TENTH YEAR. FRIDAY MORNING APRIL 19, 1889. PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTENDED FOR ONE YEAR.

THE OLD LINES TO CARRY THE ATLANTIC MAILS TILL 1890.

Half a Million Not Enough to Attract Bids for a 20 Knots' Service—Mr. Foster on the Advantages of the Canadian Route Between Europe and the Orient.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The existing contract with the Allan and Dominion lines for carriage of Atlantic mails has been extended for one year.

The Government are afraid to increase the $500,000 subsidy, but it has not proved enough to attract bids for a 20 knots' service to Quebec in summer and Halifax in winter. The more sensible plan has therefore been adopted of asking lines to tender the best service they can for the half million. This will probably end in the present Canadian lines getting the contract, and building two boats somewhat faster than the Parisian and Vancouver, and they will also raise the speed of their two favorite boats.

They are to run to Southampton or Plymouth, and either continue their voyage to Cherbourg on the French coast, or have special steamers to carry freight and passengers across the Channel. Practical men do not see much sense in this French stipulation, and the expense of it will largely curtail the expenditure that might otherwise be applied to rate of speed and improved accommodation on board.

DISCUSSED BY THE HOUSE.

The Minister of Finance's Explanation of the Steamship Subsidies.

OTTAWA, April 18.—In answer to inquiries in the House this afternoon Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, said the amount of goods entered for consumption in the nine months ending March 31, 1888, was $73,054,443, and in the nine months ending March 31, 1889, $78,246,111, not including for 1889 the Northwest Territories or British Columbia. The total export of the produce of Canada for the nine months up to March 31, 1888, was $59,790,398, and for the nine months up to March 31, 1889, $59,308,785.

Sir Hector Langevin said the building for the new printing bureau had cost to date $130,586, and the printing plant had cost $165,863.

Sir John Macdonald announced that he had received from Premier Mowat an intimation that the resolution now before the House respecting the boundaries of Ontario was acceptable to him as it stood. In consequence of certain verbal changes suggested by Hon. David Mills so as to make the resolution more clear, he had decided not to move it until Saturday.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said he had heard from Premier Mercier of Quebec that that gentleman had some objections to the boundaries proposed.

On motion of Hon. John Costigan the House went into Committee of the Whole to consider a resolution proposing a reduction of the number of cullers and that culling and measuring under the Customs Act shall be compulsory only in respect of square and waney timber. A bill founded upon the resolution was introduced.

The House went into committee to consider the Anti-Combines Bill, but on Mr. Tisdale's objection that the bill as amended had not yet been distributed the committee rose, to sit again on Saturday.

The Steamship Subsidies.

Hon. G. E. Foster moved consideration of the steamship subsidy resolutions, and in doing so explained the present position of affairs. For the proposed fast Atlantic service three tenders had been received. The first of these, from a proposed company not organized, was for a 15-knot service for a subsidy of $416,000 a-year. The second was from the Allans for a service of about 17 knots, for which a subsidy of £104,000 is asked, and the third from the Andersons, who offer to put on steamers with power sufficient for 20 knots an hour, for a subsidy of £104,000, the same as asked by the Allans. The Andersons' proposition would make the passage between Rimouski and Great Britain 148 hours long via Belle Isle Straits and 154 hours via Cape Race, and from Halifax to Great Britain 153 hours.

None of these tenders was satisfactory, and the Government, having altered its idea with respect to the service desired, entered into still further negotiations with the Allans and the Andersons. These have been going on for about four months, and the probable conclusion is within sight now.

The present position of the Atlantic mail service was not satisfactory. With the increase of travel the disadvantage under which Canada labored became more noticeable. The cabin passengers landed at Quebec in 1887 numbered 3488 and the number landed at New York the same year was 86,302. Of mail matter passing between Canada and Great Britain in 1888, the letters going by the Canadian route were 1,710,824 and the papers 2,870,495, while there were diverted to the United States route 3,008,206 letters and 6,544,021 papers. The diversion above noted took place notwithstanding the fact that our geographical and natural advantages were apparent.

A World's Highway.

The new service proposed would be distinctly a Canadian service. Though we now paid $126,000 to the Allan line these vessels have the privilege of going to an American port. This and the Pacific service would come in as a natural sequence of the development of the Canadian Pacific Railway. It had not been intended that that line should commence at Halifax or St. John and at Vancouver or New Westminster, but it was intended to be a world's highway for the stream of travel between the European countries and the countries of the far east. Our ever open ports, our coaling facilities, our temperate climate—all gave our route an advantageous position.

The distances thus compared: Between Liverpool and New Zealand via the United States 11,993, via Quebec 11,928 miles and via Halifax 12,252 miles. Though the number of miles by Halifax was greater the time would be shorter because there was a larger proportion of the journey overland. Between Liverpool and Australia the distances were: By United States 12,780, Quebec 12,236 and by Halifax 12,560. As far as China and Japan were concerned Canada had the advantage over the United States route in the length of the Atlantic, the land and the Pacific passage.

We paid now $126,000 a year to the Allans' and $30,000 to another company for connection with France. The new service would give direct connection with that important country and would enable us to cut off the $30,000 now paid for communication with Antwerp and Hamburg. By the diversion of mail matter we now lost $68,679 in revenue and as the diversion would not be more than half that when we had a proper service we would here gain $34,000. In ways such as those here indicated we would save about $250,000 of the $750,000 to be paid for the new service, and when we came to consider also the improved trade facilities it would open and the advantages for passenger travel he thought Canada could well afford the cost.

A general discussion then ensued, no serious objection being taken to the proposition, though the details were criticised and complaint made that the papers connected with the negotiation were not before the House.

After recess the debate on the resolution was continued. In the discussion on the third resolution, that respecting a fast weekly steamship service for the carrying of mails between Canada and the United Kingdom, making connection with a French port, Hon. G. E. Foster stated that the connection was to be direct, the steamers calling first at an English port, then crossing to France and returning to the English port. The discussion on this resolution was unfinished when at midnight the House adjourned until Saturday afternoon.

THE WIMBLEDON TEAM.

Toronto to be Represented by Four of Her Crack Marksmen.

OTTAWA, April 18.—The Wimbledon team for 1889 is now complete, the twentieth acceptance being received to-day. There being six refusals in the first twenty, the last man to get a chance to go was Staff-Sergt. Ashall of the Queen's Own Rifles, the twenty-sixth on the list of those eligible. Sergt. Ashall was across last year and also in 1883 and '85.

Toronto will have three other representatives, all members of the Grenadiers. Of these, Staff-Sergt. Thos. Mitchell, who heads the list of the twenty, has been five times with the team, in 1874, '77, '79, '81 and '83. Second on the list is Private R. McVittie, going from Canada for the first time, but who has almost from the institution of Wimbledon been one of Scotland's representatives. The third Grenadier is Staff-Sergt. F. W. Curzon, to whom the experience will be new.

Only eight of the twenty have not shot at Wimbledon. The old timers include about enough stars of the first magnitude to insure a hot contest for the Kolapore trophy, which is competed for by teams of eight. A singular fact in connection with the team of this year is that only two provinces have secured representation upon it. The skill of Ontario's marksmen has secured them the first eleven places, the 13th, 14th, 19th and 20th—fifteen in all, and the other five have been captured by Nova Scotians.

VON REINOLTZ STORY FINISHED.

Other Witnesses Examined in the Jewelry Case—Phillips Still Refused Bail.

MONTREAL, April 18.—In the Maloney-Phillips case to-day Von Reinoltz concluded his evidence. He said that when he showed Phillips the letter of instruction from Ellis & Co. in the morning after the game was over Phillips said: "I thought these goods were not yours." At the restaurant in the evening he made a similar remark in the presence of Andy Maloney, and added: "Didn't I tell you so, Andy, and wasn't that the reason why I could not trade my diamonds for jewelry?" Andy assented. Witness received no consideration whatever for the jewelry except the chance of the game. He stated that the pocket book produced in court contained all his papers except the missing pawn ticket.

Hattie Johnson testified that a pocketbook exactly like that now produced was left on her bureau, she believed by Andy Maloney.

J. L. Moss, pawnbroker, said that James Baxter had told him he had a ticket for a chain pawned with him which he was going to redeem. A. M. Strassburger of New York told witness that he had seen in Baxter's possession a ticket for a chain pawned by Von Reinoltz with witness.

Georgie Wilson, who lived with Hattie Johnson at that time, stated that Miss Johnson told her that she got a pocketbook from Maloney and she gave it to her to destroy, but she did not do so, and when she heard of the present trouble, seeing Von Reinoltz' name inside, she gave it to Detective Robinson.

When the hour for adjournment arrived the magistrate announced that he could not at the present stage admit Phillips to bail, as there were likely to be further developments. As for Maloney there was no need at present for his bail being renewed as his bond would be up on Tuesday and the matter could be considered then.

WHAT THE SCHOOLS COST.

THE EDUCATION PARLIAMENT IN SESSION LAST NIGHT.

Passing the Estimates—Rewards for Worthy Scholars—Fortunate Teachers—New School Sites—Drill Companies in the Schools—The Coal Contracts.

The following members were present when Chairman H. A. E. Kent called the regular meeting of the Public School Board to order last night: R. S. Baird, C. A. B. Brown, A. R. Denison, G. Downard, T. A. Hastings, J. B. Henderson, H. S. Howland, H. A. E. Kent, J. Kerr, W. S. Lee, R. A. McCrocken, G. McMurrich, McSpadden, W. W. Ogden, J. Oliver, E. Schoff, F. Somers, G. Vair, T. R. Whiteside, J. S. Williams, S. Willcock, W. C. Johnston, A. F. Middleton and E. P. Roden.

The first little discussion which took place was raised by Mr. McMurrich. He objected to the loose way in which members of the Separate School Board were allowed to examine the assessment list with a view to put Roman Catholics on the roll as separate school supporters.

It was conceded that there was a laxity in carrying out the law and Mr. McMurrich finally stated his enquiry ought to be a hint to the Assessment Commissioner to carry out the law with greater rigor.

This notice of motion was given:

Mr. Howland: That this Board take the necessary action to have its bylaws amended so that in future all textbooks used in our city public schools shall be purchased by this board and furnished to the pupils free of charge.

Passing the Estimates.

The Board went into committee and passed these estimates for school expenditure for 1889: School Fund, $292,329.50; Building Accounts, $206,700, with a total increase in two of the estimates of $7500.

The committee also recommended that the teachers in the schools in St. Albans Ward be paid, for the remainder of the current year, the salaries fixed by the Parkdale School Board.

The clause carried.

The Committee on School Management recommended:

That the offer of Messrs. I. Suckling & Sons, to present the sum of twenty-five dollars in prizes to the pupils of the junior classes who successfully pass an examination in music, be accepted.

That the Regulations 33, 34, 35, 36 and 37, relating to pupils, be amended to read as follows: 33. Certificates of Honor and Medals shall be awarded, at the Christmas examination, to such pupils as have not been once absent or late, and whose conduct has been uniformly good. Pupils whose absence has been occasioned by their own sickness, or of not more than three weeks' continuance in each session, certified in writing by their parents or guardians; or who have been kept out of school on account of contagious diseases in their families, shall receive certificates. These certificates shall be of two grades, and named, respectively, 1st Honor and 2nd Honor, and the Medals of two kinds—Bronze and Silver.

The above clauses were carried. This clause in the same report was referred back: A pupil will not lose his certificate by being absent in case of the death of a parent or a member of the family. Jewish children are allowed to be absent on four additional holidays in a year without losing their certificates.

The following clauses were carried:

That these teachers be transferred: Miss F. Sims, from Church-street to College-avenue School; Miss S. Keele, from Louisa-street to Winchester-street School; Miss A. L. Good from Bolton-avenue to Church-street School; Miss S. Cooper, from Niagara-street to Louisa-street School.

That these second class certificate teachers be appointed:

Miss L. Orr, Brunswick Hall; Miss M. Hodson, Bolton-avenue School; Miss E. Black, Miss K. McFarlen, St. Augustine Church; Miss H. Macdonald, Bolton-avenue School; Miss A. Walton, Cecil-street Hall.

That the teachers on the staff who have not been assigned positions be located as follows:

Misses Annie Stalker, in Lansdowne Hall; Jennie Tector, Prospect-avenue Hall; K. McKenzie, Ryerson School; F. T. Wood, Broadview-avenue Congregational Church; A. Wickens, Woodgreen Methodist Sunday school; E. Arnold, St. Ann's Sunday school; M. Slater, Phœbe-street Mission Hall; A. Burger, St. Ann's Sunday school; C. Mance, St. Bartholomew's Sunday school; D. Corrigan, Niagara-street School.

That an additional temporary school-room be opened in connection with Royce-street School, in order to provide the accommodation required in that neighborhood.

That $100 be granted for the purpose of purchasing books on teaching for the teachers' libraries in the various schools.

A long discussion took place on a clause appearing in the sites and building report, providing that Mrs. Moore, as caretaker of the Parkdale High School, be paid $600 per annum. Mr. W. S. Lee objected to this clause on the ground that a lady could not efficiently perform the duties of a caretaker. The provision, however, was carried.

New School Sites.

In No. 5 report of the Sites and Buildings Committee it was recommended:

That Mr. W. Rennie be offered the sum of $13,000 for a lot of land for a school site situated on the east side of George-street, having a measurement of one hundred feet frontage by a depth of one hundred and fifty-one feet.

That Mr. W. Hope be offered the sum of $45 per foot for a lot of land for a school site on the north side of Elgin-avenue, having a frontage of 188 feet by a depth of 135 feet. Total amount, $8460.

It was moved in amendment that the Board be authorized to sell the site, now owned on Huron-street. The amendment, as an addition to the original clause, was carried.

The other clauses carried were:

That they be authorized to offer Mr. Bolton $18,500 for a lot of land for a school site situate on the west side of Murray-street, having a frontage of 153 feet by a depth of 277 feet 7 inches.

That the Committee on Finance be requested to add to the estimates for the current year the sum of $150 to procure additional land in connection with Sackville-street school.

Mr. James Kerr read the report of the Printing and Supplies Committee. It recommended that the tender of Mr. John Carlyle to supply 300 wooden runs at twenty cents apiece, be accepted for use of drill companies in schools requiring them.—Carried.

The special report re the fuel contract was received and adopted without amendment and the board adjourned at 11.30.

NOTES FROM OSGOODE HALL.

Chancery Sittings—The Exchange Bank—Central Bank Cases.

Mr. Justice Robertson at the Chancery sittings yesterday heard the case of Joshua G. Beard of this city against the Exchange Bank, dismissing the action with costs. This was an action to compel the defendants to release the plaintiff from all liability as guarantor of the debts due by Messrs. S. W. Beard & Co., coal dealers, of Montreal, to the defendants, pursuant to an agreement between the parties. The case of William H. Best against William Porter was then taken up. This is an action for specific performance of a contract for the exchange of land in the city and elsewhere. The defence is misrepresentation. The case is proceeding.

The appeals of Messrs. Block and Morton in their Central Bank cases were enlarged for two weeks.

Block Paving Still Alive.

Foreman McGowan of the Toronto Street Railway Company had a gang of about twenty men at work on the block paving between Yonge and Bay-streets on King-street last night tearing up the old paving and putting in new blocks. It was six years ago last September that these blocks were put in. At that time their thickness was about 6½ inches. Specimens that were picked up and examined last night were as thin as one inch in places, so that is high time it was replaced.

"THE HAVEN."

How a Noble Institution is Having Its Usefulness Increased.

Unknown to many thousands of Toronto's citizens is The Haven in Seaton-street. It is a refuge for unfortunate girls and women, and is worked by a committee of ladies in connection with what is known as "The Prison Gate Mission." From a humble beginning in a little room in Berkeley-street the work has spread, and yesterday saw the dedication of a new wing to The Haven. This provides 25 more beds and makes the institution complete and efficient.

The proceedings were possessed of much interest and influential citizens and many ladies were present. Archdeacon Boddy discharged the opening religious duties, and then Mayor Clarke, who presided, congratulated the managers on the completion of the building and told how the land lay as regards the finances. The new wing had cost $7000, and $1000 had been spent in repairs to the older building. There is now a total indebtedness of $5600. The City Council contributes $500 annually and the Mayor thought that if the ladies presented their case, with the grand record of good work they are doing, this amount would be increased. His Worship read apologies for absence from Ald. McMillan, Hon. Senator Macdonald, W. H. Howland and Rev. D. J. Macdonell.

Rev. Dr. Stafford praised the work of The Haven, especially as regards deserted wives and children. Out of 215 inmates last year 18 were wives whose husbands had deserted them and there were 25 children whose fathers had forsaken them.

Rev. William G. Wallace offered the dedicatory prayer and the assembly sang the Doxology.

Mr. William Goodeham was eloquent of the "glorious work" he had seen in that Haven. "There is," said he, "nothing in this city I delight in more." And then he gave touching examples and there were many moist eyes in the room.

Rev. A. H. Baldwin read the report of the work committee and explained the employment of the inmates. "The Haven," said he, "is one of the grandest institutions in the city; and why? Because it is so Christ-like."

Mr. Clarke Gamble, Q.C., one of the oldest friends of the Haven, gave an interesting sketch of its origin and progress. He concluded, "Long live the Haven," and there was a chorus of "Amens."

Rev. Dr. Thomas expatiated on practical Christianity in upraising the fallen, and was followed by Governor Green, who made a forcible speech on prison reform and eulogized the labors of Mrs. Harvie and her colleagues who visit the jail twice a week and take care of the homeless and destitute female prisoners on their discharge.

Rev. A. J. Broughall and Commissioner Coombes added their voices to the chorus of praise and a successful dedicatory service was concluded by Dr. Stafford pronouncing the Benediction. Then came refreshments and a tour of the building, all praising the new wing and resolving to liquidate the debt as soon as possible.

THE RED-COATED REGIMENT.

An Order for New Clothes—The March Out Last Night.

The Grenadiers turned out last night under Col. Dawson about 300 strong and headed by both bands marched to the Alexandra Rink in King-street west. The movements practised were the marching past and the general salute. Owing to the very bad state of the ground the movements were only fairly done. The playing of the band on the march was greatly admired and showed wonderful improvement.

Several invitations from outside have been received for the 24th, but nothing has been settled as to the regiment's movements on that date.

These regimental orders were issued:

Captain Harston, having returned from leave of absence, will assume command of E Co.

Lieut. Gibson is transferred from "E" to "G" Co.

The new helmets for the regiment having been received, they will be issued from the quartermaster's stores on requisition from the officers commanding the companies.

The commanding officer has been pleased to make the following promotions:

To be Color-Sergeant—Sergt. W. Fowler "G" Company, vice Judge.

To be Hospital Sergeant—Corp. Adam Taylor, vice-Dent, resigned;

To be Corporals in the Ambulance Corps—Private H. Irwin and Private W. Randal.

John Small, M.P., sent two telegrams last night, one to Colonel Dawson, the other to Major Mason, stating that he had succeeded in securing a new issue of clothing for the regiment as a special case. The issue relates specially to the tunics, on the ground that those furnished the regiment on coming back from the Northwest campaign were of a poor quality.

Families leaving town for the summer can have their furniture carefully stored with Mitchell, Miller & Co., 45 Front-street east.

TORONTO'S TEACHERS.

What They Did at Their Convention Yesterday.

The Toronto Teachers' Association held its semi-annual convention yesterday in the lecture room of Grace Church. President J. L. Hughes occupied the chair. Nearly every public school teacher in the city was present. A paper written by Miss Church on "Reading Gymnastics" was read by Mr. Hughes in the absence of the writer. It dealt with the various principles of elocution and was instructive and interesting.

The Model School class of teachers led by Mr. Cringan sang several selections. The suggestions on teaching proposed at the grade meetings last fall were discussed and after a few changes they were approved of.

School Life and the Eyesight.

In the afternoon Dr. G. S. Ryerson delivered an address on the "Influence of School Life on the Eyesight." The doctor gave some profitable advice upon how to prolong the usefulness of the organ of vision and illustrated with colored materials the mistakes that are apt to be made by those afflicted with color blindness; urging that people so afflicted should be careful in choosing an occupation. Those who examine the sight of railway employes were condemned as being often loose and negligent in their work, hence so many railroad disasters. The lecturer advocated the proper distribution of light in the schoolroom; the walls to be painted a pale grey or pale blue; the writing on blackboard to be made large enough so that the scholars at the back end of the room will see without straining their eyes, and writing paper to be of a light yellow tint. Ground glass in school windows was condemned.

Officers Elected.

These officers were elected: J. L. Hughes, president; L. J. Clarke, vice-president; and for the executive committee Miss M. J. Keown, Mr. W. J. Hendry, Miss J. Niven, Mrs J. S. Arthurs and Miss M. Emery; secretary-treasurer, Mr. Andrew Hendry. Mr. W. F. Chapman was appointed to represent the association at the convention to be held at Niagara-on-the-Lake in August.

Funeral of an Old Citizen.

The funeral of the late George B. Holland took place from his residence, 255 Sherbourne-street, to St. James' Cemetery yesterday afternoon. A large number of friends followed the remains to the grave, the services being conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Boddy. Among the relatives of the deceased were present: Messrs. Charles E. Britton, Gananoque; Charles L. Parmenter, Gananoque; W. G. Blyth and J. Ross Robertson, sons-in-law; Master Russell Brittm, Master Arthur Blyth, Master Britton Holland, grandsons; and Messrs. Isaac Cowen and Henry Hutchinson of Rowsell & Hutchinson.

DOWN TO DEATH.

James Mundi's Fearful Fall From the New Bridge Over the Niagara River.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., April 18.—A man named James Mundi, an Italian, employed on the new bridge on the Canadian side, while carrying a keg of nails over the cables, lost his footing and fell to the water below, a distance of 175 feet. He came to the surface and swam a short distance, when he went down and did not come up. Boats were sent to his rescue, but not in time. He had the reputation of being the best climber on the works. The accident happened about 9 o'clock this morning.

A Mystery of the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 18.—As noon to-day the body of a man was found floating in the eddy close to shore, directly under Inspiration Point. Deceased was apparently about 35 to 40 years of age, smooth shaven, dark hair, all of which had been removed by the action of the water, except a small portion on the back of the head. He had no coat, wore a vest of diagonal cloth, dark tweed trousers, buttoned gaiters, grey woolen socks, a white shirt having either the letter "C" or "O" stamped on the lappel of the front and underclothing. He was of heavy build, would weigh about 180 pounds and was 5 feet 10 inches in height. He wore what appeared to be a pair of scapulars, indicating that he was a member of the Catholic Church. His neck was broken but there appeared no marks of violence. His pockets contained only a silver watch and a red cotton handkerchief.

DOWN ON MERCIER.

The Temperance People of Quebec Province Denounce Their Premier.

MONTREAL, April 18. — A meeting of representatives of the different temperance organizations of the province was held here to-day to organize for united political action. The action of the Legislature of Quebec in regard to the license law amendments and the remarks of Premier Mercier towards the temperance people in his recent interview with the liquor men was considered. They declared that it was the imperative duty of the temperance electors to oppose the Government in every legitimate manner.

Resolutions were adopted in favor of combining to elect such municipal councillors in each municipality as are pronounced friends of prohibition, avowed opposition to the Quebec Government on the ground that its influence was thrown in with the liquor party and that strenuous exertions be used to elect temperance men to the Dominion Parliament.

A central committee was appointed to carry out the resolutions and a temperance mass meeting, at which stirring addresses were made, was held to-night.

AN UNFORTUNATE PROPELLER.

The Myles Has Her Boiler Burnt Out at Hamilton—Ambitious City News.

HAMILTON, April 18.—The big propeller Myles, which was to have left last evening for Toledo to load corn for Kingston, had her boiler burnt out yesterday afternoon through the carelessness of the firemen in neglecting to feed water into it. The most serious loss is caused by her being obliged to cancel her contract for the cargo, which will be a dead loss of nearly $1000.

The Buffalo police think the real name of the girl known as Ruby Nelson, who was shot in a Buffalo saloon last Sunday night by Harry Spiesz and who has since been sinking rapidly, is Maggie McCleary, and that she comes from Hamilton. Careful inquiries here have, however, failed to elicit any knowledge of a girl of that name who went from here to Buffalo. Spiesz, who eluded the police and escaped after the shooting, was captured on Wednesday night in Buffalo. He says that the affair was accidental. The victim says she is a Roman Catholic, but she will not see a priest.

Tenders for the construction of the Queen-street school, aggregating $30,744, were accepted at last night's meeting of the Board of Education.

James Hill, serving a 60 days' sentence in the jail for drunkenness, died at the hospital last night and his wife, Ellen Hill, learned the news in the dock at the Police Court this morning, when she was arraigned on a like charge.

Frederick Frewing, another of Hamilton's juvenile thieves, was sentenced to the Penetang Reformatory yesterday for four years.

Murdered by a Drunken Son.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., April 18.—West Farms was the scene of a horrible double tragedy this morning. Joseph King, a wealthy, well-known citizen, 78 years of age, was shot and killed by Edgar King, his eldest son, and the house was fired and burned. Some time afterwards shots were heard near by, which directed the assembled neighbors to a spot twenty rods away, where the murderer was found lying in a pool of blood, having shot himself. The cause of the crime is traceable to an unbalanced mind caused by dissolute habits. A few days ago the murderer gave to Charles Clark a sealed manuscript, requesting him not to open it till some time in the future, that he would soon go away, and that the letter would show why he went and where he would be. The papers were read to-day, and revealed the determination of Edgar to kill his father and aunt and himself. Edgar was once in partnership in the business of making whips and was worth considerable property. Six years ago his wife procured a divorce on the ground of drunkenness. When his property was gone he led a bad life and got what money he could from his father until the latter refused to give any more.

MINNEAPOLIS, April 18.—Street cars are running on several lines in this city and St. Paul. There have been several small disturbances in Minneapolis but only one arrest.

CITY COUNCIL OF TORONTO.

Special Order of the Day. Thursday, April 18, 1889.

BUSINESS—

To consider any business which may arise from a requisition received by the Mayor in connection with the appointment of the aldermen for St. Matthew's Ward on the various standing and special committees of the council.

The above was the special matter to consider which Mayor Clarke had called the members of the council together last night. It could be easily seen from the immense crowd of citizens, which thronged every inch of available space in the gallery and even on the floor of the chamber, that it was a burning question, and one which had excited the interest of all sections of the community. There were citizens from far east of the Don, and as far west as the uttermost limit of the new ward of St. Alban's. St. Paul's Ward sent down a heavy contingent, while the central sections responded as nobly, and figured by the hundred among the big sea of faces.

The Calling of the Roll.

It had been rumored all day that there would not be a quorum, and though the event to a certain extent justified the correctness of the surmise, nevertheless there were on hand at different times during the evening enough aldermen and more to fill the number required to discuss business under the bylaws of the civic governing body. The hour of meeting was 7.30, and sharp on time City Clerk Blevins, attended by his subordinates, took their seats at the table immediately below the Mayor's throne. There were present in their places Ald. Baxter, Boustead, Carlyle (St. And.'s), Gibbs, Hill, Lennox, Maughan, Peter Macdonald, E. A. Macdonald, McMillan, Macdougall, Ritchie, Roaf, Small, Swait, Shaw and J. E. Verral. The rules of council call for 21 to form a quorum, and as soon as City Clerk Blevins, at the demand of Ald. Baxter, had called the roll and found the number not sufficient, Ald. Baxter left the council chamber, remarking that there was no use in his remaining any longer. Before he had reached the outside door Ald. Fleming, Dodds, Moses and George Verral put in an appearance. This almost evened up matters, but Ald. Peter Macdonald also beat a retreat, making his way to the members' room.

The Mayor Expresses His Regret.

At this juncture the Mayor walked into the chamber and took his seat on the throne. Under his instructions the roll was again called, and this time found to be lacking one of the requisite number. A clerk bied himself to the members' room, and found Ald. Bell, Peter Macdonald, Baxter and several others but they refused to come into council. On this being reported to the City Clerk and by him in turn conveyed to the Mayor, His Worship declared the meeting adjourned in the following words:

"Gentlemen, I am very sorry indeed, extremely sorry, that this matter should end in a fiasco, but I have no option in the matter. There is no quorum and, I declare this meeting adjourned until the next regular meeting of the council."

This broke up the meeting so far as the proceedings in the council chamber were concerned. In the members' room, in the rush and hurry for hats and coats, Ald. E. A. Macdonald took the opportunity to express his regret that the meeting had proved a failure, at the same time promising that he would call another special meeting, and continue in that line until the difficulty had been settled.

Ald. E. A. Makes a Proposition.

He then offered to meet Ald. Peter on equal terms and let them both settle the matters in dispute between them. His promotion, and one which found favor with all, was to toss for first choice for the seats on the various committees rendered vacant by the ill-health of Ald. Galbraith. He held that in this way both would have a fair, square show. Ald. Peter was willing to settle the matter but had religious scruples against tossing. Ald. Boustead and McMillan, however, were anxious to find some way out of the difficulty and suggested that the matter be by lot. Ald. Peter demurred, but the Mayor took him aside, and in a ten minutes' argument succeeded in persuading him to waive his objections.

How the Preliminaries Were Arranged.

This first step reached, the aldermen present with the two Macdonalds crossed over to the Mayor's private office. There the Mayor cut four slips of white paper; one was marked with the figure 1 and the others were allowed to remain blank. These, twisted into exactly the same shape, were placed in His Worship's hat. Then a discussion arose as to which of the two drawers of the lot would dip his hand into the hat first. Again the Mayor's good sense came into play. He resumed the scissors, which as a newspaper man of long-standing he knew well how to handle, and cut two slips of paper, one longer than the other. Held tight in his hand he presented them to the Messrs. Macdonald, at the same time informing them that the man who secured the longer slip would have the privilege of dipping his hand in the hat first.

Ald. Peter Secures First Dip.

Ald. Peter secured first dip. Just high enough for a man to dip his hand in without seeing the contents, the hat was held. Ald. Peter drew blank. Ald. E. A. followed and secured the coveted No 1. "What committee do you choose?" queried the Mayor. "The Board of Works, of course," replied the elated alderman. "What one will you take?" continued Mayor Clarke, addressing Ald. Peter. He answered "The Fire and Gas," and here ended the whole trouble. "I want you gentlemen to understand," said the Mayor in parting, "that this arrangement is only to last until such time as Ald. Galbraith's health will permit of his return to his duties."

E. A. Has Many Staunch Friends.

Anyone seeing the crowd of friends of Ald. E. A. Macdonald at the council last night, could have but one opinion of his popularity. He felt proud of his victory, and his brother aldermen with perhaps one or two exceptions appeared relieved that the ugly difficulty had been at length amicably arranged.

Breeze, when ye softly blow,
Closed with the sweets of spring,
What do ye murmur low?
What is the song ye sing?
Is it a song of birds
Warbling in meadows green?
Is it the potent words,
Hats as is hats—Dineen?

Is it a song of flowers?
Song of the laughing brook?
Song of the idle hours?
Song of sequestered nook?
Song of the perfumed air?
Song of the tender sheen?
Song of a woodland fair?
Hats as is hats—Dineen?

Is it a song of joy?
Song of the golden days
When tender greenings cloy
The winding woodland ways?
Song of a lake and sea,
Fairer than eye hath seen?
Song of the greenwood tree?
Hats as is hats—Dineen?

Breeze of the new born spring,
Trifler and flirt, I ween
This is the song ye sing:
Hats as is hats—Dineen.

The Decision of the Interstate Commerce Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Interstate Commerce Commission to-day promulgated its decision in the matter of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada. This decision has been looked for with much interest by railroad officials, many of whom attended the investigation when the Grand Trunk officials were before the commission. The decision, prepared by Commissioner Schoonmaker, is as follows:

1. The provisions of the act to regulate commerce apply to common carriers engaged in the transportation of passengers and property for a continuous carriage or shipment from a place in the United States to a place in an adjacent foreign country.

2. Such common carriers are subject to the provisions of the act in respect to the printing of schedules of rates, fares and charges for the transportation of passengers and property, the posting and filing with the Interstate Commerce Commission of copies of such schedules, the notice of advances and reductions and the maintenance of the rates, fares and charges established and published and in force at the time.

3. Such common carriers are also subject to the provisions of the act in respect to joint tariffs of rates, fares and charge for continuous lines or routes.

4. The carriage of freights cannot be prevented from being treated as one continuous carriage from the place of sh

The Third Party in the Case.

Probably we would not be very far wrong were we to suppose that Mr. Holton is one of those who think it would be a grand improvement if the country had no customs tariff at all, in which case his dear friends, the foreign producers and exporters, would have Canada's market open to them without let or hindrance. This is the logical conclusion to which free trade arguments lead, if they be well founded; and Mr. Holton goes about as far in that line as others belonging to his party do, generally speaking. We may fairly say that in his zeal against protection he goes even beyond the average of his party; for it is a known fact that he has spent much time and labor in getting up that attack on the customs law and its administration of which he delivered himself in the House on Tuesday. According to him it is monstrous for Canada to have a tariff high enough to protect her own manufactures, while that she should sustain a Government capable of enforcing such a tariff is simply villainous. Mr. Holton sees only two parties principally in the case—the honest importer, in whom is no guile, and the cunning customs official, who spend their days and nights in devising traps into which he may fall. It is an interesting picture, this which Mr. Holton holds up to our view, but it has this fatal defect—it is not a true one. Mr. Holton's honest importer is an ideal creation of the free trade brain, too honest to live, we may say, at all events in Montreal. Such super-extra honesty as is claimed for him does not flourish in St. Paul-street and that neighborhood; and we venture the remark that customs officers simple enough to act on the assumption that it did, would not be worth much to the government that pays for their services.

It is an old controversy this, over customs tariff law and its administration. Of necessity it has to happen that the free trade side is always the one which makes the most noise; it comes so easy and so natural, don't you see, to plead for the honest merchant, and against those rascals of customs officials who are trying all sorts of wiles to lure him to his ruin. To do this seems, on superficial view, at all events, to be the most likely way to strike the public ear, and to draw popular applause. It is on the face of things, taking the ad captandum side of the controversy. Can't you see, says Mr. Holton, in effect, that on one side are none but honest men, who ought to be sustained, and on the other side none but rascals, who ought to be turned out?

Well, we beg to differ. We see what apparently Mr. Holton does not see—a third party in the case, whom we think it very necessary to bring forward. This third party is none other than the foreign exporter, who is very largely interested indeed, but whom Mr. Holton would leave out altogether. He it is who mostly conjures up and invents the many new tricks of the trade which from time to time startle the custom house from its propriety and make even old officials wonder whether it can be that Satan himself has actually taken a hand in the business, either as invoice maker, correspondent, salesman, consignee, or in some other capacity. He it is who purposely puts No. 3 labels on No. 1 goods in order that the fraudulent invoice may correspond with the exporting firm's regular price list. In this patent age of new inventions new things are constantly coming upon the market, things which at first sight astonish the smartest customs examiners, things to which no written description before extant seems properly to apply. Now, what more natural than that Old Nick, who you must understand is extensively engaged in the business of exporting manufactured goods to countries having protective tariffs—should for a while at first throw glamour over the wide-awake custom house eye, with goods made for that identical purpose, rushing in upon the market something very different afterwards, when the suspicions of examiners and appraisers have been nicely lulled; and when confidence has been created by a certain experience of straight dealing, more or less! There is a wide difference between a Canadian importer, out-and-out, who buys on his own account and at his own risk, and one who is merely the Canadian agent or consignee of the foreign exporter; and don't you suppose that Old Nick knows how to work upon this difference for all it is worth to him? Now, if you were a custom house official yourself, and a pretty "smart" one, too, it might frequently puzzle you to tell whether you were dealing with a bona fide importer, or with the Canadian agent of a foreign exporting firm. The same man may be one of these two to-day, when handling one kind of goods; to-morrow, when handling another kind of goods, he may be acting in the other capacity. And of the custom house disputes which arise, not a few are due to uncertainty on this very point—the true relation to the foreign exporting firm of the party in Canada who presents the invoice so to "passed." Yes to listen to Mr. Holton, Mr. Paterson, and other advocates on the same side, you might imagine that no such tricks and uncertainties as we have instanced were ever known at all.

In this discussion, so far, much has been said respecting the importers' interest, also about the interest of officials in the business of custom house administration. We beg to remind the public that there is a third party in the case, who is interested to an aggregate amount far beyond the aggregate of both these put together. And his interest is most emphatically not on the side of honest and capable administration. Like Old Nick himself, he is the father of evil in this business—the chief schemer to defeat the law. You had better pay a little more attention to him if you want to get at the bottom truth of the matter.

Regular and Secular Clergy.

Some time ago The Tablet, the leading organ of English Roman Catholics, devoted considerable space to what students of ecclesiastical history recognize as having always been a burning question in the western church: the relation of the regular to the secular clergy. The writers' language is studiously reserved and he betrays a nervous anxiety to minimize the value of reports which have been suffered to ooze out as to a contention between the bishops and the heads of religious orders which had been referred to Rome for decision. The rapid multiplication of orders and of members of different orders in England during the last thirty years has forced this question to the surface. The orders have increased during that interval from ten to twenty-six and the religious houses from seventeen to one hundred and thirty-four; in the Westminster diocese alone the regular clergy have risen from nine to ninety-four and the increase has taken place chiefly among the Jesuits and Benedictines, the former of whom, it need hardly be said, are always the first to incur suspicion. We italicize a few words in the following passage which may serve to indicate the divergences of interests so fatal to any permanent harmony between what the writer himself calls the two great forces, centrifugal and centripetal respectively, constantly acting on the mechanism of the church:

"In referring to the organization and progress of the church in England special notice must be taken of the important part to be borne by the religious orders and congregations. The spirit of these is neither diocesan nor national, but in a sense universal. They are willing to recruit its numbers from all parts, and are ready according to their means to spread into all parts. The religious orders act as powerful auxiliaries of the fixed diocesan clergy, who must ever form the rank and file of the great army of the church. Their members are moved from diocese to diocese and from country to country, having an independent government of their own, which secures to them their organization, their spirit and the end of their institute. Thus their members are exempt from the ordinary jurisdiction of the bishop except in those various cases which are laid down in the canons. . . . It is perfectly true that religious orders are not essential to the existence of the church, for the church existed in all the perfection of her sanctity for centuries without them. But they are practically necessary to her well-being now. . . . They are like auxiliary troops specially necessary in these days of whose zeal and activity the bishops most seasonably and carefully avail themselves both in the exercise of the sacred ministry and in the accomplishment of the works of Christian charity."

It is hardly necessary to read between the lines of this passage to understand the frequent strain in the relations of the pastors and bishops with a power "neither diocesan nor national," having an independent government and having ends to serve quite distinct from the accustomed needs of parochial organizations and often conflicting with them. It is an open secret that great soreness prevails at present in England between these rival powers and that the adjudication on their respective claims has been exercising the Roman authorities. Some years ago Archbishop Darboy had a stand-up fight with the Paris Jesuits and held his own in spite of Pius IX., who of course supported the society. Leo XIII., in spite of the eulogy pronounced on the religious orders in his protest against their expulsion from France, is not credited with any very warm sympathy with the Jesuits especially, and even Cardinal Manning, though he availed himself of their services to the utmost at the Vatican Council, is believed not greatly to relish the imperium in imperio of the meddlesome and ubiquitous society within the limits of his own archiepiscopal jurisdiction. The Benedictines, it is true, were both powerful and popular in the Middle Ages and perhaps held half the parishes of England in their hands; but the later communities of Capuchins and Jesuits—the Jesuits especially—are far less answerable to ordinary rules and cherish a more ambitious spirit than the veterans whose fame is identified with the glories of Monte Cassino and St. Maur. The medieval enmities of Capuchins and seculars are recorded on wood and stone in the carvings of gargoyles and choirstalls; and the sons of St. Ignatius are more isolated and grasping than the sons of St. Francis. The enormous increase of these religious bodies during the last quarter of a century in England is an element of weakness as well as of strength to the Roman Catholic church in that country. It is easy enough to reply, in the words of The Tablet, that "the Catholics of England are too well aware of the baneful results of internal dissension from the experience of its effects during the years of persecution to tolerate its renewal." But after all, prophecy is one thing and proof is another. The report presented to Urban VIII. by Panzani the Oratorian on the state of the English Roman Catholics shows what was thought in his day of the machinations of the Jesuits and how readily he would have seen their services dispensed with. But we need not go so far back as Urban VIII. The Canadian public has been made aware that the late expansion of the order involved the overriding of the clearly-expressed views and wishes of the Quebec episcopate.

The Barley Trade.

The farmers of Ontario feel a good deal discouraged under the depressed condition of the barley market, as the prices realized for this cereal form in many of our most extensive grain-growing counties a very important item of their year's income. Owing to a very considerable increase in the acreage under barley in this province in 1888, and a full crop in most of the important barley-growing counties, combined with extra good crops in New York State and California, with large crops, although of poor quality, in Northwestern states, maltsters and brewers in the United States have been able to "bear" prices almost at will, until the value of Canadian barley is now lower than it has been for more than a dozen years. Although Canada barley may have lost some of its former prestige and may not command the very high premium over other sorts which was paid in former years, it is still the favorite with United States maltsters, and if grown in moderate quantities will always command a ready sale. Low as prices for this grain are now, the prices of western barley in Chicago and Milwaukee are even relatively very much lower. As to the extent of the market for Canada barley, it will probably be found at the close of the season that quite as much will have been exported to the United States during 1888-89 as in any of the last four or five years. The depression during this season and the constant decline in prices are due to the fact that our United States customers have known all along that there was a little more barley in Canada than was urgently required, or than could be sold at all, except at moderate prices. The only remedy against the recurrence of similar depression in future years is a reduction of the quantity for sale, either by a reduction of acreage or by finding another market for part of the crop. The only other market available for Canada is in Great Britain, and the variety of barley required by the brewers there is the Chevalier or two-rowed barley. Some years ago some shipments of this kind could be made up at a few points in the Province, but the grain produced there has degenerated so much that what little there is now to be got is not of a quality fit for seed, nor can experiments with it be recommended.

The advisableness of experimenting with Chevalier barley has received much attention during the last and present season, from Hon. Mr. Carling, the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa. Last spring this Department distributed a large number of samples of Chevalier barley over different sections of the Dominion; but from a variety of causes, principally hot, dry weather about the time of ripening, the experiments were not quite successful in producing such plump, heavy grain as is wanted for English markets. Professor Saunders, of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, is prosecuting similar experiments this spring, on a most extensive scale; having already distributed to five or six hundred points, from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia, sample bags containing 3 lbs. each of sundry varieties for seed, and all of the Chevalier type. Among others, is a splendid sample of the very best English malting barley, of fine color, uniform sized grain, and weighing fully 56 lbs. per imperial bushel. He is in daily expectation of receiving a few bushels of the very best quality of the celebrated Scale barley, which he hopes will arrive in time for distribution and testing this season. This energy is highly creditable to the Agricultural Department at Ottawa, and it is devoutly to be hoped will meet with such successful results as will be gratifying to those who have taken every possible means of instituting a thorough test of the adaptation of the Canadian soil and climate to produce barley suitable for manufacturing the finest qualities of English ales.

A late issue of The London Times gives a few quotations of the prices of barley in the London market on 2nd April, 1889. The following are all for Chevalier or two-rowed varieties:

English malting barley, per impl. qr. 448 lbs., 30s. to 45s.

English grinding and distilling barley, per impl. qr. 448 lbs., 22s. to 28s.

Austrian barley, per impl. qr. 448 lbs., 45s. to 46s.

Saale barley, per impl. qr. 448 lbs., 42s to 48s.

Danish barley, per 416 lbs., 33s. to 36s.

Chilian barley, per 416 lbs., 32s. to 33s.

California barley, per 448 lbs., 42s to 48s.

It is not to be expected that such a high range of prices may be anticipated in ordinary seasons. The wet season during harvest, nearly over the whole continent of Europe, and even more particularly in Great Britain, caused a great scarcity this year of fine colored malting barleys, and present quotations for choice samples are probably 10s per quarter higher than average prices. All that is claimed for 2-rowed or Chevalier barley is that, according to the experience of those who have raised it in this province in former years, it will produce fully as many measured bushels per acre as the 4-rowed, and will yield a much larger quantity of straw; and that from good seed, and with proper cultivation on good, stiff, rich soil, the measured bushel will weigh 56 lbs. From 30s to 35s per 448 lbs, according to color and weight, is probably about the average value that may be expected in English markets for Canadian 2-rowed barley, fit for malting purposes. These quotations would enable buyers to pay to farmers about 60 cents to 75 cents per bushel of 56 lbs. These prices may not appear very attractive to many who may have been expecting a continuance in England of this season's high prices. But, looking to the vast capabilities of expansion of barley production in Northwest States and in Manitoba and our Territories west, it seems not at all unlikely that barley production on this continent will soon largely exceed its brewing requirements. Hence much credit is due to the Government for its energetic action in attempting to provide an alternative market for Canadian barley. The extent of the English market may be judged from the fact that during the year ending 30th September, 1888, 51,896,336 bushels of malt and corn were manufactured into beer at the different breweries in Great Britain.

Brander Matthews, writing on "The Dramatic Outlook in America," which will be published in Harper's Magazine for May, finds evidence of an improvement in the quality as well as in the quantity of the plays written in Great Britain and the United States. The weakest point in American drama, he says, is that the playwright has not taken the trouble to learn the theatrical technique.

"The Western Outlook for Sportsmen," by Franklin Satterthwaite, which will appear in Harper's Magazine for May, gives the numbers and ranges of the "big game" and the "little game" in the West.

The Western Bank of Canada.

The shareholders of the Western Bank of Canada held their seventh general meeting at the head office in Oshawa, on the 10th inst., President John Cowan in the chair. The report presented by the board was a most healthy one, showing the net earnings of the bank for the year to have been $33,214.44, of which amount $23,344.79 was paid in dividends and $10,000 carried to rest account. The business of the institution shows a steady increase in all departments. Careful and economical management seems to have gained for the Western Bank of Canada a prominent place among the financial institutions of the Dominion.

Don't you know that we couldn't sell a fine all-wool tweed suit for $6.50 if we gave credit. Please don't ask us. You may mean to pay—but cash, cash, cash is what we want and must have. Gems of Art.

Eight studies of birds and flowers, exact reproductions of the original water color paintings, by eminent artists, exquisite in finish and design, with a description of each subject, and directions for reproducing, all put up in a handsome portfolio, are published by the well-known firm of Scott & Bowne, New York, for the remarkably low price of thirty cents. They are without doubt "perfect gems of art," and well worth $2. Mr. F. J. Prior of Toronto, with his usual enterprise, has made arrangements to control the sale of them in Canada, and is enabled to offer them at the same price as sold for in New York. He will send one, post-paid, to any address upon receipt of publishers' price, thirty cents.

For Isaak Walton's Disciples.

The attention of our readers is called to the advertisement of William Croft & Sons, Colborne-street, manufacturers of fishing tackle of every description, in another column. This firm, established in 1855, is the oldest of its kind in the Dominion, as well as the largest. The building at present occupied by this establishment, and in which they have carried on business for the last 32 years, comprises four flats, stored with fishing tackle of every sort and grade. These goods have a ready sale from British Columbia to Halifax and the trade is rapidly increasing. Three travelers are out all the time, which keeps the house well supplied with orders. They have entire control of a great many novelties in these lines, which cannot be bought outside of their establishment. Now is the time to give them a call, at the opening of the fishing season, which for trout begins May 1. The superior quality of flies manufactured by this firm has found a good market in the United States, numerous orders being constantly received. A very extensive trade is carried on with British Columbia.

St. Alban's Ward Improvements.

Chairman Carlyle of the Board of Works, Ald. The line of the proposed extension of Dufferin-street, the Parkdale subway and the Dundas-street bridges were among the points visited.

FREDERICK T. ROBERTS, M.D., Professor of Clinical Medicine at University College Hospital, London, England, says: "Bright's disease has no symptoms of its own and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner and no pain will be felt in the kidneys of their vicinity." Ordinary common kidney diseases, many times unremedied as such, will become chronic and terminate in Bright's (organic) disease of the kidneys, unless taken in hand. Warner's Safe Cure is the only recognized specific that has ever been discovered for this disease. The late Dr. Dio Lewis said, over his own signature: "If I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble, I would use Warner's Safe Cure."

REPORT.

The Directors beg to submit the Seventh Annual Report showing the position of the Bank at the close of the financial year, February 28, 1889.

The net earnings, exclusive of $214.54 at credit of Profit and Loss from last year, amounts to $33,214.44, from which dividends Nos. 12 and 13, at the usual rate of seven per cent. per annum, amounting to $23,344.79, have been paid, and $10,000 carried to the Rest Account, leaving a balance of $84.19 to be carried forward.

Owing to the lack of desirable local channels for investment the cash assets throughout the year have stood at a higher point than demanded by the requirements of business and profits have been somewhat curtailed in consequence. The business of the Bank exhibits a healthy and satisfactory increase in all its departments.

JOHN COWAN,
President.

THEY PETITION THE COUNCIL.

City Contractors Want a Revision of the Board of Works Specifications.

The city contractors sent in the following letter to the Mayor yesterday, which will be laid before the council at the next general meeting:

To His Worship the Mayor and Members of the City Corporation:

GENTLEMEN,—We, the undersigned contractors of the city, take the liberty of addressing you in the matter of your specifications for the city's work.

We are to-day notified by your Inspectors that the letter of the specifications is to be adhered to and in the supply of cedar blocks the specifications are to be determined according to the ruling just decided by the Court in the matter of Farquhar and Robertson. We contend that such ruling is entirely wrong as regards pin or worm holes as being a cause for rejection, as it is a fact that first growth cedar cannot be obtained in any quantity without these small holes, and when the wood is sound around and about them no objection should be raised.

We notice that mention has been made of Chicago work. There they do not reject second growth in their specifications; in fact, it is the wood they use, although we know that it is not the best for wear although free from pin holes. The question is too exhaustive to go into all the particulars, but we beg to suggest to you the desirability on all sides for a remodelling of the specification throughout, and would like Mr. Wilbrow, J. B. Smith and others known to be judges of cedar taken into consultation with you in this matter.

And would also humbly suggest that the specifications for sewer and other work be gone into at the same time. As it is a well-known fact in its present condition there are clauses that debar the contractor from any rights if adhered to the letter, and we feel that now your Engineer is not allowed any discretion in the matter, it is time to have your contracts made in such a manner that all parties may be fairly dealt with.

In order to secure this we would suggest that a draft of the specifications and agreements be submitted to the Toronto Board of Trade for their consideration. Trusting you will favorably consider our request and speedily take action in these matters, as city works will have to stand until something is done to enable us to work with some degree of assurance to ourselves and satisfaction to the public,

Shrewd Advertisers.

Readers of the newspapers of the day cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that the modern advertiser is progressive.

The value of printers' ink judiciously employed cannot be overestimated; it is the medium whereby a meritorious discovery is raised from local fame to a position in the public esteem. Hence the columns of the newspapers are daily used by hosts of advertisers and in the competition which is indulged in to attain the desired end, the reader is oftentimes amused.

The greatest of American advertisers, and it may as well be said in the world, is H. H. Warner of Rochester, N.Y., whose name has been made everywhere familiar in connection with Warner's Safe Cure, widely advertised because of its merit in the prevention and cure of kidney diseases.

By printers' ink this great discovery has achieved world-wide popularity and thousands feel grateful for the knowledge thus acquired of this greatest of modern remedies.

Furthermore, the public has been taught that disorders of the lungs, brain, heart and liver which have hitherto been regarded and treated by the profession as distinctive diseases are not so in fact, but are the attending symptoms of disease of the kidneys; therefore, the consumptive, the apoplectic, the paralytic, and the sufferer from nervous disorders, can be restored to health by Warner's Safe Cure, which will remove the true cause by restoring the kidneys to healthy action.

The advertising methods employed by this greatest of advertisers are invariably instructive and, although the reader may sometimes be "caught" in reading an advertisement, which was not at first supposed to be such, there is nevertheless no time lost since useful information is invariably gained concerning life's great problem.

A terrific failure in Montreal has just been avoided by the Army & Navy stores planking out the cash for nearly thirty-eight thousand boys' suits they will be sold for just Half Price. Every style. Every price. You must come early in the day if you want to be well served. No one is too good for the Army & Navy. No one is so rich that they cannot find things good enough at the Army & Navy, in truth the Army & Navy stores are a real boon to the people.

A Question of Pavements.

While the subject of pavements and sidewalks has been so generally occupying the mind of the public of late and creating considerable discussion, a new concern, the Parmelee Roofing and Paving Co., 10 Adelaide-street west, has quietly stepped in and claim to have a pavement superior to that of any firm in the city, and from the samples we have seen we believe they are in a good position to lay claim to such a statement. That the public may judge for itself, we mention here a couple of contracts recently filled by this firm: Pavement, Front-street east, in front of J. W. Patterson & Bro.; drive house floor, Gooderham & Worts; cellar bottom, Rev. John Langtry. Although in business in Toronto but a short time, the efficient and workmanlike manner in which these contracts have been completed have been widely recognized, and applications for tenders are coming in fast. Mr. Parmelee has been engaged in the roofing and paving business for the past 25 years, chiefly in New York city. He therefore possesses a thorough knowledge of the work. Mr. Parmelee, we are informed, is the only person here who supplies roofing felt manufactured by the machinery process so universally used throughout the United States. Only the best materials are used by this firm, and although the figures are not the cheapest, the aim is to put down the best value roofing that can be laid. Amongst other buildings covered by them in New York City are: The Astor House, Fifth-Avenue Hotel, Equitable Life Insurance building and Mutual Life; in Canada, the Canada Cotton mill in Cornwall; the Toronto Paper Co.; Gilmour & Co., Trenton; A. W. Morris & Bro., Port Hope, etc.

So many, at this season of the year, complain of a tired, debilitated feeling. This may be at once relieved by the use of Dr. Hodder's Burdock and Sarsaparilla Compound. The greatest spring medicine known. Price 75c. 356

He Had Worked the Scheme Before.

Henry Algasse, the alleged money telegraph swindler, was brought down from Hamilton yesterday afternoon and he is now a prisoner in Headquarters. Investigation goes to show that he has been playing the game for some time back, with, however, but varying success. He tried the scheme on several people up in Hamilton previous to visiting Toronto, but the police of that city were not smart enough to capture him. It was Detective McGrath who traced out the man on Wednesday, found out when he left, and telegraphed a full description of him to the Hamilton detectives, who with the despatch in their hands had no difficulty in spotting him as soon as the train got in from Toronto.

Dr. Hodder's Little Liver Pills excel all others. Cure Sick Headache, Indigestion and Constipation, even where others fail. They improve the complexion wonderfully. Try them. All dealers. 25c. 356

About the Combines Bill.

There is a considerable feeling existing among the various business men of the city that the Combines Bill will be most unmercifully slaughtered when it reaches the House. Members of the Board of Trade and others who recognize what they call the folly of allowing such a measure to become law are strong in the belief that "who laughs last laughs longest," and, while they cannot jubilate over the passage of the bill in committee, they are confident their turn will come when it is before the full House.

Seventeen hundred patterns in men's suits to choose from at the Army & Navy stores. Do you want a suit? then buy now. Every style at every price to suit every man, but you must pay the money down. No credit at the Army & Navy stores. No bad debts to be made up at the Army & Navy. In truth the Army & Navy stores are a real boon to all.

A More Favorable Report.

Mr. H. Capewell, the Front-street wholesale jeweler, writes to The World to state that his estate is likely to realize 80 cents on the dollar. The liabilities are about $90,000 and the assets are frr more than The World was informed on Wednesday.

TORONTO OUT-BATS THEM

BUT PITTSBURG'S CLEAN FIELDING WON THE GAME.

American Association and Exhibition Games Yesterday—Baseball and Turf Gossip—Canadian Wheelmen Gather in Toronto To-day—Latest Sporting News.

PITTSBURG, April 18.—Pittsburg downed the Torontos to-day easily, although the home club was outbatted. The fielding of the Canucks, so far as the first five innings was concerned, was simply wretched, and with an error and hits now and then Pittsburg managed to tally 7 runs and just earned its victory. The Canadians' phenomenon pitched a fairly good game, and after the fifth innings not a hit was made off him. Morris pitched two innings for Pittsburg and then retired. Galvin, "the Buffalo fairy," tried his slow delivery on the Canucks, and they hit his best curves, but not as the right time. Toronto had two men caught at the plate, Pittsburg won the game in the second innings, when a battery error, a dropped fly by Burke and hits by Allen, Morris and Fields brought in four runs. The fielding of McLaughlin, Swift and Allen was the feature. The score:

Proctor Knott Worked at Night.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 18.—It has just leaked out that Proctor Knott is not taking all his work by daylight. A well known trainer here, whose veracity has never been question ed, spent the greater part of one of the nights and a portion of the early morning in the city, and as a consequence did not arrive at the track until about 2.30 a.m. As he drove towards his stable he saw he was astonished to hear several horses—he could not see them—thundering down the stretch at a killing pace. He was not to be seen, however, who in the habit of letting anything good get away with him, so he naturally reined up and began to take observations. But the flyers were pulled up at the next furlong, the blankets put on them and taken immediately to Bryant's stable. One of them had Proctor Knott's white nose and the other was the Futurity winner, Inseparable companion, Come to Taw. What the time was, or the distance covered, nobody knows except Bryant, and he failed to mention it to the silent witness. The secret plan of work is quite characteristic of Bryant. He hates a tout worse than he hates a rattlesnake, and is constantly on the alert to outwit him. From the above it would seem that he is working Knott in earnest only in the small hours of the morning, and that the latter's day work—his mile in 1.49, for instance—is nothing but an ex

Pavilion Plans Recommended.

The sub-committee of the Parks and Gardens appointed to deal with the proposed pavilion and shelter in High Park and Queen's Park met yesterday, present, Ald. Hill, chairman, Swait, Gillespie, Booth, Woods and Superintendent Chambers. After some discussion it was decided to recommend the plans of Knox and Elliott for both pavilions. It was also determined to recommend that a rebate of $30 be given to the Citizens' Committee, St. Vincent de Paul's Society and the Hospital for Sick Children, rent of the Pavilion in the Horticultural Gardens.

FULLY ANSWERED.

"Subscriber's" Query Causes Comment.

As our readers will remember, a letter was published in our columns a few days ago, signed "Subscriber," which dwelt at some length upon a subject of general interest, and which contained several inquiries which will be found answered in the following:

To the Editor: Several days ago I noticed a communication in your paper from "Subscriber," in which considerable comment was indulged in concerning the pamphlets which are widely distributed by Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co. of Rochester, N.Y. These pamphlets are published in order that the public may become conversant with the symptoms and growth of disease peculiar to the kidneys, and which is, it must be admitted, the productive cause in a majority of instances of other organic disorders. The publishers of these pamphlets are also the discoverers and manufacturers of the noted Warner's Safe Cure, which is known to be the only means for the prevention and cure of kidney disease, as can be testified to in every community. In the pamphlets referred to there appear a number of testimonials from parties who speak in the highest terms of how they have in many instances been restored to health by Warner's Safe Cure, after having been given up by doctors to die, and attached to those statements are the fac simile signatures of the parties themselves.

I am personally aware that all the testimonials published by this firm are genuine and are the voluntary statements of persons who are anxious to manifest their gratitude for the unexpected return of health and vigor which Warner's Safe Cure has brought them. To make assurance doubly sure, it can be added that Messrs. H. H. Warner & Co. have for years published a standing offer of $5000 to any one who will prove to an impartial referee that any testimonial published by them is not, so far as they know, bona fide and absolutely true. What more does "Subscriber" desire to convince him, in addition to his own statement, that his neighbors all tell him that Warner's Safe Cure has done more good for them than they have received from the doctors.

In view, Mr. Editor, of the many persons who are sacrificed daily to the bigotry and ignorance of physicians, who persist in treating patients for symptoms, called consumption, apoplexy, brain troubles, and nervous disorders, when the real cause is disease of the kidneys—which should be detected and quickly eradicated by the use of Warner's Safe Cure—I maintain that the value of those pamphlets, which place in the hands of the public the means of knowing the truth, cannot be overestimated. FAIR PLAY.

What Ails You?

"Do you have obstruction of the nasal passages, discharges from head and throat, sometimes profuse, acrid and watery, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, purulent, bloody, putrid and offensive; do you have headache most of the time, with occasional "splitting headaches" are your eyes weak, watery, or inflamed; is there ringing in the ears, with more or less deafness; do you have to hack, cough and gag, in your efforts to clear your throat in the morning; do you expectorate offensive matter, scabs from ulcers, perhaps tinged with blood; is your voice changed, and is there a "nasal twang" to it; is your breath offensive; are your senses of taste and smell impaired? If you have all or any considerable number of these symptoms, you are suffering from that most common and dangerous of maladies—chronic and nasal catarrh. The more complicated your disease has become, the greater the number and diversity of symptoms. No matter what stage it has reached, Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, which is sold by druggists at only 50 cents, will cure it. The manufacturers of this wonderful remedy offer, in good faith, $500 for a case of this disease which they cannot cure.

A Painful Sight.

Few people fully realize the sorrow and suffering which is daily endured among the sick of this city. Some are stricken down with acute disease, while others are just able to keep around under great difficulties, and still another class, the most to be pitied, are those who though afflicted with painful disease, are compelled to keep to their daily duties. No better example of this last class of sick people could be mentioned than Mary Phillips, who, when asked about her trouble, said: "My disease had so reduced my strength that I could hardly stand, and I felt tired, languid and worn out. I could scarcely eat anything, and what I did force down lay very heavy on my stomach, which was always bloated and full of gas. I had severe headaches, and my heart throbbed so I almost thought I had heart disease. My mouth was bitter, and my tongue always coated, especially in the morning. I felt myself getting gradually worse, my liver and kidneys were also in a diseased condition, which troubled me very much. I had severe pains through my chest and back; in fact I seemed sick all over, and don't suppose I ever would have got well except I knew personally of others who had been cured of diseases like my own by the doctors of the Medical Institute at 170 King-street West. As their counsel is free I called upon them and applied for treatment. After a careful examination they prescribed for me a medicine which I began taking, and it benefitted me so rapidly that in less than two months I was entirely cured, and am pleased to tell in public print what they have done for me.

ROLAND GIDEON ISRAEL.

HE IS CONVICTED AND LIABLE FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Broker Priestman and His People are Acquitted—A Rub at Inspector Archabold—An Interesting Day in the Criminal Assizes.

Two of the most important cases of the present session of the Criminal Assizes were heard yesterday, namely the Priestman bucket shop case and the case of Roland Gideon Israel. Barnett charged with misappropriation of funds. Mr. Priestman and his colleagues in arrest were successful, while Mr. Barnett was in hard luck. Upon the opening of the court as 10 o'clock the charge of libel preferred by License Commissioner Armstrong against Mr. W. F. Maclean, proprietor and editor of The World, was withdrawn.

Priestman Et Al. Acquitted.

Then came on the continuation of the case of Messrs. Joseph Priestman, F. J. Spears, J. C. Millichamp, Charles Priestman and G. B. Foster of bucket shop fame. His Lordship held that there was no evidence to show that the contract between Constable Duncan and Joseph Priestman for the purchase of 3000 bushels of wheat was made without intention of delivery. There was a long argument, at the end of which His Lordship concluded that there was no case to go to the jury, which accordingly brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the defendants were at liberty. Mr. Justice Rose spoke strongly upon the action of the authorities in arresting the people in the Priestman office. Without mentioning any name he roughly yet delicately rubbed it into the skin of Staff Inspector Archabold, to the effect that the latter had acted too hastily and should be sure of his case. He further intimated that in his opinion this was not the first wrongful case prosecuted under the Act. His Lordship spoke with much emphasis as to the arrest of people who are not recognized criminals, saying that in such cases a summons, instead of a warrant, would be sufficient. The whole charge was directly in favor of the defendants and adverse to Inspector Archabold.

Roland Gideon Israel Convicted.

Then came the trial of Roland Gideon Israel Barnett upon the well-known charge of having fraudulently misappropriated Central Bank moneys left in his hands as a trustee. Mr. Barnett, against whom the crime charged was not a felony but a misdemeanor, occupied the very uncomfortable bench in front of the dock. He was pale and nervous, but wore his full beard with his usual bald head, as bald as those of Crown Counsel Irving and B. B. Osler, Q.C., who prosecuted him, the latter acting as private counsel. The renowned James Baxter of Montreal, with grey hair and looking for all the world like a Toronto hotelman, sat near Mr. George Tate. Blackstock, whose wavy, oily hair covered a skull that covered a brain that did the very best for the interests of Barnett. In a seat in the eastern jury box sat Mr. Barnett's younger brother with his mustache deftly curled as of old, but with an anxious expression on his face. The prisoner was nervous all through the trial, which lasted only two hours, and he frequently visited about the court room, shifted his legs, mopped his forehead and looked generally uneasy.

The entire case as it was presented in the Police Court was gone over and about the same witnesses examined. Mr. Blackstock made an eloquent argument to show that there was no case to go to the jury; Mr. Osler replied; both gentlemen addressed the jury, as did also His Lordship, who charged rather strongly against the prisoner. The defence presented no witnesses. But there was called "S. M. Davis," who did not appear, but who a few moments later was seen going west from the Court House with a couple of friends. He was wearing a fore-and-after and smoking a cigar, and did not care to come back.

The jury was out just 10 minutes and returned with a verdict of guilty. On account of two objections raised by Mr. Blackstock judgment on these was reserved. It will be delivered in May and sentence, if there is any, will be delivered at the June assizes.

Foreman Henry W. Darling read the presentment of the Grand Jury, which contained but little fresh, to which the Judge appropriately replied.

T. GRANGER STEWART, M.D., F.R.S.E., Ordinary Physician to H.M. the Queen in Scotland, Professor of Practice of Physic in the University of Edinburgh, in an article on Bright's disease, says: "Dyspnœa (difficult breathing) is frequently met with in the inflammatory and cirrhotic forms of the disease and may be independent of any local lesion, being probably a result of uræmic poisoning." And it is well known that uræmic poisoning arises from kidney disease. So much known, it remains to recognize the fact that, to remedy an effect, the cause must be removed, and it is universally acknowledged that Warner's Safe Cure is the only reliable remedy for kidney disease.

Underground Wires Again.

The sub-committee of the Board of Works re underground wires met yesterday, present Ald. Baxter, (chairman), Ritchie, Macdougall, Bell and Shaw. Mr. Pearson was on hand for the Gas Company, Mr. Wright for the Toronto Electric Company, and Mr. Nicholls for the Edison Company. A resolution was passed to the effect of respectfully requesting the Mayor not to put the Bylaw passed at the last meeting of the City Council in force against the Bell Telephone Company for one week in order to allow Manager Sise time to formulate his scheme for the settlement of the whole matter in dispute. Messrs. Pearson and Nicholls informed the committee that the plans for their subways were not ready. After a desultory discussion, during which Ald. Macdougall expressed himself as against haste in dealing with the matter, the meeting adjourned until Wednesday next.

A Dinner Pill.—Many persons suffer excruciating agony after partaking of a hearty dinner. The food partaken of is like a ball of lead upon the stomach, and instead of being a healthy nutriment it becomes a poison to the system. Dr. Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are wonderful correctives of such troubles. They correct acidity, open the secretions and convert the food partaken of into healthy nutriment. They are just the medicine to take if troubled with Indigestion or Dyspepsia.

C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "I have sold at retail price since the 4th of December last 156 bottles of Dr. Thomas Eclectric Oil, guaranteeing every bottle. I must say I never sold a medicine in my life that gave such universal satisfaction. In my own case with a badly ulcerated throat, after a physician pencilling it for several days to no effect, the Eclectric Oil cured it thoroughly in twenty-four hours, and in threatened croup in my children this winter it never failed to relieve almost immediately."

Men Who Can't Pay.

The assignments reported yesterday were these: W. H. Abra, contractor, Ayr; J. Fairbairn, general store, Beachville; N. F. Drader, general store, Copleston; John Cross, saw mill, Eldersville; M. C. At a meeting of creditors held in E. R. C. Clarkson's office, F. W. Ratcliffe made an offer of $11,298 for the assets of his estate, valued at $11,300, the sum of $7000 payable in 30 and 60 days, secured, and the balance secured in eight months. This will give the creditors 25 cents on the dollar of the liabilities, and has been accepted by the creditors.

J. M. Miller, baker and confectioner, College-street, has assigned to Clark, Barber & Co. The liabilities are said to be about $1000 and assets at present unknown.

The fact that many leading physicians recommend Dr. Hodder's Family Medicines is a sufficient proof of their superiority. Try them. 936

So rapidly does lung irritation spread and deepen, that often in a few weeks a simple cough culminates in tubercular consumption. Give heed to a cough, there is always danger in delay, get a bottle of Hickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, and cure yourself. It is a medicine unsurpassed for all throat and lung troubles. It is compounded from several herbs, each one of which stands at the head of the list as exerting a wonderful influence in curing consumption and all lung diseases.

NO INDICATIONS OF VIOLENCE.

That is What the Evidence Showed at the Inquest on Bamsley's Infant.

Coroner Johnson held an inquest at the Morgue yesterday afternoon on the body of the infant supposed to be that of William Bamsley of Chester Village, and which was found buried on the Don flats.

The first witness was John T. Brown, County Constable. He said that he had found the body buried about 100 yards from the Don on the west bank and about a quarter of a mile northwest of Taylor's lower mill.

Michael McCabe, the undertaker, who had accompanied the previous witness in his search for the body, corroborated his testimony.

In reply to interrogation by County Crown Attorney Badgerow, County Constable Brown said Mrs. Bamsley had told him where the child was buried, and her father had pointed out the grave. He had heard that Mrs. Bamsley made the remark that she was glad the child was out of the way, or something to that effect. The grave was about a mile from Bamsley's residence. He had been told that the body had been buried only temporarily, with the intention of having it eventually removed to Harriston. The child died on Saturday, March 30, and the body was interred the same night. Witness had been told by the parents that the child died from spasms of the heart.

Dr. Adam Pickering, who had attended Mrs. Bamsley, said the child was well developed, healthy and to his knowledge had never been sick. He was greatly surprised when he heard of its death.

Dr. Spencer, who with Dr. Pickering had made the post mortem examination, testified that no indications of violence were observable. The brain was congested and he believed this was caused by congestion of the lungs. The latter would not have produced death, but the congestion of the brain would have been fatal. The child must have been ill enough to have required proper medical treatment.

This concluded the evidence yesterday and the inquest was adjourned until 8 p.m. tomorrow.

T. GRANGER STEWART, M.D., F.R.S.E., Ordinary Physician to H.M. the Queen in Scotland, Professor of Practice of Physic in the University of Edinburgh, writes: "Hypertrophy of the heart is almost always present in cases of advanced cirrhotic disease, and also in the advanced stages of the inflammatory affection. One may trace in patients the gradual development of this hypertrophy advancing pari passu (together) with the progress of the renal (kidney) affection." In a large number of these cases the kidney disease is entirely overlooked and the trouble ascribed to heart disease as a cause, when in reality the kidney disease is the cause and the heart trouble the effect. This error is made easy on account of the kidney disease having no local manifestations in the majority of cases. The kidney disease can be cured by the timely use of Warner's Safe Cure and the consequences avoided.
