WORRY IS JUST PLAIN BLACK SIN

Old Doctrine of Peace and Joy Preached by Dr. Trumble

SPEAKS IN ST. ANDREW'S

Address Is Feature of Evening Session of W.C.T.U.

It was no new doctrine that Dr. Charles G. Trumble, editor of The Sunday School Times, expounded to the audience which filled almost every pew in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last night. It was a simple sermon on "The Victorious Life," in which the speaker declaimed against so-called Christians who permit worry to occupy a greater place than peace or joy in their hearts and who have no faith in the justness of God.

"Worry is plain black sin under all circumstances," said the doctor. "The sin of worry is the commonest sin and is also one of the worst, for it is the sin of making God a liar. We are instructed by the word of God to be anxious about nothing, but to have faith in the supreme purpose of the Almighty. We are also told to have the peace which passeth all understanding, and peace and worry cannot go hand in hand.

"There are many people that are a travesty on joy, for they have no semblance of contentment on their faces," added the editor. "They go about continually with long faces and boast that they have 'resigned' themselves to the will of God. When they are sighing they should really be singing like Paul did when he was most sorely oppressed.

"Victory for a Christian is not obtained through the will power that can control the facial muscles and that does not reveal the anxiety boiling up within. We can't smile our worries away as a poet might bid us do, but we must have the divine power take possession of us before we shall have that peace which scatters our doubts and fears like the mists before the noonday sun."

In his address the doctor dealt with the fruit by which a Christian ought to be known. It included not only gentleness and long suffering, but meekness and humility as well, and these qualities he illustrated by incidents from his travels at home and abroad and in the different "victorious life" meetings which he had held. Mrs. May Thornley, of the W. C. T. U., introduced the speaker to the convention delegates and friends who thronged the church.

Case of Cruelty Is Discovered by Montreal Society.

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—The case of a woman found whipping her 14 months' old baby with a leather strap attached to a steel buckle was reported to the Society for the Protection of Women and Children at its meeting last evening.

The woman was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, while her child, who is still covered with bruises caused by the buckle, was also conveyed to the same institution. They have not been separated, but the mother has been placed under constant observation.

CLASS OF TEACHERS IN DOMESTIC SCIENCE

Pedagogues Will Meet at Normal School To-morrow at 11 o'Clock to Begin.

To-morrow morning at 11 o'clock there will be a meeting of rural teachers at the Normal School for the purpose of organizing classes in domestic science and manual training, for school teachers of Western Ontario. Any teacher actually employed in rural inspectorate will be eligible for membership in these classes.

It is the intention of the department of education to conduct Saturday classes at the Normal School, which will be parallel to the training courses given in Toronto, and will be given the same credit for the elementary certificate. The education department will make an allowance of $1.25 per day toward paying the expenses of attendance.

P. J. Thompson, school inspector for East Middlesex, has forwarded announcements to all teachers in his jurisdiction, but teachers in other inspectorates who have not learned of the proposition, and who desire to attend, are invited to be present at the organization meeting.

CLANDEBOYE, Oct. 20.—The death occurred of Mrs. John Dixon, of McGillivray, on October 18. Mrs. Dixon had been suffering for several weeks from a broken arm, when pneumonia set in. She is survived by her husband and four sons.

HODGKIN'S DISEASE.

What is Hodgkin's disease? Is there any cure?

Answer: Hodgkin's disease is called also pseudoleukemia or lymphadenoma. It is a kind of anemia (blood poverty) in which the lymphatic glands, especially in the neck, the armpits and the groins, are greatly enlarged, as are also the liver and the spleen. The disease usually attacks the young; it is rare after 40. Men are the more commonly attacked. No definite cause is known. The disease has been known to develop from some point or prolonged irritation, as about a decayed and jagged tooth, or it has followed a chronic catarrh or skin disease.

Besides the swelling of the glands there is cough and difficult breathing; the veins in the upper part of the body are prominent—all by reason of the pressure of enlarged glands in the chest upon the bronchial tubes and the great blood vessel in that vital region. There is also rapid loss of strength, headache, heart palpitation, dizziness, loss of appetite. The deformity in the neck becomes extreme.

It must be stated that the outlook is very unfavorable; palliation, but no real cure, is to be hoped for, though recoveries have been reported. In some cases cure has been claimed after removal of the spleen. Obviously such a sufferer should be put in the hands of a very good doctor.

Questions and Answers.

I underwent a slight operation three months ago, and since I came out of hospital I have been sneezing ever since. And my nose has been discharging all this time. I have never had anything like this before and I am not subject to colds or ill-health.

Answer. Sneezing is due to direct, rarely to reflex, irritation of the sensory nerves of the nose. It is an early symptom of coryza, measles, whooping cough, asthma and hay fever. Doses of iodide of potash will induce it; also inhaling such vapors or irritants as pepper, snuff, powdered ipecac, solutions of zinc chloride and of other drugs. It has been attributed to gout, hysteria and other ailments. Manipulation of the external ear will sometimes provoke a sneeze. Possibly you can find in these observations the cause of your affliction.

How far from the ear can a normal hearing person hear the ticking of a watch?

Answer: The average sized watch should be heard by the normal ear of a young person at 40 to 50 inches. And yet 30 inches does not necessarily imply impaired hearing. As age advances the watch-hearing distance gradually diminishes; after 60 it may be completely lost in those who may, nevertheless, hear sufficiently for the ordinary purposes of life.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

—EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

CASSEROLE ECONOMIES

The housekeeper who has once used a casserole is never able to get along without one in the future. For she finds it so handy in the cooking of leftovers and such an economy in making the cheaper cuts of meat taste tender and delicious. A piece of rump beef cooked slowly in a casserole rivals the rib roast and sirloin cut, the casserole keeps the juices in and, because it is a covered utensil, steams the meat while it bakes it.

But it is the question of leftovers that I wish to take up to-day. I believe there are many women who throw away odds and ends of cooked food because they have not yet "discovered" the casserole and consequently do not know how delicious such leftovers can be made to taste when cooked in some such way as the following:

When you have egg plant left over. Butter your casserole and place in the bottom of it a layer of uncooked onion slices, add a layer of either cooked or uncooked tomato, then add a layer of the egg plant. Repeat these three layers until the dish is full. Finish with buttered crumbs and sprinkle with finely chopped or grated cheese. The vegetables should be seasoned to suit taste before being placed in the dish. Add only a very little water, as the egg plant is an extremely watery vegetable. Bake slowly with the cover on until the onion slices are tender, then remove and bake in a hotter oven till the crumbs are brown. This is a very good dish.

When you have carrots left over: Cut them in small dice. Open a can of peas and mix the two vegetables. Season slightly, then turn into your casserole with the following white sauce; melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a saucepan over the fire, rub in 2 tablespoons of flour till smooth, add 1 cup of milk and season with ¼ cup salt and ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Let boil up a moment, then add to casserole. Put the cover on the dish, let bake in a hot oven 40 minutes, then sprinkle butter crumbs over the top and slip back into oven till brown.

When you have cauliflower left over: Simply bake it for 20 minutes in the white sauce just given above, sprinkle with bread crumbs, brown, and serve.

When you have either shelled beans or Lima beans left over: For every cup of the cooked beans add 1 cup of canned corn, season, add a little water, and let simmer for 1 hour in the covered casserole. This makes a delicious succotash. A little chopped, cooked bacon adds much to the flavor.

When you have cabbage left over: Mix the cooked cabbage with the white sauce given above, season to taste, and turn it into a buttered casserole. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a quick oven, uncovered, until the sauce bubbles through the crumbs and the crumbs are brown.

When you have celery left over: This is good baked by itself in the white sauce like the cabbage and cauliflower dishes, or it is good cooked as follows: Cut the celery into small pieces. Butter a casserole and put a layer of the celery in it, add a layer of either fresh or canned tomato; sprinkle a tablespoon of raw chopped onion over the tomato, then add salt and pepper to season. Repeat these layers alternately till the dish is full. Cover with bread crumbs, dot with butter and bake 40 minutes in a hot oven.

A NEW AND ATTRACTIVE GOWN.

Pattern 3498 is here depicted. It is cut in seven sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. A 38-inch size will require 3⅞ yards of 40-inch material for the dress and 2¼ yards of 27-inch material for the guimpe.

Serge, duvetyn, tricolette, chiffon crepe, crepe de chine, satin and linen are attractive for this design. Braid or bands of embroidery would be pleasing for decoration. One could have a pretty dress in this style of serge and satin. The width of the skirt at the foot is about two yards.

WHY WE GO A-PICNICKING.

On a certain lovely autumn day I played hookey from my work and went a-picnicking.

We ate lunch under the trees on the shores of a lovely little pond, and refreshed our minds with the charming v i s t a while we refreshed our bodies with food.

Comments on the view were as many as comments on the good things to eat, and finally the Authorman, who does not love picnics any more than most men, rose to a point of order.

"Yes, it's all very pretty," he admitted in response to a request to enthuse a little, "but if you come right down to it, is it any prettier than the view from the cottage we left to come here, or so very different?"

"I don't know as it is," admitted his interlocutor after a little judicious consideration.

"Then why come?" said the Authorman. "Why not stay at home if home is just as pretty. Tell me one good reason why you want to come here!"

"Just because this isn't home," said his interlocutor.

"Exactly," said the Authorman, with the air of having triumphed by bringing out the folly of our love for picnicking.

But did he triumph?

I don't think so.

I think the reason was an absolutely natural and absolutely legitimate one.

One of the charms of There will always be that it is not Here.

One might live in the very loveliest spot in all the world and still find more pleasure sometimes in going to less lovely spots.

The wish to see Not Here is as old as the first savage who broke a path through the jungle into the unknown to find "something lost behind the ranges," and as new as to-day's four-year-old who leaves his beautiful home garden to search out the unknown in the dusty streets of the tenement district around the corner.

Perhaps it is because I have such a large share of the love of the Not Here that I defend it so passionately. I never see a train leaving the station for some far distant point without wishing I might step on and go too.

I even love to read the names of distant roads on the freight cars when I pass through a freight yard, because they give me a sense of distance and adventure. And as for ships, I can hardly bear to watch the sailing of a vessel bound for distant ports, because I feel as if it tore the heart out of my side and carried it away.

I suppose there are some to whom this is a confession of folly. But I feel sure there are others who will understand. Courage, comrades, you who are forever curious about the There, and forever bound by bonds of love or duty or custom to the Here—perhaps in our next incarnation we shall fulfill that longing.

MANOR PARK KIDDIES MAKE GIFT TO HOME

Matron, officers and kiddies at the South London children's shelter are rejoicing this week in a shower of gifts received recently from the little folks of the Church of the Epiphany, Manor Park.

The shower was in reality a deluge—of all manner of household provisions—and the small residents of the shelter were invited to attend a service at the church to receive these offerings.

Twenty-five little kiddies, supervised by Mrs. Frank Hardie, Mrs. J. I. A. Hunt and Mrs. John Weld, attended this service to find the little altar piled high with the fairest gifts of field and garden and household, all most generously presented by the Epiphany congregation. Indeed, so eager were the Manor Park little folks to do their bit, that one wee golden-haired lassie offered her heart's best treasure, a very precious doll, pressed willingly, though a little sadly, into the hands of a small sister from the home, who received this heaven-inspired gift with silent joy.

As their share in the service, the children from the shelter sang several hymns in a delightful fashion.

Ad of a Shiver!

—its about the earliest symptom of a cold or a chill. Be wise and take Peps without delay—nip the trouble in the bud. Otherwise you'll have the usual hoarse, raw throat, the dry tickling cough, the sneezing fits and watery eyes.

To rout cold-germs attack, deliver a quick counter-attack. Dissolve one or two Peps in the mouth. These give off powerful infection-killing fumes which are breathed directly into the throat and bronchial tubes, where the trouble lies. This air-like Peps medicine soothes and heals the delicate membrane. It speedily clears the breathing passages, overcomes soreness and irritation and prevents all danger of the trouble finding its way down into the chest and lungs.

Where the cold has already got a hold, Peps will be found equally effective. Also for coughs, catarrh, grippe, bronchitis and all chest weakness. Free from opium and all nerve-weakening drugs—safe for children. 50c, all chemists and dealers.

OAK HALL

$12,000 SECURED BY FIVE BANDITS FROM BANK AT WYOMING

Bank Staff Locked In Vault After Robbers Rifle Cages of Bills and Silver; Gunfire Exchanged As Get-Away Is Accomplished.

TOWN THINKS IT JOKE WHEN ALARM IS SPREAD

Chase Is Soon Started, But Five Foreigners In High-Powered Car Outdistance Their Pursuers As They Head East.

WYOMING, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter). — Four bandits, armed and masked, entered the branch of the Bank of Toronto here this afternoon and escaped with $12,000 in bills and silver. They escaped in a large high-powered automobile, with yellow wheels, in which a fifth member of the gang had remained while the bank was being rifled.

The four men entered the bank just at 3 o'clock and locked it behind them. The first of the quartet made his way to the teller's cage and asked for change for a $5 bill.

While he was being given the change, a second man made his way into the manager's office with a gun in his hand, and, as he stepped through the doorway, he pulled a send bandana handkerchief up across the lower part of his face.

TAKE CARE OF MANAGER.

He ordered the manager, H. E. Lambert, and a customer, A. McKay, to get down on the floor. Mr. McKay attempted to remonstrate and was pushed roughly from his chair to the floor.

Ronald Brown, junior in the bank, was the only member of the staff who had an intimation of the robbery. He saw the four men approaching and became suspicious. As they entered the bank he made his way out through the rear door with a revolver, and attempted to arouse the citizens to the fact that the bank was being robbed, but, although the bandits were in the building some 10 minutes, no attempt was made to stop them, as citizens of the town who were on the street believed that he was joking. After Mr. Lambert and Mr. McKay had been forced to lie down on the floor the men passed through into the main part of the bank.

CAGE RIFLED.

The teller, E. S. Taylor, was forced to open his cage and it was thoroughly rifled, and he and Miss Vera McIntosh, ledger-keeper, were made to lie down on the floor. The men then turned their attention to the safe, and, finding it locked, made the manager open it for them. It was here that they obtained the major part of their haul.

When the robbers had satisfied themselves quite leisurely that they had made a thorough job they made the manager and staff go into the vault and then locked them in by means of the inside door. They did not turn the combination of the outside door. The men made practically no noise.

Miss Pearl Bailey, a customer in the bank, stated she had just made a deposit for the post office when the bandits came in. She was told to it down and keep quiet. All she heard the men say while they were in the bank was "Hurry," several times, and "Open that door or I'll plug you," spoken to the manager.

The four bandits left the bank by the back door and made their way to a side street about 100 yards north of the building, where the fifth member of the gang had the car running. It had started to move when the last of the four climbed in

FIRES AFTER THEM.

Ronald Brown, who had attempted to arouse the town as to what was taking place, took several shots at the men as they drove off. Two of his shots went through the side curtains of the car, but whether any of the men were hit is not known. He shot at one of the men just before he entered the car, and he fell, but whether he was hit or only stumbled is also an unanswered question.

The junior, Mr. Brown, was the only one who really had a good look at the four men who entered the bank. He declared that they were all short and had the appearance of foreigners. He told The Free Press that he was almost certain he would be able to identify them. Mr. Lambert did not see the face of the man who ordered he and Mr. McKay to get down on the floor. He believed, however, that if the man were dressed the same that he would be able to identify him. The men went toward Watford when they left Wyoming and it was reported that they turned down on the Watford side road.

A number of automobiles loaded with armed men left in pursuit of the bandits, but were unable to catch sight of them.

VISITED WATFORD.

According to reports from Watford five men in a car of the same description as that used by the bank robbers was in Watford about noon. The five men had dinner at a hotel in Watford. There is a belief that the car which the men were using may have been the car which was stolen from the garage of Wright, at Thorndale, on Wednesday night. Both cars were new ones and both were the same models. It was impossible to get the number of the car used by the men here, as it had been liberally splattered with mud. Immediately the bank employees had liberated themselves from the vault the police of all the surrounding towns and cities were notified and a strict watch is being kept for both the men and the car.

SCORES DE VALERA FOR WIRE TO POPE

"Impertinent and Unmannerly," Says London Times.

WILL HURT IRISH CAUSE

And Give Aid To Those Trying To Wreck Conference.

DUBLIN, Oct. 21.—Eamonn De Valera, Irish Republican leader, in a message to Pope Benedict, calls attention to the telegrams exchanged between King George and the Pope and says:

"The people of Ireland are confident that the ambiguities in the reply sent in the name of King George will not mislead you into believing that the troubles are over in Ireland, or that the people of Ireland owe allegiance to the British King.

"The independence of Ireland has been formally proclaimed by the regularly elected representatives of the people of Ireland and ratified by subsequent plebiscites. The troubles between Ireland and Great Britain have had their source in the fact that the rulers of Great Britain have sought to impose their will upon Ireland and by brute force rob the Irish people of their liberty."

The message expresses the desire that the Irish people be at peace and friendship with the people of Great Britain, but adds that no consideration would ever induce the Irish people to abandon their constancy through persecution and martyrdom which, it declares, has proved the reality of the people's attachment to the faith of their fathers, and which proves the reality of their attachment to their national freedom.

THE TIMES SCORES HIM.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The London Times, whose attitude with respect to the Irish claims short of complete separation has been habitually friendly, scores Mr. De Valera in a severe editorial, for his telegram to the Pope which it imagines "will fill his holiness with dismay and certainly arouse the indignation of the people of this country and the dominions.

"Towards the Pope himself," says The Times, "it is an act of impertinence, and towards the King, whose solicitude for the Irish people needs no proof, it is unmannerly to the point of churlishness."

The paper asks what value will attach to Mr. De Valera's assurance that he wishes peace and friendship with the British when he "deliberately flouts their settlement question upon the only terms upon which the peace and friendship of the two peoples are possible.

"If he really speaks in the name of the majority of the Irish people," The Times adds, "the chances of peace are small." Alluding to irreconcilable forces in England which are working deliberately to wreck the Irish conference, the paper expresses the fear that they will gather strength from Mr. De Valera's message and, reiterating its desire for peace, says that the issues at stake are far vaster than the general public in Great Britain and Ireland understand and may involve or seriously affect matters of the deepest concern throughout the whole world.

H. P. HILL FOR OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—The Journal says: "It is now definitely established that H. P. Hill, K. C., M. L. A., will go before the Liberal and Conservative convention here on Friday evening.

BRITISH COLUMBIA WINS FREIGHT RATES FIGHT

Gets Reduction Amounting to $50 or $60 a Car.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 21.—Involving a saving of at least $2,000,000 annually to shippers and consigners of British Columbia, and marking another successful step in British Columbia's fight for equalization of railway freights, judgment has just been handed down by the board of railway commissioners at Ottawa, placing British Columbia on the same rate basis as that prevailing between Fort William and Winnipeg.

Announcement of the board's ruling was received here to-day by Secretary Hugh Dalton, of the British Columbia division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. The ruling will mean a reduction in freight costs on every car passing between Pacific Coast points and points as far east as Calgary of between $50 and $60.

A FATAL DRINK.

REGINA, Sask., Oct. 21.—Two railway section men are dead and three others are believed to be dying from drinking wood alcohol at Cymric, near Strassburg.

ALL DRURY FLOCK TO JOIN CRERAR

Farmers Will Stage Their Big Fight In Ontario.

KEEN AND UNCERTAIN

General Admission That This Province Is Real Problem.

SEAFORTH, Ont., Oct. 21.—(Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.)—The present week's tour of Hon. T. A. Crerar in Ontario is but a preliminary to the main fight to come.

Following a meeting in Shelburne on Saturday afternoon Mr. Crerar will proceed to Toronto, where he spends Sunday. On Sunday evening he will leave for Montreal, where he will pass Monday. On Monday evening he leaves for Woodstock, N. B., where he opens his Maritime Province campaign on Tuesday. After 10 days or so in the Maritime Provinces he plans to return to Ontario and the Progressives will stage their principal battle. It is expected that when Mr. Crerar returns practically all the members of the Drury Government will join in the campaign, for on all sides it is admitted that in Ontario the fighting will be keenest and the result most uncertain.

Already the Ontario battle has assumed the character of a long-range debte. As Mr. Crerar sped into the Hurons yesterday he crossed the track of the prime minister, who had been through the counties the day previously. From Goderich on Wednesday night the prime minister attacked the Progressive movement; from Wingham, in the same county of North Huron, Mr. Crerar replied the following afternoon, and immediately after the Wingham meeting motored to Seaforth, to carry the fight into South Huron, the county in which he was born.

So far Mr. Crerar has confined himself to the rural constituencies of Western Ontario.

PREMIER'S TARIFF PLEA APPLAUDED

Sarnia Gives Warm Welcome To Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen.

PERTINENT QUESTION

Principle of Protection Only Safe One For Canada.

SARNIA, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The number of electors of Sarnia and district who heard Premier Meighen here this evening was limited only by the capacity of available halls. The Imperial Theater is supposed to seat 1,200. There were 1,500 in the body of the house and on the large platform, with doors closed before Mr. Meighen began his first address. For his second meeting the city hall was filled to its capacity of 800 and Chief of Police Lannin was compelled to deny admittance to many more. A second overflow meeting was proposed, but it was decided that the strain of a third address, with two to come tomorrow, at St. Marys and Stratford, would be too great for the premier.

P. T. McGibbon, presided at the theater and Joseph Simpson, president of the Sarnia Liberal-Conservative Association, at the city hall. Hon. Gideon Robertson spoke at both meetings, as well as J. E. Armstrong, of East Lambton, and R. V. Leseur, who was this afternoon chosen as federal candidate in the west riding.

The double meeting was a very happy circumstance for both the premier and his audience, because at the first he confined himself to the tariff issue, which gave him full scope, in an hour's address, for a rousing arraignment of the Opposition attitude, and for an earnest, eloquent appeal to the people to settle the fiscal question once for all and with it confirm the confidence of outside capital in the financial stability of this country. At the second meeting Mr. Meighen devoted himself more to the other issues, which his opponents argue are equal or paramount to that of the tariff.

FREQUENT APPLAUSE

The audiences were tremendously appreciative of his telling points, to judge from periodical applause, and gave the premier a fine personal reception, but, above all, they were deeply attentive. One question was asked from the theater audience. "Why is Mr. Crerar so panic-stricken about the grain probe? We are very much interested in this."

"I am sorry I do not know," replied the premier. "Perhaps if it had gone on I should have understood. But Mr. Crerar's corporation, one of the biggest in Canada, associated with about 40 other corporations, banded together and appealed to the courts to stop the inquiry. The Government of Canada fought the appeal. The verdict of the court of appeal of Manitoba has not yet been given, I don't know why he is panic-stricken; no doubt he does, and I hope you will be able to get him to say, but I do know this, that he who now ramps through the Province of Ontario about me being allied with big business was that time in Winnipeg not only allied himself with a big business, but with 40 others against the contentions of government." (Applause.)

TRIBUTE TO HANNA

In opening Mr. Meighen referred to the life of the late Hon. W. J. Hanna: "A dear friend of mine, a distinguished citizen of this city, a great Canadian. I am sure all who are British, all who love their fellow-men, when they think of Sarnia think of the name of Mr. Hanna. His work, his life and example will long be remembered and revered in this community." The premier compared the financial and trade conditions of Canada with that of other countries participating in the war and asked upon what ground the Government could rightfully be accused of "prostrating" the people.

"No country," he argued, "can have everything all right, or even nearly all right, if its great lines of policy have been unsuccessful. The mark will be on the country very soon. It does not seem reasonable to me that men should charge there is something in the record of the Government that I want to keep back from the public mind, when there is not one single thing we have done that everyone of three or five or 20 of those who now are candidates against us did not support us in doing and vote for. (Applause.)

EVEN THE GLOBE

"Even The Toronto Globe in every cardinal feature of federal policy, merchant marine, railway—not only supported us but urged us to do, and to-day is supporting the Liberal party—in everything except its policy and its leader. (Laughter.)

"I do not doubt but that the Liberals in these towns—and I hope most in Sarnia are here, anyway—(applause)—and I don't want you to stay away from other meetings. (Hear, hear.) I want you to go and hear Mr. Crerar and just let the great weight of his argument sink in. I do not doubt that Liberals here, four out of five, believe in the principle and practice of protection as firmly as I do myself. Am I wrong? (Applause.)

"Even if you do not live in Sarnia, but are Canadian citizens, and do not approach the subject from the standpoint of prejudice, you must know we cannot in this country abandon the protective system. How long would you be in Sarnia with the tariff wall down? Where would this country be, a nation of 9,500,000, with one of 110,000,000 alongside, a market of 110,000,000 that no Government can take away.

"If there is a country in the world of which protection is the very cornerstone of industrial life it is this Dominion of Canada. To lay our tariff barriers low means absorption of our raw material by other men's industrial concerns, the destruction of our industrial population and the absorbing of our industries one after another for the aggrandizement of the United States of America. That is the direction you go when you start lowering the tariff on vital industries of this country.

TARIFF IN DANGER.

"Well, is the tariff in danger? It will be in great danger if the Wood-Crerar forces come into power. Mr. Crerar says, even in the revised edition of his earlier speeches, 'I don't want free trade too soon: protection is morally wrong, but I would like to have it a little while longer. But I am headed for free trade.' Do you want that party to have a controlling interest in the Parliament of Canada? He is getting just about as skillful in keeping his real platform from the public as his coadjutor and running mate, Mr. King. But the platform of 1918 was revised recently, and only one word changed, so it must have been considered nearly perfect. That change was from abolition of patronage to the evils of patronage. (Laughter). They ask immediate reduction of a tariff that averages a little over 2[illegible] per cent., the lowest protective tariff in the world except, possibly that of Great Britain. There is just as much sign of reciprocity across the border as in 1878. (Applause). If there was far more I would stand just as stoutly against it as I stood in 1911. (Applause).

"I have Mr. King's platform here and it differs by scarcely a hair from that of the Wood-Crerar platform. Nobody can tell from his speeches, but the reason I know is that the platform was framed at the convention which named him leader. Who was there from this county? It passed unanimously, including the vote of F. F. Pardee, M.P., substantial all-round reduction of the customs tariff, free entry of all implements of production and raw material going into them free entry of all principal articles of food and raw material going into them and a long list of other articles. Almost a photographic reproduction of the Farmers' platform.

"If you maintain a protective system, how are you going to justify the stripping of vital industries of protection? If there is anything in the world we ought to make in this country surely it is implements of production. Do you imagine you would have the oil industry here, employing 1,400 people, but for the protective tariff? If you want a duty on oil to preserve the industry for the sake of Sarnia and this part of the country, are you going to deny the same thing to other places for the industries they have?

WHERE PARDEE STANDS.

"The attitude of Mr. Pardee, I am told, is that he was brought up here and would not do this city harm. I have not a word against Mr. Pardee personally. If I were to say anything personal it would be in his favor. But why is he running in support of a party pledged to make that law?

"You say he is repentant, perhaps he is, as regards oil. But if so, let the repudiation of this platform come, and let the Liberal party say it is not of that platform any longer. Now is the accepted time, not after the votes of the people are cast. Do you imagine there can be any government formed by the Liberals without support of the farmer-elected candidates, headed by Mr. Wood and Mr. Crerar? What then would happen to the protective system? Both are pledged to do all things stated here in these platforms, and no matter what Mr. Pardee may want he won't rule them any more than he ruled them in August, 1919. We have to maintain a moderate protective system, and that is all we ought to maintain in this country, and we propose to do so, so that our industries may get along in competition with the bigger interests over there. (Applause).

"If you think protection must stay in Canada, then I have a right to ask for your support. If I thought it harmful I would want to cut it out now. If I thought people had fattened on protection and enriched themselves out of the common people I would not be arguing for it to-day. If you abandon it I do not see how you can expect men to stand by it again. The only way to give confidence in our financial stability is to let it be known what the will of the people is. Have I your assistance, or have I not?" (Prolonged applause).

THE CANDIDATE.

R. V. Lesueur, the candidate, spoke briefly on lines similar to his address at the convention, and was given a fine reception.

Hon. Gideon Robertson recalled that 28 years ago he started out for himself as telegrapher on the Sarnia branch of the Grand Trunk, and at that time had many friends among the railroad men running out of this city.

"I realize," he said, "that the destinies of Canada are bound up in the policies enunciated by the premier to-day. If the Government has permitted an error within the past three or four years, it has been the omission to tell the people what it has been doing, and what its troubles were. The Opposition has been busy with propaganda."

Referring to the sessions of the tariff commission, Senator Robertson said: "I came back absolutely convinced that the interests of the wage earner are absolutely dependent upon the continuation of the protective principle in Canada; if our working population continue to reside in Canada and live happily and comfortably, they must have employment. | Unless our industries continue to develop and thrive they cannot have employment, and the savings which they hope to have for their declining days will be lost, for it is more true to-day than ever before that our industries are dependent upon a protective policy, because of the pressure of competition and the inflated currency of so many industrial countries.

"I think people of every political complexion agree that no Government ever faced difficult problems and handled them more courageous than that of Sir Robert Borden during the war period. The war was carried on successfully, and I think there is no citizen in Canada to-day who is not proud of the part Canada played."

"A thorough examination by F. Steele, optometrist, will settle any question of eye trouble. Call at his office, 210 Dundas street." f

CATTLE EMBARGO TO STAY ON TILL 1922

Legislation to Remove it Cannot Be Passed By British House This Session.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Daily Telegraph understands that the Cabinet has had no timt to give consideration to the Finlay committee's report on the cattle embargo. It is a certainty, however, that no action can be taken beore 1922 as any change must be authorized by legislation and the remainder of the session will be devoted solely to unemployment legislation.

In the House of Commons to-day John L. Sturrock, M.P., Montrose Burghs, asked if the House would take an early opportunity to discuss the royal commission's recommendation to lift the Canadian cattle embargo.

Donald Master, K.C., member for Chertsy, inquired what steps the Government contemplates with regard to the recommendation.

William T. Shaw, M.P., County of Forfar, asked whether the Government would immediately introduce a bill removing the embargo.

Rt. Hon. Sir A. Griffiths, Boscawen, minister of agriculture, replied that the evidence taken before the royal commission had not yet been published, although it was expected to be read shortly. Until there has been opportunity to consider the evidence it would be premature to discuss the report, he said. Moreover legislation necessary to give effect to the recommendation could not be introduced this session.

REV. S. F. ROBINSON AND WIFE GUESTS OF HONOR

STRATHROY, Oct. 20.—The congregation of St. John's Anglican Church evidenced their appreciation and regard for their retiring rector, Rev. S. F. Robinson, and his wife, at an enjoyable social tea held in the parish hall, when they were presented with checks for substantial amounts. The presentation took place at the close of a short program comprising instrumentals by Misses Gillies and Sadleir and Mrs. R. Lattimer; selections by the choir of the church, solos by Miss Gladys Richards and J. A. Allum, and readings by Mrs. Ella H. Saxton. Mr. F. L. E. Evans, rector's warden, read to Rev. Mr. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson the accompanying address on behalf of the congregation, while Mrs. R. M. Pincombe and Mrs. D. C. Ross presented the checks. Mr. and Mrs. Robinson both replied briefly. Lunch was then served by the ladies and a delightful social time was spent. Rev. and Mrs. Robinson leave this month for London. Mr. Robinson will preach his final sermon on Sunday.

Kroehler Chesterfield Suite

Chesterfield and Two Chairs For $239 Chesterfield Only $119

Most Housewives Are Modernizing Their Parlors By Installing a Good Chesterfield Suite

Gone are the days when "the correct thing" in parlor furniture was a stiff-looking horsehair sofa surrounded by three or four prim horsehair chairs, duly draped with antimacassars.

Sounds antiquated, doesn't it? Yet there are homes still clinging to the old-fashioned "parlor set," consisting of lounge or settee, rocking chair, armchair and one or two other chairs, all upholstered in gaudy silk, satin or plush—uncomfortable, easily soiled, apt to show worn spots quickly and as out-of-date as crinolines.

Modern tastes call for a sensible, cozy, decorative suite of high-grade furniture for the parlor—a wide, deep, soft, roomy, yielding Chesterfield, with chairs to match — a thing of appearance as well as comfort — of economy as well as luxury. Let us show you what quality for a moderate outlay may be had.

Produced by makers of the well-known Kroehler Daven-O, so if you purchase one of these, you'll know you have the best.

Prices—as you will readily recognize—are as low as they'll ever be on this grade of furniture. Come in and let us show you this line—without obligation to you, of course.

LESUEUR CHOICE IN WEST LAMBTON

Rousing Sarnia Convention Had Its Mind All Made Up

MRS. HANNA PROPOSED

Widow of Former Minister Drops Out With Neat Address

SARNIA, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter.)—West Lambton folks had their minds pretty well made up in regard to a federal candidate before they came to the convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party this afternoon. As forecasted for some time there was nothing to it but R. V. Lesueur. The names of P. T. McGibbon, Mrs. W. J. Hanna, R. E. Lesueur and Lyle Lesueur were also proposed, but all withdrew, Mr. McGibbon and R. E. Lesueur sponsoring the motion that made the choice unanimous. The city hall auditorium was filled and the attendance fully represenative.

Vryling Lesueur is a member of the Sarnia law firm of Hanna, Lesueur & McKinley and has been connected with political affairs locally for some years. He is a son of Mr. R. E. Lesueur, who three times contested West Lambton in the interests of the party.

A REAL CONVENTION.

The convention itself was a six-cylinder, self-starting, 1922 model affair. A particularly modern feature was the active participation of ladies. There were addresses by Mrs Hanna, widow of the late provincial secretary, and by Mrs. Armstrong, wife of the candidate and late member in East Lambton, while at the close of the meeting tea was served in the lounge of the Chamber of Commerce for the special benefit of women electors from a distance.

President J. H. Anderson, of Oil Springs, and other officers of the association were reselected, but a change will be made in the office of secretary, now held by R. V. Lesueur.

STOPS TOO SOON.

R. E. Lesueur commented upon an editorial in to-day's Globe, which quoted statistics on the growth of Hamilton under the Laurier tariff.

"The Globe did not see fit to go farther than 1910," said Mr. Lesueur. "Why not 1920? The products of that city, valued in 1910 at $55,000,000, had grown in 1920 to $188,000,000 under the present tariff." (Applause.)

"I thank you very much for proposing my name," said Mrs. Hanna, in replying. "I feel that you are thinking of my husband, whose work was always for the Conesrvative party, and I feel also that in honoring me you are honoring the women of the riding. The Government honored the women of Canada by giving them the vote freely and ungrudgingly. The women perhaps do not all know their rights and responsibility, but the same spirit of sacrifice that did so much to win the war will cause the women of this riding to rally strongly to support our candidate in this fight.

CANDIDATE SPEAKS.

"In addition to the promptings of a sense of duty my hesitation to accept this nomination is also overcome by the feeling that our cause is sound and right," said R. V. Lesueur. "Our party is conservative in the sense that it hesitates to tamper with laws that have proven safe and beneficial, but it is progressive in adopting any laws considered safe and sound, the only basis on which history shows we can safely deal with large affairs. The sentiment of this party is fundamentally British and imperialistic. The results of the policy of protection have proven so widely beneficial, so widely distributed and advantageous alike to farmer, manufacturer and laborer that we as Canadian citizens, if we use our sound, practical sense, must insist that when the tariff is modified it must be modified with conservatism and care. I have the utmots faith in the sincerity and ability of our leader and the courage with which he will handle all problems arising.' (Applause.)

J. E. Armstrong, who was given a splendid reception, delivered a vigorous, fighting speech, with special reference to the tariff platforms of the parties as they concern Sarnia nad Lambton. He enumerated some of the commodities which by the Liberal platform, framed in 1919, with the concurrnece of Mr. Pardee, would be placed upon the free list, such as illuminating and fuel oils and foodstuffs, including fruits.

"That is the policy Mr. Pardee stands on or falls by," said the speaker, "and it is for you to say. It is only a few years since fruit men of this riding and my riding came to Ottawa and asked for an increase of duty on apples, and practically the only increase in the tariff by the Union Government and present Government was granted the fruit men on apples from 40 to 90 cents a barrel. Did we do right or wrong? Ask the fruit men whether or not they want that 90 cents wiped out. They cannot get their fruit into the other country without climbing a high tariff wall.

REASONABLE PROTECTION.

"Our party stands square for a reasonable protection to the industries of Canada. Our prime minister stands for Canada for the Canadians and not for our good friends across the border, Germany or other countries of the world. Uphold what is right and clean in public life and see that when December 6 comes round Vryling Lesueur is returned with an enormous majority and he will be only one of many splendid men behind Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen." (Applause.)

"We need such men at Ottawa as Mr. Lesueur," said Mrs. J. E. Armstrong, "men well educated, traveled and broad-minded, a man knowing conditions not only in Sarnia but world conditions, for they are very unsettled. There are no countries clamoring just now for free trade or tariff reduction. The United States has put up its tariff wall. We emulate the United States to a great extent, because it is a great and prosperous country, and while we agree these laws are good for them we do not expect them to make laws good for us. They are for their own benefit, and that is quite all right, but when we make our laws we want them to benefit Canada." (Applause.)

The president and secretary were instructed to send a letter of condolence to Mrs. Kittermaster, widow of J. H. Kittermaster, who died recently.

"GO AHEAD, SHOOT," OLD MAN TELLS BANDIT TRIO

Plucky Reply Wins Him Cigar and Highwaymen Are Later Caught.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Harry Hubbard, George Arthurs and Samuel Jones, all of Toronto, were arrested to-day following an exciting chase by the police, in which revolver shots were exchanged after the men had abandoned a stolen automobile. In the York County police court this afternoon they were confronted with charges of breaking into stores, numerous thefts and hold-ups and of assaulting two young girls, who identified them as their assailants. The men were remanded till the 25th.

Just outside the city the trio held up an aged produce man named Sydney, who was driving into the city. "Hold up your hands!" they shouted.

"What for?" asked Sydney.

"Come on; cut out the funny stuff. Put up your hands," was the answer.

"I am not going to put up my hands; go ahead and shoot me and the old horse. We will die together," replied Sydney.

The men regarded him for a minute in astonishment and then one walked over and handed him a cigar and complimented him on his pluck.

CANADIAN RAIL MEN WILLING TO ACCEPT A "REASONABLE" CUT

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press).—That his organization was willing to approve a reasonable reduction in pay in order to assist the railroads, although it was felt that the reduction was not warranted by conditions, at this time, was the statement made here this morning by A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes, at the opening meeting of the board of arbitrators between the Canadian National Railways and their employees on the question of wages.

FAIL TO AVERT RAILWAY STRIKE

Chicago Conference Adjourns With Nothing Accomplished

STATEMENT IS ISSUED

No Further Meetings With Labor Leaders Planned

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Efforts by the railroad labor board to avert the threatened railroad strike through conference with heads of the five unions which have ordered a walkout, effective October 30, failed when the meeting adjourned to-night, with the announcement by that board that, "while the discussions were beneficial, no definite results were obtained."

"There has been a full and frank discussion of the situation," said a statement given out by Ben. W. Hooper, vice-chairman of the board. "The labor board and the brotherhood chiefs exchanged views in a perfectly pleasant way. The interview was beneficial, but we cannot say that any definite results were obtained."

The five union presidents departed for their organization headquarters to-night with the announcement that plans for the proposed strike would go right ahead.

The adjournment is final," Chairman R. M. Barton, of the labor board, announced. "We do not plan any further conferences with the labor leaders, nor do we plan, at present, to call in the railroad presidents. I cannot say what our next step might be."

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—It was unofficially stated this morning that Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, Canada's representative to the Washington disarmament conference, would leave Ottawa for the United States capital on Wednesday, November 9. The conference commences its sessions on November 11.

An Open Letter to the Men of London About Clothes

COMMENCING this week the ENGLISH AND SCOTCH WOOLEN COMPANY will be conducted under a NEW MANAGEMENT, which will mean NEW VALUE, NEW SERVICE; in fact, a NEW ENGLISH AND SCOTCH WOOLEN COMPANY throughout.

Our prices will be from $15 to $35 for Suits and Overcoats, made to measure—and each order will be backed up with a genuine guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

We know that we now have the outlet, the equipment and the management to make the best clothes in Canada at $15 to $35, to-measure, and from now on we are going to prove that we can do so and back up our value with service that means all that the word implies. We have 38 stores in Canada, extending right from Halifax to Victoria. We have a huge central tailoring plant in Montreal. We buy our cloth direct from the mills and we sell direct to the wearer.

There you have the story, men. We eliminate every bit of "lost motion" and cut out all "extras"—ours is just a simple, straightforward business proposition. Instead of selling through retailers we place the entire output of our national tailoring plant at the disposal of our 38 distributing stations. That is how it is possible to make the clothes we will offer at our very low prices.

We want the men of London to see our values before they buy their Fall and Winter Suits and Overcoats. They can choose from imported and domestic fabrics woven by some of the finest mills in the world. They can have their clothes made to measure in any conceivable style and model. They can get dependable garments at $15 or the finest suit in the house at $35. If they come to look they are under no obligation to buy. We invite comparison and expect our clothes to sell absolutely on their merits.

ST. THOMAS MAN NEW PRESIDENT

Elected at Convention of Desciples of Christ

CONFERENCES AT RODNEY

Western District to Meet Next Year at West Lorne

RODNEY, Oct. 20.—The Churches of the Disciple of Christ, of the Western district, met here Tuesday. President Alex Purcell, of Rodney, in the chair. Short addresses were given by the president, Mr. Frank, of Aylmer, Mr. Merry, of Poplar Hill, and others. Dr. Fowler, of Ridgetown, emphasized the importance of accurate reports on church work in a brief summary.

Mrs. C. B. King, of London, gave a report on the great international convention held this fall at Winona Lake, where there were over 7,000 delegates and visitors in attendance. She gave an interesting account of the proceedings, addresses and program of work. The Disciples now have bands of missionaries operating in India, China, Mexico, Argentina, Paraguay, West Indies, Congo, South Africa, Japan, Thibet and the Phillipines.

A house packed to overflowing greeted the speakers at the evening session A grand chorus of young singers from Rodney and West Lorne, under the leadership of J. B. Ferguson, opened the meetings. A. McKillop, president of the provincial board, outlined the aim and efforts of the Forward Movement, and urged an additional $50,000 be raised for the fund.

Francis Harrison then addressed the meeting on the subject of "Christian Education," stressing the importance of organization, Bible study, retention of scholars and church connection with Sunday school work.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, E. Roe, St. Thomas; vice-president, W. Pierson, Rodney; secretary-treasurer, Miss Myrtle Fowler, St. Thomas.

West Lorne will entertain the convention in 1922.

Resolutions of thanks were given to the Rodney church and the officers of the convention, and commending the work undertaken by the provincial board, and also the temperance movement in Canada.

Alex. Purcell, of Rodney, made a splendid presiding officer, and V. J. Murray, the efficient young pastor of the Rodney church, helped much in the success of the convention.

There were about 150 delegates and visitors in attendance.

The convention was delighted by the unexpected arrival of Mrs. Romig, Canadian field secretary of the Women's Missionary societies of Canada, and, though the hour was late, she gave a short address on the plan of inter-provincial relations in the women's work. After her address the convention adjourned, thus bringing to a close one of the best district conventions ever held by the Disciples.

Both men were shot and killed by Chicago policemen, who caught them in the act of carrying out a robbery, reports state.

Though O'Neil has no criminal record here, he was known to Windsor police, an officer said to the Canadian Press to-day. Buller had a purse hanging over his head for his arrest in connection with the Winnipeg killings. He escaped and Canadian police could secure no trace of him despite a Dominion-wide search.

In his testimony, Cornish declared he was acting for a Detroit man named Welsh in the purchase of the liquor.

MAN HURT, WOMEN ESCAPE IN LEVEL CROSSING ACCIDENT

CHATHAM, Oct. 20.—William Goodreau, a farmer residing on the 3rd concession of Harwich, near Fargo, is in St. Joseph's Hospital suffering from internal injuries as a result of an accident which happened upon the level crossing over the M. C. R. at Charing Cross. Goodreau attempted to cross the tracks in his automobile at the rear of an eastbound freight train and was struck by the rear of a westbound freight which was backing up from the depot.

In the automobile at the time were Goodreau's wife, Mrs. Moore, Miss Moore and Mrs. D. R. McGarvin. The ladies escaped without injury. The automobile was struck broadside by the train and was badly wrecked. As a result of an agitation started some time ago this crossing has been fitted out with wig wag signals and bells, but owing to the fact that the train was backing up the signals and bells were not working at the time of the accident.

They got away before the neighborhood could be aroused. They were going east and were stopped at Melbourne, but no charge presented, were allowed to go.

Tuesday afternoon field day was held in Glencoe, the high schools of Dutton, Alvinston, Melbourne, West Lorne and Wardsville joining in the sports.

CAN'T POSTPONE, BUT CAN SETTLE

Attitude of Union Chiefs in Regard to Rail Strike

THE CHICAGO PARLEY

Labor Board Optimistic in Regard to Situation

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—The prospective strike cannot be postponed, but it can be settled. This was the opinion of the four big brotherhood chiefs and the president of the Switchmen's Union after a conference this morning, at which it was learned they had considered all possible phases of the situation as they may be presented at the meeting this afternoon with the United States railroad labor board.

DON'T WANT STRIKE

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 20.—The American Railroad Men's Association, a fraternal and benevolent association embracing 10,000 yard masters, yard conductors and switchmen, to-day issued an appeal to all railroad unions to call off the proposed general strike and accept the wage cut ordered by the United States railroad labor board.

THE CHICAGO PARLEY

CHICAGO, Oct. 20.—Chiefs of the big four brotherhoods and the switchmen's union arrived this morning and went into conference preparatory to their meeting this afternoon with the United States Railroad Labor Board.

Union headquarters was optimistic and there was a strongly evident feeling that there would be no strike, unless something unexpected occurred to disrupt the conference this afternoon.

Present at the conference were: Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors; W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen; W. S. Carter, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, and T. C. Cashen, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America.

The 11 "standard" unions marked time to-day awaiting the outcome of the labor board meeting. While a few of their general chairmen met to discuss strike plans, the majority crowded the hearing rooms of the labor board to see the Pennsylvania Railroad cited for failure to obey the bord's orders.

LABOR BOARD OPTIMISTIC.

Labor board members were optimistic over prospects of an adjustment of the brotherhood members' complaints, but no plans had been announced for discussing the railroad executives, the board's program to avert the strike by temporarily maintaining the present wage level and reducing freight rates.

Prior to the conference with the brotherhoods, the board had scheduled a hearing with the Pennsylvania Railroad representatives on charges of violation of a board decision requiring a new election of shop crafts representatives. This case is the first of its kind to come before the board and is expected to establish the extent of the board's power in inforcing its decisions under the transportation acts.

Plans to operate passenger, mail and milk trains were being pushed by railroad executives, in event the strike takes place, with resumption of freight traffic as fast as men can be secured. From the ranks of men recently laid off, pensioners, loyal veterans and others with railroad experience railroad officials here to-day declared they could recruit nearly a half million men. Roads entering New York were advertising for men to fill positions which may be vacated, and roads entering Chicago are expected to take the same course within the next few days.

Between August, 1920, and June, 1921, the number of railroad employees decreased by 611,675, according to figures of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and more than 60,000 of these were train service men.

RAILWAY MAGNATES PLANNING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Proceeding as if they expected failure of the railroad labor board in its efforts to prevent the threatened railroad strike by a conference in Chicago to-day, members of the eastern presidents' conference met here to-day to lay plans for meeting the strike on Eastern and New England roads.

Although they professed to see some hope of peace through the labor board's efforts, the railroad heads declared that with the strike orders already issued they could not afford to delay their plans to see what the Chicago conference would bring forth.

Meetings of the General Managers' Association and the Association of Railway Executives also were scheduled.

Advertisements calling for men to take the places of possible strikers have been prepared by all the railroads entering here and the Pennsylvania and Erie Railways published them in to-day's papers. The Pennsylvania sought applications to fill places made vacant by such men as may leave the service.

The Erie specified such places as may be vacant on November 1 and offered permanent positions at standard wages.

URGE MEN TO THINK FIRST.

Several of the railroads have sent out circular letters to their employees urging the men to think carefully before they join the proposed strike and not "be misled in this matter." One of these letters, after reciting advantages of employment on that line, inquired: "Are you going to give up all this, your record and your seniority, at the behest of men who are going to be unable to find another job to take the place of the one you now have? Remember, they can order you out, but can they order you back?"

The letter concluded with an argument that the strike was not against the railroads but against the Government as represented by the railroad labor board.

A. H. Braez, vice-president of the American Train Dispatchers' Association, announced last night that the dispatchers would take no part in the proposed strike. The statement followed a conference with dispatchers of the Eastern district, at which Mr. Braez said the sentiment against a walkout was unanimous.

"There is no sign that we are condemning the attitude displayed by the other brotherhoods, however," he added.

AUTOMOBILE THIEVES INVADE OXFORD TOWN

Steal Car and Loot General Store in in Burford, Near Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 20.—(Special to The Free Press).—The near-by Village of Burford was visited by robbers last night, who got away with a McLaughlin light 6 automobile belonging to Lindsay Irving, a farmer residing near, and who also broke into the general store and stole a large quantity of goods, including silverware, sugar, tobacco and clothing. The total value has not yet been estimated, but it will be in the thousands. The thieves left an old dilapidated Chevrolet car, stolen in Paris, in place of the McLaughlin, and the stolen car had the number 90-938.

NO POLITICS IN THE ROAD POLICY

Hon. F. C. Biggs Speaks at Brantford Ceremony

HIGHWAY IS OPENED

Guelph-Port Dover Project Meets With Approval

BRANTFORD, Oct. 20.—The exchange of hearty congratulation upon the opening of the highway and the indorsation of the Drury Government road-making policy were features of the luncheon tendered this afternoon to Hon. F. C. Biggs, minister of public works and highways, following the official opening of the Brantford-Hamilton highway in the morning, which was without ceremony.

There were no politics in the road department and there had been no partisan allocation of the work, Hon. F. C. Biggs declared. He paid a tribute to the co-operation of the City of Brantford in working with the County Council. He upheld the resolution of the Brantford City Council, which has been indorsed by Galt and Guelph councils, calling for a trunk highway between Guelph and Port Dover, declaring that it was a worthy undertaking which should be accomplished. He gave no promise, however, as to when the work would be taken up.

He commented that it was significant that the celebration should come on the second anniversary of the day when the Government took office an appropriate omen. They did not intend that the completion of the road should be sidetracked, for the macadam foundation laid was to be the foundation for the permanent surfacing next year. He hoped to see the mud on the Brantford-Hamilton road bottled up forever.

In conclusion he urged them not to abuse the road by speeding. It should not be said that Biggs had constructed another speedway, for every such road was a speedway if abused. Hon. W. A. McLean, Senator J. H. Fisher and W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., were other speakers.

Later in the afternoon Hon. Mr. Biggs inspected a number of the sections of the newly constructed county good roads.

ROYAL WINTER SHOW OFF

President Dryden Says It Would Be Unwise to Go Ahead Now.

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair will not be held in the new arena at Exhibition Park next month.

This was the definite statement of President W. A. Dryden, when the winter fair executive conferred this morning with Controllers Maguire and Hilton.

"We have reached the conclusion," said Mr. Dryden, "that it would be unwise to go on and hold the fair this year under present conditions."

BACK TO THE SOD.

WINGHAM, Oct. 20.—Mr. David Hamilton, who has been an employee of the Bell furniture factory for about 20 years, has decided to try farming and has purchased the farm of James Van Camp Jr., in East Wawanosh.

WOULD BE CRUEL TO TAKE AWAY JUDGE'S BOOZE

STRATFORD, Oct. 20.—The expression on Judge Barron's face as he walked into the court house this morning was something between annoyance and delight. Some time last night some person, or persons, thought that to be on the inside looking out would be better than on the outside looking in—this with reference to the judge's cellar. So they forced a window and then a door, but, as the judge said, they were very nice about it, and went right away without taking anything.

GERARD ADMITS STORY OF SHOOTING FABRICATION

WINDSOR, Oct. 20.—Fabrication of the story he told the coroner's jury to the effect that Alex Depres was not the man whom constable J. E. Bower shot and killed ten days ago, was admitted by William Gerard, when he uttered the word "guilty" in police court here in answer to the charge of attempting to break and enter a drugstore, the scene of the shooting.

Magistrate Gundy remanded Gerard until Saturday for sentence on the attempted burglary charge. He is also charged with assaulting Constable Bower, but to this he pleaded not guilty. Alex Malouin, a brother-in-law of Depres, whom the police arrested shortly following the shooting, was released on a charge of conspiring with Depres and Gerard to rob the drugstore.

BAPTISTS AT ST. THOMAS HEAR REPORTS FOR YEAR

Excellent Progress By All Connexional Bodies of Baptist Church.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 20—The Baptist convention opened this morning's session with another full turnout of delegates. Rev. W. S. McAlpine, of Hespeler, was acting chairman.

In the report of the board of publication it was shown that the net profit for the year in the convention of Ontario and Quebec was only $56.88. The explanation of smallness of profits is the fact that for 10 months of the year paper that formerly cost eight cents a pound now cost 14c. In connection with Canadian Baptists the board's total income was $44,526.

The church edifice board reported the largest income in its history the 242 churches in the convention have contributed to their fund. The total funds in charge of this board at the beginning of the year were $32,664, which has been since increased to $60,000.

In presenting the report it was said that while no spectacular enterprise had been engaged in the work of the board had gone steadily forward and steady progress had been made in all efforts to help the needy causes in their financial struggles. The report of the Grand Ligne mission, which operates among the French Canadians in Queebc and Eastern Ontario, was very satisfactory.

The report of the Canadian Baptist foreign mission board was given early this afternoon. The present report marks the 10th year since the Canadian Baptist church united under one board the work in India and Bolivia. These years have been marked by steady growth in every phase of work. This year the church sent out 11 missionaries. This staff in both fields now numbers 110.

The efforts of Gandhi, the Indian factionist, have been felt in all parts of work in India, but nowhere very seriously. Beyond the introduction of a few primitive spinning wheels into a number of homes and the seducing of a number of boys from the high school, no serious results of this campaign are evident within the sphere of missionary influence.

An increasing number of moderates are beginning to raise their voices and many missionaries are confident that India will yet, in a constitutional manner, find her way to a self-governing status within the empire.

Evangelist work both in Bolivia and India have been aggressively followed during the year and with larger results than ever before.

The communicant membership now numbers about 14,000.

BIG PROGRAM FOR PREMIER

Arrangements for Reception at St. Thomas Complete

TO SPEAK ON SATURDAY

City Council Votes to Attend Civic Welcome

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter.)—While there are still a few minor matters to dispose of arrangements are now practically complete for the reception of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Canada's prime minister, on his visit to this city on Saturday. According to present plans the premier and party will arrive in the city about 3 o'clock, via the L. & P. S. R., from London. They will leave the train at Talbot street and will proceed to the city hall, where a civic address of welcome will be delivered by Mayor Brinkman. The Elgin Regimental Band will be in attendance and the city will be decorated for the occasion. The party will then be escorted in automobiles to the Grand Central Hotel, where, after a reception, luncheon will be served, with the premier and Sir George E. Foster as guests of honor. The entire reception is to be a civic affair and politics will be left entirely alone until the evening meeting at the Star Theater. A meeting of the City Council was held this afternoon to consider the matter of extending a civic welcome to the premier, and every member of that body voted in favor. Ald. Stokes, president of the I. L. P., declared that it was a fitting tribute to Mr. Meighen, who was Canada's first citizen. Mayor Brinkman explained that the affair was not a political one, that the reception would take the form of a welcome from the citizens of St. Thomas to Canada's premier.

Ald. Meehan asked why there had not been a similar reception to Premier Drury on his visit here last summer. The mayor stated that a reception could not be arranged at that time because the premier was not quite sure of being in the city. He promised, however, as head of the City Council, that a similar reception would be given Hon. T. A. Crerar or Hon. Macflenzie King if they came to St. Thomas. According to present indications the banquet will be one of the biggest affairs of its kind on record. The city will be crowded, as hundreds of people in the outlying districts are planning to visit St. Thomas in order to take part in the reception and hear the premier discuss the affairs of the country. Special seats have been reserved at the Star Theater for the lady electors who will attend, and ushers will be on hand to direct the crowd.

Arrangements have also been made for an overflow meeting should this be necessary, and from present indications a large hall will be needed for the second gathering.

Judging from present indications Premier Meighen's visit to St. Thomas will be a memorable one. It is the desire of those in charge to make the event as interesting as possible, as it is just 26 years since a prime minister of the Dominion visited St. Thomas.

McVEY ACQUITTED.

As there was no evidence of theft against him, William McVey, local youth, charged with stealing an automobile, who was arrested a week ago, was to-day acquitted by Magistrate Maxwell. A couple of forged checks have made their appearance, however, and while McVey is out on his own recognisance he will be expected to answer these charges at a later date. A. A. Ingram is appearing for him.

McVey was charged with another youth with stealing an automobile, which they were alleged to have driven from this city to Port Stanley. The warrant was out many weeks ago, and when the youths arrived in town the police were hot on their trail. McVey was caught down town at a pool room and taken to the lockup, but when the police knocked at the door of the other young man's boarding house he looked out the window, and, seeing the police outside, he left rather hurriedly by a rear window attired in nothing but his "B.V.D.'s," and has not been seen since.

Crown Attorney McCrimmon has raised an objection to the manner in which a local young woman, who is seriously deranged mentally, is permitted to go at large, and steps will be taken to have her placed in a suitable institution. The young woman in question has visited the Baptist convention here each day this week, causing considerable annoyance, and on one or two occasions has insisted on being included among the chief mourners at a funeral.

A SAD CASE

The other day she went into a dry goods store and, removing an expensive fur coat from a rack, she ordered that it be laid aside for her until she could purchase it. She announced that she wanted to pay a deposit and astonished the clerk by producing a five-cent piece. Another time recently she went to a local confectionary store and, after pricing all the candies in the place, she finally decided to purchase a couple of chocolates valued at about 1 cent each.

The City Council at a special meeting this afternoon gave first reading to a by-law authorizing an issue of debentures to the extent of $100,000 for the erection of a nucleus to a memorial hospital in this city. The by-law will be submitted to the electors about November 14. Returning officers were named and the various arrangements for taking a vote were made at to-day's meeting.

The new hospital will be erected on a site adjoining the present Amasa Wood Hospital building in Pearl street.

WANT A CROWD.

The Liberals of the city are making every effort to get a crowd to the local clubrooms and to-night made one more effort by advertising in the local press to attract a sufficiently large crowd to organize the subdivisions of the city for the approaching election. This work was started several weeks ago, but, owing to an apparent lack of interest in the city and district, it was impossible to get a sufficiently large crowd out to complete the work. Liberals are all ordered to turn out for the important gathering to-morrow evening at the local clubrooms.

Davey Pelkey, of Aylmer, who was given a preliminary hearing at Aylmer yesterday by Magistrate Summers on a charge of assaulting his wife, asked this morning to be taken immediately before Judge Ermatinger. On appearing in court he pleaded guilty and was remanded to jail until Monday. The case is alleged to have arose over the presence of another woman in the Pelkey home, with whom Pelkey was a little too familiar. The judge expressed a desire to consult with Pelkey's wife over the matter.

MEETING POSTPONED.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 20.—Upon requisition of a number of aldermen the meeting of the City Council, scheduled for Monday, has been postponed to the following Monday, October 31, because of the visit of Premier Meighen to the city.

U. S. PLANS DELAY IN TARIFF CHANGE

Harding's Party Anxious for a Year's Hoist

QUICK ACTION IMPROBABLE

Emergency Rates on Agriculture Products to Be Extended

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Some of the strongest leaders of the Harding administration are working quietly, but persistently and effectively, it is stated, to prevent permanent revision of the tariff for another 15 months. It is their plan to throw tariff revision over until the Congressional elections of November, 1922, have been decided.

It was disclosed definitely here today that the movement to delay revision has powerful support in administration quarters. The only question is whether the manufacturers, who want protection, will be able to force the Republican leaders to early action against their will.

The impression is steadily growing in Washington that the prospects for passing a tariff this winter are becoming remote. The resolution to extend the emergency rates on agricultural products will pass.

NO WOMAN MEMBERSHIP FOR CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY

LONDON, Oct. 20.—Cambridge University by a majority of 214. On December 8 last the university refused women membership by a vote of 1,712 to 908. It voted, however, to give women titular degrees by diploma. This recommendation was adopted by a majority of 642.

SERIOUS AS THE WAR

Hon. C. S. Mewburn So Refers to the Coming Election

HAMILTON, Oct. 20.—"This election is as serious as the war, so far as the future of our community is concerned" declared Hon. C. S. Mewburn, former minister of militia, at a convention of the Hamilton Liberal and Conservative Association to-night, after he had received the party's nomination for East Hamilton. T. J. Stewart was selected for the west riding.

THOMAS HEALY DEAD.

STRATHROY, Oct. 20.—The death occurred yesterday at the Strathroy Hospital of Thomas James Healy, son of John Healy, 4th line, Adelaide Township, in his 22nd year. Mr. Healy had been ill for the past four weeks with an attack of typhoid fever, which it is thought he contracted while in the West, from which place he returned about a month ago. Besides his father he is survived by two brothers and three sisters, all at home. Mr. Healy's mother predeceased him about one month ago. The funeral will take place from the family residence on Friday morning to the All Saints' Church, where mass will be celebrated prior to interment in the R. C. Cemetery.

Smith has a Kingston lawyer working with Toronto and Windsor legal aids in the hope of getting out of prison.

ACCEPT RESIGNATION OF BRUCE INSPECTOR

J. M. White Obliged to Quit Duties Owing to Ill Health; Complimentary Letter

WALKERTON, Oct. 20.—Joseph M. White, who has been license inspector in Bruce County for the past 10 years or more, sent in his resignation to the department last week and yesterday received a reply accepting it and a very complimentary letter from the commisisoner. Mr. White was obliged to resign owing to advancing years and ill health. While he had ben inspector he had been very zealous in the performance of his duties and very few law-breakers escaped him. The department will find it difficult to locate a man who is as familiar with the concessions of the County of Bruce as Mr. White, and one who will prove as efficient. As an instance of his good work since Last July there have been eight convictions on informations laid by the inspector for in fractions of the Inland Revenue Act and O.T.A.

The department has not yet named his successor.

ITALIAN CAPTURED TO SERVE OUT TERM

Joseph Veroni, Who Mysteriously Disappeared From Guelph, Apprehended at Brantford

GUELPH, Oct. 20.—Joseph Veroni, an Italian resident of this city who was sentenced by Magistrate Watt to one year imprisonment in August 1920, when convicted on a charge of selling liquor, and who made a mysterious disappearance from Guelph a few days before his case was heard, has finally been rounded up by the police after a search which lasted four months.

Veroni was arrested at Brantford yesterday and was brought back to this city this morning to serve his sentence. The prisoner was arraigned in police court to-day and faced another charge of selling liquor, which had been standing over since June, 1920, but at the request of his solicitor, George A. Drew, the hearing was postponed until a later date. In the meantime Veroni is being held in the county jail.

NURSES CONVENE.

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—The Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada is having a conference here to-day. Dr. Malcolm T. MacEachern, superintendent of the Vancouver General Hospital; Hon. Wm. Roberts, minister of health for New Brunswick, and Dr. H. E. Young, provincial officers of health for British Columbia, will attend. Mrs. R. W. Redford, of Montreal, and Miss Muriel Galt, also of Montreal, are in the city for the meeting. Dr. Thomas Gibson is the presiding officer.

"A thorough examination by F. Steele, optometrist, will settle any question of eye trouble. Call at his office, 210 Dundas street." f

JOHN FLETCHER NEW KENT CLERK

Warden of County Succeeds the Late Jonas Gosnell

CHATHAM, Oct. 20.—At the meeting of Kent County Council, held this afternoon, Reeve John Fletcher, of Tilbury East, warden of the county, was appointed to succeed the late Jonas Gosnell as clerk of the County of Kent. The position carries with it a salary of $1,800 a year.

Mr. Fletcher's closest competitor for the position was Reeve Harry Smith, of Dover Township. There were a large number of applicants for the position, including many of the members of the County Council. The appointment will necessitate the election of another warden to serve the balance of the year.

Burglars were very active in this city last night. The grocery store of R. Jones in North Chatham was entered and a quantity of goods taken, including tobacco nad eatables. The grocery of F. Deloge on St. Clair street was also visited, but after breaking the glass in the front window the thieves were evidently scared away. The police believe the burglaries are the work of young boys.

BUT LITTLE INTEREST.

With the municipal election only a couple of weeks away there is very little interest in the question of candidates. As a result of this apathy Mayor Brisco is calling a public meeting to be held in the I. O. O. F. auditorium early next week to give the electors a chance to think over the situation and to induce good men to stand for election. The meeting is not being called in the interests of any particular candidate and a general invitation is being extended to the public to attend.

A Kent County woman, who signs herself "A Soldier's Mother," to-day advocated a scheme to erect a memorial to the Kent soldiers at Government Park. It is her suggestion that the matter should be taken up by the members of the I. O. D. E., the Women's institutes, the Women's Canadian clubs and the other women's organizations of the county.

NEED EXPERIMENTAL FARM.

Prof. R. A. Harcourt, of the chemistry department of the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, is in the city investigating and inspecting the experiments which were conducted by Kent farmers this year. He finds a very unsatisfactory state of affairs existing in Kent with regard to the experiment work, and many of the farmers have failed to co-operate in the manner promised. Prof. Harcourt, in an interview to-day, states his opinion that an experimental farm is badly needed in Kent County if the interests of the farming community are to be properly served.

The death took place in the public General Hospital this morning of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Wemp, widow of the late Nelson Wemp, who, before her second marriage, was the widow of the late William Morrish, who at one time managed a stationery store in the Sheldrick block. She had been ill for some time. She has no relatives in Chatham or vicinity. Mrs. J. M. Green, of Vancouver, is a niece and there are several nieces and nephews in the States. The funeral will be held from her late residence, 97 King street east, to-morrow afternoon to the Gospel Hall, St. Clair street. The remains will be laid at rest in the mausoleum.

FLEE FROM BURNING CAR.

High Contsable George Peters received an urgent message last night from George Peltier, who lives on the Jacob road in Dover, stating that a burning motor car had been abandoned on the road near his farm. The car was being driven along the road by a couple of men when it caught fire, the two occupants jumping out and running for the C. P. R. station at Prairie Siding, evidently bent upon catching a train.

Judging from the actions of the men in leaving the car it is strongly suspected that the car was a stolen one. The occupants caught a train and got away. The car was very badly burned before the flames were extinguished. Peters is now investigating.

WANT E. ORR.

The police of this district have been warned to be on the loockout for Emmerson Orr, a young man of Thamesville, who is wanted on a charge of stealing an automobile.

Last night a message was received from Thamesville, notifying the local police of the theft of a car in that place. Later on another message was received, stating that the car had been found in a ditch a short distance from Thamesville and that Orr was suspected as the man who took it. Orr has recently been released from prison, where he served a term for a car theft.

30,000 PEOPLE WATCH PLOWMEN

Woodstock Event Proves An Unprecedented Success.

THE PRIZE WINNERS

Oxford County Men Land Most of Big Money.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 20.—Never in all the history of Woodstock or Oxford County has there been such a gathering at any event as there was at the Ontario Plowing Match on the second day of the event to-day. Nor, according to Judge Lockie Wilson, managing director of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, and his fellow directors, has there ever been on the American continent a plowing match to equal it in attendance or in the number of entries. In spite of the heavy rain which fell in the morning and threatened to mar the proceedings, the crowds thronged from all points of the compass and, when the weather cleared, the road from Woodstock was packed tightly with automobiles and trucks, until, by three o'clock in the afternoon, close to 30,000 people were on the grounds. Six thousand automobiles filled the parking areas to overflowing and lined the roadsides for a mile in all directions, and the directors confessed that they had never, in their most sanguine expectations, been prepared for such a crowd.

ALL RECORDS BROKEN.

In entries, too, the number was phenominal. Til previous records went by the board, the entries in today's stubble plowing events alone being far in excess of the total entries at any previous two-day match. In all, including the tractor expert class there were 104 entries and the directors early in the day realized that the land they had laid out for the two days' plowing was quite inadequate for even one day, and a last minute search had to be made for more space for the events. In the second class, open to all who had not won a prize in the first class at any previous match, there were 32 entries, more than half of the contestants in this event being Oxford County plowmen.

In the opening events, the plowmen of Oxford distinguished themselves, securing the first and third prizes in class one, the grand sweepstakes for stubble plowing the second third, fourth and fifth prizes in class two, and the second and third prizes in the class for two-farrow plows drawn by three horses. The Renfrew trophy, emblematic of the Grand Championship of Ontario in stubble plowing, was won by W. O. Grenzebach, of Hickson, who also took the first prize in class one and the special prize for the best crown in the same class. He is also in the running for the new Royal Bank trophy, which goes to the best plowman in either sod or stubble.

GOVERNOR NOT PRESENT.

The large croyd was quite disappointed by the absence of Lieut.-Gov. Harry Cockshutt, who was to have officially opened the match at 1.30 o'clock. At the last moment a message was received from the Lieut.-Governor that owing to the serious illness of Mrs. Cockshutt, he would be unable to come. The opening ceremony was therefore dispensed with, and the plowing went ahead without delay.

Among the interesting features of the day's proceedings was a test plowing match in which one tractor drawing a two-furrow plow, competed against four horse-drawn single plows. The four teams were driven by four of the directors, all ex-champion plowmen these being Frank Weir, of Agincourt; Will C. Barrie, of Galt; James McLean, of Richmond Hill, and William Doherty. The four teams had to plow one acre between them while the tractor had to plow a like amount. Both time and workmanship counted and in both the horse plowmen won out, beating the tractor by twenty minutes in time and by a considerable percentage in workmanship.

OXEN A FEATURE.

Another interesting feature was an exhibition of plowing by a team of oxen drawing an old-fashioned wooden plow. The team was driven by William Fletcher, of Dereham, and the plow handles were held by A. J. McKay, of East Zorra. This event attracted the attention of thousands of spectators.

In the first class, which was open to all, there were 17 entires, and the following were the prize winners: 1, W. O. Grenzebach, Hickson; 2, E. Deadman, R. R. 1, Blair; 3, Jerry Stauffer, Bright; 4, Wilfred Timbers, Stouffville; 5, N. G. McLeod, R. R. 7, Galt. Special prize for best crown, W. O. Grenzebach, Hickson. This class was judged by Tom Shadlock, Agincourt.

CLASS 2.

In class 2, open to plowmen who had never won a prize in the first class in any previous provincial plowing match, there were 32 entries. The following were the prize-winners:

1, Robert Watson, Woodbridge; 2, Willard Bergie, Bright; 3, Joseph Fitzpatrick, Woodstock; 4, Davis Mitchell, Bright; 5, D. Lillico, Bright.

Special prize for best crown—Robert Watson, Woodbridge.

James McLean, Richmond Hill, and Francis Thompson, Echo Place, were the judges in this class.

Class 3 was an open class for boys under 17 years, and in it there were three entries. The prizes were allocated in the following order: 1, J. M. Heaslip, Port Hope, who won the special prize for the best crown; 2, Jack Moffat, Ancaster; 3, Stanley Biggs, West Flamboro, a son of the Hon. F. C. Biggs, Ontario's minister of public highways. Walter Patten, of Stroud, was the judge in this class.

BOYS COMPETE.

The fourth class was a class for Oxford boys under 16, and five competitors started in this contest. The prize-winners were: 1, Gilbert Barron, Woodstock; 2, George Milds, Norwich; 3, Joe Fallowfield, Ingersoll; 4, James Entwhistle, Woodstock; 5, Robert Childs, Ingersoll. Gilbert Barron also won the special prize for the best crown in this class. This class was judged by James McLean and Francis Thompson.

Class 5, for two-furrow plows, drawn by three horses, had only three entries, which were placed in the following order:

1, Leslie Vincent, Ayr, who also won the special prize for the best crown; 2, G. E. Hildreth, Vinemount; 3, B. P. Fraser, Woodstock. Frank Weir, of Agincourt, judged this clasis.

Class 6, for tractor-driven plows operated by bona fide farmers, had 26 contestants, and the prizes were won by the following:

1, C. W. Clubine, Oakbridge, Samson tractor; 2, Earnest C. McCuag, Walkerville, Samson tractor; 3, M. C. Campbell, Alvinston, Samson tractor; 4, Fred Yeomans, Agincourt, Case tractor; 5, Murray Tyndall, Seaforth, Imperial tractor. James Cameron, of Weston, judged the tractor plowing in this class.

A special class for experts in tractor plowing with a gold medal as the only prize brought out 20 entries. The medal was won by A. E. Pay, Niagara-on-the-Lake, driving a Samson tractor.

To-morrow is the sod plowing day, with the Cockshutt trophy as the big prize for the grand championship in sod plowing. Three ex-champions are on hand for the first class event, including Stanley Parker, of Smithville, the 1920 grand champion. With good weather an even larger crowd is expected to-day than was present yesterday.

In spite of the huge crowd and the large number of automobiles no serious mishap occurred, only a few minor collisions being recorded on the way back from the grounds in the evening when there was a complete tie-up of traffic for a distance of two miles.

The taxi service of Woodstock has been quite unequal to the occasion and a rush has been sent to outside points for to-morrow.

BRITAIN PARES HER NAVY DAWN

Reduction of 2,000 Ships Has Been Made Already.

MAKE REAL DISARMAMENT

Potent Argument For Empire At Washington Parley.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Copyright)—(Special Cable to The Free Press)—The British delegation goes to Washington prepared to show its attitude for limitation by policy as well as argument. The navy is her vital arm. The army means little to the people here compared with the fleet.

What has Britain been doing with her ships since the armistice?

Since the armistice 2,074 ships have been sold, 970 are offered for sale, and 89 were destroyed by sinking, being broken up or being given away as a gift.

How does her fleet stand at present in comparison with her position at the time of the armistice?

CUT IN HALF.

Here are the figures of the ships in full commission in November, 1918: Battleships, 61; battle cruisers, eight; cruisers, 36; light cruisers, 110; flotilla leaders, 28; destroyers, 467; air craft carriers, nine; monitors, 33; submarines, 497; mine layers, one; sloops, 125; patrol boats, 118.

The figures now are: Battleships, nine in commission and 13 in reserve; battle cruisers, four in commission and three in reserve; cruisers, four in reserve; light cruisers, 32 in commission and 19 in reserve; flotilla leaders, eight in commission and seven in reserve; destroyers, 64 in commission and 107 in reserve; air craft carriers, two in commission and two in reserve; monitors, six in reserve; submarines, 42 in commission andd 38 in reserve; mine layers, one in reserve; sloops, 20 in commission and two in reserve; patrol boats, 17 in reserve.

BILLS ARE LESS.

England's naval expenditure during 1918 and 1919 was 334,091,227 pounds sterling, while the estimates for 1921 and 1922 are 82,479,000 pounds sterling, which, at the present value of the pound, is equivalent to £34,500,000 in 1914. The wages of the officers and seamen in 1918 were £48,375,511; now they are £18,314,000. This despite the increases in rates of pay since the war of roughly 50 per cent.

GUELPH RIFLE RANGES ARE BEING IMPROVED

Cost to Be Borne by Department of Militia—Sixteen New Targets Being Erected.

GUELPH, Oct. 20.—Extensive improvements are to be made at the Guelph rifle ranges, and Major Barrie, of the militia department at Ottawa, is in the city making arrangements to start the work immediately. The cost of fixing up the ranges is to be borne by the department of militia and defense and when the contract is completed Guelph will have one of the finest ranges in the Dominion. Sixteen new targets will be erected, while the mounds will also be put in first-class shape, and in addition to this a comfortable cubhouse for the convenience of the riflemen will be erected on Sleeman's Flats. The work will be done by local veterans, several of whom have already been engaged by Major Beattie.

BELLA HAS CALF.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 20.—Bella Pontiac, the famous cow, owned by Mr. Thos. A. Barron, Cockshutt road, has just presented her owner with a fine heifer calf. Bella Pontiac has made Brant County famous by her one and two-year records in butter production. Mr. Barron expects her to make a greater record than ever this year.

GET-ACQUAINTED SOCIAL

EXETER, Oct. 20.—An at home was held in the Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening for the purpose of making acquaintances of old and new members. During the past year many new families have been added, which materially strengthens the congregation. Lunch was served and a general social evening was spent. Several vocal and instrumental selections were rendered and addresses of welcome made by the pastor, Rev. J. Foote. H. Strang, a member of session, gave a historical outline of the congregation since its beginning, which proved of interest.

Technical School Team Defeat Woodstock College

Another Middlesex-Oxford Rugby Union Game Is Staged Here, Ending in First Victory for Locals by 5 to 2

MIDDLESEX-OXFORD UNION.

London C. I.	2	0	53	5
Woodstock College	1	1	13	8
London Technical	1	2	6	38
Woodstock C. I.	0	1	8	28

Next game—Woodstock College at London Collegiate.

The London Technical Institute football team tasted victory for the first time this season in the Middlesex-Oxford Rugby Union yesterday afternoon at Queen's Park, defeating the Woodstock College twelve by 5 to 2 in a keenly-contested game.

The dense work on both teams excelled the respective attacks and for that reason the score was kept down, but Technical kept the play confined to Woodstock territory much more than the College was found in the Techs. A strong, damp wind, often mingled with rain, swept across the field, making it unpleasant for the handful of spectators.

The first period failed to produce a score for either team, but Technical had worked the ball close to the College goal line just before the first quarter ended and from that advantage managed to register two points, one on a rouge and the other on a deadline kick. This was resorted to by the Techs when their plunges were smothered on every attempt when within striking distance.

SINGLE POINT EACH TIME.

Another kick out of touch behind the goal line gave Techs the only point scored in the third period, and with the wind on their backs for the last quarter kicking tactics were resorted time and again. Kennedy's first two punts were knocked down and disaster stared the locals in the face, but the line held the College from crossing. Another loose ball, however, went for a safety touch for the College and the Techs were lucky in getting out of the situation so easily. That made the score 3 to 2 and some high punts gave the Techs two more points before the close of the game.

McKenough was the best man on the wing for the Techs, while Loveless, Birch and the Kennedy boys were also good.

Merritt played the most brilliant game for the visitors. The teams:

Woodstock College — Cohen, flying wing; Coleman, Furlonger, Harper, halves; Merritt, quarter; McArthur, center; Riddiford, Van Sickle, insides; Lawrence, Ryan, middles; Barton, Jones, outsides; Babb, Elliott, spares.

London Technical — Spence, flying wing; Appleyard, Kennedy, Loveless, halves; Birch, quarter; Mills, center; Northcott, Barnard, insides; Gardner, McKenough, middles; Upthegrove, Kennedy, outsides; Goodman, Hadden, Thomas, Gunther, Dunlevy, Casselman and Adams, spares.

Referee—W. Mace, Western University.

A CORRECTION.

MOUNT BRYDGES, Oct. 20.—Miss Bernice Wilson won the individual championship at the Continuation School field day sports, and not Miss Gertrude Hooper, who was second best.

McCutcheon Cup Semi-Final Games On To-Morrow

Council Tosses Out G.T.R. Protest Against Broomhead, of the W.O.R. Eleven

Secretary Sir,, of the London and District Football Association, announced the draw for to-morrow's McCutcheon cup semi-finals as follows:

W. O. R. vs. R. C. R. at Carling Heights at 2.30 p. m., with Referee Devlin.

Ontario Hospital vs. Public Utilities at Ontario Hospital grounds at 2.30 p. m., with Charles Hollens as referee.

The Grand Trunk's protest of Player Broomhead, with the W. O. R., was not upheld by the council, as the player in question was signed up and properly transferred.

TRANSFER RULES.

After several weeks of discussion the rules, in compliance with which a soccer player may be transferred from one club to another have been finally drafted. They deal fully with any difficulties which might arise within the jurisdiction of the Dominion, Provincial or District Football associations. They are as follows:

(1) A player who has signed the official registration form of his Provincial Association, and has been duly registered with the secretary of such Provincial Association, by the club desiring his services for the current season, shall not be allowed to transfer his services to any other club, unless he shall first have applied for and been granted permission to transfer by the executive committee of the club with which he is already registered. Such permission shall be in writing, duly signed by the secretary and president, or chairman of the executive committee, and when placed in the hands of the secretary of his Provincial Association, shall entitle the player to be transferred to any affiliated club as hereby provided.

(2) A player shall be entitled to the benefits of the transfer law as follows:

(a) One transfer only during the current season, within the jurisdiction of the District Association;

(b) One transfer within the jurdisdiction of the Provincial Association;

(c) One transfer with the jurisdiction of the Dominion Association, except that, in the event of a player having been transferred under clause "a" and "b" finding it necessary to return to the jurisdiction under which he was originally registered, shall be allowed to transfer his services to the club with which he was originally registered, for the balance of the season.

(3) Notice of all transfers granted as hereby provided, shall be immediately sent to the player, club, District Association and Dominion Association secretary, and, except in the Connaught cup competition or any series considered as the qualifying stage of such competition, and any other cup competition, in which he has already competed, the player transferred shall be eligible to play in all games for the club to which the transfer has been granted, by the production of the transfer certificate duly signed by the secretary of the Provincial Association concerned.

(4) All transfers shall be subject to a charge of $2, due and payable to the Secretary of the Provincial Association granting the transfer, before the transfer can be completed. The provincial secretary shall forward a fee of $1 to the secretary of the Dominion Association with each notice of transfer.

(5) A player is entitled to his transfer, as hereby provided, up to and including the date set by the District, Provincial or Dominion associations for each competition. It cannot be withheld except in case of insubordination or indebtedness to the club holding his registration, and such refusal to grant an application for transfer must be upheld by a two-thirds majority vote of the executive committee of the club, notice of which shall immediately be forwarded to the secretary of the Provincial Association concerned.

(6) Any club which, through its responsible officers or representatives, attempts to induce a registered player of any other club under the jurisdiction of this association to leave his club before the end of the current season, without first giving seven days' notice of such intention to the club with which the player is registered, shall be deemed to have committed an offense, and shall be dealt with by the association concerned.

PIRATES WILL DEPEND ON MILLERS FOR HELP

The Pittsburg Club will depend a bit on Minneapolis in its rebuilding plans for next year. The Pirates have an option on the Millers as part of their deal sending Bill McKechnie to Minneapolis. The selection, it seems, has not yet been made. The best bet on the Millers, say the critics, is Dick Wade, who played for Kitchener in the M.-O. League in 1919.

Western and Collegiate Teams Drill In Rain

Beneficial Signal Practice, However, Sums Up Good Thursday Workout Did; Toronto Varsity and Woodstock College Here To-Morrow in Twin Bill at Tecumseh Park

Rain heaved the proverbial monkey wrench into the football practice that Coaches Reid and Taylor had planned for the Western U. and London Collegiate squads last evening at Tecumseh park. The grounds were soggy and wet, and the ball was in good condition to handle. A majority of the regulars failed to report with their uniforms on account of the weather, and in all about the best that could be said about the drill was that a good signal practice was held.

Western U. will knuckle down and play a stiff defensive game against Toronto Varsity to-morrow afternoon, and await the opportunity to take the offensive, and it is not likely that the team will be the butt of a big score to expect the worst. St. Mikes are reported to be a stronger team, and with all the breaks going their way only scored 15 points.

THAT INTERFERENCE RULE.

It will be interesting to see how the interference rule will be lived up to in the event that a Toronto referee is assigned to the handling of the Western-Varsity tilt. It is safe to say that the game as it is being played all over is an infraction of the three-yard interference rule. No player can run ahead of the ball carrier for more than three yards, but when in motion nine feet are easily covered in two steps, and more often the interference is allowed for six yards instead of the rule. Getting down to an effort to live up to the rule would practically mean that the linesmen can only make holes in the opposing line and wait for the ball carrier to make his gain and then follow the play.

TAYLOR PLUNGES LEFT WING.

The Collegiate team will be plunged up on the left wing for their game against Woodstock College to-morrow afternoon.

This game will begin at 1.30 p.m. sharp and the early start will enable the interscholastic game to use 90 minutes as the Western-Varsity battle will start at 3.

The Woodstock College twelve should give the collegiate team a good workout. Coach Taylor expects to try out several sorts of plays that will be used against the St. Thomas Collegiate when it plays its return game on Tuesday. The Collegiate will rush things and make every effort to tune up their scoring machine.

ONLY NEED ENCOURAGEMENT.

The enthusiasm displayed over rugby football in this city by the players on the interscholastic teams and the Askin Street Elks provides plenty of argument for the followers of the autumnal pastime to get behind the boys.

A big following should present itself to-morrow afternoon, when a double-header is the attraction at Tecumseh Park.

SPORT COMMENT

King George, who is an enthusiastic yachtsman, has announced that he cannot afford to fit out his racing schooner Britannia next season. The old Britannia is a bit too large for the king to do his own caulking, painting and spar scraping, so she will have to stay on the ways.

The system of bonusing baseball players, by which Jack Dunn has managed to keep his Baltimore team intact for three years, has had its usual result. There is dissatisfaction and lack of harmony in the team, which probably had its effect in the recent "little world's series. Usually about this time of the year Dunn has his men signed up, but Harry Frank, Tommy Thomas and Wade Lefler have sent back their contracts unsigned. Dunn said these players had been tendered the same contracts for 1922 as they had during the season just closed. Dunn added that he felt all of these players had been treated fairly this year and that they were satisfied, and that none deserved any increase in salary due to any particular worth on his part.

They certainly have gone daffy down East on those fishing schooner races—and well they might, for these are real races. The committee in charge is showing its backbone by ruling out anything except a bona fide honest to Mike fishing schooner and fishermen. It is the spirit of the rule they enforce, not the letter of the rule. First they told the U.S. interests plainly that the Mayower, a racing schooner built for racing purposes and not for the fishing trade, would not do, and the U.S. committee accepted the ruling with even temper. They knew the cup committee was right. Canada had an entry, too, that would not have been acceptable had she won the Nova Scotia championship. She was the Canadia, o Shelbourne. She did not win, so there was no necessity to rule her out. The owner of Mayower and Canadia are now negotiating for a race of their own for a purse and side wager. Meanwhile the U.S. entry, the Gloucesterman Elsie, with Captain Marty Walsh, a Canadian, at the helm, is in Halifax after logging 356 miles from her home port in 46 hours. She was carrying everything in a 25-knot breeze, when she parted a back stay and had to dowse her sty-sail. Elsie is in a bit of a jam over two of her racing crew who, it is said, cannot qualify as real fishermen. The committee will probably order them replaced by real "Bankers". The race between Elsie, the U.S. defending craft, and Bluenose, the Canadian challenger, will start Saturday.

Hamilton Herald Road Race On Monday, Nov. 7

General and Smoke Will Be Hard Men to Beat This Year in the Nineteen Miles

Entry blanks have arrived at the sporting department of The Free Press for the annual 19-mile road race of the Hamilton Herald. If any of the distance runners in Western Ontario and London wish any, the sheets can be had for the asking.

The race will be run on Monday, November 7, at 9 a. m. The measured distance of the route is 19 miles and 168 yards.

Jimmy Moorecroft, of Toronto, has an idea that he can win this event, but he will be compelled to outfoot Smoke, of Peterboro, and Norman General, of Brantford.

ROCKY KANSAS AND TENDLER BOX TO-NIGHT

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, and Rocky Kansas, of Buffalo, were expected to arrive here to-day to put finishing touches on training for their 15-round bout to-morrow night in Madison Square Garden. Both fighters are reported to be in excellent condition and down to the 135-pound weight at which they were contracted to weigh in at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Tendler has been established a two-to-one favorite, and is quoted as predicting victory by a knockout within half the scheduled length of the fight.

Although Tendler has had little experience in bouts of more than 10 rounds, he was declared to be confident he could travel the full 15 without discomfort if he found it necessary. Kansas' supporters declared emphatically it would be necessary, but asserted Tendler could not do it.

STRATFORD TO PLAY TORONTO FINALISTS IN GUELPH SATURDAY

STRATFORD, Oct. 20.—A meeting of the O.B.A.A. executive was held on Wednesday afternoon in Toronto, and Mr. E. Ellis, of the "Y", phoned from Toronto this morning, saying Stratford and Toronto Juniors must play a sudden death game in Guelph on Saturday afternoon. Unless M. Ellis can do something to have home and home games arranged, the decision arrived at on Wednesday will stand—that is for a sudden death game in Guelph on Saturday.

Weather cloudy; track fast.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 20.—The "short ship" circuit here is hanging up one new record anyhow, five postponements thus far, owing to rain.

To-day's program goes over to Friday. This afternoon the track looked as though it will be fast if no more rain falls. The card is tip top, including the 2.18 and 2.24 trot, each with eight-to-one starters, and the 2.18 pace, with seven. Racing is to continue through Saturday, which ends the season in Michigan.

Tommy Murphy Is Injured In Spill

Pacer Peter Henley and Driver Turn Complete Somersault on Atlanta Track

ATLANTA, Oct. 20.—Tommy Murphy, one of the leading drivers of the Grand Circuit, was injured here to-day when Peter Henley, of the Murphy stables, stumbled and fell in the 2.07 pace. The sulky shafts seemed to stick in the ground and the horse and driver turned a somersault, Murphy hurtling over the horse's head and landing crumpled up on his shoulders. It was said to-night that Murphy was badly bruised and suffering from shock, but not seriously hurt. Summaries:

Horse Show Last Sunday At Roslyn

Five Thousand Attend and Many Openly Opposed the Proposed Reform Element

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The sentiment which has for some time been manifest in favor of a more liberal Sunday in the Unterests of a more liberal Sunday in the United States, and which has hitherto shown itself in golf and baseball principally, received fresh impetus through the open air horse show at the farm of Samuel Willetts, near Roslyn, L.I., last Sunday.

It was the first affair of its kind given on Sunday in the memory of those conversant with such gatherings in this country. Among the participants were men and women who are active in church matters in the fashionable region in which the show was held. It was the nearest approach to a continental Sunday that this country has ever knoyn. That it was a popular innovation was attested by the presence of more than 5,000 persons, who came from all over the territory about Wheatley Hills, and from Greater New York, to pay their tribute to the horse.

One of those most conspicuous in the promotion of the show was that good sportsman, Major Thomas Hitchcock, who was prominent in the aviation arm of the service during the recent war, and whose son and namesake achieved distinction by his exploits in the French and American Aviation Corps.

"There were those in the throng," said Major Hitchcock yesterday, "who saw in the quality and numbers of the gathering a protest against the constant encroachment by the reform element upon the liberties of the people. By many it was interpreted as a challange to those who seek the passage of State and Federal Laws so restrictive in their application, that every vistage of pleasure would be taken out of the Sabbath instead of having it assume somewhat the same quality as on the Continent, where enjoyment in the open follows upon the fulfillment of the obligations imposed by religion.

WANT ANTI-LEGISLATION.

"The attitude of the reform organization which is endavoring to enact a Federal law prohibiting the passage through the mails of any newspaper carrying betting information as expressed in a recent interview in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is proof that determined efforts are under way to restrict the freedom of the press as well as the liberties of the people. No other interpretation can be placed upon the announcement in which the following language is employed:

"We are well financed. Our lobby at Washington yill be an effective and experienced one. We shall work in every congressional district in every state. We shall agitate and spread propaganda, and cause voters to write unceasingly to their representatives in Congress until no Congressmon, who cares to stay in Congress, will dare to vote for our measures. These are the methods used by the Anti-Saloon League, and they were effective."

"We propose to pass no Blue Laws. There are no such things as Blue Laws—never were. And we don't propose to legislate people into church. In other words we shall try to close the baseball parks, the golf links, motion pictures, bathing beaches, and so on. We shall fight all amusements where an admission fee is charged. We shall oppose golf, tennis, baseball, football and other sports, even if purely amateur and void of financial cost to those watching or taking part, because they set bad examples for children who might otherwise be content to go to Sunday School. We shall seek to restrict the sale of gasoline for pleasure automobiles, and urge other measures that will stop Sunday autofobiling and joy riding. This will not bring back the old-fashioned horse and bugsy, because we believe that the Lord's Day should be a day of rest for man and beast. Excursion steamer rides on Sunday will be opposed by us, on the ground that they are unnecessary to the moral welfare of the Christian American."

FOURTH FORM AT HIGH FOR CAYUGA WINS

CAYUGA, Oct. 20.—The Cayuga High School field of sports drew a goodly crowd to the Agricultural Park on Tuesday afternoon, despite the gale and occasional showers.

The 41 contests were conducted, each being well contested. Boys and girls entered heartily into the sports, the only prizes being points for the various forms. It was thought at first that the first form would win, but the fourth came first and is the owner of the shield for sports. The plucky little juniors, the first form, came second, the second came third and the third last. The bicycle races, both by girls and boys, and the mile race and high jumping were well worth while.

Argos Take No Chances; Workout Hard In Mud

Hamilton Has Little Hope of Stopping Oarsmen; Queens Meets McGill

TORONTO, Oct. 20.—Argos are moral certainties at Hamilton Saturday, but they are not taking any chances on overconfidence. They had 28 men in uniform last evening, including Concher and Batstone. The keenness of these two may be grasped when it is considered that they waited until rain cancelled their baseball game in the afternoon and then hustled out to rugby practice in the mud.

The men plowed through the mud, and while not exactly agreeable, it makes for condition, and what is more, is a sure guard against anything like stafing on the job in anticipation of a win anyway.

HAMILTON IDEA.

Hamilton has not a great deal of hope of stopping the Oarsmen at Hamilton Saturday. The Spectator says: "That Saturday's game is going to establish a record for attendance is evident by the great enthusiasm being shown. Opinion here is that Argos will win, but this fact doesn't prevent the fans from showing interest. They are all eager to see this great Argo "machine," particularly Lionel Conacher, the most-talked-of man playing rugby."

OTTAWA VIEWS.

Ottawa pins its faith to its own team, and has little in Hamilton. The Journal says:

"Ottawas bite off an easy portion of the schedule this week, and are going to do a lot of spiritual rooting for Tigers. The latter believe that they can defeat Argos, but they are alone in this belief. Ottawas think that it up to them to sidetrack the Waterloos here and at home, and despite the fact that the team has shown little so far, think that they are capable of doing it."

PARKDALE LOAFING.

Parkdale leaders reiterated their complaint that their O. R. F. U. seniors are loafing off the job. Only 11 of their men turned out last night. Breen, Murray, Brophy and Carroll were prevented by injuries and Lynchis out of town, but most of the other absentees offered no excuse. Carrol has developed water on the knee and may be out for the season.

QUEEN'S AND McGILL.

Says Coach George Awrey, of Queen's:

"I believe our back division is superior to that of McGill and with a dry field will not only outkick but outrun them, as I feel that in Harding, Leadley and Campbell we have a back line which equals any other in the country. At quarter-back we have a brainier man. The wing lines appear to be about even, although I believe our line is coming and is gaining more confidence each day.

"Condition is another thing which will have a great bearing on Saturday's game, and I feel that our boys are in as good shape as any team in the country. All the cripples are back on the job, and with McGill just recovering from a hard game we will have a little edge on them in physical condition."

SAY THAT "BLUE NOSE" NOT REAL "BANKER"

New York Herald Charges Canadian Boat More Yacht Than Fisherman.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The Herald this morning in an editorial on the international fishermen's trophy race, charges that the Blue Nose was "especially designed in the hope that she could win back to Canada the trophy which Captain Marty Welch won with the Gloucester Schooner Esperanto last November."

The paper declares that there is an essential difference between the two boats, which are to race on Saturday, saying the Elsie "was built solely with a view to commercial deep sea fishing." It also calls attention to the difference of 20 years in age between the two vessels. Discussing the alleged racing construction of the Canadian boat, The Herald says: "Blue Nose comes within four feet of the overall length set by the terms of the trophy deed of gift, which is 145 feet. Naturally she ought to have more power than Elsie, which is only 106.5 feet over all, with a beam of 25 feet, as against Blue Nose's 27 feet beam. If a line could be had on the speed of the two contestants, based on the respective elimination races, Blue Nose would appear to be much the faster craft, for she beat her nearest contender by 16 minutes and 22 seconds in the deciding race on October 17. In the elimination race off Cape Ann on October 13 Elsie beat the second boat by 10 minutes and 22 seconds. In each case the course was 40 miles around.

WAGE REDUCTION IN DOMINION TEXTILES

Cut of 15 Per Cent. To Take Effect In All Canadian Plants.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 21. — The reduction of 15 per cent. in wages, effective next Monday, applicable to employees of the Dominion Textile Company, Limited, which at first was announced at applying only to plants in Montreal and district, is now stated to extend to all plants in the Dominion. Around 6,500 employees will be affected.

The company makes the statement that it is probably the last of the great cotton manufacturies either in Canada, the United States or Great Britain to make a downward revision in wages and points out that during the period of high wages the plants were everywhere working on full time, a condition which has not prevailed in many other establishments.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE IN ELGIN RETIRES

AYLMER, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter).—Dr. Colin Sinclair has, it is announced here to-day, officially decided to drop out of the federal campaign. His name was placed before the convention of Liberals a week ago as nominee for East Elgin. He asked for ten days in which to think the matter over and has now definitely retired. An executive meeting of the Liberals is to be held next Friday night at Aylmer and definite action will then be taken immediately.

The Liberals will have an extremely difficult task selecting a man in Aylmer as the party has lost considerable support in the past few years. In the last two elections the Liberal candidate, after a strenuous campaign, was literally "swamped," especially in the by-election, when he came out third in the list. It is quite likely that the field will be left to the U.F.O. and National Liberal and Conservative candidates. The Liberals would then give their support to J. L. Stansell, N.L.C. nominee.

GEO. A. ELLIOTT IN W. MIDDLESEX

Retired Farmer Chosen As Government Candidate.

OUT STRONG FOR MEIGHEN

Three-Cornered Battle Now In West Middlesex Riding.

STRATHROY, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Reporter)—George Elliott, retired farmer, of this town, was chosen as the National Liberal and Conservative candidate for the riding of West Middlesex at an enthusiastic and largely attended convention held in the Lyceum Theater this afternoon. There were some 13 men proposed, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Elliott, who on two former occasions has been the Conservative candidate.

James C. Hodgins, of Brampton, editor of The Onlooker, was the chief speaker at the meeting, and his clear-cut utterances on the issues which are before the people of Canada at the present time were received with acclaim by the throng of delegates, including many farmers from all parts of the riding. In accepting the nomination, which was made unanimous, Mr. Elliott spoke briefly, and at the conclusion of his remarks he was given three cheers and a tiger.

READY FOR FRAY.

He admitted that the fight was going to be a hard one, and pointed out that for years it had been a Liberal stronghold. He was ready again to fight for the great issues which were at stake in the coming election, and declared that they were of greater magnitude than almost ever before. Speaking of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, the speaker declared he was a man of which every Canadian might be proud. He was straining his every effort for Canada's welfare, and declared emphatically that he knew the needs of the farmers better than the leader of the Farmers' party, T. A. Crerar. His policy was one which for 40 years had assured to all classes of Canada continued prosperity. Canada, under this policy, had reached such heights that she was being looked on with envy by other nations of the world.

Touching on his own acceptance of the nomination, Mr. Elliott declared that one reason why he was ready to get out and fight a hard fight was because he knew that the leader of the Government, Premier Meighen, wanted a candidate in every constituency in the country. In connection with the tariff the nominee warned the farmers to be very careful at this time how they voted. He told them to beware of the green foreign pastures which were being held up to them, as he was certain they were not as green as those at home.

MR. HODGINS.

"It is well to remember that the United States has gone through those farmer movements again and again," declared James C. Hodgins, in his opening remarks. "While Crerar was howling free trade there was a meeting of the Grange of the United States, at Boston, and at this meeting representatives from all parts of the country petitioned the Government for protection. They declared their prosperity was wrapped up with the prosperity of industry. Don't forget that the future prosperity of Canada will be in the balance at the coming election."

The speaker reminded his audience that if Canada were to enter upon a policy of free trade she would be the only country in the world with free trade. It was no longer possible to talk of a free trade England. She had placed a duty of 33 per cent. on her key industries, and had given the Board of Commerce the power to add to the list where there was shown to be unfair foreign competition.

"Are we going to throw down the barriers and invite the world in to exploit this country?" the speaker asked. "We should be pro-Canadian. Our fathers did not make this wonderful country that we might pass it over to the United States."

CRERAR EVADES.

If men would only stop and think, the speaker pointed out, they would not be charmed by the fallacies being preached by J. J. Morrison and his ilk. He declared that when Mr. Crerar had spoken at Brampton he had through a newspaper asked him some searching questions and Mr. Crerar had only attempted to answer one of these, and this one very foolishly. He declared that he had no objection to the farmers running for Parliament, but he did not believe that the farmers, any more than the labor men, had a right to seek political domination for any one class. The Farmers' party had gone through the country sowing seeds of hate between the city and the country. The cities could not live without the farmer, but neither could the farmer live without the city.

The speaker pointed out that the farmers dealt in perishable goods and that they sold 85 per cent. of their products to the cities and towns. Those cities and towns had been built by the farmers and free trade would destroy them overnight.

The following executive was elected by the delegates to the convention: President, J. R. Stevenson, Strathroy; first vice-president, Mrs. Duncan Harvey, Strathroy; second vice-president, Mrs. Ed. Degex, Kerwood; secretary-treasurer, Fred Lockhart, Parkhill.

George Elliott, who will contest the riding against a Farmer candidate and probably a Liberal, was nominated by P. A. Gahan and Irwin Barnes. The others nominated were: W. H. Bartram, Parkhill; ex-Reeve, A. J. Wright, Glencoe; Dr. W. H. Woods, Mount Brydges; Ed. Degex, Metcalfe; J. W. Cameron, Strathroy; George Lewis, Strathroy; Mrs. Duncan Harvey, Strathroy; R. J. Stevenson, Strathroy; William Toohill, Napier; Dr. F. J. Bateman, Strathroy; Fred Laughton; Parkhill.

After Major Ulens explained the voters' list and registration, J. R. Stevenson called for cheers for Premier Meighen, and the candidate, George Elliott, and they were given with real enthusiasm.

TO BE GIVEN A BATH.

MITCHELL, Oct. 20.—Mitchell can boast of some large maple leaves. One was plucked on the other day on St. David's street south which measured 10½ inches one way and eight inches the other, exclusive of the stem.

STRATFORD IS READY TO RECEIVE PREMIER

STRATFORD, Oct. 20.—Arrangements are now complete for the visit of the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to Stratford on Friday evening. Premier Meighen is to speak in St. Marys on Friday afternoon, and is expected to arrive in the city from the Stone Town by the 6.05 train from London. It is not unlikely Mayor Gregory and members of the City Council will meet the Premier at the station and extend to him a civic welcome. Supporters of the premier will also be present at the station to greet him and to welcome him to the city. It is understood that he is to be the guest of Mrs. Andrew Johnston, 236 Church street, at dinner.

The meeting itself has been timed to begin at 8 o'clock, and recognizing that the desire of the people is to hear Premier Meighen, the speakers of the evening will be limited to three in number, H. B. Morphy, K.C., National Liberal and Conservative candidate, Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, and Premier Meighen. It is altogether likely the speakers will appear in the order named.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 20.—It is stated here that a Dominion-wide campaign for the collection of campaign funds will be undertaken by the National Progressive party, the money to be used for advertising the platform of the party and for sending speakers throughout the country.

from Detroit, and that they were looking for work. They were remanded until Monday, and during the interval they will receive a bath and the immigration authorities will look into their case. They were Thomas Eichbricht and Alfred McCarey.

FUNERAL OF JOHN WILSON

FLORENCE, Oct. 20.—John Wilson, a life-long resident of this community, passed away at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. L. Badgley, at Shetland on Monday. The funeral was conducted yesterday afternoon by Rev. P. H. Streeter, rector of St. Matthew's Church Florence, assisted by the pastor of the Methodist church, Rev. G. A. Barnard. Interment was made in St. John's Cemetery, Aughrin. The deceased was 80 years of age and is survived by a brother and one son and two daughters.

BOYS' WORK DISCUSSED.

MOUNT FOREST, Oct. 20.—At a meeting held in the Empress Hotel last night, for the purpose of discussing boys' work, about 30 men engaged in Sunday school work were present. C. F. Plewman addressed the gathering. Mr. Plewman has had many years' experience in Winnipeg and Toronto and is now secretary of the boys' work board, affiliated with the Religious Education Council of Canada, in which the Anglican, Methodist, Baptist, Congregational and Presbyterian churches are united for the furtherance of the moral and spiritual welfare of youth.

The local ministers, R. A. Nelson, J. J. Cook and F. E. Hendershott, also spoke on the subject.

WILL MAKE FINE LAND FOR ARABS

Great Britain Doing Good Work In Mesopotamia.

CURZON IS CONFIDENT

Motherland, It Is Believed, Will Win Through.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—The British mandate for Mesopotamia has been the subject for twofold criticism. The economists of England have seized on the heavy but absolutely necessary expenditure incurred by this country as an outstanding text for homilies on "anti-waste," that uneuphonious phrase which has gained such notoriety recently. The external criticism asserts that Britain is, for her own selfish ends, ignoring the important clause in the mandate, which lays down that "the mandatory must see that there is no discrimination against nationals of any state member of the League of Nations."

This latter allegation should have been effectively disposed of by the declaration on the subject by Lord Curzon, secretary of state for foreign affairs. In spite of his important statement, however, the atmosphere of suspicion has been only allayed, but not entirely dissipated. Lord Curzon, speaking on behalf of his majesty's Government, said: "We are glad to find ourselves in general agreement with the contention of the United States Government that the world's oil resources should be thrown open for development without reference to nationality."

SINCERE TRUSTEESHIP.

The territory is held in sincere trusteeship by the British on behalf of the new Arab nation, which will, in the fullness of time, assume a status of complete independence. Mesopotamia is being governed in strict accordance with article 22 of the covenant of the League of Nations and all instructions issued in this connection by the mandatory are imbued with the intention loyally to adhere to the tenets of the league. All the natural resources of the state have carefully been preserved, so that when the Arab Government assumes direction they will not be handicapped by any restrictions or contracts made, or entered into, by the mandatory power.

This especially refers to the valuable oil deposits at Mosul and Irak and the only oil well sunk has been for military purposes and at the expense of the army. In the same way, and for the same purpose, a small refinery has been started to deal with the oil from the Persian oil fields. It is quite a true statement to say that England has not sought for any oil or other monopoly for herself or her nationals and the rights which Britons had obtained in the country remain exactly as they were before the war.

BRITAIN'S SINCERITY.

There are many other indications of the sincerity of Britain in holding the country in trust for the Arabs, for to every possible post of authority, dignity and importance Arabs are being appointed, and English political officers in the towns are being withdrawn and replaced by Arabs. The courts are also staffed by the same race, and under the British administration the number of primary and secondary schools has been greatly increased. In these schools the national language is conscientiously taught and English has only been introduced into the country when it is actually needed. Another excellent feature of the happy results of British administration is that there are now about 100 municipalities at work and these bodies are performing valuable public duties, including the starting of electric lighting, water supply, flour mills and other important enterprises.

The task intrusted to Britain, and which she is so unselfishly and efficiently carrying out, is a most difficult one, for the Arabs are a turbulent race. Although of an independent tendency these people have been forced to bow to a foreign yoke for a thousand years and are, therefore, at the present, far from being prepared for responsible government. The necessary preparation and training is being supplied by England, who, with her centuries of experience is successful colonizing, is particularly adapted for the task. Under the old Turk there was confusion and the Arabs are divided among themselves by religion and tribal differences. In these difficult circumstances whatever of progress has been made by the Arabs in the direction of settled and well-ordered government must be laid to the credit of Great Britain, and the present and future hope of the country lies in the temporary, uninterrupted policy of the British in restoring order out of chaos, and inculcating into the restless Arabs the priceless advantages of a strong and settled Government.

A LOFTY MISSION.

Time alone will tell if the British administration will be successful in placing on a firm and lasting basis "the government of the people, for the people and by the people" in Mesopotamia, but the indications are that the present regime, in the absence of any untoward events, will succeed in the lofty mission to which it is committed.

In connection with the system of mandates it is interesting to recall that this trustee method of ruling native communities, who were not sufficiently advanced to rule themselves, dates back to the British South Africa Act, 1909. In a schedule to that act the transfer to the Union by the Imperial Governments of the native territories of Basutoland, Bechuanaland and Swaziland is specially provided for, and the terms of the "mandate" specified.

It is laid down that these territories cannot be alienated and the revenues of each are to be disbursed for and on behalf of the territory. Recognition was accorded of native customs, and the people were not to be restrained from intercourse with the remainder of South Africa and provision was made for the establishment of a judicial system, with right of appeal to the King-in-council.

THE BRITISH MODEL.

In this way the British model for the governance and protection of native peoples may have been utilized by the peace conference for the administration of the vast territories surrendered by the late enemies of the allied and associated powers.

In regard to the resources of Mesopotamia, it may be pointed out that the country has great latent riches, the most important being the oil deposits, as the whole territory is petroliferous. Another export industry is cotton and a first shipment of this valuable product, amounting to 90 bales, recently left Bagdad. Rice, too, when the cultivation is developed, should prove an important asset to the trade of the country.

With the development of irrigation from the Tigris and Euphrates, on the lines of the Nile and Colorado, Mesopotamia may once again supply the world with grain.

In spite of carping criticism at home and abroad in regard to the mandate for Mesopotamia, there is little doubt but that England, developing the excellent start which has been made, will win through and deliver to the Arabs, when the time is ripe, a well-administered country in full-going order.

OLYMPIC'S COMMANDER GETS NEW LEVIATHAN

Sir Bertram Hayes to Command New Majestic, World's Largest Ship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Sir Bertram Hayes, captain of the White Star liner Olympic, has been selected to command the Majestic, the world's largest ship, which will enter the company's Transatlantic service early next year. He has followed the sea for 41 years and was knighted for his services in commanding the Olympic as a troop transport in the war. He formerly commanded the Adriatic.

Capt. A. E. Shambleton, now commanding the Adriatic, will succeed Sir Bertram on the Olympic. Capt. F. B. Howarth, of the Baltic, also has been promoted to command the line's new 35,000 ton liner Homeric, nearing completion.

DROUGHT CAUSES MUCH TROUBLE IN VERMONT

WESTFIELD, Vt., Oct. 20.—Weather conditions unprecedented within the memory of the oldest inhabitant have prevailed in this border country for several weeks. Lack of rain has caused brooks to dry up, and in the towns of North Troy, Newport, Barton and Coventry and Stanstead, across the Canadian line, use of electric power has been abandoned because of the water shortage. September passed without frost.

The drought has effected the trees, and the vari-colored autumn leaves have withered on the branches. Squirrels, lacking their usual supply of maple seeds, hang about the houses, and whenever a door is opened scamper inside for food.

In several towns the water supply has become so low that it has been condemned for drinking purposes, and firemen are obliged to depend upon the lakes or ponds when called upon to fight fires.

CONCILIATION BOARD HOLDS FUTILE SESSION

MONTREAL, Oct. 20.—The first session of the conciliation board under the Lemieux Act, to investigate the protests of the employees of the Grand Trunk Railway over the 12½ per cent. reduction in wages, terminated yesterday without result, mainly owing to the fact that only one of the railway brotherhoods was represented.

This board is separate from the one which recently deliberated here under the chairmanship of Mr. Justice MacLennan. It was appointed at the request of the Grand Trunk Railway Company's clerks, station employees, roundhouse men and shop laborers.

IN BUSINESS LONG TIME

EXETER, Oct. 20.—Peter Frayne, who has been in business here for the past 44 years, has disposed of his stock to Maurice Quance, who takes possession on Monday. There are only two other men in Exeter now actively engaged in business who have been continuously so for a greater length of time. Dr. Browning, the medical officer of health, and James Dignan, blacksmith. Mr. Frayne has been a member of the school board for 18 years and for 17 years he was superintendent of the James Street Sunday school.

SHIPPING SUGAR BEETS.

HENSALL, Oct. 20.—Sugar beets are constantly being shipped from here, the mild weather proving very favorable and thus far good accommodation has been secured from the railway, but the shipments will not be as large as that of former years. The committees in charge of the sports for the High School field day are getting up good prizes and making every effort to make a success of it Friday on the Hensall Park grounds.

MEMORIAL IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

KALSO, B. C., Oct. 20.—A memorial to the men of Kaslo and district who fell in the war, in the form of a shaft of polished black granite, is to be erected here. It will rest on a die of a similar material and finish, which will take the inscription. The bases, two in number, will be of gray granite. The memorial will overlook Kaslo Bay.

ANTI-LOAFING LAW.

EDMONTON, Oct. 20.—Nonworkers will not find any encouragement for loafing in Edmonton this winter if plans to revert to the anti-loafing regulations of the War-Times Measure Act are carried out. The Provincial Government, it is believed, is considering the enactment of such a law and a plan proposed is to tabulate the industrial career of every man that is out of work. Under such a scheme the city would not employ men who had refused work in other places. In this way it is hoped to discourage genuine idlers, making the handling of the local situation easier in the way of helping bona fide citizens who are without employmept.

OLD GLOBE HAS ROUGH PASSAGE

Earthquakes, Cloud-Bursts and Hurricanes Mark Year

WORLD-WIDE HEAT WAVE

Recovering From Attack of "Meteorolgical Mumps"

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The old spheroid known as the earth is emerging from what some diagnosticians may call a severe attack of meterological mumps. It has been accompanied by an intermittent fever manifested in a world-wide heat wave of unusual length and intensity. In spite of crises and relapses—earthquakes, tidal waves, cloudbursts, typhoons, waterspouts, hailstorms, floods and hurricanes in many widely separated parts—from Kamchatka to Cape Horn, and from Guam to Guadalupe—the doctors are confident the patient will recover.

Meanwhile, North America for the last year has been suffering chiefly from an excess of high temperature and a deficiency of moisture, a condition unprecedented in the 50 years' history of the United States weather bureau.

From January to September 22 last the temperature of New York City, for instance, has shown an aggregate excess of warmth of 960 degrees above normal, while there has been a shortage of 6.71 inches in rainfall. The greatest amount of September precipitation was in 1882, when more than 14½ inches fell, and the least for that month occurred two years later with only fifteen-hundredths of an inch.

Weather bureau officials here declined to discuss the possible connection between the present high temperatures and disasters of nature in many parts of the world.

It is a fact, however, that whatever the cause, this terrestial ball has been subjected of late to rough usage, notwithstanding that the war is over. A glance back at some of the recent disasters and natural phenomena shows the following:

Two million Koreans starving in Manchuria owing to drought-ruined crops.

Three hundred buildings wrecked and many killed by hailstorm and waterspout at Baez, Cuba.

Three volcanoes, Villarica, Llaima and Lanin, spout flames more than a thousand feet from craters.

Drought kills fish in River Seine and France suffers most severe drought in 47 years.

Rhine and Moselle rivers do great damage in highest flood in 136 years.

Cloudburst and hailstorm damage Rome, Italy.

Mount Vesuvius shows activity and earthquake shock is felt from Leghorn to Lake Lugano.

Italian destroyers carry inhabitants to safety as volcano Stromboli resumes activity.

Damage of several million drachmas done in Greece by severe hailstorms.

Earthslides block Corinthe Canal.

Cyclone destroys three towns in Haiti.

Volcano Kilua, in Hawaii, spouts immense fountains of lava.

Activity of Popocatapel, in Mexico, increasing.

Earthquake shakes Vera Cruz and four other cities.

Lightning strikes oil wells, causing millions of dollars' damage in Tampico and other districts.

Mexicans pray to "water goddess" to end drought.

Volcano Colima, in Jalisco, in eruption.

Many lives lost in waterspout which destroyed part of Tangier, Morocco.

Volcano Masaya, in Nicaragua, in eruption.

Typhoon and floods in Philippines and especially on Island of Luzon do great damage

Six new craters opened in Mount Izalco, Salvador.

Waterspout in Maia-Doara Province, of Spain, damages crops and villages.

Heat in the Alps causes glaciers to shrink and nine mountain climbers are killed.

Flood inundates Pueblo, causing $10,000,000 property loss.

Forty-seven persons perish in San Antonio, Texas, flood.

One consolation of the freak weather, however, is the prospect of an "open winter."

BEEF CHEAPER ON LOCAL MARKET

Dressed Hogs Bring Fourteen Dollars Hundred.

Hay took another jump in price on the local market on Friday. This is accounted for by the small quantity that has been offered in the past week.

Two loads of dressed hogs were sold for $14 a cwt. Beef has taken a slump in price.

Potatoes remain steady. They can be bought at $2 a bag in 5 to 10 bag lots. Single bags bring from $2.15 to 2.25 a bag.

There has been an abundance of pumpkins on the market this week. They bring from 10c to 25c each. Carrots are also plentiful at 75c to $1 a bushel.

A few grapes are still on the market and are selling at from 60c to 70c a basket.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Active buying, ascribed largely to a professional speculator here, had a bullish effect to-day on the wheat market. Offerings were readily absorbed and the rising prices made some early selling run to cover. Bulls appeared to be basing their operations more or less on expectance that the president and his cabinet would find a solution for the threatened general railway strike. Opening quotations, which ranged from ¼c to 1¼c higher, were followed by a material further advance.

Corn and oats shared in the strength of wheat. After opening ⅛c to ½c higher, corn continued to ascend.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c higher and later scored additional gains.

Higher quotations on hogs helped to strengthen provisions.

Opening: Wheat, December, $1.04¾; May, $1.09½. Corn, December, 46¾c; May, 51¾c. Oats, December, 32¾c; May, 37⅝c.

about 1,000 Unionists were addressed by Austen Chamberlain.

The speaker appealed to his hearers loyally to confide in the Government and said he was aware there was considerable dissatisfaction in the party. He urged patience and promised a more complete statement when Irish matters were debated in Commons. At the close of his address Mr. Chamberlain was heckled, all the questions asked by the crowd referring to the Irish situation. He admitted that he, himself, was author of the proposal to invite the Sinn Feiners to a conference.

INCREASING HOSTILITY.

The Daily Mail said to-day that there was increasing hostility on the part of Unionist members of Parliament and electors toward Unionist members of the Cabinet, and that it was causing much concern among the party leaders. The newspaper declared there was some fear that the trend of opinion might split the annual meeting of the party, which will be held in Liverpool next month.

"Prime Minister Lloyd George," The Mail added, "is showing distinct signs of a return to Liberalism, and an increasing disregard of Unionist sentiment."

The Irish conference, at its meeting to-day, expected to grapple with the problem of Ulster, the most knotty question confronting the conference.

After a brief session the conference adjourned until Monday.

CONFERENCE RESUMED.

Representatives of the Dail Eireann and the British Government resumed at noon to-day their conference relative to a basis upon which might be built a lasting peace in Ireland. Since the last meeting of the conferees adjourned early this week, committees charged with examination of definite subjects have been at work, and it was expected they would be ready to report to-day. There was also an expectation that the Ulster problem would be discussed before to-day's session was concluded.

DECISION RESERVED IN SUIT FOR WAGES

Suit Against London Motors Heard By Judge Judd.

Judgment was reserved in the case of H. G. Buchanan in an action for a balance of wages claimed to be due him from the London Motors for services rendered. The case was tried in the first division court this morning by County Judge J. C. Judd.

Mr. Buchanan claimed through his solicitor that he was hired by the firm on verbal contract at $40 a week and that he only received $30 for the first eight weeks and $35 for the next three.

Mr. Stansell, appearing for the London Motors, claimed that Mr. Buchanan was hired at $30 and told at the time that he would be getting $40 by the end of the year, adding that if he was not getting that amount he would no longer be in their employ as they wanted a high-class man to whom they were willing to pay a high-class salary and, if he was not worth at least $40, he would be of no use to them. The defendants claimed that he had received all that was agreed upon.

A number of other cases were disposed of.

Big Celebration Upon Premier's Arrival At Station.

ST. MARYS, Oct. 21. — (By Staff Reporter). — Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, was tendered a wonderful reception on his arrival in this his old home town this afternoon. He was met by a committee of prominent Perth citizens and, headed by a Kiltie band, a procession proceeded to the town hall, whehe he is speaking this afternoon.

It was one of the greatest celebrations in the history of the town and in addition to practically every citizen of the town, hundreds of those from the surrounding district, including many old friends of the premier, were gathered to do him honor. The premier was born and spent his early life on a farm near St. Marys, where he attended high school.

SAYS INCOME TAX JUST SHORT OF ROBBERY

John Z. White, of Chicago, Boosts Single Tax to Kiwanis Club.

A plea for single tax as a panacea for the ills of the world was made by John Z. White, of Chicago, to the Kiwanis Club at their noonday luncheon to-day. He claimed that a tax on land was the only democratic and fair tax, while a tax on industry he described as autocratic. He denounced both the income tax and the inheritance tax as little short of robbery. He described taxation as a pure matter of business. Taxation was the matter of paying the cost of the public bills. He described the theory of taxation that people should be taxed according to wealth as an immoral doctrine. People should be taxed according to the services rendered. He argued at considerable length that single tax was the only equitable system. His speech was interspersed with many amusing stories and at the close he was given a rousing reception.

Rev. Mr. Bowen made a plea to the club for support to the Bible Society.

J. B. Hay, district governor, urged that there be a big attendance of the club members at Guelph on November 4, when the new club there would be granted the charter.

CHAMBERLAIN URGES COALITION BENEFIT

British Government's Success Largely Due to Its Unity.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Rt. Hon. Austen Chamberlain, leader of the House of Commons, addressing a private gathering of Coalition Unionists, admitted that considerable unrest existed. He appealed to them to consider the extraordinary difficulties which the Government had encountered and urged the maintenance of unity, seeing that serious problems were facing the country. Mr. Chamberlain begged them to remember the great benefit which had resulted from the fact that in the momentous consultations with foreign powers and with the nations within the empire, as the Government now spoke as a Coalition Government and not as the mouthpiece of one political party.

MAY REIMBURSE FOR WINTER PUBLIC WORKS

Provincial Government Has Not Yet Made Announcement—Dominian Has Expressed Willingness.

The Provincial Government has not yet indicated whether it will agree to reimburse municipalities to the extent of one-third the additional cost of public improvements which are carried on this winter to assist the unemployment situation. The Federal Government has stated its willingness to contribute one-third if the provincial authorities will do the same. Mayor Little was in Toronto yesterday in an effort to secure some information on this, but the men he wished to see were not in the city. It is expected that a definite announcement will be made shortly from Queen's Park, Toronto.

MAXWELL HEADS G.W.V.A., GETS PAY

President Is to Continue Another Year, Convention Decides

WANT BIGGER PENSIONS

Sum for Widows Without Children Suggested at $75

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Robert Maxwell, of Winnipeg, will continue for another year as the president of the Great War Veterans' Association it was decided this afternoon at the annual convention and will be the first president to receive remuneration for his services. The name of C. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary-treasurer, was also placed in the nomination, but Mr. MacNeil withdrew in favor of the present incumbent. T. Dace, of Edmonton, had no opposition in the nominations for first vice-president.

Political leaders and candidates will be requested to go on record in writing on soldiers' civil re-establishment requirements. The candidates will be asked if they are prepared to speak in Parliament and elsewhere in accordance with their attitude stated in writing.

Chief among the pension recommendations was a petition that the pension awarded a widow, without children or dependents, be increased to $75 a month without regard to income from other sources. This would also be the basis for widows with children and $25 for the first child was asked, $15 for the second and $12 for the third. The present scale of $60 was not adequate to the cost of living, especially in the cities, it was stated. Col. J. W. Margeson, chairman of the pension board, was present and gave his official and personal views on contentious points.

The Dominion executive was appointed as follows: Ian McKenzie, M. L. A., British Columbia; W. J. Bottrill, Alberta; Norman Gentles, Saskatchewan; J. R. Bowler, Manitoba; Rev. C. E. Jeakins, Ontario; R. Costigan, Quebec; S. Boyd Anderson, New Brunswick; G. W. Whitman, Nova Scotia; Prof. C. McMillan, McGill University, Prince Edward Island.

R. VRYLING LESUEUR, of Sarnia, nominated in convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party of West Lambton yesterday.

CLYNES SEES OBJECTION TO IMMIGRATION PLAN

Refers to the Prevalent Condition of Unemployment in Dominions.

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Rt. Hon. John Robert Clynes, M.P. for Northeast Manchester, speaking in criticism of Premier Lloyd George's emigration proposals, said that reports of unemployment came from all the dominions and of demonstrations there against immigration. He said if workmen were expected to emigrate labor leaders should be asked to participate in the supervision of arrangements therefor. The labor leaders, he said, were unprepared to leave these matters to the shipping agents or other interested parties.

KING, N. HURON, URGES HARMONY

Progressive Candidate Speaks at Meeting With Crerar

AGAINST BIG CITIES

Pleads for Good Feeling Between aFrmers and Townspeople

WINGHAM, Oct. 20.—(By Staff Correspondent, Canadian Press.)—Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives, addressed the electors of North Huron at a crowded meeting held here this afternoon.

J. W. King, Progressive candidate in North Huron, said that farmers wished to be on the best of terms with the people of the towns. "I plead honestly and earnestly for harmony," he said, "between farmers and townspeople." He was against concentration of population in large cities, preferring a number of moderately-sized towns to a few cities with huge populations.

Mr. Meighen had said, continued Mr. King, that farmers were Bolshevists, but there was no more sober-minded section of the community than the farmers. The "big interests" had got the strangle hold on the old parties and they could not do what they liked.

MR. HICKS' CLAIM.

Andrew Hicks, U. F. O. whip in the Ontario Legislature, claimed that the cities, and especially the City of Toronto, were pleased with the effort the Drury Government had made in administering the affairs of the province. Mr. Hicks described the tariff as an "old political rag." What Canada needed was a business administration, not a tariff hue and cry from one end of the country to the other. Mr. Crerar, "the man who fought the Winnipeg Exchange and other grain trusts," he said, was able to give the country a good business administration.

"If," queried W. Amos, Progressive candidate in North Perth, "if protection is the life of industry why were unemployed men standing in the bread lines of Toronto last winter?"

WINDSOR BURGLARS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 20.—Two burglars, intent on robbing the home of Thomas Coughlin, Sandwich, were shot at by Coughlin when he discovered their presence at an early hour this morning. The bullets went wide and both men escaped from the house and fled.

Sandwich and windsor police officers rushed to the scene, but after a lengthy search of the surrounding neighborhood they could find no trace of the burglars.

CONTRACT WITH CITY FOR NATURAL GAS IS TURNED DOWN

Progressive Oil and Gas People Will Not Accept Offer of City.

WANT AGREEMENT FOR TWO YEARS AT LEAST

Negotiations Can Only Be Reopened By City Agreeing To Extend Term.

The Progressive Oil & Gas Company, of Hamilton, has refused to sup[illegible] natural gas to the city at an 85-[illegible] rate until May 5, 1922. Ald. F. R. W[illegible]son received definite information to-day that the negotiations carried out by the special gas committee of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce have finally resulted in a flat refusal on the part of the Hamilton corporation to enter into any agreement with the City of London for a period less than two years.

A letter has been forwarded the City Council by the natural gas company informing the aldermen that they have received the Council's offer of 85 cents the thousand cubic feet of natural gas, delivered at the city limits, including 35 cents distribution charges by the City Gas Company, on an agreement to expire on May 5, 1922, and that they decline to consider the offer. The negotiations are now definitely at an end.

The only way whereby the negotiations may be reopened, it is understood, would be for the City Council to voluntarily agree to a longer term contract period. They cannot, however, make any contract for longer than one year and that, it is believed, would not be acceptable to the Progressive Gas Company.

WILL ASK FOR VOTE.

Citizens might, however, vote a longer term gas agreement at the coming municipal election. If a majority voted in favor of a two-year gas contract at 85 cents for delivered natural gas, then the contract would hold for that period.

Such action may be initiated by Ald. W. A. Wilson at the next session of the City Council. Mr. Wilson has acted as chairman of the special gas committee and has been the prime mover in efforts to secure the natural fuel for London consumers.

TWO MINUTES' QUIET ALL OVER DOMINION FOR ARMISTICE DAY

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—His Excellency the Governor-General has received a dispatch from the secretary of state for the colonies proposing that on Friday, November 11, the anniversary of the signing of the armistice, there should be a complete suspension of business so far as possible, beginning at 11 a. m., and continuing for two minutes.

The Canadian Government has adopted this suggestion and accordingly the secretary of state for external affairs has issued a request that the rite be observed throughout the Dominion.

DRAWS PATIENTS FROM ALL CANADA

Westminster Hospital Has Inmates From Every Province.

NEW D. S. C. R. POLICY

Centralization of Psychiatric Cases Is Now Aimed At.

In accordance with a new centralization policy of the D. S. C. R., the Westminster Hospital is now drawing patients from every province in the Dominion, Col. E. G. Shannon, district administrator, announced to-day. Veterans affected mentally by the war are being brought either to the institution south of this city or taken to St. Ann's Hospital, Quebec, the only other Canadian hospital of the kind. The latter building is reserved for more violent cases.

Fortunately Westminster Hospital was built by the Government with a view to caring for as many as 500 patients, so that the new policy will not inconvenience the local officials. To-day there are 393 men being cared for, leaving over a hundred beds available for cases which will come from smaller hospitals throughout the Dominion. It is understood that a number of minor cases of shell shock have been receiving treatment in other D. S. C. R. institutions and that their removal to Westminster is but a matter of time.

The only objection to the centralization plan is that it uproots a man from the community in which he is known and where he has his relatives and friends and transplants him in a distant institution. In instances where it is believed that removal would engender hardships it is understood that the patient will be allowed to remain in his own district, provided that his case is not too serious.

Incalculable good, however, will come to the patient who is willing to come to the central institution. Here the doctors are all specialists in treating diseases of the mind and are able to extend to the veteran the best service possible and thus restore him to health more speedily. Moreover, special care must be exercised over the ex-service men who are mentally deficient as without proper supervision they are liable to run themselves into personal danger. The centralization scheme was first applied to this province a short time ago, when all psycopathic cases in Ontario were ordered to be sent here.

FEAR OF R. R. STRIKE BOTHERS WALL STREET

Transportation Shows Fall Off—Money Rates Stiffen.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Business on the stock exchange this week was influenced almost entirely by the threatened railroad strike. Transportation shares of the better class lost one to three points, but selling relaxed later on news that the unions and executives were to come before the railroad labor board next week.

Trading in other stocks were irregular and preponderantly professional. That element favored oils and equipments and directed fresh pressure against steels. The latter were in disfavor because of the unsatisfactory earnings presented for the third quarter. There was a slight diminution in demand for high grade bonds and occasional liquidation of Liberty issues was attributed to the offerings of small wage earners at centers of industrial depression.

Money rates stiffened for a time on extensive federal withdrawals, but eased as funds came from interior sources. Many loans extending into next year were made at prevailing rates and a better demand was reported for commercial paper.

LONDON WOMAN LOCKS SELF IN HOME AND SEES NO ONE

Strange Case of Misanthropy Revealed By Relief Inspector McCallum.

The strange case of a woman in London, who has locked herself inside her tiny house and refuses to communicate with anyone except for the mere necessities of existence, and then indirectly, was reported by Relief Inspector McCallum to-day.

At the mayor's suggestion, Mr. McCallum tried to gain an entry to the house to find out what had caused the woman to withdraw herself from all intercourse with her kind. Every effort proved unavailing and locked doors refused official entry.

Neighbors state that they can offer no explanation and wonder just what grief or disappointment has made a misanthrope of their old friend. They catch a glimpse of her at windows occasionally and smoke from the kitchen tells that she is still alive, but they wonder how long a person may dwell in the heart of the city and yet remain as isolated as if living on a desert isle.

It is expected that steps will be taken to force an entry into the house within a short while, but in the meantime officials are puzzled as to just how such a step may be taken. A citizen's house is a castle in Canada, as in England. "The wind or rain may enter," says the law, "but the king may not enter."

It has been 30 days since London's city hermit has withdrawn from the world about her, and neighbors and officials are wondering how long she will keep up her seclusion.

Women of City Seek Election Candidates

Citizenship Committee of Women's Council Want Six For Board of Education.

CAN'T GET RIGHT KIND OF MEN TO OFFER

Qualified Men Declare They Lack Time For School Board Duties.

The citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women is on a still hunt for candidates for the Board of Education, and, according to one of the members of this committee, it is necessary to bring out some women because they cannot secure six good candidates among the men of the city. It is not inferred in this that there are not six men in the city who would make perfectly good trustees, but the trouble is that it is impossible to induce six men of the right caliber to allow their names to go to the electors in this contest.

It has also been stated that the women are planning to bring out one of their number as an aldermanic candidate in each of the four wards. This is denied by one of the officials of the committee, who refused to allow her name to be used in this connection. But it is generally believed that the women will confine themselves practically entirely to the Board of Education.

CAN'T GET RIGHT MEN.

"We are merely trying to bring out six candidates who will work conscientiously and intelligently in the interests of the city on the Board of Education," said a member of the citizenship committee. "It has been charged that we are trying to bring out women to fill the positions, but that is not so. We would gladly support six men for the trusteeship if we could induce six with sufficient qualifications to come out. But that is impossible, we have found. For this reason, then, we are obliged to support some women as candidates.

"It it impossible to get the citizens of outstanding ability to give their services to the work of the city on the board," continued the citizenship committee member. "Several men who would undoubtedly fill the positions on the board to their own credit and to the general benefit of the city have absolutely refused to stand for election. They plead lack of time to attend to public affairs. Their own business is too pressing.

AN IMPORTANT TIME.

"At this time, with a large building program ahead and a large expenditure of money, as a consequence, it is necessary to elect citizens who will intelligently, as well as conscientiously, look after the public welfare. We need good business men, men who have made good in private life and who can therefore be expected to make good as public servants. If we could induce six men of this class to enter the contest we would gladly give them our support.

It is the general opinion of the members of this committee, so far as what can be learned from the individuals, that the business men of outstanding ability must be educated to sacrifice themselves for the public good by offering for election to the important positions in the gift of the electors.

PERMANENT JOBS FOR INVESTIGATORS

Salary For Local Officials $1,500 Per Year.

GOVERNMENT PAYS

Much Follow-Up Work Has To Be Done.

The two investigators who were appointed for the London district under the provisions of the Mothers' Allowances Act will be permanently employed in their present capacities, according to T. D. McCullough, chairman of the local board. Every case into which they conduct an inquiry calls for a great deal of follow-up work and demands the constant supervision which only the investigators can afford to give.

As the total cost of administration is borne by the Provincial Government, the salaries of the two officials for this section of the province come out of the Ontario treasury. It is believed, however, that the $3,000 per annum expended in this way is more than saved the ratepayers of the country in the lessened amounts which are paid out in allowances to the widows.

PROVE INFORMATION.

Information given at the time of application must, of course, be proved to be authentic before any recommendation is sent to the central commission in Toronto. But it often happens that subsequent circumstances change this information and require a revision of the amount of pension payable. In not a few instances a widow's name must be struck from the lists entirely.

Bad conduct on the part of the mother has forfeited the pension money in at least one case in this district, the mother being deprived of the care of her children as well. Records are also kept regarding the ages of children for whom the allowances are drawn and when one of them passes the age limit the pension must be withdrawn. Then, again, if another child is born after the father's death, the pension must be increased. Another circumstance affecting the pension would be a child going to work and thus adding to the family income or a legacy or other benefit being left the widow. It is the investigator's duty to learn about these conditions in each case, as they have a direct bearing on the amount of pension payable.

HOW FORDNEY TARIFF HITS CANADIAN TRADE

OTTAWA, Oct. 22.—The total value of Canadian exports to the United States affected by the emergency tariff during the four months period of June to September was $10,070,068, as compared with $33,546,362 for the like period in 1920, and for the month of September past, $2,934,853, as against $11,1333,369 for September, 1920.

EAMON DE VALERA'S MOTHER, now Mrs. Charles E. Wheelwright, lives in a modest little house in Rochester, N. Y.

FALL DOWN STAIRS RESULTS FATALLY

Mrs. Mable McCullough, 475 King Street, Is Victim.

DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS

Neck Is Broken In Slip On Stairs of Her Home.

Mrs. Mable McCullough, widow of the late William McCullough, fell down stairs at her home, 475 King street, at 8.30 to-day and was injured so badly that death resulted immediately. Dr. Banghart was called, but Mrs. McCullough was dead before his arrival.

With her son, William, she was carrying a set of springs downstairs. When about half-way down she called, "Oh, wait a minute," and before her son or daughter, who were with her in the house, could reach her she fell over and expired. It is stated that her neck was broken in the fall, and Dr. J. C. Wilson corroborated this statement.

It is thought that she felt a sudden weakness or fainting when she called out to wait a minute, and that her fall was the result of this weakness. She was said to be in the best of health previously. She was a comparatively young woman, in her early forties, and had been employed at Scott-Chamberlain, Limited.

Besides her two children, Madeline and William, she leaves her mother, Mrs. Comber, living with H. T. Hyatt, 288 Egerton street, and three sisters, Mrs. H. T. Hyatt, city; Mrs. William Watts, of Toronto, and Mrs. Joseph Massey, of Grandmere, Quebec.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

DECISIVE STEPS TO CHURCH UNION

Small Self-Sustaining Charges Are Ready Now To Unite.

ARRANGING THE DETAILS

Presbyterians, Methodists and Congregationalists Soon One Body.

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Four decisive steps that pave the way for union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational churches of Canada have been taken by the joint union committee of the three bodies. Convened in Metropolitan Methodist church, the official representatives of the three negotiating denominations authorized the drawing up of the Legislative bills necessary to the formation of a united church, provided for the widest possible measure of departmental co-operation pending the consummation of organic union, encouraged local union between weak self-sustaining congregations of the three bodies, and took steps which will tighten the bonds between the united churches in Western Canada and the parent bodies.

The discussion throughout was marked by a spirit of mutual consideration and a unanimity of purpose that resulted in forward action which the leaders of all three churches characterized as the utmost possible at the present stage of the negotiations.

Preparations of the legislation necessary to give effect to the union of the three denominations were placed in the hands of a joint committee of 15 composed of six Methodists, six Presbyterians and three Congregationalists.

CANADIAN BOAT HAS GOOD LEAD ON RIVAL

Blue Nose Half Mile Ahead In International Schooner Race.

TWENTY-FIVE KNOT BREEZE LASHES BOATS

Canadian Boat Led At Start and Is Increasing Her Advantage.

HALIFAX, N. S., (S. S. Tyrian, race course), Oct. 22.—A 25-knot wind from the northwest greeted the Gloucester schooner Elsie and the Lunenburg Blue Nose when they put out from their docks this morning for the first race of the series to decide the championship of the North Atlantic fleets of the United States and Canada. The winner receives the Halifax Herald trophy and $4,000 cash. The loser also gets $1,000.

The schooners carried four lower sails and main top sails as they cruised about back of the starting line fifteen minutes before the preparatory gun was fired.

The signal flown from the breakwater on the starting line indicated that number three course had been chosen for the race. This meant a reach of six miles to the inner automatic buoy off Chebucto Head, a run down the wind of six miles to the southeast automatic, a reach of nine miles to Shut-in-Island bell, a dead beat of 12 miles to inner automatic with another six miles of windward work on the race to the finish line.

BLUE NOSE IN WEATHER BATH

In the maneuving Blue Nose won the weather berth and at the one minute preparatory gun both vessels bore away for the starting line. When the gun flashed Elsie was the first to cross the line with Blue Nose a length behind.

Official starting times were: Elsie, 9.00.10; Blue Nose, 9.00.49.

At 9.08 Elsie still in lead went to weather of Blue Nose. Elsie was flying American ensign from the main peak.

Blue Nose passed the first mark, the inner automatic, ahead of Elsie, the unofficial times being: Blue Nose, 9.32.50; Elsie, 9.33.28.

Passing the buoy the Blue Nose eased her sheets for the broad reach to the southeast automatic 5.4 miles away on a southeast course. Blue Nose had a lead of 150 yards.

At 9.47 the Elsie had drawn right up on Blue Nose's weather quarter. There was a choppy sea and the wind holding at 25 knots.

A NECK AND NECK RACE.

At 10.05 with the buoy less than a mile away, the boats were racing neck and neck. Both schooners doused their foretopsails. They gybed and headed for the mark. The gybe gave the Blue Nose the weather position.

The Blue Nose rounded the buoy with a lead of 200 yards. Official time at the southeast automatic buoy was: Blue Nose, 10.10.29; Elsie, 10.11.03.

CANADIAN IN LEAD.

When the racers were three miles from Shut-in-Island bell buoy, the third mark, Blue Nose had a lead of between 600 and 700 yards.

Official times at which racers rounded the third mark were: Blue Nose, 10.52.18; Elsie, 10.54.17.

Blue Nose, which had clewed up her foretopsail, came about on the starboard tack. The American doused staysails and came about to windward of Blue Nose, but more than half a mile astern.

The two boats now settled down for the long windward stretch, the supreme test of the race.

BELMONT IS GETTING GAS FROM SAUL WELLS

Reported That Town Has Bought Natural Product for $1.

According to a statement made today by a Londoner, who is in a position to know, the natural gas from the Saul wells has been sold to Belmont at a rate of $1 per thousand feet. The contract has recently been closed. While all the gas will not be used in Belmont, there will not be sufficient left to make it worth while to pipe it to London.

But London may have another chance, as additional wells will be drilled. The drilling rig is now being moved to North Dorchester, near Nilestown. Drilling operations will be commenced shortly.

BANDITS RESPOND TO LANGUAGE OF KINDNESS

BEECH PARK, Oct. 22.—(Exclusive Staff Special.)—Kindness and a full stomach make a language that the dumb can speak, the deaf can hear and bank robbers can be tamed by.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after 5 o'clock, as Ed. Henshaw was about to close his private bank for the day, a high-powered touring car, containing five men, drove up to the door and, leaving one of the party in the car with motor running, picked up four high-powered rifles and entered the bank. Henshaw was seated in his office, talking to Abe Werner, Peter Van Swick, Bill Northern, Bill Epps and Charlie Smith, when the quartet suddenly filed into the room and, pointing the guns where they would do the most damage, demanded the funds of the bank and silence on the part of all.

"Kind looks, kind words, kinds acts and warm handshakes are the commandments of Beech Park, and Henshaw and his friends refused to take the bandits seriously until they had scattered seeds of kindness. In spite of the menacing guns they insisted that it was a friendly party and the strangers must partake of the hospitality that Elgin County knows so well how to distribute. Henshaw, while the bandits stood in open-mouthed surprise, calmly took up the telephone and ordered a turkey dinner sent from the hotel. When the meal arrived he set it out on the office table and insisted that all partake. All partook and in a few minutes the bandits, who were as tough a looking gang as ever sawed a prison bar, gave over being suspicious and went after the meal as if they were starved. They stated that for three days they had not tasted food, and they looked it.

On the shelf by the table was $87,000 in bills, but the men made no attempt to take it. With suspicious signs of tears in their eyes they shook hands and said goodbye, after topping off the meal with ice cream.

STOP PRESS BULLETIN.—The kindness shown the bandits was a total loss. During the night the bank was robbed of the $87,000.

Five Bandits Who Held Up Wyoming Bank May Be Hiding Near London

Left Plain Trail To Denfield and Then Disappeared From Sight.

MURRELL BROS. THEORY IS NOT BELIEVED HERE

Auto Used For Job Stolen From Thorndale Is Practically Certain.

Are the five bandits who held up the Wyoming branch of the Bank of Toronto on Thursday afternoon and escaped with $12,000 in cash in hiding within easy reach of London? This belief is growing, due to the fact that, although the robbers left a plain trail as far as Denfield, about 16 miles north of London, they appear to have dropped out of sight shortly after passing through the Northern Middlesex village.

Little credibility is attached here to the theory of the provincial police that the gang which operated in Wyoming is headed by the Murrell brothers, escaped alleged murderers, on whose head there is a price. It is pointed out in this regard that the Murrells are both fairly tall men, while four of the gang of five who entered the Wyoming bank were described as short men by Ronald Brown, junior in the bank, who had a good view of them.

While the men who did the Wyoming "job" were described as foreigners in appearance it is said that they spoke English without an accent. This leads to the belief that they are not the same gang who held up a Toronto branch of the Bank of Hamilton at the corner of College and Ossington avenues. The men who made the clean-up in Toronto are said to have spoken in somewhat broken English.

THORNDALE CAR.

There appears to be little doubt that the automobile used by the Wyoming bandits was the car stolen on Tuesday night from the garage of R. C. Wright, of Thorndale. There is some mystery attached to the theft of the car in the fact that the thieves must have known that the car was a new high-powered one. According to any information which has been forthcoming no strangers were noted in the village on the day of the theft. This fact adds color to the theory that the men may have hidden another automobile in the vicinity of Thorndale, stolen Mr. Wright's car and made their way through to Wyoming.

The only word of a car which might have been the Wyoming gang was received yesterday by the Toronto authorities from Gormley, a village about 20 miles north of the Queen City. It is hardly likely that the men would have been able to get that far, however, unless they were unusually well acquainted with the roads.

Yesterday the local police worked all afternoon in an effort to get in touch with some place north of the city in an effort to get some clue as to what direction the bandits went, but when they passed through Denfield they were not seen after in the vicinity of London. The local police have no clue to work on, the bandits having left nothing behind them.

The Chatham police are of the impression that the Wyoming bank robbers came from Windsor and passed through that city on the way to the scene of the hold-up.

ALL PORTS BLOCKED.

On Thursday morning High Constable George Peters, of Chatham, and his staff while on their way to Moravian town fair passed a party of five men in a large car, thought to be the bandit machine. This machine was in the ditch at Louisville, a few miles from Chatham, but the officers paid no attention to it. The automobile had a Canadian marker on it and in it were five men, all smooth shaven and dark. The machine cleared the ditch and continued west on its journey shortly after the officers passed.

Word from Windsor states that all ports of exit were blocked yesterday and last night by police in anticipation of a probable attempt of the Wyoming bandits to leave this country. The high-powered police flyer is kept in readiness to give chase if reports are received of the presence of the men in the district.

MORE IDLENESS IN GT. BRITAIN

Unemployed Increased For First Time Since June.

LONDON IS IMPROVING

More Work Offering There and In North Country.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Latest employment figures for the British Isles, for the first time since last June, show increases for the week totaling 8,000. In London, however, there has been a decrease of 2,000, and there are also slight decreases in Scotland and the north of England. It is said that tenders for four new battleships have been placed with Wm. Beardmore & Co., of Dalmuir, Scotland; John Brown & Co., of Clydebank, Scotland; Fairfield Shipbuilding Company, of Govan, Scotland, and Swan, Hunter & Wigham, of Mallsend, Northumberland, England. The principal work on three of these ships goes to the Clydebank works, although subsidiary contracts for guns and armor doubtless will be allocated elsewhere.

In Sheffield only 25 of the 94 furnaces there are working.

The engineering firms, which have been doing moderately well, are now reaching the end of their orders.

IDENTIFIED FOUR OF MAIL ROBBERS' GANG

DETROIT, Oct. 22. — Postal authorities here last night announced that the three men arrested on Tuesday for questioning in connection with the robbery of a Canadian mail wagon two weeks ago had been identified as participants in the hold-up. The men gave the names of James Logan, Thomas Ferris and Alex. McClean.

Officers are continuing their search for a fourth man.

AUTO BANDITS ROB ST. CATHARINES MAN

Robbed and Beaten and Found Unconscious in His Car.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 22. — Held up and beaten by three auto bandits on the road near Fenwick on Thursday night, W. B. Lake Foss, of Welland, was found in the back of his car by farmers yesterday morning in an unconscious condition. Over $100 had been taken from his pockets. He was unable to give a description of his assailants. Foss was driving alone, a week previously, and had a narrow escape from death when his car turned turtle.

TORPEDOES HOPE OF IRISH PEACE

De Valera's Letter To Pope Denounced By London Press.

TACTLESS AND INSULTING

Editors Say Irish Leader Insulted Both King and Pope.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Possible rupture of the Irish conference, a general political crisis in Great Britain and the cancellation of Prime Minister Lloyd George's visit to Washington were featured by London newspapers this morning. It appeared that the telegram sent to Pope Benedict by Eamonn De Valera, in which there was adverse criticism of King George's recent message to the pontiff, appeared to be considered as a phase of the situation which threatened disruption of the negotiations for finding a basis for peace in Ireland.

With one exception the action of Mr. De Valera was condemned by newspapers here to-day, editorials varying from hot denunciation to sorrowful regret. A view put forward in some quarters that the message to Pope Benedict was merely a piece of tactlessness which should not be treated too seriously was not adopted anywhere in the London press. Some comments charged him with "insulting the King, the Pope and his own delegates now in conference here," and said he had "torpedoed the chances of peace."

Even where there was a dispsoition to make the best of the incident it was admitted the action of Mr. De Valera had created a situation which would need the greatest tact to smooth over.

The Daily News, one of Mr. De Valera's warmest supporters, said: "This mischievous proclamation is a characteristic example of the activities of the evil genius who appears usually to preside over Irish affairs."

Hope that Mr. De Valera's real intentions would "prove wiser than his formulas" was expressed by The Daily Chronicle, "a staunch supporter of Mr. Lloyd George, which declared its conviction that the prime minister would exhaust every resource of wise patience before abandoning the attempt to attain peace."

The Socialist view, as expressed by The Daily Herald, was that King George began the latest controversy by referring to the Irish as "my people" in his letter to Pope Benedict. The newspaper asserts that it was only natural that Mr. De Valera should reply, and that nothing had been altered by his telegram to Rome. The Journal said that "each side has merely reiterated its known standpoint. It was regarded certain everywhere that the incident would threaten the strength of the Lloyd George Government as the Unionists are in open revolt against coalition, both in Parliament and in strong Unionist constituencies.

AUSTRALIA FACING GOVERNMENT CRISIS

In Troublesome Economic Question Government Can Muster But One Majority.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Australian House of Representatives has been debating all week the movement of the country party to enforce economy by a test vote on the estimates.

The Labor party, which proposed to vote against reduction has now decided, under outside pressure, to support the country party there by placing the Government in a precarious position.

Constant maneuvering has been indulged in to obtain stray votes, but the present position gives the Government a majority only by the casting vote of the chairman, with the Speaker voting. The debate will be continued next week.

FIND OUT IF HOUSE HAS A CELLAR OR NOT

KITCHENER, Oct. 21.—Jos. Litfin, who was charged with selling liquor at his residence on or about June 7, and has been absent from the city until recently, appeared in police court this morning and swore that the liquor was in the cellair when the provincial officers made an inspection of the premises. The officials informed the court that there was no cellar and maintained that the liquor had been sold. The case was adjourned to allow the crown to produce evidence as to wehether the house at 4 David street has a cellar, as alleged by the defendant. N. Jeffrey, K. C., Guelph, appeared for the crown, and Geo. Bray, Kitchener, for the defendant.

AUSTRIAN TAKES AIR LINE OVER THE ALPS

Ex-Emperor Charles Reaches Burgenland and Situation Is Tense.

ESCAPED IN AIRPLANE FROM SWITZERLAND

Reported Proceeding To Budapest With Troops Supporting Him.

VIENNA, Oct. 22.—Former Emperor Charles, of Austria-Hungary, arrived at Oedenburg, Burgenland, on Friday afternoon in an airplane from Switzerland, according to an Oedenburg message today, and is reported to be proceeding towards Budapest, escorted by Oestenburg troops.

Other advices, however, say he reached that town at 1.30 p. m. on Friday, flying over Southern Bavaria, and then across Austria. The railways and telephone and telegraph lines have been cut at the Hungarian frontier. The situation in Vienna is tense as the result of the former ruler's sensational movement.

It is rumored here that the Czechs are mobilizing.

The Austrian Government announced this morning that all precautions had been taken to deal with the situation. The entire police force and the city guards, including the reserves, were called out, and extra ammunition was dispatched to the frontier forces. Political observers believe that the Austrian supporters of the ex-emperor will suspend any action in his behalf on Austrian territory pending a decisive outcome of his venture into Hungary.

PROVISIONAL GOVT. FORMED.

A provisional Government, the advices state, has been formed in Bergenland in the ex-emperor's interest, under Count Julius Andrassy, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister.

The district of Burgenland is disputed territory lying along the frontier between Austria and Hungary. It was awarded to Austria, but was occupied some months ago by Hungarian irregular troops, the situation there being similar to that in Fiume when that city was under the control of Capt. Gabriel D'Annunzio.

WILL TRY TO EXPEL HIM.

The Hungarian Government will act as it did on the occasion of the previous attempt of former Emperor Charles to resume the throne in Hungary, according to information obtained here to-day, and will take measures to expel the former monarch from Hungarian territory, it is declared.

HOPEFUL NOW OF R. R. SETTLEMENT

Brighter Outlook In United States Railway Situation.

UP TO THE LABOR BOARD

Meanwhile Unions Prepare To Go Out Next Week.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—With the railroads and the labor unions, according to every outward indication, preparing for the general strike only a week away, Government circles continued to-day to view the situation as "the affair of the railroad labor board." Without exception, those in authority are agreed that the board, now in session in Chicago, will be given opportunity to try other avenues for reaching the goal of a settlement before consideration is given to the possible question of working in a more drastic form.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Hopes for a peaceful settlement of the United States transportation crisis were brighter today with the agreement of rail executives and brotherhood strike leaders to respond to the summons of the labor board for an open conference here next Wednesday on the wage and working rules dispute.

While brotherhood chiefs, in conference at Cleveland, stated their willingness to meet the executives and board it was indicated that they had made no plans for suspending the strike pending the negotiations.

The strike decision of the other railroad unions, comprising three-fourths of the railroad employees, also was expected to-day. Leaders of the stationary firemen and maintenance-of-way employees, voted yesterday to call a strike, but set no date. No decision against the present use of any of the war-time powers still available to the Government was reached by the administration late yesterday.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie Punctures King's Charge As To Munitions

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 22.—Early this morning Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, made reply to the statement of Hon. MacKenzie King, Liberal leader, in a letter to the premier, Right Honorable Arthur Meighen, respecting the shipment of shells from Great Britain to Canada. Mr. Guthrie said:

"No munitions have been purchased since the war, except a few spare parts to put in shape such material as we have in Canada. At the end of the war the British Government handed over to Canada a tremendous amount of equipment to replace the equipment which Canada had taken over to England and France during the war. It has been coming to Canada from time to time since the war. It is quite possible that some of that handed over during the war may have recently arrived in Canada. The House of Commons was informed last session, and the session before that, that the British Government was sending this equipment."

DRAW THE TEETH FROM THE RECALL

Ontario Progressives Make Change In Their Machinery.

DISCARD THE PETITION IDEA

Members' Parliamentary Life Now Rests With Committee.

WALKERTON, Ont., Oct. 22.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Ontario Progressives have changed their machinery for the recall. As it originally existed, a candidate (in a constituency where the recall existed) would place his signed resignation in the hands of the executive committee of his constituency. If his conduct at Ottawa were found by the committee to be unsatisfactory he could be called to account. If a certain percentage of his electors approvel, by signing a petition to this effect, the candidate's resignation could be sent to the Speaker of the House of Commons.

The recall was discussed with considerable bitterness in the House of Commons last session. The charge was made that it interfered with the independence of a member of Parliament and subjected him to the dictation of an executive committee at home, a committee not in a position, perhaps, to understand the why and wherefore of a member's attitude in the House. Among Progressives themselves the objection was raised that the political opponents of the candidate might seize the opportunity to sign the petition and possible outnumber his supporters.

Under the new machinery, it is claimed, there is no such possibility. Where a recalled resignation is now signed it will be placed in the hands of the executive committee, as under the old arrangement, but there would be no approval or disapproval by petition. If the member is unable to give the committee a satisfactory explanation the delegates of the nominating convention will again be called together. The member will be required to give them any explanation he may have and they will decide whether or not the member shall be called upon to resign his seat in the House.

Speeches made by Progressive candidates at meetings addressed by Hon. Mr. Crerar reveal the fact that they have not all signed the recall and that there is considerable difference of opinion over its advisability. The recall, it is plain, is entirely a matter of local arrangement between the candidate and his executive committee.

PLAN FOR GREAT SCHOOL CONTESTS

Western "U" To Aid Scholastic Competitions.

ATHLETICS AND ART

Debating Will Be Given Impetus This Winter.

Western Ontario's Interscholastic Association, of which Western University is the head, will soon branch out into a wide field of educational service which will make it one of the most influential organizations in Canada. Composed as it is of collegiate institutes and high schools in the 14 Western counties, it is has hitherto stressed only the athletic side in its program of work. But this winter it will take in the field of interscholastic literary activities and artistic competitions.

These wider plans of intercounty educational service are being formulated by Prof. N. C. Hart, with the assistance of William Blake, university physical director. As soon as the rugby season is over it is expected that a program of high school debates will be begun for one thing, which will lead, by elimination, to a final champion debating contest in London next spring about the time of the regular Western "U" convocation. This debate will probably be an annual affair for which individual medals may be offered and a oratorical cup offered to the school turning out the winning team.

Music competitions are being seriously considered and high school chorus work in Western Ontario would be stimulated thereby to an unusual degree.

The aim of the organization now being developed is to have all interscholastic competitions grouped together under one central head. Not only athletics, which have already made a tremendous success, but every other collegiate and high school activity where literary, artistic and social graces may be developed by healthy and well-directed rivalry.

NEW CLUB FORMED AT WESTERN UNIVERSITY

W. J. Hodden Named President of History and Political Science Organization.

The History and Political Science Club of Western University, a new organization which will include the fourth upper year students and members of the faculty, was organized at a meeting held in the public library last night.

Mr. W. J. Hodden is the first president of the new organization and Miss Helen McIntosh secretary. The program committee for the first term consists of Fred Landon, M. A.; Miss G. Webster, and Mr. H. Dalgleish. Meetings are to be held monthly during the university year and it is expected thta the club will be able to do much to promote interest in history and political science and allied fields. Prof. A. J. Dorland presided at last night's meeting.

R. passenger train No. 17 for the convenience of the boat passengers will be withdrawn after making its last trip from Toronto to Point Edward on October 26. The extra car on train No. 80, from Point Edward to Toronto, will be discontinued on October 1.

The Northern Navigation Company has announced that the S. S. Harmonic and S. S. Huronic will continue running between Pont Edward and Fort William, but will carry freight exclusively after October 31.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 22. — The best news is how the W. C. T. U. calls on the party leaders for a statement on their stand for prohibition and Master W. L. McK. King do answer them hot-foot, vowing that his charitable party is the most charitable in the world and that what he says in 1919 is good to this day. But the ladies do act holty-toity at him, asking that he bring his attitude on temperance and such like up to date. Meanwhile our Admiralty Club called in special session to ask this uncrowned king for a statement of his stand on tea-drinking. Which he will no doubt cry out against hoping that we vote for him.

And the most shameful thing is how some man do send a picture to these temperance ladies — a picture of their officers all besmeared with tobacco — and tries to insult them. The man who does this is not to be taken as representative of our noble superior sex. For while most of we men do smoke as often as possible, methinks we would be secretly glad if women would free us of our habit. And in all events we do disdain this pitiful, cowardly action.

Home and to talk with my Aunt Mary, who is pretty mad over this "dumping" charge at widows. "One would think," she says with her eyes snapping at me, "that they get these widows from all the country and put them in sacks, whereat they drop them about the city. The most ridiculous thing I ever heard of and disrespectful. Were I a widow demanding help, I would die of starvation before applying to these chargers of dumping. And you," she says, "should take shame to yourself for countenancing such charges. These widows with children not only deserving the highest sympathy, but respect and high honor!" Which I agree to, pointing out to my Aunt Mary that I am not responsible for the actions of little political men.

The news is that chickens in a local theater lobby cause trouble, which reminds Commodore Potts that some years agone the chickens at stage entrances were the greatest disturbers of family peac.

Word from the King, his capital, that some members of the Parliament do try to censure Master Lloyd George over the conference with the Sinn Fenians. Which will be a fine thing for this Welsh premier and no doubt he hopes for it. He thriving most in adversity, having a soul born for storms.

Out on my velocipede on Thursday night and to witness one of the noblest sights in the heavens that I have ever seen. This being a nearly full moon which rises in the east and from its forehead is a streamer of light like the plume of a Hussar riding forth to the warrs. Methinks we should build our houses with glass roofs and spend an hour each night in contemplation of the glory of the heavens. The Orientals doing these things better, sleeping to their roofs with no canopy but the stars. It was in such a roof chamber that David writes, I am sure, his "The heavens declare the glory of God," and also "When I consider the heavens the works of Thy fingers."

It is a peculiar thing how nearly everything this week happens on Thursday — our religious reporter, our Sinn Fenian reporter and myself do fare forth and to inspect this train of the Frenchman with its exhibits of manufactures and fashions. Arriving there only to find half the city lined up in queue and only a few let in at one time. So we go around to the other side of the train and to enter surreptitiously. Which the religious and Sinn Fenian reporter do affect marvelous well, but as I mount on the climbing rods this French count or at least a vicompte do push me in the face, saying "Au revoir, M'sieu l'Apache! Aliez, vite!" Which I do meanwhile talking to him in the best sort of French remonstrating with him for his hardheartedness. And he replies in good English: "I am overcome with sorrow, but I do not understand German!"

So father down the train and enter by an unguarded door, meanwhile how I am the first Pepys to be pushed in the face by a count, a thing I never thought possible in the world. This guardian, I take it, being a count or a viscount. Then to see the exhibition, which I think not much of and wonder at the silliness of these Frenchmen's advisers that they give only one day to London. Three days would have been hardly enough for those that would have been glad to see the exhibit.

A peculiar thing happens at my mother-in-law's yesterday, where the police are summoned for to subdue their black woman cook. This cook being told to clean certain windows with alcohol. Which she does by first drinking the alcohol and then breathing on the pane. But the liquor do excite her presently and she smashes half the windows on one side of the house meanwhile shouting that she is a wild Congo black woman and eats livers raw!

Out to the shows last night and to see Miss Marie Lohr in "The Marionettes." The best acting we had for a long time and withal uproarious comedy touched with a hint of tragedy. A mighty good show deserving of our best support, not only the chief actress, but her whole staff of cultured players. The men actors also notable in that they wear these new bell-bottomed trousers, looking the most sailor-like in the world and mean to have my tailor make my new suit on this pattern. Which reminds me how the chief male actor, with his bell-bottomed trousers, starts choking his wife to death; which wife, Mis Lohr, the whole audience have fallen in love with, and I hear a rough-looking man beside me whisper to himself: "I wish I had my gun, I wish I had my gun!"

"COM-TEC" CLUB IS ORGANIZED AT "Y"

The Technical-Commercial students, under the leadership of Principal A. D. Hone, organized a new club, called the "Com-Tec," at the Y. M. C. A., last night. Representatives of the students and the faculty met at 4.30 with the secretary of the boys' work board, drew up a constitution and elected officers for the coming year.

A. D. Hone was elected honorary president and the following officers were installed in office: President, Jack Appleford; first vice-president, C. Bradshaw; second vice-president, P. Birch; secretary, A. Penn, and treasurer, C. Mills. The club plans to have eminent speakers address the boys on helpful subjects, and has for its slogan "Clean speech, clean athletics and clean living."

The four-fold aim of the club is: (1) to develop the spiritual nature of the members; (2) to promote a spirit of help the other fellow; (3) to aid its members in a choice of a life work, and (4) to maintain high moral in the school. One night a month they will divide into four study groups under the leadership of technical masters for the purpose of studying life problems.

RAILWAYS ASSIST THE UNEMPLOYED

Improve Many Miles of Right-of-Way.

PAINT GANGS ARE ACTIVE

Bridges and Buildings Are Being Touched Up.

Superintendent Robert McKillop, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, to-day announced a plan which has been adopted to improve many miles of the company's right-of-way and in this way assist in relieving the unemployment situation.

Executive members of the Canadian Pacific Railway state that it is not really essential that this work be carried out immediately, but contend that it will provide additional employment and in this way assist in keeping many Canadians at work.

Several hundred miles of right-of-way will be improved in the London division, and divisional superintendents in other sections of the railroad have instructed their staffs to carry out a similar plan.

Thirteen bridge and building gangs are at present employed in this division of the Canadian Pacific railway, repainting the buildings and bridges, and every signal is also being given a coat of paint.

Maintenance-of-way work will continue as long as weather conditions permit.

TORONTO POLICE LAND THREE BANK ROBBERS

Foreigners in Police Net, Much Loot Recovered.

TORONTO, Oct. 22. — The Toronto police have made three arrests in connection with the robbery here of the Bank of Hamilton branch, at College street and Osington avenue, on Tuesday last. G. Kopalansky is at present charged with having in his possession some of the money taken from the bank, while another foreigner, whose name is said to be J. Sarchuk, is alleged to have been the driver of the car in which the bandits escaped. A third suspect is at present under examination by the police. All the arrests were made in the foreign quarter of the city. It is understood that a considerable portion of the $3,000 taken from the bank has been recovered.

Three suspects following the Bank of Hamilton robbery on Tuesday were arrested this morning by squads of detectives and plainclothesmen. The men arrested are foreigners. The first man was arrested in a house at 65 Denison avenue, by Detective Wm. Archibald and Plainclothesman Beach.

The man was captured at this house when he called for mail. The officers were waiting for him and let him enter the house. They followed him in and took him into custody. He had no gun and did not say a word to the officers and was brought to police headquarters.

The two other men were arrested at 62 Central avenue, Detectives Cronin, Tuft, Leavitt, Mullholland, Ward and Stewart surrounding this house. Mullholland, Cronin and Leavitt went into the house. Entering the room the officers found the two men looking out of the window.

When the men were being searched one of them pulled a gun and shoved it up against Detective Mullholland's stomach.

Cronin and Leavitt closed in on them and secured the gun and there was a general mixup in the room.

One of the suspects had to be beaten over the head before he was subdued. Joe Kapalansky, one of the men in the room, had a large sum of money, composed of $10 and $20 bills of the Bank of Hamilton.

Manager Warren, of the Bank of Hamilton, who was held up, was brought to headquarters and without hesitation identified a man named Sarchuk, arrested on Denison avenue, as the driver of the car, when confronted with him in police headquarters in a room of 20 men. He also identified Kapalansky.

A motor car was found by the police in a private garage and was seized by the police. This machine gave the clue to the police, who guarded the houses where the men were arrested all night.

FIRE MARSHAL SAYS BLAZE INCENDIARY

Apparent Preparation for Fire on Heavily Insured Thorold Store.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 22.—"The clearest case of a souvenir ever heard of," declared Fire Marshal Heaton, in summing up the evidence taken in his investigation on the fire in the store of Frank Acconza at Thorold last evening. The marshal warned the parties interested that he would advise the crown attorney to proceed with criminal action. The contents of the store and ice cream parlor had been insured for $11,000. Evidence was given that inflammable material had been placed in several sections of the establishment and fire started in several spots.

SEEKS GUILTY FLEAS.

That plague has been spread by means of fleas, which normally live on rats, has long been known. Medical science and governments have long made attacks on rats, but Major F. W. Cragg, of the Central Research Institute, Kasauli, India, claims that as only a certain species of mosquito carries fevers so only a certain species of fleas are to blame for spreading bubonic plague. He is now making a special study of all varieties of fleas in India to discover the guilty one.

MANNA STILL FALLS.

Manna is found now in the regions of Upper Mesopotamia and Kurdistan and along the Persian frontier.

It falls in the form of dew during September, October and November, and lodges upon the leaves of oak trees. It hardens immediately and assumes the form of a grain.

Early in the morning it is gathered by spreading sheets beneath the trees, which are shaken, and the manna is then collected and stored for winter, to be used as a food or shipped to Bagdad for sale in the bazaar.

The manna falls on other vegetation, including grass, but all of it is lost except that gathered from the oak leaves. It is sweet and is eaten by the natives as a substitute for sugar or honey.

HAVE PENSION PLAN READY SOON

City Council Will Have Full Scheme Within Few Days.

TO AFFECT YOUNGER MEN

Special Provision Likely For Long Service Officials.

Plans for the establishing of pensions and retirement benefits for civic employees will be in the hands of the City Council within 10 days, John G. Richter stated to-day.

The civic pension scheme will affect, it is understood, only the younger city employees, but special provision will probably be made for the retirement of long service officials.

Every city department will adopt the pension system if the Council leads the way in the matter. The Public Utilities Commission and the L. & P. S. officials have stated that they would follow the example of the aldermanic body in the matter.

It is considered likely that under the pension system each employee will be required to pay a small sum each week as a sort of superannuation tax. Such payments would be supplemented by the City Council and other departments adopting the pension idea.

Some city employees do not look favorably on the proposed pension plan because of the suggested superannuation payments. Some state that old age should be provided against by higher salaries, which the recipient could invest as he saw fit.

On the other hand, citizens favoring the pension scheme state that employees might be retained, if there were no superannuation allowance, long after they had ceased to be useful, simply because of aldermanic reluctance to discharge faithful servants who would be unable to secure work elsewhere.

CLAIM OPEN DITCH IS SERIOUS MENACE

Motorists Have Trouble at Night on New London-Lambeth Highway.

Many local motorists are making plans for a war on the county, claiming that the Lambeth highway has been left in an unfinished condition and, as such, is a menace to the safety of traveling motorists.

One resident of the city met with a serious accident on this highway on Thursday night, when he was blinded for a time by the glaring headlights of a car coming towards him from the opposite direction and he, unable to see ahead of his own area, steered into a three-foot ditch which runs along the road on both sides, with no obstruction on the edge of the road to prevent them from doing so. Luckily he sustained no other injuries than a severe shaking up, but his car was so badly damaged that it was necessary to have it hauled in to a local garage for repairs.

Motorists claim that this ditch, which drains the water away from the road, is a detriment to the county and will be responsible for a fatal accident unless put in condition by laying tile and covering them over with sand or gravel, so that the road and both sides will be on a level and, if they are forced to turn out, or are blinded for the moment by an approaching car's headlight, they will not end up in a heap in the ditch.

SOLDIERS STILL TALK OVER $1 A DAY GRANT

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 22—A resolution reaffirming the resolution by the Montreal convention last year of a cash gratuity of $1 per diem for every day of service, to be paid to returned soldiers by the Government, precipitated a strenuous debate last night, which had not been concluded at the adjournment of the Great War Veterans' convention and will be continued to-day.

KITCHENER LIQUOR SEIZURE.

KITCHENER, Oct. 21.—A stock of liquor large enough to supply a small-sized bar was ordered seized by Magistrate Weir in the police court here to-day. The liquor is valued at $5,000. It was found in the garage of E. Kertcher, Homewood avenue. The liquor was addressed to W. H. Bender, St. Clair Beach, Essex County.

Decisive Step

The body was authorized to secure the necessary legal assistance to report to the union committee and through it to the supreme courts of the three churches.

COMMITTEE HAS IT.

The members of the committee are.

Methodist—Hon. N. W. Rowell, Toronto, convener; A. W. Briggs, K. C., Toronto; Sir J. A. M. Aikens, Winnipeg; Justice Chesley, Lunenburg, N. S.; Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, Toronto; Rev. Dr. T. A. Moore, Toronto.

Presbyterian—Justice Sutherland, Toronto; Angus McMurchy, K. C., Toronto; Rev. Dr. Drummond, Hamilton; Principal D. Fraser, Montreal; Principal C. McKibbon, Halifax; Professor R. Baird, Winnipeg.

Congregationalist—Rev. Dr. W. T. Gunn, Toronto; Rev. George Adams, Montreal, and J. T. Field.

The resolution on departmental cooperation opens the way for linking up the educational, missionary and social service activities of the three bodies pending actual union.

Expression of the action on amalgamation of individual charges was brief but to the point. "We give hearty encouragement to our congregations and our church courts that are considering rearrangement of their field."

THE WESTERN SITUATION.

Several motions were adopted dealing with the situation in Western Canada. These invited the general council of local union churches to send three corresponding members to future meetings of the joint union committee; commended the loyalty of the union churches to the union bodies, suggested that local synods, conferences and associations invite laymen from the union churches to attend their sessions; increased the representatives of the parent churches on the committee advising the Western churches, and authorized a revision of the basis on which these churches have been amalgamating.

To carry on the work of the joint union committee an executive of 25 members was appointed as follows: Rev. Dr. S. D. Chown, Rev. Albert Moore, D. D.; Rev. David Graham, D. D.; Rev. James Endicott, D. D.; Rev. W. Heartz, D. D.; Hon. N. W. Rowell, Sir J. Flavelle, Col. C. B. Keenleyside, Elmer Davis, Cyrus Birge, Rev. Dr. G. C. Pidgeon, Sir Robert Falconer, Rev. J. H. Edmison, D. MR. KING CURIOUS ABOUT SHELLS

Writes to Premier Meighen About Shipload He Saw

UNLOADED AT QUEBEC

Wants to Know Why Munitions Are Shipped Here

GUELPH, Oct. 22.—(Special to The Free Press.)—"No munitions," said Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, at 1 o'clock this morning "have been purchased since the war except a few spare parts to put in shape such material as we have in Canada. At the end of the war the British Government handed over to Canada a tremendous amount of equipment to replace the amount of equipment which Canada had taken over to England and France during the war. It has been coming to Canada from time to time since the war. It is quite possible that some of that handed over during the war may have recently arrived in Canada. The House of Commons was informed last session and the session before that the British Government was sending this equipment.

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—In a letter written by himself to the prime minister copies of which were given to the Canadian Press to-night Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, places a series of questions publicly before Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen respecting purchase and shipments of munitions from England to Canada during the present summer and states that these questions are "all-important and are deserving of an immediate and explicit reply."

In explaining the manner of putting his questions the Liberal leader stated that had Parliament been in session he would have questioned the Government in the House. However, since Parliament is dissolved he has taken the present course as one which places the questions before the prime minister as publicly as would have been done had Parliament been sitting.

Mr. King's letter follows:

"The Right Hon. Arthur Meighen,
K. C., P. C.,
"Ottawa, Oct. 21, 1921.

C., P. C.,
"Prime Minister of Canada,
"Ottawa, Ont.

"Dear Mr. Meighen:

"On my return journey from the Maritime Provinces, on the afternoon of the day before yesterday, as the train stopped at Levis, Que., I took advantage of the few moments' wait at the station to walk as far as the Levis wharf. Observing that one of the vessels of the Canadian Government merchant marine, the Canadian Runner, was docked at the wharf, I walked toward where the vessel was in order to see the nature of the cargo which was being unloaded. To my surprise I found that the ship's cargo was composed, apparently exclusively, of munitions of war in the nature of 'high explosive' shells. From 30 to 40 soldiers in uniform were engaged in unloading the vessel. On the lading and the embankment, over an area comprising several hundred square yards, boxes upon boxes, filled apparently with these high explosive shells, were piled one upon the other to an average height of about four feet. In addition, on a railway siding paralleling the wharf I counted nine box cars into which the explosives were being loaded, all of which were more or less filled. There appeared to be many more carloads of shells aboard the ship. The boxes I saw were marked, 'Fire or destroy before 6.25,' the meaning being that after June, 1925, the effectiveness of the munitions would not be guaranteed.

"On inquiry I was told that the munitions had come to Canada from England; that they were being distributed to ordnance stores throughout Canada, not to ocean ports, such as Esquimalt and Halifax only, but to supply depots and stores in all the provinces, including the City of Quebec itself. I was further informed that the S. S. Canadian Runner, of the Canadian Government merchant marine, was the fifth vessel of the Government fleet to have come from England laden with high explosives of the character described and those cargoes have been unloaded at and distributed from the ports of Levis since the return from England of yourself, Mr. Guthrie, the Minister of Militia and Defense, and Mrs. Ballantyne, the minister of marine and naval affairs.

"Were Parliament in session I should, of course, deem it my duty immediately to question yourself and your ministers with regard to this whole matter. Parliament, however, is dissolved. Under the circumstances it has seemed to me that my obvious duty to the people of Canada is to bring this matter at once to your attention and to address to you in public the questions which, had Parliament been in session, I would have addressed to you across the floor of the House of Commons.

DID CANADA PURCHASE THEM?

"1. Am I right in believing that it is at the instance of the Government of Canada that the Canadian Government steamer, Canadian Runner, has been employed to bring to Canada the munitions of war being unloaded at Levis this week and that they are being bought and paid for in England out of the monies contributed through taxation by the people of Canada? If the munitions being unloaded from the Canadian Runner are not for the Government of tributed, and to what uses is it intended they shall be put?

"4. Is it true that other shiploads of Canada, or are not being paid for by the Government, for whom are they intended and how have they been obtained?

"2. Is the British Government in any way a party to the shipment of these munitions and does the shipment owe its origin directly or indirectly to action taken by the conference of premiers recently attended by you in England? In justice to the British Government, I think a very clear statement should be made by you as to this.

OTHER QUESTIONS.

"3. To what points in Canada, or elsewhere, are the munitions being dismunitions have been brought to Canada from England or abroad during the present year, and if so, what quantities have come to our shores since Parliament adjourned in June last?

"5. Finally, if these munitions are for the Government of Canada, on what authority of the Parliament of Canada and under what appropriation made by Parliament have these or any other munitions been purchased outside of Canada during the present year?

"You will realize that, in view of the approaching international conference on disarmament at Washington, the extent of unemployment in Canada during the last year and at the present time, and the representations made to the returned soldiers with respect to public monies available for purposes of relief, those questions are all-important and are deserving of an immediate and explicit rely.

"Yours sincerely,

"W. L. Mackenzie King."

CLAIM $5,000 FOR INJURY TO RACE HORSE

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—The sum of $5,000 for injuries to a horse is the claim preferred by Mose Lowenstein and James Heffering against Frank Dunlop, of Hamilton, before Justice Rose in the nonjury assizes at the city hall to-day. On June 21 Muskrat Lady, a racing horse, was being taken from the railway yards at Hamilton to the race track, when it fell into a coal hopper in the yards. Dunlop claims that the hopper was on the property of the Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and that the owners of the horse were negligent in leading it through the yards at night without a light.

MARIE LOHR IN "MARIONETTES"

Delicious Comedy of Life Given Exquisite Interpretation

AT THE GRAND THEATER

Clever English Actress Wins New Laurels Here

Pierre Wolff's interesting comedy, "The Marionettes," is a detached little bit out of life. As it comes to one over the footlights it is so real one feels almost as though one must have had an eye and an ear at somebody's keyhole. To repeat what one has so shamefully heard and seen seems very much as though, like one of the characters in the piece, someone has told one a secret and one has run right off and betrayed his story.

And yet, because in every part of the world and in all ages, the course of love has to encounter rapids and boilers, one may be permitted to say that Fernande de Forney, married out of her convent to the Marquis Roger de Monchars, for whom she has conceived a young girl's passion, is by that act floated out on to a stream of life upon which so frail a barque as she can know no very smooth sailing. It is the old French story of a marriage of convenience, touched by the old French logic. "The loving is seldom the beloved, and if in the end either woman or man make a conquest the one of the other, the conquest is not so much the conquest of love as it is the conquest of glamour. Pierre Wolff teaches that the thing a Frenchman sees slipping away from him is the thing he finally becomes mad about. He teaches hurt love to hide itself under smiles of indifference. And Frenchman or no Frenchman, the dramatist who wishes to report on life, has for such teachings some very good reasons. To want what one cannot have is the Eden adventure. But that as Mr. Kipling would say, is another story.

Some dramatists write a plot and then bend and warp their personages until they fit them into it, like blocks in a puzzle.

Other dramatists conceive a set for personages and then weave about them a set of circumstances.

Yet other dramatists know that character, like virtue, is its own reward. Such a dramatist is Pierre Wolff. Character is his keynote—the rest follows.

It thus happens that the rather commonplace situation of a young girl unhappily married to the man she loves and cannot win, is redeemed by the existence of two most exquisite characters: Fernande, that honest, that simple, that sincere and loving heart, and Monsieur de Ferney, Fernande's uncle, the one-hundredth Frenchman; since every one allows that one Frenchman in every hundred is a creature of unblemished perfection, a being artless, tender, and as wise as he is witty. Such a Frenchman is Monsieur de Ferney.

The role of Fernande is one of Miss Marie Lohr's early successes. She played it in an interval of her long association with His Majesty's opposite Mr. John Hare. She plays it still with the naivete, the candor and the innocence of the young girl she then was. She plays it with the growing dignity inseparable in a character like that of Fernande from increased experience. She plays it, at last, with the passion of a woman who loves and who sees the man she loves at her feet. Once that man succumbs to a similar passion every pulse-beat under the blue veins in her white wrist is his lover and servant. It is a way great women like Fernande have when they are worshipped.

To pick a piece out of Miss Lohr's so exquisite performance, one remembers best of all, perhaps, the poignancy and the pathos of her confession of love in the first act. That was not acting, it was living. Tender and forgiving as she was thereafter, Fernande never rose to such a height as that again.

Playing opposite Miss Lohr, in the character of Monsieur de Ferney, is Mr. Herbert Ross, the most delightful one-hundredth Frenchman it is possible to imagine. Such trembling age and yet such childlike gaiety of heart. Such old world courtesy and yet such modern understanding. Such guilelessness and yet such affectionate guile. Such cunning and the intrigue of a young love. The Machiavelism of affection. All this Mr. Ross portrays with a delicacy and a refinement that places him in the forefront of polite comedians. He wins all hearts. When the curtain falls his audience wishes he might rise again in an old French garden that would show them Monsieur de Ferney, like the great Fabre himself, among his flowers and his bees.

Mr. Herbert Marshall, who gave such a convincing characterization of the role of Count Loris Ipanoff, in "Fedore," played last night the character of the Marquis Roger de Monclars, Fernande's husband. The role does not afford Mr. Marshal exactly the same scope for his passionate emotionalism as that afforded by the role of Ipanoff. Nevertheless he makes of it a very significant part, his beautiful voice standing him in good stead for those outbursts of jealousy, hurt pride and frustrated desire which impress the character of de Monclars upon the audience but fail to endear him.

Mr. Frederick Worlock made the most of his short role of Pierre Varein, the unsuccessful lover of the married Fernande. Miss Helen Haye brought her sunniest best to play upon the rather thankless part of Lucienne de Gussy. Mr. Bryan Powley, though he is unfortunately cast for the role of an amorous Parisian and a man about town, did some very good acting in the part of Raymond Nizerolles. The company loses somewhat in the modern dress necessary to "The Marionettes" of the impression it created in the more romantic and picturesque Fedora. For all that, many of the scenes were excellently taken.

Miss Lohr's dresses are always chosen in exquisite taste. She looked lovely in her ball dress, but not quite so lovely, perhaps, as in the wren-like costume of the young marquise just out of her convent. Miss Haye was particularly smart in the lace costume of the first act.

A large audience and much genuine enthusiasm was shown. Miss Lohr has won the hearts, too, of this, the other London.

KENT FARMERS TO NAME A. M'COIG?

Nominating Convention to Be Held at Chatham To-Day

FOLLOW CRERAR PLATFORM

Liberal Candidate Is Not Tied to Any Platform

CHATHAM, Oct. 21.—The United Farmers of Kent County will hold a convention in this city to-morrow to nominate a candidate to contest the federal election, and it is the prevailing opinion among a large number of the delegates that the nomination may be offered to A. B. McCoig, who was recently nominated an Independent Liberal candidate. Officials of the United Farmers state to-day that a large section of the farmers are willing to give the nomination to McCoig if he will subscribe to the Crerar platform.

At the recent Liberal convention Mr. McCoig did not adopt the Liberal platform, but accepted the nomination with the right to support the policies of all political parties, which he considered in the interests of the people of his riding. As a result he is not at present tied down to any policy, and the object of the farmers in offering him their nomination will be to induce him to take a definite stand in order that the people of Kent will know his position in regard to the issues of the day.

THE ALTERNATIVE

In the event of Mr. McCoig deciding to remain independent and neutral to all parties it is believed the United Farmers will select a candidate of their own and contest his election. Among the names prominently mentioned in connection with the nomination is A. McDiarmid, who at present seems to be the favorite with a large section of the farming community.

Frank Appleyard, executive officer of the Kent Children's Aid Society, discovered a very pitiable case in Thamesville yesterday. He found a family, including the wife and husband and three children living in a horse stable, along with the horses and other live stock. The family had been turned out of their home and were unable to secure another on account of the scarcity of houses in Thamesville. The family had all the necessaries of life except a house in which to live. The children were taken to the shelter in this city until such time as the parents are able to rent a suitable home.

DRESDEN GOES WILD

High Constable George Peters has received a complaint to the effect that booze was running freely at a dance held in the Town of Dresden last night. The complainant, who is a citizen of Dresden, told of seeing some of the guests lying in the gutters on the street in an intoxicated condition. Peters is in Dresden to-day investigating the case.

The clubhouse on Lake St. Clair, near Mitchell's Bay, owned by W. B. Wells, of this city, was entered last night and a quantity of stuff taken. The police are investigating.

The Moravianton Fair, which was held yesterday, was a great success. High Constable Peters and his staff were on hand to enforce law and order, but their services were not needed. They turned a band of gypsies off the grounds for telling fortunes, but outside of this there was no evidence of disregard for the law.

IMPROVE THE FORUM

Active plans are being undertaken by the local Chamber of Commerce to make the forum meetings of the chamber a real force in the community during the coming winter season. A discussion of the need for an incinerator in Chatham has been chosen as the subject for the first meeting, which will be held before the next election, when the incinerator question will be voted upon. The forum meetings will be thrown open to the general public.

While riding a bicycle on Fifth street this morning a young man named Delmer Patterson, King street west, was knocked to the pavement by a motorist and received a severe cut on his forehead. He was removed to his home, where he is progressing favorably.

William Goodreau, of Harwich, who was injured in an automobile accident at the M. C. R. crossing at Charing Cross yesterday, is still confined to St. Joseph's Hospital, but it is reported today that his condition is improving.

QUICK WORK

Chief Groves was notified yesterday of the theft of an automobile in Windsor and shortly after the message was received the machine was located in this city and sent back to Windsor.

Householders in North Chatham are complaining that sneak thieves are in the habit of stealing money from milk bottles, as it is a difficult thing to catch the thieves.

The death occurred this morning at 4.30 of Cyrus Nelson, aged 73 years, at his late residence, 24 Violet street. Deceased was a well-known carpenter of this city and was taken ill only yesterday. He leaves his wife and three daughters, Mrs. Wilson, of Duluth; Mrs. Maisonville, of Detroit, and Mrs. Berube, of St. Thomas, also one brother, James, of Victoria, B.C.

Mrs. Lena Peck, wife of Chester Peck, of Tilbury Township, passed away last evening in St. Joseph's Hospital, where she was taken for an operation, after a very sudden illness. She was 25 years of age and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Antaya, of Raleigh. Besides her husband she leaves her parents, three sisters, Mrs. Fred Mayhew, of Dover; Sylvia and Rose at home, and one brother, Arthur, of Tilbury North. The funeral will be held on Monday to St. Francis Church, Tilbury, leaving the home of her parents in Raleigh.

The stormy weather last night did not to any great extent reduced the audience at the Methodist concert. Some splendid solos, duets and quartets were rendered by the choir of the Central Church, St. Thomas.

Fish catches yesterday were fairly good, the Wilma bringing home a haul of three tons and the Elgin E. two tons.

VALERA'S LETTER ALMOST UPSET IT

Critical Stage Reached In Irish Negotiations.

DELEGATES READY TO LEAVE

"Ship Barely Afloat," Opinion of One Dail Member.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—The negotiations between British officials and Sinn Fein leaders to-day barely escaped being broken off, and for a time it seemed possible that the Sinn Fein delegates would return to Dublin to-night, it was learned after to-day's adjournment was taken. The Sinn Fein delegates still were apprehensive this afternoon that the session scheduled for next Monday might be the last.

No progress was made at to-day's meeting, it was said, a combination of events bringing about what practically amounted to an impasse. The Government delegates, according to Sinn Fein sources, took violent exception to Eamonn de Valera's message to the Pope and this, with other subjects, including that of Ulster, which were down for discussion, left the negotiations hanging by a mere string.

"BARELY AFLOAT"

The Dail delegates were very much depressed this afternoon, for there was little doubt that the delegation was anxious to reach some sort of an agreement. One of them said gloomily:

"The ship is barely afloat."

There are no plans for any meetings between members of the two delegations over the week-end. Consequently the situation must hang fire, it was understood, until Monday's session, which will be faced with the decision of whether it is to be "peace or war."

Besides Ulster, the conference to-day had reached the question of the army and navy, which are critical ones, but the Government delegates took occasion to mention Mr. De Valera's letter which admittedly had embarrassed the proceedings. There was said to be reason to believe that the letter was written without consultation with the Irish delegates in London. As a statement of principle, the Dail delegates indorse it, but they did not find it helpful. They had expected that by the end of next week the issue raised by the letter would have been clarified.

DEFEND DE VALERA.

The Sinn Fein delegates defended the letter by the argument that when the King, which to them means the Government, writes to the pope presuming Ireland's duty of allegiance to it, it was necessary to make it perfectly clear that they recognized no such allegiance while the question remains open. The object of the negotiations, they pointed out, was to close that question one way or the other. The suggestion of some English papers that Mr. De Valera acted under pressure from Irish extremists was discredited by Sinn Fein quarters here.

Some papers here suggest that the terms of the pope's letter to King George this week imply that if war should be renewed in Ireland the Catholic Church might take sides against the Sinn Fein. From inquiries in high ecclesiastical quarters here, however, it may be said that so far as the Catholic Church officials here can foresee, the Church, in the event of a rupture of negotiations, would follow the same attitude it has followed during the last two years.

The young man is a Great War veteran, and his lungs are affected as a result of being gassed.

SAY LIBERAL STAND NOT UP-TO-DATE

President Mrs. Pugsley at yesterday's meeting of the W. C. T. U. moved that a communication be sent to Hon. Mackenzie King, asking him to bring the Liberal party up-to-date on liquor question. This was done on the receipt of a telegram from Mr. King on the stand of the Liberal party on this question in 1919. This telegram is as follows:

"In reply to your wire just received I have the pleasure in informing you that the position of the Liberal party on the control of the liquor traffic was defined in a resolution unanimously adopted at the National Liberal convention held in Ottawa in August, 1919. The terms of this resolution are as follows: 'Whereas, the regulation, restriction and prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors within their several jurisdictions are vested in the provinces. This convention is firmly of the opinion that when for the effective enforcement of restrictive or prohibitive legislation enacted by any province, supplemented by federal legislation, is by legislation by the said provinces deemed necessary, such legislation should in the interests of said legislation be enacted by the Federal Parliament.'"

MILLIONS YOUNG FISH FOR ONTARIO WATERS

300,000,000 Fry To Be Planted Early Next Spring.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—It is the hope of Dr. McDonald, deputy minister of game and fisheries, to plant 300,000,000 young fish in Ontario waters next spring. All preparations are under way to make the big grade from 158,000,000 this year.

Up in Lake Superior especially the men of the department are now busily at work collecting the spawn for the Government hatcheries. These are situated at Fort Francis, Port Arthur, Sault Ste. Marie, Mount Pleasant and Normandale. All these 300,000,000 eggs and thousands more which will not hatch have to be scraped off the female fish and later fertilized at the hatcheries.

Different fish spawn at different seasons. Those being at the present time are whitefish, salmon and speckled trout. All through the winter the young fish will be kept in hatchery waters. How long the process of protection is can be understood from the fact that not till next April will the trout be planted in the streams and lakes.

SEEKING MRS. SYNNOTT.—Mayor Little has been asked for information concerning Mrs. Ann Synnott and John and Thomas Synnott, who lived in London when last heard of by the daughter and sister, Mrs. Beatrice Ellen Conklin, of 14905 Thames avenue, Cleveland. Mrs. Conklin, in a letter to the mayor, states that she has not heard from her brothers since 1908. Any information may be sent to her in Cleveland.

ENGLISH CHURCH FUNDS IN PERIL

Financial State Under Self-Government Gives Anxiety

CLERGY CAN'T PAY TAXES

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The financial state of the Anglican Church, under its new system of semi-self-government, continues to give the keenest anxiety.

The central board of finance requires £80,000 to meet the barest requirements before the end of the year. Unfortunately many dioceses frankly intimate their inability to meet the amounts which they are expected to collect towards the central fund, which consequently is in danger of collapse.

During the war the Church of England pomised those men found suitable for ordination that they would be trained at the expense of the whole church. Two hundred and fifty have already accepted, but the financial position of the church gives little hope of the promise being further redeemed, and the training college, at Knutsford, is threatened, consequently, with extinction. Many critics, in fact, condemn the making of this promise, seeing the present unhappy conditions of so many men who have given their whole lives to the ministry of the established church. Hardly a week passes, for example, when some harassed clerge is not brought before the court for failure to pay his local taxes.

It is further alleged that reforms were long overdue, which no central fund could have remedied. The retiring bishops in four dioceses take pensions which cripple their successors and in one case at least it is asserted the retiring bishop is not in need of such pension.

The whole-hearted reformers cry out for getting rid of the bishops' palaces, of deaneries and of other official residences. This course, they declare, would encounter much official opposition, but would meet with the clamour of popular approval and support. Critics of this kind even affirm that disestablishment with partial disendowment is the only real remedy and would mean building again from the beginning, but able laymen who are now standing aloof from church affairs because of the way they are managed, would come heart and soul to the work of reconstruction.

FORMALLY DECLINES TO RUN IN EAST ELGIN

AYLMER, Oct. 21.—At a meeting of the executive of the East Elgin Reform Association to-night Dr. Colin Sinclair formally declined the nomination accorded him on October 11. A new convention has been called for October 31 to select a candidate. An informal discussion following the announcement seemed to leave a feeling that the field would be left open to the National Liberal and Conservatives and the United Farmers.

NOT IN ACCORD.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Apparently E. A. Pocock, of London, a labor man of considerable prominence, is not in accord with Hon. T. A. Crerar, who is looked upon as the leader of the U.F.O., I.L.P., and other so-called progressive forces. At least in an address at the local club rooms of the I.L.P. here last night he announced officially that the amalgamated parties are not as has been stated, in favor of free trade. In spite of the fact that Hon. T. A. Crerar has declared otherwise, Mr. Pocock spent some time outlining the policy of the party, which he declared to be one of equal rights for all.

DRY CANADA IS AIM OF W.C.T.U.

Provincial Body Closes Convention With String of Resolutions

FAVOR BUYING AT HOME

Condemn Food Hoarding, and Executions in County Jails

Standing firm for stringent dry laws, for the support of home industries and for the suppression of the nicotine habit among women and minors, the provincial body of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday closed its forty-fourth annual convention with a series of momentous resolutions, dealing with the leading topics of the day, chief of which was one calling for absolute prohibition in Canada.

The importation of foreign foodstuffs, tending to aggravate the conditions of nonemployment in this country; the hoarding of foodstuffs, with the resultant high prices and wastage; the carrying out of the death penalty in county towns and the establishment of laws detrimental to the women of the province in their homes and in industry were strongly deprecated by the convention in the acceptance of the resolutions presented by Mrs. Cameron (Toronto), convener of the resolutions committee.

A resolution, urging that French be made a subject of study in the curriculum of the Ontario public schools, was thrown out by the convention on the ground that the subject was too debatable to bring into discussion. Mrs. Haskett, of Ottawa, spoke strongly in favor of the resolution, stating that in her city and in other parts of Canada the French tongue was so essential that good salaries were falling to a great extent to French people.

YOUNG SMOKERS.

From the plan of work committee came a recommendation, deploring the increased consumption of cigarettes among the growing youths of the province and urging the W. C. T. U. to take up the matter educationally, seeing ot it that teachers in public and high schools were supplied with copies of the Dominion and provincial statutes, so reaching the children through the only available avenue, and showing respect for the law by laying complaints to the officers of the law, where there is clear need for better enforcement.

The resolutions concerning the nicotine evil were the signal for some pithy comments from the delegates, one of whom had encountered a woman smoker on her journey here, who had been requested to retire to the smoking car of the train.

The decision to amalgamate provincial and Dominion W. C. T. U. official organs into one Dominion publication, to bear the present name of the Ontario organ, was reached only after a strenuous discussion, during which a number of officers and delegates held out firmly for the continued independent publication of the Ontario provincial paper.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

Outstanding resolutions adopted by the convention include the following:

"Whereas, the producer of foodstuffs is underpaid and the consumer is overcharged. Resolved, that excessive profits of the middleman be made prohibitive and that all foodstuffs in cold storage be subject to inspection by boards of health, who shall be empowered to seize and sell, while marketable, these supplies to prevent wastage or exorbitant prices.

"Whereas persons guilty of capital offenses are confined in county jails, poorly equipped for their safe-guarding; and whereas when one such person is to pay the extreme penalty in a community where he is known, it suffers from morbid excitement and high nervous strain. Resolved, that the government be petitioned to enact that such a person, after sentence is given, be removed to some central place, and that he suffer the penalty in that place, and not in a county town as heretofore."

"Resolved also, that we reiterate our petition regarding the sustenance of a prisoner's family during his term of imprisonment, and that we urge that he be compelled to at least aid in the support of his dependents through some system of personal labor."

"Whereas Canadian workers are being left without employment at the present crisis of trade depression, and whereas the importation of foreign foodstuffs is an injury to the Canadian farmer; resolved, that the buyers be encouraged to buy Canadian goods, and to insist on satisfactory value, by lodging complaints of inferior quality goods with the Woman's Canadian Bureau of Information at Ottawa."

THE MOVIES.

"Whereas the movies are here to stay for the recreation of thousands; resloved, that we appoint a deputation to interview the Legislature to protest against any reduction of censorship boards and to request that more women be appointed on said boards."

"Resolved, that we express our gratitude for the untiring efforts of the premier and Government through the services of Attorney-General Raney, who in the face of sharp and malicious criticism hurled at him by men in high places stood and still stands for the enforcement of the Ontario Temperance Act; and that we also commend the attitude of the attorney-general in regard to race track gambling, to which we stand unflinchingly opposed."

"Whereas it has been found that no evil can be regulated, and that such regulation is contrary to divine law; resolved, that we press on for Dominion prohibition, and stand as ever opposed to any form of license or Government control, as being in opposition to the wills of the people; and that we reaffirm our desire to unitedly array the Christian women of our union against the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, and to educate and influence society in favor of sobriety and moral living."

"Resolved, that, because of the necessity for continued and increased attention to the study of scientific temperance, that the coming voters who are now in the schools may be prepared to intelligently support, enforce and perfect prohibitory laws; resolved, that we prepare ourselves for helpfulness along every line with teachers, pupils and school boards."

TREATMENT OF ALCOHOL.

The plan of works committee recommended:

"That something be done towards procuring legislation upon the matter of the treatment of alcohol, used for manufacture, to render it nonpotable before it is shipped from the factory";

"That as the present laws of the country with regard to the smoking of cigarettes among minors are not strictly enforced, we memorialize the W. C. T. U. to approach the Minister of Justice, asking for a thorough enforcement of the laws on our public statute books."

"That, having been granted the franchise, we use it to initiate and support laws that will protect women and children in the home and in industry; that we work for the election of men and women who will stand for purity and political equality, and for the extinction of the liquor traffic and the sale of cigarettes to minors, and that we appeal for legislation to name women jurors in cases concerning women and children."

A request that women might be admitted to the party conventions now being held, led to the following resolution, which was, however, tabled after much discussion:

"Whereas the women of Canada claim the right to choose not only the party which they will support, but also the candidates who shall represent their choice; resolved, that candidates of all political parties be chosen at open conventions to which all professing the principles of the party calling the convention shall be admitted without distinction as to sex, and without any limitations to members of any political clubs or associations."

The convention, which concluded with a devotional service, led by Mrs. S. G. E. McKee and Mrs. May R. Thornley, will, according to a decision reached yesterday, be held next year at Oshawa.

FINED $500 AND COSTS FOR HAVING A STILL

GUELPH, Oct. 21.—Convicted before Magistrate Watt to-day on a charge of having in his possession a still capable of distilling liquor, Patrick Dermo, an Italian resident of Thomas street, was find $500 and costs or six months imprisonment in default of payment. The charge against Dermo was laid as the result of a raid made recently at his home by License Inspector James O'Brien, Inland Revenue Collector Geo. J. Thorp, and Chief Rae, when a small still was seized.

TALK CHURCH UNION.

CAYUGA, Oct. 21.—Meetings will be held in the Methodist and Presbyterian churches next week to discuss church union.

Shall He Have A College Course?

THE question is often debated: — Is it worth while for the young man to spend four years in college? Does the expense of a university training pay?

Statistics show that while only two per cent. of the people of America are educated at college, no less than seventy per cent. of the leaders of the nation in politics, commerce and the church come from that little two per cent. of the people—"the college-trained group".

We all know that a college education is necessary for the adequate training of engineers, chemists, clergymen, actuaries and astronomers, but the evidence is also overwhelming in proving that the college-trained man wins in every other line of business endeavor.

Shall your boy become one of the leaders?

The answer depends very largely on his education.

He cannot get that vital college training without your help and encouragement.

"Are you going to send me to College?"

To make sure that the boy will obtain a college education, take out a policy of insurance on father's life that will mature at the age when the son will be ready to enter college. It is not hard to save the money for the college course in installments spread over ten to fifteen years.

There are Ten Year and Fifteen Year Mutual Life Policies that are ideal for this purpose. Ask the Mutual Life Agent about them.

Government Assists In Cattle Marketing

ig Shipments of Live Stock Arranged and Facilities for Export of Chilled Meat Are Being Developed

EFRIGERATING PLANT AT MONTREAL A FEATURE

erchant Ships Also Fitted for Trade; Effect of Fordney Tariff to Be Minimized

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—(Special to The ree Press.)—Cattle shipments to Great ritain from Canada, at the rate of ,000 head per month, have been arnged for by the Government and eps are also being taken towards deloping the chilled meat export business.

Some weeks ago the Government ent to the assistance of cattle raisers the East and West who had been rd hit by the Fordney tariff and was strumental in securing for them such edits from the banks as would viate the necessity of selling their ttle at a sacrifice.

At the same time negotiations for ttle accommodation in the boats to reat Britain were taken up and this now being availed of. The diversion the main business in Canadian cattle om the British to the American arket, which suddenly has been closed, d resulted in cattle shipping facilities the old country being greatly reced because the tariff was not offer. This condition is fast being recti d and about 15,000 head have been ported in the last two months. So g as they have landed at certain rts and slaughtered within a few ys the prohibition of the cattle emrgo does not apply.

olicy Embraces oth Export Methods

There has been always a divided inion as to whether it is better to ve the embargo removed or to delop the chilled meat industry allowing o slaughtering to be done in Canada. rliament itself has had various views. e policy of the Meighen Government broad enough to embrace both plans. e removal of the embargo, particuly on the grounds alleged as an exse for it, is advocated strongly and ems likely to avail while the developnt of the export business is being nsidered. Meanwhile accommodation secured for fairly heavy shipments onthly conforming to the restrictions the embargo.

This, along with the financial credits tablished goes far to maintain the e stock industry on its normal basis spite the adversity of the Fordney riff.

g Refrigerating ant to Be Built

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—(Special to e Free Press.)—Through the foreht and energy of the Dominion Govnment the farmers of Canada will on have as fine facilities as will be und in the world for the shipment chilled meat and dairy products to e European markets. The harbor mmission of Montreal is completing largest cold storage plant on the rth American continent. The building when finished will cost $2,000,000. is nine stories high and has accomodation of 3,500,000 cubic square feet. will be the most up-to-date and best uipped plant in the world. The harr commission itself has constructed building, the finances being furhed by the Dominion Government.

When this plant is in operation, and will be completed within the next w months, not only will the Montreal rbor Commission be in a position to ndle Canada's trade, but it is excted that a large amount of Westn American traffic in frozen meats d dairy products will reach Europe rough the Montreal port. In addition this modern cold storage plant the vernment has installed refrigerator uipment to handle chilled goods in steamers of the Canadian Governnt mercantile marine. Other steamrs as rapidly as possible and as needed ll be fitted up with proper facilities. The expectation of the Montreal harr authorities that they will be able divert American meat trade to Canian ports is based on the experience s year with the movement of grain. e port of Montreal this year has had record season. While American rts have been described as "graverds" Montreal harbor has been conted all season. There has been ndled this year up to September 31 rough Montreal 160,000,000 bushels of ain. This is double the record year the past. Of this enormous amount grain 60 per cent. has been Ameriin. In the past Canadian grain has me down the Great Lakes and a ge part of it diverted at Buffalo to ports of New York, Baltimore and ston. This year for the first time history the shoe has been on the er foot. American grain has flown Europe via Canadian ports.

This year Montreal has handled 42 cent. of all the grain on the cont. New York, previously the great ain port, handled only eight per nt.; Baltimore seven per cent. and ston but 43 per cent. The reinde of the grain traffic was moved Gal n and New Orleans.

Foster and a number of prominent London citizens, will reach this city to-morrow afternoon, between 4 and 4.30 o'clock. The train will be met at Talbot street by a monster parade of citizens. The Elgin Regimental Band will also be in attendance as well as prominent civic officials and the City Council. The party will then proceed to the city hall, where Mayor Brinkman will extend the freedom of the city and a civic address of welcome to the prime minister, who is the first to visit St. Thomas in 25 years.

The parade will then re-form and escort the visitor to the Grand Central Hotel, where a luncheon will be served. The meeting at which the premier will deliver his address will be held in the Star Theater, while arrangements have been made in case of an overflow to have a second meeting at the Engineers' Auditorium.

Citizens are asked to decorate their homes and assist in every way in making the welcome a memorable one.

NEARLY HIT BY PASSING TRAIN

Miss McPhail Has Narrow Escape on Way to Meeting

MOUNT FOREST, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—The large agricultural hall, which has been engaged for the Progressive meeting here, was about half filled when Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressives spoke this afternoon. Mount Forest lies on the northern fringe of North Wellington. Towns and townships of the neighboring constituencies were well represented in to-day's gathering.

Miss Agnes McPhail, Progressive candidate in the neighboring constituency of Southeast Grey, opened the proceedings after an exciting adventure at a railway crossing. The automobile in which Miss McPhail was traveling was just crossing the lines when a C. P. R. train came down the track. The passengers in the automobile were saved only by the driver turning the car into a ditch.

"Never again shall I be so close to death," Miss McPhail informed the audience. "If the C. P. R train had hit me no one knows where I should have been now." At this there was an outburst of laughter.

Miss McPhail closed by quoting popular lines on the poppies of Flanders' fields, and declared that the "foe" was "a bunch of financial autocrats seeking to rule this country for the benefit of the few."

John Pritchard, Progressive candidate in North Wellington, following, declared that he was willing to sign the "recall" resignation if asked to do so.

Mr. Crerar argued that what gave rise to the Progressive movement was a profound dissatisfaction with the way public affairs had been handled. "I am charged with being a Liberal in disguise," said Mr. Crerar, "yet I learn only this morning that in my own constituency of Marquette, a Liberal is to oppose me. Our friends who make this charge against me should look for something more substantial."

STRATFORD MASONS TO VISIT TORONTO LODGE

STRATFORD, Oct. 21.—A number of local Masons are expected to spend Saturday night in Toronto. Tecumseh Lodge has accepted an invitation to visit Kilwinning Lodge, in the Queen City, and memories of the good time spent when the Toronto brethren were in Stratford have led many of the members of Tecumseh to plan to take the trip to Toronto on Saturday. Mr. Smith Shaw, formerly of this city, is looking forward to welcoming a large number from here. The Masons will go down by regular trains, returning on Sunday morning.

Several hunting parties will be leaving next week and early in the following week for the hunting season. One party, to leave on Monday night, will be made up of Messrs. Alex. Fisher, J. A. McFadgen, A. McFadgen, D. A. McLachlan, Chas. Farquharson, Dr. H. W. Baker, C. R. Myers, Harry Peter and W. Turcott. They will go to Owen Sound, where they will be joined by another party from the intermediate towns, and then they will proceed to Killarney for the hunting season.

ALL DRURY FLOCK TO JOIN CRERAR

Farmers Will Stage Their Big Fight In Ontario.

KEEN AND UNCERTAIN

General Admission That This Province Is Real Problem.

SEAFORTH, Ont., Oct. 21.—(Staff Correspondent Canadian Press.)—The present week's tour of Hon. T. A. Crerar in Ontario is but a preliminary to the main fight to come.

Following a meeting in Shelburne on Saturday afternoon Mr. Crerar will proceed to Toronto, where he spends Sunday. On Sunday evening he will leave for Montreal, where he will pass Monday. On Monday evening he leaves for Woodstock, N. B., where he opens his Maritime Province campaign on Tuesday. After 10 days or so in the Maritime Provinces he plans to return to Ontario and the Progressives will stage their principal battle. It is expected that when Mr. Crerar returns practically all the members of the Drury Government will join in the campaign, for on all sides it is admitted that in Ontario the fighting will be keenest and the result most uncertain.

Already the Ontario battle has assumed the character of a long-range debte. As Mr. Crerar sped into the Hurons yesterday he crossed the track of the prime minister, who had been through the counties the day previously. From Goderich on Wednesday night the prime minister attacked the Progressive movement; from Wingham, in the same county of North Huron, Mr. Crerar replied the following afternoon, and immediately after the Wingham meeting motored to Seaforth, to carry the fight into South Huron, the county in which he was born.

LOBO WOMEN GUESTS OF HYDE PARK INSTITUTE

HYDE PARK, Oct. 21.—A delightful afternoon was spent at the Lobo Town Hall, Lobo Village, on Wednesday, when the Lobo Institute entertained the members of the Hyde Park Institute.

As the guests arrived they were met at the door by the president, Mrs. Steel, who gave the warmest of welcomes to the members of the sister society.

Dallas, asters and begonias were charmingly arranged through the hall.

After a splendid program of songs, piano duets and readings, the singing of the National Anthem in unison brought the meeting to a close, after which refreshments were served and a social hour was spent over the cup of tea, and many expressions of thanks were tendered the Lobo ladies for their kind hospitality.

The farmers are getting quite anxious for the weather to clear so as to enable them to get their potatoes, mangels and turnips up. There are still several acres of potatoes in the ground, with small prospects of getting them up unless the weather moderates soon and the ground becomes dry enough to operate with the potato diggers.

SEPARATE SCHOOL IS OPENED AT KITCHENER

KITCHENER, Oct. 21.—The new St. Joseph Separate School, in the south ward, was officially opened this afternoon by Mayor Greb, in the presence of a large number of Separate School supporters and pupils. His worship congratulated the school board upon the magnificent addition to the educational institutions of the city. Addresses were also delivered by Judge E. J. Hearn, Rev. A. L. Zinger and others. The former criticized the Toronto Board of Education in opposing the proposition to amend the law respecting the division of school taxes for Separate school purposes. The new school is an eight-room structure with modern equipment.

PERJURY BRINGS ARREST OF TWO

T. S. Yallop and C. Parr, of Kitchener, Get Into Trouble

LIQUOR CASE AT GALT

As Witnesses They Denied Text of Statements Made

GALT, Oct. 21.—Perjuring themselves by flatly denying the contents of statements they had signed, T. S. Yallop and C. Parr, of Kitchener, got themselves into trouble in the local court this afternoon, and were arrested there.

The two men with another had been subpoenaed as witnesses against a foreign woman of Preston, charged with selling liquor. Yallop and Parr, who in statements said they had bought liquor at 25 cents a drink, went into the witness box and flatly denied knowing the woman or getting the liquor.

The case was withdrawn by Nicol Jeffrey, K. C., of Galt, special prosecutor, who immediately had the two men arrested, charged with consuming liquor in a place other than a private dwelling, to which they pleaded guilty. They were remanded for sentence until the 31st, and bail fixed at $1,000. Parr was taken to the county jail.

Wm. Howard is still acting registrar pending an appointment to the position, for which, it is said, there are several applicants.

BIG GATHERING HEARS PREMIER

Curling Rink at Stratford Crowded for Meighen Meeting

STRATFORD, Oct. 21.—(Staff Correspondent Canadian Press).—From a crowded platform in the curling rink here Premier Meighen to-night addressed an audience of 3,000, one of the largest single gatherings to which he had spoken since opening his election campaign. The premier had come to this meeting from his native town of St. Marys, where he spoke to a gathering of about 1,500 persons, on the political issues of the day. This evening he was supported by Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, and H. B. Morphy, formerly member for North Perth in the Federal House, and now National Liberal and Conservative candidate in the constituency. Both of these gentlemen made speeches. Dr. Michael Steele, candidate in South Perth, and Senator Sharpe, occupied seats on the platform, and Lieut.-Col. John L. Youngs, president of the Stratford Liberal Conservative Association, acted as chairman of the meeting. The G.W.V.A. band played in the hall before the meeting opened.

To-morrow the premier will speak in St. Thomas.

MR. MORPHY SPEAKS.

The first address was given by H. B. Morphy, formerly member for North Perth in the Federal House, and candidate of the party in the coming election. Mr. Morphy contrasted the tariff policies of the three party leaders. Mr. Meighen stood for moderate protection, he said, Mr. Crerar for absolute free trade, with a tax on land to raise necessary revenue. Mr. King's policy might be termed a free trade tariff policy. The premier's policy had built up the industries and homes of Canada and had given employment to thousands of workmen. The Progressive policy would destroy the home market for the Canadian farmers.

"We did the utmost we could for the soldier without crippling the Canada he died to save," replied Sir Henry. "We did the best we could. Would to God we could have done more."

AN EPIDEMIC

Premier Meighen said that "an epidemic of scurrilous and utterly silly misrepresentations had literally swept this country." Some of these were uttered by nonentities and others by prominent men. Since coming to Stratford he had been informed that a man in the vicinity had declared the Government had a padded military list with 30,000 names on the public pay roll. This same man, he said, made a similar charge some time ago, had been requested to substantiate his allegation and had failed to appear to do so. The charge was false, said the premier.

"It is a dangerous thing to depart from a policy which has been tried and found good," declared Mr. Morphy. The candidate stated that he had been chairman of the public accounts committee in the Union Government. During the war period, while expenditures totaling two billions were being made, there had been absolutely no proof of "misappropriation, extravagance, crookedness, chicanery or deceit" on the part of the Government. The record of the Government was clean.

SIR HENRY DRAYTON.

Sir Henry Drayton said that the Government had been charged with wilful criminal extravagance. Speaking for himself, he would be only too glad if the financial condition of the country would warrant decreases in taxation, but it was costing more money to run the Government than before the war, and the business of the Government must go on.

"The charge of extravagance is only a loose accusation made for the purpose of supplying material where none exists," said the minister. He did not mean to say that everything done during the war was perfect.

"You'd require a band of archangels for that. But I do say that the work was carried on by a band of men devoted to your interests and the only adverse criticism comes from political opponents," declared Sir Henry.

"You might have given the soldier a little more," said a voice from the audience.

A God-Filled Church

If one is to judge from expressions in the secular press, as well as in religious magazines throughout this whole continent and Great Britain, the greatest boon that could possibly come to the so-called Christian nation to-day is that of a God-filled church. The great national leaders are convinced that the current of moral life is too wide and shallow; that the spirit of our day is too irreverent; that our churches are too worldly, and that the people are altogether materialistic on their outlook on life.

A Los Angeles paper say the world is ripe for some spiritual upheaval that will enlarge, strengthen and inspire men's faith in the supernatural. Not until materialism is the servant of the soul will the world be saved. So long as the soul is "the servant of materialism, who shall say to what depths the world may not descend?" Dr. Gordon, the moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, said recently in this city that a God-filled church was the most essential thing of to-day. "What we need," he said, "was an application of Christ's injunction: 'Tarry until ye be endued with power from on high.'" The same great need was voiced by Dr. Stuart Holden at Columbia University, New York. He said the world was hungry, expectant, restless; like a ship without a rudder going full speed toward destruction, and that amid it all the world was "practically leaderless and the church virtually voiceless." This latter view is rather pessimistic, but is at least sufficiently correct to arouse Christian people to see the day of their opportunity.

Another great church leader unconsciously makes his appeal for a God-filled church when he says the spirit of reverence is lacking in our churches, and pleads for that sense of awe, of quiet, of yearning prayer, that makes an atmosphere most favorable to inspiration and insight. Many of our churches strive too much at entertaining, too little at edifying. Worshippers are not sufficiently impressed with the sense of God's presence. Much of present-day preaching fails to lead the people into the reality of the unseen. Dr. Ford Newton, in contrasting English preaching with American, says: "The American preacher is more intent upon the application of religion to the affairs of the moment. The Englishman goes to church as to a house of mystery, to forget the turmoil of the world, to be refreshed in spirit, to regain the great backgrounds of life, against which to see the problems of to-morrow." After all, if a worshipper is given the great fundamentals of faith and duty, and led into the deep truths of God, he ought to be able to apply them to the affairs of the hour.

There is also a feeling on the part of many religious leaders that the current of moral life to-day is altogether too broad and shallow; that there is very little difference between the social and moral life of the people within the church than that of those without. There needs to be a return to a more healthy strictness of living, and it is not surprising that many Christian leaders are urgently calling upon Christian people to lead the way in living holier lives. One leader has said: "We are apt to regard our fathers and mothers as narrow, old-fashioned, prejudiced, insular people. To be termed old-fashioned is for us the last offense. Many would prefer to be called pagans than Puritans. But are we not getting a little too spacious in our views and conduct? Dr. Hutton agrees with such a sentiment when he says: "We are trying to live a left-handed life morally in a world which has decided to live right-handed."

At a great Methodist conference recently in Britain, the president received a most enthusiastic ovation when he announced his presidential address as: "The Puritan Element in Methodism." He claimed that something of that element must again be brought back into our religious life if the churches are still to be a vital force. He claimed that the root idea of Puritanism was the majesty and sovereignty of God, and that this idea alone could hold up the forces of civilization. He pleaded: "It was the duty of Methodism to preach the sovereignty of God, before whom princes and prime ministers, captains of industry and labor leaders must all alike bow."

The world seems to be going mad in its craze for the epicurean life. It may be only a temporary craze, but the church must not follow it in its mad rush, but rather call the people to Godliness and sound afresh the Puritanic watchwords of God, right and duty. Let these words be woven afresh into the fabric of our present-day life and the world will not be long in arriving at the place of peace and power.

Blot on the Brain of Royal Bavaria

The chief interest in the death of ex-King Ludwig III., of Bavaria, centers in the fact that in all probability he is the last prince of the House of Wittlesbach who will ever wear a crown. With him passes out of existence, as a reigning family, the oldest royal house in Europe; a house that gave at least one emperor to the Holy Roman Empire, which, reckoning from its establishment by Caesar Augustus, lasted over eighteen hundred years, and was thus one of the longest lived of human institutions.

"The old order changeth, giving place to new." This fact was never more emphatically impressed upon us than at the close of the war, when the conquest of the Central Powers caused the break-up of the German and Austrian empires, and the consequent abdication of all subsidiary monarchs within their bodies politic.

The cable dispatches recording the death of the ex-king refer to him as "a picturesque figure in Europe for three-quarters of a century." His picturesqueness, however, can scarcely be said to have been of Ludwig's own making. The late king did not come of the reigning House of the Wittlesbachs, but of a collateral branch. The reigning house ended suddenly in 1913 in the death of King Otto, long violently insane and a prisoner in the lonely Bavarian castle of Furstenreid. Otto, in his turn, had succeeded his elder brother, "the mad king Ludwig II.," about whose eccentricities and artistic vagaries the world of the nineteenth century was so mightily concerned. In Ludwig II., "mad," as he has been called, there was picturesqueness if one will. His successor and cousin inherited the flare of that uncanny renown.

In the most beautiful of the many beautiful castles built by Ludwig II., there stands, near the entrance to the fine concert room, a curious piece of statuary, the design for which was furnished by the king himself and made to his order.

The marble in question represents a palm tree in the prime of its abundance and strength, laden with golden fruit. And at the foot of the palm a loathsome dragon, with wide-open mouth.

This sculpture has always been conceded to represent the inherited malady lying in wait for the young monarch, the oncoming of which, even when in a state of apparent good health, his morbid mind anticipated.

The House of Wittelsbach has been terribly ravaged by insanity. In the past one hundred years more than twenty members of the family have been visited by that terrible misfortune. What could Maximilian II., of Bavaria, expect, then, when he allied himself with the Princess Marie of Prussia, herself a member of a house in which, also, madness was rampant, but neurotic and perhaps insane offspring? The brothers, Ludwig and Otto, were the result of that union.

But if Ludwig II. was mad, he certainly was most picturesquely mad. His relations with the composer, Richard Wagner, whose operas, as it will be remembered, were oftentimes sumptuously produced for one spectator—the king. His craze for building romantic palaces and fairy chateaux, for which he had not the money to pay. His good looks; his love of splendor; his really high literary and artistic ability; above all, his defiance of Bismarck during the Franco-Prussian War: These things made Ludwig II. a man marked out for the cable gossip of the world.

The late ex-King Ludwig III. comes into the story in the person of his father, Prince Luitpold, of the collateral Wittelsbach branch. He, at the time Ludwig II. was finally adjudged insane and taken prisoner by his ministry, was chosen regent.

Three days later the mad king committed suicide in the Lake of Schloss Berg, one of his summer palaces, dragging to his death with him the Munich alienist, Dr. Gudden, who had been sent to apprehend the insane monarch.

On Ludwig's death Otto succeeded to the title and Luitpold to the regency. When Luitpold died his son, Ludwig, became regent, and eventually, upon Otto's death, king.

At the close of three years, as has been recorded, the last of the Wittelsbachs lost both his crown and his wife on the same day. Truly that "blot on the brain" hunted to its finish the age-old and misfortuned Wittelsbach family.

LESSONS OF THE GARDEN

The lessons of the garden — oh, I read them every day;
They teach me not to mourn too much for the joys that pass away.
The tangled weeds which choke the rose till it grows gaunt and thin Remind me of the paths of man which are beset with sin.

Here bloomed some lovely things for me to pay me for my toil.
I carried every stone away and broke the stubborn soil,
I guarded them from heat and drought and learned this truth anew—
That all rewards are measured out by what a man will do.
And now my garden's brown and bare and all my vines are dead.
Yet I have known the loveliness of roses
white and red,
And I have owned a summer rich with fragrance and delight,
And winter, be it cold and drear, is but the garden's night.

Within the walls where I have dwelt sweet joys have come and flown
But they were glorious summer years that once were mine to own,
And what if now the Wintertime of sorrow brings its pain,
Some day another spring shall come and I shall smile again.

LIKE GRANDFATHER'S CHAIR

I went into a furniture shop to-day and a genteman showed me a wonderful chair. When you sat in it, it seemed to wrap itself about you and tell you that all the troubles in the world could be put into your vest pocket!

I wanted it very much. It was so beautiful and the soft, silky fabrics told a story all their own. But I didn't get it — it was TOO nice.

I have been hinking ever since of the comfortable things in life that cost little money, but which we tie to and would not want to give up for anything — like grandfather's chair that we used to think was so wonderful. (And so did grandfather.)

It's the substantial, long tried and true that warms us in soul, after all.

The appreciation that comes from those who have known us long and have come to find our sincerity of heart a very sound test of our attitude toward life means more to us than the frothy outbursts of newcomers, though their words weigh heavily with honey and glisten as fresh polished gold.

Like grandfather's chair the simple "Thank yous" and "Pleases" never grow too old to be wanted and then — to be wanted again.

There is a popular play showing in one of the large cities in which there is a lady character — very chic and clever. Her life, however, has been given over to tinseled pleasure — wine and dancing and cigarettes. All of a sudden she exclaimed that what she really craved was not these empty and killing things, but a cozy home where she could darn socks and rock babies. And to think that then the audience laughed!

Like grandfather's chair, the primary, simple, sweet and beautiful things loom before our eyes. And they stay and comfort when the other things cheapen and fall, like rotted timbers, into dust again.

—George Matthew Adams.

THE MOVIES

A million children, every night, behold the movie actors; in education, wrong or right, the films are mighty factors. And so the famous movie folk have influence unmeasured; their every move, their every joke, in youthful hearts are treasured. So they should make their lives so clean they'll sparkle in their beauty, and not seem angels on the screen, and demons when off duty. As artists true they should appear, and not as blooming smarties; they should cut out the booze and beer and all the frenzied parties. My little Willie goes to-night to see a movie story; the heroine is blithe and bright, all smiling in her glory; but someone whispers to the lad, "She goes her gaudy courses as though she hadn't whipped her dad, and gained fourteen divorces." And Willie in admiring mood regards the hero's capers till Whisper says, "He's often stewed — I read it in the papers." Then little Willie toddles home, his sentiments unspoken, but mournful thoughts are in his dome — his idols have been broken. The Bluebeard door has been unlocked, one glance therein suffices; and little kids should not be shocked by tales of tawdy vices.

AUTUMN LEAVES.

The gard'ner is a stupid man, he rakes up all the leaves he can,
And spoils the golden autumn day,

Amongst the leaves that rustle loud,

As they go running in and out, besprinkling color all about,
And burying each other quite beneath the leaves. Although at night
The gard'ner seems to have more sense, and lights some bonfires brown and dense,
And lets the children each in turn poke at the leaves so they will burn.

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

GREAT BRITAIN'S TARIFF.

Editor Free Press: Every once in awhile we hear someone refer to Great Britain as being a "free trade country" and some people think that we in Canada would be equally successful and prosperous if we followed the "British example of free trade."

If people who talk like this would try to ship some goods to England they would quickly find out that Great Britain is not on a free trade basis, but a long way from it. We recently shipped a set of H. & D. shock absorbers to a firm in London, England, who wished to try them out. The duty charged on this shipment was 33 1-3 per cent. on the value of the goods at the entry port. In other words, the express charges from London, Ont., to Liverpool, England, were added to the invoice value of the shipment and the customs charge was 33 1-3 per cent. on that amount.

Reckoned in this way the duty was more than 50 per cent. of the invoice value of the shipment.

The tariff on many classes of goods into Great Britain is fully as high as the Canadian tariff. All countries are realizing the importance of protecting their home industries and building up a home consumption market for the produce of their farms. Yours very truly,

United States' Big Pot of Gold

The United States holds approximately three-fourths of all the gold in the world, a circumstance that is causing anxiety in European financial circles. Almost all of the war-torn European countries have resorted to paper currency on a scale which threatens to undermine the faith of the people in their Governments. And these countries can establish their currency on a gold standard basis only it they can get the gold. Getting the gold involves vast banking operations with the United States and the establishment of international credits. This brings the difficulty down to the American foreign trade policy, the present trend of which is away from any scheme that will involve distributing the American gold reserve among the greater powers.

Some British financial experts have gone so far as to accuse the Americans of forcing civilization to the verge of disaster. It is plain that Great Britain faces bankruptcy. The Government has stretched its taxing power to its elastic limit. With such institutions as the unemployment dole well established, retrenchment has become difficult. It can be accomplished, many leaders believe, only at the expense of much political prestige, and, perhaps, at the cost to the Lloyd George Government of its existence. A British Dawes in the person of Sir Robert Horne has been pressed into service, but the real means of averting a serious financial situation is the revival of foreign trade.

The United States, with the gold reserve to put foreign trade upon a sound credit basis, is marking time. This gold came into the country between 1914 and 1917, when the United States was growing fat on foreign war business. The gold was not a gift from Europe, although it was taken under circumstances which are no credit to this country. At present Europe sees in the United States a dozing and somewhat cold-hearted financial giant, a view which is not flattering and which is interesting because it is not far from the truth.—Indianapolis News.

MAINTAINS INDEPENDENCE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Captain Stanley Wilson, Unionist member for Holderness, Yorkshire, announces that if he fights for re-election in his division at the general election it will not be as an absolute supporter of the Government. He will reserve his independence particularly on financial questions, he says.

Lord Ednam, eldest son of Earl Dudley, is a prospective Unionist candidate in Hornsey, where the death of Kennedy Jones has created a vacancy.

The Vital Issue

"What we have to decide is this—Are we going to continue the protective system of this country or are we not? That is the question and that is the whole question. And the great, big, necessary thing is that every voter in this country from the Yukon to Halifax knows that this is the question he or she is deciding when he or she votes in this great contest."

ARTHUR MEIGHEN.

THE vital issue in the coming election—in fact, the only issue—is the Tariff, and to every clear thinking Canadian it should be readily apparent that a Protective Fiscal Policy is absolutely essential to stability, progress and development.

Every important country in the world upholds Protection as an essential economic principle. Even Great Britain—so long the stronghold of Free Trade—has now adopted laws that constitute Protection of the most effective kind. In fact, the present policy among most nations is towards raising their tariff walls, not lowering them. In the face of these facts it would be suicidal for Canada to do exactly the reverse and discard the fiscal system which has been responsible for its progress during the past forty-three years.

Free Trade would mean death to Canadian Industry. It would also result in the immediate closing down of Canadian plants of foreign firms, with consequent additional unemployment. There are today 650 American factories alone in Canada. Similar proposed ventures would be abandoned. New capital would refuse to come to a Country lacking adequate protection and present industrial enterprise would be promptly strangled by foreign competition.

The preservation of the home market by a Reasonable Protective Tariff is vital to both city dweller and agrarian alike—now as never before. More capital is urgently needed for the development of Canada's enormous resources, which will result in a lessening of unemployment and an increased population. More work and more workers will produce an enlarged home market for products of both city and farm, and the exodus of Canadian men and women—and the dollars they earn — will be precluded.

The United States has slammed her trade door in the face of Canadian farmers by adopting the Fordney Bill, and the farmer is consequently now even more dependent upon the home market than in the past.

Yet Crerar asks you to destroy that home market by voting for Free Trade.

King's policy—if he has one—will result in the destruction of the Tariff.

Meighen stands four square for Reasonable Protection-Protection for all the people-and asks for an overwhelming mandate to give both industry and agriculture that assurance which will spell prosperity for all. Individual prosperity depends upon National prosperity. Your personal interests and Canada's very existence hang upon your vote.

TAWA, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press atch.)—Capt. Alfred Living, in e of the Dominion Government eer herd situated at Lobster Bay, rador, has completed his mission and is returning bearing supplies od and clothes to tide the destitute ves over the winter.

epidemic of influenza and pneu- a last spring, which has left the le in a weakened condition, has followed by a season in which both and fur have failed them. Thus are 400 to 500 families in the Canadian Labrador who are without the absolute essentials of life. Even where a fair catch has been secured, the price of only $2 per barrel was obtained where normally $8 is paid by the traders. Thus the native has been unable to lay in his winter store of provisions from the outside. Many families which he has visited, says Capt. Living, are in a state of actual starvation. Indians, half-Eskimos and a sprinkling of white men married to natives constitute the population.

During the influenza epidemic, says Capt. Living, he covered 150 miles of coast line, having to visit each family. Practically every family was affected and in some cases he found every member prostrated and unable to do anything for each other.

DEPEND ON OUTSIDE.

The result of all this is that the colony is now utterly dependent upon some outside relief. Though Capt. Living would ordinarily not have left his station until next June or July, he felt it imperative to come out and lay the state of affairs before the authorities. After 120 miles travel down to Harrington, he caught a steamer for Quebec. Here he interviewed Premier L. A. Taschereau and other members of the Provincial Government. Realizing the emergency of the case, Premier Taschereau has placed at Capt. Living's disposal such quantities of flour, lard, molasses and tea as will keep the natives alive until spring.

The co-operation of Bishop Williamson, of Quebec, was also secured, through whose mediation a general appeal for clothes was made throughout the province, a large number of the people being without warm things to cover them during the long, rigorous winter. A generous response has been met, with the result that Capt. Living is assured of taking back with him a large quantity of clothing suitable for men, women and children.

In addition to the supplies of food that have been forthcoming from Quebec, the Federal Government on its side has provided Capt. Living with a steamer to transport him and his supplies back to the Labrador coast. During many weeks after his arrival he will be entirely occupied in making the distribution of food and clothing by means of dog sleights.

REINDEER IMPORTANT.

The reindeer, says Capt. Living, constitute the natives' continuing source of milk, butter, transportation and animal food. Although his work is officially that of reindeer conservation, he acts often enough as counsellor and even in emergency as practicing physician. In the remote scent of his labors he has often found it necessary to perform surgical operations. He will return with a provision of first aid remedies and simple medicines, prepared to meet a number of emergencies.

Capt. Living reports the natives as sincere in their beliefs and ready to make great sacrifices for them. Last spring, he says, a party brought the bodies of an Indian of 24 and a young squaw of six from 100 miles inland, where they had died, to the Christian settlement of St. Augustine's, so that they might be buried there. They made the final days of the difficult and hazardous trip entirely without food.

The Indian in that country, says Capt. Living, almost universally wears a silver cross about his neck, and this has sometimes been put to a strange use. Where one of them became insane, as was not infrequent, the man was bound and his cross taken from him. This was melted into a silver bullet, with which the unfortunate man was shot to death. This is a practice, however, which the authorities have stamped out.

ANXIETY ABOUT PARLEY OUTCOME

If Armament Conference Fails Situation Will Be Serious.

SPECULATION IS RIFE

Opinion of Delegates Is Agreement Must Be Reached.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—(By Canadian Press.)—With conferences beginning among the United States delegates to the arms limitation conference and with the advance guard from other nations beginning to arrive for the conference, speculation as to its outcome is heard everywhere. Talk over the prospects is the great subject in Congressional official and diplomatic quarters and beyond a doubt the United States public is more keenly interested in the results of the conference to-day than in any other subject, unless it be reduction of taxes, combined with the outlook for overcoming the depression in business.

On the whole, there is much hopefullness here as the time draws closer for the conference to begin. It is a mistake, however, to regard the official expressions of optimism as setting forth what the real leaders of thought in official Congressional circles conceive to be the truth.

There can be no doubt of the sincere desire of the Harding administration, Secretary of State Hughes and the U. S. delegates in general to make the conference a success. The question which is coming more and more to be discussed frankly here, in an informal way, is what will be the world situation if the conference fails—if the Far Eastern problems do not yield to treatment and if the effort to reach agreements to reduce armaments comes to nothing.

Apprehension here is real that if the conference does not succeed the situation will be worse than it is now and that after the conference is over there will be danger of drifting into another great war. Almost unthinkable as another conflict may be there is a curious precedent for what is apprehended in this instance, provided the conference fails. One has only to recall that in the years just preceding 1914 in Europe Great Britain made real and sincere efforts to get Germany to stop in the building up of armaments at sea. Germany repeatedly refused to listen seriously to proposals for halting or reducing armanents, and things grew worse instead of better. A prominent London journalist, who has just arrived to attend the conference, commented on the British experience with Germany and very frankly wondered whether, in the present instance, the United States was to go through with Japan much the same experience Britain did with Germany. He pointed out that there was a hopeful sign in the fact that public sentiment in Japan is evidently a great deal stronger in favoring reduced armaments than it ever was in Germany before 1914. He saw in this the possibility of beneficial results coming from the conference.

The very fact that not only the United States delegates, but the delegates of other powers cannot fail to recognize that failure to agree at the conference would mean a new era of enfevered preparation and that it would spell added tax burdens for the different nations is certain to be a powerful force at the conference. It may prove sufficiently powerful to overcome the grave obstacles which none can fail to perceive ahead of the arms limitations meeting.

IS PAST MASTER AT HALF TRUTHS

Enthusiastic N.L.C. Rally Held at Wingham

GEORGE SPOTTON SPEAKS

Protective Tariff in Interests of Ontario Farmers

WINGHAM, Oct. 21.—Rarely has the Town of Wingham witnessed such a political rally in point of attendance or enthusiasm as that held to-night in the interests of George Spotton, the National Liberal and Conservative candidate for North Huron. The large town hall was crowded to the doors and several hundred turned away.

Hon. Edmund Bristol made an eloquent appeal on behalf of the old historic national policy, showing clearly, and to the entire satisfaction of the audience, that a protective tariff was in the interests of the Ontario farmers.

Miss Constance Boulton held the audience with rapt attention, making a stirring appeal to the ladies to support the Government that so ably handled the war in their period of reconstruction.

John Joynt, M. P. P., made a brief appeal. Mr. Joynt is Huron County's largest farmer, and supports the Meighen administration.

ANSWERS CRERAR.

George Spotton, the candidate, received a tremendous and prolonged ovation on rising to speak, and held his entire audience until a late hour. He replied to Mr. Crerar's address, given here yesterday, charging Crerar with classism and a past master at stating half truths, which are ever the basest of falsehoods. The audience was largely attended by Conservative U. F. O.'s, who are supporting the National policy. It was one of the old-time political rallies, which shows that the National Liberal and Conservative party here is full of fight and hope.

Don't Be Misled Into Buying Cheap Lamps

Do you realize you are making a mistake when you buy cheap Electric Lamps?

For your health's and comfort's sake you need good lighting in your home. And good lighting can only be produced from good quality lamps.

When you consider that about half of your waking hours are spent under artificial light, it pays to get the best light. Poor lighting from cheap lamps injures your eyesight, creates nervous disorders and undermines health.

Any kind of glass bulb that produces a light when the switch is turned on isn't a good lamp. There are grades of quality in lamps just as in other necessities of life, and it pays to get this quality. The difference in cost between poor lamps and quality lamps is a trivial fraction of the cost of lighting your home, so why not insist on quality lamps? Quality lamps not only give better light but last longer and consume relatively less current.

In a series of advertisements we are going to show why it is to your advantage to insist on equipping your home with Nitro Lamps—one of the Laco types of lamps.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Just a moment then," she said.

She half closed the window. She crossed the room softly, and tiptoed down the stairs. Friday, seeing her, roused himself and thumped the floor with a feathery tail of welcome.

The library door was fast closed; she could hear her father's voice counting a little triumphantly.

"Two—four—and two's six! Got you again, my boy!"

He was evidently in a good temper, which meant that Rodney was losing the game. Norah went on past the door.

She groped her way through the dark drawing-room, softly unbolted the long French window and stepped out into the garden with Friday at her heels.

Laxton joined her immediately.

"I've only come for a moment," she told him. There was a nervous little ring in her voice. "I don't know what they would say if they knew."

"Does it matter what they say?" he asked.

There was a quality in his voice she had never heard before — a quality which she pathetically misinterpreted.

It never crossed her mind for a single moment that the black sheep had come to her that night because he had been driven by desperation and misery.

He was at the end of his tether; the chance encounter with the woman he loved that day had almost broken him down; the strangely dogged obstinacy of his nature made him long to retaliate, to hit back; to make some one else suffer as he himself was suffering.

It would not have needed great insight to guess that Norah liked him, and during the last few hours he had weighed up the whole thing and decided to take the plunge. He would marry her if she would have him; and if she would have him he could keep Barton Manor — it would at least be something saved from the wreckage of all he had ever hoped for.

But he felt horribly nervous.

He had never met a girl like this one before and somehow he felt that he was taking a mean advantage. She was being led so easily, being blinded so willingly. She was not like the other women with whom he had played his game; she really believed that he liked her.

And he did like her; he liked her frankness and lack of affectation; He liked her for the pluck she had shown that afternoon when she hurt her arm. He liked her for the generous way she had tried to put him in better conceit with himself.

She had a thousand times more common sense than Laurie Fenton. She was a thousand times more of a sport—and Laxton loved the sporting instinct in any one—she was probably much more unselfish and generous, and yet . . . yet she was not Laurie, and therein lay the great tragedy of it all.

He aroused himself with an effort, and looked down at her. He wondered why it seemed so difficult to make love to this girl—why, even though it was too dark to see her eyes, the knowledge that she was looking at him disconcerted him and tied his tongue.

"I'm sorry the arm is so bad," he said haltingly. "You won't be anxious to trust yourself with me again."

She laughed softly. "Oh, yes, I shall. It wasn't your fault." There was a little silence, then—"What did you want to say to me?" she asked. "Because I really ought to go in; if Father knew I was out here he would be frightfully angry."

Laxton laughed.

"Would he — who cares! I'm not afraid of your father."

"No, sir!" said a rough voice from the darkness. "And neither am I afraid of you."

Norah caught her breath sharply, and unconsciously she moved a step nearer to George Laxton.

She was not afraid. But she was conscious of a sort of odd excitement.

Some one turned on the light in the drawing-room behind her; the yellow reflection streamed out into the darkness and on to the face of her father and Laxton.

Mr. Ackroyd was purple with rage; his hands were clenched into fists.

He did not look at her; he was glaring at George Laxton as if he could have killed him.

The black sheep himself appeared quite undisturbed, though there was a little gleam in his eyes. He kept his hands in his pockets and waited for Mr. Ackroyd to speak.

He was not kept waiting long; he broke out with a sort of sputter—

"What the devil do you mean by coming here? This is my house and grounds, allow me to tell you. What the deuce do you mean by coming up here after my daughter? I've already told her that I won't have you in the place."

"Miss Ackroyd gave me your message," said Laxton coolly; "but, as neither of us are children, I fail to see what right you have to forbid us to speak to one another. I admit that this is your garden, and I apologize for trespassing; but with regard to your daughter—"

"Leave my daughter out of the question, you young blackguard," came the roaring interruption. "By gad, if I were a younger man I'd do my best to give you the damnedest thrashing you've ever had in your life."

"And if you were a young man I'd let you try," said Laxton coolly, though now there was a hint of rage in his voice, and he took a threatening step forward.

Norah unconsciously laid a hand on his arm to check him, and her father rounded on her furiously.

"You go to your room, miss, and don't touch the fellow," he thundered. "I'll deal with you later; sneaking out here at this time of night to meet a man who has the audacity to speak to you in the street—a man whose name is a by-word in the country."

His voice had risen. Rodney, who had been lingering agitatedly in the drawing room, came out into the garden.

"Uncle, for heaven's sake, do you want all the servants to hear?" He turned to Norah: "Come in, dear," he said. "I'll see it's all right." He tried to draw her toward the house, but she resisted.

DIAMOND WEDDING

A unique and altogether happy event was the sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William Scott, of Westminster Township, which was celebrated by a family reunion at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Nat. Campbell, Westminster, on Wednesday of this week. Members of the family connection numbering 84 were present, not including 21 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren of the aged bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott, who are both over 80 years of age, were married 60 years ago at the home of the bride's father, the late James Craig, of Dorchester, and the charming bride, then Miss Ellen Craig, was attended by her sister, now Mrs. Grieve, who was present at this week's anniversary, where the groomsman of that long-ago wedding was also a guest.

Congratulations to the beloved bride and groom, and a family dinner party were followed by a delightful evening of music and dancing, and the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Scott of two generously filled purses, for which the former thanked his family in a bright little speech. A wedding cake, with 60 glimmering candles, made an effective centerpiece on the flower-decked table. Sons and daughters present were Mr. John Scott, of Port Huron; Mr. James Scott, of London; Mrs. Sandy Ballantyne, of London; Mrs. Agnes Hill, of London; Mrs. William Carrothers, of Belmont; Mrs. James Johnston, of London; Mrs. Charles Johnston, of White Oak, and Mrs. Campbell, the hostess. The guests included Rev. Geo. Young, of this city; Dr. and Mrs. G. A. Routledge, Lambeth, and relatives from Woodstock, Ingersoll, Seaforth, Belmont, Sombra, St. Thomas, White Oak, Wilton Grove and London.

In the Women's Clubs

"The Influence of the Bible on Non-Christian Lands" was the subject of a talk Mrs. Stein gave the W. M. S. of Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. It was the regular monthly meeting and was held at the home of Mrs. Stein. Mrs. Mallagh presided and after the talk Mrs. Cree read a letter from Rev. J. T. Taylor, a missionary in India. A social time followed and the hostess served afternoon tea.

A social meeting for the members only of the Victoria Rebekah No. 1 was held on Thursday evening in the Odd Fellows' Hall. There were about a hundred present, including visitors from Dutton, Brantford, Hensall and Petrolea. Sister E. Powell, P.N.G., the oldest member, gave a talk, which was followed by a social sing-song, cards and dancing. Lunch was served and at a late hour the gathering broke up. The first week of December is the 53rd anniversary, when Mrs. Watson, president of the St. Thomas Rebekah Assembly, will be the special guest.

LOBO INSTITUTE.

The Lobo Women's Institute held its regular meeting on Wednesday afternoon, October 19, in Lobo hall, with a large crowd present. The Hyde Park Institute was invited and many of the ladies were present in spite of the rain. Mrs. H. D. Steele, president, occupied the chair. The opening was played by Miss Laura Edwards and solos were given by Miss Gladys McIntyre and Miss Kathleen Crawford. Mrs. Andrew Ferguson gave a very interesting paper on "Salt," while the "Current Events" were read by Mrs. McCallum. A piano duet, given by Misses E. Sells and Alberta Venner, was much enjoyed by all.

The question drawer was answered by Mrs. A. R. Campbell. The president of the Hyde Park Institute, Miss Routledge, gave a short address in which she thanked the Lobo Ladies for their kind hospitality, also speaking of the way their own Institute was conducted. This was followed by a short address from Mrs. P. Herbert, past president of the Hyde Park Institute. The delegates appointed to attend the convention to be held in London in November were Provincial delegate, Mrs. H. D. Steele; delegates, Mrs. E. T. Caverhill, 1st vice-president of Lobo Women's Institute, and Miss Ruby McVicar, secretary.

After the program, lunch was served. The November meeting is to be held in Lobo hall.

Nine Reasons Why Women Should Vote For The Government

1.—Because the leader, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, is able, sincere, courageous and of irreproachable character.

2.—Because the National Liberal and Conervative party legislates for all the people of all Canada without discrimination.

3.—Because at this time of abnormal conditions and unrest following the war, we need men of experience to guide the country through this difficult time. Mr. Meighen, and most of his members, brought Canada safely through the war and understand better than new and inexperienced men the difficulties and problems of Government.

4.—Because the Meighen Government has managed the finances of the country with wonderful economy. Outside our actual war debt, of which every red-blooded Canadian is proud, the expenditure of the Meighen Government is only two per cent. more than the annual national expenditure of 10 years ago, despite greatly increased prices.

5.—Because the National Liberal and Conservative Party stands for adequate protection and the building up of Canadian agriculture. Canadian industries and Canadian labor, and for the manufacture in Canada by Canadian workmen of Canadian natural resources, and is unalterably opposed to free trade, or to such a lowering of our present tariff as would hand over the Canadian home market of the farmers and manufacturers and workingmen to the United States, and which, in the end, would mean the ultimate absorption of Canada by the United States.

6.—Because under a protective tariff Canadian agriculture has increased 20-fold and the total trade of Canada has increased 16 times since protection was adopted in 1878, and Canada is to-day one of the richest countries in the world per capita. Why destroy what we have built up? Why make experiments at the most critical, the most dangerous, time in our history?

7.—Canada cannot dare lower the already low tariff or adopt free trade because every other country in the world is protectionist and increasing their tariffs.

8.—Because Canada, without adequate protection of its home market, cannot compete with the cheap labor of the Orient or Western Europe, particularly Germany.

9.—Because it is vitally important to women that their fathers, hubands, sons and daughters should have steady work and good wages in Canada. Free trade or low tariff would close down our industries, deprive our workingmen of their homes, rob our farmers of their home market, and bring ruin to Canada by flooding it with American products, produced by American farmers or American workingmen, while our men and women would be walking the streets unemployed.

THE EMPTY NEST.

In the spring the oriole sang:
"See me! See me! See!—
I am going to hang a nest
In this tall elm tree.
It will be a cradle safe
For the wind to sway
Back and forth—back and forth—
All the summer day."

In the autumn little birds
Spread their wings for flight
With their mother for the south
One October night,
Back and forth—back and forth—
Swings the empty nest,
Where these birds were cradled soft
Neath their mother's breast.

Efficient Housekeeping

READERS' DISCOVERIES.

Mrs. A. "Here is a 'discovery' I made, which I am sending you in return for the help you gave me in your recent letter: I make a pudding in the following way which tastes like Indian pudding although it hasn't any cornmeal in it. I soak 1 cup of dry grapenuts in 1½ pints of coffee (left over from the breakfast table). After an hour of soaking I turn it into a baking dish with ½ cup of sugar and let it bake for an hour in a moderate oven, stirring often. Serve hot with a hard sauce, or cold with a hot liquid sauce."

Alice H. "In grating cheese I find it easier to press it through a large-meshed sieve instead of rubbing it on the grater. If done in this way there is no waste and a good deal of time saved."

Constant Reader: "I keep my wooden kitchen table nice and white by washing the top of it with boiling water in which I dissolve 2 tablespoons of washing soda, ½ pound of Fuller's earth and a generous quantity of soap."

Old Housekeeper: "Here is a hint you may like to print, to help other housewives. When making gravy from a roast of meat I pour off part of the fat, add 1 cup of cold water, sift in 1 tablespoon of dry flour and stir while it cooks; this makes a smooth, brown gravy that never lumps. And it is less work than making gravy in the ordinary way."

Bride: "Maybe all the rest of the world knows this, but other brides who are as 'green' as I, at least, may find it helpful: To dry curtains in the house, run the brass curtain rod through the top hem of the curtain as you do when hanging it; then run a second rod through the hem at the bottom and hang the curtain up at the window (the weight of the rod in the lower hem stretches it evenly). Press out the lower hem when dry."

Miss D.: "Here is my original way of making fish cakes: I boil 1 part of fish and 2 parts of white potatoes together in the same pot, in water to cover. Then, when tender, I drain off this water. I let the drained fish and potato mixture cool, then mix with it only just enough of the water in which it was boiled, to moisten well. After seasoning and adding a little melted butter I form it into small, flat cakes. I never dip these cakes in flour. (And they contain no eggs.) I simply fry them in a very little lard, in a hot pan. They have a crisp brown crust on both sides and are delicious."

An Interested Reader: "I recently read in your answered letters column your reply to reader who had asked how to remove rust from a metal clothes line. I have found success in giving my metal clothes line a coat of white paint. This has improved the looks of the line and saved much of my time—as it now needs only to be wiped off with a damp cloth before using. If one prefers one can enamel the line instead of painting it."

Laundress: "This hint, in return for several that other women have helped me by sending to you to publish, is the best I ever ran across: I always wash white silk gloves, waists and skirts after dark and hang them on the line; I remove them before daylight the next morning. For, light on wet silk will always make it yellow. In washing the silk use a little ammonia in the water (and a tiny pinch of borax if the garment is greasy along the neck band), but no soap. It seems a pity that so many women let their silk garments get yellow by hanging them out in the daylight."

GERMANS GAMBLING MAD

The vivid picture drawn by Lord Beaverbrook in yesterday's Sunday Express of the conditions which prevail in Germany should be closely studied by the British public. This for the simple reason that we cannot afford to be indifferent to anything that affects the future of our late enemies. Germany owes us an immense sum for war reparations, and it is important that she should be in a position to pay it. But more important still is the maintenance by Germany of her position in the sphere of international trade. War indemnities apart, the world would be infinitely poorer by the economic collapse of Germany. And Lord Beaverbrook tells us that she is heading straight for that disaster. A gambling madness has seized upon the nation. Wild speculation is general, not only in securities, but in the ordinary commodities of life. A grossly inflated currency has turned money into dross. A financial crash on a tremendous sc is impending, which will have politi as well as economic consequences the most serious kind. The creditor nations of Germany ought not to with folded hands to watch the a proach of this catastrophe. Th should seek for means to avert it London Express.

President: F. LINFORTH WILLGOOSE. Musical Director: HARRY T. DICKINSON.

London Conservatory of Music

Annex Woodman Building, 476 Richmond Street (Next to St. Paul's Cathedral). Conservatory Office, 356 Dundas Street. Phone 1101.

VIOLIN DEPARTMENT.

At the earnest solicitation of Mr. Dickinson the consent has been obtained of Mr. Willgoose to take charge of the violin instruction. Mr. Willgoose is possibly one of the most experienced violin teachers in Canada.

As a pupil he was a great success in Leipsic and upon returning from Germany was at once engaged by that eminent conductor and critic, Sir Henry Wood,, for the Queen's Hall Orchestra, London. Subsequently he became one of the first violins with Sir Frederick Cowan in the Scottish Orchestra.

Mr. Willgoose believes a great deal in the European method of class teaching for violin and is prepared to accept classes of not more than four pupils. This, of course, for a very modest sum allows a pupil to get first-class tuition for himself and also to be present and learn from the coaching expended on his fellow students.

Applications for class and individual tuition will be arranged and further particulars given by phoning 1101.

VOCAL DEPARTMENT.

The appointment of Miss Abbott to the London Conservatory of Music has already been fully justified by the demand for her work. At an early date some of Miss Abbott's pupils will be heard and the musical public will then realize the wonderful results obtained through utilizing the expert vocal knowledge of this teacher.

An interview in reference to this work can be arranged at any time by phoning 1101.

SIGHT SINGING CLASS.

The class being formed under Mr. Charles E. Percy for sight reading will commence November 8, at 7 p. m. There are vacancies for three more pupils in this class. Particulars of registration can be obtained by phoning 1101.

DEPARTMENT OF DANCING.

Names may still be added for children wishing to join the Monday and Friday classes in Interpretive Dancing, under Miss Pryce. For particulars phone 1101.

DEPARTMENT OF DRAMATIC ART.

There are vacancies in the various classes under the direction of Miss Topley Thomas. A special class is now being formed for public speaking and Miss Thomas will be pleased to interview applicants for this class. Phone 1101.

PIANOFORTE DEPARTMENT.

The Pianoforte Department has grown to wonderful dimensions, but this can hardly be wondered at when one reads down the list of teachers engaged. Even the junior grades have their expert individual teachers the same as the senior and recital students. This method guarantees the continuity of enthusiasm and musical interest, which is one of the characteristics of the London Conservatory of Music. For list of teachers, terms, etc., phone 1101.

VACANCIES.

There are vacancies for the following appointments:
One intermediate violin teacher.
Junior and intermediate pianoforte teacher.
Organist position for out-of-town.

For particulars make written application to the London Conservatory of Music. f

IN NEED OF ADVICE.

Something was troubling Henrietta Hen. She seemed to have some secret sorrow. No longer did she move with her well-known queenly manner among her neighbors in the farm yard. Instead, she spent a good deal of her time moping. And no one could guess the reason. She didn't even care to talk to anybody—not even to boast about her fine, speckled coat. And that certainly was not in the least like Henrietta Hen.

Always before Henrietta had seized every chance to parade before the public. Now she seemed to crave privacy.

Henrietta Hen saw at once that Aunt Polly was hopelessly old-fashioned.

What was the matter? To tell the truth, Henrietta Hen herself did not know the answer to that question. That is to say, she did not know why a certain thing was so. She only knew that a great misfortune had befallen her. And she dreaded to tell anybody about it.

To be sure, there was old White—a hen who had lived on the farm longer than any other. Most members of the flock often asked her advice. Even Henrietta herself had done it. But this difficulty was something she didn't want to mention to a neighbor. If there were only somebody outside the flock to whom she could go for help! But she knew of no one.

Then Henrietta happened to hear of Aunt Polly Woodchuck. The Muley cow, who went to the pasture every day, mentioned Aunt Polly's name to Henrietta. According to the Muley Cow, Aunt Polly Woodchuck was an herb doctor—and a good one, too. No matter what might be troubling a person Aunt Polly was sure to have something right in her basket to cure it.

"I'd like to see her," Henrietta Hen had said. "But I can't go away up in the pasture, under the hill."

"Could you go to the end of the lane?" the Muley Cow inquired.

"Yes."

"Then, I'll ask Aunt Polly Woodchuck to meet you by the bars to-morrow morning," the Muley Cow promised.

That suited Henrietta Hen.

Early the next day she followed the cows through the lane. And she hadn't waited long at the bars when Aunt Polly Woodchuck came hobbling up to her. Being a very old lady, Aunt Polly was somewhat lame. But she was spry for all that. And her eyes were as bright as buttons.

Henrietta Hen saw at once that Aunt Polly was hopelessly old-fashioned. She carried a basket on her arm and a stick in her hand.

"Well, well, dearie! Here you are!" cried Aunt Polly Woodchuck. "The Muley Cow tells me you're feeling poorly. Do tell me all about yourself! No doubt I've something in my basket that will do you a world of good."

EVADE HIGH POST RATE.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—An agitation is growing in favor of the consideration of the question of freeing postage from the present excessive rates while the question of spending scores of millions of pounds to encourage a revival of trade is being considered. Styles BY Lenore

PARIS (By Mail.)—One of the unique surprises of the season was the intense interest shown in fringe at the Paris openings. Like the protesting Irishman who refused to be buried just because his doctor had pronounced him dead, because we thought fringe passe was no guarantee that it had run its course in the world of fashion. Of course, there are very good reasons why some fads are short-lived. Nowhere in the world does a fashion become more quickly popular, thanks to our highly developed popular price ready-to-wear industry, but thanks also to this same industry, nowhere does a fad die so soon.

Hence buyers at the august openings looked coldly on fringe trimmings, except where displayed in highly novel effects, as in the dinner dress illustrated above. Here the whole point of the dress lies in the fringe, contrived of strands of steel beads and fine white silk tape in the center. Or the tape may be dyed to match the color of the foundation, which in the original model is beige chiffon, over a slip of white satin, with flat roses of self-material to ornament the narrow girdle.

SIDE TALKS —BY— RUTH CAMERON

HOW AN INVALID CAN HELP.

"Oh, if I could only be of some use in the world again," I heard a woman who is now a semi-invalid, but who in her younger years was always a most active and useful and cheerful member of society, say the other day.

It is her constant plaint, her daughter told me. Sometimes she goes beyond her strength and tries to make pretty clothes for her grandchildren as she used to in the old days. And then she has a setback and has to keep to her bed for two or three days. And that makes her more unhappy than ever.

"Mother is so unhappy over not being strong as she used to be and so discontented in spite of all we try to do to make her happy that it is depressing to be with her. I hurry up my work so that I can get over there and be with her, and often I'm tired out when I get there, and then she talks about not being likely to live long and not wanting to live if she can't be of some use in the world, and by the time I've finished trying to cheer her up I'm all in myself. I don't think it is possible that she will ever be as strong and active as she used to be, but the doctors say with the care we are giving her there is no reason she shouldn't live for years. Do you suppose she has got to be unhappy and depressed and make other people unhappy all the time?

"I can't tell her myself but I wish some one else would tell her when she keeps saying that she wishes she could be of some use in the world, that she can be. She can try to be cheerful and peaceful and resigned to use what strength she has and get as much happiness as she can from it."

I don't suppose the daughter realizes how much she asks. I don't suppose she has any idea how hard it is to be patient when you'd rather be active. I don't imagine she would find it easy to be cheerful if she had to endure semi-invalidism.

And yet I think she is absolutely right in what she says.

Maybe you call those two statements contradictory. I don't think they are. Because a thing is hard doesn't prove it isn't the only thing that can be done.

That woman, like many semi-invalids, declares that she wants to be of some use in the world. The biggest use she—and most of the others—can be is to cultivate cheerfulness and resignation and make their sick rooms a place where the active workers about them may come and find peace and rest for their hearts, even while they serve with their bodies.

If being unhappy and resentful would make her any stronger or any happier (a paradox, you perceive, but a deliberate one) those about her would be willing to have her indulge in these moods. But since giving away to them only makes her, as well as them, miserable, what's the use?

I know it's terribly hard. It means character building and character building is always hard, and doubly harder when you are weak and sick, and perhaps old. No one who is well and strong ought to blame anyone who could not accomplish this to withdraw any tenderness from them because they couldn't. Only that's the answer to the invalid's plaint. And its worth while as an ideal even if one cannot attain to its complete fulfillment.

SLEEPY-TIME TALES

THE TALE OF LADYBUG.

BACK AGAIN.

Somehow Mrs. Ladybug's friends missed her. The orchard seemed quite a different place after she vanished inside the farmhouse to stay there all winter long. In spite of her sharp tongue and her prying ways people discovered—now that she was gone—that they had liked Mrs. Ladybug more than they knew.

While she was with them in the orchard they had often wished she wouldn't ask so many questions. But now the days seemed very long without Mrs. Ladybug to inquire how and why and when and where.

And then—then a rumor flashed from lip to lip all the way across the garden and the orchard and the meadow: "Mrs. Ladybug is back again! She didn't stay in the farmhouse a week!"

And sure enough, the rumor proved to be true. Mrs. Ladybug, looking rather foolish, appeared in her old haunts among the apple trees. She acted as if something had occurred to upset her. And though she seemed glad to be greeted by all her old companions, she didn't want them to ask her a single question as to why she hadn't spent the whole winter, instead of only one week of early fall, in Farmer Green's house.

If she thought her neighbors weren't

23.
'It was a short winter, anyhow,' he said.

going to question her she was sadly mistaken.

Only a little while before they had asked her a thousand and one questions about where she was going to live during the winter. And now they were just as curious to know why she had returned. But this time they asked her a thousand and two questions.

You couldn't say that her answers weren't satisfying, because she didn't make any answers at all.

Of course, things couldn't go on like that forever. People had to know what had changed Mrs. Ladybug's plans. And in order to persuade the stubborn lady to explain matters, a few of her friends hinted that they expected they would have to go to Farmer Green himself and learn the truth.

"You may ask him if you wish," Mrs. Ladybug told them. "But it won't do you any good. He can't tell you what happened because he doesn't know himself."

Maybe the farmhouse was cold, Chirpy Cricket suggested.

Mrs. Ladybug made no comment on that remark.

"Perhaps the roof leaked," said Daddy Longlegs.

Still no sign from Mrs. Ladybug.

"She found that the farmhouse wasn't windproof," said Daddy Longlegs' wife.

And Mrs. Ladybug didn't deny it nor did she say that that was so.

Then Buster Bumblebee made one of his blundering speeches.

"It was a short winter, anyhow," he said.

Mrs. Ladybug's neighbors couldn't help tittering. And somehow their amusement stung her into telling the truth about the whole affair, right then and there.

"Mrs. Green and I didn't get on well together," she confessed.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a 16-oz. bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make 16 ounces—more than you can buy ready-made for $2.50. It is pure, good and pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Health Talks

THE TEETH IN INFANTS

Breast fed infants, as a rule, teeth earlier than bottle fed. Yet in some families even with breast feeding and evident good nutrition the teething will be late. There are 20 teeth in the first or temporary set. The first, the lower middle incisors, usually appear between the first to the sixth month. The two upper middle incisors come next. Then two upper lateral incisors; and following these the two later lateral incisors. The first molars are cut between the twelfth and fifteenth month. The eye and stomach teeth are cut between the eighteenth and the twenty-fourth month. The last four molars are cut between the twenty-fourth and the thirtieth month. There are 32 teeth in the permanent set. The temporary teeth begin to fall out at about the sixth year and the permanent teeth begin to appear.

For the first two years of life the mouth should be washed twice daily with a solution of boracic acid, one tablespoonful to a pint of water. The mother may do this best by wrapping some absorbent cotton around the index finger and dipping it into the solution, when it may be applied with gentle friction to the gums and teeth. After the second year a soft toothbrush and any simple tooth paste or powder may be used in the morning and before retiring in the evening.

Questions and Answers

Do you think kissing interferes with health? My fellow—

Answer: I withhold from an eager public further statement of your letter. To answer your question I would say that in the case you have mentioned kissing would be unhealthful. Your letter should really have been directed to our very respectful friend, Mrs. Grundy — a lady who appears to get very little hearing nowadays. But I venture to observe that what I or anybody else thinks would have nothing at all to do with the question. You know very well, "Veronica," that if my opinion were not in agreement with yours, you would call me a dunderhead-ed old grouch and write me to mind my own business. Such is the consistency of your most charming of sexes.

The practice of kissing, so state the evolutionists, started some 600,000 years ago, when the genus homo started to inhabit the earth; and despite what anybody says to-day, the practice is going to keep up until this terrestial globe will burst in a cosmic explosion. And I am glad this is so — yes, I am. Only I sometimes feel sorry that the aforesaid Mrs. Grundy appears nowadays to have much too little to say about the circumstances under which the kiss should be given. There is nothing in heaven or earth so precious as a kiss, but only the young fellow who means business, and is ready to work the rest of his life for it, should have that kiss.

NEW AUSTRALIAN LOAN.

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A Reuter cable states that underwriting is progressing in the new Australian Commonwealth loan of five million pounds at 6 per cent., issued pounds at six per cent., issued at 98 at 96, and redeemable in 1931 and 1941. It is understood that one million pounds is new money, the balance being required for redeeming 2,000,000 of bills and 2,000,000 other debts.

ROMANCE OF FILM WORLD OFTEN FADES

These Not Auspicious Days For Breaking Into the Movie Game—Some Experiences.

BY C. R. L.

In spite of what my friend John Emerson has said in his very interesting series these are not the most auspicious days for breaking into the movie game.

Unless, of course, you have so much talent that you cannot hold it in any longer.

Last week, in New York, I saw more good actors unemployed than ever before.

And whom do you think will get the chances when there are opportunities for players?

Experienced players!

There are said to be from 3,000 to 4,000 chorus girls idle and about 3,000 actors and actresses.

In Hollywood the studios are besieged by applicants daily—and many are players of recognized ability.

Many are hungry—are living on charity.

Of course, a career on the screen or on the stage is a brilliant thing to contemplate—if you're a star or a featured player.

Girls see themselves pointed out on the street: "That's so and so, the movie actress!"

SOME LIFE!

A nice, luxurious, opulent life!

Courted by men; envied by women!

But when it comes to a real studio experience the romance is shot to pieces.

The best thing a movie player does is wait.

They seem to be always waiting for something—can't leave the studio for fear the call may come any moment.

I've seen them sit by the hour, bored to weariness—

And then, suddenly, when the call comes, they must slough off the mask of the dismal and go through long, monotonous hours of rehearsal, "takes" and re-takes.

Time was, that things were done at convenient hours—but now, with money tight, fewer productions and real economy in producing, players may start out to location at 5.30 a. m.—work or wait through a day—be called for night take—leave for home at 1 a. m.—and be back on the lot at 6 the next dawn.

For which the pay isn't much more than a good stenographer would get—unless, as I said, one is a featured player.

TOUGH ON EXTRAS.

The extras lead dogs' lives and most players get their starts as extras.

I once watched a set of new players being rehearsed. They were a sad looking bunch after Eric Von Stroheim got through with them. They were being trained to look society butterflies. When they got through that day's work, they looked as if their wings had been sadly mauled—tired, haggard, they posed and posed.

"Look smart—show some pep," shouted.

They "perked" up a little—and then ... lethargy after a quarter of an hour.

Next morning they were "shot" at sunrise.

I saw a star being rehearsed in a big scene.

The poor lady was supposed to be doing some sort of sacrifice stunt with a baby. She had a wooden doll to practice with.

"On your knees," yelled the director. "Cry—for God's sake cry—don't make faces!"

Business of weeping.

"Stop laughing! Cry!"

After 15 minutes of trying to get a realistic picture of grief, the director gave it up.

"Come back in the morning—without breakfast," he ordered, "you'll feel sadder then."

PRACTICING A STUNT.

A male actor was practicing a stunt. He was supposed to be a sailor hero.

The director wanted him to save a drowning girl in mid-sea. So he had our hero jumping into a tank to rescue a floating dummy—for nearly an hour.

But oh—when it comes to a cabaret scene!

I sometimes think that once a player has appeared in a restaurant scene, he or she will never want to enter a real cafe again.

"Sit down! Get up! Sit down! No, not that way! This way! Try it now! Rotten! Look like a lady—do you want to put your feet on the table? Say, you! Put your napkin on your lap, not on your chest. My dear girl, have you ever been in a swell cafe before? Well, don't sit like a stick. Look as if you weren't scared of a clean tablecloth—"

And so on!

It's a nifty game for an idle person. Nothing to do but work—or wait!

Walter Hampden, distinguished Shakespearean actor as he appears in "Hamlet," in which production he will open a three-day engagement at the Grand on Monday.

WALTER HAMPDEN IN GREAT PRODUCTIONS

Distinguished Shakespearean Actor To Be At the Grand Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday—Balance of Week "Some Girl," Musical Comedy.

When Walter Hampden, the distinguished Shakspearean actor, returns to London for his engagement at the Grand the first three days of next week, he will present "The Taming of the Shrew," in which he, of course, will be seen as Patuchio. Usually, tragedians have failed to make their mark in these Shakespearean roles requiring the light touch of a comedian or the broad slashes of a farceur and when, during the course of the star's New York season last spring announcement was made of his debut in this farce, even some of his admirers doubted his ability to make of Petruchio a living image, as are his tragic roles. But some idea or how Mr. Hampden met these objections may be gained in quoting The New York Sun's pronouncement, to the effect that "there never was a better Petruchio than Walter Hampden." The reason is simple: many forget that Mr. Hampden, before his re-entry into Shakespearean circles was, as leading man for Arthur Hopkins, the comedian in Clare Kummer's comedies. Aside from this, however, his interpretation of the role is regarded as excellent; fast tempo, broad farce vein and all that. The subtlety of Petruchio in taming the famed Katherine is revealed, together with the most enjoyable sort of slapstick farce. Mr. Hampden will present "The Shrew" on Tuesday night, following his opening with "Hamlet." On Wednesday "Romeo and Juliet" will be seen in the afternoon and "The Merchant of Venice" at night will conclude his engagement.

TREAT FOR MUSIC LOVERS

Under its fitting title, "Some Girl," this musical comedy will be revealed at the Grand on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Of fairy-like construction, but modern in its happily drawn mixture of personalities, artfully novel in its pretty preservation of the romantic fairy theme, with a fine organization of musical comedy interpreters and a chorus that can both sing and dance, and is said to justify—as much as earthly maidens might — their selection for representing "sun goddesses," this diverting entertainment has struck loudly the keynote of popular favor and will doubtless afford local patrons of the play one of the most enjoyable evenings they have had in a long while.

Music lovers will be interested in the following selected from the list of popular tunes abounding in the score: "My Sunshine Lady," "In 1999," "The Songs I Sang When I Was Twenty-One," "When the Whistle Blue For Home Sweet Home," "I Miss You, Honey, 'Deed I Do," "Love Needs Opposition," "Mystic, Magic Man," "Mere Man," "Dixieland Is Calling You," Cupid's Sweets," "What's the Use of Lovin'," "A Night at the Riviera," and "Anything to Make a Picture Now-a-Days."

Among the principal artists are such well-known names as Gudrun Walberg, Marguerite Williams, Allan Carter, Tom Crowley, Lottie Proctor, and an exceptionally large beauty chorus.

MISS PEEGE TO SING.

Because of an unfortunate accident causing the death of Mr. Paul Bicksler, who was to have appeared in concert at the Masonic Temple under the auspices of the ladies' auxiliary of the Great War Veterans' Association, Miss Charlotte Peege, contralto, will take his place on the program. Miss Peege has a delightfully sympathetic voice. Her diction is true and her manner most pleasing. She has been soloist with the New York Symphony, St. Louis Symphony and with many other leading musical organizations.

Scene from "Thunderclap," a great race track drama, showing at the Allen on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, of next week.

GREAT RACE TRACK DRAMA AT ALLEN

"Thunderclap," a Drama of "The Sport of Kings," a Photoplay That Makes the Blood Tingle. Showing at the Allen, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

The ancient Greeks had a fable about a giant named Antaeus. Whenever he touched earth he became more powerful, but when he lay on a couch or did not touch the soil in any way his strength became lessened. He was finally overcome by Hercules, who held the giant suspended in the air so long that his force absolutely gave out and he became a mere weakling. That is almost the case with "Thunderclap," the super photo-drama, which comes to the Allen the first four days of next week. It has lifted the audiences off the earth and held them suspended until their breath gave out. It is the most spectacular photoplay of the year, or, as it is billed, "the greatest race track drama ever staged." "Thunderclap" comes direct from an extended engagement on Broadway. New York newspapers say that two of the most spectacular scenes ever registered on the screen take place in "Thunderclap." One is the hair-raising passage of the hero down a temptuous rapids at Niagara on the top of a board, which rivals the water scene in "Way Down East," and the other is the never-to-be-forgotten race scene.

Lyman Howe's great film novelty, "A Ride on a Runaway Train," will be shown on the big double program, in conjunction with the greatest race track drama ever staged, "Thunderclap," at the Allen the first four days of next week.

Here's $5,000 to establish yourself in a hick town. I want every man, woman and child in that town calling you "Honest" Tom Smith. At the expiration of one year I will come on to you and show you how to make a killing. These are the terms Tom Moore, known as "Fancy Charlie," works under in his latest dramatic comedy, "Beating the Game," the feature photoplay at the Allen on Friday and Saturday next week. One year passes and Lawson arrives in Plumfield. Charlie, who, after living on the straight and narrow path for one year, decides to continue the honest life and offers to pay Lawson back his $5,000. A charming love story is interwoven into the plot that ranks Tom Moore's latest picture above any of his previous efforts. In addition to "Beating the Game" will be shown another of Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton's screaming comedies, "The Simp," Allen World News, Travelogue and a special musical program by Allen's Concert Orchestra.

MYSTERY PLAY AT MAJESTIC NEXT WEEK

"Seven Keys to Baldpate," Famous George M. Cohen Success to Be Presented by Grew Players.

Once more have the Wm. A. Grew Players scored a success in a big way in their decision to produce, all next week, that melodramatic, mystic farce comedy with which the famous George M. Cohen made such a wonderful success, "Seven Keys to Baldpate."

This wonderful story, so gripping, requires an unusually large cast to produce, but in their endeavors to give theater patrons of London and district the best productions possible the Majestic management have decided to spare no expenses whatever and are bringing to the city a number of extra players, some of whom delighted London audiences before.

Hundreds of thousands of people throughout Canada and United States have read the story of "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and a big percentage of those people have seen the play either when it was produced by the famous George Cohen or on the silver screen. The story has caused more talk, relatively speaking, than any other of its kind ever written, and one of the reasons for it is the ingenuity of the author in building around a summer resort hotel, unoccupied in the dead of winter, a wonderful detective and ghost story combined, that while very unusual, developed to a climax that was surprising to say the least.

There are also many characters in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and each one requires such finished acting that it was found necessary in order to produce the play for Londoners to secure an added staff of players. Although this meant an extra large expenditure for salaries, railroad fares, etc., the Majestic management have gone ahead and made arrangements to produce the play in its entirety and promise their patrons that all who see it will be delighted and that those who do not see it, but hear about it from their friends after, will be considerably disappointed.

Increasing patronage at the Majestic every night is proving to the management that Londoners appreciate the work of the Grew Players and no efforts will be spared all through the season to produce the latest and best hits.

"Pay Day," because of the fact that it has added to the general get-together spirit of patrons of this theater and also because it produces considerable merriment, will be continued next week with the exception of Monday night, and on Monday night the practice of giving two seats for the price of one will be continued.

EILEEN PERCY QUEEN OF FLAP-JACK MAKERS

"Big Town Ideas" at Patricia on Monday—Special Vitagraph Feature on Thursday.

She certainly shook a lively flap-jack turner. And everybody around the junction love her and her flap-jacks; but she couldn't love them all, so she chose a sad-faced young man whom the sheriff brought in, in handcuffs, and who she felt sure was innocent. You may go through it all with Eileen Percy in "Big Town Ideas" at the Patricia Theater on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Earle Williams has always been interested in motor vehicles. When he was working upon a photoplay he could always be found tinkering with his motor car. In fact, so interested is he in automobiling that he equips his car with every new accessory. He feels that he is the goat for all accessory firms, as there is not a company in business that does not think of him when planning to put a new accessory on the market. Usually they find the star a ready buyer. He is willing to try anything once.

His experiments served him well, however, in making preparations for "The Silver Car," which will be given a run of three days at the Patricia Theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. In this production he is required to assume the role of an expert chauffeur.

For the purpose Vitagraph constructed a silver car of the most improved type. In the construction of the car Williams' knowledge of cars proved of great value. The result is a car which Mr. Williams believes is superior to any on the market to-day. It is high-powered and equipped with the last word in safety devices and accessories which make motoring not only a pleasure, but a luxury.

DAINTY GUDRUN WALBERG, dancing comedienne with the big musical comedy hit, "Some Girl," at the Grand, October 27, 28 and 29.

DARE DEVIL DRIVER FOR DOROTHY DALTON

Thrilling Scene Pictured In "Behind Masks," Which Comes to Loew's on Monday.

One scene of "Behind Masks," Dorothy Dalton's latest Paramount picture, coming to Loew's on Monday, demanded the skillful driving of a high-powered foreign car carrying Miss Dalton along a country road on the outskirts of New York. When it was time to "shoot" the scene, Director Frank Reicher was astounded to see the car come tearing down the road and go through the required action perfectly without rehearsal.

Relics of San Francisco's once notorious underworld—some possessing histories as romantic as the fictitious tale in which they now are being used—were obtained for use in Metro's special production of "Uncharted Seas," in which Alice Lake appears on Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Loew Theater.

APPRECIATING INFLUENCE OF MOVIE PLAYS

Claimed Inestimably More To B Set On Credit Side Than In Other Column.

When our friends who hold up the hands in holy horror over the benef influences of the movies, begin to chec up the good and the bad points of th art—if they are conscientious—they w find that there is inestimably more be set on the credit side than in th other column.

Indirectly—suggestively—the motio pictures must be wielding considerabl influence on our standards of hom living.

It seems improbable that people all walks of life should be constant attending the movies and not be in fluenced by the beauty of the scen showing the furnishing of homes.

It seems to be one of the points pride in the motion pictures director catalogue that he should try to out other directors in the artistic arrang ment of his household scenes.

Of course, a great many of the overdo it.

There is a furniture man who spend a good deal of his time at the movi in order to get ideas for artistic displ of his goods.

When he sees a well arranged roo on the screen, he sets up a simil room in his store—and the result is increased business. He has discover that the standard of public appreci tion of good plenishings has improv tremendously within a few years.

EXPORT CREDITS BILL FOR HOUSE

J. Austen Chamberlain Announces Important Issues

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Additional Levy to Provide Funds Proposed

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Four bills which J. Austen Chamberlain, the Government leader in the House of Commons, announces will be introduced by the Government, will be concerned, first, with export credits and means for dealing with collapsed exchanges; second, with the equalization of rates and the problems arising out of the recent incidents surrounding the imprisonment of the councilors of the Borough of Poplar; third, with a new levy of two pence on employers and workmen to provide additional funds for unemployment insurance benefits, and, fourth, with relief of the unemployment situation in Scotland.

In the House of Lords Earl Curzon, the secretary for foreign affairs, in making a statement similar to that of the prime minister with regard to the representation of Great Britain at the Washington conference, added:

"I am sure your lordships will join in an informal tribute to Mr. Balfour for being willing, in addition to the many public labors that, in view of his prestige at home and the almost unexampled influence which he acquired in the United States on his visit during the war, no more fitting exponent of the British view could be found.

RUSSIA TRYING TO BOOST TRADE

Committee Named In Petrograd For Centralized Action.

PRODUCTION IS POOR

Country Unable To Provide For Its Own Needs.

PETROGRAD, Oct. 10. — A report issued by the extended council for national economy and dealing with the work of the commissariat for foreign trade states that it has been decided to erect a central bureau in Petrograd in order to centralize the work which is being done by the special sections of the said commissariat. The work of this central bureau should comprise 12 governments in Central and Northern Russia as well as the Port of Archangel. At the same time sections of the commissariat for foreign trade should be erected at all the Government's executive committees for the purpose of procuring goods for export.

A large portion of the goods likely to arrive in the near future are intended for Siberia, whither, in addition to agricultural machines, tractors, files and shovels, also boilers, electrical articles will have to be sent. In return for such goods the commissariat has managed to procure 100,000 poods of asbestos, ready for shipment via Archangel.

The Pravada confesses to the altogether unsatisfactory results of Russia's intended purchases abroad, and that Russia's fund of gold is rapidly decreasing, while the production of fresh gold is utterly inadequate. Other official publications are apparently equally candid. The textile industry is suffering from a shortage of machinery, coals, skilled labor and fuel. The present production of cotton, flax, hemp and wool is respectively about one-eighteenth, one-eighth, one-fifth and one-half of the pre-war production. Russia is consequently only able to produce a fraction of her own requirements of textile goods. In the face of the famine, which, like an angry sea, is rolling over Russia on account of the utter failure of the harvest in even some of the most fertile and prosperous districts, it almost sounds preposterous to talk about export of grain from Russia.

The production of iron has receded to a minimum of about two per cent. of the pre-war output, and the stocks of metals have dwindled down to 9,000,000 poods, against 44,000,000 poods in 1918. The production of coal and petroleum has come to an almost complete standstill. Without stating what has become of the others, there are now only 13.7 per cent. of the normal number of plows, 4.9 per cent. of harvesting machines and 1.5 per cent. of threshers available.

Russia's immense wealth of timber is of very small avail at present, because the Soviet authorities are incapable of supplying the men with the requisite food and in consequence they simply flee from the forests. This is officially stated to be the case in the districts of Perm, Ufa, Vjatka and others. That transport in many places is coming to an almost complete standstill is of less importance, considering that there is hardly anything to transport.

SCOTLAND SHOULD BE GOOD FIELD FOR CANADIAN FLOUR, SAYS TRADE COMMISSIONER

Valuable Information As To Demand, Methods of Selling and Local Conditions — Some Criticism Voiced of Canadian Flour.

(By Trade Commissioner Gordon B. Johnson).

GLASGOW, Sept. 27, 1921.—The manufacture and marketing of wheat flour are such highly technical subjects that it would be presumptuous for anyone without actual experience of this business to write a survey of the market or to offer advice on his own authority to the experts in Canada who are engaged in the manufacture or export of one of the Dominion's principal products. It should be clearly understood, therefore, that the following report, including any criticisms or advice respecting Canadian export practice which may appear, is based on information supplied by flour importers of the highest standing, undoubted knowledge, and with a world outlook, and should be regarded therefore in the light of useful information, or at least as revealing the mind of the importer, to those in Canada concerned in the prosperity of this industry and in the extension of flour exports to this country.

The report deals almost entirely with Scotland. The returns of flour imported into the United Kingdom for the past few years would be of very little value, because during most of this period flour was under the control of the royal commission on wheat supplies, as was also wheat, but generally the consumption of imported flour in Scotland is 200,000 tons per annum, or equal roughly to 2,000,000 sacks of 280 pounds each. This includes flour of all classes. During the war it included Canadian, American, Australian and Chinese. The total consumption of flour in and passing through Glasgow is 30,000 sacks of 280 pound per week. There are in Glasgow five or six millers, including the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, and these, of course, exercise a very important influence on supplies. They have a capacity of *25,000 |280 per week (*subject to correction). In Edinburgh, Leith, Montrose and Dundee there are about five or six millers with a capacity of 19,000 |280 per week, making the milling capacity of Scotland about *44,000 |280 per week.

Just at present the home millers have an advantage over the importers because they are experiencing this year a heavy demand for bran from the continent at quite £3 over the normal price—that is, £11 against a normal £8. For every extra pound that they get in bran they can reduce the price of flour one shilling a sack, so that they have three shillings for that purpose to-day. This demand for bran seems likely to continue for a long time.

THE SCOTTISH DEMAND.

Respecting Canadian flour, the demand in Glasgow to-day is mainly for straight-run Manitoban; there is a small and steady demand for high-grade Manitoban patents, and there is considerable business in Ontario 90 per cent. flour. The lower grades are not much wanted, as the quality of bread is high. Competition is only on quality. The Scottish bakers use far more imported flour than the English bakers, owing to the system of baking in Scotland—that is, the use of a quarter and half sponge. The English bakers adopt the short process for which they find the home-milled flour more suitable. The Scottish baker likes to do his own blending and to buy flour of individual character on which he can rely.

QUALITIES ON THE MARKET.

The quality of flour put on the Scottish market by domestic millers runs from the very highest short patents to a straight-run flour, and some of these have a high reputation and command top prices. They have had a distinct advantage this year in getting both Kansas wheat and Manitoban wheat for earlier delivery than the importers could get the flour, with the result that they can offer at a low price for specific delivery. Their flour is not so dry as imported flour and therefore absorbs less water and produces less bread. On the whole it is the opinion that there is practically very little advantage to the home miller over Canadian exporters except as already noted, and the exporters of other countries have no advantage in this market over Canadian exporters. One of the great advantages which Canada has attained is the reputation for quality of her Manitoban flour. All during the war period importers got better value from Canada than from the United States, with the result that the bakers have got very keen on Manitoban flour, and to a certain extent it has displaced Minnesota. The reputation of Manitoban wheat was not made by the shippers of Manitoban wheat, but was made by the millers who used No. 1 Northern Manitoba. It was the reputation of this flour which attracted the attention of the British millers to the quality of the wheat and incidentally led to its being bought.

CRITICISM OF CANADIAN FLOUR.

One criticism of Canadian flour that is heard here is based on the supposition that some of the millers, more particularly in Ontario, are careless in quality respecting their winter wheats. It is stated that some of them ship carelessly—that is to say, ship "a clean up" of the mill, which includes poor stuff as well as good. Again, some dealers do a fair export business in flour bought from different millers in Ontario and sold abroad under one brand. But this flour does not command a good price for the reason that it is irregular in quality. This lowers the reputation of Ontario winter wheat flour, which, coming from a good careful miller, cannot, in the opinion of the trade here, be excelled for certain purposes.

METHODS OF SELLING CANADIAN FLOUR.

There are two methods of selling Canadian flour in this market. There is what may be called the temporary method, and what may be called the permanent method. The temporary method is favored by those millers who use this market as an outlet for surplus stocks at prices below the market. Those millers are in communication with a number of firms here, who at the same time are in correspondence with a number of mills in Canada. Some of this business is done under mill brands, and a good deal of it under the buyers' private brands, which they have on record in as many mills as care to correspond with them. If any of those mills wish to dispose of surplus stocks, they may cable low prices to half a dozen people, but those half dozen people at the same time may have similar cables from other millers who are in the same position. The cheapest seller gets the business for the time being and the trade is temporarily demoralized. But there is no permanency in this sort of business because none of those importers can afford to take a risk, fearing that one or other of their competitors have got in a little cheaper than they have; so the moment the market turns this business comes to an end. What may be called the permanent method, which is favored by the strongest and best established mills, is to confine their business to recognized and permanent agents, who sell under the mills' registered brands, and who, in exchange for this privilege, agree not to sell competing flours. These mills have a reputation which is well established, and command on the whole a steady all-the-year-round trade.

EMPIRE MARKETS IN BETTER SHAPE

Australia Improving; New Zealand Also Grows.

TRADE WITH BRAZIL

Much Goes Via New York and Figures Are Difficult To Obtain.

D. H. Ross, Canadian trade commissioner in Melbourne, reports that the present period of transition from winter to spring is proceeding under favorable circumstances and reports from the country continue of a hopeful charcter in regard to the prospects for the coming season's production of the leading primary staples—wool, wheat and dairy products. Traders are receiving a fair volume of orders from the country, which reflects improved purchasing power after substantial realization from the sale of much of last season's production. The wool trade is showing a marked revival, both in London and Australian sales, and cabled advices indicate the prospects of a firmer market, which has put renewed vigor into commercial activities throughout the Commonwealth. While the stocks of dry goods held throughout the Commonwealth are stated to be much in excess of immediate requirements, there is, inversely, already some shortages in lines of general hardware, and this position will probably become accentuated before the end of the year.

IMPROVED FINANCIAL CONDITION IN NEW ZEALAND.

W. A. Bice, trade commissioner, Auckland, reports that New Zealand had a favorable trade balance for July of over £3,000,000 sterling. The prospects of dairy produce are good, but the outlook for meats is only fair, as the high freight rates have a deterrent effect.

E. L. McColl, trade commissioner in Rio de Janeiro, reports that the imports into Brazil for the six months ending June, 1921, decreased, roughly, 25 per cent., and the export 45 per cent., as compared with the corresponding period last year. Imports of merchandise by countries show that the United States exports to Brazil almost double the quantity of that of its next competitor, the United Kingdom. For the year 1920 Germany's exports to Brazil were roughly 10 per cent. of the United States', while for the first six months of 1921 they were just under 25 per cent. German and Belgian exportations to Brazil have risen tremendously, notwithstanding depressed financial conditions in Brazil. Freight rates from Hamburg to Rio de Janeiro at the present moment run about 15 shillings per ton. Cement has been brought to northern ports at as low a freight rate as 10 shillings a ton.

CANADA'S EXPORTS TO BRAZIL.

E. L. McColl, trade commissioner in Rio de Janeiro, reports that a large proportion of Canadian shipments to Brazil are made via New York and through New York agents and are credited as coming from the United States. The Canadian figures would no doubt be double those given were all the Canadian exports to Brazil ascertainable. Now that Canada has a regular line of freight ships direct to Brazil this trade via New York should become diverted and the whole considerably increased. During the last year Canada exported to Brazil 70 different products, some of which were the following: Confectionery, cotton goods, cutlery, copper wire and cable, cement, calcium carbide, chemicals, drugs, dyes, electrical goods, fish, fancy goods, glassware, instruments (scientific), jewelry, locomotives, lamps, lanterns, malt, paper, pulp, machines (washing, adding, sewing, weighing), pipe, rubber products, rails, rods, tires, pneumatic, tools, garden, tubes, iron, toys, wire, whisky.

BANKS ARE PROTECTING SELVES AGAINST LOSS

Burglary and Hold-up Insurance Taken Out.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—An additional supply of revolvers and more burglary and hold-up insurance appear to be the only steps so far taken by banks, bond companies and others against visits from gunmen and robbers, such as recent robberies in Toronto and Western Ontario.

A big guarantee company has received an application for $100,000 burglary and hold-up insurance from a large firm of bond dealers here. An express firm recently took $100,000 in burglary and hold-up insurance.

An official of one of the larger banks said to-day that the bank had issued more revolvers in all branches. Inquiries were also being made as to what the bank really has to guard against in dealing with hold-up men and also considering the remodeling of the "layout" of some of the buildings. Steel grilling is being considered to fence the banking section off entirely from the concourse open to the public in an effort to prevent hold-up men from climbing over counters.

Make Your Christmas Present Selections Now

It's a wise person who follows the injunction to "Do your Christmas shopping early," and it's a still wiser person who carefully peruses the advertisements on this page before making any choice of gifts. These enterprising dealers now have a complete stock of goods from which to choose, and, furthermore, they have the time and patience to help a shopper choose his presents.

Less than 50 days now remain in which to make the necessary purchases and within a month's time great inroads will have been made into the stocks of the merchants so that the last-minute buyers will have to choose from what is left. All the stores whose notices appear here have agreed to accept a small deposit on any commodity in exchange for which they will lay it aside until the present is actually wanted. This assists the firms as well as the shoppers, because last-minute rushes have disadvantages for both.

If citizens would only recall the unpleasant memory of last year or the year before when they postponed their buying until the eleventh hour, they will realize the wisdom which prompted the slogan, "Shop early." This pertains especially to gifts which are popular among a large section of the people and are grabbed up within the first few weeks preceding Christmas. Many people might also recall a gift which they themselves have instantly classed as a "last-minute" purchase.

What could be more acceptable to man or woman than a gift from John A. Nash's jewelery store. Suggestions are contained in the many beautiful articles in his window and in the hundreds which are artistically arranged on the interior showcases. A gift from this store is one that will last forever and be a constant reminder of the donor.

To George Wenige a Christmas Club is nothing new; in fact, this enterprising bicycle dealer is credited with having originated and proved the success of the scheme. Red Bird machines in hundreds of homes testify to the manner in which the Londoners took hold of this suggestion.

A present that no husband can afford to overlook is a White Cap Electric Washer. Monday will be robbed of its constant horror for many housewives if hubbies see their duty and buy it before Christmas.

A closed car is perhaps the most appreciated purchase that a person could make at this time of the year. Beemer & Co. have a range of Cadillacs and Reos that assure the maximum of convenience in the winter months, and arrangements may be made to have the machine delivered to any house in the city on Christmas eve.

A photograph of yourself must not be overlooked as a gift, because it is readily mailed and sent on long or short journeys. The only thing is that care must be exercised to have Gleason make the likeness and to have it done now, so as to have the photographs ready for Christmas.

The Artistic Ladies' Wear has a valuable array of merchandise that will have great appeal with the ladies of the city and district. Furs and other finery are offered in great profusion from which madame can make her choice.

"Gifts That Last"

There is no gift more joyously received, more treasured for its beauty than Jewelry.

Choosing your gift now, while our stocks are complete, makes your gift-buying more pleasant and satisfactory. Last-minute purchasers invariably reap disappointment.

A small deposit now—the balance in periodical payments insures prompt delivery of your gift for Christmas Eve. Make your purchases to-day and join our legion of club purchasers, who find it most profitable to do their Christmas shopping early.

"My Jeweler" carries a thousand and one articles which will satisfy your every demand for an appreciative Christmas gift.

ADMIRAL BEATTY REACHES GOTHAM

British Naval Hero On Way To Visit American Legion.

NEW YORK GREETS HIM

To Attend Disarmament Parley As British Adviser.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—His gold-braided cap cocked jauntily over his left ear, Admiral Earl Beatty landed at New York to-day to receive a hale and hearty welcome from thousands assembled at the historic Battery wall. By his side was Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, of the United States navy, who had served in the North Sea during the stirring days of the war with the gallant fighter commanding the grand fleet.

Greeted at the Battery by Lieutenant-Governor Wood, after a triumphal voyage up the harbor on the tug Vigilant, to which he had transferred at Quarantine from the Aquitania, Admiral Beatty motored up Broadway to the plaudits of thousands of persons lining the great canyon. At the city hall he paused to hear Mayor Hylan welcome him to the city, and then he continued his journey uptown to the house of Marshall Field, his host, while in New York.

Sunday he leaves for Washington on his way to attend the American Legion convention in Kansas City.

Accompanying the admiral to the United States were his wife, the former Miss Ethel Field, of Chicago; their son, the Hon. Peter Beatty, aged 12, and Miss Gwendolyn Field, Lady Beatty's niece.

The admiral was wearing his undress uniform, heavy with its gold lace, and on his chest were spread a myriad of medals, including the Distinguished Service Cross, conferred on him by the United States. Birth records don't lie, but Britain's 20th century Nelson looked not a day over 40. United States citizens were not the only ones to greet the admiral. Lined up to wave him welcome were a number of former British soldiers. As had been said, they came to wave, but they ended by "shaking," for, sighting their uniforms, Earl Beatty sought them out.

During their stay in New York Admiral and Lady Beatty will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field. Lady Beatty is a daughter of the late Marshal Field, of Chicago. After the formal welcome Admiral Beatty planned to remain incognito and will not attend any formal functions until he starts for Washington on Sunday to pay his respects to President Harding and Cabinet members.

From Washington Admiral and Lady Beatty will return to New York on October 26. They will start for Chicago on October 28, going thence to Kansas City for the American Legion convention which the admiral is to address. After the convention Admiral Beatty will go to Washington, where he is to serve in an advisory capacity to the British delegation at the armament conference.

Rear Admiral Hugh Redman, who commanded the U. S. squadron as a part of Admiral Beatty's grand fleet during the war, will act as official aide to the British sea hero during his stay here.

HERO ASTIR EARLY

Rising at six bells the hero of Heligoland and Jutland bank was waiting in his full dress uniform to meet the band of notables that greeted him here. Admiral Beatty, his American wife and children boarded the tug Vigilant; the tug hoisted the admiral's flag, and, escorted by seaplanes and destroyers, the party dashed to Battery Park. By the Britisher's side was his honorary aide, Rear Admiral Hugh Rodman, who commanded the United States squadron that served with the grand fleet when guns were flashing on the North Sea.

THOUSANDS GREET HIM

Thousands of persons were massed at Manhattan's tip to greet the sea hero, who was welcomed by Lieut.-Gov. Wood. From the Battery Admiral Beatty was driven to the city hall, escorted by a battalion of mounted police, regulars from Governor's Island, and a naval detachment. Here he was greeted by Mayor Hylan and extended the freedom of the city.

In crowd which gathered in City Hall Park were numerous veterans of the war wearing service uniforms of Canadian regiments. Along the route to Mr. Field's home crowds cheered the admiral.

IN MORTARBOARD AND GOWN

Unusual pictures are reproduced above of men who have figured much in Canadian affairs in the past few years. On the top is Lord Byng, in the middle President E. W. Beatty, of the C. P. R., and at the bottom Sir Arthur Currie. The pictures were taken at McGill University centennial.

"SHOP BY THE DEPOSIT PAYMENT PLAN" IS JUST ANOTHER WAY OF SAYING "COME EARLY AND AVOID THE RUSH"

Londoners Who Are Accustomed to Exercising That Santa Claus Sensation Just on Christmas Eve Have Way Provided to Spread It Over the Year

Don't get the "Christmas eve habit."

It's all very well to let yourself be overcome by that Santa Claus feeling, but why not spread it over a greater length of time?

You like to think of yourself, no doubt, enveloped in a big fur coat and radiating the spirit of Christmas, making a tour of the shops just the day before the day of days and loading up with all sorts of parcels of good things for the loved ones you remember less tangibly all the year through. But, after all, this arrangement doesn't pay. It robs you of a chance to exercise your discrimination and it robs your good friend, the merchant, of an opportunity to serve you to the best advantage. Often his stock is so depleted he can't show you that little article you admired in his window in October. It has probably been sold already.

So, why not shop early? It is made possible for you this year by the deposit-payment plan.

NEVER MISS THE MONEY

If you adopt the Christmas shopping deposit plan you will never miss the amount of money it takes to buy presents. Start right today, don't delay, for, as you know, delay in most cases means disappointment, and it will surely be if you can't see your way clear to buy the alloted number of presents you had decided on. If you take the merchants' advice, select the article to-day, pay a little down and a little each week. By Christmas the article will be paid for. Shop early and get what you want is the only solution.

The merchants' cry, "shop early," in past years has been unheeded and they have started this new plan of shopping as a means of getting patrons to start their Christmas shopping early. The plan is a new scheme in London, but in other cities it has been carried on and proved a decided success. It is not the merchant that is looking forward to reaping any benefit, but they are endeavoring to meet the public, and at last have found a means to do so.

A "CHRISTMAS CLUB"

Don't hesitate at adoptnig this new scheme—hundreds are doing it. It is not buying presents on the installment plan, as many think, but it is a Christmas club formed by the merchants of the city, and it is becoming popular. In the end you will not only have your presents to make your friends happy, but you will have every article you had decided on, saved money by buying early and will avoid the Christmas and last-hour rush, which is a bore to everyone and ends in disappointment.

There is still another light that leads to the door of the successful shopper. Deposit a dollar or so in the various banks of the city. Several banks in the city conduct purely Christmas shopping accounts. You can deposit weekly or monthly, just as you see fit, no matter how small the amount may be. At Christmas time there will be a surprise in store for you. "How could I have saved that much by small deposits each week," you will say. Nevertheless, it is there and all yours, and you will have quite sufficient to do your shopping.

WARNING TO YOUTHS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 21.—Young men of Windsor who contribute to the delinquency of girls were warned to-day by Archdeacon Cardisle, judge of the juvenile court, that they must be prepared to pack their belongings for a long stay in the reformatory. Five youths, all under the age of 16, were fined $10 and costs for contributing to the delinquency of a young girl, and five others were released with a warning that their parents must make restitution for cigarettes stolen from stores.

"Service is something more than attention, something more than earnestness, something more than salesmanship. It is likewise much more than the sum total of the three. It is thoughtful, kindly, human, and not a mere impulse to automatic action. It depends not alone on courtesy and consideration of individual requirements, but rather on a pleasant anticipation of personal wants and desires. It means far more than routine activity—it means feeling, sincerity, initiative, the giving of something that cannot be purchased. This alone is service."

MAY RELEASE HALF BILLION POUNDS FOR COLONIAL TRADE

Sum of 25,000,000 Pounds Mentioned Is Only to Be Regarded as an Insurance Premium

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(Canadian Press Cable).—It is now pointed out that the sum of £25,000,000 mentioned in connection with the Government's export credits scheme is not to be the Government's sole contribution, but is regarded only as an insurance premium. It is thus estimated that the capital releaseable may reach a total of 500,000,000 pounds. An immense trade is anticipated as a result of the encouragement to be given the crown colonies.

It is understood that, while not obstructing the bill establishing relief works in connection with the unemployment, the Laborites in the House of Commons will move an amendment asking second reading on the ground that the measure, while it provides inadequate assistance to some working class families and none to others, imposes a further tax on a section of the workers whilst exempting from direct contribution the wealthier classes of the community, and fails to recognize the full obligations of the state towards every citizen deprived of the means of livelihood.

SAY MURRELLS IN WYOMING HOLD-UP

Provincial Police Think Their Gang Was Concerned.

DISCARD FOREIGN THEORY

No Clues Yet As To Whereabouts of Wanted Five Bandits.

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Provincial officers were inclined to-night to give the credit for the hold-up on Thursday at the Bank of Toronto in Wyoming, Ont., to five gangsters, headed by the desperate Murrell brothers, rather than to the robbers who operated at the Bank of Hamilton in Toronto two days before. The Toronto robbery was done by foreigners, it has been established, whereas the sensational and successful hold-up at Wyoming was carried through by desperadoes who all spoke good English.

The purchase of the green Oldsmobile in which the robbers escaped from Toronto connects the robbery with a gang of foreigners. The police of the city and province know where the car used in the flight was bought. It was purchased by foreigners, according to the people who made the sale. This car has not been seen since the hold-up men began their exciting flight.

At an early hour this morning the Wyoming bank robbers were still at large. The local police have no clues that would lead to an arrest, nor has any word come from out-of-town places of having seen the bandits. It is the belief here that the five men who participated in the hold-up have made a clean getaway.

EX-MAYOR SMITH, OF TILLSONBURG, DIES

Prominent Manufacturer Passes Away Suddenly In His 78th Year.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 21.—Taken suddenly ill on Wednesday evening, John Smith, one of Tillsonburg's manufacturers, passed away at his home on Rolph street in his 78th year. The deceased was a prominent contractor and owned his own mill and sash factory, which he sold a few years ago and retired. He had the honor of building the first public school in the town, and also the first Anglican church. Mr. Smith served the town diligently for a good many years, having filled every seat from councilor to the mayor's chair. He was a great supporter of St. John's Anglican Church, and the funeral will be held on Monday afternoon, with services in the church, conducted by Rev. T. B. Howard. Mr. Smith was married twice and leaves a widow and three daughters to mourn his loss.

ROUND TABLE PARLEY ON RAIL DISPUTE URGED

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—Both parties in the dispute over the reduction of 12½ per cent. in the salaries of Grand Trunk Railway employees to-day adjourned until to-morrow. On the advice of J. M. Godfrey, K.C., of Toronto, chairman of the conciliation board, who suggested the forming of another round table conference, similar to that which two weeks ago arranged a tentative settlement of the grievances of the brotherhoods of railway employees and the companies.

SIDELIGHTS ON CHURCH ACTIVITIES

Cronyn Memorial presents a very pleasing interior since the renovations and decorations to it have been completed. The roof is also being repaired and several hundreds dollars is being expended.

Much interest has been aroused in the meeting in Toronto this week of representatives from the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches, which have all agreed to consumate organic union in the future. From the layman's viewpoint there is much that can be done in the way of co operation that will pave the way for the absolute federation of the churches before the end of this decade.

Not in history have the different organizations of St. Paul's Cathedral evidenced so much activity and enterprise as this fall. The cathedral building itself has been reroofed and the interior is in process of redecoration. The recently formed Men's Association, under the presidency of Dr. A. J. Grant, is growing in strength and promises to be wide reaching in influence and service. The banquet held last Monday of this organization proved that it is one of the liveliest bodies of which the cathedral may boast. The Women's Auxiliary has arranged a more than usually comprehensive program for the season, which includes addresses by various missionaries and a series of illustrated lectures. The Sunday school is now well attended and the number of students is growing, due to the friendly rivalry between the boys on the one hand and the girls on the other.

This Rapacious Owl Enjoys Meat, Captive Or Free

Trap and Chain Fail to Hold Bruce County Marauder, But Farmer Catches Him

TEESWATER, Oct. 1.—Thomas Roswell, of the 6th concession, about a mile from the village, has been finding hens and chickens dead and torn in his barnyard for some time and decided to set a trap for the rapacious visitor. On going out one morning recently he found the trap and chain gone. While working in the field, some distance from the barn, he came upon the destroyer of his chickens, an immense northern owl, with the trap and chain attached to its leg. He brought the bird to the village, where it can be seen in the window of a local butcher shop. It still enjoys its daily bill of fare of fresh meat.

The Sacredness Of Buying a Piano

In the early stages of married life the modern home-builder has an objective—to complete his home with a Piano.

Bit by bit, he adds to his home the necessary articles of furniture—and then comes the finishing touch—the Piano.

Because the Piano represents the "home dream" of so many young home-builders, there is a sacredness about its purchase—to fit those dreams it must be a good Piano—a worthy one.

The many thousand home-builders who have found their "dream Piano" in the SHERLOCK-MANNING are testimony to its ability to "measure up."

Music—The Youngest of the Arts; Its Development In Canadian People

While you may not agree with William Shakespeare that the man who has "no music in his soul" is fit for "treasons, strategems and spoils," you still must believe that the musical man has in his sensitory, his intellectual and his emotional make-up a faculty distinct and vital which the unmusical man has not.

From the point of view of his senses, the musical man has auditory nerves so delicate they permit him to observe tones and overtones which entirely escape those whose auditory construction is less susceptible.

These tones and overtones are apprehended, analysed, arranged and fixed by the intellect. In the case of a musical creation they are given out again in musical form by means of the intellect, plus the emotions, which latter are the very vehicle of music.

The ability to retain musical sound in the mind, long after its outward manifestation has ceased, is exemplified for example, in the case of Beethoven. He long after he was totally deaf, "stone deaf," as we call it, heard with the inward ear which was the bliss of his lone and tragic solitude, the mighty musical waves of his so glorious orchestra, the throbbing melody of solo voices singing for him alone the divine music he afterward set down to be to us a saving beauty, heritage of the human race.

All this because Nature herself is musical. All this because man in his eternal progression is moving on towards the attainment of the musical faculty, latest born faculty in the race, not half of whose number, according to the estimate of scientists, have as yet developed it. That means that the art of music is not only the art of the present, but that it is pre-eminently the art of the future. The race is destined to be wholly musical. Some go so far as to contend that music, not Volapuk or Esperanto, is to be the universal language of the earth.

I have said Nature herself is musical. Think of the soprano solos of spring birds—the 'cello tones of running waters picking from the pebbles — the basso-profundo of proud cataracts—the hallelujah of the wild west wind. And for musical minutia in unison, think of what John Keats calls the "wailful choir" of gnats that mourn among the river shallows. Indeed, the music of the earth is never dead.

One of the most famous poems Walt Whitman ever wrote is a poem of music—a poem which celebrates the happy fact that to him "all sounds become music"—that his memory, too, after he

WEEK OCTOBER 22nd TO 29th

Good Music Is An Important Factor In Making of Good Citizens

Canada's "Music Week," October 22-29, is simply a call to the friends of music throughout the Dominion to rally to the cause of music, each in his own field and in his own way. If any dealer in the music industry of any center is disposed to question his being included among the friends of music, if he is disposed to require argument to convince him that in the development of local musical activities some leadership is rightly expected of him, then he is blind to a real opportunity.

The first time a "Music Week" was held on this continent it showed beyond the shadow of a doubt that the people as a whole—not some people, nor some classes, but the people of every class and of every variety of circumstances—love music. Music week is a few days set apart for demonstrating to everybody that everybody does love music, and as far as the trade is selfishly concerned, for cultivating the field for the sale of all kinds of musical instruments. In other words, it is a "boost music" week, a time to make music stand out big and above all other home, school, social and community activities.

If rightly entered into, there are bound to be great influences set at work that will result in sales of musical instruments and music later. If rightly pushed, music week will result in some direct, immediate sales. But for a dealer to go at the celebrating of music week with the sole idea of closing sales during the week, to so commercialize the idea that it defeats its very objects, would be ruinous. The trade must be big enough to visualize the proposition in its broad aspect and see the immense promotion work of which it is capable. In a rare case or two a crude, narrow application of the music week idea has killed completely any chance of its accomplishing what it otherwise would have accomplished.

The bureau cannot go beyond providing the opportunity. It gathers opinions from all provinces and, with these in mind, it sets the date. It is providing window streamers in a three-color effect for display purposes. It has supervised the preparation of our advertisements in both three-column and four-column sizes, containing splendid original illustrations for collective publicity. It is submitting details of these plans to the newspapers throughout Canada.

But the plans for a local celebration of music week must be made locally. The bureau can help get the ammunition ready, but it cannot fire the bullets. As soon as word went out that the date for the 1921 music week would be October 22-29, enterprising dealers got immediately to work planning window displays, recitals, advertising, lectures on music and in other such ways to bring music to the attention of every man, woman and child in their several localities.

When the City of New York instituted its annual music week, the national bureau for the advancement received splendid encouragement from leading public men on every hand, expressions from whom are well worth quoting. "Delighted to have an opportunity to add my endorsement to the idea of indicating a few consecutive days out of the year to the advancement and stimulation of public interest in music," said the mayor of Chicago. "I am entirely in sympathy with the movement to hold a music week and feel confident that the results therefrom will prove to be excellent. I trust that the plan may receive widespread support and that it may become general in our cities and towns," added the governor of a Western State.

"Good music makes good citizens," wrote the mayor of Dallas. "It is an important factor in municipal life which is often neglected, but which, properly employed, results in great good. Observance 'music day' did a great deal to create interest in music in this city, and the appointment of an official music commission has met with universal approval. Music memory contests are being held. . . . I am very happy that the metropolis is ready to take the lead in music as in other things. I wish for 'music week' unqualified success, and I hope that the power of music to promote better citizenship will be hereafter fully utilized."

"It is good news," observed a prominent senator, "to hear of the forthcoming music week. Music awakens all that is best in man. Heartens him, encourages him, arouses him, soothes him. I believe a fuller knowledge of the great music writers of the past and present and more familiarity with their work will exert an influence which, while subtle, will prove most potent in leading our people toward that contentment which, after all, is the one goal we all seek." The mayor of Detroit added: "My own observation is that music is not generally disseminated in this country and it does not reach the masses, but rather the so-called upper and middle classes, while I believe the greatest good is to be derived from it by reaching the workers. This was the need I spoke of in a little talk I gave to the committee who were interested in promoting Detroit's music week."

"The mayor of Philadelphia said: "The more we encourage music of the right sort, the more we contribute to the ease and contentment of an otherwise restless world." The governor of New Jersey wrote: "I am a great lover of music and I feel that this movement (music week) is an excellent one, as our people cannot get too much of good music. To me, music is an inspiration and a pleasure, and my only hope is that it will be a most successful demonstration and one that will be continued." And the governor of Rhode Island had this to say: "I am only too glad to add my most hearty endorsement of music week, being firm in the belief that music has advanced the civilization of this world and that it is the greatest factor in overcoming discontent and unrest."

Music week is a logical time to tell the public some impressive things about the value of music, some striking things that prominent men have said about music, the following, for example: "Alas for those who never sing, but die with all their music in them," and "take a music bath once or twice a week for a few seasons. You will find it is to the soul what a water bath is to the body. Seek, therefore, every clean opportunity for hearing it. Purchase some kind of instrument for the home and see that its beneficent har-

Madame Tetrazzini's Heintzman Grand

The Grand Piano, illustrated here, made specially for Madame Tetrazzini, is, perhaps, the most beautiful Piano built in any piano factory anywhere.

Traveling the world over and using the pianos of the world's greatest makers, when it came to ordering a piano for her own use in her castle in Rome, Tetrazzini's choice was a Heintzman & Co. Grand. This piano is in Florentine design, ivory white, the carved legs and moldings being tipped and finished in gold.

Madame Tetrazzini herself made a draft design of what she desired, everything to be in keeping with the furnishings and finishings of her own beautiful Italian home.

Many will remember the great ovation tendered Tetrazzini in her last visit to Toronto when Massey Hall was crowded to fullest capacity. A Heintzman & Co. Grand was used then as on the occasion of her previous tours in Canada.

It has taken nearly a year to make Madame Tetrazzini's piano at a cost of $3,000. The order is an unmistakable compliment to this Canadian-made Heintzman & Co. piano.

Caruso, Melba, De Pachman and many great world artists have made a Heintzman & Co. piano their choice when visiting Canada.

The Piano of royalty—used by King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales, when visiting the Dominion.

The Heintzman & Co. Grand, made by ye olde firme, is a very different piano to any other piano made. One looking for the best in a piano will, like Tetrazzini, choose a Heintzman.

IN THE WORLD OF BOOKS AND LETTERS

The Book of the Week
"The Lobstick Trail"
BY DUGLAS DURKIN.

"The Lobstick Trail," by Douglas Durkin; The Musson Book Company, Toronto.

"The Lobstick Trail" is different!

In the story of Kirk Brander, ne'er-do-well, of an artificial society, who leaves the East and goes West, after an unusual set-to with his family because he wants to prove he is fit for a man-sized job, there are many of the classic characters of adventure and romance.

The situations of the book, too, follow a not unaccustomed course. There is the conflict of emulation, the man-to-man conflict for the prizes of the world—for wealth, for wonderment and for the love of woman. And emulation breeds attitude. And attitude, as we all know, is the mother of circumstances.

The big difference between this book and other books of its kind lies in the locale, the scenic background; the arena, as it were, into which Brander's necessities and his ambitions conspire to throw him, there to fight his way back to his own self-respect and to the respect of those who had doubted his manhood.

The great thing the war has done for Canada lies in the fact that Canadians have emerged from it, a people with a national self-consciousness. Hitherto as a people, while we have been conscious of the other nations round about us: conscious, too, as it were, of our own limbs and body of nationhood, we had not yet become conscious of ourselves as a distinct national entity apart from all the other national entities in the universe. That high self-consciousness, our undertaking on the fields of France and Flanders gained for us. Of all the nations who there battled in the interests of human liberty, this nation has won the most lasting and the richest prize. Canada has realized herself. Canada has come into her own.

Art, more than statesmanship or commerce, is the quickening power of national self-consciousness. Canada if she be lifted up before the world in all her magnificence of natural beauty and rich resource, in the splendor of her climate and in the energy and the genius of her people, will draw all men to her. And more especially will she draw Canadians. Art can so lift her.

Mr. Durkin voices this inspiring newly-born realization when he makes Kirk Brander say to the old gold miner Dags, when Dags fretfully exclaims against the Manitoban North country: "We don't have to inhabit the whole infernal globe just because its here. There ain't no race that's bred to it except Eskimos and huskie dogs. An' you say leave it to them—it's their country—let 'em keep it." Then Kirk comes back:

"Cheer up, old Lazarus! Some day we're all going to wake up in many parts. We've been dead to the world, and if you don't look out someone from outside will be coming in and cleaning us out. . . . Don't you know that for two hundred and fifty years Canadians have been puddling along on the southern rim of a country as rich as any country in the world, and have handed the rest of it over to a company of moneyed Englishmen who never saw Canada and don't care a tinker's dam if they ever do or not. But we've got to pull in our belts, Dagsie. God Almighty is going to give Canada the next hundred years to make good in. She's got to make good by herself or forget about it and let someone else handle the deal. We've got enough fish in the lakes north of the Saskatchewan to feed the rest of the world week days and Fridays. There's more good salmon in the Hudson Bay than they ever dreamed of in Alaska or British Columbia. There's enough water power, here in one province, to turn every wheel, light every house and every street in every village, town and city from Halifax to Vancouver. There's timber and stone and minerals—why, God bless my soul, it isn't a question of whether the stuff's here or not. It's a question of whether we're packing the kind of stuff here"—and he placed his hand over his belt—"that'll handle the deal. That's where we stand."

The fact that Kirk is unjust to the Englishmen, who, two hundred and fifty years ago, gave life and limb to the great adventure that made Prince Rupert and his company "Lords of the North"—the fact that two hundred and fifty years ago there were no "Canadians," except the Indians and the Eskimos, whom Mr. Durkin's ancestors and your ancestors, reader, and my ancestors, replaced, makes little difference to the general argument. Canada has been asleep. But now her eyes are opened.

One of the most curiously original scenes in "The Lobstick Trail" is the scene of the dog race—the "Dog Derby," it is called—staged every year as the sporting event of the North by the Hudson's Bay Company, accounts of which occupy the Canadian press annually in one or other of the winter months.

Since time immemorial novels and tales have given themselves to descriptions of horse racing, the Derby, Epsom, Longchamps—all the great race tracks being familiar to us in their pages. But here is a race of another character, a 50-mile race, run over snow and ice, by huskie dogs, dragging a cariole.

The race run by Kirk, Brander and his team lay along a winter trail that ran across country, emerging now and then for a few miles along the rivers and across the lakes that abound in the country between the North frontier Manitoba town, The Pas, and Sturgeon Landing. The story of the race is tense with excitement of danger and effort—the cracking of whips, the barking and snarling of dogs, with, as an interlude, a dog fight, in which two teams, 15 dogs, are rolled together in a churning mass of snapping jaws and tearing feet and rolling bodies. How Kirk Brader extricates Bingo, his leader, from the melee, how he works his team out of the tangle; how he overtook his rivals, how he crept up gradually on one after another of the teams that were ahead of him, passed all but one and fought, yard by yard, to the finish, Mr. Durkin tells with the skill of the accomplished narrator. There is one especial moment, when Kirk's cowardly rival, Phil Roche, cuts Bingo across the face with the lash of his whip, that is, we think, unique in literature. But how Brander deals with Roche and how Bingo crosses the line fully 10 feet ahead of Roche's leader, we must leave to the pen of Mr. Durkin, a pen that makes of it most excellent reading.

In a story of the outdoor, as it "The Lobstick Trail," a story whose chief motif, after all, is the fight to gain control of a new copper mine, the love interest cannot be expected to bulk large. There is, however, enough of tenderness to satisfy our feeling for sentiment. Three women share this tenderness—Marion Curtis, Ruth MacKay and Jule Allen. Of their relations to the hero as also of the relation which exists between him and the promoter, Paxton, the prospectors, Allan and MacKay, the big Southerner, "Tuck" Roberts, the half-breed, Joe Bedard, and the rest—Mr. Durkin talks at some length, weaving the whole into a drama of Northern Canada replete with action and romance. Finally, what is a lobstick? Let Mr. Durkin answer:

"On the shore above her the first faint flicker of the little fire that Kirk was making shone against the dark background of the shadowy woods. Sharply outlined against the sky one tall spruce tree lifted its head clear above the others and stood out like a sentinel, on duty. She could not help noticing that the branches in the middle of the tree had been cut off for a distance of 10 or 12 feet, leaving only a large tufted head and a thick base of branches near the ground. In the space that had been thus cleared of limbs two long branches, like the arms of some gaunt spectre, stretched out in opposite directions from the tree trunk, the ends weighted down with the soft snow that clung to them. When she went back to where Kirk was busy over the fire she pointed to the tree and asked him its significance. 'That is a lobstick,' he replied, without taking time to look up. All up and down this country, wherever trails lead, there are lobsticks to point the way."

Mr. Durkin's style is racy. It carries one swiftly along.

FANFAN.

"What book do you recommend to an admirer of 'Main Street'? asked an inquirer in a book store the other day.

"Why not try 'The Broad Highway?" was the more or less pertinent reply.

H. G. WELLS, author of "Outline of History," a new revised edition of which, in one volume, has been issued by MacMillan & Co.

WELLS ISSUES A REVISED VOLUME

MacMillan Publishes New Edition of Book by Famous English Author

A year ago H. G. Wells, perhaps the most brilliant English writer to-day, and certainly the most versatile and most industrious, startled the world by publishing a two-volume "History of the World." No book for years met with such a reception. The conception of the book was new and original; its treatment of history was novel. It was enthusiastically praised and as vigorously condemned. It was entrancingly interesting. With the pen of a novelist Mr. Wells treated what is usually regarded as a prosaic subject. He made history readable to thousands of people never interested in the subject. Men who had neither the time nor the interest to wade through Grate's "History of Greece;" Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," or dozens of other histories, sat up nights to read Wells' story of the world's development. He may have had his prejudices and worked in many of his own peculiar ideas, but he at least forced a public satiated with novels to pay attention to a serious subject.

MacMillan & Co. has issued a new edition of Wells' book. It is revised, re-arranged and condensed by the author so as to fill only one readable volume. It is still called "The Outline of History," and described as "a plain history of life and mankind." The object of the volume is well described by Mr. Wells in his introduction. He writes: "This volume has been written primarily to show that history as one whole is amenable to a more broad and comprehensive handling than in the history of special nations and periods, a broader handling that will bring it within the normal limitations of time and energy set to the reading and education of an ordinary citizen.

"This outline deals with ages and races and nations, where the ordinary history deals with reigns and pedigrees and campaigns, but it will not be found to be more crowded with names and dates, nor more difficult to follow and understand. History is no exception amongst the sciences; as the gaps fill in, the outline simplifies; as the outlook broadens, the clustering multitude of details dissolves into general laws. And many topics of quite primary interest to mankind, the first appearance and the growth of scientific knowledge for example, and its effect upon human life, the elaboration of the ideas of money and credit, or the story of the origins and spread and influence of Christianity, which must be treated fragmentarily or by elaborate digressions in any partial history, arise and flow completely and naturally in one general record of the world in which we live."

Mr. Wells has in his volume reached his aim. It is a readable, understandable outline of history that the ordinary man can digest. It is a volume which should be in every library and is more within the means of every man.

"To the troubled mother who has asked the editor of the Kansas City Star what she should do to stop her 12-year-old son from 'reading everything he can lay his hands on,' he wisely answers, in effect, 'Do nothing.'" says an editorial in the New York Times. "Also, in effect, he tells this very unnecessarily anxious inquirer that, instead of being alarmed by the boy's liking for literature and the catholicity of his taste, she should rejoice in both and be assured that neither at home nor in any libraries, public or private, likely to be accessible to him is there appreciable danger that he will find anything harmful."

Some Books Are In Great Demand

A Few Novels Never See Shelves of Public Library.

RESERVED WEEKS AHEAD

"Main Street" and "Outlines of History" Are Popular.

If library volumes have souls — and there is no bookworm but implicitly believes that they have—and if they are capable of the emotion of pride, then the nine volumes of "Main Street" on the reserve shelves of the public library must carry their critical heads the highest in the world. No less that 71 reserve cards are entered against those nine volumes to-day, and for several months past they have had no chance to take a dignified rest on the stockroom shelves.

H. G. Wells' "Outlines of History" is also a great favorite with London readers. That book has never been placed on the library shelves for general selection, and only those who made reservations for weeks and months ahead have been able to secure it.

The reserved book shelves are full of the humor, the appeal and pathos of human life. For there, waiting a few hours until citizens entitled to the books reserved are notified, they remind the curious of the passengers in a street car. An idea that was used by Charles Dana Gibson when the Gibson Girl was the delight of the continent. Holy nuns sitting next to a beer-drinking washwoman, who in turn sat beside a high school girl as dainty as a spray of peach blossoms. Beyond a fat negro cook and then a painted divorcee.

POPULAR BOOKS.

In the library reserve shelves a new translation of Plato's teachings rubs the scented sides of Zane Grey's Western Stars." Then comes "Self Raised," Mrs. E. D. N. Southworth's novel that has lately been dramatized. An impossible book to-day, with curling mustached viscount villains, beautiful heroines, mid-Victorian vamps and the virtuous hero, the so virtuous hero.

Here is a book entitled "Algebra Self Taught," the very title speaks of lonely ambition for success hindered by poverty and lack of opportunity.

New Western Book By Mrs. N. McClung

Purple Springs, by Nellie McClung, Toronto, Thomas Allen, 1921, p.p. 325, price $2.00.

This book is "made-in-Canada," for it has been written and published and has its setting in Canada. Who has not read "Sowing Seeds in Danny," or "The Second Chance?" Mrs. McClung is approaching that rare class, too, in which Gardner had almost decided to place Lord Morley. It is the class of double firsts. He had then attained a first-class in English literature. He occupied also a foremost place in English statesmanship as chief secretary for Ireland and afterwards in the India office. Mrs. McClnng is a past master in the art of campaigning for great reforms. Now she is the Lady Astor of her province and her voice will be heard in behalf of every good thing.

The story is a simple one and moves easily from scene to scene. The heroine, Pearl Wilson, who belonged to a humble but honorable family, was deeply in love, even in her school days, with a young doctor named Clay. Dr. Clay promised to tell her his thoughts when she became 18. The scene is set the day before. On March 1 he speaks to her by telephone. He has not forgotten though he cannot come. Meantime Dr. Brander warns Clay about his health and urges him not to marry. The next day Pearl visits him. He cannot tell her the truth, so he puts her off with kindly words. On the street Pearl meets Mrs. Crooks, the village gossip and turmigant, who makes much of the lowliness of the Watson home. Thus enters more deeply the iron into her maiden soul.

A big day is arranged in the local school. Mr. Steadman, the member of Parliament for the district, gave a long hanague, which is utterly demolished by Pearl. The Midford paper made no reference to Mr. Steadman's speech. The Opposition offered Dr. Clay the nomination, but he declined it. Then follows the story of the Paine family, of Neelands, who undertakes to offset Pearl's influence which is giving the Government alarm, but is rescued from the storm at the Paine home. He falls in love with Pearl and talks to Clay about it.

Pearl engages to teach in the Purple Springs School. Mrs. Gray moves into this locality and is ostracized by the people. Pearl cannot get a boarding place. Mrs. Gray takes her in and tells her own sad story of her father-in-law's ill-treatment. The children then stop attending school. An offer comes from the Woman's Club of a part in their political play. Pearl played and had a complete triumph in her part as premier. The play won the election for the Opposition. Pearl then reveals to the premier the causes of his fall and effects a reconciliation between him and Mrs. Gray, whose real name was Graham, the very name of the premier. He visited Purple Springs and did what he could to atone for the wrongs he had done his son's wife and child. Pearl seeks rest at home. Little Danny gets a large sliver in his foot and Pearl sends for Dr. Clay, who removes the sliver from the foot and from a fair soul, too. "There is nothing too good to be true."

There is in this book a fine vein of humor — not humor which is hilarious, but quiet and sparkling. Take an example, and about the old cow. "She always gave a big pail of milk—but if she was in bad humor she would quite likely kick it over, just as the pail was full. I used to think maybe a fly had stung her, but I guess what was really wrong was she lacks social consciousness. She did not see that we were depending on her." So many descriptions are true to the life — such as that of the rural telephone. Fine turns of truth abound. Take the resolution of Dr. Clay, who says, "I am going to be the captain of my soul — though it may be for a very short cruise." The development of Pearl's life, her astuteness, courage, strength — her latent motherliness, her love and loyalty may well become a pattern of Canadian womanhood. One constantly wonders as one reads how one so young could so soon attain so much.

Can we not see in this book the things which are uppermost in the mind of the writer as she thinks of and acts and speaks for the body politic? Has she not told us what she thinks of political corruption, of temperance reform, of franchise for women? One feels that Mrs. McClung has echoed herself in the heroine of her latest and best book. It is a book which will be widely read and much enjoyed. It is a pity that a number of misprints occur.

Books

"Helen of the Old House," by Harold Bell Wright; Toronto, The Ryerson Press, pp 362, price $2 net.

Mr. Wright has written such familiar and readable stories as: "The Shepherd of the Hills," "The Winning of Barbara Worth," etc. The book under review is divided into four parts, which group the movement of the story into co-ordinated sections much as a battalion is divided into companies for the sake of organization and operation. Here are the titles: "The Interpreter," "The Two Hellens," "The Strike" and "The Old House." The volume is well bound and printed and the type is clear and accurate.

The scene is set in Millsburgh, a typical American manufacturing town. The largest mill is owned by Adam Ward, while McIver, Helen's lover, owns a smaller one. Ward has prospered, and Hellen has been brought up in ease and luxury. But she has not discovered the jewel of happiness. To whom shall she reveal her unrest of soul but to the Interpreter, who is the saintly worker among men and has the key of knowledge? If revelation is given in human form he is that revelation. From him she learns that there are really two Hellens, the one proud and indifferent to the welfare of others, the Hellen of the house on the hill; the other simple and great-hearted, the first Hellen as found in the humble home of her youth. The burden of the book is the way by which the assumed Hellen comes to be crucified, and the real Hellen, mistress of golden deeds, attains her sainthood. In his history the author involves a wonderful company of character.

The influences which help to harden and eventually serve to break the crust of selfishness in her life fall into four groups. There is, first of all, the contradiction at home. Her father enriched himself by robbing his fellow-workman, Peter Martin, of the patent. More and more he becomes mentally unbalanced, and raves about his certain possession of the mill and his legal claim to the patent. His son, John, and Charlie Martin enlist in the army, serve overseas, and come safely back, the one still a private and the other a captain. In the war John has learned the use of "I" and "me," and the lesson changes his whole view of the relations of capital and labor. Captain Charlie has learned, too, and becomes the safe guide and head of the labor union. How pathetic the elder Ward is as he keeps asking whether there is a hell or not, and as he keeps boasting he will not go there, for he had tied God up. And how? He has tried to undo the wrong of the rape of the patent by willing Peter Martin a half-interest in the mill. In all this tragedy Hellen's mother pursues a patient, helpless sort of way. Hellen admires her brother, John, though she does not understand him, for his ways are not her ways—not her father's.

The other influences are as contrary and as poignant. McIver represents unmitigated selfishness. When his men threaten to strike he hardens his heart, and boasts that he will drive them back to work at the point of the bayonet or by starvation. A guardian angel with an unknown name prevents Hellen from accepting him, save once, after she has seen some of the underworld of misery caused by the strike, when she offers to become his wife if he will make an end of what suffering he can. Because he is the man he is he refuses. Another influence is the discovery of the poverty and agony in hovels by the city streets, and the utter indifference and ignorance of the wealthy and powerful classes. In watching by the bedside of little starving Maggie, Hellen discovers the hid treasure in her own life—the latent motherhood of love and sympathy. The last influence is the Interpreter. Made perfect through suffering, he is the man to inspire and guide. He is the seer who penetrates through the accumulated rubbish, who lays bare the real self, which has become sicklied o'er with many things.

John marries Mary Martin and Hellen and her mother return to the old house to live a parable of the rapprochement of capital and labor, which is necessary if the day of peace is to come. It is only by such a wedlock that Vodel, the man with the red flag, can be defeated. The book belongs to the present time, and with certain touch deals with one of the most vital problems that society has to face. The picture, the wrong and the solution are as universal as employment. We have had war stories in plenty. This is a story of the search for peace and a protest against other "frightfulness" in the heart of the nations. This is a book to be read and pondered over. It is an answer to Sheldon's question given in the city of mills.

"The Snowshoe Trail," by Edison Marshall; Toronto, The Ryerson Press, pp 324, price $2.

Are you in search of a lovely story of heroism, with the tang of the North in it, and with the ways of nature and of animals and of woodmen and, above all, with the ways of women in it? Well, here it is. The author is an American, but the story is set in the Selkirks. There is such a picture of the North in it as one will not lightly forget. Virginia Tremont has not heard of her lover, Harold Loundsbury, for six years. She has been true to him all the while, and sets out with her uncle to find him. They get a guide, Bronson, at Bradleyburg, and push on to Clearwater. After many experiences Loundsbury is found—and so is the mine Bronson has long sought for. The long-lost lover proves to be a "squaw man" and a degenerate. Bronson, on the other hand, proves himself a prince in a prospector's robe. In the end Loundsbury is captured and charged with attempt to murder, and Virginia and Bronson are happily married. The story is happily free from the corrupt methods of modern fiction. It is so full of the thrill of courage, duty and love that its plot will linger with the reader. And it has moral, too. Witness Loundsbury, who made a complete descent into paganism, or Virginia's loyalty, which blossomed into heroism. Such, and so rapid, is the descent or the ascent of man.

"Ursula Trent," by W. L. George, which will appear this fall, is the story of a woman written in the first person by a man. In "Ursula Trent" Mr. George attempts to answer the question, "How far can a woman follow advanced ideas with safety to herself and others."

Literary Chit-Chat

J. Hopkins Moorhouse, who was in the East recently, is a young Canadian writer whose future looks promising. Mr. Moorhouse made a distinct hit with his novel "Every Man for Himself," and it is announced that his next book will be a mystery story with a decidedly original plot. Mr. Moorhouse is an old London boy. He was a reporter on both the London papers and in his short stories he has occasionally worked in a London setting or a London incident that interests those who were associated with him. He makes his home in Winnipeg at the present time.

Two volumes of letters of Sir John A. Macdonald are to appear this fall and with the appearance also announced of Prof. Skelton's "Life of Laurier," there will be two important additions made to our stock of political biography. One wonders just how the two volumns of the Macdonald letters were selected in view of the fact that the Dominion archives has 15 big packing cases full of John A.'s voluminous correspondence.

The children's department should form a part of the home library just as it has come to be one of the most important features in a public library. Give the boys and girls a shelf or two and see that there are constant additions made to it. The home where there are boys and girls and no copy of "Treasure Island," or "Alice in Wonderland," "Tom Brown's School Days" and half a dozen other volumes that easily come in mind is losing something. Give the children their bookshelf and watch their pride in it.

"My mother wants a love story," is a demand not seldom voiced by boy or girl coming to public library desk for the parent at home. A tired mother, perhaps, busy all day with the tasks of a home, getting meals, washing dishes, looking after children, sick children maybe, finding an hour perhaps late at night to get off into another world where romance reigns. Blessed are the love stories to many a tired mother whose own life has perhaps all too little of it.

A. S. M. Hutchinson, best known for his "Once Aboard the Lugger" and "The Happy Warrior," is a London journalist born in India of a military family. He studied two years at a medical school and then abandoned medicine for literature. After serving an apprenticeship in various capacities, he became permanently connected with 'The Daily Graphic and rose to the position of editor-in-chief. In 1914 his "The Clean Heart" appeared. With the outbreak of the war he was eager to join the colors and was finally taken into the army and served with distinction as an officer in France. After demobilization he began work on a new novel, "If Winter Comes." The title is from Shelley's "O, wind, if winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

Prof. Tamblyn, of Western University, is including in his courses this year a part term's work on representative Canadian poets. This is a good start. Marie Chapdelaine," Louis Hemon's remarkable novel of French' Canada, is available at the public library in both French and English. Two translations are being made, the one which has already appeared being by W. H. Blake, while Dr. Andrew McPhail is making a second. It would be a good thing for all Canada if we had adequate translations in attractive editions of some of the works of our own French-Canadian writers. How many Ontario people have ever read De Gaspe's "Canadians of Old," or are acquainted with the works of Frechette, or Casgrain or Chapman or a dozen others that might be named. Prof. Squair, who recently retired from the staff of the University of Toronto, has given a liberal donation of money to build up a collection of French-Canadian literature in the library of the provincial university. A gift of the same kind from some friend of Western University would be timely.

Rumors of the death of John Reed came to this country last October. The New York World of August 11 had a detailed account of the last months of the life of John Reed, his death and burial in the Kremlin. One of the interesting things that this story relates is that John Reed's book about Russia, "The Ten Days That Shook the World," is to-day used as a history text book in the schools of Russia by decree of Lenin, approved by the education committee of the All Russian Congress of Soviets.

Jack London's Biography

The Author of "The Coming Crisis" Said: "It's the Anglo-Saxon People Against the World.

Jack London's wife, Charmian London, has written the biography of her famous husband—a voluminous and intimate record of personal happenings, as well as of a career of adventure, which reads like a film romance. The best part of the work, perhaps, is the part devoted to London's letters and other correspondence. Here the man speaks for himself and here, as was to be expected, the book is simple and vivid and strong.

One letter throws considerable light on the dominating factor of race as operating even in the case of one who was a Socialist, an arraigner of present day society, crumbling, he believed, to its fall, just as patriarchism and feudalism and all other unjust systems had crumbled before it, of one who advertised himself to be hot foot for the organized international revolutionary movement which, so far back as 1906, he proclaimed to be the "coming crisis."

The letter, which is one in answer to a correspondent who wrote during the Boer war that the British Empire, in 10 years, would follow the downward course of Greece and Rome and the French Empire, reads in part:

"The day England goes under, that day sees sealed the doom of the United States. It's the Anglo-Saxon people against the world, and economics at the foundation of the whole business, but said economics only a manifestation of the blood differentiations which have come down from the hoary past. This movement, dimly felt and working in strange ways, is not to be stopped in a day, or by a lesser people, or by a bunch of the same which have become anachronisms. The Boers are anachronisms. There is no place for them in the whirl of the world unless they whirl with it. You say, if subjugated, they will still be Boers. Do you remember the Norman invasion of England? How long the Saxons held strictly apart? And how, in the end, the Saxon, as a Saxon, vanished from the face of the earth? Took several centuries, but it was accomplished."

For all his prophetic intuition, however, Jack London does not seem to have sensed the Great War. His talk, as I remember it in the early days of the century, was a hubbub of sinister statistics and whirling warnings; his doctrine of Socialism promised no immediate betterment of conditions, his outline of what he called the "birth throes" of the "new democracy" presaged a revolution more terrible than any that has gone before. Other revolutions have been sporadic and provincial; this, according to Jack London, "presents a new spectacle to the astonished world, that of an international movement in which there are already enlisted seven million of fighting men; enlisted fighting men to be found not only in the cantons of Switzerland, but in the bamboo huts of Japan; not alone on the steppes of Russia, but in the crowded workshops of Massachusetts; not in sunny Italy, but also in Canada."

Such a prognostication, at that time, seemed to deal with romance rather than with life. We have found since that much of it was based upon facts, upon a living reality. The Great War failed to save Russia from Bolshevism and the Bolshevist army, made up as that army is, of the scum of the earth, directed for the most part by former foreign New York "East Siders;" by the very people who in 1906 formed the "cream" of the Jack London New York audience.

It may be, however, that the Great War has saved the Anglo-Saxon people from a similar fate. At least it is worth remembering that Jack London, internationalist and Socialist, could even they say: "It's the Anglo-Saxon people against the world."

SIR HALL CAINE AND BOOK PRICES

How Famous British Author Arranged Price For New Book.

An interesting story which shows directly how interested some authors become in the marketing as well as in the writing of their books, is at present going the rounds of the Toronto publishing houses. Mr. E. W. Walker, of the Ryerson Press, Toronto, spent some time with Sir Hall Caine in May, last, making final arrangements for the Canadian publication of "The Master of Man," recently placed on the market. In the course of negotiations Sir Hall Caine asked rather pointedly: "What price will you place on the book in Canada?" And on the reply being given: "It will be necessary to make it two dollars, Sir Hall," the veteran author stopped for a moment in consideration.

"I suppose that seems necessary," he said, "under present book-making conditions, but I would much rather see a lower price on my new book. Look here, Mr. Walker, I'll make the book for you. My son is interested in a book-binding establishment and I fancy we can keep the usual profits down so that the price can be made a little less. Furthermore, I am quite prepared to have my royalty per copy reduced to make a lesser price possible."

Sir Hall was a good as his word and besides doing what was suggested has had the large shipment of "The Master of Man" for Canada sent out in his own steamers, thus further reducing the cost. All this will explain a matter which is occasioning some note, why "The Master of Man," a book of some 431 pages with triple the letterpress of the average novel, and with tri-colored wrapper, can be purchased in Canada for $1.75 when other novels of an ordinary size are priced at $2.

Two volumes by Mary Roberts Rinehart has been published this fall. These are: The further adventures of Tish, Aggie and Lizzie, under the title "More Tish," and two mystery stories published in one volume, "Sight Unseen" and "The Confession."

Hunters Turn Thoughts To the Silent Places

Sportsmen most concerned in the hunting of big game and small in the silent North of Ontario will be making elaborate preparations next week for their annual treck to secret places, known only to them and their guides. The open season for deer commences on November 5, and a majority of the huntsmen will be speeding northward by the middle of next week.

Such preparedness as is carefully carried out by the sportsmen, who are lured into the wilds of Ontario, to the ordinary citizen, who has never been able or fortunate enough to make such a sojourn, means mystery and awe, to say the least. Stories of their expeditions have a peculiar effect on the novice and to come into contact with an experienced deer and moose hunter means the opening of a new world to the layman.

"If you have never spent a few weeks in the North deer hunting you do not know what you are missing. In fact," said a veteran shooter, "you don't know you are alive."

Parties are made up year after year in most towns, villages and cities, and to become a member of any one of such is one of the things that keeps a lot of the veterans young from year to year. No sooner is one hunting season over than a heartache sets in for the next.

The "lure of game hunting" exists and it is a difficult phrase to define. There is a something that becomes a part and parcel of the enthusiasts that can hardly be explained, and while it is higly contagious, it is also just as harmless and beneficial and not nearly as deadly as some would lead you to believe.

The glories of the chase, the tang of the clear, pure atmosphere, the thrill of the "out-of-door" is calling you! Happy memories! Live them over again in the Canadian wilds.

Many have heard of the call. It is these who are at the threshold of another 15 days of great sport. Their parties have all been arranged and the work of preparing the necessities for such a trip and the packing of the same for the journey that will land the enthusiasts in that strange atmosphere, with its balsalm perfume, actuates the necessity of this timely discourse.

The open season in Ontario for deer, moose and caribou and grouse dates from November 5 and closes on November 20.

The attention of the hunters is called to the fact that in hunting moose and caribou only males can be shot, as the season is closed on the female of those species. Shooting is prohibited on Sundays. Quail, prairie chicken and pheasants (introduced) are on the prohibited list, but it is permissible to shoot grouse between November 5 and 20.

While most of the hunters who go North each year revisit the same old haunts, having established their huts and outbuildings, there are some who are fortunate enough to have their huts furnished to the extent of bedding, kitchen and table utensils, not to say anything about lamps, stoves and even open fireplaces. The needs to make a two weeks' stay comfortable are to some extent unwieldy, but by years of experience the hunters have gained a knowledge of just what is required and how much will be needed for a party of 10, often more, and sometimes less, plays one of the important parts in making such a trip.

The shooting end of the game, undoubtedly, is the outstanding equipment. What does it amount to if the supply of pork and beans, etc., gets low? The style of guns is as varied as the number of camps, but just how much ammunition will be required depends largely on the experienced hunter once more. Shotguns and rifles, the latter of various calibers, axes, hatchets and hammers and, of course, some nails are highly essential.

Go light, but go in comfort, is the way one of the boys put it, and for the man who figures on staying away from the camp overnight, as it has often been found necessary, a sleeping bag will solve the problem. It is, however, always planned to get back into camp for the night, as it is the low-burning light and the camp fire that lend the truest illusion. The hunters there relate the happenings of the day and elucidate imaginary set-toos with a cinnamon bear if that day did not bring forth its usual measure of excitement.

The hunters are most exacting about their mackinaw clothing, shotgun shells, duck decoys, cartridges, compasses, collapsible camp stoves, gloves, mitts, rubber boots, rubber coats, snowshoes, toboggans, moccasins, shoepacks, sweaters, gasoline lamps, dunnage bags, headlights, lanterns, pack sacks, hunting knives, fishing tackle, hunting axes, phonographs and records, canoes and tents.

Always take plenty of matches, tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. Do not overlook the odd pack of playing cards at the same time, as these are as essential as the matches and tobacco.

A trip to the camp visited last year by a party of London hunters proved to be one of the most exciting two weeks' sport that could possibly have been crammed into such a short space of time.

This party, with its complete personnel, including two guides, a chef, as well as its quartet of court jesters, enjoyed a thrill each day until each of the game-seekers secured his allotted deer.

It was nearing the close of the open season, when two of the boys, who had gone in one direction, for these hunters did most of the bagging on the still hunt, awaited what might turn up, as one of them had yet to get his deer. Both of them glanced at each other as they heard a peculiar noise, not unlike a train approaching in the distance. The two hunters separated, to watch the trail, and the blowing and crashing sound kept coming closer and closer. One of the boys got his first glimpse of moose and the other heard the report of a rifle, and still two more cracks from his companion's gun. The first bullet must have found the animated target, as blood was seen after close scrutiny later on, but the moose had vamoosed. The excitement during those movements of suspense for the hunter, who had not been fortunate enough to see what the other lad had spied, is to this day the theme of many happy recollections.

BANK CLERK LOST.

The gang were all back in camp that night, when an alarm from without roused even those who had retired in their bunks early that evening. The guide from another camp had knocked at the door and, when inside, excitingly related the fact that a member of their camp had lost himself. It happened to be a young bank clerk, who had ventured out into the woods for the first time in his life. A party from this camp set out in search early next morning and when most of them had returned found that the lost one had reached the camp ahead of them, in a wild, semi-conscious state. He swooned away and did not regain consciousness until many hours of hard work by the rescue party. Some of the party had come across the bank clerk's trail and had seen where he must have dozed off in beneath a canopy of balsam branches. There he must have crept in beside a live bear, unbeknowingly, as Mr. Bruin apparently made himself scarce at the veracity of the lost novice sportsman. This was deducted by the footprints in the snow.

It was learned that this experience left the bank clerk none the worse from his experience and that he contemplated returning to the North again next week.

Modern Cleaning Methods Greatest Ally of Science In War On The Enemy Dirt

Clean Linen and Textiles Are Raising the Morale of the Present Generation

Dirt is the greatest enemy of the human race. Not the "nice, clean dirt" of grandmotherly ladies, who advise mothers to let their little boys play in the dirt to their heart's content, but "dirt" in the modern scientific sense is not earth stains alone; the dirt that science has declared quarterless war against is the kind that is rarely visible to the human eye.

And assisting medical and research science in its battle with humanity's most insidious foe are two lately declared allies, whose contribution to the health of the world and decreasing of mortality may not be calculated.

These allies are the steam laundry and the dry cleaning station. Not the laundry of methods that were ancient when the Ming dynasty reigned over the teeming hordes of Asia, but modern laundries, the processes of which are as sure and sanitary as a laboratory experiment.

Dry cleaning is a new art of cleanliness, which is growing in public approval. Before many years men will disdain to wear a suit of clothes until ragged without cleaning the same as men now refuse to wear linen after it has become soiled.

"Disease has killed its thousands," says medical science, paraphrasing the song of the women of Judah before the young hero, David, "but dirt has slain its millions."

The battle cemeteries of the world are filled with men who died of wounds, but most of them need not have died had their wounds been kept from the infecting poison of dirt.

But dirt does not alone triumph on the battlefield; its sinister victories are known most in the piping days of peace. Dirty food, dirty clothes, dirty homes annually take toll of millions and unfortunately from the ranks of children in the greatest degree.

Practically every childish disease may be traced to uncleanliness somewhere. Not necessarily on the part of the child or its parents, but through the thoughtless filthiness of others, who spread disease at every step.

Cleanliness is said to be next to godliness, but many now consider humanity's duty to be clean as the highest expression of religion. The clean mind dwells in the clean body, school and social workers state, and it is believed that cleanliness of soul comes first from a physical abhorrence of dirt.

Education is raising present generations to demand immaculate cleanliness as a necessity rather than the luxury of the past decade and before.

Clean linen or other textiles is raising the morale of the present generation. Young men demand changes of undergarments that their grandfathers would have considered evidence of the worst sort of sybaritism. The young women of to-day are outdistancing even their dainty mothers in this passion for cleanliness.

In the homes of Canada, where dirt is considered the modern devil, cleanliness is becoming more and more prominent. Table linen, spotless as driven snow and bearing shining silver, must be kept immaculate even for strictly en famile affairs. Bed linen is changed from day to day, and his apparent expense soon becomes an asset in improved health, better physical functioning and increased ability to appreciate the better things of life.

Dirt has long worn a crown of horror; his sway has been absolute in some countries, but that day is passing. Science has decreed that dirt must go and public-spirited organizations are working hand in hand with those that began the battle.

BETTER CLASS OF INDIANS LOYAL

Wise Statesmanship of Lord Reading Producing Results.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Potentialities for disorders in India latent in the Gandhi nonco-operative movement directed against the British Government in efforts to obtain home rule have evidenced themselves in the serious rebellion in Malabar, according to Anglo-Indian experts.

Gandhi, of course, has preached the doctrine of nonviolence, but many of his extreme followers have gone much further, notably, the experts here say, in the case of Malabar. There, it is claimed, the religious torch was used to start the conflagration, it being maintained that the allies had done gra. injury to the Khalifat in the treaty Sevres between the allies and Turke but observers here maintain that t seed was already sown by Gandhi's no co-operative campaign.

The strength of the nonco-operati movement consists in the appeal makes to the religious instincts of t masses, who collect in vast numbers pay Gandhi almost divine honors a whom they regard as the Mahatma, worker of miracles, who will introd the millenium, when none need t when there will be no taxes and wh prices will fall to their pre-war level.

The masses are little concerned political or constitutional reforms and the professedly nonviolent character of the movement cannot always be maintained. There have been occasional outbreaks of rioting. Considering the size of India these outbreaks have been infrequent as symptomatic of growing excitement.

The Hindu masses are not ugly tempered and their reverence for Gandhi is a steadying factor. The Moslem excitement over the Khalifat question runs throughout the movement like a sinister thread and it is believed that if Gandhi's movement leads to violence it will be because he has been unable to restrain Mohammedan fanaticism, roused to fever heat by the threatened eclipse of Turkey.

It will be remembered that Indian Mussulmans have always insisted on a privileged position in politics on the ground of their religious kinship with the Turks, Afghans and other fighting Moslem people of Asia. The collapse of the temporal power of Islam is therefore viewed seriously by Indian Musselmans, who feel their claim to a privileged position are in danger of vanishing.

Since the treaty of Sevres they have pinned their faith to the Turkish Nationalist Government of Angora, which they hoped would become the center of a revival of the political prestige of Islam, but the latest Greek successes ave destroyed this hope and a feeling f desperation seems growing which ay prove too strong for the influence Gandhi.

The Khalifat party, maintaining a parate entity within the ranks of non-operatists, now displays in its conrence an increasing violence of lanage, asserting its allegiance to Turey and threatening a declaration of inpendence if the British Government mbarks upon hostilities against Anora.

DING TOO FAST.

Signs are seen that members of the t wing of the Moslems are going too as for the majority of Hindus and the ld jealousy between the two religions may possibly break out again. At a meeting of the working committee of the Indian national congress this summer dissensions broke out. The left wing Mohammedans and some Hindus were anxious to declare "civil disobedience," which means nonpayment of taxes and passive resistence to certain laws.

This step might lead to serious disorder and Gandhi opposed it on the grounds that the country was not yet ready. He insisted that his latest plan, boycott of foreign cloth and the introduction of the old-fashioned spinning wheel into every Indian home, must first be carried out. He estimated that this would be accomplished by September 30, when he would be willing to grant his three demands—redress of the Punjab grievances, restoration of Turkey to her pre-war position and complete home rule.

It is asserted here that the non-cooperation movement is based on emotion and that of the three grievances, the Punjab affair is not a living issue except on the platform, as it was settled in the first session of India's new Parliament. The fate of Turkey is a matter for the allies and it runs entirely counter to the principles of self-determination. It is claimed that the third, home rule, is being rapidly realized through powers now invested in local and central legislation with their overwhelming majorities.

Gandhi's movement is therefore said to depend purely on sustaining mass excitement at white heat to put pressure on the Government. Sensational programs are put forward only to be scrapped when enthusiasm is worked up.

The moderates, who are busy with solid work in the new legislature, repealing repressive laws and becoming real rulers of the country, cannot exercise the same influence over the masses as the extremists with their appeal to mob passion. It is, however, confidently asserted that the success of reforms is rallying the educated classes to support of the British connection and that the wise statesmanship of Lord Reading is already producing an apparent effect. Possibilities of disorder do exist, but beyond the shoals there is said to be clear water ahead.

CHAMPIONS U. S. LEAGUE ATTITUDE

Rev. G. A. Leichliter Succeeds in Having Resolution Changed

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Baptist Delegates Urge Interest in Big Question

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter)—Rev. G. A. Leichliter, pastor of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, London, again championed the stand of the United States with regard to the League of Nations when a resolution, which had been rejected for revision yesterday, was again introduced at this afternoon's session of the Ontario-Quebec Baptists at Center Street Church here. The London pastor, in a few terse remarks, denounced those who were, he said, extremely anxious, for some unknown reason, to draw the United States into the matter. He declared the resolution, which favored the inclusion of all nations in the league, "especially the United States," to be very dangerous.

When the resolution was introduced Mr. Leichliter rose to his feet and declared that despite an objection raised yesterday afternoon the very objectionable feature was still included. He was advised by Dr. Gordon, of the resolutions committee, that he had been invited and should have met with the committee last night, when the resolution was being revised.

"I am very much surprised that this resolution was not revised in the particular to which I refer. As for the meeting last night, it is my opinion that the League of Nations' met in secret at this church last night, for I was not aware of any such meeting. To be frank with you, however, I myself fail to see the reason for the introduction of this resolution at all.

SAYS HE'S "TOUCHY."

Rev. O. C. Elliott expressed regret that Mr. Leichliter was so "touchy" on the matter of the United States, but he offered to second an amendment that the resolution be adopted with the exception of the clause referring to the U. S., if Mr. Leichliter would move such an amendment.

Dr. Hooper, another delegate, declared that the resolution was somewhat uncalled for. He was in favor of bringing about peace only in God's terms. This statement brought a storm of objections from all parts of the room, but Rev. Mr. Leichliter finally offered an amendment removing the objectionable clause from the resolution, and when a vote was taken on its adoption it carried, with few dissenting voices.

The objectionable resolution read, in part, when adopted, as follows: "That whereas 47 nations have signed the pledge of the League of Nations, and whereas Premier Lloyd George has made known the necessity for all civilized nations to join in the great task of protecting oppressed nationalities, and of training backward peoples in self-government, which burden will inevitably fall upon the Anglo-Saxon race, and whereas Canadian responsibility, as the only member of the league among the nations of North America, is particularly urgent at the present time, therefore, be it resolved:

"That we pray with all confidence that the people and pastors of our convention . . . . and members of our congregations to arouse interest in the league and the League of Nations Society in Canada . . . . .

"We do not necessarily approve the League of Nations, but support it as a growing instinct calculated to establish international relationship in harmony with the mind of Christ, and with regard to the fundamental claims of humanity which he taught."

NO RELIGIOUS TRAINING.

The greater part of the afternoon session was taken up in receiving resolutions on various subjects, and a lengthy discussion occurred when the revised resolution on religious training in the public schools was introduced. Several delegates wanted the suggestion of the Bishop of Algoma, which invited a conference on the method of training to be adopted, carried out. The convention, however, went unanimously in favor of opposing religious training in schools in any form, and refused to join in the proposed conference on this important matter. This resolution follows:

"That whereas the Baptists of Ontario and Quebec have been requested to appoint representatives to confer with representatives from other religious bodies, with a view to agreeing on a course of instruction on religious subjects to serve as a standard for use in our schools. And whereas we feel that the appointment of representatives for such a purpose would commit us to a policy inconsistent with our cherished conception in regard to the entire separation of church and state, and whereas the state has already provided the opportunity of presenting religious training in the schools, which the church has not made use of to any very appreciable extent. Therefore, be it resolved:

"That we respectfully decline to appoint special representatives for the purpose specified in the letter from the Archbishop of Algoma, of August 9, 1921.

"That we express our firm and abiding conviction of the supreme importance of the religious institution of the young people of our country.

"That we urge all our churches of the absolute necessity of making the fullest possible provision for such instruction in our homes and our churches.

"That we urge upon all our churches the further necessity of using every available opportunity of preventing such institution in our public schools insofar as this can be done consistently with our historic principles, and always under the direction of the churches and at their expense."

MOVIES—RACE TRACKS

Another resolution of considerable importance was adopted without discussion favored the more careful censoring of moving pictures. It follows:

"That whereas steps looking toward the removal of objecionable elements from moving pictures shows have been taken by the appointment of a censor board amendable to public opinion and whereas the Ontario Government has requested that our people co-operate with them through the Social Service Council of Ontario as a clearing house, in seeking an improvement in both the pictures themselves and the theater posters. And whereas in the judgment of this convention much more remains to be done, especially in the enforcement of the law, to have only such pictures shown as shall not degrade the morals of the observer, many of whom are of tender years, therefore be it resolved:

"That we accept it as our individual and corporate responsibility as Christian churches to make known to the social service committee of our own convention every and any objectional film and theater poster coming under our notice in order that action may be taken in the matter."

A resolution favoring the attitude of Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, regarded race track betting was adopted

The convention also went on record as favoring the stand taken by the United States and its president, Warren G. Harding, together with other nations in attempting to bring about disarmament.

A resolution authorizing the removal from the regular list of pastors of all those who engage in other than work pertaining to the Baptist church, was forwarded to a special committee on credentials for consideration. Several of those present expressed the opinion that a man preaching the Gospel might not be receiving a sufficiently large sum to provide the necessities of life for his family and in view of the fact that it would be essential for him to engage in other work some objection was raised to the resolution.

THE DRAWING CARD

That the dollars and cents were drawing the people from the rural districts to the urban centers, but it was providing an excellent fountain for the supplying of the larger city churches, was the statement of Rev. W. S. Buckburrough, in the course of a stirring address on vention here to-day. Mr. Buckburrough declared that many of the rural churches had lost their inspirational stamia. There were many reasons for this, chief among them being as above stated the lust for more money and a desire for pleasure the latter caused people to neglect their church and religious aairs even in the city.

The denominational teaching was also departing, and the speaker declared the opinion that all were going the same way. The free and easy spirit of the country was permitting the various denominations to crush out the Baptist faith with the arms of love.

There were also numerous other organizations that tended to outclass the church in some respects when they should work in co-operation. Included in these was the Women's Institute.

As a remedy for these conditions the speaker suggested that a greater spirit of optimism be introduced. That the expression of a "dying church" be dropped. That some of the older city pastors participate in the rural services and occupy the pulpits occasionally.

McMaster was a famous institution, said the speaker, but some of the students who went out therefrom during the summer were not suitable, and many small districts had been killed by too many studentry. He knew of one parish, 46 years old, where there had been 46 pastors.

Rev. O. E. Kendall, in a brief address, declared that in the past 20 years no less than 80 rural churches had been closed. "Materialism as gross as that found in industrial centers is taking its heavy toll of moral and spiritual forces in the rural districts," declared the speaker. He blamed the deflation of prices on natural material for the unrest. Rural economy had been seriously disturbed, he said.

In handing the financial report to the convention, W. C. Senior, of Toronto, declared that it was with regret that he announced that many districts had failed to reach the amount asked for. They had, with few exception, made an increase, however. The amount required for next year, he said, would be $192,000. Referring to this amount, he asked: "Can we realize that amount from present apportionments? Some churches do not take the apportionment seriously and make no real effort to raise the amount. We urge a better showing."

Resolutions of gratitude to the billeting committee, the church staff, the choir, the pastor, the visiting speakers, especially those from the United States, were adopted this morning, and just before the conclusion of the gathering a resolution to the representatives of the press was put to a vote, the large gathering rising to their feet in appreciation of the good service given by the representatives.

Music

fashion, is the recreative memory of a master of music:

Now airs antique and medieaval fill me,
I see and hear old harpers with their harps at Welsh festivals;
I hear the minnesingers singing their lays of love,
I hear the minstrels, gleemen, troubadours of the feudalage.
. . . Now the great organ sounds, tremulous . . .
And with it every instrument in multitudes,
The players playing—all the world's musicians,
The solemn hymns and masses, rouring adoration,
All passionate heart chants, sorrowful appeals,
The measureless sweet vocalists of ages,
And for their solvent setting, Earth's own diaphosan
Of winds and woods and mighty ocean waves:
Tutti! For Earth and Heaven.

Nature, the great teacher of the musical art, as she is the teacher of all arts and all scientists. Man, the great pupil of Nature, whose inherent faculties and powers will enable him, finally, to outstrip the instinctive song of the bird and he will, perhaps, outstrip its flight. These two, Man and Nature. The external world stands fast, but the spirit of man continually grows. Events may repeat themselves, but, repeating, they never find man on the same rung of the ladder. Man is the great adventurer, eternally forging his way down new paths—becoming an intellectual being, becoming a moral being—becoming an artistic being. Learning, finally, that "beauty is truth and truth beauty," and realizing that there can be no truth in ugliness, either of action or of concept. The man that hath not music in his soul is fit for treason's strategems and spoils. Fit, yes. That he does not commit these outrages is due to the presence in him of other beauties of the intellect and of the soul. For all that, to use the poetic expression, the unmusical man goes on "broken wing." In him, as yet, the complement of human faculties is uncompleted.

All this, to bring us to the statement that the faculty of music, once that faculty has been established in the race, depends upon exercise and practice for its development and the perpetuation. If the race, finally, is to be musical then the individuals in the race already musical must bend their every effort toward the cultivation of musical perfections in themselves and the love of music in others. If a given people is to be a musical people, then that people can become so only by the spread of music-thinking and music-loving throughout its borders. If Canada, for example, is to be a musical nation, then Canada must sacrifice something for music. Her Governments must believe in music as a cultivating and a civilizing force. Her professors of music must give themselves tirelessly in the enunciation of that which is musical, and since nothing is musical that is not beautiful, they must be tireless in the inculcation of good taste in music. Finally her amateurs must consent to be guided by those who already hear musically, know musically and feel musically.

No nation, be it acknowledged, can grow musically great on jazz. Jazz is the music of primitive man. Through bestiality, savagery, barbarism—through long learning and the slow birth of the arts—through thousands of centuries of human life, of human aspirations and of human growth he worked away from jazz and its kind to the "concord of sweet sounds."

Yet, recognizing the fact that "the stability of any faculty is in proportion to the age of the faculty in the race," it is not so hard to account for jazz after all. The faculty of music being the youngest of human faculties and music the youngest of the arts, the more unstable it must be in the race and consequently in the individual; the more liable to be defective, the more liable to vary, the more liable to be or to become imperfect. Jazz is a musical throw-back; the outcome, it may be, of a universal neurotic sensibility, superinduced by the excitement and the offering of world war. Jazz will disappear. Music we shall have always with us. The lover of music has no need to fear this permanence of the jazz perjury.

The one good thing Canada drew as her especial prize out of the carnival of carnage and death into which we entered in the summer of 1914, was national self-consciousness. To-day we not only know that we are a great people in the making, but we KNOW THAT WE KNOW. We Canadians have reached the point where we are not only vital, but we are aware. We can now get outside ourselves and criticize ourselves and appreciate ourselves also.

So, I believe, our erstwhile intellectual and artistic snobbery is a thing of the past. So, I am confident, we shall no longer be content to be "spoon-fed" on the plane of the intellect and of art, by other peoples.

Canada has arrived! In music as in other arts she will make good her arrival.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and in healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.—Advt.

DRAINED LANDS YIELD BIG SPUDS

Wonderful Results Obtained in Vicinity of Erieau

SAMPLES AT BLENHEIM

Trial of Maxwell McLeod Adjourned One Week

BLENHEIM, Oct. 21.—Potatoes that are being dug on the marsh lands near Erieau that were reclaimed by drainage a few years ago are showing wonderful results. One of the growers, E. H. Toll, brought to town the potatoes in one hill that numbered 13 and weighed a trifle more than five pounds. There are a hundred acres or thereabouts in this drainage scheme in potatoes, all of which are said to be turning out big and will help relieve the potato shortage.

The trial of Maxwell McLeod, who was arrested a week ago on six charges of assault and breeches of the Ontario Temperance Act, was postponed from to-day until a week from this date. McLeod has engaged R. L. Brackin, and will contest the charges in court before Magistrate Whittington.

KITCHENER BOARD TO CONSIDER NEW SCHOOLS

KITCHENER, Oct. 21.—The congestion in Suddaby School, serving the east and part of the center ward, has become so great that the public school board is to hold a special meeting for the discussion of a proposal to build an additional school in the east ward, or considerably enlarge Suddaby School during the coming year.

During the past year it was found necessary to erect a two-room portable school at Suddaby to care for the overflow.

The school board also went on record indorsing the recent resolution of the Toronto Board of Education on the Separate school tax question.

EX-MEMBERS OF BATTERY HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Big Banquet and Informal Dance for Old 16th Battery Men at Guelph.

GUELPH, Oct. 21.—Former members of the old 16th Battery poured into the city on every train to-day to attend the annual re-union of the unit, which took place to-day, and close to 100 men from out of town arrived in time to be present at the big banquet which was held in the armories to-night. Following the banquet there was an informal dance, when the ex-members of the battery had an opportunity of renewing acquaintances with their friends in the Royal City.

WOMAN'S CASE UP TO POLICE

St. Thomas Inspector Replies to Criticism Made

PROTECTION IS NEEDED

Arson Charge Is to Be Aired To-Day

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter)—That it was not the duty of the health department, but that of the police, to see that the unfortunate woman, who is mentally deranged, was placed in a proper institution, was the statement of W. J. Shaw, health inspector, to-day, in reply to criticism by Crown Attorney McCrimmon, of the health department. The crown attorney was seriously ill to-day, but immediately on learning this, Magistrate Maxwell issued instructions that the police arrest the woman on a charge of vagrancy and have her returned to the London asylum, where, it is understood, she was formerly kept. Mr. Shaw stated emphatically to-day that had the matter come under the jurisdiction of his department the woman would have been safely locked away long ago. The woman has not yet been arrested, but it is understood that she will be taken care of in the near future.

HEAR ARSON CASE.

An important case comes before Magistrate Hunt at the courthouse to-morrow, when O. Hoshal, of Port Stanley, will be charged with arson, attempting to obtain money under false pretences and perjury. It is alleged that Hoshal set fire to his automobile and then attempted to collect the insurance. The amount with one company totaled $500 and the other $300. Investigations are said to have been going on for some time, with the result that the accused man was placed under arrest to-day.

The act of a 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. O'Brien, Wilson avenue south, in flagging a local street car until it stopped, when she saw a dangerous washout, will be recognized by the City Council. The rain washed out the roadway under the track, near where the little tot lives, the other day, and on noticing it she ran out and stood in the center of the tracks and managed to flag the car to a standstill. Had the car passed over the bad piece of roadway there would undoubtedly have been a serious smash-up.

Action will be taken at the next Council meeting, and a presentation will likely be made.

NO DECISION YET

Speaking of his call to Eutaw Place Baptist Church, of Baltimore, Md., Rev. Dr. O. O. S. Wallace, of Montreal, who is attending the convention which closed here to-night, declared that he had the matter under advisement, but had as yet made no decision.

Dr. Wallace is a former chancellor of McMaster and was prominent in the affairs of the Baptist Church in this part of Western Ontario in the early days of his ministry.

Warnings have been issued to the city banks to take every precaution in handling large sums of money to and from the bank building. Every protection is being afforded the employees.

M. Harold Buston, local taxi driver, was to-day sent to jail for a week to await sentence on a charge of non-support laid by his wife. The magistrate advised Buston that he had not treated his wife rightly and he issued a general warning to all taxi men notifying them that unless they refrained from their present mode of living some of the licenses would be canceled.

The criminal libel charge against J. F. Young, local representative of The Free Press, was again adjourned today owing to the absence of Crown Attorney McCrimmon. The adjournment this time was for two weeks. D. M. McCrimmon appeared on behalf of his father, the crown attorney, and C. St. Clair Leitch, K.C., for the defense, consented to a further adjournment. Bail of $2,000 was renewed.

HAVE MAIL ROBBERS; NOW SEEK THE LOOT

DETROIT, Oct. 21.—Post office inspectors and U. S. secret service men have woven a chain of evidence about the three men arrested here Tuesday in connection with the robbery of the Windsor Royal Mail wagon, when 26 mail pouches were stolen, and are satisfied they have in custody all but one Auley, of Windsor, the driver of the of the gang that held up Robert Macwagon. The men held are James Logan, known as "Jimmy the Gun"; Alex McLean, alias "Little Mack," and Thomas Ferris. Authorities are now working to locate the house where the men have been living, believing that when this is established much of the loot will be recovered.

BABY MOSS.

"Owes her robust health to Virol."

Cranfield,
50, St. Albans Road,
Moseley, Birmingham.
Gentlemen, Aug. 20, 1920.

Enclosed you will find photograph of my daughter at 17 months old. I think you will agree that she is a splendid testimony to the value of Virol as a body builder. From early days Virol has been added to her milk food, and I am quite sure that she owes her robust health to this addition.

I have many times recommended Virol and in every case there has been improvement in general health, rapid growth and easy assimilation of food.

Believe me to be,
Yours faithfully,
(Signed) GEO. MOSS.

Virol is used in large quantities in more than 2,500 Hospitals and Infant Clinics. It is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilising of milk; it is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

COUNTRY LIFE IN WESTERN ONTARIO

RURAL TRUSTEES FACE PROBLEMS

Plan To Make School Greater Factor In Community.

THE APPLE SITUATION

Norfolk "Firsts" Are All Being Shipped From Country.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 21.—Organization of a Rural Trustees' and Ratepayers' Association was effected here during the past week, with a view to stimulating rural interest in education along wider lines than at present observed. As a result the County Council will be asked to make a grant for the purpose of holding meetings throughout the county for the instilling of a wider interest in matters educational. Medical inspection in the schools, rural school nurses, school annexes, which will make the school a still greater factor in rural community life—these will be some of the matters which will be discussed if the proposed conferences materialize. This is a further step in the movement to keep the young folks on the farm by providing a wider life for them rather than the "back to the land" movement, which, as a whole, has failed to date. It is comparatively easy to get people back to the land. The thing is to keep them there.

Simcoe reports that the folks of that center of Norfolk's apple orchards will not get the prime apples this year. Apples in large quantities are being daily delivered at the headquarters of the Norfolk Co-operative Fruit Growers' Association, but the supply of "firsts" is very limited, and all of this grade are being shipped out, so that the reputation of Norfolk apples may be sustained. Thus Norfolk finds itself in the same position as California, which claims that the only way to get good California oranges is to go outside of California for them. However, Simcoe reports that good domestic grades are obtainable on very reasonable terms.

The U. F. O. baseball clubs will stage a banquet in the Masonic Hall here shortly. The season was a very successful one and that there will be many attending the banquet is shown by the fact that Masonic Hall is the largest in the city available for banquet purposes. Not all U. F. O. activity this year was centered on politics. Plans are already being laid for the organization of a U. F. O. debating league, including all literary and debating clubs in the county.

WHY SOME BOYS LEAVE THE FARM

Why did you leave the farm, my lad?
Why did you bolt and leave your dad?
Why did you beat it off to town
And turn your poor old father down?
Thinkers of platform, pulpit, press,
Are wallowing in deep distress;
They seek to know the hidden cause
Why farmer boys desert their pals.
Some say they long to get a taste
Of faster life and social waste,
And some will say the silly chumps
Mistake the suit cards for their trumps,
In wagering fresh and germless air
Against the smoky thoroughfare,
We've all agreed the farm's the place
To free your mind and state your case.

Well, stranger, since you've been so frank
I'll roll aside my hazy bank,
The misty cloud of theories,
And tell you where the trouble lies.
Left my dad, his farm, his plow,
Because my calf became his cow.
Left my dad; 'twas wrong, of course—
Because my colt became his horse;
I left my dad to sow and reap,
Because my lamb became his sheep:
I dropped my hoe and struck my fork
Because my pig became his pork;
The garden truck that I made grow,
Was his to sell but mine to hoe;
But not the smoke in the atmosphere
Nor the taste for life that brought me here;
Please tell the platform, pulpit, press,
No fear of toil or love of dress
Is driving off the farmer lads,
But just the methods of their dads.

THORNDALE SECOND LARGEST LOCAL SHIPPING POINT IN DOMINION FOR LIVE STOCK

Surpassed Only By Ailsa Craig, Also In Middlesex County. High Quality Is the Aim of Breeders and Shippers Alike In This Fine Live Stock Section.

THORNDALE, Oct. 21.—Thorndale, situated in West Nissouri Township, Middlesex County, on the G. T. R. between London and Stratford, is the second largest local shipping point in Canada for live stock, being surpassed only by Ailsa Craig, which is also situated in Middlesex County.

In 1918 Thorndale ranked third in the Dominion, Calgary taking first place and Ailsa Craig second. A branch of the live stock farming that has been developed extensively in recent years is hog raising. The old idea that a buyer is necessarily antagonistic to the seller finds no room in business around Thorndale. Farmers realize that a certain type of animal will give them the highest returns and that it is to the mutual advantage of farmer and packer to transform the animal into prime pork by intelligent feeding, instead of marketing in an unfinished state.

Local buyers who have been engaged in the business of supplying many of the abattoirs with bacon hogs for several years have assisted the farmers by furnishing them with knowledge of the type of hog that is required.

THE BEST YET.

R. P. Bilyea, who shipped 69 hogs this week and 89 last week, states that these were among the best that he has yet secured and the farmers of West Nissouri are making every effort to produce a superior type.

Hogs must be raised for the markets which can be found by packers. For Canadian trade this market is undoubtedly in Great Britain, where popular taste runs to lean, streaky bacon, mildly cured. The United States does not understand the curing of the Wiltshire sides. They use too much salt, and the consumer across the sea has had to eat more salt and more fat and he does not relish it. Even the Canadian touring in the United States objects to features of the American bacon. Hence the Canadian bacon has been given first place in Great Britain.

In the last four years the phenomenal increase in the supply of vegetable oils in the world has affected the demand for pork fats. The world is at the beginning of a period that will mark a change in the sources of food fats.

When the hog is sold from the farm it passes with the least delay to the killing floor, and from that moment takes a widely differing course, according to the market for which it is intended. If it is cut for the domestic market it cannot be exported, and to a great extent it cannot be used for the domestic trade if it is cut for export. Thus the packer determines weeks ahead in what market he will sell.

THE LOCAL SUPPLY.

The farmers in the vicinity of Thorndale who are engaged in the hog-raising industry are enabled to supply the buyers with about 200 well finished hogs each week, or over 10,000 yearly. These are shipped to various centers. R. P. Bilyea, who is a buyer for the Harris Abattoir, of Toronto, ships to that company a large number of cattle, calves, sheep and lambs, as well as hogs. During the Christmas season of 1920, when there was a heavy demand for poultry, he shipped in one week about $2,000 worth of dressed turkeys and $700 worth of live poultry. In the following week $1,000 worth of dressed turkeys was shipped.

G. B. Vining, another buyer, besides making regular shipments of hogs each week to Toronto, Ingersoll or Stratford, ships many carloads of cattle to Toronto, Buffalo and Liverpool.

Prior to the passing of the Fordney bill, when the American markets were open, D. Weston, George Hobbs and S. Henderson also carried on a large export trade in cattle. These shippers have continued to ship some cattle to Buffalo, but the largest shipments at present are to Liverpool.

At the fat stock show in Buffalo in December, 1920, Edward Henderson and G. B. Vining exhibited three fat Shorthorn cows, and won first, second and third prizes. About 10,000 cattle are shipped annually from Thorndale center.

MIDDLESEX SPECIMENS.

Two fine Shorthorns from the Wheaton herd at Thorndale: Rose Clyde and bull calf, by British Prince, undefeated on the show circuit, including the international.

FINE DAIRY HERDS.

In visiting the farms in the vicinity we find some of the finest dairy herds in Canada, one of the most noted being that of R. R. Wheaton. This famous herd of milking Shorthorns was started in 1908 and is known to-day all over Canada as having one of the highest average records for milk and butter fat production. The cows in the herd average over 9,500 pounds milk each for the year. All the cows are officially tested and none are retained but those that will qualify for the R. of M.

Victor III., of the Wheaton herd, was grand champion at the National Show and Congress in 1919. Following are some of the records of the Wheaton herd: Lily Archer, 13,599 pounds; Gray Bird, 11,886 pounds; Emma, 11,727 pounds; Rosebud Queen, 11,376 pounds; Queen Daisy, 10,510 pounds; Dorcan, 10,721 pounds; Lady Russell, 11,721 pounds; Rosebud Queen II., 10,025 pounds; Daisy (two-year-old), 10,050 pounds.

Golden Wimple, a calf of this herd, sold last year for $2,050. R. R. Wheaton was the owner until last year of Ruby, that held the world's record in 1912, which was at that time 18,952 pounds.

Farmers in Thorndale locality have proved by actual experience that it pays to improve the herd and raise a higher type of stock. Four cheese factories are located in the district and the total output of cheese from these amounts to at least three carloads weekly for nine months in the year. In addition to this a large quantity of cream is sold to the London creameries. As well as being a convenient shipping center for the cheese Thorndale can boast of a cheese box factory, which is owned by R. T. Wright and in which was manufactured last year 22,000 cheese boxes.

Owing to the excellent facilities for shipping and the fine agricultural area in the surrounding district the milk producers deemed it would be advantageous to establish a dairy station in Thorndale. As a result of meetings held to discuss the matter the Thorndale Co-Operative Dairy Co., Ltd., was organized and a board of directors was elected which consisted of enterprising dairymen of the district, namely: R. J. Stevenson, president; John Dawson, secretary-treasurer; Dr. T. W. Wilson, W. F. McGuffin and John McKay.

This company has a capitalization of $40,000 and a minimum of $15,000 to begin building operations of a co-operative dairy plant. From this milk, cream, butter or cheese can be shipped as the market demands, thus furnishing excellent opportunities for the disposal of dairy products. The farmers of West Nissouri and the adjoining townships are very much in favor of the enterprise and with very few exceptions all who have been interviewed by the directors have readily subscribed for stock. The establishment of a co-operative dairy company at Thorndale has also tended to enhance the value of property in West Nissouri Township as farmers are eager to secure farms where there are such splendid facilities for the disposal of the dairy products.

OUR COUNTRYWOMEN'S COLUMN

Conducted Each Saturday by a Farmer's Wife.
PEGGY WADSON.

Ouch! Cr-reak! Oh dear—will somebody please pass the lubricant? Thanks, that's better. It is a terrible complaint this potato-spine-itis, and somehow I seem to get a bad attack of it every fall. Ever have it? Then you'll know just how my spine feels after spending a day in the potato field. Of course, the one consolation about it is that the worse the attack the more the potatoes. In fact, some of our neighbors, whose potatoes have turned out anything but a good crop, tell me I ought, indeed, to be tremendously thankful to have enough of the tubers to acquire an aching back over. I have noticed, though, how easy it is to be philosophical about other people's aches rather than about one's own. Haven't you? But, really, when I contemplate that beautiful heap of praties (at present stored in the barn awaiting assortment), it does seem to take a little of the creak out of my vertebrae and make them feel a little less like rusty hinges on a sagging gate.

Somehow I take a special pride in those potatoes because (The Comrade being busy with more masculine occupation) I had the fun of bugging and weeding and hoeing them to some extent this summer, and it is certainly true that one cannot put oneself and one's work into any task without it seeming to become a part of one. Just here I am reminded of the beautiful way in which the late John Burroughs, the famous naturalist, expressed this thought. May I quote it?

"The farmer has the most sane and natural occupation, and ought to find life sweeter, if less highly seasoned, than any other. He alone, strictly speaking, has a home. How can a man take root and thrive without land? He writes history upon his field.

"How many ties, how many resources he has—his friendship with his cattle, his team, his dogs, his trees, the satisfaction in his growing crop, in his improved fields, his intimacy with nature, with birds and beast, and with the quickening elemental forces; his co-operation with the cloud, the sun, the seasons, heat, wind, rain and frost. Nothing will take the various distempers, which the city and artificial life breed, out of man like farming—like direct and loving contact with the soil. It draws out the poison. It humbles him, teaches him patience and reverence, and restores the proper tone to his system. Blessed is he whose youth was passed upon a farm.

"Cling to the farm, make much of it, put yourself into it, bestow your heart and your brain upon it, so that it shall savor of you—radiate your virtues after your day's work is done."

I think this is a passage which we farm folks should all clip and memorize, especially the closing paragraph. A life centralized by such inspiring sentiment escapes the idea that the farm is all drudgery and grasps a wider vision of his or her occupation and its meanings. But—oh dear, there is that creak in my spine again. More lubricant, quick!

Entertainment arrangements for a Halloween party never seem complete without some of the old-fashioned, time-honored games that still savor of the early days in England, when old and young made merry around the fireside and the mischievous elves and goblins played bewildering pranks upon all mankind on the eve of "Hallowmas."

Among the many amusing games of "fate" which may be adapted by the modern hostess is the old one of ducking for apples. This is generally participated in by the boys, each apple being named for a fair maid. The hands of the contestants are tied behind their backs, and the frantic efforts to secure the prized apples are, to put it mildly, most amusing. Somewhat similar to this game is the apple and flour test, and it seems only fair that the girls take the lead here, the boys being the onlookers. A yard-long stick is suspended horizontally from the ceiling or doorway, an apple stuck upon one end and a tiny bag of flour upon the other. Set the stick whirling and see which girl can first capture the apple end with her teeth. In the effort most of them will receive playful dabs of flour from the bag at the opposite end.

An apple-peeling contest is a "sure" method of learning the initial of future husband or wife. Of course, everyone knows how this is done. Peel the apple carefully taking care not to break the peel or the contestant will have to start over; swing paring around the head and let it drop on the floor from over the left shoulder. Needless to say, much imagination has sometimes to be exercised in order to determine just which initial is formed.

Dating down from several centuries ago is the water test, by which a maid was allowed to meet her fate. At midnight on Halloween a girl was required to fill her mouth with water, go out of the back door and run around the house, not swallowing or spilling a drop. En route she should meet the person who is to become her mate through life. The fact that clever hostesses have at times aided the spirits in their work by sending a desirable person of the opposite sex so that the two will be sure to meet, is perhaps responsible for a belief in this experiment. The cellar stairs test is no less trying and should only be attempted by young women with strong nerves. In this a girl has to walk backward downstairs at the witching hour of 12, holding a mirror upside down in her left hand. In it she should see the features of him who is to be her mate.

Of less eerie character are hunting games of any kind. One hostess had chestnuts hidden about the rooms, and set the boys and girls a-hunting. At the end of 10 minutes the guests reported their finds and all sat before a jolly wood fire to name and toast them. A fortune hunt is also appropriate for Halloween. Several pennies, thimbles and a ring or two are hidden in unlikely corners. To those finding rings, marriage is assured; the thimbles denote lives of single blessedness; the pennies promise wealth.

Partners for luncheon may be secured by placing in one "pumpkin face" numbered bits of orange-colored paper, and in the second "Jack," corresponding numbers on black or red paper. The boys draw from one, the girls from the other, and then match numbers for partners.

"Feeding Jack" is one of the more modern amusements for Halloween, but causes lots of fun. The hostess places a good-sized hollowed out pumpkin, with wide, grinning mouth on a center table, first spreading a sheet upon the floor. A bowl of bran, sawdust or any material preferred is provided and a good size spoon. Guests are informed that they have to feed Jack, and in turn are blindfolded and placed on a chair before the wide-mouthed fellow. Each has three chances to place a spoonful of "food" in the Jack's mouth, and I have been told that pinning the tail on the donkey is nothing compared to this. Try it for your Halloween party.

HOLSTEINS SENT TO LETHBRIDGE

Practical Compliment Paid to Oxford Live Stock.

H. HOLMES A VISITOR

Tells of Great Irrigation Systems In Canadian West.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 21.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Another tribute has been paid to the Holsteins of Oxford County. This time it took tangible form and as a result of a visit to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, by a Western farmer, 16 head of pure bred Holsteins left Ingersoll on Saturday evening, October 15, for the Lethbridge district. They are being taken back by the purchaser, Henry Holmes, an aged, but highly progressive farmer from Raymond, near Lethbridge.

In speaking to The Free Press Mr. Holmes stated that his son had attended the Guelph college some years ago, and between them they now own and operate over 400 acres of irrigated land at the above place. "We decided that we wanted Holsteins, and we wanted the best. While we have lived in the West 21 years, we were not fully familiar with Eastern Canada conditions, and so my son told me to go to Guelph. He was sure that the officials at the provincial farm there would assist me in the matter, if only to direct me. As a result of my visit to the farm at Guelph I was accorded the greatest measure of co-operation and appreciate it to the fullest extent. Mr. Jenvey, second in charge at the department, not only directed me to Oxford, but came with me.

VISITED THE BEST FARMS

"We have visited the best dairy farms in your wonderful district here. It was a revelation to me to get down into this great tract of fertile land and splendid farms, not to mention the handsome farm buildings. Mr. Jenvey seemed like a very good fellow and I cannot forget his kindness to me. I feel, that with his assistance, I have in these 16 head of cattle some of the best blood of this district with which to start a Holstein colony out in my district. There are very few there. In fact for some distance around my farm I do not know of a pure bred Holstein."

The total price paid for the 16 head amounted to $2,675. This is not an exorbitant price, but it is a good price for a foundation herd. The cattle were chosen from a number of the very best in the district, and Mr. Holmes looks for big things from them. The bull, which he is taking along, is from a long line of excellent sires and dams, all holding records and some of them champions of note. The price paid for the bull was $1,200. The highest price paid for the cows was $300.

In the district surrounding Mr. Holmes out in Alberta dry farming is the feature. Great irrigation systems are carried through the lands and he states that if these are properly handled there need be no crop failures. He says that with proper summer fallowing and a little due attention in the fall land in the spring will be in the best possible condition. "A little earnest attention in the fall on that land is almost the same thing as putting money in the bank. At least that is how I have found it. I have had no failures in the time I have been there, barring, of course, undue visitations of hail or wind."

In 1912 Mr. Holmes won a tractor at the International Dry Land Association's competition. This was for wheat reared under his method of irrigation, and it was generally conceded to have been some of the best wheat the West ever produced.

CAME FROM UTAH.

Mr. Holmes came into the Canadian West from Utah 21 years ago. The major portion of his neighbors also came from there. Back in Utah there are some wonderful farm lands, but he could not help feeling that Oxford had the best he had seen. He was a little surprised at the amount of "bad lands" he saw throughout Ontario on his way down from the West. "As soon as I got down to Guelph I saw the difference, and the closer I came to this splendid district of Oxford the more marked became the change."

It is a well-known fact that there are many within the confines of Oxford County who are not aware of the high standard of Holsteins bred and raised here. Oxford has a wide reputation in this regard and in many ways it seems to be better understood on the outside than on the inside. Any one in connection with the Guelph farm will substantiate this. There are many calls at Guelph for just such assistance and direction as that sought by the elderly farmer from the West referred to above. Guelph promptly sends them to Oxford, and Oxford generally has just what they need, no matter how high they may hold their ideals. The people of Oxford are, in a measure, beginning to awaken to what is in their midst. Apart from the breeders and those farmers who were in close touch with the breeders, there was little interest taken in the rearing of Holsteins. They were largely looked upon merely as a good part of the well-stocked farm. With visitors coming from points as far away as Denmark to look over Holsteins and general dairying conditions, the inhabitants of the county in a general sense are beginning to realize that there has been a standard set here of which they should wake up and be proud. Meanwhile, the breeders continue to increase and improve their herds. It is not so long ago that a young Dereham farmer imported a Holstein bull for which he paid $2,000. This has been added to a herd of the highest quality. The significant thing about this is that the purchaser of the bull is not rated among the best-known breeders. He has been working along quietly and watching. Some day he will step into the limelight as the others have done. It is in this way that a deepening interest is manifesting itself, and it is also in this way that Oxford's reputation is being maintained.

WHILE OTHERS STAY AT HOME.

With dad and me it's half and half.
The cow I own was once his calf.
I'm going to stick right where I am,
Because my sheep was once his lamb.
I'll stay with dad—he gets my vote,
Because my hog was once his shoat.
No town for me—I'll stick right here,
For I'm his tractor-engineer.
It's "even-split" with dad and me
In a profit-sharing company.
We work together from day to day—
Believe me, boys, it's the only way.

PETROLEA OWNS MODERN X-RAY

Donated to Hospital By the Late J. L. Englehart.

AMONG BEST IN CANADA

Fine Demonstration of Apparatus Given on Installation.

PETROLEA, Oct. 21.—An event of great interest to the residents of Petrolea took place recently, when the completed X-ray equipment of the Charlotte Eleanor Englehart Hospital was officially handed over to the board of directors.

Mr. B. J. Fenner, X-ray expert, of Toronto, and until a few weeks ago chief technician of the Toronto General Hospital, spent the previous week in installing and adjusting the various instruments. Before proceeding to demonstrate the detail of the various instruments he reiterated the wish of the late J. L. Englehart, the donor, that "An X-ray equipment should wear itself out doing good to humanity."

The demonstration, given by Mr. Fenner to the board of directors and others, was complete in every detail. By the use of one of the fluoroscopes they were allowed to watch a heart beating. Dr. Mulligan, of Petrolea, was appointed by the physicians of Petrolea and district some months ago to take special charge of the operation of the X-ray when installed. The doctor also exhibited to those present a number of plates which he had prepared during the forenoon. Mr. Fenner, in his talk on X-ray work, mentioned the unusually fine equipment that the institution now possessed, which, in many details, was considerably in advance of many of the largest hospitals in Canada. The fine collection of accessory apparatus was explained and their uses demonstrated.

BEST IN CANADA.

The machine was built as a special order by the Kelly-Koett Company and at this time is the most powerful X-ray machine in Canada. It comprises one 10-K. W. 12-inch gap, with auto transformer and rheostatic control in remote form, one 1-K. & K. new type oil-immersed Collidge transformer, with regulator complete, 110 volts, 25 cycle, 1 Englen new type timer, ¼ to 12 seconds.

One of its original features is an almost human safety control, which automatically stops the "high voltage" side of the instrument when the slightest mistake is made by the operator.

The outfit further comprises one K. & K. vertical fluoroscope, one K. & K. horizontal fluoroscope, comprising type "I" steroscopic plate changing table and lead-protected tube box with high-tension masts, one interchangeable 12x16-inch fluoroscope screen, with tested lead glass and protected metal handles, one head rest and aerial switch and one K. & K. No. 6 tube stand.

With the fluoroscopes the whole body can be examined from head to foot, both in the horizontal and vertical positions. A new type of stereoscope makes possible the examination of plates in such a manner as to show depths, so that one can apparently see right into the body. The photographic side of this plant has a very fine dark room, with tank system of development, by which the finishing of the X-ray pictures is done scientifically and in a minimum of time. The machine develops 120,000 volts at the X-ray tube for deep treatment work. These rays, which are used for treatment only, will penetrate one-half inch of cast iron, and Mr. Fenner is authority for the statement that they come closer to the radium ray than any yet produced in this country. This type of ray is being used extensively in the treatment of cancer.

SEE WHILE SETTING BONES.

Another very interesting table in this outfit makes possible bone-setting right over the rays, so that the physician or surgeon can see exactly the position of broken bones while they are being set.

One of the best features of this equipment is the fact that it is almost silent in operation.

Patients undergoing examination are not touched with any instruments whatever and no sensation is experienced either during or after the application of the rays.

The addition of this fine set of instruments brings the equipment of this hospital up to a very high standard and Petrolea can be justly proud of this institution.

GALT IS NOW FAMED FAR AND WIDE AS "THE CITY OF PARKS"; WM. DICKSON'S GIFT WAS NUCLEUS OF THE PRESENT SYSTEM

Beautiful Soper Park Now Claiming Attention Because of Improvements Recently Made There.

GALT Oct. 21.—(Special to The Free Press).—"The City of Parks" is gradually replacing "The Manchester of Canada" as Galt's pet name. It has been visitors who have christened it such, they having been so much impressed with the city's fine system of recreation grounds and breathing spots, that the expression has become chronic with them. They have carried the good news to other parts, and the result is that not only are there thousands of visitors to Galt's parks, but municipal heads come here to inspect the park system.

Dickson Park, the city's principal athletic grounds and the only one to which an admission can be charged, was the nucleus of the system and was given to Galt when it had a very small population, by the late Wm. Dickson, a nephew of the late Hon. Wm. Dickson, who owned the Township of North Dumfries. In making the gift of this tract of land to the town, the donor stipulated that the Agricultural Society was to have the use of it, and therefore this organization, while it pays nothing for its upkeep, has certain privileges. It is undoubtedly one of the finest natural amphitheaters for sport in the province, and in recent years has been greatly improved. This year a fine steel and concrete grand stand was erected, and the baseball diamond skinned making it one of the fastest ball fields in Western Ontario. The parks commission now contemplate further improvements and plans to terrace the hill overlooking the sports field.

ONE OF GALT'S BEAUTIFUL PARKS.

A photograph of the wonderful rustic stonework in Soper Park, Galt, which Dr. A. Soper, seen standing at the foot of the stairway, constructed of huge field boulders, promises to make one of the finest beauty spots in Ontario.

PARKS EXTENDED.

About 20 years ago the parks committee, with the support of some broad-minded citizens who had a vision of the future, launched a campaign to enlarge the parks system and the result has been that to-day Galt has parks in every section of the city, and a civic feeling has been created for still more parks. This year the City Council, to rid one of the important entrances to the city of an unsightly collection of bill boards, purchased a triangle at the corner of North Water and Dundas streets which is to be converted into a breathing spot for the residents of that district and also for the convenience of touring motorists, as it is located on the Hamilton-to-Waterloo highway. And now the Y. M. C. A. is engaged in fixing up a vacant piece of land at the rear of its building, which has been secured for a term of years on the understanding that it is to be a community playground. Tennis courts, ball diamonds and running track are to be built.

Victoria Park, on the west side of the city, is one of nature's beauty spots. In 1904 Langdon Wilks, now living in France, who has a big country estate adjoining his sister's, Cruickston Park, at Blair, presented the parks committee with 28 acres of wooded land, on the condition that the Town Council would acquire nine acres of adjoining land for athletic purposes. This was done, and this field can accommodate cricket, football, baseball and lawn tennis all at the same time. A pavilion was constructed, the bush laid out in drives and paths according to a plan of Landscape Architect Todd, who designed Ottawa's park system. Wild flowers grow in all their glory in this bush, which also has been made the home for a small zoo.

A NEW PARK.

Soper Park, in the northeast section of the city, is now commanding most attention because of the great work being done there by Dr. A. Soper. This park, formerly known as Jackson, was at one time a farm. In 1904 the parks committee bought the 14 acres south of Dundas street, which divides the park now, and developed it into a picturesque spot, with Mill Creek winding through it. It has a large athletic field, and because of its natural beauty has become a popular picnic grounds. What is now the upper section of the park was originally bought as the site for a sugar factory, but when the proposition fell through the parks commission secured it to extend Jackson Park. Owing to lack of funds very little work was done on it until a year ago. Dr. A Soper, now retired, owns a beautiful California bungalow home overlooking the park. The house was the homestead of Mrs. Soper's family, and Dr. Soper has given it one of the finest grounds to be found in the country. With the south part of Jackson Park developed, the northern section became an eyesore to this public-spirited citizen and a year ago this month he undertook to improve it, and in 12 months has effected a transformation has has been really wonderful. He has spent thousands of dollars improving it, and the citizens in appreciation of this great work, not only changed the name of the park to Soper, but also voted $15,000 to assist in the completion of Dr. Soper's plans. He changed the course of the creek, making it winding, built walls along it of huge boulders, made islands with rustic bridges connecting same, planted thousands of trees, leveled off the ground, has made two beautiful drives, Marion Way and Spirea Drive, is building a bowling green of 22 greens, and to his own design has some of the finest rustic stonework in the park that can be found anywhere and which proves a great attraction to visitors. He has not completed the task undertaken, but when he does Galt will have one of the prettiest parks to be found in any city its size and many larger than it. At all entrances to this park rustic stone pillars are being erected.

LINCOLN PARK.

Lincoln Park, in the southeast section, consisting of six acres, is another athletic field, with a very fine grove of oak and maple trees. It was given to the city by the late Fred George Allenby and was named after his birthplace in England.

St. Andrew's Park is a conversion of Auld Kirk Cemetery and church grounds. The feature of this spot is a pergola made out of old tombstones.

High Park, overlooking Main street, and the entire valley, was at one time the burial ground of the American Presbyterian Church. It was the gift of the late J. K. Andrews, one of Galt's pioneer builders.

Other breathing spots in the city are Central Park Gore, Queen's Square, Blain's Park St. Andrew's Square, Trinity Church Park, Water Tower Park, adjoining the hospital and overlooking the valley of the Grand, and Waterworks Park.

A feature of Galt's park system, which appeals to visitors is that the parks are located in all sections of the city, with Dickson, the only one enclosed by a fence, practically in the heart of the city.

FLORENCE.

FLORENCE, Oct. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Milton, of this place, celebrated their golden wedding day on Wednesday, when the family and a few friends were present and partook of a dainty supper. Mr. and Mrs. Milton were born and married in Scotland and came to Canada in the early part of their married life. Two sons and four daughters and a number of grandchildren compose their family. Their two sons and one daughter, Mrs. Bilton, live in the West; two daughters, Mrs. McCaffery and Mrs. Grey, live in Windsor and Mrs. Cook, of Florence. The three last named daughters were present at the celebration.

The anniversary services of the Fansher Methodist Church was held on Sunday, when large crowds greeted the Rev. Mr. Kitely, of Lambeth, former pastor of the Florence circuit, at both services. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion and excellent music and song were rendered. On Monday night a large crowd attended the fowl supper and concert. The free-will offerings and receipts of the concert were very gratifying.

The auxiliaries of Florence, Shetland and Croton W. M. S. convened with the Thamesville and Botany auxiliaries at the Thamesville Methodist Church, where the Rev. Mrs. Snell, of Dutton, district organizer, addressed the meeting. At the close of the meeting the Thamesville ladies served refreshments in the basement.

The British and Foreign Bible Society held their annual meeting recently in St. Matthew's Church, when Rev. Bowen delivered his most wonderful address and strong appeal for the great work. Mr. W. A. Gordon, the president for the past 50 years, resigned, as he will be leaving to live in Toronto soon. His office will be taken by Mr. George Sinclair. Mr. D. Buchanan will be the vice-president. The secretary, Mr. D. Corbett, which office he has filled faithfully for about 30 years, also resigned at the age of over 80 years, desired it be filled by a younger man, who will be Mr. Alex. Webster. The treasurer, Mr. E. Mills, will retain his office another year, as will the old committee. The givings this year went over $200. The new collectors will soon take up their work for the new year.

THORNDALE.

THORNDALE, Oct. 21.—Anniversary services will be conducted in St. George's Anglican Church on Sunday, November 6, and a supper will be served in Harding's Hall on Thanksgiving night. This will be the sixtieth anniversary of St. George's Church, which was erected in 1861.

Mrs. Goerge Van Horne has been appointed a delegate from the mission band of Thorndale Methodist Church to the W. M. S. convention which will be held in London during the first week in November.

Mrs. James H. Wheaton has been appointed a delegate by the W. M. S. of the Methodist Church.

The village trustees at a recent meeting granted $15 to Thorndale public library.

M. Brock, U. F. O. buyer, shipped a carload of hogs to Toronto on Monday. The price paid was $9.25 per hundredweight.

G. B. Vining shipped a carload of hogs to Toronto and a carload of cattle to Buffalo. The price paid was $9.25.

MOUNTED POLICE RETAINING ORDER

EDMONTON, Oct. 21.—Law and order in the north country is on a high plane, and not in one instance has it been necessary to prosecute any person who has entered under the clearance certificate, states Major G. L. Jennings, superintendent of the Royal Canadian Mounted police, who recently returned here after an inspection trip to all the police detachments in the far North. Major Jennings' tour occupied three months, during which he traveled more than 4,000 miles, and he visited as far north as Herschel Island. The residents of the great stretches of territory lying between Edmonton and the Arctic have the great respect for British justice and the orderly traditions of the British race, he said, and the general conditions could not be more satisfactory.

The major was present at the trial of the Slavey Indian, Lebeaux, who has been sentenced to death on a charge of murder. The trial, with all the impressiveness of a court of British justice, was an eye-opener to the natives, Major Jennings says, and the Indians from now on will have a greater respect for British law than ever before.

GALT GAINS IN SHOE INDUSTRY

Thriving Factories There Had Small Beginnings.

TWO BABY INDUSTRIES

One Started a Year Ago and Now Employs 50.

GALT, Oct. 21.—(Special to The Free Press.)—In 1900 Galt had but one shoe factory, that operated by F. S. Scott, M. P., and Edward J. Getty, one of the great practical shoemakers of the province, who, from a small beginning in his back kitchen, began what is to-day one of Canada's largest shoe industries, Getty & Scott, Limited. On taking Mr. Scott into partnership he secured a small building on George street, and at the start they employed but 10 hands.

As their business developed they enlarged and to-day the plant is one of the most modern in Canada, consisting of three units in this city, with another important unit in London, the Scott-Chamberlain works.

GETTY WITHDRAWS.

A few years ago Mr. Getty withdrew from the firm and while he lived retired for some time, like many others of his standing, returned to work with the outbreak of war, and since then has been superintendent of one of Kitchener's leading shoe industries.

Mr. Scott continues as controlling head of the Galt concern and, surrounding himself with a most capable staff of experts, has been able to serve the people of South Waterloo in Parliament and still conduct one of the biggest industries of its kind in Canada.

With this industry Galt commenced to produce shoemakers, who, like its steel workers, can hold their own with the best and the outcome has been that, through colonizing, Galt has now no less than four separate shoe industries and has become a center in the trade. Judging from developments of past the expectation is that other firms will follow. Two of the baby industries in this line are Scroggins Bros. and the Yale Shoe.

STARTED IN BARN.

The former, which had its start in a barn, has grown until now it occupies a fine building on Rose street. The Yale Shoe Company, in which all local capital is interested, and the executives all Galt shoemakers, started just a year ago, with 10 hands, in the mill formerly occupied by the Riverside Silk Company, and to-day has 50 employees and the business is growing steadily.

HIGHGATE FAIR WAS BETTER THAN USUAL

HIGHGATE, Oct. 21.—The Highgate Fall Fair was favored with ideal weather and was largely attended. The horse ring was the main attraction. The exhibits of live stock were exceptionally good. Space in the building was more fully occupied in every department than before. Field roots shown were large and of good quality. The ladies' department also contained a splendid array of exhibits.

The principal prize-winners were as follows:

HORSES.

General purpose—E. Ellwood, R. Stewart, J. Leatherdale. T. Hastings, W. Hoagg, M. Gosnell.

RADICAL CHANGES IN LAND SETTLEMENT

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Radical changes in land settlement administration, involving more extensive financial aid to settlers, elimination of the free land system and instruction in farming methods were advocated by Major E. J. Ashton, commissioner of the soldiers' settlement board, in a discussion of immigration and settlement in Western Canada at a recent Canadian Club luncheon here.

Major Ashton emphasized throughout his address the need of encouraging the right type of settlers and the necessity of helping them to "make good" on the land. He proposed Government purchases of land suitable for settlement and resale to settlers on long term payment, at an increase of 10 to 12 per cent. over cost, the increase to provide a land sinking fund.

Apprenticing new settlers to selected farmers and supervision of early efforts of the new farmer were also recommended. Major Ashton proposed extension of provincial creamery policies and cow bills to aid the new settler in the live stock business.

INTERIOR DEPARTMENT IS LISTING ALL LAND

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21—Owners of unoccupied land, which totals about 30,000,000 acres, in the three prairie provinces, will be asked by the natural resources intelligence branch of the department of the interior to give a description of their land and the sale price of such land. This will be for the purpose of giving the possible purchasers the information they desire and to facilitate the settlement of these unoccupied lands. The information obtained will be made available all over Canada, the United States and Great Britain.

Under the plan of the department of the interior the listing is entirely voluntary, which is unlike that requested by the Western Canada Colonization Association—compulsory listing and the setting of a price on the property for a certain period.

The co-operation of the Provincial Governments will be requested so as to make the scheme as effective as possible. H. A. McCallum, of the department of the interior, is now in the West in connection with the carrying out of the plan.

Wonderful Change In Whole Family

Buffalo Man, Wife and Daughter All Report Remarkable Gains In Weight.

"I gained 12 pounds, my wife gained 6 pounds and my daughter is gaining day by day, taking Tanlac. It's the biggest surprise of our lives and all our friends and neighbors are talking about it. This medicine has made a wonderful change in every one of us. Before we got Tanlac I could hardly drag one foot after the other. I had indigestion so perfectly awful. In fact, we were all regular dyspeptics. We all swear by Tanlac now at our house. It ought to be in every home. It's the world's greatest family medicine."

The above statement was made by George L. Tessy, a well-known and highly respected machinist, living at 83 Downing street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Ltd., and by Liggett's Drug Stores and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

Football Gets All The Attention This Afternoon

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

Western To Battle Varsity For Every Inch Of Game

Woodstock College Meets Local Collegiate in First Game of Double Bill at Tecumseh Park This Afternoon

Determined to fight University of Toronto every inch of the way in the great intercollegiate football game this afternoon at Tecumseh Park, Western University finds it highly necessary to triumph in order to get a chance at the group title, as another downfall not only means disaster, but it gives Varsity and St. Mikes the jump of the London aggregation for the rest of the season.

A feeling of optimism pervades the entire squad, including some of the staunchest supporters. The players believe that they have an equal chance to win if they get the breaks. They realize they must be followed closely to take advantage of any mispiays on the part of Varsity players. Unlike former Western squads, the locals to-day are in fairly good condition, and with all their regulars available.

Four days' tuition under Coach Lieut.-Col. Reid, will undoubtedly show its effects this afternoon, and while the tutor is not satisfied with the team, he has an object in view, and if fortune favors him, will be able to get the desired results, perhaps not this season, but the next, and so on.

FUNDAMENTALLY RIGHT.

Reid is building up a football foundation at the present time and if he gets no further than that, will have accomplished at least that much.

There promises to be some surprises as Coach Reid would not divulge the line-up for the game. All the veterans will no doubt figure in the battle array, but the switching tactics that Frank Shaughnessy uses to keep McGill in the limelight will be resorted to this afternoon. Every man that Reid will send into the fray will be kept there so long as he delivers, but the moment he fails in that out he would come to join the onlookers.

The Western crew, after the four or five days' drill under Reid, know what is expected of them, and the grind they have gone through will stand them in good favor. Reid has run their legs off and all hands are bound to come little short of expectations.

The workout last night consisted of mostly signal work, though Western lined up against the Collegiates for a few minutes. The little fellows held their bigger opponents well. Both teams are in fair shape and good football will undoubtedly be served up. The first game brings Woodstock College here as opponents to the Collegiate at 1.30 p.m.

The line-up:

Western University—Heard, flying wing; Lindsay, Cline and Traynor, halves; McMahon, quarter; Callaghan, ends; Fisher, Parrott, insides; Cawley, Sifton, middles; Dundas, Dingle, outsides; Williams, Lewis, Simpson, spares.

London Collegiate—Hunter, flying wing; Sessions, Crittle, Ardiel, halves; Wilson, quarter; Foote, Daly, outsides; Hill, Murphy, insides; Beard, McCausland, middles; Rourke, Wilkinson, Burrill and Lawrence, spares.

Referee—Mace, Western University.

Umpire—Entwhistle, Woodstock.

CANADIAN GOLF STARS AT CHATHAM TO-DAY

Four prominent Canadian golfers will stage an exhibition match on the Chatham Golf Club links to-day. George Lyon, ex-Canadian champion; Frank Thompson, present amateur golf title-holder; Tom Thompson and H. C. Grout, all of Toronto, compose the Toronto team.

The Toronto golfers passed through London last night en route to Chatham and the players will be out on the links early to cover the course.

Four star players from the Chatham golf club will be matched against the Queen City golfers.

CITY BASKET BALL LEAGUE—In the new Gymnasium. Eight teams already entered, begins Thursday, October 27, at 7.30 p. m.

Coles, of London, Third To Finish In Dunlop Race

Local Cyclist Makes Best Showing of Any Outsider in Past Ten Years

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—W. J. Coles finished in third place in the 28th annual Dunlop trophy race last Saturday. This is the best showing made by an outside bike rider in years. True, in 1919, when the big race was run in London, E. Cousins, of the Forest City, finished second, but Coles is the first out-of-town rider to come one-two-three in the last 10 years—when the race was run in Toronto. Coles also gets the special prize for being the first out-of-town rider to cross the tape, so that his showing was altogether very creditable.

WOMAN GOLF CHAMPION AFTER NEW LAURELS

Miss Cecil Leitch To Start at Belle Claire Championship.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21. — Buoyed by the early glory of setting a new course record for her sex and turning the tables on Glenna Collett, the youthful Providence star, who defeated her at Philadelphia last week, Miss Cecil Leitch, English golfing wonder, set out to-day for other laurels—the Belle Claire championship.

Yesterday in the semi-final round Miss Leitch won from Miss Collett, two and one. She meets in the 36-hole round to-day Mrs. Thomas Hucknal, of New York, who defeated Mrs. W. A. Gavin, Metropolitan champion, one up in a brilliantly played match.

In the match before the semi-final on Wednesday Miss Leitch covered the course in 76, a record woman's score on the Belle Claire links.

REYNOLDS, STRATFORD, O.A.B.A. SECRETARY

STRATFORD, Oct. 21.—Wally Reynolds has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the Ontario Basket Ball Association. All entries accompanied by the fees must be in his hands by Saturday, October 29. His address is "Care of Cumming, Wellington street, Stratford."

At a meeting of the executive of the Stratford Hockey Club it was decided to transfer the responsibility for the hockey future of the city to the Stratford Amateur Athletic Association. The books were formally turned over this morning to the S. A. A. A. secretary, Mr. A. W. Deacon. They show an indebtedness to start the season with of about $400.

A meeting is being called of all members of the S. A. A. A. who are interested in hockey for Monday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at 7 o'clock, when plans for the season will be taken up and necessary arrangements made for going ahead and preparing for the winter program.

AWARDED $2,500.

WINDSOR, Oct. 2.—Injured when he was struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by Joseph Gouin, of Sandwich East, Frances G. C. Fenton, Hall avenue, this afternoon was awarded $2,500 damages against Gouin. Fenton was hit as he stepped from a Walkerville street car at that avenue and Sandwich street. Suit, which was for $25,000, was heard before Mr. Justice Logie.

A. H. Wheatley, president of the London Typographical Union, opened the Printers' Bowling Club first series at the National alleys Wednesday by tossing the first ball after a short address to the bowlers.

The Picas took all three from the Breviers, with Pres. Cameron high man, spilling 483 pins. Jack Hateley was high for Breviers with 459. Slim Wilson, the elongated second man of the Picas, was the sensation of the day, pulling off a beautiful split in the first stanza.

On Friday the Nonparells and Minions clashed in their first game of the season, and the Nonparells lived up to their name and annexed all three. "Shimmie" Hamly, the anchor man, being the big noise with 553.

Case of the Minions was high for his team with 420, and Dusty Rhoades, of sporting fame, rolled 409.

Closing Kentucky Meet Holds Out Good Events

Breeders' Futurity and Lexington Cup Are Outstanding Features

LEXINGTON, Oct. 21.—Renewals of the Breeders' Futurity, a race of about three-quarters of a mile for two-year olds of both sexes, and the Lexington cup, a gallop of one mile and a half for three-year-olds and over, will be the outstanding features of the fall session of the Kentucky Jockey Club at Lexington, with the metropolis of the Blue Grass section of Kentucky, which is studded with the great thoroughbred nurseries that give racing in American, Canadian, Mexican and Cuban 75 per cent. of its runners. The Breeders' Futurity, which was instituted in 1910 and number among its winners such distinguished horses as Housemaid, The Manager, Luke, Harry Kelly, Escoba, Blazes and Believe Idle Hour, will have a value of about $25,000, provided a field of ten or a dozen youngsters start, as seems possible. It will run on Thursday, October 27. The Lexington cup, a race of $5,000 added, will be run on October 29, the last day of the Lexington meeting and of the Kentucky autumn season. It will have a value with a field of normal strength starting of about $7,000.

SOME GOOD ONES.

Montfort Jones, who has youngsters of unusual class in Miss Joy, St. Henry and Fair Phantom, holds a strong hand in the Breeders' futurity. So does Edward R. Bradley, proprietor of the Idle Hour stud, whose brilliant filly, Believe Idle Hour, defeated Commander J. K. L. Ross' Cincinnati trophy winner, Star Voter, in last fall's renewal. Other Western horsemen are pretty well heeled in candidates of class. But the East will be strongly represented. Rocket and Cherry Tree, both smart colts and winners, probably will represent the stable of Harry Payne Whitney. Gifford A. Cochran, one of the most considerable producers of thoroughbreds in New York State, has June Grass eligible. Robert L. Gerry may be represented by Aknusti; J. Edwin Griffith by Frank Furst, Emil Herz by Knot Grass and Rib Grass, the last named a fast colt by Short Grass out of Marian Hood, she the dam of Sumbonnet; Max Hirsch by Sidereal or Long Island; Morton L. Swartz by Toil, he an own brother of Dunboyne, the Belmont Park futurity winner of 1918, and Harry P. Sinclair by Little Chief or William A. Little Chief, a son of Wrack and Medora, is a colt that distinguished himself about New York in the spring and summer. William A., a son of Jack Atkin, is a fast black colt for which Samuel C. Hildreth paid Chester A. Applegate $40,000 in the spring. William A. won the Keene Memorial stakes under the Raincoats silks. The eastern season is fast passing into the sere and yellow leaf, and it is expected that half a dozen of these youngsters will be coming west to try for the last of Kentucky's valuable two-year-old prizes and one of the richest of the season of 1921 east and west.

Aknusti, a son of Dick Finnell and Alice Baird, is a development of autumn racing. He seems to be a colt of class. His form at Belmont Park in September and his recent effort in the Oceanus handicap at Jamaica attracted the attention of the handicappers, who predict that he will win a stake worth while before the finish of the current racing year and develop over winter into a first-rate three-year-old. George M. Odom, the former jockey, who piloted Purchase to William A., King Plaudit, Modo and other yearlings that made good was the picker of Aknusti. Robert L. Gerry, whose silks the Dick Finnell colt bears, is a scion of a distinguished New England family that is now represented in the Senate of the United States by Peter Gerry, of Rhode Island. Mr. Gerry is a member of the jockey club and an enthusiastic sportsman.

STARS ARE COMING

Exterminator, Devastation and Boniface are potential Eastern-owned starters in the Lexington cup. Exterminator and Boniface are now at Laurel. Exterminator was intended for the Latonia cup renewal, but former Jockey Knapp, trainer now of the stable of Willis Sharpe Kilmer, persuaded his employer to let him ship to Laurel for the Annapolis handicap, a $10,000 race, that was run the same day the Latonia cup was decided, and Exterminator was badly beaten. The Porter and My Dear finished in front of him. The great McGee gelding would have been better off at Latonia racing with H. L. Coleman, Secret Greetings and Sands of Pleasure in the Latonia cup. He would have found such horses easier to manage than he did The Porter and My Dear. Exterminator is marking time while awaiting the day of the renewal of the Bowie cup. He had just as well come to Lexington.

Devastation, a son of Wrack and Treeless, as plain as an old shoe as regards his architecture, but a distance runner of parts nevertheless, will come West with the two-year-olds Max Hirsch will bring on for the Breeders' Futurity. He has had a bit of rest and is as fresh as he was in the spring. Devastation is owned by former Sheriff Pettit, of Queen's County, New York. He was bred in Kentucky by A. B. Hancock, and developed by Hirsch.

"Pop" Geers Has Day of His Own

Wins Two Races and Is Second in Third at Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 21. — "Pop" Geers, veteran driver of the Grand Circuit, had things much his own way in the races here to-day. He was entered in three events, and he took two of them and won second place in the other. Geers piloted Lillian Silkwood to victory in the $2,500, 2.11 pace, in a desperate struggle with Walter Cox, driving Peter Kennedy, in which Geers won two heats and Cox one. The 2.11 trot, for $1,000, went to Geers, driving Dudette, and again it was Cox who furnished the place horse, this time holding the reins over Lord Frisco. The 2.08 trot, for $500, was won by Dottie Day, piloted by McDonald, with Geers second, driving Utah.

In point of public interest the best race was the 2.20 trot for Southern horses. It was unfinished when darkness intervened and the deciding heat will be raced to-morrow. Summaries:

Mullen's Fitzbingen Gelding Takes Fourth and Deciding Heat

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Oct. 21.—Excellent racing marked to-day's events, only one of which went in two heats, the 2.20 trot, in which Alla Coast II. showed the way. Although Dempsey had to hustle her at the end she won by a length. In the third heat Johnshine nipped her at the wire.

The 2.11 pace was the feature, having 10 starters and going four heats. Kate Hal was favorite in the first heat, but she could not get up to Billy Bishop, that led all the way and beat Laddie Boy a neck. Billy Bishop again headed the parade in the second but he could not stand the stretch rush of Kate Hal, the mare just beating Hallie G. Kate Hal was in front to the distance in the third, D. B. J. rushing past her. Billy Bishop surprised everybody by hanging on and winning the final by a nose.

The 2.24 trot saw Cecil M. beat Arthur Coffman an inch, in the opening heat. Red Arrow made the pace in the second, but broke and Contri Boy landed the decision. Contri Boy looked to have the third heat until a stretch break gave it to Ercle M. Summaries:

Again Postpone School Field Day

Cold Morning Yesterday Causes Another Delay in Track Trials for Public School Athletes

With the weather too cold, in the opinion of the schoolmasters, the public schools' annual field day at Queen's Park was again postponed.

This was done yesterday morning and had the authorities known that sun would beat down, as it did in the afternoon, the events would have been staged.

Now they have decided to await the first promising day and only a few hours' notice will be given.

W. TIMBERS WINS PLOWING HONORS

International Championship Goes to Stouffville Man

BIG CONTEST AT WOODSTOCK

Twenty Thousand People Witness the Closing Events

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 21.—The provincial plowing match came to its close here to-night, the third day providing the big climax. The weather was very cool, but bright and sunny, and 20,000 people at least took in the sight, while thousands of automobiles thronged the roadways and empty fields for miles in the vicinity. The big event of the day was the deciding one of the international plowing championship, and it was won by William Timbers, of Stouffville, whose plowing was of a superior quality throughout. Not only did he win the championship, but he won the handsome Cockshutt trophy, as well as the beautiful shield and cup donated by the Royal Bank.

The concluding days completed the big measure of the success which the match enjoyed. This year's match, according to J. Lockie Wilson, the managing director of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, set a new record. The entries were triple the size of those of any plowing match ever held, while the interest displayed was keenest. A rough estimate places the attendance at 50,000, which also surpasses any previous record.

DREW POOR LAND.

S. Parker, of Smithville, who won the premier honors last year, was hardly a close competitor at this event event. He figured in the prize list, but his position was fifth in the open event. However, fate played its card in a manner rather unfortunate for Mr. Parker. For in the drawing of the sections of land to be used by the different contestants he was unfortunate enough to draw probably the poorest piece of land of any.

There could be no disputing the popularity of the spectacle provided by the team of oxen, plowing with a wooden plow. Whenever and wherever it operated immense crowds looked on with deep interest. A rather interesting fact which went to draw a comparison between the old and the new was that the team of oxen was brought to the grounds in a motor truck. Once upon a time the oxen themselves were the means of transportation. To-day, through the advancement of the years, they were able to calmly enjoy a ride, with gasoline the medium which furnished the motive power.

A BIG ITEM.

The tractors were busy to-day, as they were yesterday, and the interest which was shown and the many indications of satisfaction at their work seemed to show that the farmer of to-day considers the tractor an important part of his farm equipment. To-day the Case machine carried off most of the honors, demonstrating its usefulness and ease of operation. Yesterday, in the stubble contests, the Sampson machine won the majority of the prizes.

Following is the list of prize-winners in to-day's events:

Class 1, open to all—Clark Young, Milliken; Stanley Tindall, Richmond Hill; A. E. Pay, Niagara-on-the-Lake; Frank Laidlaw, Jarvis; S. Parker, Stouffville; Leslie Keene, Jarvis.

Class 2, open to plowmen who have never won a prize at previous Ontario matches—William Timbers, Stouffville; Wm. Vansickle, Cainsville; A. E. Kennedy, Agincourt; John Beeton, Etobicoke; Obdiah, Oshwekin; J. Hargraves, Ingersoll.

Boys under 18 years—Harold Cowle, Markham.

Oxford County, under 18 years—George Miles, Norwich.

Indians only—George Garlow, Oshwekin; Nicholas Plain, Corunna; Joe Young, Christinia; Tom Brant, Deseronto; Sam Thomas, Mimico. Best crown in this event went to Harrison Anderson, Oshwekin, who had the best plowing, but finished seven minutes over the time limit.

Jointer plows (26 entries)—Ray White, Galt; N. G. McLeod, Galt; Will Bergie, Bright; D. Mitchell, Bright; E. Blair, W. L. Clark, Agincourt.

Boys' jointer, 18 and under—Wm. Hall, Ayr; Oscar Tweedie, Vlemount; Jack Moffat, Ancaster; D. Lillico, Bright; Stanley Briggs, West Flamboro.

Letters to Editor

WAGES AND RAILWAY MEN

Editor Free Press: For some time there has been a growing public interest in the reduction of freight rates in an effort to generally reduce the cost of living.

The opinions of public men expressed in their addresses before clubs, public meetings, etc., and quoted in the press from coast to coast, and the large advertisements of the railway interests in the daily press all have a tendency to mold public opinion in the belief that the railway employees are receiving exorbitant wages and that such wages are the one and only cause of the high freight rates.

In many cases account of the publicity given the opinions of these public men on this question the railway men are looked upon as the chief cause of the business depression and unemployment account of their high wage causing high freight rates, the payment of which is detrimental to the smaller manufacturer and to general business and the public at large.

Railway men are openly accused of being "hold-up men" account of the average citizen not having an opportunity to learn of their true working conditions and wages, and of the forceful, unexplained public statements made from time to time through the press, quoting rates paid to crews on individual runs.

In connection with this it will be remembered that Hon. Mr. Carvell some time ago made much capital through the press of a crew somewhere whose conductor received something over $500 for his month's service.

This statement quoting such figures gave no explanation of the miles run or hours of duty of this crew and, if correct and left unexplained, such statement is surely unfair to the railway employee.

That the public may know something of the true conditions and wages earned by men in train service and not be misguided by the unexplained statements and comments of public men through the press from time to time the following is a scale of wage and explanation of working conditions of employees in train and yard service since the reduction made effective by the railways, without arbitration, on July 16 last, and which is now being arbitrated by a board appointed for the purpose sitting at Montreal some two and one-half months after the reduction was made:

Passenger train service: Conductor, per hour, 79 cents; per day (eight hours), $6.36; per month (30 days), $190.80. Baggageman, per hour, 56 cents; per day (eight hours), $4.52; per month (30 days), $135.60. Brakeman, per hour, 54 cents; per day (eight hours), $4.36; per month (30 days), $130.80. Reduction, July 16, per hour, 8 cents; per day (eight hours), 64 cents; per month (30 days), $18.20.

Local way and switching freight service: Conductor, per hour, 79 cents; per day (eight hours), $6.32; 100 miles per day. Brakeman, per hour, 61 cents; per day (eight hours), $4.88; 100 miles per day. Reduction, July 16, 8 cents; per day, 64 cents.

Through or irregular freight service: Conductor, per hour, 72½ cents; per day (eight hours), $5.80; 100 miles per day. Brakemen, per hour, 56 cents; per day (eight hours), $4.48; 100 miles per day. Reduction, July 16, per hour, 8 cents; per day (eight hours), 64 cents.

Crews in freight service of O. K. for duty the entire month are guaranteed sufficient work to enable them to earn 28 days at $5.80 for the conductor and $4.48 for the brakemen. If required to lose a day or trip through sickness or other cause they forfeit this guarantee. Freight conductor's monthly guarantee (28 days at $5.80), $162.40. Freight brakeman's monthly guarantee (28 days at $4.48), $125.44.

This guarantee does not apply to spare or relief men, who must depend on the work offered until promoted to regular positions.

Overtime in passenger service is paid for at the regular hourly rates.

Overtime in freight service is computed according to the miles of the trip and on a speed basis of 12½ miles per hour.

When unable to complete their trip at an average speed of 12½ miles per hour crews in freight service are paid for the excess time at one and one-half times their hourly rate.

Example: A crew run 125 miles, occupy 11 hours, would receive 125 miles, 10 hours, plus one hour at time and one-half.

Yard switching service: Foreman, per hour, 79 cents; per day (eight hours), $6.32; per month (26 days), $164.32. Helper, per hour, 73 cents; per day (eight hours), $5.84; per month (26 days), $151.84. Switchmen, per hour, 55 cents; per day (eight hours), $4.40; per month (26 days), $114.40.

Overtime in yard service, when worked, is paid for at one and one-half times the hourly rate.

In order to earn the monthly wage stated for the classes mentioned it is necessary to work the following number of hours per month in each class: Passenger service, 30 days at eight hours per day, 240 hours per month; 30 days at 150 miles per day, 4,500 miles per month. Freight service, 28 days at eight hours per day, 224 hours per month; 28 days at 100 miles per day, 2,800 miles per month. Yard service, 26 days at eight hours per day, 208 hours per month.

These figures are based on the hours of duty and make no consideration of the hours spent at both the foreign and home terminals awaiting call for duty when required, unable to make any profitable use of their time, which must be devoted to the service, but for which they receive no compensation, nor are they allowed any allowance for away-from-home expenses.

When we consider the figures as stated here, and which can be verified as applicable to railway employees in train and yard service generally, in the territory east of Fort William, it is hard to understand just where Hon. Mr. Carvell found the conductor who drew something over $500 for his month's service.

There must surely be some error in his figures, for it would hardly be possible to cover miles enough or work hours enough to earn the wage stated in the monthly period.

At the highest rate paid conductors 7,000 miles or 70 eight-hour days would have to be worked to provide a wage of $480.20, and to do this it would be necessary to work 2 1-3 eight-hour days for each of the 30 days in the month, which would hardly be possible and not at all reasonable.

Such statements made public by men of Mr. Carvell's standing and let go unexplained or unquestioned surely place train service employees in a very unfair position in the forming of public opinion on a question of so great importance to every citizen.

The penalty overtime, as applied to men in freight train service, has been severely criticized as unfair and detrimental to the public, but no explanation of its purposes or benefits have been offered.

Previous to the application of the penalty overtime it was the general practice in many cases to require crews in local and switching freight service to work excessive hours in order to complete the work mapped out for the day or trip by their immediate superior officer as the program for that day or trip. Many crews were required to work 16, 18 and 20 hours on continuous duty to complete their trip and day. Railway work, and especially the handling of local switching trains, is generally recognized as one of the most hazardous occupations, and the excessive hours of duty render men physically unfit to perform their duties efficiently and safely without adding greatly to the liability of accident.

It is true that most railway working agreements permit men to claim release from duty and rest after 12 hours' continuous service, but it is also true that the men who took advantage of this privilege and demanded rest en route were looked upon with frank disfavor by their immediate superior officers on account of the interruption and delay in the work planned.

In the case of road crews on their homeward trip they would, in most cases, struggle along to their home terminal doing the work as required rather than tie up for rest in their vans but a few miles from home and thereby avoid complaints from local officers, and have their rest in comfort at home.

The penalty overtime rule has to a great extent eliminated these evils and has made the railroad game far safer for those who must follow it and for the public generally when traveling.

The work of the crews has now been arranged so that the excessive hours are avoided and local officers are criticized for the payment of overtime instead of criticizing the men for demanding rest.

The duties of train service employees require them to transport their trains from one to another terminal with safety and promptness, and in freight service especially, but few of the public have an opportunity to know just what these duties are or what responsibilities they impose.

In addition to the movement of their trains with respect to others, as provided by rule and schedule, the proper and very necessary use of protection by flagmen when required, regardless of weather conditions or physical comforts, the switching movements made that local and connecting lines' business may be handled promptly when ready, the emergencies to be encountered and overcome, there is the equally important mechanical inspection of their train, particularly its running gear with the countless bolts and keys, any of which if become defective and not detected may cause derailment, with attending damage and probable injury to passenger, fellow-employee or self.

In this connection it has been the practice for the railways from time to time to increase the power of the locomotives and consequently the number of cars hauled in each train. The trains have in many cases increased from 50 to 100 per cent., and, though they add greatly to the work, risk and responsibility of the train crew, they are handled for the same wage as the smaller ones.

The railroad man in freight service especially knows no nights, Sundays or holidays to spend with his family. His hours are irregular and his time, even while off, is devoted to the service, as he must be available for duty when required. He must accept and discharge the duties assigned to him regardless of the hour or the extreme weather conditions and often when the average citizen is retiring for the night, surrounded by the comforts of his home, the railroad man is in the thick of a blizzard with his flag, switching cars or doing any one of a number of duties that are his lot in order that the business of the country may be carried on, for were it not for the railways our industries could not live.

Railway employees must be physically fit and at regular intervals pass examinations as to their sight, sense of color and hearing. They must also pass an examination on the standard rule approved by the Government and further tests as to their knowledge of air brake and steam heat as required by the company.

Should these men, through error in judgment or oversight, commit an error, perhaps resulting in an accident, they are disciplined or dismissed by the company. If it be considered serious or attended by a fatality they are in many cases tried and punished by the civil courts for manslaughter, though they committed but an error in judgment or were guilty of an oversight, for which the average tradesman would receive censure or, at the most, dismissal.

In the case of dismissal of a tradesman he can go elsewhere and secure a position in the same class, commanding the same rate of wage and amount of work, whereas with the railway conductor, regardless of his years of service, when dismissed he must, if he is to follow his trade, start at the foot of the list elsewhere as a spare brakeman if he is physically fit to take such a position.

Whether or not the freight rates are the cause of delay in the reduction of the general cost of living is a doubtful question. The transportation charges on the several articles necessary to maintain a home surely do not cause many of them to be held at a price 100 per cent. in excess of former prices, when the total transportation charges would not total the increase and the cost of raw materials and production have increased but far less.

It would appear that the freight rates are being used as a shield to secure excess profits for those upon whom the consumer must depend for his supply.

The railway interests in Canada are advertising their employees as being ready and willing to accept the decisions of the U. S. A. Labor Board in fixing the increased scale of wages some time ago, but now very reluctant to abide by the decision of that same body when a reduction is ordered by them.

In some respects this is quite true, but it is also true that in Canada the wages set by that board were not adopted or made effective by the railways without considerable delay and negotiation, which meant a great loss to the employees, for the cost of living had been greatly increased long previous.

The reductions ordered by the U. S. A. Labor Board and made effective by Canadian railways without arbitration and against the wishes of the employees, on July 16 last, were based on the cost of living in the United States, and there is a vast difference to-day in the cost of living in the two countries.

Trusting that the public may give this question due consideration and consider not only the question or rates but also the general conditions under which railroad men are required to work and live, the responsibilities they must assume, the risks they must run, and compare their wage with that of any ordinary laborer or any tradesman of your acquaintance on an hourly or daily basis, and then draw your own conclusion as to the justification for a reduction.

UNEMPLOYMENT IN SWITZERLAND

Is Now Seven Times As Bad As Year Ago—Many Industries Subsidized.

BERNE, Oct. 19.—Unemployment in Switzerland, which is more than seven times as bad as a year ago, costs the state now 10,000,000 francs monthly, while the provision for the totally unemployed has cost the country 5,000,000 francs monthly for the past year. The Government has just asked Parliament for 86,000,000 francs for paying the unemployed to execute various public works, such as draining the plains, repairing railways and making roads, and Parliament has already granted 50,000,000 francs for this purpose.

Besides this the watch industry is being subsidized to the extent of 20,000,000 francs, and immediately this was decided a number of other distressed industries likewise asked Parliament for subsidies. Thus the hotelkeeping, bookmaking, embroideries and cotton working industries all want state aid. Finally the Swiss professional orchestras have asked assistance from Parliament, which has ganted it, and the municipal theaters likewise asked help, which Parliament refused.

The cause of unemployment and general distress is mainly attributed to the continued high value of the Swiss franc, which prevents Switzerland from exporting her manufactures and makes it too expensive for persons from other nations with depreciated currency to visit Swiss resorts, or give orders to Swiss firms. Swiss bankers declare that they cannot explain why Swiss money continues so high, for Switzerland's financial condition is not any better than that of many of these countries.

A telegraph messenger has been arrested for speeding says a contemporary, but so far no plumber has thus smudged his record.

DR. CHASE Has Taught the People How to Keep Well

TIME was when the family physician was the most prominent character in the community.

A man of intelligence and ability, he commanded confidence and respect, and sacrificed his time, strength and pleasure for those who needed his care and skill.

These were the conditions when, after graduating from the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, Dr. A. W. Chase settled down to practise his profession in that well-known college town.

Every Man His Own Physician

But the doctor soon got the idea that people should know how to look after their own common ills, and set about in a large way to supply them with the necessary information.

By means of his Receipt Book, the circulation of which has since run into millions, and his well-known Almanac and booklets of many kinds, Dr. Chase has spread throughout the civilized world the gospel of "Every Man His Own Physician."

This plan enabled the doctor to devote his attention to more serious cases, and he soon became known far and wide as a specialist in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys, the liver, the heart and other vital organs of the human system.

The Dr. Chase Plan of Health

To reach patients at a distance, the doctor had his most successful prescriptions put up in handy form for mailing. In time the demand became so great that the doctor decided to give these great medicines to the public, and arranged for their sale through the drug trade throughout Canada and the United States.

In this way Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Nerve Food, Ointment, Linseed and Turpentine, Catarrh Powder, and other medicines found their way into general use, until now one or more of them is found in almost every home in the land.

Home Medicines

With these time-tried medicines at hand, you can feel that you are protected against the common ills of life by the most effective treatments which Dr. Chase was able to discover during a long life of diligent study and research.

Confidence in Dr. Chase

Founded on His Integrity of Character and the Unusual Merits of His Medicines.

If there was ever a physician who commanded the confidence of his patients that physician was DR. CHASE.

No one could meet him and converse with him without realizing that he was a man of skill, who was in love with his profession and only anxious to relieve the suffering and disease of his fellowmen.

You cannot read the famous Dr. Chase's Receipt Book without appreciating the untiring zeal of its author in searching out the best receipts and prescriptions which were known to the medical profession.

When his attention was turned to selecting medicines to be placed on the market for public sale it was with whole-souled effort that he tested out the prescriptions which he considered most suitable for this purpose.

And so it is that the integrity of character which marked the efforts of DR. CHASE are indelibly stamped on every medicine which bears his portrait and signature, and people have learned to have the utmost confidence in them because of the splendid results which they have accomplished.

GAELIC PERPETUATED IN IRISH COLLEGES

DUBLIN, Ireland, Oct. 21.—While the Scottish are allowing the Gaelic gradually to cease as a spoken language it is gaining ground in Ireland with astonishing rapidity. Census returns for Scotland show that the 18,000 Gaelic-speaking population has now diminished to 10,000. The number of bilinguists in Scotland has become less by 18 per cent. in the same period.

As there was no census taken in Ireland this year no definite figures may be quoted, but a prominent Irish scholar was recently heard to say that, judging from the progress now being made, Gaelic will be the language of the country in another generation. In the Dublin college alone there were 350 students last session, not including those who attended classes and special courses at other schools in the city, and entries for this session already show a large increase.

Similar colleges are established throughout the land, and, regardless of repression, are carrying on their work. This year 3,000 teachers attending the Gaelic classes in the colleges were granted certificates of efficiency in the language.

It is of interest to note that the evening institutes of the London County Council have added Gaelic to their curriculum and have employed a number of Irish women to teach it.

TO STICK TO DEPENDENCY BASIS FOR PENSIONS

PORT ARTHUR, Oct. 21.—If you get away from the basis of dependency in the Pensions Act you are killing the goose that laid the golden egg, declared Col. Margeson, chairman of the pensions board, at the opening of this morning's session of the G. W. V. A. convention.

The convention was discussing a clause recommending that no deduction be made from the pension of a widowed mother on account of incomes derived by her from any other source. The clause was deleted from the pensions resolution after lengthy discussion.

If the country departed from the basis of dependency the act would keep on widening until the principle of dependency failed, and there would be a repetition of what had taken place as a result of the civil war in the United States. The veterans were asking for pensions for women who were not dependent at all.

QUASHES CONFISCATION OF TECUMSEH LIQUOR

TORONTO, Oct. 21. — Mr. Justice Masten at Osgoode Hall to-day quashed the order for confiscation of 22 cases of liquor which were addressed to Charles Menard at Tecumseh, Ont. It will probably remain with the department of the attorney-general as to what disposition will be made of the liquor. In an affidavit Menard points out that he ordered the liquor through his brother-in-law in Tecumseh, as he was ordering some for himself. Inadvertently Menard's order was addressed to Tecumseh instead of to Windsor, where he lives. The liquor inspector not being able to find Charles Menard at Tecumseh considered it was a fictitious name and address.

Counsel for Menard stated that it was seized without his client ever having a hearing about the matter. Mr. Menard in his affidavit states it was for his own personal use and not for a violation of the O. T. A.

This is a Studebaker Year

Study the LIGHT-SIX feature by feature —then consider the new low price!

THIS remarkable light-weight six-cylinder car combines all that we believe the critical owner expects in an automobile. It was built up to that expectation. And because it is manufactured complete in the Studebaker plant with middlemen's profits eliminated—Studebaker is able to offer it today at the new low price.

At all driving speeds the LIGHT-SIX is remarkably free from vibration. Its powerful 40-horsepower motor is an exclusive Studebaker design—built complete in Studebaker factories. The flexibility—the power—and the economy (21 to 26 miles to the gallon) of the LIGHT-SIX motor are qualities not to be found in the average six-cylinder car.

You can have the advantage of this motor's wonderful gasoline economy and the satisfaction of its smoothness of operation only by owning a Studebaker LIGHT-SIX.

No motor car ever before offered to the public has represented so much in automobile values as the LIGHT-SIX at the new price. SEE this remarkable car. DRIVE in it. KNOW why Studebaker refers to it as "The World's Greatest Light-weight Automobile."

PAPER STOCKS CONTINUE GAINS

Reopening of Riordon Mills Affects Toronto Market

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Paper stocks continued their recovery to-day on the Canadian stock markets. The reopening of the Riordon Company's mill at Kipawa turned out to be a considerable market influence and was followed by publication of a letter from the company, asking creditors to grant a year's extension and stating that orders for the output of the mill are now being taken.

There was much local interest in the announcement of the reopening of the mill and the stock of old Riordon reappeared in the active list in both markets, though only for nominal turnover. Sales were made here at 5, an advance of 1½ points. Besides the Riordon case there was further evidence of increased demand for paper. The Spanish River Company is reported to be operating fully, the already increased demand having been greater this week from the emergency of the threatened railway strike. Spanish River was active on both exchanges, selling at 61, an advance of three points since the last sale two days ago.

Interest returned to the bank stocks from the declaration of additional bonuses. These declarations follow the procedure of last year in all cases and are for the year rather than for the current quarter.

The general sentiment of to-day's trading was assisted by the strength shown by Wall street, where the market continued firm nearly all day. There were, however, a few reactions, including Canadian Pacific, both issues of Canada Steamships, Ontario Steel Products and Toronto Railway. Canada Cement and Consumers Gas, on the other hand, were firmer.

Total sales: Listed stocks, 892 shares; unlisted stocks, 350 shares; bond and war loans, $64,100.

City News

DEFECTIVE FLUE CAUSES FIRE.—A cottage at the corner of Pall Mall street and the C. P. R. right-of-way caught fire at 11 a. m. to-day. A defective flue was given as the cause. The fire was extinguished after doing considerable damage.

SHORT SESSIONS.—Four cases of minor importance were soon disposed of at a short session of the police court this morning. Two drunks admitted the allegation and a motorist and a vag were easily satisfied.

TRUCK DAMAGED.—A truck owned by the Steele Fruit Company was badly wrecked when it came in collison this morning with a car driven by Cecil Roberts, of the Base Line. The accident occurred at 11.40 and no one was injured. Another accident happened in front of the courthouse when a motor was jammed against a street car.

CLOSE ROAD, SOUTH LAMBETH—The provincial highway leading from London through Lambeth to Delaware has been opened to traffic. The highway south of Lambeth to St. Thomas will be closed for a few days yet as paving operations south of the village are not completed. The road is being paved for about half a mile west and south of Lambeth, and the west section has just been opened.

BUILDING PERMITS.—Building permits for the month of October to-day total $142,880. Larger permits issued yesterday include one to Mrs. Susan Hill for a stucco cottage on Argyle street to cost $2,500. E. Hill is the contractor. W. M. Fallon is remodeling a one-and-one-half-story stable into a residence on Ashland street. The cost is stated at $1,500. L. Wong is making alterations in his Richmond street restaurant to cost $2,000.

NOT AN APPLICANT FOR JOB.—William Johnston, a returned soldier and a member of the Great War Veterans, denies that he is an applicant for the position of governor of the county jail. This information was given to The Free Press by an official of the War Veterans, but Mr. Johnston states that he is under the doctor's care and that his health would not permit of him taking any such position, even if he desired to do so.

HEAR PETITIONS.—The Ontario Government will hear the petitions of provincial municipalities with regard to their share of police court fines on November 2. The conference will be held in the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, at noon on the date mentioned. Delegates will be appointed by the City Council to attend the conference. SUGAR BEETS MOVING.—Several hundred cars of sugar beets are being shipped by the beet growers of Western Ontario to the sugar refineries. The Canadian Pacific Railway officials state that the movement of sugar beets is heavy at the present time and that many cars are being used for this work. The Grand Trunk Railway officials also report that the freight department is handling a large quantity of beets.

FOIL BANK ROBBERS.—E. R. Dennis is interested in a recent invention by which it is believed bank hold-ups may be prevented. The device consists of steel plates fixed on pivots and placed in front of a teller's and other bank officials' windows. Ordinarily these plates occupy a horizontal position through which business may be transacted. But the minute the demand, "Put up your hands!" is heard the official thus held up presses a button with his foot and the shutters fly together instantaneously. The steel plates would protect from a revolver shot, and a small hole is placed conveniently for return fire. The invention is being perfected and may be put on the market within a short while.

The finish of the bout was one of the most spectacular witnessed in this city, Crouse being dragged to his corner after the referee's decision. He partially revived, and in a half-crazed condition rushed at MsTigus to start fighting again, but the referee and spectators held him off.

GRAND TRUNK FLYER KILLS TWO-YEAR CHILD

Little Boy Was Track-Walking When Train Hit Him.

CHATHAM, Oct. 22.—(Special to The Free Press.)—A distressing accident happened about a mile from Jeanette's Creek yesterday afternoon at 5.45 when Raymond Brusso, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brusso, was struck by the Grand Trunk eastbound flyer due here at 5.20 and instantly killed.

The Brusso home is situated in close proximity to the Grand Trunk tracks, and the child got on the railway property from the rear of his home. He was starting off to meet some school children who were coming down the track on their way home when the train struck him. The accident was particularly unfortunate in view of the fact that only a short time ago Mr. and Mrs. Brusso lost their twin children through death.

Dr. Bell, of Merlin, was notified and ordered an inquest, which will be held on Monday, October 31, at Jeanette's Creek.

SIR GEORGE ADVISES STUDENTS TO TAKE AN INTEREST IN POLITICS

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Sir George E. Foster, addressing a large body of students of the University of Toronto in Hart House to-day, said he appeared before the students as a politician, not as a partisan, there being a great difference between the two. The term, "politician," had come to be one of opprobrium, he said, yet the term "politics, in its genesis and best sense, is a synonym for all that is finest in human enterprise and activity."

Sir George urged the students to take an interest in public affairs, but deplored the strife of political parties.

"The older I grow," he said, "the more I realize that lack of co-operation between our political parties is reacting upon Canadian life, socially, morally and spiritually, in a harmful manner."

Sir George urged those of the students who had votes "to utilize them as wisely as possible," and added: "No one can go through life these days without taking some interest in public life and activities. You cannot afford to ignore public opinion."

The students gave Sir George Foster a hearty reception.

A Worth-While Thought

From the sermon, "Better a Living Dog Than a Dead Lion," to be given in First Presbyterian Church to-morrow by the pastor, the Rev. Colonel William Beattie:

The writer of the Book of Ecclesiastes says many strange and pertinent things, many of them of a pessimistic hue, some of them black with the pessimism of despair. He has been writing with the timeless problem of the prosperity of the wicked and poverty of the good. He can see no solution of the problem, but, like Job, who cried out, "Though thou slay me yet will I trust Thee," he believes that the last word has not been said when despair cries out, "All is vanity." He says, "Give God time to finish His work." He will work out the will of His people. And with this returning of faith the dark skies open just a little and the sunshine of his optimism breaks forth in the "joy of living." "Better a living dog than a dead lion."

To be living is to be in the way of doing things, to be in the place of service. Service, says Christ, is the road to true greatness. "He that would be greatest among you must be servant of all." What, then, of the empty greatness of the prosperous wicked! Why worry over the problem so long as we may serve?

The contrast between the living and the dead made by this Old Testament writer is quite in keeping with the Old Testament times, when death was very much a shutting of the door. It is the Old Testament that we see life and death put in their proper light and relationship. One is not the enemy, but the climax and the fulfilment of the other. "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain," said Paul, "for I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for men the crown of righteousness." Think of it, not a crown of gold but a crown of perfected goodness.

International Sunday School Lesson
"The Dignity of the Doomed"

BY WM. T. ELLIS.

*The International Sunday School Lesson for October 23 is "Paul's Last Journey to Jerusalem."—Acts xxi.: 1-17.

Dying Russians are facing their fate quietly, with a primitive dignity that awes Western beholders. I have seen the same quality in the starving Chinese. In noble souls the presence of peril, or the sure approach of disaster, calls forth the finest qualities. Those of us who experienced the air raids of London and Paris learned deep lessons in how various types of persons behave in danger. Most of us know men or women smitten with incurable diseases: and their strong serenity is a chastening spectacle. Franklin Lane's "I accept," as he faced the inevitable, ran like a tonic injection through the whole social arterial system of our Western world.

Beneath all the superficialities of our times lies this noble spirit of strong and simple resignation. Many millions are studying it, this week, specifically in the case of the Apostle Paul; but it was not distinctive of him, exclusively. He shared it with a multitude of persons now living and with others long dead. It was the hall-mark of that noblest Hero of eternity, the sensitive Lord Jesus, who went unblinkingly to a cross which He did not deserve and could easily have escaped. Jesus and Paul are in the forefront of the fraternity of the fearless. They are captains of the goodly company of the dauntless-souled.

Crises only reveal character; they do not create it. Paul was in his great hour only the consummation of what he had been through the years. Small-spirited, self-indulgent souls are the ones that scream and struggle and shame their spiritual birthright in hours of calamity. It is those who have lived greatly who die gloriously. A person's nature is not transformed in extreme experiences. Facing Jerusalem, with the sure testimony that bonds and afflictions lay that way, Paul could declare to the weeping elders at Miletus, "I hold not my life of any account as dear unto myself, so that I may accomplish my course and the ministry which I received from the Lord Jesus; to testify to the grace of God." That is, pain or pleasure, life or death, were relatively unimportant: duty was all.

OUR MISGUIDED FRIENDS.

Counsels of caution and cowardice, rather than of courage, are commonly to be expected from friends. When the comrades of the great apostle desired him to dodge his doom, they were running true to friendship's form. Rare is the loved one who will incite us to do the difficult, the daring, the desperate deed. The devil who in the wilderness tempted the Master to take the easy way to dominion now does his work through friends who usually give the same sort of advice. Paul's disciples and associates tried to deter him from the dangerous course, little thinking what a moral collapse it would have been for that doughty old soldier, now grown gray on perils, to turn his back upon any hardship.

Alas, that our best friends should be our worst tempters! Yet so it is. Why is the complaint so general to-day that the youth of our generation is "soft" and pleasure-loving and lacking in high purpose? Simply because parents, with misguided affection, want their sons to "have a good time." Life is made too easy for modern young people. The stern rigors of discipline; the pre-eminence of principle, which ever puts duty above desire; the necessity for self-denial and laborious tasks—these are not the fashion to-day. Parents are no longer Spartan; we love well, but not wisely. Therefore, youth spends more time at the dance than at books. Our love for our own is not great enough to hold them hardly to their highest and most heroic possibilities. We persuade them not to go up to any Jerusalem where we know suffering awaits them.

Those friends of Paul, like most other friends, failed in friendship's highest function: for a man's best friend is the one who helps him to be his best self.

ON TO JERUSALEM!

In a gush of agony, the venerable man who was the center of all this prophecy and pleading harrated in our lesson Scripture cried: "What do ye, weeping and breaking my heart? For I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus."

A peep into the Greek original of this story reveals the interesting fact that the phrase, "breaking my heart," means not "causing me grief," but rather "impairing my purpose; breaking down my resolution." Paul was not agonizing because his friends were giving him grief, but because they were seeking to destroy his decision, interfering with his determination to do his duty. The apostle cared more for his task than for his comfort.

Surely, here was "a man of blood and iron"—to use a phrase misapplied to a personal affection: what a human figure Paul is in this narrative! This is not mere philosopher or propagandist, or theologian or ecclesiastic, but a friendly comrade, warm and glowing in his personal relations with individuals, whose heart dripped blood for those he loved. But he was a man of iron, too—with a will that even such an avalanche of misguided devotion could not break. Jerusalem was his destination and his duty: to Jerusalem he would go, and neither foes nor friends could stop him.

Thank God for the persons who are going somewhere! In a day of drifters we exult in men who have convictions and courage and who keep steadfastly on to great goals, however much the fashions change. Such are the hope of our troubled time.

The man who is really going somewhere always takes others along, or leads them after him. To the credit of the friends who tried to dissuade Paul from going to Jerusalem, be it recorded that they went with him, in spite of the dangers ahead which they saw so clearly. Something of their leader's heroic spirit entered their own hearts. Always the best method of getting others to do the right thing, even when it is difficult, is to go straightforwardly on doing it ourselves.

"WE WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE."

When seen in the light of a near eternity life takes on true proportions. Then it is that first things stand out as first. The man who approaches death with a clear intelligence is able to appraise values. How all our lives would be transformed could we but see them from the brink of the grave! Many present opinions would be reversed. Perhaps things for which we are sorry would then take the place of other things of which we are proud.

This man Paul, facing Jerusalem and death, was able to declare—and how much sublimer this utterance than any affirmation of wealth or power or grandeur!—"I am pure from the blood of all men. For I shrank not from declaring unto you the whole counsel of God. . . . I coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel. Ye yourselves know that these hands ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me."

Happy is the man who, about to die, does not have to fill his closing hours with repinings. There is a rare dignity about the passing of a noble soul unashamed. The finest reward of life comes at the end. "Death tests all." If youth were wise, it would safeguard in the present what will in the future be its past. Then it can face any fate unafrighted.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian has for its slogan 100 teen age Sunday school boys organized into Trail Rangers and Tuxis groups. A boys' work board is in operation in the church. Rev. F. W. K. Harris, in charge of the work, will be assisted by Messrs. Ward Casselman, Dr. R. C. Dearle, Cameron Wilson, Emerson Nichols and others.

Men Required To Lead Boys' S. S. Classes

Are Able To Understand Youths and Look After Week-Day Activities.

BY L. M. HOULDING.

We acknowledge that religious education is fundamental to Christian democracy. The need of Christian leadership, therefore, is beyond computation. Who should be the leader of the boys in the Sunday school? Long experience has taught me to always appeal for a man.

There are three reasons why men directly connected with boys' work challenge men to lead Sunday school classes of boys.

The first arises through the call to meet the religious educational needs of the boy other than 30 minutes a week on Sundays. There should be contact with the group at least once during the week and the leader on Sunday should unquestionably be with them to guide, counsel and direct.

To have the class is not sufficient. It must have a program looking towards the all round development of the boy. The Sunday schools are accepting and promoting the Canadian standing efficiency training (C. S. E. T.) program and the Boy Scouts. They major on the former because it carries the boy through the Trail Ranger age, 12-15, right on into the Tuxis years of 16-20, and because it is better adapted for the Sunday school class work.

The second argument might be stated as manly knowledge. The leader has been a boy who has had to pass through all the complex experiences of boyhood. He has experienced all the boy's hopes and fears, failures and triumphs, joys and pains. He has fished, gone swimming, played games and eaten all the forbidden fruits of a boy's inquisitive nature. He has been one of a gang, had a boy's temptations and has gone through the tragedies of the disappointments of youth

The third reason can be more briefly stated as the manly idea. The teacher is working with an extremely active mind, quick to sense the sex attitude of interpreting the lesson. Especially is this true of the 'teen age boys. These chaps are hero-worshippers, ambitious, idealistic. He wants to tackle the impossible task and scorns anything of the gentle type.

Into their class comes a successful young man with every stamp and faculty of the type the boys admire. He teaches on Sunday, but he goes further and enters into the boys' lives during the week and puts cast and plan into their mid-week class activities. Their new worship embraces him at once and his personality becomes theirs, his knowledge of the word of God becomes theirs' and his sympathetic understanding of their problems will enable him to parallel their lives together, teacher and class.

HARVEST.

This I believe; we tend to grow our dreams
No matter how remote fulfillment seems.

It matters not the drought or storm that yields
Small hope of promise for the harvest fields.

Have we the faith amid the parching heat
To glimpse the small, green blades upthrusting sweet.

And smile secure through driving winds and hail
In simple trust, too deep of root to fail.

Then I believe that somehow, soon or late,
There comes reward to dreamer-souls that wait;

To each who dared to hold the vision plain,
There dawns his golden fields of bending grain.
—Martha Haskell Clark, in Good Housekeeping.

PREMIER'S ANALYSIS OF FEDERAL ISSUES ROUSES "HOME TOWN"

Effective Denunciation of Crerar and King Tariff Policies Marks Address at St. Marys

HOLDS WARM PLACE IN HEARTS OF COMMUNITY

Elaborate Decorations Show Desire to Do Him Honor; Reception Is Held After Meeting

ST. MARYS, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter)—Premier Meighen fills a wonderfully big place in the esteem and kindly regard of the people in the community which was his boyhood home. The cordiality with which St. Marys has received him on several occasions since he became prominent in public life was shown again this afternoon, when he addressed a large meeting at the rink here, in the course of his political campaign. That "home town" atmosphere drew him into a kindly reference to other days, but the premier's subsequent presentation of federal issues was none the less conscientious in detail, and was more than usually effective in its unsparing denunciation of the Crerar and King tariff planks. For the first time on his Western Ontario tour he dealt with the Government's expenditure for defense purposes, showing how small is that amount in comparison with the outlay of any other country.

WHERE OPPOSITION LEADS.

The premiers analysis of the Opposition's fiscal proposals, and his summing up of their inevitable trade consequences, was received with prolonged applause.

"The whole policy of Mr. Wood and Mr. Crerar," he said, "is a policy to absorb Canadian industries in the far mightier industries across the line, and the only consequence to the farming industry would be the loss of a good part of the home market, that takes 85 per cent. of your produces, and you would soon find yourselves, as far as your purchases go, paying whatever the American corporations decided you ought to pay, and the Government of this country would have no jurisdiction over these corporations whatsoever. I repeat the words of Sir Henry Drayton this afternoon: 'I do not appeal for a vote because I was born and raised here. The only thing I hope for is that you have some knowledge of who I am and what I am. (Applause). But I appeal for your support on this ground, and this ground only, that we are on the right line, the solid rock, on this subject, and they who oppose us are either going to bring on industrial disaster or else place on the pages of our history as black an infamy as ever was perpetrated."

Sir Henry Drayton addressed his first meeting of the campaign this afternoon and presented the Government's record in interesting fashion, from the intimate viewpoint of finance from the intimate viewpoint of finance minister, Dr. M. Steele, candidate and late member in South Perth, also delivered an able address, which included a warm tribute to the ability of the premier. Wesley Switzer presided as chairman and was reminiscent in introducing the prime minister.

USED TO BE "ART."

"Years ago," he said, 'it was Arthur Meighen and Art Switzer, Bert Uren, D. A. Stanley and our late friend, Dr. Baird, Perce Coupland and others, all boys together, growing up jolly good fellows. Our friend was one of them. We appreciate his coming to St. Marys now that he is premier."

Mr. Meighen was met by a large number of citizens, including many old friends, on his arrival by train from London, and a procession of motor cars to the rink was head by St. Marys Kiltie Band. The unusually elaborate decorations of platform and hall showed the desire of the premier's home town to do him honor. After his meeting Mr. Meighen was the center of an informal reception, which continued until it was necessary for him to take the train for Stratford, and the band played him away again.

SCHOOL BOYS YELL.

During the informal reception on the premier's arrival at the station St. Marys Collegiate boys gave a demonstration of their school yell and Dr. P. T.Coupland put on a similar "stunt" at the rink ,when he led the great audience in this one: "Premier Meighen! Premier Meighen! Premier Meighen! Our Arthur!" The crowd gave the prime minister a fine tribute of cheering and applause as he came forward to speak and the little daughter of Mayor Brandon presented a bouquet, which was acknowledged with a kiss.

"I am sincerely glad to be in St. Marys," said Mr. Meighen, "and sorry only that I have to make a speech. Otherwise I could enjoy myself, indeed. My pleasure is keen, but the sense of restraint still surrounds me when I come back to this old familiar scene. I am glad to have presiding over the meeting not only one who was a school friend, but one who frequently helped me with his pony to reach the school on the hill I attended so long. The faces in front of me are familiar, but if I am to address you on public issues I must forget that and address myself the task that is mine this afternoon.

"I am charged with having destroyed representative government. Would you have believed that any one could arise out of St. Marys who could destroy responsible government! Not a million men, though they were tyrants like Caligula, could destroy that in a thousand years. Mr. King says I grabbed the reigns of power just like Lenine and Trotzky, only by legislative force instead of physical. There is quite a difference. I had a majority of an elective body, and what other authority has any leader? But never mind, we will leave trifles to triflers."

A FALSE CHARGE.

Referring here, as he said, by request, to the false charge that he had called the Farmers party "Bolshevists," the premier repeated his actual expression in this connection, namely, that that party "had trailing behind it and allied with it those who harbored seditious principles, and would practice them if they could."

"Those words were true then," said the premier, "and their truth has been demonstrated since. The organ that criticized me most, The Edmonton Bulletin, has since told its readers that I turned out to be right. You know what is going on in Ontario to-day, this effort to link up with the I.L.P. in the cities, to get people in the towns to vote for some one who will be with them against the Government if they get in. Is there one in front of me who doubts that what I stated there was correct to the letter.

"If what is common to both the Crerar and King platforms were put in effect just as they are I say you have dealt a blow to this Dominion from the staggering efforts of which you would not get over as long as you labor and toil here. That is why we have a tariff issue. Not only did they demand that these things be done, but carried by-elections in the West on it, and swept Provincial Governments from power, and showed such a strength that the employing community of this country became uneasy as to what was going to happen after the election, and when you have the employing community unsettled you are going to have unsettled business conditions, and men out of work.

"I would like you to mention what I have done that I am not ready to defend here, now. (Applause). What is there I have run away from? Mr. King says, that some directors of the national railway have other businesses. So have the directors of the C.P.R. How can I get for this board business men who have no businesses? If Mr. King will say any single director has used his position to get business for his company, Mr. King will get an investigation so fast he cannot run away from it. You will notice he doesn't say that, and in fact, in Toronto, fortified himself with the assertion that he did not charge any wrongdoing at all."

DEFENSE EXPENDITURE.

Mr. Meighen answered criticism of defense expenditure, pointing out that Canada's outlay is $2.15 per capita as against $12.30 per head of 110,000,000 population in the United States, $6.13 in Australia, and $22.36 in Great Britain.

"We are bearing for home defense," he said, "one-tenth of what our brothers overseas are bearing, and one-third that of other dominions, and yet are charged by Mr. Crerar with extravagance. Do you think he knows anything about it? (A voice, "No"). It would be $60,000,000 if we paid the same proportion as Australia, and nearly $200,000,000 if we paid the same proportion as Great Britain."

With reference to the merchant marine, the premier recalled how critics of to-day were supporters of the shipbuilding project when it was carried out, and added, "any Government that operates 22,000 miles of railway, the largest system in the world, must have a mercantile marine to receive its traffic, and the mercantile marine of this country has opened trade routes to world markets we would never otherwise have reached, and there are those men employed in this country who would be out of work if we had not these trade channels opened.

"You have gone seven-eighths of the way toward free trade if you put in effect Mr. Crerar's first 'easy stage,' and does anybody know where you are going to stop after that? Are you going to put cement on the free list? Mr. King says his platform is a 'chart,' and that what he does about it if returned to power depends upon what he is advised by the wisest heads about him. Why not get the advice now? He has a promissory note against him in these tariff pledges, and he must repudiate it before anybody negotiates it or be guilty of political perfidy. He would not repudiate it, because he wants to use it in the West."

LIBERAL TRUSTS OUT

"He said last night the tariff had fostered a lot of combines and trusts in Canada. He mentioned one or two, and I don't know of any that were not in existence prior to 1911. But if our tariff fostered them, what was the parent combine in England. They had no protective tariff until last year, and their big businesses are five or six times the size of ours, and there are many more of them. His voice is that of a demagogue who, facing the people who work to earn everything they eat and wear, seeks to turn them against us by saying that we are in with trusts and combines.

"We have the largest per capita export trade in the world, and that does not look as if we made a mistake in 1878; and that would not be true if we had only a few small businesses competing on a small scale with the immense concerns over the line."

DR. STEELE

"This splendid meeting bears testimony to the interests the riding has in this campaign," said Dr. M. Steele, "and especially to the interest you have in the prime minister. We welcome him again to his old home, among his old friends, and I am positive that when he leaves you the number of his friends will have been greatly increased and the number of his admirers much augmented. I am satisfied when you hear him and know him, and search his record, you will give him the support which his followers in Parliament, who know him best, have thus far given him. The prime minister appeals to you on his record, and I wish to emphasize that, for sometimes he is criticized for attempting to draw the attention of the people to the one great question before them to-day, the fiscal issue. I know his record, and I assure you it is open to you, and he is appealing to you on that as well as his policies."

Sir Henry Drayton was given three cheers all for himself.

"I know you realize what Arthur Meighen is to Canada," he said, "and what this country has done in giving Canada Arthur Meighen. (Applause). As chief tax-gatherer of this Dominion, I come before you to-day as chief nuisance. Whoever is on the job is going to have some collecting to put in effect, to bring about what we all desire to have brought about, a condition in this country which will give the fullest equal opportunity to trade, commerce and employment generally.

BIG EXPENDITURES

"We have spent over two billion dollars, in the main without the public accounts committee being called, and without a single divided report by that committee, and that means that the bitterest partisan on that committee, when faced with the evidence and the facts, has had to be silent. It is a pity very often that the same restraining influences cannot be carried into the country, but that is the fact. It is indeed a new thing, Mr. Chairman, for any party in power for the length of time this party has been, to be able to face the electorate without a single adverse vote of any kind in the public accounts committee, and to come with clean hands, as Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen has come.

"If the old method of bookkeeping had been followed, and railway advances and payments treated as investments, and if there had been no war payments to be made by the Government — if you had these conditions, with the expenses mounting as they did during the war, we would yet have reduced the public debt of this country by $115,000,000, and that on capital account alone.

"After all, every Government cannot be wrong, and our experience of cost is similar to that of every Government in the world. I venture to tell you now that we are far better off in comparison with any other Government that had anything like the same percentage of representation and work to do in the war. But supposing we take, not capital cost, because capital payments ought to represent added assets, but ordinary payments, the only fair thing to do Those of New Brunswick increased since 1914 by 99 per cent., in Quebec 56 per cent., and in Ontario 119 per cent. In the whole of Canada the increase was 21 per cent. What do you think of that showing? How many businesses would be only too glad to be able to make such a statement?

MR. CRERAR'S TAX PLANS

"What has Mr. Crerar been shouting for? Direct taxation, income taxation, any taxation that gives you a fresh plaster you haven't had. We don't want to have high taxes on anything, anywhere. It is nothing to boast about. The Government that gets along with the least amount of taxation is the best Government, but the Government that has to face the obligation of discharging the duties of Canada and maintaining the status of the country is recreant to its duty if it does not tax to the full the extent necessary to tax for that purpose, and can place these taxes where they can be most easily paid.

"We have collected $62,000,000 in income taxes up to the first of October this year. Do you hear much commendation for the Meighen Government from the big interests. If you read the financial papers on one side and The Grain Growers' Guide on the other, you will be sure we are just about right. Mr. Crerar, who talks 'big interests,' was in the Government as long as I have been. He has a better nose for big interests than I, if he found any, or else they recognize their man more quickly. I don't know, but I wish he would give us definitely the name of this bogey. Of course, it is largely a matter of geography. Big business in the West, according to Mr. Crerar, is a beautiful thing, and the bigger it is the more sacred. (Applause).

"We fear nothing in the tariff issue so long as it be judged on the facts. We fear nothing in this issue so long as it is understood, because we know that no man and no woman understanding it is going to vote for a policy which would hurt Canada. We are sure Canada knows [illegible] we should buy more and break down the tariff [illegible]

Meighen Sits In Same Chair Sir John Used

ST. MARYS, Oct. 21.—(By Staff Reporter.)—More than 30 years ago Sir John A. Macdonald expounded the National Policy to Perth electors in this town. This afternoon a new and younger prime minister proclaimed the benefits of tariff protection, and as he sat upon the platform at St. Marys Rink, Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen used the same easy chair which Sir John did on the occasion referred to many years ago. This link with an historic occasion is the property of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Gilpin, of St. Marys, who provided the chair from their home. Although Mr. Gilpin is 96, and his good wife 94, both were present this afternoon, as well as Mrs. Atkinson, of Anderson, aged more than 80, and a number of other elderly people who share in the pride of this community in having given a premier to the Dominion. A large framed picture of "John A." in front of the speaker's table gave an additional "N. P." tone to the big meeting.

TALL GIRLS HAVE THE BEST CHANCE IN MOTION PICTURES

Tall girls and young, who have dejectedly concluded that their more than average height or weight precludes their ever being as beautiful or attractive as their smaller sisters, should read these few remarks by and about Betty Blythe, who has gained fame in "Queen of Sheba" and who is regarded as one of the most beautiful women on the screen.

Miss Blythe is tall—five feet eight inches in the flattest of flat heels, which she never wears for reasons which she gives below. To continue with statistics, she is much above average weight—about 150 pounds.

Rather than considering her height as a detriment to beauty, Miss Blythe regards it as a distinct asset and declares that any tall girl has an advantage over the woman of average inches and build.

"Tall women are primarily individual," she declares. "There are 100 average women to every one of more than average height. Therefore, the tall woman has a big advantage to start with. Without taking any other elements into consideration she is distinctive because of her height, while 100 other average women are all more or less alike."

Miss Blythe never makes an effort to keep her height down to a minimum by wearing low-heeled shoes. The inch, or even two, that may be added by high heels she regards as more than compensated for by the additional charm of appearance and grace of carriage afforded by the French heel.

Nor does she coif her hair as closely to her head as possible in order to minimize her inches.

"The most infallible way to call attention to your height is to wear low-heeled shoes," she explains. "When people notice a low-heeled evening slipper they immediately look for the cause, and usually discover it. Besides, low heels display the ankle to bad advantage and lend no support to the arches.

"As for high coiffures, the tall girl is exactly the person who can wear them. If a little short girl piles her hair high on top of her head it is overbalancing. When a tall girl does it the proportion is perfect and the effect usually very charming. That is just one example of the individuality that belongs to the tall girl and not to the average woman."

SAYS POPULATION 38,530.

WINDSOR, Oct. 21.—According to figures prepared by Assessment Commissioner Black the population of Windsor is now 38,530, or 500 more than the census returns showed. The city's assessment has been increased by $4,367,299 since last year, when the total on lands, buildings and [illegible] was $53,334,851.

CANADIAN SCHOONER WINS RACE AND TITLE FROM AMERICAN BOAT

Blue Nose Proves Complete Superiority In Second and Deciding Contest.

BOSTON MAYFLOWER WAS ALSO OUTSAILED

Wonderful Race With Result In Doubt Until Last Few Miles.

ABOARD S. S. TYRIAN, RACE COURSE, OFF HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press, by Special Arrangement With Marconi Company).—Canada won the international fishermen's trophy to-day when Blue Nose (Captain Angus Walters) led the American defender Elsie (Captain Marty Welch) across the finish line by over a mile in the second race of the series to decide the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleets.

The Boston schooner Mayflower, barred from the contest by the trustees of the trophy on the ground that she did not come within the spirit or specifications of the deed of gift, created somewhat of a sensation when she appeared off the first mark and proceeded to try her luck with the legitimate contenders. The Boston schooner was out of luck, for in the moderate sea that was running, challenger and defender left her far astern and she gave up the chase a full mile short of the second mark.

The weather of the day, fluctuating between 12 and 17 knots, favored the Gloucester man, and the heavier Blue Nose was able to do little better than hold her own on the reaches; but, as in Saturday's race, the windward work told the story, the Canadian having everything on her American rival on this point of sailing.

As the schooners rounded the third mark, the southeast buoy, for the thresh to windward, the Elsie, which had led throughout the race, was seen to be pointing farther off the wind than Blue Nose and, although she footed as fast, perhaps, she was unable to keep on even terms and dropped steadily to leeward.

Heading in the direction of Cole Harbor Head the racing schooners bore on until the water began to spout. When they came about Blue Nose had established a lead of approximately one mile. Captain Welch had much the better of the start, crossing the line with a good full several lengths ahead of the challenger. Welch attempted to retrieve his lost fortunes in luffing, made on several occasions, but his vessel was evidently no match for the Blue Nose, close hauled by the wind.

Blue Nose crossed the finish line at

RAILMEN BELIEVE STRIKE AVERTED

Local Unions Hopeful of Amicable Settlement.

WOULD HAMPER CANADA

Telegraphers Would Not Walk Out Is Belief.

Railway officials and employees in London are of the opinion that the prospective strike order for Sunday, October 30, will be averted and that the train service of the United States will not be tied up.

Men familiar with railway developments are hopeful regarding the forthcoming action by the railway labor board and believe that matters will be readjusted satisfactorily.

The announcement from Chicago that a large percentage of the men in the United States have agreed not to walk out improves the situation locally somewhat.

A strike in the United States would hamper the traffic in Canada as embargos would no doubt be effective and cars would pile up at the terminals. Labor trouble among the railway workers of either country will not be welcomed and the officials and men interviewed to-day believe that the strike will not mature.

WILL REMAIN AT KEYS

Although the telegraphers in the United States have tentatively grouped themselves with the "big five," it is believed that the key men would not participate in the walk-out if one takes place.

Speaking to The Free Press, one of the telegraphers stated to-day that he does not believe a strike by the telegraphers in the United States would affect the wire men employed by the Canadian railways.

DIED TO-DAY.

DR. W. H. MOORHOUSE, who succumbed in his 81st year.

DR. MOORHOUSE CALLED BY DEATH

One of Most Prominent Physicians Dies This Morning.

BORN IN LAMBTON COUNTY

Practiced In London For Nearly Half Century.

London lost one of its oldest and most prominent physicians this morning in the death of Dr. Walter H. Moorhouse at his residence, 249 Queen's avenue. The deceased had been a practicing physician in the city for nearly half a century. He was 80 years of age, having been born in Lambton County on June 12, 1841.

He received his early education in the local schools and his degree of M. B. in the University of Toronto in the spring of 1874. A few following years of his life were spent in the hospitals of London and Edinburgh. Later he enrolled as a student in St. Thomas College, London, England, and left shortly after to attend the clinics of Lord Lister, who was then introducing the germ theory of disease and antiseptic treatments of wounds. While there he received the L. R. C. S. and L. R. C. P. degrees in 1875. Later he took the examination of the arts faculty at Western University and received the B. A. degree.

In November, 1875 he began to practice his procession on Clarence street, and after five years there he removed to 249 Queen's avenue, where he had practiced medicine and surgery up until the time of his death.

PROFESSIONAL HONORS.

During his service many professional honors came his way, all unsolicited by him. In 1890 he was elected president of the Ontario Medical Association and president of the London Medical Association, and in 1892 he was elected president of the Canadian Medical Association.

For some time he acted as professor of therapeutics in the medical faculty of the Western University and later as professor of the principle and practice of medicine, which position he filled for many years. He also acted as dean

HOSPITAL SERVICE SHOWS IMPROVEMENT

American College of Surgeons Opens Convention at Philadelphia, With Local Doctors in Attendance.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 24.—Hospital service to the patient in Ontario shows a decided advance in the past year, according to the third annual report of the American College of Surgeons, released here to-day. This report is based in a survey which included personal visits to every hospital of 100 beds or over in the United States and Canada. The following Ontario institutions were given a place on the "approved" list: *General Hospital, Hamilton; General Hospital, Kingston; Grace Hospital, Toronto; Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto; Hotel Dieu, Kingston; St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto; *Toronto General Hospital, Toronto; Victoria General Hospital, London.

The asterick (*) indicates hospitals which have instituted measures which insure scientific care to their patients, but which have not realized them to the fullest extent to date.

"The institutions above proved that they are giving the best scientific medical care to their patients," declared Dr. Franklin H. Martin, secretary-general of the American College of Surgeons. "Added by one of the great educational foundations we have carried on actual visits to hospitals, made by trained medical men, who see working conditions as they are. Our report for 1921 shows a marked improvement in hospital service the country over, and places Ontario in the forefront of provinces which are active in medical progress. Ontario is to be congratulated on its splendid showing and on the forward-looking medical men, hospital superintendents and trustees who have made this advance possible."

A number of local doctors are attending the convention.

Charley's Little War Brought To Sudden End

Ex-Austrian Emperor's Revolution But Affair of Couple of Days.

HUNGARIAN TROOPS CHASTISE HIS MEN

But Not Until Britain Issues Order and Czechs Prepare To Battle.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 24. — Hungarian Government forces fighting against the attempt of former Emperor Charles to regain the throne have won pronounced successes against the Carlist forces, it was announced in reports to the Government early to-day. The reports stated that the Town of Raab had been recaptured and that the Carlists were being attacked in the rear.

GIVEN 48 HOURS

LONDON, Oct. 24.—An ultimatum has been sent to the Hungarian Government by Czecho-Slovakia, giving the former 48 hours to secure the removal of former Emperor Charles from that country, it is reported in a dispatch from Vienna to the Exchange Telegraph Company.

Jugo-Slav forces are being concentrated on the frontier of Hungary, and the Cabinet has decided upon the mobilization of three classes of recruits.

CLOSING ON BUDAPEST.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—The troops of former Emperor Charles are closing in on Budapest without meeting much resistance from the forces opposed to his restoration to the Hungarian throne, according to information which reached the allied council of ambassadors here this afternoon.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The British Government has notified the Hungarian Government that the latter must take all possible steps for the expulsion of former Emperor Charles from Hungary, it was learned this afternoon.

Instructions have been sent by the Government here to Baron Hardinge, the British ambassador in Paris, to arrange a meeting of the council of ambassadors to be held in the French capital to-day. It is said in well-informed quarters that Great Britain reserves the right to support the "little entente"—Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Rumania—in any action it may take for the expulsion of the ex-ruler from Hungarian territory.

READY FOR BATTLE.

A Central News dispatch from Prague says all arrangements for the march against Hungary are said to have been completed. The Czecho-Slovak Government has issued an official statement, declaring the "little entente" is resolved to oppose the return of a Hapsburg to the Hungarian throne.

The forces supporting Charles are understood to consist of three divisions.

It is rumored in Vienna that Charles already has entered Budapest, a news agency dispatch reports.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—Reports that there exists an agreement between Italy and Hungary concerning the restoration of former Emperor Charles were denied at the Italian embassy here to-day. It was asserted that Italy was not involved in any agreement enacted against other powers.

FIGHTING ALREADY?

LONDON, Oct. 24.—A truce between the troops of the Hungarian Government and those supporting former Emperor Charles is being arranged to prevent further bloodshed, says a Vienna dispatch to the Exchange Tele-

He Started Something He Couldn't Finish

Ex-Emperor Charles, of Austria, who escaped from Switzerland in an aeroplane and started a two-day revolution for his old throne.

Decision In Two Weeks Whether Women Shall Be Admitted To Ministry

Methodists Quarterly Boards All Over Canada To Take Vote On Question.

Two weeks from to-day the Methodist quarterly boards in this and all other districts in Canada will decide whether or not women shall be admitted as candidates for the ministry. Arrangements have been made for a Dominion-wide vote on the question, and it is understood that each church, regardless of membership, will have an equal voice in determining whether the answer shall be "yea" or "nay."

To forecast how the laymen and clergy will vote is practically impossible, as the question has been relegated by individual churches and by provincial conference to the national conference which a year ago decided in favor of a referendum. It is known that the extension of equal suffrage for men and women has created a feeling that women should be allowed to enter pastorates, but at the same time there is considerable opposition from certain quarters to a step which is so radical.

EFFECTS FAR REACHING.

The decision of the Methodist Church is not only of denominational interest, as the Presbyterians and Congregational communions, having united with the Methodists, would also be influenced by the results of the plebiscite. The Anglican church is interested because the matter was discussed at the recent Lambeth Conference in England and is to-day a live issue in the courts of the church at the present time. Should the Methodists give an affirmative answer it might be the thin edge of the wedge that might open all Protestant pulpits to ordained persons, no matter what sex.

Rev. J. A. Agnew, president of the London district meeting, stated that he, for one, was quite willing to abide by the will of the people. He pointed out that a sufficient number of women might be attracted to the calling to meet the ministerial needs of the whole Methodist church, but at the same time drew attention to the hardships which they would have to endure once they were ordained.

QUALIFICATIONS NEEDED.

"It is admitted, of course, that a woman who had college education could fit herself to preach the Gospel," said Mr. Agnew. "The question is would she be able to go through the hardships which a newly ordained minister endures. Would she be able to take over a circuit with three or four appointments and drive in all sorts of weather to the people in that district? These facts must be considered by the people if they are to intelligently decide the problem."

SITE PURCHASED FOR NEW SCHOOL

Situated At Price and Dakin Streets.

The London Board of Education is now in possession of deeds to ppcoperty in Southeast London on which a new public school will probably be started within a few weeks. Secretary Tanner stated to-day that the city solicitor had closed the deal and the property is now available.

This new school site is bounded by Holman, Price and Dakin streets. It was purchased on the recommendation of Inspector C. B. Edwards, who pointed out that the crowding of Chesley and Ealing schools demanded immediate relief.

The board has yet to decide what sort of school will be erected. Inspector Edwards advocates a four-room primary school, which may later be increased to eight rooms.

BAY RUM COCKTAILS PROVED FATAL DOSE

Two Dead, Three Others Very Ill Following "Party" in Saskatchewan.

SASKATOON, Sask., Oct. 24.—A sixth victim of the wood alcohol tragedy staged a Cymric on Tuesday night, from which two men died, may be lying dead in the vicinity of the bunkhouse, where the fatal party took place, according to Wallace Sellick, one of the three men lying in St. Paul's Hospital here. All three men are recovering, hospital authorities say. Both Sellick and Wm. Maddigan, another of the party, declared there had been a sixth man who drank the poisonous mixture of bay rum and Columbia spirits "raw", refusing to have any of the soft drinks mixed with it. He had left shortly afterwards and none of the three victims here knew his name or whereabouts.

"Never again!" was the unanimous declaration of all three. All are worried over the possible outcome of the affair, for it is understood here that they will be held pending the outcome of the coroner's investigation.

$300 EXEMPTION FOR EACH CHILD

Treasurer Would Change Municipal Income Tax Law.

James S. Bell, city treasurer and financial adviser to the City Council, to-day stated his advocacy of greater exemptions from municipal income taxation as regards married men with children. He stated that the city should grant an exemption of $300 for each child instead of $200 as at present.

It is expected that Mr. Bell's suggestion in this matter will come up at an early session of the City Council for definite action and, if approved, will stamp London as being the first Ontario city, probably first in Canada, to give special recognition of the father's claim direct on municipal encouragement.

"The municipal income tax law," Mr. Bell stated, "should take into very serious account the needs of men who are not merely married but are raising families. Every child in a family should entitle the father to an income tax exemption of $300 in addition to his regular exemption for being married. Provision should also be made for other dependents existing upon the earnings of any one citizen."

MONTREAL POLICEMAN KILLS FLEEING ROBBER

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—Struck by a bullet from the revolver of Constable Lavelle, Napoleon Cecil, 35, of Seigneur street, was instantly killed early yesterday morning as he was running away from the officer after firing a shot at the latter and wounding him in the knee. The affair was the sequel to an attempt to rob the fur store of Albert Racicot, St. Denis street, and after the shooting furs to the value of $3,500 were abandoned in the lane at the rear entrance, where they were later recovered.

TO BUILD WOODEN SHIPS.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 24.—Continuance of the wooden shipbuilding program in Victoria has been decided upon by the Dominion Government, it is announced by Col. A. W. R. Wilby, agent of marine for British Columbia.

Believes Wyoming Bandits From City

A. Abdallah Nearly Held Up By Three Men Whose Description Tallies.

HAS SEEN PARTIES BEFORE FREQUENTLY

Police Notified of Suspicon That Bank Robbers May Be In City.

That three of the bandits who robbed the Bank of Toronto at Wyoming last week are, or were, residents of London is the opinion that is expressed by a local merchant to-day who had an experience with three robbers some few weeks ago. They attempted to rob his store and he is practically certain from the descriptions given of the Wyoming bandits that three of them and the three who made the attempt on the local store are the same persons.

Alex. Abdallah, who keeps a fruit store on Dundas street near Wellington, recalled to-day the incidents of the attempted robbery. Some weeks ago he was making preparations to lock up his store near midnight. He saw three men standing outside the door, but paid no attention to them at the moment. He gathered in his cash and locked it in the safe, and his movements could easily be seen by any person standing in the doorway. Then, as he was going to the door to turn out the lights and lock up, these men walked in.

BECAME SUSPICIOUS.

"Give us three chocolate bars," demanded one.

"I became suspicious then, but I went to the case and got the candy," said Mr. Abdallah. "They asked if I could change a ten dollar bill. They did not show the money and I was sure then that they wanted to rob me. I explained that I could not make the change but I would let them have the candy without the money. They could come in again. But they argued that they wanted the bill changed. I asked them to show the money which they wished me to change.

SUSPICIOUS MOVE.

"They did not show any money and I was getting rather frightened. I did not know what would be their next move and I was alone, for the street was practically deserted. I had about given up hope when I saw a young man and a girl step towards the store. I called to them to come in and immediately telephoned the police. At this the three men ran away and I have not seen them since. I had seen them frequently on the street previously."

The police arrived shortly after, but the men were well out of sight by that time. They had no automobile unless it had been parked down the street some place. While Mr. Abdallah cannot be absolutely positive that these three men were implicated in the Wyoming robbery he firmly believes they were.

NEW WAGE PACT FOR EXPRESSMEN

C. N. Express Company Reopens Scale Negotiations.

WAGE BOARD TO MEET

A. H. Ball Will Represent Local Express Employees.

Negotiations are now being conducted between the Canadian National Express Company and its employees for a revised wage agreement which will affect some 2,600 workers employed by the company in Canada.

Canadian National Express Company employees last February, when under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Express Company, were granted an increase in wages placing them on the same basis as the employees of the C. N. R. The Canadian National took over the Canadian Express Company in the summer and the company has now reopened negotiations for a new wage scale.

According to the former agreement, either party, the company or the employees, were allowed the privilege of reopening negotiations by giving 30 days' notice. The company has given notice and negotiations are now in full swing. The former agreement remains effective until such time as the two parties agree on the new scehdule.

COMMITTEE NAMED

A committee composed of three representatives: A. H. Ball, M. L. Preston and W. C. Johnston, is handling the affairs on behalf of the employees. Mr. Ball represents the central division; Mr. Preston the western and W. C. Johnston the eastern. The men's representatives and the company's officials will continue convening in Ottawa.

Mr. Hall was in London over the week-end and left again to-day for the East. The Londoner was unable to say how much longer the committee will be in session.

The new wage agreement will affect between 1,400 and 1,500 employees of the central division which includes the London district.

LASHINGS AND PRISON FOR AN OTTAWA BRUTE

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—The extreme penalty of the law, sentence of two years in penitentiary and to be whipped three times during that period, each time to the number of 20 lashes, was the punishment inflicted on Hubert Monette, Cumberland street, by Mr. Justice Orde on Saturday. Monette was convicted earlier in the week by a jury of serious form of assault upon a young lady.

PEACE IN THE EMPIRE OR WAR OUTSIDE IT IS PREMIER'S LAST WORD

Question of Allegiance To King Cannot Be Debated, Is the British View.

UNLESS OATH IS TAKEN CONFERENCE WILL END

Irish Delegates Want Additional Argument, But Lloyd George Will Have None of It.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Premier Lloyd George, answering a question in the House of Commons to-day regarding Eamon De Valera's message to Pope Benedict, said the publication of Mr. De Valera's message, especially in the middle of the peace negotiations, constituted a grave challenge.

"The position of the Government on the question involved in that telegram has been made abundantly clear," the premier continued. "We do not propose to recede from it and the conference cannot proceed on any other basis."

The deepest anxiety is felt everywhere in Ireland regarding the prospects of to-day's fateful meeting of the conference on the Irish question. No disposition is evidenced by the press here to comment on De Valera's telegram to the Pope, although it appears to be tactily acknowledged that De Valera blundered. A telegram from Rome says that the Catholic press also refrains from commenting upon the message. It is asserted that no answer will be forthcoming from the Pope.

ANXIETY EVERYWHERE.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Grave anxiety over the possibility of negotiations between the British Government and Sinn Fein Ireland not continuing to a successful conclusion was felt here to-day. The conference between members of the British Cabinet and representatives of the Dail Eireann was resumed, but there was evidently a feeling that the situation was such as to give ground for concern among those hopeful for an adjournment of the Irish controversy.

Michael Collins, "minister of finance" in the Dail Eireann Government, who went to Dublin on Saturday, returned here last night. It was understood that Premier Lloyd George had laid before the Sinn Fein delegates certain questions affecting allegiance to the British crown and there was a belief that Mr. Collins had gone to Dublin to talk the situation over with his colleagues. It was supposed he brought a communication from Eamon De Valera and it was felt that upon this answer and the attitude taken by the Dail Eireann delegates would depend the continuance of the negotiations. Everywhere, except in irreconcilable quarters, hope that the conference would continue was expressed, and it was argued that, with good will on each side, a way out of the difficulty created by Mr. De Valera's message to Pope Benedict could be found. At the same time it was contended that if the Sinn Fein representatives indorsed their leader's words it was hardly possible to see how a rupture of the conference was avoidable.

AN ELECTION SUGGESTED.

The possibility of the Government appealing to the nation through a general election, should the conference fail, assumed considerable prominence over the week-end, and many newspapers referred to it to-day, but there was not much concrete expression of opinion. The Daily Mail referred to the suggestion as "childish nonsense," and there was no doubt that such a plan would not be desired in business quarters, it being foreseen that the present hope for a revival of trade would be shattered by the excitement and turmoil incidental to an appeal to the electorate.

The London Times to-day earnestly reiterated its desire for an Irish settlement. It urged that, even if an agreement in the conference itself was impossible, a complete rupture need not follow. In such an event, the newspaper favored a referendum in Southern Ireland on the question of allegiance to Great Britain.

At Sinn Fein headquarters here the attitude of hopefulness which had prevailed gave way to pessimism after the return of Michael Collins from Dublin, the fear being expressed that insistence upon a declaration of allegiance to the King by Mr. Lloyd George would result in the breaking off of the conference.

It was pointed out, on behalf of the Sinn Fein, that this condition was repudiated by the Dail Eireann and that there was substituted for it the formula of "association with the British Empire." The Sinn Fein, it was declared, is willing to continue the conference according to that formula, but will not accept allegiance to the King, at least until the bargain is finally made. At the Irish office this forenoon it was stated that allegiance to the King was a necessary consequence to coming into the British Empire, and except on the basis of Ireland remaining in the empire no conference was possible.

The Sinn Fein, spokesmen for it indicated, was prepared to meet Mr. Lloyd George's demand for a declaration of allegiance with a detailed argument.

FAITH IN FUTURE DOMINION'S NEED

So Hamilton Institute Head Tells Rotary Club.

DEPRESSION THEORY

Clubmen Extend Sympathy To Sir Adam Beck.

"Just as soon as we establish confidence in our fellow men and faith in our country's future will business take on an added impetus," declared John Jones, vice-president of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, New York, in addressing an exceptionally large gathering of local Rotarians at their noon luncheon to-day. The speaker, who has been recently throughout the United States and Canada, urged the development of natural resources, which he pointed out were almost unlimited.

"There is hardly a province in this fair Dominion that has not sufficient undeveloped water power to supply electrical energy for a nation of 100,000,000 people," said M. F. Jones. "Our virgin forests remain hardly touched, our mines containing great mineral wealth are barely scratched, and yet, in spite of these possibilities, we have people who still talk of business depression and evidence no faith in the future of the country.

"Doubt, fear and lack of vision are the only things that are standing in the way of progress to-day. Confidence is the only basis of actual prosperity in Canada, Great Britain, United States and Russia, and it is the only solution of the unemployed problem with which we are faced at the present time. We can't put men to work till the public sees with the light of faith through the surrounding darkness and begins buying.

START BUYING.

"If we talk calamity we can expect no prosperity. Optimism and faith based on the love of our fellow men and a desire to make this nation bigger and better will overcome the theoretical business depression. We must get the people back to normal thinking before we can get them back to normal buy-

DEFENDS MOTHER AND MEETS DEATH

Brave Young Chinese Victim of Thugs At North Bay.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 24. — While grappling with an unknown assailant who was attempting to enter his mother's room early this morning, George Young, a Chinaman, aged 21, was shot through the heart with a revolver bullet and instantly killed. His mother, who conducts a laundry on Main street east, was wounded by another shot from the bandit's gun, which grazed the back of her head. There were two in the gang who are believed to have entered the place by a rear window and are also thought by the police to have escaped in an automobile.

The police in the surrounding towns have been notified and local policemen are out in cars scouring the only road leading away from the town.

Robbery was apparently the motive of the attempt, but all the bandits were able to collect was about $20 from the pockets of the men in the place and from the till in the front office.

George Young, the victim of the attack, was well known in the north, having been employed in the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario offices for two years, and having also played baseball with the New Liskeard team. He also conducted a restaurant business in Ottawa.

The funeral of the young Chinaman will be conducted by Rev. R. S. Johnston, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, where the boy was a fairly regular attendant.

AUTOMOBILE BANDITS POSED AS OFFICERS

Pretend To Arrest Montreal Man and Steal $3,000 From Him.

MONTREAL, Oct. 24. — "You are a bootlegger and we are going to arrest you," said one of two men to L. Plante, of St. Louis De Gonzague, at 1.15 this morning on the Lachine road, near Ville La Salle, and the self-styled officers took hold of Plante and his chauffeur, taking from the former the sum of $3,000 and his revolver. The hold-up men then made their escape in an automobile, which they had placed across the road earlier and thus caused Plante's car to stop.

A well-known druggist in the city has evolved a scheme of burglar protection which will at least terrify if it does not frustrate any bold hold-up men. Last week he gave a friend of his a demonstration of his device and as far as is known the friend is still running in the opposite direction.

Above the prescription counter at the rear of his store the enterprising pharmacist has cut a peep-hole through which he can see all prospective customers. If any look suspicious he sends a clerk to the front and then cocks a revolver in the watchful waiting attitude and is ready to anticipate the slightest evidence of hostility on the part of the visitor.

Just to show his avowed friend what would happen if a red-blooded Jesse James entered the premises the druggist gave a fancy exhibition of shooting in the basement. Standing at one end of the cellar he instructed his companion, who crouched fearfully in the rear, to keep his eye on a post at the other extremity of the room. Then, without warning, he fired.

Had a bomb gone off in their presence it could not have frightened either of the men more than that shot. The revolver enthusiast had apparently taken the precaution to shut his eyes when he pulled the trigger, for the bullet went unerringly in the direction of a well-filled counter of patent medicines and other bottled preparations. Cod liver oil mixed indiscriminately with castor oil, and enough hair tonic fell overboard to raise splinters on the floor.

If the advice of the "friend" could be secured it would probably be a warning to bandits to enter the store in massed formation. Spread-eagle tactics would be certain to result fatally if the druggist operates his little Bertha with such impartiality.

BOYS' BONFIRE DESTROYS HOME

Family Reduced To Want Through Mischief-Makers.

INFANT BARELY SAVED

Parents Find Ruins On Returning Home.

A bonfire started by a few mischievous boys on Saturday cost a family of six their tiny home and all their personal belongings. Only the children, the oldest of whom is but 10, were at home when the blaze spread to the house and when the parents returned they found nothing but the charred remains of all their possessions.

Being a wooden structure, the house was a ready prey to the flames. All that the children could do was to have the fire brigade summoned and when the latter did arrive it was powerless to save either building or contents. Not a cent of insurance had been placed on the household.

Temporary accommodation was found by the father for his wife and four kiddies, but he has yet to face the fact that he has no home to go to. The fire wiped out not only the clothing and furnishings of the home, but also his meager supply of ready money, and with cold weather approaching the prospect is not very heartening.

The house, or what is left of it, is just east of Waterloo street, on Pall Mall, and faces the C. P. R. Kindly neighbors expressed their sympathy for the family in a concrete manner on Saturday by donating clothing for the parents and little ones, while a relative who lives in the country and is little better off financially, offered them shelter for the time being.

At the time of the blaze the mother was down town and the father was working. A bonfire of leaves was started just to the rear of the house and in a few moments had kindled a fire in the house. The older lad fortunately had presence of mind enough to get the younger children, including a baby, out of the house before the flames got in their evil work.

graph Company. The Horthy administration of Hungary, however, continued to resist the advance of Charles' forces, and are declared to have captured 120 prisoners.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 24.—In a declaration to the Associated Press to-day Admiral Horthy, the Hungarian regent, said: "I stick to the principle that Charles shall not be allowed to resume power and that he must leave the country until his claims are constitutionally settled.

THE BRITISH VIEW.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—It is reported in Vienna that the British high commissioner has declared the entente will construe the continued presence of former Emperor Charles in Hungary as a casus belli, says an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from the Austrian capital to-day.

The ex-ruler is reported to have declared that if the entente adhered to its policy of "suppressing the will of the Hungarian nation," then he, as the legitimate king, would sever relations with the entente.

WAR CLOUDS GATHERING.

PARIS, Oct. 24.—War clouds seem to be gathering over Hungary as a result of former Emperor Charles' return to that country and his attempt to establish himself upon the Magyard throne. Jugo-Slavia and Czecho-Slovakia, member nations of the "little entente," are reported to be mobilizing forces to bring pressure to bear upon Hungary to expel Charles, while there have been reports that Roumania, the third member nation of this Balkan combination, is prepared to join her allies in a military demonstration.

Communication between Budapest and the outside world has been interrupted for the last 48 hours and what news has been learned has come by roundabout routes and is taken with reserve in entente capitals.

Admiral Horthy, the Hungarian regent, is believed to be firm in his determination to expel Charles from that country.

PLANS HUGH FARM COLONY.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 24.—Sixty-six thousand acres of farm and fruit lands, situated at the head of the Seymour arm of Shuswap Lake, B. C., has been disposed of to a Winnipeg syndicate, which proposes to bring a hundred families from the prairies and colonize the spot.

CALL FOR REV. A. E. JONES. — The Rev. A. E. Jones, of Blenheim, has been invited to the London Street Methodist, Windsor.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 23.—(Lord's Day.)—Up pretty late and to find that, heaven and St. George, that I have not rheumatism, as my chirurgeon suspects, but a grievous slipping to the sinews of my knee capp. This morning being able to observe this slipping and to hear it when it slips back again, meanwhile groaning somewhat, but gritting my teeth manfully. This slipping due, I believe, to secret injuries I get from the Germans and not brought out on me until I begin riding velocipede. So pretty like to have my pension increased to a respectable size and not a mere four shillings a month. The meanwhile I shall walk about, limping pretty noble. But cheered beyond anything that I be certain that it is not rheumatism that bothers me. For I would almost as soon have a bald head as this disease. Both being a sign of advancing age and other miseries.

Out to church, where Rev. Mr. Toorie takes up the highest sort of collection for the Senniphibi, or some such tribe, that wears rings in its noses and little else. So aligut to withdraw money from my pocket to give to these savages when a boy rises in the gallery and speaks. "Behold me," he says, "I am at church to-day, but I am ashamed to be, but I come knowing that you collect for these Senniphibi. This is the only suit to my back, see the holes here, observe these patches! I be barred from church by natural pride, yet I would go!" So he runs out and we are all mighty startled. Thinking on the forwardness of the young generation which will disturb public worship and our giving to savages in this uncouth manner.

Out to the back of Master William Stewart's Patrician Theater and to report Major Mary Booth, of the Salvation Army and Warr. And, standing in the wings to report her, observe this sign displayed by Master Stewart to his players: "Notice to performers! A suggestive word or act means that you close!" Which is the noblest sign I have ever seen. Other theaters I have seen putting big signs in front. "This show is fit for women and children in the worst way possible!" But Master Stewart puts his sign where it will do the most good.

Out on Queen's avenue and to see a party of motor coachmen come riding by in a noble car with at least eight cylinders. This party consisting of five men, and as they pass me their rear gutta-percha tires go: "Phey-w-w!" Whereat they stop and all dismount. Which I expect to hear them curse and swear the loudest I ever heard almost, but they say naught whatever. Then one goes over to a man and asks for his pump. Doing this by making a sign of pumping. Whereat I perceive that all of them be deaf and dumb as fishes.

We get a load of wood to our house late Saturday, which I put in our woodshed this Lord's Day morning. Whereat my Aunt Mary rebukes me for breaking the Sabbath. But presently to dinner, on a noble roast of beef and other viands, with which is served a sauce of tomatoes, which lately makes my Aunt Mary mighty sick. But she takes a little, excusing herself. And in this I see my triumph. Pointing out that I merely pull an ox out of the ditch in storing my wood, but she eats this sauce of tomato in sheer dare-devilishness against indigestion. So I triumph over her!

A peculiar thing is how on the notice board to our church Rev. Mr. Toorie puts up a sign that Master Korrus is to sing a solo at the evening service, after which follows this phrase, the quotation marks being left out my mistake: Oh, Lord Have Mercy! Which is strange.

Which reminds me of the greatest, best thing that ever happened, which is that our Blue Nose boat do win over the Yang-kees' Elsie, like "A Soldier of Fortune" do win over the books for which this Yang-kee boat is named. Winning in a rough sea and thus carrying the fame of this Canada to the far ends of the earth. Which reminds me how I read a new list of questions by Master Edison for prospective employees and nephew and I try to answer them. One question being: "What event in 1921 will be remembered 21 years hence?" And nephew writes: "Our winning this fishing boat contest!" And methinks his answer is better than my own, that Master President Harding calls a disarmament conference.

The young Frenchman, who used to live on our street, in for a day's visit, and he reads these questions. One of which is: "If you were trying to sell an order to a manufacturer with a jealous wife and you see him dining with a chorus girl, what would yo do?" And the young Frenchman answers: "Demand an introduction!"

Word that one Voliva, of Zion City, near Chicago (which is a mighty strange combination) do proclaim the earth flat. His opinion is more likely of acceptance by men generally on the night before paying day.

A silly poem in the Toronto Star advising people to keep their tempers. Especially when centrals refuse answers over the phone instrument and when street coaches pass you in the rain or are a half hour late. Advising that one say not so much as "Fiddlesticks" and other silliness such as I never saw before in my life.

Out to our Admiralty Club, where Commodore Potts calls up Doctor Kilborkur, the chirurgeon, and to ask after a friend: "How is Mr. Beer?" asks the commodore, and the reply comes, loud enough for all to hear: "Weaker!" Which is ridiculous.

PRICE OF SUGAR AGAIN ON DECLINE

Beet Product Sells for $8.40 Cwt. and Cane at $8.65.

Evidence of continued weakness in the sugar market is reflected in another drop over the week-end in the price of both Canadian and Cuban brands of granulated. Beet sugar now sells at $8.40 a bag and the imported product at $8.65. Three weeks ago the latter brand was retailing at $9.25. With the advent of more favorable weather it is expected that the beet crop will be all marketed shortly and that prices will become more or less stabilized for the winter.

Teas, which have been slated for an advance in cost, are now steady and no immediate change in prices is predicted. Both tea and coffee hold strong positions and are not likely to be cheaper, it is said.

Raisins, too, are firm, as the demand is much greater than the normal supplies. This has kept the quotations firm and with an upward tendency.

LAY NO MAINS WITHOUT VOTE

Natural Gas Company Would Come Under Municipal Act.

ALD. WILSON STILL HOPEFUL

Rights of Local Company Need Defining.

If any further negotiations towards the securing of natural gas from the Progressive Oil and Gas Company, of Hamilton, are carried out such negotiations will have to be shaped with a view to a determining vote of citizens and the definite issue of a charter to the City Gas Company—if it should be a party to the proposed deal—which that company does not clearly possess, it is said, at present, owing to many changes in ownership and title during the past 30 years.

The City Council was informed on Saturday that the Progressive Oil and Gas Company would not enter into any contract for a period less than a year and stated that the negotiations, so far as they were concerned, were closed.

To-day City Solicitor Meredith sent a written opinion to the City Council that the natural gas company could not lay mains anywhere within the city limits without the passing of a by-law by the City Council and having that by-law ratified by a vote of the people. Mr. Meredith was of the opinion that the laying of any main by the company would bring them under the provisions of a municipal franchise act.

INTERVIEW MAYOR.

Ald. W. A. Wilson, chairman of the special gas committee, stated to-day that he was still hopeful of securing the natural gas supply for London and that he would interview the mayor with a view to putting the matter to a vote of the electors.

If that action is taken it is believed that the City Gas Company's franchise rights would again come up for settlement. Members of the City Council, who investigated the matter, are not certain whether the gas corporation has a perpetual or term limit franchise, and, in fact, whether the company is selling gas in London under an up-to-date agreement or merely under a sort of tacit understanding that has not yet been committed to legal documentary form.

Canadian Schooner

2.21.30 unofficial time. Elsie crossed finish line at 2.31 unofficial time.

Official times of finish: Blue Nose, 2.21.41; Elsie, 2.31.13.

ON BOARD D. G. S. TYRIAN, OFF RACE COURSE, HALIFAX, Oct. 24.—A 10-knot breeze, shifting from north to northwest, with indications of increasing slightly, sent the schooners along at a fast clip as they maneuvered about back of the starting line, waiting the 15-minute preparatory gun. Elsie had all sails set, while the Blue Nose was minus her staysail.

At 8.40 the yellow letter "Q," of the international code, flown from the breakwater off the starting line, indicated that No. 1 course had been chosen for the race. This called for a reach of six miles due south to the inner automatic buoy off Chebucto Head, a broad reach off of 11¼ miles south by west to the Sambro lightship, a gybe around this mark, a close haul of 9½ miles northeast by east to the southeast automatic buoy, a dead beat to windward of 6½ miles northwest to the inner automatic buoy, with a possibility of further windward work to the finish line, six miles away, due north.

U. S. BOAT STARTS FIRST.

The schooners crossed the starting line, official times, as follows: Elsie 9.00.32; Blue Nose, 9.01.52.

At 9.09 the Blue Nose was 10 lengths astern. The wind had fallen to eight knots, with fitful puffs. The press boat, steaming at eight knots, was slowly leaving thes chooner behind. Off Sandwich Point, four miles from the first mark, Elsie was 12 lengths ahead.

Elsie lost the breeze and the Stars and Stripes, flying from her main peak, scarce fluttered. Blue Nose, in the meantime, caught the wind and was creeping up.

At 9.22 Walters had cut down Welch's lead to six lengths. Blue Nose was bringing the wind up with her and footing fast. A minute later the Canadian boat was only four lengths behind.

At 9.25 both boats had the same breeze, the wind had increased and was holding at 11 knots, west, northwest.

THE MAYFLOWER ON COURSE.

At 9.40, as the schooners stood for the inner automatic buoy, the first mark, the Boston schooner, Mayflower, barred from the contest by the trustees of the international trophy, after she had been selected as the American defender, was sighted off the buoy under four lowers.

The hub flier was easily recognized by her rakish bow and square stern. She was without topmasts, but in the 12-knot breeze scooted through the water and easily circled around a Gloucester schooner that was accompanying her. She seemed to be carrying all the sail she could lug and was making dirtier weather under lower sails than the other fishermen with all their kites aloft.

Passing the mark, Welch speeded close in for Chebucto Head well to weather of his course for Sambro lightship buoy. Off the head the defender caught a snapper breeze and opened up a lead of four lengths.

At this point the Boston schooner, Mayflower, made manifest her intention to prove her quality against the fishermen racers. Crossing the bow of the press boat she gave chase after the contenders for the international trophy.

At 10 o'clock the Elsie, heading for the second mark, nine miles away, had opened up a good lead on Blue Nose. She was probably seven lengths ahead. The Mayflower was racing along about a quarter of a mile to leeward. The Boston boat seemed to be gaining rapidly on the Blue Nose.

CANADIAN CLOSING GAP.

The wind was holding at about 11 knots. Five minutes later Blue Nose had a better breeze and commenced to gain on the American and at the same time to drop the Mayflower. Elsie, with her green main topmast, did not seem to be much stiffer than Blue Nose. With all sail drawing the Canadian was rapidly closing up the gap.

The wind swept down on the Mayflower to leeward and the barred schooner, heeling sharply to the puffs, began to gain on the others.

At 10.15 no apparent change in the position of the schooners could be noted. Blue Nose and Elsie were traveling at approximately the same rate, the defender showing herself speedy on a reach in light weather. She was holding a lead of one-eight of a mile. The Mayflower was about the same distance astern of the challenger and in the moderate breeze she seemed quite comfortable without her topmasts.

Blue Nose began to gain on Elsie, while the Mayflower, apparently retarded by the heavier sea, which had developed, dropped rapidly astern. The Boston boat was estimated to be half a mile astern of the Blue Nose, while the American was only four lengths ahead of the challenger. The schooners at this time were about five miles from land and the wind had increased to about 15 knots. Blue Nose was doing better in the rougher seas, while Mayflower was sticking her nose into it with every lunge, and taking green water aboard.

At 10.30 the wind had increased to 18 knots. Blue Nose was two lengths astern of Elsie and slightly to the leeward.

THE DELAWANA LOOMS UP.

Mayflower was three-quarters of a mile astern and the Lunenburg schooner Delawana, unsuccessful contender in last year's international series, was coming up like a bird on the Boston schooner.

At 10.35 Blue Nose was almost under Elsie's lee with the second mark only two miles away. The schooners were cutting a 10½-knot clip and were so close together that from the press boat, a mile astern, they looked like one boat.

A minute later Walters luffed in hopes of passing to weather of the American. Welch, unperturbed, held his course for the mark. Walters was close on the Gloucester man's weather quarter, but appeared to have lost somewhat by the maneuver.

Official times rounding Sambro lightship buoy, second mark, were: Elsie, 10.46.49; Blue Nose, 10.47.15.

At 10.45 Blue Nose was three lengths astern. Welch, reaching fast for the buoy, doused his staysail and bunched foretopsails. Walters followed suit.

BOTH RUNNING EVENLY.

Gybing gently, Elsie once more set staysail and foretopsail and Blue Nose repeated the maneuver. The schooners then set off for the nine-mile reach to the third mark, the southeast automatic buoy. Mayflower did not get up to the buoy, and after gybing a mile away stood up to windward. Elsie and Blue Nose had both shown her a clean pair of heels in the rough water and fresh breeze of the open ocean.

At 10 o'clock Blue Nose had gained perceptibly on Elsie and was heading well to windward of her, Walters was evidently desirous of avoiding a luffing match with Welch, but the Gloucester skipper would not allow it. Hauling in his sheets a little, he headed slightly to weather of the third mark, four miles away. The vessels appeared to be running evenly.

A WONDER FUL RACE.

At 11.05 Welch bore away for the buoy with Walters right on his heels.

The Mayflower headed for Halifax, definitely abandoning the race. At 11.15 the wind had dropped to 12 knots and the schooners' speed was considerably reduced. A minute later Blue Nose, which was directly astern of Elsie, appeared to be taking some of her wind. He bowsprit was only a biscuit toss from Elsie's traffrail. Then Blue Nose dropped astern a bit.

At 11.28 the schooners were less than two miles from the mark. The wind was still light and the schooners under all sail were making slow time. Elsie had opened up the gap and now was fully three lengths ahead. When Elsie eased sheets and made for the buoy, Blue Nose followed her lead.

Official times at southeast automatic buoy were: Elsie, 11.49.28; Blue Nose, 11.49.45.

BLUE NOSE IN THE LEAD.

When the schooners were on the mark Blue Nose was less than a length behind. The Lunenburg skipper, having the buoy, put himself to windward of the Gloucester man. The schooners were now by the wind, on the port tack, and heading for Shut-In-Island. Blue Nose was pointing slightly higher than Elsie appeared to be and was footing just as fast. The wind was now about 16 knots and both vessels were comfortable under all sail.

At 12.10 Blue Nose was still eating Elsie out of the wind and footing just as fast. She was easily 12 lengths to weather and about two lengths behind on the tack. Both boats were heaving up well in the wind.

At 12.35 Blue Nose, continuing to head into the wind, was half a mile to weather and about abeam the Elsie. The schooners were less than miles from the shore.

At 12.41 Elsie doused foretopsail and staysail and came about on starboard tack. Blue Nose followed suit almost immediately; she appeared to be at least half a mile ahead. Both schooners were now heading for the inner automatic buoy, four miles away.

At 12.50 Blue Nose appeared to have increased the gap and was pointing slightly higher than Elsie.

INCREASING HER LEAD.

At 12.55, three miles from the inner automatic buoy, Blue Nose had slightly increased her lead. The schooners appeared to have set their course for the mark to a nicety, and it was expected Blue Nose would round the mark shortly after 1 o'clock and that the race would finish before 2.

At 1.05 the Blue Nose was still a mile and a half from the buoy and was heading slightly to the leeward of the mark. Elsie, more than half a mile astern, was a short distance to windward. Off the inner automatic buoy, waiting for the racers, was the Mayflower. A minute later Blue Nose caught a stiffer breeze, heeled over to it and began to point well to weather of the mark. Welch also soon caught the wind and was able to haul up to windward of the buoy.

BOILING TO THE FINISH.

At 1.15 the Blue Nose was within a mile of the buoy. She was getting a good breeze and was boiling along, well to the windward of the buoy, marked by a Government steamer. Elsie, a mile astern, was pointing almost as high.

At 1.16 Blue Nose eased sheets and headed for the mark.

At 1.20 Blue Nose was within a quarter mile of the inner automatic buoy and unless something unforeseen occurs would win the race and championship for the year. The direction of wind, it was estimated, would give her long and short tacks from inner automatic buoy to the finish line, six miles away.

Public School Supporters Petition Against Request of Separate School Supporters

Both Documents To Be Presented To Premier and Cabinet. Many Signatures Secured.

Counter-petitions are being circulated amongst public school supporters in London asking that the petition of separate school supporters, which asks for a reapportionment of taxes for school purposes, be not granted. Both petitions are addressed to the Premier of Ontario and the Government Cabinet.

The separate school petition has been in circulation for some time and will probably be ready for presentation, signed by thousands of citizens, within a short while. That petition is as follows:

"To the Honorable the Prime Minister of Ontario and the members of the Cabinet, the undersigned electos of the Diocese of London, County of Middlesex, Province of Ontario, humbly request that

B. N. A. ACT.

"Whereas, under the British North America Act, which is the constitution of Canada, the educational rights in the matter of denominational schools of the Protestant minority in Lower Canada and of the Roman Catholic minority in Upper Canada were guaranteed by solemn compact, and

"Whereas, amongst those rights is the full development of the common school system and the equitable division of the school taxes of minorities and the proportional distribution of all school grants, and

"Whereas, the school system of the Roman Catholic minority in Ontario is deprived of the legal machinery necessary for its complete functioning, and

"Whereas, the Catholic school system of Ontario does not receive its just and proper share of certain school taxes,

"That the Government and Legislature of Ontario enact such legal measures as will put the Roman Catholic minority of this province in the full enjoyment of its educational rights under the constitution. And your petitioners in duty bound will ever pray, etc."

COUNTER-PETITION.

The counter-petition being circulated amongst public school supporters is as follows:

"To the Honorable the Prime Minister of Ontario, the Honorable Minister of Education and others whom it may concern, greetings:

"We, the undersigned public school supporters and electors of the City of London, in the County of Middlesex, earnestly protest against any change being made in the Assessment Act, the effect of which would be to divert to the support of sectarian schools any of the school taxes now being paid for the upkeep of public schools.

"We also object to the division of taxes from companies on a sectarian population basis for the support of separate schools, and against establishing of sectarian high schools or collegiate institutes."

This latter petition is now being circulated and many names are being secured."

RULING ASKED ON COLLEGIATE FEES

City Solicitor Advises Statement From Education Department.

MATTER UP TO BOARD

Settlement Soon of Drawn-Out Controversy.

Through the expected receipt of rulings on the high school fees question from the Ontario department of education within a few days, an agreement may be entered into between the City of London and Middlesex County, whereby high school and technical school education may be made as free to county pupils as to hundreds living in the city. The whole question will be decided, it is anticipated, at the November 1 meeting of the London Board of Education, and that decision will affect some 200 pupils now attending London secondary schools or are planning to attend as soon as a definite understanding is arrived at.

City Solicitor Meredith was interviewed on Saturday by Chairman Thos. Coleridge, of the Board of Education, and by Chairman A. A. Langford, of the Collegiate committee. Mr. Meredith practically refused to give a ruling at this time on the high school fees question as affecting county pupils, but advised that a written ruling be secured from the minister of education for Ontario and from Dr. Merchant, the Technical School inspector. After the receipt of these rulings, he pointed out, the board could establish rules governing the entire fee question.

ASKED FOR RULING.

Letters have been sent the officials named and answers are expected this week in ample time for the board meeting on Tuesday, November 1.

Members of the board believe that the city may collect fees from individual county pupils on a basis of a 100 per cent proportion of costs—maintenance, operation and debenture charges. The act also allows, it is understood, that the city may enter into agreement with Middlesex County, whereby the county treasurer would pay, out of taxes, the fees of county high school pupils. But under the act such an agreement would be slightly detrimental to the city in a financial sense. This in that the county would be compelled to pay 100 per cent. of its pupil proportion of maintenance and operation charges and only 80 per cent. of debenture charges.

Some trustees favor the direct collection of fees—about $120 in each case—while others point out that the city would be well advised to adopt an agreement with the county which would mean free high school or technical education for county pupils.

NO BATHTUBS IN 4,236 HOMES

Order of Bath Is Saturday Night Ceremonial.

CIVIC STATISTICS

Improved Fixtures Becoming More Common Weekly.

The ancient and honorable order of the Saturday night bath is still conferred in 4,236 London homes by means of the old-fashioned wooden or tin tubs that held sway in the days before plumbing became general and not a luxury of the rich. Statistics compiled by civic departments dealing with plumbing regulations and water services show that 4,236 London houses have not yet acquired bathtubs.

In these homes the old-fashioned Saturday night bath is a function which varies not one whit from the baths of elder years. But the tide of progress continues to overwhelm old landmarks and the porcelain bath is replacing the tub at the rate of hundreds each year.

WENT THROUGH WINDOW.

Proprietor of Store Aided Hilarious Party In Making Exit.

Six drunks were up for orderly-room at the Carling street citadel this morning. They paraded before the commanding officer, Deputy Magistrate Bartlett, and all admitted their guilt and were given the usual option of paying $10 and costs for their celebration or spending 10 days as the guest of Governor Carter at the county jail.

One of the six, a little more hilarious than the rest, found himself facing a second charge before he left the station house. If appeared that he became involved in an argument with the proprietor of a store on Clarence street. During the melee which ensued the imbiber crashed his way through a pane of glass, helped on his way by the store owner. He was charged by the court to pay for the damages, which were placed at $5.

According to the story of the wife of the owner of the store, a woman ran through the store and into the dwelling, declaring that she was being pursued by a drunken man. The defendant came in and attempted to enter the house. During the squabble the self-confessed drunk went through the window.

LIONS' CLUB TO WORK FOR GIRLS

Underprivileged To Be Given the Needed Assistance.

CARE FOR THE ORPHANED

Also Serve Families of Ex-Service Men.

The recently organized Lions' Club in London has an ambitious program of public service under consideration which includes the assistance of underprivileged girls and the granting of aid to the families of demobilized men who are unable to benefit under the patriotic fund grants, federal pensions and other benefits usually granted to the families of ex-service men.

The work for under-privileged girls, Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, D. S. O., stated in an interview to-day, will parallel the work of the Kiwanis Club for underprivileged boys. Hitherto civic organizations have interested themselves chiefly with the needs of the sons of veterans or of veterans' widows, but the orphaned or otherwise dependent daughters of veterans will, through the Lions' Club, it is planned, be given a helping hand.

Members of that organization state that an orphaned girl has a harder battle before her, in most cases, than boys. Her sex is a handicap, and it is particularly necessary, they point out, that girls should secure the fullest educational development possible.

Col. Graham also pointed out that the Lions' Club hopes to serve the families of demobilized men, where need exists, that are unable to benefit under the partiotic fund and other grants. This is taken as an expression of the fraternal feeling of active service men towards their comrades that were unable to reach the firing line.

EXCHANGED PULPITS.—Rev. J. N. Clarry, of Kincardine, exchanged pulpits with Capt. Rev. John Garbutt at Dundas Center Methodist Church yesterday. Mr. Clarry took as his morning subject "Closing Church Doors," in which he pointed out if we had the faith of our fathers and faith in God it would necessarily follow that our church doors and doors of the soul would always be open, for Christ is the door. Special music was a feature at both services and was of a high order, which included solo and duet numbers and a violin duet.

MAY GET NATURAL GAS AT BELMONT

May Sign Contracts With Owners of Crumlin Field at $1

SAY LINE PURCHASED

In Order to Serve Gas Seven Miles of Line Must Be Laid

Prospects are bright at the present time that Belmont will get natural gas, this time to be supplied from the Saul farm wells at Crumlin. Representatives of the Progressive Gas and Oil Company, owners of the well, were in Belmont last week canvassing contracts and several people signed for gas at $1 per 1,000 feet. The contract only reads for two years, but it is said that at the end of this period the contract can be readily renewed.

A few months ago the Village of Belmont was greatly inconvenienced when the Southern Ontario Gas Company cut off the supply. Many of the residents at this time tore out their gas stoves and fixtures. For these it will be an expensive matter to have the new gas installed, but to a few who still have The company assured them that the gas as soon as it is turned into the main. The company assured them that the gas would be turned on if enough contracts were signed to make it a paying proposition.

PURCHASE LINE.

It is stated that the gas line on the Belmont town line, and franchise, owned by H. J. Barrons, has been purchased by the company, who will inspect the line some time this week and will make any repairs that are needed and new pipes will be laid if necessary. This line runs about three miles north of Belmont, where it is connected with the main line of the Southern Ontario Gas Company. This line was laid by Mr. Barrons some years ago.

If Belmont is supplied with gas it is said that the Progressive Gas and Oil Company will have to lay a main from Crumlin to the newly-purchased line, a distance of some seven miles. This, it is said, will be a considerable cost and there will have to be many contracts signed before it can be made a profitable investment. If this is done gas could not only be supplied to Belmont, but to Nilestown and farmers along the line. No effort has been made as yet to lay the line or has there been any talk of it.

ENOUGH FOR BELMONT.

The company has sufficient gas to supply Belmont, but is talking of drilling more wells, probably in the vicinity of Nilestown. It is the contention of the residents of Belmont that it would be advisable to drill for gas in Yarmouth Township. Some years ago a test well was bored on the Thomson farm in Yarmouth. There were strong indications of gas, but for some unknown reason the drilling was stopped and the well was abandoned. Since then it has been a dead issue.

The gas is said to be of a higher quality than the gas secured from the Tilbury field. It is free of sulpheretted hydrogen, which was prevalent in the Tilbury gas.

LIVE LIFE OF GOD BY DEEDS OF MERCY

Father Brady Preaches Inspiring Sermon at Ct. Mary's Church; Pilgrimage to Cemetery.

"And a certain ruler came from afar and adored Him, saying, 'Lord, my daughter lies dead; come and lay Thy hands upon her that she may live again.' These words, taken from the Gospel, formed part of the inspiring sermon delivered by Rev. Father Brady in St. Mary's Church yesterday morning.

He stated that by these words it was shown that the life of God was taken up by performing acts of good work, mercy and miracles, and were given as a proof of His divinity, as only a person gifted with a divine nature could have the power of performing the hundreds of miracles such as Jesus Christ was credited with.

"On this occasion the people laughed him to scorn," Father Brady stated, "when He told the ruler that his daughter was not dead, but only sleeping, but when He gave them conclusive evidence that He was right when He performed the miracle of restoring her to life, they were ready to believe in Him because they had seen the action with their own eyes.

"The cemetery is the same with us," Father Brady concluded. "The church has set aside a certain piece of consecrated ground for burial purposes, but in reality we, while there, are only sleeping, and on the day of judgment we shall rise to a life of eternal glory."

The annual pilgrimage to St. Peter's Cemetery was made yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by members of the various congregations throughout the city, and a procession, one of the largest in the history of the local churches, led by Bishop Fallon, walked through the grounds publicly reciting the stations of the cross.

NEEDS HELP TO SPREAD GOSPEL

Archdeacon Graham Makes Plea for People of British Columbia Fruit District

SPEAKS AT ST. PAUL'S

Struggling Settlers Are Unable to Support Clergy

Kootenay, the fruit section of British Columbia, was visualized and its ministerial needs emphasized yesterday by the Ven. Archdeacon Graham, who preached at St. Paul's Cathedral in the morning and at Cronyn Memorial Church at night. The archdeacon is a representative of the Missionary Society of the Western Province, and is appealing to the stronger Canadian parishes to help the weaker churches of the West.

Throughout his morning discourse Rev. Mr. Graham told about the missionary work in Kootenay, the district with which he was familiar. The scattered families and the small communities there were held up as examples of conditions prevailing in the vast area of the province. In endeavoring to reach the thousands of rural parishoners the Anglican church had a most difficult task, and one that required financial assistance if it is to accomplish its purpose.

CAN'T SUPPORT CLERGY.

Like Ontario was a hundred years ago so Kootenay is to-day. Mining and lumbering claim a large percentage of the population, while a growing number are taking up fruit ranching as a livelihood. Few were making much money at present, and the great majority had large capital investments and were struggling through the first unprofitable years of their venture, so that they were unable to adequately support the clergy who minister to them.

Local congregations, he pointed out, paid only a portion of the stipends, and the remainder had to be made up by the home mission funds. This augmentation was only possible through the generosity of the stronger parishes, and the archdeacon stressed the individual responsibility for seeing that the new settlers in the West were cared for by the churches. Since the majority of ranchers were English they naturally came to the Church of England. Failure on the part of the Eastern congregation to furnish money was a serious matter as withdrawal of the missionaries was unthinkable.

NO ACTION TAKEN BY MILK PRODUCERS IN REGARD TO PRICES

Routine business only occupied the Middlesex Milk Producers at their meeting held in the office of the department of agriculture here on Saturday. No action was taken regarding milk prices.

There will be a meeting of the Ontario Milk Producers' Association in Toronto next week and the president of the Middlesex association will be in attendance. Discussion of prices and other matters will probably be taken up at the provincial meeting.

The Middlesex association has hopes of being able to put on a milk campaign in London similar to that put on in Toronto several months ago and this matter will be brought before the provincial meeting. There will be a meeting of the county branch shortly after the Toronto meeting.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE

Steel Fruit Truck and Car Owned by C. Roberts Damaged in Accident on Saturday

A delivery truck, owned by the Steele Fruit Company and driven by W. Hammond, was badly wrecked when it collided with an automobile driven by Cecil Roberts, R. R. No. 4, London, at the corner of Talbot and Carling streets on Saturday at noon. The Roberts car also suffered considerable damage.

Police say that the delivery wagon was believed to have been cutting the corner. The truck was traveling west on Carling and turned north on Talbot, the Roberts car, which was proceeding south on Talbot, crashing into the rear end of the truck. Both men escaped injury.

UNVEIL TABLET AT KNOX CHURCH

Ceremony Is Feature of 38th Anniversary Service

MAJOR GRAHAM PREACHES

Col. C. M. R. Graham Uncovers Bronze Memorial Plaque

Knox Presbyterian Church celebrated its 38th anniversary yesterday by impressive services. At the morning service a bronze tablet was unveiled by Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham in memory of the men of the congregation who gave their lives during the Great War. The unveiling service followed the sermon by Rev. Major A. Graham, whose text was Matthew xx., 27: "Whosoever will be chief among you let him be your servant." The sermon developed the thought that the greatest servant is the greatest master; that the commander must first learn discipline, and that in sacrificing self to the fraternal ideal, as did the soldiers of the late war, lies the only way to higher spirituality.

Ater "Last Post," sounded by a trumpeter, the organ pealed forth the solemn notes of the "Dead March in Saul," and as the silken Union Jack fell to the floor at the right of the pulpit the bronze tablet bearing the names of Knox Church's contribution to the imperial sacrifice was revealed.

The tablet carries the following inscription as a perpetual reminder of valourous devotion to duty:

In loving memory of the men of Knox Presbyterian Church who gave their lives in the Great War,
1914-1918.

John Henderson, Angus McKinven, Cuthbert McEwen, Lewellyn Pennie. "Whosoever loseth his life shall find it."

With the tablet fully revealed to the congregation, reverently standing, the trumpeter rendered the "Reveille"—a token of a new day made fairer by the sacrifices of others.

The musical service, under the directioin of Choirmaster Charles E. Percy, was particularly inspiring. The choir sang, "Thy way not mine, oh, Lord," the solo part being taken by Miss Alma Grigg. Mrs. Bay sang Kipling's "Recessional" and Miss Rousom and Mr. Patterson sang "Come Holy Spirit."

An appeal for a special anniversary offering of $2,000 was made.

At the evening service Rev. D. C. MacGregor, of St. Andrew's Church, preached.

WYOMING BANDITS STILL AT LARGE

Whereabouts or Identity of Men Bigger Mystery Than Ever

A MISLEADING RUMOR

Belief That They Were Toronto Bandits Has Been Abandoned

More than four days have gone by without the least light being thrown on the bandits who held up the Bank of Toronto at Wyoming on Wednesday last and escaped with $12,000. The local police on Saturday or yesterday did not receive any information of anyone having seen the bandits or suspects. The belief of the Toronto authorities that it was the work of the Murrell boys is not credited by the local police.

A rumor was current in the city on Saturday night that two of the Wyoming bandits had been arrested in a small town this side of Toronto, but the rumor was without foundation. Hundreds of phone calls were received at thepolice station, asking if the story at the police station, asking if the story Toronto, with the result that they had no news of it.

NOT TORONTO MEN.

The contention that the bank robbery at Wyoming was the work of Toronto bandits has been abandoned since the arrest of three men in the Queen City on Saturday afternoon, who are said to have been identified as the men who held up a Toronto bank a few days ago. The description of these men does not answer to the Wyoming bandits and it is apparent they are a different gang altogether.

It may be that the bandits are hiding within a few miles of London, as there is some mystery as to the route the men took after leaving Denfield. Their tracks to Denfield were plainly seen as far as that village, but after they left there they seemed to drop from sight.

DEAN OF ST. PAUL'S REFERS TO LADY BECK

Memorial Service for Devoted Member of the Congregation.

In St. Paul's Cathedral on Sunday morning the Very Rev. Dean Tucker made the following allusion to the death of Lady Beck:

"Since last we met in this church our congregation has suffered a severe loss, in the person of one of its most devoted members, Lady Beck. Her retiring disposition veiled from the public a character of singular strength and beauty, which, however, was abundantly revealed in the good deeds which she performed. In an age strongly marked by love of self, of ease and of pleasure, she consecrated her many gifts to the service of her needy and suffering fellow men. The Byron Sanatorium will forever stand as a monument of her beneficence. She now rests from her labors and her works do follow her.

"Her call to higher service is a call from God to us remain to be inspired by her example and to follow her footsteps. To her bereaved husband and daughter we would extend our deepest and sincerest sympathy and the assurance of our prayers that God, who alone can minister comfort in such a time of trial, would graciously vouchsafe to them his richest consolation. For is it not written, 'God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble'?"

Appropriate music was arranged for the occasion and the congregation joined with heartfelt sorrow in the memorial features of the service.

CORNER STONE LAID

KITCHENER, Oct. 23.—The corner stone of the new Evangelical church in the west ward, was laid here yesterday afternoon in the presence of several hundred people. The ceremony was in charge of Rev. J. H. Haugh, pastor of the Zion Evangelical Church, assisted by Rev. A. Y. Haist, who has been in charge of the mission. The new edifice will cost about $430,000 and will have a seating capacity of about 800.

REV. J. O. L. SPRACKLIN AT EMPRESS AVE. CHURCH

Urged Men to Fight the Strongholds of Sin in Stirring Sermon Last Night.

Rev. J. O. L. Spracklin, of Sandwich, was the speaker at the anniversary services held in Empress Avenue Methodist Church yesterday, and the edifice was filled to capacity both morning and evening. If there were any who attended the evening service because Mr. Spracklin was to preach, it is safe to say they were glad to be there because of his message. At the commencement of his address he laid out his watch and expressed the hope that it might stop. Before he concluded the large audience would have been pleased if his hope had been realized. His sermon was inspiring and compelled attention. Rev. G. W. Dewey conducted the services.

Both addresses were sermons in the usually accepted meaning of that term. They bore a message direct from the Bible for present-day use. In the evening he urged the necessity for the young men and women to "go out and battle down the strongholds of sin." His morning subject was the place of religion in life. He pointed out that religion is an inspiration and not a restraint.

Basing his evening talk on the rebuilding of the wall of Jerusalem, under the leadership of Nehemiah, Mr. Spracklin asserted that the world today needs men and women with rich, red blood who will dare anything for God.

"The job for rich, red-blooded men is the one that calls out every faculty to its fullness," said the speaker. "An easy job is no good to such men. I have often said to my wife, when about to undertake something specially difficult: 'Wife, I have got to go that way, and if I am counted out at the end of the day just bury me; do not grieve, but look to God, whose will it would be. If you want a rich, red-blooded man's job, young man, take up the burden of the cross and help to build the spiritual walls of Zion."

Special musical selections were rendered by the choir at both services under the leadership of Miss Hazel Taylor. Miss Irene Straitch and Gwendolyn Ware and Mr. Dowling were the soloists.

HIGH COURT DEALS WITH FOUR CASES LOCALLY

Several motions were disposed of by Justice Masten at the weekly sitting of the High Court on Saturday.

Re Premier Langmuir Mines—A motion against certain directors of the company to have them committed to jail for refusal to be examined in connection with the winding-up of the affairs of the company. The court directed that the defendants attend for examination at their own expense. J. G. Ivey appeared for the motion and P. H. Bartlett for other parties.

Re Freda Bover—A motion under the Mortgage Act to have it declared that a certain mortgage had been discharged, the whereabouts of the mortgagee being unknown. It appeared that the mortgage money had all been placed on deposit in a loan company for the purpose of discharging the mortgage, and the court ordered that upon payment of the money into court the mortgage be declared discharged. J. C. Elliott, K. C., appeared for the motion and A. Murphy for the loan company.

Re Sarah McCallum estate—An order was made declaring that M. C. McPhail, a niece of the testator, but referred to in the will as a sister, is entitled to a legacy of $500. J. C. Elliott, K. C., appeared for the motion and F. P. Betts, K. C., for the official guardian.

Re Freda Clydesdale, an infant — A motion for the custody of a child by the mother was argued and reserved. The child, who is now 11 years of age, has been with foster parents practically since birth. J. B. McKillop, K. C., appeared for the mother; J. M. McEvoy, K. C., and J. P. Moore, K. C., for the foster parents.

KILL TAXI DRIVER WITH RAIL SPIKE

Harry Stron, of Toronto, Dies After Mysterious Fray

DRAGS HIMSELF HALF MILE

Too Far Gone Then to Tell Details of Attack

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—A Toronto taxi driver, Harry Stron, aged about 24, died this morning in the hospital as a result of a murderous attack upon him on Saturday night by parties still unknown, who also robbed their victim of a considerable sum of money. With his skull fractured and bleeding from several wounds Stron managed to drag himself nearly half a mile, guided by a light in a window, to get help, but was so far gone when he arrived that he could not tell what had happened. Near the pool of blood where he had been left in a dying condition the detectives found a blood-stained railway spike.

Investigations by the police revealed that Stron had been engaged at his regular stand about 6.15 on Saturday evening to drive a party out Yonge street, but no description of the parties who entered the car could be obtained.

The theory of the police is that when Stron arrived at Finch's Corners, which is a couple of miles northwest of the city, one of the occupants dealt the driver a blow from the back seat. Stron appears to have halted his machine and tried to defend himself. Blood was found on the windshield, on the seat and floor of the car, also on the front bumper. He had been dragged about 10 yards from the car before the struggle ended, judging by the presence of a pool of blood that distance from the car.

Stron is said to have been a quiet, reserved man.

Let No Corn Spoil an Hour

Any Corn Can Be Stopped Now, Any Moment, by a Touch

SCIENCE has solved the corn problem. One can now stop a corn ache instantly, and shortly remove the whole corn.

The method is gentle, scientific, sure. A famous chemist invented it. A surgical dressing house of world-wide fame produces it.

It is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. A touch applies it. The pain stops at once. Soon the whole corn, however ancient, loosens and comes out.

It makes harsh treatments unnecessary. It makes paring ridiculous. It makes every corn ache a folly.

False Claims.

WE hope there is no Mother who thinks she can treat her sick baby without calling in a Physician, or with remedies that she uses for herself.

Most Mothers know that Baby requires remedies especially prepared for babies, yet there are some who think that what is good enough for them is good enough for Baby, and it is to these Mothers we appeal to give nothing to their babies that is not specially prepared for babies or recommended by their Physician.

False claims may kill, but false claims can never restore your child.

For over thirty years Fletcher's Castoria has been aiding in the reduction of the deaths among infants as Mothers have become more and more acquainted with it. Always keep it in the house.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good — that it can't do any harm — and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

Crippled with Rheumatic Gout

"Legs and feet so bad could not stand."

Our portrait is of Mrs. JESSIE E. MURPHY, of 26a, White's Square, Nelson's Row, Clapham, London, S.W., England, who writes:—"I feel I must write and let you know how thankful I am for the benefit I have derived from taking your famous Clarke's Blood Mixture. For four months I was crippled with Rheumatic Gout and my legs and feet were so bad I could not stand. My doctor ordered me to bed in blankets and there I stayed for a whole fortnight, but did not get any better. At last I decided to try your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and after having four bottles I am now quite well, able to do my work, and get about again. It is now four weeks since I left off taking Clarke's Blood Mixture and I have felt no signs of Rheumatism since my wonderful recovery. My friends gave up hope of seeing me about again, and I myself can hardly realise that I have suffered so much. My mother, who is a sufferer from the same complaint, is now taking it and already feels better. I will do my best to recommend Clarke's Blood Mixture to my friends, and to show you my thanks you have my permission to make whatever use you please with this letter."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Rheumatism, Gout, should realise that lotions, ointments, &c., can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, the true cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take and free from injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores.

Salvationists Jailed On First Visit To London; Woman Leader Got Civic Welcome Yesterday

Throngs Hear Major Mary Booth in Address at Citadel and at Patricia Theater

Three great meetings yesterday marked the visit of Major Mary Booth, granddaughter of General William Booth, founder of the Army, and daughter of the present head of the world-wide organization, to London.

The morning service was held in the Clarence street citadel and there was an afternoon and evening service at the Patricia Theater, from which hundreds were turned away for lack of room.

At the afternoon service Mayor E. S. Little extended Major Booth and party a civic welcome, and asked her, on behalf of the Corporation of London, to urge her father also to visit the city on his coming visit.

LIGHTHOUSE OF HOPE.

His worship, in his address of welcome, stated his personal opinion that the Salvation Army is the greatest religious organization in the world, that it stands a lighthouse of hope amidst the crumbling foundations of orthodoxy.

Particular significance was attached to this civic welcome on the part of the Mayor of London, for, 55 years ago, when the preachers of the gospel of "blood and fire" first began their work in London, they were ignominously thrown into jail.

A vote of thanks was then moved by the mayor and was seconded by Dr. D. H. Arnott. The audience carried that vote with an enthusiasm seldom seen in British audiences. The whole audience arose to its feet and cheered the "little major" to the echo.

Major Booth, in replying, stated that she was very grateful to London for the reception given her and that she would ask her father when she returned home to make a point of visiting this city.

EXPERIENCES IN WAR.

She then told of her experiences during the late war. She, with many other Salvation Army women, were assigned for special hospital work in France, and never before in the history of wars has such a service been rendered as those women rendered.

One of their duties, and the telling of it brought tears to the eyes of the strongest men, was to implant a farewell kiss on the lips of the dying warriors, who were giving their young lives for the empire, far removed from mother, wife, sister or sweetheart.

In that fitful twilight which precedes, Christians believe, the dawn of a fairer day came these vestals of the homeland to the side of the dying, whose groping hands stretched out feebly, aimlessly for mother hands in England, Canada, Australia, and those hands were clasped by the Salvation Army angels of hospitals, brows damp with the death dew were smoothed and the parting soul went out into the darkness bearing the mother-kiss of Britain by a sort of sacred proxy.

IN THE CANTEENS.

She told of the work of the Salvation Army canteens that were pitched within short gun range of the enemy lines, where they could serve the men sealed by death serene in an unexampled faith. All hours of the night they served, and divisional commanders, more thoughtful for the Salvation Army workers than they were for themselves, issued strict orders that tea and cocoa were not to be served after certain hours. But the Army of the Cross disobeyed orders of mere generals. They carried on, heedful of the weary men returning from trench hells, mindful of those, like ancient gladiators, that were about to die.

The evening service equaled the other services in spiritual enthusiasm. The major spoke on the subject of hope. That is, she began, but no Salvationist can speak long on any subject but the love of God. And in her final appeal that men welcome this love of God which passeth all understanding hundreds responded, and local officers report, happily, the birth of new souls into the kingdom.

Col. McMillan and Staff Capt. Smith are accompanying Miss Booth. The band of No. 1 corps rendered its usual inspiring contribution to the service of song and praise.

The Greatest Sin

At last night's monster Salvation Army meeting in the Patricia Theater, from which hundreds were turned away, Major Mary Booth, granddaughter of General William Booth, the founder of the Christian Soldiers, told an incident in which the "old general," as the leader is affectionately called, told what he considered humanity's deadliest sin.

Two little granddaughters, Mary and Lillian, ran into General Booth's home for tea. And there in a simple English cottage in a room redolent with the homely odor of crisping toast, Lillian, since dead, asked: "Grandfather, what do you think is the sin that is drawing down the most people to destruction?"

"And the general shook his head," said Major Mary Booth recalling the childhood incident. "He shook his head and said: 'Ah, my child, it isn't any one sin that is drawing men down to destruction except the general sin of delay, delay, delay. Delay in accepting God's infinite love.'"

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

This is a Short Letter, But It Proves the Reliability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Bothwell, Ont.—"I was weak and run down, had no appetite and was nervous. The nurse who took care of me told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and now I am getting strong. I recommend your medicine to my friends, and you may use my testimonial."—Mrs. W. J. Brady, R. R. 2, Bothwell, Ont.

The reason why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so successful in overcoming woman's ills is because it contains the tonic, strengthening properties of good old-fashioned roots and herbs, which act on the female organism. Women from all parts of the country are continually testifying to its strengthening, beneficial influence, and as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs it is a safe medicine for women.

If you want special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read, and answered by women only.

THREE TORONTO BANDITS CAUGHT

Remanded to Jail After Preliminary Hearing on Saturday

MAY GET FOURTH SOON

Recognition Easily Made by Members of Bank Staff

TORONTO, Oct. 22.—Jos Koplansky, Andrew Sarchuk, aias Cooper, and Sam Senlioff, arrested to-day by Toronto police in connection with the robbery of the Bank of Hamilton here last Tuesday, have been positively identified by the manager and staff of the bank as three of the bandits who participated in the robbery.

The police declare that they are hopeful of apprehending the fourth bandit soon. The car used by the bandits, now in possession of the police, is almost a total wreck and is said to have been owned by Sarchuk.

Miss Velma Harris, the teller of the bank, who was among the employees held up by the bandits, when confronted with Cooper in the bank room of the detective bureau, where there were a score of people, picked out Cooper as the driver of the car without hesitation.

Miss Harris, a bit nervous, but showing wonderful self-control, was led into the room and asked to pick out the man that held her up. Looking over the room she turned to the corner where Senlioff sat in an ugly mood. "That's the man," she said, as she pointed him out. "Let him put a green cap on." A green cap was secured and placed on his head. "That's him, positively," she said.

Ex-Constable Joe Burns, who met the robbers coming out of the door, also picked out Senlioff. The three men are charged as follows:

"Being armed with offensive weapons they did rob the Bank of Hamilton branch, Ossington and College, of $3,040."

The men appeared in police court today and were remanded until the 28th.

SAYS HE'S IN THE E. ELGIN FIELD

D. McIntyre, of Yarmouth, to Be on Liberal Ticket

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 23.—(By Staff Reporter).—Daniel McIntyre, of Yarmouth, was in the city yesterday, and is authority for the announcement that he will be a candidate in the interests of Hon. Mackenzie King and the Liberal party in East Elgin, regardless of what other members of the patry may think about amalgamation with the Conservative forces. Mr. McIntyre was a candidate some years ago, but was defeated by a small majority on two or three occasions. He is not at the present time considered a very serious opponent, and his entry into the field would, it is stated, only make victory for the National Liberal and Conservatives doubly sure.

A convention will be held in Aylmer on October 31, when the matter will be finally disposed of. The majority of the executive of the party are opposed to placing a man in the field, preferring to lend their support to the Government candidate with a view to defeating the U.F.O. nominee. Mr. McIntyre, while opposed to the principles and doctrine of Hon. T. A. Crerar and his followers, nevertheless thinks he can win the riding for the Liberals, and declares that he is ready and anxious to take the chance.

FRIENDS AGAIN?

The U.F.O.-Labor forces in West Elgin are said to be once more united with the exception of a few followers of the two defeated nominees, and a number who have become disgusted with the doctrine being preached by Hon. T. A. Crerar. Last night the local executive of the I.L.P. journeyed to Dutton, though it was not officially announced that they were going. In fact, one Labor man denied absolutely that it was necessary to confer with the Farmers, that they had pledged their support to A. E. Hookway, who is Labor's nominee. The trip to Dutton was made last night, however, and it is said that another little war, similar that of a week ago in this city, was staged, but on a much smaller scale as there were only a few in attendance. It is reported that a large delegation of U.F. supporters, who were to have been at the meeting, journeyed to St. Thomas to hear the premier, and consequently were not present.

There will, however, be no new Labor convention, according to reports, the leaders being of the opinion that there has been enough strife already, and they are now ready to take a chance on organizing a sufficiently large Labor vote in the city to elect Hookway.

GATES AT ST. KITTS BROKEN; CANAL BLOCKED

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 30.—Navigation is again in progress on the Welland Canal after a lapse of nine hours, caused by the tearing away of two headgates at lock No. 3 by the wooden steamer, Robert R. Rhodes, of the Hall Company, Montreal, upbound. Failure of the engines to respond promptly to the signal to reverse allowed the boat to push the headgates out of alignment, the pressure of water from above wrenching them off and hurling the steamer into the level below. No serious damage was caused to the Rhodes, but the rushing waters tore out the new water main from St. Catharines, which supplies the Village of Port Dalhousie. Dalhousie's water supply will remain cut off until after the close of navigation.

WEST INDIANS SUFFERING.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Oct. 23.—Thousands of West Indians are destitute on the Isthmus of Panama, unable to secure employment, according to reports reaching here from the isthmus, and a popular movement has been inaugurated in Jamaica for a subscription to help the sufferers, the establishment of soup kitchens being one of the means devised. The Government here meanwhile is taking steps to repatriate the destitute Jamaicans among the needy on the isthmus.

GAUTHIER WOULD DONATE RAILWAYS

Give Them to the Provinces If to Anyone, He Says

BREAKS YEAR'S SILENCE

Tells Why He Quit Liberals and Did Not Join Government

ST. HYACINTHE, Que., Oct. 23.—Addressing a largely-attended open-air meeting here this afternoon L. J. Gauthier, M. P., in the recently-dissolved Parliament for St. Hyacinthe, broke a silence of almost a year and gave the reasons why he had left the Liberal party in the last session of Parliament.

His main reasons were, he said, because of the Liberal planks in their 1919 convention and because of Liberal endeavors to form an alliance with the Farmers' party.

The reason why he did not join the Meighen Government was, he said, because financial interests and other influences in Toronto had been strong enough to prevent Premier Meighen from giving him the portfolio of railways and canals, which he felt would have meant full justice for the Province of Quebec. He stated that he had been offered the department of marine, that of militia, the secretaryship of state, but had been refused the railway department.

FAVORS ALLIANCE.

He affirmed his belief that the Province of Quebec should form an alliance with Ontario, but not with the Farmers' party in that province, and explained his belief to mean that Quebec should form an alliance after the elections with the Government members elected in Ontario.

As to the railway problem, Mr. Gauthier gave it as his view that neither the Flavelle nor the Shaughnessy plan should be adopted. The department of trade and commerce should, in his opinion, aid the situation as regards the railways and the national merchant marine by securing foreign markets for Canadian products, and if there are any presents of railways to be made he urged that the Federal Government should give the railways to the various provinces.

Following the meeting Mr. Gauthier announced that he would be a candidate in St. Hyacinthe-Rouville division at the forthcoming federal elections, running as a Liberal-Protectionist.

LIBERALS CHANGED.

He denied thata he was a traitor, or that he had been sold. He had preached the Liberal doctrine for 25 years and had not become a Tory. It was the Liberals who had changed, not he. Go into the history of his alliance with the Meighen Government, Mr. Gauthier said that in September, 1920, he met a Liberal leader of the province of Quebec in this city and had been told by him that the Liberal party was making an alliance with the Farmer party. He had told the leader that under no circumstances would he consent to such an alliance. Another reason for his refusal to ally with the Farmer's party was thata the census showed 62 per cent. of the people in the West were of non-British stock and in Alberta 68 per cent. were American. Further, the Farmer's movement under Wood, who refused to be naturalized, was a danger to the country. Finally, he concluded, that he did not want to have anything to do with the farmer's movement, because it was a class movement and because it lead to annexation with the United States.

In the face of these circumstances he had consented to negotiate yith the Meighen Government, but had done nothing underhand, as he claimed some Liberal chiefs are now trying to do.

INSPECTOR KILLED IN FALL THROUGH TRAP

Harry Arnold, of Ridgeville, Meets Fatal Accident at St. Kitts

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 23.—Harry Arnold, 56, of Ridgeville, Government inspector, was instantly killed early last evening when he fell through a trapdoor in the rear of W. W. Walker's flower store into the basement, breaking his neck. He had left his overcoat in the florist's private quarters in the rear and was hurrying back to get it and did not notice the open trap in time to avoid the fatal plunge. He leaves two sons and three daughters at Ridgeville.

An inquest was opened and adjourned to a later date.

IDENTIFIES McKERRACHER AS FORMER TORONTO MAN

TORONTO, Oct. 23.—Miles McKerracher, aged about 21, who formerly lived at 173 Jarvis street, this city, lost his life in the tunnel train wreck at Golden, B.C. The first intimation received here of his death was on Saturday afternoon, when detective headquarters received a wire which stated that papers dated July 5 last, found on his body, contained the address of 172 James street, Toronto. There is no such number on that street, but B. J. McKerracher, of the composing room of The Mail and Empire, a cousin of the deceased, was able to establish the identity of the wreck victim as the son of Peter McKerracher, of Kincardine, Ont. He telephoned Gregory P. McKerracher, of the Maples, 15 Bain avenue, a brother of the deceased, who had not previously been apprised of the tragedy, who said that recently his brother, who left Toronto about four months ago, had written from Vancouver that he was about to leave for the East.

INCENDIARY FIRE, $10,000 DAMAGE

Brantford Plant Fired by Use of Oil-Soaked Waste

HOLD AN INVESTIGATION

Second Blaze of This Nature Within Four Days

BRANTFORD, Oct. 23.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The plant of the Bluebird Corporation, manufacturers of washing machines, was deliberately fired here to-night about 9 o'clock. Oil-soaked waste placed in one corner of the galvanized iron storehouse had been lighted by candles. The blaze had a good start before it was observed and the firemen did well to keep the loss down to $10,000.

The shed contained raw material and finished products, and these were destroyed. Had the blaze succeeded in getting into the new addition to the main part of the plant it would have undoubtedly swept through the entire building, causing a huge monetary loss.

After the fire had been extinguished police found what remained of the oil-soaked waste with pieces of candle near by. An investigation will be held and the authorities will endeavor to run down the culprit. As yet suspicions are directed against no one.

This is the second such fire in four days. Similar waste was used to fire two lumber piles in the yard of the Mickle-Dymant Lumber Company. An investigation was held regarding that fire, but there were no further developments.

There was every indication that the child had come from a distance, but there is no clue by which it can be identified. It is being cared for by the Children's Aid Society here.

MR. MEIGHEN FIGHTS ON THE DEFENSIVE TO SAVE FISCAL POLICY

Interesting Point Brought Out by Senator Sir George Foster at St. Thomas

KEEN THRUSTS AT KING DELIGHT BIG AUDIENCE

Premier Meighen Also Discusses More Vulnerable Points in Liberal Armor

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 22.—(By Staff Reporter.)—"In 1911 the Liberals would not go any farther with reduction of duty on implements than 17 per cent., because to do so would destroy industries and throw men on to the street. To-day their platform calls for free entry of the implements of production. Our tariff, which averages 21 per cent., is called by Mr. King a tariff for trusts, combines and monopolies. Then what was the Laurier tariff, with a general average of 26 per cent.? And if by reducing the tariff we help combines and trusts we had better not reduce it any more."

Premier Meighen apparently runs across a few more vulnerable points each day in Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's arguments. His dissection of the tariff plank in the Liberal platform at the Star Theater here this evening provided an hour's genuine entertainment for an audience of 1,800. Some of the humorous aspects of the case were evidently new to Sir Henry Drayton and tickled that dignified minister into hearty laughter. The audience, mixed as it no doubt was, displayed great cordiality and the several interpolations from the body of the house during the addresses were of a distinctly friendly nature. There were many new features in the premier's address, including an exposure of The Farmers' Sun allegation that he moved in 1911 for free implements and an official statement from Gen. J. H. MacBrien, chief of the general staff, proving the entire inaccuracy of a charge made by Mr. King on Friday that the Government had been purchasing munitions.

FOSTER IN GOOD FORM

A. A. Ingram presided over the gathering, which was addressed also by Sir George Foster, Sir Henry Drayton and Hugh C. McKillop, National Liberal and Conservative candidate in West Elgin. It was past 10 o'clock when Senator Foster was called upon, as the last speaker, but the veteran was in rare form and not only held his audience without difficulty, but greatly delighted them by his keen thrusts at Mr. King's tariff proposals.

In view of the triumphal character of the premier's campaign tour and the aggressive manner in which he has carried the war into the enemy's camp, on the tariff issue, special interest attaches to a point brought out by Sir George Foster that Mr. Meighen is, in fact, fighting a defensive action to preserve the existnig fiscal policy of the Dominion, which is challenged by both groups of the Opposition.

'The prime minister is simply holding what Canada has declared for the past 40 years should be held," he said. "This question the prime minister has been talking to you about to-night was talked about in 1874-5-6-7-8, and after a campaign as thorough as any campaign ever put on in this country, by an overwhelming vote the revenue tariff people were routed, and the principle of protection was implanted in the fiscal history of this country. (Applause.) The implantation of 1878 has never been rooted out. They went to it again four or five years after, in 1882, and it was the same principle of protection or the revenue tariff or something which was not protection, and again the people of this country voted and by a large majority kept the principle of protection in its tariff relation.

"And so after every election thereafter until 1896, when it was not so much talked about, but the Liberal-Conservative party went out of power, the Liberal party came in, but the principle of protection remained in their tariffs for the 15 years they were in power and was there when they left it and is there to-day. (Applause.)

"Now the prime minister and the party that supports him had no better wish than that the same principle of protection should be maintained for another five years. They had no other wish than that it should be continued. Who raised the question? The Liberal party, under Mr. King at the present time, raised the question. They called a convention. They are not autocrats. (Laughter.) They are democrats. Mr. King would not for the life of him write a single line to a tariff policy to affect this Dominion of Canada unless he first took the democratic course of calling the delegates of his party together and in conference, getting their idea of what they thought they needed as a tariff platform, and then elect their leaders to carry them out.

"The prime minister asks: 'Is he going to carry out that platform or not?' What a question for the prime minister to ask, even to hint, to Mr. King, a democrat, that if he is not going to stand by that party platform, laid down in that democratic way, he should say he is not going to stand by it! And then where do you have Mr. King? An autocrat of the autocrats, assuming to ride roughshod over what the delegates from every part of the Dominion said. That is the law and the gospel, the letter and the spirit within the letter. (Applause.)

WHY ALL THE TROUBLE?

"Now they say they want the Laurier tariff. What under God's heavens did they call that convention together for and sweiter three days in Ottawa if that was all they wanted? We had that before. Why did they call a convention in 1919 to make another? 'The letter killeth and the spirit maketh alive.' The letter is the thing that is the noose around the necks of Mr. King's party to-day. Do they stand four-square for that platform? It was the worst misfortune of that party, politically, that they tied themselves down to a platform wherein the schedules were laid out, and bound themselves to that platform."

Mr. Ingram, in his opening remarks as chairman, said: "I see the faces of men and women whose political views I have reason to believe do not coincide with those of the premier and the National Liberal and Conservative party. When you leave here to-night I have no doubt you will have a clear and concise statement before you of the principles of that party. We will expect you all to go and do missionary work for it. We have a candidate in West Elgin who is a broad-shouldered man, and I am sure when the votes are counted we will send down an active supporter of the Government in Hugh C. McKillop."

"I wish to assure you I will do all that I can to win this election, if straight forward and honest methods will win it," said Mr. McKillop. "I am proud to be a follower of our premier and I stand willing to support his fiscal policy."

SIR HENRY DRAYTON.

"What changes have taken place in this country since 1911, that protection can be dispensed with?" asked Sir Henry Drayton. "You had a different financial position then. You have won the war, but the war yet has got to be paid for before we can say we have indeed won the war and that this country has made good the claim established for Canada by our gallant soldiers, and the finances of this country put upon a safe and sound foundation. You know the demands we had to make were inescapable, and that the Government was no no more responsible than for the declaration of war. The cost of your businesses has increased, and the cost of carrying on the country has increased in a like manner, but I venture to say none of you have seen a comparison made by the gentleman to-day making charges of extravagance with the increased cost of government in Canada or anywhere else, for the good reason that we have nothing to fear from such comparison."

"The revenues have to be secured. You have had this drop in customs of $52,000,000, and your revenues have been looked after. I would like, if I had time, to talk about one of the greatest underlying troubles of the whole civilized world—unemployment—and to ask you why we should have any of it that we can prevent. I wonder how many workmen's homes were ever built or maintained by a 'revenue tax.' There is only one real basis for protection, and that is the maintenance of such a condition as will enable the Canadian people to obtain the largest possible degree of employment, at proper rates, in every industry that ought to be carried on in Canada, having regard to our climate, resources and population." (Applause.)

THE PREMIER.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was given a tremendously enthusiastic tribute of cheering and applause as he came forward to speak, and was presented with a basket of flowers by Miss Lolo Boehmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Boehmer, of Margaret street.

"As your chairman and Sir Henry Drayton have said, we have many "but not half as many ahead as we have overcome during the past eight years. The great lines of policy we have had to face we have decided. The great problems we have had to solve, the solution of them is pretty much one and all under way. The future is bright, if only we keep our heads up and hopes high. Just let us walk straight ahead, as good Canadians, and there are no pitfalls ahead we cannot avoid, and no mountains we cannot scale. (Applause.)

"In the last month I have been impressed as never before how fortunate this country is. I would like the City of St. Thomas to apply any test they like to the condition of Canada to-day, and that of any other country you care to name, and then tell me how Canada stands the test. Have you been often in the country to the south, which certainly ought to be the most prosperous of all people of the world, who for three years were the great salesmen to the allies, and indeed the enemy world—chiefly, let us be thankful, the allied world—and who were in the war for only one-third of it, and who commenced the war the richest, strongest commercial nation in the universe? Compare our contition to-night with theirs, and I don't know any standard of comparison that will place us behind save the comparison of debt. Possibly in point of finance they are somewhat stronger per capita proportionately, but not very much, and tried by the test of trade, employment and general healthy conditions among the workmen and all classes of people this country is in a better condition than the United States.

A LAND OF CANAAN.

"But if we go to the older countries of the world, you won't need to travel more than a hundred yards to learn that we are in a veritable land of Canaan, and the ills from which other nations suffer are virtually unknown among us. There one would be laughed to scorn if he talked about the difficulties of Canada, or ventured to suggest, as certain perambulating politicians do night after night, that this country is lying prostrate, prostrated by a wicked government.

"I would like the people of St. Thomas to review how prostrate they are, and how paralyzed is your city. After you have meditated, and wept over the troubled condition of this city, I would like you to read what observers and authorities on finance, the world over, say of this country. I am sorry for the individual who thinks there is anything very prostrate about St. Thomas. If ever there was a city that had every sign and evidence of healthy, sound condition, the people happy in their homes, and all these things we like to see in a Canadian city, you have it here, and if you get the opinion of anyone outside the partisan circles of this country, any writer on finance in Britain or the United States, any financial paper, any observer from any country outside, tell me if you find one who comments adversely in the slightest degree upon our financial and trade condition and general prosperity."

"The man cannot be found, but I can refer you to a dozen who point to this country as an example to the nations to-day, and some who unhesitatingly say that in the soundness of our financial position, and strength of our trade position and general sound conditions that prevail, we are the best of all countries of the world. (Applause.)

ALWAYS TALKS TARIFF.

"Yet I am told that I am trying to force the tariff issue to keep the people from considering the Government's record. Mr. Crerar has never made a speech in the past five years without talking the tariff resolutions he had moved in the House and passed in convention, and the people asked to decide what they wanted, found there was a great railway question, and a great trouble about defense, and that the Government was so extravagant that he could scarcely sleep at night over our financial position. (Laughter). And he was also very much alarmed about the public accounts, became itchy to get at them to see what was wrong, and now I find he is worried half to death over high explosives." (Applause and laughter).

The prime minister compared the per capita cost for defense, $2.15 in Canada, with that of $13.13 in the United States and $22.36 in Britain, and demanded to know if Canadians desired to do without a nucleus of a defense force; wait until the guns begin to sound, and then attempt to build up a militia with nobody to build it up.

"Did anybody ever do that in the living world?" he asked. A man in the audience answered, "Not if they are wise," and the crowd applauded.

"Surely we are a nation now," continued the premier, "and have to stand on our feet and act the part of a nation. (Applause). Britain, which would cut it down to the last tuppenny they dared, yet knowing the world in which they live, the British people tax themselves this year $22.36 per head.

"When this disarmament conference is over it will be to bring other countries down to something near what we are paying, but after it has done its best I don't know that this country will want Canada to bear so small a share as she bears right now of the burden of defense.

"As a people, we committed a railway folly, and the people must pay. We were not led into that folly in this Dominion by the Government that has to lead us out. There is just a touch of tragedy, rather than comedy, about a band of men who themselves were members of the administration that plunged this country over the precipice we went over in 1903-4, just a touch of tragedy in these men standing aside now and pointing the finger of scorn at us in our struggles to see the country through it, and at the same time appealing to the Canadian people to be restored to power; they who squandered all but $500,000,000 of our money on transcontinental roads we did not need, appealing to be re-establish economy in Canada. (Applause).

SAVED $600,000 A YEAR.

"On the printing bureau, by reorganization, we have saved the country $600,000 a year, and large amounts in other departments and cut down on public works, and because we have done that ruthlessly through the Dominion, that is the main source of unpopularity we encounter. It is not because we have been extravagant, but because we have not. If we lose certain seats in this Dominion, it will be because we have not spent money, and not because we have.

"I don't know what is going to happen if Mr. King gets into power, by any miracle, and carries out the promises he is making now. Great evangelistic appeals on the subject of economy, and yet he will enlarge the gauge of a railway or build this and that, all sorts of commitments here, there and everywhere, while he condemns anything spent two or three thousand miles from where he is talking. It is a class of politics I thought had been forgotten in this country many years ago. (Hear, hear).

"I have just heard that The Farmers' Sun has a big headline across the page, that I once wanted the free entry of farm implements of production myself. That is a perversion—an intentional, deliberate perversion of the truth. The man who wrote it knew that it was absolutely false, because he quoted farther down, in smaller print, the resolution that I moved. I moved a resolution, when a private member of the House, in 1911, a member of the Opposition, when the average duty on farm implements was 20.23 per cent., that the time had come when a substantial reduction could be made, and I said as well that the substantial reduction should be made, and was in just accord with the true principles of a protective tariff. (Applause). I supported it in a speech, and in that speech, from beginning to end, I stood foursquare to the principle of protection, not only for agricultural implements but all producers of this Dominion. Have I been inconsistent? I never did believe in any further protection than was essential to give the industrial life of this country a fair chance with its competitor in the other country with which it must compete. No more than that did I ask for, and no more do I ask to-day, but no less than that is of any value. (Applause).

CONDEMNS THE SUN.

"When I moved it I was opposed by the very men, on the then Government side of the House, by Mr. Fielding, Mr. King, who now leads the Opposition. Sir Wilfrid Laurier saw to it that it never came to a vote. When the new Government came in at the end of the year, on the first tariff revision the resolution I had moved as a private member was put into effect and a substantial reduction was made on the duty of agricultural implements, and to-day, as a result of the reduction we have made, the average duty is 14.6 per cent., instead of 20.32. Is that fair and consistent public conduct, and what do you think of a newspaper, which in the face of a resolution worded as plainly as that was and in the face of what took place, prints a glaring headline across its page, 'Meighen favored free implements'? What of the consistency of these very men, who, when the tariff was 20.32, were determined it should not be reduced, and now that it is 14.32 say it should be all swept away, because it is high protection?

"We must maintain a protective system, a fair and moderate system, but sufficiently high that the industries of Canada can get on and expand and do business in competition with the industries far bigger across the line. That is the policy we have practiced and that is the policy on which we now stand. I do not feel like arguing that in St. Thomas. I only encountered one man here who harbored the theory that we could get along without protection, and he hasn't a vote. (Laughter.) This thing that Mr. Crerar says is a moral enormity is the practice of every civilized country on the globe."

INDUSTRIES ARE CHIEF.

Sir George Foster took occasion to expose the inaccuracy of an impression given by speakers at U. F. O. meetings that farm products are the greatest in this country, whereas the industrial products of the country are valued at nearly $3,000,000,000 annually, and those of agriculture, fisheries, timber and mines all put together total about $2,500,000,000.

"Is is this a time," he asked, "when we should strip from that immense production of our country that which it has been found necessary to protect it and devote ourselves entirely to the development of our great natural resources? I would have a question to put to Mr. Crerar if he were here. I would say: 'Your talk is excellent, Mr. Crerar, about our going to work to develop these natural resources. How do you propose to set about doing it?' There are our great mineral resources, scattered here and there all over the country. What do they require? Will you have the Government work the mines? You will not. Then you must have capital, you must have labor, and you may put all the capital and labor in Canada in front of our mineral wealth, and they have to solve another question. Who will buy our product after we develop it? If you stand behind a political party which is out for the sacrifice of our industrial life and is for the development of our natural resources alone you have got to ask yourselves what is the condition of the market here and the markets in the other parts of the world, and if we put our money and labor in that and find that we could only do it slowly and gradually and by little steps, one after the other, where are we to get the market for it? It is the market that stimulates production, and nothing else in the wide world.

"I am not going to vote in this election and let my influence go to back up this mighty and distributed industrial development of our country in its collective form by taking down the bars and leaving it to the competition of the countries of the world, who are every one of them putting up the bars whilst we propose to take ours down. And I am not doing that in the interests of employers, but in the interests of employment in this country.

"It is a mistake to suppose that tariff protection is primarily for the manufacturing classes. The groundwork of the protective principle is to stimulate production and stimulate it by giving a chance for the employment of labor on these immense natural resources of ours, that we may keep our people and those who come to us, and by fair industrial employment to keep that most valuable of all our classes, the artisans and workmen, generally so called, which make up so great a part of the virtue and substance and strength of any great country.

"Mr. King says there is a railway question. So there is. But it is settled. There is this debt of $2,500,000,000 and this immense amount of interest. Isn't it fearful, this load, and the trouble we have to carry it on? The inference from all his talk is this: 'Just get Mr. Meighen out and put me in, and in some way, which I shall not attempt definitely to explain to you, but which you may infer from my talk, suddenly the debt will diminish, your taxes will come down and you will be on the highway to enjoying all the benefits of civilization, with none of the taxation which is generally supposed to be necessary to bring that condition about. (Laughter.)

"The debt is settled; we cannot repudiate it. The interest must be paid, and so that is a settled question. Mr. King talks about the shipbuilding of the Government, but the ships are built, the money is paid. Mr. King's coming in or staying out does not alter that in the least fraction."

M'DIARMID FOR KENT FARMERS

Selected as Candidate at Chatham Convention

A. B. McCOIG ATTACKED

Denies Charge That He Is a "Schemer"

CHATHAM, Oct. 23.—Duncan Robert McDiarmid, of Howard Township, was yesterday selected as the candidate for the United Farmers in Kent in the coming federal election. Fourteen names were brought forward at the convention, all but three of whom retired from the contest. The three who were voted upon were D. R. McDiarmid, D. L. McCreary, of Wallaceburg, and James C. McGuigan, of Cedar Springs. The meeting was called by the Kent Farmers' Political Association and was presided oved by Elliott W. Hardey, of Kent bridge.

The feature of the convention was an attempt on the part of the supporters of A. B. McCoig, who has been nominated as an Independent Liberal, to secure the indorsation of the meeting for their candidate. The Independent Labor, party of Chatham, was asked to send delegates to the meeting, and it was through them that the political ball was fired to secure McCoig's indorsation. Mr. McCoig, who was present at the convention, was called upon to address the meeting after his name had been placed in nomination. He, however, stated that he could not accept the recall system and the free trade features in the Crerar platform, and he was thus ruled out as a possibility for the nomination, as the farmers assembled were determined that their candidate should follow closely the platform and leadership of the National Progressive party.

SCORES A. B. McCOIG.

The meeting had its warm spots. J. C. McGuigan, one of the candidates for the nomination, made the charge that McCoig was a trimmer, and he saw in the movement of the labor delegates the working of the "McCoig machine." He charged that McCoig had organized a machine to beat the people out of their fair, square vote. When he had proceeded thus far a commotion was caused among the McCoig supporters at the meeting who were there as spectators, the convention having been thrown open to the public. Mr. McGuigan continued with the charge that McCoig was a schemer with an "organized gang" behind him, and also charged that McCoig has been pulling the wool over the eyes of the people of Kent. McCoig in his speech branded the charges as untrue.

A resolution was passed at the meeting expressing confidence in Premier Drury and Hon. T. A. Crerar. Addresses were also delivered by A. A. Powers, of Toronto, an active member of the U. F. O., and Mrs. Prenter, a Labor candidate, of Toronto.

ABSENCE OF FLAG NOTED AT GOTHAM

Not Flown From City Hall for Admiral Beatty

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Considerable controversy developed to-day over the absence of the Union Jack from the flagpole over the city hall during the civic welcome to Admiral Lord David Beatty yesterday. Two days before the arrival of the British admiral Gen. Diaz, Italy's war hero, was given the freedom of the city and, in addition to being included in the entrance decorations, the flag of Italy was flown from a flagstaff on the roof of the city hall. Yesterday the Stars and Stripes and the city colors occupied the places of honor. The British flag was used only in the entrance decorative scheme.

A reporter from The New York World interviewed Mayor Hylan and asked the reason for the apparent discrimination. The mayor is quoted as replying: "Don't bother me. Don't be a nuisance."

Another New York paper reports a civic official as stating that a civic ordinance has been discovered which prevented the flying of a foreign flag over the city hall. This obscure civic measure had not been discovered, he said, until after the welcome given Gen. Diaz on Wednesday.

While the Union Jack did not occupy the position of honor at the city hall, it fluttered from that position on the flagstaffs of Broadway buildings for the first time in many months.

KING MUNITION CHARGE EXPLODED

Shell Shipment Is a Loan Returned by Britain

NO EXPENSE INVOLVED

Premier at St. Thomas Reads Telegram From Chief of Staff

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 22.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, in his address at the Star Theater to-night, replied to a public letter addressed to him late on Friday night by Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King on the subject of shells arriving in this country from Great Britain. The London Free Press had already published in Saturday morning's issue Hon. Hugh Guthrie's explanation that the British Government was returning munitions provided by Canada at the opening of the war.

"Something terrible has happened," said the premier. "Mr. King got off the train at Levis for a constitutional, and after a couple of days' deliberation at the capital penned me a public letter as part of his duty to the people of Canada. He went over to the wharf at Levis and saw for yards around him boxes, many of them piled on an average, four feet high, and someone told him they contained high explosives. So he writes me a public letter to know if we are spending the money of the people of this country, and if so, what my authority from Parliament is for spending the people's money to bring from England on the Canadian Runner these munitions.

"Well, I am not the head of the militia department. It is well managed by Hon. Hugh Guthrie. (Applause). But one would have thought, after the terror with which Mr. King was struck at Quebec he might have recovered sufficiently to go to the militia department and find out what these munitions were for, but no, he must write to me and put it in the public press. I haven't received the letter yet (laughter), but the publication was the main thing, so that the people may be got to worry and he could spread some impression to the effect that the Government is distributing explosives all over the land for some dire and sinister purpose.

"I sent a telegram, and this is the reply from Gen. MacBrien, chief of the general staff, and every soldier here honors Gen. MacBrien:

"'Referring to press articles regarding shipments of munitions from England to Canada, there has been no munitions nor any war equipment of any sort purchased by Canada since the termination of the war. When war broke out all available guns and ammunition in Canada were shipped to England as soon as possible and handed over to the war office, for which Canada received credit. When the armistice came and demobilization of the Canadian forces overseas was decided upon, an agreement was entered into with the war office, under which practically all the equipment and ammunition in possession of the Canadian troops was turned into army ordnance depots. The Canadian Government obtained credit for same. Demands were submitted to the war office for requirements of the active militia, and shipments referred to by Mr. King constituted part of these shipments. These demands were based upon the number of pounds of ammunition for each gun returned to Canada, in accordance with the standard scale.

NO EXPENSE INVOLVED.

"'About July, of 1920, a financial settlement was made with the war office whereby the Canadian Government would get credit for the balance of equipment, which was not needed, and for which any demands were not submitted. In order that some, subject to deterioration, might not be out of date, a shipment was arranged to correspond approximately with the time it would be required. This corresponds with the shipment arriving now.' Clearly therefore, no expenditure is involved.

"'Regarding demobilization appropriation, it may be said that the charges which have been going through on this vote represent no fresh commitments, but payment of war accounts delayed in adjustment.'

"I am afraid Mr. King will be driven back to discuss the tariff," added the premier, or he may find some other explosives lying around. He is in no danger from these. They are for the active militia, and as far as I know he is not in it." (Applause).

HOPES TO RETURN FAVOR.

STRATFORD, Oct. 22.—The following letter in answer to Mr. Mackenzie King's, published this morning, was given out this morning by Premier Meighen. "Dear Mr. King, I see by the morning press that you have written me a letter, dated Ottawa, October 21, making a long series of inquiries as to munitions supplies which you discovered at Levis. This letter has not reached me yet, its publication being evidently deemed more important to you than its communication to myself.

"You ask for an 'immediate and explicit' reply to the various questions set out. This you shall have. The matter concerns the department of militia and defense, and I am disposed to think you could have obtained the information by inquiry of that department. However, I have no objection in making the inquiries myself and as soon as the facts are in my possession I will give them to you without delay, and will hope that in future you will be equally explicit in making replies to questions I have put to you. Please accept my assurance that no time shall be lost in removing from the public mind the wholly erroneous impression which your letter is designed to convey.

"Yours faithfully,
(Signed) "ARTHUR MEIGHEN."

EULER IN RUNNING IN NORTH WATERLOO

Retiring Member is Chosen Again at Independent Liberal Convention.

KITCHENER, Oct. 23.—W. D. Euler, retiring member for North Waterloo, will be again in the running, as has been confidently expected for some time. At the convention of the Independent Liberal party for the riding held in Waterloo town hall on Saturday afternoon Mr. Euler was the unanimous choice for candidate.

The election of officers of the party resulted in J. A. Scellen, of Kitchener, being chosen as president, and A. L. Bitzner, of Kitchener, as secretary.

Hon. Charles Murphy, of Ottawa, was the principal speaker of the afternoon, strongly condemning the Meighen administration and claiming the record of the administration is a much more important issue in the coming election than the tariff.

NOT AN APPLICANT FOR JOB. — William Johnston, a returned soldier and a member of the Great War Veterans, denies that he is an applicant for the position of governor of the county jail. This information was given to The Free Press by an official of the War Veterans, but Mr. Johnston states that he is under the doctor's care and that his health would not permit of him taking any such position, even if he desired to do so.

LIVE FOR WEEKS ON TINY ISLAND

Lake Superior Coast Patrol Rescues Five People From Starvation.

BOAT WAS SEIZED

Man, Wife and Three Children Lived On Fish and Berries.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Oct. 23.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Marooned for three weeks on a tiny island in Whitefish Bay, suffering from lack of food and exposure to lake storms, was the experience of Harry Murphy, his wife and three children, ranging from 4 to 16, it was learned on Saturday night by United States coast guard patrols. The family was taken off the island with difficulty by a patrol boat here and given food and shelter.

On September 27, Murray, a cranberry picker, and his family were landed at Iroquois Island by a man named Mills, who was buying cranberries. They had a small tent and enough food for a week, during which they expected to pick berries in the marshes. Mills was to call for them. Shortly after Mills left them his boat was seized by creditors and when the time came to go after the Murrays he had no boat nor money to secure one. He said nothing to officials here about the plight in which he had left the family.

SCANT FARE.

According to the story told by Murray, when he was brought here on Saturday, the family had little to live on except fish, wild ducks and cranberries for nearly two weeks. Ammunition was giving out and it was necessary to keep the camp fire going at all times because of lack of matches. Had the fire gone out the suffering from cold would have been serious, as the temperature has been below freezing. There are no buildings on the island except the rude shacks they constructed.

A fisherman rowed out to the island on Thursday afternoon after noticing the fire and learned their plight. Because of the size of his craft he was unable to take them off and notified coast guards here. A United States vessel was sent to take them off.

The Murrays are without money or a home and have been given shelter in the coast guard warehouse for the time being.

All this is offered you at a price you can easily afford to pay.

That wonderful piece of folding furniture can be changed from a handsome davenport into a luxuriously comfortably, full-size, fully-made-up bed and back again in almost less time than it takes to tell it.

The "KROEHLER DAVEN-O," considered as a bed, is equipped with comfortable, FULL-SIZE, sagless springs and folding bed-frame.

With a Kroehler you neither sit on the bed mattress in the day time nor lie on the davenport upholstering at night.

The mattress and davenport upholstery are separate, entirely independent of one another, which means the "KROEHLER-DAVEN-O" is sanitary, comfortable and lasting.

Folds and unfolds easily. Plenty of room for thick mattress and extra coverings in folded bed. Nothing to get out of order or give trouble. Sanitary—durable—incomparable.

Made in many beautiful designs. Modern and period. Luxurious coverings in Tapestry, Velour, Leather or Imitation Leather. All woods and finishes.

A Kroehler Daven-o will save its cost in a comparatively short space of time. Let us demonstrate.

Mr. King's Dud

Hon. Mackenzie King has a penchant for making himself ridiculous. His latest effort is so absurdly foolish that even his most ardent admirers must be ashamed of him. He has been called "the boy who never grew up," and he must have the mentality of a callow youth if he thinks the people will be deceived by his outburst in regard to the shipment of munitions to Canada from Great Britain.

Mr. King was returning to Ottawa from his Maritime Province tour, and at Levis debarked from his train for a constitutional. He discovered boxes of munitions being unloaded from a Government steamer.

At! hist! a terrible Meighen plot. Some dark scheme on foot! An attempt to set up an autocracy in Canada! Great campaign stuff! Mr. King no sooner reached Ottawa than he penned a thunderous letter to the prime minister demanding a thorough explanation. The letter was, of course, given at once to the press. Apparently it never occurred to "the boy who never grew up" that the militia headquarters is located at Ottawa, and that a five minutes' conversation over the telephone would have given him an explanation. If it did occur to him that would never do—it would kill some good campaign literature. Explanations were not what Mr. King wanted. He was anxious to spread the impression across Canada that the Government was distributing explosives all over the Dominion for some dire and sinister purpose.

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen at his St. Thomas meeting read a telegram from General MacBrien, chief of the general staff. The explanation is simple. General MacBrien stated that no munitions nor any war equipment had been purchased since the termination of the war. General MacBrien further explained:

"When war broke out all available guns and ammunition in Canada were shipped to England as soon as possible and handed over to the war office, for which Canada received credit. When the armistice came and demobilization of the Canadian forces overseas was decided upon, an agreement was entered into with the war office, under which practically all the equipment and ammunition in possession of the Canadian troops was turned into army ordnance depots. The Canadian Government obtained credit for same. Demands were submitted to the war office for requirements of the active militia, and shipments referred to by Mr. King constituted part of these shipments. These demands were based upon the proper rates of ammunition for each gun returned to Canada, in accordance with the standard scale.

"About July of 1920 a financial settlement was made with the war office whereby the Canadian Government would get credit for the balance of equipment, which was not needed, and for which any demands were not submitted. In order that some, subject to deterioration, might not be out of date, a shipment was arranged to correspond approximately with the time it would be required. This corresponds with the shipment arriving now."

Mr. King, by this latest performance, stamps himself more than ever unfit to be prime minister of Canada.

The Sanity of the Prince of Denmark

We have a royal visitor with us today, no less a personage, indeed, than that "sweet Prince," Hamlet of Denmark.

Part of a recent closing program of the University of Iowa consisted in a trial held by a judge of the Supreme Court of Iowa, with some of the brightest members of the junior law class of the university as counsel for prosecution on one side, and on the other for the defense.

The trial was held in order to determine whether or no Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, was insane?

The prince, in the person of one of the students, was produced in court, charged with the murder of the chancellor, Polonius. Insanity was the plea, and the judgment was made by a jury of twelve students.

Taken redhanded as he was, in his mother's closet, his sword dripping with the blood of the old eavesdropper whom he had killed, as Polonius listened to his conversation with the queen from behind a curtain, the circumstantial evidence was plain. The counsel for the defense, therefore, produced a large number of witnesses to prove that Hamlet was insane and hence not responsible for the murder. After hearing the evidence the judge charged and the jury deliberated. Judgment: "Insane."

Think for a moment of the vitality of an artistic creation which, after more than three hundred years, commands such attention in a country famed for its practical attitude and supposed to be little concerned with any issue lacking in immediate utility. Think of the machinery, legal and academic, set into motion for proving the moral responsibility of a man who, after all, is but the figment of a poet's brain. Great Shakespeare, how Godlike is your creative power, how next to God himself you stand in knowledge of the human heart and circumstances.

But was Hamlet insane? Literary reputations have been made on that question. Volumes have been written to prove as well as to disprove it. And yet, as we see, to the general, the question is a question still. Hamlet is the sphinx of modern times. He himself warned his false comrades, Rosencrantz and Guildenstern, that it would not be easy for them to "pluck out' the heart of his "mystery." Nor has it been easy for those who are wiser than Guildenstern and Rosencrantz.

To our mind Hamlet's is the least disordered, the sanest intellect possible to imagine. Introspective and retrospective and hypersensitive he was, but sane.

Even at the grave of Ophelia, when, for a moment, he allowed the mouthings and the windy protestations of Laertes to overcome his usual self-control, he was still sane.

True, driven to the verge of despair by Laertes' accusations and his own grief, he condescended to make a hyperbolic boast of his affection for the dead girl. True, he then matched the height and depth of his fondness for Ophelia with that of a brother never overfond, who is using the occasion of his sister's death to get back at one whom he thinks to be an enemy of his house. Perhaps Hamlet was not altogether princely at the moment of this encounter with Laertes. Momentarily his passion for Ophelia seems to be an hysterical passion. But the moment over, the prince is himself again, as ready for a play of wits with Osric as for a trial of rapiers with his foe.

The subjectivity of Hamlet's mind is much dwelt upon. Its objectivity is usually overlooked. Hamlet has to show that his uncle killed his father, that the king on the throne is a usurper and an assassin. Over and above the warnings of his "prophetic soul" all the evidence he has is the word of a spirit manifestation—they called them ghosts in Shakespeare's day. How to get his story believed, that is Hamlet's quandary. How to avenge his father and yet justify himself not only to himself, but to the court of Denmark. Read what Hamlet did. Consider carefully his well-thought-out plan. Then pronounce him insane if you can.

No, no, Shakespeare gives us no hint that Hamlet is insane. Instead, that "divinity" which had been with the prince from the beginning warning him against the blindness of passion, guarding him from tainting his mind or sullying his conscience, teaching him opportunity, encouraging him with the thought that there is nothing hidden that shall not be revealed, remained with him to the end. It granted him the forgiveness of the son of Polonius. It vindicated him while he yet lived to his own and his father's people. It left him after death that just, temperate and wise friend, Horatio, who was willing to absent himself from felicity awhile that he might report the cause of Hamlet aright to the generations of man.

Shakespeare himself to the rescue. As Shakespeare views Hamlet what evidence is there of insanity?

Mr. McCoig Is Behindhand

Archie McCoig, the Liberal member for Kent in the last two Parliaments, who is again a candidate, has been vigorously attacking the Government for its inactivity in developing the Canadian chilled beef market. His criticism has been industriously repeated by The London Advertiser. Here is what Mr. McCoig is reported recently as stating:

"Let me refer to another enterprise that is eating up your millions—the Canadian Mercantile Marine Service. It cost some seventy millions, and now you have these boats plying between the different ports of the world, but not on a paying basis. I propose as the proper course that we take these ships and equip them with cold storage facilities, and instead of getting on our knees to our American cousins or coaxing our British brethren to lift the embargo on cattle, we feed Canadian cattle on Canadian soil, ship them over the people's own Canadian railroad to Canadian ports, put them aboard Canadian boats and have them on the Liverpool market in six days, in first-class condition.

"The chilled meat market in Europe would be gained and then the others could do what they liked about their embargo. In this way, with our abattoirs at our seaports we would have attained for Canada a profitable cattle trade, utilized the ships of the mercantile marine service, become independent inasmuch as cattle industry is concerned, and would have provided much needed employment to hundreds of Canadians."

Mr. McCoig is either misinformed or is deliberately attempting to mislead the people. What are the facts?

The Government is completing to-day in Montreal a $2,000,000, nine-story cold storage plant which is the largest, best equipped and most modern on the continent. When this plant is finished within the next few months the Canadian Government will be in a position to handle the chilled meat and dairy products not only of Canada, but of the Western States. A huge cold storage plant is useless without the ships to carry the products of Canadian farms. Ten steamers of the much-abused Government mercantile fleet have already been fitted up with refrigerator plants, and others are being equipped as needed. In a few months, thanks to the foresight and businesslike ability of the present Government, no country in the world will have as fine facilities and accommodation to cater to the British and European markets as Canada. The very things Mr. McCoig proposes to do have already been done by the Government. Incidentally, Mr. McCoig supported and voted for this selfsame Government merchant marine, which he now so heartily abuses.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mr. King's high explosive shell proved to be a dud.

Is Mr. King sure, anyway, that he knows a shell when he sees one?

Premier Meighen has reason to be gratified by the great receptions he has received throughout Western Ontario.

Sir George Foster is campaigning at 76, with the same vigor as he did in the early eighties. He seems to have solved the problem of eternal youth.

Until Mr. King and Mr. Crerar can assure the people of Ontario that their platforms will not be put into legislative effect their assurances to industrial Ontario count for little.

Mr. C. R. Somerville might explain to the meeting of women to-night why the Liberals in Parliament opposed women's suffrage and the establishment of a federal health department with a child welfare bureau.

Hon. Duncan Marshall is the Liberal campaign leader in Alberta, where he is running in Calgary East. He announces that he stands by the Liberal platform and proposes to blaze the way for free trade. Is it any wonder that Mr. King, who is now making protectionist speeches and avoiding the Liberal platform, does not propose to go farther West than Winnipeg?

The Third Column

A FATHER'S PRAYER.

Dear Lord, I do not ask for wealth nor fame nor place of pomp,
But let me keep my spirit young and with my children romp;
Let me with dignity and strength meet every morning task,
But let me be a boy at night. No more than this I ask.

A boy at night! O, Father of us all,
grant this to me,
Let Time not take away the lad that once I used to be;
By day a man's work I will do, obeying
each command,
But make of me a child at night that children understand.

I would not grow too old for them, too old to race and shout.
I want my eyes to glow with mirth
whenever they're about;
By dayI'll face the heat and strife and battle for the right,
But O, dear Lord, I pray to be a little boy at night!

Dear Lord, I ask no lofty place or jeweled diadem,
I pray to keep my spirit young and fit
to play with them;
Though Time may wrinkle deep my face and turn my hair to white,
Let me come home to those I love, a little boy at night.

THE ROCKY WAY.

There is no more important task in this world for you than the education of your will.

And there is no method better or sounder than to realize early in life that the easy way is the most destructive way—always.

A muscle must have opposition if it would be strong and fit. The prize fighter engages otherprize fighters to give him hard knocks in training so that he will be prepared to face what may be no soft job in the ring.

We must all face the distasteful and the painful quite often if we would be ready for the emergency that may try our very souls.

He who treads the "soft snaps" himself is sure to snap very early in the game—for the game won't last but a little while for him.

Roosevelt preached—and practiced—the "strenuous life." It is the only life that wraps happiness within its arms.

The trouble with the present day educational systems is largely due to the ease in which they turn out students. The laboring man wants easy hours and the ordinary employee wants to know first what he is going to get out of the job in money.

But the exceptional man is interested primarily in doing the thing at hand better than it has ever been done before.

The rocky way is the way over which the god of success leads the conquerer!

The living of the simple life, with plain, nourishing food, and the will to go the route necessary to win is what assures the winner—all in advance.

Builders of nations know the rocky way. —George Matthew Adams.

PLEASANT READING.

Seated by my flaring candle I digest the daily news, and it treats of crime and scandal, and of dope and smuggled booze. Foolishly I keep inquiring, "Is the whole world staring mad? Aren't people ever tiring of the grewsome and the bad? Oh, this era of abasement! All our bulwarks seem a wreck!" and some buckshot, through the casement, comes and hits me in the neck. All the boys are busy gunning, and they care not who they plug, and the cops are tired of running grisly slayers to the jug. With my humble rushlight burning I peruse the tales of crime, longing for the swift returning of the olden, peaceful time, when in safety one might travel up the highway, far and near, and no shotgun, charged with gravel, with his jaunt would interfere. Motor bandits were unheard of in those days serene and bright; it was seldom we had word of gunmen who would shoot at night. In the streets, where men assemble, I'm the victim of a scare, and at home I sweat and tremble lest the gunmen find me there; on retiring I am fearful that they'll slay me while I snooze, and on waking I am tearful lest I perish in my shoes. For the boys are busy slaying, and the bullets whiz and whine; oh, that all of us were maying, as in days of auld lang syne!

CHURCH AGREEMENT

Not so long ago the announcement that an Anglican clergyman was to preach in a "dissenting" church, would have been received with a shock of surprise, but although it has been said that theology is static, there is a liberal movement in all the churches. In many large centers this exchange is now practiced with mutual benefit. —Montreal Gazette.

THE ANGLICAN APPEAL

By Cleric.

The General Synod of the Church of England in Canada has just adjourned in Hamilton. The question which gathered about it the greatest public interest was what is popularly called "Church Union." It consumed a great deal of time and provoked the warmest debate. The decision was equally important, being arrived at amid great solemnity and prayer, the lower house forming the minority. Then followed the appointment of the union committee, consisting of at least three score members, archbishops, bishops, clergy and laity being represented.

How does this affect the whole question as it stands in Canada and elsewhere? To explain really what was done is the purpose of the few paragraphs here written. This can best be stated by starting at the beginning, which is the Lambeth appeal of 1920. It is not necessary to discuss the condition of the world and the Christian churches which demand unity of form and action. This has caused other attempts to be made, and heretofore burdened with such a need the 252 bishops of the Anglican communion throughout the world met in London and for six weeks labored on this and other subjects. Here again was almost perfect unanimity, only six refusing to sign the finding.

It is called an appeal because the London council had no legislative authority. Its only power was in the weight of influence proceeding from a body of men, so learned, experienced and moved by the Spirit of God. The same must be said of the resolution of the General Synod in Hamilton. It had, without doubt, the "pick of the church," but it was not a parliament. The best it could do was to form a channel whereby the appeal could find its way into the Christian community of Canada. A very safe and sympathetic channel, to be sure; much more than an ecclesiastical "customhouse" to insure safe transit.

The substance of the appeal has been called an ideal rather than a clearly defined plan. Again the warning is given that there can be no short cut, but the goal may be a long way off. If that is the best that the bishops could do after six weeks of earnest labor and prayer, too much must not be expected from the work of a few days at the general synod. The ideal, as drawn, can have no opposition—a church truly catholic, have the Holy Scriptures, ancient creeds, sacraments of baptism and the Lord's Supper and a ministry truly acceptable and guaranteed by all. The way to accomplish this is also a beautiful ideal and incapable of any objection. It is the broad term—fellowship. That is, Christians everywhere are brethren, having lost the coldness, suspicion, rivalry and bitterness of what were called sects.

While the objective is an ideal, the starting point is clear and true. The body of Christ, it is admitted, is already a unit, but what is sadly necessary is that not being clearly manifested in the world, it should be made visible. In other words the church is already a unity, but the world cannot see it as such and the church itself does not act like it. The one thing to prove that it is, let there be fellowship everywhere among those who name the name of Christ. The bishops of Lambeth took open ground in further explaining this point. They denied that their view of union implied the submission of an denominaion, or its being absorbed, but rather each would be included into the brotherhood. All are members, one of another. All of this the synod has indorsed and offers to the churches of Canada.

The appeal, however, carries with it another side. This happened because there are two parties inside the Anglican church, as there are two and more outside. The ideal, unfortunately, may be reduced to two things which are very difficult. If the one appeal at Lambeth were only to Protestantism it would have lacked ambiguity, but failed in unanimity. Vice versa, had it sent to the churches already episcopally governed, it would have had similar marks. It is an appeal to all Christians, four-fifths of whom, it is stated, belong to the latter form. Hence it was the via media, which was taken between the Protestant and Catholic view of the church. The scope is so large that nothing could define it except in terms of the ideal. Thus it is admitted to be a long and perilous road. And further, the only thing known to make the task possible is the miraculous power of the Spirit of God.

The bishops at Lambeth testify to having received an experience of that power through prayer. The church council, which met later at Geneva, and attended by all kinds of Christians except the Roman, were in deadlock, but rose to a higher unity around the person and service of Jesus Christ. It is believed that in every other conference the groups will arrange themselves in the old lines, only to rise to higher planes through the Holy Spirit. All that the general synod accomplished was, firstly, it had an initial experience of the divine blessing in the unanimity manifested, and secondly, it set in motion ways and means whereby further meetings could be held where the work of the Spirit will be manifested.

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

A TAXPAYER'S KICK.

Editor Free Press: I beg to ask you to allow me a few lines in your daily paper to show the ratepayers of London that all the spouting through the paper is done through a lot of worthless men and not ratepayers. I see where Mr. Fred Young has made a charge against Ald. Wenige in regards to day labor situation. I am not upholding Mr. Wenige, but I do think that if some man with confidence and experience doesn't take hold of the situation at the present time the City of London will be bankrupt. You don't hear the good honest man that wants to go out and do a good day's work and get paid for it kicking through the daily press about Ald. Wenige or anybody else. The ratepayers of London will certainly have to do something different or the taxes will be so high that we will have to move out of the city and leave it all to Fred Young and Ald. Ashton and all the sympathizers of the crippled workers for the city.

MARITIME TOUR WAS TREMENDOUS SUCCESS

Speaking of the prime minister, the special correspondent of the Montreal Star, who is accompanying him in his Maritime tour, says:

"While not an orator of the spectacular type, who electrifies his audience with sparkling sallies and witty remarks, Mr. Meighen has nevertheless managed to gain such a hold upon the minds and sympathies of the people as will tax all the ingenuity of Mr. Mackenzie King's spellbinders to destroy. The people like his manly, straightforward and honest way of putting his case before them. His manner of address in itself carries the conviction of truth with it, and in hundreds of cases men and women who could not heretofore be counted among his followers, after having listened to him, have gone away convinced not only of the righteousness of the cause he advocated, but delighted with the strong personality of the man himself.

MEIGHEN STOCK SOARS.

"A couple of months ago, when the prospect of an early appeal to the people was first regarded as a probability, the outlook for the success of Government candidates in the province was not regarded as any too good. In fact, excepting in one or two constituencies, there was a decided note of pessimism. The last fortnight, however, has seen all this sort of thing changed, and now a spirit of optimism prevails everywhere. The Opposition is all at sixes and sevens; in fact it may truthfully be said that they don't know where they are. Large numbers of them have very little faith in Mackenzie King himself as a leader, and still less in the policies he propounds. They realize very clearly that his is not by any means the Liberalism of Laurier, and, while they would like to stick by the old party, they cannot help but appreciate the fact that if the business of the Maritime Provinces is to be maintained at its normal standard there must be no departure from the policy of moderate, though adequate protection, for the staple industries.

GETS LIBERAL SUPPORT.

"For this and other reasons Mr. Meighen will get the support of these Liberals, and, though they will not openly make any great show as to the course they will take, their ballots will be cast for his candidates when polling day comes around. Besides this silent vote there is a considerable number of old-time Liberals who have openly declared their intenton to support the Meighen policy, and they make no bones about it. Moreover, it is not too much to say that Mackenzie King's vacillating attitude and his lack of convincing attributes has bred a feeling of distrust in the minds of many of those who have always been allied with the Liberal party, and this leaves them in a condition of thought, which a man of such strong personality and convincing address as Premier Meighen can very readily capture."

As the campaign develops Mr. King becomes more and more involved and makes himself appear more and more ridiculous.

In Quebec, obeying the dictation of the leaders of Liberalism in that province, he practically scrapped the Liberal platform and declared for the Laurier policy, which is the tariff that is in force to-day.

In the manufacturing districts of the Maritime Provinces he continued to preach his "we will not hurt the manufacturers" gospel, but when he got over to Prince Edward Island, where farming interests largely predominate, he switched back to his party platform and pointed out to the farmers "that there was little in the Farmers' platform that was not in the Liberals' platform."

What can be done or said about one who twists and turns like that? How can be possibly expect the people to believe in him? He is like the Parisian's flea, when you put your finger on it, it isn't there. The more he talks the more he convinces the public that he is purely and simply an opportunist and that his sole ambition is to get into office. Next to the prime minister's qualities of great sincerity and wonderful ability it will be found that Mr. King's verbosity and vacillation will constitute an important factor in the success of the Government. Even his followers see through his game and many of them are heartily ashamed of it. There is scarcely an outstanding nonprofessional Liberal in the country who can be found prepared to subscribe to King's wobbling attitude. How could there be? They have nothing to tie to, to preach about, to swear by. Like Mahomet's coffin, King has suspended them between heaven and earth; and so it is that the Liberal element, who have not been active in politics, find themselves, by the thousands, unable to follow the tortuous course of the party leader.

In the late evening Mr. and Mrs. Head left for their home in Windsor, the bride traveling in a navy tricotine suit and blue hat.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"I don't want to go in; I'm going to wait. Oh, Rodney, do let me alone!" Her voice trembled a little; she hated it because she knew Laxton had heard that little word of endearment; there was a tiny fear in her heart now—a fear that this was indeed the end of everything; that she would never be allowed to speak to Laxton any more; she made a last appeal to her father.

"Daddy, you don't understand; if you'll let me explain, it's not Mr. Laxton's fault; I—"

"Yet you explain—don't understand! I understand too well, and you know it," he raved at her. "You've been going behind my back for the last three or four days. Do you think I'm a blind bat? Do you think I haven't seen what's been going on under my very nose?"

He hadn't; he had never had the faintest suspicion, and it was that knowledge that was adding to his rage. He took a furious step toward her, and, forgetting her injured arm, laid his hand roughly on it.

Norah screamed.

In an instant Laxton had wheeled round; he was white to the lips with rage; he half raised his fist, and let it fall again.

There was a moment's tragic silence, broken only by Norah's stifled sobbing; then Rodney spoke, his voice was very quiet, but it sounded somehow weary.

"You'd better go, Laxton; you can do no good by staying."

For an instant it seemed as if the black sheep was going to refuse; he drew himself up haughtily; then suddenly he laughed. He shrugged his shoulders with a sort of bravado.

"Very well." He looked at Norah; she was hiding her face with her uninjured arm; there was something very young and appealing about her as she stood there in the stream of yellow light, with the darkness of the garden behind her.

The face of the black sheep softened wonderfully. For a moment he looked at her without speaking.

"I'm sorry," he said at last, jerkily. "Try and forgive me."

He looked at Rodney, and from Rodney to Mr. Ackroyd. Then he turned his back on them both with royal disdain and stalked leisurely away into the darkness.

CHAPTER VIII.

Norah hardly slept a wink all night. The pain of her arm and the excitement of the day kept her awake; she lay watching the shadows in the room hour after hour.

Her arm ached agonizingly, her head throbbed miserably, and there was an ever growing dread in her heart.

Laxton would never come back again. Something in the way he had looked at her and the way he had spoken his awkward apology had seemed final. He had walked away, not only out of her garden, but out of her life. Tears rushed to her eyes.

She despised herself because she had cried out in the garden.

She had fled away to bed as soon as Laxton had gone. Downstairs she had heard her father raving and pacing up and down, and now and then Rodney trying to soothe him.

But the house was quiet now; for hours the darkness had been undisturbed, save when the clock of Lumsden Church chimed the quarters as the long night dragged by.

When at last Norah fell into a doze she dreamed that she and the black sheep were racing together again through the sunshine in the gray torpedo-shaped car with the rushing wind stinging their faces; and, in her dream, the black sheep turned and looked at her and said—

"I never told you what it was that I wished to say, did I? Well, I will tell you now . . . I love you—I want you to marry me."

And then she woke up and found herself in bed, with the morning sunshine streaming through the window.

She could hardly move her arm and could not bear to touch it. She rang for one of the maids, and asked her to bring her some breakfast upstairs. When the girl returned she brought a little scribbled note from Rodney.

"Don't worry; it's all right. Can I do anything for you?"

But it was not Rodney or his love she wanted, and she did not answer the note.

She stayed in her room all the morning. She saw her father go down through the garden and out along the lane, but he never looked back at the house or her window.

She managed somehow to dress for lunch and went donstairs. Rodney was alone in the library; he rose eagerly when he saw her and came forward.

"How is the arm?"

"It's all right, thank you."

She tried not to speak ungraciously. There as a little moment of awkwardness.

PARIS (By Mail).—Fur trims many of the smart cloth dresses this season. Fur is as expensive this season as last winter, but then it is the fashion. Bands of seal, beaver or squirrel may be used to carry out the idea of the model shown in the sketch. A clever French dressmaker designed it and though the effect is that of a full silhouette, the line from shoulder to hem is straight when not drawn in at the waistline by the string belt which is attached at the sides and ties behind. The collar may be worn closed or open, and the sleeve is cut from shoulder to the fur trimming. The model, as exhibited, was of gray broadcloth with squirrel.

A blue serge coat dress was shown with a cape collar of Persian lamb, and a muff of the same fur—one of those tiny muffs of which the once famous comedienne, Kate Elinor, would have said, "it will grow up by Christmas.

LECTURE ON FRENCH ART AT ALLIANCE FRANCAISE

Prof. Squair, of Toronto University, lecturing on "Les Grand Epoques de l'Art Fraincaise" before the London Alliance Francaise on Friday evening, drew an interested audience of members. Prof. Squair, who was introduced by the president, Mrs. C. R. Somerville, outlined the development of French art down to the present period, illustrating his fascinating talk with some especially fine slides.

Dean Sherwood Fox was also a speaker, referring to the urgent need for a greater development of the French language in Canada and thanking Mrs. Ibbotson Leonard, the former president and founder of l'Alliance, for her efforts in this direction.

During the evening Miss Hilda McMillen, of Ingersoll, sang two charming French songs, "Plus de Tournents," from Le Cid (Massenet), and "Le Baiser," by Goring Thomas, responding also to repeated demands for an encore. A vote of thanks to Prof. Squair was moved by Prof. Lewis Shanks.

AUNT POLLY HELPS

Somehow Henrietta Hen couldn't help liking Aunt Polly Woodchuck, in spite of her old-fashioned appearance. She certainly had a way with her — a way that made a person want to help her in her troubles.

"I don't know whether you can help or not," said Henrietta Hen. "Have you any feathers in your basket?"

"No — no! No feathers!" Aunt Polly replied. "I use herbs in my business of doctoring. But I've heard that a burnt feather held under a body's nose will do wonders sometimes . . . I must carry a feather in my basket, hereafter."

"One feather wouldn't do me any good," said Henrietta Hen with a doleful sigh. "I need a great many more than one."

"You do?" Aunt Polly cried.

"Yes!" Henrietta answered. "Half my feathers have dropped off me. And that is why I've come to ask your advice. I'm fast losing my fatal beauty."

Henrietta Hen's voice trembled as she told Aunt Polly Woodchuck the dreadful news. "I don't believe you'll be able to help me," she quavered. "I'll soon look like a perfect fright. Besides, winter's coming; and how I'll ever keep warm with no feathers is more than I know."

Henrietta Hen couldn't understand how Aunt Polly managed to stay calm. Henrietta had expected her to throw up her hands and say something like "Sakes alive!" or "Mercy on us!" But the old lady did nothing of the sort.

She set her basket down on the ground; and pushing her spectacles forward to the end of her nose, she leaned over and looked closely at Henrietta Hen. Aunt Polly's gaze traveled over Henrietta from head to foot and then back again. And she took hold of one of Henrietta's feathers and gave it a gentle twitch.

19

"Don't worry!" Aunt Polly Woodchuck advised her

"Look out!" Henrietta cried. "You'll pull it out if you're not careful. And I can't afford to lose any more feathers than I have to."

"Don't worry!" Aunt Polly Woodchuck advised her. "Cheer up!! There is nothing the matter with you. You are moulting. You are going to get a new outfit of feathers for winter. Your old ones have to fall out in order to make room for the new ones. And no doubt the fresh ones will be much handsomer than the old."

Henrietta Hen couldn't believe that Aunt Polly knew what she was talking about.

"I can't be moulting as early in the fall as this," she protested. "I've never got my winter feathers so soon. . . . I fear you're mistaken," she told Aunt Polly.

"Oh, no! I'm not mistaken," Aunt Polly Woodchuck insisted. "I know it's early for moulting — but haven't you noticed that the wheat grew big this year, and that the bark on young trees is thick? And haven't you observed that Frisky Squirrel is laying up a great store of nuts in his hollow tree, and that the hornets built their paper houses far from the ground this summer?"

Henrietta Hen's mouth fell open as she stared at Aunt Polly Woodchuck. And when the old lady paused, Henrietta looked quite bewildered.

"I don't know what you're talking about," she murmured. "I don't see what all this has to do with moulting."

"Some of those signs," Aunt Polly explained, "mean an early winter; and some of 'em mean a cold one. I've never known 'em to fail. And you're moulting early so you'll have a warm coat of feathers by the time winter comes."

"Well!" Henrietta began to feel better at once. She actually smiled—something she had not done for days.

"Thank you! Thank you!" she said. "You're a fine doctor, Aunt Polly. I don't wonder that folks ask your advice — especially when there's nothing the matter with them!"

And then Henrietta Hen hurried off down the lane. Being timid about hawks, she never felt quite comfortable far from the farmyard.

RUTH CAMERON

WHAT SHOULD WE DO WITHOUT THEM?

This morning when I had gotten my house redded up (you see I realy am Scotch) and sat down for my usual rest period with the newspapers, before attacking my next piece of work, I got settled in my favorite chair, reached out my hand for the paper and picked up an old paper.

By some fearful mistake the latest paper had been thrown away and an old one kept. This fact I discoverel after a five minutes' search of the house and a third degree of its inmates. So I had to take my rest period in the company of a magazine instead of newspaper.

It was an interesting magazine, but I cannot tell you what a sense of incompleteness and unsatisfieleness it gave me to go without my paper.

I do not think we realize what a part of our lives a newspaper becomes until for some reason we miss it for a day or two.

Men have always been this way, but it is only recently that, along with her other rights, woman has acquired a right to the daily paper habit. In the old days the woman of the house was supposed to be content to listen to the bits of news her husband chose to read aloud to her. To-day nine intelligent women out of 10 read the paper themselves.

In many homes the feminine time for reading the paper is after "himself" is through with it. But there are also many homes in which the long-eared master divides the paper with the lady and mistress. And I know of at least one plutocratic home where the lady of the house, aweary of waiting for her chance at the choicest parts of the paper (the pages that correspond to the breast meat) ordered a paper of her own. Now she and her spouse both read the paper at the breakfast table.

Although they have become almost as inveterate newspaper readers as men, there is one way in which women do not justify their right to be newspaper readers. And that is although they read the newspaper, many of them do not read the news. They read the gossip of the city and nation (what else are the tales of divorce and suicide and elopements and so forth) but they do not read the news of the big world. I don't blame them for reading the gossip and the human interest stuff. I can't because I'm not above it. But I do think they ought to read the news, too.

Don't you?

Alkali In Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advt.

Varsity Batters Western U. Line For 22-to-5 Win

Local Collegians Hold Big Team to 6-5 Score in First Two Periods, But Injuries Tell Tale in Third and Fourth Periods

University of Toronto Seconds battered their way to a 22-to-5 victory over Western University, of London, on Saturday afternoon before a large crowd at Tecumseh Park. The game was an intermediate Intercollegiate Union fixture, and the local collegians had succeeded in holding the heavier Varsity aggregation to a 6-to-5 score at the close of the first two quarters.

The steam roller line plunges, however, soon demoralized the light Western line in the last two periods, and despite Coach Reid's resourcefulness reserves were often thrown in to plug up the wreck. These, too, were soon carried off in an extensive casualty list. Varsity had a number of men injured, but not nearly so many as the locals.

It was simply a case of too much condition on the part of the visiting collegians that swamped the locals. Varsity played a careful sort of football in the early stages, and then seized the opportunity of becoming more reckless as the Western squad displayed signs of fatigue and distress. Varsity got away with plays in that way they would not have dared to attempt in the first quarter.

It is safe to say that Reid switched his players oftener than in any intercollegiate match ever played.

CAMPBELL MAKES GOOD.

The Western reserves played wonderfully well, and among the numerous tryouts discovered a good tackler in Campbell. He figured in much of the defense and on the attack, whenever he was given a chance.

Ketchum, Henderson and Young were the best performers for Varsity, while Pearlman, a senior player for McGill two autumns back, did yeoman duty on the line.

Cline, Sifton, Fisher and Traynor were the pick of the locals. Western kicked off with the wind, and shortly after the kick-off missed a point by a foot or two on a kick which went for a touch. Varsity got possession, but lost it, and from this position Traynor dropkicked a goal and rouged a moment later, making the count 4 to 0. Cline nearly made yards on two plunges, but Traynor kicked out of touch on the third down. Varsity then proceeded to take issue, plunging through for consecutive gains, and with but a yard to go Ketchum went over for a try, making the count 5 to 4 in Varsitys favor before the first quarter ended.

Western held on gamely in the second period. Traynor kicked back of the goal line, the ball going out of touch, tying the score. Most of the play was confined to midfield and Varsity, while near the Western line succeeded in booting the ball out of touch for another point in as the first half ended.

Varsity opened the third quarter much more on the aggressive, Ketchum kicking a field goal nicely and then the whole Varsity line slipped it over the officials by taking four downs and ending it with a run around the end for another touchdown, but Referee Smithson, when reminded, erased the score and brought the ball back to midfield again. Varsity, however, marched down the field and even brought through the Western line to tackle Traynor on his attempts to kick on three occasions. Henderson was carried off after Campbell brought him down and play was delayed much through injuries. Western line was defeated when Jarrott and Roy Fisher were carried off. Varsity carried the ball over right through center for five more points. And, strange to say, not one of the trys were converted. Lindsay was carried off, further hurting the Western line.

Varsity, when 30 yards from the Western line, scored three more points on a field goal by Ketchum, making the count 17 to 5.

The weakened Western line held on well in the last period, Varsity succeeding in putting the ball over the line for one more try. The teams:

Toronto Varsity — Bartlett, flying wing; Ketchum, Stewart, Young, halves; Catto, quarter; Webber, snap; Grant, Hyde, Moore, Baker, Pearlman, Brown, wings; White, McCibbon, Heyland, Borsook, Henderson, Plaxton, spares.

Western University—Fisher, flying wing; Cowley, Traynor, Dundas, halves; McMahon, quarter; Callaghan, snap; Jarrott, Talbot, Sifton, Screaton, Dockstader, Williams, wings; Fisher, Cline, Lindsay, Priddle, Bailey, Campbell, Simpson, spares.

Referees—T. Smithson, Toronto; G. Little, London.

GALT COLLEGIATE DEFEATS BRANTFORD

BRANTFORD, Oct. 23.—The Brantford Collegiate Institute put up a hard battle against the Galt Collegiate here on Saturday afternoon in the Interscholastic Rugby League, and, where in Galt they were defeated, 6 to 0, here on Saturday they held the fast Galtonians, whose championship honors are many, to a 14-to-6 victory. The showing made by the locals, in view of their previous games, was exceptionally good and they promise to be tough opponents for the rest of the season.

In the first round of the Courcer (senior soccer) cup here yesterday two good matches were played before big crowds of spectators. The following were the results: Massey-Harris, 2; Dufferin Rifles, 0. Cockshutts, 1; G. W. V. A., 1. The Cockshutt-Vets draw will be replayed next Saturday. At Lynden the Paris eleven went down to defeat before the strong country United Club in a senior league match. The score was 4 to 0.

Special Order Suits

Semi-ready Custom-Made Suits Are Down to $25.00.

One year ago the lowest price at which even the largest wholesale tailoring house could produce a made-to-measure suit was $38. Now one can visit a Semi-ready Store and secure a suit made to measure of pure wool in four days at the shops for $25. This is a reduction of $13, or a drop in price of slightly over 30 per cent. of the present cost.

A Semi-ready serge suit can be made to measure for $30. R. Leo Watson has the only Semi-ready tailoring in this city, and in his store on Dundas street every suit is genuine Semi-ready, with the label in the pocket.—Advt. f

Montreal University Routs Presbyterians by 25-to-1 Score

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—Coming into its own again McGill rugby squad emerged victorious over Queen's by 25 to 1 at the Percy Molson memorial stadium on Saturday afternoon in a scheduled meeting of the Intercollegiate Rugby Union. Showing a vast contrast to the play in the match against the University of Toronto the previous week, McGill players never left the issue in doubt after the opening few moments of play. Queen's players fresh from a victory over Varsity were outclassed and optplayed at all stages of the scheduled 60 minutes' play, the game developing into a complete rout for the Presbyterians.

While McGill showed marked improvement from back field to forward line Queen's never at any time measured up to championship standard. The visiting players at times became bewildered and made mistakes that were costly. Eleven of McGill's points were a gift from Leadley, who on two occasions tried to kick the ball out from behind his own line when it would have been better for him to have rouged.

Teams:

McGill—Flying wing, Little; half backs, Anderson, Carroll and Phillpots; quarter, Baillie; snap, Livshin; insides, McCombe, Cope; middles, Ambridge, Lazier; outsides, Murphy, Robertson; subs, Emo, Easson, Grain, Notman, Fitzgerald, Rutherford, Ross, Stearns, Russell, Flannigan.

Queen's—Flying wing, Burns; half backs, Leadley, Harding, Campbell; quarter, Evans; snap, Lewis; insides, Wilson, Muirhead; middles, McKelvey, Adams; outsides, Veale, Carroll; subs, McKay, Walker, Delahay, Carson, McLeod, Ryan.

Argos Outscore Tigers In Exciting And Riotous Game

Crowd and Players Mix in Fistic Battles; Leaders Overcome Home Team

HAMILTON, Oct. 23.—Argonauts left this city on Saturday night with the Tigers' skin packed away in their grip, but they had the marks of his teeth and claws all over them and should count themselves lucky that they escaped him. It was one of the most exciting games of football ever witnessed on the local field and, until within 10 minutes of time, Tigers seemed to be sure winners, yith the score 18 to 13 in their favor. Zimmerman then muffed the ball near his line and Argos secured and Romeri went over for a try that tied the score. This was converted, making the final score 19 to 18 in Argo's favor. Tigers fought hard to work the ball down for the converted point that would tie the score, but the strong Argo line held like a stone wall and resisted all their efforts.

It was an exciting game of football, but something that was not football or anything else in the way of sport, also provided some excitement and resulted in one of the most disgraceful scenes ever witnessed on a sport field here. Conacher had secured the ball behind his line and ran it out. He then passed to Wallace, who was hotly chased, and who passed to McCormick. McKelvey tackled and went down and a touchline judge either pushed or struck McKelvey. All was excitement instantly, and, in less time than it takes to tell it, there were half a dozen more fights amongst the players. The crowd ran on to the field and for a time it looked as though there would be a general action. The police and game officials managed to separate the fighting players and got the crowd back to the stands, but before any harm was done, but the incident caused a great deal of bad feeling.

PRACTICE FOR OTTAWAS

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Indulging in a line-up practice at the expense of their opponents, the Ottawa Senators defeated the Winged Wheelers, of Montreal in a scheduled Interprovincial Rugby Football Union fixture here at Lansdowne Park on Saturday afternoon by a score of 28 to 7. The Red, White and Black completely outclassed the visiting team in every department of the game and, after securing a commanding lead, used all their subs with the express intention of conditioning every man on the local roster for the crucial game against the Toronto Argos here on Saturday next.

In one respect the game differed from a full dress practice match, this in the second period, when Emerson threw a Montreal player heavily to the ground after the latter had been forced out of touch. In return opposing players engaged in a general melee in front of the grand stand and Emerson received a well-directed right to the jaw. No casualties were reported and the mix-up evidently clarified the strained condition evidenced in the earlier stages of the game, the last two periods being clean throughout.

ODE TO AUTUMN WITH APOLOGIES TO MASON

The finest day of all the year when the air's like wine or at least like beer; the morning bright dawned fine and blue, making ancient arteries feel like new. October's painting with lavish hand each maple leaf—and they sure look grand. The pumpkin turns up its yellow face kissed by frost to a joyple's grace. The woods resound with autumn noise and nuts are hiding from prowling boys. The office clerk with dreaming eye forgets his troubles in joyful sigh. "I'd like to be a gypsy now, or a farmer's son with delving plow." Such are the words from high and low and the echoes answer the noisy crow.

Some folks may pine for a day in June, but their psychic urge must be out of tune. A day like this takes every prize and lifts our spirits towards the skies. The trouble is we have to work or our pay envelopes also shirk. If we only could do as we please, why we'd all go out and see the trees. Or wander far in leafy glade where squirrels their hoards have subtly laid. We'd tell the boss to chase himself while we abandon the pursuit of pelf.

Close, Tidy Game Marks L.C.I's. Middlesex-Oxford Union Victory; Score 8-4; Beard Scores Try and Then Saves Game With Long Run in Last Quarter

The London Collegiate took a firmer hold on the Middlesex-Oxford Football Union leadership by slipping an 8-to-4 victory over the Woodstock College twelve in the first game of a double bill at Tecumseh Park on Saturday afternoon. The registering of the victory should be taken with considerable approval since Woodstock College, figuring that they were out of the race with St. Thomas Collegiate for the O. R. F. U., decided to throw all their might and and strength against the youthful L. C. I. squad in a hope of annexing at least some sort of gridiron honor. The locals, however, were undismayed despite the fact that they outweighed and opposed to a much more experienced team.

The locals had the Baptists blanked until only 10 minutes of the last period remained unplayed, and then by a succession of plunges worked their way into striking distance. They registered a field goal from quick placement, Camelford kicking a beauty. Woodstock kept dangerously close to the London goal line and succeeded in getting their fourth and last point on a kick to the deadline. The locals elected to scrimmage the ball when play was resumed, and though they were pushed back for a loss, a terrific plunge and long run by Reg. Beard saved the day as he ran to Woodstock's 20-yard line, where play remained for the balance of the game.

Beard not only saved the game, but his aggressiveness in the first quarter put the locals out in front, by breaking through for a touchdown, which Sessions converted.

The second and third quarter went scoreless and the tackling of Hunter for the Collegiate stood out as the bright spot. When in position to boot a field goal, Sessions overlooked this bit of attack and kicking twice for single points early in the last quarter. The teams:

Woodstock College — Ryan, flying wing; Lycitt, Broadway and Camelford, halves; Bewell, quarter; Vickert, snap; Lane and Barber, insides; Swartman and Reycraft, middles; Spencer and Elgie, outsides; Lawrence, Downey and Galloway, spares.

London Collegiate — Hunter, flying wing; Crittle, Sessions and Ardiel, halves; Beard, quarter; Johnson, snap; Hill and Murphy, insides; Wilson and McCaus and, middles; Foote and Daly, outsides; Burrill, Wilkins, Lawrence, Woonton and Rourke, spares.

Referee—W. Mace, Western University. Umpire — S. Wade, Woodstock College.

Sarnia Collegiate Defeats The Elks

London Twelve in Exhibition Rugby Game Loses at Border Saturday

SARNIA, Oct. 23.—The Sarnia Collegiate, interscholastic champions of the past season, defeated the London Elks in an exhibition rugby match here yesterday afternoon by 22 to 1. Most of the scoring done was due to fumbling, while the ball-carrying of Hanna and the plunging by Newton were the redeeming features of the game. The score by quarters was, 11-0, 11-1, 17-1, and 22 to 1. The teams:

London Elks—Flying wing, Hicks; halves, Shaw, Willowby, Hoffman; quarter, Hobbs; snap, Calwalder; wings, Richmond, Penny, Baker, Balkiwell, Gary, Jackson; spares, Simpson, Preston, Currie.

Sarnia—Flying wing, Curry; halves, Pugh, Hays, Hanna; quarter, G. Simpson; snap, Richardson; wings, Bentley, Manore, Newton, Randolph, Parkes, Potter; spares, Donahue, Currie, Robinson, Maitland.

The Wanderers defeated the Bearcats in a City League fixture by 9 to 0.

Petrolea Wins At Wallaceburg, 30-7

Hard Oils Take Rough O.R.F.U. Game by One-Sided Count

WALLACEBURG, Oct. 23.—Petrolea defeated Wallaceburg here yesterday afternoon by 30 to 7 in a scheduled intermediate O. R. F. U. game. The contest, the first ever staged here in the O. R. F. U., was very rough, no less than eight players being penalized at one time during the game.

Four trys, three of which were converted; one field goal and four kicks to the deadline made it possible for the visitors to pile up a comfortable lead.

Stonehouse had his nose broken in a tackle. The teams were:

Petrolea — Flying wing, Hopper; halves, Wilson, T. Gallivan, Curry; quarter, Gleason; snap, Wilkinson; wings, Heuston, Salisbury, Ellicott, Mandeville, B. Ellicott, White; spares, J. Gallivan, F. Smith, Hallett, Churchill.

Wallaceburg — Flying wing, Stonehouse; halves, Broombridge, Burke, Gordon; quarter, D. McDonald; snap, E. McDonald; wings, D. Gordon, Christian, E. Morse, D. Morse, Bolt, B. Gordon; spares, L. Gordon, C. Bolt, W. Unger, E. McDonald.

Referee—B. Armstrong, Toronto.

"IKE" MASTER LAID UP.

KITCHENER, Oct. 23.—"Ike" Master, the well-known baseball and hockey player, of this city, underwent an operation for appendicitis at the hospital here. Hopes for an early recovery are entertained. At the commencement of the baseball season in the spring Master was struck on the jaw by a pitched ball, causing a fracture which kept him out of the game for the season. He had already started training for the hockey season.

British Soccer

BELFAST, Oct. 23.—The international soccer football match on Saturday between England and Ireland resulted in a tie game, 1 to 1. The weather was cold and stormy and the ground soft, making the ball difficult to control. For some time after the opening of play neither set of forwards managed to make much headway aganist the stubborn defense of their opponent's half-backs, but the play later became very brilliant. Gillespie, for Ireland, scored the first goal, followed by Kirton for England. The second half was keenly contested and neither team succeeded in tallying.

There were 30,000 spectators present.

Galt Intermediates Defeat Kitchener

Bill Box Stars for Losing Twelve; Galt Has Clean Sheet so Far

GALT, Oct. 23.—Galt's intermediate O.R.F.U. team is unbeaten to-day in the league race, having scored their third successive victory on Saturday, when Bill Box and his Kitchener aggregation were whitewashed 13-0.

The locals have now met three other teams in the group. While Kitchener has a heavy line which held well, Galt had a greater variety of plays, were speedier and better tacklers. Despite the high wind, Les McCulloch, Galt's star booter, registered two field goals and converted for a point. The only try of the game came on a fumbled Kitchener ball. Score by periods was 6-0, 9-0, 12-0 and 13-0.

Bill Box was easily the pick of the visiting team. He was speedy and tricky, but, with the deadly tackling of the locals, he was unable to get away. Rugby is increasing in popularity and Saturday's game brought out large crowds to Victoria Park.

Blue Nose Wins Race From Elsie By 12½ Minutes

First Competition for Fisherman's Schooner for International Title Goes to Canadian Sailors

HALIFAX, Oct. 22.—Romping around the 40-mile course in record time, the Canadian challenger, Blue Nose, Captain Angus Walters, to-day defeated the American defender, Elsie, Captain Marty Welch, in the first race of a series to decide the ownership of the international fishermen's trophy, emblematic of the blue ribbon of the North Atlantic fishing fleets. Blue Nose, the bigger vessel, carrying approximately two thousand square feet more sail, had the better of the Elsie on every point of sailing. Captain Marty Welch, of the American defender, outmaneuvered his rival at the start and got the better of him in a luffing match, fifteen minutes later, but was unable to maintain his advantage, and dropped steadily astern after leaving the first mark at which he was second boat.

While the Blue Nose demonstrated that she had an edge on her American rival on the reaches, it was not until the windward work on the fourth leg commenced that the Canadian vessel demonstrated her absolute superiority in the prevailing wind of the day, which hovered around 25 knots.

Early in the windward work, Welch, attempting to set his balloon, carried away his foretopmast, and while this did not apparently interfere with the American's speed by the wind, it undoubtedly held him up on the close reach home to the finish line.

LEAD BY HALF MILE.

At noon to-day the schooner Blue Nose, challenger for the championship of the North Atlantic fishing fleets, with two-thirds of the forty-mile course covered, won a lead of about half a mile over the American defender, Elsie, of Gloucester, and appeared to be doing well in the windward trip.

Elsie carried no her foretopmast, but in the 27-mile breeze this was probably no handicap, as she was carrying about all the sail she could stagger under.

At 12.35 Welch came about again, still keeping inshore. Walters also came about, keeping Elsie under his lee. The wind had shifted due west, and indications were for a close reach from the inner automatic buoy to the finish line.

Blue Nose rounded inner automatic buoy and eased sheets for finish line at 1 o'clock sharp.

At 12.10 Elsie was well toward shore, Welch apparently looking for smoother water. He appeared to have run out of the best wind. The Blue Nose, far to windward, seemed to be getting a stiffer breeze. Walter hoisted his main topsail and both schooners were now under the same sail.

The Lunenburg skipper was pointing his vessel for all she was worth, her jib occasionally lifting, as he pinched her.

At 1 o'clock Blue Nose came about and, passing the fourth mark, headed around the inner automatic buoy on a close reach for the finish line.

At 1.11.30 the Elsie passed the fourth mark, 11 minutes and 30 seconds behind Blue Nose. The American was estimated to be three miles astern.

Premier Meighen Plays Golf His Own Peculiar Way

Leader Spends Few Hours Here at Kennels Links Saturday; Uses Only Iron Clubs

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen is not a Vardon, Roy or "Chick" Evans as a golf player. He had two hours in London on Saturday on his way to St. Thomas and spent the time on the golf links at the London Hunt and Country Club endeavoring to forget politics and the political campaign. He, along with Senator Wm. Sharp, of Manitoba, had a foursome with two London payers. They only had time to play the 10th to the 17th hole. It was long enough to demonstrate that the prime minister is no phenomenon at the Scottish national game.

Mr. Meighen uses no wooden clubs; in fact, does not carry them with him. He drives from the tee with a driving iron and uses the same clubs in place of the brassie on the fairway. Apart from the driving iron his favorite club is the putter. At any reasonable distance from the green he uses a putter. In using it he grasps it about a foot from the bottom. He breaks about every rule ever laid down by a golf professional or rule book. But despite his refusal to abide by golf regulations and customs he does exceedingly well. He gets long distance with iron and puts remarkably well.

Mr. Meighen was delighted with the London course and described it as one of the best and the prettiest he ever played on.

Sir Henry Drayton also had a game, playing against Arthur White. Sir Henry gave a good account of himself as a golfer.

HILLCREST BEAT LEAFS

A JUST RECOGNITION.

The granting of a retiring allowance of $5,000 a year to Col. George Denison, former police magistrate, is a proper recognition by the Toronto Board of Control of long and efficient service. His winning of the Czar of Russia's prize for the best essay on cavalry, a competition open to the world, was a splendid advertisement for this country when Canada was not so well known as now.—Montreal Herald.

Public Utilities And W.O.R. For M'Cutcheon Cup

Soccer Final Reached After R.C.R. and Ontario Hospital Teams Lose on Saturday

The Western Ontario Regiment's victory by 2 to 1 over the Royal Canadian Regiment, which was registered by a fluke to the extent of the winning goal, which came off one of the R. C. R. players' knee, puts the W. O. R. into the finals with the Public Utilities' eleven for the McCutcheon cup. The first game of the finals will be played at Tecumseh Park on Saturday, October 29. The W. O. R. line-up on Saturday was:

Goal: Fuller; Backs: Wilson, Crinnan; Halves: Whitelaw, Broomhead and Potter. Forwards: Taylor, Potter, Gallatly, McFarlane and Angus. Spares: Widdicombe, Noble and MacIntosh.

Referee: Barney Devlin.

The Public Utilities qualified to meet the W. O. R. by defeating the Ontario Hospital eleven by 5 to 2 at the hospital grounds. The Public Utilities led at half-time by 2 to 1.

In the second half the P. U. played fine combination, getting three more goals, while the hospital eleven notched another on a breakaway.

Hazelwood scored three for the P. U. and Moore got the other two.

The Public Utilities lined up as follows: Goal: Whitworth. Backs: Hunt and Dennis. Halves: Ince, Clark and Smith. Forwards: Land, Fullerton, Hazelwood, Moore and Holt.

Referee: Charles Hollins.

McCORMICKS WIN JUNIOR BASKET BALL TITLE

GUELPH, Oct. 23.—McCormicks, champions of the Playgrounds League, Toronto, carried off the junior championship of the O. B. A. A. when they defeated the Stratford juniors, champions of the North Wellington League, here on Saturday afternoon by a score of 19 to 13. It was a sudden death game for the championship, but as the score will indicate, it was anything but a game which two final teams should be able to put up. The principal trouble with both teams was the high wind which prevailed, as there was a regular gale blowing across the diamond all the afternoon, which made the fielding difficult and many drives went for hits which would otherwise have been easy outs. Score:

Stratford ...4 1 1 0 3 4 0 0 0—13 13 9

ALERT HOCKEY CLUB RELATES ITS SIDE

The Sporting Editor, Free Press: On behalf of the Alert Amateur Hockey Association, it is our desire to place before all hockey fans and the public in general our views with regard to the hockey situation in London as it stands at present and over which these seems to be considerable controversy.

Last year, during the month of November, we were approached by members of the Manhattan Club, who were desirous of our placing an entry in what was to be known as a City Intersub League, the winner of which was to be entered in the Northern Hockey League semi-finals. After due consideration this proposal was turned down by our members inasmuch as we felt that this venture would not be successful and accordingly notified the Manhattan Club of our decision and also stated to them that time we had no intentions of participating in hockey for the season.

Some two or three weeks later, however, we were requested by several prominent hockey enthusiasts to take into consideration the handling of an intermediate O. H. A. team and after careful deliberation and with a feeling that the fans of London demanded intermediate hockey, we decided to place a team in the O. H. A. In this connection we might also point out that our organization meeting was held on December 7, after all other clubs who we felt senior to us had, through their actions, made known that they were not anxious to tackle this proposition.

During the playing season we noted with regret the fact that through some misunderstanding London was without a junior entry in the O. H. A. and decided at that time to make sure such would not be the case this coming season. It was the feeling that in order to insure the fans real intermediate hockey in future years it was necessary to develop material from the junior ranks and in addition that closer co-operation would be secured by having both clubs under one management. With this in mind, we spoke to the rink officials on several occasions with regard to handling both teams for the season 1921-22.

It has always been our aim to foster good, clean sport in London and beg to point out that we have no axe to grind with the Manhattan Club or any other sporting or social organization in the city.

In the meantime, should the Manhattan Club decide to abide by their present plans to enter a junior team, we feel that it is a matter for their own decision, but it will in no way interfere with our original intentions made last season. As far as we are concerned, this ends the controversy.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space and past favors, we remain, yours very truly,

THE ALERT AMATEUR ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION,
Per Chas. Anderson,
Secretary.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Uncertainty regarding the railroad strike outlook had a tendency to-day to prevent any decided movement of prices in the wheat market. Sellers were somewhat in a majority at the start, but this condition was later reversed, the view being more generally taken that bearish factors had been discounted enough for at least the time being. Trade as a whole, however, lacked volume. Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to a lower, were followed by a rally to all round above Saturday's finish and then by something of a setback.

Corn and oats fluctuated in line with wheat. After opening unchanged, corn hardened a little and then underwent a slight sag.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c off and kept within narrow limits.

Provisions were easier owing to lower quotations on hogs.

Opening: Wheat, December, $1.04¼; May, $1.10⅜. Corn, December, 46½c; May, 51⅝c. Oats, December, 32¾c; May, 37¼c.

PREFER OLD OATS TO THE NEW CROP

Imported Potatoes Bring $1.75 To $1.85 Per Bag.

There was an exceptionally good demand for hay on the local market on Monday. The price was somewhat easier and five loads that were offered before 10 a. m. brought from $18 to $21 a ton.

The demand for old oats was also good, much better than the demand for new oats. New oats, the threshers say, are far too light, only averaging from 18 to 26 pounds to the bushel instead of 34 pounds. One load of new oats sold for $1.20 on Saturday. This is an exceptionally low price.

Potatoes are still being shipped in and are selling at $1.75 to $1.85 a bag, while the price asked by the local farmers and dealers is $2 to $2.50 a bag.

RAILWAY STRIKE UNCERTAIN YET

Labor Board Hopes That Something Will Happen To Prevent It.

UNION HEADS ARE RETICENT

Must Be Settlement Or Men Will Go Out, They Declare.

SIGNALMEN WON'T COME OUT

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. — The Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen of America will not join the brotherhoods and switchmen in their contemplated strike, President D. W. Helt announced to-day.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—The four big brotherhoods and the switchmen's union have reiterated their warning to the United States Railroad Labor Board that only a "satisfactory settlement" can prevent the railroad strike called for next Sunday morning, it was learned to-day.

The presidents of the five unions, replying to the board's citation to appear here on Wednesday, sent a joint message, reasserting the stand they took at their conference with the board last week, when they insisted they had no power to suspend or call off a strike unless a settlement in accordance with their demands was reached.

"The only power in our hands" the union executive telegraphed, "is to advise (our men) that a satisfactory settlement has been reached."

The Railroad Labor Board announced to-day that it had "reason to hope" that the railroad strike, set for October 30, would be averted. In a formal announcement the board warned the public to "refrain from loose talk and provocative language about either side of the controversy.

The announcement said: "There is great reason to hope that the strike will be averted. The Railroad Labor Board has settled 700 disputes between the railroads and their employees in about a year and a half. Many of these disputes contained the possibilities of strikes or lockouts.

"The board is anxious to get the present dispute out of the way, in order that the restoration of sound business conditions may proceed.

"All good Americans should refrain from loose talk and provocative language about either side. Neither of the parties should be alarmed or irritated by unwarranted denunciation or insinuation from irresponsible sources."

WAGE STATISTICS.

Statistics compiled by the United States Railroad Labor Board in its consideration of the wages of railroad employees show that the average daily rate of pay for all grades of work now is $4.54, as compared with an average rate of $2.87 in 1917. The present rate includes the wage cut authorized on July 1 by the board. This cut averaged about 12½ per cent.

Faith and Future

ing. The greatest study in life is that of human nature, and by pursuing it our confidence will be restored and prosperity will be inevitable."

Mr. Jones, speaking of conditions in the United States, pointed out that the nation to the south of us is going through the same period of unrest as Canada experienced a few months ago when the Reds attempted to get the upper hand in Winnipeg and other centers. Canada was more fortunate as business men were discounting hard times. This is the spirit that had made Canada a world power economically within the past 130 years.

James Gray moved a vote of sympathy to Sir Adam Beck in the great and serious loss which he as a fellow Rotarian had sustained in the death of Lady Beck. It was passed by a standing vote.

The speaker of the luncheon was introduced by Malcolm Davis, who said that Mr. Jones had achieved great success through his sincere love and cooperation with his fellow man.

Dr. Moorehouse

of faculty for 17 years. Following an active career he resigned all connections with the faculty in the spring of 1907 to practice privately.

In 1900 he was elected vice-chancellor of the Western University, which office he resigned in 1908, upon the reconstruction of the charter of university. For a period of 17 years he was the representative of the Western University in the Ontario Medical Council, of which body he was elected president in 1907.

MEMBER OF SENATE.

In 1871 he married Margaret A., daughter of the late Rev. Dr Webster, who died in 1900. In December, 1902, he married Mary Butler, daughter of the late Richard Butler, of London.

Dr. Moorhouse endeavored to advance himself in the knowledge of his beloved profession, and for this purpose had made frequent trips, not only to the medical centers or America, but also to many European hospitals, where he had at different times taken many post-graduate courses.

The late doctor was known to be an active worker in local circles and was a member of the senate for Huron College, was church warden for St. Paul's Anglican Church for a period of 14 years and was one of the foremost promoters of the Woodland Mausoleum.

Dr. Moorhouse was a Conservative in politics and a prominent Anglican in religion.

He is survived by his widow, two sons having died in their infancy. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

SERIOUS MATTER TO THREATEN PARENTS

Thomas Devine, who pleaded guilty on Wednesday last to sending threatening letters to his father demanding money, appeared in police court this morning for sentence. Deputy Magistrate Bartlett, however, pointed out that the offense was a very serious one and adjourned the case for one week in order to give the matter further consideration.

The lad, who is 18 years of age, was charged with sending a letter to his father, John Devine, in which he threatened that if his father did not send him $20, and that if his father did not "come across, "I'll burn up every truck and barn you've got." No name was signed to the letter, which he gave to a small boy to deliver, but his father recognized the handwriting and communicated with the police department.

A short time later Thomas was in custody and when he appeared in court the following day, pleaded guilty to the charge.

ASK FOR VOTE ON CANTEEN FUNDS

War Veterans Want Soldiers To Decide Their Allocation.

WOULD EXCLUDE ASIATICS

Also Want Armistice Day Anniversary Observed On November 11.

PORT ARTHUR, Ont., Oct. 24. — In dealing with the C. E. F. canteen fund at the last session of the Great War Veterans' Association convention here on Saturday, a resolution was unanimously passed requesting the Federal Government to undertake a plebiscite among all ex-members of the C. E. F. to determine the most equitable and satisfactory allocation of canteen funds.

It was decided that the 1922 convention will be held in Nova Scotia, the city to be left to the approval of that province.

Limitation of armaments or total disarmament was advocated by the convention. The convention expressed the hope that the Washington conference on disarmament would lead to this step being taken.

The convention, in a resolution, asked for an explanation by the Government of the disposition of the discount between the Canadian dollar and the pound sterling and French franc, which was the currency paid to soldiers in England and France during the war. The total amount of liabilities involved is said to be more than $15,000,000 and appropriation of the same would amount to $15 or $20 a man. It was emphasized that this question be fully probed.

Indorsation was given to the proposal favoring the exclusion of all Asiatics and also to prevent the sale of lands directly or indirectly to Asiatics.

The convention protested against the holding of the anniversary of Armistice Day on any other date than November 11.

MILK PRODUCTS PLANT DAMAGED

Fire Threatened Destruction of Brownsville Factory.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Fire which destroyed a small frame barn at Brownsville, at noon to-day, spread to the million-dollar plant of the Canadian Milk Products Company, and for a time threatened the total destruction of that factory, if not most of the village, which is eight miles west of Tillsonburg.

At 12.15 p. m. the Tillsonburg fire department received an urgent request for help, but this was later cancelled, and it is understood that the blaze was got under control by the Brownsville people without serious loss. A call was sent to Ingersoll also, but no equipment could be sent from that town on account of the absence of a water pressure system and hydrants at Brownsville.

The fire in the frame barn is said to have been started by children playing with matches. The factory is one of those which for some time had not been turning out milk products, but had been operating to the extent of receiving milk.

WINDSOR MAGISTRATE ADDS TO LIVING COSTS

WINDSOR, Oct. 24. — It costs a small pocketful of money to be ordered to pay court costs in a case in Windsor police court. Individuals who are unfortunate enough to be brought before Judge Gundy, convicted of an offense where there is an alternative of a money fine, must now hand over an extra $8.50. Until a short time ago the court costs totaled $7.50.

Drunks are fined the usual $10 and costs. One wiry individual who paid the fine to-day objected to the large court costs on the ground that he could get better accommodation at the Hotel Statler, Detroit, for the amount it was costing him to stop in a cell.

MAY FORCE ISSUE ON NOTE TO POPE

Lloyd George Said to Be Planning New Move at Irish Parley

IMPERILS MR. DE VALERA

Critical Stage in Negotiations Has Admittedly Been Reached

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(Canadian Press Cable)—With Prime Minister Lloyd George week-ending at his country home at Chequers Court, and Michael Collins, head of the Irish delegation in London, gone to Dublin, no important developments in the Irish negotiations are expected until the conference is resumed on Monday afternoon.

That an acute crisis has been reached was admitted by both sides to-day, but the general opinion to-night was that the resentment expressed by the British representatives toward Eamonn De Valera's message to the pope would be smoothed over and that the negotiations would proceed.

Some of the papers on Saturday asserted that Mr. De Valera's message was approved, or authorized, by the Sinn Fein delegates, but independent inquiries in Sinn Fein circles elicited no such expression, none of the delegates being willing to voice an opinion.

MAY EXPECT MORE?

"If Mr. De Valera's reiteration in his telegram to the pope of the principle he enunciated long ago and has never abandoned, produces a hubbub," commented one Sinn Fein leader, "then we may expect other crises when the conference takes up the real issues involved."

It was stated to-night that although considerable progress was made in the preliminary discussions regarding the truce, the army, navy and finance, the recognized stumbling block—Ulster—has hardly been touched. It was understood that when the conference resumes on Monday Mr. Lloyd George will immediately bring up again the subject of Mr. De Valera's message, and open up the question of the position of the Sinn Fein regarding allegiance to the crown. Such a move, if taken, would, it was pointed out on the British side, put the Sinn Fein delegates in the extremely difficult position of either repudiating Mr. De Valera—which of course is not expected—or of finding a formula for defining definitely the Sinn Fein's attitude toward the British crown, which it is recognized will be equally difficult.

SEEK WAY OUT.

Nevertheless, hope was expressed today of finding a way out of the dilemma and this hope appears even stronger to-night. The Sinn Fein delegates say it is "60 to 40" that the conference will be continued.

The Evening Standard, which professes to have a good line on the Government's attitude, said on Saturday that Mr. De Valera's telegram has caused "a perceptible change for the worse in the conference atmosphere," adding: "The Government, in the event of disruption, would undoubtedly take a strong line—the line of least resistance being an appeal to the electorate. The question of a general election is even discussed to-day."

When Michael Collins left for Dublin he took with him, according to The Standard, an important document, presumably for submission to Mr. De Valera, "regarding which no information is yet available."

A NATIONALIST CHARGE.

BELFAST, Oct. 22.—In an editorial article to-day on the Irish negotiations The Irish Independent, the Nationalist organ, says that Prime Minister Lloyd George desires to leave England for Washington early in November, irrespective of whether there is or is not a settlement agreement reached in the Irish question before he starts.

The idea of the British prime minister if, as seems likely, no settlement has been arrived at by the time he must leave to attend the conference on armaments," the newspaper continues, "is that he should administer doses of soothing syrup to the Irish plenipotentiaries in order to secure that the Downing street conference, with nothing settled, would simply mark time until his return in five or six weeks. "His plan is to secure for himself a favorable reception in America by telling the people on the other side of the Atlantic that the Irish question is being thoroughly thrashed out at the conference in Downing street, and that everything is going well in the direction of a certain settlement.

"The Irish plenipotentiaries, needless to say, would not acquiesce in any such arrangement. They will insist that before the premier starts for America the vital issues at stake must be settled or the impossibility of a settlement finally demonstrated. This would mean that if there were no Irish peace the premier would not go to America.

"The premier is irritated because the plenipotentiaries will not subordinate the interests of their country to his convenience. Hence the suggestion from his camp of the possible wrecking of the conference upon the telegram of Mr. De Valera to the pope."

MACSWINEY REMEMBERED.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—There was a large gathering in Trafalgar Square this afternoon to celebrate the anniversary of the death of Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork. MacSwiney died in Brixton prison while on a hunger strike.

None of the Irish delegates to the peace conference attended, but William Roth, member of Parliament for Cork, was among the speakers. Frequent reference was made by speakers to the telegram of Eamonn de Valera to Pope Benedict, which was indorsed by the gathering.

Branches of the Irish Self-Determination League organized processions which, carrying banners and headed by bands, marched from various districts in the city to Trafalgar Square. Notwithstanding the rain which fell, it is estimated that nearly 20,000 persons took part in the demonstration.

The Sinn Fein delegates, who are attending the conference with the Government officials in an endeavor to bring about peace in Ireland, were in consultation to-day concerning to-morrow's meeting. Persons in close contact with the Irish delegates assert that none of the delegates will do anything which might be construed as a repudiation of Mr. De Valera.

It was declared to-day by persons near the delegates that though they are plenipotentiaries they recognize De Valera's authority as president, and are convinced that his telegram to Pope Benedict, though possibly untimely, represents the sentiments of the Dail Eireann, which elected them.

While professing inability to understand why the telegram should have caused trouble, it was asserted that the delegates think a way out of the situation may be found by their admitting that although allegiance to the King now is denied, association with the British commonwealth may be arranged in a conference on terms.

Opinion to-night in London was hopeful that the crisis over Ireland will be surmounted.

Peterboro, Ont.—"I can speak in the highest praise of Dr. Pierce's medicines. I suffered for a long time with feminine weakness, through which I became all rundown, weak and nervous. He tried many medicines but did not get any better until he took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By taking this medicine he was completely restored to good health. WANT CASGRAIN FOR GOVERNMENT

North Essex Conservatives to Make Selection on Saturday

OTHERS ARE SUGGESTED

Doctor in Position to Put Up Strong Fight

WINDSOR, Oct. 23.—With the North Essex Conservative convention less than a week distant, strenuous efforts are being made to induce Dr. H. R. Casgrain to accept the federal nomination. It is felt that because of his distinguished war record and his past services to the party in the riding, that Dr. Casgrain is practically the only man in the constituency who could make a sufficiently strong fight to wrest the seat from the Liberal column.

The names of several men have been mentioned, among them that of Lieut-Col. F. H. Laing, and Dr. C. W. Hoare, of Walkerville, but these gentlemen, it is understood, are averse to political preferment because of the great personal sacrifices necessary.

The executive committee of the North Essex Conservative Association, however, has not yet abandoned its plan to induce Dr. Casgrain to become the party's candidate.

GODERICH BOY HURT WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

GODERICH, Oct. 23.—What at first was thought to be a serious accident took place this afternoon, when an auto driven by Robert Matheson ran into John Reycraft, 15-year-old son of Rev. J. F. Reycraft, of Victoria Street Church. The young lad was knocked down and two wheels passed over his head. Mr. Matheson took the lad to the hospital, where it was found that no serious injury had been caused, beyond a few bruises. Mr. Matheson was just turning on to the square and was running slowly. It was purely an accident.

Wm. Cadman, employed in the engine room of the Western Canada Flour Mills Company, met with an accident on Saturday. He was working near a belt running the stokers in the fire hold, when his left arm was drawn around the shaft wheel. His cries brought assistance and the machine stopped. Only for the fact that the belt was slack his arm would have been torn off. The arm is badly bruised, but no bones were broken.

Quit Laxatives, Purges; Try NR

NR Tonight — Tomorrow Feel Right

It is a mistake to continually dose yourself with so-called laxative pills, calomel, oil, purges and cathartics and force bowel action. It weakens the bowels and liver and makes constant dosing necessary.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome your constipation and get your system in such shape that daily purging will be unnecessary? You can do so if you get a 25c box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a week or so.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs—promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best.

Try Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and prove this. It is the best bowel medicine that you can use and costs only 25c per box, containing enough to last twenty-five days. Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) is sold, guaranteed and recommended by your druggist.

GRENADE IS HARMLESS

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 23.—A grenade, which failed to explode, was thrown among the police here to-day while efforts were being made to organize a procession for a march on the United States consulate to protest against the conviction for murder of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The grenade was thrown immediately after a Sacco-Vanzetti protest meeting. The police prevented the procession and arrested 17 persons during the disorders.

Studebaker
"Built-in-Canada"

This is a Studebaker Yea

We have been asked the question how we account for the tide of Studebaker popularity which has swept the country.

Among others, two fundamental causes explain it:

1. The outstanding cause is the value of Studebaker Cars, in quality, style, performance, durability and price, demonstrated by the complete satisfaction and enthusiasm of nearly one-half million owners who know values.

2. The universal respect for and confidence in the integrity of the name STUDEBAKER which for seventy years has been the symbol of quality and fair dealing.

Crowning proof of the dependability of Studebaker cars is reflected in our diminishing business in service parts.

With approximately 116,000 more Studebaker cars in operation on September 1st, 1921, our parts business the first eight months of this year was 3% less than in the same period two years ago.*

While our car manufacturing plants operated this year 41% ahead of last year, our service parts manufacturing plant has operated at from one-half to two-thirds of last year.*

Studebaker Cars are standing up in service and staying out of repair shops, to a degree unexcelled, we believe, by any cars of whatever price.

3 BANDITS GET CLEAR AWAY WITH A MILLION

Rob Mail Truck In New York and Escape With Four Pouches.

REWARD OF $5,000 IS OFFERED FOR CAPTURE

General Alarm Sent Out For Green Auto In Which Trio Escaped.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A million dollar mail robbery was successfully carried out on Broadway early this morning, when three young men in an automobile held up a United States mail truck at Broadway and Worth streets at the point of revolvers at 1.30 o'clock. Four sacks of registered mail were seized. These, it is said, contained at least $1,000,000 in cash or negotiable securities. The robbers appeared to have had advance information as to the location of the bags, for other mail pouches were not molested. The robbers escaped in their car, driving north on Broadway. A general police alarm has been sent out.

The truck was on its way from the city hall station to the Pennsyvania Railway terminal with 17 pouches of mail, 11 of them containing registered matter. The driver had gone only a few blocks when a green automobile containing three men drew alongside. They confronted him with drawn revolvers and ordered him to slow down. At Leonard street two men jumped from the automobile on to the truck and ordered the driver to get down from his seat. One held a gun to the driver's head, he said, while the other pointed his weapon at his stomach.

SELECTS FOUR POUCHES.

Forcing the driver to turn over the key, one bandit unlocked the cage and pawed over the pouches inside. Selecting four he transferred them to the automobile, which stood at the curb with its motor running. After threatening to "blow his brians out" if he moved, the driver said, the trio moved off Broadway, west through Leonard street and disappeared.

The driver, Frank Havranich, said that after satisfying himself his life was no longer in danger, he got back on to the truck and drove to the Beach street police station. A general alarm for the green automobile was at once sent out and the postal inspector summoned.

REWARD OF $5,000 OFFERED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Reward of $5,000 to any person bringing in, "dead or alive," any one of three automobile bandits who late last night held up a U. S. mail truck in New York, was offered to-day by Postmaster-General Hays.

Reports to the post office department were said to indicate that so far as known the loot of the bandits did not exceed $50,000. The full strength of the department's inspection force was at work attempting to clear up the case.

EXPECT CHANGES IN S. A. C. OFFICE

Trip To Toronto Follows Monday's Secret Meeting.

Following a secret meeting of the executive of the local Soldiers' Aid Commission yesterday, a strong delegation from that body went to Toronto to-day to interview the provincial commission heads, and it is expected that important changes in the local office will result from the conference.

Welfare work among soldiers during the coming winter will be one of the topics to be discussed and strong efforts will be made for increased local grants and permission to reopen the S. A. C. employment department.

It is also expected that the provincial commission will be assured that the S. S. C. is now entering a period where it will be called on, more and more, to give special assistance to the families of veterans where the father either gave his life in the late war, died because of war disabilities, or suffered injuries such as impair his earning ability in peace.

The problem of the soldier's son or daughter, local commission members state, is growing in importance as the adolescent period is reached.

What local changes may result from the to-day's Toronto conference is now unknown, but it is considered probable that complete reorganization will be the direct outcome.

Since When Did Premier Pass Out Jobs At Jail?

ELASTIC IMAGINATION REQUIRED TO CONCEIVE OF DOMINION GOVERNMENT APPOINTING SHERIFF FOR THE PROVINCIAL INSTITUTION.

An apparently malicious attempt to involve the Meighen administration in the appointments of sheriff of the County of Middlesex and governor of the county jail and thereby influence the soldier vote were made in a front page article in The London Advertiser in the afternoon edition of Monday.

It takes some stretch of imagination to link a Dominion Government up with the provincial appointment of sheriff and a sheriff's appointment, a jailer.

The Liberal journal quotes E. Bell, secretary of the Great War Veterans, regarding the appointments to be made, in which he asserts that the veterans will lead Meighen to defeat unless returned men are given the vacant positions at the courthouse and jail. Evidently neither Mr. Bell nor the writer of the article has yet become aware that the appointment of sheriff is made by Provincial U. F. O. Government and the position of jailer is an appointment of the sheriff, subject to the approval of the Provincial Government. Either they were aware of this fact or else a deliberate attempt was made to mislead the veterans of the city, who, without a doubt, however, know better than the writer of the article when the appointments are made.

Two paragraphs from the article follow:

"The Government promised that such positions would be filled by ex-service men.

"'We intend to see that they keep their promise,' stated E. Bell, secretary of the G. W. V. A., on Monday. The Conservatives' slogan is 'Meighen will lead us through.' If he does not keep faith with the veterans we will lead him to defeat,' continued the acting secretary."

TO OPEN NEW EAST END SUBSTATION

Formal Inspection By Commissioners Set For Wednesday.

NINTH STATION OF KIND

Designed To Take Care of the City's Industrial Area.

At noon to-morrow the Public Utilities commissioners will formally inspect the new east end power station, in which $135,000 has been invested. The building is valued at $35,000 and equipment totals $100,000.

This building, now completed and being equipped, is the ninth power station to be erected in London for the distribution of hydro. The transformers and generators now being installed are among the largest in the province and are prepared to distribute 20,000 horsepower of Niagara energy. The first power station erected by the Utilities Commission, now forming the west wing of the Horton street plant, was equipped to handle only 4,000 horsepower of energy.

"This latest addition to our system of power distribution plants," Commissioner Pocock stated to-day, "shows the wonderful growth of hydro in London."

The east end substation is designed to take care of London's industrial area in the east end, where already magnificent factories stand as forerunners of many more to be built in the next few years, representing an investment of millions. That section will be independent, in an electrical sense, from the rest of the city, which will assure manufacturers of less interruption of service than would be the case were the whole city controlled from one power distribution plant.

The party that will make the official inspection of the new plant to-morrow includes Mayor Little, Chairman Jared Vining, of the commission; Commissioners McFarland, Mitchell and Pocock, together with General Manager Buchanan and other staff officials.

POPULAR BUSINESS MAN DIED LAST NIGHT

Harry Lewis Succumbs After Long Illness, In Fifty-First Year.

The death occurred at the family residence, 653 Queen's avenue, last night of Mr. Harry Lewis, one of the city's best known business men. Mr. Lewis was taken ill while in Florida last winter and never fully recovered. He was 50 years of age and was born in Hamilton, but had lived most of his life in this city, where he had a very wide circle of friends. He was a member of the Chosen Friends and connected with Dundas Center Methodist Church for many years.

He is survived by his widow, his mother, Mrs. Lillian Lewis, of this city; two sons, Winnett and Delmer, two daughters, Lorna and Celia, and by two brothers, Charles, of this city, and James, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon from the family residence.

SHRINERS GATHER HERE DECEMBER 7

Call Goes Out To Faithful of the District.

MANY FOR INITIATION

Business and Social Session On Program.

Word has been sent out from the mystic votaries of Mocha Temple to all the faithful in this district and in neighboring temple precincts that the Oasis of London will be made fair to the eye on December 7, on which date the local nobles of the Mystic Shrine will throw open the doors of their temple for mystic rites and ceremonies and for the dispensing of Arabian hospitality.

One of the largest classes of candidates in local temple history are now accustoming their tender feet to bear heat. For these neophytes that would join the sacred brotherhood are soon to journey across the heated sands of a miniature desert. And only those with feet inured to travel towards the Mecca of fraternal ideals may survive the ordeal.

The annual election of officers will take place at the December meeting. Reports of various benevolent committees will be received, and it is anticipated that the Shrine may outline a definite program with regard to the new War Memorial Children's Hospital. Sick children are being a peculiar charge of Shriners everywhere.

FIX RATES ON HOURLY BASIS

More Equitable Than Weekly Minimum Wage Scale.

FOR FACTORY GIRLS

Some Objection To Schedule For Apprentices.

Because the working week of different industries varies from 40 to 60 hours, the minimum wage board has under consideration a plan to establish rates on an hourly instead of a weekly basis, R. G. Bowie, manager of Gorman & Ekert, who appeared before the board when it sat in London, pointed out that this new method would be much more equitable and would be agreeable to both employer and employee.

If this scheme is adopted it will mean that experienced girls employed in the pickle and confectionery concerns and paper box industries will be paid between 19 and 29 cents an hour. Should the 50-hour week be regarded as the average working time, the wage would be 23 cents an hour on the basis of $11.50 weekly minimum. By the same reckoning, inexperienced girls under 18 years of age would start working at 16 cents an hour.

Under the present minimum wage schedule it is possible for employers who did not agree to the scale to increase the working hours of the girls. This would tend to make abortive the efforts of the board to insure girls a fair working day at a living wage. The difference in the working week is strikingly shown in the fact that Gorman, & Ekert have a 45-hour week, while other outside industries enforce a 55-hour week.

According to Mr. Bowie, there would be absolutely no objection on the part of the employers to putting wages on the more equitable hourly basis. He pointed out, however, that there were some objections which employers were taking to the minimum wage schedule as it affects apprentices. A girl of 18 was as a rule not much more capable than a girl of 16, yet she must be paid $2 a week more than the younger girl. For experienced adults the minimum was satisfactory, but for apprentices it was rather too high.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S LEAGUE MEETS

100 Delegates Gather At St. Peter's Hall For First Diocesan Convention.

PLAN GREAT SOCIAL WELFARE CAMPAIGN

Catholic Women In Two-Day Session Will Discuss Many Vital Problems.

Formally welcomed to the city by Mayor E. S. Little in a brief address at the opening of to-day's session over one hundred delegates, from all parts of the Diocese of London, gathered in St. Peter's Parish Hall this afternoon for the first diocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League.

Unique in being the first convention of Catholic women to be held in the diocese the two-day program features some important business, including the election of the first diocesan executive, of which it is probable Mrs. B. C. McCann, president of the London subdivision of the League, will be the president.

"My message to you is to start something," said Mrs. McCann in her presidential address this afternoon. "This may sound like slang, but it fits the case. Go back to your homes and tell your husbands that the years gone by were for the men; that 1921 and the years to come are for the women, who will show by their good works the benefit of organization."

Outlining the social service and child welfare activities, which are to be the keynote of the new diocesan league, Mrs. McCann enjoined the delegates to "arrange first aid classes, hold baby clinics, see that poor children have lots of milk, take up child welfare, educate the mothers, join your neighbors in establishing a library, save some erring girls, look after immigrants, visit the hospitals, help the poor and needy, organize Girl Guides, visit the schools, provide social opportunity for the girls, and so on."

SECURE VOTE.

"The first and immediate work that faces our leaggue is to get all the Catholic women, whether members of the league or not, on the voters' list," Mrs. McCann said. "Committees should be organized in every parish and should not cease their activities until every Catholic woman is registered."

Referring to the organization of the diocese, the president pointed out that although begun only last February, 58 organized subdivisions are represented at this first convention. "All this organization has been accomplished without one dollar of expense save bare traveling expenses," Mrs. McCann said. "One of my greatest pleasures while organizing was meeting so many of our French-Canadian members," the president continued. "I will never forget their kindly welcome. While in Toronto I urged in the strongest terms that part of our reports in the Canadian League be printed in French and, though my motion was turned down, there is a strong agitation now going on which may result in having some pages printed in French in the near future."

As practical work for the immediate future, the president suggested the formation of parochial committees for the assistance of pastors, particularly among the women and children of the parish and in the hospitals. "I would strongly urge that child welfare be taken up and that experts be secured to give lectures on this important subject," the president said.

Locally, it was explained, hospital visiting has been taken up and a certain sum laid aside each month for comforts for the patients, while generous assistance is being given needy families, and classes in physical culture for both adults and children have been found most beneficial.

"Let me conclude with the words of Cardinal Gibbons," Mrs. McCann said. "Expect great things of ourselves, our fellow women, our country and our God."

LADY BECK.

The president referred feelingly to the death of the late Lady Lilian Beck. "Many of us have had the pleasure of being associated with her in the work of the Red Cross, Byron Sanatorium and other work for the welfare of her fellow citizens." Mrs. McCann said: "Lady

Midnight Taxi Ride Is Costly To Driver

Dusky Fare Relieves Unsuspecting Chauffeur of Roll of $18.

WILD REVELS AIRED BEFORE MAGISTRATE

Lobsters, Mushrooms and Liquor Added To General Enjoyment.

Midnight taxicab rides, disappearing money, lobsters and mushrooms, a dusky heroine — or villainess—and a trustful taxicab man, all figured in the story which Charles Reddick had to tell to the police magistrate this morning in consequence of which Mrs. Annie Johnstone is now resting for a week in the cold, cold cells, awaiting sentence for pocket picking.

Reddick says he was standing with his licensed taxicab on Richmond street, near the Tecumseh House, after midnight on Thursday night, when Mrs. Johnston, a negress, appeared and asked if the cab was for hire. Reddick replying in the affirmative, she climbed into the front seat alongside of the driver and asked him to drive her to the corner of Maitland street and Ottaway avenue. The driver said he charged her $1 for the drive and she paid him with a $2 bill, which she peeled off a sizable roll. "I gave her her change," he said, "and when she saw that I had a few dollars she started to act up. She tried to maul me a little, but I stopped her."

Reddick also alleges that he carried his roll of $18 in his right trousers pocket and that when his dusky fare suddenly decided to leave the cab he found the money was gone and a roll of paper substituted. He followed the woman, but as she disappeared between two houses in a dark and forbidding-looking alleyway, he thought discretion the better part of valor and did not pursue her.

The taxicab man telephoned his complaint to the police and officers went to the scene, but the bird had flown. Last evening, when Mrs. Annie Johnston was picked up "stwete" on Dundas street east, Reddick was telephoned for and identified the woman as the one he sad had trimmed him.

After telling his story, Reddick was closely cross-questioned by Albert Judd for the defense. He said that when he accused the woman of having taken

SEN. NICHOLLS ANSWERS CALL

Prominent Canadian Business Man Passes Away At Toronto.

HEAD OF ELECTRIC FIRMS

Was Director of Many Important Financial Concerns.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Lieut.-Col. the Hon. Frederick Nicholls, member of the Canadian Senate, and prominent financier, president of many electrical companies, died here to-day following an operation. Senator Nicholls had been seriously ill for many weeks. He was 65 years old. He was a Conservative and an Anglican. Mrs. Nicholls died in 1909.

The Hon. Frederick Nicholls was one of the outstanding business men of Canada, not only as head of big industrial enterprises, but as director of a great many financial concerns. He achieved his greatest success in the field of electricity, in which he was a pioneer in Canada. He organized the first electrical company in the Dominion, the Toronto Incandescent Electric Light Company, which adopted the underground system of electric distribution. In 1896 Mr. Nicholls was elected president of the National Electric Light Association of America and was the only Canadian who had held that position. For many years he was one of the moving forces of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

SEARCH MADE BY INSPECTORS AT INSTIGATION OF THE AUTHORITIES AT TORONTO

COUNTY JAIL SEARCHED BY OFFICERS.

Alleged That Liquor Was Found. Report Being Sent To the Department.

INSPECTOR PALMERS AND KEENLEYSIDE ACT

Visit Was Big Surprise To Officers and Occupants of Jail.

Provincial Officer Palmer and License Inspector J. E. Keenleyside swooped down on the county jail on Sunday in quest of liquor and other evidences of the inefficient conduct of the jail, it was learned to-day. The provincial officers were acting on orders from Toronto. One bottle of liquor was found in the quarters of one of the jail attendants, it is alleged, but there is a question as to whether or not the dwelling is a private residence. It could not be learned the result of the provincial officers' investigation.

Although Inspector Keenleyside's part in the investigation was for the purpose of uncovering any branch of the Ontario Temperance Act, Provincial Officer Palmer was acting on orders from the attorney-general's department. The officer, while he admitted that he and Inspector Keenleyside made a thorough investigation, would not say whether or not he found any evidence that the jail was not being conducted in strict accordance with the prison regulations. He stated that the results of his investigation would be forwarded to the attorney-general's department.

Checking Up.

It is understood that since the escape of the two alleged murderers, Sidney and William Murrell, and the subsequent investigation, that the attorney-general's department has been keeping close tab on affairs at the jail. The investigation on Sunday was made in furtherance of this watchfulness policy, it is claimed.

Provincial Officer Palmer, who made the investigation, admitted that such an investigation had been made when questioned by The Free Press, but he would make no statement as to the result of his investigations.

License Inspector Keenleyside denied that he had visited the county jail in his duties as license inspector. He declared that as far as he knew there was no likelihood of there being any liquor in the jail. He declared that it would be a fine point of law as whether an attendant might have liquor in a residence in the jail.

Governor Carter stated that he did not know anything of a search of the jail premises. He said that he had seen Inspector Keenleyside at the jail on Sunday, but declared that no one had said anything to him of anything out of the ordinary.

FIRST RELIEF TO JOBLESS SMALL

Labor Members Critical As Measure Gets Reading.

GOVERNMENT REGRETFUL

But Finances Preclude Giving More Than Nine Shillings Weekly.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Government's first proposed installment of unemployed relief, as revealed by Rt. Hon. T. J. MacNamara, minister of labor, in the House of Commons last night, provoked a very discursive debate, the members seeming to be under a certain sense of helplessness. The Government's proposals, in brief, include an extra allowance of nine shillings weekly for married men and women with dependent children, this amount to be raised by contributions from employed workmen, employers and the state. Mr. McNamara admitted that the proposals did not do as much as had been expected, but said that the condition of the national exchequer precluded the Government doing more.

There were suggested contrasts from the labor benches between those who would receive this nine shillings weekly and the people who paid 200,000 pounds for a Gainsborough work of art, or 60,000 pounds for a necklace. These remarks provoked Lady Astor to remonstrate against preaching the gospel of hate.

There was a majority of 156 for the second reading of the bill.

STEPNEY COUNCIL RECANTS

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — Stepney Council, which recently announced its intention to follow the Poplar Council in refusing to levy taxes for Greater London, has recanted.

LET MAYOR MAKE HIS CLAIM GOOD

Harley Would Leave Field To Little and Wilson.

AS SPORTING OFFER

But Alderman Not Doubtful of Own Ability.

Ald. Harley, despite the inference given out by Mayor Little to the contrary, is of the opinion that he can defeat allcomers in the mayoralty race this year. The mayor is reported to have said that he would run to beat Ald. Cameron Wilson if Ald. Harley could not do it. The inference taken by the majority of the citizens is that the mayor has the idea that he could easily defeat Ald. Wilson, while he doubts Ald. Harley's ability to carry off the honors on December 8 at the municipal elections.

"I have just enough conceit of my ability to think that I can defeat all comers in this election," said Ald. Harley referring to the statement made by the mayor. "Any man who has not this confidence would be foolish to enter a contest.

"My own opinion of my ability as a mayoralty candidate is somewhat higher than that which the mayor is said to have expressed with regard to my candidature and I think I can defeat any other candidate who might wish to enter the race. But if the mayor can convince me that he, and he alone, is capable of running to beat Ald. Cameron Wilson,' I would be perfectly happy to step out of the race and he could have the field to himself and Cameron Wilson."

BAD EFFECT.

The effect on the public of the remarks attributed to Mayor Little may be imagined when it is known that a prominent citizen called up a city hall official last night to express his opinion, which he did in no uncertain language.

"If that is the game Mayor Little is playing I am going to vote for a Conservative candidate," said this citizen. "I had intended voting on the other side, but that statement of the mayor has changed my mind in this. There should be no thought of politics in a municipal election, and there would have been none if the mayor had not passed that remark with reference to the mayoralty contest."

Motor Used By Wyoming Bandits Fished Out of Niagara River; Identified By Thorndale Owner

Police Now Believe Robber Gang Have Made Their Escape To United States.

CHIPPEWA, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The bandits which robbed the Bank of Toronto branch at Wyoming, in Western Ontario, last Thursday and got away with $14,000, have fled to the United States, is the theory here. The motor car they stole at Thorndale and used for their getaway was fished out of the Niagara River, 300 yards from the mouth of the Chippewa Creek, this morning. It was first noticed there by small boys out for a walk.

The car is now in the garage of Davidson and Williams, at Chippewa. It was stolen last Wednesday night from the garage of R. T. Wright, at Thorndale, near London. This morning Mr. Davidson telephoned Mr. Wright, giving him a description of the car, and the owner at once identified it as his machine. It was a Master McLaughlin, painted blue, with yellow wire wheels, and had been run only 3,300 miles.

The car was recovered by means of grappling hooks and was so badly damaged that Mr. Wright said he would not even come to Chippewa and claim it, as it was insured. The matter is now up to the insurance people and they have been notified. The car was new in August of this year.

The local detective department received advice this afternoon that the large McLaughlin touring car stolen from the garage of R. T. Wright, at Thorndale, had been recovered at Chippewa Falls, having been fished out of the Niagara River at that point. No further details as to the recovery were received.

Sir John Kennedy, Who Built First Double Track Railway In Canada, Dies At Montreal

Line Between Glencoe and Windsor Was One of the Achievements of Engineer Who Was Later Knighted.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25. — Sir John Kennedy, consulting engineer of the port of Montreal, died this morning, at the age of 83. The deceased was born in Owen Sound.

Sir John Kennedy built the first double-track railroad in Canada, a line running between Glencoe and Windsor, Ont. Sir John was a doctor of laws of McMaster University. He was the father-in-law of Sir Herbert Ames, member of Parliament for many years, and now of the League of Nations staff. Sir John was knighted in 1917.

Sir John Kennedy went blind in 1907, but this did not in any way affect his carrying out the gigantic scheme of constructing Montreal harbor works.

JAPAN TO INSIST ON NAVY BIG ENOUGH TO COPE WITH OTHERS IN THE PACIFIC

Minimum Must Be Arranged According To British and United States Plans, Says Jap Delegate.

ABOARD S. S. KASHIMA MARU, Oct. 25.—(By radio to The Associated Press).—The basis of Japanese program at the Washington conference on limitation of armaments and Far Eastern questions will be a desire to maintain a defensive navy large enough to cope with any naval force that any other nation would be capable of sending into the Far East, according to information given to The Associated Press representative aboard the ship which is carrying the chiefs of the Japanese delegation to the United States.

The impression is given that Japan will not propose the dismantling of United States fortifications in the Pacific, that the strength of bases in the Pacific is a question decidedly linked up with the problem of navy curtailment. It is probable that efforts may be made to settle the two matters satisfactorily.

Japan apparently does not believe that the United States at the present time could dispatch her entire navy to the Far East on account of the distance and the lack of satisfactory large bases but if United States naval bases at Guam and in the Philippines are enlarged sufficiently to care for the navy's needs and Great Britain's are expanded similarly, Japan's minimum, it is intimated, must be arranged accordingly.

Vice-Admiral Tomosk-Burkokato, minister of marine, one of Japan's delegates to Washington, has discarded his naval uniform. He explained that he goes to Washington not as naval minister but as a member of the Cabinet empowered to discuss all affairs of state.

It is believed that he is invested with wide authority.

Woman Denies Charge She Was 'Dumped' Here By Toronto Officials

Statement Signed By Widow. Allowance Act Regulations Explained By Clerk.

The woman pensioner who was alleged by J. E. McCallum, local relief inspector, to have been "dumped" on this city by Toronto, has signed a statement in which she denies the charge that officials of the Queen City encouraged her to come here. This statement is particularly important in view of the fact that the woman's case was regarded as a glaring instance in which London was being made to support outside indigents. The declaration reads:

"When I went to Toronto, in connection with mothers' allowances, I did not appear before the commission. My only conversation was with one of the clerks in the office, who told me that after I had resided in London for one year I could qualify for residence in London, according to the terms of the act. This clerk, I find, had no authority from the secretary of the commission to make such statement, but was simply telling me of one of the conditions applying to the working of the Mothers' Allowances Act."

According to the charge made by Inspector McCallum, the Toronto commission influenced the pensioner to come to London. T. D. McCullough, chairman of the local board, points out, however, that the commission does not allow itself to be interviewed by any applicant, but makes the local boards responsible. Thus it would have been impossible for the Toronto woman to have been persuaded by the commission to move here.

GOVERNMENT INVESTIGATION.

Dr. Hugh Stevenson, M. P. P., declared that he will investigate the "dumping" charges in the Provincial Legislature.

"It's a funny thing that London is the only center in the province where there has been the least bit of criticism directed against the operation of the Mothers' Allowances Act," said Mr. McCullough. "This is remarkable because the central commission, in Toronto, has expressed itself as being quite satisfied with the thoroughness and care which has marked the local administration of the act on the part of the board and investigator."

The circumstances in connection with the removal of the Toronto woman to London were explained by the chairman. Eight years ago she lived in London, but after her marriage she moved to Toronto with her husband. The latter died this year and the widow therefore decided to return to London, where her mother resides. Her inquiry at the Toronto office was merely as to whether or not she would be entitled to pension if she came here."

BLAME WOMEN FOR MEN NOT RUNNING

Women In Field Turns Men From Education Board.

TRUSTEE VOICES OPINION

"Women First" Campaign Slogan of Chivalric Men.

"The women say that it is impossible to secure six good candidates for the Board of Education among the men of the city, but they do not admit that the women may be the cause of this situation," said one of the mere male trustees to-day. Naturally he did not wish his name to be used in this connection. "It was never any trouble to induce good men to offer for the board in former years. But since the women have been seeking public office the men have been more and more inclined to stay at home. I do not say that this is the result of women seeking for office, but the facts are apparent to any who have studied the question. It might be easier to secure six good candidates among the business men of the city if the women would be contented to remain out of office."

In this connection it is pointed out that the women are not taking the Federal campaign as seriously as they are the municipal elections, or there would have been a larger attendance at the mass meeting in the Masonic Temple last night, or it may be that the 15,000 women voters of the city, it is estimated that there will be this number who will be entitled to cast their ballots in the coming election, are not at all interested in the issues of the campaign as they were explained by the Liberal candidate, Mr. Somerville. It is well within the mark to say that there were not more than 150 women in attendance last night. In fact it is possible that there were not more than 100. Naturally one questions why many of the other 14,850 women electors were not present.

However, that may be, it is the general opinion in civic circles that the activities of the women in seeking office for members of their sex is the cause of a scarcity of good male candidates for the Board of Education.

It is pointed out that the men are too chivalous to wish to come out in opposition to the women candidates for this or any other public board. There could be no fight in such a case. The lifelong training to the rule, "women first," is so strong that even in a municipal campaign mere man cannot forget it. Consequently the majority of the men who could do good work on the board will refuse to offer for election so long as the women continue to seek election. Thus it may happen that the board will be entirely composed of women in a few years. At least this is the opinion of several trustees and many other men also.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 25. A sad thing to our Admiralty Club, where young Master Falconer dies and his poor old mother left almost destitute. So we take up subscribing list for him, getting money from active members and those not so active, about £100. And Commodore Potts appoints me to interview Master Signell, and I write to him saying: "Will you not contribute to our poor dead friend's mother?" Which he answers as follows: "I will not! This because I am considered a member of this Admiralty Club only when there is money to be raised. At other times I be dirt beneath the feet of you seafaring men, therefore count me out!" Which is disgusting.

Out on the river yesterday afternoon and to see a woman with two children which she tells to go in bathing. But presently comes the mother of these two children while the poor youngsters stand shivering at the brink, and she near snatches the bathing woman's head off, saying: "Let me tell you, madam, that if you would bathe your own self oftener you would have less to worry about the bathing of other people's children!" So she grabs her children and away with them, while the bathing woman sits looking blankly into the illimitable distance."

The news is that Master W. L. McKenzie King's munition canard is exploded by the premier and this Master Kinglet near blown up thereby. And Sir George Foster do round on him the noblest that ever was because the charitable party leader states that his platform is not a collection of pledges, but a chart, which Sir George points out makes a chart and a captain that Canadians will not trust their ship of state to; and St. George save us from all such charts that be affected by the magnetic pole of Yang-kee dominance!

And again our "Blue Nose" wins over every boat of the Cape Codders, outdistancing their last year's Mayflower which methinks will be a sad blooming for the Bostonians. "Oh, Canada," my grandfather apostrophises the Dominion on hearing these good news, "here is an augury of thy future. Sail on with thy blue nose and unconquerable spirit! None can equal thee if thou wilt combine, as the fishermen have, the daily task, even if it be no more than catching herring, with a grim determination to win and win again!"

Methinks there is a new profession open to single, dependent women and men that would not care to enter the field of general employment. Which is, that they advertise themselves to look after children when it haps that both parents desire to be away to the shows or some such place. A chirurgeon friend tells me last night between acts that he gets tickets for both his wife and himself to see "Hamlet," but when they come to go they find their maid ready to go out with her constable, and they fear to stop her such is the scarcity of maids amidst world-wide unemployment. He talks to all his friends over the phone instrument trying to find someone that will look after the child, but with no avail. Finally, however, bethinking him of their laundry woman who consents the kindest in the world.

High words from Mayor Little that he means to run for mayor next year if no one can beat "Wilson," referring doubtless to Ald. J. Cameron Wilson, the chirurgeon. The most complimentary thing I ever heard of a mayor saying about himself! But we do agree with the mayor in this matter and our Admiralty to pass resolutions supporting him. Pointing out: "Resolved that this Chirurgeon Wilson runs off to the warr in the highest manner instead of staying at home to look after our Commodore Pott's gout. Then he returns from the warr (a serious count this) and forthwith feels kindly towards his former comrades, plain privates and such like. Suggesting in open meetings of Council that they be given a square deal. But nathless roaring at "heroes" who would have the city establish breadlines. Also that he fights against this five shilling gass rate to the great discontent of all we plutocrats." Which resolutions we mean to publish broadcast in order that we may force our lord mayor to run and save us from this chirurgeon-major!

Which reminds us that this is Trafalgar week, in which the Canadian Navy League is seeking to draw lads into the navy and to make merchant sailors out of them. This battle of Trafalgar occurring on October 21, 1805. In which Lord Nelson gives the Frenchmen under the Corsican a sound drubbing. And recalling that glorious victory to reflect how warr has gone utterly to the dogs. Efficiency experts getting into it and taking the matter too seriously, so we are mighty like to have no more warrs whatever.

A good tale from New York where one of our theatrical men goes lately. This is that the drawer of "funny" cartoons on newspapers and magazines gets a humor to his jaws and so to a chirurgeon of tooth pulling. So he sits him down pretty content and the tooth chirurgeon, to make conversation—and no doubt to gauge his bill—ask: "And what business are you in?" "I am so-and-so," he replies, "a comical artist." "You be, be you," snorts the tooth chirurgeon, "then here is my opportunity. I shall pull your teeth like you artists always say we do!" So he makes at him with a blacksmith's tongs and the artist faints.

My Aunt Mary abroad and to purchase a new lining for my topp coat, owing to my Elizabeth being busy at mother-in-law's over some reception. Which she secures, being a gray farmer's satin, mighty fine, and to be spucer in this lining than I ever was in the old lining. The price of it ten shillings, and only to buy at once place in the town. Linings elsewhere, my aunt says, are "sleazy stuff," a term that harks back to the origins of our language.

Out to the shows and to see W. Hampden play "Hamlet," which I like not overmuch. Methinks he does not take the Danish prince's own advice to players. Yet he give a notable interpretation of this enigma of plays as he sees it. The ghost to lack in dignity, but the grave diggers marvelous well acted. A hard play for any man to act seeing that everyone who reads this tragedy goes with preconceived notions to see it played. We all having somewhat of "Hamlet" in us, and thus interpret it according to our egoism.

My Aunt Mary out to hear Master Somerville last night and she reports a pretty weak, vain, silly meeting. The imported speaking woman to make the most illogical attack in the world on shoes; and Master Somerville to refer to the grain pool as, so far as he knows, a place where the ball is put. He thinking, no doubt, about billiards. Whereat a disdainful woman in the front row do whisper to my aunt, loud enough for the whole little group to hear: "Tiresome!"

Snapped At Public School Field Day On Monday

POLITICAL POT IS WARMING UP

Two Nominating Conventions Are Slated.

SELECT N. L. C. CANDIDATE

Labor Men and Liberals To Hold Meetings.

With three nominating conventions and several other gatherings of political importance slated for the week, the political pot is showing considerable signs of increased activity. The National Liberal and Conservative candidate for London will be chosen at a convention which has been called for Monday night next, while the East Middlesex N. L. C. nomination is called for Saturday afternoon. The Labor men will pick their representative on Friday night.

The East Middlesex convention promises to be the largest in the history of the riding. It will be held in the Masonic Temple on Saturday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Out of 66 subdivisions more than 40 have reported their delegates. In many cases there have been an equal number of men and women delegated to attend the convention. It is expected that there will be at least 300 delegates.

HON. ROBERTSON COMING.

The convention has been fortunate in securing Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, as one of the principal speakers. In a telegram sent to the city to-day he promises to come down on Friday and will remain over for Saturday afternoon. It is quite probable that he will also be asked, and will consent, to address the Labor convention, which has been called for Friday night.

From all reports the women of the city and of East Middlesex are showing unbounded interest in the two N. L. C. conventions. It is expected that the fair sex will be equally well represented with the men at both the Saturday afternoon and the Monday night conventions.

Preparatory to the N. L. C. convention of Monday night ward meetings are being held on Wednesday night for the appointment of delegates. Electors of wards one and two will meet in the Masonic Temple on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock to choose delegates. Those supporters of the Meighen Government residing in wards three and four, west of Adelaide street, will meet at the same place and at the same hour.

WARD THREE MEETS.

Ward three electors living east of Adelaide street, will meet in Chesley avenue school at the same hour, while ward four electors residing east of Adelaide street will gather in the Foresters' Hall, Dundas street east. All of these ward meetings are called for Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. Every supporter of the Meighen Government entitled to vote in the city is asked to be present. A cordial invitation is extended to the women electors.

The local campaign promises to be an interesting one. Whether it will be three-cornered or not depends to a great extent on the choice made by the N. L. C. convention on Monday night. If a candidate who can be supported by the soldier-labor voters of the city is chosen the fight will be between him and ex-Mayor Somerville. But if the labor party decides that it cannot indorse the N. L. C. candidate, a third party will enter the field.

LIBERAL-LABOR MAN.

In this connection it is stated that many of the local Grit camp are not at all satisfied with their standard bearer. It is a well-known fact that some of the prominent ones of the party approached several labor men with the view to placing a Liberal labor man in the field.

What would be gained by this other than the defeat of Mr. Somerville is not known. This object will be attained without this assistance from the Grits, it is assured. Those whose names will be placed before the N. L. C. convention on Monday night are all of such caliber that they will leave Mr. Somerville many laps behind in the coming contest. In fact, it is practically assured that the Liberal candidate is defeated now at the commencement of the campaign.

There are many Liberals who are ready to admit this now, not openly, perhaps, but they realize the situation well. The mechanics, who depend on busy factories for their wages; the business men, who in turn could not exist if these mechanics and all workers were not receiving good wages, and the wives of all are beginning to realize the importance of the issues in the present election. All of these point out that they cannot support any candidate who is linked up with a tariff policy that would close the factory doors and drive the business men out of the country.

It is pointed out that it was partly for this reason that a labor candidate was sought by some of the Liberal ranks. They know that no worker who knows the situation could support a free trade policy.

Harry Kirwin, president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor party, will be here for the Labor convention of Friday night. John Bruce, Dominion president of the Canadian Labor party, will also be at the meeting. In addition to these there will be others prominent in the Labor movement, who are expected to address the convention. It is expected that about 10 names will be submitted for the convention to choose from.

HIGHEST SERVICE FOR POOR OR RICH IS GUARANTEED AT VICTORIA HOSPITAL

Placing of City's Institution On Minimum Standard Is Most Important Step.

Official announcement from the American College of Surgeons, now in session in Philadelphia, that Victoria is amongst a group of 396 hospitals in Canada and the United States where the minimum standard of treatment is rigidly adhered to should be a matter of sincere congratulation to every member of the medical profession in London and citizens generally.

The announcement shows that Victoria Hospital is one of six in Ontario where the minimum standard of treatment is the rule of practice. Two other Ontario hospitals have the minimum standard but have not yet been able to put it effectively into operation.

Just what the minimum standard is was explained to-day to The Free Press. Summed up in one sentence, it is that organization of hospital staff and services whereby every patient, no matter the patient's position in life, is guaranteed a certain standard course of treatment at the hands of skilled medical practitioners and of surgeons where necessary.

MINIMUM STANDARD

Where the minimum standard of hospital treatment is in force the patient is a patient whether he commands millions in the workday world or sells pencils on a street corner. There is no farming out of the indigent ill to the inexperienced in medicine and surgery, records are kept with absolute precision, and the law is that no mistake ever be committed a second time. Research work is not only required but compelled under the minimum standard. Nothing is left to individual generosity, like or dislikes, the patient is regarded as a charge on the sacred honor of the physician or physicians in attendance.

That the minimum standard of hospital treatment has been adopted and made effective in Victoria Hospital is said to be due to the untiring efforts of the local academy of medicine assisted by Superintendent Heard and the hospital trustees.

The minimum standard, as outlined by the American College of Surgeons, is as follows:

"That physicians and surgeons privileged to practice in the hospital be organized as a staff.

COMPETENT STAFF

"That membership upon the staff be restricted to physicians and surgeons who are (a) competent in their respective fields and (b) worthy in character and in matters of professional ethics; that in this latter connection the practice of the division of fees, under any guise whatever, be prohibited.

"That the staff initiate, and, with the approval of the governing board of the hospital, adopt rules, regulations and policies governing the professional work of the hospital; that these rules, regulations and policies specifically provide:

"(a) That staff meetings be held at least once a month.

"(b) That the staff review and analyze at regular intervals the official experience of the staff members in the various departments of the hospital, such as medicine, surgery and obstetrics; the clinical records of patients, free and pay, to be the basis for such review and analyses.

EFFICIENT SERVICE

"That accurate and complete records of cases be written for all patients and filed in the hospital, a complete case record being one, except in emergency, which includes the personal history, the physical examination, with clinical, pathological and X-ray findings when indicated; the working diagnosis; the treatment, medical and surgical; the medical progress; the condition on discharge with final diagnosis, and, in case of death the autopsy findings when available.

"That clinical laboratory facilities be available for the study, diagnosis and treatment of patients, these facilities to include at least chemical, bacteriological, serological, histological, radiographic and fluroscopic service in charge of trained technicians."

The College of Surgeons report on standardization sums up: "Hospital standardization aims to safeguard the patient against error in diagnosis, against lax or lazy treatment, against unnecessary surgical operations or operations by unskilled surgeons; it aims to bring to every patient, however humble, the highest service known to the profession."

ASK FOR HIS BADGE OR ELSE HIS CREDENTIALS

Chief Birrell's Advice to Householders Regarding "Bogus" Inspectors.

Cultivate the acquaintance of your telephone, gas, hydro or water inspector, or at least be sure before you admit him to your house that he is properly equipped with badge of authority and letter of identification. This is Police Chief Birrell's warning to citizens who, otherwise, might be imposed upon by bogus "inspectors," who once in the house attempt to turn that circumstance to dishonest advantage.

The police have had several complaints that men alleging to be inspectors for one of the named service concerns have operated in the city and while there is as yet no specific charge of robbery connected with any of them, the chief feels that it is well to be prepared in advance and points out that a little extra care on the part of householders is most necessary.

Yesterday afternoon a resident telephoned to the police station that a man purporting to be a telephone inspector had attempted to get into the house to "inspect the phone." The resident was suspicious although the caller had a plausible story, and communicated with the police, whereupon the man decamped.

Chief Birrell points out that all legitimate inspectors of the telephone, hydro, gas or water services are provided with badges and also carry letters of credential, which they are supposed to produce upon demand. He urges that when householders are visited by inspectors whom they do not know they demand proof of identity before admitting them.

LEAVING FOR HOME IN CHINA.—Ching Ming, perhaps one of the best known of the Chinese population of our city, leaves to-day for his home in Canton, China, where he will visit his mother and his wife and other members of the family. Chin has conducted a business in London for several years and he has been active as a leading member in the Chinese Christian Association and also in the Chinese department of Dundas Center Methodist Church Sunday school. According to the Chinese custom his wife and child are living with his mother in Canton, China, and after being away from them for several years he is now returning to their home for a visit. It is expected that Chin will return to London in the course of a year. Chin Ming was given a hearty send-off by the members of the Sunday school on Sunday and the superintendent, C. E. German, spoke of Chin's leaving in most complimentary manner.

RECEPTION FOR "U" STUDENTS

Will Be Held In Masonic Temple November 8.

BIGGEST IN HISTORY

The greatest students' reception in the history of Western University will be held at the Masonic Temple on the evening of November 8. The board of governors are giving the reception, assisted by the university faculties in arts, medicine and public health.

In former years annual students' receptions have been held in Huron College, but the growth in enrollment, which this year exceeds all previous records, necessitates the securing of larger quarters.

Committees are being appointed to make arrangements for the reception. Class and university colors will be used in decorative effects and flowers will also flaunt Western's insignia. The auditorium floor will be arranged for the more beautiful forms of dancing and supper will be served from the temple banquet hall.

FIFTY CENTS PER DRILL FOR EXPERIENCED MEN

Officers Grateful at Turnout Last Night —Work is Interesting.

The first drill of the fall training of the Western Ontario Regiment was held last evening at the armories. There was an excellent turnout and several recruits were sworn in, many others signifying their intention of joining the regiment within the next few days. The training this year should be much more attractive to the men than formerly, as it has now been decided that those who have completed one year's training, or who have belonged to the expeditionary force, will be paid at the rate of 50 cents per drill attended, to which will be added a bonus of 25 cents if three-quarters of the drills are attended. For the new recruits without previous training the rate of pay will be slightly less.

The officers of the regiment, which is the old 7th Regiment under a new name, are very much gratified with the showing last night, and point out that the unit is making fine strides under a great many difficulties. They believe that the good beginning of last night will be successfully followed up and that the regiment will soon be up to strength and taking its place as formerly in all military activities in this district.

The training, even when unpaid, proved very interesting, but under the new policy it should only be a short time till the ranks of the regiment are completely filled.

PRACTICES GOSPEL OF APPLE EATING

U. S. Consul Taggart Would Ease Up on Tobacco and Chocolates.

G. R. Taggart, U. S. consul in London, is the latest recruit for the anti-tobacco movement, but, unlike other zealots in the war against Lady Nicotine, he suggests a substitute to take the place of the banished smoke. But Mr. Taggart does not stop at cigarettes; he includes overfondness for candies as being detrimental to health.

"If every young man would eat an apple every time they want a cigarette," he stated in an interview to-day, "and if women would eat apples instead of candy, doctors would soon have to sell their automobiles and engage in some lucrative work, such as plumbing."

Mr. Taggart practices his gospel of apple eating. No odor of nicotine invades the little bit of the American republic which comprises the consular offices in the Royal Bank building. Visitors are not met with black cigars or cigarettes; they are invited to eat apples.

"Thirty-three years ago the ulcer appeared on my ankle, and gradually spread to my knee. The pain was terrific. For years I could hardly walk and had to remain in the house. For twenty-five years I received doctors' treatment but got only temporary relief.
"Then I heard of some wonderful cures worked by Zam-Buk and commenced using it. The relief I experienced was wonderful. The inflammation was gradually drawn out. The pain was soon ended, and, at last after thirty-three years of misery, I was on the road to recovery. To cut a long story short — perseverance with this wonderful balm resulted in a complete and permanent cure."

COMPLAINTS ARE COMING IN FAST

Veterans Get Started On "Clean-Sweep" Drive.

THIRTY CASES ALREADY

Pay and Pension Principal Points of Attack.

Complaints are rolling in to the local command of the G. W. V. A. at the rate of about 10 a day, in response to the appeal of the Dominion association for a "clean-sweep" settlement of all outstanding claims of veterans of the great war. The local executive, which met last night, dealt with over 30 cases in addition to making preparations for the poppy day campaign on November 11.

Most of the grievances center around pay and pension money. It appears that in some instances men have not received their full amount of pay for services with the forces, while in a number of cases there are complaints made of inadequate pensions to meet certain disabilities. Recurring diseases such as tuberculosis figure in not a few of the claims made for increased pensions.

A class of veterans who are not satisfied with the treatment that they have received is the amputations. Men who returned from France minus one or more of their limbs have apparently found it extremely difficult to get enough employment to eke out their allowance. A suggestion comes along with one of these claims that employment in elevators, etc., should be set aside for crippled veterans and thus enable them to add to their pension money.

Poppy Day will be held on November 11 and not on November 7, which is Thanksgiving Day. It was thought by the officials that the only appropriate day for commemorating the heroes who sleep beneath the poppies on Flanders was Armistice Day, the date of the cessation of hostilities. Arrangements have been made for authorized members of the association and members of the Women's Auxiliary to dispose of the poppies on that date. The proceeds provide funds for the relief of the indigent veterans locally and assistance for the destitute children in the war-stricken parts of France.

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush Your Kidneys Occasionally If You Eat Meat Regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Advt.

COUNTY JUDGES TO GO ON CIRCUIT

Amended County Judges Act Will Change Procedure For 1922.

COUNTY JUDGES CONFER

After New Order Becomes Effective Judges Will Move About District.

At a meeting of Judge Wallace, of Oxford County; Judge Taylor, of Lambton County, and Judges Macbeth and Judd, of Middlesex, held at the courthouse, arrangements were made for the changes necessitated by the amendment to the County Judges' Act. The calendar of courts for 1922 has not been completed, but all arrangements are made so that the dates of the courts and the presiding judges may be completed at very short notice.

Under the amendment to the act the Counties of Middlesex, Oxford and Lambton have been amalgamated for purposes of the administration of courts in the district. The four county court judges will preside over the several courts in the district.

The new order will not come into force until the beginning of 1922. Thereafter the four judges will move about the district, from one court to another, for the administration of justice. In this way the same judge will not always preside over the court in his own county, but will also preside over other courts in the district.

TAX CONSUMERS TO COVER LOSSES

Referee Henderson Gives Opinion at St. Thomas

GAS RATES INVESTIGATION

Says Probes Have Revealed Considerable Spite

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Free Press.)—At the opening of the natural gas rate hearing here to-day Referee A. G. Henderson, of Ottawa, who is presiding, declared that it was his opinion that natural gas companies had failed to provide for amortization in the early days of operation and now, in order to overcome heavy losses in past years, were endeavoring to make the rural users pay higher prices.

Amorization, he said, should be provided for, but follies of early days should not be overcome at the expense of the consumers.

H. R. Davies, general manager of the Dominion National Gas Company, an amalgamation of the Southern and Glenwood Gas Companies, declared that this was not so, that past losses were being thrown to the discard, that the increased rate was absolutely necessary for future operation and if the companies had lost money in their early operation it was no reason why they should not start earning dividends now.

LAST SEVERAL DAYS.

The hearing promises to last several days. The application of the Dominion Company is being presented by Barrister E. Sweet, of Brantford, while the following legal representatives are opposing it very strenuously: C. St. Clair Leitch, K. C., St. Thomas, for Aldborough, West Lorne; Ald. Dutton, J. M. Pike, of Chatham, for Rawleigh and Tilbury; K. D. Shaw, St. Thomas, for Rodney and Dunwich; K. K. Cameron, K. C., St. Thomas, for Southwold, Fingal and Shedden; Ct. St. Clair Leitch, St. Thomas, for Westminster, acting for J. M. McEvoy, London.

The only witness heard this morning was H. R. Davies, general manager of the company. He declared that the gas lines from the Tilbury fields were originally constructed to supply the larger Western Ontario cities, especially for manufacturing purposes. A price of 30 cents is available in the larger centers and he could see no reason why the smaller towns, villages and rural districts, where the cost of operation and distribution was greater, should not pay a similar price. No gas man considered a rural customer an asset, he said, because it cost more to read meters and collect in the country, while more pipe lines were needed for fewer users.

SERVE LARGER CENTERS.

Barrister J. M. Pike, K. C., of Chatham, was particularly caustic in his cross-examination of H. R. Davies, general manager of the Dominion Gas Company. Davies, who was on the stand until late this afternoon, stated that the lines of the Dominion Gas Company were laid primarily for the purpose of serving the larger centers, including Brantford, Ingersoll, Hamilton and Galt. The townships which were now opposing the increase were traversed by the pipe lines and franchises were only given to facilitate the laying of mains. The main line, he said, passed through Talbotville to a spot not farm from London and thence to Ingersoll and the other places mentioned. This line was laid in 1915. A serious shortage of gas had been discovered to exist since 1920 and new mains had been laid from some of the new wells to supply the Dominion Natural Gas Company from the Dover Township fields at a cost of $100,000. The franchise given the Township of Dover, which allows a 15-cent rate to the consumer there, was allowed last October and was not opposed, because it was essential that the lines be laid immediately and passage through the township could not be made unless such a franchise were given.

Referring to the production of gas in Dunwich, in Elgin County, over which there has been considerable controversy, Mr. Davies declared that the amount available there was practically negligible. The main factors which governed the price of gas, he said, were cost of gas at field, cost of operation and overhead and a fair return on the investment involved. It was proposed to charge a smaller rate at the source of supply than at the extreme end of the line, because it cost more to carry the gas to its destination.

In supporting his statement that a higher price brings about a conservation of gas used by domestic consumers Mr. Davies quoted figures showing that where the gas was sold at a higher rate the amount consumed invariably decreased materially.

USE CORDWOOD.

Referee Henderson: "That may be, but I know of some people who are optimistic enough to believe that this gas trouble will eventually bring about an increased demand for cordwood."

In one instance, Mr. Davies said, 63,000 cubic feet had been sold at 45 cents per thousand and that when the price went up to 60 cents the amount consumed dropped to 45,185 feet.

The schedule of rates as far as Elgin County is concerned shows that in Dutton the company is asking permission to increase the price from 30 cents to 65 cents per thousand, c. f.; Southwold, which includes the villages of Fingal, Shedden and Talbotville, from 35 cents to 70 cents, and in Westminster, in Middlesex Township, from 40 cents to 80 cents, and Dorchester from 40 cents to 80 cents.

NOT THE SAME MAN.

Editor London Free Press: Will you please inform the readers of The Free Press that Mr. Fred. Young, of 83 Emery street, an ex-sergeant of the 18th Battalion, is not the Fred. Young mentioned by "Ratepayer" in "A Taxpayer's Kick," as the man who is "kicking through the daily press about Ald. Wenige.

It appears that "Ratepayer" has threatened to move out of the city and leave it all to Ald. Ashton and another fellow, and as my friends think that I am the "other fellow," they are clamoring for a share in the expected windfall.

As I am a ratepayer and own all the property that I am able to pay taxes on, I am not personally interested in "Ratepayer's" proposed munificence, but I sure would like to know who he is, so that I could refer the crippled workers of the city to him when he moves out and leaves it "all."

Respectfully yours,
FRED YOUNG.

THE ALLEN.

Anything more exciting than the new picture, "Thunderclap," which opened at the Allen Theater yesterday, seems almost impossible to imagine. There is one of the most spectacular race scenes near the end of their superphoto drama that has ever come to the screen, and as for the thrilling incident of the hero carried down the rapids—it makes all similar scenes ever produced look like the Dead Sea.

Sporting life, where happiness or misery may depend on a toss of the coin or the slip of a horse hoof, is depicted in this race track drama. From the very start chance plays its part. If the woman had not married the second time she would not have had to stand the mistreatment of her new husband, and she never would have been paralyzed because of a blow received at his hands. Then, too, she would not have to keep her daughter in a convent school.

If business had not fallen off at the fashionable gambling house the brutal stepfather would not have brought the girl home to act as a hostess to attract patrons. If the orphan boy had not drifted into the employ of the gambler he would never have met the girl and her paralyzed mother.

Paul Willis is to be complimented as much for his daring as his acting.

Gunga Din, played by Thomas McCann, a darky, offers much of the comedy, and his acting is very natural. Little Carol Chase will attract the attention of those who love children. Violet Mersereau is a pleasing heroine and is well matched with Paul Willis as the hero.

THE PATRICIA.

An unusually delightful comedy of life in a small town is "Big Town Ideas," which is the feature attraction at the Patricia for the first three days of the week. The principal role falls to the lot of that piquant comedy star, Eileen Percy, and she does it full justice.

Miss Percy is the goddes of gastronomy in a small railway town, and through this setting all the varied characters in the story pass at one time or another. She wins the admiration of all her customers, especially the males, through their stomachs. Among those who pass through the "flapjackery" is a handcuffed youth, who turns out to be an innocent man, and who finally obtains his release through the efforts of the flapjack queen. Miss Percy's work as the lunch-counter girl is a most satisfying characterization. She is ably supported by a finely balanced staff, which provide, through their quaint conceit, plenty of humor. A two-act Western drama, "The Shadow of Suspicion," is replete with thrills. The leading role is taken by Eileen Sedgwick. Harry Gribben is the laughmaker in the comedy offering, "Should Husbands Mind Babies?" It is nothing if not a laughmaker and Patricia patrons enjoyed it to the full.

Grace Webb and company, four people, in what is styled a "Pharmacy Fantasy," have a vaudeville offering of real outstanding merit. Audiences on the opening day showed well-deserved appreciation to the players.

LOEW'S.

"Behind Masks," with the daring Dorothy Dalton in the title role, is the headline attraction at Loew's Theater for the first half of this week. It is an offering which provides plenty of thrills and a clever plot well interwoven.

The plot of the story is woven about a marriage of convenience, and, as is usual in such marriages, there are many heart throbs. Many exciting situations arise in the scenes and these are given an added zest by the thrills to which the characters and through the characters the audience are treated. In one of the thrilling scenes the heroine, played by Dorothy Dalton, is required to race a high-powered car along a country road in a manner which calls for unusual skill.

A Mack Sennett comedy of policemen and love and the usual pictorial of current events complete a fine picture program.

The vaudeville program is meritorious. It was unfortunate that through train delays "The Gypsy Trio," a fine act, with two women and a man, was unable to be on hand for the first show yesterday. Casson brothers present a singing and dancing act of merit. The brothers are good singers and unusually fine soft shoe dancers. A trio of harmony boys, Waters, Hopkins and Churchill, are fine singers and were heartily received at Monday's performances. The voices blend well and the three have an attractive program of the latest song hits.

THE MAJESTIC.

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" is still as mystifying and hilarious a melodramatic comedy as it was when first produced by its author, George M. Cohan. Presented by the Majestic Players, before a packed house last night, its humor was irresistible, and the tense situations leading up to the final climax were handled in a masterly manner. The play has an appeal which repetition cannot kill, and it ought to be seen by everyone whether he has read the book or seen its gripping story enacted on the screen.

Much credit is due the management of the Theater in treating London theatergoers to such a sparkling comedy. In addition to the majority of the regular members of the company there are several new actors who, with a possible exception, give creditable support. There is little doubt but that Mr. Grew is this week offering the best entertainment that has been presented in the Majestic since the introduction of stock there.

Gertrude Gustin and William Malone gave outstanding characterizations. The other parts were well handled.

The selections by the Majestic ensemble, under the direction of Jack Cortese, add much to the attractiveness of the evening's entertainment.

SECURE DEBENTURES IN 1922 FOR NURSES' HOME

If Conditions Warrant This Step Will Be Taken; Victoria Hospital Ranks High.

Debentures for the proposed new nurses' home will be secured, if conditions warrant, in 1922, through the City of London bill. This decision was reached at yesterday evening's meeting of the Hospital Trust. The board gave official confirmation to the withdrawal of a request for $300,000 to erect the nurses' home, in order that the vote for new Western University buildings may be the only issue to go before citizens at the coming municipal election.

The hospital trustees were also informed that Victoria Hospital is now one of 396 hospitals on the North American Continent that has the minimum standard of treatment and administration in effective use. This places the city hospital in the front rank of great North American general hospitals.

Arrangements are being made, it was reported, whereby upper classmen of Western University medical school will be allowed to work under ward physicians as a part of their medical training. Details are yet to be worked out more fully, but it is believed that university and hospital will soon be able to work in closer co-operation and to the mutual advantage of both institutions.

Special significance attached itself to the work of the Victoria Hospital free dental clinic. This department is staffed entirely by members of the London Dental Association and over a thousand patients have passed through the clinic since its establishment.

The Victoria Hospital venereal disease clinic, it was reported, is rendering an increasingly valuable social service.

A report was made with regard to the coming corner stone laying of the new children's hospital. The lieutenant-governor, Premier of Ontario, together with other officials, will be present for the ceremony. The Hospital Trust and the hospital staff will attend in a body.

FEW CONTAGIOUS CASES

Weekly Health Report Shows 10 Cases of Diphtheria; Other Diseases Are Few

Diphtheria took the lead in the number of cases of communicable diseases reported to Dr. W. S. Downham, medical officer of health, for the week ending October 22, with 10 cases. The list comprised, in addition to diphtheria, two cases of chickenpox and one each of scarlet fever and measles. During the past few months the number of contagious diseases in London has been at a low ebb.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Luster To Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and luster of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—Advt.

THREE HURT IN TROLLEY CRASH

Brantford Cars Meet at Street Intersection

BRANTFORD, Oct. 24.—Three persons were hurt, while many escaped injury, when a Terrace Hill car collided at Murray and Nelson streets with a main line car, at 12.35 p. m. to-day. The injured are Miss Kenney and Miss Smith, teachers at Major Ballachey School, and Dr. Cuthbert, school dental inspector, all of whom were passengers on the main line car returning home to luncheon. Dr. Cuthbert sustained a severe gash in his head from flying glass, but the two ladies suffered only a bad shaking, and their condition is not serious.

Dr. R. L. Hutton was summoned to the scene and rendered first aid, after which he conveyed Dr. Cuthbert to his home at 29 Henrietta street. The two young ladies were removed to their homes in an automobile. Both cars were badly smashed, and so great was the impact that the main line car left the tracks.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Insurance against the outbreak of war between the United States and Japan on or before December 31, 1922, was effected in the London market to-day at a rate equivalent to odds of about 19 to 1, against the risk, according to The London Times.

Another deal was effected, The Times adds, providing for the payment of the total loss in case that "even part or the whole of the West Indies is transferred to the United States of America in payment or part payment of our debts on or before December 31, 1922."

In the second case the rate accepted was 15 guineas per cent., equivalent to odds of about 17 to 3 against the risk.

The other transaction, at the rate of five guineas per cent., was accepted "to pay the total loss in the event of the declaration and (or) state of war (or) the outbreak of hostilities between Japan and the United States of America on or before December 31, 1922."

AGAINST IMPERIAL EMIGRATION PLAN

J. R. Clynes' British Laborite Declares It Ill-Advised

LONDON, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—J. R. Clynes, Laborite, writing to The Morning Post, declares that the unqualified opposition to state encouraged emigration schemes would be a real disservice to many whose lot might be improved by employment in other lands, but insists that whatever is done should be in co-operation not merely with the Government and emigration agencies but with representative organizations whose members have a right to impart their opinion on the effects of immigration upon the population already inhabiting any particular country.

Mr. Clynes recalls the sentiments expressed in the zeal of labor organiza- half of England, provided there was work and housing for them, which, says Mr. Clynes, sets forth the general labor mind.

On this subject Mr. Clynes says, "At such times as these, when others are suffering their own share of economic dislocation due to the war, the unemployed in the dominions are not disposed to welcome others whose presence would deepen the competition for employment. Distress and hunger are enough to undermine the emotions of kinship which othrwise are healthy and sound."

How young those ankles make her look!

"YOU'D be surprised, Molly, if you knew I was responsible for that! When she first arrived, she asked me to tell her what were the best stockings she could buy.

"Of course, I said Mercury—I've worn them for years—and I told her about them being seamless with a wide top and full fashioned calf. She asked how they fitted around the ankle—I just raised my foot to show her, and that was enough! And you know yourself how well they wear.

"So she went right down town and bought Mercury—now she's got as trim an ankle as I ever saw."

QUEBEC LIBERALS STAGE NICE ROW

Convention At Loretteville Ends In Free-For-All Fight.

RIVALS START BRAWL

Dissatisfaction Over Choice of Candidate Causes Trouble.

QUEBEC, Oct. 24.—The political campaign in Quebec County developed into a real battle yesterday, when a convention, called at Loretteville, and a meeting started afterwards was broken up in disorder. It had been announced that the meeting was the Liberal convention, but this was denied by Le Soleil, the official organ of the Liberal party, which stated on Friday that H. E. Lavigeur was the choice of the Liberal party. At all events the convention was called by electors who are opposed to the candidature of H. E. Lavigeur.

A large crowd had assembled in the Montcalm Hall, where the first meeting was held.

A NOISY GATHERING.

The gathering was a noisy one and the supporters of Armand Lavergne, the Nationalist leader, and Frank Byrne, mayor of Charles Bourg, voiced their sentiments, each group cheering for its own man.

Finally Frank Byrne was proposed as candidate by Charles Parent, of Beauport.

Immediately afterwards Armand Lavergne was proposed as candidate by Charles Parent, of Charlesbourg. Ephriam Bedard, the assistant chairman of the convention, then asked those who were not electors of the county to leave the hall so that the vote might be taken. Nearly everybody left the hall, including Mr. Lavergne and his friends.

This brought the convention to a close and at the request of Mr. Lavergne the crowd went to the college yard. A large percentage of the gathering was composed of people from this city and district. This meeting was presided over by Mayor Verret, of Loretteville. On taking the chair, Mayor Verret said that he had learned that Mr. Lavergne had been selected as candidate and he introduced him as first speaker.

THEN IT STARTED.

There was a spirited outbreak at this juncture. "He shall not speak!" one section of the crowd shouted, and a battle royal broke out on the college veranda. The fight, which was of the real rough-and-tumble variety, lasted for nearly a quarter of an hour, and two of the combatants were carried into the college building while the crowd, numbering between two and three thousand people, looked on from the college yard greatly amused by the conflict.

When a semblance of order was restored, Mr. Lavergne stated that there was no doubt that he was selected by the majority of the convention. He affirmed that he would remain independent of all parties. He pledged himself to work in the interests of the County of Quebec in the House of Commons and to demand the repeal of the Conscription Act. Referring to the Farmers' party he expressed the hope of seeing it come into power.

Mr. Byrne stated after the meeting that if Mr. Lavergne runs in Quebec County he will run also.

United States Trackless Trolleys Have Many Poor Features

WINDSOR COUNCIL IS TOLD

Will Ask Canadian Manufacturers to Improve on Them

WINDSOR, Oct. 24.—Before trackless trolleys are demonstrated in the Windsor districts, not now served by the street railway, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission in charge of the operation of lines will try and induce Canadian manufacturers to improve on the type to be tested in Detroit.

The busses favored by the Detroit Municipal Street Railway system have floors that are too high, according to a communication sent to the City Council by the Ontario commission, and lack desirable characteristics that the commission would like to incorporate.

Without adequate transportation facilities in new residential districts on the east and west sides the City Council will ask the commission to either use trackless trolleys as a temporary measure or make an appropriation for other extensions to the lines.

BRITISH MINERS PLAN TO HELP STEEL TRADE

Suggest Maximum Price For Coal and That Government Pay the Difference.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In view of the serious position of the coal mining industry and the insistence of the iron and steel makers in Great Britain that the iron trade in this country will remain paralyzed until the price of coal comes down, even though, as asserted last week by various associations of iron and steel makers, they had resolved to cut prices in order to stimulate a revival of the industry, the miners' federation has submitted to the Government a new scheme for the revival of the industry.

It is proposed that a maximum for industrial coal should be fixed at 30 shillings per ton delivered, including the cost of railway freightage, and that the Government, for a period, should make up the difference to the coal mine owners and railway companies, involving a Government grant of possibly eight to ten million pounds sterling.

Coal mine owners, interviewed on the question, said the miners' federation scheme was merely a camouflaged plan for the further subsidizing of miners' wages.

ANSWER DESCRIPTION OF WYOMING BANDITS

Motorists, In Visit To Local Garage, Create Suspicion.

Suspicion was directed against four men, who motored to the city early on Friday morning in a large touring car with yellow wheels and who put up at a local garage during the night and the following day. No attention was directed toward the men, who came into the city about 1.15 o'clock in the morning, until the following day, when they changed the marker on their car on two occasions without taking the car out of the garage.

The men left the car in the garage, telling the man in charge that they had come from Windsor. About 9.30 o'clock on Friday they came back to the garage and removed the license plates on the car, replacing them with another set. They returned again about 11.30 in the morning and again changed the markers. In the afternoon they came back and replaced the original markers.

In justification of their continued changing of license plates, one of the men declared that they had a car near Thorndale which they had to go after.

During the changing of the markers only two of the men entered the garage. They were both well dressed foreiners, speaking rather broken English. During the time that they were in the garage the other two members of the party, who were wearing sweaters, remained at the corner of Clarence and King streets.

The sales manager at the garage became suspicious of the two men and telephoned to the police, but before the police arrived the car had left.

Ven. Archdeacon Carlyle, of All Saints' Church, Windsor, has tendered his resignation, to take effect on January 1, 1922, on which date he goes to Montreal as rector of Christ's Church in that city.

Archdeacon Carlyle is one of the outstanding members of the Anglican clergy in Ontario and his accepting the Montreal call is regretted throughout the Diocese of Huron.

The successors to Mr. Carlyle, both in the office of archdeacon and as rector of All Saints', Windsor, have not been named as yet.

VICTORIA HOSPITAL TOUCHES LOW RECORD FOR NUMBER OF PATIENTS

Only 236 patients were being treated in Victoria Hospital at the end of September, Superintendent Heard announced to-day, which is one of the lowest records of several years past. During September 384 patients were admitted and 392 discharged. The statistics show more women than men admitted to the hospital, the totals being for September: 105 men, 174 women and 105 children. There were 20 births and 22 deaths.

He disagreed, however, with Premier Meighen on the question of redistribution. He said that he believed in free trade, but he was prepared to support whatever Government was elected to power so long as he could believe that its policy conduced to the common good.

The common good, he said, had nothing to fear from the agrarian movement, which was but an evidence of the general desire to get away from rigid party lines.

If you put a little more thought into the purchasing of your Electric Lamps-

—You will derive increased pleasure from your home surroundings. Good lighting from efficient lamps will aid in decorating your rooms and will improve your choicest ideas in furnishings.

Don't buy your electric lamps carelessly—anywhere—anyhow—attracted mainly by cheap price. Good lamps require skill in manufacture and consequently are not found on bargain counters. Buy good lamps—from a good electrical or hardware dealer.

For your Living Room, Dining Room, Hall, Kitchen, Porch and Bathroom, you should most certainly use LACO NITRO Lamps. They give a beautiful, strong, high-powered light, because they are filled with an inert gas, in which a specially prepared filament burns more brightly and efficiently than in the ordinary vacuum bulb. 52

WALTER HAMPDEN A GREAT HAMLET

Young Tragedian Gives Masterly Interpretation at Grand

PRODUCTION A TRIUMPH

A Prince Thrilling, Tender and Sane Is Shown

Against a background of heroic proportions, composed of great planes of color; color of stone walls, color of tapesteried hangings, color of cold seas and star-spangled winter skies; colors that give up their radiance to moonlight and candle-light and sunlight, a glory of blue and purple and gold; Mr. Walter Hampden projects Shakespeare's supremest play, "Hamlet."

It is just as different from the Reinhardt projection of the same play as can well be imagined, and from the point of view of the fitness of things, just as superior. The play of "Hamlet" is a mighty tragedy. Reinhardt produces it as though to picture it were the whole duty of man. Mr. Hampden, equally pictorial, acts the play and leaves his pictures to make what impression they may, as a fluid softly changing background to his character. Such a background the tragic-comedy of life finds for itself every day as it moves from sunrise to sunset through the mutable world. Here nothing is static, as Reinhardt would have it. Here all ebbs and flows with the ebb and flow of human emotions. And in the end we know that the "atmosphere" and the play are a perfect whole. It is a remarkable achievement.

The subjectivity of Hamlet's mind is much dwelt upon. Its objectivity is usually overlooked. Mr. Hampden plays an objective Hamlet. He is right. Mr. Hampden plays a broken-hearted prince; broken, not only on account of the death of his father, but because "the time is out of joint" and cursed spite has ordained that he must get it right. Yet from the first word of the ghost to his own last rapier thrust he falters in one determination, the determination to avenge his father's murder. To put that determination into effect means action, action, never-ending action. The beauty of this, Mr. Hampden's chosen interpretation of the role never flags. Every soliloquy is but the meditation that proceeds action. Each phrase in the dialogue foreshadows the purpose of a mind dedicated to getting a certain thing done. Even when Hamlet "fools" with Polonius he is still going somewhere along his destined road. Even when he is harshest with Ophelia he is but tearing obstructions out of the path his will has chosen.

TENDERNESS.

It is the tenderest Hamlet I have seen. It is the most youthful. It is the saddest—and withal, it is of all Hamlets, the most sane.

To begin, one must allow for the fact that Hamlet, Prince of Denmark, believed in ghosts. Shakespeare lived in half-complying times, when "witchcraft was credited, antipodes doubted." And though we may take it for granted the poet was intellectually skeptical in the matter, all that he wrote proved him to have been too poetic in his sensuous fiber to refrain from using the tremendously poetic environment of an atmosphere haunted by fays and witches, goblins and ghosts. It was the very atmosphere in which to project the personages of his "theater." Moreover, in Hamlet, Shakespeare is dealing with times that antedate his own by nearly five hundred years.

Grieved for his father's death, disgusted with his mother's hasty marriage, suspicious of his uncle, these things the scholar-Prince of Denmark had been from the beginning. The appearance of the ghost did but solidify his own mental conception. When the spirit of the late king tells him that the serpent that stung his father's life now wears that father's crown, he exclaims: "O my prophetic soul! My uncle." The hearing is confirmation, not news.

To Hamlet there is now no personal cause for doubt of the guilt of Claudius. His keen intellect at once makes plain, however, the difficulty of getting such a story believed about a king already accredited by marriage with the queen and firmly established upon the throne. The prince is no murderer. Both by instinct and by commission of the late king his role is the role of the avenger. First he must prove to the court that his uncle did, indeed, murder his father. After that, in the absence of any tribunal capable of dealing with the case, openly and before them all, he may draw the sword of justice. The difficulty of substantiating the ghost's charge, therefore, is the first obstacle to that avengement which, henceforth, he must look upon as his life's work.

The ghost has asked Hamlet to avenge his father's foul and most unnatural murder. But the spirit-manifestation of the late king has woven with that command a second admonition, namely, that Hamlet shall contrive to effect his purpose without implicating his mother. "Taint not thy mind, nor let the soul contrive against thy mother, aught." With this he had been distinctly charged.

It falls out, then, that to openly convict his uncle as an adulterer and a murderer and yet to avoid besmirching the name of his mother, whom he strongly suspects of having been the mistress of her brother-in-law, is the difficult task laid on the shoulders of a young man of 30 years, a scholar and a dreamer. The difficulty is increased by the fact that hitherto Hamlet has bent his mind upon book learning rather than life learning. Moreover, he is very genuinely in love with the daughter of the chief minister of state to his "uncle-father" and his "aunt-mother," as he disdainfully calls them. The task is overwhelming. No wonder he cries out: "The time is out of joint; O cursed spite, that ever I was born to set it right."

HIS DECISION

Thinking his situation over, Hamlet, in a fit of the most remarkable insight, sees, or fancies he sees, that the only way in which he can find time to gather himself together so that he may formulate a suitable vengeance, is by putting "an antic disposition on" or in other words, by assuming to be mad. This because the king is now bent upon loading him with secondary honors, thinks by acknowledging him heir to the throne to put a damper upon any higher pretentions the prince or the prince's party may nourish.

To fall in with the king's plan would be to constitute himself one of the busiest men in the kingdom. And what Hamlet needs is—time.

The first person with whom the prince uses his guise of madness is his little sweetheart, Ophelia. The queen has disturbed her son's faith in women. He will make trial of his best beloved. She, in weakness, not wickedness, also fails him. Shakespeare himself finds the scene so sad he does not set it before us in dramatic form, but as a narrative that falls pathetically from the lips of the young girl herself.

Ophelia lost to him, the prince wipes from his memory "all trivial fond records," his spirit dedicates itself solely to revenge.

In addition to these initial obstacles Hamlet encounters obstacles by the way. The first arises from his own innate sense of justice. Ghosts are queer company. One can never tell. The spirit that walked and talked with him upon the ramparts of Elsinore may have been the devil come to tempt him to the commission of a great crime. He must have proof more potent than the word of a disembodied presence. Hence the play of the murder of Gonzago. He has heard that guilty persons sitting at a play have sometimes been so overcome by the cunning of the scene that, "presently, they have proclaimed their malefactions." By using a similar trap he hopes to catch the "conscience of the king."

The result, while intellectually and morally it confirms Hamlet's belief in his uncle's guilt, is not entirely satisfactory so far as the court is concerned. Claudius shows confusion and terror, but his hardened self-control and his diplomatic training keep him from making what can be construed into a confession. "Give o'er the play!" "Give me some light; away!" The evidence is not yet strong enough.

A final subsidiary obstacle arises when, a few moments after the play broke up in confusion, Hamlet finds his uncle in the court oratory upon his knees. He could then have killed him "pat," had not his mind been confused by the teaching of the mediaeval church. To make a good end, to die reconciled with heaven; the prince has been taught that such a final attitude stands to a man's good account at the judgment seat. The false king sent his father to his account without a moment for preparation. And shall he, that father's son . . . .? No, he will wait still longer for the moment when, perchance, he may find his enemy at a less righteous occupation.

HAMLET'S DISCOVERY

So Gertrude's son submits to be sent to England bearing a message to the king. The message is in the charge of those two arch-traitors, Resencrantz and Guildenstern. How, in the middle of the night, Hamlet stole out of his cabin, found and opened the packet and discovered from it that his precious uncle was sending him to England to be murdered. How he abstracted the commission, wrote another commanding England to put the bearers, Guildenstern and Rosencrantz, to sudden death. How, having his father's signet, he was able to affix the royal seal to what he wrote. How he suffered a sea fight and was taken on board a pirate's shop. How the pirates dealt with him like "thieves of mercy" and finally set him down in his own country—these are matters brought out in the development of the tragedy.

And now all is changed for Hamlet. Upon the documentary evidence in his possession the Court of Denmark will give willing ear to this story of the ghost and all the bitter business the apparition unfolded. The commission to the King of England for the murder of Hamlet is the death warrant of Claudius. The solemn march to Elsinore begins.

But fate went farther. Fate conspired with Hamlet. Laertes comes calling for vengeance on the slayer of his father. To satisfy Laertes, Claudius arranges for the trial of swords, in which he hopes to see Hamlet overcome. He connives at the poisoning of Laertes' rapier. He prepares the "poisoned cup," whereof, but sipping, Hamlet, if he escape Laertes, shall die of the draught that celebrates his success.

How affairs turn out: How Laertes, being struck by mistake with his own rapier, is killed by his own treachery: How the queen, in her eagerness to toast her son, drinks of the deadly wine: How Laertes, in his last agony, tells that the king is to blame: How the whole Court of Denmark sees these things, is matter of dramatic history. Now, Hamlet, justified at all points, having proved to his own satisfaction and in the sight of all men the guilt of his uncle and having, through infinite sorrow and heart-sickness, guarded the good name of his mother right up to the moment when fate steps in and takes the matter into its own hand, stabs Claudius and so fulfils his destiny.

All these things, the graceful presence, the clear characterization, the thrilling voice of Walter Hampden, make splendidly plain. It is "Hamlet" with a Hamlet that is a Hamlet indeed.

THE SUPPORT

The Polonius of Allan Thomson is wily, diplomatic after a bungling fashion and, withal, arch. Self-satisfaction exquisitely portrayed, no finer conception of the character of the prosy old chancellor, no better reading of his immortal lines has ever been heard upon our stage.

The Ophelia of Mable Moore is weakness personified. Miss Moore is poignantly pathetic at moments, but weakness is the keynote, the shadow of a loveliness that never blooms.

William Sauter's work as Horatio is both tender and intelligent. The rich voice of Mary Hall sounds its best in the lines that fall to Gertrude, the queen. The grave diggers of Allan Thomas and Le Roi Operti are unique, their chatter a comic relief that brings down the house.

The company entire, as is necessary for "Hamlet," is large and richly costumed. Scenery as indicated a special delight.

A large audience much impressed. Mr. Hampden presents "The Taming of the Shrew" this evening.

Howard, interment being made in the town cemetery. The floral offerings and funeral cortege were very large, and as a mark of respect, Mayor M. G. Dean, Council and all town officials attended in a body. Relatives were present from Cleveland, Toronto, Hamilton and other distant points. The pallbearers were: A. E. Raynes, town clerk; W. J. Wilkins, town treasurer; J. E. Weston, V. A. Sinclair, W. B. Humarth and S. Luke.

TELLS OF WORK BEING DONE IN FAR EAST

WARDSVILLE, Oct. 24.—Mrs. (Rev.) Godfrey, of Dutton, gave two splendid addresses yesterday, one in the morning in Wardsville Methodist Church, and one at Cashmere Church in the afternoon. Mrs. Godfrey told of the conditions in China and Japan, of the wonderful work being done there by the missionaries, and of the individual responsibility resting upon each to help send the Gospel to these countries.

The Masonic Lodge put on a play in the town hall here on Friday evening, realizing the sum of $75, and they have recently enlarged and remodeled their hall.

BELIEVED LOST RADIUM IS NOW IN SEWER

HAMILTON, Oct. 24.—That the $10,000 worth of radium reported missing from the city hospital this morning was lost and not stolen was the assertion of the hospital authorities to-night.

The patient to whom the radium needles had been applied had himself torn off the bandages and it is now believed that these were inadvertently thrown into the sewer. An expert, equipped with magnetic instruments for attracting radium, is now on the way to Hamilton from Pittsburg and will endeavor to fish the needles out of the sewer.

Drs. J. K. McGregor and F. B. Mowbray are the owners of the radium.

LITTLE INTEREST SHOWN BY WOMEN

But Few Attend Meeting Held at Hyman Hall

MR. SOMERVILLE SPEAKS

Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of Hamilton, Criticizes Government

London women are not greatly interested in the issues of the Federal election from the Liberal viewpoint if the attendance, or lack of it, at the mass meeting held in the Masonic Temple last night is any criterion. Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of Hamilton, who was introduced by the chairman, Mrs. J. R. Henderson, as the principal speaker of the evening, and C. R. Somerville, the Liberal candidate for London, were mostly talking to empty seats in their attacks on the policies of the National Liberal and Conservative party.

The meeting had been called by the citizenship committee of the local Council of Women, primarily to give the Liberal candidate a chance to explain the issues of the campaign from a Liberal standpoint, but he did little but criticize the work of the Meighen Government, as did Mrs. Carpenter. The latter said in the course of her remarks that a Liberal Government could be no worse and they had hopes that such might give a better account of itself at Ottawa than has the present administration.

EXPLAINS ORGANIZATION.

C. C. Ferguson, secretary of the Liberal Club, explained the steps that must be taken by the women to secure a vote in the coming election.

Mrs. Carpenter took exception, as did Mr. Somerville, to the statements attributed to the Conservative press that the franchise had been extended to the women through the efforts of the Conservative party. It was charged by Mrs. Carpenter that a sort of bid is being made for the votes of the women in support of the Meighen candidates on the ground that it was the Conservatives who granted the franchise. She asserted that the franchise was extended to women by the Union Government, that was composed equally of Liberals and Conservatives. But Mr. Somerville contended that Parliament had given women the vote on the solicitations of the Liberals.

The speaker from Hamilton took occasion to flay the Government for what she termed its extravagant policy in purchasing the railroads of the country. The Government has contracted for an expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000 for railways, she contended, and this it had no right to do without an expression of opinion from the people. The merchant marine also came in for the same line of criticism, wasteful extravagance of the people's hard-earned money.

A NEW WAIL.

A bid for the vote of the soldier and labor electors was made by Mrs. Carpenter when she insisted that a portion of the demobilization fund had been expended in settling the Winnipeg strike. This money could have been used to better advantage on the returned soldiers, she thought.

Mr. Somerville mentioned the tariff as one of the subheads of his address, but he did not state at all definitely where he stood on it. He contended that Mr. Fielding had made the best tariff Canada ever had, and it was under this tariff that the Dominion enjoyed its greatest prosperity. Mr. Fielding had been fair to all classes of citizenship in the formation of his tariff, the speaker asserted. The only definite pronouncement that Mr. Somerville made on this issue is as follows:

"Our manufacturers must be safeguarded to the extent of holding our own markets against unfair competition from low wage countries.

"Our labor must be safeguarded against a tariff which puts an undue burden upon them as consumers, and the whole question of tariff must be handled with common business sense, having regard to new world-wide economic conditions, the common interest of producers and consumers, and the revenue requirements of this country."

THE MAIN ISSUE.

Mr. Somerville stated that the "Hon. Mr. Meighen would like to have the tariff as the main issue" in the coming election. He charged that the premier is taking the attitude that there is only one party, the National Liberal and Conservative party, "and he is the whole of it."

"The others, the Liberal party included, are all free traders and wreckers," continued the speaker. "I deny this statement and challenge Mr. Meighen to prove it. The Liberal party was asked by Mr. Borden, at the beginning of the war, to join with him in putting all the energy of the two parties into carrying on the war work. The Liberal party agreed to do so, but it never agreed to lose its identity in this union with the Conservative party. Now the war is over and we have the two parties as before, except that the Conservatives desire all the honor and perquisites, instead of expressing appreciation to the Liberal party for its unselfish co-operation they scolded and forgot."

NO PARTYISM.

Continuing, the speaker thanked God that there was no partyism among the boys at the front. The election results may have given cause for almost any opinion on this, but if one thoroughly understood the Election Act of 1917 the true conclusion could easily be reached.

"Then none was for a party; then all were for the state.

"The men who survived are home, and how does Mr. Meighen divide them now?" said Mr. Somerville, further. "Those who follow him in politics are loyal. Those who differ from him in politics are free traders and wreckers. Are one-half of the men who saved this country from the Hun hordes to be called wreckers in their own country, even by the premier of this country? I say, shame on the man who would apply such epithets to such heroes. If he spent half the time in seeking places for our war heroes as he has in making places for his weak-kneed ministers much more harmony would prevail in this country, and he would be more respected.

"Where does the honorable the premier stand on the tariff question?" continued the speaker. "He has never defined it in concrete items. The present tariff is not of his making, and in his address the most definite statement he has made is that he is in favor of a tariff for protection. In the Lower Provinces he said, 'If you want a moderate tariff I will give it.' Whatever this statement may mean you can take all the comfort out of that you can get."

AMERICAN CAPITAL WAITS.

In continuing his remarks on the tariff Mr. Somerville asserted that if this country is to come safely through with the burden she is carrying there must be a disposition on all sides not to shirk their full share of taxation, whether by tariff or otherwise. He also referred to a report of a speech made by S. Frank Glass, M. P. for East Middlesex, on the tariff question.

"Mr. Glass referred to the number of Americans along our borders with hundreds of millions of dollars waiting to see if Mr. Meighen or Mr. King is elected to govern this country," said Mr. Somerville. "If the former is elected these Americans are coming in to establish big branch factories; if the latter is chosen they will return to their homes with their money. I never before knew that the Americans took such an interest in our elections, and this statement, if true, is of great importance and should be investigated. It seems astonishing that during 11 years of Conservative rule they never thought of this matter before, but I am afraid the statement is rather transparent and has done service for the Conservatives on former occasions. It certainly has the smell of moth balls with it. If he has seen the line of Americans along our borders, with funds in their pockets such as he describes, I think I could give a better explanation of their presence than he has. They have been there ever since prohibition was established and they will be there until the last drop disappears.

FRANCHISE FOR WOMEN.

"If Mr. Glass fully understands the importance of the statement he has made I would suggest that he give the names of those Americans into the hands of organizations who are looking for just such people, and if he declines to assure them that they are just as safe in establishing factories in Canada under a Liberal Government as they would be under a Conservative one he is certainly putting his partyism above his patriotism."

Referring to the extension of the franchise to women Mr. Somerville asserted that this privilege was not given the women by the Conservatives.

"I would like this understood," said the speaker. "The franchise was not given to women by the Conservative Government, but by Parliament itself at the first instigation of Liberals. It is in line with historical Liberal policy in all times in extending the franchise, and in Parliament it was the Liberals who have always advocated this, and had to fight for it against the traditional Conservative policy of a franchise restricted to vested interests and the governing classes. Liberalism has always fought for government of the people, by the peopl.ef or the people, and we do believe that the women of people, by the people, for the people, of Canada. I fully expect their appreciation of the success Liberalism has accomplished in this extension to them of the voting power."

LOST HIS BARN AND HIS SEASON'S CROPS

TAVISTOCK, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Fire early on Saturday morning completely destroyed the barns and season's crop of Vernon Brodrecht, who lives on the 17th concession of East Zorra. In addition to the crop loss, four valuable horses, one hog and a calf were destroyed.

The origin of the fire is unknown. The blaze was discovered by a party of young people, who were returning home from a dance. Strenuous efforts were made to save the property, but the fire had gained headway when discovered and the efforts of volunteers were unavailing.

THINK TOURISTS ARE ATTRACTED BY BOOZE

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Tourists from the United States are said to be lingering in the Province of Quebec, even though the season is over.

The New York Times to-day, after devoting half a column editorially to the undoubted scenic attractions of the province, pretends to find the real reason for the dallying of United States citizens in another quarter entirely.

"The fact that Quebec is practically the only province of the Dominion that combines a reasonable degree of 'moisture' with beautiful scenery and romantic associations may explain why her tourists are prolonging their stay beyond the usual time," says the newspaper.

The Times says it learns that Montreal and Quebec hotels are full, as at the height of the season, and that new guests continue to arrive daily.

RAIL OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES CONFER ON CANADIAN WAGE CUT

MONTREAL, Oct. 24.—A two hours' conference took place this afternoon between representatives of the Grand Trunk and deputations from the employees, representing the clerks, roundhouse men, station employees, stationary engineers and firemen, in an effort to come to an agreement regarding the 12 per cent. reduction in wages enforced last July.

This step was taken following the work of the conciliation commission, under Chairman J. H. Godfrey, of Toronto, which adjourned recently with the understanding that a round table conference should be held directly between the Grand Trunk Railway and its employees in the hope of arriving at a settlement.

The discussion to-day was amicable in tone, but did not result in any conclusion. It was adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Who Played Politics?

Hon. T. A. Crerar has been informing his audiences in Western Ontario that the probe instituted by the Government into the Western grain trade, which was blocked through the efforts of the Grain Growers' Grain Company, of which Mr. Crerar is the $20,000 a year manager, was started only for political purposes.

If this is correct, will Mr. Crerar please explain why his chief lieutenant, William H. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, was asked to be chairman of the commission? He was requested by the Government to be a member of the commission of three and the chairman, but for reasons best known to himself refused. If it was a political inquiry Mr. Wood would not have been asked to act.

What are the facts? Serious allegations against the conduct of the grain trade in the West was made by a number of Western members in Parliament. It was claimed that the farmer was being beaten by the elevator companies and the grain companies of the Grain Exchange out of millions of dollars annually. The biggest corporation now operating on the Grain Exchange is the Grain Growers' Grain Company, headed by Mr. Crerar. As a result of these serious charges the Government appointed a commission to make an inquiry. Mr. Wood refusing to act as chairman, Judge Hyndman, of Alberta, took his place.

This commission had no sooner started than the Grain Exchange, headed by Mr. Crerar's company, with the aid of some 32 lawyers, brought an injunction to prevent it proceeding with its sessions. The injunction was successful and the probe is halted. If Mr. Crerar and the Grain Exchange had nothing to fear, why the attempt to prevent an inquiry?

If there was any politics played it was on the part of Mr. Crerar, and not the Government.

Passes on the C.N.R.

On the stump in Kent County, A. B. McColg has been telling the people that a great contributory cause of deficits on the Canadian National Railways is the large number of people carried free on passes. The statement is far from the fact. On the C. N. R., as well as on all railways in Canada, the pass list has been cut to the minimum. Mr. McColg was a member of the House and a member of the committee which, a few years ago, revised and consolidated the Railway Act. One of its most stringent provisions relates to passes. Their issue is limited to senators and members of Parliament, to members of the Legislature (within the respective provinces), to employees of the railways and of the railway commission and to accredited members of the press. Every railway company has to make and forward to the railway commission a detailed record of all free transportation issued. As anyone will attest who may have tried to test its elasticity, the law is being rigidly observed by the railways, which, in turn, are rigorously checked up by the railway commission. Mr. McColg often indulges in the process of talking through his hat. The latest instance of it is his harangue about passes on the Canadian National.

Signs "That Flash in the Night"

During the war and since, the Government and different municipalities wisely have set a limit to the use of electricity devoted to illuminated signs. There are many more beneficial and important services for our priceless "white oil." We needed it, and need it, for the turning of wheels that change the country's raw material into the semi-finished or finished product.

Even had the war not come with its staying-hand, Canadians had come to the realization that we were wasting our electric power in devoting so large a share to electric signs, and a cry had been raised against it.

Canadians believe in wise conservation, and for this reason the electric illuminated sign in our cities and towns flourish markedly less than in pre-war days.

An English writer, referring to the use of electric signs, says "the night life of London is embittered by flashing electric signs." He then describes the sign of a Highlander perched against a chimney, at which, in spite of themselves, the people gaze, as his beard and kilt flick into life and fade—of the Piccadilly Circus baby food advertisement; of the wine advertisement, with an eternally appearing and disapppearing yellow wine glass that remains in sight long enough to be filled with a sparkling red fluid, then fades from view, and before one can avert one's eyes again begins to pink its way into sight.

He next rails over a motor car sign, with cardboard figures seated in a gaily-decorated car. "When the light flashes on the red ribbons in the lady's hat begin to flutter; the road runs past, the wheels whirl madly round for a minute—then blackness and the thing begins again!" Bitterest of all are his invectives against a "New Oxford street corner sign, where, underneath a lettered advertisement two zigzag flashes of lightning flick backwards and forwards."

Concluding his diatribe, the writer confesses: "It is difficult to believe that people could watch these long and retain their hold on civilization."

There is more in this conclusion than appears at first reading. Civilization is not built up on the things that cry out for the craned necks, of gaping crowds, the overexcitation of any of the sensory nerves—quite the reverse.

German "kultur" and its train of evils was largely based on overstimulation, and German "kultur" was prime factor in the recent wrecking of world peace.

The English writer is justified when he inveighs against the crude, flashing multiplicity of illuminations, and Canada (Ontario in particular) is to be congratulated that a wise limit has been placed on such use of a precious fluid, happily here is employed to serviceable ends rather than to those calculated to exercise deleterious influence.

Dangers of a Split Platform

The Liberal party has a split platform for the coming federal election. If we wished to be very colloquial we might call it a banana split—warranted to trip up the unwary.

At one and the same time Hon. Mr. Fielding, Hon. Mr. Lemieux and Hon. Mr. King are looking three ways for something wherewith to catch the attention of the people. They form an equilateral triangle, eyes North, South and East, but the West they shudder away from.

For example, down in the Maritime Provinces the Hon. Mr. Fielding looks backward to pre-war days. He talks reciprocity. He proclaims once more the Liberal policy of 1911 as though, in the process of time, the United States had not become the creditor nation of the earth, and as if the Fordney Bill had never been heard of.

In Quebec, on the other hand, Hon. Mr. Lemieux, a sectionalist if ever there was one, emphatically declares that he does not believe in taking down the barrier of protection. Mr. Lemieux says there can be no reciprocity with the Fordney Bill. He is the banana peel par excellence of the split platform.

Finally, all up and down Ontario tramps young Mrs. Mackenzie King, a good big political pan in his hand, filled with political dust which he is planning to throw in the eyes of the people. In direct contradiction of Mr. Fielding on the one hand, weeping and wringing his hands over what he calls the "crime of 1911;" and of Mr. Lemieux on the other, who thinks the tariff question important enough to warn the people of Quebec that Canada "must count on herself and not on the neighboring republic," Mr. King puts in his time telling the people that the tariff question is not the question at all, something else is . . . Truth to tell, Mr. King is befogged between the devil of Quebec Liberalism, which will not tolerate an alliance with the U. F., and that Liberal-Agrarian-Socialistic alliance he wished on to himself during his stumping trip in the Prairie Provinces. He is all at sea.

A vote cast for the Liberal party is a negligible vote, a lost vote; at best a tinkered vote, the last state of which is bound to be worse than the first.

In the vast majority of cases the candidate for whom such a vote is cast will never get farther than the polls.

And even supposing such a candidate should be elected, in what possible way could his electors count upon him in respect of such questions as group politics, or of the economic situation? If his party is three-faced so is he.

The electors will do well to avoid a platform with a split in it.

Political Pledges

When the W. C. T. U. convention asked Hon. Mackenzie King for his position on the temperance question he promptly wired back that he stood upon the Liberal platform, and quoted, for the benefit of the union, the plank in the platform dealing with this subject. Incidentally the plank means nothing, as this is the law at the present time. The women might also be interested in knowing that it was the Liberals from Quebec who are the dominant factor in the party, who opposed the Government's war-time prohibition measure.

But if Mr. King is so brave in standing upon his temperance platform why is he so frightened of his fiscal platform? The Liberal party in 1919 drafted, at its Ottawa convention, a fiscal policy. A rider was added pledging the party to put this policy into effect. In addition, in the House a year ago, when taunted that he was all things to all men, Mr. King declared that "I will stand or fall by this platform." Yet to-day, when asked what he proposes to do if he is prime minister, Mr. King says it is only a chart. Why? The explanation is simple—political expediency. He knows that the sentiment in Ontario and Quebec is overwhelmingly protectionist, and that in the West it is free trade. So by declaring that this platform, which he solemnly promised to put in force is only a chart, he hopes to hold protectionist and free trade Liberals. Was there ever in the history of Canada such patent political hypocrisy? Do the people of Canada want to put into power a man who so treats his pledges and promises?

What confidence can the W. C. T. U. or any other class of women have in a man who so lightly regards his pledged word? Do they think he is worthy of being prime minister?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Let the mark go where it will, say the Germans, we'll do our marketing.

The home should furnish a meal, not a tin can.

"Emergency tariff" if they will, Messrs. Crerar, King, but no merger.

Canada wants the Union Jack as its permanent wave.

Anyway the "letter" stands to kill Mr. King on election day.

The line of least resistance often has a bite on the end of it.

Mr. Mackenzie King's ammunition "Bertha" is scarcely worthy its Teutonic name.

It often happens that the auto-shriek-horn has the shriek-owl outdistanced many a mile!

Germany's "capacity" is reached every time she is asked to repair or to restore.

L. J. Gauthier, M. P., says the U.F.A. movement means annexation to the United States. Mr. Gauthier is a former Liberal.

"Railroad heads say the backbone of the proposed walkout is broken." What about the psychology of that news line, professor?

With one motor vehicle for every twenty of the population, railroad strikes are not what they were in the good old days.

The Third Column

THOUGHTS AT A FUNERAL.

His cheeks have paled and his eyes are closed,
At last in peace are his hands reposed.
Now what is the wealth that he leaves behind
For the world to know and the age to find?
The sort of wealth which the old world heeds,
A lasting record of kindly deeds.

Across the threshold which bears his name
Never has stalked the demon Shame;
Within the walls where he used to dwell
Now sit the people he loved so well,
Clean and honest and brave and true,
All of them mourning the friend they knew.

Let the thoughtless smirk and the cynics sneer,
This humble couch is a great man's bier;
Mark his children, his girl and lad,
Portray the father which they have had;
They are his gifts, if men understood,
To the nation's wealth and the nation's good.

A high example is stricken low,
Unmoved by fashion or pomp or show,
He lived his life. At his modest hearth
He talked of honor and truth and worth,
And high above, when he closed his eyes,
The angels whispered: "A great man dies!"
—Edgar A. Guest.

NOBODY HOME!

I sat in a business conference the other day. Every once in awhile a real idea would be born and then it would walk around the room and the different people would look it over.

All of a sudden one of the men in the conference exclaimed: "Ah, I have it. Bill Blank, of the Blank Company, will grab at such an idea."

And so the telephone was called into the conference. It was nearly half past two in the afternoon. But the man wanted had not returned from luncheon. Then another man was asked for. No one knew where he was.

One reason why normal business is not resuming is that too many folks are "out to lunch"—and too few are on the job.

Someone once remarked that though Opportunity might knock at one's door he should not be expected to kick the panels in.

There must be somebody home when ideas come—somebody home when your chance calls.

I saw a man walk into a prominent store the other day. He looked around, glanced at some of the things displayed, then turned around and walked out! I noted that one of the salesmen nearest stood telling a story to some man. Soon this man left—but the man who did not get what he went into that store to get may never come back again. To him there was nobody home there.

I am wondering if the simple and extremely common virtues which have done such marvelous work during the past may not be just as useful and essential now—when they are really needed most.

I am wondering if courtesy, promptness, consideration, truthfulness and hard work are unfashionable.

I am wondering whether if people were on the job more—with their minds set upon service—business wouldn't actually thrive and a sort of newness come into the lives of everybody everywhere.

A good idea is to have set hours when people are sure to find you home!
—George Matthew Adams.

NORMALCY.

In all things normalcy is fine; extravagance in any line will bring its punishment eftsoons, and fill our lives with tears and prunes. When normal pleasures we pursue, there's no remorse, there's naught to rue; we wake up smiling at the dawn and put our bright green garments on, and think of what a gorgeous day we had before we hit the hay. But if we seek abnormal fun, and with the brisk high rollers run, and pour red poison in the craw, ignoring the liquor law, at dawn we leave our tumbled beds, and tie wet cloths upon our heads, and view ourselves with deadly hate and envy those who traveled straight. A picnic party in the glen, with lemonade and potted hen; a motor trip athwart the lea, or by the shining silver sea; some hours of fishing in the stream, returning with a string of bream; a game of quoits behind the barn, relieved by jest and sprightly yarn; these humble joys are better far than tearing the liquor rules ajar. Let normalcy our motto be when we would have a jamboree, and we won't figure in the news as tinhorn spirts all steeped in booze, and we'll live long and have renown reflecting credit on the town. —Walt Mason.

"GRUESOMELY AMUSING"

The best campaign joke, so far out, is the jubilation of the Government spouters and press over the alleged prosperity of the Canadian National Railways. They are shouting in chorus that the "Calamity Hunters Get a Jolt," and that "a handsome C. N. R. surplus gives the lie to calamity hunters." This is so gruesomely amusing as to be really painful.—Halifax Chronicle.

The Political Arena

Western Ontario has had its first opportunity of becoming acquainted with Sir Henry Drayton as a political leader when he addressed a number of meetings with Hon. Arthur Meighen.

Sir Henry Drayton is a statesman who is a realist in politics, the product of an environment where efficiency reigned far higher than political tradition. Sir Henry is of that type of practical, positive mind which cares little for shibboleths and formulae, but believes that problems and issues must be met and solved by application of remedies suitable to their needs.

Watching him in the House of Commons, and noting his career since coming to Ottawa, one doubts whether he cares in the slightest degree for either protection or free trade, as such. On the contrary, his speeches give the impression of a man who regards such things, not as political principles or creeds, but as means to an end, to be adopted or rejected as, in his judgment, the needs of the country demands. Sir Henry resigned the chairmanship of the board of railway commissioners, a post bringing high monetary reward, to serve as minister of finance, accepting a substantially lower salary, and, in addition, risking the uncertainty that is inseparable from public life. Nor was this action a spasmodic or isolated instance of public service in Sir Henry's career. Only a few years before he had given evidence of his desire to put service before self by returning a check which the Government had tendered him in payment of distinguished service rendered in reporting upon the economic conditions of Canadian railways. Sir Henry, in truth, stands as an embodiment of the new ideals of public service which has been fastened upon the consciousness of many of our younger public men in recent years. A young man, able, direct, earnest and courageous, with the vision to plan big policies and the capacity to execute them, he is one of the salient personalities on the political stage, a leader whose services the country could all-afford to lose.

Commenting on Premier Greenfield's announcement that the members of the Alberta Government would take no active part in the federal elections unless obliged to do so in self-defense, the Edmonton Bulletin says: "There is no fault to be found with the decision, as there would be none to find if it had been the contrary. The ministers are not less citizens of the Dominion because they are members of a provincial administration, and are entitled to decide each for himself whether he will or will not exercise his right as a citizen to participate in the discussion of national business and the election of parliamentary representatives. The notion that when men attain positions of distinction and trust in provincial affairs they are thereby disqualified from expressing their views on matters of national concern is neither sensible nor publicly expedient, though it is being somewhat widely exploited at the present time."

Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper will, it is announced at Ottawa, take an active part in the campaign. He will return to his old stamping ground in Pictou County, Nova Scotia, and stump the county for Colonel Cantley, who is the Government nominee, opposing E. M. Macdonald. Sir Hibbert, who is well known in Pictou County, recently attended there the sitting of the Supreme Court. He has now returned to Vancouver to arrange some business matters there, but he will return East and plunge into the fight.

Before the campaign closes the Calgary Herald thinks that Mr. Crerar and Mr. Wood should appear on the same platform somewhere in Alberta. Such a meeting, it opines, would be distinctly interesting to the people of that province. Says the Herald:

"Mr. Wood's economic class group claims to be in the Progressive party. Mr. Crerar claims that the class idea has no place in the Progressive party. Will he come to Alberta and say here what he says elsewhere? Will he stand on the platform with Mr. Wood and deny the existence of any economic class thought in the Progressive party? Will Mr. Wood stand on the same platform with Mr. Crerar and defend his class group's position in the Progressive party?

"Such a meeting should be held in Victoria Pavilion. President Wood, with his seconds, should be given one corner; Mr. Crerar, with his seconds the opposite corner. They could then go to it. The verbal sparring of the Agarian heavyweights would be worth hearing."

GENERAL FOCH.

Several hundred thousand Canadians would like to see their former commander-in-chief, General Foch, during his visit to this continent. It is announced that he will go to Montreal and Quebec, and, of course, he will not miss Ottawa. If Marshal Foch can be persuaded to make a tour across the continent in Canada he will meet the most enthusiastic reception ever given to a foreigner by the people of this Dominion. As a Frenchman he would naturally wish to visit the people who speak his own language and claim the same origin as his own. As the former leader of the allied armies he would find comrades in all the provinces and more of them in proportion to the whole population the farther he went west.—Vancouver Province.

THE WEST WIND'S LULLABY.

Out of the caverns of jacinth and pearl
Far in the deeps of the west,
Out of the clouds that so lazily curl
Down on the wide ocean's breast,
Over the mountains that tower serene,
Snow-capped and silent and bare,
Over the valleys that nestle between,
Sheltered and smiling and fair,
Into the maple trees over thy bed
Softly and swiftly I come,
Smoothing the pillow beneath the wee head,
Soothing with drowsiest hum,
Listen! I'll sing to thee, swinging thee slow
To and fro,
Tenderly murmur in cadences low,
"Lullaby, lullaby-oh."

Down through the leaflets that stir in their dreams
As I pass silently by,
See! I will scatter the shimmering gleams
Out of a star-dimpled sky.
Into thy slumber their brightness will creep
Filling thy dream with delight,
Close by thy side a sweet vigil to keep,
Hovering near thee all night.
Back to thy cradle I drift in the gloom,
Shadow hung meadow land through,
Laden with fragrance of many a bloom
Slumbering there is the dew,
Listen! My singing again thou shalt hear,
Do not fear.
Sleep while I murmur so low in thine ear,
"Lullaby, lullaby, Dear."

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

THE ACTIVITIES OF THE BOY SCOUTS.

Editor Free Press: As I am particularly interested in boys' welfare and scout work, I wish to let the citizens of London know what our boy scouts are doing at the present time. There are at least five organized troops in this city, all in charge of a scoutmaster or an assistant. There is a troop in the Church of the Redeemer district, another in St. John's district, while there is one in Trinity Church, Chelsea district; for the East End St. David's Church has a troop under the direction of Rev. Mr. Mess and Mr. Slack; for the central part of the city at Dundas Center Methodist church. Troop No. 8 meets on Friday nights. This is the largest in the city. It is in charge of Scoutmaster Mr. Metcalfe and Mr. Martin, and other assistants. Last Saturday, October 22, all the troops combined together and went for a long hike past Pottersburg. It was a splendid outing. The camp on Saturday ended with camp songs and yells, which was much appreciated by those who were present and took part in it.

At their regular meeting nights the scouts learn things worth while knowing. There are many things for a scout to learn, from the scout laws to first aid and other scout work. I believe that the scout activities are much in need.

Boys are gradually joining the troops. Only those who are 12 or over can join. Get in touch with the scoutmaster and his troop in your district, or write me at 710 York street, and I will try and fix something up for your boy. Of course I do not want to interfere with your boy's work at the Y.M.C.A. or any other club, because they do good work there. But if your boys desires to join the scouts, we will endeavor to do our best for him.

Boys, if you are already a scout and have a uniform rejoin up with some troop, because we need you as well as any other boy who is not a scout yet. Join up boys and get together at any of the troops, particularly the one in your district.

A scout learns to be useful as well as educated, and knows how to take part as a man.

So, in conclusion, boys join up, ask your parents about it, and join in the activities of our scout movement, of which we are trying our best to improve, not only in numbers, but in its usefulness and its welfare to the boys of to-day. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for this space for the boy scout movement.

DANCING AT THE COLLEGIATE

Editor Free Press: I have refrained for more than a week from expressing an opinion of the article in your issue of the 10th, referring to Trustee Rowe's idea of encouraging the fascinating habit of dancing within the London Collegiate Institute, thinking that some one more capable would do so. Too many of us keep still and allow this questionable amusement to drift into our midst and into our institutions instead of making known our protests and endeavor to counteract these forces.

I believe that I am voicing the sentiments of the better-thinking people and especially many of the parents of the students attending the London and other colleges and institutions, when I express disapproval of the fact that many of our sons and daughters come face to face with many of the questionable amusements for the first time in our institutions of learning. Might we not rather expect from these institutions an example of Christian fortitude, and indulgence in unquestionable recreation and amusements only. The very excellent articles in these columns upon these matters by the Social Service Council of the Dominion, the secretary of the London Conference and the institutions of the different churches are sufficient evidence in support of the contention of the writer and much more could be added if necessary. Mr. Rowe suggests that "the homes and public institutions might relax along these lines," but which idea is directly opposite to the opinion of the officials of our detention house and of our police courts, who claim that this same indifference is the very first cause of the unrest among our young people and the clamor for worldly pleasure and amusement of to-day. He also suggests that the dances would be all right under supervision, but the Social Service Council states that "the dance will never be improved under supervision." The devil has been under supervision for a long time, for a period longer than time, but that he is the same old devil still. The liquor traffic always grew worse under supervision.

It is simply impossible to have supervision in detail of the modern dance. The dance hall has shown itself to be the dance hell and it should have no place in a Christian community.

Mr. Rowe cites a church where the minister plays the piano while his people dance," and now I see that St. Mary's Church, London, is staging a dance in the auditorium of the church. Mr. Rowe claims that he does not approve of this, but watch the drift and fascination and remember that Scripture reads that "it were better to have a millstone about one's neck than to cast the stumbling block." Think of it prayerfully, Mr. Rowe, and I believe you will use your influence in the opposite direction and will endeavor to elevate the reputation of the London Collegiate Institute.

CURE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

President Harding aptly described the task of relieving unemployment when he compared it with hastening the recovery of a patient depressed by fever to "repairing the arterial circulation." The nation's constitution is sound and has not been impaired by the fever of war which has totally prostrated other nations, hence there is no occasion to rebuild the social structure, as would men infatuated with new theories.—Portland Oregonian.

Why St. Charles Milk Is Always Fresh!

New ways to make tempting dishes. Send for your copy. It is free.

Ordinary milk is put up in glass bottles—sealed with a paper top—because it is not intended to keep very long. Borden's ST. CHARLES MILK, after 60% of the moisture has been removed is put up in a permanent container and hermetically sealed because it is intended to stay fresh and sweet until you are ready to use it. This is the modern way of providing fresh milk to everyone, everywhere.

The extreme care taken to insure its purity and wholesomeness commences at the source, but aside from its purity—which is so important—ST. CHARLES is richer milk because the cream is left in. That is why it so distinctly improves cereals and fruits as well as all milk dishes.

You should not fail to buy this splendid, rich country milk. It is far the best for every cooking or table use. Your grocer is a Borden milk-man. Give him your order TO-DAY!

Headache

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such upbuilding treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return.

Mrs. W. J. Pearse, Nunn St., Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite an improvement in my condition. I continued using them until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

MRS. HILL PRESIDENT WESTERN FACULTY CLUB

Six New Members Welcomed to Annual Meeting

Of special interest through the attendance of six new members the annual meeting of the Faculty Club of Western University, held yesterday at Mrs. Sherwood Fox's home in Regent street, proved a very happy gathering.

The election of Miss Hill to the presidency was an important item of business. Other officers are Mrs. Fox, honorary president; Mrs. C. C. Waller and Mrs. H. A. McCallum, honorary vice-presidents; Mrs. Auden, first vice-president; Mrs. Fred Landon, second vice-president, Mrs. A. D. Robertson, secretary; Mrs. M. E. Albright, assistant secretary; Mrs. Le Touzel, treasurer.

The club will join with the Students' Council in giving a reception to faculty and students on Tuesday evening, November 8. This gathering will also take the form of a reception tendered by the members of the Faculty Club to the wives of the new members of the faculty. For the final arrangements of this delightful dual event, two committees have been appointed, Miss Hill, Mrs. Paul McKibben, Mrs. Waller and Mrs. Louis Wood, on the first; Mrs. Fox, Mrs. Crane, Mrs. Auden and Mrs. Slack on the second.

The club has this winter taken up a course of study which will cover the works of some of the representative authors of the day. Following a suggestion from Mrs. Russell, one of the new club members, it was decided to arrange this course of study in a rather unique fashion, one typical short story being partially read at each meeting, and a space of time allowed each member to draft a possible climax, before the reader brings the story to a close.

New members welcomed yesterday were: Mrs. Harold Kingston; Mrs. Russell; Mrs. Raymond Allen; Mrs. John Detwiler; Mrs. C. J. Bell and Miss Caroline Blampin.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS (By Mail).—It will take more than this season alone, with all its innovations in skirts and tighter waistlines, to entirely suppress the chemise frock. Now and again it bobs up in various collections of the smart shops, elaborated sometimes and pleated panels or cascading points, a close cousin to the styles of last summer. Often it now adopts the wide flowing sleeve which proved to be one of the most radical features of the new mode. But however it may alter the appearance, the chemise frock remains unique for its trim lines and supple slimness.

In the model illustrated above it takes on an Egyptian character in the wonderful blending of dull blue and faded red cire braid which creates the border from neck to hem, forms the girdle, slight as it is. These colors blend beautifully with the background of golden tan broadcloth, and the bands of yellowish fitch fur. A more sober version of the same model for school or office service may be created in navy serge, with black cire braid, combined with red or royal blue.

A SMART UP-TO-DATE MIDDY DRESS.

Pattern 3619 was selected for this design. It is cut in four sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 12-year size requires four yards of 36-inch material.

Gingham, seersucker, drill indianhead, repp and poplin are attractive for both skirt and "middy," or the skirt may be of serge, mohair, gabardine or twill.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Uncle John has gone to London," said Rodney constrainedly. "He said he might not be back to-night."

"Oh!" Norah's heart sank a little. She loved her father, and she had never quarreled with him before. Presently: "Rodney, is he very wild with me?" she asked wistfully.

He shook his head. "Not with you—he is with Laxton."

She flushed. "How unfair! It wasn't his fault! He is no more to blame than I am."

"He is, because you are inexperienced and he is not."

"What do you mean?"

"You know what I mean," he answered. "You know as well as I do the sort of man Laxton is. He makes love to every girl he meets. He's only amusing himself with you."

"Rodney! How dare you!" She was white to the lips new.

"It's perfectly true," he said quietly. "I'm sorry if you are angry with me, but the fellow is a rotter, whether you like to admit it or no."

"It's not true—and I don't admit it. I think you're perfectly hateful.

"I'm sorry."

She looked at him with burning resentment. "I never thought you'd treat me like this," she said, with feminine logic. "You always used to stick up for me."

"I'd give my life for you this minute, and you know I would," he said.

Her eyes fell before his steady gaze.

She walked to the door.

"Where are you going?" Rodney asked.

She looked back at him. "Follow me, and find out if you think it's worth while," she retorted in a rage. "I daresay father has told you to.

She went out, leaving the door wide open and into the garden. As she did so the gate clicked and Dr. Bethune came up the path.

"Well, and how is the patient this morning?" he asked cheerily, his kind eyes searching her face critically. "No sleep, eh?" he questioned.

"I couldn't sleep—my arm ached so."

"Humph! Well, and what happened?"

She flushed a little. "Happened?" she echoed.

"With your father, I mean, and Rodney!"

She smiled faintly. "There was a row," she said. "Mr. Laxton came up last night to ask how I was, and—and . . . . well, I was out in the garden talking with him, and father caught us, and . . . well, you know what he can say when he is in a rage, don't you? He called Mr. Laxton a blackguard and ordered him off the premises, and he went, and . . . and I think that's all, except that father has gone off to London, and isn't coming back to-night, and Rodney is being a sort of private detective, following me around."

"Nonsense. Rodney would never do a thing like that."

The tears welled to her eyes. "I know—I'm horrid; but—but they say dreadful things about Mr. Laxton and they're not true," she added earnestly. "I know they're not, Dr. Bethune."

"I know they're not, too," he answered. "He's been rackety, of course, but he's got the making of a fine man, or I'm very much mistaken." He broke off, amazed at the sudden flash of eagerness that swept her face.

"You're a dear," she said. "You always understand. Are you coming up to the house?"

"I was coming to have a look at your arm."

They walked back to the house together; the little flush still lingered in Norah's cheeks, her eyes were bright.

Dr. Bethune looked at her with a sort of whimsical tenderness in his eyes.

"So that's the way the wind blows, is it?" he said to himself, and for the first time he thought of the black sheep with a tiny doubt in his mind, for, after all, Laxton was a man of the world and able to look after himself, but this girl—

CHAPTER IX.

When Dr. Bethune left the Ackroyd's house he called in at Barton Manor as he passed.

He was a little anxious about Norah.

He quite recognized that the black sheep was the sort of man to whom a girl might be tremendously attracted; he quite recognized also that Norah was probably not in the least the type which would attract him in return.

He wondered as he walked up the freshly graveled drive to the door of Barton Manor if he knew Laxton sufficiently well to venture a timely word of warning.

It was an awkward situation. In his heart Bethune was fond of Norah. He knew just how straightforward and unsophisticated she was — knew just what a heart of gold was hidden beneath her girlish simplicity.

He recalled her father's fierce condemnation of George Laxton, and rather regretted that he himself had so determinedly taken the opposite line. Perhaps Mr. Arbuckle had had a reason for saying what he did.

Laxton had gone to London, he was told, and had left no message at all as to when he might be expected back again.

Dr. Bethune said that he was sorry, whereas, as a matter of fact, he was enormously relieved. If Laxton stayed away from Lumsden all would be well. He supposed that the much-talked-about house party had fallen through.

When he next saw Norah he mentioned casually that apparently the new lord of the manor had soon wearied of his country seat, seeing that he had taken himself back to London, and was not expected to return.

He was examining the injured wrist as he spoke, and he glanced up sharply at the girl's face.

Her eyes were cast down and he thought afterward that it might have been his fancy that she had turned pale, for she answered evenly enough: "I am not at all surprised; he hates the country."

At lunch that day she told her father that Laxton had gone; she told him with a sort of defiance, for the breach between them had never really been healed since that night in the garden.

"Gone, has he?" Mr. Ackroyd growled. "Humph!"

(To Be Continued)

A GREAT FLURRY.

There was a great flurry among Farmer Green's hens. They all insisted on talking at the same time, because they had heard an astonishing bit of news. It was about Henrietta Hen. Wherever she went her neighbors craned their necks at her, just as if they hadn't seen her every day as long as they could remember!

Henrietta Hen enjoyed the notice that everybody took of her. She went to some trouble to move about a good deal, so that all might have a chance to stare at her. For if there was one thing she liked it was attention.

There was a reason why Henrietta had suddenly become the most talked of member of the flock. She was going to the county fair! Furthermore, she expected to take all her children with her. There wasn't the least doubt that it was all true. The whole flock had heard Johnnie Green and his father talking about it.

Of course everybody asked Henrietta Hen a great number of questions. When was she going to leave? How long did she expect to stay at the fair? What did she intend to do there? Would she wear her best clothes if it rained? There was no end to such inquiries.

Unfortunately, Henrietta Hen could answer very few of them. Never having visited a fair, she had no idea what a fair was like. She only guessed that when the time came, she and her family would be put into a pen, loaded upon a wagon, and jolted over the road that led to the fair, wherever it might be.

But Henrietta didn't intend to let her neighbors find out how little she knew about fairs. She said that before starting she expected to wait for the wagon, that she hoped to stay at the fair as long as it lasted (because she didn't want to miss anything), and that she intended to come home when the wagon brought her. Furthermore, she planned to wear her best apron, anyhow, because there was sure to be fair weather at a fair! How could it be otherwise?

Old Ebenezer, the horse, told her to be sure to see the races.

"They're the best part of a fair," she said. "In my younger days, I used to take part in them." And then he added, "There's nothing else at a fair that's worth looking at."

"What about the poultry show?" Henrietta Hen asked him. She didn't know what poultry shows were; but she heard Farmer Green mention them.

"I never paid any attention to the poultry exhibit," the horse Ebenezer replied. "I never took part in that. I suppose it might interest you, however.

Henrietta Hen smiled a knowing sort of smile. And she didn't believe the old horse knew a race from a poultry show. "If he ever went to a fair, I dare say he was hitched outside the fence," she sniffed.

Polly Plymouth Rock cackled with amusement. And she said something that displeased Henrietta Hen exceedingly.

"Are you going to take that duckling that you hatched out? she asked.

"Certainly not!" Henrietta snapped. "Please—Miss Plymouth Rock—never mention him again! I'm going to the fair, among strangers, and I shouldn't care to have them know about that accident that happened to me—not for anything!"

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

A Cincinnati Barber Tells How to Make a Remedy For Gray Hair.

A well-known resident of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been a barber for more than 40 years, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound and ¼ ounce glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the most delicate scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."—Advt.

HOSTEL SPICK AND SPAN, SAYS MAJOR BOOTH

S. A. Leader Visits Army Institutions During Her Stay in Town

"I am delighted to see everything so spick-and-span," said Major Mary Booth, of the Salvation Army, during a visit paid yesterday to the S. A. Girls' Hostel on York street.

Major Booth, who addressed three large gatherings in the city on Sunday, visited the hostel, the Children's Home and Bethesda Hospital during her stay in London, and expressed herself as delighted with conditions everywhere. At the hostel, particularly, the distinguished guest found much of interest, as the building is now completely filled, with 40 residents, including the staff.

Under the efficient direction of Adjutant and Mrs. Sharpe, superintendent and matron, the work of the hostel has "carried on" in a most satisfactory manner, and Major Booth satisfied herself of efficiency throughout by a peep into each cozy bedroom and dormitory, into the pleasant sitting-rooms and big, cheery kitchen, complimenting Adjutant Sharpe and his good wife on their successful undertaking.

At the Children's Home Major Booth paid a brief visit to the baby section, all the little ones under school age, declaring them to be a "bonnie crowd" and expressing her self as equally satisfied with the home as a whole, in spite of the crowded conditions under which the staff has been working of late.

Major Booth, who left London for Windsor at noon yesterday, is accompanied on her tour by Col. McMillan, chief secretary, of Toronto, and by Staff Capt. Smith, of this city. Joining Commissioner Richards, of Toronto, on his farewell tour, prior to his departure for Australia, Major Booth will journey through Canada and will later go on to Rochester, N. Y., where she will be a guest of her cousin, Miss Booth, daughter of the late General Booth.

STRONG GOVT. SUPPORT PROMISED BY WOMEN

Meighen Followers Prepare for Campaign at Meeting Yesterday

Keen enthusiasm marked the meeting of the women supporters of the Meighen Government, held yesterday afternoon in the National Liberal and Conservative Club rooms, when details of organization were discussed under the leadership of Mr. Percy Moore.

A large attendance of women was promised for the ward meetings to be held this week, representatives present undertaking to urge upon the women of their subdivisions the importance of attendance at these ward gatherings. On Wednesday evening of this week, wards 1 and 2 and the west half of wards 3 and 4 will meet in the Masonic Temple; the east half of ward 3 at Chesley Avenue School, and the east half of ward 4 at the Foresters' Hall.

WOMEN'S PLACE.

With the deputy chairman in each ward a woman, and with a generous proportion of women likely to be appointed as delegates to the convention, women's place in the coming election was strongly emphasized by several speakers in the course of yesterday's conference. That the feminine vote of the Dominion must logically be cast for the Meighen Government was demonstrated by one of the speakers, who pointed out that as a leader Mr. Meighen stands head and shoulders above his opponents, both in experience and ability, and that he heads the Government that gave women the franchise; that established a health department, long advocated by the National Council of Women, and that established a child welfare bureau under the leadership of one of the most able women in the Dominion, Dr. Helen McMurchy, all three of which policies, it was pointed out, had been strongly opposed by the Liberal party.

The disastrous results of refuting the protection policy, especially in view of the present attitude of the United States, and the indecisive stand of the Hon. Mackenzie King on the tariff question, were also discussed very fully from a woman's viewpoint.

TO FORM COMMITTEE.

The decision to form a strong central committee of women, with a permanent chairwoman and secretary, was reached yesterday, and will probably be acted upon at an early date. In the meantime the women have fallen into line with a view to bringing out the large feminine vote not hitherto polled.

The announcement of a theater night in connection with the field day activities of the Collegiate Institute, has more than ordinary significance. It marks the beginning of the Students' Union control in the life of the L. C. I., and at the same time a close co-operation between staff and student body.

ROYAL YEAST CAKES

Canadian Made

As a health builder, Royal Yeast is gaining in popularity every day. It is a food - not a medicine. It supplies the vitamine which the diet may lack. Royal Yeast is highly beneficial in cases where the system seems "run down". Royal Yeast is the richest known source of vitamines, and when taken into the system acts as a corrective agent. Royal Yeast Cakes are recommended for their purity and wholesomeness. It is the purest, the most convenient and economical yeast on the market.

Two to four Royal Yeast Cakes a day will work wonders. A full day's supply can easily be prepared at one time by using one glass luke warm water and teaspoon sugar to each yeast cake. Allow to stand over night in moderately warm room. In the morning stir well and pour off liquid. Place in refrigerator or other cool place and drink at intervals as desired throughout the day.

WANTS EMPHATIC STAND ON TARIFF

Meighen Asks People To Declare Themselves Resoundingly.

SPEAKS AT BRANTFORD

W. F. Cockshutt Warns of Danger of Free Trade To Brantford.

BRANTFORD, Oc. 24. — (By Staff Reporter.) — "I think the people of Canada have to resoundingly declare what the tariff policy of this country is going to be, or we are not going to have the times in Canada that we ought to have. There are tens of thousands of men out of work in Canada to-night because employers of labor are uneasy, and capital is timid and does not know whether or not it may safely put its money into industry and go on paying men to produce when they do not know whether or not the product they make is going to be swamped and swallowed by the surplus of the United States. That is responsible for a good deal of the unemployment of this country at the present time. Therefore we had better decide it."

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to-night dealt faithfully, as usual, with the varied topics his opponents have chosen to discuss in this campaign, but was particularly emphatic in presentation of the Government's tariff policy, challenged by both the Crerar and King forces.

INVITES QUESTIONS.

He repeatedly invited suggestions as to special features of the administration which members of the audience might desire to discuss, or questions thereon. Only one was asked.

"Why did you send tractors into Canada and destroy the factory here in Brantford?"

"I will tell my friend why," said the premier, "and I don't know that we were right when we did it, either. It was to meet the demand of these organized farmers as nearly as we could, and on the ground, as well, that during the war, wheat production was so essential, and just then they were unable to produce the same tractor in Canada, although getting ready. I am not certain that we were right, but I want to know what is to be thought of those who demand that we let not only these tractors in, but all other tractors and all implements of every kind." (Applause).

To-night's meeting in Brantford armories was the largest of the premier's Western Ontario tour. Seating accommodation had been arranged for 3,000 and there were probably 1,000 persons standing as well. As usual there were many Liberals and farmers out to hear the prime minister, and on this occasion they indicated the fact early in the meeting by applauding mention of the name of Mr. Crerar and that of Mr. King. The premier expressed his pleasure at their presence and announced his intention of directing his remarks especially to them. "For those who are naturally sympathetic to the Government will not fail away."

IN THE CHAIR.

A. H. Vansomern, president of the local National and Liberal Association, was in the chair and gave an able presentation of the federal situation. Other speakers were W. F. Cockshutt, late member for Brantford, and present candidate, and Hon. Gideon Robertson, minister of labor, who gave some particularly timely incidents from the tariff commission's hearings. Brass bands of the Dufferin Rifles and G. W. V. A. headed a motor parade from the Grand Trunk when the premier left his car for the drill hall, and at the opening of the meeting Mayor Wedlake presented a civic welcome. Hundreds of people were seated in the hall an hour before the proceedings began.

Mr. Vansomern ran foul of M. M. MacBride, M. P. P., who was at the back of the hall, when he referred to A. W. Burt as I. L. P. candidate in the constituency.

"Mr. Burt is not indorsed by the I. L. P. of Brantford," objected the member.

"Thank you, Mr. MacBride," said the chairman, "I should have said that the section indorsing Mr. Burt is a section that broke away in regard to a stand which they refused to take, and as I understand is a very small section of the Brantford I. L. P."

"No section of Brantford I. L. P. indorses him," insisted Mr. MacBride. But the audience was restive at the delay in the program, and no further opportunity was available to bring out the point Mr. MacBride no doubt desired, that Labor in Brantford has not indorsed a candidate who supports a free trade platform.

MR. COCKSHUTT.

W. F. Cockshutt, former member for Brantford and Government candidate in the riding, said he was appealing for the sixth time to the electors. He claimed that he never favored a class or creed while in the House of Commons.

"The axe," he said, "is laid to the root of the tree of industry in Brantford." And it did not matter which of the opposition parties came into power, evil would result to the industries of this city. If the people of Brantford wanted to keep the factories running, wanted to keep the city prosperous, they should vote for a party which promised protection to Canadian industries.

Mr. Cockshutt said that he felt that a party which appealed as a class rather than as an aggregation of Canadian citizens was not worthy of support. He opposed the Progressives on this ground as well as on the ground of their fiscal policy. For himself, he believed in protection for all Canadian people, farmers as well as men engaged in industrial pursuits.

SENATOR ROBERTSON.

Senator Robertson said that if there was anything for which the Government should be criticized it was the fact that it had not come out and told all it was doing for Canada. In the strenuous days of the war and the years following the members of the Government had been too busy to get out and tell of their achievements.

Senator Robertson then reviewed the efforts of the Government to bring about better labor conditions, to alleviate unemployment and to promote technical education. The organized farmer movement did not represent the farmers of Canada any more than the Independent Labor party represented Canadian labor, said the Minister of Labor. A large percentage of Canadian laborers favored protection, he said.

The premier, who was given a fine reception, the whole audience arising to cheer him as he came forward, spoke for more than an hour and a half. His voice showed no effect of his strenuous Western Ontario tour, now concluded, and, as usual, much of the address was entirely new. of that new matter, none was more interesting and effective than his comment upon the attitude of W. G. Raymond, late postmaster here, and now Liberal candidate, who announces that he favors a protective tariff, though a follower of Mackenzie King.

"I hear a report," said the premier, "that because he is contesting this election he is going to be penalized by the loss of his pension. That is not the kind of government that is in power. (Applause.) I don't think you can expect us to pay his salary while he is out, but he will get everything that he is entitled to under the law, and he is entitled to his pension. A man has a perfect right to retire and run for Parliament if he wants to.

A FUNNY POSITION

"You say he favors protection. Well, isn't he candidate of the Liberal party? Wasn't he nominated at a convention of followers of Mackenzie King and the Liberal party is pledged to sweep off the protection on vital, essential industries of this country, industries that make the implements of production, and do you know anything on earth that is more vital than that, or more entitled to reasonable protection?

"You say Mr. Raymond won't support them on that. How is he going to help it? When Parliament meets the address is brought down and the Opposition always moves an amendment. It won't be on the tariff, but it will be on something, and Mr. Raymond votes for it, if he is elected, and if he votes for it the Government is gone, as far as his vote is concerned anyway. Where is the protective system? Is it going to be maintained by Mr. King and the Liberal party, pledged to sweep it out of existence on the fundamental industries of this country? No matter where Mr. Raymond may stand protection is gone, or you will have committed in Canada a political infamy such as this or any other nation never saw. (Applause.)

"Mr. Raymond's statement, which I have here, is for still higher duty on implements, and yet he supports a party pledged to wipe them out altogether if returned to power, or, as I say, commit a dark political infamy. If Mr. Raymond is on this platform, and I am not specially criticizing the platform, all I say is that he is taking a most remarkable course in accepting the Liberal nomination and opposing a Government which stands for maintaining the tariff level and the principle of the tariff. He ought to come out with me into Western Canada and fight the enemies of protection there, and I assure him he will find lots of warriors. How does he justify himself linking arms with Mr. King and with Mr. Murphy, who said just yesterday at Kitchener that if they got into power the farmers would realize their aims? Do you think Mr. Raymond is doing the right thing if he believes what he states here, in fighting those who stand for it and with those who are against. The only thing he mentions here is the tariff, and everything he says about it is diametrically opposed to all his party stands for. What, then, is he opposing Mr. Cockshutt about? He might be a good candidate. He cannot be better than Mr. Cockshutt. (Applause.)

HARD TO UNDERSTAND.

"I don't understand how Mr. Raymond can associate himself with the antics of Mr. King on this question. If they ever talk in this town I will guarantee you will never hear that platform mentioned. Protection for Quaker Oats in Peterboro and implements in Brantford, and no protection at all in Huron. Higher duties on implements in some places and none at all in others, and in some places in the Prairie West the whole party has gone to the farmers and are supporting Mr. Wood and Mr. Crerar in their free trade propaganda, and it is that motley assembly, walking everywhere, that Mr. Raymond is walking with, if he can ever keep his arms from breaking apart.

"Here is a Government standing four square on the one big issue these men have challenged and forced us to decide. Standing where you stand, and where you know the interests of this country stand, and we find against us an opposition with one goal, and one only and one policy, and that is power, fighting us in Quebec on the cry of no conscription, free trade in the Prairie West and humbug in the Maritime Provinces. (Applause).

"I think the people of this country have the spirit that animated us in 1878, that quickened us in 1908 and 1911, and will vote to keep the home markets of this Dominion. And give the industrial system of this country a chance for life against the infinitely more powerful undustrial system of the greatest commercial nation the world has ever known. Vote for honesty in politics. Do not vote for a party in the hope that it is going to be dishonest in its pledges. The responsibility is upon the Canadian people.

NEED MR. COCKSHUTT.

"We need Mr. Cockshutt in Parliament. His unselfish, unflagging industry there and his great experience is not only of great value to you as constituents, but of great value to me as prime minister and to the Government of which I am head.

"No employer of labor in this city, who sees a Medicine Hat by-election carried by 10,000 majority on a platform that I hold in my hand, and sees the whole Government of Alberta swept from power, and in Ontario as well by the same organization. No employer who sees the Liberals' platform, tying the Liberal party to virtually the same program and policy, but will have some doubt as to whether or not we are going to have a protective system in Canada. If I thought it my business to try and convince you that everything was fine and you had to get on the winning side and come behind me for the election, I would not be talking of the enemy's strength, but I think it is strong and must be grappled with.

"If there is a population in this country that can see the benefits of protection it is Brantford. You don't need to go away from your front door or the first page of an advertisement to see that. It is the very corner stone of the existence of your city. Assuming that, how should you vote, how must you vote in justice to your city and country? Will you farmers vote for Mr. Crerar? If so, tell me why. Mr. Crerar is head of a big corporation. I have nothing against it on earth. It has the same rights as any other. But why in the world you should vote for Mr. Crerar because he calls himself head of a farmers' party I don't know.

THE QUESTION

"What you have to decide is, is it good for you to have their policy in effect? He wants to take off our duty on farm products, which is about one-third that of the United States, and at a time when you cannot sell your products over there, take away all obstacles and let them sell their whole surplus here, against the products of you farmers. Free foodstuffs is his platform. It is in Mr. King's, too. Both are pledged to free implements of production and all the raw material entering into both.

"Is it to the interests of Brantford to put out of power the only party that stands square on the protective site? Mr. King and his party are tied by a solemn pledge and platform, and in every respect as disastrous to this city, province and Dominion as that of Wood and Crerar."

The premier said that as far as human assiduity could serve the people of Canada this Government had done it. It had done it to the neglect of party organization, while the Progressives were collecting funds for propaganda through the mediums of grain companies, and sowing seeds of malice and prejudice against the Government. It was only recently that the Government had been in a position to look into matters of party organization and prepare for an election.

"The war record of the Government, from a financial point of view, stood unchallenged, said the premier. He declared that the Government had been supported by the great newspapers, which were now opposing it, in every cardinal act it had performed. Surely this was an indication that the Government had performed its duty. He did not claim that the Government had been able to make a Paradise out of the country, but considering the trying and terrible years of its administration, it had done well.

Canada was a land of Canaan in a veritable desert of trouble and unrest, said the premier. These "perambulating politicians" who went around talking blue ruin were not to be taken seriously. Canada had a big debt, but you couldn't fight a war without debt and this country was prosperous.

When he spoke to Western audiences he had to fight his way, said the premier. Mr. Crerar was historically a Liberal partisan. Mr. Crerar would be glad to help the Liberal party, he said, but his supporters in Western Canada were going to make him hew to the line on tariff matters.

The Progressive movement in Ontario had been warked up into a class feeling, said the premier. Class feeling and free trade were the basis of the movement. If the movement was not grappled with and beaten down, it would gain the upper hand and control the country.

CHARGES FAILED, ALDERMAN OUSTED

Windsor Council Accepts Ald. Mitchell's Resignation

WINDSOR, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The City Council tonight voted to accept the resignation of Ald. Frank Mitchell.

There were four dissenting votes. Ald. Hooper said he thought Mitchell's resignation should be held until certain charges he had preferred against the Windsor Board of Education in connection with the construction of one of the public schools had been gone into. The majority of the Council, however, favored the resignation. William Wheeler will take the seat vacated by Mitchell. He finished in fourteenth place in the municipal elections last January.

Mr. Mitchell's resignation was the result of his failure to prove his charges of irregularities against Chief of Police Daniel Thompson before the police commission at a hearing a week ago.

ARCHBISHOP FAVORS EARLY CLOSING OF PUBS

Head of Anglican Communion Issues Letter Regarding Licensing by Justices.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—The Archbishop of Canterbury has issued a letter regarding the licensing of public houses by justices in the area of Poplar and Stepney, urging early closing of licensed houses. He says:

"For those who are weakened or weak-hearted the last hour of the open public houses is fraught with more peril than all the other hours put together."

When the justices fixed the closing hour at 10 o'clock, temperance representatives sang the Doxology in court.

LLOYD GEORGE WILL VISIT CANADA IF HE ATTENDS DISARM PARLEY

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—In response to a joint invitation to Premier Lloyd George from the Canadian and Empire clubs of this city to visit Toronto if he attends the Washington conference, a cable message was received from the British premier to-day stating that if he attended the Washington conference he might not have time for public engagements outside of the conference, but if possible he would visit Canada, as he wished to thank the people of this Dominion for their services during the war.

WHITE CLOVER PACKS KICK.

STRATFORD, Oct. 24.—White clover, most innocent-appearing of the flowers of the field, seems to pack a tolerable "kick," according to a story told by a young chap in police court this morning. It seems that he and several others were at the house of a friend last night, and imbibed a considerable quantity of wine, purporting to be made from this innocent flower. He, either imbibing more than the others, or less able to stand it, became intoxicated, and was arrested. He was fined $20 and $2.50 costs, or 20 days in jail.

Music Chases the Glooms; Adds Joy to the Homes

A Tonic to the Mind as Exercise Is to the Body, Says Daniel Frohman, the Noted Theatrical Producer

BY H. G. STANTON.

No home but has been affected by the stress and strain of the period the world is passing through. In many of these that undercurrent of gloom has prompted the search for something to counteract the depression. It seemed hard to define it, hard to understand just what it was. Something was lacking; something was wanted, wanted with a desire so strong as to overcome the thought of practically every homekeeper at this time that of conservation; that requirement seemed met only by music.

Music seemed to some a nonessential, yet one heard it in certain homes where every requirement of our times is faithfully met. One heard it wherever men and women were gathered together in any good cause. One heard it in their churches, and still it seemed to some a nonessential in times like these, and so, many asked, themselves, "should we have music?"

To a few, maybe, that have no music in their souls, just as a few there are who have no love, no sentiment, no loyalty, and many other of the characteristics, traits or passions normal people have, the question may seem hard to answer. I read only a short time ago of a man who said: "The farmer who raises food and exchanges it for pianos, pianolas or victrolas is just as much a war-drone as the man who makes them," etc. I feel quite sure the article was written with the very best of intentions, but every evidence goes to show that such claims as these are given from a want of knowledge as to the place music holds in the national life of the people of our country.

GENERAL FACTOR.

I am of the opinion that the reason for this misconception of the necessity for music is that music has become such a general factor in the lives of our people, especially in our larger cities, and the public have so seldom felt the want of it, that its value has never been fully realized or set. A much quoted writer, C. N. Bovee, says on the subject: "Music is the fourth greatest requirement of the human soul. First, food; second, shelter; third, rainment, fourth, music."

It is difficult to find those to whom we might well look for guidance in these times and who condemn music, but there are many who throw much light on the subject of its advantages. It would be interesting to quote a few of these

By David Starr Jordan, president of the Leland Stanford Junior University: "All that I might think or feel of the place of music as a means of grace in human society has been many times put in far better fashion than I could say it. I can only express my faith in music as a primary factor in happiness and, therefore, in civilization."

By Daniel Frohman, noted theatrical manager: "Music is to the mind what exercise is to the body—a tonic. Its appeal to the emotions, stimulates the imagination. Every Canadian mother should start her children on their careers in life with an opportunity to learn and understand how this beautiful art may refine and elevate."

By Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, eminent American sanitarian: "If one looks over the history of mankind, especially in times of stress and of great crisis, and notices the important part that music has played in human evolution and progress, he cannot fail to be convinced of the truth of the opinion that music is not a luxury, but a necessity."

It must be understood that none of these men are especially interested in the profession or the business of music as such, but all are leaders in certain walks of life. It will serve to bring home to many of us that there is much beyond the claims made by those who, for the want of a thorough conception of the issue, put music in the nonessential class, and to enlighten those who find it difficult sometimes to decide in their own minds what can be considered essentials and nonessentials, in order to best meet the requirements of the times.

VOLUNTEER MUSIC.

A well-known leader of volunteer workers who understands thoroughly the value of music as a stimulant, has a unique message to offer women. It is "sing the songs of your country as you work for your country."

"The time has come," she says, "when the woman power of the country must come to the fore and do its share in the struggle for national strength and power. In urging the men to do their part, the leaders of the various military organizations have impressed upon the minds of the soldiers and recruits the value of song. 'A singing army is a fighting army,' were the words of Major-General Bell, of Plattsburg, when he addressed the embryonic officers gathered there. I want the women of the country to bear those words in mind. They, too, are the members of an army, an army that I know will prove in its own way of equal

Take It In Time !

DO you know that by far the larger number of the common ailments of women are not surgical ones; that is they are not caused by any serious displacement, tumor, growth, or other marked change?

DO you know that these common ailments produce symptoms that are very much like those caused bv the more serious surgical conditions?

DO you know that many women and young girls suffer needlessly from such ailments? More than that, they endanger their health by allowing their ailments to continue and develop into something serious.

If treated early, that is, within a reasonable time after the first warning symptoms appear, serious conditions may often be averted. Therefore, at the first appearance of such symptoms as periodic pains, irregularities, irritability and nervousness, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken. It is prepared with accuracy and cleanliness from medicinal plants. It contains no narcotics nor poisonous drugs, and can be taken with perfect safety.

The Vegetable Compound acts on the conditions which bring about these symptoms in a gentle and efficient manner. The persistent use of it shows itself in the disappearance, one after another, of the disagreeable symptoms. In a word, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound acts as a natural restorative, relieving the present distress and preventing more serious trouble.

MEMORIAL TO BE FOR THE COMMUNITY

PAISLEY, Oct. 24.—The Paisley soldiers' memorial committee has received a plan for the enlarged soldiers' monument, in accordance with the decision reached at a recent meeting to make this a memorial in honor of all fallen soldiers from the community of Paisley and surrounding country, instead of for Paisley heroes alone, as was originally intended.

The new monument is the same as the first selection, but with the addition of a life-size figure of a soldier equipped for the march. This will make the monument in all 21 feet high.

The names of fallen soldiers of Paisley and for several miles beyond will be inscribed on the shaft.

In ordering a monument of the first dimensions and design the Paisley committee was only planning according to its means, but is quite willing to change the plans as proposed if there is good support given by the people of the surrounding country.

The original cost of the monument was to be $2,800 and the additional cost of the larger design will be $1,800, so that the new selection will cost approximately $4,600, of which amount Paisley will raise a portion.

strength to that of the one on the battlefield. Just as the men in the trenches needed the inspiration of 'Rally Round the Flag, Boys,' and 'Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag and Smile, Smile, Smile,' even so do the women of the country need the courage and strength that comes from humming melodies.

A SINGING WORKER IS SUCCESS.

"I should not mind seeing every division of the league adopt a song of its own and sing it. That with its implication of happiness certainly would be one form of assurance of the success of the work they are doing. That more than anything else would proclaim to the people of the world that the power of this nation is made up of grit and of iron, of stick-to-it-iveness to an ideal and confidence in its culmination. A singing worker is a confident worker, and a confident worker is a successful worker. Let the women of the nation sing—let them sing the songs of their country, and let them make known to the world that their hearts are full of the glory and the strength of their nation. They are fighting not for petty ends, not for sordid aims, but for an ideal of freedom, and that ideal can best be expressed by the melodies that have endeared themselves to the people. Let them still sew, cook and drive, but also let them sing. The reward of the willing hand is great, but it is immeasurably greater if it is accompanied by the song of a national spirit."

Just as the people have learned, as many did not realize in days gone by, the value of sunshine, so many of them realize now as they never did before, that music is not only a diversion, or an art, or a study, but that it is a fundamental, something that in a greater measure than anything else serves as sunlight to the soul.

If you love music do not hesitate to give of it as freely as you can, as one of the times' most pressing essentials. If you do not love music it is because you have not let yourself really listen to it.

MUSIC ON THE FARM.

I have often wondered—if those who were interested in farm life development would bring music in the home "as a necessity" to the farmer, so that every home would be furnished with its phonograph or piano, or, in the absence of any tutored development, a player-piano, so that those farm homes that have for so many years lacked this entertainment, would have it and develop it at its best—if a different air would not prevail. Instead of the solemn and somber atmosphere of night after hard day's toil with such limited diversions as cannot help but exist where there is no music, I cannot conceive of such a home not being materially benefited, ties made stronger, and life itself more interesting and entertaining, where properly selected programs were enjoyed at frequent intervals, with an occasional get-together of the young men and young women to enjoy the rhythmical entertainment of the dance, as used to be enjoyed in the old days of the waltz and minuet, and when, history goes to show us, young men were not leaving the farms in the same proportion as they are to-day.

All of us should appreciate and endeavor to establish thrift, but this, like everything else, can be overdone as well as underdone. We cannot deprive young and old of everything but food and clothing and expect to maintain the development of cheerful will to see the present situation through and to meet still more serious things to come and the spirit necessary to carry us through our present struggle. What, then, at less expense and of more lasting qualities can be recommended than the present-day form of home music?

One does not have to minimize or exaggerate present condition. They are all too clearly defined, but serious, sad or bad as they are, the average Canadian can and will take a sensible, moderate view of things, and take what comfort can be had from his food, his home, his clothes and his music instead of wearing sack-cloth and preaching calamity. If there ever was a time when every man and woman should meet their tasks, trials and sorrows as optimistically, determinedly and cheerfully as possible it is now. Our many tasks, however, cannot be accomplished under the strain of oppression, depression, gloom or fear, and there is nothing that will keep these distressing forces from a home, a country or a nation like "concord of sweet sounds," surely we must recognize music as an essential.

Take music from our national institutions, our camps, our churches or our homes and Canada would be a sorry place indeed. Instead, therefore, let us feel what our country needs in this time of stress and crisis is more music and let it be music of the best type.

EASY TO PAY.

To fill the need in many cases requires some little outlay, more sometimes than many of us feel can be spared, but fortunately this condition is met by nearly all of the suppliers of musical instruments in this country by a convenient system of payment.

The advantages in purchasing permanent requirements (and musical instruments can well be termed permanent requirements) on the deferred payment plan are both numerous and highly beneficial and, when properly done, good practice.

It is followed by all civilization, by governments, including federal, provincial, county and city, by our greatest business organizations and leading business men.

Not always do they purchase on the monthly payment plan, but what is in effect the same thing, they purchase permanent requirements or goods for future development by borrowing on bonds, mortgages, stock or notes, and repay these annually, quarterly, monthly or as conveniently arranged.

The plan is just as good and just as necessary for the individual investor or purchaser as it is for his Government. But—and this is the big feature—don't buy everything that way.

The things you eat or drink or use as you go should be paid for as you go. If this is not done you will run behind, become involved with debts without assets to cover them, and become financially, if not socially, embarrassed.

Your permanent requirements, those things that live after the deferred payment period, and for the purpose you purchase them, hold good value (this may be a little more or a little less than you paid, but it is something tangible, something to show or your money). These are very frequently best bought or most needed when the entire amount involved is not in your possession. By purchasing on the deferred payment plan, you meet that need—maybe it is a piano or violin in the home when your little boy or girl is just at the age to commence their musical study. Maybe it is a phonograph, or other musical instrument to fill the need for attractive, elevating and instructive entertainment so vitally necessary nowadays, and so essential to the best development of home life, home comfort and home atmosphere.

PERMANENT THINGS.

These things are a joy at any time, but can well be said to be essential now. Besides, they are permanent things—the value exists long after they are paid for. They are not only things of permanent joy in the home, but an asset, properly purchased with consideration to good home financing methods on the deferred payment plan.

Let music no longer be considered a luxury in the homes either of the rich or poor but develop it as a vital force on the impulses for better living and our nation will have made a mighty step forward.

OLGA MILLER SINGLES TENNIS CHAMP OF WESTERN ONTARIO

Fifteen-Year-Old Girl Defeats Helen Woolley in Final for Hon. C. S. Hyman Trophy by 6-1, 6-1 Yesterday

Olga (Billie) Miller, daughter of the late A. E. Miller, former managing editor of The London Free Press, won the ladies' singles tennis championship of the Western Ontario tennis tournament, which was decided at the London Hunt and Country Club courts yesterday afternoon in the final with Helen Woolley. Two sets, with scores of 6-1, 6-1, decided the winner of the Hon. C. S. Hyman trophy.

Olga gave promise of developing into an expert tennis player. Three years ago she won the singles championship at the London Collegiate at the age of 12 and the comparative ease with which she battled her way through the various stages of the present long-drawn-out tournament matches shows her to be possessed of more than ordinary ability, considering her youth.

Her hardest match was played on Saturday, when she won from Alice McFarlane by 6-4, 3-6, 8-6. This game put her into the semi-finals with Miss Spence, which she won by 6-3, 6-1.

She had not played many games before she entered the tourney, but was selected on the team to represent London in the play-off with the St. Catharines team at Brantford a week ago, where she made a creditable showing.

Olga is versatile, as well, as she will pitch for the London Collegiate girls' baseball team against the St. Thomas Collegiate at the big sports day this afternoon at Tecumseh Park.

East May Adopt Chicago Shifts That Beat Tigers

Stagg's Tactics Humble Princeton and System May Be Widely Taken Up

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

CHICAGO, Oct. 24.—Decisive victory of Chicago over Princeton, 9 to 0, defeat of Michigan by Ohio State, 14 to 0, and the great battle between Hugo Bezdek's Penn State eleven and Harvard, which resulted in a 21 to 21 tie, featured Saturday's football games.

In the intersectional struggle between Maroons and Tigers, Coach Stagg displayed an article of football which will be the talk of the East for the remainder of the gridiron season. His shift plays, which were executed with clocklike precision, will be copied in later contests, and they will be used by leading elevens of the section next season.

SHIFTS TAKE TIGERS ABACK.

The main purpose of shift plays is to disconcert the defense. The ball is intended to be snapped while defending players are shifting and in no position to meet an attack with all their strength. Stagg had his offense so planned that the backs hit at different points on nearly every play, and the Tiger forwards were at a loss to fathom this style of attack.

When the plays were sprung behind unbalanced lines, the runner was frequently set back on the weak side. He generally slid off the center, who was pushed aside by the offending pivot man with the help of the guard on the weak side. The Maroon backs drove with so much power that they had little trouble making ground when the defense was not set for the attack.

SURPRISED BY TREND OF ATTACK.

The battering tactics were a revelation to Eastern critics and other close followers of football. Chicago had been expected to play an open game, with the forward pass the principal weapon of attack.

In the opening quarters the Maroons made few attempts to gain by use of the open game, and concentrated on the Princeton forwards. Time after time Timme, Thomas and Zorn tore through any part of the Princeton line or slid off the tackles, who were nearly kept out of the play by the superb boxing of Chicago's ends.

The strength of the Maroon attack may be gathered from the fact that Chicago made 16 first downs against 3 for the Tigers. The scoring forward pass was executed perfectly, and caught Princeton completely off guard. A few other attempts to complete forward tosses by Chicago also were incomplete, while Princeton did not execute a single one successfully.

THOUSANDS OF PUBLIC SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS HOLD FIELD DAY

Queen's Park Track and Enclosure Scene of Mid-Activity Yesterday Afternoon

EMPRESS AVENUE CHAMPIONS

Empress Avenue School won the public schools field day, outpointing the remainder of the schools, according to Dr. F. J. Bryant's statistics, hurriedly compiled last night.

After heralding the fact that they had been granted a half-holiday, through the streets of London, aboard street cars, with the school yells and songs, thousands of public school children invaded Queen's Park yesterday afternoon for their annual track and field sports.

"Their" day had been postponed on account of inclement weather on two previous occasions, and it was decided not to set a date for the next attempt, by the principals, but to take the first opportunity of a fine day and surprise the scholars. This plan worked immensely as nature could not have provided a more ideal sunlit day than prevailed yesterday.

Once in front of the grand stand at the fair grounds, it proved an utterly useless task to keep the youngsters in the stand to segregate the onlookers from the contestants. In short, the scholars, girls and boys of all ages and sizes, took possession of the track and enclosure. They played havoc with the order of things and turned the place into chaos.

Each entrant to a race or athletic competition on the varied program was given a card for as many events as each scholar was scheduled for, and at the end of the competition the clerk in charge marked the card, crediting the scholar with his accomplishment. The scholar then recorded his card with the general secretary, who, with Dr. F. J. Bryant, brought down the results of the afternoon in concrete form, after many hours of studious labor.

Ernestness of endeavor marked the many events on the program. The leading athletes from the various schools were thrown together to determine what particular school district in London had developed the better boy and girl athlete. Weight and age were also given consideration in the compilation of the following results:

Woodstock High Defeats Technical

Collegiate Wins Oxford-Middlesex Rugby Union Fixture by 11-1

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 24.—In a scheduled game in the Oxford-Middlesex Rugby Union at Victoria Park this afternoon Woodstock defeated London Technical School team 11-1, thereby taking revenge, in some measure, for the three defeats which local rugby teams have received from London teams in series games in London during the past week.

The first quarter produced no score, although there was considerable fumbling on both sides. The tide of battle surged backwards and forwards with little to choose between the two.

In the second quarter the Londoners opened the scoring, grabbing their solitary point when Updegrove booted a high one over the Woodstock line, forcing McMullen to rouge.

Woodstock scored their points in the last quarter, taking advantage of the London Technical players' fumbles.

Captain Loveless was injured and the visitors undoubtedly missed this useful player. Flynn and King were the local stars. The line-up:

ST. MATTHEW'S BOWLERS TO EUCHER WEDNESDAY NIGHT

St. Matthew's Bowling Club has arranged to hold a progressive eucher and smoker on Wednesday evenings at the rooms of the London Curling Club on Lyle street, commencing on Wednesday, October 26.

All bowlers and curlers are invited to come along and have a good time.

Public School Soccer League Group Winners

Play-Offs Commence Between Empress, Aberdeen, Chesley, Pottersburg, Ryerson and Lord Roberts

With the soccer districts decided but one, the second round matches in the Public School League will resume this evening after class hours.

Empress Avenue will meet Aberdeen School at Alexandra School grounds and Pottersburg and Chesley Avenue play at Rectory Street grounds.

The championship of the north district will be decided in this evening's game between Ryerson School and Lord Roberts at St. George's School grounds.

The delay in determining the latter group does not hold up the series, as the other four group winners have been drawn and scheduled and by the end of the week several teams will probably be eliminated, though each team is to meet each other.

PROGRESSING FAVORABLY.

WINGHAM, Oct. 24.—L. S. Beninger, president of the Wingham Creamery Company, is at present a patient in the Wingham Hospital, where he underwent an operation for appendicitis. He is progressing favorably.

Collegiate Plays St. Thomas Here This Afternoon

Rugby for the Boys and Soft Baseball and Basket Ball on Program at Tecumseh Park

All that is asked to-day is another b of Indian summer like yesterday f the London Collegiate and a compte sweep of victory in rugby for the bs and soft ball and basket ball for tl girls at Tecumseh Park this afternen, the occasion of their return bouts wh the St. Thomas Collegiate ratients.

The girls' matches will precede the rby match. The latter, no doubt, isthe feature event as the girls succded in winning their matches in their sourn to St. Thomas, but the boys hs this opportunity of living down tha 30-to-1 drubbing.

The locals have undergone a lot of seening since that one-sided trimmy, and will undoubtedly provide a nch stiffer brand of autumnal pasting. Even if they hold the Railrders to a narrow margin it will sfice, and Coach Taylor, prone to disbieve that his team is as inferior to tt of the St. Thomas C. I. as that fit score would indicate, hopes to sisfy himself this afternoon.

The same line-up that was used ainst the best team that Woodstock llege could muster for last Saturdy's game, will be shoving the ball er in behalf of the local Collegiate, ough it will undoubtedly prove a revelion to the Saints.

Banquets will be tendered the boys d girls, respectively, this evening at e Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., and the y ends with a theater party at the Pen".

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—The baseball activities of George Herman Ruth ceased yesterday, in consonance with Babe's promise made on the previous evening to Col. L. Huston in Scranton, Pa. The Babe grasped the extended hand of Bob Shawkey and fled into the wilds with the red-sleeved pitcher for a few days of hunting.

In the course of time Babe hopes to work his nerve up to the point of going to Chicago and telling the commissioner that he is sorry for his acts and is prepared to take his punishment.

LIBERAL LAUDS HON. MR. MEIGHEN

A Great Man, Says Mayor Wedlake, of Brantford

PROUD OF SUCH CANADIAN

Has Followed Premier's Career in Parliament

BRANTFORD, Oct. 24.—(By Staff Reporter).—Major George Wedlake, a lifelong Liberal, in tendering a civic welcome to Premier Meighen and Senator Robertson at the big meeting here to-night, paid a high tribute to the prime minister.

"They asked me what I, a lifelong Liberal, was doing welcoming a Conservative premier," said Mr. Wedlake. "It is true, I have been a lifelong Liberal, but I cannot help it, because I was born a Liberal. I think we do not appreciate as much as we ought to the service given by our public men. In days gone by I used to think a Conservative was the personification of everything dishonest and crooked, and that to be a Liberal was just the opposite. But as I grew up and got rubbing shoulders with these men I learned differently.

A GREAT MIND.

"During the session of Parliament I read with great interest the speeches of one man on public questions, and that was Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, then solicitor-general or minister of the interior, and as I saw the grasp of the mind that was giving utterance to them I said 'there is a man who will make his mark high.' While I don't count myself a great prophet, it is coming true. (Applause).

"I believe the Unionist party chose wisely and well when they chose the premier we have here to-night.

"There were mighty men at the imperial conference, headed by the great man, Lloyd George, but, Liberal as I am, I was proud of the man who represented Canada. Our premier was just an inch or two taller than the tallest. (Applause).

"I was in the home town of the premier a month ago and heard some fine reports of him. I found he was not only interested in the things of state here in Canada, but in the better things of life, which every man and woman ought to be interested in.

"Let me say this is crucial time in the history of Canada right now, and we want a captain who is filled with the best seamanship, who can stand upon the bridge and make no mistake. We want to try no experiments."

MEANS B.N.A. ACT IS REPUDIATED

If Ontario Fails to Give Separate Schools Share of Taxes

ARCHBISHOP McNEIL'S VIEW

Addresses Toronto Canadian Club on the Situation

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—Archbishop McNeil, of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Toronto, addressing the Canadian Club here to-day on "The Question of Increased Financial Support for Separate Schools," claimed that the Province of Ontario was not carrying out the British North America Act in the matter of apportioning taxes for the separate schools, whereas they were to be exempt from this by the School Act of 1863, which was part of the act of 1867.

"We are paying taxes to the public schools through the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, the Canadian National Railways and the Ontario Hydro Power Commission," said Archbishop McNeil. The C. P. R. Company and Hydro-Electric Power Commission, he said, were anxious to divide the taxes so as to give the separate schools their share thereof, but they could not because the Assessment Act made no provision for this."

He claimed that the Assessment Act should be changed so as to provide that taxes paid by Roman Catholic members of companies and corporations could go to the separate schools, not to the public schools, as at present.

CARDINAL HELPS.

"Cardinal Begin is paying taxes to public schools in Toronto," the archbishop said, and he added that many shareholders of the C. P. R. were doing the same thing.

"If Ontario really refuses to consider our claim," Archbishop McNeil said, "it means this: That Ontario decides to repudiate the British North America Act of 1867."

The archbishop said the separate schools were really public separate schools, not Roman Catholic, as they were under the regulations of the Ontario educational department and used the same textbooks as the public scholos, except the books of religious teaching. He said the separate schools were here to stay, and even if every law were torn out of the statute books they could not be abolished.

It was announced that H. C. Hocken, M. P., would, on November 8, speak on "the other side" of the question before the Canadian Club. Mr. Hocken was present nad heard the archbishop's address.

CALEDONIA, Oct. 24.—The first of home-and-home games in the O. B. A. A. intermediate finals will be played at Caledonia on Thursday, October 27, at 2 o'clock, between Picton, winners of Eastern Ontario, and the Caledonia Ebsarites, winners of Western Ontario.

Picton won the intermediate title last season and have shown great form this year, while the Caledonia nine worked their way to the finals by 16 wins and two loses, losing the two games by one run.

TORONTO ARENA ROW TO COURTS

Mayor Church Says Live Stock Association Must Pay

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The City Council to-day decided to proceed with the installation of a temporary heating plant in the new live stock arena, at a cost of about $18,000, in order to fulfill a contract with the Royal Winter Fair Association.

The association claim to have expended about $30,000 in preparing for a live stock show, which was to open in November, but were obliged to call the show off because the building was not ready. They have now announced that the show will not be held this year and that they will not pay the city a rental of $40,000 annually, which they are committed to under contract. There are rumors that the real reason for dropping the show was the lack of entries.

Mayor Church announced in Council to-day that the matter would be taken to court to force the association to live up to their contract.

HIS EYE GORED OUT

William Pelton, of Listowel, Struck By Horn of a Cow.

LISTOWEL, Oct. 24.—William Pelton, a well-known resident of this town, sustained a painful injury to-day when a cow which he was loosing from the stall knocked out his eye with her horn. Mr. Pelton was taken to the hospital at Guelph.

THREE ON TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY TO ROB

Man Who Informed Police Chief Witness Against Former Toronto Street Railway Employees

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—Charged with conspiracy to rob a substation of the Toronto Railway Company last May. Percy Hill, Clifford Currie and H. W. Head appeared before Judge Widdifield and a jury in the county court criminal sessions to-day.

The main witness for the crown was Carl Sharrow, who, according to his evidence, had been asked to take a hand in the robbery. After getting all the details he informed the police. The scheme progressed to the point where the men actually approached the building, when the police swooped down on them.

They were all employees of the Toronto Street Railway Company. The case is proceeding.

Will of Late General Manager of Imperial Bank is Probated.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—Edward Hay, former general manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada, who died in this city on July 9 last, left an estate valued at $252,519. His will, which was probated to-day, provides for legacies to a number of nieces and friends and the bulk of the estate goes to two daughters of the testator after the death of the widow, whose income from the estate during her lifetime is not to be less than $10,000 per annum.

NUXATED IRON

Over 4,000,000 People Annually Are Using Nuxated Iron. When your blood is starving for iron, no ordinary tonics or stimulants can put you right. Starving blood must have iron the same as a starving person must have food. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron and not metallic iron which people usually take. Metallic iron is iron just as it comes from the action of strong acid on small pieces of iron and is therefore entirely different from organic iron. Organic iron is like the iron in your blood and like the iron may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron. Beware of substitutes.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain —How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion. —Advt.

Science Proves the Danger of Bleeding Gums

Medical science proves that unhealthy gums cause serious ailments. People suffering from Pyorrhea (a disease of the gums) often suffer from other ills, such as rheumatism, anaemia, nervous disorders, or weakened vital organs. These ills have been traced in many cases to the Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about the teeth.

Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea. It begins with tender and bleeding gums. Then the gums recede, the teeth decay, loosen and fall out, or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs.

Guard your health and your teeth. Keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and make daily use of Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums will prevent Pyorrhea—or check its progress—if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's will keep the gums firm and healthy, the teeth white and clean.

35c and 60c tubes in Canada and U. S. If your druggist cannot supply you, send price to us direct and we will mail tube postpaid.

Notice to Water Consumers

A recent house-to-house inspection carried out by the Water Works Department resulted in the discovery that a large number of fixtures had been installed and additions made to premises without proper report of same being made by either owner or plumber, and in violation of the by-laws of the Department.

The Department has thereby been deprived of a large amount of revenue to which it is justly entitled. Consumers are requested to advise the Commission of any alteratinos or additions made which will affect the water rates.

How PEPS Banish BRONCHITIS

The MEDICINE You BREATHE Into Your LUNGS!

THE safe, modern method of treating winter coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, asthma, and other bronchial troubles is to take Peps, the medicine which is immediately effective because you breathe it in, straight to the weak spot.

When you strip off its silver-jacket and dissolve a Peps tablet in the mouth, it gives off soothing and healing vapours which mingle with the breath and are instantly carried through the throat, air passages and bronchial tubes right into the chest and lungs. These Peps medicines are speedily effective. They soothe and strengthen the tender lining membrane, they stop soreness or inflammation, clear the air-tubes, make breathing easy, and at the same time get rid of dangerous germ-trouble.

How different this direct Peps breatheable treatment—to the discarded and out-of-date practice of swallowing druggy syrups and mixtures into the stomach.

WHY SWALLOW DRUGS INTO THE STOMACH?

Strong-lunged, clear-voiced and hearty are the children whose mothers give them Peps. There's nothing so comforting and strengthening to old folks, suffering from that distressing night cough or chronic bronchial troubles.

Peps are free from all harmful drugs, and workers in a hundred industries find them indispensable for counteracting atmospheric conditions. Peps protect your throat, chest and lungs, and keep disease away.

TRY PEPS

Take Peps at the first sign of a cold or chill. Don't risk serious development. 50c. box, 3 for $1.25, all chemists and dealers, or direct from Co., Toronto. TRIAL SAMPLE on request if 2c. stamp is enclosed.

MORE HARD WORK NEED OF COUNTRY

J. T. Beggs Says Teach People to Think More

SPEAKS AT ST. THOMAS

Band Citizens Together for Good of Community

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 24.—(By Staff Reporter.)—"To those who ask why Congress does not do something to overcome business depression, my answer is, that both here in Canada and in the United States, it is not more legislation that the country needs to-day—some folks think there is too much already—but a whole lot more hard work and hard thinking in the communities which make up a nation When we get the people to thinking hard, and working hard, and doing it together instead of individually, and doing it continuously instead of spasmodically, then we are going to get somewhere faster and better."

Summing up the present situation in the business and industrial world this was the way in which James T. Begg, a member of the House of Representatives in the United States, expressed himself in the course of a stirring address at the conclusion of a Chamber of Commerce luncheon here to-night. The Engineers' auditorium, where the luncheon was held, was packed, every seat being occupied, and the remarks of the speaker were well received. The attendance of business men outclassed anything ever witnessed here.

A BUSINESS MAN.

Mr. Begg defined a business man as one who is engaged in any honest occupation, whether at a bench in a shop, behind a counter or in a counting-room, "and a good business man is one who is doing the best he knows how at his business."

"But good business does not always mean a good community," he said. "I can take you to cities where business is fine, never better; but you and I would not live in one of them. If St. Thomas is the best city in Canada, or even in Ontario, you and your neighbors are to be praised for that fact, for you made it so. If St. Thomas is the worst town you and the other citizens are to blame. You cannot evade that fact, for any community is just what its citizens make it."

He told his hearers that in setting out to create a Chamber of Commerce they were engaged in the biggest piece of constructive work they had undertaken in the history of the city.

One of the illustrations he used was his home City of Sandusky, Ohio. Though he said he did not admit for a minute that the chief function of a Chamber of Commerce is to make a town grow, he did recall that in 40 years the population of Sandusky increased exactly 315. Three years ago it rebuilt its Chamber of Commerce with about 1,000 members. To-day the city has grown by about 5,000 and the membership of the chamber is more than 1,600.

WHAT IS C. OF C.?

"What is a Chamber of Commerce?" asked the speaker. "Well, the old idea was a bunch of good fellows, who chipped in a few hundred dollars, and then went out and grabbed a factory or two, and so added a lot to the population. Why, if it were possible for me to add 10 per cent. to your population to-night that would not solve your civic problems. Your own common sense tells you it would only increase your problems; in some respects it would make them four times as acute.

"A Chamber of Commerce is an association of the citizens, representing every element in the community, banded together to think and work for the good of the whole.

"There is no magic in it. These men who are here assisting in your Chamber of Commerce movement cannot wave their hands and produce instantly some magical result. You, the citizens of St. Thomas, have got to think and work; and above all you must do that thinking and working unitedly.

"Somebody will say 'I am too busy.' Someone else will ask how long he must work. Now, the man who thinks he is too busy to think and work for the good of the community he lives in forgets that if everyone else had been in the same frame of mind St. Thomas would be a mighty poor place to live in, instead of being one of the best, as I know it is; and the man who wants to know how long he must work should be told right now there is no limit of time; the job of building a community is never finished."

THREE REASONS GIVEN.

Mr. Begg said there were three reasons, among a lot of others, why every citizen should get behind the movement to make St. Thomas such that he could have faith in it as "the best city on earth."

"The first reason is that if you do not think that way and continue to live here you are liable to raise a family that will think as you do, and one of you is enough. The second reason is that if you do not do your best to make St. Thomas the best city on earth you cannot look your sons and daughters in the eye and say honestly that you are doing the best you can for them. The third reason is that if you are not a loyal, proud citizen of your home town you are probably lacking in loyalty to your country, for the truest patriotism in the world begins right at home in the community you live in."

In closing Mr. Begg said that anything which resists change is dying; a thing which does not change is dead, but a thing which is changing is alive; the only question is whether it is changing for the better.

GALT DECIDES TO FOLLOW RAILWAY BOARD'S ORDER

GALT, Oct. 24.—With the order of the Ontario Railway Board, following its decision as to the paving of East Main street, received this afternoon, a special meeting of the City Council was held this evening and, with a majority in favor, it was decided to proceed with the paving of the street from Spruce to Elgin streets.

The order provides that property owners pay 75 per cent. of the cost and the city 25 per cent., and while the policy has been to assess properties for the full cost on other streets the majority of aldermen felt they should abide by the board's decision.

From Elgin street to the new provincial highway there is a short strip of road with property on one side in the city and on the other in the township. The Council is in favor of paving its portion and will ask the suburban roads commission to do the other half.

TWO TO OPPOSE PREMIER.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24. — Premier Meighen is to have two opponents in Portage La Prairie constituency, where he is seeking re-election to Parliament. Harry Leader is in the field as the Progressive candidate, and it is reported that the Liberals have decided to contest the seat and that they will call a nominating convention at once.

NOMINATIONS.

St. Denis division, Montreal—Dr. Arthur Denis, Liberal.

Joliette County, Quebec—J. J. Denis, Liberal.

LAUGHNAN NOMINATED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—D. Laughnan former editor of The Veteran, was last night chosen as Progressive candidate for Ottawa in the general elections.

INTEREST REVIVED.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 24.—The announcement of the date for the North Oxford provincial by-election on December 7 has aroused interest in the contest, which has been sidetracked by federal election activity. D. M. Ross, U. F. O., and W. W. Day, Liberal, to-day declared they were ready for the battle. A third candidate is likely to be in the field before the week is out, as the Labor interests intend holding a mass meeting, when the question of bringing out a candidate will be finally dealt with.

The Conservatives have as yet as an association taken no definite action, but some time ago Homer Neeley, a local lawyer, announced that in case the Conservative Association took no action he would run as an Independent Conservative candidate.

The local voters' lists are about ready and show that at the coming elections here over 6,000 voters will be eligible. This is a high percentage, as the assesors' figures show that the total population is 10,164.

INDEPENDENT IN N. ESSEX.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 24.—J. Raoul Jasmin was nominated at a convention held at Tecumseh to contest the riding of North Essex on the Independent Conservative-Labor ticket.

Officials of the Liberal-Conservative executive of North Essex have set next Saturday as the date for the regular convention. They describe the Jasmin meeting at Tecumseh as a clandestine affair, which has nothing to do with the party, and will repudiate Jasmin's candidature unless he comes before the regular convention and seeks his endorsation along with the others nominees.

There were some 40 or 50 people present at the hall in Tecumseh where the Jasmin convention met. Mr. Jasmin's name was the only one placed in nomination. Addresses were in French. The candidate said he subscribed to the policy of protection as advocated by the Meighen administration.

KENT N.L.C. TO MEET.

CHATHAM, Oct. 24.—The call went out to-day for a convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party of Kent, to be held in the I. O. O. F. auditorium on Saturday afternoon for the purpose of electing officers for the year and nominating a candidate to represent the party in the coming federal appeal.

Several names have been mentioned as possible contenders for the position of candidate, but the executive is leaving it entirely with the convention to make the choice of a suitable man. The ladies are being invited to the meeting and will be made welcome. If the Government supporters place a man in the field it will mean a three-cornered fight, as A. B. McCoig has already been nominated as an Independent Liberal and D. R. McDiarmid, of Ridgetown, has been placed in the field by the farmers as a candidate. Hon. Hugh Guthrie will be one of hte chief speakers at the convention on Saturday.

DELEGATES APPOINTED.

THORNDALE, Oct. 24.—A meeting of the Conservative electors of West Nissouri Township was held on Saturday evening, and delegates were appointed to attend the convention which will be held in London on Saturday.

LIBERAL RETIRES

LINDSAY, Oct. 24.—James Begg, recently elected standard bearer for the Liberal party in the coming election for Victoria County, has withdrawn from the field. This leaves two candidates, namely, T. H. Stinson, representing the National Liberal and Conservative party, and J. J. Thurston, representing the U. F. O.

MR. TELFORD ACCEPTS.

OWEN SOUND, Oct. 24.—At the Liberal convention, adjourned from the one held in Meaford on October 12, which was held in the city hall here this afternoon, Wm. P. Telford Jr., announced that he would accept the candidature offered him in Meaford. North Grey is now assured of a three-cornered fight, with the U.F.O.-I.L.P. and the Government candidate already in the field.

DR. MANION NOMINATED.

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 24.—The convention to-day which nominated Hon. Dr. Manion as candidate for Fort William and Rainy River in the Government interests, lasted only three-quarters of an hour. About 150 delegates were present.

SOUTH OXFORD FARMERS.

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 24.—The South Oxford U. F. convention to nominate a candidate for the coming federal election will be held in Mount Elgin on Tuesday afternoon, and the result will mean the opening of a most spirited campaign in the riding. For two years Mr. J. R. Johnson, warden of Oxford County, and well known in county affairs for the past 20 years, had been the only name suggested, but his absolute refusal a couple of weeks ago to accept the nomination with a recall attached has upset the plans of the U. F. executive, and three names will go before the convention on Tuesday afternoon: W. E. Lambden, of Delmer, president of the Delmer Co-operative Club; M. E. Haley, well-known cattle raiser, of Springford, and B. Neale, with Mr. Haley favored to win the convention. Preparations are already made to bring Premier Drury and several prominent leaders into the riding, but it is just a question whether the breach can be healed by fine oratory or not, as the farmers are more inclined to follow the most able man in the field rather than any set policy.

CAYUGA, Oct. 24.—(Special to The Free Press.)—At the National Liberal and Conservative party convention, held in the courthouse to-day, Mark Sonn, of Oneida Township, was unanimously chosen standard bearer for Haldimand County in the federal election. A telegram was read from F. R. Lalor, M. P. for Haldimand, positively declining nomination owing to ill-health. Eight were nominated, but all withdrew in favor of Mr. Sonn.

Donald Sutherland, M. P. for South Oxford, spoke at length, reviewing the record of the Meighen Government.

Officers elected were: President, H. T. J. Gardiner; first vice-president, Dr. Jaques; second vice-president, Mrs. R. Berry; third vice-president, Mrs. Chas. Reichheld; secretary-treasurer, W. J. Robb.

UNIFORM full power and mileage, better engine performance and unusual fuel economy distinguish Imperial Premier Gasoline from the ordinary blended product which is usually sold as high-gravity gasoline.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: Foreign oils, especially the Mexican group, were buoyant at the opening of to-day's stock market. Mexican Petroleum, as a result of its semi-annual statement of earnings, made an early gain of five-quarter points. Initial dealings in that stock included one lot of 3,000 shares at 106¼ to 108, against yesterday's final price of 103½. Pan-American Petroleum, General Asphalt and Houston Oil were 1 and 1½ up. Rails made indifferent response to latest developments in the labor situation, although coalers showed decided firmness. The usual industrials registered only nominal changes. Exchange on London was at its highest quotation in six months and the German mark strengthened.

MONTREAL STOCKS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—The local stock exchange has seldom experienced such strength as was in evidence during the first half hour this morning, during which time some outstanding advances were recorded. National Breweries also closed fractionally weaker at 57. Riordon was traded in slightly at 6, a point below its yesterday's closing. Spanish River was the feature this morning in strength, and closed a point higher at 68.

TRIBUTE PAID TO LATE LADY BECK

Mrs. Harry Carpenter, of Hamilton, addressing the mass meeting in the Masonic Temple last night, paid a tribute to the late Lady Beck.

"To you women of London who have sustained such a loss in the death of Lady Beck, I extend my sincere sympathy," said Mrs. Carpenter. "While in war work I came in contact with her frequently and I know that London and Ontario have suffered a severe loss in her death. Nowhere will her loss be more keenly felt than in London, where she is so well known and where she was engaged in so many public activities in the welfare of the people."

GIVE FULL SUPPORT TO WESTERN "U" GRANTS

The Western University by-law authorizing a civic grant of $250,000 toward the university's building campaign will receive the complete support of the Chamber of Commerce. This was decided at the directors' meeting to-day, when it was agreed that the members of the chamber shall be given an opportunity of voting on it. The chamber had previously decided not to press the Springbank dam by-law this year so the Western University will be the only money bill to go before the electors.

C. OF C. TO ELECT SEVEN

Arrangements for the election of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce were completed at to-day's directors' meeting, when an election committee was appointed with W. C. Benson as chairman. Nominating ballots will be received up to Friday at 6 p.m., while the final election ballots must be in at the same hour on the following Thursday. The directors to retire this year are John M. Moore, first vice-president; T. W. McFarland, second vice-president; E. R. Dennis, Robert Green, Major Ingram, A. T. Little and Jared Vining.

TO STOP NET FISHING.—The fish and game department of the Ontario Government is to be requested to discontinue the issuance of net fishing licenses in the Thames River. The Western Ontario Forest, Fish and Game Protection Association has already passed a resolution to this effect and to-day the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, at their weekly meeting, approved of it and agreed to co-operate in every way possible. It was felt that the permission for net fishing was in the nature of a war-time measure and now can well be withdrawn.

DR. BRITTAIN TO SPEAK.—The members of London's governing bodies are to have an opportunity to learn the latest wrinkles in municipal finance from the lips of an expert. The Chamber of Commerce has decided to call a meeting for members of civic governing bodies, including the Council, commissions and school board, at which Dr. Horace Brittain, of the Citizens' Research Institute, will discuss the problems of municipal financing. The date for the meeting has not yet been set.

MEET AT BRANTFORD. — The United Exporters of Western Ontario will meet in Brantford on Friday evening, this meeting being under the auspices of the Brantford Chamber of Commerce. Among the speakers will be F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister of trade and commerce; J. A. Morris, foreign freight agent of the C. P. R.; Lloyd Harris, G. W. Scott, of the Cockshutt Plow Company, a representative of the exporting department of the Massey-Harris Company, and Mayor Wadlake, of Brantford.

NOTEDS PASS THROUGH. — A. Price, Montreal, general manager of the C. P. R.; Col. George Ham, H. C. Grout, Toronto, superintendent of the Ontario division, passed through the city at 11.15 to-day on their way to Detroit. Robert McKillop, superintendent of the London division of the road, met the other officials here and joined the party.

LOSES LIFE IN FIRE TRYING TO SAVE MONEY

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—Leon Diott, grocer, 183 Bridge street, Hull, was burned to death early this morning, when he entered his burning store in a vain attempt to save some money. His widow and three children, who escaped from the fire, survive.

CANTEEN FUNDS FOR AGED VETS

Recommendation of Local A. & N. V. To Dominion Government.

$2,000,000 IS AVAILABLE

Will Probably Follow Lead of G. W. V. A. For Unification.

If a recommendation passed by the local command of the Army and Navy Veterans is adopted by the provincial convention of the association in Toronto this week the $2,000,000 canteen funds will be placed at the disposal of those veterans who by reason of old age infirmities are unable to support themselves. Two delegates, Major T. J. Murphy and John Rawlings, are representing the London branch at the meeting, which opened to-day and are confident that their resolution will be viewed with favor. The text of it follows:

"In view of the fact that provision is made in some manner, more or less adequate, for veterans suffering from different degrees of disabilities, as a result of their service in the recent war, and in view of the fact that the dependents of veterans are in like manner provided for; and believing that the problem of unemployment is one which should not be alleviated by the use of such monies as the canteen fund, as it is our conviction that this matter is one entirely for the Governments and communities to handle;

"Be it therefore resolved, that it be recommended to the Government canteen fund committee and the Federal Government that the canteen monies be made a trust fund, and that this fund be expended as necessity arises for the assistance of veterans of the recent war, who have become incapacitated in earning power through the infirmities of age."

With regard to the question of amalgamation it is probable that the A. and N. V. will follow the lead of the G. W. V. A. by accepting membership in the British Empire Service League. Sergt. Glennie is of the opinion that a Dominion headquarters of this league will be formed that will be able to have the full support of veterans throughout Canada in approaching the Government at Ottawa. Absolute unification throughout every town and city was practically impossible, he said, but there would at least be unity for the purpose of making ex-service men a political power.

Catholic

Beck was a wonderful leader and organizer, and none of her co-workers could ever say that she asked them to do work she would not undertake herself. In all the Catholic works of charity she was a keen sympathizer and a generous contributor. She needs no monument to keep her alive in the hearts of the citizens of London, but I would ask our resolutions committee to prepare a resolution expressive of our deep sympathy with Sir Adam Beck and Miss Marion Beck."

EXTEND WELCOME.

Greetings were extended to the league delegates this afternoon by Dr. Best, president of the Holy Name Society; Grand Knight Ed. Killingsworth, of the Knights of Columbus; Walter Costello, president of the Catholic Club; Mrs. Frank Foristal, regent of the Senator Coffey Chapter, I. O. D. E., and Miss Kate O'Flaherty, president of the Altar Society.

Rt. Rev. Mgr. McKeon read the opening prayers, and the afternoon program included an address on child welfare from Miss Mary Power, of the provincial health department, and reports from the diocesan and subdivisions of the league.

Following the registration of delegates this morning a luncheon was arranged at the Tecumseh by the London subdivision, when brief addresses were given by Miss Guerin, of Montreal, president of the Dominion League; Mrs. W. H. Lovering, of Hamilton, Dominion treasurer; Mrs. Kentleton, of Toronto, and other Dominion officers.

The presidents or representatives of the Local Council of Women, I. O. D. E., Women's Canadian Club, Red Cross, Sanatorium Aid Society and Council of Girl Guides were special guests at the luncheon.

This evening His Lordship Bishop Fallon will address the delegates at St. Peter's Parish Hall, and the evening will conclude with a reception arranged by the London subdivision in honor of the visiting delegates.

Election of officers and five councillors for the diocesan executive, reports and an address by Brother Barnabas, of the Catholic charities, will be features of to-morrow's meeting, which will include a second luncheon and a motor drive through the city.

MISSIONARY DAY IN AILSA CRAIG CHURCHES

AILSA CRAIG, Oct. 25.—Sunday was missionary day throughout the different churches in town. Mrs. (Rev.) W. R. McIntosh, of London, took charge of the evening services in the Presbyterian church and delivered a splendid address on home missions, the service being well attended. During the evening the choir sang "So Send I You." Liberal offerings in aid of the work were received.

M. L. Clatworthy has sold his coal and lumber business to the Farmers' Club here. Mr. Clatworthy, who has been in the automobile business as well, intends going into this business more extensively after a trip to England, for which place he leaves shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hotson, of Regina, are visiting relatives in town.

The U. F. O. warehouse received a car of potatoes to-day, which they are selling for $1.50 per bag.

Mr. Harold Abbott, of Edmonton, Alberta, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. McDonald. He will be accompanied home by his son, Roy, who has spent the summer here.

Seven cars of cattle were shipped from here on Saturday to Liverpool. McArthur Bros., McDonald Bros. and Mr. Doyle were the principal shippers.

Mr. J. and A. M. Stewart, Mr. Ranney and Mr. Richardson left on Saturday for a hunting trip north of Grant.

PLEASED WITH ATTENDANCE—Officials of the citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women are quite pleased with the success of the first meeting held under their auspices last night for the study of issues in the federal campaign. While it is true that the attendance at the Masonic Temple to hear the questions discussed by the Liberal candidate, C. R. Somerville, and Mrs. Harry Carpenter was not as large as it might have been, it is pointed out tht this is the first attempt that has been made by the women to take any large part in a political campaign as electors. In addition to this there were many counter attractions last night that drew many of the women who would otherwise have been in attendance.

SOLD FRIEND'S PRIVATE STOCK

Victim Has No Redress Against Men Whom He Trusted.

NO BOOZE AND NO MONEY

Having No Home He Left Hootch With a "Friend."

Somewhere in London a man is sitting in sackcloth and ashes, mourning. He has not known the joys of wedded life and that is the cause of all his sorrow. Not because he had no wife to share his sorrows and his joys, but rather because he had no little cabin that he could call home. His existence was spent in boarding houses.

Now, a boarding house, no matter how good it may be, is not a home when it comes to laying in a stock of gloom chaser. This single young man regretted this fact considerably, but he thought of a way out. He would lay in a good stock and store it in the home of a friend. At least, he thought this person was a friend. Accordingly, three cases of perfectly good "hootch" were legally purchased and delivered to the address of his friend. Whether this latter was illegal or not he does not know.

Alas for the insecure friendships. When the owner of the "booze", with a thirst that would not be quenched by water, visited his friend recently to take a drink he found there was nothing left.

"Where is the joy-water?" he inquired of his friend.

"I sold it," was the astonishing reply.

"Then where is the money; hand it over?"

"I have no money for you," is the only answer his friend would give.

Now he is in a quandary. He is not sure whether he could take the case to the courts without becoming involved in an illegal liquor transaction himself. He sorely feels the loss of his "booze" and his money, but he fears to lay a charge of bootlegging because of the consequences to himself.

CHARLES AWAITS HIS ST. HELENA

Only Remains To Find Good Strong "Refuge" For Him.

ALLIES IN A QUANDARY

Exile Regarded As Too Good For Ex-Monarch.

SELECTING A RETREAT.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Former Emperor Charles' attempt to regain the Magyar throne may result in his internment either on Ascencion Island or on one of the Canary Islands, according to diplomatic circles here to-day, where it was stated that these possibilities might be considered by the allied supreme council. The general belief was expressed that he would be removed to a "safe place" outside of Europe.

PARIS, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — The allied policy for the future treatment of ex-Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary has been decided only as to one point—that he must be put in a position where he will be absolutely unable again to disturb the tranquility of Europe, it was declared in French official quarters to-day. His internment in Hungary is accepted by the allies only as a temporary necessity.

The council of ambassadors, which will be charged with the question of dealing with the ex-emperor, will probably at its next meeting take up the problem of providing him with a secure home.

Little fear of a third attempt by Charles to regain the Hungarian throne is entertained here, but it is pointed out that as long as the ex-emperor is not definitely eliminated from the situation his return may be agitated for by political parties and lead to intrigues.

The exile of Charles to a remote island, which has been suggested, is provoking objections based on the idea that it would exaggerate the importance of his case and admit comparisons between him and the exiled Napoleon I.

A FARM IN THE WEST. TO OWN A farm home is the desire and ambition of most people. It is easier to get a farm home in the Prairie Provinces of Canada because fertile farm lands, suitable for grain growing, dairying or stock raising can be bought at prices averaging $18 an acre, and on terms of payment spread over twenty years, with lighter payments at the beginning, so as to enable farmers with moderate capital to get a good start. Able to Wield Too Much Influence Just Now

SPEAKS AT TORONTO

Mr. Meighen Addresses Luncheon of Brotherhood Federation

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—(Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—"This is a time when he who is able to reach the multitude by smooth phrases and promises the elimination of taxes and hard work wields altogether too much influence," Premier Meighen told a gathering of Toronto citizens at luncheon to-day.

The occasion was a complimentary luncheon given by the Toronto Brotherhood Federation for Community Service to Col. George T. Denison, ex-magistrate of the city; Dr. James L. Hughes, a prominent educationist, and Dr. C. J. Hastings, medical health officer. Col. Denison was unfortunately compelled to be absent on account of ill-health, but an address appreciative of his services to the community will be presented to him. J. O. McCarthy, president of the Toronto federation, presided at the luncheon. The first speaker was William Ward, of London, England, president of the United Brotherhood Federation.

Mr. Ward emphasized the fact that the movement was nonsectarian and nonpolitical. Premier Meighen said that it was a pleasure to "leave the smoke and noise of conflict" for awhile to attend a gathering which was nonpolitical. He caused some amusement by remarking that "after he had served for a few more decades as prime minister and Mr. Church, sitting at his left, had served for a few more decades as mayor, they might look forward to recognition such as is being accorded to these distinguished men."

He paid a tribute to the services of the guests of honor who had won the esteem and regard of the community and country in which they lived.

THRESHING IS ABOUT COMPLETED IN WEST.

Only in Saskatchewan Is There Much to Be Done, Says C. P. R. Bulletin.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—With the exception of Saskatchewan, threshing has practically been completed in Western Canada, states the weekly crop review of the C. P. R., issued here.

"The drop in the price of wheat is causing keen disappointment to farmers," states the report, "and whenever financially able they are holding their grain until better prices prevail."

The live stock situation is unchanged, with prices offered unattractive, and farmers showing no desire to sell under present conditions.

SHOULD APPRECIATE WORK OF HYDRO KNIGHT

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 24.—(By Staff Reporter.)—With a visit to this city to-day of F. H. Alfred, general manager of the Pere Marquette Railway, the old story concerning electrification of the road has been revived here. Mr. Alfred, however, states that, while the electrification of all steam roads is bound to come eventually, there is nothing in the immediate future to indicate its adoption as far as the P. M. is concerned. He laughed rather heartily at the continual publication of electrification stories locally.

The president said that Sir Adam Beck is performing a great service for Canada and every Canadian should appreciate the fact that Sir Adam is a wonderful man.

The first offender to drive a truck without a mirror was fined $1 and costs in the city court to-day.

The Canadian National Railway train was on the siding at the Grand Trunk yards to-day and attracted hundreds of citizens.

BURGLARS ACTIVE IN STRATHROY STORES

Nocturnal Attempts To Loot Grocery and Clothing Establishments.

STRATHROY, Oct. 24—(Special to The Free Press.) — The grocery store of Herbert C. Jay was robbed of a quantity of groceries and an attempt was made to rob the clothing store of A. P. Malone, Front street, here, some time on Sunday night or early morning.

Entrance was gained to the corner grocery of Mr. Jay by breaking a pane of glass in the front door of the store. A considerable quantity of groceries was taken and every drawer in the establishment was ransacked by the thief or thieves. The only money in the store was about 100 coppers in a paper bag, which was disdained by the thieves.

A hole was bored through the door beside the lock at the Malone store and a second one had been started when the men were evidently frightened away. A small round file was left in the doorway in the hurried departure.

Chief of Police A. E. Wilson is working on the cases.

WINDSOR MAGISTRATE ADDS TO LIVING COSTS

WINDSOR, Oct. 24. — It costs a small pocketful of money to be ordered to pay court costs in a case in Windsor police court. Individuals who are unfortunate enough to be brought before Judge Gundy, convicted of an offense where there is an alternative of a money fine, must now hand over an extra $8.50. Until a short time ago the court costs totaled $7.50.

Drunks are fined the usual $10 and costs. One wiry individual who paid the fine to-day objected to the large court costs on the ground that he could get better accommodation at the Hotel Statler, Detroit, for the amount it was costing him to stop in a cell.

KENT COUNTY BOYS IN STOCK JUDGING CONTEST

TORONTO, Oct. 24. — Competition, staged for the first time this year through co-operation between the Dominion and provincial departments of agriculture, will be wound up at the Union stockyards to-morrow, when three carloads of hogs raised by farmer boys of Victoria and Kent counties will be judged.

The competition was open to teams of ten boys between 12 and 18 years of age, who were required to enter a carload of at least 40 hogs. Two teams from the vicinity of Oakwood, in Victoria, and one from around Eberis, in Kent County, are entered. The winning team will get a prize of $45, the second $40 and the third $30.

Next year the competition will be widened to take in teams from most of the counties of the province.

DRESDEN FLOUR MILL IS TO BE REBUILT

Lawrence & Wakefield Plan to Build Steel and Concrete Structure; Details Being Arranged.

DRESDEN, Oct. 24.—Up from the ashes and ruins of the Dresden Flour Milling Company's mill, which was destroyed a week ago, will rise a new and better mill. The enterprising firm of Lawrence & Wakefield are making plans for rebuilding and as soon as things can be squared away work will be begun on a new structure. The insurance on the burned structure has been adjusted. The farmers have been drawing away the charred, damp wheat for feed, some of which escaped being totally consumed, and the debris is being cleared away. The firm is considering in its plans for the new building a steel and concrete structure. The decision to rebuild means much for the town and county.

The first mile of the new pavement being built from the town limits to the second concession of Camden Township was opened for traffic on Saturday evening. It is expected that the second mile will be completed this week.

Rev. John Holmes, of London, a former pastor of the Methodist church, will preach anniversary services here on Sunday, October 30.

BRITAIN WOULD SUPPORT U. S.

Lord Northcliffe Expresses Opinion to Japs

LONDON, Oct. 24.—In the event of a clash at arms on the Pacific or elsewhere, involving the United States, Great Britain without question would support the United States, according to the personal opinion voiced by Lord Northcliffe in an interview on Saturday with Japanese newspaper men, who came to Manila from Japan for the purpose of talking with him, says a dispatch to The London Times, from Manila.

Replying to the direct questions, Lord Northcliffe declared it was his belief that should such a clash occur the whole family of British nations would stand beside the United States, just as the United States people had stood beside the British in the still smouldering conflagration of Europe. Lord Northcliffe added that it seemed inconceivable that any contingency might arise seriously to menace the "invisible but impregnaable bonds that make the English-speaking peoples one in the ultimate and supreme issues of humanity."

With reference to the renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, Lord Northcliffe said he believed he knew the general sentiment of the British people, but that he was not ready to make any definite statement at present. He suggested that the Japanese newspaper men should advise their representatives to take up this question with the Japanese delegates to the Washington conference.

WINDSOR COUNCIL AGREES TO DEBENTURES FOR TECH.

WINDSOR, Oct. 24.—By a unanimous vote to-night the City Council passed a by-law authorizing a debenture issue for $666,000 covering the amount to be contributed both by Windsor and the Provincial Government towards the cost of a technical school for Windsor and Walkerville. Tha estimated cost of the school is $800,000, including $50,000 for loss on the sale of debentures.

The Province will pay half this amount and Walkerville's share will be approximately $60,000.

W. A. BUCHANAN HAS RETIRED FROM CONTEST

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., Oct. 24.—W. A. Buchanan, former M. P. for this constituency, who a couple of weeks ago announced his candidature as an Independent Liberal, to-day announced his withdrawal from the campaign. Mr. Buchanan states that the issue of irrigation development which prompted his entry into the campaign has become beclouded with political issues and class considerations, and he therefore reverts to his previous decision to retire from public life at the end of his term.

BENJAMIN H. KAUFFMAN, Reading, Pa.

"There's no doubt in my mind that Tanlac saved my wife's life," was the positive statement of Benjamin H. Kauffman, 505 Bingaman street, Reading, Pa., popular clothing salesman for the well-known firm of Croll & Keck. "I was almost desperate from worrying over her condition, as she had suffered so long without getting relief and I can hardly believe my own eyes now when I see the change in her. Why, she doesn't show her age by twenty years and declares she never remembers feeling better in her life. Her health was failing steadily for a year as a result of catarrh of the stomach, and I have never seen anybody suffer as much from indigestion and nervousness as she did.

"After a five weeks' course of Tanlac she was like another person, and I'm firmly convinced that years have been added to her life. It makes me shudder now when I think what the result might have been if she hadn't taken Tanlac in time."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drugs, Ltd., and by Liggett's Drug Stores, and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

Arrangements have been made by which Mr. Hawkes will write in The Farmers' Sun, commencing with Saturday's issue. He will also take the stump and speak at a number of places throughout the province on behalf of the agrarian, or progressive movement."

IDENTIFIED AS ONE OF CAMERON FALLS BANDITS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 24.—John Back, held by the city police on several charges, has been identified by James Faulkner, of Cameron Falls, Ont., as one of the five bandits who, on May 21, 1921, were unsuccessful in a $35,000 pay roll robbery at Cameron Falls, according to information given out by the local police department to-day.

BURGLARS IN WINDSOR HAD STRANGE FANCIES

All Right To Steal Liquor, But Why the Violin?

WINDSOR, Oct. 24—Goods valued at $1,367, including 11 cases of whisky and a violin worth $700, were taken in robberies and theft occurrences reported to Windsor police over the week-end.

The stolen violin was owned by Albert Tilley, 218 Victoria avenue. Police stated that the instrument was taken from an automobile which was parked in front of a garage on Sunday morning.

Five cases of whisky, worth $200, were stolen from the residence occupied by Max Meyer, while liquor thieves also took six cases and women's wearing apparel, valued at $115, from the home of Thomas Pilling.

Police are hunting for Lillie Lauzon, employed by Thomas Farraugh, 1449 Jamieson avenue, as a domestic. Farraugh told the police that the girl left the house, taking with her $35 in cash and six and a half cases of whisky which did not belong to her. They believe that she sold the liquor to a bootlegger.

Burglars were unsuccessful in an attempt to enter the Lehan Furniture Company, Sandwich street, early this morning.

BOILING HOT City Water From The Tap
HYDRO PROVIDES CONTINUOUS SERVICE AT LOW COST

Every housewife knows that one of the most appreciable conveniences a home can have is piping hot water, always on draught in generous quantities, for the bath, the kitchen or the laundry.

It takes hot water to do it right, but hot water procured by the old-fashioned teakettle method is as unsatisfactory as lugging water from the garden pump. The cost of the automatic gas heater as an alternative frightens hundreds off.

Hydro has solved the problem. By one of the greatest advances in the progress of every-day home electricity the Public Utilities Commission has arranged to heat water for you, through the Hydro department, as unfailingly as the same commission serves you with cold water through the waterworks department.

An electric water heater is far more compact than any you have ever known. It is absolutely dependable, and by a new rate just approved by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, the cost is brought within the reach of the average London home.

Installation involves comparatively little piping or wiring to connect to your hot water tank. The electricity to operate your heater may be taken through the meter, or, if you prefer, on a monthly flat-rate basis, direct off the power wires.

Send to the Hydro Shop now, or phone 7000, and a Hydro specialist will give you exact information on your own needs FREE.

Heaters are now being installed in many London homes. Keep abreast of the times. Get the most out of life. Act now.

ALWAYS HOT—NIGHT AND DAY, SUMMER OR WINTER.

SWOOP ON THE JAIL ONLY PRELIMINARY, SAYS 'DRY' OFFICIAL

Sunday's Raid Meant To Be First of Clean-Up Series In City, He Claims.

INVESTIGATION DUE TO LOCAL ENTERPRISE

More To Follow, Although Outcome of the Initial Effort Is Taken As "Bungle."

Sunday's raid on the Middlesex jail was meant to be the first step of a clean-up of public buildings in this city. A prominent local prohibitionist is authority for the statement that there will be further developments "of a sensational nature" arising out of the visit by provincial license officers to the county building.

"The revelations which have been made are not a patch on what they would have been had the inquiry been properly conducted," he informed The Free Press to-day. "The whole thing was bungled from start to finish, else there would have been greater disclosures made by those whose duty it is to see that the Ontario Temperance Act is enforced.

"It is true that the authorities here acted on a request which came from Toronto, but they were not instructed to conduct the investigation so openly. If two private detectives with some experience had been responsible for the probe then there would probably have been a real 'coup,' not only at the jail, but elsewhere in the city."

MORE TO FOLLOW.

It is understood that it is largely due to the instrumentality and enterprise of the local temperance forces that the county jail was raided. That institution, however, is regarded as but one of the many public buildings in which, it is alleged, that there are flagrant violations of the Ontario Temperance Act. Searches in these places may yet be conducted although the prohibitionists have been given a set-back in their initial venture.

A big coup which would involve many transgressors of the law who hold public positions was anticipated by one of the "dry" leaders. Whether or not their hopes have been shattered and their plans queered by the initial faux pas remains to be seen.

WHEEL TRACKS GAVE THE CLUE

Warrants Likely To Issue In Dorchester Robbery Case.

County Constables Fifield and Shaver did some real sleuthing in the vicinity of Dorcester on Monday, and in consequence of their work warrants are likely to be issued for a resident of that locality on a charge of theft.

The complainant in the case is R. A. Hampton, a farmer, living some two miles east of Dorchester. Hampton's farm is situated between the river and the Hamilton road and the complaint he has made to the county authorities is that a set of double harness, two collars, five automobile tires and two automobile chains, the whole valued at $200, were stolen from his barn and garage. The robbery occurred on Saturday night or early Sunday morning. It was discovered that a horse-drawn conveyance had turned in from the road to the Hampton farm, but instead of taking the customary path the drivers had cut a barbed wire fence and turned the vehicle across the farm. The harness and collars were stolen first, then the automobile was jacked up and the thieves leisurely proceeded to strip it of its tires and chains, making good their escape.

On Sunday morning Mr. Hampton discovered his loss and Constables Fifield and Shaver went on the job. They trailed the tracks of the horse and wagon to a neighboring barn and obtained a search warrant, but were unable to find any of the stolen articles. A subsequent search of the house and other buildings was equally fruitless, but it is understood that from later information received the officers are about ready to make arrests.

CREW QUITS WRECK, BUT CAPTAIN AND MATE STICK

CHATHAM, Mass., Oct. 26.—The schooner, Henry F. Kreger, a four-master, out of Walton, N. S., was wrecked on Pollock Rips shoals to-day and abandoned by her crew. The six men were missing several hours later. Captain Joyce and his mate were taken off by the coast guards. The schooner was bound for New York.

When the Kreger began to break up the crew became alarmed and talked of quitting the ship. Captain Joyce was able to calm them for a time, but when they felt her bottom giving way they would not be denied. A boat was broken out on the leeward side, lowered, with a hasty tossing in of biscuits and water, and the men began to pile in. Captain Joyce urged the men to reconsider, saying they could not know where they would end up, but his arguments were ended by a big sea which washed the boat away from the schooner.

Canal Traffic Is Blocked By Gale On Erie

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 26.—For 24 hours all downbound traffic on the Welland Canal has been completely tied up because of a prevailing east wind on Lake Erie which has lowered the water in the canal to such an extent that boats with cargoes are unable to float over the sill at lock No. 2. The steamer Brantford is hard aground at the Allenburg guardlock and is leaking.

STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES IN HOSPITAL

James Quinn, Waterloo street, Victim of Accident.

CAR DRIVEN BY C. E. MARLEY

Collar Bones and Three Ribs Were Fractured.

James Quinn, aged 60 years, of 596 Waterloo street, died in Victoria Hospital shortly before 9 o'clock this morning as the result of injuries received about 8.30 on Tuesday evening when he was knocked down near the corner of Central avenue and Waterloo street by an auto driven by Charles E. Marley, 915 Maitland street.

It is said that Mr. Quinn was proceeding from the west side of Waterloo to the east side, when he was struck by the auto, which was proceeding north on Waterloo.

Pedestrians who were near by ran to Mr. Quinn and found him in an unconscious condition. Dr. U. E. Bateson was called and he had the injured man removed to Victoria Hospital, where it was found that he suffered two severe cuts to the head, both collar bones fractured, a broken nose and three broken ribs. After he reached the hospital he regained consciousness, but suffered severely from shock, and passed away as stated.

A jury was impanelled this morning in the undertaking parlors of E. C. Killingsworth, on Burwell street, where they viewed the remains of the deceased. It was decided to hold an inquest next Wednesday night, in the police station, at 8 o'clock.

MAKE DECISION FRIDAY NIGHT

Labor Men To Decide On Federal Action.

Labor men of London will definitely decide on Friday evening whether or not a Labor candidate will be placed in the field to contest for a seat in the Federal House. The largest trade unions of London are meeting this week to elect their delegates to represent them at the convention to be held in the Labor Temple on Friday.

According to the labor men who are handling the situation, the platform of the Canadian Labor party will be discussed and if the platform of the Labor party is adopted by the delegates a candidate will be named, but if the platform is not adopted the labor men will support either the National Liberal and Conservative candidate or the Liberal choice.

Every trade union in London will be granted permission to have a representative at the convention and delegates will be allotted according to membership.

TORONTO YOUTH MUST HANG FOR B. C. MURDER

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 26.—Allen Robinson was found guilty last night and sentenced to be hanged on January 25 for the murder of W. F. Salbury in a hold-up on the street here last April. Robinson, who is but 19 years old, comes from Toronto.

ASKED TO ABDICATE

Charles Ordered to Surrender Himself to British Authorities.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 26.—The Hungarian Government to-day formally asked former Emperor Charles to abdicate and to recognize the complete cessation of his dynastic rights. He was ordered to surrender himself to British authorities and was told that an answer to these demands was expected to-day.

EXPENDITURE OF EDUCATION BOARD FOR YEAR WILL BE OVER MILLION DOLLARS

Building Program For 1922 Expected To Be Near Quarter Million Dollars.

Expenditures of the Board of Education for the current year total well over $1,000,000. The operation of the schools, including debenture charges, amounts to over $660,000, and $526,265 of money raised through debentures were expended on new school buildings.

For the new Collegiate Institute $265,000 was appropriated; for public schools, $247,800, and for public school equipment, $10,500. To these amounts should be added the $70,000 of insurance received from underwriters on the old high school, bringing the 1921 school board's building expenditures up to $596,265.

The 1922 school building program will probably demand another $250,000. Two new schools at least will be started early next spring, and trustees believe that the Empress Avenue School will have to be replaced by a more modern structure.

Debentures are already approved for the South London high school amounting to $165,000. A like sum may be asked to erect an East End branch high school next year.

Methodist Conference Meets Here Next Year

Special Conference Committee Concludes Session In Wesley Hall To-Day.

LISTOWEL CONTENDER FOR ANNUAL MEETING

One Transfer Only To Be Dealt With By the Stationing Committee.

The London Methodist Conference will meet in Centennial Church, this city, in June, 1922. This was one of the most important decisions reached by the special conference committee in its fall deliberations which opened in Wesley Hall on Tuesday morning and were concluded at noon to-day.

Listowel and Centennial both urged that the conference should meet in their churches and the latter was chosen because it was much more central and would also attract a larger representation. At the coming conference delegates will be elected to attend the general conference of the Dominion church, which meets only once in four years and which promises to be of particular importance this year in view of efforts to consummate church union.

All the chairmen of the districts in the conference are represented in the special committee, which is presided over by the Rev. W. H. Hibbard. Rev. J. A. Agnew, chairman of the London district, and Rev. I. Kilpatrick, secretary of the conference, were among the delegates, while there was a large turnout of laymen from the various districts.

TRANSFER OF REV. BURGESS.

Arrangements were made for the transfer of the Rev. Frank Burgess from the St. Thomas district to the Silvan circuit in the Exeter district. This will be the only transfer which will have to be ratified by the stationing committee at next year's conference.

To-day there was a full discussion on ways and means by which the ministerial work among the Indians in this section of the province might be more effectively carried on. The Methodist church has invested considerable money in this home mission enterprise and is endeavoring to make sure that it is being expended wisely. All ministers in the conference who are doing work among the reserves were present to take part in the discussion.

Rev. Dr. Manning, secretary of the home mission board of the Methodist church, reviewed the fields which are being developed in the West and other parts of the country and pleaded for larger funds to carry on the important work.

ADVANCE PARTY OF BRITISH DELEGATION EMBARKS FOR U. S. A.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Lord and Lady Lee, of Fareham, with an advance party of the British delegation to the Washington conference, including Admiral Chatfield and other naval officers, and Srinawasa Sastri, the Indian delegate, left Waterloo station this morning for Southampton, whence they will sail for the United States on the steamship Olmypia.

Before leaving Lord Lee said: "I'm going to Washington in a spirit of confidence. I'm not prepared to contemplate failure."

He added that the premier certainly would attend the conference unless the Irish situation prevented him from leaving England.

PLEA FOR SUPPORT.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—A nation-wde appeal for British women to demonstrate their support of the statesmen at the Washington conference is contained in a letter to The London Times signed by Lady Astor and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, members of Parliament, and other prominent women.

On the supposition that the steamer carrying the delegates will sail on November 5, the letter suggests that on November 3 every woman and every girl over 14 years of age send a signed post card bearing "Godspeed," addressed to the prime minister or chief British delegate aboard the Aquitania at Liverpool.

Free Press Santa Claus Fund Again This Year

The Free Press will again sponsor the annual Santa Claus fund which for a number of years past has meant a real Christmas for thousands of little London kiddies as well as their parents, who, through force of circumstances, found themselves at the holiday season without the wherewithal to give the children their rightful heritage—a full stocking.

The fund has grown from year to year and many citizens would feel that something was amiss with the season if they had not made their contribution, large or small, to the happiness of London's priceless gifts.

The Salvation Army, which is probably the great force for good in the city, and is always especially active at the Christmas season, will be in charge of the distribution of good cheer, which is made available for thousands of London's needy through The Free Press Santa Claus fund.

Prince, Undeterred By Troubled State of India, Embarks For Voyage

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The people of Great Britain, forgetting for the moment the many problems which confront them, centered their interest today upon the departure of the Prince of Wales for his visit to India and united in wishing the popular young prince bon voyage. The battle cruiser Renown, on which the prince made his voyage to Australia last year, was awaiting at Portsmouth for the royal passenger.

The Prince of Wales left Victoria station at noon to-day for Portsmouth to embark. Great crowds outside the station gave Britain's heir-apparent an enthusiastic send-off, while on the platform were King George, Queen Mary, Princess Mary, Prime Minister Lloyd George, several members of the British Cabinet, United States Ambassador Harvey, Japanese Ambassador Hayashia and other distinguished personages.

PRINCESS MARY WEEPS.

The leave-taking of the royal family presented a touching scene. All of them were deeply moved, Princess Mary weeping quietly, while the King, with his arm over the prince's shoulder, was talking earnestly with him. After the prince departed the other members of the royal family remained on the platform for a few minutes.

The Renown will land the prince at Bombay, in which city will begin a series of formal functions arranged in every city he will visit. Following his progress through India the prince will go to Japan where he will return the visit in England of Crown Prince

FIRST JOB AS JUDGE

Justice Mowat Hears Lone Case At Woodstock Without Single Witness.

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 26.—Justice H. M. Mowat, of Toronto, the newly appointed judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario, began his career as a Supreme Court judge when he conducted the fall assizes at the courthouse, Woodstock, on Tuesday, and, incidentally the lone case which he had to try turned out to be one without a parallel in the legal history of the province, in the opinion of the prominent jurists who were present.

It was one without a parallel within the knowledge of the legal profession. The case was that of libel action of Homer D. Neely, barrister, of Woodstock, vs. The Sentinel-Review Publishing Company, and the unique feature of the case was that not a single witness was brought forward to give evidence on either side, the case resting entirely upon the plea of counsel to the jury. The presentation of the case hinged entirely upon the interpretation of points of law, and in the end the jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, without damages and a recommendation that the costs be paid by defendant. The judge, however, intimated that this recommendation was beyond the power of the jury and that he alone had the right to determine which party would pay the costs; that he would give his decision on this point later.

JUSTICE MOWAT.

BROTHERHOODS TO STAGE BANQUET

1,000 Men At Masonic Temple On Friday Evening.

WILLIAM WARD TO SPEAK

President of World Federation Will Address Gathering.

One thousand members at least of London interchurch brotherhoods will gather at the Masonic Temple on Friday evening for the annual banquet of the organized brotherhood federation of London. William Ward, of London, England, president of the World Brotherhood Federation, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker. Thomas Howell, Dominion brotherhood general secretary, will also be present and address the organizations.

The brotherhood banquet meeting is expected to be one of the outstanding events of the year. Sectarianism will be forgotten in the interchurch enthusiasm for fraternity. Every evangelical minister in London has been invited and acceptances from most of them have been received.

The principal speaker, William Ward, of Old London, is the founder of the brotherhood movement, as such, in the world. Shortly before the war the movement was born, and already it touches the shores of every nation on earth and its annual world congress is considered the greatest force for international peace and sympathy extant, not excepting the League of Nations.

OFFERED $200 TO SHOOT STRICKERT

New Witness Produced At Stratford Murder Trial.

DRUGGIST TESTIFIES

Tells of Selling Poison To Mrs. Strickert and Daughter, Pearl.

STRATFORD, Oct. 6.—Medical evidence indicating the presence of strychnine in the viscera of the late William Strickert, of Elma Township, was given in the trial this morning of his wife, Margaret Strickert, charged with the murder of her husband on July 16 last.

A new witness was introduced, Edwin Stafford, of Manitoba, stepson of the deceased, who declared that during a quarrel between his mother and her husband Mrs. Stricket had offered him $200 to shoot her husband.

Provincial Analyst Rogers, of Toronto University, stated that a half grain of strychnine was found in the viscera of the dead man, indicating that at least a full grain had been taken into the system. Tested on a frog the recovered poison had acted as strychnine does.

Dr. Kidd, of Atwood, and Dr. Nicklin, of Milverton, testified that all the symptoms of strychnine poisoning were present when they examined Strickert on the night of his death.

Druggist Sam Petrie, of Milverton, gave evidence of the sale of strychnine to the mother of the deceased on May 19, 1919 and to Pearl Strickert, daughter of the deceased, on May 6, 1920. The attending physicians stated that Mrs. Strickert had told them that "there might be a reason' for Strickert taking poison himself. The trial resumed this afternoon

City Will Ballot On Natural Gas Plan

Securing of Progressive Gas Company's Product Will Be Election Issue.

DRAWING UP FORM OF AGREEMENT

Private Meeting Scheduled For To-Morrow In City Solicitor's Office.

Citizens will be asked to vote on the question of securing natural gas for London at the municipal election on December 5. A proposed agreement with the Progressive Oil & Gas Company, of Hamilton, and the City Gas Company, is being drawn up by the city solicitor, and a special ballot form is being prepared on which citizens will express their attitude towards the natural gas question.

It is understood that there will be a special meeting of the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce gas committee to-morrow. At this meeting, according to information received, aldermen and the gas corporations' officials will unite on a course of action.

That the natural gas question will go to the people is considered certain, although there is a small group in the City Council that will demand that no action be taken whatever until such time as the City Gas Company has restored some $50,000 collected from citizens in the form of a "readness to serve" which was held illegal by the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board and immoral by the local division court.

NOTHING TO LOSE

The majority opinion, however, is that the matter should be put to the people for final decision.

Those supporting the proposed agreement, of which Ald. W. A. Wilson is the leader, point out that the securing of natural gas, even in a small quantity, would reduce the price of gas somewhat, that citizens could not lose, and if the Saul farm gas fields develop greater supplies, citizens may eventually be able to secure 100 per cent. natural gas at 35 cents the thousand cubic feet with possible reductions, from time to time, as ordered by the gas referee.

It is understood that when the proposal to take a vote on the gas question is put to the Council, the franchise rights of the City Gas Company will also come up for discussion and the suggestion made that the city enter into no agreement with either party without having old franchises brought up to date, thus preventing future trouble along the line of private corporation bills which, as is the case with the most recent one dealing with the gas rate, was passed by the Ontario Legislature without any definite statement of approval or otherwise from the citizens of London.

GAS CO. WOULD GLADLY QUIT

Central Company Says It Is Heavily Involved With the Bank.

AYLMER, Oct. 26.—(By Staff Reporter.) — That the company is heavily involved with the bank and consequently will be unable to carry on unless an increased rate is allowed, was the statement submitted by Barrister Kerr, of Simcoe, representing the Central Pipe Line Natural Gas Company at the rate inquiry which opened here this morning before Referee Henderson. The company, said Mr. Kerr, would be glad to be relieved by the referee of its obligations, and would gladly cease operations. The application for a rate increase by the above company, which supplies Aylmer, Malahide and parts of Norfolk County, is being opposed by the various municipalities interested. W. H. Kelly, K.C., Simcoe; W. H. Barnum, Aylmer; C. St. Clare Leitch, K.C., St. Thomas, are appearing for the municipalities. The hearing will last the entire day.

"MAKE IT DIFFICULT TO REMAIN HONEST"

Old London Magistrate Has This Comment to Make on Income Taxes.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Rather striking pronouncements touching the burden of taxation emanated from Justice Darling in passing nominal sentence here to-day upon a dealer who is in a substantial way of business for an income tax misdemeanor. "I am perfectly aware," he said, "that the taxation of this country, especially the direct taxation, has reached a point that is making it very difficult for a large number to remain honest."

The Marylebone magistrate, handling a batch of summonses for nonpayment of local taxes, said: "We cannot sell these people's homes up if they cannot pay. The Town Council might suggest that proceedings in such cases be taken for the amount to be written off."

HARDING ESPOUSES CAUSE OF NEGROES

U. S. President Pleads For Constructive Policy of Racial Relations.

EQUAL EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY URGED

Let Black Man Vote When He Is Fit, Is the President's Plea.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 26.—The right of the United States negro to broader political, economic, and educational advantages, based on a pride of race, but never on an aspiration for social equality, was championed by President Harding here to-day in a plainly-worded enunciation of his views on the whole United States race problem.

The president's address, which brought him from Washington on his first extended trip in the South since his inauguration, was delivered at a semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the City of Birmingham.

Mr. Harding made an appeal to the people of the United States to "lay aside old prejudices and antagonisms" and give support to a constructive policy of racial relationship. The following extracts from his address indicate the principles on which the United States president believes the problem can be solved and upon which he issued his appeal:

VOTE WHEN FIT.

"I would say let the black man vote when he is fit to vote; prohibit the white man voting when he is unfit to vote.

"I would insist upon equal educational opportunity for both.

"Men of both races may well stand uncompromisingly against every suggestion of recognizing a fundamental, eternal, inescapable difference.

"Racial amalgamation there cannot be, Partnership of the races in developing the highest aims of all humanity there must be if humanity is to achieve the ends which we have set for it."

LEAGUE FAVORS JUVENILE COURT

Catholic Women Discuss Important Matters At Convention.

MRS. B. C. McCANN PRESIDENT

Dominion President Enjoins the Delegates To Use Franchise.

The election of Mrs. B. C. McCann as first diocesan president of the Catholic Women's League in the diocese of London was greeted at this morning's session of the league convention with sustained applause from the delegates and members. Mrs. McCann has been instrumental in the formation of the Catholic League in this diocese and the delegates refused to allow any other name to stand for the presidency.

An impromptu discussion on the dance as a means of raising league funds, and a consideration of such pithy matters as the juvenile court, child welfare and the formation of mothers' clubs, made up an interesting morning's program.

Mlle. Guerin, Dominion president, replied very briskly to a question as to the advisability of dances forming a part of the money-making scheme of any league.

"Why not?" she demanded. "There is no harm in dancing. I am sure there would be no harm in the dancing any of our Catholic League women would do. In Montreal our junior league gave a ball, which was one of the most successful social events of the season, attended by our best families, and which also raised a gratifying sum for the support of a girls' recreational home. They have raised money by splendid theatricals, too, and in many other ways."

FAVOR MOTHERS' CLUBS.

The proposal to form a Home and Social Club, or Mothers' Club, in each parish where the Catholic League is organized met with general approval when presented by the resolutions committee, and was the center of an interesting discussion. Recommended, because of the "need for further co-operation between mothers and teachers and as a step towards developing activities along the lines of girl guide organization, library interest, etc.," the matter of a more careful selection of juvenile reading matter was particularly emphasized.

"Is there no way in which immoral

HUNTER HITS DEER ON HEAD WITH CHESTNUT

BEECH PARK, Oct. 26. — (By Staff Reporter.) — The simplest facts end in mystery, even as they begin in it. The hand that warned Belshazzar derived its mysterious and horrifying influence from the want of a body.

The late lamented Will Shakespeare knew whereof he wrote when he beat Bacon to it and penned the classic "There are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamt of in our philosophy."

Abe Werner is not a particular admirer of Will Shakespeare, in fact, he is not sure whether he is a Liberal sacrifice for December or postmaster at Painted Post, but Abe has met up with mystery, spelled with a capital M.

Last fall Abe, who is a substantial citizen of Beech Park, went hunting for big game and found it. He got his quota of deer which are to be found here in generous supply. While trailing his gun through the weeds a chestnut, unknown to Abe, lodged in the barrel and when he took a pot shot at a kittenish young dear the chestnut hit the animal in the head half-way between the horns.

Yesterday Abe, while out on another hunting expedition, saw what he thought was a fat deer caught by the horns in a clump of small trees. With gun at the aim, he cautiously approached the animal, but was so astonished at what he saw that he did not shoot. Growing from the deer's head was a healthy-looking chestnut tree about an inch and a half in diameter, and about three feet long.

Fears Effect of Vote For Women Preachers

Dr. Beattie Deplores Step In Interest of Church Union. Presbyterians Not In Favor.

A vote favorable to admitting women to Methodist church pulpits might result in a permanent rupture of pending negotiations towards union of evangelical churches. Such a vote, in the form of a nation-wide referendum, will be taken by Methodist churches of Canada on Monday, November 3.

Rev. William Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., minister of the First Presbyterian Church, to-day voiced the opinion of that communion on the proposed admission of women to Methodist pulpits, which, if church union goes through, would mean that women would be eligible for calls to former Presbyterian congregations.

He pointed out that such a step at this time on the part of the Methodist church might seriously prejudice the success of negotiations towards a united church, but at the same time pointed out that Presbyterianism is ready to throw in its lot with the united church.

"Rising out of the announcement that the Methodist church may soon admit women to their pulpits, I confess to a feeling of astonishment at this proposed action, which may not meet with great favor from churches prepared to endorse the united church. I do not believe that such action would meet with favor from the Presbyterian end of the proposed union that finds it difficult to be enthusiastic over the proposal, but is nevertheless determined to throw in their lot with the united church."

Prominent local Methodist clergymen, however, are of the opinion that the coming referendum on admitting women to their pulpits will result in an unfavorable vote. The final settling of the question would come, it is believed, only when evangelical churches have become united.

DISCUSS WORK FOR CHILDREN

Deputation Sees Head of Soldiers' Aid Commission.

SUPERVISION TAKEN AWAY

Claims For Hostel Here Are Presented.

Hon. D. Carmichael, head of the Provincial Soldiers' Aid Commission, and other officials were yesterday interviewed by a delegation from the local branch with regard to the administration of children's welfare work amongst ex-service men's dependents. The delegation's requests were seriously considered and Mr. Carmichael promised to make an official ruling on the matter within the next few days.

The delegation consisted of Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, D. S. O.; Rev. H. B. Ashby, James Gray and George F. Copeland, together with Secretary Ed. Lance.

It is understood that the delegation informed Dr. Carmichael that the supervision of children's welfare work amongst soldiers' dependents had been taken out of the hands of the London branch executive, of which Ald. F. E. Harley is chairman, and placed directly under the Toronto office, with the appointment of an independent official, answerable only to the Toronto office.

REPLY IMPORTANT.

Reference was also made to the fact that three hostels for soldiers' orphans and dependents have been opened in Toronto, while London's claims for recognition in that regard had been met with consistent opposition. Many of the children cared for in hostels, it is pointed out, have living but bedridden parents. Their being carried to Toronto in some cases causes undue mental suffering to parents thus separated from their children, it is pointed out.

Upon the reply received from Mr. Carmichael, the future of the soldiers' aid work in London to a large extent depends. Local members of the S. A. C. executive feel that recent orders from Toronto have had the discontinuance of the work from a local standpoint as their aim.

SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL ACTIVE

Many Centers Have Been Organized Through District Office.

IN WESTERN ONTARIO

Follow-Up Campaign Is Being Conducted By Provincial Officers.

Considerable headway has been made by the Social Service Council of Ontario through its district office here in organizing and strengthening branches throughout Western Ontario. Windsor, Woodstock and Chatham are among the larger centers where the councils have been established on a stronger basis, while Galt, Hamilton, Oshawa and Barrie are included in the places yet to have field days for that purpose.

Though the organization of these communities is an important work, the follow-up work which it necessitates is even more important. Community centers will be established where desired by Alexander Maclaren, head of that branch of activity, while Rev. Peter Bryce, director of child welfare for the province, will be responsible for the introduction of baby clinics, educational propaganda and other services to meet the need of the public.

Preparatory work is just as essential as the follow-up work in the establishment of branches. For instance, it is often necessary to secure the co-operation of the Ministerial Alliance in the center to be organized and to conduct a social service field day in the local churches.

Galt is the next place in which the provincial officials will concentrate. Then comes Hamilton, where Mr. McCallough and other officials addressed the alliance last Saturday. Dates have not been set for Stratford, Oshawa and Barrie as yet. St. Thomas was organized some time ago. Brantford will have a regular field day by reason of the annual convention of the Ontario council holding their next meeting.

CLAIM NOTES DUE.—McKillop & Douglas, acting for Charles Webster, have issued a writ in the county court against Wesley and Frank Shannon for the amount of two promissory notes with interest, which the plaintiff claims were made in his favor by the defendants and which are alleged to be now past due.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 26. — Up, thinking how it is now less than two months until Christmas, that joyous feast of lighted candles and children. How like to candles these children of ours are. Some sturdy of frame and ruddy of color, others fair and delicate—methinks they will burn not long on our tree of life. They go about the streets, these little lights of God, and some of them pitifully ragged. But their small faces to shine always with the inward light of hope from hearts not quenched by the cold blasts of disillusion. There be so many of us that say we love children, but methinks we lie to our hearts. We have tears for fair-haired darlings dying in moveable pictures, or smiles for "Kids" that ape poverty pretty noble, but meanwhile we be subconsciously comforted in knowing they make over £10,000 a year. Let us be done with this hypocricy and humbly strive to love and help the gamins of our city despite their roughness, their toughness and their impertinence.

Read a peculiar article in a magazine last night which holds that the brain is not the seat of consciousness no more than the spleen was, as thought by Aristotle. This article, written by Hereward Carringon, a doctor of philosophy, gives many instances of men having nearly their whole brain destroyed yet they go on as before. And he questions finally if the brain is no more than an instrument upon which the real mind plays pretty content. Science acquires more dignity each day it exists as such. Age brings it wisdom as it should to all, and already it can be perceived that we shall soon find that the doctrine of a soul is as necessary a part of our theory of living as we find the doctrine of God when we consider the twin infinities — time and space.

Which reminds me how few people have any conception of this infinity of time. Question almost any man and it will be perceived that he has never imagined that the universe has already existed as long as it will exist. Which is to say that we have an eternity behind us and an eternity before us. What is has always been, and will always be. Perhaps these conceptions should be taught a little to our day schools. It brings dignity of thought, but it may also bring madness. These thoughts, carried to their unexplainable conclusion, near drive me mad as a child when I first perceive them. Only a soberer philosophy restores my belief in myself when I think that this is the only universe illimitable as it is, that the laws which shape this universe's making were the only laws from eternity to eternity.

But serenity comes with night to any thinker. Especially a clear night with stars. Sometimes I think those planets happy that have no moon, but are forever bared to the full glory of distant heavens. And yesternight we walk on a hill over our river, my nephew and I, and the twilight skies full of stars which twinkle neighborly. Like a tropical harbor seen from the brow of a mountain, the lights of ships forever sailing God knows where.

A peculiarly humorous tale in our police constables' court yesterday where a dark woman is brought up for trial and methinks she is kin to my mother-in-law's cooking woman. Which, when the chief magistrate asks why she is out at midnight in a taxing-cab, she replies: "Jedge, I jest naturally hankered after some mushrooms an' lobstuh, yessuh, my appette do obituate paw'ful strong!" Which is strange.

The news it that the Mikado, his Government, do call for a navy big enough to cope with any other on the Pacific. Magellan, first of earth's navigators to sail 'round the globe, thou didst show childlike trust in naming this ocean as thou didst. Rename it now to fit our warring, mistrustful times. Dye its blue waves with the blood of nations, and let those waves cast up the mangled corpses of Anglo-Saxon, and flower-children of Japan. For with Pan dead, now dies Love, and stern Mars alone reigns from sunrise to sunrise.

Methinks we need new similes concerning our municipal elections. No longer to say that our political pott is warming or boiling, but that the balloons go up being filled with gas in the highest way possible. And it is true thing that our lord mayor's balloon goes up day before yesterday with his complimenting himself, but 'tis feared that it will come down no more. But our Admiralty Club working pretty busy in his behalf and to get petitions asking him to run 'gainst Doctor Wilson, the alderman. For we mistrust these doctors in politics because of their wishing to force economy pills down our throats and to purge us of this mad spending orgy; also to operate on deadwood and barnacles, cutting them off utterly and insisting on our city government being run one-half as efficient as a private concern. Away with all such chirurgeons!

Out to a banquet last night and to hear a quartette of London men, the most harmonious I ever head, sing this "Peggy O'Neil." The most enjoyable thing that has come to me for a long time. But St. George, why it is that at banquets they have not speeches first and the food after? If so, methinks oratory would be cut to the minimum!

ALDERMEN OBJECT TO ATTENDANCE RECORD

City Clerk's Statistics on Number of Meetings Attended by Them Not Popular.

London's city fathers, like other fathers built along McManus' "Jiggs" line, refuse to have their incomings and outgoings made a matter of public record.

City Clerk Baker, whom the aldermen hold to be one of the most efficient municipal secretaries in Ontario, believes in records. The city handbook, now being used as a textbook in universities, is one of his ideas. But Mr. Baker was not content to rest there. He began to check up aldermanic attendance at civic committee meetings. Just as in the old school days, aldermen's attendance records were carefully made out and published.

The aldermen at first blandly approved. But this information began to leak out to constituents, who would buttonhole their ward representatives, asking: "How come you were not at such-and-such meeting?"

Accordingly Mr. Baker's attendance records were squelched. Tactfully so, but the city clerk was given a pretty broad hint that the aldermen believed in records along with the best, but when it came to personal records, well, that was another story.

C. P. R. MANAGER WALKS THE TIES

Official Party Hiked Seven Miles Inspecting Section.

AWARDING PRICE PRIZE

Thamesford-Zorra Section May Be Best In Canada.

General Manager A. Price, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and H. G. Grout, Toronto, general superintendent of the Ontario lines, are to-day inspecting the railway section between Thamesford and Zorra and the London division may be granted the Price prize for having the best section on the Eastern lines of the C. P. R.

The two officials, accompanied by Robert McKillop, superintendent of the London division, and Col. George Ham, left London early this morning and walked the ties from Thamesford to Zorra, a distance of seven miles, examining this territory and judging it from every viewpoint.

The Thamesford-Zorra section has already been recommended as the best section on the Ontario lines and has now been placed in the competition with all other sections on the Eastern lines.

Points will be awarded for neatness and numerous other items included in the section rules enforced by the C. P. R.

Prior to leaving for Thamesford General Manager Price conducted an inspection here, visiting the London offices and the East London yards. The officials will depart for the East to-night.

DISCUSS START ON WESTERN 'U'

Board of Governors Is Meeting This Afternoon.

DORMITORIES ARE NEEDED

Consider Contract Or Plus Cost Plans.

To-day's meeting of the Western University board of governors in the market branch Bank of Montreal chambers will be one of the important preliminary gatherings of that body affecting the proposed 1922 building program of the institution named.

In view of the fact that the Western University grant will be the only money by-law to be placed before citizens at the coming municipal election, with all sections of the community lining up in favor of the grant, it is considered certain that the issue of $250,000 for new university buildings will win by a huge majority. Therefore, officials point out, the governors may begin clearing up preliminary details now.

Preliminary questions to be decided are whether the new university buildings shall be built on the straight contract plan or on the cost plus basis. The former is held to be more economical under certain conditions, but the cost plus form of contract is considered better from the owner's standpoint during a falling market.

PROVINCIAL AID.

The matter of university dormitories will also have to be decided at an early date, it is understood. Provincial aid to the university is partly conditional on the erection of quarters for men and women students. Faculty members, with the increase of enrollment, state that the boarding problem for undergraduates is becoming more serious.

With dormitories built, it is believed that educational costs could also be reduced considerably to out-of-town pupils.

The governors will to-day also take up the final details of plans for the coming opening of the medical school. This matter was to have been decided last week, but the regular meeting was postponed owing to the funeral of Lady Beck.

G. T. R. MEN ACCEPT 12 PER CENT. CUT

Local Unions Not Surprised, But Say No Further Reductions Admissible.

The announcement from Montreal that an agreement has been reached by the Grand Trunk and its employees, whereby the men have agreed to accept the wage reduction put into effect last July, was received here with little attention as it was a foregone conclusion that this would be the result of the negotiations between the representatives of the company and the employees.

Some 4,000 employees of the London division of the Grand Trunk Railway were affected by the wage cut enforced last July which amounted to 12½ per cent., but the complaints were few.

Railwaymen interviewed to-day regarding the wage reduction were of the firm opinion that the railroaders of Canada have received their wage cut and are not complaining against the present scale, but believe that no further reductions should be made. The tentative agreement accepted yesterday provides that no change will be made in the present schedule rules until 30 days after January 1, unless mutually agreed upon.

Several prominent railway leaders who reside in London have been in Montreal for the past week discussing the wage situation with the owners, and presenting other matters for their consideration.

ENGINEERS TO FORM ASSOCIATION HERE

Meeting Will Be Held This Evening at Tecumseh House.

Engineers of London and immediate vicinity will to-night form a local branch of the Canadian Engineering Institute. A week ago it was hoped that 25 members would be enrolled, to-day the conveners have 40 applications and five more are expected.

H. B. R. Craig, district superintendent of the department of public works of Ontario, and City Engineer Brazier are convening the engineers with a view to permanent organization. They will meet in the Tecumseh House at 8 o'clock tonight in the Chamber of Commerce board room.

The local branch of the Canadian Engineering Institute will not only include all civil, electrical and mechanical engineers in London, but will draw membership from St. Thomas, Ingersoll, Woodstock and other points.

THEOLOGICAL CONFERENCE.—Thirty-five priests from Western Ontario parishes are attending the theological conference being held in St. Peter's Seminary to-day. Some of the most important questions to be reviewed at the meeting will be "Dogmatic Theology," "Moral Theology" and "Extreme Unction," and the question of academies for the Catholic high school pupils of the city.

MORRIS GOOTSON STARS IN CONTRASTING ROLES IN POLICE COURT COMEDY

Loses His Booze and Is Reported For Allowing His Horse To Park On a Neighbor's Lawn All On the Same Day.

Morris Gootson appeared with signal success in a double bill in the police court this morning. First he played the part of the injured proprietor in the thrilling one-act drama, "The Mystery of the Disappearing Hootch, Or Was the Cellar Window Locked?" After he had got away with this he was again called to the center of the stage, this time to play the persecuted hero in "The Wandering Equine, Or Who Untied the Bay?"

Morris, being a thrifty soul, had a considerable quantity of liquor gold stored in his cellar against the time when the country would be even drier than it is now. Lahon Lazwoki, once a resident of the steppes of Russia, had a thirst, but not the means wherewith to quench it, but he knew that in the cellar of Morris reposed sufficient joy juice to start a revolution. Consequently, he proceeded to put himself in close communication with the base of supply. To obtain entrance to the cellar it was necessary for Lahon to remove a sheet of tin which stood guard over an otherwise open window, and this rendered him liable to a charge of breaking and entering.

IN BY THE WINDOW.

Questioned by the crown attorney, through an interpreter, he admitted having gone to Gootson's in the morning while Morris and his family were not at home. He entered through the cellar window and made his exit in the same manner, only when he departed he bore with him a jug into which he had poured the contents of six of Morris' bottles. Three other bottles were also alleged to have disappeared, but they went into Lahon.

So successful was his foray and so potent the plunder that before the shadow of evening fell he was prepared to return to Russia and head a movement to restore monarchial government. Republican police officers soon put the quietus to that idea and Morris identified the jug and remaining contents as having once formed part of his stock. The prisoner was remanded until Tuesday for sentence after Mr. Gootson had asked the court to be lenient as Lazwoki was more foolish than criminal and did not think about whisky stealing except when he had already laid the foundation of a cargo and desired to continue loading.

A WANDERING EQUINE.

Just as Morris was about to depart from the court with his jug it was recalled that a wandering horse belonging to him had forsaken the Gootson homestead and parked itself on a neighbor's lawn at 10.30 at night. To this the defendant replied that he himself had tied the horse at 6 o'clock at night before he went to the synagogue with his wife. He had also asked a neighbor to keep a friendly eye on the animal during his absence. Apparently, the custodian of the horse was careless for the animal wandered and, after inspecting the residences of neighbors, parked on a lawn for the night. Police officers removed the equine and also communicated with Morris.

"Your neighbors have complained about your horse running at large and becoming a nuisance to the neighborhood," observed the magistrate. "Oh, everybody down there complains about Gootson. Gootson is the big man and easiest to get. It's all right to blame Gootson for what happens, even though he is not to blame at all," and Morris launched into a long defence.

After evidence had been given by the police officers as to the finding of the horse, and by Gootson and a witness to the effect that precautions had been taken to prevent the animal from wandering, the magistrate adjourned the case until Friday, saying there were several points in connection with the by-law in the case into which he desired to make further inquiry.

UNDERWEAR STOLEN FROM CLOTHESLINE

Mean Thief Visits Yard of William Hunt, 738 Princess Avenue.

William Hunt, 738 Princess avenue, is shy to-day a perfectly good suit of woolen underwear and a gray wool sweater coat. The chilling breezes of yesterday spelled "heavy undies" to Mr. Hunt's household and as a preliminary to donning the ticklish ones it was decided that they should first be aired after their summer season with the moth balls. Accordingly they were spread temptingly on the clothesline in the rear of the Hunt home.

But some person or persons unknown passed that way in the hours of darkness and, seeing the warm winter garments, appropriated them. This morning all was left on the clothesline was "an aching void," where the winter the winter undies and sweater coat had once been. The case has been reported to the police and all persons wearing new woolen underwear are liable to be under suspicion.

OPPOSE RESTRICTION ON COP'S OFF-TIME

The new regulations issued for the guidance of the Toronto police force do not arouse any great enthusiasm in the hearts of the London police officials. On the contrary one official declares that the Toronto rule which provides that if an officer, even when off duty, desires to visit a theater, motion picture house or race track, or other place of amusement he must obtain a permit is little short of tyranny.

"A nice way that to treat grown men, faithful officials," was the comment of one of the higher officials of the department this morning. "To me there is no warrant for any such rule and there is no possibility of London following anything like that. Here we try to remember that a police officer is much the same as any other man and should not be deprived of his rights, especially as long as he does his duty well and completely."

There is a regulation in force locally which provides that if a police officer desires to spend his day off outside of the city he must obtain a permit to do so from the chief, but Chief Birrell explained that this was necessary in order that he might know where the officer was in case he was wanted during his leisure time. There is no disposition, however, to limit the liberty of a police officer in his hours in so far as attendance at a theater or motion picture house is concerned.

MAKE READY FOR STRIKE.—More than 100 cars of newsprint have passed through London on the Canadian Pacific Railway during the past two days en route to points in the United States. It is believed that the American dailies are securing a quantity of white paper so they will have it on hand in the event that a railway strike takes place next week.

C. OF C. TO ELECT SEVEN NEW DIRECTORS SOON

Rally of All Graduates of the College Who Live In Western Ontario.

It is expected that a very large number of members of the Western Ontario O. A. C. Alumni Association will attend the meeting and banquet to be held here on Friday night next. The gathering will be in the nature of a rally of former students of the Guelph Agricultural College and the program will be an interesting and joyous one. One of the features will be a yell and song competition. It is being held in the Royal Cafe and A. R. G. Smith, of New Hamburg, will be a speaker.

INFLUENCE OF DRESS ON PEOPLE'S CHARACTER

Interesting Addresses Heard By Members of Ryerson Mothers' Club.

The influence of dress on character, particularly feminine character, proved an absorbing topic when presented in a series of papers at last evening's meeting of the Ryerson Mothers' Club.

Introduced by Mrs. W. A. Tanner, who gave a brief general talk on the psychology of dress, the subject was developed by Mrs. H. W. Paddell, in a paper on "The Evolution of Dress," which covered custom and fashion in an interesting manner.

Mrs. K. P. R. Neville followed, with the "Color Scheme of Dress," picturing the effert of color, while Mrs. F. Lloyd Marshall concluded the papers with a discussion on methods of making clothes, especially advocating the teaching of this important art in an entertaining manner, in the schools.

During the brief business session of the evening, over which Mrs. C. K. Bluett presided for the first time, it was decided that the Ryerson Club do nothing further as an organization for the children's hospital, though giving individual support to the canvass now going on.

HUNTERS FAVOR USE OF DOGS

Questionnaires Have Not Reached London As Yet.

ONLY HUMANE METHOD

If Not Tracked Animals Die Lingering Death.

The majority of hunters in London who each year go to the north for the deer hunting favor the use of dogs. As far as could be learned, the questionnaire being sent out by the department of game and fisheries regarding the matter of the use of dogs, has not yet been received by any hunters in London, but it is believed that the majority of these, when returned, will favor the use of the hounds.

One local hunter, who goes each year to Northern Ontario for deer, stated that practically all the parties from London take hounds with them, while those who do not take them along usually obtain use of dogs in the north. He pointed out that the party with which he goes always takes six dogs.

In support of his contention that the use of dogs was best, the Londoner stated that there would be a large number of deer left wantonly to die each year because the hunter was unable to trace a wounded animal. He was strongly in favor of the continued use of dogs.

GET CENSUS OF OPINION.

There has been a controversy on for some time among the hunters as to the merits or otherwise of using hounds. As a result the department of game and fisheries is sending a questionnaire this fall to every hunter who obtains a permit to shoot. It is expected that it will go out to some 17,000 deer-seeking nimrods, and it is so worded that the officials of the department will be able to get the opinions of the settlers living in the districts, as well as visiting hunters.

The hunters are also asked to give season for dear, as the department wished to ascertain whether or not the season should be changed.

According to local hunters, American foxhounds are the breed of dog most favored for dear hunting, although English foxhounds, bloodhounds and other breeds are also used.

It is reported that there is an unusually large demand this year for hunters' licenses.

BID FAREWELL TO COMMANDER RICHARDS

Salvation Army Officer Goes To Australia—Big Program At Masonic Temple.

Commissioner and Mrs. Richards, who have been for the past seven years in charge of the Salvation Army in Canadian territory, and who are leaving now for Australia, will be tended a united farewell at the Masonic Temple tonight, when Mr. James Gray, will preside. A fine program has been prepared. Bands and songsters from St. Thomas and Chatham, together with Nos. 1, 2 and 3 corps from this city, will furnish the music for the occasion.

Commissioner Richards came into this command following the Empress disaster when the Territorial band and headquarters were practically wiped out. Immediately commencing to rebuild up the organization, to-day it stands in a sound position, both regarding finance and numbers, that has never been equalled in Canada.

TORONTO GUESTS AT BANQUET HERE

Attend Banquet of Star of Bethlehem L.O.L.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENT

W. D. McPherson, K. C., Deputy Grand Master, Principal Speaker

Five hundred covers were laid last night for the Star of Bethlehem Loyal Orange Lodge banquet at the Masonic Temple, at which Imperial Lodge, 2767, and McKinley Lodge, 275, both of Toronto, were the guests of honor. No Orange gathering of this sort even approached last night's banquet, save last year's Star of Bethlehem first celebration, and the banquet last night even surpassed anything of its kind ever before attempted in London.

The banquet was not an exclusive Orange function, for 75 non-members, Wor. Master W. T. Clark stated, had places at the various banquet tables.

Members of the Toronto lodges came to London in special cars over the G. T. R. They were met at the Grand Trunk station by the uniformed fife and drum Orange band and the official reception committee of Star of Bethlehem Lodge, and were then conducted to Ulster Hall, where a special lodge session was held and the first degree conferred on a list of candidates.

DEPUTY GRAND MASTER.

Most Wor. Bro. W. D. McPherson, K. C., ex-M. P. P., deputy grand master of the Orange Association in British North America, was the chief guest of the evening, and at the lodge session was received with those distinguished honors by which Orange lodges express their almost filial reverence for their chieftains.

Controller McGuire and Ald. Winnett, of the Toronto City Council, were also received as specially honored guests. Mayor Church was expected, but his political campaign in North Toronto kept him from attending the Star of Bethlehem banquet.

The visiting lodge members were then conducted to the Masonic Temple by officials and members of Star of Bethlehem Lodge.

The banquet was served in the temple banquet hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The insignia of the three lodges, together with the flags of the empire and evergreens, were the chief features of the decorative scheme, and the tables were loaded with cut flowers.

W. T. Clark, master of the local lodge, proposed the toast of "The King," which was drunk in specially-prepared orange cocktails, followed by the National Anthem and three roof-raising cheers.

Hosts and guests then engaged in an informal sing-song, punctuated by lodge cheers which revealed the boy-spirit which dwells in the gravest of men and needs only the touchstone of good comradeship to bring it out.

The toast to "The Orange Association" was proposed by Rt. Wor. Bro. J. W. Carson, district master, and was replied to by E. T. Essery, K. C., L. L. B., past grand master of Ontario West. Mr. Essery's speech was a masterpiece of vibrant patriotism.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

The toast to "The British Empire" was then proposed by George F. Copeland and replied to by the deputy grand master, W. D. McPherson, K. C.

Mr. McPherson's speech dwelt particularly on the problems facing Orangemen at the present time and reference was made to the political situation in the Dominion.

Jared Vining made a speech of welcome to the visiting Toronto lodges, which was replied to by Wor. Master W. H. Eliott, of Imperial Lodge, and by Wor. Master William Walsh, of McKinley Lodge.

Various other speeches were made by Rev. Frank Anderson, Rev. R. A. Miller, V. W. Hartnett, Ald. J. Cameron Wilson, Ald. F. E. Harley, J. B. Hay and William A. Martin. A toast to candidates was proposed by Dr. C. A. Harris and responded to by A. M. Judd and R. N. Slater.

The Harmonic Quartet rendered an excellent program between speeches, which was enthusiastically received.

Officers of Star of Bethlehem Lodge, who formed the executive committee in arranging the banquet and program, are as follows: W. T. Clark, W. M.; W. M. Noble, I.P.M.; W. J. Wray, Dept. M.; W. C. Clark, treasurer; C. O. Smith, first lecturer; W. B. Orr, recording secretary; E. A. Wray, financial secretary; W. B. Savage, D. of C.; J. T. Todd, tyler; H. Wildgust, first comm.; Art Wilkes, second lecturer; A. C. McMullen, inside tyler.

MR. MITCHELTREE GIVES HIS FAREWELL RECITAL

London Pianist Presents Delightful Program, Assisted by Messrs. Warner and Webster.

Clothing his selections with rich expression and exhibiting almost perfect technique, Thomas G. Mitcheltree, London's blind pianist, achieved an artistic triumph before a large audience in Cronyn Hall last night. The occasion was Mr. Mitcheltree's farewell recital before leaving for his new home in Toronto on Friday. He was acceptably assisted by the Rev. C. Quintin Warner, cellist, and Edward Webster, baritone.

Interspersing his own compositions with those of other masters, Mr. Mitcheltree was able to express his own moods and interpret in a wonderful manner the poetry of the classics. Of particular appeal were the popular melodies, such as "Way Down Upon the Swanee River," which he rendered with his own coloring, as encores. In every selection there was ample evidence that his inability to visualize has been compensated for by a wonderful appreciation of harmony and all that is beautiful in the realm of sound. Soulful is perhaps the only word that adequately describes his performance at the piano.

Beginning with Bach's "Bouree in G. Minor," Mr. Mitcheltree summoned all the dignity and philosophy of the German master of counterpoint. In "Duetto" he brought to his aid the poetry and romance of Bach, and as a finale played "Aria and Svcherzo in F. Sharp Sonata," which reflected the very essence of romance.

Mr. Webster in the second number brought out the martial spirit of "The Two Grenadiers," by Schumann. In his subsequent appearance in the sixth number his deep-throated baritone was heard to excellent advantage in "Alone in Love's Garden" (Hewitt) and in "Invictus" (Hugh).

The third number included two of Mr. Mitcheltree's own compositions and a Largo Intermezzo, by special request. In his "Nocturne" the auditor feels as though he were brought in communion with nature, the sighing of the winds and rustle of the foliage being readily distinguished. The "Barcarolle" is also a tribute to nature, but the whispering of the breeze is replaced by the laughter of the rippling waters.

Negro, Welsh and Irish airs are in the group interpreted by Rev. Mr. Warner with the cello and an improvised accompaniment by Mr. Mitcheltree. The sentiment of the South is blended with the spirit of Ireland and the patriotism of Wales in this splendid group.

From the delicate and exquisite gem of "Nocturne" to the fiery march of "Polonaise Militaire" the pianist shows the wide range of Chopin. Through the valse, impromptu and prelude the musician bespeaks the mood of the composer and then in the finale he indicates the revolutionary spirit, which rises to a grand climax.

The three selections of Mr. Mitcheltree's own competition, which he offered in conclusion, were light, airy and at times fantastic. Sweeter than chimes was "The Dance of Fairies," while "Romance" called up visions of summer time and of love. The sketch of Elora Falls was charming, the shading from the sound of the water in spray to the deep rumbling of the mill being executed with an artistry that revealed the soul of the musician.

TORONTO POLICE MUST WATCH THEIR CONDUCT

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—New regulations for the police of this city, which have just been issued, forbid constables from attending a theater, race track or other places of amusement while off duty without obtaining leave to do so.

"Constables neglecting to avail themselves of the time at their disposal for rest and sleep, and spending a large portion of their time in walking about the streets," the regulations state, "are to be reported to the chief constable.

"A policeman entering a public house or liquor shop, except on duty, is liable to dismissal. The new regulations state that a policeman may be dismissed without any reason for such dismissal being assigned.

CHILD WELFARE GREAT QUESTION

Miss Mary Power Tells Catholic Women of Need of Action

100 DELEGATES PRESENT

Big Program Outlined by the Resolutions Committee

"The Canadian child is the most important branch of social service," said Miss Mary Power, of the provincial health department, in an address yesterday afternoon to the diocesan convention of the Catholic Women's League, in session at St. Peter's Hall.

Miss Power sounded the keynote of the entire gathering, and of the future objective of the Catholic League, organized in the Diocese of London only eight months ago and boasting 58 subdivisions already in active organization.

Welcoming the 100 delegates to the city, Mayor Little referred to the fact that not only was this the first diocesan gathering of Catholic women in London Diocese, but the first annual convention of the league to be held in the Dominion. His worship referred to the admirable stand made by Bishop Fallon for educational affiliation in this city, in identifying the scholastic institutions of his church with the Western University.

REPORTS PRESENTED.

The address of the president, Mrs. B. C. McCann, who, it is confidently hoped, will become the diocesan president at to-day's election, the secretarial report presented by Mrs. W. H. Fox, and Miss Power's address on child welfare, were outstanding events of the afternoon.

"We would have been surprised 10 years ago to know of the social service activities of the year 1921," Miss Power said. "That challenge of the Holy Father Leo, centuries ago, to look into the conditions of the working classes, sounded a summons to Catholics of the world to meet the responsibilities awaiting them. The work of child welfare has grown amazingly, and the history of social service, particularly in the church, has come from small beginnings. St. Francis of Assissi accomplished a great work, the wiping out of feudalism, through the insistence of personal sanctity. Who knows but we that may see the present system of capitalism overthrown by some small effort.

"Canada's war debt is our pride," Miss Power continued, "but it also is our debt. If we are to replace the lives that were sacrificed we will have to see to it that the children of to-day grow up fit to fill the gap."

Citing the detailed activities gathered under the heading of child welfare, Miss Power paid a special tribute to this type of organization in London "London is to be congratulated on affiliation with the Western University," Miss Power remarked. In this way we can keep in touch with the men and women graduates who are going to be particularly interested in social service.

DEPENDENT CHILDREN.

"Dependent children of the province, outside of Toronto are cared for by some branch of the one organization, the Children's Aid Society," the speaker pointed out, but the dependent children are not all. There are a great number of children needing special care because of some mental deficiency. Can the Catholic League help in some small way towards the solution of this problem? There are the juvenile delinquents; can we not form voluntary committees to assist the work of the probation officers? There is child labor, and I beg of you as an organization to prevent children from entering industry too young or too poorly equipped educationally.

"Health is a point that touches women more nearly, Miss Power said. Every civilized nation has entered the race for the conservation of child life, and New Zealand can boast the lowest death rate of infants under one year. In Ontario we lose 100 babies out of every 1,000 born alive, but the ultimate gain will not be the number of babies born, but the number who survive without handicap."

Concluding, the speaker urged the importance of prenatal care as proven by the 3,000 still-births registered in the province in one year. "A huge campaign faces the public health nurse in her maternal work in Ontario," she said. "The Provincial Board of Health helps out the municipalities in need by public health centers and public health nurses. It may be necessary for your subdivisions to augment what is being done along these lines, and to help in conquering the plague of malnutrition, prevalent among rural, town and city children alike."

HITS PARKED MACHINE

Miracle How Driver of Unidentified Car Escaped Injury in Accident Last Night.

How the driver of an automobile, whose name could not be ascertained, escaped serious injury, when he crashed into an automobile, owned by Frank A. McCormick, which was parked on Wellington street, near the corner of Central avenue, is a mystery. Both machines were badly damaged, and the impact was so terrific that the steering wheel of the unknown car was broken away from the supports, the driver sitting in a dazed condition, with a death grip on the lone wheel.

Last night about 7 o'clock an auto was proceeding north on Wellington street and, after it passed over Central, crashed into the parked car. The brakes were on the parked machine, but nevertheless it was pushed fully 100 feet from its original standing place. Just how the accident occurred is not known, but it is thought the driver either lost control of the car or did not see the standing machine.
