THOMAS'

HAMPDEN AGAIN SCORES AT GRAND

Actor Presents "Taming of Shrew" to Delighted Audience

GIVEN EXCELLENT SUPPORT

Not a Dull Moment to the Pleasing Performance

Not a dull moment! Farce as Shakespeare designed it to be played, in a gay gavotte measure. Farce-speech as Shakespeare designed it should be spoken trippingly upon the tongue. "The Taming of the Shrew" as Walter Hampden and his company presented it at the Grand last evening is a delight for the ear and a ravishment for the eye; it is mirth mingled with beauty, it is play of wit, it is humorous characterization—and withal, it is a philosophy of life which men and women have been somewhat tardy in the learning.

As the law saw a married woman's plight in Shakespeare's day, Petruchio is well written within his rights when he says of the newly wedded Katherine: "I will be master of what is mine own; she is my goods, my chattels; she is my house, my household stuff, my field, my barn, my horse, my ox, my ass, my anything; and here she stands, touch her who dare, I'll bring mine action on the proudest he. . . ." But—men and women are always better than the law, life goes its way in spite of statutes. Shakespeare puts quibbling words about the "law" in Petruchio's mouth, then he qualifies those words with Petruchio's character; buoyant Petruchio and his subduing tempests of high spirits that run up against a temperament like that of Katherine to bode peace and love and quiet life and the awful rule (of two), and right supremacy—"and, to be short, what not that's sweet and happy."

Shakespeare can laugh. Yet mere laughter wearies him. Even in the taming of Baptista's daughter, "Kate the Curst," there must be more to than just laughter. That "more" is a tender prophetic mirth that echos down the ages.

IN PADUA.

The tale of how Baptista's daughter, Katherine, was a shrew, which shrew is tamed by her husband, is too well known to need retelling. The scene is set in Padua: Shakespeare was never out of England—it's as if he saw it all. In most of the poet's dramas scenes of extravagant burlesque are merely a divertisement after the awful solemnity or pathos of other scenes. In "The Taming of the Shrew," the divertisement is the main issue, while the secondary intrigues and minor incidents carry the romance and the sentiment of the play.

Mr. Hampden plays the gay braggart Petruchio with infinite skill. In his hands Petruchio moults no feather of his growing love for Katherine till near the close of the play. Then for one wild moment he kisses and fondles her shawl and henceforth, stamp he never so bravely, we know the man, that interlude has betrayed him.

For the rest never was there so brilliant a Petruchio, so confident a Petruchio, so splendid a Petruchio, in his gay shreds and patches. A Petruchio to win any woman's liking—as he did Katherine's. The star brought all the fascinations of his person, all the clarity of his diction, all the music of his voice to his interpretation of the role. It was a Petruchio in a hundred.

Producers of "The Taming of the Shrew" usually neglect the opportunity Shakespeare himself affords them of having Katherine play her role in such a way as to show that the joke is not on her but on Petruchio. Amelia Josephine Burr, in her poem, "Petruchio's Wife," develops the idea in the following racy stanzas:

Ay, go your ways, my lord! Look how he struts and ruffles it along the sunny street. His doublet's broken at the seam again! I'll look to that when he comes home. He's worse than any wanton youngling on his gear. He has a gallant bearing, well worth ten of my fair sister's pretty mummer—Bah! playing the schoolmaster to win a bride he might have had by knocking at the door and shaking a fat purse. Petruchio measures more nearly to a man's degree, yet he is but a boy, an o'ergrown boy. Was ever man so easily deceived? What, did he think that he could master me by wearying my body, starving it, shaming it with vile raiment? Bless the fool! And yet I swear I did not bless him then—I could have killed him rather—but I thought, "Kate, thou art married—make the best of it. Thou hadst been wiser to lead apes in hell, but since thou hast thy cup of folly poured, drink it off smiling. He shall pay anon!"

There, at Bianca's feast, where he would show his power so braggartly, I had well-nigh defied him to his face, when I recalled Hortensio's fine madam and her taunt. What other way to sting so well, thought I, as show myself the model, her the shrew? Eh, did I sweetly play the pattern wife? Ask of Petruchio's pouch, where merrily his fellow bridegroom's golden forfeits clinked until I spent the better half of them upon a cap richer an hundredfold than that I spurned to please him. Am I tamed? Thus much, perhaps, that now I play my part, not bitterly, but laughing in the sleeve that now is fashioned to my own desire—I praying his approval—and instead of anger at his braggart boyishness is something neither pity nor yet love—the child of both, belike. I used to think that when I held the larder keys, himself should fast some day, to pay that fast of mine. But when the time came, I no longer cared for little vengeance on a little wrong. And so I speak him fair and feed him well and keep him bravely clothed, and when he meets his friends, he vaunts the merits of his wife, while they all marvel at the mastered shrew! Look, he comes home. He's never long away. How boyish gay he waves an eager hand seeing me waiting at the window here! God rest thee merry, good Petruchio, how I could love thee—were thou more a man. . . . My excellent dear lord! Art thou returned? Then is the day grown bright for Katherine.

MISS HALL.

A Katherine in whom we see the germ of that other Katherine, is the Katherine Miss Mary Hall gives us—"a curst Kate" at first, but one who has the humor at last to size up herself and her situation. Miss Hall's smiling mouth as the scene closes, quite gives the lie to Katherine's humility. It is a delightful performance.

The Hampden company last evening was a company which any producing actor might be proud. Just to speak of the quality of the voices alone, of how the voices carried the lines, with perfect intelligibility, to the farthest corner of the building, is in itself the rarest commendation.

Then there was the deft characterization, the variety of personages and temperaments made out of the several roles; the richness of stage business, the grouping of figures and the movement—a series of living pictures that melted from picture to picture at the producer's will. Finally the color scheme of Italian fifteenth century costumes projected against a background of street scenes and gardens and interiors, whose forms and lines were softly blent—Italy comes again, or the suggestion of Italy which is better still.

The Tranio of Reynolds Evans was a delight, a sexagenarian and a fop, in love, and given to syncopation and giggles—oh joy!

Hannan Clark as Crumio was the personification of the sententious yokel, who is a natural philosopher to boot.

Le Roi Operti, always picturesque, ran his usual note of "old masters in Florence" or in any other Italian picture gallery, into the scene. Mr. Operti never takes a false attitude, never strikes a false note of color, never misses a point in the dialogue—he is the most artistic of comics.

MISS KEARNS.

The Bianca of Elsie Herndon Kearns is pretty and girlish and in the garden scenes amorously coy, a charming picture. The Baptista of William Sauler, the Vincinto of Allen Thomas, the Lucentio of Ernest Rowan, the Grenuo and Hortensio of P. J. Kelly and Daniel Grant; these were gallant gentlemen and suitors.

The Peter of Richard Highley, Nathaniel and Sugarsop of Cedric Weller and Peggy Barnstead; the Curtis of Mabel Moore, together with a Tailor played by Paul Girard and a Pedant by Edwin Cushman completed what was a remarkable ensemble.

Scenes well painted, costumes rich, color delightful.

A large house and much laughter and applause.

A happy incident of the evening, subsequent to the play, was the celebration, by the company, of the 75th birthday of the veteran actor, Allen Thomas, whose Polonius of Monday evening drew such plaudits from the audience. Happy returns!

DELIGHTFUL RECITAL AT MASONIC TEMPLE

The Ladies' Auxiliary, of the G. W. V. A., is to be congratulated on the fine recital which they were responsible for giving London music lovers at the Masonic Temple last night. While the hall was not packed as it should have been for an entertainment of this character, the auditorium was comfortably filled and the audience appreciated to the full the fine program of selections from the world's graetest composers and handled in a most finished manner by the capable artists.

Miss Charlotte Peege, contralto, presented a repertoire of numbers that placed the unmistakable mark of versatility on her work. Her voice is of fine range and possesses unusual qualities of sweetness and clarity and is, withal, of unusual strength.

Miss Peege combines with her delightful voice a pleasing personality and a sense of the dramatic which she uses with splendid effect. Her program was long and varied, but she handled every number with skill and appreciation.

Philip Sevasta's harp selection held the audience spellbound. He is an artist with this sweetest of musical instruments and he put his whole heart and soul into the music. His mood seemed to change with the changes in the mood of the selection which he played. His playing was heartily received by the audience who would apparently have been pleased with some encores.

Florence Brinkman proved herself a finished student of the piano. Her selections from Mozart, Scarlatti, Chopin, Rubenstein and Stoye were greatly enjoyed. She acted also as accompanist to Miss Peege.

BELIEVE HOLD-UP AN "INSIDE" JOB

New York Detectives' Theory on Big Mail Robbery

THIEVES WERE ADVISED

Knew Which Pouches Contained Rich Securities

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Disclosure of the fact that the loot in last night's mail truck hold-up in Broadway included nearly $500,000 in bonds, coupled with Postmaster-General Hays' offer of a $5,000 reward for the robbers "dead or alive," to-day set scores of detectives working on a theory that the rich haul was an "inside job."

Of the stolen securities, $463,000 worth were the property of patrons of the Chase National Bank, while $27,000 worth belonged to the Park National Bank. The total sum secured is said to be $1,000,000.

The inside job theory, upon which postal inspectors admitted they were basing their investigations, was based on the belief that news of the shipment had reached the band through channels so reliable that they not only knew which truck was to carry it, but could pick out the very sacks containing their prospective booty.

NO HESITATION.

The robbers never hesitated in selecting the four most valuable ones out of 11 sacks of registered and six sacks of ordinary mail matter.

Besides stationing police and federal officers to cover all possible exits from the city, Postal Inspector Coughlin set a staff of 40 clerks to work making an accurate check-up of registered mail in the stolen bags.

Officials of the Chase National Bank withheld information regarding the destination of the packages of securities, which contained Government of Argentina two-year 7 per cent. gold notes, due October 1, 1923, and Canadian Northern Railway 6½ per cent. sinking fund gold debenture bonds, due July 1, 1946.

LOSS OF MILLION IN STORM OVER FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 25.—At midnight to-night the tropical hurricane, which entered the state at Tampa this morning and spread northeastward across the state, causing a loss of property and crops estimated at approximately one million dollars, was apparently attaining its maximum velocity in the vicinity of Jacksonville.

No information as to the plight of St. Petersburg, 20 miles across the bay from Tampa, has been received, but it is believed the city is faring much the same as Tampa. Both cities are protected by a sea wall.

The heavy rains throughout the state have thrown cities and towns in darkness because of the disruption of power plant facilities, notable among these being St. Augustine and Orlando. See also page one.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 25.—The Government will receive succession duties amounting to nearly half a million dollars from the estate of Mrs. G. H. Bisby, who left $3,397,000. Seyeral nieces and nephews will receive about $200,000 each.

POLICE COMMISSIONER FINED AS AN "INTOX"

PLAN BRANCH HERE

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—When the final organization of the Government's rural credit scheme is fully completed the provincial treasurer will open his first three sub-treasury deposit branches in the City of Toronto. Not only will Toronto be the first municipality in which experiment will be made with the new scheme, but it will be the only city for some time to have deposit branches.

Once the costs of administration have been more closely calculated from the results of operations in Toronto, the department will likely go ahead and open other branches in Hamilton and London.

ONE CONVICTED IN T.S.R. ROBBERY CASE

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—A jury in the general sessions this afternoon found Percy Hill guilty of conspiracy and an attempt to rob the Toronto Railway Company last August.

Clifford Curry and H. W. Head were not guilty of the same charge. According to the evidence there was a plan to enter the company's East End substation and loot the safe. The police got wind of the scheme before any damage was done.

Hill will be sentenced later.

The Liberals and the Women's Franchise

C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate in London, is off to a bad start. His opening meeting was for the ladies, and in an effort to curry favor with them he declared that it was not the Government which gave the women the franchise, "but Parliament at the instigation of the Liberals."

Mr. Somerville must be either grossly ignorant or else deliberately attempting to deceive the women of London.

The bill giving the women equal franchise with the men was introduced in Parliament during the session of 1918. Although it did not directly come under his department, the bill was presented by Sir Robert Borden, he explained the measure, fathered it through the House and was its chief defender. Not only was the bill not instigated by the Liberals, but there was strong opposition from the Opposition benches. Only two Liberals spoke in favor of the bill, while a score of Liberals, supporters now of Hon. Mackenzie King and candidates again this election, bitterly attacked the measure. There was unanimous support from the Government benches.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was at that time Liberal leader. He opposed the bill on the ground that the Liberal policy was to accept provincial lists and that women should only be given the votes in such provinces which provided for female suffrage. His followers, however, were much more outspoken in their opposition.

H. A. Fortier, member for Labelle, condemned the measure in the following language:

"I, for one, say that it will be a great error if, on the pretext of giving a transitory liberty to a class, we should bring down women from their throne at the fireside, where natural law has placed them to fulfil a divine mission. If the consequences of this movement to take women from the home and lead them into the public arena, where men are disputing great questions, are good, it is evident that we must vote in favor of this bill; but if, on the other hand, it can be proved that these consequences would be evil for the country and regrettable for the home, it is our duty to vote against it. For my part, I deplore this movement. The work of woman, her true realm, is nowhere but in the home, and this I say not only for the woman who already possesses a home, for the mother of a family, but for the woman who has no home."

Charles A. Fournier, Bellechasse, was equally emphatic in his denunciation of the bill. He said:

"It will be a nice condition of affairs with our women in politics. Imagine at a convention multiplying the tongue whangers without increasing the minds capable of initiating legislation. It will injure women physically. Who shall say that at all times they will be equal to the excitement of caucus rows, campaign slanders, briberies, inflammable speeches, torch parades and balloting on stormy days. How will the poor workman's wife go to the polls? It is the sediment, not the wave of a sex. It is the antithesis of that highest and sweetest mystery, conviction by submission, conquest by sacrifice. I want no contest with women."

Arthur Trahan, Nicolet, declared that the bill was not called for by a majority of women, and added, "but solely by a few emancipated creatures, a few suffragettes, crazy for a crumb of petty glory." Joseph Demers, St. John and Iberville, who is slated for a cabinet position if Mr. King wins, declared it was a bad piece of legislation. "The bill," he said, "will not in any way improve the organization of our social, moral, economic or political life. Far from being a step forward for women, this so-called emancipation will mean disaster to those on whose behalf it is granted as well as the nation at large." Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who is Mr. King's chief lieutenant from Quebec, was particularly strong in oppositon to the bill. He made a lengthy speech to show that the place of women was in the home and not in public life. The voice of the Opposition was almost unanimous against the measure, A. R. MacMaster, Brome, being the only Liberal member to speak on its behalf.

Yet, in view of this record, Mr. Somerville coolly tells the women of London that the measure was "instigated by the Liberals." If the followers of Mr. King had had their way the bill would never have passed.

The Free Press cannot believe that Mr. Somerville would deliberately misrepresent the facts. It must have been a case of ignorance, but if he is no better posted on other public questions than this one, he should take a course in Canadian political history at the university in which he is so much interested before he essays any further public utterances.

If Lloyd George Crosses the Atlantic

In the eventuality of Mr. Lloyd George's visit to Washington, as leader of the British delelgates to limitation of armaments parley, several Canadian cities have cabled the British Premier inviting him to attend special meetings to be arranged in his honor.

The premier's definite answer, however, is attendant on circumstances.

Canadians look forward with the most profound interest and enthusiasm to the possible visit of Lloyd-George, who probably is the most powerful man in all Europe at the present time, to the coming of the man who was at the helm of the "ship of state" when the great war broke loose, to the coming of the man who guided that ship as true captain through the roughest and most dangerous sea she ever was forced to travel.

Should the British Premier come to the United States and Canada, it will fill Canadians with the knowledge that the empire is being superbly represented. It also will assure them that the economic and industrial situation in Great Britain has reached a desired stability, and that the Irish question either will have been happily solved, or is on the eve of such a solution. Mr. Lloyd George's decision to leave the empire's capital city to cross the vast Atlantic, to spend at least three weeks "abroad," will demonstrate that the foundations of British society are in no way menaced by the various party sections and class cries that have reached the ears of London's multitudes from time to time.

If the premier delegates some one else to take his place we can rest assured that he does so because he feels that that some one is adequately qualified to be the British representative at the parley and that the time he would have given to the journey and sessions could be put to special service in some urgent empire question.

In any case, to use a current phrase: It will be safe to leave the final decision to "George."

Pure Misrepresentation

Recently The Farmers' Sun came out in flaring headlines declaring that Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen had moved a resolution in Parliament while a private member in Opposition advocating free agricultural implements. Since then Liberal papers have been repeating this statement, and C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate in London, reiterated it in his opening speech. If The Farmers' Sun, the Liberal press and Mr. Somerville would take the trouble to look up Hansard, they would have discovered that this story was manufactured out of whole cloth. Mr. Meighen is a moderate protectionist and always has been. He believed then that the duty on agricultural implements was too high and moved accordingly in the following resolution, as shown by Hansard, January 18, 1911:

"That in the opinion of this House a substantial reduction in the import duties on agricultural implements is now due the agriculturists of Canada and is in just accord with the true ends of a protective tariff."

Mr. Meighen in moving the resolution went on to make clear that he was a firm believer in the principle of protection, but showed that the tariff as it stood under the Laurier regime was higher than was necessary to afford adequate protection. The tariff on agricultural implements then was 20.23 per cent. Since the Laurier Government was turned out of power a reduction in the duty was made so that to-day it stands at 14 per cent., or what Mr. Meighen advocated. What is there inconsistent about this stand? Incidentally, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. Mackenzie King opposed this resolution. If there is any inconsistency, it is in the attitude of the Liberals who oppposed a reduction in agricultural implements in 1911 and to-day have as their policy free trade in agricultural implements.

If Mr. Somerville had been acquainted with the facts he would not have indulged in the cheap sneer that Mr. Meighen was endeavoring "to forget his two-hour speech in Parliament in which he advocated with great vehemence the removal of the duty on agricultural implements."

Patronizing Foreign Workmen

London, among other industries, has certain famous Biscuit and Confectionery plants, the products of which are to be made free of duty, as specified in both the Liberal and the Farmers' platforms under its category of free foodstuffs.

London, therefore, is vitally interested in this exceedingly important native industry, which means to Canada as a whole:

195 factories or plants; $23,836,187 capital invested; 10,742 employees; $7,589,000 pay roll.

When Mr. Mackenzie King called a Liberal convention together in the summer of 1919, that convention drew up a party platform which, among other details of the party's political policy, solemnly pledged that if returned to power the Liberals would put the principal articles of food on the free list—"all products of wheat flour specially."

Will the Liberals keep their promise? Either that, or their platform means no more to them than the "scrap of paper" meant to Bethmann-Hollweg of infamous memory.

A vote for the Liberal party, then, means one of two things: It means free foodstuffs—it means that our biscuits and confectionery, our canning plants, our flour-milling industry, our baking powder industry, our vinegar and pickles industry, our enormous meat industry (with its annual pay roll alone of $15,302,388), our dairies, all our food industries down to the last corner cook shop, are to meet the formidable competion of United States, German, Japanese and other manufacturers on a free trade basis.

It means this unimaginable disaster to thousands of plants and hundreds of thousands of workmen. Or it means that the Liberal party elected, if such should occur, on a platform which it never repudiated, would go into power under false pretensions.

Either way the thing is unthinkable.

A vote for the Liberal party means a vote for men whose bond with the people of Canada is not worth the ink with which it is written:

Or it means a vote to wipe the biscuits and confectionery, and all other food products industries off the map of industrial London and industrial Canada.

London is interested in this question down to its last citizen.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The present Liberal party is dry, but not high.

Skirts, like prices, are coming down, but quite as slowly.

"Change is our portion here," said the waiter as he held out his hand for a tip.

The linger-longer habits of American visitors to Quebec has a meaning all its own. Can anyone guess it?

The "coup" of ex-King Charles and his wife has failed. They now are incarcerated in the castle at Tata-Tovaros. This move will probably be their ta-ta to claims on the Hungarian throne.

The Third Column

EMPTY-HANDED.

He piled it up for years and years,
His fortune larger grew,
Men's jeers he braved, as he scrimped and saved,
As ever the selfish do.

He gave to nothing and bought no more
Than he thought was his urgent need,
He'd have plenty of gold when he was old,
And that was his constant creed.

Plenty of gold when his hair was gray
To spend upon pomp and pride—
But, having his pile, with a tired smile
He folded his hands and died.

Then his soul went up to the pearly gates
Where they asked of him to show,
As they do each one, what he'd ever done
With his time on the earth below.

Then he proudly told of the gold he'd made,
And the smiling angel throng
Said: "Let us behold one piece of your gold, Surely you brought it along?"

GIVE UP!

There will be wars and armaments and great personal burdens for all the world to bear just so long as the idea is fostered that it is more practical and safe to get than to give.

Selfishness and conceit are the two great laughing ghosts behind every war and every cruel ambition.

When the world as a whole starts to give up it will get a-plenty. And it will thrive. Beauty and prosperity and happy homes and nourished children will be the result.

Jesus was a wonderful philosopher. He had a keener insight into people's hearts and thoughts than anyone who ever lived. Sell all, and then come and follow Me—that was what He was constantly teaching. His idea was that a man must purge his heart of all selfishness in order rightly to serve. And service to Him was the supreme task in life.

Only as we get this fine and splendid idea into our minds are we able to appreciate the soundness of life's great ideals.

I believe that the reason why we find it so much easier to carry other people's burdens than our own is that we magnify our own to proportions far beyond what they actually are.

We must constantly learn that we must give up—that we must let pass many of the things for which we so much long. When we first think this over it seems unfair and quite impossible. But after we have put the principle to the test and have let time pull us to the right distance from our decisions we find our perspective quite right.

We must give up—in order that we may give!

Mothers understand what this means. Builders of nations get it clearly. Leaders in every great movement for the betterment of humanity do not have to be taught this sublime truth. Each knows it instinctively. And so they give up—that they may gladly and happily give.

If you are unhappy and discouraged the chances are that you are concentrating too much on your own ways and means.

Don't try to get—but give up!

—By George Matthew Adams.

HIGH LIFE.

The dame, resolved on suicide, sat down and wrote some parting lines, explaining why, before she died, and took in all her divers signs. "Too much high life, and here's the end; I've fractured man's and nature's laws;" and then she shot a lady friend, and killed herself, without a pause. You read it in the public prints, and doubtless gave it little thought, so many tales of crimson tints are daily to your doorstep brought. The words of moralists seem vain, the folks must have their gaudy time; "too much high life"—that will explain one-half the carnival of crime. Too much joy-riding in the night, when sober men are in their coops; too much pursuing cheap daylight, and letting duty loop the loops. To much of crazed and fevered love, of wedding pledges cast aside; and now the thistles grow above the slayer and the suicide. The wave of crime still sweeps along, and every hour some victims fall; right seems submerged beneath the wrong; "too much high life" explains it all. Too much high life has filled the jails with delegates bereft of hope, with foolish dames and jingled males who face the hangman and the rope.

ONTARIO JUSTICE

An Ontario farmer caught a young woman doing a "September Morn" on his property and had her hailed before the county magistrate.

"What's the charge?" asked his honor.

"Takin' a bath in the spring, your wurship," said the constable.

The aged dispenser of justice consulted a dog-eared copy of the statutes and buried himself in its pages for several minutes. Then closing the legal tome and stroking his beard, he said very solemnly: "The charge is dismissed and the miss is discharged. I find that she had jest as much right to take a bath in the spring as in the fall."—Boston Transcript.

Here Are the Three Political Platforms

The Parties and the Tariff.

The Free Press has had many inquiries as to the tariff policies of the three parties. The tariff plank of the National Liberal and Conservative party is as follows:

"A thorough revision of the tariff with a view to the adoption of such reasonable measures as are necessary—(A) to assist in providing adequate revenues; (B) to stabilize legitimate industries; (C) to encourage the establishment of new industries essential to the economic development of the nation; (D) to develop to the fullest extent our natural resources; (E) to prevent the abuse of the tariff for the exploitation of the consumer; (F) to safeguard the interests of the Canadian people in the existing world struggle for commercial and industrial supremacy.

"The principle of trade preference between the different members of the Britannic Commonwealth should be maintained and extended from time to time to such degree as may be found practicable and consistent with Canada's interests."

"That the best interests of Canada demand that substantial reduction of the burdens of customs taxation be made with a view to the accomplishing of two purposes of the highest importance: (1) Diminishing the very high cost of living which presses so severely on the masses of the people; (2) Reducing the cost of the instruments of production in the industries based on the natural resources of the Dominion, the vigorous development of which is essential to the progress and prosperity of our country.

"That to these ends wheat, wheat flour and all products of wheat, the principal articles of food, farm implements and machinery, farm tractors, mining, flour and sawmill machinery and repair parts thereof, rough and dressed lumber, gasoline, illuminating, lubricating and fuel oils, etc., nets, net twines and fishermen's equipment and fertilizers should be free from customs duty, as well as the raw material entering into the same; that a revision downward should be made and substantial reductions should be effected in the duties on wearing apparel and footwear, and on other articles of general consumption (other than luxuries), as well as on the raw material entering into the manufacture of the same; that the British preference should be increased 50 per cent. of the general tariff.

"That the Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislation the provision of this resolution when returned to power."

As to the reciprocity pact, which the people of Canada defeated in the general election of 1911, it is declared that "we, as Liberals, again place on record our appreciation of the object of the said agreement, and our faith in the principles of friendly international relations underlying it, and we express our earnest hope that there will be a renewed manifestation by the two governments of a desire to make some similar arrangement."

The tariff plank of the Farmers' party, as promulgated by the Canadian Council of Agriculture, calls for the amending of the tariff laws as follows:

(1) By an immediate and substantial all-around reduction of the customs tariff.

(2) By reducing the customs duty on goods imported from Great Britain to one-half the rates charged under the general tariff and that further gradual uniform reductions be made in the remaining tariff on British imports that will insure complete free trade between Great Britain and Canada.

(3) That the reciprocity agreement of 1911 be accepted by the Parliament of Canada.

(4) That all foodstuff not included in the reciprocity agreement be placed on the free list.

(5) That agricultural implements, farm machinery, vehicles, fertilizers, coal, lumber, cement, illuminating fuel and lubricating oils be placed on the free list and that all raw materials and machinery used in their manufacture also be placed on the free list.

(6) That all tariff concessions granted to other countries be immediately extended to Great Britain.

GET THE LAND SETTLED

By Observer

But for the war the population of Canada might easily have been from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 greater than forecasts of the forthcoming census returns indicate. For five years before Germany precipitated the world conflict, the Dominion had been receiving from 300,000 to over 400,000 immigrants a year. Even if this average had not been fully maintained the tide of immigration during the past seven years must have continued strong. Not only did the war stop the influx. For a time it turned the trend of population the other way. Aside from the terrible wastage of man power and the decline in the birth rate following our own participation in the war, newly arrived foreigners left the Dominion in tens of thousands. A considerable proportion joined the allied colors in other countries. The rest took their departure to escape conscription. As an inevitable consequence an inadequate population, scattered over half a continent, now finds itself confronted with heavy burdens and unable, except with difficulty, to meet the overhead charges of a huge war debt, a costly pension list and a serious deficit on a tremendous mileage of public-owned railways.

The proper course to pursue under the circumstances is surely obvious. The ground lost during the war must be regained and that with the least possible delay. The tide of immigration must be quickened toward our shores. Scrapped immigration machinery must be reconstructed and abandoned colonization agencies got into action once more. Nor must it be imagined that this can be accomplished in a moment. The flow of immigrants cannot be turned on and off at will like water through a tap in the kitchen sink. It is only by sustained effort over a considerable period that an important movement of desirable classes of settlers can be got under way. At present the stream of British immigrants has set towards Australia and New Zealand. The time has arrived to begin preparations for diverting our share of them this way and for carrying out effective immigration work in the United States and other appproved countries. Months will be required to get the necessary machinery in operation. Nor should the measure of unemployment existing to-day be allowed to stand in the way of such forehanded preparations.

If there were enough people on the land in Canada to-day, there would be fewer people out of work in the towns and cities. That much is clear. The larger the rural population, the larger the home market for the products of domestic industries. The greater the purchasing power of the farming population and the villages, the greater will be the activity in mill, in factory and in city building trades. More people will mean an increased volume of freight and passenger traffic for the railways, more business for the merchants, more money for everyone, and a progressive decline in the individual burden of taxation.

The immediate business of the nation, therefore, is to make timely arrangements in advance for pumping in the right kind of settlers for the land. Not only this! Care must be taken to see that the newcomers are placed on the land under favorable conditions and that they stay on the land and make good there. Thirty million acres of fertile prairie soil lying close to existing railway lines cry out for the plow. The older provinces of confederation have the land and the resources to support many times their present populations. So has British Columbia. The thing to do is to get busy. Let everybody help—the Federal and Provincial governments, the railway, the press, the Western Canada Colonization Association, and every other immigration organization capable of effective mobilization.

THE CLINIC.

Comes the joyous early morning,
Comes the sounds of many voices,
Come the budding Aesculapii;
Round about the bed they gather
At the call of learn'd mentor,
For a discourse on my neighbors,
He of the surpassing kidneys,
He of the fallacious X-rays,
He the mine of hidden phosphates,
Oxylates and doubtless urates,
Whom they excavate for wisdom,
And for sundry other causes,
Much to securing delectation
Of the very grateful subject.

Rising up the learned chieftain
Scalps the timorous late-comer,
Chaffs his very earnest audience
And immediately plunges
Into starry flights of language,
Which are much beyond my powers
To describe or even venture,
Being past my understanding,
Sundry terms and Latin phrases
Which will flabbergast my neighbors
In my coming convalescence.

THE FREE PRESS LETTER BOX

Editor Free Press: At a recent meeting of the Trades and Labor Council there seems to have been some objections to one paragraph in my recent charges against the city engineer's department and that is the one referring to the one-armed man being employed on a sewer job and being compelled to use a shovel, which, I claim, is not a job for a one-armed man. The department should have found a better job for this man and how anyone can take objections to this charge I fail to see. To make it clear, I repeat the charge:

"Dundas street sewer. Here is a case that is almost ridiculous, and is no reflection on the man responsible, nor his misfortune to have only one arm, but is a reflection on the man responsible for his employment, and there should have been better judgment used in this case. I refer you to photo No. 1, showing a one-armed man on a sewer job, and this man was at times put at a job shoveling. Is this efficiency? Would you permit this in your private business? Would anyone with common sense allow this—where it isn't necessary?"

Mr. Editor, you will notice that at the outset I state that this is no reflection on the man, and I also state that better judgment should have been used. No objection was made to employing this man. Far be it from such that any remark of this kind should come from the writer, as I have too much respect for the rank and file in general, but I did, and do now object to employing a crippled man on shoveling job when other jobs could, should, have been found for him. And further, I stated very clearly in another paragraph that these charges were not made against the men, but at the head of the department as being inefficient. Yours very truly,

ALDERMAN G. A. WENIGER.

The Man of the Hour

In this hour of Canada's most acute national crisis, the country's greatest need is leadership—not class leadership, not sectional leadership, but NATIONAL leadership. A pilot must be chosen possessing the necessary courage, foresight, breadth of vision and determination to lead the nation safely out of the existing economic uncertainty.

Born on a farm near St. Mary's, Ontario, Arthur Meighen is a true son of the people, a toiler who has fought his way to eminence by sheer ability, and force of intellect. Entered Parliament in 1908; appointed Solicitor General in 1914; Minister of the Interior in 1917; and Prime Minister in 1920.

At the Imperial Conference he was acclaimed by the Press of Great Britain as a great statesman, as a strong, virile, vigorous personality—alert in mind, keen and far-seeing in judgment, and with a fearless determination to stand for the right.

Professor A. D. Skelton of Queen's University, and biographer of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wrote of the present Prime Minister:—"He has already given proof of high administrative capacity. His personal integrity is beyond question."

Of himself Arthur Meighen said to his constituents the other day:—"You know where I stood on this issue in 1908, in 1911, and as in 1911 I stand today."

CATHOLIC RIGHTS IN EDUCATION

Bishop Fallon Delivers Address on Separate School Question

PLEDGE OF THE B.N.A. ACT

Roman Catholics in Ontario Should Have Rights of Protestants in Quebec

The position of the Roman Catholics of the Province of Ontario, their claims in regard to educational rights and an exposition of the grievances under which they now claim to suffer was clearly and most forcibly set forth last evening by His Lordship Bishop Fallon in an address delivered before the delegates to the convention of the Catholic Woman's League in the parish hall of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Mrs. B. C. McCann, president of the local subdivision of the Catholic Woman's League, presided and introduced the speaker of the evening.

Bishop Fallon referred in opening to the success which had attended the Catholic Women's League. It was right that that organization should be interested in education, for it was one of the first principles to which their constitution bound them.

Catholic education Bishop Fallon defined as the giving of an education under Catholic auspices, in a Catholic atmosphere, by Catholic teachers and from Catholic textbooks. For this the whole weight of the Catholic Church would contend.

THE START.

Separate schools became necessary in Upper and Lower Canada because the Protestant minority of Quebec would not trust themselves in educational matters to the Catholic majority.

"I am not blaming the Protestant minority of Quebec," he continued, "for I would not trust my educational rights to any majority which did not believe with me. I justify the Protestant minority of Quebec in their stand, but I say that if they are right then the Catholic minority of Ontario is also right in demanding the same thing. That is only fair. I have never been able to accept what has sometimes been thrown into my teeth that I am not as good a Canadian as any because I am a Roman Catholic, but if I accept that the Queen's dissentient Protestant minority in Quebec have rights to education and do not maintain that the Queen's dissentient Catholic minority in Ontario have the same right, then I admit that I am inferior."

Continuing, Bishop Fallon said the rights of the Protestant minority of Quebec and the Roman Catholic minority in Ontario in matters educational were recognized by the fathers of confederation. The Protestant minority of Quebec had been given every right by the Catholic majority in that province that had been guaranteed to them under the British North America Act, but these rights, he contended, had not been as freely given to the Catholic minority of Ontario. The agitation against Roman Catholic separate schools in Ontario had first been lead by the Hon. George Brown and The Globe newspaper, and it had the effect of driving the Catholics of this province into the arms of the Conservative party. "Hon. George Brown put us in politics," said his lordship, "and Sir John A. Macdonald kept us there, for that great statesman, by speech, word and action, recognized that it was not safe to monkey with the Roman Catholic machine. I am not saying that as my own. I am merely stating the attitude of Sir John Macdonald."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

It had been argued that the establishment of separate schools would tend to break down the great national system of public schools, but this, the speaker claimed, was without warrant, for the separate schools of Ontario, in their competition with the public schools, was one of the great and powerful influences in building up the public school system of this province.

The British North America Act of 1867 made permanent what the Separate School Act of 1863 had instituted, separate and general schools in Ontario, and had put it beyond the power of the majority to inferfere with the rights of the minority in this respect any more than the Catholic majority of Quebec could interfere with the rights of the Protestant minority in that province. That was the spirit of confederation, and if it had been otherwise there would have been no Canada.

Ontario Catholics were quite satisfied to have the educational system of this province administered under a Protestant Minister of Education. A clergyman had once been Minister of Education in this province, but Bishop Fallon assured his hearers that they would never see a priest there, although he saw no reason why this should not be, except that there seemed to be a suspicion that a priest in that position might turn the whole system over to the pope.

GRUDGING SPIRIT.

He contended that there had been a grudging spirit against separate schools in Ontario from the beginning, and it was only after a great deal of intercession and beseeching that the Catholics were given the right to collect school rates the same as the supporters of the public schools. He scored the action of a superintendent of education of this province, who had written that he did not approve of separate schools, and woud like to see them put out of business, and this despite the rights granted to the Roman Catholics of Ontario under the Canadian constitution. For the past 13 years the Roman Catholics of this province had constantly, but courteously, urged the different provincial administrations to consider the grievances of the Catholics in matters of education, but always without success. Bishop Fallon said he exonerated the present administration of Ontario from that charge, but they had become the heirs of the educational fortunes accumulated by their predecessors. Because of their peculiar treatment of Catholic interests and Catholic schools the present educational laws of this province were, the speaker said, the most illogical jumble ever placed upon any statute book.

Catholics were not permitted to carry on continuation schools, or even lower school work in the high schools sections except at their own expense, which, he contended, was most unfair. The Provincial Government, he contended, had no power to make this limitation, for if they restricted Catholics now to the fourth form they could draw the line even tighter next year, until eventually there would be nothing left but the

In the matter of continuation schools he cited the case of Dublin, where, after a school was built at an investment representing some $40,000, the provincial authorities refused to recognize it. Sir James Whitney gave the Catholics power to carry on continuation schools as far back as 1906 and two of the schools established then are still in existence. "But, I say with shame," he continued, "that the Continuation Schools Act introduced and passed by Sir James Whitney, which gave the Roman Catholics of Ontario the right to carry on continuation schoos wherever they had separate schools was amended and the right to continuation schools taken away." The school situation, he contended, was not only illogical, but intolerable and could not continue.

TAXATION.

Bishop Fallon also outlined the difficulties with which separate schools are confronted in regard to school taxes contributed by corporation, public utilities and banks. Although these companies might have many Catholic stockholders all the taxes they paid to the upkeep of the public schools, which he contended was decidedly unfair.

In conclusion Bishop Fallon said: "The situation has got to be defined one way or the other. We must be told plainly and frankly that in educational matters we do not cut as much figure as citizens of other faiths or it must be said that we shall get our rights. I have not much fear of the issue if we can only get it put plainly and fairly before our non-Catholic friends. When the people have the issue of the Catholic educational rights before them we ask that they give it consideration, study and conclusion, and with that we shall be satisfied. I appeal to our non-Catholic friends and ask them if they are going to make of the British North America Act a mere scrap of paper. With all the pretensions of this province to fair dealing will they permit themselves to be outdone by the Roman Catholic Province of Quebec. I trust their replies will be such as to give us the rights to say that Ontario stands in first place in determining that its people shall keep their engaged word and preserve their honor with the minority dwelling within their gates."

At the conclusion of his address his lordship was most enthusiastically applauded by the large audience which filled St. Peter's Parish Hall and had listened with close attention to his able exposition.

SWITZERLAND IS CLOSED TO KARL

RULING OF PRESIDENT

Royal Pair Likely to Be Sent to Some Island

GENEVA, Oct. 25.—Former Emperor Charles and ex-Empress Zita, of Austria whose attempt to regain their throne has resulted in their capture by Hungarian troops, have wore out their welcome in Switzerland.

"Never will they return to this country," declared President Schultzes to the Associated Press to-day, "and if they should return by airplane, as they left, then we should arrest them, intern them and finally expel them. Charles must understand that the doors of Switzerland are definitely closed to him."

"Should the exiles return, continued the Swiss president, "we would give them the choice of four frontiers. If the report is confirmed that Charles and the ex-empress have been arrested in Hungary, let the Hungarians keep them, or they could eventually go to the United States. Of course, we shall take care of the children until some other arrangement can be made."

SELECTING A RETREAT.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Former Emperor Charles' attempt to regain the Magyar throne may result in his interment either on Ascencion Island or on one of the Canary Islands, according to diplomatic circles here to-day, where it was stated that these possibilities might be considered by the allied supreme council. The general belief was expressed that he would be removed to a "safe place" outside of Europe.

TO ABBEY MEANTIME.

VIENNA, Oct. 21.—It is reported that former King Charles to-day accepted unconditionally terms offered him by Admiral Horthy, the regent, and that he has been assigned to the Benedictine Abbey, of Tihany, on Platten Lake, where he will make his residence until further orders.

ESSEX, Oct. 25. — While playing "prisoners' goal" at the public school on Monday morning at recess Mabel Hill, the little 12-year-old daughter of Aaron Hill, tripped and fell, breaking her leg below the knee. The first aid kit of the school was helpful in the accident.

PREMIER'S TOUR STIRS PROVINCE

Straight Talk and No Hedging, Mr. Meighen's Method

WELCOMES INTERRUPTIONS

Western Ontario Audiences Large and Attentive

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen's tour of Western Ontario, concluding with his Brantford meeting, has been an inspiration to his supporters and a successful foray into the enemy's camp, but above all else the premier's addresses have been educative, and education of the public with reference to the Government's record and policies has been much neglected for some time. Mr. Meighen is an acknowledged master of the art of presenting facts and figures accurately and succinctly, from memory, and of doing so without wearying his audience. His style is argumentative, but never abusive; declamatory, without flights of high-sounding oratory, and is an example of perfect English, free from meaningless or obscure phrases.

Nevertheless the premier puts over a new one now and again. Stirred by the ambiguity and inconsistency of Opposition leaders' platform utterances, he condemned them as "sententious puerility." Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's vague phrases about a "revenue tariff" and a "tariff for the home" he dismissed as "circuitous pomposity." Like the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier the premier has been a great reader, and an historical, mythological or Scriptural simile comes to the surface once in awhile. Answering Mr. King's charge that in the closure he had destroyed representative government, the premier declared that "not a thousand men, though they were tyrants like Caligula, could do that."

ALL SORTS OF RIDINGS.

Mr. Meighen, in the course of his seven Western Ontario meetings during the past week, spoke in urban and rural centers, constituences devoted chiefly to manufacturing, and ridings in which farming is the main industry. Some were represented in the thirteenth Parliament by Government members; others by supporters of the Opposition. Audiences ran from 1,700 to 4,000. In all cases the premier presented the Government's tariff policy without deviation, dealing faithfully as well with such other topics as Opposition speakers declare to be issues of the campaign. In view of a persistent charge that he is "forcing the tariff issue" to avoid discussing the Government's record, the prime minister points out that the platforms of both Farmers and Liberals challenge the existing fiscal policy of the Dominion, and the National Liberal and Conservative party has no choice but to defend it. Furthermore, he expressed at all his meetings a willingness to discuss any phase of the Government's record which members of his audiences might desire, and welcomed interruptions from those who desired information or the speaker's authority for statements made.

At the Clinton, Sarnia, St. Thomas and Brantford meetings there were interlopations, chiefly of a distinctly friendly character, and those which were not were answered promptly by the premier and turned into corroboration of his argument at the moment.

LIBERALS AND FARMERS LISTEN.

At all these centers the prime minister was tendered a civic welcome by the major, or council, in some cases associated with the local Chamber of Commerce and other organizations. Interest in his argument, and in the political situation generally, was strongly indicated by the number of recognized supporters of other parties who attended all his meetings. At Brantford, on Monday evening, the premier directer his remarks specially to these "visitors" and gave them a few things to think about, with regard to the tariff proposals of Mr. Crerar and Mr. King. In inviting questions from opponents, Mr. Meighen remarked upon the fact that one of the Opposition speakers, addressing meetings in Ontario, had made it a cardinal rule that there should be no interruptions. "If I had his cause, I would make the same rule," said the premier.

But his audiences have been, above all else, keenly attentive, notwithstanding the fact that the premier spoke as long as an hour and forty minutes at Brantford, and an hour at each of the two meetings at Sarnia. On the program as well there has been the local candidate and other speakers, including Sir Henry Drayton and Sir George Foster.

OFF THE KING PLATFORM.

The prime minister has made a very effective point of the peculiar situation in which certain Liberal candidates in Western Ontario find themselves, in that they announce themselves favorable to continuation of tariff protection for Canadian industries, while the official platform of their party pledges that party, when returned to power, to wipe out protection on the most vital industries of the Dominion. The Free Press representative with the premier encountered considerable of a feeling on the part of Liberal supporters that their candidate, if elected, would permit no drastic revision downward of the tariff. This point the premier dealt with vigorously at Brantford, when he emphasized the fact that W. G. Raymond, if elected there, must vote with his party on the address, thus defeating the Government, insofar as his own vote is concerned, and "who then," asked the premier, "will maintain the tariff" ?

WEST MEANS BUSINESS.

The prime minister entertains no illusions in regard to the strength of the Farmer's movement in the West, and at Brantford warned all his hearers that it must not be under-estimated. Hon. T. A. Crerar, whose Liberal predilictions the premier well knows, might be inclined to aid his one-time party, but those behind him would never permit it. Western farmers do not dodge the tariff issue, they talk of nothing else. They are after free trade, and if they attain power they will get it.

"What I like about Mr. Meighen," said a St. Mary's man, after the meeting there, "is that he does not talk about 'this splendid town' and 'the finest county in Canada' and all that sort of bunk. It is a straight business talk."

The premier's voice and physical energy have held up wonderfully against the strain of his long tour of the Maritime Provinces and Ontario, and he seemed more vigorous and effective at Brantford on Monday than at any previous meeting in Western Ontario. He continues this week in Eastern Ontario, and goes to Quebec early in November. A half-dozen newspaper men accompany him, in addition to a representative of the Canadian Press, and perhaps no better tribute to the deadly effectiveness of the prime minister's satirical treatment of Mr. King's varied appeals need be quoted than the fact that the modern practice of giving uncolored news reports is marred by biased comment thereon only in the Toronto Globe, which, to quote Mr. Meighen, "is supporting the Liberal party in everything except its leader and its policy."

DISCUSS THREE PLANS OF UNION

A. & N. Veterans' Convention to Debate Question

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The question of the amalgamation of all veterans' organizations will be the debate at the annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, which opened here to-day.

Major F. G. Taylor, in his presidential address, said a draft resolution would be put before the convention, which would give an opportunity for a discussion on three questions, namely, total amalgamaton, immediate federation with a view to ultimate amalgamation or federation without any intention to amalgamate.

Among the several resolutions submitted to the resolutions committee was one to petition the Government to alienate the Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act from the Pensions Act.

MAKES PLEA FOR BABES SHE LEFT

Windsor Mother Sorry She Abandoned Twins

IS GRANTED • PROTECTION

Willing to Disclose Identity of Father

WINDSOR, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Free Press)—The mother who packed her twin babies of only a few days in a suit case and then abandoned them to die on a Detroit River ferry on September 15, now seeks to recover the babies provided she is granted protection and immunity from the law.

"I am sorry and I want my babies back," the repentant mother wrote today in a letter to M. R. Winter, inspector of the Children's Aid Society. "But I want to be protected from the law. "Please give me back my babies and I will protect them."

The letter, which is signed "Jessie," stated that the writer was willing to disclose the identity of the father, and specified that Mr. Winters inform her through the columns of the press of his intention.

PROTECTION PROMISED.

"'Jessie' need not fear the law. She may rest assured that she will be given protection and immunity if she will reveal the identity of the father and aid the authorities in clearing up the mystery surrounding these abandoned children," Mr. Winters declared. "I am willing to meet 'Jessie' at my office in Windsor or at any place in Detroit convenient to her," he announced.

The discovery of the twins was made by a deck hand on one of the river boats. When the babies were removed from the suit case they were nearly suffocated. They were sent immediately after the boat's arrival in Detroit to the Children's Hospital. Later they were deported to Windsor. Gradually they recovered their health, and later were adopted by two families here.

Passengers on the boat informed officials they had seen a young woman, somberly dressed, hurry from the boat after it had landed at the Windsor dock. The suit case, with the twins, was discovered shortly after she left the boat.

Investigation by the authorities revealed that a week or 10 days prior to the discovery on the deck of the ferry boat the birth of unnamed twins had been registered at the city hall. Their registration, however, failed to provide any clue to the identity of the parents of the abandoned babies.

Watch the Film Go

That film which dims your teeth

Your teeth are now film-coated, more or less. Perhaps the film is cloudy, so the teeth look dim.

Look at them. Do they glisten as they should? If not, try this new method and watch how they change in ten days.

Millions of people have done this. You see the results on every hand — in teeth you envy, maybe. Do what they do—combat the film. Then see how well it pays.

That film does this:

Film is that viscous coat you feel. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. The ordinary tooth paste does not end it. Brushing does not keep teeth free.

Month after month it may linger to do a ceaseless damage. Most tooth troubles are now traced to film. And, despite the tooth brush, they have constantly increased. Very few people escaped them.

The film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

Years devoted to it

Dental science has for years sought to end that film. Its baleful effects make it supremely important.

Ways have now been found to fight it. Authorities have proved them beyond question. Now leading dentists everywhere advise their daily use.

The methods are combined in a dentifrice called Pepsodent—a tooth paste based on modern science. And a 10-Day Tube is being sent to anyone who will try it.

Other desired effects

Modern authorities have also found the need for helping Nature. Our starchy diet makes this necessary. To cope with the possible effects of this diet, we should stimulate Nature's teeth-protecting agents.

So Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is Nature's agent for digesting starch deposits which may otherwise cling and form acid.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer of the acids which cause tooth decay.

Each use of Pepsodent gives multiplied power to these tooth-protecting forces. And that alone, it is believed, means a new dental era.

Old-time tooth pastes, based on soap and chalk, brings just opposite effects. Such effects must be avoided, as modern research shows.

The user of Pepsodent cannot doubt the benefits it brings. Some results are almost instant. A week reveals conspicuous effects.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

A book we send will tell the reasons. Then you will know, beyond all question, what is best for you and yours.

This Test is Free

Simply mail the coupon for a 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent. Watch the effects and judge it by what you see and feel. You will quickly realize that it means to you and yours a new era in teeth cleaning. It means whiter, safer teeth.

How your dentist displays the film

Your dentist, when you visit him, may coat your teeth with iodine. That stain shows up the film. Then he removes the film by vigorous dental cleaning.

Pepsodent combats the film-coats daily. It aims to prevent those deposits. Otherwise, between your dental visits, the film may do much damage.

Children suffer in particular from these film attacks. Dentists advise that Pepsodent be applied twice daily from the time the first tooth appears.

Men who smoke will often deeply stain the films. They will see most conspicuous results from any film removal.

So to all in your family this question is important. It is time to settle it, as millions have done. Cut out this coupon now.

Griffin-Smith.

A pretty house wedding took place on Saturday, October 22, at high noon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, London road, when their only daughter, Bessie Alwill, became the bride of Isaac Clifford Griffin, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Griffin, also of London road. The ceremony was performed under a bower of autumn leaves and flowers, by Rev. J. J. Durrant. The bride, who was unattended, was given in marriage by her father, and looked charming in her pretty gown of white georgette crepe, trimmed with satin ribbons. A veil of net falling from a coronet of orange blossoms completed her costume, and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses. The wedding music was played by Miss Jessie Griffin, sister of the groom. During the signing of the register Miss Emma Bell, cousin of the bride, sang sweetly "Because." After congratulations, the guests, numbering about 35, retired to the dining-room, which was prettily decorated in pink and white. Here a dainty wedding luncheon was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many useful and beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Griffin left late in the afternoon for Grand Rapids, where they will spend a short honeymoon. The bride traveled in a suit of brown velour with beaver trimmings, and hat to match. On their return they will reside on the London road.

DOMINION PRESIDENT IS GUEST OF CATHOLIC LEAGUE AT LUNCHEON

A happy augury for the first convention of the Catholic women of the Diocese of London was the luncheon arranged at the Tecumseh House yesterday in honor of the delegates to the Catholic Women's League convention, taking place in this city yesterday and to-day. The hostesses were the members of the London subdivision of the league, with Mrs. B. C. McCann, presiding over the pretty tables, which were decorated most charmingly with tall green standards filled with snowy mums.

Mlle. Guerin, of Montreal, president of the Dominion Catholic Women's League, was warmly welcomed by the delegate guests.

"I claim French origin, and I am proud of it," Mlle. Guerin said. "I claim origin, too, from that little beloved, troubled country, Ireland, but Canada is my country, the only country in the world; the greatest country in the world; and it is the women of Canada who can make it holy as well as great."

The singing of the Marsellaise was a gracefully spontaneous tribute from the delegates to their distinguished officer, whose brief address was followed by greetings from Mrs. W. H. Lovereney, president of the Hamilton subdivision, and treasurer of the Dominion League; from Mrs. Margaret Jones, of Montreal, executive secretary, from Mrs. Kentleton, of Toronto, provincial organizer of the league, and from Mrs. Allen McLean, of Toronto, a former active worker in this city.

Greetings to the league delegates were also presented by Mrs. T. E. Leonard, president Women's Canadian Club; Mrs. E. B. Smith, president local Council of Women, and regent Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E., Mrs. John Stevely, president Sanatorium Aid Society, and Mrs. J. P. Betts, provincial commissioner Girl Guides; Mrs. Betts referred particularly to the recent gratifying decision to have two Catholic companies of guides formed in this city.. During the luncheon Mrs. Ed Wyatt sang several delightful solos.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—For the slender, boyish type of figure there is a lot of charm in the Chinese straightness of line which marks the silhouette of the two-piece tailleur illustrated to-day. This is a style of suit still popular with smart young women, notwithstanding the variety of new things shown. It is made of black velour relieved by gray, in itself a guarantee of chic, the gray being introduced in the suede cloth vest and soutache trimming, and again in the soft fox fur. Note what an individual touch is lent to the sleeve, where it is turned backward at the flaring wrist, the fur applied on top. The skirt is plain, of comfortable walking width and length.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

He looked at his daughter half apologetically.

"Well, it's the best thing he could have done," he said.

He changed the conversation, and Laxton's name was not mentioned again; but he was in Norah's thoughts all the time. She wondered why it was that he so persistently haunted her; half a dozen times during the afternoon she fancied that she could hear the sound of his motor horn along the lane.

Once she started up, with flushing cheeks and quickened breath; but when she looked eagerly from the window the lane and high road beyond were empty and a little chill of disappointment fell upon her heart.

She supposed she would never see him again. It was unlikely that he would ever wish to see her any more after the way her father had spoken to him. She hated the memory of that scene in the garden.

She wondered a hundred times a day what he was doing; if there was any one else who was as pleased to be with him as she had been.

Three days slipped away; the workmen had finished their work at Barton Manor; the blinds were drawn up and there was a look of new cheerfulness over the face of the old house.

Now and then rumors stirred in the village and took definite form.

Laxton was coming back and bringing a crowd of his London friends with him; Laxton had sent down a chef from town; Laxton was going to have a last fling before the house was sold.

Some said the house was already sold; some said that the man who had been financing him, on the strength of his expectations from old Snowden had stepped in and taken everything.

Norah listened to all the rumors with a little forlorn heartache; she was sorry for Laxton; sorry for the hard unhappiness in his eyes when he had told her so bluntly that he was undeserving of her pity.

Rodney avoided her, and she had found it almost impossible to get back to the old affectionate friendship that had existed between herself and her father. The whole world seemed to be turned upside down and refused to be straightened out again.

And then one day when she was wandering aimlessly in the garden, wondering what to do with herself, a big closed car turned in at the gate, and from the window Laurie Fenton waved a white-gloved hand to her.

"So I have found you in! What good luck! My dear child! What have you done to your poor arm?"

Norah colored a little.

"Well, aren't you going to ask me in to tea? I've come all these miles to see you; I'm still at Didsbury, you know."

She got out of the car and held up her powdered cheek to be kissed.

Norah just touched it with her lips. "Of course, you can have some tea?" she said.

She tried to seem as if she were pleased to see her visitor, but in reality she was not pleased at all.

The sight of Laurie, and the sound of her high-pitched voice, reawakened a little doubt in her heart that had been there since that day when she first saw her with Laxton at Lumsden station.

Other events had crowded it out since, but now it rose obstinately to the surface again.

People had said that Laurie and George Laxton were engaged to be married; had there ever been any truth in it?

Laxton had denied it, but now she recalled the manner of that denial, a little throb of jealousy stabbed her.

She tried to stifle it as she led the way into the house.

Laurie was looking about her with critical eyes; she thought the place was ugly, but that it looked expensive; she knew that Mr. Ackroyd was a rich man; she had not hesitated to borrow pocket money from Norah when they were at school together, even though she had looked down on her and called her father common.

She was wondering if it would be any good attempting to borrow anything now. She was desperately hard up or she would never have consented to marry Ryan Hewett; she shuddered whenever she thought of him; she hated everything about his person—the way he dressed, the way he spoke, and the way he looked at her.

But she loved his money and his house and the many things he could give her.

Norah took her into the drawing room and rang for tea; she was never quite at her ease with Laurie.

"And do you know many people round here? But, of course you do," Laurie said. "People in the country always know each other, don't they? It's not a bit like London, where you may live next door to each other for a lifetime and not even know one another's name. I suppose you've all called on the new lord of the manor?"

Norah looked up. "If you mean Mr. Laxton—he is not here—he has gone back to London."

TO PROVIDE HOME FOR TRANSIENT HOMELESS

London Women Will Meet to Discuss Need for Such a Hostel in This City

To consider the advisability of providing a hostel for temporarily destitute persons in this city, a meeting of all London women has been called for Friday afternoon of this week at Cronyn Hall. The gathering is to be entirely nondenominational, and it is hoped that women of all churches will be present with ideas for meeting the needs which present conditions are making urgent.

Mrs. Joseph Marshall, who is one of the initial movers in the undertaking, has asked a representative from the Salvation Army to be present to give advice for the project, which she feels to be most urgent at the moment. At a meeting of the Local Council of Women, held last spring, it was hoped that the old convalescent home building might be obtained for this purpose, but it was found to be unavailable, and the matter has again come up for consideration.

"I know that there are many persons in this city temporarily out of work, and often wholly destitute," Mrs. Marshall said yesterday to The Free Press.

"There are unfortunate men and women leaving the jail, who have no immediate prospect of shelter, and there are many others who, for various reasons, are without sustenance for the time being. I think just such a home as is proposed to be most necessary, and although we have no funds to start with, I am hoping such an establishment could be begun on a very small scale, and might in time become self-supporting. We would not ask pay, but those who are able to do so might make some returns. I hear that there are men sleeping on the streets or anywhere they can get in. That being the case, a temporary hostel is surely greatly needed."

It is understood that a number of prominent social workers in the city have allied themselves with this undertaking and will be present with suggestions on Friday afternoon.

W. I. CONVENTION TAKES PLACE HERE NEXT WEEK

Women's Institute Delegates to Be Guests of City; Hon. Manning Doherty to Speak

The convention of Western Ontario Women's Institutes, to take place in this city on November 1, 2 and 3, promises to be one of the most interesting of the W. I. gatherings yet held.

With the honorable Manning Doherty, Ontario, minister of agriculture, as a special speaker on Tuesday evening, November 1, and with Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, and other notable Canadian speakers as possible additions to this program, the meetings will be of very great interest.

Delegates to the number of several hundred will register in this city on Tuesday morning and the subsequent sessions will be held in the Masonic Temple. A civic banquet, for which the McCormick Manufacturing Company are loaning their dining hall, on Tuesday evening, preceding Mr. Doherty's address in the Masonic Tempie, and a trip to Byron Sanatorium as a concluding event on Thursday afternoon, are among the municipal recognitions of the convention, which will include much important business.

Consideration of the federation of institutes, the present system of organization, and other general matters will form a portion of the agenda, which will cover some attractive lectures and demonstrations, in addition to the branch reports.

QUEBEC, Oct. 26.—Under the provisions of the Quebec Liquor Act, which comes into effect here following the repeal of the Scott Act, the Quebec liquor commission last night issued permits for seven hotel licenses, 29 tavern licenses, eight restaurant licenses, one club license and 43 shop licenses.

OFF TO THE FAIR.

It seemed to Henrietta Hen that the time for the fair would never come. She had begun to feel somewhat uneasy, because she had talked so much about visiting the fair with her children that it would be very awkward if she didn't go. So she was delighted one day by the noise of hammering and sawing that came from the work bench at the end of the wagon shed. A merry noise it was, to Henrietta's ears; for she guessed at once what was happening. Farmer Green and his son, Johnnie, were building a pen in which she and her family were to ride to the fair.

The news spread like fire in sundried grass. Henrietta Hen took pains that it should. She told everybody she saw that she expected to leave at any moment. And she began to say good bye to all her friends.

Since Henrietta didn't start for the fair that day, before nightfall she had bade every one farewell at least a dozen times. And when, the following dawn, Henrietta started the day not by saying "Good morning!" but by bidding her neighbors "Good bye!" once more, they began to think her a bit tiresome.

"What! Haven't you gone yet?" they asked her.

"No! But I expect to leave at any moment," Henrietta told them. She was so excited that she couldn't eat her breakfast. But her chicks had no such trouble. And perhaps it was just as well that Henrietta Hen had her hands full looking after them and trying to keep them all under her eye, and spick-and-span for the journey. Otherwise she would have been in more of a flutter than she was.

What! Haven't you gone yet?" they asked her

While Henrietta had an eye on her children she tried to keep the other on the barn. And after what seemed to her hours of watching and waiting she saw Johnnie Green lead the old horse, Ebenezer, out of the door, with his harness on. Henrietta promptly forgot her stately manners. She ran squalling across the farmyard and called to Ebenezer, "Where are you going?"

"I understand that I'm going to the fair," he told her, as Johnnie Green backed him between the thills of a wagon. "Once I would have been hitched to a light buggy, with a sulky tied behind it. But now I've got to take you and your family in this rattlety old contraption."

Henrietta Hen didn't wait to hear any more. She turned and hurried back to gather her youngsters and bid everybody another farewell.

Amid a great clucking and squawking Johnnie Green and his father put Henrietta and her chicks into the pen and placed it in the back of the wagon.

"We're all ready!" Henrietta cried to Ebenezer. The old horse didn't even turn his head, for he could see backwards as well as forwards, because he wore no blinders. He made no direct reply to Henrietta, though he gave a sort of grunt, as if the whole affair did not please him. He knew it was a long distance to the fair grounds and the road was hilly.

"She thinks it a lark," he said to the dog Spot, who hung about as if he were waiting for something. "She's lucky, for she won't have to go on her own legs, for miles and miles."

"That's just what I intend to do," Spot informed him. "They don't mean to take me. But I'm going to follow you, right under the wagon, where Johnnie Green and his father can't see me.

So they started off. And they had scarcely passed through the gate when Henrietta Hen began to clamor in her shrillest tones. But nobody paid any heed to her. The wagon clattered off down the road. And old dog Spot smiled to himself as he trotted along beneath it.

"Henrietta just remembered that she forgot to put on her best apron," he chuckled.

MRS. HASTINGS IS GIVEN FREEDOM

"No Bill" Against Dublin Woman Accused of Poisoning Husband

MRS. STRICKERT INDICTED

Will Face Trial at Stratford To-Day on Similar Charge

STRATFORD, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Mrs. Catharine Hastings, of near Dublin Village, who was held on a charge of murdering her husband early last spring by administering poison, was this afternoon released from custody following the presentment by the grand jury of the Supreme Court session here of "no bill."

In this case, following the burial of Mr. Hastings, his widow came to Mitchell and there caused a sensation when she "confessed" to having administered the poison. After being placed under arrest this statement was repudiated by her.

A true bill was returned in the case of Mrs. Margaret Strickert, Elma Township, charged with murdering her husband on July 16. This case will proceed to-morrow morning before Justice Lennox. After the death of the husband, who was not living with his wife, it is claimed, suspicions were aroused and an inquest was ordered.

OPEN VERICT.

The coroner's jury returned an open verdict of death, due to strychnine, administered by some unknown party or parties. Further investigations on the part of the authorities resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Strickert. At the preliminary hearing it was shown that Pearl Strickert, a daughter, had purchased strychnine, but it was claimed by both mother and daughter that the poison was used to kill rats at their home in Moncton.

Dr. J. F. Sebben, Stratford, dentist, was found guilty of driving an auto in such a manner as to result in the death of Royal Smalley, 12-year-old son of J. Smalley, Stratford, on September 26. The jury asked for leniency and the request of the defendant's lawyer for suspended sentence was granted. The verdict of the coroner's jury was to the effect that Dr. Sebben was on the wrong side of the road, owing to a misapprehension as to what direction the lad was about to take.

Levi Kuepher, aged 16, was allowed to go on suspended sentence and on $4,000 bail being furnished, following his plea of guilty to a serious charge involving a young married woman. A petition for leniency was presented to the court and among the signatures were those of the woman against whom the offense was committed, and her husband.

BRILLIANT ORATOR TO ADDRESS WOMEN'S CAN. CLUB ON CITIZENSHIP

Great interest attaches to this week's visit to London of Mr. Walter McRaye, the brilliant Canadian orator, who will address the Women's Canadian Club to-morrow (Thursday) afternoon at the Normal School. Mr. McRaye has been called by a contemporary periodical, the "Apostle of Canadianism," and his address in this city on "Canadian Citizenship" promises to be of outstanding importance. Remembered from his long career on the platform, when in company with the late Canadian poetess, Pauline Johnson, he toured Canada, Great Britain and the United States chiefly as an interpreter of the works of Dr. Drummond, Mr. McRaye returns in a new role, that of an orator and a public speaker.

Serving in the ranks of the C. E. F. for three years, he has come back with a message to Canadians, given by a man of deeper insight, broader visions and a keener consciousness of the things that are vital. Mr. McRaye is "a man with ideas and ideals," and during his forceful addresses given in every province of the Dominion in the past year, he has urged before clubs, colleges and schools, the need for greater citizenship and greater pride of country.

MARTIN L. HALEY U.F.O. NOMINEE

13 NAMES ARE PROPOSED

Means Three-Cornered Contest in the Riding

MOUNT ELGIN, Oct. 25.—(By Staff Reporter).—Martin L. Haley, of Springford, was chosen as the U.F.O. candidate for South Oxford at the nomination meeting held in the town hall today, securing a majority of 100 votes over the other nine nominees. A three-cornered political fight is now certain for South Oxford, as Mayor Dean, of Tillsonburg, has been named as the Liberal candidate and the National Liberal and Conservative party have strongly indorsed Donald Sutherland, late representative in the Federal House.

Fourteen nominations were received by Secretary M. M. Kneale, but four withdrew from the race, and the other 10 names were submitted to the members of the U.F.O. Martin Haley received 244 votes, while Burkee Palmer, Norwich, was the closest contender, having 56 votes. The following are the names of the nominees: Martin L. Haley, Springford; Burkee Palmer, Norwich; Peter Hughes, Hollhook; Miss Florence Zufiet, West Oxford; A. E. Hutlet, Norwich, J. Wright, North Norwich; M. M. Kneale, East Oxford; Warden J. R. Johnston, Springford; S. T. Rodwell, Burgesville; F. L. Schell, East Oxford; William Lambden, Delmar; Steve Jackson, East Oxford; W. W. Nancekivell, North Oxford, and Reeve James Rettie, North Norwich. William Lambden, Miss Zufelt, J. L. Wright and Steve Jackson withdrew from the race.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The town hall was crowded to its capacity and many persons wishing to hear the U.F.O. political speakers were unable to gain admittance to the hall. Over 500 credentials were issues by the members.

Mr. Haley thanked the members for the nomination, and assured them that he would support the Farmers' party and its leader, Hon. T. A. Crerar.

J. J. Morrison, Toronto, secretary of the U.F.O., was one of the principal speakers of the day, and his address before the U.F.O. members attempted to throw more light on the recall clause adopted by the Progressive party. "The recall is misunderstood. Recall safeguards the people, protects the man elected and prevents temptation," said the secretary. "When you learn to control governments you will not need government control. We have had bad governments, but they are no worse than you. There isn't a man here that didn't know his party, Grit or Tory, sucked eggs. It is your duty to watch your member and see that he does what is right. You would not hire a man under contract for five years under the condition that you could not fire him, but that he could resign when he saw fit."

THE BALLOT.

"It is up to the people to establish a responsible government. The ballot is our weapon, it is stronger than the gun and sword and is the only weapon we have to fight with.

"You are about to choose a candidate who will act, if elected, as a director for the corporation of Canada. I hope that you will select the best possible man, as a tremendous amount of responsibility will rest upon his shoulders. You now have your chance to put over a democratic institution," added the speaker.

"There are young men on the platform here to-day conducting the affairs on behalf of the U. F. O. This is one of the peculiarities. This hall is half full of women, and this is another peculiarity at an election meeting. You women are on equal basis with the men. The farmers' movement was the first to ask that the franchise be granted to the women."

"We have been told that we are narrow. The fact is that we are not narrow, but we are not understood and we have not been understood. We have had immigrants brought in and placed to work on the land and they compete against the farmers, but the farmers have not complained. You bring in mechanics and skilled laborers and see what the Labor men would say."

Secretary Morrison closed his speech by predicting the "dirtiest campaign ever held" and stated that he had been informed that thousands of pamphlets had been prepared and are to be distributed 10 days before the election.

WHERE WAS HE?

"Where was Hon. Mackenzie King when the war was on? We know!" This was the question asked and answered by Miss Florence A. Zufelt, of North Oxford, in her address to the voters of South Oxford. "We have heard about the tariff problems, but there are other matters of vital importance to us which we should consider," said the speaker.

A. T. Walker, M. P. P. for South Oxford, stated that it was gratifying to see such a large and enthusiastic audience and referred to the gathering held two years ago, when he was nominated for the Provincial Government and later elected.

"It has been a record two years at Toronto," he said. "In connection with the timber probe, of which you have all heard, I might say that it has been carried out differently than other probes. There have been settlements of $150,000 out of court in the timber probe. Hon. E. C. Drury was right when he put on the timber probe. No doubt the mining will have to be probed."

The provincial member stated that there are many matters in the Federal House which are of interest to the U. F. O. members, and closed by saying: "We want representation at Ottawa to see we get what we want."

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 26.—A negro was killed in a battle with Baltimore police at Humphrey station, a suburb of this city, late last night, following a threatened race riot. The riot was precipitated by an assault upon a white girl by a negro.

OPEN CAMPAIGN ON THURSDAY.

GALT, Oct. 25.—The election campaign is beginning to warm up and it is now a foregone conclusion that South Waterloo will have only a two-man fight, with F. S. Scott, late member and Government supporter, opposed by Wm. Elliott, U. F. O.-Labor candidate. The Liberals have dropped out of the fight, no mention being made of a candidate for the King forces. Both of the candidates in the field have organized and on Thursday night the first shots in the campaign for votes will be fired here, with both men seeking office holding meetings in the city, that of Mr. Scott to be addressed by Hon. J. A. Stewart, minister of railways, and Senator Gideon Robertson, minister of labor. Mr. Elliott and Karl Homuth, M. P. P., are speakers for the meeting of the opponents.

MEIGHEN TO SWEEP ONTARIO.

OTTAWA, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Free Press.)—With candidates fast lining up and a preliminary survey possible everything points to the Government carrying at least three-quarters of the seats in Eastern and Northern Ontario.

In Kingston, where, from present appearances, Sir Henry Drayton will again be the Government candidate, his election admits of no question. If possibly he should run elsewhere Brig.-Gen. Ross will carry the Meighen banner and be equally as strong as the finance minister. The Liberals have nominated no one against Dr. Edwards, while the Farmers' candidate has quit. If the Minister of Health and Immigration does not receive an acclamation in Frontenac he will have a walk-over at any rate.

IN GRENVILLE.

In Grenville, the seat lately held by Dr. Reid, the Government candidate is A. C. Casselman, who, from all accounts, will be elected, though there is formidable opposition by Mr. Payne, the U. F. O. candidate, who gave Hon. Howard Ferguson a rather close run in 1919. In Leeds and Brockville the election of Hugh Stewart, K. C., the Meighen candidate, is conceded. Dundas County will re-elect the former member, M. Casselman. In Glengarry-Stormont Mr. Kennedy, late U. F. O. member has the field to himself so far. He is admittedly strong.

In the normal Liberal constituencies of Prescott and Russell no Government candidates are yet nominated, but both Edmond Proulx and Hon. Charles Murphy, Liberals, are perturbed over the prospects of the farmers. In Prescott they have nominated a French-Canadian, Warden Binnette, while in Russell, Marshall Rathwell, a leading farmer, is in the field and seems to be going strong. The Government candidates have not been selected.

Two parties have nominated in Carleton, Bower Henry being the candidate of the Farmers and A. S. Gourlay of the Liberals. George Boyce is having opposition for the National Liberal and Conservative nomination, but the county is overwhelmingly Conservative and will stay in that column. In South Renfrew Isaac Pedlow, Liberal member, went into a blue funk and declined to run. J. W. McNab was selected in his place, but also quit. John Findlay, a strong Conservative candidate, is in the field and there is also a Farmer, While Dr. Maloney may run as an independent. Liberals are now endeavoring to induce T. A. Low, ex-M. P., to run, and if so they may hold the seat.

A PERSISTENT DOCTOR.

In North Renfrew a three-cornered fight is on between Dr. Cotnam, Government; Dr. McKay, Liberal, and John Collins, U. F. O. Dr. McKay is a perpetual candidate who has no chance of election and may retire. If he should do so the prospects of the Government holding the seat will be accentuated. In any event they expect to win.

In Nipissing, Charles Harrison, Government-Labor candidate, is expected to pull through, but the fight will be stiff. Coming back to Lanark, Hon. J. A. Stewart will win easily. He will have no Liberal opposition.

In Ottawa a three-cornered contest is on by the entry of David Loughnan, formerly one of the heads of the G. W. V. A. The general opinion is that his entry to the field, especially if, as is proposed, a French-Canadian Labor candidate is selected as his running mate, will mean the retention of both seats by the Government candidates, Messrs. Fripp and Champagne. The disaffected civil service vote is swinging to the Government since Mackenzie King talked about clearing away the "barnacles" from the servcie.

In what is known as New Ontario the Government can win Temiskaming from the Socialist-Labor member, Angus Mac Donnell, if R. T. Shillington is their candidate. Both Algomas are sure, and also Port Arthur, while in Fort William Hon. Dr. Manion may have an acclamation.

In all of Eastern and Northern Ontario only two seats, Prescott and Russell, are reasonably safe Liberal, and in three the former members are quaking. The uncertain factor is the strength of the farmers' vote.

W. LAMBTON SEES VICTORY

SARNIA, Oct. 25. — Since the big Meighen meetings of last week the Conservatives have been steadily perfecting their organization throughout the riding, and the prospects grow brighter every day for a victory on polling day. The great reaction which was heralded by the Liberal party as running strongly against the Government is not apparent here, and on every side workers bring in word of support from former opponents of the Conservatives.

Prospects in the country districts are considered very bright, and some of the most prominent workers on committees were opponents at the provincial and other elections. The visit of the premier in Sarnia was an inspiration to the friends of R. V. LeSueur, and the result was immediately visible in the frantic call from the Liberals for an appearance by W. L. Mackenzie King to help stem the tide of popular approval for the protectionist policy.

Bets are freely offered here that Pardee will run a poor third in the riding, as his position is that of a denunciation of the people who in 1917 supported with their whole organization and elected him, and a pitiful plea for support from the very people who opposed him at that time with every art known to the Laurier Liberal.

The soreness of the 1917 election is still existent, and it is openly stated in many quarters that Pardee's defeat would be the most popular event fo. the Laurier wing, who, in 1917, supported Dr. Morrison against the present Liberal candidate. It's all LeSueur in West Lambton.

All arrangements have been completed for the registration of voters in this riding, the registrars appointed and the places selected for registering. The days for getting new names on the list are October 31, November 1 and 2. It is stated that over 10,000 names will be added in the city alone.

HOUSES AND STORES ENTERED AT GODERICH

GODERICH, Oct. 25.—(Special to The Free Press)—An epidemic of petty thieving and burglaries has struck the town the past few days, which is giving the local police some difficulty in tracing out. Last night Jas. Howard's hardware store was broken into while he was at supper and some $40 in bills taken, the silver being left. The authorities have strong suspicion of a local young man. Entrance was obtained through a side door by forcing a heavy bolt.

Last night some person tried to obtain entrance to Calvin Cutt's grocery store, on Kingston street, but were unsuccessful, though they tried both front and back doors.

Mrs. Troy's house was also broken into and considerable money taken there, but the police have arrested a couple of young boys who are believed to know something about this.

A number of cellars have been relieved of their contents and citizens are getting uneasy and are taking every precaution in having everything securely locked.

DRURY NOT SURE ON PROTECTION

Seems to Think Free Trade Would Be All Right

PREMIER SPEAKS AT PARIS

Says Question of Election Is Who Will Control M. P's.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The great question of this election is not the tariff, but who are going to control the men elected, Premier Drury says.

"The people of this country, having wakened up, and studying now as never before public questions, must be sure the men they elect will voice their views and not those of somebody else," he told a large audience in the firemen's hall here to-night. The premier was speaking in support of W. C. Good, United Farmer candidate in Brant, who, with A. W. Burt, U.F.O.-Labor candidate in Brantford, also addressed the meeting. Rev. G. K. B. Adams, of Paris, presided.

Notwithstanding his estimate of the tariff as an issue, Mr. Drury devoted more attention to it than any other topic.

A VITAL ISSUE

"The tariff is a vital issue," he said. "But no one at the present moment is proposing free trade, and it is not an argument as to theory. We used to argue theory. I remember a party that stood for free trade as they had it in England, and was elected on that platform, and then, the opposition said with a good deal of truth, they never touched it after. Some platforms are made to catch votes and not for action after the votes are caught.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Mrs. Little Tells How She Suffered and How Finally Relieved

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I was not able to do my housework and had to lie down most of the time and felt bad in my left side. My monthly periods were irregular, sometimes five or seven months apart and when they did appear would last for two weeks and were very painful. I was sick for about a year and a half and doctored but without any improvement. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me, and the second day after I started taking it I began to feel better and I kept on taking it for seven months. Now I keep house and perform all my household duties. You can use these facts as you please and I will recommend Vegetable Compound to everyone who suffers as I did."—Mrs. J. S. Little, 3455 Livingston St., Philadelphia, Pa.

How much harder the daily tasks of a woman become when she suffers from such distressing symptoms and weakness as did Mrs. Little. Such troubles may be speedily overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

London Collegiate Drops Two Events to St. Thomas

Rugby Game Results in Complete Downfall of Locals by 61 to 1, the L.C.I. Registering Only Victory in Baseball by 22 to 6 and Another Loss in Basket Ball by 11 to 2

Yesterday afternoon the St. Thomas Collegiate students won two out of three events at the annual invitation sports day here from the London Collegiate, taking the girls' basket ball game by 11 to 2 and the rugby match by 61 to 1. The baseball game between the girls was all the honors the locals captured, winning by 22 to 6.

The usual parade, headed by the 7th Regiment Band and McDonald's Pipers, preceded the games at Tecumseh Park, and the Union Jack for the best appearance in the parade was won by the Lord Roberts section.

The football game proved a route. The St. Thomas team completely outclassed the locals, with possession of the ball practically all the time. The Saints towered over the locals in size, and the manner in which they carried out their plays left only the number of points scored in doubt.

The London Collegiate twelve was to some extent handicapped with Reg. Beard, their star, limping about in the game with a "charley horse," but it was doubtedly would have taken at least 12 Beards to stop the barbecue.

NEED ADDING MACHINE.

The score by quarters was: 6 to 1, 17 to 0, 26 to 0 and 12 to 0.

London registered the first point on a punt to Turnpenny when Hunter downed him for a rouge, and after that it was just a procession, though St. Thomas managed to score only one try, and then a convert in the first period. The try came as a result of a fumble, but it proved to be only the beginning of many such misplays.

Early in the second quarter St. Thomas lost the ball when near the London line, Hill dribbling out of their reach, but the Saints recovered it near mid-field. Gains for yards repeatedly enabled Whary to score another try, but Johns missed converting it. Ardell fumbled a kick and the Saints gained possession, with only 10 yards to go. Scott carried the ball over for the third try and Johns converted, making the count 17 to 1. Johns notched another touchdown and converted it for 23 just before the period ended.

The third period proved to be the most lively with five more tries and several converts, Johns, Scott, Turnpenny and Kilmer figuring in most of the tries.

By this time the throng that had gathered to witness the redemption of London Collegiate's football career had been considerably thinned out and only the faithful stayed for the finishing touch.

The local reserves were depleted, as injuries meant the removal of the regulars. Wesley Morris, in the game for the first time, suffered most with an injured spine, being carried off the field and then taken to the Y. M. C. A.

Turnpenny, a sorrel-topped half-back on the St. Thomas back field, raced over for an early try in the last period as dusk was falling fast. John booted it for another point, making it 55 to 1, and a long punt from Johns to Crittle gave St. Thomas another touchdown, when a big visiting linesman fell on the ball when Crittle fumbled. This, too, was converted for the last point.

BETTER TEAM WINS.

The period ended before further damage was done, but it proved sufficient to completely humble the locals, who, with perseverance, will soon topple St. Thomas' crown, as most of their stalwarts will soon be compelled to find some other vocation besides attend Collegiate, since a majority have reached the full-grown stage of manhood.

The Saints are a mighty smart football squad and it must be taken for granted that there is no team playing interscholastic or junior O. R. F. U. this season who can take their measure, not excepting the Sarnia High.

OLGA MILLER PITCHES WELL.

The only cheerful happening, as far as the L. C. I. is concerned, was the baseball victory that was registered behind the superb hurling of Billie Miller when she let the Saints down with six runs, while their nine gathered 22 runs off Pitcher E. Doan, who was relieved by M. Marr in the second inning.

The score by innings was:

St. Thomas .....0 4 0 0 0 2— 6
London .....3 4 0 4 6 5—22

The St. Thomas girls led at half-time in the basket ball game by 2 to 0 and it looked like anybody's game, but the London girls failed to register more than one basket in the second period, while the Saints secured nine more points. Forwards Black and Moody shared the honor of scoring the points for the Saints.

The teams were:

"PHIL JACK" O'BRIEN IS WEIGHT REDUCER

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Fifty fat women in bloomers and low shoes struggled for an hour yesterday on the roof of Madison Square Garden to bend at waist lines long since overgrown with fat and to perform other gyrations at the command of "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, athletic instructor of the women's division of the fat-reducing team that is training to win prizes at the health convention next month in Grand Central Palace. The women put in a hard hour on the first day of their actual training. Some were not optimistic when O'Brien finally said that they could rest. Health Commissioner Dr. Royal S. Copeland, who is directing the work, said he believed there would be desertions before the month ends.

Herrmann Sees Ruth Suspended For 1922 Season

Former Chairman of Commission Is Positive "Home Run King" Will Start With Rest

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 25.—That Babe Ruth will be suspended for all next season for his violation of organized baseball rules concerning a world's series player engaging in a barnstorming tour, was the opinion expressed by August Herrmann, president of the National Baseball Commission.

"I am positive that Commissioner Landis will not condone Ruth's action to any great extent," said Hermann. "I am sure the player will be suspended and possibly for all of next season. It is certain in my mind that he will not start the season with the Yankees, at any rate.

O. B. MAKES BIG PAY.

"Many fans are inclined to support a ball player in any action he may take as against the officials and magnates," Hermann went on to say. "I think it is no more than fair to call attention to the fact that if it were not for organized ball as conducted to-day no player could begin to earn the large salaries now paid to the stars.

"I understand that Ruth received a salary of $20,000 a year. Such a figure would be utterly impossible without the organization under which baseball is operated.

SAYS RUTH BROKE WORD.

"Ruth has given as an excuse for his action that he had fulfilled his contract with the Yankees and was under no further obligations to his team until next season.

"It is true that his contract expired October 2. If he cared to go on a barnstorming tour at that time instead of taking part in the world series he would have been quite within his right. But he signed the agreement that he would not play in an exhibition game after the world's series and he has not only defied Commissioner Landis, his own club owners and manager, but has also violated his own signed agreement.

Athletic officials of big Eastern U. S. universities say the threatened railroad strike will not interfere with the remainder of the schedule even if airplanes have to be used to transport the players. Automobiles are expected to furnish capacity crowds at all the big games.

U. S. Race Committee Banquet's Blue Nose Sailors

Canadian Brothers Are Presented With Cup; This Race Has Come to Stay for Annual Competition

HALIFAX, Oct. 25.—The American international race committee entertained at dinner their "Canadian brothers," in the words of the guest cards, here last night.

Charles D. Brown, ex-mayor of Gloucester, presided at the function and the speakers included the following: Lieutenant-Governor MacCallum Grant, of Nova Scotia; W. W. Lufkin, collector of customs of the port of Boston, personal representative of President Harding, of the United States; Hon. E. H. Armstrong, minister of public works for Nova Scotia; Edwin N. Gunsalus, American consul-general at Halifax.

Mr. Duffy presented Captain Angus Walters, of the Blue Nose, with a cup as a personal souvenir. The chairman, Mr. Brown, said the races had come to stay and he hoped there would be a large representation at Gloucester next year. H. M. Silver, in paying tribute to W. J. Roue, designer of the Blue Nose, said: "It is a marvelous thing that this young man, taking designing only as a hobby, should have produced a vessel of such beauty and speed."

LAUD CANADIANS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Several of the New York papers to-day extend congratulations to the Canadian fishermen for their success in winning the international fishermen's trophy. "Blue Nose was the better boat," declared The Times. "Blue Nose was the bigger boat and therefore won" is the text of The Herald, which offers excuses for the defeat of the defender. "There was mourning in Gloucester last night," says The Times' editorial. "Hope died stubbornly, although Blue Nose had outsailed Elsie in the first race for the fishermen's trophy in a blow. The redoubtable Marty Welch, Canadian-born skipper of the Elsie, would not give up. He hoped by strategy to outwit the canny Scot, who sailed the Blue Nose, to get over the line first in the second race and keep his lead. But it was not a contest between fragile racing machines, off Scotland Light, in which the catching of a slant of wind from the highlands or Fire Island may waft a victory.

"The battle royal was in the vast deep, where the worth of the ship is of more account than the cunning of the captain. Blue Nose won two straight races because she was the better boat. However, look out for Gloucester next year."

SUPERIOR POWER.

The Herald compares the dimensions of the two boats and declares on both days it was demonstrated that "the superior power of the larger boat was the important factor in the race."

The boats were sailed in the most sportsmanlike manner possible by seamen who knew their business every minute of the time and made the best of every opportunity which offered," continues The Herald. "The contending vessels were captained by accomplished members of a guild that tolerates only the best in its service; the followship of Banks fishermen, who battle with the elements for their daily bread, and who must be masters of their calling or pay with human lives for their failing."

"Captain Angus Walters with the Blue Nose has done a bigger thing than to beat the Gloucester fishing boat Elsie. He has defeated Captain Marty Welch, on whom American hopes were pinned. But Captain Marty Welch did all that man could do with the vessel he guided and defeat has nothing of humiliation attached to it."

Western Plays O. Aggies To-Day

Crippled Squad Has Two Games Scheduled for This Week

The crippled Western University football team is scheduled to play in Guelph this afternoon with the Ontario Agricultural College twelve in an Intercollegiate intermediate fixture.

Athletic Director L. Blake is mustering the best men available for the trip and, being under the impression that they have played the two strongest teams in the group, feels that Western might just register their first victory to-day.

The team returns to-night and will go to Toronto on Friday night to meet St. Michaels on Saturday morning. The schedule works out nicely as it will enable the team and officials to witness the Varsity-McGill game at the Varsity stadium in the afternoon.

SUPER-QUALITY SERGES

"King's Own" Serge Available In Semi-ready Suits.

The finer grades of English serges—woven from the Botany wool yarns—are now $50 and $55—suitings which sold at $75 and $80 a year ago. It is on staple cloths that the real decline in prices can best be judged.

The Semi-ready Shops have a big advantage in the selling of fine serges, for their woolens are woven by the English branch of the Semi-ready Company and are sold direct from maker to wear. "King's Own" serge suits are now available at $45 and $50—Nos. 9502 and 9503. Since these cloths were made wool has advanced 15 per cent.

R. Leo Watson, of 182 Dundas street, has cloth patterns of Semi-ready suits to be made to order at $25 and up.—Advt.

The line-ups:

Mount Brydges boys—Wesley Wyatt, Clarence Sinkey, Howard Runalls, Norman Ervin, Cecil Snelgrove.

NO DIVIDENDS AT OTTAWA RACE TRACK

OTTAWA, Oct. 25. — The annual meeting of the Connaught Park Jockey Club was held this afternoon. The financial statement for the year showed that, while the club had enjoyed greater patronage and the general business has been larger than ever before, the new Dominion and provincial legislation had diverted the revenue to such an extent that the Connaught Park Jockey Club would not be able to declare a dividend. Senator Belcourt explained that the increase of the daily tax and the reduction of the pari-mutuel revenues had wiped out the earning capacity of the organization and that efforts would be made to secure from the Quebec Government such relief as would insure the shareholders at least a small return on their investments.

Huggins Will Not Manage Yankees

Leader Likely to Be "Let Out" Because of "Ill Health" the Real Reason

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Miller Huggins piloted the New York Yanks to the American championship and ran the world's series to eight games before he dropped out. Other managers would have been given credit for a pennant even if he should have won. But not so with former Cincinnati star. Huggins is still being pasted about by the New York fans.

It isn't usual for a pennant winning manager to be recommended for "the gate," but that is Huggins' share of the laurels.

New managers are already being talked of among the Yank following. Some say it will be Babe Ruth who has the pleasant task of signing a new contract this year. Others have it that Eddie Collins will come from the White Sox in a trade to succeed the present pilot. Still others have the dope that Roger Peckinpaugh, whose wobble lost the last game of the series, is the new pilot.

Even while the series was on these stories were fanned about.

It was even said that Huggins had agreed to manage the St. Louis Cardinals late in the race last year when he was forced almost to resign by an insurrection of the players.

After the second Western trip of the club had started, it was reported and it seemed quite apparent that Huggins was the manager in name only. He never appeared on the field and Ruth and Peck did most of the directing.

Huggins' contract has expired.

The health of the mite manager has been none too good and it was believed this was the loophole to let him out gracefully.

The experiences of the Yankee pilot has been anything but pleasant in New York, and perhaps he would not object to a chance to get on some other club after he has shown his ability in the big town.

Geanos Claims Wrestling Title

Kitchener Man Defeats Jack Forbes, Holder of Title

KITCHENER, Oct. 25.—Charles Geanos, the local wrestler, who defeated Jack Forbes, of Toronto, here last night by taking two falls out of three from the holder of the Canadian lightweight championship, claims the title. When the two wrestlers had been weighed it was found that both tipped the scales at more than the 135-pound weight, Geanos weighing 138¾ pounds and Forbes 136 pounds. Forbes announced that the title could not be contested for as they were over the 135-pound limit. Geanos claims that it was agreed that both wrestlers should weigh in 140 or less, the winner to be lightweight champion. Forbes is willing to wrestle Geanos again at the championship weight, and will deposit $1,000 as a guarantee of good faith. Geanos declares he will claim the title on last night's victory and is willing to submit the matter to the Ontario Athletic Association. Geanos threw Forbes in 13 and seven minutes, and Forbes floored his opponent in the second round in 15 minutes.

PORT ELGIN SEXTET READY.

CARGILL, Oct. 25.—A reorganization meeting of the Port Elgin Hockey Club was held on Thursday night, at which officers were elected for the ensuing season and other business transacted. They decided to place a team in the North Bruce League, which will comprise the following Northern towns the coming season: Allenford, Hepworth, Park Head, Tara and Port Elgin.

N. H. L. GROUP.

Apparently the Senior Northern Hockey League group of this district will be practically the same as last season, with Southampton, Paisley and Milkmay making up the group. Paisley will also enter a junior team in the N. H. L. the coming season.

SOCCER MEN WANT STATEMENT.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—Indications point to a storm in connection with the long delayed financial statement from Dominion officials to the Province of Quebec Football Association of the tour of the Scottish players. Several telegrams have been sent to Winnipeg but no reply has been received, so last night a telegram insisting on the desired information for tomorrow's board meeting. This is virtually an ultimatum.

"Please let me know by wire in time for our meeting Wednesday evening, when we may expect to get financial statement, including Scottish team's tour. This is most important."

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26—Wheat showed an upward tendency to-day, with bulls hunting on general receipts of grain being small, at least until the railroad strike problem was settled. Trade was light and the market easily influenced. Estimates that winter wheat acreage would be five per cent. less than last year's total attracted some attention. Opening quotations, which varied from 1c off to a like advance, were followed by moderate gains all around and then something of a reaction. Corn and oats hardened with wheat. After opening a trifle to ½ higher, corn scored slight further gains. Oats started unchanged to ⅛ up and then continued firm. Provisions were dull, but had an upward slant with grain, despite downturns in the hog market.

NO SESSION OF PEACE PARLEY FOR SOME TIME

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Announcement that no meeting of the Irish conference or of the committee trying to find a formula by which the negotiations may continue would be held to-day was made here shortly before noon. At the Dail Eireann headquarters it was declared the announcement had no significance relative to the continuance of the conference, as the representatives of the British Government were extremely busy in connection with the departure of the Prince of Wales for India.

It was stated that further pressure was being brought to bear upon the Government to adopt legislation that would enable the Ulster Government to establish its administration in Northern Ireland.

Sympathy among Unionists for Ulster and indignation resulting from Eamonn De Valera's telegram to Pope Benedict appeared to-day to be shaking the allegiance of many. It was believed that very little was needed to swell considerably the number of malcontents in political circles.

The London Times said to-day it was the common view among the Government supporters that the Irish negotiations cannot survive the blow given them by Mr. De Valera.

The Sinn Fein headquarters had received no notification at noon to-day from the Government as to when either committee or the conference as a whole would reassemble. The Government had not intended to issue a communique last night, but the Sinn Fein delegates pressed for a public announcement, explaining that otherwise the meeting of Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith with Prime Minister Lloyd George and Austen Chamberlain might be represented as informal pour-parlers.

To-night the Dail delegates are to attend a reception to be given by Sinn Fein followers in London at Albert Hall, but, in response to a protest against the use of the hall by "rebels," the lessors of the hall explained that there would be no speeches.

TO MAKE GREAT EFFORT.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Addressing a political meeting in Westminster to-day Viscount Birkenhead, the lord chancellor, dealing with the Irish negotiations, said:

"The conference has continued for many days with some vicissitudes. It still continues and will not be abandoned unless and until it is realized that it is impossible for either side to continue."

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(Wall street, 10.30 a. m.)—Further retirement of the short interests was noted at the opening of to-day's stock market, especially in oils, motors, steels and equipments. Royal Dutch, Shell Transport, Atlantic Gulf, Willys Overland preferred, Baldwin Locomotive, Pressed Steel Car, Bethlehem, Crucible and United States Steel were higher by large fractions to two points. Shippings also improved, but rails failed to throw off their recent apathy. Preliminary quotations for the principal foreign exchange rates were irregular, reflecting latest political developments abroad.

The low-priced oils, sugars and leather issues forged ahead in the early afternoon, but railroads were reactionary. Northern Pacific declined one point and other representative shares substantial fractions. A wide assortment of industrials and specialties ruled from one to five points higher, reflecting a decided increase in professional and public buying.

SENDING NOTICES TO CIVIC VOTERS

Information As To Where They Will Vote.

CIVIC ELECTION DECEMBER 6

Told On What Issues May Exercise Franchise.

Over 20,000 notices to citizens are being mailed this week from the city clerk's office which notify the recipients as to their right to vote, where they should vote, and upon what issues they may exercise their franchise.

A second notice, Mr. Baker stated, would probably have to be sent all electors on the question of securing natural gas and the term of the proposed agreement. A tentative form of ballot advanced is: "Are you in favor of the city entering into a contract with the City Gas Company, Progressive Gas Company, of Hamilton, or any other companies for the purpose of securing natural gas for distribution in London through the mains of the City Gas Company?" Second, "Are you in favor of paying 85 cents the thousand cubic feet of natural gas, delivered?"

VOTERS' RIGHTS.

Tenant voters are being notified that they are entitled to vote once only in the place where he or she resides for the various civic officials. Tenants may also vote once in each ward, other than the one in which he resides, for aldermen, if qualified to do so.

Owners are notified that they may vote once only, where he resides, as owner, on all ballots which includes the civic officials and by-laws. Owners, where qualified, may vote in other wards than where he resides for aldermen and Western University debentures.

Income voters are allowed to vote under the same rules as tenants. Income voters will not vote on the proposed Western University grant.

Special cautions are given as spoiling ballots.

Prince

Hirohito, who returned to Tokio recently from a journey that took him to London, Paris and Rome.

TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Anxiety over the prince's journey has been caused by the troubled political conditions in India. The possibility of an attack on him is minimized here, but it is feared that Indian Nationalists, led by Mahatma Ghandi, may possibly attempt to carry out their threat to call strikes in each city visited by the party.

Following the debate in the House of Lords last night on Indian affairs, the main theme of the newspaper editorials is the Prince of Wales' tour to India.

GROWING PAINS.

The morning papers betray little anxiety on the prince's account and describe the difficulties in the present situation in India as merely a sort of growing pains, which are inseparable from the transitional period. Indeed they contend that the fact that the Prince of Wales has not canceled his visit on account of the somewhat troubled condition in India furnished additional proof of the prince's confidence in the good sense of the Indian subjects of the British Empire.

The Morning Post, which has steadfastly opposed the Government's principal measures of Indian reform, alone interposes a note of interrogation regarding with wisdom of the visit and asks why the Prince of Wales should have been selected to repair the blunders of Rt. Hon. E. S. Montagu, secretary of state for India.

THE LORDS' DEBATE.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Assiciated Press Cavble.)—Despite Government efforts to prevent parliamentary discussion of Indian affairs on the eve of the departure of the Prince of Wales for India, that subject was taken up in the Lords to-day, where Baron Sydenham charged the Government with exercising a weak policy by which British authority had suffered throughout India.

He asserted that it was widely believed by the masses of Indian people that British rule either had ended or shortly would end. He argued that the Government must have been aware of the recent Moplah uprising, which he declared was well organized under the eyes of the Government.

Lord Curzon, the foreign secretary, who strenuously objected to the debate, said he had written previously to Baron Sydenham and also to Baron Amptihll, urging them to state their reasons for declining to refrain from debate of the subject at the present time. Neither of them, however, was prepared to give way, he said. He declared it was a most unusual thing when a request of this kind was made by the leader of the House for it to be ignored. Such debate was capable of exercising a very deleterious effect on the eve of the departure of the Prince of Wales, he declared, and urged the House to cease the discussion so that the royal tour should open in an atmosphere with not a single jarring note.

Lord Curzon's appeal was disregarded, Lord Sailsbury, the Marquis of Crewe and other members of the House contending that the mere postponement of debate would make no difference in the situation. They urged, however, that the members observe the utmost moderation and discretion. Thereupon the debate was continued without incident until adjournment was taken at 8 o'clock this evening.

The plaintiff asks damages for trespass on the lands in question and for an injunction to restrain the defendants from entering upon the land and searching for, producing, storing or removing petroleum or natural gas therefrom.

VOTERS' LISTS TO BE REVISED SOON

Citizens Ought To See To It Now That Their Names Are Included

Proclamations of the London registrars announcing the sittings of the registration courts commencing on Monday next and continuing until November 7, have been posted throughout London. There are plenty of registrars to care for all who may seek to have their names added to the lists of those qualified to vote in the forthcoming Dominion elections and the main thing now is for citizens to see that they get their franchise rights.

W. C. Fitzgerald, returning officer, advises that all persons apply at once to the city clerk's office to ascertain if their names appear on either part one or part three of the 192. voters' lists. If so, it is not necessary for them to bother further, but if not, they should at once apply to the registrar for the district in which the would-be voter is domiciled that the name may be added and the benefit of the vote conferred.

In Toronto, Montreal and other larger cities central information bureaus have been opened for the instruction of citizens. In London such information will be provided by the district registrars. These registrars have been supplied with the poll lists of their respective districts and will be fully ready to open their courts on Monday.

A memorial medal of bronze from King George has been received by Frank H. Whetter, clerk of the Ninth Division Court, whose son, Richard Wetter, laid down his life in the great war.

The young Londoner joined the Canadian forces early in the struggle and was reported missing after the terrific struggle at the second battle of Ypres.

The medal is of bronze, about five inches in diameter. It is done in relief and shows the British lion surmounted by a figure of peace with a laurel wreath outheld. The name of the young Canadian, also in relief, occupies a position to the right of the figure of peace. At the bottom on the Peaceful in his quiet slumber,

Yet again we hope to meet him
When the day of life is fled,
And with joy in heaven to greet him.
Where no parting tears are shed.

MR. KING GIVEN COMPLETE REPLY

Premier Replies in Detail to the Munitions Letter

EVERY POINT IS COVERED

Liberal Leader's Fears Are Without Foundation

GRAVENHURST, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Premier Meighen's reply to Hon. Mackenzie King's letter regarding high explosive shells, was made public to-day. The premier dictated his reply while traveling from Toronto to Bracebridge, where he spoke this afternoon.

After referring to what he terms Mr. King's "rather remarkable" letter, the premier repeats the declaration that he has made from the platform since Mr. King's letter was published, that no war material of any kind has been purchased since the armistice. The shipment of high explosive shells, which the leader of the Opposition saw unloading at Levis was not, according to the premier, a purchase by the Dominion Government, but a consignment sent over by the war office in response to Canada's requirements. Owing to the fact that Canada had turned all her munitions and supplies into the war office at the conclusion of the war she was entitled to draw munitions as she needed them.

THE LETTER

The letter follows:

"Dear Mr. King: Your letter of 21st of October reached me last night. It had, of course, been published in the press on Saturday morning. As promised in my acknowledgment of yesterday, I obtained the information at once from the department of militia and defense and now append below answers to your questions as furnished me by that department.

"I need only add that no reports whatever have been withheld from publication or delayed in production in Parliament. On the contrary, as very fully disclosed in the discussion last session, reports have been brought down with the utmost possible dispatch and more promptly than was done when you were a member of the Government. As the information given below will be of interest to those who read your remarkable letter in the press, I am giving like publicity to this reply. For the sake of clearness I repeat your questions and the replies follow seriatim.

"Q.—'Am I right in believing that it is at the instance of the Government of Canada that the Canadian Merchant Marine steamer Canadian Runner has been employed to bring to Canada the munitions of war being unloaded at Levis this week, and that they were being bought and paid for in England out of the moneys contributed through the taxation by the people of Canada? If the munitions being unloaded from the Canadian Runner are not for the Government of Canada or are not being paid for by the Government, for whom are they intended and how have they been obtained?'

NONE PURCHASED

"A.—'No war material of any kind has been purchased since the armistice. On the outbreak of war all available war material was shipped to England and handed over to the war office. Canada receiving a credit of war material equivalent to the amount turned in, upon which she could draw for the purpose of use by her forces as required. During the war war material was purchased under authority of Parliament for the use of the Canadian forces and became the property of Canada and used by our overseas forces. After the armistice, by agreement with the war office, practically all Canadian owned war material overseas was turned into British army ordnance depots; Canada being given credit for war material free of cost upon such depots and the right to draw her own proportion to meet the requirements of her active militia. In the spring of 1920 Canada's requirements were forwarded to the war office and since that time as cargo space became available in ships of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine shipments, which were Canada's own property, were made to Canada. The shipment lately arrived at Levis, Quebec, by the steamship Canadian Runner is one of these.'

"Q.—'Is the British Government in any way a party to the shipment of these munitions and does the shipment owe its origin directly or indirectly to action taken by the conference of premiers recently attended by you in London?'

NO CONNECTION.

"A.—The only relation that exists between the British Government and Canadian Government on these shipments is that the British Government, owing to the fact that they had stored in ordnance stores all shipments of such munitions belonging to all colonies they were the custodians of these munitions and ship them as cargo space becomes available. The meeting of the prime ministers in June last had nothing whatever to do with the arrangements of the shipments.

"Q.—'To what points in Canada, or elsewhere, are these munitions being distributed and to what uses is it intended they shall be put?'

"A.—The war material is consigned where accommodation can be made available in the various military districts in Canada and is to be entirely used for the training of that portion of the arm of the Canadian forces called artillery, and already a large portion has been used during last year's annual training for the season of 1921-22.

"Q.—'Is it true that other shiploads of munitions have been brought to Canada from England or abroad during the present year, and if so, what quantities have come to our shores since Parliament adjourned in June last?'

"A.—No other shipload has been brought to Canada during the present year. Several partial cargoes were received early in the present year, and the bulk of them have been used for annual training during the year 1921-22. Since Parliament prorogued in June last 2,355 tons of war material have arrived in Canada.

"Q.—'Finally, if these munitions are for the Government of Canada, on what authority of the Parliament of Canada and under what appropriation made by Parliament have they or any other munitions been purchased outside of Canada during the present year?'

NO NEED OF PURCHASES.

"A.—As all the munitions received from the war office which had been placed in depot for the Canadian Government in England to replace stock issued at the beginning of the war and to replace the number of rounds as per thousand scale owing to Canada there was no need of any purchases and Canada simply received the proportion to which she was entitled.

"Q.—'Reference to these accounts discloses that out of the demobilization appropriations for 1919-20 the enormous sum of $4,563,176.25 was paid by the Government of Canada for ammunition from "various sources" and the report of the department of militia and defense showed that of this amount $578,897.32 was expended in Canada and $3,784,278.92 expended overseas. Where, at the present time, are the munitions thus purchased?'

"A.—The amounts disclosed in the public accounts for 1919-20 as having been paid on demobilization appropriation for war material, and the authority of Parliament, were paid for such material purchases during the war, some of which accounts were not received until after the armistice. The war material so purchased was used by the Canadian forces overseas, any balance remaining after the armistice having been turned into British army ordnance depots and returned or awaiting return to Canada, as already stated.

"Q.—'In the session of 1920, on account of demobilization, the sum of $38,250,900 was appropriated in addition to the $350,000,000 in 1919. In the session of 1921, the session just ended, the further sum of $7,099,880 was appropriated, still on account of demobilization. As respects each of these appropriations on demobilization account I would ask whether any part has gone toward the purchase of munitions, either at home or abroad; and if so, how much?'

"A.—As already stated, no war material of any kind has been purchased since the armistice. Any purchased under the authority of Parliament during the war, for which proper accounts were rendered after the armistice, were paid out of demobilization appropriation (overseas ministry) of the sessions of 1919-20, such votes having been made by Parliament for the purpose of liquidating the accounts incurred during the war.

"Q.—'In particular, is any part of the appropriation for demobilization account for the present year being paid out for the munitions at present being unloaded at Levis, Que.?'

"A.—No part of any appropriation for demobilization account for the present year or of any other previous demobilization appropriations has been paid out for the war material at present being unloaded at Levis, Que.; or for war material of any kind.

"Yours faithfully,

(Signed) "ARTHUR MEIGHEN."

Premier Meighen received a hearty welcome from the citizens of Bracebridge and Muskoka County to-day when he arrived shortly after 2 o'clock to address a political meeting. A crowd, made up largely of students at the local high school, was on hand at the station, and after the premier had been welcomed by Acting Mayor Warne he addressed a few words to the students from the rear of his car. He was then driven to the town hall with Dr. P. McGibbon, former member of Parliament and candidate of the National Liberal and Conservative party in Muskoka. Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, proceeded to the Lyceum Theater to address an overflow meeting. On the platform with Mr. Meighen at the town hall were W. A. Boys, former member for South Simcoe and again candidate, and Senator Bennett.

J. R. Boyd, president of the local Liberal-Conservative Association, was in the chair.

Mr. Meighen said that on coming into the constituency he had heard the usual "scandalous chatter" which greeted him so often. The depravity of the scandal monger was proverbial.

35 SCHOOL CHILDREN CRITICIZE "HAMLET"

Delighted by Intellectual Treat, But Miss Scenery and Appeal to Emotions.

Walter Hampden, who Monday night played "Hamlet" to a delighted London audience, has been criticized, favorably and otherwise, by the foremost writers on stage topics and by masters of Shakespearian lore. But it remained for a London school to go into the business of criticism on a wholesale scale wherein 35 fresh, youthful minds gave a mass opinion on the play presented Monday night.

The continuation class of Victoria public school in South London attended the play in a body, but their reaction to the acting, scenic effects and line emphasis is considered a valuable indication of modern child-culture.

"They were keenly delighted," their instructor reports, "with the play and its acting. They missed the scenery, however, but were enthusiastic over the lighting effects and soon appreciated the power of suggestion in the use of curtains and skillful placing of lights.

"They considered Mr. Hampden ("Hamlet") nothing short of wonderful," the instructor continued, "but at no time during the performance were their emotions consistently stirred. Here and there they felt the play, but for the most part they regarded it with detached calmness as if watching a spectacle.

"At no time, hardly, did they lose sight of the fact that it was Walter Hampden who was playing Shakespeare's tragedy of "Hamlet." The pleasure they derived was purely intellectual in that they did not live the play as it was being presented.

"I believe," the Victoria instructor summed up, "that there is a great lesson here. These boys and girls show us that the play is the thing, not the actor, however great he may be. A drama, such a 'Hamlet,' should appeal to the heart as well as the head."

Worthy!

IN this day of wonders it is sometimes possible to achieve a temporary popularity for an article which does not really merit it.

But because there can be no permanent place in public esteem for merchandise not truly meritorious, these articles have their fleeting day and vanish.

ALARMED AT NUMBER LEAVING SCHOOL AT EARLY AGE, BOYS' COUNCIL WILL TAKE ACTION

Teen-Aged Lads Will Be Told of Advisibility of Continuing Studies.

SIX HUNDRED ORGANIZED IN TUXIS AND RANGERS

November Has Been Set Aside As "Stick-To-School" Month.

Alarmed by the large number of boys who are quitting school at an early age, the London boys' work board will make an effort next month to show the 600 'teen-aged lads organized in Tuxis and Trail Ranger groups the value of an education and the advisability of continuing their studies as long as possible. November has been termed "Stick-to-School" month, and the wisdom of that slogan will be indicated to the members of the 50 city groups.

Statistics recently compiled have illustrated the fact that hundreds of boys, and girls, too, are drawn into the business world from the junior educational institutions. As soon as they reach the age of 14 or 16 they come in contact with the stern realities of life with but meager equipment for securing a livelihood. Their futures are, as a rule, set in a groove from which there is little escape in this age of efficiency, except for the unusually brilliant.

TUXIS' CONCLAVE.

The Tuxis conclave, representing all the senior organized boys in the city, meets at the "Y" the first week in November for the purpose of holding a debate on "The Value of Education." In the same week the Trail Rangers will conduct a series of three-minute speeches on "What An Education Will Do For Me." These meetings will tend to develop public speaking as well as bring the boys to have an intelligent viewpoint on education.

The following week the Tuxis groups are promised an "Education and Business Debate" and the merits of sticking to school or getting started in business will be drawn out, it is expected. Other subjects that will be introduced for discussion and debate are "School Athletics and Their Relation to Education" and "School Spirit." In the same month an oratorical contest such as has been featured in other years will be planned and arrangements made for continuing it throughout the winter months.

PLANS FOR THIRD WEEK.

The third week will be notable not alone for the "Mother and Son" rallies that will be held, but for addresses on "The Value of University Training" and "The Value of Books." People who are usually broad minded often take objection to students going through college and are sceptical of the advantage of a "B. A." In this week college men and others will endeavor to prove to the boys that they should take advantage of the higher educational facilities awaiting them in Western University here.

In the final week inter-club debates will be featured and the subjects in most cases will be on books. The boys will delve into history a bit, too, and learn about the "Makers of Canada." Perhaps the most important part of the whole month's campaign will be the commencement of the vocational bureau through which the boys will be able to decide on their future and talk with men who have been through the mill.

Claimed He Was Owner Of Grand Trunk Railway

The owner of the Grand Trunk Railway has been found.

He boarded the Toronto-Chicago train in Toronto last night and when asked for his ticket by the conductor said he did not have any because he did not require it.

"I own this road," said he. "To me a ticket has no meaning."

The knight of the "punch" took one look at the self-admitted railway magnate and fled. Others of the train crew, possibly seeing the value of an opportunity to request a small increase from the road's owner, approached his car gingerly, took a look and also fled.

At Brantford two of the owner's husky employees took him in charge and later turned him over to the police. And the Grand Trunk went into executive session of a committee of one in a Brantford cell.

At any rate he succeeded in getting rid of the road after owning it but one hour. Other owners of the Grand Trunk Railway Company would like to learn his secret.

M. C. R. CALLS FOR STRIKE-BREAKERS

Wants Men To Fill Places of Those Who Will Walk Out.

G. T. R. ISSUES APPEAL

Declares Threatened Strike Is Violation of the Law.

NO SETTLEMENT YET.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Ben W. Hooper, of the Railroad Labor Board, left the conference of the big five union executives shortly after noon and said that the strike had not been settled yet, that settlement "could hardly be expected while he was at the meeting."

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 27.—The Michigan Central Railroad advertised here to-day for men to fill the places of employees who have been called out on strike on October 30. The appeal was directed especially to former employees. Advertisements for men for the Ann Arbor Railroad appeared at Owosso.

The Grand Trunk in the United States, in a communication addressed to all employees, declared the threatened strike a violation of the transportation act and in defiance of the labor board, and called upon the workers to reconsider their decision to walk out.

NEW YORK CONCERNED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Preparations for supplying the metropolitan area of New York with the necessaries of life in case of a widespread railroad strike were being energetically pushed to-day. The port of New York authorities finished installing telephones and office equipment for an emergency headquarters occupying the entire top floor of a large downtown office building. Final organization of the various committees which will handle food and fuel supplies in Greater New York and coordinate the work of motor trucks, canal barges, automobiles and airplanes in providing emergency transportation was perfected at meetings of state, federal and municipal authorities.

ISSUE SHARPLY DRAWN.

BOSTON, Oct. 27.—The threatened railroad strike would be a strike against every man's job, Edgar J. Rich, general counsel for the Boston and Maine Railroad, declared to-day at the annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

"It is a strike," he said, "against the health, safety and welfare of every man, woman and child in the United States; for not only will many be without the means of buying the necessities of life through lack of employment, but all will be obliged to pay enhanced prices for the necessities of life.

"The issue is sharply drawn and must be resolutely met," Mr. Rich said. "It would be not an unreasonable prophecy that next year would be one of prosperity for the railroads of the United States as a whole."

GRAY WOLF MINE WRECKED.

PITTSBURGH, Kan., Oct. 27.—The Gray Wolf Mine, near Gross, Kansas, was wrecked by two charges of dynamite shortly before midnight last night.

A campaign to raise $100,000 for the completion of the new children's hospital will be staged in London during the second week in January. Representatives of men's organizations in London—Rotary, Kiwanis, Canadian, Lions and so on—met at the Tecumseh House last night and arranged details of the coming campaign.

Lieut.-Col. Gartshore was appointed honorary chairman; J. J. Foote was made committee chairman; A. D. McLean serves as honorary treasurer, and Major Gordon Ingram and A. R. Ford are to direct the publicity campaign.

James Gray heads the lists committee general, and J. M. Watt will be in charge of the special class "A" lists. District chairman include W. R. Yendall, A. J. Mitchell, Dr. Roy Routledge and George Clark. Mrs. John Gemmel is chairman of the house-to-house campaign, with Mrs. F. J. Greenaway as secretary.

U. S. STRIKE WONT AFFECT THE G.T.R.

Statement of President Howard G. Kelly To-Day.

President Howard G. Kelly, of the G. T. R., in an interview with The Free Press to-day, stated that even if the railway men in the United States go out on strike on Sunday, October 30, such action will not affect the Canadian lines of the Grand Trunk Railway.

Mr. Kelly passed through London today on returning from the conference between American railway brotherhood executives and the United States Railway Labor Board. Asked for the most recent developments in the proposed strike situation, the G. T. R. head said: "The matter is now in the hands of the United States Railway Labor Board. I am unable to add anything to the accounts of the conference carried in today's Associated Press dispatches."

The executive head of the Grand Trunk stated that the union representatives and the railroad owners were in session the entire day yesterday and that the meeting was open to the public. The hall was crowded with spectators.

Some of the railroads in the United States have already reduced the freight charges or grain so as to improve the situation, he said. When asked if the strike would affect the Grand Trunk in Canada, Mr. Kelly stated that it would not.

Mother Identifies Body But Husband Disowns It; Now Up To Dentist To Make a Decision

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Examination of dental work in the lower jaws of a woman, found last Saturday in Long Island City, was begun to-day by Chief Medical Examiner Norris in an effort to verify a second identification of the body as that of Mrs. Dolly Bailley Higgins. Dr. Norris was assisted by a dentist who had worked on Mrs. Higgins' teeth.

The body was identified for the second time yesterday as Mrs. Higgins by Mrs. Anna Bailley, mother of Mrs. Higgins. This identification was corroborated by two friends of the family, who had known Mrs. Higgins well.

A sister of Mrs. Higgins identified the body as that of her sister two days ago, but her story was discounted partly by divergences between her description of her sister and the description worked out by physicians of how the murdered woman must have looked in life and partly by the fact that Thos. Higgine, husband of the missing Dolly, declared the body was not that of his wife. The medical authorities' examination of the body convinced them the slain woman was not more than 23 years of age, while Higgins said his wife was 31.

A man who, Mrs. Bailey said, had paid attentions to Mrs. Higgins, is being sought by the police for questioning concerning the case.

Make City Center For Merchants' Association

Provincial Executive To Deal With Request At Meeting Next Week.

LOCAL SECTIONS ONLY AT THE PRESENT TIME

All Western Ontario Interested In Success of Plan As Proposed.

London will be the center of a Western Ontario district organization for the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada if the desires of local members of that association are followed by the provincial executive which meets in Toronto within the next few days, and at which Wilfrid Hodgins, second vice-president of the provincial board, will represent this city and district.

The Retail Merchants' Association, which has been a prominent factor in business development among the retail merchants of the country, is at present represented in London and Western Ontario only by local sections, each confined to one trade. There is no district organization and there is no permanent executive, with the exception of W. C. Miller, provincial secretary, whose head office is at Toronto. Provincial organizers visit Western Ontario occasionally, but it is felt that the territory is sufficiently large to have a district organization of its own with a paid secretary and staff.

The merchants in favor of district organization point to the Eastern Ontario and Ottawa Valley district, which, while embracing a large territory, does not hold as many prospective members as Western Ontario. Under the able management of John C. Campbell, district secretary, whose headquarters are in Ottawa, the Eastern Ontario district is the most flourishing in Canada and numbers almost as many members as are to be found in all the rest of the province. If it is decided to organize a district in Western Ontario Mr. Campbell may be asked to visit the territory and advise as to the procedure.

Another matter which will be discussed by the provincial executive is the recent decision of the provincial department of highways that dealers' road signs must be removed. Strong protest will be made against this by the automotive sections of the association, and it is probable that the protest will be implemented by action.

SENTENCE ON BOY DELAYED BY IVY

Auto Thief Must Be Cured of Poison First.

ADMITS TAKING TWO CARS

Actuated By Desire For Joy Rides.

Suffering from the effects of contact with poison ivy, a youth brought before the police court this morning, charged with stealing automobiles, had his sentence delayed, pending his cure. It was felt that he could not be sent to any of the institutions for juveniles while in such a condition, as he would probably infect all other inmates.

The lad admitted that he was responsible for the theft of two cars, and in each case he was actuated by the desire to take a joy ride and then desert the car rather than dispose of it. One of the cars was stolen from the Market Square and was recovered later in another part of the city after the youngster had spent the evening driving around in it. In another car he had driven to the outskirts of the city when the gasoline gave out and he was forced to abandon the auto there and walk back as he lacked car fare.

It is the opinion of the police that several cars and bicycles stolen within the past few weeks were also taken by boys and that the loot secured by the organized gang of automobile thieves who take the cars and then dismantle them before disposing of the parts, is much smaller than was at first supposed.

MRS. STRICKERT ON THE STAND

Woman Accused of Murder Testifies At Stratford.

TELLS OF SEPARATIONS

Agreements Made With Strickert Are Detailed To Court.

STRATFORD, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Free Press).—Practically the entire morning was occupied in examining the accused woman when the trial of Mrs. Strickert for the alleged murder of her husband on July 16 last, resumed today.

Mrs. Strickert reviewed her life with the dead man stating that on November 28, 1917, an agreement of separation had been legally made, whereupon she had moved to Monkton and had resided for a year or so. Under this agreement she was to get $2,000 cash, certain goods and the custody of four of the children. On returning to her husband's home witness declared a second agreement had been drawn up which provided that Strickert was to treat her better, as she swore that he had beaten her prior to the separation. After her return, Mrs. Strickert said, there had been fewer rows.

THE HUSBAND'S DEATH.

The witness stated that she had learned of her daughter's condition only two weeks before her husband's death and that George Currie had voluntarily denied that he was the father of the child. Concerning the death of Strickert on July 16 she declared that he had carried water for her to scrub with and had come from the garden to tea

TAKE UP FINANCE DIRECTOR PROPOSAL

All Civic Spending Bodies Will Be Represented In Conference At Early Date.

WOULD SUPERINTEND CITY EXPENDITURES

Dr. H. Brittain, Head of Research Bureau, Will Address the Gathering.

There will be an early meeting of all civic spending bodies at the Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of discussing the appointment of a civic director of finance, Secretary Gordon Philip stated to-day. The meeting will be addressed by Dr. H. Brittain, head of the citizens' research bureau. The actual date of the meeting depends on that official's pleasure.

Mr. Philip, in commenting on this approaching meeting, pointed out that in the appointment of a civic director of finance London will have realized its desire for civic economy as hoped for when the electors declared for commission government. So far, the Provincial Government has refused to give London the form of government it desires on account of the local demand that the Board of Education be brought under direct civic control.

ADVISE SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

However, he pointed out, a finance commissioner may be appointed and clothed with sufficient powers to make his office the balance wheel in the municipal government, and while such an official could not influence the Board of Education under existing laws, London might, as in Toronto, secure an informal agreement with the trustees whereby they would be guided by the advice of the city financier.

That, it is understood, is the chief reason for calling all spending bodies together for a conference. After hearing Dr. Brittain, the various officials may agree on the matter and thus usher in, it is hoped, a happier era for London as regards its income and expenditures.

HALT PARLEY TILL HOUSE DEBATES IT

Lloyd George Wants Discussion In Commons Next Monday.

IRISH PEACE EFFORT LAGS

Premier Influenced By Demands From Unionist Members.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable).—Prime Minister Lloyd George to-day proposed to the British House of Commons that it set aside next Monday for a discussion on the motion of Unionist members of the Parliament condemning the present negotiations with representatives of Sinn Fein Ireland. He said he hoped there would be a vote on the question.

Premier Lloyd George probably will have to abandon his visit to Washington or at least postpone it until the closing sessions of the conference there, because of the critical situation in the negotiations, it was asserted by several well informed newspapers here to-day. The premier had made no public statement to this effect, but his political and personal friends were quoted as communicating report to inquire as if publicity were desired.

DELEGATES MARK TIME.

The Sinn Fein delegates to the conference which has been holding intermittent sessions for the past fortnight, marked time to-day in anticipation of a communication from the Government fixing a date for a renewed sitting of the conference committee. This committee, composed of Prime Minister Lloyd George and Austen Chamberlain, for the Government, and of Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, representing the Sinn Fein delegates, was expected to have met yesterday, but the sitting was postponed on account of other engagements. The summons for a renewed session of this committee was expected by the Sinn Fein delegates last night, but up to 1.30 o'clock this afternoon no such summons had arrived at their headquarters. The delay, however, is said to have caused no further anxiety in Anglo-Irish circles, which

TO IMPRISON CHARLES ON BRITISH WARSHIP

Final Disposition of Crownless Monarch to be Made on Saturday.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The allied council of ambassadors to-day decided that former Emperor Charles of Austria-Hungary and ex-Empress Zita should be placed immediately upon a British warship in the Danube pending another meeting of the council next Saturday, when a final decision regarding their disposition is to be made.

NEGRO INCINERATED BY FIRE DEPARTMENT AFTER HE PUT UP BIG FIGHT

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 27.—A. M. Hall, a police desk clerk, was killed; Thomas Johnson, chief of detectives, was probably fatally wounded, and Clay C. MacDonald, chief of police, and Edward Eads, a detective, were slightly wounded here yesterday in a gun fight with Carlos Henderson, a young negro, who barricaded himself in a house and was later shot to death after the fire department had set fire to the house. The shooting followed attempts of Detective Eads and a companion to arrest the negro as a robbery suspect.

Foresees War Between Allies and Coalition of Germans, Russ, Chinese

Tardieu Would Maintain Accord With Japs In Anticipation of This, In Spite of U. S.-Jap Feeling.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Premier Briand was to-day making final preparations to leave on Saturday for the United States, where he will attend the conference on limitations of armaments and Far Eastern questions. He will appear in Washington as the spokesman of the French people and Parliament, armed by a mandate given him in the Chamber of Deputies last night. The vote of confidence accorded the premier was considered a great political victory, the final ballot cast in the House being 381 to 186.

After days of debate, which often was most bitter in character, M. Briand took the floor late yesterday afternoon to answer his critics and demand that his policies be vindicated. His answer to Andre Tardieu and M. Herriot, Radical leader, was conciliatory in tone, but was firm in the defense of the policies followed by France in the past and proposed by the present ministry for the future. Before the premier's onslaught the Opposition lost ground rapidly and what seemed to be potential defeat yesterday morning was changed to a triumph.

TARDIEU'S POSITION.

Statements made by M. Tardieu in the Chamber on Tuesday were variously interpreted, and some of the versions sent out of Paris were said to have placed a construction on his address which would seem to have placed M. Tardieu as favoring French support of Japan against the United States.

M. Tardieu asserted the future was full of peril and that the allies might at some time become confronted by a combination of nations "extending from the Rhine to the Pacific." He asserted that Germany, Bolshevik Russia and China might be aligned against members of the entente at some time in the future. For this reason he advocated the sending of a strong Frenca delegation to Washington. "The question of the Pacific," said M. Tardieu, "is not only a technical problem; it's also a racial problem.

DANGERS OF TO-MORROW.

"We are all the more obliged to have an opinion on this problem of races since Great Britain, in the Anglo-Japanese alliance, on one hand, and France in the Franco-Japanese accord of 1907, on the other hand, have taken positions regarding it. We are also obliged to have an opinion on it because of the fact that if one considers it with a little perspicacity one sees possible dangers of to-morrow—the great and redoubtable dangers that may one day menace not only ourselves, but our allies. This danger consists of a coalition extending from the Rhine to the Pacific and bringing into association the still unrepenting Germany, the Bolshevik dictatorship and Chinese anarchy.

"I say, in the presence of this possible risk, in the presence of the situation of Japan, which has been a loyal ally, in the presence of difficulties that may put in opposition to each other, Japan and the United States, to which goes out the eternal gratitude of our hearts, there is urgent necessity that the French Government have with our allies a well-thought-out policy on this question. It should be a policy that would permit us to count upon Japan in accord with our allies and associated to meet the eventual danger."

NO APPOINTMENT TO SHERIFF'S JOB

Governor's Post Also Vacant On Monday, With No Successor.

RANEY WITHHOLDS WORD

Race For Sheriff Narrows Down To Four Applicants.

The positions of sheriff of the County of Middlesex and governor of the county jail both become vacant on Monday next, when the resignations of Sheriff Donald M. Cameron and Governor James Carter both become effective. No appointments have been made to fill the vacancies as yet and the two offices will automatically come under the direction of assistants.

In the case of the sheriff's office, Deputy Sheriff B. F. Watterworth will be in charge of the work. He is thoroughly conversant with every detail of the work, of which he has taken almost full charge for some three years. Wm. McLoud, head turnkey at the county jail, will take charge temporarily in that department.

NO APPOINTMENT YET.

Up to the present time there is no word regarding appointments to either position. Attorney-General Raney told The Free Press this morning that there was as yet no announcement as to the appointment to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Sheriff D. M. Cameron.

As far as can be learned, Sheriff Cameron has named no one to succeed Governor Carter as county jailer. It is not expected that he will do so before leaving office at the end of the month. The duty of the appointment of jailer devolves upon the sheriff, and Deputy Sheriff Watterworth may be called on to name an applicant to the position, subject to the approval of the governor-in-council.

It is understood that there are several looking for the appointment to the position of sheriff. At the present time the names of two local men and two county residents are linked up with the vacancy. For the position of governor of the jail there have been a flood of applications.

CONSUL'S SON WEDS STEPMOTHER'S SISTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Thaddeus Gloster Armstrong, only son of the British consul-general in New York by his first wife, was married yesterday to Miss Clare Kathleen Hanway, sister of Mrs. Gloser Armstrong. The ceremony took place in the Church of St. Paul the Apostle, at Fifty-Ninth street and Columbus avenue. Mr. Armstrong served through the war with the British troops.

Can No Longer Tie the Knot For Divorcees

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Rev. Hugh Chapman, of the Royal Chapel, Savoy, who recently married Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, to Jacques Balsan, has been forbidden by the Archbishop of Canterbury to celebrate any further marriages of divorced persons.

Mr. Chapman has remarried several divorced persons from time to time, but with publicity attaching to the Marlborough wedding and the character of his felicitations to the happy pair led to the prohibition now made public.

The matter may not end here, as the law permits the remarriage of divorced persons.

DELAY PENSION PLAN FOR YEARS

Civic Opinion Now Is That Cost Will Be Prohibitive.

INITIAL COST OF $250,000

That the pension scheme which is now being worked out for the city by J. G. Richter, a report of which will be presented to the Council at its next meeting on the first Monday of November, will not be put in effect for a number of years, is the general opinion expressed in civic circles to-day. Mayor Little, who has stated during the year that it would likely be inaugurated before the end of 1921, said to-day that this is now impossible as the time is too short. But several of the aldermen assert that the cost will be too heavy to permit the plan being carried through.

Ald. Cameron Wilson is decidedly opposed to adding any unnecessary burdens on the taxpayer, especially at this time. It is estimated that the city must provide $250,000 at the outset to initiate the scheme. The annual demands on the civic purse for this fund have not yet been figured out.

INOPPORTUNE TIME.

"Conditions are such that it is a decidedly inopportune time to add anything to the financial burdens of the citizens," said Ald. Cameron Wilson. "It is ridiculous to think of undertaking this pensions plan now, in view of the financial situation in the city. The city pays its officials and others good salaries, and it should do so, but there is no occasion for taxing the ratepayers now to provide old age pensions for those employees. The average citizen must depend on his own ability to save to provide for his own old age, and it is not at all unreasonable to expect the same from the civic employees who are receiving fair salaries. The expense of inaugurating the pension scheme would be no small item in the budget."

The officials themselves, while not wishing to say anything publicly, are not at all unanimously in favor of a pension fund being inaugurated. If left to them the scheme would be indefinitely shelved, and it is not at all likely that anything will be done with it for the next few years, at least. It is pointed out that the Council should not undertake such a plan without first consulting the ratepayers on the question at any rate.

ADD $2,000,000 TO ASSESSMENT

Not All of City Valuation Completed.

--At least $2,000,000 more will be added to the 1921 assessment within the next few weeks, bringing the total for the whole city up to $65,000,000. Assessment Commissioner Grant stated to-day that his department is clearing up this year's work in preparation for the 1922 assessment. He incidentally pointed out that a considerable portion of London has not yet been assessed under the new system inaugurated by John G. Richter.

That portion of No. 3 ward south of the G. T. R. tracks, much of the land assessment in North London and a considerable section of No. 2 ward have yet to be valued under the new assessment system. Much of the present year's new building remains to be recorded for taxation purposes.

Mr. Grant also stated that he is preparing income tax forms for forwarding to citizens early in the new year. The present year has seen a considerable increase in the total income assessment of the city and further increases are expected next year.

UNITE ALL CHILD AID CHARITY IN CITY

Lieut.-Col. Graham Explains Amalgamation Plan Now Being Effected.

WIND UP THE S. A. C. BY NEXT APRIL

Children's Aid, Child Welfare and Soldiers' Dependents To Be Grouped Together.

All children's welfare organizations in London will soon be amalgamated under a central executive control, which will do away with duplication of effort by societies having similar aims, put the civic work for bettering conditions affecting childhood on a more stable basis and secure a wider measure of popular support. This amalgamation, outlined by Lieut.-Col. C. M. R. Graham, D. S. O., in an interview to-day, will probably begin to be effected next spring, at which time the Soldiers' Aid Commission, as such, will cease to exist.

"By next spring at the latest," Col. Graham stated, "the local branch of the Soldiers' Aid Commission will be wound up completely. The provincial interest in the children of soldiers' dependants will be continued as a child welfare organization, and there is reason to believe that there will be an amalgamation of organizations dealing with child welfare comprising the Children's Aid Society, the Child Welfare Association and the soon to be formed Soldiers' Dependents' Welfare organization."

Col. Graham stated, as a result of the interview with Hon. D. Carmichael at Toronto on Tuesday, a letter has been received which expresses heartiest agreement with the wishes of the delegation, which included James Gray, Rev. H. B. Ashby, George F. Copeland and Col. Graham.

The question was asked if the amalgamated children's welfare societies would have a central office, and the answer indicated that such would be the case. This office would have a staff composed partly of provincial appointed officials and by city appointees. Local administration would be carried out by a united children's welfare board of directors, probably, appointed from civic bodies and city organizations as well as from the membership of children's aid and welfare societies.

Such will be the case with regard to the soldiers' dependants at once, according to advice from Toronto. That department of the Soldiers' Aid Commission will in future work under the advice of the executive of the Child Welfare Association executive, the members of which compose the executives of the other welfare organizations of the city to a large extent.

Col. Graham also pointed out that W. E. Lowman, the provincially appointed director of children's welfare work under the S. A. C., will in future refer special cases coming under his department to the local executive for decision, and to which appeals may come instead of being forwarded direct to Toronto. It is anticipated that the plan will work out to the advantage of those being benefited and that all causes of friction will be eliminated.

NEED OF CIVIC RETRENCHMENT

Declares Ald. J. C. Wilson Before Lions' Club.

TAX RATE TOO HIGH

Urges Voters To Elect Best Men and Support Them.

Some of the unsolved civic problems which will have to be dealt with within the next year or few years were briefly discussed by Ald. Cameron Wilson at the noon luncheon of the Lions Club at the Tecumseh House to-day. The one point which he emphasized was the growth of the tax rate, despite increased assessment, and he declared that in the face of these facts there must certainly be retrenchment.

He appealed to the members of the club as representative citizens not to be too ready with criticism of the city fathers, but that when the city officials had been elected to get behind them and boost. He asked those interested in public affairs to give some part of their time to the city business. He advised those who were in a position to do so to make a bid for public office and if elect-

Over $1,734,000 Added To Debenture Debt of City In Nine Months

Allotment of $69,591 For Year Necessary For 20 Years To Meet Expenses Incurred.

London's debenture debt has been increased by $1,734,565 since December 31, $817,500. But the nonrevenue-producing debentures, which do not add anything to the tax rate because they are paid for out of income, to the amount of $817,500. But the nonrevenu-producing debentures call for an allotment of $69,591.84 annually from the taxes for 20 years to meet the interest and sinking fund charges. This means that every man woman and child in the city must pay more than $1 a year taxes on an average for the next two decades for the work carried out by the city this year in the way of public improvements, etc., in addition to the other taxes. This does not include the city's share of local improvements, such as street paving and other things that are paid directly by the ratepayers benefited.

ANNUAL EXPENSES DECLINE

The annual expenditure for debentures issued this year for educational purposes makes up the largest portion of this $69,591.84, as the yearly charges for this work amount to $53,918.94. For storm sewers and hospital extensions, etc., carried out this year, the annual payments total $15,672.90. These have been included in setting the tax rate for this year and thus the taxes of 1921 will not be increased, but it is pointed out that this is an additional burden to the fixed charges which must be provided for in the taxes next year and yearly thereafter for 20 years.

LONDONERS CHEW 5,000 MILES OF GUM ANNUALLY

Gum Industry Profitable One Under Protective Tariff For Canadian Manufacturers.

Chewing 5,681 miles of gum annually may appear to be some impossible feat, but according to one citizen who has a mania for statistics this is the amount that is "chewed" in London every 12 months.

This figure represents the sticks of gum laid out single file. But laid in a walk three feet wide the gum masticated by the citizens of London in each year would reach from here to Toronto. The total value of the gum used in one year is estimated at $100,000, on the basis of one cent per stick.

Those who are in a position to know state that the citizens are using more gum now than ever before. "Everybody is chewing it," say the merchants who handle gum. Even the babe that can scarcely walk and the grandmother who spends her leisure hours playing bridge or attending the various welfare meetings have learned the habit within the last few years. Whether prohibition has anything to do with the increase in the amount of gum is not definitely known, but it is conceded that the habit is certainly growing on the citizens of London.

STATISTICAL WIZARD.

The statistical wizard who supplied the figures given above estimates that every man, woman and child in the city uses on an average 160 sticks of gum each year. He admits that some may not use any, but others use more, so the average is the same in any case.

Inquiry at the various stores brought out the information that all of this gum is made in Canada and much of it is manufactured in this city.

The raw material is brought from the tropical countries, but on account of the protective tariff no finished product of the chicle is imported into Canada. There is no duty on the raw article if pure, but chicle substitutes pay a duty of 17 per cent. The revenue that accrues to the Government directly is not at all insignificant. There are several branches of the large American factories manufacturing gum in Canada because of the duty which protects the market for Canadian products, and the gum is sold as cheaply here as it is in the United States.

In comparison with others the gum industry may appear rather insignificant on the surface, but the figures which have been compiled by a citizen who is interested in the situation show that it is worthy of more than passing notice. There are many business men in Canada to-day who made small fortunes in gum.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 27.—Up resolving to say "Good morning" to everybody, no matter how I be cutt by people. This is the highest sort of effort towards starting the day right each day. The plague of our world is that nine-tenths of us go about imagining that we be mind readers. Master So-and-So does not return our salutation on the street, we forthwith write him down as a proud prig. The truth is, probably, that this Master So-and-So has just seen a little white-haired woman that makes him think of his mother, and he is really a very humble man at heart. So it goes, misunderstanding on all sides and the real fault is that we think heaven has endowed us with the gift of second sight. Whereas this self-delusion is, as Tennyson puts it: "The fly upon the window pane becomes the ox upon the distant plain," or some such phrase.

So to breakfast as pessimistic as I ever was in my life. For the news is that the prince do go abroad to the Indian Empire and to journey through it. Meanwhile his family, like a simple, plain family, do be cast down over it. Methinks this business of empire grows too burdensome for us. Better to be a little land like Holland and build dykes than to throw up walls on the four corners of the earth. Also my poor catt lies too long under our kitchen stove last night and is singed from head to foot. The weirdest looking catt I ever saw in my life almost.

The longer I live the more convinced I am that gossip is more a curse of men than of women. No place about the city but is afflicted with its whispering gallery. For ages we have pictured the devil with horns and a tail, red as scarlet and otherwise awful to look on. He is very probably a meek looking creature that would pass for a good pious soul anywhere save for his sibilant tongue: "Sh-h, so and so is true, I have just heard it!" All our temptations come as whispers that no ear may hear. That beast in our heart says: "What matters piety? Come, gratify me, none will know!" What lad intrusted with money and falls in his trust but first hears this sly whisperer making excuses?

My Aunt Mary out to the shows yesterday and to see the great Italian tragedy of love. Which is marked, she says, by another tragedy in that the chief actor chides young people for misbehaving. Which is just, no doubt. "But we also remember that 'the quality of mercy is not strained,'" says my aunt. "These youthful disturbers of artistic quietness are to be pitied more than blamed. For are not our children reared on the inevitable soul kisses of the last reel? The actors that appeal to them are shadows and their actions in actual life do not breed respect. Let us be patient and realize that education of the future will require a subsidized stage, if we are to have a national culture.

A strange tale from our golfing club told by my father-in-law how a man there is softened to his heart because of his caddie being thinly clad and otherwise pitiful. So this golfer buys the lad a suit of clothes and other garments, which overjoys this caddie, and he tries to express his thanks. "Don't say a word," says the golfer. "I am happier than you are. Now, now, not a word!" But the caddie bursts forth: "Well, sir, I must tell you I am sorry that you play such a rotten game!"

The news is that explorers discover a tribe in Africa with blue skins and that in their calendar every day is Monday. Which Master Roundus, at our Admiralty Club, says is the last word on the origins and history of the Africans. "These blue-skinned people," he says, "were the original blue lawyers and they triumph. Whereat the common folk turn black as a sign of mourning, and being trained to be slaves by law they make no pother on being captured for body slaves!" Which is ridiculous but nathless something to think over.

An interesting note from our Western University that it sends congratulations to the University of Padua in Italy now established for seven hundred years. It will be recalled that it was from this Padua that Portia, disguised as a learned young doctor, is supposed to come and defend the Venetian merchant from forfeiting a pound of flesh. Methinks we do well in sending these greetings, for Italy is the mother of all that our civilization means. There Law was born, but has since fallen on evil days: Christianity really began there; the shadow of the capitol fell on the reincarnation of art. And it was in Italy that the great rebirth of culture took place.

Word from Kingston that their penitentiary is crowded to capacity through cutting down of the parole system. The prisoners to double up owing to the shortage of cells, and the warden to wonder what to do with them. And if we continue to let our criminal factories run full time we shall have to build new prisons. These criminal factories being courts trying juveniles according to "precedents," school attendance laws laxly enforced and guardians of children appointed by citizens to care for such spending their time at clubs and conventions instead of carrying out their work!

SOUND OF ELECTION HEARD IN OFFING

Yearly Remodelling of East End Town Hall is About to be Undertaken.

Plans have been drawn for the remodelling of the East End town hall into a community building of the first rank. These plans will be submitted to the Council committees concerned early in the new year during the prepacation of estimates, and the work started by the spring. The plans call for the complete rebuilding of the old hall and in the structure thus remodelled there will be located an East End police station, fire hall and public library. The upstairs auditorium would be extended and made to conform to standard gymnasium measurements, which, with adjoining rest rooms and offices, will form one of the most complete community centers in Ontario.

All of the East End aldermen are behind the plan, it is understood, and point out that the money necessary to make the changes would be well spent.

Over 20 young people's athletic associations have already applied for the privileges of the hall this fall and winter. These are not all East End organizations, but are distributed over the city's entire four wards.

HUMANE SOCIETY IS DOING SPLENDID WORK

Much Credit Due Inspector Tustin for Efficiency of Department.

There is one society in London which does work of inestimable value to the city, but which works along from month to month receiving little but thanks for their work and for the most part little of this. It is the London Humane Society.

Much of the credit for the splendid work which the society is doing in seeing that animals and fowl are treated as they should be in a civilized country is due to the untiring efforts of Inspector George Tustin.

During the summer months, when the work is heaviest, the inspector's calls often number more than 25 each day, and as these inspections often took him into the country, as well as to all parts of the city, it will be seen that he must often have worked from early in the morning until late at night.

June, July and August usually provide the peak of the work of the society each year. In the first summer months this year the inspector made examinations of animals and fowl totalling more than 800, and in the following month the inspections were more than 700, while the month of August was equally busy.

A number of animals were destroyed by the inspector during the summer and early fall, and a number of residents of the county were summoned and fined for cruelty to animals. The majority of these were for working horses which were in no condition to be worked, but convictions were also registered against owners for wanton cruelty. The latest of these was an action brought by the inspector against a county resident who beat a horse to death with a blunt axe.

The animals at the Springbank zoo were also inspected by Mr. Tustin and were reported to be splendidly taken care of. They were well housed and well fed and watered.

The work of the society is a most important one in the interests of the city and due to the efforts of the inspector the city and county have been kept free of brutality to its animal residents.

SEEKS RELATIVES LOST TRACK OF YEARS AGO

Mrs. A. J. Moore Writes To Free Press From Sedro Woolley, Wash.

Mrs. A. J. Moore, of Sedro Woolley, Washington, writing to The Free Press in connection with the death of her cousin, Dr. W. J. Young, which occurred in Stockton, Cal., on September 27, states that she would like to get communication with some of her relatives who live in the vicinity of London. The late Dr. Young was a son of David Young, who left London during the gold rush to California and settled in Stockton, where he died three years ago. Dr. Young was buried in the San Joaquin Cemetery. Rev. Father William Flatterly, assisted by Fathers Samuel Tarrant and Thomas Cummins, conducted the services.

Mrs. Moore intimates that some of the Dundas, Beaty, Fir and Oliver families are relatives and she would be pleased if any of these who are related to the late Dr. Young would write to her in Sedro Woolley, Washington.

TEN MEMBERS OF W. C. T. U. ELECTED AS TRUSTEES

Ten members of the W. C. T. U. of this city were elected to the board of trustees at the regular session on Tuesday afternoon. They are: Mrs. Thornley, Mrs. Copeland, Miss Ingram, Mrs. Cottam, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. West, Mrs. Way, Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. Sussex and Mrs. Goodham. Mrs. Hubert Ashplant presided.

Reports were read by the conveners of various committees, one of the most interesting being that of the W. C. T. U. fresh air camp, held at Springbank Park. Mrs. Ida Harrison stated that the outing had been a great success this year. A large number of girls had enjoyed a holiday there, hammocks, bathing suits, loaned by the Soldiers' Aid Commission, being appreciated.

The officers and members extend their thanks to the board of managers of St. Andrew's Church, Dundas Center Church, Chamber of Commerce and Motor League for their assistance. They are also grateful to London women who acted as hostesses for the convention delegates and to the Boy Scouts, who did their bit.

WANT DOMINION OFFICE IN CITY

Local Command Trying To Secure Headquarters For City.

MANITOBA NOT CENTRAL

London Command Is One of the cure Headquarters.

Members of the local command of the Army and Veterans are using their influence to secure for London the headquarters of the Dominion Association, at present located in Winnipeg. The results of their efforts will be made known at the convention of all Canadian branches, which is being held in Toronto this week.

It was intimated at yesterday's session of the association that the capital of Manitoba was not centrally enough located for the purposes of the various commands. Montreal was suggested as a logical situation by reason of it being near Ottawa, but it is believed that London will also be considered, as it is but a short distance from the Dominion capital and is in the heart of the country.

The London Command is regarded as one of the important strongholds of the A. and N. V. in Canada and for this reason might be favorably viewed as headquarters. It would mean that central offices would be established and a secretary and assisting staff moved to this city. There is also a probability that the local members would get a new building which would be a credit to local veterans and to the association throughout Canada.

Negotiations in this direction are now pending on what steps are taken to consummate union of veteran bodies. If amalgamation were favored it would probably result in the establishment of a Dominion branch of the British Empire Service League, which would transact all business for veterans with the Federal Government.

EXPECT FINAL WORD ON RAILWAY WAGE CUT

Members of Complaint Delegation Return to London.

Members of the conciliation board that have been sitting at Montreal hearing the protest of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees against the reduction in wages placed into effect by the Grand Trunk on July 1 are expected to make their decision known within the next two weeks, according to John Edward Chick, local chairman and member of the grievance committee, who returned to London today after giving evidence on behalf of the employees.

The representatives of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees' organization, which includes clerks, freight handlers, station employees and other employees of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways in Canada, stated that full details were laid before the board members, and the railway union officials are now waiting for the word from the board.

The presentation was made by Mr. George Fisher, master car builder, who, in the course of a short speech, conveyed to Mr. Anstie the congratulations and hearty good wishes of his fellow employees. Mr. Anstie replied fittingly.

UNION ONLY ON UNANIMOUS VOTE

Ten People In Congregation Might Halt Scheme.

UPHELD BY THE COURTS

Rev. D. C. MacGregor Points Out Coming Difficulties.

The minority of any congregation may throw a monkey-wrench into the machinery established for consummating organic union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational churches of Canada. This is the serious fact which now confronts the special union committee of the Dominion and which may make abortive all its future efforts in the direction of unity.

The union committee, in its recent meeting in Toronto, discussed what legislation would be necessary to safeguard church union and appointed, according to the Rev. D. C. MacGregor, who attended the session, several members to bring in a report on the matter. These members have an extremely difficult and ticklish task because no legislation can be devised that will nullify the opposition of the "die-hards" in any individual congregation.

"If 10 people in any congregation whose denomination is a party to church union desire to preserve their own faith from the encroachments of the church union they will be upheld by the courts of law," said the Rev. T. D. McCullough. "The Supreme Court of Canada would doubtless grant them a favorable decision, but if it didn't the Privy Council certainly would.

IN SCOTLAND.

"Two churches in Scotland were faced with the same predicament some years ago and the members of a certain congregation took their case to the courts, where they secured judgment in their favor," added Mr. McCullough. "It was explained by the judge at that time that no church property could be taken away from a congregation without the unanimous consent of the latter. This precedent would, therefore, serve to support any similar minority in a Canadian church which refused to consider church union.

"By the introduction of church union certain doctrines must be changed and forms of church government revised. Any group of members, no matter how small in a congregation, who take objection to these changes will be able, as a result, to carry their appeal of protest from the church to the civil courts and have their church property kept immune from any legislation that may be formulated."

Mr. McCullough pointed out that in nearly every congregation there are certain percentages of members who hold out strenuously against organic union. In some churches where this feeling is particularly strong it is quite probable that an appeal will be made to the civil courts and a test case thus fought out.

SAYS PROVINCE SHOULD PAY COST

Pursuits of Criminals Not Matter For Municipalities.

SUGGEST PROVINCIAL FUND

At Present Municipalities Pay For Cross-Country Chases.

It is probable that representations will be made by the municipal authorities to the Provincial Government suggesting that a provincial fund be created from which the cost of following up wanted criminals such as the Wyoming bank robbers should be met.

In this regard London has suffered more than most municipalities in the province, as the police department here is in posession of adequate and expensive speed equipment for the pursuit of such cases and it has frequently been called into operation—always at the municipal expense.

In the chase after the Wyoming robbers, officers went afield in the police car and scoured the roads for miles without success. The robbers were traced from Wyoming as far as Denfield, but there all track of them was lost, despite the fact that the London officers spent much time on the case.

A TORONTO OPINION

A Toronto police official, speaking to a newspaper in that city, has the opinion that six distinct gangs of bank robbers are at work in the province and are operating out of Ottawa, London, Hamilton, Kingston, Toronto, Sarnia and Niagara. Using high-powered cars, it is an easy matter for them to journey far from their home base, steal a car for their escapade, drive many more miles, rob a bank and then escape, passing through several municipalities en route. Under such circumstances local police authorities are practically powerless to deal with the bandits. What is required, and this opinion of the Toronto officer is supported by local officers, is the closest sort of co-operation between the various police departments and a provincial fund from which the expenses of such pursuits could be met.

PURSUITS STOPPED

The lack of this provincial co-operation or effectual provincial control is held to be largely responsible for the fact that there is now no real organized effective pursuit of the Murrels, who escaped from the Middlesex County jail on September 2. London police officers vigorously followed any clues they had and circulars descriptive of the men and offering a reward were distributed country-wide, but at present the chase has practically been abandoned.

This apparent official lassitude is not confined to the Murrell case alone, in which London is particularly interested, but is in evidence in other parts of the province. The chase of the Wyoming bank bandits has practically lapsed, and as far as cen be learned, nothing effective is being done in the pursuit of the men who murdered Constable Beard, of Napanee. These men, who are armed with rifles, worked out of Kingston. While the case was "hot," the Kingston police were busy, but after exhausting the search in their own district they relaxed their effort and it has not been followed up. With a live provincial organization, backed with ample money, such a condition could not exist, it is pointed out by local officers. A chase once commenced would be continued. The local officials have no objection to doing the provincial work, but naturally feel that expenses met with in such a case should not remain a charge upon any single municipality, but should be borne by the province at large.

BACONIAN CLUB.—The Baconian Club will open its 38th season on Saturday night at its rooms in the London Life Building. The nomination of officers for the season will take place at this meeting. A paper will be read by W. H. Porter on the subject of "Printers' Ink."

OLDEST ALIBI IN THE WORLD "WOMAN TEMPTED ME," FAILS TO SECURE MAN'S ACQUITTAL

Man Who Attempted To Secure Money By False Pretense Gets Year In Prison.

The oldest alibi in the world, "the woman that thou gavest me to be with me did give me of the tree and I did eat," was invoked in the police court this morning, but failed of its effect.

Johnston Levern Killingbeck, who was arrested under the name of Johnston H. Hill, charged with attempting to obtain money under false pretenses from A. Hill, a farmer living near Lakeside, placed the blame for the offense upon the woman with whom he had been living, but the court would have none of it and Killingbeck was sent to prison for a term of one year.

Hill, of Killingbeck, it will be recalled, telegraphed to A. Hill in the name of his son, Stanley, saying he was in serious trouble and asking for $200 to help him out. Stanley Hill was in his father's house when the message arrived, and on his advice his father communicated at once with the London police. The police advised Hill to notify his alleged son that the money would be paid. This was done, and when Killingbeck appeared at the Bank of Montreal to get it he was arrested by Detective Down.

HAS LONG RECORD.

To the local officers he said he had never been in trouble before, but his finger prints, sent to Toronto, revealed that he had a criminal record and that his real name, instead of being Johnston A. Hill was Johnston Levern Killingbeck. He was first convicted of theft in Peterboro in 1908, but sentence was suspended on account of his youth. In 1910 he was caught again on a theft charge and that time served three months in the Peterboro jail. Another theft case in 1911 brought him a year in the central prison, and in 1913, caught stealing, he was sentenced to three years in Kingston. Thus out of five years he spent four years and three months in prison.

When arraigned this morning Killingbeck pleaded hard for leniency. "The woman did it, your honor," he said. "I wouldn't know this man if I fell over him, but she told me how to get the money and advised me to wire for it. I did it because she asked me to."

Asked by the court if he referred to his wife, Killingbeck said he was not married, but the woman whom he alleged had tempted him, and with whom he lived, was his housekeeper.

MAKES STRONG PLEA.

The prisoner admitted his criminal record, but said the imprisonments were all for minor offenses. "As soon as I got out of penitentiary I went overseas," he said, "and have gone straight since my return. This is the first crime I've had against me since 1913, and I don't know how I came to do this except that she asked me to."

In reply to questions Killingbeck said he went overseas with the 93rd Battalion and was drafted to the 21st, with which he claimed to have served in France for four months. He returned to Canada in July, 1919, and said he had since kept within the law.

Magistrate Bartlett remarked upon his criminal record as a bad one. He did not put any stock in the plea that the woman was to blame for his trouble, for, the magistrate said, she was not the prisoner's wife, and, therefore, he was not living as an honorable man should live. Killingbeck's overseas service, however, impressed the court and was probably responsible for the sentence running to one year, instead of 18 months, the maximum for the offence with which the prisoner was charged.

When Killingbeck was arrested a quantity of cocaine was found in his possession, as well as a letter throwing some light upon the operations of the drug ring in the Province of Ontario. This information has been forwarded to the provincial authorities and is being thoroughly investigated. It is possible that developments will follow.

COVET RACE TRACK AS SITE FOR SCHOOL

Chairman of Board Says It Will Be Used if Fair Moves.

A site for the new East End Collegiate Institute has not been secured yet, Chairman Coleridge, of the Board of Education, stated to-day, although the trustees have been quietly looking over a number of possible sites. The solution of the matter, according to the chairman, if the Western Fair board takes expected steps to move the exhibition buildings, is to place the proposed new high school on a section of the fair grounds. He pointed out that the present race track site would be an admirable location from every point of view.

Mr. Coleridge also expressed the opinion that the question of a new fair site should soon be settled one way or the other, and that the location of the new East End high school near Egerton street is a matter of vital importance. The Western Fair race track borders that highway and is considered the ideal site for a collegiate that within a few years would be called on to accommodate a thousand pupils.

It is expected that the question of a new fair site will come up at an early meeting of the directors of that institution, at which time it will be seriously argued that the Cove reservation would meet all requirements of space, accessibility and possibilities of future development.

APPOINTED SECRETARY-TREASURER.—Hugh Murray has been appointed secretary-treasurer for the Ontario and Quebec Kiwanis district. At the convention held in Montreal recently Chet Bibson, St. Thomas, was elected to this post, but has since been compelled to resign owing to his removal to the United States, where he has accepted an important position with his company. The district trustees met in Toronto this week and Hugh Murray was unanimously elected to succeed Mr. Gibson.

BUILDERS' WEEK SUGGESTED HERE

Much Work Waits Return of Confidence.

TIME PROPITIOUS NOW

Expected Builders' Exchange Will Take Action.

A plan for launching of a big building boom is suggested for action by the Builders' Exchange with the co-operation of the Chamber of Commerce and other interested bodies. John Putherbough, contractor, in an interview today stated that the time is peculiarly propitious for such a venture, which, on enlisting popular support, might go a long way towards making 1922 a $4,000,000 building year.

Mr. Putherbough stated that the proposal that the Builders' Exchange stage a building week in London met with his heartiest support. During the week, it was stated, the builders would make a special effort to show citizens that material prices have declined to almost pre-war values in certain lines, and if there is to be a return of national prosperity demanded long-deferred building programs be gone ahead with. It is understood that London has at least $3,000,000 of deferred building at the present time.

It is expected that Mr. Putherbough's plan will be laid before the Builders' Exchange at an early meeting.

At the same time, London's 1921 building record continues to grow. The year's total now stands at $2,240,490, which is only $215,000 less than the greatest year's building total London has ever achieved. October's total to-day stands at $195,845

BANDSTAND FOR VICTORIA PARK

Will Cost In Neighborhood of $7,500.

CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION

More Seats To Be Provided Next Summer.

Victoria Park will have a new concrete band stand in 1922, the members of the Public Utilities Commission have decided, in view of the fact that the building inspector has practically condemned the present structure. The new stand will cost $7,500 and will be pleasing from the architectural standpoint, while shell alcove construction will provide a sounding board with perfect outdoor acoustic properties.

The commission, as suggested by Commissioner McFarland, will next year take steps towards encouraging the formation of a City of London band. Uniforms and practice quarters will be provided on a contract for periodic park concerts during the summer.

Plans are also under way to have this band organized early in the new year and give public concerts in the armories.

The city's central park will be provided with concrete benches next year, made at the workshops of the commission. Molds have already been made for turning out the concrete end sections, which are joined by lengths of board. These seats are practically indestructible and are therefore extremely economical.

NEED WORKERS IN CHINESE FIELD

Mrs. Jackson, of Winnipeg, Tells of Missionary Endeavors.

AT FIRST METHODIST W. M. S.

Says Work of Missionaries Is Bringing Results.

Privileged to have visited some of the most important mission fields of the world, not as a missionary, but as the representative of a home missionary society, Mrs. G. Jackson, of Winnipeg, had a most interesting story of her inkternary to give to her audience in Wesley Hall last evening. Mrs. Jackson, who came to London under the auspices of the Methodist W.M.S., is herself the president of the Manitoba Conference Branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church. Officially appointed to visit the Methodist mission fields of China and Japan, her tour carried her nearly to the Thibetan border, and covered some of the outstanding missions of the church.

"China is a land of hewers of wood and drawers of water," Mrs. Jackson said. "There is a poverty there, not only economic, but of the soul, and spirit, that brings all other poverty in its train. And yet, already it is the privilege of our church there to send out native teachers among their own people, native teachers who have been taught themselves by our missionaries."

NEED EVEN GREATER.

"The need for workers is ever greater," the speaker said. "I visited a wealthy Chinese woman, who had been ostracised by her people for embracing Christianity, and although I understand her house contains many treasures she is always desirous of showing to her visitors, yet she occupied the whole two hours of my visit in pleading with me to send out more teachers."

Mrs. Jackson drew a vivid picture of the mission compounds, built always on the highest ground to offset the difficulties of insanitation, and told of the work carred on, often single-handed, by the Christian leaders in hospitals and schools.

"Our workers have gained great prestige among these people," she said. "They have torn down many barriers and traditions."

The Canadian visitor was privileged to attend the great world convention of Sunday schools held in Tokio, and told of the generous offer of the Imperial Theater in Tokio, where the giant gathering was ultimately held.

The address was illustrated by some excellent views, gathered by Mrs. Jackson and her husband during their journey and providing a delightful background to the lecture. Mrs. Gordon Wright, president of the London Conference Branch, W. M. S., presided over the meeting, during which Mrs. Wyatt sang a very beautiful solo.

WHY NEARLY ALL NERVOUS PEOPLE WEAR GLASSES.

The eyes use up more nervous energy than any other organ of the body, and therefore if a person is of a nervous temperament, it is essential that he or she should have even the slightest optical error corrected accurately. In many cases there is a small defect of which the nervous person is not conscious, but, which if corrected, would improve the nervous condition or headache tremendously.

If you are in any doubt see F. Steele, 210 Dundas street. f

Western "U" Graduates For British Diplomatic Service

Will Be Granted Special Facilities For Entrance Into That Work.

Special facilities will in future be provided whereby graduates of Western University may enter the Imperial diplomatic service on an equal footing with graduates from English colleges.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Board of Governors of the University a communication was received from the Dominion government under-secretary of state for external affairs in which it was stated that the Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, secretary of state for the colonies in the United Kingdom cabinet, desired the closest co-operation with Canadian universities in placing selected men from their annual roster of graduates in the diplomatic service of the empire.

The Board of Governors, on motion, decided to take advantage of the opportunity thus afforded and instructed the executive secretary to communicate that action to the Dominion secretary concerned.

Further details will be worked out within a short while, it is understood, and the actual nomination of graduates for the Imperial diplomatic service will be left in the hands of the executive committee of the university on advice of Dean Fox and Lt.-Col. Walter J. Brown.

Members of the board expressed the opinion that this opportunity afforded by the British government marks another step in the progress of Imperial unity, and that the university's prestige will be greatly increased both from the fact that its graduates are considered eligible on graduation for what is termed the most difficult diplomatc service in the world, as well as in the opening up of another avenue of splendid opportunity for Western Ontario young men.

SAY GOOD BYE TO TWO OFFICERS

Salvation Army Regret Departure of Commissioner Richards.

GOING TO AUSTRALIA

High Tributes Paid at Gathering At Masonic Temple.

It was a touching farewell which the Salvationists of London, St. Thomas and Chatham and the citizens of London tendered to Commissioner Richards and Mrs. Richards at the Masonic Temple last night. Commissioner Richards has been in charge of the work of the Salvation Army in Canada East for seven years and leaves soon to take charge of the work of the Army in Australia. The hall was crowded on this the occasion of the last appearance in London of this beloved officers of the Army and his wife, who has done so much to advance the work in the district since they came to Canada.

James Gray was chairman of the meeting and many of the officers of the local corps, who have worked with Commissioner Richards, spoke briefly at the meeting last night. The commissioner and Mrs. Richards both addressed the gathering and expressed their appreciation of the touching farewell and the splendid work which the officers of the Army had done during the past seven years.

THANKS HELPERS.

Commissioner Richards in his address gave the credit for the success which had attended his efforts while stationed in the Eastern Canadian division to those who had so faithfully helped and co-operated with him. He declared, moreover, that without the assistance of the young people, with whom he has been especially concerned, he could have done nothing. He declared that they were a splendid forc. It was not what he had done, but what all th ecomrades had done.

Touching on some of the work which had been accomplished in the division during the seven years that he had been in charge Commissioner Richards gave some figures of the actual growth of the army. He stated that 30 citadels had been added to the division; three summer camps for boys a nd girls had been established; 17 institutions had been established for military purposes since the beginning of the war; 39 houses for the use of field and staff officers had been purchased and 17 sites for citadels had been bought. In all a total of $1,499,836 had been spent in this way.

Mrs. Richards gave all the credit for the work which had been accomplished to her husband and the workers in the corps. She declared that they all appeared to have come sa close together. They had become bound together. During the time that they had been in Canada they had given themselves absolutely to the people of Canada. She and her husband had given more than 40 years to the grand and glorious work. They had traveled together side by side a nd shared each other's troubles and joys.

In closing she thanked the gathering for their presence and their esteem and their good wishes and offered a fervent prayer that God might prosper and bless all of tohse whom she had come to love so much.

LAUDS ARMY

Mr. Gray, the chairman, expressed his regard for the Salvation Army in a few brief remarks. He stated that whenever he attended one of the meetings he became infused with the enthusiasm which was always manifest He declared that the business people of London had a deep regard for the Army because they were people that really did things and this outside of the wonderful spiritual work which they carried on.

Col. Rawlings told the gathering that it had been his privilege to accompany Commissioner Richards and Mrs. Richards on their farewell tour, and everywhere the citizens as well as members of the Army had turned out in great numbers to bid the officer and his wife farewell. He declared, however, that there was not a finer field of the Salvation Army than in London. He declared that he knew how faithful the commissioner had been in his division. He had been the prophet of the young people and there was evidence of the blessing of God on his efforts. He pointed out in this regard that the majority of the cadets in the training college had been influenced to become officers in the Army thriugh the young people's rallies held by the commissioner.

Adjutant Wilcox, Sergt.-Major Andrews, Commandant Adams and Young People's Sergt.-Major Cook, of St. Thomas, spoke briefly, expressing their appreciation of the work of the commissioner and Mrs. Richards during their seven years in Canada.

There were a number of musical numbers during the evening from not only the London band, but from the Chatham band and from a group of Chatham songsters. There were a large number present from both St. Thomas and Chatham at the farewell meeting.

REJOINS POLICE FORCE

William Snell, a former member of the local police force, has rejoined Chief Birrell's organization. For seven years Mr. Snell served on the force prior to the war, and was an efficient officer and will be remembered by hosts of citizens.

When the war broke out Mr. Snell resigned from the force and joined the old 6th Field Battery, which was known later as the 12th Field Battery. He won the D. C. M. for bravery on the field, and is the holder of three service medals. He joined as a private and returned to Canada with the rank of regimental sergeant-major. P. C. Snell went overseas with three others of the local force, Sergt. Barnhill, Sergt. "Jim" Oakley, and the late Alex. Ewan, who died about a year ago.

NAME DELEGATES FOR CONVENTION

WARD MEETINGS ARE HELD

City's 78 Subdivisions Allotted Six Delegates Each.

Ward meetings of Government supporters were held last evening at the Masonic Temple, Chesley Avenue School and Foresters' Hall, East London, and brought out gatherings fully representative of the 78 city subdivisions.

At Masonic Temple, where electors of Wards 1 and 2, with parts of 3 and 4, had been called, E. R. Dennis delivered a brief but vigorous address, referring to the issues of the campaign and the importance of everyone exercising the franchise, and called upon J. Percy Moore to review the situation with reference to registration.

Municipal lists of 1921 will be used, according to agreement, Mr. Moore explained, insofar as parts 1 and 3 are concerned, and registration will be held all next week in 14 places to afford opportunity for addition of names of those eligible to vote. The qualifications are very simple: To be a British subject, 21 years of age, a resident of the Dominion for one year and of the electoral district two months prior to October 11, 1921. Should names of eligible persons be omitted when registration is closed, application may be made to the revising officer, who will hold a sitting some two weeks later.

The list for this election is so large that the subdivisions will be divided into two, and in some cases three or even four parts, with a deputy returning officer for each.

Representatives of the different subdivisions last night prepared lists of delegates to the nominating convention, to be held on Monday, each subdivision being allotted six. A considerable number of the 468 who will pick a candidate at the Masonic Temple next week will be ladies. A number of names will be placed before the convention.

WOULD ADMIT WOMEN TO THE MASONIC ORDER

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—The admission of women into the Masonic Grand Lodge is the novel object of an organization of which Louis Goaziou is the North American representative. When interviewed at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel to-day, Mr. Goaziou stated that the move originated with the Masonic Grand Lodge of France in 1893, and has since spread to practically every country in the world where Masonry has been established.

NUXATED IRON
FOR RED BLOOD STRENGTH AND ENDURANCE

Try Magnesia For Stomach Trouble

Doubtless if you are a sufferer from indigestion you have already tried pepsin, pancreatin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and, you know these things will not cure your trouble—in some cases do not even give relief.

But before giving up hope and deciding you are a chronic dyspeptic just try the effect of a little bisurated magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate of milk, but the pure bisurated magnesia, which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powdered or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or two compressed tablets with a little water after your next meal and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow almost everything you eat.

You will find that provided you take a little bisurated magnesia immediately after a meal, you can eat almost anything and enjoy it without any danger of pain or discomfort to follow and, moreover, the continued use of the bisurated magnesia cannot injure the stomach in any way so long as there are any symptoms of acid indigestion.—Advt.

START WORK ON WESTERN U PLANS

Engineer to Design Approaches to New College Site.

NEW LECTURERS NAMED

Rev. Messrs. Symington and McKechnie Added to Philosophical Department.

An engineer's report on the approaches to the new site for Western University Arts School is being procured, it was stated at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the board of governors, of which Major A. T. Little is chairman. This report will cover a very important preliminary section of plans for the new university buildings, which will be started early next year. It will deal with existing and future transportation facilities both from the city and county and involves the erection of a bridge across the Thames that will probably be built jointly by county and province and will undoubtedly be of dignified architectural design, in keeping with the gothic buildings, which will soon form Western Ontario's educational crown jewels.

A subcommittee, consisting of Chairman A. T. Little, Vice-Chairman J. H. Chapman, Dr. C. E. Somerville, Dean McKibben, Dean Fox and Lieut.-Col. Walter J. Brown, were appointed to make arrangements for the coming formal opening of the new medical school. Invitations are being extended to several prominent Canadians and to the governor-general, Lord Byng, it is understood.

Rev. T. A. Symington, minister of Knox Presbyterian Church, and Rev. N. S. McKechnie, pastor of the Wortley Road Baptist Church, were appointed lecturers in philosophy vice Rev. W. L. Hiles whose resignation was accepted. Mr. Symington will lecture on modern philosophy, while Mr. McKechnie will lecture on ancient philosophy.

A letter was received from Trinity College, Toronto, asking for representatives from Western University at the approaching installation of Provost Seager.

Appreciation was expressed to the public library board for the donation of a collection of geological specimens that will be placed in the university geological museum.

W. L. Blake, university physical director, will shortly be appointed provisional officer commanding the college officers' training corps. Organization of the corps is being proceeded with, the physical director reported in a communication.

Portrait of the late Dr. H. A. McCallum will soon be received by the Medical School, and will be unveiled, it is anticipated, during the November opening week. The portrait is being painted by E. Wiley Grier, R. C. A.

Resolutions of regret by the university board of governors at the death of Dr. McCallum have been embossed, and, when signed by Chairman Little and Dean Fox on behalf of the governors, will be presented to Mrs. McCallum.

Resolutions of sympathy with Sir Adam Beck and Mrs. W. H. Moorhouse were passed by the board.

OSHAWA, Oct. 26.—While at work in the plant of the Malleable Iron Company here to-day A. Manelo was hit on the head by a portion of an emery wheel, which flew in pieces, and died in a few minutes.

PLEADS FOR LITTLE ONES

Social Worker Addresses Catholic Women's League

"Never has there been so great a need manifested for getting back to primitive Christianity in the home. Keep the little family together under one roof and you solve 90 per cent. of the social service problems of the day," declared Brother Barnabas, of the Catholic Charities, of Toronto, in an address on social service before the closing session of the convention of the Catholic Women's League yesterday afternoon.

This address and the unanimous election of Mrs. B. C. McCann to the presidency of the Diocesan Catholic Women's League were outstanding features of yesterday's program. Mrs. McCann's executive includes Mrs. Dunn, Chatham, first vice-president; Mrs. Meehan, St. Thomas, second vice-president; Mrs. Trotiere, Belle River, third vice-president; Mrs. J. B. Leech, of this city, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Cleary, Windsor; Mrs. Dawson, Sarnia; Mrs. Brophy, Woodstock, Mrs. Fleming, St. Marys; Miss Le Boeuf, Tilbury, and Mrs. John MacDonald, Brussels, councilors.

Brother Barnabas, who was a leading social worker in the United States before moving to Toronto, and who is closely in touch with the social service activities throughout the Dominion, was strong in his denunciation of the general orphanage system, which he declared took away the individuality and temperament of the child.

OLD DICKENS KIND.

"We have 5,000 orphans in Ontario, Catholic and Protestant, he said, "and they are housed in the same old Dickens kind of orphan asylums. I doubt if there is a group plan orphanage in the province, a home in the real sense of the word, where not more than 15 children are gathered together in separate cottages, under separate jurisdiction; a home where there is a rocking chair in the parlor, and where the girls wear dresses like the girls they see outside, and not dozens and dozens of them all cut by one pattern. Why, I saw one poor, well-intentioned soul cutting out I don't know how many pairs of trousers for the orphan boys, and if she wasn't making them straight when all the boys in the street were wearing bloomers."

"We have not been innocent in our treatment of the orphan poor, the "treasures of the church," Brother Barnabas said. "We have given them an inferior schooling; we have offered them the gingham apron and the tin cup; we have made them conspicuous so that the other children cry out, 'There go the orphans.' Even their Christmas has come five days after the festival. There is no patent, no insurance against orphanage for your own children. Everything about the orphan should be cultural and refined so that when he goes back to the world he should draw attention only by his superiority. He should be given extra advantages because of his handicap. Why not the high school for the orphan boy as well as for your boy? Why the farm for him at 14, the farm that he is so sick of in a year that he knows every leaf on every tree, every blade of grass in the yard? You want relaxation and recreation; you want your summer trip to the lake. Why are none of these things for the orphan?

"There are thousands of orphan boys in North America, and not 10 per cent. of them are in the church when they grow up," Brother Barnabas continued. "Many of them are in the jails and the poorhouses. Their very food, the monotony of it, has deprived them of physical force enough to knock the devil out of them when they are tempted. The pretty child in the orphanage gets your attention, and the little, snub-nosed, freckle-faced chap cries in his bed for three nights after your visit.

"The whole church is to-day entering a new epoch of work for humanity," Brother Barnabas said. "The Holy Father has said, 'Women to the rescue,' and it is to the women that the church looks the rehabilitation of the world; for the whole world is looking to Canada to-day. You are the new generation. No nation in the world is giving such evidence of pure homes and consecrated womanhood. Can you find one other nation as free of agitation and contention; one other nation showing such an open field for construction?

"It is to establish high standards that the Catholic Women's League is being organized from coast to coast," the speaker went on, "and the force of the women is a Niagara of power that must be harnessed to turn the wheels at the right time, and in the right lines. If we Catholics in Ontario do our social service work right (and all work, for God or man, must be done efficiently to be of any use), then we can be in the lead. Get your Catholic boys and girls to study social service, to take the courses at the university. There is no work that bring such an opportunity for good.

LAUDS PROTESTANTS.

"God bless the bright, clean-cut fellows of the Y. M. C. A. who took in our boys and companioned them, when in our organizations we were leaving them to the janitors, and wondering why they didn't come," Brother Barnabas said. "Good Protestant leaders have guided our boys and looked after them, and paid for a Catholic building to do it in. The social problem is to the fore to-day, and the Catholics could control it, but we must have trained leaders."

Referring to another aspect of the social problem, that of the unmarried mother, the speaker said: "I am determined that we shall have, right away, in Toronto, a home that will be open to all classes of misery, and will investigate afterwards. The hospitals will take the mother, but not the child. Let us look into the merits of the case only after we have extended welcome and comfort to the those seeking help."

"Don't patronize the girls, companion them,' was the suggestion of the speaker for meeting the girl problem of to-day. "Don't look down on the foreigner; there is no girl so well qualified for motherhood as the Italian girl, who is carefully trained by her mother. I have 77 young Italian men, fine chaps, now, who want wives, the kind that don't powder their noses. I guess I will have to send to Italy for 77 Italian girls."

"Don't break up the home," Brother Barnabas said. "If you can keep one little family in one home you will do away with much of the juvenile crime; don't wait till the breakage comes, and then solve the family problem by taking Mary away from Joe, and Minnie away from little Jim, but be ready when the breakage is impending, and help to save the homes."

GROUP ORPHANAGES.

Brother Barnabas urged a survey of the diocese that social service activities might be efficiently undertaken. "And whatever you do, don't help to build another giant institution for orphans," he said. The Ontario Government wants to see the orphan children educated on the home plan, so get behind the movement and work for the group orphanages."

Concluding, the speaker told of a personal visit paid to an institution, where he found regular attendance at chapel an urgent feature. "And I said to the leaders there: 'These children have been chapled enough. Take your chapel down to your parish church; I'm going to wax the floor and teach these boys to dance, and when I have taught them how to meet girls, then I will bring in the girls for them to meet."

Treat the orphan as God's own child," Brother Barnabas said. "Treat him as the church did in the early days, and don't have him marched with his fellows up cold stone steps on a bright afternoon that he may say 'vespers' while other children are out at play. God help the interpretation of that Latin."

OBJECT TO THE BRITISH UNEMPLOYED COMING

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—When the unemployment situation was under discussion to-day at the annual convention of the Army and Navy Veterans, delegates expressed disapproval of the system attributed to the British Government of affording relief. Speakers understood the purpose was to dump British unemployed into the Dominions and that course was characterized as unfair.

A resolution dealing with the unemployment question will be laid before the convention to-morrow. It was decided by the delegates to appoint a permanent Dominion secretary and to move the headquarters of the association from Winnipeg to "a city nearer the Dominion capital." It is generally understood that Montreal is to be that city.

Prior to the regular afternoon session a memorial service was held by the ladies' auxiliary.

In the Wrong Pew

If C. R. Somerville believes in political consistency he should resign as the candidate of Hon. Mackenzie King in London. Mr. Somerville enunciated his views on the fiscal question before the ladies on Monday night. He told them that he was a protectionist, and said he stood for the present tariff, which was the old Laurier tariff, and expressed surprise that Mr. Meighen was raising the issue. He endeavored to give the impression that this was the present-day policy of the Liberal party. Evidently Mr. Somerville is about as well informed on the tariff issue as he is on the question of woman's suffrage.

Is Mr. Somerville ignorant of the Liberal platform? The fiscal policy of the Liberal party is not the tariff as it stands to-day. The Liberal party in 1919 held a convention in Ottawa. It was, as Mr. King dearly loves to call it, "a great democratic gathering." There were representatives present from every province of Canada. After three days' deliberation the following platform was adopted:

"That the best interests of Canada demand that substantial reduction of the burdens of customs taxation be made with a view to the accomplishment of two purposes of the highest importance: (1) Diminishing the very high cost of living which presses so severely on the masses of the people; (2) reducing the cost of the instruments of production in the industries based on the natural resources of the Dominion, the vigorous development of which is essential to the progress and prosperity of our country.

"That to these ends wheat, wheat flour and all products of wheat, the principal articles of food, farm implements and machinery, farm tractors, mining, flour and sawmill machinery and repair parts thereof, rough and dressed lumber, gasoline, illuminating, lubricating and fuel oils, etc., nets, net twines and fishermen's equipment and fertilizers should be free from customs duty, as well as the raw material entering into the same; that a revision downward should be made and substantial reductions should be effected in the duties on wearing apparel and footwear, and on other articles of general consumption (other than luxuries), as well as on the raw material entering into the manufacture of the same; that the British preference should be increased 50 per cent. of the general tariff."

The convention wanted to impress upon the people of Canada that this platform would be put in force, and the following rider was added:

"That the Liberal party hereby pledges itself to implement by legislation the provisions of this resolution when returned to power."

In addition, only a year ago in Parliament, Mr. King declared with all the emphasis that he could command that "I will stand or fall by this platform."

This platform is a direct challenge to the fiscal policy of to-day. Mr. King has never stated that this platform will not be put into effect. It is said that Mr. Somerville is in the field as the result of a direct personal appeal by Mr. King. Perhaps the Liberal leader has given Mr. Somerville an assurance that this platform will not be carried out if Mr. King is called on to form a government. If Mr. Somerville has such a promise let him produce it.

Mr. Somerville knows, or should know, that in Western Canada Hon. Duncan Marshall and Hon. W. R. Motherwell, who are Mr. King's two chief lieutenants and are federal candidates, are running on the Liberal platform of 1919 and are promising it will be put into legislative effect. In rural ridings to-day in Ontario much is being made of the policy of free agricultural implements. Where geographically it is good policy protection is being savagely denounced.

Unless Mr. Somerville can assure the people of London that the Liberal fiscal policy has been discarded then he will have to take responsibility for it. If he can give this assurance, we ask him, then, as a business man what he thinks of a political leader who so lightly regards his promises and pledges? Is he worthy of being prime minister?

The trouble with Mr. Somerville is that he is in the wrong pew.

Lenine Admits Defeat of Communism.

A little less than five years ago the great Russian revolution began. At the time of its inception a native Russian, a professor in residence at Harvard University, warned a large audience, gathered to hear him speak on the reform movement in the opppressed empire, that Russia's revolution was likely to run the course of revolutions which take place in countries where the mass of the population is still in the darkness of ignorance and superstition—owing to lack of education and opportunity for a modicum of self-development.

The same professor announced that, in his opinion, such a revolution as would probably be staged in Russia could scarcely run its full course under a period of six years, at least. Both his foresayings have proved true so far. The one variation is that the direness and gruesomeness of the events likely to fall outtops anything pictured by the man, who, although a friend of Kerensky, and through him constantly in touch with the big movement which was about to sweep Russia, lacked year-long personal knowledge of the thickness, the dunness of the atmosphere that hung pall-like over the Russian people as a whole. Therefore he scarcely could foretell the kind of reaction such smothered suffering and oppression is likely to generate. Such intuition demanded residence and constant travel across Russia and up and down the vast distances that made up the one-time empire.

Substantiation of the fact that Russia would suffer a period and then settle down to the beginning of normal life of a "civilized" kind may be deduced from the cabled news that even Lenine, the blood-reddened Soviet autocrat, at length is realizing his kind of revolution does not pay.

Acknowledgment of the non-productive element of communism, as Lenine and his fellow Sovietists have seen it, is contained in a speech made by him before the congress of political workers recently gathered at Moscow. He said:

"Our new economic policy, in substance, follows from the fact that we have suffered a strong defeat and have begun to carry out a strategic retreat. Before we are defeated finally let us step back and reform anew, but on a stronger base. Everybody sees what a sharp turn the Soviet powers and the Communist party have taken by adopting a new economic policy, which, in substance, contains more of the old regime than of our previous policy. The attitude of the Soviets toward economic questions during the first half of 1918, when the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty gave hope of peaceful construction, was extraordinarily cautious. Then the necessity of considering the peasants was always pointed out and the role of state capitalism in socialistic construction was considered.

"The civil war which broke out and the desperate position in which the republic found itself, compelled us to change directly to communistic production and distribution. However, not a very lengthy experience convinced us that without having gone through a period of socialistic adjustment and investigation, it was not possible to reach even the lowest steps of communism.

"There can be no doubt that on the economic front, in the attempt to come over to communism toward the spring of 1921, we suffered a defeat more serious than any we have experienced before. This showed our economic policies failed to have their feet on the ground, and did not create that raising of productive powers which was recognized in the party program as fundamental and urgent.

"Requisitions in villages and a direct communistic approach to construction problems in the cities retarded the elevation of our productive powers and were the cause of a deep economic and political crisis. We recognized defeat and retreated, and the retreat is continuing in many places even at present, amid very unnecessary disorders."

Was there ever such complete confession of defeat made. And this by a man who pretended, through the virtue of his cause, to be leading his fellow countrymen to a veritable Utopia.

Proof against the impossibility of communism stands writ large over everything that has happened in Russia since Lenine and the Trotzky ilk have begun to ride roughshod over a misfortuned country.

Surely the "turn" in the dark pitfall-strewn lane has been reached? Russia may soon see the dawn of "better things."

The Prince's Indian Tour

The Prince of Wales sailed yesterday on the Renown for India, completing his tour of the British Empire. There have been many official doubters as to the wisdom of a visit to the Eastern Empire, as India has been in a serious state of unrest during the past year. Serious riots in a number of cases have been suppressed by the military. National aspirations of idealists like Ghandi, Russian Bolshevik propagandists and religious differences have combined to make disturbances almost amounting to mutinies in several states. However, there is not much doubt that the heart of India beats loyal and true to the empire. The visit of the Prince with his democratic ways, his tact and his charming and winning manners will doubtless do much to smooth down difficulties and to bring about a better feeling.

His royal highness is not saving himself on this trip. He is planning as hard a program as he went through in Canada and Australia. As an example there is his Bombay trip. The Renown will arrive in Bombay harbor at 7 a.m. on November 17. The naval comander-in-chief will proceed on board to greet the prince half an hour later, and at 8 o'clock Lord Reading, the viceroy, will go on board, accompanied by the ruling princes on the staff of his royal highness. At 9.30 the governor of Bombay, Sir George Lloyd, goes on board to greet the prince, and returns in a quarter of an hour.

At 10.15 the prince will land at the Gateway of India, on the Bunder, built to commemorate the Durbar visit of the King and Queen. He will receive an address from the Bombay municipality. A state drive through the city to Government House at Malabar Point will follow. In the evening there will be a quiet dinner, followed by a reception.

On the following morning the prince will hold a durbar of the ruling princes. In the afternoon he will watch the semi-finals of the commemoration polo tournament, and afterwards have tea with the president of the municipality in the hanging gardens on Malabar Hill. A dinner and ball at Government House will follow, and half an hour after midnight the prince will take train at the Victoria terminus for Poona.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Ontario has 176,000 motor cars and trucks with which to take people to the polls in this industrial province.

Extra territorial rights granted foreign delegates to Washington, are to include special passports for one called John Barleycorn.

Canada bought $129,000,000 less from the United States in June, July and August of this year than in the same months last year. Keep it down.

Strike the "Mc" out of McPhail, and the U. F. O. candidate in Southeast Grey has a name with an ominous sound. In the bright lexicon of Grey there should be "no such word as Phail."

Mr. Mackenzie King's stumping tour reminds one of the old lines:

I love to watch the rooster crow,
He's like so many men I know,
Who brag and bluster, rant and shout,
And beat their manly chests, without
The least damn thing to brag about.

The Third Column

IMITATION

It's good to hear a glad "hello"
And get a smile from men you know.
I like to feel, in times of doubt,
That there are friendly men about,
And some who care, and some who'll stay
To help me on my troubled way.
I know that oft my blood is stirred
To hear a kind and cheerful word.

It's good to feel within your hand
A grip which makes you understand,
Far more than words which leave the lip,
The depth and warmth of fellowship.
I know my heart has oft rejoiced
To hear a friendly greeting voiced,
And I have hummed a cheerful song
Because a friend has come along.

If others mean so much to me,
What must I mean to those I see?
If what they say and what they do
Has power to thrill me through and through,
Then why should I not, as I go,
Give every man a glad "hello"
And try to cheer his life the way
That mine is cheered from day to day?

Since friendliness makes me rejoice,
To friendly words I'll lend my voice;
Since kindness warms the heart of me,
A kindly man I'll try to be;
Since I prefer the man who gives
A portion of the life he lives
To others, I shall also try
To be like him as time goes by.

—Edgar A. Guest.

DIVIDING

A young man wrote the writer of these Talks the other day and told of entertaining so much pity for himself that he well-nigh became a useless proposition.

Then he got to thinking the matter over and decided that he would try out something else. And this is what he decided to try out — to use every opportunity that he could to make others happy!

I have this remark to make: This young man will be more successful in everything he undertakes, no matter what it may be.

We really do not accumulate until we begin to divide.

And in dividing we get new viewpoints. Not until we come to feel the personality of another person do we know him.

The soldier who walked and fought and went through the most terrific experiences of deprivation learned what dividing meant.

And it often happens that not until we are forced to divide with others what we have do we realize the pleasure that division brings.

Divide — and be glad to give as much as you take!

The great law of all nature is to divide. The spring gives refreshment to the bird as well as to the traveler. And from the flowers we get beauty and fragrance — while the busy bee takes away from the heart of these same flowers honey that is sweeter than sugar.

We often get happiness — but we cannot keep it unless we start right off to divide it.

And the earlier we learn to divide, the longer will we have to thrill over its many benefits.

—George Matthew Adams.

EASY RIDING

My car's so easy riding it gives no jar or shock, and in it I am gliding at all hours, by the clock; and, as might be expected, my chores are oft neglected, and creditors, dejected, are wishing I would walk. And every mile I travel provides new, pleasant thrills; but, as I throw the gravel, and climb the sunlit hills, the morbid undertaker, the butcher and the baker, protest that I'm a faker who doesn't pay his bills. All day you see me striving to make speed laws a jest, if I cease my driving to give the car a rest, I'm boned by merchant princes for pay for prunes and quinces, and every one evinces a spirit I detest. Oh, why do men like tailors insist on being paid? And why so many wailers amid the marts of trade? Why do they always chatter of things that do not matter? Why do they splash and splatter in language that's decayed? "You ride in your four-wheeler," the village banker cries, "but you should pay the dealer from whom you bought your pies; if one has paid the tinner, the webster and the spinner, the fletcher and the skinner, joy-riding then is wise. But if a man be owing for milk and garden sass, he then is wicked, blowing his coin for sparkling gas; and this the hosts are doing, all heedless they are chooing, while owing for the bluing, alack, and eke alas."

—Walt Mason.

Leave Canadian Dead In Flanders

Editor Free Press: I was very much grieved to notice in the newspapers of last week that a movement is on foot to have brought home the bodies of Canadian soldiers who gave their lives for the cause of the allies during the Great War. One reason given for this was that "Canadians should be given the same privileges as Americans." Should Canadians be given the opportunity to make the same MISTAKES as Americans? It would be difficult to find an American who has visited any American cemetery in France who is not of the opinion that the United States made a grave mistake in ever starting this movement.

As one who has returned from overseas within the last month, where I have worked in direct connection with the cemeteries of the allies, I feel that it is only fair to my fellow countrymen, especially to those whose loved ones lie in France or Belgium, to express myself very strongly in opposition to that the agitation in the United States for the return of the soldiers' bodies was started by the Undertakers' Association. Is it possible that the same association in our own country is responsible for the movement here? Does it not seem scandalous that the moving of our gallant men should be put in the hands of those who desire ONLY to make money by the transaction?

The desire of a family to have its dear one lying near by, where his grave can be cared for by those who loved him during his life, can readily be understood, but what would the wish of the man himself have been? Would he not have preferred to remain amongst his comrades, who also gave up their lives, and to rest peacefully where he fell in the land made forever sacred by their supreme sacrifice? If the mothers and wives of these heroes could visit the peaceful resting places of their men, and could see the care that is taken of the beautiful British military cemeteries, I firmly believe that there would be no question in anyone's mind as to where these soldiers should lie?

And what of the feeling of the French and Belgians? Let no one think that her soldier's grave is not lovingly cared for, for many of them have been "adopted" by the women and families overseas, who are thus bound in sympathy to the women and families of our own country. Just so long as this tie of sympathy exists so long will the friendship of the allied countries be cemented and the danger of another great war averted.

I have seen the actual work of exhumation in the American cemeteries and I know that all care and respect possible are shown by those handling the bodies, but, even so, anyone who thinks the matter over, MUST realize that, among the thousands killed, mistakes of identification must inevitably have occurred.

Is it not infinitely wiser to leave these men peacefully resting in their OWN cemeteries, among their OWN comrades, and lovingly cared for by other comrades, who were called upon to give up their lives?

JOHN SUTHERLAND.

BIG MAPLE LEAVES.

Editor Free Press: I noticed in one of last week's papers that Mitchell was growing some big maple leaves, the size given being 10½x8 inches. Now, they will have to go some better than that if they want to keep up with Seaforth. I am sending you one that I picked up to-day as I was coming home which measured 12x8 inches before I broke one point off. I don't know how it will reach you, but I have some that are too dry to send that go still better, one that measures 15x11 inches, others 14½x11, and some more 14x11, which can all be seen by anyone who wishes to call my way. One of my shop mates got one 16x11½ inches a year ago, but I expect it is gone by now. However, I still have the above for anyone to examine who cares to bother.

NO CRINOLINES!

M. Paul Poire has said definitely that women are not going to wear crinolines—which has enabled us to breathe freely again. "Long, graceful lines in beautiful fabrics, crepe de chine and satin beaute, but no crinolines," was the exact sentence; "they are too important for ordinary occasions and are in everybody's way. Why should women return to them?" M. Poiret has organized supper dances at the Trocadero, and passed quiet judgment on the dress of the dancers. The woman whose dress pleased him most received a check for 25 guineas, given to her unostentatiously so as not to excite the jealousy of the others.—London Chronicle.

WHY HE WAS DISQUALIFIED

In the colleges where freshmen are early initiated into the Greek letter fraternities, alumni not infrequently are called upon for aid and advice, and one from a New England college recently queried an undergraduate brother concerning a lad he had recommended. There seemed a little embarrassment, and pressed for a reason as to why there was any question about "taking" the young man in question, he received the somewhat naive reply that the fellow seemed to be all right and a nice chap, but that some of the brothers thought he was too much of a student. As the poet said, the thoughts of youth are long, long thoughts.—Hartford Courant.

FRIENDS AND NEIGHBORS.

The Webster-Ashburton treaty of 1842, settling the Canada-United States boundary line, furnishes the text and inspiration for the celebrations. The treaty settled an international dispute through friendly negotiations, and has been so respected for nearly 80 years that an armed patrol has never appeared on the boundary line and a shot has never been fired across it. No arguments or misunderstandings have ever threatened it. We have learned the Canadians are good neighbors and they have learned the same about us. But differances of opinion on tariff issues, social standards and political policies have arisen. They may continue to arise, but a better understanding of national aspirations and characteristics on both sides of the boundary will reduce even these differences to our common advantages.—Chicago Tribune.

GERMANS GAMBLING MAD.

The vivid picture drawn by Lord Beaverbrook in recent issue of Sunday Express of the conditions which prevail in Germany should be closely studied by the British public. This for the simple reason that we cannot afford to be indifferent to anything that affects the future of our late enemies. Germany owes us an immense sum for war reparations, and it is important that she should be in a position to pay it. But more important still is the maintenance by Germany of her position in the sphere of international trade. War indemnities apart, the world would be infinitely poorer by the economic collapse of Germany. And Lord Beaverbrook tells us that she is heading straight for that disaster. A gambling madness has seized upon the nation. Wild speculation is general, not only in securities, but in the ordinary commodities of life. A grossly inflated currency has turned money into dross. A financial crash on a tremendous scale is impending, which will have political as well as economic consequences of the most serious kind. The creditor nations of Germany ought not to sit with folded hands to watch the approach of this catastrophe. They should seek for means to avert it.—London Express.

INSTON CHURCHILL'S VIEW

peaks at Canada Club's Dinner To Duke of Devonshire.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press able)—At the Canada Club dinner to-ght in honor of the Duke of Devon-ire, which was presided over by Sir eorge Perley, Canadian high commis-oner, in the absence of the Duke Connaught, some interesting com-arisons between Canada and Ireland ere made by Winston Churchill, sec-tary of state for the colonies.

"I must be careful what I say about nada," declared Mr. Churchill. "Any ord I say might be construed into in-rference in matters with which we ve no concern." (Cries of "don't orry.")

"No, I am not going to worry," con-nued Mr. Churchill. "That is one ad-ntage of the system on which the npire is built. There is a great eco-mic political struggle going on to-y in Canada, and not one of us has worry about it. We know that what-er may happen, the old flag will fly. ow I wish that in similar elections, hich will be taking place in the near ture, we had no cause to worry

IVES ENCOURAGEMENT.

"Canada gives us a feeling of encour-gement at the present time in the task e have in hand in regard to Ireland. e see that in Canada there have been any, if not indeed all the difficulties hich exist in Ireland; the great differ-ences in religion, race and language, fference of party grouping, even dif-rences, which have led to bloodshed.

"It would be affectation to suppose at all these differences have been ept away, but in the Canadian con-itution they have been reduced to pro-rtions which no longer threaten the tegrity of Canada as a nation, or give use for the slightest ground for anxi-y to the mother land.

"The case of Ireland certainly is not actly parallel. We must be guided our treatment of that problem by an tense desire to penetrate the true cret of the Irish heart and lay aside, ce for all, those causes of medieval tred which prevail to this hour. In lving the problem we may derive eat encouragement from the manner which difficulties, in many respects milar, have been overcome in the ominion."

The Duke of Devonshire, replying, de-ared that no question in Canada had er arisen concerning the relationship the Dominion and the old country.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary r Ireland, toasting Sir George Perley, id that in all the vicissitudes of the ars past he believed the royal family at remained anchored to the affections the Irish people. So long as that ere true he would never abandon hope at a time would come when repre-ntatives of Ireland would sit at a ble of the Canada Club as members the great empire.

HEAR DEFENSE OF STRICKERTS

Daughter of Woman Charged Explains Poison Purchases

SONS GIVE EVIDENCE

Say Father's Statements Prior to Death Unusual

STRATFORD, Oct. 26.—(Special to The Free Press.)—The trial of Mrs. Margaret Strickert, of Elma Township, charged with the murder of her husband by administering strychnine on July 16, which opened in the Supreme Court here to-day before Mr. Justice Lennox, was adjourned late to-night, with the evidence of the crown completed and four witnesses for the defense heard. The case will resume at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and it is expected will not be concluded till late to-morrow night.

All day throngs packed the courthouse beyond its capacity in order to hear the proceedings. There were many who stood in line throughout the day anxious to take the place of those who might leave.

After the prosecution concluded F. H. Thompson, counsel for the accused, asked that the case be taken from the jury, but his lordship replied that he considered there was sufficient evidence to justify the proceedings.

DAUGHTER CALLED

Miss Pearl Strickert, daughter of the dead man, was the first witness for the defense. She told that the poison had been purchased for killing mice and that after the contents were used for that purpose the bottle was destroyed. She had heard her father fill a bottle with tea and drink from it.

Clarence, Gordon and John Strickert, brothers of Pearl, gave evidence to-night. Their testimony was to the effect that statements made by their father on the afternoon preceding his death were unusual. To Clarence he gave $10, something which was out of the ordinary. To John he gave 50 cents, remarking that "I might not be giving you much money." Gordon told of his father taking sick at the supper table and the convulsions which followed. He declared at one time it was necessary for him to use force to hold his father down.

The entire afternoon was taken up with the evidence of crown witnesses, an application by defendant's counsel to have the case withdrawn from the jury and the examination of Miss Pearl Strickert, the first witness for the defense.

Mrs. Margaret Seller, of Elma, who lives about two miles from the Strickert home, was the first witness called when the court resumed. She told of visiting the Strickert place on May 20, and of Mrs. Strickert telling her that "Mr. Strickert didn't use me right; he should be poisoned. I never liked him." Witness said she asked Mrs. Strickert what was the matter and that Mrs. Strickert answered: "When we separated he made me sign off the farm and won't let me on again."

Alfred Pehlke, a cousin of the late Mr. Strickert, stated that as long ago as 1902 he had heard Mrs. Strickert threaten to poison her husband, no matter how long it took to do it.

Ernest Krugel told of a row in the spring of this year, during which the accused woman had declared that she would have a better time if Strickert were dead.

Edward Pehlke and Edward Smith testified that they had heard a row at the house of the Strickerts' on the night of July 13, the woman's voice being audible.

John Gill, a Monkton merchant, said that he had sold goods to Strickert on the morning of his death, July 16.

WAS DERANGED

Dr. Kidd, having been recalled, stated that at the time Mrs. Strickert was alleged to have made an offer to her son, Ed Stafford, of $200 if he would shoot Strickert, she was in a deranged state.

The crown, having closed its case, Mr. F. H. Thompson, counsel for the accused, asked his lordship to take the case from the jury for later evidence, but Judge Lennox replied that he considered there was sufficient evidence to justify the proceedings.

Miss Pearl Strickert, 16 years old, daughter of the dead man, swore that her father was the father of her child, born on August 2, and that the deceased had asked her to blame her condition on George Currie, a young man employed in the neighborhood, with whom the witness had been keeping company for a year.

Miss Strickert stated to-day for the first time that on the afternoon of her father's death, after telling her where his private papers were kept, he gave 25 cents to his little daughter, Viola, with the remark: "Dear little Pettie, I don't think I will see you much longer."

FATHER CRIED

After that the father had cried, witness said. Miss Strickert stated that the strychnine had been purchased for the purpose of killing mice and that her mother and she had taken it to the house in Monkton, occupied by Mrs. Strickert during her separation from her husband for a year in 1917-18, and had spread it for mice, afterwards destroying the bottle in the stove. Witness stated that on the afternoon of her father's death, while she was lying down in an adjoining room, she heard him filling a bottle with tea and drinking from it.

Miss Strickert stoutly denied that anything wrong had transpired between her and Currie on the occasion of his remaining all night at her home in the absence of her parents in June, 1920. She admitted signing a paper to the effect that Currie was the father of her child, but declared she had done so only after being frightened by County Constable Kirby and Provincial Officer Palmer in signing a document, the contents of which she did not fully understand.

CLAIM GAS REFEREE EXCEEDING POWERS

Farmers on Whose Property Gas Is Being Secured Object to Change in Agreements.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—A deputation of farmers appeared at the Parliament buildings to protest against the announced intention of Ontario Gas Referee Henderson to revise the basis upon which farmers are paid for natural gas taken from their properties by the Provincial Natural Gas Company, of Niagara Falls.

At present the usual standard contract allows the farmers annual rental, together with a free supply of gas up to 400,000 cubic feet a year, with charge of 20 cents per thousand excess. The referee now proposes to charge the farmers for all gas used and leave the matter of rental to arbitration. The farmers hold that in adopting this course the referee is exceeding his powers.

The complaint was laid before the premier and Hon. Mr. Mills, who promised to consider the matter.

Weddings

Feeney-Henry.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Peter's Cathedral on Tuesday morning, October 25, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Marguerita, eldest daughter of J. B. Henry, became the bride of Charles E. Feeney, of this city. A nuptial high mass was celebrated by Monseignor McKeon. The bride was given in marriage by her father and looked lovely in a navy blue broadcloth suit with beaver collar and cuffs. She wore a small black hat and a corsage of Ophelia roses. Miss Phillis Ashwell was the bridesmaid and Mr. Gerald Henry, brother of the bride, was best man. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a beautiful gold vanity case and to the groomsman a handsome gold watch. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the bride's home, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Feeney left for Detroit and points west on their honeymoon. On their return they will reside at 309 Cheapside street, London.

Roberts-Bragg.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon, October 26, at 3.30 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, 531 Bathurst street, when Lena, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bragg, became the bride of Mr. Alwyn Roberts, of Toronto, son of Mr. R. Roberts, of this city. The house was decorated with autumn flowers and leaves, with an arch formed of the colored leaves and fern, under which the young couple stood.

Rev. G. A. Leichliter, of Adelaide Street Baptist Church, performed the ceremony.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very sweet in her gown of navy blue satin and georgette, heavily beaded and wearing a corsage of Ophelia roses. Her attendant was Miss Francis Nettleton, of this city, who wore a pretty dress of copenhagen silk. Mr. Kenneth Roberts, brother of the groom, acted as best man, and Miss Gertie Cooper, of Belmont, played the wedding march.

After the ceremony and good wishes from the guests had been given to the bride and groom, a dainty luncheon was served. The young couple were the recipient of many handsome presents. Later Mr. and Mrs. Roberts left for Toronto, the bride traveling in a navy tailored suit and black panne velvet hat, prettily trimmed with French flowers. They will be at home to their many friends after November 1, at 1048 St. Clarens avenue, Toronto.

WOMEN IN THE FIGHT URGES MLLE. GUERIN

Keep Ideals High, Says Dominion President at Catholic League Luncheaon

If women would only undertake to fight the devil and all his pomps and works it would go hard with the devil," said Mlle. Guerin, Dominion president of the Catholic Women's League, in a brief address to the diocesan convention delegates at luncheon yesterday.

"I agree with his Lordship Bishop Fallon that London is on top," Mlle. Guerin said in a pretty tribute to her hostesses. "It was worth while coming all the way from Montreal to attend this convention.

"I wish your children could learn more about Canadian history," Mlle. Guerin went on, "and especially more about the French side of Canadian history, about the delicate, high-bred French ladies like Jeanne Mance, who went bravely pioneering through the Canadian forests in their little high-heeled shoes.

"We make ideals," Mlle. Guerin said, "and our ideals should be as high as the cross on the pinnacle of our church, and our eyes should never fall below the light that shines from it."

The officers and delegates of the convention were guests of the Knights of Columbus at luncheon at the Tecumseh House, where Brother Barnabas, of Toronto, and Brother Leopold, of this city, were also included among the guests. At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mrs. Dunn, of Chatham, moved a vote of thanks to the London hosts and hostesses, declaring that while heretofore she had regarded London as the hub of the universe, she must now think of the Forest City as the universe itself. Mrs. Cleary, of Windsor, seconded Mrs. Dunn's motion, and a second vote of thanks to the K. of C. was proposed by Mrs. Bradley to Brady, of Ingersoll, and Mrs. Jones, of Woodstock, the former making a happy little speech with reference to the success and pleasure of the convention.

In the afternoon the delegates were again the guests of the K. of C. in a motor trip through the city, during the course of which visits were paid to Mt. St Joseph, Mt. Hope and other institutions.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"Has he, indeed!" Laurie bit her lip. She had not known this; she supposed it accounted for the two letters which she had written to Laxton at Barton Manor, receiving no reply.

"What do you think of him?" she asked pointedly.

"I!" Norah was pouring tea; she did not look up. "Oh, I think he's quite—nice," she said slowly.

"I thought you seemed great friends," Laurie affirmed sweetly. "But I don't know him very well."

"Did you?"

The elder girl disliked being fenced with. She thought it was absurd of Norah to make such a mystery about her acquaintance with Laxton.

"George told me how you got to know one another," she said presently. "Didn't he almost run you down in that horrid little car of his?"

"I think it's a lovely car."

Laurie shrugged her shoulders. "Do you? I was cramped to death the only time he ever drove me. I must say I like comfort."

"I thought it was most comfortable."

There was a little silence. Norah felt angry; it seemed as if everybody was bent on decrying the poor black sheep and the things which were his.

"I wonder," Laurie went on—"I really wonder that a prim and proper little place like this is so eager to welcome poor old George. Of course, you know what a fearful rip he's been? I like a man of his type myself, but down here—" She paused eloquently.

"I don't think I quite understand what you mean by a 'rip'," Norah answered calmly. "And, anyway, I don't believe all the silly stories one hears about Mr. Laxton."

"Ah, but then you admit that you don't know him very well. You see, I've known him quite a long time—" She looked at Norah uncertainly for a moment. "Perhaps he told you that I was engaged to him once?" she asked with just the right degree of regret and wistfulness in her voice.

"Yes, I heard."

"I was fond of him—awfully fond of him, too," Laurie went on sentimentally. "But he had no money, and one can't live on love, can one? Of course, you don't know what it is to be poor—really hideously poor, like we are—mother and me. So poor that you have to look at every shilling."

Norah raised her gray eyes.

She did not think Laurie looked poor; her dress was absurdly smart for the country; her shoes high-heeled and ridiculous.

"I should not mind being poor if I cared for a man," she said, bluntly.

A little gleam of contempt lit the elder girl's eyes, but was quickly gone.

"It's so easy to say that when you are rich," she said, sighing. "But if George and I had married—" she shivered delicately. "The poor boy was heartbroken—it was terrible! I can't bear to think of it."

Norah rose abruptly.

"I think that is my father," she said. "If you will excuse me for a moment I will tell him you are here."

She knew quite well that Mr. Ackroyd was out, but she felt that she must get out of the room for a moment, before she said or did something for which she would afterward be sorry.

She had never cared for Laurie Fenton, but she felt now that she hated her for her worldiness and heartlessness; and because, after all, it was she who had brought that look of hard unhappiness to Laxton's eyes.

Broken-hearted was he, and all for her!

Her heart was beating fast, and there was a suffocating feeling of tears in her throat.

She knew now what was the matter with her—knew the cause of the restlessness that had fastened upon her during these last few days. She wanted George Laxton—she wanted the man who was broken-hearted because of Laurie Fenton.

CHAPTER X.

Laxton stayed away from Barton Manor for nearly a fortnight. "He'll never come back," Norah told herself as each day went by, and the big house still kept its blinds down, and the old, unlived-in look, which had lifted for a little, fell again on its sombre face.

Rodney had been away, too, and Norah missed him terribly.

"I dare say a little absence will do a lot of good," so Mr. Ackroyd had agreed reluctantly, when his nephew again said that he wished to go away. "Let her miss you—let her feel thoroughly lonely and neglected, and she'll be glad enough to see you when you come back, my boy."

He himself went to town religiously every day during Rodney's absence; somehow since the night of that little scene in the garden he had not felt quite at his ease with Norah.

Badly as he wanted to heal the little breach between them, his obstinacy would not allow him to do so. "Time enough when she says she's sorry," was the argument with which he comforted himself. "Confound it all, she's in the wrong—I'm not."

So he left her alone as much as he could; going from the house early in the morning, and only coming back in time for dinner at night.

He was very gratified to know that Barton Manor was once more closed. Metaphorically he patted himself on the back and considered it was all due to his cleverness. He believed that he had frightened the black sheep away. He was the sort of man who was firmly convinced that blustering and swearing can strike terror into the bravest soul.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

DIRECTIONS FOR CROCHETING A TWINE SHOPPING BAG.

"Please print directions for crocheting one of the new, round twine bags that everybody seems to be carrying nowadays when shopping or marketing," writes a reader of this column.

While I cannot always comply with requests to publish crocheting or knitting directions because of space restrictions—and also because this column is primarily devoted to housekeeping science—I am glad to accommodate a reader occasionally in this way.

2nd and 3rd rows—2d in each st. From this point work in trebles (t) round and round, not joining rows, increasing a stitch whenever necessary to keep the work flat, about six times in round. Continue until you have the desired size. This bag measures 12 inches across. Make another circular piece the same size and join the two with a straight side piece which is 2 inches or more in width and made in doubles; leave an ample opening at the top (this is done by having the straight side piece go only two-thirds around the circular discs.) A handle of plain crochet is now made (this should be one inch in width) and attached at the top. The bag is now ready to be decorated by two small worsted roses made by the directions given below. A pale pink rose and a lavender rose together sewed on one side of the bag near the top, make en effective finish. This bag, when finished, resembles the parchment "head" of a banjo—only, of course, it has an opening at the top made by not having the sides (which correspond to the nickel part of a banjo-head) come together at the top.

2nd round—Ch 5 * 1 t in ring, ch 2. Repeat from * four times. Join with slip stitch (sl st) to 3d of chain 5 at beginning of round, thus forming six spaces.

If you wish to make a worsted leaf for your roses, follow these directions: Leaf: Chain 8, skip 1 st and make 1 d in each of next 6 sts, 1 sl st in end st, 6 d down other side of chain, 1 sl st in st that was skipped.

These bags are inexpensive to make. The twine used should be of the soft and "fuzzy" variety rather than the hard, smooth kind. Two balls of twine will make the bag—if they are large balls. A light buff color makes the prettiest bag. If you wish to give an extra finishing touch beside the roses, you can work a row of doubles in colored yarn around the top of the bag. Coarse cotton instead of yarn can be used for the floral decoration, but the wool is smarter. Crochet the bag loosely. Some women line them with colored silk to match the roses and this lining shows through the crocheted twine very effectively.

MASTERPIECES OF ART DESTROYED BY FLAMES

ANTWERP, Oct. 26.—Fire badly damaged the Royal Museum of Fine Arts here last night. Several of the priceless masters in the building were destroyed.

Styles

BY Lenore

PARIS (By Mail)—The exactions of a hat do not often permit free play in arranging the hair, either with originality or most becomingly, but in the evening, ah! then one may take on the classic spirit of the middle ages or the charming whimsicality of the gayest Parisienne. A coiffure popular with French women to-day is the saucy chignon shown at the top of the sketch, particularly attractive for a narrow oval face.

A somewhat rounder face and young, will look charming under the curly disarray of the headdress which follows, particularly if the features happen not to be regular, while the two styles after that may be attempted safely only by the smoothest featured, for nothing will so quickly emphasize such little mistakes as a somewhat unsymmetrical nose, for example, as drawing the hair tightly back on the forehead.

Another silhouette of the head shown in Paris is at the botton of the sketch, match. Combs, by the way, are beenhanced by a gift filet and comb to match. Combs, by the way, are becoming increasingly popular, and the newest ones seen in the smart French shops are made of shell carved with flowers tinted in blues or reds.

WIRE-TAPPING CASE ENDS WITH DEATH OF PLAINTIFF

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 26.—The indictment against William Jarvis, of New York, charged with complicity in an alleged fake wire tapping scheme, through which Michael Connolly, late Montreal contractor, lost $125,000, was dismissed in the supreme court yesterday. Connolly's death, which occurred about two months ago, was responsible for the dismissal of the indictment. He was the chief witness for the prosecution in the case and without his testimony the state was unable to proceed with the trial.

ALMOST HOMESICK.

Never in all her life had Henrietta Hen seen so many hens and roosters and chicks as she found on every side of her, at the fair. Farmer Green and his son, Johnnie, had set her pen in the poultry hall. And to Henrietta's surprise, none of her new neighbors paid much attention to her and her chicks—at first. She soon decided that there was a reason for this neglect. She made up her mind that she would have to make herself heard amid all that uproar or the others would never know she had arrived.

Luckily Henrietta had a strong voice. She used it to the utmost. And it wasn't long before a huge hen in a pen next hers gave her a bold look and asked, "What are you here for?"

"I've come to get the first prize," Henrietta Hen answered calmly. She had listened carefully to what Farmer Green and Johnnie had said to each other during the journey from the farm, and already she knew something about affairs.

"I don't see how you can win the first prize," she said with a sniff. "I'm going to get the first prize myself. There never was another such fine family as mine." She glanced proudly at her chicks as she spoke. "The best you can hope for," she told Henrietta, "is the second prize. And you'll be lucky if you get the third."

For once Henrietta Hen was at a loss for a retort.

Henrietta admitted faintly that she hadn't.

"Last year I won second prize," said the other. "I'd have had the first if the judges had known their business."

Henrietta Hen began to feel very shaky in her legs. She had expected a different sort of greeting when she should arrive at the fair. She had thought everybody would exclaim, "Here comes Henrietta Hen! What a fine family of chicks she has! And aren't Mrs. Hen's speckles beautiful?"

And there she was, with nobody paying any heed to her except the lofty one in the next pen, who had said nothing very agreeable.

"What's that?" her neighbor inquired in a sharp tone. "You aren't homesick, are you?"

"N-no!" said Henrietta. "But I had expected to win the first prize. And I don't know what my friends will say when I come back home without it."

"Well, everybody can't win it," said her new acquaintance. "Not the same year, anyhow!" And then she looked Henrietta up and down for a few moments, while Henrietta squirmed uneasily. "Where do you come from?" she asked at last.

"I live on Farmer Green's place, in Pleasant Valley," Henrietta informed her.

The lady in the next pen shook her head. "I've never heard of Pleasant Valley," she remarked, "nor of Farmer Green. He must be small potatoes."

Well, Henrietta was astonished. She began to feel as if she were nobody at all. She had supposed that everybody knew of Pleasant Valley—and of Farmer Green, too. As for the remark, "small potatoes," she didn't understand it at all. So she inquired what it meant.

"It means," said her neighbor, "that Farmer Green can't be of much account."

"Mr. Green," she cried, "is a fine man. And I'll have you know that I wouldn't live anywhere but on his farm!"

ST. MARYS A. Y. P. A.

The Anglican Young People's Association of St. James' Church, St. Marys, met on Monday evening for the first time this season. The program took the form of a Halloween masquerade, many of the young folks appearing in weird and wonderful costumes, and a right jolly time was spent. The young people of the church are looking forward to even a better season than last year, when their membership was over 90.

Society Ladies Adopt New Hair-Curling Method

Since the introduction of the silmerine method in this country it has become quite "the proper thing" among society women, who have readily adopted it in place of the destructive curling iron. The waves and curls acquired by the new method are far more natural in appearance, and the hair, of course, is glossier and prettier than could be if the life were cooked out of it.

The liquid is pleasant to use, being neither greasy nor sticky. It is a simple thing to apply with a clean toothbrush before doing up the hair. The lovely wavy effect in evidence in about three hours is all that one could wish for. It costs little to use liquid silmerine, as a few ounces from the druggist will keep the hair in curl for weeks.—Advt.

Health Talks

GRIP.

Influenza is not one of those infections which, like smallpox or measles, confer complete immunity with its initial attack. Any kind of immunity to influenza is indeed but slight. Second and third individual attacks are common. And the carriers of the influenza germ are probably numerous; like typhoid carriers, they may not suffer at all themselves, but they make walking germ granaries, conserving the infection for future epidemics to feed upon

By reason of the breadwinner's greater exposure, males and the robust are likely to be most susceptible. Exhaustion predisposes to grip, for it makes the bodily tissue a congenial soil for germ implantation and morbid activity. Influenza is highly contagious, being spread from person to person, by immediate contact, as in kissing, or by indirect contact, as from handkerchiefs, towels, cups and other objects contaminated with the fresh secretions. The germ exists, especially in the early stages, in the secretions of the nose, throat and lungs.

Mass meetings, theaters, closed and crowded cars, and public buildings, should as far as possible be avoided during these epidemics. Persons with a tendency to catarrh should avoid undue exposure. Keep the feet warm and dry and the bodily functions normal. Influenza is one of those diseases the control of which rests with the public and not with the doctors, except so far as it is their province to prescribe, to instruct the laiety, and to urge communal support of perfectly definite and reasonable health department measures The danger from the use of the common drinking cup, the roller towel, droplet infection (as when some barbarian sneezes in your face) handkerchiefs, pipes, toys, drinking glasses spoons and like objects recently in the mouth, should be emphasized. Spitting ordinances should be enforced, dust laid, ventilization established and overcrowding of street cars prohibited.

Questions and Answers.

Will you kindly let me know how I can remove silver nitrate from clothing? Yesterday I put some on a wart and I spilt it on my dress, it is a blue checked gingham. Is silver nitrate or caustic pencil best for warts?

Answer—I have it on information and belief from one of the ladies in my home that common table salt is the proper article. Am mailing you stuff in regard to removal of warts. Caustic pencil is nitrate of silver.

THE HOUSEKEEPERS.

A little dream keeps house with me—
Outside, the surge and flow
Of city throngs, of wind, of sea—
The world the great ones know.

But we—we wash the cups and spoons
And make the copper shine,
And knit, on sunny afternoon,
Beside the trumpet vine.

We smile at many a secret joke;
We weed the lettuce bed;
We sweep the hearth and pause to stroke
The snowy-white kitten's head.

The neighbors hear our songs, and say,
"How queer some folks can be!"
They wonder what can keep us gay,
My little dream and me."

But I am wise, and therefore know,
For sewing up a seam
Or keeping cupboard shelves just so,
There's nothing like a dream!

CURIOSITY."

"I can't account for Mrs. Gadder's condition," said Dr. Pillars, with a puzzled air. "She is extremely nervous, yet there is no reason for it that I can discover."

"Just a word," said Mr. Gadder, as he drew the doctor aside. "If you can find out the income of that new family next door and tell it to Mrs. Gadder she'll soon get well. They moved in six weeks ago and she's still baffled."—Birmingham Age-Herold.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.

WEST CALGARY LIBERALS.

CALGARY, Oct. 27.—A. J. Samis, city commissioner and an independent candidate in West Calgary, was indorsed last evening by the convention of the Liberals of the riding.

WOMEN ORGANIZE.

STRATFORD, Oct. 26.—From the enthusiasm displayed at the ladies' Liberal-Conservative organization meeting it is evident the women are going to be a power behind H. B. Morphy, K. C. Organization for political ends is new to them, but the spirit of the meeting bespoke a vigorous campaign. Mrs. F. H. Thompson was unanimously chosen president of the club and she is supported by the following officers: First vice-president, Mrs. H. W. Davis; second vice-president, Mrs. D. Deacon; secretary, Mrs. T. G. Delamere.

Mr. Morphy was present at the meeting and addressed the women and assisted them in organizing. Plans were projected for a comprehensive canvass of the city and campaign work will be started at once.

The following ladies were also elected to the executive, which was given power to add to its numbers: Mrs. A. Dean, Mrs. H. W. Strudley, Mrs. J. L. Moore, Mrs. J. L. Youngs, Mrs. J. C. Makins, Miss Isabel McCabe, Mrs. T. Henry, Mrs. Alex. Abraham, Mrs. C. Dingman, Mrs. W. Preston, Mrs. Albert Smith and Mrs. C. W. Delooze.

CAUSING A PANIC.

SARNIA, Oct. 26.—The overwhelming support given by the returned soldiers of this riding to R. V. Lesueur, N. L. C. candidate, is causing a small panic in the ranks of the Liberal party. At the meeting of the local war veterans a communicaiton was read from a member, who is a Liberal, asking if the club executive had affiliated with any political body. The secretary was instructed to reply that the executive had not taken any stand in the political campaign and had no intention of doing so.

START CAMPAIGN.

SIMCOE, Oct. 26.—The Government party in Norfolk will open the campaign on Monday evening, when meetings will be held in Guysboro, Vanessa, Tyrrell and Forestville. On Tuesday evening the batteries will be set up at Lynnville, Vittoria, Rockford and Marbury, and on Wednesday at Langton, Kelvin and St. Williams. Miss Clayton, of Listowel, will address the women's meetings at Simcoe and Port Dover on Monday, St. Williams and Port Rowan on Tuesday and Delhi and Waterford on Wednesday.

The agrarian party throughout the county is urging its following persistently to stick together. Mr. Sutton, the Government candidate, has made flying visits to outside points and has brought in encouraging reports, while Mr. Wallace, who has had two years of a lead in getting his organization perfected, feels confident that he can deliver the goods on December 6.

FOUR MENTIONED.

WINDSOR, Oct. 26.—With the North Essex National Liberal and Conservative Association convention only two days distant, speculation is rife regarding the Government candidate, who will be chosen on Saturday to oppose W. C. Kennedy, Liberal.

That there will be a candidate chosen is certain, according to George Freeman, a member of the special election committee.

Col. H. R. Casgrain, E. B. Winter, former mayor of Windsor; W. R. Wollatt, of Walkerville, and Dr. C. W. Hoare, twice mayor of Walkerville, are among possible candidates of the party.

DR. CLARK MAY BE NOMINEE.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—A special dispatch to The Manitoba Free Press from Kanora, Sask., to-night says that Dr. Michael Clark, former M. P. for Red Deer and until recently first lieutenant of the Agrarian party, will be present at the Liberal nomination convention for MacKenzie constituency at Kanora to-morrow. His name will come before the gathering as a candidate.

WOMAN JAILED AS ACCOMPLICE

Mrs. Fred Zarn Is Sentenced At Walkerton.

IMPLICATED IN THEFTS

Systematically, With Husband, Robbed in Many Towns.

WALKERTON, Oct. 26.—Mrs. Fred. Zarn, of Hanover, who has been in jail here for the past week, having been arrested on a charge of being the accomplice of her husband in a series of thefts, appeared before Judge Klein this morning and after receiving a severe reprimand from his honor was sentenced to serve a term of not less than eight months or more than one year in the Mercer reformatory, Toronto.

The Zarns for some time, with the aid of an automobile, have carried on systematic thieving and lived on the proceeds of their thefts. When their home at Hanover was searched by the authorities scores of stolen articles were recovered which belonged to persons in towns in this section, including Southampton, Paisley, Port Elgin, Walkerton and Hanover. Zarn is now serving three months in Owen Sound jail, having been found guilty on a charge of theft laid against him at Hanover, but at that time the police were not aware of the extent of his thefts.

WINGHAM BUSINESS MAN DIES SUDDENLY

WINGHAM, Oct. 26. — Death came very suddenly last night to Mr. R. J. Cantelon at his home on Leopold street. The deceased conducted a successful coal and wood business here for a number of years and, although he has not enjoyed the best of health during the last year, has been able to attend to his business and was in his office in his usual health yesterday. About 9 p.m. he was dead.

At a meeting of the Wingham Town Council the street committee was given permission to go ahead with the paving on John street and Diagonal road.

SEAFORTH MAN IS WANTED BY POLICE

SEAFORTH, Oct. 26.—Lorne Weir, formerly manager of the Royal Hotel here, made a hurried exit from town a few days ago and a warrant has been issued for his arrest.

As a result of a visit to Weir's apartments, in what was formerly the old Royal Hotel, by Inspector Pellow and Inland Revenue Officer Porter, samples of three kinds of "home brew" were taken for analysis, which proved to be intoxicating, one sample going as high as 23 per cent. proof spirits.

An information was then laid against Weir for violating the O.T.A., and he was personally served to appear before Police Magistrate Reid, and at the appointed hour his solicitor, James Best, appeared and stated that Weir had left town, and there being no satisfactory reason given for his absence a warrant was issued for his arrest.

NEPHEW OF SEAFORTH WOMAN IS DROWNED

SEAFORTH, Oct. 26.—Mrs. E. McMurray received word to-day of the death by drowning of her nephew, Jay Stanley, of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

The remains of Mrs. James Murray, who passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, London, on Monday evening were brought here on Tuesday for interment in St. Columban Cemetery. The deceased was an estimable lady and only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McCann, of Hibbert. She was 31 years of age and leaves a husband and five of a family.

The annual thank offering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society was held in First Presbyterian Church on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Lundy, of Kippen, gave an address. The offering amounted to $332.50.

TUCKERSMITH BARNS DESTROYED BY FIRE

HENSALL, Oct. 26.—The large bank barn and contents of grain, belonging to William Fairbairn, concession 2, Tuckersmith, were destroyed by re today, with a loss of $6,000. Mr. Fairbairn was at work in a field some distance away when his attention was attracted by flames coming from the roof. Neighbors gathered and assisted in getting out most of the livestock. Two pigs and two calves, however, were burned. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

BELGRADE ARRANGING TO CROWN KING ALEXANDER

BELGRADE, Oct. 27—King Alexander will arrive in this city on October 30, it is announced by the official Avala News Agency of this city. It is said the Jugo-Slav Government has received a telegram from Paris stating that Alexander will leave that city in two or three days, and will stay a short time in Agram before coming here. Arrangements for his coronation will probably follow his arrival.

A BIGGER LEAF

Mitchell will have to look to its laurels when it comes to growing maple leaves. On October 20 Mitchell came forward with the announcement that a leaf had been picked up which measured 10½ inches one way and eight inches the other, exclusive of the stem. That is a big leaf.

"But listen," says W. J. Williams, Seaforth, and he sends to The Free Press Office a leaf. It was measured. The width is 12 inches and the length eight inches. This is exclusive of the stem, which itself measures eight inches.

SIDE TALKS —BY— RUTH CAMERON

A CERTIFICATE OF IGNORANCE.

The other day I happened to be present when a man who lives by his investments and hence is extraordinarily well versed in economic and financial tendencies was arguing about the housing situation with a woman.

He tried to explain to her that only when building becomes sufficiently reasonable to attract into it capital that is now going elsewhere, will houses become plentiful again and rents fall.

She flared up at once at that. It was all very well for him to talk, she said, but she knew all about it. She had a sister who had had this experience and a cousin who had had the other. She herself had had her rent raised four times. If he lived in a rented house instead of owning his own, he would understand the situation. For him to talk about it was like an old maid talking about bringing up children.

I looked at the man, expecting to hear him try once more to explain the economic law of supply and demand to her, but he did nothing of the sort. Instead he filled his pipe in silence. When he had finished, he began to talk on a totally different subject.

Afterward I heard someone ask him why he let that woman think she had the best of the argument.

He waved his pipe in a gesture of helplessness. "How could I tell her anything?" he said. "She knew all there was to know. When you find ignorance and positiveness going hand in hand, you might as well give up. People like that don't want to make use of any knowledge you may have accumulated through your particular line of work. They don't want to admit that anyone knows more about anything than they do and consequently they never give themselves a chance to learn. The more ignorant they are the more positive they are."

Did you ever meet anyone like that, Reader Friend?

If you did I trust you emulated the resignation of this man and changed the subject. Because this is the only way to save yourself wear and tear in dealing with these sort of people.

"The more ignorant they are the more positive they are." How true that is!

One would think that the more ignorant a person was, the more shy and diffident and uncertain of himself he would be. But this is seldom so. It is those who have begun to learn and consequently have begun to glimpse how very little they know who are diffident and uncertain. It is only the most ignorant who are positive. In youth it is forgivable, one expects it from youth. But in middle and old age—well, a person who has grown older without growing less positive carries about with him in his manner a certificate of his ignorance that all who run (usually away from him) may read.

UNDERGROUND RAILWAY MAY EMPLOY 20,000 MEN FOR TWO YEARS

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The biggest single scheme yet suggested in connection with the Government's unemployment policy has been submitted to the Government by the Underground Railways Company, which proposes to raise £6,000,000 sterling to spend on developing and extending the London tubes. It is claimed that in this undertaking employment could be given to 20,000 men for two years. The Underground Railways Company asks the Government to guarantee the interest on the sum proposed to be raised and grant the company "reasonable security" against competition for 10 years.

QUESTION OF LABRADOR BOUNDARY TO COME UP

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Sir Patrick McGrath is at present in Winnipeg, having been commissioned by the Newfoundland Government to search into the records of the Hudson's Bay Company to find, if possible, facts bearing on the question of the Labrador boundary. This question is soon to come before the Privy Council in the nature of a suit between the Dominion of Canada and the Crown Colony of Newfoundland.

Sir Patrick has come to Winnipeg, he said, because since it has become the headquarters of the Hudson Bay Company it is assumed that records of great importance are filed there.

How Did She Do It?

She had a house with a dining-room, double parlors, a kitchen, a bathroom and large bedroom, and a small one, and that was all.

And there was herself, her husband and the twins—Dot and Daisy—going to Normal.

The girls wanted separate sleeping-rooms, and a place to entertain their friends. David wanted a quiet corner for reading the evening paper; while she herself liked to leave the youngsters alone sometimes, while she wrote a letter; or dipped into a novel undisturbed.

In That Six-Room House She Created Within 24 Hours—a large bedroom for herself and her husband; a separate sleeping apartment for each daughter; a dressing-room and three sitting-rooms, beside the kitchen, bathroom and dining-room aforesaid.

How It Was Managed

David was delighted with that large upstairs sitting-room. He could sink into the most comfortable tapestried couch in the world (the reading-lamp on a table behind) and smile at his wife, curled up at the other end. When bedtime came, the bed came with it—brought about with one easy well-balanced turn — a full-size bed—extra long, with sagless springs and a removable mattress. The ideal bed! Its other name was

Between the double parlors hung thick portieres, to be drawn at will. In either room was the cosiest possible couch, not so long as mother's and dad's, but plenty long enough

Dot had a business woman's tastes—and hers was a smart affair, with leather covering, and college cushions.

Both were the acme of comfort and beauty.

When the last scrap of fudge was finished, the last lesson learned, and the last guest gone, the girls opened the windows, and slipped upstairs, to their dressing-room.

12 x 12 — and unencumbered with beds, it held two dressers, one washstand, one chiffonier, two chairs and a small table.

And when ready for sweet sleep, they ran downstairs, tip-tilted their parlor sofas—and there were two real slumber nests, with dreams beneath their pillows. They were

RUSSIA ADMITS DEBT, BUT CANNOT PAY UP

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 27.—A dispatch from Reval to the Social Demokratan to-day quoted Maxim Litvinoff, chief of the Russian Soviet legations abroad, as saying in an interview: "We have informed England and France that the Soviet Government is ready to acknowledge imperial Russia's debt to foreign capitalists, but it would be absolutely necessary to confer regarding the ways and means of redeeming that debt."

Nervous Breakdown

The extreme depression and discouragement which comes over one at times is the most alarming symptom of nervous exhaustion.

This letter is a message of hope to all who find themselves in this unfortunate condition.

Mrs. Geo. T. Tingley, Albert, N.B., writes:—

"For years I was in a very nervous, run-down condition, was much depressed in spirits and suffered a great deal at times. The least noise would irritate me and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I consulted different doctors to no effect.

"A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and I can truly testify today to the great benefits received. There was a marked change before I had finished the second box and when I had used a dozen boxes my nerves were thoroughly restored and I was entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have. I shall ever be ready to testify to the benefits of this wonderful medicine, feeling sure that it will give to others the quick and permanent relief it has given me."

STATE OF SIEGE IS DECLARED IN SOFIA

SOFIA, Oct. 27.—A state of siege has been declared in this city and in Governmental departments along the frontier between Jugo-Slavia and Macedonia. Premier Stamboulsky declared yesterday that the assassination of Alexander Dimitroff, minister of war, last Saturday morning, near Kostendil, 43 miles southwest of here, could not be attributed to politics. He said the criminals were agents of Macedonian elements endeavoring, despite the Bulgarian Government's prohibition, to form revolutionary bands to be sent into Serbian Macedonia.

TARVIA KILN AT ST. THOMAS BURNS

Car Barns, Lumber Yard Are Also Damaged

LOSS NOT YET DETERMINED

Two Dynamos Destroyed, Valued at $3,000 Each

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 26.—(By Staff Reporter)—Fire, which originated in a kiln used for heating tarvia for the public works department, caused considerable damage to the city's street car barns, the lumber yards of E. S. Hatch and a couple of dynamos stored in the car barns, late this afternoon.

The tarvia kiln, which is situated at the corner of Stanley and Talbot streets, not far from the car barns, became overheated in some way and the stiff breeze caused the tar to blaze. The fire spread to the lumber yard of Mr. Hatch, which adjoins the car building, and after destroying a dry kiln and a quantity of lumber it finally reached the barns. The dynamos, which were purchased from the Traction Company some years ago, but which have never been used by the city, were destroyed, largely by water used in extinguishing the flames. The actual loss is not known as yet.

The tarvia kiln was totally destroyed, while the terrific heat also burned through some signal wires of the M. C. R., which pass near by. The entire street car building was only saved by the prompt work of the fire department, and it is stated that the actual damage to the building will not be serious.

The dynamos, which are valued at approximately $3,000 each, have been offered for sale on two or three occasions, and only a few months ago the city fathers refused an offer of pre-war prices for them, but it was thought that it might be possible for the city to utilize them in transmitting power for street railway purposes.

SUCCESSFUL DRIVE

At noon to-day, the closing hour of the daily campaign for membership for the Chamber of Commerce, the teams in charge of the city had reached within 55 of the objective of $60. No less than 99 new members were enrolled to-day and it is expected that by to-morrow night the objective will have been reached if not exceeded.

The results are exceeding the expectations of even the most optimistic workers. Patriotism of a municipal nature has been aroused as it never was before and many who predicted that a campaign for membership in such an organization would be an absolute failure are now willing to admit that they were mistaken and are now predicting that St. Thomas will in a short time be among the foremost cities in Western Ontario, a position which it should have occupied many years ago. The canvassers are meeting with very few rebuffs, and to-day practically every business man has taken at least one membership. The memberships are not confined entirely to the business men, however, for many private individuals have become interested.

SAYS LIQUOR STOLEN.

A prominent Aylmer man has been summoned to appear before Magistrate Hunt on a charge of violating the Ontario Temperance Act. It is alleged that he obtained something like 100 cases of boose recently and that it disappeared in a far shorter space of time than it would take to consume the liquor for private use. The charge is laid by License Inspector Ross and in it the Alymer man is alleged to have sold liquor contrary to the O. T. A. The accused claims that the liquor was stolen and that he did not sell a single bottle to anyone.

G. A. Ferguson received word to-day of the death, in Strathroy, of his brother-in-lw, Dr. F. M. Forsyth, a prominent dentist.

Twelfth of July, 1922, will be celebrated in St. Thomas, according to present arrangements. A meeting of the local lodges was held last night at which it was decided to meet the City Council and ask for Pinafore Park for that day. The park is being arranged for early, so tht rrngements my be made and all other loges in Western Ontario notified.

DR. WIRTH GIVEN CONFIDENCE VOTE

New German Ministry Is Indorsed By Reichstag.

POLICY IS ANNOUNCED

Government Will Not Alter Stand On Upper Silesia.

BERLIN, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press Cable.)—The Reichstag this evening voted confidence in the new ministry of Dr. Wirth. The vote was 230 against 132. The majority was made up of Majority Socialists, Independent Socialists, Centrists and Democrats. The vote was taken after Dr. Wirth, who remains as chancellor, announced to-night the personnel of the new Cabinet formed by him and his policy.

THE CABINET.

The Cabinet is as follows:

Minister of the interior—Adolf Koester, Socialist.

Minister of defense—Herr Gessler, Democrat.

Minister of economics — Robert Schmidt—Socialist.

Minister of food and interim finance —Andres Hermes.

Minister of labor—Dr. Brauns, Centrist.

Minister of communications—Herr Groener, no party.

Minister of justice—Herr Radbruch, Socialist.

The office of minister of reconstruction was left unfilled for the present, Dr. Wirth announced.

In making his announcement Dr. Wirth declared that the new Government's viewpoint regarding Upper Silesia differs in no way from that of the preceding Government. He declared the German Government would protest against the recent decision of the council of the League of Nations concerning Upper Silesia, on the ground of the illegality of the allied supreme council's having referred the question to the League of Nations. This procedure, he said, was not provided for by the Treaty of Versailles.

SAYS ANGLO-JAP PACT HANDICAP

Lord Northcliffe Declares Alliance Has Outgrown Usefulness.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Associated Press Cable.) — The Ango-Japanese alliance "undoubtedly is the dominating factor which now prevents an unfettered attempt by Great Britain, Japan and the United States to solve the problems of the Pacific," declared Lord Northcliffe to a Reuter correspondent, who interviewed the noted British publisher in Hong Kong yesterday. The interview was cabled to London to-day.

According to the correspondent's dispatch Lord Northcliffe gave this as a reason for his opinion that the alliance placed the United States "outside of the very definite arrangements for the control of China."

USEFULNESS GONE.

"During the last two years," the publisher is quoted as having said, "I have been gradually coming to the conclusion that the Anglo-Japanese alliance has outrun its usefulness. Japan faithfully carried out the compact during the war and she should be well rewarded for her services. The purpose of the Washington conference is to reach a mutual agreement, but the United States is handicapped by an arrangement already made by Japan and Great Britain concerning the chief problem of the Pacific.

"A prolongation of the alliance seems to irritate public and official opinion in the United States, merely humiliates China and adds nothing to the prestige of Great Britain in Asia."

"It cannot assist in establishing co-operation as means of helping China out of the present chaos, and it prevents reconciliation of the diverging interests of Japan and the United States. At present China cannot give satisfactory national guarantees, so there is urgent necessity for making international assistance to China a practical possibility.

"I hold that there can be no solution of the Pacific problem which does not rest on the solid foundation of Anglo-American friendship and co-operation. Unfortunately the Anglo-Japanese alliance has been prolonged beyond the point wheere it is understood by the Americans or is liked by the Chinese."

HAS NO DOUBT OF WEST'S LOYALTY

Premier Merely Holds Farmers Lack Regard For Industries.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Oct. 26.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Speaking to an audience of about 2,500 persons, in the rink here to-night, Premier Meighen dealt with a charge of the agrarians.

"Mr. Crerar says that I have charged the Western farmers with disloyalty," said the premier, "and he stands in righteous indignation on behalf of the West to defend them against this awful imputation. When Mr. Crerar resents what I say he usually invents what I say first. I never uttered the word 'disloyalty.' I never challenged their loyalty, but I do say that not only those people, but—and more to his discredit—Mr. Crerar himself has very little regard for the conditions of industrial Canada, very little interest and concern."

AN EXAMPLE

The premier went on to quote Mr. Crerar as stating: "If we cannot make shoes as cheaply in Canada as in the United States, then we have not reached the time in Canada when we should be making shoes."

This statement showed very little concern for the industrial works of Canada, declared Mr. Meighen. Mr. Crerar was in the position of every recent immigrant to this country, "but the position is far less creditable to him. If his policy was carried out we would have no industrial Canada to-day, but would simply be a supply depot to the United States," declared the premier.

Speeches were also delivered by T. E. Simpson, candidate in West Algoma, and Hon. R. J. Manion, of Fort William, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment.

Someone Forgot

FREDERICTON, N. B., Oct. 26.—The second meeting of the Agrarian campaign in the Maritime Provinces has been cancelled. Hon. T. A. Crerar arrived here this afternoon to address the electors of York-Sunbury, but found there had been a misunderstanding. The meeting had not been advertised and there was some mix-up in the dates.

FLORIDA HIT BY TERRIFIC STORM

Fruit Yield Badly Affected and Property Loss High.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The entire waterfront of St. Petersburg was wiped out by the gulf storm yesterday, the worst gale the city has ever experienced, according to a message received by The Times Union to-night.

The message, which was sent by a resident of St. Petersburg, who went by automobile to Brooksville, said that Passagrille was also reported wiped out.

"St. Petersburg," the message added, "is badly damaged, and observations coming through county indicate 90 per cent. citrus fruit gone. All previous storms no comparison. Town in total darkness for at least three days."

The storm passed out to sea this morning.

BAD AT FORT MYERS.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Oct. 26.—(Via Punta Rasa cable station).—The fiercest gale this season has known in several years raged here for 36 hours, beginning at Midnight Monday and attaining a maximum velocity of 100 miles an hour. Transmission services were prostrated, while the property loss for Lee County is expected to total well over a million and a half dollars. Reports from Sanable and Captive Islands said that water covered the entire islands. Estero Island, near here, on which two beach resorts are located, was badly damaged, the cottages and other buildings being wrecked.

FIVE KNOWN DEAD

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 26.—Five persons are known to be dead in this city and St. Petersburg, across Tampa Bay, as the result of yesterday's storm, which caused a local property damage estimated between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 26.—Numerous houses were unroofed, windows were broken and other damage, as yet unestimated, was done by a strong wind approaching the strength of a tornado which swept through the southern and eastern part of Sacramento to-day.

MORE EMPLOYMENT IN DOMINION REPORTED

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—A slight increase in the volume of employment was reported by some 5,000 employers during the two weeks' period ending September 24, according to a statement to appear in the forthcoming issue of the bulletin of the employment service for Canada. At the end of the period under review the index number stood at 90.2, as compared with 89.6 for the fortnight ending September 10.

The volume of employment reported by employers during the summer, the bulletin will declare, has never exceeded that of last midwinter, although the index number for the period ending September 24 was higher than for any period since January 15 of this year. Compared with the corresponding fortnight of 1920, the bulletin will say employment in all parts of the country showed marked shrinkage. The situation in Ontario and Quebec was less favorable than in other provinces, due to the fact that manufacturing showed more weakness than any other group. About 90 per cent. of the contractions in the manufacturing industries was concentrated in these two provinces. Reports for the fortnight showed 678,054 persons employed, as against 674,110 for the previous fortnight.

CIVIL SERVANTS MUST BE QUIET

Warned Not to Take Active Part In Politics.

DRURY ISSUES STATEMENT

Cabinet Ministers Only Appear To Be Exempt.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—Premier Drury and his ministers may get all the excitement they can out of the federal election campaign, but any civil servant who tries to emulate them is liable to wake up in the morning and find himself jobless. To-day Mr. Drury, fearful for the reputation of the civil service, sat down and dictated the following, which will go out as a circular to all departments of Government:

"The attention of the Government has been drawn to statements that certain officials in the employ of the province are taking an active part in the political campaign. I think it therefore advisable to make it perfectly clear to all parties concerned that the desire and direction of the Government is that public officials will not participate in election campaigns, and those who fail to heed this requirement will be held responsible for their actions. I wish to point out that the position taken by the Government in this matter is in accord with the resolution adopted by the Legislative Assembly on the 17th of March, 1897, known as the Garrow resolution."

MR. KING AGAIN TALKING SHELLS

Revives the Question at Meeting at Orono

WANTS MORE INFORMATION

Says He Is Not Yet Satsified on the Question

ORONO, Ont., Oct. 26.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—That deliberate deception had been practiced by the Government with regard to the expenditure of public moneys on warlike stores and ammunition, was the statement reiterated by Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, speaking here to-night. Mr. King examined the prime minister's public letter regarding shipments of shells coming into Canada, and asserted that a great deal of further information must be forthcoming from the prime minister and from Hon. Mr. Guthrie, minister of militia, with regard to war stores which are arriving in Canada in spite of the continuance in operation of the arsenals at Quebec and Lindsay.

Mr. King said that the letter issued by Mr. Meighen disclosed a situation infinitely worse than he had supposed, and would be a revelation to the people of Canada once its real significance was appreciated. It would be recalled, he said, that Mr. Guthrie, the minister of militia, had issued a statement to the effect that the war stores arriving in Canada were in the nature of a gift from England, a gift of which he had spoken in the Commons in both of the last two sessions.

QUOTES PREMIER.

It now appeared that the war stores being landed in Canada were not a gift at all, but, to use the prime minister's own words, "Canada's own property, being part of the war supplies credited to her on account of supplies furnished England by Canada, and which were furnished out of moneys appropriated by the Parliament of Canada, and raised through taxation or by loans upon which interest is being paid at the present time, and full repayment remains as an outstanding national obligation."

"Credits arising out of a financial settlement of accounts are to all intents and purposes the same as appropriations by Parliament," said the Liberal leader. "They represent money of the people, for which there should be a strict accounting to Parliament. It was against such credits that the present and other vast stores of munitions have been brought to Canada, according to the premier's statement.

"The prime minister's statement," said Mr. King, "contradicts the statement of his minister of militia, Mr. Guthrie, though his interview had led the public to believe that he had told Parliament all about the so-called gifts of war material from England. One might read the utterances of the Minister of Militia in Parliament from beginning to end without anywhere finding mention of any gift of ammunition."

ONLY SHELLS.

The cargo of the steamer Canadian Runner which occasioned the present disclosures contained nothing but high explosive shells, he said. The only war stores which had been referred to by Mr. Guthrie in Parliament were aeroplanes, guns and paraphernalia of war of the kind which is generally referred to as equipment, as distinguished altogether from ammunition.

In the session of 1920 in addition to moneys for demobilization purposes, Parliament appropriated $1,180,024 for war-like stores and for munitions to be ordered from the arsenals of Quebec and Lindsay. Having regard for the fact that the war was over and that demobilization of the expeditionary forces was not yet completed, Mr. King said he had asked the minister if it was not possible to reduce this afount by some $400,000. He pointed out that the amount asked from Parliament for the training of the militia was greater by several thousands of dollars than the amount appropriated at any time previous to the war. The minister replied that the large amount was necessitated to keep the reserve up to the standard which Lord French, in 1910, in a report to the Government, had stated was necessary for Canada. Mr. Guthrie had asked his supporters in the House to vote against the reduction and the motion was lost accordingly.

Throughout the whole of this debate, said Mr. King, not one word had been said in regard to any credits of possibility of securing munitions from across the seas. And yet, Mr. King said, according to the statement which Mr. Meighen has made, it was in the spring of 1920 before the estimates of the militia department were under discussion in Parliament that the financial settlement was made in England which entitled Canada to draw upon the Old Country for munitions required to meet the needs of active militia.

"Did the matter stop there?" continued Mr. King, "it would be bad enough, but the actual situation is worse." Mr. Meighen had said at the beginning and close of his letter that no war material of any kind had been purchased since the armistice. If this were true, why had Parliament been asked both in the sessions of 1920 and 1921 to vote large sums of money for munitions. The Minister of Militia had said that the money was required to pay for war stores and for the manufacture of munitions at the arsenals of Quebec and Lindsay. Not one word had been said to Parliament about any credit on which Canada could draw for stores or munitions overseas.

"What was worse than that?" said Mr. King. "The Minister of Militia, when asked why so large a staff had to be employed at the arsenal at Quebec, now that the war was over, had stated (I quote his words from unrevised Hansard): 'All our heavy ammunition is made at Quebec.' In another sentence the minister had added with reference to the ammunition made at Quebec at Lindsay: 'I doubt if any better ammunition is turned out anywhere.' Last session the 1921 Parliament had voted nearly $1,000,000 more for munitions and war-like stores. How, in view of these purchases, amounting to nearly two millions in two years, could Mr. Meighen say that no war material of any kind had been purchased since the armistice or how could he say that not a dollar had been spent on munitions."

It now appears, said Mr. King, that the shipload of high explosive shells which he saw at Levis was but one of several shipments made to Canada since the spring of 1920, that continuously throughout the present and for the last year or two shipments in whole or partial cargoes had been coming on ships of the Canadian Government merchant marine. Mr. Meighen had stated that shipments totaling 2,355 tons had arrived in Canada to be used for the training of that portion of the arm of the Canadian army, called artillery.

How many more tons, he asked, had arrived during the time that Parliament has been voting money for this very purpose, and supposedly to cover everything that was needed?

HOW MANY MORE.

"Apparently," said Mr. King, "the munitions were coming in such quantities that an effort had to be made in all parts of the Dominion to find accommodation for them. And this at a moment when the Government was in sympathy with a policy of disarmament."

In view of the statements made in Mr. Meighen's letter the people of Canada had a right to know without delay just how extensive were the credits in England upon which Canada had been entitled to draw for war supplies since the war and the nature and amounts of stores and munitions which had already come to Canada as against these credits. Furthermore, what was the extent of the remaining credit against which the department of militia and defense was at liberty to draw. "Enough," he said, "has already been disclosed to show that Parliament and the people have been deliberately deceived by the Government with respect to vast expenditures of public moneys on munitions and warlike stores, that instead of showing any sympathy with disarmament the Government has secretly been adopting a course the very reverse.

"All circumstances considered, a scandal unparalleled in the politics of our country. Till Mr. Meighen and Mr. Guthrie are able to show wherein these cargoes of munitions were necessary to the Canadian artillery, or are capable of use by them, for I am told," he added, "that high explosives of the kind can only be used in war and are not suitable for training purposes; they must rest under the indictment of having wilfully wasted millions of dollars of the money or credit of the people of this country at a time of our country's greatest financial need."

600 DELEGATES AT CONVENTION

Ontario Religious Education Council at Brantford

DISCUSSING EVANGELISM

100,000 Under 12 Years Not at Sunday Schools

BRANTFORD, Oct. 26.—With more than 600 delegates from all parts of the Ontario peninsula present, the 56th annual convention of the Ontario Religious Education Council went swinging along to-day, all the sessions having variations of the conference theme, "Educational Evangelism."

This morning a general session was held, Prof. Fred. Langford discussing methods of evangelism, stressing glorification of the Christian life. Rev. T. A. Halpenny presented a review of the year's efforts of the Religious Education Council, showing that the finances were in good condition and the field of work greatly broadened. Miss Bertha Laine reported increased interest in all children's work. W. J. Cunningham emphasized that there were 100,000 children in Ontario under 12 not in any Sunday school. The program of work for boys and girls was outlined by Miss Mabel Taggart and Miss Marjorie Trotter, and W. P. Fletcher and C. F. Plewman.

TEACH MISSIONS.

The general conference was continued in the afternoon, when Dr. Marion Lawrence stressed the necessity of teaching missions in the Sunday school, not alone stressing missionary collections. Teachers and workers should study the mission field. Rev. T. A. Halpenny outlined the financial needs, the budget having been set at $25,000.

Denomination conferences followed. Each denomination meeting in one of its representative churches here and discussing problems from its own standpoint.

This evening departmental suppers were held, Miss B. Laine giving a demonstration to the workers among children on "The Interpretation of Bible Stories," while Rev. Geo. T. Webb addressed the boys' workers on "The Teacher as an Evangelist." Departmental sessions were afterwards resumed, five sections meeting simultaneously.

Chief Crawford alone made the discovery and is said to have caught the men making whisky. The men, Dvink and Miller, were Preston men. Chief Crawford immediately placed them under arrest and the men and the still, which is quite an expensive one, were brought into town.

WINDSOR, Oct. 26.—Breaking his leash a collie dog, owned by Abraham Nolan, Mercer street and Tecumseh road, rushed to the assistance of his master when a bandit attacked him in the yard to-night.

Biting and worrying the intruder the collie soon forced him to abandon his attack.

FINDS NO TRACE YET OF THE LOST RADIUM

HAMILTON, Oct. 26.—The search for the radium needles, missing from the city hospital, has so far been unsuccessful, although an expert from Pittsburg, with an instrument capable of registering the presence of the mineral fifty feet away, has explored the precincts of the hospital, refuse and sewer traps and also the sewer pipe between the hospital and the disposal plant, in the hope that if the radium has lodged in the pipe the instrument will register through the covering of pipe and earth. the missing needles were worth $7,000, and were the property of Doctors Mowbray and McGregor.

MYSTERIOUS JESSIE FAILS TO APPEAR

WINDSOR, Oct. 26.—There were no new developments to-day in the "twin suit case babies." Officials of the Children's Aid Society expected that the mysterious "Jessie," who, in a letter addressed yesterday to the society, claimed to be the mother of the girls, would appear as she had promised, but she failed to do so.

Inspector Winters gave out a copy of the letter which had been received by him from the woman, in which she charges a prominent, but unnamed Windsor business man with the fatherhood of the children.

"He told me I must never come back to Windsor, and that if I did I would be sent to prison for life," the girl wrote. The letter was mailed in Detroit.

TUGS DAMAGED AT PORT DOVER

Racey and Juno Strike Boulder in Lake.

TOWED TO ERIE, PENN.

To Locate Danger Spot and Anchor Buoy.

PORT DOVER, Oct. 26.—The fishing tugs, Racey and Juno, struck a boulder, which lies outside the harbor, and broke their wheels, necessitating their being towed to Erie, Pa., to be dry-docked. The towage, repairs, exchange and loss of time will mean a considerable sum to the owners of the tugs. It is supposed that the boulder lies at the edge of the fairway, about 100 feet directly in front of the east pier. Steps will be taken, it is said, to locate it definitely and buoy it in order to prevent further accidents.

Sunday morning's services in St. Paul's was devoted to the children. They had charge of the choral part of the service. Miss Nancy Dyer sang a solo during the offertory. The pastor gave a talk to the children. During the course of the services the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Walmsley was baptized.

Sunday evening the members of Erie, No. 149, A., F. & M., attended divine service in St. Paul's Church, where the pastor, Rev. D. J. Cornish, preached an eloquent sermon.

The executives of the I. O. D. E. and the Navy League met at the home of Mrs. (Capt.) McDonald on Monday to consider ways and means of raising funds to aid in carrying on the work of the league.

A reception was tendered Rev. D. J. Cornish and wife by the congregation of St. Paul's on Tuesday. Addresses of welcome were made by W. F. Tibbetts (chairman), J. S. Martin, Dr. A. H. Cook, Col. D. T, Smith and W. J. Thompson, to which the rector made reply. On behalf of the congregation C. W. Barwell presented Mrs. Cornish with a beautiful bouquet. A dainty luncheon was served, after which a program, consisting of instrumental and vocal solos and duets, was rendered.

The Four Masters of Classical Violin Building

(BY ROBERT ALTON IN THE ETUDE).

Several types of violins are accepted and worked upon by most modern builders. Occasionally a maker will change his pattern and work for a time upon a model different from the one he has been following. But, generally speaking, modern violin makers restrict themselves to one type only. As these various types represent widely different ideals in violin construction, it is, perhaps, not inopportune to consider a few, and to examine the characteristics of tone produced by each.

The masetrs of classical violin building are four, viz., Amati, Stradivarius, Guarnerius and Stainer. The types of violins from these four masters are quite distinct, and although there are minor variations in the models of each maker, during the progress of his career, yet the type of violin is distinct and characteristic.

AMATI THE OLDEST TYPE.

The oldest type of these four masters is the Amati, and is the pattern followed, with minor alterations, throughout his career by Nicola Amati, the most talented builder of that talented family. With few exceptions, the Amati type of violin is of small pattern, with corners drawn out and somewhat pronounced. The archings of the Amati family generally are high, and although Nicolo Amati flattened the model somewhat, yet the modeling still remained higher than that of Stradivarius, who served his apprenticeship under Nicolo Amati.

The violin built by Stradivarius is the flattest of all four models. The sound-holes lean over at the top towards the center of the instrument to a greater exent than in the Amati type, while the center C's, or inner bouts, are not so circular in character. Stradivarius gradually felt his way towards the flat type of instrument, while at the same time he enlarged the model. The corners became broader and somewhat more obtuse in character. The Strad model, with minor alterations, remains to this day the pattern of thousands of fiddle makers.

GUARNERIUS WITH THE PRONOUNCED ARCH.

The Guarnerius model is quite distinct from either Amati or Stradivarius. The rise in the center of the arch is generally not less than three-quarters of an inch, and falls away at each end in a bold sweep to the edges, top and bottom. This pronounced arch has the effect of increasing the air-space to some extent, especially in view of the fact that the sweep of the lower bouts of the instrument in the Guarnerius pattern is of a bolder character than that of either Stradivarius or Amati. The center C's in the Guarnerius model rapidly spread outward from the middle part of the C's to the lower corners. The sound-holes are long and pointed and set far apart on the belly.

The Stainer type is of a more tubby character than either of the others. The pattern is generally small, yet, owing to the bulging of the arching in all directions, the air-space is not reduced appreciably. The scrol s of all four makers, although considerably different, do not enter into our calculations here, which are chiefly concerned with the variety of tone produced by the various types of body.

TYPES OF TONE.

The Amati type of violin does not produce the strength of tone obtained from the other patterns. It is sweet, and somewhat piercing in character. The tone of the Stradivarius model, though rounder in character, and more full than that of Amati, is still on the side of keenness rather than roundness; but the model and outline leave nothing to be desired.

The Guarnerius and Stainer models, on the other hand, produce tone of a rbunder and more mellow type, but the piercing quality is not so pronounced, and tends rather to the clarinet tone. It must be remembered that all these types of sound can be altered, to some extent, by adjustment. For instance, a heavy, or comparatively heavy bridge post will modify the piercing quality of of soft material, and somewhat thick post will modify the piercing quality of the Amati and Stradivarius types, while vice versa, the mellow, round tone of Guanneri and Stainer may be made thinner and more flutelike by adjustment with high bridge and thin sound-post. Lowering or increasing the height of the bridge will also affect tone.

To prove that the model governed tone in the manner indicated above, the author built a violin with Stradivari outline, Guarneri arching, and also slightly increased the depth of the ribs. This violin was also fitted with a bridge one and three-eighths inches in depth, generally considered the maximum. The resultant tone was round, powerful, mellow and not a scratch or piercing note in the fiddle. In previous instruments, of both Stradivari and Guarneri models, the tone was considerably thinner and more flutelike; and, in fact, after playing on the violin built on the lines indicated, the tone of the other type was insufferable, and this in spite of the fact that previously the tone of the Guarneri type especially was much admired.

A COMBINATION OF QUALITIES.

In this connection it is interesting to note the remarks of Mr. Honeyman, who states that the perfect violin "lay somewhere between Guarnerius, Mazzini and Gasparo da Salo." The two latter makers built the same type of instrument, therefore the statement resolves itself into this—that the perfect type of violin is somewhere between Guarnerius and Gasparo da Salo. As the chief difference in model between Gasparo da Salo and Stradivarius is in the size of the instrument, and the depth of the ribs, it seems feasible to suppose that, granting Honeyman's dictum to be correct, it is worth while to follow Stradivarius for outline, Guarnerius for arching, and to increase the depth of ribs after the manner of Gasparo da Salo (the originator of the fiddle as we know it), whose instruments are described by Heron-Allen as "grave and melancholy in character." In the instrument built by the author on these lines, the tone is certainly rounder and fuller, and carries very well, indeed. Of the flute-like character there is little evidence, but the loss of this is more than compensated for by the mellow roundness of the tone. To those makers who desire this type of tone, the experiment is worth a trial. Once a violin is built on these lines the maker can then determine whether or not the character of sound is suitable for his requirements.

The ordinary Guarnerius model will possibly suit many makers and players better than either Stradivarius or composite violin model, at least for the quality. The Guarneri outline, however, is not preferred before Stradivari, and many makers prefer to build Stradivari models on account of their graceful appearance alone. Amati, nowadays, is seldom followed, on account of the small volume of tone, when compared with the other patterns.

THE VIOLIN OF THE FUTURE.

The building of violins on the lines of Stainer is, with many modern makers, quite overdone, and the bulging of the plates carried to excess. The writer was recently examining an undoubtedly genuine example of Jacobus Stainer, and the outstanding feature of the arching was its graceful appearance. This is more than can be said for many models. The swelling or rise of the plates in Stainer violins is carried within three inches of the ends, top and bottom, from which points it gradually falls away into the hollowing round the edges. On the cheeks of the fiddle, back and front, the swelling is carried well out from the level of the center, or long arching, towards the edges, the violin, as seen from a little distance, is very graceful where it falls away from the groove, as in the case of the long arching. But the usual bulging cheeks seen in copies are not at all apparent in the genuine Stainer, and in appearance, although differing widely from the other models. A feature of the violin in question worth mentioning is the oval curls of the scroll, and the oval "eye," instead of the usual circular style.

MR. PUGSLEY DECLINES.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Oct. 26.—Hon. Wm. Pugsley, lieutenant-governor of the province, has declined the nomination tendered him by the Liberal convention of St. John-Albert.

EFFECT OF TEMPERATURE ON PITCH OF WIND INSTRUMENTS

BY W. M. SHARP, IN THE METRONOME

It is well known to musicians that the pitch of a wind instrument rises when it is warmed by the breath. This can be readily explained and the amount necessary to lengthen the instrument in order to maintain the same pitch can easily be calculated.

A musical tone is produced by a vibrating body which causes alternate condensations and rarefactions in the surrounding air. These condensations and rarefactions are called sound waves, and travel faster in warm air than in cool air. Careful experiments have shown that sound travels 1090.6 feet per second at the freezing point (32 degrees Fahrenheit), and the increase in velocity is 13.3 inches per second for each rise of one degree in temperature. Therefore, at a temperature of 50 degrees, which is 18 degrees above freezing, the velocity of sound would be 1110.5 feet per second, while at 78 degrees the velocity would be 1141.6 feet per second.

Now, the fundamental (pedal) tone of the cornet in A is the A written in first space in bass clef. This tone at standard pitch is produced by 109 vibrations per second. If this tone is sounded when the temperature is 50 degrees the front of the first wave will be 1110.5 feet away from the instrument at the end of one second and the intervening space will be divided into 109 waves, since there will have been that many vibrations in that second. Thus the length of each wave will be 1110.5 feet divided by 109, or 10.18 feet. This is 122.3 inches. At 78 degrees the wave length would be 1141.6 feet divided by 109, or 125.6 inches.

The fundamental tone produced by a tube will have a wave length of twice the length of the tube. This is neglecting a small correction depending on the diameter of the tubing and not affected by the temperature. Therefore, when the average temperature of the air column in a cornet is 50 degrees the length of the cornet to produce standard pitch must be 122.3 inches divided by 2 or 61.2 (nearly). If the temperature is 78 degrees the length must be 125.6 inches divided by 2, or 52.8 inches. In other words, the cornet would have been lengthened (62.8-61.2) 1.6 inches. This would be done by drawing the tuning slide .8 of an inch. The tuning slide of the cornet in A should be drawn nearly .03 of an inch for each increase of one degree in temperature.

Of course, the expansion of the metal in the cornet will tend to lower the pitch of the instrument as the temperature increases, but this amount is very small. The rate of expansion of air is very much greater in brass, so the pitch is actually raised.

DIOCESAN SOCIAL SERVICE BOARDS DECIDED UPON

MONTREAL, Oct. 26.—A Dominion department of social service will not be formed, but recognition was given to the right of diocesan boards to create such departments with the sanction of their respective bishops, according to a motion passed according to the report of the committee on social service presented by Miss M. Cartwright, of Toronto, to the Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada in the synod hall.

A discussion hinging on the relation of missionary and social service work, the former being that for which the organization was originally designed, took place. Feeling that the latter made a great appeal to a very large number of women, and was closely connected with missionary work in spirit, while not minimizing their interest and efforts in the former, five dioceses have already created departments of social service, it was reported.

EDMUND BURKE TALKS OF EARLY STUDENT DAYS

Edmund Burke says that he was intended for the bar, but music was always a pleasure to him and law was always work, so he chose the pleasure and quit the work. When he was eight and his brother six years old they used to lead the choir boys into church and he Sang at St. George's, Montreal; All Saints', Toronto, and later at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, where, when he was punished for misdemeanors, they made him sing bass in a quartet with the masters. By this time Burke was moved to the other end of the choir loft and when he went to McGill University he immediately started to dabble in music. Besides acquiring a bachelor of civil law degree he became leader of the McGill Glee Club.

Then came study in London and Paris and afterwards a debut at Montpellier in Southern France, without any rehearsals and singing four operas without rehearsals. It was good fun and very exciting, said Mr. Burke; "the people took as much interest in opera there as they do in football or baseball here and they rag the singers if they sing badly. There were bull fights in that part of the country. I remember one at Nimes." He told about some of his early student days in France, when he was taken up there by a noted French teacher, whom he found out afterwards had 10 pupils—nine girls and one man—himself. "I had a great time with them," he said. "They were all of different nationalities, one Spanish, one Italian, one Finnish, one Roumanian, one Dutch and they all talked French and were prima donnas.' We used to go down to the casino for dances and when they were over I had to take all those girls home."

Later on he went to Holland and sang at the Royal Opera House for a few seasons, and after that Covent Garden, where the two casts that he enjoyed best were his performances in Faust with Melba and John McCormick and the other in Les Huguenots with Destinn, Tetrazzini, Caruso, Scotti and Arimondi.

Mr. Burke's headquarters are in Paris, but every summer he rusticates and takes a two months' holiday down near Biaritz, on the Spanish coast, where, according to the singer's enthusiastic account, there is "wonderful bathing, you can pick figs off the trees, wear old clothes, drink some of the native wine, view the beautiful blue Pyrennes at your back and the gorgeous Gulf of Gascony. It is called the silver coast, you know, and there is not a fly nor a mosquito." He just left this enchanting place to take the boat over and is going back to Europe at the beginning of the year. He will sing in performances of Boris Goudinof and other roles in Spain and Sweden and if there is a Covent Garden season will probably return there.

"I like it here," exclaimed Mr. Burke fervently. "I went for a walk last night down Main street and out past the Fort Garry Hotel, because I feel a little knocked up after the long train journey, and the clear air and wind, a gentle breeze they called it here, made me feel great. It blew all the cobwebs away. I know some Winnipeg people," he continued, and he spoke with warm esteem of Mr. Watkin Mills, "one of the finest Handelian singers I have ever heard and a household name in England," whom he saw last at the Grand Hotel in London before the war, and who, with Pol Plancon, encouraged him more than anyone else in his student days. Mr. Mills, Charles Santley and Andrew Black stood for much in English musical life. Capt. Burke, speaking of Gen. H. D. B. Ketchen and Col. Montague, of Winnipeg, whom he knew in France at the front, when he was with the Second Canadian division, said that they had given him great assistance when he was trying to get up musical entertainments. "The old iron Sixth Brigade had the finest band in France," declared the Canadian baritone.

Forest Fires Cause Explosion in Italy With Heavy Life Loss.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—The explosion of a powder magazine at Sante Elena fortress, reported from Avlona, Italy, last night, was caused by extensive forest fires which have been raging for several days in the vicinity of Vado, on the west side of the Gulf of Genoa, according to advices to the Central News Agency from Rome to-day.

Despite the efforts of fire fighters the forest conflagrations extended to a line of forts in that section. Only one of them had exploded, the dispatch said, but this one wrecked several nearby houses and killed and injured many persons. Rescue parties hurried to Vado from neighboring towns. It was said yesterday's explosion was heard in Florence and Bologna, more than 150 miles away.

It thus falls out that gh Romeo and Juliet is looked upon he tragedy of the master's adoles-, it is no immature attempt, but a fully and deliberately thought-out k, the author's rehandling of which s it to have been of paramount im- ance to his mind.

Shakespeare's day—day of the Cen- Renaissance, Italy loomed large lovely in the eye of cultured Europe. many contemporary poets, Shake- re—though it is confidently stated he was never out of England, and e is internal evidence in the plays establish the contention—loved an an atmosphere. He shows this espe- y in Romeo and Juliet, where the rnal atmosphere is altogether Ital- both in its color and in its warmth. he that has been in Verona in the mer time but recalls the lovely ts of intense heat mingled with t freshness and energy of growth, which that climate is famous? Who has stood on the old bridge that e crosses the Adige River, but must ember the ravishing shapes of re and minarets, of casements and onies, the pastel shades of houses mingle their soft colors with the ner gray of ancient buildings and lements, where the picturesque city ape along on either side the torren- flood? Who that has sat upon a ony in the moonlight has done so not thought of the impassioned lovers to whom "parting" was "such sweet sorrow?"

FINE SUMMER DAYS.

Of the season in which the play is set it wants a fortnight and odd days of Lammastide (August 1st) therefore, we argue, the mid-July heat broods over the five tragic days of the story.

Pausing to note Shakespeare's method of treating external nature as the milieu or enveloping medium of human passion, Dowden says: "The mad blood is stirring in men's veins during those hot summer days. There is a thunderous feeling in the moral atmosphere. The summer was needed also that the nights and mornings might quickly meet. The nights are those luminous nights from which the daylight seems never wholly to depart, nights through which the warmth of day still hangs over the trees and flowers."

When the asbestos curtain went up upon Mr. Walter Hampden's performance of Romeo and Juliet, at the Grand yesterday afternoon, it disclosed a drapery of blue arras with against the blue Chorus in a crimson mantle come to tell us that:

Two households, both alike in dignity
(In fair Verona, where we lay our scene),
From ancient grudge break to new mutiny,
Where civil blood makes civil hands unclean.
From forth the fatal loins of these two foes
A pair of star-cross'd lovers take their life;
Whose misadventur'd piteous overthrow
Doth with their death bury their parent's strife . . . .

Immediately the clash of swords, with loud and heated words. The arras parts. We are in a street in Verona and in the midst of a brawl brought about by some chance meeting, some "biting of the thumbs," between the retainers of Montague and Capulet.

From thence, onward, in the midst of mooney radiance that counterfeits the night, in torch-lighted halls and tapestried corridors, in open street and on granite quay, and finally in the vaulted sepulchre of the Capulets, the tragedy moves to its conclusion.

With the strictest economy of means in the way of settings and a most lavish expenditure of softly-tinted lights, Mr. Hampden achieves a stage that must appeal to all those who have imagination to which to appeal. He builds up his pictures, not with solidly-built canvas walls and doors, and with a plethora of furnishings and other scenic details, but as a painter builds up his by means of a few, a very few salient objects and by an atmospheric background, throwing upon the whole just the particular quality of light necessary to extract from curtain or wall, balcony or garden seat the reflection best suited to his color scheme.

The sepulchre of the Capulets in a very especial manner is an example of what can be done by means of light cast upon neutral stuffs. Cold, grandiose, piteously grey, the vaulted chamber looms and, in the midst, a wan light concentrated upon her wan form, the sleeping Juliet waiting her yet more deeply-sleeping lord. It is the last word in symbolical pictorial art.

The Juliet of Mabel Moore (Mrs. Hampden) is altogether exquisite in its pathetic girlishness, fragile, fleet, one of those strong and resolute souls that inhabit bodies whom it would seem a puff would blow away. It is a Juliet of sweet words delicately spoken; love words softly breathed upon the summer air as though the young girl were afraid lest even the night moths might hear and surprise her maidenly confession. It is a Juliet of clinging confidences. Withal it is a Juliet not afraid to die by her own hands and sleep with "blood boltered" Tybalt if only by so doing she may preserve faith with Romeo. A Juliet of all Juliets I have seen most tender and appealing.

MR. HAMPDEN.

Mr. Hampden wears the "rose" of youth in his character of the impetuous Capulet, with charm and distinction. His wooing is delicious; his death a study in how misfortuned love ought to die. The "star cross'd lovers" are ideally suited to their roles.

Distinct among the character bits stands out the Nurse of Elsie Herndon Kearns, a lean Nurse, where the Nurse is most often portly in her habit and sometimes fat; a chuckling Nurse more than a coarse Nurse, as is frequently the case, whose Rabelian wit falls from her with such evident innocence, such ingenious mirth, such accustomed relish it neither offends nor affronts. The very most excellent old reprobate of a Nurse, fit type of her whose "gross and wanton heart while the sun of prosperity is full blossoms into broad vulgarity, and now in the hour of trial that grossness rises to the dignity of a crime." A unique performance.

The Mercutio of Ernest Rowan is a refined and brilliant conception of that gay friend of Romeo, whose address to "Queen Mab" would seem to presage for him a life in the sun and whose death from a blow of Tybalt's sword leaves him muttering, "A plague on both your houses." Mr. Rowan is brilliant, graceful, poetic, picturesque—an ideal Mercutio.

William Sauter gives us a Friar Lawrence at once well-reasoned and compelling. The Peter of Le Roi Operti added one more to that exuberent artist's triumphs. The Capulet of Hannam Clark was succinct and verisimilar. The cast work well and was as usual an excellent support.

MERCHANT OF VENICE.

In the evening, by request, Mr. Hampden gave a return performance of "The Merchant of Venice," under conditions almost precisely similar to those in which he first played the role of Shylock before us. A few changes in the production. Some minor difference in the cast. The rest as the play was presented last season.

Shylock is one of Walter Hampden's best roles. In it he plays true to Shakespeare, true to the soul of the poet, who gives Shylock great intellectual, strength, pride, a keen sense of justice, avarice, relentlessness, Hebrew devotion; and then sets him among those who delight to oppress and insult his nation and his name. We do not love Shylock. But when he leaves the courtroom, old, broken, stripped of all his worldly belongings and forced to subscribe himself a Christian, neither do we love ourselves. It is a superb presentation of one of the master's most poignant appeals for that tolerance in which he gloried.

A large matinee house and a great crowd at the evening performance. London owes Mr. Hampden much for his effort to restore Shakespeare to us —"the well of English undefiled," of which we must drink and drink deep if we wish to preserve the beauty and the strength of our so splendid and expressive togue.

There is much said in these days about the destiny of the "English-speaking nations." That destiny can never be fulfilled unless those nations preserve this their greatest legacy.

PUNCH BOARDS CLOSED

Provincial Officer Finds One In Operation at Dresden.

CHATHAM, Oct. 26.—At the 25th annual convention of Chatham District W. M. S., held in Park Street Methodist Church the following officers were elected: District superintendent, Mrs. (Rev.) W. A. Finlay, of Charing Cross; assistant district superintendent, Miss Edith Aikin, of Dresden; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. William Huffman, R. R. No. 1, Mull.

Harry Burleigh, wanted in this city on a charge of stealing a bicycle from the home of A. J. Kayhue, of Chatham Township, was arrested in Harrow yesterday.

FINDS PUNCH BOARDS.

Provincial Officer Low, of this city, is progressing with his campaign against the obnoxious "punch boards" which are being operated in stores in various parts of the county. After laying informations against the Clark & Hicks firm and Ralph Dauphin, of Ridgetown, on Monday, charging them with this offense, he went to Dresden and found a punch board being operated in a store owned by Thomas Thom. The Dresden man will appear in court on Friday and the Ridgetown men will answer to the charge in that place tomorrow.

Mrs. Jenner, the wife of Dr. J. E. Jenner, of Kingsville, died to-day after a long illness. Besides her husband two daughters survive.

A very unusual accident that may have cost Richard Steen the loss of a splendid 1,500-pound horse occurred yesterday afternoon in Dover Township.

The animal succeeded in escaping from a field and went galloping down the road. When an endeavor was made to catch the horse it jumped the ditch and took to the tracks of the Chatham, Wallaceburg & Lake Erie Railway. All went well till open ties over a culvert were reached, with the result that the hind legs of the animal went through the openings, while the body hung suspended in the air with its head near the bottom of the ditch.

THREE CANDIDATES IN HORNSEY BY-ELECTION

LONDON, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press Cable.) — For the by-election in Hornsey, necessitated by the death of Kennedy Jones, there are 46,000 electors registered, including 21,000 women. However, this number has never been polled. The probable candidates are: Viscount Ednan, Conservative; Leslie Burgin, Liberal; Hon. F. M. Fisher, anti-waste. All three have been through the constituency for some time.

Kennedy Jones, M. P. for Hornsey, died on October 20, 1921. He served with the ministries of food and transport during the war. Mr. Kennedy Jones was widely known in British journalistic circles and was prominently associated with Lord Northcliffe (then Alfred Harmsworth) in the early part of the latter's newspaper career. He recently published a book entitled "Fleet Street and Downing Street," devoted to a discussion of the press and politics.

FEAR MONARCHISTS MAY TRY COUP IN BAVARIA

BERLIN, Oct. 25.—Bavarian monarchists, who, it is alleged, have been attempting to establish a kingdom in Bavaria, with former Crown Prince Rupprecht on the throne, may attempt to use the burial of former King Ludwig as the occasion for a widespread movement against the Republican Government, according to dispatches received by anti-monarchist newspapers in Berlin.

There were rumors on the bourse today that steps already had been taken to enthrone Rupprecht, but these were found on investigation to be false.

MATTING DISAPPEARS.

SARNIA, Oct. 26.—Twenty yards of cocoanut matting were stolen from the car of R. Stirrett either in Sarnia or on the road between here and Petrolea yesterday. This bulky parcel evidently escaped the notice of anyone, and the police have been asked to try and find a clue as to its whereabouts.

Your Stomach! Does It Work?

If Gassy, Sour, Heavy After Meals, Drowsy, Heartburn, Loss of Appetite, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is Just the Thing After Meals.

You Feel Insured When You Take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet After Eating.

People sometimes get the notion that the stomach has given out and their race is run. And yet it is often astonishing the relief that comes in such cases from taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after eating. This relief is so pronounced that such symptoms of dyspepsia as the melancholy loss of appetite and broody fear to eat are quickly dispelled. Some times an excess of certain kinds of food may lodge in an acid stomach to cause gas, heartburn, water-brash, a sense of fullness after eating and a heavy, drowsy feeling after meals. This is dyspepsia, and the stomach needs the alkaline effect given by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to bring relief. Get a 60-cent box to-day of any druggist and note how comfortable the stomach feels.—Advt.

Toronto Teams Have Chance In Senior Football

Varsity, Argonauts and Parkdale Contenders for Championship

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—The championship race in the three rugby unions has narrowed down to an inter-city affair, with Toronto represented in all three against one Montreal team and two from Ottawa.

In the inter-provincial Ottawa Rough Riders have the only chance to beat Argonauts out, and to do that they must win both in Ottawa and Toronto.

In the Ontario union St. Brigid's, of Ottawa, can create a tie with Parkdale by winning two games in Toronto from Parkdale and Torontos.

THE COLLEGE RACE.

In the intercollegiate race much depends on Saturday's game at the Stadium. A win for Varsity will put them on even terms with McGill, with three points to their credit, while victory for McGill will give Shag's men five points, and the championship, as Varsity can be counted upon to beat Queen's in Toronto. It is Varsity's last chance and the blue and white can be depended upon for a supreme effort. The standing to-day is as follows:

	W.	L.	D.	For.	Agst.
McGill	1	0	1	29	5
Queen's	1	1	0	10	30
Varsity	0	1	1	9	13

GAMES TO BE PLAYED.

Oct. 29—McGill at Varsity.
Nov. 5—Queen's at Varsity.
Nov. 12—McGill at Queen's.

Of course Queen's can upset all the dope by beating Varsity here and McGill in Kingston, which, of course, would give the tri-color the championship. That is possible, but not probable. If Varsity wins from McGill here a victory over Queen's a week later is reasonably sure. In case Queen's loses to McGill in Kingston Varsity and McGill will be tie on the season and a play-off will be necessary at the new Richardson Stadium in Kingston.

ARGONAUTS OR OTTAWA.

The Argonauts are unbeaten in the inter-provincial, with two games yet to play, both with Ottawa, the contenders for the championship. The first of these games is at Ottawa on Saturday, with the return game here on Saturday, November 12. The Argos expect to go through the season without a defeat, but are taking no chances and will send their strongest team to Ottawa on Saturday. Hamilton and Montreal have home-and-home games yet to play, but there is no interest in the outcome as both teams are out of the running.

Senior.

	W.	L.	For.	Agst.
Argonauts	4	0	133	27
Ottawa	3	1	69	32
Hamilton	1	3	42	67
M. A. A. A.	0	4	17	130

GAMES TO PLAY.

Oct. 29—Argonauts at Ottawa, Hamilton at Montreal.
Nov. 5—Montreal at Hamilton.
Nov. 12—Ottawa at Argonauts.

PARKDALE HAS THE EDGE.

The Parkdale team has a long lead in the O.R.F.U. series, but St. Brigid's, of Ottawa, have a chance to tie it up. The Ottawa team will play Parkdale here on Thanksgiving Day and Toronto on the 12th of November and if they win both they will be tie with the Paddlers. The West-enders are not worrying in the least, however, and their supporters expect to see them in the Canadian finals. Standing of the clubs:

Senior.

	W.	L.	For.	Agst.
Parkdale	3	0	72	21
St. Brigid's	1	1	29	40
Torontos	0	3	21	61

GAMES YET TO PLAY.

Nov. 7—St. Brigid's at Parkdale.
Nov. 12—St. Brigid's at Toronto.

In the Canadian finals the inter-provincial winners will play the inter-collegiate champions and the winners will play the O. R. F. U. champions.

P. U. District and City Soccer Champions Meet W.O.R. In Cup Series

Soccer Double-Header Scheduled Saturday at Tecumseh Park With McCutcheon Cup Game As Feature — Public Utilities To Be Presented With King Edward Cup and Medals To-Morrow at "Y."

A meeting of the officials of the City Soccer League will be held to-morrow night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. building for the purpose of presenting the King Edward cup and medals to the Public Utilities team and players. The Public Utilities won The London Free Press trophy, emblematic of the London and district championship, and the players no doubt are also looking for medals. The London and District Soccer Association, however, went behind in their finances through the long jumps necessitated to play off the Plenty cup games, a district soccer competition. The Public Utilities team as a whole practically remained intact for those games, and, while the players may not be rewarded with something tangible, they at least enjoyed the sport and the honor of going into the finals.

The Public Utilities team holds the distinction of playing in the finals for the fourth trophy this season on Saturday afternoon, when they meet the Western Ontario Regiment eleven in the first game of the final round for the McCutcheon trophy. This game will be well worth while witnessing and with no rugby scheduled should attract a big crowd to Tecumseh Park.

The cup-tie committee has arranged a double-header for the occasion, having selected all-star schooboys' teams, one to represent Canada and the other England, making the game an international event.

SPORT COMMENT

Discipline on the football field is as essential as in the schoolroom, and the spectacle of a principal refusing to allow his team to obey the orders of the presiding official in an interschool rugby game is not calculated to improve the morale of his school.

he big rugby game on Saturday will take place in Toronto between Varsity and McGill. It will likely attract a record crowd to the stadium. McGill's overwhelming victory over Queen's at Montreal has affected some Varsity supporters, but those on the inside are confident that the local collegians can turn the trick. These latter argue that it was not so much McGill's strength as Queen's weakness that was responsible for the downfall of the Calvinists. Varsity supporters can depend upon it that the blue and white team will be in the pink of condition to go at a gruelling pace for the full 60 minutes of the game. Coach Dr. Jack Maynard has his players in wonderful shape and on the score of condition alone will have something on McGill. The players were full of "pep" and dash and went through their work with great speed and precision. From the line-up it is inferred that Hobbs, Snyder and Patterson will start on the back division with Murray at quarter. That seems to be the most effective combination. McGill will be strengthened for Saturday by the addition of Flanagan and McGregor, who did not appear in the Queens game. Flanagan is "Shag's" ace on the back field and is a high-class player. He and "Dink" Carroll will likely bear the brunt of the attack, the latter doing the kicking.

Toronto proposes to have another golf course. Shoreacres, near Highland creek, and on the shore of Lake Ontario, is the proposed site. Stanley Thompson, golf architect, has reported favorably on the property. He says a splendid course can be built at a reasonable cost.

There are now four first-class courses in the Border Cities. The pioneer and premier course is the Essex club. There are two in the opposite direction, on Lake St. Clair, and the last and, perhaps, the most important to the community as a whole, is the recently completed public cource at Devonshire park. With the latter open early next year and work completed on the others, golf will undoubtedly boom in the Border Cities in 1922.

The lacrosse revival in Western Ontario this year appears to be permanent. Windsor's team proposes to get together again next season and make a stronger bid for the championship than they did this year, when they were up against several difficulties. Chatham is planning now for a better team for 1922. There is a proposal that the district for the junior league next year shall include Chatham, Wallaceburg, Blenheim and Tilbury, and the intermediate section comprise Windsor, St Thomas, London and Chatham.

Galt Intermediate O.R.F.U. Wins District Honors

Victory Over St. Jerome's College of Kitchener by 6 to 2 Cinches Title

GALT, Oct. 26.—Galt's intermediate O. R. F. U. team won the group title this afternoon by defeating St. Jerome's College, of Kitchener, 6 to 2, thus giving them four straight victories. It was a hard-fought game, the students having a chance to tie up the group with a victory. It was the best and most exciting game witnessed here this year. Breen was the dangerous man of the visitors, while the great booting of Les McCulloch was responsible for Galt's victory, getting two kicks to the deadline, while on other boots rouges were scored. It was a hard tackling game, and, while the visitors had a heavier line, they broke through frequently and were held to small gains. The teams:

TROTTING MEETING AT AMHERSTBURG TO-DAY.

AMHERSTBURG, Oct. 26.—Trotters will race at Amherstburg, October 27, when the speed men there will try out their horses in a local meeting. Races will be held at the fair grounds track and $500 has been offered in prizes for two races in the 2.20 class. Great excitement prevails over a match race between Abidian and Cronge for a purse of $500. The sport has been in vogue in Amherstburg since 1912 and has not lost interest in the community.

Glencoe Hockey Club Will Have New Rink Ready

G. A. Parrott Is Elected President and W.A. Currie Secretary

GLENCOE, Oct. 26. — A meeting of hockey enthusiasts was held in the McKellar House and the following officers were elected for the coming season: Hon. president, Rev. T. H. Charlton; president, G. A. Parrott; secretary, W. A. Currie, Jr.; treasurer, Cameron McPherson; ways and means committee, T. A. Craig, Arthur Davenport, Arnold Aldred and Chester Bechill.

The foundation of the new rink is rapidly nearing completion and will soon be ready for the framework. Messrs. Watson & Holmes, of London, have the contract.

When completed the new rink will be one of the finest in Western Ontario, the ice space will be 60 x 160 feet. It is the intention of the hockey club to bring in an outside man to act as trainer and manager.

HOCKEY MEETING FOR MANUFACTURERS ON FOR TO-NIGHT

A meeting of the Manufacturers' Hockey League will be held to-night at Brisco's store. Entries will be taken and representatives are requested to attend. These meetings will be held regularly until the desired number of teams are entered for the drafting of the schedule.

Phil O'Dowd Gets Better of Lynch

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Phil O'Dowd, Columbus, Ohio, to-night was awarded the judges' decision after a slashing 12-round bout with Joe Lynch, former bantam-weight champion.

It was Lynch's first light since his defeat by Pete Herman in Brooklyn last summer. O'Dowd, who was making his first pugilistic appearance in New York, displayed a cleverness that Lynch was unable to fathom.

O'Dowd used his left to advantage throughout the contest and won eight of the 12 rounds. Lynch had the better of two of the rounds, and honors were even in the other two. The fighting was fast throughout.

Lynch pushed O'Dowd to the floor in the fifth round, after an exchange of body blows. O'Dowd took the count of nine and then came back at Lynch so furiously that he had him groggy at the bell. In the sixth round O'Dowd had Lynch near a knockout after two hard rights to the jaw, Lynch staggering to his corner when the bell rang.

In the last three rounds Lynch tried to stage a comeback, but O'Dowd jabbed him at will and prevented any rally. O'Dowd weighed in at 118¾ pounds and Lynch at 122 pounds.

Re-Elect Heard President of Two-Time Champions

Annual Meeting of Tecumseh Baseball and Athletic Association Held Yesterday

Following the annual meeting of the shareholders of the Tecumseh Baseball and Athletic Association, Limited, owners of the London franchise in the Michigan-Ontario League, which was held yesterday ,the directorate was elected as follows:

Hon. president, C. S. Hyman; president, W. H. Heard; vice-president, N. H. Keene; secretary-treasurer, W. S. Rhodes.

President Heard has received replies from all the clubs in the league, except the Brantford and Hamilton clubs, favoring the holding of the annual meeting of the league any date between now and November 6.

With Manager Wetzel, already busy signing up players, the two-time London champions are now well on the way for another successful season. Wetzel will attend the annual meeting of the National Association, at Buffalo, the week of December 5, with the intention of making deals for some new faces for the Tecumsehs of 1922.

Statistician E. J. L. Stein, of this city, is compiling the averages for the M. and O. league, and expects to issue a complete list of figures for the entire season within the next 10 days. Official scorers in several of the cities are to blame in a great measure for the delay in getting the statistics before the public and the major league clubs, all of whom are anxious to look over the cold dope, with a view of drafting players.

DATE OF ANNUAL.

AUBURN, N.Y., Oct. 26.—The formal call for the twenty-first annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, to be held in Buffalo the week beginning December 5, has been sent out by Secretary John H. Farrell. The notice is issued thus far in advance because of some confusion apparent over the meeting date. Until this year the annual meetings have been held in November, but at a meeting of the minors a year ago, it was voted hereafter meet a month later, many club magnates making the plea that they could not get their business in shape to attend a convention as early as November.

The Buffalo meeting this year will begin with a session of the National Board on December 5. On December 6 the convention in general will begin its sessions, to continue three days. Headquarters of the National Board will be at the Lafayette Hotel, but the Statler and Iroquois hotels will be headquarters for a number of the delegations. Several league meetings will be held in connection with the general convention.

Next game—Western "U." at St. Michael's (Toronto) on Saturday.

GUELPH, Oct. 26.—The Ontario Agricultural College football team registered their first victory in the Intermediate Intercollegiate Rugby Union here this afternoon by defeating the Western University of London by 37 to 0.

The visiting team was so crippled that they gave the locals comparatively little opposition. The score at half time was 22 to 0, and it proved a walkaway. The playing of Wildman, McNiven and Edwards featured. The Aggies scored five trys.

Western's squad deserves a lot of credit for making the trip, as there were four or five of the regulars who failed to accompany the team for the game at Guelph.

This was partly due to the fact that the faculty was to some extent reluctant at allowing those who stayed permission to absent themselves from study. However, Coach Reid made it plain before returning to London to-night that the team who played to-day is the one to represent Western "U." in Saturday's game at Toronto.

Dundas, playing flying wing, was injured early in the first quarter, and Beamer put up a good game as a substitute.

Cowley, Rice and Dockstader, all new to the duties of a back field, having seldom ever been stationed there, allowed the Aggies to score numerous points through more lack of experience than poor play.

Williams, who was unable to go on account of a sore arm, will be the only additional player to accompany the following line-up to Toronto on Saturday:

Western "U."—Flying wing, Dundas; halves, Cowley, Rice and Dockstader; quarter, McMahon; snap, Callaghan; insides, Talbot and Screaton; middles, Sifton and Pridden; outsides, Bailey and Campbell; spares, Williams, Callaghan, Beamer and Haley.

WINDSOR WANTS TO PLAY SOCCER WITH MICHIGAN AND O. F. A.

WINDSOR, Oct. 26.—Discussion of the proposal by the Border Cities Soccer Association and League to affiliate with the Michigan State Soccer League, last night, resulted in an adjournment of the meeting of delegates for the purpose of allowing all members to think the matter over before coming to a conclusion. After hearing the president of the United States Soccer Football Association and the president of the Michigan State Soccer Association, considerable debate followed with arguments for and against the proposal, and the adjournment finally left the matter for later discussion among delegates at another meeting.

The proposal before the soccer players of the Border Cities is to try and arrange to remain affiliated with the Ontario Football Association and also to get sanction from that body to affiliate with the Michigan State Association. This plan, while regarded as a possibility on account of the geographical position of the Border Cities and Detroit, was held by some to be an impossibility. It was believed that the Border League and Association, in affiliation with the Michigan State Association, would not get the sanction of the Ontario nor the Dominion bodies, and would have to break away from the latter two to put their plans of wider scope football in the Detroit-Windsor area into effect.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: Overnight development in the railway labor situation invited an extension of the short interests in the early stages of to-day's stock market. Railway shares were less affected than those industrials and specialties which featured the recent rally. Oils, steels and equipments gave way fractionally to a full point.

MONTREAL STOCKS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—A drop of 11 points in Detroit United Railway from its yesterday's closing figures, at 73 to 62, featured the early trading on the local stock exchange this morning. With this exception, however, nothing of exceptional interest occurred within the first half hour. Abitibi appeared fractionally stronger, at 33. Breweries was unchanged, at 56, while Riordon advanced ¼ point, to 5¼.

The weakness in Detroit is due to the action of the directors yesterday in declaring a stock dividend subject to the approval of the Michigan Board of Public Utilities instead of a cash dividend.

The market's close was not as interesting as its opening. Detroit, the feature of the early trading, closed 2 points higher at 64. The other issues closed practically the same, with the exception of a few fractional changes.

Teck Hughes dropped a point on 2,000 shares and Kirkland Lake lost four points on 1,000 shares. Holly was firm, McIntyre at 187, Atlas at 15 and Keora at 9⅛. Total sales were 19,800. In the silvers, Nipissing dropped to 560, La Rose to 33 and Beaver to 20.

TORONTO STOCKS.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Trading on the local stock exchange this morning was fairly well distributed throughout the entire list, but with no great activity in any particular stock with the one exception of Barcelona. Detroit United, on sales of less than 100 shares, opened at 64, a sheer drop of eight points from Tuesday, declined a further two points to 62, later reacting to 63¼. Atlantic Sugar was off 1⅝ on small sales, and General Electric sold at 93½, as compared with 94 yesterday. Steel of Canada recovered its loss of yesterday afternoon, selling at 61⅛ this morning. New Riordon, in the unlisted, sold at 75c, losing all its gain made earlier in the week.

The declaration of a stock dividend instead of a cash dividend is given as the cause for the weakness in Detroit United.

claimed to attach no especial significance to it.

The joint conference committee, which has held a few sessions during the past few days, has not confined itself to the situation created by Eamon De Valera's message to Pope Benedict, but has discussed all the points involved in Mr. Lloyd George's original offer. A sitting of the conference as a whole is not expected until next Tuesday.

Everywhere it was admitted to-day that the Irish negotiations had made little progress, and, although hope had not been relinquished, there was a tendency to regard the outlook as being less favorable than it was a day or two ago. Political writers remarked that if the negotiations broke down, the premier's trip to America would be obviously impossible, while, if a break in the conference was avoided, it was difficult to see how a settlement could be reached for a considerable time. The accumulation of other pressing business was also urged in home quarters as contributing to the improbability that the prime minister would be able to carry out his desire to go to the Washington conference.

GREAT SECRECY OBSERVED.

Various reports concerning the Irish negotiations were current here to-day, but they carried little weight, owing to the secrecy observed by both sides. The Daily Graphic printed a rumor that the negotiations had been suspended and that an important communication was expected from Dublin. Elsewhere it was stated attempts to find a desired formula by which the conference could be continued had failed and that the Irish delegates were holding out for concessions that would counterbalance any lessening of their demand for independence.

It was said the Dail Eireann representatives were insistently urging the claims of the Catholic populations of the counties of Tyrone and Fermanagh for inclusion in Southern Ireland, it being added that the Irish delegates were maintaining a stiff attitude in this particular. Another report declared the question of Irish unity was the main stumbling block.

In the meantime the restiveness of the English Unionists was manifestly increasing, and, although many Unionist members of Parliament still refused to subscribe to the proposed vote of censure of the Government, their suspicions toward the negotiations were said to be growing. Newspapers which at first minimized the importance of this Unionist "revolt" were treating it more seriously to-day. The London Times asserted it was "enough to cause some embarrassment to the Government and cannot be ignored."

ONE CHANCE OF PEACE.

The newspaper nevertheless expressed belief that the revolt would rapidly disappear if there were signs the Irish conference was proceeding smoothly on its main business. It added that if the Sinn Feiners "pay attention to the state of political opinions here, they will recognize the importance of imposing no unnecessary delay."

Austen Chamberlain, Unionist member of the Coalition Government, yesterday received a number of Unionist agents from all parts of the country. These reported the difficulty they were experiencing throughout their constituencies in reconciling Unionist opinions to many acts of the Lloyd George administration. They urged formation of a new coalition party in which the Unionists would predominate, but Mr. Chamberlain's reply was noncommittal.

REPUBLICANS ACTIVE.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Reports in Belfast indicate that the Irish republican army is very active in County Donegal. A company of volunteers, it is said, early this week took up quarters in the Milford workhouse and these were followed by large bodies of officers who called in Milford traders and obtained signed agreements not to replenish their stocks with Belfast goods or deal with Londonderry black listed houses. A force, numbering 800 men, is said to have marched through the Village of Milford and to have proceeded to assigned quarters. A party described as "the flying column," is staying at the workhouse. The headquarters of the Letterkenny Irish republican camp are said to be at the sumptuously equipped shooting lodge. Another camp is said to have been established at Carrick.

The volunteers are understood to be called up in batches of 100 men for 10 days' compulsory training.

U.S. CONSUL ASSAULTED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Lloyd Burlingham, United States consul at Salina Cruz, Mexico, was assaulted and stabbed by unidentified assailants in the consulate last Monday night, according to advices to-day to the state department.

Need of Civic

LONG STANDING PROBLEM.

One problem of long standing is the form of government by which the city is to be controlled. Dr. Wilson pointed out that there had been much criticism in years past with the results achieved under the present form of government. There had been many suggestions, such as a city manager and commission form of government. The latter had been voted on by the citizens and been approved, but had been turned down by the Provincial Government. It was possible that this was a good thing, as this type of government had not proved the most satisfactory in some American cities where it had been tried out. Personally, the speaker believed that the present government of 12 aldermen and a mayor was a satisfactory system if those elected carried out their duties in the best interests of the city. He declared that it was the duty of the Council to enumerate the policies to be pursued by the city and it was the duty of the heads of departments to carry them out. The difficulty had been in the past that the Council had enunciated the policies and then attempted to carry them out as well in opposition to expert advice.

Ald. Wilson expressed himself in favor of the reorganization of the civic departments with a view to increased efficiency and the cutting down of overhead expenses. He believed that in this way the city might be saved much money. The administration of the financial affairs of a city were no different than the administration of the financial affairs of a large financial organization. In the latter the departments were inter-dependant, but in the city each was conducted separately. A means should be evolved by which they might be brought together.

FINANCIAL SITUATION.

Touching on the financial situation in the city the alderman pointed out that the assessment and taxes had both increased. The increased assessment, he declared, was for the purpose of increasing the borrowing powers of the city. This could not continue for any length of time, however. The danger point had now been reached. The policy should be one of the utmost economy and retrenchment to bring the tax rate down.

During the present year the speaker stated that the tax rate had been 24.5 mills with the increased assessment. Next year there were many things which the city would be called upon to provide money for. The mothers' pensions would cost the city a good sum; the good roads program would cost some $270,000; the children's hospital upkeep would cost some $60,000. In addition to this a sewage disposal plant would be needed within the next two years which would cost some $500,000.

REDUCE EXPENDITURES.

While debentures to the amount of $1,783,000 were issued this year, only $400,000 of debentures were retired, the speaker pointed out. He wanted to know how long the government of the city could continue at this rate.

Touching on street paving and sewers Ald. Wilson declared that the expenditures on these must be greatly decreased in the next year. He declared that the main highways should be paved but the intersecting streets should for the present be kept in their best possible state of repair until the city was in shape financially to go ahead with a general pavement program.

There were a number of very large sums which would have to be provided by the city within a short time. There was the Western University grant of $250,000, on which the taxpayers would vote at the coming election. The Western University was a great thing for the city, and he asked that the citizens of London get behind it. He touched also on the fact that a new nurses' home for Victoria Hospital, at a cost of $300,000, must be provided also. These vast sums must be provided and retrenchment should be instituted wherever possible.

The speaker pointed out that the Council had only the expenditure of 24 per cent. of the taxes, or less than 10 mills. The Board of Education controlled the expenditure of some 36 per cent. of the total and the remainder was expended by the Hospital Trust, police commission and other like bodies.

Among the other problems to be faced by the city was the settlement of the transportation; a readjustment of the gas rates when agreement allowing the City Gas Company increased rates expires in May next; the matter of a juvenile court for the city. These were a few of the problems which would devolve upon the officials elected by the citizens in December.

Over $1,734,000

the annual fixed charges will be increased by $26,155.36 if the debentures are issued for 20 years, or by $21,794.67 if the debt is spread over 30 years.

Following is a list of debentures issued this year, and which will entail an annual charge of more than $69,000 on the taxpayers.

Nonrevenue-producing: Storm sewers, $175,00; public schools, $242,800; Collegiate Institute, $265,00; Collegiate Institute furniture, $41,000; Technica and Art equipment, $12,000; public school equipment, $7,765; Technical and Art land purchase, $10,500; Memorial Hospital for Sick Children, $13,000, and $50,000; Home for Incurables, $50,000.

Revenue-producing: London & Port Stanley Railway, $257,000; waterworks, $135,000; electric light, $125,000; housing commission, $300,000.

The amount expended on the paving plant, $50,000, is also included in the total list, but this is paid by the ratepayers in their paving taxes, and it is not considered in estimating the total outlay from taxes for meeting the interest and sinking fund of the nonrevenue-producing debentures, which is placed at $69,591.

DELAY START ON NURSES' HOME

Acting-Mayor Harley Suggests Year's Postponement.

NOT REQUIRED YET

Says There Is No Need For It For Year Or Two At Least.

Acting-Myor Harley to-day suggested that the construction of the new nurses' home could be postponed for a year or so to the general advantage of the city. While the request for a debenture issue of $300,000 cannot be placed before the ratepayers in December, there is a move to have the issue authorized through the City of London bill. It is believed that the opposition before the Legislature to this would be such that the request would not be granted and this might have the effect of postponing the whole plan indefinitely. In this connection it is pointed out that it would be infinitely harder to secure the approval of the ratepayers next year for an expenditure that had been refused a place in the City of London bill by the Legislature than if it had not been asked for previously.

Ald. Harley points out that the hospital for sick children will surely not be filled to capacity for the first few years and some accommodation might be had there for the nurses who cannot find a place in the present nurses' home. If this could be done, and he can see no reason why it should not, there would be no necessity for commencing the new home for one or two years at least.

This is the general opinion among the aldermen, so far as it can be learned; in fact, it was expected by the majority of the members of the Council that the request for this debenture issue would be withdrawn before the next meeting of No. 1 Committee.

DISCOVER MEANEST MAN IN WEST. ONTARIO

The meanest man in Western Ontario, probably in Canada, has been discovered. A city hall official to-day reported a case that takes first, second and third prizes for canniness, and the aforesaid prizes may be awarded in a few days.

The official mentioned states that a man and his wife live in one of the outlying townships of Middlesex County. The wife, under a custom hallowed by precedent, enjoys an allowance, this allowance being all the eggs the chickens lay which the lord of the manor or freehold does not desire himself.

This good wife saved eggs with an eye to purchasing a handsome calico dress. Hens were encouraged to do their duty, and they did it nobly. Finally, with dozens of eggs in a large basket, the housewife set forth to Ingersoll. Arriving there she traded in the eggs for the dress of her desire.

But it developed that the eggs did not quite come up to the value of the dress. There was, in fact, a balance of 15 cents. That amount the merchant kindly consented to charge against the husband pending the receipt of more eggs. The wife departed for her long trudge back home, happy with the new calico dress.

A few days later Mr. Mean Man went to Ingersoll and for some reason asked a statement of his account. Horrors! Friend wife had had 15 cents charged against him! Mr. Mean Man at once, so the story goes, inserted an advertisement in the weekly paper to this effect: "Take notice, I M. Man, will no longer be responsible for the debts of my wife, Sarah Ann Man." The ad. cost 32 cents, it is understood.

LARGE ENROLLMENT AT EVENING CLASSES

Principal Beal Announces That 1,161 Students Are Taking Night Studies At Technical.

There are 1,161 students enrolled in the evening classes at the Technical School, according to a report presented by Principal Beal to the technical and art advisory committee at a meeting held in the school offices at noon today.

A vote of thanks was extended to Gordon Ingram, James Gray, T. A. McMahen, W. N. Manning and Ray Lawson for the gold medals presented by them for the field day sports.

The offer of the Institute of Musical Art for the use of the auditorium for the literary society of the Technical School was gratefully accepted.

H. Marshall was added to the staff of extra instructors in the machine shop department for the year commencing on November 1.

It was also decided that J. E. Elliott will be placed on the staff of permanent teachers of the commercial department.

MAY SECURE TOWN PLAN EXHIBIT FROM OTTAWA

Committee To Appoint Delegation At To-Night's Session.

Delegates to the approaching town planning and housing convention in Toronto on October 31 and November 1, will be appointed at to-night's meeting of the city town planning committee.

There is also a possibility that London may secure a Dominion Government town planning exhibit that is being shown in Toronto next week. The matter will probably be taken up to-night and further information secured.

That exhibit, it was stated, was arranged by the federal parks and air boards and is unusually interesting and attractive. If secured for London, the armories may be secured so that every citizen in London may see it.

SEND GREETINGS TO PADUA "U"

Western Board of Governors Note Sept.-Centenary.

FROM NEW WORLD TO OLD

Illuminated Message to Be Sent To Italian School.

Seven hundred years ago, a century and a half before the discovery of the New World, nearly a century before the fall of Constantinople and the Empire of the East, the University of Padua was founded in the Italian city of that name.

Yesterday Western University's board of governors, representing one of the world's youngest universities, sent greetings to the ancient institution now celebrating its sept-centennial. The greetings will go forward in illuminated missal form, signed by the governors and faculty members, in which Western "U" will express its affection for one of the great institutions that fostered the rebirth of culture in what is now termed the renaissance period of history, in which the darkness of medievalism fled before the dawn of modernity.

BRITISH BUSINESS FIRMS SUFFER AS RESULT OF HIGHER POSTAL RATE

LONDON, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Business houses here which have much correspondence from Canada continue to suffer exasperations at the number of letters surcharged upon arrival here, due, seemingly, to the new Canadian rates of postage to Great Britain not being yet grasped by the senders of the letters. The postage rate on letters from Canada to the British Isles is now 4 cents for the first ounce and 3 cents for each subsequent ounce.

The English business community continues to gird against British postal service on account of economies connected therewith which, it is alleged, are not true economies, but merely restrictions upon the revival of business. The postmaster-general, Rt. Hon. F. G. Kellaway, in the House of Commons last night gave assurance that the matter would receive consideration as soon as the postal finances permitted. This was taken as cold comfort.

STRATFORD BRAKEMAN SUFFERS INJURED FOOT

Frank King, a brakeman on the Grand Trunk, residing on Rebecca street, Stratford, received a painful injury to his right foot when he was thrown from the top of a box car, which jumped the track near the race course, west of Egerton street, yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock.

A freight from Stratford had just arrived and a number of cars were being placed in the shunting yards when the car on which King was riding jumped the rails in some manner and leaned over to one side at a precipitous angle, so that he was unable to retain his footing.

Dr. Clegg, the G.T.R. physician, was called and had the injured man removed to Victoria Hospital.

LIFE IN PRISON TAKING HEALTH FROM GARFIELD

BROTHER WAS HANGED IN WOODSTOCK JAIL

Brothers Did Not See One Another After Tragic Meeting In Courtroom.

Tortured night and day with the ory picture of a brother sent to the gallows, Denton Garfield, who is serving a 20-year sentence in Portsmouth penitentiary in connection with the murder of Ben Johnston, Woodstock confectioner, has failed rapidly since being sent to Kingston. This is the word of officials who have been at the Kingston institution.

Charged with his brother, Norman, with the murder of the Woodstock man, Denton Garfield, on the eve of the trial, sent for the crown attorney and signed a statement in which he swore that his brother had fired the shot that killed Mr. Johnston. He was tried first for the crime and was found guilty of manslaughter by the jury and was sentenced to 20 years. Norman Garfield was found guilty of first degree murder and was later hanged in the jail yard at the Oxford County jail.

LAST TIME TOGETHER.

After the trial the brothers who were comrades in crime did not see one another again. They saw one another for the last time in the courtroom after the younger brother had given testimony as to the happenings on the night of the murder. When the younger was removed to Kingston penitentiary, neither brother wanted to see the other.

Denton Garfield has been confined in the infirmary at the penitentiary and is said to have failed terribly in health since he was sentenced. He was for a time employed in the laundry in the Kingston institution, but had to be removed from there and sent to the hospitoal n account of his sickness.

SCORE SCHOOLS' USE FOR POLLS

Citizens Alarmed At Plethora of Holidays.

IS FALSE ECONOMY

Must Make Other Arrangements Next Year.

Many parents of the city are criticizing the Board of Education for closing the schools on Monday, December 5, to allow buildings to be used for the municipal polling. It has been the custom for the last few years to use the schools for this purpose and this saves the ratepayers a small sum annually. The Council pays the Board of Education for the use of the schools, but the money is still expended for civic purposes by the board. There was no objection so long as the voting was done on New Year's, but it is now contended that the work of the schools should not be stopped, even if a little money is saved thereby.

In this connection it is pointed out that there are so many holidays now that the children are not being given their just dues. The teachers' salaries continue, no matter how many additional holidays are given, but every extra day that the schools are closed to the pupils brings about a direct loss to the children and to the community as a whole, it is asserted. Some of the trustees are not at all favorable to allowing the voting to be carried out in the schools this year for this reason. Nothing can be done about it now, although it is more than probable that the Council will be compelled to secure other polling booths next year.

WOMEN IN DANGER FROM FIRE ABOARD COLLIER

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—One woman had to be carried off the William B. Hall, collier, from Erie, Pa., when fire broke out on board the ship last night and badly damaged the cabin.

The fire was first discovered by Miss Helen Lalonde, sister of the captain, who saw smoke coming from below and gave the alarm. Miss Corinne St. Marseille, of Montreal, who also traveled on the ship and had sprained her ankle in the afternoon, was carried up the ladder by Miss Lalonde.

Five streams were used before the fire was brought under control.

1,500 BOYS TO START CAMPAIGN NEXT WEEK FOR A HEALTHIER, CLEANER, PRETTIER LONDON

SURVEY OF FOUR WARDS WILL BE FIRST ACTION

A cleaner, healthier, more beautiful London is the ideal for which 1,500 boys will work next week. At the request of the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary Club all the organized boys' groups in the city will commence next Monday a six-day community service campaign, the like of which has not been known in the history of the Forest City.

Under competent leadership a survey of the four wards will be made and the city divided into 12 or 16 sections. To different organizations will be allotted various sections of the community and they will be charged with the responsibility of seeing that there is not a backyard, lane or vacant lot at which a visitor might point the finger of scorn.

Half of the lads who are interested in the campaign and who are partly responsible for its inception are the Tuxis boys and Trail Rangers, who are organized in the Boys' Council of the city. Co-operating with them are the Boy Scouts, the Roman Catholic League, the Young Judean Club and the junior members of the Y. M. C. A. These six organizations are "all set" and awaiting the word "go" that will start them off on the big service movement for London.

MOVEMENT SPREADS.

This fall's campaign is attributable to the success of the initial "clean-up" campaign. Only the Boys' Council took part in that canvass of the city, but this year, through the solicitation of the business men of the city, the movement has spread to all the boys' organizations which are interested in a better London. Rotarians, members of the Chamber of Commerce and others who know the true meaning of service realize the great work which the boys of the city have done and can do with sufficient encouragement.

The lads who are taking part in the effort are for the most 'teen aged. From 12 to 20 are the ages of the embryonic citizens who are evidencing a real civic interest and pride, and their leaders are for the most part young men, seasoned with a few more years' experience and capable of directing the ambitions of the younger ones in their charge. Back of the whole effort is the boys' work board consisting of prominent business men who have the true altruistic spirit.

LEADERS SELECTED.

Boy Scouts will be lined up to the work by George Metcalf and M. Hotton; the Roman Catholic League has Brothers Theobold and Gregory for leaders; the Young Judean Club is directed by I. Goldstick and Mayer Lerner; the Boys' Council by Mayor Allan Kay and Dave Finlayson; and the Y. M. C. A. juniors fook to Wilfred Spearman for leadership. Over 60 different groups and 1,500 boys are represented in these organizations.

The boys have declared war, not only on all accumulations of filth and rubbish, but on those places which are a menace to health and life. Breeding places for flies and germs will be raided, and deposits of paper, straw and wood which endanger property through fire will all be looked after in the community service campaign. Back yards, downtown as well as in the residential districts, come under the scope of the survey.

In another practical way the boys are showing the spirit of service. This concerns their offer to help all widows, infirm and aged people, with their all clean-up. Leaves will be raked up, ashes removed from cellar or yard and other acts of kindness done for all persons who are physically incapacitated.

BOARD CO-OPERATES.

The Board of Health is again co-operating with the organizations and any instances of particular filth will be dealt with by that department if reported to them by the boys. Mayor Little will also sign a proclamation calling upon all citizens to do their duty in the campaign, which has for its objective a bigger, better, more prosperous city of which everyone may be proud.

FEARS CRASH, JUMPS; FATHER NONORQUE KILLED

EDMUNSTON, N. B., Oct. 28. — Alighting on his head when he jumped from the automobile of a friend because he feared a collision with another rapidly-approaching motor car, Rev. Father Louis Nonorgue, of Eagle Lake district, on Wednesday, received injuries which caused his death. There was no collision, the cars being checked before meeting each other.

Self-Confessed Owner of Grand Trunk Pays $2.25 For Ticket He Forgot

A small debt like $2.25 is nothing in the young life of Charles Vanwillier, the self-confessed owner of the Grand Trunk Railway, who was arrested on the train between Toronto to Brantford, charged with "beating" his way.

In court in Brantford the charge was changed to that of owing the Grand Trunk Railway $2.25, the price of his ticket.

It was impressed upon Owner Vanwillier that while a corporate company might owe a score of millions and get away with it, the original owner of that company could not remain in its debt to the extent of $2.25 without chancing trouble.

He paid the sum due and costs and left the courtroom vowing to lose no time in making sweeping changes in the road's management.

RAIL MEN GLAD STRIKE AVERTED

Walkout In States Would Have Paralyzed Freight Traffic.

WILL REMAIN AT WORK

Local Men To Decide On 12½ Per Cent. Reduction Soon.

The announcement from Chicago that the threatened strike has been averted was gladly received by the local officials, as a walkout by the United States railway men would no doubt have paralyzed the freight traffic to and from the United States.

"I believe that railway men of the United States adopted a wise policy when they decided to remain at work," said one of the prominent officials today.

Representatives of the Canadian railway employees are in Montreal negotiating with the owners and are having matters readjusted in this manner.

The conciliation board is expected to make its decision shortly as to whether or not it favors the appeal of the employees against the 12½ per cent. reduction made effective on the Canadian lines last July.

Joseph Corbett, representing the G. T. R. car men; James Grieves and A. H. Ball, of London, are among the railway men representing the employees.

HOUSE CERTAIN TO SUPPORT PREMIER

Lloyd George Will Likely Get Mandate To Proceed With Parley.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The Irish conference has been suspended until after next Monday, the day set for a discussion in the House of Commons of the Government's policy in dealing with representatives of the Dail Eireann. Even the meetings of the committee representing the Government and Sinn Fein delegates have been suspended for to-day and to-morrow.

According to information obtained at Sinn Fein headquarters to-day, however, Prime Minister Lloyd George and Lord Chancellor Birkenhead may meet Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins, the Irish members of the committee, on Monday. Some of the members of the Dail delegation, anticipating a blank week-end, had arranged to return to Ireland to-night, but Mr. Griffith asked them to remain in London, lest their return be misunderstood. Moreover, he desired that the delegation should review together the whole situation, preparatory to Monday's debate in the Commons. Sinn Fein circles were not apprehensive to-day regarding the debate, some of them saying it would serve to "clear the air," to bring out the essentials and enable them to see how far Parliament would authorize the prime minister to go. If they think this authorization should not extend far enough they intimated the conference might be broken off.

A LATE ARRIVAL.

The latest arrival at Sinn Fein headquarters is William Mellowes, a member of the Dail Eireann and one of the organizers of the Easter rebellion, who commanded the rebels in Galway and later escaped to the United States.

Prime Minister Lloyd George will confront the House of Commons next Monday to ask for a mandate relative to the continuance of the negotiations between delegates of the Government and the Dail Eireann. Announcement to this effect by the prime minister yesterday brought to a head the seemingly serious situation which has developed during the past fortnight by the alleged defection of Unionist leaders and constituencies from support of the coalition Government.

7 WEEKS' COURSE FOR S. S. LEADERS

Lectures For Sunday School Teachers Begin Thursday.

COVER WIDE FIELD

London First City In Province To Initiate Plan.

As a result of the enterprise of the local Religious Education Council, London will be the first Canadian city to institute a teachers' training course that will provide leadership for all branches of boys' work. Next Thursday will mark the commencement of a seven-week class, in which every Protestant church will be represented, it is hoped.

The idea was also brought up at the annual convention of the Religious Education Council for Western Ontario which was concluded in Brantford yesterday. The London delegates, who explained their tentative program, state that there was a wealth of sentiment developed in its favor which will probably result in many other communities adopting the scheme and putting it into operation throughout the province.

All teachers, prospective teachers, officers of Sunday school organizations and others who are vitally interested in boys' work are requested to attend this initial meeting on Thursday. G. W. Hofferd, president of the London Religious Education Council, will preside at this class and will commence the study of the textbook "The Teacher," by L. A. Weigle.

GROUP STUDY

At 8.45 each night students of the course will divide into their respective groups for practical study of their own class or group. The men in charge of the boys will take up the following studies: November 3: "The Leaders' Material." November 10: "Leaders' Lesson Plans." November 17: "The Leader Securing Attention." November 24: "The Leader Questioning or Lecturing." December 1: "The Leader Reviewing." December 8: "Test of Bible Teaching. December 15. Problem night.

Group games will also be conducted for the benefit of the leaders in boys' work, so that teachers may be able to participate in and direct the weekday activities of the lads in their care. The program looks toward the all-round development of each boy so that play must be mixed with study if the leader is to successfully manage his class.

In addition to the classes which meet every Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A., there will also be a study course arranged for Sunday afternoons in the individual churches. Teachers and leaders who are not actively engaged at present in the work but are prospective leaders will be formed into classes and will study similar textbooks to those in use on Thursday nights. In this way every student will get several hours' instruction every week.

NOTED DOCTORS TO BE PRINCIPAL SPEAKERS

Dr. Lewellys F. Baker, of Baltimore, to Address Western Ontario Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, of Baltimore, M. D., will be chief speaker at the Western Ontario Academy of Medicine session at the new medical school on November 4. Dr. Barker is a former Western Ontario man, Dr. F. W. Hughes, president of the medical organization, stated, and one of the foremost medical men on the continent.

Dr. Barker will give a clinic in medicine, in which several patients will be brought in for examination. Their symptoms will be discussed and remedies and methods of treatment suggested.

The clinic will be held in the medical school auditorium and will begin just before 3 p. m. of the date mentioned. At noon of November 4 Dr. Barker will be the guest of the Canadian Club at luncheon.

The coming session of the academy will also be marked by the unveiling of the new children's hospital memorial tablet. Every section of Western Ontario will be represented by medical men at the ceremony, at which the lieutenant-governor of Ontario will officiate.

HEADS WINDSOR TEACHERS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—J. E. Benson, inspector of Windsor public schools, was elected president of the Windsor Teachers' Institute to-day. He succeeds Miss Mary Robinson.

LABOR FORCES DECIDE TO-NIGHT ON CANDIDATE

Indication That Riding Will Be Contested By Special Representative of Labor.

MAY OTHERWISE SUPPORT ONE OF OLD PARTY MEN

Not Under Any Circumstances Will Labor Support C. R. Somerville.

London labor will to-night complete its plans for the federal election at a convention to be held in the Labor Temple. Delegates expected to number from 150 to 200 will decide the policy to be pursued by the London branch of the Canadian Labor party. If it is decided to put a candidate in the field, as appears likely, the standard-bearer will be named by the delegates.

While many labor men appear to favor putting a candidate in the field, this will rest altogether with the convention. A number of men prominently connected with labor have been mentioned in connection with a Labor Candidacy, but these have only been personal views expressed by various labor men in the city. It will be the body of the convention, whose views are unknown, that will actually decide the policy to be pursued.

NO CHANCE FOR SOMERVILLE

Should the convention decide not to place a candidate in the field, it is said that they would throw their support behind one of the other candidates who will contest the seat. Prominent Liberals within the past few days expressed the conviction that the convention would place itself on record in support of the Liberal candidate, C. R. Somerville, but labor men to whose ears these reports have come, declare that while it might be possible for Labor to support some other Liberal candidate, it could not possibly get behind the present Liberal candidate.

The campaign in London is now beginning to take definite shape. With the Labor convention to-night and the convention of the National Liberal and Conservative on Monday night, the electors will be able to see exactly how the land lies as far as London is concerned. If Labor decides to put a candidate in the field, the electors on Monday will in all probability be able to weigh the three candidates side by side.

In addition to deciding their policy for the federal campaign at the convention to-night, the London branch of the Canadian Labor party will also complete organization. At the present time temporary officers only have been elected and the convention will elect the permanent officers for the new party.

RAIL LAYING NOW NEAR COMPLETION

G. T. R. Finishes 89 Miles of New 100-Pound Steel.

SEASON'S WORK IS DONE

Link From Woodstock To Sand Pit Will End It.

The rail-laying program for the London division of the Grand Trunk is nearing completion and 89 miles of new 100-pound rails have been laid on the London division of the Grand Trunk this year.

The gangs have about finished the 27 miles of new track between Woodstock and the Sand Pit. When this is completed the railway will have new rail from Paris to London and also from Junction Cut to Mimico.

The Grand Trunk is contemplating laying new rail west of London, but it is not definitely known whether this will be commenced this year or left over until next spring.

The east-bound track, covering the 89 miles, was laid last year, and the west-bound track has been replaced with new steel this year. The railway has also laid a large quantity of new rail in the eastern district.

START ERECTION HALE ST. CHURCH

Four Corner Stones Will Be Laid On Thanksgiving Day.

On Thanksgiving Day, at 2 o'clock, the four corner stones of the new Methodist Church on Hale street will be laid. Mayor E. S. Little, acting in behalf of the congregation, will lay the first corner stone; Mrs. A. A. Langford, acting for the Ladies' Aid of the church, lays the second stone; Reginald Hudson, representing the Epworth League, will lay the third stone, and Rev. L. W. Reid, acting for the Sunday school, will lay the fourth.

The plans for the erection of the Sunday school call for the provision of several different departments, including the new beginners, the primary class, juniors, the young people and the adults.

The church, when completed, will have three mezzanine floors at the back, which will help take the bare look off the interior which is so noticeable in most churches. These floors will be partitioned off into various rooms and will be used by the different clubs and associations connected with the church at the various meeting nights.

The church will be made of white stone and pressed red brick and, when completed, will be one of the most up-to-date structures in this locality.

Rev. Dr. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist churches in Canada, will have charge of the services on Thanksgiving Day.

BRITAIN OFFERS BIG CAREERS TO WESTERN GRADS.

Imperial Civil Service Open To College Men Without Examinations.

FACULTY RECOMMENDS GRADUATES FOR POSTS

Usual Tests Are Rigid and Faculty Regards Arrangements As Complimentary.

Western University is to-day in receipt of a communication from the British colonial office, of which the Right Honorable Winston Churchill is secretary, stating that not only is the British diplomatic service open to recommended graduates of Western University, but that the whole imperial civil service is also open to Western University men and women along with graduates of colleges throughout the United Kingdom and self-governing dominions.

It was stated that admission to the empire's civil service from Western University will be on recommendation of the faculty and not by the customary examination. The usual tests for admission to the various civilian services, it is stated, are most rigid. The waiving of such examinations in Western's behalf shows that a man or woman graduated from that institution is able to fill positions of the highest executive importance throughout the known world.

OPEN TO WOMEN.

It was also pointed out that the new opportunity afforded through the British colonial office is open to both men and women. For while the official diplomatic corps is still reserved to men, thousands of women are being employed in the other imperial services.

Another point is that the university's recently established employment service, which plans to place undergraduates working their way through college in temporary positions, and graduates in permanent positions, will be given a tremendous impetus. In that department's hands will be placed appointments to the four corners of the earth, a feature that will particularly appeal to more adventurous spirits not bound by home ties.

The civil service of Great Britain is composed of all officers of the crown in the administration of the civil affairs of the empire. The service is divided into various departments, such as the home office, foreign office, the treasury and the Indian office. All persons who served in an established capacity in the permanent civil service of the empire are entitled to a superannuation allowance. The optional retiring age is 60 and the compulsory age is 65. Those retiring because of ill-health are awarded pensions based on the length of their service.

TROOPS AROUND ABBEY WHERE CHARLES LODGES

Allied Commissioners Make Sure That Former Monarch is Safe.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 28.—British, French and Italian military commissioners to Hungary visited the Benedictine Abbey at Tihany yesterday and later made official affidavits that former Emperor Charles and former Empress Zita were lodged there. The abbey is isolated by a cordon of troops.

Hungarian aristocracy involved in the conspiracy to place Charles on the Hungarian throne is now engaged in a bitter fight in the political arena. Small landowners and the landed aristocracy are arrayed against each other in a conflict which is expected to result in stormy scenes in the national assembly in the next few days.

The peasants have won the first phase of the battle. Count Julius Andrassy, who is of close kinship to the Hagsburg dynasty, is in prison; Count Albert Apponyi is under surveillance, and a warrant has been issued for the arrest of Count Anton Sigray, who is alleged to have turned over his command at Oedenburg to Karlist generals following the arrival of the former emperor from Switzerland.

Health Failing

DENTON GARFIELD, sentenced to 20 years for part in murder of Ben. Johnson, who is reported to be in poor physical condition.

NO VOTE THIS YEAR ON GAS

Must First Reach Agreement With Natural Gas Company.

OPINION OF THE OFFICIALS

Ald. W. A. Wilson, However, Has Not Given Up Hope Yet.

While Chairman Ald. W. A. Wilson, of the special gas committee of the Council, and the Chamber of Commerce has not yet given up hope of having a natural gas proposition submitted to the ratepayers on December 5, it is the general opinion in civic circles to-day that there can be no vote on this question this year. The committee held a secret session with City Solicitor Meredith yesterday afternoon to consider the question. It is understood that Mr. Meredith pointed out the impossibility of submitting a by-law to the ratepayers until some sort of an agreement has been reached among the three parties to such agreement. In this instance the City Council is the only one of the three principals that has agreed to any proposition. Unless the City Gas Company and the Progressive Gas and Oil Company also are willing to abide by the terms suggested by the Council there can be no by-law submitted.

Both the gas companies concerned have refused to accept the terms approved by the Council, whereby the city would take natural gas at 85 cents per thousand for a short term, ending in May next, and the mixing of the natural and the artificial products would be done at the Horton street gas plant. The City Gas Company absolutely refuses to lay the necessary mains within the city limits to accomplish this and the natural gas company has notified the city that it has already sold the gas from the Saul wells to other municipalities. In view of these conditions the aldermen question how any proposition can be placed before the voters in the coming municipal elections.

ARE NOT OPTIMISTIC.

The special gas committee decided yesterday, however, to ask the City Gas Company to submit some proposition which would be acceptable to it for the distribution of natural gas in the city. When this is received another meeting of the committee will be called to see what steps can be taken. But several members of this special committee are not at all optimistic regarding the outcome. In fact, they contend that it is useless now to try to do anything more to secure the gas at this time. Even if the City Gas Company proposes an agreement that would be approved by the city there are yet the owners of the natural gas to consult, and, according to a statement of the Progressive Gas and Oil officials, that company is not now in a position to negotiate with the city.

There are some who also question whether it would be wise to expend $500 in taking a vote on the question. It is not definitely assured that the supply of gas in the Crumlin field is large, and even if a by-law could be prepared and submitted there would be some opposition to it in the Council for reasons of economy. It is pointed out that the city should not make any expenditure on the natural gas problem until it is known whether the supply is large enough to make it worth while. At any rate it is the consensus of opinion among those who are in a position to know that there will be no vote on the proposition this year.

ENTOMBED SEVEN DAYS, MINERS ARE RESCUED

BRITANNIA BEACH, B. C., Oct. 28.—Two miners were rescued last night from a shaft at the 2,300-foot level in the copper mines here, after exactly a week in the narrow shaft. The men, Francis Patenaude and L. P. Craig, were working in the narrow shaft last Thursday evening when a rock slide closed the mouth of the shaft. A little food, a trickle of water and air from a tiny aperature near the top of the shaft kept the men alive while their workmates slaved day and night to remove the obstruction and set them free. The last boulder was removed at sundown yesterday and rescue gangs entered the shaft.

Craig and Patenaude are in the hospital and are reported to be doing well.

OFFICIAL RECALL OF STRIKE ORDER HAS BEEN ISSUED

Walkout Cloud Fades As Big Five Leaders Flash Word To Remain At Work.

LEADERS SAY FINAL VOTE WAS VERY CLOSE

No Strike Would Now Be Effective Until a New Ballot Is Taken.

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—The official recall of the rail strike orders, issued by the switchmen, trainmen, conductors, engineers and firemen, were dispatched to-day when leaders of the "Big Five" flashed code messages to their general chairmen. The chairmen will relay the messages to the locals.

Similar orders probably will be dispatched to-day by the telegraphers' organization, the only other union that had voted to participate in the strike scheduled to begin on Sunday and which had threatened to tie up the nation's transportation facilities.

While these orders are being circulated, the United Stated railroad labor board will to-day announce its findings as a result of the public hearing on Wednesday, at which union leaders and railroad executives testified. This declaration, it was expected, would analyze the situation and its outcome, the board, according to one member, feeling that the matter was now out of its hands. The vote ending the strike came late last night, after all-day sessions of the union leaders. Early in the day general chairmen of each of the five organizations conferred separately. In the afternoon a joint session was held, which was addressed by Ben W. Hooper, of the labor board. Mr. Hooper's appearance before the board is said by union leaders to have marked the turning point which led to the final decision.

VOTE CLOSE.

While the vote by organizations was said to have been unanimous, union men asserted to-day that the vote in the various unions was close and that the firemen, in particular, long remained obdurate.

The final decision seemed pleasing to union men, rail executives and the labor board alike. Union leaders pointed out that they had determined that they could not strike without opposing both the labor board and the administration, while they asserted their real quarrel was with the roads.

Railroad executives expressed satisfaction over the decision, while members of the labor board characterized the action as one the unions will never regret and which has averted inconceivable hardship and an internal industrial dispute on the eve of the international conference at Washington on limitation of armament.

Labor chieftains to-day asserted that their action of yesterday marked the end of all danger of a strike as the result of the strike vote taken by the unions, no walkout now being effective until a new vote is taken. No plans are being made for a new strike vote, W. G. Lee, chief of the trainmen, said.

PLANS WERE ALL MADE.

Complete plans to avert the most serious handicaps of the threatened railroad strike, which was called off last night, had been made by the Government while the strike still appeared a certainty, District Attorney Cline made known to-day.

Application for injunctions restraining the brotherhood chiefs from carrying out the strike with orders neces-

Code Messages Stopped Big Rail Strike

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.) — E. J. Manion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, to-day sent coded telegrams to general chairmen of the order on the various railroads, informing them officially that the strike scheduled for October 30 has been called off.

"Ant is long; life is short," read one of the messages.

"Where there are bees there is honey."

"Smith is a mighty man."

"Your accounts have been audited and found correct."

"More enduring than bronze."

The messages were dispatched by clerks to general chairmen of their respective organizations.

On receipt of the messages the general chairmen will open sealed letters sent to them with the strike orders and if they correspond, will relay to the local chairmen, who in turn will notify the membership.

LONDON RADIO AMATEURS HEAR VOICE OF GEN. FOCH GREETING U. S. VETERANS

Western University's recently formed wireless club had the opportunity last night of hearing Marshal Foch send a message of greeting to the American Legion. The message was a reply to a radio welcome extended by that body to the late allied generalissimo, who is on the way to visit the veterans' convention.

Marshal Foch was heard quite distinctly and, while no one took down his speech verbatim, it is reported that he expressed his deepest appreciation of the novel form of welcome, and in return wished the American Legion the greatest happiness possible. He also stated that he was proud to visit the land that had sent so many gallant men to help the allies during the late war. He expressed the hope, local radio amateurs state, that the comradeship of the war would not be forgotten in peace. Marshal Foch lands in New York to-day to attend the coming disarmament conference in Washington.

Amateurs in London were in touch with New York last night. Some broke in on the interchange of official greetings, but were not aware that they were hearing the voice of the world's greatest military commander. Ronald Gurd was in touch with the Westinghouse station at Newark last night through which the messages were sent, but unfortunately did not get the entire conversation.

Scheme To Breed Fur-Bearing Animals On Large Scale Is Frustrated By Government

Company Organized and 4,000 Acres of Land Secured, Only To Learn That Operations Must Be Limited To Six Acres.

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—Granted an "occupation license" for 4,160 acres of land in Northern Ontario by one department of the Government, in the expectation that it could be used for the breeding of fur-bearing animals, the Northern Rice Lake Fur Company, of Toronto, is indignant over the fact that another department refuses to allow more than six acres to be used for breeding purposes. It claims to have spent more than $4,000 in preparing for the venture on a large scale.

The company was organized last June and includes several Toronto men who planned on making money raising fur-bearing animals. It secured the license for the land, which is located 100 miles northwest of Sudbury, from the land and forest department of the Provincial Government. However, the fish and games branch of the mines department ruled that the most it could do for the company would be to grant it a permit to use six acres of the area for installing four imported foxes, 100 imported black skunk, 10 imported mink and 20 Ontario raccoons. Even this permit expires at the end of the year.

"The game branch absolutely refused to allow us to breed beavers, although they keep on talking about the desirability of having more game sanctuaries," said one member of the company. "We can take out a trapper's license and kill 10 beavers, but we must not keep 10 beavers for breeding purposes. We asked for permission to take 30 males and 30 female beavers for propagation and promised to always have that number on hand to return to the Government. But that did not satisfy them."

EAST MIDDLESEX MEETS SATURDAY

Meighen Supporters Are Showing Great Enthusiasm.

WILL SELECT CANDIDATE

Hon. G. D. Robertson Among Principal Speakers.

More enthusiasm is being shown by the supporters of the Meighen Governcent in East Middlesex in the coming election than has been noted in many previous campaigns, and that riding has long been noted as one where the electors are all keenly interested in federal contests. It is assured that the nominating convention for this riding, which has been called for Saturday afternoon in the Masonic Temple, will be one of the best that this district has ever known. Every one of the 66 subdivisions in the riding will be well represented and the women of the district will be in large numbers among these delegates. It is confidently expected that at least 300 delegates will be in attendance.

One of the principal speakers who has been secured for the occasion is Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor, who has consented to be present. He will arrive in the city some time this afternoon and will remain over until Saturday night. S. F. Glass, M. P. for East Middlesex, will also be among the speakers. Other prominent supporters of the Meighen administration will address the delegates.

WILL CARRY RIDING.

A number of the outstanding men of the riding will be submitted to the convention for the delegates to select the candidate. Who will secure the nomination is not known, but it is assured that any one of those who will come before the convention are of such caliber that they will easily carry the riding on December 6.

Every elector in the 66 subdivisions of this riding who is a supporter of the Meighen Government is predicting a tremendous victory for the National Liberal and Conservative nominee who will be chosen on Saturday afternoon. Those who know the situation assert that when the ballots are counted on the night of December 6 the N. L. C. standard-bearer will be away in the lead.

All preparations for the convention have been completed. Every subdivision has appointed its delegates and when the meeting opens at 1.30 every one of the 300 delegates will be on hand, full of enthusiasm and optimism.

PUT LIGHTS ON ALL VEHICLES

Motor League Moves Again For This Reform.

MEASURE OF SAFETY

Claim General Lighting Law Would Prevent Accidents.

For two years the London Motor League has been agitating for legislation making it compulsory for all vehicles on public highways to carry lights. C. E. Bernard, secretary of the association, stated to-day that there would be a similar effort put forth at an early date in which the co-operation of the Ontario Motor League will be sought in attaining the desired legislation.

Two accidents occurred last night which are directly attributable to the lack of the required law. An automobile was badly damaged on Waterloo street when it crashed into a wagon on which chairs were being loaded and which was carrying no lights whatever. The second occurred on King street east, when a motorist ran into a cyclist. Fortunately in neither instances was anyone hurt, but there might easily have been a serious mishap.

Mr. Bernard pointed out to The Free Press that the London Motor League, together with several other branches of the parent provincial organization, has been demanding for some time that the Government take action. At the last two sessions of the Provincial Legislature the appeal has been turned down, but, undaunted, the Ontario Motor League is now endeavoring to secure remedial laws which will protect the traveling public from accidents.

"There is great need for the legislation, both for the motorist and for the farmer or cyclist, who carries no lights on his vehicle," said Mr. Bernard. "It is a wonder to me that the Farmer Government now in power does not see that they are benefiting themselves and their class by legislating for lights on wagons and buggies. If an unlighted vehicle is struck it is the fault of the person who is driving it and not of the motorist, who has his car equipped with lights."

LITTLE MEANING IN THE TERM "HIGHBROW"

The term "highbrow" may soon lose all significance through the researches of physiologists and psychologists. Hitherto the possession of a high, broad forehead has been taken as an indication of unusual brain power. So much so that all more than ordinarily learned people have been dubbed "highbrows" in popular argot.

But in an interview to-day Dr. W. H. Hill, director of the London Institute of Public Health, pointed out that scientists skilled in brain research were coming to believe that the frontal part of the brain—that which lies nearest the forehead and whose development makes the high brow—is not used by the consciousness of men.

"I am not an expert in this matter, so I do not guarantee the statements made," Dr. Hill stated, "but there are many supporters of the theory that the frontal part of the brain is not used at all. That, it would seem, disproves the idea that a high forehead indicates superior mentality."

Dr. Hill was also asked what he thought of recent assertions by prominent scientists that the brain of man is not the seat of consciousness or the soul. He replied that he was prepared to give an opinion, but it is certain that the surgeons who worked in the war zone during the late conflict report that many men lost large portions of their brain area, yet they were able to carry on as efficiently as before. Thus disproving former theories that certain bodily functions—such as walking, talking and co-ordination of muscular movements—did not depend upon the existence of a given section of brain fiber.

"Man may yet develop his frontal upper brain," scientists state, "and only then enter fully into his mental kingdom. All the millions of years of evolutionary history have so far only produced man, the thinking animal, with only the lower part of his brain brought into service. The next few thousand years may see real supermen developed with frontal brains as efficient as the posterior ones."

HOW LONDON IS DIVIDED FOR PURPOSES OF REGISTRATION

Registrars will hold sittings all next week at 14 different places throughout the city, in order to add the names of persons eligible to vote in the federal election, which are not now on the municipal lists. In WARD ONE (registration divisions 1, 2 and 3) registration will be carried on at the courthouse, 352 Tecumseh avenue and 76 Askin street; in WARD TWO (divisions 4, 5 and 6), at 521 Richmond street, 706 Richmond street and 196 Wharncliffe road north; in WARD THREE (divisions 7, 8, 9 and 10), at 487 Dundas street, 422 Hill street, 350 Rectory street and 785 Nelson street; in WARD FOUR, at 426 Waterloo street, 496 Adelaide street, the Foresters' Hall (Dundas and English streets), and 363 Oxford street.

AMALGAMATION OF CANADIAN SOLDIER ORGANIZATIONS IS RAPIDLY DRAWING NEAR Solution of Unification Problem In Establishment of Headquarters of Empire Service League Here.

Yesterday's action of the Dominion convention of the Army and Navy Veterans on the question of amalgamation strengthens the belief among officials of the local command that the solution of the unification problem lies in the establishment of a Dominion headquarters of the British Empire Service League. Such an organization would be able to deal with all matters of a political nature that affect the veterans of the country and would permit the ex-service men to speak with one voice on any question.

Secretary J. A. Glennie, of the local association, pointed out to-day that though the Dominion Command had voted for complete amalgamation, the acceptance of membership in the British Empire Service League was the most important step it had taken. Both the G. W. V. A. and the A. & N. V. have now signified their agreement with the establishment of a Dominion headquarters of the league, which would probably be at Ottawa, in close touch with the Dominion Legislature.

MISUNDERSTAND RESOLUTION.

"There is some misunderstanding on what is meant by the resolution passed yesterday that the qualification of membership now set for the organization is not lower and shall not be lowered," said Mr. Glennie. "By some this is construed as meaning that only front line veterans will be permitted to join in any amalgamated association. This is not the case because, while we aimed to get only members who had served in the trenches, there is nothing in our constitution which prevents the admittance of home service soldiers. As a matter of fact, we allow men into our membership who have served three years in any militia unit in Canada."

The real aim behind amalgamation of soldier bodies is conceded to be that of making all the veterans a political power and not a party. The attainment of this end is promised in the federation of all bodies in the Empire Service League and the establishment of a Dominion headquarters at Ottawa.

COST $25 TO DRIVE OVER NEW HIGHWAY

City Firm Fined for Driving Truck Over New Concrete.

For disregarding blockades and running their motor truck on the newly-constructed London-Lambeth concrete highway Anderson Bros., of this city, were this morning fined $25 and costs by Squire Chittick at the courthouse.

The information against the local firm was laid by John Sears, Toronto, inspector of provincial highways. According to Mr. Sears, the truck was driven over newly-laid road at Lambeth. Mr. Anderson stated that the infraction of the law was unintentional and claimed that the driver of the truck was directed by a resident of the village that it was safe to go over the road.

Inspector Sears told The Free Press, following the conviction, that many motorists appear to believe that road blocades mean nothing and pay little attention to them. He declared that it was the intention of the department to see that newly-constructed roads were not driven over.

ADDRESS WANTED. — Secretary H. Paulger, of the G. W. V. A., is anxious to learn the whereabouts of T. Montgomery, as he has some interesting information for him at the veterans' clubrooms.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 28.—Would heaven and St. Andrew that I were a doctor of divinity and had a church come next Lord's day! For on that day I would preach the greatest sermon that ever was almost on this story from our police courts how a boy, charged with stealing automobiles, is kept from prison because of his coming in contact with poison ivy and the fear that he might infect other juvenile prisoners. And if coming in contact with poison ivy, which effects the body, keeps from prison, why not his coming in contact with poisons which infect soul and mind? The poisons of poverty, of possible lack of parental care, of bad grown-up examples, of suggestive, cheap shows, moveable and otherwise? And is he not more likely to be infected at this prison that he is to infect?

The news is that we are to have a finance director if present plans succeed. But apparently we need not a director so much as a clear direction. Not this aimless wandering in an economic wilderness as which, strangely enough, is a sort of promise land in that in the last nine months we "promise to pay" near £400,000, St. David help us!

Home and to dine on sausages with baked sweet yams last night, as savory a meal as I ever ate. Finding for the first time in my life the true affinity of hogg sausages, which be sweet potatoes. They antidote the richness of this meat, and mighty comforting. Also a pepper hash pickle made after a receipt my Aunt Mary gets from California. Being celery, cabbage and red pepper pickled together mighty fine.

Comes my wife from shopping and she sits down in my wing chair affecting weariness, meanwhile putting her feet on a footstool, so observe that the loon has been buying spats for her shoes and legs. Which is silly enough in a man to wear spats, but methinks in a woman it is silly beyond everything. But she thinks she is pretty spruce in these spats so say naught about them except to point out that I have my own boots resoled three times now. And it is a good thing for men that it is not fashionable to resole pantaloons where they wear most.

Down to our G. T. R. station and to bid father-in-law and grandfather farewell, they being off to the north country and to shoot. Heaven preserve them from shooting each other! But mother-in-law do carry on the most ridiculous I ever saw, one moment vowing that she will never see her poor husband again, the next determining to go with them and hunt also. At every which suggestion father-in-law turns pale to his gills, but the train off finally without her, through my observing casually that my key of cider has come. Which makes mother-in-law so angry that she forgets her own troubles. And methinks the grateful look my second-hand relative gives me as the train pulls out is the most marvelous thing I ever saw.

Out and to interview a man at his home yesterday and wait awhile in his private office waiting room. In which hangs, I suppose, the coat of arms of his family. And the peculiar thing about it is that the motto at the foot of the shield is in Greek. The first Greek motto in heraldy I ever saw in my life.

A young sporting man married privately on our street yesterday and the preacher asks him: "Young sir, do you take this woman for better and for worse?" Which the bridegroom replies to pretty absent: "Yes, and I raise you five!" Which is ridiculous.

Many complaints that our children are not being taught to observe the National Anthem as they should, and many older people, too, need instruction. One way of impressing the lesson I learn from my nephew when I take him and his boon companion to a show. This companion to wiggle while they play "God Save the King," and put on his overcoat. Which nephew rebukes afterwards pretty stern, saying: "How in heaven's name do you expect other nations to respect us and our institutions, the King being one, when we respect not ourselves or our institutions?"

It is understood that the old-time sellers of gold bricks have grown wiser. Finding the real Reubens are city dwellers that laugh at gold bricks, meanwhile pawning the family Bible (and everything else) for oil stocks.

Out to my office and suddenly discover that I have not shaved, so to a barbers and to be shaved, the first time I ever did such a thing in my life in the morning. Which brings up the old question of why men, as they advance in years, do get bald to their topps to their great discomfort and the secret joy of full-topped young men, but no baldness to the face whatever. Which methinks scientists should look into and to suggest remedies.

A mighty charitable Toronto paper comments on Master W. L. McK. King's munitions "scandal" charges as giving the Government party "shell shock." Which makes no matter so far as our Government is concerned, for as it wears the most active "service at the front" button, no member needs worry about about such a charge, but laugh at it. But at the same time this Toronto paper shows poor taste and worse in using this term for a political jibe when thousands of brave men were shell shocked, doubtless one of the worst diseases of the war. For these shell shock victims, and may God have mercy on them, fight not for one year or four years in the firing line, but they carry on their battles ever after in their dreams.

OPPOSES PLAN OF CIVIC FINANCIER

Treasurer Bell Disapproves of City Experimenting.

SCHEME UNSATISFACTORY

Believes, However, That It Will Be Carried Out.

City Treasurer Bell does not take kindly to the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce and other civic bodies to have a finance commissioner appointed, who would control civic expenditures without fear or favor. "London," Mr. Bell stated, "might well be termed the city of experiments. We experimented with an all City Council; next we had a Board of Control, then back to the all City Council, then the ward system of electing aldermen. Recently the city voted for commission government.

"The appointment of a finance commissioner would make a mighty good job for some one. But what could he do? Toronto had a finance commissioner by the name of Bradshaw, I believe. Mr. Bradshaw told them that if they made a certain appropriation he would resign. Did Toronto's City Council stop at this advice? They did not. Toronto has another finance commissioner now. It might be the same way in London.

"It will go through, though," Mr. Bell continued. "We will have a finance commissioner before long, but if one of these independent boards start out to get a certain appropriation, I don't think any finance commissioner or the Council even could stop them."

Mr. Bell's opinion is shared by other civic officials, who state that the form of government in London doesn't matter so long as fit and proper men are elected to the various civic offices.

WANT CONTROL OF BUILDING PLANS

Town Planning Committeemen Point to Need

DISCUSS ZONING QUESTION

George H. Belton Urges Action at Once by Board

A preliminary meeting of the town planning committee was held in the city hall last night and several important matters regarding the activities of the commission were discussed. Col. T. J. Murphy was in the chair.

The meeting was called as a preliminary to the meeting to be held in Toronto next month to to see what could be done in regards to zoning the city under the Land Development Act.

It was stated at the meeting that the committee had power to extend the city limits to five miles outside of what the present limit now calls for, but the question as to whether it would be feasible to act in this manner was brought up.

George H. Belton, one of the members, stated that it was the most proper thing to do, and that now was the time to do it. He added that when the city's growth extended that far the town planning commission would not have any poorly laid out streets to contend with, that plans for sewers, lights and all other conveniences would be made, and all would be in readiness as soon as found necessary.

TORONTO'S MISTAKE.

The chairman stated that he was speaking to a member of the commission in Toronto, and was informed that one of the greatest mistakes that Toronto had ever made was that they had no line limit to the city, and as a result it cost them quite a sum in preparing these various plans for light, sewers, etc., when they were forced to erect more buildings.

Another question that was brought up was whether the Town Planning Commission had any power over the structural character of a building and if they did not have power what could be done to give them these rights.

It was stated that a certain business place was erected on the street line of a residential section of the city and that as a result it was acting as a detriment to the value of certain properties and also that certain garages in the city had their buildings right out onto the street and cars parked on both sides of the street. The committee wished to have power to make these places provide a suitable place for parking purposes.

Another important question was brought up regarding the plans for prospective buildings and dwelling houses and it was agreed upon that no plans should be passed without approval of the commission.

It was decided to refer these questions to No. 2 committee at their next meeting, with the understanding that the by-laws be subject to revision by the Town Planning Commisison.

It was stated that nearly $9,000 was spent by the commission last year and about $4,500 so far this year and seeing that the commisioner had no town planning appropriation they were somewhat handicapped when it came to financing any proposed scheme. This question of financing will come up at the meeting in Toronto.

Mr. Belton moved that they request the council of No. 1 committee to authorize City Enginere Brazier to go on with the geological survey of the city and other town planning matters and that they also find the expenses which may be incurred by the work. This suggestion met with the hearty approval of all concerned.

TO MOUNT PLEASANT.

The funeral of Mrs. Richard D. Perkins was held from the family residence, 970 Ormsby street, Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The deceased was 75 years of age, and was one of London's oldest and most highly respected citizens. Besides her husband, she is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Wm. Mason, Mrs. Harry Jones and Miss Sarah, and one son, Richard, all of this city. One brother, William Graydon, of Toronto, also survives. The pallbearers were C. Webster, H. Craig, H. McDonald, R. Heathfie, J. Spring and R. Hill. Services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Bingham, of Egerton Street Baptist Church, at 2.30.

BLAST FATAL TO PRISON OFFICIAL

Assistant Superintendent Killed at Guelph Reformatory Quarry

NOT AWARE OF OPERATIONS

Wife. in Toronto at Time, Arrived Just Before End

GUELPH, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Free Press)—While making a tour of inspection Assistant Superintendent N. G. Agnew, aged 35, of the Ontario reformatory, was struck on the head by a flying piece of rock from a quarry blast on the prison farm at noon to-day and died at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the hospital. His skull was fractured.

Mr. Agnew left the institution at 11.30 in his car for the quarries, which are located some distance east of the abattoir. He evidently was not aware of the blasting operations that were being carried out. A number of the prisoners engaged in that work gave the usual warning, and repeated it at intervals until it was thought all in the neighborhood had reached a safe distance. After the blast, on returning to the scene of operations, they found Mr. Agnew lying in the midst of broken rock, and saw at once that he had been struck.

SERVED OVERSEAS.

Mr. Agnew was a married man, living with his wife in the lodge at the prison gates. His mother is still living in St. Marys. Other survivors are six brothers and one sister. Mr. Agnew had seen service overseas, having enlisted early in the war with the light artillery. On returning to Canada he occupied an official position in the Guelph Military Hospital, being in charge of the works department, where the returned soldiers were taught various industrial vocations. When the institution was turned back into a prison Mr. Agnew received the appointment of assistant to Superintendent Neelands.

Mrs. Agnew was in Toronto at the time of the accident, but in response to a message telling of her husband's injuries she left for Guelph immediately, and arrived at the hospital only a few minutes after Mr. Agnew's death.

FIRST WOMAN DEPUTY.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27.—Mrs. A. M. Lawson, of the provincial secretary's department, has been appointed a deputy minister in the Manitoba civil service. She is the first woman to attain such a position in Manitoba.

At the Theaters

THE PATRICIA

"The Silver Car," a melodrama of unusual and timely interest, was presented at the Patricia Theater for the first time yesterday and will be repeated to-day and to-morrow.

The story is a thrilling one. Earle Williams, in the role of Anthony Trent, has secured a copy of a treaty between England and Croatia from Count Michael Tremesvar, who is using it to prevent a certain English nobleman from taking part in international affairs. By clever ruse Trent overpowers the count and secures the treaty. He is making his escape when caught by the avalanche and partially buried. The locale of the story furnishes ample scope for beautiful scenic backgrounds, especially those scenes laid in the ancestral castle of Count Michael Tremesvar, in Croatia. Mountain vistas and broad expanses of rolling landscape are backgrounds for exciting dramatic action.

Earle Williams has a role somewhat different from anything which he has appeared in before and in which he proves popular.

Tower and Martin present a classical comedy and singing vaudeville act, which is put over in a most capable manner and which received much applause at the initial performance yesterday.

A Century comedy film and the Canadian scenic complete an excellent bill for the latter part of the week.

LOEW'S.

Alice Lake, the beautiful and popular screen actress, appears in "Uncharted Seas," a thrilling love story of the seas, at Loew's Theater the latter part of this week. The program was presented for the first time yesterday and was well received by the large audiences.

In spite of rough sea and unimaginable wrecks undying love survives and two sweethearts are again reunited. The melodrama is original in every sense and for this reason received such a great reception. Alice Lake features in the play and carries the leading role most capably, and the movie fans unanimously agree that it is the greatest production in which Alice Lake has taken part.

Allen and Poe and Company present a three-act comedy-drama number which is the feature of the vaudeville program. The sketch shows how a most uncontended wife is converted into a contended one by being struck with a fallen curtain pole. The O'Neil Sisters present a singing and dancing act which is pleasing. The sisters have a program of classical dances which are entirely new to the stage. Dell and Wray appear in a comedy singing and talking turn, which completes the vaudeville bill.

A Charlie Chaplin comedy, the Pictorial Review and an overture by Loew's orchestra are also part of the program.

CAR DEMOLISHED; OCCUPANTS SAFE

Wonderful Escape of Two Young Autoists at G. T. Crossing

HIT BY SHUNTED CARS

Claim No Lights Displayed or Watchman on Guard

A sedan auto, in which Harry Burrows, 27 Beaconsfield avenue, and Norman Vincent were riding, was totally demolished when struck by a string of cars being shunted on the G. T. R. intersection tracks at Adelaide street about 10.30 last night. The lads, both 16 years of age, miraculously escaped without the slightest injury, but the machine was smashed to bits.

The car, with Burrows driving, was proceeding north on Adelaide street and when it reached the switch, which is about half a block from the main line, a freight car, the end of a string of 11 cars being shunted by an engine, struck their machine broadside. The car was carried over 100 feet down the tracks and dumped on a pile of lumber, a mass of twisted iron and broken wood.

CLAIM NO LIGHTS.

The boys say that when they reached the crossing they did not see the freight cars. They claim there was no light on them or was there a watchman to guard the crossing. They were also handicapped in seeing the train, despite lights, as there was a rain falling.

In view of the fact that the car was a sedan the boys had no way of effecting an escape and were carried along with the doomed auto. After the machine had been dragged a considerable distance it was thrown to one side and the boys crawled out of the wreckage. They did not suffer the slightest injury, which is a mystery to those who were at the scene of the accident shortly afterward.

The funeral of the late William Keough was held yesterday afternoon at 2.30, from the family residence, 32 Langarth street, to Woodland Cemetery. Rev. W. L. Armitage, of St. James' Anglican Church, conducted the service, which was attended by many members of Hackett L.O.L., No. 805, and Covenant Preceptory, No. 346, R.B. K.T., to both of which deceased belonged, as well as by representatives of other Orange bodies. W. Bro. J. W. Carson, county master, joined the brethren in paying final honors, and at the graveside the sir knights of Covenant Preceptory performed the impressive burial service of the Black Knights of Ireland. The pallbearers were Sir Knights Joseph Murray, J. B. Waldren, J. Loney, A. Nevin, W. McFadden and William Fox. The late Mr. Keough was formerly employed as blacksmith with J. B. Walden, Richmond street, but had been incapacitated by illness for a considerable time.

SAYS LAURIER NAVY SAVED CANADIAN CITIES

LACHUTE, Que., Oct. 27.—The Laurier navy, consisting of the Rainbow and the Niobe, stationed on the Pacific and Atlantic coasts, respectively, had prevented Victoria, Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Halifax from being bombarded by the German fleet in 1914, declared Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, speaking here this afternoon at the Liberal convention, in justification of the Laurier naval policy.

Supplies had gone through to Russia from Vancouver, he said, because Laurier had had the good sense to defend the Pacific coast with Canadian ships.

ARRAIGN TWO FOR MURDER OF GIRL

Palmer and Binet In Court At Quebec

CARNEAU CASE OPENS

Man Who Saw Crime Committed Is Likely To Testify.

QUEBEC, Oct. 27.—The trial of Frederick K. William Palmer, alias Cole and Roaul Binet, on a charge of being implicated in the murder of Blanche Garneau on the night of July 21, 1920, in Victoria Park, was opened here today. Blanche Garneau was reported as having disappeared on July 24. A week later her body was found in a swamp near the park. The post-mortem examination revealed the fact that she had been violated and strangled. After several adjournments of the inquest, the coroner stated that it was in the interests of justice to render a verdict recommending the authorities to prosecute a vigorous search. Months passed and no clue could be found.

Finally a man named Binet was arrested at Sudbury for the murder, and another man named Palmer, alias Cole, who was at the time a prisoner in the Stoney Mountain Penitentiary, Manitoba, was also alleged to have been implicated in the crime. After a delay of several weeks, the men were brought to Quebec, appeared for a preliminary hearing in which Binet stated that the crime had been committed by Palmer, while he, Binet, stood by. Both were then committed for trial to the present criminal assizes.

Palmer claims he can prove he was in Sherbrooke on the day of the murder. However, a statement was recently made by a prisoner named Duval, in Montreal, who declared that he had witnessed the commission of the crime.

He is alleged to have stated that he was sitting on a bench in the park at the time, and saw two men attack the girl, brutally beat her and flee. When confronted with Binet and Palmer he stoutly maintained that neither of them had committed the deed.

"If called upon to form the next general Government of the Dominion of Canada, will you introduce legislation to place the personnel of the civil service commission under the merit system, so that the commissioners may be chosen by promotion from the ranks of the civil service."

The communication is signed by H. C. House, president of the union, and an early reply is requested.

EGYPTIANS ANXIOUS TO LIMIT PROTECTORATE

Have Been Asking That Troops Be Restricted To Port Said and Suez.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—The Cairo correspondent of The London Times learns from trustworthy sources that the negotiations between Egyptian Premier Adly Yeghen Pasha and the British Government have been conducted on the following basis.

First, in the future, British troops to be confined to Port Said and the eastern zone of the Suez Canal; second, a British controller of the public debt to be appointed; third, Egypt to have the right of diplomatic representation abroad, but in all treaties, save commercial agreements, the British Government to have the right to be consulted; fourth, Alexandria to be a British naval base, with an international police force; fifth, the Anglo-Egyptian sudan to remain as at present, with the enjoyment of equal rights by both countries and the safety of the Egyptian water supply to be guaranteed. The agreement, if reached, the correspondent adds, will be submitted to the national assembly about the middle of November, when Adly Pasha is expected to return to Egypt.

FOREST FIRES BELIEVED DUE TO BOLSHEVIK PLOT

ROME, Oct. 27.—The forest fires in the vicinity of Vado, which caused a disastrous explosion in the Santa Elena fortress two days ago, is generally believed to be due to a Bolshevik plot, says a dispatch to The Messaggero today. The police, however, have been unable to determine definitely the origin of the fires, the dispatch said.

Up to midnight last night 22 bodies had been recovered from the wreckage of the explosion and many others, reported missing, are believed to be buried under the debris. Three hundred and fifty injured persons are being treated at hospitals.

VILLIAM WARD IS HUMAN LIVE WIRE

esident of the World Brotherhood Federation.

EAKS HERE TO-NIGHT

arted Brilliant Career At Nine In Hat Factory.

Ir. William Ward, president of the rld Brotherhood Federation, who addsses a mass meeting of London therhoods this evening, is a ical product of modern English rstian democracy. Beginning life a very humble way he has risen to position of highest honor and influe. He began to earn his own liv at the age of nine in a hat facHe has touched life at its exnes and seen it with deep and ady eyes. At 13 he became a pupil cher in a public elementary school, ere he soon rose to the head masship. At 17 he became editor of a l newspaper, conducting his edial duties after school hours and ing sufficient to pay for a college rse in Edinburgh. He later moved London as editor and proprietor of newspaper in the East End and g himself ungrudgingly into the k of uplifting, the toiling, ggling humanity of that ever-popud district, and did noble service as n councilor of the borough. Mr. rd was trained as a local preacher spent almost every Sunday preachin the churches. He soon became ular as a preacher by standing y and fearlessly for the social imations of the Gospel, refusing to rce social justice from individual teousness.

MAN OF ENERGY.

Vith a characteristic eneregy which n alarms his solicitous friends for physical well-being, he threw himinto the brotherhood movement. has been for more than a generaton its most outstanding leader. He is that rarest of combinations—at once an organizer and a prophet. He has the crisp, terse, telling style of the man in the street who happens to be a trained journalist. There is no attempt at "fine speaking" or writing. His points are easily "understanded of the common people" and are driven straight home without fuss or trimmings. But behind the racy speech and the shrewd pragmatic, resourceful mind is a spirit that sees visions and dreams dreams. He is a prophet of the great genial humanitarian order.

This movement has appealed to the manhood of England and has interested many thousands of men in the program of Jesus for the men of the world. Principal George Adam Smith said of it: "The Brotherhood movement is the greatest ally the church has had since the Reformation" and no man has had a larger place than Mr. Ward in this great development.

WORLD CONGRESS.

The outbreak of war naturally gave a setback to the development of the World Brotherhood movement. But all through the years of conflict the National Brotherhood Council, through its work among soldiers and its fine relief work in famine-stricken lands, laid the foundations of what is now one of the most promising movements of the day. In 1919 the first World Brotherhood Congress met in London and the World Brotherhood Federation was duly formed. That congress, which was marked by a series of notable speeches, since published in book form, revealed a new attitude on the part of the Church of England towards the movement. On Congress Sunday Brotherhood sermons were preached in St. Paul's Cathedral and in Westminster Abbey. The Bishop of London interrupted his holidays and traveled from Scotland to London in order to preach the Brotherhood sermon in the cathedral, whilst the Rev. Canon de Candole preached in the Abbey. Since then barriers have been broken down and the way revealed to untold Brotherhood possibilities in England. It is a very common thing for Brotherhood representatives, when visiting Canada and the United States, to be invited to occupy the pulpit of some of the largest churches.

WORLD COMMISSIONER.

Soon Mr. Ward was inundated with requests from all parts of the world to conduct Brotherhood campaigns. From over 200 cities in France, from Belgium, Serbia, Albania, Czecho-Slovakia, Germany, Austria, South Africa, India, Egypt and Palestine came pressing invitations, and Mr. Ward, as world commissioner of the movement, found himself whisked from one part of the globe to another.

In Egypt the work of the Cairo Brotherhood among waifs and strays had made the movement popular among Mohammendans and Christians alike; and in South Africa Gen. Smuts, one of its vice-presidents, made it a household word among workingmen. In Czecho-Slovakia the movement is spreading like a prairie fire and the new Reformed Church of that country is appealing for Brotherhood speakers and teachers. A literature bureau has been organized and a Bible school, mainly for students at Prague University, is contemplated. The fact that this year's World Brotherhood Congress is meeting at Prague shows the strength of the Czecho-Slovakia movement.

Mr. Ward remains the main inspiring factor in the great work. A human "live wire" if ever there was one, he knows how to commend his cause to men diverging most widely in nationality and character. He is a dynamic speaker and wields a picturesque and convincing pen. Those who wish to know more about the Brotherhood movement should read his "Brotherhood and Democracy," "Every Church a Brotherhood" and "Brotherhood on the March."

HIGHWAYMEN GET $125 FROM BROCKVILLE MAN

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 28. — A. W. Burtch, insurance agent, was held up late last night at the point of a revolver by three men while motoring on the Prince of Wales highway between Spenceville and Prescott and robbed of $125 in cash. The men blocked the road with their car at the Grand Trunk Railway crossing and thereby forced Burtch to stop. They then surrounded the car and forced him to deliver. The men made off towards Prescott. Provincial police are working on the case. The men wore military raincoats and had their faces covered with balaclava caps.

ACTION CREATES GREAT INTEREST

Settle Right of Police To Hold Money.

TRIAL ON NOVEMBER 4

Attorneys Write Complaint In Local Case.

Attorney J. M. Donahue's suit against Chief of Police Birrel is attracting widespread interest throughout legal circles in Ontario, and voluntary offers of assistance in the matter have been offered Mr. Donahue, who believes that the issue is bound up with proposals now before the Ontario Legislature that a form of the British Public Defender's Act be spread on the provincial statutes.

One of the most prominent lawyers in Peterboro, Ont., has forwarded the following letter to Mr. Donahue, which may be used at the coming trial of the matter on November 4, in which Mr. Donahue asks the courts to order certain fees paid him from money confiscated by the local police from the person of a convicted forger.

The letter is as follows: "Dear Mr. Donahue—I enclose a letter herewith from my good friend (a King's counselor of Cobourg, Ontario), in which he asked me to write you. I also enclose copy of the writ in which I brought action against the police magistrate and chief of police, who had possession of certain moneys which were assigned to me and belonged to the prisoner. The matter came up on a motion for judgment, and the judge intimated that he would give me judgment and the magistrate and the chief of police gave the moneys back to me.

"My case was almost identical, as the chief of police and the magistrate refused to hand over the moneys alleging that these moneys had possibly been stolen by the pickpockets whom I was defending."

The writ shows that the attorney in question was about to bring action for $1,300. No precedent was established however, as the matter never came up for a judicial settlement.

AT THE ALLEN.

"Thunderclap," the great racing picture, which has been playing to capacity audiences at the Allen the first part of the week, has been held over for the balance of the week by popular demand.

Two of the most spectacular scenes ever registered on the screen take place in "Thunderclap." One is the hair-raising passage of the hero down a tempestuous rapids on the top of a board; the other is the race track scene. These two scenes alone make this picture more than worth while, and judging from the success that this super-photoplay enjoyed on Broadway at the Central Theater, New York, it may be deduced that there are elements of appeal for every class of picture-goer.

On the same program with "Thunderclap" is the Allen World News Budget, Lloyd (Ham) Hamilton in his latest comedy, "The Simp," and special musichestra.

NAVY TRAINING SCHOOL OPENED AT HALIFAX

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 28. — His Majesty's Canadian youths' training establishment for the training of boys for ratings in the Canadian navy and the first school of its kind in Canada, was opened by Lieutenant-Governor McCallum Grant, of Nova Scotia, at H. M. C. dockyard here yesterday. Sixty boys are now at the establishment and 40 others will join in the spring. These come from many parts of Canada.

SEIZE TRUNK AND LIQUOR.

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 28.—License Inspector Taber and Provincial Officer Rae seized at Lyn station last night a trunkload of liquor which had been checked to that point from Montreal. The owner of the liquor was at the station to meet the shipment, but escaped in the darkness on the appearance of the officers.

House Certain To

here to-day that the Government would receive a big majority in support of the policies it has followed relative to Ireland and that the ministry's hands would be strengthened in dealing with the Sinn Fein representatives. Mr. Lloyd George received congratulations from the Liberal press for "grasping the nettle of the hard-shell Unionist opposition." It was said that the prime minister had, "by calling their bluff," knocked the wind out of the Unionists, who were sponsors of the vote of censure to the Government, which was read in the House of Commons on Wednesday.

FORECASTING THE VOTE.

It was remarked by The London Times and some other journals, however, that the hostility toward the Government was to be found in the constituencies rather than in Parliament, and assertion was made that for this reason Unionist abstentions from the voting next Monday would be almost as significant as hostile ballots. It was not expected that the vote adverse to the Government would total more than 50, and that all the coalition Liberals and Laborites certainly would rally to the support of the Cabinet. The Times, while recognizing this fact, placed emphasis upon the declaration that Eamon De Valera's repudiations of loyalty to the King had so stirred Unionists through the country that members of Parliament belonging to that party, who were favorable to a continuation of the Irish conference, were being pressed to disassociate themselves from the Government's policy.

Unionist ministers were declared to have been given great embarrassment by this situation. It was out of deference to the insurgent section of the Unionist party, The Times remarks, that Lord Birkenhead replaced Austen Chamberlain as one of the Government's representatives at the meeting of the joint committee of the Irish conference. In addition, the presence of Lord Birkenhead was said to be intended as a reassurance to those anxious regarding Ulster, as he has in the past been prominently identified with Ulster's resistance to home rule.

PARTY PROSPECTS.

Political correspondents generally predict important developments at the annual conference of the Unionist party to be held in Liverpool next week. They assert the party may split, and that there may be formed an independent Conservative party, of which, it is hinted, A. Bonar Law, former Government leader in the House of Commons, may become the head. He will return to active politics at the next session of Parliament. The Times said to-day that, even in the event of a split in the party, the majority of the Unionists would still follow Mr. Lloyd George, who, retaining the loyalty of the coalition Liberals, would thus become the chief of a center party.

The passage of another day without further advance toward an Irish settlement seemed to have deepened the pessimistic views held by many political writers of London newspapers. Even some of those contributing to journals which have most earnestly advocated peace through a conference said to-day the possibility of success had almost wholly vanished and that the next meeting of the British and Sinn Fein delegates might be the last.

The Daily Mail, however, refused to abandon hope. It said if the present conference collapses it was believed that another soon would be arranged. Several papers contended that the Government had used its utmost efforts to attain peace, and had gone to the utmost limit to placate the Sinn Fein. They implied that whatever obstacles existed were attributable to the Dail Eireann delegates. It was said that the Sinn Fein representatives, although not pressing hostility to allegiance to the King, were, in effect, demanding that the Government tear up the Irish Act of last year in order that Ulster might be deprived of part of the area allotted to it under that legislation. Hope was expressed that the Sinn Fein would realize from yesterday's proceedings in the House of Commons how formidable were the difficulties against which the Government had to contend.

CAME AS SURPRISE.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Cable)—The announcement of Mr. Lloyd George to-day that next Monday had been allocated by the Government for a discussion in the Commons, on the pending motion of Unionist members censuring the Government for conducting the present Irish negotiations, was taken as bringing the Irish issue to another critical stage.

The announcement came as a surprise to the Sinn Fein delegates now in London, who indicated to-night they had expected that Parliament would not be consulted until there was a nearer approach to an agreement than hitherto had been possible. They have negotiated with Premier Lloyd George, believing him to be in a position to strike a binding bargain, and they expressed apprehension over the possibility that the forthcoming debate might enable him to modify his proposals.

Their view to-night was that nothing likely to happen in the Commons could better the terms obtainable by the Sinn Fein, but that on the contrary, the debate might easily lessen these terms.

MAY CLEAR AIR.

The Sinn Fein delegates appear to be suspicious that the premier has been faced with trouble in his own party, and that he thinks a debate in the Commons would be the best way of obtaining for himself a certain majority. Ulster is understood to present his chief difficulty, since he has pledged himself not to reduce the importance of the position of the Northern Parliament. He has been pressed from the start by the Sinn Fein delegates to rip up the Home Rule Act and to reopen the Ulster question. On the other hand, Mr. Lloyd George is urged by many Unionists, even those who approve his recent offer of dominion status to Ireland, to permit the Northern Parliament to function. Although opened formally by King George it still has no real power and, lacking funds, it cannot exercise most of the powers granted it.

Although it was given large administrative powers within its area, it is still administered from Dublin Castle, and its leaders are constantly denouncing officials there, particularly Arthur Cote, assistant under-secretary of Ireland, as allies of the Sinn Fein.

RISKS A BREAK.

If Mr. Lloyd George moves to facilitate the powers of the Northern Parliament he risks a break in the negotiations with the Sinn Fein. Yet there is a powerful feeling in his own party in favor leaving Ulster what she has.

FEINERS IN CONVENTION.

DUBLIN, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Cable). — Requesting newspaper reporters to leave a Sinn Fein convention here to-day, Eamonn De Valera said: "This is a meeting in miniature of the nation, and this is a critical time for the nation.

"We who are responsible for the national policy," he continued, "want to have a free expression from the representatives of the nation. We feel that they would be hampered in the [illegible] pression and that we should be [illegible] ed in giving the advice [illegible] if anything we said s[illegible] misrepresentation ou[illegible] representatives [illegible] present in Lond[illegible] if we can poss[illegible] their work."

2,000 DELEG[illegible]

The conve[illegible] morning, [illegible] held in [illegible] gates from all parts of Ireland were present.

The convention recalls the fact that the Irish peace negotiators in London, although plenipotentiaries, represent the organization in Ireland which controls the Dail Eireann and professes to have a republican faith. The delegates [illegible] Sinn Fein club in every [illegible] and. Before the truce [illegible]bly would have been [illegible]essed by Field Marshal French.

It was officially explained that the conference was an adjourned one, and that the gathering lacked significance.

The constitution of the Sinn Fein was amended to the effect that the Sinn Fein will hereafter give its undivided attention and allegiance and entire support to the Dail Eireann as the duly elected Parliament of Ireland. Eamonn De Valera was unanimously chosen president.

The Fight in Western Canada

The attempts of the Liberal party managers in Western Canada to secure an agreement with the Agrarians to divide the constituencies between them has apparently completely broken down. In Saskatchewan for months the Liberal party has been begging the Farmers to come to an understanding on the ground that their platforms were the same and their objects similar—the defeat of the Government. The efforts have completely collapsed. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, who is the Liberal candidate in Regina, will have to face a Progressive as well as a Government candidate, who will likely be Major Macpherson, a brilliant young lawyer, who was shot to pieces in France.

As a result of the opposition to Mr. Motherwell the Liberals have decided to contest every possible seat in Saskatchewan. How angry are the Liberals over the outcome is shown by the following outburst by The Regina Leader, the official Liberal organ.

"There is a peculiarly destructive spirit manifested by mankind which often causes an individual, a race or a nation to wantonly destroy, for some obscure principle of revenge, what has been painfully acquired or laboriously built up. After long and earnest endeavor, finally crowned with success, this destructive spirit comes uppermost at the very moment of triumph; the suddenly released energy of the victorious party or people flies off at a tangent and the hopes of a generation are wrecked because this passion for revenge has blinded the victors in the hour of victory."

After referring to Russia and Ireland, The Leader continues:

"There are countless instances in history of this phenomenon and there is grave danger of the Progressive movement in Western Canada giving another unhappy demonstration of this senseless rage for destruction unless the leaders of the movement can control the strong reactionary element in the new organization which is more bent on destroying the Liberal party in Western Canada than in consolidating and utilizing the victory which is within the reach of the democratic forces in Canada."

Reports from the West show that the Government will have a candidate in every seat in the three Prairie Provinces, and that the outlook for the administration is improving daily. Particularly strong candidates are entering the field for the Government. For instance, in Minnedosa, Hon. T. A. Crerar is being opposed by General Dwyer, a farmer, who enlisted in the ranks and wound up at the close of the war as brigadier-general. In Medicine Hat, where the Government was so badly routed in a by-election in July, the supporters of Mr. Meighen are far from downhearted. They have nominated Major McIntosh, a farmer, who served overseas with the 3rd C. M. R., and a former C. P. R. telegraph operator. In Edmonton West Capt. Campbell, a farmer-soldier, is in the field. The class of candidates and the enthusiasm at the conventions goes to show that Mr. Meighen is rallying the West behind him in unexpected force.

Kings in Exile

The melancholy fate of ex-Emperor Charles, of Austro-Hungary, and his consort, exiles not alone from their own land, but from lands hitherto accustomed to give hospitality to royal refugees—even Switzerland, even England, have now turned their backs upon them—reminds one of the so glorious coronation of the monarch, which took place but five years ago this coming December.

On December 29, 1916, The Free Press, in company with the rest of the Canadian and United States press, received the following dispatch from Budapest, via London:

"The coronation festivities were in full swing yesterday, under the brightest of winter skies, and Budapest for the time being seemed to have forgotten the war. A holiday crowd moved through the streets gay with flags and bunting, many of the people in the splendid national garb. The principal thoroughfares were crowded with automobiles, state carriages, mounted and unmounted troops, officers in full dress and nobles in Magyar costumes.

"Notwithstanding the rain on Wednesday, an unprecedented crowd witnessed the formal entry of King Charles. Visitors came from all parts of the country. Windows along the route were rented for as much as $1,000 in some instances, while in one case $4,250 was paid.

"The inaugural diploma was handed to the king by a deputation from both Houses of Parliament. The king returned the diploma to Parliament, with his signature, and Parliament administered the oath. New crown guardians were selected by the king. It was an impressive ceremony, the members of both Houses in the Hungarian national costume assembling in joint session."

The following day a detailed account of one of the most gorgeous coronation ceremonies ever devised by the hand of man was cabled from the Hungarian capital and appeared in these and other columns.

Reflections upon the fall of monarchs are always commonplace. Therefore, let us not reflect. Suffice it to say that any poor sovereign might well be bewildered as to the real intentions of a people who on one day are willing to give thousands of dollars just to see him ride through the streets of their capital city, and who the next will not so much as allow him to put a foot on his native land.

But "War is a fickle jade." While the ex-emperor, poor soul, has scarcely yet reached the years that bring the philosophic mind.

A Policy for Every Riding

Not only has Hon. Mackenzie King a separate fiscal policy for every province, but each Liberal candidate has his own particular policy to suit the riding in which he resides. With no leadership from Mr. King it is a case of every man for himself. As, for example, Thomas MacMillan, the Liberal candidate in South Huron, is for free agricultural implements; Mr. Raymond, the Liberal candidate in Brantford, is for a higher duty on agricultural implements; C. R. Somerville, in London, is a thorough-going protectionist, while Hon. Duncan Marshall, in Alberta, says that if the Liberal party does not move towards free trade he will take action himself.

In accepting the Liberal nomination for Kingston, J. M. Campbell came out with a new tariff declaration. "I am in accord," said he, "with the general policy of the Liberal party, but there is one point upon which I wish to be clearly understood and that is my belief that a protective tariff is in the best interests of Kingston and Canada. I believe we should not permit American locomotives to come over here, but that we should protect Canadian industries. Canadian workingmen, develop our industries, our trade and commerce in the best interests of Kingston and Canada. I reserve the right to exercise my best judgment." It should be understood that the Kingston Locomotive Works form the leading industry of the Limstone City and are an important factor in the election result. And so it goes.

There are 235 ridings in Canada, and at the present rate of progress there will be 235 separate Liberal policies by election time.

Mr. Burt, of Brantford.

School-teachers are apt to be good theorists—their avocation seldom affords them the opportunity to become practical business men. Seldom, however, could a school-teacher be found of so unpractical a view of business as a certain Mr. Burt, of Brantford, whom Mr. Drury invited to his platform at Paris to say:

"There are many of us who would like to see it (the tariff) wiped away in a day. I wish myself it had never come. I think we should be better if we had never established the principle of protection."

Yet Mr. Burt receives his salary from the ratepayers of Brantford, an industrial city, 8,222 of whose people owe their wages to manufactured products and thus to protection; to Brantford, fourth of the cities of Canada exporting manufactured goods.

For example, Mr. Burt, of Brantford, stands for a platform which definitely states that agricultural implements shall be placed on the Free List; that the very limited protection which the agricultural implement industry is now accorded is to be withdrawn completely and the industry is, thus, to meet the formidable, because enormously capitalized and highly standardized, manufacturing competition of the United States.

Accoring to a bulletin of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, dated November, 1920, covering statistics for the calendar year, 1919, there were 86 factories or plants manufacturing agricultural implements, distributed by provinces as follows:

	Plants.
Ontario	51
Quebec	20
Manitoba	7
Alberta	3
Saskatchewan	3
Prince Edward Island	2
Total	86

The total capital invested was $83,-276,450.

The employees numbered 10,808, and the pay roll for the year was $11,858,013.

Total value of products, $37,715,331.

Of this total, Brantford, as "the agricultural implement center of the British Empire," produced a very high per cent.

Mr. Burt would seem not to know on which side Canada's bread is buttered, or his own.

An Unkind Cut

The Free Press is evidently not the only paper which cannot make out the tariff views of Hon. Mackenzie King. Our confusion about what he thinks is shared by The Grain Growers' Guide, the official organ of the Agrarian party in Western Canada. That voice of the Farmers' party says:

"Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, is having difficulty in finding in the English language the words needed to express adequately his real attitude toward the tariff. He has at times repudiated free trade, tariff for revenue, moderate protection and high protection. His tariff policy is determined by geographical considerations."

This is an unkind cut from a party which Mr. King has been assiduously wooing and with whom he fondly expects to form an alliance after the election.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Free Raid is what the Wood-Crerar-King fiscal policy would amount to.

A golfing statesman is the present-day successor to the "sporting parson."

Do the Feiners wish Ulster to be included in the home rule plan because they want to use her as a cloak?

A loot of two millions such as the bandits got from the U. S. A. mail may be reckoned as "some bag."

The Brockville Recorder (Liberal) declares that the Liberal tariff platform was never intended to mean anything anyway. Another "scrap of paper."

"Haps" means hawk—Charles seems to have bred true to type; he drops down on his former kingdom like a hawk out of the blue.

Combing Paris for the person who sent the bomb to the American ambassador will draw the hairline on some suspect.

Does the following note and verse, taken from The Vancouver World, come under the heading of Child Welfare?

Its Glands were Pure as Snow,
And everywhere that Mary went,
That Lamb was sure to go

OUT OF THE BOY.

Save your money, some sage has said,
For money will pay for your meat and bread,
And money—well, that is a thing, you know,
As the years go by to a fund will grow,
And the fund will swell to a larger size,
Breeding the fortune which mortals prize,
And so from the cradle to the grave
Money's a thing which we try to save.

Guard the seed of your finest flowers
For they will grow under April showers;
Here is a dried and shriveled thing
That into beauty and life will spring—
Save it, for under its husk there lies
A lovely blossom which you shall prize.
So the seed you carefully store away
For the joy it holds for another day.

But seldom we think it is written down
That a boy is the seed of a man's renown;
That he who is given a boy to train,
Has better than blossoms or gold to gain.
That dollars to fortunes will quickly grow,
And seeds to flowers, are the truths we know,
But I wonder if ever we pause to see
The man that anyone's boy may be?

Who touches a boy, by the Master's plan,
Is shaping the course of the future man;
Father or mother or teacher or priest,
Friend or stranger or saint or beast,
Is dealing with one who is living seed
And may be the man whom the world shall need.
For who can measure the pride and joy
That may come day grow from a little boy?

THE IDEAL CLIMATE.

I'm living in a pleasant valley, with no extremes of heat or cold, and here the aged and weary rally, to linger till their knells are tolled. No blizzards, with their angry roaring, disturb our calm, or records break; we are not frozen while we're snoring, or broiled or baked when we're awake. The days are mildly warm and hazy, the kind of days good judges pick; and we've all grown so all-fired lazy we lack the pep to make a kick. All day we bask on strips of lumber, all day we loiter in the sun, and nod and yawn and sample slumber, and put off chores that should be done. And this will do for ancient fellows with shining domes and rheumy glims, who suffer from asthmatic bellows, and spavins on their starboard limbs. But if I had an heir-apparent, and he desired to anchor here, I'd say, "Augustus John, you daren't—'twould make you worthless in a year. Here we old graybeards herd together; we don't need pep, for we are through; but young men need some wintry weather to tone up heart and brain and thew. The raging blizzards are unsightly, but they are better for a man than languid winds that come politely and make of him an also-ran. I don't indorse 'the perfect climate,' devoid of elemental stress; I have good reason, and I'd rhyme it, but I'm too lazy, I confess."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK.

Yestidday I dident have enything special to do and I was looking erround the store room thinking maybe I mite find something I dident know I lost, and I found a letter with a old fashion stamp on it like they used to put on letters to make them go, and after suppir me and pop and ma was in the setting room and I sed, Hay pop, lissen to this letter I found, hay ma, lissen to this.

And I started to reed it, reading, Deerest of the deer, I miss you so mutch it seems as if the day must have 1000 hours insted of ony 24 like it is supposed to.

Wich I started to reed some more, reeding, Life without you is like an egg without salt or a flower without smell. It is like wandering in the Sahara desert with no watter to the rite of me or watter to the left of me.

Wat are you Willyum, a herring or a shad? sed ma. And pop got behind the paper without saying enything and ma told him all the different names of fishes she could think of, taking her about half a hour and me helping her by telling her the ones I knew.

TRUTH.

Maude de Verse Newton.

"Truth is so ancient," grumbled Youth,
"Nothing can my eager search explore,
Where beaten trail is not already worn
By those who sought its goodly prize before."

"Truth is so boundless," whispered Age,
"Millions are its hues to radiate—
Its gorgeous chambers in the House of Life
With flaming inspiration animate."

"Truth is so narrow," muttered Youth,
"Marking for my feet the selfsame path
As traversed by the ages in their march—
Each day a wasted candle's aftermath."

"Truth is so spacious," whispered Age.
"Widening its borders day by day,
Whose covenant of unrepeated grace
With sunrise and with sunset gilds the way."

"Truth is so heartless," fretted Youth,
"Never can I satisfy my soul
With sipping at the honeyed joys I see,
Lest I should miss the amaranthine goal."

"Truth is so tender," pondered Age,
T[illegible] ever blooming fields—
T[illegible] little dragon of defeat
[illegible] better being shields."

SIDE LIGHTS

TWO CURRENT IRISH STORIES.

A correspondent sends me a couple of stories which, he thinks, with some justice, sum up the Irish question. The first, the Sinn Fein side, is that De Valera, after arguing with Lloyd George at their first meeting, at the end of two hours had got as far as Oliver Cromwell!

The second, the Ulster side, is about an American who arrived in Belfast on the Twelfth of July, in time to see the Orange procession go by. He accosted a Belfast man who was watching it, and said: "Say, what's up?" The Belfast man looked at him in astonishment and replied: "It's the Twal'th!" "Yes, I know it's the twelfth," the American answered, "but what's up?" The astonishment on the Belfast man's face increased. "It's the Twalth of July!" he said. "Yes, I know it is," said the American, "but what's up?" This was more than the Belfast man could stand. "Ah, for Gawd sake, man, away an' read your Bible!" he said indignantly.—London Observer.

WHEN STRONGEST?

A man's muscles develop with use, and it would, therefore, seem that the older he got the stronger he would become, but this is not true throughout his life. The physical strength of the average man increases and decreases in proportion to his years, whether he uses his muscles much or little. This does not mean, of course, that at any period a man who has not developed his muscles will be as strong as one who has, but that the athlete as well as the non-athlete has a fixed period of increase and of decrease of physical power.

The average youth of 17 has a lifting power of 280 pounds. By the twentith year this power will have increased to such a degree that he should be able to exert a lifting power of 320 pounds, and his maximum power is reached in his thirtieth or thirty-first year, when his lifting power should be 365 pounds. After the age of 31, power decreases, but very slowly, falling but eight pounds by the time a man is 40. From 40 to 50 the decrease is somewhat more rapid, falling to 330 pounds at the latter age, so that the lifting power of a man of 50 is just a little better than that of a man of 20.

After 50 the decline of strength is usually rapid, but the rate varies so surprisingly in individuals that no satisfactory averages have yet been obtained.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

AEROPLANE CARRYING AEROPLANE.

Experiments on a remarkable new type of battleplane, which carries its own scout machine poised at the tip of one of its wings, have been carried out at Farnborough recently. So far, it is understood, the tests have been successful.

The parent machines travel at their usual pace, although the engine of the scout is kept running, so that it is ready to dive off at a minute's notice to protect the larger and heavier craft. An automatic releasing apparatus is constructed on ingenious lines. An expert pilot is carried by the bombing plane, and directly his services are required he climbs through the top wing and takes his seat in the scout. By pressing a trigger he frees the smaller machine, which at once glides along the wing and dives off.

No appreciable effect on the stability of the battleplane is caused by the fact that the engine of the scout is kept running; a point considered to be the most remarkable of those demonstrated by the new type.—London Daily Chronicle.

CONTRIBUTION TO A DULL PARTY.

"Once at a very dull lunch party given in his honor I sat next to King Edward and said to his majesty, 'Pretty dull, sir, this—hadn't I better give them a song?' He was delighted (he always did enjoy everything), so I recited (but, of course, I can't repeat the delicious Cockney tune in writing, so it loses all its aroma). 'Two tramps had been camping out in Trafalgar Square. They appear on the stage leaning upon each other for support—too much beer! They look upwards at Nelson on his monument, and in an inimitable and 'beery' voice they each sing:

"We live in Trafalgar Square, with four lions to guard us,
Fountains and statues all over the place,
The 'Metropole' staring us right in the face!
We own it's a trifle draughty—but we don't want to make no fuss,
What's good enough for Nelson is good e-enough for us."

—Lord Fisher's Reminiscences.

A NEW FUEL FROM WASTE WOOD.

H. C. Diers, an American industrial engineer, has perfected a new commercial process for converting the waste wood from lumber mills into a new fuel, which he calls lignatic. Mr. Diers has been working on the process for several years.

With an improved system of retorts and rollers the raw waste wood from the lumber mills is hogged, then put through a process of carbonization, the residue treated with sulphide liquor under temperature, and by a system of compression made into layers, the same as a coal vein. When the prepared bed of fuel is cooled it is broken and ready for use. The fuel resembles coal, but is lighter in color. It is claimed that the cost of making this fuel is a great deal cheaper than the making of coal briquettes. An important feature is the fact that there are valuable by-products which largely pay for the process.

This new fuel is practically a pure carbon, having less than two per cent. of ash and no volatile matter, moisture or sulphur. It makes an intense heat, and it is claimed that it is adapted for all metallurgical purposes, is absolutely smokeless and stands handling and weather conditions. A test of the fuel was made in one of the iron works on Coos Bay, and as a heating agent proved to be equal to the best Eastern coke. —Canadian Forestry Magazine.

REPUBLIC OF LATVIA.

Question: I have in my collection two postal stamps of recent issue with the inscription "Latvija," and the currency "a rub." I should like to know by what country they are issued.

READER.

Answer: They are issued by the new Republic of Latvia — "Republika Latvija." Latvia, lying along the southern part of the Baltic littoral, consists of the four former Russian provinces of Courland; four southern districts (Riga, Wenden, Wolmar and Walk) of the former Russian province of Livonia and three western districts (Dvinsk, Reshitza and Lutsin) of the former Russian province of Vitebsk. It has a total area of about 24,440 square miles, or, including inland lakes, about 25,000 square miles. The total length of the frontier line of Latvia is 1,040 statute miles. The census taken on June 15, 1920, showed a population of 1,503,193, chiefly Letts.

MANY NATIONS, MANY TONGUES.

French is a noble and a necessary language, not so much for its precision and clearness, but because it is the vehicle of one of the greatest literary traditions in the history of man. And the same may surely be said of English. A language, like the people who invented it, does not live for bread alone; it flashes on the ocean of time the dreams, the hopes and the despairs of humanity. His language is as dear to a man as his home, as his sweetest vanities, as his deepest memorials. That is why we hope that languages lacking the wide influence and the rich traditions of English and French, will be allowed to live. The Tower of Babel was a noisy but at the same time a lively place. There is room in the world for all sorts and conditions of languages, even for Ido and Esperanto, as long as they do not claim to be universal.—London Morning Post.

A GENTLE REMINDER.

An English duchess had been owing her milliner a long time. The money was sorely needed, and after the bill had been repeatedly ignored the milliner finally sent her little daughter to collect it.

"Be sure to say 'Your Grace' to the duchess," said the anxious mother, and the child gravely promised to remember.

When, after long waiting, she was ushered into the presence of [illegible] duchess, the little girl made a [illegible] courtesy, and then, folding [illegible] hands and closing her eyes, she [illegible] softly, "For what I am about to [illegible]ceive, may the Lord make me tr[illegible] thankful."

The quick-witted duchess flus[illegible] as her eyes rested on the wis[illegible] child who so unconsciously had [illegible]buked her, and without delay m[illegible] out a check for the amount due [illegible] the milliner.—The Outlook.

M.C.R. LAYS OFF ST. THOMAS STAFF

225 Employees to Be Released "Indefinitely" on Tuesday

APPEAL TO GOVERNMENT

Men Claim Breach of Industrial Disputes Act

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 27.—The announcement that the big railway strike has been called off will most likely result in the cancellation of the order laying off 225 M.C.R. men here on November 1, was the opinion expressed to-night.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 27.—(By Staff Reporter.)—The possible effects of the threatened railway strike in the United States were very noticeably in evidence here to-day, when, following the posting of a bulletin in the locomotive shops of the Michigan Central Railway, practically every man was handed as he left work, a written letter, containing five days' notice of a lay-off, owing, the document stated, to "necessity."

The bulletin stated that on instructions from the head office the shop force would be reduced under order 27 of the national agreement, effective on November 1, and that the services of those employees, who would be notified, would not be required after that date. Contrary to the report in the local press the lay-off was not like other lay-offs, for an indefinite period.

According to labor men in the city the law demands that all employees must give 30 days' notice of intention to strike, so that as far as the law is concerned it would not be possible for them to join their American brethren next week. On the other hand, however, the employers, who are represented as far as this city is concerned by Master Mechanic E. R. Webb, and those in charge of the local division, cannot order an indefinite lay-off without also giving a 30-day notice. Any such order or violation of agreement is said, according to local authorities, to render the employers liable to a fine of from $100 to $1,000 per day during the period of such lay-off.

SAY AGREEMENT BROKEN.

It is alleged that the Michigan Central officials violated this latter part of the statutes when they severed their agreement without regular notice in making a reduction in pay of 12½ per cent., effective last July. This was accepted by the men at the time, but now that the employers are apparently holding the men strictly to their legal agreement they feel that unfairness has been shown and an appeal has been made to the Government.

The following telegram was dispatched to-night:

"Hon. G. D. Robertson, Minister of Labor:

"We, the committee of the Federation of Shop Crafts, situated in St. Thomas, beg to bring to your notice the action of the management of the M. C. RR., this 27th day of October, in issuing a bulletin notice to the effect that owing to the necessity of reducing expenses the force must be reduced, to take effect on Tuesday, November 1, at 4 p. m.

"Following issuance of the above bulletin 225 employees in the locomotive department were served with individual notices that their services will be dispensed with on November 1, 1921.

"We believe this to be a violation of the Industrial Disputes Act and therefore petition you to take immediate action in the matter on behalf of the above shop crafts."

(Signed.) JOHN LANE, Chairman.

The Government authorities have been kept in close touch with the local situation and have expressed readiness to see that the workmen are given absolute fair play in all respects, and it is quite possible that action will be taken. The reduction made last July cut the wages of machinists and experts by approximately $30 per month.

A SERIOUS BLOW.

The present lay-off will seriously affect local men, as it is not long since a large number, who had been out of employment for many months, were reinstated, and there are still many unemployed in the city.

The men who will be left on duty when the notices handed out to-day take effect on Tuesday will be distributed in the various departments about as follows: Machinists, 16; boilermakers, eight, and helpers as required. There will be no blacksmiths. As far as is known no such cut has as yet been made in the car department, but it is expected that this will come immediately.

THREE GUNMEN SENTENCED.

REGINA, Oct. 27.—Confinement in Prince Albert penitentiary at hard labor for 12 years, 11 years and 10 years, respectively, was the punishment meted out to-day to Jack Lolaraine, Arthur Woodman and William Lemarr, all gunmen, convicted on a charge of shooting Sergt. Lougheed, R. C. M. P. The men pleaded guilty to five other charges of theft and robbery.

WINTER CAMPS URGED FOR BOYS

Benefit Those Engaged in Rural Work

RECREATION IS DISCUSSED

O. R. E. C. Convention at Brantford Closes

BRANTFORD, Oct. 27.—The annual convention of the Ontario Religious Education Council came to a close this evening after one of the most inspiring gatherings of Sunday school workers ever assembled in Ontario.

Prof. Frank Langford called at the opening session this morning for more Bible reading in the home. The family altar should be erected. Rev. R. B. Cochrane, College Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, dealt with the young people. "It is a very dangerous and difficult thing to be a young person today. There is a tidal wave of frivolity since the war," declared the speaker. "Young people look on their personal enjoyment as the first thing in life. High school teachers tell us that it is hard to get young people to put their minds on their work. This is because of the dances and other social functions. The young people of 18 to 22 years of age were the successors of Canada's heroic dead, and the young people were challenged to live up to the name established by Canada's fighting men. The church had a supreme opportunity with young people and brotherhood in the church would prove magnificent machinery to make young Canadians Christians. If there was anything the church needed it was fellowship, friendliness, brightness and sunshine.

WOULD BE FOLLY.

"The church cannot leave the young people's social and recreational life to themselves. That would be folly and a substitute for the barroom must be provided. Recreation must be offered in the church.

"I've been accused of running a matrimonial agency in my church. Maybe I have." Young people were invited to functions in his church and certainly they get to know each other. "Why shouldn't they get to know each other there?"

This statement was greeted with applause. "No young person was ever brought to Christ with the inducement that he might save himself from hell," was an excerpt from this instructive talk.

At 10.45 the various promotion work conferences were held in the different churches. City, county and township secretaries, presidents, vice-presidents and denominational official heads in religious educations met in the Wellington Street Methodist Church. A special conference of children's division superintendents in county, town and city organizations was held in Zion Presbyterian Church. A conference for 'teen age girls was held at the Y. W. C. A., with local general secretary, Miss Mina Hume, presiding. During a discussion on the social hour a 'teen age boy leaders' conference was held at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. J. A. Yorston presided. Dr. Webb and Messrs. E. R. Thurlow and O. H. McDonald gave helpful talks At Congregational church, Dr. Marion Lawrence led a conference of pastors, Sunday school superintendents and adult Bible class leaders.

Departmental sessions were held this afternoon. Rural work among boys was roundly discussed, the suggestion being made that winter camps with log cabins be established, as it was so hard to get the boys out during the summer season owing to the farm work. Need for plans for carrying on young people's work, the most neglected, were urged at the young people's conference.

The convention closed with a general session this evening, Rev. J. Stuart Mills speaking on "Developing the Superman," in which he stressed the need for leadership work. Marion Lawrence, Chicago, closed a wonderful series with a talk on "The Challenge of the Sunday Scholos."

OPTIMISTIC OVER C.N.R. SYSTEM

Minister of Railways Stewart Speaks at Galt

MR. SCOTT OPENS CAMPAIGN

Enthusiastic Meetings Held at Galt and Hespeler

GALT, Oct. 27.—F. S. Scott, Government candidate, opened his campaign this evening with a bang with meetings at Scott's Opera House, this city, and at the Queen's Theater, Hespeler, both of which attracted large crowds. Senator Robertson spoke in both Hanover and Galt, Col. John A. Currie, of North Simcoe, at Hespeler, while Hon. J. A. Stewart, minister of railways and canals, was the principal speaker here. Mr. Scott received an enthusiastic reception at both meetings.

Mr. Stewart confined his address to a discussion of the railway situation and the tariff. He went into details as to the history of the Canadian railways and emphasized the fact that the situation the Meighen Government faced in this regard was a legacy for which it was not responsible. He was, however, optimistic as to the future and felt the railways would yet be a great asset to the Dominion. The Canadian National system in August showed a net surplus and he intimated that the September statement would be even more encouraging. As for the tariff question, he explained Canada's industrial growth under protection and declared no community would suffer more under free trade than Waterloo County.

Senator Robertson, in a brief address, answered the Government's opponents by outlining some of the things the Federal Government had done for labor, showing that it had always been a friend of the workingman and had done its best to improve his conditions.

Wm. Elliott, U. F. O.-Labor candidate, had his first public meeting tonight here and was greeted by a full house at the city hall. Hon. Harry Mills and Karl Homuth, M. P. P., were the speakers, and they were quite critical of the Federal Government, the latter going so far as to make an offer to meet any Meighen Cabinet minister on the public platform for a debate

"No More Dumping of Little Asias Into Canada," Says Walter McRaye; "100 Per Cent. Canadians Wanted"

Spendthrift Buying in U.S.A. Cause of Present Idleness in This Dominion, Mr. McRaye Tells Women's Canadian Club

"Canada should harbor no man who cannot and will not become a Canadian."

Mr. Walter McRaye threw a challenge to the members of the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon, when in a vivid address on Canadian citizenship he said "we have come to the time when we must decide whether we are going to have a Canadian people or just a string of people living in Canada with their eyes fixed on some other country."

Mr. McRaye, himself a 100 per cent. Canadian and an orator of repute throughout the continent, denounced in no uncertain terms the "silly dictum" by which Canadian-born children are classed in the nationality of their parents; "do you know that on our Canadian birth certificates there is a marginal note which says that the word Canadian must not be used as that indicates citizenship and not race origin. He asked "how are we going to Canadianize the foreigners when we are not Canadianized ourselves?"

"I am talking to you as a Canadian to Canadians, Mr. McRaye said in beginning his address. "I don't care wether you are Liberal-Conservative or Conservative-Liberal, or whether some of our U. F. O. friends have wandered in, but I tell you if we are ever to become the great nation that our stand in the war forecast, it is time we began to develop a Canadian consciousness and perhaps a Canadian conscience as well."

ADVERTISED CANADA.

"The war advertised Canada as nothing else on earth could have done," the speaker continued. "We are known the world over and particularly in Germany. The Germans have a whole-souled regard for Canadians, remembering that where the Canadians were there was a hot time for Fritzie."

"They boasted of the iron breed of the North, but they forgot that we had a North on this continent, and that Canada was most of it, until they met the Canadians at a place that Tommy Atkins called 'Wipers.' What Canada and the Canadians achieved in the world war was not a matter of chance, the Canadians were merely running to form."

"I am not forgetting that one must talk politics to a Canadian Club," Mr. McRaye went on, "but I tell you that the present issue is no longer a question of free trade or protection, but a question of economics and patriotism. Is it worth your while getting into the habit of asking if the goods you buy are made in Canada. Let me show you that the one reason for Canadian idleness to-day is the willingness of Canadians to purchase luxuries they could well do without from the United States, an army of foolish persons, rich through high wages and war profits, have indulged in an orgie of extravagant buying across the American border. We have imported $8,000,000 worth of American boots into Canada in the past year, do you wonder that our shoe factories are running part time only. Into our rich agricultural country we have imported $32,000,000 worth of fruit, including 798,000 barrels of apples, with the apples rotting on our own trees because it is not worth while to pick them. The bottom has fallen out of our fishing industry in the Maritime Provinces, and yet we imported $3,600,000 worth of fish into Canada during the past year. You pay a high price for coal, of which 78,000,000 tons were imported last year, and yet in the Sydney district of Cape Breton alone there are one thousand million tons of just that same coal, which we could have if the freight rates were so arranged. Altogether, we have imported a billion and a quarter dollars worth of goods into Canada in one year, and we have sold into the United States half a billion dollars worth.

THE UNEDUCATED VOTER.

The speaker scored the lack of education among the enfranchised Canadians. "At the last federal election it was shown that 15 per cent. of the people who voted could neither read nor write," he said. "Is it safe to leave the franchise to such intellectual darkness as that?

We should have some system of civics in our schools," Mr. McRaye contended. "We have got to educate our people if we are going to save our country and our resources. Through the rural and smaller communities the women tel me they are not interested in politics, which is just playing into the hands of the men who so gallantly withheld the franchise from them because they were not intelligent enough to use it. Every woman in Canada should be just as intelligent as the men on the politics of the day, and God knows they would not have to go far in some cases."

"Do you know why the Farmer movement has gained such a following?" the speaker asked. "Because they have sent out speakers on the tariff and the fiscal question to every crossroad Orange hall; because their boys and girls are holding debates and hearing lectures on the tariff. I will guarantee that the boys and girls of London are not debating on the tariff question; they are more likely at the movies."

Mr. McRaye urged a greater study of Canadian history in the schools, a greater reverence for the Canadian flag, which he would see flying over every school. "Let the children remember that it is because 60,000 of their older brothers sleep in Flanders that the flag flies safely there," he said.

The history of Canada, the romantic sagas of the early days, the epics of French Canada, the splendid history of the fathers of Confederation, "statesmen all, engaged in the framing of that great charter," all these, the speaker felt, were a neglected treasury in the Canadian public schools.

The status of the Canadian writer in Canada also came in for a share of criticism. "We have lost four millions of our population to the United States since Confederation," Mr. McRaye stated, "and we got a million and a half in return; that, to quote Canon Scott, is the only kind of reciprocity we can have with the U. S. A. Eighty-five per cent. of our raw pulp goes into the United States, and we buy it back in its finished state. It goes over there to furnish the Hearst yellow papers that come into Canada to knock everything that our Government and the Government of the U. S. A. stand for."

DEAD TO CANADIANISM.

"We are dead to Canadianism from our feet up," Mr. McRaye declared. "We have neglected to develop nationalism, and when I say nationalism, I do not preach the nationalism of Mr. Bourassa and his kind, who think any one of the 57 varieties of it will be a panacea for all ills. But never again in Canada must we see a wholesale dumping of Asia, the formation of little Greeces, and Palestines, a people who never learn our language, and whose aim is only to return to their fatherland. It is a matter of congratulation that Mr. Meighen's Government is going to bring down a scheme of selective immigration, for you cannot stop immigration into Canada any more than you can stop the day of judgment. But we don't want a melting pot, such as the Americans boasted of. When the war came they found it wouldn't melt, but slopped over instead, and there was discovered a scum that became a menace.

"Don't worry about the empire," Mr. McRaye summed up. "It has weathered many a worse storm than the Irish question, and has been the better and stronger for it. The time has come for Canadians to worry about Canada instead."

Indoor Life

Spending more time indoors makes women far more subject to constipation than men.

The liver becomes sluggish and torpid, the bowels constipated and the system poisoned by impurities.

The benefits from their use are as lasting as they are prompt and certain.

Mrs. John Barry, 18 St. Amable Street, Quebec, Que., writes:

"This is to certify that I was troubled for years with constipation and tried all kinds of medicines without relief. At last my husband suggested that I try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I did so, and must say that they have given me more relief than all the medicine I have taken during the last fifteen years. I may also add that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles with excellent results."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25c a box, all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

HOME SIDE OF CHILD WELFARE TO THE FORE

Association Will Ask Volunteer Help for Families and Clinics

The other side of child welfare, the home side, is to be very fully discussed at the semi-annual meeting of the London Child Welfare Association, called for next Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.

With a view to interesting the citizens generally in an aspect of the work that is neither the immediate care of children nor the relief of financial necessity, the executive of the association is asking all interested to attend this meeting, to help in solving a problem that is being more and more forced on the attention of the city workers.

"It is the families that need help, and that of a different kind from an occasional basket of groceries or order of coal," Miss Bertha Smith, head nurse of the welfare staff, complained to The Free Press yesterday. "We can, and we are, looking after the babies, and public health nursing has made wonderful strides in this city, but, as one mother said to us, 'It is all very well to order meat for the children, but where is the meat coming from?' It is to help in these home straits that we are asking the citizens to meet with us next week.

KEEP HOMES GOING.

"We want to keep the homes together," Miss Smith said, "and there is a better way of doing it than spasmodic or even organized relief after the crash comes. I am going to suggest that when cases of need are brought to our notice through our clinics or our visiting, that we be enabled to turn one family over to one particular club or organization for help during the bad times. I do not mean wholly charity, but rather assistance in placing that family on its feet again, a loan, if need be, for the temporary need, work supplied where it is needed, and a sort of general supervision till things are righted again. Already we have one or two societies carrying on just this type of work. The I Serve Club has taken one family; class 27, of Dundas Center Church, another, and I am hoping for some further offers as a result of Monday's meeting."

A second type of service which the laity can perform is volunteer assistance at the well-baby clinics, conducted weekly in the four wards of the city. Miss Smith pointed out that there is much that may be done at these clinics that does not require the attention of a trained nurse.

"If we could get some of the high school girl graduates to help us, as they are doing elsewhere, it would meet the need splendidly," Miss Smith stated. "They could give all the assistance needful to the nurse in charge, and would obviate the necessity of taking away our trained nurses from the public health work, beside the scheme would afford an excellent demonstration in mother craft for the girls themselves."

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

There are funny faces you can make out of just one letter, like Mr. Gee Whizz or there is old Man Alphabet which it takes many letters to make. Can you tell just how many different kind of letters that it took to make Old Man Alphabet?

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

But in this instance, at least, he was wrong. Laxton had paid no attention at all to his threats and bullying. He had stayed away because it suited him to do so and because he quite intended Norah to miss him. He had calculated his chances to a nicety.

Barton Manor drew up its blinds on a Thursday morning; Norah, walking along the road to the village, with Friday at her heels, saw that the windows were wide open and the carriage gates fastened back, as if arrivals were expected. A little flush dyed her cheeks, her heartbeats quickened.

Was Laxton coming back? She longed to know. She went into the village post office in the hope of hearing something from Anderton, the local retailer of sugar and gossip.

And Anderton did not fail her. There happened to be no other customers in his shop at the time, and he was only too willing to talk.

"We're to have great doings at the manor," he said, as he counted Norah's change across the counter. "I hear there's a whole crowd coming down from London this afternoon."

"Oh!" said Norah. She was half afraid to raise her eyes lest they should betray her eagerness. "You mean that this is to be the much-talked-about house party?"

All the village had heard that the black sheep proposed to fill the house with his London friends; it had been the one topic of conversation since he had left Lumsden.

"Twenty-five expected, so I hear," Anderton told her. "And a chef coming, too, and a staff of servants. Wonderful how some people manage to see life on nothing a year."

Norah said nothing. She disliked Anderton thoroughly.

"It's a rare change for Lumsden, that it is," he went on. "Old Mr. Snowden would turn in his grave if he could come back and see the goings on that there'll be."

"Well, it was dull enough when Mr. Snowden lived at Barton Manor," Norah said sharply. "Personally, I think a little excitement will do us all good." She walked out of the shop without answering his mildly amazed "Good morning."

So Laxton was coming back. Her spirits went up like rockets; the burden of depression she had carried during the past week seemed to have fallen from her.

She wondered what Laurie Fenton was doing.

Laurie had not been over since that afternoon, and Norah very shrewdly guessed that her visit then had only been prompted by a desire to hear something more of the master of Barton Manor.

She wondered if Laxton would make any attempt to see her. It seemed hardly likely. Perhaps they would just meet in the village and he would raise his hat and pass on; at any rate, there would be no more little intimate talks or rides through the sunny country in the gray torpedo car.

It seemed such a long cry back to that afternoon—such a long cry back to that night in the garden when Laxton had asked her to forgive him.

There had never been anything to forgive, she told herself, with a little forlorn feeling. She wished that she had said so—wished that she had not stood there so tongue-tied, and afraid. No doubt he had thought her a coward; no doubt he had believed that she really was afraid of her father and Rodney, and quite willing to give him up at their bidding.

She had nearly reached home when, away in the distance, she heard the low sound of a motor horn, and for an instant her pulses raced. Then she laughed to herself. After all, it was absurd to feel like this every time she heard the sound of a horn or the whir of a motor car; it was so unlikely that it would be Laxton— And then she heard it again, louder this time, and she had only just moved to the roadside when round the bend swept the gray torpedo car, and she just caught a glimpse of Laxton's face as he raced by.

There was a woman beside him, and behind followed two more cars—large touring cars which seemed to be filled with people.

They had passed and were out of sight in an instant, and Norah stood looking after them forlornly.

He had got his own friends.

There was a little lump in her throat.

"You're a fool, a perfect fool, my dear," she apostrophized herself contemptuously.

But for the rest of the day she could settle to nothing. She was afraid to go down the village and yet she longed to. She told herself that she would rather die than let Laxton think she wanted to see him, and yet every time there was a step in the lane or a voice in the garden her heart leaped to the certainty that it must be he.

It was Friday who finally settled the question. When she took him down the lane leading from the house for his evening walk he turned off toward the village, and obstinately refused to reconsider his desire and come back.

When Norah called to him, he looked round, wagged his tail and trotted on again; he was going to Lumsden, whether she liked it or not, and finally she gave in and followed.

If Laxton saw her she felt that she would died of shame. It seemed to her sincerity that he must know how much she wished to see him again. She only breathed freely once more when she was well past the house.

In honor of Miss Gladys Pulling, a bride-elect of the month, Mrs. Glen W. Pulling was the hostess this week of a kitchen shower at her home in King street. All sorts of useful and unique kitchen things were hung on a make-believe clothesline, from which the bride-to-be was invited to take her choice. Each gift was accompanied by a clever jingle which caused great fun in the reading. Supper was later served from a table charmingly arranged with yellow mums and white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Cameron Wilson was the hostess yesterday afternoon of a charming tea arranged in honor of Miss Doris Yarker. Mrs. John Wilson poured tea at the pretty table with its great central jar of yellow mums, Miss Layton, Miss Mona Wilson and Miss Babbie Chisholm assisting. A pretty social event was the miscellaneous shower given this week by Mrs. A. Wolf, at her home in Maple street, in honor of Miss Mary MacBurney, whose marriage to Mr. Morris John Wolf takes place next month. The supper table was lovely with its streamers of rose color stretching from the chandelier and its dainty miniature bride and groom surrounded by the prettiest toy bridal party imaginable. Mrs. Wright and Mrs. F. L. Smith assisted Mrs. Wolf in looking after the guests, who, during the evening, presented the bride-to-be with many lovely gifts. Autumn flowers and glowing fires made the pretty rooms most attractive.

The house of Miss Letta Clement, 38 Beaconsfield avenue, was the scene of a happy gathering of girls on Wednesday evening, when Miss Ida Holliday, a bride-to-be of early November, was the guest of honor. The early part of the evening was spent in games and music. Later a dainty supper was served in the dining-room, where the decorations were carried out in pink and white. A lovely bouquet of pink rosebuds and asparagus fern centering the table, surrounded with a shower of recipes, caught with white baby ribbons which led to the end of the table and were tied with a large white bouquet where the guest of honor sat. Much fun was created by the reading of the verses which accompanied each recipe. The evening ended with the good wishes of all the guests for the popular bride-to-be.

HALE ST. C.G.I.T.

The Canadian Girls in Training, of the Hale Street Methodist Church, held a most enjoyable masquerade party at the home of their leader, Mrs. Bruce Tremaine, King street, this week. The scene was a pretty one. Artistic Halloween decorations formed a fitting background for the girls' gayly colored costumes, many of which showed quaintness and originality.

Weddings

Mitchell-Yeates.

An event of much interest to many London friends took place this week in Grand Ledge, Mich., at the home of Mayor, D. D., and Mrs. Shane, when their niece, Miss Vera Yeates, M. A., became the bride of Mr. J. C. Mitchell, eldest son of Commissioner F. G. and Mrs. Mitchell, of this city. The ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian Church, Lansing, after which Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell left for their new home in Los Angeles, California.

Mills-Neely.

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Neely, when their youngest daughter, Edna Victoria, was united in marriage to Mr. John McIntyre Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mills, of this city. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mr. Reed in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom, a dainty wedding luncheon was served, about 20 guests being present.

The bride wore a gown of white georgette, over satin, and lovely bridal veil of tulle, with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Mills left on the afternoon train for a brief visit to Eastern cities, the bride traveling in a pretty fur coat, the gift of the groom.

Simpson-Watson.

A pretty wedding took place at Maple Glen, the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Watson, on October 12, when their youngest daughter, Violet Eva, became the bride of Hugh Simpson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Simpson, of Enniskillen, Rev. Mr. La Mont officiating. Miss Mabel Simpson, sister of the groom, played the wedding march, and the bride was given in marriage by her father, and was gowned in white crepe de chine, with pearl embroidery and veil of tulle banded with orange blossoms. After a wedding reception and luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left for Toronto, Niagara Falls and points east, the bride traveling in a navy tricotine suit, with small feather hat and a handsome fur scarf, the gift of the groom. They will reside on the groom's farm, concession 12, Enniskillen.

Rev. Monsignor Parent, P. P., officiated. The bride and groom were attended by Miss Rhea Benoit, of Detroit, sister of the bride, and Mr. Ray Dugald, of Windsor. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue duvetyn, trimmed with astrachan fur, and hat to match, while her bridesmaid was smartly frocked in brown. A dainty wedding breakfast and reception followed the ceremony, the guests being a few near relatives and friends of the family. Mr. and Mrs. Reaume left on the morning train for Toronto, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Windsor, where the groom is a prosperous young business man.

LADIES MAY HAVE TO SEEK NEW CANDIDATES

Citizenship Committee Has Choice of Many Names If Present Nominees Decline

So far no announcement of definite candidature for the school board has been made by the citizenship committee of the Local Council of Women, and it is expected that a second meeting of this organization will be called in the course of the next week to consider further names.

Although no details have been given out by the committee it is understood that the six persons suggested for nomination at a recent meeting of the committee have been approached, but with one exception have declined to stand.

The six names proposed were selected by ballot from a large list of suggestions sent in by various women's organizations of the city, and it will be possible for the committee to make further satisfactory selection from the balance of this list, as well as from additional names which have been submitted.

A SLATE OF SIX.

As the office of citizenship committee is to receive the nominations sent in by any of the women's societies in affiliation with the Labor Council, it is believed that a final slate of six will be presented by the committee, representing the nominations of the women of London.

The committee will not, it is thought, consider nominations for any civic office other than the Board of Education.

In addition to the mass meetings of women voters to be addressed by the Liberal-Conservative and Liberal candidates for the coming federal election, the committee hopes to arrange one general meeting after the civic nomination day, at which candidates for any municipal office will have an opportunity of presenting their case to the women of the city.

Magical Effect of New Face Peeler

To maintain a clear, soft, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream; in the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. Mercolized wax causes the worn-out scarf skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality, you wonder why you had not heard of this marvelous complexion renewing secret long ago.

To get rid of your wrinkles here's a formula that is wonderfully effective: One ounce powdered saxolite, dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. Bathe the face in this and you will be simply astonished at the results, even after the first trial.—Advt.

Ont. W.I. Would Ban Marriage Of Divorcees

Resolutions Dealing With Divorce and Criminal Laws, Social Hygiene, Etc., to Come Before Institutes at Annual Convention Next Week

That the Women's Institutes of Western Ontario are prepared to do their share in the big nation-wide affairs of the moment is demonstrated by some of the resolutions which will be considered at the annual convention taking place in this city next week.

These resolutions have come in from the Social Service Council, from the various branch institutes, and from other sources, and cover many of the pressing needs for which improved legislation is required at the present time.

A Kingsville resolution "deplores the increase of divorces, and would favor a law preventing the remarriage of divorcees," also recommending that "the minimum marriage age be 18 with parental consent, 21 without parental consent."

Outstanding is the resolution urging the Government "to make all immigrants understand that our country is and always will be Canadian, and that any attempt to establish foreign customs, language, etc, will not be tolerated."

MEDICAL INSPECTION.

From the Orlinda branch comes the resolution "that medical inspection of parties before marriage shall be compulsory, and that such as are affected by venereal disease shall be prohibited from marriage."

This branch asks also for supervision of public dance halls, and "that false registration in hotels be a criminal offense, and that the law dealing with this matter be reinstalled and become effective."

Other resolutions are:

"That we are unanimous in our opinion that every married woman should be permitted to take out papers in her own right."

"That we, as branches, are decidedly in favor of parents educating their children in sex hygiene; of encouraging the establishment of playgrounds, swimming pools and gymnasiums; and of having qualified supervisors in attendance wherever public dancing is permitted."

Among the subjects for discussion during the convention will be the care of the feeble-minded, social hygiene, criminology, and Indian affairs. As a result of the discussions it is expected important resolutions dealing with these matters will be formulated and sent on through the Social Service Council to the Government.

DUNDI'S CENTER L.A. PLAY QUAINT COMEDY

Going back to the days of bonnets and crinoline, of mitts and reticules, the cast chosen for the presentation of "Afternoon Tea in Friendly Village" offered a very clever and attractive production at Dundas Center Methodist Sunday school last evening.

Given by the Ladies' Aid Society as a benefit for the Children's Memorial Hospital, the play proved so successful and so popular that the "company" is seriously considering a second performance.

The plot of the little comedy hinges around Aunt Mary's family album of life-size photographs. The cover is opened and, presto, there are the portraits, and living portraits at that, displaying the quaint gowns and furbelows of grandmother's day.

The tea party continues through the visit of two fashionable ladies from town, whose ultra frocks create more than a ripple among the Friendly Village folk, and features the reading of a paper on "Women's Rights" from the viewpoint of 1862. Old songs and recitations and the closing chorus, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," were cleverly introduced.

Mrs. E. J. Allen, as stage manager and director, is deserving of much praise for the smoothness and ease of the presentation, in which Mrs. W. R. Grant, as Mrs. Kelly, played the leading role in a delightful fashion. The remaining characters, whose work was exceptionally good throughout, were:

THIS WOMAN'S RECOVERY

Shows Remarkable Restorative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chesley, Ont.—"Before using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had terrible pains in my sides and was not regular. Finally I got so weak I could not go up stairs without stopping to rest half way up the steps. I tried two doctors but they did me no good. I saw your medicine advertised in the newspapers and thought I would give it a trial. I took four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and was restored to health. I am married, am the mother of two children, and do all my housework, milk eight cows, and do a hired man's work and enjoy the best of health. I also found Vegetable Compound a great help for my weak back before my babies were born. I recommend it to all my friends who are in need of medicine, and you may print this letter if you wish."—Mrs. HENRY JANKE, R. R. No. 4, Chesley, Ontario.

It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

Not liking her neighbor on her right at the fair, Henrietta Hen sidled up to the wire netting on the opposite side of her pen. Peering through it she examined the person whom she saw just beyond, in a pen of her own.

A very sleek hen was this, who gave Henrietta a slight nod.

"We may as well speak," she said, "since we're to live next to each other for a week."

"A week!" Henrietta groaned. "Shall I have to stay cooped up here as long as that?"

"Yes!" said Neighbor No. 2. "And I don't blame you for feeling as you seem to. A week is a long time for everybody here—except me."

Henrietta Hen didn't understand what she meant.

"I'm going to win the first prize—with my chicks," Neighbor No. 2 announced. "Of course, that's worth waiting here a week."

"Pardon me!" Henrietta exclaimed. "I don't see how you can win the first prize."

"Why not?" demanded the other. And she pressed against the wire netting of her pen and stuck her head through it as far as she could, as if she would have pecked Henrietta had she been able to.

"Because—" Henrietta explained—"because the lady on the other side of me is going to win it."

"Who said so?"

"She did," Henrietta answered.

"Ha! ha!" cackled Neighbor No. 2. "That's a good joke. She hasn't any more chance of winning than—than you have!"

"We may as well speak," she said, "since we're to live next to each other for a week."

Now, Henrietta Hen couldn't help being puzzled. But whoever might win the first prize, she was sure it couldn't be she. Hadn't her neighbors on either side of her the same as told her that she couldn't win?

Henrietta would have felt quite glum except that she couldn't very well mope in the midst of the terrific racket all about her. Soon her neighbors—both No. 1 and No. 2—were having loud disputes with the hens in the pens on the further side of them. It seemed as if every hen at the fair had left her manners at home—if they ever had any.

"Goodness!" Henrietta Hen murmured to herself. "If there's a prize it must be for the one that make the most noise.

In a little while throngs of men, women and children crowded into the poultry hall. They paused before the pens and looked at the occupants, making remarks that were sometimes full of praise and sometimes slighting.

Henrietta Hen felt terribly uneasy when people began to stop and stare at her. She dreaded to hear what they would say. After the way her next-door neighbor had talked to her she didn't believe anybody could have a word of praise for her.

She soon heard all sorts of remarks about herself. Some said she was too little and some said she was too big; others exclaimed that her legs were too short, while still others declared that they were too long! As these—and many similar—comments fell upon Henritta's ears she promptly decided that there wasn't anything about her that was as it should be.

Having always called herself (before she left home) a "speckled beauty," she began to feel very low in her mind. And there was only one thing that kept her from being downright sad. All the sightseers agreed that she had some pretty chicks.

Henrietta couldn't help wishing that they had a different mother—one that was worthy of them.

PARIS (By Mail.)—Two important features indicate the extreme newness of this blue serge dress. The draped waistline, drawn into the figure by the jet cabochon at the side, where the back of the bodice is brought around to the side front for fastening. And the transparent sleeves, colorful with delicate embroidery tracings in soft rose and silver. Note, too, the cut of the sleeves, which, though fitted at the armhole, flare out gradually into quite a circular shape at the wrist, which is emphasized by the deep band of rose chiffon. The hem is fashionably irregular, broken by the funnel-shaped panel effect at the side.

Not a gown is this for the small woman, and not a gown for the kind of hard service usually demanded of a blue serge dress, but I include it for the attractive suggestions it offers in the way of a new silhouette and the novel sleeves. It is a design which will lend itself very gracefully to silk.

BOTHWELL O. E. S.

KINTYRE W. M. S.

The thank-offering meeting of the Kintyre W. M. S. was held successfully this week, the resulting sum being most gratifying. Mrs. Robertson, of Toronto, was a welcome guest at the gathering, over which Rev. W. A. Leitch presided. Mrs. Robertson's talk on the history of the W. M. S. and the work carried on by this society in parts of Canada proved very interesting, and the church choir added a great deal to the pleasure of the evening by its selections.

SIDE TALKS

RUTH CAMERON

"I DON'T BELIEVE IT."

Do you ever find yourself saying when anything passes your comprehension or seems unlikely to you, "I don't believe it?"

Once upon a time when I was a little girl another little girl told me that she had heard how a man was killed because he took hold of another man and tried to pull him off an electric wire, and he just stuck to the first man, and another man stuck to him, and they were both killed. I thought that was a very silly story to expect me to believe. "I don't believe it," I said. She defended the authenticity and veracity of her source, and as I remembered we nearly came to blows over it.

Of course, I have looked back many times since and laughed at the pugnacity and the cocksureness of that foolish little girl who had learned that there were more things in heaven and earth than were dreamed of in her philosophy.

And yet how often older folks who have been taught their ignorance over and over again by finding how tiny an island is their knowledge and experience, in the vast sea of possible knowledge and experience, will still say "I don't believe it' (or think it if they do not say it) when confronted with some fact or condition which does not square with what they know, or think they know.

The same little girl who said "I don't believe it" when she was told of the deadly effects of electricity, was told some years ago of a certain author who had been getting $800 for her short stories and who was not satisfied and put up the price to $1,200. I had no idea then of the prices authors received for fiction and in my mind I promptly said, "This story has been exaggerated. I don't believe it.'

That was only five years ago, yet in the time that has passed between I have seen something of the inside of the fiction market and I know that while only a skilled and well established writer would get $1,200 for a short story that it is far from the top price. As a matter of fact a very popular writer who was receiving $2,500 for a short story was recently offered $3,000 by a magazine which wished to steal him away. Very likely the story as told by the author was perfectly true.

Of course, the well bred grown up does not say "I don't believe it" whenever anyone tells him some fact which he does not believe, but if he thinks it, he is establishing his narrow mindedness and ignorance just the same.

To be sure one is not supposed to believe everything one hears. That would be silly. But neither is one to reject a thing because it does not fit in with preconceived notions. The source from which information comes is a better criterion of its value than the average person's judgment of its likelihood. If you read or heard a thing and the person is rekable who said or wrote it, why not try to withhold judgment even if the thing runs counter to your ideas.

What a wonderful thing a reputation for reliability is, by the way, a sort of personal trade-mark copyrighted in the courts of character.

MILK AT CHATHAM FOUND UNCLEAN

Seven Out of Eight Samples Tested Declared Dirty

LACK OF CARE CAUSE

Investigation Held by Medical Officer of Health

CHATHAM, Oct. 27.—The condition of the milk at present being supplied to the householders of Chatham has been made the subject of an investigation on the part of the medical officer of health, Dr. T. L. Ritchie. He finds out of 8 samples of milk taken from local vendors, all but one were very dirty. From 36 samples of milk taken from producers 15 were dirty or very dirty, 13 only fairly clean and 8 clean. The M. O. H. thinks the trouble which causes the dirty milk in Chatham is due to the fact that the producers do not take the proper care in milking.

Petty thieving continues in this district. Mrs. H. R. Arnold, of Harwich, reports that her home was entered and a quantity of preserved fruit taken. Frank Chesley, the farmer who missed a set of single harness from his barns, reports that the harness was returned in his absence from home. Harry Burleigh, the young man accused of stealing a bicycle from H. A. Kayhue, of Chatham Township, has been remanded for a week.

MEDALS PRESENTED.

The graduation exercises of the McKeough School attracted a large number of children and parents to the Victoria Avenue Methodist Church yesterday afternoon. Medals were presented to the scholars securing the highest standings during the past school term, and addresses were given by prominent educationists of the city and members of the board of education. Alex. Clarke acted as chairman and presided over a fine program given by the pupils of the school.

The medalists were: Max Tyrrell, manual training; Kathleen Harper, domestic science; Stanley Moir, art; Homer Stringer, marksmanship; Clarence Browning, athletics; and the following for general proficiency: Malcolm Wood, Walter Neath, John S. Gray, Jack Clark, Jean McEachran, Robert Biddell, Orlo McDonald, Kathryn Hicks and Helen Ferguson.

During the afternoon Miss Abram, the principal, and Miss Mia Farquharson, the teacher of the Entrance classes, were presented with gifts.

Geoffrey O'Hara, a former Chatham boy, who has made a great success in the New York world of music, visited his home town last night for the purpose of staging an entertainment under the direction of the Chatham Golf Club. He was assisted by Mr. Wetmore, a reader, of New York. The entertainment was held in the Park Street Methodist Church, which was well filled with an appreciative audience. Mr. O'Hara sang a large number of songs of his own composition, and was given a great ovation.

MAKE STRONG GRAPE WINE.

Householders who brew their own beer are breaking the law unless they have a permit from the inland revenue department, according to a statemant made to-day by Matthew Side, license inspector for Kent County.

That is, if the beer they brew is stronger than the legal status of beer, namely 2.75 per cent., they can be liable for prosecution.

A law to this effect was passed by the Government years ago and, as far as the license inspector knows, it has never been repealed.

On the other hand no permit is needed to make grape wine as strong as he may wish. Other wines, such as dandelion, rhubarb and others are really outside the law, according to the license inspector. And any wine containing grains is also illegal.

Recently a citizen called up License Inspector Side on the phone to say that he had been asked to buy a special recipe for home-brewed beer from some man who was doing a good business along this line among citizens. The inspector told his inquirer that beer brewed lower than 2.75 per cent. was perfectly lawful.

WHY GAS PRICES UP.

Local auto dealers state that the recent advance in the price of gasoline from 35 to 37 cents a gallon is due to the railways and the difficulties of transportation. Crude oil is also showing an increase of three cents a gallon over the former prices.

The newly-formed Rotary Club held a meeting yesterday at which addresses were delivered by Messrs. Fuller, Coats, Foex, Richards, Sulman and Hall. R. L. Stratton, the president, was in the chair. The charter for the club has not yet arrived, but is expected in a few days.

The death occured in St. Joseph's Hospital here of Mrs. Catherine C. McDougall, of Wallaceburg, wife of Hugh McDougall. She had been ill for two weeks. The remains were taken to Wallaceburg and the funeral will be held on Saturday. She is survived by her husband, one daughter, Adelaide, and a son, Gelard, who is attending L'Assumption College.

HERE'S A LANDLORD WHO LIKES KIDDIES AROUND

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 28. — "Tenement to let; not less than five children wanted."

This advertisement, unusual in days of childless apartments controlled by flat-seeking landlords, recently brought applicants for the suite within two hours.

Hugh O'Dowd, the unmarried landlord who inserted the advertisement, explained by saying:

"I like kids, that's all."

EDUCATION AND INDUSTRY.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 27. — At the luncheon to-day, after a brief address by Dr. Marion Lawrence, of Chicago, and Rotarian, the speaker of the day, Col. Alexander Fraser, provincial archivist, was introduced, and gave an interesting and valuable address on the application of education to

PEROXIDE SALE COSTS FORD GROCER OVER $25

Only Registered Druggists Can Sell Bleaching Fluid, Magistrate Gundy Told.

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—Sale of a 50-cent bottle of hydrogen peroxide cost C. Dubinsky, Ford grocer, $26.50 in the police court to-day. This charge against Dubinsky was preferred by Charles Boyd, inspector for the Ontario College of Pharmacy, who told Magistrate Gundy that only registered druggists can sell peroxide.

Addressing the Chamber of Commerce here this afternoon, Dr. James Inches, police commissioner of Detroit, asserted he had "eliminated all politics from his department." The commissioner also told several good stories.

P. J. England, former Windsor alderman, and W. H. Morrey will represent the local real estate board at the town planning and housing conference of Toronto next week.

BETTER LIVE STOCK FOR OXFORD COUNTY

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 27.—C. F. McKenzie, live stock representative of the Dominion department of agriculture, who is in Oxford County handling the details of the work of exchanging grade bulls for pure-bred bulls, in accordance with the campaign started by the Oxford Live Stock Improvement Association, reports that he is making excellent progress. Many changes have already been put through, and the farmers who are getting rid of their grade bulls in exchange for a six-months-old pure-bred bull calf are quite well satisfied with their bargain. The interest in the campaign continues, and the results for the first year have been very successful.

SUGAR REFINERY SITE.

PETROLEA, Oct. 27.—The Hall-Woods property, at the northeast side of the town, has been selected as the site of the new sugar factory. The topography of the ground at this location was the deciding factor by several engineers, natural drainage, no necessity for expensive filtering and nearness to water supply. Engineers are on hand making preliminary surveys and laying of railway tracks, etc.

SARNIA IS NOT HOUSING BANDITS

Chief Lannin Objects to Report From Toronto

"ARMCHAIR DETECTIVE"

J. Lippert Sent for Trial on M. V. A. Charge

SARNIA, Oct. 27.—The dispatches from Toronto citing the opinion of a police officer there to the effect that there were six gangs of bank bandits operating in this province, with headquarters at the border cities, including Sarnia, were brought to the attention of Chief Lannin, of the local force, today, who said that he did not think the party who was quoted had any such information, adding that the local department had no inkling of any such organization in Sarnia, and was positive that the report was untrue as far as this city went. Probably the remarks of some armchair detective, is the way the chief summed the matter up.

John Lippert, taxi driver, was sent up for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, by Magistrate Jarvis to-day ,on a charge of injuring John H. Landon by reckless and furious driving. He was released on bail of $2,000.

SPECIAL COURSE.

A six weeks' special training course is now being conducted concurrently in Sarnia and Chatham for the officers and men of No. 2 company, Second Canadian Machine Gun Brigade, composed of three batteries, two here and one in Chatham. Captain Beresford and Grant Adams, of Toronto, are instructing the classes, which are held two and three nights a week, alternately, in the two cities. Realistic pictures, showing the important part machine guns play in modern warfare are shown, and it is intended to give a demonstration of night firing, and range firing will be taken up as well. Major N. L. Lesuer, M. C., officer commanding here, is taking a keen interest in the training course.

More than 250 students are attending the night classes in Lochiel Street School this year, and great interest is manifested in the work which provides an opportunity for improvement in every branch of industry. The course includes sewing and dressmaking, wireless instruction, mechanics, millinery, cooking, French, Spanish, art, mathematics, mechanical drawing, woodwork, shorthand, typewriting and physical culture.

AFFECT SARNIA.

If the railroad strike materializes in the United States on Sunday it will affect the employment situation greatly at the tunnel. An official stated this afternoon that probably one-third of the crews running out of Sarnia would be laid off in such an event until traffic could be resumed. The districts contiguous to the American boundary, and Sarnia especially, would be the greatest sufferers.

Great preparations are being made for the celebration at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday, of the 78th anniversary of the founding of the congregation. Captain Rev. J. B. Paulin, of Rosedale, Toronto, will conduct the services, and Harold Jarvis will render three solos at each service. St. Andrew's is the mother of all Presbyterian churches in Lambton County, and has had but five pastors in nearly 80 years of its existence. The present pastor, Rev. J. J. Paterson, came here from Regina in 1906.

APPRECIATE STEEL TRAIN.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 27.—A visual demonstration of the modern equipment being placed in service on Canada's own railway, the Canadian National, and as well a demonstration of what Canada can manufacture in the rolling stock essentials for railways was available here to-day in the presence at the G. T. R. station of a complete all-steel train of locomotive and six new cars. The train drew hundreds of visitors throughout the day.

GALT ELECTORS SUPPORT ARENA

By-Law Carries by a Vote of 1,206 to 331

CITY IS TO LOAN $35,000

Work on Building Was Started Ten Days Ago

GALT, Oct. 27.—This city is assured of its new hockey arena for this winter. The electorate to-day by decisive majority voted a loan of $35,000 to the Galt Arena, Limited, to be payable in 20 annual installments. The vote was 1,206 for and 331 against, one of the largest ever polled on a money by-law in the city.

The work of building was started 10 days ago, and the foundation is now well under way. This was made possible as a result of 35 business men of the city going bonds for the sum required to meet the total cost, since $55,000 had been raised in stock selling campaign.

The large vote polled was the result of a splendid organization. A fleet of motor cars was engaged the entire day in carrying voters to the polls. Board of Trade members and Kiwanians got out and not only supported the by-law, but worked hard for it. Manufacturers and business men and lovers of sport also joined in the campaign.

The result of the vote is an appreciation of the good work of Galt's intermediate hockey team, O. H. A. champions of last winter, and it is a reward for their victory, as it will give them a much larger ice surface and also provide greater accommodation.

It is expected the building will be ready for use in January. Forces will be doubled up to rush on the work of construction.

MR. MURDOCK CHOSEN.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—James Murdock, former Member of the Board of Commerce, was chosen to-night as the Liberal standard bearer in the federal riding of South Toronto.

CHORAL STUDY TERM

TILBURY, Oct. 27.—The choir of St. Andrew's Church, Chatham, under the direction of Choirmaster J. Forbes Allan, gave a concert on Tuesday in the Sloan Hall, under the auspices of the Tilbury Choral Society, which in this manner inaugurated a second term of choral study, under the conductorship of Mr. Allan. The program of 20 numbers was of rare excellence. It comprised vocal numbers, solos, duets, quartets, choruses, community singing and readings.

PREMIER IS FOR UNITY IN CANADA

Declines To Appeal To Racial Prejudice In Speeches.

DEFIES HIS OPPONENTS

Dares Them To Quote Word Against French-Canadians.

NORTH BAY, Oct. 27.—(By Canadian Press staff correspondent).—The Opera House, which holds approximately 1,000, was quite inadequate to accommodate the crowd which gathered to-night to hear Premier Meighen, Hon. R. J. Manion, minister of soldiers' civil re-establishment; Hon. L. P. Normand, president of the Privy Council, and C. R. Harrison, National Liberal and Conservative candidate in Nipissing County in which North Bay is situated. No arrangements had been made for an overflow meeting, and so a number of persons were unable to hear the speakers.

In the course of his speech, Premier Meighen dared his political opponents in Quebec to quote a single utterance emanating from him against the French Canadians. The campaign of "villainous abuse" which was being carried on was absolutely unjustifiable, he said.

"Whatever the methods of these politicians, I do not propose to follow their example among my own race," he went on. "My first effort is, and shall be, to bring about union and good feeling among the races."

The prime minister's trip from Sault Ste. Marie was punctuated by stops at Sudbury, Warren, Verner, Cache Bay and Sturgeon Falls. At some of these Places, Premier Meighen merely got off and shook hands with a number of those who had come down to the station in the hope of seeing him. In others he made short speeches. At Cache Bay and Sturgeon Falls the prime Minister, Mr. Manion, Mr. Harrison, the National Liberal and Conservative candidate in Nipissing for Federal House; Charles McCrae, M.P.P., and Col. H. A. Mackie, formerly member in the Federal House for North Renfrew, spoke briefly. The latter, who has just returned from Russia, described conditions there, where thousands of persons were dying from starvation.

ISSUES CHALLENGE.

Premier Meighen said that politicians in the Province of Quebec, who were opposed to the Government, had attempted for years to malign him in that province. What they declared was false, and they knew it because they had worked with him in the Commons. He defied these politicians to point out a single sentence he had ever uttered that showed the slightest lack of cordiality and friendship for the French-Canadian people, or the slightest animosity toward any class of people in the Dominion.

Opponents of the Government were trying to get farmers and workmen in Canada to vote against the present administration, claiming that the manufacturers and big interests were lined up behind it, said Mr. Meighan. In Russia the result of an effort to set various classes one against the other, was ruin and starvation. Class antagonism brought its penalties, and Canada could not expect to escape them if her people listened to the cries of the political opponents of the Government, he said.

"I don't think they can work that game in the Dominion," he remarked.

Dr. Manion said he considered that the only policy which meant success to Canada was the fiscal policy of the Government. He saw no reason why a man might not remain a good Liberal and yet support Mr. Meighen.

Hon. L. P. Normand, speaking in French, regretted that efforts were being made by some politicians to develop friction between the French and English races in Canada for political purposes. Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir George Etienne Cartier had labored to make this a united Canada. Governments since their time had also kept this end in view. In view of the fact that Liberal leaders such as Mr. King, Mr. Fielding and Sir Lomer Gouin enunciated varying views on fiscal questions it was difficult, said Dr. Normand, to know what the Liberal tariff policy was.

THE PREMIER.

Mr. Meighen declared that politicians in Quebec were using the lamentable division that arose over conscription in order to make political capital. He was being referred to as a hangman, and had been charged with making bitter speeches against the French-Canadians. There was absolutely no truth in these charges. No newspaper could quote an utterance of his which could justify the campaign of "villainous abuse" which was being carried on against him. Whatever the methods of these politicians in Quebec, he did not propose to follow their example among his own race.

"My first effort is, and shall be, to bring about union and good feeling among the races, for that is the most important policy," said the premier.

"To-day we face you with a Government made up of both French and English ministers, which appeals to all Canadians, regardless of race and creed, for their support."

JAP STEAMER SINKS.

SEATTLE, Wn., Oct. 28.—The Japanese steamship Fukui Maru sank 375 miles off Cape Flattery, Wn., at midnight last night, in a hurricane, but all her passengers and crew were picked up by the freighter West Ivan, according to a wireless message received by the harbor department here early this morning. She was bound for Seattle from Kobe.

The West Ivan was bound for Japan and will continue to the Orient, the wireless stated. No further details were received from the West Ivan. The Fukui Maru, of 3,087 tons, was built in 1890 in Liverpool. She was owned by the Yamashita Kasen Kaisha and has been on the transpacific run for years.

CROWDING IN PENITENTIARY DUE TO THE CRIME WAVE

Statement of Parole Officer, Who Says Ticket-of-Leave Act Not Suspended

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—That the increased prison population in Portsmouth penitentiary was not due to the suspension of the Ticket-of-Leave Act, but was due to "a great crime wave," which has not been checked, was stated here this morning by Judge W. P. Archibald, Dominion parole officer. The Ticket-of-Leave Act, he emphasized, was functioning as usual and increased numbers of convicts were being released under its provisions every year.

Judge Archibald made the statement in reply to a news dispatch emanating from Kingston, which contained the information that the high prison population was due to the suspension of the Ticket-of-Leave Act and that 840 prisoners were now held there.

"The prison population trouble," the judge declared, "is not in the parole system, but emanates from other sources. A great crime wave has swept over our Dominion, especially in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces. This wave has not been checked. The number of serious crimes committed every day is appalling, and it would not surprise anyone who understands the true situation to see the population of Kingston penitentiary over 1,000 prisoners in the course of a year or so, unless, as we hope, the wave now at its zenith will begin to recede."

Alleged Bank Robber Arrested At Montreal After Gun Fight

Norman Ryan, Held for Attempt There, Identified as Man Also Wanted in Hamilton

MONTREAL, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—Norman Ryan, alias Norman J. Bell, alias Albert Slade, arrested here on a charge of attempting to rob a branch of the Bank of Commerce here on Tuesday, is believed by the police to be wanted for bank robberies in Hamilton, Ont. He was identified this morning by Eugene Laflamme, Bertillon expert at headquarters, from a circular received from the Hamilton authorities yesterday.

Ryan was arrested last night with another man, who gave his name as O'Hara. When arrested Ryan had a Luger automatic revolver and a 38-caliber Iver Johnson in his pockets and a stock of ammunition. O'Hara had an automatic revolver in his possession, fully loaded. Both men had railway tickets for Toronto in their possession. They were living at the Central Y. M. C. A.

The principal robbery in Hamilton for which the men are wanted was the hold-up of the branch of the Bank of Hamilton in July.

The two men were found to have registered at the Y. M. C. A. as from Brantford, Ont. They appeared in the police court this afternoon and were arraigned on a charge of attempt to murder George Drew, the teller of the branch of the Bank of Commerce here.

Before being captured last night, Ryan, the police said to-day, put up a fight. He was picked up by the police near the Y. M. C. A. and dodged behind trees, trying to shoot down the officers. He was finally subdued by a detective, who sprang at him from behind. Ryan's clothes were perforated with bullets from the detectives' guns.

While being taken to headquarters Ryan told the officers that "he was just as glad they got him, or else he would have got them."

CHIEF ELECTORAL OFFICER'S DUTIES

Directs All Returning Officers In Dominion.

SUPERVISES THE ELECTION

Hold Office On Same Basis As a Puisne Judge.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — The coming general election will be the first in Canada which has been held since the abolition of the office of the clerk of the crown in chancery. Provision was made, in recently amending the Dominion Elections Act, for abolition of that office, and the appointment instead of Col. O. M. Biggar, of Ottawa, as chief electoral officer. The duties of the chief electoral officer, as set forth in the act, are:

(a)—Throughout every election to properly direct all returning officers, and, in case of incompetency or neglect of duty on the part of any of them, recommend his removal and the appointment of another in his stead.

(b)—Exercise general direction and jurisdiction over the administrative conduct of elections with a view to insuring the fairness and impartiality of all election officers and compliance with the provisions of this act.

HIS RANK

The chief electoral officer holds office "on the same tenure, is removable only for cause and in the same manner, and is from time to time paid the same salary and superannuation allowance" as a puisne judge of the Supreme Court of Canada. "He shall rank as deputy head of a department, shall communicate with the governor-general through the secretary of state of Canada," the act states, and in addition to taking charge of the administration of elections he is required to act as counsel for the crown or the attorney general and make such inquiries as the governor-general may direct.

Outside of his assistant and two stenographers, "all of whom shall be appointed by the governor-in-council," the chief electoral officer is not given any permanent staff attached to his department. Provision is made, however, for him to appoint such temporary help as may be necessary from time to time for carrying out his duties in connection with the holding of elections.. The chief electoral officer is, of course, in charge of all other election officers.

It is not generally known that provision is made in the Dominion Elections Act for the penalizing of any election officer "who is guilty of any misfeasance or any wilful act or omission in violation of this act." The act provides that such election officer shall "forfeit to any person thereby aggrieved a sum not exceeding $500 in addition to the amount of all actual damage to such person thereby occasioned.

"Every election officer who refuses or neglects to perform any of the obligations or formalities required of him, by this act shall, for each such refusal or neglect, forfeit the sum of $200 to any person who sues therefore," the section continues.

NOT PERMANENT

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28. — Miss Stewart has not been notified yet that her appointment as widow's pension investigator has been made permanent, although in London and other places this has been the case.

VOLGA FREED OF DREAD DISEASE

Cholera About Run Its Course, Says Correspondent.

WEATHER IS COOLER

Medical Men State Death Rate Was 75 Per Cent.

SAMARA, Oct. 26.—(By a Staff Correspondent of The Associated Press).—Cholera has about run its course along the Volga for this year and, as the weather grows cooler, is disappearing very rapidly in spite of the weakened condition of the famine-stricken population and the unsanitary condition of impoverished refugees crowded into camps where there is absolute lack of sanitary precautions.

Vital statistics are lacking but the testimony of medical men who have wide knowledge of health conditions in the Volga districts indicates that the death rate among persons who were taken with cholera ranged from 50 to 75 per cent. This was attributed to the undernourished condition of the population and lack of facilities to treat the malady.

MADE INVESTIGATION.

Dr. Emily Burkhardt, a Russian physician who is now in the srevice of the American committee for relief in the Near East, with headquarters in Tiflis, visited the famine area recently for the purpose of studying the cholera situation. She is an expert in the treatment of cholera, and talked with many physicians and nurses who are battling with the disease in the famine area. The testimony of these medical men and women was that they were helpless because of the lack of beds for patients and proper facilities for their treatment.

"The work of the doctors and nurses has been highly dangerous and hopeless,' Dr. Burkhardt said. "Underfed doctors and nurses who try to care for cholera patients without decent hospitals and every facility for protecting themselves against the disease know that they are really risking suicide. The greatest guarantee against cholera is a stomach filled with properly prepared food. Proper feeding generates acid in the stomach, which kills the cholera germs and makes the attendants immune.

NO ILL EFFECTS.

"Years ago I saw one of my professors at the University of Moscow drink a pure culture of cholera germs to prove that persons who are in good health and properly fed have acid in their stomachs which combats the disease. He suffered no ill effects.

"The underfed medical men and women in the famine area undertake their task with the full knowledge that they risk death every time they touch a patient. Their hospitals are not screened. They have na saline solution and in most cases haven't the means for injecting it. They are without medicines and frequently without disinfectans.

"Consequently the refugees who get cholera must fight the disease as best they can."

June was the worst cholera month along the Volga. During that month the average number of new cases reported at Samara alone was about 200 daily. In July the number decreased and in August was reduced to 30 a day. Soviet officials attributed the improvements mainly to innoculation.

SCREENS UNKNOWN.

Screens are almost unknown in Russia. Consequently the great swarms of flies prevalent in midsummer doubtless did much to spread the disease. With the coming of autumn these disappeared.

Every Russian railway station provides an unlimited supply of hot water for travelers, all of whom carry a teapot and drink little water except in the form of tea. Most of the cities have also provided barrels of boiled water for drinking purposes and have numerous hot water stations where boiling water may be had without charge. Warnings against drinking unboiled water are posted very generally about public centers in the larger cities. But the inability of Russians to read and their general indifference to sanitary precautions make it difficult to protect them against epidemics.

ONLY WORKED A WEEK

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28. — It has been pointed out that Charles Stevenson, the Hart street man who attempted his life, but was unsuccessful, had not been working all summer. He was laid off work when the Massey-Harris shops closed down and could find nothing until he was again employed last week, but the job only lasted until Saturday night.

TWO GO TO GALLOWS FOR SALSBURY MURDER

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 28.—Alexander Paulson, a young Russian, last night was found guilty of the murder of W. F. Salsbury, in a hold-up here last April. He was sentenced to be hanged on January 25, the day on which his accomplice in the hold-up, Allen Robinson, also goes to the gallows.

MAGYAR PROPAGANDA DISTURBS CZECHS

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, Oct. 28.—During the final sitting of the Czecho-Slovak Senate recently attention was called to the extraordinary and unscrupulous propaganda still carried on against Czecho-Slovakia by certain elements in Hungary.

Mr. Dula, speaking for the Slovaks, indignantly protested against the reports, published abroad by Maygar agents, to the effect that the Slovaks were oppressed and imprisoned in large numbers by the Czechs. The Slovaks, he said, could not permit themselves to be represented as an oppressed people. They fought side by side with the Czechs as one people in the fight for liberty and independence, and on October 30, 1918, in the solemn declaration of Turchansky St. Martin, gave their unanimous voice for a common integral state with their Czech brethren. The Slovak people, declared Mr. Dula, in the name of the Slovak senators, would never exchange this freedom for the Magyar yoke.

Dr. Benes, the Czecho-Slovak foreign minister, said the Magyar propaganda was carried on particularly in England and in France, and its agents had large sums of money at their disposal. It was noticeable that no responsive statesman identified himself with the propaganda. The foreign journals which supported the propaganda were of a second or third-rate character and the success attending the campaign in no way corresponded to the amount of money which was being squandered upon it. The authorities of the republic, in any case, were quite alive to what was taking place and would see that the interests of the state were properly protected.

In conclusion, Dr. Benes emphasized the fact that the declaration of Mr. Dula on behalf of the Slovak members, coming as it did from the duly elected representatives of the Slovak people, was an important testimony to the unanimity of policy and sentiment existing between the Czechs and the Slovaks.

SAY BOOZE SOLD; OWNER PROTESTS

Aylmer Man Declares About 100 Cases Stolen

HEAR CASE AT ST. THOMAS

J. E. Jones Perjury Charges to Come Up on Monday

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 27.—(By Staff Reporter).—A somewhat interesting and rather unusual case will be heard by Magistrate Hunt within the next few days, and it is stated that a very strenuous fight will be made by the defendant, who is charged with violating the Ontario Temperance Act by selling liquor without a legal permit. The defendant is a prominent Aylmer man, who during September on returning from a brief vacation discovered that his home had been entered and some 75 or 100 cases of liquor stolen. He had, he alleges, carefully locked the liquor in the top story of his home, not trusting the cellar, which is the usual hiding place of such valuable property, but at all events the entire consignment disappeared overnight.

License Inspector Ross made a visit to Aylmer shortly afterwards, however, and on investigation, he alleges, that he discovered certain evidence that led him to believe that the liquor had not been stolen at all. Yesterday, on the strength of what he had learned, he laid an information before Magistrate Hunt, and a summons has been served, ordering the man to appear on a charge of selling the booze. The man is perhaps one of the best known residents of the riding, and he absolutely insists that the liquor was stolen. Just when the case will be finally disposed of is not as yet known, but it is stated that it will come up for hearing early next week.

PERJURY CASE MONDAY.

Although it is said to be a possibility that the case may be still further adjourned, the famous J. E. Jones perjury charge, in connection with the action over the confiscation by Inspector Ross of $1,500 worth of booze belonging to J. E. Jones, is billed for a hearing in the city police court on Monday. The case, which is said to be based on an alleged confession made by Frank Cosley, of Port Stanley, a man now serving a term in the reformatory for bootlegging, promises to be an interesting one. On the outcome of this case depends largely the actual disposal of the booze itself for, while Magistrate Maxwell ruled that the liquor must be handed over to Jones, who he found to be the rightful owner, Crown Attorney McCrimmon appealed against this decision and, after hearing argument, Judge C. O. Ernatinger reserved his decision pending the disposal of the perjury charge.

The outcome of the case is being awaited here with considerable interest.

OVER THE TOP.

The Chamber of Commerce drive, which has lasted just exactly three days, occupying in reality only a few hours of each day, went over the top with seven members to the good at noon to-day. The total objective was 360 members, and the first day's total was 216, the second day 89 and to-day's 62, making a grand total of 367. The workers are jubilant over the success of the campaign are now being determined to exceed the 400 mark and make St. Thomas' organization one of the largest and strongest in Canada. It already ranks with the top-notchers, Sarnia being one of the few cities in the lead.

The list of prospects is by no means exhausted and, as there are many who will join later, there is not the slightest doubt that St. Thomas will have a Chamber of Commerce of at least 400 or enen 500 members before the work of organization is complete.

A smoker is being staged by Frank Harding to-morrow night at which the canvassers will be guests of honor.

In view of the statement alleged to have been circulated at a prayer meeting in one of the city churches last night that the Chamber of Commerce workers having a good time with the money collected, Frank Harding at to-day's luncheon challenged anyone to prove such a statement.

C. McMANUS DEAD.

Relatives and friends will be deeply grieved to hear of the sudden death in Baltimore at the Johns Hopkins Hospital of Charles McManus, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McManus, 61 Alma street. The deceased, who was a very popular resident of this city, only left on Sunday to undergo an operation at the hospital. He attended the Collegiate Institute and later L'Assumption College at Sandwich. He leaves three sisters, Delia, Angelina and Margaret, also two brothers, Patrick and Joseph, at home.

As a result of an eye test conducted recently half a dozen of the oldest engineers on the Michigan Central Railway were transferred from passenger to yard service.

William McVey, the Yarmouth youth charged with passing a forged check for $1 was allowed to go on suspended sentence in the city court to-day. He was recently acquitted of a charge of theft of an automobile. His alleged companion in crime, who is believed to be the one who actually stole the machine, ascaped and is still at large.

Harold Buston, taxi driver, was allowed out on suspended sentence to-day after a week in jail on a charge of nonsupport laid by his wife.

CHINAMAN RUNS AMUCK; TWO DEAD

Wife Jumps From Window and Is Killed

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Jack San Hong, proprietor of Hong's Cafe here, ran amuck to-night and stabbed his wife, shot two of his hired Chinese help and then put a bullet through his own head, dying almost instantly. After being stabbed with a pair of scissors Mrs. Hong jumped out of a second-story window over the cafe and her skull was fractured when she struck the pavement. She is reported to be dying. One of the hired men, H. Tung, is in the hospital with a bullet wound in his abdomen, and the doctors say he cannot recover. The other man, although he received two bullet wounds, is not seriously hurt.

Shortly after 6 o'clock, while the staff was at work in the restaurant, the proprietor came through. Workers in the kitchen saw a revolver in his hand and moved out of the way. Hong went down to the cellar, where four men were at work and he immediately opened fire on them. The trigger jammed when he turned it on the third man and he calmly retraced his steps, went upstairs and reloaded. After stabbing his wife in the neck as she lay in bed he sat down on a Chesterfield, put the muzzle of the revolver against his head and fired. He toppled over dead.

One version of the trouble given to the police is that Hong was jealous of the two men he shot down. His wife arrived here only six months ago direct from China. The most probable theory, according to the police, is that Hong became temporarily insane. He had not been well lately and had lost his customary cheerfulness.

NOW ON TRAIL OF MAIL ROBBERS

Driver of Truck Identifies Picture as One of Bandits

WANTED FOR ANOTHER JOB

Fifteen Inspectors Now Assigned to Running Down Robbers

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Dispatch)—Investigators to-night were considering a theory linking New York's $1,500,000 mail robbery on Monday night with similar robberies in Toledo, Los Angeles and other cities. The possibility that the same band of criminals might be at work all over the United States was advanced after Frank Haveranck, driver of the mail truck held up here, had been shown a police circular offering a $5,000 reward for the arrest of five men who robbed Station C., in Los Angeles, on September 16. Haveranck declared that he recognized a picture of one of the five as that of a member of the trio who had robbed him at the pistol point.

A flurry followed the arrival here of Postmaster-General Hays to take a personal hand in the investigation. Assertion by Mr. Hays that robbers must be taught the mails were sacred was accompanied by announcement from Chief Postal Inspector Simmons, also here from Washington, that the number of inspectors assigned to the case had been increased to 15, with more to be added if necessary. Simmons declared that a new clue to the identity of the highwaymen had been brought to light and that arrests could be expected within a few days.

It was learned that the cash shipment of $27,104 included in the loot, whose value was officially placed at $1,454,129, was being made by the National Park Bank, of New York, to the Corning Trust Company, of Corning, N.Y. The stolen mail was bound for Easton, Wilkes-Barre, Lebanon, Allentown, Mount Carmel and Shamokin, Pa.; East Orange, N.J., and Buffalo, Catskill, Newburgh and Kingston, N.Y.

Mr. Hays made it plain that his orders for protection of the mails had been disobeyed in that the driver of the mail truck had been unarmed. Hereafter, it was asserted, an armed guard would be detailed to accompany drivers carrying valuable shipments.

HEARS BRITISH SOLDIERS KICKED

Earl Winterton Raises Question in the Commons

REPORTS FROM MOROCCO

Harsh Treatment of the Legionaires Reported

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Great Britain has asked Spain to allow a British representative to proceed to Morocco to make an independent and impartial inquiry into allegations of ill-treatment by Spanish officers of British subjects, who have enlisted in the Spanish foreign legion.

This announcement was made in the Commons to-day by Cecil Harmsworth, undersecretary of state for foreign affairs, in answer to a question by Earl Winterton. The latter asked if the Government were aware of the serious allegations made against Spanish military authorities by British subjects, mostly ex-service men, recently enlisted in the foreign legion, who claim that conditions of pay and service, promised by Spanish consuls here, have not been carried out. Earl Winterton asked further if the Government were aware that some of the British who were protesting, were illtreated, robbed and sent to Gibraltar, and that others who actually joined the Legion had been kicked and beaten by Spanish officers.

A number of Canadian ex-service men are included in the British subjects who enlisted for service in Morocco. One vessel that sailed from New York during the last summer with recruits for the Spanish foreign legion carried 33 men who had seen service in the Canadian forces during the war.

KNOW MURDERER OF TAXI DRIVER

Toronto Police Say Man Is Former Farm Hand

HAS FLED TO THE STATES

Detectives Believe Motive for Crime Was Robbery

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The murderer of Harry Strom, taxi driver, who was murderously attacked on Finch's side road on Saturday night, is known to the city detective department. A warrant will be issued for his arrest.

The man is said to have worked on a farm on North Yonge street some time ago for a period of about two months. He left this position and came down to work for a man not far from Finch's side road, where Strom was murdered. Eleven days he remained at work and prior to severing his connection there left a club bag and a suit case, but returned later to claim them. He was to call on Saturday, but failed to put in an appearance. "Everything in connection with the case points towards this man," declared a police official to-day.

An overcoat believed to have been owned by this man was found in the vicinity and it has been identified by one of his former employers as having been worn by him. The coat is of dark material, with a velvet collar, and is now in the hands of the police.

The theory given for the crime is robbery and he is believed to be in the United States.

A woman, who was believed to have entered into the crime and over whom it was said a quarrel had ensued, is also known to the police and live in the north end of the city. She is a widow, but thorough investigation by police has relieved her of any implication or knowledge of the affair. Another man, too, has been questioned.

FARMER CANDIDATE IN S. ONTARIO BACKING UP

OSHAWA, Oct. 27.—Frank M. Chapman, Farmer candidate in South Ontario, in a manifesto issued to-day, promises to give only independent support to the party led by Hon. T. A. Crerar.

He declares that the tariff cry is a bogey, and that no one seriously intends to do away with it. Mr. Chapman favors a tariff as a weapon of defense so planned that in case any nation places a higher tariff or an embargo against Canada, the Canadian tariff against that country would automatically be increased to meet it. He would also have Government control over the issuing of stocks so as to prevent watering by corporations.

Hon. Wm. Smith, Conservative, and Mr. Chapman are the only candidates in the South Ontario field thus far. The Liberal nominee withdrew and another convention is being held on Saturday afternoon at Whitby to consider the situation.

2 LADS DROWNED IN THE ST. CLAIR

Believed to Be George and Robert Brown, of Port Huron

THEIR CANOE OVERTURNED

G.T.R. Employees Make Strenuous Effort at Rescue

SARNIA, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Free Press).—Two youths believed to be George and Robert Brown, of Port Huron, were drowned in the St. Clair River this afternoon about 3 o'clock, when their canoe, which they were in, capsized, just north of the Grand Trunk elevator.

They clung to the canoe for several minutes as it drifted down stream in a stiff sea, and their cries attracted the attention of Henry Clark and Herbert Woods, employees of the G.T.R., who endeavored to break into several boathouses to get a boat and go to the rescue, but the locks would not yield.

URGED TO HOLD FAST.

Finally a boat was secured, but proved unseaworthy, the men, including Dick Wilson, engineer, and James Kelly, switchman of the Pere Marquette, all the while yelling to the youths to hold fast to the canoe. One of them let go and tried to swim to shore, and went down stream about 300 feet from the shore. Becoming apparently panic stricken, his brother tried the same thing, and went down about 20 feet from where he left the overturned canoe.

The canoe drifted down the river and was later recovered, as was the paddle on which were the letters W. J. The name, Wolverine, was painted on the bow of the canoe.

ASQUITH HANGS ON

Gives No Indication of Yielding Leadership of Independent Liberals.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Cable).—The autumn campaign of the Independent Liberal party was inaugurated last night by a speech given by the Right Hon. H. H. Asquith, former premier.

Politicians look forward to the speech with considerable interest, owing to the many speculations as to whether or not Mr. Asquith would announce his readiness to yield the leadership of the party to Viscount Grey, the former minister of foreign affairs.

Mr. Asquith, however, said nothing of the sort, but spoke of Viscount Grey and himself as being old and warm friends, and welcoming him cordially on his return to political life.

LIBERALS WILL NOT OPPOSE MR. MEIGHEN

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man., Oct. 27.—Premier Meighen will have one opponent in the forthcoming election, his sole opponent being Harry Leader, of the Agrarian party. A meeting of representative Liberals to-day decided not to put a candidate in the field.

A resolution adopted said it was felt that the best interests of the country would be served by united opposition to the present administration. "Wholehearted support to the Progressive candidate" was pledged.

MOPLAHS AGAIN CAUSING TROUBLE

Further Outbursts by Indian Natives Reported

TROOPS QUELL DISTURBERS

Dorset and Dublin Regiments Move Against Natives

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Reuter's correspondent at Simla sends word of new outbursts among the natives and details of a spirited encounter between the rebel Moplahs and a detachment of the Dorset Regiment, in which numerous casualties were sustained by the Moplahs.

An official communique from Malabar says that a detachment from the Dorset Regiment, supported by artillery and armored cars, encountered a gathering of Moplah rebels in the jungles to the west of Mallapurem on October 25. The rebels refused an order to surrender and offered determined opposition, in which they suffered 246 casualties.

An official communique issued at Simla says that 150 men from the Dublin Fusiliers were called out at Mooltan, in the Punjab, on October 23, to assist the police in arresting seditious persons. These operations were successfully concluded by midnight. On the following night two companies from the fusiliers were called out and dispersed a mob, which was threatening to attack the courthouse.

ONE SALARY FOR FAMILY ENOUGH

Detroit to Oust Married Women Whose Husbands Work

MAYOR COUZENS' DECISION

Action to Be Taken to Relieve the Unemployment

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—Married women, holding positions in city offices under the jurisdiction of the mayor, whose husbands are there also employed, will be asked to resign by Mayor Couzens, it was announced at the city hall this evening.

The mayor is unable to call for the resignations of married women in offices other than his own, as they are under the civil service, but by other methods he intimated he would endeavor to have them cut out from the city payroll.

This action, the mayor explained, is being taken in accordance with the policy adopted by the Detroit unemployment conference, one committee of which is endeavoring to have private employers remove the wives of men who are employed from positions that can be filled by men.

Practically every office in the city hall with the exception of the city clerk's has married women whose husbands are employed on the staff. In the city controller's office there are three married women all drawing more than $1,500 a year, while two of their husbands are drawing much larger salaries in other branches of the city government. The city treasurer has two married women on his staff, one of whom has a husband working for the department of public works, where he draws a salary of $3,500. She is being paid $1,800.

The husbands of the women who are also employed by the city may be dropped from the payrolls if their wives decline to resign. This action could only be resorted to where the husband is not under civil service.

The cases of married women in the city employ have been investigated. Most of them have automobiles, while at least one employee a maid to do her housework. Her husband is employed in a business with good compensation, has a large automobile and is owner of a summer home. The mayor said that these should voluntarily relinquish their city jobs, that others may be employed.

MEN CLERKS ARE REPLACING GIRLS

Young Women in the Banks Are Marrying

SOME ARE DISCHARGED

Refuse to Accept Transfers From Own Towns

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Bank managers, interviewed to-day on the subject of feminine employment, were not prepared to state that women were getting exactly the same opportunities as men, but many of them did say that an efficient girl employee, who was on her own in securing her livelihood, would retain her position despite the fact there was a surplus of senior men and a large number of men clamoring for admittance. One point they were agreed upon was that new employees should be men.

One of the managers stated that some of the girls had interfered with promotion in refusing out-of-town transfer. Consequently they were discharged. Others had been willing to take their chances with the men and were willing to go wherever sent.

"No, we are not discharging any of our girls," said one manager, "because they are gradually marrying. "We'll give them time and they will all get husbands. We will have no trouble in future, because our new employees will be men."

G. H. Hogetts, manager of the Bank of Hamilton, spoke well of the behavior of one of their girl employees in the recent robbery. "We believe she behaved as well as any man in similar circumstances," he said, "and certainly, had she not followed her instructions in regard to her cash, the loss might have been heavier."

Several managers referred to the surplus of senior men and stated that if it was a case of letting any one out the man would be retained.

DEAN PAKENHAM SAYS HISTORY POORLY TAUGHT

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—Criticizing the present method of teaching history Dr. F. Pakenham, dean of the faculty of education, Toronto University, to-day asserted, while addressing the Windsor Teachers' Institute, in convention at the new Prince Edward School, that the schools on this continent are not yet organized for teaching this subject. Compared to arithmetic and other subjects, history, Dr. Pakenham said, is poorly taught in all countries.

30 BUSHELS TO ACRE AROUND PRINCE ALBERT

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Oct. 27.—Speaking at a public dinner to-night, Andrew Knox, late M. P. for this district, and one of the most experienced farmers in Northern Saskatchewan, said that the yield of wheat in the Prince Albert district would run at least 30 bushels to the acre and perhaps a little more.

"It is one of the most wonderful harvests I have ever seen here in 30 years," said Mr. Knox.

ROBINSON CONVICTED OF PETITE COTE ROBBERY

Sandwich South Man to Be Sentenced Next Week for Share in Hold-Up of Bank.

WINDSOR, Oct 27.—After a police court trial, lasting nearly two days, Russell Robinson, aged 25, of Sandwich South Township, was this evening found guilty by Magistrate Gundy of robbery while armed in connection with the Petite Cote bank robbery in July last, when the branch of the Merchants Bank there was held up and $17,500 taken.

The testimony of Vital Benoit, proprietor of the Wellington Hotel in Petite Cote, who yesterday positively identified Robinson as the man who had shot him while he was in the bank on the day of the robbery, proved the conclusive evidence that resulted in Robinson's conviction. Sentence will be passed next week.

The trial of Frank Appleby on a similar charge will be commenced tomorrow.

VICTIM OF OWN GUN

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—William Mulveney, of the local firm of Morgan, Dean, Harris and Mulveney, investment brokers, was found dead on his farm near St. Catherines this afternoon.

Mr. Mulveney left his house in the morning on a lone hunting expedition, but failed to return at noon, and his wife and daughter, growing impatient, set out in search for him

He is believed to have accidently shot himself.

WORDLESS SIGNS AS GUIDES TO MOTORISTS

BOSTON, Oct. 27. — Three wordless signs to guide motorists have been adopted for standard use on Massachusetts roads. The state highway department will mark danger points by three diagonally parallel lines; an intersecting road by a T laid on its side, and a crossroad by a cross. The warnings will be placed 200 feet from the points indicated.

ONTARIO MAY LOSE FOUR SEATS UNDER THE CENSUS

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—It is understood that the unit of Parliamentary representation in Canada, derived from the census taken in June, will be in the neighborhood of 36,000. This would make the population of Quebec slightly less than 2,350,000, the unit being derived from dividing 65, the constitutional representation of the province, into its total population.

The census for Quebec will probably not be announced till after the election. The returns from one country have been lost in transit, but sufficient is known to indicate that the unit of representation will be around 36,000. On that basis Ontario would lose about four seats. The western census figures, provincially, are not yet available, but it is clear that, while their representation will be increased, the gains will not be sweeping.

TURNING THEIR WOOL INTO FINE BLANKETS

BOSTON, Oct. 27. — Cold nights will have no terrors for Massachusetts farmers who keep sheep this winter. Unable to dispose of their wool to advantage, many have followed a suggestion of the state department of agriculture to have it made into blankets.

Stations for collecting the wool have been established at Shelburne Falls, Springfield, West Brookfield, Concord, South Hanson and West Tisbury. Enough has been turned in to make 2,500 blankets weighing four pounds each, valued at about $7.50 each.

NOT IN INTEREST OF THE FARMERS

Hon. King at Sutton Raps Agrarian Movement

SPEAKS IN NORTH YORK

Tells Why He Is Running in That Constituency

SUTTON, Oct. 27.—(By Staff Correspondent of the Canadian Press).—The Ontario speaking tour of Hon. MacKenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, brought him into North York to-night, the constituency which he hopes to make his own at the forthcoming federal election.

With R. W. E. Burnaby standing for the Farmers' interests and J. A. M. Armstrong for those of the Government, there is every indication that a stiff three-cornered fight is to be staged and no easily-won honors accorded.

Speaking at Sutton this evening, Mr. King said that he regretted that he could spend so little time in the riding during the campaign. He must leave his lieutenants to carry on the fight, and he had every confidence in their success. While he appreciated very deeply the action of the electors in the Prince Edward Island seat in reaffirming their confidence in him, there were definite reasons which had decided his standing for North York. In the present political conflict, Mr. King said he felt that Ontario was to be the pivotal point. Apart from the associations, which attached him very strongly to North York, it was, he affirmed, the center of the province, both historically and geographically.

The place for the leader of the party was at the head of the forces in the thick of the fight. North York had always been the great battleground for reform, the scene of great struggles for self-government and for responsible government. Never since the days of the "old family compact, said Mr. King, had there been anything comparable to the present time as regards the usurpation of the powers of government by the few.

Speaking of the Farmers' movement, Mr. King said that R. W. E. Burnaby, their candidate in North York, was standing for class government. The movement, Mr. King asserted, was not in the interests of the farmers themselves. If the agricultural interests were to secure legislation important to themselves it was essential that they have the good will of all classes, both town and country. To secure results, all must combine against the common enemy.

"I think it is an injustice to the farmers themselves," he said, "to have it appear that they are seeking special privileges through class rule, that amounted to nothing more than Toryism."

TALKS OF AUTOCRACY

In the last 16 months, said Mr. King, Mr. Meighen had been spending millions of the people's money. He had appointed judges and senators and had taken over the railways, yet no one between the two coasts of Canada could say that he (Mr. King) had a hand in giving Mr. Meighen the authority. Autocracy of the most pronounced type was the only name for such usurpation of the powers of government.

Women, said Mr. King, often told him that they did not understand political matters, and he said men might honestly say the same. This year Parliament voted $560,000,000, this divided between the eight or nine million people means $62 for each individual. Yet as children as do not pay taxes one must take a basis of families of five and then it is found that the tax came to $310 per family of five. Thus it was easy to see that matters of government were of prime importance to women as well as men. The present Government, said Mr. King, had become so used to paying out public moneys that they have become absolutely indifferent to the meaning of huge expenditures to the people. The Government had lost all conception of public money and public trust. Taking the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as an example, Mr. King said, the greatest amount spent on the force during the old Liberal regime in one year was $770,000, yet the Government had established its headquarters in Ottawa and this year the cost was between three and four millions, and all this time the Government was telling the soldiers that nothing more could be done for them because of its many large commitments.

THE TARIFF

Mr. King challenged Mr. Meighen to show that his attitude towards the tariff in any province of the Dominion had been different to his attitude towards the tariff in Toronto. He stood for a tariff primarily for revenue and for a revision of the tariff in the interests of consumers and producers. A tariff for protection was essentially something which fostered combines and trusts. Any manufacturer not satisfied with a fair return upon a fair investment was asking too much. No legitimate industry earning a fair profit need have any fear of a revision of the tariff by a Liberal Government. But no one would wish to defend men who were holding up the people to the extent of profits amounting to from 20, 30, 100, 400 and 500 per cent.

Mr. King asserted that J. A. Armstrong, as member for North York since 1917, had for the most part been absent from the Commons. When he had come into the House it was to vote against the real interests of the people.

Regarding Mr. Burnaby's coming into the fight as a Farmer candidate, Mr. King was certain, he said, that if the electors of North York beleived there was any danger of Mr. Meighen getting back for another five years through splitting the opposition vote they would take no chances but vote solidly together and so it would be in all the other constituencies.

Mr. King said that there was no doubt whatever that in many constituencies Farmer candidates were being put up merely with the object of dividing up the opposition and spoiling the effect of their votes. "If you are really interested in defeating this common enemy," concluded Mr. King, "take no chances which will make possible the return to power of any organization like the present Government."

SECRECY OF THE BALLOT SACRED

Dominion Laws To Safeguard This Are Strict.

PENALTIES ARE SEVERE

All Election Officers Must Aid In Maintaining Secrecy.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—The secrecy of the ballot has always been considered one of the safeguards of the franchise in Canada. Throughout constitutional history a fight has been waged to secure the secret ballot, and, once that was gained, to guard it inviolate. No matter what proceedings may arise from elections, no man or woman is required, or permitted ,to divulge the name of the candidate for whom he or she voted in the election under review.

Provisions for guarding the electors' right to the secret ballot, contained in the Dominion Elections Act, the law governing all election contests are of interest at the present time, inasmuch as there are many persons throughtout Canada, both men and women, who will this year vote for their first time in a federal election.

Clause 60 of the act requires every candidate, officer, clerk, agent or other person in attendance at a polling station or at the counting of the votes, to maintain and aid in maintaining the secrecy of the voting, and no candidate, officer, clerk, agent or other person, shall:

(a) Before the poll is closed, communicate to any person any information as to whether any person on the list of voters has or has not applied for a ballot paper or voted at that polling station: or

(b) At the polling station interfere with or attempt to interfere with a voter when marking his ballot paper, or otherwise attempt to obtain information as to the candidate for whom any voter is about to vote or has voted: or

(c) At the counting of the votes attempt to ascertain the number on the back of any ballot paper: or

(d) At any time communicate (except to a court or judge lawfully requiring him to do so) any information as to the number on the back of the ballot paper given to any voter at a polling station: or

CANNOT ASK.

(e)At any time or place, directly or indirectly, induce or endeavor to induce any voter to show his ballot paper after he has marked it, so as to make known to any person the name of the candidate for or against whom he has so marked his vote: or

(f) At any time communicate to any person any information obtained at a polling station as to the candidate for whom any voter at such polling station is about to vote or has voted: or

(g) At such counting attempt to obtain any information or communicate any information obtained at such counting as to the candidate for whom any vote is given in any particular ballot paper.

Clause 2 of the section states that "any person who contravenes or fails to observe any provision of this section is guilty of an illegal practice and of an offense against this act, punishable on summary conviction as in this act provided."

It is also against the law for any voter, unless unable to read or incapacitated by blindness or other physical cause from voting in the manner prescribed in the act to show his ballot paper, when marked, to any person so as to allow the name of the candidate for whom he has voted to be known, "and any person who violates the provisions of this section shall be guilty of an illegal practice," the act states

A person unable to vote without assistance is not debarred from voting, but he is required to make oath in the prescribed form of his incapacity and the deputy returning officer may then assist the voter by marking his ballot in the manner directed by such voter, in the presence of sworn agents of the candidates or of the sworn electors, representing the candidates in the polling station, and of no other person, and place such ballot in the ballot box. The deputy returning officer is required by law to indicate in the poll book where such votes have been marked by him.

In the case of a voter applying for a ballot, when the deputy returning officer does not understand the language spoken by the applicant, he is required to swear an interpreter, "who shall be the means of communication between him and the voter with reference to all matters required to enable such voter to vote, and in case no interpreter is found, such voter is not to be allowed to vote."

Voters are required to vote without undue delay, and as soon as they have voted the law requires them to leave the polling station. Provision is made that in each polling station there must be separate rooms, or parts of the room curtained off, into which the voter may retire for the purpose of marking his ballot, and these must be fitted out with a table and a pencil.

A section of the act governing court procedures under the act provides that "no person may be required to state for whom he voted" in any proceedings which may arise.

Penalties are provided in the act for persons guilty of illegal or corrupt practices at elections. Section 86 of the act provides that: "Any person who during an election commits a corrupt practice or an illegal practice shall ipso facto become disqualified from voting and incompetent to vote at such election. He shall also in addition to any other punishment for such offense by this or any other act prescribed, forfeit to any person who in any competent court shall therefore sue:

"(a) For every corrupt practice committed the sum of two hundred dollars and costs; and

LONDONERS CHEW 5,000 MILES OF GUM A YEAR

Chewing 5,681 miles of gum annually may appear to be some impossible feat, but according to one citizen who has a mania for statistics this is the amount that is "chewed" in London every 12 months.

This figure represents the sticks of gum laid out single file. But laid in a walk three feet wide the gum masticated by the citizens of London in each year would reach from here to Toronto. The total value of the gum used in one year is estimated at $100,000, on the basis of one cent per stick.

Those who are in a position to know state that the citizens are using more gum now than ever before. "Everybody is chewing it," say the merchants who handle gum. Even the babe that can scarcely walk and the grandmother who spends her leisure hours playing bridge or attending the various welfare meetings have learned the habit within the last few years. Whether prohibition has anything to do with the increase in the amount of gum is not definitely known, but it is conceded that the habit is certainly growing on the citizens of London.

The statistical wizard who supplied the figures given above estimates that every man, woman and child in the city uses on an average 160 sticks of gum each year. He admits that some may not use any, but others use more, so the average is the same in any case.

Inquiry at the various stores brought out the information that all of this gum is made in Canada and much of it is manufactured in this city.

The raw material is brought from the tropical countries, but on account of the protective tariff no finished product of the chicle is imported into Canada. There is no duty on the raw article if pure, but chicle substitutes pay a duty of 17 per cent. The revenue that accrues to the Government directly is not at all insignificant. There are several branches of the large American factories manufacturing gum in Canada because of the duty which protects the market for Canadian products, and the gum is sold as cheaply here as it is in the United States.

In comparison with others the gum industry may appear rather insignificant on the surface, but the figures which have been compiled by a citizen who is interested in the situation show that it is worthy of more than passing notice. There are many business men in Canada to-day who made small fortunes in gum.

OVERTURNED LANTERN CAUSES HEAVY LOSS

BRUSSELS, Oct. 27.—The large bank barn and straw shed, together with the season's crop, poultry and 500 bushels of potatoes, on the farm of Victor Sparling, west of Watton, were destroyed by fire on Tuesday. Fire was caused by the overturning of a lantern. The loss will be a heavy one as only a small amount of insurance was carried.

The 130-acre farm, known as the Dickson farm, south of Watton, has been purchased by George R. Love, of McKillop , from John Clark, for the sum of $13,700.

Mrs. George McDonald, a highly esteemed resident of Bluevale, died Wednesday morning after an illness of several months. She is survived by her husband and two sons.

Ghosts and Witches, Goblins and Spirit Folk, Cats and Bats Keep High Revel On All Hallow's Eve

"From ghoulies, and ghosties, and long-leggedy beasties, Good Lord deliver us." (Selected.)

Down have come the last of the leaves, a drift of warm gold on the fading grass; down have come the crimson sumac plumes, and the scarlet rowans, and the red beads of the barberries, everywhere there is a rustle, and a whisper, and stir of ghostly wings among the empty trees that are like lonely ghosts themselves with their shivering, silvery-gray arms. A film of opal-tinted frost is on the biggest, yellowest pumpkin in the deserted garden, the fattest-faced, round-est-tummied fellow of the lot, just the thing for Jack to make his gleaming lantern of. There are wicked sparks on pussy's coal-black coat if you catch her in the dark, a sinister look in the kindly green deeps of her eyes.

For It's Coming Halloween

What a night it is to be sure. What a setting for mysterious shrouded figures stealing out of darkened houses for dim, candle-lighted trips to the awful deeps of some uninhabited cellar, where, mirror in hand, one may unwittingly look in the eyes of fate What an hour for firelight and popping chestnuts, and the gentle sizzle of roasting apples. What a time for the shadowy old kitchen, with the coals gleaming ruddily through the chinks of the big stove, and the savory smell of ripening taffy on the hob.

And outside, what a night! The great, haunted, wonderful outside, where every tree is a spirit figure, waiting, wonderful outside, where every tree is a spirit figure, waiting to catch unwary ones, where the moon is a mocking glimmer of light behind scudding clouds, and where the great-winged bats go by, and the owls, hooting to the dark church tower, and that dark, bent figure against the pale moon is Madame Witch on her nocturnal flight.

What a night, when the spirit folk come back, tapping faint fingers on pane and shutter, stirring soft wings through the whispering darkness, touching with gentle hands the last pale blooms of the autumn gardens.

What a night indeed, the night of All Souls.

PUBLIC UTILITIES GO AFTER THIRD CUP TO FINISH SEASON

Meet W.O.R. Eleven in Finals for McCutcheon Soccer Cup To-Morrow at Tecumseh Park

The sudden rise to prominence in soccer football circles of the Western Ontario Regiment is no doubt due to the fact that those in charge of this branch of the W. O. R. saw the futility of trying to continue with a commonplace organization. Since the W. O. R. played in the London and District Football League its playing strength has been added to and it was no surprise to find them stage a stretch of victories which now has landed them in the finals for the McCutcheon cup.

The first game of the series to decide the winners will be played at Tecumseh Park to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 3.30 p. m.

The Public Utilities, with two trophies already dangling from their belts, will oppose the W. O. R. Tom Hodkinson, manager of the P.U. eleven, has set his heart on making a clean sweep of the football laurels in this section of the province and for that reason the soccer followers should witness two good games for the honors.

To-night the P. U. players will be presented with the King Edward cup, emblematic of the City League championship, in addition to individual medals for each member.

Noble will referee the big game between the W. O. R. and the P. U. tomorrow and the probable line-ups will be:

LONDON G.T.R. IN APPRENTICE SOCCER GAME AT STRATFORD

STRATFORD, Oct. 27.—A good tight game of football is assured the fans tomorrow afternoon, when the London G. T. R. apprentice team meets the local lads at 3 o'clock on the Collegiate flats. The Classic apprentices played a tie game in London, so that a stiff battle will be put up by the visitors tomorrow. Clarke will referee the game.

The football will be followed by a baseball game between the Cubs and the Giants, of the Shops League.

WAS CARPENTIER VS. DEMPSEY MATCH PRIZE FIGHT OR BOXING BOUT?

JERSEY CITY, N.J., Oct. 27.—Witnesses believed to know whether the affair of July 2 between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier, of France, was a prize fight or a boxing match, were summoned to appear to-day before the Hudson County grand jury.

Justice Swayze directed the grand jury last month to investigate with a view to determining whether the state law permitting only boxing contests had been violated.

"Dick" Croker Success As Thoroughbred Horse Breeder In Ireland

Former Tammany Leader, Now Eighty, Visits New York and Recalls Many Racing Incidents

BY C. J. FITZ GERALD.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—No single individual, taking the number of years he has been connected with the industry into consideration, has had greater success in breeding thoroughbreds than Richard Croker, the one-time leader of Tammany, but long a resident of Ireland, who is paying his annual visit to New York in company with Mrs. Croker.

Mr. Croker came into racing through his friendship for Michael F. Dwyer, and he was for a time associated with Gen. W. H. Jackson in the ownership of the Belle Meade Stud in Tennessee. It wasn't til he went abroad, however, that he began to do big things in the way of blood stock production. The foundation for his success as a breeder was laid within the American mare, Rhoda B., by Hanover, out of Margerine, by Algerine, which he bought from Milton Young, of Kentucky, for $1,000 as a yearling.

Rhoda B. went abroad in 1895 as a yearling, and won races at Newmarket. It was as the founder of a family of race horses, however, that the superb mare was to become famous. She achieved fame at once through the prowess of her son, Orby, by Orme, which won the Epsom Derby in 1907. Her glory was enhanced when her daughter, Rhodora, won the 1,000 guineas the following year. Orby in turn started the turf world by the excellence of his progeny. He sired Grand Parade, which was bred by Mr. Crocker, and sold as a foal for 600 guineas. Grand Parade won the Derby in 1919. Others of Orby's children are Diadem, the crack sprinter of the English turf season after season until her return last year; her brother, Diadumenos, and Orpheus, winner of the champion stakes last year and this, and the acknowledged champion of the British turf at the present time.

Unfortunately, death took Orby when he was at the height of his career as a sire. He has never been replaced by Mr. Croker, and the 17 mares now at his Irish Stud, of which eight are daughters of Orby, and regarded by him as priceless, are sent to the best horses in the United Kingdom. Sun Star, Pommern and Bachelor's Double are some of the stallions patronized this year.

VIGOROUS AT 80.

Mr. Croker is a true Irishman, and like the majority of his race, has a keen sense of humor. At 80 his mind is as unclouded as a boy's, while he possesses a physical vigor amazing in one of his years. He enjoys recalling the incidents in connection with Orby's Derby. "Orby was a great horse," said Mr. Croker, in his suite at the Savoy a few days ago, "and if he hadn't been raced as a two-year-old, would have trained on to greater things. You know he was a bit straight in front, and the hard races and trials against older horses at two knocked him out. That fall we sent him to England to Mr. Persse, who has many friends in the United States. He got him in pretty good shape, and the colt took his work so well he came home the next spring that he won the Baldoyle Derby from a field of 24 very easily. Ten days after that race he was back in England to win the Epsom Derby, and within another 10 days he had returned to Ireland to win the Irish Derby. That made three Derbies in 30 days, and constituted a record which still stands."

At this point, Mrs. Croker, who is an ardent lover of the thoroughbred, remarked: "It was the first time a horse trained outside of England had scored for the Derby. It was something the British experts believed impossible up to that time, so that makes another record for Orby."

Mr. Croker chuckled good humoredly as he resumed, "You know, our horses are never blanketed, and when Orby arrived at Newmarket for the Derby it was a chilly morning, and the colt was shivering. None of the crowd would look at him. It was a different story after the race. They gather around us when I led him in, and one of the bystanders asked me where he was trained. I told him in the garden back of my house in Ireland."

Mr. Croker here showed a picture of his beautiful home, Glencairn, constructed of granite quarried on the place, with its spacious grounds stretching away in every direction from the mansion.

SERIOUS SPORT.

"The upper classes in England take their sport seriously," resumed the veteran, who is a keen observer of men and things, "but the masses show their enjoyment and get a lot of fun out of racing. They are fond of a good horse, but if you want to see the thoroughbred in the country where everybody loves him, come to Ireland. The priest, the farmer, boys and girls and old women—in fact everybody who can afford to own a mare is a breeder. The climate is milder and the water and grass better than in England. Ireland will always poduce great horses.

"The Irish know how to keep their pastures clean and sweet. They don't let them get horse poor, but run bullocks on them. My own plan is seven bullocks to each horse. This keeps down the ammonia. Our yearlings run with the cattle, which of course, are dehorned, and they are boss of the job.

Mrs. Croker at this point remarked that the Irish had three cardinal guides in their breeding ventures—breed, feed, and weed. They believed in blood first, and then in giving the mare and foal their chance to show good through proper nutrition, and when failure resulted to clean house with a vengeance.

Mr. Croker is unable to sense the reason for the activities of the reformers in the United States. He is of the opinion that the element attempting the enactment of blue laws will find themselves up against a stone wall when the full purport of their campaign is understood by the public at large.

"Sunday is a day of recreation in Ireland," said he, "after church the young people have their athletic games. There are point-to-point races in certain districts where hunting is keenest, and great crowds gather to see the events, which are over a country that tests the quality of both man and horse. It is little wonder that Ireland produces the best jumpers in the world. Everybody gets out in the open, and the Irish are a finer and healthier race, because of their devotion to sport of all kinds. No movement that restricts the liberties of the people has a chance of becoming permanent.

Mr. and Mrs. Croker will be in New York for another month, and then return to Ireland for the holidays, after which they will follow their usual custom of spending the winter in Florida.

Varsity All Set For Crucial Tilt With McGill Team

Somerville, a London Boy, Is Going to Get Chance on Back Division

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—The Varsity team yesterday afternoon had their final practice game before tackling McGill in the most important football match of the season at the Stadium on Saturday. It was an hour's hard workout against Varsity II. team, and followed after an hour's strenuous running and signal practice.

Coach Dr. Jack Maynard has the Varsity players as fit as the traditional fiddle, and they showed no sign of exhaustion after the strenuous afternoon's work. They were full of dash and pep, and were going at top speed when darkness set in and play was discontinued. On the score of physical condition alone they will be hard to beat, and McGill will have to be in the pink of condition to stand the pace the blue and white will set.

In their games at Kingston and Montreal the Varsity team did not show much scoring ability, due chiefly to the inexperience of the attacking division. Great improvement has been made in this respect during the past two weeks, and the team now has an attack that is expected to show good results on Saturday. The back division players are combining in great style and working very well together, and McGill is in for a genuine surprise in this respect.

It is likely that Snyder, Hobbs and Patterson will start the game on the back field with Murray at quarter and Duncan at outside wing. Snyder will do the kicking, and there are few better in the game to-day. Hobbs has developed into a cracking good halfback, and Patterson shows improvement every time out. Somerville, the Ridley star, is also developing fast, and is sure to get into the game at some stage. He is a high-class kicker and a good line-plunger.

Every man on the squad has been coached in handing the ball, and in following in fast behind the ball-carrier. Last night they went the length of the field for a touchdown on the second team with a dozen passes in a play, which was started by Somerville. The forwards are snappy and always on the ball, and go down the field fast under a kick. Every position is well protected, and nobody but Coach Maynard knows the personnel of the team to start the match. The players are as follows:

THE VARSITY SQUAD.

Flying wing—Duncan (capt.).
Halves—Snyder, Somerville, Hobbs, Ketchum, Patterson, Young.
Quarter—Murray.
Center—N. Taylor, Webber.
Inside wing—Reilly, Smith, Warner, Carruthers.
Middle wing—Carew, Hyde, Westman, Weaver.
Outside wing—Fisher, Prendergast, Rolph, Perlman.

Canadian Hockey Club Franchise Changes Hands

Thomas Duggan, Owner of Mt. Royal Arena, Is New Owner

MONTREAL, Oct. 27. — Thomas J. Duggan, president of the Mount Royal Arena, announced to-night that his offer for the franchise of the Canadien Hockey Club had been accepted. The consideration was not made public, but it is expected that the bid would be in the neighborhood of $20,000. This was the amount asked on several occasions by the late owner, George W. Kendal, whose widow has thus disposed of the club.

WESTERN GROUP APPEARS TO BE SLATED TO FURNISH BEST INTERMEDIATE O.R.F.U. TEAM

Sarnia or Petrolea Seem to Be Playing Better and More Strenuous Game

SARNIA, Oct. 27.—The winner of the Sarnia-Petrolea-Wallaceburg intermediate O. R. F. U. district this year looks to be the team to beat in the finals for the championship. Wallaceburg, with three successive defeats to their credit, and another one looming ahead for them on Saturday, is out of the race and cannot be considered.

Petrolea, with the last game with the blue and white to be played in the Oil Town, is not yet out of the running, though they were defeated handily here in the first of the home-and-home games. While the locals are called to trim them in Petrolea, it is pretty generally admitted that the green and white are a mighty hard aggregation to beat on their own lot, though it has been accomplished.

Should the unexpected happen and Petrolea defeat Sarnia there on Thanksgiving Day, the blue and white are still very much in the race. A win for Sarnia puts Petrolea out of the running, while a win for the Oil Towners simply ties up the district and makes another game necessary to return a winner. If a play-off is called for it will likely be staged in London, and Sarnia will, unless Petrolea piles up a big score in Petrolea, and shows a surprising reversal of form, be strong favorites to win the district.

Once out of the district the way seems clear. Dundas intermediates are conceded to be about the best of a poor lot in the other districts. The fact that Brantford has been able to hold them pretty much in check in the games already played, would indicate that they will not prove much opposition for the winners of this grouping.

Galt appears to have the newest grouping pretty well nailed down. According to rugbyists who have watched the teams in the Galt, Guelph, Kitchener, St. Jerome's quartet battle, they will not prove formidable opposition for a strong junior team. That eliminates them from the reckoning.

Toronto has not shown anything to brag about, and they will likely be even poorer than last year, when Dons could not even give Hamilton Tigers a light workout. If the Tiger Seconds are allowed to enter the intermediate series they may be able to make it interesting. The yellow and black are said to have a hefty aggregation and will be called to make it interesting.

Barring the Tiger Seconds there does not appear to be a team operating in the intermediate O. R. F. U. series capable of giving either Petrolea or Sarnia a hard run.

Eight Teams For Manufacturers' Hockey League

Representatives Discuss Plans for Coming Winter; Adopt O.H.A. Rules

The Manufacturers' A. A. A. Hockey League will be composed of eight teams this coming winter, and the arrangements for the staging of games will be left to a committee, with Vice-President Norman Graham as chairman.

The players will all be identified with numbers on the back of their jerseys, the same to correspond with the index number on the players' certificates.

O. H. A. playing rules were adopted and several innovations, such as the installation of a penalty box, will be insisted upon wherever the games are played.

All protests must be filed within 24 hours of the game played, and the evidence must be accompanied by a $5 bill. Secretary Suddick in such instances will notify the opposing team of the protest. The latter will then file contra evidence and substantiate its claim by an additional deposit of a similar amount. The league retains the protest deposit of the team that loses the argument.

The meeting was presided over by President Patterson, and seven teams were represented at the Brisco store last night.

The meeting adjourned to be reconvened on November 25, when schedule and players' certificates will be discussed.

The following teams will compose the league:

Perrins	Standard Drug
Civil Service	Bell Telephone
Grand Trunk	McClarys
Scott-Chamberlain	H. J. Jones

SOME WANT RACING, OTHERS ARE OPPOSED

Windsor Merchants Discuss the Effect of the Meets on Business.

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—Replies to questionaires sent to local business men by the local Retail Merchants' Association show that opinion is about evenly divided as to effects on business by the 42 days of racing here during the summer.

Some merchants, who found that business suffered through racing, wrote to H. E. Bastein, secretary of the association, that customers were unable to pay their bills as a result of betting being allowed at the tracks, while others, who saw no evil effects from the visits of the horses, pointed out that thousands of American dollars are left on this side by racegoers from the United States.

TOURISTS AND TOPERS BUILD QUEBEC ROADS

Minister Tells of Highway Plans and Outlines Revenue Sources.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27.—A vigorous continuation of the good roads policy in the Province of Quebec was announced by Hon. J. L. Perron last night. He intimated that the automobile trucks would have to pay more for the use of the roads in future.

Mr. Perron touched also on the tourist traffic, which had come about because of the highways. American tourists especially had been attracted and coming to Montreal over the King Edward highway had been able to secure medicine against the fatigues of the journey. Mr. Perron referred to the millions of dollars spent in Montreal and elsewhere in the province by tourists, business which was specially to be desired at the present time. It had been estimated by an expert that the tourists would leave $35,000,000 in the province this year.

The sum of $4,000,000 a year will accrue to the Government of Quebec from the liquor traffic, Premier Taschereau announced.

The City Basket Ball League opened the season at the Y. M. C. A., where the new gymnasium was tried out for the first time. The highly polished maple floor was as smooth as glass and some of the players found it rather difficult to navigate.

The Elks won the first game by 13 to 6 from the Hoodoos in a shortened-up affair, as the game was started late. F. Shaw, with nine points scored, was the most effective of the Elks, while A. Lawrence scored the six for the Hoodoos.

The Giants, with Art Gillies, Billy Wanless and Jackson working smoothly, defeated the Red Sox, whose line-up contained several former indoor pastime stars in Bill Lightfoot, Doc Cline and Al Taylor. The score was 33 to 17. Lightfoot played a good, strong, aggressive game, while Doc Cline shone on the defense. Art Gillies, however, notched five baskets for 10 of the points by the Giants.

Herb Gillies' Pirates proved too good for the Tigers by 33 to 14 despite the fact that Douglas' Tigers were composed of four veterans. Mowat and Gillies were the most effective for the Pirates. Summary:

BEATTY PLEADS FOR ARMS ACCORD

Says Every Instinct Binds U. S. and Britain Together.

WELCOMED BY PILGRIMS

Bryce At London Also Urges Similar Co-Operation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Dispatch.)—The possibility of any serious differences arising between Great Britain and the United States over the Waashington conference on limitations of armament was disposed of to-night by Admiral Beatty, first sea lord of the British admiralty, speaking at a dinner given in his honor by the Pilgrim Society.

The world will wait and watch with supreme interest the conference's deliberations, Admiral Beatty said, but nowhere will it be watched with more hope than in Britain. Surely, he added, there never was a great issue dependent upon the deliberations of men.

Reverting to the relationship between Britain and the United States and the part it will play in the conference Admiral Beatty said the question was not one of bolstering up an "artificial and man-made alliance," but rather a question of keeping alive and awake the communion which is right and natural between the two nations.

"Our every interest, our every instinct binds us together," he said.

BRYCE OPTIMISTIC.

LONDON, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Cable.)—The century of perfect peace between the United States and Canada was cited as an example to the world by Viscount James Bryce, at a luncheon in his honor to-day by the English-speaking Union.

The disarmament agreement, affecting 3,000 miles of boundary between Canada and the United States, is an arrangement which should be made world-wide, he said.

Viscount Bryce was formerly welcomed home after his recent lecture tour of the United States. He interpreted the recent presidential election in the United States as a non-acceptance of the Varsailles treaty in its present form, but declared it did not mean aloofness and isolation on the part of the United States.

He urged the co-operation with the United States on the part of the British delegates to the Washington conference.

SENATE FOR BRIAND.

PARIS, Oct. 27.—The Senate gave Premier Briand a vote of confidence to-day, 301 to 9. The premier repeated in the Senate the declarations he made yesterday in the Chamber of Deputies. During the course of his remarks he said:

"Our United States friends have invited the whole world to confer with them on the difficult situation in the interest of world peace. I have thought that it was not an excessive tribute of gratitude on the part of France that the premier himself should go to Washington and express thanks to the people of the United States."

COMMUNISTS ATTEMPT TO HOLD DEMONSTRATION AT BASLE CONSULATE

BASLE, Switzerland, Oct. 28.—Several hundred Communists to-day attempted to hold a demonstration in front of the United States consulate here in protest against the conviction of Nicolo Sacco and Bartolomeo Venzetti in Massachusetts last summer. The police, however, quickly restored order and dispersed the would-be demonstrators.

KIND HEART LOST BATTLE FOR KARL

Refused To Order Bombardment of Student Troops.

WAS SORRY FOR THEM

Moment of Delay Enabled Government Troops To Act.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 28.—Former Emperor Charles is believed to have lost the chance to occupy the Hungarian throne because of his unwillingness to order the bombardment of positions held by university students who barred his path at Badoers for two hours last Sunday morning. Hungary's fate hung in the balance during that time, it is asserted here.

The students had entrenched themselves along a ridge of hills and received forces supporting Charles with a hot machine gun fire. Military leaders of Charles' expedition reported that the students' position must be bombarded, but Charles was loath to issue orders to this effect.

"I am sorry for the poor boys," he is quoted as saying. "Try to persuade them that resistance is hopeless."

Parleys began, but in the meantime Government troops were hurried forward from Budapest and occupied the ridge held by the students. As a result it was found when Charles gave the order to attack that the battle was already lost.

MUST BE DELIVERED.

PRAGUE, Oct. 28.—Former Emperor Charles must be surrendered to the "Little Entente" within 36 hours, under the terms of an ultimatum from the members of this combination of states, which it has decided to present to the Hungarian Government in Budapest. Deputy Macoch declared at a mass meeting held here last night that the ultimatum would be presented some time to-day. The project of interning the former emperor in either Czecho-Slovakia or Jugo-Slavia has been discussed freely by newspapers in this country. Foreign Minister Benes has been incommunication with the allied nations as well as Roumania and Jugo-Slavia relative to the steps to be taken as the result of Charles' abortive attempt to regain the Magyar throne.

Prince Graetz, a Carlist leader, fled from West Hungary when Charles' coup failed, intending to go to Holland. He was, however, stopped by the Czecho-Slovak frontier. Leaders of the political parties forming the coalition ministry of this country have decided that the Government will introduce a bill in Parliament decreeing the confiscation of estates owned by Count Julius Andrassy, Deputy Rakovsky and Count Albert Apponyi, located in Czecho-Slovakia.

MARTIAL LAW.

As a precautionary measure martial law has been proclaimed in the eastern districts of the country, although perfect order prevails. The mobilization of troops, who were called to the colors when Charles began his advance upon Budapest, was conducted smoothly. It is estimated by newspapers that the mobilization has thus far cost 800,000,000 kronen, and that the cost will amount to 100,000,000 kronen per day as long as the men remain in the ranks.

A number of Magyar newspapers here have been suspended, and their editors have been arrested, or their houses have been searched for evidence that they are implicated in the Karlist plot.

DIDN'T WANT CIVIL WAR.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 28.—Immaculately clad in the uniform of a Hungarian general, former Emperor Charles, a prisoner in the hands of the people over whom he made an abortive attempt to re-establish sovereignty, today issued the following terse message through the Associated Press correspondent: "I was sure my people would offer resistance, so I gave orders to withdraw when the Government troops opened fire. Nothing can persuade me to provoke civil war. I trust Providence and the future will bring harmony between the Hungarian nation and its sovereign."

Charles and ex-Empress Zita were seen by the correspondent as they paused at the railway station of Szekesfehervar, near the shores of Lake Balaton, on their way to Tihany Abbey from Esterhazy Castle, where the erstwhile royal pair were captured after last Sunday's battle.

Except for the military escort the ex-rulers gave no appearance of being prisoners. Charles looked fresh in his general's uniform, and the ex-empress was neatly clad in a plain gray dress.

Prince Esterhazy, their host during their brief sojourn at Tata-Tovaros, was accompanying them to their new temporary residence.

HAYS WOULD HAVE WEAPONS USED

Orders Rifles Sent To N. Y. Post Office Unpacked.

SIFTING MAIL ROBBERY

Hopes To Recover Loot Before It Is Disposed of.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28. — A consignment of firearms that lay unused in the New York post office., when automobile bandits held up and robbed a lone, unarmed mail truck driver of $1,454,129 last Monday night, were out to-day doing duty on the persons of guards who accompanied similar treasure trucks through the city's streets.

One of the first things Postmaster-General Hays discovered when he arrived yesterday to take charge of the investigation of the robbery, was that a large shipment of guns sent to arm New York postal employees after a series of mail robberies in other cities still were in their shipping cases. He ordered them unpacked and put to work. He also ordered an investigation to determine who had been responsible for their nondelivery to employees.

Post office inspectors, increased in number to 15 after Mr. Hays' arrival, were bending every energy to unravel the tangled maze of clues leading to the hold-up men, and recapture their rich haul before they could dispose of it. Aided by scores of city detectives, the inspectors were rapidly sifting the case down to its essentials.

MR. FIELDING AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 28.—Hon. W. S. Fielding, Hon. A. K. MacLean and Dr. Edward Blackadder, the latter two the Liberal candidates of Halifax City and County in the coming elections, addressed the first mass meeting in Halifax of the Liberal campaign last night.

Dealing with the tariff Mr. Fielding said it was not the Americans who had slammed the door in our faces. "It is Mr. Meighen and his friends who opposed reciprocity. Make no mistake, the interests of Canada are largely bound up with those of the United States.

Hon. Mr. MacLean referred to Mr. Meighen's declaration in Halifax that Mr. MacLean had formerly supported the Conservative tariff policy, and said that Mr. Meighen's statement was cowardly political warfare.

Continuing, Mr. MacLean said he was more disappointed than annoyed because he had always admired Mr. Meighen's abilities and had had pleasant associations with him. Mr. MacLean said that when Union Government was formed it was agreed that controversial questions like the tariff should not be engaged in and he had supported that tariff then in force according to that agreement. He then read the Fielding-King resolution of last session on the tariff, for which he voted, and said that was his answer to Mr. Meighen.

TWO ESSEX SEATS.

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—(Special to the Free Press.)—The National Liberal and Conservative Party in North Essex will hold a convention here on Saturday of this week, at which a candidate for the House of Commons will be chosen. Interest is keen, and there is no doubt there will be a full representation at the convention. It is announced that a well-known business man of the Border Cities has consented to allow his name to go before the meeting. A conference of party leaders has brought out the fact that this gentleman has the full confidence and support of all sections, and there is a strong feeling that he is the very man to carry Premier Meighen's standard to victory in a contest with W. C. Kennedy, late member and present Liberal candidate.

Government statistics just issued show that North Essex now has a population of 71,039, an increase of nearly 87 per cent. over the total in 1911, and a great deal of that increase has come about since the polling of 1917. In the general election of that year, Mr. Kennedy had a majority over Lt.-Col. E. S Wigle of 446. The late Oliver Wilcox won the riding for the Conservatives in the by-election of 1909, and was re-elected in 1911.

SCRATCH IS STRONG.

The choice of Warden Eugene Scratch, as Government candidate in South Essex, has proven highly popular throughout the riding, and a meeting yesterday, at Essex, of party representatives, brought out stalwarts from every municipality, including Pelee Island. Workers of former campaigns were out in strength, as well as several ex-members. The greatest enthusiasm was shown, and many expressed confidence that Mr. Scratch will have a fine majority on December 6.

There were rumors some time ago that Hon. George P. Graham, who has been in the field as Liberal candidate for a long time, was not going to face the battle, and quite recently Liberal leaders, under pressure from those who doubt the expediency of an outsider leading the South Essex forces, were understood to have reached a decision to ask the ex-minister to withdraw in favor of a local man. Within the past few days, however, Hon. Mr. Graham has issued a "manifesto," and flooded the riding with copies of it, so that his campaign is definitely on. It is assumed that the candidate felt it advisable to put before the electors something more satisfactory than the platform to which the Liberal party allowed itself to be tied in 1919.

MINISTERS TO SPEAK.

E. R. Seabrook, of London, Western Ontario organizer, who attended the Essex meeting, told the Free Press that arrangements have been made for Hon. L. G. Belley, postmaster-general in the Meighen Cabinet, to address meetings in the riding at an early date, and that it is expected Hon. J. W. Edwards, minister of health and immigration, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, will also visit the constituency.

In addition to Warden Scratch and Hon. G. P. Graham there is a third candidate in the field, the United Farmers having brought out W. T. Willans a few days ago. Mr. Willans was formerly an active Liberal.

Dr. J. W. Brien, of Essex, who represented the riding in the last Parliament, had a majority in 1917 of 169, as Government candidate. A. H. Clarke, Liberal, was successful at the three provincial elections, his majorities gradually decreasing.

KHAKI TO REPLACE FRENCH HORIZON BLUE WHEN STOCKS DONE

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Horizon blue will be replaced by khaki as the color of the uniforms worn by French officers and soldiers under a decision reached by the superior war council yesterday. The uniforms of the French army will be in future similar in color to those of the Canadian army.

The order for the change in the uniforms of the French army will not immediately come into effect, but will be operative when the present stocks of horizon blue cloth are exhausted. These stocks, it is said at the war ministry, are sufficient to last for 10 years.

HOLD-UP MAN CHARGED WITH MURDER ATTEMPT

Albert Slade, Captured After Failure at Montreal, Faces Court.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—Albert Slade, arrested on Wednesday night in connection with the abortive hold-up in the branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce here on Tuesday, was arraigned yesterday afternoon before Judge Cushion on a charge of attempted murder It is alleged that Slade is the man who fired at Bank Teller Drew.

Patrick O'Hara, identified as the man who was in the automobile that drove away from the bank with the hold-up men, was also arrested and charged with complicity.

Both men pleaded not guilty and were remanded to Bordeaux jail until Monday for preliminary hearing. Albert Slade was identified to-day as the "lone bandit" who held up and robbed the Bank of Hamilton, in Hamilton, last July. This was established by Eugene Laflamme, bertillion expert here, who took his fingerprints, which corresponded with those of Norman Ryan, alias Norman J. Bell, as described in a circular in the hands of the officer. Chief Lepage stated last night he thought O'Hara would also be found to have been connected with the Hamilton bank robbery.

BUSINESS MEN TO HANDLE UNEMPLOYMENT PROBLEM

TORONTO, Oct. 27.--Toronto business men are going to handle the unemployment situation during next winter. They are going to take the matter out of the hands of the municipal authorities so far as possible. This was decided upon at a meeting of the Federation of Toronto Business Men's Association last night.

On the suggestion of Major W. E. Harris a commission of prominent business men was appointed to deal with the situation. The aim of this commission will be to seek the co-operation of such bodies as the Rotary Club, the Kiwanis Club, the Board of Trade and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association in trying to secure suitable employment for every man in the city during the winter months.

GETS 20 YEARS FOR STABBING AT A DANCE

MONCTON, N. B., Oct. 28. — At Hopewell Cape, Albert County, yesterday, in the Supreme Court, Judge Barry presiding, Charles Brown, colored, was found guilty of unlawfully killing Victor Cahill at Pointe Wolfe, Albert County, a few weeks ago. Judge Barry sentenced Brown to 20 years in the penitentiary. Brown stabbed Cahill at a dance.

READY TO ASSIST MOTHER OF TWINS

WINDSOR, Oct. 27.—Several people, prominent in Border Cities' social life, have offered "Jessie," self-confessed mother of the baby twins found on a Windsor-Detroit ferry, assistance should she decide to return to Windsor from her seclusion in Detroit, M. R. Winters, inspector of the Children's Aid Society, said to-day. Until a late hour Mr. Winters had received no word from "Jessie."

"Personally, I do not know whether the letter is bona fide or not, but I am rather inclined to believe that it is," the inspector stated. "However, there is a possibility that some enemy of the man named in the letter might have written it intending to bring the man into disgrace, and consequently the letter will not leave my office until I get "Jessie's" story from her myself.

A possibility that the man named in the letter might have gone to the girl on Wednesday and influenced her not to come forward with her story was admitted by Mr. Winters.

NO VOICES RAISED AGAINST SHIPBUILDING

Hon. C. C. Ballantyne Says Plans Received Unanimous Approval In Parliament.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28. — That the Canadian Government mercantile marine program of 63 steel ships with a dead weight tonnage of approximately 380,725 tons, built at an average cost of $191.90 per ton, had received the unanimous approval of Parliament, "not one voice having been raised against any one of its provisions," and had in particular been given the express approval of Hon. Rodolpe Lemieux and Hon. W. S. Fielding, was the statement to-day of Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, minister of marine and fisheries, speaking at a meeting of women electors in the St. Lawrence-St. George division, here.

FRENCH GET OIL RIGHTS IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

PRAGUE, Oct. 28. — Contracts giving the Standard Franco-American Oil Company, of Paris, exclusive rights in developing oil territory and in trading in petroleum products throughout the greater part of Czecho-Slovakia have been approved by the Cabinet. This firm is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey.

Eleven districts of the country were excepted from the application of the concession given the company. In these districts concessions already have been given, or exploitation of oil lands by the state is going forward.

GERMANS FIND TREASURE TROVE

Weird Legend of Decapitated Pirate's Spirit Connected With Find.

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(By Mail).—A find of some interest is reported to have occurred recently in the neighborhood of Hamstadt, near Cuxhaven, and if the report proves to be correct the romantic story of the "Stoertebecker treasure" will be revived.

Experts have been sent to Hamstadt to investigate the treasure, which is supposed to represent in value an amount of 20,000,000 marks (about £50-000), and there seems to be some grounds that it actually may be the ancient treasure. This dates back to the 14th century.

The story is that it was amassed by Stoertebecker and Goedecke Michal, the two leaders of a gang of pirates which flourished in the 14th century and preyed on the wealth of the rich merchantmen of the Baltic and the German Ocean. The fame of the pirates and their secret cache survives to this day in old German folk songs. The Hansa merchants, especially, had a bad time until in 1402 they gathered together a strong fleet, led by the good ship Checkered Cow of Flanders, and in a decisive sea fight overcame and captured the pirates with their chief, Stoertebecker.

The legend goes on to relate that they stood in a long row, and Stoertebecker looked once more upon all his friends, and, "because he loved them dearly," he begged the judge to spare the lives of those whom he could pass in running after he had been beheaded. The judge assented and when Stoertebecker's head had fallen, the headless body actually (so the legend relates) ran past 15 of the condemned prisoners. The executioner, however, was afraid that all the prisoners would be saved, and threw a block of wood at the headless body and brought the body down. The treasure which the pirates had hidden was the subject of much research, but it has never been found. There is still some skepticism whether the find at Hamstadt may not have some other origin.

MRS. STRICKERT FREED BY JURY

Acquitted on Charge of Poisoning Her Husband

DEATH STILL A MYSTERY

Verdict Says Deceased Did Not Die by His Own Hand

STRATFORD, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Free Press.)—At 10.30 to-night the jury returned a verdict acquitting Mrs. Margaret Strickert of the murder of her husband, Wm. Strickert, on July 16. The verdict read: "We, the jury empaneled in the case of the King versus Margaret Strickert, do submit to your lordship a verdict of acquittal. While we feel that the deceased Wm. Strickert did not come to his death by his own hand we also feel that the evidence was not conclusive enough to convict the prisoner."

Mr. Justice Lennox concurred in the verdict, declaring that the case had been the most puzzling in his career on the bench. Addressing Mrs. Strickert he said that, while the evidence had pointed strongly to guilt, the jury had done wisely in reaching the verdict quoted. A fervent "Thank God" by the accused woman followed her acquittal and she was affectionately greeted by her married daughter and numerous friends in the courtroom.

Following argument by counsel the court adjourned at 6 o'clock, resuming at 7.30, when his lordship addressed the jury for an hour, the case going to the jurors at 8.30.

A DIFFICULT CASE.

In his charge to the jury Judge Lennox stated that it was an unusual and difficult case and that, while it was only human nature for a jury to be reluctant about convicting a woman of murder, this fact should not be allowed to influence the jurors.

That Strickert had been poisoned was not disputed, nor was there any suggestion of accident in the administration of the strychnine. This meant, his lordship pointed out, that the only avenue for acquittal lay in the theory of suicide, with which crime the defense had sought to link the abominable offense of seduction of Pearl Strickert by her own father. The only evidence to this latter effect was that of the girl herself, and she had not impressed his lordship as a reliable witness. It was more natural to suppose that George Currie, with whom she had kept company, was her seducer, Judge Lennox submitted, and he commented on the fact that Currie had not been called as a witness.

His lordship said he found no evidence of any intimidation by Constable Kirby and Provincial Officer Arthur Palmer and he termed Mrs. Strickert's straightforward evidence in the witness box as "remarkably good," an element to be considered by the jury in weighing the evidence. The judge explained to the jury that to convict there must be a preponderance of evidence in support of the theory of murder as against that of suicide.

DEFINITE DENIAL.

Beginning this afternoon's session Mrs. Strickert was recalled to the stand to deal more extensively with Mrs. Seiler's evidence. She denied telling Mrs. Seiler that her husband didn't use her right or that "she wished him dead" and that "he was going to get the dose."

"Did you poison your husband?" asked Mr. Thompson.

"No, I didn't," replied Mrs. Strickert.

"Do you know anything about anyone poisoning him?"

"No, I do not, as sure as the Lord is in the heavens," replied the accused woman.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wivel, daughter of Mr. Strickert and elder sister of Pearl Strickert, was called to give evidence as to the conduct of the late Mr. Strickert toward his daughters.

Mr. Phelan objected that the evidence as not relevant to the case.

His lordship said he would hear the counsel and ordered the jury to retire while he heard the argument. He ruled out the evidence.

This concluded the defense.

GOOD PRICES AT SALE OF STOCK

Live Stock Breeders and Farmers at Guelph Auction

$610 HIGH PRICE PAID

Fat Cattle Range From 8 to 11¼ Cents

GUELPH, Oct. 27.—Live stock breeders and farmers from all over Ontario attended the annual sale of surplus live stock at the Ontario Agricultural College this afternoon. The sale was not as large as for several years past, but the quality of the stock offered was fully up to the standard of other years.

W. A. Dryden, the well-known live stock man from Brooklyn, Ont., paid the top price of the sale for a two-year-old heifer, College Augustus 9th, giving his check for $610 for this fine Augusta heifer, a breed that has made the Ontario agricultural stock famous throughout the Dominion. Mr. Dryden also paid $500 for the yearling Demale Augusta O. A. C. 6th.

The rest of the stock sold at prices which were satisfactory in every respect to the college authorities. A number of fat cattle were offered and sold at prices ranging from 8 to 11¼ cents per pound. There was also a large consignment of sheep and hogs, which sold for breeding purposes, but which did not bring any fancy prices.

REFERENDUM AND RECALL ILLEGAL

Ottawa Authority Says Candidate Who Signs Jeopardizes Seat.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Free Press).—That the initiative referendum and recall, as advertised, and in part put into effect in the case of many Farmer candidates, both in the West and in Ontario, is illegal, unconstitutional and generally null and void, is the opinion of Alexander Smith, the well-known barrister and constitutional authority, of this city. He points out that the illegality of the principle was decided by the Privy Council when it upheld a judgment of the Manitoba Appeal Court in regard to an Initiative and Referendum Act passed by the Legislature of that province. The British constitutional practice is that Parliament makes the laws, and it is competent to pass on the principle of which the people shall be asked to adopt by a referendum as they have done repeatedly with the Scott Act.

THE RECALL.

The recall, Mr. Smith holds, is equally as illegal as the referendum. He maintains that the man who signs a pledge to resign on demand is representing only the committee which holds this pledge, and furthermore, that the signing of such a pledge may be illegal on the ground that it is a promise to do something to secure election.

The B. N. A. Act does not recognize any such committee or other informal body. The laws of Canada are made by Parliament, and Mr. Smith says in a memorandum on the subject that such written pledges may be contrary to the specific spirit of the Election Act, as well as being unconstitutional under section 91 of the B. N. A. Act.

"It may well be," he adds, "that a candidate who allows to exist such a written statement of his incompetence cannot be legally elected. If Parliament enacted a Recall Act it would be unconstitutional and ineffective just as the Manitoba law was. The recall is not only null and void, but dangerous to the candidate who signs it."

CATCH LIQUOR RING HEAD.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 28.—The arrest of W. J. You remember the story of the Pitcher—

It made a good many trips to the well and it came back in good order.

"I can take care of myself," it said—"they don't need to talk about risks to me."

But it went once too often.

After that it was only part of a pitcher, and they didn't need to talk to it about risks—it knew.

A lot of people won't believe tea or coffee can harm them until it does harm them.

"Nonsense!" they say, "it never disturbs me."

When it does disturb them, then they know.

Often the disturbance which they then recognize is the result of irritations to nerves and digestion which have been going on for a long time.

If you have to lie awake at night and count the clock ticks, after an evening cup of tea or coffee, then you know that it's better to be safe than sorry.

The risk of tea or coffee's harm is gone when the meal-time drink is Postum.

Here's a delightful and satisfying table beverage, with charm for the taste and without harm for nerves or digestion. You know you're on the right road with Postum; there's never the possibility that you'll go once too often.

Postum comes in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boilin water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

BOSTON FOLKS FOND OF BAND CONCERTS

BOSTON, Oct. 27. — Boston's reputation as a music center has not been sustained during the past summer so far as attendance at summer resort band concerts is concerned.

In his annual report, Elerton P. Whitney, director of parks for the Metropolitan District Commission, which provides the concerts, asserts that he is convinced the public has lost interest in band concerts.

For a number of years, the report says, the attendance at the various concerts has been decreasing and this summer the ony place where the concerts seemed to be enjoyed was at Nantacket Beach.

NO TRACE YET OF THE MISSING RADIUM

HAMILTON, Oct. 27.—Though H. Walker, the expert from Pittsburg, made a thorough search to-day of the hospital sewage system by the aid of an electroscope, he failed to find the four radium needles, worth $7,000, which have disappeared from the City Hospital.

The needles are believed to have been stolen, or inadvertently thrown into the sewer with refuse.

The theft theory has not been abandoned.

MAJORITY FOR NO PARTY IN NORWEGIAN VOTING

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Oct. 27.—The general elections on Monday gave no party a clear majority, and it is impossible to predict which party or bloc will form the new Cabinet for the new Storthing, which meets in February.

Out of the 150 seats the Conservatives, running on an anti-prohibition platform and against the Government policy of maintaining war-time restrictions, secured 56 seats.

Michigan "Dry" Official Announces Drive Planned

SEEKS GENERAL CLEAN-UP

County Prosecuting Attorney Promises Co-Operation

DETROIT, Oct. 27.—James R. Davis, federal prohibition officer for Michigan, announced to-day that he was making plans for a drive against the illicit liquor traffic in Michigan.

"We plan a general clean-up of conditions at the Canadian border," Mr. Davis said, announcing that the federal authorities would be aided in the effort by city and county authorities.

The "clean-up" will be timed, Mr. Davis said, to take place by the time the November grand jury is in session. The jury will begin its sittings next Tuesday. Federal authorities are prepared to take any law violators arrested before the jury immediately, Mr. Davis said.

Paul W. Voorheis, prosecuting attorney of Wayne County, announced late to-day he would co-operate with the federal authorities by starting court action against all properties in the county, which court records show have been used for dispensing liquor twice since 1917. Under a state law, known as the Nuisance Act, the authorities may condemn such property and prevent its use for any purpose for one year.

Activity on the part of the federal authorities follows the ruling of a Windsor police magistrate some time ago that the Ontario Prohibition Act did not prohibit shipment of liquors into dry territory. Since that time, federal officials and the police here say, large quantities of liquor have been brought from Canada across the border into Michigan.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.)—Shares of the railroad and equipment companies were especially active and strong at the opening of to-day's stock market. Settlement of the threatened rail strike impelled heavy short covering and some speculative buying. Great Northern and Northern Pacific made early gains of 2 points. Chicago and Northwestern rose 2¼ and New York Central, Reading, Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio and St. Paul advanced 1 to 1½. Gains of 1 to 2 points were made by American and Baldwin Locomotives, General Electric and Crucible and Bethlehem Steel. Oils extended their gains of the past few days, with further heavy trading in domestic issues of the Pacific group.

MONTREAL STOCKS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—A very strong market was in evidence on the local stock exchange during the first half hour this morning. Brompton rose 1½ to 25 and Detroit Railway, whose weakness and subsequent drop of 11 points was the feature of the early trading yesterday, strengthened to 66¼. Laurentide, in sympathy with the other rising issues, advanced to 80. Breweries appeared fractionally stronger to 55⅝. Spanish River was prominent, rising 1½ to 67. Other changes in price quotations were fractional.

Trading was brisk and prices continued strong all morning. Several issues registered gains at the close from their early quotations. These included Abitibi, ½; Brazilian, ⅛, and Detroit United Railway, 1¼. A few of the leaders closed fractionally weaker, but these declines were unimportant.

HE STARTS FOR TORONTO WITH 50 CENTS CAPITAL

But Graham is a Scotchman and the Court Thinks He Can Make It.

"Sure, I can get to Toronto on 50 cents," said James Graham, charged with vagrancy in police court this morning when the magistrate asked him how he expected to continue his travels when his total cash resources approximated but one-half of one iron man.

Graham reached London from Toronto by the side-door pullman route. He wasn't caught, so proceeded to view the city and was found by a polite officer trying to panhandle an overcoat on one of the residential streets of the city.

Asked what he was doing in that locality he replied that he was engaged in an earnest pursuit of employment, but did not explain how he hoped to find it in a residential section.

"Where do you want to go?" asked the magistrate.

"Back to Toronto," said Graham.

"How do you expect to get there; have you any money?"

"Fifty cents."

"Well, you can't go far on that."

"Sure, I can get to Toronto on 50 cents," replied Graham with an accent redolent of the land of heather and distilleries.

"Well, being a Scotchman perhaps it is not impossible," said the magistrate. "We'll give you the chance." And James will be escorted to the city limits and set upon his way for the provincial metropolis. Among the members of the police force the betting is even that he will make the grade, while some of his fellow Scots are almost prepared to wager that he will still have his 50 cents intact when he completes his journey.

ROYAL WINTER FAIR HAS BEEN CANCELED

Preparations Were Being Made for Exhibition of National Interest.

Official intimation has been received at the local office of the department of agriculture of the cancelation of the Royal Winter Fair, which was to have been held at Toronto from November 17 to 24.

The preparations had been made for an exhibition of national scope and the reason for its cancellation is attributed to different causes. The directors of the fair declared that it would not be able to hold the fair, as the building which they were to use would not be heated. The City of Toronto, however, has offered to put in a temporary heating plant, which has apparently made no change, however, in the decision of the board to call off the agricultural exhibition.

It has been intimated that the fair was really called off because of lack of entries for the show, although the directorate have not admitted this. The City of Toronto has threatened to take legal action against the Board of directors if the fair is not held.

WILL SELL POPPIES ON ARMISTICE DAY

G. W. V. A. and Women's Organizations Are Arranging a Co-operative Effort.

The "poppy day" celebration has been decided upon by the local organization of the G. W. V. A., who will co-operate with the various women's organizations of the city, to better their chances of making the affair a decided success.

A display, made up of wreaths, sprays and small and large singe, artificial poppies will be on show in one of the local merchant's windows on Dundas street next week.

November 11, Armistice Day, has been set aside by the various soldier organizations throughout the country for the purpose of commemorating and honoring their fallen comrades, and on this day every man, woman and child in the city and country is asked to do his bit by buying a poppy.

The funds collected will be donated to the relief work of the disabled veterans, and any surplus will be added to the funds already on hand for the erection of a memorial hall in the city.

AUDIT COMMITTEE REVIEWS ACCOUNTS

Board of Education Accounts to Amount of $25,000 Dealt With.

Some $25,000 of Board of Education accounts were gone over to-day by the audit committee of that body, of which Trustee Rev. A. A. Bice is chairman. That committee is growing in importance under the leadership of the All Saints' rector, in that accounts are not merely passed or not passed according to their conformity to by-laws, but considered advice is given the various committees on the financial problems that come up.

The committee may eventually become the most important section of the school board now that it acts in an advisory as well as jidicial capacity.

Trustee A. N. Udy, member of the committee, is bringing in a report on temporary insurance for the new schools now being erected.

"ALAS, POOR BUD!" IS LAMENT OVER PET GOOSE

Railway Man's Fowl Protege Lost, Strayed or Stolen.

A prominent railroad man in the city is to-day going around with a very heavy heart as the result of a mean trick which someone played on him by stealing or borrowing, he does not know which, a pet gopse, which answered, when called, to the name of "Bud."

Each and every morning, as regular as clock work, "Bud" would come to the back door and utter several short honks, or whatever any pet goose says when he talks, to let his master know that he was waiting to greet him and ready for his morning lunch.

Several mornings ago, however, although it was many minutes passed the honking hour, the goose failed to put in an appearance, and, after hunting around the yard and visiting the favorite resting place of "Bud," his master finally came to the conclusion that someone had appropriated the bird.

MUCH INTEREST IN CIVIC FIGHT

Three Strong Candidates Enter For Mayoralty Race.

ALL ALDERMEN IN FIELD

Trustees Likely To Contest Aldermanic Seats.

With three strong candidates for the mayor's chair and an exceptionally large field of aspirants for the aldermanic and other civic boards in sight it is assured that the municipal elections this year will arouse more than ordinary interest. It is admitted that the Federal contest will have a tendency to cast the municipal affairs in the shade, but there will be much more interest shown this year than has been for years previously, it is believed.

While there have been many rumors to the effect that there would be four or more candidates in the mayoralty contest it is now well assured that there will not be more than three. Ald. Cameron Wilson, Harley and Wenige will more than likely be the only contestants for the chair. Philip Pocock, of the Utilities Commission, has been mentioned as a possible fourth candidate, as has Ald. Childs. Mr. Pocock to-day emphatically asserted that he would not enter the mayor's race. For the last 10 years he has been closely associated with the advancement of hydro in this city, much of that time as chairman of the commission, and he is inclined to remain in that field; that is, if he comes out for any municipal honors this year. On this latter question he is not definitely decided, but it is expected he will again make a bid for the commission.

Ald. Childs will come out again as an alderman in ward four rather than take a chance in the race for the chief magistracy.

The aldermanic race is likely to see a large number of new contestants. Chairman Coleridge, of the Board of Education, is said to be seriously considering the question of running in ward two. His friends are urging him to do this, and they suggest that he could step into the mayor's chair in a year or so. Having passed through the chairmanship of the Board of Education he has received all the honors of that body. Thus it is natural that he should aspire to some other civic body.

Trustee Rowe is another member of the educational body that is slated for the aldermanic race this year, it is said. He will probably contest ward one. Trustee Smith, who was said to be considering making a change, will likely offer for election to the board again. Trustees Wright, Eggett and Mrs. Tanner are also expected to be in the race for trusteeship again.

It is expected that all of the aldermen, with the exception of those three who are offering for the mayoralty contest, will again be condidates for the City Council. Ald. Brighton and Watt in ward one; Ald. W. A. Wilson in ward two; Ald. Watkinson, Drake and Ashton in ward three, and Ald. Childs, Bridge and Boss in ward four will be among the list of candidates.

Official Recall

sary to conduct these proceedings were in the hands of district attorneys throughout the country ready to be represented in federal courts.

The Government program included two actions to prevent a tie-up in transportation and a third looking to the punishment of strike leaders through indictments for conspiracy against the public. These were to be presented to the court 24 hours before the time the strike was scheduled to begin.

G. N. STRIKE CONTINUES.

It was learned to-day that the code word calling off the railroad strike has not yet been dispatched to the International and Great Northern trainmen who went out last Saturday. The calling off of their strike was deferred pending determination of their opportunity to return to work.

B. A. Worthington, president of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis and Western Railway, to-day notified Ben W. Hooper, member of the public group of the railroad labor board, in a letter, that the road would pay time and a half for overtime dating back from August 1, at which time it was eliminated, until the question is definitely decided by the board.

THE REASON.

L. E. Sheppard, president of the Order of Railway Conductors, said that the unions had decided to call off the strike because of "the growing public opinion that the strike would be against the labor board and consequently the Government, and not against the railroads."

"It was evident also that the entire Washington administration was opposed to us, and that we would have little chance of gaining our objectives," said Mr. Sheppard. "We called this strike to gain certain rights to which our men were entitled," Mr. Sheppard told the Associated Press. "It soon became evident, however, that the roads were succeeding in their misleading propaganda to the effect that we really would be striking against the Government.

"This railroad propaganda found its way to the United States Railroad Board. This Government agency told us that it would look on a strike as against it and the Government and not against the roads, and that the full force of the Government would be brought to bear upon us if we walked out. Under such circumstances there was nothing to do but annul our orders for the October 30 walk-out."

VIEW OF RULING.

Union leaders said that the resolution adopted by the labor board, announcing that no further wage reduction petitions for any one group of employees would be considered until rules and working conditions for that group had been settled was "decidedly instrumental" in bringing about the action calling off the strike. They declared that they believed, under this resolution, it would be months before their pay again would be reduced.

The union resolution immediately was communicated to the labor board and proved particularly gratifying to Walter McMenimen, member of the labor group, who was instrumental in bringing about the settlement of the crisis.

Mr. McMenimen, a personal friend of Mr. Lee, and a former trainman, paved the way for a conference between the board and union men, particularly those to-day, which were addressed by Ben Hooper, member of the public group.

Members of the labor board said that the action of the labor leaders "meant that the board's decision on yesterday's conference between the board, the unions and the railroads, to determine if the Transportation Act had been violated in the strike activities, would be decidedly mild."

The board, which to-day informed the unions that this decision would "handle them with ungloved hands" if they did not call off the strike by morning, would take the attitude now that the dispute had been settled and that consequently the matter again was out of its hands, members said.

NOTICES SENT OUT.

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 28.—Secret code messages to general chairmen by which they are directed to notify local chairmen that the proposed railroad strike has been called off were sent out early to-day from the general offices her of the brotherhoods of trainmen, engineers and firemen.

NAME LEADER OF N. L. C. MONDAY

City Government Party Nomination In Masonic Temple.

CRONYN WILL PRESIDE

432 Delegates Will Select Federal Candidate.

The nominating convention of the National Liberal and Conservative party in the City of London will be held on Monday evening in the Masonic Hall and promises to be both largely attended and enthusiastic. There are 72 polling divisions in London, and as each is entitled to six convention delegates the number of votes on the floor on Monday evening will be 432.

Accommodation for those other than delegates who desire to attend the convention will be provided in the spacious galleries and it is expected that there will be a big demand for seats.

The chief business of the convention will be the selection of a candidate to contest London in the interests of the Meighen Government party, and in succession to Major Hume Cronyn, who, because of business engagements, has found it impossible to continue his legislative duties. It is believed that the names of several prominent members of the party will go before the convention. One that is certain is that of Frank White, while others are also spoken of.

Major Cronyn, if in the city, will preside at the convention and will speak. An effort is also being made to secure the attendance of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, who has already been renominated for his constituency of South Wellington.

City News

IS YOUR NAME ON LIST?—City Clerk Baker stated to-day that this is the last day in which citizens may appeal to have their names placed in the municipal voters' list. He regretted that this information had not been advertised before, as the information probably comes too late for those affected.

PETITION FOR DOUGHTY'S RELEASE.—A petition is being circulated in London imploring the minister of justice to release John Doughty, who was sentenced to six years in Kingston Penitentiary for the theft of bonds from the missing theatrical magnate, Ambrose J. Small. It is understood that the petition is being largely signed locally.

BROKE INTO HYDRO TOOL BOX.—Some thief of a mechanical turn of mind broke into the hydro tool box at the corner of Simcoe and Rectory street yesterday and stole three pairs of spurs, a hand axe, a roll of tape and an army knife. The police are now waiting for a report that a couple of horses have been stolen by the gentleman who has already provided himself with the spurs.

GOING TO HAMILTON. — Several Londoners will attend the fall meeting of the Hindu Koosh Grotto, to be held in Hamilton this evening. More than 500 candidates will be present from all parts of the country. Several Masonic Grotto clubs are organized in the United States, but this is the only one of its kind in Canada.

LAST INSTALLMENT.—Preparations are being made in the income tax office for the last installment of the income tax, due on Monday next. Some money on this payment is already coming in. The aggregate to be received will be smaller than in the case of any of the previous installments, as a large number of the persons assessed have already paid in full.

AT STRATFORD ON TUESDAY. — Hon. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, will open his Western Ontario tour on Tuesday, making his first visit at Stratford. He will leave Stratford for Sarnia on Wednesday. On Thursday the leader will arrive in London at 8.30 a. m. and will journey to St. Thomas. On Friday Mr. King will address a meeting in this city and will leave on Saturday for Toronto.

SUE OIL COMPANY.—Four writs have been issued in the supreme court against Mackenzie River Oil, Ltd., for varying amounts alleged due for wages and board or, in the alternative, damages for alleged breach of contract. The writs were issued by Meredith & Meredith, on behalf of George Rice, Fletcher; Serle Lucas, Watford; Harry G. Lucas, Middlemiss, and Floyd Hutto, Middlemiss. The claims total some $7,000.

YOUTHS IN COURT.—Two youths appeared before the police court this morning, one charged with drunkenness and the other with disorderly conduct. The employer of the youth charged with drunkenness visited the police court before the session opened, spoke a good word in the prisoner's behalf and left the money to pay his fine. The youth charged with disorderly conduct explained that he was trying to take his friend home when the police arrested him. He resented being arrested and the disorderly charge, he alleged, was the sequel. He was allowed to go on payment of a fine of $2 and costs.

MORRIS GOOTSON AGAIN WINS ACTION IN COURT

Demonstrates He Is First-Class Lawyer —Trouble Over Horse.

Victory perched decisively upon the banners of the House of Gootson in police court this morning when Morris, the ruling potentate of the family, was adjudged the winner in a bout with the law.

Morris was reported several days ago for permitting his horse to run at large, the said horse having parked itself upon a neighbor's lawn at 10.30 at night, from whence it was removed by two officers of the law.

In his defense Morris pleaded that before he and his wife went to the synagogue he tied the restive steed in his yard. He also asked a neighbor to keep a friendly eye upon the animal. He did not know what more he could do unless he took the horse to the synagogue with him.

Magistrate Bartlett, giving judgment in the case to-day, held that the act of securing the horse constituted a reasonable precaution against its running at large and that Morris could hardly be held responsible for the manifestation of the ebullience of equine spirits occurring while he was at worship. Accordingly the case was dismissed and Morris left the court in triumph.

EXPERT ON JAILS WAS DECIDEDLY MODEST

Thomas Warren Gets Three Months For Theft of a Bicycle.

Crown Attorney McKillop attempted to get an expert opinion on the jails of this continent from Thomas Warren this morning when the latter was arraigned in police court charged with stealing a bicycle, but the latter disclaimed any expert qualifications, saying he had only been in jail twice, once in Windsor and the second time in Buffalo.

"That's not the information we have, your honor," said the crown attorney. "We are informed that this man will not work and has an intimate inside acquaintance with many jails. If he persists in his story I shall be forced to ask for a remand until we can make further inquiries about him. How many jails have you been in?" the crown attorney then asked Warren. "Only twice," was the reply, "once in Windsor and once in Buffalo. Both times it was for drunkenness."

The evidence showed that Warren had beat his way to London from Windsor looking for work. Unable to find employment here he traveled by the side door pullman route to Woodstock, where he stole a bicycle and rode it back to London. The theft was reported to the police, who found Warren trying to dispose of the wheel and promptly pinched him. Warren explained that he was penniless and hungry. He stole the bicycle hoping to realize sufficient by its sale to keep him in food for a few days, when he hoped to enlist in the permanent force.

Magistrate Bartlett decided that there was on evidence to controvert War

EVIDENTLY NOT DRY CONGRESSMAN

Texan Representative Makes Exhibition of Himself

CENSURED BY SPEAKER

After Resolution to Throw Him Out Was Defeated

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Saved from being thrown out of the House of Representatives to-day by a bare margin of eight votes, Thomas L. Blanton, a Texas Democrat, was publicly reprimanded late to-day by Speaker Gillett, in accordance with a resolution of censure, against which not a single vote was cast.

A moment later, as Blanton walked out of the chamber with all eyes upon him, he toppled over in a heap. Some of his colleagues who had voted to expel him, picked the Texas representative up and placed him on a lounge. Rousing himself in a few minutes, Blanton stumbled out, the tears streaming down his cheeks.

"I hope I never see this house again," he was heard to mutter as he left the chamber.

Blanton was charged with putting into the Congressional Record a document described as "unspeakably vile." He admitted before the House to-day that he wished to enter in the record an undelivered speech, containing the language complained of, and have 250,000 copied mailed to voters.

TORONTO HOPEFUL OF VISIT OF NOTABLES

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—"We have hopes that Premier Lloyd George, Earl Beatty and Earl Haig will visit Toronto late in November," Mayor Church announced to-day. "We may possibly have Marshal Foch also," he added.

CRERAR HAVING SOME HARD LUCK

His Train Two Hours Late for Sussex, N. B., Meeting

AUDIENCE WAITS FOR HIM

Again Refers to the Prime Minister and Loyalty

SUSSEX, N.B., Oct. 27.—(By Staff correspondent of the Canadian Press).—"This miserable campaign of questioning the loyalty of your opponents is worse than the Toryism of the middle ages," exclaimed Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, in addressing electors of Royal constituency, to-day. Mr. Crerar was referring to statements attributed to the prime minister

"Our opponents," said Mr. Crerar, "must be very barren of arguments if they have to embark on a campaign of that sort; it shows that they are fighting a losing cause."

Mr. Crerar's speech came at the close of a chapter of accidents. Yesterday he was to have spoken at Fredericton, but there had been failure to advertise and the meeting was called off. To-day the Sussex meeting was delayed by reason of late trains, and the crowd had to wait nearly two hours for Mr. Crerar's arrival. The attendance was large, however.

Mr. Crerar first took up reports of a secret alliance between himself and Hon. W. L. MacKenzie King, leader of the Liberal party. They were, Mr. Crerar said, part of the campaign of misrepresentation.

"From first to last," he added, "they are a tissue of misstatement—I was going to say a tissue of falsehoods, and that would not be too strong a word to use."

Government supporters had gone around the country, Mr. Crerar said, claiming that the Progressives intended to put a heavy tax on farms. The Progressives' program provided for a tax on unimproved land, to force speculators holding land out of cultivation, either to cultivate it or to release it.

"It is natural enough to expect," Mr. Crerar remarked, "that the Government is the friend of the speculators. I can quite understand why they criticize a tax of that kind."

Mr. Crerar again challenged the Government to give the source of its campaign funds.

MUSICAL COMEDY DELIGHTS HOUSE

"Some Girl" Enthuses Capacity Audience at the Grand

AN EXCELLENT COMPANY

Tuneful Melodies and Dainty Dancing Features of Show

A peppy, colorful musical comedy, particularly strong in its dancing and comedy features, with a chorus much better than that ordinarily seen with a road attraction—that is "Some Girl," which opened a three-day engagement at the Grand last evening to a capacity audience. Patients and staff of Westminster Hospital were present as the guests of the management and enjoyed the performance immensely.

"Some Girl" contains no more plot than most musical comedies, but it is smart and full of ginger. The various numbers run with the smoothness and finish that tell of long road association, and the chorus possesses freshness and spirit, which adds to the enjoyment of its work.

The piece has a fairy fable flavor, romantic enough to fit with Grimm tales, and suiting admirably for the introduction of jingly, sprightly music and a succession of new, crackling comedy situations to ward against any possible serious moment of contemplation.

Miss Gudrun Walberg, pretty and most graceful, a dancer from the tips of her tiny toes through her sinuous little body to her head, is well suited in the character of Babette, the little Brittany girl, with "sunshine in her feet." She has a nice voice, though not of particular power, but has a particularly winsome stage presence. She literally dances her way into the affections of her audience, and her work last evening was much appreciated and heartily applauded. Allen Carter is the tenor of the organization. He has a voice of particular tone quality and much range. His solos were well done and his duets with Miss Walberg most artistic.

Excellent comedy is supplied by Miss Lillie Proctor as Tillie, and Tom Crowley as Petunia. Miss Proctor has a vein of novel fun, which she gets over well, while Mr. Crowley is an unctuous black face comedian, who never misses an opportunity to make the most of his lines.

There are 23 musical numbers in the show, and as each is well produced it is difficult to select the most popular. The ensemble numbers are, however, specially brilliant and afford a treat for the eye as well as the ear. As a special attraction the McLaughlin Sisters, dainty and petite, present excellent dancing turns, the dansant allegro being the epitome of grace, while the eccentric dances in the last act are extremely difficult and well done.

Altogether "Some Girl" is a production that lives up to its advance notices. It makes a particularly good opening for the musical comedy season.

NOW HE WRITES TO MR. GUTHRIE

Hon. Mr. King Still Worried About Munitions

WANTS MORE PARTICULARS

Propounds Four Questions to Minister of Militia

SUTTON, Oct. 27. — (By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent).—Hon. Mackenzie King sent a letter to-night to Hon. Hugh Guthrie, minister of militia, asking for full information regarding shipments of munitions being received in Canada from England.

"It has been made clear," says Mr. King's letter, "that an accounting has taken place between the Canadian Government and the war office in London, by which both at the time of the armistice and as a result of the financial settlement in July, 1920, extensive credits were placed to Canada's credit with the war office, against which Canada was entitled to draw from time to time."

Mr. King asks:

1. The extent of such credits.

2. The extent and nature of war material which has been drawn by the Canadian department of militia.

3. The nature and extent of the credit upon which Canada is still entitled to draw.

4. Particulars as to aeroplanes and other war equipment which have been received from Great Britain as gifts since the armistice.

Mr. King asks that these particulars include details of gifts to the naval service.

"During the session of 1920," says Mr. King's letter, "Parliament appropriated $1,180,024, and in the last session $868,654 for ammunitions and warlike stores. The $2,000,000 was voted without any mention in Parliament of credit existing in England or elsewhere from which Canada could draw such stores."

Furthermore, reference to the Commons debates would show that Parliament was given to understand by the Minister of Militia that all artillery and other ammunition required for the training of the Canadian forces was being made at the arsenals of Quebec and Lindsay.

ONE KILLED AND TWO SERIOUSLY INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Party Returning From Men's Brotherhood Banquet Held Here Last Night

WILLIAM R. LAWRENCE MET INSTANT DEATH

Two Other Sarnia Men in Victoria Hospital Are Reported to Recover

DELAWARE, Oct. 28.—(Special to The Free Press.)—William Ralph Lawrence, of Sarnia, was instantly killed and two of his four companions were seriously injured when the motor car in which they were driving turned over a high embankment near the English church here. The car was one of three which were bringing back the Sarnia delegation of 14 men from the Brotherhood banquet, held in London last night. The seriously injured, Mark Stover, 189 South Brock street, and Alexander Huston, 393 St. George street, were removed to Victoria Hospital shortly after the accident occurred. It is expected that they will both recover.

Mr. Lawrence, who is the son of the head of the Lawrence Lumber Company, of Sarnia, delighted 400 men at the Brotherhood banquet in London last night with his pleasing singing voice. Each one of the groups who attended the rally contributed some feature to the program and Mr. Lawrence, on account of his full, rich baritone voice, was requested by his fellow brothers of Sarnia to sing. It is particularly touching that the song which he selected was "And You'll Get There in the Morning."

UNACQUAINTED WITH ROAD.

The driver of the car was unacquainted with the road after it reached Delaware and instead of continuing on the main highway turned off in the direction of the English church here. Realizing that they were proceeding in the wrong direction the party made inquiries of Robert Reid, a local garage man, who turned them back in the direction of Strathroy and Mount Brydges.

Not more than a few yards had been traveled by the automobile in the other direction before it was suddenly precipitated over a bank to an old bakeshop. In the drop of eight or nine feet the car overturned and pinned the five occupants beneath it. Mr. Lawrence died almost instantly and it was not until assistance came that the four others were extricated from the wreckage of the automobile, which was a comparatively small machine. Oatman's ambulance, of London, came for the two more seriously hurt men and the body of Mr. Lawrence was taken to the undertaking parlors and subsequently to Sarnia.

FOG IS BLAMED

The night was particularly bad for motor driving, as a heavy mist prevailed which the headlights of the car could not penetrate for any distance. This accounts for fact that the party became turned about at this town and also is the probable cause for the motor car being overturned into the ditch. The machine, after it had taken the drop, crashed against the brick wall of the old bakeshop and in overturning pinned the occupants beneath it.

Attracted by the fact that William Ward, the distinguished president of the World Brotherhood Federation, was speaking at the annual banquet, held in London, the federation at Sarnia decided to show their hearty indorsation of the movement by attending the meeting in the Masonic Temple. Secretary T. H. Yull had forwarded them an invitation, which they accepted with alacrity.

When the Rev. J. N. Norton mentioned the name of Sarnia in making the roll call of the different groups represented, 14 men sprang to their feet. This unexpected appearance of the Tunnel City delegation was the signal for prolonged applause on the part of the banqueters. Mr. Lawrence, who contributed a solo to the program, was heartily encored for his effort.

The news of the tragedy, when it became known in London and Sarnia, caused widespread grief.

All the men in the delegation were well known.

An X-ray examination was made of Mr. Hueston, but the results were not known at the time of going to press. His general condition, however, is reported as much improved. Mr. Stover's condition is regarded as critical.

SAYS LABOR WILL NOT SUPPORT LIBERALS

Ald. Ashton Brands Rumor of Labor Support for C. R. Somerville As Untrue.

"Labor will absolutely not support Ex-Mayor Somerville in the federal election," asserted Ald. Ashton to-day referring to a rumor that is persistently heard in certan quarters to the effect that local labor would throw its force behind Mr. Somervile in the coming electon. "Labor could not entertain that proposition for one moment. There has been no thought of taking any such stand. It has not even been mentioned, nor would it be any use to make the suggestion, for the labor men would unquestionably refuse to support the Liberal nominee at this time. All rumors to the contrary are simply untrue."

SPANIARDS RELIEVED.

LONDON, Oct. 28.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Madrid says that Minister of War Vierva announced in the Chamber of Deputies there to-day that Gen. Girona's column, after hard fighting against strong enemy forces in Morocco, freed the Spanish position at Tregusian, which had been besieged for three days and was in a critical state when Girona's troops arrived.

IDENTIFY INJURED BOY BY SCRIBBLER CONTAINING VERSE OF SCRIPTURE

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—"In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you."

This verse from the 19th chapter of St. John were the last words written in the scribbler of Dick Cornell, a school boy who was struck and seriously injured by a street car yesterday afternoon. The scribbler was the only clue to his identity.

DAIL PRESENTS FINAL DEMANDS

Delegates to London Conference Make New Demands

OUTLOOK DISCOURAGING

Papers Anxious as to Outcome of Monday's Debate

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Final demands have been presented by the Dail Eireann delegation attending the Irish conference here, it was reported in London to-day. These demands, if conceded, would involve abrogation of the act which gave the Ulster Government control of the six northern counties in Ireland, but it was asserted the Government had intimated that acceptance of these claims was impossible. The issue has been referred to Dublin, according to the report, and it was implied that the Dail Eireann answer, which is expected by Monday at the latest, will probably be unfavorable.

Views expressed by newspapers here to-day certainly were not encouraging. There appeared to be an agreement by political correspondents that Ulster rather than sovereignty over Ireland was the crux of the situation. The London Times Parliamentary correspondent said: "In quarters that should accurately reflect the mind of the Government gloomy forebodings were current yesterday." He spoke of pessimism in ministerial quarters and that attitude seemed to be shared by most political writers. It was not surprising under these circumstances therefore that some journals again spoke of the improbability of Mr. Lloyd George being able to attend the opening of the Washington conference.

Anxiety over Monday's debate in the Commons, especially its relation to the Irish negotiations, was reflected by today's newspapers. They emphasized the fact that an overwhelming vote of confidence, which it was assumed the Government would receive, would strengthen the hands of the ministry when its representatives again met the Irish delegates. It was generally believed the next meeting of the Irish conference would be of the utmost importance and would show whether peace was possible.

PLEBISCITE SUGGESTED.

LONDON, Oct. 29.—Chief among the demands presented at the Irish conference by the Dail Eireann delegates is one that the six northeastern counties of Ireland shall come into a united Ireland, or accept the verdict of a plebiscite for the fixing of new boundaries, it was declared by The Star today.

British representatives in the conference will, it is understood, consider the Irish terms over the week-end at Chequers Court, the suburban home of the prime minister. It is improbable, however, that a definite decision will be reached until after Monday's debate in the House of Commons, upon which, it is believed, the fate of the question of peace depends.

The Sinn Fein high council in Dublin met last evening and did not adjourn until midnight. It was stated to-day the council disposed of a number of constitutional matters and questions of organization.

POLICE BELIEVE O'HARA MAY BE ELUSIVE "PAT"

Fourth Man in Melbourne Murder May Be in Toils in Montreal

PHOTOGRAPHS SENT TO MONTREAL OFFICIALS

Detroit Police, Hot on Chase, Missed Pat by Seconds

The police are satisfied that Norman Ryan, alias Norman J. Bell, arrested in Montreal after a gun battle with detectives, is not the much-wanted "Pat" who was implicated with the Murrel brothers and "Slim" Williams in the murder of Russell Campbell and the robbery of the Home Bank at Melbourne last spring. There is a belief, however, that "Pat" O'Hara, also in the toils in Montreal, may be the man wanted. Photographs of Pat have been sent to the Montreal police, together with a complete description, and word as to whether he is the wanted man is eagerly awaited.

The revolver captured on Ryan and bearing the initials "M. G." and "L. H." is believed to be the property of the teller in the Bank of Hamilton at the corner of Locke and Herkimer streets, Hamilton, as a revolver bearing these initials was stolen at the time of the robbery several weeks ago.

HAD GERMAN REVOLVER.

One of the facts in connection with the capture of Ryan which led to the supposition that he might be "Pat" was that he had a German Luger revolver, such as it was said "Pat" was armed with. Of the revolvers taken from the Murrells and "Slim" Williams one was a Luger.

The search for "Pat" has been by no means abandoned and it is reported that on several occasions the officers have been very close to capturing him but he has proven sufficiently elusive to escape. In one case it is reported that Detroit officers on his trail tracked him to a garage where they thought he was employed. The report further states that as the officers entered the front door of the garage "Pat" made his getaway by a rear door and has not since been seen in that vicinity. This was about four weeks ago.

The man O'Hara, who was arrested in Montreal, in company with Albert Slade, alias Ryan, alias Bell, in connection with the attempted hold-up in the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch, is wanted in Hamilton for the hold-up of the Bank of Hamilton in August. In Hamilton he is wanted under the name of McVittie, and it is the belief of the police that in the Hamilton robbery he worked with Ryan.

KING SPEAKS TO AURORA CROWDS

Charges Government With Extravagance and With Patronage

CHALLENGES PREMIER

Declares His Attitude on Tariff Has Been Changeable

AURORA, Oct. 28.—(By Staff Correspondent of Canadian Press.)—The third meeting of Hon. Mackenzie King in the North York riding, held here to-night at Mechanics' Hall, drew an overflow audience. The Starland Theater accommodated a second capacity crowd.

The first obligation of this country to-day was its debt to those who suffered from the great war, to them and their dependents. The present Government had developed a contempt for anything less than millions and billions of dollars. Yet, after spendnig money as if it were water, with unparalleled disregard for economy, when the soldiers asked for further relief there was no money available. The national debt at present meant some $300 a year to be paid in taxes of some kind by every Canadian family. This, the speaker said, was a sum which meant the difference between a mortgaged home and a home free from mortgage; the difference between being insured against accident and disease and remaining unprotected.

"CARNIVAL OF PATRONAGE."

The issue to-day was not between protection and free trade. Mr. Meighen had invented this claim in order to prevent an investigation of the Government under his administration. His record of the last month or two had been a perfect carnival of patronage in giving appointments to his own supporters.

Mr. King again challenged the prime minister to show that he had been changeable in his attitude toward the tariff during his two years as leader of the Opposition. Whether in Parliament or anywhere else in the Dominion his attitude had been exactly the same.

Mr. Meighen had asked on the platform whether Mr. King was ready if returned to power to put his platform of 1919 into effect. Having in mind the mariner who is to take his ship out into unknown seas he regarded the platform as a chart by which he should be guided. He was not an autocrat, he was not going to take the whole business of government into his own hands, but he would surround himself by the ablest men he could find, and in collective wisdom find the compass needed to point the way the ship of state should take.

FEARS EXTINCTION OF BLIND PIGS IN HULL

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—"At the rate they are sending them to jail now there will not be many blind pigs in existence by the advent of the new year," said a Hull resident conversant with the illicit liquor traffic in that city.

HIT BY HEAVY WHEEL.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—To be struck on the head with a two-ton flywheel and live is the extraordinary experience of Albert Boston, aged 33, of La Fontaine street, who suffered severe injuries to-day while he was assisting to load a portion of an immense flywheel on to a wagon. The flywheel, which altogether weighed four tons, was being moved in two sections, one of which dropped on Boston's head as he was standing beneath it.

Huron College Silver Plate, Lost 32 Years, Found In Old Vault

Communion Service Presented by Bishop Hellmuth in 1864 Is Brought to Light After Long and Mysterious Absence

Huron College's first communion service, consisting of six pieces of massive silver plate, presented to that institution in 1864 by the late Bishop Hellmuth, first principal of Huron College, which had been lost for 32 years, was discovered yesterday by F. P. Betts, K. C., in an old vault of the Huron & Erie Mortgage Corporation.

The service, consisting of a flagon, two chalices and three patens, is a beautiful example of the silversmith's art. Principal Waller, of Huron College, states that the old service, now brought to light after 32 years, will be used with the new service presented to the college in 1902 which, strangely enough, is in the same design.

Dr. Waller stated that the old communion service was lost in 1889, when the old chapel was being remodelled. After alterations were completed no trace of the service could be found. So for 32 years it was believed that some workmen had made away with the service presented by Archdeacon Hellmuth and had melted it down for disposal.

It is now believed that the late Chancellor Cronyn placed it in one of the Huron & Erie vaults for safe keeping during the alterations to the chapel. His death intervened and all record of the whereabouts of the service was lost.

During recent alterations to the safety deposit vaults of the Huron & Erie Corporation, F. P. Betts ran across the old service.

DR. A. R. PINGEL SUCCUMBS TO-DAY

Well-Known Physician Dies, Aged 71

EDUCATED IN TORONTO

Practiced in City for Past Thirty-Five Years

The death of one of London's foremost citizens took place this morning following an illness of about six weeks when Dr. A. R. Pingel succumbed in his 71st year. The late doctor had been a practicing physician in London for the last 35 years, 12 of which were spent at his late residence, 316 Queen's avenue.

The doctor was born in Markham Township and received his public school education in Toronto and his different degrees of medicine and surgery in Trinity College, also in that city. He is survived by his wife, one son, Harold H., and one sister, Mrs. T. Hoob, of Toronto.

The funeral will be held from his late residence on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Woodland Cemetery. Services will be conducted by Rev. N. L. Tucker at 2.30 o'clock.

MORE GRAIN HANDLED.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—That the Canadian National Railways are this year hauling more grain than heretofore is shown by statistics made public by the department of railways and canals. From September 1 to October 20 the Canadian National Railways moved 45.8 per cent. of the grain, as against 37.1 per cent. during the similar period in 1920.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE.

LABOR MEN WANT TARIFF RETAINED

Will Ask Support for Protection Plank

MEETING IN HAMILTON

Local Delegates Left City This Morning

At the Dominion convention of the Independent Labor party, which is being held at Hamilton to-day, H. B. Ashplant, a delegate from the Independent Labor party of London, will move that the lower tariff plank be eliminated from the political platform of the Labor party.

The London delegate, in speaking to The Free Press prior to leaving for Hamilton, stated that he believed that it was essential to remove the tariff clause from the platform in view of the coming federal election.

The motion is expected to receive strong support from the delegates of the various I. L. P. locals who will be in attendance.

Mr. Ashplant is one of the nine nominees chosen by the Labor men of London from whom the Labor candidate will be selected on Tuesday to contest the London riding in the coming federal election.

Arthur Mould, of London, is also a delegate from the Independent Labor party of the city.

GOOD CLASS OF IMMIGRANTS.

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—Canada is securing an excellent class of carefully selected immigrants from the old country at the rate of approximately 10,000 a year. Every assistance in paying their passage is given and a reduction of £12 sterling a head is made and loans are made to the needy cases.

INJUN HEAP BIG PROPHET! READ 'UM BARK ON TREES

SURE TO BE SEVERE.

CHATHAM, Oct. 29.—Indians from the Walpole Island Reserve who were in the city to-day stated that this winter will be excessively severe. To prove their point they pointed out to representatives of the press the wiry condition of the bark on the north sides of trees in Tecumseh Park. One aged Indian stated this was the first time in 12 years that he had noticed this condition. Certain other familiar signs also indicated that the coming winter would be severe.

BOUND TO BE MILD.

WALKERTON, Oct. 29.—John Cottrill, of the 10th of Bruce, brought into town the other day a spray of blossoms which he picked from a plum tree in his orchard. While many predictions of a hard winter are heard, yet the Indians on the Saugeen Reserve, who are no mean prophets, acclaim an open winter, taking for their convictions such signs as fruit trees again blossoming, second crop of berries, scarcity of nuts, the thinness of bark on trees, etc.

UNITE MEN'S CLUBS IN BIG BROTHER MOVE

Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions and Canadian Will Assist the Underprivileged Boys of City

NEED FEDERATION TO COVER LARGE FIELD

Big Four Brotherhood Could Do Much to Extend the "Big Brother's" Spirit

Four men's organizations may soon join hands in a big brother movement for helping underprivileged boys. These organizations are the Rotary, Canadian, Kiwanis and Lions' clubs. The Kiwanis Club is the pioneer organization in London with regard to boys' work, but the field is so wide, the need so great, that an effort is now being made to organize a Big Foun Brotherhood whose aim will be the extending of a helping brotherly hand to London lads that circumstances may shape into good citizens or the reverse, but with timely aid and sympathetic understanding circumstances may be assisted in the formation of good citizens.

It is understood that D. H. McDermid, president of the Children's Aid Society, is one of the prime movers in this proposed federation of men's club work for boys. William A. Martin, district governor of Rotary Clubs, states that the matter is under consideration, and it is known that A. J. Mitchell, of the Kiwanis Club, and Dr. Roy Routledge, of the Lions' Club, are keenly interested in the proposed extension of what is regarded as a work of vital importance.

VALUABLE WORK.

What has already been accomplished for underprivileged lads in London is said to show the value of the work, and that no man who has consented to act as a "big brother" to some boy struggling against odds in the battle of life but has felt himself amply rewarded in the consciousness of good deeds done.

The proposed amalgamation has infinite possibilities, it is pointed out. The small but successful summer camp that was this year maintained by the Kiwanis Club could be tripled in size next year with the support of the four clubs.

Such an organization would have peculiar facilities for helping the ambitious boy in London.

The big brother movement differs from other benevolent efforts, it is stated, in that it preserves the personal touch by intimate contact with those being benefited. Such contact between the man of business and the underprivileged lad results, it has been shown here in a number of cases, in splendid results. The citizen consenting to help a lad usually gives him employment in his plant or store. There is hero worship on one side and the glow of personal interest on the other, resulting in splendid relationships that will endure, it is believed, for a lifetime.

INSPECT MILITIA NOVEMBER 28

Lieut.-Gen. Sir H. E. Burstall Is Coming to City

REVIEW SCHOOL CADETS

Will Be Largest School Military Function

Lieut.-Gen. Sir H. E. Burstall, K. C. B., K. C. M. G., inspector-general, will arrive in London for a general inspection on Monday, November 28, at which time all militia units in the city will be inspected, together with school military organizations.

Principal G. A. Wheable, school cadet brigadier, states that the public school cadets will turn out in a body to be reviewed by Gen. Burstall. This will be the biggest school military function yet staged in London.

The Royal Canadian Regiment, Western Ontario Regiment, 1st Hussars, 12th Battery, C. F. A., the signal company and the local service organizations will probably take part in a review.

NATURAL GAS WOULD MEAN COSTLY FIXTURES

Letters From Gas Expert Says East-End Connection "Practically Impracticable."

Natural gas may not be jointed to the mains of the City Gas Company at the east end city limits without causing East London residents to spend thousands of dollars in making alterations to their stoves for the use of natural gas and providing them with hoods to carry off fumes.

R. B. Harkness, expert adviser to the Dominion gas referee, has sent communications to members of the local special gas committee, informing them that the Saul farm natural gas, if secured, must be connected first with the Horton street gas retorts, which involves the laying of several miles of mains. The proposal that the natural gas should be connected with city mains at the eastern limits and thus supply East London residents is termed "practically impracticable" by the gas expert.

It is believed that Mr. Harkness' communication will put an end to the discussion over the proposal to secure natural gas for London.

NAPLES, Oct. 29.—Several persons were drowned and extensive property damage was caused by a flood of the River Sebeto, which flows through this city, on Thursday night. The inundation was caused by a severe storm lasting for 12 hours and a large portion of the lower sections of Naples was under water for several hours.

FLOODS IN GUATEMALA TAKE TOLL OF 18 LIVES

FAST G. T. R. TRAIN IS DITCHED BY WRECKERS NEAR FLINT, MICHIGAN

Posse Seeking Three Men Who Removed Rail and Sent Engine Somersaulting

NOBODY KILLED, BUT THREE BADLY HURT

Train Is the One Which Left London at 8.30 on Friday Night

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Grand Trunk passenger train No. 5 westbound was derailed near Elba, Mich., 15 miles from here last night when persons for whom a sheriff's posse are searching removed a rail from the track. Three men were injuried seriously. The entire train, with the exception of one Pullman car, was thrown into the ditch.

The train, a fast passenger bound from Port Huron to Chicago, was running at a high rate of speed, but the engineer was able to see that one of the rails had been torn in time to slacken the speed and the coaches merely sheered into the ditch without great damage.

THREE MEN SEEN

Trainmen reported that three men had been observed in the woods along the track immediately following the wreck. An investigation revealed that spikes had been removed from a 30-foot section. The tools with which the men worked were found beside the track and identified as having been stolen from a tool house at Lapeer recently.

A posse was organized and search began for the three men who fled into the brush.

The injured were the fireman, who was badly scalded, a porter who suffered severe bruises and possible internal injuries, and an attendant riding in an express car carrying race horses. They were taken to Lapeer for treatment.

Traffic, railroad men said, probably would be blocked for a day, the track having been torn up for 100 feet.

SEEKING THE WRECKERS.

LAPEER, Mich., Oct. 29.—A sheriff's posse and railroad detectives were searching the countryside to-day for three men who fled from the scene late last night of the derailment of the first section of Grand Trunk passenger train No. 5. The men were believed by the authorities to be the train wreckers who removed a rail near Elba, three miles from here, with the result that the entire train, except one Pullman car, plunged into the ditch. Three persons were injured seriously.

A flagman saw the trio running into the woods from the scene of the wreck as he went to the rear to place warning signals. One of the men, he reported, was well past middle age, while his companions were much younger. This directed suspicion toward a man about 55 years of age who had been in Elba three days and who was seen last night in company with two young men. The three, it was said, had carefully avoided contact with the villagers.

That the train was deliberately wrecked was established, officials said, by the finding of track workers' tools at the point of the derailment. Railroad men identified the tools as having been stolen from the Elba section house two days ago.

The engineer observed from a distance that a rail had been removed and was able to slacken the speed of the train before it reached the spot. The engine turned over three times and it hurtled into the ditch and this so diminished the speed of the coaches that they merely left the rails and toppled over. The track was torn up for a distance of more than 100 yards.

The wrecked train left London at 8.20 o'clock last night en route for Chicago, and according to information received to-day it is believed that several Londoners were aboard. Ticket agents reported that several tickets were purchased at the London office for points in the States prior to the departure of train No. 5 last night.

The western lines of the Grand Trunk were blocked as a result of the Lapeer wreck, and the trains from the west were delayed. Train No. 14, due here at 5.25 o'clock this morning, was two hours and 30 minutes late, and train No. 6, due at 12.15 o'clock noon, did not arrive here until after 1 o'clock.

Fifty Women Lose Eight Feet Of Waistline

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. — Fifty fat women, who are engaged in a prize reducing contest under city auspices, have lost eight feet of aggregate waistline in 11 days, Health Commissioner Copeland announced to-day. The member of the class who has reduced the most in circumference has lost six inches. The greatest degree in poundage is 19½.

TEN CHOIRS FOR PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Plan Adopted at Victoria Is to Be Extended

FIFTH TO EIGHTH GRADES

Concert of 1,000 Voices Next Spring Under Way

Organization of public school choirs, first tried out in Victoria School, has now passed the experimental stage and it is expected that within a short while at least 10 of the public schools will have children's choirs of 50 voices. Such choirs are now in the course of organization, it is understood, at Ealing, Wortley Road, Tecumseh, Simcoe and other schools.

E. W. G. Quantz, school music supervisor, is enthusiastic over the plan, in which it is hoped to develop a love for music amongst school children such as has never been known before in Canada.

With this choir organization, which takes in pupils from the fifth to eighth grades of the public schools, goes the establishing of musical departments in each school, with separate teachers in charge in each instance. These teachers direct the musical education of the children under the chief musical supervisor, and it is to them that the success of the choir organizations will be credited to a large extent.

Tentative preparations are being made for the biennial school concert which will be held next spring in all probability. If accommodation can be found a thousand children may take part in one of the Dominion's really distinctive musical offerings.

FOCH ACCLAIMED AT WASHINGTON

Will Take Luncheon With Harding at White House To-Day

CALLS ON THE CABINET

Also to Receive Calls From Pershing and Other Officers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29. — Official and unofficial Washington was eager to express to the full to-day its sentiment of heartfelt welcome to Marshal Foch, of France, military master who led the way to allied victory in the great war.

Paying a brief preliminary visit to the United States capital en route to Kansas City as the guest of the American Legion at its annual convention there, Marshal Foch, who was greeted enthusiastically on his arrival here last night from New York, faced a busy program to-day of official calls and courtesies, including a luncheon at the White House as the guest of President Harding.

After being received earlier in the day by the president, the French general planned to pay his respects to several Cabinet officials. He will also receive calls at his hotel from Gen. Pershing and other high officers of the United States army and navy.

JUDGE COLTER MAY RUN IN EAST ELGIN

May Accept Liberal Standard in the Coming Election.

AYLMER, Oct. 29.—Judge Colter, of St. Thomas, will probably be the Liberal candidate in East Elgin. Dan McIntyre, who announced that he would be in the field, was interviewed this week and stated that if Judge Coulter will accept the standard he will pull out. Judge Colter had previously given it as his opinion that the riding should be contested by a Liberal and it is believed he will announce to-day or on Monday whether he will be a candidate.

SOVIET WILL DISCHARGE TWO MILLION WORKERS

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—The Soviet committee charged with making a reduction in the number of Government employees in a report just submitted, announces that 2,500,000 of the employees are to be discharged. It has been decided to admit the principle of private management and scales of wages are to be fixed in accordance with the fluctuations of market prices in localities where work is done.

These steps are to be taken in an effort to give a living wage to workers and thus induce them to cease thievery.

Evidently Geo. Bernard Shaw and Babe Ruth Live In Two Different Worlds; Don't Know Each Other

"Whose Baby Is Ruth?" Shaw Cables; "Is That the Shaw Who Caught for St. Louis?" Asks Babe

NEW YORK, Oct. 29. — George Bernard Shaw, author of "Man and Superman" and various other dramatic works, who showed what he knows about boxing by picking Georges Carpentier, of France, as a 50 to 1 favorite over Champion Jack Dempsey, doesn't even know that much about baseball. But he has nothing on Babe Ruth's lack of lore concerning Belles Letteres.

When Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, learned Ruth was going into vaudeville for the winter, he suggested it might be a good little piece of publicity to get Shaw's opinion of the Sultan of Swat. Accordingly, he indited a cablegram to the author of "Man and Superman," inquiring whether it would be proper to bill Babe as "The Superman of Baseball."

"Sorry, never heard of her. Whose baby is Ruth?" Shaw cabled back.

"Shaw?" Ruth is reported to have mused when he was apprised of the answer. "Shaw? Is that the guy that used to catch for St. Louis?"

W. A. WILSON MAY RUN FOR MAYOR

Would Direct Campaign Against Harley and Wenige

MAKE FOURTH CANDIDATE

Following in Footsteps of Tommy Church, of Toronto

Ald. W. A. Wilson announces that he may be a fourth candidate for the mayoralty race. He would not relish coming out with Ald. Cameron Wilson in the field, but he states that he may be forced to do so yet. Even if he did so, his campaign would be directed more against Alds. Harley and Wenige than against Ald. Cameron Wilson.

"I want it understood that I have had more friends urging me to come out for mayor than both Alds. Wenige and Harley have together," said Ald. W. A. Wilson, to-day. "Ald. Harley says that five years is long enough for any man to hold office in the Council. Well, one year is long enough for some men who are no good there, but for a good man eternity would not be too long for him to retain his seat in the Council.

"I am following in the footsteps of Tommy Church, of Toronto, and Ald. Patrick Meighen, of St. Thomas," continued Ald. Wilson. "Look at their records. Mayor Church has held office as alderman, controller and mayor of Toronto since 1905 and he is still going strong. Ald. Meighen has been in the St. Thomas Council, as mayor and alderman, for 35 years. What would have happened to Toronto and St. Thomas if the five-year limit had been set for these two men. Then look at Sir John A. MacDonald, Sir Charles Tupper and other such good men, who served their country well for several times five years. As I said before, one year is certainly too long for a poor alderman, but a good man cannot be kept in office too long."

BUILDING RECORD $10,000 PER DAY

Permits Issued in October Reach $214,310

COSTS GENERALLY LOWER

November Expected to Be Another Active Month

London's building record for October to-day reached $214,310, which means that nearly $10,000 worth of new building was started each day of the present month. The year's total is now $2,258,955, which means that less than $200,000 needs to be written up before December 31 to make 1921 the premier building year in local history.

November is expected to be another record fall month. There is $50,000 of building already waiting for official approval, and the known list of probable construction assures a record for the coming month.

FIRST CHURCH REPAIRS.

Larger permits issued yesterday includes one to the First Methodist Church for repairs to the tower there that was damaged by lightning. N. S. Martyn is erecting a brick veneer dwelling on Emery street to cost $4,000.

The Canadian Oil Company is erecting a service station on Dundas street to cost $7,000. Harry Hayman is the builder. R. H. Smith is building a two-story cement block store on Horton street to cost $5,500.

A general lowering of building costs is reported from the passing month's records of building costs. Houses that six months ago cost $5,500 are now being erected for $4,000.

TWO JUVENILES FACE CHARGE OF THIEVING

Remanded Until Records of Activities Can Be Gone Into.

On Friday morning the local detectives received a complaint that a hydro tool box on the corner of Simcoe and Rectory streets had been broken into and goods stolen.

This morning two juveniles charged with the offense were before Magistrate Bartlett for private examination. When suspicion of the hydro box break was first directed to the juveniles and the police visited their homes it was to recover practically all the goods stolen. The lads then admitted their guilt.

Further search by the officers revealed many other goods of value, including opera glasses, field glasses, automatic skates and an auto-strop safety razor. No reports of thefts of any of these articles have yet been received by the local officers, but the character of the goods leads to the opinion that the boys probably perpetrated a break in a hardware store.

Before Magistrate Bartlett both lads were remanded until further inquiries can be made as to their activities.

NEW ST. JAMES' BOYS HOLD AUTUMN BANQUET

The Pirates, an intermediate Tuxis group boys' class of New St. James' Presbyterian Church, last night were the guests of their best friends at a delightful supper, which marked the opening of their fall program of work. The lads' mothers served the supper, which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Addresses were given by several prominent business men, including H. B. Muir, Superintendent Emery, of the New St. James' Sunday School; L. M. Houlding and others. Sound minds in sound bodies was the point of all the speeches.

An interesting feature of the meeting was the presentation of a shield won by the Pirates at a recent athletic meet.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

Oct. 29.—Up mighty betimes this day and to look at the moon which astronomers at Greenwich say is now off its usual track and 12 miles ahead of its regular schedule. Which will be the highest argument that ever was for prohibition and such like. For this moon has been getting full 13 times a year beyond the memory of mankind, but no worse happens to it than to be eclipsed now and then. But now, at last, its sins come home to it. Showing that even if a planet gets full often enough some day it will go to the dogs, wandering about in space and with no fixed hours whatever. Nephew, who hears me looking at the moon, rises also and to observe it. His theory is that the moon has been so impressed with arguments for efficiency that it now plans to run an accurate schedule in which we will always have a full moon to the lighting up of the world by night without electric lights. He believes that our City Council should pass resolutions in that regard which would save the city some £4,000 a year.

Out to work on my velocipede and to run into a mass of vegetable vehicles which I strive to pass. The last one of this yeoman ku klux klan keeping his buggy in the middle of the car tracks, which, when I try to turn out of, my velocipede skids and we both turn double sumersaults. And 'tis only that I be going not faster than 20 miles an hour that I live to tell the tale. This yeoman to smile at my overturning so I round on him in the highest way, but it is a shame that our police do not watch these little road hogs and to summon them.

My mother-in-law do hire a special gardener for the fall to improve their lawn and back garden. So this man begins working and presently finds a shallow stone basin which puzzles him. "What is this basin?" he asks my female relative. "It is a bird bath!" "A bird bath?" the man questions. "Impossible! No bird in the world knows when Saturday night comes!"

The young Frenchman who used to live on our street is training for a position as a chef to a hotel and he states that he has found out how to make a frozen peach, called frapped peach by the Frenchmen. "Take another peach," he says, "to a theater and afterwards to midnight supper of lobster and other salads; and make sure that the first peach hears of it!"

The news is that a company is refused a permit to raise fur-bearing animals on a plot larger than six acres. The Government in this instance probably having in mind our national crop of fur-bearing lambs and how they be skinned from month to month and no reserve season.

Word from Cambridge University that they refuse to admit women into full comradeship with them. Which near causes a riot in that college town. But 'tis a noble thing in these days of women running in everywhere and even smoking our pipes. Methinks my wife has been trying to smoke my home pipe secretly, for last night on lighting it up it smells of her French dentifrice and have to pour iodine in it!

Word from New York that a barbering shop there begins to serve tea to its customers betwixt the hours of 4 and 6 daily. Which suggests customs for other shops: For the city taxing office and all offices where bills are paid, laughing gas between 9 a. m. and 4 p. m. Jewelry stores, pies like mother used to make at engagement ring counters. Expensive millinery shops where husbands be dragged occasionally, local anesthetics about the pocketbook. Railway lunch counters, free hard boiled eggs (this is really a cheap suggestion as no one will eat them). Ordinary shows of vaudevillians, a good mouth wash served after each performance. All moveable picture houses, free sanitary ear muffs. Turkish baths, free copies of the Koran in Arabic.

A teacher to our ward school begins teaching physiology to a new class, yesterday, talking of the heart. And he strives to demonstrate it on one thick-headed boy. "Where is your heart?" he asks. The boy remains silent. Whereat the teacher puts the boy's hand on his small chest, saying: "Now, can you feel the beating?" "No, sir," the boy replies, "I usually feel it lower down, on the other side of me!" Which is strange.

Master Maple, Couzen Juliana's husband, takes up golf now that he is married. And out on the links with his Scotch caddie he slices the ball or slices at it most ridicuous, so he asks the caddie: "I suppose you have seen worse players than I be?" But the boy says naught while Master Maple hits the ball by accident. "I said," Master Maple returns with emphasis, "that I suppose you have seen worse players than I be?" "I heard ye verra well the fir-r-st time," the lad replies; "I am thinking on't!"

RAILWAY WILL MOVE RICHMOND ST. SWITCH

Engineer Announces Developments In City Street Work.

City Engineer Brazier to-day stated that the London Street Railway Company is moving its switch on north Richmond street outside the city limits, which is expected to improve that section of the thoroughfare and minimize possible accidents. The concrete work on north Richmond street, from Victoria to Huron streets, will be completed to-day.

New surface on the west side of Adelaide street was completed to-day and the east side surface work begun.

Tenders for new syphon lines to be laid under the Thames will be opened next Tuesday by the works committee, it was also stated; and with the contract awarded, the way will be cleared for the works department's winter program.

20,000 BOOKS HAVE BEEN CATALOGUED

Splendid Progress Being Made On Western University Library.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Western University library committee, of which Principal Waller, D.D., is the chairman, it was reported that 20,000 of the university's 60,000 volumes have been catalogued and are now on shelves at the Cheapside library, the St. James street annex, and at the new medical school.

This statement is considered a distinct triumph for the library department of the university and shows that during the past year some 10,000 volumes have been catalogued, a record without precedent, it is believed.

The university library, it is also pointed out, is not reserved entirely to the faculty and undergraduates. Any citizen of London or Western Ontario may borrow university books by applying through Mr. Fred Landon, the public librarian in London and member of the university library committee.

RICH ARE NOT THE HEALTHIEST

More Sickness Among the Really Well-to-Do

DR. H. W. HILL COMMENTS

On Standardized Wages and "Physical Wellbeing"

While favoring minimum wages for male workers as a sociological and moral benefit to the community, Dr. H. W. Hill, head of the London Institute of Public Health, takes issue with the members of the Board of Health in Hamilton, who contend that standardized wages are necessary for the "mental and physical wellbeing of the employed classes."

"I am entirely in sympathy with any move that aims to assure a man a living wage for himself and family, but at the same time I believe that there is no direct relation between wealth and health," said the doctor. Statistics were then given by the director to show that there was just as much, if not more, sickness amongst the well-to-do as amongst the poor, and that the rich, with many business worries, often suffered more mentally than the man supporting a family on a pittance.

ASTONISHING CONDITIONS.

An investigation into tuberculosis was recently conducted in Minnesota and revealed some astounding conditions. Of the total number of afflicted ones 85 per cent. were not well-to-do, but the significant fact was that only 5 per cent. of the state were counted as well-to-do and this small number contributed 15 per cent. of the tubercular cases.

In Belgium during the war, when cows' milk was practically impossible to get, there was a noticeable decrease instead of the expected increase in infant mortality. In Harvard College young men of poor parentage, who put themselves through college and lived on the bare necessities of life, often graduated from the institution with better health and educational attainment than the chaps who had an allowance of $5,000 a year from rich parents.

"It often happens that a rich man, with mititudinous cares in his business, worries himself sick over his ventures," said Dr. Hill. "For the poor man there is the certainty that his circumstances cannot become much worse and his only anxiety is about facts and not about probabilities."

COMMEND ALD. WENIGE.

At the weekly meeting of the Real Estate Owners' Association last evening the following resolution was adopted: "Resolved that this association desires to commend Ald. Wenige for exposing the irregularities and waste of money in the engineer's department, and which we are convinced it will not result in any benefit to the taxpayer, or that Ald. Wenige will be supported in his endeavor as he should be; it will nevertheless hasten on the day of retribution, for which this city must pass through before any reform or business-like methods can be obtained in our municipal affairs."

SERIOUSLY HURT IN A COLLISION

Windsor Man, on Bicycle, in Traffic Mishap

REGISTRATION ON MONDAY

Inspector J. E. Benson Heads Teachers' Institute

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—Joseph Davies, 20 years old, 403 Aylmer avenue, suffered serious injuries to his head to-day when the bicycle he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Gilbert Hicks, 1137 Pelissier street. He was taken to Hotel Dieu. According to the report of the patrolman who investigated the accident, Davies cut across London street west directly in the path of Hick's car.

Andrew Bremner, 45, who described himself as farmer, cement worker and vinegar manufacturer, this afternoon was convicted at Kingsville of violating the Ontario Temperance Act by keeping hard cider for sale. Bremner was fined $500 and costs and one month in the county jail at Sandwich. He admitted that he had been in the "cider business" 12 years.

Registration for the Dominion election will commence here on Monday. Ten registrars will sit in as many districts of the city.

HEARING MONDAY.

Arraigned in Sandwich police court on a charge of manslaughter, Joseph Wolf, garage proprietor, of Essex, was remanded until Monday, when he will appear in Windsor police court. Bail of $30,000 was continued. Wolf was driver of the automobile that collided with another car last Saturday in Sandwich, causing the death of his brother-in-law, Frank Campbell, of Essex. The coroner's jury has exonerated Wolf of all blame, but Crown Attorney Urquhart decided to press the charge of manslaughter.

By unanimous vote of the delegates J. B. Benson, public school inspector for Windsor, this afternoon was chosen president of the Windsor Teachers' Institute, in convention. W. D. Lowe, principal of the Collegiate Institute, was elected vice-president, and Miss A. N. Newcombe, secretary-treasurer. Miss M. G. Robertson, J. B. Benson, W. D. Lowe, O. M. Stonehouse and Miss S. G. Nicholls compose the executive committee.

Witnesses of the accident thought the child had been killed, but when pulled out of the wreckage it was found that the extent of its injuries was a severe shaking up and several bruises about the head.

BRANDS STORY AS "ALL BUNK"

Inspector Discredits Claim That City Hall Is Tottering

"ALL BUNK" SAYS ALDERMAN

Looks Like Propaganda for New Building

"All this talk of the city hall falling down is bunk," said Ald. Harley to-day, referring to a story which a local paper carried to the effect that there is a serious danger of the accident of 20 years ago being repeated. "The hall is safe enough but, as in the case of all public buildings, Inspector Piper makes it his business to see that they are not overloaded. Secretary Lance, of the Soldiers' Aid Commission, has simply been warned that he has been placing too heavy a strain on the rooms above the city clerk's office."

"Pure bunk," was the comment Inspector Piper made in connection with the story. "I understand Mr. Baker is somewhat frightened, however. If that is so I will gladly exchange offices with him at any time."

"All bunk is it?" queried City Clerk Baker. "Look at that crack in the ceiling and then see if you think the story is all bunk. My family would not treat it as bunk if any accident should happen. The building is more unsafe now than it was some time ago. You know, we had the ceiling papered recently, but now that has given away and the danger is considerably greater. The only think I can see to do is to have the ceiling re-papered with a heavy paper that would stand a greater strain. That might suffice to keep the building in place until a new hall can be erected."

PRESIDENT TO PREACH.—Elder William Osler, of Philadelphia, the newly-elected president of the London district of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, will occupy the pulpit of the local church tomorrow at bot hservices.

MR. SOMERVILLE TO THE ELECTORS

Liberal Candidate in London Issues Manifesto

EXPLAINS HIS PLATFORM

Urges Women Voters to Study Issues of the Day

Mr. C. R. Somerville is issuing the following letter to the electors of London, outlining his stand on the issues of the day. He will amplify his attitude on the various questions touched upon in the letter, during the course of his public speeches during the campaign.

To the men and women electors of London:

I been chosen by the Liberals of London as their candidate in the present federal election. That unsolicited honor and that great responsibility I have accepted. I shall give my time and energies to the best of my ability to the trust imposed upon me. If elected as your representative in Parliament I shall do my best to fulfil as faithfully and as honestly as in me lies, the obligations of that stewardship.

I believe it my duty to lay before you as frankly and as concisely as I can my stand on the main issues of the election, and my reasons for asking your support.

On the personal side I need say little. My record in public, business and private life is, I believe, fairly well known to the citizens of London. Concerning what I did or tried to do as mayor, concerning my record in the industrial life of this city, and concerning my interest in the affairs of the Western University, I am content to be judged by the facts. Of war work and war sacrifice I say nothing. No good Canadian vaunts his patriotism or his loyalty.

In regard to the political issues of the day, I would note in the first place that I approach them from the standpoint of a life-long Liberal and a life-long Canadian. I believe in the fundamental doctrine of Liberalism—government of the people by the people and for the people. I believe that that condition has not prevailed in Canada since the defeat of the Liberal party under Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1911. The Meighen Government was not elected by the people and did not represent the people. The guiding principle of the past two years at any rate has been place-holding and place-filling, and not the real interests of Canada. The election of a new Parliament was long overdue.

For the new Parliament, the most important requirement is business efficiency and economy. Business common sense under the trying conditions of world wide economic change and post-war readjustment is needed now more than ever before. If we are to reduce at all the stifling burden of taxation from which we now suffer, there must be retrenchment in expenditure, the strictest economy and the absolute eradication of graft of every kind, whether it be tariff graft or office-holding graft or any other of the party patronage kinds which have cursed political life in this country.

Next to this I would rank in importance the proper care of our returned men. I think I know something of the wounds of war. Our gratitude to the men who fought and suffered in the Great War cannot be expressed too fully or too tangibly. I shall earnestly advocate and support every practicable measure looking to the recouping as far as possible of the men who suffered in Canada's interests, loss in the war. I believe especially that all partially or totally disabled soldiers and their dependents should receive pensions or allowances amply sufficient to enable them to maintain a liberal standard of living, and that more effective employment agencies should be created. Also the divergent efforts of the various governmental organizations now in existence should be co-ordinated in a central authority.

In respect to the relations of labor and capital I support whole-heartedly the Liberal policy as outlined in the resolution passed by the National Liberal convention of August, 1919.

Contrary to Mr. Meighen, I do not regard the tariff issue as the vital issue before the country, in so far at any rate as the Liberal attitude is concerned. So fas as I am concerned, so far as the Liberal party is concerned, there is no issue of protection versus free trade. The leader of the Government declares that a revision of the tariff is necessary, and the tenor of his addresses and of the Conservative campaign literature implies that this revision shall be upwards. I agree with Mr. Meighen that a revision of the tariff is necessary. The real issue is as to the character and extent of that revision.

There was a revision of the tariff in 1897, marking the dawn of a new era of Canadian prosperity under Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding. The principles which underlay that revision should obtain with Hon Mackenzie King and Hon. Mr. Fielding, if they are entrusted with the revision of the tariff in the new Parliament.

The same results which accrued from the sane and thorough tariff revision of 1897, the same stimulus to business stability and expansion, the same just balance between the selfish high protectionist on the one hand and the impractical free-traders on the other hand can, I am confident, be again secured by applying the same business common sense under the same Mr. Fielding. My policy, and I believe the policy of the Liberal party, is and will be, first to investigate thoroughly the revenue requirements of the nation and the existing national and international economic trade situation. Then, with all the facts honestly and clearly faced, shape a new tariff, having due regard to three underlying principles: First, the safe-guarding of all Canadian industries against unfair foreign competition; second, the safe-guarding of Canadian labor against cheap foreign labor; and third, the safe-guarding of the right of the great majority of the Canadian people, namely the consuming masses, to a reduction in the cost of the necessities of life and to protection against profiteering monopolies and combines.

In the promotion of Canadian industry I would place a large reliance upon the encouragement of all measures to promote technical education and to secure more economic and scientific processes of manufacture; in this respect I would endeavor to have carried on to fulfillment the work so ably begun by our ex-member, Mr. Cronyn, looking to the establishment of a Central Research Bureau at Ottawa, with enlarged opportunities for Canadian manufacturers to adapt the latest discoveries of science to the development of Canadian resources.

To the women voters, who are now called upon for the first time to exercise their franchise in federal affairs, I would say:

Study the issues for yourselves and make up your own minds how to vote. I welcome your advent into politics. It will make for greater political honesty, greater economy in public expenditures and a better national morality. Men have been the spendthrifts of the nation; they are responsible for the present burden of debt and taxation. The housewife, in the last analysis, pays the taxes. You are vitally interested in the tariff and in stopping waste, graft and extravagance. Reason the issues out for yourself and vote as your reason and conscience dictate. If you do that I have no fear for good government in Canada.

I pledge myself, if elected, to give my best effort and my best judgment to the solution of national problems, dealing independently with the facts as they arise under the new developments and new conditions facing this nation and facing the world in this critical time of stress and strain. I appeal for support not as a partisan, but as a Canadian believing in the high destiny of our country and sincerely desirous of doing honestly and courageously all that I can do for the public weal.

Yours faithfully,
C. R. SOMERVILLE.

W. J. SNELGROVE DIED LAST NIGHT

Principal of Lorne Avenue School Succumbs After Long Illness

A PROMINENT CITIZEN

Late Mr. Snelgrove

William J. Snelgrove, principal of Lorne Avenue School and one of London's outstanding educationists, died at his home, 350 Glebe street, early last evening. Deceased had been in ill health for the past five months, but his condition was not thought serious and death came as a shock to his family and hosts of friends.

The late Mr. Snelgrove was born near Mount Brydges 53 years ago. He was educated in the rural schools around his home and at the Collegiate Institute here. He graduated from the Collegiate in 1897 and attended the Normal school here, receiving his first-class certificate in December of the same year.

18 YEARS PRINCIPAL.

After graduating from the Normal school he taught in the rural schools and later came to the city, securing a position on the staff of the old King Street School. He held this post for five years and was then appointed principal of Lorne Avenue School, which he held until his death, a period of 18 years.

He was one of London's outstanding educationists and took an active part in the passage of the teachers' superannuation Act. Mr. Snelgrove attended the convention at Toronto, and it was through his untiring efforts that the act was passed.

PROMINENT BOWLER.

Deceased was a member of the London Rowing Club and a bowler of unusual ability. On several occasions he competed in tournaments in Western Ontario and carried off several trophies. He also competed in the Dominion Bowling Association tournaments in Toronto, bowling against some of the best in Canada. He also ranked high as a curler.

Mr. Snelgrove for many years was superintendent of King Street Church Sunday school and took an active part in not only the Sunday school but in various branches of church work. He was an elder in the church.

E. E. Gibbs, principal of Chesley Avenue School, speaking of the late Mr. Snelgrove, said: "I have known Mr. Snelgrove for the past 25 years and never have I met a man more straightforward, thoughtful and kind. As a teacher there is none better and his place at Lorne Avenue School will be hard to fill."

Besides his widow he is survived by his mother, four daughters, Mabel, Agnes and Bena, at home, and Winnifred, nurse in training at Toronto General Hospital, and one son, Cecil, student at Toronto Dental College. One sister, Mrs. Frank Rowed, of Winnipeg, also survives.

The funeral arrangements have not been completed yet.

Perfect Glasses

Strong, serviceable spectacles are what we recommend for everyday use, although rimless glasses are more elegant, perhaps, for dress wear.

Most important, of course, are the lenses, which must be ground accurately.

We give a thorough examination, which is the first step towards absolute satisfaction in glasses.

Yankees Are Buying Diamonds In Canada

Many Americans are wakening up to the fact that there is a wonderful saving in buying diamonds in Canada and as a result just lately several diamonds, ranging in price from $350 to $700, have been sold to American tourists going through London. They wanted perfect blue-white diamonds, so purchased them from John A. Nash, My Jeweler, 182 Dundas street, "where you will eventually buy."—Advt.

CHOOSE NOMINEE FROM AMONG NINE

Labor Nominating Convention Adjourns Until Tuesday Night

MEETING LAST EVENING

Doubtful If All Suggested Will Be Balloted Upon

The nomination of a Labor candidate to contest London in the coming federal election was not concluded by the London branch of the Dominion Labor party last night. Nine names were accepted by the meeting for consideration and these will be balloted on next Tuesday night at an adjourned session. A. Mould, John J. Colbert, G. F. McKay, Max Lerner, H. B. Ashplant, Prof. Louis A. Wood, Dan Menzies, J. McGuire and R. Hessel are the nine from which a candidate will be selected next Tuesday night. The name of Rev. W. J. McIntosh was also mentioned last night, but owing to the fact that he is not connected with any Labor organization the meeting decided that he could not be the candidate. If it had not been for this, and he had been willing to accept the nomination, it is more than probable that he would have been chosen.

While there were nine named last night it is considered doubtful if all these will allow their names to go before the meeting to be balloted on next Tuesday. It is known definitely that Mr. McKay will not stand, and it is believed that others will also withdraw before Tuesday. John Colbert is considered as the most probable choice as a candidate so far as could be learned.

The organization of the local Labor party, as a branch of the Dominion party, was completed last night also. John Colbert was chosen president, and the other officers are as follows: Vice-president, Arthur Mould; treasurer, C. Depotie; secretary, W. H. Stewart; ward chairmen, R. H. Hessel, ward 1; J. Secker, ward 2; G. Hall, ward 3, and F. White, ward 4.

Harry Kerwin, president of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor party, addressed the gathering at some length. Other addresses were given by several of the local Labor men.

The press was barred from the meeting by the consent of the delegates, and all information was given out afterwards. There was a large representation of the various Labor organizations in attendance. Some of the delegates who had forgotten or neglected to take their regular credentials with them were not allowed to take part in the proceedings.

Wonderful $1,800 Phonograph At MASON & RISCH LIMITED

In the window of Mason & Risch, Limited is a Charles II. or Jacobean period design of Electric Columbia Grafonola. This instrument is a copy of one of the most charming pieces of cabinet work of this time. The crisp carving is delightfully set off by the simple linen fold panels of the base. The high relief of the birds and fruit, surrounded by the strap work, is one of the most beautiful examples of the better work of this style.

The columns and mountings of the top are exceptionally well proportioned.

The original of this cabinet was probably made about the time of the restoration of the Stuarts to the throne of England.

Characteristic features:
Date, about 1660.
Clean-cut carving.
Birds and fruits.
General shape.
Legs.
Polychrome.

The oaken fretwork is backed with silk and it is through this that the music passes.

Walter McRaye Addresses Kiwanians' Weekly Luncheon

FAVORS COURSE IN "CIVICS"

Says Now Is Time to Develop Canadian Consciousness

The London Kiwanis Club listened, at their noon luncheon yesterday, to two inspiring addresses, one from William Ward, president of the World's Brotherhood movement, and Walter McRaye. Mr. Ward explained the brotherhood movement and its growth, while Mr. McRaye pleaded for a greater Canadian national sentiment.

Mr. Ward said that the brotherhood movement had started 40 years ago in England with the single object of getting men interested in religion. It had grown to be a world-wide movement, which was making for real brotherhood in political, social and economic life. He explained at some length the work the brotherhood had done during the war in Serbia and more recently in Egypt.

Mr. McRaye in an eloquent address emphasized the need of developing Canadianism. He said it was time to develop a national consciousness and a national conscience. He paid a fine tribute to the pioneers of Canada. The real makers of Canada slept in lonely cemeteries and unattended graves. He urged that more Canadian history should be taught and more Canadian literature read. He pleaded for a campaign to Canadianize the foreigners in the country and incidentally condemned the provincial and federal governments for insisting in the birth record and census return upon recording the nationality from which a person originally sprung. Canadian was good enough. Every Canadian should have his first pride in the fact that he was a Canadian born and not in the fact that his forefathers came from England, Scotland, Ireland or any other nation.

He suggested that there should be a course in "Civics" in the schools and asked that all Canadians should get together under a motto similar to that of the Kiwanis Club, "We Build."

SERVICE GOAL OF LONDON LAUNDRY

Parisian Concentrates on This Single Idea

DISPEL OLD PREJUDICES

Machines Do Work Better Than at Home

The building of a service for the whole of Western Ontario has been the goal toward which the Parisian Laundry, of London, has striven for years, and the success which they have attained is shown in the growth of the business, which has necessitated, time and again, addition to the floor space, the equipment and the staff. Even at the present time the laundry is making further demands on property adjacent to the Dundas street premises in the way of new quarters for the pressing department.

From the time that the business first came into being service has been the watchword of the company. They have put this word ahead of everything else and their efforts have been rewarded in tremendous growth of business. In the laundry end of their business they have done much to break down the old and in great part justified prejudice against the launderers who tore their shirts and put a saw edge on their collars. All this has passed, as far as the Parisian is concerned. They have thousands of dollars' worth of the most up-to-date machinery obtainable, and while they are still called upon to make a certain number of adjustments, which they do willingly, they find that these causes for complaint are becoming more and more rare.

The plant, to one who has never been through a modern steam laundry, dry cleaning and dye works, is a source of wonder. The manner in which all of the work is handled is a wonder of more efficiency. For instance, a single collar is handled some 14 times before it is finally ready for the customer to wear to church on Sunday. When ready to package it is to all intent a new collar. In no home could as fine a piece of work be done. Not only is it clean and ironed perfectly, but it has been turned perfectly on one machine, shaped on another and formed so as to allow the necktie perfect freedom on a third. When these operations are complete the collars are dried in a steam cylinder and are ready for wrapping. This is an example of the manner in which all the work is handled.

No longer is it necessary for a housewife who desires to change the color scheme of her drawing room to discard the carpets or portieres because they do not match the new shades of the redecorated room. At the present time the Parisian Laundry is concentrating on this kind of work in the dyeing department. From many of the best homes are coming curtains and rugs which the patron wishes dyed to match a new decorative scheme.

Dry cleaning has become a very extensive business with the Parisian works. This department has the most improved machinery known to this business. Everything is cleaned from carpets and fur coats to gloves. Much gasoline is used in this department and the greatest care is required to prevent explosions from the use of this explosive liquid. The heavier articles are washed in gasoline in special machines. The gasoline is changed three different times to insure every particle of dirt has been removed. For gloves a special machine with soft brushes does the cleansing, after which they are tinted.

The laundry department is a particularly interesting study of the service of the entire plant. In no home in the city, no matter how particular the housewife, is the weekly washing handled so effectively. No housewife could afford to give the time to the washing of the clothes that they receive in this modern laundry. They are put through five or six more waters than the average housewife uses. The washing is done in gently revolving cylinders which accommodate some eight washings at the same time, but handle each separately. This is the case with family washings, but in the smaller jobs the washings are combined.

Another part of the service is the mending department, in which repairs are made to shirts and socks. It is to this department that the shirts are turned over after being ironed on the special machines and finally finished by hand. Rents in shirts and holes in socks are not merely sewn, they are darned.

Some of the staff have been connected with the laundry for a quarter of a century, and are vitally interested in the success of the business, and also take pride in their personal appearance, so that when new members are added to the staff they soon become enthused with laundry cleanliness.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR RECOVERY OF FRITCHER

WINDSOR, Oct. 28—Though little hope is held out for the recovery of Nellis J. Fritcher, age 25 years, Detroit, who was injured in a traffic smash at Huron and Murray, on Thursday afternoon, authorities at Hotel Dieu stated to-day that there was an improvement in his condition. Isadore Blitzer, Windsor, the driver of the automobile which crashed with Fritcher's motor, brought before Magistrate Gundy in police court to-day on a charge of criminal negligence, was released on bail of $15,000.

Police believe that Fritcher's condition will be sufficiently improved late this afternoon to permit of the taking of a statement from him. His condition is considered very grave because of the fact that several broken ribs punctured his lung.

$2,000 A DAY IS CITY'S BILL FOR PAST DEBTS

Every 24 hours London taxpayers pay out over $2,000 to meet interest and sinking fund charges on the city debt. Three dollars every minute of the day, every day of the month, every month of the year. Sundays and holidays are also included. This year London will pay $789,794 to meet interest and sinking fund charges. Which amount, if turned in Canadian half dollars, and these stacked face to face, would build a tower of money 15,000 feet high, higher than any monument in Canada, and nearly 20 times higher than the famous Woolworth building in New York.

These figures were given by the city treasurer yesterday as regards London's annual expenditure to carry old debts.

PUBLIC WELCOME TO BEATTY ENTHUSIASTIC

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Admiral Lord Beatty, who was given a remarkable ovation when he spoke at the Pilgrim Society banquet last night, had another demonstration this morning of the esteem with which he is regarded by the people of New York. The British admiral spent this morning on a sight-seeing trip, in the course of which he visited the floor of the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was practically suspended for a few minutes while the members cheered him.

The welcome which has been extended to Earl Beatty by the public generally has been in direct contrast to the unenthusiastic tenor of the "official" welcome extended by Mayor Hylan on his arrival.

NEPHEW OPPOSES UNCLE IN N. S.

One Running as Farmer, the Other as Liberal

SITUATION IN ANTIGONISH

Mr. Crerar Dilates on the Beauties of Free Trade

ANTIGONISH, N. S., Oct. 28.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent)—The entry of Hon. T. A. Crerar into the Nova Scotia political field took place to-day at Antigonish, in the constituency of Antigonish-Guysboro, formerly represented in the House by J. A. Sinclair, who has retired from the whirl of politics. Antigonish-Guysboro will have a three-cornered fight. Walter McNeil is Conservative candidate; C. F. McIsaac is running as a Liberal, and D. A. McIsaac, a nephew of the Liberal candidate, is out as a Farmer candidate.

Mr. Crerar dealt more particularly to-day with some aspects of the economic issue as touching on Nova Scotia. Had protection made Canada prosperous, he asked. "Your young men and women in Nova Scotia," he said, "have gone to the United States because they did not have the opportunity here they should have had. Fifty years ago this was a prosperous country. If there is any part of this Dominion which has suffered from the application of protection it is the Province of Nova Scotia. Your geographical position is such that you should prosper from the development of maritime trade, as Great Britain has prospered. You have the facilities to enable you to produce foodstuffs. The population of the New England States is growing and your trade with them should have been developed.

"They need foodstuffs and who is better able to supply them than the Maritime Provinces? But our policy has been directed in another direction, with the result that you have a population which is growing very slowly, indeed."

D. A. McIsaac, the Progressive candidate, made a plea for representation of the "common people' in Parliament.

To-morrow Mr. Crerar will speak in Sydney.

BIG CUT IN FREIGHT AFFECTS SUGAR BEETS

Reduction Applies To Carloads Shipped To Wallaceburg.

OTTAWA, Oct. 28—A general reduction of from one cent to six and a half cents per 100 pounds on the railway freight charges on sugar beets will become effective on November 1, according to a judgment issued this morning by the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners in the application of the Dominion Sugar Company, Wallaceburg, Ont., for a reduction in the rates charged by the railway companies on carload lots of sugar beets to Wallaceburg. This judgment effects Pere Marquette Railway, Michigan Central, Grand Trunk Railway, Canadian Pacific Railway and the C. W. and L. T. Railway.

The new schedule is worked out on a mileage basis, with an ascending tariff chargeable for each 100 pounds according to distance hauled.

A Rude Awakening

MITCHELL, Oct. 28.—Gathering up burning clothes, which had in some unaccountable way caught fire in his bedroom while he slept, George Riley hurled them out the window and averted what might have been a serious blaze. When Mr. Riley was awakened the bed he was in was burning. As a result of picking the clothes up his hands were somewhat blistered.

LEAVES ESTATE FOR HOSPITAL

Will of Late Ex-Mayor Smith, of Tillsonburg, Filed

FINE BEQUEST TO TOWN

Structure to Be Known as "Soldiers' Memorial Hospital"

TILLSONBURG, Oct. 28.—(Special to The Free Press.)—By the will of the late ex-Mayor John Smith, who died last week, the greater part of his estate, amounting to several thousand dollars, is left to provide a public hospital here, to be called "The Soldiers' Memorial Hospital."

The will also stipulates that the residue of his estate be invested and the proceeds derived to be used for repairing and maintaining said hospital under a properly authorized hospital board. The document concludes by saying that "I direct that in the carrying on of the said hospital preference shall be given to such patients that are poor and unable to pay for their own treatment, and that sufficient accommodation shall so far as possible be kept for that purpose in connection with the said hospital, to be paid for out of said funds."

Mr. Smith was born in Walton, England, on November 16, 1843, and came to Canada in 1868, finally locating in Tillsonburg in 1870, where he made his home until his death. As a contractor he built many of the important buildings of the town, including the city hall, the high school and St. John's Church.

BIG INTEREST IN CIVIC ELECTIONS

British Ratepayers Are Aroused by the High Taxes

VOTING NEXT TUESDAY

Middle Classes' Union Putting Forth Many Candidates

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — The municipal elections throughout the United Kingdom, except in London, will take place next Tuesday. The apathy of the average English elector concerning local government used to be truly amazing, but with the local taxes imposed by many boroughs now aggregating more than 20 shillings in the pound there has been something of a general awakening.

Municipal anti-waste candidates, as such, are comparatively few this year, simply because every candidate, barring the extreme Laborites, makes emphatic protest against waste.

Ex-service candidates are again in evidence, but the peculiar grievances of this class have not hitherto appealed especially to the average municipal elector as such.

The middle classes' union is putting forth many nominees. The union's president, Baron George Ranken Askwith, a noted concilator in industrial disputes, asserts that 93 per cent. of its 300 candidates were returned in the municipal elections last year.

BESSARABIANS REVOLT AGAINST ROUMANIA

RIGA, Oct. 28.—A wireless message from Moscow announces a growing revolt against the Rumanian Government in Bessarabia.

At the station of Romanovtsky, it says, a sanguinary encounter took place recently between Bessarabian insurgents and Rumanian infantry and cavalry, culminating in the blowing up by the insurgents of an important railway bridge near Chernovitz, in Bukowina.

This resulted in a train wreck, in which, according to the dispatch, many Rumanian soldiers were killed.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO LATE LADY BECK TO BE SIMPLE, BEAUTIFUL

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—The memorial service for the late Lady Beck, to be held in St. James' Cathedral at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, will be simple and beautiful. Under the present arrangements the service will be conducted by Canon Plumtre alone, although there will probably be another clergyman present to pay honor to the memory of Lady Beck.

At to-day's meeting of the Toronto branch of the Red Cross the service was announced and there will be a number of the members of this association in attendance, as Lady Beck was the first vice-president of the provincial branch.

The music will be given by a full choir, which will sing "Unto the Hills Around," "Now the Laborer's Task Is O'er," "Abide With Me," "I Heard a Voice From Heaven," "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Say," and the 103rd Psalm.

STORE OF IRISH ARMS AT CARDIFF

Organized System to Procure War Supplies Revealed

EVIDENCE GIVEN AT TRIAL

Police Barracks in County Waterford, Ireland, Burned

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Startling evidence of a highly-organized system of procuring arms and ammunition was given at Cardiff to-day, when Joseph Connolly, organizer of South Wales branches of the Irish Self-Determination League, was charged with unlawfully hoarding revolvers and explosives.

The chief detective-inspector gave evidence that when he entered the prisoner's lodgings he found revolvers and ammunition and a large quantity of high explosives. He also found a number of highly-important documents, including a list of goods to be procured, including revolvers, machine guns and ammunition. There was also a list of ports at which, presumably, shipping could be obtained and plans of powder magazines in the vicinity of Merthyr, along with receipts signed by two men named Evans, who have been committed for trial on a charge of breaking into a powder magazine in the town.

BARRACKS BURNED.

BELFAST, Oct. 28.—Associated Press Cable.) — Police barracks at Passage, County Waterford, vacated Wednesday, were burned this morning by a number of men who invaded the village. They warned the villagers in the vicinity of the barracks to seek safety and then sprinkled petrol about and set fire to the barracks. The men threatened penalties for anyone who gave information concerning the affair.

CHARGED AS AN INCENDIARY.

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—Morris Shapiro, of the firm of Shapiro & Co., with premises at 35 Victoria square, has been arrested, charged with deliberately setting fire on July 11 to the block in which his offices are situated. He appeared before Judge Cusson to-day, who liberated him on $8,000 bail.

DISARM PARLEY TO OPEN ON 12TH

One Day Later Than Planned by United States President

PROGRAM IS OUTLINED

Mr. Harding to Personally Welcome the Delegates

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—(Associated Press Dispatch.)—Definite decision to hold the first session of the conference on limitations of armaments on the morning of Saturday, November 12, instead of Armistice Day, November 11, was announced to-day at the state department. It was found impossible to reconcile even an informal gathering of the conference on Armistice Day with the program of ceremonies connected with the burial of the United States "unknown soldier."

The conference will be called to order by Secretary of State Hughes and the welcoming address to the delegates by President Harding will follow. It is expected that the conference will then perfect its organization and adjourn to take up its real deliberations. The appointment of committees to consider special topics, arrangement of conference in which those nations invited to participate only in the discussion of Far Eastern and Pacific problems may be present, and similar matters, will be deferred until the following Monday.

PREPARING HALL.

Progress is being made in the preparation of the auditorium in the building of the Daughters of the American Revolution adjoining the Pan-American building where the open sessions of the conference will be held. The delegates will sit at a horseshoe-shaped, or rectangular, table during the sessions, with the interpreters and other aides in the open space inside the tables, and the delegates themselves facing each other around the other side of the conference table.

The general public probably cannot be represented at the sessions except by representatives of the press and members of Congress who will be given seats provided for the use of the various embassies and legations in Washington. The seating capacity of the hall will not admit of any wide distribution of seats, as the total number available for all purposes will be less than 1,200.

So far as the sessions of the conference are concerned it was emphasized to-day that the state department was anxious to provide every possible means of publicity in order that the general public could know what was being done.

STAGGERS INTO HOSPITAL WITH INJURED HEAD

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—William Wilkie, an employee of the M. C. R., who lives on Wellington avenue, staggered into Hotel Dieu at 4 o'clock this morning with what appeared to be a fractured skull. He was too weak to give much information about his injury, but the physician who attended him learned that Wilkie had an argument somewhere along the M. C. R. tracks with another man and came from the fray with an injured head.

FOUR BANDITS ROB AGED OHIO MAN OF $29,000

DELTA, Ohio, Oct. 28. — Four unmasked bandits with faces smeared with grease, invaded the office of S. B. Finney, aged 75, a root and herb doctor, late this afternoon and robbed him of $29,000, after striking him on the head with a revolver and binding him to a chair.

They escaped towards Toledo in an auto. Finney, it is said, had an abhorrance for banks, and kept his savings in a pocket book, which he always carried. His condition is not considered serious.

EXAMINING BODY OF RICH RECLUSE

Remains of E. F. Searles Exhumed at Methuen, Mass.

RESULT OF POISON RUMOR

Some of Organs Sent to Boston for Analysis

METHUEN, Mass., Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—After an autopsy on the body of Edward F. Searles, millionaire recluse, who died at his estate here in August, 1920, some of the organs were sent late to-day to Dr. F. Boos, of Boston, for chemical analysis.

Dr. G. B. Magrath, of Boston, one of the Suffolk County medical examiners, performed the autopsy, assisted by Medical Examiner George W. Dow, of Lawrence. They declined to make any statement pending the analysis of the organs, which they said might require a week or more.

The autopsy was ordered by District Attorney Donnell, after he had received anonymous communications suggesting that poison might have caused Searles' death.

After the casket had been opened witnesses present withdrew and only an undertaker and Dr. Magrath's stenographer were present at the autopsy, which occupied four hours.

The body, except for the organs removed, was returned to the casket and crypt.

APPEALS FOR THE LOWER PAID MEN

A. R. Mosher Says to Cut Their Wages Is Unfair

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The submission of evidence and data to the Canadian National Arbitration Board came to an end here this afternoon, and the board will sit privately to consider its award next week. The evidence put in by A. R. Mosher for the employees and F. P. Brady, for the Canadian National Railways, in support of their arguments against and for the reduction in wages, was summed up by the chiefs of the two parties before the board. Mr. Mosher, while admitting that some reductions might be justified at the present time, held that the schedule put into effect by the company was unfair to the lower paid classes of employees. Mr. Brady argued that the company must have the full amount of the reductions.

A flurry came in the proceedings just before the close of the sitting, when Robert Dykes, a representative of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, told the chairman that there were many ways in which the company could economize on operation costs without taking it all from the employees. There had been many appointments, he said, since the Government had taken over the railways. There were more officials now than before the amalgamation, and he believed there could be a saving.

Mr. Brady declared that the criticism was unfair and unreasonable, and that no railway in Canada was so under-officered as was the Canadian National system. What officers had been appointed were necessary for the operation of the road and for seeing that equipment, etc., was kept clean and sanitary.

Bearing Life's Burdens

Since modern science and invention have turned the world into a neighborhood, and with the intimate and immediate knowledge of the world's happenings, we are getting to know the world's sufferings, and are being called upon to share its weights and woes as our ancestors were never called upon to share them. It is good for us that we can, but it is all a drain on our strength. Many a leader has gone down under the strain during the past years, and multitudes have been crushed in spirit as crisis after crisis has fallen upon them in these years of ceaseless catastrophes.

The greatest burdens of life are not physical. The coalheaver carrying his loaded sack is lifting no weight compared with many light-handed but heavy-hearted people who pass nimbly and who outwardly seem to bear no burdens. Over a London gateway can be found the words: "Burdens not allowed to pass," and yet some of the heaviest burdens that ever bore down upon the human heart pass through every day. It is the terrible tonnage which bears down upon the soul that sans the spirit of buoyancy and power. Millions during the past years have known something of these experiences.

There are burdens, of course, which man is called upon to carry, just as a ship is created to carry cargo. They act as ballast, steadying the soul through stormy seas. There are the burdens of sympathy, responsibility and service which help one to see life's deepest meaning, and without which life is not truly complete. Selfishness and frivolity are essentially superficial. But there are burdens we have no business to bear. Take the unnecessary social burdens, many of which are the outcome of folly and pride. The people who bear them are slaves to convention and are imprisoned by their own foolish conceptions of life. The men who seek wealth just for the sake of hoarding it are burdened men. They are separated from some of life's finest joys and emotions. Only as a man uses his wealth as a trust and seeks to bear the burdens of others will he find true joy in life. Cicero speaks a true word concerning accumulation for its own sake when he says: "Can anything be more absurd than in proportion as less of our journey remains to seek a greater supply of provisions?" What superfluous loads the pioneers to the Klondyke sought to carry through the Chilcoot pass! Most of these loads had to be cast aside through the climb. In the longer climb of life's journey many pilgrims are weighed down by self-created burdens not at all needful for life's truest efficiency.

The burdens of sorrow and sin man is not called upon to bear alone. It was never meant that he should. These are burdens that no man can bear alone. We stoop, strain and struggle with loads the soul can never lift. Prayer itself is an indication of our impotence in this regard. God has provided a way that the load of sin, with its guilt and power, can be lifted from the human heart. When John the Baptist saw Christ and heralded His advent he said: "Behold the Lamb of God that beareth away the sins of the world." Endless throngs have experienced the sweetness and strength of these words as they have cast their burdens of sin upon the Lord. Man's sorrows also God is willing and able to bear. The psalmist spoke out of a deep experience as he said: "Cast thy burden upon the Lord and He shall sustain thee." Sorrows may come in the course of life, but they will not crush the soul who seeks that sustaining strength and accepts such Divine reinforcement.

There are burdens in life we are called upon to help bear. When Paul said, "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfill the law of Christ," he recognized that man has a part to play in helping to lift the loads of others. The law of Christ is essentially the law of love and service. It is absolutely opposed to the spirit of selfishness and greed. When a man by honest, legitimate methods creates a great industry and seeks through that industry to give employment to hundreds of workers, helping them to establish happy, contented homes, he is surely one of the noblest burden bearers. In speaking of this subject, J. B. Brierley said: "It will be by a combination of the world's best brains, its accumulated capital and the spirit of service that we shall get rid of one of the cruelest and most shameful burdens—that of the poverty of the poor." Charity alone is not a sufficient method of helping the burdened class. It is a temporary relief, of course, but to efficiently lift this burden which is crushing more lives out than the world today realizes, it will take brains, good will, a deeper sense of Christian stewardship and a readiness for real sacrificial service.

Still a New Liberal Platform

The chief lieutenant of Hon. Mackenzie King in Nova Scotia is E. M. MacDonald, who was a Liberal member of Parliament until 1917, and is again a candidate in Pictou. Mr. MacDonald is no inconsequential member of the party Mr. King leads. He was slated to be minister of militia if Laurier won in 1911, and will certainly be in the Cabinet if Mr. King should by any chance head the polls.

Mr. MacDonald is advocating as the chief plank in his platform the imposition of a duty on hard coal. At present anthracite enters Canada duty free. Is this the way the Liberal party proposes to reduce the cost of the necessities of life?

Mr. MacDonald's chief attack on the Government in a recent speech at New Glasgow before 2,000 people, was that Ontario has been favored in framing the tariff. He is quoted as saying:

"The steel industries of Nova Scotia had reached a flourishing condition under encouragement given them by the Laurier Government, but now languishing, and Nova Scotia steel workers were idle because steel bonus had been discontinued, and the present low tariff of from 10 to 14 per cent. on steel products was so much lower than the protection given other Ontario industries."

Is this the way the Liberal party will lower the cost of the implements of production?

Never in Canadian history has a political party played such a ridiculous role as the Liberals under Hon. Mackenzie King. The party has a platform drafted at a great convention in 1919, which it solemnly swore to put into effect.

Mr. King to-day is afraid to accept the platform and lacks the moral courage to repudiate it. As a result every candidate has his own platform. They range all the way from out and out free trade, such as is espoused by Dr. Michael Clark, to high protection, as urged by E. M. MacDonald.

How can such a party give the country stable government or carry on administration except by "log-rolling?"

Canned War Slang

For the first time in history slang is to be put on record as a salient feature of a great war.

With that end in view, the Secretary of the Imperial War Museum addresses a communication to ex-service men the world over asking for notes on the subject, giving the slang terms used in the British army, together with the meaning of the terms, and, if possible, their derivation.

It is quite understoood, says the secretary, that many of these terms are "not entirely fit for polite conversation." Nevertheless it is considered that they will all be valuable for record purposes and of interest and some assistance to historical students of the war.

In that inimitable drama, "Caesar and Cleopatra," Bernard Shaw depicts a group of Egyptian soldiers of the great Nile queen sitting at dice, using slang and telling naughty stories, "still current," Mr. Shaw believes, in every barracks in England. "Caesar and Cleopatra" was written a full ten years before the war. In his imputation that all soldiers, through all ages, use the same expressions and tell the same tales, the "inexpressible Celt" had not, nor could not have had, any conception of the great linguistic melee which would result from a world war the combatants in which were drawn from more than a score of nations.

In the influence exerted upon the idiom and the speech of British army men by men out of all the nations they encountered during more than four years of fighting, the authorities of the Imperial War Museum, it might be thought, should certainly encounter if not a new thing, then a new combination of things already under the sun.

Labor and the Tariff

In many ridings Labor candidates are in the field indorsed by the U. F. O. and running under the leadership of Hon. T. A. Crerar. How do these candidates stand on the question of protection? It is difficult to see how any Labor candidates in Ontario can suppport the platform of Mr. Crerar, a policy which if put into effect would ruin half the industries of this province.

The view of Labor on the tariff was clearly enunciated by Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress, before the tariff commission in the following terms:

"The development of Canada and the establishment of an ever-improving standard of living are the immediate concern of every citizen, and we are convinced that this would be impossible of accomplishment under a system of free trade unless, and until, the whole world adopted free trade and an equal standard of living, which are as yet outside the realm of practical affairs.

"Canada is placed in the center of competition. To the south, the United States, with its huge and fully-developed industries turning out products in mass and with a great home market fully protected to supply; to the east, the workshop of the world, Great Britain, with a century of industrial development behind her and numberless workers whose wage standard was far below that which Canadian workers should be expected to accept; while to the east, the Orient, with its host of cheap laborers able to flood our market at any time, if there were no bars against them."

If Mr. Moore speaks for organized labor, and he should know the views of labor, how can these candidates consistently suppport Mr. Crerar and the Agrarian platform?

NOTE AND COMMENT

Getting hot under the collar is excusable only in midsummer weather.

The hit-or-miss policy often is the only one that solves the problem of two suitors for one woman's hand.

The Prince of Wales has started out on his Indian tour. Canadians, one and all, wish him "Godspeed."

As the wisteria vine belongs to the bean family, scattering the flowers of that plant is another way of "spilling the beans."

If fashion reformers succeeded in reintroducing the hoop skirt the women then would be accused of trying to crowd men off the earth.

Charles Quick, the centenarian, of Vancouver, who earns a good living making horse racing saddles, may himself aptly be said to be a winner in the race.

A news item says the C. P. R. manager walked the ties for seven miles. A hike like that includes as many difficulties as walking a chalkline.

Queensland, Australia, is in favor of a "one-house" legislature. Her idea is original and progressive. Surely 72 well-chosen men ought to be able to rule a province. The proposition is worth consideration.

The first of the European delegates of note has sailed for the Washington conference—Monsieur Briand, premier of France. These gentlemen will be welcomed as the councillors of a more permanent peace than the world has yet known—through the serious study and consideration of how best to limit world armament.

The Third Column

MORNING BRIGANDS.

There may be happier times than this,
But if there are I've never know them,
When youngsters jump in bed to kiss
And wake the pa's and ma's who own them.
What if the sun be up or not,
Another perfect day is dawning,
And is it not a happy lot
With such delight to greet the morning?

Sometimes I hear them quit their bed
And catch their bare-foot pitter-patter,
And other times they're at my head
Before I know what is the matter.
Brigands to rob us of our sleep
They come—their weapons love and laughter,
And though we're locked in slumber deep,
They always get the joy they're after.

Some days there are when we would lie
And dream our dreams a little longer,
Then "back to bed awhile," we cry—
But oh, our love for them is stronger,
Yes, stronger than our wish to sleep
And so we countermand the order
And let that pair of brigands leap
With wild delight across love's border.

There may be happier times than this,
But if there are I've never known them.
When youngsters jump in bed to kiss
And wake the pa's and ma's who own them.
They miss a lot, the man and wife
Who never feel those glad hands shake them,
Who rise by day to toil and strife
But have no little tots to wake them.

—Edgar A. Guest.

THE READING HABIT.

Our habits are what determine us.

As we rise out of our youth, through varied experiences, it's our habits that remain as liabilities or assets.

Of all great habits few are can compare with that of reading. When I see a boy or girl cultivating the reading habit, I say to myself that success and happiness is going to come sooner and easier to such a one.

We are given two wonderful things when we come into this world—a body and a mind. Our mind has much to do in making our body strong and healthy. And it works the other way—the stronger the body, the surer the mind is able to handle itself.

The well stored mind from long reading of useful books holds a man in line when even friends have become scarce.

Through reading you can bring events to you anew—see the thrilling enactions of centuries ago—and bring the spirits of real actors in the human drama before your eyes.

We can only measure the present by what the past has taught us. And we must go to books largely to get our inspirations and our visions.

The reading habit will keep you far away from loneliness and make you strong in faith and courage.

An idle mind is a much greater curse than an idle body.

Reading is both a food and an excuse for the mind. And the mind needs and demands both.

Read history. Read biography. Read good fiction. Read books that stimulate and inspire your mind to think out ways and means for itself.

Strive to become an independent thinker. Nothing will accomplish this result quicker or better than to get the daily habit of reading.

—George Matthew Adams.

THE HOPEFUL VIEW.

Things are looking pretty black, trouble everywhere we see, and we're prone to cry, "Alack," and to murmur, "Hully Chee!" But there's comfort in the thought that they've looked that way before, and the passing seasons brought all things right side up once more. Now we weep and wring our hands, and denounce the doggone luck, for the people of all lands seemingly have run amuck. Statesmen do their little stunt in a rattled, locoed way, but the problems they confront will be solved some pleasant day. Crime and license seem to rule, seem to thrive in every town; let us keep our foreheads cool—everything will settle down. But there's nothing new in sight, nothing new in any clime; everything comes out all right if we only give it time. After every three-ring war, every routine thing expires, and the evils we abhor were confronted by our sires. And our fathers doubtless said, as their sons remark to-day, that all righteousness was dead, and the furies were at play. But they lived to see the dawn of a good and wholesome time, when the bogies all were gone, with the seething wave of crime. And our troubles too will cease as the seasons run their course, and we'll boast the dove of peace till our larynxes are hoarse.

HINTON MILLER DIES.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—Hinton Miller, U. S. Civil War veterans, and former owner of the famous race horse, Goldring, known the continent over as "The Guideless Wonder," died this morning at his home at St. Clair Shores, near here, in his 76th year. Mr. Miller resided for many years in St. Thomas, and, as a commercial traveler, was well known throughout Western Ontario.

The Political Arena

The Government candidate in Red Deer, Alberta, the seat formerly held by Dr. Michael Clark, is John F. Day, an old St. Thomas boy. His father, the late Sam Day, was reeve and warden of Elgin County for years. John F. Day went West in 1882, settling at Fleming, Sask., where he carried on mixed farming. From 1903 to 1910 he was cattle ranching near Medicine Hat and went to the Reed Deer district in 1910. He has been particularly well known as a breeder of Polled Angus cattle and has been president of the Alberta Fairs' Association for the past four years. He has been one of the fathers of the Red Deer fair and has always taken a keen interest in the progress of the pure-bred cattle industry.

The correspondent of The Manitoba Free Press, writing from Regina, on the situation in that province says:

"There were two features of this week's activity which may have some bearing on the final result in the province. Of these the most important by far was the nomination of a candidate to contest the Regina seat in the Progressive interests. Dr. McLean is a strong candidate. He is a school trustee and believed to be a strong force in the Scottish organizations here. He will certainly poll a very heavy vote, but the significance of his nomination does not end with its bearing on this constituency. It has been freely stated in well-informed quarters that had the Progressives decided not to oppose Mr. Motherwell in Regina no opposition would be put up by the Liberals in the Saskatoon seat, providing that either Mr. Sutherland or Mr. Milliken were chosen by the Progressives on the 26th. A three-cornered fight in that seat is now practically assured, which will enormously enhance Hon. J. R. Wilson's chances. It is further stated that so enraged is the Liberal executive here that word has been sent to fully 10 seats to put a Liberal in the field if at all possible. In a great number of cases this candidate might just as well stay home, but it will undoubtedly improve the chances of the Government nominee in some seats."

In discussing Mr. Crerar's manifesto The Montreal Star objects to the use of the word "moral" in connection with the tariff question. "There is no moral issue at stake," The Star declares. "It is strictly a question of which tariff policy is the best for the country. Indeed, if we had been seeking a place to attach the epithet 'immoral,' we would have been more inclined to consider the policy which, under the guise of an innocent plan for 'the lightening of taxation' and the 'lowering of the cost of living,' concealed a trap leading to the quicksands of rejected reciprocity and the 'ultimate elimination' of British connection."

* * *

The Nanaimo Herald has also been struck by the use of the moral argument against protection by Mr. Crerar. It comments: "There is one thing to be said for the Hon. T. A. Crerar's speech at Brandon, and that is that he stood to his guns on the tariff question. The farmers, he said, stand opposed to the principle of protection as being neither sound economically nor right morally. If this is the policy of the farmers' party, then, indeed, it must be admitted that they have struck a new note in public life. There is room for question as to the economic soundness of protection, but, up to the present, there has not been very much argument about its morality."

"The sudden and unexpected resignation of Hon. George Langley from the Saskatchewan Government is a matter of absorbing political interest," says The Star, of Saskatoon. "The obvious explanation is that Mr. Langley, having previously announced his intention of supporting the Progressive party, he felt the decision of Premier Martin to support the Liberals so keenly that he decided to step out. But the obvious explanation may not be the correct one. It is only recently that the Government made strenuous efforts to provide Mr. Langley with a seat in the House after his defeat in Redberry in the June elections, and finally did succeed in accommodating him in the deferred election for Cumberland. With everything apparently all 'cushy' this sudden retirement will give rise to much speculation until the explanation is forthcoming."

The Need of Population

BY F. D. L. SMITH.

For the five years 1909 to 1914, Canada received about 1,861,000 immigrants from all sources, or an average of 372,000 a year. If this rate had been maintained the succeeding seven years would have brought the Dominion over 2,500,000 new citizens from outside. If for domestic reasons the pace had been somewhat slackened, the increase in the population from outside from 1914 to 1921 would surely have exceeded 2,000,000.

But the war intervened and the tide of immigration ceased to flow. The influx of newcomers fell off to a mere dribble. Great Britain and the continent of Europe were practically eliminated as sources of population and the stream of American settlers dwindled to a minimum. During the whole seven-year period we received only about 550,000 from all sources, or 2,000,000 fewer than might have been expected had the world's peace been undisturbed. Nor must sight be lost of the fact that the outbreak of war and the progress thereof caused great numbers of newly-arrived foreigners to leave the country. Tens of thousands joined the colors of the allied armies. Other tens of thousands fled to the United States to escape service. Add Canada's 60,000 dead overseas and the children that should have been theirs. Altogether the action of Germany in July and August, 1914, has robbed Canada of perhaps 3,000,000 men, women and children who otherwise would have been hers to-day.

This primarily is what is wrong in Canada at the present moment. But for the war the Dominion would have had more people on the land and consequently fewer unemployed in the towns and cities. Under such conditions the nation would have made a better show at keeping pace with the overhead charges imposed by two new transcontinental railways constructed before their time.

The lesson is plain. More population is the cure for Canada's fiscal and economic ills. The leeway lost during the last seven years must be recovered. Once the general election is over, the Government of the day must devote special attention to the task of getting more people on the soil. From 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 acres of idle land along the Western railways must be brought under the plow. There is ample room for tens of thousands of additional farmers in Old Ontario, New Ontario, British Columbia and the Maritime Provinces. Closer settlement of the land will mean a growing volume of exports, a wider home market for the products of Canadian factories, the reduction of unemployment in towns and cities, healthier industrial conditions everywhere, rising public revenues and a progressive easing of the per capita burden of national taxation.

The kind of settlers desired are available in adequate numbers in Great Britain, the United States, Norway, Sweden and other approved countries. What is needed is a forward constructive immigration policy—a policy which while taking note of existing unemployment and safeguarding the interests of organized labor, will not only remove unnecessary obstacles to an intensive land settlement movement, but actively promote such a movement in keeping with the needs of the nation. In the working out of such a program invaluable co-operation may be expected from the railways, the Provincial Governments, the Western Canada Colonization Association and other immigration agencies. That way lies the road back to national prosperity and economic stability for all classes of the community.

Canada has a momentous decision to make.

In no previous election has there been a more vital, clean-cut issue affecting the future of every individual Canadian and indeed the future of the Country.

The people are asked to decide between Reasonable Protection and Free Trade, between continued Prosperity and economic Ruin.

Everyone should look the facts squarely in the face—free from partisan bias or class prejudice—for as YOU vote so must YOU accept the consequences of your vote.

On the one hand there is the unassailable truth that Canada has enjoyed PROSPERITY during the past half century, due entirely to its policy of upholding a reasonable protective tariff, and to the diligence and industry of its people.

In view of present world-wide conditions of Uncertainty, Unrest, and Unemployment—the inevitable aftermath of War—Protection is needed today more than ever before. In fact, Protection, coupled with unflinching courage by the People and a strong, stable Government is the only hope Canada has of emerging from the crisis with its strength and economic liberty unimpaired.

On the other hand there is the spectre of national and individual RUIN—the spectre of Canada's industrial and economic collapse—a collapse certain to follow if the people adopt the Free Trade policies of Crerar, or the wobbling, indefinite tariff proposals of King.

Should Meighen fail to obtain a clear working majority Crerar and King will combine to destroy the Fiscal policy that has made Canada industrially great. Business stagnation would be sure to follow and the country would be set back twenty years.

Under Free Trade the Canadian dollar would depreciate still more, Canadian industries would be driven to the United States, thousands of Canadian men and women would be deprived of their employment, and the Canadian farmer would lose his home market.

At this critical time Canada should vote for a leader who knows where he is going and why.

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE HONORS HEROIC RAILROAD CONDUCTOR

SIR JOSEPH FLAVELLE

ALBERT NEILL

Also Pays Striking Tribute To Efficiency and Physical Condition of Grand Trunk Railway.

Sir Joseph Flavelle, chairman of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway System, in the presence of the principal officers of the road, honored, at Montreal, Charles Albert Neill, heroic freight train conductor, presenting him with the medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for saving life. The act of bravery for which Neill received recognition was performed at Hawkesbury, Ont., last March. Neill, who was on duty on a Grand Trunk train, saw one boy in the water of the Ottawa River and another boy on the ice. Neill jumped off the moving train, crossed the ice, and jumped in after the boy in the water, who had gone down for the second time. The boy and his rescuer came up together under the ice and it was only with the greatest difficulty that the railway man was able to extricate himself and the lad, Noel Berthiaume, 14 years old, of Hawkesbury.

Neill took the boy to a nearby house, went to his own boarding place, changed his clothes and returned to duty. He did not say anything about the incident and it was not until three days later that the railway officials learned of the plucky rescue and reported the case to the Royal Canadian Humane Association. Sir Joseph Flavalle, in making the presentation of the medal, warmly congratulated Neill.

Sir Joseph also presented to Grand Trunk Team No. 1, from the Montreal shops of the company, the Chamberlin trophy for excellence in first aid (ambulance) work, and paid a high tribute to the railway and its officers and employees.

"I was simply amazed during my tour of the Grand Trunk System, with President Howard Kelley and other officials, at the splendid manner in which the road was conducted and the general spirit of Grand Trunk family loyalty," he said. "I found this everywhere. I cannot say too much regarding the splendid manner in which the physical condition of the road has been maintained and the general manner in which the employees were evidently trying to preserve at all times good public service. In this I am speaking as a man who has been associated with large industrial enterprises from his youth up, and who knows what real efficiency and service means.

"Both on the United States and Canadian sections of the road," concluded Sir Joseph, "the loyalty of the employees to each other and the spirit existing between the officials and the rank and file was a conspicuous feature, and I speak of it with great satisfaction."

TRADE REVERTING TO THE BRITISH

Export Coal Business Slipping From Americans

COST OF PRODUCTION

One of Reasons Great Britain Recovering Business

LONDON, Oct. 24.—Britain's export coal trade, transferred to the United States a few months ago owing to the long strike of British miners, is rapidly slipping out of the hands of American traders, according to Board of Trade figures.

"The rapidity with which the international coal trade is reverting to British hands is evidenced in the fact that three months ago the United States was actually exporting coal, not only to the Scandinavian countries, but to England, with distinct leadership in the Mediterranean and undisturbed primacy in South American markets," said Alred P. Dennis, commercial attache of the American embassy.

"We to-day are practically out of the European trade and are rapidly losing our position in the Mediterranean markets, where we had secured practically half the business, with our position seriously menaced in South America, where we occupied logically a favored competitive position.

"The amazing recovery of the British coal industry is shown in trade figures for August, which shows an export business of more than 3,000,000 tons, as compared with 600,000 tons the preceding month, and 1,847,000 tons in August, 1920.

"This striking reversal in the entire situation is due to the immense quickening of coal production in the United Kingdom, accompanied by falling wages.

"The export coal trade is one of the fundamentals in Britain's economic position in world trade and every sacrifice is being made to win back lost ground. Production costs have come down with a run and coal is offered for export at figures approximating production costs.

"On the other hand, production costs in the United States have still a wide margin for decline.

"Fine quality Cardiff coal can now be put on shipboard at 30 shillings, equivalent, at present exchange rates, to about $5.50 per ton. At normal exchange the price would be $7.30.

"It remains for us to endeavor to maintain our competitive position by bringing down our f. o. b. steamer costs, while at the same time indulging the hope that the future appreciation of sterling may tend to equalize our position not only in South Africa, but in the major continental markets."

Announcement is made that another English novelist is to visit America this winter, this time J. D. Beresford, whose books have had such continuous approval in this country since "Jacob Stahl" appeared 10 years ago. Mr. Beresford was born in 1873, the son of a canon of Peterboro Cathedral. He already has 20 books to his credit.

CANADIAN RAILWAY STATISTICS PROVIDE FAIR BAROMETER TO CONDITIONS OF BUSINESS

Passenger and Freight Receipts Show Increase, Although Operating Expenses Also Mount—Practically No Electric Railways Earned Profits.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—(By Canadian Press.)—One passenger killed on Canadian steam railways during the year 1919 to every 1,450,000 carried, and there was one injured to every 128,772 carried. There was a slight increase in the casualties over the previous year, the number being 33 killed and 372 injured, as against 32 and 322, respectively. During the year 1919 there were 162 employees killed and 1,904 injured in train accidents; from other accidents 35 employees, 1 passenger and 5 others, were killed, whilst 4,458 employees, 20 passengers and 27 others were injured.

The figures are from "Railway Statistics for the year ended December 31, 1919," just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics from sworn figures furnished by the several railway companies. On the various electric railways only four passengers were killed out of the 749,332,380 carried; 1,717 were injured. There were 29 employees and 58 other persons killed, and 951 employees and 1,505 other persons injured.

Of the 61 steam railways reporting only 30 earned their operating expenses during 1919. These 30 roads operated 20,982 miles of the total of 40,139 miles, or 52 per cent., and showed a net operating revenue of $55,541,597. The other 31 roads reported earnings in excess of both operating expenses and fixed charges, taxes, etc. These operated 20,552 miles and earned a net corporate income of $39,456,106. The total corporate loss of the other 37 roads was $54,384,773, which includes a loss by the Canadian Northern of $26,187,509; by the Canadian Government System of $7,133,295, and by the Grand Trunk Pacific of $13,483,064. Inasmuch as 1919 was the first year for the statistics to be computed for the calendar year, January to December, instead of from and to June, it is somewhat misleading to make comparisons. And increase in freight rates for most commodities of 15 per cent. was allowed in March, 1918, and another 25 per cent. in August, 1918, and also an increase in passenger rates of 15 per cent. in March, 1918. These increases were in effect for the full year 1919, but only for a portion of the year ended June 30, 1918.

Average receipts per ton per mile were 1.003 cents in 1919, against 0.736 cents during the year ended June 30, 1918, an increase of 36 per cent. Average receipts per passenger per mile were 2.63 cents, against 2.12 cents, an increase of 24 per cent. The average haul per ton was shorter, namely, 295 miles, compared with 303 miles, but the average passenger haul was longer, namely, 76.2 miles, against 70.5. The number of tons of freight moved was 111,487,780, as against 127,543,687, the decrease being principally in low-rate commodities; bituminious coal decreased 7,510,306 tons, whilst ores decreased 2,616,414 tons, a result in part of strikes at the mines and steel plants during the summer and fall of 1919. Whilst the tons carried one mile decreased 4,078,473,957 tons miles, or 15 per cent., increased rates caused freight revenues to advance from $228,244,416 to $270,533,047, or 18.5 per cent.

The number of passengers carried increased in 1919 to 2,991,818, or 6.7 per cent. over the year ending June 30, 1918, and the number of passengers carried one mile increased 497,410,314, or 15.7 per cent. Receipts from passengers increased from $67,098,363 to $96,262,241, or 43.4 per cent. The total operating revenues amounted to $408,598,360, against $330,220,150, but the increase of $78,378,210 was more than offset by an increase in operating expenses of $102,833,657, making a decrease in net operating revenues of $24,455,447. Total operating expenses were $376,789,093, an average of $9,645 per mile of road, and $3.52 per revenue train mile.

The salaries and wages bill increased by $81,048,122, or 33 per cent. For 1919 it totaled $233,323,074. Maintenance of way and structures increased 59 per cent., transportation costs 25.4 per cent., and maintenance of equipment 49.4 per cent. In the five and a half years since 1914 total operating expenses have increased 110 per cent.

The average hourly compensation of all employees on all railways in 1919 was 52.3 cents, as against 33.1 cents in 1918, or an increase of 58 per cent. The number of freight cars in service increased 10,760, the number of passenger train cars 162, and the number of locomotives 191. Fuel consumption was slightly less, namely, 9,696,625 tons, against 10,173,344 tons, costing $52,563,334, against $52 630,430.

Of 66 electric railways reporting 55 earned operating expenses and 11 had a deficit. Only 40 earned sufficient to pay also their fixed charges, and only 13 reported paying dividends. The receipts from passengers amounted to $37,547,456, whilst the total operating revenue was $40,152,903. The average fare per passenger was 5.01 cents, as against 4.50 cents in 1918. The Montreal tramways did not report in 1918. In 1919 this company showed earnings from operation amounting to $9,661,414 and operating expenses of $7,243,823.

Money paid to railways down to December 31, 1919, amounted to $221,865,882 by the Dominion; $43,469,371 by the various provinces, and $16,390,673 by municipalities. Land grants by the Dominion up to the same date totaled 32,374,289 acres; by the Province of Quebec, 1,735,690 acres; British Columbia, 8,119,221; New Brunswick, 1,647,772; Nova Scotia, 160,000, and Ontario, 624,252 acres.

TROUBLE AHEAD

TRADE REVIVAL DUE FOR EGYPT

Business Men See Many Signs of Improving Conditions.

COTTON CROP SHORT

But Increasing Prices Have Made It More Valuable Than Usual.

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 28.—Signs of a commercial revival are seen by business and shipping communities in Egypt. After months of depression, they say, there has come a healthier tone of confidence and optimism, which is most encouraging. The feeling prevails among the business interests that the late fall will see the country back to normal and healthy trade.

The Egyptian public is wearying of the discussions of the country's future political status and is showing far more interest in the price of cotton, which is the barometer of commercial activity.

Throughout the spring and summer the large hold-over from last year's cotton acted as a damper on the business community, which feared a further restriction of the Egyptian's purchasing capacity. Efforts have been made to relieve that situation. Prominent groups of Egyptian cotton growers have visited England and told the cotton spinners of Manchester that Egypt will not continue to grow cotton for unremunerative prices.

The Egyptian Government has officially restricted the area of cotton cultivation and as a result this season's crop is much less than the average. In addition the crop has suffered this year more severely than usual from the boll weevil.

Owing in part to these reasons, and in part to the rise in American cotton, the Egyptian crop nearly doubled in price. Consequently, optimism prevails among the growers and shippers.

GERMANY'S SEA TRADE GROWING

Reports Show That It Is Making Rapid Progress To Pre-War Volume.

REVIVE OLD PLANS

Germans Expect To Make Big Inroads Upon World Markets.

HAMBURG, Oct. 11.—Germany's ocean freight carrying trade is making steady progress toward regaining its pre-war volume. Harbor statistics indicate that the aggregate tonnage of vessels using this port have reached 80 per cent. of the peace traffic.

Announcements of steamers bought back from former enemy powers follow each other in rapid succession and harbor facilities are already proving insufficient to accommodate the growing traffic, now that big plants, such as Krupps and Erhardts, which formerly manufactured war material, are turning out peace goods in great quantities for overseas consumption.

Shipping authorities are urging the revival of ambitious pre-war plans for harbor extensions on the ground that with the rapidly increasing export trade the port will in two years' time be far too small and freight business will be lost to Scandinavian ports.

Germans expect the South American trade especially to take a big impetus early next year, when the new Hamburg-South American Company's liners will be placed in commission.

Besides the Hamburg-America Company's new liners, Bayern, Hansa and Wurtemberg, three 12,000-ton passenger and freight steamers will be placed in the North American service by the North German Lloyd, of Bremen, to be followed by the 30,000-tonner, Hindenburg, now being completed. New services are also being planned by both the Hamburg and Bremen companies to the Far East.

Maker of the Enchanted Songs of Childhood Finds The Way To London Town

There came to London town a while ago a disciple of Robert Louis Stevenson, a maker of child songs that ring true as did his immortal sagas of childhood, a fashioner of verses very delicately attuned to the sober ear of youth.

Margaret Clarke Russell, wife of Professor J. W. Russell, lecturer in geology at Western University, is a gifted and very interesting lady, with a genius for childhood. Peeping into her little folio of poems, as The Free Press scribe was permitted to do a day or so ago, one comes upon a group of the most refreshing scraps of verse touched all with the serious simplicity that only one of the elect company of singers may venture upon.

And every poem unfolds a tiny drama of child life, where the stage is set by the flickering nursery fire, when all the grown-ups have gone below stairs, or in a secret corner of the orchard under a "very own" apple tree. The footlights are the yellow lamps of moon wort in the grass; the orchestra is a robin redbreast, piping on the lowest branch; the curtain rings up and the players are on.

THE FOLK FAERY.

Dragons snorting fire, and doughty knights in gleaming silver armor; horrible pirates with bludgeon and knife; captive princesses weeping tears of pearl, and all the merrie companie of fairy and goblin folk, the supers of the cast, one and all they come tumbling from the wings.

And if the prancing charger of the gallant knight is only a poor old rocking horse with the paint rubbed off his darling nose; if the princess is just Miranda Elizabeth, sole remnant of last year's doll family; Margaret Clarke Russell keeps the secret well, and directs her players to a brilliant finale.

"Where is your published volume of poems," the scribe demanded, when she had finished spinning round and round from reading Mrs. Russell's poem, "The Merry-Go-Round," where there are lions with manes, and tigers with stripes," and where "the wind blows like hundreds of pled pipers' pipes."

"I'm going to bring one out when I am a hundred years old," was the amazing answer. "You see, I get tired of the things I have written in a year or so, and dislike them very much, but when I am a hundred years old I hope I won't be so changeable.""

"And where have you come from into here?", one felt like asking the poetess lady, and, funnily enough, she could reply quite truthfully "out of the everywhere," being a cosmopolitan sort of person, who has explored a great many of the interesting corners of this old world. Of course, she was born in England, hence the Robert Louis touch, but she has lived a great many years in Boston, which may account for her idea that poetry is really worth while.

Mrs. Russell has three babies. The youngest of them is a sturdy lad of 12 now, but little Bruce, and little Bruce's brothers still serve as the inspiration for their mother's songs. She has not forgotten the stories her trio loved in the old days, and it is the understanding of a mother and the light touch of the poet that have combined in the making of:

"A DIZZY."

As I go round and round and round,
How very odd it makes the ground,
And all the pictures on the wall
Look ready now to slip and fall;
The chairs are topsy-turvy quite,
As though they'd never stood upright;
The table, too, leans over far,
So changed and funny all things are.

The sideboard's wobbling down a hill,
The ornaments will surely spill,
So dizzy am I by the door
I take a seat upon the floor;
And round and round and round I go
It's lots of fun, I'd have you know,
Unless my head gets feeling wrong,
Because I've gone around too long.

"A Dizzy" was published in American Motherhood, for most of Mrs. Russell's poems have found a ready sale among the children's publications of the United States and England. But here is one that has not been published before:

"A ROCKING HORSE."

A rocking horse painted with nostrils of red,
Is a pony (let's whisper) enchanted, 'tis said;
A thoroughbred steed, colored dappled and gray,
Caparisoned richly for children to play;
Being princes and princesses, pulling the rein,
Patting his head and caressing his mane,
Pretending the nursery isn't a room,
But a forest with witches astride of a broom;
Fairies and Pixies and Gryphons with jaws,
And giants with clubs, and dragons with claws;
A rocking horse painted with nostrils of red
Is a pony (let's whisper) enchanted, 'tis said.

"The Brass Knobs," which appeared in Little Folks, Salem, Mass., is irresistible:

My crib has knobs of brightest brass,
And in them, like a looking-glass
I see my face, and when I smile
My mouth must measure most a mile;
It looks so wide, and then my eyes
Are like an ogre's when he cries,
"I'm fond of little boys to eat,
They're just the nicest kind of meat."

My ears look big enough to hear
Sounds a long way off and near,
Sometimes I'm like a slender tree,
And sometimes broad as I can be,
It's so much fun when breakfast's late,
To pass the time that I must wait,
By staring in my knobs of brass
All shiney like a looking-glass.

And last of all, savoring of sunny thickets and little folks in gingham frocks coming home through the happy afternoon to tea.

THE WRONG TIN.

When I pick berries for our tea
I have two tins along with me,
But climbing up the berry hill
The right tin seems so hard to fill—
The wrong tin is my mouth, you see,
Which always gets the best of me.
—Little Folks, London, Eng.

"And what is the next step?" the scribe asked Mrs. Russell, after she had heard about the children's poems and stories which are this interesting lady's favorite pastime.

"I'm going to write a series of poems about the things I like best," was the reply. "About the clothes I like to wear and the house I want to live in, and the books I mean to read, poems about the common things that we meet every day."

And in these poems which Margaret Clarke Russell (who, by the way, is delighted with London as a place of residence, even after a glimpse into some of the great cities of the world) will presently give to the ever-growing volume of Canadian verse, one will find beyond a doubt that the "common things" have been touched again with an artist's finger and the "everyday" has become a glamorous era of romance.

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

She wondered what they were all going — that gay, irresponsible crowd she had seen on the road that afternoon. She would have loved to the amongst them. She realized for the first time that her life had been very tame and monotonous. No wonder Laxton said he hated the country, and called it a dead and alive hole.

"I beg your pardon. . ." Some one spoke beside her, and she roused from her dreaming with a start.

A young man in dusty overalls and goggles stood beside her. A motor cycle leaned drunkenly against the hedge behind him.

"I beg your pardon," he said again, "but can you tell me if I am anywhere near a place called Barton Manor?—I don't know this road at all, and for the last mile I haven't met anybody to ask."

Norah's eyes flashed into interest.

"You must have passed it if you've come from London," she said. She pointed to red roof of the big house that was just slightly visible through the trees. "That is Barton Manor."

The young man whistled softly. "By Jove! I saw that place, but never dreamt. . ." He laughed. "Well, old Laxton's done himself well this time."

He looked down at her; he was a very handsome man, with blue eyes and a slight mustache. "I suppose you don't know Laxton?" he asked dubiously.

"Yes, I do." She colored as she spoke and her eyes fell. "Yes, I know him quite well," she said nervously.

There was a little silence, then the man moved away toward his machine. "Thanks, very much—perhaps we shall meet again. I'm staying here a week or so. Laxton's got a house party — but perhaps you know."

"Yes."

There was something a little pathetic in the monosyllable; the man's eyes searched her face interestedly.

"Well, thinks, very much," he said again awkwardly, and, raising his cap, moved off, pushing the heavy cycle.

He looked back twice before he reached the gates of Barton Manor, but Norah did not turn her head and he felt somehow piqued.

He knew that he was sufficiently good-looking to interest most women, and he felt that this country girl in the tam-o'-shanter ought to have realized the fact.

He left his cycle propped against the steps of Barton Manor and went up to the door. He was dusty and hot, and as he stood waiting for the bell to be answered he shook some of the dust from his cap and shoulders.

The door opened and he turned. "Is Mr. Laxton . . . Hullo! you old bounder!" Laxton had crossed the hall behind the servant who had admitted him and the next moment the two men were shaking hands.

"By Jove! George, you've hit it all right this time," the newcomer said. He was staring round him with amazed eyes. "Never thought you'd got a place like this when you swanked so much. I passed the blessed place once, and never dreamt it was your show. Little girl in tam-o'-shanter told me."

Laxton wheeled round sharply. He had been leading the way across the hall.

"Girl in a tam-o'-shanter? Had she got a big sheep dog with her?"

"Yes, I believe she had. . . . Got her arm in a sling, too."

"Oh!" Laxton pushed open the door. "Come in; they're all somewhere about. I've got Mrs. Durrant down to play propriety—you know what these one-eyed villages are."

The other man laughed. "You and propriety shaking hands!! Oh, my hat!"

"Silly ass!" said Laxton. He gave his friend a little shove forward. "Here's the prodigal guest, my friends," he added to the room.

A girl who was sitting on the window sill smoking a cigarette, jumped down eagerly.

She was very pretty in a dolly sort of style and she was exceedingly smartly dressed. She went up to the new arrival, and standing on tip-toe, kissed him without ceremony.

"We thought you'd cried off," she said. "Ugh! how dusty you are!" She pushed him away from her with a little scream.

"That's the worst of those horrid motor cycles," complained a comfortable sort of voice from the depths of an armchair. "No, don't come near me, Hal — I can't bear dust or oil. . . . And Dolly, do stop smoking cigarettes. You'll ruin your teeth."

Dolly threw the unfinished cigarette into the garden.

"I never thought I was coming to a baronial hall like this," said Hal Meredith. "Fancy old George, Lord of the Manor!" he chuckled. "Great Scott, what would Shylock say if he knew!"

"Oh, he knows all right," said the black sheep bitterly. "He knows to a penny what the place is worth, you bet your life. If he didn't he wouldn't be lying as low as he is now."

"Poor old George!" said Dolly Durrant. "It is a beastly shame! Why don't you look out for a woman with money? There must be heaps of them about."

The black sheep made no answer.

"Where's every one else?" Meredith asked. "And can I have a wash — and what time do we dine in this ancestral home?"

"They're all out in the garden admiring the sunset," Dolly told him, with a little grimace. "I'm not so keen on sunsets myself."

One of the happiest events of the season was the "shower" given by the Bible class girls of St. John's Church in honor of one of its members, Miss Muriel Hockney, a November bride-elect, at the home of Miss Grace Willmot, Colborne street. Duffin. The evening was pleasantly passed in games and dancing, and later the guests went to the spacious dining-room, which was decorated with pink and white mums, and enjoyed a dainty buffet supper.

Ushering in the Halloween season most fittingly, the masquerade party given on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Butterworth, Hamilton road, drew crowds of guests from among the members of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church choir and Young People's Society. The house was most attractive with its decorations of yellow and black and its many candles and Jack o' Lanterns. In the spacious living-room ruddy boughs of oak leaves glowed richly in the candlelight, and made a most appropriate setting for the quaint and clever costumes. Cards, games and an impromptu dance entertained the jolly young folks, while solos by Mrs. Herbert Barrows and readings by Mrs. Ed. Pellow added an interesting variety to the program. Outstanding among the costumes were those worn by the following guests: Mr. "Scoop" Jackson, Mary Pickford; Mr. Christiansen, Sherlock Holmes; Mrs. Barrows, Japanese lady; Mrs. David Parker, Pierot; Mr. Bennanatti, Chinaman; Mrs. Bennanatti and Miss Carol, Scotch lassies; Mrs. Denley, Honolulu lady; Mrs. Kenyon, gypsy; Miss Lennox, Dutch girl; Miss Henderson, sailor; Mr. Mel. Weddings

Shoebottom-Morgan.

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Rectory, Ilderton, Ont., by the Rev. Arthur Shore, on Wednesday afternoon, October 26, when Clara Pearl, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morgan, became the bride of Roy B. Shoebottom, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shoebottom, Denfield. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Shoebottom left for Detroit, Windsor and Bothwell, the bride wearing her traveling suit of navy blue broadcloth with beaver collar and black picture hat. On their return they will reside near Denfield.

* * *

James-Tuckey.

On Wednesday, October 26, the marriage of Martha Josehpine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tuckey, of Komoka, to Wilfrid Ray James, also of Komoka, was solemnized at the bride's home by Rev. Mr. Mason. The bride wore a graceful gown of midnight blue charmeuse, black hat, with touches of harding blue, and the groom's gift, a platinum and diamond brooch. Her flowers were a corsage of Ophelia roses. Little Miss Marguerite Smith, wearing a while voile frock, with pink ribbons, and carrying a basket of pink roses and baby 'mums, was a charming flower girl, receiving a pearl pin as the groom's gift. To Miss Irvine, of London, aunt of the bride, who played the Lohengrin Bridal Chorus, the groom gave a handsome brooch. Following a reception and wedding luncheon in the dining-room, which was prettily decorated in pink and white, Mr. and Mrs. James left on a motor trip to Detroit and western points in Michigan, the bride traveling in blue tricotine suit. On their return they will reside in Forest. Prior to her marriage the bride was the guest of honor at several delightful social events, the Gold Creek Community Club arranging a shower for her at her parents' home and the young people of the First Lobo Baptist Church also giving a shower in her honor.

* * *

CORBIN-COULSON

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coulson-Dales, Milton, Ont., when their daughter, Verna Coulson, was united in marriage to Percy Corbn, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Corbin, 107 Maitland street, this city, by Rev. A. E. Marshall, on Saturday, October 22, at 4 o'clock.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a brown canton gown, heavily beaded, and carrying a beautiful bouquet of Ophelia roses and orchids. Mrs. Peacock, wearing navy canton crepe, acted as matron of honor. The wedding march was played by Miss Myrtle Corbin, sister of the groom. Miss Corbin wore a dainty gown of ivory charmeuse satin, and the mother of the bride brown crepe de chine. The groom's mother wore brown charmeuse satin.

Following the ceremony and wedding breakfast the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip at 8 o'clock for Detroit, the bride traveling in a brown tricolette dress, sealskin coat and wearing a brown feather hat.

The groom's gift to the bride, who was the recipient of many handsome presents, was a diamond and onyx brooch. Mr. and Mrs. Corbin will reside in Woodstock.

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, where laws live on and their teeth decay

A Mighty Sisterhood

THREE hundred strong, the representatives of the Women's Institutes of this garden district of Western Ontario will arrive in London next week.

London will give these sisters from our rural and small town communities a royal welcome, as London should, and the civic banquet at which yearly the delegates to the annual W. I. convention are entertained may perhaps be regarded as one of the most significant features of a gathering fraught with interest throughout.

Ontario is the mother province of the Women's Institute, a giant organization that has spread its kindly garment from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific, covering the happy, sheltered farm lands of Ontario and the golden Prairie Provinces alike. Ontario is the mother institute and her children have grown and flourished in England and in Scotland, and from end to end of Canada a vast sisterhood has risen up for the protection and the safeguarding of their homes.

The Women's Institute is unique among organizations in that it stands not for one reform but for many. Allied with the whole cause of humanity, the institute members have sought and found the very foundation of national unrest in the homes, and single-minded have set themselves to the making of regenerated and idealized homes.

They are a people to be reckoned with, these mothers and wives and sisters of the rural centers of Canada. In Ontario at least the pioneering is over, and the women who for three or four generations have been literally hewers of wood and drawers of water have time now for the gentler side of home-making, the culture and the education that are the purple and fine linen of life.

They come of goodly stock, most of them, and their grandmothers back in the old land lived gently, as these will do now that the heat and burden of the day is past. They have time for books and pictures and music, for study of the great questions of the hour, for the fashioning of their houses on pleasant lines, for the healing of the social evils that hasty developments have wrought in us.

Said Walter McRaye, a great Canadian, in this city not two days ago: "The real homes are in the country; the city flat is only a place to go when the movies are out." Mothers in these "real" homes, then, the women of the Ontario and the Canadian Women's Institutes, and we doubt not their sisters overseas are demanding that the sanctity of the home be held inviolate; that no legislation shall permit of laxness in the marriage vow, and that the children, the riches of the household, shall be given health and education and culture to the building up of a mighty nation, a head and shoulders above its fellows.

A blessing on the Women's Institutes and their deliberations.

Women's News of Western Ontario

APPIN W. I.

The Appin Women's Institute at a recent meeting held at the home of Mrs. Dan McCall, agreed unanimously to undertake the purchase of a community hall, a pressing need in that center.

Other important business tranacted was the acceptance of the report of the school fair, which showed a balance of $30 in the bank after the payment of all prizes to the various schools. Mrs. John MacFie presided and afternoon tea was served by the hostess at the conclusion of the business.

* * *

HYDE PARK W. I.

The October meeting of the Woman's Institute of Hyde Park was held at the home of Mrs. S. Knapton this week, with the first vice-president, Mrs. R. Keays, in charge. Mrs. (Rev.) Durnford read two letters of grateful acknowledgment for fruit and flowers recently sent to the soldiers at Byron. Mrs. Herbert gave a graphic account of the hydro meeting which was held in Ilderton last August, as a similar meeting will be held in Hyde Park in the near future. Discussion was postponed.

A suggestion was made that the society visit the soldiers at Byron Sanatorium on Monday afternoon, November 7, and shower the boys with good things, especially pumpkin pie, the old-time Thanksgiving luxury. This suggestion met with hearty approval from the members.

A short but interesting program was introduced, the first number being an excellent paper, entitled "Life," by Mrs. Herbert. Miss Venner gave a reading on "Canadian Literature," and poems by Pauline Johnson, Robert Norwood and Jean Bluett were read by Miss Norma MacKenzie, Mrs. Ross and Miss Sadie Tummonds. A piano solo by Miss Knapton added further pleasure to the afternoon.

Before the committee served refreshments the hostess surprised the ladies with a tea biscuit demonstration which proved both interesting and helpful.

Sunshine weather favored the Simcoe Street Mothers' Club for their bazaar yesterday afternoon, and there were many purchasers during the afternoon and evening. Dayton the stalls were divided among the following ladies: Mrs. J. Coyle, home cooking; Mrs. W. Harley, aprons; Mrs. Edworthy, fancy goods; Mrs. J. Bernhart, handkerchiefs; Mrs. John Curnoe, candy; Mrs. J. Mitchell, ice cream; Mrs. W. Ford, tearoom. BRING HOSTEL BEFORE SOCIAL SERVICE COUNCIL

Committee From L.C.W. Will Look Into Need for Transient Home in This City

The question of a hostel for the transient homeless of this city, proposed at a meeting of the Local Council of Women last spring, was again considered by a small committee of interested ladies, presided over in Cronyn Hall yesterday by Mrs. Joseph Marshall, convener.

After a discussion of local conditions, which those present felt merited some immediate step towards relief, it was decided to wait upon the Social Service Council at their next meeting and to lay before them such facts as have been obtained as to the need for such an institution.

Mrs. A. C. Joseph and Mrs. Travers were named representatives on this deputation, and it is understood that these ladies will make inquiries of the Salvation Army and other local institutions as to the work that is being at present carried on.

Mrs. Marshall was strong in her opinion that some such institution should be provided at an early date, stating that she had been informed that in this city men were sleeping in the streets.

Other members were of the opinion that while the Salvation Army, the S. A. C., the Social Service Council and other relief organizations existed in London, such extreme conditions could not be necessary, but it was generally felt that a place where those who were temporarily without home or work could find refuge was a necessity.

CONVALESCENT HOME.

Mrs. J. S. Niven pointed out that the Convalescent Home had been meeting some such need as the present one for the past 30 years and could still house an occasional transient for a short space of time.

The matter of provision for persons leaving the jail was felt by Mrs. Marshall to be a serious one. Interested for many years in prison visiting, she had experienced many cases of ex-prisoners finding no refuge, and she urged that the proposed hostel be made to meet the need for a prison-gate home.

Beyond the decision to consult with the Social Service Council no definite steps were taken, however.

Rev. T. D. McCullough and Mrs. A. C. Joseph, of the Social Service Council; Mrs. J. S. Niven and Mrs. Edwin Seaborn, of the Convalescent Home board; Mrs. B. C. McCann, president of the Catholic Women's League, of London Diocese; Mrs. Travers and Mrs. Marshall were present.

SOLDIERS' WIVES' LEAGUE HOLDS SUCCESSFUL SALE

Musical Program and Tearoom Features of Yesterday's Event at Armories

The officers' quarters at the armories were most attractive yesterday afternoon with decorations of oak leaves and glowing fires when the Soldiers' Wives' League held a most successful sale, musicale and tea. Mrs. A. A. Campbell welcomed the many visitors who dropped in during the afternoon, the unavoidable absence of Mrs. H. A. Panet, who was to have formally opened the sale, preventing the carrying out of this part of the program.

A tribute to the late Lady Beck was paid by a silent standing vote passed by the members and assistants before the opening of the bazaar. Lady Beck, Mrs. Campbell pointed out, had been most generous in her assistance to the league at all times, and particularly in the establishment of League House, which carried on such a splendid work here during the years of the war.

The visitors found the tearoom a cheery spot to linger in, under the glow of the yellow-shaded lights. The table, presided over by Mrs. Becher, Mrs. Jeffrey Hale and Mrs. (Col.) Young was lovely with its tall glass vase of yellow mums and feathery grasses resting on a silver mirror. Mrs. J. E. Wylie and Mrs. E. H. Young, tearoom conveners, were assisted by Mrs. Cameron Wilson and Mrs. Archie Becher, who ushered the guests from the music room, and by Mrs. Gordon Edgecombe, Miss Ora White, Mrs. Sid Rankin, Mrs. Cunliffe and Mrs. William Adams.

CHARMING PROGRAM.

The musical program, arranged by Mrs. (Major) Mackay, was a happy feature of the afternoon. Miss Dorinda Abbott, Miss Nettie Jones and Mrs. Arthur Chapman were most generous with their lovely solos and Miss Gladys Eudie at the piano played delightful music during the intervals.

In the billiard room the home cooking table, with its tempting wares, was an object of interest, and the good things, in charge of Mrs. C. M. R. Graham, were soon disposed of. Mrs. W. A. McCrimmon looked after the candy table, and at a separate stall the Sir George Ross Chapter, I. O. D. E., with Miss Ora White, Miss Margaret McCrimmon and Miss Margaret Manring in charge, showed some attractive baby garments for which the members are prepared to take orders.

Much of the success of the sale was due to the kindnes of Col. C. M. R. Graham, who assisted the league members in many ways, and the treasurer, Miss Piggot, reports a satisfactory sum to help carry on the relief work necessary this year.

BEQUEST TO VICTORIA HOME UNDER WILL OF LATE MISS MEREDITH

A bequest of $400 under the will of the late Miss Annie Meredith, of this city, was yesterday paid over to the treasurer of the Woman's Christian Association by the executors of the estate.

Of this sum, the will stipulates that $200 go to the work of the Victoria Home for Incurables, and $200 to the Aged People's Home, in both of which organizations the late Miss Meredith was deeply interested.

WINNING FIRST PRIZE.

Henrietta Hen was waiting as patiently as she could for the fair to come to an end. She tried to close her ears to the boasts of her neighbors on either side of her that they were going to win the first prize. She had heard too many unpleasant remarks about herself to have even the slightest hope of winning any prize at all—let alone the first.

"Anyhow, we'll be going home tonight," Henrietta said to herself. "And I'll never, never, never come to another fair. I'll go and hide 'way up high in the haymow where they can't find me before I'll spend another week in a place like this."

While she was muttering under her breath like that some men came up to her pen. And Henrietta Hen promptly squatted down in the furthest corner of it, hoping they wouldn't say anything disagreeable about her. She didn't even look at the callers. And soon they moved away.

Then Henrietta glanced up. She noticed something blue dangling from the front of her pen. And there was a greater commotion than ever on all sides of her.

"What is it?" she cried. "What has happened?"

Neighbor number 1, on her right, shot a spiteful look at her.

"Those stupid judges!" she spluttered. "They've made a terrible blunder. They've gone and given you and your chicks the first prize. And, of course, it was meant for me and mine!"

"It wasn't!" screamed neighbor number 2 (on Henrietta's left). "That prize was intended for me and my children!"

"Who won second and third?" cried a noisy hen from across the way.

24

As for Henrietta, she didn't quite know how to act.

"They're both at the other end of the hall!" somebody shrieked.

"It's an outrage! It isn't fair! We've been cheated!" Henrietta Hen's nearest neighbors clamored. But nobody paid any attention to them.

As for Henrietta, she didn't quite know how to act. She had intended, when she left home, to do a good deal of strutting back and forth in her pen, with now and then a pause to preen herself, to make sure that she looked her best. But somehow she no longer cared to put on grand airs, as of old. She remembered that some of the other hens at the fair had been haughty and proud and had smoothed their feathers, declaring boldly that they expected to win the first prize.

Henrietta had heard it said that fine feathers don't make fine birds. And she knew at last what that meant. It meant that gay clothes and lofty ways and boastful talk were of no account at all.

So Henrietta tried to behave as if nothing unusual had happened. She told her chicks that they were going home that evening, and that she would be glad to be back on the farm again, among plain home folks.

At last Johnnie Green and his father came to load Henrietta and her family into the wagon.

"Well," said old horse Ebenezer to Henrietta, "did you enjoy the races?"

"I didn't have a chance to see them," she replied.

"That's a pity," he told her. And then he asked her: "What's that tag hanging from your pen?"

"That," said Henrietta, "that means that my chicks won the first prize."

"She helped win it herself!" cried old Dog Spot, who was yelping about the wagon. "Our little speckled hen was the best hen at the fair.

"Nonsense!" Henrietta exclaimed. But, all the same, she couldn't help being pleased.

THE END.

HALLOWEEN CONTESTS

(A. E. P. Clinton asks for some suggestions for Halloween contests that may be carried on in a church parlor.)

A jolly contest is arranged by asking each guest to come provided with a roll of yellow crepe paper, scissors, coarse thread and needle. Allow a certain space of time and let each evolve the best costume possible out of their material.

If a sufficient number of small pumpkins can be obtained, the players may be provided with knives and a prize may be given for the best Jack-o'Lantern. These, if filled with candles, will supply subsequent decorations.

A timely variation of the old game of pinning the tail on the pig may be introduced by pasting a black witch on a sheet of white paper on the wall and allowing the guests blindfolded, to adjust her hat.

An amusing "ghost" contest is played by choosing sides and draping the players in turn in a sheet, ghost fashion, only the nose to show. The opposing side will have some difficulty in recognizing noses.

Many of the old apple and nut games and contests are suitable to a gathering of young people anywhere.

"PATHOGEN" THE CAUSE OF DISEASE

Accumulation of Waste Matter Which Obstructs the Free Flow of the Blood Stream.

"Fruit-a-tives," the Health Protector.

According to some of the greatest living medical authorities, the main cause of disease arises in the stomach, from the formation of a semi-liquid, decaying substance, known as Mucus.

The human body has thousands of feet of almost invisible tubes through which the blood circulates.

"Pathogen" is the name given to mucus or accumulation of waste matter which clogs up the thousands and thousands of tubes which carry the blood to every part of the body.

It is the clogging up of the arteries and veins which causes high blood pressure, hardening the arteries, acidity of the blood and auto-intoxication, and is responsible, along with Constipation, for most of the Headaches, Bilious Attacks, Bad Complexions, Pain in the Back, Kidney Trouble, Chronic Constipation and Eczema, with which so many people suffer.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES," the famous fruit medicine, prevents Pathogen because it insures sound digestion, makes the bowels move regularly and naturally, flushes the kidneys, increases the eliminating action of the skin and thus keeps the blood channels free of mucus.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25, or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives, Limited, Ottawa, Ont.—Advt.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS.—(By Mail.)—"Make it with lace," has become as popular a catch phrase in the French dressmaking world as our own familiar, "Say it with flowers." The Government has urged the use of hand-made laces to rehabilitate the French lace industry, and although we have had an entire summer of dresses in which lace was the foundation, it again appears prominently in the winter fashions. There are extravagant looking creations with exquisite silk lace dyed in brilliant colors. Black, too, is used, and so are neutral colors, in charming, dignified styles that are soft and beautiful for the older woman.

One of the most attractive of these is of silver gray silk lace of substantial texture, combined with faille silk of the same color, and trimmed with black fur. The sketch illustrates how harmoniously the materials are combined. A panel of the silk divides the lace tunic in the back and the wide sleeves are finished with a straight wide cuff of black georgette.

SIDE TALKS —BY— RUTH CAMERON

WHAT MAKES CHARACTER JELLY FISH.

"I hate to make beds," I said to myself the other day as I surveyed my morning tasks.

"I wish I didn't have to do anything I didn't like to do," my thought ran on.

And then came the counter-thought. "Look what happens to [illegible] have to do anything they don't like to. You know some of them. You know how spineless they get, how selfish, how lazy. You don't admire them. You don't want to be like them. Then why wish for the circumstances that would make you like them—unless you have a too strong character to spoil, which you certainly haven't? What you really need are more things you don't like to do instead of less."

Of course, I was glad that the half of me that talks to me like that couldn't go out and find me more tasks that I didn't want to do and make me do them.

But just the same I knew that it was right in what it told me.

Nothing in the world will make character more surely than doing things one doesn't like to do.

Nothing weakens character like never having to do anything one doesn't like to do

Too little doing what one doesn't like makes a character jelly fish. Nobody likes a character jelly fish. Nobody wants to be like them. Why then long for the conditions that make them?

Because we are poor, weak human beings, I suppose, and half of us want what is bad for us. Come to think of it "half" is most inaccurate, for in some folks it's three-quarters or more and in others it's indefinitely less than half.

Doing what you don't want to do develops character, but there is something that develops character still more.

Doing what you don't want to do without complaining.

And then there is something better than that—doing what you don't like to do without outward complaining and with a minimum of inner resentment.

And now for the best. Doing the things you don't like to do without outward complaint, with a minimum of inner resentment, and doing them not just carelessly to get them done, but as well as you know how!

"When there is nothing more to be said, some fool always up and says it," observes the Kansas Industrialist.

Hallam Furs are an Economy

It used to be thought that furs were rather a luxury, but now the economical buyers have discovered that furs are a genuine economy as well as a necessity. A fur coat or set will last from five to fifteen years—to buy cloth coats to last this long would cost very much more than the furs in actual money. In addition to that, you always feel well dressed in furs, — always comfortable, — always warm.

Hallam Furs less than Half Price

You can obtain HALLAM furs this year at less than half the price that they were sold at last year. This is due partly to the drop in the price of raw skins, and to the fact that, as usual, I bought our furs at the very lowest ebb in the prices.

Why I Can Sell at Such Low Prices

In the first place, I buy the skins direct from the Trappers and Indians for cash, and am the largest cash buyer of furs in Canada. Then I sell direct to you for cash. This method saves you the various middlemen's profits, the fur dealer, the wholesaler and retailer, high store rent, sales clerks' salaries, bad accounts, etc.

Another big advantage is you can see the furs in your own home and can examine them at your leisure without being influenced by anxious sales clerks.

The coat and set illustrated in this advertisement are fair samples of HALLAM values, and will be sent you promptly on receipt of price.

If HALLAM furs do not please you in any way, you can simply send them back at my expense, and I will cheerfully return your money—you are not out one single cent.

You can be sure of satisfaction when you buy by mail from me. That is my guarantee.

GERMANS PRODUCE FILMS OF ENGLISH PLAYS TO BE SHOWN IN MOVIE HOUSES OF LONDON

London Times Makes Appeal For English Films Translated For People By "Actors of Our Own Breeding."

This interesting English comment on German films is contained in a recent London Times:

"Immense numbers of people in this country spend their leisure and their money in looking at the pictures, and on the whole their judgment is not very discriminating. If it were, how could they tolerate the type of film which presents to them a number of persons of a decidedly foreign cast of countenance, doing improbable things in scenery, which, whether real or realistic, is purely foreign or cosmopolitan?

BRITISH FILMS IN TROUBLE.

"We are afraid that the best English producers will always have ground for complaint until the standard of public taste and knowledge of the world has greatly improved, and looks and feminine beauty is put into its proper anthropological place. Meanwhile the producers of British films have other and perhaps more pressing troubles. There is, for instance, the proposed American import duty against all films of foreign origin, including British; and as long as that threat relative to native talent and enterprise stands, it may not be much comfort to be told, as a letter tells us, that in Germany it is believed that that duty is mainly directed against German films.

"Our correspondent gives an interesting account of the recent growth of the German film industry; he regards it as now the second industry in Germany, and the second film industry in the world. The war, or the peace, seems to have stimulated it mightily; so completely, it would appear, has the resourceful German changed his occupation. He would now seek to conquer the world in the capacity of public entertainer, and he would greatly like to exploit the English screen. Conquered Greece conquered her conquerer, as we all know; and history, with the necessary modifications, may, unless we are firm, repeat itself, for the weakness of the British public is its innocent receptiveness. It swallows the foreigner; is there not a risk that it may swallow the Teuton?

GERMANS INVADE LONDON.

It is said that there already is a number of German films in London cellars biding their time. They have probably been constructed with a view to propaganda. One German film which our correspondent mentions is about Henry VIII. Why should Germans present us with scenes from our own history? Let Bluff Hal be an Englishman and let Englishmen produce his story.

"We want, or rather we wish we could say that we want English scenes, whether from history, novels, or what not, translated for us through the cinematograph by actors of our own breeding. They alone can give the necessary improvement which the art of the film demands, by securing for all its works a fundamental probability. As a nation we must look carefully after 'the pictures,' for they are clearly to be with us for the rest of time, and the more they hold the mirror up to nature the better. They already exercise an influence on aesthetics and fashion, and the allen element has had a good start. As it has been with the stage, so it will be more and more with the screen."

ONCE IN A LIFETIME.

Last week a vaudeville performer bawled out a spotlight boy, claiming he was responsible for his turn not going over. Upon hearing of the incident the orchestra boys immediately accorded the performer a vote of thanks.

"A VIRGIN PARADISE" STORY OF THE JUNGLE

An Absorbing Story of a Girl Who Spent Eight Years Alone on a Volcanic Island—Showing at the Allen First Four Days of Next Week.

Do you enjoy thrills? Every individual hair will stand on end at the thousand-and-one thrills that punctuate that sensational romance, "A Virgin Paradise," the feature attraction at the Allen Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week. The grandeur of its scenery, the realism of its scenes, the artistry of its direction, the beauty of its photography are a few of the factors responsible for making this picture one of the outstanding photoplays of the year.

The glorious scenic splendor of a South Sea island jungle, with ferocious animals stalking about, seeking their prey—the girl's first meeting with civilization—the kindergarten of the forest—are only a few of the thrilling moments of the story.

In addition to "A Virgin Paradise" will be shown "Snub" Pollard in "Sweet Bye and Bye," Allen World Travelogue and special musical program, Allen concert orchestra.

The silver screen has recorded many wonders, but now comes "Wet Gold," the feature attraction showing at the Allen Friday and Saturday of next week, with more mysteries and strange scenes from under the sea. The story is a drama of life on land and sea and under the sea.

WINS $15 PRIZE.—Miss Clarice Manley, 866 Van street, and employed at a local music store, in charge of the record sales department, recently received word from a large manufacturing concern that she had been awarded the second prize of $15 in the record sales contest and for giving the best description of a well-known make of phonograph. The contest was open to all employees in music stores, both in the United States and Canada, and Miss Manley more than shows her salesmanship ability and ingenuity in her descriptive matter.

Robert Hyman, who will take the leading role in "Pals First," at the Majestic all next week.

SOUTHERN ROMANCE ON MAJESTIC PROGRAM

"Pals First," With Robert Hyman in the Stellar Role, to be Presented All Next Week.

To please the citizens of London is the motto of the William A. Grew players, who will be seen at the Majestic next week in "Pals First," a touching comedy drama. Every week these popular players have something entirely new. They present a variety of subjects. One week comedy, the next mystery comedy and next week a comedy drama. "Pals First," which opens on Monday and continues throughout the week, will no doubt be appreciated.

This play has just completed a long run at the Liberty Theater, New York, where it pleased the thousands who saw it. It was starred by William Courtney and Tom Wise, two noted American actors, and will be given here under the able direction of Robert Hyman.

The story itself is intensely interesting. It is a typical Southern romance of two boy tramps and is centered around Nashville, Tennessee. Every portion of the story is filled with action, not a dull moment prevading from beginning to end.

Here is the story: "Danny," a young lad, leaves his home in Sunny Tennessee and sets out to face the world without any means. With an older pal, Domonie, he roams around for over two years, only to find himself in a state of collapse, hungry, tired and wanting friends. They finally part and both start for home, Danny, the younger of the two, arriving home just in time to inherit a fortune which his cousin was striving to keep from him.

Danny, the principal character in the play, will be taken by Robert Hyman. Mr. Hyman, since his introduction in London, has won the hearts of scores of theatergoers, and will win new friends in this peppery Southern play. With Mr. Hyman will be three other stars who have been brought to London for this special engagement, as well as the able and efficient supporters of Mr. Hyman.

Envelope pay night, which has become such a favorite among London theatrical fans, will be continued this week. This is an attraction to which this theater pays great attention. The regular Monday night admission, two for the price of one, will also be in vogue.

HOOT GIBSON IS A REGULAR COWBOY

Spent Years on the Ranches and Knows What Is What In That Business—At Patricia Monday in "Action."

Hoot Gibson, Universal star, knows what is and what is done around a ranch and in a roundup because for a number of years he was a cowboy and once won the gold belt in Pendleton, Ore., as champion all-around cowboy of the world.

He knows that, for instance, while it may look very picturesque for a set of cowboys to fling themselves into their saddles and ride apparently for miles over the most difficult mountains and through canyons without stopping, no cowboy would do it. He loves his horse too much, so Hoot suggests the time limit be changed a little to agree with facts and a few of the most hardy hills be lopped off the continuity so that the "regulars" in the audience will not be critical of the realism.

"Action," Hoot Gibson's first five-reel picture, comes to the Patricia Theater on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

NURSERY FOR CHILDREN AT BIG THEATER

London, Eng., House Has Novel Plan To Get More Women To Attend Its Shows.

To get more women patrons one of the biggest movie houses in London, England, has set up a nursery and playground where children too small to enjoy the pictures can be safely left while mother is having "a shilling's worth of dark." This is at the Alhambra, London's gorgeous Oriental "music hall," which is now used as a "cinema palace."

In this children's rendezvous, as it is called, the mothers leave their children in the charge of trained nurses, who feed and play with the youngsters during the three-hour performances.

One of the palm gardens, which used to be a feature of the Alhambra in the old days when the Russian ballet with Pavlowa and Mordkin first came to London, has been turned over in these practical times to the nursery, and here any London mother may leave her children in expert care without paying anything beyond the price of her own ticket to the show.

FURNITURE FITS CHILDREN.

It is a comparatively new idea in England to have special furniture for children's rooms, but once the thing got started it caught on like anything and a good many factories which made munitions during the war have been converted into midget furniture works. For the sake of advertisement one of these factories has furnished the children's rendezvous with cots and cradles, little kidney-shaped tables and chairs which fit together so that they can be used for forts and embankments, for hurdles and coaches and caravans and a bewildering variety of dolls and toys for both boys and girls.

There are further a sand pile, slide, rocking horses and swings and merry-go-rounds, and all in the light of fairy lamps flickering among the palms and evergreens.

At a bar at the end of the room where a complete refrigerator is installed, certified milk, baby biscuits and sponge cake can be had at cost price if the mothers leave instructions.

An interval of silence is arranged every half hour, the children lie down wherever they happen to be, and rest with their eyes shut, as in Montessori schools.

DO NOT LIKE TO LEAVE.

The mothers themselves may come and visit their children during the 20 minutes' intermission. Usually they find it difficult to sort out their own from a jolly, shouting crowd. When the end comes, and all the mothers, it is like the end of a children's party; there is a general howl of dismay at being dragged away to homes where the children must again come down to earth and take their share of the general give-and-take of family life.

Gladys Walton in "The Rowdy," the feature photoplay attraction at the Patricia on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

"THE HELL DIGGERS" THRILLING PHOTOPLAY

Wallace Reid In His Latest and Most Thrilling Picture Comes to Loew's Theater on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Teddy Darman, construction superintendent of a gold dredging company, is in love with Dora Wade, daughter of old John Wade, leader of the faction of farmers who bitterly oppose the dredging company because of the destruction to the land wrought by the big dredging boats. Teddy perfects plans for a machine which will not destroy the land as it dredges. The company turns down his plans, whereupon Teddy openly breaks with the company and lines up with the farmers, who mortgage their land and build the new machine. The balance of the story, which will be screened at Loew's on Monday, is even more interesting.

In addition to this thrilling photodrama, the program will include a hall room boys' comedy, Loew's screen pictorial, vaudeville, big pipe organ and classic orchestra under direction of Joseph Tirri.

Should a daughter keep her promise to a mother, made at the latter's dying request, even though it entails a sacrifice of her own happiness?

Such a promise is the cause of the dramatic complications in a new Paramount picture, "Beyond," starring Ethel Clayton, which will be the feature at the Loew Theater next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Miss Clayton is seen as Avis Langley, a girl who promises her dying mother to watch and care for her wayward brother

JACKIE FINESILVER, who will lead the riot of merriment to be brought to the Grand on Friday and Saturday of next week by the famous Winnipeg Kiddies.

PAUL GILMORE BACK TO "THE GARDEN OF ALLAH"

Now that "The Three Musketeers" is being so much revived in pictures it will be interesting to remember that James O'Neill, E. H. Southern and Paul Gilmore were in New York City at the same time and all playing "The Three Musketeers" in the spoken drama. Paul Gilmore is a favorite in Canada and will be remembered as having played Canada with Sir Charles Windham's "Tyranny of Tears," Sir Charles Windham's "Mummy and the Humming Bird," and was last seen as Old Bill in "The Better 'Ole." All English plays by English authors with all-English companies. And now Mr. Gilmore is returning to his first love the romantic and will appear in Canada this season in "The Garden of Allah," another play by an English author and with an all-English company. This will be Mr. Gilmore's third season in "The Garden of Allah," and the play is said to suit him so well that undoubtedly he will appear in it for years to come.

THE DUMBELLS COMING TO THE GRAND MONDAY

Same Fine Show With Cast of Soldier-Actors In "Biff, Bing, Bang."

The Dumbells' Company, at one time the crack entertainment corps of the Canadian army in France, and now one of the most successful theatrical enterprises in two countries, will make its bow to local audiences at the Grand Opera House on Monday evening, when they will offer their original overseas musical comedy revue, "Biff, Bing, Bang."

The attraction is best described as a he-man-girl show. Every dazzling beauty, from the humblest chorus girl to the prima donna, was at one time a mud-caked soldier somewhere in France—the organization being composed entirely of men who had seen at least 18 months' active service. After two years of service as entertainers they were taken to London, where their success as a regular theatrical attraction was phenomenal.

Then they were brought, intact, to Canada, where they made a coast-to-coast tour, staying as long as 17 weeks in such cities as Montreal and Toronto, filling the leading theaters to capacity at every performance. While in France and England they entertained thousands of Canadian soldiers, as well as many of those in high command, including Gen. Watson and Sir Arthur Currie.

The action of their musical revue, which is divided into two parts, each ending with an appropriate sketch, is described as being similar to the girl-and-music shows so popular in New York and London to-day.

The company is presented by Capt. M. W. Plunkett, who organized the show in France. On its last appearance here it made a distinct success. This time it is the same company, with all the old favorites.

HARRY TATE'S FIRST TRIP.

The present tour of Harry Tate, the famous English comedian, with Albert De Courville's "Hullo, Canada," is his first visit to Canada and his second to this side of the Atlantic, the first being in 1906, when he played eight weeks in New York and Boston. Mr. Tate's company, in "Motoring," has been seen in vaudeville throughout the country, but he has never appeared himself on this side, except in the above mentioned cities.

In "Hullo, Canada," Mr. Tate will present his latest skit, "Selling the Car," which is a worthy successor to "Motoring," and another new interlude, "The Patent Office," as well as numerous other screamingly funny hits conceived by Mr. De Courville.

Ethel Clayton and Charles Meredith in a scene from "Beyond," the thrilling production coming to Loew's on Thursday.

CANADIAN WINS HONORS IN N. Y.

Redfern Hollinshead, Tenor, Forging Ahead

ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

Has Voice of Excellent Quality; Fine Interpretative Power

BY BEN DEACON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Among the interesting musical events of the week was a recital given in the town hall by Redfern Hollinshead, the Canadian tenor. Mr. Hollinshead, who is a native of Toronto, is rapidly winning recognition in New York as a concert singer. He has a lyric tenor of excellent quality, combined with fine interpretative power. His program included a number of operatic songs by Francis Alitsen, Harry Burleigh and Geoffrey O'Hara; a French group by Ronaldo Hahn, Handel, and Tosti. The Canadian tenor met with an enthusiastic reception both from his audience and from local critics. Mr. Hollinshead made a successful tour of the Maritime Provinces last June and he plans a more extensive tour of Eastern Canada for the coming winter. He appears in New York under the direction of the Wolfsohn Bureau.

Another recent recital which was attended by a large and enthusiastic audience, and which won the much-coveted interest of the New York critics, was also given by a Canadian artist, Miss Eva Gauthier, formerly of Ottawa. Miss Gauthier evidently selected her program with the idea of giving New York what it loves above all else—something new. There were 24 numbers, and all were "modern." Most of them were "first time" numbers. As one of the local critics put it, the program ranged in antiquity "from Arnold Schoenberg's Opus 14, undated, but apparently written week after next, to a frightfully old one by Frans Schreker, composed way back in 1909, just after Richard Strauss had discovered America."

Miss Gauthier's selection displayed the fearlessness of her disposition no less than her ability as a vocalist. She included, for instance, a group by the French musical revolutionists known as the "Groupe Des Six." One of these numbers, Darius Milhaud's "La Limousine," is particularly full of vocal difficulties. Its theme is gruesome, based on the murder of the Monk Rasputin, and the singer is obliged to keep pitch amid a nerve-racking clangor of savage bells. Several of the other numbers presented similar difficulties, one, by Arnold Schoenberg, being full of deliberate dissonances, with a peculiar twisting base, which makes it a sure pitfall for any singer not possessed of absolute tonal accuracy. Miss Gauthier's success in surmounting these difficulties was attested by the remarkable reception accorded her by the critics. "Miss Gauthier sang delightfully, with perfect intonation against sometimes overwhelming odds," one of these overworked and rather captious gentlemen remarked. "She is one of the most interesting and enterprising singers alive and it is too bad we do not hear her oftener." Miss Gauthier is also under the direction of the Wolsohn Bureau.

STRIKE DRAMA IS FEATURE OF N.Y. OFFERINGS

"The Right To Strike" Assured Renewed Success Owing To Its Timeliness, Says Deacon.

BY BEN DEACON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Curiously apropos is the week's leading dramatic offering. At the moment when the United States Labor Board and the heads of the various railroad brotherhoods are doping a sensational juggling act, with the possibility of a general strike, when the newspaper accounts of the fluctuating strike threat are almost as exciting, and occupy almost as many columns per day as a world's series, when everyone is talking of a tie-up, there comes Richard Walton Tully with a play which is founded upon a railroad strike and which is very largely a discussion of the ancient controversy between capital and labor, the very thing which is the chief topic of conversation in this city now. This play, "The Right to Strike," is an English importation. It was first produced in London during the British industrial upheavals, about a year ago, and met with very favorable attention from old country audiences. It was presented in New York for the first time last night, at the Comedy Theater, and its timeliness, if not its dramatic merit, warrants the prediction of renewed success here. The author is Ernest Hutchison.

The scene of "The Right to Strike" is laid in a small English city, the headquarters of a railroad whose employees are on strike. In this city there is also located a large hospital. The employers and employees are dead-locked and both sides have stubbornly resisted all proposals of arbitration that have been made from outside. Motor transports, manned by citizens, have been organized and a young doctor from the hospital has been killed in a fight with the strikers. This tragedy leads to a declaration by the doctors of the hospital that they will give no medical aid to the strikers or the members of their families.

The young wife of one of the labor leaders is in danger of death during childbirth. The only surgeon competent to perform a necessary operation is the friend of the murdered doctor. At first he refuses, but finally is persuaded to save the woman's life.

Here is the matter upon which the argument of the play is based, and argument is very largely what the play is composed of. If the railway men leave their posts, inconveniencing and endangering the public, have not the doctors a similar right? Characters representing every section of the community affected by a labor rumpus argue at length upon the subject. But it is a "no-decision" bout. The doctor is coaxed into the path of duty, but he is apparently unconvinced, and the only thing even faintly approaching a solution which is offered is the somewhat stale and unpractical declaration by one of the characters that brotherly love is the panacea for all industrial ills.

There are several English people in the cast, including Ronald Adair, who came to New York to play his role of "Tarzan" in the jungle play, which had but a brief, flittering existence here. He is more successful in the role of a rugged strike leader. The consensus of opinion, however, appears to be that practically all of the members of the cast are prone to overact.

A new comedy-drama by Kate L. McLaurin, entitled, "The Six-Fifty," was also presented to New York last night. The "Six-Fifty—which, of course, is a train—is wrecked right at the back door of a New England farm and as a consequence a strange collection of characters is suddenly herded in the farm kitchen. There is the country girl, who longs to escape from the monotony of farm life; the aged dyspeptic, who suddenly discovers that he can eat pork without providing work for an undertaker; the prima donna, who forgets her temperament and becomes human through sudden interest in aiding the injured; the sweet young girl, who is jolted by the wreck into the very arms of the boy she loved; the said boy, and the octogenarian rural bore. These are stirred about for several acts until a rather gooey mixture of sentiment and optimism has been secured and the good old theory that life is just what you make it has been properly propounded. The play met with a mixed reception from the local critics. One found it delightful; another found it worthless and dull. The others ranged in between these two extremes.

George Arliss, the English actor, who made his professional home in America ever since first coming to this continent 20 years ago with Mrs. Patrick Campbell in two Pinero plays, "The Second Mrs. Tanquerary" and "The Notorious Mrs. Ebbsmith," has scored at the Booth Theater, New York City, one of the three biggest dramatic hits of the year in a play of English origin.

Was Afraid He Would Smother

Toronto Man Declares He Had Suffered Terribly For Ten Long Years.

"At any time during the past 10 years I would have given almost anything in the world to be able to eat a hearty meal, such as I eat three times a day now, and not suffer afterwards," said William J. Harrington, 471 Beresford avenue, Toronto, Ont.

"After every meal I had sharp pains in my stomach and way up in my chest that seemed to go clear through me. For a long time there were many things, especially certain vegetables, that I never dared touch, for if I did, I always paid the penalty. At night there was so much gas in my stomach that I would lie awake for hours, hardly able to get my breath, and actually afraid I was going to smother. I had to take medicine three or four times a day for constipation and had such severe headaches it looked like they would kill me.

"It's nothing less than marvelous the way Tanlac has rid me of all these troubles. I can eat heartily now of potatoes, cabbage, radishes or just anything else I want and never suffer a particle from indigestion. I sleep fine at night and feel good all the time. After what Tanlac has done for me there is nothing too good I can say about it."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by Liggett's Drug Stores, and by leading druggists everywhere.—Advt.

APPOINT AMERICAN TO HURON DIOCESE

Rev. F. B. Hornby, of Cleveland, Coming to District Anglican Parish.

That relations of the closest harmony exist between the American Episcopal communion and the Anglican Church in Canada is shown in yesterday's announcement of the appointment of Rev. F. B. Hornby, of Cleveland, Ohio, to the parish of Ripley and Pine River, in the Diocese of Huron. Mr. Hornby is a graduate of Upper Canada College and was formerly in this diocese, but left to serve a parish in the Episcopal Diocese of Cleveland.

The local synod office also announces that Rev. B. S. Robinson, lately of St. Luke's, Brantford, has been appointed to serve at Granton.

FIVE HUNDRED MEN ARE WANTED TO GIVE $1 EACH

Shantymen's Christian Association Doing Splendid Work In 700 Camps

Rev. Thomas Joplin desires to thank the number of friends who have responded to the appeal for the Shantymen's Christian Association. The amount contributed altogether is still under $500. The amount aimed at was $1,500. A letter received recently from South Africa revealed the far-reaching influence of this important work. As a result of a meeting held seven years ago, a young man was converted who is now engaged as a missionary in South Africa, doing a splendid work. He wrote a letter reciting his experiences and enclosing £1 for the work in this country.

A letter was also received from a gentleman in Scotland, who enclosed £10. This gentleman related the fact that on a visit he had to China he had come across at least two missionaries who had been converted in the Northern woods. Some splendid candidates are offering for the work, but the board feels that the deficit should be cleared before putting further men to work. Mr. Joplin recently addressed the W. C. T. U. convention, held in this city, and also a meeting at the home of Mrs. Jeffery Hale, Waterloo street, in connection with the Aberdeen Association. The W. C. T. U. maintains one missionary under the care of this association. A gentleman suggested the other day that if 500 of the people who believed in the power of the old Gospel to reach men would give $1 or $2, the amount aimed at would be raised. In any of the readers of this article would like to help, please send to Rev. Thomas Joplin, care of the Y. M. C. A., London, Ontario.

Mr. Joplin will preach at Askin Street Methodist Church on Sunday morning.

BADEN PROUD OF BECK AS NATIVE

Foundry Where He Learned His Trade Still Stands There.

BIRTHPLACE IS NEAR BY

Hydro Chairman Often Returns To His Early Home.

BADEN, Oct. 28. — If the Village of Baden could lay claim to nothing else in its history than the fact that it is the birthplace of Sir Adam Beck, and the village in which the hydro knight spent his boyhood days, it would have a sufficient claim to a prominent place in the history of Ontario. To have contributed to Ontario and to Canada a man of such caliber and genius as Sir Adam is an enviable distinction for a community and judging from the sentiment expressed by many of Baden's citizens, there is no doubt but that the village is proud of the man who has made Ontario the hydro electrical wonder of the world.

About two blocks off the main road is the old Beck foundry, now a historic structure, in which Sir Adam Beck served his apprenticeship and from which he graduated in his early youth as an expert in all the various operations associated with foundry work. Son of the sturdy pioneer, Jacob Beck, who is accredited founder of the Village of Baden, the youthful Adam attacked the problems which he found before him in the foundry with the same vigor and intelligence with which in later years he tackled distribution throughout the province.

HISTORIC FOUNDRY

It is almost half a century ago that Jacob Beck set his son to work in the now historic foundry at Baden. There is one man who is still connected with the foundry who recalls those early days in the career of Ontario's hydro knight and that is Joseph Hofele, who daily plies his trade in the dingy place of iron and moulds where Sir Adam Beck first put away the things of childhood, and at the behest of his father, took up the practical things which doubtless turned his talent into channels which eventually made him the key man in Ontario's hydro success.

One of the first questions that was put to the veteran mechanic was: "Do you remember Sir Adam Beck?"

"Do I remember him?" was the reply. "Well, I can tell you it was in this very room that I had the privilege of teaching young Beck the blacksmith trade." That was nearly 50 years ago, when Sir Adam's father owned and operated the foundry. In those days we made stoves and other foundry products. Sir Adam was about 14 years of age then and his father wished him to learn the business from the start. There was one thing about young Beck in these days which marked him for the future career in which he distinguished himself. There was nothing that he was afraid to tackle. Whatever he was set to do, he went at it with an optimism and cheerfulness which made him the favorite of the foundry. There were no owner's son tricks about Sir Adam in his youthful apprenticeship in this foundry. He worked like any of the rest of us, and he was not long in learning the various trades. From the blacksmith shop he graduated through the moulding shop and machine shop and finally through the office. He was a strapping boy and always a bit more cheerful than his rather stern father."

Joseph Hofele, the man who taught Sir Adam his trade, is proud of his pupil. Sir Adam his not forgotten Baden and on his visits to the village he never fails to drop in for a friendly chat with Mr. Hofele.

PROUD OF SIR ADAM

There are very few who pass through the Village of Baden who, of they have a knowledge of Sir Adam's early connection with the place, do not point to the historic foundry in which he learned his early trade, as one of the main points of interest in the Community.

The foundry has not changed since the days when the present chairman of the Ontario Hydro Power Commission labored within its walls. It is true the scope of the foundry has been reduced since it was taken over by the Livingstons in the early seventies. The staff has dwindled but the old building remains as a historic reminder of the early days.

A few hundred yards from the rear of the foundry stands the substantial brick house in which Sir Adam was born 44 years ago. The place is now owned by John B. C. Schmidt.

PORT BURWELL WIRELESS STATION.

Pt. Burwell Wireless Plant One of the Most Powerful Radio Stations In America

PORT BURWELL, Oct. 28.—In 1913 the naval department of the Dominion of Canada undertook the establishment in connection with the Marconi Wireless Company, of a chain of wireless telegraph stations along the Great Lakes. The idea was to have this chain stretch across the continent. In that year, in any case, a plant was built at Port Burwell, the central port on the north shore of Lake Erie, and as the radio stations are practically standardized, a description of this one will apply to all. Although wireless telegraphy is a familiar term to all, yet few people understand the inner workings of a wireless station, even those which are now controled by the department of naval service of our own Government.

Just east of the Police Village of Port Burwell a stream, called the Little Otter, flows into Lake Erie, and on the eastern side of the Little Otter Valley, on the lake bank, was the site selected for the machinery. These buildings were placed in line from east to west and about 100 yards apart. The feature of the wireless station, however, that attracts the gaze of the casual observer is the aerial apparatus. Two masts were put up, the finest of British Columbia fir, to a height of 185 feet. Then, of course, there were the two wires stretched from one to the other at that height. Stay wires were bolted into huge anchors of solid cement. This aerial part of the station could be seen for miles towering above surrounding trees. The construction work was under the direction of an engineer, but Robt. Timmons, a ship carpenter, of Port Burwell, was a foreman on the job.

THE POWER EQUIPMENT.

The powerhouse is equipped with two standard dynamos, speeded up to 1,720 revolutions a minute. Each is driven by an eight-horse gasoline engine. Only one machine is needed to develop sending energy, but is duplicated so that should one machine be broken the other is promptly pressed into service. The dynamo develops about 440 volts, and this is by step-up transformers raised to about 100,000. Only alternating current is used for sending messages, although direct current is used to build up. The direct current is too difficult to control to be of much use in wireless telegraphy. When the plant is running the aerial wires are charged with this current and the message is released into the atmosphere by the make and break of the ordinary telegraph key. Any person who has not seen "the spark" has an experience coming. When standing in the machine room the business end of the dynamo is a picture of flashing fire and the crash of the spark is deafening.

Two partitions, with a small hallway between, divide the machine room from the operator's office, and the operator has control of the plant by means of switches placed on a board right at his hand. All wiring within the buildings is concealed. In the Port Burwell plant it is beneath the floor and the place is a picture of cleanliness and efficiency.

In the engine room is the grounding switch. Of course, as anyone with any knowledge of electricity will understand, the whole plant is grounded, but this particular switch comes into use when nature takes a strong hand in the game. When thunders roll and the lightening incessantly strikes those aerial wires, then is the time that the operator turns this switch and grounds the aerial apparatus. Electricity always seeks the ground by the most direct route.

AN OPERATOR'S EXPERIENCE.

P. M. Stewart, operator in charge at Port Burwell, tells of a severe storm up at the Midland station. At that plant the grounding process was accomplished by transferring a plug from the transferer to the wall. As he was in the act of doing that during a violent storm the lightning struck the aerial wires. The plug was knocked from his hand and hung dangling above the dynamo. The electric plug jumped from the plug to the dynamo base and thus into the graund. It was a jump of a couple of feet, and the resultant fireworks was brilliant in the extreme, but also dangerous and awe-inspiring. There is the flash and the reaction each time.

There is no power needed for receiving messages. The station here has a range of 500 miles, but, of course, messages are picked up from much greater distances than that under favorable conditions. The operators at Port Burwell direct the work of three car ferries transferring coal across Lake Erie. The Ashtabula into Port Burwell from Ashtabula, the Bessemer into Port Stanley, and the Maitland into Port Maitland. Last summer it also carried the Roosevelt, on the passenger service Cleveland to Port Stanley. All ships working up and down the lakes use this wireless station to arrange docking privileges in various ports at which they intend to call and thus avoid all delays, which are so expensive to the owners. Commercial business from the land side is also carried, messages of every decription being received and sent at usual rates.

Erosion of the lake bank forced the moving of the Port Burwell station last fall to a point several hundred yards back from the lake. On the new site one mast was done away with and the umbrella scheme of aerial outfits arranged. This seems to work just as satisfactorily as the parallel wires. The new site embraces about three acres of land. Chief Stewart has two assistants, Messrs. Booth and Snider, and working in shifts they keep a perpetual service day and night. The place is inspected at frequent intervals, and as each operator is an expert in his line the vigilance over the country's business on the great lakes is sure and unceasing.

PEOPLE IN THE BRITISH ISLES SEEING ONTARIO

The agent-general for Ontario in Great Britain (Mr. Wm. C. Noxon) reports that the Ontario cinema film, "Gold Mining in Ontario," has been released for circulation in Great Britain, and that during the first week subsequent to being sent out it appeared at over 100 theaters, including such leading cinemas as the New Gallery, London, where Queen Alexandra and Princess Mary and other members of the royal family attend frequently to see the pictures. Within six weeks this film will have been shown at over 500 cinemas. The film, which has been declared by leading cinema men in London to be one of the finest and clearest underground pictures ever shown in England, depicts the world-famous Hollinger gold mine in all its operations. Many other beautiful Ontario films are in regular circulation in Great Britain at the present time, and it is calculated that over 4,000,000 people in Great Britain have seen Ontario in living pictures during the present year.

Point Pelee Is Canada's Southern Extremity

Driveway Under Canopy of Hardwoods Traverses Onion Beds That Once Were Swamps

WHEATLEY, Oct. 28.—These are the days when the young members of the household use all their powers of persuasion with the older folks to take a trip to Point Pelee. It is nutting time and nature has abundantly supplied the point with nut-bearing trees, and Jack Frost has covered the ground with walnuts from tall trees that would be impossible to climb. Here are to be found many other nut-bearing trees. Motor loads for miles around drive to this spot every fall to get a supply of nuts for the winter, and still there are plenty left for the fuzzy squirrels who live in this squirrels' paradise.

To the east one sees the famous onion lands that at one time were useless marsh land. Dredging and dyking have reclaimed these acres that lie below the level of the lake, and it has been so arranged by a system of irrigation that the growing crop may be watered whenever necessary.

The scenery is beautiful, especially at this time of the year. The trees have taken on their autumn tints of red, green, yellow and brown, and nature has lavishly bestowed this beautiful spot with glorious hues that are harmonious and restful. Along the driveway that stretches out for miles into the waters of Lake Erie one passes through an avenue of stately elms, red cedar, and spreading maples, and on along the ribbon-like road until the path narrows into a neck of land little wider than a driveway, canopied with trees all the way to the end. On either side are to be seen glimpses of rippling blue waters.

This is the most southerly point of Canada and contains more birds than any other part of the Dominion. Here many of the migratory birds are content to spend the winter. Indeed, when one sees prickly cactus plants growing wild, as it grows there abundantly, it is quite suggestive of tropical countries.

WHEATLEY CHURCH AIMS TO WIPE OFF DEBT IN THREE WEEKS' CAMPAIGN

WHEATLEY, Oct. 28. — During the year of 1914-15 the fine new Methodist church was built and a pipe organ installed at a cost of $18,000. Since that time two new pianos, as well as other equipment, have been added, that at present day prices would make the value total fully $35,000. A debt of $3,500 remains and it is the purpose of the members to wipe off this debt during the next three weeks. On Sunday, October 30, Rev. R. Fulton Irwin, of Lucknow, under whose pastorate the church was built, will take charge of the services morning and evening, and on the following Monday evening will give a lecture on "Present Conditions in Ireland, Their Cause and Cure." Mr. Irwin is a native of Ulster and has an intimate knowledge of his subject.

On Sunday, November 6, Rev. E. A. Fear, of Walkerville, who succeeded Mr. Irwin as pastor, will be present and conduct the services and on the Monday night following, the famous Hudson Male Quartet, of Detroit, will give a concert. This is the first time this community has been privileged to hear this exceptionally fine quartet and a full house is expected.

On the third Sunday Rev. Dr. Chown, superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada, will be the speaker morning and evening and will give his impressions on world conditions the Monday evening following.

PRESENTATION OF PURSE TO DR. THOMPSON, AYR

AYR, Oct. 28.—On Monday evening the citizens of the surrounding district of Ayr met with many visitors in the Knox United Presbyterian Church to honor Dr. Thomson. Dr. Thomson, who is now in his 81st year, preached in the Presbyterian Church here for nearly 40 years, retiring in 1911. He has also resided in Ayr since 1911 and has taken an active part in the church work. The choir contributed an anthem, after which Rev. J. J. Brown, who acted as chairman, gave a short address. Mr. Brown read the minutes of a meeting held in the vestry of the old Presbyterian Church on November 11, 1871, and also the minutes of a meeting on September 25, 1871, when Dr. Thomson was voted on to see whether he should become their minister, this being carried by a large vote.

David Brown, the oldest elder of the church, read the address of the community of Ayr to the doctor, after which he was presented with a purse from the congregation by the second oldest elder, John L. Black.

Rev. Mr. Nicholson, of Paris, read an address to Dr. Thomson from the presbytery. Dr. Thomson then replied fittingly, telling of his happy years in this community.

A letter from Rev. Dr. McMullen, Halifax, Nova Scotia, was read to the doctor congratulating him. Rev. Brown read a message from Rev. A. C. Lavalle, of Toronto, and from many other former members of the congregation.

KERRWOOD.

KERRWOOD, Oct. 28. — A successful bee was held on Monday leveling the grounds around the new church.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Baird, of Edmonton, Alberta, visited the former's sister, Mrs. John Richardson, a few days last week.

Miss Erna Wright and Miss A. Campbell, of the Home Bank staff, Melbourne, also Mr. and Mrs. Hardy, of Melbourne, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waite, and son, Clifford, of Sarnia; Mr. Wesley Waite, and Mrs. Hemmingway, of Detroit, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour, Langford, recently.

Dr. Graham, of Washington, spent a few days visiting his sister, Mrs. Chas. Foster.

The W. A., of St. Paul's Church, will hold their thankoffering meeting on Tuesday, November 8, at the home of Mrs. de Gex.

Mr. and Mrs. Byerly, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dowding, of Sarnia, Mrs. Eastman, of Arkona, called on friends recently.

EXETER.

EXETER, Oct. 28. — Farmers in this vicinity have been busy drawing turnips and sugar beets to the station. They are all well ahead with their fall work; in fact, ahead of any previous year.

A proposal is on foot to form a horticultural society here. Many residents are successful horticulturists and it is believed that a society would flourish.

On Wednesday night Exeter experienced the most severe frost so far this fall.

Miss Lila Johns leaves in a few days for Calgary, where she will spend the winter with her sister, Mrs. Adams.

Business conditions here are on the whole good. The local clothing factory has orders enough ahead to keep them busy all the winter, and the local planing mill is unusually busy for the time of year, and has large contracts ahead.

EAST NISSOURI ERECTS SHAFT IN MEMORY OF BOYS WHO GAVE LIVES

KINTORE, Oct. 28.—For the first time in the history of the Township of East Nissouri, the whole countryside turned out en masse to attend the unique and impressive celebration of the unveiling of the soldiers' monument at Kintore. The monument stands 14 feet high. The main shaft is of Canadian granite, on which is inscribed the names of 18 soldiers of this district who fell in the Great War. Above this column stands a life-size figure of a Canadian soldier, cut in Italian marble, and it is considered by artists as possessing great artistic value. It was carved in Italy and erected by Hayes Bros., St. Marys.

Divine service was conducted, at which each of the clergy present took part, Rev. Mr. Cummer, Thorold, reading the lesson. Rev. Mr. Thompson, West Nissouri, asked in a few words that God's approval might rest upon those who had set aside this memorial to the glory of God and the memory of his servants. Rev. Mr. Butt, Kintore, offered the dedicatory prayer, and then at the word of command four wounded soldiers who stood, one at each corner of the monument, assisted by the reeve of the township, removed the flag.

Rev. Dr. Macdonald, Kintore, himself a returned man, dedicated the memorial to the glory of God and in loving memory of those whose names appear on the memorial. One verse of the National Anthem was then played by the band. Rev. Mr. Baker, Thamesford, read the prayer and Rev. Mr. Galbraith, Thamesford, pronounced the benediction, when the Last Post was sounded and the religious ceremony concluded.

Rev. D. Macdonald then assured the Council that the trustees of the Presbyterian Cemetery and their successors in office after them would keep the lot and memorial in good repair for all time to come, and also stated that this was possible by a generous donation by the late John A. Calder, M. P. P., who assigned it for this purpose.

The names on the memorial are as follows: Earl Abbott, Arthur Allan, Andrew Brookfield, Edwin Greenwood, Ernest Harfield, Horace Huntley, James Karn, Byron Logan, John Madden, Harvey Mason, Frank Marchant, John Robinson, Edward Turner, Robert Reid, Morrison, Herbert McLellan, Wilbert Arthur Vinnicomb, Hugh Whetstone.

FLORENCE.

FLORENCE, Oct. 28.—The Florence Methodist Church held their reopening on Sunday, when Rev. Mr. Kerr, of Bothwell, preached morning and evening. The Dresden Male Quartet rendered music at both services. The church has been repapered and decorated and a new part built to it, with kitchen equipment. It also has been newly painted on the outside. On Monday night a concert was held.

Division court sittings were held here, but only one case was before Judge Taylor, Ferguson vs. Sinclair. The case was won by Mr. Ferguson.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Bilton passed away on Monday and was buried in St. Matthew's Cemetery on Tuesday. Rev. Mr. Sheeter conducted the service.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Daniels and May were tendered a pleasant farewell and presented with some handsome silverware prior to their leaving for their new home.

SUCCESSFUL EVENING IN KINGARF CHURCH

KINGARF, Oct. 28.—A most successful hot fowl supper and concert was held at the Anglican church. The stacks of well-cooked geese, ducks and chickens opened the city visitors' eyes. Cakes and other edibles, made as only farmers' wives can make them, were also in abundance. About 400 people sat down to the tables.

The concert after the supper was to have been held in the Orange Hall, but its seating capacity was insufficient, so it had to be held in the church. Artists came from Kincardine, besides talent from Glamis and Hamilton. Rev. F. L. Lewis acted as chairman and owing to the length of the program no speeches or encores were allowed, and after one verse of "All Hail" the program began with a duet by Messrs. Pilkington and Kempson, of Kincardine.

The Misses Jones, of Kincardine, gave duets with guitar accompaniment, which drew encores in spite of regulations. Miss Collins, of Hamilton, sang two very pretty songs with cello obligato. Miss Dean, of Glamis, sang a solo, accompanied by Miss Myrtle Chadbourne. Miss Lovelace, of Kincardine, a talented mandolinist, played sweetly. Miss McArthur sang a contralto song. An instrumental trio by Rev. F. Lewin, Mrs. Lewin and daughter, and impromtu orchestral pieces by two guitars, mandolin, violin, cello, tenor voice, with organ accompaniment proved very popular. Mr. W. Shevlin, of Kincardine, was enthusiastically received in his humorous songs, and as an encore to one of which he gave a pathetic recitation on patriotic lines. Mr. Fred Gibson, elocutionist of the evening, took well.

The evening closed with the singing of The National Anthem.

Mrs. M. E. Robson, 170 Dublin St., Peterboro', Ont., writes: "My daughter of 15 lost appetite, color and was on the verge of nervous collapse. Five boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food completely restored her health and strength."

Mrs. Wm. Woods, Coldwater, Ont., writes: "After the birth of my baby I was run down, nervous and could not eat nor sleep, jumping at the least noise. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food built me up and made me strong and well again."

Mrs. H. Alchorn, 23 Gerald St., Charlottetown, P.E.I., writes: "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was recommended to me by an aunt who used it while passing through the change of life and was completely built up by its use."

Mrs. Jos. Lalonde, Hydro Glen, Ont., writes: "I was so run down and nervous last summer that I was in bed most of the time. After using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I am able to do my housework, and, though 76 years old, feel better than I have for years."

Let the Women Tell Their Story

"From my experience as a wife and mother I find that the majority of users of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are women, especially women passing through the change of life; next by young mothers to regain strength after baby comes, and also by mothers for their young daughters entering their womanhood. While it is good for all classes of humanity, I am sure it is especially so for women, as they seem to be troubled most by nervous diseases."—Mrs. H. Alchorn, 23 Gerald Street, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Every woman is interested in another woman's letters, and we shall give the women a chance to present their experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food by quoting from their letters.

If you do not find anyone you know among these ladies, write us for references from people in your community, or ask your friends and neighbors for particulars about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There is scarcely a town, village or hamlet in this great country but can produce splendid evidence as to the restorative, upbuilding influence of this well-known treatment for the blood and nerves.

Mrs. Jennie Haywood, 98 Turner St., Ottawa, Ont.: After 16 weeks in a hospital with rheumatic fever I returned home a complete nervous wreck. I took six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and have had no return of nervous trouble or rheumatism."

Mrs. W. H. McIntyre, Gananoque, Ont.: "About five years ago I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when in a state of absolute collapse, and continued its use until I had taken fourteen boxes. I cannot praise it enough, for it worked a miracle in my case."

Mrs. May W. Taylor, 1309 Davie Street, Vancouver, B.C.: "Ten of my circle told me that they take Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for that 'all-in' feeling attendant on the care of children and performance of housework. I myself take it for nervous irritability, and absolutely depend on it. I give my children the Nerve Food during 'examination week,' and am sure it helps them."

Mrs. Annie Bellamy, 33 Pauline Avenue, Toronto, Ont.: "Since the 'flu" epidemic people are resorting to preventive measures more than ever, and find that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food gives protection against the 'flu' and all other germ diseases."

Mrs. W. H. Stoker, 68 Robert Street, Hamilton, Ont.: "A young mother told me she was so glad I advised her to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food after her baby was born. She had tried many things, but after no success with them I told her just how much benefit I had gained with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so she also used it with the same wonderful results."

Mrs. R. I. Scott, Teacher, Czar, Alta.: "After teaching school for two years my nerves were in a shattered condition, and I had almost incessant headaches. The doctor told me I would have to quit, but a teacher friend told me how she was restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food under similar conditions. My nerves were completely restored, so that I thoroughly enjoy life."

Mrs. John O'Donnell, 50 Colonial Street, St. John, Nfld.: "While some used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for run-down condition, ragged nerves and sleeplessness, there was one ailment which predominated—nervous headache. In combating nervous headache Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has no rival."

A. R. G. Smith Addresses Western O.A.C. Alumni

MEMBERS ATTEND DINNER

Extension of Agricultural Education Is Discussed

An outline of the work to be undertaken at the meetings of the Western Ontario O. A. C. alumni during the next six months was decided upon at the first of the gatherings, held last night in the Royal Cafe following a dinner. Educational extension, both agricultural and culture, will engage the attention of the ex-students of the Guelph College.

The meetings during this season will be held in various sections of Western Ontario, so that the members of each district may have one of the gatherings within reasonable distance of his home. The following monthly meetings were decided upon: Stratford in November, Chatham in January (during the corn show), London in February (annual meeting), Tillsonburg in March, and Clinton in April. It was also decided to hold a summer meeting at the Harrow experimental station at the same time as the field day is held there for tobacco growers.

EDUCATIONAL WORK.

There was much discussion regarding the matter of educational extension. A number of the members expressed the view that the rural communities should be given an opportunity to obtain for themselves a measure of cultural education as well as extension work in agricultural pursuits. It was also suggested that something might be done to provide those who had taken short courses of various kinds an opportunity to exploit new fields which had been opened up, with books bearing on the subjects or reading courses.

On motion of J. H. Wheaton and J. Johnston, it was finally decided to accept the recommendation of the executive to deal with the matter of education at the season meetings.

A. R. G. Smith, of New Hamburg, gave the gathering an interesting talk on "Community Leadership." He pointed out, in his opening remarks, how important it was from a national standpoint to have good leadership. The ideal should be the highest development of Canadian citizenship for leadership.

The speaker declared that he was always interested in finding communities where the people knew something in addition to the price of cattle and corn. He was delighted when he found a community where they were interested in English literature, art or science, which went to make up that better class of citizenship. He attributed this interest in the higher things of life to good leadership.

In closing his address Mr. Smith urged upon his audience to do their best to lead the community in which they lived with loyalty and for the better development of this great country.

Those present at the meeting were J. H. Porter, R. W. Kernohan, Fred J. Stock, R. R. Bell, Frank Silcox, Stewart Brown, J. T. Johnston, P. D. Chey, C. W. Buchanan, G. Kingsmill, J. Webb, W. J. Brown, H. S. Fry, A. R. G. Smith, A. E. Bean, J. H. Wheaton, R. A. Finn, Purdom Love and L. Foote.

HIGHWAYMEN GET $125 FROM BROCKVILLE MAN

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 28. — A. W. Burtch, insurance agent, was held up late last night at the point of a revolver by three men while motoring on the Prince of Wales highway between Spencerville and Prescott and robbed of $125 cash. The men blocked the road with their car at the Grand Trunk Railway crossing and thereby forced Burtch to stop. They then surrounded the car and forced him to deliver. The men made off towards Prescott. Provincial police are working on the case. The men wore military raincoats and had their faces covered with balaclava caps.

EVELYN NESBIT HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—(Associated Press Dispatch.)—Evelyn Nesbit, one-time wife of Harry K. Thaw, and later a movie actress, took an overdose of morphine to-day and screamed to a marshal, posted outside her apartment, to evict her, that she had swallowed enough poison to kill 20 persons. She will recover, however, a physician said after making a hurry call and using the stomach pump.

Recently her theater district tearoom was closed and she has been facing eviction proceedings.

Evelyn was resting comfortably tonight. Her financial distress, which caused all the excitement to-day, came to light a month ago when a city marshal appeared at her tearoom with an eviction warant. Miss Nesbit arranged to pay overdue rent on the $100-a-month tearoom and her $150 a month upstairs. The marshal went away.

To-day another came on a similar mission and began taking furniture out in the street while Miss Nesbit sobbed, wringing her hands and frantically called her lawyer on the telephone. The lawyer obtained a truce of a few hours with the landlord and Miss Nesbit began calling friends in the hope of raising some cash. In this she failed. A few minutes afterwards she leaned out of the window and screamed at the marshal that she had taken the morphine and was going to die. An ambulance surgeon came running and used a stomach pump.

The landlord, on hearing about the episode, announced he would wait until noon next Monday before pressing for eviction.

OPPONENTS CAN FIND NO REAL FAULTS IN GOVERNMENT'S RECORD

Messrs. Crerar and King Forced to Raise False Issues in the Campaign, Premier Meighen Tells Great Audience of Five Thousand People at Toronto

MAGNIFICENT WELCOME TO PRIME MINISTER

Mr. Meighen Contrasts Government's Definite Policy to the Wobbly Attitude of Hon Mackenzie King; Opponents United in Nothing But Desire for Office

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—"I am not here begging on my own behalf or on behalf of any member of my Government. I am here to lay before you the great issues at stake, which you must decide."

With these words Premier Meighen prefaced a speech delivered to nearly 5,000 persons gathered in Massey Hall this evening—a speech in which he explained the lines of policy which had actuated the Government in the past, reaffirmed his belief in a fiscal program of moderate protection for Canada and declared his intention of following the course which the Government had pursued in tariff matters if returned to power.

The premier's speech was not an apology or a defense. He did not assume that the Government had come through the years of war and the period of reconstruction following it without some mistakes, but he insisted that the mistakes had been small, that the great decisions of the Government had been wise and that the country, after passing through one of the most shattering upheavals which the world had experienced, was strong and healthy.

OPPONENTS IN BAD PLIGHT.

The foes of the Government, he insisted, were forced to create false issues in order to do battle with the Government. Therefore, he averred, Mr. King was "trying to impress the people with the terrific shock he suffered when he found that we were receiving shells, to which we were entitled, from England," and "Mr. Crerar, after much mental perspiration, throwing up his hands and declaring that 'something must be done.'"

Mr. Meighen contrasted the position of the Government and those opposed to the Government.

"We have come forward with a definite, consistent stand on every big issue before the electors," he said. "We are opposed by an aggregation, which is united on nothing between heaven and earth, save gaining power."

In addition to that of Premier Meighen speeches were delivered by Hon. Edmund Bristol, minister without portfolio in the Meighen Government; Dr. J. W. Edwards, minister of health, immigration and colonization, and Miss Adelaide M. Clayton, of Listowel.

Sir Edward Kemp introduced the prime minister in a short speech.

OVERFLOW MEETING.

The hall, which is one of the largest in the country, was quite inadequate to hold the crowd which sought admittance, and the premier addressed a large overflow meeting from the balcony of the building before speaking to those inside. The street was specially lighted in order that he might see and be seen. Col. J. A. Currie and Dr. Sheard also addressed the overflow meeting.

Returned men, who had lost limbs in the war, were given special tickets, a section of the hall having been reserved for their accommodation.

Long before the meeting was scheduled to begin, and even before the doors of Massey Hall was thrown open, hundreds of persons lined the streets in the vicinity. When the doors were opened, it took but a few minutes to fill all the available seating space, with the exception of the stage, which was reserved for the favored ones with badges. This also filled rapidly.

ON THE PLATFORM.

Among those on the platform were Miss Constance Bolton, president of the Ladies' Liberal - Conservative Association, of Centre Toronto; Sir Edward Kemp, Hon. Edmund Bristol, K.C., minister without portfolio in the present Government; Dr. Sheard, candidate in South Toronto and former member; H. C. Hocken, candidate in West Toronto, who formerly represented that constituency; Mayor Church, who is contesting the North Toronto riding; J. H. Harris, candidate in East Toronto; W. F. MacLean, of South York, and D. Spence, who has been chosen to carry the Conservative colors in Parkdale.

Davis Spence, nominee in Parkdale, was chairman of the meeting, and Mayor Church spoke first, welcoming the premier to Toronto. He referred to Mr. Meighen's attendance at the University of Toronto, and spoke strongly in favor of a protective tariff. "Toronto is a city that has been made by a protective tariff," he said.

Hon. Edmund Bristol said the election was a great and momentous one, in which every man, woman and child was interested. He presented a number of arguments in support of a protective policy. In Toronto alone there were 155 branches of American firms, which would not be here if the tariff wall had not been in existence. Free trade would wipe out the home market of the Canadian farmer.

Hon. Dr. J. W. Edwards, minister of health, immigration and colonization, said that Premier Meighen was putting up the greatest battle for the future of the country that had ever been waged by a political leader since Confederation. "I am proud of him," said Dr. Edwards, "because he preaches the same doctrine from the Atlantic to the Pacific."

"No pussy footing side - stepping by our premier, we leave that to those of the opposing parties," continued Dr. Edwards.

"Would you like the Government to open the doors and allow all the foreigners from Europe to come in who wish to settle here?" asked Dr. Edwards. This brought a chorus of "noes" from the audience.

"Telegrams and letters pour in on me night and day asking that certain people from Europe be allowed to enter Canada. I have no doubt if we permitted them all to come the boats would be crowded all winter with immigrants. There are perhaps two or three millions of people in Europe wanting to get away from their own countries."

The speaker said that the Government would be condemned if these people were allowed to enter Canada freely, and just as the workers should be protected from the competition of a crowd of foreigners coming in, so the industries which give the workers employment should be protected from the goods of foreign industries.

Dr. Edwards took up the grain inquiry.

"Who stopped it?" someone shouted.

"Crerar and those associated with him stopped it," said Dr. Edwards. He argued that if Mr. Crerar and those associated with him had nothing to fear from a probe of the grain trade in the West he was surprised that they should have made such efforts to stop it.

The prime minister, in opening, emphasized that he was appealing to the people, not on personal grounds, but on the big issues that now confront the electors of Canada.

"I am not here begging on my own behalf or on behalf of any member of my Government. I am here to lay before you the great issue at stake, and let you decide whether you wish us to continue along the lines we believe to be in the best interests of Canada. If you prefer some other course, then you will have the opportunity to select someone else."

Premier Meighen declared that the Government in its big decisions had been right.

"Would you hear the leader of a political party trying to impress the people with the terrific shock he suffered when he found that, instead of manufacturing new shells for our active militia, we were receiving shells to which we were entitled, from England if there were any big mistakes to discuss?" asked the premier.

He turned to the railroad situation, which, he said, had been the subject of criticism by Mr Crerar.

"Mr. Crerar, after much mental perspiration, throws his hands in the air and declares something must be done," said the prime minister. The Government railways were being managed efficiently, and in time they would repay those who were now working earnestly for them. If Mr. Crerar or Mr. King had any practical suggestions to make they should offer them, instead of carping criticism.

The prime minister referred to the attack made on the Government for building the merchant marine. Every step in connection with the merchant marine had been laid before Parliament, and some now said it was built by orders-in-council. "It's hard to talk to men like that," Mr. Meighen said. He maintained that on every occasion when votes were asked for construction of ships the Opposition heartily supported the Government's policy, and now "they turn like the reversible falls at St. Johns and say we should have stopped building ships as soon as the armistice was signed.

"The merchant marine is an asset to this Dominion," he asserted. "It is an asset that is going to pay its way. I don't think one Canadian will ever have reason to regret that one ship has been built."

The premier continued that a proof the Government had made no big or vital mistakes is the campaign his opponents are waging against it. There would be no need for talking such petty topics as the landing of munitions or big interests if the Government had done anything very wrong.

"You will hear of big interests as long as you live. When the Opposition has nothing else to offer than picturing the advantages of the rich as against those of the poor, without being able to point to a single instance where I have acted in the interests of big corporations and against the welfare of the working man, you can make up your minds that they have a pretty poor case."

"The employing community in Canada are not sure to-night what our tariff policy is to be," declared the premier. "I don't know myself, but I do know what it will be if I am returned to power."

He went on to say that the country must decide the fiscal issue in order to re-establish stability in Canada.

"We don't know what Mr. King will do about the tariff," said the premier. "Nobody knows; he doesn't know himself; but we do know what Mr. Crerar and his party propose to do. I will read to you the platform to which Mr. King is pledged, for then you will have the platform that Mr. Crerar proposes to carry out."

"That convention was opened with prayer and closed with a solemn pledge to implement this platform," said the premier. "Could solemnity go farther?"

The premier gave a list of the articles on which Mr. King would remove the tariff, and asked why leave the tariff on at all after taking it off the most vital essential industries.

Mr. King denied that he is a wobbler, the premier said, and read a report of a Liberal meeting, in which Mr. King challenged Mr. Meighen to prove that he was a wobbler. He then quoted Mr. King as saying that the Senate of Canada would prevent the agrarian party from instituting free trade if it came into power. He asked the audience to imagine a Liberal leader appealing to the Senate to protect the country against the free trade wishes of the agrarians, aside altogether from the fact that the Senate has no power to amend a money bill. But Mr. King, when out in the provinces, praised the agrarians' tariff policy, and said it was practically the same as the Liberal party, which was quite true.

Down in Quebec, said the premier, the Liberals were assuring voters that no legitimate industries would be hurt by their tariff policy. Were the great, vital industries of Canada then illegitimate industries? he asked. The Liberal platform provided for removing protection from these industries.

Claiming that his opponents adopted different platforms according to the wishes of each constituency, the prime minister said that every night in the counties of Quebec the Liberal speakers were appealing to the people, not on the big issues of the day at all, but for revenge on the rest of Canada and revenge particularly on Meighen. In British Columbia the Liberals wanted protection on everything that province produced and free trade on everything else. In Brantford his opponent wanted higher duties on farm implements.

"On the other hand," said the premier, "we come forward with a definite, consistent stand on every big issue before the electors. Our every word and every act and every pledge has been definite and consistent. We represent the party which through the long, lean and troubled years of the nation served Canada with a steadfast courage and fidelity. We so conducted the affairs of this Dominion as to have won and held the support of the ablest and strongest of our former opponents. We are united on policy from one end of Canada to the other."

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL NOW IN EUROPE

William Ward, World Brotherhood Head, Tells of Situation

CITES CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

Ross R. Smith Re-Elected President of Local Federation

The popular notion that Europe is today in a state of chaos and war and that her peoples have for the most part substituted paganism for Christianity was dispelled by Wm. Ward, president of the World Brotherhood Federation, in a stirring and optimistic address before 400 members of the local brotherhoods at their annual banquet in the Masonic Temple last night. Czecho-Slovakia, one of the newer states formed since the war, was clamoring for the brotherhood movement, said the speaker. Russia was emerging from her terrible revolution with the same appeal uppermost, while Germany, who had opposed the movement before the war, now has scores of strongholds of the World Brotherhood Federation.

The rally last night was one of the largest and most spirited men's gathering ever held in the city. Twenty-six churches and four municipailties were represented in the delegates present and many of the individual organizations made their presence known by songs and yells. A feature of the meeting was the delegation from Bethemanuel Colored Methodst Church and the Chinese Christian Association.

SARNIA REPRESENTED

Sarnia was represented at the meeting with 14 stalwart members of their local federation under the leadership of the Rev. Mr. Millyard, a former Methodist pastor of this city. Three other cities expressed regret that they were unable to send members, but extended greetings to their brothers. In the roll call it was noticeable the healthy spirit of rivalry among the different organizations of the city. Ridout Street and Askin Street churches each had almost a complete turnout and vied with each other numerically. Maitland Street held the record for the Baptists; Chalmers led the Presbyterian churches while Bethemanuel Methodist and the colored Baptist churches had record representations.

So great has the movement become in London and Western Ontario that it was suggested that a permanent field secretary be appointed to extend the work in the 14 counties. A plea was made to the members to contribute to the London Men's Federation so as to enable this official to be appointed and paid for his full-time work.

Ross R. Smith was re-elected president of the local federation for the coming year, and in a brief speech thanked the members for the honor and promised them that within a year's time there will not be a church in London but what has a live brotherhood and that the banquet a year from now will have double the attendance. Other officers elected for the ensuing year are: Vice-presidents, A. E. Barbour, Thomas Spettigue and J. Childs; secretary, T. H. Yull; corresponding secretary, Rev. J. N. Norton. H. Watson, convener of the nominating committee, made the report, which was adopted by a rising vote.

"The world is waiting and begging for us," said Mr. Ward in concluding his address. "Nations in Europe that have appealed to us are Holland, Denmark, Lithunia, Esthonia, Finland, Norway, Sweden, Bulgaria, Ukrainia, Russia, Germany and Czecho-Slovakia. In the East we have China, Japan, Burma and India all waiting for the spread of the movement to their nations. We can't respond to this call unless we have funds, and I earnestly request all to join the World Brotherhood and help extend our cause.

COMING IN.

"Christianity isn't going out; it is coming in," said the speaker. "Five years before the war broke out we tried to establish the brotherhood movement in Germany, but were prevented. In 1913 we attempted again, but were prohibited once more. To-day, however, they are like all the other states in Europe; they want the brotherhood and the movement has obtained a firm footing in the country."

In his remarks Mr. Ward dealt specifically with Czecho-Slovakia and held up the activities there as an example of the similar work being conducted in other states. The World's Brotherhood congress, just after the war, was held in Prague, the capital of this new country, and it was found at that time that the country was hungering for the word of the Bible. The Bible Society had not the funds to distribute the Scriptures, so that the Brotherhood Federation took over this responsibility. The people of the country did not want merely the New Testament, but the whole of the Word, and, furthermore, were willing to pay for it.

"The religious awakening that has occurred in Czecho-Slovakia surpasses anything I have ever been privileged to witness in Britain, and I have seen every religious revival there in the past 50 years," said Mr. Ward. "During the current year there have been more than 2,000 members added to a single church. When I preached in a church there I found that I was addressing the third congregation in the same morning. Overflow meetings are so common as not to be remarkable."

IN ENGLAND.

England, the speaker pointed out, was just now emerging from the greatest industrial conflict ever known there. The dispute between the colliers and their employers had tied up fuel, stopped industries and struck at the vitals of the nation. Yet just when it was at its worst the Brotherhood Federation answered an appeal of the colliers and were able to conduct a revival among the miners, which had much to do with the settlement of the feud.

Mr. Bowen, representing the Ontario Bible Society, gave statistics, showing the need of funds for the continuance of the spreading of the Gospel to the 27 countries and in the 538 languages. He asked for 1,000 subscriptions of $10 each to meet the great need of the society which he represented.

Contributions to the program for the evening were made by the Sunset Quartet, Mr. McCulloch and many quartets of the different churches who sent delegates. One of the sweetest of the latter was the rendition of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" by the Bethemanuel Colored Church quartet.

Rev. J. T. C. Morris introduced the speaker of the evening and classed him with Marion Lawrence as one of the greatest world leaders for Christianity.

ST. ANDREWS BEATS RIDLEY.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 28.—St. Andrew's College defeated Rilley in a "Little Big Four" rugby game this afternoon by 15 to 6. The locals were outplayed by 12 to 0 in the first period, but after that Ridley outscored the Presbyterians by 6 to 3.

VICTOR CUP TRAVELS.

MITCHELL, Oct. 28.—A rink of bowlers lifted the Victory trophy at Stratford on Wednesday, and yesterday a Classic City quartet came back and returned with the silverware.

DRURY TURNS FIRST SOD IN PLANNED T. & N. O. EXTENSION

In Luncheon After Cochrane Cer emony He Characterizes Talk of Secession in North Ontario as "Utter Nonsense"

COCHRANE, Ont., Oct. 28. — In the presence of a gathering of 3,000 persons, drawn from every point in Northern Ontario, Premier E. C. Drury at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon turned the first sod in the projected extension of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railroad from Cochrane, 70 miles toward Oil Can Portage. A special train of 13 cars came from North Bay and another train of five cars brought people from the Iroquois Falls district.

At a luncheon by the Cochrane Board of Trade, Premier Drury emphasized the Government's belief in the future of the North country, and stated that other large undertakings had prevented previous action on the extension by the Government. He wished he was as sure of the success of the Hydro-Electric development as he was of the James Bay extension of the T. & N. O.

The premier referred to the talk of secession as "utter nonsense." The Government's aim, he pointed out, was to place the T. & N. O. on a self-supporting basis.

Urges Kiwanians To Practice Club's Ideals At All Times

District Governor Hay Addresses Members of the Ingersoll Branch

INGERSOLL, Oct. 28.—(Special to The Free Press).—One of the most inspiring Kiwanis meetings yet held in Ingersoll was that addressed to-day by J. B. Hay, of London, the new governor of the Ontario-Quebec district, and Hugh Murray, district secretary. Mr. Hay urged every Kiwanian to be a real one all the time, not only at the luncheons or at the club's objective work, but in the office, factory and home.

Mr. Murray said that there was no work that could make life so bright for a man as helping those children of circumstance who could not help themselves. There was nothing that would send a man home to his family as happy as having some boy to share an equal chance with other boys in more favorable circumstances. Kiwanis in London was doing everything possible to help boys to become 100 per cent. citizens when they reached the estate of manhood.

Father Feurth, the new pastor of the Sacred Heart Church here, to-day made application for membership, and is now a member, having great interest boys' work.

The local club has definite plans in view to take up the problem in the near future.

BELIEVE PAIR IMPLICATED IN ONTARIO BANK ROBBERIES

Police of This Province Express This View After Studying Description of Slade and O'Hara, Held by Montreal Police

MONTREAL, Oct. 28. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.)—A search of the baggage of Albert Slade, arrested here on a charge of attempting to hold up a bank and believed to be Norman Ryan, alias "Texas" Bell, wanted for bank robbery in Hamilton, Ont., revealed a large number of bank notes of foreign countries. Among them were those of Portugal, Australia, West Africa and other countries. Receipts for coal delivered to an address on Sherbrooke street, Winnipeg, were also disclosed.

Chief of Detectives Lepage said today that he had received word from a number of Ontario towns where robberies had been committed during the past few months, that the officials of these towns and cities, from the description furnished by the Montreal police, were of the opinion that Ryan and his alleged confederate, O'Hara, now held, were also suspected of having been implicated in these other crimes.

Five Churches May Build Joint Recreational Center

SUPPLEMENT Y. M. C. A.

London South Churches May Enter New Field

Reports presented to a special committee of Askin Street Methodist Church charged with investigating the need of greater accommodation for religious education in that church showed that one young men's class had grown so large, together with crowding in other Sunday school departments, that no more members might be accepted. Representatives of the young men's Bible class stated they could double their present membership of 50 within a week if accommodation were provided.

Reports submitted showed that in 10 classes of teen-age boys and girls over 400 were enrolled, and that the securing of 10 additional classrooms at once was imperatively needed. These reports will come before the Askin street quarterly board meeting for discussion early in November. It is believed that plans will be laid for considerable addition to the church building, which will not include additional classroom, but will provide a well-equipped gymnasium and other recreational rooms.

Some of the young people's classes have signified their desire to help in financing the building plans, the Epworth League stating that they have $400 already subscribed. This action on the part of the young people is expected to give a lead to the senior members.

ASKIN STREET REPORT.

The recreational needs of young people in churches and the churches' responsibility in the matter was dwelt on with peculiar emphasis at the meeting. It is believed that a plan is forming in South London whereby the larger churches there may unite in erecting a union C. S. E. T. building, the first of its kind in Canada.

While the C. S. E. T. work is a part of the Y. M. C. A. activities, having been initiated by that organization, it is believed that its growth in London evangelical churches will soon emphasize the need of church union at least for young people's recreational work.

It is pointed out that the central Y. M. C. A. cannot begin to care for all the city C. S. E. T. groups, and that churches will have to take the initiative in providing district institutions if this special work is to be extended as its growth seems to demand, it is said.

The five South London churches that may join together for a union recreational building are Askin Street Methodist, Knox Presbyterian, Ridout Street Methodist, St. James' Anglican and Wortley Road Baptist Church.

KHAKI TO REPLACE FRENCH HORIZON BLUE WHEN STOCKS DONE

PARIS, Oct. 28.—Horizon blue will be replaced by khaki as the color of the uniforms worn by French officers and soldiers under a decision reached by the superior war council yesterday. The uniforms of the French army will be in future similar in color to those of the Canadian army.

The order for the change in the uniforms of the French army will not immediately come into effect, but will be operative when the present stocks of horizon blue cloth are exhausted. These stocks, it is said at the war ministry, are sufficient to last for 10 years.

FAR-AWAY CUBA CALLS PARTY IN NEW SARUM

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 28. — An operator in the local Bell Telephone exchange got the surprise of her young life a day or so ago. A long distance call came from a "party" in New Sarum.

"Who is speaking?" she asked.

"Havana."

"Havana, Ontario."

"No. Havana, Cuba."

The operator couldn't put through the call, because it turned out that the person wanted lived in New Sarum, Nova Scotia, not New Sarum, Elgin County, Ontario.

Now Is Best Time To Do Your Christmas Buying

The injunction to "Do your Christmas shopping early" is based on the sound wisdom of the greatest sages of all times and for this, if no other reason, it ought to be followed out by the citizens of London.

What more familiar adage is there than "procrastination is the thief of time," or more terse phrase than "Do it now." No truer precept was ever uttered than that most common one, "Never put off until to-morrow what you can do to-day."

In business and in every form of human activity these sayings have been applied and in many cases are responsible for the success of ventures and the increased efficiency in industry. No one doubts their accuracy, but it is the person who adopts these principles in his life who forges ahead of his lagging friend who postpones everything until the eleventh hour.

To-day the stores of London are offering their choicest wares for sale and their staffs are ready and eager to help a customer in making his or her choice of presents. In a short time these same stores will be crowded with a frenzied crowd, pushing and shoving and making shopping about as welcome as a trip to turbulent Poland.

TRIP TO FLORIDA FOR BOY OR GIRL

London Has Chance In "Post Card Competition."

DEPENDS ON FRIENDS

For Cities Getting Most Cards Each Get One Trip.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 28.—tour of Florida, with all expenses borne by the General Civic Association's committee of Jacksonville, will be an added feature of the visit here, beginning on November 14, of three young women and three boy scouts from five cities as the result of Jacksonville's annual post card day, October 22. Arrangements have been completed to send these visitors through the state, particularly the orange growing section, after their visit to Jacksonville. The state tour probably will consume 10 days, with more than a dozen cities on the itinerary.

Forty-three cities in 12 states and Canada have been entered in the contest by local people in the "old home town" feature of the annual post card day, and more than 300,000 post cards, with "Florida sunshine messages," have been prepared for mailing. A close check is being made in all such cards prepared and the five cities to which the greatest number of cards are sent will each send one representative on this Florida "sunshine tour." The city to which the actual largest number of cards goes as the result of the local effort will send two representatives, who will be chosen by the correspondent club of the Jacksonville club leading in the local civic organization race in connection with post card d.

The following cities have been entered in the contest and will figure closely in the final count for honors: Wilmington, Del.; Peoria, Springfield, Rockford, Ill.; Terre Haute, Fort Wayne, Indianapolis, Ind.; Cedar Rapids, Des Moines, Davenport, Iowa; New Haven, Bridgeport, Conn.; Lexington, Ky.; Fall River, Lowell, Lynn, Springfield, Mass.; Augusta, Bangor, Me.; Battle Creek, Flint, Grand Rapids, Traverse City, Mich.; Duluth, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Minn.; Binghamton, Rochester, Syracuse, N. Y.; Akron, Ashtabula, Columbus, Dayton, Hamilton, Ohio; Altoona, Johnstown, Scranton, Williamsport, Penn.; Madison, Racine, Wis.; Charleston, W. Va.; Hamilton, London, Kingston, Ont., Canada.

WIDOW IS CLEARED OF SUSPICION OF MURDER

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Beatrice Schlemen, 26 years old and a widow, mentioned as the sweetheart of Harry Strom, the murdered taxicab driver, who, by writing a letter to Strom telling him to forget her as she was engaged to another, has become involved in the mystery, has been located. In a letter to Strom on Friday night, the night before he received his fatal injuries, she told him about a man she was engaged to and added: "He was jealous, and you know jealous people are liable to commit murder."

The letter was handed to the police and as the word "murder" was used it was taken as a valuable clue by the police. A thorough investigation of the matter, however, and the frank, voluntary manner of Mrs. Schleman have cleared her and also the man she mentioned in the letter, who lives in Hamton.

This chap was interviewed by the police yesterday and was able to give a satisfactory account of his movements.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16-oz. bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is 16 ounces of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made and saves easily $2. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont

CORONER ADVOCATES EDUCATING CHILDREN TO AVOID ACCIDENTS

MONTREAL, Oct. 28. — At a meeting of the Automobile Club of Canada, called here yesterday for the purpose of ascertaining the number of street accidents and fatalities and discussing means for their prevention, Deputy Coroner Prince submitted statistics showing that 55 fatal accidents had occurred this year to date, of which 23 of the victims were children under 10 years of age, the average being seven years. He advocates education of school children by posters placed in schoolrooms, safety first lectures aided by moving pictures and the compilation of a catechism of safety rules.

FINE WEATHER HELPS ROAD CONSTRUCTION

Provincial Highway Inspector Well Pleased With Progress Shown.

The fine weather this fall has enabled the department of highways to make good progress on the provincial roads, according to John Sears, Toronto, inspector of highways, who was in the city yesterday. The concrete work on the London-Lambeth highway is completed and it is expected that the entire work will be completed before the real cold weather sets in.

Little work is being done on the northern provincial road from Sarnia to Stratford and east, according to the inspector. Widening of the roadbed in some sections and some drainage work is the extent of the work being done on the northern route to Toronto. The same work is being carried on on the Proof Line road. At several places new culverts are being put in, the traffic being diverted to the roadside temporarily.

FIND DEATH OF UNKNOWN WAS DUE TO DROWNING

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 28—Preliminary examination to-day by the medical examiner of the body of the young man found in the Niagara River last night indicated that he had been thrown into the water soon after receiving a stab wound in the side and that the immediate cause of death was drowning.

The condition of the body indicated that it had been in the water about a week. A fob attached to a gold watch apparently offered the most promising clue to the identity of the murdered man. It bears the figures "22" in navy blue and maroon colors. Between the figures is a small seal inscribed "Wesleyan University, A. D. 1831." The watch was of Langendorf make and numbered 525408. All the clothing on the body was of good quality and had been bought recently at a Buffalo store.

Important Rugby Games Attract Canadian Fans This Afternoon

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

London Technical School Defeats Woodstock High

Locals Win Another Middlesex-Oxford Union Game, 12 to 6, by Staging a Strong Finish With the Visitors Leading by 5 to 1 for Most of the Game

Staging a strong finish, the London Technical rugby team defeated Woodstock Collegiate yesterday afternoon by 12 to 6, in an Oxford-Middlesex rugby union fixture at Tecumseh Park. The locals battled away with the score against them for the greater part of the first three quarters, as the visitors scored a try in the first few minutes of the game.

The Woodstock line held the locals well till Appleford broke away and ran within a few yards of the Woodstock line near the close of the third period. From this advantage George Loveless plunged through, redeeming himself for the fumble that gave Woodstock its only touchdown.

In the last period Loveless made a long run and on Casselman's punt, which Studder fumbled, Captain Birch fell on it for another five points. Casselman converted and McMullen's boot out of touch behind the goal line gave Woodstock its sixth point.

The tackling of Upthegrove for the Techs was the feature of the game. He displays good football instinct. He knows what the opposing team's move is and seems to be right on top of every play. He stopped the Woodstock ball-carriers, while McKeough, Appleford, Loveless and Casselman contributed largely towards the success of the Techs under the leadership of Quarter Back Birch.

Gibson, who scored Woodstock's only try, and Studder, were the pick of the visitors. The teams:

HAMILTON TIGERS TO FIND MONTREAL READY

MONTREAL, Oct. 28.—With a light workout to-day the M. A. A. A. squad will conclude its preparations for the Hamilton Tiger game, scheduled for the Westmount gridiron on Saturday afternoon. KENT POLICE PROBING PARTY AT LOUISVILLE

CHATHAM, Oct. 28.—The county police are at present investigating a wild party which went from this city to Louisville on Sunday in a gasoline launch. Informations have been laid against the men of the party, and they will appear in the county police court to answer a charge of having firearms in their possession, and shooting on Sunday contrary to the Lord's Day Act. It appears that the men went up to a beautiful little picnic ground near Louisville, known as "The Point," where they raised a hilarious row, shooting off guns at a time when people of the quiet, peaceful country neighborhood were on their way home from church. The row occurred on the property known as the Merritt Farm.

ASK FOR VOTE ON A MUNICIPAL DAIRY

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—With a view to reducing the price of milk the Brantford Trades and Labor Council has written the city, urging the necessity of having submitted to the electors at the municipal election a by-law, providing for the establishment of a dairy, owned and controlled by the municipality. Pending the submission to such proposed by-law the Trades and Labor Council asks that the mayor and Council exercise every effort to bring about a reduction.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

The two Ridgetown merchants, who were charged with operating punch boards in their places of business, appeared in the Ridgetown police court yesterday and were given suspended sentence after paying the costs of the court. The case was heard before Magistrate Hall and Crown Attorney H. D. Smith, of this city, prosecuted. The case arose out of the investigations of Provincial Officer Finley Low.

SUPPORTING N. L. C.

GODERICH, Oct. 28.—The N. L. C. Association met last night and completed organization. Mr. Spotton, the candidate, was present. Since the big meeting here on October 19, when Premier Meighen spoke, a wonderful change has taken place in the situation. This is more particularly noticed among the U. F. O. adherents, also the Labor element. Miss Boulton, of Toronto, will address a meeting here on Wednesday night.

MANHATTAN HOCKEY CLUB TO HOLD MEETING NEXT WEEK

Will Appoint Delegate to O.H.A. Annual Meeting at Toronto on December 3

The Manhattan Hockey Club will hold a meeting next week in their clubrooms, 424 Richmond street, when the delegates will be elected to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association, which will be held in Toronto in the early part of December.

That there are many youngsters in London eager to play junior hockey is evident by the large attendance of youngsters at the initial meeting of the hockey players, held a week ago.

The executive members of the Manhattan Hockey Club state that they are making every possible effort to provide London with a strong junior aggregation which will be capable of competing against the other junior sextets in this section of the province.

Coach Tommy Munro, of the Manhattan juniors has been active in hockey for many years, and many are looking to Munro to again place a team on ice representing London, which will be a credit to the city.

As soon as the rugby season is closed the pre-season training will be commenced. There are several athletes now participating in the pigskin game who are contemplating turning out with the Manhattan juniors.

Local Apprentices At Stratford Play Scoreless Soccer

Teams Are Tie in Grand Trunk Intercity Series, 2-2

STRATFORD, Oct. 28.—For the second time the London and local Grand Trunk apprentices battled here this afternoon on the soccer field, and, as in the game in London a few days ago, there was no scoring. In London the score was 2 to 2, so that the teams are still a tie. To-day the visitors had the edge of the game and only Smithers' work in goal saved the home boys from defeat. The teams were:

London—Goal, Goddard; backs, Brewer and Astels; halves, Askew, Newman and Payne; center, Anderson; left wings, Bearchill and Allday; right wings, Smith and Marling.

Referee—C. Clarke, Stratford.

On Friday the Breviers caught the Nonpareils off form, and grabbed all three. "Fat" Hateley was high for the winners, with 492, while "Shimmy" Hamly, of the losers, was high for the day with a collection of 502. Scores:

Deer Haunts Beckon and Hunters Willingly Respond

One week from to-day the big game hunters will nearly all begin their luck in Northern Ontario. The rush to get packed up begins to-day, as most of them plan to be on their way not later than next Thursday in order to place their foot upon the deer and moose haunts by November 5, the first day of the open season.

Many of the regulars among London and Western Ontario hunters have held meetings of their respective parties. Lists were prepared to provision the campers, each member of a party having to do with the securing of a certain portion of the requirements and all this week and most of next will have been utilized in preparations for that annual deer hunt. To the ordinary individual, who knows little about such preparedness, it must seem rather an arduous task, but the work, great as it may seem, is accomplished with such dispatch that those unaccustomed to the ways of the sportsman can attribute such success to nothing other than enthusiasm.

Enthusiasm as displayed by the huntsman is second only to the undying and hopeful spirit and persistence that goes to make a man a sportsman. Confidence also plays an important part in the make-up of the hunter and to find all these qualities attained by an individual means the discovery of a most proficient big game hunter.

WANTS NEW LAID EGGS.

Year after year the parties who leave civilization for the two weeks in the silent North gain from experience of past seasons just what is required. And in looking over the list of requirements of one of the parties, who propose to hunt their game along the Maganetewan, that the whims and desires of every one of the party will be cared for. Even to the individual appetites, one of the hunters insisting upon the transport of new laid eggs and fresh creamery butter is not overlooked. Another must have his pork chops. This particular party has placed a ban on pork and beans, though this brand of food is generally taken as an essential by many.

TAKE PLENTY BEDDING.

Last November the above party found that it had not provided enough woolen blankets and it proved a source of disturbance to the cook as he was compelled to keep his boots on while resting for fear some chilly member huddled up in the scantily bedded bunk would insist upon him keeping a roaring fire in the big box stove all night.

The comfort in the way of clothing is one of the chief things in making a trip successful.

Some of the hunters have become pastmasters in the art of dressing for a day's outing. The shoe packs and the woolen sock and the specially built and designed underwear and outer clothing are as important as the "pet rifle" and its deadly ammunition. No fear about the latter being overlooked.

Fresh fish for the table, caught every morning, necessitate that the cook be able to go to the bait pail and with the tackle, which one of the party had not forgotten, then proceed to the stream, where he finds it as easy to catch "whoppers" as he buys bread at home.

A lot of the "eats" are secured at Burke's Falls to lessen the luggage to that point.

TEDIOUS OVERLAND ROUTE.

The trip, once the party lands off the trip, in a wagon drawn by horses, is a rough one and the proper packing of the luggage then attracts the attention of all hands. As one can imagine what would happen to those "new laid eggs" in the event that an attempt had been made to "lay them down" at the lodge in any ordinary egg crate. The horses, trained for the difficult overland jaunt, can do amazing climbs upon the jagged rocks while the wagon bounces fore and aft, from side to side. The luggage sometimes topples off, while the party, knowing the uselessness of doing anything other than pile it back on again, goes about the work with anything but abandon.

This party does not use dogs to drum business for the rifle. They "still hunt" by waiting off the beaten trails. Which asked about deer hunting last week, one of the prospects said: "This is no deer hunting party, I want to tell you. We're going moose hunting." This same fellow was unfortunate in not getting his allotment last season until the second last day and his faith in the guide has since been shaken as his deer, to this day, failed to reach London.

Getting the game back to the railroad is only one of a number of tasks that bob up in the life of a big game hunter. However, the game gets back to towns and cities as is evidenced by the carcasses handled by the express companies. The transport of the venison begins shortly after the killing begins. And in some cases the venison has reached its distination long before the hunter has returned, with enough stories stories to tell his friends until one year from now.

M.-O. DIRECTORS MEET AT HAMILTON NOV. 5

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Michigan-Ontario Baseball League has been called by President G. H. Maines, to be held at the Royal Connaught Hotel, Hamilton, on November 5 and 6. This meeting will be attended by M.-O. League directors only, President Maines and Secretary Wilson, and will award the M.-O. championship to London, wind up the official 1921 business and prepare a detailed report to be presented to the league at its annual meeting.

The board meeting is ordinarily held on or before November 1, but in deference to the wishes of President Heard, of the London club, the meeting has been set for the above dates.

Medals And Cup To Public U. Team

President Mat Morgan Makes Presentation of Tokens to Fifteen Players

President Pat Morgan, of the City Soccer League, presented the King Edward cup and the medals to the individual players of the Public Utilities champions last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Manager Tom Hodkinson responded to the president's address, and several others made brief speeches.

The Grand Trunk A. A. A., holders of the cup since winning it last season, overlooked the communication from Secretary Sim and the league had to go after the silverware before the presentation could be made last night.

The following players were presented with medals: J. Smith, A. Ince, C. Dennis, A. Hunt, J. Short, A. Whitworth, D. Smith, Hazelwood Ridley, J. Moore, Leigh, Clark, Johnson, Barrett and Herring.

SPORT COMMENT.

When Mr. Meighen was in Orillia recently he gave the ex-champion the surprise of his life. Jake Gaudaur was the fastest man who ever sat in a boat. He holds the present world's record for three miles with a turn, 19.01, and has made the three fastest marks. Jake is a big man, built like a Greek statue. Everybody who is anybody who visits Orillia sees Jake before they leave. So when Mr. Meighen was there to open an hospital or something, Bob Curran and a couple of others ran him over to Jake's place at the Narrows. In the ex-champion's old boathouse are yet preserved the immense sculls that he used on the Thames River when he defeated Stanbury, of Australia, for the world's rowing crown. Every Orillian holds these in reverent regard.

Of course, the boathouse was visited, and, of course, the historic oars were exhibited. Somebody asked Jake to "palm" one of them. This is a trick the old oarsmen have, and few there be who have the strength of wrist to accomplish it. It consists in taking hold of the oar by the handle and extending it straight out from the shoulder in line with the arm. Jake obligingly performed, and Bob (who, with Jack Gray, brother of George, the world's champion shotputter, as a double sculls partner) won the championship of America twice—he also held out the oar.

The boys smilingly suggested that Mr. Meighen try it.

Mr. Meighen took the oar, and, to the amazement of the two ex-champions, accomplished the feat. Nobody could guess that in a frame so slight there could exist such sinews of steel. Now everybody who visits Orillia hears of how Jake and Bob got an eye-opener. Jake thinks there isn't one man in a thousand not an oarsman or athlete who can "palm" one of his sculls.

SUPERWOMAN GOLFER BOWS TO SUPERMAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—A superwoman of the links forced a superman golfer to unwonted heights to surpass her today at the Pelham County Club. James Barnes, national open champion, defeated Miss Cecil Leitch, woman champion of Great Britain, France and Canada, by 3 to 1 in an exhibition game, in which he granted her six bisques. To overcome this handicap he played such remarkable golf that he made the 6,419-yard course in 68, six strokes under par and four under the previous course record, set by himself. Miss Leitch had a medal of 82, the best a woman has ever done on the course, three strokes under the card that won the qualifying medal in the recent woman's national championship.

Miss Leitch played with Barnes in the afternoon after defeating Miss Alexa Stirling, former national champion, by two up. The Englishwoman's card in the morning was six strokes higher than her record in the afternoon.

Kitchener Business Men Behind Senior Hockey This Winter

Proposal to Have Two Intermediate O.H.A. Teams Finds Little Favor

KITCHENER, Oct. 28.—Kitchener will have a senior hockey team as usual in the O. H. A. this season, as consistently maintained throughout the past few weeks when rumors have been in circulation that there might be no senior team, but rather two intermediates.

The question was not so much whether or not there was material enough for a team, for there certainly is, but rather who would get behind the club and see that it was managed in a satisfactory manner and relieve the players of all work and anxiety except that in connection with the actual playing of the game.

Last evening some prominent business men had a meeting to discuss the question with representatives of the senior club and as a result of that session the club's interests will be looked after by these business men, the personnel of which will not, for the present, be announced, until other matters under discussion are settled.

BUD THOMAS MAY BE OFF OTTAWA LINE

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—Ottawas finished their hard work for the Argonaut game last night. The final workout developed somewhat of a mild sensation when it was reported that Bud Thomas, star tackler of the red, white and blue, had turned in his gear and remarked that he would not play on Saturday. The affair is stated to have resulted from some trivial misunderstanding around the dressing-room, and it is hoped that Bud will be on the job for Satorday's game.

All of the back division are wearing chamois shields on their sweaters. It is a great aid in catching.

CHESLEY AND EMPRESS WIN.

Chesley avenue and Empress avenue public school football teams registered 1-to-0 victories over Aberdeen and St. George's schools respectively yesterday in the final series for the championship.

JIM BARNES BREAKS COURSE RECORD WITH 68 AGAINST CECIL

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Jim Barnes, national open golf champion, defeated Miss Cecil Leitch, of Great Britain, by 3 and 1 this afternoon after granting her six bisques. In so doing Barnes set a new course record of 68 at the Pelham Country Club links.

CECIL LEITCH WINS MATCH.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Miss Cecil Leitch, women's golf champion of Great Britain, France and Canada, defeated Miss Alexa Stirling, former United States champion, by two up, before a large gallery at the Pelham Country Club to-day.

MODERN BARN, CROPS DESTROYED BY FIRE

Parkhill Masons Hold Big Function; Congratulated By Grand Chapter Officers.

PARKHILL, Oct. 28.—A large modern barn belonging to Mrs. Si Herrington, near Arkona, and all the season's unthreshed crop was destroyed by fire about midnight on Wednesday. A threshing machine belonging to Mr. Stephenson, of Arkona, which was placed in the barn about 4 o'clock the previous afternoon was also destroyed, and Mr. Stephenson had great difficulty in rescuing his horses from the stable. Only two neighbors knew anything about the fire until the next day. This is the second fire which has caused Mrs. Herrington great financial loss. About three years ago a large shed containing buggies and implements was burned on this same farm.

A quiet wedding was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Waun, of the 10th concession of West Williams, when their daughter, Mary E., was united in marriage to Wilbur E., son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Marsh, by Rev. Mr. Bingham, of Parkhill.

The Middlesex Educational Society will hold conventions in Ailsa Craig and Parkhill next week on Tuesday, November 1. Such subjects as "The Essentials of an Education" and "What It Means to Be a School Trustee" will be discussed. The public is asked to take part in a discussion on each subject.

A regular convocation of Minnie Wawa Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, No. 57, G. R. C., was held in the Masonic Hall on Friday evening. The chapter opened at 5 p. m., when the most excellent degree was conferred by the officers. At 6.30 a banquet was served at Robinson's Cafe. Among the guests were R. ex-Comp. T. L. Cochrane, D. G. G. S., of Masonic district No. 2; Henry T. Smith, grand scribe E., of the Grand chapter of Canada; P. ex-Comp. John S. Barnard, the immediate past district superintendent; R. ex-Comp. Irwin Smith, a member of the grand chapter executive, and representatives from the chapters of St. Thomas, Strathroy and Sarnia.

The officers and companions of Minnie Wawa Chapter were congratulated on all the grand chapter officers for the wonderful progress which has been made during the past year and on the manner in which the work was conferred. This is the most important Masonic function which has taken place in Parkhill for many years.

RASPBERRIES NOW

CHATHAM, Oct. 28.—Reports are current that on different occasions residents of the country have been enjoying strawberries from ever-bearing vines, but a second crop of raspberries in the one season is rather an unusual occurrence. This afternoon Julius Crow, of Shaddy Nook Farm, brought a number of red, luscious raspberries to the city.

Mr. Crow states that while the berries are not numerous they are of excellent quality and are flavored on a par with the first pickings. Mr. Crow's farm is located in Dover.

TO PUSH PLANS FOR FURTHER CUT

United States Railroad Heads Announce Their Intention

STATEMENT AT CHICAGO

Calling Off of Strike Will Not Affect Plans

CHICAGO, Oct. 28.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Railroad heads to-night declared the nation's carriers would go right ahead with their plans to seek new wage cuts through the railroad labor board hearings, despite the announcement from the unions that their action in calling off the strike scheduled for October 30 had been influenced by the board's announcement that pay reduction petitions for any class would not be considered until working conditions for that class had been settled.

"The calling off of the strike will have no effect on the plans announced by the carriers on October 14 to seek immediate reductions, so that rates could be reduced," said Samuel Felton, president of the Chicago Great Western and chairman of the Association of Western Railroad Executives.

"I don't know how long, under the board's ruling, it will take to reach a decision on any pay cut petition, but these petitions undoubtedly will be presented within a very short time. It will be up to the board to decide when action should be taken.

"I want it made plain, however, that we will seek these reductions in accordance with the law, posting notices of cuts, then discussing them with the employees, and, if no agreement is reached, appealing to the board to settle the disputes."

FRENCH GET OIL RIGHTS IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA

PRAGUE, Oct. 28. — Contracts giving the Standard Franco-American Oil Company, of Paris, exclusive rights in developing oil territory and in trading in petroleum products throughout the greater part of Czecho-Slovakia have been approved by the Cabinet. This firm is a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company, of New Jersey.

Eleven districts of the country were excepted from the application of the concession given the company. In these districts concessions already have been given, or exploitation of oil lands by the state is going forward.

The local team won by the score of 8 to 1. It was a good exhibition of ball, much better than the score would indicate. The Picton team had 10 hits to Caledonia's nine, but Wright kept the hits well scattered, while Caledonia bunched three hits and a base on balls, which, coupled with an error, netted five runs in the third inning. Croft, the Picton hurler, had 12 strike-outs to his credit. The return game will be played in Picton next Thursday.

Western Ontario Exporters Meet at Brantford

WANT OCEAN TARIFFS CUT

Forty-Three Members Attend Third Convention

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—The third convention of Western Ontario exporters was held to-day in the Chamber of Commerce. About 43 members were present, including 13 representatives from the various out-of-town industries. An address by George Scott, of the Cockshutt Plow Company, featured the morning session, the subject being, "Handling Foreign Trade."

Mayor Wedlake attended the noon luncheon and addressed the gathering, after which Col. J. A. Cooper, formerly in charge of the Canadian Information Bureau in New York City for the Canadian Government, spoke on U. S. prospects.

This afternoon's sesison was devoted to addresses by P. H. Scott, traveling agent for the Canadian Government mercantile marine; J. P. Clancey, foreign freight agent, Canadian Pacific Railway, and a talk on tariffs and general lines of export work by F. C. T. O'Hara, deputy minister, department of trade and commerce, Ottawa.

Three points especially stressed were: Exorbitant freight rates, the high British ocean tariffs and the adverse exchange situation. The Exporters' Association will urge upon the authorities the necessity of reducing the freight and ocean rates, especially for class rates to the seaboard and rates to the British Empire ports on ocean boats.

SAY GOVERNMENT OWES CITY $1,000

Sarnia Has Comeback Regarding Police Fines

DEVELOPMENTS AWAITED

Bodies of Brown Brothers Not Yet Recovered

SARNIA, Oct. 28.—City Treasurer P. A. Blackburn will represent the city at the hearing in Toronto on November 2, when the applications of the Ontario municipalities for a change in the statute will be made, permitting the retention of all fines and costs imposed by police magistrates. Recently the city treasurer received a statement from the Provincial Government, showing the city to be indebted to the Government for $1,900 in fines, which, it was claimed, should have gone to the provincial exchequer. When this statement was checked and compared with records of payments made it was found that the province owed the City of Sarnia $1,000. The city is awaiting a reply to the letter which was enclosed with this contra account to see whose bookkeeping is correct.

Nicholas Plain added another trophy to his list yesterday at Alvinston when he won the championship in the plowing match against 12 competitors and won a handsome silver cup and the title, champion plower of Lambton County. Plain is a resident of the Sarnia Reserve and won second place at Woodstock in the plowing match open to the province.

NO TRACE OF BODIES.

Police as well as the father and relatives of the Brown brothers, who were drowned yesterday in the St. Clair River, have been dragging the river all day in the vicinity of the accident. No trace of the bodies has yet been found and there may not be any trace for many days, as the current at that point is very strong. Both boys were excellent swimmers.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

SOMBRA, Oct. 28.—Wm. Pickle, Chatham, and employed on the P. M. R. section here, was arrested yesterday by Officer Hare, Pere Marquette detective, on a charge of stealing a bicycle in Chatham.

PLANS FOR SANATORIUM.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—Competitive architectural plans for the $100,000 Essex County Sanatorium, to be erected on Prince road, in Sandwich, were turned in to-day to Gordon M. McGregor, chairman of the advisory committee of the Essex Health Association. The building will house a medical ward and school for children with tuberculosis.

The Political Arena

IN WEST LAMBTON.

SARNIA, Oct. 28.—Increased political activity is noticeable in both the Conservative and Liberal camps as the week ends. The visit of Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King and James Murdock on Tuesday is the first real big event since the magnificent Meighen meetings of last week.

It was announced to-day from the headquarters of the Farmers' organization in West Lambton, that Hon. T. A. Crerar had advised the executive that he would not appear in this riding. The ladies, however, are getting very active, and a big meeting at Point Edward last night was addressed by Mrs. W. J. Hanna, who is taking a personal and active part in the campaign.

To-night the candidate, R. V. Lesueur, addressed a meeting in Plympton, and R. J. White addressed a meeting at Charlemont. Canvassers of both the Liberal and Conservative party are making a house-to-house call, and efforts are being made to have every available voter in Sarnia registered who is not already on the provincial lists.

CHATHAM ENTHUSED.

CHATHAM, October 28.—Considerable interest is being aroused in the present federal election. Last night a meeting of the supporters of Premier Meighen was held in the I. O. O. F. auditorium, which was particularly well attended.

It was presided over by Hugh Lamont, president of the city organization, and speeches were delivered by a number of the reliable old war-horses of the city who are right behind the premier and the policy he is advocating. It was a very representative meeting, some of the most prominent men of the party being present. The organization was completed, and it was reported that things are rapidly getting into shape for the big fray.

After the business of the meeting splendid addresses were delivered by T. A. Smith, George W. Sulman, George A. Gray, T. M. Ferguson, Archie Skirving, John Turner, W. W. Turner, Mayor Brisco and others. All of the speakers referred to the bright outlook for the National Liberal and Conservative party in the Dominion. Other similar meetings will be held shortly.

IN NORTH BRUCE.

CARGILL, Oct. 28.—Col. Hugh Clark, Conservative candidate in North Bruce, is conducting campaign meetings in the vicinity of Tobermory and Lion's Head. This is the most northern partraising a row, and before he got through of the riding. Major Pettigrew, of his wife had two black eyes and his Wingham, is assisting Col. Clark in his mother-in-law had a badly swollen his campaign work. face. Constable Wilson had a swat in is also campaigning in the same district, assisted by J. J. Hunter, Kincardine, and Charles McPherson, Port Elgin.

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE, SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and add to it ¾ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing and mucus dropping in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly 90 per cent. of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh, and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.—Advt.

HAD BOOZE, WALLOPED CHIEF, NOW JAILED

Mac McLeod, of Blenheim, Also Swatted Mother-In-Law in the Face; Sentenced to Three Months

BLENHEIM, Oct. 28.—Magistrate J. C. Whittington sentenced Mac McLeod this afternoon to six months in the county jail on each of three charges; first, for having liquor in a place other than his private dwelling house; this was a second offense; second, for assaulting Mrs. Annie Lawrence, his mother-in-law, a woman aged 74 years; third, of assaulting Chief of Police Herb Wilson when on duty. Other charges which had been laid were withdrawn on his plea of guilty to the first three. The terms are to run concurrently.

McLeod was defended by Solicitor La Marsh, of Chatham. Crown Attorney H. D. Smith prosecuted.

The whole trouble seemed to arise out of McLeod having secured a quantity of alcohol when on a visit to Chatham on October 13. He and his wife were in the city on that day and on returning home he put the auto in the ditch. Some men came along and brought him home and after he was home he began

LIGHT-SIX NOW $1795

The Car that is converting thousands to the SIX

The popularity of the six-cylinder automobile is universal. Everyone admits that there is great pleasure in driving a Six, and the six cylinder motor is now recognized as the most satisfactory unit of power.

The Studebaker LIGHT-SIX motor embodies the most advanced engineering developments—

—it is powerful. Its 40-horsepower motor supplies much more than the usual power per pound of car weight. From the first moment you sit behind the wheel you get that velvety feeling of a strong, continuous flow of overlapping power impulses.

—it picks up quickly and smoothly, affording a quick getaway in traffic; it throttles down to a snail's pace in high gear.

—it is freer from vibration, up to 55 miles per hour, than any car of its size and weight yet produced in Europe or America.

The LIGHT-SIX is the most evenly balanced car you can buy. Its light weight (only 2500 pounds) is so equally distributed that if the chassis were halved or quartered each section would weigh practically the same. This means tire economy, and steady road-holding at high speeds.

See this car—drive it—test it. You will be won by it. You will understand why it is the Studebaker ideal of what a light, six-cylinder car should be.

S YOUR BLOOD STARVING FOR WANT OF IRON?

Who Should Take Nuxated Iron

Iron Is Red Blood Food — It Helps Put Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Give Strength and Energy To Men — Why Nuxated Iron Is So Quickly Builds Up Weak, Nervous, Run-Down People.

Thousands of men and women are impairing their constitutions, laying themselves open to illness and literally losing their grip on health, simply because their blood is thinning out and possibly starving through lack of iron. Lack of iron in the blood not only makes a man a physical and mental weakling, nervous, irritable, easily fatigued, but it utterly robs him of the virile force, that stamina and strength of will which are so necessary to success and power in every walk of life. It may also transform a beautiful, sweet-tempered woman into one who is cross, nervous and irritable. Iron is absolutely essential to enable your blood to transform the food you eat into muscular tissue and brain. It is through iron in the red coloring matter of the blood that life-sustaining oxygen enters the body. Without iron there is no strength, vitality and endurance to combat obstacles or withstand severe strains. Contrary to general opinion lack of iron in the blood does not necessarily mean you do not have enough blood, but it means your blood is not of the right kind. To help make strong, keen, red-blooded people there is nothing better than organic iron—Nuxated Iron. Unlike the older inorganic iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. No matter what other tonics or iron remedies you have used without success, if you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while have increased their strength and endurance in two weeks' time while taking iron in the proper form. Nuxated Iron is now being used by over four million people annually, and the manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.—Advt.

IN THE WORLD OF BOOKS AND LETTERS

ALBERTA MAN ON NEW PATRIOTISM

Volume Issued By Clerk of Executive Council, Alberta.

"The Dawn of a New Patriotism," by John D. Hunt, clerk of the executive council, Alberta.

The subtitle of this book, "A Training Course in Citizenship," gives a clearer idea of its object, and the main title may be taken to indicate rather the results that may be expected to flow from the study of this or similar works. It is seldom, however, that such an immense amount of information and so many practical suggestions can be found within a book of such reasonable size. That it has already met with acceptance may be gathered from the fact that this is a second edition, revised and enlarged.

Mr. Hunt points out that democracy requires that the people exercise supreme control over the Government, for the Cabinet ministers and members of Parliament are simply agents of the people and at all times accountable to them. Universal suffrage requires that the average citizen be an active, instructed, intelligent ruler of his country. The present generation has not heretofore made the "sovereignty of the people" such a dominant power in the conduct of public affairs as successful democracy requires. Prosperity, opportunity and selfishness enticed the people into the broad, speculative highways that were supposed to lead to private wealth, and in the mad rush to get rich public duties were in many instances neglected or improperly performed, while the community conscience was lulled into quiescence under the soothing influence of easy money, comfort and pleasure. Conditions have changed. A terrible price has been paid in life, suffering and sacrifice for the awakening. But the nation has awakened to the dangers threatening our free institutions, not only from abroad, but here at home, from the neglect of citizens to fulfill their public duties. The cultivation of good citizenship provides common meeting-ground for all sections of the community and this book, while adapted for use in public schools and colleges, is also intended for the instruction and inspiration of the men and women now in possession of the franchise.

Chapters I. to VIII. discuss the meaning of democracy and citizenship and the duties and responsibilities of citizens; Chapter IX. describes the nature of government; Chapters X. and XI. contain sufficient ancient history to give a general idea of the high state of civilization reached by the Spartans, Athenians and Romans and of the influences which these nations have had on the history of the modern world. Chapters XII. to XVII. give a condensed story of the origin and development of the power of the people of England, showing that freedom is not guaranteed to us, but that every generation must fight for it, that every individual must win it for himself, and that it is in the struggle that good citizenship is developed. The last chapter, "Democracy in Canada," is a comprehensive sketch of the development of responsible government in Canada.

A FRENCH ROMANCE MEMORIALIZED

The custom of celebrating the anniversaries of great men is one to be encouraged. It keeps fresh in one's mind the debt we owe them and it adds to our share of pleasure and joy by taking larger views of the customs, manners and people who have been the central points in other days.

It is to this end that the French recently celebrated the 50th anniversary of the passing of Paul de Koch. A writer, who, in his day, enjoyed a vast popularity—in France, in England and in several continental countries.

Paul de Koch belongs to the school of romantic adventure. Adolphe Brisson, the academician and editor-in-chief of Les Annales, memorializes de Koch as follows:

* * *

"There is a certain piquancy in linking the name of Paul de Koch with the founders and leaders of romanticism. But in truth they had little in common. In very different ways, with unequal talent they succeeded in pleasing their contemporaries and in becoming popular.

"The renown of de Koch was so great, so universal, that it never has fallen under the shadow of indifference. Although few buy the works of Paul de Koch to-day, his memory subsists. He has become legendary, and, in a measure, symbolic. The writer had the art of evoking a species of people and a manner of conceiving life that corresponded with the aspirations and customs of a particular period.

"I remember the admiration of my great grandfather for this writer. Grandfather was a merchant; a dealer in lace. When he returned home, after an arduous day's employment at the factory or in the warehouse, he found special relaxation in reading his favorite author. He experienced special pleasure, the good man, in the adventures and the tribulations of the 'Milkmaid of Montefermeil.'"

* * *

Paul de Koch was of Dutch descent. His father, a banker and friend of General Dumouriez, gained wealth by financing the army of the North. He returned to Paris under the Terror, was seized and executed. A few months later Madame de Koch, in 1794, bore her son, who was to be the pride and glory of Romainville.

When still a youth he showed his love of writing. His employer, a broker, surprised him one day as he pored over the manuscript of his first long venture—"The Child of My Mother." The agent did not hide his chagrin that de Koch had a literary turn. A sharp reproval caused de Koch to renounce forever his determination to be a broker; it made him an editor and a writer. The evening of the day of this episode he read his mother the opening pages of his romance and had the delight of surprising her into laughter and tears. She promised him all the pecuniary assistance in her power. "The Child of My Mother" was printed. Alas, it found few purchasers. A second endeavor met with an equally poor reception.

He now turned to the theater and, at the Ambigu achieved a startling success with his melodrama, "Catherine de Courlande." Immediately everyone was mad to read his books. In a little less than a month de Koch was "the fashion." The publisher, Barba, a man of acumen, sought him out and this was their initial conversation:

"You've expressed the desire to rent a country house in the environs of Paris?"

"Yes, monsieur, to rent at Romainville has been one of my dreams!"

"I am sure that there, in the fresh air and under the green trees, with a pretty wife at your side, you'd work like an angel."

"I have the pretty woman, but I haven't the house in the country. Even now I live almost up to my income. A double rent would ruin me."

"Well, if I could make the rent possible?"

An agreement was concluded. A contract signed by which de Koch received two thousand six hundred francs a volume for ten years.

Good! My fortune is made, meditated the publisher.

Splendid! I'll be happy at Romainville, thought the author.

For both it was a fine investment and Barba inundated the world with the writings of Paul de Koch.

Eugene de Merecourt wrote at the time regarding the appearance of the de Koch novels:

"The day on which they are issued there is almost a riot at the Palais Royal. Transport wagons make a continuous line carrying books to the various sections of Paris. A notice posted in the windows of paper stalls is no soon up than the stall is besieged for copies of the "latest" issue."

In the meanwhile Paul de Koch installed himself under the shade of spreading trees. From that time on his existence was assured and flourishing. As soon as lilacs bloomed he left Paris for Romainville, where he kept open house for his friends. It was always filled. There one dined and supped well. There one heard and participated in gay and spirited conversation. The appended letter is characteristic of the hospitality to be found at Paul de Koch's:

"My Dear ———: Will you come on Saturday next and spend the day with us at Romainville? We shall try to provide some pleasures. Come early, for you shall have the privilege of drawing the water, watering the flowers, of weeding, of raking the paths, and, perhaps, you may have the additional privilege of picking cherries at high noon. Well, now, that will all be very fine, won't it? And so I count on you.

At the first sign of frost de Koch returned to Paris. He did not take up residence in the aristocratic quarters, in the Faubourg Saint Germain, near the nobility or near finance in the Chaussee d'Antin. He had the good sense to select a domicile among his habitual readers in and about the Boulevard du Temple, a few rods away from the Ambigu, and he mixed with the small merchants, with the commission merchants, with the stamp of people who were the heroes and heroines of his books.

Between Desaugiers the author of "Paris at Five O'clock in the Morning," and Paul de Koch there was a strong bourgeois affinity. The same energy, the same gay, spicy humor, the same love of good things to eat, the same attachment to old usages, the same aversion to innovations and new customs, the same sedentary tastes. Paul de Koch took but one journey in all his life. He went to Beaugency on family affairs, stayed two days, was utterly miserable, returned to Paris and swore never to leave it again save to go to Romainville. The incorrigible Parisian died in 1871, bent with years, but never having seen other rivers than the river that flows by his boulevard and that of his village home.

Of his works it may be said they are loose in form, diffuse, encumbered with useless detail, and filled with childishness, but, somehow, they pleased thousands and thousands of our grandfathers. The story goes that Pope Gregory XVI. numbered among the readers of the popular writer, and one day he asked the French ambassador to the Vatican: "Well, and how is your Paul de Koch?"

The diplomat thought at first he had misunderstood the question directed by the pontiff, but no, it soon became plain that the pontiff was inquiring for the author of the "Maid of Belleville."

It must be conceded that the writer who excites such merriment and gives so much pleasure has his merits. Paul de Koch's merit is that his writings reflect the life and mental state of the middle class French, who ever have loved song, farce and vaudeville. Like Eugene Labiche he exalted and personified "bourgeois gaiety."

Western Graduate Is Writing Volume

DR. RAY PALMER BAKER, a graduate of Western University, is engaged on a two-volume history of Canadian literature since 1867 that will probably appear in 1922. Dr. Baker issued his history of English-Canadian literature to 1867 last spring and in a letter to a friend in this city he reports that it has had a most encouraging sale, both in Canada and in the United States.

ENCYCLOPAEDIA IN POCKETBOOK FORM

Thos. Nelson & Sons Issue Abbreviated Set For General Use.

There are so many good encyclopaedias in the world that there hardly seems room for another one. However, Thos. Nelson & Sons, Limited, have issued a new abbreviated 10 volume encyclopaedia which does fill a real need. In the first place it is a cheap priced encyclopaedia within the reach of the purse of all. In addition it is brought right up to the minute and contains hundreds of references to the war, inventions growing out of the war, etc. The volumes are in small readable size and will enable the reader to pick out the essential facts without the necessity of wading through long columns of print.

The present encyclopaedia is described by the publishers as being issued to meet the demands of the new age which has already opened.

The set aims at a clear, impartial and sufficiently complete treatment of the myriad topics upon which the general reader needs information. Each volume is small enough to slip in the coat pocket. Rigid compression, the use of abbreviations and in many cases of a note form, make it possible to include in its 4,800 pages as many references as are usually found in the familiar array of bulky tomes. "Facts without verbiage" is the motto of the work.

The editor-in-chief is Sir Edward Parrot.

Odds and Ends of Literary World

One thing can be said for New York hotel proprietors—they charge nothing extra for a room with a Bible.—Life.

A contributor to the New York Tribune enters for the mixed metaphor cup, the following from The Atlantic Monthly: " . . . found themselves in the group gathered about the lion of the evening, a young English litterateur, who had been neatly netted by the vigorous Magruder some time before. He was high and dry now, flopping for the delectation of the curious."

The second volume of Sir Julian Corbett's history of naval operations in the great war is to appear this fall. It will include operations from the Battle of the Falklands to the entry of Italy into the war in May, 1915. It is mainly occupied with the Dardanelles expedition as far as the check at the second battle of Krithia. The other principal events are the operations on the Belgian coast during the winter, the attempted invasion of Egypt, the Scarborough raid, the Dogger Bank action, the destruction of the Dresden and the British "blockade," with the opening of the German submarine campaign, the loss of the Lusitania and the entrance of our own submarines into the Baltic.

Casey Ryan, hero of B. M. Bower's new novel, does not belie his name, nor does he endanger the reputation of that author as a writer of vigorous Western tales. Come search with this one-time reckless stage driver and wild-cat prospector of Injun Jim's gold mine amid both amateur, amatory and ludicrous episodes.

That Kathleen Norris has been able to be both a realist and an optimist in her work is perhaps traceable to the circumstances of her life. Deprived of parents, she was obliged to help support younger brothers and sisters. She trained herself for a position as journalist; later she married Charles Gilman Norris, younger brother of the famous Frank Norris. Mrs. Norris' latest book, "The Beloved Woman," a study of a New York family, has just appeared. Mr. Norris is also bringing out a novel of San Francisco life, "Brass,"

Hugh Walpole has never done better work than in the group of sketches that make up his new book, "The Thirteen Travelers." The stories are brief, but they hold all the detail, all the color, required to give them a tense and glowing life. Here is pathos, tragedy, joy. Here are the pitiful struggles of the old to realize a world they can never comprehend, here is the courage of youth set a new test. Here are the manifold experiences of existence, life, death, marriage hopeless love, triumph, success, failure, goodness and evil sharply defined in a time that is finding itself, making new values, destroying old landmarks. It is a book to read and read again, a book eminently of to-day yet belonging, by virtue of its deep insight into human hearts and souls, to all time.

In addition to his literary work, James Oliver Curwood has taken an active part in the fight in his native state, Michigan, for the conservation of wild life at home, and so much attention has he attracted that the governor of Maine recently invited him to pay an official visit to that state to take part in the game conservation campaign being carried on there. His new novel, "The Flaming Forest," is the last of his trilogy of stories about the fabled Three-River Country.

After two years in California Mrs. Gene Stratton Porter has returned to Limberlost Cabin, her Indiana home. There in her garden, where she enjoys watching her little granddaughter, Gene Stratton II. sucking drops of honey from the lily pistils, she celebrated her birthday, August 17, the day chosen for the publication of her new novel, "Her Father's Daughter." During her stay in California she studied the flora of the section and identified all but 93 of the botanical specimens listed in the state.

Booth Tarkington got the name for his "The Magnificent Ambersons" from an army list of his father's. It is a combination of two names suggested by Amberly to which he added "son." Although he considered the name of his own invention certain, Ambersons claimed it. Mr. Tarkington's publishers have already received a letter from a real Alice Adams, who wonders why this heroine was so named.

Few authors could have more beautiful workshops than Compton Mackenzie's picturesque estate at Herm off the Island of Guernsey. He has leased this island and Jethou from the crown. Herm was formerly let to Prince Blucher. Upon the premises are a manor house and a jail. Mr. Mackenzie dictates out of doors with his Great Dane at his feet. His "Rich Relatives" is to appear this fall.

The proprietor of a New York hotel has introduced a reading table to the area occupied by the telephone booths, so that those who get impatient can sit and read. "Mrs. Farrell," the hitherto unpublished novel by William Howells which appeared on September 1, contains an introduction by the author's daughter, Mildred Howells, which throws many interesting sidelights on life at the period when the story was written and gives some pleasing glimpses of Mr. Howells himself as she remembers him.

Irvin Cobb came to the conclusion that the period of inflation is over and that there must be a return to normalcy. After six months' serious yet simple regulation of his life there is now just two-thirds of the former Cobb. How he accomplished the reduction and how he is happy though losing he will tell just as one would expect Cobb to tell it — in "One-Third Off," a little book dedicated to the man who in the past helped him to put that third on.

Red Meekins, by W. A. Fraser, Toronto, McLelland & Stewart; pp 297, price $2.00.

Mr. Fraser is no stranger to us for he has written such good stories as "Bulldog Carney" and "Mooswa." In these days Canada is coming to a place of prominence in literature. Such stories as this will be widely read. The scene is set in New Ontario. The hero, Red Meekins, knows the ways of the forest and of the men of the forest. His interpretation of the signs along the trail is full of interest. There is plenty of rough banter such as prospectors use, and in fine contrast the exclamations typical Englishmen use. The miner's luck, or lack of it, the methods of staking claims, the ways of buying and selling them, are all set in vivid narrative. Meekins comes to his own eventually by saving Moody from perishing, and discovering a gold mine of rich vein. The book maintains its interest to the very end, and it is always free from repulsive language and pernicious suggestion. The subterfuges to appease conscience in buying and selling claims are skillfully outlined. There is much romance—and much goodness of heart, too—in these pathfinders in the mining country. Meekins' care for the woman, unhappily made a widow, and his determination to stand by his agreement when he found the claim he had made over to her was rich in mineral, are worthy of the man.

Mr. Waddington of Wyck, by May Sinclair, Toronto, Cassell and Company, Limited, pp 252, price $2.00.

The story has two veins which cross and recross. The one is that of a middle aged man who has become quite obsessed with himself, with his book, and with his advocacy of the League of Liberty. Because he sees a magnified image of himself he is altogether incapable of understanding other people. His wife, Fanny, has never taken him seriously. Nor can he get on with Bevan, his secretary and a man of parts. Meantime this man, Waddington, has become enamoured over Mrs. Levitt, a war widow who schemes to bleed him of what money she can. The new secretary, whom one day the Waddingtons intend to adopt, and whose name is Barbara Madden, helps him through with his book, and later on delivers him from the toils of Mrs. Levitt. Sir John Corbett, a neighbor and true friend, warns Waddington of possible scandal. While unsuccessful in this matter, he does later draw a confession from Waddington of his relations with Mrs. Levitt. The fierce light of the man's foolishness is soon turned upon Barbara. He becomes ill because he has plucked snowdrops out of the snow for her. Having planned for travel and divorce, he seeks to get Barbara to marry him. She laughs at him, tells him of her engagement to Bevan, and gets away. In a few days she and Bevan are married.

This story is one of the tragedies of middle life with its obsessions and its follies, especially that folly of aping youth. It would be true to say that Fanny has an obsession, too—that of everlasting trifling. This her son, Horace, sees is his crime too, and Barbara and Bevan find to be their besetment. Fanny puts it all in one tense sentence, spoken to Barbara without acrimony but with the sadness of failure. "I'd love you even more if you'd love him . . . . . If you'd gone away with him and made him happy. If you hadn't laughed at him, Barbara." It is the bitterness of having missed the mark.

"The Master of Man," by Hall Caine, Toronto, The Ryerson Press, pp. 432, price $1.75.

Hall Caine is the undisputed literary master of the Isle of Man. He knows its people and its history, and, notwithstanding the severity of several notable critics, he has a certain literary instinct, and a measure of genius. At any rate you must take account of him, for he compels you to read. There is a sort of wierdness about his appearance one can never forget.

This book is valuable or valueless according as it is read. It has to do with life at its most sex-conscious age. The two chief points of stress are the relations of sex and the demands of conscience. The question of sex comes first. The literalness of the sketch is almost perilous. Four young people, Stowell and Gell, Fenella Stanley and Bessie Collister, are by the most fortuitous circumstances brought together. The two boys start as school chums and Stowell is always shielding Gell who has the faculty of getting into trouble. Stowell is expelled unjustly because Gell is found out walking with Bessie Collistor, a servant girl. She is dismissed from service, and her blatant stepfather treats her ill. She is on the street in storm and darkness and can get no other shelter for her than his chambers. She is sent to a girls' school after Stowell has promised to marry her. Gell acts as mediary and soon falls in love with her. Stowell meets Fenella Stanley and becomes passionately fond of her. Then follows the tragedy, the conflict between love and duty, between conscience and the desire to make his friends his scapegoat. The elder Stowell, judge on the island, dies and the governor gets young Stowell the appointment. Bessie Collister is charged with the murder of her infant, and Stowell is the judge. Failing to get a reprieve he contrives to have her escape from prison and from the island with Gell. Riots follow Fenella, innocently enough, searches out Bessie's case and involves Stowell. He makes confession and goes to prison for jail-breaking. He and Fenella are married in prison, and hope to be reinstated one day in the esteem of the people.

The story is ambitious. The plan is on the grand scale. There is an abundance of contrast of character. One cannot but admire the old Deemster with his stern British sense of justice. Janet, the housekeeper, who loves the younger Stowell as her own son, and whom he calls mother, does weave a golden thread through the story. What can be more germane to the spirit of motherhood than the appeal of Mrs. Collister to Mrs. Gell for Bessie? Whose love is like Fenella's, once Stowell has made a clean breast of things and has faced some of the penalty of his crime. There are two cardinal truths. For one thing, be sure your sin will find you out. But if that were all there would be only hell to look to. There is love unspeakable, love which is righteous, and yet full of compassion. This is the heaven which is greater than hell and masters it. This is the true reading of the book, I think. The master of man is sin, hidden and unconfessed sin. But there is another master, and it is the expiatory love of one who is pure. It is love's supreme task to destroy the master usurper so that the kingdom of man soul may be occupied by an affection which is mightier than evil, and which is untrammeled and unfeigned.

REMINISCENCES OF GEORGE HAM

Famous C. P. R. Man Issues Volume of His Recollections.

George Ham, of the C. P. R., has made more speeches, told more stories and met more men than anyone else in Canada. For decades he has been wandering up and down the Dominion, a cicerone to great visitors, a friend of every newspaperman and a counsellor to every politician. George Ham has had no official position with the C. P. R., but his particular duties have been to act as a sort of liaison officer between the corporation he represents and the many august individuals and organizations making the Canadian transcontinental tours. He has an enormous personal acquaintance with all sorts and conditions of life.

George Ham has written a book called "Reminiscences of a Raconteur," published by Mussons. In this volume he has gathered his experiences. It is a chatty book, full of interesting stories of the great and the near great, and written in his own inimitable style. The whimsical good humor and rare sparkle of George Ham himself runs through the whole book. His own delightful personality is to be found on every page. But the volume of Mr. Ham has also real historical value. He was a newspaper man in the early days of Winnipeg; he was for a decade in the Parliamentary press gallery; he was intimately acquainted with most of Canada's leading statesmen.

ANECDOTES OF CANADIANS.

There are as many anecdotes about Canadian politicians at the end of Geo. H. Ham's tongue as there are recollections of pioneer days in the West. He loved the human side of Sir John A. Macdonald, and illustrates it in a couple of stories that show how the great Tory chieftain left his animosities behind him when he went outside the House of Commons.

"After the great disallowance debate over that part of the C. P. R. contract which prevented United States railroads entering the Northwest to tap the business, Sir John A. Macdonald met several active political leaders at the head of the stairs leading to the restaurant. After a cheery salutation, Sir John remarked, 'Well, boys, don't you think we had enough of disallowance. Let's go down and take our allowance.' And they went.

The stairway to the restaurant seems to have been provocative of wit, for, it is said, that on this very spot Sir John once met Bob Watson, as strong a party man of the Liberal type as you could find, and asked him what was going on in the House. "Why," said Bob, "Cartwright is pitching into Foster on the tariff." "Too bad, too bad that they should be so partisan up there," said Sir John. "I tell you, Bob, if they were all as independents as you and I are this country would soon have blankety fine legislation."

Another anecdote concerns Sir John's trusted lieutenant, Hon. John Henry Pope, of Compton, father of Senator Rufus Pope.

"John Henry," as he was familiarly called, had all the shrewdness and foresight of the statesman, and materially assisted in directing the policy of the party. He was not a polished or verbose speaker, but when he spoke, the few words he uttered always meant something. Once, when fiercely attacked by Sir Richard Cartwright in the House, he made the shortest and most effective speech ever delivered in the green chamber. When Sir Richard had taken his seat amidst the loud applause of his follows, Mr. Pope slowly rose and quaintly said: "Mr. Speaker, there ain't nothin' to it." The House loudly cheered, and Sir Richard warmly joined in the expressions of admiration.

HOW POPULAR AUTHORS WORK

Modern Writers Invariably Use the Typewriter.

A good many of us, when we think of authors at work, harp back to the days of E. P. Roe and Laura Jean Libby, and see pictures of a penurious widow scratching out a big-selling novel with a rusty old pen and half frozen ink, in a cheerless, cold garret while three or four children of an uncertain age, more or less comfortably clothed, play around under the table legs, jarring them occasionally.

That day—if it ever existed, which we doubt—is done. The most modern writers' books which the publishers so flagrantly announce as coming just recently from their "pens," don't by any means do so. This is a typewriter age and one can safely say now that 98 per cent. of the books which are turned out have been originally created on the typewriter.

There is one rather striking reason for this. That is that most of the authors of best-selling books nowadays have been either newspaper or short story writers, fields in which it is almost essential to make use of the typewriter. There are some very notable exceptions. Miss Marshall Saunders, the charming Canadian writer of animal stories which have achieved world-wide reputation, boasts just a little of the fact that she still does her material in pen and ink, that she has tried the typewriter repeatedly, but that composition doesn't seem to flow nearly so rapidly into the mechanical instrument as it does from her pen. Harold Bell Wright is another of the devotees of the pen and pencil method. How Mr. Wright works is pretty well illustrated in the accompanying engraving reproduced from the photograph taken while he was scribbling the later chapters of "Helen of the Old House," his newest novel, just published in Canada by The Ryerson Press, Toronto. Mr. Wright, of course, has been successful enough to choose his locale to suit his wishes. "Helen of the Old House" was written on a California farm and apparently, as the illustration suggests, under a tree in a field with daisies under foot. While aesthetic in his surroundings Mr. Wright is apparently not particular as to the luxury of his tools. Witness the kitchen chair and pinebOard table with a windbreak of plain boards, apparently tacked up by the author himself to prevent his sheets from being whisked into limbo.

PUBLISHES FEW BOOKS.

Mr. Wright is not one of the authors who turns out two or three novels a year. Indeed, "Helen of the Old House" is the first one in eight years. Mr. Wright does not have to. When one knows that his books sell well up in the millions and that he draws probably 25 per cent. of the retail price in royalties, one can appreciate that a book every eight years or so will keep himself and family and the chickens off the farm, not to speak of the pigs, at least in bread and butter. Oh, to be an author! That is, a popular one. One must forget when thinking about such people as Harold Bell Wright that dozens, yes, the scores, even thousands of people who do struggle away in the attic and in multitudinous hall bedrooms with the clack of their typewriter drawing down the wrath of the second-floor-front above, and the landlady, when last week's rent is due. Harold Bell Wright had these experiences himself to begin with, for the story goes that his first novel was submitted to nine different well-known American publishers before an obscure house in Chicago saw fit to take it over and made a good-sized fortune for themselves as well as for the author. While on this tack it may be interesting to note that of the book manuscripts submitted to Canadian publishers not more than one per cent. are worthy of serious consideration. A reason of the rather pertinent fact that the people who are writing have not even in a small degree made themselves familiar with either the technique of the trade or the kind of material the publishers are likely to be able to handle. So, gentle reader, before you begin to scribble off that wonderful plot you have had in your mind for the last decade, thinking off and on that you would do it some day and let it run in the class of best sellers, make certain that it has at least some probability of entering into editorial consideration.

LITERARY PROVERBS.

Never look a gift book in the binding.

A book to the wise is sufficient.

Never criticise a book until you come to it.

By their books ye shall know them.

A book in the hand is worth two on the shelf.

One good book deserves another.

It's a long tale that has no ending.

It is never too late to lend.

Men may come and men may go, but books go on forever.

WALL STREET REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Settlement of the threatened railroad strike was the paramount influence of the week in the stock market, although the feeling in well-informed circles had been that conditions would not reach the critical stage.

Rails suffered only moderate depression at their worst and these losses were more than regained in yesterday's general rally. Equipments, steels, coppers, motors and many special issues, which had been sentimentally affected by the labor situation scored equal or larger recoveries.

The most consistent movement was in domestic oils, that group at all times ignoring reactionary tendencies elsewhere.

Money rates displayed no material easement, and the greater portion of the week's call loans were made on a 5½ per cent. basis. This quotation also applied to time funds, although many 30 and 60-day loans were made at as low as five per cent. on prime collateral.

PAPER STOCKS IN THE LIMELIGHT

Feature Strong Session of the Toronto Market

TORONTO, Oct. 28.—The stock market received a great impetus to-day from the cancellation of the proposed railroad strike in the United States.

Interest centered chiefly in the paper stocks, and there sharp gains were made in other securities, making a day of nearly all round advances. Interest in the papers probably came from the feeling of reaction against the long decline from which the paper stocks have been affected almost unbrokenly for upwards of a year. Any change in market tone, it was considered, would naturally attract attention to the paper group, on that account, coupled with the additional fact that favorable news has been received of late as to the recovery of business by the paper companies. The position of these companies in regard to earnings may be another matter, say some of the local brokers, having regard to the high production costs in the woods last winter and the present lowered rate of newsprint in the market.

Victory bonds were steady and bank stocks were almost entirely neglected.

Total sales: Listed stocks, 1,223 shares; unlisted stocks, 396 shares; bonds and war loans, $89,500.

HAVE HARBOR COMMISSION.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—An act to create a harbor commission for the Port of Windsor has been drawn up by the local Chamber of Commerce. It is now in the hands of the mayors of the several municipalities. The mayors have been asked to meet next week in conference with the chamber so that the act may be put in its final form and submitted at the next session of Parliament.

MEN IDENTIFIED.

CARGILL, Oct. 28.—Mr. Trumbley, of Bruce Township, identified the alleged confidence highway men, who robbed him of $200 in broad daylight on the street near the union station, Toronto, while en route home from the West, when he went to Toronto on receipt of word from Toronto police headquarters to the effect that two men answering the description of his assailants were under arrest. Their names are Dupont and Marsh and they were under arrest for a similar form of robbery.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The raw sugar market to-day was unchanged at 4.06c; 4.11c for centrifugal, with no sales reported.

Raw sugar futures were quiet, but the undertone was steady and prices at mid-day were 2 to 4 points net higher on covering.

Refined sugar was steady and unchanged at $5.20 to $5.30 for fine granulated.

There was a good inquiry, but orders were subject to delay, as refiners are behind on deliveries.

Refined sugar futures were nominal.

LEACOCK SEES ROAD TO PEACE

Declares Anglo-Saxon Accord Is the Only Sure Way

SPEAKS AT OXFORD, ENG.

Indicates Method of Uniting British and American People

OXFORD, England, Oct. 28. — Dr. Stephen Leacock, head of the department of political economy in McGill University at Montreal, Que., told the members of the British-American union in an address here to-day that the British and American peoples should have a better knowledge of each other, maintain more sympathetic personal relations, if a British-American union, without pledge or compact, is to become a fact.

He declared that the time for a "parliament of man" and "federation of the world" was not yet. "The League of Nations, though it may contain within it the seeds of future concord, cannot serve as yet as a shield against aggression and injustice," he affirmed. "The principal hope of the world is to be sought in the continued friendship of Britain and America.

"The vast communities of peoples gathered under the British and American flags represent an organization of power easily superior to any force that could conceivably be brought against it. Where these two nations lead the world must follow. Peace and war lie in their hands.

MEANS RUIN.

"On the other hand, disagreement between Britain and America spells ruin —not only for themselves, but for the world. So great is the power of each that war between them could mean nothing but mutual destruction. Neither could conquer; both must fall.

"The efforts of every honest citizen should be bent towards the maintenance of peaceful relations and mutual understanding. There is no question here of union in the narrower sense, of federation in its organic form. A century and a half ago it might have been. But the page is written and cannot be blotted out.

"But for the more real form of union there is still ample need and opportunity. The basis is there in a common speech, a common literature and a common tradition. To a great extent the tie of a common descent still holds. The union that is needed is not one that is contrived with pen and ink and written on a scrap of paper, but the union that reflects an understanding and a common purpose, a union of sympathy and not of symbols.

THE BEST MEANS.

"To my thinking the best and truest means of union is to be sought in enlightment. Our quarrels in the past have arisen from our lack of knowledge of one another, our inability, through ignorance, to share one another's point of view. For this the remedy is better knowledge. The more we can interchange our thoughts the more certain are we of agreement. As far as possible we should seek to share one another's ideas, through books, through the press, through the drama.

"We should facilitate in every way the sympathetic relations of our great universities. Harvard should come to Oxford, and Oxford in return should come and sit among the elm trees of Cambridge, in Massachusetts, listening. There should be between Britain and America a constant and perpetual interchange, a sort of tidal ebb and flow, of all that makes for scholarship and literature. Much is already done. But much remains. In business men have long since found out that the personal relation is everything. We must apply the same to our political relations. We must not rely upon conclaves of cabinets and congressmen. We must know one another. In the face of such knowledge ill-will will vanish, and British-American union, without bond or pledge or contract will become a fact."

MINIATURE WAR OPENS IN BRANTFORD DISTRICT

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—To-day is the first of a three-day staff ride and military manouvers for Military District No. 2, and the officers who congregated here this afternoon surveyed the district before recommending lines of defense or offense. KINGSTON, Oct. 28.—W. R. Givens, who two years ago acted on behalf of a group of Kingston citizens who tendered to Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, the nomination for Kingston, to-night authorized the statement that Sir Henry would not contest Kingston. It is understood here that another riding has been found for Sir Henry.

It is a foregone conclusion that Brig.-Gen. Ross, M.P.P., will be the nominee of the party, thus necessitating his resignation from the Legislature.

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—In recognition of his exceptional work as a police constable of the Windsor force Joseph E. JAMES MURDOCK MAKES CHARGES

Says He Was Advised Not to Rile Government's Friends

SPEAKS AT STOUFFVILLE

Addresses Meeting With Liberal Leader, Mr. King

STOUFFVILLE, Ont., Oct. 28.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—James Murdock, who was last night nominated by the Liberal party for the South Toronto riding, was the first speaker here this afternoon at Hon. Mackenzie King's meeting. Mr. Murdock said that it was largely in the constituency of North York that constitutional government was cradled. Battles of common people had more than in any other part of Canada been fought in North York. Once the war was over, he said, there came the great problem, not only of taking care of the returned soldier but of the common people. The Winnipeg strike in 1919 was not a revolution against all government, as had been said, but an expression of dissatisfaction with the existing Government.

The trouble came to an end and out of it grew the Board of Commerce to check gross profiteering. Mr. Murdock said in spite of his own work in Cleveland he had after much persuasion felt that the work on the board meant real work in the interests of the common people.

ALLEGES A LECTURE.

Ottawa, however, he said, seemed to have not merely a luke-warmness towards the efforts of the board, but a silent opposition. Finally there came the time when he was called before an aged and venerable gentleman, who gave him an hour and a quarter of gentle scolding and made it very clear that he, Mr. Murdock, must not antagonize those interests upon which the Government had always counted for support, and so, from then on, the clamps were put on a little harder. Obstacles were quietly put in the way of the board's doing those things which it was formed to do.

Thus there was nothing for him to do but resign the position, notwithstanding the sacrifice he must make, said Mr. Murdock. He could have nothing to do with the "contemptible farce" which the Cabinet was carrying on to "fool the people of Canada." It was nothing less, he said, then covertly stealing from the common people. On forthcoming occasions he would have much more to say about the Board of Commerce.

Hon. Mr. King's speech was preceded by an address of welcome, extended by Mrs. W. Clark, on behalf of the Women's Liberal Club, of Stouffville.

MR. KING.

Mr. King quoted from a letter written him by Dr. Michael Clark, who had just accepted the Liberal nomination in Mackenzie:

"I have now come to see that a well-balanced Liberalism is the only hope for the country between the new Toryism and the old, for what is Toryism and what has it always been? Simple class rule, with a view to securing special privileges."

"Only united forces," said Mr. King, "could meet and conquer the industrial plutocrats behind the political powers of the day."

Speaking of the National Railways, the Liberal leader said it had been found that there was an interlocking of directorates which would wreck any concern. Vast contracts for insurance and equipment had been given to companies, directors of which were also directors of the Canadian National Railways.

Mr. Crerar, said the Liberal leader, desired publicity for campaign funds. The Liberal party had shown itself solidly for this reform when the matter came up in the House. The Progressives had no monopoly in this respect.

Comparing the platforms of the Progressives, the National Council of Women, the Labor platform and that of the G. W. V. A., Mr. King said that where aims for improvement seemed to outdistance those of the Liberals it was only in matters which were quite beyond practical success. There were two houses of Parliament and Mr. King believed that in future it would be a real impossibility to get anything through the Senate, filled as it was with appointees of Mr. Meighen.

WANTED IN WINDSOR FOR THEFT, IS ARRESTED

OTTAWA, Oct. 29.—G. E. Armstrong, farm laborer, was arrested by the Hull police yesterday morning on a farm in the Mountain road at the request of the chief of police of Windsor. Armstrong is wanted on a charge of theft of $1,125. An escort is being sent from Windsor.

TWO BADLY HURT IN CRASH AT DELAWARE

DELAWARE, Oct. 29 (Saturday).—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning a motor car with five Sarnians as passengers crashed into the cellar way of a bakeshop here when the driver mistook the road. A man named Stover and another by name of Grant Lorne were seriously hurt and are being removed to Victoria Hospital, London. Two others were injured, but not seriously. The car was badly wrecked.

The party was on the way from London to Sarnia. The car had been driven over the Delaware bridge and in continuing it was found they were on the wrong road. It was while coming back to the village to make another start that the accident occurred. The heavy fog is believed to have obscured the view of the driver.

BRANTFORD Y.M.C.A. IS FACING $1,400 DEFICIT

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—Brantford Y. M. C. A. work during the past year cost $29,631.28 and a deficit of 1,478.43 exists. The annual meeting of the organization was held to-night and the deficit proved the cause for some comment. A plan for rigid economy was appealed for.

The executive officers, including President Charles M. Thompson, were all re-elected and the following are the directors for the year: E. Sweet, P. H. Secord, George Wedlake, J. W. Widdup, J. M. Young, F. E. Morrison and W. H. Wood. The last two named are new directors appointed to fill the places of A. MacFarland and T. L. Wood, who have retired.

COMPLAIN OF SHORT WEIGHT POTATOES

One Dealer Found To Have Bags Containing Only 80 Pounds—May Summon Offenders.

Numerous complaints are coming to Market Weigh Clerk James Dean from purchasers of potatoes on the local market that many bags are considerably under weight.

One market gardener from the vicinity of Mount Brydges offered a large load for sale this morning, and it was found that instead of using the regular potato sack, he was using a sugar bag, which holds only about 80 pounds, instead of the stipulated 90 pounds to a bag.

This gardener, when reminded of his short weight, immediately took the potatoes to the weigh scales and rectified the errors by adding to the bag. But it has been pointed out that this is not the only short weight producer on the market square and if conditions remain unchanged a summons to court will be the result for offenders.

ULSTER MEMBERS PLAN TO FIGHT

Will Oppose Interference With Rights Granted Them

LONDON, Oct. 28.—(Associated Press Cable.)—Formal meetings of the Irish conference and of the committee intrusted with the task of finding a formula for further negotiations between the parties temporarily are in abeyance, but formal negotiations, through certain channels, will continue and week-end meetings of the British representatives are likely to be held at Chequers Court, where Mr. Lloyd George is to spend the week-end.

Interest now centers on Monday's debate in the Commons, of which the Irish question will be the subject. Mr. Asquith will speak, as will representatives of both the Liberal and Labor groups. The minority, supporting the vote of censure of the Government, is expected to be very small.

ULSTER WATCHFUL.

On the ground that Sir James Craig, the Ulster prime minister, assented to initiating the Irish negotiations, which the vote intends to censure, the Ulsterites will abstain from voting. Ulster's demand is that she be allowed to work her Parliament and the Ulsterites will oppose any interference with the status granted this body.

Should the prime minister in his speech indicate any yielding to the Sinn Fein demands concerning Ulster the latter's representatives have made it known that they will take a hostile attitude. The attorney-general for Ireland, Thomas Brown, is an Ulster member, and it is believed he would resign from the ministry in protest.

WANT INDUSTRY TO USE ELEVATOR SCREENINGS

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., Oct. 29.—The Fort William City Council, in special session last night, decided to co-operate with any industry desiring to locate in the district and which can use elevator screenings. Great quantities of screenings are now being burned or dumped into Lake Superior since the emergency tariff bill was put through in the United States. During the war screenings sold for more than $20 a ton.

SENT FOR TRIAL ON PETIT COTE CHARGE

WINDSOR, Oct. 28.—Samuel Bodnorofsky was committed to stand trial before a jury and Frank Appleby was dismissed on charges of robbery while armed in connection with the looting of the Merchants Bank at Petit Cote on July 20 last, when they were brought before Magistrate Gundy in Windsor police court to-day. Russell Robinson was convicted on the robbery charge late Thursday. He will be sentenced on Tuesday.

FOCH CONQUERS CITY OF NEW YORK

Greatest Demonstration Since Armistice Heralds Arrival

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—New York surrendered to Marshal Foch to-day without striking a blow. Not since Armistice Day has there been a demonstration on Broadway to compare in spontaneity or numbers with the reception accorded this afternoon to the conqueror of the German armies.

From the Battery, where he was greeted by Mayor Hylan, the great little man in "horizon blue" moved in a triumphal procession of many thousands. By his side rode Gen. Pershing, who, as leader of the United States forces in France, acted under Foch's supreme command. To Gen. Pershing fell the honors of first welcoming the French marshal to the shores of the United States.

CROWDS EVERYWHERE.

Receiving the freedom of the city from the mayor, Marshal Foch continued his "triumphal entry," motoring along Fifth avenue to the Pennsylvania station. All along the route and at the station multitudes had ass

"Millions Now Living Will Never Die"

JUDGE RUTHERFORD

The Scriptures abound in time prophecies indicating when such events as have distressed mankind during the past few years, and the opportunity for profiteering in all its phases will forever end.

The divine law is inexorable and every inspired revelation of the divine purpose respecting the affairs of the old world, over which Jehovah for a special purpose tolerated Satan to rule, has been fulfilled exactly on time, and the time for the binding of Satan is at hand.

Every Bible scholar is aware, whether it is now or one hundred years hence that mankind will some time arrive at the end of Satan's reign, when everlasting life on this earth can be his blessed portion, instead of death and the tomb as has been the case under Satan's six thousand years of evil domination and delusion.

The purpose of this free lecture is to furnish every inquirer positive Biblical proof and secular evidence, based on prophecies fulfilled during the past five years that millions now living will never die, and that we will within the next few years enter this long hoped for period, when families will be reunited and live happily on earth ever after.

If you are interested in the future blessing of yourself and your loved ones and of the whole human family, you owe it to yourself to hear this lecture by

WHO CAN HELP YOU TO GET YOUR home, or to get you a good accident, sickness or fire insurance policy? Why Reely. Why do I want any of these policies; I am not sick, neither do I meet with an accident, and I am sure I never have a fire? Why, my friend, you never know what may occur by to-morrow. We never can tell what may happen by to-morrow. Why? What has Reely got in the above? I do not know, but he will tell you if you will go to him, and he will show you. How does he get his list of properties? Why, don't you know? No. Why, he doesn't canvass house-to-house for this business, and he has always a list of properties without running after it. The reason how he does get his business is by others giving him a good recommendation. Advise and do insurance with him, and he is always pleased when he can help his fellow men. Then list your business with him, and he is always pleased with a small commission. Your Friend Reely. PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS ALL CANADIAN COMMUNITIES have been requested by a Royal Proclamation issued by His Excellency the Governor-General of Canada to take such steps as may be considered advisable and expedient to reduce fire hazards and maintain public health and safety;

And whereas the Boys' Life Council of this city, composed of the following boys' clubs and associations: Boy Scouts, Navy League, Roman Catholic and Young Judea, C. S. E. T. and Y. M. C. A. have voluntarily offered their services to assist the fire and health departments of the city in helping to reduce the risks of fire and preventable sickness in London;

And whereas fire loss of Canada has assumed alarming proportions, the average loss in Ontario for the last three years exceeding $1,000,000 a month, a per capita loss of $5 for every man, woman and child in the province;

And whereas the average annual fire loss in the principal European countries, under normal conditions, is .33c per capita;

And whereas a clean city has few fires, and conditions similar to those which cause fires often breed disease, and unsightly and unsanitary surroundings are a menace to life and health;

And whereas it is obviously of paramount importance to make London clean and attractive, safe from fire and free from disease by removing accumulations of rubbish, empty cans, waste paper, straw, ashes, etc., about our houses, in attics, cellars and back and front yards, and particularly in the vicinity of stoves, furnaces and heating pipes.

These presents are to make known that I, Edgar Sydney Little, Mayor of the City of London, do proclaim the week commencing October 31 to be

A WORTH-WHILE THOUGHT FROM A LONDON PULPIT

From a sermon to be delivered in Egerton Street Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. A. C. Bingham:

What is prayer? The reciting of a rhetorical recitation addressed to Deity is not necessarily prayer. Prayer is favorable fellowship. Prayer is heart fellowship, and fellowship may be expressed with or without words, as the poet has well put it.

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, unuttered or expressed.

Many people get a one-sided attitude towards prayer. They claim that prayer is talking to God. But prayer is listening to God as well as talking to God. When you go to the telephone of prayer put the receiver to your ear. This attitude is expressed by Frances Havergal in the following statement: Lord, speak to me that I may speak in living echoes of Thy tone.

We should expect to have God speak to us. Jesus said, "My sheep know My voice." Moses went up into the mountain to pray. He was there for 40 days and 40 nights, and when he returned he wrote the first five books of the Bible. The major part of his prayer must have been in listening.

Anything that breaks the fellowship is the enemy of man. The Bible makes war on all these things when it declares that men ought to foil everything that has a tendency to break this fellowship and men ought to make every experience of life bring them into fellowship. Have they sinned, let them go to Him and confess. Have they been disappointed, let them go to Him for the meaning. Have they joy, let them go to Him as they go to their other friends to share it with Him. Heaven is eternal fellowship with Him. Hell is the time when that fellowship is broken beyond repair. Constant communion is the only safe way to live. It delivers us from all forms of temptation, even from surprise temptations.

Fellowship may be just as real when it is resting; in fact, there is no real rest without fellowship. Fellowship does not need to be fussy to be genuine. God wants to have real continual fellowship with the sons and daughters of men. Sin always breaks that fellowship, and everything that breaks that fellowship is sinful.

Let us pray without ceasing.

The International Sunday School Lesson

LAWLESSNESS, THE WORLD'S PRESENT PROBLEM

By William T. Ellis

The International Sunday School Lesson for October 30 is: "Strong Drink in a Nation's Life." — Isa. xxviii.: 1-13.

Annapolis Royal, a sleepy, venerable, dignified and historic city in Nova Scotia, the second oldest settlement on the North American continent, suffered a disastrous fire a few weeks ago. The business center of the city was destroyed, along with many residences. But the fire was attended by incidents of more sinister significance than the destruction of property. For the occasion lifted the lid off an ugly phase of contemporary life to which we are usually blind. During the conflagration, and immediately following it, when the noblest sentiments of neighborliness should have ruled, there was widespread looting of salvaged goods.

This was no sudden outbreak of lawlessness by aliens; the men caught were of the old British breed, who settled the Maritime Provinces in the long ago. They typify a fact of the times: namely, that the spirit of disregard for law and right has eaten like a canker into the very heart of oak of our civilization. Dark and hidden forces of anarchy and crime burst out with alarming frequency in all sorts of unexpected places. What happened in staid old Annapolis Royal is close kin to what happened in Chicago and New York and San Francisco. The papers talk of a "crime wave," whereas they really mean something more than a wave—a rising tide of lawlessness which is menacing the whole world. Russia and Great Britain, Germany and the United States, Japan and France, are all being inundated by this perilous spirit.

CIVILIZATION'S PRESENT PERIL.

So short-sighted and inconsistent are we that the very men who are horrified at the deadly orgy of motion picture people in a San Francisco hotel, proceed straightway to talk complacently of the trade in contraband liquor, and to defy the prohibition laws. They do not perceive that law is law, and that obedience to law cannot become eclectic. If everybody is free to choose the laws which he will obey or disobey, then the whole structure of a civilization built upon law collapses. The man who breaks the laws against theft, as at Annapolis Royal, is no more an enemy of the commonwealth than the man who breaks the laws against bigamy or against gambling or against the sale of intoxicants. Lawlessness is lawlessness—and the greatest present peril of the world.

This is the phase of the temperance question that is uppermost for consideration as world's temperance Sunday is once more observed in the Sunday schools. It is an occasion for a broad and fearless outlook upon the attitude of the world. There is a common sweep of thought, from the crude law-breaking at Annapolis Royal to the lack of respect for men and institutions such as we see in the latest popular books. The "Mirrors of Downing Street," "The Mirrors of Washington," Strachey's "Life of Queen Victoria," Lord Esher's "Life of Kitchener," and the long-suppressed but now published third volume of Bismark's Memoirs are recent startling evidences of the iconoclastic mood of the hour.

The Bolshevik is not the only one busy at attempting to destroy ancient stabilities. The trend of the times is that way. It looks as if things in general were being prepared for some vast explosion. Arthur Guiterman's poem, "Cause and Effect," comes to mind as we see the prevalence of this attitude of disregard and disdain for constituted law and authority:

"The powder lay in heaps—a threat
Of death—where powder should not lie;
Some fool threw down a cigarette—
And flaming ruin rent the sky.

"Whereat a solemn jury met
And laid the blame in wisdom rare,
On him that threw the cigarette,
Not them that left the powder there.

"Upon the heaps of Want and Shame,
Whereupon men build, one evil day
Some fool will fling a word of flame—
And what will follow, who shall say?

"But should all earth be overset,
We'll lay the blame, in dull despair,
On him that threw the cigarette,
Not them that put the powder there."

MAKING A WORLD-ISSUE.

Twenty years ago the liquor question, of which law-observance has to-day become the paramount phase, was a theme for Sunday school lessons. It had little place in editorials or on front pages. It was the hobby of "fanatics" and pious "impractical" people. To-day it has become a leading world issue, absorbing more attention in the press of the United States and Canada than foreign affairs. It has moved from obscure Sunday school classes to the highest councils of politics. Europe is apparently more interested in the effects of prohibition in the United States and Canada than in the armament conference itself; for in its deepest consciousness the public knows that the world cannot continue half dry and half wet.

As one who regularly reads foreign publications, and occasionally the daily newspapers of many cities, I confess that I am amazed at the recklessness of much that is written about the continuance of drink under prohibition. Disregard for law seems to be accompanied by disregard for facts. It is true that in cities law-breakers seeking liquor, and willing to pay a high price for it, may usually secure contraband intoxicants. But to say that the cities are "wetter than ever," and that "there is more booze drunk to-day than before prohibition came in,' is simply to talk bosh.

For the greater part of two months I have been traveling continuously in Canada, the Atlantic States and the Middle West, and I have looked in vain for anything like the outward evidences of the bad old days of the open saloon. There are rich and reckless men who buy "bootleg" whisky and who risk "home-brew." There are also immature minds who want what is denied them simply because it is denied. But all honest men who are able to form their judgments upon a wide collection of facts know that, in this period of labor unrest and unemployment, it is a boon beyond words to society that the saloon is closed and that intoxicating liquors are generally inaccessible. The net result of the drastic legislation against strong drink has unquestionably been beneficial.

THE PENDULUM'S PRESENT SWING.

The world's after-the-war slump is partly responsible for the difficulty that has been experienced in enforcing the prohibition law, as well as other statutes. But the pendulum is swinging back. A few days ago the leading editorial writer on a Milwaukee newspaper said to me, as we talked in his office of our common war memories: "There is certainly a perceptible return toward the war ideals. People are getting over the debauch that followed the armistice. The world is seeing that her only hope is in spiritual forces." That man truly interpreted our times. The extraordinarily deep and clear interest in the Washington conference is one vindication of his opinion. The ideals that won the war, and at the same time put the iron heel of the law upon the debauching power of the liquor traffic, are again emergent.

From the depressing spectacle of the heartless looting of victims of a great fire, and of all kindred lawlessness, we turn to the more inspiring view of a world, represented by the churches and Sunday schools, which is preponderatingly unselfish and altruistic. Deeper flowing than the mood of disregard for law is the popular passion for human welfare and for righteousness. Ordinarily unvocal—entirely too unvocal—the noblest public sentiment is, nevertheless, in most tests, dominant to-day. Men and women are dreaming the great dreams of a sober world, of a world of justice, of a world of good will and brotherliness.

As our lesson text says, "precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept; line upon line, line upon line; here a little and there a little," the great truth must be taught to all peoples that no man lives to himself alone, and that there is no personal desire or privilege or right that may not be nobly surrendered for the sake of all mankind. For that is the Christian principle underlying the whole idea of temperance.

Union thanksgiving services for all the Presbyterians in the city will be held in First Presbyterian Church on Monday, November 7. Rev. William Beattie, D.D., will be the preacher.

The men of Hyatt Avenue Methodist Church are putting on a special "Men's day," on Sunday, November 13. A chorus of 100 men will contribute some rousing choruses besides quartets and solos. This will be a great rallying day for all men of the church, as every man has been personally canvassed to take some part in the service.

Episcopacy Is Essential To Church Union

Anglican Contention Is Supported By Fact That Three-Quarters of Christendom Is Under Episcopal Form of Church Government.

By the Very Rev. L. Norman Tucker, M. A., D. C. L., Dean of Huron.

For many years past the Anglican church has taken a deep interest in the question of the reunion of Christendom. We believe that Christ founded one church; that the early church was one; that for many centuries the Christian church was one; that the divisions of Christiandom are due to human sin, and that it is the will of Christ that His church should be one. It is therefore our bounden duty to do all in our power to bring about the reunion of the scattered fragments of the broken body of Christ. But it must be the reunion of the whole body.

It is true that there are sections of our church that feel more strongly drawn towards the historic churches of Europe and the East. It is also true that there are sections of our church that feel they have more in common with those English-speaking communions classed under the name of Protestant. But all feel that nothing must be done that would jeopardize or make impossible the reunion of the whole body.

STARTED FORTY YEARS AGO.

As far back as 40 years ago a reunion movement was set on foot in Canada and Bishop (then Dean) Carmichael wrote a little book in which he gave general reasons for union between the Episcopal, Presbyterian and Methodist systems. Then for some time the question fell into abeyance, to be kept alive by the Lambeth Conference, which, in 1888, laid down as a basis of union what is known as the Lambeth Quadrilateral, because it contained the four essential conditions: The Word of God, the two sacraments instituted by Christ, the Nicene Creed and the historic Episcopalate. All the while friendly relations were cultivated with the Protestant churches, which at least served to create an atmosphere favorable to reunion, and from time to time advances were made to the Church of Rome, which met with no success.

Into this condition of things was projected, in 1910, the irresistible appeal of the great Edinburgh conference. That appeal was mainly threefold. First, that the non-Christian world could only be evangelized by a united church; secondly, that the native churches founded in the non-Christian world, took little stock in the causes which had divided Western Christiandom and were moving strongly in the direction of reunion on some common basis, as was sensationally shown in the Kikuyu arrangement, and, thirdly, the points of agreement were much more numerous and more vital than the causes of disagreement. The present strong movement towards reunion dates from that period.

CENTERS ON FOUR POINTS.

This movement centers around four distinct points: First, Mr. Silas McBee, an Anglican layman, established the Constructive Quarterly in New York, to act as an open forum in which all religious communions would have an opportunity of stating the essential positions on which they stood; secondly, the Episcopal church in the United States set on foot a movement on the subject of faith and order, which has already had a world-wide influence and which is only at the beginning of its career; thirdly, representatives of the Anglican church and of the Noncomformists in England came to an understanding that is bound to have far-reaching consequences, to the effect that the Anglican church should not be asked to give up the historic episcopate and that all those elements in noncomformity that have been proved by experience to be fruitful in spiritual results must also be preserved in the reunited church, and, fourthly, the pronouncements of the Lambeth Conference in the summer of 1920. It is on those pronouncements that the churches of Christendom are now called to speak and to act.

MINISTRY IMPORTANT.

The question, as a whole, is of vast and complicated import. But the crux of the situation is recognized on all hands to be the ministry. If that question can be settled all else will be comparatively easy. The bishops assembled at Lambeth embraced in their purview the whole of Christendom. They could do nothing less. They therefore had to make provision for a ministry that would pass current through the whole of Christendom, or, as they phrase it, "A ministry acknowledged by every part of the church as possessing not only the inward call of the Spirit, but also the commission of Christ and the authority of the whole body." And to put theory into practice, they go on to say that from their point of view "the episcopate is the one means of providing such a ministry and that from considerations alike of history and of present experience it is now and will prove to be in the future the best instrument for maintaining the unity and continuity of the church."

Since three-quarters of Christendom to-day is under an Episcopal form of church government it stands to reason that Episcopacy in some form must have a place in the ministry of the reunited church. And, for their part, they go on to say that "terms of union having been otherwise satisfactorily adjusted, bishops and clergy of our communion, if the authorities of other communions should so desire, would willingly accept from these authorities a form of commission or recognition which would commend our ministry to their congregations." These are the practical steps which they suggest as a solution of the vital question of the ministry.

STATE THEIR DOCTRINES.

As bearing as this question it is important to add that they lay down sev-

ASK MINISTER TO PROBE CASE

St. Thomas M.C.R. Employees Appeal to Senator Robertson

WANT THE AIR CLEARED

Lay-Off Order of Railway Canceled by Officials

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 28.—(By Staff Reporter).—The invitation sent to Hon. G. D. Robertson, minister of labor at Ottawa, asking him to visit the city and investigate alleged unfair treatment of the labor men by officials of the Michigan Central Railway, still holds good in spite of the fact that the lay-off order, affecting some 225 men, was canceled this afternoon. It was stated here to-night that there are other conditions in the shops that demand an immediate investigation, and the visit of the minister is still urgently needed.

According to reports, one of the most flagrant cases of intimidation on record has come to light, and while definite particulars of the case were not disclosed, members of the Shop Craft Federation stated to-night that the minister's assistance was absolutely necessary. The minister will be asked to investigate this and other cases of alleged unfairness, and local men promise interesting developments when the matter is dealt with.

As far as could be learned none of the local officials is involved in the matter, and the entire case appears to be a dispute between union employees and employers over cases affecting their fellow shopmen. No reply has as yet been received from the Minister of Labor, but it is expected that before the first of the week definite information will be available as to the date of his visit.

The remains of the late Charles McManus, well-known local young man, arrived in the city to-night and funeral arrangements are being made. The deceased young man was a popular resident of the city and his loss will be deeply regretted.

SUCCESSFUL FIELD DAY.

Two permits for the erection of frame stucco dwellings were issued by City Engineer Miller to-day, the value of each house being $2,500. Contractors report that the improved stucco and stone dwelling can be constructed much cheaper than the average building, and as a result they are becoming very popular.

Alma College staged one of the most successful field days yesterday at the college grounds here. The various sports were keenly contested.

A large party of hunters left for the North woods to-day headed by Dr. C. B. Talyor, D. C. C. Lumley, and ex-Reeve James Todd, of Yarmouth. Dr. Taylor's party include W. K. Cameron, Lieut.-Col. Green, K. W. McKay, A. Ponsford, P. Courtney, H. M. Anderson, Dr. Atkens, of Shedden, and Dr. Anglin and J. C. Ponsford, of Kingston.

Dr. Lumley's party, the leader of which is unable to leave the city this year, includes: J. Williams and Herbert Henderson, of Fingal; J. Stevenson, Tyrconnell; D. McGibbon, Leonard Moore, Shedden, and Carl Barnes, St. Thomas.

James Todd will take with him, William Gilbert, New Sarum; David Caughbell, city; Ben Powers, Yarmouth; J. C. Sanderson, St. Thomas; Ben Parish, Norman Miller and Bert Davenport, Yarmouth.

The St. Thomas parties will spend most of their time in the vicinity of Trout Creek, Parry Sound district.

WHO OWNS THEM?

The question of who owns the leaves that fall from trees on city property promises to cause some discussion locally in the next few weeks. The board of works has ordered that citizens must not, under penalty of a fine, sweep the leaves off their lawn on to the improved streets of the city. The ratepayers, however, claim that as the trees are on city property they are not responsible for the leaves.

License Inspector Ross has confiscated no less than $11,000 worth of booze in the past six months, according to a report sent to Toronto to-day. This does not include the J. E. Jones shipment of $1,500, now under litigation. He has also collected in fines the sum of $2,500 in the same period.

Word reached here to-day of the death by accident at Guelph reformatory of Norman J. Agnew, superintendent of construction work, and a brother of W. L. Agnew and Gordon Agnew, of this city. Mr. Agnew was looking over the quarries during the noon lunch hour when he suddenly came upon an unexploded blast in the quarry.

Peter Stalker, J. P., one of West Elgin's best-known residents, passed away to-day after a comparatively brief illness in his 72nd year. He was widely known and very highly respected and, although by birth a Scotchman, he had spent most of his life in Aldborough. He recently made a visit to the Old Country. He was an ex-warden and for many years was prominent in public life. His wife predeceased him five years ago.

The Chamber of Commerce teams expect to reach the 400 mark in time for to-morrow night's celebration luncheon and smoker, according to those in charge.

PRIZES PRESENTED

PROMINENT STRATHROY BUSINESS MAN DEAD

STRATHROY, Oct. 28. — W. H. Freele, aged 38, prominent young businessman here, died unexpectedly to-night following a brief illness. The deceased was a partner in Newton & Freele, clothiers, and also had interests in the overall plant and sash weight factory.

Mr. Freele was a leader in local sport, an officer of the Chamber of Commerce, Strathroy A. A. A. and was active in the curling and bowling clubs. He was a member of Beaver Chapter, No. 83, A., F. & A. M.; Howard Lodge, I. O. O. F., and the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Besides his widow Mr. Freele is survived by two sons, Robert and Billie, and one daughter, Norma. Mrs. J. Anderson, Queen's avenue, London, is a sister. Annie, a sister, and Fred, a brother, are at home. The funeral will be held to-morrow to Strathroy Cemetery.

STRATFORD, Oct. 28.—H. Fitch was to-day sentenced by Magistrate Makins to two months in jail on two charges, sentences to run concurrently, of breaking into local business places.

Episcopacy Is Essential

eral important positions, as, e. g., that "all those who believe in our Lord Jesus Christ and have been baptized into the name of the Holy Trinity, share with us membership in the universal church of Christ, which is His Body," that "it is God's purpose to manifest this fellowship, so far as this world is concerned, in an outward, visible and united society, holding one faith, having its own recognized officers, using God-given means of grace and inspiring all its members to this world-wide service of the Kingdom of God;" that "we do not call in question for a moment the spiritual reality of the ministries of those communions which do not possess the episcopate;" that "in so acting no one could possibly be taken to repudiate his past ministry, nor would any of us be dishonoring the Holy Spirit of God whose call led us all to our several ministries and whose power enabled us to perform them." And they make the significant admission: "We desire frankly to confess our share in the guilt of thus crippling the Body of Christ and hindering the activity of His Spirit."

DOES NOT LEGISLATE.

But the Lambeth Conference is not a legislative nor an executive body. It is merely a consultative body. It can only make suggestions to the various self-governing branches of the Anglican communion, which alone can take action in the premises. The supreme governing body of the Church of England in Canada is the General Synod that met in Hamilton at the beginning of this month. That synod, with but one dissentent voice, endorsed the Lambeth appeal and, with practical unanimity, adopted the Lambeth resolutions. On the strength of this a strong committee was appointed, composed of bishops, clergy and laity from all parts of the Dominion, to enter into negotiations or conferences with representatives of other Christian bodies with a view, if possible, to arrive at some basis of agreement that would eventually lead to the union of those bodies.

There the matter now stands. As soon as any religious communion in Canada expresses its willingness to enter into such conferences or negotiations the committee of the General Synod will be called together to take steps to bring about such conferences or negotiations. The Church of England is deeply in earnest on this question. It is under no illusion as to the difficulties that lie in the way. But, convinced that this is the Will of God, it will leave no stone unturned to push the negotiations to a practical issue. And, from the happy experience of such conferences already held in Montreal with representatives of the Presbyterian church, it is full of hope that the movement will not be without important and blessed results. The Lambeth Conference marks a new era in the history of Christendom. Its spirit is such a marvelous manifestation of the power of the Spirit of God that we may well be confident of this very thing that He which began this good work in us will perfect it until the day of Jesus Christ.

PREDICT MAJORITY FOR GOVERNMENT

Meighen Headquarters Now Confident of Victory

United States Tariff Plan Blow to Opposition Campaign

OTTAWA, Oct. 28.—(Special to The Free Press.)—With the close of the third week of the campaign political prophets in the capital are beginning to make predictions as to the probable result.

Headquarters of all three parties are now, on the face of reports, considering the probable result of the vote. The Meighen headquarters declare that the Government will have a majority of from 15 to 20 over all parties. This estimate is based largely upon evidence of a remarkable swing to the Government in Ontario. Mr. Meighen's tour has, beyond question, been an enormous success. In less than two weeks he has gone from one end of the province to the other, addressing no fewer than 20 gatherings and reaching upwards of 70,000 people.

BIG RECEPTIONS.

The prime minister has everywhere encountered enthusiastic receptions, and his clear-cut declarations of the tariff and upon other public questions are undoubtedly making a marked impression. Mr. King, on the other hand, has thus far held only three or four meetings in the province, and these in ridings held by the Liberals in the last Parliament. Thus far in the campaign, indeed, Mr. Meighen has addressed three meetings for every one addressed by the Opposition leader.

Government headquarters here, closely in touch with every riding in the country, declare that Mr. Meighen will carry at least 60 seats in Ontario; that he will break even in the Maritime Provinces, take from 15 to 20 seats in Quebec, eight in Manitoba, seven in Alberta and Saskatchewan and make a clean sweep in British Columbia. Mr. King they declare—and this claim is largely supported by more impartial observers—will not carry 12 seats between the Ottawa River and the Pacific coast.

One of the factors working largely for the Government's success is the news from Washington indicating that Congress may still further heighten the American tariff against Canadian goods. Senators of what is known as the "Agricultural Bloc" have already decided on a schedule of rates on agricultural products which they will present to the Senate finance committee when it resumes its work next week.

THE SCHEDULE.

This schedule, according to the American Associated Press, calls, in some cases, for even higher rates than in the Fordney tariff bill as it passed through Congress. On wheat they will ask that the 35 cents per bushel rate of the emergency tariff be continued; that an increase of five cents per bushel be made on grain for barley, and that rates be placed on live stock about equal to the emergency rates. This, according to the Associated Press, "will probably mean that rates on agricultural products about on a level with the present emergency scale will be forced into the tariff law, thus aiming a hard blow at agricultural importations from Canada."

This development so completely impeaches the Agrarian and Liberal platforms, which would tear down Canadian tariff walls regardless of what Washington does, that it is having a disastrous effect upon the Crerar-King campaign.

Mr. Meighen will conclude his Ontario tour on Wednesday next, and will then invade Quebec. He will spend a week in the French-Canadian province, after which he will swing westward, spending a week in British Columbia and then working his way back through the Prairie Provinces to conclude his campaign with one week of intensive speech-making in Ontario.

BRANTFORD ADOPTS PLAN TO HELP UNEMPLOYED

BRANTFORD, Oct. 28.—Measures to provide work for the unemployed and to supplement the water supply were adopted at a special meeting of the board of water commissioners. Extension of distributing galleries and improvement work were outlined to be taken up as necessary and will also prove instrumental in relieving the unemployment situation. It was decided that the rate of wages to be paid for the extra labor and the present staff be graded from 40 cents to 50 cents an hour, according to ability, the rate of wages to be fixed by the engineer.

PLOWING MATCH AT ALVINSTON A SUCCESS

ALVINSTON, Oct. 28.—The annual Lambton County plowing match was held here yesterday on the farm of H. A. Gilroy. The day being an ideal one, large crowds turned out from all parts of the county as well as other nearby places. A large number entered the contests and many good samples of plowing were turned out.

Mr. Plain won the association cup for the best high cutting, while D. M. Campbell, of Inwood, won the Goodison cup, donated for the best tractor plowing, and Frank Stronghill, an English lad, 14 years of age, won the Royal Bank's cup.

At the close of the day the Women's Institute tendered a banquet to the men, at which toasts and speeches were given and much enjoyed by all.

HALDIMAND LIBERALS CALL ANOTHER CONVENTION

DUNNVILLE, Oct. 28.—Another convention has been called by the Liberals of Haldimand, to meet in Cayuga next Wednesday afternoon, to choose a candidate. Among the names mentioned are: R. F. Miller, of Rainham; J. J. Parsons, of Walpole; R. S. Colter, of Cayuga; Thomas Marshall, of D ville, and D. Z. Gibson, of Seneca, the probabilities in favor of the named.

The leaders of the U. F. O. are busy patching up the differences i ranks of that organization.

CAMPAIGN STARTS IN CITY TO PUT BAN ON CIGARETTE SMOKING

Temperance People Turn Efforts To Preparations For National Issue.

TWO ADDRESSES IN ONE CHURCH YESTERDAY

Organizations Are Joining Hands In What Promises Exciting Issue.

A campaign of propaganda and education directed against the cigarette was commenced in a quiet manner in London yesterday. Temperance Sunday was marked, not by the denouncement of the liquor traffic as in former years, but by an attack on the prevalent use of tobacco, with especial reference to the effects of cigarette smoking on the youth of the country.

That cigarettes will become just as great an issue as liquor is the belief of officials in many organizations. The churches, the W. C. T. U. and the Social Service Council all aim to make a concerted effort to rid the province, if not the Dominion, of the cigarette.

Yesterday afternoon Dr. David H. Carnott addressed a gathering of men at Askin Street Methodist Church on smoking. Statistics were produced which showed that the man who refrained from smoking was more mentally alert and more reliable than the person ruled by his appetite for the weed."

PIPES AND CIGARS SAFE

At night in the same church the pastor, Rev. J. T. C. Morris, gave the viewpoint of the clergy on the question and maintained that it was the tobacco manufacturers who had adopted the popular war-time slogan, "send cigarettes to the boys." Cigarettes were classed with intoxicating beverages as things which the nation could very well do without and prohibition of which would bring lasting benefit to mankind, particularly to the young men.

Cigarettes are claimed by the opponents of smoking to contain ingredients that are not only habit-forming, but which have a serious affect on the action of the heart and on the nervous system. Pipes and cigars, while not condoned, are held to be less injurious as only the tobacco leaf is smoked. The present campaign does not intend to eliminate them.

It is expected that cigarettes will be a national, or at least, a provincial issue. In various states of the union the south restrictions have been placed on cigarettes and total prohibition has been effected in some sections. The goal of liquor temperance having been attained, the reformers are now waging war on cigarettes.

The Y. M. C. A. has already become interested in the campaign for no member of that organization is allowed to smoke in the building and all are urged not to follow the habit outside the institute. Furthermore, the junior section has held an anti-cigarette week in which the lads of the city are taught the effects which result from smoking.

That is needed now, it is claimed, is that action to elevate the campaign to a provincial-wide movement.

HUGHEY D'ARCY, little known as the author of the poem, "The Face on the Bar-room Floor," has just told the origin of the story. One August night in 1887, a pathetic figure, dressed in a rusty Prince Albert, fastened at the throat with a safety-pin, entered a New York cafe and begged for a drink. One was given him and then a bartender threw him out. The next day Mr. D'Arcy wrote the poem. Mr. D'Arcy never lost track of the unfortunate, who passed away recently.

POPPY CAMPAIGN STARTED TO-DAY

Money Being Secured For Threefold Purpose.

WILL AID EX-SERVICE MEN

Endow Veterans' Cot At Children's Hospital.

To-day marks the commencement of London's poppy campaign, the threefold objective of which is to endow a veteran's cot in connection with the Children's Hospital, provide funds for the destitute ex-service men of the city and to commemorate Canada's fallen heroes by caring for the orphaned children of the devastated parts of France.

In addition to the Ladies' Auxiliary of the association, the G. W. V. A. is being assisted in the campaign by the committees of the Children's Hospital. Poppies symbolic of the part paid by Canadian soldiers in the war will be sold throughout the city and everyone is urged to wear the red flower on November 11, anniversary of the day that brought peace to the world.

The poppies are made by the orphans in France and the patron of the fund is the wife of the president of France. All moneys paid by the local G. W. V. A. go to help the needy children of France, while the profit which is made on the sale of the floral symbols here are devoted to the Children's Hospital and to the relief work among local veterans.

CANVASS AUDIENCE

Capt. Plunkett, of "Biff, Bing, Bang," the soldier revue appearing at the Grand, has agreed to assist in the sale of the poppies. To-night girls representing the women's hospital committee will canvass the audience at the theater and will continue to sell poppies on Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The management of other theaters will be interviewed shortly and it is expected that they will also permit the poppies to be sold in their playhouses.

Messrs. Colerick Bros., Dundas street, have kindly donated a part of the window for the display of the poppies. Orders may be placed there for wreaths, crosses, sprays and single poppies. Comrade F. Ireland is acting as the chairman of the campaign, which is under supervision of the president, W. G. Coles. Other cities have already sold many hundreds of dollars' worth of poppies, but it is anticipated that London will readily come up to their lead.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER CHARGES

Long-Pending Charges of Ald. Wenige To Be Taken Up.

The charges brought against the city engineering department by Ald. Wenige will be considered by the special committee some time this week, according to an announcement made by Mayor Little. His worship has requested the committee to get together on this work. At the last meeting of the Council six aldermen, with Ald. Bridge as chairman, were delegated to hear the many charges brought forward by Ald. Wenige, but up to the present there has been no effort made to deal with them. Mayor Little is now insisting that these should be cleared up as soon as possible.

RECEPTION TO FOCH PLEASES FRENCH PRESS

PARIS, Oct. 31.—The entire French press, with the exception of the Socialist and Communist newspapers, devotes much space to the reception in the United States of Marshal Foch, expressing great satisfaction over the warmth of the greetings extended him in New York and Washington.

Pertinax, the political writer of the Echo de Paris, in a dispatch describing the enthusiastic welcome of Foch, says: "It is hoped that the visit of the marshal across seas will awaken the United States from the torpor which a high Government official deplored to me to-day, and mark a resumption of the traditional friendship for France."

The Communist organ "Internationale" says the United States is welcoming Foch superlatively. But so they did Carpentier.

Joel Doucet, Yarmouth County skipper, worked the Gloucester fishing schooner, Annie E. Prescott, 360 miles into Halifax, arriving yesterday. The vessel had 4,000 pounds of halibut on board.

Negotiate To Increase Hours At G. T. Shops

Meeting of Men's Representatives and Company To Be Held At Montreal.

ONLY WORKING SIXTEEN DAYS MONTH AT PRESENT

Chief Spokesman For Men, Joseph Corbett, Left To-Day For Conference.

An effort will be made immediately by representatives of the Grand Trunk car workers to have the number of working hours for the 600 employees of the local shops increased. Joseph Corbett, chief spokesman of the Grand Trunk, who has been negotiating with the heads of the company for the past two weeks, was in London over the week-end and stated that this matter will be taken up by the representatives of the employees at once.

The employees of the local car shops have been working an average of 16 days a month during the past year, according to the spokesman, and the men are anxious that the number of hours be increased as soon as possible.

THOUSANDS INTERESTED.

If the request of the men is granted by the management of the Grand Trunk it will affect several thousand employees of the main Canadian Grand Trunk shops at Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Stratford and London.

Mr. Corbett returned to Montreal today and, accompanied by representatives of the shop trades on the system, including the machinists, boiler-makers and others, will meet a delegation from the Grand Trunk management and the matter will be thoroughly discussed.

ST. KITTS MEN NOT WYOMING GANG

Police Chief Greene In City Talks of Recent Arrests.

TWO OTHER ROBBERIES

St. Catharines Has Two Additional Cases of Safe Blowing.

Chief of Police Harry Greene, of St. Catharines, who is in the city to-day, does not believe that the four men arrested there early on Sunday morning were concerned in the Wyoming bank robbery. Rather he is of the opinion that they constitute a gang which had perpetrated several robberies in the vicinity of St. Catharines and for whom the police had been looking.

On Friday night last burglars, believed to be the men now arrested, blew the safe in the office of the Imperial Oil Company at St. Catharines and secured $300 in cash. From clues left the officers had an idea of the identity of the guilty parties and believe they have now captured the right men. Another burglary, believed to have been the work of the same gang, was perpetrated in St. Catharines some time ago, when George Barnes' safe was blown. Barnes is the St. Catharines manager of the Ontario Grape Growing and Wine Producing Company, and it was believed that in this robbery the booty secured was considerable. In this case the thieves blew the outer door off the safe and then removed a steel cash box, containing much money as well as valuable jewelry. The empty cash box was found in a corn field near St. Catharines several days ago.

THE TIRE THAT FAILER.

Sunday morning's arrest was made by Sergeant Brett and P. C. Shannon, of the St. Catharines force. They came upon their prisoners stalled at the north end of the city. The men had a big motor car, with a complete safe-blowing outfit, and each was armed with a loaded revolver. They were repairing a flat tire when the officers came along in a police car. Brett approached and pretended that he was searching for liquor. He held up the four men, called Constable Shannon and made a search of the car, finding the firearms as well as a quantity of fuse wire, already capped, explosives, a battery drill, a sledge-hammer and a billy.

AMERICAN CROOKS.

Detectives from Niagara Falls, N. Y., have identified the prisoners as crooks who are well known on the American side of the line and it is believed that the St. Catharines breaks are not the only ones to their credit. Their descriptions and pictures will be circulated and bank employees where robberies have taken place will be brought to St. Catharines in an effort to identify the men.

The theory that they may be the men concerned in the Wyoming robbery is based largely on the fact that the car supposed to have been used in that robbery was fished out of the Niagara River at Chippewa, which led to the opinion that the guilty men were in the vicinity of St. Catharines. The car found, by the way, was the one stolen from the garage of R. T. Wright, at Thorndale.

Local police are awaiting developments in the St. Catharines case with interest. Chief Greene had a long conference this morning with the local officials, from whom he obtained considerable information. Before going to St. Catharines Chief Greene was a well-known member of the London police force.

SEES EARLY COLLAPSE OF BOLSHEVIST REGIME

OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Collapse of the Bolshevist regime in Russia with its attendant increase of European trade is confidently expected within the next two months, according to Alphonse Pressel, prominent diamond merchant of Antwerp, Belgium, who arrived in Ottawa over the week-end. Mr. Pressel stated that information on the conditions in Russsia was continually leaking out. All refugees from that country were unanimous in their opinion that the downfall of Lenine and Trotzky would take place soon.

Huron College Communion Service Lost For 32 Years

1,500 Back Yards In City Cleaner To-Night Than They Were This Morning

Boys Start Clean-Up Campaign. Began At Own Homes.

WARDS TO BE DIVIDED INTO DISTRICTS TUESDAY

By 6 o'clock to-night the community service campaign, launched by the different boys' organizations of the city, will have resulted in 1,500 cleaner backyards in London. Believing that all missionary activity should properly begin at home the energetic youths attacked the dirt and corruption around their own domiciles to-day and will thus have a clear conscience when they investigate conditions in their neighbor's lots.

To-morrow a meeting will be held of the senior boys in charge of the campaign when the entire city will be mapped out into different sections and leaders appointed to superintend activities in each one. It is probable that there will be three or four districts in each of the four wards so that between 12 and 16 boys will need to be appointed to direct the campaign.

WILL HAVE PERMITS.

In no instance will interference be allowed on the part of the boys. Only the seniors who will be armed with authoritative permits from the Board of Health will be allowed to enter private property. Where causes of filth are located the citizens will be asked to co-operate in the effort for a cleaner London, but if later investigation proves that they have not acted on the request the civic authorities will see to it that the desire becomes a command.

Special days will be set aside for fire prevention and for public health. On these days the need of doing away with all rubbish that the "fire fiend" and all garbage which tends to lower community health, will be stressed and it is hoped that the citizens will profit from the advice. It is expected that the same action as last year will be taken by the garbage department in arranging for extra delivery during the coming week. There will be no restrictions on the amount of garbage and ashes put out, and the rules against certain forms of rubbish will be held in abeyance.

NAVY LEAGUE ACTIVE.

By an oversight the Navy League was not classed among those boys' organizations taking part in the clean-up campaign. The members of this group are, however, taking a very active part in the community effort and are co-operating in every way possible with the Boy Scouts, Trail Rangers, Tuxis Boys, Y. M. C. A. juniors, Catholics and Judean Club.

CENSURE MOTION BEFORE COMMONS

Government Stability Considered In No Danger.

LONDON, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Debate in the House of Commons on the Irish question, particularly the Unionist motion intended as a censure of the Government, excited keen interest throughout Great Britain today. Evidence of this interest was found in the fact that it was impossible to satisfy more than a fraction of the demands for seats in the restricted public galleries, hundreds of applicants being disappointed. The Unionist motion, which was introduced by Col. John Gretton, follows: "That this House views with grave apprehension the action of the Government in entering upon negotiations with delegates from Southern Ireland who have taken the allegiance to the Irish republic and have repudiated the authority of the crown.

"And, in view of the fact that an act of Parliament for the settlement of the relations between Great Britain and Ireland was passed as recently as last year, this House is of the opinion that no proposals for the Government of Southern Ireland should be made without the sanction of Parliament."

Prime Minister Lloyd George returned to London from Chequers Court, his country home, last night, so that he might have final consultations with his colleagues before replying to his critics in the House to-day. It was expected his speech would virtually be the only

WOMAN BANDIT "FRISKS" CITIZEN AT HAMILTON

HAMILTON, Oct. 31.—A woman bandit is Hamilton's latest bid for fame in the criminal world. Fred. Miskey reports that on Saturday night a woman and two men in an automobile took him for a drive to get some drinks on the Dundas road. On his return to the city the woman demanded $9. When Miskey refused to pay that much she pulled a gun and covering him went through his pockets and relieved him of $40.

TWO MEN SHOT IN FALLS BANK

Hold-Up Men Armed With Shotguns Get $5,000.

GIRL SPECTATOR HIT

Patrolman Seriously Wounded In Head and Abdomen.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) Two men were shot, one probably fatal, and $5,900 was stolen from the Niagara Falls Trust Company's bank at Falls and First streets at noon to-day by hold-up men armed with shotguns.

The robbery was staged at the noon hour. The bank is at the city's busiest corner and was crowded with people at the time.

THE INJURED.

Patrolman George Holohan shot through the head and in the abdomen, condition serious; Miss Mildred Kitt, shot in the right knee; Albert Van Aucken, shot in the right arm. Holohan was shot down as he tried to stop the bandits as they emerged from the bank. Miss Kitt was caught by a stray bullet as she stood in a crowd in front of the bank, while Van Aucken was hit by a stray bullets from one of the bandit's shotguns while in the throng of customers in the bank.

TRAVEL IN FAST CAR.

The bandits traveled in a high-powered automobile. They turned into First street and then into Jefferson. At Second street and Jefferson avenue Harry Murray, who was pursuing them in an automobile, turned his car in front of the bandits' machine. They fired several shots, two of them passing through the doors of the car and grazing his legs. The bandits avoided him.

PRINCIPAL SNELGROVE BURIED THIS AFTERNOON

Pupils of Lorne Avenue School Attend Funeral In Body.

Flags at all public schools were flown at half-staff to-day as a mark of respect to the late Principal W. J. Snellgrove, of Lorne Avenue School, who was buried at Mt. Pleasant Cemetery this afternoon.

Pupils from the fifth to eighth grades at Lorne avenue attended the funeral in a body, as did the Board of Education and the public school principals of the city.

The funeral service was held at King Street Presbyterian Church at 2 p. m., at which Rev. Mr. McIntosh officiated.

Trustees of the London Board of Education met in special session at 1.30 and authorized the drawing up of resolutions of regret.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Turnbull, Loughheed and Howett, from the Bowling Club, and Messrs. Gibbs, Althouse and Adams from the Teachers' Association.

TROLLEYS CRASH AT HIGH SPEED

Twenty-Five Persons Injured In Montreal Collision.

HIT BY FLYING GLASS

Two Street Cars On St. Denis Line Total Wreck.

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Through an error in switching two street cars of the Montreal Tramways Company collided this morning on the St. Denis branch of the system near Cremazie, a suburb of Montreal. The two cars were practically destroyed and 25 people were more or less seriously injured, most of the passengers hurt being hit with flying glass. The motorman of one of the cars was pinned down among the wreckage for some time and was seriously injured. Ambulances from all the city hospitals were rushed to the scene with doctors and nurses. A number of the injured were brought back to the hospitals, but the majority were treated on the spot.

COLLISION IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—A dense fog enveloped New York to-day, tying up shipping in the bay and delaying the traffic on surface and ferry lines. The fog was the cause of a trolley car collision in Brooklyn, in which 15 persons were slightly injured. Commuters' trains in New Jersey and on Long Island were greatly delayed.

WEAK CHURCHES ALLOTTED $1,200

Action Taken By London Presbyterian Council.

Allocations amounting to $1,200 were made to the weaker Presbyterian parishes in the city to-day by the executive of the London Presbyterian Council. This body is purely local and exists for the purpose of supplying augmentation from the stronger churches of the city to the smaller ones which are unable to pay the full amount of their minister's stipend.

The last meeting of the council was held in St. Andrew's Church last spring and at that time the allocations made to-day were approved. It was decided by the executive that the next meeting of the full council would not be held until the first of the year, when the forward movement funds have all been paid in and the local appropriations made.

If all the subscriptions to this movement are paid locally, there will be a balance of about $20,000 to be devoted to the building up of Presbyterianism in the city. Several churches are in need of more equipment, while others are much too small to care for the growing work in their district. A survey committee has been appointed to investigate the claims of all these churches and to allow proportionate sums at the beginning of the year

CHIEF OF POLICE AT SANDWICH SUSPENDED

"Irregularities" Alleged Will Be Laid Before Council Next Monday.

WINDSOR, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press Dispatch.)—Gordon Pillon, chief of police, Sandwich, has been suspended by the police committee of the Sandwich Council. Formal charges have not been made yet, but will be laid before the Council on Monday next, it was stated to-day.

Mayor Hector Davis stated to-day that no charges had been made against Pillon, but that certain "irregularities" had been found which would be made a basis for charges to be brought before the Town Council.

As a member of the police commission Mayor Brealt said he could say nothing further but that Pillon's suspension would remain in effect until the matter had been taken up by the Council and the charges sifted.

Pillon declined to make any statement.

CLEVELAND PLANS TO HONOR MARSHAL FOCH

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Marshal Foch will spend two days in Cleveland, it was announced here to-day, arriving on the morning of November 8. The official reception will be accorded on November 9. Western Reserve University will confer the degree of doctor of laws on the marshal.

MILLIONS DAMAGE TO B. C. TOWNS IN PATH OF DISASTROUS FLOOD

U. S. BUSINESS IS GETTING BACK INTO HIGH GEAR

CLEVELAND, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Improvement in nearly all lines in August is holding up well and "the time is near at hand when business can safely throw away its crutches," according to the monthly review of business conditions in the United States issued by the Fourth Federal Reserve Bank for October.

The steel and iron industry, which is considered the thermometer for many lines, reports fires have been started under many furnaces long idle. The building industry is finding its stride and a marked improvement was shown last month in many lines of manufacturing.

These facts, with many other encouraging signs, show a healthy though slow growth toward renewed prosperity and tend to dim the specter of unemployment, the report indicates.

Death List At Britannia Beach Stands At 36—Port Coquitlam Suffers Property Loss Not Yet Fully Estimated.

NANAIMO DISTRICT IN STATE OF FLOOD

Pacific Great Eastern Roadbed and Trestles, With Telegraph and Telephone Lines Are Washed Out.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 31.—Western British Columbia to-day is counting its losses of a week-end of disastrous floods, the worst perhaps in the history of the province. One residential community, Britannia Beach, is destroyed and 36 of its citizens are drowned. Port Coquitlam has suffered severe property damage, which is not yet ascertained. In the Nanaimo district, Vancouver Island, the heaviest rainfall in a quarter of a century has left the district in a serious state of flood, and the famous scenic resort of Capitalona and Seymour, on the north shore of Burrard Inlet, is in flood, with trestles and roadbed of the Pacific Great Eastern, as well as telegraph and telephone lines washed out. Several million dollars will have to be spent in repairing the damage.

FIGHT TO RECOVER BODIES.

The mining town of Britannia Beach, comprising a hundred homes, and one of the most valuable copper refineries in the world, fought in the rain and wind throughout Friday night to rescue its families and recover its dead, following the destruction of the residential part of the settlement by the floods.

Nestling under the hills in which the copper mines are located, at the foot of the great concentrator which refines the crude ore, the town had settled down for the night. Inclement weather drove the citizens to the shelter of their homes. Three miles back in the hills, near the mines proper, a railroad "fill" was being watched night and day for the possibility of a flood. Incessant rains, melting snow from the higher levels and swollen streams which ordinarily trickled harmlessly seaward, had deposited a veritable lake of water on the shoulder of the mountain.

36 PERSONS ARE DEAD

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—Thirty-six persons are dead, 15 are injured, a mining town is practically wiped out and another village is partially inundated, railway tracks and bridges are destroyed, completely cutting off Vancouver and the mainland from railroad connection with the eastern part of the province, and damage estimated at several million dollars has been wrought by floods in this vicinity since Thursday. Simultaneously on Friday evening the greater part of the Town of Britannia Mines, of Howe Sound, was wiped out by a flood, and the Fraser Valley, just east of Vancouver, was flooded.

The greater disaster was not known until the next day. The Britannia settlement has communicated with the outside world over its own telephone wires and these are rarely used at night. Their destruction passed unnoticed, and the disaster, which caused the deaths of at least three dozen persons, was unknown until straggling boats brought the news on Saturday morning. The town, which is devoted to the milling of copper ore, will not recover from the disaster perhaps for several months. The damage in the Fraser Valley is less serious and already people are returning to their flooded homes in the Village of Port Coquitlam, and railway bridges are being repaired, with every hope that Monday or Tuesday will see a resumption of traffic. The Canadian Pacific, the Canadian National and the Pacific Great Eastern are all affected by the Fraser and Coquitlan floods.

Fully half of the 110 Britannia Mines neat cottages, with their trim lawns and flower gardens were carried on the crest of the flood. Some houses were smashed to splinters; most of the remainder are still partially submerged.

The flood was due to a torrential downpour of rain, the climax of continuous rains for a month, a heavy fall of snow in the mountains and a chinook wind which melted this snow and turned the creek into a torrent.

The identified dead and the injured are:

TWO YEARS FOR THEFT OF AUTO

George Grant Sent To Kingston Penitentiary.

DENIES THE ACCUSATION

Mother Declares Boy Was Not Alone In Crime.

Two years in Kingston penitentiary was the sentence meted out to George Grant, who was convicted of the theft of an automobile before Judge Talbot Macbeth at the courthouse this morning. He was found guilty of stealing an automobile from Springbank Park on the night of June 16.

The evidence given by George Langridge, who is at present serving a term at the Guelph prison farm for the theft of another automobile, was to the effect that he and Grant stole the car in question from Springbank Park and that they took it to the farm of Charles Langridge, London Township. The following day they went to the farm and removed some parts from the car.

Evidence showing the presence of Grant at the Langridge farm was given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Langridge. The former admitted in the box that he had taken the car into the bush on the farm and burned it. Detective Thomas Bolton told of having found parts of the car in the bush on the Langridge farm.

DENIES THEFT.

Grant, in the witness box, denied absolutely that he had stolen the car or that he was ever at Springbank Park with Langridge. He declared also that he had been in Ingersoll on the night that it was claimed that he stole the car. He said that he was at Charles Langridge's farm one morning. He had driven George Langridge out to the farm one morning and saw the car in the barn. He did not know whose it was, however. He set the date that he was in Ingersoll by a bill for repairs to the car he was in at a garage. He did not have the bill, however, and his three companions on that trip were not in the courtroom.

When Grant, who is 19 years of age, was sentenced his mother, who was in the courtroom, came forward and addressed the court. She declared that there were others who had not been caught. She burst into tears as she spoke to his honor.

CAMPAIGN ON FOR SMALLER BOARD

Ask Western Ontario Cities To Join Movement.

At to-morrow's meeting of the Board of Education it is expected that the 1921 board of trustees will go on record in favor of a reduced board and will authorize the drawing up of a petition to be presented at the next meeting of the Urban Trustees' Association of Ontario praying that body to use its influence in securing necessary legislation from the Ontario House.

London, however, will not act alone in this matter, for Trustee Edwin Smith to-day outlined efforts for securing the co-operation of other Western Ontario municipal Boards of Education in backing the plan for the smaller trustee board. At to-morrow's board session he will ask his fellow trustees to authorize the sending of letters to Boards of Education in Brantford, Chatham, St. Thomas, Sarnia, Windsor, Guelph, Woodstock, Kitchener and other points asking that they also send petitions to the trustees' association suggesting the need of permissive legislation towards reducing the size of urban boards of trustees.

NO DEFINITE NUMBER.

It is understood that London will not commit itself to any definite number as being the ideal size for an educational commission. Five is believed to be the best number, but the plan is to first secure legislative endorsement of the smaller board idea. The actual number, it is stated, can be best left in the hands of the department of education for Ontario.

Trustee Smith is confident that the trustees will to-morrow unanimously endorse action towards securing a smaller Board of Education, which will eliminate the committee system, secure, it is believed, trustee candidates of the highest caliber, and make for economy in a department which is now spending in London over $1,000,000 a year.

ASK OBSERVANCE OF ARMISTICE DAY

Ald. Cameron Wilson Will Ask Immediate Action.

Ald. J. Cameron Wilson, at this week's finance committee meeting, will ask that the city take due recognition of Armistice Day, both as commemorating the heroic sacrifices of Canadian soldiers and as a national day of thanksgiving.

A special emergency appropriation may be made, and Col. C. M. R. Graham, D. S. O., asked to arrange a celebration similar to the one which was so successfully carried out last year.

Col. Graham stated that no veteran organization had yet made a move towards a civic celebration, as they held that the mayor and Council should make the first move in that direction. Returned soldiers feel that it is not becoming their dignity to initiate celebrations of that kind without being invited to do so by the civic corporation.

1,307 BIRTHS AND 838 DEATHS RECORDED IN LONDON DURING 1921

October Breaks Marriage Record, Bringing Total Up To 548 For the Year.

Each month of the 10 past months of 1921 has seen, on an average, 130 births, 54 marriages and 83 deaths within the city limits. The total for the year now shows 1,307 births, 548 marriages and 838 deaths.

October, month of chrysanthemums, has displaced June as the month of weddings. For, during this month, 62 couples, 124 young people, pledged their troth before the altars of various city churches.

This month, like Abou Ben Adhem, the Anglican clergy leads all the rest with regard to the marriages performed by them. They present the winning score of 20 ceremonies, while the Methodist ministers come second with 19. The Presbyterian ministers are third with a total of 10 marriage ceremonies to their credit; the Catholic clergy performed eight ceremonies; the Baptist Church clergy in London report three marriages, and the Congregationalists end the list with two.

During the passing month there were 112 births, of which 50 were males and 62 females. It is believed that notices should be published about the "Never-never" land for the guidance of prospective infants. These signs should read: "Warning! If you want to be a boy on earth, avoid October as you would a plague."

There were only 88 deaths and, strangely enough, the reaper took even toll of both sexes, as there were 44 males listed amongst October's eternally missing and 44 females.

NEED OF JUVENILE COURT IS SHOWN

Acting Magistrate Sewed Up By Two Departments.

VALUABLE TIME LOST

Citizens Waste Hours Over Hearing of Complaints.

The need of a juvenile court judge or else of an additional police magistrate to help care for the business of the police court on a busy day was plainly manifest this morning, when people having business in the police court spent a whole morning while two minor motor cases and a couple of juvenile court cases were heard. From 10 o'clock until 12.30 the net financial result of the court's deliberations was the imposition of one $2 fine, imposed on a milkman for distributing milk in bottles which had not been kept properly clean.

Magistrate Bartlett was kept particularly busy. Before 10 o'clock he heard juvenile court in his office and had two lads before him charged with robbery. At 10.45 he ascended the police court bench and from that time until 12.30 was occupied in hearing two cases, remanding one man for sentence at a later date and delivering judgment in the case of a milk man, evidence in which was heard last week.

The prisoners' dock contained five persons, who were brought into court at 10 o'clock, and not disposed of until after 12.30. The courtroom was crowded with police officers, most of whom had come to give evidence after doing night duty on their beats, witnesses and others who had business in the court and the usual number of spectators. All the windows were tightly closed and toward the end of the session it was possible to get a faint idea of what the ventilation system in the black hole of Calcutta must have been like.

MILL GRINDS SLOWLY.

And all this time the mills of justice ground slowly—very slowly.

Crown Attorney McKillop moved for sentence in the case of Thomas Devine, charged with sending threatening letters to his father. It was expected that the parent of the youth would have been in court, but as he was not Mr. McKillop asked for an adjournment until Tuesday, saying such a serious case against the young man should hardly be disposed of without the presence of his father, who is also the complainant.

Questioned by the crown attorney, young Devine admitted that he had been released from the Ontario reformatory in June, after serving a sentence of five years. This in itself, the crown attorney said, looked bad, for the original sentence was an indeterminate one and unless the boy had been a particularly troublesome prisoner he would have been released before the five years had expired. In view of all the circumstances Mr. McKillop thought the case should not be disposed of without the boy's father being in court and the adjournment was granted until to-morrow.

Malcome McNeish, charged with furiously and recklessly driving an automobile, was next called. In this case the fire department was interested, it being claimed that McNeish drove ahead of the ladder truck and thereby hampered that piece of apparatus in making speed to a fire. It developed that in turning from Waterloo street to St. James street the car and truck collided and both were somewhat damaged.

Three members of the fire department gave evidence and although all told practically the same story they were each examined and cross-examined at considerable length. McLeish then made his statement and another lengthy cross-examination ensued. The upshot of it all was that the magistrate decided that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the charge of reckless driving and McNeish was dismissed.

MUCH TIME LOST.

Another motor case was then taken up and dragged on for half an hour. It had not been completed up to 12.30.

Verne Howe, Fred Maul and William Barrett, charged with disorderly conduct in a house on Nelson street, and Eva Barrett, charged with intoxication in the same house. At the rate of progress being made at 12.30 the indications were that the last case would have to be heard by lamplight.

"It is a great argument either for a juvenile court or an assistant magistrate on busy days," said a citizen, who had waited in the courtroom all morning. "As it is at present a citizen summoned, say, for a minor infraction of the Ontario Motor Act, finds it cheaper to plead guilty and pay his fine, even though he may be innocent, than to come to the court and waste time of greater value than the amount of the probable fine and costs."

DIES AT KITCHENER. — Following a three months' illness, Gordon, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Wallace Schneider, Kitchener, died on Sunday afternoon. The family removed some time ago from London to Kitchener, and were at one time well-known residents of this city, residing at 373 Maitland street for quite a number of years. Besides his parents the young lad is survived by one sister, Mary, at home. The funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

RAMBLING AROUND WITH OLD DOC. PEP

October 30 (Lord's Day).—Rose and we all breakfast together for the once, having with us a guest from Montreal. The talk being about a play he sees lately in Toronto, which is advertised as a Yang-kee musical comedy, but heaven witness it is not musical and very little comedy. The male part of the chorus being notable, he says, because of an "adenoid tenor,' a thing I never heard of before in my life, but a pretty apt description of some I have also heard. "A good show, though, he points out, "but for one thing. One scene they have is laid in Brazil or some such South American country and the whole corps of principal actors about to be shot by the Brazil-nuts or what not, but they be saved in the nick of time. Which was the greatest mistake I ever saw, almost; the whole crew should have been shot!

A strange fashion reported from Paris, the capital of the Frenchmen, where all that ride velocipedes by night do hang Japanese lanterns on their steering bars, which is a fashion we establish here and to hold parades. Methinks a hundred velocipedes moving together with these paper lanterns would make a fine sight and also show lordly drivers of little tin cars that we be on the earth and not worms to be run over by yeomen and such like as I be nearly last Saturday.

Out to my Lord Abramson's on Saturday evening and hear him discuss how he is a self-made man. A form of egoism which seems the worst of any forms. He pointing out that he begins life in a log cabin and now has his own palace and is a baron to the empire. Which my lady hears and smiles at approvingly. But presently Commodore Potts suddenly observes: "A strange thing how we praise men that are self-made, but woman, lovely woman, is never praised for that very same art! Which makes Lady Abramson glower at him. It being well known that she wears a wig and paints most ridiculous.

And this day there went about the city hundreds of men of the churches inviting stay-at-home men to churches. The greatest evidence of a desire to be brotherly I have yet seen. A fine beginning and St. George grant that it laps over into the week. We have had Sunday religion time without memory, now let us have weekday religion and weekly brotherhood. 'Tis the latter that counts.

No one has yet accused Temperance of being a Circe, but witness the number of blind pigs which follow in her trail!

The news is that Naples is under water for several hours. An unusual example of Italian enthusiasm; we suppose, in a novel form of "clean-up week."

Out to a concert on Saturday night and to hear a noteworthy pianist. Partly playing from written music, partly out of his own brain where the weaver, Music, is busy night and day. And he closes with one such and the women to gather round him. One asking: "And would you tell me the name of that last number?" "Oh, that," the musician replies, "was an improvisation." "Ah," returns the woman, "I thought I recognized it, but I had forgotten the name!" Which was strange.

Grandfather sends us a letter from his hunting trip and mentions that the people in the north country still mighty resentful of being called a frozen country. "Our guide, a young Irishman," says my grandfather, "is especially bitter. He tells me yesterday: 'The climate bad? Nonsense! Shure people come here and they won't take care of themselves and they die. Then they write home that it is the climate which kills them. It is as healthy as any place on earth, people die anywhere, an' if you will be good enough to tell me where they don't, I'll go and end me days there!'"

Some one is good enough to leave an article on my desk which tells of another case where a man's brain is nearly all taken out of him through warr injury, yet he lives and is learning to read and write again. This subtracted brain evidently being a mere storehouse for knowledge and other parts left. Another item of proof that the mind is distinct from the phosphorus cells of our cerebral hemispheres. And in our paper on Saturday a scientific story that sight is something superior to the eye. The day will come when we shall find the first person singular of the personal pronoun to be the greatest fact in the universe, mayhap a part of the Greatest Fact.

A mighty absurd world. Nine people out of ten who send children to school in this city subscribe to the Bible as the book of books. To prove that they keep it on their center tables with a knit dolly over it year in and year out. Yet the Bible is not taught in our schools. All of us may shed tears the easiest in the world, over a moveable picture or stage play of a white-haired mother in difficulties. We wonder how many sons have answered their mothers sharply this day? Nearly everyone is roaring at our city taxes and the weakness of our elected governors, yet only 45 per cent. will vote come election day. Our churches profess to follow the Prince of Peace, how many churches in this Christendom have sent memorials to their Governments that they stand forth for disarmament at Washington come November 12?

APPOINTED TO STAFF AGRICULTURE OFFICE

George D. Irvine Takes Up Duties As Assistant to Secretary Finn.

George D. Irvine, B. S. A., Dalkeith, has been appointed as assistant to R. A. Finn, district representative of the department of agriculture. Mr. Irvine arrived this morning to take over his new duties.

Mr. Irvine succeeds Clayton Frey, who was appointed as agricultural representative for the County of Haldimand several weeks ago.

The new assistant is splendidly qualified for the work of the Middlesex County department office. The appointment of an assistant was absolutely necessary in view of the short course in agriculture which will open at Strathroy on November 28. During the tenure of this school much of Mr. Irvine's time will be devoted to that work.

STUDENTS' RECITAL.

The students' weekly recital was held on Saturday afternoon at the London Institute of Musical Art. The following students contributed numbers on the program: Edith Brown, Lillian Howard, Jack Holmes, Vernon Griffith, Edward Fox, Fred Underhill, Mildred Baker, Winnifred Johnston, Constance Masuret, Sylvia Hill and Grace Bayley. The teachers who were responsible for the training of the pupils were Misses Irene Foster, Edith Irvine, May Atrill, Iva Smith, Jennie Steele, O. Leo Herbert. Mesdames McHardy-Smith and Jordan.

MRS. KEENLEYSIDE DEAD

Well-Known Soprano Soloist Succumbed Early This Morning.

The death occurred early this morning of Mrs. Annie E. Keenleyside (Annie E. Reid), wife of Llewellyn Keenleyside. The deceased had been in failing health for some time but death came unexpected.

Before her marriage Mrs. Keenleyside was a very prominent soprano soloist and held several important choir positions both in this city and in Toronto. She was a soloist in Parkdale Methodist Church, Toronto, for some time, and following her resignation came to London, where she was connected with the Dundas Street Center Methodist for 11 years and also with the Colborne Street Methodist for some time after her marriage.

The deceased was born in Dundalk and was the daughter of the late James Reid and granddaughter of the late John Little, magistrate of Collingwood for some years.

She is survived by her husband and four aunts, Mrs. Screuby, of this city; Mrs. J. H. Dazell, Toronto; Mrs. F. B. Walker, Chatham, and Mrs. T. Cinnamon, Oshawa.

The funeral will be held from her late residence, 487 King street, on Wednesday, at 3 o'clock, to Mt. Pleasant Cemetery. Services will be conducted at 2.30 by Rev. John Garbutt, of Dundas Center, assisted by Rev. Judson Kelley, of Colborne Street Methodist Church.

BEGIN FACTORIES EARLY IN SPRING

Expect Big Construction Boom Will Start Soon.

AUTOMOBILE CENTER

Campaign For Expansion Will Soon Bear Fruit.

With the revival of business generally that is noted in all sections, London's prospects for a large industrial building program for next year are becoming correspondingly brighter. Several large American manufacturing companies that have already purchased sites here, with the intention of erecting factories in London, are again making preparations for an early start on construction work. It is confidently expected that by the time the building season of 1922 opens the amount of industrial construction in sight for this city will be close to one and one-half million dollars.

The Service Truck Company, which purchased a portion of the Frank estate on Wellington road for a factory site is now considering the situation with reference to commencing operations early next year. Officials of the company are expected to arrive in London shortly to confer with local men interested, and it is believed that plans for the new building will be decided upon within a few months, at the latest.

NEW PLANTS

The new plant which the Rawley Drug Company is planning to erect on Dundas street, near Rattle street, will also be constructed next year, it is expected.

There are other industries looking to London with a view to locating here. In this connection, it is pointed out that with two large motor truck factories and a large automobile industry here, there will be a good chance for establishing factories to manufacture automobile and motor truck parts.

During the few months of business depression through which Canada and the United States have passed there was but little done in the way of interesting manufacturers in London, other than to keep the advantage of the city ever before those large firms that are looking for expansion. It was impossible to secure the attention of the manufacturers to new fields so long as they found it all but impossible to look after the old ones, but as that period has passed, it is expected that the months of patient advertising work will bear fruit.

PROUD NEW FATHER WAS GIVEN WRONG DOPE

Nurst Told Him Daughter Was a Son and Chortling Telegrams Carried Out Glad But Mistaken Tidings.

The visit of the stork—incidentally this was the first visit—to a young couple of London has caused the happy father more than the usual worry and excitement. Proud, as any young father should be at such times, he is nevertheless considerably worried about the situation, and all because he does not know whether the stork left a son or a daughter. The nurse told him at first that the new arrival was a son, but this messagewas later superseded by another one which informed him that he was the father of a daughter. Now he does not know whether someone with considerable influence has been successful in trading off a daughter for the son, whom the nurse mentioned at first.

Immediately after the "cutest baby" made its debut the fond father, delighted at the birth of a son, went around bragging about it to all his relatives. Telegrams were dispatched to mother-in-law and other interested relatives, telling them of the happy event. There was no doubt but what the young son was destined to be the one man in Canada who, in the future, would lead this Dominion to a larger place in the sun than it now enjoys.

But alas for the fond hopes. These were all shattered when the father was later informed that the son was a daughter. Letters were at once sent out, apologizing for the impressions created by the telegrams, and altogether some of the joys of being the father of one of the finest babies alive have been killed.

The son's great future was shattered in a moment. While the women are taking a larger place in the government of the Dominion than ever before, it is too much to hope that a day-old daughter will ever become premier of the land of the maple in a brief 21 years time. However, the proud young parent is making the best of the situation. He has decided that he will keep the daughter at all events, and his friends are showering congratulations on him.

WM. KEOUGH BURIED.—The funeral of the late Wm. Keough, who died on Tuesday morning in his 65th year, took place from his late residence, 32 Langarth street, on Thursday afternoon to Woodland Cemetery. The late Mr. Keough was a well-known citizen of London for about 50 years. The funeral was in charge of Hackett Lodge, L. O. B. L., No. 805, and was largely attended. Mr. Keough, besides being a member of the above lodge, also belonged to Black Knights Covenent Preceptory, No. 346, and Woodmen of the World. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. L. Armitage, of St. James' Anglican Church, assisted by Rev. Heathcote, of Epiphany Church, South London, and Rev. Mr. Whilen. The pallbearers were chosen from Hackett Lodge. Surviving members of Mr. Keough's family are his widow, Elizabeth; William Arthur Keough, a son, and a daughter, Mrs. Pierce, of Port Huron, Mich.

OBJECT LESSON FOR S. S. PUPILS

Rev. Watts Speaks At Sunday School Anniversary.

ILLUSTRATED SERMON

Many Thoughts For Both Old and Young.

An object lesson intended primarily for the boys and girls of the Sunday school, but which had many lessons for the church members, marked the morning services at Wellington Street Methodist Church on Sunday, the occasion of the anniversary of the Sunday school. The body of the church was completely filled, while the classes from the Sunday school occupied the gallery. The pastor, Rev. George T. Watts, B. D., was the speaker.

The Sunday school service was an open session on the occasion of the anniversary and Rev. J. T. G. Norris, B. A., B. D., of Askin Street Methodist, gave the scholars a most interesting and impressive talk. The pastor was the speaker again at the evening services, when he addressed both scholars and parents on "Our Debt to Childhood."

It was a direct and delightfully simple picture which the pastor drew for the scholars of the Sunday school by means of potent illustrations. He likened a large magnet to the power of Jesus Christ and by means of nails in various combination showed the power of God through Jesus Christ.

A MAGNET.

In his opening remarks Mr. Watts pointed out that the magnet would draw to it any material of a like nature. So it was with Jesus Christ. He came to the world and became a man as other men. He knew what it was to be tempted and tried and He knew the sorrows and temptations of men. Because He was a man He was able to draw men and women, boys and girls to Him.

As his first illustration, Mr. Watts exhibited some old, bent, rusty nails, which he compared with old people 50 to 80 years of age. He pointed out that the rust of the nails was like sin and like the rust eats its way into the metal so sin eats its way into man. When he picked up these nails with the magnet only five adhered. From this he drew the conclusion that few came to Jesus Christ when they had attained old age.

Large nails but not so rusty were compared to men and women between 20 and 50 years of age. The magnet picked up 17 of these and they did not leave the magnet so readily as the old and rusty ones. The pastor continued his illustration with smaller nails representing those in the 'teen ages, the boys and girls. The magnet drew to it 62 of these nails and of tiny nails representing the smaller children, those in the primary classes, the magnet attracted 308.

The speaker pointed out to the children what a wonderful thing it was to serve Jesus. He declared that it was the best thing that any of them had ever done. It was not a silly thing to do and would add lasting joy and pleasure to life. The pleasures of following Jesus Christ were not like the pleasures of sin, which were not lasting and lead to sorrow. When the old man or old woman is converted, Mr. Watts declared, the soul is saved, but when the boy or girl came to Jesus the soul was saved plus the life.

EASIER FOR YOUNG.

Pointing to the illustrations of the magnet and the nails, the speaker pointed out how much easier it was for the little ones to come to Jesus Christ than for the older. In a further illustration Mr. Watts had a number of nails, large and smaller, on a string, representing a family. When he picked up the larger nails the smaller ones came as well and he declared that if the mother and father in a family were followers of the Lord, the children would follow also.

One particularly potent illustration used by the speaker was a nail representing a young man. When he tried to pick up this nail, it was attracted but did not hold on. When he raised it above the table it was found to be tied to a package of cigarettes. He declared that the young man was willing to come to Christ but was held back by the cigarettes. So, again, in another illustration, a young man was willing but was held back by a pack of cards. Then there was the illustration of a nail tied to a pocketbook. When the man was willing to give himself but not his money, he could not hold on, but when the two were given together they adhered.

All of the services on Sunday were held in the church and were marked with special music. At the morning service a large orchestra provided splendid music and the choir assisted. The children of the primary department sang a hymn of praise which was wonderfully sweet and touching. John Wallace, Sunday school superintendent, was in charge of the services.

SAINTS ADVANCED PROGRESS OF WORLD

Commemorate Saints' Day and Anniversary at All Saints' Church—Bishop Williams Speaks.

All Saints' Day was yesterday commemorated at All Saints' Anglican Church and the 15th anniversary of the church was also observed. Bishop Williams, in the evening sermon, said: "Saints of old are interested in us. They are with Christ, accompanied with the good people of the past."

His lordship stated that the great saints of the world are interested in the work of the present generation. He said that it was misleading to limit the idea of saints to persons who live a confirmed life and to think of the retirement of life in connection with sainthood.

"What is it we owe to the past? Do you ever think of what the conditions would be if we were the first people in the world? We would have to invent machinery, but instead, all we have to do is to improve on the inventions which belong to the past ages."

"Schools and colleges are inventions of the past ages. Now we have experiences of 3,000 years to help in building up schools and universities."

"There are men who fought and struggled and who were faithful and whose names have been forgotten and who have never been heard of in history. Just as much credit is due to these millions of peoples as to the ones whose names now appear in the history which has been handed down to the people of to-day."

"The people of the past ages believed that they had an interest in the future after they died and that they did not cease to be when the soul passed out of the body," said Bishop Williams. "When Christ arose from the dead this was a firm conviction that men did not die when they died," added the speaker.

"This is a great encouragement in Christian life. When we ask what has become of the saints, we answer that they are not dead, but the personality has passed out of the body, but they still live. Think of those who have been faithful to Christ as not dead, but with Christ and like Christ."

All Saints' Day falls on Tuesday and communion service will be held in the church at 10 o'clock.

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF DR. M. F. FORSYTH

Was Well Known Throughout District — Many Floral Tributes.

One of the most impressive funerals ever held in Strathroy was that of the late Dr. M. F. Forsyth, who was buried on Saturday afternoon. The deceased was very well and favorably known throughout the community, having spent practically all of his time there since graduating from the Toronto Dental College.

Deceased was a valued member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, in Strathroy, and a Liberal in politics.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Shaver, Presbyterian minister, and at the graveside by the Masonic order, of which Dr. Forsyth was a past master.

The floral tributes were numerous and beautiful and testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held by his many friends and acquaintances. Included among them were two beautiful pillows, one with the inscription "Mat" from the bereaved widow and one from the family of sisters and brothers and many wreaths from the Masonic order, Knights of Pythias, A. O. F. and bowling club, of which he was an active member.

Besides his wife, he is survived by four sisters, Misses Margaret and Elizabeth, of St. Thomas; Mrs. Elsie Gardiner, of Jackson, Mich., and Mrs. C. O. Gardiner, of London, and two brothers, David, of London, and George, of Grand Forks, B. C.

The late Capt. J. C. Forsyth, M.D., was fatally injured on his return from service, when the boat on which he was returning was torpedoed, was also a brother bruises; May Stair, badly bruised, head crushed.

Despite the serious injury of some it is thought that all will recover.

Ten of the dead and all of the injured were brought to Vancouver last evening on the steamer Capitano. Ambulances were waiting and the injured were rushed to hospitals, while the bodies were taken to the morgue to await decision as to an inquest. The search for the missing was continued to-day, but the work is necessarily slow, because of the difficulty in clearing away the wreckage in the sea of mud and water. It is doubtful if some of those missing will ever be recovered, as some of the bodies were washed into the muddy waters of Howe Sound.

Manager J. Donahue, of the Britannia Mines, describes the efforts of those on duty at the mines proper, three miles back from the beach, to warn the village. When the railway fill, which caused the accumulation of water in the hills, gave way and released a roaring torrent into the creek urgent warning was sent over the mines telephone. This message was received by Miss Ellen Patterson, on duty at the compressor plant in the village. She immediately rang everybody by telephone, repeated the miners' message, "For God's sake get out of your homes; flood coming down the creek."

WARNING TOO LATE.

Before the warning could be understood and passed on to all the residents the waters crashed down the mountainside, swept away transmission lines and plunged the village into darkness. The creek bed, which once carried a veritable river, cut through the center of the settlement. The arrival of the torrent at sea level meant that everything in its path was carried towards the sea. The water had fallen 2,000 feet on its three-mile journey and gained a momentum which the little houses of Britannia could not resist. To-day a broad stream divides the untouched fringes of the town, strewn with timbers, poles, twisted telephone wires and scraps of heavier furniture smashed to pulp wood. Britannia Creek now runs through the village itself. The waters will have to be diverted to their former course by dynamiting. Surveyors say that the worst part of the disaster was the crying of injured or bewildered villagers.

The flood came upon a community confused by sudden darkness, caused when the transmission lines failed and a torrential rain fell. The houses for the most part were without foundation and yielded readily to the surge of the flood. One man hurried with his wife to the attic when he found the water about his doorstep. Before he could climb on to the roof his house was already out to sea, bobbing about in the rain-swept waters of Howe Sound. The two occupants were finally rescued in a launch.

Other houses were chushed to pulp wood when they were caught between some obstacles and the rushing water, many were injured by falling timbers. Some of these owe their lives to the efforts of rescuers who toiled throughout the night in and out of the maze of floating houses, guided to those in distress by cries and warnings. Candles and pit lamps were of little use in this work.

Two children were found asleep in their beds, unhurt, hours after their mother and two brothers had been swept away with a damaged portion of their home.

A Mrs. Matheson was taken off in a boat from her house, which was sweeping down the creek and crashed to splinters a few minutes afterwards against a heavier building. Mrs. Murphy, the school teacher, escaped with a cut wrist sustained when she broke a window to escape from her house, which was practically upside down by the time she realized the danger. Of her 25 pupils at least five are drowned.

One woman, whose name was not ascertained, was rescued while clinging desperately to a puppy, the only other survivor of the family. She had watched her husband and two children go down to their deaths.

Dr. A. A. Menzies, a local practitioner, was crossing a street when the flood caught him. Finally he held on to a post and began the slow journey to higher ground, scrambling and swimming until he was out of danger. Then he began the long night's work with the rescuers.

Luckily the disaster did not happen any later than it did or most people would have been caught in bed by the tidal wave. As it was it was only the children who were asleep at the time and grown-ups were able to help them from danger.

The only buildings left uninjured on the residential side of the town were the customhouse, the moving-picture theater, an amusement hall and a few houses. On the other side of the town only a store, hotel, office building, some of the mill shops, buildings and the residence of the manager are left.

To-day the lighting system had been partially restored. The south side of the town is lighted. Squamish, eight miles north of here, is also flooded, but damage is not great.

OCTOBER LEADS IN HOMES BUILT

New Houses Valued At $112,000.

MONTH'S TOTAL $232,125

Year Will Close With Over $2,500,000 Recorded.

London's 1921 building total now stands at $2,276,770, and if the coming two months equal the records of November and December, 1920, the final total for 1921 will exceed $2,633,000, making the present year the greatest from the building standpoint in local history. The total for the whole of 1920 is now exceeded by $100,000, and there are yet two months to go.

October's record stands at $232,125, nearly $50,000 more than the total for October last year. There were 194 permits issued to prospective builders.

October leads the year so far in house building. Permits were issued for 38 new residences during this month, which gives it nearly a 50 per cent. lead over all other months of the present year so far. The value of these houses is stated at $112,000, the average value being over $3,100 each.

Larger permits issued yesterday include two permits to Hyatt Brothers, who are erecting two residences on Baker street valued at $9,000. James Hendry is building a house on Terrance street to cost $2,500.

BIBLE STUDENTS SEE COMING OF UTOPIA

Claim That Beginning With 1925 World Will Enter Period of Man's Restoration.

If true, it is a comforting message that W. Lockwood, of the International Bible Students, delivered at Hyman Hall on Sunday. The address was on the slogan of the International Students' "Millions Now Living Will Never Die." While this is not altogether comforting under present conditions, there is a silver lining in the dark cloud if the interpretation placed on the Scriptures by Mr. Lockwood are correct and life would be worth living a thousand years or so hence.

There would be increasing unemployment problems under the new regime, the speaker pointed out, as undertakers, doctors, insurance men, policemen and jailers would begin to go out of business. He enjoined his hearers, however, to remember the Creator's pronouncement upon the first sinner, "Cursed is the ground for thy sake," which had kept he and his progeny out of mischief. When the curse on man and on the "ground" was removed, however, and the benefits of labor-saving machinery were equitably shared by all, the world would have reached such a condition of moral grandeur that it could be trusted with more leisure and luxury. The world would do more work with a great deal less labor.

The Bible Students claim that Bible chronology plainly pointed to the year 1914 as the limit of Gentile world dominion and they further claim that the year 1925 is indicated as the time for the beginning of man's restoration to Edenic perfection, bringing with it life unending.

RAILWAYS HANDLING VAST AMOUNT OF COAL

Fear of Coal Shortage Is Now Definitely at End.

A large quantity of coal is being imported into Canada, according to announcements made by the officials of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways.

The figures for the month of October this year compare favorably with the statistics for the corresponding month of last year.

More than 100 cars of coal passed through London yesterday on the Grand Trung Railway en route to Windsor and the movement of coal at the Niagara frontier is now considered heavy.

The Canadian Pacific Railway reports that a large supply of coal is being handled on their lines at the present time.

The railways are storing up coal for their own use, as thousands of tons are used annually in operating the locomotives and heating the buildings along the line.

It is expected that coal will continue to be forwarded to Canada as long as the weather is favorable and does not interfere with the transportation.

Bank clearings for the month of October were $13,415,730, a decrease of $2,785,719 over the corresponding month of last year, when the total was $16,201,449.

DEATH OF MRS. FOWLER

Honorary President of London Conference Branch of Women's Missionary Society.

In the death of Mrs. Huldah Austin Fowler, widow of the late Rev. Robert Fowler, M. D., M. R. C. S. E., which occurred yesterday afternoon, London loses an honored resident of more than 30 years' standing.

The late Mrs. Fowler was a daughter of Dr. Austin, a prominent Picton physician and a member of an old U. E. Loyalist family. Mrs. Fowler had also some interesting overseas connections, being a sister-in-law of Lord Wolverhampton, of Wolverhampton, England, keeper of the King's privy seal, and an aunt of the brilliant English writer, Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler.

Mrs. Fowler was especially identified with the work of the Women's Missionary Society from its inception 40 years ago and was present when the first branch of this society was organized.

In London, the seat of her husband's last charge, Mrs. Fowler held the office of honorary president of the London conference branch of the W. M. S., having also been vice-president for a number of years, and was honorary president of the First Methodist Church auxiliary, in which society she had previously given banner service as president for 10 years.

A tribute to the late Mrs. Fowler is paid by Mrs. Gordon Wright, president of the London conference branch of the W. M. S., who says: "She made a beloved leader, rallying membership rather by the sweetness of her spirit and the charm of her well-rounded Christian character than by her knowledge of technical procedure."

She is survived by one daughter, Miss May Fowler, M. L. A., of this city, and one son, Mr. Joseph Fowler, barrister, of Sudbury, who arrived in the city at noon to-day. The funeral, which will be of a private nature, will take place tomorrow afternoon.

At the annual district meeting of the W. M. S. of the Methodist church, taking place in this city to-morrow, a standing vote of appreciation of the services of the late Mrs. Fowler will be passed by the members prior to the opening of the business session.

BABY TURNED ON GAS.—Mrs. John Ackert, 31 Kensington avenue, had her eyebrows, eyelashes and the hair on the front part of her head burned off when she attempted to light the gas in an oven at her home. A young baby had been playing on the floor and had turned the gas on in some manner, with the result that when Mrs. Ackert applied a match to the plate an explosion followed.

BIG HALLOWEEN PARTY AT Y.M.C.A.

Over Three Hundred Boys and Girls Attend.

HARD TIME FOR JUDGES

Dorothy Dowell and Frank Barrows Win First Prize.

The young Romeos of the city acted as hosts to their Juliets on Saturday night, when they staged a monster Halloween masquerade in the Y. M. C. A. building. Every floor of the institution resounded with the laughter and merriment of the 350 boys and girls who made merry between the hours of 8 and 12 o'clock.

Beginning with a grand march past of the masqueraders, everyone of whom were suitably costumed, the fun increased throughout the evening until the supper at 11.30 marked the close of the evening. The judges had a mighty hard task to select the prize winners from the many original disguises, while those in charge of the program had their hands full in conducting the games and contests throughout the building.

Under the direction of Dave Allen and Bob Liddle group games were held on the two gymnasium floors, where the Trial Rangers and Tuxis lads had escorted their lady friends. The various other features on the program were held in various parts of the building the crowd being too large to remain in one place.

The prize winners in the masquerade were: First, Dorothy Dowell and Frank Barrows; second, Florence Robson and Melbourne Turner; third, Mary Ford and Jack Tripp. In the guessing contest the following were the victorious ones: Bean, Kenneth Banless; weight, Fred Martin; eye, Helen Hoffard. Madeline Townshend succeeded in drawing the lucky number from those given to the ladies.

Judges of the events were R. D. McDonald, W. B. Beamer, William Clarke, Jack Davis and L. M. Houlding. This is the first time that a Halloween party has been held at the "Y" on such a large scale, but from Saturday's night experience it certainly will not be the last.

SOVIET WILL DISCHARGE TWO MILLION WORKERS

MOSCOW, Oct. 29.—The Soviet committee charged with making a reduction in the number of Government employees in a report just submitted, announces that 2,500,000 of the employees are to be discharged. It has been decided to admit the principle of private management and scales of wages are to be fixed in accordance with the fluctuations of market prices in localities where work is done.

These steps are to be taken in an effort to give a living wage to workers and thus induce them to cease thievery.

NAPLES UNDER WATER FOR SEVERAL HOURS

NAPLES, Oct. 29.—Several persons were drowned and extensive property damage was caused by a flood of the River Sebeto, which flows through this city, on Thursday night. The inundation was caused by a severe storm lasting for 12 hours and a large portion of the lower sections of Naples was under water for several hours.

Mrs. WAGNER of PALM BEACH

Tells Girls How She Found Relief From Pain

West Palm Beach, Fla.—"When I was 19 years old I was irregular and had such terrible cramps it felt like a knife going through me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was well. After I was married I had the same trouble caused by the added work of farming and heavy washings so I told my husband to get six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and by taking it regularly my troubles ceased and now I never have a pain or ache, and am regular. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and think every young girl should take it. You can publish this letter and it may be the means of helping some other girl or woman."—Mrs. MARY M. WAGNER, Box 759, West Palm Beach, Florida.

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering it does not seem to be the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely and when pain exists something is wrong which should be set right. Every girl who suffers from monthly cramps should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

MR. MORRIS RAPS TOBACCO HABIT

Askin Street Pastor Says Lost Pipes Cause Domestic Trouble

ADDRESSES BROTHERHOOD

Speaks to Mass Meeting on Question of Strength

That the heart agony of Canadian men and women during the late war had been exploited by tobacco product manufacturers during the Great War was the sensational charge made by Rev. J. T. C. Morris, pastor of Askin Street Methodist Church, at last evening's brotherhood mass meeting. He stated that the slogan: "Send Tobacco to Our Troops" did not originate from the troops, but that it did come from multi-millionaire tobacco manufacturers.

Mr. Morris also stated in the course of his address that : "We are going to cut out everything that saps the mental vigor of men," and held up to scorn the weakness of men in the thralldom of the tobacco habit that have to smoke after going to bed, that have to smoke when about to make any mental effort or when they are making no effort whatever.

"Many a wife has been made bitter towards life," he stated, "because her husband lost his pipe."

STRENGTH

Rev. Mr. Morris' sermon was on the subject of "Strength," his text being St. Paul's admonition to the Ephesians: "Be strong in the Lord." He dealt with human strength in its physical, intellectual and moral aspects and found all of the insufficient and wound up with a stirring appeal that men and women find the strength of the new birth, which may be alone found at the foot of the cross.

He praised physical strength and emphasized its vital companionage with mental effort: "Many have learned to cipher but that have forgot the arithmetic of health. Some men are like crysanthemums—they show a fine mental foliage, but their stems are weak."

Referring to intellectual strength he emphasized London's unique opportunities in that respect. "Our university stands open to all," he stated; "night schools are maintained with perfect facilities for improving the mind. There is no young man within the sound of my voice that can offer an excuse for ignorance.

SOME ONLY SPONGES.

Moral strength was commended by the speaker, but he said: "A moral man is only an outline of a man. Some men are sponges. They weep easy and they laugh easy. They will take in what is said now and they will go outside with a cursing crowd and be one of them. Only an exceptional man is able to live up to a stern code of morals. Most men who say they rely on morality are shot so full of holes by the devil that only a shadow of manhood remains through which the fires of hell may be seen burning.

"But there is not weakness in nature. Man alone is weak morally. A heathen can be moral; pagans were moral. There is but one strength and that comes from the cross of Christ."

Touching reference was made by Mr. Morris to the death on Saturday morning of William Ralph Lawrence, of Sarnia, who was returning home from London, where he attended a brotherhood banquet in the Masonic Temple. The funeral will be held at 2.20 p. m. to-day in Sarnia, it was announced, and many brotherhood men in London will attend the funeral.

Yesterday afternoon men of the Askin Street Church took part in a canvass of the homes in the city where men were not attending church. Cordial invitations, personally delivered, were extended wherever the visitors went. This service will be continued, it is understood. President Baker, of the Askin Brotherhood, and D. McArthur, president of the Elks' class of young men, occupied the pulpit rostrum with Mr. Morris at last night's service.

MELBOURNE DOCTOR SEES FIRE, SAVES HOME

Fire Eating Way Into Long's Home; Dr. Dewar Quenches Pump Blaze and Saves Source of Water

MELBOURNE, Oct. 30.—Seeing flames in the barn owned by Joseph Long, butcher, as he was returning from a call at 2 o'clock in the morning, Dr. Dewar raised an alarm and then hurried to the scene. He found the interior of the structure a mass of flames with the fire eating its way into the kitchen joining the house. Believing he might be able to delay the progress of the fire the doctor went to the wooden pump only to find it burning briskly. Fortunately a pail of water had been left beside it and with this the doctor extinguished the pump fire and was thus able to secure more water.

Men and women arrived and joined in the battle. The kitchen was saved, but the barn was completely destroyed, along with hay, a wagon, sleighs, five tons of coal and a horse. The loss is partly covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The city Soviet has published an order permitting newspapers to publish advertisements which have been absent from the columns of journals here for four years.

LABOR DROPS LOW TARIFF PLANK

Provincial Executive Takes Action at Hamilton Meeting

REALIZES THE MISTAKE

Tariff Subject of Debate at Meeting of Local Forum

Adopting the platform of the Canadian Labor party the provincial executive committee of the I. L. P., meeting in Hamilton on Saturday, threw out the low tariff plank, which had been formerly a part of the Independent Labor party policy. The C. L. P. platform practically urges a protective tariff, with the provision that a board of experts be appointed to deal with all revisions. While there are some of the members of the I. L. P. who claim that the tariff question is of no moment to the workers of Canada, and the workers are said to be 95 per cent. of the entire population, the majority of local members are decidedly pleased with the action taken by the committee on Saturday.

CANNOT ACCEPT.

In this connection, and with reference to the possibility of the Labor and Agrarian forces uniting in Canada, H. B. Ashplant, a member of the provincial I. L. P. executive, and a possible Labor candidate for the Federal House, stated that Labor could not swallow the Agrarian tariff policy. He pointed out that this is his personal opinion, but it is the general belief among Labor men that he is right in this.

"The Ontario farmers have not adopted the eight-hour day," said Mr. Ashplant, "and it is well known that this has not caused any dissension between the Labor and Farmer forces, so there is nothing to suggest that the two must adopt the same policy on the tariff."

DISPUTE ON TARIFF.

Arthur Mould, another member of the Provincial I. L. P. executive and a possible Labor candidate in the coming elections, speaking at the Labor Forum last in the local Labor Temple, stated that the tariff question is of no importance to labor. He urged that the Government could have met the unemployment problem by taking charge of the factories on much the same principle as was adopted during the war. The tariff is held to have a bearing on the unemployment situation, he said, but he thought this was merely a subterfuge on the part of the politicians.

F. W. Daly resented this statement of Mr. Mould's.

"I would like to ask you, who know conditions there, whether free trade has ever made England rich?" questioned Mr. Daly. "Is it not right that free trade England has more unemployment than is seen in Canada?"

Chairman J. F. Thomson contended that the percentage of unemployment in England is not as great as it is in Canada and the United States.

President Harry Kerwin, of the Ontario branch of the Canadian Labor party, was to have addressed the forum, but he was unable to be present.

It was announced that a meeting of the executive committee of the local Labor party will be held to-night in the Labor Temple to make final arrangements for the convention which has been called for Tuesday night.

DENSE FOG BLAMED FOR FATAL ACCIDENT

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—Dense fog is blamed for the death of a woman early yesterday when an automobile in which she was riding on Riverside Drive left the roadway about 150 feet east of the Ford limits and toppled over the cribwork into the river. The dead woman is Miss Pearl McDonald, aged 33, of Jackson, Mich. Police say she was celebrating the anniversary of her birthday. Following the tragedy her companion, R. W. Kelly, aged 33, Detroit, who was driving the car, was placed under arrest on a charge of criminal negligence. He was released under bail of $5,000 when brought before Magistrate Gundy in Windsor police court. He escaped without a bruise.

Dr. P. Poisson, Tecumseh coroner, called a jury to view the remains and to examine the spot where the accident occurred. The inquest will be held on Thursday at Riverside.

SEBRINGVILLE STORE ENTERED BY THIEVES

SEBRINGVILLE, Oct. 30.—Early yesterday morning Val Dallner's shoe store at Sebringville was broken into and a considerable quantity of boots and shoes, with some automobile inner tubes and other articles taken. The loss is about $200 as far as can now be estimated.

Appetite Good, Gained 20 lbs.

Could Not Feel Better

From a nervous wreck this man was restored to health, strength and happiness.

He tells his own story in this letter.

Mr. Ralph A. Roberts, Loverna, Sask., writes:

"In 1917 I had lost all appetite, failed 25 pounds in weight, become very nervous and shaky and in fact given up all hope of recovery. For some time I had suffered from constipation, which kept getting worse, until I was fast becoming a total wreck. Doctors and their drugs were sending me to my grave at the age of 39.

"Then I read about people being restored by Dr. Chase's Medicines and after three months' use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and Kidney-Liver Pills I found that my bowels were restored to normal movement each day and the constipation was no more. I had a good appetite, had gained 20 pounds and could not feel better. I shall always be grateful for these benefits."

BIBLE IS BETTER UNDERSTOOD NOW

Declaration of Rev. Dr. Vance, of Detroit, at St. Andrew's

ANNIVERSARY SERMONS

Visiting Clergyman Says Man's Conception of God Changes

Religion, which is characterized by the mere mumbling of ritual by the piling up of mountains of controversy over man-made questions, was roundly scored by the Rev. J. A. Vance, D. D., pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, in his sermon at St. Andrew's Church last night. Yesterday's services marked the 88th anniversary of the congregation and the 52nd anniverasry of the opening of the present edifice. The church was filled both morning and evening to hear the simple but eloquent message of the Detroit minister.

A twentieth century type of religion was regarded by the Rev. Mr. Vance as being just as essential and logical as twentieth century finance, literature and civil government. Radicalism had in the past decade or two influenced the whole of the church on this continent and to-day there was not a congregation but which had introduced some form of institutional activity. There might be less reverence for the Bible, but nevertheless it was understood better and the spirit of the Scriptures had a better hold on the people.

CONCEPTION CHANGES.

To some persons religion was a finished product to be handed on from generation to generation, to be displayed to the best advantage and to be made the best use of; but the speaker's conception of religion, and that of many of other thinking people, was that religion must be personal, that it must be the life of God in the soul of man. God never changes, he pointed out, but our conception of Him does, for it differs materially with that held by Moses or by John Calvin.

Rev. Mr. Vance admitted that this age had many characteristics about it which would lead to a popular belief that it was one of irreligion. On the other hand, a study would reveal the fact that there never was an age in which the people were so intensely religious and took so profound an interest in religious matters. As for the charge that it was a materialistic age, he pointed out that no person would accept all the money of the richest man in the world in exchange for his hope of a place in the future.

Religion was held to be just as essential to human beings as is food and air, and every man was held to be incurably religious. Following out this contention he asked if it were not foolish to leave religion to chance. A man should spend infinitely more time dealing with his religion than with his clothing or his food.

FOUR CHARACTERISTICS.

"The 20th Century Christian," the theme about which the pastor built his sermon, was held to have four characteristics. First, there was the personal relation, the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man, which should be stressed more than the impersonal which wasted itself on constant and fruitless bickering over the nonessentials.

Secondly, there should be an intelligent faith which should not merely be a refuge for the cyclone of arguments which are at times thrown at one. Thirdly, religion finds expression in Christian brotherhood. This was a grand old place to live in, so let's enjoy it, was the 20th century philosophy, which was an excellent one, compared with that of the monks summed up in a phrase, "we are going to die." Finally, we should have faith in the future life.

The pastor's final appeal was for the church member to live his religion without reproach wherever he went, and for the person outside the church to become a Christian and enjoy the life that is at once a conflict and a victory.

In the afternoon Sunday school session the St. Andrew's Club was reorganized for the fall and winter activities. The record number of 90 turned out for this meeting and the organization has promise of being one of the livest in the church.

HASTING-RANEY CASE DELAYED.

HAMILTON, Oct. 30.—J. L. Counsell, K. C., made the announcement on Saturday that his action on behalf of David Hastings, former magistrate at Dunnville ,against Attorney-General Raney had been postponed. It was to have been heard early in November, but the case has gone over until the next court, which will not sit for some months. The action is for slander, etc., in connection with charges of Hon. Mr. Raney against the Dunnville magistrate, which were probed some months ago at a public investigation.

LONDONER HELD UP ROBBED OF $38

Hugh Logan, of Clarence Street, Is Victim of Highwayman

Hugh Logan, a middle-aged man, who resides on Clarence street, was held up by two highwaymen about 11 o'clock on Wednesday night last and robbed of $38 and a few cents, all he had. They also badly beat him and left him in a dazed condition on the roadside.

Mr. Logan was visiting friends on Grey street, near Richmond, and had left for his home. He took the path along the Thames River, which runs between Richmond and Clarence streets, on the north bank. He had not gone far until two men jumped out of the bushes and attacked him.

KICKED HIM.

The first man grabbed him by the arms, but he succeeded in breaking away, but was struck by a second man. They threw him on the ground and one fellow held him while the other went through his pockets. Every pocket was turned out and everything taken from them. After they had rifled his pockets they kicked him about the body and head and left him. It was some time later before he recovered sufficiently to make his way home.

It was very dark, their being no moon, and Mr. Logan was unable to recognize the men.

SERVICE IS TAKEN BY YOUNG PEOPLE

Impressive Event at New St. James' Church Last Night

A service of great interest and impressiveness was held last night in New St. James' Presbyterian Church when the young people, members of the congregation, conducted the service with the exception of the closing prayer and benediction, which was conducted by the pastor, Rev. James McKay.

The service of praise was conducted by Miss Irene Brown, who handled the organ and a choir of 40 voices in a masterly fashion. Miss Viola Stevens rendered a sweet solo and a double quartet sang "I Am Listening," with great effect.

Neil Miller, a student in second year arts at Western University, conducted the opening exercises in a most creditable manner, while James Gorvill, a third year student at Western, preached an earnest and eloquent sermon. His theme was "Christ's Interest in the Individual."

The congregation was deeply impressed by the way in which the young members of the congregation carried out the service and at the close of the meeting thanked God devoutly for such fine men that had been chosen to carry on God's work.

New St. James' Church has undoubtedly done their part in giving men to the ministry, and women, too. Members of the congregation, who have charges, are Rev. Malcolm Omen, of Prescott; Rev. Victor Mooney, of Port Elgin; Rev. Charles Evans, of St. Marys, and Rev. F. S. Orton, of Chatham. Mr. Hugh Omond is a missionary in India, director of a Y.M.C.A., and Miss McVicar is also a foreign missionary.

The young men who took charge of the service are sons of elders of the church, and this summer spent several weeks in missionary camps in the North Bay district and in Saskatchewan

RECOGNIZE DEBT IS PEACE MADE

Soviet Russia Willing to Make Agreement With Powers

FOREIGN MINISTER WRITES

Aims at Economic Co-Operation With the Powers

RIGA, Oct. 30.—(Associated Press Cable.)—The contents of a note sent by George Chitcherin, Bolshevik foreign minister, to the British, French, United States, Italian and Japanese governments, declaring the Russian Soviet Government, under certain circumstances, would agree to recognize the foreign debts incurred up to the year 1914, have been made public here by the Rosta official Bolshevik news agency.

Recognition by Russia of these debts, M. Chitcherin's note says, is conditional upon the great powers concluding final peace and recognizing the Soviet republic. He proposes that an international conference be held immediately to consider the demands of all nations on Russia and the Russians claims on them and to work out a final treaty of peace.

"The Brussels Conference," says M. Chitcherin in his note, "stipulated, according to the European papers, as a condition of granting credits to the Russian Government for famine relief, acknowledgment of the debts of previous Russian Governments. Of this decision of the conference the Russian Government up to the present is uninformed.

REASON FOR ACTION

"The Soviet Government, however, in the face of the starving masses, does not wish to consider the intricacies of diplomatic etiquette and considers that it is the straight duty of the Government immediately to proclaim its attitude towards the Brussels decisions."

M. Chitcherin announces that recognition of the old debts, under certain conditions, coincides with the Soviet's intentions, and declares that from the very beginning the Soviet Government aimed at economic co-operation with the other powers. Stating that the Soviet has always proclaimed its readiness to grant sufficient profits to foreign capitalists to aid in the reconstruction of Russia, he says that even now it finds in official announcements of the President of the United States and British ministers expressions of regret that, at the expiration of three years from the world war, real peace is still unattained.

M. Chitcherin argues that in the face of the economic chaos among the nations, real peace is impossible without Russia and its 130,000,000 people, and that agreement with the Soviet is a prime necessity, not only for Russia, but for the other nations. The minister enters into a long argument to the effect that the economic reconstruction of Russia will be difficult and protracted, but better accomplished by the labor of the peasant Government than by any other, because it will not permit the selfish interests of private and separate capitalistic groups to hinder the task.

WHAT IS GRANTED.

"The Soviet has re-established private trade and private ownership in small undertakings," he continues, "and grants to foreign capital legal guarantees and profits sufficient to attract its participation in economic work in Russia. The Soviet is anxious for economic agreements with all powers, which are only attainable through general peace. With this object the Soviet meets the demands from the other powers for recognition of the old Czarist debt. The Soviet declares its firm conviction that no nation is compelled to pay the price of the chains it wore for ages, but in its unbending resolution to reach a complete agreement with the other powers it is prepared to make a number of vital concessions in this all-important situation. Thus it meets also the desire of numberless small holders of Russian Government loans, especially France, for whom recognition of the Czarist debts presents a substantial interest.

"Under these conditions the Russian Government is prepared to recognize its obligations to other states and their citizens on Government loans concluded by the Czarist Government up to 1914, on conditions of being granted privileged terms giving it a practical chance to fulfil these obligations. It is understood that the condition of this recognition is a simultaneous undertaking by the great powers unconditionally to put an end to any actions menacing the safety of the Soviet republic, and the friendly Far Eastern republic, their sovereign rights and the inviolability of their frontiers, and unconditional observance of the principles of their complete sovereignty and territorial inviolability."

Russia's total state debt at the beginning of the year 1914 amounted to 9,888,310,000 rubles (or about $5,092,379,650 at the rate of .515 to the ruble, which prevailed at that time).

Subsequently Russia contracted various debts abroad for the conduct of thew ar, and these loans, together with internal bond issues, brought the state debt up to 32,300,000,000 roubles (about $16,634,500,000) on September 1, 1917, just before the Bolshevik revolution.

The debts incurred after 1914, however, are not included in the new Soviet offer.

Figures are not available to show the distribution of the state debt either in 1914 or 1917 and it cannot be definitely ascertained how much was owned to the various foreign governments and individuals of foreign countries.

My Debt of Gratitude.

'Ulcers the Size of Man's Hand.'

Our portrait is of Mr. G. M. THOMPSON, of 4, Midland Grove, Edward Rd., Balsall Heath, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"In July last I happened to get a scratch on my leg. It was so slight I took no notice of it till a fortnight elapsed, when I found I could not go to work. It gradually grew worse, when it turned septic; from this period it got from bad to worse till at length the sores turned into ulcers. I had at that particular time ulcers the size of a man's hand covering my leg. After I had tried nearly everything I read about your Clarke's Blood Mixture and decided to take it; it was then in the month of October, and after the second bottle, I found relief. I continued until the seventh bottle when I found myself completely rid of the trouble. You can make use of this statement and I will be only too pleased to answer any enquiries because it's to nothing else but Clarke's Blood Mixture that I owe my debt of gratitude."

Sufferers from Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Glandular Swellings, Piles, Eczema, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Gout and Rheumatism should realise that lotions, ointments, &c., can but give temporary relief—to be sure of complete and lasting benefit the blood must be thoroughly cleansed of the impure waste matter, the true cause of such troubles. Clarke's Blood Mixture quickly attacks, overcomes, and expels the impurities; that is why so many remarkable recoveries stand to its credit. Pleasant to take, and free from any injurious ingredients. Of all Chemists and Stores.

FALL FATAL FOR WOODSTOCK MAN

James Holmes Sr., Found in Basement of Home

SLIPPED ON CELLAR STEPS

Was Known as the City's Oldest Business Man

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 30. — James Holmes, sr., Woodstock's oldest business man, died to-day as the result of a shock sustained when he missed his footing and fell down the steps leading to the basement at his home. He had arisen early to attend to the furnace and he was found some time later by members of his family.

The deceased was 87 years of age. He was born at "Ladymiur," Kilmalcolm, Renfrewshire, Scotland, but came to Canada in 1852. For some years he lived at Walsingham, Norfolk, coming to Woodstock in 1855. He started in the hardware business with an uncle, entering into business for himself in 1875. From then until the present time he continued in his place of business, which is still in progress. He was one of the city's best known citizens and despite his advanced age he enjoyed splendid health.

His widow and nine children survive him. They are: William A. and Fred. R., of Woodstock; John R., of Seattle, Wash.; James B., of St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. F. E. Gibbs, of Toronto; Mrs. A. F. Gibbs, of St. Catharines; Mrs. H. B. Taylor, of Toronto; Miss Mary and Mrs. A. B. Lee, of Woodstock. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Frank Hyde, jr., a well-konwn local young man, died suddenly on Saturday afternoon at Turkey Point, on Lake Erie, where, with his father, he had been on a buck shooting expedition. While the deceased had not been in very good health for some time past his illness was not considered serious and up until a few moments before he was stricken with a hemorrhage on Saturday he was in comparatively good health. Deceased, who was 22 years of age, was born in this country and was the only son of Frank Hyde, well-known druggist. He was a student at Woodstock College, where he was very popular. The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon.

GIVEN WEEK TO GET HER TWINS

If "Jessie" Fails to Appear Arrest Will Follow

STATEMENT AT WINDSOR

Authorities Have Information Leading to Her Identity

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—"Jessie," mother of the ferry suit case twins, whose promise to disclose her identity if assured immunity, stirred residents on both sides of the river early last week, must report by midnight next Saturday or face arrest.

This was the declaration to-day by M. R. Winters, inspector of the Children's Aid Society, of Windsor. Winters has kept a daily vigil for the girl-mother since he received her note. She has failed to appear.

If she fails to keep her promise during this week certain evidence, discovered since receipt of her note, will be turned over to the authorities, who will be asked to make a search for her, Winters said.

This information came from a Detroit nurse, Winters intimated, and is sufficient to locate the young mother within 24 hours, it is understood.

Winters is of the opinion that the mother, heartbroken because of her desertion of her babies, wrote the note in the hope that she would recover them without the knowledge of the man responsible.

This man, according to fairly definite indications and intimations in the girl-mother's note, is a prominent Windsor man, and the authorities now are convinced he has succeeded in silencing her either through fear or payment of money.

"But, regardless of this, we propose to find her. She has the duty of a mother to perform, and we propose to insist that she performs this duty."

The twins were found packed in a suit case on a Windsor-Detroit ferry-boat about eight weeks ago. For a time search for the mother was made, but was discontinued until the receipt of the letter from "Jessie."

DETROIT RUMMER QUARTERS FOUND

Police Find Books Containing List of Customers

DETROIT, Oct. 30.—Discovery of what the police believe to be a well-financed gang of bootleggers, numbering among its customers a large clientele of well-to-do Detroiters, resulted from a raid on a "tin shop" at 46 Duffield street this morning. Four men were arrested, charged with violation of the prohibition law, and two others were held for investigation. A complete set of account books, recording sales of illicit booze, on which names of a number of well-known Detroit citizens, many of them wealthy, appear as customers, was confiscated. No liquor was found on the premises.

WITHHOLD NAMES.

Police decline to divulge the names of the gang's customers as revealed by the books. It was said, however, that some of them might be called as witnesses if the men arrested are held for trial.

Police broke into the house at 2 a.m. and routed men out of their improvised beds before they could make their escape. The books, kept with a most careful system, were said by the police to give a most thorough account of the activities of the alleged booze gang during the last two weeks.

Despite the trappings of a tin shop about the place the police are convinced that the house is a meeting place for the gang, and is the rendezvous for those who bring liquor into the city and offer it for sale.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Fishermen and their families residing along the Labrador coast, between Shecataka and Bradore, are now facing starvation on account of the failure of the season's codfish catch and the lack of market for their dried stocks.

A frantic appeal has been sent to the Minister of the Interior of the Province of Quebec for a supply of flour to be sent immediately to the famine-threatened districts.

The telegram sets forth the plight of the populace living on that barren coast, who are practically destitute and without any visible supply of food for the coming winter.

S. F. Glass Nominated On The First Ballot

Popular Ex-Member Choice of National Liberal and Conservative Party In East Middlesex

ENTHUSIASM MARKS CONVENTION HELD HERE

S. Frank Glass will be the standard-bearer for the National Liberal and Conservative party in the riding of East Middlesex at the forthcoming election. He was chosen on Saturday afternoon at a largely attended and enthusiastic convention of the supporters of the party held in the Masonic Hall here. Two other candidates, King Hodgins, of Lucan, and William Boler, of Byron, allowed their names to go to the convention with that of Mr. Glass, but the latter was chosen on the first ballot and the seal of unanimous approval was placed on the proceedings by resolution moved by Mr. Hodgins, seconded by Mr. Boler and carried with applause and cheers. In brief addresses to the convention Messrs. Hodgins and Boler promised to get behind Mr. Glass' candidacy and exert every effort in their power to secure his election.

It is doubtful if in the history of the riding East Middlesex has had a larger or more enthusiastic convention. Opinions to this effect were expressed by veterans of many years standing. The large hall was well filled before the hour of opening, only one district in the riding not being represented. A notable feature was the large number of ladies present as delegates and the keen interest they manifested in the proceedings.

EIGHT NAMES OFFERED.

James L. Robson was chosen chairman and at once called for nominations. Eight names were offered, as follows: A. K. Hodgins, Lucan; S. Frank Glass, London; Richard Rose, Glanworth; Dr. Wm. Doan, Harrietsville; Mrs. (Col.) Bart Robson, Iderton; R. H. Harding, Thorndale; Lieut.-Col. Robert McEwen, Byron, and William Boler, Byron.

The chairman then called upon the candidates to address the convention.

R. H. Harding pronounced himself as a strong advocate of a protective tariff. Protection was required as much by the farmer as by any other class in the community, and he referred to the recent Fordney emergency tariff in the United States to show the steps that country is taking to protect its own markets. He realized that the fight ahead would be a difficult one and Government standard bearers would have to meet many false canvasses, but he felt there would be no doubt of the outcome, which would be the return of the party's standard-bearer. Mr. Harding said he could not allow his own name to go to ballot in the convention, but pledged himself to heartily support whatever candidate was chosen.

Calls for Mrs. Col. Robson elicited no response, although the mention of her name was greeted with cheers.

Dr. Doane said he had been attending political conventions in East Middlesex for many years, but the present one was the largest he had ever seen. Despite the fact that a third party had made some inroads upon the strength of the two former parties the attendance at this year's convention was as large as any he had seen and afforded evidence that the people believed in the policy of the Government. He knew the Government party had the right side of the fight in East Middlesex and while he could not himself answer the request to be a candidate he would loyally support the convention's choice.

SURE OF VICTORY.

Richard Rose briefly thanked those who had nominated him, but said he could not accept the proffered honor. He was sure, however, that victory would crown the efforts of the party and announced himself as ready to exert every effort for the success of the nominated candidate, whoever he might be, for he did not believe the convention from the list of names before them could pick a poor man if they tried.

William Boler thanked those who nominated him and said he was willing that his name should go to ballot. If chosen he would fight with all him might, but if the choice fell upon another he would be just as zealous in his behalf.

Mr. Glass, whose name was greeted with cheers, said he had not had an opportunity as yet to give an account of his stewardship in Ottawa, but his work had not been unfamiliar to his constituents and if, during his time in the House, he had digressed from the path he had never been reprimanded but once. In September, 1918, he had received a night letter from one of the Farmers' clubs in East Middlesex, demanding that he either oppose the provision for the conscription of farmers' sons for military service or resign his seat as the East Middlesex representative. He did not follow the line suggested by the Farmers' Club, nor did he resign. "I supported the conscription measure," said Mr. Glass "and I have no apology to make for it." (Cheers and hearty applause). "Our boys were in France fighting with their backs to the wall and they were calling for reinforcements. The situation looked gloomy and the Government was obliged to reconsider former actions and withdraw the consideration that had been extended to young men on the farms. Again, I have no apology to offer, and there are not many men who will say I did not do right when I supported the Government in that move." (Cheers and cries of "that's right.")

FROM THE FIRST.

Continuing, Mr. Glass said that when the war call came Canada's assurance was behind the motherland from the first. The Government did not wait to consult the people, but they rushed Canadian assistance to the battlefield as rapidly as possible. Mr. Glass then quoted speeches by Sir Arthur Currie, in which the Canadian commander-in-chief paid glowing tribute to the value of the work done by the Canadian soldiers. "Now at the conclusion of the war," he said, "Canada faces a more serious situation than ever before." It was admitted that mistakes had been made, but still Canada came through the struggle in better condition than any other of the warring countries. It was faced to-day by many serious after-war problems; the economic situation is one requiring a most careful consideration. Heavy war debts remain to be paid; there must be a careful transition from present conditions to normalcy, with sweeping readjustments. Canada's debt to the soldiers is mighty, and the Government has not failed to do all they could toward the liquidation of the debt.

There would be ample opportunity, Mr. Glass said, for the complete discussion of the tariff question. The Government policy was a policy that he believed would best promote the stability of the country and insured its future prosperity. The honest labor man was behind the Government in its movement to protect and hold Canadian markets for the Canadian people. In conclusion he said that if he were tendered the nomination he would accept it, but he was in the hands of the convention, and no matter who was chosen would be with his colleagues in the fight to the end.

FRANCHISE TO WOMEN.

King Hodgins said the ladies of Canada had been given a franchise by the Government as a reward for the noble work they had done during the war. They had amply justified that gift. It was a distinct blessing that this country had had a man like Sir Robert Borden and others with him who had been broad enough to form the Union Government of the best element of both parties. It had been the best Government Canada had ever had and had succeeded in carrying this country through a very trying time. If it had been good in war it would be equally good in solving the problems of peace. He declared himself a pronounced Unionist and said he would accept the nomination if he received it, but in any event would work for whoever was chosen.

The vote was then taken. Mr. Glass was elected on the first ballot. The choice was made unanimous on motion of Mr. Hodgins, seconded by Mr. Boler.

Thanking the convention for the confidence imposed in him, Mr. Glass said he believed he had always tried to do his duty. It had been a pleasure to him to be of service to the returned soldiers and their dependents and if he had nothing but the grateful appreciation of the men and women, who by reason of his position he had been able to help, he had been more than repaid. The coming fight was going to be a hard one, but he believed that if the women of Middlesex co-operated with and assisted the men in working for the best interests of the country at large he believed the Government party would win. The United Farmers' organization had a place in the community and an opportunity to do service to it, but they stepped outside this when they went into politics. Politically they were conceived in selfishness—like the beneficiaries of the old Scotchman's prayer, "us four, no more." T. A. Crerar, the head of the Farmer party, was in the game for Mr. Crerar. He was president and general manager of the United Grain Growers, an organization that did not exist solely to help the farmer. Mr. Glass quoted the Toronto Telegram of May 17, 1920, which showed that in 1917 overages and screenings taken from the farmers of the West by the Western grain elevators represented a profit of $1,187,604. Of this the United Grain Growers made $189,874 in one of their elevators. But Mr. Crerar had another elevator that had been rented at a profit of 217 per cent. And this was the apostle who would lead this country to ruin.

"He may be honest," said Mr. Glass, "but he is a blind leader and the country will never have prosperity under him."

SENATOR ROBERTSON.

Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, minister of labor, was then introduced and enthusiastically greeted. In opening, Mr. Robertson said he felt he had every right to appeal to them as a worker, the first part of his life had been spent on a farm; then he had been a wage earner for many years, and had always been associated with the cause of labor. The present Government had never been unmindful of the interests of labor, and since 1918 there had been more consideration for the wage-earner and more attention to the common people than at any time since confederation. The Government had granted official recognition to labor men, one case being when P. M. Draper, secretary of the Canadian Labor Congress, had been the representative of Canada in connection with the labor clauses of treaty of peace, and in that Canada labor had a magna charta they never dreamed of.

The conclusion of war found it necessary to re-establish 400 000 returned Canadian soldiers as well as 200,000 Canadians who were engaged in war employment at home. Canada's normal industrial population was in the vicinity of 1,000,000, and the armistice saw more than 50 per cent. of that total requiring peace time employment. To add to the problem winter was approaching and the situation looked bad enough. In 1918, in co-operation with the provinces, the Government had opened an employment bureau, and by March 1, 1919, had 95 offices in operation. Since that time more than 800,000 men and women had been placed in employment at no cost to themselves.

THE REGISTRATION.

When a general registration of the people of Canada was decided upon the board charged with that undertaking was representative of both capital and labor. During the first few weeks of their association each was suspicious of the other, but they soon learned that both were honest, and in October, 1918, as the result of conferences between employers and employees, they were able to lay before the Government a comprehensive recommendation for technical and vocational education. The Government agreed to this recommendation and devoted a million dollars a year with the result that to-day, in co-operation with the provinces, there are 129 technical schools operating day and night, with 1,806 teachers, and more than 60,000 men and women have been technically trained. That was safe and sane work.

"I came into the Government," said Senator Robertson, "at the request of Sir Robert Borden, twice repeated, and I did it because I believed that he was honest in his desire to give official representation to Labor. We determined to try him and we have not found him wanting. During the war 23 Labor representatives were named to various governments and boards." Senator Robertson said it was necessary now to look to the future of Canada and to the best interests of all classes. A protective tariff was necessary to insure this. The great industrial population of Ontario desired to retain its markets, not only for its own products but also for those of the farm. Of all the farm products from Canada to-day 84 per cent is consumed in the great home market, which, of all markets, is the one best worthy of preservation. It is necessary to guard this market against [illegible] competition.

FARMERS MISINFORMED.

But the farmers have been told, and falsely, told that they are bearing the whole oad of taxation. If they would only realize the fact they would see that that canvass was entirely erroneous. The department of agriculture alone spend $5 a year for the encouragement of agriculture for every $1 received by way of taxation upon agricultural implements. It is the industrial centers that bear the real burden of taxation, and "what would happen if they quit?" If Canadian industries fail by reason of overbearing competition where will be the markets for the farmer? Preservation of the home market by a reasonable tariff was never as necessary as it is to-day. One half of Europe had lost its purchasing power; the foreign markets are gone; the United States have sufficient factory capacity to supply all the needs of the American people by working three days a week, but they're going to work six days a week if they can, and will naturally look for a market for their surplus. The United States Fordney tariff wall was put there to preserve their home markets for the American people. Without protective tariff in Canada we shall have the spectacle of the United States factories working six days a week while Canadian factories are idle. But Canadians must also meet competition from some other source, and in this connection he referred to the lithographing trade. Germany is competing for this and can produce lithograph work much more cheaply than Canadians can. Canadian workmen in this employment are highly paid and they must be protected or they will be obliged to compete with the cheaper product and the debased exchange of other countries.

Dealing with the railway and merchant marine problems, Senator Robertson said that for 16 years he had been a railway employee and for eight years later a railway union officer. The Government of the country had never sought to gather together the bankrupt railways of the country, form them into one Government system and thrust them upon us. But it was a baby that had been left to the administration and must be taken care of. The railway situation is improving under Government management. In August the operating expenses had been more than met. In September the excess of earnings over operating expenses was substantial, and the speaker predicted that in five years time the Government railways will be paying their way and will be an asset to the country. Opposition to the Canadiana railway policy was two-fold—one party wanted to give or sell the Canadian National Railways to the C. P. R.; the other would nationalize all the Canadian railways; each is equally foolish. The C. P. R., the speaker said, was the best managed property in the world, and there was no reason to take it over. The whole service would be improved by the competition. In connection with the railways there was the merchant marine. The merchant marine had been founded during war time because it was necessary that Canadian goods should be carried on the seas as well as on land. Up to to-day it has paid its way. The products of this country had been placed in other countries where they had never found a market before. As an evidence of the value of the service to the Canadian people the minister said that a few weeks ago there was a tie-up in the lemon market, due to monopoly; suddenly the monopoly was broken and the prices smashed, and this because a boat in the service of the Canadian Merchant Marine had arrived at the Port of Montreal loaded with lemons. The Canadian people were able to get the fruit at a reasonable price.

In conclusion, Senator Robertson said he was an absolute optimist in regard to the future both of the Canadian railways and of the Canadian merchant marine, provided the security of Canadian trade was safeguarded by a tariff. It was in the interests of every class in the community to see that Canadian industry should not fail; that our home markets should be preserved, and that nothing should be done that would detract from the future development of the country.

He congratulated the large number of delegates in attendance on the fact that they had shown their interest in their Canadian citizenship by attending the convention. It pleased him that Mr. Glass had again been chosen to carry the banner of the party. He was a man in whom the speaker had the utmost confidence and for whom he felt a great respect. No member of Parliament had done more useful work either in committee or in the various matters which came before the attention of the House.

The meeting dispersed with cheers for the King, the prime minister and the candidate.

AUDIENCE AT N. Y. GIVES FINE WELCOME TO ADMIRAL BEATTY

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Dispatch). — Admiral Lord Beatty and his wife were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Field at the performance of "Bombo" at the Al Jolson Theater last night.

Before the close of the last act Mr. Jolson informed the audience that Lord Beatty was present and the British admiral was given an enthusiastic welcome.

Assisted by the orchestra, the audience arose and sang: God Save the King."

MERGERS FORMED UNDER LAURIER

Mackenzie King and T. A. Crerar Made No Objection.

"BIG BUSINESS" CHARGE

Premier Addresses Meetings At Milton and Welland.

WELLAND, Oct. 29. — (By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.) —Following his Toronto meeting on Friday night Premier Meighen hook the road again to-day, addressing two large meetings the first at Milton, in Halton County, and the second at Welland. At both meetings he was greeted by large audiences, which listened attentively to his arguments in support of a protective tariff policy and his defense of the Government's record.

At Welland the prime minister again took up the charge attributed to Hon. T. A. Crerar that the Government is in league with "big business," and rear to his audience a list of the names of the larger mergers and consolidations of capital which took place whilet Mr. King was a member of the Laurier Government, and to which, he said, Agrarian leaders had made no objection.

"Let us read the names of some of the combines which took place when Mr. King was a member of the Laurier Government," said the premier. "There was the Canada Cement Company, in the year 1909, the Canada Machinery Company, 1910; Dominion Canners, Limited, 1910; Sherwin-Williams Company, 1911; Steel Company of Canada, 1911; Canadian Cottons, Limited, in 1910; Canada Car and Foundry Company, 1910, and the Canadian Consolidated Felt Company, 1910."

"Here we have Mr. Crerar against combines," continued Mr. Meighen, and yet Mr. Crerar was an ardent supporter of the Laurier Government when these mergers took place." For himself, he was not afraid of big organizations of industry, said the premier. The economic tendency of the age was toward production on a large scale and this necessitated great aggregations of capital.

"A country that becomes afraid of big industries is quite likely to lose what industries it has," warned the premier.

Hon. Edmund Bristol, K. C., of Toronto, supported the premier on the platform, making speeches at both Milton and Welland. At the former place Dr. R. K. Anderson, of Milton, former member and Liberal-Conservative candidate in the County of Halton, addressed the meeting while at Welland and speeches were given by Evan Fraser, ex-M.P.P., Government candidate in Welland and representative of the county in the last Parliament Frank Lalor, former member for Haldimand, who will not contest the riding on account of ill-health, and J. D. Chaplin, Government candidate and former member for Lincoln.

The chairman of the Milton meeting was James McDowell, president of the National Liberal and Conservative Association at Halton, while at Welland ex-Mayor M. Vaughan presided.

In both places the premier was the recipient of a civic welcome.

MAKES ESCAPE FROM "PEN" AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 31.—Harry Bryson, alias Preston, alias Black who was serving a 20-year term for attempted murder, escaped from the St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary on Saturday night. He sawed the iron bars of his cell through and slid down a rope made with portions of his bed clothes. He left a dummy with his clothes, leaving it in his bed to deceive his guards, so that his escape was only discovered at 8 o'clock on Sunday morning.

Later the guards found that Bryson had obtained a shotgun.

No information concerning the fugitive has been obtained.

HONOR MEMORY OF LADY BECK

Memorial Service at Toronto to Memory of London Lady

ST. JAMES' CHURCH FILLED

Citizens of All Walks of Life in Attendance

TORONTO, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press Dispatch).—Toronto paid reverent tribute to-day to the memory of Lady Beck when a gathering that taxed the seating capacity of St. James' Anglican Cathedral attended the memorial service held there. The city was officially represented by Mayor Church, members of the Board of Trade, Board of Control, aldermen and the heads of civic departments, but the service had little of a formal character to it. The great gathering was made up of all classes of people from those whose names stand for leadership in business and public affairs to the humblest worker. There were scores there from the more lowly walks of life, who in one way or another, through the many helpful organizations with which Lady Beck was connected, had felt or been brought close to her loving touch, and those who were taking this, their first opportunity, to make reverent return.

NO SERMON.

In keeping with the Anglican custom there was no sermon or address, the service being entirely one of song and prayer. It was opened with the hymn, "Unto the Hills Around Do I Lift Up My Longing Eyes," and was followed by the reading of the 103rd Psalm. Then Rev. Canon Plumptre gave the Scripture reading from the 21st chapter of Revelations. While the audience stood, the choir, with beautiful feeling, sang the sentence: "I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, henceforth blessed are dead which die in the Lord; even so saith the Spirit; for they rest from their labors."

"Now the Laborer's Task is O'er," was sung by the congregation, and after prayers by Canon Plumtre, the choir sang two verses of the anthem, "I Heard the Voice of Jesus Saying, 'Come Unto Me and Rest'."

Dr. Albert Ham, who had charge of the musical service, played the "Dead March," its wonderful strains by the great organ holding the large audience. Then that most touching of all hymns, with its appeal from the sorrowing human heart and its supreme declaration of faith—"Abide With Me; Fast falls the Eventide; the Darkness Deepens; Lord, With Me Abide". The choir slowly moved down the aisles as the hymn came to a close. A moment of silent prayer followed and the service was at an end.

Sir Adam Beck and his daughter, Miss Marion, attended the service, and left at its close, after a few words and handshakes with one or two intimate friends.

MEMORIAL SERVICE TO LATE DR. MOORHOUSE

Dean Tucker Pays Tribute to Distinguished Londoner in Sermon. at St. Paul's.

A memorial service to the late Dr. W. H. Moorehouse, who died last week, was held yesterday morning at St. Paul's Cathedral, of which congregation he was a member for half a century. Special music was given by the choir and at the conclusion of the ceremony Organist Dickinson played the Dead March.

In his sermon Dean Tucker said that Dr. Moorehouse practiced his profession in London with a devotion and faithfulness that could not be surpassed. Like the Master whom he loved and served he went about doing good and healing all manner of diseases and infirmity among the people. There are hundreds of families in our midst that called him blessed. And he rose to the highest honors in the profession he so faithfully served. To his initiative and devoted care is largely due the medical school, which means so much to the City of London and the Province of Ontario. And for half a century he was an earnest supporter and devout communicant of this church, and for 10 years or more one of its church wardens.

"I can testify from intimate knowledge to the solicitude and consciousness with which he discharged the duties of that office, said Dr. Tucker. He took the keenest interest in the music and the services and even the material fabric was the object of his constant and devoted care. His tall and stately figure as he went up and down the aisles of the church was familiar to us all. While behind the physician and the churchman stood the honest, upright, honorable man. We rejoice in the service which he rendered. We mourn his loss. We sympathize deeply with the bereaved whom he has left behind, and we would inspire ourserves by his example to serve our day and generation as he did."

PLOWING MATCH IN STEPHEN TP. SUCCESS

In the single horse event Passmore got first prize and Allison second but Allison received a special award for the "best crown and finish". In the "free for all" the following are the winners, in order: H. Jeffery, G. Ferguson, C. Wolfe, H. Struthers.

EVERYBODY SLEUTHING IN SIMCOE

SIMCOE, Oct. 30.—Constables in the county have been shadowing highwaymen since 7.30 last night, when a party in a small touring car attempted to victimize two Simcoenians near Delhi. Later in the night a mysterious touring car was given a chase in Windham Township, but evaded its pursuers. This afternoon two suspicious characters, after an interview with the police, got out of town. They hailed from Brantford.

Strangers in Simcoe are at present scrutinized very closely by the population in general, and the police lack no backing in the matter of shadowing gentlemen of this modern highway profession.

Three stores in Waterford were broken into last night or in the early hours of this morning and the markers of a Waterford auto were stolen.

HAMMOND NAMED IN KENT RIDING

Former Mayor of Chatham Nominated At Chatham Convention.

SOLID FOR PROTECTION

Resolution of Confidence In Premier Meighen Passed.

CHATHAM, Oct. 29.—(Sy Staff Reporter.)—Ex-Mayor William A. Hammond, in accepting this afternoon the call of the National Liberal and Conservative party to contest Kent, was as outspoken and clear as Premier Meighen himself in presentation of the main federal issue.

"Our country is placed in a position where we must uphold the protection policy of the present Government or commit commercial suicide," he said. "Residents of the County of Kent would not be fair to one of the gamest fighters and statesmen Canada ever produced if we did not vote on the issue."

Ten names were proposed, but a vote taken upon only two, Mr. Hammond obtaining a majority over Thomas Scullard. On motion of the latter the choice was declared unanimous. Those who retired were: Mayor Fred. H. Brisco, of Chatham; F. L. Arnold, of Howard; T. A. Smith, of Chatham; George W. Sulman, ex-M. P. P., Chatham; Charles Sauvey, Wallaceburg; Phil. H. Bowyer, ex-M. P. P., Ridgetown; J. C. Stewart and W. W. Turner, Chatham.

HALL CROWDED.

Attendance at the convention was limited only by the capacity of the I. O. O. F. Hall. With a hundred persons standing about the door and in the corridor there must have been 600 present. Messengers for the local newspapers had to carry copy by way of the fire escape.

A spirit of vigorous optimism prevailed, and while it had been expected that an outside speaker would address the meeting, the speeches of county men who took the platform were of such a high order that, with the organization business transacted the afternoon slid along so pleasantly no one thought of apologizing for the absence of outside talent, and it was nearly 4.30 when the meeting closed.

Sergt.-Major McNamara, Soldier-Labor M. P. P., Toronto, who was to have addressed the meeting, wired that because of illness in his family he was unable to be present.

The convention adopted with applause the following resolution, introduced by P. H. Bowyer and G. W. Sulman: "That the National Liberal and Conservative party in the electoral district of Kent, in convention assembled, desires to express its approval of the platform and policy of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and the able and efficient manner in which he has guided the ship of state during the trying reconstruction period following the war; and that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the prime minister."

Dr. T. L. McRitchie, who has officiated as president of the association for some years in a manner which earned him many tributes this afternoon, expressed a desire to be relieved and the meeting elected Charles Austin, of Chatham. J. C. Stewart, of Chatham, who had been appointed secretary pro tem., was confirmed in that position. Other officers elected are: Vice-president, Charles Sauvey, Wallaceburg; second vice-president, Mrs. W. C. Crawford, of Chatham, late of Tilbury. Vice-presidents for municipalities were named as follows: Wallaceburg, H. A. Stonehouse and Mrs. Clayton Baughman; Ridgetown, Mayor P. J. Henry and Mrs. A. Pow; Blenheim, Dr. A. R. Hanks and Mrs. Storey; Tilbury, A. A. Wilson and Mrs. John Cowley, Sr.; Chatham, W. W. Turner and Mrs. Ernest Turner; Chatham Township, W. H. Ruttle and Harry Crow; Dover, Richard Steen and D. D. Gonyou, Sr.; Harwich, Charles Buchanan and Robert McNaughton; Raleigh, E. H. Broadbent and P. G. Murphy; Tilbury East, Milton Shaw and Herbert Hornick; Romney, John Edwards and John Featherstone; Howard, F. L. Arnold, George Smith and Mrs. F. L. Arnold; Orford, John A. Bishop, Harry Sifton and Mrs. McKim. Lady representatives are to be named by local executives in the townships where appointments were not made this afternoon.

MUST BE FOR OR AGAINST.

"Mr. McCoig has chosen to take an independent stand," said Mr. Austin in his remarks on accepting the presidency, "but I have yet to see the man who can be truly independent. In this country we want responsible government and you must be either for or against the Government. (Applause.) I have followed the career of Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen since his entrance into public life. If you followed his career across the seas, among the stars of the political world, you know that he was able to guide deliberations of that great assembly, for the principles which he espoused there found weight. I heard his speech at London and it was a clear-cut speech, free from platitudes, and that is the way we want him to come out."

Those proposed as candidates were called to the platform in reverse order, and W. W. Turner was first to withdraw his name. He expressed the opinion that the issues of the campaign are as great as those at Confederation, and said he felt confident that the choice of the convention would be elected in Kent.

J. C. Stewart also felt that this was the most crucial election since 1878.

"Under the National Policy then inaugurated, Canada had gone onward from that day to this," he said, "and stood the strain of an exhausting war. Most of us believed that in 1911 we had settled with the bogey of free trade, or reciprocity with the United States, which in the long run leads to the same thing, but it appears we only scotched the snake and did not kill it, and now it is up again in the hands of a new party. It is up to us to settle that issue at this election, for at least a generation to come. If we are to maintain our position in the company of which we form a part, and if our country is to maintain that prosperity we have built up under a tariff which protects our own industries, we must settle now the only real issue in this fight—whether the tariff is going to stand or fall." (Applause).

MR. BOWYER CONFIDENT.

"Chances were never better to carry Kent," said Phil. Bowyer, ex-M. P. P. "If the Liberal-Conservatives are united we can undoubtedly win. Unitedly, the Liberal-Conservatives, not only in Kent, but Ontario, never were defeated." (Applause).

Charles Sauvey, of Wallaceburg, urged the selection of a Chatham man, and said, "If we all stand behind him I am sure the victory is ours."

Mr. Sulman's address included an interesting reference to the Canadian merchant marine, units of which he encountered in a recent tour of foreign lands.

INJURED IN FALL FROM SCAFFOLD AT BLYTHESWOOD

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—Thomas Wilkinson, well-known Leamington resident, suffered several fractured ribs and may be internally injured as the result of a fall from a 20-foot scaffold, on which he was at work near Blytheswood, several days ago. He was brought to Leamington. The fall was due to a heavy wind blowing at the time, which forced him off the narrow scaffolding.

CATTLE EMBARGO A GRAVE QUESTION

Of First Importance to British Farmer, Says Minister

LONDON, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—Sir Arthur Griffith-Boscowen, minister of agriculture, addressing a meeting of farmers at Taunton yesterday referred to the abolition of the corn subsidy and declared that the endeavor to build up a permanent agricultural policy based on subsidies was altogether wrong. He admitted the Government made a great mistake in starting it and, recognizing the mistake they had done their best to put it right.

The minister declared that live stock was far more important to British farming than cereals, hence the call for a report by a royal commission on the question of lifting the embargo against Canadian cattle. Importation of live stock was a matter of vital concern to production in England as live stock raising was a considerable part of English farming, and anything likely to interfere with that would have serious results on agriculture generally.

To him the position was very difficult and he asked the farmers to have confidence in his doing the best for agriculture when the question came before the Cabinet and Parliament.

J. Crehan, president of the association, late last night.

Ignorance or Deception?

C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate in London, has issued a manifesto to the electors. In this manifesto Mr. Somerville, after denying that the tariff is the main issue, adds, "The real issue is the character and the extent of the tariff revision." With this statement The Free Press agrees. Mr. Somerville then proceeds to argue that Mr. Meighen is a high protectionist and if elected will increase the tariff, while if the Liberals are returned any tariff revision will be along the lines of the Laurier revision in 1896.

What basis has he for such a statement? Absolutely none. Mr. Somerville is arguing from false premises. In the first place, Mr. Meighen is not a high protectionist and never has been. In fact, Mr. Somerville in his opening speech criticized him for having advocated in Parliament a reduction in agricultural implements. But Mr. Meighen believes in the principle of protection and that the tariff should be revised along lines that will maintain industry in the country. The Government platform is clear and definite and is the platform which will insure a continuance of the policy of Canada for the past 40 years, including the 15 years Laurier was in power.

Now as to the Liberal platform. The Liberals met in Ottawa in 1919 and drafted a platform they solemnly promised to put into effect. This platform is, as Mr. Somerville well knows, if he ever read it—he certainly never quotes it—a direct challenge to the present fiscal policy and the policy of the days of the Laurier regime. It proposes to place nineteen classes of articles on the free list, including free agricultural implements, foodstuffs and products of foodstuffs. It is a policy which would ruin many industries in London and Western Ontario. On what authority is Mr. Somerville advancing the particular policy he enunciates, as the platform of the Liberal party? Has he the assurance of Hon. Mackenzie King that he does not propose to stand by the pledges of his party at the convention in 1919, or his own solemn statement in Parliament in 1920 that "I will stand or fall by this platform?"

Unless Mr. Somerville can assure the people of London that this platform will be repudiated and will not be put into legislative effect he will have to take responsibility for it or else throw overboard the leadership of Mr. King. In the meantime Mr. Somerville is either deliberately endeavoring to mislead the electors of London or else is profoundly ignorant. He is putting forward as the Liberal platform something that is not the platform of his party. Mr. Meighen well summed up the situation in regard to the Liberal party in his Toronto speech in the following terms:

"I have no objection to a party changing its policy, but it should be done before the people act on that policy. If they intend to do it, now is the accepted time. Let them do it before the people vote. If they go to the polls without repudiating it in the only way they could do so, then they are bound to make it the law when they come into power, or they will stand as having practiced as gross a betrayal of public trust as was ever known in any civilized country."

Mr. Somerville is in the same boat as Mr. King.

Barking Up the Wrong Tree

C. R. Somerville, Liberal candidate in London, in his manifesto to the electors, intimates that paeronage, graft and corruption are rampant at Ottawa. He evidently regards himself as a sort of political Galahad, whose mission is to purify the state.

Mr. Somerville has already shown himself as far from well-posted on Canadian politics when he told the ladies of London that the Liberals had instigated women's franchise. The very opposite was the truth.

Is Mr. Somerville unaware of the fact that the whole outside civil service, consisting of some 50,000 employees, is now under the Civil Service Commission and no longer under the influence of politics? He has an example of the abolition of patronage in London. The old Laurier Government, which he so admires, named a Liberal member of Parliament, an outsider, as postmaster of London. He recently retired, and instead of a politician being named to succeed him the assistant postmaster, a Liberal, was promoted. The London collectorship of customs, filled in the same way, is another instance. If Mr. Somerville believes in the abolition of patronage he should be supporting the present Government instead of trying to encompass its defeat

Again, can Mr. Somerville name a solitary charge of corruption or graft against the present Government, or Union Government, which it succeeded? Since 1917 not a scandal of any character has been fastened on the administration, and the Public Accounts Committee has year after year given the Government a clean bill of health. All purchasing to-day is done through a purchasing board consisting of business men, and all contracts for supplies are let by tender. The old patronage lists, which were a scandal in the days of the Laurier regime, have been abolished. Individually the Liberals opposed the appointment of a purchasing board. If Mr. Somerville wants businesslike methods and an absence of graft at Ottawa he should be supporting the present Government.

Mr. Somerville is barking up the wrong tree.

Of the Guests at the Washington Conference

In a few days there will be gathered together, at Washington, a large number of world representatives for the Limitation of Armaments Conference. The greater number of delegates will come from Europe and other parts of the world where the custom and habit of wine drinking is an age-long established thing.

Knowing the laws and regulations in force in the United States, some of the delegates have been set a-wondering how they will be able to do the work that will be demanded of them, by the very nature of the conference, on the rather radical change of diet to which they will be subject.

A correspondent from France cabled as follows to The Chicago Tribune:

"French officials and employees who will come to the Washington conference are distressed, not knowing how prohibition United States will enable them to provide wine for their meals. They hope that the interests of peace will not require that they return to France ice water dyspeptics.

"The French do not understand a civilization which denies citizens the use of wine. They do not understand a diet which is possible without it. They think their digestions are injured without it. They do not think that their morals are injured by it.

"They drink wine as Americans drink water. Their object is not intoxication. Along with whisky, which has no other purpose than that of intoxicating, the United States has thrown out wine and beer, which have other purposes. It is possible to use wine and beer as table beverages. We do not say that a whisky drinker would use them in that fasion. He would try to get out of a large quantity of wine what he could get out of a small quantity of firewater.

"The French will be our guests. Our laws are not intended for their moral, spiritual or physical well-being, but for our own. We recognize the right of foreign representatives accredited here to bring their customs with them. The laws of the United States do not intervene.

"What applies to a minister or ambassador will apply, in courtesy and decency, to the delegations which arrive for the Washington conference. In this nation, so well regulated on the statute books, there must be that much savoir vivre."

What would Canada do were she placed in a similar position?

Public Ownership an Issue

The Opposition, led by Hon. Mackenzie King, has been making continual and bitter attacks on the Government mercantile marine. The object of these attacks up to the present has not been clear other than to discredit the Government. The Liberals have put forward no counter-policy.

However, The Advertiser has let the cat out of the bag. The Advertiser, in a lengthy editorial in regard to the Government's policy, intimates that the Liberal policy is immediately to dispose of this fleet of 63 vessels, even if at a loss. In Quebec the chief Liberal leaders want to turn over the Canadian National Railways to the C. P. R., and evidently it is the intention of the Liberal party to dispose of our public-owned fleet in the same manner.

The Liberal policy as at present composed is anti-public ownership, and apparently it is the plan of the Liberal leaders, if successful at the polls, to hand over our railways and ships to private interests. The policy of the Meighen Government is clear-cut and definite. It believes, on the other hand, in public ownership.

The shipbuilding program is one of which the Government has good reason to be proud, and of which it is not ashamed. As a result of the initiative and enterprise of the Government Canada to-day owns the largest public-owned fleet in the world. The merchant marine of Canada has regained its lost glory and prestige, and Canada's flag is to be found on the seven seas. Montreal and Canadian ports would not have captured the grain trade of North America this year if it had not been for the service of Canada's ships. The Canadian National Railways would be handicapped without the merchant marine. Lines of steamers are a necessary complement. Despite difficult times the Government mercantile marine last year paid all operating expenses and three per cent. on capital.

The question of public ownership of our railways and ships, as represented by the Government, or the disposal of the Canadian National and mercantile fleet, as advocated by the Liberals, or the most influential section of it, is an issue which will have to be settled at the polls.

The Third Column

IF I WERE SENDING MY BOY AFAR.

If I were sending my boy afar
To live and labor where strangers are,
I should hold him close till the time to go,
Telling him things which he ought to know;
I should whisper counsel and caution wise,
Hinting of dangers which might arise,
And tell him the things I have learned from life
Of its bitter pain and its cruel strife,
And the sore temptations which men beset,
And then add this: "Boy, don't forget
When your strength gives out and your hope grows dim,
Your father will help if you'll come to him."

If I were sending a boy away,
I should hold him close on the parting day,
And give him my trust. Through thick and thin.
I should tell him I counted on him to win,
To keep his word at whatever cost,
To play the man though his fight be lost.
But beyond all that I should whisper low:
"If trouble comes, let your father know;
Come to him, son, as you used to do
When you were little—he'll see you through.
I am trusting you in a distant land,
You trust your father to understand.

"Trust me wherever you chance to be,
Know there is nothing to hide from me,
Tell me it all your tale of woe,
The sting of failure that hurts you so,
Never, whatever your plight may be,
Think it something to hide from me;
Come to me first in your hour of need,
Come though you know that my heart will bleed!
Boy, when the shadows of trouble fall,
Come to your father first of all."

BUOYANCY OF TEMPERAMENT.

Strive as we all will, the general train of our emotions and passions seem to find about the same route to cover.

Neither education nor extreme good fortune over others comes in to save us. We are all inheritors of moods and worries.

But it is possible for anyone to become a master of himself in lesser or greater degree. The power of the will and the imagination may be mustered for service. Through persistent application and great patience we may create within ourselves a buoyancy of temperament that may well be the envy of others.

I have noticed that those who suppress most carry the heaviest burdens. He who in the midst of sorrow or disappointment keeps his load to himself and through no outward manifestation gives vent to his feelings is almost always the most unhappy. Whereas he who gives way to his grief in tears or expression of some sort soon rises to a steady handling of himself.

How many smiling faces mask a grave of suffering!

It is this buoyancy of temperament that brings out many a sun into an otherwise dark day and which teaches forbearance, tolerance and generosity.

Tillers of the soil, when gathered together, talk over about the same problems. If we have worries, so has the other fellow.

But if we bring light into the day that is given to us the darkness that has shadowed other lives is at once made less deep and dense.

How our personal assets rise and take on new values the minute that we come in contact with some buoyant temperament!

The world doesn't seem to lack for trouble. And most of its problems are quite complex. But for the temperament that has learned noiselessly to drop things of worry and disturbance all along the way there abides a beauty and satisfaction that we may all well seek.

—George Matthew Adams.

THE MOURNER.

My mind had grown so galled and sore, from viewing social smashes, I started for the sackcloth store, to buy a ton of ashes. "These modern ways," I said, aghast, "are all beyond enduring, any every stand-by of the past has broken from its mooring. I do not like to kick and carp, or shed the tears in billows, but I must hang my famous harp upon the well-known willows. For things have changed since I was young and lived in far Aurora, and dizzy curves are daily sprung, that capture my Angora." And, thinking of that storied town, old men I recollected, who used to wander up and down, disconsolate, dejected. Oh, that was 40 years ago, and they were always saying that modern things were steeped in woe, and virtue was decaying. "And are we old boys dotard sires?" I cried, "has old age hipped us, that we intend to hang our lyres upon a eucalyptus? Have I grown like those graybeards dour who groaned in bygone seasons, and said the world was turning sour, and bored us with their reasons? I'll have to can the sob and sigh, discard the mourning border; no bolt of sackcloth shall I buy, no ashes shall I order." And then I went to Jimpson's shop, where ice cold drinks are mingled, and drank three quarts of lemon pop, and through my works it tingled. —Walt Mason.

LEST WE FORGET

The Dominion Government Has Not Neglected the Interests of the Men Who Fought.

Article No. 1—GRATUITIES.

BY A GREAT WAR VETERAN.

How many times have we heard, since the boys came home, that the Government is unpopular with returned soldiers! A great many people have accepted that broad statement because there was no one who took the trouble to refute it. And, any way, crowds of people rather enjoyed seeing some one abused. It furnished a happy diversion for a troubled world wearied by war.

But a little investigation by any casual observer will discover that the great majority of the men who served overseas are willing to accord to the Government its full share of glory for what was accomplished in prosecuting the war to a victorious end and in doing all that was humanly possible to set the boys on their feet after they came home again.

* * *

A year ago there was a great deal of noise. It proceeded from the throats of a few individuals. One of these men was Mr. J. Harry Flynn, a fluent talker, gifted with unusual ability to denounce those high in authority. He placed himself at the head of some returned soldiers who had grievances of more or less weight or who imagined that they had not been treated fairly. In the early months following the armistice, when thousands of men were passing through the stages of demobilization and attempting to get themselves re-established, it would have been a miracle if some had not felt that they had been unjustly treated. There were undoubtedly mistakes—usually by pinheaded officials who couldn't get away from the old way of doing things. Most of the mistakes were put right, but every aggrieved person thought the prime minister should have known all about his particular case.

* * *

Flynn fanned the flames of hate. He imagined every returned soldier's hand was raised against the Government. He declared that the Government had done nothing for the war veterans and demanded a bonus of $2,000 for every man who went overseas.

Such a demand was bound to be popular for a time, at least until it was investigated. Let us admit that the majority of those who gave from two to four years of their life to work for the Government for $1.10 a day at the most hazardous job ever undertaken by any man would be glad to accept a cash bonus of $2,000. Even that would be poor recompense for most of the men who went over if the value of the work they did was to be measured by dollars and cents. But it would be something to make up for what they lost by going to the war—the big wages that were paid to the boys at home.

But could Canada pay a bonus of that nature and remain solvent? And if Canada was not financially strong enough to pay that much money, how many of the boys would ask for the money, or accept it if it were proffered?

The details of the proposal of Mr. Flynn and those who thought as he did are not important, but we will suppose that all the boys who served in France were to be paid the full bonus. That would be approximately 350,000 men or $700,000,000. Other enlistments were 240,000 and if each was to get $1,000 that would be $240,000,000 more. The two figures make $940,000,000. Take off $120,000,000 for those who did not return and we would have $820,000,000 that would have to be raised to pay this bonus. These are only approximate figures. But apparently Mr. Flynn wanted the Government to raise from three-quarters of a billion to a billion dollars to "recompense" war veterans.

Would anyone say that Canada could pay that amount?

The Flynn proposal was popular for a time, until its full meaning was known. But to-day returned men have forgotten Mr. Flynn, who has gone back to the States.

* * *

It is not necessary to abuse Mr. Flynn or those who joined him in his campaign for a $2,000 bonus. Give him credit for what he did. While his own country (the United States) was holding back, making huge money out of munitions and food supplies, he came to Canada and enlisted. In France he was wounded and gassed. But if he had not been so impatient for a scrap he might have remained behind till April, 1917, and then joined up in the Rainbow Division. Well, let us see what his bonus would have been in that case? Every United States soldier, on his demobilization, was given a bonus of $60 and a "We Won the War" button and told to beat it. The New York State Legislature did propose an additional bonus, but the Governor of New York says it will require a constitutional amendment to legalize it and that could not be submitted to the electors till 1924. Imagine the state of mind of Mr. Flynn if he had enlisted from his home town and not come to Canada.

* * *

When the war veterans who had been carried away by the persuasive oratory of Mr. Flynn realized the full significance of the proposal the demand became less insistent. Indeed, it is not heard of to-day. It is admitted that the Canadian Government has gone far in the payment of gratuities, not as far as it would liek to have gone, perhaps, but as far as it could go in the face of the overwhelming load of war debt which must be borne by this and succeeding generations.

It has been said that the scale of gratuities paid by Canada is higher than in any other country in the world. It is difficult to make comparisons, in the absence of further details of the plans adopted by some of the far-flung portions of the empire, but we will take the case of a man with three years' service. That would be about the average of service. Enlistments were heaviest in 1916 and that would be about three years for the men who survived. The bonus paid to three-year men overseas in the English-speaking nations are here given:

	Married.	Single.
Canada	$600.00	$420.00
Great Britain	82.73	53.53
New Zealand	454.18	433.74
Australia	613.01	597.50
United States (regardless of length of service	60.00	60.00

Some individual states of the United States have granted a bonus of $10 a month for 12 months' service.

The Australian gratuity is made up of two sums; for married men $114.06 for three years' service and $498.95 from October 1, 1915, to the signing of peace. It is doubtful, however, if the average amount paid would exceed the average gratuity in Canada.

* * *

These figures should be pondered by every veteran who has been nursing a grouch because he has been told that he was shabbily treated.

In other respects it can be shown that Canada has not neglected her returned men. Proof will be given in succeeding articles dealing with pensions, soldiers' civil re-establishment, land settlement, returned soldiers' insurance civil service employment and many other services that have had to do with the return of our war veterans to civil life. But let this fact sink in:

No other Government has dealt more generously with returned men than Canada. No Government has emerged so successfully from the war, with less disturbance of business. And has any country spent nearly two billion dollars on war and demobilization activities with never a suggestion of scandal directed against any member of the Government?

* * *

It is not forgotten that the Liberal platform of 1919 did have a "bonus" plank, but only the other day, speaking in the Maritime Provinces, Mr. King discarded it. When it was accepted as Liberal doctrine it was thought to be a good vote catcher. Evidently Mr. King thinks that it won't help him any with the men who fought. Anyway, here is the plank:

"Resolved that this convention declares that the adoption of a system of cash grants to the soldiers and dependents of those who have fallen is the most satisfactory and effective means of civil re-establishment—such grants to be in addition to the present gratuity and to any pension for disability resulting from service."

* * *

The Farmers' party leader, Mr. Crerar, also has put himself on record on the gratuity question. Speaking at Winnipeg on December 10 last he referred to the magnitude of the Dominion's financial obligations and agreed that:

"It was impossible to pay further gratuity to all our returned men."

The fact is, no men of weight have publicly criticized what the Government has done for returned soldiers.

The second number will deal with pensions.

A RAILWAY POLICY FOR EVERY PROVINCE.

Hon. Mackenzie King has at long last come out with a statement that Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux's declaration for the Shaughnessy proposals in regard to the National Railways is not the policy of the Liberal party.

But the Shaughnessy proposal is the policy of the Liberal party in Quebec. It was publicly endorsed by Mr. Lemieux at the Lemieux banquet in Montreal. At that banquet were Hon. W. L. M. King, Sir Lomer Gouin and Ernest Lapointe—all the leaders of Quebec's different brands of Liberalism. Not one of them raised his voice in protest. Each and every one of them tacitly gave his assent.

As Mr. King has different brands of tariff for different sections of the country, it is only to be expected that he has a railway policy to fit each and every province.

"But if Mackenzie King becomes premier it will be at the behest of the same Quebec that made him leader. His Government will be dominated by Quebec. And as the C. P. R. owns political Quebec body and soul, the C. P. R. will be in a position to do what it pleases with the National Railways

That it will do what is best for the C. P. R. goes without saying, for it still fares forth under the banner which bears the strange device:

"What is good for the C. P. R. is good for Canada."—Toronto Telegram.

THE SHELL-SHOCKED HERO

Hon. Mackenzie King discovers in Quebec evidence of the shipment of munitions from Great Britain to Canada.

Hon. Mackenzie King also discovers in Quebec much misinformed opinion as to war scares and rumors of conscription.

Hon. Mackenzie King puts the two discoveries together and evolves a sensational letter to Premier Meighen, which is published broadcast at once to raise a new bogey of Downing street conspiracies and blood-thirsty assaults upon habitant homes.

Hon. Mackenzie King is naturally shocked at the slightest evidence of another conflict. The same may be said of Quebec.

But Hon. Mackenzie King misunderstands the spirit of the Canadian people, apart from Quebec, if he imagines they will be stampeded as easily as he was by the spectacle of a few shells on a wharf at Levis. The electors of North York, where Hon. Mackenzie King is a candidate, are invited to admire the shell-shocked hero who seeks their support.—Toronto Telegram.

THE FRIEND OF MAN.

"He was a friend of man, and lived in a house by the side of a road——" Homer.

I.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of their self-content;
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament;
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

II.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban,
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

III.

I see from my house by the side of the road,
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope
The men who are faint with the strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan—
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

IV.

I know there are brook-gladdened meadows ahead
And mountains of wearisone height;
That the road passes on through the long afternoon
And stretches away to the night;
But still I rejoice when the travelers rejoice,
And weep with the strangers that moan,
Nor live in my house by the side of the road,
Like a man who dwells alone.

V.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorner's seat,
Or hurl the cynic's ban?—
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

A GEOGRAPHICAL SURPRISE.

A geographical discovery has been made which has caused a good deal of surprise to those who made it. In attempting to check by wireless the standard line between Lyons and Sydney the operators found a discrepancy of several seconds between the two towns. Further experiments showed the existence of a mistake of nearly a hundred yards in the position of Australia on the maps. Of course, all kinds of explanations have been put forward to cover the error, but so far the comments have been facetious rather than ingenuous. The man in the street wants to know if Australia has always been where she was said to be, or whether Captain Cook, all those many years ago, placed her awry on his chart.—Christian Science Monitor.

Giving the Children a Chance

Canada's bright spot and hope of the future is the two million children now being fitted for life in her schools; for, according to statistics, a child without education has only one chance out of 150,000 of rising to prominence.

The work of providing schools, paying salaries of the teachers and carrying on the system of training is partly due to the activities of the life insurance companies. They have invested millions of dollars to assist in providing the means for your children to get an education.

The Trust Fund formed by the payment of your premiums is thus "at work." Every time you see boys and girls coming from school you should think of your life insurance. Children are also kept at school by life insurance money which thoughtful parents have provided.

Life Insurance helps to give your child a chance in life. It is your friend and also the friend of the children.

"I Had To Hear Your Voice To-Night!"

Mother had never used the Long Distance telephone—she had no idea how to go about it.

She longed to hear her daughter's voice; but then, Kingston was a long way from Hamilton—she was afraid she would never be able to hear so far.

But she could wait no longer. "I must speak to my daughter in Kingston" she told Central. A few minutes later she heard, "Ready with Kingston!"

"Is that you, Alice?"

"Why mother, where are you speaking from?" came the familiar voice that she had so longed to hear.

"I'm at home in Hamilton. I just had to hear your voice to-night—I couldn't wait any longer!"

And so mother and daughter, separated by many miles, had a virtual reunion that night.

It's a weekly affair now, those fond, intimate talks. Distance rolls away, and for a few minutes every Thursday night the familiar voices tell the little family gossip that both are so eager to hear.

Ask "Long Distance" to get the absent one on the telephone for you. Often it acts like a tonic to hear the familiar voice that distance has kept silent so long. Your telephone can bridge the gulf that separates you.

Miss Charity and Miss Lenore Webber were the hostesses on Friday evening of a very jolly Halloween party at their home on English street, where witches and goblins were on guard, and where 25 guests were ushered mysteriously in after three ghostly raps on the garden gate. The house looked lovely with its pumpkin lights and yellow-shaded candles and the quaint costumes of the guests added an effective touch to the Halloween games and pranks arranged. A dainty supper was served later in the evening.

In honor of Miss Doris Yarker, Miss Maybelle Stuart arranged a charming tea and shower on Friday last at her home in South London. The bride-elect was presented with a gay Japanese parasol, which, upon being opened, showered her with rhymed directions for the finding of her gifts, concealed through the downstairs rooms. Mrs. R. G. Perchard presided over the pretty tea table, which was centered with a low bowl of yellow marigolds. The guests included Miss Yarker, Miss Eula White, Miss Shirley White, Miss Beatrice Seaborn, Mrs. Jack Pope, Mrs. C. K. Edward, Mrs. Clare Moore, Miss Ruth Robinson, Mrs. Keith Hammond, Mrs. Jack Gunn, Miss Elsie Greene, Mrs. Arnold Dillon and Miss Bebe Farncombe.

One of the jolliest parties of the season was the masquerade given by the choir of the First Methodist Church at the Institute of Musical Art on Saturday evening. The spacious rooms looked especially attractive with their gay yellow decorations and many candles, the supper table in the studio being centered with golden mums. Mrs. and Mrs. A. D. Jordan were assisted in receiving by Mr. James Gillam, president of the choir, and Mrs. Gillam. Choral dignity was forgotten and members and special guests alike joined with a will in the many games arranged, all carrying out the Halloween idea in a delightful fashion. In addition to the choir members and their friends the guests included Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Eccles and Mr. and Mrs. George McCormick, honorary officers of the choir. Invitations were also extended to the choir committee and their wives, including Dr. and Mrs. Colin Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Yeates, Mr. and Mrs. William Tendall, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cayley, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Blackie, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Saunders, Mr. and Mrs. E. W Cairns, Mr and Mrs. F. E. Harley and Dr. and Mrs. Zeigler. Other specially invited guests were the officers of the Ladies' Aid Society, with their husbands, including Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boomer, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Langford, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sanborn, Mr. and Mrs. T. N Sumner, Mr and Mrs. Joseph Brown and others.

Styles BY Lenore

PARIS—(By Mail).—When Lanvin creates a frock, one may be certain that however simple the design, the details and general effect are new, charming and individual. Black velveteen is invariably a dependable foundation for a distinctive frock in the fall and winter, and when combined with a dash of vivid color, as in Madame Lanvin's clever model sketched to-day, it becomes a costume around which it is worth building an outfit of matching accessories, such as a hat, bag, sautoir, handkerchief, etc. For the sleeves of this frock are of deep green georgette, which is repeated also in the unique pocket and in the pointed loops which finish the neck, shoulders and hem. There is, too, a bit of gold in the stitching of the pocket.

Green, however, is not a becoming color to many, so the same idea may be carried out with Indian red, soft blue, royal blue, henna, or gray, which with black is extremely smart. Moreover, canton crepe may be substituted for the velveteen.

The hat, with its youthful droop, is of black velvet, trimmed with jet beads.

Weddings

Anstie-Hicks.

The marriage of Myrtle Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hicks of St. James street, to Frederick Kingdon Anstie, of this city, was solemnized on Saturday afternoon, October 29, at the Colborne Street Metholist Church, Rev. Judson Kelly officiating. Palms, ferns and mani-colored mums, massed against a background of autumn leaves, made effective decorations in the church, where Mr. Thomas Sharratt presided at the organ, and where Miss Irene Straitch sang "The Crown" during the signing of the register. The bride, who was given away by her father, was unattended and wore a graceful gown of white tricolette and veil of tulle, falling from a Juliet cap of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was a shower of Ophelia roses. A reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Hicks, mother of the bride, wearing a handsome black satin gown with corsage of sunset roses. Mrs. Anstie, mother of the groom, wore a black lace gown. The house was prettily decorated with palms and roses. Following the reception, at which a number of out-of-town guests were present, Mr. and Mrs. Anstie left on a trip to the coast, the bride traveling in a reindeer broadcloth suit trimmed with beaver. On their return they will live in London.

At 7 o'clock, to the strains of the Lohengrin bridal chorus, played by Miss Annie Kerr, cousin of the bride, the bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father and took her place beneath an arch of evergreens and carnations. She was prettily gowned in white satin with overdress of georgette and lace trimmed with bugle beads, and wore a veil and orange blossoms, she carried a bouquet of white mums. The bridesmaid, Miss Mabel McDonald, cousin of the groom, was gowned in shell pink georgette and carried pink mums. Mr. George Kerr, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ushers were Miss Blanche Kerr and Miss Jean McDonald. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond pendant and chain, to the best man, gold cuff links, to the bridesmaid a pearl brooch and to the pianist a pearl brooch. Following the ceremony a dainty wedding luncheon was served to 75 guests. The dining-room was prettily decorated in pink and white. Mr. and Mrs. Robson left immediately after the ceremony to spend their honeymoon in Toronto and Hamilton, and will later reside in Denfield.

DRAWING LESSONS FOR OUR KIDDIES

Don't you think it rather odd that this lot of circles can be made into an attractive drawing of a bunch of grapes. You just make a lot of circles and show them to mother or father and see if they can guess what you can make of them. All you have to do is to blacken in the circles and leave a high light every now and then in a few of the circles

THE BLACK SHEEP

By Ruby M. Ayres

"I'll take you upstairs," Laxton said. He led the way from the room.

The two men crossed the hall silently. Meredith seemed a little awed by his surroundings; he had known Laxton for years, but he had never connected him with a place like this; any broken-down club or a cheap flat had always seemed more in the line of the black sheep.

"It seems a rotten shame it's all got to go, eh?" he said awkwardly, as they went upstairs. "Isn't there any way out, old man?"

Their eyes met. "Well, why not?" Meredith asked carelessly. "Lots of fellows in your place would do it; if you can get hold of a decent girl."

No answer. "And it isn't as if Laurie ——" Meredith went on blunderingly.

Laxton cut him short. "Oh, for God's sake, shut up! She doesn't enter into the question now. You know as well as I do that that beast Ryan. . . However, it is no use talking, but don't think I'm crying over spilt milk. I'm not." His face was hard and defiant.

Meredith looked up. "What do you mean?" he asked. "Not. . . . another girl?"

Laxton nodded rather shamefacedly, though his eyes were defiant.

"Yes, your little friend in the tam-o'-shanter," he said.

He felt a little ashamed of the premature confession as soon as it was uttered.

"Of course, I don't want it talked about yet," he hastened to add. "It isn't officially fixed up, and she's got a fiery old parent who'd raise Cain if he thought there was anything between us; so mum's the word, there's a good chap."

Meredith promised; he was feeling a trifle chagrined that the girl who had never so much as cast an interested glance at his own handsome self should have found Laxton worth marrying; however, there was evidently no accounting for tastes.

"Well, I've come down here to enjoy myself, and I jolly well mean to have a good time," he said. "Who else is here, George."

"Oh, the usual crowd," said Laxton disinteresstedly.

"Mrs. Durrant and Dolly, and the Carews, and Bishop and the rest. You'll see them all at dinner."

He was leaning against the window of his friend's room, looking absently into the garden.

His thin face wore its usually bored expression and there was a listless droop to his shoulder.

He had arranged this house party on an impulse of the moment, and already he was fed up with it and wished every one at the bottom of the sea.

Meredith came across to him. He had got rid of his dusty overalls and had given his hot face a generous application of soap and cold water. He treated Laxton to a friendly flick of the towel.

"Cheer up, old son! Got the blues?"

"No."

Meredith grinned. "Oh, I forgot — you're in love. . . . Well, it won't last, never does, you know, and I speak from a lengthy and varied experience." He flung the towel down on to a chair.

Laxton scowled. "Love—bah!" he said. "There's no such thing in this rotten world."

Meredith stared at him, then he shrugged his shoulders; he was used to his friend's taciturnity; of course, he knew all about the little affair with Laurie Fenton; every one did; but then, hang it all, the girl in the tam-o'-shanter wasn't so bad.

"Got any money?" he asked eleguently.

"Tons," said the black sheep laconically. "What else do you suppose I'm after?" He moved from the window. "Are you ready? "If so, we'll go down."

* * *

If noise and hustle are signs of enjoyment, the house party at Barton Manor had a thoroughly good time.

KENT BRIDGE W. I.

Gratifying reports of the work of the library committee and also of a recent sale of home cooking were presented by Mrs. J. Hughes at last week's meeting of the Kent Bridge Women's Institute, at which Mrs. Stanley Arnold and Mrs. F. Arnold were appointed delegates to the annual W. I. convention in London this week. Mrs. Arthur Merritt was the hostess of the meeting, over which Mrs. E. W. Hardy presided. Poets and authors of Kent County were the subjects of the day's discussion, response to the roll call being made by timely quotations from contemporary writers. Mrs. Grover Shaw was in charge of a most attractive program, which included community singing; instrumental duet, Mrs. Arthur Merritt and Mrs. Ross Allison; vocal solo, Miss Bessie Hardey, and a special paper on the topic of the day by Mrs. Grover Shaw. Plans for the next meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Shaw, were completed. On that occasion the speaker will be Miss Beck, who will give an address on "Child Welfare." Mrs. Hardey was assisted at the tea hour by Mrs. Stanley Field and Mrs. Ross Allison.

NEED OF PLAYGROUNDS.

AILSA CRAIG, Oct. 30.—While playing on the road, Jim Sturgess was run over by an auto driven by a stranger. The lad was picked up and carried to the office of Dr. Anderson, where it was found no bones were broken, but he is badly bruised.

A TERRIBLE PERSON.

The rats and the mice thought that Miss Kitty Cat was a terrible person. She was altogether too fond of hunting them. They agreed, however, that in one way it was pleasant to have her about the farm house. When she washed her face while sitting on the doorsteps they knew—so they said—that it was going to rain. And then Mrs. Rat never would let her husband leave home without taking his umbrella.

As a rule Miss Kitty Cat didn't look at all frightful. Almost always she appeared quite unruffled, going about her business in a quiet way and making no fuss over anything. Of course, when old dog Spot chased—and cornered—her she was quite a different sort of creature. Then she arched her back, puffed her tail out to twice its usual size and spit fiercely at Spot. He learned not to get within reach of her sharp claws when she behaved in that fashion. For old Spot had a tender nose. And no one knew it better than Miss Kitty Cat.

Around the farmhouse she was politeness itself—when there was anybody to observe her. If her meals were late she never clamored, as Johnnie Green sometimes did. To be sure she might remind Mrs. Green gently, by plaintive mewing, that she had not had her saucer of milk. But she was always careful not to be rude about it. And though Miss Kitty liked a warm place in winter, she never crowded anybody else away from the fire. She crept under the kitchen range, where no one else cared to sit. And there she would doze by the hour—especially after she had enjoyed a hearty meal.

The rats and the mice thought that Miss Kitty Cat was a terrible person

On summer nights, however, when she loved to hunt out of doors, Miss Kitty Cat was far from appearing sleepy. She roamed about the fields or crept through the tree-tops with a stealthy tread and a tigerish working of her tail. Folk smaller than Miss Kitty never cared to meet her at such times. They knew that she would spring upon them if she had a chance. So they took good care to keep out of her way. And if they caught sight of her when she had her hunting manner they always gave the alarm in their own fashion, warning their friends to beware of the monster, Miss Kitty Cat, because she was abroad and in a dangerous mood.

Johnnie Green liked Miss Kitty. Often she would come to him and rub against him and purr, fairly begging him to stroke her back. Unless he pulled her tail at such times she kept her claws carefully out of sight and basked under Johnnie's petting.

If he had been her size and she had been his, Miss Kitty Cat might not have been so harmless. She might have played with Johnnie, as she sometimes played with a mouse. But Johnnie Green never stopped to think of anything like that. And if he had he would have thought it a great joke. He would have laughed at the idea of Miss Kitty Cat holding him beneath her paw.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY LAURA A. KIRKMAN.

A NOURISHING HOME DINNER.

Oyster Soup
Veal Cutlet, Brown Gravy
Lyonnaise Potatoes
Spinach
Coffee Snow Pudding

Oyster Soup: Clean and pick over 1 quart of oysters; heat these, chopped, in their liquor, and let simmer 20 minutes after the boiling point is reached. Then strain through cheesecloth, discarding the chopped oysters. Reheat the strained liquor and thicken it with one-third cup of butter and one-third of flour which have been heated together and rubbed to a smooth paste. Now scald 4 cups of sweet milk with 1 large slice of onion, 2 stalks of celery cut small, 1 blade of mace and a sprig of parsley; strain this scalded milk to remove the seasonings and add it to the oyster liquor. Season to suit taste with salt and pepper, and serve very hot.

Lyonnaise Potatoes: This is a most delicious way to serve boiled left-over potatoes. Slice the potatoes and set them aside to add later to the frying pan. Put first in the pan 1 tablespoon of finely-chopped onion and 1½ tablespoons of butter; fry the onions until a light brown, then add 1 quart of the sliced boiled potatoes with 2 more tablespoons of butter. Cook until the potatoes have absorbed the butter and then pack down to let the mixture brown a little on the bottom. Turn with a spatula to allow the top to brown also. Serve at once. If onion is a favorite vegetable in the family a more generous amount of it may be used to 1 quart of potato slices.

Snow Pudding: Soak 1 tablespoon of granulated gelatine in ¼ cup of cold water; add 1 cup of granulated sugar and 3 tablespoons of lemon juice, and strain through a fine sieve into a china bowl. Set the bowl aside, but from time to time tip it up on one side to see whether the gelatine has begun to congeal. When the liquid begins to cling to the sides of the bowl and seems quite thick it is time to beat into it, with a wire whisk, the whites of 3 eggs which have been beaten stiff. Continue to beat until the pudding is stiff enough to hold its shape. Pile this by spoonfuls into individual glass dessert dishes or cups and serve with cold boiled custard made in the following way:

Boiled Custard Sauce for Snow Pudding: Beat yolks of 3 eggs slightly and add to them ¼ cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, and—very gradually—2 cups of scalded milk. Cook this mixture in the top of a double boiler, stirring constantly, until it thicknes and will coat a spoon. Then strain immediately into a bowl to cool. If cooked too long after coating the spoon, custard will curdle; when this happens it may be restored to a smooth consistency by beating with an egg beater of the wheel type. (But it is not quite as thick as if it had not curdled). If the housewife cannot afford to use the yolks of 3 eggs, she may use the yolks of 2 eggs and ½ tablespoon of cornstarch.

New School and Library Planned For Southeast, Paving Extension Asked

Site for Branch Library Is Sought in Neighborhood of Hamilton Road and Egerton Street

Plans are all completed for the opening of a new branch of the public library somewhere around Hamilton road and Rectory street, and the only thing that is lacking now is the finding of a suitable location.

"This is what we have been wanting for a long time," commented Ald. G. B. Drake, "and I know it will find favor with all residents around here. The average working man, when wanting to obtain some particular book has to go either to the up-town library or to the East London branch on Dundas street and, if a person has been working hard all day wants to go to the East London branch he has to come down here and transfer to an Ottaway car, and then, to get back to his home he must either walk or take a car down to the city and transfer, and by the time he gets back he hasn't got much time to read an account of the time taken up in moving around. If we had a suitable street car system it would be different, but, even if we had, there are enough citizens in this section to warrant the opening of another branch."

EAST END PAVING.

"All we need now to make this part of East London grow, and grow fast," he added, "is for the city to lay an asphalt or cement pavement from Egerton street to the end of the carline, and then they simply can't keep us down. By their work in laying the pavement down Rectory street and as far as they have gone on Hamilton road, they have done a great deal towards building up this section, and if they complete their work by paving Egerton street and the rest of Hamilton road to the city limits we will go ahead like a shot out of a gun.

"And why shouldn't we go ahead? We've got two machine shops, two men's furnishing establishments, several dry goods stores, a welding shop, a truck assembling plant, numerous grocery stores and butcher shops and, in fact, every kind of concern that is necessary for the growth of a town.

NEW SCHOOL NEEDED.

"The School Board is talking of building a new school on Egerton street, and I know they will find no trouble in filling it with London's future citizens when they get it completed.

"There is no room in the other public schools for the accommodation of pupils around here, either in the Ealing school or the Chesley avenue one. Days are changed now from what they used to be. In the time when I went to school the rooms had to accommodate approximately 70 or 80 pupils, but now they are only allowed to have from 30 to 35 in order to follow out the orders of the Board of Health. Naturally, this has a tendency to leave some of the children on the outside, and, as it is essential that all children under the age of 16 years must obtain an education, it is also essential that the School Board erect another school."

WANT NIGHT BANKING IN EAST LONDON

A petition will be signed in a few days by residents of the East End to have a bank open at least one night a week for the benefit of the workingmen who have no chance during the week of depositing their wages.

"The way things are at present," one resident stated, "we have no chance of getting to the bank before they close and we have to carry the money around in our pockets or leave it lying around the house, which is not a very safe method in view of so many hold-ups occurring from time to time."

YOUNG EAST ENDER IS SOCIALLY AMBITIOUS

Takes Dancing Lessons and May Rival J. Jazz Himself.

There is a rumor going around the East End that a member of the male sex, living in the vicinity of the Hamilton road and Egerton street, whose name is being withheld for various reasons, has decided to become a member of the social set of the East London party and has taken up dancing as the first step in the course.

While it is very difficult for the coming leader to take unto himself the arduous labor of performing the latest side-steps, runs, trots, knee-bends and all other fancy kicks and drops, which every prospective dancer must associate himself with, the young man bids fair to become a second Vernon Castle, providing he works as hard for the next couple of weeks as he has done since the first lesson.

It might be as well to give a slight inkling as to who the coming leader is, so as to give the girls of the city a chance to cultivate his acquaintance during the long winter months, when parties and dancing are all the rage and they are looking for someone who can introduce all the latest spins and waddles.

The nickname applied to the enterprising young man is "Merry." Now, it's up to the girls of the East End, at least, to meet him. If they haven't as yet had the honor of making his acquaintance it's up to them to ask their friends who this mysterious party is. They won't have much trouble in finding out who he is, but if they do their troubles will be well rewarded when they find out how well he can dance as they wearily seek their beds in the early hours of the morning after the party or dance.

SEEK SITE FOR BANK.

To meet the ever-increasing demands of citizens of the East End in and around the Hamilton road and Rectory street area it was found necessary for two local banking concerns to open up branch offices for the convenience of prospective depositors and now the latest rumor above ground is that another bank in the city has been negotiating with a landowner near the corner of Hamilton road and Adelaide street for a suitable location on which to erect another branch building.

ASK TRAFFIC COP AT ADELAIDE AND DUNDAS

Busy Section Demands Regulation During Rush Hours.

Residents of the East End, with an eye to the safety of themselves and others, are seriously talking of appealing to the local police department with a view to having a traffic policeman stationed at the corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets during the busy hours of the day and on Saturday.

One of the residents stated that there are great numbers of accidents occurring there from time to time, which would be averted if they had any semblance of law and order and, although there has been no one seriously injured for quite a long time, a serious accident may take place at any time.

Little Norah Bell.

A scene in Oxford street, London England, in November, 1917. I was so surprised to hear such a refined voice from a flower girl.—A. Q.

Standing in the gutter out in all the showers
Was a little ragged girl, her basket full of flowers,
Her golden head uncovered, her eyes a pansy blue,
Her little pleading voice, oh, please, please do,
Children buy some flowers to decorate your altar,
Kind sir, buy a rose, please do not falter.
I stopped and asked the child the reason why
She was selling flowers; the little one replied:

My mother is sick and ill, my father went away
And left me and Denny and little Sister May;
So I must work and earn till dad returns.
But, suddenly, a shadow crossed the little face upturned;
Perhaps my father's a soldier out in the war,
As he went to Canada four years ago or more;
He said he'd send for us when he'd the money earned;
Poor mother waits and watches daily for his return.

Do you think you would know him, sir? she exclaimed,
Drawing from her neck a locket on a slender chain;
The picture inside the locket, a manly face it showed;
The other side a woman's, the double of her own.
My father's name is Robert Bell, clutching my arm,
Looking at my Maple Leaf as though a charm;
To our Blessed Lady each day for both I'll pray,
To take you safe to Canada and bring dad back home some day.

BRINGING UP FATHER. BY GEORGE McMANUS.

TORONTO UNIVERSITY DEFEATS McGILL, 16-2

Somerville, Former Ridley Star, Boots Three Field Goals for Nine Varsity Points

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Playing a kicking game all through, Varsity defeated McGill at the Stadium here on Saturday afternoon by a score of 16 to 2, and attained a position of advantage for the intercollegiate race. Varsity's victory was largely due to the superb exhibition of kicking by Somerville and Snyder and the superiority of condition of the Blue and White players over the wearers of the Red and White. Before the game neither coach would give any indication as to the style of game to be followed by his team for the battle, but Dr. Maynard, by replacing Patterson with Somerville just before the game started, showed that the locals would defend chiefly on the booting of a great pair of backs and the rapid following-up and tackling of his wings. Somerville and Snyder outkicked and outcaught the McGill backs, and they more than overcame the superiority of the McGill line.

It must be admitted that the Montrealers looked better on the line; they made yards on plunges many times during the afternoon, and repeatedly threw back the Blue and White plungers when an attempt was made to gain through the McGill line. The Varsity defense rose to the occasion when their final line was threatened, and in the second period, when McGill obtained possession on Varsity's 5-yard line, after plunging through from center did the Blue and White heeded the pleas of the Varsity rooters to "hold the line," and after the third plunge had been made, with but two feet to go, the ball was found 18 inches from the final line. The teams:

McGill—Flying wing, Little; halves, Carroll, Philpotts, Anderson (Capt.); quarter, Baillie; snap, Livshin; inside, McCombe, J. McCombe; middles, Ambridge, Lazier; outsides, Murphy, Russell; spares, McGregor, Stearns, G. Ross, Easson, Emo, Notman, Robertson, Crain, Rutherford, Cope.

For the thoroughbreds in the North, Umpire—H. Brownfield.

FIRST QUARTER.

Carroll kicked off to Hobbs, who returned to Philipots, who was downed on McGill 50-yard line. McGill made yards on the first two downs on plunges. Varsity held on the next two and Carroll kicked to Snyder, who ran the ball out. Snyder kicked on first down to Carroll, who was tackled on Varsity's 35-yard line. The latter tried a drop kick, but the ball hit the upright below the cross bar and bounded back 10 yards. No gain was made on an exchange of kicks. Snyder kicked out at McGill's 80-yard line. Carroll kicked to Hobbs, who passed to Somerville, and the latter transferred play to McGill's 25-yard line on a long punt, Anderson being downed in his tracks. Carroll booted to Somerville, who returned to Anderson, and he was tackled on the McGill 10-yard line. McGill was forced to kick on the third down.

Somerville returned to the same place when surrounded by Red and White players. Robertson replaced Russell at outside for McGill and Russell took Philipott's place on the half line. Anderson made yards on a plunge but McGill was penalized for interference and forced to kick. Carroll kicked out on McGill's 25-yard line. Hobbs carried the ball in front of the posts and Somerville dropped a pretty field goal from 17 yards out. Varsity 3, McGill 0.

Carroll kicked off to Somerville, who returned, and Anderson was downed 25 yards out. On the second down McGill was again penalized. Carroll kicked out to Varsity's 25-yard line. Snyder kicked on the first down and Fisher tackled Russell. Somerville ran Carroll's kick back five yards and then Snyder booted. Anderson practically threw Murray on the ball and Varsity were penalized for not giving yards. Carroll kicked out at Varsity's 27-yard line. Westman made six yards, the first Varsity gain through the line of any consequence, and Snyder did like-wise after a measurement of the distance. Varsity made five yards on the next two downs and then Snyder kicked out at McGill's 25-yard line. McGill made fives on two plunges and then Carroll kicked to Somerville, who booted to Anderson, who returned. Somerville kicked to Anderson on the first down, and the McGill captain shook off three tacklers before being downed on his own 44yard line. Quarter time: Varsity 3, McGill 0.

SECOND QUARTER.

J. McCombe made 12 yards and Flanagan made five more. McGill ripped through on another plunge for yards, sending the play to Varsity's 40-yard line, with McGill in possession. Westman was injured, but continued. Anderson made 15 yards around the end, putting the play on Varsity's 15-yard line. Flanagan plunged for yards. Varsity held McGill to three yards on the first two down and stopped Anderson on the third with only two yards to go.

Snyder kicked to Flanagan, who was downed 35 yards out. McGill made five yards on two smashes. Philpott replaced Carroll and tried a place kick, which went wide, and Somerville ran it out. Carroll again replaced Philpott. Rolph downed Flanagan 35 yards out, but McGill was given possession 15 yards out for failure to give yards. McGill made five yards on two downs. On Carroll's attempted field goal Somerville was forced to rouge.

Varsity 3, McGill 1.

Snyder kicked to Carroll, who fumbled, and Hobbs secured on McGill's 25-yard line. McGill was penalized and Varsity had possession on McGill's 12-yard line. Snyder made two yards, but no gain was made on second. Somerville again scored a drop, although Livshin was purposely offside. The score counted.

Varsity 6, McGill 1.

Snyder ran back Anderson's kick for 35 yards, the longest run of the game, and Varsity kicked on the first down, play being transferred to McGill's 10-yard line. Neither side gained on an exchange. Snyder took to Carroll's kick and carried the ball to McGill's 35-yard line, when Russell and Flanagan were hurt and retired, Easson and Philpott taking their places. Somerville tried a drop, but it went wide, and Anderson ran five yards out. Carroll kicked to Somerville, who was downed on McGill's 40-yard line. Rutherford replaced Murphy. Snyder's kick was blocked, but Rolph secured and raced to McGill's 10-yard line. Ambridge was injured and replaced by McGregor. With the ball on McGill's five-yard line and the last down, Somerville sent the ball between the posts for another three points.

Varsity 9, McGill 1.

Somerville returned the kick-off and McGill was in possession on its own 15-yard line. Carroll kicked to Somerville and the latter, after dodging two tacklers, passed to Snyder, who made 30 yards, Varsity being in possession 15 yards out. Somerville kicked to deadline.

Varsity 10, McGill 1.

McGill lost a yard on the first two downs, but started over again at their 10-yard line following an exchange. Carroll kicked out at McGill's 45-yard line. Rolph and Fisher tackled Carroll on his five-yard line and Reilly tackled Carroll behind the line for a safety touch.

Half time—Varsity 12, McGill 1.

THIRD QUARTER.

Westman set the ball in play and McGill was forced to kick from its own 15-yard line, and Snyder ran the ball back to McGill's 45-yard line, three tacklers taking the count. Somerville booted to Philpott, who ran back 25 yards before being tackled. Carroll kicked out at his own 30-yard line. Snyder booted over to Philpott, who ran into touch five yards out. Russell replaced Little for McGill and Smith replaced Warner for Varsity. Somerville kicked over and Philpott was forced to rouge by Bartlett.

Varsity 13, McGill 1.

Philpott made five yards through the line, but on the third down Carroll was tackled before he could kick. Varsity getting possession. Somerville's attempted drop was blocked, but he recovered, and on Snyder's kick Bartlett forced Carroll to rouge.

Varsity 14, McGill 1.

Somerville's kick was short, but he followed up and put his team on side and crashed into Philpott, who was injured and replaced by Flanagan. Hobbs fell on the ball on McGill's 5-yard line. Snyder made four yards on first down. Carew was stopped two feet short on the second, but McGill held, and Varsity lost possession. It was a pretty stand by McGill. McGill were in position on their 2-yard line, but had to kick on the third down, but Murphy was offside, and Varsity obtained eight yards out. Somerville's attempted drop went to the dead line.

Varsity 15, McGill 1.

Snyder was downed on Varsity's 40-yard line on Carroll's kick. The game was constantly being stopped on account of injuries to players, McGill being the chief sufferers, and apparently Varsity was in the best condition. Fisher downed Carroll on McGill's 20-yard line. McGill was penalized for interference and kicked to center field. Somerville kicked and then a McGill back field run netted 25 yards. Another similar play around the right netted 15.

Carroll kicked to Somerville, who fumbled, but recovered on Varsity's 13-yard line. Snyder made eight. Westman failed to give yards on Somerville's kick and McGill was given possession in midfield. Three-qarter score: Varsity 15, McGill 1.

FOURTH QUARTER.

Carroll tried a drop, but it was wide and Snyder ran it out then kicking to center field. Carroll again kicked behind, but Snyder returned from behind his goal line. McGill made yards through the line, Flanagan making the gains. A half-run around the right end netted 12 more. Anderson and Flanagan made five, the latter taking the count. Flanagan kicked out to Snyder, who was forced to Rouge. Varsity 15, McGill 2.

An outside kick netted Varsity 20 yards, taking the play to McGill's 30-yard line. Varsity 16, McGill 2.

Baillie replaced Flanagan and made eight yards, Anderson making the necessary yards on the next down. Varsity obtained and made yards in two downs and then Snyder and Hobbs repeated. Snyder's kick gave McGill possession on their own 20-yard line. Carroll kicked to Snyder. A long pass by Hobbs netted Varsity 12 yards. Bartlett was injured and replaced by Weaver. Final score—Varsity 16, McGill 2.

Petrolea Holds Toronto Seniors

"Hard Oil Intermediates Play Senior O.R.F.U. Twelve to 10-All Tie

PETROLEA, Oct. 29.—A tie, 10-all, was the result of the football exhibition here on Saturday. The senior rugby team, of Toronto, and the Petrolea intermediates met in the cleanest and greatest rugby game staged in Petrolea in years. The visitors were genuine sports. The home team had no need of defending themselves from rough play. The visitors starred in their clean tackle and expert running. Ponton, of the visitors, was a star, and got away to many good runs. Nevertheless, Jerry Currie was always on the job to defend against a touchdown. Petrolea scored the only touchdown of the game in the third quarter. At half time the score stood 4 to 0 in favor of Toronto. The line-up.

Toronto—Ponton, Coultre and Thomas, halves; Shatz, flying wing; Garrett, quarter; Bolsby, snap; Watt and Sirrs, outsides; Ptchett and Healey, insides; Garlish, spare.

Petrolea—Houston, Wilson, Currie, halves; Gleeson, flying wing; Hoper, quarter; Wilkinson, snap; Salisbury, Galvin, outsides; L. Ellicott and B. Ellicott, insides; Churchill, Smith, Howlett, Parks and Misslebrook; spares, Stirrett and Hale, officials.

With the meetings at New York, Lexington and Baltimore closed with Saturday's races, there will be no races to-day except at Maple Heights, Cleveland.

The Pimlico track opens to-morrow and will continue until November 12, and then Bowie track operates from November 15 to 26.

The close at Bowie ends the season for the thoroughbreds in the north, but Tia Juana, New Orleans and Havana tracks open on Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

PUBLIC UTILITIES IN 3-ALL TIE WITH W.O.R.

Interesting Soccer Match at Tecumseh Park Proves a Surprise to Big Crowd on Saturday

The first of the two-game series of soccer football to decide the holder of the McCutcheon cup, between the Western Ontario Regiment and the Public Utilities teams, played on Saturday afternoon at Tecumsen Park before a big crowd, ended in a 3-all tie.

Luck, otherwise known as the breaks of a game, played an important part in arriving at no decision. With the W.O.R. leading by one goal in the first period, the soldiers had the misfortune of giving the P.U. the tying goal, while Wilson kicked the ball into a scrimmage after Fuller, the goalie had saved a beautiful shot. The period ended one-all.

The Public Utilities forged ahead in the score when Hazelwood made it 2 to 1 early in the second half, and then added another on a beautiful corner-kick, which Ince headed past Fuller.

SOLDIERS FINISH STRONG.

The game had every appearance of ending with the score at 3 to 1, but Dame Fortune had her way. Referee Noble gave the soldiers a free kick as a penalty, and the W.O.R. made it 3 to 2, with but a few more minutes left to play. The soldiers kept the ball in their opponents' territory until some pretty heading of the ball by Angus made it possible to score the tying goal.

The Public Utilities then rushed the ball to the other end of the field, but failed to deliver the necessary punch.

The P.U. outplayed the soldiers, who, by the way, had most of the support of the spectators, as Fuller was called upon to stop many more deadly shots on goal than Whitworth, as a matter of fact, the latter had comparatively little more to do than place the ball for goal kicks. Rivalry between the teams was keen, but not nearly so noticeable as between the spectators, as the game no sooner ended when a battle of fists was started in front of the stand.

The teams will meet again next Saturday to determine the winner and another big turnout is assured. The line-ups were:

INTERESTING BOYS' GAME.

The schoolboys' soccer game, played as a preliminary to the above game, resulted in a victory 3 to 0 for the team representing Canada over England, the former being composed of boys residing east of Colborne street, and the latter west of Colborne street.

The count at half time was 2 to 0, and Faulkner, a tiny little lad, wearing a metallic shin-guard, was the star of the game, getting a goal in each of the periods, while Evans scored the other. The teams:

London C. I. Plays Technical To-Day

The London Collegiate's loss to Woodstock College on Saturday does not go down in the records as such, as the college defaulted its union game to London to play their first team, which was eliminated in the O. R. F. U. by St. Thomas.

The Technical Institute team plays the London Collegiate this afternoon in their return match, also an Oxford-Middlesex Union fixture, at Tecumseh Park.

The L. C. I. plays its last game with Woodstock Collegiate in Woodstock on Friday.

BRANTFORD COLLGEIATE SURPRISES GUELPH

GUELPH, Oct. 30.—After completely outplaying their opponents in the first half of an interscholastic game at Exhibition Park on Saturday afternoon the Guelph Collegiate team faded away towards the end of the match, and were beaten by the Brantford C.I. representatives by a score of 22 to 17. The tussle had to be extended 10 minutes' overtime to decide a winner, and it was about three minutes before the whistle sounded that the Telephone City lads bucked their way through the Guelph line for the try that gave them a five-point lead on the locals.

Chelsea Upsets Burnley In Old Country Football

Victors Had Not Won a Game in Months, Then Take Fall Out of Burnley

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The startling surprise of the English Soccer League football matches on Saturday was the wonderful display of Chelsea against Burnley at Stamford Bridge, in the first division. Although without a victory for two months Chelsea gave a startling performance, causing the critics to sit up and take notice against a defense which included Dawson, goalie for England, in the international match against Ireland last Saturday. The return of Middlefoe to Che.sea materially strengthened the team.

Burnley's only goal came within 10 minutes' of commencement of play when Anderson succeeded in putting the ball between the posts, just after Croal, for Chelsea, had successfully lobbed one over Dawson's head. From this stage to the end of the match Burnley was kept continually on the defensive. Cral, McNeil and Coddinott each scored another point for the victors.

The decisive nature of Aston Villa's revenge over Middlesborough by a score of 6 to 2 furnished another surprise, after Middlesborough's 5-to-0 victory over the Villa a week ago.

In the second division Crystal Palace recorded their first win away from home against Blackpool and Bristol City, their first at home with Hull as their opponents. Pulham's performance against Rotherham was a disappointment, their defeat, it was later maintained, being chiefly due to the poor work of Edwards.

Clifton Orients' victory over Notts was mainly due to the fine goal keeping of Woods, although the match was nip-and-tuck all the way until Rennox, on a sensational play for the Orients, scored the decisive goal just as time was called.

In the third division Norwich City registered its first victory of the season by defeating Reading. As a result of this game there is now no first-class club without a win to its credit. Merthyr's first defeat at home at the hands of the Bristol Rovers, who have not been beaten in their last six matches, is attributed to the fact that Brown, Merthyr's captain, strained himself during the game and was compelled to leave the field.

BRANTFORD SOCCER.

BRANTFORD, Oct. 30.—Vets sprang a surprise on Saturday when they defeated Cockshutt Blues in a replayed match of the first round of the Courier senior series. Vets have a tail-end team and Cockshutts are at the top, and the chasing of the lynx was a welcome surprise for the returned men, who put across a nice 2-to-1 win at Tutla Park. In the semi-finals of the Courier cup Masseys won at Paris by a 2-to-1 score. The Massey team will now play the winner of the Vets-London match.

Varsity Seconds Blank Western

Local Collegians Use Same Line-Up That Had Gone to Guelph on Wednesday

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Varsity Seconds maintained their string of unbroken victories on Saturday morning when they defeated the Western University team, of London, in an intermediate intercollegiate game at the campus by a score of 21 to 0, and seekers for the lucky sign took the victory as a hunch that Varsity would win the senior game against McGill in the afternoon, as the losing team is coached by "Buster" Reid, a former McGill player under the redoubtable Shaughnessy. Varsity was considerably the better team and outweighed its opponents by at least 25 pounds to the man. The Blue and White had by far the greater portion of the play and the score would have been greater had not they been penalized on many occasions for interference beyond the three-yard limit.

Both teams were weaker than on their meeting in London last Saturday, Varsity on account of several of the players being held as spares for the afternoon game, and the visitors because Coach Reid would not allow Cline, Traynor and Garrett to play because they failed to attend practice this week. In spite of the absence of the three stars the Western lads fought gamely against a heavier and trickier team. The London aggregation made a number of fumbles on the back field and although they generally recovered the ball they lost many yards in this manner. At tackling they were as good as, if not better, than the Seconds, but that was the only department in which they compared favorably. Varsity made many gains on plunges through the line, although at times they lost the ball for failure to make the required 10 yards. Western only made yards once through the line.

In the first period the visitors held the Blue and White scoreless, although the latter threatened on several occasions, but in the second period Druce and Moore were sent through the line for touches, which were not converted, making the half-time score 10 to 0.

In the third period Western held Varsity on three smashes at the line and obtained possession on their two-yard line, and on the first down McMahon was thrown back for a safety touch. A few minutes later Skaith kicked to the deadline for another point. A pretty drop kick from the 40-yard line by Skaith and a touch by Catto made eight points more for Varsity in the final period.

For the winners Young, Stuart and Skaith were prominent, the kicking of the latter being especially good, while Moore and Druce constantly made gains on plunges. Williams, at flying wing, for the losers, was the best tackler on the field, while Cowley, Screaton and Pribble were also good. The teams:

Varsity II.—Hyland, flying wing; Stuart, Skaith and Young, halves; Catto, quarter; White, snap; Grant and Moore, insides; Baker and Druce, middles; Brown and Borsook, outsides; Campbell, Sproule, Henderson, McVicar and McKibbon, spares.

Western—Williams, flyng wing; Cowley, Rice and Dockstader, halves; McMahon, quarter; Callaghan, snap; Talbot and Screaton, insides; Priddle and Sifton, middles; Bailey and Campbell, outsides; A. Callaghan, Haley and Rose, spares.

Referee—George Little, London.
Umpire—Earl Smithson, Toronto.

Moorecroft Wins Dunlop Shield

Toronto Gladstone A. Club Has Four Runners Finish in First Six

MONTREAL, Oct. 29.—Jimmie Moorcroft led the Gladstone A. C. home in the Dunlop foot road race held in Montreal to-day. His team-mates closely followed, giving the club the shield with a total of 12 points. Four Gladstones finished in the first six as follows:

James Moorcroft first, in the remarkable time of 26 minues and 15 1-5 seconds, with the veteran James Dellow right on his heels. Charles White and Art Scholes made a wonderful finish, running fourth and fifth respectively, giving the Gladstones the race as well as the shield.

Art Allinson, the 17-year-old runner and a new addition to the Gladstone crew, finished a strong seventh. Aroll St. Clair unfortunately developed a bad cramp about a mile from the finish, which he was runinng a strong third. The best runners in Ontario and Quebec were represented in two teams from McGill Harriers' Club, two from North Branch Y. M. C. A., one from C. P. R. A. A. and the Gladstone squad. E. Lawrence finished in third place after leading for the first mile and a half, when he was run off his feet by Moorcroft, who led from then to the tape, finishing very strong.

RANGERS DEFEAT PRESTON ELEVEN, 4-0

KITCHENER, Oct. 30.—The Rangers kept up their winning streak in the Mac and Casey trophy series yesterday by defeating Preston by a score of 4 to 1. The game was hard fought throughout, the visitors putting up a strong defense game. There was no scoring in the first half, but in the second half the local team put up an aggressive game, the four goals scored by the Rangers' forward division being well earned. After the Rangers had scored the first goal after the beginning of the second half the visitors evened up the score after a fast rush. Three of the visitors were accidentally injured during the latter stages of the game and had to retire, the game finishing with eight men playing for Preston and 10 for the Rangers. Ernest Taylor, of Galt, was the referee.

10,000 Fans See Toronto Argos Outscore Ottawa

Led by Conacher Double Blue Lives Up to Name as Greatest Team

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—The Argonauts, of Toronto, are champions of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union for the 1921 season. They definitely established ownership of the title here on Saturday afternoon at Lansdown Park when, continuing their unbroken string of victories, they defeated the Ottawa Senators in the deciding game of the season by a score of 11 to 3. Not for many years has so much interest been manifested in a rugby game in the capital, nearly 10,000 persons journeying to the park to witness the struggle.

Heralded as one of the greatest football teams in the history of the game, the blue and white more than lived up to their advance notices and secured an early lead in the first quarter, when Conacher kicked to Tubman for a single, they maintained their advantage throughout the game. To Conacher, half-back extraordinary, belongs the individual honors of the game. This blond giant was the pivot around which the Argos' play, offensively and defensively, revolved, and, although he was called upon to bear the burden of the back field work, he always acquitted himself creditably. He was not very sure with his hands, but on several occasions when he fumbled the ball, he either recovered himself or found one of his team-mates on the ball. His cheery smile and good clean playing won for him many friends in the capital.

The blue and white is not a "one-man" team. Batstone, running mate of the Toronto star, is a strong, brainy player, and on two or three occasions dashed through the Ottawa line for big gains in a manner as spectacular as that of the greater star. The visiting wing line also played good strong football, with Britnell, Stirrett and Pugh outstanding.

TIGERS CRUSH M.A.A.A.

MONTREAL, Oct. 29. — For the fifth time this season in as many starts, the lowly Montreal football team suffered defeat, this time at the hands of the Hamilton Tigers, on Saturday afternoon, at the M. A. A. A. grounds, by a score of 30 to 10. The game, the last of the Big Four series to be played here this year, was witnessed by about 2,500 spectators and was a loose exhibition leaving much to be desired in the way of good football. Play was open, however, and marked by rapid scoring, two touchdowns coming in the first five minutes of play which added somewhat to the interest.

C. N. R. GROSS EARNINGS HALF MILLION OVER OPERATING COSTS

Government Railways' Figures for September Proving the Wisdom of the Meighen Government's Policy

TORONTO, Oct. 29. — (Canadian Press Dispatch.) — Announcement was made from Canadian National headquarters here to-day that the gross earnings of the system in September were more than sufficient to cover the expenses of operation, the margin to the good being slightly over half a million dollars, or 10 times greater than the August margin.

The figures are: gross earnings, $11,500,126.24; working expenses, $10,995,951.37; net earnings, $504,-174.87.

Discussing the improved situation, President Hanna said on Saturday: "This statement relates to the operation of the Intercolonial, National Transcontinental, the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern Railway, in all about 17,-000 miles of railway.

"The statement merely confirms what I said recently, that the situation of the Canadian National Railways should not be regarded from a too gloomy a viewpoint."

Mr. Hanna had words of praise for employees all over the system who, he declared, are working loyally for the good of the service.

BAILIFF SEEKING FORMER EMPEROR

Seeks to Collect From Charles for Airplane

EX-RULER HAS NO MONEY

Said to Be Living on Money From Royal Jewels

BERNE, Oct. 30.—(Associated Press Cable.)—A bailiff visited Hertenstein yesterday for the purpose of executing an attachment against property of former King Charles for 50,000 francs, in favor of the Swiss Airplane Company, in one of the planes of which Charles made his recent flight into Hungary. It is said that the household of Charles during the last few months has maintained itself mainly through the sale of royal jewelry. Archduke Max, a brother of Charles, has left Switzerland for Bavaria.

WILL HE ABDICATE?

BUDAPEST, Oct. 30.—Whether or not former King Charles will sign a writ of abdication is the great question prevailing in Hungary to-day. Negotiations are at present being carried on with him at Tihany in an endeavor to have him renounce his claims to the throne in the interest of the country. The opinion held here is that if Charles does not comply with the request to abdicate, although the National Assembly should pass a resolution dethroning him, there will be a constitutional wrangle which will keep the country in the throes of excitement for a long time.

NO DECISION.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—The allied council of ambassadors again failed to-day to reach an agreement regarding the final disposition of former Emperor Charles, who last week made an abortive attempt to regain his throne. The Government has volunteered asylum for the ex-monarch; consequently the council decided to-day that Charles and ex-Empress Zita must remain on board the British ship in the Danube River until a suitable place of exile can be found. The Madeira Island has been suggested, but his removal there involves the assent of the Portuguese Government, which has been asked if this selection would be acceptable. No reply, however, has yet been received.

FIRST AGENT OF M. C. RAILWAY

William H. King, St. Thomas, Had Remarkable Career

DEATH COMES AS SHOCK

Suffered Stroke During Hot Spell in July

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 30.—(By Staff Reporter.)—Wm. Henry King, whose name until a year ago had been closely linked with the development of the Michigan Central Railway since it began operation in this city some 50 years ago, died at his home, 33 Southwick street, this morning after an illess which extended over three months, but had its origin in a stroke sustained during the excessive heat spell of last July while Mr. King was engaged in a game of golf at the local links. Strong hopes were held out for his recovery and on several occasions Mr. King rallied somewhat, but while his death was not unexpected it nevertheless comes as a shock to the community.

The late Mr. King was born in the year 1850 on the King homestead on the Talbot road, in Southwold, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. King, who later became governor of the Elgin County jail. He received his early education in St. Thomas, later going to Toronto.

Just about the time when he was ready to take his place in the business world the Michigan Central Railway was organizing and preparing to take over the operation of the Canada Southern Railway and it was then that Mr. King received the start in a work which he followed until superannuated a year ago.

He leaves besides his widow three sons, Dr. Dale King, well-known Detroit specialist; Dr. Perry O. King, St. Thomas, and W. H. King, of the Molsons Bank here. The funeral is to be held on Tuesday afternoon and will be private.

F. DOGGETT DEAD.

Frederick Doggett, one of this city's best known citizens, who has been prominent in public life and in fraternal work for the past forty or fifty years, died very suddenly yesterday. Mr. Doggett, as was his custom, left his home in Isabel street to go uptown, and had only gone a short distance when he was suddenly taken ill. He managed to retrace his steps with difficulty as far as the house, and a physician was called, but he died two hours later.

FIND HARD COAL IN NEW ONTARIO

Believed Field North of Sudbury Is Extensive

SYNDICATE MAKING TESTS

Carload of Output to Be Shipped to Toronto This Week

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press Dispatch)—What is believed to be an extensive deposit of hard coal has recently been discovered at Latchwood, Northern Ontario, about 25 miles northwest of Sudbury, and development work on the property is already under way. A Toronto syndicate has leased 20,000 acres surrounding the discovery, and already a party of miners are on the ground stripping and sinking test holes to determine the exact extent of the find.

Reports from the property are exceedingly optimistic. A 12-foot vein has been uncovered and samples sent to the Toronto testing laboratories prove the coal superior to a majority of the hard coals now being shipped into Canada.

From a report received by the Toronto interests it is expected that a carload of this coal will be shipped to Toronto next week.

Woodstock College Blanks London C.I.

Locals Lose Their First Oxford-Midlesex Game; Sessions' Rib Cracked

WOODSTOCK, Oct. 30.—London Collegiate, hitherto unbeaten leaders of the Oxford-Middlesex Rugby Union, were decisively beaten in a scheduled league match here on Saturday afternoon, when Woodstock College defeated them 32 to 0. The Londoners were up against powerful oppsition, the Collegians showing the good result obtained from some hard workouts lately and some stiff practice. The Woodstock team outplayed the visitors in every department of the game. Their bucking and offensive work featured and the London line was unable to stand up against the steady battering headed by Ryan and the brilliant work of Camelford and Lycitt.

For the visitors Beard starred and Sessions was a close second. Sessions, however, was unfortunate enough to sustain a broken rib, received in a mix-up 40 seconds before the game ended. He was carried off the field in considerable pain. The game was strenuous in spots, and the visitors found considerable fault with Referee Watson and threatened to protest the game.

HALF TIME 14 TO 0.

In the first half Camelford's long boot over the line resulted in a rouge. Bewell led over a buck for a touchdown and Camelford converted. The College team worked a fake buck to perfection and Camelford went over for another touchdown, which he converted. Camelford booted over the London line and Vicker brought the London man down for another rouge. The half ended with the score 14 to 0.

The Londoners opened strong in the second half and in the third quarter, when they carried the play to the locals' end when they threatened to score repeatedly. They were unable to count, however. In the final quarter three touchdowns by the College were made. Boadway went over and Camelford converted. Line-up:

20 DROWNED WHEN SHIP CAPSIZES NEAR SHORE

Steamer Overturned in the River Scheldt, Near Antwerp, When Cargo Shifts.

ANTWERP, Oct. 30.—Twenty persons were drowned by the capsizing of the steamer Auguste in the Scheldt yesterday. Owing to the shifting of the cargo when the wheel jammed hard aport the vessel took on a heavy list, went over quickly and sank within a minute or two.

The passengers and crew below had no time to reach the deck, all the passengers and crew above decks being saved. The ship was only about 50 yards from shore when the accident happened, and it is reported that the captain reached shore and disappeared.

LADY LAURIER SERIOUSLY ILL AT OTTAWA HOME

Last Sacraments of the Church Administered to Widow of Late Liberal Chieftain.

OTTAWA, Oct. 30.—(Special to The Free Press.)—Lady Laurier is very seriously ill and fears are entertained for her recovery. The last sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church were administered to-day.

The venerable widow of the late Liberal chieftain was out a week ago, when she attended a luncheon of the Catholic Women's League. The following day she was indisposed and weakness of the heart is accompanied by the development of pneumonia.

Her condition to-night was reported as somewhat improved, but the attending physician, Dr. Chevrier, stated that she is very ill. Lady Laurier is 83 years old.

McTIGUE KNOCKS OUT K. O. JAFFE

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Mike McTigue, middleweight champion of Canada, knocked out "K. O." Jaffe, of New York, in the fifth round of a scheduled 12-round go at the Sporting Club last night. McTigue punished his opponent severely throughout, knocking him down repeatedly. In the fifth Jaffe took one count of nine and then staggered back for more. When McTigue floored him for the second time in this stanza Jaffe's seconds threw in the towel. McTigue weighed 160 pounds and Jaffe 155.

Look at the Map!
See How Canada's Future is Bound up in Her Lake Transportation

The map tells it own story. These inland seas provide a direct pathway from the great producing Canadian West to the threshhold of European commerce. It needs no great imagination to depict the influence which these waters have borne in the development of Canadian commerce and industry.

Canada's place as a producer of raw materials for the world depends in no small measure upon the ease and facility with which such products may be brought to their market places. Ships that ply these waters are the direct link between producer and market. No chain is stronger than its weakest link, and Canada Steamship Lines recognizes its responsibility. Constantly additions are being made to the fleet which ceaselessly delves into every corner of our inland waterways to seek out and bring to its most favorable market each particular product. All this vast business is a logical outcome of the fact that Canada is penetrated to the extent of some 2,000 miles—from the Gulf to the head of the Lakes—by a navigable waterway which makes important lake ports of our inland cities.

A great man has once said, "To Canada belongs the twentieth century," and as Canada grows in stature to assume her rightful place among the Nations of the World, Canada Steamship Lines will endeavor to keep abreast of this growth in order that no defect of transportation, nor lack of port facilities, may hamper in any way the splendid progress of this great country of the north.

By grouping under one operating head the chief factors of Canadian inland water traffic, Canada Steamship Lines has accomplished a great step toward increased efficiency of operation, with minimum rates. Unnecessary duplication of routing has been eliminated; economies in operation and maintenance are progressing steadily; and this Company feels that soon it may be rightfully entitled to call itself one of the most efficient common carriers in the world.

Just as Canada itself has still room to grow in population and in wealth, so Canada Steamship Lines Limited has ahead of it a future vastly greater than its present.

DUNDAS, AIDED BY OFFICIAL, WINS GAME

BRANTFORD, Oct. 30.—Shackled by the decisions of Referee Ross Craig, which were of such a caliber that eventually Umpire George Mosley refused to work longer with an official, who, he charged, used his knowledge of football to play for Dundas.

The Brantford intermediate O. R. F. U. team held Dundas to a 2-to-0 score here on Saturday, Dundas, however, winning the district with the victory. The local line outplayed Dundas, while the back field was much stronger, and the presence on the field of Coach Chuck Waterous turned a good team into a pack of tearing fiends, but every time that the Brants got within striking distance of the touch line Referee Craig called yards for interference. But in spite of that it was a great game. The Brants were formidable from all angles and the team gathered assures that they see the game on a firm footing. The line-up:

Brantford.		Dundas.
Brandon	middles	Caffery
Littler	middles	Overholt
McAdams	outsides	Horigan

Referee—Ross Craig.
Umpire—Mosley.

GALT, Oct. 30.—Galt's rugby teams were idle on Saturday and the only sporting event was a Waterloo County League soccer match between the local elevens, the Craigie Lee Independents and the G. A. A. A., which the latter won 4 to 2. The former are now out of the race, which is between the G. A. A. A. team, last year's champions, and the Kitchener Rangers.

HYDRO WANTS NO POWER TO OVERRIDE WISHES OF THE MUNICIPALITIES

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—The right given to the Toronto and Niagara Power Company to enter upon the streets of a municipality without consent, to erect poles, string wires and engage in the distribution of power, passes to the Provincial Hydro-Electric Power Commission in the clean-up deal, but, according to the assurances given by Sir Adam Beck, the power will not be exercised. In fact, as soon as it can be done, it will be cancelled.

"I fought the legislation that conferred the privilege on the company, and it would be incredible to think that we would not have iniquitous legislation such as that revoked," said Sir Adam. "We would do that if for no other reason than it is a bad precedent to have in existence. We intend to have it remedied, so it will not be effective in Toronto or anywhere else."

PAVING COMPLETED.

INGERSOLL, Oct. 30.—Ingersoll's permanent street paving program is finished for the present year. The contractors had an agreement with the corporation to the effect that they would pay 50 cents per square yard for all paving that was not completed by the end of October. The following streets were paved this year: Victoria, Charles, West, Duke, Albert, Wonham, Merritt and Ann.

LIQUOR CASE AGAIN ADJOURNED

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 31.—The J. E. Jones liquor case, several times adjourned, was put over until November 14, when it came before Magistrate Maxwell this morning.

FOUR INJURED WHEN A STREET CAR HITS AUTO

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—Four persons were brought to Hotel Dieu shortly after noon to-day suffering from injuries and shock as a result of their automobile being run into and almost completely demolished by a Belt Line street car at Goyeau and Wyandotte streets.

Mrs. L. M. Hyland, 612 West Park street, who was driving the car, was badly cut about the face and neck; Mrs. E. Mooney and Mrs. Hyland's two young sons suffered minor injuries.

Eyewitnesses said the automobile tried to cross Wyandotte street directly in front of the street car. No blame is attached to the motorman.

AUTO GOES OVER BANK, ONE KILLED, THREE HURT

NEWMARKET, Ont., Oct. 30.—Milton McCullough, of Churchill, was instantly killed, his wife and his chauffeur, Bob Ellis, were seriously injured and one of his two children were badly cut to-night in a motor accident near Holland Landing. Their machine crashed over a steep embankment.

Mabel McCullough, aged four years, received terrible scalp injuries, but will recover. Hubert McCullough, aged two years, was the only one of the party to escape uninjured. Physicians hold out slight hope for Mrs. McCullough's recovery. She is suffering from a fractured skull.

More hope is held out for Bob Ellis, the driver of the car, who is also thought to have a fractured skull.

OATS SCARCE ON LOCAL MARKET

Hay and Apples Plentiful and Prices Remain Firm.

Hay was plentiful on the local market on Monday, but there was a small demand on account of the large amount that was offered and sold on last week's market, when over 50 loads were disposed of, and as a result the local buyers are well supplied.

Oats were scarce. One load of new oats, of poor quality, was sold for $1.25 per hundredweight. Old oats are scarce, with a fairly good demand, at $1.75 to $1.80 per cwt.

Eggs remained firm, selling at 50 to 60 cents wholesale, 55 cents by the basket and 60 cents retail.

Apples are plentiful, with little or no change in the price. Choice Spies sold for $6 to $6.25 a barrel on Saturday's market. Many windfalls are offered and sell for from $1 to $2 a bushel. Potatoes registered a slight drop on Saturday and some were disposed of at as low as $1.85 a bag; others sold as high as $1.10.

FINANCIAL.

WALL STREET TRADING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Wall Street, 10.30 a. m.: The uneven course of early prices in the stock market to-day was indicated by Mexican Petroleum's loss of 1⅝ points and Balwin Locomotive's gain of 1½. Oils as a group were lower, further selling of pacific issues being noted. Rails, equipments, motors, chemicals, leathers and textiles strengthened fractionally to 1½. Of the speculative steels Vanadium was heaviest, falling 1¼ points. Developments over the week-end seemed to offer little incentive to professional traders.

GRAIN.

CHICAGO.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—Expectance of a decrease in the United States visible supply total was a leading bullish factor in the wheat market to-day, but this influence was largely counterbalanced by selling on the part of houses with Northwestern connection. Besides, Kansas City reported consignments increasing and milling demand slow.

Corn and oats were relatively easy owing to lack of aggressive support. Corn opened unchanged, ⅛c lower to ¼c higher, and then declined all around to below Saturday's finish.

Oats started unchanged to ¼c higher and later weakened like corn.

Higher quotations on hogs gave something of a lift to provisions.

DR. VANCE SPEAKS TO ROTARY CLUB

Service Most Important Thing Next To Religion.

Rev. Joseph Vance, D. D., minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Detroit, addressed the Rotarians at the weekly luncheon at the Tecumseh House to-day at noon.

Speaking on the success of life, Dr. Vance stated that the words "to be" were the greatest test of a life. "What you are is a great prophecy of what you are going to be after death," he reminded them, "and the greatest thing in a man's life is what he makes of it. Some men are very much like a snowball which is started with a block of wood or a piece of iron. While it is being rolled it assumes large proportions and looks very large to some people's eyes, and no one could tell what was under the surface, but," he added, "when the sun comes out and melts the snow all that remains is the block of wood or piece of iron from which it was started.

"There are also men who think that they have made a success of life because they have lots of money which has been made by greediness or by squeezing some one to get it. They are all right until the light of opinion shines on them and shows them up, and when that happens people see them for what they are.

"Another way in which some men think they can make a success of life is by being a windbag," he added, "but all they need is the prick of a pinpoint to send them down to normal again."

Concluding, Dr. Vance stated that to render service was to do the will of God and next to religion it was the first thing which should be put into practice. "There is a great task facing you today," he added, "and that is the task of rendering service to your fellow men, practice that feeling of brotherhood and help others and at the same time help yourself by so doing and you will be on the right path to making a success of life."

Censure

feature of importance during the debate and nowhere was there any apprehension that the result of the vote on the motion of censure would involve the least danger to the Government's stability.

AWAIT PREMIER'S SPEECH.

This morning's newspapers indulged in considerable speculation relative to the prime minister's pronouncement, but they differed considerably in their forecasts. Some anticipated a clear statement as to the progress of negotiations and the prospects of success, while others, contending that as the men involved in the Irish conference were pledged to secrecy, it was impossible that Mr. Lloyd George would reveal matters that must be held in confidence until the conclusion of the negotiations. It was generally believed the prime minister's speech would materially influence the position of the Unionist party, but whether it would take the direction of rallying the moderate majority to continued support of the Coalition Government or would aid the strength of the malcontents remained to be seen.

Prominent Unionists held many conferences over the week-end and A. Bonar Law, former Government leader in the House of Commons, was one of the notables engaged in the discussions.

The question of allegiance to the King received little attention from political writers on the Anglo-Irish situation today. They appear to regard Ulster as the chief source of preoccupation on both sides.

CONCESSION TO ULSTER.

The Daily Mail declared it was understood the Government had decided to grant Ulster's petition that its Government be made effective and had determined to turn over to that Government various powers thus far withheld pending the formation of a separate Government in South Ireland. The newspapers explained that the method by which this could be effected without special legislation was undetermined, and it added that it had received no information as to the way the Government would meet objections from the Dail Eireann.

Reports that the Government had laid before the Sinn Fein delegates to the conference a number of questions were reiterated by to-day's newspapers. It was said the Sinn Fein representatives had transmitted the questions to Dublin for an answer, and it was assumed Dublin's rejoinder would have an important bearing upon the situation.

IS UNINJURED BY FALL DOWN STAIRS

Mrs. Parnell Morris had a remarkable escape from serious injury on Saturday, when she fell the full length of the stairway leading to the basement of her home. Dr. Moore, who attended the musician's wife, found that apart from a few minor bruises and a general shaking up, Mrs. Morris was unhurt to the fall. It appears that Mrs. Morris was walking along a hall which had been darkened and mistook the door leading to the cellar for the one going into another room. The first step threw her from her balance and sent her to the bottom of the stairs. It is expected that within a few days she will be about almost completely recovered.

WIVES OF CLERGY AFTER EQUIPMENT

Urge Standard Outfits For All Parsonages.

A recommendation that all parsonages have a standardized equipment was contained in the first resolution passed by the Methodist Ministers' Wives' Association, which held its second meeting to-day. In the same building their husbands also met and appointed a committee to bring about closer unity with the Presbyterian clergy of the city.

All of the Methodist parsonages are supposed to be provided with sufficient equipment to enable the family to keep house with. In many instances the incoming pastor has been faced with equipment which is inadequate and antiquated. It is with a view to remedying this condition that the women passed the resolution to-day, for they are the ones who are vitally affected by any discrepancies.

OF PROVINCIAL IMPORTANCE.

It was the consensus of opinion that the equipment of every parsonage should beb rought up to a certain standard. Thus when a minister and family moved to a new charge they would know exactly what equipment to expect in their new parsonage and what they should take with them. The matter is of greater than local or district importance and is one that will probably be taken up in the larger conferences of the church.

The committee appointed by the Methodists to meet with a similar committee of the Presbyterian church to bring about closer unity between the ministry of the two denominations is composed of Rev. J. A. Agnew, chairman of the London district; Rev. J. W. Hedley, president orf the association, and Rev. A. E. Thompson, secretary.

The discussion on the matter of parsonage equipment was started by an address by Mrs. (Rev.) A. Lucas.

It was decided that the wives should meet with their husbands next month in order to hear the address by the Rev. William Sparling on the ecumenical conference.

REGISTRATION OPENED TO-DAY

No Great Rush of Would-Be Voters In Morning Hours.

The first few hours after the opening of the registration courts in connection with the electoral lists for the forthcoming election did not witness any enthusiastic rush of citizens to make sure of their franchise. The registrars, 14 in number, opened their courts this morning at 9 o'clock, but several visited up to noon had not been called upon to exercise the functions of their office. They were not inclined to take this as a standard by which to measure future business; on the contrary, the opinion was expressed that the registration will be very general as soon as the people realize that facilities are now available. The courts will be open daily at 9 o'clock in the morning from to-day until November 8 and will continue in session until 9 p. m. daily, with intervals from 1 to 2 o'clock and from 6 to 7 o'clock for meals. The municipal lists are being used as a basis for the registration, and it is requested that all citizens should see to it that they are duly franchised.

The qualifications for the franchise in this election are that the voter must be 21 years of age and a British subject either by birth or naturalization; must have resided in Canada for one year and in the electoral district in which it is desired to vote for at least two months prior to the date of issue of the election writ—in this case October 8, 1921.

ARMED BANDITS FAIL AT TORONTO

Attempt to Hold Up Premises of Manufacturing Jewelry

$25,000 IN GEMS AT STAKE

Proprietor Has Narrow Escape From Bullet Fired by Desperado

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—A daring attempt to secure possession of more than $25,000 worth of gems hidden in the safe of H. Skup, manufacturing jeweler, was made at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon by three armed bandits. At the time hundreds of people were passing and repassing the building, and three policemen were less than 100 yards away. In spite of these obstacles to a successful escape, the robbers, when frightened from their purpose, managed to make a clear get-away.

LUCK AGAINST THEM.

Uncalculated circumstances rendered abortive the daring plan of the bandits. In fact the very element of surprise upon which they counted for the successful execution of their plan proved its undoing. In surprising one of the two occupants of the establishment, Mr. Bert Sheppard, with their curt command to put up his hands, they caused him to stumble against a bench on which was lying a heavy piece of metal. Sheppard fe'l, and his weight, acting as a lever, caused the metal to hurl through the air and to crash through one of the windows facing Yonge street. Though no one below was injured it had the effect of raising the alarm, and the robbers, after firing a hasty shot at Sheppard, rushed from the building. The shot, it is thought, was intended as a signal to the third man, who was guarding the stairway.

When the robbers entered the building Mr. Sheppard and his assistant, Mr. Kearns, were just completing the day's work. The first intimation they had of anything out of the ordinary was the curt command given them to raise their hands. Looking up they found themselves faced by the muzzles of two revolvers.

SLAMMED SAFE SHUT.

This was followed by the events related above. In the confusion which followed Kearns had the presence of mind to slam shut the door of the safe and to twirl the knob, making its contents safe from the robbery. There were more than $25,000 worth of gems in the store.

One of the robbers jumped through the window to the roof of a shed 20 feet below. From there he escaped into O'Keefe's lane and disappeared up Victoria street. The second robber rushed down the fire escape and passed along a lane until he came to Loew's Theater, which he entered and was soon lost in the darkness of the theater. An usher afterwards reported to the police that during the afternoon someone had opened a fire exit in the gallery and had left the theater by way of a rear fire escape.

That there were three robbers is known. A young lady, whose name has not been learned by the police, was leaving a dentist's parlor on the floor below the Skup establishment at the moment the hold-up was being attempted. As she was going to descend the stairs leading to Yonge street she was confronted by a man who roughly ordered her to "get back into that room."

This man also escaped in the confusion which followed. The police have excellent descriptions of the hold-up men, who were unmasked.

MEIGHEN STANDS BY GRAIN PLAN

Will Not Be Turned by Western Farmer Politicians

HAMILTON, Oct. 30.—(By Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.)—Premier Meighen has received a letter from the Grain Growers' Association, of Sintaluta, Sask., inclosing an appeal for the re-establishment of the Canada Wheat Board, which is being circulated through the Prairie Provinces. The letter states that the voluntary pool for handling grain, proposed by the prime minister in his Portage La Prairie speech, "will be totally inadequate to cope with the situation," that the man at the head of the board should be "armed with dictatorial powers" and that "the crisis facing the country is ample warrant for the creation of such a virtual dictatorship."

In replying to the letter Premier Meighen noted that the plan proposed by him is considered "hopelessly inadequate." "I may say that I should be scarcely surprised that associations which have assumed political functions and very hostile political activities should take the attitude you desired toward any proposal that I make," he continues. "They took just the same attitude toward the wheat board, when, after much effort on my part, it was established."

In closing Mr. Meighen writes that "I have made a definite and concrete proposal for the handling of the grain business." He asks whether Hon. Mackenzie King or Hon. T. A. Crerar have made proposals and what they are.

"My policy is before the people and it is for them to accept it or reject it," he says in closing.

SAID TO BE RECORD ON WIRELESS TELEPHONY

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 30.—What is asserted to be a world's record for land transmission of wireless telephony was achieved here Saturday night, when a concert program being sent out by wireless from San Francisco was picked up and distinctly recorded. The two points are over 1,400 miles apart. This was accomplished by W. W. Grant, wireless engineer for the Dominion Government.

Songs and instrumental music were distinctly heard by the listeners; also some news items spoken by the chairman.

NEW YORK WARNED TO IMPROVE ITS PORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Governor Miller, in a speech in Brooklyn on Saturday, told more than 500 members of the Chamber of Commerce that New York must speed up developments of its port and terminal facilities if it wished to avoid seeing commerce diverted to other cities. He referred specifically to the plan to convert the Great Lakes ports into terminals for Transatlantic shipping through a canal leading to the St. Lawrence River.

BLIND MAN RECOGNIZES VOICE OF ASSAILANT

His Evidence Regarded by New York Magistrate as Sufficient to Commit Accused.

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Identified by the blind victim of two pistol shots, who claims to have recognized his voice, Thomas Rickerson, aged 28, was held to-day on a charge of felonious assault.

Andrew Anderson, aged and blind, but keen of hearing, detected a noise in his apartment last night and called out, "Who's there?" The intruder mumbled a few words and fired a bullet into Anderson's abdomen. When the blind man called, "Tom!" Why did you do that!" four more shots were fired, one of which took effect in his shoulder.

Anderson told the police he recognized the intruder's voice as that of Rickerson, whom he had befriended since boyhood, and who had lived with him for a time.

FOCH CALLS UPON U. S. DIGNITARIES

Is Received by President, Vice-President and Others

UNABLE TO SEE WILSON

Former President Is Too Ill to Receive Callers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. — Moving with the rapidity that characterized his tactical thrusts along the western front, Marshal Ferdinand Foch became acquainted with official Washington yesterday to the accompaniment of the cheers and plaudits from hundreds of admirers wherever he went.

From the White House to the Capitol, and to the various departments, the famous allied generalissimo was whirled in rapid succession, everywhere greeted by admiring throngs.

The marshal wound up his morning list of calls with a futile attempt to see Woodrow Wilson.

President Harding, flanked on either side by the entire staff of military and naval aides, received the marshal in the Blue Room. The two dignitaries exchanged formal salutation and talked for some 15 minutes and then Marshal Foch was drvien down Pennsylvania avenue to the Capitol.

At the Capitol, Marshal Foch called on Vice-President Coolidge.

SALUTES WASHINGTON.

When Marshal Foch entered the office of Vice-President Coolidge he espied a painting of George Washington hanging on the wall, and came immediately to a salute.

The vice-president greeted the French general as "the man who saved both France and America." Ambassador Jusserand acted as interpreter, interpreting the exchange of greetings.

After he had called at the White House and met the president, and had formally paid his respects to other high officials of the Government, the marshal's chauffeur was ordered to drive to 2340 S street, where the former president dwells in the most rigid exclusion.

No interview has been arranged and the marshal intended to call on the former president in a purely social way, and renew their acquaintances begun in Paris. The former president was, however, too ill from an attack of indigestion to receive Marshal Foch, who departed after leaving his card and expressing regrets to Mr. Wilson's secretary. The former president was much better to-day.

The calls made by the marshal were extremely formal and it took the navy department clerks to break the cold formality. When General Foch arrived at the navy department to call upon Secretary Denby, he found several hundred girls lined up along the corridors of the building, and as he entered the building the girls broke into the "Marseillaise" while the French leader stood at attention.

YEAST BEST WHEN TAKEN WITH IRON

If Weak, Thin or Run-Down, Try This New Treatment In Tablet Form — Watch the Quick Results.

Everyone has heard of the apparent wonders performed by yeast in restoring thin, sickly, and run-down people to health. And now it is found that even more surprising results are brought when yeast is taken with iron, the great blood-builder.

People who for years were weak, pale, anaemic, and all run-down are regaining their strength and health almost as if by magic through this remarkably effective combination of tonics. And the best of it is that you can take it in pleasant tablet form—no need to eat yeast cakes, which are so disagreeable to many.

The preparation in which these two great health builders have been combined is known as Ironized Yeast. This contains highly concentrated brewer's yeast, which is far more effective than ordinary baker's yeast because it is richer in vitamines. Vitamines, as we all know, is the mysterious element which science has found to be so absolutely essential to health. Due to modern methods of food preparation vitamines are lacking in most of our commonest foods—and that is why so many of us become sickly and run-down.

If you are suffering from loss of strength, if your frequently become exhausted, if your food has no taste for you, or if you are irritable, thin, pale, nervous, or generally run-down, then try this remarkable new tonic.

Ironized Yeast will in most cases bring a decided improvement within three days. It will usually clear up sallow or muddy complexions within ten days. From everywhere come enthusiastic reports of what it is doing for people.

It is packed in patented Sani-tape packages and will keep indefinitely. Its cost is no more per dose than common yeast. Each package contains 10 days' treatment and costs only $1.00—or just 10 cents a day. Special directions for children in each package. Made by the Ironized Yeast Company, Atlanta, Ga.—Sold at all good druggists.

MARSHAL FOCH PREFERS A PIPE

Warrior's Little Briar Is His Constant Companion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Marshal Foch, who is known as an inveterate pipe smoker, before boarding the steamship Paris for his trip to the United States, made sure that a sufficient amount of his favorite French tobacco was on board. One of his military aides has it in charge, 25 pounds of it.

Soon after he was taken off the Paris at New York, and had exchanged official courtesies with the members of the reception committee on the tug Vigilant, he went inside the pilot house, lighted his small briar pipe and seemed perfectly at home. He emptied it as he approached Battery Park and put it back into his pocket.

Two hours later, when comfortably established in his special train for the run to Washington, the pipe was out again. After dinner he followed the example of his guests and smoked a cigar, but, this finished, the pipe again came into view, only to disappear when the train pulled into the Union Station.

NEBRO RUNS AMUCK.

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 29.—Proclaiming himself "King of all the negroes," William Arthur, a colored man, ran amuck at Glace Bay yesterday and invaded the nurses' home at St. Joseph's Hospital. When the police captured him they took him to jail for a sanity test. It is declared that Arthur became unbalanced following a negro revival meeting at Waterford, which he attended on Thursday night.

LAURIER TWICE REFUSED PEERAGE

Statement Made by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux at Shawinigan Falls

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que., Oct. 30.—That a scheme to secure that portion of the Government railway system formerly known as the Canadian Northern, shorn of the incubus of debt, is being hatched by a group of financiers of Chicago, New York and Toronto, was one of the declarations made here today by Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, in addressing a meeting on behalf of Hon. Jacques Bureau, Liberal candidate for Three Rivers-St. Maurice constituency.

Incidentally Hon. Mr. Lemieux revealed some inside history in connection with Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who, he said, had twice declined a peerage. The first offer was made in 1897 by the late Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, and the second a little later by Lord Minto, then governor-general of Canada.

SAFE AT AMHERSTBURG

DETROIT, Oct. 29.—Missing since Wednesday, when they went to search for a motor boat which had broken her lashings and gone adrift from the St. Clair relief light ship, Maurice Burk and John Vincent, of the light ship force, reported to-night that they were safe at Amherstburg.

OLIVER UPHELD ON FIRST VOTE

Liquor Question Debated in British Columbia Legislature

VICTORIA, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Dispatch).—The Provincial Government, under Premier John Oliver, was upheld in the Legislature, 24 votes to 18, in the first division of the autumn session at a late hour last night.

The division came after Premier Oliver and Attorney-General Farris had spoken in defense of the Government's administration of the liquor law. Hon. W. J. Bowser, leader of the Opposition, introduced a motion calling for a general investigation of the liquor control by a select committee of the House.

The premier introduced a motion amending Mr. Bowser's motion, declaring the Opposition's insinuation to be put in the form of a definite charge. The amendment carried.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—King Alexander, whose acceptance of the throne of Jugo-Slavia has ben in doubt for two months, started the return trip to Belgrade early last night. The train is due to arrive at Belgrade at about 11 o'clock Monday night.

THE chair is empty. The man is gone — gone on that long journey from which there is no return.

And with him has gone the vitality—the spirit—the prestige—he gave to the business. His passing means immediate — it may be irreparable — financial loss to the concern whose destinies he controlled.

Months—perhaps years—must elapse before another man of equal strength can be found to fill the vacant chair. In the meantime the stability of the concern will be threatened by turmoil, loss of business, tightening of credit and other ills—ills which the inflow of a substantial amount of ready money would largely obviate.

Business Life Assurance is designed to meet this and other contingencies which—sooner or later—arise in every business.

You insure your business against possible loss by fire. Surely life assurance should also be carried on the lives of your partners or valuable officials.

Fire is only a possibility—death is inevitable.

This Company has given special attention to the subject of life assurance for business protection and has been privileged to serve many of Canada's most prominent concerns in this connection.

Some of the knowledge acquired during many years' study of the application of Business Life Assurance has been embodied in an interesting booklet on the subject. We'll gladly mail you a copy if you send us your name and address. There's no obligation involved.
