

He went to the window, and saw the morning breaking. He remembered the time when he left Dulverton, and went away into the wilderness. Then he thought of the words of the old Hebrew prophet :

“The wilderness and the solitary place shall be glad for them, and the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose.”

THE END