers, officials and promoters connected with the Gibbons-O'Dowd middleweight boxing match scheduled to be held here on Tuesday night were arrested to-day by sheriff's office on instructions from Attorney-General Hopkins. They were charged with violating the State boxing law.

Mike Gibbons and Mike O'Dowd are technically charged with training and preparing for a match at which compensation was to be received and admission charged. Jess Willard, former heavyweight champion and referee for the match, was one of those arrested. The promoters and officials were charged with aiding and abetting the preparations for the match.

BORDER CITY LEAGUE.

WINDSOR, Oct. 17.—Essex County Intercollegiate Soccer League got away to a good start this week. Three games were played and the schedule will be finished by November 3. The Windsor Collegiate Institute team played one game in which they scored a tie with the eleven of Leamington high school. October 21 they play Kingsville. These two games are at home. October 24 they play at Kingsville and at Leamington on October 29.

The remaining games to be played are:

Leamington at Essex, October 21.
Leamington at Windsor, October 29.
Windsor at Kingsville, October 24.
Windsor at Essex October 31.
Kingsville at Windsor, October 21.
Kingsville at Leamington, November 3.
Essex at Windsor, October 17.
Essex at Kingsville, October 28.

SHAG WAS WISE IN TAKING NO DECISION

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—Owing to undetected infractions of the rules in the tied Varsity-McGill game on Saturday, Major MacAuley, the referee, will ask for a second assistant for the return game in Toronto on October 29.

This new assistant will watch for breaches of the interference rule. Coach Shaughnessy explains McGill's decision not to play overtime by pointing out that a number of his best men had only recently come out of the hospital and were in no condition to play.

Louisville Wins Junior Series

American Association Champions Win Fifth Game Out of Eight With Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Oct. 17.—The post-season series between Louisville and Baltimore was brought to a close this afternoon, when the American Association champions came out at the long end of a 11-to-5 contest, thus giving them the necessary fifth game to clinch the junior world's series. The International League representatives had won three games.

This afternoon's contest was not much of a battle as Jack Ogden, who had won all of his previous three starts against the Colonels, was away off form and was hit hard, he finally giving way to Frank in the sixth inning.

Roy Sanders pitched a good, steady game up to the eighth inning, but he was beyond danger then.

The official attendance this afternoon was 2,807, and the receipts $8,426.67.

The score:

Louisville	030	035	000—	11	15	2
Baltimore	000	002	030—	5	6	1

Sanders and Meyer; Ogden, Frank and Egan.

Mrs. Mabel Spry Wins Golf Final

Defeats Miss Belton for President Baker's Cup, Eight Up and Seven to Go

Mrs. Mabel Spry defeated Miss Joe Belton in the final golf match at the London Hunt and Country Club links yesterday afternoon and won the president's cup, which is emblematic of the women's championship.

Mrs. Spry finished with eight up and seven to go. The competition was keen and many exceptionally splendid plays were made by the two competitors.

The cup this year was donated by President Baker. The tournaments at the Kennels have been brought to a close with the ladies' final yesterday, it being the last of three competitions, namely, the Hobbs cup, the Rolph cup and the president's cup.

AMATEUR BOXING AT KITCHENER NOV. 16

KITCHENER, Oct. 17.—The intercity amateur boxing tournament, governed by the A. A. U. of Canada, will be held at St. Mary's Hall here on Wednesday, November 16.

Handsome cups for the champions in the following weights will be awarded: 100, 110, 115, 125, 135 and 145 pounds.

Entries can be made with P. Arnold, 99 Benton street, Kitchener.

LADIES' BASKET BALL MEETING TO-MORROW

A meeting of the ladies' basket ball enthusiasts has been called for 5.15 to-morrow evening at the Y.W.C.A. building, King street. The competition this year for the Western University trophy will be greatly enhanced with probably eight or ten quintets lined up for each of the two groups.

All team captains and representatives are asked to attend this meeting.

National Horse Show New York November 14-19

Classes for Annual Show Varied and Interesting; Stage It In Armory

(BY C. F. FITZGERALD.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The closing f the New York State racing season n two weeks will not dismiss the horoughbred from public attention or the balance of the year, as the National Horse Show Association's exibition will afford numerous opporunities for the exploitation of the lean bred horse and those of his half nd three-quarter bred descendants uring the week of their show at quadron "A" Armory, November 14 o 19, inclusive.

It will be the first of the National's hows in many years that has not been eld in Madison Square Garden. The hange will no doubt offer a greater cope for the display of the quality of he various contestants. There will be pang, however, in the bosoms of hose veterans who recall the National hen it was held with Delmonico's, he St. James, Hoffman, Albemarle nd Brunswick hotels all within a tone's throw of the doors of the Garen and the Gilsey only a short disance up Broadway. The Hegria to adison avenue and 94th street was ound to come with the ever changing omplexion of Lower New York and he metropolis spreading to the utterost confines of the Bronx.

The change will mean little perhaps the younger generation of patrons, ut it will render those who delighted the shows of other days a trifle sad. will take years for the new home the National to acquire the atmosnere which made the Garden the ecca for horse-loving men and omen of New York and the country ntiguous to the metropolis during e week of the show.

The classes for the current show are ried and interesting, while the wards are of generous proportions. nnovations in the way of stakes for e various types of horses give a ovelty to the exhibition and invest e competitions with a sporting qualy they would not otherwise possess. the same time they promote the terest in the various types in a way at must be benficial to the breeding terests. A sample of one of the ,000 stakes is that for harness horses er 14.2 hands. There are six emiums of $800, $400, $320, $240, $160 d $80, respectively. Similar stakes, hich closed on October 15, are for ddle horses of the walk, trot and nter type and those of the fiveited variety.

REMIUMS FOR HUNTERS.

Special premiums for qualified nters will take the shape of a eepstakes, which will include all ree grades—light, midde and heavyight—and it is estimated that the emiums for this competition will nount to $1,000, $500, $400, $300, $200 d $100, respectively, for the six aced horses. In addition the National orse Show Association will present to e owner of the winner a piece of ate of the value of $250.

It is in the above and the other nter classes and those for officers' argers and troopers' mounts that the fluence of the thoroughbred will be ost apparent, as all competitors will at least half-bred, while many of e best will be clean bred.

There was a time in the history of e show when the harness classes minated the National, but every ar sees an enlarged entry list in the asses for hunters, officers' chargers d troopers' mounts. For many these e the most attractive features of this markable exhibition, which gives ch genuine pleasure to the horse ers of the metropolis and the army transients within her gates.

t has frequently been remarked at the classes for thoroughbred stalns at the National have not filled as ll as they should with so many good rses in private studs within 100 les of New York. Last year the deral Remount Service helped out endidly by sending some of its best rses from the Front Royal Station in rginia to compete with those of the eeding bureau of the Jockey Club, d the display was better than for me years. However, if such horses Whiskbroom II., Purchase, Lucillite, ompe la Mort, Pebbles, Archalc and s Majesty should be shown there uld be a competition worth going les to see.

Cares Slip Over Prince McKinney

Heavy Going Suits Roy McKinney Gelding Better Than Baron Worthy

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 17.—Owing to heavy rains racing did not start until after 3 o'clock this afternoon.

In the 2.10 trot Frank Cares put one over on the wise men when he won with Prince Mc. Kinney. Little Patrick Todd, favorite, did not like the heavy going. He led to three-quarters, where Prince Mc. Kinney got him, and in the stretch Baron Worthy flashed by and landed the place.

Prince Mc. Kinney and Comet fought it out next time, and were even on last turn, but the Prince beat her.

Dundee Lad, winner on Friday, repeated, showing that all sorts of tracks look alike to him. The victory was not hollow, as Iowa Knight set the pace and made him hurry in the stretch. Sheriff Direct made a strong bid for the last heat, but Dundee Lad scooted by him when ready.

The unfinished 2.15 trot, in which Ruth Roland had a heat on Saturday, was won by that mare through the mistake of General T. in the second heat. General T. had the speed and won the final heat, the judges penalizing the driver of Ruth Roland for carrying wide. The summaries:

ROY GRATTON WINS

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—The Grand Circuit season of 1921 here was opened to-day by three events of circuit entries and one restricted to Southern horses. Tommy Murphy increased his earnings when he piloted Roy Grattan to victory in the feature event of the card, the 2.05 pace, winning all three heats, the best time being 2.03½. The purse was $2,500.

Peter Kennedy, driven by Walter Cox, won the 2.12 pace for a purse of $1,000 by taking the last two heats, after being second in one, and Klio, driven by Pittman, took the 2.09 trot by winning the first and third heats and coming second in the second.

Dixie May, piloted by Woods, took first place in the two heats of the Southern event, which will be finished to-morrow. The summaries:

MINISTER RESIGNS

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Sir Eric Geddes, minister of transportation in the British Cabinet, has tendered his resignation from that office, it was learned to-day.

The resignation of Sir Eric has no great political significance. It had been understood that he would give up his portfolio this autumn after having piloted the railway bill through Parliament.

Mixed Doubles Final of Tennis Tourney To-Day

Miss McKenzie and J. B. Ferguson Meet Winner of Other Semi-Final Scheduled at 3 o'Clock

The unplayed matches of the Western Ontario tennis tournament are being steadily disposed of. Miss Mackenzie and J. B. Ferguson won from Miss Spence and Taggart in the mixed doubles semi-finals yesterday by 6-4, 6-3.

Two more matches, the other semi-final in the event, between Miss McFarlane and Walker vs. Miss McCausland and William, will be played at 3 p.m., and the winners will meet Miss McKenzie and Ferguson at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

ST. KITTS LADIES WIN.

The London ladies lost to the St. Catharines ladies at Brantford on Saturday, dropping the championship of the women's section of the Western Ontario League. The St. Kitts ladies took three of the five matches as follows:

Mrs. Harris (St. Catharines) won from Miss McKenzie (London), 6-4, 6-3.

Miss Marquis (St. Catharines), won from Miss Miller (London), 6-2, 2-6, 8-6.

Miss Helen Woolley (London), won from Miss Plumer (St. Catharines), 6-3, 6-4.

Misses Spence and Woolley (London), won from Miss Plumer and Miss Watts (St. Catharines), 6-2, 2-6, 8-6.

Mrs. Harris and Miss Marquis (St. Catharines), won from Miss McKenzie and Miss Spence (London), 6-1, 6-2.

Ontario Amateur Basket Ball Men Expect Big Year

London Will Enter Intermediate and Junior Series; T. Brown, Stratford, President

Thomas Brown, Stratford, was elected president of the Ontario Amateur Basket Ball Association at the annual meeting held in Toronto on Saturday. Dan Webster, of Hamilton, was named as first vice-president and E. E. Burkes, of Toronto, was chosen second vice-president.

David Allan, of the local Y.M.C.A., was the London representative and states that the Central Y.M.C.A. Toronto, will have an O.A.B.A. group composed of its own teams. The league will be similar to a city league and the winner will enter in the semi-finals of the O.A.B.A.

The basket ball officials are looking forward to a most prosperous season. London will have two teams, namely, intermediate and juniors.

Western University will not enter the series, as they will devote their time to the intercollegiate competitions, and it is expected that the University will also have a team in the City Basket Ball League.

The Tobacco with a heart

This Is "Semi-ready Week" At R. Leo Watson's

Founded on the Physique Type System: Semi-ready Tailored Clothes

WHEN Semi-ready Tailoring system was developed a quarter century ago, ready-made clothes had no standing.

A "ready-made" suit was derided—and deservedly so.

Small retail tailor shops then flourished in every block. An average of 10 or 20 suits a week means a big overhead expense; and a good suit was costly, while a "ready-made" was a sorry affair.

A man with any pretensions to neat dress would not twenty-five years ago think of going into a ready-made shop for his apparel.

The struggle then was all for cheapness. Manufacturers vied with each other to see how cheaply they could turn out a suit for a retailer to sell at $9.98 and still make a handsome profit on each sale. The inevitable trend was the sacrifice of quality and durability. The cheapest, tawdriest materials were used, and wherever any part of the work could be omitted without the buyer discovering the trick, the omission was considered quite in the game.

It was the idea that men were willing to pay a fair price for quality and good workmanship that was the basis of the Semi-ready policy.

The conception of the physique type system, which meant that every shape of man could have his own suit shapely designed to fit him, was, of course, the main idea. But this alone would not bring success to a new venture.

That shoes of the best leather were made in large factories and made better in style and in fitting quality than the ordinary bench shoemaker could make them had been proven. Then why not suits and overcoats?

Within a decade of the conception of the Semi-ready idea Canadians were considered the best dressed men in the civilized world. And they are today.

That men will pay a better price for what they know and feel to be a better article is true today and always. Intelligent men know that a good workman is worth more because his product is substantial and lasting.

The physique type system assures a well-fitting suit or outer garment. It is based on a physiological study of mankind—allowing for the physical shapes caused by occupation and environment. There are:

Semi-ready Suits designed for short slight men.

Semi-ready Suits for short, stout men.

Suits for the average man who keeps his weight right for his stature.

Suits for tall men.

Suits for tall stout men.

Suits for fat men.

Suits for chesty men, and others for men of large girth at the waist.

Naturally the designer has to make patterns to fit each variation of type—the Erect, the Stooping, the Sloping and the High Shoulder.

And when the suits are tailored to the try-on stage he must leave outlets for alterations to fit any variation from the type for which the garment is designed.

A suit designed for a coal miner, whose burly shoulders are abnormally developed, could not be made to fit an office man, or a man whose work has developed his hips rather than his shoulders.

It was quickly found that the most expensively woven woollens, the finest and purest wool cloths, could be made up into suits by the tailor in the Semi-ready Shops without any risk. They would find an admiring buyer.

No man who thinks wisely or who has taste and discrimination in clothes can but admit that the Semi-ready Shop can fulfil his most particular need.

The good clothes shop is on a higher plane.

Super Serge Suits at $30 to $45.

WAR MEMORIAL DESIGNS CHOSEN

Toronto and Regina Men Successful Competitors

COMMEMORATIVE SHAFTS

Seven to Be Erected on Principal Battlefields

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—W. S. Allward, Toronto, and Chapman Clemesha, Regina, are the successful competitors in the Canadian battlefield memorial commission competition for designs for memorials to be erected on the principal Canadian battlefields in France and Flanders. The award was made public this afternoon, following the confirmation by Cabinet council of the recommendations of the board of assessors.

The design submitted by Mr. Allward was considered to be of such excellence that it will be erected at once, and that on Hill 62, overlooking the Ypres salient. Mr. Clemesha's design will be used for the monuments to be erected at Passchendaele, St. Julien, Vimy Ridge, Dury Cross-roads, in commemoration of the breaking of the Queant-Drocourt line, Burlon Wood, Courcelette and Hospital Wood, near Amiens, and which marks the unprecedented advance of the Canadian forces on August 8, 1918.

HUNDRED-FOOT SHAFT.

Mr. Clemesha's design represents a shaft 100 feet in height, inset on the upper portion of which is the head and shoulders of a Canadian soldier resting on his "arms reversed."

The design of Mr. Allward is far more elaborate and represents a solid wall 200 feet long and 20 feet high. At the base of this wall are two groups of defenders, and on the wall and in the foreground stands a heroic figure of Canada, gazing down on the valiant dead. Behind this figure are two pylons at the base, of which is a figure representing the Spirit of Sacrifice.

On the inner side of the pylons are allegorical figures of Peace, Justice, Truth and Knowledge. A cross is shown on the outside of each pylon or column.

The assessors were Frank Darling, Canadian Society of Architecture, representing Canada; Professor C. H. Reilley, Royal British Institute of Architects, representing Great Britain and Paul P. Cret, Central Society of Architects of France, representing France.

NO REVISION OF POWER TREATY

Chippawa Canal Can Be Run to Full Capacity

SIR ADAM'S GOOD NEWS

On Completion 500,000 Horsepower Will Be Developed

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—That enough water will be obtainable to operate the Chippawa power canal to full capacity without revising the treaty with the United States or very seriously reducing the output of the existing generating plants at Niagara Falls was the good news given to the Ontario Cabinet by Sir Adam Beck. It brought considerable relief to the anxiety of the ministers.

The importance of Sir Adam's assurance can hardly be overestimated. The province already had expended $55,000,000 on the Chippawa Canal. Some millions—possibly $10,000,000—will be required to complete the installation of five generating units, with a capacity of 250,000 horsepower. It will take a total of nearly $80,000,000 to complete the power house with nine or ten units with a capacity running up to 500,000 horsepower.

BIG RECEPTION FOR THE PREMIER

St. Thomas Busy Arranging Saturday's Program

CIVIC BODIES INTERESTED

Coucil, Board of Education, Etc., To Be in Parade

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 17.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Great preparations are under way for the reception to be tendered Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Canada's prime minister, on his visit to St. Thomas next Saturday afternoon. The City Council, headed by the mayor, are being assisted by other civic bodies in arranging for the affair and every effort is being made to make it a memorable event in the history of the city.

According to present information Mr. Meighen, accompanied by Sir George Foster, will arrive in the city about 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. He will be met at the L. & P. S. R. depot by the Elgin Regimental Band and will be escorted to the Grand Central by a large procession of automobiles containing the City Council, Board of Education and other public bodies. The candidate for the National Liberal and Conservative party, H. C. McKillop, and the various workers of the party here will also be included in the premier's automobile and those immediately following.

HOLD A BANQUET

On arrival at the Grand Central Hotel the premier will hold a reception and any citizen anxious to meet him will be given an opportunity. At 6 o'clock a banquet will be held and Mr. Meighen will again be the guest of honor.

The party will then journey by automobile, with the same procession headed by the band to the Star Theater, where he will give an address. In order to handle the large crowds expected the engineers' auditorium has been engaged for an overflow.

Definite information as to the time of the premier's arrival and his address at the Star Theater will be announced later.

NO FURTHER CUT IN CANADA FOR A YEAR

CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—(Associated Press Dispatch.)—According to Mr. Lee, head of the B. R. T., the settlement on the Canadian roads is tentative, being dependent upon the final wage agreement reached in the United States. While there is no formal agreement that no further wage reductions will be immediately sought, he said, it was the general understanding, both with the Dominion Government and the railroad executives, that none will be asked for before July, 1922.

The Canadian lines settled on a tentative basis of a 10 per cent. wage cut, it was said, but should the final wage reduction in the United States be fixed at a lower point, then it also would apply to Canadian roads, with employees being reimbursed for the difference since last July.

UNITY IS KEYNOTE AT G. W. V. A. MEET

Delegates From British Columbia Plead For Action.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Delegates from British Columbia fired the first big gun in the fifth annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association, which opened here this afternoon, when a resolution was submitted by Ian McKenzie, of Vancouver, proposing that the question of amalgamation of the veterans' organizations in Canada be the first consideration of each day's business, and that the representatives of other bodies who attended Sunday's conference should be present. The resolution was presented late this afternoon.

At present a bad situation was existing in British Columbia as regards the membership of the association, the delegates declared, and one ventured to state that unless a definite decision on the question of amalgamation of all bodies was reached this week it would sound the death knell of the Great War Veterans' Association in the West. They had come many hundreds of miles for this purpose, of relieving the minds of returned men in British Columbia, who, as members of the Great War Veterans' Association, were gradually seceding. It was claimed by Major L. Asquith, of New Westminster, that his branch had only 200 members left of an original number approximating 800. They thought the Dominion command officials had been obstinate in the matter.

AWAIT OTHER BODIES.

President R. B. Maxwell took hold of the convention as discussion of the resolution had grown into an acrimonious debate, and pleaded for hearance with him. It was impossible, he said, for the representatives of other bodies to attend an open discussion, because some had already left town. He explained that the Dominion officials had met on Sunday with other bodies, and as soon as practicable a resolution would be put before the convention. In any case the resolution, if adopted, would only result in the verdict of the the Great War Veterans' Association being given, and before any move towards unification could be made it would be necessary to await action by the governing bodies of the other interested organizations. The Imperial Veterans and Army and Navy Veterans would meet soon in convention and thresh the matter out the same as this convention was going to do.

The British Columbians then accepted the president's ruling that no departure would be made from regular procedure in dealing with this or any other matter.

The formal opening took place this afternoon with the invocation of a blessing by A. E. Pugsley, Iroquois Falls, Ont., upon those who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War and those whom they left behind.

CIVIC WELCOME.

A civic welcome followed, which was made by Mayor A. L. Matthews, who was succeeded by Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment, on behalf of the Federal Government. Hon. J. B. Carmichael, minister without portfolio in the Ontario Government, welcomed the delegates on behalf of the province.

Introduction of fraternal delegates then took place, two being in attendance from the American Legion. They were Dr. A. A. Van Dyke, state commandant, St. Paul, Minn.; and E. J. Barrett, state commandant, Sheboygan, Wis. Both extended good wishes from the millions of ex-service men in the neighboring republic, and thanked the convention for its warm welcome.

Fraternal delegates from other Canadian bodies were then introduced and spoke for a few minutes. Throughout their remarks the keynote of unification rang high—amalgation of those who can unite and affiliation of those who cannot.

The delegates were the guests of the city to-night at a banquet in the Prince Arthur Hotel.

$25,000 TO $30,000 FOR TECHNICAL SCHOOL SITE

St. Thomas Board of Education Plans Reception for Dr. Merchant When He Arrives on Friday.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 17.—(By Staff Reporter.)—A committee consisting of the entire Board of Education was appointed to-night to look after the reception of Dr. Merchant on his arrival in the city on Friday to address a public meeting on the technical school question.

Figures on the proposed sites for the school were handed in. The prices range from $25,000 to $30,000. The site most favored at the present time is that situated between Stott and Curtis streets, on the west side of Montdamin.

Secretary R. J. Newton was authorized to attend the convention of attendance officers at Detroit.

A get-together meeting of the business men and those interested in the formation of a Chamber of Commerce was held in the city hall to-night. The affair took the form of a smoker, and a number of the favorite Kiwanis songs were sung. The Council chamber was packed and considerable enthusiasm was evidenced. Addresses were delivered by R. A. Crosby, Toronto; Gordon Phillip, London; M. M. Maxwell, St. Catharines; ex-Mayor E. A. Horton.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

SARNIA, Oct. 17.—The City Council met to-night at 8 o'clock in the Council chamber and dealt with routine matters. The city engineer presented a draft of his recommendations for centralizing the work of the various civic departments and the gas situation was discussed.

BATTLES IN BOAT WITH FUGITIVE

Windsor Patrolman in Fierce Fight on River

ESCAPED MAN CAUGHT

Elmer Dorington Used Belaying Pin on Officer

WINDSOR, Oct. 17.—A fierce fight in a rocking motor boat, in which a policeman's pistol and a belaying pin figured as weapons, resulted in the arrest last night of Elmer Dorington, Detroit, who escaped from Ford jail three weeks ago after arrest on a charge of rum-running. Patrolman Deneau patrolling the water front, saw Dorington, a familiar figure, in a motor boat in the shadow of one of the wharves. He called to Dorington to halt.

Dorington attempted to escape, but Deneau ran his launch close and leaped into the boat. A fight ensued, in which Deneau says he was struck several times by a belaying pin picked up from the bottom of the boat by Dorington, who finally was overpowered.

The boat almost capsized several times during the struggle, Deneau said. The fugitive had painted his boat another color and made changes in the cabin and hull, Deneau declared, but could not disguise himself from his former captor.

TRUE BILLS RETURNED AGAINST M'MILLANS

Man and Wife at Owen Sound to Be Tried in Spring on Charge of Murdering Jamieson Johnston.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press)—A true bill was returned by the grand jury to-day, before Mr. Justice Rose, against Daniel McMillan and his wife, charged jointly with the murder of Jamieson Johnston here on or about September 3. The case will be tried at the spring assizes.

Mr. Justice Rose thought it would be well to try the case at the nonjury sitting in December, but W. H. Wright, for McMillan, and Mr. Tucker, for his wife, asked that the trial be fixed for the spring, so that they would have a better opportunity to prepare a defense. It is understood that McMillan wanted the case to proceed at once.

If the trial had been fixed for December a special jury would have been required.

SASKATCHEWAN MAN APPOINTED TO SENATE

A. B. Gillies, Former Speaker of Territories' Legislature, Completes Representation.

OTTAWA, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press.)—A. B. Gillies, ex-M. L. A., Whitewood, Sask., has been appointed to the Senate, completing the repsentation from that province.

Mr. Gillies went West from Cape Breton in 1885 and has had a successful business and political career on the prairies. He was a member of the Northwest and Saskatchewan legislatures for 14 years, being defeated in 1912. During his membership of the Northwest Legislature he was Speaker and held this office when the new provinces were created. During the war he raised a battalion and took it overseas. When it was broken up for reinforcements he returned home and during the remainder of the war was active in recruiting and other war work.

Another Saskatchewan appointment to-day was P. E. McKenzie, K. C., a prominent Liberal lawyer, to the court of King's bench.

ASYLUM PATIENT AND FAMILY DEFEND HOME AGAINST THE POLICE

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press)—Poison gas and smoke bombs will be used by the state police to drive out an escaped inmate from Traverse City Hospital, his two brothers and their mother, who have barricaded themselves in their home, in Gratiot County, and threaten to shoot anyone who approaches.

The fugitive is Frank Parlovitch, 30 years old, who was sent to the asylum in July last and escaped on October 1, making his way back to his farm home, five miles west of Ithaca. He is under the delusion that he has been persecuted, and several times since his return home has been patrolling the road in front of his home, armed with an army rifle.

No attempt to recapture him was made until a week ago, when the hospital authorities, learning that he had returned home, sent attendants to get him. They found the house barricaded and were warned by three figures standing behind the rifles and shotguns in windows, that they would be killed if they tried to enter.

Sheriff Willot appealed to-day to Governor Grosbeck, who turned the case over to Col Vandercook, state commissioner of public safety. Col. Vandercook himself will head the expedition. He said poison gas will be used only as a last resort, and then of a strength only to overcome and not kill the defenders of the little fort. He will be accompanied by state troopers.

PAIN IN THE PIT OF THE STOMACH?

REDMAC RELIEVES IT

Truly wonderful how quickly you can get rid of all Stomach trouble. Redmac goes right to the seat of the trouble. Mrs. Vanhorn, of Winnipeg, writes: I have suffered for years from indigestion. I would get such a sharp pain in the pit of my stomach it would almost double me up at times. During this time I have not known what it was to enjoy a meal. I got very thin and weak. I have been taking Redmac and what a blessing it is to me. I can eat three square meals a day now.

If you want to feel fit, if you want good strong nerves, lots of good pure blood and plenty of energy and vitality, you get a bottle of Redmac and see how quickly it will put you on the road to good health. Go to your druggist to-day and get a bottle of this wonderful tonic, made from herbs and roots from foreign countries. Sold in London by Taylor's Drug Store, 390 Richmond street, half block south of Dundas street, sole agents.—Advt. J4v-tu

FIVE ARRESTS IN DETROIT ROBBERY

Men Believed Implicated in Windsor Mail Theft

DETROIT, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press).—Secret service men and a half dozen city detectives took into custody here late to-night five men believed to have been those who held up and robbed a Windsor mail wagon here two weeks ago.

The men gave their names as Thomas Ferris, 31; Alex McLean, 44; Henry Ferguson, 35; James Ferrie, 31, and James Logan, 22. The first four named were found at 2227 Woodward avenue, and Logan was taken at Forest Apartments on St. Antonies street. Three of the men are believed to be residents of Windsor.

None of the stolen loot was recovered the officers say. At McLean's rooms was found an opium smoking outfit and a quantity of "pills".

WOODSTOCK YOUNG MAN FOUND WITH THROAT CUT

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press).—John Morrison, better known as "Hogan," is in a critical condition as the result of injuries said to be self-inflicted. The young man was found in his room late Sunday night with his throat cut. Sixteen stitches were necessary to close the cut and to-night Morrison is in a precarious condition, with little hope of recovery.

NOLIN RE-ELECTED.

REGINA, Oct. 18.—Final figures in the provincial by-election held in Ile La Crosse shows that J. L. Nolin, M. L. A., was re-elected as a supporter of the Martin Government by a majority of 110 over J. E. Bournouff, independent.

TUPPER COMES EAST

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 18. — Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper will leave shortly for Nova Scotia. It is understood that he will make a number of addresses on behalf of the National Liberal-Conservative party. He will speak principally in Pictou County, where an old friend, Col. Cantley, is contesting the seat in Government interest.

When Mr. Jones was saved from the frying pan—

They talk yet of the change that came over Jones. Some said it was psychology. Some said it was a miracle. All said it was a mystery.

When they asked Jones, he said it was liberation from slavery—slavery to the frying pan, and to grease and starch.

Jones used to take his breakfast fried, and followed this with a heavy lunch.

In those days they said at the office: "Old Jones has a secret sorrow and he's sore on the world."

One day Jones started late—no time for the usual breakfast to be cooked.

Jones had a breakfast on Grape-Nuts with good cream. He was delighted with the crispness and rich flavor. Felt satisfied and "fed." Tried it again at lunch. Kept on breakfasting that way—often lunching, too.

Jones began to "perk up," talk up, step up—GET up.

"Let Jones show you how to do this," they began to say at the office.

As to Jones—he said: "That's a great food—GRAPE-NUTS."

There are thousands of Joneses, both kinds—reckless feeders and wise feeders.

IMPERIAL Polarine FRICTION REDUCING MOTOR OILS

More miles—less money—

USE the correct grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils and maximum mileage from your lubrication money is assured. You cannot buy more real lubrication for your dollar than that which you get when you specify Imperial Polarine.

Imperial Polarine Motor Oils coat every moving part with an oil film which cuts down friction drag and reduces wear. They slow up depreciation costs and absolutely eliminate excessive repair bills and carbon troubles. You get more real motoring satisfaction, as well as more miles, for less money if you use, exclusively, the correct grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils.

Our Chart of Recommendations shows the grade especially suited to your type of car. Standardize on this grade. Consult our Chart at your dealer's. Our new booklet, "Automotive Lubrication" also contains the complete Chart, besides other interesting and valuable information. Write to 56 Church Street, Toronto, for your copy.

IMPERIAL OIL LIMITED

A Canadian Company—Canadian Capital—Canadian Workmen.

FOR A CLEAN EFFICIENT MOTOR

Your crank-case should be drained and cleaned at least every thousand miles. You will get more pleasure out of your car and will materially reduce operating costs if you employ crank-case cleaning service regularly. Dealers displaying this sign give all crank-case cleaning jobs prompt and expert attention. Such dealers use Imperial Flushing Oil. It takes out all grit and dirt and does not impair the fresh supply of oil as would be the case if kerosene (coal oil) were used.

Quality maintains economy. No matter how much you pay "per gallon" for other lubricating oils, you get more lubrication "per dollar" when you buy Imperial Polarine Motor Oils.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: The professional element in the stock market seemed to take a more hopeful view of the railroad labor situation to-day. This was indicated by the light dealings and narrow price changes at the opening of the session. Some of the rails were lower, notably Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, 7 per cent. preferred, and Delaware and Hudson. Among the equipments General Electric reacted moderately. The only feature among oils was a recoverw of 1 point in Royal Dutch. American Sugar was the only weak specialty, falling 1½ points, to 50¾, its lowest quotation in a number of years.

1.30 p. m.—Further strengthening of prices accompanied the decline of call money rates to 4 per cent. at midday, oils showing most activity. The only exceptions to the better tendency were American Sugar common and preferred, in which losses extended to 3⅝ and 5 points respectively.

ALLEGED TO HAVE USED TELEGRAM FOR FRAUD

Johnston Hill Arrested by Local Police This Afternoon.

A man giving his name as Johnston Hill was arrested by the police to-day on a charge of fraud. He will appear before Deputy Magistrate Bartlett to-morrow morning.

According to the police, Hill telegraphed to a man by the same name at Lakefield, a small village near Peterboro, requesting that he forward $200. The telegram was signed by "Stanley Hill" and purported to be from the son of the Lakefield man. The telegram declared that the son was "in serious trouble."

Stanley Hill, the son of the man to whom the telegram was addressed, happened to be at home, however, and the police here were informed of the fake telegram. The money was forwarded to the sender of the telegram, but when he went to the bank to get the money Detective Harry Down was waiting for him and placed him under arrest.

ULSTERMEN ARE DRILLING AGAIN

Ex-Service Men Being Enrolled In the Volunteers.

READY FOR QUICK MUSTER

"Why Shouldn't They Drill," Is Cry of the Leaders.

BELFAST, Oct. 18.—Reports that the Ulster volunteer force was being reorganized were verified in official quarters here to-day. It was said that Ulster ex-service men were being enrolled in the volunteers. "Why shouldn't they be, when the Sinn Feiners are drilling, even in Belfast?" was the comment in official quarters.

Col. Spencer, who formerly commanded the Ulster volunteers, resigned his command on assuming the secretaryship of the Ulster Cabinet, but the view was expressed that the officering of the force would present no trouble. The plan indicated is to place the men under officers living in the same locality as the rank and file, these officers to be responsible for their men to the central authority. This idea, it was explained, would be adopted to facilitate the quick assembly of the force.

The belief is generally expressed here that no difficulty will be found in reviving the volunteers in the Belfast area. The Ulster Ex-service Men's Association, nearly all of whose members were volunteers in the pre-war days, is constituted on strictly party lines, no republicans or Nationalists being eligible. The members of this association are the strongest supporters of the anti-boycott movement. At Lisburn last night 1,000 of them assembled and under commandants who are ex-officers of the British army, marched in formation along a specified route.

The men carried no arms during their march, although they are well equipped in this respect.

Wenige's Charges

within a short time to go into the question.

The charges, covering eight closely written typed pages, deal with everything from engaging one-armend (returned) men to shovel to allowing the men time to light their cigarettes.

LOAFING ON JOB?

York street and Ridout street repairs, Quebec street pavement, Erie avenue pavement are given as examples of the engineering efficiency. It is further charged that the engineer told a ratepayer to "go to h——" when asked regarding the condition of Erie avenue.

Numerous instances are given of alleged loafing on the jobs. Ald. Wenige also charges that material has been hauled to several jobs only to be hauled away again.

Several photographs have been submitted showing examples of what is termed "loafing," etc. One picture shows the one-armed man digging on the Dundas street sewer. Another depicts several men standing wiping the perspiration from their faces, and one shows some workmen rolling cigarettes.

TRAVELING PASSENGER AGENT HERE. — R. A. Gill, Toronto, traveling passenger agent of the Grand Trunk Railway, is in the city to-day.

SIX WEEKS' COURSE. — About 20 men, composed of officers and noncommissioned officers of the various Western Ontario regiments, commenced a six weeks' course on Monday in the Royal School of Infantry at Wolsely Barracks under the command of Colonel Hill.

MEETING AT INGERSOLL. — A meeting of the agents and officials of the Ontario district of the Canadian Pacific Railway will be held at Ingersoll to-morrow. H. C. Grout, Toronto, general superintendent of the Ontario lines, and Robert McKillop, divisional superintendent, will be present. The railroaders will be the guests of the Kiwanis Club, of Ingersoll.

TWO THEFTS REPORTED. — Two reports were received by the police this morning of the theft of shingles some time last night. The thefts were in the same vicinity and it is believed that the same parties carried away the roofing. One of the thefts was from W. Hollowell, 90 Wellington road, and the second loss was to W. Southern, 112 Wellington road. Five bundles were removed in each case. Walter Clark, 18 Swinyard street, reported to the police the theft of his bicycle this morning from Alexander School.

MAKES HOME ON MARKET. — Many people are familiar with the pigeons that make their home on the local market and who have become so tame as to not flutter away at the approach of humans. In the last few days another member of the bird family has made its home on the square, namely a parrot, probably escaped from somebody's home. This bird has been seen flying around the square and roosting on the buildings. It seems quite content with its new home, staying around the market. Providing that it is not claimed by some individual the members of the market will have another pet which will likely become as great a pet as the pigeons.

HOT SHOTS OVER COURT VERDICT

Rev. Pescott Writes Scathing Denouncement of Decision.

"INIQUITOUS . PRECEDENTS"

Tells Company It Should Refund Money.

Rev. W. E. Pescott, pastor for the past four years of Dundas Center Methodist Church and now pastor of the Trinity Methodist Church at Kitchener, wrote the following letter to Ald. G. A. Wenige with regard to the recent court decision that the alderman was not entitled to a refund of "readiness to serve" charges paid by him to the City Gas Company. Mr. Pescott flays impartially judge, legal system, the press and the public, and he suggests "the sooner some social revolution comes to deliver us the better."

Alderman Wenige,
London, Ont.

Dear Sir: I was greatly disappointed with the decision of the judge in your case against the gas company. Such a confession of moral helplessness on the part of the court destroys the last vestige of respect one may have entertained for the law. If we are to be tied to iniquitous precedents in the way suggested by the judge, then the sooner some social revolution comes to deliver us the better. Think of a thing being immoral and legal! That is the kind of thing that would give the utmost glee to devils. What I wonder at is the meek submission of the public. So far as I have noticed not a word in disapproval has been uttered in the press of the country. What is the matter? Our great ancestors refused to submit to the authority of the king himself, and when nothing else seemed to cure him of his presumption they cut his head off. We, however, "like little mice, crawl in and out between the legs" of a thing like the gas company, which perpetrates its injustice under the sanction of our boasted "British justice."

WROTE TO COMPANY

I wrote the company a letter the other day in which I told them that in view of the judge's statement that they had no moral right to retain the amounts paid them for service charges I hoped they would save their honor by refunding the money illegally taken. For that, in effect, is the judgment. They could not legally take that money but they can legally keep it! So much for logic, as well as morality! I think you are to be thanked for fighting this battle for others, and I feel that it is the least that the rest might do—say thank you.

I have never been a socialist, but that kind of a judgment will make socialists. Something ought to come to set us free from the bondage of precedents. I hold that we are more capable than any judge or jury sitting in the past to settle what ought to be done in a given case to-day, and to go on settling things wrong just because somebody settled them that way years ago, is the essence of stupidity. The greatest moral leader the world has ever seen said to his generation: "Ye yourselves judge what is right," and hence there was no harm in breaking with the tradition of the elders. We need the same word to-day, and in no place so much as in our law courts and parliaments.

I hope the last has not been heard of this case. And, again—thanking you—I remain,

Yours sincerely,
W. E. PESCOTT.

FIRE CHIEF ARRIVES HOME FROM CONVENTION

Over 800 Chiefs Gathered For Conference at Atlanta, Ga.

Fire Chief Aitken arrived back in the city to-day from the convention of fire chiefs at Atlanta, Georgia. The chief stated that there were some 1,200 delegates at the convention, of which 800 were chiefs from all sections of the American continent. There were fire chiefs from 19 Canadian cities, of which 10 were from Ontario.

Chief Aitken stated that the convention showed that horse-drawn fire equipment had practically all been replaced by motor apparatus.

The weather in Atlanta during the convention was very cold, Chief Aitken stated. The delegates found overcoats very comfortable. The London delegate remarked jokingly that the banana belt appeared to be moving north, as the weather was much finer in London than in Georgia.

While in Atlanta the chief met two former Londoners who are making their home in the Southern city. George Murray, who lived at 593 King street several years ago, was one, and a fellow resident named Kerr was the other.

MAY TEACH FRENCH IN VICTORIA SCHOOL

Principal Ed. H. McKone Will First Get Support of Mothers' Club.

Victoria Public and Continuation School, of which E. H. McKone is the principal, may shortly inaugurate the teaching of French from the first grade to the final year of the public school course. Mr. McKone is confident that the parents of children attending the school will support this broad educational policy recently suggested by Principal McQueen at the meeting of the London Teachers' Association, which will mean, if generally adopted, the final rupture of racial barriers between the two dominant races of Canada.

In order that the matter may not be made a matter of controversy, Mr. McKone is asking the Victoria Mothers' Club to take a vote on the matter; and, if a favorable vote is returned, as expected, optional French will be taught in a public school of London from first grade to last, for the first time in local or provincial history.

The course would be, necessarily, purely optional. Those objecting to having their children learn the language of France could do so. But it is believed that the majority of parents in the Victoria district will welcome the opportunity and only regret that a similar plan was not started some years ago.

BARNES KILLS SELF.

BRAMPTON, Oct. 18. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Word has been received here from St. Catharines, Ont., that Harry G. Barnes, the motorist who was acquitted here recently on a charge in connection with a fatality on the Toronto-Hamilton highway, shot and killed himself last night in that city, where he resided with his family.

No reason is assigned for the act. The case in which Mr. Barnes was a defendant was made famous by the large number of adjournments made in the inquest over the highway fatality, owing to the nonappearance of Mr. Barnes to give evidence.

YOUNG MAN ENDS LIFE BY HANGING

Fred Steer Found Dead In Neighbor's Tree.

Fred Steer, a young man about 25 years of age, was found hanging, dead, in an apple tree at the rear of 174 Hamilton road about 1 o'clock this afternoon by Mrs. Mary Lewis, who lives in the house. The young man was hanging to the limb of the tree by telegraph wire.

On Sunday the young man told his people that he was going to the country and left his home. He was not seen again until Mrs. Lewis discovered him when she went out into the yard to get some apples.

Dr. A. R. Routledge was called at once when the young man was discovered and immediately notified Coroner Dr. J. C. Wilson. Dr. Wilson decided that no inquest would be necessary.

ADOPTS LEADERS' TRAINING COURSE

London Presbytery Agrees With R. E. Program.

URGES JOINT CLASSES

Allocation For Local Hospital Work Is Withdrawn.

The London presbytery is the first denominational body to subscribe to the normal training course as drawn up recently by the religious education council of the city. At its afternoon session to-day the presbytery decided to urge all the congregations in city and district to form classes for leaders and to co-operate with the other denominations on joint training.

Both the morning and afternoon sessions of the presbytery were confined to a review of the task, local, national and rural, of the church and suggested solutions for the problems which confront it. The only matter of business taken up was the intimation that the allocation from the home mission board for hospital work which has been withdrawn. A resolution of protest was requested sent to the board, but Rev. D. C. MacGregar, a member of the board, explained that lack of finances alone prevented the usual allotment from home missions, and the resolution was accordingly withdrawn. Hospital work will, therefore, have to be met out of funds raised by this district alone.

The resolution of the religious education committee which met with the unanimous approval of the presbytery is: "We recommend that study classes be formed in all our congregations in which the subject of how to teach the devotional life shall be dealt with; and that parents, teachers, prospective teachers and leaders be urged to enlist in these classes." It is understood that a joint program between the Methodist and Presbyterian denominations has been arranged and will be followed out.

NEW ERA OF PEACE.

Rev. D. C. MacGregor stated in his opening address in the morning that the world was looking for a demonstration of power from the church. If the church only willed to solve any of the community or national problems which beset the public to-day and displayed enough energy, that a new era of peace would dawn. Considerable time was being devoted to the settlement of differences between employer and employee, between class and class and between nation and nation, and while it was valuable to draw up policies and programs along these lines, it was still more essential to infuse the spirit of love in the hearts of the people and get rid of the petty jealousies and hates.

Rev. T. A. Symington dealt with "The Local Task of the Church," in which he urged a broadening out and service for mankind as a whole and not for communities alone. "The National Task of the Church" was outlined by Rev. J. W. M. Crawford and the "Rural Task" by the Rev. C. D. Farquharson. Discussion which followed was led by Rev. T. W. K. Harris, and participated in by Dr. Beattie, John Laughton and W. S. Galbraith.

up to their seventh year. Pre-natal administration of alcoholic stimulant, and the use of certain brands of soothing syrup for young infants were strongly deplored. The membership of the "Ribboners" has reached 337, a marked increase over last year.

A report of interest was that of the medal contest department, in which the superintendent, Miss Annie Fry, of Jordan Station, urged the establishment of essay contests in the public and high schools of the province, for which the subjects shall be the results of temperance and intemperance, as noted in Ontario before and after the prohibition laws came into force.

The press report was presented by Mrs. Lottie Moore, of Teeswater, following the minutes of the executive, which included a recommendation for the presentation of a medal to the first Indian girl graduate from an Ontario hospital.

DEVOTIONAL ADDRESS.

Preceding the morning business Mrs. Blanche-Reed Johnston, of Toronto, honorary secretary of the World W. C. T. U., gave a brief devotional address on "The Lordship of Christ," in which she declared that the present generation was lacking in reverence, as a result of the spirit of democracy creeping ever into the religion of the 20th century.

"Canadianization" was the topic of an interesting conference at the beginning of the afternoon meeting, with Mrs. Ethel Craw, of Fergus, leading. The foreign problem in Canada, and particularly the problem of the Finnish population, was considered. This element in the foreign population of Canada has come out strongly for prohibition, and is awaiting, it was stated, the ministrations of church and state in this country. Care for the foreigners among the mining and lumber settlements was also discussed, and the members were urged to "make friends with their foreign-born neighbor" as a partial solution to the problem.

This afternoon's session included also the reports of officers, further departmental reports and conferences, followed by a reception tendered by the London union to the delegates. This evening's meeting will be addressed by Rev. F. B. Watters, of Toronto, in the Dundas Center Church.

Election of officers will be an important feature of a later session, especial interest this year centering in the probable withdrawal of Mrs. H. A. Stevens after a term of nine years in the presidency.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION.—Major T. J. Murphy, K. C., and Ald. F. E. Harley have been appointed by the London town planning committee to attend the convention of the Ontario Housing and Town Planning Association, which will be held in Toronto on October 31.

BRITISH HOUSE OPENS SESSION

Whole Time To Be Devoted To Unemployment Question.

PREMIER DEFERS SPEECH

He May Touch Briefly On the Washington Conference.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Parliament opened to-day for its autumn session, but interest in to-day's session was diminished by the announcement that the premier had deferred until Wednesday his important statement relative to unemployment. This announcement came as a surprise last night after a late meeting of the Cabinet Council, and it was inferred that the full details of the Cabinet's policy had not been completed.

The session of Parliament is intended to be brief, its business being limited to one topic, unemployment, although financial matters inseparable from the business situation must necessarily be handled. It was understood to-day that although measures dealing with the situation had been decided upon by the Government it was necessary, owing to the rules of the House of Commons, to give that body notice of the introduction of legislation.

The first business to come before the Lower House to-day was a motion from the Government to devote the whole time of the House to the unemployment question. Whether this would be moved by Mr. Lloyd George or Austin Chamber was not announced, but it was understood yesterday that if it was introduced by the prime minister he would also touch briefly on other matters, possibly the Washington conference and negotiations with Sinn Fein Ireland.

OFFICIALS ARRIVING.

Executive officials and general chairmen of a dozen unions of railroad employees, representing 1,500,000 workers, began arriving to-day for conferences beginning to-morrow to determine whether they shall follow the leadership of the "big five" railroad brotherhoods in issuing a strike call.

A joint conference at the end of the week is in prospect. A spirited controversy over the attitude of the big five brotherhoods is indicated in the statements of the leaders outside the big five group.

The train dispatchers have declared they will not go out at this time, the telegraphers and clerks announced their decision was still unformed and others have indicated the question was still open, although some of the unions, notably

FARMS FOR SALE

A FARM IN THE WEST. TO OWN A farm home is the desire and ambition of most people. It is easier to get a farm home in the Prairie Provinces of Canada because fertile farm lands, suitable for grain growing, dairying or stock raising can be bought at prices averaging $18 an acre, and on terms of payment spread over twenty years, with lighter payments at the beginning, so as to enable farmers with moderate capital to get a good start. Do not miss this wonderful opportunity. Investigate now. A post card will bring you all the information you desire. Write W. La Due Norwood, C. P. R. land agent, Windsor Station, Montreal, Quebec. SPECIAL OFFICER LOSES BADGE

Activities of St. Thomas Constable Are Revealed

MAGISTRATE IS ASTOUNDED

Albert Searles Dismissed Following O.T.A. Case

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 17.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Albert Searles, who has been in the employ of the local police for some time, was to-day dismissed from the service and his badge confiscated by Magistrate Maxwell as a result of evidence submitted in an Ontario Temperance Act case in which a local man was charged with driving his car on the night of October 3 while under the influence of liquor. The case was perhaps the most remarkable that has come before the court and both the magistrate and C. St. Clair Leitch, counsel for the defense, were particularly caustic in their remarks concerning the alleged "spotter."

According to the evidence of the officer the accused was driving along Talbot street late on Sunday, October 3, at a rate of about 40 miles per hour. He accosted him and discovered that he was quite drunk. He escorted the accused to his residence and left him. He had not laid the charge because he had been waiting to get certain information.

A DIFFERENT STORY

The accused told a different story. He said that on the night of the alleged offense he was driving into town after spending the day with relatives. He had left his wife with her relatives and on reaching the west end of the city he found difficulty in keeping his car going owing to a heavy rain. He was stopped by the officer and after a conversation the officer said that he would not lay any charge and offered to shake hands. The accused then drove to his home. Later the officer returned and asked him (the accused) to drive him to the east end of the city and back. This was done and the "spotter" then went with the accused man to his residence and spent the evening with him. No liquor was produced at any time and the accused was not intoxicated.

The accused man's wife said that on the following day, while her husband was absent, Searles called at the home and engaged her in a lengthy conversation. He said that he would not lay a charge because the man had such a charming wife. On each day between October 3 and 13 Searles called at the home and place of business of the accused. Several times he spent considerable time with his wife.

On Thursday last Detective McCulley, of the local force, served the accused with a summons and he went down to see the chief of police. He met the special officer in the city hall and he explained that it was not he, but another officer who had laid the charge.

HEARD ENOUGH

Without hearing any further evidence the magistrate dismissed the case and declared that he was surprised at the evidence submitted. He ordered the officer dismissed from the force at once and immediately confiscated his badge.

According to the evidence of the accused, Searles stated on several occasions that he didn't give a "d——" for Chief Armstrong and that he intended quitting his job in any case. He frequently removed his badge of office when at the home of the accused.

Searles, however, states that he will not let the matter drop, but will have something to say later. He denies certain parts of the allegations made against him and alleges that he was made the "goat."

Preparations for the third annual military ball, to be held at the armories, are already under way. The affair promises to be one of the most interesting in history.

MAINTAIN CLAIM FOR SEPARATION

Sinn Fein Delegates Hold Out for Unity of Ireland

CONFERENCE ADJOURNS

Complete Reticense as to Monday's Session

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Irish conference held another two-hour session to-day. Complete reticence is maintained as to the nature of the discussion, which is believed to have concerned the Ulster question. The date of the next meeting will be fixed later.

There was great activity at Sinn Fein headquarters after adjournment of the conference, but assurance was given that no unforeseen hitch had occurred. Inquiry at both the Irish office and Sinn Fein headquarters disclosed that as yet neither side has been able to estimate the prospects of concession by the other. The Sinn Fein maintains its full separatist claim and makes unity of Ireland an indispensable condition to inclusion in the British Empire.

LOCAL AUTONOMY PLAN.

Elaborate statistics have been prepared for submission to the conference to prove the injustice of excluding Northeast Ulster. The next stage is expected to be the presentation by the Irish delegates of a plan of local autonomy within the Irish state, which will then be submitted to Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier.

If the Government supports Ulster in refusing any compromise the conference, it is declared, will break up and the Irish delegates return to Ireland; if the Ulster difficulty is overcome finance and trade policy will be debated, the Sinn Fein having prepared long statements on both these subjects. Both sides agree that if the conference continues over Friday a settlement will be in sight.

Behind the scenes pressure is being employed to both sides for and against peace. Civil and military representatives of the Irish government who have been in conflict with each other in Dublin Castle are now in London urging their respective views.

FINDS HIS OWN NAME ON McGILL MEMORIAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Capt. Norman B. Allan, Toronto, found out yesterday that he had, according to the McGill soldiers' memorial unveiled here last week, during the centennial celebrations by Lord Byng of Vimy, died on the field of battle! Capt. Allan is an old McGill boy and attended the unveiling. Yesterday he thought he would visit and read the names of McGill graduates who had fallen during the war and which were inscribed on it. There he found his own name! The officer can offer no explanation for the mistake.

NORFOLK NOMINEE

WILLIAM SUTTON, of Simcoe, chosen as federal candidate by the National Liberal and Conservative party.

SIMCOE MILLER NORFOLK CHOICE

William Sutton Selected as Government Candidate

FIVE OTHERS PROPOSED

Meeting Expresses Confidence in Meighen Policy

SIMCOE, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press.)—At a thoroughly representative mass meeting, held in the courtroom at the county buildings this afternoon, William Sutton, miller and grain and coal dealer, of Simcoe, was chosen as standard bearer to contest the riding of Norfolk in the Government interests.

Others nominated were: H. P. Innes, K. C., barrister, of Simcoe; John S. Martin, farmer and poultryman, of Port Dover; Frank Reid, barrister, of Simcoe; Henry Wallace, farmer, of Middleton; Peter Quance, of Delhi.

Mr. Sutton came to Norfolk County about 40 years ago, locating at Lynn Valley as a miller. He pursued the same vocation for a time in Simcoe and Waterford, finally purchasing a plant in Simcoe and made good. Of sound business integrity, unimpeachable public spirit, he has served his share of municipal life and on the Board of Education. Mr. Sutton was a Liberal in other days, but has changed his mind.

SUPPORT MEIGHEN POLICY.

The following resolution was passed unanimously:

"That this mass meeting of the National Liberal and Conservative party in the County of Norfolk, regularly called, assembled, affirm its adherence to the final policy of the Meighen Government as the essential policy for the prosperity and development of our country and the well-being of our people in all walks of life.

"That in the opinion of this meeting Arthur Meighen has at home and abroad demonstrated that he is possessed of rare excellence in statesmanship in Dominion, empire and world-wide problems, and that he is the one man qualified to pilot this country through the trying period into which our country has entered, and we hereby pledge our support to him and his Cabinet to the end that he may receive the emphatic indorsation of his policies.

Mr. Sutton was nominated by two farmers, D. R. Tisdale, of Charlotteville, and George Irvine, of Townshend. It is also interesting to note that of seven nominated at the meeting, which was nine-tenths farmers, six of the seven were named by farmers; three were farmers, two millers and two lawyers.

FORMER MT. BRYDGES MAN IS DROWNED

MT. BRYDGES, Oct. 17.—Word has been received of the death by drowning near Smiths Falls of Willoughby William Harrison, aged 42, a much esteemed citizen of Smiths Falls and a former resident of this place. The scene of the accident was the McCreary locks, to which point the deceased had wheeled on the morning of the 11th inst., before daylight, to spend a few hours in hunting ducks and fishing. Leaving his bicycle at the lockhouse he crossed the locks on his way to his boathouse on the island, and it is supposed that in the darkness he tripped over the lock gate chain at the wing wall and fell into the water, which is there eight or 10 feet deep. In the evening his gun was found there and next morning a search began for Mr. Harrison, resulting in his body being found in the water near the wing wall. He leaves a widow, two daughters and one son; also three brothers, three sisters and his father, who reside near here.

SERIOUSLY HURT WHEN RUN OVER BY TRUCK

Charles Ostrander Has Both Hips Broken and Internal Injuries—In Tillsonburg Hospital.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 17. — Charles Ostrander, 15-year-old son of Joseph Ostrander, of Glen Meyer, is lying in Dr. Bennett's Emergency Hospital here in a critical condition as a result of being run over by a truck at Straffordville, yesterday afternoon. In addition to having both hip bones broken, the lad is suffering internal injuries.

With a couple of other lads young Ostrander was riding on R. G. Gorman's truck. They were playing about the framework of the platform while the machine was in motion. Ostrander lost his grip while on the side of the truck and fell, the rear wheels passing over him.

Early this morning Dr. Bennett operated on the lad, and to-night stated that he entertained hopes for his recovery.

ADVISE CANCELLATION OF TORONTO WINTER FAIR

TORONTO, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—The directors of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair Association were advised by their executive to-day to cancel for this year the winter fair, which has been widely advertised to be held in the new live stock arena at the Toronto exhibition grounds in November. The reason given was the lack of proper heating facilities. The city is erecting the arena, which is not yet finished. The city has offered to heat the building with temporary furnaces, but the fair people regard this method as unsatisfactory. Final decision has been postponed for a few days.

TO AIR TORONTO CASE THURSDAY

Rev. T. T. Shields' Charges Before Baptist Convention

SESSIONS AT ST. THOMAS

Need of Revival Pointed Out by President Moore

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 17.—(By Staff Reporter).—While nothing has been announced publicly it was officially learned here to-night that the Jarvis Street Baptist Church matter, in which Rev. T. T. Shields, Toronto, pastor of that church, was voted out of office by his congregation, will be aired in all probability Thursday afternoon at the Ontario-Quebec Baptist convention here. It is expected that the McMaster University question will be considered tomorrow.

That a mighty religious revival such as the church has not witnessed in many years is absolutely necessary, and that economic, social and religious life are so influenced by world conditions today that such a revival must be brought about immediately, was the statement made by S. J. Moore, Toronto, president of the convention, in his annual address to-night.

ACCEPT CHALLENGE.

"Conditions are such to-day that we should accept the mighty challenge. This church is given the duty of leading the world out of its darkness and the pitiful failure of substitutes is appalling," declared the speaker.

Mr. Moore quoted the Attorney-General of the United States as stating that five great plagues are to-day afflicting humanity, and until they are removed the world will not be right. The first of the afflictions is the unprecedented challenge to authority; second, hatred between man and man; third, abnormal aversion to work; fourth, the equally unusual thirst for pleasure as the great aim in life; fifth, the gross materialism which drives the realities of spiritual life out of human life.

That the Baptist church as an institution is on the verge of the mightiest revival the church has ever known, but that great preparations will be required in order to bring success, was the prediction of Rev. O. C. S. Wallace, of Montreal, in the course of a brief address this afternoon. The speaker urged all true followers to spend more time in prayer. It was necessary for the true believer to "see the King." Teachers, fathers, mothers, and all in a position of leadership would be much better able to fulfill their responsibilities if they could only see Him who had given his life to save the world.

EFFECTIVENESS OF PRAYER.

An important announcement made this afternoon was that for the remainder of the week the period between 3.30 and 5 o'clock would each day be devoted entirely to prayer. Prayer, it was announced, would be far more effective than all the speeches in the world.

At the opening service this afternoon Rev. W. H. Langton, of Brantford; Rev. H. C. Newcombe, of Simcoe, and Cameron, of Kitchener, gave brief addresses, outlining their experiences in evangelistical and revival work.

Rev. W. J. Pady, of St. George, gave a brief resume of the progress made in connection with the ministerial superannuation fund. A committee from the convention was named to meet with the superannuation board on this question.

STRUCK BY MOTOR CAR, PARIS GIRL IS KILLED

Edith Parrott, Aged 12, Victim of Fatal Accident While Returning From School.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—(Special to The Free Press)—Edith Parrott, aged 12, was accidentally run down by an automobile at noon to-day while returning from school, and died 15 minutes later.

The school children were following a truck with an electric organ that was being driven around town, and while proceeding over William street bridge the girl ran out from behind the motor truck to cross on to the sidewalk and ran in front of an auto driven by Mrs. A. Taylor, of Galt. Chief Green, who called out to the children of their danger, picked up the unconscious child and medical aid was at once summoned, but death ensued from concussion of the brain. Her mother, Mrs. M. A. Parrott, is a widow and resides on Elm street. An inquest will be held.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN TO DISARMAMENT PARLEY

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The British delegation to the Washington conference, according to the London Times, will consist of Mr. Lloyd George, A. J. Balfour and Lord Lee, of Fareham, with Srinavassa Sastri, representing India; Sir Robert Borden, Canada, and George Foster Pearce, Australia. Sir John Salmond, of New Zealand, and Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador to the United States, will also attend the conference, when required.

It is expected that Sir Maurice Hankey, secretary of the Cabinet, will act as secretary of the delegation.

ESCAPED PRISONERS CAUGHT AT CLINTON

Joseph Richards, Who Got Out of Goderich Jail on Friday, Remanded by Magistrate Reid.

GODERICH, Oct. 17.—Joseph Richards, who escaped from the local jail on Friday night, was captured in Clinton last night. Magistrate Reid remanded him this morning so that he could get cleaned up. Richards claimed he came from near Paisley.

Another wanderer was picked up last night by the police at the dock. Tattoos on his arms at first gave the police the thought that he might be one of the Murrells, but that was the only thing that tallied. He was able to give a good account of himself and was allowed to go.

CHATHAM LEAVES MUNICIPAL ASSN.

Council Decides to Fight Gas Question Alone

CLAIMS NO ASSISTANCE

Mayor Brisco Vigorously Protests Action

CHATHAM, Oct. 17.—In spite of a vigorous protest from Mayor Brisco the City Council to-night decided to withdraw its membership from the Municipal Gas Consumers' Association. The question was introduced at the board by Ald. Harrington and Mindorff, who claimed that Chatham's chances for success in the natural gas fight were hampered by her membership in the association. They pointed out that the association has never at any time assisted Chatham to establish and defend her preferential rights to the natural gas in the Tilbury field, which rights the city claims Chatham possesses under the franchise with the gas company.

It was further contended that as a result of the association's unfortunate action in recommending the appointment of Gas Referee Henderson and then asking for his dismissal from office Chatham would be in a better position to fight for her rights before the referee if she were not a member of that body.

When the question was introduced, and before the motion to withdraw was passed, Mayor Brisco stated his willingness to retire from the position of president of the association. He, however, claimed the association had been a benefit to Chatham in arranging hearings of the gas controversy and in a hearing before the Government in the interests of the municipalities. For the sake of the co-operation of the municipalities alone he asked that the Council postpone action until after the completion of the audit of the Union Gas Company's books, but the Council decided to withdraw immediately, Ald. Fitzsimmons being the only alderman who supported the mayor's plea.

WEST HURON TEACHERS' CONFERENCE AT EXETER

EXETER, Oct. 17.—One of the most successful conventions of teachers in history of West Huron was held here on Thursday and Friday last. The attendance was large and the papers given were good. W. H. Johnston, who acted as secretary for a number of years and who resigned, was made the recipient of a well-filled purse. G. S. Howard, principal, of Exeter, was appointed as his successor.

Sunday was anniversary Sunday at the Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. J. Patterson, of Sarnia, preached both morning and evening. Main Street Methodist withdrew their morning service to attend, as did James Street, the Anglican, and Thames Road Presbyterian in the evening, thus increasing the attendance. A quartette from London assisted the local choir at both services. Professor Anderton presided at the organ at the evening services.

The Anglican fowl supper, held on Friday, was a successful affair, both financially and socially. The program was well rendered.

The local high school attended Lucan field day exercises on Friday and carried off many laurels. Friday next will be observed as the field day here, when Parkhill and Lucan will be present. A good program of sports is to be run off.

A court of revision was held here before the county judge and several names were added to the list in readiness for the coming Dominion election. Three men are in the field.

WESTERN ONTARIO'S FOREMOST NEWSPAPER.

THREE CENTS. LONDON, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1921. —14 PAGES THREE CENTS.

THREE DENOMINATIONS SEEK COLLEGE SITES BESIDE WESTERN U.

When Plan Is Completed Between Four and Five Million Will Be Invested.

UNIVERSITY SITE HAS MORE THAN 200 ACRES

Anglicans, Methodists and Roman Catholics Would Become Part of Undertaking.

Western University, when completed on the new site on the Kingsmill farm of more than 200 acres, will be the center of a group of educational institutions whose buildings will represent a monetary value of between four and five million dollars. Advances have already been made to the authorities of the Western by the Anglicans, the Roman Catholics and the Methodists with the view to establishing colleges adjacent to the new university. On account of the fact that the board of governors is so busy with its own building program at present, nothing definite has been done with these other propositions. But it is expected that within a short time of the completion of the first unit of Western will see building activities commenced on at least three denominational colleges that will be in affiliation.

HAVE MONEY NOW.

Ex-Mayor C. R. Somerville is authority of the statement that the Roman Catholics have the money on hand and are waiting to start on a large building program as soon as construction on the new university is commenced. Ground has been secured for a girls' college near the Kingsmill farm, but it is the intention of the Catholics to erect a boys' college adjacent to Western also. The site for the boys' college has not yet been chosen, but it is expected that this question will be settled within a few months.

While the Anglican college which will be erected will not be new to London, Huron College has long been affiliated with the university on its present site, his theological school will be greatly enlarged in its new home. Huron College authorities are now considering what is the best disposition that can be made of the college buildings now occupied in order that a start may be made within the near future on the new buildings.

TRAINING COLLEGE.

It is asserted that the Methodists are ready to proceed with the construction of a training college here also. This has been a vision of the members of this denomination in this vicinity for some time, and the expansion of the Western has presented the opportunity for opening up a college for the training of the young men of the church.

It is understood that at least two other denominations are considering the advisability of establishing colleges in connection with Western also. But there is nothing definite in this at present, although it is expected that eventually they will decide to open schools here. But the three named have already decided that the colleges should be opened in connection with the new university and as soon as the details are all arranged a further announcement will be made.

CHOICE OF SITE.

The main difficulty in connection with the three denominational colleges being affected is the choice of a site. It has been suggested by at least one of the three that a portion of the new grounds should be allotted for this purpose. But it is pointed out that the Western will need the entire farm in the future, as it is predicted that the growth will be rapid in the next few years. Thus it is considered probable that the denominational colleges will be erected on sites adjacent to the Kingsmill farm.

NEBRASKA SWEPT BY GREAT PRAIRIE FIRE

Territory 70 Miles Long and 10 Miles Wide Is Burned Out.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 19.—The worst prairie fire in a decade in the vicinity of Callaway, Nebraska, swept that territory yesterday, burning a strip 70 miles long and 10 miles wide from North Platte northeast. A high gale blew the fire beyond control almost immediately. It started, presumably, from a spark from a locomotive. Everything in the path of the flames was destroyed. Scores of horses and cattle, which sought protection by huddling together in canyons, were burned to death. Bins located in the grain stubble fields were destroyed with their contents.

Sends Threats To Father and Lands In Court

Thomas Devine, 18 years of age, faced the police magistrate this morning on a rather unusual charge, to which he pleaded guilty and was remanded until Monday for sentence. Devine, who is the son of John Devine, a London truck man who is in business in rather a large way, wrote home to his father for money. But he did not use any of the age-worn appeals usually resorted to by ipecunious youths who desire to nick paterfamilias for a few of his berries. Thomas put some real "pull and pep" in his letter and informed his father that he wanted $20, and if Devine, sr., did not "come across I'll burn up every truck and barn you've got."

As a matter of discretion he did not sign his name to the epistle nor did he entrust it to the mails. Instead, he gave it to a small boy whom he met near his home, pointed out the house and told the youngster to deliver it. The lad carried out his part of the contract and the letter was handed in at the Devine home to Mrs. Devine. When her husband came home later he read it, recognized his son's handwriting and, instead of placing a bucket brigade on guard over the trucks and barns, communicated with the police department, with the result that Thomas was speedily taken into custody.

THRONGS ATTEND SIMPLE SERVICE

Lady Beck Laid To Rest In Hamilton Cemetery.

OFFICIALDOM REPRESENTED

Clergymen Pay High Tribute To Her Faithful Work.

HAMILTON, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The funeral of Lady Beck, which took place from Christ Church Cathedral—the church in which she had been baptised and in which, 23 years ago, she was married—was one of the simplest possible, in accord with the wishes of the family for a private service. No choir was a feature of the occasion, but despite the advertised fact of a private funeral, great throngs filed the church and lined the adjacent streets as the cortege arrived at the cathedral by motor from Toronto shortly after 11 o'clock.

The flag was at half mast on the city hall, where the Board of Control adjourned business to attend the funeral. The blinds were drawn in the offices of the Hydro-Electric Commission during the hour of the funeral, and for one minute, at the beginning of the service, electric power was shut off here as in all other municipalities served by the commission. Flowers continued to pour in from sorrowing citizens yesterday and this morning.

Very Rev. Dean Tucker, Dean of Huron, Lady Beck's own clergyman, and Very Rev. Dean Owen, rector of Christ Church Cathedral, Hamilton, were the officiating clergymen. Both made touching references to the faithful service given by Lady Beck to the cause of the sick and the indigent, and paid high tribute to her unselfish character and unvarying consideration for others.

Bishop Williams, of Huron, was also one of the officiating clergymen.

The pallbearers were D'Arcy Martin, Hamilton; H. B. McGiverin, Ottawa; C. F. McInnes, A. J. MacKenzie, D. B. Cronyn and Horace Beck, all of Toronto; Herbert Gates, of London, and A. J. Crerar, of Hamilton.

Interment was made in Hamilton Cemetery.

Pulpit Exchanges To Lead Way To Unity of Three Denominations

Representatives of Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists Meet In Toronto.

Representatives from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational denominations will meet in Toronto to-day and to-morrow for the purpose of discussing ways and means by which organic union of the three churches may be expedited. The Rev. D. C. MacGregor, who is representing London at the conference, informed The Free Press that this will be a most important session, as it is the first co-operative meeting since the Presbyterian Assembly pronounced in favor of unity. It is possible that the Anglican church may also be represented at the meeting, as it was through the recent General Synod at Hamilton, also adopted the union proposals.

It is pointed out by clergy who have made a thoughtful survey of the situation that union will be only brought about by the passing of time and the development of public sentiment in favor of complete federation. The plan most favored, therefore, is to gradually weld the denominations together by the application of every form of mutual endeavor which will not be considered too radical.

PULPIT EXCHANGES.

The Toronto convention will deal with numerous suggestions and recommendations along the line of co-operation. Arrangements will probably be drawn up which will enable a pastor of one denomination to preach in the pulpit of another communion, and also to act as pastor to another church. Once this has been adopted the smaller church courts will station ministers irrespective of what denomination they were originally ordained into.

Perhaps the main point of contact at which union may be fostered is in the permanent offices maintained by the churches. For instance, union publications are being brought to the forefront now and they will be able to exert a great influence in the cause of unity. Then, again, campaigns such as the Forward Movement, which have been conducted separately in the past, might be brought under one controlling body and even the missionary funds of the three denominations might be united, if it was found expedient in the interests of economy to do so.

ROBS EXPRESS CAR BETWEEN STOPS

Bandit On Toronto Express Gets Contents of Safe.

MESSENGER WAS BOUND

Visitor Drops From Train While It Is In Motion.

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Oct. 19.—The Dominion Express messenger on train No. 4, the Vancouver-Toronto Express, was held up and the safe in the car rifled by a lone bandit some place between Swift Current and Moose Jaw this morning. Shortly after leaving Swift Current the messenger found himself covered by a revolver and told to put up his hands. He was then bound and gagged by the robber and the safe was gone through, and when the train was in motion the bandit opened a side door of the car and dropped off.

The Canadian Pacive Railway and express company officials here are unable to give any details as to the amount missing, as the check-up has not been completed.

When the train arrived here the messenger failed to appear at the car door when summoned and a search revealed him bound and gagged on the floor of the car.

BIG DECLINE IN PRICE OF FLOUR

Cost Is 20 Per Cent. Less Than a Month Ago.

50-CENT CUT ON TUESDAY

Bakers Believe That Cheaper Bread Unlikely.

Flour declined 50 cents a barrel yesterday. Gordon C. Hunt, manager of the Hunt Flour Company, informed The Free Press to-day that first patents are to-day selling at a reduction of $2 a barrel or approximately 20 per cent. less than a month ago.

Flour has continued a sympathetic decline with wheat, each slump in the cost of Manitoba No. 1 hard being followed almost immediately by a proportionate decrease in the cost of flour. Bread, too, has been affected, but not in the same degree, the contention of the bakers being that their labor costs make big cuts prohibitive.

"Do you think that there will be still further drops in the quotations on flour?" Mr. Hunt was asked.

LOWEST FIGURES.

"That is almost impossible to say," he said. "There have been a series of declines within the past few weeks and both first and second patents are at the lowest figure they have been for some time. The reduction yesterday was the most substantial one yet and there is reason for believing that bottom prices have been reached if wheat remains stationary. In the past month I would say that there has been an approximate decline of $2 a barrel, bringing first patents to $7.60 and second patents to $7.10."

One local baker intimated that the public need not expect any declines in the price of bread, at least not immediately. He pointed out that stocks on hand must first be used.

Britain Plans Emigration Program To Relieve Out-of-Works.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS

Says Unemployment Worst Since Napoleonic Wars.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Cable.—The situation in England as regards trade and unemployment is worse than at any time since the end of the Napoleonic wars, declared Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons to-day in outlining the Government's policy on these two subjects.

At present, he said, there are 1,750,000 persons unemployed, and added that the greatest unemployment, to the extent of 17 per cent., was in the metal trades.

He declared that the causes for this situation could all be summed up in one word—war.

As a part of the Government's plan of alleviation, he said, the Government proposed to ask Parliament for an appropriation of another £300,000 to enable ex-service men to emigrate to the dominions, whither, he said, 60,000 already had settled, with Government assistance.

Turning to the question of trade, Mr. Lloyd George said there were undoubtedly signs of revival in some of the most important industries of England, but that also there were very important industries which were not showing signs of revival. He said it was true that trade was beginning to move, but that a man would have to be very sanguine who could predict a return of normal conditions at any early date. He said Great Britain's interest in the restoration of trade rested upon the revival of trade in industry and England's purchasing capacity abroad. He added that the Government proposed to amend the export credit scheme.

ELIE BANK ROBBERS GET FIVE YEARS EACH

WINNIPEG, Oct. 19. — Six young robbers who set out a week ago to hold up the branch of the Bank of Hochelaga at Elie, Man., and got away with $1,200, to-day were sentenced each to five years' imprisonment. The men are: Henry B. Quackenbush, James Radding, Sydney L. Roberts, George W. Adams, Clarence W. Adams and David Lidfler.

Proposed Main Arts and Science Buildings of Western University

These are the two units of the new university on which construction will be commenced within a month or two. The architectural style, collegiate Gothic, will be maintained throughout. Gray stone will be used entirely, with the exception of the foundation, which will be of concrete. They will accommodate 1,200 students.

Will Lay 27 Miles Of Rails Near Here

Section From Woodstock To Sand Pits Will Be Commenced To-Morrow.

Twenty-seven miles of new 100-pound steel rails will be laid on the westbound Grand Trunk Railway track between Woodstock and the sand pit, which is a few miles east of London, commencing to-morrow.

The track gangs which have been laying rail east of Hamilton are to-day being moved to Woodstock where they will commence work on the London division. The rail is being distributed to-day along the 27 miles of right-of-way.

In the expenditures approved last year for 1920 and 1921 a substantial allotment was made for new rail in the London division. The railway officials are endeavoring to have the program completed this year and are putting forth every effort to lay as much new steel rail as possible.

28 REGISTRARS FOR CITY VOTERS

Chief Returning Officer Receives Instructions To Double the Original Number.

The work of personal registration to secure the franchise in the forthcoming general election will be just twice the job in London that it was at first expected to be. Originally the intention was to divide the city into 14 registration areas and this, it was thought, would be sufficient to care for the work without undue delay. But W. C. Fitzgerald, who has been appointed chief returning officer for London City, pointed out to the department of the chief election officer, in Ottawa, that 14 registrars could not commence to handle the work, and to-day he received authority from the capital to double the number of men to be employed.

Mr. Fitzgerald is making his appointments to-day and will complete his list just as speedily as he can find competent men to take over the duties. The city will be divided into 28 registration areas in stead of 14, and in each of these the official appointed for that area will attend a certain number of hours each day commencing on October 31. He will receive the applications of all who desire to be placed on the voters' lists and, if satisfied of their qualifications, will accordingly register them.

An appeal from the registrar's decision is provided to the senior judge of the county court, in this case Judge Talbot Macbeth. It is not incumbent upon Judge Macbeth to sit in person upon the appeal court, but he may designate one or more substitutes to act for him.

The list of registrars is expected to be complete within the next few days.

ARREST MAY BARE INSIDE OPERATIONS OF BIG "DOPE RING"

Correspondence Found On Johnston Hill Is Being Investigated By Police.

PROVINCIAL AUTHORITIES APPRAISED OF FIND

Evidence That Prisoner Was Associated With Others In the Drug Business.

By the arrest of Johnston Hill, on a charge of fraud, which was effected on Tuesday afternoon by Detective Harry Down, the police believe that they have secured information which may prove of much importance in connection with tracking down the men who are believed to be members of the Ontario "dope ring" and, who, according to official opinion, practically control the illicit sale of habit-forming drugs in this province.

The charge on which Hill is held now and to which he pleaded guilty this morning, is that of attempting to obtain $200 by fraud from A. Hill, a farmer, of Lakefield, but the prisoner also had the dangerous habit of carrying letters in his clothes and from correspondence captured by the police much information is said to be given as to the workings of the "dope" ring. The name of a doctor in a small town in the province is several times mentioned as one of the chief sources of supply, while practically all the letters, of which there are several, contain evidence that the accused was associated with others in the illicit sale of habit-forming drugs.

PEDDLE DRUGS.

One reference in one letter, referring to the probable activities of Hill during the winter, is particularly interesting. Apparently he is not optimistic as to the immediate future in the drug business for he remarks to his correspondent that "if the worst comes to the worst, it may be necessary to peddle around Toronto for the winter." Reference is then made to the mysterious doctor and the prices at which he is prepared to supply "decks"—the technical name for supplies of dope handled by a peddler. At this price Hill opines that something can be done provided it is possible "to get rid of enough of the stuff."

The letters are now in the hands of the local detective department and provincial authorities have already been appraised of their contents. In addition to the letters enough cocaine to provide many "shots" was found in Hill's possession.

In addition to his alleged connection with the habit-forming drug traffic, Hill is also evidently more or less of a gambler. A pair of "trained" crap dice, so constituted that they would throw nothing but the lucky seven, as well as a set of "put and take" dice were also found on him.

DETECTIVE WAS WAITING.

The offence which led to his arrest was an attempt to secure some easy

MAN KILLED WHEN CAR TAKES DITCH

W. R. Jackson Is Victim of Accident Near Stratford.

STRATFORD, Oct. 19.—W. R. Jackson, 38 Hibernia street, a traveler for pianos, died while being removed to the General Hospital about 2 o'clock this morning following an accident on the new highway a short distance west of the city. A light car in which Jackson and Wm. Kearney were returning from Milverton turned turtle into a seven-foot ditch. Kearney escaped unhurt, but Jackson was crushed terribly and lived only a few minutes. Members of Ney's orchsetra, of Sebringville, returning from a dance, found the men under the wrecked car and notified the authorities. There will be no inquest.

STRUCK WHEELBARROW.

MOUNT FOREST, Oct. 18.—Wm. McIntyre, who has been helping D. Flett remodel his greenhouse, slipped off a plank on which he was wheeling cement, striking his throat against the iron wheelbarrow and injuring himself so that he will be confined to his home for some time.

Premier Is Welcomed By Clinton Citizens

Warm Greeting In Marked Contrast To the Dismal Weather.

CLINTON, Ont., Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter.) — Clinton's welcome to Premier Meighen was in warm contrast to the dismal weather which marked the opening of his Western Ontario campaign. A large number of citizens met the Toronto train and a motor procession, headed by the Huron Regiment Band, proceeded at once to the town hall, the auditorium of which was filled in less than five minutes.

Mayor A. J. McMurray tendered a civic welcome.

"We deem it a great honor," he said, "to have with us to-day Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, premier of Canada. On behalf of the Town Council and citizens of Clinton, we extend to you a very hearty welcome on this, the occasion of your first visit to our municipality as premier. You have been highly honored by your associates in Parliament by being selected for this important position, and realizing, as we do, that the position carries with it very serious responsibilities, we wish to assure you that as citizens of the Dominion, we are prepared to do our part and thus help you in your arduous duties.

"We also wish to congratulate you on the able and noteworthy part you have played in the affairs of the empire as Canada's representative at the recent imperial conference. By visiting our town you have honored us, and we hope that your stay amongst us will be so pleasant that you will carry away with you pleasing memories of our town and people, and the assurance that we are a united community in the worthy objective of making Canada a great nation and a model people."

PREMIER REPLIES.

The premier, who was given a fine reception by the audience, replied as follows:

"Mr. Mayor and Council, Ladies and Gentlemen: It is a pleasant and by no means an arduous duty to respond to an address of welcome of this kind. It is one of the happy features of political life that there are times when one can meet both friend and foe and spend a few moments outside the heated circle of partizan conflict.

"I am glad that in the Town of Clinton I can meet here my fellow citizens of all parties, and at the hands of a council, doubtless composed of those against, as well as for, receive a welcome such as this. The address states that this is my first visit here as prime minister. It is. I do recall, however, coming to Clinton many years ago, in the summer of '96, and spending a Sunday happily in your midst, and I may add that my chief recollec-

LIQUOR IN CELLARS A MENACE TO 'DRY' LAWS

Mrs. Haskett, Superintendent of Law Enforcement, Tells W.C.T.U. Convention.

QUANTITIES PURCHASED FOR SPECULATION ONLY

"Everything Will Be Done To Make This Law Stink In Nostrils of People."

Declaring that the chief danger to be faced during the next few years lay in the cellars stocked before the referendum for purely speculative purposes, Mrs. Haskett, of Ottawa, superintendent of the department of law enforcement, introduced a prolonged discussion on the carrying out of the liquor legislation in this province, at this morning's session of the Provincial W. C. T. U., in annual convention here. Mrs. Hasket pointed out that the contents of these cellars would be produced during the next year or so, to be sold at vastly increased prices. "In fact," the superintendent stated, "everything will be done to make this law stink in the nostrils of the people."

Replying to a question regarding the legal chartering of a firm for the manufacture of liquor, Mrs. Haskett explained that under a general law a company can incorporate if meeting certain conditions. "Interference from the Government would make a charter depend upon the will and the whim of the party in power," she pointed out.

"If any company, after having obtained the charter, acts in contravention of its powers, it is amenable to all the penalties provided by the law," Mrs. Hasket said. "It is not legal for any company to export wines and liquors to a foreign country.

Asked as to the issuing of Federal permits for exportation, Mrs. Haskett said that she had interviewed the customs and was informed that a permit was not required by a chartered company to export into the U. S. A.

In her report Mrs. Haskett paid a warm tribute to the many fine acts recently introduced by the legislators of the county, mentioning particularly the Mothers' Pensions Act, Equal Guardianship of Children and the Act of Illegitimacy, which she declared to be especially valuable in forbidding illegitimate children holding equal property rights; in reality the placing of a premium on vice and the defrauding of the wife and legal heirs.

"We heartily endorse," the superintendent said, "the system of Government-equipped, municipally-owned cold storage plants, and would petition that these be under the control of the Board of Health, who may have power to place all foodstugs on the market while fit for consumption and thus prevent anyone, for purposes of private gain, from holding foodstuffs and keeping up the prices of the same." We believe that some such system would eliminate the profiteer, preserve the supply, increase production and give fair market prices and would be a large factor in cutting down the high cost of living."

The acceptance of the report as a whole included also the endorsation of educational films and the approval of certain signs of betterment in the

MAYOR CHURCH AND H. C. HOCKIN COMING

Will Be Guest of Orange Lodge At Annual Banquet on October 25.

Grand Master H. C. Hocken, of the Orange Order in British America, Deputy Grand Master Hon. W. D. McPherson aind Mayor Church, of Toronto, will visit London on October 25 as guests of Star of Bethlehem, L. O. L., Lodge, which holds its annual banquet on that date.

W. T. Clark, master of the local lodge, states that elaborate preparations are being made for the banquet which will be held in the banquet hall of the Masonic Temple. The toast list now being arranged will be of unusual significance owing to the distinguished men that will reply and incidentally touch on many problems of vital provincial, national and international interest.

A special train will bring the guests for the evening from Toronto, two Orange lodges in the Queen City having been invited in a body to attend the banquet.

Prior to the banquet there will be an Orange parade from the G. T. R. station up Richmond and Dundas streets to Ulster Hall and from there to the Masonic Temple.

Careless Farmer Plows Clean Through Stump

BEECH PARK, Oct. 19—(Exclusive Staff Special.)—Bill Epps, who owns as fine a hundred acres as can be found on the lake front between Port Stanley and Port Bruce, experienced a most unique and thrilling situation early this morning that is the talk of the district, especially among the old-timers. On the back fifty acres a few years ago stood a splendid bush of hard maple and mighty oaks. Very little timber is now standing and during the fall and winter months Bill clears off the land and gets it in shape for crop.

Shortly after daylight on Wednesday Ed Henshaw and Abe Werner went with Epps to the slashing, to help with the breaking up of a four-acre plot that Epps intends to put into corn next year. Henshaw and Werner were clearing the ground in advance of Epps, who was plowing. Epps turned his head to watch a black squirrel run up a tree and the plow ran straight into and split a big oak stump. The plow passed entirely through the split and Epps was almost through when it closed and caught him by the coat tail. The remarkable feature of the affair was that the coat was not torn a particle, for Epps hung on to the plow handle and pulled the stump out.

Heads Fall By the Thousand In Red Russia, Says Officer Just Back From Soviet Prison

Capt. Kilpatrick Estimates Life Loss In Russia At 20,000,000 Since 1914.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Astounding facts of conditions in Soviet Russia were given in a statement to the Associated Press yesterday by Capt. Emmett Kilpatrick, of Uniontown, Ala., who was captured by General Budenny's cavalry command in October, 1920, while doing American Red Cross work, and suffered for more than nine months in soviet prisons. Capt. Kilpatrick, under 20 years' sentence at hard labor, was released on August 7, last, through efforts of the American relief mission in Russia. He returned to the United States yesterday.

Thousands of Austro-Hungarian prisoners of war, many of them taken by the Russian armies in 1914, still are held by the soviets, Capt. Kilpatrick declared, but their number is fast dwindling through deaths from starvation. He conservatively estimated the loss of life in Russia since 1914 from famine, execution and war at 20,000,000.

"My figures and my story may seem ridiculous," Capt. Kilpatrick said, "but during my prison life in Russia I talked to several thousand prisoner-generals and aristocrats, as well as politicians, businessmen and peasants—and I think I know what I am talking about.

"The Soviet Government is nothing more than a system of prisons operated by the extraordinary commission, and over this commission Lenine and Trotzky reign. The entire population is ruled by a scant 300,000 communists.

"In Moscow alone there are 30,000 Government spies, and it is almost certain death to utter a word against the Government.

"Executions go on like the fall of Niagara. I have stood in my prison cell and heard the work going on hour after hour with never a let up. When I first was placed in prison the majority of my comrades were aristocrats and members of royalty. When I came out they were all gone—killed. I have sawn logs with beautiful aristocratic young women pulling the other end of the saw."

ONE-ARMED MAN "PICKED" ON BY ALD. WENIGE STATED TO BE ONE OF BEST WORKERS

Can Handle Tools In Competition With Any Laborer With Two Arms.

Publication yesterday of a statement that Ald. Wenige had secured the picture of a one-armed man employed by the works department which was being submitted as "evidence" in the ward one alderman's charges of inefficiency in the works department has already brought an interesting story to light. The works department does not deny having a one-armed man employed in one of its paving gangs, the Kingston Construction Company, now engaged in building the new collegiate, holding that it should be a matter of congratulation to the city engineer.

After the publication of the report inquiries were made by the high school contractors, it was reported this morning, as to the identity of the one-armed laborer. The reply showed that he had been employed by the Kingston company during the construction of the Westminster Hospital. They stated, voluntarily, that the one-armed man was one of the best laborers they had. Despite his handicap he was able to shovel earth or do other work in competition with men with two good arms and otherwise sound in mind and limb. They assured the works department that if they were embarrassed by so efficient a laborer work could be found for him.

This offer, however, was politely refused. Proving, as one returned soldier at the city hall stated to-day, that the same test for manhood applies in peace as well as in war.

City Engineer Brazier to-day refused to discuss Ald. Wenige's published charges of inefficiency. "I will make a statement later," he said, "but not yet at any event."

BREACH DEVELOPS IN GRIT RANKS

Section of Party Angles For Labor Candidate.

TWO DISTINCT FACTIONS

Free Traders On One Hand, Protectionists On Other.

London Liberals are facing a crisis. A breach has developed in the ranks and it is growing to such proportions that it threatens to disrupt the party entirely so far as the present campaign may be concerned. The selected candidate, C. R. Somerville, was "unanimously" chosen at the Liberal convention, which was held some weeks ago. But there the unanimity ended. The fond hopes of the wise ones of the party that Mr. Somerville would gather free traders and the protectionists of the party under his wing have been sadly shattered. The rank and file have apparently concluded that one cannot maintain any protectionist principles and be a close follower of Mackenzie King, for Mr. Somerville is admittedly not getting the loyal support of local Liberalism.

ANOTHER CANDIDATE?

Not only are many Liberals refusing to support the chosen candidate, but a move was recently made to bring out another candidate under the protectionist wing of the party. Because it was recognized that Labor cannot accept Mr. King, in the personnel of Mr. Somerville, the insurrectionists thought it would be a good move to bring out a Labor man who would enter the race under the protection of this branch of the Liberal party here. Accordingly the plans were well laid, at least it was thought they were. The man was selected and everything was made ready for the fray. The only trouble was that the Labor man who had been chosen refused to accept the nomination.

Was it for the lack of the necessary money with which to carry on a campaign? That could be easily arranged, said the insurrectionist Liberals, who had been chosen to bear the olive branch to Labor. The campaign expenses would all be met without the candidate having to bear any portion of it, he was promised. Nor would the Labor party be asked to put up any funds. The loyal Liberals would see that the purse was well filled.

WANT LABOR MAN.

But the Liberals reckoned without their new candidate. Much time has been spent in an effort to induce a Labor man to enter the race with Liberal backing, but to date the quest has been unsuccessful. And it is quite apparent that the move is almost sure to fail, so far as securing a candidate from Labor's ranks may be concerned.

Whether the Liberals who have been so anxious to back a Labor candidate will select a protectionist from their own ranks to oppose Mr. Somerville is not yet definitely decided. It would not be a great surprise to those who are on the inside to hear of a second Liberal candidate being brought out. Of course those high in the ranks deny that there is any sign of a split in the party here, but it is well known to them as to many others that there are two distinct factions in the Liberal ranks of London now. The one is ready to follow Mr. King and free trade, while the other is determined on a policy of protection.

TRUSTEES CHALLENGED TO GAME OF BOWLS

Toronto Board of Education Defies Local Board to Try Them Out.

Toronto's Board of Education evidently believes, after its series of triumphs over the Toronto City Council, that it can knock any body of men for a row of goals. Anyhow, the morning mail dumped on Secretary Tanner's desk to-day contained a challenge from the Toronto trustees and administrative staff for a contest with the London trustees in the ancient and honorable game of bowls. They specify a five-pin game, and losers to buy the dinner. The challenge will come up at an early meeting of the Board of Education and an acceptance of the challenge is forecasted.

J. M. CAMPBELL WILL STAND AT KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Oct. 19.—J. M. Campbell, president of the Board of Trade, has consented to allow his name to go before the Liberals of the city at their meeting to-morrow night as the candidate for the Kingston riding. Mr. Campbell was interviewed by the Liberals' executive last night and consented to be the standard bearer if the meeting so decides. He is president of the Kingston Navigation Company, president of the Kingston Milling Company, and also president of the Campbell Power Company.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 19. — A strange tale told from one of our schools where the pupils want the principal to stop after school. "I am afraid that I cannot," he tells them, "owing to my wife bidding me to come home and beat carpets immediately after 4 o'clock." The pupils seem very sorry over this and urge him to stay, so he puts the matter in their hands. "Now, what would you do if you were in my shoes?" And thereat a roughneck boy shouts out: "Beat it!" Which amazes the principal as to the boy's exact meaning.

A fine, humorous story in our paper yesterday of a lad that goes to church for the first time in his four years of life and he asks his mother, being disgusted with the preaching and singing, why they put not on the fillum picture. And this reminds a friend to tell me of another lad, also to church for the first time, who says to his mother pretty loud: "Come on, mother, let's go to another show!"

And speaking of fillums and moveable pictures, have found a word to describe the people that gather to them. Crowds at theaters or other places where words are spoken are called, rightly, an audience. But what name for those that go to see and, St. George being merciful, to hear naught but the music? And last night I find the word to describe them; it being "optience," and methinks it will soon be as well known as the other noun of theatergoers.

A great letter out of Kitchener from a former Methody minister to this city, who lashes our laws because an action by a human being or a corporation may be, so the courts decide, both legal and imoral. Which legal immorality, he says, is a crime before heaven and he speaks of cuttings kings' heads off, and revolutions! We want no beheading of majesty — Britain has one experiment of that sort too many!—but we do need at least literal acceptance of the Ten Commandments.

Receive a letter from a friend in England who forgets the Sinn Feiners and what not in the high excitement over Sir A. Conan Doyle taking pictures of fairies. Which Sir Conan was knighted for his literary effrontery in having a detective that uses cocaine like an ordinary criminal, and that could live for years with a chirurgeon named Watson, who says "marvelous" every few minutes like a talking box, and who dies in a Swiss gulch but comes to life again. But heaven be praised for these fairies and their being proved by scientific men. And why not? For thousands of years men have believed in fairies or nymphs or fauns, shall we disprove them in a century?

And thinking this over, believe that we are about to turn back to happier times. A believing, a joyous, a merry time. I think the young world, growing sullen but with a dimple showing, is about to serve notice on all and sundry: "I have been reformed too much! Too long I have dwelt in your smug temples and listened to your wailing songs of repentance. I feel the call of the woods and the woods' gods; my ears catch the far note of pipes; I am going back to fairies and pixies, to the joys of Queen Elizabeth, her day, and beyond. I am going back to mirth and simplicity and, yes, back to a love of God!"

"Now, into the fire of Spring
Your winter garment of repentance
Fling;
The bird of time has but a little while to flutter—
And, lo, the bird is on the wing!"

A man tried before our courts yesterday for killing a horse with a blunt axe, the poor dumb beast lying three-quarters of an hour before it died. And earthly justice fined his £1 and costs, but methinks there is a book yonder kept by the all-seeing recording angel, wherein opposite this man's name a charge of "murder" is entered.

Some day mean to write a great book of essays on "The Men That Slow Up." In college your sophomore football star thinks he knows all there is to the game when he enters his junior year. He forthwith refuses to go in training, smokes like a wood-burning engine, carries his stomach high at the coach and the college loses games to amateurs! Another slower up is the reporter that makes good for a few years and then begins writing silly twaddle like this and is fired before he knows it. But in heaven's name let us forget the "new broom sweeps clean" saw. Gentlemen, let's be vacuum cleaners, full of pep so long as Niagara runs!

When young people, ordinary young people may enter the holy bonds of wedlock and not having the bridal bed haunted by nightmares of poverty, unpaid debts, sickness and sordidness, methinks we shall hear less of white or any other sort of slavery. Which reminds me of a cynical reply given to a professor of sociology to our arts college. The professor asks: "What is the greatest cause of divorce?" and a male student answers: "Marriage!" Therein is a great sermon.

CRONYN PROPERTY SOLD BY PUBLIC AUCTION

The sale of the property of the Cronyn estate conducted on Tuesday by the Canada Trust Company was well attended. Good prices were obtained. With the exception of three lots the entire block offered was disposed of.

J. W. Metherall purchased three of the lots on Dundas street adjoining Kilpatrick Bros. hardware. Anthony Steeles was the purchaser of another lot on Dundas street. Kilpatrick Bros. are the new owners of four lots on Adelaide street, while Wm. McCracken and W. F. Seelhoff each bought a lot on Queen's avenue.

The residence on the property, which was one of the oldest in the city, was purchased by the Mercantile Salvage Company, who, it is understood, will shortly raze the building.

The property was at first offered en bloc by the auctioneer, C. N. Cooper, but because of insufficient bidding the lots were sold separately.

DUTIES WE OWE.—"Duties We Owe Our Children and Duties They Owe Us," was the subject of an address by Mrs Rose, president of the Union Mothers' Club to the Talbot Street Club last evening. A large number were present, with Mrs. Marshall, the president, in the chair. During the evening Miss Dorothy Dickerson sang, and after the business of the [illegible] concluded [illegible] and in the rear of

FAVOR CHANGE IN ASSESSMENT

Anglican Deaneries Want More Equitable Basis.

BUDGET NOT SUFFICIENT

First Joint Session of Bodies Held Here.

Civic ratepayers are not the only persons who can and do take violent objection to existing methods of assessments. The Anglican deaneries of East and West Middlesex at their first joint business session last night were unanimous that there ought to be a more equitable basis adopted for the raising of funds for the use of the general synod of the church.

All Saints' Church was practically filled last night with representatives from all the Anglican churches in the country. This is the first time that a joint meeting of the deaneries has been held, and the officials were particularly gratified with the large turnout of laymen. Addresses of an inspirational nature were delivered this morning and prominent speakers will be heard at the afternoon and evening sessions to-day. Rev. A. A. Bice, the rural dean, presided with the secretary, Rev. W. L. Armitage.

It was the consensus of opinion that the different churches in the deaneries ought to be assessed on the proportion of the number of families and not pro rata, or on the funds which the church raises in a year. Since the general synod of the church is the only body that can change the basis, however, it was decided to delay action until the next meeting of the deaneries, when a resolution will probably be drawn up and referred to the synod, which meets shortly afterwards.

The moneys in question go to a fund which enables the general work of the church to be carried on in home and foreign mission fields and in the sustentation of those churches which are unable to make up the whole of their pastor's stipend. This budget has been behind in finances for some time, and it is believed that with the introduction of a more equitable system of assessment, which is said to be too high at present, the different churches would respond more generously.

The devotional period was opened this morning by Prof. Anderson, of Huron College. N. F. Willmot, of St. John's Sunday school, gave an address on Sunday school work, and Mrs. Hamilton, wife of the bishop of the diocese of Mid-Japan, also spoke. The bishop will speak at to-night's meeting.

MANY PEOPLE ARE DRAWING OWN PLANS

Those Who Build Find a Way to Cut Down Costs.

Some of the local architects are exceedingly optimistic regarding the building and constructing business of the city, while others are inclined to think directly opposite.

One of them claimed that while there was not any demand at present for the erection of any large manufacturing concerns or other establishments, the outlook for the spring was very promising, at least as far as he was concerned, as he had already made plans for three prospective business establishments.

"It is surprising," one stated, "to note the number of people in the city who are making their own plans and going ahead with the work of constructing their buildings. Of course," he added, "this is only with the smaller class of house, but it goes to show that people are bound to cut expenses in one way if they can't do so in any other manner."

It was generally stated by the architects that although there was quite a decline in lumber prices the price of bricks had not decreased enough to make it noticeable to the average man, and it was claimed that while they remained high there would be no grand rush to build.

Another thing that was holding building back to some extent, they claimed, was the additional taxes which were imposed by the assessor on his last visit and by the large increase of taxes on new dwelling places. "Of course," one remarked, "it is only natural for the city to advance the amount on the assessment to meet the demands for new public buildings, roads, sewers and other necessities, but I can't see any excuse for them jumping them the way they have done."

He stated that he had built a house for himself some years ago, and previous to the war had been assessed $65, which, he added, was somewhere within reason, but now, when he was paying between $120 and $130, it was no joke. "This same thing," he concluded, "is what is keeping back the building trade and will, I am sure, until a loophole can be seen somewhere."

TEA TO ADVANCE AFTER FIRST OF NEW YEAR

Brokers Predict That Fifty Cents Pound Will Be Lowest Price.

Devotees of the cup that cheers without inebriating will have to pay more for their beverage in the future than in the past. Tea is going up and a prominent local tea merchant said today that after January 1 it will hardly be possible to obtain even the cheaper grades of teas at less than 50 cents a pound, while the better grades will run from 60 to 85 cents. Even at the present time, this merchant says, retailers who, as a special bargain, are offering three pounds of tea for $1, are selling their product at a lower price than that for which it can be replaced and are either losing money themselves or the loss is falling upon the wholesaler who supplies them. Stocks of cheaper teas are reported to be well cleared up and there is a distinct scarcity of the new crop. The Free Press' informant also pointed out that the consumption of tea in England had so increased during the past few months as to absorb the surplus usually sent to Russia.

ATTEMPT MADE TO STEAL CAR IN EAST LONDON

That the auto thieves residing in London are transferring their affections to the East London territory and that the said affections are not very welcome was evidenced by the attempted stealing of an automobile belonging to Norman Ross, manager of Ashplant's shoe store branch on Dundas street east, last night. The car was moved from the rear of the premises to a lane which led to Queen's avenue and stopped there, a distance of about 100 yards. An employee noticed this, and Mr. Ross made an immediate investigation. It was found that an overcoat, sweater and some other material which had been left in the car had been taken.

The thief or thieves had evidently been frightened off when someone had [illegible] and in the rear of

AUTO THEFTS ARE ON THE INCREASE

Thieves Are Becoming Bold In City Now.

NO CLUES OF MISCREANTS

Thought Gang Working In the District Again.

The number of automobile thefts taking place in the city and vicinity increases daily and so far the police have been unable to make any satisfactory program toward tracing down the guilty parties or recovering the cars.

This morning R. T. Wright, of Thorndale, reported that during the night some persons had entered his garage and had removed his new touring car. The door of the garage was forced. No member of the family heard any unusual noise in the garage and the first knowledge of the loss came this morning when the door was found open and the big car gone.

Two other cars were stolen yesterday but in these cases the more usual method of picking them up in the street while the owners were absent was adopted. Yesterday's losers were W. P. Young, of 12 Horn street, whose car was taken from Clarence street, near the corner of Dundas, and James Fox, of Thorndale, who lost his automobile on the market.

A few evenings ago another car was stolen from a resident of the fifth concession and the evening previous still another disappeared from the Roman Catholic cemetery. In all five valuable automobiles have been stolen either in the city or close to it within the last six days.

NO CLUE TO THEFTS

The highways and byways have been scoured in the idea that the thieves merely "borrowed" the cars to go joy riding and afraid to return them, left them in out of the way places after they had finished their rides. This plan has not resulted in any clue to the thefts and the police are now coming to the opinion that the stealing is the work of experts and that there is a possibility that the cars have either been dismantled or have been spirited out of the city.

It will be recalled that members of the local detective department some time ago recovered a number of valuable auto parts where they had been dumped in the Thames River. Later Provincial Officer Palmer, assisted by W. Gale, made another valuable find in the river several miles from the city. It was then believed that all the parts found were stolen by the same gang and had been dumped in the river until such time as the thieves could dispose of them.

Following these finds and other evidence gathered by the police, several arrests were made for automobile stealing and prisoners are now in jail awaiting trial on these charges. For a time the stealing stopped, which led to the opinion that the ringleaders were either behind the bars or had been frightened into inactivity, but the boldness with which the operations of the past few days have been conducted inclines officials to the view that there is a dangerous gang still at large and working vigorously.

INCLEMENT WEATHER KEEPS SUGAR FIRM

Sugar Beets Cannot Be Marketed and Supplies Suffer.

Unfavorable weather conditions are held to be mainly responsible for the fact that beet sugar has not declined in price as much as had been expected. Continual rains coupled with bad roads have prevented the growers from marketing their beets and the refiners from producing as much sugar as they would otherwise do. Not until the supplies exceed the demands, it is said, will further slumps occur.

When first introduced to the market beet sugar was offered at 50 cents lower than any other brand coming from Cuba or the States. The general market was weakened as a result of this underselling, but has since continued fairly firm, while there has been no fluctuation in the quotations on the Canadian product. Once the entire beet crop has been marketed and refined it is predicted that as much as another dollar may eventually be cut off the present figures.

SUPPLY STAGE DOORS FOR TENTH OF $4,000

Trustee Differs With Estimate of Architect Regarding Victoria School.

Trustee J. B. Wright to-day took issue with the recent statement of the school architect that doors could not be provided for the new Victoria School stage for less than a construction expenditure of $4,000. "The work can be done easily for $200 or $300, and it is a distinct pity that there has been any delay in putting the matter through.

"I was amazed at the statement credited to the architect that the changes necessary to putting in two stage doors would cost $4,000. I investigated the matter with the advice of a contractor and I am certain that doors could be put in the walls of the stage alcove, thus connecting with two adjoining washrooms, for not more than $300."

Mr. Wright was asked if the Victoria "stage" was a stage, or merely a platform, as alleged by the school architect and other trustees.

"Certainly," he replied, "it's a stage, but a stage with the doors forgotten!"

The plaintiffs also claim damages for the alleged fraud and conspiracy.

WINTER MAIL SERVICE.—The post office department is now engaged in the annual operation of arranging for the winter mail service to points on the MacKenzie River district "under the Arctic circle." This year there will be at least a monthly mail, leaving Edmonton for the MacKenzie points, but advices received at the local post office are to the effect that owing to the difficulty of transportation such mail service will be only for letters or registered mail of a limited weight. The first mail on the winter service will leave Edmonton on November 21 and there will be one between the 21st and 27th of each succeeding month until May.

LANSDOWNE WOULD NOT RESORT AGAIN TO FORCE

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Lord Robert Cecil, in opening yesterday afternoon a national campaign in behalf of funds for the League of Nations Union, announced that Lord Cowdray had been asked to contribute £50,000. He read a letter from the Marquis of Lansdowne strongly advocating arbitration in international disputes, instead of resorting to force.

"It is much more important to prevent future wars than punish the culprits who provoked past conflicts," said the letter. "Eviscerating penalties, ruthless revisions of the map and frantic attempts at disarmament may satisfy our sense of justice, but they won't eradicate the cancer."

PREPARE AGENDA FOR S. S. C. MEET

Social Service Workers To Convene In Brantford.

ARE PLANNING REFORMS

Will Probably Inaugurate Movies In the Schools.

F. D. McCullough is to-day in Toronto attending the executive of the Provincial Social Service Council, of which he is the district secretary. At yesterday's session of the council Brantford was chosen as the convention city for the Ontario organization, although no date has been set as yet for its meeting. The agenda for the convention will be prepared by the executive to-day.

Plans for the future include the establishment and strengthening of branches of the council throughout the entire province; the extension of the community center program to rural districts where they are requested, and a definite educational campaign on behalf of child welfare. Rev. Peter Bryce is the head of a strong committee on child welfare, while Alexander MacLaren is supervising the community centers in the province.

Each year the council has some tentative proposals for discussion that will form the basis of requests from the Provincial Government for remedial legislation. It is predicted that further reforms in the marriage laws will be asked and that greater efforts be put forward in helping the attorney-general to exterminate gambling and bootlegging in the country.

The Ontario executive yesterday extended an invitation to the council to appoint five members to select moving picture films that will be suitable for showing in the public schools of the province. This was accepted and will be acted upon to-day, it is understood. This may mean the first step in the carrying out of a co-operative program between the Government officials and the social workers. Both recognize the extensive use which can be made of the moving pictures from an educational standpoint.

WESTERN BOASTS 775 ON THE ROLL

Registration Will Be Beyond 800 Mark In Few Weeks.

"U" BAND IS PROPOSED

Military Committee Considers Formation of Battery.

Registration in all departments of Western University now stands at 775, and through the development of night classes as a part of the art school's extension plans, it is believed that the 800 mark will have been passed within a few weeks. The total registration in the day classes of the arts and medical schools now stands at 519, a gain of 15 during the past week. There are 25 students taking evening lectures at the university.

Growth of popular interest in the institution was shown yesterday when a prominent bandmaster volunteered to train a group of undergraduates for the formation of a Western "U" band. The proposal will be laid before the military committee to-night, and it is believed that the proposal will be enthusiastically accepted.

The military committee will also consider alternative plans for the reorganization of the Western C. O. T. C. One proposal, which meets with considerable approval, is to merge the university officers' training corps with the 1st Battalion, W. O. R., which was the 7th Regiment before the war. It is believed that two companies could be organized among "U" men. They would receive individual instruction and training, but would merge with the 1st Battalion for maneuvers, route marches and parades.

The other plan is more ambitious and is no less than the formation of a university battery. Both proposals will be given full consideration at to-night's meeting of the military committee of the university, which meets in the St. James street library annex.

Scarcity of Baptist Ministers Report of Board

CONVENTION AT ST. THOMAS

Situation in Quebec Outlined for Delegates

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter.)—A strong protest against church union, at least as far as the Baptist Church is concerned, was entered by Thomas Urquhart, ex-mayor of Toronto and a lay member of the home mission board, at to-day's session of the Ontario-Quebec gathering here. He declared that the moment the Baptists link themselves with other denominations they became weaker, and, rather than participate in a union, the speaker declared, he would prefer having the Baptists continue as a sect spoken against than "enveloped by the arms of those who would either crush or love them to death."

The speaker declared that the Baptists have a mission for both Ontario and Quebec and if it were possible for the church to be distinctive it was that much stronger.

The greater part of to-day was taken up in hearing reports of various committees. A number of important recommendations were presented by the home missions board and were adopted by a unanimous vote of the convention.

INCREASE SALARIES

Perhaps the most interesting among these was the following, dealing with increase of salaries: "That we recommend that the minimum salary be fixed at $1,250, with free house, and, where necessary, for horse keep $160, with the hope that the contributions during the year may justify our increasing it to $1,300."

The above, it was explained, would mean an increased expenditure of about $6,000.

Another important recommendation suggested the use more extensively of laymen in the service of the church, especially where pastors are not available. The recommendation follows: "That the home mission board shall, on learning where there are churches or communities unable to support pastors, and for which the board cannot supply regular pasotrs, would recommend and welcome lay preaching."

The report of the missions board also included an interesting survey of conditions in Quebec, giving special attention to the Roman Catholics. The following is the statement included in the report regarding this phase:

THE REPORT.

"I have just completed a tour of the churches in the Eastern Townships, and my heart was made sad by the changes that are taking place there on every hand. The French-Canadians are rapidly taking possession of the whole province. According to reports received from every community in which we have Baptist churches, from 50 to 75 per cent. of the population is now French-Canadian. One layman said that during the past year nine Protestant farmers had sold out to French-Canadian farmers in his own community. This story is true everywhere. In settlements not so long ago entirely Protestant, churches are now having hard times in the securing of congregations on account of the large French-Canadian population.

"Many Protestant churches have been closed; others will soon have to die unless some change takes place. The same story is true of the Ottawa Valley, of many parts of Eastern Ontario and of New Ontario. This, to me, is one of the most serious problems that confronts us. As citizens of Ontario, we should see to it that regulation 17 of the School Act is enforced. As farmers, we should, as far as possible, refuse to sell our properties to French-Canadian Roman Catholics. As Christian, whether in the French or English churches, we should be more aggressive than ever in giving them the light of the Gospel through life and word and deed. The only hope is in a brighter and better witness on the part of God's children.

PITIFUL SITUATION.

Rev. John Galt, pastor of Kenora Church, moderator of the Thunder Bay district, in discussing Northern Ontario declared that the situation was "beautiful, yet pitiful." The speaker explained that his district was the smallest numerically and the largest in area. In four townships there had been no religious gatherings in the past 15 or 20 years. Only eight ordained ministers served under him, this force being augmented by four students in the summer months. He urged the mission board to seize the opportunity and claim this great tract for Christ.

In a stirring inspirational address delivered to-night Rev. George W. McDaniel, of Richmond, Va., declared that "Christ never built anything after He had left the carpenter shop until He constructed His church. Yet His church was not a universal but a local organization; not a building made possible by hands, but a body of people believing in Christ and dedicated to His purposes."

The speaker, who is pastor of one of the most important Baptist churches in the Southern States, the First Baptist Church of Virginia, undertook to explain at length the meaning of the word church, choosing selections from his book, just recently published, entitled "The Church of the New Testament."

CONGRATULATES PRESS.

S. J. Moore, president of the confederation, this afternoon took occasion to congratulate the press on its very fair and accurate reports of the proceedings during the St. Thomas gathering. It created a precedent, he said, as in the past there had been a tendency on the part of press representatives to give out a wrongful impression of the proceedings.

The much-discussed and long-looked-for Jarvis Street Baptist Church matter has not yet come before the convention, although it is known that many in attendance to-day were expecting that the controversy would perhaps be opened. The McMaster University question was also laid over to-day, to be dealt with to-morrow morning, when it is expected that a larger number of delegates will be in attendance. This was done in view of the importance of the matter.

The only incident to indicate that the Jarvis Street matter is still fresh in the minds of the convention occurred this afternoon when nominations were opposed for the filling of vacancies on the home mission board, caused by the expiration of the terms of James Ryrie, Toronto; Christopher Cook, Brantford, and Dr. Thomas Wearing, of Woodstock. All three names were proposed for the succeeding four-year term. James Ryrie was nominated by Rev. John McNeil, of Walmer Road Baptist Church, Toronto, and formerly a deacon under Dr. Shields, of Jarvis Street Church. Dr. Shields also nominated D. H. Gillies, a member of Adelaide Street Church, London, of which Dr. Shields is a former pastor. Rev. J. R. Turnbull, St. Thomas, and E. J. Patrick, of Guelph, were also nominated.

RIGHT TO VOTE.

The threatened break occurred when the question of whether the gathering was correctly informed as to the right of certain delegates to vote. President Moore declared that only those who carried credentials from their church had that power.

Gideon Grant, K. C., who was one of the opponents of Dr. Shields in the recent controversy, immediately asked: "Do you mean to say that delegates appointed by other churches have no such right?"

President Moore explained that these delegates would not be denied any privileges and the ballot was taken, placing James Ryrie, Christopher and James Turnbull in office. The balloting undoubtedly terminated the affair for to-day.

To-morrow, however, promises to be one of the most important sessions in the entire convention. It is then that the McMaster University question and quite possibly the Jarvis Street Church matter will be discussed.

WOODSTOCK'S CLAIM.

The claims of Woodstock that McMaster University should be established there in case it is decided to remove the institution from Toronto will be brought up by a representative committee appointed at a mass meeting of Woodstock citizens. The whole scheme is based partly on the fact that it was the original intention of Senator McMaster, founder of the university, and of those associated with him in the promotion of the university interests, that the university should be developed in Woodstock. In addition there is the fact that Woodstock is already connected with the college belonging to the denomination, which has sufficient grounds for all the buildings necessary for a complete university.

The attendance to-night was exceptionally large, all seats being occupied and many extra chairs being brought in.

This morning's session of the convention was opened with a devotional service, led by Dr. Wallace, of Montreal, and the remainder of the morning was devoted to hearing reports. The report of the social service commission, presented by Rev. F. Waters, of Montreal, stated that the board had endeavored to co-operate as much as possible with other councils through which Christian forces of all denominations have been presenting a united front against the principalities and powers of evil. Members of the committee, who were commended for their work as representatives on the Social Service Council of Ontario, were: Dr. W. T. Graham, Rev. M. C. MacLean and Mr. Harry Moyle.

Rev. Dean Tucker, of London, Ont., president of the council, addressed the convention and in his remarks stated that in the death of Lady Beck Canada loses one of its most able workers and a good friend.

MINISTERS ASSISTED.

In the report of the Baptist superannuation board it was shown that 20 ministers and 14 widows of deceased ministers in the two provinces have received grants from the fund during the past year, making a total amount of $6,525. The amounts individually varied from $120 to $250.

Vacancies on the superannuation board were filled by the following: Spencer Large, of Brantford; Prof. Chester New, of McMaster; W. H. Chapman, of Montreal; Dr. F. R. Watson, of Georgetown, and Edwin Grey and E. T. Fox, Toronto.

WINDSOR BRIDE DIES ON DAY OF WEDDING

Married at Her Own Request Prior to Admission to Hospital.

WINDSOR, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—At noon yesterday Daisy E. Warren, 23, daughter of Ald. T. H. Warren, of Windsor, and J. C. Wilkie, also of Windsor, were married. At 7.30 o'clock last evening at Grace Hospital Mrs. Wilkie was claimed by death, following an operation.

Mrs. Wilkie took ill on Sunday night. She had been to the theater on Saturday evening and it is thought caught cold on the way home.

On Sunday evening she complained of not feeling well. Monday she was given medical attention, the doctor deciding to perform an operation. At her request she was married before the operation took place, Rev. A. E. Moorehouse, pastor of London Street Methodist Church, officiating. The ceremony took place at 11.50 a. m. and half an hour later the operation was performed.

SWORN IN AS JUDGE.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—H. M. Mowat, K. C., former M. P. for Parkdale, Toronto, was sworn in to-day at Osgoode Hall as judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario. The oath was administered by George S. Holmstead, registrar, before Chief Justice Sir William Mulock and a number of representatives of the bench and bar.

W. C. T. U. Aims at Dominion-Wide Prohibition.

FRANCHISE DISCUSSION

Larger Membership on School Boards Favored.

"On to Ottawa for Dominion prohibition of the manufacture, sale, importation and exportation of liquor is the goal of the future. John Barleycorn died hard, and the killing of him nearly exhausted the vital energy of some of our unions, but our war is not over yet, and in it there is no discharge."—Miss Maude McKee, corresponding secretary provincial W. C. T. U.

"As a W. C. T. U. we stand for principle and not for politics. We are women before we are W. C. T. U. members, and as such we are entitled to a separate and independent opinion."—Mrs. Campbell, Ottawa.

"If we are as long getting to the Commons as we were getting to the school board, it will be the millenium before we get there."—Mrs. S. E. G. McKee, honorary president Ontario W. C. T. U.

"We must stand united for clean, honest and good government. If the W. C. T. U. workers let the vote divide them they will destroy this well-established organization." — Mrs. Brown, Smith's Falls.

Scores of women from among the 400 delegates attending the 44th annual convention of the Provincial W. C. T. U., taking place in St. Andrew's Hall, took part at yesterday afternoon's session in a discussion on citizenship and the franchise, resultant upon the presentation of a report on this department from Mrs. Helen Detlor, of North Bay, and pithy comments like the above were warmly applauded. The consensus of opinion was in favor of supporting an increased membership of women upon Ontario boards of education, Mrs. Detlor reporting only 22 at the present time, with five councilors, one alderwoman and two female police holding office through the efforts of the committee.

The question of the union members taking part in the campaigns for the coming federal elections was introduced by Mrs. Campbell, of Ottawa, who asked if campaigning on the part of individual members would effect the union as a whole.

REMAIN NONPARTISAN.

Mrs. Ashcroft, of Howden Vale, was of the opinion that union members should remain strictly nonpartisan. "I was asked to attend a Liberal meeting at Tara this week," she said, "but I refused, because I thought it was an effort to make me ally myself with that cause."

Mrs. McKee: "Support the man who promises to support prohibition, irrespective of his party. They haven't any religion in the House of Commons, at least they don't advocate any particular religious project."

At this juncture the reading of a memorial from Smith's Falls was requested. "Our foremost aim," the memorial stated, "must be to use our vote to further the cause for which we have fought so long, and we must paint our political ideas to suit our candidate rather than painting over our candidate to suit our political ideas."

From the report of the corresponding secretary, Miss Maude McKee, the delegates learned that the union membership in the province is 1,148, in 227 unions; that the life members number 556 and that the total money handled was $44,390.23.

The treasurer's report, presented by Mrs. B. O. Britton, of Gananoque, gave total receipts at $3,836; total disbursements, $3,732.47.

MISSIONARY REPORT.

The report of the missionary board occupied considerable space, Mrs. H. E. Irwin, of Toronto, reporting as president and Mrs. Stalter, of Oshawa as missionary treasurer. Missionary treasury receipts for the year were $2,741.16, with a balance of $862.81. Mrs. S. R. McGill, of Glencairn, reported a total sum of $224.55 in the treasury of the missionary work department, augmented by many valuable bales. A letter from Mr. W. E. Winslow, W. C. T. U. missionary to the lumbermen, gave important data regarding the evangelization of this large portion of the Northern Canada population.

A report on moral education and mothers' meeting was brought in by Dr. Ellen Burt Sherratt, of Toronto

Conferences of the county presidents, scientific temperance superintendents and mothers' meeting superintendents concluded the afternoon session, over which Mrs. Hattie Stevens presided.

Trades Council Submits 11 Queries Along With Manifesto.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A manifesto from the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress of Canada is being issued to-day to all affiliated unions; also to all Trades councils and Federations of Labor throughout the Dominion, enclosing a questionnaire containing 11 questions to be asked of individual candidates for the federal elections and definite answers obtained as to the attitude of the candidates on various points of the labor program.

The manifesto states that in past years the Trades and Labor Congress has been hampered in its legislative activites by not knowing where many members of the House of Commons stood on questions of outstanding importance to the organized labor movement.

Your old methods of teeth cleaning

See what this new way does. Watch your teeth whiten — note how clean they feel. Millions have learned in this way how much film removal means. It is something that you should know.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. It clings to the teeth unless you combat it, gets between the teeth and stays.

It forms a dingy coat which dims the luster of the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the daily brushing, very few escape them. The old brushing methods do not effectively fight film.

New ways to combat it

Dental science has now found ways to combat film. The methods are embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent. It has proved so effective that leading dentists everywhere are now advising it. And millions of people have already adopted it.

Pepsodent, with every use, brings five desired effects. It attacks the film in two efficient ways. It keeps teeth highly polished. It stimulates the salivary flow—Nature's great tooth-protecting agent.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That to digest the starch deposits which cling to teeth and often form acid. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That to neutralize the acids which cause tooth decay.

Modern authorities regard these effects as essential aids to Nature, in view of the average diet. To bring those effects twice daily means such protection as you have not known before.

See and feel them

The results can be seen and felt. They are delightful, and this 10-day test will bring them 20 times.

Send the coupon for it. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects, and the book we send you will tell you what they mean.

Do this now in justice to yourself. Learn how much this new-day method means to you and yours.

COAL SHEDS AND BARN DESTROYED

Fire at Port Stanley To-Day Causes $5,000 Loss

PORT STANLEY, Oct. 19. — Fire, which broke out just at midnight last night, destroyed coal and wood, a large quantity of clover seed, a barn and coal sheds belonging to James A. Jones, U. F. O. agent here.

The fire was brought under control at 2.30 o'clock this morning. The loss will be $5,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire started in the woodpile.

Great credit is given Fire Chief Pollock for the manner in which he handled the situation. The flames were most difficult to combat, and it was only by unstinted efforts that surrounding buildings were saved from destruction.

The company some years ago used considerable gravel from adjoining town pits, and when a request was made this year for use of their pits in return, the gift followed.

ST. MARYS YOUNG FOLK HOLD SOCIAL EVENING

About 100 couples spent a very enjoyable evening on Tuesday night in the auditorium of St. Mary's Church. The event was arranged by the committee appointed by the church. Dancing was the feature for the young people, while eucher was indulged in by those older. Splendid music was supplied by the Imperial Orchestra, who were encored time after time by the appreciative audience. A light supper was served by the young women of the church.

These social evenings are to be held every other week, on Tuesday night, but if they continue to be as big a success as was the first, it is likely that they will be held much oftener.

IMMIGRATION IS HUGE PROBLEM

Canadianization of Foreigners Must Be Accomplished

DEVELOP THE DOMINION

Rev. F. B. Watters, Toronto, at W.C.T.U. Meeting

The tremendous problem arising in Canada by reason of the steadily increasing foreign population, and the need of the Canadianization of these foreign neighbors if Canada is to become a great, firmly-united nation, was the subject of a stirring appeal by Rev. F. B. Watters, of Toronto, at the public meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, held in Dundas Center Church last night.

As a missionary among the big foreign population in Toronto, Mr. Watters had a message of practical value to give to the well-attended meeting. The obligation of Canada to her foreign population, and how to meet these obligations was the phase of this gigantic problem, with which the speaker dealt expressly.

In his opening remarks Mr. Watters expressed the conviction that if Canada was to develop into a great nation it was absolutely essential that immigration should not be curtailed to the point which excluded all but English-speaking peoples. In support of this contention he pointed out that of the land available for cultivation in Canada only 3-20 was at present in use, and he declared that millions of people were necessary if Canada were to be developed as she should be.

TWO OBLIGATIONS.

There were two obligations, the speaker declared, the obligation of the foreigner to become Canadianized, and the obligation of the Canadian people to place Canadianization within the reach of these foreign-born people, and Canadians who loved their country must endeavor to meet the obligations to these people.

"We cannot escape the consequences if we allow this problem to drift," declared the speaker. "It must be faced and now is the time to face it. Prevention is better than cure, and prevention may be administered in these days while the problem, although a big one, is still young."

"We must not let a caste system grow up in this country," Mr. Watters continued, "we must not allow segregated groups to grow up and be at the mercy of unscrupulous politicians. How we handle this problem may spell the difference between the making and breaking of the nation. In dealing with this problem we can profit by the mistakes of the United States in her dealing with these non-English speaking people."

Mr. Watters dealt with the obligations of Canada to the foreign population under three heads. These three heads were education, socialization and Christianization, and the speaker pointed out that these overlapped to a marked extent.

EDUCATE IMMIGRANTS.

In the matter of education there must be adequate facilities provided for the education of the non-English speaking people in the sense of providing schools. There was too high a percentage of illiteracy in Canada. In this part of Canada the schools are doing a great work in meeting the problem of the education of these peoples. In Western Canada, however, the problem was a tremendous one and there was great difficulty in coping with the situation. There was lack of schools in many sections and in other parts English was but imperfectly taught, while in some schools English was not taught at all. The Canadian people in one section of the country could not afford to be indifferent to the need in another section.

The need of teachers to take up the work of education among these foreign populations should call young people who had entered or were thinking of entering the field of teaching. The speaker declared that many should take this missionary work for Canada as their life work. The obligation, moreover, did not rest with the education of the children, the aduts, too, should be taught the English language and Canadian citizenship.

While the speaker would have them all taught the English language he did not believe that they should be deprived of learning their mother tongue. They should, however, be required to know English as well.

ESSENTIAL TO UNITY.

"It is essential to national unity that all the people of Canada should be able to converse and carry on business in a common tongue," the speaker declared emphatically.

The second obligation, that of socialization, was another very important matter. The schools were perhaps the greatest socializing influence, the speaker admitted, but while this was the great melting pot there was also a need of social centers where these people could gather together.

"These people come to us with many noble qualities," Mr. Watters declared, "but they also come with many defects of such a nature that we do not want the impress of these defects left on our national life. The responsibility rests with us of presenting to these people the highest and loftiest ideals possible."

In order to help these people to become the best Canadian citizens they should be studied and understood, Rev. Watters stated. Service could not well be rendered to them unless something of their characteristics, national life and national history were known to the workers.

LIVE THE GOSPEL.

Touching on the Christianization side of the problem, Rev. Watters declared that it meant a great deal more than merely preaching the Gospel by word of mouth. The first responsibility was to live the Gospel of Jesus Christ before them. There would come the time when the religious message must be presented to them in word, and this was the most difficult part. This must be worked up to carefully and the opportunity would present itself.

Rev. John Garbutt, pastor of the church, conducted the devotional exercises and a fine musical program was provided.

GIFTS THAT LAST

HEWED TRUNK OUT OF LOG OF WOOD

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter).—An incident of considerable interest occurred at this morning's session of the Ontario-Quebec Baptists here, when Dr. Marshall, of Otawa, on behalf of the convention undertook to congratulate Dr. C. C. MacLaurin, now superintendent of missions in Alberta, on reaching his 50th milestone in the service of the Baptist church. Dr. Marshall recalled the fact that Dr. MacLaurin hewed the timber with which he constructed a trunk to carry his belongings to Woodstock College, from the forest in the Ottawa Valley near his old home just 50 years ago.

On reaching Woodstock he was accosted by a porter, who offered to carry his improvised trunk over the mile of space that intervened between the depot and the college. Not being oversupplied with funds he remarked: "I can't earn a quarter any easier than by hiking my own trunk across town, so I guess I'll go to it." With that he hoisted the trunk to his shoulder and was soon on his way.

Dr. MacLaurin, although well up in years, is still hale and hearty, and looks as though he might attend several more conventions.

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—(Special to The Free Press.)—John Duval Dodge, auto manufacturer, who was practically "cut off" from an inheritance in the will of his father, will soon come into the $1,600,000, which other heirs agreed to give him when he sought to contest the will.

Mrs. John F. Dodge to-day petitioned the circuit court to ratify the agreement and to provide guardians for the other children, Winifred Isabell, Frances, Matilda and Daniel, all minors, who inherit $1,000,000 each.

WIFE OF FARMER ALMOST STARVED

Mrs. Peterson Suffered Awful Pains After Every Meal—Is Now Well As Ever.

Declaring she was actually starving to keep from suffering awful misery, Mrs. Amy Peterson, wife of a prosperous farmer of Lakeville, Mass., gave out a remarkable statement, recently, in connection with her relief through the use of Tanlac.

"Sometimes I wonder how I lived through it all," she said. "I would have attacks of acute indigestion nearly every time I ate anything. Those terrible cramping pains and the distress from gas and bloating were almost unbearable and I just thought there was no hope for me.

"But now I'm eating anything and I feel as strong and well as I ever felt in my life. I've gained back all the weight I lost and six pounds besides and I know from my experience what Tanlac will do. It's the best medicine in the world."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by Liggett's Drug Stores and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

CANTEEN FUNDS TO GO TO DISABLED SOLDIERS

A. & N. V. Decided at Meeting Last Night on Means of Disposing of Money.

At a meeting of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, held last night, the disposal of canteen funds was discussed at some length, and a resolution was ultimately and unanimously passed that the funds be put in trust and expended in the assisting of ex-service men of the late war, when they became unable to work. The funds, it was pointed out, could be put to no better use and would help scores of men who are suffering from disabilities.

It was also decided that a copy of the resolution be forwarded to the Dominion executive and laid before the A. & N. V. Dominion convention. Copies will also be sent to sister organizations and to the official organ of the association.

The question of amalgamation was thoroughly discussed and it was resolved that the unit is strongly in favor of unity and that any movement in that direction will be indorsed by the association.

A resolution of sympathy was passed in the death of the late Lady Beck, and a letter of condolence will be forwarded to Sir Adam, expressing the deep regret of the association.

The following delegates were named to attend the Dominion convention: Major F. McL. Spry and Major T. J. Murphy.

ATTACH NO BLAME IN LUCE FATALITY

"That Albert Luce, 8 Orchard street, came to his death by an accident, with no blame attached to his employer," was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury at the police station last night.

Leonard Stilson, section foreman for territory east and west of Komoka, was summoned and gave evidence to show that the deceased had received word from him that No. 110, the train which caused his death, was due to pass eastwards over the westbound track, while the other track was in the course of repair.

Tourists and the Tariff

Canadian Motorist, in its September number, estimates that United States or former Canadian motorists left $57,168,200 in Canada during last year's touring season, and adds:

"The number of transient vistors in the border cities for short periods of a day or so, except in a few cases, is not available, but the amount of money left in a year on the northern side of the border by them must make a large addition to the above.

"With such a large premium in favor of the currency of the United States, expeditions for the more or less avowed purpose of shopping in Canadian metropolitan centers were natural results. Nothing will tend to redress the unfavorable balance of trade, and remove the discount evil, as far as Canadians are concerned, more effectively than by offering every inducement to the nine million odd owners of cars in the United States to cross the border. The value of the motor tourist to the country is incalculable."

Canadian Motorist's argument is for good highways, but the facts constitute also an excellent argument for the maintenance of a moderate tariff. Hon. F. C. Biggs, at Arthur, defending the expenditure involved in his highways policy, referred to the $57,000,000 spent by foreign tourists in this country last year, with its resultant enlargement of the home market for farmers. Quite so, but much of this advantage to the Canadian producer will be lost if, through abolition of the duties on all foodstuffs, which is a plank in the tariff policy of the Agrarians, or abolition of the duties on "the principal foodstuffs," as called for by the King Liberals, the supply of foodstuffs which tourists must purchase in this country are allowed to come in from the United States for them.

Only this week The Farmers' Sun notes with some irritation, in its market news, that American eggs are entering the Ontario market. Eggs have been quoted at Chicago at 36 cents, for firsts, this month. At present they are 40 to 43 cents, with storage grades much less. Country shippers in Ontario, according to current market reports, are asking 50 cents for candled fresh eggs, in Montreal they are quoted at 47 to 60 cents. Even in London, with its large public market, eggs retail at 50 cents. The duty, three cents a dozen, limits importations at present. Its abolition would destroy an important source of revenue enjoyed by poultrymen and farmers' wives in this province, just as absence of protection against Chinese eggs has dealt a severe blow to the poultry industry in California.

The tariff policy of the Meighen Government is designed to protect the farmer, as well as other classes.

The Western University By-Law.

The Victoria Hospital authorities are to be commended for their public spirit in deciding not to press a vote from the London electors for $300,000 for a new nurses' home. The backers of the proposed new Springbank dam are also wise in withdrawing this project. This will mean that the ratepayers of the city will vote at the municipal elections on only one money by-law, namely, $250,000 for the erection of new buildings for Western University.

With the electors in their present mood as regards civic expenditures, if all these by-laws had been submitted, they would have been defeated without discrimination. With but the one vote, that on Western University, and with a united public opinion behind it, there should be no doubt of the result.

It is inconceivable that the people of London would defeat the university by-law. Western is peculiarly a London institution. The university has had a long, hard struggle for existence. Only the loyalty and the generosity of the people of London have kept it alive. After almost unsurmountable difficulties it has secured provincial recognition and is now on the threshold of taking its place as one of the leading universities of Canada. What this means to London and Western Ontario cannot be reckoned in dollars and cents. It has a matter-of-fact, material value, but its usefulness to the community, apart from the monetary standpoint, is inestimable.

The province is committed to a grant of $800,000; Middlesex County stands ready to give $100,000, but these amounts are dependent on a vote from the City of London. If the by-law were defeated it would mean all this amount would be lost, the development of higher education in London and Western Ontario woud be set back incalculably and all the self-sacrificing work of years for the university would be lost.

Grass in the Streets

Grass in the streets of a populous city means that the fields of the country round about are sown with salt—or that they might as well be, since they can find no market for their produce.

Brantford, with an urban population of close to 33,000 and a rural and interurban population of 1,000,000 within a radius of 70 miles, is the eighth city in the value of its manufactured products among the cities of Canada, and the fourth city exporting manufactured goods.

Of its population (33,000), 8,288 persons are employed in its 181 manufactories. The annual wages of these amount to $8,222,396. Moreover, Brantford draws to its industries from other parts raw materials at a cost of $19,168,364, which means wages and profits to a further host of Canadian laborers and workmen. Again, Brantford distributes products to the value of $35,033,226, that, too, spells wages. Finally, if 80 per cent. of all the farm products of Canada are sold in the home market, Brantford represents to the rich area by which it is surrounded an important, a very important, unite of that 80 per cent. consumption. A city with over eight million dollars in wages alone to spend on its living is worth considerable to the farmers and the market gardeners within a reachable distance.

Mr. W. F. Cockshutt, the unanimous choice of the National Liberal-Conservatives of the City of Brantford, as once more their standard-bearer in the coming federal election, speaks well for the protective policy of Canada. He has reason. For 40 years that policy has synchronized to a nicety with the development and the prosperity of Canada. It has synchronized with the prosperity and the development of Brantford and of the district by which Brantford is surrounded.

Mr. Cockshutt knows what free trade would mean to Brantford. From his nomination speech we draw the expression: "Grass would grow in the streets." At a moment when the Fordney Bill has conspired to shut $2,000,000,000 of Canadian farm products out of the United States markets, he knows also what free trade would do to the farmers who now supply the Brantford market. Mr. Cockshutt stands firmly behind Mr. Meighen and his Government on the tariff, and Mr. Meighen's voice is no weak voice in proclaiming Protection. Those who follow him know whither they are going.

Sir Robert, Canada's Representative.

Sir Robert Borden is to represent Canada at the disarmament conference at Washington. This news will be received with general satisfaction throughout Canada. The disarmament conference is largely due to the action taken by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen at the Imperial Conference in opposing a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance. Out of his opposition and his insistence upon no treaty which did not receive the approval of the United States arose the present conference. Canada is vitally interested in the Pacific problem and in disarmament. Canadian sentiment, irrespective of party, is overwhelmingly in favor of a reduction in armaments to the minimum. After the part Canada played in the Great War it would have been an anomaly not to have a representative, with delegates present from China, Siam and all the minor nations.

As Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen is naturally unable to attend, the logical representative of Canada is Sir Robert Borden, the Dominion's prime minister throughout the war, the representative of Canada at the Peace Conference. He is a recognized authority on international and constitutional law, and a man who thoroughly understands the sentiment of his country. Sir Robert will represent Canada with dignity and with authority. He is likely to play as important a role at Washington as at Paris, when he was recognized as one of the ablest delegates. Canada is honored by having chosen as its representative such a great statesman as Sir Robert Borden.

Fine Arts Exhibition in Paris In 1923.

No other department of social activity suffered more heavily during the war than that we call the "fine arts," and no professions were called upon to make greater material sacrifices than the sculptors, painters, architects and those devoted to kindred arts.

It must, then, be a cause of rejoicing to many that there are indications that conditions for those engaged in pursuit of the fine arts are to be rewarded, like "those who stand and wait," by an exhibition in Paris in 1923 for the Fine Arts.

The minister of public instruction, Leon Berard, recently announced that a national exhibition would be held in the year mentioned, at which the works of French artists in all branches will be exhibited.

This announcement has more than a surface significance. It means other things than an exhibition of the work of French artists since 1914. It means that France, that Europe, is steadily returning to things looked upon as the normal in pre-war days. It is an announcement that should be looked upon as "glad tidings."

NOTE AND COMMENT

The man who orders a sober suit will, of course, eliminate the hip pocket.

If an alien is one who owes allegiance to a foreign government, where does the alienist come in?

The russet dress of London's trees is "a thing of beauty," indeed!

There is one form of "kicking" in high favor just now—kicking the football.

It may be paradoxical, but it's true that "moonshine" is claiming more attention just now than the glorious sunshine!

A printer's juggling with frolicsome type resulted in the following slogan for home-brewers: "Jug not that ye be not jugged."

The boy going home from school eating a juicy apple is another reminder that the season of "mellow fruitfulness" is here.

Now that Thanksgiving comes on apace the turkey is frightened at the sound of his own voice. It is a portentious note: Gobble! gobble! gobble!

A bright lad in school when asked "what is a pedometer?" sidestepped by saying, "a little machine to measure feet."

This is one of the seasons of the year when those inclined to poetize should be given a rhyming dictionary to see what rhymes with fall and leaves and trees and—and——!

The London Council's approval of a by-law to issue debentures for the Western University is another proof of the good-will of the city fathers toward our institute of higher education. The citizens as a whole are sure to vote in favor of the measure at the coming municipal elections, in view of the fact that all democratic people believe in letting "knowledge grow from more to more."

The Third Column

A WATCH.

Oh, whether the watch be a costly thing
Or one of the dollar kind,
It matters not if its clicking spring
Is one that a child may wind.
There are just two tasks for a watch to do:
Keep time through the busy year
And then when the work of the day is through
To tick at a youngster's ear.

Some crave the watch with the costly case
And some with a rare design
But give me the watch I may freely place
In tinier hands than mine.
Yes, give me the watch that a little boy
May climb on my knee to see,
And claim from its ticking the thrill of joy
I knew at my father's knee.

Thick and heavy the silver case
Which closed with a hearty snap,
But never a watch could take its place
As I clambered to his lap,
And never a watch shall mean so much,
Though it be of the costliest kind,
As that which my father let me touch
And taught me how to wind.

So I hold that a watch has a two-fold plan
And a double task to do;
It must mark the minutes which pass for man
And then when the day is through
It must swing on its chain for the girl or boy
Who chooses to climb his knee,
And give to the youngster the golden joy
Of its glorious mystery.

—Edgar A. Guest.

GROWTH.

There is no more inspiring sight than to witness growth—or to be brought face to face with it unexpectedly.

To plant a tree and go back after years to see it towering as a thing of strength and beauty; to see a grown boy or girl whom we have not seen since babyhood; to come in contact with some mature mind, finely and nobly developed—does anything stir one more?

I like to see vacant lots give way to great buildings filled with people carrying on useful enterprises.

But to look upon the work of a great brain is the finest example of growth to be found.

And it was this kind of a picture that I looked upon when, of an evening recently, I ran through some of the writings of Goethe. So splendid were some of the sentences that I give them to you here:

"The mind endowed with active powers, and keeping with a practical object to the task that lies nearest, is the worthiest there is on earth."

"Character consists in a man steadily pursuing the things of which he feels himself capable."

"Try to do your duty and you will know what you are worth."

"Piety is not an end but a means; a means of attaining the highest culture by the purest tranquility of soul."

"We are not born to solve the problems of the world, but to find out where the problem begins and then to keep within the limits of what we can grasp."

"The truest liberality is appreciation."

"Love of truth shows itself in this, that a man knows how to find and value the good in everything."

These are positive views of conduct that mark out growth for the one who will take them to himself. That which makes a man in his personal experience better and more rounded, touches and enlarges the entire world of men and women.

If you can feel yourself growing from day to day, you may rest assured that success and happiness will deal kindly and well with you!

—George Matthew Adams.

ERA OF BLOODSHED.

Still bloodshed is the modern fad, my protests don't avail; in almost every little grad some slayers are in jail. All kinds of folks behind the bars are locked, for gory deeds; famed clergymen and movie stars, and dames in widow's weeds. The furies, free and running loose, urge crime with every breath, and any frivolous excuse will do for sudden death. When all the nations were at strife, and gents slew scores of gents, men learned to think that human life is not worth fifteen cents. They carried back this grim belief from scenes of death and gore; and this delusion, fraught with grief, has spread from shore to shore. And so we hear the crack of guns throughout this country wide, and every day we're planting tons of delegates who died. The husband shoots his loving wife because she wears punk lids, and grandma takes the butcher knife when she'd corrects the kids. The wires are burdened with the news of murders and of brawls, not in the alleys and the mews, but in the stately halls. And men of standing go to jail and queenly dames are there; and all my protests don't avail—explaining my despair. We're wasting force on little things, denouncing minor flaws, while yet the armed assassin springs and laughs to scorn our laws.

—Walt Mason.

WOMAN'S POLITICAL LEAGUE.

CALGARY, Oct. 18.—A Woman's Political League, under the leadership of Alderman (Mrs.) Annie Gale, has been formed here. It purposes to study the political issues of the day, not only at election times, but the year through.

The Political Arena

Hon. Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, will accompany Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in his tour of Western Ontario. Mr. Robertson is the first labor representative to become minister of labor and the only genuine labor man who has occupied a seat in the Cabinet of Canada. Long before the vanguard of the Labor party had entered the political arena, the Borden Government, marching well abreast of the times and conscious of the great part which Labor was destined to play in the events of the future, broke a Confederation-old tradition by taking Mr. Robertson, an active workers' leader, into the ministry.

It was an innovation which has never caused regret. For while regarded at first with suspicion and hostility by those who could not conceive the necessity of a Labor leader in the Government of the country, Mr. Robertson's broad-mindedness, his moderation and his severe integrity have overcome all antagonisms, until to-day no man in Canadian public life stands higher in the esteem and confidence of all classes.

Although a real worker, one who sprang from the toiling masses, one who has fulfilled the command given in the Garden of Eden many thousands of years ago, Mr. Robertson is not class conscious, nor does he in the execution of his duties regard himself as the representative of a class. It was said of Keir Hardie that he "hated the palace because he remembered the pit." Because he remembered the struggles of his boyhood days, Mr. Robertson has a depth of sympathy with the aspirations of the workers, but, unlike Keir Hardie, he bears no animosity against the well-to-do classes. He is not a Labor leader of the Robert Smillie-Ramsay Macdonald school; he is not a Socialist nor a Red. He is simply a disciple of the Gompers school, a constitutional trades unionist who prefers evolution to revolution, holding that more of progress can be achieved by temperate discussion than by violence, and branding the ultra-radical and the ultra-conservative as equally a menace to the state.

The Calgary Albertan, the leading Liberal paper in Alberta, is protesting against the methods of the Liberals in that province. The Albertan says:

"At the Red Deer Liberal convention on Friday, Duncan Marshall, former minister of agriculture, was placed in nomination by one of the delegates.

"John R. Boyle, former attorney-general, declined on behalf of Mr. Marshall and explained that he was to run in East Calgary.

"The Liberal convention in East Calgary has not been held and will not be held until next Friday.

"But, according to Mr. Boyle, it has been arranged by some person or organization with authority that Mr. Marshall is to run in that riding.

"This is another evidence of the boss rule which is threatening the very existence of the old Liberal party.

"Mr. Boyle and Mr. Marshall are in opposition to-day and the Liberal party out of power in Alberta largely because they saw to it that Mr. Marshall was to run here and Mr. Boyle to run there, long before the conventions were called and regardless of the wishes of the electors.

"But their methods are out of date. They are of the past ages. They will received their reward.

The Agrarians are unable to secure many candidates in British Columbia, as in that province most of the farmers are fruit growers and the policy of Mr. Crerar calls for free fruit. The British Columbian, printed in New Westminster, on this situation writes:

"Tariff protection has kept out American fruit and given the advantage of selling at home, without which there would have been no fruit industry in this province, and national sentiment had aided in educating the public to buying home-grown apples, and these Okanagan growers are to-day reaping the advantage from a moderate protective tariff. . . .

"But Mr. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Agrarian party in the West, declares that the home market theory is exploded. There is only one way to build up Canada, he argues, and that is to open the doors and trade with the United States. He has little belief in the possibilities of building up this great Dominion, when he argues that Canada must throw overboard her protectionist policy, and that it is useless to build up her industries by customs and protection. The evidence of the past 40 years disposes of this Crerar theory."

In a further editorial the same paper says:

"British Columbia farmers engaged in dairying are firmly opposed to any reduction in the present tariff. . . .

"The tariff equalizes conditions and also prevents the flooding of the home market with surplus products at lower prices to clear out balance of stocks. The people of the Fraser valley know this, and they know that business considerations enjoin upon them to cast their vote for and lend their influence in electing the supporters of the Meighen Government in this election."

The Victoria Colonist, dealing with the attacks upon the Government for the national debt and the huge expenditure, writes:

"The criticism advanced by opponents of the Government in reference to Canada's financial affairs tends to show that they have forgotten there was such an event in history as the Great War. The increase in the national debt due to the notable war efforts of this Dominion can be met in just two ways, by taxation and by borrowing, and the latter inevitably leads to increased taxation. The Liberals or the Farmers, if they were in power, would have to face the incubus of the national debt, would have to find the money to pay the interest thereon and would have to meet the deficits due to national ownership of of the railways in just the same way. If they reduced tariffs they would have to make good the deficit in the revenue in some other way, and, under either Liberal or Farmer regime, there would not be one dollar of taxation remitted to the people as a whole, for Canada cannot emulate the example of Soviet Russia and repudiate national obligations. . . .

"In a sentence the reason why the annual federal expenditure is so heavy is due to two things—the war and national ownership of railways. The expenditure in connection with the former is a solemn debt which must be honored. The expenditure in connection with the later is also an obligation which must be observed, and it is made all the heavier because of the effect on this country of world-wide economic conditions which grew out of the war.' '

As To Campaign Funds

Mr. Crerar keeps asking Mr. Meighen where he gets his campaign funds. The answer is simple: Mr. Meighen gets his campaign funds where Mr. Crerar gets his—from the people who approve his policies. The only difference is this: that Mr. Meighen's contributions are not given on behalf of a single class; the donors do not insist, as do many of Mr. Crerar's contributors, that if the prime minister fails to carry out their whims he will become liable to recall.

A lot of nonsense is being talked about campaign funds. We are told that the railways put up enormous amounts for "both the old parties," that the politicians are consequently not free, that Big Business, not the Government that happens to be in office, runs the country. What utter rot! If the railways control the parties, how does it come that in 1917 Sir Robert Borden took over the Canadian Northern in the teeth of railway opposition? Everybody knows that the C. P. R. was opposed to such a step and fought it tooth and nail. Why, seeing that, according to some of our young political moralists, the railways control parties—why didn't the C. P. R. stay Sir Robert's hand? And what about the Grand Trunk? The C. P. R. didn't want the Grand Trunk taken over. Montreal finance and Grand Trunk influence didn't want it taken over. Why did their views not prevail?

Then, as to Big Business. If Big Business controls the Government, how is it that it permits the Government to make it pay the most of the taxes? Why did it stand for the business profits tax—the most severe of its kind to be found? Why does it permit Canadian income taxes to be the highest—on large incomes—in the world? Why the corporation tax?

Isn't it about time the country "got on" to some of the half-baked young theorists—"the alert Progressives"—by asking itself a few plain questions and dealing with facts?

ARTHUR NEIL SUCCEEDS GEDDES.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—No politicla significance is attached to Sir Eric Geddes' resignation of the ministry of transport. This step was arranged when Sir Eric undertook the chairmanship of the new Government economy committee two months ago. Meanwhile Arthur Neil, M. P., who has been Sir Eric Geddes' deputy, undertakes the supervision of the department.

Coveted!

COVETOUSNESS is far more than a simple desire for something we do not happen to possess. All too often it is an uncontrollable craving for something never rightfully to be ours, something wholly and properly the possession of another.

If the name and fame of RUBBERSET brushes, and such measure of success as may accrue to their originators, were not positively coveted by other brush makers there would be no imitations of the name, the process, or the general principles of square dealing which stand behind them.

But because RUBBERSETS are recognized as the world's standard quality article of their kind, and because less resourceful manufacturers find it easier to endeavor to share in their prestige rather than to originate more effective methods of manufacture for their own individual benefits, RUBBERSET brushes must ever be subjected to widespread imitation.

When you buy your next brush ask yourself this question: "Which will produce the brush I want, a manufacturing spirit based on imitation and covetousness, or the one spurred on by origination and quality perpetuation?"

Brushes bearing the trade name RUBBERSET, as shown herewith, will be your answer!

An interesting social event yesterday afternoon was the reception of one of London's brides, Mrs. George Ellis, formerly Miss Cecilia McTaggart, at her home on Peter street. Mrs. Ellis wore her wedding gown of brocaded crepe de chine with thread lace train, lined with shell pink, and a corsage of roses. Mrs. McTaggart, Mrs. Ellis' mother, who received with her daughter, wore a gown of silver gray crepe de chine and gray mohair hat with ostrich trimmings. The living-room, where Mrs. Ellis received, was decorated with yellow mums, and columbia roses, in a blue bowl on a cloth of Venetian lace, centered the dining-room table. Presiding at the table was Mrs. Clare Moore, in a black canton crepe heavily beaded and embroidered in white, and large black hat, who poured coffee, and Mrs. Fred Nivlett, of Hamilton, wearing black velvet and large black velvet hat, who poured tea. Assisting in the tearoom were Miss Ellis, wearing shell pink crepe de chine and georgette and black and pink hat; Mrs. Harold Leather, of Hamilton, wearing black georgette embroidered in blue, and black lace hat trimmed with blue flowers; Miss Jean Macfie, wearing her bridesmaid's dress of white crepe meteor with rainbow panier of tulle, and large mohair hat with ostrich trimming; Miss Ruth Robinson, in a jade blue canton crepe with deep fringe trimming, and black hat; Miss Louise Duffield, wearing brown canton crepe and brown picture hat, and Mrs. Laird Gordon, of Vancouver, wearing coral georgette crepe and black velvet hat.

Mrs. Gerald Pearson and Mrs. Gordon Ingram ushered the guests to the tearoom, the former wearing a blue canton crepe with trimmings of fringe, and black velvet hat, and the latter wearing navy blue canton crepe and black velvet hat.

SIX CANDIDATES NAMED FOR BD. OF EDUCATION

Citizenship Committee Hopes to Announce Indorsement of Nominees Shortly.

Six candidates for the vacancies which will occur on the Board of Education this year are to be indorsed by the citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women, according to the decision reached at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the board room of the local Y. W. C. A. Many names were submitted and after balloting the list was reduced to six. At present no names can be given, but after the nominees have been interviewed and have signified their willingness to have their names stand they will be made public. It is understood that the nominees represent both sexes equally.

MASS MEETINGS.

Mrs. Henderson was in the chair and arrangements were made for the mass meeting to be held in the Masonic Hall on Monday evening, October 24. Mrs. E. B. Smith will preside. The Liberal candidate, Mr. C. R. Somerville, will be one of the speakers of the evening. Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of Hamilton, recording secretary for the National Council of Women, will also speak. The women are hoping to have the hall filled to capacity on this occasion. A mass meeting for the Conservative candidate is being arranged for later, also a third mass meeting when the municipal candidates are to be asked to speak. The time and place for this latter gathering is to be arranged at a future date.

I. O. D. E. PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE LADY BECK

Silent Vote Expresses Loss Felt by London Women in the Death of a Beloved Leader.

Standing silently, with bowed heads, the members of the London Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., yesterday expressed their deepest sympathy with Sir Adam Beck and Miss Marion Beck in their great sorrow and the loss which the women of London and of the Dominion are personally experiencing in the death of an honored leader, the late Lady Lilian Beck.

Business of the Municipal Chapter at yesterday's meeting included the decision to join with the G. W. V. A. in a poppy day sale, both as a patriotic measure in commemoration of the Canadian fighting men and also as a benefit for the Memorial Children's Hospital, to which the G. W. V. A., through Lieut.-Col. Coles, has promised a generous donation. Volunteers for the sale of the little scarlet poppies, which on Armistice Day are to be worn as a symbol all over the empire, will be gladly welcomed by the conveners, Mrs. J. B. McKillop and Mrs. Allen McLean.

For the entertainment of His Hon. Lieut.-Col. Henry Cockshutt, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, who will come to London on November 4 to unveil the corner stone of the children's hospital, the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council have kindly offered their assistance, and Gen. H. A. Panet has promised to issue orders to the units and the N. C. O.'s to parade on that occasion. Col. Cockshutt will be the guest of the Men's Canadian Club at luncheon prior to the hospital ceremony at 3 o'clock, when the mayor, City Council and advisory committee of the children's hospital will be guests, while Mrs. Cockshutt, and, it is hoped, her daughter, will be the guests of the Municipal Chapter at luncheon at the Hunt Club.

The appointment of Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, Mrs. A. E. Miller, Mrs. T. C. Duncan and Mrs. Logan as representatives on the citizens' committee and the voting of $50 to the Navy League were items of business interest transacted.

Weddings

Elliott-Shetland.

The quiet wedding of Miss Mary Grey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grey Shetland, and Mr. Charlie Elliott, son of Mrs. T. J. Elliott, was solemnized at the rectory, Florence, by the Rev. Mr. Streeter.

Redmond-Moore.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. Father Egan, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Stratford, at 9 o'clock on Monday morning, when Miss Anna Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moore, Guelph street, was united in marriage to Mr. Francis Redmond, of Toronto. The bride wore a suit of navy tricotine, with hat to match, and a sable neckpiece, and wore a corsage of roses. The bride's sister, Miss Edna Moore, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a suit of navy tricotine, with hat to match, and Hudson seal throw. She wore a corsage of carnations. The groom was assisted by Mr. Lorne Kinberger, city. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Redmond left at 4.30 for Hamilton and Toronto, and on their return will reside on Guelph street.

Walton-Fitzsimmons.

A very pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzsimmons, 99 Elm street, when their daughter, Olive May, was united in marriage to Mr. Harvey Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walton, of Horton street. Rev. A. C. Bingham performed the ceremony in the dining-room, where the decorations were carried out in yellow, with 'mums and oak leaves. The bride wore her traveling suit of brown, beautifully embroidered, and small hat, with veil. Her corsage was of Ophelia roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Viola McComb, who wore black satin, black hat and corsage of Columbia roses. The best man was Mr. Angus Munroe. After receiving the good wishes of their friends the bridal party led the way to the dining-room, which was decorated with flowers and ferns, with a canopy over the table. Guests numbering about 45 sat down to the luncheon. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Walton left for Toronto ad North Bay, the bride carrying the gift of the groom, a large brown leather hand bag. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Walton will reside at 99 Elm street. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a vanity case, and to the best man gold cuff links. Mrs. Fitzsimmons, mother of the bride, wore blue satin, with embroidered crepe de chine overdress and corsage of Ophelia roses. Mrs. Walton, mother of the groom, wore black satin and crepe de chine, black hat and corsage of roses. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. F. McRae, of Windsor, the latter a sister of the bride; Mr. Jack Walton, of Battle Creek, Mich., brother of the groom; Mrs. J. Near, of St. Marys, and Mrs. Hunt, of Petrolea.

Wells-Ellah.

A charming October wedding took place at high noon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Catherine Ellah, Grey street, when her only daughter, Lillian Myrtle, became the bride of Victor Alex. Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Wells, of York street. Rev. G. T. Watts officiated and the bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Arthur Ellah. Very pretty was the bridal gown of shimmering white satin duchesse, embroidered in pearls, the bride wearing also a filmy veil and carrying a shower of sunset roses. The groom's gift, a brooch, set with pearls, was also worn. Mrs. Arthur Ellah, wearing a smart black lace gown, with panels of black satin and corsage of Russell roses, played the wedding march, with violin obligato by Mr. Bruce Wells, brother of the groom. During the signing of the register Mr. Arthur Ellah sang in splendid voice "O Promise Me." A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony, the table decorations carrying out a pretty color scheme of pink and white. Mrs. Ellah, who received with the bride and groom, wore a taupe satin gown, with corsage of Richmond roses, and Mrs. Wells, mother of the groom, wore a handsome black satin costume, with corsage of roses. In the early afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Wells left for Hamilton, Niagara Falls and Buffalo, the bride donning a navy velour suit and chic blue hat for traveling. The groom's gift to the pianist was flat silver and to the soloist and violinist tiepins, while the many handsome gifts received by the bride and groom included a substantial chcek from the bride's mother. Among the 20 guests was the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Birtch, of St. Marys, charming in her black satin gown, who received almost as many greetings as the bride herself.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

If you don't want to make one of these little parrots out of real peanut and crepe paper, you will find it a lot of fun to draw them. Starting with a peanut first, then the eye, then the tail and wings. If you like you can make the parrot a very fancy bird cage.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

He paced up and down the garden, his heart wrung with misery. He cursed George Laxton up hill and down dale. He firmly believed that what Mr. Ackroyd and everybody else had said about him was no more than the truth. It hurt him intolerably to think that Norah was being treated as doubtless dozens of other girls had been treated—just a conquest to boast of afterwards.

The hours seemed to crawl; a dozen times he went back to the house to make sure Norah had not returned; a dozen times he left the garden and walked up and down the road; but she did not come, and at last he went back to the house hopelessly.

Mr. Ackroyd met him in the hall.

"Where's Norah?"

Rodney answered evasively—

"She went out; I was going with her, but I had some letters to write.

"Where's she gone? I'll go and meet her; it's nearly tea time, and she's sure to be in for tea."

"She'll come back through the village, I expect."

Rodney knew it was most probable that she would come from exactly the opposite direction, but the last thing he wanted just then was for Mr. Ackroyd to see Norah with Laxton. He quite intended to have it out with her himself first; she would tell him honestly where she had been, he was sure; she had always told him everything; as children he and she had never had any secrets from one another, and Rodney was foolish enough to believe that it was still the same.

He waited till Mr. Ackroyd had gone off towards the village, then he went up to his room.

He wondered if he had allowed things to drift on for too long; if he should have spoken before now. He was a worthy soul, a man who would have made a woman's life a little heaven on earth if she had loved him; but women so seldom love worthy souls, and Norah had never loved Rodney save as a girl would love an elder brother.

Down in the hall Friday barked shrilly—a sharp, joyous bark that Rodney knew well enough could only mean one thing.

He tore open the door and went downstairs two at a time. He went out bareheaded into the sunshine, his plain face lit up with eagerness.

Friday was at the gate, clamoring excitedly, and Norah was there, too; Norah, walking somewhat slowly, as if she was very tired, and warding off the welcoming leaps the dog made at her every now and then.

When she saw Rodney a little, quick frown bent her brows.

"Did you think I was lost?" she asked.

She slipped her right hand through his arm, and Rodney's heart gave a thud of contentment. Everything was all right, he told himself in relief. It was impossible for him to know that the little movement had only been made in defense, to keep him from touching her other hand.

"You've been out such a long time," he said.

"Have I? It doesn't seem very long; but I've had an accident, Rodney. Look!"

She indicated the bandaged wrist.

"An accident! My dear child——"

"Oh, please don't fuss. It's nothing. But I've sprained my wrist a little, so I went to Dr. Bethune and he's bandaged it. I slipped down and fell on it." She told the lie badly, but Rodney was too concerned to be critical. He asked a thousand questions. He was anxious to try a dozen different remedies.

"A sprain is one of the most painful things you can have," he said. "You'll have to take great care of it."

Norah told him not to fuss so much, and then at sight of his hurt face she relented and assured him that he was a dear old thing, but that her arm didn't really hurt a bit.

"You look pale enough, anyway," he said bluntly.

He was silent for the rest of the way to the house.

Women of London Delighted

Response to Opening of Hudson's Fashion Shoppe Much Greater Than Expected.

MANAGEMENT EXPRESS GRATITUDE.

Something entirely new in greater value-giving in ladies' apparel was shown to the women of London on Saturday with the opening of HUDSON'S FASHION SHOPPE.

From the moment the doors were thrown open to the public until the closing hour Saturday a very large throng of buyers crowded the floor, and at times it was absolutely impossible to render satisfactory individual service. Again and again open admiration was expressed at the splendid styles in ladies' coats, suits and dresses, while the very reasonable prices asked for even the latest New York fashions left no doubt as to the popularity of HUDSON'S FASHION SHOPPE'S maker-to-wearer policy of selling.

Naturally, as the response to the opening announcement was so much greater than the most sanguine hopes of the proprietors, before night many assortments were completely sold out and disappointment was inevitable for shoppers who could not attend earlier in the day. The management wish to make a sincere apology for this unavoidable condition and will lose no time in obtaining fresh assortments direct from the factory to replace shortages. They also wish to express their very grateful appreciation of the patronage accorded HUDSON'S FASHION SHOPPE on the opening day and can confidently predict that this store, at 203 Dundas street, will soon become the rendezvous of the best dressed women in town. A maker-to-wearer policy of selling will always assure greater value for the money. Watch Friday's newspaper for the announcement of further specials for next Saturday's selling.—Advt.

Byrne-Breen.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Michael's Church on Monday morning, when Elizabeth Breen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Breen, and a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, was united in marriage to Jack Byrne, of Simcoe. The bride looked charming in a tailored suit of blue tricotine with opossum trimming, and hat to match. Miss Kathleen Byrne, niece of the groom, made a very attractive bridesmaid, and Mr. James McIntyre attended the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Byrne left on a trip to Eastern points and will reside in Simcoe.

PARIS, (By Mail).—Of all the lovely sights of Paris none is more enchanting than its children, as they romp about in the gardens of the Champs-Elysees, where they bowl their hoops and spin their Diabolo spools, and ride on the horses of tiny merry-go-rounds turned by hand. And their little frocks are miracles of chic. That is, what there is of them. They are so short that they end almost before they begin. But they make the kiddies adorable.

Many of the shops here show knit wool frocks, either in tiny chemise models or made with suspenders, like the design in the sketch, featured in white with gold, blue or scarlet border. The skirt simulates pleats. The older little girl's frock is of marine blue velveteen, with circular tiers, self-material buttons and cream batiste collar

SIDE TALKS

—BY—

RUTH CAMERON

What a discouraging thing it is to put your time and labor, or money which represents your time and labor, into getting a gift for a child, and then have to see that gift carelessly misused or broken in a week or two, or even a day or two (and sometimes in an hour or two) simply because the child's parents have never taught him to take care of anything!

I know a man who is clever with his jacknife and often makes toys for the neighbor's children. I heard his sister-in-law say once that she thought Jack had a grudge against his own nieces and nephews because he never did anything for them—apparently he would rather do things for any ragamuffin he met on the street than his own kin.

The reason, as I happen to know, is two-fold. Firstly, his own blood relations have so much that they don't need his toys as other children do. Secondly, they have been brought up to be utterly irresponsible in the matter of caring for their toys and appreciating what they mean in labor or self-denial to those who give, and naturally he does not take any joy in doing things for them.

"I made them a toy theater once," he said, "out of cardboard. I spent hours over it and a few days afterwards I saw it all ripped to pieces in the ash barrel. The one I made for the children next door they kept and played with for a year. Do you wonder I find more satisfaction doing things for them than for my own blood relations?"

Here is another little tale that came to me recently.

A woman who has very little spending money or time to spare had a niece who was going on a long railroad journey. Thinking that it would be a great joy to the niece and a great help to the mother if she supplied something for the youngster to play with on the trip, she got together, with the expenditure of more time and money than she could afford, a collection of small toys, games and paper dolls, packed them for the journey and took the package to her niece the day before.

It was labelled as a going-away present and she explained that fact to the mother, and yet in the presence of the mother and without any interference from her, the child insisted on opening the large package and then the smaller enclosed packages which had been labelled to be opened on successive days. In an hour or so she had cut up the paper dolls and generally ruined the gift for the purpose it was meant for. How any mother could have so little sympathetic imagination as to utterly ignore the thoughtfulness and painstaking of the giver and allow it to be repaid like that I cannot understand. The woman who made this gift did not complain but I think she had good reason to.

Of course I know that there is another side to this. There is another extreme as expressed by the person, most likely an unmarried or childless aunt, who brings the children some fragile toy and then makes disagreeable comments when she finds it broken weeks afterward. But I think she is far less common than the other extreme. Don't you?

In the Women's Clubs

WALKING CLUB.

The Waukeka Club held its annual hike on Saturday last going to Broughdale, via Sarnia road. This was followed by a theater party on Monday evening. The members were all present on both occasions and the club voted a great success.

CHURCH ANNIVERSARY.

Sunday and Monday were two red letter days in the history of St. George's Presbyterian Church, when it held its 28th anniversary. Wonderful services were held, both morning and evening, on Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Crawford, of Westminster, was the speaker. Special music had been prepared by the choir, which was much appreciated by all who were present. Not only was the attendance very large, but the results financially far exceeded the most sanguine hopes of the workers. Monday evening a concert was held, followed by a social time. The work of these London artists was much appreciated by those attending the concert. Those taking part were: Miss Helen Thompson and Miss Rheta Gee, soloists; Miss R. Tanner, reader; Miss Dorothy Cahill, violinist; Messrs. Watkins, who gave several duets, and Mr. Mackay, of New St. James, who gave the address of the evening. At the conclusion of the program a social time was spent and many flattering comments were heard concerning the splendid work of the Ladies' Aid of the church.

SERVICE FOR CHILDREN.

CAYUGA, Oct. 18.—The children's day services were held in St. John's Church on Sunday afternoon. The attendance was good and the collection generous.

A representative of the Dominion Alliance gave a stirring address in Knox Church on Sunday morning.

HENRIETTA'S FRIGHT.

When the old horse Ebenezer stood in his stall in the barn he was always glad to talk with anybody that came along.

Henrietta Hen sometimes strolled into the horse barn to see if she could find a little grain that had spilled on the floor. So it came about that she and Ebenezer had many a chat together. Henrietta had no great opinion of horses. She thought that they had altogether more than their share of grain. But she was willing to pass the time of day with Ebenezer, because he let her walk right into his stall and pick up tidbits that had dropped upon the floor beneath his manger.

It was on such an occasion on a summer's day that he said to her, with a sigh, "Haying's going to begin tomorrow."

Henrietta Hen remarked that she wasn't at all interested in the news. "And I don't see why you should sigh," she added. "Goodness knows you'll eat your share of the hay—and probably more—before the winter's over."

"It's the work that I'm thinking of," Ebenezer explained. "They'll hitch me to the hayrake and Johnnie Green will drive me all day long in the hot hay fields. I always hate to hear the clatter of the mowing machine," he groaned. "It means that the hayrake will come out of the shed next."

Henrietta Hen caught her breath.

"The mowing machine!" she gasped. "Is Farmer Green going to use the mowing machine now?"

"Certainly!" said Ebenezer. "I hear he's going to harness the bays to it to-morrow morning."

"My! My!" Henrietta wailed. "Isn't there any way I can stop him from doing that?"

"I don't know of any," Ebenezer told her. "I've often felt just as you do about it. There's nobody that dreads hearing the mowing machine more than I do."

"You can't feel the way I do," Henrietta declared.

"On the contrary," the old horse insisted, "I don't see how it can matter to you in the least. You don't have to pull the mowing machine nor the hayrake. Besides, didn't you just tell me that my news about haying didn't interest you?"

"But it does!" Henrietta cried. "I was mistaken. It means everything to me. It's the worst news I ever heard in all my life."

Old Ebenezer looked down at her with mild astonishment on his long, honest face.

"Why is it bad news?" he inquired. "If you'll tell me perhaps I can help you."

So Henrietta Hen explained her difficulty. Whatever it was, it amazed

15

"The mowing machine!" she gasped.

Ebenezer. And he had to admit that he could think of no way out of the trouble.

"It was very, very careless of you," he told Henrietta. Then suddenly he had a happy thought. "Cheer up!" he cried. "If Farmer Green sits on them maybe they'll hatch."

"Hatch!" she groaned. "They'll break!" And she ran out of the stall and hurried into the yard.

She was just in time to hear Farmer Green calling to his son Johnnie.

"Look here!" said he. "I started to oil the mowing machine so I could use it to-morrow, and just see what I found in the seat!"

Johnnie Green came a-running. And there, in the seat of the mowing machine, nestling in the hay which had been put there for a cushion the summer before, three eggs greeted Johnnie's eyes.

"They must belong to the speckled hen," Johnnie decided. "I know she'd stolen her nest again. I couldn't find it anywhere."

He picked up the eggs and put them in his hat. "She's a sly one," he said.

That remark made Henrietta Hen somewhat angry. At the same time she was glad that Farmer Green had discovered the eggs before it was too late. She wouldn't have liked him to sit on them.

It always upset her to see her eggs broken.

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared.

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare and really there is nothing better for coughs.

Into a 16-oz. bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make 16 ounces. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, this mixture saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out, and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

(Toilet Tips)

A safe, certain method for ridding the skin of ugly, hairy growths is as follows: Mix a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface about 2 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. This is entirely harmless and seldom requires repeating, but to avoid disappointment it is advisable to see that you get genuine delatone. Mix fresh as wanted.—Advt.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. Cannon, 62 East street, on Thursday last, when relatives and friends gathered to congratulate the host and hostess on the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. Mr. and Mrs. Cannon were married in 1871, in the Township of Wanwanash, by the late Rev. Thomas Jackson, and came at once to this city, where they have since resided. They have four daughters, having lost one when an infant, also their only son three years ago. Many beautiful gifts were received, as well as letters and telegrams of congratulation and good wishes from those who could not be present. The table from which the buffet luncheon was served was covered with a beautiful damask cloth, which formerly belonged to the hostess' grandmother and is now 125 years old. Marigolds and maize ribbons were used as table decorations, with long streamers from the bride and groom's cake. During the evening Mac's orchestra provided the music, assisted by M. R. Olson with his whistle. The guests left, expressing the hope of attending the diamond wedding of their host and hostess.

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

Curlers Hope To Make Up For Lost Time Last Season At A. C. A. Annual Groups Arranged and Umpires Are Named for Ontario Tankard Primaries.

The holding of the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association yesterday at Toronto brings to mind the fact that Old King Winter is hiding in the offing and it no doubt freshens the memory of the followers "we besom and stane" that the past season was about the poorest for curling ever experienced in Canada.

Bonspiels and annual curling competitions throughout the province suffered many postponements and when the staging of a 'spiel was attempted it usually wound up by finding the curlers wallowing in heavy ice and more often used their brooms for sweeping water off the ice than to prolong the life of a dying stane.

The Ontario tankard finals, held in Toronto, were postponed a number of times before it was finally decided to play off no matter what the weather conditions were, though there is a rule in effect that no tankard games can be staged unless a certain degree of frost prevails in the building.

The hopes of the curlers run high for a little steady frost this coming winter and if given a continuous cold winter will guarantee that they will make up for lost time in 1921.

MOONEY GIBSON, UMPIRE.

The London Thistles and London Curling Club will have to play their primary games in the Ontario Tankard at the Granite Club rink in St. Thomas, the first week in February, with George "Mooney" Gibson, of the London Thistles, as umpire.

Mooney Gibson, the manager of the Pittsburg National League club, will be right at home giving decisions to umpire Bob Emslie, who is usually selected as one of the tankard skips by the St. Thomas Granites. Bob does the calling in the summer time, but Mooney gets his opportunity this winter to tell the dean of baseball umpires "what's what" on the ice.

The district cup primary will as usual be staged in London, and Mooney Gibson will be the umpire again.

GROUPS STILL UNCHANGED.

After a great deal of discussion at the Ontario Curling Association meeting, held at the Granite Club, Toronto, yesterday, the rule regarding curlers playing in the district cup competition was amended so that all association clubs entered in the tankard competition may be able to enter two rinks in the district cup competition, but that the players in the district cup competition must never have taken part in any final tankard competition or taken part as skip or vice-skip in any primary tankard competition, and no member shall be allowed to play in both competitions in one season.

In past years a player in any tankard competition has been debarred from playing in any district cup competition.

The proposal to reduce the groups in the tankard competition from 16 to 4 groups brought out a very spirited discussion, and, finally, the old system of 16 groups was adopted. The 16 winning clubs are to be brought together and the final to be played in Toronto.

WESTERN ONTARIO.

The groupings for the tankard were passed as follows:

Tankard Grouping.

Group No. 9—Ayr Union, Galt, Galt Granites, Paris, Preston, Waterloo, play at Galt. Umpire, T. E. McLellan.

Group No. 10 — Brampton, Fergus, Guelph Royal City, Guelph Union, play at Guelph. Umpire, W. F. Stanage.

Group No. 11 — Chatsworth, Owen Sound, Shelburne, play at Owen Sound. Umpire, Thos. Johnston.

Group No. 12—Harriston, Mount Forest, Palmerston, play at Harriston. Umpire, Thos. Johnston.

Group No. 14—Bright, Forest, Mitchell, Plattsville, Seaforth, St. Marys', Stratford, Thedford, play at Stratford. Umpire, D. M. Ferguson.

Group No. 15—Embro, Ingersoll, London, London Thistle, St. Thomas, Woodstock, play at St. Thomas. Umpire, George Gibson.

Group No. 16—Chatham, Detroit, Petrolea, Sarnia, Thamesville, Forest, play at Petrolea. Umpire, D. B. Duffield.

District Cup Groups.

The district cup groupings were confirmed as follows:

District No. 5—Chatsworth, Harriston, Mount Forest, Owen Sound, Palmerston, play at Harriston. Umpire, Mr. John Meicklejohn.

District No. 6—Ayr Union, Drumbo, Fergus, Galt, Galt Granite, Guelph Royal City, Guelph Union, Milton, Preston, Seaforth, Waterloo, Elora, play at Galt. Umpire, Mr. C. E. A. Dowler.

District No. 7 — Dundas, Glanford, Grimsby, Hamilton Thistle, Hamilton Victoria, Paris, The Ontario Hospital, Hamilton, play at Hamilton. Umpire, Mr. G. F. James.

District No. 8—Chatham, Ingersoll, London, London Thistle, The Ontario Hospital, London, Petrolea, Sarnia, Thetford, play at London. Umpire, Mr. Geo. Gibson.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES.

The next order was the presentation of prizes, and Mr. J. D. Flavelle, of Lindsay, presented the tankard banner to the Granite Club. This is the twelfth tankard banner that the Granite Club has won. Mr. Tom Rennie received the trophy for the Granites.

Mr. A. M. Asselstine presented the prizes for the governor-general's competition to Owen Sound.

J. J. A. Weir, of Kitchener, presented the points medal to J. E. Fitzgerald, of Peterboro.

Brig.-General Robt. Rennie presented the past-president's gold medal to the retiring president, Mr. A. M. Asselstine.

Ruth Is Not Worrying Now

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Babe Ruth played first base and had two doubles in six trips to the plate in a game with an aggregation of semi-pro players here this afternoon. Bob Mitchell pitched and Piercy played center field for Ruth's team, which won the game by a score of 14 to 10. The star slugger reiterated his position in regard to the rule prohibiting world's series contestants from participating in post-season games.

"I don't care if my case comes up to-morrow," he told sport writers. "I am not worrying."

Collegiate Twelve Ready for To-Day's Football Game

Woodstock Collegiate London's Opponent at 4 o'Clock at Tecumseh Park

It is fully expected that the London Collegiate football team, which faces the Woodstock Collegiate here this afternoon in an Oxford-Middlesex interscholastic rugby fixture will put up a vastly different article of autumn pastiming than the one turned in against the fast St. Thomas Collegiate on the occasion of their 1921 debut in the Railroad City.

That Woodstock got the surprise of their young lives was evidenced by the outcome of their game with the same St. Thomas aggregation last Saturday. They fared no better than the local students did, and with both teams having undergone a thorough brushing up since then, should provide some interesting football this afternoon.

Coach Albert Taylor revamped his aggregation yesterday, and will throw a better team in against the visitors this afternoon at 4. The London line-up will be:

Flying wing—Hunter.
Right half—Capt. Sessions.
Center half—Crittle.
Left half—Ardiel.
Quarter—Wilson.
Center—Johnson.
Right middle—McCausland.
Right inside—Murphy.
Right outside—Daly.
Substitutes—Rourke, Wilkinson, Hill and Lawrence.
Referee—William Mace, of Western.

REID, MAN FOR JOB.

Western University's football squad were out as usual at Tecumseh Park last evening, and though Lieut.-Col. G. Eric Reid had returned from the McGill centennary at Montreal yesterday, he did not take a hand in the reorganization of the football squad for Western "U."

It is a big job, but "Buster," as he is known, can put the required punch into the Purple and White.

Miss A. McKenzie And J. B. Ferguson Double Champions

Somerville Cups and Western Ontario Tennis Tourney Title Go to London Pair

Miss Agnes McKenzie and J. B. Ferguson won the Somerville cups, emblematic of the mixed doubles championship of the Western Ontario tennis tournament, when they won a hard three-set match from Miss Alice McFarlane and Douglas Walker yesterday afternoon.

This concludes all the tennis events with the exception of the ladies' singles, which it is noped may be staged this afternoon.

Miss McCausland and Willian defaulted to Miss McFarlane and Walker in the semi-final and the latter pair then lost to the champions by 8-6, 2-6 and 6-3.

J. G. Boucher refereed the games, which were played in anything but comfortable weather conditions, the last game being played in rain.

JUVENILE O.A.B.A. TEAM AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, Oct. 18. — At an enthusiastic meeting in the Y. M. C. A., arrangements were made to enter a juvenile team in the O. A. B. A. Wally Edwards was chosen as the coach of the team, with Harry Fennell as captain. Howard Ellis was elected secretary-treasurer and George Leonard advertising agent. The material looked good to make up a fine aggregation. The first workout will be held in the Y. M. C. A. this Wednesday; all those under 18 years of age are eligible for the team.

ELSIE OFF TO HALIFAX

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 18. — The Elsie, champion of the fishing vessels of Massachusetts Bay and defender of the International trophy won at Halifax by the Esperanto last fall, to-day is on her way to Halifax. With Marty Welch, who won the cup as skipper of the Esperanto at the helm of the Elsie to defend it, Gloucester men cheered schooner and skipper yesterday as they beat into a stiff easterly wind and heavy mist. It was expected it would take 48 or 50 hours to reach Halifax, where the first of the races is to be sailed on Saturday.

Printers Open Tenpin League This Afternoon

Typographical Union President to Formally Declare Season Open for Bowling.

A. H. Wheatley, president of the London Typographical Union, will officiate at the opening of the Printers' Bowling League at the National Bowling Alleys this afternoon, when the Picas and the Breviers clash in the first game.

This is the first time local Typos have had a league in London and, from the enthusiasm shown, it should be a huge success.

Following is the schedule of the first series:

October 19—Picas vs. Breviers.

PHILLIES DRAFT SNOVER

PITTSFIELD, Mass., Oct. 18. — Col. Snover, a left-handed pitcher for the Pittsfield Eastern League champions, has been drafted by the Philadelphia Nationals, it was learned to-day. Snover, who was the pitching ace of the team this year, was sent here by the Giants in 1920.

COLUMBIA, O., Oct. 18. — Strangler Lewis, former heavyweight wrestling champion, won over George Kotsonaros, Columbus, in a wrestling match here last night. Lewis threw Kotsonaros in one hour and 39 minutes, using a head lock.

MAY BUILD RIVAL BASEBALL LEAGUE WITH PLAYERS IN SYMPATHY WITH BABE RUTH

By G. H. MAINES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—That Judge Landis will penalize Babe Ruth for his action in taking part in exhibition games is regarded as a certainty among baseball men. There is a rule in organized baseball which forbids world's series players taking part in contests after the series is over. It is well known that Judge Landis gave Ruth every opportunity to meet him and personally talk this matter over.

The baseball commissioner went so far as to talk to Ruth personally over the telephone, suggesting that he make his own appointment at a time convenient to him, but Ruth declined.

Baseball men, with whom I have talked, and baseball writers like Damon Runyon, Sam Crane, Fred Lieb, Walter St. Denis, Sid Mercer, Hughey Fullerton and others take the position that Ruth is making a grievous mistake to refuse to abide by any decision made by the high commissioner of baseball, and especially in this case, where Judge Landis is only enforcing a rule already made.

It would not surprise some to see Ruth suspended from organized baseball indefinitely and a new players' fraternity organized who might attempt another Federal League venture.

Commenting editorially, to-day's New York World upholds Ruth, while the American Globe, Telegram and the Journal upholds Landis.

SPORT COMMENT

RUTH.

Babe Ruth, greatest drawing card in the history of baseball—whose name, in our opinion, is worth at least $300,000 a season through the turnstile to the American League—has defied a rule of baseball and the edict of Judge Landis, baseball commissioner, that he shall not indulge in barnstorming exhibitions.

The issues is clear cut. Judge Landis forbade Ruth to play under penalty. Ruth played. We have no idea Judge Landis will not impose a penalty. A fine of less than the amount Ruth receives for his work would be a joke. Suspension for next season, or part of the season, may be expected.

Suspension of Ruth for any part of the playing season will be a financial loss to all American League clubs meeting the Yankees. It will seriously impair the playing strength of the champions. Ruth will receive that public sympathy which always is on the side of the ball player as against centralized authority.

Will the magnates who borrowed Judge Landis' name for $42,500 a year to restore confidence in the national game, besmirched by the world's series of 1919, support their commissioner as cordially as they have promised, or will they criticize and seek to undermine, as they did the old National Commission when it ruled for justice rather than expediency? This is the first major test since the selection of Judge Landis as baseball's supreme authority.

DEMPSEY AND WILLARD.

Jess Willard apparently is set as the next opponent for Jack Dempsey, despite the quickly ended bout at Toledo. Harry Wills is a more logical opponent, but there seems no public demand for such a meeting.

If Dempsey should draw the "color line," technically he would be white heavyweight champion rather than heavyweight champion of the world, but we doubt whether public opinion would force this differentation. There is no insistence on mixed bouts. The memory of Jack Johnson, with his unfragrant episodes outside the ring, is too recent.

We do not even suggest a battle between Dempsey and Wills. But we wonder whether Jack would take Wills as he has all his white opponents.

"Bon voyage, Duncan and Mitchell. You are sailing home after playing 105 rounds of golf in matches against the best professional and amateur golfers in America, winning 51 matches, losing 17 and tying four.

"You made 51 rounds with individual scores of 70 or better.

"Your best ball in all the matches averaged 65.6. Duncan's average was 75.17, and he made three 66's. Mitchell's average was 72.19, and he made two 65's.

"You broke eight course records: At Edgewater, Yahnundasis, Lake Placid, Brantford, Ont.; Winnipeg, Man.; White Bear Club, Minneapolis, Woodmere Country Club, West Chester Hills—tying a dozen others.

"From a statistical viewpoint, you made an amazing record that is without parallel, we believe, on either side of the Atlantic.

"But your greatest glory is the record you made as clean sportsmen, artists, and as examples for all golfers—old and young.

"You will be welcome back again next year at all the courses you have played, and at many others whose clubs could not have you with them this year because your schedule was filled.

"George Duncan, who made a tour of America in 1911, says that he notices a tremendous advance in American golf, both in playing skill and in course architecture. He is really amazed at the number of new courses, particularly of the municipal courses, which are the backbone of America's golfing future. He finds that American courses are now closer to the old courses of England and Scotland in their fair-ways and greens, but they need to be a little more trapped.

"Abe Mitchell, who made his first visit to us this year, concurs in Duncan's judgment, and says he is surely coming back again.

"This pair of royal golfers—probably the best team players in the world—have been royally welcomed at all the coures they visited in America, and they ask us to send their appreciation to every American golfer who came to see them play. They regret that they were not able to visit the Pacific coast, but hope to add these courses to their next itinerary."

ROY TURNER WINS DRESDEN HIGH TITLE

DRESDEN, Oct. 18.—The annual field day of the Dresden continuation school was held on Friday. The day was ideal and a large crowd of parents and friends was present to witness the different events.

A basket ball game was played by two teams of young ladies of the school (the Reds and the Greens). The Greens won by a score of 21 to 8. A game of association football was played between the high school boys and the town team, which resulted in a win for the town team by a score of 2 to 0.

The races, jumping, pushing the weight and the bicycle and relay races were also keenly contested by the little folks. Principal Wacwick and Assistant Principal Miss Noye deserve great credit for the way the field day was arranged and carried out.

O.A.L.A. Champs Play In St. Marys This Afternoon

Riversides Agree to Accept Kinder as Referee and Excitement Runs High.

ST. MARYS, Oct. 18.—Followers of the Canadian national game may have been wrought up with excitement over winning the intermediate O. A. L. A. championship within the last 10 days, but the interest that has been manifested for the past two days was never so pronounced.

Lacrosse fans have been doing nothing but hang around the main streets in clusters, arguing the pros and cons of the return game with the Toronto Riversides, senior O. A. L. A. champions, which will be played here to-morrow afternoon.

The fact that no word was received by the local club management in reply to the ultimatum sent on Monday evening to the Toronto moguls, only heaved coals on the flaming enthusiasm here.

Word finally reached here to-night to the effect that the Riversides would play on Wednesday, and that they had agreed to accept Allan Kinder, of Preston, as referee for the game.

Whether Frank Doyle, of Newmarket, will umpire the contest remains entirely with the O. A. L. A. officials, and no word concerning this was mentioned in to-night's dispatch.

Leo Watson Says Prices Are Down

Prices are a consideration nowadays and the question is often asked: "When will clothing drop in price?"

"It has tumbled down—far down—much lower than conditions warrant," said Mr. Watson.

"For instance, one line of blue serge—The King's Own—sold a year ago for $75, to-day's price is $45—made to special order.

"Then, again, I can make a suit to measure to-day for $25. Real, genuine Semi-ready tailoring, in all classes of honest British woolen cloth.

"Oh, yes, prices are down all right. A glance over my exhibition of Fall models will easily show the difference.—Advt. f

Prospects Bright For Manhattan Junior Sextet

Big Turnout of Young Players Are Given Instructions by Coach Munro Last Night.

That the Manhattan Club will have a strong aggregation to represent London in the junior O. H. A. series this coming winter is evident, as they had an exceptionally fine turnout of junior material at the inauguration meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. last evening.

Tommy Munroe, who has been appointed coach of the Manhattan juniors, was present and gave intructive advice to the boys.

David Allan, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., outlined a few essential facts for the juniors to carry out in order to make successful hockey players.

SUPPORT SOLID.

The Manhattans are enthusiastic in their new undertaking of operating a hockey team, and have been assured of solid support by many of the youngsters, and also by numerous hockey followers.

The members of the hockey executive are not anxious to stage a hockey war in London, but are just carrying out the program drafted early last spring. The members contend that London was minus a junior team last year, and they have simply endeavored to furnish a team which will be a credit to the City of London.

Arrangements are now under way to commence the pre-season training within the next few weeks, and as soon as weather conditions permit Coach Tommy Munroe will take the boys on the ice and select the material for the Manhattan sextet.

WILL SUSPEND RUTH FROM PLAYING NEXT SEASON WITHOUT PAY

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. — A decision in the Babe Ruth post-season case by Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, is expected within a few days and the general impression prevailing here to-day was that Ruth will be let off with a suspension long enough to keep him out of a few of next season's games without pay.

"What goes up must come down," said Judge Landis. "I notified Ruth two weeks ago that the rules prohibited this sort of thing."

New York dispatches received here indicate that Ruth would receive no support from the Yankee club owners in this controversy with the judge. The judge's statement may be embellished with some of the repartee which has made his court cases notable, it was indicated in his remark that his forthcoming statement would show "what kind of a gentleman Ruth was."

Senator Wilkes Beats Good Thing

Ora Wilkes, Gelding, Driven by Morrison, Surprises Mount Clemens' Talent.

MOUNT CLEMONS, Oct. 18.—Senator Wilkes was the hero of a hard-fought race on a bad track this afternoon and by the same token much money is being spent to-night. George Veto, who went well at Grove City, was shipped here and sold at even odds over the field of 2.07 pacers. In the initial heat he was second to the final turn, where big Senator Wilkes rushed up and passed Hanley B., the leader. Next time Hedgetree Boy made the pace and at the three-quarters Senator Wilkes and George Veto joined him, coming like a three-horse team until Senator Wilkes broke, George Veto winning easily. In the final mile George Veto wore down Haley C. as they entered the stretch, where Senator Wilkes came around and beat both.

Dr. Madden won his third race of the meeting in the 2.20 pace. Like Dunes Boy, he can pace any old track. The summaries:

2.07 Pace; Purse $500:

Senator Wilkes (Morrison)	1	4	1

Jeanette Rankins Wins

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 18. — Jeanette Rankin, chestnut mare, driven by McDonald, swept all competition aside in the feature of to-day's Grand Circuit races, taking the 2.11 trot in straight heats, and stepping off the final mile in 2.05. McDonald had a good lead in each heat of this event, which carried a purse of $2,500.

The other races were in decided contrast, for each was hotly fought, especially the 2.18 trot, in which there were nine starters, and which took four heats to decide. Summary:

Langford Knocks Peter Jackson Out

"Boston Tar Baby" Applies Soother in Second of Toronto Feature Bout

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—One of the largest crowds that ever attended a boxing program in the armories was present at the opening of the fall season to-night and saw Sam Langford, the Boston "Tar Baby," administer the sleep producer to "Young" Peter Jackson, of Windsor, in the second round. Incidentally they also saw a good card of preliminaries and semi-finals. The main attraction was the 10-round affair between the two colored fighters, but there wasn't much to it except one Langford. Jackson was outweighed 198 to 171.

Langford moved along slowly, but when at close quarters he unlimbered and let loose and his short-arm jolts had Jackson looking for the way out. Jackson showed courage at coming in, but beyond a wild swinging of his arms from the shoulders which once in a while connected, didn't have much. Langford had a wicked jolt and for a man of his weight shows considerable speed. He is beginning to develop a waist line, however. Benny Gould reversed the decision of his last meeting with Freddie Thompson, of Buffalo, when he won the bout on points.

Frankie Bull's come-back was the cause of a great demonstration from the fans and the manner in which he disposed of the good boy from Hamilton, Tiger Smith, was a treat. Smith is a popular man in this city, but he was up against a good fighter to-night.

Curly Wilshur is another local boy who is showing improvement and he won a decided victory over Young McEwan. The latter floored Wilshur for the count of eight in the third, but was too anxious to finish off the bout and his hurry lost him the opportunity.

Frankie Russell's seconds threw the towel into the ring in the last round of his four-round bout with Harry Stone just as the referee was stopping the contest.

PETROLEA BOWLERS WIN McGIBBON TROPHY

PETROLEA, Oct. 18.—A rink of Petrolea bowlers took advantage of the fine weather on Monday and journeyed to Wallaceburg in quest of the McGibbon cup. After a very close and hard-fought game Petrolea came out victorious. Summary:

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 18.—Governor J. B. A. Roberston to-day ordered the sheriff of Tulsa County to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent the Mike Gibbons-Mike O'Dowd middleweight boxing contest in Tulsa next Tuesday, warning the promoters it will not be permitted in Oklahoma.

LACROSSE REVIVAL IN CHATHAM EFFECTED

CHATHAM, Oct. 18.—A meeting of the Lacrosse Club, of Chatham, will be held on Thursday evening, when the reports for the year will be received and plans laid for the next season. Lacrosse has been successfully revived in Chatham this year, and the Chatham team has made a splendid showing in the games they have played.

Next year the management will consider the placing of two teams in the field, one in the junior and the other in the intermediate O. L. A. It is suggested that the district for the junior team should comprise Chatham, Wallaceburg, Blenheim and Tilbury, and the district for the intermediates Chatham, Windsor, St. Thomas and London.

Last season was a most successful one, but the club is looking for still increased success during the coming season.

TO ENLARGE CURLING RINK AT STRATHROY.

STRATHROY, Oct. 18.—The curling club have at last decided to enlarge their rink, so that skating and hockey can be indulged in every night this winter, the same as curling. This town has been handicapped for a hockey rink for the past eight years, but it is expected that a fast team will be entered in the O. H. A. this year as there is much good material for a team here at present. The work has commenced on the rink and it is expected that it will be finished before the cold weather sets in.

ST. MATTHEWS BOWL TO-DAY.

REAPPOINT AIKINS AS GOVERNOR OF MANITOBA

Sir James to Serve Out Full Term of Five Years; Others Had Been Mentioned.

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Sir J. A. M. Aikins, lieutenant-governor of Manitoba, has been reappointed to his office for a full term of five years. The appointment was officially approved by his excellency the governor-general, in Quebec to-day. Among those who had been mentioned here for the office were George W. Allan, ex-member of the Commons for South Winnipeg, and the Hon. Robert Rogers.

At the recent convention of the Canadian Bar Association here Sir James was re-elected to the presidency.

Another appointment officially nounced was that of A. B. Gillies, Whitewood, Sask., to the Senate, completing the senatorial representation from that province.

NAME CANDIDATE HERE OCTOBER 31

National Liberal and Conservative Convention

SEVERAL NAMES LIKELY

Six Delegates Allowed From Each Subdivision

The nominating convention of the National Liberal-Conservative party, of London, will be held in the Masonic Temple on Monday, October 31. This was decided last night by the executive committee and the ward chairmen, who had been called together to discuss this and other questions in connection with the coming federal elections. While all present unhesitatingly expressed the opinion that the Government supporters would roll up a large majority for their candidate in London on December 6, it was pointed out that in order to make the majority a record-breaker every worker should do his utmost.

GOOD MATERIAL AVAILABLE.

It is understood that several prominent supporters of the Meighen Government have consented to allow their names to go before the convention. It is believed that any one of these would be given a substantial majority over the Liberal nominee, C. R. Somerville, in the coming election. The choice of the candidate will be left entirely to the convention, however. Several names will be submitted and one will be chosen by ballot.

SIX PER SUBDIVISION.

Those who will attend this convention will be six delegates from each subdivision, with the nine ward chairmen and nine vice-chairmen. The vice-chairmen are all women.

The ward chairmen will call meetings in the various districts within a few days for the purpose of selecting the delegates. Each subdivision is entitled to send six, and these may be either men or women. It is expected that the women of the city will be well represented at the convention.

A DAY'S NEWS OF BRUCE AND HURON

ATTACH NO BLAME IN BLACHFORD CASE

Death Due to Acute Peritonitis, Finding of Coroner's Jury at Wingham.

WINGHAM, Oct. 18.—The adjourned coroner's inquest into the death of William Blachford was resumed today. Coroner Dr. Redmond, of Wingham, presided, and Crown Attorney Seager, of Goderich, acted for the crown.

The evidence presented showed that the deceased was taken ill on Tuesday, October 4, and was apparently improving in health until Friday, when he was taken seriously ill, and the chiropractor, who was in attendance, advised that a medical man be called in as certain symptoms had arisen which called for surgical aid.

The patient, however, was too weak to stand an operation, and died at the Wingham Hospital on Saturday evening without rallying.

The jury brought in a verdict of death from acute peritonitis, adding that in their opinion proper medical aid was not called in time, but attaching no blame to anyone for the unfortunate occurrence.

GIVEN THREE MONTHS ON THEFT CHARGES

Fred Zarn, Formerly of Walkerton, Sentenced at Hanover; Wife Now Under Arrest Awaiting Trial

WALKERTON, Oct. 18.—Fred Zarn, formerly of Walkerton, was sentenced to three months in jail at Hanover yesterday, having been found guilty of several thefts. Zarn, it appears, owned a motor car and carried on a system of wholesale thievery in this part of Bruce. His thefts included articles from hotels at Paisley, Port Elgin and Southampton, some of which were recovered when his home in Hanover was searched by the police. His wife has since been arrested and is at present in jail here awaiting trial.

The death occurred in Brant yesterday of Annie Kunkel, wife of Mr. Louis Eckinsweiler, a prominent farmer, who lives just east of Walkerton. The deceased, who was 44 years of age, had been ill since last winter. Besides her husband and several children she is survived by her aged parents, who live in Walkerton. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning.

AGED BUS DRIVER OF EXETER PASSES AWAY

EXETER, Oct. 18.—One of the oldest residents of Exeter passed away last evening in the person of Mr. John Gillespie. The deceased was a familiar figure to all travelers and visitors to Exeter, having driven the bus from the station for over 40 years; in fact, ever since the Huron and Bruce line was built through here. The late Mr. Gillespie, who was in his 80th year, was born near Dungannon, Ontario, and he is survived by four daughters and three sons. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

SPEAK AT WALKERTON

WALKERTON, Oct. 18.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the Progressive party, who is now on a tour of Ontario in the interests of his party, is scheduled to visit Walkerton on Friday, and the local executive has arranged for a mass meeting to be held in the roller rink at 8 p.m. The meeting will also be addressed by J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U. F. O., and J. Walter Findlay, the candidate in South Bruce.

SUCCESSFUL ANNIVERSARY

BLYTH, Oct. 18.—The most successful anniversary in the history of the Blyth Methodist Church was observed on Sunday, when the pastor, Rev. A. C. Tiffin, preached to congregations which crowded the church and thronged the gallery. The music by the choir was delightful. The offering surpassed that of any previous year, amounting to over $500. The Presbyterian and Anglican churches withdrew their services in the evening and all united, as is the custom on anniversary occasions.

OCEAN RATES DOWN.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—A small decline in third-class passenger rates from Montreal to continental ports has been effected by the steamship companies operating out of Montreal. The ports affected are Antwerp, Rotterdam, Hamburg, Bremen, Danzig, Libau, Riga and Reval.

NO LABOR CANDIDATE

SARNIA, Oct. 18.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Much interest was attached to the meeting of the Trades and Labor Council of Sarnia to-night when action was expected in regard to their attitude in the forthcoming election. Having recently severed their connection with the Farmers' group in this riding it was hinted in some quarters that a Labor candidate might be brought out.

To-night's meeting, however, practically settled all surmises in this respect, as it was decided to present the Labor policy to the three candidates for endorsation or rejection and to support that candidate who accepts their views.

A political committee, known as the Sarnia Labor Association, was formed to-night for the purpose of looking afetr the Labor vote as far as possible during the campaign.

JAMES MALCOLM IN NORTH BRUCE

TARA, Oct. 18. — James Malcolm, manufacturer, of Kincardine, was the choice of the Liberals of North Bruce at their convention held here this afternoon. Fifteen names were put before the convention, but all retired except A. McCannel, of Burgoyne, and James Malcolm, of Kincardine, and the former also retired after learning that Mr. Malcolm was willing to accept the nomination. The candidate upheld the Fielding tariff and the policy of Mackenzie King. He cited instances how the manufacturers were now specially favored by a protective tariff. He strongly opposed group government and the agrarian policy. Alex. McWhinney, M. P. P., of West Bruce, and Major Tolmie, M. P. P., of Windsor, also addressed the meeting.

Major Tolmie denied a statement which appeared in Monday's issue of The Free Press, that he would probably be an aspirant for the convention and that C. M. Bowman, a former M. P. P., was boosting his candidature. W. M. McDonald, ex-M. P. P. for North Bruce, and Major Fenton, present U. F. O. member for the provincial House, got into an argument which caused considerable consternation.

The former accused Major Fenton of making certain statements at the last nomination for the provincial elections and a heated argument took place. Major Fenton defended himself and denied the accusations.

The result of the nomination to-day leaves three candidates in the fight for this riding: Hugh Clark, M. P. P., of Kincardine, Conservative; James Malcolm, of Kincardine, Liberal, and R. E. Stacey, of Amahel Township, U. F. O.

GOUIN FOR KING MEETING.

QUEBEC, Oct. 18.—Sir Lomer Gouin, former premier of Quebec, and a probable Liberal candidate in Laurier-Outremont, will be present at a meeting to be held in the Jacques Cartier market place here shortly by Hon. Mackenzie King, the Liberal leader. Ernest Lapointe and other Liberals will also speak.

MR. CHAPLIN RENOMINATED.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 18.—James D. Chaplin was chosen to-day as nominee of the Conservatives for the House of Commons from the riding of Lincoln. Mr. Chaplin was a member of the last House.

NORFOLK LIBERALS.

SIMCOE, Oct. 18.—The attitude of the Liberal party in Norfolk will develop now without delay, following the Government convention here yesterday. It was smashed in 1917 to such an extent that the U.F.O. organization prevented it from putting a man in the field. The mass of the reform vote went with the anti-conscriptionists.

In provincial matters in 1919 the U.F.O. was at the pinacle of its strength and in both ridings the Liberal party was out of the running. Has it since repented having given its undivided support to the U.F.O. in the provincial elections? Will it still continue to bolster up the agrarian party that was its undoing? If it does it will lengthen and strengthen the life of the U.F.O. in Norfolk, and incidentally make more difficult its own chances of resurrection. It can get into the running again by putting a man in the field and beginning reorganization, in which case the Government candidate should have a walk-over, or it can reciprocate with the Government party to strike the death knell of the U.F.O., and then set up its old-time organization.

The internal friction in the Norfolk County U.F.O. organization, which developed out of the abortive attempt to whip the Norfolk Telephone Company into submission in the matter of rates, was pretty well cleared up on Friday last by a meeting of the executive, at which Frank Ryerson was read out of the party. Ryerson, for a couple of weeks, was dictator to the entire U.F.O. political organization of the county. It was his ambition to have J. Alex Wallace, the party's nominee of two year's standing, made subject to the recall before his election, but he failed, and at last advice the U.F.O. element, from which malcontents are reported daily from all quarters, has, through its executive, assured Mr. Wallace of its continued support.

Mr. Sutton will have a splendid array of campaign talent, and the issue will be carried to the last log cabin in the county. It will be carried, too, by farmers who know what reciprocity on one hand would do to the wool, mutton, butter, eggs and potato trade.

WILLINS FOR S. ESSEX.

ESSEX Oct. 18. — W. T. Willins, reeve of Mersea Township, was selected by the U. F. O. of South Essex here today as their standard-bearer for the federal election. He was elected on the first ballot, and was the choice of seven nominees. The others nominated were Messrs. Arnew, J. Scratch, S. White, C. Rowley, Sellars and J. Cowan. There was a large attendance at the convention.

SENATOR ROBERTSON TO SPEAK.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 18.—The principal speaker at the Conservative convention to be held in the city hall to-morrow will be Hon. Gideon Decker Robertson, minister of labor in the Dominion Government. He is an excellent organizer and a fluent speaker.

KENT FARMERS.

CHATHAM, Oct. 18.—The convention of the Kent Political Farmers' Association will be held in this city on Saturday. The association, which is an upshoot of the Kent United Farmers, is meeting for the purpose of nominating a candidate to oppose A. B. McCoig in the Federal election. Among the names mentioned for the position the most prominent are: James C. McGuigan, of Cedar Springs, and A. McDiarmid, of Ridgetown, with E. W. Hardey, Sam Montgomery and Harry Franch as possibilites.

SINCLAIR MAY DROP OUT

AYLMER, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter.)—While definite information was not available it is practically understood that Dr. Colin Sinclair, the Liberal nominee in the East Elgin contest, will not remain in the field after next Friday. When nominated a week ago he announced that he was desirous of obtaining 10 days in which to think the matter over. He promised to then give a definite answer. Those in close touch with Dr. Sinclair state that he has definitely decided to drop out of the race.

In the last by-election 300 votes would have made John L. Stansell the member for East Elgin. W. G. Charlton, the Liberal nominee, however, was at the bottom of the list, and it is the firm belief of those interested in the national life of the Dominion that it would be far better to support Mr. Stansell, who is nominated on a National Liberal and Conservative ticket, than to attempt to run a straight party man and thus break up the vote.

As a result it is practically understood locally that when Dr. Sinclair drops out of the field the majority of the Liberals at least will rally to the Government candidate. Just what will actually happen, however, remains to be seen and will not be definitely announced until next Friday afternoon at the earliest.

"We are opposed to the principles and policy of the United Farmers, or Agrarian, as they term themselves," declared one prominent Liberal to-day, and rather than give them the opportunity of a three-cornered fight we will get behind Stansell."

SOCIALISTS KEEP OUT.

KITCHENER, Oct. 18.—Local Socialists have decided not to enter a candidate in the federal election race and may attempt to come to some understanding with the I. L. P. in support of Dr. J. E. Hett. At a meeting held last evening it was conceded that to nominate a candidate would merely mean a forfeiture of the deposit.

W. HASTIE, S. E. GREY LIBERAL.

DURHAM, Oct. 18.—Walter Hastie, of Egremont Township, was chosen candidate to contest Southeast Grey at a Liberal convention held here to-day. There were eight names placed before the delegates, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Hastie. Those who withdrew were: R. H. Fortune, W. Calder, J. Adams, Dr. Taylor, E. G. Wright, S. T. Hill and Dr. Sneath.

PARDEE FOR WEST LAMBTON

SARNIA, Oct. 18.—The Liberal convention was held in the city hall this afternoon, when nominations were called for. John Cowan nominated F. F. Pardee, in a short speech, stating that while in 1917 he had not seen eye-to-eye with Mr. Pardee, now was no time for division, and it was the duty of the party to rally behind the late member. Ald. George N. Galloway seconded the nomination, and by a standing vote it was made unanimous. No other names were mentioned during the convention.

Mr. Pardee was sent for, and when he arrived was accorded a fine reception, and responded in a speech, declaring that the tariff was not the only issue in this election, touching on the railway situation, finding fault with the management, but not with its nationalization, and declaring that the railway situation in Canada was one of the strong points against the Government.

KING AT STRATFORD.

STRATFORD, Oct. 18.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King is to speak in Stratford on Tuesday, November 1, in the interests of Dr. J P. Rankin, ex-M. P., the Liberal candidate, it is announced to-day.

Mr. King will be accompanied to the city by James Murdock, vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. Mr. Murdock, it will be remembered, was appointed a member of the Board of Commerce by the Government, but resigned as a protest from that body.

DELAWARE FAIR DRAWS BIG CROWD

Over 5,000 Attended Annual Exhibition Held Yesterday.

EXHIBITS WERE GOOD

School Children of Township Show Collection of Work.

DELAWARE, Oct. 18.—Despite the inclement weather which prevailed throughout the afternoon the Delaware Agricultural Society's annual fair, held here to-day, was a decided success. Official figures show that over 5,000 people attended, a large number being children, who were admitted free.

The exhibits were exceptionally good this year, every department showing a large quantity and of high standard. The cattle and horses were numerous and much better than previous years. The schools of the township exhibited work and the collections shown would have done credit to grown-ups. The ladies' work department had many exhibits.

Following are some of the prize winners:

DEFIES CRERAR TO PROVE CHARGE

Premier at Brockville Says No Act Favored "Interests."

SCORES FARMER LEADER

Was Himself a Member of Government He Calls Corrupt.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 18.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Premier A. Meighen opened his Ontario campaign to-day with two meetings in constituencies which contributed ministers to the Cabinet of Sir Robert Borden and Right Hon. Arthur Meighen

At Spencerville, in the County of Grenville, formerly represented by Hon. J. D. Reid, as minister of railways and canals, the prime minister spoke to 2,000 persons, following the Liberal-Conservative convention held early in the afternoon. In the evening Mr. Meighen addressed a large meeting in the new theater here, in the interests of H. A. Stewart, who has been selected to contest the constituency of Leeds, formerly represented by Sir Thomas White, minister of finance in Sir Robert Borden's Government. At the Spencerville meeting the speakers included G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature, and at Brockville the premier wass upported by Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor.

The premier was unsparing in his criticism of statements which, he said, had been made by Hon. Mr. Crerar, leader of the Progressive party, in his recent manifesto. The language of this document, he insisted, was cowardly. It charged the Government with dishonesty and with allying itself with the "big interests," but he said, it pointed to no specific instance, made no direct charge.

LACKING IN COURAGE.

"Until Mr. Crerar is man enough to put his hand on an act of this Government open to attack he fails to demonstrate the courage necessary to a prime minister," said Mr. Meighen.

Continuing his criticism of Mr. Crerar's manifesto, the premier charged that the expenditures of the Progressives on propaganda greatly exceeded those of the Government. "I tell Mr. Crerar that his party has spent more on political propaganda than this Government, five dollars to one, in the last five years," he said. Profits made from the grain trade, amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, had, the premier said, been used by the Progressives for political propaganda.

The premier defended the Government's railway policy and emphasized his absolute adherence to the policy of protection.

"In this Dominion protection is the corner stone of our industrial life," he declared.

Fred J. Skinner, president of the Leeds Liberal-Conservative Association, presided at the Brockville meeting, and A. Langstaff, vice-president of the Grenville Association, was in the chair at Spencerville.

FAITH IN TARIFF.

H. A. Stewart, Liberal-Conservative candidate in Leeds, was the first speaker. He declared his faith in a moderate protective tariff which would apply to those engaged in all occupations. It would be unfair to ask Canadian industries to compete with manufacturers in Germany, for instance. If the bars were let down and German goods were allowed to come into Canada free of duty Canada might lose what she had fought for and won on the field of battle.

Senator Robertson said that Hon. Wm. L. Mackenzie King was not in a position to dictate his policy in regard to labor. As far as Mr. Crerar was concerned he simply said to labor: "If you want to get into my band wagon and defeat the Government, well and good."

Mr. Meighen charged the leader of the Liberal Opposition with evading the tariff issue when addressing audiences in the industrial centers of Eastern Canada. The tariff issue had been forced by Mr. King, said the premier, "and now he is running away from it." By subscribing to a platform which was practically the same as that of the "Wood-Crerar" party, of the West, Mr. Mackenzie King had challenged the protective tariff. Mr. King's challenge would have been of little importance in itself, but the "Wood-Crerar" group had achieved great strength in the West and it was formidable.

AUDIENCE OF 2,000.

Approximately 2,000 persons gathered in a large part at Spencerville to hear the premier. Before Mr. Meighen spoke brief addresses were delivered by A. C. Casselman, National Liberal and Conservative candidate in Grenfell constituency; James Sanderson, the runner-up at the convention which was held immediately before the meeting, and G. Howard Ferguson, Conservative leader in the Ontario Legislature.

NAME STANSELL IN EAST ELGIN

Candidate In Recent By-Election Is Nominated Again.

AYLMER, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter).—At a convention that outclassed anything in history, both in attendance and enthusiasm, John L. Stansell, federal candidate in the recent by-election, was unanimously chosen this afternoon to contest East Elgin in the interests of the National Liberal and Conservative party. The town hall was packed to capacity, many former Liberals and late U. F. O. supporters taking a keen interest in the nomination and the addresses that followed. The feature of the afternoon, however, was the executive meeting of the East Elgin Association held later in the uptown clubrooms. It was impossible to provide seating accommodation for the gathering of workers who attended and offered their assistance in the approaching campaign, and from present indications Mr. Stansell will undoubtedly be returned as East Elgin's next member.

Immediately after he had been nominated without any opposition Mr. Stansell took the platform and in a few brief remarks outlined his policy. He declared that if elected he would represent all classes, and announced that he would create a precedent by promising that if at any time he should prove unsatisfactory to his constituents, he would step aside for a better man, and this without any recall. He purposed going to Ottawa, if given a majority of the votes in East Elgin, as an absolutely independent representative. He would act entirely on his own initiative and would use his own judgment, with nothing but the interests of his constituents at heart.

MR. MORPHY'S CHALLENGE.

H. B. Morphy, K. C., who was in attendance at the convention gave the U. F. O. critics something to deal with when he issued a challenge, in which he dared any man, be he either Liberal or United Farmer or any other political faith, to come out on the public platform and definitely prove any charge of corruption, mismanagement or any other scandal, as suggested in recent speeches.

The speaker declared amid applause from the large audience that Hon. Arthur Meighen was a Sir John A. Macdonald and a Sir Wilfrid Laurier combined. He had all the characteristics of both these men and a good many extra features that set him in a place by himself. The Government with which he had been associated, said Mr. Morphy, was the most honest, straightforward aggregation that ever existed, and no Cabinet in history had ever been more free from scandal and corruption.

In opening his remarks the speaker outlined in brief the policies of the various leaders in the field to-day. Mr. Mackenzie King had stated that he was out for tariff for revenue without protection. This in itself meant nothing but free trade, and was offered as such to any district where free trade was acceptable. On the other hand, Hon. T. A. Crerar had definitely announced that his party favored absolute free trade. The gradual revision of the tariff made no difference, the party stood for one thing.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO EXTEND FORDNEY TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—(Associated Press Cable.)—A bill to extend the life of the emergency tariff law to February 11 was passed late to-day, 197 to 74. The measure now goes to the Senate.

If the extension is not authorized the emergency tariff law will expire on November 27. Democrats with only a few exceptions opposed the proposed extension, while Republicans practically unanimously suported Chairman Fordney, who held that the temporary law should be kept in effect until the permanent tariff schedules could be made operative.

An amendment by Representative Newton (Republican), of Minnesota, to exempt from the extension the duty on flaxseed was rejected 44 to 96.

NATIVE OF WEST OXFORD.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 18—Jas. Kellman, aged 75 years, a native of West Oxford, died last night after spending his entire life in the county. Four daughters and one son survive.

VETS TO VOTE ON UNION PROPOSAL

Amalgamation Plan to the Fore At G. W. V. Convention.

MAXWELL FAVORS IDEA

Federal Loans To Individuals For Housing Suggested.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—With the housing and unemployment resolutions disposed of, the delegates to the fifth annual convention of the Great War Veterans' Association this afternoon commenced discussion of what appears to be the most important matter before the "soldiers' parliament," namely, unification in some form. The fraternal delegates of the Imperial Veterans of Canada and the Grand Army of United Veterans took part in the proceedings by invitation.

The discussion was precipitated by the introduction of a resolution recommending that the convention place itself on record as being in favor of federation under the constitution and by-laws of the British Empire Service League as the first step towards unity. The convention had also before it the resolution adopted at Sunday's conference, which was intended as the foundation of combined action after the governing bodies concerned had ratified it.

An amendment to the resolution submitted to-day that a plebiscite of membership be taken has not been dealt with.

FAVORS FEDERATION.

President Maxwell recounted the proceedings of Sunday's conference and was followed by Secretary C. G. MacNeil. Mr. Maxwell advocated federation, because it seemed to be the only legal thing. It was better to try that first, before embarking upon anything of a larger scale. The Great War Veterans' Association had always believed in unity, but the thing could not be rushed.

J. F. Marsh, secretary of the Grand Army of United Veterans, declared his association had never advocated immediate amalgamation, but he believed that, a Government threat of the 50 per cent. pension bonus being cut off, it was time for unity of some sort.

G. A. Vaughn, secretary of the Imperial Veterans, said his association had no axe to grind. He hoped to see the returned soldiers organized under one head with two branches—one for Canadians and one for imperials.

G. R. McNicholl, Hamilton, president of the Grand Army of United Veterans, also advocated unification in some degree as soon as possible.

"STUMPING" GAINS $20 FOR FIDDLER

Generosity by One Man Leads to Similar Response by Friend.

"I'll stump you to give him 25 cents." "All right, then, I will if you will." This is what might have been heard by some of the people on the local market on Saturday morning as the conversation between two well-known men who have been around the market for the past 10 years or more.

The "him" was the one-armed fiddler who had taken up his stand on the corner of the Market lane on Saturday, playing his fiddle by means of holding the bow between his legs. The names of the two men between whom this conversation took place must under no circumstance be mentioned. However, after the first 25 cents was deposited the second man, not to be outdone by the first, said: "I'll go you one better. I'll stump you to give him a $10 bill." He immediately deposited a ten-spot in the cup held b ythe old fiddler. The other, not to be outdone, deposited another ten. The fiddler, opening one eye, began to smile, evidently thinking "everything comes to him who waits."

REV. BYRON STAUFFER HEADS C. N. R. BOARD

OTTAWA, Oct. 18.—Rev. Byron D. Stauffer, of Toronto, has been appointed chairman of the arbitration board to deal with the disputes between the Canadian National Railways and their employees. It is practically assured that the representatives of the company and men will be G. D. Kelly, of Montreal, and ex-Mayor Harold Fisher, of Ottawa.

EX-KING LUDWIG DIES IN HUNGARY

Abdicated Throne of Bavaria in November, 1916

FLED TO SWITZERLAND

Picturesque Figure in Europe for Seventy-Five Years

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Vienna to-day states that a report has been received there of the death of Ludwig III., former King of Bavaria, at Sarvar Castle, in Hungary. Owing to the Burgenland trouble in Hungary, telegraphing is practically suspended from that country and it is difficult to obtain authoritative information of events occurring there. A Reuter dispatch from Budapest, however, says Ludwig died to-day.

Ludwig III., a picturesque figure in Europe for three-quarters of a century, renounced his throne as King of Bavaria on November 16, 1916, having held it a scant three years. Disaster broke heavily upon the venerable ruler, as his wife, Maria Theresa, who was Princess Royal of Hungary and Bohemia, died on the same day.

FLED TO SWITZERLAND.

After his abdication Ludwig III. fled to Switzerland and later to the Austrian Tyrol with other royal members of his household. In March, 1919, he received permission of the Swiss Government to reside at Zizers, and thither he went a few days later to take up his residence. He remained nearly a year in Switzerland, where life's vicissitudes in virtual exile and in financial distress are said to have threatened his sanity. He was severely ill for several months and once was erroneously reported dead.

On December 22, 1920, Ludwig returned to Wildenwart, Southern Bavaria, where he has remained most of the time since.

Bavarian royalists held a monster demonstration on the occasion of the 76th anniversary of his birth, last January 7.

BOND AND STOCK MARKETS----GRAIN AND PROVISION QUOTATIONS----LIVE STOCK

IVE HOGS DOWN TO $8.50 PER CWT.

at Prices Lower On Local Market.

Several changes in prices were recorded on the local market on Wednesday. Hay took a jump of $1 a ton and is now selling at from $18 to $20. The demand is good. Farmers have been busy these last few days and have been bringing hay to the market, that the supply has been small.

Live hogs registered a slight decline in price and are now bringing $8.50 to $8.75 a cwt. Last Wednesday they bought from $9 to $9.25 a cwt.

Oats, both old and new, are also on the toboggan, selling at several cents lower. Old oats brought $1.70 to $1.75 a cwt., and 59c to 59½c a bushel. New oats sold for $1.25 to $1.30 a cwt., and 42c to 44c by the bushel.

Potatoes are firm, at $2 to $2.25 a bag. Carlots have been shipped in and sold to the local grocers at $1.75 a bag.

There was no change in the price of vegetables or fruits.

"PROFESSIONALS" GET STOCK OF LIQUORS

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19.—The private residence of W. J. Taylor, Hart avenue, was broken into the night and a considerable quantity of liquor stolen therefrom. Police were notified to-day. Entry was gained by breaking open a locked iron screen, after which smashed the wine cellar was cut open. The work was evidently the work of professionals for no noise was heard by the household. Evidently the liquor was removed in a large truck which was backed into a lane behind the residence.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: Traders evidently viewed the railroad labor situation with greater confidence to-day, judging from the course of stock market prices at the opening. A number of leading rails extended yesterday's rally by large fractions to almost 2 points, Northern Pacific, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, and Chesapeake and Ohio displaying pronounced strength. Domestic and foreign obs were also higher, Houston, Royal Dutch and Mexican Petroleum being most favored. Pullman, which broke sharply in yesterday's later dealings, rallied 2¼ points, but Sears-Roebuck and American Sugar, the latter at a new low record, were weak.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—While trading was a little better on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, there was little change in prices of the leaders. McIntyre, which did not show on the market yesterday, was again absent to-day. Holly held steady at 740, Dome Mines at 19.50, Gold Reef at 2, Dome Lake at 7½ and V. N. T. at 16. Keora opened at 12 and closed a half better. The feature of the session was the demand for Teck Hughes, which closed at 15¾ on 16,500 shares. Total sales were 45,435. Silvers were quiet. Tretheway sold at 12, Temiskaming at 22 and McKinley Darragh at 20½.

ALLEGE DUMPING WAR WIDOWS HERE

One Report Shows How Toronto Is Lightening Burdens.

In answer to a statement made by Rev. T. D. McCullough that no "dumping" is being done by other municipalities, with London as the sufferer, in connection with mothers' pensions a report presented by Inspector McCallum to No. 1 committee recently has been made public, on the authority of Chairman Watkinson, to-day. Such reports are usually not made public because of their personal nature, but it is believed that this one should be given to the citizens.

The report was signed by the widow who is concerned. Her name was refused for publication, but it is on file in the city hall.

According to the report this widow lived for eight years, with her husband, in Toronto. The husband had lived in Toronto three years previous to his marriage. He moved to the home of his mother, outside Toronto, shortly before his death, on June 5 of this year.

Her mother lives in London and she was advised by the assistant secretary in the Toronto pensions board office that if she would come to London to live she would receive her first year's pension from the Toronto office. At the end of that time she would be a resident of London in the meaning of the act. She has not had any payment of her full pension yet, but she is receiving $20 a month from the Provincial Government.

The committee holds that this widow is a resident of Toronto and that she has no claim on London in any way.

NEWSBOY ILL.—Kenneth Levitt, one of the popular and most enterprising of The Free Press newsboys, is seriously ill at his home.

LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—(Dominion Live Stock.)—Cattle receipts, 956. Trade to-day is slow for anything of inferior quality, only a few hundred cattle crossing the scales up to noon, and these were the pick of the run. Prices on these were steady. Exporters and packers were buying steers from 6c to 7c, with one at 7½c and an extra well-finished one at 8c. Cows of all kinds are slow. Best bulls are bringing 3½c to 4c. Quotations:

HAVE GOOD DESCRIPTION OF TORONTO BANDITS

Five Were Last Seen in Their Green Car at Burlington.

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—The five armed bandits who held up the staff of the Bank of Hamilton branch, Ossington avenue and College street, yesterday noon, are still taking the air somewhere and the police have no clue to their whereabouts.

The green Oldsmobile in which they escaped from the bank was last seen yesterday going through Burlington and being driven to the limit. Beyond this point the police have no trace of the machine. As none of the bandits were masked who took part in the robbing of the bank the police are in possession of a good description of each of the men, and all of the bank staff are confident that they would recognize any of them whenever it may be necessary to do so.

money from A. Hill, of Lakefield. Mr. Hill is a well-to-do farmer, and the prisoner using the name of his son Stanley, wired that he was in serious trouble and asked "father" to remit $200. As Stanley Hill was in his father's house when the wire arrived, the would-be easy-money artist was decidedly out of luck. Mr. Hill, sr., at once communicated with the London police and was advised by them to send the money asked for through the Bank of Montreal, notifying the bogus "Stanley" to that effect. This was done, and when Johnston Hill appeared at the Bank of Montreal with the telegram to collect his money Detective Down was waiting for him.

Arraigned this morning he pleaded guilty and said that A. Hill was his wife's uncle. He was remanded for sentence until Thursday, October 27.

It is learned that Hill and his wife came to this city about six weeks ago and since that time have roomed on York street. Apparently he had no occupation and told the police that things had not gone well for him.; in fact, he said that if he had not been able to "clean up a little on the ponies" he would have been in sore straits.

After his admission this morning, Hill was finger printed and "mugged" and his complete description, together with the information contained in his letters was forwarded to provincial police headquarters.

There was no reference in any of Hill's letters to any "dope" operations in London and the police are of the opinion that the local trade in such drugs is so small as to be practically negligible. The information furnished to the provincial police, however, is expected to be of much assistance in cleaning up what remains of the gang which is believed to have been operating through the province generally.

DRIVE BIG CAR AWAY.

THORNDALE, Oct. 19.—Thieves went to a great deal of trouble to enter the Riverside garage some time this morning, effecting an entrance by means of the repair shop window. They then opened the doors and drove away with a 1921 model master six belonging to R. T. Wright, owner of the garage. Not a trace of the thieves can be found.

MOTOR DRIVE FOR WOMEN. — Ladies in attendance at the provincial convention of the W. C. T. U., now meeting in London, will be entertained to a motor drive about the city to-morrow afternoon. The arrangement for the supply of the cars is in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce and the Motor League and it is requested by representatives of those organizations that car owners who are willing to place their cars at the disposal of the ladies for a time on Thursday afternoon should communicate their intention to the Chamber of Commerce or the Motor Club.

OPEN IMPORTANT RAILWAY PARLEY

First of a Series of Conferences Aimed To Prevent Strike.

RATE CUTS IN SIGHT

Regarded By Brotherhoods As Excellent To Work On.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19.—The first of a series of conferences in Chicago, at which representatives of all factions in the railroad strike situation may decide the outcome of the strike call issued by the big four brotherhoods for October 30, began here to-day, to continue over the week-end.

Three group meetings are scheduled: 1—Executive of the shopmen, maintenance-of-way workers, clerks, telegraphers and others, meet to-day, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday to decide their attitude toward the announced strike of the train service employees, with indications of a final decision at a joint conference on Sunday.

2—Brotherhood leaders are on their way here to hear the Government's attitude through the railroad labor board to-morrow.

3—Railroad executives of the central division meet on Friday in Chicago to discuss all phases of the strike situation, while executives of other divisions meet simultaneously in their own regions.

Freight rate reductions approximately equivalent to the 12 per cent. wage reduction in wages ordered last July 1 by the railroad labor board were indicated as the probable basis suggestion the labor board will propose with the backing of the administration, to avert the strike.

SOMETHING TO WORK ON.

"I understand," said Commissioner Ben W. Hooper, a member of the public group of the labor board, "that the Interstate Commerce Commission has a number of important rate reduction cases on hand, on which it will act immediately. That will give us something to work on."

The board's policy, as outlined by Commissioner Hooper, would propose to the brotherhood chiefs immediate suspension of the strike order on their parts and their influence in preventing other walkouts, while the executives would be asked to concede the withdrawal of the proposed request for further wage cuts and grant an immediate reduction of freight rates.

J. R. Howard, of the farm bureau federation, to-day had on file before the Interstate Commerce Commission here a petition for a 10 to 20 per cent. freight rate reduction on necessities of life, and at the same time he telegraphed union leaders and railroad executives urging them to join him in a conference here.

Failure of the brotherhood chiefs to join a strike agreement with the 11 other railroad unions at a conference here last week has made uncertain the outcome of their strike conferences here beginning to-day.

"BIG FIVE" HEADQUARTERS

CLEVELAND, Oct. 19.—Prior to their departure to-night for Chicago, where, to-morrow, they will confer with the railroad labor board in an effort to find a basis for settlement of the country-wide railroad strike, set to commence October 30, heads of the "Big Five" railroad transportation organizations met here to-day and discussed matters that may be presented at the Chicago conference as well as those pertaining to carrying on the strike.

Those attending to-day's meeting were W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen; Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen; T. C. Cassen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America, and E. P. Curtis, representing L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors. It was the first meeting of the union organization heads since authorizing the strike in Chicago last Saturday. While the Big Five leaders have maintained almost unbroken silence in regard to the purposes of the conference with the labor board and its possible results, it is known they are hopeful that some basis of settlement which can be accepted by both themselves and the railroad executives will be evolved and a paralysis of the United States transportation system averted.

READY TO CONFER.

Assertion by President Lee, of the trainmen, that he would "attend any conference at any place or time that holds out that possibility of an open door to settle this matter" also appeared to be the attitude of the other leaders.

While marking time, practically the entire executive committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the advisory committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers have been almost in continuous conference with their respective heads considering methods for carrying on the strike.

GETS FULL SUPPORT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19. — The railroad labor board will be given the full support of federal authorities in its endeavor to avert the railroad strike and will be expected through the result to justify its creation.

The above summary of the strike situation was given in official circles before President Harding, accompanied by several members of his Cabinet, left the capital for Yorktown, Va., to participate in celebration of Yorktown Day.

TEAMSTERS NEXT

NEW YORK, Oct. 19. — Teamsters and chauffeurs as well as marine engineers on harbor boats may add their bit to the difficulty New York faces in getting food and fuel in the event the threatened strike goes into effect on October 30.

Officials of locals of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, claiming 20,000 members, have summoned the men to vote on Thursday night on acceptance of a $5 weekly decrease announced yesterday by the merchant truck men's bureau. The marine engineers, affiliated with the Marine Engineers' Benefit Association, already have been called to vote on November 1 on a proposal to join the railway strikers.

Despite the double threat of disorganization of local transportation facilities, officials planning for the city's relief in the event of a railroad strike declared they were confident they could feed and fuel the city.

WILL STAY AT WORK.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 19.—National headquarters here of the Railroad Yardmasters' Association of America, with a membership of more than 8,000 throughout the country, to-day sent out notices to its members to remain at work, performing their usual duties, in the event of a railroad workers' tsrike.

HOPS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Hops quiet; state, medium to choice, 1921, 40c @ 43c; Pacific coast, 1921, 32c @ 35c; do., 1920, 24c @ 26c.

Chippewa Work Is Halted As a Mark of Respect

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Oct. 19.—All work on the Chippewa-Queenston canal halted for one minute this forenoon, at 11.30, as a mark of respect during the funeral of Lady Beck. The employees bared their heads for a brief period of time. There was no formal ceremony and the minute over, work was restarted. The power was shut off for that time also.

CRERAR TO TOUCH ON NEW TOPICS

Farmer Leader May Break New Ground At Woodstock.

SPEAKS HERE TO-NIGHT

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19.—It is expected that in his speech here to-night Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, will break new ground. His opening speech for Ontario at Brampton and later his Simcoe speech followed the main lines of the argument he put forth when initiating the progressive campaign a couple of weeks earlier at Brandon, Man. To-night, it is understood, Mr. Crerar will develop his economic views more fully. He proposes in this connection to give some special attention to recent company promotions and the "watering" of stocks. It is also likely that during his Ontario campaign Mr. Crerar will discuss the grain pool announced by the premier in his speech at Portage La Prairie.

In his present Ontario tour Mr. Crerar is confining himself to rural ridings. Following this week's meeting he leaves for the Maritime Provinces, making his opening speech in all probability at Woodstock, N. B., on October 25. This date, however, is only tentative, the Maritime Province meetings not yet having been finally determined. Subsequently Mr. Crerar returns to Ontario, which is regarded on all hands as the principal battleground.

direction of supressing criminal presentations.

"We must deplore the legislation which makes divorce easier and so attacks the very foundation of the home," Mrs. Haskett said, "and we reiterate our petition for the sustenance of prisoners' families during the term of imprisonment and maintain that the prisoner should be compelled to earn his living and to at least aid in supporting those dependent on him."

"Another milestone has been passed on our upward climb to the goal of total prohibition," declared the president, Mrs. Stevens. "The ascent is growing steeper, but the goal is almost in sight, though we may count on the traffic seeing to it that our arrival at the summit is delayed as long as the combined efforts of brain, brawn and money can make it."

"Government liquor will make a man drunk just the same as licensed liquor, and Government liquor shops give a certain respectability to the trade that attracts a better class of citizen," Mrs. Stevens said.

"We have been informed that the least stringent of the laws in Quebec and British Columbia would be an almost measureless advance upon anything contemplated in England," the president said, adding the opinion of Dr. Saleby, a renowned Britisher, that "the liquor traffic has been smashed in Canada, where there had never been any drinking worth mentioning among the women."

The president made closing reference to other important departments of W. C. T. U. activities, including the Canadianization of the foreign population in Canada and the greater advance of scientific temperance instruction.

"Canadianization" was also the subject of an instructive report presented at the morning session by Mrs. Ethel Craw, B. A., of Fergus, who stated that "sanctified neighborliness" was, in her opinion, the chief factor in the assimilation of the foreign element. "Very few of the women speak English," Mrs. Craw said, "and the child population is large, so that education is also of great importance and is being satisfactorily carried out in certain centers."

The superintendent spoke of the work to be carried on among the mining, lumber and railway construction camps, stating that the foreign population of Canada includes representatives of 23 countries in varying numbers.

Injustice to the Canadian Indian came in for a scathing rebuke in the report of the Indian work department presented by Mrs. B. C. Ashcroft, of Howden Vale. Note was made, however, of the improved conditions in the Ontario game laws, brought about largely through the intervention and petitions of the W. C. T. U., who had noted with distress the arrest of Indians for having moose-meat in their possession out of season, although, under Robinson treaty of 1850 the right to fish and hunt in crown lands and waters for private supplies had been granted him without restriction.

A supplementary report on Indian work was presented by Mrs. Shultis, of Brantford, in which she urged the value of example in the training of the native Indian character.

"They ask me 'What is the use of our signing the pledge not to smoke the cigarette, when your white folks, your executives, your agents, your councils, sit at meetings from 7 to 12 o'clock, and smoke the whole of the time." Mrs. Shultis said.

A strong expression of opinion against the recommendation sent from the world convention, for the separation of the colored unions of Canada into a distinct body, was voiced as the result of the report presented by Mrs. Straith, of Owen Sound, superintendent of the Canadian colored work, and of the plea made against this suggested separation by Mrs. Hyde, of Windsor, president of the largest colored union of the Dominion, who pleaded that her colored sisters be not parted from this main body of Christians.

The morning session concluded with a memorial service to the late Lady Henry Somerset and the Countess of Carlisle, prominent members of the British aristocracy, and old country leaders in W. C. T. U. work, who have died during the year.

A standing tribute of silence in memory of the late Lady Lilian Beck, of this city, was paid by the convention at 11 o'clock.

The afternoon session included further reports, outstanding being that of the anti-narcotic department, given by Dr. Lawton, of Toronto. This evening the convention proper will not sit, the time being given up to meetings of committees who will report at to-morrow's session.

FIGHT FOR POSSESSION OF M'MASTER GROWS WATM

Business Men of Toronto Will Oppose Moving It At All.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 1.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The fight for possession of McMaster University, now in Toronto, is waxing warm. At the convention of the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec to-day a deputation from Hamilton was received, as well as one from Woodstock, both advancing their claims to the university. Both deputations were invited to be present in the conference sessions when the committee on religious education made its report.

INDUSTRY GROWS WITHOUT TARIFF

Hon. T. A. Crerar Carries Campaign Into Norfolk.

POLICY OF PROGRESSIVES

Says Last Budget Most Protectionist in 20 Years.

SIMCOE, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Correspondent, Canadian Press).—Hon. T. A. Crerar to-day carried the Progressive campaign into Norfolk, a federal constituency, which since its creation in 1904 has twice sent to Parliament a Liberal and twice a Conservative. Speaking here he took occasion to develop some of the arguments advanced by him at Brampton on the previous night. Mrs. Hammond, county director of U. F. W. O., gave to the Farmers' Government the credit of giving the vote to women. Mr. Crerar later said that the Union Government gave the women the franchise in 1918 while he was a member of the Cabinet. Mr. Wallace, U. F. O. candidate, and J. J. Morrison spoke briefly.

On the economic issue Mr. Crerar again insisted that the Progressives had no intention of sweeping away the tariff overnight, although the ultimate goal was elimination of the protective principle. But he cited specific cases to illustrate how, in his view, Canadian industries instead of stagnating for lack of protection might develop under the impulse of competition.

He instanced cream separators. For over 20 years, he said, the manufacture of cream separators had been without a tariff protection, yet a thriving business had been built up at Renfrew, Ontario, an institution which marketed its product in every country of the world.

"I like to see industries grow in Canada," Mr. Crerar commented. "I should like to see other Canadian industries develop in the way that Renfrew company has developed, for you have an industry there that will stand against the world."

BINDER TWINE.

Mr. Crerar instanced, too, the manufacture of binder twine. Manufacturers of binder twine have to import their raw material, yet, without protection, but the Brantford Cordage Company has established one of the best binder twine concerns in the British Empire. "It has developed without protection," said Mr. Crerar, "yet it is selling its product in all markets of the world." If binder twine and cream separators could be manufactured in Canada without protection, why not agricultural implements?

Two years ago the Government of the day promised tariff revision. Last year a committee of the Cabinet toured the country gathering evidence with tariff revision in view. But was the prime minister saying anything now about tariff revision? Mr. Crerar asked.

"Do we hear anything about revision downwards? We have cotton goods paying a duty of 30 per cent. We have duties on woolen goods ranging from 30 to 35 per cent. Do we hear any suggestion from the Government that these duties will be reduced? On the contrary, in the budget brought down last session, still further recognition was given to the principle of protection.

TALKS OF THE BUDGET.

"The budget submitted last session," Mr. Crerar added, "was in principle the most protectionist budget brought down in 20 years."

Mr. Crerar again challenged the Government to give the source of its campaign funds. He complained that efforts were being made by Government speakers to distract attention and obscure the real issue of the campaign by charges that the Progressives represented a class movement. In his opinion the real big issues were: Economy in public administration, revision of the methods of taxation the railway problem and that of Canada's declining trade.

Speaking at Brantford last Saturday, W. F. Cockshutt, late M. P., and now candidate in that riding, said:

"The London Advertiser has cited the local binder twine factory, a plant of which Brantford was very proud, as the result of free trade. If anyone asks about that, ask them where are the other 16 binder twine companies, which are dead now, but which were in existence before twine was put on the free list. The local existed in spite of free trade, but all other Canadian plants have been killed."

SAY HOOKWAY IS TO RESIGN

Persistent Rumors in Circulation at St. Thomas

HOLD THIRD CONVENTION

Situation in West Elgin Confuses Labor

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 18.—(By Staff Reporter)—Just whether the United Farmers will get behind the Independent Labor candidate or not appears to be somewhat of an enigma, according to latest reports. The rowdy meeting of last Saturday night has created a state of affairs that it will be extremely difficulty to overcome, and local Labor officials realize that they have rather "made a mess of things." One official to-night stated that he did not know where the matter would end, and there were persistent rumors in circulation to-night to the effect that A. E. Hookway, who was nominated last Saturday night, superceding ex-Ald. John Lane as nominee of the party, had definitely decided to resign and ask for a third convention to consider the choice of a representative.

Mr. Lane has little to say on the matter. He announced emphatically on Saturday night that he would run independently, and there appears to be little doubt but that he would receive a strong support from both the Farmer and Labor men, but, on the other hand, a large majority of the Farmers want Albert Roberts as their candidate. The situation, as outlined by one Labor man to-day, is this: The railway Labor men wanted A. E. Hookway as their candidate; the Farmers want Albert Roberts, while the shopmen of the various railway works here want ex-Ald. John Lane. No matter who gets the nomination there will be trouble and dissatisfaction, and a split in the ranks of Labor appears to be unavoidable.

IGNORE I. L. P.?

Should Hookway remain in the field it is even rumored that the Farmers will name an independent candidate and ignore the I. L. P. It is also said to be quite likely that Jone Lane will run independently and get the support of a number of farmers who promised to assist him when he was nominated in 1919.

HERMAN HEINTZMAN'S WILL.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—Herman Heintzman, who died in this city last December, leaving an estate valued at $629,531, made a number of bequests, ranging from $500 to $1,000, to charitable and public institutions in Toronto. The bulk of his estate goes to his widow and family.

TAKE OVER CONE PLANT.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 18.—Local men who had invested money in the plant will take over the business of the Ingersoll Ice Cream Cone Company, which has been closed for some time. The corporation is making certain concessions to the men behind the project.

DEATH OF E. C. SHEPPARD.

TORONTO, Oct. 18.—E. C. Sheppard, son of E. E. Sheppard (Don), formerly of Toronto Saturday Night, died to-day in Kamloops, B. C., according to a message received here by friends. He contracted tuberculosis during the war while in the air service. Capt. Sheppard worked on Toronto, New York and Western papers before the war and was a gifted writer.

RIVER HEROES GIVE LIVES TO SAVE COMRADES WHEN FREIGHTER WOLF BURNS TO WATER'S EDGE AT NIGHT

St. Clair River At Sombra Scene of One of Most Spectacular Marine Tragedies On Record.

BLAZING CRAFT BEACHED AS CREW TAKE TO BOATS

Mate and Wheelsman Helped Others To Escape, Then Found Themselves Trapped In Literal Furnace.

SOMBRA, Ont., Oct. 20.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Jammed on the rocks at the foot of Fawn Island, in the St. Clair River, a few hundred yards from the Canadian shore and almost directly opposite the residence of G. S. Burnham, of Sombra, the big lake and river freighter, William S. Wolf, lies a total loss, while her blackened hulk contains the bodies of First Mate Edward Henry, and Wheelsman Anthony Smith, who were burned to death last night in a gallant attempt to assist their companions to escape.

The Wolf was on her way to Lake Erie from Port Huron, when shortly after midnight fire was discovered in her forehold. Even then the flames had gained such headway that it was seen it would be impossible to save the boat and Captain J. P. Hanson, of Detroit, gave orders to turn her for the shore of Fawn Island. Anthony Smith was at the wheel and at once put the burning boat on her course and kept her there, although smoke and flames roared around him.

No Rescue In Sight.

As soon as she beached, boats were lowered and the members of the crew, half dressed, tumbled into them. There was a high wind and strong tide at the time and it speedily became apparent to the Wolf's officers and crew that they could depend only upon themselves for rescue.

First Mate Edward Henry, of Detroit, and Wheelsman Smith, of Ashland, Wisconsin, both of whom paid for their heroism with their lives, superintended the work of getting the men away, and when practically all had been placed in safety in the life boats, it was found that the fire had worked into such a position that neither Henry nor Smith could be rescued. They burned to death while their comrades, powerless to help, tossed on the wind-driven river a few score yards away.

Leaped To Safety.

Captain Hanson, commander of the Wolf, also stuck by his ship as long as it was humanly possible to do so. Then he jumped from the blazing deck to the last of the lifeboats, breaking both legs, but saving his own life.

As rapidly as possible the boats pulled away from the blazing hulk and it was not until they were finally able to wade ashore on the American bank of the river that they discovered Henry and Smith were not with them.

The survivors landed near Marine City, Mich., and were cared for at the Colonial Hotel. Most of them are Michigan men and it is not believed there were any Canadians aboard.

ONE OF THE OLDEST.

The William S. Wolf was one of the best known freighters. Her home port was Houghton, Mich., and she traded to Port William, Port Arthur and Detroit. She was principally owned in Port Huron and Detroit and left Port Huron early last evening where she had completed the discharging of a load of pulp wood. She was about 2,900 tons and had been for many years in the lake trade.

Mate Henry lived in Detroit, where he had a wife and children. Wheelsman Anthony Smith made his home with a sister in Ashland, Wis.

While an effort may be made to salvage some of the vessel's machinery, it is believed to-day that she is so badly burned that this will be impossible and that she will prove a total loss.

CANADIAN GOLF CHAMP. MEETS EASTERN U. S. STAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 20. — One of the most thrilling women's golf matches of the season was executed at the Belleclaire Country Club to-day, when Miss Cecil Leitch, British, French and Canadian champion, met Miss Glenn Collett, the young Providence, R. I., star, in the semi-finals of the club's invitation tournament.

Mrs. W. A. Gavin, the Metropolitan champion, was matched with Mrs. Thomas Hucknell, of New York, in the other half of the draw.

Miss Leitch, after having been off her game in the two United States tournaments, the national championships at Deal, N. J., and the Berthellyn contest, now has risen to the height of the form that made her world-famous as a golfer. She smashed the club record for women with a 76 yesterday and is prepared to give Miss Collett the battle of her young life.

Railway Heads Believe Strike May Be Averted

Optimism Predominates As To Peaceable Outcome of Conference Between U. S. Railroad Labor Board and Chiefs of the "Big Four."

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The prospective strike cannot be postponed, but it can be settled. This was the opinion of the four big brotherhood chiefs and the president of the switchmen's union after a conference this morning, at which it was learned they had considered all possible phases of the situation as they may be presented at the meeting this afternoon with the United States railroad labor board.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Chiefs of the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union arrived this morning and went into conference preparatory to their meeting this afternoon with the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Union headquarters was optimistic and there was a strongly evident feeling that there would be no strike, unless something unexpected occurred to disrupt the conference this afternoon.

Present at the conference were: Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The 11 "standard" unions marked time to-day awaiting the outcome of the labor board meeting. While a few of their general chairmen met to discuss strike plans, the majority crowded the hearing rooms of the labor board to see the Pennsylvania Railroad cited for failure to obey the bord's orders.

LABOR BOARD OPTIMISTIC.

Labor board members were optimistic over prospects of an adjustment of the brotherhood members' complaints, but no plans had been announced for discussing the railroad executives, the board's program to avert the strike by temporarily maintaining the present wage level and reducing freight rates.

Prior to the conference with the brotherhoods, the board had scheduled a hearing with the Pennsylvania Railroad representatives on charges of violation of a board decision requiring a new election of shop crafts representatives. This case is the first of its kind to come before the board and is expected to establish the extent of the board's power in inforcing its decisions under the transportation acts.

Plans to operate passenger, mail and milk trains were being pushed by railroad executives, in event the strike takes place, with resumption of freight traffic as fast as men can be secured. From the ranks of men recently laid

DISCUSS REFUSAL OF CITY COUNCIL

Utilities To Take Up $250,000 Debenture Issue.

DETAILED STATEMENT

Surplus of $100,000 For Extension of Ornamental Lights.

To-day's meeting of the Public Utilities Commission will concern itself chiefly with the City Council's refusal to authorize a vote on $250,000 debenture issue for electrical and waterworks extensions and the aldermanic querry as to the whereabouts of $100,000 due the London commission from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

It is understood that the local commissioners are prepared to answer the aldermen fully in this matter and reaffirm their debenture request which will now, if granted, have to be included in the City of London bill on the City Council's responsibility.

The commissioners have had prepared, it is understood, a minute statement of what is proposed to be done with the $100,000 surplus. One item is the extension of the city's white way as far north on Richmond street as the C. P. R. station and as far east on Dundas street as the Western Fair grounds. The remainder, it is proposed, will be devoted to clearing downtown streets of overhead wires.

The surplus due the London electrical department has not been called for, it was stated, because the price of materials and the probable decrease in such prices made it seem the part of wisdom to delay the white way extension and the banishing of overhead wires until such time as the most could be accomplished on a given sum of money.

In the meantime, it was pointed out by Manager Buchanan, the surplus is on deposit and is drawing a good rate of interest.

PAID HEAD FOR G.W.V.A. DISCUSSED BY VETERANS

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Matters of internal importance occupied the attention of the Great War Veterans' Association convention this morning. The recommendation of having a paid president was thoroughly debated and opinions aired, viewing the question from all angles.

THANKSGIVING PARADE. — Arrangements are being made for a thanksgiving parade of city Orangemen to St. Andrew's Church on November 6. Rev. D. C. MacGregor will preach the sermon.

Digs Babe's Grave, Walks Four Miles To inter Infant

NORTH BAY, Oct. 20. — The story of a woman walking four miles through terrible mud to lay the body of a dead child of a settler into a grave dug with her own hands was told during the last session of the Women's Institutes of the North, which closed their convention here yesterday.

The heroine of the narrative was Mrs. A. H. Willet, of Cochrane, who was interrupted during her recital of the need of help among the northern settlers by a sister delegate to the convention, who told the audience of the work Mrs. Willet has carried on for years, practically without recompense, aiding the families of settlers in the Cochrane neighborhood.

WILL GO AFTER MEN WITH CASH

Ontario Government To Campaign For British Farmers.

MUST HAVE THE MONEY

Hon. Manning Doherty Plans To Have 1,000 Ready In the Spring.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—An intensified campaign by the Ontario Government to secure farmers from the British Isles with capital as settlers for this province is to be pushed in England and Scotland throughout the winter, Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, announced to-day. Of these new immigrants, 1,000 in number, or more, are to be ready to come to Ontario in the spring.

The campaign, as planned by the Minister of Agriculture's department, is to principally a lecture campaign. Thousands of dollars have been spent by the Government, Mr. Doherty said, in providing moving pictures of various phases of fruit, dairy, mixed farming and live stock in the province. Various lecturers will be chosen. "If I could spare the time, I should like to spend two weeks lecturing myself," Mr. Doherty said.

In connection with the new campaign a new branch office is being established by Mr. Doherty at Perth, Scotland, with Mr. Percival, former assistant commissioner at London, in charge.

"There never was a more opportune time to get expert farmers with plenty of capital in England than at the present moment," Mr. Doherty believes. Many farmers have been forced to sell out or buy their farms. On account of the high taxes the landlords are being forced to get rid of their land. There are lots of farmers in England to-day with plenty of capital contemplating going to one of the dominions."

"I can say that the type of men we are getting will look after themselves. Bringing in these desirable men, only farmers, mind you, with plenty of capital, is the only way of paying our war debt and of getting the wheels of industry moving again."

LORNE CROSBY MAY TAKE JAIL OFFICE

Northwest Mounted Veteran May Succeed Governor Carter.

ARE 100 APPLICANTS

Ontario Cabinet Will Decide Matter Soon.

While no appointment has been officially made, it is stated by those who are in a position to know, that Lorne Crosby, formerly of the 48th Highlanders and the R. C. M. P., is in line for the governorship of London jail. It is assured on good authority that he will be given charge of either the local or the Woodstock jail, and it is believed that he will be given the local appointment in preference to the other.

W. W. Dunlop, inspector of prisons for Ontario, stated, in answer to a question, that so far as he is aware no appointment has yet been made. Dr. Stevenson, M. P. P. for London, intimated that the powers at Queen's Park, Toronto, had intended choosing the man yesterday. Practically all of the Provincial Cabinet were in attendance at Lady Beck's funeral yesterday, and thus the appointment has been delayed. There are more than 100 applicants for the local position, among them several local supporters of the U. F. O.-Labor Government.

5 CIVIC BODIES IGNORE REQUEST

Refuse To Publish Salaries of Employees.

THREE HAVE COMPLIED

Higher Paid Departments Canny About Acting.

Five civic bodies have either ignored the request of the City Council that salaries paid civic employees be published or have refused point blank to publish the salaries of their employees. The five ignoring or refusing to consider the matter are the Board of Education, the Public Utilities Commission, the Hospital Trust, the Police Commission, the Separate School Board and the Western Fair Board. So far the Board of Health, Fire Department and the Public Library have furnished a statement of salaries paid.

The Board of Health probably voiced the feeling of the other boards agreeing to publish salaries in the statement of Commissioner Saunders: "I can see no objection to publishing salaries, for goodness knows our employees get little enough!"

The inference from Mr. Saunder's comment is that the underpaid boards are willing to put their salary lists before the public, but the better paid departments rather resent any effort in that direction.

However, the City Council may exercise its authority in the matter and demand that every board furnish salary lists. The education boards would alone be superior to the Council's order in that they are separately chartered by the Provincial Government.

WANTS GAS MIXED AT CITY LIMITS

Ald. Wilson Continues Efforts For Natural Gas.

UP TO THE REFEREE

Understood That City Gas Company Has Agreed.

Chairman Ald. W. A. Wilson, of the special gas committee, has not yet given up hope of securing natural gas for the city. Although he declares that the City Gas Company practically agreed to lay the necessary main within the city limits to carry the natural gas to the Horton street plant, he is willing to have this eliminated and allow the mixing to be done at the city limits. He has written to Gas Referee Henderson to ascertain whether this plan will be feasible or not.

When the natural gas question was first broached it was decided that the supply from Crumlin should be turned into the city mains at Dundas street east. But there was some objection to this and Gas Referee Henderson, after a conference with the Progressive Gas and Oil Company and the City Gas Company officials, informed the committee that this would not be a good plan. He suggested that the mixing should be done at the gas plant, and in this connection he pointed out that the outside company had no right to lay mains within the city limits. This was clearly the work of the city company.

HAD CONFERENCE.

President C. Duffield, of the City Gas Company, and Chairman Wilson, of the committee, had a conference to-day on the situation. The chairman is inclined to believe that Mr. Duffield's suggestion to mix the gas at the city limits for the present is a good one. He was assured by the company officials that this will cause the consumers no inconvenience.

One of the main reasons for objecting to this plan when first mentioned was that the consumers in the east end of the city would be using all natural gas while the others would get the artificial product entirely. It was thought this would necessitate an expensive change in the gas stoves used by the east end residents, but this fear is eliminated by the assurance of the gas company officials. The consumers as a whole will receive the benefit of the lower price of the natural gas, however. The bills will be rendered in two parts to every customer and they will be based on the percentage of natural gas that is used. It is expected that approximately one-fourth of the total consumption will be supplied by the Crumlin wells at the start.

Ald. Wilson will call a meeting of his committee as soon as he has a reply from Mr. Henderson, in order that the necessary steps may be taken to have the Council change the proposed by-law governing the distribution of natural gas in the city. The companies will be allowed to mix the two gases at the city limits.

EXPECTS BIG PROFITS FROM B. C. LIQUOR TRADE

Members of Control Board Say They Will Announce Handsome Dividend.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 20.—J. B. Clearihue, Government member for Victoria, moving the address in reply to the speech from the throne in the Legislature to-day, forecasted a system of taxation which would reach all incomes and secure to the public treasure "a share of every dollar earned in the province." Mr. Clearihue said that he had been informed by members of the British Columbia liquor control board that this winter they would be able to announce a very handsome dividend.

W. J. Bowser, Opposition leader, gave notice of motion for an inquiry into alleged wrongful acts of the Government. He chiefly criticized the administration of the Government Liquor Act.

It was learned to-day in the provincial capital that the province will resume payment of one-third of Vancouver's cost of unemployment relief, which will amount to $30,000 since April when the Provincial Government discontinued the allowance.

BUILDING PERMITS.—Building permits for October to-day total $130,175, the year's total being $2,174,850. M. Fishbein is erecting a $2,200 house, which is being built by Smith & Lizmore. A. L. Wood is building a $4,000 residence on Langarth street, of which Thomas Lizmore is the contractor, and James Foster is erecting a brick cottage on Vauxhall street to cost $3,500.

HENRI BOURASSA OUT OF POLITICS

MONTREAL, Oct. 20. — In the course of his speech delivered last night, Henri Bourassa announced he would not be a candidate in the federal elections.

"My physical forces are worn out; I can no longer bear the strain of carrying on a election campaign," he said.

MUNICIPAL LISTS FOR FEDERAL VOTE

Chief Electoral Officer's Suggestion Is Adopted.

FEW TO REGISTER HERE

Thirty Thousand Names Are On Record Now.

Acting on suggestions received from Col. O. M. Biggar, chief electoral officer, local Returning Officer W. C. Fitzgerald has taken the first steps towards preparing the voters' lists for the federal polling. It is now assured that the municipal lists may be used as a basis, and in accord with this City Clerk Baker is preparing two copies of part three of the 1921 municipal list on request of Mr. Fitzgerald.

It is not yet decided whether part one of the 1920 or the 1921 municipal list will be utilized in conjunction with part three of this year for the federal lists. Either one will be chosen. As there are 30,000 names on the municipal lists, it is believed the registration will not be heavy in London. In accord with this the number of registrars has been reduced to 14 again. It is not expected that there will be more than three or four thousand names added by registration. In the 1919 election there were 32,000 names on the London list.

Mr. Baker has the entire staff of girls at the city hall returning to work to-night to get out the two copies of part three. There are more than 16,000 names on this which must be copied twice. This work will take a couple of days.

LONDON EXHIBIT CAR IS URGED

Suggestion of Senator Beaubien At Joint Meeting.

CLUB LUNCHEON

French Exhibition Train Visited By Hundreds.

At noon to-day members of the French Trade Commission, that are in charge of the exhibition train now in London, were tendered a luncheon by the Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club, which met in joint session. The members of the commission were given a rousing reception by the hundreds present, and this morning thousands of citizens and school children passed through the exhibition train, which is parked between Wellington and Waterloo streets on Bathurst street.

Dr. Rankin, chairman of the luncheon meeting, stated in his address of welcome: "I am more than glad to join the representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other organizations of the city in extending a hearty welcome of Count D'Arnaud and his staff, and I wish to say to the count that we have only a mere eight and half million people in Canada, but we wish to extend to the 38,000,000 of France the heartiest greetings that we can.

"I also wish to say that we are anxious to co-operate with the French commission and will do all in our power to reciprocate as far as our activities will allow us."

Ald. Harley, in behalf of the mayor and City Council, extended a civic welcome to the distinguished guests.

Professor Ellis, representing the Alliance Francais, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of his organization. The address was delivered in French and was heartily approved by the club members.

COUNT D'ARNAUD.

Count D'Arnaud, head of the French trade mission, thanked the City of London and various club for the reception tendered them and expressed the hope

SEES TURNING OF TIDE FOR BETTER BUSINESS

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—There is a definite turning of the tide in the business and industrial activities of the United States, Vice-President Calvin Coolidge said in a message to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, read at its opening assembly luncheon to-day.

"This upward swing of the business pendulum is clearly defined to those who can read the economic signs of the times," his message said. "It is the bank, the railroad, the post office, the mill and the field, and it calls for a spirit of optimism and an attitude of self-reliant, forward-looking confidence on the part of the business men of the country."

LABOR MAY BACK H. A. STEVENSON

Mention Provincial Member For Dominion Seat.

REFUSES OFFER THOUGH

Lerner, Mould and McKay Candidate Possibilities.

London labor is making every preparation for the nominating convention, which has been called for Friday evening, October 28. The various local unions and other labor bodies that are entitled to send delegates to this convention of the London branch of the Canadian Labor party are busy choosing their representatives. It is expected that every labor body in the city will have a full representation at the gathering.

Who will be chosen to carry the Labor banner in the federal election is not yet known, but there is a distinct rumor that is becoming more decided daily, to the effect that Dr. H. A. Stevenson, Labor M. P. P. for London, will be given the nomination. Those who are in closest touch with the situation say that the doctor will certainly be the nominee of labor in this riding. He is quite popular with a large number of the labor leaders of the city, and it is generally believed that he will receive the nomination on October 28.

Dr. Stevenson absolutely denies that he could consider the proposition. He was elected to the Provincial House and he contends that he owes it to his electors and to his Labor colleagues in the Provincial House to continue there to the end of his term.

DENIES OFFER.

"I have promised my colleagues at Toronto that I would not leave them," said Dr. Stevenson in answer to a query. "It is absolutely impossible for me to consider accepting the nomination for the federal contest.

"My duty is in the Provincial House for the present. Whether the Labor men of London want me at Ottawa or not cannot have any bearing on this question. I cannot go back on my word, given not long ago to the other Labor members at Queen's Park, Toronto."

Despite his assertions in this connection the local labor leaders are quite confident that Dr. H. A. Stevenson will be nominated and that he will be persuaded to accept this honor. The names of Frank McKay, Arthur Mould, Max Lerner and others have also been mentioned in this connection, but the consensus of opinion is that Dr. Stevenson is the most probable choice.

Lloyd George Shows Solomon's Wisdom On Church Question.

TAKES MIDDLE COURSE

Says Baptists and Disciples of Christ Both Own Him.

SPRINGFIELD, Ills., Oct. 20.—Controversy over the religious affiliation of David Lloyd George, who has been claimed here by both Disciples of Christ and Baptists, was settled to-day by Lloyd George himself, after the manner of a Solomon, choosing neither one nor the other, but claiming both.

In a letter responding to query, the sagacious Welshman wrote that he "is a member of the Disciples of Christ, but attends the Baptist chapel. The controversy started several months ago, when Springfield Baptists demurred at what they called presumption of the Disciples of Christ in claiming Lloyd George as a member of that denomination.

At the Disciples' convention the lives of Lloyd George, former President Garfield and Champ Clark were discussed from a religious standpoint, as the three outstanding figures of the faith.

LEGISLATURE TO DEAL WITH "DUMPING" OF WIDOWS CHARGE

Showdown Is Called For In Argument Between Two Officials.

DR. STEVENSON, M. L. A., TO ASK FOR OFFICIAL PROBE

The charge that officials of the Toronto office of the Widows' Pensions Board are "dumping" widows on London will be taken up in the Legislature at the coming session by Dr. H. A. Stevenson, M. P. for London. He has asked for an official statement from the city, that he may have something definite to lay before the House. Relief Inspector McCallum has prepared a statement of an instance of a widow who was advised by a woman in the Toronto office of the pensions board to come to London, and her first year's pension would be paid by Toronto. This statement, which is signed by the widow in question, will be sent to Dr. Stevenson for use in presenting the case for the consideration of the Legislature.

Civic officials have frequently charged that London is the victim of "dumping" and members of No. 1 committee have decided that something should be done to stop it. With this idea in view Dr. Stevenson has been asked to take whatever steps may be necessary to protect this city in the future. Consequently he is preparing to take the question up in the Legislature early in the next session.

In Mothers' Allowances Commission letters received to-day by the local Chairman, T. D. McCullough, and by Inspector J. E. McCallum, who is responsible for the latest accusations, it is shown that the expense accounts for this city are practically balanced because of the fact that three widows have left here and an equal number of outsiders have taken up local residence.

"London actually stands to gain by the time this so-called 'dumping' has been completed," said Mr. McCullough. "At present the local ratepayers are paying out $105 each month for mothers who have left this city, while other municipalities are paying $100 a month for pensioners who have left London for another community. By the time the year's residence of these pensioners is completed London will be paying the $100 and the other centers the $105, a net gain of $5 per month."

LIABLE FOR HALF.

The crux of the whole situation is explained by the Toronto commission as follows: "When a beneficiary moves from one municipality to another the municipality from which she moved shall be liable for half of the allowance granted until such times as the beneficiary is resident in the municipality to which moved one continuous year."

To the local inspector the commission adds: "By careful perusal of our statement issued to the municipality you will notice that this rule works both ways, as we gave you credit for items appearing at present on the London list but not chargeable to you in the meantime, although they will ultimately become chargeable to you on the dates mentioned."

The specific case in which Inspector McCallum hung his charges concerns a former London woman who moved to Toronto, where she became eligible for allowance under the provincial act. Last June she came back to this city to live with her mother and as a result Toronto has been obliged to pay for her pension up till June, 1922, by which time a year's residence will have been established and she will become a charge on London relief. It is pointed out that this woman is not at present receiving any money out of London taxes.

FACTS CONCEALED?

"What Mr. McCallum should tell the ratepayers is that three widows have left this city as well as that number have come here," said Mr. McCullough. "He must surely know one as well as the other, so why should he conceal the facts about one and not the other? To use his own term, London is 'dumping' widows on other municipalities at the present time."

W.C.T. CONDEMNS CIGARETTE HABIT

Claim "Fags" Are Menace To Men and Women.

OPPOSE BRIDGE PARTIES

Mrs. Gordon Wright Flays Modern Girls.

Pointing out the growth of the cigarette habit among the young women of the country and urging that the women themselves should be outspoken and courageous in attacking, Mrs. Gordon Wright, addressing the "Y's" in attendance at the convention to-day, warned that steps should at once be taken to cope with this. She also took occasion to condemn the bridge-playing habit which is said to have taken a strong hold of the women.

"We are being overly silent and overly cautious on the cigarette evil," said Mrs. Wright. "It is an abomination. It has never shown its head in a more evil fashion than when it laid hold of our potential motherhood. I deprecate the invasion of the cigarette habit among young womanhood. It is a great call, fraught with a divine message to you white ribbon women to do battle.

"Life means more than a round of pleasure," said Mrs. Wright, referring to bridge playing. "I hear of bridge parties in the plural these days, and that our young girls are qualifying as expert players. Life is more serious than that. I believe that the young girlhood of Ontario has the making of sentiment. We have reached the stage when sentimnt may be crystalized into legislation. You girls, to vote intelligently, must know conditions. We need your young enthusiasm and keenness to have our laws amended to protect the homes. Every home is in jeopardy under our present laws."

WYOMING BANK HELD UP BANDITS GET $14,000

WYOMING, Oct. 20.—(Special to The Free Press)—

The Bank of Toronto at Wyoming was held up this afternoon by four masked bandits and $14,000 stolen.

The robbers succeeded in making their get-away, but are closely pursued by local police and armed citizens.

FAMOUS OTTAWA THEATER FALLS A VICTIM TO FLAMES; FIRE FIGHTER BADLY HURT

The Old Dominion, Burned Early This Morning; Newspaper Office Threatened.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—The Dominion Theater here was utterly destroyed by fire this morning. Only the four walls remain and these are expected to fall at any moment. The loss will be between $125,000 and $150,000. The building was insured. Capt. H. P. McConnell, of the fire department, was seriously injured by falling three stories, through skylight in the Cecil Hotel, adjoining the theater.

The conflagration was completely under control at 9 o'clock, although flames continued to break out of the heap of debris in what was the main auditorium of the theater. The building was owned by the Cecil Realty Company, although a heavy interest was held by Grant Davidson, from whom it was recently purchased.

The theater was a raging inferno of flames when the fire was first discovered, at 6 a. m., and for a short period it was feared that it would spread to The Journal newspaper building and to the Cecil Hotel. The heat of the flames cracked many of the windows in The Journal building, but beyond this the newspaper plant was not damaged. The employees on the afternoon edition were working in rooms filled with smoke.

The old Dominion Theater, situated in the heart of Ottawa's retail destrict, was one of the best known amusement houses in Canada. For many years it had been conducted as a legitimate house, dividing with the historic Russell the road attractions playing the capital. When the motion pictures became popular as amusement the Dominion changed its policy, becoming a vaudeville and picture house. This season it had housed a permanent stock company in repertoire.

MRS. W. PUGSLEY W. C. T. U. HEAD

Ovation Tendered New Ontario President By Delegates.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

To-Day's Session Marked By Strenuous Activity.

MRS. PUGSLEY.

The convention of the Provincial Women's Christian Temperance Union, including 322 voting superintendents, officers and delegates, rose to its feet en masse this morning to acclaim the election of Mrs. Wm. Pugsley, of Toronto, to the presidency of the Ontario Union, the entire throng of women joining with a will in the singing of "She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mrs. Pugsley, whose election was unanimous, succeeds Mrs. Hattie Stevens, of Toronto, who has retired after a term of nine years in office. The new presiding officer has already demonstrated her executive ability in her post of vice-president, in many years of active leadership in the Toronto union and in her superintendency of the school of methods department.

An interesting feature of the morning session, which was devoted chiefly to the election of officers, was the establishment of the new office of a second honorary president, Mrs Stevens being elevated by an acclamation to this honorary post.

The return by acclamation of Mrs. S. G. E. McKee, of North Bay, to the first honorary presidency was the signal for sustained applause in tribute of one of the oldest members of the union in the province and one of the outstanding Dominion workers in the temperance cause.

Mrs. May R. Thornley, of this city, was also returned by acclamation to the advisory presidency, and the balloting was resumed for the remaining six officers of the executive.

By a generous majority Mrs. W. T. G. Brown, of Ottawa, was elected vice-president, from the post of recording secretary, which she has held for some time. The elections will be concluded at a later session, when it is expected that the name of Mrs. Ethel Craw, of Fergus, will be voted upon for the recording secretaryship. It is expected that Mrs. B. O. Britton and Miss Maude McKee will be returned to the offices of treasurer and corresponding secretary.

PROPOSE CHANGES.

The chief discussion of the morning centered about a proposed revision of the constitution, by which the officers of county and local unions are to be restricted from holding office for a longer period than three years and the provincial officers for longer than five years. Many of the delegates were of the opinion that the changes necessitated would in many cases be disastrous to the continued success of the county or union in question, but general opinion seemed to trend towards periodical changes in executives.

Mrs. McKee made an appeal for the younger members. "We talk a great deal about our young women," she said, "but when they come here, do we give them office? Twenty-five years is too long for office to be held by older members (I was going to say moss-backs), like us. We need a regenerating influence in this organization."

Mrs. Britton, treasurer for a number of years, declared that she had no desire to hold down that office permanently, "although the finances are in a happier condition than when I took over the office," Mrs. Britton said. "It was then necessary very often to finance the after-convention period out of my private treasury, but now the financial status of the Ontario Union makes the work a pleasure instead of a burden."

GOVERNMENT GRANT

"I would like to see our splendid officers receive a Government grant for the work they have done and are doing," said Mrs. Blakeley, of Chatham, amid applause.

It was eventually decided to amend the constitution to make these changes in the personnel of the executives only when practicable.

Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown was a speaker during the luncheon hour, when he extended a welcome to the delegates on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, and referred to the many valuable London institutions which make this city an admirable meeting place for an organization of the standing of the Provincial W. C. T. U.

A report on the Canadian marine was presented by Mrs. McKee, for the superintendent, Mrs. Wilson Taylor, of Toronto. Contributions have been sent to the Navy League, Toronto, and literature, supplies and comforts have been distributed among the Canadian sailors. Toronto also furnished a new teaching room in the Halifax Sailors' Institute.

Others reports presented were those of the Flower Mission (Mrs. Ryerson Young, Toronto), and parlor meetings (Mrs. W. W. Wylie, Ottawa). The latter recommending the appointment of ter recommended the appointment of all unions, where much may be done, socially and educatively, in this matter. Two hundred and two parlor meetings were held during the year in the province.

INSPECT CITY

The afternoon program included the presentation of important resolutions, a conference of the Dominion executive, led by the president, Mrs. Gordon Wright, of this city, on problems connected with the work of the Dominion and provincial W. C. T. U. organs and a motor trip through the city, arranged for the delegates by the Chamber of Commerce and the Motor League.

OIL LIGHT BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

BURNS 94% AIR

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent. air and 6 per cent. common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, F. P. Johnson, 246 Craig street w., Montreal, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. COMING TO LONDON.

MAJOR MARY BOOTH, second daughter of General William Bramwell Booth, of the Salvation Army, who will address meetings in the Patricia Theater on Sunday afternoon and night. She was four and one-half years in France engaged in war work, and will tell of this on Sunday afternoon. She is a fluent and forceful speaker, resembling her Aunt Eva very much.

ORGANIZE BRANCH INSTITUTE HERE

Engineers of City and District To Join.

MEETING ON WEDNESDAY

Will Solve Municipal and Individual Problem.

Within a week London will have had organized a local branch of the Canadian Engineering Institute, which will include some 25 city members together with engineers in municipalities within a 25-mile radius. Which means that the London body, if plans now laid are carried out, will take in engineers of St. Thomas, Ingersoll, Woodstock, Strathroy and intermediate points.

The organization meeting will be held at 8 p.m. on Wednesday next, in the Chamber of Commerce boardroom. City Engineer Brazier is one of the moving spirits behind the organization.

"The proposal has been up before," Mr. Brazier stated, "but hitherto there have not been enough engineers in London to give such an organization of engineers the dignity of numbers. The recent removal of a branch of the provincial public works department from Windsor to London makes such organization possible and many of us believe necessary at this time.

"The plan is also to include the municipalities within a 25-mile radius of the city in our drive for engineering members.

"At this proposed London branch of the Canadian Engineering Institute many common municipal and individual problems could be worked out co-operatively, the institute would be prepared to advise London and other municipalities on certain points, and the individual members would derive benefit by coming in contact with other members of the engineering profession."

Mr. Brazier stated that the membership would be open to all engineers: civil, electrical, sanitary and mechanical.

CHICKENS IN THEATER LOBBY CAUSED TROUBLE

Proprietor Charged in Court With Obstructing Exit to Public Building.

There have been police court cases about chickens and theater entrances, but Deputy Magistrate Bartlett had one that was different this morning. In fact, it was different from every angle. The chickens were real fowl and it was the main entrance, not the stage door kind, which was involved.

The proprietor of a local motion picture house had a crate of chickens on exhibition for advertising purposes in connection with a picture which was being shown. These he had displayed on a table in the lobby of the theater. The police objected and the proprietor was summoned to court this morning on a charge of obstructing the exit of a public building.

After hearing the evidence, his worship, while he admitted that he was inclined to believe that there was obstruction, laid the case over until he had an opportunity of inspecting the lobby in question.

SAY THAT "BLUE NOSE" NOT REAL "BANKER"

New York Herald Charges Canadian Boat More Yacht Than Fisherman.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Herald this morning in an editorial on the international fishermen's trophy race, charges that the Blue Nose was "especially designed in the hope that she could win back to Canada the trophy which Captain Marty Welch won with the Gloucester Schooner Esperanto last November."

The paper declares that there is an essential difference between the two boats, which are to race on Saturday, saying the Elsie "was built solely with a view to commercial deep sea fishing." It also calls attention to the difference of 20 years in age between the two vessels. Discussing the alleged racing construction of the Canadian boat, The Herald says: "Blue Nose comes within four feet of the overall length set by the terms of the trophy deed of gift, which is 145 feet. Naturally she ought to have more power than Elsie, which is only 106.5 feet over all, with a beam of 25 feet, as against Blue Nose's 27 feet beam. If a line could be had on the speed of the two contestants, based on the respective elimination races, Blue Nose would appear to be much the faster craft, for she beat her nearest contender by 16 minutes and 22 seconds in the deciding race on October 17. In the elimination race off Cape Ann on October 13 Elsie beat the second boat by 10 minutes and 22 seconds. In each case the course was 40 miles around.

C. P. R. OFFICIALS INSPECT DIVISION

Party From East Arrive In London on Way to Windsor.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials from Montreal and Toronto are to-day inspecting the London division of the railway. G. Preston, Montreal, superintendent of motive power, and F. Ronaldson, Toronto, master mechanic, were in London this morning and left later in the day for Windsor.

Robert McKillop, divisional superintendent, accompanied the two other officials on the tour. The party will return to the East to-night.

HOSPITAL WILL BOOST TAX RATE

Says City Clerk In Attacking Memorial For Children.

"WAS NEVER NEEDED"

Believes Ample Accommodation Provided At Victoria.

City Clerk Baker to-day launched an attack at the new War Memorial Children's Hospital, built by public subscriptions secured by the I. O. D. E. of Western Ontario and by civic grants. He asserted that the new hospital would add $60,000 a year to the tax rate, that he believed it to be unnecessary at this time, from the standpoint of hospital accommodation, and also stated that this opinion of his was supported by three prominent physicians of London.

"That new hospital building," Mr. Baker stated in the course of an interview, "will add not $40,000 to the city tax rate; it will add $60,000 to the tax rate.

"It was not needed; it is not needed now. In fact, the new Children's Memorial Hospital is about as much use to London as two tails would be to a dog.

"Three physicians in this city have informed me that there was ample accommodation for children at Victoria Hospital. None were ever turned away for lack of room. Victoria Hospital, they said, had every bed and appliance necessary to the proper treatment of children's diseases.

"The hospital was proposed and is now under construction," Mr. Baker stated, "because of an over-emphasized craving on the part of those responsible for the inaugurating of the scheme to mother something."

Mr. Baker's attack comes, it is believed, as a preliminary suggestion that in view of the Hospital Trust's desire to provide the Victoria staff of nurses with a nursing home, the new children's hospital be turned over to them temporarily when completed. When civic finances made it possible to build a nursing home unit the children's hospital could then be used as such. Mr. Baker, however, did not express himself on that point.

It is considered certain that the statements of the city clerk will rouse considerable controversy. Superintendent Heard, of Victoria Hospital, has for some time past complained of diminishing accommodation and supported the building of a children's hospital as the solution of the problem.

The fact that the Hospital Trust took over the administration of the children's hospital and has already appointed a tentative medical-surgical staff is taken as direct evidence that the hospital commissioners welcomed the addition of a complete hospital unit, built largely through the generosity of London and Western Ontario women as a direct expression of their patriotic reverence for Canada's war dead.

SPEND $25,000 ON L. C. I. EQUIPMENT

School Being Completed Shows Tudor Grace.

WILL BE OPEN IN JANUARY

Collegiate Will Be Modern In Every Respect.

The contract for $25,000 of furnishings for the new Collegiate Institute will probably be let this week by Chairman A. A. Langford, of the Collegiate committee of the Board of Education, and Architect Carrothers, to whom the matter was referred, with power, at the latest meeting of the board of school trustees.

Progress on the new Collegiate has made record strides during the past few weeks in spite of delays caused by the difficulty of securing cut stone. The building is now so far completed that a fair idea of its final appearance may be gained by passers by.

The structure conforms generally to the ideal late Tudor style in which the beauty possibilities of windows reaches its highest mark. The stone frame of the Collegiate windows are now generally in place, and art lovers in the city believe that it will be a distinct misfortune if the glass to be put in them does not at least suggest the stained masterpieces of the Elizabethian period.

It is considered certain that the new high school will be ready for occupancy on the first school day of the new year. The question of the name for the school has not been finally determined, though, lacking other instructions, it will be christened within a few days as the great War Memorial Collegiate Institute.

A feature of the new building will be the bronze tablets, the cost of which is being borne largely by high school students, on which will appear the honor roll of the London Collegiate Institute. Names of young men and women who gave their lives during the late war and who were graduates of the London Collegiate Institute.

The opening of the new building will permit even further development of the Collegiate's night school work. Already some 150 pupils are enrolled there for special and general work. The number is increasing from week to week, Principal Mooney stated to-day, and with a central building, it is believed that the night school will form an important section of the high school's educational service.

KNICKERBOCKERS FOR FAIR SEX ARE BECOMING POPULAR

What Was Considered Fad Last Spring Is Now Being Adopted.

"Madame, allow me to show you these tres chic knickerbockers. Of the finest wool of Scotland, in their so wonderful weave. But, certainly, madame, they are la mode! For the hunting, the fishing, the hiking, for le golf, that so charming snow shoeing, skiing, for all the sport activities of madame, the knickerbocker is universal!"

And so madame or mam'selle dons the aforesaid knickerbockers decreed by fashion and walks forth, leaving behind her the skirts of centuries as calm as calm. How they do it, heaven only knows. Imagine a man being asked to don a light blue kilt by his tailor with no other recommendation than that it is the fashion. Imagine one lone male of the species walking forth in the blue kilt. Would he be calm? Would he display that sang froid, that elan which distinguished women the world over? He would not. Women, as some philosopher has observed, are different.

But the knickerbocker has come, and women are donning them with an air of accustomedness that is little short of wonderful. Spiteful men point out that women have worn spiritually bifurcated garments for so long a time that merely adopting themselves to a material symbol is a mere bagatelle. Anyhow, the advertisements run riot with pictures of fair ladies in knickerbockers and foot notes say: "Last spring everyone was wondering if the new fad for knickerbockers would be generally accepted by women. Now the question is practically settled."

Let us refer back to the last paragraph. Read "Advertisements run riot with pictures of fair ladies in knickerbockers." They do. But it is noteworthy that no fat women are shown in knickerbockers, nor women the reverse of fat. Fashion evidently holds sway in a land where everything is just right, a land of perfects 32's, in fact. Les autres are ignored with three rasping ignorings.

WAY IS OPENED TO AMALGAMATION

G. W. V. A. Unity With B. E. S. L. First Step.

MAY YIELD IDENTITY

Only Fear Is Domination of the Younger Body.

That the G. W. V. A., by accepting membership in the British Empire Service League, has blazed the way to complete unity among veterans is the consensus of opinion among the members of the local command. The step, which was taken by the Dominion Association yesterday, was strongly recommended at the October meeting of the local branch last week as a means of making the veterans a political power in the country.

It is the expressed belief of a prominent official of the association here that the G. W. V. A. will sacrifice its identity in order that amalgamation may be attained. He added that this was a great concession for the largest soldier body to make and that it would in all probability lead the other organizations to follow suit within the coming few months. The Army and Navy Veterans meet in Toronto next week and will probably agree to the same proposals.

SERIOUS OBJECTION.

The greatest objection of the G. W. V. A. to amalgamation was that it might be absorbed by a younger association, such as the Canadian Legion, which has no status in the country. The Empire Service League, however, is an older body and includes in its membership practically all the veterans of the world war living in England. Its power is shown by the fact that in the recent industrial crisis the league was in a strong enough position to have discharged veterans reinstated in their jobs. This power, it is believed, will belong to the Canadian veterans if all should line up with a Dominion branch of the league.

"Although the G. W. V. A. will lose its identity by accepting membership in the league it will still have a powerful influence in the establishment of the Canadian headquarters," explained one of the leading officials of the local command. "Having the largest membership in the Dominion, having accomplished most politically for returned soldiers, and also having the greatest assets of any body, it stands to reason that it will be a potent factor in saying who shall be at the head of the Canadian league and what principles shall govern it.

Railway Heads

off, pensioners, loyal veterans and others with railroad experience railroad officials here to-day declared they could recruit nearly a half million men. Roads entering New York were advertising for men to fill positions which may be vacated, and roads entering Chicago are expected to take the same course within the next few days.

Between August, 1920, and June, 1921, the number of railroad employees decreased by 611,675, according to figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and more than 60,000 of these were train service men.

RAILWAY MAGNATES PLANNING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Proceeding as if they expected failure of the railroad labor board in its efforts to prevent the threatened railroad strike by a conference in Chicago to-day, members of the eastern presidents' conference met here to-day to lay plans for meeting the strike on Eastern and New England roads.

Although they professed to see some hope of peace through the labor board's efforts, the railroad heads declared that with the strike orders already issued they could not afford to delay their plans to see what the Chicago conference would bring forth.

Meetings of the General Managers' Association and the Association of Railway Executives also were scheduled.

Advertisements calling for men to take the places of possible strikers have been prepared by all the railroads entering here and the Pennsylvania and Erie Railways published them in today's papers. The Pennsylvania sought applications to fill places made vacant by such men as may leave the service.

The Erie specified such places as may be vacant on November 1 and offered permanent positions at standard wages.

URGE MEN TO THINK FIRST.

Several of the railroads have sent out circular letters to their employees urging the men to think carefully before they join the proposed strike and not "be misled in this matter." One of these letters, after reciting advantages of employment on that line, inquired: "Are you going to give up all this, your record and your seniority, at the behest of men who are going to be unable to find another job to take the place of the one you now have? Remember, they can order you out, but can they order you back?"

The letter concluded with an argument that the strike was not against the railroads but against the Government as represented by the railroad labor board.

A. H. Braez, vice-president of the American Train Dispatchers' Association, announced last night that the dispatchers would take no part in the proposed strike. The statement followed a conference with dispatchers of the Eastern district, at which Mr. Braez said the sentiment against a walkout was unanimous.

"There is no sign that we are condemning the attitude displayed by the other brotherhoods, however," he added.

EIGHT DELEGATES FOR R. R. UNIONS

Will Be Power In Selecting of Federal Candidate.

UNIONS MEET ON FRIDAY

Possibility of Railway Man Being Named.

Railway employees of London will figure largely in selecting the Labor candidate for the coming federal election. A meeting of the Labor representation committee is to be held a week from tomorrow evening at the Labor Temple, when nominations will be received.

The Grand Trunk Car Workers' Union, which is the largest trade union in the city, will be eligible to have eight representatives at the meeting. According to the constitution, each union with a membership of 100 will be allowed three delegates and an additional delegate for every hundred members thereafter.

Although it has not been definitely decided, it is likely that the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, which has three divisions in London, will be united with the Labor representation committee before the nomination meeting and take part in selecting a candidate for labor.

Railwaymen interviewed state they are unable to say at the present time [illegible] employee will be nominated as candidate for the Federal House at the general meeting, but they are watching the situation closely.

LARGE MOVEMENT OF CANADIAN WHEAT CROP

C. P. R. Is Distributing Millions of Bushels to Millers of Ontario.

More than 500 cars of grain received from the Canadian West at Port McNicholl and Goderich are being distributed daily by the Canadian Pacific Railway to all parts of Ontario and other Eastern provinces.

Divisional officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway state that thousands of grain cars are now available and are now in use transporting the Canadian wheat to the millers.

The large grain elevator at Port McNicholl has a capacity of 4,000,000, and more than 1,000,000 bushels can be stored in the elevator at Goderich.

The movement of grain is expected to continue for several weeks, and it is the opinion of many if it were not for the irregularity of the grain market that the movement would be even larger than it is at the present time.

TWENTY MOTORISTS PAY COURT FINES

See Clerk Before Court and Plead Guilty to Charges.

Some 20 motorists admitted breaches of the Motor Vehicles Act and breach of by-laws pertaining to automobiles and settled with Police Court Clerk John Moule before court opened.

In connection with cars on the streets at night without lights, his worship warned all and sundry that from now on he would make it a point to make all motorists responsible for the lights on their cars. If the lights were out the owner would have to take the responsibility for their not being lighted unless there were some very unusual circumstances. He would take it for granted that there had been a violation of the by-law otherwise.

LONE THIEF STEALS CAR FROM THAMESVILLE

Local Police Notified That Car Was Headed This Way, But No Trace Found.

At 10.30 last night a lone automobile thief stole a large touring car from the main street at Thamesville. The theft was known of a few minutes later, but all efforts to chase the car would have been futile, as the machine is high-powered and had considerable start. Pedestrians saw the machine leave the town and say it had only one occupant, a rather young man.

Chief Constable O'Neil, of Thamesville, was notified and got in touch with the local police, stating that the stolen car was headed this way and may pass through. Roads leading into the city were closely guarded, but the thief apparently took another route. The car bore license number 104-482.

GOOD DEMAND NOW FOR LUMBER

Equals Sales For Same Period Last Year.

PRICES ARE FIRMER

Cost Considerably Less; Drop 50 Per Cent.

Local lumber dealers state that there is just as great a demand now for building material as there was in the corresponding period one year ago.

"There is a reasonable demand for lumber, particularly for this time of the year," one dealer stated, "even though there has been a stiffening in prices of certain grades of lumber. The price on the output from the Western Provinces is very firm now and I am of the opinion that it has already reached the rock-bottom price and now has a tendency to advance again on all grades, although," he added, "anything is liable to happen in the spring, which may bring the prices down to normal again, but I hardly think so. But take, for instance, the freight charges. If there is a decline registered in that direction that will help the wholesale men out considerably and we will be able to drop prices accordingly, but, from present indications, I don't see where there will be a change there for some time.

"The Western Association of Lumber Manufacturers and Exporters met three weeks ago in Vancouver and decided that if any further drop was registered the way things are at the present time it would be infringing on their expenses, meaning that, with the high expenses they are incurring now in getting the material shaped up in dressed or rough form, they would be over-reaching their cost of production by selling at a lower figure than that which they are getting now and that prices are more likely to go up than take another decline.

BUSINESS WOULD SUFFER.

"Another thing which would suffer out there," he remarked, "in the Province of British Columbia at least, where the lumber mills and camps solve most of the employment question, is that if prices were to go down any more the mills would close up and throw thousands out of work because they claim to be merely making expenses now and would be paying more than they are making to operate at lower quotations on their output.

To show that our prices have dropped to around 50 per cent.," he concluded, "I will give you a few quotations on different grades of lumber. Quarter-cut oak flooring cost last year $225 to $250 per thousand feet and it is now selling at $125 to $175 per M; fir flooring, which formerly sold at $120 per M, now sells at $60; hemlock sold last year at $60, and is now quoted at $42. Even beaver board has taken a drop. Last year it sold at $67.50 per M, and now it is selling at $50. Oh, no," were his concluding remarks, "I can't see where we are going to come down any lower in prices."

FREIGHT TRAFFIC IS ON INCREASE

Optimism Prevails Regarding Future for Lines Here.

An increase in freight traffic is reported by the divisional officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Speaking to The Free Press to-day one of the officials stated that he is optimistic regarding the future and is of the opinion that the inward and outward freight business has a tendency to become greater.

Freight transportation figures for the past few months compare favorably with the statistics from the other provinces and the passenger returns in Ontario also surpass those compiled by the employees in other parts of the country.

NOT WORRYING OVER "DRY" LAWS

Believe Appeal To Supreme Court Is Useless.

EFFORT TO INVALIDATE LAW

Liquor Company Suit Defeated By Legislation.

Local prohibitionists are not staying awake at nights worrying about the efforts of the "wets" to invalidate the Canada Temperance Act. T. D. McCullough, a prominent worker in the last campaign in London, told The Free Press to-day that even if the test case of the Gold Seal Company was taken to the Privy Council it would be turned down just as it was by the Supreme Court yesterday.

"The case is being pursued by the liquor interest on the pure technicality that no date is set by the C. T. A. for the bringing into force of the legislation restricting imports," said Mr. McCullough. "Both the Alberta courts and the Supreme Court of Canada have decided against the company and I am certain that the Privy Council will uphold their decisions if the case is brought up for their consideration."

Mr. McCullough pointed out that the liquor company is pitting itself against the will of the majority of electors in trying to invalidate a law upon which the people had already voted for. He pointed out that if any province, by a referendum, decided against the importation of liquor, then the Canada Temperance Act was brought into force.

The contention of the Gold Seal Company is that the cause would have been won had it not been for the passing of the bill upholding the Canada Temperance Act. They are confident that the arguments upon which they have based their case so far are quite sound and that an appeal to the Privy Council would mean victory for them and an overthrow of the present prohibition laws governing Alberta, Ontario and other provinces.

TWO STOLEN CARS FOUND BY POLICE

Automobiles Taken on Tuesday Night Abandoned on Country Roads

NO CLUES UNCOVERED

Machine Stolen From Thorndale Garage Is Still Missing

The police between 5 and 5.15 o'clock last evening recovered two automobiles that were stolen in the city on Tuesday night. A machine owned by W. P. Young, 12 Horn street, was found on the 5th concession of London Township, and a machine owned by James Fox, of Thorndale, was found on the Governor's road, two miles east of Crumlin.

Young's machine was stolen off Clarence street about 8.30 Tuesday night. The car was locked, but the thieves had little, if any, trouble in removing this difficulty. Mr. Fox's automobile was stolen off the market between 8 and 9.30 Tuesday night.

An automobile owned by R. T. Wright, of Thorndale, which was taken out of his garage late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning is still missing, despite a thorough search of the highways and byways. The garage was locked but the thieves forced the door and removed the car without wakening members of the Wright home, and the loss was not discovered until the door was found open yesterday morning.

Both cars recovered by the police were in good condition, the thieves having dismantled the cars in no way. The Fox car, which was recovered near Crumlin, was out of gas and it is believed that this machine was in the possession of the theives until late yesterday afternoon, as residents living in the vicinity had no knowledge of seeing the machine during the day. The Young machine was left in the ditch on the 5th concession of London Township, a little west of Adelaide street, and was almost in the same place as other stolen cars have been abandoned, which forecasts that this is a rendezvous for thieves, or something of the sort.

Some time ago an epidemic of car theiving was prevalent in the city and the local police arrested several in connection with the thefts, who are awaiting trial on these charges but it is believed that another gang is at work in the city and district. During the past week five valuable cars have been stolen in and around the city. Up to the present the police have no clue that would lead to the arrest of the culprits.

MARIE LOHR IN 'FEDORA,' SUPERB

Sardou's Masterpiece Given Fine Presentation at Grand

PORTRAYS RED TERROR

Miss Lohr Transports Audience to Russia's "Petersburg"

"The ceiling is cracking; it will be on your heads before long!"

In his famous play, "Fedora," Victorien Sardou builded better than he knew. The great melodrama may have been written for theatrical purposes merely, but time has given it proof; history has justified it.

To-day, more than a quarter of a century after the French playwright conceived his character of the Princess Fedora Romazova and her so tragic love for Count Soris Ipanoff, to-day when the name Nihilist has been swallowed up in a name far more sinister and fearful, Sardou's words from the mouth of Jean de Siriex, French secretary of state—"the ceiling is cracking; it will be on your heads before long"—sounds more like a prophecy than an aphorism.

In truth, in "Fedora," one seems to see the Russian Revolution in the making, that dread terror which finally swept over the misfortuned and yet glorious country, in the spring of 1917, is here anxiously foreshadowed. The page of history is turned back. One sees the machinery of oppression and rebellion clicking back and forth, back and forth. One hears the "mills of the gods" at their leisurely grinding. Sardou could not have pictured the Great War. Neither could he have pictured reigicide so terrible the mind faints from it, as from the unforgivable thing; outrages, starvation, robberies, famine, pestilence—all the shame that now is Russia. Yet he sensed these things, and, sensing them, he created an atmosphere very poignant and yet most picturesque for theatergoers of the latter years of the first quarter of the 20th century.

That atmosphere Miss Marie Lohr has seized upon with marvelous artistry, for her production of the piece. Her locale is perfect. She transorts us to "Petersburg," with its Gotho-Byzantine architecture, rich with mosaics of patriarchs and saints, its snowy streets, its tinkling sleigh bells, its bearded furclad men and its passionate, half barbaric and yet noble women. She hurries us to Paris and to the Russian colony there. Paris, so gay, so light-hearted, and in the center of gay Paris that coterie of mystics and fanatics, that sense of espionage and treachery that rested always around and about the exiled subjects of the czar. Not a detail is lost. Not an opportunity is thrown away. Janus-headed Russia turns her Eastern face to us and kisses us with a Western smile. We are attracted and we are repelled at the same moment. In truth, this is Russia!

Bernhardt did not play "Fedora" after this fashion—and Rejan did not—neither did Modjeska, though of all one might have thought the gracious Pole would have done so. It was reserved for an English girl, Marie Lohr, to see and grasp the opportunity and the moment. Her public, to whom the romantic, melancholy country of the steppes is of exquisite interest, are grateful.

Without retelling the story of "Fedora," it is necessary that one recall the fact that the Princess Fedora Romazova is betrothed to a society rake, Count Vladimir, and that when he is mysteriously murdered by Count Loris Ipanoff, as she thinks for political reasons, she vows to track his murderer, give him up to justice, or if not, kill him with her own hands. How she tracks Ipanoff, how she finds him, how she loves him, how she betrays him, how revenge turns on her and rends her—it is the task of the dramatist to tell. Emotion is pressed down and running over. The denouement is as unexpected as it is fine.

As the Princess Fedora, Miss Lohr is stately and magnificent. She wears the Russian national coronet, so impossible for any but a beautiful woman to wear. She is wrapped in furs and clothed in purple and fine linen. And yet, above all these material things, the intellect and the spiritual fineness of the woman triumphs. She sweeps us off our feet at last, by the simple force of her tragic womanhood, by the grief and the sorrow and the despair that touch our natures and show us she is our kin.

Beginning her work in a tone of the greatest reserve, all emotion crushed down by the pure force of a woman's will, Miss Lohr, as scene after scene progresses, rises to height upon height of emotion, until at the last when, despairing of Ipanoff's forgiveness, she drinks poison and dies at his feet, her whole audience is thrilled and shaken. Loveliness lies in ruin. It is a tremendous climax.

As Count Boris Ipanoff Mr. Herbert Marshall proved a magnificent masculine foil for Miss Lohr's feminine sweep and tempest. Perfect control marks the young actor's characterization of the difficult Russian role. When Mr. Marshall would be secret his features respond to the secrecy in his mind. And when his blood is racing in his veins at the touch of the woman he loves, again his face is the mirror of his soul. Finally, when hate and horror overcome him, how horror and hate are mirrored there.

And finally, in this great emotional duet, there is a concord of voices which is exquisite to hear. No more simple, sincere and delicate diction has been heard upon our stage. Miss Lohr and Mr. Marshall are an example and a warning to all those who consent to vocal distortions of our beautiful tongue.

The comedy part of the play, and there is some delicious comedy in Fedora, is carried by Miss Helen Haye, playing Countess Olga Soukarova, and Mr. Herbert Ross as Jean de Siriex. Both are masters of the art of stage badinage and repartee. Miss Haye, exquisitely dainty in her mock heroics. Mr. Ross, a man of the world and a gentleman who knows how to woo a flirtatious "gourmet" after her own fashion.

The company, which is a large one, played with distinction and in absolute harmony with their principles — an astonishing ensemble. Scenes of great richness and splendor for the Petersburg parts of the play—dashing and chic for Paris. Miss Lohr's dresses are the latest word in stage costuming, when the stage seeks to represent a woman of the world and a princess. Miss Hayes' frocks of equal modishness and merit. The rest of the costumes picturesquely Russian and modern European.

A large and enthusiastic audience, every member of whom listened to Marie Lohr and her company with delight. At the end of the fourth act Miss Lohr was presented with a splendid bunch of yellow mums by the London Drama League.

"Fedora" will be repeated this evening.

VARSITY CORPS TO REORGANIZE

Enthusiasm Marked Meeting of Faculty and Students Last Night

DECIDE ON UNIFORMS

Western "U" Furnished Over 400 Officers During War

Steps towards reorganization of the Western University C.O.T.C., which during the war furnished over 400 officers for the British and Canadian armies, were last night initiated by the military committee of the Western University faculty at the St. James street annex. Marked enthusiasm was shown both by faculty and student representatives towards reorganization of the unit, and it was determined to make the Western corps one of the smartest in Canada.

The result of the meeting was merely the authorization of subcommittees to make a study of the whole question. The department of militia and defense will be asked for the fullest information as to the possibilities of support from that Government department, the proposal that the Western "U" companies be affiliated with the Western Ontario's Regiment's first battalion was also discussed and will be investigated. Another committee will go into the question of organizing a university field battery.

SHELVE KHAKI.

Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Brown, executive secretary of the university, presided, and led in the discussion on the future uniform of the university officers' training corps. The matter will be given careful thought as the uniform selected now will be the standard for many years to come. It is considered improbable that the scarlet coat will be reincarnated, but the war-time khaki will be abandoned for a distinctive uniform of peace-time smartness.

Another meeting of the military committee will be held within a short while, when definite recommendations will be made.

Western University board of governors, that was to have met yesterday, postponed its meeting until Thursday in view of Lady Beck's death and funeral.

M'MASTER WILL STAY IN TORONTO

University Problems Laid Over By Baptist Convention.

OTHER CITIES ASK FOR IT

Hamilton and Woodstock Both Want McMaster.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter)—As far as the Ontario-Quebec Baptist convention is concerned McMaster University will remain in Toronto, at least for the time being, but investigation of the possibilities for locating elsewhere will be made and referred to next year's gathering, unless it should be necessary to call a special session at an earlier date to finally settle the matter. This was the decision reached this afternoon after several delegations had been heard from Woodstock and Hamilton, urging that if a change is to be made that the university be located at either of these places. A resolution offered by W. W. McMaster, of Hamilton, that a committee meet with a committee from Hamilton, was withdrawn after a lengthy discussion.

The meeting was entirely free from any heated controversy, however, and the entire convention appeared to be quite satisfied with the decision. It is not likely as a result of the decision any action will be taken this year.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers was, perhaps, the feature of the late afternoon gathering. A. L. McCrimmon, chancellor of McMaster, was named president for the ensuing year, and S. J. Moore, retiring president, was named vice-president owing to his great work in the past. This was declared by several speakers to be somewhat of a precedent, but quite in accord with the wishes of the entire gathering. Mr. Moore was loudly applauded when he accepted the office. Rev. Dr. Graham, of Toronto, was named second vice-president, and Rev. C. E. McLeod was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

No reference has as yet been made to the Jarvis Street Baptist Church matter, and it is said to be quite likely that it will not be brought before the convention owing to a desire to refrain as much as possible from unnecessary controversy.

A TENSE MOMENT.

A tense moment occurred this afternoon, however, when, in discussing the adoption of the report of Chancellor McCrimmon, of McMaster, Rev. Dr. T T. Shields, the pastor of that church who was the center of a heated controversy some time ago, objected to the clause referring to the senate dealing with a million dollar expenditure for educational purposes. He did not think that the convention should let this important matter go entirely into the hands of the McMaster board. There were cries of "question," and Dr. Shields' objection was not taken up by anyone else, and although he offered to move an amendment there was no seconder. When the motion was put the entire convention voted in favor of its adoption.

TELLS OF FAR EAST

STRATHROY, Oct. 19.—The Princess Mary Chapter, I. O. D. E., held a social yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. T. N. Dunn, Kittredge avenue, yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. George Sulman, wife of George Sulman, ex-M.P., Chatham, gave a talk on her travels in the Far East, much to the delight of the large number present. Mrs. Sulman has just returned from a two-years' tour and had many interesting tales to tell of the Far East. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Sulman is at present visiting at the home of her brother and sister, William G. and Miss Jane Meekison, Front street west.

BURGLARS FRIGHTENED

BLENHEIM, Oct. 19.—Burglars tried to gain entrance into McPherson's garage and Fellows' electrical store, but were frightened away by Albert Brundritt, an employee at Fellows,' who dropped into the store on his way home from a Masonic meeting. Beyond the breaking of a window at each place no damage was done. This is the first attempt of the kind that has occurred in town for a long time.

WENIGE CHARGES ANGER LABOR MEN

Alderman's Complaints Come Before T. and L. Council

RESULT WILL BE WATCHED

New Plan to Recover Gas Service Charge Discussed

Charges laid by Ald. George Wenige against the engineer's department received a cool reception by labor men at a meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night. Referring to the charges, J. F. Thomson said: "We recognize that there are two objects in the charges. One is to fix the minimum wage at a rate less than it is at the present and the other is to do away with day labor and let work by contract."

"I think that Mr. Wenige is making his final bow to the public of London as an alderman," said Delegate Hessell. "I watched the men who worked in the sewers in East London last year and you could tell that some of them never used a shovel before, but they were trying to get a living and the City Council was trying to assist them by providing them with work," said Delegate John Colbert. "I think it ill becomes any alderman in the city to make such remarks. Men who are trying to make a living are not bums and loafers. It would make your heart ache to see these men at work," he added.

THE ONE-ARMED MAN.

"The one-armed man referred to in the charges is a resident of West London and is honestly trying to make a living by waiting on the other laborers," said William Tite. "He is a ratepayer and has the right to be employed on public works. He does a fair day's work, considering how he is handicapped," added Mr. Tite.

"I am willing to tell Ald. Wenige that there were no bums or loafers on the job last winter," said Fred Young. "Ald. Wenige has made a sad mistake."

"I know men who should have been in hospitals and sanatoriums who worked three days a week on public works in order to make a living," said J. F. Thomson.

ON THE ALERT.

Members of No. 1 committee of the council were instructed to be alert regarding further developments in the charges against the engineer's department.

Delegate Hessell reported that members of the special committee visited No. 2 committee of the Board of Education and found that the secretary was unable to find trace of the supposed fair wage clause said to have been adopted in 1913-14.

Trustee Eggett said he consulted with the secretary and he told him he could not find the supposed clause. Mr. Eggett added that it appears as if there is something radically wrong and said that he will go through the minutes when he gets time to see if he can locate the supposed fair wage clause.

The committee of the Board of Education will consider the fair wage clause inserted in the civic contracts at the next meeting. The Trades and Labor committee was instructed to follow up their investigation and see if it is not possible to have a fair wage clause adopted. E. R. Dennis and Dr. Shaw, former members of the Board of Education, will be invited to meet the special committee of labor men and try and determine if a motion was ever adopted to insert the fair wage clause in contracts let by the board.

WANT WORK PROVIDED.

It was reported that the local delegates have forwarded a recommendation to Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works, asking that contracts for the provincial highways be let this fall so as to provide work during the winter months.

The labor delegates protested against the London & Port Stanley Railway having in its employ a man serving in the capacity of a conductor and also a detective. A committee was appointed to meet the members of the London Railway Commission and discuss this subject.

John Colbert brought the matter to the attention of the delegates, and said: "We have had similar happenings on our own road where men have been paid to bust up our organization."

Organizers Sangster, Woodward and Kennedy gave brief addresses.

GAS CASE CONSIDERED.

Delegates adopted a resolution petitioning the Legislature of Ontario to amend the law so that money illegally collected shall be recoverable through the law courts, and that the amendment be retroactive to July 1, 1920.

After discussing the decision handed down by Judge Judd, in which he gave judgment against Ald. George Wenige, in the attempt to recover funds collected by the City Gas Company during the months the readiness-to-serve charge was effective, the Council members decided to take the action described above.

It was pointed out by the trade unionists that through the action taken by George Murphy before the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board, a decision was handed down stating that the readiness-to-serve charge was illegal and an injunction was granted against the City Gas Company, but that, according to law, it was impossible to recover the funds collected.

William Tite proposed the motion, in which he requested that copies be sent to H. A. Stevenson, M. P. P. for London; Hon. E. C. Drury and Hon. W. E. Raney, asking their hearty co-operation.

HEAD INJURED IN FALL.

URGE SUPPORT OF CANADIAN GOODS

Retiring W. C. T. U. President Appeals For Greater Thrift.

REDUCE SIZE OF "PERS."

Private Stocks Greatest Menace To Prohibition Enforcement.

The presidential address and conferences on moral education and girls' work occupied the delegates to the provincial W. C. T. U. convention at yesterday afternoon's meeting, which concluded the second day of important deliberation.

Mrs. Hattie Stevens, presiding officer for the past nine years, yesterday announced her decision to retire from this office during the course of her presidential address in which she sounded a strong appeal for increased thrift, particularly among the women of Canada, declaring that national bankruptcy awaited the country if the spending of such vast sums in the United States was continued.

"We must draw the reins tighter around American-made goods," Mrs. Stevens said. "We have not done our full duty yet with regard to the support of Canadian-made goods and produce."

A denunciation of the nicotine habit and a comprehensive resume of the growth of the world's temperance were included in the president's stirring address, which was greeted on its conclusion with rounds of applause from the hundreds of delegates present. Tribute was paid to the retiring president by the Dominion president, Mrs. Gordon Wright, of this city, and many others, and a specially pleasing attention was the presentation of a magnificent bouquet by Mrs. Hunter Hubert Ashplant as a gift from the London union.

PRESCRIPTIONS TOO BIG.

A resolution, indorsing the stand of the physicians of Canada in asking that liquor prescriptions be limited to 16 ounces instead of the 40 now allowed, will probably be brought in at to-day's session, which will include the report of the resolutions committee as one of its closing items. Last night's session was given over entirely to committee work, and, although findings of the resolution committee have not yet been made public, it is believed that their report will contain this and similar timely recommendations.

The plan of the work committee will also report to-day, covering the suggestions received for various departmental improvements.

The delegates heard some interesting discussions at yesterday afternoon's session, including a conference led by Dr. Ellen Burt-Sherratt, of Toronto, on moral education and mothers' meetings.

FAIRY STORIES.

"It is very wrong to tell your children any fairy stories about the origin of life," Dr. Sherratt said. "The child knows when mother is telling an untruth more readily than she may suppose."

"What about Santa Claus?" Dr. Sherratt was asked.

"Let me answer that," Mrs. Pugsley requested. "Santa Claus comes to my own home every year, all dressed up. If you make your children too prosaic you kill their individuality. Teach them the difference between truth and falsehood, but let them develop their imagination."

"Some of the best tributes I have had in my work has been given me by the young married folks," Dr. Sherratt said in concluding her address. "I am always most sorry for the young boys; they are so ignorant of life."

The report of the White Ribbon Tidings, the official organ of the Ontario board, was presented by the editor, Mrs. McAllester, of Exeter, and by Mrs. May R. Thornley and Mrs. Kelly, of this city. Mrs. McAllester deplored what she called the "Alexander the Great" attitude of many of the unions in looking for more worlds to conquer before they had finished conquering one.

PLENTY TO DO.

"We are not a prohibition Dominion yet," she said. "Don't let us take down our scaffolding before our building is finished."

"We have the vote now, and we are all 21 or near it," Mrs. McAllester said, amid laughter. "We must make sure that we deposit our vote for the honest Christian candidate and let us make sure that he is strong for prohibition."

A conference on girls' work was led in turn by Mrs. Timmins, of Toronto; Mrs. Nettleship, of St. Catharines, and Mrs. Harrison, of London.

The "School of Methods" report was presented by Mrs. William Pugsley. The suggestion of a provincial organizer for new unions and a committee of seven or eight members to assist in maintaining the unions already existing was embodied in the report.

A Very Generous Jew

Some people are very thrifty indeed. Mr. Cohn was talking to Mr. Rubenstein, when little Ikey ran up and said: "Papa, give me some money." So Cohn said: "Sure, Ikey," and handed him a quarter, to the amazement of his friend, who said: "My gracious, do you give those kids money as easy as that?" "Sure thing I do. I give him a quarter twice a week to put in the gas meter. He thinks it is a bank."

But real thrift is in buying perfect blue-white diamonds from John A. Nash, "My Jeweler," 182 Dundas street, "Where you will eventually buy." —Advt.

HERO FOR A DAY WAS GLORIOUSLY DRUNK

WINDSOR, Oct. 19.—Felix Desjerleis, 20 years old, 509 Marentette avenue, who made himself a hero on Sunday by his story about being held up and robbed, has confessed to Daniel Thompson, chief of police, that his only adventure was being gloriously drunk.

With a party of friends he visited other friends in Sandwich and Windsor who had plenty of liquor, he said. The drinking bout grew rough, explaining the cuts on his shoulder. When it came time to go home Desjerleis realized he was a sad spectacle to appear before his parents, and so he told the police the hold-up story.

BRIAND TELLS CHAMBER HE WOULD LIKE TO GO TO WASHINGTON PARLEY

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The Opposition in the Chamber of Deputies to-day seized upon the proposed Washington trip of Premier Briand as a basis of attack in the debate on the interpellation, which was resumed to-day, drawing from the premier a declaration that he thought France must be represented there and ought to be represented by the president of the council.

"If Mr. Lloyd George goes," he said, replying to a question, "it will be a pleasure for me to meet him in Washington; but if circumstances should prevent him from going, I do not understand why we should preoccupy ourselves with the fact in this debate. If he does not go it will be because of certain impossibilities. But here you have to do with me, and I consider that it is in the interest of France that I go.

"It is possible that Parliament may raise obstacles to that interpretation; it is for it to say whether I go to Washington or not."

The leaders of the Opposition are very active in canvassing the Chamber as the debate proceeds, indicating that this is to be the most determined assault yet made against the Cabinet. Official circles, nevertheless, are optimistic and count upon an ample majority to give the premier the necessary prestige to go to Washington.

Stalwarts Heartily Uphold Ideals of Meighen Government.

ALVINSTON, Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Joseph E. Armstrong, who for a number of years has represented East Lambton in the Federal House, was unanimously chosen at National Liberal and Conservative standard-bearer in the coming election at a rousing convention held here this afternoon. Despite disagreeable weather and bad roads the hall was packed to the doors and the convention representative of every section of the riding gave the candidate an enthusiastic reception. The meeting was marked by the large number of women delegates, who occupied the center of the hall.

The president of the East Lambton National Liberal and Conservative party, W. R. Dawson, of Inwood, was the only other man proposed. As soon as the nominations had closed Mr. Dawson withdrew his name and moved that the choice be made unanimous. When the motion was put the hall shook with the applause and cheers.

CREDIT TO LAMBTON.

"The man whom you have chosen as your candidate has been a credit to the riding of East Lambton," declared Mr. Dawson. I have been a resident in the constituency for years and I cannot remember a man who has done so much for East Lambton as Mr. Joseph Armstrong. If we get together now, shoulder to shoulder, we can re-elect him. This is the best convention ever held in East Lambton."

At the conclusion of the meeting a resolution of the unanimous approval of the prime minister and the platform of the National Liberal and Conservative party was passed on motion of R. G. R. Mackenzie, of Petrolea, and Donald McLarty, of Dresden. This was followed by three cheers and a tiger for the premier and three cheers for the candidate, Joseph E. Armstrong.

When the candidate arose to speak he was afforded an enthusiastic reception. In his opening remarks he expressed his appreciation of the honor that had been extended him and declared that he was deeply touched with the reception that he had received.

HAS DONE HIS DUTY.

"During the number of years that I have had the honor to represent East Lambton," Mr. Armstrong stated, "I have tried to be of service to the people of the riding, and while I may not have pleased everybody, in fact I know I haven't, I have done my duty and supported measures that I believed were in the best interests of my people and the whole of the Dominion of Canada. I have never attempted to represent one class or industry and I can't do that if you send me to Ottawa again. I hope that as long as I have the honor to represent you that I will never bring the blush of shame to the face of anyone in East Lambton."

There was hearty applause when Mr. Armstrong expressed himself as confident of the result if only the organization put forth its very best efforts.

"While there is a Farmers' party, I claim to have represented this district to the full," declared the late member. There were cries of "hear, hear," from all parts of the hall. "I believe that I have had some little success," he proceeded, "in bringing about legislation that has been greatly to their benefit. I am not opposed, however, to the farmers having a candidate, but I am opposed to a representative who would represent that calling and that calling alone."

REFERS TO TARIFF.

Mr. Armstrong then touched briefly on the tariff issue as it effected the riding of East Lambton. He stated that there were some 21 important industries in the district, and with this the case he wanted to know how any member could go to Ottawa to represent the farmers only which was the policy of the United Farmers. He pointed to several industries which were protected to an extent which permitted them to carry on their business free from unfair foreign competition. He asked the convention if they wanted to see these industries, several of which were using raw material from the farms, including sawmills and canning factories, wiped out. Mr. Armstrong declared that Mr. R. W. Fancher, the United Farmer candidate, must take the stand that the platform of the Progressives was wrong or he was humbugging the people.

As an example of the havoc which the tariff policy of the Progressives was likely to play with the farmers Mr. Armstrong pointed to the sugar beet industry in East Lambton. He pointed out that, although the platform of the Farmers called for the removal of the tariff from foodstuffs, that some of the men who attended the U. F. O. convention were among those who attended before the tariff commission when it sat in London, and asked that the duty on sugar be increased, and yet they were supporting a platform which meant the wiping out of this industry.

In regard to the platform of the National Liberal and Conservative party, the late member stated that the party had placed a definite platform before the people. It was accepted when Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was chosen as leader of the party. Among the members of the party had been 35 former Liberals, and of these 25 were standing firmly behind the Government. Despite rambling charges of corruption and exeravagant expenditure, opponents had as yet failed to lay their finger on one definite charge.

Hearty applause greeted the statement of Mr. Armstrong that when the history of the war years was written that the people of Canada would appreciate the splendid efforts of Sir Robert Borden and his followers.

The speaker expressed the conviction that one of the main reasons that Canada occupied so prominent a place among the nations of the world was due to the splendid work done on the battlefields by the noble sons of Canada.

Rev. J. H. Woods, of Petrolea, discussed the issues before the people of Canada at the coming election somewhat briefly. He declared, in opening, that the convention had chosen as their candidate a man in whom they had the utmost confidence. The coming fight would be a hard one, but simply because of conditions arising from the war.

WHAT IS HE?

"He is neither flesh, fowl nor good salt pork" declared the speaker in referring to Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. He admitted, however, that he was sympathetic to the farmers because he was a farmer himself. During the war the farmers had had to meet the demand for greater production, and now that they had come to reduced prices they believed that there was something wrong. The speaker pointed out, however, that always in such cases the reaction reflected back to the consumer first. He claimed that conditions were not due to the protective tariff.

Mr. Woods referred to an editorial which appeared in the Toronto Globe, in which reference was made to the growth of Brantford from 1900 to 1910 under the Liberal regime, as compared with its progress since that time. He pointed out that there was reason for this, and it went to show the value of the protective tariff. He declared that under the Liberal regime the protective tariff was higher than at the present time.

"We want to develop this country ourselves," declared Mr. Woods. "We don't want it developed by another country, which is what would happen under free trade."

The speaker made a plea for thoughtful consideration of the problems of the day. He demanded of the convention that they get behind their candidates to win the coming election.

MRS. ARMSTRONG SPEAKS.

The wife of the National Liberal and Conservative candidate was called upon to address the meeting, particularly the women. Mrs. Armstrong showed a surprising knowledge of the issues of the day, and gave a most interesting address. She stated in her opening remarks that it was the first political meeting that she had ever attended.

Mrs. Armstrong told the ladies now that they had been accorded the same electoral rights as the men that they must do many things that they had never done before. With the right to vote there came duties and responsibilities. Among these responsibilities was that of seeing that every woman's name was on the voters' list and that every woman turned out to vote.

"The women of Canada must begin to think on the issues of the day," Mrs. Armstrong declared. "Many of us may not know anything about the tariff, but most of us know something about money questions.

"We in Canada had a great big debt and we must raise each year some $400,000,000 to carry on the business of the country, and the only way to get this money is through taxes, customs and inland revenue receipts. Mr. Crerar has an idea that it would be nice and friendly to trade with the United States. The removal of the tariff would reduce the revenue of the country by some $175,000,000. In the case of Mr. King he favors a substantial reduction, which would also mean a substantial reduction in that $175,000,000."

In contrast to the policy advocated by A. T. Crerar Mrs. Armstrong stated that, as far as she knew, there were no countries in the world which were contemplating a reduction in tariff. The United States had raised the wall through the Fordney bill and Great Britain was no longer a free trade country, having recently placed duties on a good many imports.

MAJOR WOODROW.

Major Woodrow, of Petrolea, expressed the opinion that one of the most important questions before the people of Canada at the present time was that of employment. It would be disastrous to make Canada an open shop when thousands of her workers were at present unemployed. It was a bad time to experiment. He declared that free trade would not only throw the doors open to the United States, but to other foreign countries, such as Germany and Japan, with their cheap labor, and, in the case of the former, a greatly depreciated currency. Turkey was the only country at the present time which had free trade and he did not think that Canada wanted to follow the example of Turkey.

"When King, a man only about 40 years of age, was wanted by his country, did he volunteer to go and fight?" asked Major Woodrow. "No, he slipped off to the United States and got a cushy job. He came back again, only to fight against conscription. Now here he is trying to get in as premier. Is that the kind of a man we want for premier?"

There were cries of No, no!"

OFFICERS CHOSEN.

The early part of the meeting was devoted to the election of officers and executive of the East Lambton organization. All of the old officers and practically all of the executive was returned. The officers and executive are as follows: President, W. R. Dawson, Inwood; first vice-president, D. R. McCahill, Forest; second vice-president, Mrs. Thomas Allison, Alvinston; secretary, W. E. Fitzgerald, Watford; treasurer, Dr. James Newall, Watford; auditors, W. B. Willoughby, Brook Township, and T. B. Taylor, Watford. Executive: Sanford Lucas, Alvinston; Hugh Russell, Bosanquet Township; Herbert Darvell, Brook Township; Fred Jennings, Thedford; James Beattie, Euphemia Township; Howard Fraleigh, Forest; David Hay and Charles Hawkins, Warwick Township; Dr. John McGillicuddy, Watford; B. J. Warren, Enniskillen Township; John H. Anderson, Oil Springs; George Carey, Petrolea; John Vance, Thamesville; Donald McLarty, Dresden; W. S. Beamish, Bothwell; Harry McDowell, Zone Township; Taylor Vance, Camden Township.

MOTOR DRIVE FOR WOMEN.—Ladies in attendance at the provincial convention of the W. C. T. U., now meeting in London, will be entertained to a motor drive about the city to-morrow afternoon. The arrangement for the supply of the cars is in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce and the Motor League and it is requested by representatives of those organizations that car owners who are willing to place their cars at the disposal of the ladies for a time on Thursday afternoon should communicate their intention to the Chamber of Commerce or the Motor Club.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica, backache or rheumatism so promptly. It never disappoints.—Advt.

RESTORE PEACE, REVIVE TRADE

Lloyd George Says Good Understanding Vital

GET AWAY FROM FROWNS

Wants to See Nations at Tasks of Peace

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Following closely upon the British Government's announced determination to aid in solving the unemployment situation by the extension of extraordinary large credits and the declaration that no Briton is to starve, David Lloyd Lloyd George, the prime minister, delivered a notable address in Parliament to-day, in the course of which he made the following striking declaration:

"Peace and a good understanding among nations is vital. Let us get out of the atmosphere where, if you talk about a German without a frown on your brow, you are no patriot. Trade cannot start in such an atmosphere. If Britain will not do it, who will? We stand for stability. We want to see the nations begin again the tasks of peace."

SUFFERING FROM WAR

The entire speech of the prime minister was a plea that the country is suffering from the results of the war and a declaration that restoration rests upon the revival of industry and the rehabilitation of the purchasing power abroad and that a revival in trade depends largely upon the bringing about of a good understanding among nations.

Mr. Lloyd George spiritedly justified the steps the Government had already taken to meet the unemployment problem. He contended that the British plan of imposing heavy taxation was much better than the means adopted by some countries of creating an artificial credit and producing a feverish boom to be speedily followed by serious reaction.

The prime minister said the Government proposed conditionally to guarantee interest on loans aggregating 25 million pounds for use in capital undertakings, providing employment, of for the purchase of material for manufacturers and laso to allocate 1 million pounds for the assistance of relief work, and later the establishment of a fund for workers' dependents.

"REMOVE DUTIES ON FOODSTUFFS AND RAW MATERIAL AND YOU WILL DEAL DEATH BLOW TO INDUSTRIES"

Crerar's Tariff Policy Scathingly Exposed by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen at Clinton

ANSWERS CHARGE THAT HE CALLED FARMERS NAMES

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Condemns Platforms of Crerar and King; Candidate Speaks

CLINTON, Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Keen attention and unusual responsiveness on the part of an audience of 2,000 at the skating rink here this afternoon inspired Premier Meighen in a particularly effective presentation of the Government's policy, with special reference to the tariff. Not much given to comedy in his addresses, the prime minister nevertheless rocked the house with laughter by satirical analysis of Mackenzie King's platform of 1919 and the vague interpretation of it to-day.

"Mr. King says that the letter killeth, but the spirit maketh alive. I know what the letter is when the platform promises free implements," said the premier, "but I don't know what the spirit is. Does anybody else?"

Nor was the agrarian leader spared. "Mr. Crerar," he said, "is forgetting one by one the clauses of his platform and getting back to the old humbug about mergers and big interests that every man uses when he has not the courage to come out and make definite charges. Mr. Crerar of late has forgotten all about that tax on the unimproved land values, but I will tell you you will have a tax on land all right if he gets into power and does what he says he will do with the tariff."

OTHER SPEAKERS

The premier was accompanied by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who dealt ably with the Government's record and with the fiscal issue. J. J. Merner, late member and present candidate in South Huron, and George Spotton, candidate in the north riding, also delivered brief addresses and were each given a fine tribute of applause. Charles G. Middleton, of Clinton, president of the newly-organized South Huron Association, presided, and among those noticed on the platform were ex-Warden W. R. Elliott, of Stephen; Mr. and Mrs. William Consitt, of Hillsgreen; David Cantelon, Rev. D. N. McCamus, Rev. S. Anderson, John Ransford, Dr. Thomson, all of Clinton; County Clerk Holman, of Goderich; Rev. Mr. Holloway and two Clinton veterans, Mr. Churchill and David Beacom, the latter aged nearly 95.

A curious feature of the meeting was a couple of interpollations from the audience, one directed to Mr. Guthrie and the other to the premier. Both interruptions came from Robert McMillan, brother of the Liberal candidate in South Huron and himself one of those proposed as candidate at the United Farmers' convention, but their nature was such as to emphasize the point which the speaker in each case was making at the time.

NO ANSWER NEEDED.

"Why don't the farmers pay more income tax?" was a query the premier naturally did not deem it necessary to answer in detail, as it was in accord with what he was saying.

"Why does the International Harvester Company manufacture in this country?" Mr. Guthrie was asking, and the reply from the audience was: "Because they are protected."

"Right," returned Mr. Guthrie, "and if it were not for the tariff they would manufacture right back on the other side."

Mr. Spotton had run across the statement somewhere that the premier had described the Farmers' party as Bolshevists, and Mr. Meighen took time to deal with that.

ANSWERS FALSE CHARGE.

"This is the first time in my life that I have referred to the subject on a public platform," he said. "I do not always resent imputations which indicate I am wrong on public matters, but I do not particularly care for imputations that paint me as well as an idiot. Though that word has been circulated through the press, and though I suppose men like Mr. Morrison, whom I do not know, and others are circulating it, still I only once saw that statement authorized by a responsible man, by a member of the Government of this province. In a Toronto paper about a week ago an interview appeared with a member of the Drury Government in which he referred to a statement of mine, describing the farmers of Canada, or the Farmers' party, as Bolshevists. I immediately wrote him and told him that was the first occasion I had seen a responsible minister get behind the statement and asked him to be good enough to tell me when I had made such an assertion and his authority for attributing it to me. I asked him to be good enough even to take any newspaper as authority for the statement. I cannot read you his reply, because I just observed this morning that he marked it confidential, but I received a reply from him in which he denied ever making the assertion, and in which he said he knew I would not make such an assertion as that. (Applause.)

NO SUCH STATEMENT.

"I wonder if there is anyone who thinks that a man brought up as I have been or anybody outside a lunatic asylum would give utterance to such a statement. Every statement I have made has been to the contrary. If there is one class the antithesis of Bolshevism it is the farmers of this country, who own and till the land, and that I stated on the very occasion to which these reckless newspapers referred. I stated, in describing the strength of the political organization they were working up, that, though themselves opposed to those Bolshevistic principles, they had trailing behind them and allied with them men of seditious principles in this country, and that statement was true then and is true to-day. (Applause.)

"Mr. Crerar says we must take the railways out of politics. Does he think the railways are in politics to-day? I don't. But supposing the appointment of a commission puts them in politics. Mr. Crerar was a member of the Government that took that step—and I think it is a right step.

PROTECTION NEEDED.

"Mr. Crerar says he does not want free trade right away. The tariff is bad, commercially and morally wrong, but we must have it for a while. If I thought, as he did, that we could get along without it, I would abolish protection to-morrow, and I think any reasonable man would do the same. The fact of the matter is, that once you take the duty off the essentials, fundamental industries that we must have in Canada if we are to have any industrial system at all, you have to take it off everything, or how could you maintain it? It would be discriminatory and impossible. Remove the duties on foodstuffs and instruments of production and raw material and you deal a death blow to the industrial system of this country that we have built up for the past 40 years. If it does not, you don't want any protection at all.

"As to Mr. King, you will never get him to repudiate his platform any more than to say he will put it into effect. It was made to get the support of the farmers of the West. Mr. King went West and almost got down on his knees to them. He dare not repudiate it or he cannot pull this double game with the Wood-Crerar organization, and that Mr. Crerar would like very much to play with him, and will play, if elected, unless his followers take him by the neck. I know his political proclivities for 20 years."

A CLASS ORGANIZATION.

"The Farmers' party to-day," said Hon. Hugh Guthrie, "is a class organization if ever there was one in this country. They do not make many bones about it. It is a movement seeking to obtain power for the farmer because he is a farmer, and legislation useful to him as a class, disregarding the interest of the remainder of the country, that is the class principle upon which it is based, and no movement in this country based upon such narrow and insecure ground is ever going to be a political success.

"In view of the tariff planks in their respective platforms, is it strange that you find Mr. King, on the one hand, and Mr. Crerar on the other trying to persuade the electors that the tariff in this election is only a minor issue and should be kept in the background.

"There was no great outcry about the duty on agricultural implements in the time of Mr. Fielding, and the duty is far lower now. Don't permit yourself to be drawn aside by wild stories of Government extravagance. They never made them in the House of Commons. They make them now on the stump and cannot back them up." (Applause).

CANDIDATE SPEAKS

The chairman introduced Mr. Spotton as "the man who is going to carry North Huron."

"I don't know how it is in South Huron," said the candidate, "but in North Huron my returning officer is president of a U. F. O. club, and presidents of several other U. F. O. clubs are among my strongest supporters. They joined the clubs for business purposes, and if I were a farmer I would join it, too. They joined it for business purposes as I would join a board of trade, but they say: 'We have joined many other societies and this is the only one which asks us to lay outside the door of the clubroom our intelligence and to vote blindly as political slaves. We are going to vote as we see fit. When we cannot stay for business purposes we will get out."

Mr. Merner referred to the premier as "the biggest man Canada ever produced" and one who was born and raised just across the county line.

"It is time of reconstruction," he said, "and we must have a man at the head of our affairs who is familiar with the workings of Parliament, and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen is a man who has proved himself to be a valuable man for us. The other two leaders have not been tried and I am afraid we would take a great chance were they put into power."

Referring to the charge that Mr. Meighen had no mandate, Mr. Merner pointed out that Mr. King was defeated in 1911 in Waterloo, in West York in 1917 and but for an acclamation later would never have reached Parliament at all

MAKE IT SAFE FOR LLOYD GEORGE TO GO

Sinn Feiners Want to Know Before He Leaves If It Is "Peace or War."

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Premier Lloyd George's decision to go to the Washington armament conference is having its effect on the progress of the conference with Sinn Fein leaders, which has been in progress here for the last week endeavoring to solve the Irish question.

Government circles to-day expressed belief in the plan whereby the various points, particularly the conditions named in Mr. Lloyd George's Dominion home rule proposal, are to be referred to subcommittees, making it quite safe for him to proceed to the United States

On the other hand the Sinn Fein leaders are believed to be determined to ascertain before his departure whether it is to be "peace or war." Some of them say that none of the critical points have been touched thus far, which fact, they claim, accounts for the smoothness of the sessions to date, and they object to these points being kept in the background indefinitely.

No date has yet been fixed for the next meeting of the Irish conference

PURVIS WILL RUN

WALKERTON, Oct. 19.—(Special to The Free Press.)—John Purvis, of Holyrood, offered the nomination of the National Liberal and Conservative party in South Bruce a week ago at the convention here, has accepted and will be a candidate. At the convention he asked time to decide, but assurances of support were so numerous that he was not long in making up his mind. He will be opposing J. W. Findley, United Farmer, and R. E. Truax, Liberal. Chances of success for the Government candidate are considered good.

BOURASSA UNCERTAIN WHETHER HE WILL RUN

MONTREAL, Oct. 19. — Interviewed by the Canadian Press to-night prior to his speech at the Monument National, Henri Bourassa, the well-known Nationalist, stated that he was still in the hands of his physicians, and could make no definite announcement as to the probability or otherwise of his candidature as an Independent Liberal in LaBelle County in the forthcoming federal elections.

Mr. Bourassa expressed no doubt as to his success if he decided to present himself before the electors of the county.

PREMIER AT GODERICH HOLDS CROWD OF 3,000 IN RAPT ATTENTION

GODERICH, Oct. 19.—(By Staff and Canadian Press Reporters.)—The man who can hold the rapt attention of an audience of 3,000 for better than an hour and a half, stir them to applause and incite to laughter on such a subject as the principle of tariff protection and the fiscal issues of his opponents may well be called a genius, and that man is Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

At the skating rink to-night the premier delivered his second address of the day, having spoken to another large audience in Clinton this afternoon. This town is on the edge of North Huron, and there were many from Goderich Township, in the south riding. The premier was supported by George Spotton and J. J. Merner, candidates in these constituencies, and by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, who made a splendid impression, speaking chiefly on the tariff.

GETS ENGROSSED ADDRESS.

A civic address, engrossed on a scroll, was presented by Mayor Wigle on behalf of the Council, and another, conveyed by President Peter W. Scott, of the North Huron National Liberal and Conservative Association, expressed full support in the premier's policies.

Mr. Meighen, who was in fine speaking form, was given a tremendous and enthusiastic reception. He again directed his attention to the manifesto recently issued by Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, in the course of a speech which he delivered to about 3,000 persons in the rink here to-night. Mr. Crerar's manifesto was "a wearisome story of "sententious peurility," said the premier. It leveled vague charges at the administration which were unsupported by facts.

He also charged the Progressive party with spending five dollars to every one spent by the Government in the last eight years on propaganda, "and this money," he continued, "was paid out of the profits of grain concerns made from handling the grain of the farmers."

MR. McEWAN PRESIDES.

Hon. J. A. McEwan, of Goderich, secretary of the North Huron Liberal-Conservative Association, acted as chairman. He referred to the fact that women now had the vote, and advised them to study questions of political importance in order to cast their votes wisely. He welcomed Premier Meighen, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, J. J. Merner, candidate in South Huron, and George Spotton, of Wingham, candidate in the constituency of North Huron.

Mr. Merner was the first speaker. He charged the Liberals with preaching one thing when out of power and practicing another when once they had been secured.

Mr. Spotton said that the Government had made more enemies by passing and enforcing the Drury Act than any other way. He did not say that the United Farmers of Ontario was born in the cradle of conscription, but declared that the membership of that organization had doubled and trebled in the years following the passage of the bill. In Quebec the solid bloc was fighting the Government on an anti-conscription program.

"Mr. Crerar charges that we are getting great campaign funds from big interests," said the premier. "Well, it is about time this Government spent some money on propaganda. Let me tell Mr. Crerar that his party has spent $5 to every $1 spent by the Government in the last eight years on propaganda, and this money was paid out of the profits of grain concerns made from handling the grain of the farmers."

Both the Mackenzie King and the Wood-Crerar party were down in black and white on tariff matters. Their policies meant the destruction of the protective system in Canada. If there was a country in the world to which protection was vital that country was Canada.

The premier said that the bitter experience of two years under a free trade policy would convince those who were at resent unconvinced that a protective policy was essential to Canada. Arrangements with the United States he was opposed to. Reciprocity agreements with that country were likely to be thrown to the winds if the United States found them unsatisfactory. The proper course for Canada was to determine her tariff from year to year and get into no entanglements with our greatest competitor to the south.

MR. GUTHRIE.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie expressed the opinion that the great majority of Liberals who supported the Government during the war would be equally ready to support Mr. Meighen now. He referred to the formation of the Meighen Government, which had come into being following the resignation of Sir Robert Borden, and stated that Mr. Meighen had been the unanimous choice of his party.

Referring to the tariff, Mr. Guthrie charged that the Liberals had deliberately framed their platform to try and draw the Farmers' party into the Liberal fold. Both Mr. King and Mr. Crerar were now trying to repudiate their platforms. The latter brushed aside his when he came to Ontario because he realized that it was unpopular. There were 1,255 flour mills now operating in Canada, said Mr. Guthrie. Make flour free and you would deal a severe blow to this industry. The same was true of the canning industry.

THE FISCAL ISSUE.

Premier Meighen said that the fiscal issue was before the people of Canada because it was important that it be decided now. Mr. Crerar was now saying that the Government was stressing the tariff issue in order to cover up its sins and iniquities, but Mr. Crerar was a member of the Government for two years. Mr. Crerar charged the Government with being in league with "big business," but pointed to no specific act. The leader of the Progressives had resigned on the tariff issue, which he was now running away from.

"What have they been doing in Western Canada? What is the reason that organization exists to-day as it does? Political literature scattered broadcast through that country and paid for out of the proceeds of grain concerns made out of grain purchased by the farmers. (Applause.) The Government of this country has maintained no party organizations. We could not through the war and would not have been doing our duty if we had. All this information about a big fund is news to me, but I think if the business community have at heart the welfare of this Dominion, and if you people have at heart welfare of this Dominion you will assist us to do the very work Mr. Crerar is afraid we are going to do.

A WEARISOME TALE.

"Take Mr. Crerar's manifesto home and read it" he urged, "as wearisome a story of sententious peurility as you ever heard."

"What is this railway question. I don't know. Where does Mr. Crerar stand, that is different from where I stand? Have we taken the wrong solution? We took the railways out of politics when he was in the Government. In a last ghastly effort to show what the conclusion of the whole matter is, he says, 'Something must be done.' (Laughter.) What does he want that we are not doing? You will never find it in his manifesto or any speech that he has made yet. We have a serious railway problem. But I stand here to say that the railway question of this country is well on the way to final solution. (Applause.) There has not been a year that the Government of this Dominion has not been confronted with a serious railway crisis. Who is the parent of the railway trouble of to-day, the government that Mr. Crerar supported. The course we have taken in acquiring the railways avoided disastrous liquidation which Sir Wilfred Laurier stood in his place over and over again and declared should never take place. All the roads are giving service creditable to this country and believe, if politics are continued to be kept out, they will eventually prove a paying investment.

STARTS ON KING.

So much for Mr. Crerar. Of the Mackenzie King Liberals the premier had this to say:

"Here we have a party pledged by every command of honor to do certain definite things—to put foodstuffs and implements of production and cement and dressed lumber on the free list. I ask you Liberals are you going to vote for him because now he would like you to believe by his Ontario speeches that he is going to break his pledge and dishonor his undertaking; that he is going to commit as black a political infamy as any country ever knew? Are you going to vote to put a premium on political dishonesty in high places? Write Mr. King and ask him if he intends to carry out this platform or not. Ask him when he comes to Goderich if he honors this town with his presence. His appeal is: 'If you like my platform, vote for it, and if you don't like it vote for me, because it is not likely I will carry it out. Have confidence in my duplicity. Otherwise let him come out frankly and repudiate the platform and tell us he is not on it and what he is on and we will debate that."

THOSE ON THE PLATFORM.

Among those on the flag-decorated platform with the speakers were: Col. Hugh Clark, North Bruce; Councillors Cutt, Storey, Davis, Mitchell and Mosier, Dr. A. H. Macklin, Dr. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Hays, Mrs. Elizabeth Carrie, ex-Mayor Murray, Dr. J. B. Whitely, Rev. J. E. Ford, William Campbell, B. C. Munnings, Rev. H. D. Moyer, Rev. F. Reycraft, Mrs. Joseph Elliott, R. H. Revell, G. W. Holman, J. P. Hume and Canon Hill. The audience included an unusually large proportion of ladies, from one-third to one-half. The Blackstone orchestra played before the meeting began and led the National Anthem.

Goderich Brass Band and a large number of citizens in motors accompanied the premier from the Grand Trunk station to the rink.

DUNCAN CHOSEN IN NORTH GREY

Owen Sound Merchant to Contest Riding for N.L.C. Party

MIDDLEBRO IS HONORED

Hon. Gideon Robertson Discusses Issues at Convention

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 19.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Matthew Duncan, Owen Sound merchant, was the unanimous choice of the National Liberal and Conservative convention, of North Grey, held in the city hall this afternoon. It was one of the largest and most enhtusiastic meetings of the kind ever held here and was well attended in spite of the fact that it was raining from early morning until after the convention opened. Delegates were present from almost every polling subdivision in the riding and many drove for 40 miles over bad roads to attend.

The chairman was T. W. Thomson, president of the Conservative Association, and he briefly expressed the pleasure he felt at seeing so many out at the meeting.

HONOR MIDDLEBRO

A suspension of the rules to permit of the unanimous nomination of the late member, Mr. W. S. Middlebro, was moved by W. T. Moore, of Meaford, and seconded by C. S. Cameron, of Owen Sound. This was enthusiastically carried. Mr. Middlebro was visibly touched and he expressed himself as deeply satisfied. He gave a short address on the principal issues. He enarged on what had been done for the soldiers by the Government and spoke of the unholy alliance between Labor and Farmers. The tariff was the big issue, and he told of the effect on the cities and towns and also on the farmers if the tariff walls were removed.

Mr. Middlebro spoke of the fine record of the Government, against whom there was not even a suspicion of a charge of misappropriation of money. His withdrawal was purely for personal reasons, but he thanked the convention for its expression of confidence in him. "He is a jolly good fellow" followed three hearty cheers for Mr. Middlebro.

THOSE PROPOSED

Nominations were then called for and the names of the following were placed before the convention: M. Duncan, C. S. Cameron, Dr. Howey, Matthew Kennedy, J. F. Thomson, Robert Ferguson and Mr. Suetsinger. All but Mr. Duncan and Mr. Ferguson withdrew and Mr. Duncan was returned by 274 to 63. The choice was entirely unanimous.

The convention was briefly thanked and Mr. Duncan wanted time to make up his mind, but was prevailed upon to accept at once.

Hon. Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, spoke briefly to the convention on the questions now before the electors. He spoke briefly of the Liberal leader and his policy, but dealt with the policy of Mr. Crerar at some length, as did Mr. Middlebro. He denounced the alliance between Labor and Farmers and dealt particularly with the policy of free trade for Canada.

Senator Robertson met the Labor men in their hall in the evening and spoke to them at some length.

WELLINGTON HAY LIBERAL LEADER

Appointed Pro Tem. to Succeed H. Hartley Dewart

LETTER OF RESIGNATION

Keenly Felt Attacks and More Veiled Disloyalty

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Wellington Hay, member for the North Perth constituency, and Liberal whip, was appointed leader pro tem. of the Liberal forces in Ontario, following the resignation of H. Hartley Dewart, K. C., to-day owing to ill health. The Liberal members of the Legislature met in caucus this afternoon and the resignation of Mr. Dewart was laid before them. The caucus expressed appreciation of the sacrifices of Mr. Dewart for the party, and a committee was appointed to arrange for a suitable recognition thereof.

J. W. Curry, K. C., who left the Liberal "wing" last session, attended the caucus, and, it is understood, will return to the fold now that Mr. Dewart has withdrawn from the leadership.

In his letter of resignation, Mr. Dewart said in part:

"I must confess that I keenly felt the open attacks and the more veiled but equally appreciable disloyalty of others.

"I have almost impoverished myself to try and save the good name of the party, and yet I am daily harassed by financial demands that were not of my making.

WENT THE LIMIT.

"I am not merely referring to members of the House, but to the utter lack of appreciation of their duty by the rank and file of the Liberal party generally.

"It has been constantly urged upon me that I should give the Agrarian outfit a chance. Heaven knows I went the limit. Despite all our criticism and help, the financial condition of the province is in a sad way, which is not due to hydro obligations, but to gross mismanagement, absolute incompetency and extravagance, or worse.

"Now the same outfit wants to try their 'prentice hand on the Dominion. God forbid.

"There should be no alliance or understanding, expressed or implied, between Liberalism and Crerarism. Perhaps it is better that I should drop out until we resume the consideration of provincial issues and leave those to 'soft pedal' who will, reserving my own attitude of independence."

Political Expediency

Several months ago Premier Drury was denouncing Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen in unmeasured tones for the legislation passed last session appointing a board to control the waters of the Lake of the Woods. He described the bill as an invasion of provincial rights and he proposed to fight it to the last ditch. He declared he would rouse the whole of Ontario against Premier Meighen on this all-important issue. But the belligerent Mr. Drury to-day is as meek as Moses on the subject. He appeared at Brampton on Tuesday night and had not a word to say. Can it be that it is because Hon. T. A. Crerar is stumping Ontario at the present time and Mr. Crerar supported this "outrageous" measure? Surely such a lofty moralist would not stoop to such political expedients and "pussyfoot" on this paramount issue? Only the wicked politicians of other parties would adopt such tactics.

Incidentally, if Premier Drury thinks the Meighen Government should be defeated because it passed this legislation, what does he expect from Mr. Crerar? How will Mr. Crerar, if he becomes prime minister, come to his aid? Here, in part, is what Mr. Crerar had to say in the House, speaking on May 31:

"I may say frankly that I am in sympathy with the legislation proposed by the Government. The bill is not intended to hurt any private interests; I cannot conceive where this legislation will interfere with the legitimate rights of any concern, the Town of Kenora or anyone else. It is necessary, and I think only just, that the City of Winnipeg, which has already spent many millions of dollars in developing its power plant on the Winnipeg River, should be protected on the flow of water necessary to carry on its work. That is all that is asked for and that would have been achieved had the concurrent legislation been passed. Since that concurrent legislation has not been passed—and it has not been passed apparently for the reason that Mr. Backus used his influence in the Ontario Legislature to prevent its being passed—it is necessary that something should be done."

That was an unkind cut by Mr. Crerar to say that Mr. Drury's friend, Mr. Backus, used his influence at Toronto. If it is not the attitude of Mr. Crerar on this subject which has suddenly silenced Premier Drury, why, then, has this question been dropped as an issue in Ontario?

Class Legislation.

"The tariff is an issue, a very important issue, but the supreme issue to-day is whether our Government is to be free or fettered and whether legislation in the future shall be for the few or for the many?"

This was Hon. T. A. Crerar's summing up to the electors in the manifesto he has issued. The Free Press agrees with Mr. Crerar that this is one of the important issues to be decided at the polls. The people have to decide whether they propose to put in power a party which represents only a class, an economic group, a party which proposes to legislate for the few or for the many. Mr. Crerar may at present be appealing for support to all classes, but he knows that H. W. Wood, president of the Alberta Farmers and the dominating influence in the West, and J. J. Morrison, the leader of the movement in Ontario, stand firmly for group government and propose that the present British system of responsible government should be abolished. They are against broadening out. It was because of this that two of the leading supporters of Mr. Crerar left his ranks, namely, Dr. Michael Clark, his first lieutenant, and Joshua Fletcher, district president of the U. F. A. for Grand Prairie. They retired from the Agrarian party for the very reasons that Mr. Crerar enumerates.

"I have been fighting class for 40 years," declared Dr. Clark in his letter of resignation. "It would be quite impossible for me to turn my back on my past and the right in this election."

Mr. Fletcher, who as an officer of the U. F. A. knows Mr. Wood and his ideals better than anyone else, in his letter on retiring from the movement, he referred to the aims of Mr. Wood in the following terms:

"We must stamp out this system as we would deal with a dread disease and we have a right to expect assistance of all kinds of people who respect Canadian institutions."

Before Mr. Crerar lectures the people of Ontario further on this subject, he might explain to the people of Ontario the letters of Dr. Clark and Mr. Fletcher. If there is danger from any party along the lines Mr. Crerar sugegsts it is from the very party which he leads.

"A Satanic Fate."

As the season of Halloween is drawing near many city stores are already prepared to meet the demand for the merrymaking costumes worn at social events on that occasion.

Among the masks and grotesques there are not a few of new and curious design, but none that is likely to cause more astonishment than an elaborate head of the ex-Kaiser of Germany. It represents the luckless Wilhelm with regimental top-gear over menacing fiery eyes, a rubicund complexion and the marvelous, fierce, upturned moustache known to every school child since the war.

The fact that the "All Highest" appears as a comic is a deeply significant comment of the "fame" he has won for himself. And doubtless when the evening for buffoonery and funny stunts arrives many a boy and youth will entertain amused onlookers with his conception of how the ex-kaiser behaved in days when he lorded it over every one with whom he came in contact.

In substantiation of the fact that Wilhelm Hohenzollern is paying the price, comes word from travelers in Germany to say that he is by no means the worshipful idol he once was. No, the days are past when his name inspires the awesome admiration of most Germans. To-day he is the subject of music hall jokes. Recently in one of Berlin's leading vaudeville theaters two German comedians gave a patter in which one said to the other: "I suppose, Hans, you must have been the last one to come back from the war?" The reply to this remark called forth a roar of laughter from the crowded house: "No, Fritz, there's one who isn't home yet!" The "one" referred to was readily understood by the audience.

But music hall jokes and Halloween grotesques are not the sum total of his recent miseries. The former kaiser's daughter has declined his petition that she go and keep house for him. And Wilhelm storms and frets in his exile-captivity at Doorn.

In the whole world there is doubtless no more weary man than the ex-kaiser. A man whose mind must be subject to the slings and arrows of vain regrets; a man who must daily, almost hourly, contrast his present miserable and lonely condition with the high estate of other days.

"Verily he hath his reward."

Sale of "The Blue Boy"

"Paris is worth a mass." The historic saying of Henry IV., the Huguenot King of France, has since he uttered it been fitted into a thousand untoward circumstances. It is applicable, once more, in this hour, when the ancient estates and the priceless art treasures of the noble families of England are falling under the hammer at the nod of United States millionaires, because the burden of taxation has grown so great in the old home land that the peers of the realm cannot live up to them. The liberty of the world is worth all the lands and the art treasures of all the families in England. Taxation is the outcome of the war debt. In the cause of the war England financed not only herself, but her allies. Her war debt is stupendous. The interest on that debt can only be kept up by the taxation of the people. That taxation is made out on a scheme of proportion. Men of great wealth pay into the Government as much as 60 per cent. of all their incomes. What is left is not sufficient to enable them to live as they lived before the war. So the country houses must go, and the pictures must go, and the stables must go. And these things are all going in the cause of British taxation, which is the cause of the war.

The latest of these patriotic sacrifices is the sale, to the New York art firm, Duveens, of the famous Gainsborough, "The Blue Boy," the most noble work of the master. The Duke of Westminster sells it.

Everybody knows "The Blue Boy." Reams have been written about it from the aesthetic, the critical, the historical and the adventurous point of view. It is one of the gems of British art. For the sum of £170,000 it goes. Yet going, it remains a gem of British art still. Gainsborough painted it. It, along with the treasure of manhood and womanhood, the treasure of service and the treasure of gold, is part of the sacrifice England has poured out for human well-being.

Is England downhearted? "The Blue Boy" is her answer.

Divergent Views

J. J. Morrison, the belligerent secretary of the U. F. O., must have had difficulty in keeping silence when he appeared on the same platform as Hon. T. A. Crerar at Simcoe and listened to him refer repeatedly to the new National Progressive party. Mr. Morrison spoke nearly an hour at Strathroy two weeks ago, explaining at great length to the U. F. O. convention of West Middlesex that there was no such party and that the name was unauthorized. Recently The Farmers' Sun indignantly repudiated the name Progressive, and asked who was responsible for the cognomen. Since then it has been discovered that Dr. Michael Clark wished the name on the Agrarians. Dr. Clark has left the party on principle, but Mr. Crerar still sticks to the cognomen.

The facts are that while Mr. Morrison and Mr. Crerar are appearing on the same platform appealing for support, they are far apart in their views. Political expediency of a kind Mr. Crerar is condemning in his opponents alone keeps them on the same hustings.

Mr. Morrison, like Mr. Wood, of Alberta, believes in a class party and group government; Mr. Crerar, on the other hand, believes in the formation of a new political party, with a new platform, and is appealing to all classes for support. Before the electors cast their ballots, Mr. Crerar and Mr. Morrison owe them an explanation. Are the people of Ontario voting for a new party with a Dominion-wide appeal, or for a purely Farmers' party, which would bar all other classes from its ranks?

THE DIFFERENCE IN MEN.

There is a difference in men—
One spreads flattery on so thick,
You know it isn't meant to stick,
And all the praise he utters then
Is lost the minute it is heard,
You can't recall a single word.

Another takes your hand and sets
Your blood a-tingle, through and through,
His friendliness is all for you,
He never, when you're down, forgets
To speak the words you long to hear,
Somehow you feel he's always near.

One flatters and his speech is sweet,
But little sugar friendship needs,
Its charm is found in kindly deeds,
And not by words which all repeat
Do men their inmost thoughts reveal,
But something which the heart can feel.

I've known the silent man to stand
Beside me when my heart was numb
And I rejoiced that he had come,
For from the pressure of his hand
I knew unto the bitter end
In him I had a constant friend.

ILLUSIONS.

In the skies of our experiences there are innumerable clouds, illusions—beautiful, changing, colorful affairs, but so soon swept by some unseen wind to—where? We know not!

What are illusions for then? I have wondered this many a time. And this is what I have decided. Illusions come that we may recognize the real—and be able to handle it with honor when it does come.

The crowd is always attracted by the glitter and the smooth tongue. I often stand and watch the street vendor of some article as he paints his pictured bargains in the air. I have smiled at the disappointment of those who have bought the pictured articles in their soft substance, and have offered my advice to stick to the tried and true.

But cautious as some of us may be, we cannot help but run occasionally into illusions that take us by the arm and lead us their way. And then the thought to bear in mind is this—that only as we pass through illusions are we able to find the actual living thing.

Our tendencies are like the roots of a tree—ever reaching out for more room and better nourishment that we may grow stronger and reach higher. Often we deliberately walk into pleasures and deceptions that we know have no lasting benefits within them—but in our pursuit for happiness and a certain sort of contentment, we forget that we must back our desires by worthy and definite aims.

Take it in the field of our affections, must we not keep them as undimmed and pure as possible so that through the maze of darkness we may come out on the other side surely and safely?

In diversity of interest and the forming of new tendencies each day are we able to combat the fighting forces of our nature and thus fortify our lives against every dangerous illusion that may seek to undermine the walls of our desired character.

Illusions! Why not? If we understand what they mean in our development, what can come but better strength and a more rounded experience?

ROSES AND ROCKS.

Our idol stands before us, and does some merry tricks, and we applaud in chorus this prince of joyous hicks. We watch his every antic, we laugh until we weep, our glee is almost frantic, our admiration deep. We say, "Oh, was there ever so comical a gent? A guy so wondrous clever at spreading merriment? We certainly adore him, he gladdens all our days, and if it wouldn't bore him our college yell we'd raise." But lo, he pulled a blunder—perhaps it was a crime—and now we're trampling under the chap we called sublime. We have no thought of mercy as we apply the gaff to that form, fat and pursy, at which we used to laugh. In highly moral dudgeon we knock him from his feet, and call for axe and bludgeon to make the job complete. No doubt we've done some evil, we truly moral guys; our record's full of weevil we do not advertise. Oh, poor old human nature, it always is the same; no court or legislature can change its foolish game. We worship some one madly until he makes a break, then, morally and sadly, we burn him at the stake. The more we used to love him when he was in bloom, the fiercer do we shove him and kick him to his doom.

ALLEGE ILLTREATMENT OF BRITISH NEWCOMERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Alleged mistreatment of British immigrants at Ellis Island has been brought to the attention of the United States labor department. The Church Peace Union has taken up the case of Mark Gianvil, a Brit'sh subject, who served with the Canadian army during the war. He complained of conditions at the island last July. The union has forwarded to the secretary of labor strong affidavits signed by Gianvil, alleging grossly cruel treatment to his wife and child at Ellis Island.

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

HITS AT ALD. WENIGE.

Editor Free Press: While reading an issue of The Free Press of an early date my attention was drawn to an article by Alderman Wenige regarding the work done by the men employed by the city.

I wonder if, when Mr. Wenige was an employee in his earlier days, he was such a diligent and honest worker that he wasted not a moment of his employer's time?

Does he consider it so much his duty to spy upon the workers that he can spare precious time from his store to creep near some laborer with a camera and snap a picture while the victim rests a moment.

This is certainly an example of chivalry and high honor from an unexpected source.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space. A CITIZEN.

WANTS MACBETH.

Editor Free Press: Apropos of Mr. Hampden's visit to our city next week I humbly and respectfully, through the columns of your paper, ask a question of the Drama League. Why, oh, why, was London not favored by a presentation of Mr. Hampden's "MacBeth?" I believe that the Drama League had the privilege of choosing the plays to be presented here by Mr. Hampden. This question is agitating the minds of a bunch of soreheads like myself, who were all joyfully anticipating this grim tragedy as presented by such an artist as Mr. Hampden.

Why the "Taming of the Shrew" and "Romeo and Juliet" and not MacBeth?"

Sorrowfully yours,
DISAPPOINTED.

A VICTIM OF EXCHANGE.

Editor Free Press: With reference to the paragraph under the heading "West Becoming Americanized," in The Free Press of October 17, and Mr. Wade's comparison between the American and British immigrants, can it be wondered at this present one-sided state of affairs seeing that Canada penalizes the British immigrant by the present obnoxious rate of exchange.

Take the comparison: A Britisher coming to Canada with a little capital, say £2,000, would be equal to $9,720 at full rate of exchange, $4.86; but he would receive only $8,400 (to-day's rate $4.20), thus losing $1,320. Is it likely that a person would sell his home to come to Canada under such a financial loss? This state of affairs is well-known in Great Britain and hence Mr. Wade's anxiety over the small immigration of those with a little capital.

Now, take the American: He gains by the exchange, and this practically pays his expenses and more in pocket if his capital is large.

Has Mr. Wade pointed this out to the Government? But I should say the Government is well aware and fully understands this serious cause. It is in their power to remedy this and remove this obnoxious exchange against those coming to Canada and those at present living in Canada receiving their income from Great Britain.

Of course, it is a commercial transaction, but for heaven's sake where does the goods come in. Let it be considered upon a broad and clear basis and treat this money as a financial transaction, at the full rate of exchange, for the betterment of Canada. Are business men aware of this? If Mr. Wade had the authority to circulate the $4.86 equals a pound, then watch results.

REV. QUENTIN WARNER FOR JUVENILE JUDGE.

Editor Free Press. I was pleased to read that the Ministerial Alliance took up the question of a juvenile court for London yesterday. Certainly the lame excuses for delay formulated by some members of the Council would be amazing, as one reverend gentleman pointed out, if it was not for the fact that their real motives are not apparent.

I note that a writer in your paper suggested the name of the Rev. Quentin Warner as juvenile judge. I do not myself know of anyone who is better fitted by experience, character and personality for such a position. I understand that Mr. Warner was chaplain in the Montreal gaol for a number of years, has had extensive experience in juvenile reform work, and has made a study for years of all the literature published on the subject. Indeed, I would advise anyone who wishes to read up the subject to look over Mr. Warner's books and other publications.

My own personal experience of Mr. Warner enables me to state that he is a man who engages in any good work for the reward it brings in a consciousness of good accomplished. He ignores entirely any selfish considerations, or the effect it may have on his pocketbook, reputation or advancement. And I did not have to be a member of his congregation to find that out.

It is perhaps superfluous to remark that a juvenile court without a judge and probation officers that are naturally adapted to the work is crippled from the start. It is for this reason I indorse your correspondent's mention of Mr. Warner's name, as I think he is the right man for the job, if he will accept it. However, if any of your correspondents have any other names to suggest they will confer a great benefit on the public by so doing, for certainly not one man in a thousand is mentally fitted for such a sacred trust as the moral salvation of our delinquent little brothers and sisters.

AN IDEAL CITY.

Editor Free Press: Having heard such glowing accounts of your city, and having an off day, I decided to pay it a visit and communicate to you the result of same.

Consequently, I arrived at the G. T. R. station, a model of architecture, and after traversing several of its numerous exits eventually found myself confronting the commodious buildings of the Chamber of Commerce. I then proceeded north on Richmond street and after passing the G. P. O. came to the newly-erected hotel. I was certainly astonished at the palatial building that has been erected, superb and sumptuous fittings. After leaving the hotel I retraced my steps to Dundas street, and after passing the time of day to the "silent policeman" at the crossing, who ignored my friendly greeting, I wandered east to Wellington street and was much astonished to find that the city had furnished such a beautiful park and recreation ground on the federal ground site. Being tired I rested upon one of the benches near the miniature lake, and was soon surrounded by beautiful swans, geese, ducks and other water fowl, who were evidently seeking their morning meal. On the opposite side of the lake I noticed several anglers fishing for goldfish, and behind them was a beautiful background which, in itself, with its various variegated colors, well repaid my visit to this beauty spot in the heart of your city.

My next move was to Springbank Park, so boarded one of the excellent cars of the London Street Railway Co., and was struck by the affability and courtesy of their employees, although a fellow passenger told me in confidence that they (the railway company) ran the city, in conjunction with the City Gas Co., both of whom he assured me could extract money out of the pockets of the citizens quicker than a sidesman in a church.

I must admit that Springbank Park is an ideal place, situated as it is amongst such lovely scenery, and the "zoo" with its varied collection of wild animals, not forgetting the flocks of buffaloes, and the birds, will compare with any similar collection that I have seen.

Returning from the park I noticed the wide macadamized roads on each side of the grand old river, along which a constant stream of autos, cycles and kiddy cars were speeding irrespective of traffic regulations. The river itself with its pure water below and the oil and sewage scum on top, was placidly meandering along, only broken by the constant splash of some large fish rising to catch the succulent fly, or the river craft sailing along its surface. One motor launch in particular took my fancy, it being all bedecked with streamers, and the commodore or captain (a portly individual) dressed in gold braided uniform was issuing orders in a stentorian voice through a megaphone to his crew to "shoot the dam," whilst another sailor was taking soundings as the craft proceeded to the outlet to the lower reaches of the river. Perhaps at some future time I may see the lake steamers steering their course up the river to the Port of London.

I much regretted that the city had no museum of its own, as I am sure that there would be plentiful material from the city hall, both past and present, to make such an institution both interesting and instructive to the rising generation.

The paved streets I found in good condition, also the unpaved ones, for the benefit of the large army of automobile repair shops which are scattered about the city.

In conclusion I may add that your schools of education are a model of expense to the taxpayers, and if the teachers can only instil as much material into their pupils, as the builders have put into the school buildings, then their labor, and the expense to which the taxpayer has been mulcted will not have been in vain.

ANSWERS

THE BLACK HOLE OF CALCUTTA.

Question: Could you tell me whether the Black Hole of Calcutta, famous at the time of the Indian mutiny, was a dark prison cell wherein British soldiers were imprisoned, or a well into which men, women and children, alive, dead and dying, were thrown? Some histories state that it was a prison cell, but my parents, who lived in India for 23 years, have often told me that it was a large well where captured English people were thrown indiscriminately.

E. C. P.

London, Oct. 18, 1921.

Answer: The place where those captured were confined was a narrow chamber some 20 feet square which had been used as a prison by the garrison.

NO CONTRIBUTION.

Question: Does Canada contribute either directly or indirectly to the King's privy purse? What is the Dominion Government's allowance to the high commissioner in London?

Answer. Canada does not contribute directly or indirectly to the King's privy purse.

The high commissioner receives under the statutes from $6,000 to $10,000. The expenses of the office is about $62,000.

THE CATTLE EMBARGO.

Question: Would you tell me through the columns of your paper the meaning of the word "sink" used in the British markets? 2. What is the amount of the embargo per cwt. on Canadian cattle entering the British market? 3. When do they expect to life the embargo, that is if they lift it at all. 4. What does it cost to ship cattle per cwt. to Liverpool or London from Toronto?

By answering the above questions you will confer a great favor.

INQUIRER.

Answers: 1. The word "sink" as used in regard to the markets means to liquidate or reduce by some fixed method.

2. The embargo is an absolute one prohibiting the entrance of live cattle for longer than 10 days.

3. The royal commission appointed by the British Government to investigate the embargo reported in favor of it being lifted. The British Parliament has so far taken no action.

4. The freight rates vary. Suggest you write to the manager of freight traffic, Canadian mercantile marine, Toronto.

CANADIAN TRADE COMMISSION.

Question: I was interested in an article in The Free Press on the Canadian trade commission relative to development of our trade overseas and would like to get further information on this matter. It is my intention to go to Ireland about the 7th of December and I would like to get in touch with Canadian manufacturers who want their goods introduced to the English markets. I have had considerable experience in Canadian and English business.

INTERESTED.

Answer: Write to H. R. Pousette, Canadian commercial intelligence service, trade and commerce department, Ottawa, Ont.

THOMAS D'ARCY McGEE.

Question: I read an article concerning the Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee Would you kindly give me the details of his assassination.

E. M. K.

Answer: The Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee (1825-1868), a representative of the City of Montreal in the Dominion Parliament, was assassinated on the morning of April 7, 1868, while returning from the Parliament buildings to his lodgings in Ottawa. He had just delivered a powerful speech in the House when he was shot down, without a chance to defend himself. Mr. McGee's utterances against the Fenian invasion of Canada are believed to have been the cause of the dastardly crime, for which one P. J. Whelan was executed.

A SOLDIER'S DECORATIONS.

Question: In what order on the uniform should the following decorations be worn: Service Medal; Victory Medal and 1914-15 Star?

EX-SOLDIER.

Answer. Starting from your row of buttons and going toward the left, in this order: 1914-15 Star, Service Medal, Victory Medal.

ew York Pastor Delivers a "Prismatic Sermon."

ORSHIPPERS IN A DAZE

ying To Impart a "Religious Atmosphere," He Says.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—Color. Streams it. Rivers of it. Inundations of en, yellow, pink and amber that ckled and dripped in a fusion that rieked and blazed, crackled and blis-ed; that faded and waned, intangible d baffling at the soft shadow of a ud across a field of waving wheat. lor that intermarried as in the slancholy ooze of a melting slice of apolitan ice cream. Prismatic strata arply defined; color as baffling as the nlight on a dew-drenched stretch of rbage—as maddening as the laze of uctant molasses from the immature nghole of a frozen hogshead.

The Rev. William Norman Guthrie, ctor of St. Mark's Church, explained sterday afternoon at the conclusion of "prismatic sermon" that his ex-riment in imaginative coloring to ove the theory that applied science d psychology may be so fused and ngled as to serve religion—he ex-lined, we say, that it was merely an periment in its first stage.

The rectors' idea was that, by means a novel lighting system in his church, congregation might be bathed in any lred atmosphere, using the subcon-ous suggestive power of diffused or as a support of and an inducement a given congregational mood.

VO OPINIONS.

t worked and it didn't work. At nes the light was a distraction. Again ere were occasions when the lighting the church was forgotten and one s conscious only of the preacher own in strong relief, with the body the church dim and the outline of e's neighbors indistinct and hazy.

Mr. Guthrie was speaking of the llosophy of love. He waxed en-usiastic. He quoted Paul. He en-ged on Paul. He became warmed to theme—with the lights at times rning bright and again fading into listinct opalescent tints—a whole lot, must be admitted, like a Follies show. d, incidentally, Mr. Guthrie himself, nscious of the analogy, made mention it in expounding his theory, and told w he hoped to overcome that defect. Along toward the end of his discourse lights were burning dim—you uldn't call it any particular color. ere were flashes of purple and red d pink and yellow—and Mr. Guthrie s telling of the wonders that love s wrought in the heart of man.

Mr. Guthrie lowered his voice. All the s and yellows and ambers faded from chandeliers, as they fade from the stern sky when the day is done. e remaining background was a cold nd of green and blue.

"A man who gets out into the coun-and cannot sit upon a rock without t dashing therefrom the moss that ers it is a subconscious, nervous rderer."

Heavens, how cold those green and ish lights burned. One could see it —the bit of dew-drenched, curtained odland—one could hear the song of ds—smell the thousand woodland rs—one could almost hear the grass wing—and along stalks the neuras-nic from the city—the dyspeptic, uchy, "subconscious, nervous mur-er." We could hear the rattle of malacca stick on the weather-ined surface of the rock—could hear moss being ripped from its jagged ch; could hear its plaintiff thud upon pine needles—ugh!

Well, it was brighter shortly after t, when the lights came up again to prettier picture and later still when uncompromising white blaze died m the chancel and the offering was ut to be made. Then the edifice was braced in a warm, mellow tint—a t that soothed and cheered and was npathetic and kind, a light that de one want to dig down deep into pocket and "come across." It was n to try to analyze that particular r that threw a spirit upon the con-gation by which they became ex-sive to the spirit.

PLAINS THE IDEA.

ater, after the service, everyone ad-rned to the lecture room, where Mr. hrie and Claude Bragdon, who in-lled the lights, explained the inno-ion in detail.

"We are not trying to inaugurate the a of pink prayers for pale people," d Mr. Bragdon. "We are not com-ing with the Follies or with Long-e Square. Our aim is to give an ntially religious atmosphere to the rch by the use of prismatic tints mpart to the church an air of mys-y, or infinity."

Mr. Bragdon said the next step in t direction was the creation of the t organ—"an instrument whereby infinite variety of effects in mobile r may be obtained by an artist at keyboard."

uch an instrument will become as ch a part of a church, Mr. Bragdon eves, as the pulpit, the collection te or, in fact, the rector himself.

People will write color symphonies they write musical symphonies," Mr. gdon says. "This will develop ar-s in light. Such an instrument is be shown in this city in the latter t of December at the Neighborhood yhouse. It is the invention of Thomas lfred, known as "Wilfred the Lute yer."

Mr. Bragdon says that, personally, he f the opinion that in the church oadway effects should be discour-d. A lot of people who came here lay doubtless were disappointed. I pose they came to witness an aurora realis. Well, they got left. I could e furnished an aurora borealis if I wanted to. But that isn't the Church lighting should be subtle. It t be subtle. We have been un-py for centuries in this world. Soon are going to be all happy. We have n crying for light. The light is now g to be let in on the world. When appeal is answered music will be inadequate medium in which to ex-s the gratitude for our liberation. vill have to be done by color."

Mr. Bragdon says he is building a t organ that is to be an improve-t over the light organ that "Wilfred Lute Player" has built at Hunting-L. I., on the estate of W. K. Brice. Bragdon's light organ, he believes, be the one adequate instrument which men can play and give thanks their liberation from the companion-of Dull Care.

ADMINISTRATION OF THE SAMOAN ISLANDS

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Oct. 19.—New Zealand's minister of external affairs visited Western Samoa for the purpose of inquiring into the administration of the territory handed over to the dominion by the League of Nations, and his report is not a particularly cheerful document. It appears that New Zealand, in taking over the former German portion of the Samoan group, has acquired much more trouble than profit

The white settlers are dissatisfied and so are the natives, who are proposing that they be placed under the guardianship of Great Britain. The trade of the islands is not flourishing, chiefly because of the low price of copra and the labor problem is increasingly acute. The Samoans do not care to work, and the New Zealand people do not like the use of indentured Chinese labor. The Government, following the example of the Germans, is using some of this labor, but there is not enough of it for the needs of the plantations.

The white residents of Western Samoa complain that the administration is too large and too expensive and that taxation has much increased since New Zealand took charge, without any corresponding advantage to the islands. The minister says that the officials are not overpaid and that there are not too many of them. As the white residents refused to discuss the matter with the minister and contented themselves with sending him a letter of protest, containing an assurance that discussion would be useless, the two points of view cannot be reconciled.

It is not easy for New Zealand people to understand what is the matter at Samoa, but it is safe to say that a majority of them would quite cheerfully consent to the dependency being handed over to any friendly country for administration.

The fact of the matter is that New Zealand is tackling a new job and a rather difficult one at that, and is encountering difficulties that have to be overcome. German and pro-German commercial interests are still in the group and they have no sympathy for the new administration.

TWO PRINCES ARE VISITING INDIA

Battleship Renown Will Carry Prince of Wales and Son of Belgian King.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—The battleship Renown will carry two princes when she starts for India to carry the Prince of Wales on a visit to that empire. Prince Charles, the second son of the Belgian king, Albert, is a midshipman on the Renown. He probably will not share in any of the honors of the British prince, but will devote his time to his duties. He is well acquainted with members of the British royal family, for he was a cadet on board the vessel in which the British prince, George, recently made a Mediterranean tour.

Eleven black cats have been taken on board the Renown as mascots.

The battleship will have 65 officers and 1,250 men aboard, in addition to 16 boys from Eastney, who will form a drum and fife band.

The Renown will take with her for receptions several thousand cups and saucers, plates, knives, forks and spoons. The provisions include 112,000 pounds of flour, 15,000 pounds of "bully" beef, 6,000 pounds of salmon and 2,000 pounds of ship's biscuits.

For the use of the officers there will be a stock of 195,000 cigarettes 2,000 bottles of wine and 9,000 cigars, the latter in addition to 5,000 cigars taken by the Prince of Wales himself. Throughout his Australian tour the prince preferred, during the day, to smoke a pipe of tobacco, but after dinner he invariably had a Havana.

Apart from the monthly issue of loose and leaf tobacco, the men's smoking needs will be met by the canteen on board, and for them there will also be 5,860 gallons of neat rum and 4,000 gallons of lime juice.

CAYUGA RESIDENT DEAD.

CAYUGA, Oct. 19.—After a prolonged illness, Mrs. D. May died at her home in Cayuga on Monday, at the age of 26 years. She leaves her husband and three small children. She was born in Haldimand County and was the daughter of the late Jacob Robing. Her mother, two sisters and one brother survive. The funeral takes place on Wednesday to the Cayuga Methodist Church and thence to the Cayuga Cemetery.

NO TRACE OF THIEF

DRESDEN, Oct. 19.—There is no trace of the thief who entered the home of John Jeffs over a week ago and took a box containing Victory bonds to the amount of $1,600 and other papers. The box, with other valuable papers, was found in the P. M. station agent's backyard.

HAMILTON MAN IS OUT WITH FACTS

Davis Was Often Forced to Lay Off Job—Tells How Tanlac Restored His Health.

"This Tanlac is doing me so much good that I should like to tell everybody about the wonderful way it has helped me," said Charles H. Davis, popular machinist, of 12 Crosthwaite avenue, Hamilton, Ont.

"About a year ago my kidneys began giving me so much trouble that I often had to lay off from work for two or three days at a time. I had severe, nagging sort of pains across the small of my back. I had frequent spells of weakness, when I hardly knew how to keep on the job. I lost all desire for food and often went for a whole day without anything to eat because my digestion was so upset that after a meal I would have severe pains in the pit of my stomach. I just felt tired all the while and was getting weaker every day.

"I hadn't finished my first bottle of Tanlac before I was satisfied that it was just the medicine for me. It gave me a fine appetite and I have no more trouble with pain or indigestion. I no longer have those spells of dizziness and have been getting stronger every day. I'm right on the job every day now and I just feel good all the time."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by Liggett's Drug Stores, and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

TAKE F. F. PARDEE BACK INTO FOLD

Pardon, for 1917 Attitude, Granted by Audience

RATIFICATION MEETING

Liberals Advised to Forget Old Differences

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—The widely advertised ratification meeting of the West Lambton Liberals got away last night to a late start, owing to the small audience, at 8 o'clock. The apparent apathy of the people seemed to have its effect upon the speakers, and applause was almost an unknown quantity, except near the end of Mr. Pardee's speech, when he practically went down on his knees to his old party friends, and asked them to forgive him because he had left them in 1917, though he claimed to have been sincere at the time, though sorry now. The audience entered into his feelings at this time and accorded its favorite son a measure of applause.

Chester Belton acted as chairman, and introduced W. C. Kennedy, of Windsor, as the first speaker. Mr. Kennedy was visibly affected by the gloom which pervaded the gathering, and from the beginning to the end of his speech, failed to warm up to anything like the reputation which had preceded him.

FORGET DIFFERENCES.

His address was a eulogy of F. F. Pardee, who, he stated, was needed by his leader when the Liberal Government came into power. He made a plea for the support of those who did not see eye-to-eye with Mr. Pardee in 1917, claiming that he was one of those, and asked all the old Liberals to forget their differences, and support the choice of the convention.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier always taught the doctrine of a freedom of opinion, and Pardee, having repented, was once more in the fold. His speech was a labored effort, and his attack on the Meighen manifesto, the national railways, and mercantile marine brought no response from the audience, and he seemed obviously pleased when it came time to take his seat.

F. F. Pardee got a good reception, and three cheers and a tiger, led by the chairman, and immediately launched into a speech which could be heard blocks away from the hall. He was in good voice, and made an earnest appeal for the healing of the wounds in the Liberal party, which, apparently are much more gaping than would appear from the outside. He attacked the Meighen manifesto as not containing one constructive principle; brought forward the deficit of the national railways, and attributed it to bad management, and declared himself opposed to free trade, but stood for the leveling of the tariff, whereby the necessities of life may be made cheaper, and those able to bear the burden should bear it, and those least able to bear it, should bear it the least.

PROPAGANDA MONEY.

He pointed to the immense sums spent by the Protectionist party for advertising, and claimed it was the result of the big interests in control of the party, who were going to spend $400,000 on propaganda alone. He appealed to the workingman of Sarnia to support him, because he was born and brought up here, and surely would not do anything to injure this city in any way. The Imperial Oil Company, he asserted, was started in 1897 under Liberal rule, and has prospered ever since. To the soldiers he reached out and laid bare his record of 1917, when he deserted his party to take up their cause. He had represented West Lambton for 23 years, had given of his best for it as well as for Canada, and had always been sincere.

During the course of the speeches it was noticeable that the name of W. L. Mackenzie King was only mentioned once, and that at the end of Mr. Pardee's speech. It was not a happy beginning of what promises to be a very hard campaign for the Liberal candidate.

KEEP CANADA AS FIT LAND FOR CANADIANS

EDMONTON, Oct. 20.—Patriotic in the general composition of his address, Hon. R. B. Bennett, minister of justice, made an appeal "for the continuance of a policy of Government that would permit Canada to be a land for Canadians" at a meeting here last night under the auspices of the National Liberal Conservative party.

The tariff, he declared, was the only weapon that would permit this Dominion to develop her opportunities and her resources. Without a tariff of protection, Canada's industries would become idle and unemployment would be a menace to the land. Goods that could and would be manufactured in Canada would be made outside by the removal of the tariff.

TO DEMONSTRATE IN MACSWINEY'S MEMORY

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Arrangements have been completed for a demonstration to be held on Sunday, the first anniversary of the death of Terence MacSwiney, former lord mayor of Cork, who died in Brixton prison last October following a hunger strike of more than 70 days. The demonstration will be held in Trafalgar Square and on Wednesday next there will be a commemorative meeting at Albert Hall.

Britain Plans Emigration Program To Relieve Out-of-Works.

LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS

Says Unemployment Worst Since Napoleonic Wars.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Cable.—The situation in England as regards trade and unemployment is worse than at any time since the end of the Napoleonic wars, declared Premier Lloyd George in the House of Commons to-day in outlining the Government's policy on these two subjects.

At present, he said, there are 1,750,000 persons unemployed, and added that the greatest unemployment, to the extent of 17 per cent., was in the metal trades.

He declared that the causes for this situation could all be summed up in one word—war.

As a part of the Government's plan of alleviation, he said, the Government proposed to ask Parliament for an appropriation of another £300,000 to enable ex-service men to emigrate to the dominions, whither, he said, 60,000 already had settled, with Government assistance.

Turning to the question of trade, Mr. Lloyd George said there were undoubtedly signs of revival in some of the most important industries of England, but that also there were very important industries which were not showing signs of revival. He said it was true that trade was beginning to move, but that a man would have to be very sanguine who could predict a return of normal conditions at any early date. He said Great Britain's interest in the restoration of trade rested upon the revival of trade in industry and England's purchasing capacity abroad. He added that the Government proposed to amend the export credit scheme.

IN THE IRON TRADES.

LONDON, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Various associations of iron and steel makers in Great Britain have resolved to cut prices in order to stimulate a revival of the industry at a rate which, it is asserted, is doubtful if it leaves the men a bare margin of profit. Nevertheless their quotations remain considerably higher than those at which iron and steel makers on the continent are prepared to sell on the British market. Iron bars, for instance, cannot be bought from British makers much under £14 per ton, whereas the manufacturers on the continent deliver them here for about £9 per ton.

Facts of this kind are being used in an insistence that the iron trade in this country will remain paralyzed until the price of coal comes down. Meanwhile Herbert Smith, president of the Yorkshire miners' organization, asserts that some mine owners are endeavoring to break agreements with miners by attempting to secure a reduction in the tonnage rate. The mine owners' reply to this is that some of the collieries are threatened with three alternatives, firstly, carrying on at a loss; secondly, closing down, and thirdly, seeking to secure the work people's co-operation in keeping the pits open by economy and an adjustment of wages.

PETROLEA TO GET $1,000,000 PLANT

Big Sugar Concern Will Locate There At Once.

PETROLEA, Oct. 19.—(Special to The Free Press.)—It was officially announced to-day that the Peninsular Sugar Company, capitalized at $2,000,000, and recently organized by the Western Ontario Sugar Beet Growers' Association, at Chatham, will locate here.

A site has been selected and work on the foundation of a $1,000,000 plant will begin immediately. It is planned to have this much done this fall. The factory, according to present arrangements, will be in operation in the fall of 1922. It will have a capacity of 600 tons daily.

At a special meeting the names of three local men were added to the directorate. These are: C. Egan, as treasurer; K. C. Kerr and R. J. R. McKenzie, solicitors. F. H. Hubbert is vice-president of the company. The president will be chosen shortly. He will be a local man.

The factory is being built and the machinery provided by A. Schoen, of Detroit.

The fact that the company has chosen Petrolea as a location means much to the town and the surrounding districts. Beet growers of this vicinity have long felt the want of such a plant and the sugar beet acreage will be largely increased as a result.

An informal but very pleasant evening was spent on Monday last by the ladies of St. James street, between Maitland and William streets, who gathered at the home of Mrs. Foster to extend their best wishes and bid farewell to the Misses Edith Kipp and Myrtle Hicks October brides-elect, who will be leaving the neighborhood shortly.

About 40 guests participated in games during the early part of the evening, after which each guest of honor presented the other with a pierced silver sandwich tray. Both young ladies were very much surprised as each expected that the presentation was for the other. When they had recovered from their astonishment they thanked their friends for their kind thoughfulness in remembering them at this time, and expressed regret that they would soon be leaving the neighbors amongst whom they had lived since childhood.

During the evening Miss Hicks delighted those at the gathering with a number of vocal selections. A dainty lunch was served by the hostess, after which the happy evening gathering broke up wishing the two brides-to-be every happiness.

Styles

BY Lenore

PARIS (By Mail). — Although the long waistline is still a feature of the season's fashions, it is not so loose as it has been. In many of the new French models the belt has been made an insertion between skirt and bodice, and fitted closely to the hips, permitting the bodice to blouse over it, in some instances giving a draped effect.

Many of the important dressmakers have made a persistent effort to break away from the spell of black, but this has been difficult, especially in America, where the fad is still practically in its first season! Hence black remains the tres chic costume, especially in velvet for evening. It may be varied, as in the Patou dress in the sketch, with a bit of color, which is here introduced under each arm in the form of brilliant green and gold embroidery on a white ground. The neck is fashionably straight across both in the front and back, and the pointed side panels, finished with a ruff at the head, give an illusion of greater length to the gown, which is built for a tall woman, slender enough to carry the width at the hips.

Weddings

Gibson-Birrell.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 15, at the home of Rev. C. W. Bristol, this city, when Eva Lester, second eldest daughter of Mrs. Birrell and the late J. M. Birrell, became the bride of Mr. Andrew Gourlay Gibson, Rev. C. W. Bristol officiating. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left for Eastern points.

Gerken-Batten.

A very quiet but pretty autumn wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at Trinity Church, Lambeth, when Miss Viola Batten, daughter of Mr. J. H. Batten, Wilton Grove, became the bride of Mr. Ernest Gerken, a prosperous young farmer of Glanworth. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, flowers and autumn foliage, there being a large wedding bell before the altar, under which the bridal pair stood. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. Charlie Shore. The bride looked very sweet in her suit of brown broadcloth with beaver trimmings, small brown hat, and corsage of sunset roses, and carrying the gift of the groom, a white kid prayer book. Rev. V. M. Dunfield performed the ceremony and, during the signing of the register, the choir sang beautifully "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden." Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father, when congratulations and good wishes were showered on the young couple. After a dainty wedding luncheon the bride and groom left for Windsor and points west, and on their return will reside on the groom's farm at Glanworth.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Kerwood Methodist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Frank Hull, when a very interesting reading was given by Mrs. J. H. Richardson and Mrs John Johnson provided the splendid topic entitled "Little Ways of Bettering the World." Several of the members were appointed to attend the W.M.S. convention, to be held in Petrolea. Mrs. F. Hull gave a paper on "The Value of Prayer in Our Society," as a concluding number on the program.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Your father has gone through the village to meet you," he said presently. "Did you come that way?"

"Yes . . ." She did not add that she had seen Mr. Ackroyd and avoided him; she had never told a deliberate lie before; she was wishing with all her heart that there had been no reason to tell one to Rodney now.

Dear old Rodney. She looked at him remorsefully; she wondered if he would be very down on her if she told him where she had been and what had happened.

"What are you thinking about?" Rodney asked her suddenly.

He was standing with his shoulders leaning against the mantel shelf, looking at her with a strange expression in his eyes.

She started. "Nothing . . . isn't tea ready! I'm so thirsty."

She turned to the door, but he stopped her with a hand laid on either shoulder.

"I want to speak to you, Norah."

She shrank a little from his touch. "You hurt my arm," she said.

"I'm sorry. . . . Norah, why do you look at me like that? There's something quite different about you today — something . . ." There was a little break in his voice. "Oh, my dear," he said — and now he was neither awkward nor eloquent—"I love you so much —don't you know that I love you — that I'd give my life to make you happy?"

"Rodney!" There was a sort of frightened amazement in her voice. She shrank away from him. "Rodney, what are you saying?"

"That I love you; that I want you to marry me. Norah, you must have known it. I've loved you all my life!"

"Rodney! Please — please — oh, stop, stop!"

She laid her uninjured hand on his chest to hold him away.

"I never guessed — I never had any idea . . ." She was flushed and distressed; there were tears in her eyes.

"I'd be so good to you," he pleaded. "I'd make you so happy. Even if you didn't love me as much as I could wish, you're fond of me, Norah? We've been everything to each other. Be my wife, dear!"

"I can't. . . I — just — can't . . ." She spoke breathlessly; she looked away from him through the open window to the distant belt of trees that shut out Lumsden Village and Barton Manor. Perhaps a week ago, had he asked her then——. She snapped the thought determinedly.

"I can't, dear," she said again. "Oh, Rodney, don't look like that!"

He tried to put his arm around her — but she avoided him.

"Let me go — please let me go." She fled away to her own room.

She shut and locked the door. She could not believe that this thing had really happened; that Rodney — dear old Rodney, whom she had known all her life — had said that he loved her and wished to marry her. Surely she must have dreamed it all.

Tears overflowed and ran down her cheeks. She brushed them angrily away. There was nothing to cry for.

Perhaps he had not been serious; perhaps it was all just a joke. . . . Joke!—when she recalled his eyes and the passionate tone of his voice.

She shivered. Somehow she did not like this new, strange Rodney. She could never marry him; it was absurd. She only cared for him as other girls cared for their brothers. Oh, what had made him change so suddenly?

She sat down by the window to cool her hot cheeks; her arm and wrist ached desperately; they seemed to be a mass of bruised flesh and quivering nerves.

Friday came scratching at the door, whining to be let in. She opened it and went downstairs with him.

Rodney was still in the dining-room, standing at the window looking into the sunshine with unseeing eyes.

Norah went over to him and touched his arm.

"Yes." But he did not turn.

"Rodney, if I tell you something . . . will you — will you promise that you won't tell father?"

He half turned now; his sad eyes searched her face.

"I promise," he said.

She twisted one of the buttons on his coat nervously; her eyes were downcast, then suddenly she raised them.

"I told you a fib just now," she said, "about my arm. I didn't hurt it in the way I said I did. I—I . . . Don't look at me for a moment, Rodney; but I—I went out in the car with Mr. Laxton, and we — we had a sort of accident."

The seconds seemed like hours, as she stood there not daring to raise her eyes, waiting for Rodney to speak.

"Well!" she said, with a touch of exasperation in her voice. She made a desperate effort and looked up at him.

His eyes were fixed on her face, and beneath his gaze she felt herself coloring in confusion.

"I wish you would not look at me like that," she broke out. "It's so silly, any one would think I had done something to be ashamed of."

"What are you blushing about, then?" he asked shortly.

He moved away from her; he was afraid to trust himself to say more; he walked towards the door.

As he opened it again Norah spoke. "Rodney — you won't tell father, will you?"

He answered without turning his head: "I have already told you that I will not."

The door shut. Norah shrugged her shoulders; her heart was beating uncomfortably fast.

She was a little afraid of this new Rodney; she wished she had not told him about Laxton.

"Oh — dear!" she said, with a little sigh.

This morning it had all seemed such a fuss about nothing, but now the situation had strangely altered. For one thing, she had apparently lost the old, adoring Rodney; lost her champion — the man in whose eyes she had never been able to do wrong. He had been angry about that first day when she told him about the black sheep, and now he was something more than angry.

From the window she saw her father coming up the garden, and in sudden panic she flew back to her room.

She did not quite know why she was so afraid to meet his kindly, quizzical eyes; she heard his voice in the hall asking for her; heard Rodney answer that she was in, and had hurt her arm.

"Hurt her arm!" said Mr. Ackroyd sharply. Norah held her breath.

"Yes, but it's nothing much — a slight sprain. Bethune's done it up for her. She slipped getting over a gate into one of the fields, or something."

Norah bit her lip. Somehow Rodney's deliberate championship annoyed her; she hated it because she knew he had meant it kindly; she heard her father coming up the stairs.

"Norah . . ." He came into the room, all concern and kindly sympathy. "Poor little girl! How did you manage it?" He touched the bandage gently; he looked at her with anxious eyes.

"It isn't a bit bad, really," she assured him. "Only Dr. Bethune says that sprains are nasty things, and advised me to keep it tied up. Yes, I know it was careless, but I shan't do it again."

She reached up and kissed him. "Now let's go and have some tea; I'm famished, and we've only been waiting for you."

She talked away incessantly during tea; she felt that if there were a moment's silence questions would be asked and probably something would be said about Laxton.

Rodney hardly spoke at all; when he did it was only in monosyllables. Norah escaped as soon as she could and left the two men alone. Her arm was really aching badly; she would have given anything to go to bed and rest it, but she did not like to.

She knew if she did that her father would be worried and imagine that she was really ill and she dreaded a fuss.

When she had gone Mr. Ackroyd looked at his nephew.

"What's up between you two?" he asked bluntly.

Rodney colored and bit his lip.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

A PRETTY MUSLIN BED SET.

There is a rage to-day for unbleached muslin "bed sets," consisting of spread and bolster roll (also used over pillows) with a rather large design in applique (or embroidery) in the middle of the spread and on the long bolster cover.

These are made in the following way:

Measure your bed and buy enough unbleached muslin to make a spread that will hang down half way to the floor on all three sides; also make a long strip that will cover both pillows. Now buy one of the transfer patterns that are gotten out by pattern houses for these bed sets, and place this design, ink-side down, on the center of your spread and in the middle of your pillow roll; run a moderately hot iron over the pattern paper, taking care not to move the paper and thus blur the lines of the design.

The next step is to decide what colors you wish to use in working these designs. If your design is for embroidery alone choose silk floss in the colors that harmonize with the color scheme of the bedroom and begin the work. As the under side of the spread is never seen, there is no need for lining this spread or pillow cover.

If, however, you have chosen one of the pretty applique designs, you must buy a good grade of fast-color chambray in the colors you want and cut this material to fit into the various parts of the design, first basting them on with large stitches, then sewing them on with very fine stitches around the edge, and then finishing the work by going about the edges of each piece with a wide buttonhole stitch in floss to match the color of the piece (just as the edges of a child's cambric scrap book are finished).

Before attempting to transfer the large design on the middle of the spread and pillow cover, you should first try a corner of the design on a small sample piece of the muslin; in this way you will make all your mistakes on a piece of goods that is of no account.

If, however, you should make a mistake in transferring the design on the spread or pillowcase, you can usually cover it up successfully by appliqueing your chambray pieces over the faulty line (going "by eye" rather than by pattern); or you can remove the design from the muslin by washing that portion of the spread or pillowcase with lukewarm water and a little naphtha soap. To remove the design from silk (some women prefer to make these bed sets of silk) rub the silk with either gasoline or benzine (not near heat or flame).

HIGH SCHOOL CLUB.

Miss Barbara Daly was yesterday named the president of the Girls' High School Club, and will be assisted by the following committee: Margaret Godwin, vice-president; Alice McFarlane, secretary; Kathrine Campbell, treasurer; Poppy Kitchen, pianist; representatives from the school forms are Gertrude Ead, middle 1; Francis Talbot, middle 3; Ida Wolfe, middle 4; Jean McIntosh, middle 5; Muriel Westland, middle 6; Theda Guymer, middle 7; Mary Hosie and Ernestine Partridge, upper school. The formation of a committee to establish a purpose for the winter activities of the club concluded the business of the election meeting, held yesterday afternoon.

THE ROOSTER UPSET.

During the summer Henrietta Hen roamed about the farmyard as she pleased. To be sure, she always came a-running at feeding time. But except when there was something to eat she didn't go near the henhouse. She "stole her nest," to use Johnnie Green's words, now in one place and now in another. And at night she roosted on any handy place in the barn or the haymow, under the carriage shed, or even over the pigpens.

However, when the nights began to grow chilly Henrietta was glad enough to creep into the henhouse with her companions. She always retired early, and being a good sleeper she slept usually until the Rooster began to crow towards dawn. Of course, now and then some fidgety hen fancied that she heard a fox prowling about and waked everybody else with her squalls.

Such interruptions upset Henrietta. After the flock had gone to sleep again Henrietta Hen was more than likely to dream that Fatty Coon was in the henhouse, and she would squawk right out and start another commotion.

Luckily such disturbances didn't happen every night. Often nothing occurred to break the silence of the henhouse; and Henrietta would dream only of pleasant things, such as cracked corn, or crisp cabbage leaves, or bone meal. After dreams of that sort Henrietta couldn't always be sure, when the Rooster waked her with his crowing, that she hadn't already breakfasted. But she would peck at her breakfast, when feeding time came, and if it tasted good she would know then that the other food had been nothing but a dream.

"A skunk is after me!" he bawled

One night, soon after she had gone back to roost in the henhouse it seemed to Henrietta that she had scarcely fallen asleep when the Rooster crowed.

She awoke with a start.

"Goodness!" she exclaimed under her breath. "I must have slept soundly for I haven't dreamed a single dream all night long." Then she noticed that none of the other hens had stirred. "Lazy bones!" Henrietta remarked to the Rooster. "You won't get 'em up in a hurry. They don't hear you at all."

To her surprise she received no answer.

"He couldn't have heard me," she said to herself. So she repeated her speech in a louder tone. And still the Rooster made no reply.

Henrietta couldn't understand it; he was always so polite to the ladies. Could it be that he was snubbing her?"

Henrietta grew a bit angry as that thought popped into her head.

"What's the matter?" she snapped. "Have you lost your voice?" It was loud enough to wake me up a few moments ago."

Receiving no response whatsoever, Henrietta completely lost her temper. "I'll see what's wrong with you!" she cackled. And throwing herself off her roost, though it was dark as a pocket in the henhouse, she flung herself upon the perch just opposite, where she knew the Rooster had slept.

It was no wonder that Henrietta Hen blundered in the dark. It was no wonder that she missed her way and stumbled squarely into the Rooster, knocking him headling on the floor.

He set up a terrible clamor, and he made Henrietta Hen angrier than ever, for he cried out in a loud voice something that would have displeased anybody. "A skunk is after me," he bawled.

GREAT WORK TO BE DONE AMONG 25,000 CANADIAN SAILORS ON GREAT LAKES

Mrs. Blanche Reed-Johnston, of Toronto, one of the world officers of the W. C. T. U., last night addressed an interesting gathering, arranged at Mrs. Roland Hill's home in Tecumseh avenue, choosing as her subject, the work being carried on among the Canadian sailors. Mrs. Johnston pointed out that no less than 25,000 Canadian sailors are in service on our Canadian Great Lakes, and the lighthouse keepers of the coast lines are also worthy of some attention and care. Mrs. Johnston, who is in charge of the evangelistic work of the W. C. T. U. in the province, pointed out also the need for continued attention to the soldiers still in hospital, who are regularly supplied with literature from this department.

SIDE TALKS

—BY— RUTH CAMERON

THE WORST MALE FAULT.

What do you consider the commonest typically male fault and what the commonest typically female fault?

A Letter Friend says there has been a discussion in her home on that subject and she would like to quote Ruth Cameron on it.

I suspect it is dangerous business being quoted in that way, but still one likes to oblige where one can, and since all the world is either male or female, a discussion of the peculiar characteristic of each usually has a highly personal interest to readers.

Suppose we take the more important sex first. (You can give that word whatever shade of meaning you like. I have heard it used meaning self-important, haven't you?)

It seems to me that the worst male fault is his inability to be wrong.

I call it the worst because so many other faults flow naturally out of it.

Someone has cleverly said on this subject, "It must be a terrible responsibility to have to be always right."

And it is, such a terrible one that it drives the 900 and 99 out of a thousand males who possess it into all sorts of uncomfortable corners—corners from which they can only get out in ways that do not do them credit.

For instance, the head of the household has blamed someone for mislaying something of his. Presently it is discovered that he had mislaid it. If this fact were referred to in his presence it would seem to prove him wrong so he will show signs of such a disposition to bad temper that the family knows better than to say much about it.

Something goes wrong with the automobile; it is discovered that the head of the household failed to have a proper supply of oil. One would think he might feel himself to blame. Not at all, his wife is to blame "because her aunt is Presbyterian."

The husband of a busy mother of several children is attracted to some younger woman (not the mother of several children) and indulges in a desperate flirtation with her. One might think this is a trifle hard on the wife, as a matter of fact he is the injured party, his wife is so busy with the children that she does not give him as much time as she used to, so it is her fault that he seeks consolation elsewhere.

Men are usually considered the juster sex. Perhaps they are in their dealings with each other, but it does not seem to me that in their dealings with women they are any more just than women. How can they be when they always have to be right? Truly it is a terrible responsibility. No wonder their principles sometimes go down before it.

Y.W.C.A. BOARD.

Routine business, with reports from all the departments, was the main feature of the meeting of the Y.W.C.A. board yesterday afternoon. On account of the bad weather there was only a small attendance, with Mrs. C. King in the chair, but the reports all showed satisfactory progress. It was decided that the association would send a resolution of sympathy to the family of the late Lady Beck, who was a life member. Being unable to secure Miss Florence Sims, the international secretary, as the speaker for the association meeting to be held shortly, it was found necessary to get in touch with someone else at an early date.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

YOU HAVE A BEAUTIFUL FACE

BUT YOUR NOSE?

In this day and age attention to your appearance is an absolute necessity if you expect to make the most out of life. Not only should you wish to appear as attractive as possible, for your own self-saisfaction, which is alone well worth your efforts, but you will find the world in general judging you greatly, if not wholly, by your "looks," therefore it pays to "look your best" at all times. Permit no one to see you looking otherwise; it will injure your welfare! Upon the impression you constantly make rests the failure or success of your life. Which is to be your ultimate destiny? My latest Nose-Shaper, "Trados Model 25" U. S. Patent, with six adjustable pressure regulators and made of light polished metal, corrects now ill-shaped noses without operation, quickly, safely and permanently. Diseased cases excepted. Does not interfere with one's work, being worn at night.

Write to-day for free booklet, which tells you how to correct ill-shaped noses without cost if not satisfactory.

Difficult To Keep Your Hair Wavy? Read This

If you have not yet tried the new way, the silmerine way, by all means do so. You'll never again use the ruinous heated iron. The curliness will appear so perfectly natural and the hair will be so beautifully lustrous, instead of dried and parched. Thus liquid silmerine serves also as a beneficial dressing for the hair. It is neither sticky nor greasy, but quite pleasant to use. It should be applied with a clean toothbrush before putting up the hair, drawing the brush through the hair from root to tip.

The hair will have the loveliest curls and waves imaginable in three hours, and it will be easy to manage, no matter how you do it up. A few ounces of the liquid from your druggist will last a long time.—Advt.

CHARGES CRERAR AFTER A SALARY

Even Bigger Than That Paid Premier of Canada

GEORGE T. GEDDES SPEAKS

Organize Young Men's N.L.C. at St. Thomas

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter.)—That Hon. T. A. Crerar had left the Government and was now working for the farmers because it meant a big salary for him, even bigger than that paid the premier of the Dominion, was the opinion expressed by George T. Geddes, ex-mayor of the city and a former Liberal, in the course of a stirring address at the organization meeting of a Young Men's National Liberal and Conservative Association here to-night. Mr. Geddes declared that he had been converted during the reciprocity campaign of 1911, and since then he has always been a strong supporter of the Conservative party. He saw in the approaching campaign an exact replica of the 1911 affair, and declared that the same result would follow the voting on December 6.

Mr. Geddes stated that there are three men seeking political leadership to-day, two of them were "little fellows" while the other was a broad-minded man and, altho small physically, he stood for the biggest policy of them all. Hon. T. A. Crerar could not be blamed for leaving the Government when the facts were known, because he was apparently one of those selfish-minded persons who are out for self, first, last and always, and he was to-day receiving a far larger salary than even the premier of the Dominion for his services as leader of the Agrarian forces.

WHAT ABOUT KING.

"As for Mackenzie King, where did he stand when the war was on? asked the speaker amid loud applause. He jumped over to the United States, where he got a job with a big fat salary and I don't suppose he gave a five cent piece to war work, unless he got caught during a tag day. Laughter.) The speaker likened the doctrine of the free traders, which covered both the Liberal and U.F.O. parties, to a small stream running one way with a large flood approaching it. The flood would eventually drown out the stream and whn it was swamped the tide would have to turn in the opposite direction. He said that with all goods coming into Canada and none going out it was impossible to build up a country.

"I am in favor in a reduction of the tariff when it is possible, but we have got to protect our industries and build up an industrial Canada," he said.

The meeting was undoubtedly the most enthusiastic on record and was unique in that only young men had charge of the whole proceedings. The officers elected are all young men who have only recently taken a part in politics, some of them not having participated in the great fight before. They are as follows:

President, Walter Winder; vice-presidents, Reg. W. Kidner, Archie Vicary, Charles Marple, Lorne Lodge, E. Meehan and William Brown. Fred. Singer was named secretary-treasurer.

MEET ON FRIDAY.

The clubrooms were packed to capacity and the work of organizing the subdivisions of the city was undertaken immediately after the meeting. An adjournment was then made to meet on Friday and complete the organization of committees.

Addresses were delivered to-night by George Spackman, Archie Vicary, Lorne Lodge, Charles Marple, E. Meehan, Wm. Brown, R. W. Kidner, E. O. Boehmer and other local young men.

Hugh C. McKillop, the newly chosen candidate, was also present and consulted with the newly-elected workers.

Forty-one soldier dead, eight of whom were Detroiters, will pass through St. Thomas on the M. C. R. on Thursday morning on the final stage of the journey to rest on native soil. Thirty-three bodies of the consignment will continue to towns and villages in Michigan, Ohio and Indiana for burial. Each is escorted by a soldier.

The death took place on Tuesday evening at the residence, Talbot street east, of Gladys Sikora, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sikora, age six years, of diphtheria. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to the Catholic Cemetery, and was private.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

Judgment was reserved by Judge Colter to-day at the division court sittings in the case of Powers versus Branston, action being over a horse purchased by Charles Branston jr., of Payne's mills, several months ago from H. B. Powers, well-known horse dealer of this district. A note was given in part payment of the animal, but Mr. Branston objected to paying the note and asked that the horse be taken back, claiming that it had been misrepresented and was balky. Mr. Powers had refused to take back the horse, claiming that the animal had been sold with a 48-hour guarantee and should have been returned within that time, if unsatisfactory. Mr. Branston told the court that he had heard nothing mentioned about such a guarantee when the deal was closed. The plaintiff submitted considerable evidence to show that the horse had never exhibited balkiness prior to being sold to the defendant, while the defendant produced several witnesses who swore to the horse being unmanageable. Mr. Flood, a London teamster and a former owner of the horse, suggested that the balkiness might have been caused through the use of an improperly fitting collar, but the defendant and the father swore that the collar suggested had been tried out on the animal without success.

CHARGE ENLARGED.

Harold Buston, taxi driver, appeared in police court on Wednesday on a charge of nonsupport of his wife, Mrs. Lillian Buston. On account of Buston's counsel being out of the city the case was enlarged. Buston appeared on a similar complaint some time ago and arranged to pay his wife $10 a week. It is alleged that he has failed to carry out the agreement.

IS SEEING BELIEVING?

"Seeing is believing," but the belief thus founded may not be rational. Seeing, reviewed, and, if necessary, revised by the reasoning faculty, will then be soundly based. Only from such process can facts be borne—facts, the sole building material with which science can work. The senses are by no means a sure guide; the very best they can do is to appreciate phenomena; that is appearances. The stick appears broken in the pail of water; reason assures it is not. Using a bright spoon for a mirror, one appears variously as he holds the spoon inside or outside, or up or down, or sideways; but it is to be hoped one does not look any of those ways in reality. Cross the middle over the index finger; roll their tops over a bread pellet in the palm of the other hand, and the sense of touch will convey the impression of two pellets; but reason corrects the impression, and convinces us there is but one. Reason must ever bring judgment, memory and experience to bear upon the perceptions which the senses convey to the cerebrum; by these means reason must constantly be rectifying false sense.

It is amazing how frequently the imagination plays fast and loose with the sense functions—delusions, illusions and hallucinations being the result. Le Bon, in his fascinating book, "The Crowd, a Study of the Popular Mind," tells of a crew shipwrecked upon a raft, who kept eagerly scanning the horizon for a sail. After some days of watching one of those poor men, his psychism perturbed by his sufferings, being obsessed through desiring to see a rescue ship, unquestionably saw something; and so desperate was the hope of his companions that one and all agreed with him and the thing he pointed out was a vessel which could rescue them. When they came upon it, however, they found it but a tree which had evidently been uprooted and had gone adrift in an equatorial storm.

Tuke, in his admirable book, "The Influence of the Mind on the Body," relates how a boy who had on an afternoon seen a hanging, which had naturally affected him, took a stroll along a country road in the evening of that dreadful day. He presently saw projected against the moon-lit sky the gibbet of the afternoon and the criminal suspended from it. He ran home dreadfully frightened, to find that a cord dangling over the brim of his hat had, by his overwrought imagination, been metamorphosed into the aerial gallows.

POTATOES FOR RUSSIA CAUSE OF LEGAL ACTION

OTTAWA, Oct. 19. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Judgment was reserved in the Supreme Court yesterday in the case of the Canadian Pacific Railway vs. Hatfield and Scott. This case arose out of the refusal of the Russian Government to carry out a contract with the respondents, from whom the Soviet Government had purchased several carloads of potatoes. These potatoes were shipped via the C. P. R. to New York, whereon the refusal of the Russian Government to carry out its contract they were placed in a warehouse by the railway company, which notified the respondents of the situation. Because the C. P. R. did not notify them before putting the potatoes in the warehouse, the firm of Hatfield & Scott brought action. The potatoes sprouted and were abandoned by the respondents.

NORFOLK LIBERALS TO STAY OUT OF CAMPAIGN

SIMCOE, October 19.—The Liberals of Norfolk, at a convention held here to-day, decided not to put a candidate in the field for the federal election. This conclusion was arrived at after lengthy discussion. Just what attitude the party members will assume is not known at the present time. One thing is certain, and that is they are in no way furthering the interests of the U.F.O.

As a result of this decision there will be only two candidates in Norfolk: W. Sutton, N.L.C., and J. [illegible], U.F.O.

SUING FOR $216.50.—The D. S. Perrin Company, Ltd., through their solicitors, Meredith & Fisher, have issued a writ in the county court against C. J. Quick, of Arner, Ont., for $216.50, which they claim is due them for goods sold and delivered to the defendant.

HEAVY FINES IMPOSED ON INSURANCE COMPANIES

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19.—Chancellor V. J. Stricker to-day issued a decree in the Hinds County Chancery Court imposing fines aggregating nearly $9,500,000 on life insurance companies formerly doing business in this state. Thirty-three companies were fined $195,875. Others were fined from $1,000 upward.

Get Wincarnis To-day —and Feel Better To-morrow

—for WINCARNIS acts quickly—and its benefits are lasting

WINCARNIS is more than a passing stimulant—it is a Tonic, Restorative and Blood-maker. It contains the very elements of which our bodies are composed, so that when these enter the system in the form of WINCARNIS—they are bound to benefit you immediately.

Your body contains Iron and Manganese, Calcium, Potassium, Sodium, Phosphorus. So does WINCARNIS, and the wonderful part of the WINCARNIS formula is that it has all these mineral salts in scientific proportions, together with Beef and Malt Extracts.

When you are Ill and Run Down, your body lacks these elements. WINCARNIS gives them back to you—restores the richness of your blood—strengthens your nerves—creates energy—and gives you new life and health.

The Economy of Wincarnis

The ingredients in Wincarnis are highly concentrated. The prescribed dose is one to two tablespoonfuls, (not wineglassfuls as in the former preparation).

The new Wincarnis therefore, will go further, and be found more economical than other tonics, so-called, requiring a much larger dose.

Begin To-day to Get Well

WINCARNIS is the world's greatest tonic. Doctors recommend WINCARNIS, and thousands testify to its wonderful results.

YOU try it. Buy a bottle to-day. At all druggists. Price $1.50 for 16-oz. bottle.

Coach Taylor, of Collegiate Squad, Uncovers Good Boy In Beard

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

Three More Days At Mt. Clemens

Rain Yesterday Makes It Impossible to Race the Harness Horses

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 19.—Heavy rain this morning made it impossible to attempt racing here to-day and the "short ship" program was laid over until Thursday.

Three events are on the card, the 2.18 trot, which has 10 entries; the 2.12 pace, which has eight, and the 2.24 trot, which has 12. It is expected there will be three days more of racing.

Many of the horses will remain here for the winter meeting, January 22 to 27. Manager Taylor says he is assured more entries than for any previous winter meeting.

Because of the lateness of the season the meeting at Dexter Park, Detroit, has been called off.

Prepares Local Collegiate For St. Thomas Game

Workout With Western U. To-Day, Then Woodstock on Saturday Is on Program

With his heart set on reducing the sizes of the bonnets worn by the St. Thomas Collegiate rugby squad next Tuesday afternoon Coach A. T. Taylor, of the London Collegiate football team, has mapped out a strenuous procedure of preparation.

This afternoon his team will work out against Western University's first team and will throw all they have against the big fellows, using every branch of rugby tactics to hold them.

A likely workout on Friday, after class hours, will conclude the plans, but another Oxford-Middlesex fixture with Woodstock College, in the form of a curtain-raiser to the Varsity-Western U. game, is on tapis for Saturday afternoon.

Actual games is the best dispensation for further battles and if that does not get the desired effect in addition to the careful coaching of how this play and that should be made does not bear fruit against the St. Thomas aggregation on Tuesday nothing will.

It is rather a stiff assignment to expect the L. C. I. to master the experienced St. Thomas crew, but willingness to learn and team spirit is worth something. Perhaps it is interesting to note that only two members of this year's Collegiate team have played rugby before. Taking that into consideration, while St. Thmoas, on the other hand, has players who are in their fifth year, the latter should be able to notch more points.

The situation, as it presented itself in the first game at St. Thomas, when the locals were downed by 30 to 1, appeared to be a case of stage fright, and that to some extent came via the threat route from some of the home-town huskies.

Beard's Four Touchdowns Put London Collegiate Victors Over Woodstock

Husky Unknown Tramples Through Opposition and Makes Terrific Holes Through Visiting Collegiate's Line; Final Score 28-8

The London Collegiate football team defeated Woodstock Collegiate in an Oxford-Middlesex Interscholastic Union fixture at Tecumseh Pary yesterday by 28 to 8, in a fairly well contested sample of rugby.

The locals excelled in line plunging, using a two-man buck with telling effect, while the running and ball carrying of the London halves outshone that of the visitors, this perhaps being due to the fact that the local line was the more stalwart of the two.

Beard, a husky chunk of a lad, playing left middle for the London Collegiate, was undoubtedly the best ball carrier, and plunger on the field, being responsible for the four tries scored by the locals, while Captain George Sessions, another of the local stars, contributed a field goal and accounted for the balance of the one-point tallies secured from the end of his boot.

The Woodstock team battled much of the time on the defensive, but got the early jump on the locals by scoring a try which was converted, shortly after the kick-off. Flynn evaded the whole local line and dodged past the backs, scoring the first touchdown, and then Mullen converted beautifully. This advantage, however, soon dwindled once the locals got their bearings.

Both teams are made up of lads who are more or less new to the strenuous autumn pastime, but despite that showed adaptability and will develop into shifty twelves before the schedule ends.

After Sessions had carried the ball to midfield from the kickoff Crittle and Beard plunged time and again for big gains and an end run by Sessions put the locals but 18 inches from the Woodstock goal line. Beard plunged it over near the touch line, the try getting within one point of Woodstock's pile.

The L. C. I. kept the Woodstock line busy, and soon they found themselves again defending the citadel, and again Beard carried the ball across. Sessions failed to convert the try, as his opportunities were from bad angles.

The quarter ended 10-6 in London's favor.

The tacking of the Woodstock players was in most cases too high, and for that matter both teams committed too much "scragging" in trying to bring the ball carrier to his knees.

Artful dodging by Crittle and Beard put the L. C. I. 20 yards from the Woodstock line early in the second period, and from this position Sessions drop-kicked a fine field-goal, making the score 10 to 6. A rouge on Studdor made the score 14 to 6 at the close of the first half.

THIRD QUARTER.

The high spots in the second half of the game found the locals biting big holes in the Woodstock line, and a blocked punt by Mullen sent Beard over for the third touchdown. Two deadline kicks gave the Woodstock team their additional points before the third quarter ended with the score then 19 to 8.

That the locals are in fairly good condition was emphasized by the fact that they hung on gamely to the end, keeping Woodstock in their territory most of the last 15 minutes of play. A kick to the deadline for three points and another rouge, coupled with Baird's fourth try, made the total score 28-8.

The teams:

Woodstock Collegiate—Kent, flying wing; Coles, Studdor, Mullen, halves; Baker, quarter; Appleford, Gardner, outsides Montfort, Sinclair, middles; Flynn, Gibson, insides; King, center; spares, Roadhouse, Stephenson.

London Collegiate—Hunter, flying wing; Sessions, Crittle, Ardiel, halves; Wilson, quarter; Foote, Daly, outsides; Hill, Murphy, insides; Beard, McCausland, middles; Rourke, Wilkinson, Burrill and Lawrence, spares.

Referee, Mace, Western University; Umpire Entwhistle, Woodstock.

PAPERS ARE OUT FOR DEMPSEY-WILLARD BOUT

CHICAGO, Oct. 19. — "Tex" Richard, boxing promoter, conferred with Jack Kearns, manager of Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, here to-day in an effort to obtain Dempsey's signature to a contract for a championship match with Jess Willard, next July. The men will confer again to-morrow, Rickard said.

Rickard will return to New York to-morrow night. Willard has already signed for the bout. No specific date has been proposed for the bout, and Rickard is undecided as to where it will be held. Willard has not boxed publicly since he lost the championship crown to Dempsey at Toledo, two years ago

High Spots In U. S. Football For Next Saturday

Michigan Meets Ohio State; Chicago Goes to Princeton; Harvard vs. Penna.

Next Saturday's schedule for football in the U.S. includes some of the high spots for 1921, as it is about the best of the whole season, despite unusual earliness.

Michigan meets Ohio State; Illinois and Wisconsin clash; Chicago travels east to meet Princeton; Minnesota meets Indiana; Notre Dame stages its annual battle with Nebraska; the Michigan Aggies meet Kalamazoo Normal; Yale and West Point will fire their big guns; Harvard tackles Penn. State; Cornell and Colgate battle; Penn entertains V. M. I.; Columbia and Dartmouth meet; Brown crashes with its old rival, Springfield; Pitt and Syracuse claw each other in the lair of the Panther; W. and J. hocks up with Lehigh; West Virginia and Bucknell come together; Georgetown and Holy Cross, bitter rivals, fight it out at Worcester; Georgia Tech and Rutgers meet in another intersectional game; Boston college feets U. of D. in the latter's second try for national recognition.

It's a great bill for this week-end, one of the finest that could be arranged.

GAINS AROUND ENDS.

Reading over accounts of the various games one is struck by the gains being made around ends this year. Any number of long gains were made carrying the ball getting outside the ends. This would seem to indicate a lack of fine ends.

From all over the country comes word of excellent backfields with numerous stars springing up as ball carriers.

Most of the big teams are now reaching good form and fine football should be on tap from now on with the ragged play disappearing.

Standing out prominently in Saturday's tilts are O. S. U.'s win over Minnesota and the taming of the Tiger by Annapolis. Spirit won for Ohio State, while sheer power and unabated pressure caused the Navy to defeat Princeton. At Columbus it was a combination of rejuvenated spirit and "the breaks" which, more than anything else, took the Gophers into camp. Simplicity of attack and a great forward wall were the two main factors in the Navy triumph.

Most of the other games, East, West and South, ran true to form. Michigan, in gaining a victory over M. A. C. lost several stars due to injuries. Wisconsin battered down Northwestern. Iowa proved its worth by winning over a really strong but undeveloped Illinois eleven. Notre Dame's versatilty was too much for Purdue; Nebraska had no trouble with Haskell. Oberlin, conqueror of Ohio State, could win by only 13 points over Mt. Union, a team over which Michigan ran wild. West Virginia struck a tartar in Ohio University, winning by a 7-0 socre. Missouri just managed to win over Ames, 17 to 14. Depauw, the "team of mystery," crushed Valparaiso 41 to 0. Marquette, which plays M. A. C. a week from Saturday, ran up 55 points on Campion. Center, due principally to the efforts of "Bo" McMillan, managed 28 points on St. Xavier while the latter team was getting 6.

In the East, West Point with the same four or five plays trounced Wabash 21 to 0. Harvard had a bit of trouble with Georgia, winning 10 to 7. It will be noted that Harvard substitutes did great work against the southern team. Dartmouth, with a great many substitutes, won over Tennesse, 14 to 3. Yale showed a fine overhead attack to take Williams into camp 23 to 0. Georgetown ran wild over Westminster, 66 to 0. Rutgers took a lucky verdict over Washington and Lee, a strong team from Virginia, 14 to 13. Penn State bounced Lehigh 28 to 3. Swarthmore held Penn to a tie. Penn had to step some to save the game. Columbia won 19 to 0 over N. Y. U. Vermont, a 1921 opponent of University of Detroit, managed to win over Tufts, 6 to 0. Syracuse slashed Brown, showing the power o fthe Meehan machine, Army team which licks Brown 28 to 0 is powerful.

LONDON COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL TEAM

SPORT COMMENT

One or two of the delegates at the annual meeting of the Ontario Curling Association tried hard to have the rules changed so that only the semi-final and the final of the Tankard would be played in Toronto and to support their claim pointed out that the final had to be postponed last year on account of soft ice. Last season was a bad one in every way from a curling standpoint and games had to be called off all over the province. The scheme proposed yesterday was to play the 16 groups as usual and for the winners of 1, 2, 3 and 4 to meet and declare a winner. The same thing was to happen in each section of four groups and then to have only the four clubs left to come to Toronto. Many delegates pointed out that this would mean additional travelling expenses for the curlers, and the amendment was defeated. In connection with the Tankard competition an amendment was passed allowing players who have never played in a Tankard final or who never played vice or skipped in a Tankard primary competition to be eligible for the district cup competition.

Professional hockey in Eastern Canada lost one of its pillars to-day when George Kennedy, manager and principal shareholder of the Canadien Hockey Club, of Montreal, died. Kennedy was popularly supposed to just about run the National Hockey League. Maybe he did not quite do that, but he had a mighty big "say so" in the conduct of its affairs. He and his Canadien team of veterans were, until the last year or so, when age commenced to tell on Lalonde, Pitre & Co., always the team to beat for the pro title. They won the gonfalon more often than any other team in the N. H. L. In the old days Kennedy used to be a bit rough on the referees in his league when things did not go to suit his team, but in the later years he reached the prevailing idea that if any game was to be made a permanent success that the officials had to be backed up by the officers of the league and that the good of the league at large must be placed ahead of the advantage of the individual team. Kennedy first broke into sport as a wrestler and as a lightweight and welterweight grappler he engaged in mat matches all over Canada, and in many places in the United States. He was for years the best man at his weight in Canada. Later he took on the promotion of wrestling matches in Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec and the management of Eugene Tremblay, the Canadian lightweight champion. Kennedy made a lot of money out of the wrestling game, particularly in Montreal, where he brought all the famous heavyweights and showed them weekly. Kennedy's death was due to the after effects of the flu. He contracted the disease along with several members of his team out in Seattle in 1919, at the Stanley cup series, which ended in a draw, two games each, because the Canadiens were unable to muster a team for the final game against Seattle, the coast champions. Joe Hall, Kennedy's famous defense man, died out there from the disease and Kennedy was left with a heart affection which ultimately resulted in his death. The Canadien team will probably be carried on by Kennedy's brother. Between sporting seasons George Kennedy ran a big cartage business. He was worth considerable money. He leaves a widow and one child, a girl. President Fred Hambly, of the Toronto Professional Hockey Club, has forwarded a wreath and will represent the club at the funeral.

Status of Amateur To Be Determined

Secretary Battrun, of Alberta Branch of A.A.U. of C., Starts Movement

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—E. D. Battrum, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta branch of the A.A.U., has the following to say on the amateur situation:

"With the closing of the summer and outdoor athletic season comes the approach of the annual meetings of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada and its various branches.

"During the past 12 months there has been an increasing agitation throughout the Dominion of Canada regarding the status of so-called amateur athletes. "When is an amateur not an amateur is the question that is paramount in the minds of all those responsible for the control of amateur sport in Canada to-day.

"The outstanding feature of the past summer was the refusal of the executive of the Dominion A.A.U. to permit any amateurs registering with the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada or its branches to participate in exhibition games against the International Scottish football team that the Dominion of Canada Football Association had invited to tour Canada in order to show adherents of the British game in the Dominion just how the game is now being played in the mther country.

NOISE LAST DECEMBER

At the annual meeting of the Dominion A.A.U., held in Winipeg last December a great noise was made regarding the existing differences between the A.A.U. of Canada and D.F.A. A lengthy resolution was prepared and after much debate adopted and a permanent committee appointed with Judge Jackson, of Lethbridge, Alta., vice-president of the A.A.U. of C., as chairman. Has any good resulted from this action? Has this standing committee accomplished anything? Was this committee consulted by the executive of the A.A.U. of C. before the edict regarding the Scottish footballers was issued?

"The only reason given by the executive of the A.A.U. of C. for their ruling was that the constitution of their association did not provide for any alternative.

"How ridiculous this statement was will readily be seen upon comparing it with the lengthy resolution mentioned above. Another pregnant feature was the fact that at least one branch of the A.A.U. of C. told the parent body to saw wood and took upon itself the responsibility of granting permission to its members to participate in any games they wished against the visiting soccer team."

GEORGE KENNEDY DIES.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—George Kennedy, noted Montreal sport promoter and ex-lightweight wrestling champion of Canada, died this morning after a long illness.

Mr. Kennedy was creator and manager of the Canadien Hockey Club, which has a team in the National Hockey League and won the Stanley cup, emblematic of the hockey championship of Canada. He wrestled under the name of George Kendal.

What Chance Has Tiger To Defeat Toronto Argos?

Hamilton Figures That Big Four Leaders Have Developed Clever Interference

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Hamilton figures that Argonauts have evolved interference much more cleverly than the Tigers. They have also come to the conclusion that Argos are a one-man team, meaning Conacher. Summing it all up, the experts up there figure the odds at two to one on Argonauts and not much Hamilton money in sight. The plan to be followed is, of course, to "stop Conacher," but he hasn't been halted yet and it is doubtful whether the Tigers can slow him up. It is also a matter of thought that, while Conacher is attracting the attention of the stoppers, other Argos may not develop into stars during the afternoon. It often happens that way.

INTERCOLLEGIATE RACE.

Queen's will engage McGill in the intercollegiate at Montreal on Saturday, while Toronto rests up and develops. McGregor, of McGill, is down with appendicitis, but the other casualties will be able to play against Queen's. The Kingstonians, by virtue of a 9-to-5 win over Varsity, lead the union, but they play at McGill on Saturday and at Toronto on November 5—two games abroad—and Varsity certainly will be an improved team by November 5. As a matter of fact, the intercollegiate is only well started.

BRITISH RUGBY.

With Parkdale and Toronto playing under the Canadian code before the intercollegiate fixture between the British rugger teams, representing Varsity and McGill at the Stadium on Saturday, local football enthusiasts will be afforded a good opportunity to compare the different and diverse styles of play. The U. of T. will field a first-class fifteen against their noted rivals and there is little doubt but that they will make the fleet Montrealers extend themselves. There is no finer punter in the country than McNiven, the clever back of the Blue and White, according to experts who have seen this star in action, while Russell brothers, formerly of Belfast University, are credited with being great ball carriers and tacklers. Croll, the well-known runner; Caple and Ross, late of the Universtiy of British Columbia, are also rated as exceptional players.

M.A.A.A. RECALLS FORMER RUGBY STARS

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—Frank McGill and Tim Murray, former stars of the M. A. A. A. rugby squad, were out with the Winged Wheelers and went through a strenuous practice in preparation for the the remaining scheduled games of the team in the interprovincial. The addition of the two players to the roster of the M. A. A. A. club team will greatly bolster up the strength of the red and blue. Murray will start at inside on Saturday when the team lines up against the Senators at Ottawa. It is hardly likely that McGill will figure in the Ottawa fixture, but the former quarter will be ready to don the uniform in the Tiger game here on October 29.

Western U. Footballers To Be Ready Saturday

"Buster" Reid Begins Task of Instilling Brand of Rugby That Made McGill Famous; He Wants to Defeat University of Toronto

Lieut.-Col. G. Eric Reid was seen hard at work drilling football knowledge into the eager ears of Western University's big squad at Tecumseh Park yesterday afternoon, and, while his efforts were confined to mostly heart-to-heart talks with his linesmen and then with the backs, he unduobtedly left an impression on their minds.

Some of the ideas that aided McGill to become noted for its football pastiming will be instilled into Western, or it will be no fault of "Buster" Reid, who was one of the best linesmen the big Montreal university ever turned out.

With a view to comparing a variety of attack and defense, hurriedly as it must be done in time to take effect for the game here on Saturday with Toronto University, "Buster" Reid will utilize every afternoon for two hours in an effort toward whipping the willing Western crew into a football machine. He has wel-defined plans, but his first attempt towards making Western play football will be confined to several of the simplest forms of gaining and holding ground.

The material for a winning team are at his disposal, and a tiny bit of aid in getting the boys out in the daylight for practice will undoubtedly help a whole lot in putting across the desired effect.

OPEN WITH WOODSTOCK.

The London Collegiate will play their second home game in the Oxford-Middlesex Rugby Union on Saturday afternoon as the opening game before the Western-Varsity contest, with Woodstock College, at Tecumseh Park.

The L. C. I. displayed just enough football in yesterday's game with the W. C. I. to encourage Coach Taylor, who is beginning to see the fruits of toil. The team spirit shown and their aggressiveness were most convincing and with the confidence that the victory makes means much to the success of the football at the Collegiate.

Championship football teams are not made in one year or two, but let what has been started continue, and the results are bound to find L. C. I. becoming noted for the developing of embryo rugby stars.

St. Marys Defeats Toronto Senior O.A.L.A. Champs

Win by 8 to 6 Yesterday in St. Marys, But Lose the Round for Dual Title by Four Goals

ST. MARYS, Oct. 19.—St. Marys intermediates defeated the Toronto Riversides seniors a score of 8 to 6 here to-day before one of the largest crowds of the season. The game was played on a wet field, which greatly handicapped both teams, preventing the usual fast play.

The battle opened up with both teams checking their men closely, but Smith managed to beat the Toronto goalie for the first score in about 10 minutes of play. Toronto came back strong, scoring three before the first period ended. Riversides, 3; St. Marys, 1.

The second period opened with the ball traveling up and down the field. Lavelle managed to score in about five minutes of play. W. Lavelle repeating the trick before the end of the period, making the count three-all.

The third quarter was featured with hard checking on both sides. McGregor, of the Riversides, got a hard knock on the foot, which compelled him to retire for the balance of the period. Smith, of the St. Marys team, going off to even up. Riversides scored near the end of the period.

The fourth period opened with a rush, Cowan scoring the first goal for the locals. Stewart made a nice play from a face-off just back of the nets, taking the ball on a pass and dropping it in from behind. The game was all St. Marys' during this quarter, when the locals got working to form, completely outplaying the visitors.

St. Marys scored six goals to the visitors' two during this period, the game ending with the score 8 to 6.

Riversides had a lead of six goals to bring with them from Toronto after Saturday's game, thereby winning the round by four goals. The line-up:

Toronto Wants One Game For Junior Title

STRATFORD, Oct. 19.—Mr. Edgar Ellis left for Toronto this afternoon to attend a meeting of the sub-committee of the O. B. A., where he will make efforts on behalf of the Stratford juniors to have home-and-home games with the Toronto club, instead of a sudden-death game, the plan urged by the Toronto lads. The Toronto club is pressing for a sudden-death game at Guelph next Saturday. The local boys want to play in Toronto on Saturday, here on Monday or Tuesday, and, if necessary, the rubber at Guelph a week from Saturday.

The Great Volo Proves Too Classy

Cox's Peter the Great Colt Wins From Gilladar and Marge the Great at Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 19.—Little competition developed in the Grand Circuit races here to-day. In the 2.12 trot The Great Volo easily outclassed the field and won in straight heats.

In the free-for-all trot Cox, who had piloted The Great Volo, drove E. Colorado to three successive victories, though he was pushed in the second heat by Charley Rex and compelled to step a mile in 2.04¾.

Edna Early, driven by Thomas, won the first two heats of the 2.03 pace, pretty much as she pleased, but was outraced by Hazel Keustner in the third heat.

Peter Manning, bay gelding, of the Murphy stables, was sent against the local track record of 1.59, and incidentally to try to beat his own world's trotting record of 1.57¾, made a fortnight ago, but the best he did was 1.59¾. Summaries:

GUELPH-HILLCREST GAME POSTPONED, RAIN

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—The Guelph-Hillcrest Ontario championship baseball game has been postponed until Saturday afternoon at Scarboro Beach.

Both the Guelph and Hillcrest players appeared at the park this afternoon before scheduled starting time, but the incessant rain forced postponement of the game. The visitors came to Toronto prepared to atone for their defeat in Guelph last Saturday. Manager Stewart Clarke announced that Fred Whetstone would start in the box for the Royal City team. By postponing the game until Saturday the visitors should benefit, as Whetstone's injured arm has longer to improve, and Hillcrests may be lacking some of their players.

McGILL'S CRUCIAL GAME WITH QUEEN'S

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—With a crucial game in the intercollegiate series scheduled for next Saturday against the Queen's University squad, the McGill team has settled down in earnest to prepare for the struggle.

Technical Plays Woodstock College At Queen's To-Day

Oxford-Middlesex Rugby Fixture on Program This Afternoon

The London Technical Institute football team will meet the Woodstock College team at Queen's Park this afternoon in the game that was postponed here on Wednesday of last week. The game is another Oxford-Middlesex rugby union affair.

Mr. Fisher will probably referee the match, while the visiting team will furnish the umpire. The game will start at 3.30.

The Techs are anxious to return the drubbing the College twelve gave them on the occasion of their first meeting earlier in the season. The Techs have been drilling diligently and if Woodstock College did not assimilate too much football in their game at St. Thomas last Saturday the locals ought to have a fair chance to win to-day.

The Techs' line-up includes:
Center—Mills.
Quarter—Birch.
Right outside—Kennedy.
Right middle—Gardner.
Left middle—McKenough.
Right inside—Northcott.
Left inside—Barnard.
Flying wing—Spence.
Right half—Appleyard.
Center half—Kennedy.
Left half—Loveless.
Substitutes — Goodman, Hadden, Thomas, Gunther, Dunlevy, Casselman, Adams.

FELL OUT OF TREE

DRESDEN, Oct. 20.—George Kerr met with a serious accident yesterday afternoon. He was helping his son-in-law, Ed Cole, of Dawn Township, pick apples when in some way he fell from a tree and was very badly injured. Dr. McMurchy was summoned. Mr. Kerr was removed to his home in Dresden and on examination it was found that his collar bone was broken, five ribs were cracked and he was otherwise bruised. Fortunately there were no internal injuries, and, although he is suffering severe pain, he is doing as well as can be expected.

The weekly Thistle eucher will be held on Friday evening. Last Friday saw many new entries in the contest, with all the old ones still going strong. The competition is all ready becoming close and next evening should see over 75 enthusiastic players. All city bowlers or curlers are welcome and asked to bring their friends. The leading averagers are: A. M. Trick, 7.00; J. F. Bryant, 6.93; J. C. Ross, 6.93. Lone hand specialists: I. Durkin, 7; J. C. Ross, 6; J. F. Bryant, 6.

Quality Without Extravagance

A Local Store Has Definite Policy.

"Because I enjoy the trade of London's elite and carry the latest fashions in men's wear do not think my prices are high," says Leo Watson.

"Semi-ready Tailoring is built on quality at the lowest possible price for quality wear, and a Semi-ready Suit at $35 is a bargain any time.

"Every garment I sell is bench-tailored and shape-stayed to last—nothing but quality.

"I like to show the better lines, of course," he concluded, "but I have a suit for every purse and now is the time to see them—while I have all these extra lines on display for Semi-ready Week."—Advt. f

GOOD WISHES FOR U. S. SCHOONER ELSIE

NEW YORK, Oct. 19.—In an editorial devoted to wishing the Elsie "good luck" in the race for the International Fishermen's trophy off Halifax next Saturday The Tribune this morning says that for a time it looked as though Canadians might have to fall back on the Delawana to challenge for the trophy, "but evidently," the paper continues, "judging from the Blue Nose's performance in the second and winning elimination race on Monday last, when she led the Delawana home by 16 minutes and 21 seconds, Canada has produced a new worthy champion.

"With Captain Marty Welch in command the Elsie is on her way down East to the scene of the race off Halifax. 'Come Saturday,' they still say along the Nova Scotia coast, 'let the Elsie be at her best and the Blue Nose at her best and the weather a smootful—real banks weather!'

"And may the Elsie prove as true to Marty Welch as his last year's sweetheart, the Esperanto."

BOLSHEVIK RESORT

here Women Bathe Nude While Men Look On.

One of the staff correspondents of the Associated Press, who entered the Soviet Russia when Lenine opened the doors of that country to admit American food and relief workers, started from Constantinople and proceeded to the Black Sea ports of Trebizond and Batum. He went on to Tiflis, in Soviet Georgia, and thence, apparently, across the Carpathian Mountains to the Lower Volga River district, the heart of the famine country. Then he moved northward and finally reached Moscow, traversing the territory to which American food was sent. On the way he sent cabled reports, giving first-hand information of conditions in the famine district.

In the appended article he describes in detail the conditions he observed in Batum and Tiflis.

BATUM, Sept. 20.—(By Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.)—Entrance into Russia through the Black Sea may be compared to a visit to a headed battle front. There's lots of air of death and destruction, but somehow one does not find them. These elements to uneasy sleep seem to lurk always just a little farther along.

The traveler has himself rammed full of vaccines, vaccines against cholera, pest, smallpox and typhoid, is made properly ill in advance, only to find that these diseases are just now out of season. The only thing he needs is quinine, not for himself, but for malaria patients about the seaports.

Fear of Russia should not be based on fear of violence, of bodily hurt, so much as to the discomfort of living in a land where social and economic conditions are very hard. Money is hard to earn. Dock laborers at Batum, when they work, may earn 8,000 roubles, or 50 cents per day, and this is the price of two pounds of bread.

TUATION AS USUAL.

After all the stories of revolutions and counter-revolutions, the murders and worst-not, one is distinctly surprised to find people going about as usual. There seem to be more people than ever before. One wonders where they come from. They swarm about the cities, the main stations in the country as thick as ants.

Yet, rich and poor seem alike engaged in the process of getting out of Russia. Many of the rich have done so. Their life has been broken up, their social life, their life of educating and rearing families. Their manner of living and thinking doesn't fit into the new chaos in which they prefer to get to Constantinople—so much so that it has become almost a Russian city—and thence filter through to Europe and there live on charity and their wits. Some manage to retain wrecks of their fortunes, for Russia was rich beyond the dreams of Western Europe. Everybody seems to have had gold and jewels in abundance. Those with property are still hoping away, and without too much difficulty or hindrance from the Soviet. Only they must use caution. A certain Melikov, the Russian-Armenian owner of the newspaper, Horizon, in Tiflis, had his home requisitioned, so got leave to depart to Constantinople. In the way his baggage was searched, a diary was found telling his inmost reflections about the Bolsheviki and the new order of life, a diary that he possibly was intending to publish. The Tiflis man was haled before the "Cheka," the secret police with extraordinary powers, from whose decision there is no recourse, and he was executed.

Landing from one of the various passenger and freight vessels that run weekly in and out of Batum to and from Constantinople, the traveler finds that the Bolsheviki are not such dreadful people after all. It is far easier than getting to or from ship in Constantinople, where the allies reign.

ARDS AT GANGPLANK.

There are a lot of guards at the gangplank, to steer departing travelers through the customs, but almost anyone passes back and forth who wishes. There first the formality of telling the port controller who you are. He is a good-humored, patient, glorified "Red Guard," who knows no language but Russian, and that indifferently, there are many dialects of Russian. He wears a peaked cap, pushed on the back of his head, with a red star and the spade and shovel of labor.

The passengers, who have carefully collected all sorts of credentials in Constantinople from Soviet commercial missions, crowd about him and he takes their names and looks casually at their papers. The Americans, who have only a bit of typewritten paper, a receipt from the United States consul, for their passports, generally have a Soviet letter in addition. The control officer won't stamp their papers afresh to show they may land. He merely indicates with a wave of the hand that passengers may embark, and they do, to the surprise that they have not been disturbed. Travelers in Europe are so in the habit of being bothered that they think something is wrong here, that they haven't been.

Ashore, in the sunshine, amid the tree-lined streets, sitting in a carriage with rubber tires, driving to a good restaurant, the traveler is still wondering why something hasn't happened to him, but it probably will not so long as he has money to pay his way and especially if he is an American, thanks to American charity influence and the general good standing of Americans in the hearts of the people.

In Batum, now controled by the Moscow Soviets, affairs seem to slip along in a certain loose groove. Nobody worries much about the political changes, they do fear the "Cheka."

TH WITHOUT SUITS

The most notable social change in the people of this little San Francisco, set on the seashore amid palms and flowers, at the foot of a fertile hill country, is that on the beach. In the old days girls and women of the city used to bathe often without bathing suits in a space set aside for them, where no men were allowed. During the past few years the wire fence shutting off the space has been stolen, and the place for women may be encroached on; but many of the women continue the old custom of bathing without suits. While there is less and less furniture in the fine houses behind the park, at a leading restaurant may be had as good a meal as in Paris or London at a third Paris or London prices. The effect morale of the early Soviet days is gone everywhere. Nobody resents it prevents anybody else from having good time, if they have the money. The poor, who live in requisitioned villas and who sleep in the empty warehouse piles along the waterfront, according to their luck, do not resent any longer the good fortune of others. Those who have better clothes or better quarters are merely more fortunate, that's all.

For the springf, summer and fall, the ports and littoral of the Black Sea, for foreigners with money, would prove a gay and pleasant resorts, Bolsheviki to Bolsheviki. A big house may be rented for $6 to $10 a month, furnished, and servants may be had for their food, and glad of the job.

COL. PECK AN INDEPENDENT.

PRINCE RUPERT, Oct. 19.—Col. Peck, V. C., to-day announced his intention to run as an independent candidate in the federal election. In a statement, Col. Peck expressed the belief that the people had grown weary of old party lines and he desired to go back to Parliament with hands free to deal with any occupation, irrespective of party, in the best interests of the North country.

CRERAR AT SEAFORTH.

SEAFORTH, Oct. 19.—Hon. T. A. Crerar will speak here on Thursday evening, and it is also expected that Hon. M. Doherty or Premier Drury will be present to speak in the interests of William Black, U. F. O. candidate for South Huron.

J. M. CAMPBELL WILL STAND.

KINGSTON, Oct. 19.—J. M. Campbell, president of the Board of Trade, has consented to allow his name to go before the Liberals of the city at their meeting to-morrow night as the candidate for the Kingston riding. Mr. Campbell was interviewed by the Liberals' executive last night and consented to be the standard bearer if the meeting so decides. He is president of the Kingston Navigation Company, president of the Kingston Milling Company, and also president of the Campbell Power Company.

HENDERS WILL WITHDRAW

WINNIPEG, Oct. 19. — Confirmation of the report that R. C. Henders, Government candidate in McDonald constituency, will withdraw from the contest, was obtained here last night with the announcement that a new convention had been called for October 25 at Treherne. This will make the third nominating convention held in the McDonald constituency for the selection of a Government candidate.

CRERAR DISAPPOINTING.

SIMCOE, Oct. 19.—It is now just a day since Hon. T. A. Crerar closed his oration in Simcoe, and the disappointment with the effort made is as yet but partially worn off.

Mr. Crerar advocated trading with the United States as a paid ambassador of Uncle Sam. So long as Canadians continue to borrow from Uncle Sam it is essential that they buy there to create credit. The fallacy of buying at home he illustrated by a story of a new kind of eagle, doubless a rara avis, Americanna. It built its nest in a tree, not on the rocky promontory or crags, and, seeing a lizzard below swooped down and delicately nipped off the lizzard's tail, and, strengthened with the repast, returned to the tree and laid an egg. The lizzard thereupon climbed the tree and sucked the egg. The process repeated ad infinitum was, by the speaker, synonymous to patronizing home industries.

Mr. Crerar did not give one instance of scandal in Government administration throughout the war of the post-bellum interval. He made no constructive suggestion regarding railway matters, financing the big war debt, expanding the country's trade or getting desirable immigration. He simply said these things had to be done.

When he queried how it was that Canadian manufacturers could compete in foreign lands while they require protection at home, he did not mention the drawback in customs duties that might figure in the case.

WOODSTOCK PLOWING MATCH GETS AWAY WELL

Showers Fail To Dampen Ardor of Participants Or Spectators.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 20—The great plowing match and tractor demonstration is now under way and, despite the fact that the morning opened with showers, great crowds of farmers and others were present. The clouds cleared away before noon and fair weather seems assured. From as far east as Glengarry County and west as far as Windsor farmers and exhibitors are here. The entries this year are easily three times as many as in former years and included is a field of about 15 Indians entered in the plowing competition open only to the men of different reserves.

The tractor competition started off at 9 o'clock this morning and working at once on the different fields were practically every make of tractor on the American continent and also one machine all the way from Italy. Lieut.-Governor Harry Cockshutt arrived at noon and started off the competition.

This morning great interest was shown in the competition between a tractor-drawn plow and horse-drawn plows. In this contest four horseplows were matched against a number of tractor plows in a test match in an endeavor to back up the claim of tractor men that one tractor could do the work of four teams.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion, or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestent. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five-grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artifical digestents.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at you next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."—Advt.

UNHAPPY RUSSIA IS OVERGOVERNED

Evidence of Ruling Class Everywhere In Moscow.

A NATION GONE MAD

Three Years Change Attitude of "Red" Army Men.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press.)—Government everywhere, nothing but government!

Such is the impression that a foreigner who has known Moscow of old gets in entering the Bolshevist capital to-day.

All the hotels are government committee headquarters. The same is true of department stores, office buildings, clubs, cafes and larger private houses. All theaters are government theaters.

Queues of Russians and foreigners are waiting in the streets before most larger buildings for permits to buy railway tickets or perform some ordinary transaction such as a New Yorker would dispose of over the telephone in five minutes.

The motor cars are all government cars and are monopolized by government employees. The street cars are run by the government and government employees, especially workmen, have first call on the few cars which run chiefly at times when workmen are going to or from work. Other folks may take the few carriages which ply the main streets for hire at prices beyond the reach of ordinary government salaries.

Railway trains are few and seem to be crowded largely with government employees and soldiers. Passenger trains far exceed freight trains on all lines, and every coach has a red soldier or two to keep people from massing on the trains at stations.

Factories which are in operation are run by the government and work chiefly on government supplies, such as railway repairs, motor repairs, airplane repairs and other army supplies.

The Kremlin, formerly the ecclesiastical center for Russia and the historic shrine about which the Romanoff traditions center, is all government. Its churches are closed. Red army soldiers occupy the barracks of the old imperial army, and prominent Bolshevist officials occupy the quarters formerly given over to church officials and other dignitaries of the Romanoff regime.

Hospitals and orphanages and schools are run by the government. The government payrolls are filled to overflowing with employees who want the government food ration and in consequence there seems to be an excess of personnel in Moscow institutions as well as the provinces.

Many of the orphanages have nearly as many attendants as they have orphans. To American eyes the railways seem to be over-staffed. Trains and stations are alive with officials and guards, many of whom seem unnecessary because of the general quiet that prevails.

DOCUMENT MAD.

Russia always was document-mad, and it seems even worse now than it was under former regimes. Endless rows of employees are busy making documents and reports in nearly every government building. Statisticians are at work everywhere.

Bolshevist officials are not blind to the overlapping of the departments and the inefficiency of many of the workers. They fill the Moscow and provincial papers with appeals for greater diligence on the part of employees and a reduction of forces not engaged in productive labor. They also complain bitterly of the red tape, which slows down all Government business, and clamor for simplification and decentralization.

But, after all, the railways and telegraphs and telephone and posts are in much the same hands they were before Bolshevism triumphed. The men who knew the technique of the various public service organizations had to be recalled very largely. Many of them make no pretension that they are Communists or even Socialists and their work is done in an extremely perfunctory manner.

CHANGE IN ATTITUDE.

Three years have brought about a remarkable change in the attitude of red army men and all government employees toward the general public. There is a great modification of the acerbity which characterized the early days of the Bolshevist control. In the frenzied first year of Bolshevism officials seemed to regard everyone who approached them as an enemy. They growled and harangued. From top to bottom officialdom was nervous, irritable and generally unpleasant to deal with.

This spirit has disappeared, to a very large degree. The success of the government in overthrowing its adversaries has given a feeling of security and it now functions much as other governments do. Guards, messengers, bureau chiefs and higher officials are more cordial. Bolshevist legations abroad also reflect this changed attitude to a marked degree.

White collars are no longer banned. Black leather coats are not regarded as the only suitable uniform for a Bolshevist official. Experienced minor officials of the old regime have been restored to their places in many of the offices and their example has greatly modified the brusque manners of the soldier, sailor and workman element which originally monopolized most of the government posts.

HE HAD BOOZE IN CAR, BUT IT COST HIM $500

Case In Windsor Which Has Strange Complications.

WINDSOR, Oct. 20—For having in his possession in an automobile liquor taken from the home of Walter Sauve, Leonard Rogers was fined $500 and costs in Windsor police court yesterday afternoon. A similar charge against Robert Demers was dropped and Sauve was acquitted on a charge of selling the stock unlawfully.

Several were in charge of the automobile carrying the liquor, but Demers, taxi driver, and Rogers, both of Windsor, were the only two caught by the officers They were taking it to the river when the law stepped in Sauve told the court that when he first discovered that the liquor had been taken he suspected burglary because of the fact that telephone wires leading to the house had been cut.

Demers, the owner of the car in which the liquor was found, stated that he was "forced into the deal at the point of a gun."

TAKES LAW SOCIETY OFFICE.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Hon. Featherstone Osler, former justice of the Ontario Court of Appeal and well known throughout Ontario, has been elected treasurer of the Law Society of Upper Canada. Mr. Osler is president of the Toronto General Trusts Corporation.

VISITED DETROIT.—Fifty members of Union Lodge, 380, A., F. & A. M., visited the Michigan Central Masonic Club at Detroit yesterday. The party left London at 11.50 a. m. yesterday and returned to London early this morning. The returning Union Lodge members state that the Detroit club gave them a wonderful time.

The Bible for the disarmament conference has been presented by the New York Bible Society. Dr. Geo. W. Carter is here seen holding it.

WOMEN UNITE IN SOCIAL SERVICE

Wives of Methodist Ministers Form Association.

TO EMULATE HUSBANDS

Will Discuss Social Problems Over Their Knitting.

Wives of 40 Methodist ministers have banded themselves together in an organization which has the same aims and objectives as the Ministerial Association to which their lesser halves belong. Mrs. W. E. Millson, of this city, is the president, and Mrs. Kitely, of Lambeth, is the secretary of the new association, which meets at the same time as the men's association, on the first Monday in every month.

Mrs. Millson explained to The Free Press that they were not to be outdone by their husbands and had, accordingly, decided to unite in a society which would be a social force in the community. Members of the club will be permitted to bring their knitting, but there will be more important work for them to do than mending their husbands' socks.

"We intend to protect our own interests in every way possible," added the president. "All our mutual problems will be discussed, speakers will visit our meetings and tell us of the progress which is being made in women's work, while we will also be joined together socially as we have never done before."

The organization, while new to this city and indeed to Western Ontario, is not novel to Toronto and larger centers where similar clubs have flourished for some time. In many ways the organization resembles the Women's Institute, which has proved a dominant force in the province.

that they had not in any way interfered with the clubs' usual programs and enjoyment. He complimented Professor Ellis on his extraordinary ability in the French language. He deprecated his English, but was assured that his "accent was truly marvelous."

Count D'Arnaud also stated: "France has passed through the most terrific ordeal in its history, but faced the future with unconquerable optimism. Britain and the British dominions," he said, "held first place in the affections of the French Republic.

"You Canadians came to the assistance of France in our trial. France will never forget!"

He closed his address by issuing a cordial invitation to all present that they visit the exhibition train and promised to give next year's Canadian train, which will tour France, the same thorough inspection and the Canadian trade commission as hearty a welcome.

LONDON CAR.

Senator L. P. Beaubien, who is representing the Canadian Government in the tour of the French exhibition train, gave an address.

He asked manufacturers and merchants of London to send one complete car in the Canadian trade exhibit train which will tour France in 1922. He pointed out that Canada should trade direct with France and not with England, as heretofore. "France was not acquainted with Canada before the war," he stated.

A civic reception was tendered the delegates on the made-in-France train by Mayor E. S. Little and other members of the City Council this morning. The French train arrived in the city at 4 o'clock and was parked on the London & Port Stanley siding, between Wellington and Waterloo streets.

Many citizens, curious to get a glimpse of the French train, which is touring Canada, visited the siding early this morning before the members of the staff had arisen for the day.

Hundreds of school children arrived on the scene at 10 30 o'clock and were shown through the train by the delegates. The numerous articles manufactured in France, which are on exhibit, are of great educational value to the school children.

LEAVES C. N. R. BOARD FOR MEIGHEN BANNER

Col. Thos. Cantley Accepts Conservative Nomination In Pictou, N. S.

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — Col. Thos Cantley resigned as a member of the board of directors of the Canadian National Railways on his acceptance of the Conservative nomination in Pictou, N.S., for the House of Commons. "I have had his resignation in my possession for over a week," said President D. B. Hanna. "The same rule applies to us all in the Canadian National Railway. In trying to keep the railways out of politics every one in the service must conform with regulations which are for all."

President Hanna stated that there was absolutely no truth in the statement or implication that the Government or politics has had anything to do with re-employing men in the C. N. R. shops. The railway was simply doing its best to help relieve unemployment.

BELFAST, Oct. 20.—Two persons were wounded during firing which occurred in the Stanhope street area between military snipers last evening. One of the injured was a young girl.

WANT SUPERVISORS REAPPOINTED—A petition with several hundred names appended has been received by the Public Utilities Commission asking that Ed. McMahon, Bruce Ninmo and Miss V. Price, who were play supervisors at Thames Park last summer, be reappointed next year. Most of the signatures are of the children who used the park during the past season.

PREMIER MEIGHEN GIVEN GREAT WELCOME AT SARNIA

Replying to Address He Predicts Bright Future for Town and District.

SARNIA, Oct. 20.—(Staff Special to The Free Press.)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen arrived at Sarnia at noon, coming from Goderich. He was warmly welcomed at the station and this afternoon was tendered a civic reception in the city hall by Mayor George Crawford and members of the Sarnia Council. This evening the premier will address a meeting in the Imperial Theater and will also probably speak at an overflow gathering.

In reply to the address presented by the Sarnia Council the prime minister expressed his thanks. Reference had been made to the war record of Sarnia and Sarnia's sons. "There are not many parts of the country," said the premier, "that fell behind, and those who were true have now a memory and pride worth all the sacrifice entailed.

"Your address mentioned as well the condition and prospects of your city. Sarnia has always been one of the forward moving and forward looking cities of the country. I have watched it carefully from childhood and I can well recall in early life comparing it with my own home town. You are now over the crest and doubtless your future will be great. For myself, I think, no place is so happy and desirable in which to live as in a prosperous Canadian town such as Sarnia. No one can be so pessimistic as to believe that anything but the brightest prosperity awaits your town and the whole district of Western and Southern Ontario."

WINDSOR BURGLARS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 20.—Two burglars, intent on robbing the home of Thomas Coughlin, Sandwich, were shot at by Coughlin when he discovered their presence at an early hour this morning. The bullets went wide and both men escaped from the house and fled.

Sandwich and windsor police officers rushed to the scene, but after a lengthy search of the surrounding neighborhood they could find no trace of the burglars.

CANADIANS THE VICTIMS

Considerable Losses Reported Among Pacific Coast Merchants.

SEATTLE, Oct. 20—Liquor runners, operating on a large scale, and bootleggers, in league with exceedingly clever counterfeiters, are flooding the Northwest, especially Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane with thousands of dollars in bogus $10 federal reserve notes, it was made known to-day through Capt. W. R. Jarrett, of the United States secret service. Many transactions in illicit deals for large quantities of liquor made the passing of the counterfeit notes easy, Capt. Jarrett said, and virtually impossible to trace.

Merchants are often the ultimate losers and not the bootleggers and liquor runners, the secret service finds. The money is passed along to stores by persons who sell the liquor. The losses are said to be heavier to Canadian merchants and banks than to persons on this side of the international boundary.

Two men arrested at Fernie, B. C., trying to purchase liquor for the Seattle trade, it is alleged, had 150 of the bogus $10 notes.

WEEKLY BANK CLEARINGS—The bank clearings for the week ending on Thursday were $2,919,931. This is a decrease of $647,780 from the corresponding week of last year, when the amount was $3,567,711.

GUESTS OF FRENCH EXHIBITION—Senior Technical School students were the guests of the French exhibition train officials this morning in an inspection tour of the magnificent C. N. R. train which is in London to-day in the course of a tour of the Dominion. The technical seniors were keenly interested in the manufactures and other products shown.

HON. F. C. BIGGS OPENS BRANTFORD HIGHWAY

BRANTFORD, Oct. 20.—The Brantford and Hamilton highway, a part of the provincial system of permanent highways, was officially opened this morning by Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways. Unpropitious weather greeted the assemblage and kept down the attendance, although about 150 were on hand. The gathering included civic and county officials. There was no ceremony at the juncture of the Wentworth-Brant County lines, the road being simply declared open. Luncheon was served to the minister and other guests at the Brantford Golf and Country Club, with a large attendance.

BAPTISTS AT ST. THOMAS HEAR REPORTS FOR YEAR

Excellent Progress By All Connexional Bodies of Baptist Church.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 20—The Baptist convention opened this morning's session with another full turnout of delegates. Rev. W. S. McAlpine, of Hespeler, was acting chairman.

In the report of the board of publication it was shown that the net profit for the year in the convention of Ontario and Quebec was only $56.88. The explanation of smallness of profits is the fact that for 10 months of the year paper that formerly cost eight cents a pound now cost 14c. In connection with Canadian Baptists the board's total income was $44,526.

The church edifice board reported the largest income in its history the 242 churches in the convention have contributed to their fund. The total funds in charge of this board at the beginning of the year were $32,664, which has been since increased to $60,000.

In presenting the report it was said that while no spectacular enterprise had been engaged in the work of the board had gone steadily forward and steady progress had been made in all efforts to help the needy causes in their financial struggles. The report of the Grand Ligne mission, which operates among the French Canadians in Queebc and Eastern Ontario, was very satisfactory.

INDORSE MANNER, CONDEMN MATTER

Praise Lloyd George's Speech; Don't Like His Plan.

EXPORT CREDITS SCORED

British Newspapers Not In Accord With Trade Policy.

LONDON, Oct. 20. — (Canadian Press Cable.)—Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons yesterday, when he outlined the Government's policy with regard to trade and unemployment, has called forth from newspapers a measure of praise on his presentation of what is admittedly a difficult case, but the actual proposals are the subject of criticism.

The Times comments upon the extension of the export credit scheme to the empire, and expresses the view that the most serious defect in the scheme is that it tends to increase taxation without offering the country any prospect of immediate relief being obtained from the crushing fiscal burdens.

The Morning Post says that Premier Lloyde George proposed to remedy the evil of unemployment by continuing, in principle, the very policy which has largely produced unemployment.

The Daily Mail regards the scheme as palliative but no cure.

The Daily News thinks the scheme is not inspired by any broad policy, but is merely a limited attempt to evade the coming storm.

The Herald bluntly describes the proposals as "bluff" and adds: "You can not feed the unemployed on bluff."

The Chronicle and Telegraph support the scheme.

GOING TO CONGRESS.—Twelve local physicians will attend the clinical congress of American surgeons, which will open at Philadelphia on Saturday and continue several days. The party of Londoners will leave this city on Saturday morning and will journey to Philadelphia via the London & Port Stanley and the Michigan Central Railroad.

Semi-ready Suits for Men who have grown stout

Type E Suits — The Short Stout Man

Type F Suits — For Average Stout Men

Type G Suits — For Tall Stout Men

Height is important in making and grading suit patterns.

A coat made for a stout man of 5 feet 6 would look ridiculous on a man 6 inches taller.

Type E Suits are for men 5 feet 2 inches with a 36 breast and 33½ waist, up to men of 5 feet 9 inches with 50 breast and 52 waist.

The price-in-the-pocket of a Semi-ready suit is a guarantee of its worth to the wearer.

The average height of the men of Canada runs between 5 feet 5 and 6 feet—and Type F Suits are designed to fit all heights between these figures, with breast measures varying from 36 to 50 inches, and waist measures from 33½ to 52.

The waist measure of a man can be approximated by his height and weight. "To satisfy"—that is our idea of service, and we want enthusiasm and satisfaction.

It's the Big Man—he who is above the average—who often issues the challenge: "You can't fit me!"

We can put a coat on almost any man—even though he be above or below the average—that can be altered to fit, for our physique type system allows for alterations to fit every variation from the normal figure.

We want the hard-to-fit man to know that the price in the pocket is the same to him—the same everywhere in Canada.

Come and see this extra fine Exposition of Men's Styles—and study for yourself just what the Semi-ready physique type system means.

CHRISTIANITY TO SAVE DEMOCRACY

Rev. A. L. McCrimmon, Chancellor of McMaster, at St. Thomas

SPEAKS OF UNIVERSITY

Outlines Problem of Moving Institution to Hamilton

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 19.—(By Staff Reporter)—"The cry to-day is to make democracy safe for the people, to save democracy from selfish monopoly and invisible interests on the one hand, and from Red Bolshevism on the other. There is no doubt about the movement toward democracy. Christianity alone can render it safe, with a reverent recognition of 'not kings and lords, but nations.' In this Canada of ours we need to build into the national structure the enduring buttresses of Christian institutions. Now is the day of opportunity to make Christ felt in the councils of the nation and the coming generation of citizens. Remember, if you except Roman Catholic institutions, McMaster is the only university left in Ontario which is under distinctively Christian auspices."

Thus spoke Rev. Abraham L. McCrimmon, M.A., LL.D., chancellor of McMaster University, Toronto, and one of the leading Baptist educationists of the Dominion, in the course of a stirring address dealing with the removal of McMaster University from Toronto, at the afternoon session of the 33rd annual convention of Ontario-Quebec Baptists here to-day. He outlined briefly the events that led up to the discussion in open convention of the question of removing McMaster from Toronto to Hamilton or elsewhere. The matter was brought to the attention of the board of governors through W. W. McMaster. The board had, however, felt that it had no right to prejudice the situation for the convention by taking any initial steps such as were suggested at that time.

NO IMMEDIATE ACTION.

If the convention should entertain any idea of making a change, the chancellor declared, it would not mean immediate action. There were many things to consider, such as the financial obligations, which would fall on the residents of Hamilton and the Baptist supporters there, as well as a great loss to Toronto.

The question of removal really originated with the alumni members in Hamilton. The speaker refused to advise either one way or the other. He thought the matter one to be dealt with entirely by the convention. It would be some time before any buildings could be erected, however, and there was plenty of time for consideration.

Dealing, in his report on McMaster, with an appeal for increased endowment and better facilities for work, he declared that for various reasons this appeal should meet with hearty approval from members of the convention for the following reasons:

The call of necessity. All educational institutions are increasing their funds for endowment and equipment, and to-day increases of this sort were merely a means of conservation.

The challenge of permanency. In foreign mission work it had been found that those missions which joined with educational institutions in the preaching of the Gospel were the ones whose work was most rapidly increasing and stood the test of time better than others.

Dealing with the various phases of Christian and state university training, the speaker used striking comparisons. He said in part:

ENORMOUS LEAKAGE.

"It may not be generally known that only 50 per cent. of the students entering American colleges graduate. The leakage in large institutions is enormous. The cry to-day is for an examination of the college scrap-heap.

That something more than knowledge is required in a graduate is proved by the fact that it is reported that one-third of those who ask for beds at the Bowery Mission, New York, are college men; and that there are 100 college graduates in Sing-Sing. One often ponders the statement of Bismarck that one-third of the German students drink themselves to death, one-third work themselves to death, and the remaining third rule Germany. Would not Christian personal contact have saved many of the two-thirds? Do you realize the vast importance of an institution like McMaster?

AROUSE CONSCIENCE.

"To meet this need of better educational equipment it is imperative that the Canadian Baptist conscience be aroused. Let this impetus begin in your own heart. Let there come into your souls the great need of the world, the great opportunities of the age and of the incipient stages of our national life, the thought that our educational work is the center of all our denominational activity, of all our missionary activity. Let your hearts be touched with the heritage of sacrifice represented by the laying down of life by a Fyfe or a McGregor, the mortgaging of a home by a Burtch, the investment of life's proceeds by a McMaster and the enduring of straitened circumstances and impecunious conditions by scores of others. Think of what a college may do for men. Do you really understand the importance of a college to the welfare of mankind? After careful examination Joplin found that 'Two per cent. of our young men go to college. Ninety per cent. of our men of influence come from that two per cent.' To-day no man's son or daughter need go without a college education. The value of a college, Old Charterhouse, established through the generosity of Sir Thomas Sutton, sent out Addison, Blackstone, John Wesley, Thackeray, Grote, Kinglake, Havelock, Baden-Powell and others. He who invests in college work invests in the highest destiny of future generations. His prayers and his dollars may move the world to righteousness.

A BIG QUESTION.

How democracy shall provide for the religious elements in the development of the nation is one of the burning questions of to-day. After debating the question of religious education by state schools the National Educational Association of the United States declared: "We must conclude therefore that the prerogative of religious instruction is in the church and must remain in the church." And yet Prof. Winchester, of Yale, states the condition of affairs: "However successful the public schools may be as disseminators of information, the realization is being forced upon us that knowledge does not insure morality, much less religion." The situation is clearly before us. Our responsibility is to make as efficient as possible the Bible schools of our churches and our Christian institutions of higher learning.

"The dangers which beset overgrown student bodies of large universities are being recognized by educationists as very great. One of the most able writers on college administration, Birdseye, says: 'I know of no place where so much fine materials coming from the country and small towns has been ruined by a single half year of idleness and extravagance. . . . The college must attempt to regain at once, but wisely, the ground which it has lost in this regard during the last 50 years.' It is agreed that such disastrous results arise from loss of personal contact with the student, and many are the recommendations to break up the large student body into smaller college groups such as McMaster represents. Some universities are limiting their attendance; others are introducing a very expensive and so far somewhat unsatisfactory tutorial system. President Hibben, of Princeton, says: 'We do not feel we can maintain the university's traditional policy and our present educational methods if we allow ourselves to be drawn into a policy of indefinite expansion.'

A CRITICAL TIME.

"This is a critical time in the history of our denomination. Now is the period when alumni, pastors, business men, the rank and file of the denomination must rise to the occasion and put our educational institutions in condition to do their proper work in this age, so full of opportunity. The Baptists of the United States have resolved to invest nearly $60,000,000 in their educational work. The Methodists of the South, who were asked to raise $33,000,000 for education and who thought it too much to raise, had nothing to say when it was pointed out that their women of the South spend $30,000,000 a year in face powder and cosmetics The Baptists of Canada have had their share in the prosperity of our country."

Horrockses' Flannelette

Flannelette is the "Cinderella" of the textile family—unromantic, out of sight some of the time. But when the prince, Jack Frost, begins to whirl the dead leaves about, he puts the more frivolous materials in second place, and then you are the fairy godmother who transforms Flannelette into warm night-dresses, cuddly kimonas, petticoats and pyjamas.

HORROCKSES' Flannelette combines the soft, fluffy comfort of wool with the firm and easily laundered durability of cotton. The kiddies' nightly rough-and-tumble does not hurt this sturdy material and the frequent washing does not affect the fleecy coziness.

HORROCKSES' Flannelette comes with the same guarantee of quality as their famous Longcloths.

MAGNIFICNET FLOWERS AT FUNERAL OF LADY BECK GO TO BRIGHTEN SICK ROOMS

Disposal of Tributes of Sympathy So Ordered by Sir Adam After Ceremony Is Completed in Hamilton

HAMILTON Oct. 19.—The magnificent flowers, expressions of sympathy from everp part of the country to Sir Adam Beck and Miss Marion Beck in the bereavement they suffered through the death of Lady Back, will be distributed among the hospitals of the city. Immediately after the funeral to-day Sir Adam telephoned the cemetery superintendent and gave orders that this be done. The disposition of what was probably the most beautiful floral display ever seen at a funeral here is doubtless as Lady Beck would have have it, for throughout her life she devoted her time and energy unsparingly in helping the afflicted.

TORONTO MOURNS

TORONTO, Oct. 19.—Many were the tributes paid to-day by the people of Toronto to the memory of the late Lady Beck and many the evidences of sympathy to Sir Adam Beck and his daughter, Miss Marion. Big Ben, in the city hall tower, tolled out at intervals of three minutes as the remains of the late Lady Back were carried from the city to their last resting place in Hamilton. The flags on city hall and Parliament buildings were half mast, and the city hall was closed from 11 to 12 o'clock. Many flags on private buildings also floated at half mast.

ZONE FENCE CASE FINALLY SETTLED

J. B. McDowell Wins, Is Court's Finding

LOCATION OF BASE LINE

Fence Put Up Twice and Torn Down by Council

THAMESVILLE, Oct. 19.—J. B. McDowell, of Zone Township, has received from his solicitors the final decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, as given at Ottawa a few days ago, and the judgment is in McDowell's favor, in the famous Baseline case with the Township of Zone.

The litigation has had a long and interesting, also a rather exciting history.

The Baseine had been opened as a pubic highway for many years, but there had been a long-standing dispute between the owners of the land on the north side and those on the south side as to its true location. In May, 1915, Mr. McDowell, who owns land on the south side, appeared before the Township Council, asking that the true line of the easterly portion of the Baseline be established.

The Council then requested that the crown lands department of the province send an engineer for that purpose. George A. McCubbin, an Ontario land surveyor, made a report and filed it with his plan and field notes, with the department. After a public meeting, held before the Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, McCubbin's survey was confirmed and ordered by the minister to "be final and conclusive upon all parties, and not to be hereafter questioned in any court whatsoever."

McCubbin's survey placed the southerly limit of the Baseline some distance to the north of Mr. McDowell's fence, and in the spring of 1917 McDowell moved his fence north to McCubbin's line.

On the 13th day of July, 1919, the Zone Township Council notified Mr. McDowell to move his fence back, and on his failing to comply the Council tore it down. Mr. McDowell replaced his fence and the Council tore it down the second time. Mr. McDowell then brought action to restrain the township, and the case was heard by Mr. Justice Orde in Chatham, May, 1920, and his judgment was against the township, and restraining them from trespassing on McDowell's land, and allowing him damages for the township's unlawful act.

The township appealed from that judgment to the court of appeal, and that court was unanimous in confirming the judgment of Justice Orde.

The township then carried their appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada at Ottawa, with the result as above.

PRESENTED WITH TROPHY

PALMERSTON, Oct. 19.—A highly successful lecture in aid of the local Horticultural Society was given in the opera hall to-night by J. E. ENGLISH, FRENCH ARE IN HARMONY

Wield Them Together for New Nation in Canada

SIR LOMER GOUIN SPEAKS

Degree of LL. D. Conferred by Queen's University

KINGSTON, Oct. 19.—The harmonious development of the two great races, English and French, upon their oint heirloom, Canada, formed the keynote of the address of Sir Lomer Gouin, K.C., M.G., in receiving the degree of LL.D. from Queen's University at the autumn convocation ceremonies here this evening.

"God has destined us to form links of the same chain and to weld together into a new nation the best qualities of England, Scotland, Ireland and France," said Sir Lomer. "The past teaches us that we have much in common, that the rivalries of old between England and France do not require the offspring of our two races to consider each other as hereditary enemies. We must retain from the past only its lessons of devotion and courage. To whatever race we belong, to whatever faith, party or class, we must try with all our heart and soul to realize in fact the national unity of our gigantic Dominion, to give our country more than its constitutional unity, to make it actually one and indissoluble. Any man in Canada who does not treat upon equal terms the French-Canadians, because they descend from another race; any man who does not grant upon all his fellow countrymen the fullest measure of fair play, is not a good citizen, because he does not work towards that harmonious development."

Through the universities, he pointed out, this harmony could be promoted, for education destroyed prejudices and fanaticism and taught the necessity of toleration.

The degree of LL.D. was conferred in absentia upon Prof. Cappon, late dean of arts at Queen's, and the degree of D. D. upon Rev. J. H. Turnbull and Rev. W. G. Black, both of Toronto. Chancellor E. W. Beatty presided.

SARNIA MAN HURT IN TRAFFIC MISHAP

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—John B. Landon, 228 Shamrock street, was painfully cut about the head and sustained quite serious injury to-day when he was knocked from his bicycle by an automobile operated by the Central Taxi Company. At noon there was an auto smash at the corner of Cromwell and Victoria streets, when an auto hit the truck belonging to the Sarnia Laundry Company. The touring car was not damaged, but the truck had a wheel broken. The street corner in question is rather a dangerous one, with a very sharp turn.

IDENTIFY MEN WHO ROBBED MAIL WAGON

WINDSOR, Oct. 19.—Following the identification by Wm. B. MacAuley, of Windsor, to-day of three suspects held at police headquarters, warrants were issued for Thomas Ferris, Alexander McClan and James Logan, alias "Jimmy the Gun," charged with the robbery of the Canadian mail wagon in Detroit on October 7. MacAuley, who was the driver of the wagon, unhesitatingly pointed out his assailants from a large number of prisoners.

MESSAGE OF SYMPATHY.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—A message of sympathy to Sir Adam Beck in the loss of his wife was this afternoon forwarded by the Sarnia Hydro Commission.

Eat Heartily Without Dread

Eat Anything You Like and Don't Worry Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets Relieve Sour Stomach, Belching, Gas and Acid Condition Due to Indigestion.

Simply Chew a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet After Meals—They Taste Good.

No matter what you eat or drink, even though it be just a glass of sweet milk, the stomach may rebel and sour almost immediately. In such cases one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets furnish the alkaline effect to offset the acid condition. Quite often the stomach may be overcrowded with partially digested food.

A cold bottle of beverage at such times may add to the difficulty and there is gassiness, a bilious taste, and other distresses due to indigestion. Travelers may save themselves much of the discomfort of wayside eating by having a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with them, as they can be had in almost any drug store throughout the U. S. and Canada.—Advt.

HELD FOR THEFT OF FUNDS WHICH WOULD HAVE BEEN LEGALLY HIS

SENLIS, France, Oct. 19.—Three hundred yards from the monument which marks the farthest southern advance of the German army in France, in the woods near here, Anatole Demuy, a pensioned railroad worker, while strolling after lunch, stumbled upon the body of a man, whose right hand still held a revolver.

Demuy lost no time in going through the dead man's pockets and appropriating 3,500 francs, scorning the National Defense Bonds and other papers among which, a will and last testament.

Noticing his exaggerated expenditures and failing to obtain any information from her husband as to the hidden source of his sudden wealth, Demuy's wife reported him to the police. He was arrested and upon threat of being charged with theft, directed the police to the spot where the body was found.

A gendarme opened the will. The first article read: "I am friendless, without family. I leave all the money, bonds, valuables found on me to the person finding my body, after deducting the expenses of a modest funeral."

Demuy failed to read the will. He will be arraigned on a charge of theft.

PRINCETON ANNIVERSARY.

PRINCETON, Oct. 19.—Anniversary services in the Presbyterian Church Sunday drew large crowds, every available seat being filled. The preacher for the day was Rev. K. J. MacDonald, of Galt.

A tea meeting and entertainment was given the following evening and largely attended. Princeton orchestra assisted very ably. Short speeches were made by local and other clergy, and Hugh Allen, of Drumbo, presided.

MISSIONARY SPEAKS

TAVISTOCK, Oct. 19.—Miss Shipley occupied the pulpit in Knox Church on Sunday morning in the interests of the W. M. S. and delivered a most interesting address upon her mission work in China. A pleasing feature was a vocal solo rendered by Harry McKay, of Toronto. In the evening Miss Shipley again addressed a large congregation in Knox Church, her remarks being greatly added to by a series of views typical of the life and mission work in Honan.

OPEN NEW HIGHWAY WITH BIG CEREMONY

Brantford-Hamilton Road to Be Opened for Traffic To-Morrow by Hon. F. C. Biggs.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 19. — Arrangements are now all practically complete for the ceremonies to be conducted in connection with the official opening of the Brantford-Hamilton highway to-morrow by Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways. Persons attending in their own automobiles are asked to be on the market square before 10.30 a.m. Luncheon will be held at the Brantford Golf and Country Club at 12.30 p.m. With suitable weather conditions prevailing, officials are hopeful of securing a record attendance for the occasion.

MELTING, AS IT WERE.

"Speaking of odd similes," writes A. C. M., "you might also mention Swinnerton's description of Gaga 'Coquette.' He had 'large, soft, brown eyes, like chocolate which has been in a warm place.'"

Sheep and lambs, receipts, 2,400. Lambs active, sheep slow, unchanged.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Wheat scored a moderate rally to-day chiefly as a result of covering by shorts. Predictions in some quarters that a general railroad strike would yet be averted counted as a bullish factor. Besides, hope was expressed for a fair export business to-day. Opening prices, which varied from unchanged figures for 1½c higher, were followed by numerous changes within the initial range.

Corn and oats paralleled the action of wheat. Corn started ⅛c to ⅜c up and then continued to harden. Oats were ⅛c higher at the outset and later scored additional gains.

Provisions reflected the firmness of grain, despite downturns in hog values.

EIGHT GOT MARRIAGE LICENSES WEDNESDAY

Difficulty in Locating Issuer of Permits Troubles Some of Anxious Lovers.

Yesterday was City Clerk Baker's busy day in the marriage license department. Eight men, young and old, who had succumbed to Cupid's darts, found their way to his office during Wednesday, and no doubt by this time they are the happiest men in London.

In this connection a story is told of the trouble one of the eight had in locating the license office. Entering the office of The Free Press he purchased a Tuesday morning edition.

"I am going to be very disappointed if I do not find what I want," he remarked as he turned anxiously to the advertising pages. After scanning these for a few minutes he handed the paper back and commenced to walk away.

"Here is your paper," suggested the clerk.

"It's no good to me, I cannot find what I want," was the reply.

"Tell me what it was, perhaps I can give you some information you want," responded the clerk.

The bashful swain hesitated for a few moments and after taking a glance at the girls in the office he said in a stage whisper: "Can you direct me to where I can secure a marriage license?"

The necessary information was given and the young man hastened joyfully to the city clerk.

COMBING PARIS FOR BOMB GANG

Explosion In U. S. Embassy Sensation For French Capital.

HERRICK UNHURT, ON JOB

Experts Say Infernal Machine Was British Product.

PARIS, Oct. 20. — Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador, went to his office in the embassy as usual this morning, little affected by his narrow escape yesterday, when a bomb exploded in a room of his home in Avenue de Messine.

At the embassy Mr. Herrick found scores of telegrams and letters of congratulation from officials and friends all over Europe. The first thing he did was to issue instructions that anyone desiring to give him a present must bring it opened to the embassy. All packages brought to the embassy will be under suspicion and will be opened under water in the presence of police.

ALL PARIS WORKING

The entire detective force of Paris and all available policemen, under the personal direction of the perfect of police, were working throughout the night in efforts to trace the makers of the bomb. No arrests had been announced by the police up to noon to-day, but it was said a number of persons were under surveillance and that two clues formed the basis for further investigation. The postman who delivered the package at the embassy yesterday morning and the district office from which it was registered also figured to-day in the investigation. A record is kept of all packages registered, and it was hoped that the woman who received the package in the post office would be able to recall the person who registered it.

The embassy was carefully guarded to-day by police and detectives, and a stronger guard will be thrown around the building to-morrow, the day set by the Communist press for a big demonstra in front of the embassy.

Experts of the city laboratory had completed examination of fragments of the bomb and confirmed earlier reports that it was of British make of reversible type.

A couple of hundred threatening letters which had been received at the embassy and which have been turned over to the nolice now, are undergoing expert scrutiny by officials, who hoped they might furnish a clue. Greater hope was entertained in the search of the domiciles of known communists.

The bomb which exploded in Mr. Herrick's house seriously injured the valet, who opened the package containing it.

The room in which the explosion occurred was wrecked.

Mr Herrick arrived at the house two minutes after the bomb blew up.

The package containing the bomb, addressed to the ambassador, was delivered at the embassy in the morning, and was addressed to the ambassador's residence, No. 16 Avenue Messina.

BLAST IN BATHROOM.

The explosion occurred in the bathroom of the ambassador's suite. The bomb was brought from the chancellory of the embassy by a secretary, who thought it a personal gift for the ambassador.

Ambassador Herrick and his daughter-in-law Mrs. Parmely W. Herrick, and her son, aged seven years, were mounting the stairs to the suite and heard the explosion. Immediately the valet came rushing down, crying:

"A bomb has exploded, I am hit."

In the room, and demolished with it, were a number of presents Ambassador Herrick had received on the occasion of his birthday, October 9.

SUSPECTED TROUBLE.

The ambassador's valet, Walter Blanchard, a 32-year old Englishman, opened the package, as he is wont to do in the absence of the ambassador. Upon opening the lid, a spring was released and Blanchard, who had been a bomber during the war, immediately suspected its significance and threw the package away, rushed from the room and was hit in the back by a fragment before he could make his exit.

Mr. Herrick expressed the belief that the explosion was a sequel to numerous threatening letters he had been receiving from French Communists because of the conviction of two Communists in the United States for murder.

"This is the work of cowards who are afraid to come out in the open," he declared, "and I hope it may mark the end of such outrages against persons who are absolutely innocent of things of which they are accused."

PROBABLY BRITISH BOMB

Police authorities investigating the explosion of an infernal machine in the residence of Ambassador Herrick report that apparently a British bomb widely used during the war was concealed in the package sent to the ambassador. It will be recalled that Mr. Herrick's valet recognized the sound given out by the package when is was opened as being that of a bomb, and that he was formerly a soldier in the British forces in France. No clue as to those who plotted to assassinate Mr. Herrick has been found, and fragments of the wrapper of the deadly package are being examined in the hope that it may be possible to trace its origin. It was badly shattered by the explosive, however, and there would appear to be little hope of detecting the criminal.

Paris newspapers to-day voiced horror at the outrage, and printed long accounts and photographs showing the wrecked room in the Herrick residence. L'Humanite declared that the police might use the incident in their campaign against communists.

SPECIALS AND EXTRAS STRENGTHEN EGG MARKET

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(Dominion live stock branch.)—The egg market continues firm, particularly for fresh specials and extras. There is a little easier undertone in the storage situation due to the United States markets and the report that the movement out of storage there is not satisfactory.

Toronto, firm and unchanged. Specials, 60c; fresh extras, 58c; storage extras, 51c@53c; firsts, 46c.

Montreal firm; special jobbing 60c. In one instance specials obtained direct from the farm jobbing up to 70c and retailing at 75c.

Winnipeg, markets unchanged. Poultry quotations, live, delivered: chickens 18c; fowl, 11c@18c; ducks, 16c; geese, 15c; roosters, 10c; turkeys, 22c@25c. One car storage firsts rolling from Brandon to Montreal for export.

Saskatchewan and Alberta markets unchanged.

British Columbia, local fresh 60c country points; 62c offered for specials; jobbing prices unchanged.

Chicago, current firsts, 42c to 44c; October 31½c; November, 32¾c; December 33c.

New York, extra firsts 51c@55c; firsts, 45c to 50c; refrigerators, fancy, 37@39c; firsts, 34½@36c; hennery, fancy, 37c.

MONTREAL, Oct. 19.—Eggs, selected, etc.

HUNGER STIFLES POLITICAL STRIFE

Struggle for Food Overshadows All Else in Russia.

BARTERING ON STREETS

Exuberance and Oratory of Bolshevism Are Gone.

The subjoined article, giving a graphic description of the gloomy mental attitude of the hungry people of Russia, was written by a staff correspondent of The Associated Press who entered Russia with the American relief workers when the famine opened the doors of that country after they had been closed for more than three years.

The writer not only visited Moscow, but penetrated to the famine-stricken districts of Samara and Kazan, where the first American food was distributed and whence he sent by cable stirring stories of the scenes he witnessed.

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press.) — Russia is a smileless land. In more than 2,000 miles of travel on Central Russian railways and rivers The Associated Press correspondent hasn't heard a single hearty laugh. The exuberance and oratory of the first year of Bolshevism have disappeared.

Speakers no longer tell of the glories of proletarian rule from the corner curb stones. Red army soldiers no longer jeer at the bourgeoise, for all have settled down together to the difficult task of getting enough to eat; and persons who have not tried existence in present-day Russia have no conception of how difficult it is to satisfy the most primitive human needs there.

Nearly every man and woman met on Moscow or Petrograd streets to-day is carrying some sort of food parcel or bartering with food dealers on the street corners. There is practically no wood and coal is not dreamed of. Oil is the only fuel. Every family has a primus on which the hot water for tea and the simple meals are prepared.

ALL TALK FOOD

Under the housing system most persons have only one room in which to cook, eat, sleep and do washing. All the talk one hears on the streets is of food. There are laments everywhere that the bread allowance isn't regular and the frequent expression of fears that the famine in the Volga districts will make the bread supply of Central Russia even worse.

Potatoes at 1,000 rubles a pound are the cheapest food on the market but 1,000 rubles is a small fortune to most of the population and it takes a lot of oil to cook potatoes.

The days of political strife are apparently over. Russians have tired of theoretical politics. The anti-Bolshevists no longer discuss the Government. Paper decrees are showered unnoticed upon Bolshevists and non-Bolshevists alike. They are too busy in the strife for food and clothing to worry about what is going on at Kremlin.

SEARCH OF FOOD

Streets without food shops are practically deserted in all the cities. The search for food is at once the work and the recreation of the public. Boulevards are lined with food wagons offering fruit, vegetables, bread and eggs, and the people seem far more interested in these than in the listless pedestrians and the little bands which give occasional evening concerts.

There seems to be no spirit of play left in Russia. Even the children are sad and quiet. Recently many toy shops have reopened. The Soviet Government never requisitioned Noah's arks and teddy bears, so dealers in that class of goods are unboxing their old stocks and dressing Santa Claus windows.

Few moving picture theaters are open, and those are given over chiefly to Government propaganda pictures. The opera season has not yet opened. Dramas are offered in several less important houses. It was in these theaters and in concert halls that the correspondent saw the only persons who seemed to relax and divorce themselves from the gloomy Moscow atmosphere.

PAPERS ONLY BULLETINS

Moscow papers and the newspapers in all the leading Russian cities are little more than Government bulletins. Because of the shortness of paper they are generally only one sheet, and the greater part of the space is given over to long political articles. The newspapers are pasted upon the walls. Crowds gather about them eagerly and scan the few foreign dispatches. The great majority of readers show no interest in the political leaders.

Street crowds in Moscow present a strange and varied appearance. Unless the weather is sunny and warm there are very few pedestrians in the center of the city. Markets which formerly existed near Opera place have been abolished and there are few food shops in what was formerly the great shopping center. In consequence, most promenaders go to the food-lined boulevards, and the slightest threat of rain drives the crowds to shelter. Boots and clothing are too precious to be exposed unnecessarily to the weather.

Really well-dressed men and women are never seen on the streets. There is no starch. Therefore, soft collars and shirts are a necessity, and practically all men wear dark gray or brown shirts and collars.

Russia was always great on uniforms. Railway employees and other civil employees of the Government were uniformed under the old regime and still cling to the custom. Shabby uniforms, or parts of uniforms, make up the costumes of nine-tenths of the men in the streets, and the secondhand clothing stalls display practically no clothing but uniforms.

Women have also availed themselves largely of men's uniforms in improvising costumes. Hats, coats, waists and even shoes of army khaki are seen everywhere among groups of women. Tablecloths, damask curtains, furniture covers of large-flowered cretonne, rich Persian shawls, masquerade costumes and bright-colored evening gowns have been adapted to street wear. Fortunately, Russian women have such an independent bearing and are such individualists that they show no embarrassment whatever in wearing any clothing available in this land so sadly in need of cloth.

CRERAR MAKES ECONOMY PLEA

Leaves Familiar Ground to Make Charge of Extravagance

SPEAKS AT WOODSTOCK

J. J. Morrison and John Lillico Also Give Addresses

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 19.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, and J. J. Morrison, secretary of the U.F.O., addressed 3,000 people in the Arena here to-night. The meeting was enthusiastic, and the speakers were given attentive hearings. Mayor Mack Paul occupied the chair.

Declaring that every possible means should be used to develop the wealth of Canada and to add in every way possible to the prosperity and wealth of the people. Regarding the tariff, he said: "I believe in the theory of free trade, and I am not ashamed of that belief. I believe the principle of protection as exemplified in our fiscal policy is an unsound one, and the wealth and prosperity of the country can be best increased by developing our natural resources and removing the burdens from these articles which are used in the production of wealth through our natural resources." Such, he believed, would supply work for the laboring man, traffic for the railroads, and give more business to the merchant and the manufacturer.

CRIES ECONOMY.

Mr. Crerar left the more familiar ground of previous speeches to analyze the Dominion's financial situation. There was urgent need for economy. He stressed the point that before September, 1925, the Dominion would have $600,000,000 in maturing loans to refund. "We need," he said, "a sound financial policy, founded on the practice of the most rigid economy in every branch of public expenditure."

Mr. Crerar criticized the Government on the ground that it had not practiced due economy, citing the following appropriations as instances: Victoria drydock, $4,000,000; Welland Canal, $5,000,000; Trent Valley Canal, $500,000; naval and military expenditure, $20,000,000; Government merchant marine, $10,000,000.

What was needed, Mr. Crerar urged, was a reasoned financial policy for the whole Dominion, that the federal, provincial and municipal authorities should get together to avoid duplication in expenditures.

TARGET OF QUESTIONS.

As Mr. Crerar turned to the tariff issue, he was submitted to a short, sharp fire of questions. Mr. Crerar was referring to the present-day condition in Old Ontario. He had been told, he said, that farms could be bought for little more than the cost of improvements; that the older parts of Ontario were producing less in agriculture than 30 years ago.

"Is the prosperity of the United States due to protection or free trade?" came the sharp interruption.

"The prosperity of the United States," Mr. Crerar replied, "is due to the fact that the United States is the greatest single free trade area in the whole world. The United States produces everything it needs."

"That is what we should do," another voice broke in. "That can only be done by a high tariff."

Mr. Crerar, proceeding, claimed that leading financial channels in New York were opposed to the principle of high tariff. In his view, the United States would never again for any great length of time, submit to a high tariff.

"They have a higher tariff than we have," again a voice interposed from the crowd.

Mr. Crerar differed. Boots and shoes and many other articles, he claimed, entered the United States on the free list.

MR. MORRISON.

J. J. Morrison said emphatically that the time has come when a new order of things is to obtain.

"During 30 years," he said, "our governments have been able to show us nothing but a steady flow of men and women from the farms, with the result that to-day there are 150,000 less people on our farms than there were 30 years ago, in spite of the natural increase in the population. If you had a foreman on your farm who showed a falling record for 30 years would you engage him again? Well, that's what the governments of to-day are asking you to do. But you must not do it. The reins of government have been in the hands of the wealth owners plenty long enough. What is the matter with placing them in the hands of te common people and the wealth creators?"

"COMING."

John Lillico, Farmer candidate in North Oxford for the Federal House, spoke briefly. He referred to Mr. Crerar as the "coming premier of Canada." He stated his position exactly, stating that his sympathies were with the common people and the working people of this country. Co-operation among them is needed, he said, but if the vested interests and the millionaires are allowed to continue in their control of things the country will never make any progress. The Dominion is in a trying time now and debts must be paid. It is therefore high time for the common people to come forward and take their part.

SQUIRRELS IN PARK.

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—As authorized by the City Council some time ago six families of gray squirrels are to take up their residence in the city park. The Laidlaw Lumber Company, McGibbons, Limited, and the Lawrence Lumber Company have offered to donate the houses that these new families will occupy.

ARMISTICE DAY TO BE MARKED BY BRIEF SILENCE

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—In compliance with the request of the British colonial office the Canadian Government will shortly issue a proclamation calling upon all Canadians to observe the two minutes of silence from 11 o'clock in the forenoon until two minutes after on Friday, November 11, the anniversary of the actual signing of the armistice. Special commemoration ceremonies will be held on Monday, November 7, as provided by the act passed at the last sitting of Parliament. The two minutes of silence will be observed on November 11 in order to make this mark of respect uniform throughout the empire. As usual all movement will cease for the period, including ships and trains.

THOSE ON CIVIC LISTS NEED NOT REGISTER

Latest Municipal Lists Will Be Used as Basis for Federal

OTTAWA, Oct. 19.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The latest municipal lists will be used in Ontario for the compilation of the voters' lists for the coming federal election, it was announced to-day by Col. O. M. Biggar, chief electoral officer. The arrangement was made through agreement between the Government and the headquarters of the Liberal and Progressive parties and on the suggestion of Col. Biggar.

The result of this action will be that those whose names appear on the latest and most complete list in each municipality will not have to register, as their names will be placed on the Dominion lists without intervention. Those whose names are not on the municipal lists will have to register. The procedure will, if it is considered necessary, be ratified at the next session of Parliament.

30,000 LONDONERS WILL BE ENTITLED TO BALLOT

Number of Qualified Voters At Federal Elections Will Be Very Large.

According to the latest returns from City Clerk Baker there will be approximately 30,000 citizens of London who will be entitled to vote in the federal elections. Part three of the municipal list, which contains the names of those entitled to vote in provincial and federal, but not municipal elections, has 16,054 names. Parts one and two of the 1920 list, which consists of those who may vote on municipal matters, had over 20,000 names in 1920. It is expected that the lists used in the federal election will be based on these two. But included in the 20,000 are approximately 7,000 who are named twice. Thus, allowing for an increase in the number this year, it is considered probable that there will be 14,000 municipal voters and 16,000 others who will be able to vote on December 6 in the federal electors.

BULLOCK LIQUOR CASE DISMISSED

Perjury Enters Into Court Trial at Brantford

MAGISTRATE IS DISGUSTED

Says Fred McArthur Self-Confessed Perjurer

BRANTFORD, Oct. 19.—"On one hand we have the evidence of a self-confessed perjurer," declared Magistrate Livingston this morning in summing up the case against James Bullock of selling liquor; "and on the other we have the evidence of a man who tells a straightforward story." He declared that Fred. McArthur, the crown witness, had committed perjury and had even confessed it in court. It was not British justice to send people to jail on the evidence of such a person, the magistrate said. "From evidence we have had here we would think that we were in the wilds of barbarous Russia," he concluded, and then dismissed the defendant.

Interest in the case was intense, as it had been pending for some days. It was alleged that $65 had been paid for five gallons of Seagram's whisky. According to McArthur he had purchased it from Bullock, but the crown witness admitted that when he had been charged with having liquor illicitly he had claimed that a $65 check, made out by McArthur and indorsed by him, had been in payment of a debt. He admitted he was switching his story, but held that his new tale was the correct one.

COERCION CHARGED.

McArthur claimed that he had been coerced by J. H. Spence and Chief Slemin and that they had offered to let two charges, which are said to be pending, drop, provided he, McArthur, perjure himself. Chief Slemin denied flatly that the matter had been discussed in his office or in his presence.

Mrs. Bullock told of seeing Spence, Bob Lyle and Win Ball gazing through a window in McArthur's house. She had been sitting in the kitchen of the house, and several of the others, including Mr. and Mrs. Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. McArthur, were in a front room. Mrs. Bullock went for a little walk with Joe Dutton and the pair had seen the excise men peering through the window. They immediately raised the alarm and McArthur had shot at the excise men, believing they were hold-up men. The trespassers disappeared into a cornfield, but came out afterwards when Dutton and Bullock went after them. Bullock stated that Spence and Lyle had used revolvers and theatened to shoot them, but the excise men went away.

STRONG INDUCEMENT.

Asked if he had been induced to change his story, as given at a previous trial, Fred. McArthur said that was possibly the case. Speaking to this the magistrate stated that "there had apparently been something done to induce him to repent," and he was pretty sure the inducement was a strong one. Joseph Dutton was called on a charge of selling liquor also, but the charge was dropped by the crown.

Rumors to the effect that the Brant Farmers' Co-operative Dairy Company was contemplating purchasing the old Bixell brewery site were denied to-day. It was learned from an authoritative source that the proposals have been dropped temporarily.

POLICE POUR 1,500 QUARTS IN DRAIN

Aroma of $10,000 Worth of Booze Attracts Many Mourners to Obsequies

WINDSOR, Oct. 19.—Behind locked doors, through which entrance could be gained only by the flash of a gold badge, federal agents this afternoon destroyed $10,000 worth of liquors. Many mourners were attracted by the aroma, which seeped through cracks and keyholes.

The ceremony took place on the fourth floor of the post office building. Flies, mostly official ones, buzzed insistently around.

United States deputy marshals held 1,500 quarts to gurgling emptiness over the drains. A court order was responsible.

PORT HURON JAIL BREAKERS CAUGHT

SARNIA, Oct. 19.—Sarnia police were notified to-day that Henry Snipe and Herman Esal, who escaped after assaulting the caretaker of the Port Huron jail, were taken into custody at Springfield, Tenn., yesterday. These men were arrested in connection with the theft of lumber from the Laidlaw Lumber Company, of Sarnia, and had disposed of a considerable quantity across the River St. Clair. After their escape a search, lasting several days, in the vicinity of Sarnia and Port Huron was made and an abandoned car was found at Tappan Junction, which had been stolen fom J. G. Philpott. The arrest in Springfield was made from a description of the escaped men sent broadcast over the country.

The London Evening Free Press

WESTERN ONTARIO'S FOREMOST NEWSPAPER.

THREE CENTS. LONDON, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1921. —22 PAGES THREE CENTS.

SIX MILLION DOLLARS REAL ESTATE SOLD SINCE JANUARY 1

Over Fifteen Hundred Properties Changed Hands In Nine Months.

GREATEST NUMBER OF SALES DURING MAY

Assessment Less Than Two-Thirds of the Purchase Price.

Over 1,500 properties have changed hands in London since January 1 of the present year, representing an aggregate value of $6,000,000. Up to the end of September of the present year 1,523 real estate transers in London had been recorded, valued at $5,635,100, assessment on which is stated at $3,662,713.

There is every indication that the real estate transfers of the year will be close to $8,000,000, thus establishing a real estate record without local precedent. The present year is already ahead of 1920 in the matter of properties transferred in total value. This is due, in a large measure, to new real estate exchange taxes, which require the parties to such transactions to state the sale price of the land transferred. This law went into effect in May and since then the totals for each month have been largely increased.

This year the month of May showed the greatest real estate activity, while August stands lowest in the 1921 record of property transfers.

Assessment Commissioner Grant in an interview to-day forecasted considerable changes in the method of assessment next year, while adhering to the principles laid down in this year's fixation of property values. These will be merely routine changes brought about by this year's experiments in fixing value according to the interior fittings of houses as well as their exterior features.

FINALLY SETTLE VETERANS' CLAIM

Dominion G. W. V. A. Appoints "Clean-Up" Squad.

DISPOSE OF COMPLAINTS

Special Staff Will Concentrate On Problems.

Acting-Secretary Ball, of the local G. W. V. A., was notified to-day that the Dominion Association has inaugurated a "clean sweep" campaign with the avowed intention of securing a "speedy adjustment of all legitimate claims of ex-service men, women and dependents." A special staff has been appointed at headquarters in Ottawa to handle the work of cleaning up as far as possible all outstanding claims and settling all grievances of veterans.

Any man who served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force and is not satisfied with the treatment that he has received since his return to Canada or since his discharge is requested to communicate with either the local secretary or the head offices. Details concerning date of discharge, nature of complaint and record of service are requested in order that the special staff will be able to deal efficiently and speedily with any cases coming to their attention.

The notice says in part:

"Although three years have passed since the last shot was fired in the great war many legitimate claims for adjustment of army pay and allowances, war service gratuity, working pay, pensions, D. S. C. R. pay and allowances, hospital treatment, vocational training, insurance, land settlement, etc., have not been brought forward owing to the lack of knowledge of the legislation under which such claims could be recognized, or through lack of proper facilities to present the requisite evidence in support of claims."

By disposing of all these grievances throughout the whole Dominion in one big campaign it is believed that much of the bickering that has retarded soldiers' organizations in the past will be dealt with. Every man will have an equal opportunity to present his claim and will have no reason to bother his fellow comrades about it at meetings which, as a rule, are powerless to do much to help them. This will enable the commands to deal only with those matters which are of vital concern to all veterans and which require united action.

The special staff which will have the disposition of the various claims in their hands is composed, it is said, of specially qualified officials who know from previous experience how to obtain justice for cases in which there are real grounds for compaint. It is known that the G. W. V. A. has the "ear" of the Government and will be able to secure legislation which is needed to remedy a number of cases or for application of the existing laws of the country to matters within their purview.

VETERANS AFTER JAIL POSITION

Determined That Job Shall Go To Comrade.

SIX HAVE APPLIED

Make Issue With Ontario Government Over Matter.

At least six members of the local G. W. V. A. have applied for the position of governor of the county jail, Acting Secretary Ball informed The Free Press to-day. Other soldier organizations in the city are also represented in the applications and the feeling is prevalent that there will be fur flying fast and furious if the job is not given to a man with overseas service to his credit.

Two of the likely candidates for the position are said to be William Johnston and Sergt.-Major Dudley, both of whom are believed to be highly qualified for the position. Each has had a long and honorable service with the forces in France, and is not debarred by age or by physical disabilities from fulfilling the duties of the office for which they are applicants.

"It must be admitted that in the past there has been little or no preference shown for veterans when publib positions are being filled," said one member of the G. W. V. A. executive. "In many cases, however, it has been a direct result of negligence on the part of the returned men to apply and for their comrades to back them up in their requests. In this instance it cannot be said that we have been dilatory, as several men have had their applications in for some time.

"It is altogether likely that we will make this a test case," he added. "If the job is given to a man who never was in khaki and who is no more qualified than the applicants we have in the running, then it will be necessary for a show-down and a definite assertion by the 5,000 returned men of the city of their rights to have primary consideration, especially in view of the unemployment, which has hit them particularly."

COULDN'T BLOW SAFE, BUT GOT MINCEMEAT

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 21.—Burglars early this morning broke into the Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway station at Niagara-on-the-Lake and made an unsuccessful attempt to blow the safe. The burglars also visited the plant of the Dominion Canners, in the same town, and stole a quantity of mincemeat.

GERMANY PURCHASES GRAIN IN AUSTRALIA

Antipodean Wheat Position Now Rapidly Reaches Crisis.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — Reuter's Melbourne correspondent cables that the Victorian Wheat Growers' Corporation states that the return to the farmers from the sale of a large parcel of wheat to Germany by the Victorian voluntary wheat pool will be considerably more than 52 pence per bushel, as mentioned yesterday by Hon. William Fraser Dunn, minister of agriculture for New South Wales.

The Adelaide Times states that the wheat position is developing a crisis owing to what is regarded as the changing attitude of the Federal Government regarding control. Premier Hughes' latst statement, favoring a renewal of the pooling arrangement, has occasioned alarm, according to The Times.

Speaking in the South Australian Parliament, Premier H. N. Barwell declared that any attempt by Premier Hughes to dictate to South Australia would be regarded as a declaration of war on state rights. This announcement was received with significant ministerial cheers.

LACK PROVISION TO SUSPEND STRIKE OF RAILWAY MEN

U. S. Railroad Labor Board Loses In Conference With Union Men.

TO CITE BIG FOUR.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The United States railroad labor board this afternoon passed a resolution, citing the big four brotherhoods, the Switchmen's Union and all railroads named in the wage reduction order of July 1 to appear before the board next Wednesday, October 26, at 10 a. m.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 21.—Lack of any provision by the unions for suspending the railroad strike called for October 30 made it impossible to accept the plan offered by the United States Railroad Labor Board yesterday, it was said today in union circles.

The strike authorizations provide only for ending the strike presumably after a settlement which, union leaders have maintained, must involve more than the question of the July wage reduction on which the strike was technically called.

The proposals submitted by the board followed closely the advance productions of the plan they would offer and the railroad brotherhood leaders, who had already declared the plan impossible, made no effort to conceal their disappointment that the board had nothing else to offer.

Yesterday's optimism was noticeably absent in union circles to-day and in its place was a seeming resignation to the belief that the strike now is inevitable, unless President Harding assumes the initiative with some drastic step.

BOARD HAS FAILED.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The United States railway labor board having admittedly failed in its attempt to prevent a rail strike through conferences with heads of the "big five" rail unions, labor chiefs to-day were pushing plans for a general walkout beginning October 30 and officials of the carriers were moving at double time in their preparations to combat the proposed strike.

The conferences yesterday between the railway labor board and the five union heads—Warren S. Stone, of the engineers; L. E. Sheppard, of the conductors; T. C. Cassen, of the switchmen; W. G. Lee, of the trainmen, and W. S. Carter, of the firemen—brought no results except an admission from the board that the first effort of a Governmental agency to avert a strike had failed completely and statements from the union chiefs that the meeting resulted only "in the labor board being convinced that the unions really mean to strike."

"A report of the conference was telegraphed to President Harding at Washington and both the labor leaders

NO TRACE FOUND OF BANDITS AND $12,000 SWAG

Trace of Five Men Who Robbed Wyoming Bank Ends At Denfield.

CAME WITHIN SIXTEEN MILES OF THIS CITY

Thought To Have Passed To North On Way To East.

No trace has yet been found of the five bandits who held up the Wyoming branch of the Bank of Toronto yesterday afternoon and made an easy getaway with about $12,000 in cash. Their high-powered car, with bright yellow wheels, is the object of diligent search by police in the whole of Southern Ontario, from Sarnia to Toronto.

There is a theory that the car which was used by the robbers was the car stolen from the garage of R. C. Wright, of Thorndale, on Wednesday night. The description of the two cars is identical. The car which was used by the robbers was equipped with diamond tread tires on the rear, as was also the car which was stolen from Mr. Wright. The Thorndale car was a new one and, according to those who saw the bandit car at Wyoming it appeared to be almost new. Mr. Wright told The Free Press to-day that there were no chain in his car, while the car which the bandits used was equipped with chains on the rear wheels. It would have been an easy matter, however, to have obtained a pair chains between the time that the car was stolen and the time of the robbery.

CHASE ENDS

The bandit car was chased for a considerable distance by C. Garlick, traveler for the Ingersoll Packing Company, who was accompanied by E. S. Taylor, teller from the rifled bank. The fleeing bandits went north out of the village to the fourth concession of Warwick Township and then east to the Watford sideroad, where they turned north to the London road. The chase continued to Fernhill, about 17 miles northeast of London, where the pursuers were forced to abandon the chase on account of a puncture. At Fernhill, those following found that they were only 20 minutes behind the robbers.

The London police car left shortly after the word of the theft was received and headed west. They patroled the roads between London and Hyde Park and at one time were within two miles of the road taken by the bandit quintet. This morning they were very blue because they had not got in touch with the police station here from Lobo Village, as they would have received the information which was telephoned through from Fernhill by the teller of the bank.

It was learned this morning that the men passed along the sixteenth concession of London Township last night and through Denfield. This road would take them north of Thorndale and immediately north of the Town of St. Marys, on their way to Stratford.

There was a strong belief in some quarters that it was the Thorndale car which had figured in the robbery and there was a theory that the men were possessed of another car, which they had secreted somewhere within easy reach of Thorndale. It was pointed out that this would account for the fact that they headed back almost directly toward Thorndale, where they would be able to take their own car out of hiding and leave the stolen car behind. This would do much to throw pursuers off the track.

The fact that the light car, in which pursuit was given, was able to keep in touch with the high-powered one could be attributed to the greasy condition of the roads. Tracks of the bandit car showed that they had been attempting to travel at high speed, but had had a great deal of difficulty in keeping to the road. There were a number of spots where the car had swung into the ditch.

Cars from Watford took up the chase and continued it after the car in which the teller was traveling broke down. The men in the two cars from Watford were heavily armed and continued the chase as far as Denfield, where they found that they were about 20 minutes behind an automobile answering the description of the one in which the thugs made their get-away. They did not continue the pursuit any farther, but returned to Watford.

PROFESSIONAL JOB.

According to the police the daring hold-up has all the earmarks of a professional job. They chose closing time at the bank, when a locked door would attract no attention, and went about the work of cleaning up all the cash in a leisurely but thorough manner. The fifth member of the gang, the driver of the car, who did not enter the bank, was not to be seen during the time that the car, with engine dead, was stopped on the side street about 100 yards north of the bank. Several pedestrians gazed into the car and saw nothing but a pile of robes on the floor in the tonneau. It is believed that the driver lay concealed beneath these robes while his companions rifled the bank. This is an old trick of the professional bank robber, according to the police.

SEEK MISSING CHICAGO WOMAN

Search is being made in the city for Mrs. Harris M. Parker, of Chicago, Ill., who is wanted in Chicago in connection with the missing funds of the Co-operative Society of America. According to information received from Chicago to-day Mrs. Parker is believed to have come to London, but efforts thus far to locate her have been unavailing.

It is said that Mrs. Parker was not well and it was believed that she might have been admitted to a local hospital or sanatorium, but inquiry by The Free Press failed to uncover anyone of that name in any of the institutions of the city. According to the Chicago reports the missing woman might also be known as Mrs. Edith Parker.

BURGLARY IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—Burglars yesterday looted the store of the Dominion Cord & Tassel Company here of valuable dresses and silks valued at between $5,000 and $6,000. This is the second time this firm has been robbed this year.

Undertaker Not Looking For Business

WYOMING, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter)—There is one man in the village who does not believe in going after business, and that is Alpheus McKay, the local undertaker; in fact, yesterday during the hold-up of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto he tried to back away from what had every appearance of being some business.

Mr. McKay was a customer in the bank when the bandits made their raid. He was talking business with the manager when one of the robbers pushed his way into the office with what looked to Mr. McKay like a small-sized field piece in his hand. Not wishing to intrude, Mr. McKay began to make his apologies and at the same time a graceful retreat.

The dialogue between he and the masked man was brief, but to the point.

"I think I'll be going," said the undertaker, getting out of his chair.

"You get down on the floor," was the ungracious reply of the bold, rude bandit.

PUBLISH SALARY CITY TEACHERS

No Reason Why Request Should Be Ignored.

APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Board Has Not Refused To Take Action.

Salaries of teachers comprising the high and public school staffs will probably be published along with other salaries of city department employees as requested by a group of prominent citizens, which request was approved by the City Council and sent to other elected and appointed boards for action.

Secretary Tanner stated to-day that since the salaries of all teachers in Ontario are published annually by the department of education, he could see no reason why the request of London citizens should be ignored so far as the Board of Education is or would be concerned.

He also pointed out that the board had neither refused the Council request for a list of salaries nor had they ignored such requests. The communication from the City Council had arrived in his office, he pointed out, two days after the latest board meeting. The matter will be given immediate attention at the next board meeting.

The Board of Education has the largest salary list in the city, approximating some $400,000 a year.

The City Council, when all reports are in, plans to publish the salary list of the civic government and departments in pamphlet form.

ARCHDEACON DEWDNEY TO BECOME A BISHOP

Acting Bishop of Saskatchewan to Get Keewatin See.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—The Ven. Archdeacon A. D. Dewdney, of Prince Albert, acting bishop of Saskatchewan, will succeed Rt. Rev. Joseph Lefthouse, D. D., retired, as bishop of Keewatin. The recommendation of the House of Bishops for the appointing of Archdeacon Dewdney was last night approved by a special committee of the Anglican synod of Rupert's Land, which has been in session here for the last two days.

BOLD HOLD-UP AT SPRINGBANK PARK

Milverton Man Robbed of $10 This Morning.

ROBBER GETS AWAY

Police Have Description and Arrest Expected.

Two men, one of whom flourished a gun, held up J. H. Burgess, of Milverton, at the zoo at Springbank Park this morning and relieved him of $10. The men made off immediately after the hold-up, and up to press time had not been located either by the county or local police.

Mr. Burgess is a traveler for a telephone supply company at Milverton, and was making a call to the Byron Telephone Company at Byron. He found that his party was not in and would not be in for about an hour and a half, and he strolled down to have a look at the park zoo. He was inspecting the animals when the two men, who were said to be young, approached him quietly from the rear and demanded his money.

The local police were notified of the robbery this afternoon and believe that it will not be difficult to apprehend the culprits.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION URGED

To Further Farming Interests of Western Ontario.

FOR WESTERN UNIVERSITY

Central Depot To Control Smaller Ones In District.

A central experimental station, which will serve all of Western Ontario, is one of the prominent features that the authorities of Western University expect to see established in connection with the new university. A proposition has been placed before Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture for Ontario, on behalf of the university, and it is confidently expected that this will be favorably considered. At any rate, it is assured that some plan will be worked out that will result in the establishment of such a station in connection with the university within the next year or so.

The department of agriculture has been anxious to do anything that will assist the farming interests of this section, and with this in view it has been decided to establish small experimental stations in several of the counties. These smaller stations would be used to study the crops that are largely local to the county in which they are situated. Then all of these would be under the control of one central station, which will be established in connection with the new university.

GOVERNMENT AID.

While a definite proposition has been been placed for consideration with the Minister of Agriculture, the university authorities do not care to state publicly what this is. But it is assured that it is such that it will be of great benefit to this section of the province.

In this connection it is pointed out that Western is the first university in Ontario, and the second in Canada, to consider agricultural courses.

It had been expected that a course leading to B. A. would be commenced this year, especially for those who might wish to take up agriculture as a life work, but who desired at the same time to round off their education in a university. On account of unforeseen circumstances this course could not be inaugurated this term, but it is practically assured that it will be commenced next October.

TREK FARMWARDS.

Those who are conversant with the situation state that this plan will do more to curb the flow of young men and women to the cities than any other one thing could do. It is also believed that it may start a treck farmwards of many who are now living in the urban centers.

Students of this course may specialize in those subjects that will be of the greatest value to them as farmers and rural leaders. English economics and sociology, and natural science and agriculture will be included in the list of subjects. It is expected that the agricultural high schools will send many students through to this university course.

The establishment of a central experimental station in connection with the university, together with the inauguration of this agricultural course, will be of untold benefits to London and Western Ontario, it is pointed out.

LLOYD GEORGE DECIDES TO VISIT WASHINGTON

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Premier Lloyd George has decided definitely, it was stated to-day, to leave for Washington on November 5 on the liner Aquitania, arriving in time, it is expected, for the afternoon session of the armaments conference on its opening day, November 11.

ADVICE OF POLICE CHIEF FINE IN THEORY BUT OF NO USE IN WYOMING ROBBERY

WYOMING, Oct. 21.—(Special to The Free Press.)—H. E. Lambert, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Toronto, which was yesterday afternoon rifled of $12,000 by armed bandits, is incensed at the attitude of the London chief of police, whom he notified within a few minutes after the escape of the robbers in a high-powered touring car.

The manager declared that instead of getting busy at once in throwing out a dragnet across this part of the country the chief started in to tell him how the banks adopted the wrong angle in protecting their branch offices. He declared that the chief suggested that the teller should have two guns, one on the desk loaded with blank cartridges and the other out of sight beneath the desk. It was the contention of the chief that the first thing a bandit did was to reach through the wicket and take possession of the gun which was left in full sight on the desk. In this case the teller would still have a loaded gun at his disposal.

The manager laughed this theory to scorn and pointed out that in the first place it was not possible for a man to get his arm through the wicket of the teller's cage without making himself helpless for action, and in the second place that there was absolutely no chance for a man to use a gun even if he had one. He pointed out that every employee in the bank with the exception of the junior, Ronald Brown, who made his way out the rear door, was covered with a gun before they were aware that there was anything amiss.

TUNNEL IN ROCKIES FALLS ON C. P. TRAIN; FOUR MEN KILLED

Four Freight Cars Burned In Fire Following Collapse of the Rock.

ONE OF DEAD MEN COMES FROM KINCARDINE, ONT.

C. P. R. Statement Says Collapse Due To Recent Heavy Rains.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Four men were killed and two were injured last night when a Canadian Pacific Railway freight train was caught by falling rock in a tunnel one mile east of Palliser, B. C.

An official statement, issued by D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, declared that heavy rains had caused a movement on the mountain above the tunnel, resulting in an overwhelming pressure on the roof and sides. Four freight cars were burned in a fire which followed the wreck.

Engineer Dean and Fireman Goodwin, of the leading engine; Fireman Richmond, of the second engine, all residents of Revelstoke, were killed, as well as a man stealing a ride, who has been identified as Lance McCarrigan, of Kincardine, Ont. In addition to these Engineer Peterson, of Revelstoke, and a trespasser named Robert Watson were injured.

REFUSES TO TAKE AUDIT OF GAS CO.

F. G. Jewell Says Poor Health Prevents Extra Effort.

ANOTHER TO BE NAMED

Refusal Leaves Matter of Gas Audit Still In Suspense.

F. G. Jewell, C. A., has refused to take over the audit of the City Gas Company's books with a view to determining whether citizens are entitled to a rebate on gas consumed by them since last May, City Clerk Baker stated he had so been informed to-day. Mr. Jewell, the city clerk continued, according to information received, stated that his health would not permit taking on the additional work.

This leaves the matter of the audit, recently demanded by the City Council, still in suspense. It is believed that the chairmen of the two Council committees will again have to appear before the Ontario Railway Board and suggest the appointment of another auditor. Among those mentioned as being possible Council appointees are J. W. Westervelt, jr., and W. J. O'Brien.

The audit was asked on motion of Ald. J. Cameron Wilson, who pointed out that the act authorized increases of rates for the City Gas Company also permitted the City Council to call for an audit at any time, this audit being necessary to determine whether 10 cents the thousand cubic feet of gas used by citizens should be returned or a less amount.

City Clerk Baker also stated that he had written Col. Harkness, technical adviser to the gas referee, asking if permission were granted to permit natural gas flowing direct into East End gas mains if the citizens of East London would be required to purchase special gas burners and provide their stoves with hoods.

Members of the City Gas Company stated at recent conferences on the matter that without mixing the two gas products in the Horton street retorts special burners would have to be purchased.

ATTEMPT CENSURE OF LLOYD GEORGE

Radical Unionists Said To Have Such Idea.

OVER IRISH TROUBLE

Conference Meets and Adjourns Without Discussion.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Unionist members of Parliament have given notice that they will move what is equivalent to a vote of censure of the Lloyd George Government on the day appointed for a discussion of Irish matters in the House. It is expected that Irish affairs will be considered early next week, but the date has as yet not been fixed officially. There were reports a few days ago that Ireland might be discussed on Tuesday, but there seems to be a disposition to postpone the debate for a few days.

Those involved in this move are the extreme Unionists, who always have opposed a conference with the representatives of the Dublin Government. They do not exceed more than 30 or 40, and it would appear that the motion they will introduce has little chance of passing. It is regarded as symptomatic, however, of the anti-conference attitude said to have developed in Unionist constituencies while Parliament was in recess.

URGES GOVERNMENT TO WATCH.

The London Times, which has strongly supported the Irish conference, to-day urged the Government not to disregard this hostility, but to disarm it by making a full statement of the grounds which justified the conference. It intimated that there was some indication that practical results would soon ensue from the conversations being carried on by representatives of the Dail Eireann and the British Government and added that these results would help to remove opposition.

A further indication of unionist impatience was given on Thursday when

SEIZE BIG STORE OF DOPED DRUGS

Inspector Wilson Finds Opium In "Patent" Medicine.

OTTAWA WILL ACT

Startling Disclosures May Follow Investigation.

William E. Wilson, food and drug inspector for the Dominion Government in eight counties of Western Ontario, has seized a quantity of so-called patent medicines, which contain a quantity of opium. The district inspector has communicated with officials at Ottawa and the case will be investigated immediately.

Charges of violating the Opium and Narcotic Drug Act in all probability will be laid against the manufacturers of the article and also the parties having it in stock.

The inspector refused to give the actual territory in which the seizure was made, but states that it is in this district, which covers eight counties, namely: Middlesex, Lambton, Essex, Kent, Elgin, Norfolk, Oxford and Brant.

Representatives from the Dominion offices will conduct a thorough investigation and interesting developments may be forthcoming as a result of the seizure of the medicines containing the prohibited drug.

W. C. T. U. ASKS PARTIES' STAND

Ontario Union Will Support Temperance Advocates.

APPOINT OFFICIALS

Fight Tobacco By Propaganda In Public Schools.

A demand to the leaders of the National Conservative-Liberal and the Liberal parties for a statement of their respective stands with reference to the prohibition question marked the closing session of the Provincial W. C. T. U. convention to-day. Wires have been sent to the Dominion leaders and it is understood that the pronouncement of the Ontario Union on the coming federal elections will depend largely on the replies received. The organization is purely nonpartisan, and any stand taken must be on the part of individual members only, who have been urged during the sessions to cast their votes "for honorable, responsible government," and "or the man who espouses the prohibition cause."

In spite of the evidences of still opposing the efforts of the W. C. T. U towards world-wide reform, the Provincial Union this afternoon concluded one of the most successful conventions in the history of the organization. The union as a whole has evidently determined to disregard the propaganda of their opposition, when it is presented in the guise adopted at this morning's meeting. A communication was received by the president containing a cut of the convention officers, freely daubed with tobacco. The convention declined to give more than a cursory attention to it. This afternoon's session included a heated discussion on the amalgamation of the Ontario official organ of the W. C. T. U. with the official organ of the Dominion organization, a move that is being strongly opposed by a number of the officers.

ACCEPT BUDGET.

The acceptance of an enlarged budget of $21,000 to supply on a business-like basis the needs of four important departments was possibly the leading decision of the convention this morning. The money, to be raised by a $3 per capita tax in each union, in addition to the regular fee, will be apportioned to the Travelers' Aid, $5,600, scientific

EVANGELICAL CHURCHES IN LONDON HAVE BIG PROGRAM OF BUILDING IN NEXT YEAR

Community Work To Feature All Future Building By Church Corporations.

With Askin Street Methodist Church last night giving most serious consideration to the necessity of providing additional Sunday school rooms and recreational quarters for their young people, it may now be stated that London evangelical churches have a half million dollar building program definitely under way for the coming year.

Askin Street has not yet determined how it will solve its institutional problem, but the suggestion of building a separate church recreational hall—the first Methodist parish hall in London—is under consideration. Such a building would cost, probably, in the neighborhood of $50,000. The new impetus recently given church union may lead the several churches of South London to unite in providing a union church recreation hall.

Cronyn Memorial Church has plans drawn for a $100,000 parish hall, and thousands have been pledged towards the building fund. It is considered certain that the work will go ahead in 1922.

King Street Presbyterian Church already has land on Dundas street, and the proposal that a new church be built to house its growing congregation is under consideration by the church board.

Knox Presbyterian Church, in South London, will very probably begin a campaign for a new church building next year. The present edifice is considered inadequate for congregational purposes and a private residence has been purchased as a temporary adjunct to its Sunday school.

It is understood that the Adelaide Street Baptist Church is feeling the need of more room, and a similar condition is reported by members of the Talbot Street Baptist Church.

One significant feature of all the building programs now being outlined is the churches' response to the demand of the time. It is believed that every new church built in London, of major size, will be, in fact, institutional churches that will serve as community centers. Church members view with alarm the growing invasion of the church's peculiar field in that regard a field, they admit, which has not been properly exploited by the church, and are determined to make up for lost time and ground in their future building programs.

At the Askin Street Church meeting last night leaders of boys and girls Sunday school groups and classes pointed out that the pace to really get in touch with youth is not in the formal Sunday school class, but during the week during the informality of group games, class suppers and jollifications, and in athletic competitions.

MAYOR FAVORS LIGHT EXTENSION

Would Use $100,000 For This Purpose.

PUT WIRES UNDERGROUND

Streets In Need of More Brilliant Illumination.

Mayor Little is in full accord with the other members of the Public Utilities Commission in the suggestion that the $100,000 surplus, which the local commission is now receiving in monthly installments from the provincial commission, should be used to extend the street lighting system and to place the wires underground. Work on this will be commenced immediately, Commissioner Pocock intimated to-day.

"Our street lighting is bad," said the mayor to-day. "If the commission will use this extra money to improve the lighting there should be no objection on the part of the citizens. That is, if the city is not called upon to pay an increase in the street lighting rates. Certainly the illumination of the city could be greatly improved, and the sooner it is done the better will it be for the citizens. If this can be done without asking for a debenture issue there can be no reason to object."

CONDUITS ARE O. K.

Referring to placing the wires underground, the mayor stated it would be a good plan to do this if all the wires can be removed from the streets. He was not sure that the conduits are in such condition that all the wires can be placed in them.

Manager Buchanan, of the Utilities Commission, has repeatedly asserted that the conduits, which were laid about 10 years ago, are perfectly good, and there will be no trouble in placing all the wires in them. The only changes that will be made will be the construction of additional manholes for the use of the telephone and telegraph companies. Mr. Buchanan pointed out that the workmen for these companies do not care to work in the manholes provided for the use of the employees of the commission because of the danger of contact with the hydro wires. If additional manholes are built they can be so constructed that it would be impossible to touch the hydro wires in them.

"NOT ATTACKING THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL"

City Clerk Baker States His Friendly Attitude Towards What He Believes Ill-Advised Venture.

City Clerk Baker to-day stated that his statement regarding the new children's hospital, which appeared in The Free Press yesterday, should not be construed as an attack on the hospital or those behind it.

"The matter was voted on by the citizens of London," he stated, "the by-law carried, and it is their business entirely. My attitude is that the building of the children's hospital was unnecessary and I pointed that out to various mothers' clubs last year.

"I am not attacking the hospital because the matter is closed now. I hope them success in their undertaking."

IMITATED SMOKED FISH IS OFFERED

A warning has been issued by the inspector of food and drugs in Western Ontario that fish which has been prepared by being dipped into colored solution to imitate smoked fish is being offered for sale and represented as smoked fish.

The sale of such commodities is a violation of the Food and Drug Act and a campaign will be conducted by the federal officers against persons handling the imitated smoked fish.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 21. — Up betimes, still thinking on my father-in-law, who yesterday extends a hand to a young lad who needs help in the highest way possible, and the usual miracle happens in that father-in-law immediately gets more joy and pleasure out of it than could be bought elsewhere with any amount of money he might spend. He coming to me, after putting this lad in the way of education and advancement if he have the grit for it, and saying: "Pepys, this being a brother to someone that deserves it is the finest thing in the world. I feel in doing this duty, as I now see it, that there is after all a reality to life and death and the life beyond, my soul seems cleansed somehow, almost I perceive the meaning of Christianity!"

Some day we will all wake up and find that we ourselves are the chief losers for not being Christians. That this system of doing unto others even as we would have them do unto us is not a thing devised to get us golden palaces in the hereafter only, it is a straight path to the fairest things of this world, which are peace, clear conscience, and making of our souls gardens wherein grow every lovely flower that be born in, and only in, the smile of the All Father.

Which reminds me how I go abroad yesterday to see a man that is sick, and to hold mighty comfortable converse with him. Especially of his little boy, who goes to a greengrocer's and buys sweets three for a penny. And his teacher is in at the time and she tells him to give the most of his purchase to a younger sister, to which the youngster replies: "Nay, I will not. I will keep them myself." "Oh," says the teacher, "you must not be selfish. Practice the golden rule in all things!" And the boy returns: "That is not the style now. It was so when Christ lived, but not now!" Out of the mouths of babes—

A jeweler reports a strange case of a young man looking over wedding rings. And the jeweler outdoes himself in showing solid gold rings as yellow as desert sunset, but the would-be purchaser disdains them. "Show me something cheaper!" he orders. So the jeweler shows him several rings, but remarks, "These are only plated. They will last no longer than two years." And the man says: "Give me this one. If my venture proves unsuccessful, the plating will not matter. And if successful, new rings can always be purchased!" Whereat the deal is closed.

The young lady on our block amazes Master Choral, who visits her, being attracted by her beauty. So, hoping to find her possessed of a soul in which music dwells in linked harmony, he asks: "And do you play Mozart, Miss Elsia?" "No," the maid replies gushingly, "but I love lawn tennis!" Which is mighty strange.

To home and to dinner last night, where we have baked pork hearts stuffed and also stuffed sweet green peppers. Which nephew consumes in the noblest way, showing his right to Pepysian ancestry, and do my duty also, which amuses grandfather. He observing to my Aunt Mary: 'These peppers be mighty fine. And it is a peculiar thing that we had stuffed peppers and now we have stuffed Pepyses!" Whereat Aunt Mary brings him an extra slice of minced pie for his humor.

Comes my silly wife with new clothes for the fall. These being longer of skirt, for which I thank heaven and so pleased that men on the streets will henceforth look at her face instead of in the direction of her feet, that I write her a check in payment and make little pother about it. Which seemed to me, so long as these short skirts exist, the very silliest thing on the part of married women. They having no reason to wear kilts for the catching of men, yet they wear them. Proving that women are really polyandrous though admitting it not on any occasion.

Our Admiralty Club to meet in special session, being called by Commodore Potts, and wonder at the meaning of it. So we gather in the assembly hall and he calls us to order, saying: "Gentlemen and seafaring men: This club is doing naught for the good of the world and its own advertisement. Therefore, be it resolved that we go on record as condemning the drinking of tea. This tea being an invention of the Chinese, which, St. George knows, like their writing, they should have a monopoly on, it cankering the insides of men and women, sends young maids into the dolors and making men dyspeptics." And in a rousing speech, after he reads his resolution, he calls on us to fight this tea with all our powers. Vowing to touch it not and carry banners before their wives which will say: "Wives that touch tea shall never touch me!" So home mighty content.

My grandfather adds this for our column and we thank him for it: "Good citizens: The warr is over, God be praised, but do any of you ever wonder how it fares with the sons of the men who lie yonder in the Low Countries?" Have you one working for you, one in your church or Sunday school, one that brings papers to you? Do you ever pat this boy on the head, whose dad might be alive to-day had he not died for us. Do you ever say: 'God bless you, son.' Ever wonder if he needs a hand, a quarter, a new pair of shoes, a ticket to a show?"

Young Master Keats-Smith at our Admiralty Club, who is a poet or thinks himself so, laments to me that no editor will publish his poem. So I sympathize with him and tell him how to get a poem published. So he clasps me by the hand with one of his hands, while with the other he pushes back his Byronic locks, meanwhile lighting up to his face wonderfully, saying: "Tell me, Pepys, in St. David's name!" So I tell him: "Write your poem, a good, long poem, leave it on an editor's desk when he is out, then go out and commit suicide. Every paper in Canada will run this poem the next day!" But he jerks away the maddest I ever saw a man, calling me a Philistine brute and other epithets.

Riding to my office this day a golden maple leaf, dislodged from its birthplace, do light upon my lips. A delicate attention, I take it, from Madame Nature. Something to show that these two gray days of rain and ever-falling leaves are signs of a world in tears, but a promise of happier days to come soon, winter in unspotted ermine, and then spring bursting forth lyrically in peach blossoms.

MAY GO DIRECT TO GOVERNOR

Juvenile Court Advocates Likely To Insist On Institution.

OVER COUNCIL'S HEAD

Ministerial Alliance May Petition Ottawa Or Toronto.

Legal opinion has been secured by supporters of the plan to establish a juvenile court in London and it is to the effect that in view of the City Council's failure to act, independent organizations may appeal directly to the governor-general of Canada, or to the lieutenant-governor of Ontario, or both, and through them have the act proclaimed in London and Middlesex. This opinion will be presented at an early session of the Ministerial Alliance, owing to their recent spirited stand on the matter, and they may undertake to draw up the necessary petition which will go to federal or provincial official who represents the King in Canada.

The opinion secured points out that petition for the proclamation of the Juvenile Court Act in any municipality or part of it may be made to the governor-general or lieutenant-governor of the province concerned by the municipal Council or otherwise. "And on such proclamation," the act states, "the municipal Council shall take steps to organize the court, secure officials and provide separate quarters for the juvenile court."

It is believed that the Ministerial Alliance could have a sufficiently signed petition on the way to Ottawa or Toronto within a week after they determined on a course of action in the matter. Lay members of city churches suggest that an early Sunday should be set aside for sermons on the question and the presentation of the petition for the signatures of church members and adherents.

PLEDGE ALDERMEN TO JUNIOR COURT

Get Statements From 1922 Aldermanic Aspirants.

WILL BE CIVIC ISSUE

Criticize Indifference of the 1921 Council.

The citizens' committee, formed to expedite the establishment of a juvenile court in this city, will refuse to negotiate any further with the present City Council, but will make every effort to have the incoming aldermen pledge their support to a local tribunal for delinquents. This intimation was given The Free Press by one of the officials of the organization, who is in a position to speak with authority.

"Of what use would it be for us to renew our requests from a body which cares more for saving a few paltry dollars than the future of children who are headed for the ranks of criminals," he pointed out. "If they did bring up the matter they would have to shelve it over until another meeting, just from force of habit. Our salvation lies in the support which we may receive from the Council to be elected this year."

At the last meeting of the Ministerial Alliance the clergy of the city adopted a resolution that the agitation for a juvenile court should be renewed and that the Social Service Council, as well as the City Council, should be urged to take action. Secretary McCullough, of the former council, is in favor of postponing the matter until the beginning of the year, when the 1922 civic body will probably be agreeable to the formation of the court.

Mr. McCullough is convinced that the cost of operating the court would not exceed $4,000 a year, if the judge were a voluntary official, as was recommended by the last meeting of the citizens' committee. A probation officer would be the biggest expense, as he would be required to keep in almost constant touch with the children who were brought before the court and to exercise supervision over the parents. In some instances it would be necessary to remove the child from contaminating and crowded conditions and place him where he would be taught the right principles of life and given a change to succeed in the future.

500 WILL ATTEND "Y" MASQUERADE

Tuxis and Trail Rangers To Bring Girls To Party.

HALLOWEEN FESTIVAL

Saturday night, October 29, will be marked by one of the biggest Halloween parties in the history of London, when all the Y. M. C. A. building will be turned over to the Tuxis and trail ranger boys of the city. A costume and a girl are the only requirements of admission for the 300 lads who are expected to attend and everyone is promised the time of his young life in the enjoyment of the program that has been suggested.

The organized youth of the city has had its "father and son" week, its "mother and son" week, its civic clean-up week and still others, but these all lose in appeal beside the "boy and girl" evening which is planned. The committee in charge of the affair have many secrets which they are not disclosing as yet regarding the party, but it is understood that it will commence with a grand parade of costumed youngsters, will include games, contests, folk dancing and will come to an end with a substantial lunch.

TO BE CHAPERONED.

The mentors and their wives, together with the Ladies' Auxiliary, will chaperone the gathering and care for the needs of the masqueraders. The entire building has been given over to the juniors, and it is anticipated that it will show their elders a few things about how winter picnics and other reunion nights should be conducted.

The Tuxis election of officers was held last night and resulted as follows: Grand pretor, Lawrence Spence, of Talbot street "Weaners;" deputy grand pretor, George McCracken, of the "Y." Hoodoos, and grand scriptor, Spencer Fielding, of First Methodist. Officers of the Trail Rangers were also chosen as follows: Grand chief ranger, Millard Grant, of Dundas Center; deputy chief ranger, Arnold Webb, of Askin Street; grand tally, Jack White, of Dundas Center. These boys, along with the boys' work secretary, will plan and conduct the weekly meetings throughout the coming months.

DRUG INSPECTOR HERE.—T. L. Leckie, Ottawa, senior food and drug inspector for the Federal Government, will be in London late to-day and will pay a visit to W. E. Wilson, food and drug inspector of this section of Western Ontario.

ORGANISTS ELECT OFFICERS. — At yesterday's noon luncheon meeting of the Canadian College of Organists the following officers were elected for the coming year: Clarence E. Gilmour, president; Miss Minnie Raymond, vice-president; J. Parnell Morris, honorary president; Leonard G. Starling, secretary; A. D. Jordan, Charles E. Wheeler and W. A. Bluethner were made members of the executive.

THOMAS MITCHELTREE HONORED.—Thomas Mitcheltree was tendered a farewell luncheon at Smallman & Ingram's yesterday by the organists of the city. A presentation was made him as a mar kof his confreres' esteem and regret at his going to Toronto to accept a position. J. Parnell Morris made the presentation. Mr. Mitcheltree will give a farewell concert at Cronyn Hall on October 25.

OFFICERS' REUNION. — There will be a reunion dinner at the Windsor Hotel, Montreal on November 11 (Armistice Day), to which all Canadian officers and imperial and allied officers resident in Canada are invited. Those planning to attend are requested to write Lieut.-Col. R. H. Webb, D. S. O., M. C., office No. 11, Windsor Hotel, Montreal. Those attending will either wear service uniform or evening dress with miniature decorations.

FAREWELL SERVICES.—On Wednesday evening farewell services will be conducted in the Masonic hall by Commissioner W. J. and Mrs. Richards, who will shortly leave Canada to take over the duties of commissioner in Western Australia. A large musical festival has been prepared for the occasion and the Chatham silver band and songsters, St. Thomas band and songsters, as well as the three bands from the city, will take part. Quite a number of prominent army officials from the surrounding district are expected to attend.

MAY BUILD PEACE ARCH ON HIGHWAY

At Two-Mile Hill On the Road To Lambeth.

SHOW INTERNATIONAL AMITY

Plans Also Call For Tourist Park For Autoists.

While it is impossible for Ontario to follow British Columbia's example in building a peace arch on the international boundary, a plan is now before the Public Utilities Commission which in some measure express the good-will existing between Western Ontario particularly and the neighboring republic.

These plans include the erection of a welcome international arch at the summit of the two-mile hill on the Lambeth highway, over which most American tourists enter the city, and it is on the summit of the two-mile hill that the automobile visitor first sees the Forest City lying in the Thames Valley, surrounded by the maternal hills of Middlesex County.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan was yesterday asked to bring in a report on how the 15 acres on top of the two-mile hill, which are owned by the city, might be developed as a civic advertisement. The suggestion was made by Commissioner Pocock.

Commissioner McFarland suggested that an arch should be erected there, which would be illuminated at night, that would express the amity existing between the two great North American nations. The adjoining park, it is also suggested, may be made into an auto tourists' park. Several buildings are already in place there, which might serve for rest-rooms, baths and a canteen.

FOREINGER IS THE BIGGEST PROBLEM

Declares Mrs. Gordon Wright At W. C. T. U. Annual Convention.

"The foreigner at our Canadian door is one of the biggest Dominion-wide problems of the moment, and we are not facing up to the situation as we ought," declared Mrs. Gordon Wright, of this city, Dominion president of the W.C.T.U., in a brief address on Dominion problems, given to the convention yesterday afternoon.

"In our Queen City of Toronto, and in Montreal, one in every ten persons is a foreigner," Mrs. Wright said. "In Winnipeg, three in every 10. In Saskatchewan there are 65,000 foreigners, and in our coast cities the problem is most acute."

The Dominion president referred to the pressing difficulty of the moment, the need for an official Dominion W.C.T.U. organ, without which, she declared the organization could not adequately function. "Right here in Ontario you have the key to this problem in your White Ribbon Tidings," Mrs. Wright said. "Perhaps it may be necessary for us as a Dominion body to throw ourselves at your mercy."

Mrs. Wright referred also to the lamented death of the late world president, Rosalind, Countess of Carlisle, who "stood unflinchingly against all forms of Government control."

HEREDITY AND HEALTH.

Probably the mose widely-interesting report of the convention was that of Dr. Margaret Patterson, of Toronto, on "Heredity and Health."

"Now that we have banished the whisky bottle, let us introduce the milk bottle, and help to make Canada the finest nation in the British Empire," Dr. Patterson said.

Dr. Patterson's report in part is as follows:

"The sentiments of Disraeli, who said, 'Concern for public health is true patriotism,' are at last being put into practice. The number found to be physically unfit for military service because of some defect that might have been remedied in childhood had it been noticed; the many who were not properly developed because of malnutrition have lead to the establishment of research laboratories, to make a study of foods and their relation to growth.

"It has also led to the provision of inspectors and health instruction in the schools, rural as well as urban. Not only have the governments recognized that the health of the people is a national asset, but they have become more active in their attempts to conserve health. Valuable work is being done by voluntary organizations such as our own. Indeed, it may be said that we have gone before and blazed the trail by educating public opinion so that it was easy for the governments to follow.

It is an accepted saying to-day that "the right of every child is to be just as healthy as knowledge can make it." This knowledge must be spread so widely that it will reach every home, every parent or guardian of children. Who are in a better position than our members to scatter this knowledge and to demand that more adequate education on the care and function of the great human machine should be given in our schools?

"From my observation of conditions, especially in rural communities, I feel that there are a great many children who are undernourished. They are not taking milk because no one knows its value—or the lifelong handicap they will suffer if they do not get this invaluable building material during the years when they are building up their bodies and their constitutions."

GUARDIANS OF HEALTH.

"As women and home-makers we are the guardians of the health of the people, as the light of research is turned on the problem of health and the interdependence of food and health. We realize the need of keeping abreast with these discoveries, if we are to be true to the trust reposed in us.

"Food is the basis of health—of life itself—and when we consider that one third of all the money earned in the world is spent on food, surely it is a matter of national importance whether it is spent on foods that feed or merely fill.

"As a people we are not using sufficient milk and dairy products for our own good. Let us unitedly insist upon proper graded instruction on health and food being taught in every public school, so that the children may reach the highest state of development. A noted scientist has told us that, as a people, we could retain the characteristics of youth at least 15 years longer if we used more leafy vegetables and more milk.

'Let us awaken public opinion, so that the Government will be obliged to make provision for practical health instruction and follow-up work throughout the country. Let us work for the establishment of health centers and of well-baby clinics, where mothers can have expert opinion and advice. Let us make it our slogan 'a baby-book in every home, and everyone interested in learning how to keep the human machine efficient.' "

BORDER CONDITIONS.

Mrs. B. R. Johnston, of Toronto, reporting for the evangelistic department, declared that to many conditions along the Ontario border had become intolerable, but now, as a result of the referendum, the situation has changed.

"There are still breaches of the Act," Mrs. Johnston said, "but there is no such prevailing note of dismay in the reports, as last year instead, a note of deep thankfulness for victory achieved, through prayer, and one step further taken in the bring in of the kingdom of God."

"Six hundred pledges have been signed during the year," Mrs. Johnston stated.

Reports were received also from Mrs. H. Gray, Toronto, on "Temperance in the S.S."; from Mrs. John Jones, of this city, on "S.S. slides"; from Mrs. Pugsley, reporting for Mrs. Lancefield on the "Loyal Temperance Legion" and from Mrs. Redmond of Toronto, on "Systematic Giving."

During the afternoon Rev. Thos. Joplin spoke briefly in behalf of the Shantymen's Mission, and Mrs. Irwin, of Ottawa, and Miss Frances Cullis, of this city, sang delightful solos.

The delegates were greeted at luncheon by the Dominion president and by Mrs. B. R. Johnston, in behalf of the New York W. C. T. U., and by Lt.-Col. Walter Brown, who extended the welcome of the Chamber of Commerce.

Replying to Mr. Brown, the retiring president, Mrs. Stevens, paid a tribute to London, as the only city in the province to give a majority prohibition vote.

Yesterday's meeting concluded with a motor trip through the city, during which the delegates were the guests of the Chamber of Commerce and the London Motor League.

BRITISH WARSHIP IS ORDERED TO LISBON

Will Protect British Interests From Portuguese Demonstrators.

LONDON, Oct. 21. — The admiralty, it was announced to-day, is sending the warship Calypso from the Mediterranean to Lisbon in consequence of the representation of British firms and British residents of the Portuguese capital. They express apprehension over the result of the recent political developments there.

News received in official quarters reports quiet prevailing in Lisbon to-day. Looting, however, had occurred on a large scale previously, causing the British interests to requent the presence of a warship.

SPORTING MEN ATTEND GEO. KENNEDY'S FUNERAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—A notable gathering of Canadian sporting men this morning attended the funeral of the late George Kennedy, formerly president of the Canadien Hockey Club, who, during his life, was a prominent promoter of sporting events. Jack Curley, of New York, was amongst the gathering.

The funeral took place from Mr. Kennedy's late residence on St. Hubert street to St. Agnes Church and from thence to the cemetery. Three barouches carried a huge array of magnificent floral tributes, while over a thousand persons followed the remains to the grave.

PAYING SURPLUS TO LOCAL HYDRO

Commission Hears That Part of $100,000 Due Is Already Paid

WANT SUM FROM CITY

To Be Used in Extending "White Way" on Dundas Street

Payment of the $100,000 due London from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, of Ontario, has already been begun. At yesterday afternoon's session of the Public Utilities Commission Manager Buchanan announced that $21,000 had already been paid and that the balance would be paid in monthly installments.

The commissioners, however, decided to ask the City Council for the entire $125,000 wanted for the electrical department instead of asking only $25,000. The general manager was instructed to write the mayor, asking a conference between the commissioners and the City Council finance committee on the matter. At that meeting it will be pointed out that the $100,000 surplus will be devoted to adding to the city lighting system, extending the downtown "white way" to the C.P.R. station and to the Western Fair grounds.

WATER FOR C. P. R.

The C.P.R. will be provided with river water on a sliding scale, which figures at seven cents the 1,000 gallons for 100,000,000 gallons consumption daily. Silverwoods, Limited, are asking river water for use in their new condensing and cooling plants.

A proposal that London adopt a minimum electrical charge was laid over for further consideration. Chairman Vining pointed out that the minimum rate would burden the people least able to bear it, and was inadmissible at this time. Commissioner Pocock pointed out that hydro was one of the few articles of general public consumption that had not gone up during and after the war. This record should be continued, he stated.

Joint resolutions of regret over the death of Lady Beck by the Public Utilities Commission and London Railway Commission will be engrossed in book form and presented to Sir Adam Beck and his daughter, Miss Marion Beck.

A report on improving Crystal Water Park, the site of the crystal wells on the Lambeth highway, was asked from the general manager.

Citizens living on Brick street and vicinity will be given a uniform hydro rate, it was decided.

"A thorough examination by F. Steele, optometrist, will settle any question of eye trouble. Call at his office, 210 Dundas street." f

LARGE MOVEMENT OF CANADIAN WHEAT CROP

C. P. R. Is Distributing Millions of Bushels to Millers of Ontario.

More than 500 cars of grain received from the Canadian West at Port McNicholl and Goderich are being distributed daily by the Canadian Pacific Railway to all parts of Ontario and other Eastern provinces.

Divisional officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway state that thousands of grain cars are now available and are now in use transporting the Canadian wheat to the millers.

The large grain elevator at Port McNicholl has a capacity of 4,000,000, and more than 1,000,000 bushels can be stored in the elevator at Goderich.

The movement of grain is expected to continue for several weeks, and it is the opinion of many if it were not for the irregularity of the grain market that the movement would be even larger than it is at the present time.

GUESTS OF FRENCH EXHIBITION—Senior Technical School students were the guests of the French exhibition train officials this morning in an inspection tour of the magnificent C. N. At the Theaters

AT THE ALLEN.

One of the best motion pictures to be seen by local citizens was that witnessed by the theatergoers at the Allen Theater last night, when "The Golden Snare" was offered for the first time locally.

The irresistible appeal of the great North about which the author writes, permeates "The Golden Snare" just as it did his last two great works, "Nomads of the North" and "The River's End," and which were seen at the Allen. It is a story of gripping mystery, thrilling adventure and a great love borne out of the wilderness.

The picture starts with the search by an officer of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police, known as the "bloodhounds of the North," who never fail to get their man, for Bram Johnston, the "loup garou" man of the Arctic barrens, wanted for murder.

It results in the discovery of a golden-haired beauty in the unexplored regions of the North, whose mysterious presence in those vast frozen wastes, remains unexplained, until the "loup garou" man ends his violent career by giving his life for her.

In addition to a wonderful story and an extraordinary plot the motion picture camera unfolds a wonderful panorama of the great snow country, with its malamute dog teams, its snowshoe-equipped men, its vast solitude and its great silent forests.

Together with this feature attraction is a Christie comedy, "Man Against Woman," a remodelled story of the prehistoric days during the Stone Age. It is a clever comedy and well played by the silent actors. The Allen world news and the final episode of "The Hope Diamond Mystery" complete the program, to be offered again to-day and to-morrow.

An added attraction to the above program is a highly entertaining two-reel picture, entitled "The Policeman and thh Baby."

AT THE PATRICIA

Dustin Farnum aroused much enthusiasm in the audience last night at the Patricia Theater when he appeared in the role of Brian Wayne, in "The Primal Law," a stirring Fox photo-play of the West.

He was, in turn, the gentle and humorously kindly pal of little Bobbie Carson, revealing the most gracious side of his engaging personality, and the dangerous fighter when aroused by the efforts of a band of plotters to rob the boy of his inheritance. The role enables the star to portray much of his many-sided dramatic nature.

Suspense is well sustained in this feature picture and the element of mystery is developed effectively in regard to the mother of little Bobbie, as well as the real causes of the eagerness of one Travers and his gang to get possession of Willow Ranch and other properties.

Travers enlists the aid of several "bad men" of the district and fighting results with Wayne taking the lead in the defense, more for the protection of the boy's interests than his own. The arrival of a pretty Eastern girl on the scene of action creates a new interest in the lives of the man and the boy and, of course, things come out right for the hero in a fitting climax to the picture.

Offered on the same bill is a novelty juggling vaudeville act by James and Taylor, one that offers several new features to London theatergoers. Together with this added attraction is a Century Comedy and a Canadian Scenic reel, which will be offered again twice to-day and to-morrow.

AT LOEW'S.

The feature offering at Loew's Theater to-day and again to-morrow is Viola Dana, in "Puppets of Fate," dealing with a young Italian couple who own a small show. One night while in Venice a young American tells him of the wonderful opportunities in America, with the result that he soon tires of his home offerings and decides to journey to the "land of promise" alone.

Leaving his wife he goes to America and falls into the hands of crooks and becomes a successful gambler, winning a large sum of money. Babe Reynolds, a pretty young manicurist, learns that he has won a fortune, and arranges matters until Gabriel, the young Italian is cowed into a reluctant marriage by her brother.

Later his former wife, Sorrentina, follows him to America and meets him face to face one night in a restaurant. Sorrentina rushes up to him, but is repulsed, and later loses her position for making a scene.

A short time after she commenced a little show of her own and becomes so successful in her efforts that nothing can stem her progress.

Gabriel's luck drops as his former wife's mounts, and as she looks around and discovers his plight she has him brought to court to answer a charge of divorce. The judge, however, discovers that he had been forced into the second marriage and lets him off. The two are happily reunited and life and love comes back in a flood of happiness.

In addition to this feature picture is added a Sunshine comedy, "The Book Agent;" British and Canadian News; Loew's classic orchestra, under the direction of Joseph Tirri, and three high class vaudeville acts: King and Cody, in songs and dances; Mack and Dean, in comedy singing and talking, and Johnson, Fox and Gibson, in a high class comedy musical skit.

RURAL DEANERY HOLDS SESSION AT WYOMING

COURTRIGHT, Oct. 20.—Quite a few members of St. Stephen's Church, together with the rector, attended the rural deanery meeting in Wyoming on Tuesday, October 18. About 12 clergymen and a large number of lay delegates, both men and women, were present. A very helpful devotional address was delivered by Rev. Brown, of Sombra. At 12 o'clock the deanery chapter met in the schoolroom and discussed matters of interest to the members. Lunch was served in the rectory at 1 o'clock, and the meeting in the afternoon was conducted by Crown Attorney Wilson, of Sarnia, president of the Laymen's Association for the Deanery of Lambton. This meeting was for the purpose of appointing committees in each parish, which should be responsible for the raising of the budget apportionment. Sheriff Johnston and other members of the association were present and addressed the meeting. Prof. Anderson, of Huron College, conducted a devotional meeting in the church and also preached at the evening service. The next meeting of the chapter will be held in Forest.

DEATH OF CHARLES HALL

THEDFORD, Oct. 20.—Charles Hall, an old resident of this place, died on Tuesday night. He was in his 87th year. Born in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, he came to Toronto with his parents when 11 years old. He learned the trade of wagonmaker and started business for himself in Adelaide Village, coming to this place in 1868, where he carried on business in the same line until 16 years ago, when he retired. Besides his wife, who is in her 80th year and in very poor health, he leaves one son and three daughters, Mrs. W. T. Lee, of Owen Sound; Charles, of McGillivray; Mrs. J. Munns, of Moose Jaw, Sask.; Mrs. W. J. Baird, of Blenheim, and Mrs. T. F. Johnson, of Vancouver, B.C. The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon, interment to be made in Pinehill Cemetery, 2nd concession, Bosanquet.

COL. PECK AN INDEPENDENT.

PRINCE RUPERT, Oct. 19.—Col. Peck, V. C., to-day announced his intention to run as an independent candidate in the federal election. In a statement, Col. Peck expressed the belief that the people had grown weary of old party lines and he desired to go back to Parliament with hands free to deal with any occupation, irrespective of party, in the best interests of the North country.

NIGHT WORK FOR DAY ABSENTEES

Compulsory Classes for Adolescents With Permits Planned

SCHOOL BOARD ACTS

Idea Is to Educate Those Most Needing It

At the suggestion of Senior Inspector C. B. Edwards the public school committee of the Board of Education at a special meeting yesterday afternoon recommended to the board that all pupils holding work permits or home permits under the provisions of the Adolescent School Attendance Act be required to take night school work at either the London Collegiate Institute or the Technical and Art High School. Mr. Edwards' suggestion was strongly supported by Chairman Edwin Smith, of the committee, and it was passed unanimously.

This action of the public school committee was forecasted two days ago by The Free Press. Without this provision for night school work by adolescents holding work or home permits, Mr. Smith pointed out, the Adolescent Act really became noneffective, in that it fails to benefit those most directly in need of further education.

Youths who will now be compelled to attend night schools, or else relinquish work permits and attend regular day schools, will be cared for in the Technical school in a large measure. No tuition will be charged them, it is understood, and accommodation for 300 is being provided.

The matter came to the public and school inspector's attention through a report by Dr. George Weir, school attendance officer, who gave a detailed report of illiteracy among children that had been granted work or home permits. It was discovered that over 100 had never reached the sixth grade of the public school and that one had not reached the third grade.

SHRINERS ENTERTAIN.

STRATFORD, Oct. 20.—"Billy" McCully's group of the Far-Qua Shrine Club played hosts to-night to the Shriners of the city and their ladies, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms. A very happy time was passed in a social way, with peanuts and wieners as the principal hunger destroyers.

SPLENDID CANTATA BY FIRST CHURCH CHOIR

Members of First Presbyterian Choir Raise Funds for Baptist Choir.

Members of the First Presbyterian Church choir gave a sacred cantata at Maitland Street Baptist Church last evening. George Lethbridge, choirmaster of the First Presbyterian, directed the musical program.

"Rebecca" and "Prayer and Praise" were the two outstanding numbers presented and in addition to this solos were given by individual members of the choir.

The entertainment was presented to raise funds for the Maitland Street Baptist Church choir, and a substantial sum was netted.

FRACTURES HIP IN FALL

Mrs. Martha Rogers, aged 87, of 443 Central avenue, suffered a fractured hip and a severe shake-up when she fell down the cellar at her home at 8 o'clock last night. She was removed to Victoria Hospital, where she was attended by Dr. G. A. Ramsay.

CITY DEFINITELY OUT OF THE FUEL BUSINESS

The Public Utilities Commission will not operate a fuel sales department this winter, E. V. Buchanan, general manager of the utilities, stated last night. All fuel has been disposed of and other materials accompanying the civic coal venture have been sold. The civic corporation thus goes out of the coal business after its initial entry in 1918-19, due to the shortage of coal.

LONDON! TAKE NOTICE

WINDSOR, Oct. 20.—Plans for opening the new Windsor police station and court were under consideration this afternoon by the police commission. Ald. Keyser, chairman of the property committee of the City Council, believes the building will be ready for the formal opening early in December.

With furniture and other equipment, the building will cost approximately $200,000. This is near the estimate made when the project was first under discussion two years ago.

The station, believed to be the most modern of its kind in Ontario, will be furnished with oak and mahogany in keeping with the interior finish.

"Semi-ready Week"

We devote this week to a special display of all the new Fashions and Physique Types in

Semi-ready Tailored Clothes

Ease of putting on, with good shoulder draping, is the essential in an Overcoat.

Ninety-five per cent. of the Overcoats made to-day are sold ready-to-try-on.

Before the advent of the Semi-ready physique type system about 30 per cent. was the rule.

In a suit you wish to be fitted—to feel that the garment you wear conforms to your muscular movements. That it feels easy and looks smooth.

Only our Physique Type System designing assures that the Suit will stay as good as it looks when you try it on.

The Semi-ready Tailoring System has created a revolution in the Men's Wear trade—for there was a rebellion against the older methods of waiting and disappointment.

Had it not been for the many tawdry imitations of "Semi-ready"—imitations which discouraged and deceived—the Physique Type System of tailoring would be universal.

Come in and see the new Fall Styles—in particular see this display while it is new, distinctive, comprehensive, complete.

USE MOVIES TO TEACH CHILDREN

Government Asks For Selection of Suitable Films.

VALUABLE FOR GEOGRAPHY

Majority of Modern Schools Have Auditoriums.

Movies promise to become as popular in the school classroom as they now are in the hundreds of theaters throughout the province. The Ontario Government has made approaches to the Social Service Council, according to District Secretary T. D. McCullough, with a view to securing the Council's co-operation in selecting films of an educational nature, and the result will probably be the introduction of suitable programs into the public schools at least.

The expense of educating the child mind through the popular expedient of the screen is considerable, but it is not believed to be prohibitive. It is understood that the Government, having taken the initiative, will in all probability bear the cost of extending the film service to the schools throughout the province. The Minister of Education would probably supervise the pictures that would be shown.

Travel pictures that will be an aid to the study of geography will be included in the selected programs, it is said, while educational films that are supplied at cost price and even less by the Canadian Government could be featured. Through the pictures the children will be able to visualize the methods used in the great manufacturing plants of the country, learn where the raw products come from and get an insight into all the ramifications of modern business without leaving their school.

Most of the modern schools have auditoriums and facilities for the showing of pictures, so that if the film service were inaugurated free of charge to the institutions the cost of presenting them would not be overly great. Besides affording a relief from the text book study, the films will make much greater impressions on the child mind than all the personal teaching of the teachers. Travel pictures will stimulate the desire to travel, and other pictures will foster ambitions to take an active part in the world of commerce.

SIMCOE MOTHERS' CLUB.

"Dress and Its Affect on Character" was the subject of a very interesting talk Mrs. M. A. Young gave before the Mothers' Club of Simcoe Street School last evening. The president was in charge of the meeting and, following the address, an interesting discussion took place. Two readers, Miss Leff and Miss Potts, delighted their hearers with several selections. Refreshments and a social half-hour concluded the evening.

TO ENLARGE CAPACITY OF N. Y. POLO GROUNDS

By Next Spring Giants' Ball Park Will Seat 50,000 People.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Plans for renovating and enlargement of the Polo Grounds, New York's great baseball park, which will raise its seating capacity from 38,000 to 50,000 have been completed under the direction of Charles Stoneham, president of the New York National League Club. The work will begin in the late fall, according to present plans, and be completed in time for the opening of the 1922 league season.

PREMIER OF GREECE MAY VISIT THE UNITED STATES

PARIS, Oct. 21.—Premier Gournaris, of Greece, who is here to consult the French Government regarding allied consent for Greece to retain occupied Turkish territories, met Premier Briand this morning. They will have a series of consultations, after which the Greek premier will go to London and consult Prime Minister Lloyd George.

It is indicated that after his visit in London, it is the intention of M. Gounaris to visit Washington.

MOROCCANS SURRENDER.

MADRID, Oct. 21.—Twenty chiefs of the Beni Sidel tribe have surrendered to the Spanish troops here, says a telegram from Melilla, Morocco. One of the rebel chieftains has established a line of posts so that tribesmen may be prevented from reaching the Spanish lines and surrendering.

PRE-WAR WASTE AGAIN RUNS RIOT IN LONDON

Garbage Collections Show That War-Time Lessons of Economy Are Losing Weight.

London is forgetting its war-time lessons of economy and thrift. Again the riot of table waste which is alone characteristic of the North American continent which causes foreigners to say that what citizens of Canada and the United States throw away in their garbage would feed an empire.

Supt. Dodd, of the garbage department, in an interview to-day, stated that garbage collection had again returned to normalcy in that collections were ar heavy as they were in 1914, long before rations, war bread, 'less days and Herbert Hoover had been thought of in a general way.

He also pointed out that this condition is not general, however. Some homes, from week to week, send no garbage to the city incinerator. These homes, where the war-time lessons of thrift have been thoroughly learned, have as little table refuse as possible, and what they have they burn in their own stoves or furnaces.

WESTERN U. GIRL WINS SCHOLARSHIP COURSE

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys If Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advt.

Will Take Off All Excess Fat

Do you know that there is a simple, harmless, effective remedy for overfatness that may be used safely and secretly by any man or woman who is losing the slimness of youth? There is; and it is none other than the tablet form of the now famous Marmola Prescription, known as Marmola Prescription Tablets. You can well expect to reduce steadily and easily without going through long sieges of tiresome exercise and starvation diet. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a case, or you can secure them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward avenue, Detroit, Mich., on receipt of price.—Advt.

"O Canada"

Senator C. P. Beaubien, president of the Canadian committee of organization of the Made in France Exhibition, delivered a remarkable speech yesterday at the luncheon tendered by the city and the Chamber of Commerce to the delegates on the French train.

Recalling that before the war Canada had been the "spoiled child" of international commerce, in that her export work had literally been done for her by England and the United States, the senator urged that Canada is now grown up.

The responsibilities of war and her response to responsibilities put an end forever to Canada's adolescence. To-day the hand of Canada controls Canada's destiny. It may even be that the young and virile hand of Canada controls the destiny of the twentieth century.

That destiny is made up not only of the political and intellectual aspects of the future, but of the commercial aspects as well. The three are indissolubly linked. They are the body, mind and spirit of nationhood and of internationalism.

To this end, Senator Beaubien seemed to say, Canada must advertise herself to the whole world. "Swapping pocketbooks" between provinces was all very well while Canada was indeed a provincial concern. To-day Canada is a world concern. Her policy must change with her status. The things that come to her unsought, she may take. And the things that do not come, she must go out after.

Using France as an example of the possible commercial adventure ahead of our country, Senator Beaubien mentioned the fact that there there are 38,000,000 of people who, before the war, knew little or nothing about either the resources or the achievements of Canada.

Since that time, however, it has fallen out that the soil of France has been watered by the life-blood of the sons of Canada. As the result of that so precious rain, in France, at this hour, there is blooming the flower of a great friendship. Canada must pluck the flower of friendship while it is fresh. Pluck it and wear it. It is her own.

In this connection, Senator Beaubien dealt at some length with just three of the natural resources of Canada, the output of which is necessary to France: nickel, asbestos and pulp wood.

Canada has the richest nickel mines in the world. Canada has the largest asbestos mines in the world. Canada has the greatest pulp wood resources in the world. Yet, before the war when France needed nickel, asbestos and pulp wood, where did she go? To Canada? No. To Berlin. Canada must see that France, one of the most highly industrialized countries in the world, becomes her customer for asbestos, nickel and wood pulp.

Commenting upon the industries of the Province of Ontario, at the moment being unrolled before him, Senator Beaubien decided that over and above the beauty of Ontario he loved the mind of Ontario; that mind which had set her great water powers to work turning wheels and wheels and wheels, until Ontario had become a hive of industry, with "plants" unrivaled in any part of the world. Again, "swapping purses," province with province, will not do. The industries of the province must go out into the world and compel attention.

Here again France, a people of 38,000,000, needs much that Ontario, that Canada has to offer. The senator visioned a great Canadian Exhibition Train traveling through France, a great Canadian exhibition domiciled at Paris.

The conclusion to which those who listened to Senator Beaubien's eloquence inevitably must have come is this: Canada must either conquer the world or be conquered by the world. At this moment Canada stands in need of one thing and one thing only—Unity.

United, no matter how severe the strain, we stand to win. Nature is on our side. Truth is on our side. If love be on our side—the love of Canadian for Canadian—who can overcome us?

Name His Charges

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen has lost no time in replying to the innuendoes and insinuations of Hon. T. A. Crerar in his manifesto in regard to corruption, control by "big interests" and political morality.

Will Mr. Crerar name a solitary charge of corruption or scandal against the Meighen Government or the Union Government which preceded it? No Canadian Government since Confederation and no belligerent administration has the clean record of the present ministry. It is a record of which Mr. Meighen and the Canadian people have reason to be proud. The public accounts committee, where charges are investigated and which has on it members of all parties, has not met more than a half dozen times in the past four years, and in every case the Government has come out with flying colors. Let Mr. Crerar name his charges; otherwise he should refrain from mud-slinging and from cant about the party which he leads being the sole repository of political morality in Canada.

This "big business" cry is overdone. Mr. Crerar was a member of Union Government for two years along with Mr. Meighen. They sat togther in Cabinet council. Was "big business" in control then? Or has this grip upon the Government suddenly come since Mr. Crerar retired? Mr. Crerar well knows that when the Government proposed to nationalize the railways it was "big business" in Montreal which fought the scheme. Mr. Meighen as the minister responsible for the bill was particularly attacked by the financial interests. In addition, they did everything they could to oppose the promotion of Mr. Meighen to the leadership.

The biggest "big business" in the West is the Grain Exchange. Time was when the Western farmers attacked the exchange as severely as a monopoly as they do Eastern manufacturers to-day. However, the farmers of the West have now a colossal company called the Grain Growers' Grain Company. Mr. Crerar is its $20,000 a year manager. This company recently joined hands with the Grain Exchange and hired some 30 odd lawyers to block an inquiry into the grain business. Mr. Crerar is linked up with "big business" as much, or more than Mr. Meighen. Mr. Crerar also knows that "big business" is taxed heavier in Canada than almost any other country.

All this talk of a "fettered" Parliament, etc., is soap-box oratory and political cant. Mr. Meighen is a son of the soil, like Mr. Crerar, and just as thoroughgoing a democrat as the leader of the Progressive party.

Union Breaking Down

The coalition between Farmers and Labor in the West seems to be collapsing. The Edmonton Bulletin, edited by Hon. Frank Oliver, has the following to say in regard to the situation in Alberta:

"The coalition between the United Farmers and a section of organized labor in this province seems to have got into the throes of an early dissolution. The alliance functioned for the purposes of the provincial elections, and was largely instrumental in overthrowing the Stewart administration. That inglorious victory appears to have been the end as well as the beginning of its achievements. At present the factions are rather beyond the parting of the ways and diverging rapidly.

"The break, of course, was bound to come sooner or later, and rather sooner than later. The farmer and wage earner have not enough interests in common to form the basis of a permanent alliance. In a good many respects their interests are diametrically opposed.

"Quite clearly it is on motion of the farmers that the illogical combination is being broken up. They have never apparently been charmed with it, and only went into the deal when their ability to win in their own strength was in doubt.

"Thus it is once more demonstrated that oil and water will not mix in political conventions any more than elsewhere. It is well for the public interests that the break has occurred.

"When a combination of the kind goes to wreck it is at least a rebuff to duplicity and a victory for common honesty and political candor."

In Ontario there are a number of seats where Labor and Farmers have formed a union. It has only been done by a mutual agreement to keep silent on the tariff by a system of "log-rolling," to quote Dr. Michael Clark. Describing the tendency towards reaction in the Farmers' movement, Dr. Clark said:

"My third illustration is to be found in the fact that a statement has been published within the last week that a gentleman's agreement exists between the Independent Labor party and the Farmers by which the former are to lie low on the tariff, according to the prime minister, the vital issue of the election, while the Farmers are to wink at least one eye as the Independent Labor party proceeds to campaign for the nationalization of banks, state insurance against unemployment, old age pensions and a number of other similar objects, which would do nothing for the farmer except add to his already almost intolerable burden of taxation. This is no matter of organization, but a detestable log-rolling policy, of which I am heartily glad to be free."

NOTE AND COMMENT

The trouble is that Russia doesn't seem able to put the "trot" into Trotzky.

If a thinking cap fits you, wear it; if not, get out and hustle with your hands.

In his public account the Minister of Finance has published a balance sheet, not a blanket.

Tagore, the Hindu poet, is described as a German "best seller." There's a reason for that, too.

Remember the time when The Globe used to run a daily headline: "Your Country Needs You?"

Virgil's "Arms and the Man I Sing!" might better read: Hands and the Man's the Thing!

It looks as though trade depression had passed its "peak" without our being out of our depth, after all.

The North Pole had better keep his head covered this winter; the airplane 'ul get him if he don't watch out.

Early in the summer the farmers in the West couldn't see the Wood for the trees; it is different now, the leaves are raling.

Only those who having eyes see not wil permit themselves to be further hoodwinked by a politician like Mackenzie King.

The bigger the output the lower the cost of production. Make Canadian goods cheap by increasing the output. Buy in Canada.

What's the matter with North Essex? The Manitoba Free Press says it is the only seat in Western Ontario the Liberals are sure of.

With the British Empire, the United States, Japan and China at the conference we may be said to be crawling toward disarmament on all-fours.

The Third Column

THE PARTY.

It may be I'm old fashioned an' my style is rather plain,
But I'd like to see the parties of my boyhood once again;
We didn't have 'em often, an' they lacked the pomp an' show
Of the gay an' brilliant gatherings
which this age has come to know;
But they had a thrill about 'em, an'
whatever folks may say
The world lost something wholesome
when the custom passed away.

Our notion of a party was a family affair,
With all the aunts and cousins and the uncles gathered there,
An' the young folks makin' merry an'
the lovers whispering,
An' the blushes an' excuses when we'd
ask Aunt Lil to sing;
An' the silence an' the wonder an' as we heard some friend recite
To our constant admiration, "Curfew
Shall Not Ring To-night."

Now the family seldom gathers as of old it used to do;
We have changed our old-time gladness
for the customs of the new,
An' I can't help feelin' sorry, for whatever folks may claim,
The old-time family party never brought regret or shame.
Though I don't know how to say it, still somehow it seems to me
What we really need are parties of the kind that used to be.

—Edgar A. Guest.

WHAT IS THE RIGHT THING?

It wasn't so very long ago that many people thought it was right to bear self-inflicted torture and pain in order to show their love for the Infinite.

Even in New England, after civilization had had many thousands of years' test, they burned people at the stake, thinking it was right. "Witches" they called those unfortunate folks they burned.

All down the years there have been standards set up by the few or the many as guides for conduct.

So that all of us has an individual question that must be repeatedly answered day by day—what is the right thing?

No one has ever been wise enough to answer this question for all, and few of 'us answer it correctly all the time for ourselves.

I believe, however, that personal feeling has a great deal to do with the answer to this difficult question. When we do wrong I believe that we feel the hurt most. When we do right we are the ones made happiest.

And I believe that the best principle in the world to go by is to do all in one's power to carry out the age-long rule of treating others as we would have them treat us. For inasmuch as almost every act of ours, whether it be of thought or action, is reflected back to someone else, it does seem as though the right thing to do must be the thing that makes us happiest in making others happy.

From the Egyptian "Book of the Dead" and the sacred scriptures of the Hindus, as well as in the ancient Chinese writings, the Persian, the Grecian and Roman, and in those of Buddha, Mohammed and Jesus, this same golden thread is spread.

I like the wording of Jesus best: "All things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them."

If the world will be better off for your act—then it is right!

—George Matthew Adams.

THE JUGGERNAUT.

The motor car was built for pleasure, for making life a grand sweet song, and in that line it is a treasure, when drivers' heads aren't working wrong. When tooled with care and circumspection, and sanely driven to and fro, the auto is my first selection among the precious boons I know. If driven thus a car might travel for 20 years, and shed no blood, might squash no voter in the gravel, or plaster him with dark brown mud. If driven thus 'twould be no terror, no monster of the public ways, and lilting bards would make no error in handing it all kinds of praise. But few, so few, oh gentle reader, these homely truths car. deeply feel; 'most every gent becomes a speeder when he is at the steering wheel. 'Most every guy will take some chances, and knock a rule or statute cold; and so his gaudy bus advances, with victims round the axles rolled. Oh, every hour provides a warning, and still the speeders do not mind; the death list's longer every morning, the coroner is miles behind. The surgeon and the learned physician are hourly patching some poor wight, the while the sad and pale mortician is planting jays by day and night. The motor car would be a blessing if tooled by drivers who are sane, but it is simply quite distressing to count the wounded and the slain.

The soop is cold and the potatoes are cold and everything cold, wat bet? sed ma.

Wy, I made a little bet with the other men, and thereby hangs 2 theatre tickits, sed pop.

I was beginning to think I was never going to see you agen, its simply terrible to come home so late for your suppir I never herd of sutch a thing, wat theater tickits are you tawking about? ed ma.

Well, you see, as I told you, I made a little bet with the other men, sed pop, they were all tawking about wat was going to happen to them for getting home so late, and I up and told them that not a thing was going to happin to me for the simple reason that I have the best and most sensible wife in the werld bar none. Well you awt to have herd them give me the merry ha ha wen I told them that. They dident bleeve a werd of it, and they as much as called me a liar. So I up and made a bet with them, and the bet was that wichever one of us got home late without his wife bawling him out was to take her to eny show she wunted to see and the other men would haff to pay for the tickits.

Well, I dident say enything, did I, my goodness, I never thawt of balling you out, as you call it, sed ma. It will only take a half a minnit to heet everything up. I know how you hate cold things, they say Perple Shadows is a wonderful show, do you think we'll have time to go tonite, of corse I dont wunt to hurry you with your suppir or enything.

Sure we'll have time to go tonite. I knew Id win the bet, good nite I bet those other fellows are catching Hail Columbiss by this time, ha ha ha, sed pop.

Digest of Canadian Editorial Opinion

Many editorial writers are now turning their attention to Mr. Crerar and the Agrarian movement, and from their articles the following extracts are taken:

The Winnipeg Tribune: "When a leader like Mr. Crerar states that part of his policy if returned to power would be 'the encouragement of basic industry,' he presumably attaches some meaning to the phrase in his own mind. His audience, however, cannot do so in the absence of any definition of what he understands by basic industry and specific declaration of what form the proposed encouragement by the Government is going to take.

"There are four methods by which the production of pig iron, and they apply generally as well, may be encouraged by a government. The first is the application of the principle of protection in the home market to pig iron and its products.

"We know that Mr. Crerar has no dea of extending this form of encouragement.

Mr. Crerar's policy is to see to it that these things never take place, so that in this respect he aims not to encourage but to discourage the industry of mining and smelting iron, which is essentially a basic industry, and, indeed, the foundation of all others.

"If at the beginning of a new day, which in a very special sense is the day of Canada, we are starting in to do things, we ought to learn and study how they have been done, and how they can be done, and how we propose to do them, and not fall under the tyranny of phrases which serve no better purpose than to befog the electors."

The Galt Reporter: "Tinkering with the tariff to bring about larger purchases of commodities from the United States will most certainly alarm Canadians who are anxious to become propelling forces in the establishment of normal conditions.

"The Crerar policy would be disastrous to Eastern Canada. Yet it is suggested by certain elements in these provinces that the necessities of the country call for its adoption. Partial acquiescence upon the part of Eastern voters in the adoption of the Agrarian movement is distinctly a menace to our workers."

The Brandon Sun: "If the political Farmers' party should obtain power to govern the Dominion according to their fallacies they will tear down, they say, the protective walls of the country. This will mean a large loss of revenue now derived from customs.

"The experiments of the political Farmers endanger every other development. It is a question of national gravity, for upon the tax on business capital depends the risk of our general prosperity. The outlook to-day is uncertain and will be until there is a return of confidence. That is in the hands of the people. Every citizen has a vote to say if the taxation is to be apportioned from a national or class viewpoint."

The Edmonton Journal: "Mr. H. W. Wood's address last evening on the need and methods of political reform was a definite espousal of the principle of group government. He showed that he believes absolutely in the big crowd theory.

"It is in respect to the theory of citizenship as the basis of political action that the strongest exception must be taken to Mr. Wood's argument. Naturally he is strong for organization, by which he would mobilize the citizenship. But his reason for this is that it is only in the mass that intelligent action can be taken. The unit of citizenship, he claims, is now too small and instead of the individual it must be made a group. No matter how educated the individuals may be their intelligence can never be effective until it is massed and grouped. Group units must be the basis."

The Sydney Post, in regard to the rumored pact between Mr. T. A. Crerar and Mr. King, says: "A Liberal-Progressive alliance now would break down the whole Agrarian propaganda, would stigmatize the new party as a brand of Gritism and would repel self-respecting Conservative farmers from the Agrarian movement. Mr. Crerar may not be a statesman, but he is enough of a politician to avoid such a colossal blunder as to come out in favor of a merger with the Mackenzie King party now, whatever he may feel like doing after the 6th of December."

Press Comment

BRITISH LABOR'S SOBER SPIRIT.

Friends of Labor will note with satisfaction the marked sobriety of spirit which distinguished the debates of the Trade Union Congress held at Cardiff last week. The moderate man asserted himself. The cold logic of facts prevailed over the hot rhetoric of idealism. This was particularly noticeable in the discussion which took place on the subject of strikes. There was actually before the congress a resolution which sought to curtail drastically the use of the strike in industrial disputes. The resolution was not carried, but nearly a million votes were cast for it, and the whole tone of the debate showed that Labor generally recognizes the crudeness, costliness and ineffectiveness of methods of violence for preserving the workers' rights. That recognition will do much to minimize the gravity of the present industrial crisis if it be allowed to form the base of Labor policy. Get rid of the haunting dread of strikes and the chief obstacle to the recovery of trade will be removed. The staple trade of Lancashire is at this moment threatened by a strike. The root of the trouble is paltry in the extreme. Here is an opportunity for the sober spirit in Labor to manifest itself in action. Conciliation is indicated. Let Labor insist upon it.—London Express.

FUR TRADE ART.

For the past two years some admirable true-to-life and therefore effective publicity work has been done by the Revillon Fur Trading Company in its advertising in leading American papers. The central feature of this publicity has been a series of line drawings, illustrating various phases of the fur trapping and trading industry, some of which have been based on methods and experiences in other countries but mostly in the Canadian north.

With these drawings there are always a few words of descriptive matter, the subject and the wording being both chosen with a view to their novelty and interest. A complete collection of these sketches from the first would give an illustrated record of northern life such as few of the adventure books are able to produce.

There is so much of overdone romanticism and exaggerated story telling telling about the Canadian north that it is refreshing to find this authoritative expression of the northland spirit, which is not the less excellent or valuable because devised for the purpose of selling something.—Edmonton Journal.

Can France Disarm?

"France must remain armed as long as her security has not been assured," announces Premier Briand, who is expected to head the French delegation to the arms parley. "No country more than ours desires to limit military burdens," he declares; but he goes on to make it no less emphatically clear that any reduction of the size of the French army must depend upon the elimination of the German menace—in other words, an allied understanding for the protection of France. Says The Paris Temps, expressing a point of view echoed in dozen of its contemporaries: "The security of France means the peace of Europe. It is a basic condition of economic and political solidarity in the world."

President Harding's call to the Washington Conference says that the question of naval armament will "naturally have first place," although "it has been thought best not to exclude questions pertaining to other armament." How naval disarmament can end war on land seems to puzzle the French, who recall that Belgium and France were not invaded by a navy in 1914, and who at this moment see the jealous nations of Europe facing each other within easy marching distance. "France has not the slightest intention of abandoning what she considers her just right to security," says Paul Scott Mowrer in October Current Opinion. Unless France can be assured of the moral support of the allies, "the French delegates will not discuss the reduction of land armament," declares The New York Tribune.

The uncompromising attitude of France in this instance finds considerable support among American editors. But while we find the general attitude of the American press toward France's position to be one of sympathy, in many instances this sympathy is mingled with misgiving. If Premier Briand adheres to his stand, avers The New York World, "then, so far at least as land armaments are concerned, the Washington Conference fails from the start." Equally pessimistic, but less sympathetic, is Mr. Hearst's New York American, which proclaims that "it may confidently be taken for granted that neither Japan, England nor France has the remotest intention of abandoning imperialism or militarism at the Washington Conference," and insists that "the United States should not make any sort of alliance with any other power or powers." There is "not a chance" of the United States entering into any such alliance, declares The Des Moines Register.

THOUSAND SEE FRENCH TRAIN

Samples of French Workmanship Viewed in London

VISITORS ARE WELCOMED

Idea of Sending Canadian Train to France Considered

Thousands of Londoners crowded the French exhibition train yesterday afternoon and evening. From 2.30 in the afternoon, when the eight coaches filled with the best samples of French workmanship, finished, as the French workman takes a pride in completing his tasks, were thrown open to the public until they were closed at 10.30 last night, the line of interested people waiting for admission could be seen hundreds deep on the L. & P. S. siding on Bathurst street, between Wellington and Waterloo streets.

All classes of citizens paid a visit to the train during its stay here. In the morning the City Council, members of the Chamber of Commerce and other public officials, as well as the merchants of the city, had free access to the exhibition. At 10.30 a. m. the city representatives officially met Count d'Arnaud, president of the French Trade Mission to Canada, and his colleagues, and Senator Beaubien, of Montreal.

Dr. Rankin, chairman of the luncheon meeting, stated in his address of welcome: "I am more than glad to join the representatives of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and other organizations of the city in extending a hearty welcome of Count D'Arnaud and his staff, and I wish to say to the count that we have only a mere eight and half million people in Canada, but we wish to extend to the 38,000,000 of France the heartiest greetings that we can.

"I also wish to say that we are anxious to co-operate with the French commission and will do all in our power to reciprocate as far as our activities will allow us."

Ald. Hanley, in behalf of the mayor and City Council, extended a civic welcome to the distinguished guests.

Professor Ellis, representing the Alliance Francais, delivered an address of welcome on behalf of his organization. The address was delivered in French and was heartily approved by the club members.

COUNT D'ARNAUD.

Count D'Arnaud, head of the French trade mission, thanked the City of London and various club for the reception tendered them and expressed the hope that they had not in any way interfered with the clubs' usual programs and enjoyment. He complimented Professor Ellis on his extraordinary ability in the French language. He deprecated his English, but was assured that his "accent was truly marvelous."

Count D'Arnaud also stated: "France has passed through the most terrific ordeal in its history, but faced the future with unconquerable optimism. Britain and the British dominions," he said, "held first place in the affections of the French Republic.

"You Canadians came to the assistance of France in our trial. France will never forget!"

He closed his address by issuing a cordial invitation to all present that they visit the exhibition train and promised to give next year's Canadian train, which will tour France, the same thorough inspection and the Canadian trade commission as hearty a welcome.

LONDON CAR.

Senator L. P. Beaubien, who is representing the Canadian Government in the tour of the French exhibition train, gave an address.

He asked manufacturers and merchants of London to send one complete car in the Canadian trade exhibit train which will tour France in 1922. He pointed out that Canada should trade direct with France and not with England, as heretofore. "France was not acquainted with Canada before the war," he stated.

In the afternoon throngs of women made their way through the train with the crowds that had managed to secure entrance. Naturally the splendid display of millinery and all the things of beauty in dress that delight the eye of women called forth many complimentary remarks. The finest of perfumes, the most beautiful and gorgeous of cloths and laces of all sorts, jewelry and other manufactures, in which the French are expert, were admired by the throngs. Leather goods, vases, electric table lamps of rare design and magnificent workmanship were also among the articles on display.

STUDENTS INTERESTED.

Hundreds of school children paid a visit to the train during the afternoon and evening. Students of the Technical and Art School were specially interested in the various articles as examples of the mechanical skill of the people of France. Men, who were busy during the afternoon and thus could not see the exhibit, filled the train for several hours last night.

Many of the articles on display were for sale, while representatives were on hand with other of the exhibits to take orders from any merchant wishing to purchase in quantity. London merchants took advantage of this to place their orders for goods that cannot be secured in Canada.

Canada will send a similar train to France next year.

VILLAGE OF STREET CARS RELIEVES HOME SHORTAGE

SWAMPSCOTT, Oct. 20.—A village of street cars, fitted with the usual conveniences of modern homes, is being established on the outskirts of this town to relieve the housing shortage. The cars, because obsolete, have been stripped of running gear and placed end to end at one side of the street.

The carpenter's skill has already transformed several into attractive living quarters, with connections for gas, water and electricity. Some of the prospective tenants will have the use of cellars, made by raising a number of car bodies and placing them on concrete foundations.

DRIVER ACQUITTED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—Henry Pierson, the driver of the motor truck which jumped the sidewalk here in June last and ran down little Marion Cowan, of McLeod street, daughter of J. A. Cowan, inflicting injuries which resulted in her death, was yesterday afternoon acquitted of the charge of manslaughter on which he was arraigned before Mr. Justice Orde in the Supreme Court of Ontario at the fall assizes.

SELLS WHEAT TO GERMANY.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Reuter's Sydney, New South Wales, correspondent states that Hon. William Frasen Dunn, minister of agriculture for New South Wales, asserts that the Victorian voluntary wheat pool has sold a large parcel of wheat to Germany at 52 pence per bushel.

WINS SUIT AGAINST BARRISTER.

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — A verdict for $4,500, with costs, was returned by the assize jury at 1.50 o'clock this afternoon in the suit of Miss Eileen Young against F. C. O'Leary, a Toronto barrister, for breach of promise.

NEW ZEALAND AND THE SALMON INDUSTRY

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Oct. 20.—The quinnat salmon have made a record run in some of the southern rivers of New Zealand this year, and the fishery authorities are looking forward to the establishment of a new industry as a result of a successful effort in acclimatization.

The quinnat is the largest, best known and most valuable of the salmon family, and the New Zealand Government determined over 20 years ago to try to establish this fish in the rivers of the dominion, which contained no fish of the kind. The first batch of eggs was brought here from North America in 1900 and other batches were imported and hatched in the six succeeding years. The swift rivers of the provinces of Canterbury and Otago, running from the snow-topped mountains to the sea, were considered by experts to be suited to the needs of the salmon, and it was soon found that the young fish were growing.

But the real test came when the salmon went to sea. Would the full-grown fish, following the habit of their forbears in American waters, return to the rivers from which they had emerged and ascend to the headwaters?

There were years when it seemed that the experiment had failed and that the salmon were not coming back. But six years after the hatching of the first lot of eggs a small run was reported in the Waitaki River, and since then, although there have been disappointing years, the number of salmon ascending the rivers from January to May has increased.

This year 40-pounders have been caught and even bigger fish have been seen on their journey up to the spawning beds. Observers state that the quinnat have been hunning thousands strong on some occasions, and the fishery inspectors report that the salmon are appearing in rivers north and south of the points where they were first released. There seems to be no doubt at all that the quinnat is firmly established.

NORWAY EXPEDITION SECURES INFORMATION

CHRISTIANIA, Oct. 20.—After explorations lasting two months, the Norwegian expedition to Nova Zembla, headed by Prof. Holtedhal, of the University of Christiania, has returned with a mass of new facts.

The main features of the geological structure of the range of mountains in Nova Zembla were ascertained and traces of land vegetation and fresh water fish, dating from the later Levonian age, were found, showing, the explorers affirm, that the great North Atlantic mainland of the Devonian age once extended as far as Nova Zembla.

Twelve ocean level marks subsequent to the glacial age were discovered and sea shells were found up to heights of 250 yards above sea level.

The expedition also collected a large amount of interesting specimals of animal life, including new species of birds and fresh water fish.

AUSTRALIAN SHIPS PAY WAY.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Reuter's correspondent at Melbourne, Australia, reports that Rt. Hon. Sir Joseph Cook, treasurer of the Australian Commonwealth, stated in the House of Representatives yesterday that the Commonwealth's shipping line had made a profit of 467,000 pounds sterling in 1920.

Miss Marie Lohr, the charming old country actress, her husband, Mr. Anthony Prinsep, and several members of Miss Lohr's interesting company of players were yesterday afternoon the guests of the London Drama League at a delightful reception at the Institute of Musical Art. Miss Lohr, who came with Mrs. C. R. Hunt, wore a graceful gown of black ninon, embroidered in silver and wide brimmed hat. In the absence of Mrs. E. H. Johnston, Mrs. Randle welcomed the guests, wearing a smart frock of black canton crepe in crystal, and becoming black hat. Receiving with Mrs. Brown were Mrs. Lyne-Evans, in a rose tricotine gown and small black hat; Mrs. G. A. Routledge wearing a smart blue georgette frock heavily beaded and black hat; Mrs. Frank Ware in rose jersey and Mrs. C. R. Hunt wearing a blue tricotine gown.

Miss Lohr spoke in a charmingly informal fashion from the broad stairway during the afternoon, making a pretty reference to the Drama League's gift of golden mums, some of which she had put on for the party and expressing the hope that the coming English dramatic companies to the Dominion would be greatly encouraged. "I am sure they will come, even at great expense if they are well patronized," she said, adding a plea for sympathetic support in the further revival of the drama. In the dining-room, where tea was poured at a table centered with mauve mums and ruddy autumn foliage, the presiding ladies were Mrs. Walter Hungerford, in a smart black costume; Mrs. Arthur Brickenden in a henna gown with black hat, and Mrs. A. D. Jordan, who wore a canton crepe gown in black and white. A pretty bevy of tearoom assistants were the Misses Gwen Scandrett, Gweno Williams, Doris Belton, Margaret Scatcherd, M. Ryerson, Babbie Moore, Margaret Jordan, Margaret Glass.

Miss Lohr, who was introduced to the league members by Lt.-Col Frank Ware, was accompanied by Mr. Anthony Prinsep, and Miss Helen Hay, Mr. Herbert Ross and Mr. Herbert Marshall, principals of her company, all of whom were warmly welcomed by the league members, eager for a chat with the interesting folk.

Weddings

Wickerson-Ellis.

Watson-Reith.

Beechwood manse was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Wednesday, October 12, at 4 o'clock, when Miss Nellie Reith, daughter of Mrs. Nellie Reith, of Lucan, was united in marriage to Mr. Clifton Watson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Rintoul. After their honeymoon the young couple will reside in Strathroy.

A SIGN OF RAIN.

There was a terrible hubbub in the henhouse. The rooster squalled so loudly that he waked up every hen in the place. And when they heard him crying that a skunk had knocked him off the roost, they were as frightened as he was, and set up a wild cackle. All but Henrietta Hen! She knew there was no skunk there.

"Don't be a goose—er—don't be a gander!" she hissed to the rooster. "I'm the one that bumped into you."

The rooster quickly came to his senses.

"Don't be alarmed, ladies!" he called to the flock. "There's no danger. There has been a slight mistake." He pretended that he hadn't been scared. But he had been. And now he was somewhat uneasy about Henrietta Hen. He feared he was in for a scolding from her.

"If you had answered me when I spoke to you I wouldn't have left my perch in the dark," she told the rooster severely. "When I moved to your perch to see what was the matter I blundered into you. And then you thought I was a skunk. You owe me an apology, sir!"

The rooster was glad it was no lighter in the henhouse, for he felt himself flushing hotly.

"You must pardon me," he said. "I had no idea it was you, for you waked

"You must pardon me," he said.

me out of a sound sleep."

"Sound sleep, indeed!" Henrietta Hen exclaimed with a sniff. "Why you had been crowing only a few moments before. In fact, it was your crowing that roused me."

"No doubt!" said the rooster. "But you see, I fell asleep again immediately."

"Then you must be ill," Henrietta retorted, "for I've never known you to go to sleep again, once you've begun your morning's crowing."

"But it's not morning now," the rooster informed her. "It's not even late at night—certainly not an hour since sunset."

Henrietta Hen was astonished.

"I noticed that the night seemed short," she muttered.

The rooster thought it a great joke.

"Ha! Ha!" he laughed. And he said to the rest of the flock, with a chuckle, "Henrietta Hen thought it was morning! No doubt she'd have gone out into the yard if the door hadn't been shut." And the other hens all tittered. They always did, if the rooster expected them to.

Well, if there was one thing that Henrietta Hen couldn't endure, it was to be laughed at.

"Don't be silly!" she cried. "Why shouldn't I think it was morning?"

"Don't you know why I crowed?" the Rooster asked her. And without waiting for any reply, he said, "I crowed to let Farmer Green know it was going to rain to-morrow."

Of course, Henrietta Hen had to have the last word. The Rooster might have known she would.

"Then," she observed, "I suppose you squawked to let him know there was a skunk in the henhouse."

Mrs. WILLIMAN TESTIFIES

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Be the Best Medicine for Girls and Women

Hamilton, Ohio.—"I had such awful pains in my back I could hardly stand on my feet and I was never without a headache. If I walked up town I thought I would drop and many a time I felt so bad I had to go to bed and I was not able to do much of my housework. I would have hemorrhages every two weeks and dragging-down pains. I had been feeling badly for three years and had two of the best doctors in the city, but I kept getting worse and only weighed 125 pounds. I saw your advertisement and I took eight boxes of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Tablets, four bottles Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and your Liver Pills and noticed an improvement right away. Now I weigh 188 pounds and feel fine. Everybody tells me how well I look and asks me what I took and I always say, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the best medicine in the world for any sickness to which girls and women are subject.' I will always have a good word for your medicine."—Mrs. JOSEPH WILLIMAN, 722 South 9th Street, Hamilton, Ohio.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

Everybody knows "Reddy Fox," for he is always the scoundrel in the animal story books. Not only does he steal chickens in story books, but also in real life, he is the biggest thief that Farmer Brown ever has to come around his barn yard. Now let us see just how good a picture you can draw of this cunning little fellow.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"I asked her to marry me," he said gruffly.

There was a little silence; then he raised his eyes. "She refused," he added.

"Refused!" There was anger and incredulity in Mr. Ackroyd's voice; he rose to his feet and began brushing his red hair the wrong way—a trick he had whenever anything annoyed or perturbed him. "Refused!" he said again. "But she mustn't refuse! I wish her to marry you. I—I've always looked upon it as good as settled."

Rodney did not answer.

Mr. Ackroyd slapped him on the back. "Come, come, my boy; faint heart ne'er won fair lady, you know," he said heartily. "Don't give in because she's refused you once. Women always like to do that to start with—it puts their value up, you know. Why, I proposed to Norah's mother half a dozen times before she said 'Yes'— God bless her," he added softly.

"Norah has said 'No,' and she means it," Rodney declared. He rose to his feet; there was a line of pain between his eyes. "Don't let's discuss it any more, he said stiltedly. "It's all ended and done with, as far as I am concerned. I shall clear off for a bit, if you don't mind."

"Don't mind! But I do mind! Norah will have to be made to see reason. I consider that you and she are admirably suited. It's—it's the greatest wish of my life. If she doesn't marry you, who the deuce does she think she's going to marry, pray?"

Rodney laughed ruefully.

"There are plenty of better fellows knocking about," he said.

"And plenty of worse, too," the elder man answered snappily. "The girl doesn't know when she's well off. I shall speak to her."

Rodney swung round. "I hope you won't, Uncle. It will only make matters worse."

Mr. Ackroyd growled something unintelligible. He was really very upset and perplexed as well. He had always looked upon marriage between Norah and Rodney as a certainty. He found it most disquieting to have all his plans disarranged so suddenly.

During dinner that evening he watched his daughter closely. She was a little flushed, he thought, and her eyes were rather bright, but she made no attempt to avoid speaking to Rodney.

Mr. Ackroyd felt slightly comforted. "It'll all come right," he told himself. "Girls are all the same; a bit shy at first, but it will all come right."

When she left them early to go to bed he made no objection. He said he thought it was the best place for her. He said that Bethune must come round in the morning if the arm was not better.

Norah laughed. "I believe Dr. Bethune thinks it's much ado about nothing," she said lightly. She dropped a kiss on his rough, red hair. "Good night, Daddy; good-night, Rodney." But for the first time for years she made no attempt to kiss her cousin. She passed him rather hurriedly and went out of the room.

She was glad the evening was over; it had been an effort to keep up at all; her arm was a great deal worse than she had admitted. When she reached her own room she opened the window wide and sat down beside it in the darkness.

The sunny day had ended in a beautiful starry night, with not a breath of air to stir the sleeping world.

Away in the distance Lumsden Church clock struck 9. The slow, deep gong boomed out through the silence and died away again; presently, downstairs in the hall, Friday barked sharply.

Norah looked out into the dark garden below.

Friday never barked like that unless there was someone about; she wondered who it could be at that time of night. Her father and Rodney had both gone to the library, she knew, for the game of cribbage which they played every night before going to bed.

Friday barked again—sharply.

There was a step outside now in the darkness; a man's step on the gravel path below the window.

Norah caught her breath. "Who is it?" she asked in a hisper. "Who's there?" But she knew before she heard George Laxton's voice come up to her through the warm night.

"It's only me. How are you? I've been worrying about you all the evening."

"You!" She hoped he could not hear the little agitation in her voice. She leaned over, trying to see him, but all she could make out in the darkness was a tall black shadow.

"Where are you? I can't see you," she said.

"I can only just see your outline," he told her. There was a little pause; then—"Come down," he said.

"Down in the garden! Oh, I couldn't; I'm supposed to have gone to bed."

"What does it matter? Come down for a moment. I want to speak to you."

"You can speak to me here."

"I can't say what I want to; you're too far away."

"You must tell me some other time, then."

"Don't be unkind."

Norah laughed softly. "It isn't good for you to have your own way whenever you want it," she told him. "And I want to go to bed."

"How is your arm?"

"It's—rather bad," she admitted.

"I know: I've been through it. What did they say—your father and cousin?"

"Nothing very much — I told Rodney how I did it."

"Told him that you had been with me?"

"Yes."

There was a little silence, then the tall black shadow moved a little nearer to the window.

"Come down for a minute," he urged again in a whisper.

Norah hesitated. There seemed to be a thousand voices besides Laxton's calling her. The voice of the still night, the voice of youth and romance, and—perhaps strongest of all—the small and as yet uncertain voice of her own desire.

ST. JAMES' W. A.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. James' Church, Clandeboye, met this week to organize for the coming winter's work. The ladies were so successful last season in the making of quilts and other necessary articles that they are quite enthusiastic in planning this season's work. Mrs. Moore Cunningham is the president of the auxiliary at Clandeboye. After the business meeting those present enjoyed sandwiches and cake provided by four of the members.

CLANDEBOYE L. A.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church, Clandeboye, recently held a successful chicken supper and concert. The supper was served in the church schoolroom, which was beautifully decorated with ferns, potted plants and autumn flowers. W. E. Williams made an excellent chairman, bringing down the house with anecdotes between the numbers. The program consisted of instrument solos by R. Hodgins, duets by Mrs. W. Gibson and Mrs. Zurbrigg, and vocal solos by Mr. Wilkins and Rev. Mr. Gifford. R. Hodgins was the accompanist. The dramatic recitations given by Gordon Powell and little Miss Charlotte Lackey were well received and lavisly encored.

There was such an abundance of provisions that an auction to dispose of chickens and cakes was held at the end of the concert. F. Kent acted as auctioneer. The newly elected president, Mrs. Love, and her aids, are to be congratulated on the successful evening.

"A thorough examination by F. Steele, optometrist, will settle any question of eye trouble. Call at his office, 210 Dundas street." f

To Remove Sallowness, Blotches or Wrinkles

Do you realize that just beneath that coarse, muddy or discolored complexion there's an exquisitely beautiful skin of youthful tint and delicacy? If you could only bring this complexion to the surface, discarding the old one! You can — in the easiest, simplest, most natural manner imaginable. Just get an ounce of ordinary mercolized wax at any drug store, apply nightly like cold cream, removing it mornings with warm water. The wax assists Nature by gradually taking off the lingering particles of dead and half-dead surface skin, causing no discomfort whatever. Ordinarily it takes from a week to 10 days to complete the transformation. Cutaneous defects like pimples, blotches, liver spots, moth patches, freckles, of course, disappear with the old skin. Nothing else will accomplish such wonderful results in so short a time.

Fine lines and even the deeper wrinkles often appear at an early age. In such cases nothing is better than a face bath made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint of witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.—Advt.

Business and professional women, whose work keeps them confined in excessively-heated offices, would be apt to find a silk and cloth combination exceedingly more comfortable to wear than the usual heavyweight serge or tricotine dress. But ready-to-wear specialty shops do not cater to specialized needs and those who depend on them for clothes learn soon to be grateful to find something suitable, rather than to seek the unusual. It is in this respect that the woman who can sew or who is fortunate in connecting with a good modiste, has an advantage. Often she resents the time and trouble thus required. But when the annoyance of fittings is ended and she is complimented for the individuality of her dress she feels repaid.

It is particularly for the office woman I have selected the above model. I found it at Cara's, a love of a shop in a busy section of Paris. The under portion may be made of satin or canton lace. Tricotine is used for the overskirt and bands on the bodice. The entire dress is in navy, with embroidery in Egyptian colors introduced underneath the bands just above the waist line.

In the Women's Clubs

The members of the Girls' Canadian Club met on Wednesday evening in the Wellington street "Y." There was only a small attendance, with the president, Miss Baldwin, in the chair. In the absence of Mrs. Crawford, who was to have led the discussion on "Information relative to the coming Dominion election," the members carried it on themselves. It was decided before the meeting broke up to have a hike on Saturday afternoon, ending at Mrs. Hadley Williams' country home.

Knox Church Women's Missionary Society held its thank-offering meeting on Tuesday, October 18, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Murdock McKenzie, of Honan, China, was present and gave an interesting lecture dealing with the problems of that country and their solution. The Rev. Dr. McKenzie has spent 32 years in the Eastern land and his first-hand knowledge of conditions was highly instructive to the members of the church.

Mr. Percy and the choir of the church generously loaned their services, which tended to make the evening a success. Miss Gladys McEvoy sang a solo, which was highly appreciated. Rev. T. A. Symington, pastor of the church, occupied the chair.

On Tuesday evening, October 18, the members of the St. Lawrence Mothers' Club met at the home of Mr. Ruckle, concession 3. Miss Evans, the teacher, addressed the meeting, her topic being "The Appearance of Habit, Manners and Carriage." There was a large attendance and an interesting evening was spent.

LADIES DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Use Grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur Recipe and Nobody Will Know.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.—Advt.

MRS. GORDON WRIGHT MAY STAND FOR GOVT.

President Dominion W.C.T.U. and Former Liberal Considers Federal Candidature

Mrs. Gordon Wright, of this city, has been suggested as a candidate in the coming federal election, according to a recent announcement.

Consulted by The Free Press yesterday, Mrs. Wright admitted the possibility of her candidature.

"Would you come out for the Government party?" Mrs. Wright was asked.

"I would certainly not stand for the Mackenzie party, though I come of an old Liberal family," was the reply.

Mrs. Wright stated that strong pressure had been brought to bear to persuade her to stand for the Government cause, an undertaking she was inclined to consider favorably.

"I am not satisfied that, as the Dominion president of the W. C. T. U., I should ally myself with any party, as we are a strictly nonpartisan body," Mrs. Wright said, "but the present issue is of vital importance—and I must do what seems best."

Mrs. Wright stated that if she accepted nomination it would be from some outside constituency.

CURIOSITY.

"I can't account for Mrs. Gadder's condition," said Dr. Pillars, with a puzzled air. "She is extremely nervous, yet there is no reason for it that I can discover."

"Just a word," said Mr. Gadder, as he drew the doctor aside. "If you can find out the income of that new family next door and tell it to Mrs. Gadder she'll soon get well. They moved in six weeks ago and she's still baffled."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

How to Rid the Arms of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required: Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.—Advt.

EMPTY FOREIGN POLICY.

If, let us suppose, Australia and Canada wished, the one to make war on one particular foreign power, and the other to make an alliance with it, each would be within constitutional rights. Only as such discrepancies of attitude would be incompatible with the empire's continuance, it is imperative to avoid them; and the way of doing so, which is alone consonant with the traditions of the British Commonwealth is not to suppress the respective rights of the parties, but to harmonize their exercise. Thus we reach the conclusion that there must be an empire foreign policy; that it can only be reached through conferences between the empire Governments, that at the conference each must have an equal voice, but that they must make up their minds by give-and-take always to reach agreement—London Daily Chronicle.

The Iron Food for Vitality

They need it— "The Iron Food for Vitality"

Hot Fruited Toast

Toast this raisin bread and taste a new delight at luncheon

DAINTY thin slices of crispy, brown, fruit-flavored toast—with or without butter—and a cup of tea.

A whole luncheon can be made of it.

There's a daintiness about it that simply cannot be described—you have to try it.

Also an important value in it—in the raisins' food-iron—that every woman should know.

Raisins are rich in iron. And it is iron, supplied daily to the blood, that promotes vigorous vitality in women—an irresistible magnetic force which is woman's greatest charm.

You need but a small bit of iron daily, yet that need is vital.

Bright eyes, healthful energy and naturally rose-tinted cheeks are the visible signs of it.

Raisin Pie

Men are quickly refreshed at night by a dessert like this.

2 cups Sun-Maid Seeded Raisins
2 cups water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn starch
1 teaspoon sugar

Wash the raisins, put in saucepan with 1 cup cold water and bring slowly to a boil. Add sugar, salt and corn starch which has been mixed with 1 cup cold water. Boil 2 minutes; add lemon juice. Pour in pie tin when has been lined with crust, with lattice cover; brush top with cold milk and bake in moderate oven until brown.

All measurements for this recipe are level.

SUN-MAID RAISINS

Use Sun-Maid Raisins, made from California's finest table grapes—American Raisins, processed and packed immaculately in a great modern California plant.

Seeded (seeds removed); Seedless (grown without seeds); Clusters (on the stem). Also a fine, ever-ready dessert.

Raisins are cheaper by 30 per cent than formerly—see that you get plenty in your foods.
